Hill Ruling To Oppose Farmland Tax Break

AUSTIN (UPI) — Attorney General John Hill Monday indicated he will rule taxing agencies in Texas cannot base taxes on agricultural lands on productive values unless the state constitution is amended to permit such tax breaks.

Hill, at a news conference called to discuss an energy resolution, said he will announce his opinion formally today at the state convention of the Texas Farm Bureau in Houston, and said it will be consistent with past opinions requiring a constitutional amendment for agricultural productivity taxes.

House Speaker Bill Clayton and Comptroller Bob Bullock have said they think a bill by the 1977 legislature authorizing the agricultural taxes can be implemented without changing the state constitution.

The attorney general told reporters he signed the opinion Monday, but said it was a political decision to request an appearance before the Farm Bureau and announce his ruling at that time.

The Farm Bureau filed a brief with Hill contending the agricultural tax law could be implemented without constitutional "I think my opinion is imminently cor-rect," Hill said. "It could hurt me some politically but I'm not worried about that. I just want the truth out so when I am governor in 1979 we can come down here and deal effectively with this issue."
Hill had ruled earlier that a constitutional amendment was necessary in order to validate the tax break for farmers and ranchers, and asked Gov. Dolph Briscoe - whom he is challenging in the 1978 Democratic primary — to permit a July special session of the legislature to approve such an amendment.

He said the issue was shuffled back to his office for political reasons.

"It was speculated that the reason it was sent back to the attorney general was to embarrass me politically, that if I ruled a constitutional amendment was necessary that it could be turned into a charge that I was opposed to farmers and ranchers, which is contrary to my position," Hill said.

He said the position of Clayton and Bullock that no constitutional amendment is necessary is a hoax on the people

The attorney general also said be will take legal action to block any mandatory federal allocation of Texas gas to other states unless there are assurances there will be no residential shortages or job losses in Texas because of the allocations and that Texas producers are paid for the

Meanwhile, the weather picture improved in Northeastern states after the snow storm that hit over the Thanksgiving weekend. For the most part, the sestorm had passed, but flurries were predicted for northwestern Pennsylvania, northeast Ohio and parts of New York state and New England.

Continuing Brisk Weather Forecast

CHILLY WEATHER will continue to dominate the South Plains today as a stationary front keeps the mercury from rising much above the 50-degree mark.

Skies today will be partly cloudy with variable winds at 10 to 15 mph. No pre-cipitation is in the forecast but the National Weather Service expects tonight's low to be in the mid 20s.

Forecasters say conditions Wednesday will be improved, with the high expected to reach near 60. The weather today, although cold, will be mostly sunny, with about eight hours of sunshine anticipated. Highs in the 50s to 60s are expected to continue through the remainder of the week, with the chance of rain or snow flurriés restricted to the Panhandle.

The snow could contribute to traffic problems for Pennsylvania hunters, with more than a million persons expected to turn out for the opening of deer season. But a spokesman for the state Game Commission said the two-to-four inches over much of the northern part of the state would make tracking easier.

"The weather is not that cold," said commission spokesman Stan Forbes. With the temperature around freezing it would make ideal conditions. Even though there is considerable snow in some areas, I wouldn't expect any problems, except perhaps for traffic tie-ups.'

White House press secretary Jody Pow-ell refused to confirm or deny that the Carter administration would send a delegate. A State Department spokesman conceded there was little chance of meeting Carter's goal of reconvening the Geneva peace conference this year.

The conflicting flurry of invitations to planned meetings in Cairo, Tripoli and Baghdad threw the Mideast into disarray. King Hussein of Jordan, in a televised speech in Amman, pleaded with Arabs to 'reunite ranks and rebuild a unified position." His government revealed its own confusion when it declared it was ready to attend both the meeting in Cairo and the Tripoli counter meeting.

Israeli Envoys Named The Tripoli meeting is scheduled to open Thursday. A Baghdad radio broad-

Begin said he had received and accepted Egypt's invitation to send representatives to Cairo as early as Saturday to prepare for Geneva. He named two top aides as his envoys. Begin again rejected Sadat's calls for Israeli withdrawal from all Arab territories occupied in 1967 and establishment of a Palestinian state. He appealed to Israelis to stop demanding diplomatic concessions to the Arabs to reward Sadat for visiting Israel Nov. 19-21.

Asks For Chance

"I appeal to the various parties: negotiations have begun; give us a chance, Begin said, defending his position that Israel should not promise concessions before peace negotiations start.

The Knesset passed a motion supporting Begin's policy 57-4 with 29 abstentions. The abstentions were by the opposition Labor Party, which argued during a sometimes stormy debate that Israel must declare itself ready to make territorial concessions for peace. Low Income Areas' Schools Favored, Officials Testify CHILDREN IN high-minority, low-income areas on the city's north and east sides get the best educational opportuni-ties Lubbock has to offer, school officials Monday told U.S. Dist. Judge Halbert O.

They said schools in economically depressed neighborhoods get more money, teachers and instructional programs than campuses in affluent areas. Also, school officials presented their strongest rebuttal yet to U.S. Justice Department allegations that planning and construction of schools in the northeast have been haphazard and substandard.

Attorneys hope to conclude their presentation of evidence in the school construction and desegregation hearing about noon today.

At that time, they disclosed after a brief conference with the judge, Woodward may make some "significant" announcements regarding the case and how it will proceed. Testimony on Monday, the eighth session on Justice Department motions to block new schools outside Loop 289 and require Lubbock to implement a comprehensive desegregation plan, focused largely on physical, fiscal and academic comparisons of schools in the city. Dr. E.C. Leslie, assistant superintendent for administration, said the department is wrong in claiming that schools in predominantly minority areas have been poorly planned and that some northeast schools were built solely to accommodate white flight in the 1960s.

Leslie said regardless of area or racial make-up, schools here have been built only when surrounding campuses have filled up and other attempts to relieve ov-ercrowded conditions have failed.

Always, he said, location of new facili-ties has conformed to a neighborhood-school approach, placing schools "where the people are...

"This philosophy has been followed consistently throughout the school system, in the southwest as well as in the northeast," Leslie said.

To support that point, he reviewed the construction of various schools across town, noting that when they were built, nearby campuses were at or over capaci-ty. Leslie also detailed the use of optional attendance zones - which the Justice Department says have been tools of seg-

Reservation Indians Flee Dakota Bigfoot 'Invasion'

LITTLE EAGLE, S.D. (AP) - Indians in this remote hamlet on the Standing Rock Reservation are so convinced that Bigfoot is roaming nearby that some are carrying guns or moving out.

"I couldn't stand its running around shrieking all night," the Rev. Angus Long Elk said of the sound attributed to the legendary creature.

"It was doing it all the time," he said. "And about two weeks ago my wife saw it at night while she was down by the river. She's been afraid ever since and wanted to ture whose existence never has been documented despite sporadic sightings in North America - have been reported in Little Eagle since September.

Numerous sightings of such creatures have been reported throughout the West, particularly in the Pacific Northwest. Many have been proven hoaxes, most recently a May 15 claim by a half-dozen passengers on a bus headed toward Vancouver. Four men later admitted they had staged the incident with a $200 monkey suit and shoulder

The Sioux on the 2.3 million acre Standing Rock Reser vation, which straddles the border between North and South Dakota, call the creature "Taku He." In the Pacific Northwest, it is known as "Sasquatch.

Regardless of its name, many of the 60 Little Eagle residents fear that Bigfoot - or several of the creatures are hiding in the thick scrub cottonwoods that surround the community, says Gary Alexander, whose general store has become the local Bigfoot information center Alexander said the creatures have been described as between six and nine feet tall and weighing 600-900 pounds. He said one of the larger ones is reported to be dark in color and another is light-colored. A third Bigfoot reportedly is smaller, at about six feet and 400 pounds, he LeMar Chasing Hawk said he was confronted by a Bigfoot lurking 10 feet away on a path bordered by scrub bushes outside his backyard. He said the incident occurred one September night and that he has carried a rifle for protection ever since.

"I didn't stay around long enough to find out what it looked like," he added. "I turned around and ran for home and didn't look back." Authorities have asked those who remain in Little Eagle not to carry weapons — even tranquilizer guns — for fear of injuring each other. But many ignore the pleas. "We're not out to hurt it," one hunter said. "We're all carrying .22-caliber rifles or .22-caliber magnums."

Ed Meller, an oil-products distributor, has set up a camper equipped with a tape recording system on Chas-ing Hawk's property. The animal showed up at the van about two weeks ago, and two of them appeared twice around 4 a.m. last Wednesday, he said. WASHINGTON (UPI) - Arctic air will stay farther north this winter, the National Weather Service predicted Monday, with less widespread cold in the na-

There is a 55 percent chance it will be wetter this winter in northern California, the rest of the Pacific Northwest, the northern Rockies and the Northern Plains as far east as the Dakotas. Above average rain and snow also are indicated from the Mississippi River eastward into the Appalachians. It is expected to be drier than usual this winter in southern California, the Southwest and southern Plains. 'The pattern is more balanced and that means less extensive cold than last year," said Dr. Donald Gilman, director of the long-range forecast office. "I think it would be pretty hard to match last year." Gilman said the outlook was based on indications the upper altitude winds responsible for directing weather patterns across the country will flow more from the west to the east than they did last winter.

"The flow across North America last winter was coming rather strongly from the northwest and north, bringing the cold highs down from the Arctic very rapidly and very consistently," Gilman said in an interview.

"We look for less of that this year and more storms coming in from the Pacific along their more typical tracks, with the cold air getting down into the country somewhat but not nearly as deeply as last year. The long range forecast for last winter correctly predicted much of the nation would be colder than normal, but Gilman said there is no way to predict the extreme cold that plagued the eastern half of the nation.

The new outlook, covering December through February, predicted belowaverage temperatures from the Columbia River Basin in Washington and Oregon eastward through the Northern Great Plains to the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence Valley, covering northwestern New York state and northern Gilman said much of California, the Great Basin of Utah and Nevada and calendar, but Wednesday is the end of the sleepy 1977 Atlantic hurricane season - marking six months of respite for residents of the East and Gulf coasts but a disappointment for those who study the giant storms.

Since the season began in June, there have been five hurricanes and one tropical storm, compared to the usual eight to 10. Only two of the storms made land, causing limited damage. The rest danced wild patterns in an area northeast of Bermuda not usually crossed by hurricanes.

'We've been experiencing this kind of pattern for the last few years," said Dr. Neil Frank, head of the National Hurricane Center. "We had one-third less hurricanes in both the Atlantic and Pacific this year and the ones in the Atlantic ere weak systems."

The exception was Hurricane Anita, which Frank said was the fourth strongest hurricane recorded in the Gulf of Mexico this century.

"This country and Mexico were very fortunate that it moved over a sparsely Brownsville, Texas, we would still be reading about it.

Frank said 10 persons died when Anita hit the Mexican coast south of Brownsville. Damage reports were unavailable from Mexican officials.

Frank says the 1977 season continued a Iull that began in 1972 when there were only four named storms. He says subdued activity may be due to global circulation systems that disperse the tropical heat that builds up from June to November, creating storm conditions

"We're not disappointed," he said. "If you can get through a year without any major destruction you really breathe a sigh of relief." One person slightly disappointed by the lackluster season is Dr. Robert Sheets, head of the National Hurricane and Experimental Meteorology Laboratory.

But the hunting was so poor that the group went to the eastern Pacific to take a look at Hurricane Heather.

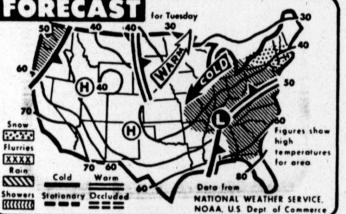

"As far as our program is concerned, we would have liked to see more storms - at least well away from land," said Sheets. "No one wants to see a hurricane hit land."

But the researchers did find solace in Hurricane Anita.

"It's the second strongest storm we've flown through," said Sheets. "And they've been flying research mission since 1959. We had the opportunity to get a look at it with our new digital radar. It should give us our first three-dimensional look at cloud structure."

The researchers hope to gather more data next year by dividing their time between the Atlantic and Pacific. Right now all Sheets can do is wait for the right storm in the right place.

"It's a matter of patience," he said.

Educated guesses about the healthy changes in lifestyle include less cigarette smoking, less eating of fatty foods and chloresterol, more exercise, and earlier and better control of high blood pressure, Dr. Antonio Gotto Jr. told the American Heart Association's annual meeting Mon-

A basic cause of heart attacks, strokes and other cardiovascular diseases is atherosclerosis - the plugging of blood vessels with fatty deposits, or plaques, containing chloresterol.

Studies with monkeys and other animals have produced definite proof that the disease can be reversed in heart arteries. Plaques grew smaller or disappeared in animals fed food containing a good deal less fat and chloresterol than the average American consumes.

Such experiments were conducted and described by Dr. William Connor of the University of Oregon Health Sciences Center in Portland and Dr. Robert W. Wissler of the University of Chicago.

