Korean Spy Plot Cited By Probers

WASHINGTON (AP) - The South Korean intelligence agency planned to install a spy network in the White House and to pay off aides to top U.S. leaders last year in hopes of winning United States support for South Korea, a document released Tuesday alleged.

The plan apparently was dropped when previous activities by the Korean Central Intelligence Agency in this country were publicly exposed.

Rep. Donald M. Fraser, D-Minn., who released copies of the report during a subcommittee hearing Tuesday, said the 1976 plan and an earlier KCIA plan, apparently in 1973, "reveal a calculated attempt by the KCIA to use clandestine means to sway American public opinion and official policy...

"Outright Subversion"

"The action taken by the KCIA to implement the plans must be recognized for what it is - outright subversion, Fraser said. He said that about $750,000 was earmarked for the KCIA operations, not including money that was to be contributed to congressional campaigns.

The alleged KCIA plan released by Fraser's House International Relations subcommittee envisioned $100 a month payoffs to 14 aides in the White House, State Department, Defense Department and intelligence agencies.

It envisioned payments of $53,000 in campaign contributions to at least four congressmen and "special manipula-tion" payments to selected congressional

- shortly before other similar South Korean efforts were publicly disclosed. A subcommittee member, Rep. William Goodling, R-Pa., said he believes Korean efforts to carry out the plan were cut short by the publicity. That sentiment was echoed by Sohn Ho Young, who defected as KCIA station chief in New York City two months ago. The subcommittee apparently obtained the alleged plan from him.

Sohn said South Korea was already getting bad publicity about alleged influ-See KOREAN SPY Page 14

THE TEXAS Commission on Jail

However, because of its failure to muster a quorum at the meeting in Austin, the group's decision will serve only as a recommendation to the full body at the Criminal Dist. Atty. Alton Griffin, Lubbock County's legal counsel, asked the state agency for "variances" or exceptions to several recently adopted standards for Texas' county jails. Physical Limitations Included Most of the requested variances involved physical limitations - such as narrow corridors, small cells and inadequate lighting in some rooms - of Lubbock County's 46-year-old detention facil-A commission spokesman said these were routinely approved by the "subcommittee" of commission members gathered Tuesday. The county's request to operate its existing jail for a few more years with less than the state-prescribed manpower, however, posed a more difficult issue. State standards say county jails must provide one corrections officer for every 45 inmates or fraction thereof on each detention floor. The five-story Lubbock County Jail, which after beefed-up staffing now has one jailer at all times on every floor, does not wholly comply with that rule. That is because the third and fourth floors of the local facility each house more than 45 prisoners. Those levels were built to accommodate more than 90 inmates, but the county tries to keep the number down to about 60.

According to the existing standards, Lubbock County - which is under a federal court order to upgrade the jail and comply with TCJS rules — would have to create another around-the-clock staffing

Dockworkers Okay Pact Ending Strike

NEW YORK — Striking dockworkers have voted overwhelmingly to accept new three-year contracts with East and Gulf Coast shippers, International Longshoremen's Association President Thomas W. Gleason announced Tuesday,
The settlement, which contains job security provisions and wase increases

The settlement, which contains job se-curity provisions and wage increases, ended a two-month-old strike against containerized and automated shipping cargoes.

Gleason, speaking at ILA headquarters here, said longshoremen in the northeast had approved the tentative settlements by a vote of 10,537 to 3,583, and trends in other Atlantic and Gulf coast cities were running "three to four to one in favor of the agreements.

Complete Totals Today
Gleason said complete vote totals would not be known until today, but said the striking dockworkers in all of the af-fected cities would be back on the job Tuesday night.

"We're going back to work at 7 p.m.," Gleason said. "You know, we're already at work. It's only the containerized and automated shipping that has been affect-

Dissident locals in Philadelphia and New Orleans planned to vote on the set-tlement today, and in Mobile, Ala., Tuesday night.

Pre-Loaded Containers

Container shipping, developed over the past decade, uses pre-loaded, semi-trail-er-sized containers. The containers are transferred by crane between ship, railway car and truck

The automation reduced the need for longshoremen by more than a third in ports such as New York and became the principal target of the strike for greater job and income protection.

"I think the strike is over," Gleason said, as the votes were being counted.

"The New England area voted for it," he said of a master contract coupled with local agreements. "Hampton Roads voted for it, and New York is voting for it. It looks like it's a 'yes' vote up and down

The union, an affiliate of the AFL-CIO, decided to go ahead with the voting Tuesday. The contract balloting will continue today after completion of contract sup-plements in New Orleans and Philadel-

Gleason had given the go-ahead on the ratification schedule last Friday, apparently convinced that his membership in Baltimore and Norfolk would assure acceptance of the new terms.

"If Philadelphia wants to wait, that's their problem," he had said of the situation in that port, where the voting schedule changed several times before settling on a ratification today.

"Not Holding Up"
"We're not holding up for them," Gleason said of the laggard ports, thereby adding to the pressures for speedy comple-tion of settlements as management and employees alike wanted to protect their competitive positions.

The New Orleans delay was attributed to a possible collision with a federal court order designed to protect blacks at upper seniority levels. This forced a re-exami-

Thousands of containers, each packed with tons of high-value cargo from abroad, were waiting to resume their trips to destinations in the eastern half of the nation. Other containers were crammed with American export goods trapped en route to foreign ports.

The two-month interruption in container shipping — accounting for close to 70 percent of the general cargo moving through the Port of New York, for example — was blamed by the government for making the nation's October balance of trade deficit the worst in history.

While most exports stopped moving, including conventional cargo and grain shipments during brief general strikes in New Orleans and Baltimore, the heavy inflow of foreign oil was not slowed by the strike. the strike.

The pact being voted on would increase base wages in the third year to $10.40 perhour and employer-paid benefits to $3.75 hourly.

Russians Reject Cairo Meeting

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Egypt, Israel, the United States and the United Nations began selecting their delegates Tuesday for President Anwar Sadat's preparatory Middle East peace conference in Cairo. Syria and the Palestine Liberation Organization denounced the Cairo meeting and said they would not attend.

Arab nations opposed to Sadat's conciliation with Israel appeared to be splitting over two proposed anti-Sadat meetings.

Soviets Refuse

The Soviet Union, co-chairman with America of the Geneva conference for which the Cairo meeting is to prepare, joined the hard-line Arabs and refused to go to the Egyptian capital. Officials in Washington said Moscow informed the United States it would not attend.

Israel accepted Sadat's invitation Monday and named two ranking diplomats to head its mission. Washington formally accepted Egypt's invitation Tuesday and officials said a delegation led by a still-unnamed diplomatic expert would be in Cairo when the talks open, possibly this weekend.

GOP Fields New Exec Race Entry

AUSTIN (AP) - Former state Republican chairman Ray Hutchison got in the Texas governor's race Tuesday, saying voters need a governor who thinks of them - not the oil and gas industry.

Hutchison said he realized he was bucking "awesome personal resources" in both the Republican and Democratic parties

"But I have never, and I am not now, prepared to accept the proposition that the governorship of Texas is reserved only to those of enormous personal wealth, and I am confident that an overwhelming majority of all Texans agree with my view," he told a news confer-

The 45-year-old former state legislator from Dallas made his long-expected announcement first in Dallas, then in Austin, Houston and San Antonio.

Hutchison's entry lines up a hot intraparty contest for the Republican primary in 1978 with at least one other contender, wealthy Dallas oilman William Clements, former deputy secretary of

The GOP winner will meet the survivor of a multimillion-dollar Democratic primary struggle that so far involves present Gov. Dolph Briscoe, seeking to serve an unprecedented 10 years; Attorney General John Hill and former Gov. Preston Smith, who wants to come out of political retirement

Hutchison resigned his job as state party boss several months ago in order to make the governor's race. He said he was surprised when Clements, who stressed his ties with the oil and gas industry, got into the race.

"Let's face it, the people of this state have never responded to a single-issue candidate or a single-issue industry,' Hutchison said. "They want to know 'Who is speaking for us?" he said.

"I think energy is important but our problems in Texas are not technological, they are governmental," he said.

He said that "clearly the most credible spokesman would not be tied with the (oil and gas) industry.

Hutchison said some Texans had been misled by Briscoe's claim that there have been no new or additional taxes in the last five years "when such is tragically untrue. Taxpayers have paid $555 million in new school taxes alone; millions in state-required local spending, and billions in new taxes in the form of inflation, the most sinister tax of all."

Clements, campaigning in Abilene, Midland-Odessa and Lubbock, said Hutchison was "making all the noises to indicate he is going to continue to run.

Council To Discuss Adjustments Repeal

Avalanche-Journal Staff

The city council again will consider repealing automatic natural gas fuel cost adjustments when it meets today to decide whether to demand justification of a proposed December gas pass-through that is 11.67 percent higher than Novem-

Over the past several months the council has discussed repealing the automatic feature of the pass-through but never has acted on it. Instead the council has opted to hire a full-time rate analyst to examine Pioneer Natural Gas (PNG) justification of pass-throughs.

Councilwoman Carolyn Jordan, who as pushed in the past for repealing the pass-through, asked that it be considered again at today's meeting, set for 11:45 a.m. in council chambers

Possible rejection of the proposed December gas pass-through also will be con-sidered, as will several options to total rejection. The council may adopt one of the proposals, which include:

-Approving the December pass-through but not allowing it to become effective for 60 days. The delay would give the city staff time to make sure the ncrease is justified.

-Approving the pass-through but holding the gas company financially responsishould the city prove it to not be justified. Under this proposal, the gas compawould have to reimburse customers for the overage.

Today is the deadline for either accepting or rejecting the proposed December pass-through, which would bring to about $1.32 per thousand cubic feet (mcf) of

The increase is about 13.77 cents over November's rate and is based on October's gas costs. Pass-through increases have averaged about 3 cents per month. A PNG official in Amarillo told The Avalanche-Journal that company representatives will be at today's meeting to explain why the increase is so much for De-Basically, he said, the hike is because of continuing increases in gas prices and because October was a low-use month. "Gas sales were off," he said, adding that caused the company to have to "bring expensive gas" into the system.

Mrs. Jordan has questioned the timing of the increase, noting that the council recently set a February rate hearing at which PNG must propose and justify industrial gas rates.

Carter Due Red Press Quiz During Journey

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter will become the first U.S. president to hold a wide-open news conference in a Communist country when he visits Warsaw late next month, it was learned Tuesday.

Poland will be the first stop on a curtailed version of Carter's once-postponed world trip, now set to begin Dec. 29. A formal announcement of the journey is expected later this week

When Carter meets the press in Warsaw, Polish journalists will be invited to join their western colleagues in questioning the President. It was not known whether Poland's state-owned networks will broadcast the session live. However, the Voice of America is expected to beam the conference to Communist countries, including the Soviet Union.

White House officials declined to confirm plans for the news conference. However, they acknowledged that another highlight of Carter's six-nation trip will be the first visit by an incumbent president to France's Normandy beachheads, where American and other allied troops landed more than 32 years ago during World War II. Carter also will lay a wreath at a U.S. cemetery for American

The trip will take Carter to Poland, Iran, India, Saudi Arabia, France and Belgium. He is expected to return to Washington on Jan. 6 or Jan. 7.

Originally scheduled as a four-continent tour starting a week ago, the revised itinerary drops two continents and visits to Venezuela, Brazil and Nigeria. Officials said Carter may visit these Latin American and black African countries late next spring.

The President's original plans were shelved because Congress had not comeleted action on energy legislation that he has cited as his top priority domestic policy objective for 1977. By late December, Congress will be in recess and will have either passed or rejected energy

In revamping the schedule, White House officials have tried to slow down the hectic pace Carter would have set under the initial itinerary.

For example, he may now stay over-night in Tehran and Riyadh, the capitals of Iran and Saudi Arabia. Brief refueling stops originally had been scheduled for

Paris instead of one and may spend a

In an emotional speech on the floor of the Senate, Scott defended the tour which he said has been denounced and mispresented by some of the media.

"Freedom of the press, as used by some segments, is not a pretty thing, said Scott, who has taken a number of taxpayer-paid overseas fact-finding trips since his election to the Senate in 1972. Scott, who has announced he won't seek re-election next year, defended his most recent fact-finding mission - a three-week tour.

He said he was investigating allegations that "the Soviet Union might seek to realize its long-held desire for a warm water port by fomenting trouble in the Pakistan-Afghanistan area to gain direct access to the Indian Ocean.

Scott told the Senate that in his judgment the trip was "highly successful."
And the senator said the information gathered will be made available, in confidence, to the Senate Armed Services Committee of which he is a member.

'Not only did I confer with the Defense Minister and Acting Secretary of Foreign Affairs in India but with the Presidents and principal ministers and secretaries in both Pakistan and Afghanistan," Scott

He charged that some news accounts of the trip, lasting from Oct. 28 to Nov. 20, as well as his other overseas travels as a member of the Senate, had been biased.

Scott protested that the just-ended "serious trip" was subjected to ridicule by one newspaper headline proclaiming: "Senator Scott to Conquer Khyber

U.S. Geological Survey said Tuesday there is no shortage of water for industrial or personal use in the United States, "but we could be facing problems in the future unless we learn to conserve."

V.E. McKelvey, in an interview, said, 'We can't expand our growth too far and expect to have the necessary water to meet all the needs of this nation. There must be a greater selectivity of water

"We are in no real danger now, but we must look to the future, as well as to the present," he said

McKelvey was chairman of an advisory committee on water data meeting in Houston for a three-day conference. The sessions are aimed at finding methods of obtaining information needed to solve current and future water problems.

The goal of the conference, McKelvey said, "Is to avoid possible waste of time and effort in the collection of water data. Then we can concentrate on collecting information at key trouble spots where future problems appear likely to develop."

Attending the conference are members of national, state and regional organizations, professional and technical societies, and the academic community.

McKelvey told The Associated Press, "We must find ways to use fresh water more effectively. We may suggest using salt water from the sea to generate power, rather than water from our rivers and Asked if the nation was facing an immediate crisis in the supply of water, McKelvey said, "Not at this time. But we must be more prudent in the use of water in the future. To say it simply, we may some day have to stop watering our lawns every day or washing the car once a week. Not now, but in the years ahead."

The scientist said pollution of the rivers and streams can be handled and "scores of millions of dollars can be saved by understanding the pollution problem.

'The amount of water American people have come to accept, the unlimited supply, can't be here forever. But we can avoid a crisis such as the energy crisis if we just look ahead. Actually, we are in pretty good shape right now.

McKelvey said it always "takes a long time for the public to become concerned and involved in a problem, be it energy or water. Once they realize the growth of the nation and the greater demand on water, the public will turn to the state legislatures and Congress and demand action in conservation and in the prevention of pollution.' He said industry has done much more in the past years to prevent pollution of rivers and streams than the big cities. "It is really a local problem when you talk of pollution and the citizens must be ready to pay more tax dollars to solve the problem. Industry has done its job, now the cities and the taxpayers must do their

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The body of a young woman was found dumped along a city street Tuesday, and a special police task force was trying to determine whether she was the eighth victim of the stop-and-go strangler.

There was no immediate indication how the girl died. The body, found on Cliff Drive, was the eighth found within a five-mile radius of suburban Glendale since mid-October and the third discovered in the Highland Park area of northern Los Angeles in 10 days. Representatives of the 32-man strangler task force created by the Los Angeles and Glendale police departments, the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department and the coroner's office were at the scene.

-Yolanda Williams, 21, found on Forest Lawn Drive near Griffith Park on

-Judith Lynn Miller, 15, found on a La Crescenta front lawn Oct. 31

-Lissa Kastin, 21, found in a Glendale ravine Nov. 6.

The seven other girls, all raped and strangled, included:

-Kristina Weckler, 20, found Nov. 19 in Highland Park.

-Sonja Johnson, 14, found Nov. 20 in Elysian Park. -Dolores Cepeda, 12, found with Miss Johnson.

-Jane Evelyn King, 28, found along a Golden State Freeway off-ramp near Griffith park last Wednesday.

All had apparently been abducted, raped and strangled and then dumped in remote locations from a car that stopped only briefly to avoid being seen, hence the stop-and-go tag.

The eight cases were evidently not related to several other bodies found in the area this month, police have said.

Initially investigators had included on their list four women slain in November, but later decided dissimilarities in those cases probably ruled out a connection with the stop-and-go strangler.

They also discounted the stop-and-go connection in the death of a young woman found Monday in the Lennox area and the slaying of a man found beside a Long Beach Freeway off-ramp Tuesday.

Low Ratings Spark Controversy Between Networks, Advertisers

ratings show that fewer people are watching television this year, sparking a controversy that pits the advertising industry against the three major networks because of the money at stake.

First Portions Related In Hughes Will Story

decide whether Howard Hughes wrote the so-called Mormon Will listened Tuesday to one side of the lengthy saga surrounding the three-page document.

The story was told as part of a two-day opening statement by Los Angeles attorney Harold Rhoden, who is trying to have the document declared genuine.

