Shoplifting Teams Net $1,000 Daily

NEW YORK (AP) - Authorities estimate that more than 1,000 South American nationals have set up full-time shoplifting teams that each net as much as $1,000 a day in New York, Miami, Chicago and Los Angeles, the New York Times reported Sunday.

The newspaper said a Chilean who is cooperating with federal authorities in return for permission to remain in this country told officials the shoplifting teams are composed of Chileans, Colombians and Peruvians.

In the New York area, about 50 Chileans reportedly gather each morning at a 24-hour restaurant in Manhattan to exchange information on where they plan to operate during that day so that teams do not run into each other in the same stores, the newspaper said.

Egyptians Push Proposal For Parley In Cairo

EGYPT PRESSED forward Sunday with President Anwar Sadat's latest peace proposal despite Syrian and Palestinian opposition, inviting all na-tions of the Middle East, the United States and the Soviet Union to Cairo to prepare for talks in Geneva.

In Jerusalem, Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin said Israel would join the Cairo talks but never deal directly with the Palestine Liberation Organization, "even on the moon

Assad and other hard-line Arabs, who may convene in Tripoli at the same time Sadat's group meets in Cairo, are anxious to block what they see as Egypt's attempt to reach a separate peace with Israel.

Sadat said he would go ahead with his Cairo meeting "in order to finish what we started" in Jerusalem, even if no one other than Israel attends.

"Far-Reaching Deterioration" Moderate Kuwait said the possibility of simultaneous summits in Egypt and Libya dramatized a "far-reaching deterioration" in Arab relations.

Jordan, which has taken a moderate position during recent Middle East developments, indicated it would reject Sadat's invitation. Amman's semi-official press predicted the proposed parley will be a repeat of last weekend's faceto-face talks between Sadat and Israeli leaders.

Libya, Algeria, South Yemen and radical Palestinian groups have endorsed the Tripoli meeting, which could begin as early as Thursday. But it was not yet clear whether Iraq, a key to any wide an-ti-Sadat alliance, would be ready to bury its bitter rivalry with neighboring Syria

Trustees To Study Teacher Plea For 'Nest Egg' Policy

A REQUEST that all "honorably" departing teachers, not just those officially retiring at age 65, be deemed eligible for a $1.500 "nest egg" will be considered a $1,500 "nest egg" will be cons Tuesday by Lubbock school trustee

Already wary of cost increases for re-lated fringe benefits, such as group health insurance granted last year, school board members seem reluctant to approve the Lubbock Classroom Teach Association (LCTA) bid to liberalize the retirement pay plan.

"In my opinion, the intent of the policy was to give this money only to teachers and other employees who are officially retiring — not simply to anybody leaving the employment of the Lubbock school system," said board president Charles

Unused Sick Leave The retirement bonus stems from a policy proposed by the LCTA and adopted by the school board in mid-1976, allowing Lubbock Independent School District personnel to cash in unused sick

Under the policy, the district agreed to pay school employees a fixed amount at the end of each contract year for sick leave accumulated in excess of 60 days. 'In addition, "retiring" employees have been permitted to cash in all their unused sick leave, up to the 60-day maximum. The cash-in rates were set at $25 per day for teachers and certified employees, $12.50 for clerical and classified personnel, and $10 for non-classified workers, such as cafeteria and maintenance per-

School district employees, most on 10-month contracts, are authorized one day of sick leave a month.

How Policy Works

Thus, the cash-in policy works this

Say a teacher has worked for the Lubbock school system six years with perfect attendance and, by the start of the 1977-78 academic term, has accumu days of sick leave. If he does not miss a days of sick leave. If he does not miss a day this year, he will have 70 days' leave accrued. To bring that number back to 60, he is allowed to cash in 10 days, for a total $250, at the end of this school year.

And a teacher who is retiring at age 65 after having accumulated 60 days of sick leave gets reimbursed for all of the unused days. That would mean a bonus of $1,500 — 60 days at $25 per day.

In its original request, the LCTA said compensation for unused sick leave up to the 60-day maximum should be available "upon retirement." But in July, the association asked that full reimbursement be extended to any employee "honorably terminating employment" with the local school district.

Waters and other school trustees are reluctant to go along with that request because it would require the district to pay as much as $1,500 to teachers and other

Waters said the proposed revision would undermine the incentive of the current policy — that is, to encourage teachers to stay with the Lubbock public schools until the end of their careers to collect the full amount possil

"This policy, as I see it, was meant to be a 'nest egg' for retiring employees," school trustee Jose Ramirez said in a recent interview. He said the sick leave reimbursement program could get "aw-fully expensive" if it is opened up to all departing employees. The reimbursement policy cost the dis-

The school board will consider the policy revision proposed by the LCTA Tuesday at 7:15 a.m. in the district's administration building, 1628 19th St.

Also at that meeting, the board will consider renewal of a group health insur-ance program for the district's 3,300 em-

Modern Technology Aids Battle Against Ice Jams

ST. LOUIS (UPI) - Remembering massive ice jams on the Mississippi River earlier this year, river experts plan to use modern technology to battle blockages in the coming winter. The Coast Guard in early December will take delivery of an air-cushion vehicle designed to crush ice with air pressure. The vehicle will be pushed by a towboat primarily on the Mississippi near St. Louis and on the Illinois River.

"The vehicle has been successfully tested in Canada," said Lt. David Loerzel of the Coast Guard. "It's being brought here partly because of the severe weather last winter.

Experts agree that even the best equipment will not keep a frozen channel open at times of extremely low water and prolonged freezing weather.

'We're really at the mercy of Mother Nature," said Thomas Gladders of G.W. Gladders Towing Co.

Ice-blocked rivers in the Midwest have an economic impact on far-away places. Thousands of tons of goods were stranded on barges frozen in the Mississippi during the record ice jams of last winter.

'The barges were loaded with salt for the streets of Chicago and oil for Midwestern farms," said Ken Long of the Army En-gineers. "They also carried millions of pounds of grain destined for New Orleans and from there as far away as Japan." Each day's delay cost thousands of dollars per towboat. At one point last winter more than 100 tows were stranded on the 180-mile stretch of river between St. Louis and Cairo, Ill.

For the first time this century, ice blockages forced the Coast Guard on Jan. 19 to close the Mississippi to traffic from 20 miles south of St. Louis to Cairo. The shutdown lasted 27 days.

"It was a winter that's supposed to happen once in a hundred years around here," said Michael Cullen, hydrologist with the "We went into it with record low water levels and then had freezing temperatures for more than a month. That results in heavy icing and makes navigation treacherous." Wooly worms and weather forecasters expect another colderthan-average winter, but water levels on the Mississippi are at normal stages this year. River traffic can break through most ice cover as long as there is enough flowing water underneath.

Low depth last winter caused some barges to go aground. Gladders has detected no unusual rush by shippers to beat the winter weather.

"Those who ship during the winter know this is a seasonal thing," he said. "There's little you can do about it."

Cold Front Pushes Across

South Plains

Temperatures across the South Plains Sunday dropped more than 20 degrees as a strong cold front pushed its way across northwest Texas Saturday night.

Behind the front were dry northerly winds and increasing cloudiness. The cloudiness should increase today, National Weather Service forecasters say, but no precipitation is expected in the Lubbock area.

Under mostly cloudy skies Sunday, the high temperature in Lubbock reached only 59 degrees. A similar weather pat-tern should continue today, according to the NWS, with the high again expected to be in the upper 50s. The low tonight should dip into the lower 30-degree

By mid-afternoon Sunday, temperatures ranged from 40s in the Panhandle to the low 80s along the southern edge of the cold front in southeast Texas. Amarillo reported 49 degrees under loudy skies while just to the north, Dalhart recorded a temperature of 46 degrees. Ahead of the cold front, Alice reported 85 degrees with Corpus Christi recording 81 as its high temperature. Sunday, portions of northwest Texas, the South Plains and upper Trans Pecos region experienced winds up to 30 mph. A rapidly moving Pacific front is expected to push across northwestern Texas today, NWS officials say, producing another windy morning with gusts of 15-20 mph from the north.

Soviet Arms Buildup Claims Downplayed By Congressman

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., says Soviet military might is growing but not at a rate indicating the Russians are planning an armed showdown with the West.

Aspin, a former Defense Department analyst, said Sunday his own studies show recent Soviet military expansion has been "far less dramatic than many scare stories would lead us to believe." He rejected claims by some U.S. military leaders that Soviet armed might is growing as rapidly as that of Nazi Germany prior to World War II.

'So far as Soviet intentions can be de-, duced from the trends in their military program, they are not as hostile as some have portrayed them to be," Aspin said.

In a 20-page report, Aspin cited various indicators - including the level of military spending, manpower, and numbers of aircraft, tanks and warships - that he said could be used to estimate military

These, he said, showed Soviet rate of military expansion of recent years had been dwarfed by the Nazis in the 1930's.

For example, he said, the Nazis stepped up military spending by 868 per-eent in the five years before World War II. Soviet spending has increased by only 13 per cent, he said.

'What's more," Aspin said, "China, Ising only the rates of growth in military might, not the absolute military power of the various nations. He suggested Soviet military spending might be inspired more by "the need to face the growing challenge from China" than a desire for a showdown with the Some military analysts have expressed concern over the continuing Soviet build-up at a time when American military spending is declining. For example, Gen. David C. Jones, Air Force chief of staff, has said, "Not since Germany's rearmament in the 1930's has the world witnessed such a single-minded emphasis on military expansion by a ma-

Presley Fans Crowd New Gravesite

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) - More than 1,000 Elvis Presley fans, many of whom had stood in line for hours, ignored a cold, drizzling rain Sunday to walk up the quarter-mile drive of his Graceland Mansion for a glimpse of the late ro's star's

Some of those in line had waited since Saturday afternoon standing near the gate, then trading off with a friend to spend an hour or two in a warm car nearby. Temperatures fell into the 30s Saturday night.

A nearby all-night convenience store did a thriving business in green, plastic garbage bags which were modified to serve as emergency ponchos for those who were ill-prepared for the wet weather.

Tears rolled down the face of Willie Turner of Tuscola, Ill. as she walked away from Presley's gravesite just south of the big mansion. "We lost a great man. We lost so very, very much," she said.

She was in one of the first groups of Presley fans admitted to the mansion grounds 15 minutes before the scheduled time. "We just couldn't keep the people back," said security chief Dick Grob.

Grob estimated that the crowd had grown from about 50 people at midnight

Saturday to more than 1,000 by 7 a.m. Sunday. Presley's body and that of his mother, Gladys Love Presley, were moved to the mansion grounds Oct. 2 after police said they had foiled a plot to steal his body from the Forest Hills cemetery mausoleum.

The line of people outside the gate quickly grew shorter as groups of 25 to 30 and later as many as 60 were escorted by parka-clad security guards up the winding driveway to the Meditation Garden. Many carried flowers -mostly roses -or cameras as they made the trek.

In the garden, the fans stood silently and with heads bowed before the twin

Some were weeping as they left the garden. Presley, who died of a heart attack Aug. 16, lies beneath a bronze tablet bearing an epitaph -written by his father, Vernon Presley -praising him as a "legend

At the bottom of the tablet, is Presley's personal insignia, a lightning bolt and the initials "TCB," which stands for "taking care of business." While his body was in the mausoleum, thousands of Presley fans flocked to the cemetery, but often seemed seem bent on leaving with souvenirs, such as tufts of grass and tree limbs.

The crowd was more orderly Sunday at the mansion, with only a few of the fans Sunday picking up leaves in the Meditiation Garden. Grob said there were no acts of vandalism during the first few hours.

The elder Presley had said the gravesites would not be open during inclement weather. But Grob said Sunday the family decided to go ahead with the public viewing because of the crowd.

Carter originally had planned to leave Nov. 22, on an 11-day, nine-country journey to South America, Africa, Asia and Europe, but called off the trip to follow the progress of his energy program.

Operations Waste Tax Millions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. John Burton, D-Calif., Sunday accused the Federal Aviation Administration of wast-

Burton, D-Calif., Sunday accused the Federal Aviation Administration of wasting at least $50 million in recent years through "slipshod" operations.

The money, which could have been used for needed safety equipment, was spent for programs that failed and equipment that never was delivered, the California Democrat charged.

"To put it more bluntly — wasted money can mean wasted lives," he said.

Burton's comments were prepared for hearings opening Monday before a House Government Operations Committee oversight panel he chairs.

He said the subcommittee is launching an in-depth investigation of the FAA. "We have found the FAA has been operating in a slipshod, highly questionable manner for years in several areas, and we're going to scrutinize these wasteful operations and find out why," he said.

The congressman said the subcommittee already has turned up preliminary information indicating that FAA officials:

—"Wasted" up to $25 million for training air traffic controllers who dropped out of school before completing training.

—Spent $15 million for radar equipment or prototypes that never were delivered.

— Held undocumented or "secret"

Held undocumented or "secret meetings with contractors, after which contracts were modified "to the benefit of the contractor and to the detriment of the contractor and the

Burton said an FAA contract with Gen-eral Dynamics was one example of "pro-curement mismanagement" by the agenry.

In 1973, he said, the FAA signed an $18.2 million contract to buy 37 air surveillance radar systems from General Dynamics. Later, he said, that contract was modified and the FAA furned to another firm for the radar equipment.

"Instead of getting 37 radars and 40 antennas for $18.2 million, the FAA contracted to get one radar and 40 antennas for $12.8 million," Burton said.

And her doctor had offered to refer her to two Texas clinics that would have done a low-cost abortion, it said. The newspaper said the McAllen woman was falsely being portrayed by proabortion groups and the press "as a mar-tyr to the Hyde Amendment," the section of federal law prohibiting federal payments for abortions under medical aid programs for the poor.

The newspaper said the federal investigator whose report sparked nationwide news accounts that the Hyde Amendment resulted in her death knew of the woman's motives, and he also had told Ob.Gyn. News that four other women in the area who suffered complications from Mexican abortons were motivated by embarrassment rather than the Medicaid cutoff.

Dr. Julian Gold, the investigator from the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, told UPI the facts in the case are as the paper stated, but "there are some things the article made conjectures about we didn't make."

"My job is to investigate the facts . . . and try to present them as factually as possible," he said. Gold said there was evidence the woman was pregnant in July 1975 and not pregnant three months later. "We investigated a number of avenues to see if she had an abortion, but we found no evidence.'

AN EDITORIAL:

Tax Cut Not An Easy Out

THE NATION'S businessmen and workers, although winding up a year in which both have fared pretty well, everything considered, will be keeping an eye cocked on what is just around the corner as the holiday season progresses.

High on the administration agenda, after the first of the year and the start of a new Congressional session, will not only be the controversial Panama Canal Treaties, but what to do about the nation's economy and

CONTINUING HIS on-again, off-again policy as regards the tax structure, President Carter has left both Congress and the public guessing as to what his recommendations

At first, the administration tossed out a package deal which not only involved a tax cut but a tax reform.

More realistic heads in the nation's capital pointed out that neither the tax cut nor reform plan would get off the ground because each would negate the other. Both are extremely controversial.

NOW, IN A typical switch, the President indicates he may uncouple his proposed tax slash from any new tax reform legislation. All of which is welcome news-to a point.

Many observers question the need for a tax cut as a means of combatting a slowing economy and continuing inflation, noting that pouring more money into the purchasing mainstream most likely will only put new pressure on inflationary trends.

A sharp cut in Federal spending is held up as the most logical answer. That and some major inroads in correcting the Social Security dilemma and the Welfare waste.

HOWEVER, SINCE neither of the latter miracles are likely to come to pass, the next best thing may be a moderate tax reduction, with strings attached.

Former President Gerald Ford, speaking in Lubbock recently, opted for a $25 billion tax cut, with about one third for business and the rest to the average wage earner. He also argued against tying any such reduction in with tax reform.

THERE IS NO question but that taxes, federal, state and local, are "eating everyone's lunch," as the expression goes.

But to automatically assume that the problem of a sluggish economy—something which Lubbock and the South Plains fortunately have missed-can be solved by pouring billions into the taxpayers' hands, without some corresponding cut in government spending is the height of folly.

It has been the formula which has only fueled the cycles of boom, bust and boom, a roaring economy and inflation for the past three decades. There is no reason to think anything different will happen if the same medicine is used.