The evidence for reversal of atherosclerosis in humans is still indirect, said Gotto, of the Baylor University College of Medicine at Houston.

He cited figures from the National Center of Health Statistics showing that the death rate from cardiovascular diseases schools refused to participate in the aid has dropped more than 25 percent among American men and women of all races

'There has been an appreciable and significant decline in all forms of cardiovascular disease," he said, adding that such a fall has not occurred in other Western nations such as Great Britain

"We can't identify specific factors responsible," he told a news conference, but inferences can be made.

One is that per capita consumption of cigarettes has declined since 1963. There also have been significant drops in the consumption of milk, cream, butter, eggs and animal fats and an increase in consumption of vegetable fats and oils.

It is quite clear that dietary changes in these directions can reduce chloresterol in the blood stream, Gotto said. Also, diet changes, exercise and loss of excess weight can affect the ratio of fatty substances, or lipids, in the blood.

These changes come in favor of socalled high-density lipids that seem to protect against formation of fatty plaques inside key blood vessels, he said.

A Time For Soul-Searching

AFTER A year in power, the Parti Quebecois, led by Rene Levesque and dedicated to the independence of Quebec from Canada, has done little to quiet Canadian or American fears that Levesque intends to proceed toward eventual separation.

Four-fifths of Quebec's six million people are French by descent, language and cultural heritage, Levesque told a New York audience earlier this year.

(Quebecers) believe we are a nation with alf the essential requirements: a clearly defined territory, our own history, a common language and culture, a collective will to live together and maintain a national identity.'

LEVESQUE HAS promised to hold a referendum on Quebec independence before his term expires in 1981. No date has been set for it and it has not been determined if Quebecers will be asked to vote for total independence-or some lesser form of autono-

Recent polls, showing only about 30 percent of the Quebec respondents in favor of separation, indicate that if the referendum were held today, the pro-separatists would be defeated.

Prime Minister Trudeau has tried to counter the separatist threat by focusing on bilingualism and by insisting that the English-language provinces provide educational, career and other opportunities for their French-speaking minorities.

TRUDEAU DISCOUNTS provincial demands for greater decentralization of authority as the best method of ensuring Cana-

"It is an illusion," he said in an obvious reference to Quebec, "to believe that those who seek the breakup of Canada would suddenly cease to pursue their objectives simply because the provincial governments have increased their power in some areas.

Those who are convinced that Quebec separatism cannot be defused through bilingualism or decentralization are likely to call for accommodation through some form of associate statehood which recognizes the needs and special status of the province.

Those committed to national unity will work to persuade Quebec voters that provincial independence is not in their best interests and that officials who espouse such a course should not be returned to office.

Whatever the final outcome, the next few years will be a time of soul-searching for all Canadians.

BECAUSE ONE member changed his mind, the Dallas City Council has reconsidered its decision not to compete for a $25 million federal youth employment grant. In a 6-5 reversal, the Council voted to accept a $30,000 offer of federal taxpayer funds to file its application for the huge grant.

Eating Crow Pie

Earlier, as The Avalanche-Journal had reported, Dallas had been chosen as one of 17 finalist cities for a $100 million pie to provide jobs for unemployed youths to encourage them to stay in school.

"Somewhere, we have to stand up and be counted by saying this is an absurd waste of the taxpayers' money," Councilman William Cothrum had said at the time. Alas, when it comes to eating federal pie, Dallas couldn't stand up very long. It fell and came up with the pie all over its face.

THE PURPOSE of lower air fares is to encourage long-distance air travel by budgetconscious vacationers, a category that includes more and more of us these days.

Scheduled air carriers cannot afford to operate half-empty flights indefinitely. So they are continually searching for a fare structure that will increase both patronage and profit-

Nevertheless, they are wary of deregulation, which would allow competitive pricing without government interference. The fear is that deregulation will lead to fare-cutting warfare that could force some weak carriers out of business.

One wonders why any free enterprise operation inclined to give good service at the best possible price while earning a fair profit would cling to government regulation. Unless, of course, it's more profitable to be unprofitable and let Uncle Sam pick up the dif-

UN Resolution No Help In Stopping Skyjackers

THE UNITED NATIONS, although passing a mealy-mouthed resolution, has again failed to prohibit landing rights to aircraft skyjackers. Obviously, international cooperation is the only way to defeat this horror to innocent, involved. terror-stricken people. The United States has always tried-and always failed.

Our country has repeatedly proposed iron-clad resolutions designed to stop skyjacking. But the UN General Assembly, by mealy-mouthed actions, cuts through the United States resolutions like a knife through butter. What happens in the wishy-washy UN resolutions is that extremists dominate the General Assembly. Moderates who oppose skyjacking and terrorism are afraid to speak out. They feel that they will appear to be less oriented or loyal to their bloc. Again and again, they privately admit this to the chief delegate of the United States.

IN THE SKYJACKINGS that plague the world, the skyjackers seem willing to commit self-destruction. It is like watching a Japanese making ready for the seppuku, along with the trusted Kaishaku who chops off his head the moment the knife goes home-laying out the red mat, placing the short knife on the table, preparing its plunge with ritual deliberation.

Murteen African and Asian nations held secret. nd closed doors meetings on the United States resolution against skyjacking. Only one voted in favor of it. That one vote came from the Philippines.

U.S. officials know that Dawson Field, the former British Royal Air Force air strip at Qasr al Hallabat, Jordan, is a terminal for Red Chinese weapons flown in from Albania to the Palestine terrorists who turn skyjackers.

The skyjackers use false passports and each cell is a self-contained secret; cell members do not know the members of the other cells. Meanwhile, Israel itself is constantly attacked. About a million Palestinians are under Israel's rule. What flares in today's world news actually began in August 1974, when Israel revealed that it had imprisoned 896 West Bank and Jerusalem

The motives of the terrorists in each country are various and confusing, but, everywhere, their objectives are mainly the same. And most certainly their skyjacking and other techniques spread quickly to other countries.

Accordingly, the world remains helpless. The world is taking swift strides back to the dark ages, to summary justice, the law of the talion and the kingly privilege of the private execution-

Stick With Us, J.C.

WASHINGTON-The safety route taken by Jimmy Carter to rescue his presidency became clear Oct. 20 when he refused the advice of visiting liberal Democratic senators on how to save his energy bill.

The way to pass the bill, these kindly senators advised President Carter, was to stop all further dealings with the impossible Sen. Russell B. Long of Louisiana. Sen. Howard Metzenbaum of Ohio deplored reported presidential agreements with Long on en-Instead, the liberals said they should be the President's partner: stick with us who believe in your program instead of negotiating with the ene-

PNEUMONIA IS one of mankind's oldest scourges. Once one of the leading causes of death yielding to the sulfa drugs in the 1930s.

Then along came penicillin, terrymycin and other antibiotics, which rendered treatment of the disease pretty much routine.

But there are numerous strains of pneumonia bacteria-pneumococci-and they have continued to take many lives every year.

There have also been disturbing reports recently from South Africa of the appearance of pneumococcal bacteria almost totally resistant to anti-

THUS IT IS heartening to learn of the successful testing by medical scientists at the University of California of a vaccine against the bacterium which is the most common cause of pneumoni throughout the world, as well as meningitis and an ear infection that can cause deafness.

It is possible that vaccination against the pneumonia germ could someday be added to the list of shots which are customarily given to children before they enter school.

However, much more research remains to be done on the effects of the vaccine on young children over a period of years.

In the meantime, the family doctor may soon be handed a potent new weapon in the battle against this old enemy.

THE CARTER administration has done the right thing in announcing it will return Hungary's national relic, the Crown of St. Stephen.

Along with a golden orb and scepter and mantle, this symbol of Hungarian nationhood, culture and religion has been in U.S. custody since near the end of World War II.

The Crown of St. Stephen is a kind of footnote to the last chapter of the cold war. Hungarian volume.

The decision to return it is a direct result of improved relations with the United States, as well as changes within Hungary in recent years which have made its Communist regime one of the most liberal in the Eastern European bloc.

IT IS UNDERSTANDABLE that many Hungarian-Americans have been extremely upset by the decision. To them, as long as the crown remained in the United States the hated Communists who took over their motherland after World War II and drove them out of it then or after the abortive revolution in 1956 could be considered but temporary interlopers.

To them, return of the crowns constitutes a recognition of those illegal rulers of their country over and beyond ordinary diplomatic recognition -almost a benediction.

But it is no such thing.

The crown and other treasures are being returned to the nation of Hungary, not the government of Hungary.

And under the terms of an agreement being worked out with that government, they will be placed on public display for all people to see, in-cluding those of Hungarian extraction living in the United States who visit their homeland.

with Long and suggested intimate after-dinner meetings with the liberal senators. Those meetings never have taken place, but the President has conferred more than ever with Long-and reached agreements. Indeed, he brought in trade negotiator Robert Strauss as a master maneuverer to help deal with Long.

NOVAK

The result: the President has quietly faded from the energy battlefield and can expect passage of a bill that, if scarcely monumental, can be labelled a moderate success.

SIMILAR WITHDRAWALS from hard positions have characterized the President's response to his crisis of competence that peaked in early October when a "one-term President" became the catchphrase of Washington.

Besides avoiding confrontation with Russell Long, the President has pulled back from tax reform and his round-the-world trip and markedly softened his rhetoric. That displays the flexibility of Jimmy Carter.

Whereas Lyndon Johnson and Richard Nixon pushed doggedly through the quagmires of Vietnam and Watergate to inevitable destruction, Carter can tack with the winds. Consequently, even though the Carter presidency has hardly begun to solve internal problems of purpose and organization, the one-term label (now spread to the nation's grassroots) is grossly premature.

The President is an avid reader of polls, as were LBJ and Nixon. But unlike them, he acts on their results.

So, at the time of his mounting problems in early October, pollster Pat Caddell was in the Oval Office for long sessions. Soon afterward, Carter began scaling down programs and broad-

IT WAS THEN THAT Strauss, at the threshold of the Carter inner circle for months, was led inside. Even Carter aides who have minimized this relationship were impressed when on Sunday evening, Nov. 6, the President dined at the Strauss apartment in the Watergate.

Insider Strauss, more and more a Gray Eminence for Jimmy Carter, had joined the President's vouthful outsiders.

While Strauss was first put in charge of a dubious scheme to sell the energy plan to the nation, he has predictably evolved into a backroom negotiator with Congress.

That is accompanied by softened presidential rhetoric in baiting big oil. The denunciation of his Oct. 13 ("biggest rip-off in history") press conference was transformed to the benign generalities in his Oct. 27 press conference.

Conduct followed rhetoric. The President is working closely not only with Sen. Long but with the oil industry's Washington lobbyists in drafting an energy compromise.

Next came postponement and drastic pruning of the madcap world tour and, more important, the decision to hold back tax reform.

Still infatuated with his campaign rhetoric, the President was the last holdout on tax reform. But he too now is swayed by arguments on the ne-cessity for quick tax reduction which would be impeded by major tax reform.

SUCH DECISIONS do not go to the inner causes of the Carter crisis of competence. His White House staff remains weak and disorganized, in need of a chief of staff.

One result was the dreadfully organized coastto-coast trip in October, just when he did not need such ludicrous exposure, and what one ad-ministration official called "that ridiculous trip" around the world.

More telling is the lack of theme in his administration reflected in public confusion and poor internal morale. Carter men wistfully note that former aides of John F. Kennedy 14 years later still wear PT-109 tieclasps and talk about "our administration."

Such camaraderie is sadly absent in the Carter administration-partly the lack of personal relationships with the President, partly the lack of any common goal. Here is the source of future difficulties.

This failure may stem from President Carter's flexibility, but the same flexibility is his saving virtue. Disorganized and rudderless though his administration may be, he will not follow disastrous policies to ruin.

He has emerged from his competence crisis as a President who can abandon tax reform, soften oil-baiting rhetoric and certainly deal with Rus-

VIRGINIA PAYETTE: Faking A

TRY THIS ONE on for gasps: The best way Jimmy Carter can make sure of good times in 1980 (a "must" if he wants to go around for four more years) is to rigg a recession in 1977.

A phony recession, if you will. Shocking? Right. But it could be done, and it would be "ideal" pol-

That's what economist Milton Friedman thinks, anyway. Said so, right out loud to a group of Michigan General corporate executives a while back. And Milton Friedman is, after all, the 1976 Nobel Laureate in economics. So let's think about it for a minute.