Rhoden represents former Hughes aide Noah Dietrich, who is named by the purported will as the executor of the vast Hughes estate.

Hughes's relatives claim the will is forged and that the entire story of the document is an elaborate fabrication. In his statement, Rhoden took the jurors back to the 1960s, when Hughes lived in seclusion at the Desert Inn Hotel. Rhoden said Hughes's personal aides will tell conflicting stories about their employer, stories about his physical appearance, his mannerisms and his ability to leave the hotel.

Rhoden contends that Hughes was physically able to, and did leave, the hotel on a number of occasions, but there are aides who claim that the recluse industrialist never left his penthouse suite. Hughes's activities then, especially during late December 1967, are important to Rhoden's case because of the story by his key witness - Melvin Dummar. Dummar, named as a beneficiary in the Mormon Will, claims to have picked up an old man in the desert north of here near the Cottontail Ranch, a brothel. Dummar said he found the man face down on the ground near the roadside and offered assistance. Dummar said the man identified himself as Hughes and Dummar claims he took the man to a Las Vegas hotel and was given some change from his pocket. Rhoden characterized Dummar as a 'naive, simple, sometimes silly individu-

AN EDITORIAL:

Sadat Presses Big Gamble

plus points, of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's Mideast Peace offensive are now coming to light.

President Sadat is pressing for a second round of talks this weekend in Cairo. His speedup tactics, while understandable, may prove costly.

As things now stand, the hardliners of the Arab world are moving to counter the Egyptian leader's peace offensive by holding a conference of their own. In addition, the Carter administration is taking a cautious look at the whole picture.

THE WHOLE scenario, unthought of a month ago, had thrown the Mideast negotiations, even the proposed Geneva Peace Conference, into a degree of turmoil.

For the moment, Sadat still maintains the momentum. But, it could be short-lived.

Ironically, it is upon Israel and the U.S. that his hopes rest for escaping with not only a peace pact he can live with, but perhaps his office and even his life.

If Israel does not come up with some sort of viable concessions which Sadat can hold up as proof that his big gamble in going to Jerusalem was worth the risk involved, then he will face not only mounting criticism from Syria, Libya and other Arab militants, but oppostion as home as well.

AND IN CALLING for a "summit" conference of the Arab world and Israeli officials this weekend, Sadat obviously is counting on

SOME OF THE dangers, as well as the Israel and the U.S. to see that things do not fall apart before they get started.

The ploy has put Prime Minister Menahem Begin and his government on the spot. Either the Israelis come up with some tangible evidence of being willing to deal in good faith or appear to be rebuffing a peace offer they themselves helped initiate.

Already, Begin's chief spokesman, Moshe Dayan, has indicated that Sadat's demand for return to all 1967 borders is unacceptable to Israel.

And in Washington, White House spokesmen are taking an extremely close look at the proceedings.

THE CARTER administration is caught in the middle, and to a degree in a vise of its own making.

When President Carter startled both the Egyptians and Israelis with his ill-conceived invitation to the Russians to get back into the Mideast picture, it became obvious that Sadat wanted no part of such a plan.

It was then that he and Begin came up with their dramatic gesture.

Now, the problem is how to keep the talks proceeding, and pointing toward a more meaningful and concrete conference in Geneva within the framework of what Israel and Egypt are willing to give one another,

In the meantime, the "third leg" of the three-legged Mideast table-the Arab hardliners and the PLO-loom omniously in the background. Truly, the next few days or weeks could be crucial to the fate of the Mideast, if not the world.

AN EDITORIAL:

More Than Time For Crime

HAVING WAGED war for years against criminals, the country now seems equally determined to do something for the victims of violent crime.

At least 20 states, including California, Kentucky, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Tennessee, compensate crime victims for the injuries they suffer or the income they lose.

More than 20 states-with Colorado being the prime example-operate restitution programs in which convicted criminals are required to pay the people they've robbed or cheated along the way.

JUST LAST month, the House of Repreburse states for up to 25 percent of the first $25,000 they pay to victims of violent crimes. Given a choice, it would seem preferable that the federal government stay out of the crime compensation business except-maybe-when federal crimes are involved. The majority of crimes are covered by state rather than federal law, after all.

IT WOULD also be wiser, whenever possi-

ONE OF THE more effective restitution programs is operating in Hamilton County, Ohio, which includes the city of Cincinnati.

In that program, young criminals work under close supervision in parks and other public facilities and repay their victims with the money they earn.

On the surface, this approach seems to make more sense than simply tossing youthful lawbreakers in jail where they can do little or nothing to learn a trade, let alone begin to repair the damage they've done.

HENRY J. TAYLOR: Reds Outpacing U.S.

SECRETARY OF DEFENSE Harold Brown, with the American interest in mind, sees the Soviet Union leaping far ahead of the United States in nuclear-powered submarines.

The Soviet now has 110. We have 102. It has 235 conventional diesel-powered undersea craft. We have 15. Conventional and nuclear, the Soviet total is 345.

This total is more than three times ours. In fact, it is larger than the American, British and French combined. And Secretary Brown knows the Soviet can launch at least one nuclear submarine a month! Meanwhile, our Office of Naval Intelligence privately states that the Soviet Union has increased its stock of long-range, submarine-based Intercontinental Ballistic Missiles (ICBM) from 710 in mid-1972 to more than 1,000 today.

SECRETARY BROWN SAYS the Soviet's Ballistic Missile (BM) craft most endanger the United States. Each BM can launch 16 three-megaton. 1,500-mile-range missiles aggregating 1.9 billion tons-ves, tons-of conventional explosives.

One BM alone can deliver roughly the entire explosive power of all conventional bombs dropped on Germany in World War II.

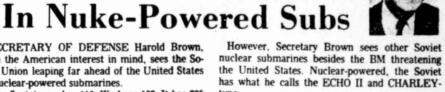

The BM's underwater acceleration is fast. The sub is elusive; a BM can navigate two months without surfacing

It achieves this by sea bottom charts, fathometer, inertial guidance, what our Navy calls Loren C., satellites, etc., all calculations pouring into an on-board computer

Our ONI finds BM's stationed along the entire Atlantic seaboard, the Gulf of Mexico and off San Diego, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Seattle. They can blanket the United States.

AND, INCIDENTALLY, before the Soviet-Red China break, Red China obtained 30 Russian-built ubmarines from the Soviet.

Remote stationing arises because our country and the Soviet uses wide, especially built "mother submarines" to refuel at sea, pumping the fuel through long, flexible pipes. The "mother submarine" is also equipped to make minor repairs.

Our Navy West Coast Defense chief Vice-Adm. Ray E. Peet once told a Senate committee: "I cannot cope with them. Fired under water, their missiles' 400-mile range is launched well out of our ships' radar capability. We have no equivalent counter-force.

THE SOVIET ALSO has as we do, blessings be, the nuclear-powered 350-feet "killer" type submarine designed to seek out and attack other sub-

Topside, the "killer" has a pinched profile like the face of an eel. It can fight at great depths and its capabilities are formidable.

The Soviet has also put to sea its immense DELTA-class submarines, the largest ever built. The DELTA-class displaces 10,000 tons and its overall length is 450-feet; one and a half times the length of a football field. It is armored with 12 nuclear-missile tubes, each missile having a 4,-000-mile range; the longest-range submarine weapon in existence.

Looking to the United States, Soviet submarines (as well as the Red fleet) heavily emphasize the Arctic. As long ago as 1962 the Soviet submarine "Leninskii Komsomol" pioneered this by going to the North Pole under the ice.

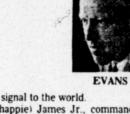

THE UNDERSEAS WARFARE Command headquarters is at Archangle, on the sheltered White Sea. There the Soviet has built a large underground control center with powerful radio transmitters that control its submarines. Secretary Brown says the Soviet has additional transmitters at Baltiysk (Fishes Haff) controlling its big Baltic Fleet and still more at the Kaliningrad (formerly Konisberg) East German submarine base near the East German submarine school at Sassnitz. Soviet spying has been consequential. A nuclear submarine, here one minute and gone the next, is really a ICBM missile-launching platform. They suit ideally the wily Soviet pur-

ANDREW TULLY:

WASHINGTON-Poor little Amy Carter is in trouble with the Beautiful People division of Papa's Democratic Party. It seems she was seen shopping for a pair of shoes at Sears.

Predictably, some of my modish friends are scoffing at Amy's little excursion as another sign that the Carter family lacks style, the implication being that in their rarefied circles one is simply "not" seen even window shopping at a Sears store. But opposition politicians will jeer at their

Politically, Sears is much more important than any symbol of high fashion. It is traditionally Middle American-and, for that matter, even more popular among what the elitists like to call the lower classes

AMERICANS HAVE been buying stuff at Sears since its first catalog was printed. For many, Sears is Tiffany's, and though it may be mawkish I can sense long-distance the warm spot Amy Carter implanted in millions of voting breasts by being seen in that emporium of the masses.

A Main Streeter in Iowa or California can identify with a White House occupant whose shopping sprees have a common touch. Indeed, the image of Amy examining shoes at Sears is a press agent's dream. It should be worth a carload of votes among folks who have never entered a Fifth Avenue shop.

Politically calculated or not, Amy in fact did not seem out of place in Sears. She has spent most of her young adult life in Plains, Ga., a hamlet which is not overset with exotic boutiques, and it seems safe to say that most of her clothes came from the kind of stores to which most Americans give their custom.

PAPA IS A RICH man as well as President, but basically the Carters remain Middle American. on account of they had to do some scrimping in the buying department before their peanut business got rolling and Pa was elected Governor of Georgia. Families that don't inherit wealth seldom shuck their habit of living like people

Jimmy Carter, for example, still likes to roam about the White House in blue jeans and work shoes. To some this may seem an affectation, but in fact such clothing is comfortable and undemanding and whatever his faults, the President cannot be accused of being a clothes horse.

In Washington, he's a pretty cool customer and a hard taskmaster, but in Plains he has remained one of the boys.

I would say, too, that Mrs. Carter-like Mrs. Truman and Mrs. Nixon before her-has very little side. She has done some political jobs for her husband, but she doesn't make all that much news. She remembers easily that it is her husband who is President. She is not much for popping into night clubs and other "in" joints. Not for her the plunging neckline or the skirt slit up

I HAVE WATCHED and admired our First Ladies for a long time, and I get the impression Rosalynn Carter is, well, restful. I expect she is almost always home when Hubby gets there after a hard day with the CIA or a minority caucus.

I would not be surprised to learn that she does tatting. She does not strike me as a wife who is always demanding that her husband take her to some French restaurant that charges one's right arm for a peanut butter and jelly sandwich.

Anyway, it has now been spread on the record that one of the Carter women, at least, shops at Sears. I can almost hear potential Presidential candidates dropping a hint to their ladies that they would not be put out if a photographer caught them buying a bauble or two at Woolsounds the wrong signal to the world.

Gen. Daniel (Chappie) James Jr., commander of the U.S.-Canadian North American Air Defense Command (NORAD) and the U.S. Aerospace Defense Command (ADCOM), suffered a heart attack in September (medically described as a "cardiac incident").

He was expected to stay in command until retiring six months from now.

But that was before his Oct. 20 letter to Gen. David Jones, Air Force chief of staff. Both Jones and James deny to us that the letter was connected with James's relief from command, but scarcely any Air Force officer believes

These have generated a barely suppressed anxiety at the Pentagon.

The Air Force study heightens this anxiety by proposing that ADCOM be eliminated-its interceptor functions going to the Tactical Air Command (TAC), its space surveillance functions assumed by the Strategic Air Command (SAC).

To Air Force officers, this climaxes years of downgrading air defense, making the U.S. vulnerable to air attack.

THAT THIS PROPOSAL could doom the 30year U.S.-Canadian partnership in NORAD was disclosed in an Oct. 14 "eyes-only" memorandum sent to Ottawa by Canadian Maj. Gen. K. C. Lett, NORAD's director of operation.

Contending the Air Force study breaks the U.S.-Canadian agreement, Lett said: "It is underhanded, devious, full of half truths."

On Oct. 18, the Air Force sent a confidential memo to Defense Secretary Harold Brown summarizing the study

IAY HARRIS: For Real

THE ROLE OF the "funny" paper or comics in American journalism has long been assured. In more recent times, it has been an unusual

Instead of being "funny" as in "Ha, Ha," more than one comic strip, or single panel feature, has zeroed in on timely day-to-day living, life styles and politics.

In the case of the latter area, the "comics" also have generated a degree of controversy.

Numerous cartoonists touch on political events in one form or another, but few get deeply involved in subjects which might be considered partisan or too topical. After all, given today's political climate, a cartoonist might get shot out of the saddle between the drawing board and publication date. Not to mention irritating a goodly section of potential readers.

RECENTLY, TWO OF the more pointed "comic commentators" have created comment of their own for A-J readers. On one hand, Al Capp, has put down his pen after 43 years as the irascible creator of Li'l Abner, a move which many la-

On the other, we have received correspondence asking why The A-J does not carry Gary Trudeau's Doonesbury. As most readers know, Li'l Abner was one of the maintstays of The A-J comics pages for years. Doonesbury is not. And for good reason, that being that we feel that any objective newspaper should set its own editorial policies and not let someone far removed from the scene, perhaps with a questionable axe to grind, get involved.

We also think that comics, as opposed to editorial cartoons, should stick to a a commentary on life in general, and not wander far afield in areas where more expertise is a prequisite to fair and objective comment.

This is not to confuse the strict editorial cartoon with the "comic" sort. Way back when, most cartoons indeed were political. But as time passed, story lines were added, characters developed and the Mutts and Jeffs and Little Orphan Annies and Li'l Abners became real to millions.

THIS PAST month marked a milestone of sorts for those Li'l Abner fans. Al Capp, for personal health reasons, decided to say goodbye to one of the most real, yet unreal, set of characters the comic world has ever

For better or worse, Capp spun a story with which millions could and did relate, whether it was Pappy Yokum in dutch with Mammy, or Sadie Hawkins Day each Fall of the year. And, although he occasionally moved into the "real life" realm. Capp kept Dogpatch far enough removed never to be mean, yet not so far away as to be believable.

Capp also dipped his pen into the political pot off and on down through his 43-year-career. But, it was usually with a deft touch, and the same Al Capp who later became a super-patriot, with no apologies to anyone. In its heyday in the late 1940s and early 1950s, the Li'l Abner strip was something of a cult among the intelligentsia. Capp's ventures into political and social satire, notably the famous Schmoo episodes, were solemnly analyzed as parables of American life or of the human condition. But, few got upset with the antics or words that came forth

THEN CAME the 1960s and the era of violent student protest. Capp was not amused. He took to the college lecture circuit like an avenging angel, claiming that "The martyrs at Kent State were the kids in National Guard uniforms.' To many of his fans, Capp seemed to have been transformed overnight from an easygoing liberal into a youth-baiting grouch. "The more I see of students," he would tell his hostile campus audiences, "the more I dislike them."

Now, it is goodbye to Mammy and Pappy Yokum and Daisy Mae. Farewell to Hairless Joe and Lonesome Polecat, Joe Btfsplk, Moonbeam McSwine, Jubilation T. Cornpone and all the other denizens of an Appalachia or an Ozarks which none ever saw, but were real, nevertheless.

It will be for his whimsical and loveable characters that Capp will be remembered, not his political parries. And because of that, in a way an era has ended.

TODAY, ONE HAS a choice of all sorts of comics, some which seem to blatantly espouse political ideas and causes. The controversial Doonesbury strip is seen by many as being in that vein.

Unlike Capp, or Peanuts' creator, Charles Schulz, Trudeau in the opinion of even some papers which carry him, paints his politics with a broad brush, sometimes too heavily colored. And while his characters may indeed reflect a life style of some in the U.S., it is a style to which many object.

At one point during the Nixon hysteria, Newsweek reported that a Trudeau panel had a cartoon character saying that John Mitchell appeared to be "guilty, guilty, guilty!

The Washington Post noted at the time, in excising that strip, "If anyone is going to find any defendant guilty. It's going to be the due process of justice, not a comic-strip artist. We cannot have one standard for the news pages and another for the comics." It was a swamp which Capp skirted but into which he did not wander.

Li'l Abner appeared in approximately 900 newspapers at its peak, and was in about 400 when Capp voluntarily signed off.

As he looks back on his life in Dogpatch, Capp can take satisfaction in the knowledge that his strip was one of the most popular of all time, ranking right up there with Dick Tracy, Little Orphan Annie, Bringing Up Father, Peanuts and even Doonesbury. Comic-wise, that says a lot. About the cartoonist and the reader...

THE 20,000 BOOKS about chess exceed in number the books about all other games put together. I'm told. One of these chess books cites studies to prove that a good memory is not the most significant faculty a top chess player can possess, not at all. Imagination is, according to this authority. The most remarkable chess performances, it's said, are not executed, the way a pianist renders a tune, but are created, the way a composer dreams up such.