AN EDITORIAL:

Bakke: Who's In, Who's Out

ALLAN BAKKE, the central figure in one of the most important civil rights cases to come down the pike since the original school desegregation decision of the early 1950's, may have been the victim of another kind of "discrimination" besides the kind he charges was based on his white skin.

Mr. Bakke may not have had enough "pull."

Now it's reported that the University of California Medical School at Davis, which Bakke sued because it rejected him while accepting 15 minority applicants with lower test scores, "had a special procedure under which the dean had the authority to admit five students a year on his own authority.'

THIS AUTHORITY allegedly was used on prominent families, including the son and daughter-in-law of the chancellor of the Davis campus, at about the same time Bakke was being turned down.

The disclosure has no legal bearing on the issue now before the Supreme Court, of course. And, according to a UC-Davis spokesman, the practice has been "relegated to history." What it does do, meanwhile, is add yet another complication to the debate raging over this case.

If Bakke has a valid claim on the basis of reverse racial discrimination, what about those college and university applicants-of any race-who since time immemorial have been rejected or selected on the basis of a number of other non-merit factors?

FOR INSTANCE, the sons and daughters of alumni are almost automatically given preference at many schools. Some schools strive for a geographical balance, reserving places for students from different parts of the country or world.

And not only at UC-Davis but elsewhere, wealth and personal connections with the faculty or administration have never hurt an applicant's admission chances.

Race, of course, is a wholly different factor, one that involves constitutional questions, not to mention serious social and political ramifications.

Barring blatant, unjustified and inexcusable exclusion-doubtfully practiced in this country-one wonders whose interests colleges and universities have at heart when social not academic ranking determines who's in versus who's out of class.

him to Jerusalem in one of history's most celebrated peace missions.

When he actually got back to Cairo, he set the date for Saturday, the sixth day after his return. That's because Sadat came home with little more than the echo of emotional words of praise and the memory of thousands of tear-stained Israeli faces that paid him homage. Beyond the flags and the tributes, Prime Minister Begin apparently offered little of substance. He carefully balanced Sadat's demand for the return of Arab territory ("our land is sacred") with exactly the same words to explain Israel's decision not to return to the 1967 borders. "May I say," Begin told Sadat, "our land is sacred."

JUST BEFORE THE visit to Jerusalem, Mideast experts here feared that unless Sadat made quick, substantive gains from his journey he would face not only escalation of anti-Sadat emotions throughout the militant Arab world; he also would be courting disaster at home. Economic grievances, particularly the inflation of food prices and monstrous unemployment among young college graduates, are ready-made for political exploitation against Sadat. But Sadat gained elbow room by emphasizing, tions with grievances against Israel.

That underemphasized both Egypt and a separate Egyptian-Israeli peace. This approach made possible the euphoric welcome to Sadat in Cairo. More important were breaks in the ranks of Arab states that had been keeping discreet silence. Jordan, now politically tied to Syria more closely than ever before, broke its silence with a modest pat on Sadat's back for daring to go to Israel despite anti-Sadat fury in Damascus.

SADAT'S SUCCESS so far in maintaining an image of great popularity at home and limiting anti-Sadat damage in the Arab world could disappear overnight if he has to acknowledge to his parliament that Israel gave him nothing in re-

That risk, and the reasons for Sadat taking it in the decisions which led him to Jerusalem, puzzle both American officials and Arab diplomats here. The complete answer may not be known for many months. But the prevailing view is that Sadat had just about given up on the Carter administration's efforts to extract real concessions from Prime Minister Begin. He was, in short, at the end of his patience.

Nor was Sadat, the Egyptian patriot who ordered Russian military advisers out of his country in 1972, pleased at the new prominence given Moscow's re-entry into the Middle East in the Oct. 1 U.S.-Soviet joint statement.

This go-it-alone mood of frustration and worry led Sadat to make his bold declaration of independence at his farewell Jerusalem press conference on Monday.

Pointing to his "strained relations" with Moscow, Sadat said he worried that anti-Egyptian Soviet conduct "could be adopted in Geneva" where the Russians are co-chairmen with the "Whenever we, the (Arab and Israeli) parties concerned, reach an agreement, no one, big power or small power, can prevent us from fulfilling it inasmuch as we have agreed to it." CARTER ADMINISTRATION officials say this at's course to Jerusalem, the Carter administration has demonstrated a conspicuous ignorance about the president of Egypt. Thus, the harsher view of Sadat's apparent declaration of independence may be the correct one: without disowning a reconvened Geneva conference, Sadat's trip to Jerusalem declared Egypt's independence not only from his Arab partners, but from his American friends In Cairo's view, the U.S. has repeatedly proved its inabililty to deliver on promises to Egypt when Israel stands in the way. To gain from this declaration of independence, wever, Sadat must sooner or later be able to show his country why his journey to Jerusalem long green this year. Not only will the SWC have four of its members playing in post-season contests, with lucrative gate and television money involved, but will cut up a nice kitty left over from various regular season video appearances. Playing for the "home" crowd elsewhere has turned into Big Business in recent years. And this season's television take for the SWC is a good example of what it can mean.

Just for starters, Texas Tech and Arkansas each will get a check for about $45,000 for that Thanksgiving Day thriller here last week. On top of that, the rest of the $500,000 kitty from the game will go into a special television pot to be divided among all nine SWC members at the end of the year. ACCORDING TO Tech Athletic Director J. T. King, because of the fact SWC members played to the cameras, as well as the stands, more than usual this season, each member's final overall take will set an all-time high As things now stand, counting the regular season games and the four bowl galas, each SWC school should get more than $500,000 as a bonus at the end of the year. That is in addition to the individual payments-such as that $45,000 each to the Raiders and Hogs-here last week.

Actually, each team on a national show, draws 20 per cent of the take off the top, then one-ninth of the whole amount. This Fall, SWC teams have appeared in four national games-Michigan-Texas Aggies, Houston-UCLA, Arkansas-Texas, Texas Tech-Arkansas, a regional Baylor-Texas tussle and the upcoming Houston-A&M game Dec. 3.

Incidentally, J. T. King tells us Tech got a lot more than money out of that Turkey Day performance. "I've got calls from all over the nation saying how good Tech looked and how well we came off in the national exposure." It would have been nice to win, but it wasn't that great a loss by any means.

The Techsans are in for more national recognition next Fall. The Raiders go bigtime in a big way, opening against Southern Cal. which returns the favor to open the 1979 season here.

No Typical Circumnavigator

"I don't think there is a typical circumnavigator," said Dan Leahy recently on the Caribbean island of Bequia, having almost completed a four-year circuit with his wife Chris aboard their 60-doot yawl Mareda.

In the 1890s Joshua Slocum opened up the world to yachting by sailing around it alone. What was a feat has become almost a fad.

Circumnavigators in recent years have included Bernard Moitessier, a Frenchman, on the last lap of a singlehanded around-the-world race when he decided the hell with it and kept on going around Africa, finally coming ashore in Tahiti. Webb Chiles, an American making his way across the tumultuous Southern Ocean, spent 5 1/2 months recently without having seen a single other human being.

nia at 16 and finishing at 20 - married and with a contract from National

Then there was the boatload of Kiwis from New Zealand who, after seven rollicking years, had only made it to South Africa. Where they really wanted to be, they decided, was back in their favorite bar in the world - in Colombia. They reversed course 6,500 miles across the Atlantic to celebrate Christ-

Magellan only proved what many scientists had long posited. A scientist named Eratosthenes in Alexandria declared in the third century B.C. that not only was the world round but that its circumference was 25,000 miles, almost the actual figure.

Magellan, of course, didn't finish his historic trip, although he did recross his course from an earlier voyage. He was killed in the Philippines by unfriendly natives, a peril Slocum prepared for by spreading tacks on his deck

Surprise, No Church Bells!

Juan Sebastian del Cano completed Magellan's expedition, arriving back in Spain on what he calculated was a Sunday. But he heard no church bells. It was Monday. Del Cano had discovered the international date line, an horological necessity that puts circumnavigators a day out of step, at the very least,

Since there are no toll booths on the high seas it is impossible to determine how many yachtsmen are trailing in Magellan's wake. Yet flags of the world's nations, including landlocked Switzerland, are commonplace in popular stopoffs like Tahiti or the Caribbean.

Some circumnavigators make waves. Francis Chichester was knighted for duplicating Slocum's waterbreaking voyage. Some sink from sight, literally, victims of storms, reefs or pirates.

There are other but more ubiquitous hazards. Boredom, for one. The Leahys - she was a Wall Street stock analyst, he a clothing importer before they decided to cash in and check out - have a four-shelf bookcase in their cabin lined three deep with paperbacks. Often the first question a circumnavigator asks on stepping ashore is not "Where's the shower?" but "Got any paper-

Not only yachts but marriages have foundered while going 'round the world Few things stretch the bonds of matrimony more than spending months on end never farther than 36 feet, say, from a spouse.

Other hazards are customs officers who may never have seen a yacnt before tunnel vision right down the s friend of the Leahys not only had his boat impounded by suspicious officials in a remote section of Indonesia but an armed guard was put aboard. They said his cruising permit was not proper. Leahy took to his ham radio. By chance he raised America's best known ham operator, the senior senator from Arizona, in Mr. Goldwater's Capitol office. The guard was removed the next day. Just Same Old Thing

For most circumnavigators, however, the enemy is routine. Guarding against sail chafe. Deciding which cans to open for dinner, providing the labels haven't come off. Keeping the sextant clean. Trying to remember where

Those moored to a permanent paycheck may wonder how these wanderers can afford it. Generally, living is cheaper at sea than on land. The wind, notes Dan Leahy, is free. There are no property taxes, no phones or cars to support, no school bills, no plumbers' bills. By necessity, circumnavigators become jacks of all trades and fix their own. Leahy, an admitted mechanical ignoramus, rebuilt most of his diesel engine in South Africa with the help of the owner's manual and the advice of a mechanic who stopped by each morning

Arlo Nish, a onetime fisherman, sold his share in a contracting busine rented his home in San Leandro, Calif., took his three kids out of school and has been at sea almost two years aboard his 65-foot ketch Sonic. His wife, Marty, became the school teacher, using, as many cruisers do, the Calvert cor-

"I was pretty strict the first year," she said. "The second I figured they'd learn more knowing the countries we visited." But mouths still have to be fed. In St. Thomas, Marty shopped at an American supermarket for the first time in almost two years. She rang up a bill of $3,000. This requires dipping into savings or earning while paying.

A man we'll call Al Howe supports his habit, a 40-foot sailing home plus wife and child, by franchising his mechanic's skills at any boat yard where he happens to be moored. Currently he's made so much on one Caribbean island that he faces an income tax problem. He plans to solve it by sailing away when the bill comes due, the island not yet having discovered withholding. Lots Of Islands Left

"Of course, we'll never be able to come back, but there're a lot of islands

When his coffers run low, Leo, a French Canadian who has been at sea more than a decade, makes port and heads for the nearest hotel. Leo can teach both diving and dancing. "There's always a market for one or the other," he said while recovering in Haiti from the resort season.

Securing the financing for a circumnavigation is one thing. Getting up the determination to do it is another. One must overcome landside attachments and disregard the importunings of friends and families.

"'Around the world? You crazy?' everybody told us," said Marty Nish. "People just don't want to hear about your trip to headhunting country in New Guinea or storms in the Indian Ocean," said Chris Leahy who learned this on the couple's one visit back to the States during their voyage. "Their eyes glaze over. It's just totally alien to their own lives or imaginings

Most people like roots, and ocean cruising is as rootless as tumbleweed. The Leahys, in their mid 30s and childless, bought their first boat and gave themselves a cram course in sailing on Chesapeake Bay. The next year they had Mareda and were gone. Since then Chris has become a navigator, shell collector, radio operator, goat skinner, baker and meat canner, "particularly New Zealand beef because they don't have botulism there.'

Their boat has become a combination attic, museum, lending library and food warehouse. An African tribal mask, boxes of shells, spears, charts and other assorted treasures are crammed throughout. The baby ocelot they had acquired in Brazil died, much to the relief of Halyard, the ship's cat. Like any veterans of common travail, circumnavigators seek out each other. Not long ago the Nishes, Leahys, Leo and several others cruised the Virgin Islands together, a rendezvous planned many months and thousands of miles before. The conversation was a boggling travelogue - the color of the water in the New Hebrides, gales off Cape Agulhas, Africa's southernmost point, the quality of beer in Nuku Hiva, the day the rudder came off near Fiji, the New Zealand officials who shadowed Mareda for six months to make certain Halyard did not slip ashore bearing some scourge to contaminate the Kiwi food

They had made their dreams come true. It was sad to think they were almost home, returning to bills and telephones and catching colds.

"We're going back to work and start saving again," said Dan Leahy. "Then

Hughes' Mormon Will Trial Begins

LAS. VEGAS. Nev. (AP) - After more than a year of delays, a trial to determine whether Howard Hughes wrote the socalled Mormon Will is scheduled to open here Monday. Attorneys involved in the complex litigation over the three-page document took eight days to select the five men and three women who will hear the evidence. Four alternates also have been selected for the trial, expected to last from six to Clark County District Court Judge Keith Hayes will preside.

The most ardent backer of the purported will. Los Angeles attorney Harold Rhoden, will begin his opening statement Monday. He has said it may take him two days to tell the jury what he intends to

Rhoden represents former Hughes aide Noah Dietrich, named in the Mormon Will as executor of the vast Hughes estate, and Rhoden has been named special executor because of Dietrich's advanced

Hughes' relatives, most of whom are not mentioned in the will, claim the document found at the Mormon Church headquarters in Salt Lake City is a forgery.

The offered will is handwritten. It is not witnessed or notarized, but it need not be under Nevada law. The will is dated March 19, 1968. Hughes died April 5,

The will is only one of more than 30 purported wills which have been received in the county clerk's office, but is ous consideration.

Both sides are expected to send a parade of handwriting experts to the stand to give their opinions on the Mormon Will, but the technical, expert testimony will not be the key to the outcome of the case - the key is the credibility of Melvin Dummar

A Utah resident who used to run a ser. ice station. Dummar is named in the will to receive one-sixteenth of the estate. He has admitted fabricating a number of stories about the will, which he said was delivered to his service station by a stranger on April 27, 1976.

At first, Dummar denied any knowledge of the will, but later recanted after his thumbprint was found on the outer envelope in which the will was found.

Group Claims Death Blame BILBAO. Spain (AP) - A Basque separatist guerrilla organization claimed responsibility Sunday for the shooting death of the police commander of Pamplona, the capital of Navarre province.

Joaquin Imaz Martinez, 50, was shot four times in the head and chest Saturday by four unidentified men as he was getting into his car parked near the Pamplona bullring. The gunmen escaped in a stolen car, police said.

A spokesman for the guerrilla organization ETA, whose initials (in the Basque language) stand for "Basque Land and Liberty," told the Spanish news agency Cifra that Martinez was murdered because "he was the maximum responsible of the repressive forces of the armed police in Navarre, and for his prominent repressive labor against the worker movement of the Basque country for the past

The Basque organization, in a telephone call to the news agency, also vowed to continue battling for independence for the Basque provinces of north-

Wheelchair Ramps Rouse Controversy

BOSTON (UPI) - Wheelchair ramps in sidewalks, required by Massachusetts law since June 1975, were legislated as a convenience for wheelchair users; but they have created a controversy as a hazard for the blind The Worcester Federation for the Blind recently complained to the Worcester

City Council about the installation of ramps, or curb cuts, in that city's side-Federation member Erving MacShawson said the cuts make problems for the blind. It troubles those who use guide dogs because the dogs are trained to stop at curbs. Others use canes to locate the edge of the curb. In Watertown, Dennis Lolli of Perkins Institute for the Blind said the different ways in which ramps are installed can confuse a blind person. There's nothing reliable to remember in interpreting how a curb feels. The cuts are supervised by the State Architectural Barriers Board.

Robert Lynch, former board chairman, says board standards are consistent,

Some are positioned at the apex, where both corners meet, and face diagonally into the intersection. Some are on the side of a curb, centered in the crosswalk path that is the normal flow of pedestrian traffic. Lolli wants consistency, "... at least within each city or town."

But board member Maureen Winn, who is both blind and a wheelchair user, says complaints have been minimal. 'We had a lot of input from consumer groups, including the blind," she said

The Worcester complaint remains unresolved "We're still working on it," says City Manager Frances McGrath. "If we move all the ramps down from the intersection, then you expose the wheelchair to traffic. You remove one obstacle and add another.