Why would a Nobel prize winner, a powerhouse in the field of conservative economics, play around with the idea of the President deliberately shoving the country into reverse? Because, says Dr. Friedman, Jimmy Carter needs a prosperous 1980, and it's not going to be easy to nail it down. It's all a matter of chronology, the way good times come after bad, much like a game of fiscal follow-the-leader. ON THE AVERAGE, according to the Friedman theory, things always get better after a war. Usually there's a period of expansion that last from 36 to 42 months. And if the current prosperity follows that timetable, it will begin to peak out sometime next summer. That would bring us into 1979 with a full-blown recession. Things get tricky here because, historically, postwar recessions last about a year and a half. A year would be okay; a year and a half might be too long. But there's no guarantee Carter can hold the next one to only 12 months. If he could, that would make 1980 the year for prosperity's turn to be on top. But this involves split-second timing. Otherwise, the recession would dribble too far along into 1980 and, when the inevitable expansion does take hold, there'd be no chance to cash in on it.

What's the alternative? Obviously, from a political point of view, the best thing for the President to do would be to produce a recession in

That way, the bad news would be over with early in his term and he'd have a couple of years to turn it around in time to run a "happy-daysare-here-again" campaign. The only thing is, a President just can't delberaately turn on a depression. Not out in the open anyway. Not and live to run again.

SO WHAT DOES he do? Fake one? Produce one on the sly and pretend he's shocked and surprised by the unexpected downturn in the economy? Dr. Friedman doesn't think so. The next-best thing, he said, is to try to keep anything from rocking the business boat until 1980. And if he pulls that off, Carter can boast that he masterminded not only the longest postwar expansion ever, but one of the longest of any kind in 150 years. Here's how Dr. Friedman thinks the President will try for it: "He won't attempt to produce a great deal of steam until 1979. I expect he will try to keep things going as slowly as he can for 1977 and 1978, and then step on the gas for 1979 and hope to get a final burst in 1980. The thing to ask yourself here is what would be in the best political self-interest of the President. That's easy. The fundamental thing, Friedman says, is to be sure that 1980 is "not a depressed

'That is a very tough assignment,"he said. "I would not like to have to be the economic counselor who had to guarantee that you could achieve that goal.

OTHER ECONOMISTS aren't so cautious. They admit that the current recovery is slowing down some, but they keep telling us not to worry, that a recession in 1978 is most unlikely. The they rattle off along list of why we're supposed to believe it: no excessive speculation at the moment, lean inventories, no shortage or bottlenecks in the production pipeline, plenty of food, ample credit, etc., etc., etc. Nowhere do they see anything that might trigger a downturn. Bur that's just it. If Carter were going to fake a recession, he'd be sneaky enough to make it look totally unpredictable. Wouldn't he?

And even if he could, he'd never do that just to get elected. Would he? Of course not. Besides, even if he'd been tempted, he waited too long. As of now, things seem to be hummin' along pretty well. Except that unemployment just jigged up to seven percent, and the wholesale price index bounced eight-tenths of one percent, and the stock market is flirting with new lows, and government spokesmen say they're "disappointed" about all this, and ...

Prices Drop Moderately

NEW YORK (AP) - Word of a record U.S. trade deficit in Octopushed stock prices into a erate decline Monday, ending last week's steady advance.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up 8.66 last dropped back 4.85 to 839.57.

Losers outpaced gainers slightly more than a 4-3 margin on the New York Stock Exchange. Big Board volume reached 21.57 million shares, up from the 31/2week low of 17.91 million recorded in Friday's post-Thanksgiving

Nationwide turnover in NYSElisted issues, including trades in stocks on regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter arket, came to 24.51 million

The Commerce Department reported early in the day that the nation had its biggest trade deficit ever in October, with imports exceeding exports by a seasonally adjusted $3.1 billion Officials pointed out that the gap was exaggerated by the dock strike that began Oct. 1. Nevertheless, recent wide trade deficits, stemming primarily from oil imports, have been a subject of concern for Wall Streeters.

Filming 'International Velvet' On Location Dampens Spirits

CHARNOCK RICHARD, England - (NEA) - Bryan Forbes, producer, director and writer of "International Velvet," which is shooting here, got on the loudspeaker.

Will you please join me in singing 'Abide With Me?

And the crowd laughed. It was sort of a wet laugh, because the leaden skies had opened up and the rain poured down on the unhappy folks gathered in the open-air Arena North Charnock Richard is a tiny spot on the map of lancashire, a county in England's north country. It is near Chorley, which is near Preston, which isn't too far from Manchester.

The only reason the "International Velvet" company was here was because of Arena North, one of the prettiest horse show jumping grounds in all of England. And "International Velvet" is a story set against the background of horse show jumping.

The original "National Velvet," filmed in 1944, had a horserace setting. This, 33 years later, isn't a re-

"Dick Shepherd of MGM first suggested a remake," Forbes says. said no, how about a sequel? So I wrote it and here we are.

The sequel has the character Elizabeth Taylor played in the original -Velvet - 33 years later. Forbes approached Miss Taylor to play herself again. He even went to see her in Virginia, where she now lives with her current husband.

"She said no," Forbes says. Officially, she said she wanted to take a sabbatical, that nothing could lure her away from her new home in Virginia. But my intuition told me she didn't want to play second fiddle to a child actress.

And they have probably the finest child actress - if you can call an almost 14-year-old a child - in the lead. Tatum O'Neal plays Velvet's niece, the girl with Olympic horse show medals on her teen-age mind.

Tatum had never done much riding - a pony here, a pony there - but she's learning. She has some pretty good tutors - Bill Steinkraus, who won a gold medal ofr the U.S. Olympic team, and Commander John Oram, who has ridden for Great Britain.

Oram says that Tatum is "an inspired beginner." And she cuts a dashing figure in her formal costume - top hat and all. Steinkraus says that Tatum has a lot of native ability, and that is making it easier to teach her the tricks of dressage and show jump-

Tatum is doing most of her own riding, but there are some doubles for the trickier things. And they also have doubles for the main horse. Since the horse doubles vary in size, they have had to get girl doubles who vary in size, too, so that it always looks in proportion.

Things have been going along well. until the company moved to this location. Lancashire, at least this part of it, is near the Irish Sea, and the weather is traditionally rotten. Forbes tried to get some shots between cloudbursts, but it wasn't easy.

They were paying locals five pounds - about $8.75 - to come an sit in the stands. And they were also offering prizes, a kind of drawing for various Whenever the rains came. Forbes got on the loudspeaker and read off some winners.

"First prize is one week at Charnock Richard," he said, "and second prize "and second prize is two weeks at Charnock Richard.

The crowd laughed, politely. There weren't as many people as they had expected. In fact, the company had quickly whipped up some cut-outs of people to fill up the stands, prompting the local newspaper to run a picture of the cut-outs and the headline "CUT OUT FOR THEIR WORK." Forbes wasn't amused. They had gone to a lot of trouble to make Arena North look like an Olympic site - a fancy new electronic scoreboard, new plantings, and flags of all the competing nation on newly installed flagpoles.

The flags had turned out to be an unexpected problem. They had to have them all handmade. Because of Queen Elizabeth's Silver Jubilee, all of England's flag makers are so busy that they had to go on overtime to fill the "International Velvet" order. Overtime is expensive. The flags are over budget.

A young actor named Jeffrey Byron - Anna Lee's 23-year-old son - plays Tatum O'Neal's first film love interest. Tatum ages from 13 to 18 in the film. Byron says that curiously, his family has been connected with the original "National Velvet," too - his sister's first husband was Clyde Kennedy, and Clyde Kennedy doubled for Liz Taylor in that film.

By the end of the film, Jeff and Tatum are married. And Jeff has to give her her first screen kiss.

"Although that's not positive yet," Jeff says. "It probably will happen. When we do the scene, we're going to do it spontaneously and see what hap-

The rains continued. Then, for a few minutes, they stopped and the company prepared to shoot some more.

"Ladies and gentlemen," Forbes said on the loudspeaker, "when Miss O'Neal leaves the ring, could you please pantomine your applause. With the ground so wet, we don't want the horse to slip or bolt, and we are just afraid real applause might cause that to happen and that would ruin everything and things are bad enough as they are.

ABC said its plans were uncertain, but News President Roone Arledge said that Bob Shanks would be shifted from vice president of specials to vice president and executive producer of the news magazine. Before joining ABC. Shanks was with the successful PBS program, "The Great American Dream Machine.

'News magazine," Frank said, "has become an okay word - they're kind of popping up all over like toadstools after the rain. But it's hard to do a good one.'

Noting that three network newsmagazine pilots or series, including CBS's gos-'Who's Who," failed last season, he claimed to have no magical formula himself. The industry's impulse, however, has always been to copy faithfully the successful pioneer.

"We will find out only by experience," Frank said, "and anybody who tells you he knows is full of it.

Neither ABC nor NBC disclosed a time slot, but NBC has ruled out head-to-head competition against "60 Minutes," which usually finishes in the top 10 of the A.C. Nielsen weekly ratings in its time period of 7 p.m. Sundays. And ABC presumably has little enthusiasm for such a fray.

Hewitt said that he would not like to change the time period, which is limited on Sunday to news, public affairs or children's programs, but that he believed the show would be almost as successful anywhere. It's now up against "World of Disney" on NBC and "Hardy Boys" and Nancy Drew" on ABC

Hollywood Explores New Field: Subculture Of Rock 'n' Roll

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Hollywood, having churned its way through war, sex and the Old West, has discovered a mother lode of relatively untouched material

- rock 'n' roll. Sure, there were some beach blanket films in the 60s, and there were the Beatles films, too. But in the case of the former, music was just another piece of scenery, like Don Rickles and Annette's twopiece bathing suit. As for the Beatles, well, they were the Beatles. You got the impression the cameras just went along for the ride in those films.

But with "A Star is Born" - the Streisand-Kristofferson epic of self destruction, rock style, it became apparent that rock had something filmmakers ought to look into. The rock 'n' roll subculture, with its sometimes nihilistic tendencies could produce some good drama. There was more in that well than a bunch of kids dancing on the beach.

Rock stars, see, often live recklessly and die young. Instant legends. The perfect fodder for Hollywood.

With that in mind, a young entrepenuer named Fred Bauer has come up with what sounds like the perfect idea for a movie — "The Buddy Holly Story."

Holly, you may remember, was the Great White Father of rock 'n' roll, less a hillbilly than Elvis, less blues-based than Like so many rockers who followed him. Holly's star burned bright and fast. He was killed in an airplane crash in 1959 at the age of 22, two years after hitting the big time.

Bauer, a television rock show producer, saw gold in the Buddy Holly story. He sought out Holly's widow, bought the rights to the story, and spent four years hustling the money to produce the film.

But Bauer knows he's going to have to heat some drums to interest moviegoers in a film about a man who died nearly 20 years ago. Holly may be prime stuff to rock fans, but Bauer's not interested in a rock fan's in-flick. He wants to make day, as he was banging the Holly drums at the old Selznick studio. "Ford used to say, "Tell the legend, not the truth.' We are doing the legend of Buddy Holly." "Holly has a cult following, but I'm not fool enough to think that everybody out there knows who he is," Bauer continues. "But they sure as hell know his muues. "But they sure as hell know his mu-

On that point, Bauer couldn't be closer

You know Buddy Holly's music, whether you think you do or not. If you don't remember "That'll Be the Day" and "It Doesn't Matter Any More" from the 1950s, you may recall Linda Ronstadt's hit versions of those Holly tunes in the

In fact. Miss Ronstadt is currently riding high in the charts with another Holly tune, "It's So Easy.

'They (the potential audience) are familiar with the music," Bauer says. "I think they want to know where rock and roll came from.

But there's more to the Buddy Holly story than music, and that's the story itself. And Bauer says that's the main strength of his film.

Holly was a poor white kid from Lubbock. Tex. His parents didn't like his funny music, his girlfriend nagged him to go to college to have something to fall back on, and people in the music business couldn't understand how a white boy could make that good rock 'n' roll.

He was rejected and generally treated in a rotten way until a Buffalo, N.Y., disc jockey heard a demo of his, and loved it. He locked himself into the studio, legend has it, vowing not to leave until Holly was he married, he was killed, and the phe-nomenon became a legend.

It's a good story. How film novice Bauer will handle it remains to be seen.

Bauer got his partner, Stephen Rash, to direct. It's Rash's first film. Bauer got his best buddy, Robert Gittler, to write the screenplay. It's Gittler's first screenplay.

U.S. Calls For Rhodesian Bow To All Nationalists

Ry United Press-International

The United States Monday called on Prime Minister Ian Smith to accept the Anglo-American plan for full majority rule in Rhodesia and to include nationalist groups now outside the country in his new election plan.

The U.S. move came as Rhodesia's military command revealed that a drive into Mozambique had resulted in the death of more than 1,200 black nationalist guerrillas and destruction of two guerrilla base

"The logic of our position is that a transfer of power through the electoral process must go to the heart of the central aims, not only of the Anglo-American initiative, but of the people there, and that is to end the bloodshed and the civil war," said State Department spokesman Hodding Carter in Washington.

The spokesman added "unfortunately, he appears not ready to recognize other elements we believe are essential to a lasting settlement. These elements are:

Announcement Delayed The State Department spokesman added, "We continue to work closely with the British on the Rhodesian problem."