SETTING A NEW POLICY AT CITY HALL - Mayor-elect Edward Koch, right, talks with newsmen as one of his newly-named deputy mayors, Mrs. Roney Menschel, listens Tuesday during news conference to announce naming his four deputy mayors at New York's City Hall. Koch Names Four To Help Run City

NEW YORK (AP) - Mayor-elect Edward I. Koch on Tuesday named four deputy mayors — including fellow Congressman Herman Badillo — to help him run this fiscally ailing city for the next four years.

Badillo will be deputy mayor for management, overseeing the city agencies and ready to "crack heads," he said, to see that they are run efficiently.

Koch named David Brown, state Crime Commission chairman, to be his deputy mayor for policy; former Democratic National Committee Vice Chairman Basil Paterson to handle the city's labor relations and Ronay Menschel to be in charge of intergovernmental relations.

Mrs. Menschel has been Koch's administrative assistant, running his New York and Washington congressional offices for the past eight years.

"One of our most serious jobs is to show we can spend money from Washington wisely," said Badillo, a representative from the Bronx since 1971.

Koch, who represents Manhattan's East Side in the House, said he believed the city's deficit in its $14 billion 1978-79 budget is more than the $245 million estimated by lame-duck Mayor Abraham Beame. The city has been dependent on a $2 billion annual loan from Washington to avoid bankruptcy and is seeking to renew it. Paterson, a former state senator, will be faced almost immediately with the difficult task of negotiating new contracts with the city's municipal unions this Koch sounded several themes from his campaign, saying he would seek to close the budget gap through eliminating duplication and waste in government and added, "When it comes to the bottom line, if there's a need for layoffs, se will be faced in a realistic way.'

former law partner, Allen G. Schwartz, will become the city's corporation counsel, and John LoCicero, who was his campaign manager, will become special advisor to the mayor, including liaison with the City Council.

Deputy mayors earn $50,980 a year.

House Rejects Compromise On Federal Abortion Payments

jected a compromise Tuesday on government abortion payments despite warnings from bitter senators who said they had yielded all they could in pursuit of an

Continuing the four-month-old dispute could affect about 240,000 government employees whose paychecks are tied to the abortion question. An interim funding measure, which was approved to forestall any payless pay days, expires at midnight Wednesday.

The next pay checks are due around

The compromise language would have permitted abortion payments when a woman's life would be endangered by a full-term pregnancy, for treatment of rape and incest victims who report the incidents to authorities and where a woman would suffer severe and long-lasting physical health damage if the pregnancy

The negative vote in the House was 205-183. The Senate endorsed the proposal

tions bill for the government's major social service agencies, the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Wel-

About 240,000 employees depend on the funding legislation for their pay-checks. Congress had passed two interim funding measures to ensure the checks for the employees while the abortion debate continued. Many Senate members have insisted they will not go along with a

The House vote followed a series of assionate appeals from members on both sides of the issue. "I believe this is the best we can do," House Majority Leader Jim Wright told his colleagues of the compromise. "It isn't perfect. It doesn't satisfy me completely. But I don't think we can do any better

Rep. Robert Bauman, R-Md., urged the House members to "put aside the 200-year tradition of this House of caving in when the hour gets late."

Rep. Bob Michel, R-Ill., who had oppromise, said he would support this one.

"We're at the point where somebody has got to give," he said. "Some of my colleagues on the subcommittee cannot give because of the tremendous pressures

Earlier, the Senate rejected two amendments offered by Sen. Jesse

One, which was defeated 42 to 21, would have retained the same abortion restrictions written into law last year. The so-called Hyde amendment provided for abortion payments only when a wom-was carried to term.

The other, which went down 42 to 23, was similar to the version finally agreed to in the Senate. Helms proposed that payments be made only for the treatment of rape and incest victims who promptly report the incidents to a law enforcement. agency, health service agency or

Helms said he proposed the latter amendment "so as to eliminate any possibility that two or three months after the fact a supposed victim would claim she had been raped when she had not."

Gunmen Rob Lubbock Man

An 18-year-old Lubbock man told officers two men robbed him early Tuesday and escaped with $14 in cash after threatening him with a "small blue gun."

Perry Thomas Trask of 5200-50th St. said the men approached him near his apartment complex about 1:50 a.m. Tuesday, then demanded his money.

One of the suspects reportedly ordered Trask to "give me all your money."

The teen-ager said he handed them his money and was given a second command: "Turn around and start running." As he did so, Trask said he heard the suspect cock the small gun.

While the experiences perhaps were less harrowing, other Lubbockites were making involuntary sacrifices, too, Tues-

Mike Chandler and Al Allred of 4402 75th Drive told police someone entered their apartment recently and stole a $500 watch, stereo equipment, a pair of 35millimeter cameras and a turntable. The men said their loss amounted to $1,717.

Meanwhile, Kathy Parramore of 2110 29th St. told police someone took a man's wedding ring from her residence sometime last week, along with several other items. Also taken, the victim said, were sterling silverware, two pistols, a watch and $200. The stolen items were valued at more than $2,000, reports indicated.

Emmett G. Nesse of 4708 Ave. C said he lost two guitars, an amplifier, a ring, a watch and a $100 to burglars, in a breakin that occurred sometime between last Wednesday and Monday. The goods reportedly were valued at $1,650.

Tools and paint valued at $820 reportedly were stolen from Jack D. Smith of 3515 47th St. sometime in the last week. Smith said the items were taken from a small trailer parked at his house at 1918 E. Auburn St.

Both Samuel Bennett of 1802 5th St. and Earnest Pevy of 406 Ave. X reported the theft of their hubcaps Tuesday. Both men valued their stolen wheel covers at near $300.

Thieves with a penchant for stereo tape cassetts reportedly robbed Don Miller of 1607 Ave. R of $200 worth of tapes, and John H. Price of 1001 University Ave., who reported a $100 loss...

A clock radio, a television and a piggy bank were hauled away from Garland Jarvis' 4645 Harvard St. residence sometime Monday, reports indicated. Jarvis estimated his loss at about $350.

UPLAND COTTON GINNED NATIONALLY prior to Nov. 1 was lower in grade and shorter in staple than a year earlier.

White grades 41 and higher accounted for 60 percent, according to statistics on quality released by the USDA. This was the smallest proportion of ginnings in these grades since 1965 and compares with 77 percent during the corresponding period last year and 75 percent two years ago.

Grade 41 was the predominant grade at 31 percent, compared with 52 percent in 1976 and 40 percent in 1975. Grade 31 made up 21 percent, against almost 19 percent last year and about 27 percent two years ago.

The white grades accounted for 76 percent, the smallest proportion of any crop in six years. White grades comprised 89 percent through the corresponding period last year and 88 percent two years ago.

Almost 22 percent graded in the light spotted category, compared with 10 percent and 11 percent in 1976 and 1975, respectively. The average grade index was 93.0 (grade 31 equals 100), down from 93.6 a year

GINNINGS TO NOV. 1 TOTALED 7,486,000 running bales, equivalent to about 54 percent of the indicated 1977 crop. This compares with 3,699,000 bales, or 35 percent, of the 1976 crop ginned through October a year ago.

Staples 31 and shorter comprised almost 13 percent of this season's ginnings, the largest proportion since the crop of 1967. This compares with 4 percent a year ago and almost 3 percent two years ago. Staples 32 and 33 made up almost 17 percent, against 16 percent last season and almost 8 percent two years ago. Cotton stapling 32 accounted for more than 6 percent, the largest proportion since 1961. Cotton stapling 34 and 35 comprised more than 60 percent, against 65 percent a year earlier and almost 72 percent two years ago. Staples 36 and longer accounted for 10 percent, down from 15 percent a year earlier and 18 percent in

The average staple length was 34.0/32nds inches, against 34.3 a year earlier and 34 7 two years ago.

AVERAGE MICRONAIRE WAS 4.5, UP FROM 4.3 in 1976 and 4.4 two years ago. Cotton in the 3.5-4.9 mike range accounted for almost 79 percent, against 84 percent a year earlier and 88 percent in 1975.

Cotton miking 3.4 and below made up almost 3 percent, compared with 4 percent and 2 percent in 1976 and 1975, respectively.

Almost 19 percent miked 5.0 and above, the largest proportion for the higher like values in eight years. This compares with 12 percent for the same period in 1976 and 10 percent in 1975. Fiber strength averaged 87,500 pounds per square inch (p.s.i.), compared with 88,400 last year and 87,500 two years ago.

Cotton testing 90,000 p.s.i. and stronger made up 33 percent, against 42 percent in 1976 and 36 percent in 1975. Cotton weaker than 80,000 p.s.i. accounted for 7 percent, the smallest proportion since records began in 1966 and down from 8 percent and 12 percent for 1976 and 1975, respectively.

Agricultural Amendment Sought

HOUSTON (UPI) - The president of the state's largest farm and ranch organization Tuesday said its members will work to pass a constitutional amendment permitting agricultural land to be taxed on its productive value rather than its market value.

Carrol Chaloupka of Dalhart, a feed grain and cattle producer, said the Texas Farm Bureau was taking the action in response to an attorney general's ruling that a new tax relief program was unconstitutional in its current form.

Texas Attorney General John Hill issued the opinion in Austin then flew to Houston where he personally explained the situation to 1,500 convention deleGov. Dolph Briscoe for the situation.

coe)," he said. "I don't blame anybody.

"We in agriculture have got to do a better job. We've got to cause the legislature to move when they need to move. We're going to do everything we can to make it

The Texas Farm Bureau is very disappointed by the ruling of the attorney ge eral, but we know he did what he had to do," Chaloupka said. "We must work harder to have the amendment to the constitution approved so we can put it to work.

Hill's decision said a bill passed by the 1977 Legislature providing for taxation of Chaloupka said he did not blame Hill or Gov. Dolph Briscoe for the situation.

"I have no reason to blame him (Briscoe)," he said. "I don't blame anybody.

"I have no reason to blame him (Briscoe)," he said. "I don't blame anybody.

He said sponsor of the bill originally made its effect contingent upon passage of a constitutional amendment, and changed the wording of the bill only after the proposed amendment failed in the House by one vote.

"Tax relief for farmers and ranchers is imperative and is of the highest urgen-Hill told the group. "It is essential for those who have chosen agriculture as a livelihood, and it is essential for everyone of us who depend, as we all do, on food and fiber produced on Texas farms

Hill said the issue - House Bill 22 -

Hill, conceding he risked the anger of the state's agricultural industry by facing the Farm Bureau meeting, said he made the trip because some state leaders wanted to embarrass him.

"It could hurt me some politically, but I'm not worried about that," Hill said. "I just want the truth out so when I am governor in 1979, we can come down here and deal effectively with this issue."

Shin Oak Infestation Problem Multiplies

In addition, to economic considerations, the land often lacks moisture, and noxious weeds or soil erosion could be tit is working between Portales, N.M., and Muleshoe, and in an area meandering through Andrews, Winkler and Ward counties.

The sand shinnery oak grows knee to waist high, and for approximately six weeks in the spring it cannot be safely grazed because the buds and young leaves are poisonous to cattle, and later acorns are toxic.

Within the shinnery, however, there can be good forage from bluestem, needle-and-thread, and dropseed grasses. Ranchers find sometimes that, when the oak is removed, the only thhng left is threeawns, or needlegrasses, which are not palatable for cattle.

A common control is to root plow the oak, he said, but this removes any good grasses and, because precipitation can provide only 12 to 15 inches of moisture per year, erosion in the sand hills area is

"Besides," Pettit said, "root plowing destroys not only the oak but also any good grasses that might be growing on the land."

If root plowing is used, he said, ranchers would do well to plow in strips, then plant good range grasses, pressing the seed into the fine soil, and hope for two or three rainy days. He suggested weeping lovegrass as a potentially good cover. Among the chemicals which have been used to control the sand shin oak, Spike appears to offer the best long-term solution. Control practices to date have called for one pound per acre.

At a cost of $15 per pound for the chemical plus $3 per acre for aerial ap-plication, this solution is too expensive for ranchers in Pettit's view. If the cost could be reduced to between $7.50 and $10.50 per acre with the rancher having a reasonable assurance of not having to repeat the process for 20 years, the economics of control are

"The less chemical that is used, the more likely the land will have left on it some good range grasses that serve a dual purpose. They are attractive for grazing, and they help hold the soil," Pettit explained.

"With good control and moderate" chemical use, productivity of the land » could be increased in the range of 300

He said that within the next year he hopes to have some final results on his research, which involves attempting to control sand shinnery oak with Spike rates ranging downward from three. fourths to one-sixteenth of a pound per

Cattle Futures End Session On Rebound

By Reuters

CHICAGO - On a rebound of early losses of as much as 42 points, cattle futures ended five lower to 42 higher Tuesday on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange. February was up most, with only the nearby option finishing weaker. Sales were estimated at 10,251 contracts.

February benefited from bear spreading with underlying support at initial losses on heavy livestock runs and lower prices coupled with weakness in feed grains. Maintenance of dressed beef at 65 3/4 cents per pound at noon also was Wholesale beef was unchanged for all weights. Cash cattle were steady to off $1 at a top of $43.50 per hundredweight, lowest in two weeks.

The six markets expect 19,700 head to arrive today. Tuesday's slaughter was reported at 148,000 head. Hog futures bounced back from early losses of 52 points and climbed two to 55 higher at the close led by February. Volume was estimated at 6,155 turnovers. Nearby December rose to a new season's high and its highest level since September, 1976, at $42.40. Initial selling followed heavy hog runs and lower prices but aggressive support by the commission house with a cash hog connection brought new daily highs at most $1 over the Omaha top of $41.50. Wholesale hams were unchanged to up one cent per pound at 87 to 96 cents bid, f.o.b. river points. Cash hogs were off 50 cents to $1.50 with a top at $42.50. The day's kill was set at 325,000 head.

Pork belly (bacon) futures also recovered early losses to 1 1/2-week lows to finish 80 to 102 points higher led by February. Volume was estimated at 5,521 exchanges.

The nearby option was lifted 137 points for a while, highest since July, on aggressive buying sparked by a commission house with cash interests.

Stops uncovered on the scale-up also fed the rise after selling on weak cash hogs and bellies early in the session.

Wholesale bacon was unchanged to off 2 1/2 cents at 40 3/4 to 44 cents per pound, f.o.b. river, a two-week low.

Educator Abandons Neutered English

FARGO, N.D. (AP) - The Fargo School District administrator of empl ee relations has given up on trying to de-ex the English language.

"After struggling for a couple of years to desex or neuter the English language... I'm throwing in the towel and returning to the use of the masculine gender when referring to all persons of both sexes," Ed Raymond said in a memo to the school board. Raymond said the pronouns "he-she, often used together to remove discrimi-nation, remind him "of a character who wears jockey shorts and a Christian Dior

"I suppose one could use 'it' in place of 'he' or 'she,' but too often 'it' reminds me of what happens to animals in a trip to a veterinarian," he said.

Grain Futures

CHICAGO (AP) - Farm futures prices struggled Tuesday to reverse Monday's negative performance on the Chicago Board of Trade with soybeans and wheat leading the most successful comeback.

Soybeans were held down for most of the day as Monday's weak showing continued for most of the session. Selling by commission houses and local traders put a damper on an effort to reach the plus column but late in the day speculative buying set in to push prices as much as two cents a bushel higher. Only the September contract was left in the negative

Corn and oats were less successful. Speculative selling and commercial buying kept corn at or near Monday's close for most of the session before finishing down a cent or more. Oats also failed to show any momentum and closed slightly lower.

Convicted Nazi Kappler Under Close Guard

SOLTAU, West Germany (AP) - Nearly four months after his escape from a Rome prison hospital, convicted Nazi war criminal Herbert Kappler lives quietly and mysteriously in this north German town behind a wall of police protection. The 70-year-old Kappler, a former colonel in the Nazi SS elite guard, was suffering from intestinal cancer and said to be on the verge of death when his wife, Anneliese, helped him escape Aug. 15.

A family source said Kappler has regained enough strength to take walks ac-companied by his wife and police guards. The strict security around the Kappler apartment above a drugstore has angered some of the townspeople, who seldom catch a glimpse of the man convicted of killing 335 Italian civilians. He was serving a life sentence for the deaths, ordered in reprisal for an attack by Italian partisans in which 32 German soldiers were killed.

"Kappler enjoys almost as much protection as a cabinet minister," com-plained a local bank manager.

The West German government peti-tioned Italy several times for Kappler's release on humanitarian grounds. But Italian authorities, under pressure from former resistance fighters and Jewish groups, blocked it.

An Italian military tribunal decided in November 1976 to release him, but that decision was overruled a month later by Italy's supreme court.

Mrs. Kappler had been lobbying for his release. When those efforts failed, she took the matter into her own hands, lowered him with a rope from a prison hospital window under cover of darkness and fled back to Germany.

send Kappler back to Italy because of a constitutional restriction against extra-diting German nationals. That refusal, coupled with Bonn's hard-line response to urban terrorism, sparked a wave of criticism in several European countries which implied that the German democracy was a facade and that the seeds of Nazism remain in the German spirit.

The West German government claims the few neo-Nazi organizations that have surfaced are insignificant.