Textured ramps have been suggested to make them more easily recognizable. Technically, the state already requires this, but not necessarily to the extent the blind might need.

"It wouldn't be as slippery in winter for the wheelchairs," says Lolli MacShawson disagrees: "It wouldn't stay rough that long. Nature would take

A half-inch lip at the ramp's base also has been suggested. But, "if a dog stopped at that," says MacShawson," it would be stopping at every crack in the

At least one guide dog user approves of cuts. Phyllis Mitchell, first vice president of the American Council for the Blind, says, "I think curb cuts are an excellent idea, but they should be uniform and inside the crosswalks at all times.

Board members don't feel the hazard is that serious. The complaints are from one area, so far," says Richard Mackey, administrative secretary. "It's the first formal complaint we've had from any of the 351

In Worcester, the city manager still is working to meet some of them. "You can't deny it's a problem, and I just can't say how we'll finally settle it."

LEVELLAND (Special) - "Noah," South Plains College's entry this year in the American Theater Festival (ATF), will begin a four-day run Tuesday.

The three-act comedy, presented by the college's speech and drama department, will for the first time use arc lighting techniques and a synthesizer to provide background music. Special lighting will produce rainbow, tempest at sea, dusk, sunrise and sunset effects.

The play will be presented at 8 p.m. Nov. 29-Dec. 1 in the SPC Auditorium. Admission is $1 per person.

The ATF judging performance will be at 1:15 p.m. Dec. 2 in the University Theater at Texas Tech University. The play concerns the trials and tribu lations of Noah in his attempt to keep up the faith during the flood. "Noah" is directed by Helen Roberts.

Tech Wins Landscaping Team Awards

Two Texas Tech University landscape architecture teams have tied for Merit Awards in the student design competition of the Texas chapter of the American Society of Landscape Architects (AS-

One team is made up of Alice H. Althaus, Malcolm R. Hester and Robert D. Lanham, while Randall V. Gilbert, Brett B. Long and Stephen M. Metzler com-pose the other. Heser also has been honored with a $300 ASLA scholarship, awarded by the Texas Chapter.

All the students are senior landscape architecture majors who worked on their competition projects for two and a half weeks in a design class.

A Texas A&M team took the Honor Award in the competition, which drew 30 entries from three universities, Texas Tech, A&M and Oklahoma State University. Tech had nine entries.

Regency Hotel complex in Dallas and required a design incorporating parking areas, a fountain, amphitheater, cafe and circulation systems for pedestrains and vehicles.

Base information was provided by Myrick, Newman and Dahlberg, Inc. planners and engineers in Dallas, who had the contract for the actual work. Walter Dahlberg of that firm served on the competition committee with Texas Tech Prof. Joe Verdoorn and Robert Walker. Houston landscape architect. The committee prepared the problem for the students.

Tech students traveled to Dallas to obtain base information and to see the site with which they were working.

Tech Professor Named To Head Subcommittee

Dr. Kishor C. Mehta of the Department of Civil Engineering at Texas Tech University has been named chairperson of the Subcommittee on Wind Loads for the American National Standards Institute

Mehta has gained nationwide recognition as an authority in wind engineering through his work with the Texas Tech Institute for Disaster Research. The institute was organized following the 1970 Lubbock tornado and emphasizes research in wind engineering.

The 11-member wind loads subcommittee is a long-standing group within the American National Standards Committee of the institute. Its area of concern is described as the "most advanced portion of the standard" in recent years.

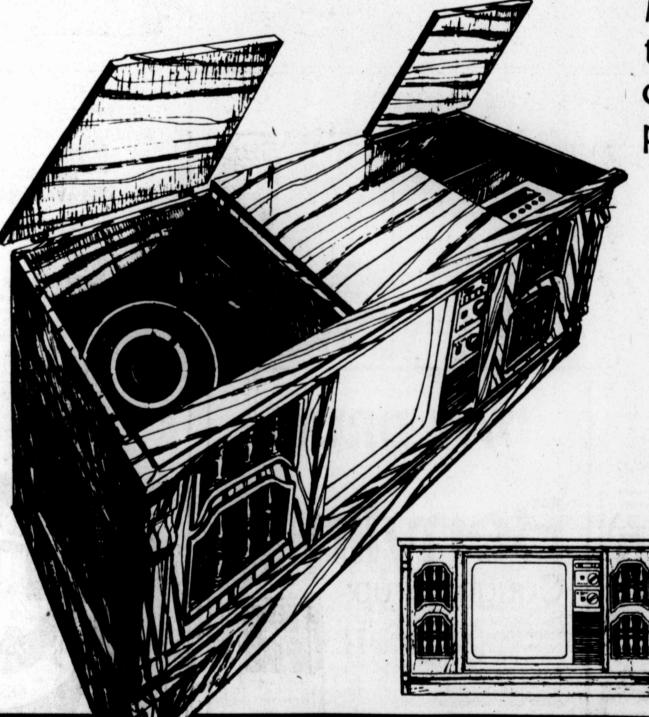

At the subcommittee's last meeting, Oct. 31-Nov. 1, members agreed to revise the wind loading standard for the United

The ANSI provides machinery for creating voluntary standards used widely by industry and commerce and often by municipal, state and federal governments.

"Wind is the area in which there is the most inquiry," Mehta said, "and questions fall into a broad range of categories, ranging from such things as the gust re-sponse of high-rise buildings to the loadng of a guardrail."

While it is difficult, he said, to answer all questions, they give feedback to the bcommittee for consideration of revions in the standards

Victim's Dad Remembers Daughter

HURST (AP) - The silver-haired man sits quietly talking about his daughter, the little girl whose death triggered the longest murder trial in Texas history.

Jack Wilborn is probably a lousy poker player. His face is a soap opera of emotion, one minute showing rage, the next, almost unbearable agony.

And always, there is the frustration. The rage is directed at the man acquitted of 12-year-old Andrea Wilborn's murder - her stepfather, multi-millionaire Cullen Davis. After more than a year behind bars in Fort Worth and Amarillo, nine men and three women slogged through 13 weeks of courtroom battles and declared Davis innocent of the charge.

His estranged wife, Priscilla Davis, who was also Andrea's mother by her previous marriage to Wilborn, testified against him. Later, several jurors said it was her testimony that convinced them Davis was not the gunman who killed two and wounded two more at his Fort Worth mansion last year.

Wilborn, himself a successful busines man, refuses to accept the verdict. He refers to the trial as a "circus" bought and paid for by Davis.

'I just want the world to know what a heartless, cruel animal he is," Wilborn said bitterly. ". . . Although he has had numerous opprotunities to deny under oath that he was the murderer, he has never done so.

Wilborn's first courtroom appearance came at the climactic end of the Amarillo trial when attorneys delivered their final arguments. He said a Davis support-er approached him and offered sympathy, saying: "I'm sorry about your little girl, Mr. Wilborn, but I understand Cullen and Andrea had a beautiful relationship and they loved each other very

'Lies," he said: lies spread by Davis' million-dollar defense team to relatives of the jurors, many of whom were allowed to visit the sequestered panel with and without supervision as ordered by trial Judge George Dowlen.

'Andrea had not lived with Priscilla since she was 3-years-old," he said. "Cullen mistreated her so much during her visits with Priscilla that Andrea would refuse to go there (to the mansion) for months at a time."

After the mansion shootings, he filed a $325,000 damage suit against Davis. Wilborn acknowledges his own prior discord with Davis, whose marriage to Priscilla was a foregone conclusion before her divorce from him was final.

When he heard of his daughter's death. Wilborn retreated from the outside world for several months. He cried unashamedly for days and nearly starved

Wilborn's stepdaughter, Tracy Giles, told her mother: "I think Jack wants to dic." That was nearly 16 months ago but things apparently haven't changed

Prober Ready For Crime By Computer

FORT WORTH (AP) - There's not much doubt computer banking will one day replace the checkbook, and men like Joe Ballew are gearing up for the trend they expect will also lend a brand new meaning to the term "white collar

Voters recently defeated the state referendum that would have permitted banks to use Electronic Fund Transfer Systems (EFTS), but Ballew, a recognized fraud investigator for Continental National Bank here, says it's only a matter of time before a new way to spend that dollar begins.

Computer systems will soon permit customers to authorize their banks to transfer funds from their accounts to those of a merchant when making a purchase, he said. The convenience factor is there, but so are the potential problems.

Ballew, 50, said odds are good that a small number of professional computer thieves and forgers will manage to get their hands on billions of dollars during the first years of EFTS - not at gunpoint — but at penpoint.
"I don't care what kind of system you come up with," he said. "There is always going to be someone who can get into it, around it or by it. Ninety-nine percent of the people who try don't know what they're doing and will get caught. We're not worried about them.

'We're worried about that other one percent, the highly professional thief who has made a science of beating the system. Right now, I am trying to study all the existing rules and regulations.

That's the first step.
"We are talking here of an entire new realm of crime. It leaves no tell-tale physical evidence behind. Someone gaining access to a computer can conceivably do anything."

Ten years ago, during the early years of credit cards, the nation's banks reported annual losses of more than $1.5 billion through credit card abuse.

Even now, losses for the top four credit card companies are expected to top $100 million this year. Ballew pointed out that the consumer ultimately winds up paying for that same $100 million.

Ballew's reputation must have preceeded him to Indiana, one of the six states where he's licensed as a private investigator. His license number from the Hoosier state reads 007.

DALLAS (AP) - It could have hap-pened anywhere, but this time the assault by a juvenile on a neighbor woman occurred on a quiet, well-kept Dallas

Coal Stockpiling May Avert Shortage If Strike Occurs

NEW YORK (AP) - With a widespread coal workers strike almost certain next month, officials say aggressive stockpiling by utilities, industries and residential suppliers should assure adequate supplies of the crucial fuel - unless the strike is particularly lengthy.

The United Mine Workers contract with the Bituminous Coal Operators Association expires Dec. 6, and officials say that unless an agreement is reached very soon, the union's 170,000 members will not be able to ratify a pact before the strike deadline

Although negotiators for both sides have been meeting in Washington, observers believe that a strike is virtually certain. About half of the nation's coal is produced by UMW members, down from 70 percent three years ago.

Government analysts are watching the developments closely because a centerpiece of President Carter's energy plan calls for a doubling of coal production and use by 1985. Coal currently accounts for 90 percent of the nation's fossil fuel reserves, but provides only 20 percent of

The analysts say stockpiling has been so active in recent months that a coal strike wouldn't affect the steel industry for at least 56 days or a large number of power companies for 86 days. After 120 days, some areas might experience major electrical shortages and large-scale layoffs, the analysts say.

But most observers believe that any strike would not last long enough to have those effects. In 1971, the UMW conducted a 45-day strike; in 1974, the union walked out for 26 days.

Two leading coal-hauling railroads, the Chessie System and the Norfolk & Western Railway Co., say they have delivered record amounts of coal in September and October as utilities, industries and independent suppliers increased their stock-

Instead, Miller said the association proposed a "reduced program through com-pany insurance plans." That would be a sharp departure from the present system, which is funded by royalties based on tons of coal mined and hours worked.

Miller also said the industry is propos-

"But there is some concern," said Larry Frecht, an institute spokesman. "Some of the utilities have been busy diversifying their supplies so they'll have different sources in case of a long strike."

Detroit Edison, which depends on coal for 80 percent of its power, has a sixweek supply in storage, compared with a normal four-week supply.

About 12 percent of the coal supply is used in the steel industry, and another 10 percent by other industries. Spokesmen for the steel industry, which produces much of its own coal from union-organized mines, said they believed their stockpiles were sufficient.

"We've got coal and coke available which should see our steel production through until spring, if needed," said a spokesman for U.S. Steel in Pittsburgh. 'Our stockpiles are higher than normal."

Armco Steel said it has two-to-three months supply of coal, double its normal supply. The stockpile resulted from insed production at the firm's mines. Only 1 percent of the nation's coal is

Federal Mediators Enter Coal Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) -Federal mediators intervened Sunday in the stalled coal industry contract talks and summoned both sides to a meeting Tuesday.

Officials of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service said an attempt will be made to get the negotiations resumed. But they indicated little hope for averting a nationwide coal strike set for Dec. 6.

Negotiations between the United Mine Workers and the Bituminous Coal Operators Association collapsed Friday with both sides trading angry charges of badfaith bargaining. Union President Arnold Miller had walked out, declaring that a strike "appears to be inevitable."

The mediators, who entered the dispute officially for the first time since the talks began Oct. 6, scheduled the new meeting for 10 a.m. Tuesday. Industry sources said they would attend the meeting. The union said it would give the mediators request

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Strict new guidelines for government employees to attend conferences and meetings already are affecting registrations at some conventions, a weekly newsletter says.

It said the restrictions already are affecting registrations at conventions of naional associations which government officials customarily have attended.

The Lance directive noted conference attendance results in "substantial cost" to the government for travel expenses and the like.

It emphasized that the administration's policy is one of "restricting governmentsponsored participation in conferences to the minimum necessary to accomplish agency missions."

Attendance should be limited to meetings where "there is a direct benefit to the achievement of an objective related to the agency's mission and fees are in line with actual costs," it told agency

Widowhood Thrusts Many Women Into Unfamiliar Situations By DALE SINGER

By DALE SINGER

UPI Correspondent

ST. LOUIS — For many women, widowhood may mean moving into an unfamiliar world of lawyers and taxes, independence and loneliness adding to the shock of widowhood itself.

To help ease the transition and build a strong base for life that must go on, a funeral home has launched a program for extended help after the funeral.

In less than a year, Kriegshauser Mortuaries' Living Information for Today program has helped more than 80 widows.

"(LIFT) just sort of evolved," Herman L. Kriegshauser said. "Other similar groups have met, not through the funeral industry but through hospitals or other areas. But it came to us that funeral directors have the resources to put it together. We're dealing directly here with 50 widows a month."

Moscow's 'Wiz' Gets

Cheers

MOSCOW (UPI) - Her name is Elli and she comes from a place called Khan-sas. She calls her furry little dog "Totoshka."

It's in Russian, of course, but it's unmistakably that American delight "The Wizard of Oz" -Moscow style.

Russian audiences are notoriously reserved, keeping their emotions safely tucked away; but the hundreds of children packing Malaya Bronaya theater for a Sunday matinee squeal and cheer unshedly when the Moscow brand of Cowardly Lion struts on the stage with his wild orange mane and floppy yellow tail.

The play - known as "The Wizard of Emerald City" - is pitched right at the wide-eyed kids.

A toothy tiger stalking Elli, the Tinman, Scarecrow and Cowardly Lion pops up to try to get the youngsters to help him track them pointing to the wings.

The kids giggle and point in the other direction. Frustrated, he scurries off.

The plot sticks close to the American version, except that good ol' Auntie Em is just plain Mom.

The costume designer has a curious view of the Plains garb, outfitting the cast in a cross between West Texas and Dodge City.

Mom wears a crocheted brown shawl and granny bonnet and the farmhands sport cowboy hats and blue vests.

The biggest hit of all is the Wicked Witch of the West. In the Russian version, however, she's more like a crotchety old ragpicker than a doer of evil deeds.

She creaks around, gamely telling the audience to knock off the laughing, that she's as pretty as she ever was. Otherwise, she fumes and fusses in a baggy brown dress tied with a rope, cooking up schemes with her flying monkeys to launch against

The Wizard, in an apparent bid to tidy up the violence, isn't even asking for her demise - just her

Alas, the Russian witch fares no better than Dorothy's in the end, winding up little more than a puddle after Elli douses her with a bucket of water.

The kids love it, though, cheering this mild triumph over evil.

Then with three clicks of her heels, it's Elli's turn as the youngsters watch her fade off magically for Kansas. Wherever that is.

Pilots' Strike Cuts Back Air Service

PARIS (AP) - A strike by Air France pilots reduced air traffic to a trickle Sunday but the French Concorde went ahead with its regular daily run to New

The 1,300 pilots and copilots, along with about 650 navigators, called the 48hour walkout to protest Air France's application of an anti-inflation plan ordered by Premier Raymond Barre.

The Barre plan imposes limits on scheduled raises in pilots' salaries, which range from $21,600 for beginning copilots to $72,000 for seasoned 747 jetliner captains.

A spokesman for the National Pilots' Union said only four of the 98 Air France international flights scheduled to leave Paris actually took off. They included the daily Concorde run to New York, exempted from the strike call because of its importance to Air France.