The announcement that Rhodesian troops drove 136 miles inside Mozambique last week with air and ground attacks against the guerrilla factions came from Salisbury Monday.

The attacks, unprecedented in scope and ferocity, began last Wednesday at the same time Smith was unveiling his plan to bring peace to Rhodesia through a one-man, one-vote majority rule settlement with Rhodesia-based nationalist leaders. Nationalist leaders outside Rhodesia rejected the plan and vowed to continue their five-year guerrilla war. Guerrilla Buildup Claimed Combined Operations Minister Roger Hawkins said the attacks were ordered because of a guerrilla build-up inside Mozambique, Rhodesia's eastern neighbor, and because of increased guerrilla infiltration into Rhodesia. They were the biggest attacks ever mounted inside Mozambique and marked the deepest penetration of the neighboring country.

A military communique reported only one Rhodesian soldier was killed and said the aims of the Rhodesian ground and air attacks "were all successfully achieved. "In excess of 1,200 armed terrorists were killed and many others wounded. Large quantities of war materiel, including weapons, vehicles, ammunition, fuel, buildings and documents were destroyed." Reports from Mozambique said another 650 guerrillas were wound-

UPI correspondent Tony Avirgan, normally based in Dar es Salaam, Tanzania, was in Chimoio, Mozambique, on assignment when the Rhodesians were attacking the Zanla base 10 miles away.

He said Rhodesian jet warplanes dropped bombs on the camp and were followed by helicopter gunships, which raked the base with machine gun fire. Guerrilla survivors told Avirgan that Rhodesian airborne troops then swooped onto the camp and began killing its occupants systematically. Avirgan reported that a large Mozambican column tried fighting its way to the base but was driven off by aerial bombardment.

Bodies Of Youths Found

He said the column reached the camp after the Rhodesians had departed and found scores of bodies there, including boys and girls in their teens who had been receiving indoctrination on the fight against Rhodesia.

The government announcement of the twin raids electrified the white population of Rhodesia. Whites began trading enthusiastic congratulations and praising "our troopies" as soon as the military command broke its silence on the operations, reported by Mozambique earlier. The Rhodesian communique said one of the bases destroyed in attacks on Wednesday and Thursday was headquartRobert Mugabe's Zimbabwe African National Union. It is 55 miles inside Mozam-

The second base, at Tembue, 136 miles from the border, was destroyed on Saturday. The communique said there were contacts with Mozambique regulars but that they did not interfere in the attacks

In Lusaka, Zambia, Rhodesian nationalist leader Joshua Nkomo Monday rejected Rhodesia's internal settlement plans and said the Patriotic Front would wage a guerrilla war against any black government installed by the white regime. He said Smith was still "murdering" young black Rhodesians.

GOP Gubernatorial Bidder Clements Pledges 'Change'

Avalanche-Journal Staff

Bill Clements, the surprise Republican gubernatorial candidate, brought a mince-no-words campaign to Lubbock Monday, saying his 40 years in the oil and gas industry is something Texans need in their statehouse.

He promised that, if elected governor, he will "bring our voice to the decision-making table" in Washington and prevent any national government plunder of the state's petroleum resources.

"I can give the people of Texas a change, and I think they really want a change," said the 60-year-old Dallasite.

What is that change? 'Leadership and management," he declared, claiming incumbent Democrat

Dolph Briscoe has given neither. If Texas suffers from heavy taxation and more national control of the petroleum industry, it will be Briscoe's fault in large measure, Clements said. Briscoe must assume fault for a "terrible mistake" in believing a Jimmy Carter letter last fall, he said. In that letter to Briscoe and Louisiana's governor, Carter indicated he would favor oil and gas dere-

However, Justice Department attorney Steve Gurwin questioned Leslie's figures on how packed some schools were at the time new facilities were built in certain areas.' Gurwin said the figures differ from earlier information given the department by school officials, Monday's testimony often centered on a comparison of eight pairs of schools. Each pair included a northeast school and a southwest school, both built about the same year.

Leslie said that contrary to Justice Department contentions, there were "no significant differences" in the amount of planning and other considerations among the schools surveyed.

Henry Huneke, a homebuilder, architect and city adviser, also testified that the quality of school construction in the northeast has been every bit as good as that in the southwest.

As an expert witness for the school system, Huneke said he found the schools within each designated pair "very much the same...surprisingly comparable

In many instances, he said, northeast facilities actually were better planned and constructed than their southwest counterparts.

Schools within each pair were "identical enough to say that if care was given in one case, care was given in the other," Huneke said.

As for quality of school programs, Leslie said schools in the northeast probably have a substantial edge over southwest

Because of their location in low-income areas, several northeast schools get additional teachers and instructional funds from federal, state and local sources, he

For example, Leslie said, Lubbock's 14 low-income Title I schools have an average ratio of just 15.9 pupils per teacher. In southwest schools, he said, the typical well," Clements said, noting that bigger "real-dollar" defense budgets were pushed through an antagonistic liberal-Democrat controlled Congress during his time in office. He was careful, being in the 19th District, to highly compliment Democrat U.S. Rep. George Mahon for defense budget work, too. Clements called the retiring congressman a "great friend" who had done the United States "great service" in more than 40 years on Capitol Hill. Will having no experience in state gov ernment hurt him, Clements was asked.

At the moment, Clements is the only announced candidate for the Republican May primary, although former GOP state chairman Ray Hutchinson is expected to enter the race. Clements stated flatly he thinks he is the only GOP contender who can win in the November general election. Running will be a "tremendous sacrifice in time, money, energy and everything else." he said.

He's not campaigning for ego or fun's sake. Clements continued.

"If I didn't think that I could win, I wouldn't be here. I need to have this experience just like I need a hole in the head," he said. Clements said he believes he can beat any of the three announced Democratic gubernatorial candidates - Briscoe, former Gov. Preston Smith of Lubbock or Atty. Gen. John Hill - despite Texas traditionally being a Democratic political stronghold.

Clements made no bones, however, that he will have to appeal to Democrats and independents, as well as Republicans, to come out on top next fall.

State and national Democratic leaders already are "climbing the walls" worrying about the "new factor in the Texas election equation - me," Clements said.

Besides claiming an understanding of the petroleum industry - "and remember, I'm a contractor, not an operator; I don't own a barrel of oil or a cubic foot of gas," he reminded reporters - Clements also claimed kinship with the West Texas agriculture industry.

AUSTIN (AP) — A Highway Department study shows more Texans than ever before are lead-footing it down the road and thumbing their noses at the small white signs with "55" on them.

A Department of Public Safety spokesman said the quarterly report that ended Sept. 30 indicates 74 percent of Texas motorists are zipping along faster than the law allows. Of that number, 39 percent average more than 60 mph and 16 percent more than 65.

"That 74 percent is the highest percentage we've seen," said Jim Robinson. "In fact, out on the interstate and rural highways, we have 86 per cent over 55. The average speed for the quarter overall was 59.2, but on the interstates, it was 61.8" about 70,000 miles of highway. Robinson said part of the enforcement difficulty stems from day-to-day happenings such as court appearences and illness. "Taking all that and averaging it out, it works out that we have one highway patrol unit every 120 miles across the state," he said. "It's a fact that we have to concentrate in urban areas, so they would be spread thinner in the rural Robinson said troopers are writing a million tickets a year. He said about 800,-000 are for speeding.

The 55 mph speed limit went into effect in 1974. Robinson pointed to DPS statistics that indicate Texas highways aren't as safe as they were right after the gassaving law became effective.

As of Nov. 23, 1973, just before the 70 mph signs were mothballed, 3,208 Texans had died in traffic crashes. The same period the next year showed a dramatic change: 2,601 dead. But things began to go from bad to worse with a mild exception in 1976. "The latest figures show 3,063," said Robinson. "If we keep going like we are, we're going to catch back up."

Today, the mood in this West Side ghetto community of more than 100,000 is most often described as one of "quiet frustration." Garfield Park is typical of urban northern ghettos. Steadily deteriorating economic and social conditions, the lack of leaders of the stature of the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., and the growing exodus of middle-class blacks from the inner city have all resulted in feelings of unrelieved despair

In New York City, where widespread looting broke out during last summer's power blackout, the New York Amsterdam Times, the nation's largest black weekly, said: 'The white-dominated city, state and federal governments have failed totally to comprehend the depth of despair among our young people."

In Detroit, which 10 years ago experienced the most destructive civil uprising in modern U.S. history, blacks speak bitterly of the deteriorating economic and social conditions.

"We're still suffering from the same problems in 1977 that we were in 1967," says Julian Witherspoon, a neighborhood activist in the riot-torn West Side. "We haven't seen any of the things that were promised, like employment, housing, better health care."

What I hear people saying is when are poor people going to get something," says Lois Williams, who came to Detroit from Georgia in 1942. "They've struggled through the '40s, the '50s and the '60s. They think the blacks in power are just so much window dressing."

A study by the Chicago Urban League contends that the economic condition of the city's black community has steadily deteriorated relative to white neighborhoods since 1970. 'Historically, the black unemployment rate has been approximately twice that of whites," it said. "Within the black ghetto, some communities have unemployment rates approaching those of the Great Depression. James Compton, Chicago Urban League director, says the study results are probably typical of patterns in other larger

"What we're finding is in Northern communities is that while we may gain some control over the politics, we don't have corresponding control over the economics," he said.

Robert Lucas is director of the Kenwood-Oakland Community Organization in a South Side Chicago neighborhood cent in recent months.

charismatic leaders like the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. and Malcolm X left a void that the burgeoning number of black elected officials and black corporate leaders has not filled.

"Don't ask me about black leadership," an elderly black Chicago woman said caustically. "We don't have any. Those we have are only looking after their own self interests."

"It's a weird period," says Kenneth Cockrel, former black revolutionary, now a Detroit attorney and candidate for City Council. "There's a whole lot of people like me who had a ton to say and really made some waves, but now they're

The flight of middle-class blacks to the suburbs and Sunbelt-states has aggravated the pessimism in black inner-city communities. Mary T. Barry, head of a self-help program for black youths in Washington, explains:
"It's stripped poor blacks of a layer of professional expertise and leadership that traditionally has always been there. This has tended to concentrate the harshness of conditions in recent years."

But she adds, "It's unfair to say middle class blacks have turned their backs on the problem. It's more honest to say their own problems have become more overwhelming."

Blacks in the middle class are only doing what the white middle class has been doing for years," says Francis Kornegay, Urban League director in Detroit.

Marie Bryan, who came to Chicago from the South more than 40 years ago, echoes the lament of many elderly blacks in the inner cities.

"It seems we've just been going backwards," she said. "When I came here, this city was looked on as a paradise. People don't see the rainbow sign here anymore.'

Not all ghetto residents have abandoned hope. Audrey and Hiram Wells, for example, remain determined to try and do something to make life livable in Garfield Park.

Their efforts began two years ago with a drive to clean up two vacant lots cluttered with junk cars. The lot is now a Their street is also part of a pilot housing rehabilitation program to spruce up decaying homes and correct building home violations.

"You get frustrated sometimes, but where there's life, there's always hope," says Mrs. Wells, 68. "I'd like to see the day when all around where we live is pretty, not just this block."

"People love this community," adds Wells, a 71-year-old retired caterer. "They don't want to see it go down the drain. But it's dying from lack of attention."

Just a half-block away from Wells' trim two-story brick home with its sparkling lawn and colorful flower beds is grim evidence of that neglect.

Empty storefronts, some charred by fire, face each other across a crumbling commercial strip. Trash collects in the the sides of buildings.

Pent-up frustrations erupted into a civil disturbance nine years ago in Garfield Park. Mrs. Wells recalled the rioting that engulfed a two-mile stretch of Madison Street, three blocks south of her home.

"It was frightful," she said. "We could see the flames and smoke from our back porch. You could hear explosions that sounded like bombs going off and bullets whistling through

But few blacks believe the deep-seated feelings of frustration and despair will explode again as they did a decade ago.

"We've gone through that and folks ain't going through that no more," a 52-year-old black Chicagoan says wearily.

Entitled "Household Money Income in 1975," the report released Monday is of Income and Education (SIE), a onetime poll ordered by Congress.

For the first time since the 1970 Census, income and poverty statistics are now available for all 50 states and the District of Columbia.

The new survey shows the median household income in 1975 was $12,158. That's $358 more than the $11,800 median income the Current Population Survey the previous government study - estimated for the same year. "That's not a small difference," said

Gordon W. Green Jr., a statistician who worked on the report. "If someone put $300 in your pocket, you'd feel it. At least I would. At the same time, the new survey estimated there were 24 million poor Americans in 1975, compared with 25.9 million poor Americans estimated during the same year by the CPS report. The new report shows that Misissippi has the largest percentage of poor people - 26.1 percent - while Alaska and Connecticut have the smallest percentage of poor residents - 6.7 percent each. Green said the differences in the two surveys are considerable, but they do not undermine statistical data that the bureau has put out previously. 'The results from the new survey were very encouraging," he said. "It's an attempt to go even further and collect addi-Green said the Census Bureau is working with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to develop a new income survey that will be specifically designed to collect data on income. 'We're attempting to get more complete information on income and non-money income," he said, adding that such material will not be available for several years. The new survey is superior to the government's regular income-counting methods in several respects, the Census Bureau said.