However, the matter was brought up again Monday at an official dinner in Bonn given for Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan. During a speech at the dinner, Dayan said Israelis were saddened by "the latest anti-Semitic incidents among youth, the attempts to re-write history and the nostalgia for the curious. A reporter inspecting the park-ing lot near the Kappler home was ordents among youth, the attempts to re-

Hitler era, in which can be detected an indulgence toward Nazi war criminals and their deeds."

The parking lot near the Kappler apartment has been taken over by police who station a van there at all times. A coil of barbed wire runs along the creek behind

A sign warns patrons: "Please understand that there can be only very limited parking in the lot. Please follow the instructions of the authorities."

Police refuse to say why they are guarding Kappler. But authorities said in August that they were stationing guards to prevent unidentified groups from killing him or spiriting him back to Italy.

The guards are quick to confront the dered to produce identification papers. A photographer for a local newspaper tried to take a picture of the van, but he said police jumped from the vehicle and tore the camera away.

Town Councilman Wolfgang Buhr said he found the restrictions do not apply only to reporters or outsiders. He said he was walking to his garage in a courtyard

Astronomy Satellite Discovers X-Ray Sources

WASHINGTON (AP) - A new U.S. astronomy satellite has discovered 15 new sources of powerful X-rays as far out as "halfway to the edge of the universe," scientists reported Tuesday.

The satellite also is giving science its best look yet at a "whole world of bursting, exploding phenomena" in the hidden heavens the eye cannot see.

The observations were made as researchers reported on the first 100 days

Meals Pay Taxable As Income

WASHINGTON (AP) - A worker's regularly paid meal allowances are taxable income, the Supreme Court said Tuesday in a decision that will mean millions to the Internal Revenue Serv-

The court's 7-2 vote is a legal and financial setback to some 10,000 state police troopers across the country who face paying federal income taxes on such allowances

The decision also will affect any other workers routinely reimbursed for meals eaten while on duty

In studying the case of a New Jersey state policeman, the justices were told by government lawyers that their decision would affect some 10,000 troopers in 15 states who collect meal allowances totaling $10 million a year. Those states, aside from New Jersey, are Alabama, Arkansas, Colorado, Connecticut, Idaho, Iowa, Missouri, Montana. New Mexico. North Dakota, South Dakota, Texas, Wisconsin and Wyoming. Six states had provided state police with such allowances but discontinued

the practice in recent years. They are Georgia, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Minnesota and Mississippi

Without a specific exemption by Congress for cash meal allowances, the court said in an opinion by Justice Wilham J. Brennan Jr., such allowances are income as defined by federal tax laws.

While the issue centered on states paying their police officers, the same rationale theoretically could have been used for all employers," a Justice Department tax lawyer said after learning of the court's action. "The gates might have been opened if the court had decided the other way.

Q. I am 67 years old and I draw a Veterans Administration check and my Social Security. I have heard the VA pays a clothing allowance. Do you know anything about this? - C.F

A. There is a yearly $190 clothing allowance that is paid to many eligible veterans. To be eligible for this, the veteran must be receiving a service-connected disability benefit from the VA, and his disability must require the use of prosthetic or orthopedic appliances. Appliances include artificial limbs, braces and wheelchairs which the VA determines to cause undue wear nd tear on clothing. Veterans on this VA compensation roll receive the allowance automatically after their initial application. You can apply for this at any VA office.

of the High Energy Astronomy Observa-tory — HEAO-1, launched Aug. 12 by the National Aeronautics and Space Adminis-

The satellite is studying some of the most intriguing mysteries of the universe - pulsars, quesars, exploding galaxies and black holes in space. Its instruments primarily are recording high energy Xrays emitted by these and other stellar sources. They also are collecting gamma and cosmic ray data.

HEAO is giving us a very remarkable look at our universe," said Dr. Herbert Friedman of the Naval Research Laboratory who is principal investigator on the satellite's large X-ray survey experiment. Because X-rays are blocked by our atmosphere from reaching earth, they can be studied only by instruments positioned above the atmosphere.

Friedman said the first X-ray sources in space were identified in 1970 by a U.S. astronomy satellite named Uhuru. It recorded about 170 sources and later satellites have raised the total of known

"HEAO has identified 15 new sources in the small section of the sky it has studied so far - that's about one twentieth of the total sky," Friedman stated. "We're now seeing sources halfway to the edge of the universe through their X-ray emis-

How far is that? "About 8 billion light years," he replied. One light year is the distance light travels in one year in a vacuum, or 5,878 trillion miles.

Friedman estimated that HEAO should locate an additional 800 to 1,000 sources by the time it comples mapping the entire sky over the next year or more. He said preliminary examination indicates the newly-discovered sources are distant clusters of galaxies, which emit X-rays from gases heated to one million degrees Fahrenheit.

"In X-ray astronomy we find a whole world of bursting, exploding phenomena which we can't see from earth," Friedman said. He said some bursts of energy are measured in tenths of seconds, others continue for minutes like a string of firecrackers while others pop like a camera's flashbulb.

Scientists hope that X-ray and gamma ray astronomy, along with the study of visible light and radio waves, will increase man's knowledge of these puzzling phenomena. Ultimately, they hope it will lead to advances in energy production, because stars are far more efficient generators of energy than anything made on

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury Department has ended hearings on proposed rules for wine labeling, but it's not too late to express your opinion since written comments will be accepted until Dec. 3.

-Drop earlier plans for a new class of wine called "ATF Seal" because consumers might think the government seal is a guarantee of quality.

-Prohibit use of the term "estate bottled" on domestic wines. The term would be allowed on imports if printed in the language of the foreign country, such as "mis en bouteille au chateau" on French wines.

Earlier the government had proposed various definitions for the phrase "estate bottled," but wine makers were unable to agree on one of them, so now the govenment proposes eliminating the statement altogether.

-Require wine labeled with the name of a type of grape (varietal wines) by made with at least 75 percent grapes of that type.

-Set boundaries on grape-growing areas such as the Napa Valley and Finger Lakes and require wines labeled with those names be made from at least 85 percent grapes from that area. This would also apply to foreign wines but the boundaries of those areas would not be set by the U.S. government.

Common Market rules for growing areas are being developed. They are also expected to require an 85 percent minimum. A Treasury Department spokes-man raid current European rules are 67 percent in Austria, 75 percent in German, and 85 percent or higher in France.

Ford said the engines may be subject to fuel leakage. It is sending letters to owners of the vans and trucks explaining the problem and how to get it fixed.

The American Society for Testing and Materials is working on a voluntary standard, but the National Consumers League sought the mandatory rule. However, the commission said only about 1,300 to 1,555 persons are injured annually by misdirected aerosol sprays and only two percent of these are admitted to hospitals. Thus, the commission said it does not feel misdirected sprays represent an unreasonable risk of injury calling for a mandatory standard.

Friend In Court Arrested

CINCINNATI (AP) - "If being Judy Carne's friend is a crime in this city, then it's a very, very sad state of affairs," said Madonna Crabtree, 22, after her arraignment on drug charges.

Mrs. Crabtee of Cincinnati was arrested outside the courtroom Nov. 21. She had accompanied Miss Carne, who appeared on the television show "Laugh-In," and who was making a court appearance on a charge of forging a drug

Mrs. Crabtree was charged with the same offense when a druggist pointed her out to police.

Mrs. Crabtree said she became friendly with Miss Carne wh appeared at a dinner theater in nearby Harrison, Ohio, for five weeks this fall. She said the actress asked Mrs. Crabtree to accompany her to court because she had no other friends locally.

Both are accused of using forged prescriptions to obtain a tranquilizer, called Quaalude, from drug stores. However, the charges indicated they were at separate drug stores.

For the most part, the California governor's off-beat arrival drew only curious stares and a few questions from a handful of Londoners.

"Which one is the governor?" a car rental driver asked. When Brown was pointed out, he shook his head. "The scruffy one? We took him to be a reporter."

Message To Washington

MESSAGE — I have recently completed an invention which I feel can be of significant use to American agriculture. I have devised a wind turbine, quite different from any other I have ever read about, which can be used to generate ferent from any other I have ever read about, which can be used to generate electricity or pump shallow oil wells or water wells.

My purpose in writing is to ask whether any funds might be available to complete my prototypes. I am prepared to submit information in detail. Where can I go to get my invention tested and hopefully prepared for mass production? It can be produced at a lower cost than today's fan-type windmills and will produce energy much more efficiently. — F.B., Dallas.

SENATOR BENTSON RESPONDS — The Energy Research and Development Administration informs me that it has established a program, in cooperation with the National Bureau of Standards, to evaluate energy-related inventions — particularly those by small businesses or individuals. At my request they have sent you a brochure and an application. If your idea is judged feasible a grant will be made available. a grant will be made available.

Could you please find out for me what requirements there are to be considered for such an application, and where I can get one? — G.H., Houston SENATOR BENTSEN RESPONDS — I am afraid that the TV news report was misleading. Summers was red-eyed and stood quietly as four bids for the town were opened at the Jackson County Courthouse in nearby Maqkoketa. The winning bid, from a group of six Maquoketa businessmen headed by former state Sen. Clifton Lamborn, was one of only two legitimate bids.

Summers had wanted $1 million for Hurstville. He said he was a little disappointed in the bids. But, after consulting with his attorney we all thought it would be better to let it go.'

"We'll make out all right," said Summers, who in the spring will move to a farm near Maquoketa where his brother lives.

Summers' attorney said bids were submitted by Sanibel Island, Fla., and Boydtown, Pa. He would not reveal the bids, but said they were not legitimate.

Bell said he hopes a new candidate can be chosen and nominated by Jan. 17 when Congress returns from a recess, but he cannot promise to meet that target.

He dropped few clues about who might be in the running for the nomination, except to say "We still have the list" of four men recommended by a presidentially appointed search committee last June.

They are John Van de Kamp, district attorney of Los Angeles County; Neil Welch, a career FBI man and head of the bureau's Philadelphia field office; Judge John J. Irwin of the Massachusetts Superior Court, and Sheriff William Lucas of Detroit.

Chances Damaged Lucas' chances were damaged by disclosures that he had participated in gambling junkets to Las Vegas.

The president and Bell also seriously considered John Mintz, an assistant FBI director and legal counsel who strongly supported by some members of the search committee but failed to make the final list.

Carter announced the nomination in August and it was greeted with enthusiastic support from a broad range of interest groups. Johnson then underwent a routine pysical examination and doctors discovered an aneuryism, or ballooning, in a section of a main abdominal artery. The condition required immediate surgery. Suffers Relapse Johnson and his physicians thought he had recovered sufficiently to attend Senate confirmation hearings last October, but he developed a hernia in the groin while in Washington early that month to pay courtesy calls on senators. After the relapse, he was ordered to bed and hearings were postponed until January. His physician, Dr. J.J. Kirschenfeld, said Monday he felt Johnson would not be well enough to plan on January hearings. The prospect of still another delay convinced Johnson he should bow out, Bell

Johnson also would have suffered financially from taking the FBI job, and Bell said he believes "that had to be a factor" in the decision even though Johnson never mentioned it to him. As a federal judge, Johnson is paid

$54,500 and can retire in seven years at full salary for life. The FBI director's annual salary is $3,000 higher, but the quirks of the federal pension system would have forced a substantial reduction in retirement income. Under the America's practicing lawyers are not adequately qualified to represent their clients, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger told a British commission.

The chief justice of the U.S. Supreme Court said he asked American state and federal court judges about lawyers who appear before them, and found "the most pessimistic view was that only 25 percent of the lawyers appearing in our courts were really qualified to represent their clients properly

"Some judges placed it as high as 75 percent. Somewhere near the midway mark is probably correct, and it will vary to some extent from place to place," Burger said. Burger testified in July before the Royal Commission on Legal Services, which is studying ways to make the British legal system more speedy and less costly. An official transcript was released Tuesday.

"My common sense tells me this was really not carried out," he said.

The alleged plan envisioned paying $100 a month to three aides for the 'intelligence network in the White House," three aides in the State Department to strengthen ties with an unnamed official there and three aides to 'concentratedly infiltrate" the Defense Department's military aid division.

Payments Planned

It also called for $100-a-month payments to five employees in U.S. intelligence agencies to strengthen ties with them. Three unnamed aides in the House Speaker's office and other congressional leaders' offices were to be paid $500 a month as "paid collaborators.

Some $15,000 was to be paid in "special manipulation expenses" to aides apparently in at least four different congressional offices.

The KCIA also planned to try to recruit and manipulate reporters for the New York Times, Washington Post, Christian Science Monitor, and American Broadcasting Co., according to the alleged plan.

Another goal was to "manipulate" two news organizations whose names were censored out of the copies of the plan released by the subcommittee.

To Hire Reporters The KCIA planned to "hire and utilize two American reporters as paid collaborators" and to hire one reporter for a Korean residents newspaper for $12,000 a year to manipulate him.

Benjamin C. Bradlee, executive editor of the Washington Post, said through a spokesman that he knew of no attempts by South Korean officials to recruit or manipulate Post reporters.

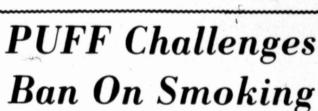

John Hughes, editor and manager of the Christian Science Monitor, said: "To my knowledge, no correspondent of this newspaper has ever been manipulated by the Korean CIA, or any agency of the South Korean government.

Correspondent Barred "To the contrary, one of the most unpleasant confrontations this newspaper has ever had with a foreign government occurred when the South Korean government in 1974 barred one of our correspondents, Elizabeth Pond, from South Korea for her reporting, which the government considered unsympathetic.

"Specifically, the South Korean ambassador to Washington warned us that Miss Pond's safety could not be guaranteed if she entered South Korea.

Once A Complainer, Now A Doer Arnold claimed up until five months ago he was like most citizens and just complained about things, wishing someone else would do something about it. But he decided he couldn't wait for someone else's action so he wrote to the tobacco companies. A letter to the tobacco companies, which ended up at the Tobacco Institute, informed the Arnolds of the non-existence of any group which they could join to combat anti-smoking regulations. "I thought it was high time we organized one," Arnold said.

Although the PUFF gets no funding from the tobacco companies or the Tobacco Growers' Association, the Tobacco Institute, which is the public relations arm of the companies, offered financial help which Arnold declined. Institute Provides Sympathizers

The institute did supply PUFF with a list of names of people who had written with similar complaints of anti-smoking regulations in the past. Those on the list became the first to know about PUFF through a letter.

Arnold said he has also availed himself of the institute's computer center for facts about smoking and non-smoking.

He kept the organization under wraps "until I felt fully capable of answering all the questions." Arnold said. "I'm not saying smoking may not be bad," he said, but "that's not the ques-

Rights As American At Stake

"The whole question is my rights as an American to do as I see fit. A small, highly-financed, vocal minority should not cramp my doings." Arnold said there is a clear demarcation between "people who choose not to smoke and the militant anti-smoking movement. "The anti-smokers want to force you to adopt what they demand is proper social behavior. The non-smoker, on the other hand, has made a personal decision and doesn't beleve harassing his fellow man is the right way to behave," he Arnold said he thinks the "repressive governmental action" against smokers can be replaced with "mutual respect for the comfort and well-being of smokers and non-smokers.

To emphasize PUFF's point about anti-smokers, the group is marketing a bumper sticker which says, "Warning, we smokers have determined that your nagging may be hazardous to your health.

However, Arnold candidly admits that the anti-anti-smoking campaign is simply a "newsworthy vehicle" to gain publicity for the organization. PUFF has hired the former assistant secretary of the U.S. Agriculture Department, Bob Meyer, to "decipher the legal mumbo-jumbo" and keep the organization informed on civil liberties legislation.

The charges were lodged against Sanchez in connection with a three-county Thanksgiving Day crime spree over West Texas and Eastern New Mexico that left one man dead and four wounded. A sixth person was abducted.

Sanchez Tuesday remained in Loving-ton's Lea County Jail under $10,000 bond, set by Magistrate Drayton Wasson on the New Mexico charges.
Texas authorities had not yet set bond.

Sanchez was arrested about 5 a.m. (CST) Friday at the National Potash Mine midway between Hobbs and Carlsbad on U.S. 62-180 as area lawmen trailed a 130-mile crime spree, which began with a shooting incident at a small Brownfield lounge.

The incident, involving four men, cul-minated in the death of Alfredo Sixto, 29, of Yorktown, Tex., and the wounding of Gil Sixto, 39, and Julian Pena Jr., 25, of Nixon, Tex.

Pena Tuesday remained in serious condition in the cardiac care unit of Brownfield General Hospital. Sixto was released Friday from the same hospital. After the 8:30 p.m. incident, the suspect allegedly fled north in a white and brown Buick. About 9:05 p.m., a man reportedly walked up to the home of Bill Battles, about three miles west of the shooting

Battles said Friday he and the man drove in a pickup to Gomez, where the man asked Battles to let him out on a dirt

Battles said the man suddenly brandished a pistol, bound him and forced him to lie in the floorboard of the pickup while the journey continued.