The controversial supersonic craft began regular service to New York only last Tuesday

Also spared was a Concorde run to Rio de Janeiro, a 747 flight to New York and a regular flight to Beirut and Baghdad, an Air France spokesman reported.

Despite the cancellations, Air France ground personnel reported no lines of waiting passengers. Wide publicity and prior announcements by the company apparently warned passengers away, they said. The walkout, which began at midnight Saturday, is scheduled to end at midnight Monday.

A union official said Barre's anti-inflation plan itself was not the target of the strike. "It's the way the Barre plan is being applied," he added.

The plan imposed limits on regular extra payments for hours in flight provided in the union contract with Air France, he said. The union official said the limits be imposed only on variable payments outside the contract, such as end-of-year

The union believes that applying the limits to regular, negotiated payments in the union contract sets a precedent for further rollbacks of salary levels, he

British Firemen Ignore Strike To Help Battle Fatal Blazes

LONDON (AP) - Firemen in two cities temporarily ignored their 13-day-old nationwide strike to help battle fires Sunday where lives were lost. A child died in one blaze and an elderly woman in the other.

Two-year old Andrew Lloyd perished in an early morning apartment house fire in Swansea, Wales. His parents were both hospitalized with severe burns, police

A local fire brigade spokesman told reporters, "Fire had got a good hold before there was an alert. The child would not have been rescued even if there were no strike."

Soldiers were unable to reach the child without special breathing apparatus and appealed to picketing firemen for help. They responded, but the youngster was dead when they reached him.

In the other fatal fire, a woman died as flames swept through the house where she lived alone in Maidstone, Kent. Striking firemen went to aid soldiers in an unsuccessful effort to rescue her

They were the 25th and 26th fire deaths since the strike began Nov. 14 with the country's 33,000 full-time firemen demanding a 30 percent pay hike. Servicemen, using outmoded army fire

Britain's Labor government appeared headed for a long and bitter struggle with the firemen

Some 10,000 firefighters and their families marched through London Saturday and presented a petition to Prime Minister James Callaghan signed by 500,000 supporters. A weekend opinion poll showed that two out of three Britons think the firemen should be treated as a special case and given a pay raise above the government's 10 percent anti-inflation guidelines.

Firemen now earn an average of $115 for a 48-hour work week. Their takehome pay is nearly $23 a week below the average wage, according to the Fire Brigades Union.

The unprecedented strike has made Britons more fire conscious, according to the government. The death toll for the past two weeks compared to an average of 40 deaths every two weeks in recent years, and insurance companies reported a reduction in fire claims since the strike

Soviet Cardinal Says Catholics Persecuted

ROME (UPI) - Ukrainian Cardinal Josyf Slipyj said Sunday his country's Catholic Church is undergoing Soviet persecution comparable to the trials of the early Christian martyrs.

"All of our bishops, with the sole exception of myself, died in prison or in exile," the white-bearded spiritual leader of 4 million Ukrainian Catholics told the an international human rights conference. "I am still bearing the scars of that terror on my body."

Believers and atheists joined in applause when the 85-yearold cardinal, wearing a redlined black robe and a white stovepipe hat, made a surprise ap-pearance during debate on violations of religious liberty in Eastern Europe.

Slipyj, who was released by Soviet authorities in 1963 after 18 years of imprisonment and torture, said the fate of his church "is reminiscent of the early Christian martyrs."

He said 1,500 Ukrainian Catholic priests died, hundreds of thousands of believers were taken to prison camps and the church was forced after World War II to merge with the Russian Orthodox

Of 3.040 Ukrainian Catholic parishes and 4,195 churches and chapels that existed in territories annexed by the Soviet Union at the end of the war, he said, not one remains.

Rhodesian Political Talks Start

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) - Prime Minister Ian Smith and moderate black politicians are expected to start talks this week about an internal settlement despite the opposition of guerrilla leaders and skepticism abroad.

In a surprise statement Thursday, Smith offered to open immediate talks with black leaders based inside Rhodesia and pledged himself to elections with universal suffrage. Government officials said they expect the talks to open late this week

Sources said that the moderate blacks accepted the proposed talks after secret consultations with Smith. Those expected to participate are Bishop Abel Muzorewa, head of the African National Council, the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole, who heads a breakaway faction of the ANC and Senator-Chief Jeremiah Chirau, president of the Zimbabwe United Peoples'

Organization. Smith is said to believe that the moderates can command support for an internal settlement from more than 85 percent of Rhodesia's 6.4 million blacks. Smith did not rule out participation by the leaders of the guerrilla Patriotic Front if they "renounced" violence. But Joshua Nkomo, leader of guerrillas based in Zambia and a co-leader of the Front, dismissed Smith's offer as a "deceit" to win time for the white-minority govern-

In his statement Thursday, Smith agreed to the principle of elections on the basis of adult suffrage in return for guarantees in a proposed new majority rule constitution that will safeguard the interests of Rhodesia's 288,000 whites.

Each of the moderate black leaders re-portedly agreed to consider Smith's insistence on measures to insure a secure future for the white minority in exchange for abandoning the limited black voting proposal.

Smith's offer won cautious approval from Britain and France. But Andrew Young, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, said the plan could only intensify the five-year guerrilla war. VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI spoke out strongly Sunday against the wave of political violence and common crime which he said was threatening democracy in Italy. The pope addressed 5,000 persons gathered in St. Peter's Square for a day of prayer against violence called by Cardinal Ugo Poletti, Pope Paul's vicar for Rome.

Recent and very painful episodes of violence have widely hit peaceful citizens and policemen and have been troubling members of a civilized society," the pontiff said.

'Masked and organized crime has manifested its base goals against social order. Personal vendettas, outrageous extortion for money have threatened the efficiency of a free democracy and shocked the faith and stability of civi-

Rare Books Put On Ice

NEW HAVEN (AP) - They're putting rare books on ice at Yale University

Yale's Beinecke Library has been placing rare books in cold storage at 20 degrees below zero for the past five months to combat boring beetles - the insects that feast on old paper and leather bindings and the glue that keeps

There are pesticides that can kill the bugs, but they are also dangerous to humans, and libraries must be closed while the chemical is working.

Dr. Charles Remington, a Yale entomologist, had been freezing insects for study for several years and suggested the librarians try it.

Last June, 167 rare books damaged by a boring beetle were carted into a walk-in freezer in the Beinecke basement similar to those used in large restaurants.

Since then, thousands more have received the freeze. Associate Director Kenneth M. Nesheim estimates it will take until mid-1979 for the library to freeze the 37,000 volumes stored on the floor where the beetles were found. The damage at Beinecke is relatively small. Although the librarians found evidence of the beetles in 167 volumes, all the damaged books can be repaired.

Pocket Alarm Saves Inventor's Life

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (UPI) - Donald Craig has a new product he put to an un-expected test. Luckily, the test succeeded. The occasion was Craig's own heart

The product is a battery-operated pocket alarm he developed after surviving two coronary by-pass operations.

When Craig, 54, pushes the panic button, the device automatically dials his home telephone and transmits pretaped messages for help to five recipients: nearby friends and the local ambulance

Last April Craig's wife left the house on some errands. Craig, who has had two heart attacks, felt the symptoms again and pushed the button.

The alarm dialed the number of a friend and delivered the message. The friend whisked Craig to a hospital, where he spent three days in the coronary care

Craig says, "It saved my life."

Craig was a real estate manager until forced into early retirement. He got the idea for Medi-Call after hearing about a telephone dialing unit connected to a burglar alarm.

The burglar alarm was plugged into an electric wall outlet. Craig wanted a device that would operate even during a power blackout.

He got together with an engineer friend who designed circuitry to operate on a 12-volt battery. In August, he incorporated.

The dialing mechanism is housed in a console that is plugged into a home telephone like an extension

Busy Agenda Faced Tuesday By Returning Congressmen

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The 95th Congress returns this week to mop up the remainder of its first-session work, but the major leftover issues are problems it has faced all year: energy, the B-1 bomber and federal funding of abortions.

Both houses return from three weeks of inactivity Tuesday with the conference committees dealing with President Carter's energy legislation returning from

5,000 Killed Yearly By Sleep Pills

WASHINGTON (UPI) - A federal study estimates sleeping pills are asso-ciated with nearly 5,000 deaths a year in the United States, the director of the National Institute on Drug Abuse said Sun-

Releasing the NIDA study, Dr. Robert DuPont also said users of barbiturates or "sleeping pills" — make about 25,000 trips to hospital emergency wards each year, and about the same number enter drug abuse treatment annually.

The NIDA study of nighttime sleeping pills and daytime sedatives, or "tranquilizers," was produced on orders of President Carter, who told the agency to determine "how we can best control the abuse of barbiturates and other prescription drugs which cause many deaths, while not interfering with their legitimate medical use.'

Serious Problem

In an interview, DuPont said the resultant study "confirmed our understanding that barbiturates, or sleeping pills, pose a unique and serious problem in terms of both death and ... abuse." He said the NIDA researchers estimated nearly 5,000 deaths occur each year that are either directly related to barbiturates or in which barbiturates were in-sleeping pill prescriptions — an estimated 1 billion doses - in 1976. What came as a major surprise to me in the study was the realization that these drugs are not only dangerous but that they are probably not effective in terms of treating the insomnia," DuPont said. He said prescription sleeping pills are "often remarkably effective when taken for one or two nights." But the NIDA study, he said, said most such pills appear to be ineffective beyond two weeks' consecutive use and, after that point, can create disorders that themselves cause insomnia.

Federal Controls Issue

The conferees dealing with the non-tax aspects of the energy bill are at least halfway through their task, but the most controversial issue in their bill lies ahead: whether to end federal controls on natural gas prices. The other conference, dealing with energy taxes, is not expected to make any headway with its work until some decision is made on natural gas pricing. It might, however, decide such other issues as whether to tax gas guzzling automobiles and exactly how to tax industries that do not convert from oil and gas to The other two "must settle" issues for this session of Congress involve funding for the B-1 bomber and the use of federal money to help pay for abortions.

Appropriations Involved
These issues must be decided because they are attached to appropriations bills with funds for a variety of projects.

The abortion issue has tied up the massive appropriations bill for the Departments of Labor and Health, Education

The House has held out for strict language limiting use of federal funds for abortions while the Senate wants somewhat less restrictive language.

Comhromise language is expected to be presented this week, but if it is not acceptable to the House, the Senate has 'continuing resolutions" that have been allowing the two departments to spend many programs and cut off salaries for a vast segment of government employes. Somewhat less controversial is the House's apparently losing battle to force further funding for the B-1 bomber Carter wants to kill.

Compromise Funds Bill

The battle will come when the House considers a compromise supplemental appropriations bill. A motion will be made that the House back down from its insistence that three additional B-1 bombers be built.

Many other issues face the 95th Conress, such as Social Security funding. But they are not considered pressing because this Congress has another full year to work on them.

Sadat, whose call for the meeting Saturday was as startling a move as his unprecedented visit to Israel last weekend, said all parties to the Middle East dispute, including Israel, would be invited 'so we can sit and make preparations for the Geneva conference and discuss the case in a matter of months, not years.

The Geneva conference was set up under the auspices of the United Nations, with the United States and the Soviet Union acting as joint chairmen. It held a two-day inaugural session in December 1973 and has been in recess since.

In Jerusalem, Begin said an Israeli envoy would go to Cairo even if the entire Arab world snubs Sadat. "But no Israeli delegation will negotiate in any way at any place with the socalled PLO, whether it is in Geneva, Cairo or even on the moon," he told reporters.

The prime minister, who scheduled a parliamentary debate for Monday on the latest Egyptian initiative, said Sadat's Cairo conference was not intended as a corollary to the Egyptian president's Nov. 19-21 trip to Jerusalem.

Sadat said that if he is proved wrong about his moves toward peace, "I have the courage to go to my assembly and say here is my resignation. "Dramatic Moves" Praised Israeli U.N. Ambassador Chaim Herzog, also appearing on Issues and Answers said: "I believe everything Presi-

The invitation to Cairo was an extension of his Jerusalem trip -the first ever by an Arab leader to Israel in its 29-year history, where Sadat said he told the Israelis, "Let us drop the language of war and guns and adopt civilized language."

Now Sadat said, "Let us start ... before the whole world," explaining that the event would be at the center of news coverage. And he added: "Let the whole world will be with me. "Let us agree to work in the daylight

Four Days Of Talks In West Germany Launched By Dayan

BERGEN-BELSEN, West Germany (AP) - Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan, in West Germany to discuss prospects for a Mideast peace settlement, began his four-day visit Sunday by praying for thousands of Nazi victims at Bergen-Belsen death camp.

Dayan is meeting Chancellor Helmut Schmidt in Bonn todlay to report on Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's historic journey to Jerusalem last weekend and its aftermath. Shortly after arriving in Frankfurt on a regularly scheduled El Al flight, Dayan and his wife Rachel flew to north Germany to visit the former Nazi concentration camp where at least 50,000 persons perished during World War II.

Most of the victims were Jews. Anne Frank, whose "Diary of a Young Girl" recounted years of hiding from the Gestapo in Amsterdam, died in the camp only a few weeks before it was liberated by the British army in April 1945. Walks Among Mounds

Dayan walked along a row of grassy mounds covering the mass graves and visited a documentary center showing photographs of the dead inmates and a cale model of the camp. He laid a wreath with the inscription 'Moshe Dayan, Foreign Minister" at a stone memorial for the murdered Jews, then led 150 members of the Hannover Jewish community in a Hebrew prayer. Israeli Ambassador Yohanan Meroz, the Lower Saxony state governor, Ernst Albrecht, and the chairman of the West German Jewish Federation, Werner Nachmann, attended the solemn ceremony in freezing, overcast weather. Originally used for Russian prisoners of war, Bergen-Belsen was transformed into a concentration camp for several thousand European Jews in April 1943.

Camp Population Soared

As the Allied armies closed in on the Third Reich, the camp's population soared into the tens of thousands with the arrival of prisoners force marched from Nazi death camps in Poland.

According to West German accounts, a typhus epidemic swept through the freezing, starving inmates beginning in February 1945, killing over 44,000 prisoners by the end of April.

British authorities burned the wooden barracks to the ground shortly after the war ended because of the threat of contagious diseases spreading throughout northern Germany from the camp.

From Bergen-Belsen, Dayan flew to Hamburg where he was guest of honor Sunday night at a reception in city hall. He is flying to Bonn Monday morning amid stringent security precautions, the Foreign Ministry said.

'His visit offers a chance to get a firsthand report on the Israeli ideas for a settlement," the Bonn Foreign Ministry said. "We are the first country to be visited by an Israeli government official since Sadat's journey.

Sadat Action Praised

"I appreciate very much the move tak-en by President Sadat," Dayan told reporters after his arrival in Hamburg. "He realized that four wars in 30 years did not bring very much good to Egypt.'

Dayan said Israel was prepared to negotiate with the Arabs "in Cairo, Geneva or in the desert." But he stressed his govwith the Palestine Liberation Organiza-

He said Israel was prepared to make compromises with the Arabs to achieve peace, but would not agree to any proposal which would prevent the country from defending itself.

"I do believe there is a compromise that is acceptable for all," he said. "No party can make preconditions. The way is to sit down together, to listen to the other party and to try to find a compromise. I think we can do that."

President Walter Scheel, former Chancellor Willy Brandt, and conservative opposition leaders Helmut Kohl and Franz Josef Strauss will also meet with Dayan before he returns home Wednesday...

Talks with Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher had to be canceled because he is hospitalized with a lung infection. Defense Minister Georg Leber will meet Dayan in his place, the Bonn gov-

The temblor, which a Boise resident described as having a "slight roar," lasted about 1 to 1 1/2 minutes, according to the National Earthquake Information Center in Golden, Colo., and the U.S. Geological Survey seismograph at Newport, Wash.

"Our bed was shaking. The door to our bedroom started to shake," said Connie Munn, a resident of Ontario, Ore.

Flynt Says 'Conversion' No Change In Philosophy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - Born-again publisher Larry Flynt says his new personal commitment to Christianity soon will be reflected in his sexually explicit magazines, Hustler and Chic; but he says there will be no change in the magazines'

"Everybody expects pictures of the crucifix on the cover of Hustler, with some version of the scripture printed inside." Flynt told the Akron Beacon Journal in an interview published Sunday.