The Survey of Income and Education is based on interviews with 151,000 households, roughly three times the 55,000 households interviewed in the survey to obtain the 1975 CPS information. And the CPS is primarily designed to collect unemployent information, with the income data a secondary objective. The main objective of the new survey was to collect income data with greater precision than ever before. The CPS was conducted in March, 1976, while the SIE was conducted from April through July of that year. Thus, respondents to the more recent survey had a chance to refer to income tax returns for precise income information.

PAUL GRAHAM CO.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supreme Court agreed Monday to decide whether New Jersey can turn down Pennsyvlania garbage, refused to block the government's attempt to dismantle ATT and said test pilots in their 50s cannot be grounded simply because of their age.

Taking action in about 200 cases, the justices voted to review a decision by the New Jersey Supreme Court that a state has the right to prohibit the dumping of out-of-state garbage within its borders.

The justices' eventual ruling, to come sometime before the end of the court term in June, could carry great impact for many states sharing New Jersey's problem of a growing shortage of available disposal sites for wastes.

The cities of Philadelphia and Glen Cove, Pa., sued New Jersey authorities in 1973 after the state legislature passed a law barring "the entry of any solid or liquid waste collected in another state.'

The cities, joined by the disposal firms that service them, charge that New Jersey's law violates the constitutional guarantees of free interstate commerce and a 1976 federal law requiring cooperation in establishing solid waste management plans on a regional basis.

New Jersey officials estimate that some 1.5 million tons of solid waste from each year before the 1973 law was passed. The out-of-state dumping is continuing while the law is challenged

In another case, the Supreme Court turned down an appeal by the American Telephone Telegraph Co. aimed at getting the huge firm out from under a federal antitrust suit.

The justices' action means the government can continue pressing its efforts to dismantle ATT, which claimed in its appeal that it could not be sued for antitrust violations because it is heavily regulated by the Federal Communications Commission and state agencies.

The government's suit was filed in 1974 but has not yet gone to trial. The Justice Department wants to have ATT stripped of its controlling interest in Western Electric, the world's largest supplier of communications equipment, and to separate the firm's Long Lines Department from its 23 wholly or partially owned "operating companies.

In appealing to the Supreme Court after losing its immunity argument before a federal trial judge and an appeals court in Washington, ATT argued that "effective competition" is precluded by state and federal laws "which require coordination...to establish a single unified national telecommunications network."

ATT contends that the pending antitrust lawsuit will take more than 10 years to resolve and will end up costing more than $1 billion

"Because the Bell System is a regulated public utility enterprise (the public) will ultimately bear the expense of both sides of this litigation," ATT attorneys

The justices, seven of them over 60 and the two others in their 50s, let stand a lower court's ruling that jet plane test pilots in their 50s cannot be grounded simply because of their age.

While the decision of the 8th U.S. Circuit Court in the case of McDonnell-Douglas test pilot Phillip Houghton involved only that specific job, its reasoning apparently could be applied to all high-risk or demanding occupations.

Houghton was testing F-4 Phantom supersonic fighter jets out of the St. Louis airport for the airplane manufacturing firm for 20 years when told he was grounded in 1971. He was 52 at the time.

McDonnell-Douglas told Houghton that with his increasing age, there was an increase in the likelihood of risk and harm in such a taxing job. The company retained Houghton in a non-flying job but later fired him after he expressed disatisfaction with his work and turned down several other job offers within the firm.

Houghton then sued McDonnell-Douglas, charging that he was a victim of age discrimination in violation of the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of

The company won before a federal trial judge but last April the appeals court reversed that ruling and ordered that Houghton, now 58, be reinstated as a test pilot if "still physically capable." He had been in excellent health when grounded

Carter's Inexperience Worries Public

By LOUIS HARRIS

Although Americans continue to have a very high regard for President Carter as a man of high integrity and character, worries about his lack of experience, his basic competence and his ability to follow through on the programs he proposes appear to be mounting sharply.

The latest Harris Survey, conducted among a national cross-section of 1,498 adults earlier this month, yields these striking negative results about the Presi-

-By 77-15 percent, a sizable majority feels that "in some of the mistakes he has made, his lack of experience is clear to see," up from a 63-25 percent majority who felt the same way in July.

sometimes seems to be different from what he actually does," up from a 52-35 percent majority who shared the same view back in July. -By 59-27 percent, a majority now believes that the President "comes up with too many new programs, but doesn't seem to know how to follow through very effectively. -By 57-32 percent, a majority also believes that "although he is well-intentioned, at times you begin to wonder if he has the basic competence to do the

-A narrow 44-40 percent plurality does not go along with the charge that President Carter "seems to be mostly style but not really much substance," but this is much closer than the decisive 57-29 percent majority who denied the claim four months ago.

Of course, these essentially negative views about Mr. Carter should not obscure the fact that the public still sees many appealing qualities in the Presiprivileged people and is genuinely trying to help them as President," down only marginally from July's 74-16 percent.

-By 66-21 percent, a majority holds the view that Jimmy Carter "is bringing a new moral tone to the government.'

—A large 87-7 percent majority also feels that "with all the problems he has, he is trying his best to do a good job."

But, significantly, on three other positive attributes tested, Mr. Carter has —A 44-43 percent plurality now denies that "he has learned fast on the job and seems to be on top of everything." Back in July, a solid 64-27 percent ma-jority agreed with this statement.

—By only a 48-37 percent margin, Americans feel that "He has a style that is rapidly rebuilding confidence in the White House and government." Only four months ago, an emphatic 67-21 percent majority felt that President Carter was on the way toward restoring the shattered public confidence in government.

—By 49-35 percent, a plurality now holds the view that "he is proving to be the kind of new, fresh face we have needed in the White House." This is down from the 67-22 percent majority who felt that way about President Carter at the beginning of the supports.

These results clearly indicate that the President's standing with Americans has gone down. To be sure, he can still rely on a deep reservoir of public faith in his personal integrity and political morality. But serious doubts have now risen about the President's ability to cope with the hard business of government.

There has been much confusion recently about certain discrepancies in the overall ratings of President Carter as reported in various public opinion surveys. The findings of this latest poll should leave no doubts as to where the Harris Survey stands. The President's rating is now 52-46 percent negative, down from 50-48 percent negative a month ago, and sharply down from his 59-37 percent positive standing back in July.

Moreover, this latest Harris Survey documents just where the President has slipped. It is clear that the initial faith in Jimmy Carter's ability to govern has been shaken, and he will need a string of solid performances to reverse his City businessmen put "half a million dollars" into a fund for locating, bringing in and initially assisting industry for the 22,000 acres with a $38 million structural inventory.

"I think if anyone will look at the re cord and at the statements I made when I took office, he will see that the office has met most of the goals which were established," Griffin said.

He pointed to the number of felony jury trials as one criteria.

'In 1972, there were only 41 felony jury trials. We had 77 in 1973, my first year in office," Griffin stated. He said the office prosecuted 101 felony

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH DR. GEORGE C. THOSTESON

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can a bleeding ulcer be really serious? By this I mean should a person with a bleeding ulcer wear identification saying this? My doctor, who is treating mine, tells me I will have to be careful. Yet all I get is advice to stay on the ulcer diet. Can you give me any advice to ease my mind about this?

An ulcer is dangerous enough. A bleeding ulcer can be quite serious. It's difficult to be specific without knowing the extent of your ulceration, and I assume you are speaking of a stomach ulcer.

These may bleed slightly or they may bleed a great deal. The bland diet is essential, of course. It could be that in me yours will heal and pose no threat. an ulcer bleeds profusely, you would snow from the presence of blood in the stool, and other symptoms, such as weakness, pallor, even fainting. In this event you would need immediate care. Bleeding from any source can produce anemia requiring blood transfusion. For this reason, persons with bleeding ulcers should have periodic blood tests. The identification tag makes sense

You should have a fuller discussion with your doctor about your individual status. He didn't intend to alarm you. He meant to impress on you the importance of sticking to the bland diet. Other ways to help yourself through this difficult time are listed in my booklet, "How to Cure Peptic Ulcers." Send 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611. Worry, as you know, can aggravate ulcers.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is "coccygodynia," and wuld that cause a sore tailbone? I think I spelled it right. -

You spelled it right. Coccygodynia means pain in the tailbone. The long word refers to the fact that the vertebrae at the base of hte spine resembles the beak of a cuckoo (coccyx). It is thought to be the vestigial tail of man.

Actually, often it is not the bone that is sore, but the muscles in the area. Secretaries get this condition - those who have poor postures (slouching, etc.). The problem almost always disappears with use of a proper cushion for support and better posture. In stubborn cases, massage of the muscles (through the rectum)

Dear Dr. Thosteson: With stroke such a common thing, don't you think people should know what to do if a family member has one? Is it wise to move the person, pick him up and sit him in a comfortable chair, etc.?

The best rule is to do as little as possible while keeping the victim quiet. At most, a person witnessing a stroke might loosen the shirt collar of e victim. The head should be turned to one side gently to avoid choking. A pillow can be tucked gently under the head. If a person must be moved for emergency reasons (if, for example, the person has fallen against a stove or a radiator), it should be done gently.

Except for these steps, time and effort can be put to best use in summoning aid so damage can be quickly assessed and treatment begun.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have always plucked the long hairs from my nostrils - not very often, just when they become noticeable. Now my husband tells me to stop, that it can cause cancer. True or False? I'm frightened. — Mrs. H.L.

Infection, possibly. Cancer, no. It's best to clip, not pluck.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 13 and have had two menstrual periods. I don't know if this has anything to do with it, but after I urinate. I notice a whitish substance on the tissue paper. What could this be, and is it harmful? — A.Y.R.

It's normal following the period or at your mid-cycle (at ovulation). No harm.

Did you know that 80 per cent of stroke victims resume to some degree their former lives? In "Stroke Recovery - Hope and Help," Dr. Thosteson describes the causes and treatment of stroke. Knowledge Of Birth Defects Causes Improves Chances Of Healthy Baby

"Will my child be normal?" is the question that preys on the minds of most expectant parents. But for most parents the question remains unanswered until their child is born and they can count toes and see for themselves

Being informed about birth defects and taking precautions, can ease some of the worry expectant parents experience, said Fran Board, R.N., clinical nurse in the Obstetrics-Gynecology Department at Texas Tech University School of Medi-

Improving your chances of having a healthy baby begins with a knowledge of what birth defects are, and what causes There are several types of birth defects, some more serious than others. Structural defects affect the body's physical appearance, such as cleft lip which can be corrected surgically.

Functional defects affect the body's working parts resulting in color blindness, muscular gystrophy or cystic fibro-

Inborn errors in metabolism cause the body to be unable to convert certain chemicals into other chemicals. A child with galacrsemia cannot produce enzymes to break down milk sugar. If the baby is not taken off milk he can become mentally retarded. Blood diseases such as sickle cell anemia and hemophia are also birth defects. A baby can be affected with one or several types of birth defects, caused by a variety of factors. Some birth defects are genetic or hereditary while others are caused by environmental factors.

There are precautions a woman can take to narrow the chances of delivering a baby with birth defects, but many of those precautions should begin before a woman becomes pregnant.

Any woman who has a history of birth defects in her family or the family of her mate should seek genetic counseling before becoming pregnant.

A genetic counselor can examine the history of birth defects in the family and determine what the chances are that a woman will give birth to a child with a paticular birth defect. In cases where the chances are great, the couple may be advised to adopt. If the couple elects to have children, amniocentesis can be used to determine the baby's condition. If the examination indicates a birth defect is present the couple can elect that the woman have an abortion.

Even women who don't run a high risk should take precautions during pregnan-

She should make sure she is immunized against rubella before she becomes pregnant, warns Board. Once pregnant she should avoid exposure to viril infections.

Board urges expectant mothers to watch their diet in order to avoid birth defects, caused by dietary deficits. "If a baby doesn't get enough nutrition he can starve to death before birth," noted Board. Lack of nutrition can also cause low birth weight babies.

During pregnancy a woman should avoid x-rays, said Board . It's also wise to stay away from microwave ovens since it is not known what effect they may have on the fetus.

While it's essential that a woman receive proper prenatal care to guard against birth defects, many women fail to get regular examinations for a variety of reasons.

It's not so much that they don't want perinatal care as it is they can't find transportation to a medical facility or they can't afford it. Although perinatal care services are free to low income families, many women are embarrassed to ask for it. The neglect in care can result in birth defects that could have been diagnosed early in pregnancy. Although a child may be born without any apparent birth defects, there is a chance that he will develop birth defects later in life. Birth defects such as diabetes and gout may not apear until adulthood, while cystic fibrosis can appear as early as one month after birth.