About 10:45 p.m. Battles said, the truck ran out of gas on U.S. 385, seven miles north of Seminole. Battles said the man flagged down Jim Yeley of Midland and that both he and Yeley were ordered out of their vehicles after which the gunman allegedly shot Yeley in the upper leg without provocation. Battles and his captor headed toward

New Mexico in Yeley's car. He said that after entering New Mexico, the man stopped between Hobbs and Carlsbad and ordered him out. At about 1 a.m., authorities said, the man flagged down another driver, Warren Allen, 37, of Carlsbad. Allen and the suspect reportedly scuffled and the assailant allegedly grabbed a shotgun from Allen's car and hit Allen in the head with it several times. The suspect then fled north into a field. According to witnesses at the National Board To Eye Utility Policy

The Electric Utilities Board, to meet at 7 p.m. today at the Lubbock Club, will consider a written policy on underground utility line placement.

The proposal formalizes past policy, said Bill Wood, Lubbock Power and Light (LP&L) director.

The policy, which he said will give the Planning and Zoning Commission guidelines for plats, says that utility lines in new residential areas will be underground except for major feeder and transmission lines.

Underground lines in commercial areas will depend on the power load required and on other factors that would have to be considered in each case.

The policy proposal comes from a committee formed several months ago to study the underground utility line question. The problem flared repeatedly last summer when P&Z commissioners clashed with the electric companies on restrictions of the lines.

The companies accused the commission of trying to broaden its informal policy of requesting underground lines in new residential developments wherever

The committee, comprised of representatives from the two electric companies, the utilities board and the commission, was formed to suggest a way to resolve the conflict.

Utilities board members also will hear a report by engineering consultants on

IRS Vague On Oil Tax Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Inquiring congressmen learned Tuesday that the Internal Revenue Service has made a recommendation involving billions of dollars in taxes from international oil companies, but could not learn which way the recommendation points.

IRS Commissioner Jerome Kurtz told a House Government Operations subcommittee that submitting the recommendation to the Treasury Department about two weeks ago was only a preliminary action. He said the final decision was up to Treasury officials.

Under repeated questioning Kurtz refused to divulge the reccommendation or to give any hint of its nature.

Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., the subcommittee chairman, told Kurtz that unless the Treasury has resolved the issue by the time Congress begins its second regular session in mid-January, the subcommittee will consider issuing a subpoena for the information.

The issue involved is whether payments by U.S. companies to oil producing countries as taxes are in fact comparable to the U.S. income tax or are actually disguised royalties on the petroleum.

guised royalties on the petroleum.
Oil companies, relying on earlier IRS rulings, treated the payments as taxes that could be offset in full against income tax owed to the United States. Royalties, like those paid to private landowners in this country, are treated for tax purposes as business deductions and thus are worth only about half as much to a taxpayer as fully credited taxes.

Kurtz said the existing system saved oil companies an estimated $1 billion in 1976; $1.4 billion in 1975, and a total of about $5.3 billion by an admittedly incomplete estimate since the early 1970s. Other estimates of the total range above $6 billion.

He said the IRS has conducted "a general reconsideration of the entire area" and is auditing 19 companies with assets of more than $250 million each, which account for most of the overseas production by U.S. firms.

Kurtz would not say, however, whether the issue of possible retroactive tax recovery had been discussed, contending that a reply would indicate the nature of the IRS recommendation.

Rosenthal said the initial ruling permitting crediting of the payments as taxes was issued in 1955 "despite Treasury's objection that the claim of income tax was a sham to disguise a royalty."

"The State Department vigorously supported the ruling," the congressman said.
Kurtz said he does not think the background of the original ruling is pertinent to the IRS's present study focusing on the legal question of the nature of the foreign

"I have no knowledge of any State Department involvement" at present, he said. Asked whether the Treasury might be consulting the State and Energy Departments, he replied, "I don't know ... They may well be, I simply don't know." Kurtz said there had been no pressure on IRS as it conducted its study.

Steel Industry Aid Proposed

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The steel industry will earn more money—about $900 million more—and make better use of its mills if a plan sent to President Carter is implemented, it was reported Tuesday.

Steel producers, whose 1977 earnings are likely to be among the worst ever in the post-World War II era, also would benefit from loan guarantees, quicker tax writeoffs and a review of environmental requirements.

The plan also contains $20 million in aid for steel communities, where thousands of workers have been laid off as the industry cut back production and closed plants to deal with its losses.

Details of the Treasury Department report, which has not yet been released, were published in Tuesday's Pittsburgh Post-Gazette.

The report, prepared by Treasury Undersecretary Anthony Solomon, would deal with "unfair competition" from foreign mills through a price monitoring sys-

Imports, which currently account for about 20 percent of the U.S. market, would be cut to around 14 percent. The result would be a 6 million ton increase in domestic output, which the report said could be accomplished without triggering unduly large price increases.

City Builders May Seek Injunction

By PAULA TILKER Avalanche-Journal Staff

City enforcement of an insulation ordinance may lead to the courthouse within a week unless the Building Board of Appeals heads off the action Monday.

An attorney representing several builders and insulation companies told The Avalanche-Journal he may seek injunctive relief to prevent the city from enforcing the disputed insulation ordinance.

Bobby Kizer, also a builder, said he will claim enforcement could lead to financial ruin for builders and insulators. The board, to meet at 4 p.m. Monday, will discuss the issue. The home builders association, which met Tuesday afternoon, drafted a recommendation to the board, suggesting that the ordinance be amended to allow insulation approved by an recognized testing authority. Laboratories that follow standards set by the American Society for Testing and Materials would be acceptable.

The heated dispute flared abruptly last week when building inspectors discovered that possibly untested, flammable insulation was being blown into newly built houses here.

The market has become flooded with insulation that does not meet a city ordinance requiring Underwriters Laboratory (UL) or International Conference of Building Officials (ICBO) testing and approval of all material used here.

Building inspectors immediately contacted the non-complying manufacturers and started "red-tagging" homes that didn't have the proper insulation, said Cecil Turquette, building administrator. The red tag warns the homeowner and builder that the house does not pass final city inspection.

Now builders and insulators claim the ordinance is too restrictive and that enforcement will drive some companies out

If the city interprets the ordinance as requiring UL or ICBO approval of all insulation, there is a "real problem," said Kizer. But if the statute is interpreted to mean that UL or ICBO quality insulation is required, he added, "that's different."

The crux of the issue is "what is a good grade of insulation," Kizer said. To that end, builder representatives will ask the Building Board of Appeals to loosen the ordinance enough to accept other labora-tory approval such as FHA-VA.

The latter is more widely used across the nation than is UL, Kizer said, which explains why most of the manufacturers who sell insulation here don't have the UL stamp of approval.

The UL charges for stamped bags, which increases the cost to manufacturers, he said. It is cheaper to seek only one

"If you require both stamps, it raises the cost of insulation," Kizer said. And if the cost increases, some businesses could go broke, he added.

Turquette expresses little sympathy for those businesses, saying, "Are we going to let the public absorb inferior products, if this is what they are, to keep someone in business?" The "democratic principle" is to do the most good for the most people, he said, adding, "Why should I condone an unknown product for the sake of keeping a few guys in business?"

The loose-fill material in question may be as good as the tested material. but we have no way of knowing," Turquette said. He would not "commit myself yes or no" on the safety of the material because "we just have no way of verifying it."

His concern, Turquette said, is that Lubbockites may be living in houses sprayed with a flammable material. The material, made of shredded paper and billed as a "cellulose product," may not be properly chemically treated, he ex-plained. The result could be that a spark could send flames tearing through the

The problem could be temporarily solved if the ordinance were amended to include FHA-approved insulation, he said. "It would get me off the hook" and would be one way to "shut up a bunch of hollering," Turquette said.

But the basic problem would remain — unchecked insulation that could endanger lives and property, he said.

The reason for demanding UL or ICBO approval, he explained, is that those laboratories and affiliates periodically inspect insulation factories and chemical proc-

Without such on-site inspection, he said, manufacturers could send in sam-never use the correct techniques in the factory.

"Without the third-party inspection, there's no way of knowing what's in that bag," Turquette explained. The FHA-approved insulation is never checked at the manufacturing point, he added.

Only with in-plant quality control such as that offered by UL or ICBO will the consumers be protected, he added.

Kizer responds by saying that insula-tors and builders here must market goodquality insulation for their own reputations, and that a certain amount of faith must be placed in the manufacturers.

Turquette doesn't buy that, and the city has two examples to support its case. The building administrator noted one case recently discovered in which a Lubbock insulation manufacturer loaded insulation in 2,000 bags borrowed from another company. The other company's bags were stamped with the FHA approval, Turquette said, but as far as can be determined, the local manufacturer had never submitted his product for any sort of test-

There is no way you can keep people from cheating," Turquette said.

Planning Director Bertram cited another instance in which a building inspector touched a match to a small pile of insulation taken from an attic. The material quickly burned to ashes, Bertram said.

Once the material is scattered in an attic, there is no way to differentiate it from certified insulation without expensive laboratory tests, Turquette said. And his department "doesn't have the time. personnel or equipment to check in each nance, Kizer said. The one approved company already corners about 75 per-cent of the insulation market, he explained. When asked whether the city building inspection department is at fault for allowing the faultily checked insulation to be used, Turquette said, "yes and no." The department is responsible for ensuring that the ordinance is met, he said, but he lacks the personnel for "police

The building business in Lubbock is booming, keeping the field inspectors busy checking the structures in various stages of construction, he said.

"In a lot of these areas we just don't have the time for police work," said Tur-

No one is sure how long the questiona ble insulation has been on the market here, he said, but indications are it has been used for several months at least. "There is no way to tell how many houses it may have been put in," Turquette If the city strictly enforces its ordinance, which was approved in April of 1976, another problem will occur — the already tight insulation market will dry

"There is a tremendous demand for good-quality insulation, but the supply is kind of slim," Bertram said. Turquette seconded that, explaining the tight market caused the problem. As nonorganic material such as spunglass or mineral wool became scarcer, builders began using the cellulose material that soon flooded the market, he said. If that source is dried up, too, the supply will again be reduced just as the demand begins to peak, he added.

"People still have got to build houses and insulate them," said Bertram, "so I think some questionable material still

And, he added, the city has been concerning itself only with newly built houses. Older homes that are being insulated also may contain questionable material,

Part of the solution, he said, may be better policing by homeowners and builders. Homeowners may have to become "a little more educated" on insulation issues, he explained, and check the

The city also may try to require sworn statements by insulation applicators as to the quality and quantity of material applied, he said. That would put some of the burden of proper insulation back on the person applying it and not on the inspectors, he said.

For those homeowners who have had insulation applied recently and who may be uneasy as to its fire retardability, Turquette suggests a simple test: Scoop up several handfuls of the material into an aluminum pan and carry it to a protected, windless spot outdoors. Aft-er fluffing the insulation, heat it with a

If the insulation bursts into flames, Turquette recommends that the home-owner contact the builder immediately. If the material only melts or glows with heat, it probably is good, he said.

He adds, however, that improperly treated insulation can "leach" and become flammable after an undetermined length of time.

Relaxation Techniques Help Relieve Everyday Tension

Family News Staff

Every day people let thoughts gnaw at them, until those thoughts finally travel to muscles and bones where they turn into pain commonly labeled tension.

Stress and tension play major roles in our lives but to some extent tension serves a purpose. Everyone needs some tension to get them through strenuous ac-

But carried to the extreme, tension can cause migraine headaches, backaches, cramps, strokes, high blood pressure and heart attacks.

Almost anything can provoke tension. Tension can develop whenever someone thinks provoking thoughts, explained Dr. Matt Stricherz, a psychologist in the counseling department at Texas Tech University

"The pressure others put on an individual to get good grades, get a good job, buy a house, be perfect, can start to mount up." said Stricherz. And when it does, tension follows.

Tension can develope when interpersonal relationships don't go the way people would like them to. For example, a rude cashier can cause a person to develope tension. So can the secretary who ignores her boss or the woman who stares at you at the supermarket. Anything that makes the individual feel uncomfortable can trigger tension. It can be a verbal or non-verbal cue that, taken negatively, can send a person into a tension attack.

Tension can also be caused by environmental or physiological changes. If a room is too cold or if a person skips a meal, or doesn't exercise he developes tension.

Once the tension is there people handle it in a variety of ways, some more productive than others.

Some people handle stress by drinking. smoking, using drugs or physically abusing a child or spouse. Others watch television excessively, some relieve tension through religion, sex or tranquilizers.

Other people use more positive means to relieve tension. They may talk problems out or participate in sports or other activities.

Many people store tension someplace in their bodies. People who suffer with migraine headaches are often storing tension in their heads, said Stricherz. Office workers usually store tension in their necks or shoulders. Rashes or acne are often signs that people are storing tension in their skin.

Fortunately people don't have to live with tension. Since tension is nothing more than a bad habit, people can be taught to release tension through various of himself. Relaxation becomes self defeating when a person tries to hard to relax, said Stricherz. It should be something that comes automatically, once a person stops thinking about his body.

Start out in a comfortable posistion then use several of various techniques.

In progressive relaxation one should concentrate on the warmth and pleasure of each musole. Then by tensing each muscle individually and then relaxing that muscle, tension should be relieved.

Whenever a person imagines his body is filling with warmth, some physiological changes occur. Blood pressure goes down, heart rate decreases and evidence indicates alpha waves increase.

'Stream-lining' is another method that works effectively. The person imagines tension is flowing in a tube inside his body and finally pours outside the body through a hole near the tense area.

In another technique the person is told to breathe in air that will whistle through his skull and then travel throughout his body. This technique works well for people who are prone to migraine headaches but it must be done before the headache begins, said Stricherz.

Relaxation can occur when a person imagines taking a balloon ride or flying through the air, noted Stricherz. Almost any technique works as soon as the person is forced to stop thinking about the

Of course even a good thing can be taken to extremes. There are 'relaxation junkies,' people who use relaxation techniques to the point where they withdraw. said Stricherz.

Stricherz also warns that relaxation techniques are not to be used carelessly. While they are safe, there are times when one needs to be tense. For example when driving or playing sports a person needs

"We also tell people never to get rid of all their tension," said Stricherz. People usually know how much tension they need to function well. Also, because headaches can be tip-offs to serious illnesses. Stricherz advises his clients not to ignore the bodies warning signs. A continuous headache won't go away using stress techniques.

For the majority of people relaxation techniques are an enjoyable way to get rid of unwanted pain. With practice relaxation techniques turn out to be a warm, pleasant and vibrant experience, said Stricherz.

the gin especially harmful? - Mrs. M.P.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Imagine my surprise the other day when the doctor said my EKG reading showed I had had a heart attack sometime in the past. I have never in my life had any heart attack, but I could not convince him of that. Does this mean that the EKG's can lie and aren't all they're cracked up to be? - Mrs.

No, but a person's heart isn't always all it has been "cracked up to be." In other words, one can have heart damage without even being aware of it. And the damage (however slight) is detectable by the EKG, which rarely tells fibs.

You have heard the term "slight heart attack." This is what it is - a small incident, perhaps hardly noticeable. A mild chest pain or a dizzy spell may have indicated some heart disturbance. A case of "indigestion" can be a heart attack. The person may pop an antacid tabled and go on his merry way. The heart carries the mark.

Instead of arguing with the machine or the doctor, accept the diagnosis and learn just how much damage was caused. The heart muscle may have repaired itself nicely and you may have emerged none the worse for the incident.

On the other hand, if there was more extensive damage, it might account for other symptoms you may have now, and you would want to know about that.

Dear-Dr. Thosteson: I hope you can help me. I have bronchitis. I cough so hard, but the phlegm is never released. How can I get it all off my lungs. It makes breathing difficult sometimes. - B.L.

I sense that you have not seen your doctor and are trying to treat it yourself. You should have X-rays of the chest to determine the cause of your cough. It could be bronchitis, bronchiectasis, cancer of the lung, for that matter. You'll have to sit there hacking and probably worrying until you find out.

If you're a smoker, you can't ease the phlegm problem until you quit. There are phlegm looseners, such as iodides, ammonium chloride, terpin hydrate and guiacol, but your doctor would have to prescribe them.

Your problem is not one you can handle out of your own bathroom medicine cabinet. I suspect you are a heavy smoker. Other heavy smokers take note.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise

I work in a nursing home with the senior set and have a few suggestions for the comfort of our people. It is never too early to think about Christmas gifts.

Lap robes are almost a necessity with the poor circulation of people in their December years. A ribbon or tie attached to the robe and tied to the arms of a wheelchair keeps the lap robe from slipping from the knees.

A large pocket for tissues or whatever. sewn on to the lap robe is convenient for the patient.

We nurse's aides do like to dress our patients nicely, and it does help the patient to feel less neglected. Neglected is a harsh word, but an everyday word among us, because we see so much of it with the families.

Toilet articles are nice also. Powder, shampoo, a pretty-smelling soap, hair ribbons, shaving articles for the men are a few suggestions.