"Our philosophy is going to be the same. We're going to be doing what we've been doing, but we'll do it better. Sex is beautiful and God-given. If they (critics) think it's obscene, they should complain to the manufacturer. Evil is in the eye of the beholder."

Flynt, who says his recent conversion was brought about by President Carter's sister, evangelist Ruth Carter Stapleton, said one change in Hustler will be a redefining of the continuing cartoon character "Chester the Molester" as "Chester the Protector" in order to show that the publisher does not advocate molestation.

MIDLAND (Special) - Youngsters and oldsters will combine at Midland College for five hours of fun at the "Winter Happening" scheduled Wednes-day from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Student Center.

For the first time, there will be a joint event involving both students and senior citizens. The "Winter Happening" was arranged through the cooperation of Dr. Jim Cook, director of student activities. and Jan Reed, director of senior services at Midland College.

We had a senior citizens' get-together at Midland College last spring, and both the older people and the students seemed to enjoy it, so we decided to really let them have a good time together." Mrs. Reed said.

The "very popular" senior citizens band from Seminole will be playing during the event, and both Midland and Odessa senior citizens will be demonstrating some of the old-time popular dancing styles.

The McCamey senior citizens are planning to demonstrate liquid embroidery art, the Rankin Fan Club will have a doll house display, and several of the senior citizens will be in a "Hug a Granny or Grand Dad" booth.

For the students, activities will include a jalepeno pepper eating contest, a sponge throw with faculty members as targets, a slave auction, arm wrestling contest, and a kissing booth.

"All area residents, are invited to attend the 'Winter Happening'," Dr. Cook said. "For high school students, there will be information and display booths about some of the academic and vocational programs offered at Midland Col-

In its new issue, Newsweek magazine said Flynt is considering adding pictures of nude men to the Hustler section now devoted to snapshots of nude women sent in by their husbands or boyfriends.

"People who think I'm not going to make money with Hustler don't know how far off they are," Flynt told the Beacon Journal. "With Hustler before, we turned a lot of people off. What we want to do now is turn everbody on, rather than turn people off.

Flynt, currently free on bond pending appeal of a 7-to-25-year sentence impos for his conviction in Cincinnati on charges of pandering obscenity and engaging in organized crime in connection with the publication of Hustler, announced his conversion Nov. 19.

He said he has not joined any congregation nor does he intend to.

"I'm a Christian, I'm not religious," he said. "It's between me and the man upstairs. I'm not going to join any organized religion.

Deer Hunting Becomes 'Big Industry'

more than one million hunters that takes son opens at the crack of dawn Monday will end up spending big bucks.

"It really is a multi-million dollar industry," said Stanley Forbes, chief information officer for the Pennsylvania Game Commission

"It's really hard to measure all the economical benefits from deer hunting, but our conservative estimate is that hunters will spend $100 million on deer season alone," he added.

But the hunters who have shelled out money for rifles, ammunition, thick coats and warm underwear don't seem to mind the expense. For some, deer season is bigger than Super Bowl Sunday and New Year's Eve combined. "For those of us in the rural areas, deer season is part of our culture. It's a ritual, ceremonial thing," said Mike Ondik, deer researcher at Pennsylvania State

Pennsylvania has 1.25 million hunters, the largest force in the country. The state also ranks second only to Texas in number of deer killed. In some regions, the opening day of deer season is negotiable in labor contracts. For example, none of the 499 employees at the Fruehauf Corp. in Fayette County will be working because United Steel Workers Local 15101 has buck season written into the contract as a holiday.

Other non-union shops close up because absenteeism has historically been more than 50 percent on opening day. And most rural school districts give their students the day off too.

"We had to. Nobody was coming to school anyway," said one school district

The influx of hunters creates radical changes sometimes. Potter County, the top deer county in the state, has a population of 16,500 residents and at least double that amount of deer. According to local officials, at least 30,-000 hunters will flock to the north central county during deer season, bringing nper traffic to winding ru-

LIMA, Ohio (UPI) - One day a wounded sparrow stumbled into the turn-of-the century fortress of Lima State Hospital for the Criminally Insane, and founded a new therapy

Patients in one ward adopted the sick bird. They sneaked it into a closet when attendants decreed it had to go. Social worker Dave Lee joined the conspiracy.

Lee noticed that men who had been bored and despondent were now busy catching insects and tending to the sparrow. The patients worked together, and began talking to him, a fellow conspirator, openly. That was the start of the pet program three years ago. Today, 130 canaries, cockateels, macaws, hamsters, gerbils, fish and rabbits are teaching the hospital's 400 patients about responsibility, affection and interaction. "It's worked out just great," said Lee. He sees the hospital as an especially important model. He said it is among the few institutions of any kind to use pets this way.

"We have all the rapists from what used to be death row here, the baddest actors in the state. See, if it works here, it's got to work other places." Few problems have occurred.

"Not one animal has ever been hurt," Lee said. "At first we were more worried about the animals than the patients because it would only take one episode of abuse, and we'd

One pet has been killed, Lee said. A patient scheduled to return to prison after treatment was told he could not take his parakeet. He packed it, and the bird suffocated.

Usually, pets are turned over to a buddy or a relative when patients leave the hospital. "If a guy loses it and has to go to strong ward, a buddy will watch his pet 'til he comes

Lee said only once has he had to take away a bird from an inmate who did not clean its cage enough. He said a lot of jealously about the pets has developed among Lima's 25 women inmates, all murderers.

Reagan Organization 'Ready And Waiting'

SANTA MONICA, Calif. - Ronald Reagan has a $1 million campaign organization ready and waiting for his next run for the presidency.

Using money left from his 1976 White House bid, the former California governor has turned his "Citizens for Reagan" into "Citizens for the Republic" - a fulltime, completely staffed committee with the stated purpose of promoting conservative causes.

The number one "conservative cause" it promotes is Ronald Reagan.

Before the strict new campaign finance law was passed, most campaign organizations dried up and blew away once they paid off their bills after the election. But the new law provides for what are called "political action committees" ("PACS" for short) and that is what Reagan has created. The idea isn't unique: Former Texas Gov. John Connally is organizing a similar group, although so far he has not done as well as Citizens for the Republic. CFTR has a staff of 12 persons working out of two suites in an office building seven blocks from the Pacific Ocean and 45 minutes from downtown Los Angeles. Reagan is chairman of CFTR, but the day to day operation is run by Lyn Nofziger - a long time Reagan aide and conservative political operator who is paid $45,000 as year as executive director. John Laxalt, brother of Sen. Paul Laxalt (R-Nev.) Reagan's 1976 campaign chairman, is the group's full time Washington lobbyist at $30,000 a year.

Reagan says it is "way too early" to tell whether he will run again in 1980.

But Nofziger said in a recent interview the purpose of CFTR is to keep a political base for the Californian. "Even if he doesn't run, we want to have a voice in who does run," Nofziger said.

The group has three main goals, according to its literature: "To elect conservative Republicans to office: To convince Americans Republican principles offer the best hope for the survival of our Republican as a great and free nation; To develop a cadre of conservative leaders at every level of government."

CFTR's main voice is a twice monthly eight-page newsletter that always has a picture of Reagan and an article by him

Joe Don Buckner

Photographer

797-7927

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL in the top left corner. Edited by Bill Stetson, a young conservative California newspaperman, the newsletter is mailed to anyone who contributes $25 a more a year to CFTR.

Stetson says that paid circulation now exceeds 8,600 - nearly twice what it was back in the summer. The newsletter also solicits guest columnists and gets responses from the usual stable of writers on the right. But this month, former Sen. Eugene McCarthy contributed a tirade against a favorite conservative target - the Federal Election Commission.

CFTR has been active since March, and as it grows financially, has begun to branch out into two other areas of political activity. This month it held its second political seminiar for conservative candidates and campaign workers. The free seminar featured "Republican activists" according to advance billing. The speakers were all card carrying conservatives — Sen. Lax-alt, Rep. Phil Crane (R-III.), Texas GOP Chairman Ray Barnhart, and of course, Reagan. Seminars are scheduled in Atlanta and Philadelphia next year. CFTR's policy board meets at each seminar. Reagan is chairman and Laxalt chairman of the steering committee.

CFTR also has begun to give campaign funds to conservative candidates. The group doesn't have the money yet to donate on a major scale, but reports filed with the FEC show it gave a total of $2,-500 to three local GOP candidates in CFTR will launch a major fund-raising drive next year aimed filling a warchest to be used to elect conservatives in the mid-term elections.

Financially, CFTR wants to keep the $1 million nest egg it got from Reagan, and raise $40,000 or so each month to pay for the newsletter and the salaries of the 12 or so staffers. Money raised beyond that will go to candidates.

When Reagan ran for president last year he had severe financial problems until he bought a five minutes of prime time national television to appeal for funds. The broadcast brought in more than $1 million from thousands of small contri-

That list is being tapped to fund CFTR. Recently the group bought the mailing list of Richard Viguerie, the suburban Washington fund-raising whiz who almost single-handedly brought in the bucks for George Wallace's campaign in

Because of the restrictions of the new election law, Reagan keeps an arm's length relationship with the group primarily organized to promote him.

His syndicated radio program - his primary means of support - is handled by a separate organization. Reagan has been traveling the country speaking at every Republican chicken dinner that will listen to him. But he charges for his appearances - up to $5,-000 a speech. His travel expenses come out of the fee, not from CFTR.

Steelmakers Cheerful As Federal Aid Looms

buoyed by reports the Carter Administration is planning broad-based aid for their industry, are beginning to look with hope

"We're now in a valley where pessimism prevails." said Frederick C. Langenberg, president of the American Iron and Steel Institute, the industry's trade

"But the steel industry has always been cyclical. When times are good people don't think they'll get bad. And when things are bad, people don't believe they'll get good again

—Rising foreign competition has chewed up growth in the domestic market, depressed prices and pushed down earnings.

Earnings Held Down -Earnings, due in part to government pressure to keep prices down, have been less than those for other U.S. industries, making it difficult for producers to attract investment money to modernize -Pollution requirements, which cost the industry $500 million in 1976, have further sapped capital without adding to productivity.

Plan Of Help Expected

It is this belief that has fostered hope for relief from the Carter administration, which is expected this week to unveil a Treasury Department plan to help the steel industry.

The Carter plan is expected to cut imports through a "reference pricing" plan, ease pollution requirements and encour-age capital formation.

Treasury Secretary Anthony Solo a man generally respected by producers, has told members of Congress the goal will be to trim foreign steelmakers' share of the market, currently running at 20 percent, to between 12 percent and 14

If the reference-pricing policy wins steelmaker approval, it would allow for-eign access to the U.S. market while placing a floor on worldwide steel prices.

'Dumping' Claimed
Domestic producers have complained that foreign steel has been dumped in the U.S. — that is, sold at prices below the cost of production — to preserve jobs abroad. They are realistic about the politics of cutting imports.

"Foreign steel has earned a place in our market that they're going to damned well try to keep," said an industry expert, adding that imports - fairly traded -

"Our own capital requirements are such that we'd have a heck of a time scrambling along to get into a position where we could supply more than 90 per-cent of steel demand year in and year out." he said.

Domestic demand is expected to grow about 2 to 2.5 percent a year through the early 1980s, and producers estimate they will have to increase capacity 30 percent, at a cost of more than $17.5 billion.

Where will they find the money, in view of a history of poor earnings? Turnaround Possible

"A dramatic turnaround in 1978 earnings, while fan from assured, is not implausible," says an analysis by the brokerage firm of Paine, Webber, Jackson & As the imports slow down, domestic prices should rise along with demand for U.S.-made steel. Evidence already indicates that discounting is drying up as for-eigners withdraw from the U.S. market. Current efforts to retrench also should enhance profits. Marginal mills will no longer drag on company earnings, and corporate mergers could make some producers more efficient. Bethlehem Steel, for example, said its production costs at closed plants in

Johnstown, Pa., and Lackawanna, N.Y., were 30 to 40 percent above those at its more modern mills in the Midwest. Steel's future may also benefit from the domestic industry's natural advantages over foreign competitors - ready access to raw materials and a large, generally healthy market.

housing sales." Goss said.

John Kopp, international vice president of the International Longshoremen's Association, said there was no doubt in his mind that the 4,000 dockworkers in Baltimore would approve the tentative contracts.

"I would assume a lot are anxious to get back to work," Kopp said. "Christ-mas is coming and we have people here who haven't worked for two months because they're working for companies that deal exclusively with automated ships."

Dockworkers at 39 East and Gulf coast ports began a selective strike against containerized cargo Oct. 1. The master contract was tentatively approved three weeks ago, but stormy debates over local issues in Baltimore and Philadelphia held up a ratification vote.

In Baltimore, the selective strike was expanded to a full-scale work stoppage against all shipping last Wednesday when talks stalled over the guaranteed annual income provision. The ILA members

BURBANK, Calif. (UPI) - A five-year-old boy, mauled by a friend's pet tiger, was listed in critical condition in a hospital

Miss Arland told deputies she keeps the five-year-old, 400-pound, defanged and declawed tiger in

In New Orleans, a tentative pact was reached Wednesday, but negotiators returned to the bargaining table during the weekend to discuss some local issues. Kopp said the Steamship Trade Association of Baltimore offered a "favorable" contract.

DR. GEORGE C. THOSTESON

I'm always pleased to get professional dback from my responses to readers' letters. Here's a case in point, a note from a nurse at a nursing home:

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Your answer to the family trying to select a nursing home really was good. Your first priority - a home close enough for easy visits by the family members - should be at the top of any list. There are a couple of other things fami-

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it true that I can have the sex of the fetus determined? -Mrs. O.T.

Yes. It's done by amniocentesis - extracting (with a long aspiration-type needle) some of the sac fluid. Cells in the fluid can be examined to tell if the fetus is male or female. It's useful to know this if there are hereditary problems in which sex plays a major role. Otherwise, I think it takes a lot of the fun out of the whole business. What action do you take? A.- Despite the fact that you have a minimum in terms of point count, the auction has developed favorably and you should think in terms of slam. We suggest a cue-bid. Normally, it is correct to cue-bid your lowest control first. Here, however, we are inclined to show the void in diamonds first, for partner might be reluctant to co-operate if he has nothing in that suit.

Q.2-Neither vulnerable, as South you hold: ◆AJ9 ♥A83 ♦Q72 ◆K1098 Partner opens the bidding with two no trump. What do you respond?

A.-Simple arithmetic tells you that, if partner has a maximum—a good 23-24 points—you want a good 23-24 points—you want to be in seven no trump. You can get this message across to partner by responding five no trump. That forces him to six no trump if he is minimum, but asks him to bid the grand slam if he is at the top of his range.

What action do you take? A.—You have the balance of power, so the one thing you shouldn't do is pass. Neither should you double three spades, for if that was the correct action, partner would have done it. We recommend four clubs. If partner that a preference to four ner takes a preference to four diamonds, we would now intro-duce our heart suit, thus getting all of our suits into the auctio at a convenient level.

Pass 3 Pass Pass 4 + Pass 6 0 Pass ?

What action do you take? A .- If partner can bid six hearts, there is a tendency to raise to seven with the king-queen of seven with the king-queen of trumps and a singleton—partner can't be sure you have those cards and therefore it would seem that he must hold first-round diamond control. But if he has it, why didn't he cue-hid five diamonds? After all, your hand is still unlimited. The only answer is that he has a distributional monster with a diamond loser, and that he hopes he can pick up any trump honor that is missing. Therefore, pass.

Michigan Teacher Leads Students Into Silence

By BILL DALTON
ANN ARBOR, Mich. (NEA) — Don't talk out loud in Maureen Wagner's class.

She tell her students almost as soon as they walk in the door that they might as well forget they ever knew how to

And while she's telling them with her voice, she's also telling them with her hands. Wagner's hands are constantly

She's just being courteous. The co-teacher of this unusually quiet class is deaf, and even an outstanding lip reader only catches 50 to 80 percent of a conversation. It's similar to a radio shorting out, missing almost every other word.

Although all these students can hear, they slip for a few hours each week into the strangely silent world of the non-hearing. They're learning to talk, instead, with their hands. Soon they begin to understand, just as Wagner did while working to become a teacher of hearing children.

It was then that she encountered an emotionally disturbed child who could not tolerate sound. At the slightest rustle, he would scream and curl up into a tight ball on the floor, pretending he couldn't hear. The boy's mother was deaf.