Once a birth defect is diagnosed, proper treatment can eliminate it or make it easier to live with.

Some birth defects such as PKU (inability to metabolize certain proteins) can be diagnosed at birth through a blood test and then treated with a special diet.

While there is no cure for conditions such as muscular dysrophy, victims can receive phsyical therapy.

Defects such as muliple fingers can be corrected through surgery. Children who are missing limbs can be taught to use mechanical protheses (artificial limbs or Education, for both parents and medical professionals has made it possible to save many more newborns, said Board. Although the incidence of birth defects has been reduced in recent years the statistics remain high, affecting 1 out of everv 12 babies.

While it's unlikely that birth defects will be completely eliminated, Board said that the chances of having healthy babies are improving. Early detection coupled with education are the most powerful tools in the fight against birth

NEW YORK — You thought you had it bad, but consider the case of Jacquie Courtney (Pat Kendall on "One Life to Live") who was hit by a car recently.

"When I tell people," says Jacquie, they immediately assume I was involved in a car accident. In fact, I was hit by a car while crossing a street.'

Jacquie was strolling with her daughter when the accident occurred. Luckily she was able to push her daughter to the curb and curve her own body which blunted the impact although she was still thrown a few feet.

Another "OTL'er" is preparing a country-western act. Jill Voight, who plays hill-girl Becky Lee Hunt, appears on the serial as an aspiring blue-grass singer. During the taping of one episode at the show's Blue Ridge Club, she met bonafide twangers Troy Ferguson and His Country Gentlemen. Troy convinced Jill that she had the talent to pursue a "genuwine" singing career and together they arranged an act around Hank Williams' tunes. The result will be on display beginning the first week of December at O'Lunney's, a country-western club in Manhattan.

"OLTL" fans have another treat in store with the end-of-November return of two favorite characters. Vince and Wanda Wolek. Lee Lawson and Michael Ingram have been signed to portray the couple who were previously portrayed by the unforgettable Marilyn Chris and the first Vance, Antony Ponzini - who was later replaced by Jordan Charney.

Other newcomers to "OLTL" are Bruce Detrick as seducer Clint Buckley and Linda Watkins as Robin Crosley, Will's ex-secretary who offered him a hop in the sack to relieve his aching memories of Jenny. On "Days of Our Lives," Dr. Paul Whitman is being portrayed by Peter MacLean who last appeared on soaps as Scott McKenzie on "Somerset."

Please tell me something about the heartthrob hunk of a guy that plays Chris Kositchek on "Days of Our Lives." -B.P., San Diego, Ca.

Josh Taylor (Chris) is a former attorney. He's from Princeton, Ill., was allstate quarterback in high school, received a sociology degree from Dartmouth, then entered the law school of the University of Denver. After he passed his bar exams he decided to be an actor, which resulted in many TV credits, in-cluding "The Hardy Boys," "Six Million Dollar Man" and TV's "Serpico." And he's single, girls.

Is the actress who played the part of Bert Bauer on "Guiding Light" at one time the actress who played the part of Marge Bergman on "Search for Tomorrow"? - R.B., Silver Creek, N.Y.

Not likely, since Charita Bauer, who plays Bert, has been on "GL" for more than 25 years, going back to the days when it was on radio. Marge Bergman was portrayed by the late great Melba Rae. Melba, together with her screen husband Larry Haines, who's still on the show as Stu, were one of the first comedic couples on soap operas. For certain they were the most memorable.

Does the baby who plays Andrew on "As the World Turns" belong to Kathryn Hays who plays his mother Kim? -

No, tiny tot Jason Ferguson belongs to his parents. But Kathryn says he's a joy to work with and is always cooperative

Judge Turns Down Dickerson's Bid For Jail Release

At a wit of habeas corpus hearing in Clinton's 99th District Court, the judge turned down court-appointed attorney Phil Brown's request to have Dickerson released from jail because of an allegedly invalid indictment.

Brown gave notice he will appeal the decision to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

Dickerson was convicted by jury in August of the Jan. 29, 1971, burglary of the Naomi Miller Martin residence at 4511 42nd St., and Clinton later assessed an 11vear prison sentence.

Brown claims the indictment in the case is invalid because it was returned subsequent to the five-year statute of limitations

The state contends the indictment is viable since it contains information that a burglary complaint had been filed in a Justice of the Peace Court on June 26. 1974, within the limitations span.

Brown argued in a brief that the JP complaint was not enough to give a state district court jurisdiction over the case. Nowhere does the code of criminal procdure state that the filing in justice court of a complaint alleging a felony of fense vests a district court with jurisdiction..." the brief says.

'In fact, the code expressly states that a felony prosecution is not initiated until an indictment is duly acted upon by a grand jury and received by a district Further, the district courts in Lubbock County do not have concurrent statutory jurisdiction over felony and misdemeanor cases, as is the case in many counties," the brief continues.

Clinton denied the relief, and continued Dickerson's bond at $10,000. The defendant is currently being held in the county jail pending transfer to the state penitentiary

Dickerson was originally indicted Feb. 12. 1976, and the Court of Criminal Appeals held the indictment was faulty be-specified.

There were teeth marks on the body and a charred area on the chest.

Dickerson last week lost a bid for a new trial on the burglary conviction. Brown had requested a new trial on several grounds, among them that jurors had considered evidence outside the trial record during their deliberations.

Jurors said in last week's hearing they had discussed the fact that Mrs. Martin had not testified at the August trial and that it was brought out in the discusssion that she was deceased.

The conviction is being appealed, and the question of the validity of the indictment constitutes a collateral appeal.

Brown said he would ask the appeals court to dismiss the indictment with prejudice, thereby making it impossible for the state to re-try the case.

hated myself fat & every new year I promised to really get with it & lose; however it never happened. Finally my doctor advised me, tactfully, to stay out of his office until I decided to lose weight. He just couldn't help me. Out of desperation, not believing, I called for a courtesy treatment, at Pat Walker's. This was the turning point in my life, with a 51 pound loss & several inches; I began to enjoy my life with my friends & family, especially my 3 grandchildren. The Pat Walker program gave me a postitive approach to every day living. Thank you, Pat Walker

NASA Scientist Produces New Handheld X-Ray Machine

WASHINGTON (AP) - A handheld Xray machine which produces an instant image has been developed by a scientist who got the idea while studying energy sources in space.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration, in announcing the new device Monday, said it has high potential for emergency and other field use in medicine, dentistry and industry. Possible applications might include examination of a football player's bone injury on the field, detection of welding defects or gas leaks in pipes or as a portable battlefield instrument in wartime. The device is called a Lixiscope, for low intensity X-ray imaging scope. It was developed by Dr. Lo I Yin, an X-ray re-

Childress Rail Shop Fights Road Project

CHILDRESS - City officials are faced with making a decision, which could result in loss of the railroad shop here.

After receiving numerous requests from residents of the southwest portion of the city to improve a short section of 5th Street, officials recently announced that progress was being made toward the

City Manager David Galligan explained that the block-long stretch of street in question, now unpayed, connects the southwest part of Childress with shopping areas and is regularly used by many Highway department officials here recently announced that the project had been under consideration by their engineers for some time, and that it now appears likely the street will be paved. Lewis White of Childress, highway department engineer, told the city council that cost of the project is estimated at $50,000.

However, the street is adjacent to the switching yards of the Fort Worth and Denver Railroad, and railroad officials fear the crossing at the site would become hazardous if the street is paved and traffic increases.

City Commissioner Bill Brown explained the point of view of railroad officials: "The railroad plans to increase the number of trains going through the switching yards to one every 40 minutes. With that number of trains moving through the crossing, the railroad is worcreased traffic on the street."

Brown noted that the railroad already is involved in one lawsuit concerning an accident that occured at the site several years ago

Railroad officials recently wrote city officials, explaining their position in the

"That way I see it, if the street is paved, the railroad is going to take its shop out of Childress and move it to Fort Worth." Brown said. The councilman further noted that the railroad is a substantial taxpaver locally and that the shop employs more than 100

City Attorney John Forbis questions whether the paving can be done without railroad approval. "I believe that crossing is so close to the switching yards that s actually on railroad property," he said. "Probably the only way it could be done would be through condemnation."

Meanwhile, some residents of the area continue to press for the improvements. "How far do we let the railroad go with threats before we stand up to them?" one resident asked city officials. "It isn't a threat," Brown answered. "It's a decision the railroad will probably make if the street is paved. They just don't want to have to take the responsibility for a situation they feel would be dangerous. And if the shop goes, more than 100 jobs will go with it.

OUTSTANDING HONOR - Maj. William Carney, commander of the 64th Field Maintenance Squadron at Reese Air Force Base, admires the Air Force outstanding unit award presented the squadron Monday by Brig. Gen. Harold Confir, deputy commander for logistics for the Air Training Command. Also appreciating the honor mounted on the squadron guidon are 1st Sgt. Arnold Mathews, center, and Sr. M.Sgt. Robert Schuster. The 410 military and 130 civilians earned the honor for the time period from July, 1975, through April, 1977, for maintaining a high operational aircraft rate. The rating was achieved under Lt. Col. Eckbert M. Hartung-Schuster who currently is on temporary duty at another base. (Staff Photo)

searcher at NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center in Greenbelt, Md.

It is an outgrowth of Yin's research on a concept for studying energy sources in space by converting their X-rays to visi-

"Any device developed for X-ray astronomy studies, where there is a scarcity of X-rays, should have technology of obvious value in medical fluoroscopy where there are many X-rays," Yin said. He said the concept became feasible when the Army released previously classified details of an image intensifier which enables soldiers to see objects in the dark. It was developed by the Night Vision Laboratory at Fort Belvoir, Va.

In addition to the night vision unit, the portable X-ray machine includes a small radioactive source and an X-ray phosphor screen. It is powered by a single pen-sized battery.

The squeeze of a trigger unshields the radioactive source, sending a low dosage of X-rays into the object being examined. Yin explained. The X-rays passing through the object are absorbed by the phosphor screen, which converts them to visible light.

The night vision unit, which employs fiber optics, intensifies and channels the visible light to its viewing screen for image display. Instant pictures of X-rayed objects can be made quickly with an attached camera, using a radioactive exposure about 1,000 times weaker than the conventional X-ray machine, Yin said.

Several research institutes in the dental and medical fields have indicated an interest in participating in a cooperative program to evaluate the Lixiscope.

Florida Trip Not In Cards For Tech Band

The Texas Tech marching band will not be invited to perform at the Tangerine Bowl game Dec. 23, because a "full schedule of activities at the game will permit time for only one band to perform," according to a Tangerine Sports Association (TSA) spokesman.

TSA executive director Bert Lacy is quoted as saying that "since Florida State University is in our state, we feel obligated to invite their band.

Texas Tech band director Dean Killion Monday said he had been told the band would not be invited, but added that he "never even expected to" be invited when he learned the amount allotted 'the university as a whole" for expenses.

Tickets for the Dec. 23, bowl game are on sale for $10 at the Texas Tech ticket office at Jones Stadium.

Some of the funds are to go to the Harry-Anna Crippled Children's Hospital, but Texas Tech sports information director Ralph Carpenter said both teams should receive about $150,000 from the bowl, depending upon spectator turnout. If the 50,000-seat stadium fills, the teams' share of the money could be as high as $200,000, Carpenter said.

Last year's turnout was 32,000, he said, tendance this year.

The Red Raiders are scheduled to meet the Florida State Seminoles at 8 p.m., Eastern Standard Time, in the 32 Tangerine Bowl contest, located in Orlando,

Hughes Will Submitted To Court

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A Los Angeles attorney began his legal battle Monday to have the so-called "Mormon will" accepted as the last will and testament of industrialist Howard Hughes.

"We contend that this will was written by Howard Hughes," said Harold Rhod-en, who represents former Hughes aide Noah Dietrich. The three-page, handwrit-ten document names Dietrich executor of

Hughes' relatives claim the will is forged. Clark County District Judge Keith Hayes has set aside three days for opening statements. The first testimony will be given Thursday morning and the trial is expected to last six to eight Rhoden told the five-man, three-wo an jury he will make his case with five factors: scientific, medical, handwriting, possession and circumstantial evidence.

Both Rhoden and James Dilworth, the attorney for Hughes' maternal relatives, will be calling a battery of handwriting experts to testify on the authenticity of the document dated March 19, 1968. The reclusive millionaire lived in a penthouse suite of the Desert Inn hotel here at the

The document has been tagged the "Mormon will," because it was found at the Mormon Church's Salt Lake City headquarters. It makes little mention of Hughes' relatives, but leaves part of Hughes' estate to the Howard Hughes Medical Foundation in Florida, the Mormon Church and to Melvin Dummar, a former gas station operator in Willard,

The will turned up about three weeks after Hughes' death on April 5, 1976. Rhoden, who has called Dummar a liar, will nevertheless use him as a witness. Dummar would receive one-sixteenth of the Hughes estate under the will. He denied any knowledge of it until FBI tests found his thumbprint on the envelope in which it was delivered.