But one word of caution. At Christmas time especially - please!! If the gifts are marked with the patient's name it would be a great help. With so many new gifts it is hard for us to see that everything is marked, and the marking ahead of gift time is greatly appreciated. - Juanita Castle

Dear Heloise:

In November start saving your white plastic foam trays (that meat, fruit and pastries come in). Wash and dry these.

Then take last year's Christmas cards, cut out the pretty pictures from them and glue on the trays. You can fill them with cookies, bread, cake or candy.

I usually distribute about a dozen of those at Christmas time. These homemade goodies make nice little gifts. - S. Robinson

Dear Heloise:

One of the hobbies I enjoy is macrame.

I was making a macrame off a large spool of cord and I needed a place to put the spool so I could pull the cord off without the spool rolling all over the floor. The cord on these spools unwind from the outside.

I took a curtain rod, ran it through the spool and placed each end of the rod in the handles of a laundry basket.

I placed clothes in the bottom of the basket for weight and it worked very nicely. - Mrs. M.Y. Stogsdill

I found out a neat way to get spoons forks, etc., out of the kitchen sink drain. Simply chew up a couple pieces of bubble gum and attach it to some sort of flexible rod such as a wire clothes hanger and attach it to the item in the drain.

If the grant is obtained, the city manager said, the students will be hired to work for a 12-week period next summer. The Childress Independent School District has agreed to provide a supervisor for the youths, and the city will furnish the necessary supplies.

Scott Lake was previously used as a source of water for the city. Childress now is a member city of the Greenbelt Water Authority, and Scott Lake is used for recreational purposes.

School Board Changes Workers' Health Insurance Coverage Plan

In a budget squeeze over employee benefits, the Lubbock Independent School District Tuesday ordered teachers and other workers to pay a greater share of their medical bills and denied a requested expansion of the district's retirement bonus plan.

By a 5-1 vote, the school board said after Jan. 1, the city's 3,300 public school workers will be required to pay $50 each time they enter a hospital for treatment - a move intended to reduce the soaring cost of the district's employer-paid group health insurance plan

Under the existing policy, employees do not pay any hospitalization expenses. However, they are responsible for the first $100 for doctor charges, out-patient treatment and services not included in regular hospital rates, plus 20 percent of subsequent bills up to a maximum of

That policy, costing the district about $39,500 in premiums each month, is up for renewal in five weeks

The insurance carrier, Blue Cross-Blue Shield, says to keep the same benefits, the district will be charged an additional $9,000 a month beginning in 1978. That would raise the school system's annual premium 23 percent, from about $475,000 to about $583,000.

School trustee Giles M. "Buddy" Forbess pushed for a "more conservative plan," warning that future increases under the existing coverage may in just a few years put the district's health insurance tab over the $1 million mark.

The board suggested an alternative, proposing that the deductible now applied only to non-hospital expenses be applied to all medical bills.

However, Mike Woolley of Blue Cross said such a proposal would not decrease the costs or premium of the plan.

He said even under the existing policy, most employees would shell out enough money for doctor visits and related items before entering a hospital to satisfy the proposed comprehensive deductible.

The only way to cut the premium, Woolley said, is to have school employees foot more medical costs.

His suggestion, with reluctant agreement from the district's insurance advisory committee of teachers and school administrators, was to require employees to pay $50 toward each hospital stay.

This plan would trim the proposed increase in the district's monthly premium by about $1,000, Woolley said.

Instead of jumping to $583,000, the district's total premium for 1978 would be about $570,000 - still a hefty boost of about 20 percent.

School trustee Joan Ervin voted against requiring workers to pay $50 toward each

"That's going to tear low-income employees with six or seven children all to pieces," she said.

School board member Harold Harriger, who last week attacked the current coverage as "too expensive and too liberal." was absent from Tuesday's meeting.

Jay Gordon, assistant superintendent for instruction and chairman of the district's insurance advisory panel, warned against making deep cuts in the health insurance coverage.

"It would not be good for us to reduce the benefits the group has bought for it-self all these years," Gordon said. He noted that before the school system started picking up the tab last year, teachers were buying an insurance package with benefits similar to the existing plan.

Gordon called the $50 deductible on hospital stays a "reasonable compromise," acceptable to teachers. However, it may be "quite a burden" to custodians, teacher aides and other lower-paid school employees, he said.

Supt. Ed Irons also bemoaned the effect of the $50 deductible on low-income workers. The $12,000 to $13,000 reduction in the district's annual premium under the new plan will be a "savings all right, but I wonder if it will be worth the problems" imposed on low-paid employees. Irons said

The $50 deductible will be "costing employees considerably more than it will save the school district," Gordon added.

But Forbess, who at one point mentioned the possibility of scrapping the insurance program entirely, said the district must try to bring the costs under Citing future $100,000-a-year premium increases, Forbess said: "In a very short time, we're talking about $1 million (for employee health insurance). Where is the stopping point? How far can we afford to

Under the existing plan, the district has been paying $14.71 per employee a month. To continue that coverage for 1978, the figure would jump to $18.09. Sticking in a $50 deductible on hospital stays brings the monthly per-worker premium down to $17.80. School trustees briefly discussed, then dismissed, a proposed $100 deductible on hospital stays. That plan would cut the premium to $17.51 per employee a

The group health insurance plan was part of a fringe benefits package offered by the school system in lieu of across-theboard pay hikes for the 1976-77 school

Also in that package was a policy allowing employees to cash in unused sick

Under the policy, for example, teachers are paid $25 at the end of each school year for every day of sick leave accumulated in excess of 60 days. Also, retiring employees are permitted to cash in all their accrued sick leave, up to the 60-day maximum.

The latter provision was intended to give retiring teachers a bonus of up to

However, in July the Lubbock Classroom Teachers Association asked that the retirement bonus be opened up to all honorably" departing employees, not just those officially retiring.

School trustees Tuesday rejected that request. They said reimbursement for sick leave up to the 60-day maximum should be reserved only for retiring teachers, as defined by the Texas Education Code.

School board president Charles Waters feared that revising the current policy would require the district to pay up to $1,500 to teachers who are changing professions or going to work for another school systen

He said only teachers who have fin-ished their careers with Lubbock schools and have applied for Texas Teacher Retirement System benefits should be eligible to cash in all their sick leave

The teachers association had sought the revision because at least two teachers here have unofficially retired - finishing their careers but opting not to draw retirement pay from the state.

They did this because by waiting a year or two before applying for retirement pay, they will be eligible for greater state benefits.

Teachers said they did not intend for employees changing jobs to be in line for the retirement bonus.

Death Of Producer Probed In Dallas

DALLAS (AP) - Police said Tuesday initial investigations show the person who shot a wealthy businessman and film maker probably knew the victim.

James "Skeet" Wilson, president of a Dallas holding company involved in film making and real estate, was found dead in his North Dallas apartment late Moday while his 9-year-old son slept beside him.

Wilson, 44, had extensive land holdings in California, according to a long-time friend, Clarence Prather. The victim's friend also said Wilson produced and directed the western "Santee" starring

Glenn Ford. Police said evidence at the scene indicates Wilson was shot while sitting on a living room couch where his son was sleeping, and that he struggled with his assailant before dying.

Prather said Wilson moved to the apartment after separating from his wife, Jerry Sue, 35. He said the boy joined his father pending completion of divorce roceedings.

Northern Blacks Returning To South's Booming Economy

By DAVID TREADWELL JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — For years after World War II, blacks fled the South by the hundreds aboard the brown-and-orange cars of a daily Illinois Central coach they dubbed the "Freedom

But many blacks are now returning to Dixie for much the same reasons they left in droves years ago - jobs and the prospect of a better life.

"Land Of Hope"

"The South is the new land of hope for black people," says Alfred Lile, 48, a black minister and federal employee who came to Jackson six years ago to escape "the dangers of life" in Chicago's riot-torn ghettoes.

The South's booming economy, dramatically improved racial relations and burgeoning black political base are becoming increasingly more attractive to blacks dissatisfied with deteriorating conditions in the urban North.

"We get calls daily from people who want to relocate here or move back," says Irvin Walker, director of the Jackson Urban League. "They're really disgusted with the crime and the whole ghetto pattern in the North."

Reverse Migration

Walker, a Jackson native, is part of the reverse migration trend that began in the early 1970s.

He was a civil rights activist during the turbulent decade of the 1960s. The first black to attend the University of Mississippi without a court order, he was bitter when he left Jackson in 1968. He returned from Chicago four years later to find a radically different racial environ-

"The same people who used to beat you with a billy club now greet you with a handshake and a smile," said the 31year-old Urban League chief. "Their basic attitudes may not have changed, but there's no longer the type of overt racism that used to be rampant in the

Striking Changes

Jackson Mayor Dale Danks, a white, underscores the striking changes below the Mason-Dixon Line since the civil rights revolution of the previous decade toppled years of bitter segregation.

"The biggest step the South has taken has been the willingness of the people to work together and accept one another," he said. "There's a feeling that we can take care of problems ourselves rather than through someone else, like the federal government."

U.S. Census Bureau figures document the turnaround in black migration patterns, just as they showed an earlier reversal for whites.

The net outmigration of blacks from the South was about 277,000 between 1955 and 1960 and about 243,000 between 1965 and 1970, according to the figures. But between 1970 and 1975, about 302,-

000 blacks moved to the South while only 288,000 moved away.
"I can't help but believe blacks are primarily moving back for the same reason whites started moving back even earlier — the expansion in employment opportunities," say Larry Long, Census Bureau population specialist.

The flow of industry to the South began as a trickle with garment manufacturers leaving New England in the 1920s. Now industry after industry is heading south where wages and other costs are lower.

Financial Incentives

Southern states offer an inviting array of financial incentives, including industrial revenue bonds, right-to-work laws, business-oriented governments and lower operating costs.

Between 1972 and 1976, the South's share of plants with 20 or more employees grew from 19.6 percent to 21.8 percent, according to the U.S. Census of Manufactures.

By comparison, the Northeast's share slipped from 25.4 percent to 24.2 percent, while the Great Lakes region's dropped from 22.1 percent to 20.8 per-

"Blacks are reaping their share of the economic pie like everybody else," says Lewis Slater, research director for the Jackson Chamber of Commerce. "And not just the hot, dirty jobs, but in skilled and supervisory positions as well."

Blacks make up about 40 percent of the estimated 205,000 total population of Jackson, the capital and largest city of Mississippi that boasts of being the "Crossroads of the South."

As in other Southern cities, they suffered the indignities of "Jim Crow" laws that separated the races in schools, railroad stations, trains, hotels, barbershops, theaters, restaurants and church-

Civil Rights Acts

The Civil Rights Act of 1964 and Voting Rights Act of 1965, passed during the years when electric cattle prods were used on black and white equal rights demonstrators in Southern cities, helped to break those barriers. "I can remember the days when I couldn't try on a hat in a downtown shop without first putting tissue paper on my head," says Georgie Coleman, a 34-year-old black woman who returned to Jackson from New York City in 1970. "It's all so changed now. I'm happy I nard, a native of Detroit, are typical of blacks moving to the South. They're

But many elderly blacks, longing for their roots and fearful of their safety in crime-ridden Northern ghettos, are also returning. Among other things, they find, their pensions stretch further because of the South's lower cost of living.

Northern Exodus

So far, the exodus from the North has not taken in significant numbers of bluecollar and poor blacks. Population specialists attribute that to the comparatively low wage scales, substandard housing, inferior health care and meager welfare benefits still prevalent in South-

As opportunites for blacks have increased through the South, the number of blacks in elective offices has grown rapidly, most notably in city halls and

The National Roster of Black Elected Officials compiled by the Joint Center for Political Studies shows the South with about 59 percent of the total 4,311 blacks in elective posts in the U.S.

New Political Base

And this new political base may be one of the reasons why blacks are returning to the South.

A.J. Cooper Jr., the first black mayor of Prichard, Ala. and president of the National Conference of Black Mayors, decribes the effects of this new political

"Blacks in the South are gaining real political power at a much more rapid pace than blacks in other regions. So all other things being equal, a lot of blacks are opting for the South where they're finding black mayors, black sheriffs and black city councilmen." But he adds, 'The 'New South' is not everything it's cracked up to be. We still have racism and will have it for a long time. But the racism is tempered by other benefits. A lot of whites have reformed in political and business matters - social matters aside - and are willing to accept blacks first black mayor in Mississippi since Reconstruction, also says that black officials have a big impact on the attitudes of other blacks towards the South. "It's like fresh air in this community to walk into this office and have no fear because there's a man who thinks, talks and has suffered like you," he says. "No doubt, it's helped bring folks back and helped keep those who used to leave as fast as they could get to the train at Brookhaven or Jackson. They feel safe.

It's that simple.' Fayette, a town of 1,725 about 100 miles southwest of Jackson, has changed dramatically since Evers was first elected mayor in 1969.

"This used to be a dead farming town," one resident recalled. "Now there's a swimming pool, a health clinic, a senior citizens center, public housing, paved roads, a new vocational school, a shopping center and an industrial park."

Evers, brother of slain civil rights leader Medgar Evers who was shot outside his Jackson home in 1963, says Fayette has become an example to other Southern communities where blacks form a majority of the population.

"The South is the new 'Promised Land," he said. "But don't think you're leaving hell and coming to heaven if you move here. There's still racism. There's still bad school systems. White folks still control most of the jobs. But you got a

Masters' Children Awarded To Father

FORT WORTH (AP) - A divorce court Cullen Davis, whom (she) is presently livjudge has placed the children of Mrs. Karen Master under the custody of their father and has ordered her not to take them "around or near Cullen Davis," the Fort Worth millionaire with whom she is

Davis was acquitted earlier this month in Amarillo of charges he had killed his 12-year-old stepdaughter, Andrea Wilborn. Mrs. Master provided Davis's alibi, saying he was with her at about the time the young girl was slain.

The temporary restraining order removing the two children from Mrs. Master's custody was signed Monday by 324th District Judge Joe Eidson, who also set 9:30 a.m. Dec. 6 as the date for a hearing to determine if he should issue a perma-

Desegregation Case Slated For Wrapup

Final arguments in the Lubbock Inde-Jan. 6, after presentation of evidence ended Tuesday

"This case is important to everyone," said in setting dates for resolving the controversial issue. "I think it can be concluded" by early or mid January.

Woodward gave the Justice Department until Dec. 15 to file a brief summing up allegations that the district has discriminated against minorities. The department is trying to block the construc-tion of schools outside Loop 289 and require the district to implement a comprehensive desegregation plan.

The school system will have until Dec. 27 to respond to the Justice Department's brief, Woodward said. Then the department will have until Jan. 3 to make a written rebuttal to the school district's arguments.

At 9:30 a.m. Jan. 6, Woodward said attorneys for both sides will present final oral arguments in the case.

Woodward said he will "be doing some work on this case" before the final arguments are presented, but that no ruling should be expected until some time after

Attorneys for the two parties gave Woodward batches of exhibits and documents Tuesday to back up their earlier

Mrs. Master said Tuesday her attorneys would ask that the case be transferred to Domestic Judge Eva Barnes who handled the divorce proceedings between Mrs. Master and her husband.

Mrs. Master said she had returned from a skiing trip to Colorado with Davis to find that the children, whom she had left with their paternal grandparents, had been placed in custody of their father, who lives with his parents.

"I don't even know where they are now "she said

Mrs. Master contended that her ex-husband had fallen behind in child support payments and that Davis "is their father

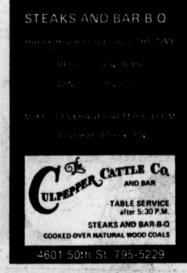

She said the only time that Cullen "has been physical was when he spanked one of the children when the child flushed underwear down the toilet live times.

Eidson, a state witness at the trial, acted at the request of Walter Adrian Master, 30, with whom the boys, ages 9 and 6, were staying while their mother was in

Master's petition calls his ex-wife a negligent mother who uses her sons as a "status symbol" while depriving them of "emotional security and love."

According to the petition, the primary witness against Mrs. Master at the Dec. 6 pendent School District's construction hearing will be her former psychiatrist, and desegregation case have been set for Dr. W. Bryan Liston. The petition said Dr. Liston would testify that Mrs. Master does not have the ability to have a mother instinct toward her children, nor U.S. Dist. Judge Halbert O. Woodward can she control her own emotions and cannot face the realities of life."

Mrs. Master, who has been divorced from her husband for 41/2 years, said he had no visitation rights "except at my discretion because of his previous inactivity in child support and other areas.

"Ford pickups and ranching just naturally go together. We depend on 'em for everything."

... Says Jay Palmer of Kaufman, Texas, rancher and trainer.

"We own nothing on the ranch but Ford pickups...use 'em for having, feeding, repairing fence, general ranch work."

"We make a lot of long trips hauling horses, pulling a six-horse trailer. There's no place to stop and we can't afford to be broke down. That's why we drive Fords. We can depend on 'em to get us there."

"Back home, the service on the Ford pickups is just the best from my Ford dealer. And that's as important as the Ford pickups themselves."

See all the Ford pickups at your Texas Ford dealer. As Mr. Palmer knows, they're built tough for Texans.