When Wagner attempted to discuss the child's problem with his mother, she became frustrated with her own inability to communicate with her.

The young teacher soon discovered that the daily frustration encountered by the non-hearing in a society of sounds greatly outweighed her own.

So she learned their language — a beautifully expressive means of transmitting thoughts via pictures painted by the fingers, hands, arms, eyes and facial expressions.

Although there are many different types, Wagner insists the complete meaning of a sequence of signs.

can quickly put you into the afternoon.

Signing slang is also difficult. Instead of characterizing someone as "foxy," the deaf have to use signs that mean "cute boy or girl," and "blowing your mind" translates into "mind separate." Somehow, it's not quite the same.

But there are updates. "A hundred years ago there was no sign for a spaceship, but now there is," Wagner smiles, and demonstrates with one upturned hand rising swiftly off an outstretched "launching pad" palm.

Yet much sign language is easily understood "I'm happy

Yet much sign language is easily understood. "I'm happy to see you" is represented by a hand fluttering on the chest (standing for a jumping heart) for "Happy," and by two fingers held close to the eyes for "to see you."

And what else can three fingers leaping off the nose in disgust mean except, "I'm lousy!!!" Hands that before may have been limp or casually waved during a sound conversation soon learn in Wagner's class to take on the meaning of such things as sincerity, anger, questioning or hope. But Wagner's students learn something more. "They learn what it's like to be deaf, the insights into their ways, how they live and think differently than a hearing person - they learn to understand them. Too often in the past it has been the other way around, the hearing world forcing English on the non-hearing, almost denying their deafness,

Wagner said. Non-hearing people, she admits, are making social strides, refusing to be pushed aside any more. Yet they remain in many ways outside the cultural mainsteam, denied simple things such as understanding a television soap opera or even a commercial. Wagner cites advances, like public television offering more shows with interpreters superimposed and a U.S. Senator who often has someone signing his comments at public ap-

"The deaf have been missing out socially in a way the blind don't even come close to, in being unable to openly communicate with much of the world," Wagner said. Her students — like Ann Arbor's Mae Harrison — understand. Both Harrison's parents were born deaf as were two uncles and an aunt. She has never been able to talk to them,

"Oh, my mother tried to teach me a few signs, but of course she could never explain what the reasons were behind them," said the white-haired grandmother who is now learning sign language with her own daughter. Her mother, now 77, doesn't know she's taking the class. It is the first opportunity Harrison has ever had to do so.

"It's going to be a surprise," she explained, meticulously oing through the hand motions, learning to say more of the things to her mother that she has never been able to say to cial district judge since 1974, resigned her judgeship last Friday.

This was the second marriage for both. Boren and his first wife, Janna, were divorced in 1975 after eight years of marriage. They had two children: a daughter, Carrie, and a son, Dan. The first Mrs. Boren remarried to a Longview oilman last year and now resides there.

The marriage Sunday was performed by Boren's hometown minister, the Rev.

Robert Cocke, pastor of the First United Methodist Church of Seminole.

The governor, 36, and his new bride, 34, exchanged plain, gold bands as wedding

Family members attending the ceremony included Boren's parents, former Congressman and Mrs. Lyle Boren; the governor's children, Carrie and Dan; his sister, Susan Boren of Washington, D.C.; the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Shi of Stratford, and the bride's five sisters and one brother.

The bride wore a powder blue, streetlength, empire-style dress with a matching jacket. The dress was made for her by her sister, Judy Connally of Ada. She carried a small white Bible from Jerusalem, which had been in her family for many years, with three small white rosebuds resting on the Bible.

The governor wore a dark blue, pinstriped business suit.

Boren and his new wife had been dating for several months and had appeared together at numerous public functions, but he had declined comment on rumors they planned to marry and she had flatly

"I plan to live and die in Ada. Oklahoma," she said in an interview earlier this month. "This is home. I am where I want to be, doing what I want to do."

Asked then if she would leave Ada under any circumstances, such as a marriage to the governor, she asked, "What do I have to do? Write it in blood? Carve it in marble? They're going to have to run me out of town on a rail.'

At that time, she said her relationship with Boren was "no big deal," adding, 'There's nothing to it."

The governor and the new Mrs. Boren will attend a meeting of the Education Commission of the States in Arizona and the Interstate Oil Compact Commission in Santa Fe before returning to the governor's mansion on Dec. 6 or 7.

The new first lady was born in Ada and attended public schools in Stratford. She received a bachelor's degree from East Central State University in Ada and a master's degree and law degree from the University of Oklahoma.

She practiced law in Ada before being named to a special district judgeship.

Professors Sign Anti-Bakke Statement

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Ninety university professors, in a joint statement issued Sunday, said special programs for minorities are temporarily necessary to make up for "deeply entrenched discriminatory patterns" of the past.

The endorsement was prompted by the the "reverse discrimination" case before the Supeme Court; in which Allan Bakke argues that the University of California Medical School at Davis rejected his application in part because he is white. The statement was released by the American Civil Liberties Union here. Signers teach law, psychology, social work and philosophy at various schools across the country.

The move to issue the endorsement was initiated by five persons, including Orville Schell, former president of the Association of the Bar of the City of New

immy Stewart To Co-Star With Sixth Lassie

HEALDSBURG, Calif. (AP) - Jimmy Stewart, who has layed opposite beautiful women like Grace Kelly and June Allyson, has no misgivings now about co-starring with a dog.

"I give up trying to compete with Lassie. You have no chance," he said wryly at a rustic winery here where scenes from "Lassie. My Lassie" are being filmed.

"I have no qualms about playing second fiddle to a dog." Stewart is 69, a veteran of 77 movies, and is a household face. Lassie, 2 1/2 and making his, yes, his acting debut, is also a household face, but only because he looks just like the five ancestors who preceded him on movie and television

For both Lassie and Stewart, the picture is a comeback. Slated for Easter release, it is the first step in a revival of Lassie, the dog who made America's tear ducts overflow. The collie has been off the silver screen for 26 years after six movies that soaked handkerchiefs and made millions.

ABC also has signed with Wrather Corp., which is producing the movie, for a new Lassie television series to begin next fall. The old series ran for 19 years until 1973, and went through four dogs.

The current Lassie, son of Hey-Hey, was at first a bit uneasy under the lights, but "she's a real trooper now," says co-producer Bill Beaudine, Jr. Everybody on the set calls Lassie "she" although they all know he's not

Female dogs just aren't as pretty because their coats are always shedding, says Beaudine. Plus they're smaller and have less stamina. So female offspring of the Lassie family, never to be stars, are rented out for breeding. As for Stewart, he's in his first lead role since "Fool's Parade" in 1971. In "Lassie, My Lassie," he plays a kindly vintner and a grandfather to two orphaned children and their

It's the classic Jimmy Stewart role. He wears an aging fedora, his own thick glasses and his pants legs bunched up around his ankles.

"I've been in this thing for 45 years now," Stewart says as slow as molasses, his lower lip quivering as it's wont to do. "Naturally, the parts are fewer and far between

I have my family - we travel a good bit. I keep myself busy in all sorts of ways.

"It's difficult because of age, you know. The parts, as I say, just don't come along as often as they used to, and they'll be less and less, you know."

"Lassie, My Lassie" is strictly a family movie. The most risque scene is that in which the villain - played by Pernell Roberts of Bonanza fame - suggests he wants to breed the

But that's fine with Stewart. The most colorful movie he's been in - "The Cheyenne Social Club" - got a PG rating, against his objections

"I owned a whorehouse in it and they gave it a PG," sid Stewart, insisting it deserved a G. "There was nothin' unnatural about it at all.

In "Anatomy of a Murder," which Stewart made in 1959, the story was a rape trial. Stewart's father, who owned a hardware store, called him up one day and said, "I heard you made a dirty movie. What's the big idea?" 'He wouldn't go see it and he told everybody who came into the store not to see it," chuckles Stewart. "He did everything but put an ad in the paper. "Finally, months later, he sneaked out of town and saw it at a drive-in. Then he called me - it musta been about 3 or 4 in the morning - and says, 'I thought it was good.'

Stewart remembers the old days of movie-making as more fun. Those were the times, he says, when there was kinship and security in working for a major studio. In those days the' studios threw star-studded parades to announce new movies and put up bleachers on the sets instead of shooing fans

"They all wanted to come and see what you looked like in the flesh," he says. "That's the thing about the movies. There's still a kind of magic about them.

But now, when a movie comes out, "the first thing the movie studios do is take you to a TV studio. This doesn't make sense. They're not taking advantage of the magic." He shakes his head ruefully.

Stewart has no plans to retire. "This is work. This is my craft. This is what I've done for 45 years. I don't intend to just cut it off. I think the audience will let me know when it's had enough of me. They have a way of doing that."

NEW CO-STAR FOR STEWART - Jimmy Stewart, who has played opposite such beautiful women as Grace Kelly and June Allyson, has no misgivings now about co-starring with a dog in "Lassie, My Lassie." Stewart, 69, is a veteran of 77 movies and is a household face. Lassie, 2 1/2, is making his acting debut and is also a household face, but only because he looks just like the five ancestors who preceded him on the silver screen. (AP Laserphoto)

Virgin Islands Trying Again To Draw Up Own Constitution

CHARLOTTE AMALIE, U.S. Virgin Islands (UPI) - For the third time in 23 years, this American territory in the Carbbean is trying to draw up a constitution to give it more authority over its own affairs. A shortage of funds may doom the new attempt before it gets off the

A Virgin Islands constitutional convention, with 60 delegates from the islands of St. Thomas, St. Croix and St. John picked in a special August election, convened Oct. 3 with a $250,000 budget to finish its iob in four months

It now is apparent that unless additional funds are forthcoming, the convention won't finish its job.

Convention president Alexander Far-relly, an attorney from the island of St. Thomas, was in New York for a week recently, asking the major foundations to loosen the pursestrings so the convention can function properly.

Clarice Bryan, also an attorney and second vice president of the convention, said the $250,000 is not enough. At least double that is needed, she says. Mrs. Bryan said that although the status of the Virgin Islands as a U.S. territory is not in doubt, major aspects of federal-territorial relations should come under the constitutional knife at the conven-

HARRIS, N.Y. (UPI) — Hal Linden, star of ABC Television's "Barney Miller" comedy series, was admitted Sunday to a hospital near the hotel at which he was appearing. A spokesman for Community General Hospital in Sullivan County confirmed Linden had been admitted, but declined to disclose details of the illness or his

Other sources said the actor, who had been scheduled to fly back to California from the Catskill Mountain resort area Sunday, was admitted for treatment for viral bronchitis and exhaustion. He was expected to remain in the hospital for two or three days.

Hospital officials refused to disclose any information except to say Linden was not seriously ill. Linden's manager, Jerry Levy, was unavailable for com-

Mrs. Bryan also listed local control over immigration into the territory as a high priority on the list of desired constitutional chang Because of lax federal immigration rules, many residents of the former British islands in the Caribbean have been able to enter the U.S. Virgin islands to the point where "down-islanders," as they are called here, w make up nearly half of the territory's 100,000 population. Mrs. Bryan said the constitutional convention also will try to assert the right of Virgin Islanders as American citizens to the same welfare and social benefits as their fellow American citizens in the 50 states

"Social benefits should be adjusted,"

Mrs. Bryan said other major new proposals will include the creation of a federal appeals court for the Virgin Islands - at present all appeals must be heard at the Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia, Pa., - and the refunding of gasoline taxes to the locally elected government under federal revenue-sharing pro-

Mrs. Bryan stressed that these aspirations must not be interpreted as anti-Americanism

Evinrude and its sister corporation, Johnson Outboards, set the pace for the industry with a new 235 horsepower V-6 designed to meet the growing demand for more outboard power for the increasingly popular larger outboard boats.

The top of the Mercury line for 1978 is that company's most powerful production model ever offered, the Merc V-2000. This 142.2 - cubic-inch-displacement engine also is a V-6 and has a rated horsepower of 200. Chrysler's big baby is a four-cylinder, new 235's during these energy conscious

Pointing to the increasing number of large outboard fishing and cruising boats, Kalbfus said, "There are a lot of boats out there, some production models and some custom models, that are perfect for the V-6's, which also include 200 h.p. and 175 h.p engines. "The 235, like the 200 and the 175, is powerful enough to replace what other-wise would be a twin outboard installation," he said. "It's not hard to figure that one outboard, even a V-6, is going to cost less than two of the V-4 outboards, and it will cost less to operate, too.

Donald A. Milton, general manager of Chrysler Corporation Marine Products Group, said that although their new 140 has more piston displacement, the engine is significantly lighter in weight than others rated in the same horsepower range. 'Chrysler's power-flow lower drive unit that delivers speed from the same horsepower engines has been combined with performance-type pistons rings, high compression, large carburetors and race-style exhaust porting to provide maximum power for water ski boats, sport boats, tournament fishing hulls and family runabouts," Milton said. Evinrude said the increased horsepower and performance of its 235 V-6 was the result of a number of internal changes to the basic 200 power plant. Intake and exhaust ports were raised and new exhaust passage filler blocks were located outside the exhaust ports. A new exhaust manifold evens out the length of the exhaust path from the ports giving the 235 an all new, finely tuned exhaust system. In addition, a new fuel metering system on the carburetor improves engine fuel economy in the midrange cruising speeds.

Rounding out the line for Evinrude and Johnson are motors ranging in horsepower from 85 to 140 in the four-cylinder category, two three-cylinder jobs, a 70 and a 75 h.p., nine two-cylinder engines with a 55 h.p. at the top of the range and a 4 h.p. on the lower end.

And if that isn't enough, both also offer a one-cylinder, 2 h.p. for pushing a dink or fishing on a quiet lake.

Mercury has seven different six-cylinder engines, some V-6's and some straight 6's, ranging from 200 h.p. down to 90; two four-cylinder jobs, one 80 h.p. and the other 50 h.p.; a 70 h.p three-cylin-

Hope Lange, George Peppard, Deborah Raffin. Jean Stapleton, Loretta Swit and Jonathan Winters in between.

"I'm truly a primitive artist, not one of those slick artists who have adopted a naive style," said Mrs. Scott pridefully in an interview at the Genesis Gallery where she is having her first New York exhibition through Dec. 8. "I never studied art. It was when I was trying to have a career as an actress, with plenty of time on my hands, that somebody gave me a box of paints. I had to go to an art store to find out how to mix the oil and turpentine."

that established the style and content of her paintings. A friend whose home was early American in decor expressed a de-sire for a Grandma Moses painting, so Mrs. Scott copied a Moses for her "twig for twig" and signed it Grandma Woos-

"I liked it and made it my style, but I never copied a painting again," she said.
"My subjects are fantasy and usually not grounded in childhood memories, as were Grandma Moses' paintings. For instance, I've never seen a fox hunt but I've painted one. I'm better at outdoors scenes. I'm really not at home with indoor scenes because there always seems to be a spot where I want to put a tree."

Her paintings may not be the stuff of memories, but they are essence of nostalgia. Families arrive at quaintly gabled houses in horse-drawn buggies for Christ-mas. A red-coated band marches down main street in "A Really Swell Parade." The fox hunt crosses the lawn of an antebellum mansion adorned with an American flag. Football teams fight it out on a glorious autumn Saturday.

Q. My mother is in her late 70s. She will soon get a substantial amount of money. How should this be invested for maximum income? There's no need to leave an estate, but invasion of capital shouldn't be made too easy, either, because she likes to spend money.

A. Hey, I like that 1- a late-70s woman who likes to spend money! All too often I get letters from readers in this age level who dwell on self-denial merely to leave more money for children. Also, it's refreshing to have a son worry about his mother's finances, rather than the other way around. Seriously, though, her best sources of income would be corporated bonds yielding either side of 812 percent - or (since you don't seem to want any of her money) a lifetime or refund-type annuity at least for part of her money. At her age an annuity would pay well - even the refund type, which would leave something for you if she doesn't live long enough to collect all she pays in.

"They've done just what they had to do

"It was more of what we were doing to ourselves than what they did," Kansas City Coach Tom Bettis said. "It's a matter of consistency. When you do the things we did, lapses like that are a lack of concentration. I think the opening kickoff got us started on the wrong foot." Houston stung the Chiefs on its first offensive play of the game with Pastorini's 48-yard touchdown bomb to Burrough. Houston's Tim Wilson scored on a 1-yard run late in the second quarter and Houston led 14-6 at the half, but the Oiler defense had to pick up the slack.