He then admitted he took it to the Mormon Church headquarers but denied writing it or knowing who did. He has given several accounts of how the document came into his possession.

Dummar has said that 10 years ago he gave a ride to a bedraggled old man in the Nevada desert. He said the man told him he was Howard Hughes and Dummar guessed that he was named in the will out of gratitude.

Runaway Girl Returns Home For Funeral

CHICAGO (AP) - Lisa, a teen-age runaway whose name was on her father's lips until his dying breath, returned home and wept as she watched him buried Monday.

"We're overjoyed and so glad she's back," said Christine, 21, the oldest of the 10 children of Paul Cruz. "We prayed and prayed and prayed she'd come home before he was buried.

Lisa came home Sunday night about 11 o'clock. She ran away April 19 and for seven months the family had no word of her whereabouts.

Cruz, 41, died Thanksgiving Day of a lingering illness after five weeks in a hospital. Seven of his children and his wife, Dorothy, were there at the time. The two youngest children were at But it was pretty, 15-year-old Lisa away. She didn't tell anyone. Christine said that a friend of Lisa's from Florida was in Chicago over the holiday weekend and read about Cruz's dying plea. When the friend returned to Florida on Sunday, she told Lisa and Lisa flew back to Chicago with her boy-

At the funeral Mass Monday morning, the Rev. Laurence Maddock gave thanks to the Lord that a member of the family was able to come home" and Christine said her return was the answer to the family's prayers.

Health Spa Club Regulation Sought

NEW YORK (AP) - A state official said Monday that closer regulation of the health spa industry is needed because customers are being cheated in some cases.

Stephen Mindell, an assistant attorney general, said consumers often are forced to sign one-sided contracts that do not protect them if spas go out of business. He added: "There is no mutuality in the contracts as they are now." Mindell said there also have been instances of consumers having paid to join a health spa that was under construction, only to learn later that it never was going to open and that their money was Mindell spoke at the start of a threeweek Federal Trade Commission hearing on whether rules for health spas should be adopted. Hearings already

Ex-Rodeo Cowboy Hits Circuit Again

FALLON, Nev. (AP) - What does a former rodeo cowboy do when he gets fed up with a new and not so exciting line of work? Anson Thurman, despite a long layoff, returned to the professional rodeo circuit.

Thurman, 41, getting impatient with a long-running lawsuit, closed his lumber yard here, and rejoined the rodeo last year after an eight-year absence.

He flew and drove across the country to compete in about 100 rodeos, finished the year as 10th-ranked all-around cowboy and won about $30,000 in prize money.

Though the finish wasn't good enough to send him to the national finals in Oklahoma City, the sandy-haired, mustachioed cowboy says the effort proved "I could do the same thing I did 20 years ago. I can beat 80 percent but the other 20 percent I

At the end of the year, Thurman was tired but still not ready for a regular job this year. He worked part time and competed in 15 professional rodeos, winning a little less than $10,000.

His last honor was the all-around championship, and the $3,710 prize and fancy saddle that went with it, at the 33rd Grand National Rodeo, Horse Show and Livestock Exposition in San Francisco this fall. Thurman, whose brother DeMar, 40, has also been a top rodeo cowboy, says he would like to reopen his lumber business once the legal hassle is resolved. But he said he plans to continue rodeo riding because it's "one heck of a good way to have a good living, a lot of fun and not work.

"It is work, but some people don't think so," he adds. "And if I can make some money at it, it's just like a job — one I really enjoy."

Thurman says the best rodeo cowboys spend full time on the circuit, keeping in shape and pushing hard to make the national finals. But not him. So how does he win in a big rodeo like the recent one in San Francisco? "I just consider myself lucky," he says "I didn't think I had a change but I did"

Thurman entered nearly all events at rodeos between 1954 and 1960. But he gave up the bull and bronc riding in 1960 and now limits himself to calf roping, steer wrestling

Thurman compares rodeo riding to any professional sport - with the difference that professional rodeos are still pretty much of an all-comers event for cowboys who belong to the Rodeo Cowboys Association.

Rodeo riding is, in a sense, similar to activities like boating or fishing, he says, except that a rodeo cowboy has a chance to get back some of his investment in prize

But he won't compare it to motorcycling, trick-skiing or some other sport that seems to be as dangerous as rodeo riding. "They gotta be nuts," he says. But he concedes he doesn't know "how you define who is and who is not crazy. Maybe it's just what you like to do.'

Now, these were the guys in the lighter orange sports coats. The other two, also wearing orange coats but of a slightly darker hue, were all smiles. You didn't need a lucky-number scorecard to tell them apart; you just had to check the

They had Tech and the others had Arkansas. Well, as it turned out, the Orange Bowl folks were riding the winner and were able to return home a-smilling. For them, that was something of note.

FACT THAT ANY bowl scouts were following the Razorbacks the last week of the season is one of the surprises of the 1977 football season—not only in the sun belt but throughout the land.

For several reasons— injuries and lack of them being among the reasons-this has been a surprising year in the Southwest Conference. Before the season, it was expected that bowl folks would be looking at the Raiders this late in the year. But Arkansas? . . . Well, shrug your shoulders, hold your hand out-palm down-and waggle it sideways.

With new coaches coming in to replace those living legends Frank Broyles and Darrell Royal, this was expected to be the year when both Texas and Arkansas were down. Now, one thing, the sages said, one or the other of the two newcom-

Tech Romps Over OBU 103-59

By DON HENRY

Executive Sports Editor
Tommy Parks was playing his first game for Texas Tech. It didn't take him long, however, to take charge.

First, he ran the offense, hustling his teammates into position for their shots. He directed the fast break. And, when it came down to it, he even told the crowd when to go home in the 103-59 runaway from Oklahoma Baptist University in a basketball-season-opening game.

The Raiders, with a full complement of reserves on the floor against the outmanned Oklahoma Baptists, were hullygullying along and stuck on 93 points late in the game. They had not scored in almost four minutes. Tech had led from the first couple of minutes, but the offense was sagging.

So coach Gerald Myers sent in Parks to get things settled down and aimed in the right direction. The guard, a six-footer out of Midland College, did just that.

After Duck Alexander scored inside for OBU, making the score 93-50, Parks went to work. He set up the offense but then decided to take the scoring business in his own hands. He first zipped in a 14footer, then after OBU scored 4, he popped from 10 feet. Freshman Ralph McPherson hit from 15 feet, and Parks went back to work.

And with the score hung on 99, Parks was fouled. He stepped to the line, banged in the first free shot to reach the century mark. And that free shot was a signal for the meager crowd of only 4,589 to head for the exits.

He didn't have to wave his hand or anthing so obvious, but the crowd, just as most of the night, too, just as did the crowd in reaching for its coats.

It was a night to experiment, get in the young players, and get accustomed to the floor. It was an opener and Myers termed it what his team needed before stepping into Las Cruces Wednesday night against powerful New Mexico State.

"They (OBU) were hurting at guards," said Myers, "and our press really bothered them. We had phenomenal shooting the first half (65.9 percent). We realize the type of (college division) team we were playing, but I saw some bright

By The Associated Press

The Oklahoma Sooners moved past Alabama into second place in The Associated Press college football ratings Monday but No. 1-ranked Texas retained a comfortable lead in the final poll of the regular season.

(Continued From Page One) ers can't have a good year. And both expect it, so one or the other will be in hot water with just one season out of the

The two turned out hot, not the water. Fred Akers at Texas is 11-0, king of the entire hill and just 60 minutes away from a national championship. Lou Holtz can claim he's next in line for that national title, as he played Texas closer than even

First or second, in either direction, and the fat cats that bankroll the athletic departments and the guys down on the farm in both states are happy.

FACT THAT BOTH escaped major injuries has to figure in the success. Texas, true, lost two quarterbacks in the first half of the OU game. Then the third went down for one game late in the year.

But, with a man like Earl Campbell around, the quarterback falls back in that category of the guys who are needed only to count. Campbell made believers of so many that Akers probably could have spotted in the school president or team trainer at times and the Longhorn attack not suffered much. Why, they could have run the single wing with Earl and won.

At Arkansas, just as at Texas, the defense held its own. But the running of Ben Cowins and the drastic improvement in quarterback Ron Calcagni spiced the first year for Holtz. Calcagni was average a year ago; this year, he's probably the best in the league-among the healthy quarterbacks.

TEXAS A&M, TECH and Houston were expected to be the Big Three. Then, Danny Davis went out with a shoulder injury two games into the season and that wiped out Houston. Rodney Allison joined the wounded legion at Tech in the early stages of the Aggie game, and the Raiders' hopes sagged drastically.

And the Aggies. . . well, it appears as if they never fully recovered from that lasthalf pounding at the hands of Michigan. They barged into Jones Stadium with a very confident-and equally talented -aggregation, then stood nose to nose with mighty Michigan for 30 minutes. After that, 41-3, and the confidence seemed to ooze out of them.

Even last spring, the whispers out of Austin were that Akers had a good one coming. Only thing, the lack of a quarterback cast doubts on the team's quality. And, Campbell had been hurt much of the '76 season. With Campbell hurt, Texas would have been average at best this year-as last year. With him hale. . .

ods with the Raiders leading 34-13. Van Eeghen became the AFC's leading rusher with a 143-yard performance that included a 27-yard gain which set up one of Pete Banaszak's pair of 1-yard touch-down plunges. Van Eeghen now has 1,011 yards for the season.

Stabler took a hard shot from charging defensive lineman Mike Kadish as he released the ball on his first completion of the game, a 38-yard gainer to running back Clarence Davis. But he got up spryly and ended an 80-yard drive with a 28-yard touchdown pass to Cliff Branch for the game's first points.

Branch snared a 12-yard pass from Stabler in the third quarter for the touch-down which put Oakland in control 27-13. The other touchdown pass was a 44-yarder to Fred Biletnikoff late in the first Biletnikoff was ejected from the game veteran, picked up the 50th and 51st touchdowns of his career. The Bills, 2-9, pulled within 13-10 early in the second period when quarterback Joe Ferguson threw a 29-yard touchdown pass to John Kimbrough. Their other points came on field goals of 33 and 40 yards by Carson Long. Stabler, who sat out most of the practice week, showed only a few rough spots. A pass near the end of the second period was intercepted by Tony Greene, and Stabler fumbled away a snap from center early in the third quarter, with Buffalo recovering at the Oakland 27 and

The Raiders then drove 63 yards, with Stabler's 24-yard pass to Biletnikoff opening the march toward their fourth touch-

Biletnikoff made a diving catch in the end zone, but officials ruled he had trapped the ball, and Stabler threw the touchdown pass to Branch three plays On Oakland's next possession, corner-back Mario Clarke tangled with Biletnikoff in the end zone as the veteran receiver was trying for another touchdown catch. The Raiders drew an unsports-manlike conduct penalty for Biletnikoff's outburst, and Errol Mann's field goal attempt from 46 yards was wide.

It was only the fifth field goal miss of the season for Mann, who missed his first extra point attempt of the year after Oakland's first touchdown. He had made his first 28 conversion tries.

The Raiders got the ball back immediately after Mann missed the field goal as Jack Tatum recovered a fumble deep in Buffalo territory. Van Eeghen and Banaszak moved the ball 20 yards on the short scoring drive that followed.

Alumni Group Forms Club To Aid Auburn

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) - A group of alumni and supporters announced Monday the formation of a new statewide organization "dedicated to a quality athletic program" at Auburn.

Articles of incorporation for the "State Association of Auburn Supporters" were filed last Wednesday in the Montgomery

Its president, Ron Creel of Montgomery said one goal is to see that athletic programs at Auburn are "adequately funded" and the coaches are given pendence in running the show.

That applies, Creel said, not only to head football coach Doug Barfield, but basketball coach Bob Davis as well, "especially coach Davis.'

Barfield has been under heavy criticism from some alumni because Auburn has won only eight out of 22 games in his first two seasons as coach. But the Auburn board of trustees recently extended his contract for two years, through 1981. Creel, an insuranceman and onetime candidate for lieutenant governor, said members of the new organization want a change in "the philosophy of the adminstration" under Auburn President Harry M. Philpott.

He charged "there has been some dipion of athletic department funds to general fund" of the university. Advising a Wichite Palls

WBC To Press Action Against Champions

MADRID (AP) - The World Boxing Council will press its demands on world heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali and half a dozen other champs to defend their titles or lose their crowns, WBC president Jose Sulaiman of Mexico said Monday.

"We are going to take up a lot of interesting matters," Sulaiman said on the eve of a four-day WBC meeting in Madrid, "and one of the most interesting will be the obligation of heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali to defend his title against the challenger Ken Norton

Sulaiman said before the Norton-Jimmy Young bout won by Norton Nov. 5 that Ali had 60 days from that date to make a committment to fight Ali and after making the committment had six months to fight him. Failure to follow either stipulation would cost Ali title recognition which then would go to Norton, Sulaiman said.