Hundreds Protest Return Of Crown

WASHINGTON (AP) - Hundreds of Hungarian-Americans marched in icy rain to the White House Tuesday to protest the proposed return of the Crown of St. Stephen to Hungary. "As a Christian president it is incomprehensible that President Carter hands over the holiest symbol of a nation to its communist invaders," said Dr. Tibor Bodi of Philadelphia, one of the march leaders. He called the imminent return of the crown "a slap in the face to the Hungarian community.

The temperature as the marchers left the Washington Monument grounds for the White House was 37 degrees and there was a stinging rain.

Carter has said he intends to return the crown as a recognition of approved human rights in Hungary. The announcement brought roars of outrage from many of the three million people in the United States with ties to Hungary.

Tuesday's march was led by a group of young men carrying a huge black cross bearing the Soviet hammer and sickle and the inscription "Yalta, 1945; Budapest, Nov. 4, 1956; Washington, Nov. 4,

Hungary was one of the nations delivered to the Soviet bloc at the conference in Yalta attended by Russia's Josef Stalin and President Franklin D. Roosevelt. The Russians overran Budapest in 1956. The declaration by President Carter that he intended to return the crown was on

"Free Hungary First, then Return the Crown," said one sign. "Don't Legalize the Communists With St. Stephen's Crown," said another. Dr. Bodi said there were 3,000 marchers representing 80 major Hungarian-American organizations across the United States. "One quarter of a million Russian troops have occupied Hungary for 31 years," he said. "Twenty one years ago the United Nations said the Russians had not legal justification for keeping troops in Budapest but they are still there."

He likened the Crown of St. Stephen, which dates to the year 1001, to the Bill of Rights.

The golden crown has been in American custody since the last days of World War II when it was given to U.S. Army personnel by a Hungarian military guard who feared it might fall into Soviet hands. It is being kept at Fort Knox, Ky. The crown was a gift to Hungary's first king, Stephen, from Pope Sylvester II.

"The crown of St. Stephen in 1001 laid down the doctrine of the holy crown as a living symbol of freedom of all Hungarians," Dr. Bodi said. "President Carter's promises were not kept and the Hungarian community feels betrayed by the president. The holy crown meant the arrival of Christianity to Hungarians. It was never meant to be given to the enemy."

Outside the White House gates the marchers sang in Hungarian, "Where are you King Stephen. Your people yearn for you. In our sorrow we turn to you.

Bond Issue Fails

HART (Special). - Voters here Tuesday defeated a $400,000 school bond issue which would have brought new and improved facilities to the Hart Independent School District.

Of the 415 votes cast, 242 were against the measure while 173 were in favor.

Supt. Ted Averitt said low farm prices in the Castro County community probably were the big factor in the defeat. "We (school officials) were very disappointed by the way it turned out, but I guess the people expressed their opin-ion," he added.

The bonds would have funded construction of an auditorium and three new classrooms at the high school; the building of a new kindergarten; new lighting, ceiling and minor renovations at the elementary school and the renovation of the present kindergarten into an

School taxes would have increased by about 10 cents if the issue had passed.

the time of the fatal incident, is on trial in Judge Thomas L. Clinton's 99th Dist. Court for Moreno's alleged murder. Moreno, 60, of 4515 Ave. H, was gunned down about 5 a.m. May 29 at a small frame residence at 4417 Ave. H. Testimony has indicated that beer was being sold at the residence, located some distance from the street and behind a transmission service outlet. The case may hinge on whether the jury believes Luna felt he was endangered by a toy gun. Leonardo Moreno, a local school district employee who is no relation to the deceased, gave the most detailed account of the incident rendered by several eye Earlier testimony had indicated that

Luna, with a party of friends, had been drinking at the house before trouble broke out. Cruz Campos, who lived at the residence and stated he sold beer at the place, had indicated that a toy rifle was kept on the premises. Witness Moreno said he gone to the house to get a beer, but knew none of the people present. He said an old man had gone up to to Luna's party, and that Luna had taken a swing at him. He said Luna then took a punch at another man who tried to break up the fracas. Shortly thereafter, Moreno said, the old man - who, he indicated, was the deceased - went to a closet and got a rifle.

"It's a toy right now," Moreno said of the toy gun, "but when I first saw it I couldn't tell the difference."

Luna's party was shoved out the door, according to the witness. Moreno said he also left. "I figured it was time to leave when I saw the rifle," he said. Moreno said he took shelter behind a tree and watched as a man carrying a gun stepped outside. He said the man was not the deceased, however

The witness indicated the man who came outside had the gun pointed in the general direction of Luna and his com-

He said he then saw Luna fire. "I saw the heavy-set man fall, then get up and run inside," Moreno said.

'Then Luna reloaded and fired a second shot." Moreno said he ran and looked inside the residence after the shots were fired and saw the "old man" lying on the floor close to the door. Testimony indicated that the door was open, but that a screen was closed. Antonio Moreno was dead when police arrived, after apparently sustaining a shotgun blast to the chest. Campos and a third man, Andrew Rosales, were reportedly wounded.

Leonardo Moreno at first seemed to indicate there was an appreciable interval, perhaps a minute, between the two alleged blasts. Under questioning from defense attorney Tommy Turner, he said the interval may have been 20 seconds or Another state witness, Guadalupe Coronado, said Luna had fired two shotgun blasts at the house. Coronado, who was with the Luna party, said he saw no one else carrying a gun during the incident.

Witness Ruben Perez, also with the party, said he saw Luna shoot a man, who, according to Perez, had come outside with a gun. Perez said the man pointed the gun at Luna. Perez said he had seen a gun inside the residence earlier, but had not noticed whether it was a toy or a real weapon.

That witness said he remembered Lun-a's firing only one shot.

Testimony in the trial was to resume at

Medical Schools Give Up Millions In Federal Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) - Fifteen American medical schools have given up more than $10 million in federal funds rather than let the government dictate how many American students they must accept from foreign medical schools.

The remaining 108 medical schools in the country will share about $84.1 million in federal grants - about $1,500 per student - under the Health Professions Educational Assistance Act.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare has told 78 of the participating schools to reserve places next year for 564 American students who will be transferring in from abroad.

The 30 schools that weren't told to reserve space were exempted because they already have enrolled enough U.S. citizens from foreign medical schools to meet the requirements of an amendment that slipped through Congress without debate last year and was attached to the medical education aid law.

The amendment requires participating medical schools to accept their fair share of U.S. citizens who have completed two years in a foreign medical school, passed the standard examination known as the National Boards and who want to complete their medical education in the United States.

In filling these spots, the schools are prohibited from considering a student's academic qualifications or place of residence, which sparked outrage in many medical schools and defiance by the 15.

The medical schools that have refused to participate in the program include Stanford University and five campuses of the University of California, Yale, Duke, Northwestern, Chicago, Johns Hopkins, Baylor, Case Western Reserve and the universities of Illinois and Indiana.

The prerequisite added to the law helping to finance increasingly expensive medical education was adopted under pressure from the parents of thousands of American students who had failed to gain admission to highly competitive American schools and resorted to enrollment in foreign medical schools rather than give up their determination to be doctors.

There are an estimated 8,000 U.S. citizens enrolled in foreign medical schools, including about 3,000 at the world's largest medical school in Guadalajara, Mexi-

Intensive lobbying in the past year by the protesting medical schools led the House to adopt legislation that would drop the present stringent transfer requirements and substitute a provision requiring the medical schools to increase the size of thir third-year classes to make room for transfer students. The House bill would have the effect of letting the institutions pick their transfer students based on academic qualifications rather than submit to federal assignment of en-

Earlier this month, the Senate approved outright repeal of the foreign medical school transfer requirement. It Congress will be able to agree on a compromise measure in time to affect the the students and schools now making plans for the upcoming academic year. Gas Attendant Hurt In Holdup

In the third reported robbery in 24 hours, a bandit held up Pat's Service Station at 1905 Clovis Road about 6:45 p.m. Tuesday, escaping with about $75 after slugging a 59-year-old attendant.

Attendant James Randolph, who described the robber as a "nice looking" black man, said the bandit entered the station lobby, asked for cigarette change, then suddenly attacked Randolph. The attendant sustained a cut to the temple area on the left side of his head and was admonished by the bandit to not move or "I'll kill you." The stunned attendant said he lay on the floor momentarily after being struck and dragged from behind the cash regis-

The suspect reportedly never bran-dished his own weapon, but snatched Randolph's .25-caliber pistol from the at-tendant's coat pocket. After gathering the cash receipts the robber reportedly fled on foot towards an apartment complex just southeast of the Bleeding from the wound suffered during the holdup, Randolph nonetheless climbed into his 1965 Chevrolet and pursued the suspect. The robber however, eluded the attendant in the darkness.

Police said the bandit was 5 feet 7 inches tall, 165 pounds and 25 to 26 years old. He reportedly wore a tan leather coat, a colored shirt and blue jeans.

The aggravated robbery was the city's 278th of the year.

Raider Basketeers Try New Mexico Staters

LAS CRUCES, N.M. (Special)— "This is the real season opener," muttered one of the Texas Tech basketballers Tuesday, ter. as he pointed to tonight's battle with New Mexico State here tonight. The two clubs collide in Pan American Center at 8:30 p.m. CST, and Tech coach Gerald realizes the Aggies are not Okla-homa Baptist.

Tech will hit the floor with a 1-0 record, but the 103-59 win over OBU will not ap-proximate tonight's competition. At the same time that Tech was dismantling the NAIA team, New Mexico State was edg-ing UTEP in El Paso 59-52 for its second win (it had a "OBU" in the form of West-to play good defense to keep New Mexico State from scoring."

Tech will not know until today if guard Geoff Huston will be able to play. If he is, however, his playing time will be limited.

The 6-1 junior guard was slated for a starting assignment but turned an ankle last week and did not work out until Tuesday. In his place, Tommy Parks, a 6-0 transfer from Midland College, filled in and scored 19 points and handed out eight assists.

Avaianche-Journal Sports Staff C.E. Carmichael is slowly but surely making medical history. You see, at 35, Carmichael is going on 70. And for good reason, too.

'Sure, its rough losing the close ones," Carmichael said, following the Westerner's narrow 59-58 loss to Estacado. "But I'm not worried for myself as much as I am for the kids."

Carmichael, who saw his club lose to Levelland on Monday night 80-74 in overtime, pointed out that, although the Westerners are 0-4, they have never "hung their heads at anytime."

not giving up." Wood said the Matadors, now 3-1, did not play the kind of game they are capable of playing. "We just didn't do the things we were

Then, he turned back to a year ago when the Aggies bruised into Lubbock Coliseum and lashed the Raiders-but good-83-63. Few times have the Raiders taken such punishment, at home espe-

WITH FOUR GAMES this week, the Raiders will have a chance to show partially what they can do. Coach Gerald Myers had indicated before the season's start that the team was capable of pressing, of running more.

They did a great bit of both Monday night with a reasonable amount of success. The high percentage shooting was another highlight, and if it keeps up, the Raiders will be strong against zone-oriented teams.

The Raiders, too, appear to have some size to counteract any power tactics un-der the goal. Tech has played a physical game for several seasons, with the likes of Rick Bullock, Ron Richardson, Grady Newton, Steve Hardin, Ed Wakefield and Richard Little. More of the questions will be answered

MHS Girds For Mojo

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff Through most of this 11-0-1 season, Monterey football coach James Odom had avoided explanations about his team's performance. Odom had let the players do the talking.

But the Plainsmen barely escaped El Paso with a 36-25 victory over Bel Air Thanksgiving night, and the veteran coach was doing some soul-searching as the team bus was crossing the desert

"We seem to play on the level of our competition. We kind of undersold Bel Air because of their record and we weren't mentally and emotionally ready to play," he said. "But everytime Bel Air came close and we had to have it, we came back and got it."

And MHS needed it a number of times in the border city because its offense damaged both defenses during this game. While MHS covered 435 yards offensively and earned most of its points, the offense also fumbled the ball away five times to provide Bel Air scoring chances.

Though the score obviously destroyed the credibility of the Monterey defense to some folks, the defensive unit actually played on the same level of the previous week against Tascosa. Bel Air's offense made only one first down, while compiling its first 17 points.

A fumble at the MHS 12 led to Bel Air's first-quarter TD. Another fumble at the Bel Air 18 was caught in mid-air and returned 82 yards for a TD. Still a third bobble at the MHS 15 resulted in a 28yard Highlander field goal.

Texas Locates Hotel

AUSTIN (AP) - Top-ranked Texas has decided to stay at the Le Baron Hotel in Dallas, after its first choice - the Marriott - gave rooms the Longhorns thought they had reserved to Cotton Bowl foe Notre Dame.

'Coach (Fred) Akers is well pleased," said assistant athletic director Bill Elling-

Akers was anything but pleased Monday when he told his regular weekly news conference that Texas had been notified the Marriott - where Texas has stayed on Dallas trips for the past three years would not be available.

"I may as well talk about it," Akers said. "I'm upset about it. That's the last time they (the Marriott) will see us."

The Marriott chain offered the Texas squads free rooms at its other Dallas motel, but Ellington said he had not seen vice president Sam Huff, who was expected here with the offer Tuesday.

Assistant coach Alan Lowry, in the Dallas area on a recruiting trip, made the arrangements with the Le Baron, after checking out the facilities. Ellington said. David Pease, director of marketing for the Marriott, said Notre Dame wanted their reservations confirmed last Friday, the day before Texas clinched its Cotton Bowl berth by beating Texas A&M 57-28.

"We were faced with the decision of accepting Notre Dame or waiting until Saturday to determine the Southwest Conference representative," Pease said. "We knew Texas would stay here if they won, but A&M has stayed at the downtown Hilton for the past three years." An A&M victory would have kept the Officials said X-rays showed Sproul suffered three lumbar transverse process fractures early in the first quarter in Friday's 23-7 victory over Arizona.

Doctors translated the diagnoses as Sproul had three small protruding bones broken off the vetabrae in the loin area between the ribs and the pelvic region, making it extremely painful to walk.

tor Jim Eddins, who has seen his squad advance to the semifinals the last two years, said.

But then he added, "Well, let's say I was pleased with most of it. We stopped ourselves with the fumbles and the interceptions and twice penatlties cost us potential touchdowns. We just weren't concentrating like we should have been for some reason.

Still, the Eagles, now 12-0, allowed only 120 total yards and 75 of that came in the

"Our defense played well and we had a couple of opportunies to give up, but didn't," Eddins said, referring to Haskell first downs at the Eagle 8 and 4-yard lines, where the Seagraves defense allowed only a 25-yard field goal.

"We've felt all along that we've had a good defense. Oh, we gave up quite a few points in a couple of games, but through district and the first two games of the playoffs the defense has played well."

Getting back to the mistakes, Eddins said, "We just missed an assignment when (QB Dennis) Middleton was thrown for the long loss and fumbled. We had a receiver wide open and had we gotten the ball off we would have scored.

The Eagles, who have as many as eight two-way people at times, are blessed by some depth. In fact, Eddins includes four tackles when listing his offensive starters: Daylan Sellers, Mike McCormick Amadeo Gonzales and Vaughn Donald-

"That (depth) has been a big help this year. We usually alternate one of them bringing in the play and, since we do have so many people going both ways, it gives us a chance to rest them. And when you're going both ways, that's a must."

The Eagles came out of their regional game with one injury-and that might develop into a key one.

Placement kicker Davis Morgan suffered a shoulder separation on the kickoff after Seagraves' first score and missed the rest of the game. Clarence Davis, the team's top rusher, did the PAT duties after one later score and booted his seventh PAT of the year.

"We'll know something on Morgan by Thursday, hopefully," Eddins said. "Clarence (Davis) has been handling most of the kickoff duties lately, but we sure need Davis (Morgan) to handle the other kicking, and we feel he'll be able to do that and not risk futher injury." Sunray will enter the Lowrey Field quarter-final game against the Eagles with an 11-1 mark, losing only to Vega (26-0) the second week of the season. Vega lost of Petersburg 21-6 in bidistrict and then Sunray beat Petersburg 16-6 in re-

This will mark the third straight quarter-final tilt Seagraves has played at Lowrey, beating New Deal 14-0 in 1975 and Hart 26-6 last year.

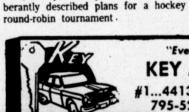

However, Eddins is extremely worried about Sunray, which has put 329 points on the board and allowed just 99 in 12 outings.

"They're a big play team and have a lot of confidence in their kicking game, both kicking and returning. They retruned one for a touchdown against Peterburg. We haven't had one returned on us this year, and it will be a challenge to prevent them from doing it.

They also kicked twice on second down against Petersburg, to show you how they value that part of their game and how much confidence they have in their defense.'

Eddins admitted he knew very little about Sunray but claimed that was typical of the playoffs, because you normally get to see a foe play only once but must concentrate on both teams that game and don't exchange films.

"It'll probably be like always, where we just wait until the game starts and see what we can do then, " Eddins said.

"Only the waters hadn't parted," he said with a laugh. "It was up to our noses."