The Chiefs rallied in the second quarter, but their comeback lacked scoring punch. They drove to Houston's 7, 16 and 9 yard lines and came away with only six points on field goals of 30 and 26 yards by Jan Stenerud.

Wilson scored on a 1-yard dive to put Houston ahead at 20-6 on the Oilers' first drive of the third quarter, but it wasn't until early in the fourth period that the Oilers turned it into a rout

Rookie runningback Rob Carpenter ran 77 yards to the Kansas City seven to set up Pastorini's 7-yard touchdown pass to Burrough.

On the following kickoff, Kansas City's Tony Reed fumbled and Steve Baumgartner recovered at Kansas City's 28. Pastorini hit tight end Mike Barber for 23 TEXAS TECH FANS

The Cowboys now have a 9-2 won-lost record and a 2-game lead in the National Football Conference Eastern Division over the St. Louis Cardinals, 7-4. The Redskins, now 6-5, still have an outside chance for a wild-card berth - they meet St. Louis in two weeks — but the odds against it are prohibitive.

Up to that point, the Cowboys were unable to move the ball on the veteran Redskins' defense although they blew a touchdown in the first quarter or a fumble by Robert Newhouse on the 1-yard line following a 67-yard Staubach to

Tech Cage Slate Opens

By DON HENRY

Executive Sports Editor Gerald Myers wants to try out a few new wrinkles. He wants to try them out in a hurry, too. As a starter, the Texas basketballers will take on Oklahoma Baptist University at 7:30 p.m. in Lubbock Coliseum tonight. And, before the half, the hometown fans will have seen every Raider in

"I plan to use everybody in the game, everybody in the first half," Myers said as he prepared for the season opener. "I'd like to get them in the second half too, but that'll be determined by how the

'We have a lot of new people," he added, "and we want to give them a chance

Tech opens the season as one of the Southwest Conference's top-rated teams. The favorite is Arkansas, but the Raiders have been pegged third, behind the Razorbacks and Texas A&M.

The availability of three returning starters — one of them an all-SWC performer - is partially responsible for the high ranking. Also, the presence of an abundant recruiting adds to the luster.

A year ago, the Raiders posted their second straight season with 20 victories, finishing third in the SWC tourney with a so far." said Myers. "We've been shooting well. I think we will be able to do more things with this team. I think we'll press more defensively, and I think we can run more on offense.

For sure, the lineup will be altered. Mike Russell, the 6-7 senior who averaged 22.2 points a game in winning all-SWC honors a year ago, has been moved from center to forward, with 6-7 Joe Baxter, a transfer from Lon Morris JC, filling in at the pivot.

Returning starters Geoff Huston, 6-2 junior from Brooklyn who averaged 10 points a game a year ago, will be outside. along with Mike Edwards, a 6-3 forwardguard who started last year. The fifth starter will be sophomore letterman

Kent Williams. a 6-5er from Hobbs. Expected to get into the action early are 6-0 guard Tommy Parks, a transfer from Midland College; freshman Ralph Brewster (6-8) from El Paso Bowie; 6-4 Thad Sanders, a sophomore from Beaumont: and 6-6 Ben Hill, a sophomore transfer from New Mexico Junior Col-"Brewster gives us more quickness and rebounding," said Myers.

While the Raiders will be seeing their first court action, OBU comes in with four games to its credit. The Bison won their first fo the year, 86-64 at home Sat-urday night against Arkansas Baptist.

Earlier, they had lost to Cameron State and Southeastern Oklahoma and to Ouachita Baptist.

The visitors are expected to come with a lineup of 6-3 Buck Alexander, 6-5 junior Charles Harvey, 6-5 junior Bob Hoffman. 6-6 Corky Shelby and 6-3 freshman Skip Masters, Alexander and Hoffman have been the big scorers thus far.

Tonight's battle starts a busy week for the Raiders. They play on the road against New Mexico State Wednesday night, then return home to host McNeese State and Air Force Friday and Saturday

Steelers Climb To Top Of AFC Central Loop

The Pittsburgh Steelers climbed into first place in the wild four-team battle in the American Football Conference's Central Division while Los Angeles, Minnesota, Denver and Dallas strengthened their playoff chances with victories Sunday as the National Football League's regular season rolled into its final month.

Pittsburgh beat the New York Jets 23-20 as Terry Bradshaw threw two touchdown passes and the Steelers' defense intercepted five passes. That raised the Steelers' record to 7-4 and gave them a one-game lead over the other three AFC Central teams - Cleveland, Cincinnati and Houston - with three weeks to go in Cleveland dropped out of a tie for the lead by losing to the Los Angeles Rams 9-0, while Cincinnati whipped the New York Giants 30-13 and Houston beat the Kansas City Chiefs 34-20, moving into a tie for second place.

The victory by the Rams, 8-3, kept them two games ahead of Atlanta in the National Football Conference's West Division. The Falcons, 6-5, kept their divisional title hopes and wild card playoff chances alive by blanking the Tampa Bay Buccaneers 17-0.

Minnesota, 7-4, moved one game ahead of the Chicago Bears in the NFC Central, beating the Green Bay Packers 13-6. Denver raised its record to 10-1, best in the NFL, with a 27-13 victory over the Baltimore Colts. Baltimore, 9-2, plays Giants never recovered.

AFC East runnerup Miami, 8-3, in a cru-cial game next Monday night at Miami. In other NFL action Sunday, the New England Patriots trimmed the Philadelphia Eagles 14-6, the San Diego Chargers nipped the Seattle Seahawks 30-28 and the San Francisco 49ers edged the New Orleans Saints 20-17.

Tonight, it's Buffalo at Oakland. On Thursday, Chicago beat Detroit 31-14 and Miami trounced St. Louis 55-14.

Bradshaw completed scoring strikes of 37 yards to John Stallworth in the first period and 5 yards to Lynn Swann early in the second period, then the Steelers took the lead for good 20-13 with 56 seconds remaining in the first half on Franco Harris' 1-yard run.

Roy Gerela's 37-yard field goal with 5:58 to play proved to be the winning margin as the Jets scored in the final two minutes on a 4-yard pass from Richard Todd to Bruce Harper.

Glen Edwards had two of Pittsburgh's five interceptions.

John Cappelletti pounded 7 yards for a first-period touchdown and Rafael Sep-tien kicked an 18-yard field goal as the Rams blanked Cleveland. Pat Haden completed 20 of 29 passes for 172 yards for Los Angeles and Lawrence McCutch-

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) - Australian professional Bob Shearer birdied the last two holes in steady rain and won the $33,000 first prize by one stroke Sunday in the Champion of Champions Golf

As Shearer faced an eight-foot putt for a birdie on the final hole, Britain's Maurice Bembridge and American Curtis Strange, with 6-under-par 282 totals, were in the clubhouse musing over the possibility of a sudden-death playoff.

But Shearer sank the putt for a finalround 72 and a 281 total, and the most lucrative victory of his career. It made him eligible for the American World Series of Golf next September.

Had he missed, there would have been a five-way playoff. Minutes later Australia's Jack Newton and American Bob Benda tied Bembridge and Strange as run-ners-up. Bembridge shot a 67 Sunday, Strange a 69, Benda a 71 and Newton a

American Bob Byman sank four birdies on the last five holes and ended up tied with Australians Ted Ball and John Clifford at 283. Byman's final round was 67. The 30-year-old Benda brought the biggest roar when he blasted out of a bunker beside the 18th green and into the hole 25 yards away for an eagle - a shot that was worth at least $7,000. His prize was $11,000. "That's the biggest check of my life. I can't stop shaking," said Benda. "I've just got to ring my folks back in Iowa and tell them the tournament when he had a four-foot birdie putt on the 15th. It missed, as did a long putt on the 16th that hit the edge of the cup.

Cunningham, a one-time protege of basketball miracle worker John Wooden, replaced Gene Bartow at the UCLA helm this season and Saturday night's debut against a supposedly weaker Brigham Young team was anything but reassuring.

"I'm disappointed defensively in our club," said Cunningham. "I felt we were sluggish and didn't hustle. I do think we played stronger in the second half, but with three minutes to go and seven points up, we had a charging foul, and took a bad outside shot. This is something we'll have to work on.'

Forward James Wilkes' tip-in at the buzzer gave the sixth-ranked Bruins the victory over the stubborn Cougars. Led by guard Roy Hamilton's 22 points, the Bruins had to fight Brigham Young to the UCLA seemed to have the game in hand when Hamilton went to the free throw line with 53 seconds left and the Bruins on top 73-71. But the junior guard missed the first half of the one-and-one situation and BYU got the rebound.

Cougar guard Scott Runia then tied the contest with 29 seconds left on a shot from the corner of the key. The Bruins called time out, then worked the ball around as play resumed, giving the ball to Raymond Townsend with five seconds left. His shot missed, but Wilkes tipped the ball in as the game ended.

Alouettes Take Canadian Title

MONTREAL (AP) - Quarterback Sonny Wade fired three touchdown passes in an explosive stretch of 3½ minutes of the second half as the Montreal Alouettes broke open the 1977 Grey Cup Game and romped to a 41-6 victory over the Edmonton Eskimos Sunday in the Canadian Football League final.

The touchdown passes - to Peter Dalla Riva and John O'Leary in the dying moments of the third quarter and to Bob Gaddis shortly after the start of the fourth quarter — made an absolute rout of what had until then been a game dominated by field goal kickers.

Don Sweet kicked six field goals for Montreal, breaking his own Grey Cup record of four in a game, as the Alouettes took a $0 lead in the first quarter. They extended it to 10-3 at the half and were about 20.5 offer three guarters.

extended it to 10-3 at the nair and were ahead 30-6 after three quarters.

So completely did Montreal dominate the game, played on a frozen Olympic Stadium field before 68,205 fans — a Grey Cup record — that the Eskimos were unable to penetrate beyond the Alouettes' 30-yard line until the last few seconds.

The lemperature was a chilly 14 degrees. But the cold seemed to affect the play of the Eskimos more than it did that of the Alouettes, notably in the first half when Edmonton gave up the ball six times on fumbles and interceptions while

"We really played bad," said Hamilton.
"But remember that we're still a young team. We have a lot of development go, and if we play together, it will all blend. We were not expecting BYU to be so tough. BYU surprised me. They played well and took good shots."

Form held for the most part in the rest of the Top Twenty as No. 1 North Carolina led the way with a 94-63 rout of Oregon State. Elsewhere, second-ranked Kentucky walloped SMU 110-86; No. 4 Notre Dame crushed Mississippi 111-62; fifth-ranked San Francisco tripped San Francisco State 100-67; No. 7 Arkansas hammered Southwest Missouri State 65-47: ninth-ranked Cincinnati trimmed Akron 91-81; No. 11 Syracuse crushed Cornell 88-61; No. 12 Purdue stopped Xavier (Ohio) 90-82; No. 13 Michigan beat Western Kentucky 87-81; No. 17 Wake Forest defeated UNC-Wilmington 83-79 and No. 20 St. John's outscored Old Dominion 81-75 to win the Joe Lapchick Tournament in New York.

South Carolina pulled off the day's only upset, whipping No. 16 Minnesota 62-55. In other action, Clemson won its own IPTAY Tournament with an 82-75 victory over Rhode Island; St. Joseph's, Pa., beat William Mary 69-60 for the championship of the Spider Classic in Richmond, Va.; Virginia walloped VMI 90-70 to take the Virginia Tip-Off Tournament at Charlottesville, and the University of New Orleans won its New Orleans Classic with a 90-66 thumping of Tennessee-Chat-

Mike O'Koren scored 21 points and Phil Ford had 20 to lead North Carolina's rout of Oregon State. The Beavers asserted themselves only once, holding a three point lead at one time early in the first half. But the Tar Heels scored 18 consecutive points for a runaway 44-29 halftime

"Our own mistakes hurt us," said Oregon State Coach Ralph Miller after watching his relatively young team make 27 turnovers.

"I had no idea we'd do this to them even though they're inexperienced," said North Carolina Coach Dean Smith.

Jack Givens scored 30 points and Rick Robey added 23 to get Kentucky's season off to a flying start. At one point the Wildcats led outmanned SMU by 42

"I thought Kentucky was the No. 1 team in the country before tonight, and they certainly didn't do anything to change that," said Mustang Coach Sonny Allen. "They have everything it takes and of course they didn't even have James Lee tonight." Notre Dame's Don Williams and Kelly Tripucka combined for 32 points to spark the Irish over outgunned Mississippi Notre Dame had five players in double figures in the rout at South Bend.

'We got pounded to death, but we let ourselves get pounded to death," said Ole Miss Coach Bob Weltich. "Any time you let your opponent score 111 points, you've got to consider your defensive effort poor.

Notre Dame Coach Digger Phelps found only perfection in his team's 1977-

"I liked our scoring and playing bal-ance today," said Phelps. "This is the kind of balance that we want all year. We want the consistent offense out of eight or nine players."

Winford Boynes scored 25 points and James Hardy poured in 23, leading San Francisco over San Francisco State. USF thoroughly dominated the second half, outscoring the Gators 53-29.

Marvin Delph scored 20 points and Ron Brewer had 17 to lead Arkansas over Southwest Missouri State. The Razorbacks led only by 29-25 at the half, but quickly built a 39-25 lead in the first five minutes after intermission behind their two top scorers.

Pat Cummings scored 25 points to pace Cincinnati over Akron. The victory was the Bearcats' 61st consecutive home court victory-the longest current major college streak.

Marty Byrnes and Dan Schayes each scored 14 points to pace Syracuse over Cornell. Jerry Sichting sank four free throws in the final minute to help Purdue hold off a late rally by Xavier. Dave Baxter's 28 points and 11 assists led Michigan over Western Kentucky. Wake Forest whipped UNC-Wilmington behind Rod Griffin's 22 points and St. John's beat Old Dominion as George Johnson scored 24.

Jim Graziano scored six of his 21 points in the last six minutes to lead South Carolina's upset of Minnesota.

Notre Dame Gains Rooters Against UT In Cotton Bowl Bout

By The Associated Press
Notre Dame, the team that everyone isually wants to beat, will be the object of much affection during the upcoming ollege football bowl season.

Who'll be rooting for Notre Dame? For openers, only second-ranked Alabama, No. 3 Oklahoma, fourth-rated Michigan, No. 6 Arkansas, No. 7 Kentucky and No. 9 Penn State.

All those teams have one defeat marring their records - so does fifth-ranked Notre Dame, by the way — but the only way any of them apparently will have a shot at the national champiohip is for the Fighting Irish to defeat No. 1-ranked Texas in the Cotton Bowl on Jan. 2.

The Texas Longhorns completed an 11-0 regular season as the nation's only unbeaten major team Saturday by trouncing No. 12 Texas AM 57-28 as Earl Campbell churned out a career-high 222 yards on 27 carries and scored four times.

That gave them the Southwest Conference championship in Coach Fred Akers' while Texas A&M had to settle for the Bluebonnet Bowl against Southern Cal. Five other bowl berths also were decided over the long holiday weekend.

On Friday, Oklahoma crushed No. 11 Nebraska 38-7 and captured the Big Eight title and a spot in the Orange Bowl while Nebraska will go to the Liberty Bowl.

Friday night, Southern Cal edged No. 17 UCLA 29-27 on Frank Jordan's 38-yard field goal with two seconds left in a game that did three things-(1) it got USC into the Bluebonnet Bowl, (2) it sent 14thranked Washington into the Rose Bowl for the first time in 14 years and (3) eliminated UCLA from same.

At the same time, No. 19 Arizona State whipped Arizona 23-7 and became the Western Athletic Conference's represent-

Hogs, Bears Begin Cage Years Strong

By The Associated Press
Only seventh-ranked Arkansas and the young Baylor Bears salvaged Southwest Conference basketball pride over the weekend in the opening round of the intersectional wars.

However, there are 23 non-conference games on tap this week for the SWC to get revenge.

Arkansas blasted Southwest Missouri 65-47 and Baylor downed McMurry 78-52 for the only SWC scalps.

Southern California nipped Texas 65-64, Kentucky whipped Southern Methodist 110-86 and Texas Christian suffered its second straight loss 68-54 to Ohio.

On Friday night, new TCU Coach Tim Somerville made his debut as the Horned Frogs were mauled 125-62 by Clemson. There are five SWC games on tap to-night with Mississippi State at Arkansas and Pan American at Houston in the top matchups.