Ali, meanwhile, is scheduled to fight Leon Spinks Feb. 15 in Las Vegas, Nev., and the WBC will be under pressure in connection with that fight.

The Norton camp and promoter Don King want the WBC to bar Ali from fighting Spinks and not to recognize the fight as a title match, even if Ali agrees to fight Norton in the meantime. King, who has an option with Norton to try to sign a Norton-Ali fight, was to leave for Spain Monday night, and Norton was to leave Tuesday

King said he would not be against an Ali-Spinks fight if it's okay with Norton and his manager, Bob Biron, and if Ali is held to his time limit for a committment to fight Norton.

Butch Lewis, a vice president of Top Rank, Inc., which has signed the Ali-Spinks fight, also was to leave for Spain tonight as was Johnny Mag, chairman of the Nevada Boxing Commission. Nevada is a member of the WBC

Lewis said that if the WBC does not give the Ali-Spinks fight its blessing, there would be no problem switching the fight to another site

Sulaiman said that six other WBC world champions, would have to defend their titles against the No. 1 contenders

Akers Lists Nine 'Horns As All-SWC

Akers of Texas named nine Longhorn players Monday - in addition to running back Earl Campbell and defensive tackle Brad Shearer - that he thought should be considered for all-Southwest Confer-

Campbell and Shearer, both seniors, already have been named to some All-American teams and are candidates for other national honors, such as the Heisman and Outland awards.

Decked out in orange trousers and cow-boy boots, the rookie Texas coach told a news conference, "Today's Orange Day."

Top-ranked Texas concluded an 11-0 season Saturday by ripping No. 12 Texas AM, 57-28, to capture the SWC championship and host spot in the Jan. 2 Cotton Bowl against once-beaten Notre Dame.

UCLA Boss Likes Bruins Chances

LOS ANGELES (AP) - UCLA's new Coach Gary Cunningham, with a pair of victories under his belt, believes the Bruins are one of the finest college basketball teams in the nation. But don't look for any new dynasty.

Although they won a pair of Pacific-8 Conference titles under Gene Bartow the past two seasons, the Bruins didn't win a national title

Cunningham, a longtime assistant to Wooden, was summoned. Wooden had wanted Cunningham to succeed him when he retired in 1975

"I think we have potential, it depends on how we develop," he said Monday. We're a very young ball club, and it's going to take some time to develop this team into a unit.

"I'm encouraged by the first weekend " he added.

Dock Strike Exacts Heavy Toll

NEW YORK (AP) - With their strike continuing to exact a heavy toll on international commerce for a ninth week, 50,-000 members of the International Longshoremen's Association will decide today whether to end their selective walkout at 34 Atlantic and Gulf of Mexico ports.

The workers have refused to handle cargo shipped in van-sized containers since Oct. 1. The resultant loss of import and export business has been blamed by the Commerce Department for giving the United States its largest monthly trade deficit in history during October.

Goods destined for American stores in time for Christmas buying won't make it, and backlogs were expected until the middle of next year. Virtually all segments of American industry have been hurt, and consumers will pay the price in inconvenience and probably higher pay scales go into effect for dockworkers. Voting was set for the eight hours beginning 7 a.m., with an immediate ballot

A spokesman at ILA headquarters in New York said it was possible work could resume at all ports with the 7 p.m. shift

Officials at union headquarters were optimistic that a proposed three-year contract would be accepted. The offer contains a 32 percent package increase that raises hourly pay to $10.40 and hourly benefits to $3.75 in its final year. The contract also includes income guarantees for longshoremen idled by automation.

ILA President Thomas W. Gleason predicted higher pay and benefits would not raise consumer costs because his long-shoremen would be more productive. The strikers chose the most damaging bullseye: the labor-saving containers that are revolutionizing shipping and reducing dock jobs. The containers are loaded at factories and trucked to ships. After the voyage, the containers are unloaded intact and trucked to their destination. Longshoremen figure marginally in such an operation

Late last week, more than 100 ships handling containers were strikebound Only perishable cargo was being handled in most ports, and all work was halted in Baltimore, where anxious longshoremer began a general strike. New Orleans and Philadephia had threatened to follow Gleason said it appeared port rivalities

That apparently was the case in Balti-members of five II.A locals — expanded their strike to pressure the Steamship Trade Association of Baltimore to come to terms on local issues and a plan for guaranteed annual income. The week-long expanded strike cost more than $30 million, port officials estimated.

In New Orleans, where settlement problems have dragged on, the head of one of the smaller locals said Monday that he not believe his group would be ready to vote today.

James McCleland, president of the 500member clerks local, said his union members were not given enough time to consider the latest offer. "There is no way I can begin to get to the memb on Tuesday a 20-page document which our attorneys must review," McCleland Awards will be presented to district winners of six contests, which include junior and senior chapter conducting, junior and senior skills, radio and quiz.

Honorary FFA degrees will be presented, and Dr. Marvin Baker, president of South Plains College, will announce the winner of a scholarship from the college to the outstanding senior vocational agriculture student in the Lubbock District.

FFA chapters that comprise the district are Crosbyton, Frenship (Wolfforth), Idalou, Levelland, Lorenzo, Lubbock Cooper, Coronado and Monterey, New Deal, Patton Springs, Ralls, Roosevelt (Acuff), Ropesville, Shallowater, Slaton, Smyer and Spur.

'We favor programs that will permit farming and ranching operations to be large enough for maximum efficiency. And, just as important, we are for cutting costs of production.' The alternative, he said, "is to become the same as a public utility - wards of the government, with production rights allocated and with prices and net incomes determined by political planners. The result then, he added, "would be a nation of peasant farmers - bad for farmers and bad for consumers."

Exports, he said, "are asbolutely necessary for our survival as farmers - more so than for any other segment of our economy because we operate on the world market."

The head of the 214,197-member organization said the production from one of every three harvested acres goes into export markets. He said nearly one dollar in four earned by American farmers comes from foreign sales.

Chaloupka, a cattle and grain producer, said American farm exports pay for 85 percent of the nation's petroleum im-

The grain export outlook has improved, Chaloupka said, with news of short harvests in the Soviet Union, China and Poland. He said the U.S. Department of Agriculture has predicted strong export markets in the coming months.

"Already we have seen prices of wheat, feed grains and soybeans increasing substantially," he said.

Obstacles to stronger prices and higher net incomes for farmers, Chaloupka said, include what he called "monopoly power" of labor unions, energy supplies and prices, inflation caused by deficit federal spending, over-regulation by government, inadequate water resources, and

"The monopoly power of labor unions has done more to push up prices and create an imbalance in our economy than any other single factor." he said.

in two ways. We pay an inflated price for everything this labor touches and we also lose the competitive edge in world mar-

Chaloupka charged that federal deficit spending causes inflation, which "hits hardest at people on fixed incomes and at farmers who cannot pass along increased costs of production.

"When Congress wishes to fund programs for which there is insufficient tax revenue, it simply votes to increase the national debt limit," he said. "This is deficit financing, or printing-press mon-

OPPORTUNITIES FOR INCREASING EXPORTS of American cotton to Western Europe will be explored Jan. 24-25 at Raleigh, N. C.

The export forum will be sponsored by Elanco Products Co. in cooperation with Cotton Inc., the fiber company of American cotton producers.

It will bring together leading American cotton producers, merchants and officials of cotton cooperatives with top executives of six to eight major European

Donnell Echols of Lamesa will participate as a producer representative from Panelists also will include three members of the American Cotton Shippers Association and three from Amcot, the national umbrella organization for cot ton marketing cooperattives.

EXPORTS HAVE BECOMING INCREASINGLY important in assuring a healthy market for American cotton, John McNutt, vice president for international marketing with Cotton Inc., points out in explaining the purpose of the "Most of our cotton exports so far have been to the Far East," he points out.

"We haven't really participated on a large scale in Western Europe, which is the second largest free market for cotton outside the United States.

"We are having this forum to probe all of the avenues available for increasing our Western European business. It will enable representatives of our cotton in-dustry to sit down with the top executive officials of European textile compa-nies that are significant users of cotton to discuss all possible opportunities to supply them with American cotton."

Collectively, McNutt says, the participating mills represent a consumption of more than 800,000 bales per year.

AGRICULTURAL TRADE PROSPECTS may be threatened in comi months if a protectionist mood evident in some areas of Congress continues to Resolutions, supported by 180 House members, call on the United States to exempt textiles from the current GATT (General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade) talks, the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives points out.

Pressures also are building for the United States to give further special protection to textiles, steel and other products threatened by exports from abroad.

And the Japanese are resisting U. S. requests that they reduce their exports in order to create a more favorable trade balance.

The main fear now, says the NCFC, is that if the U.S. turns to protectionism other countries will retailiate first against U.S. farm products

Cattle Futures Hit New Lows

CHICAGO - Live cattle futures fell to new daily lows on Monday and finished five to 37 points weaker led by the nearby contract on the Chicago Mercantile Ex-

Volume was estimated at 6,634 contracts. Early in the session, the nearby climbed to its highest point since June at $42.75, with distant December up 27

Light cattle runs and steady beef prices brought early support with late selling mostly local, touched off in part by weakness in grains. Irregular cash cattle and sizeable kills last week also were factors in the late selloff.

Wholesale beef was unchanged at 65 3/4 cents per pound for all weights. Cash cattle were up $1 off an equal amount with the top at $44.50 per hundredweight.

The six markets expect about 17,900 head to arrive today. Monday's slaughter was estimated at 144,000 head.

Hog futures climbed as much as 47 points before ending 32 higher to 10 lower on sales of 5,303 cars. April was up most and only August lost ground.

The April option was up 47 points and the nearby climbed to a new season's high and its highest level since September, 1976, at $42.25 before reaction set in. Late slippage in grains and cash hogs induced much of the late selling which was mostly local.

Wholesale hams were unchanged to up two cents at 86 to 95 cents per poun f.o.b. river points. Cash hogs were up 50 cents to off 50 with the top at $43.50.

The day's kill was reported at 314,000 head. The six major terminals expect 30,- 3000 head to arrive today.

Pork belly (bacon) future swung 50 points lower to 30 higher before ending with gains of 17 to losses of five on a turnover of 3,624 contracts. May was firmest while only May ranged lower.

Nervous selling forced prices to their lowest points in almost two weeks and was traced to increased storings and easier cash bellies. Late support was mostly local short covering.

Wholesale bacon was off three-fourths cent to up one-fourth at 40 3/4 to 45 cents per pound, f.o.b. river.

DEPARTMENT STORE BOOM

Department stores are capturing an increasingly large share of the retail dollar, The Conference Board reports. In 1956, they accounted for only 26 percent of the $43.5 billion in sales of general merchan-dise, apparel and furniture. By 1976, they made over 44 percent of $154.3 billion.

It is popular to think of a rising market price, is now virtually impossible.

Q. The stock market is frightening. It ulations. A bear raid, in the sense of seems some elements (short-sellers, specialists?) are trying to drive it down despite better earnings. I'm scared!

A. Being scare of the stock market is nothing to be ashamed of. If more people were sufficiently scared of crossing busy avenues to wait for the green light, there would be less casualties. If more people were scared of the stock market, if more people played it safer, their investment acrounts would be much healthier.

The stock market, to me, is always frightening even if that frightening element is slightly below the surface - latent, but out of sight. In fact, the less frightening the market, the more dangerous it is for non-professional investors.

Where did you ever get the idea that the stock market was your friendly corner grocery or drug store? True, if you buy a sound stock and take it home the risk is something the average investor can undertake. But if you think of the stock market as a giant football field on which you are trying to move the ball one way and "they" are driving it the other you are bound to run into odds you would never consider in a sports event.

You seem to be looking under the bed for "some elements" who are "trying to crash the market," as you put it, and suspect "short-sellers and specialists." (Why you should lump them together beats me. A specialist - if he does his job of making an orderly market - will most likely have to acquire stock in a declining market. He can show a profit only if the market turns around.)

In any event, I am not going to get in the middle of the all-too-popular specialist witch hunt. I refuse to believe that they are at the center of every bit of stock market chicanery, just as I don't believe they are all St. Bernards with brandy barrels preventing wholesale death on the slopes. Sometimes I think their elimination would serve to bring home to the amateur a much-needed lesson of how dangerous a stock market can - and should - be. In any event, they have always appeared to me to be capitalism's confused compromise with the free market system it preaches. But that doesn't make them necessarily evil.

As to short-selling: A trader who goes short of a stock does so because he expects it to decline in price. I don't understand why selling short should be labeled an evil pursuit (something like foreclosing on the old homestead mortgage). A bear has as much right to his opinion as has a bull. As a matter of fact more fundamental damage is done to the securities markets by unbridled bullishness than by short-selling bears because there is no limit to the heights to which rampant bulls can drive market prices. Market crashes almost always follow periods of unrestrained bullishness. But short-sellers' attempts to drive a market to lower levels for many years have been restricted by market reg-