Yung can joke about it now, but it wasn't terribly amusing at the time. The Buffaloes were 0-4 then. Now, they are 6-4-1 and champions of The Valley Conference after last Saturday's win over Southern Illi-

Of course, a 6-4-1 record isn't going to make a whole lot of persons around the nation collapse from amazement. And The Valley isn't the strongest conference around-WTSU was the only one of its seven teams to finish with an above-500 season mark. But the Buffs' accomplishment is nevertheless one of note, considering the obstacles.

Less than a year ago, West Texas' football program was in serious danger of becoming a memory. After much discussion and a vote by the board of regents, the program was retained, but it was still on shaky

Yung replaced Gene Mayfield in late January and found-not surprisingly-a pervasive defeatist atti-

"It was doom and gloom everywhere I went," Yung said. "I went around and talked a lot to members of the student body and to civic groups. I found that 90 percent of the things happening on this campus were good, but the other 10 percent were getting the most coverage in the media."

The adverse publicity the school had received obviously hindered recruiting, and several quality players transferred to other schools in the wake of WT's problems. Yung said he found more talent on hand than he had anticipated, but he and his staff went through a period of uncertainty about the team.

"Despite the problems, we were able to get some good recruits," he said, "but we still didn't know a lot for certain about the ball club.

"I was concerned about our defense, particularly at linebacker because we'd lost some good kids there during the troubled times. Also, I had no idea of what the rest of the conference was like in regard to talent, depth and coaching. I was leery of predicting how our team would do against other people."

The Buffaloes were a surprising preseason choice to win the The Valley championship, but Yung was con-cerned about how quickly his players would learn the multiple offensive and defensive schemes his staff had installed. And a knee injury to all-league back Robert Mayberry didn't brighten the outlook.

"I'll guarantee you. Being picked to win the conference really surprised me," Yung said with a chuckle. "I found out that the people based that mostly on two kids—Mayberry and (all-Valley back Bo) Robinson -and then Mayberry got hurt and only played in one

"But I took the approach that being the preseason choice to win helped us. Our kids had been through a lot of negative things, and they'd gotten down. I told them, 'Hey. Look. Somebody thinks we're good.' That really perked the team up." But then the season arrived, and the storm was not preceded by a period of calm. On the road, the Buffs fell to Wichita State 14-10, McNeese State 20-8, North Texas State 31-20, and came home to lose to UT-Ar-

'We should have beaten Wichita," Yung said. "We had installed a multiple offense, and our kids still hadn't completely adjusted to it and we made some mistakes and lost. But we had decided it would be best to go ahead with our game plan, even though it was a conference game."

Matters were clearly getting a bit tight, but Yung insists no one panicked.

"Every week, it was tough," he said, "but the players kept their heads up. We didn't get discouraged after those first four games.

"You have to have leadership and be positive, so we pointed out to the players right after each game the things they had done well. We had to show them that they were improving, though we hadn't yet won."

After the fourth loss, a couple of boosters gave Yung a picture that depicts a cowboy dangling over a cliff and barely hanging on to the reins of his horse. The horse is tied to a cow, and the cow is tied to a build-

"The caption reads, 'Hang in there, old buddy.' And that's what we had to do."

Victory No. 1 came by a 17-14 margin on the road over New Mexico State.

"I think they perhaps overlooked us a little bit be-cause we were 0-4," Yung said. "They possibly wer-en't quite ready for us. Also, we'd been improving steadily. We made a great goal-line stand, and that Victories over Drake, Lamar and Indiana State followed. After tying Colorado State, the Buffs then ripped Tulsa and Southern Illinois.

"We just kept getting better and better," Yung said. "Everything slowly jelled, and we really peaked at the end of the season. Our kids could do anything we asked them to then. Last weekend, I wouldn't have been afraid to play anybody.

"We'd had a number of kids come down with the flu, but we still played well enough to win. Robinson had been coughing and wheezing all week, but he went 80 yards for a touchdown on the first play and ended up with 184 vards."

Yung, a Baylor assistant for five years, wears a Southwest Conference championship ring that he received after the Bears' 1974 title. This, he feels, was an added incentive for the Buffs.

"They kind of made that a goal," he said. "The New Mexico State game was our first 'ring game,' and the Southern Illinois game was the second.

"I thought our kids got excited when we won the championship at Baylor, but these guys went berserk Saturday. It was unbelievable in the dressing room."

Aside from the success on the field, Yung sees improvement in other important areas, too-support at the gate and unity in the athletic department. The Buffs averaged 3417 fans per game in 1976, but about 9,500 this season-still not close to filling their 20,000seat stadium, but the increase is obvious.

"Support is something you have to build slowly." Yung said. "You can't just demand that people come see you play. You have to gain their respect first.

"There's more togetherness in the department, too.
At least, we're all working on that. It'll just take time, but we'll get there."

LISTENING—West Texas State coach Bill Yung listens to one of his players during an early session after he took over last year. Yung led the Buffaloes to their first undisputed Valley Conference championship last week.

WBC Head Suggests Ali Retire

MADRID (AP) - World Boxing Council president Jose Sulaiman of Mexico said Tuesday heavyweight champion Mu-hammad Ali should retire "in triumph" or lose his WBC title if he isn't willing to abide by the organizations rules. "If Ali continues, he must do so in absolute respect to our rules. Not even him, with all his greatness, will be able to make the WBC avoid its obligations," Su-

The WBC has given Ali up to six months to set up a title fight with No. 1 contender Ken Norton, who is due in Madrid today to press his case personally before the WBC annual meeting for a bout with Ali.

A decision by the WBC at its ammeeting on the Ali case is experimentally. Sulaiman said.

Sulaiman said that Ali was his own greatest idol and that he admired the boxer for pulling the sport from lethargy, but he told the WBC that Ali's "last fights" were not dignified."

Ali's last fight against a No. 1 contender was a controversial decision over Norton on Sept. 28, 1976.

The WBC president said Norton would get the opportunity to speak to the full meeting and probably also would meet behind closed doors with the WBC's executive committee.

Ex-Rebels Seek Ouster Of Cooper

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) - A group of former Ole Miss football players who played under Ken Cooper have praised Cooper as a "good man" but said "he would never be a consistent winner" and should be fired, The Memphis Press-Scimitar reported Tuesday.

The 20 former players, in a letter addressed to Chancellor Porter Fortune, called for the immediate dismissal of

The Press-Scimitar quoted former Rebel linbacker Stump Russell of Madison, Miss., as saying the letter was mailed Monday and was written in the "best interests of Ole Miss.

"I think he's a great football coach. the best line coach I have seen in my life, but there are some intangibles that make a difference between an assistant and head coach," Russell said. "I respect him and like him. . . he's done a lot of good things, but it is our opinion that a change ppen and should be made.

"Ole Miss is as divided as hell. There's among the coaches and the said Russell, whose brother was a freshman on this year's Rebel

Copies of the letter were sent to athlet-ic director John Vaught, assistant athletic director Warner Alford and members of the athletic committee

In his four years at Ole Miss, Cooper's record is 19-25, including a 5-6 finish this year. Despite calls most of this season for his dismissal, the athletic committee decided Nov. 20 to retain Cooper for anoth-

"Losing is contagious, and right now Ole Miss has a losing atmosphere," said Russell, who played for the Memphis Grizzlies of the defunct World Football League after graduating in 1975. "People say 'give him another year,' but how much longer are you going to keep on giv-ing him another year?"

Russell said other players-most from the Jackson, Miss., area-to sign the letter metuded 1974 graduates Greg Markow and Lundy Gunn; 1975 graduates Bill Carris, James Hickman, Steve Lavings and Scott Steele, along with Carris Nasil, and Brad Pittman from last year's class.

Madden demanded after the Raiders thumped Buffalo 34-13 in Monday night football. "If you want to assume they'll win all three of their games, that's your right but we don't believe that."

Madden's Raiders are in second place in the AFC West, one game behind the 10-1 Broncos, who are making a strong bid for the division crown the Raiders have won nine of the past 10 years.

To win the division and a homefield advantage for the playoffs, Oakland must win all of its remaining games against Los Angeles, Minnesota and Kansas City, while Denver must lose two of its three against Houston, San Diego and Dallas.

The Raiders, who lost only one game last year, already have lost twice this season and struggled through some of their victories

"We're 9-2 and in most towns they'd be celebrating," he noted. "In Oakland they're talking about a slump."

OAKLAND (AP) - It's starting to look caught, most of the Raider players said they weren't worrying about how the Broncos handle their remaining games.

"I don't care what Denver does," said quarterback Ken Stabler, who completed seven of 12 passes for 166 yards and three touchdowns while nursing a sore knee.

"We have to concern ourselves with our own games and not depend on other people to do it for us," Stabler said. "If we have to play the playoffs on the road we'll just do it. If we play at home, that's Mark van Eeghen, who gained 143 which we will — all the yards I gain will be meaningless," said van Eeghen, who became the first Raider runner to chalk up back-to-back 1,000-yard seasons.

Cowboys Need More Offense

DALLAS (AP) - - The Dallas Cowboys are in the National Football League play-offs for the 11th time in the past 12 years, but Coach Tom Landry warned Tuesday that his team will not get to the Super Bowl unless the offense improves.

'We haven't been playing good enough offense the last two or three weeks to get into the Super Bowl," said Landry. "The strength of our team is defense."

Landry said Dallas' 14-7 victory over Washington Sunday underlined a sputter-

"We're aware Roger Staubach isn't passing the ball well but there's nothing wrong physically,' said Landry. "We're reviewing the situation. Roger could have fallen into some bad habits. We just haven't reached a conclusion. "Poor routes and poor protection could be throwing Roger's timing off. We just don't know. We have a young offensive line and a young tailback (rookie) Tony Dorsett. But we're not overly concerned.

Thomas Unhappy With Chiefs

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - Veteran cornerback Emmitt Thomas says he's tired of his role as a second-stringer after two games and he won't return to the Kansas City Chiefs for a 12th season.

"When you've played somewhere for 11 seasons and then, all of a sudden they sit you down, it's time to look elsewhere," said Thomas, who ranks second in interceptions among active players in the National Football League

Thomas said he does not want to retire and hopes to be traded.

Thomas said he is not bitter about the decision of Coach Tom Bettis to start Tim Collier, a second-year player, ahead of him at right cornerback. Thomas has seen only limited duty in the last two Chiefs' games and says he wants to play, preferably for a winner.

"I feel like I can play—there's only one guy in our backfield who can outrun me. I've lost some quickness, but I can still play," he said.

Thomas, who has 55 career interceptions for the Chiefs, was not specific about where he would like to play. "It will be a winner though. I'm not going to any loser." Kansas City is 2-9 for the sea-

The Cowboys can clinch the National Conference Eastern Division title and a home spot Dec. 26 in the first round of the playoffs if they defeat Philadelphia in

"I think we will be ready for this game, but Philadelphia has a sound defensive team," said Landry

Landry injected a bit of humor into his weekly press conference when asked comments accusing Dallas of unethical tactics. Allen said his films showed center D.D. Lewis moved his hips and an upback moved his arm in a deliberate attempt to draw Washington offsides.

> Ken Delino was one of 20 or so young men from the Class of '64 at Chatham High School in New Jersey who went to Vietnam. "People who didn't go to World War II and Korea were the ones who were strange," he said. "In Vietnam it was the ones who went who were strange.

Several of Delino's classmates returned from Vietnam scarred or disabled, one spent time as a POW - and two didn't return at all.

Delino's passionate commentary on the plight of the Vietnam veteran is a common thread running through "The Class that Went to War," an ABC News Closeup scheduled for the evening of Dec. 1. The hour-long documentary features Delino and several of his classmates.

"There were about 125 guys in the Class of 1964," said Richard Gerdau, an ABC News producer who grew up in Chatham. "I knew all of them, by name

And when Gerdau was asked to produce a show on the Vietnam veteran, "I immediately thought of all the people I knew who had been veterans, and they were all out of my high school class."

That circumstance provided Gerdau with a unique opportunity, a chance to examine for television the effect of the war on a community with which he was intimately involved.

"And the result was a kind of antithesis of how you see the Vietnam veteran most often," he said. "If they get coverage at all, it's usually of a bunch of guys standing on a street corner complaining.

"We took the opposite approach and tried to present the Vietnam veteran as the kid next door, the human side of the veteran, to see a little of his background and so on.'

The result is the moving, sometimes disturbing story of young men who returned home, many of them disillusioned by the war, some broken by it, and were

"I hope it's not unpleasant or uncomfortable to watch," said Gerdau of the documentary."

Gerdau brought a sensitivity to the subject and its locale — he lives there today with his wife and two children — "and with this kind of show, the desire is to do something very personal.

"It's really a tough balance," the producer said, "to stick this kind of story in what is the traditional documentary approach, and that means there must be something of a national angle.

To that end, "The Class that Went to War" includes commentary from Ron Kovic, the disabled veteran whose "Born on the Fourth of July" was a best-seller, and Dr. Robert J. Lifton, a Yale professor who wrote one of the earliest studies on the Vietnam war's effects.

And there's attention to the thousands of veterans who've had problems readjusting, those out of work and those still in need of medical and psychological

Celevision Drama Creates Custer Trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Hollywood, like history, has taken different views of George Armstrong Custer.

Errol Flynn, in the 1942 film "They Died With Their Boots On," played Custer as a dashing hero. In "Little Big Man," Richard Mulligan portrayed him as a glory-seeking eccentric who died a raving maniac at the Battle of the Little Big Horn on June 25, 1876. Big Horn on June 25, 1876.

But what if Custer had not died with his 250 men of the 7th Cavalry, in the Montana Territory? What if he had lived to tell why he chose to attack a superior force of Indians?

That is the theme of "The Court-Martial of George Armstrong Custer," seen as a Hallmark Hall of Fame presentation on NBC at 9 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 1. It was adapted from the book by Douglas C.

"In playing the part I tried to be as pro-Custer as I could," said James Olson, who donned buckskins, wig, moustache and goatee for the role.

"I kept trying to find all the pro-Custer things. After all, that's the way he would have felt. But after I finished, I believed to have made the decision to go into battle he had to be insane. His whole being was based on attack, surprise and victory. That's what made him such a great Indian fighter."

He said, "The decision to split up his troops was insane, but no one questioned him because he had a reputation for being eccentric. The officers under him hated his guts."

The drama, largely set in a military courtroom on Governors Island, N.Y., also stars Brian Keith as the civilian de-found told the Indians' side of the battle. "Obviously, I didn't become a Custer expert, but I read as much as I could," he said. "I tried to find the essence of the man, but I couldn't. There were so many aspects. He had a child-mother relationship with his wife. According to their servants, they never had sex. He lived in a fantasy world."

One of the problems that faced Olson and Miss Danner was developing character without saying anything. The major portion of the trial is carried on by the attorneys and the witnesses.

"We went three scenes with no dia-logue at all," he said. "That was interesting trying to build character without saying anything. Blythe and I felt we were losing our sense of speech. I began to feel paranoid, with people saying all those terrible things about me. I wanted to stand up and fight." Olson, a tall, rangy bachelor with re-ceding blond hair, began his acting career on the stage in New York, then moved into television and the movies. He starred in "Andromeda Strain" and in the upcoming "Clouds," with Lee Grant and Carol Kane. He is frequently seen on tele-

Q. How does one figure that a 5 percent tax-free bond equals 7.34 percent in taxable income?

A. It doesn't -unless the investor in question pays income taxes in the 32 percent bracket. If you take 32 percent away from 7.34 you will find that you come down to about 5. Therefore a person in the 32 percent income tax bracket has no more left from a 7.34 percent taxable investment than he would have from a 5 percent tax-free investment.

If you are in a 50 percent income tax bracket, a 5 percent tax-exempt bond is as rewarding, net, as a 10 percent taxable

Tax-exempts mean different things to different people and are much more de-

you are in a very low tax bracket, you could lose income, net, by owning tax-exempts (which, by definition, yield less than taxable investments).

Q. I've looked, and can't find any law which says municipal bonds must be taxexempt.

A. A recent release from Lebenthal & Co., a leading municipal bond house, refers you to the Bill of Rights in the Constitution and to the Reserved Powers to the States Amendment: "the powers not delegated to the U.S. by the Constitution nor prohibited by it to the states are reserved to the states respectively or to the Lebenthal points out that "implicit in this Tenth Amendment is the principal that the federal government can't destroy the states and the states can't destroy the federal government." (And the power to tax is equated to the power to destroy.) And that's why the federal government doesn't tax municipal bonds and the states don't tax the bonds of the U.S. gov-

Q. I am an elderly woman who continues to hold unimproved land because a sale would involve heavy gains taxes. But I could use more income

A. I can see no particular virtue in being "land poor." You have a substantial asset which is doing nothing but costing you real estate taxes. To continue to hold this big investment just to avoid gains taxes is a self-defeating gesture.

Ask a tax expert for the best way to sell off the land so as to keep taxes at a minimum. But whatever the tax bill, you've got to sell if you're to get any income from this money.