Former Sharecropper Wages Private War On Ignorance

BANKS, Ark. (AP) - Eddie Lovett has been stockpiling ammunition for his private war since the days he sharecropped in the cotton fields of south

Lovett fights ignorance with books. He'd accumulated about 3,000 volumes until a cold January night in 1975 when fire roared through his first small library, consuming everything. He now has a formidable arsenal of more than 20,000 volumes of hardbacks and paperbacks. They were donated by people across the country who heard of his loss on television. The product of four years of segregated schools in the rural South, Lovett, 61, said he always had an "insatiable curiosity" and "the only way I can learn is through books."

He spends his days reading, tending his small farm and using every spare minute and dollar rebuilding the library and doubling its size.

Lovett lives on his income from crops and carpentry — a vocation he learned during three hitches in the Army. The large, rough hands would seem more accustomed to hoeing crops and chopping firewood than cradling a history of the ancient Greeks.

The military also was a vehicle Lov-ett used to build his education. He toured 14 countries in the Far East,

Europe and Africa and took educational courses the Army had to offer along the way

Lovett retired in 1957 and settled in Bradley County — the heart of south-ern Arkansas' logging and farm coun-

"I've got 9,000 in just these three rooms here," said Lovett, plucking a thick history book from the shelves. "I'm going to sort them, but I can't do that until I get the library completLovett says a public library wouldn't serve his purpose. "I study on an average of 12 hours a day when I'm not working. The public library doesn't have the literature I'm inter-students are dropping out of school. I don't think they're interested in the curriculum they've got in school. If I can't find something I like, then I can't get any enjoyment out of it.

"I study for facts. I don't study for a lot of semantics or cliches or a lot of prestry moords."

To Lovett, "ignorance is a curse. Many people are confused. They think the greatest blessing God bestowed upon man is the material possessions. But the greatest blessing is knowl-

He called his first library, built just a few feet from his house, the Hippocrene Library, borrowing the name from the Greek word which he says means "horse sense." His second library will be called the Phoenix Library because "like the Phoenix bird,

The ultimate personal car from Chrysler

Cordoba TRY IT

Fresh from its triumph as the most successful new personal sized car in the last five years, the Cordoba -1978 version-is new in brilliant new ways and comes to you at an attractive, attainable price for such a superbly equipped and outstandingly designed road car.

Comparison proves its value! The '78 CORDOBA has a longer wheelbase (114.9") and more interior roominess (380.8 cu. ins.) than other '78 cars: Chevrolet Monte Carlo, Ford LTDII, Mercury Cougar, Olds Cutless Calais, Pontiac Grand Prix, or Buick Regal. ... and CORDOBA has more features and options for your driving/riding comfort that are standard equipment.

Comparison proves its value!

Services Set Here For Shooting Victim

Services for 32-year-old Loran Perkins of 1506 E. 6th St. will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday in Christ Temple Church of God in Christ, with the Rev. W.D. Haynes, pastor, officiating.

Burial will be in Peaceful Gardens Cemetery under direction of South Plains Funeral Home.

Perkins died of multiple gunshot wounds suffered during an altercation in Tulia's Sunset Addition about 8 p.m. Thursday. Justice of the Peace Sid Hooper, who pronounced Perkins dead at the scene of the shooting, had not made a formal ruling on the cause of death late Sunday.

Swisher County Sheriff's deputies said Perkins was killed when he apparently became involved in an argument with a Tulia man.

The 34-year-old Tulia man told officers Perkins had been cruising the housing area before he stopped at the intersection of Louis Street and NW 6th Street and pointed a .12-gauge shotgun at him through his car window.

Perkins never fired a shot, police said, but Tulia officers indicated the manwalked up to the car, pushed the shotgun aside, pulled a .22-caliber pistol and fired seven times at Perkins. He was struck in the neck, right arm, and left

The man, who turned himself in to Tulia police, was not arrested pending further investigation, according to sheriff's Monument Hill State Park, about three miles south of La Grange, overlooks the valley of the Colorado River.

It is a peaceful place, a quiet place; yet, it is a monument to a very turbulent period in Texas his-

"We had to draw lots to see who was goin' to die!" could have been the words of one of the survivers of the ill-fated Mier Expedition into Mexico in 1842.

He might have continued, "Ya see, we broke outa jail down there in Salado an' run off. But, in six days, they had us all back ag'in. Them what was still alive.

"Ol' Santy Anny said we had to be punished. He said every tenth man was to die. So, to pick th' men, the Mexicans put 159 white beans in a jug 'long with 16 black

"Them thet pulled out black 'uns was taken out an' shot. Them so'jurs made us watch our friends

Seventeen men, including Capt. William M. Eastland of Fayette County (where the monument is located), were executed.

A couple of days later, Santa Anna decreed that Capt. Ewen Cameron, the one who planned and led the escape, also was to die. He did. The survivors were taken to the infamous Perote Prison near Puebla where they stayed until 1844 when the U.S. Ambassador to Mexico, Waddy Thompson, arranged for their release.

During the Mexican War (1848). Gen. Walter P. Lane located the graves of the men at Hacienda Salado and had the remains exhumed. The bodies were brought to La Grange by Capt. John E. Dusenbury.

On Sept. 18, 1848, the men were given a military burial on top of what is now known as Monument Hill. Gen. Sam Houston officiated at the ceremonies.

However, this is only part of the story, for the victims of the "Black Bean Massacre" are not the only Texas patriots buried at Monument Hill.

The Mier Expedition was the result of an earlier massacre - the Dawson Massacre of Salado Creek (near San Antonio and many miles removed from Hacienda Salado where ironically the Mier Expedition fell upon hard times).

Early in September of 1842, Mexican Gen. Adrian Woll, with a force of 1,450 men, attacked and captured San Antonio. Woll took many prominent citizens captive.

The call went out and Texas militiamen rallied. One such force was lead by Capt. Nicholas Dawson of La Grange.

On Sept. 18, seven days after Woll had captured San Antonio, the main Texas force, under the command of Col. Mathew Caldwell, defeated Woll's army.

However, about two miles away from the main battle, Dawson and his command of 54 men came upon a force of about 400 Mexican cavalrymen. The site was Salado Creek.

The smaller group was surrounded, and after a sharp, pitched battle, Dawson raised a flag of surrender. As he and his men laid down their weapons and stood to be taken captive, the Mexican commander signalled his troops to attack.

Thirty-five of the Texans were cut down. Only 15 were taken captive. Three of the command managed to escape in the confusion. They made their way to Caldwell's victorious army. On Sept. 19, Caldwell arrived at the scene of the massacre and found the dead had been stripped of all clothing and the bodies had been mutilated.

Caldwelll ordered the dead buried on the spot. The Texans decided that retaliation was needed, so Col. Alexander Somervell led an expedition toward Mexico.

After finding the town of Guerrero abandoned, Somervell called off the march. Most of the men revolted against the decision. They elected Col. William S. Fisher as their new commander and pressed on. There were only 308 men in the small army.

Just across the Rio Grande on Christmas Day, the army attacked a Mexican army detachment commanded by Gen. Ampudia at the little town of Mier.

The battle lasted 18 hours before the Mexicans called a cease fire. Ampudia informed Fisher an additional 1,500 troopers had joined his forces. The Mexican general called for the Texans to surrender to keep from being killed.

As it turned out, the general had lied, but it was too late - the Texans had already surrendered. They were marched through the mountains to Hacienda Salado where the "Black Bean Massacre" occurred.

When the "Men of Mier" were buried at Monument Hill, so were the 35 victims of the Dawson Massacre. A delegation of Fayette County citizens brought the remains from the Salado Creek battlefield for the special ceremonies. In 1907, the Texas legislature and the Fayette County officials purchased the plot of land where the concrete burial vault was located. A .36-acre memorial park was es-

A new burial vault was constructed over the old one in 1933, and Monument Hill became a state park in 1936. During the official ceremonies in '36, a $10,000 monument - a 48-foot stone, bronze and polychrome structure - was dedi-

Monument Hill remained Texas' smallest state park until 1956 when the archbishop of San Antonio deeded an additional 3.58 acres. A picnic area and scenic overview of the Colorado River have been developed on the enlarged site.

The park promises to get even larger, according to "Tiny" Jones, park superintendent. The state has acquired an additional 150 acres—the Frisch Auf! Village, which includes the Kreische Brewery and Kreische Home.

Plans are to reconstruct the Ba-varian brewery and to enlarge the picnic facilities of the present

The old home and brewery are more than 140 years old, according to Jones. The brick work was done by a Mr. Hortzen, a master brick

"Did you realize that Diana's Doll House, 50th Street at Indiana Avenue, is much more than a junior store alone?

To emphasize that fact, that mothers and business women, too, can depend upon Diana's for fashion at moderate cost, just as has the younger set, special events have been announce

To correctly convey the situation of a full size range, from 4's to 14's in a distinct department at Diana's Doll House, a "Grand Opening" of the expanded department is underway, continuing through Tuesday.

Newest Furs

Highlighting the celebration is a fur showing, with informal modeling of gorgeous new furs from Beverly Hills. Included are fox, mink, lynx, chinchilla and more. Also the furs will be shown at a luncheon today at the Unversity-City

Every fur piece is marked by impeccable design and craftsmanship; Diana would have it no other way.

It all is to emphasize the fact that mother-daughter shopping comes easy at Diana's, whether the desire is sportswear, dresses, holiday apparal, formals, matching accessories and all.

Smoke Detection Alarms Seen Essential As Safety Factor

"Because fire and smoke detection systems can save lives and possessions.

(1) There is a residential fire every 20

(2) 6,000 persons die in residential fires

(3) 75 per cent of these are from gas and smoke (asphyxiation); (4) 45 per cent of deaths are under 5 and over 65: (5) 200,000 Americans are injured by fire each year;

(6) Nearly 700,000 fires occur in American homes each year with an excess of $874,000,000 damage."

"Smoke is the primary killer in fires!"
Recognizing this, isn't it time to check with Custom Sound Security Systems and let them explain and install the NuTone
Smoke Detection Alarms that are selfcontained automatic fire alarm systems that every family can afford?

Statistics show that most fatal residential fires begin as slow, smoldering fires. Smoke reveals the presence of fire much sooner than does heat. Early warn-ing of smoke from fires can make the difference between saving lives or falling victim to this insidious killer. Before flames every reach them, 75 per cent of the victims of fire succumb to lethal smoke. (And most of these deaths occur at night when the family is sleeping.)

There are two types of smoke detectors that alert one to fires: photoelectric detectors and ionization detectors. They work on entirely different principles. According to Custom Sound Security Systems, tests have indicated that photoelecters to the security security to "So . . . shouldn't NuTone Photoelec-

"These openers, and also the NuTone burglar alarms, can be definite safety factors, a real consideration for one's family, in winter or summer, day or night."

Custom Sound Security Systems, located at 2802-B York Ave. (just east of Slide Road and north of the 34th Street-Brownfield Highway cutoff) sells its line of very practical products at retail, also installing these when desired, and serves as authorized NuTone service center in the area. The prestigious NuTone line, stocked right at the firm, includes:

(1) Garage door openers; (2) Intercom systems;

(3) Built-in stereo systems; (4) Built-in vacuum systems:

(5) Burglar and fire alarms; and (6) Smoke detectors.

Custom Sound Security Systems, with a 25-year tenure in Lubbock, was purchased two years ago by W.C. "Wimp"

Lawrence, eight-year resident with 30 years experience in the field.

The firm has been at its present functionally attractive quarters since the first of this year, and the displays and helps provided there, together with the merchandise, make a visit there most rewarding. Come by or call "Wimp" Lawrence at 795-6543, for new revelations in convenience, safety and satisfaction.

Supplying to contractors as well as the general public, the firm knows area needs and stocks accordingly. Further-more, it is licensed and bonded.

More about the NuTone residential intruder-fire alarm systems, a sensible alternative to worry:

The burglar alarms are available to fit any budget, for a new or existing residence, custom designed to fit customer preferences. Available are local and monitoring systems.

"NuTone intruder-fire alarm systems are on guard 24 hours a day, whether one is at home or away, awake or asleep. These systems do not intrude on your lifestyle . . . and they help make sure no one else does!" Rugged, packed with features, the Nu-

By way of introducing the newest staffmembers, Peggy Tooke and Regina Parrish, these two are presently offering frostings for $20 and Uni Perms for

Not only these, but also Hazel Cagle, Lou Cox, Elsie Borden, Kaye Rebber, Jo Ann Fannin, Sharina Bush and Estella Lova are on hand to render the finest in beauty services.

(Lou is a specialist in painless hair removal, too, it is noted.)

At this season of the year, with its added demands for beauty attention, it is pointed out that the best hairstyles begin with the proper cut. This fact is well recognized at the Holiday Salon and is appreciated by its customers.

The entire staff at the Holiday Salon of Beauty has just returned from a special Haircutting Seminar where they studied under some of the nation's greatest hair cutters, together with experts from other nations.

'We learned many new cuts and analyzing techniques for achieving the best results in the newest trends." The staff at Holiday is excited about the new cuts, together with all the specialties of this better salon. Manageability for care at home is a key consideration of the stylists, with consultation provided for better results at home for correct care of the new cuts. For Men and Women Expert hair care for both men and FAMILY EXUDES ENTHUSIASM — Two members of the Alvin Neugebauer family of Slaton have recently been fitted with hearing aids by Sonotone-Lubbock. The accompanying are daughter, She la; son, Shelby; and Mr. Neugebauer.

Longtime Area Residents Profess New Hearing Enjoyment, Credit Sonotone

"It makes a difference when you can hear people."
"And now I can hear myself walking: I can hear water running; I can hear the refrigerator come on; I can even hear myself sneeze!

All this most likely is taken for granted by just about all of us, but it is a new experience for Mrs. Alvin (Lena) Neugebauer of Rt. 2, Slaton.

To make the revelation doubly rewarding, the Neugebauer's daughter, Sheila, 15, also has experienced a hearing prob-lem: and both she and her mother have recently been fitted with Bicros aids

Fitting with aids at Sonotone-Lubbock almost became a whole-family project. But Louise Bills, certified hearing aid audiologist, was completely honest in her assessment and suggested other courses for Mr. Neugebauer and for a son, Shelby, 13. She declined to fit Alvin, suggesting instead that he consult further with physicians. And for Shelby who has a slight loss, she suggested that

Cites Advantages

Mrs. Neugebauer also made several other pertinent observations in both personal visits and in telephone conversations with Louise and others.

"I formerly had to turn my head to hear; no more. "I had never heard well and had understood when a child that I needed surgery. "Now, I hear sounds I never heard before: I never thought anyone could help

"Really. I feel like a different perso and the aid does not bother me at all. I wore it to church immediately, after fitting on Saturday, though I had been advised to wait some four weeks before wearing it to church.

Others Helped

Such is the testimonial of the Neugebauer family, a household that is one of the many throughout the area whose lives have been made richer because of the understanding, the quality products, the professional knowledge and the desire to serve evident at Sonotone-Lub-bock, 2318 Broadway, phone 762-5469.

A highly qualified staff serves at Sonotone-Lubbock, headed by Louise Bills who has been heaped for decades with honors from customer and manufacturer alike. Also on hand is Ralph Huntington, long familiar on the team at Sonotone-Lubbock, and newest staffmember Flo Miller

Each take personal interest in the people with whom they contact at both the business office and in the course of calls made within homes of the area.

"If you have not become acquainted with them, there is no reason to delay

Individual hearing tests, at no obliga-tion: personalized fitting, frequent checkups and the interested care of a Sonotone consultant is the service one can expect and appreciate without exception at Sonotone-Lubbock.

"If you have a hearing problem or suspect thay you may have one, why not stop by or call at Sonotone-Lubbock now. That visit or call you make there may be the most important one you will ever

Tuftwick Special Purchase Results In Unique Savings

There is a tremendous "special pur-chase" opportunity now available at Tuf-twick Carpet Co., Slide Road and Brownfield Highway in Lubbock.

Tuftwick and a major manufacturer (Milliken) have combined efforts to offer area customers two of the latest carpet styles in an array of color combinations, at actual savings of $3 to $4 per yard.

Involved are the new Scupitura and Pebblebrook styles, both 100 per cent continuous filament nylon, sculptured patterns, and the quality Autoclave heatset yarns that insure a superior appear-
