Big Payoff To Solon Reported

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former Rep. Otto Passman of Louisiana, one of the most powerful members of the House until his defeat last year, got $190,000 from Tong-sun Park, the central figure in the Korean payoff investigation in Congress, it was reported today.

Passman immediately denied that he ever had received money from Park. The New York Times reported in a story from London that "close friends and associates who said they had direct knowledge of the payments" said the money Park gave to Passman, the former chairman of the House Appropriations Committee's subcommittee on foreign operations, was more than any other congressman received in the alleged payoff scheme.

Passman, reached by the Times at his office in Monroe, La., responded to the story by saying, "I'm 77 years old and served in the Congress for 30 years. I have never received a dime from Mr. Park or any other foreign national. How things get out, I don't know."

Park, a millionaire rice trader, is the key figure in the probe of alleged payoffs to members of Congress. He left Washington months ago when the affair began to break on Capitol Hill, went to London, and then on to Seoul.

He has so far revealed little to investigators.

The sources told the newspaper that Passman got $150,000 from Park personally, and $40,000 more came through an intermediary, Ryu Jae Shin.

Ryu is cooperating with the investigation of Park. As a result of information from Ryu, the Times said, Passman has become a major target of the probe.

Officials of the Justice Department and the Korean Ministry of Justice met last month in Seoul, the Times said, in an attempt to have Park, already indicted in the probe, piece together the case against Passman.

The Times said Park has told investigators nothing of any payments to Passman. But in the months he spent in London, the Times reported, Park told associates that in early 1972 he withdrew $190,000 from a Swiss bank account and over the next several months paid $150,000 in cash to Passman, with the remaining $40,000 going to Passman through his aide, Ryu.

PROPOSES TEST MORATORIUM — Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev opens the national celebration of the 60th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution in Moscow today with a proposal for a moratorium on all nuclear explosions, peaceful and military, and gradual destruction of atomic weapons stockpiles. (AP Laserphoto)

Brezhnev Offers Nuclear Pledge

MOSCOW (AP) — President Leonid I. Brezhnev proposed today a moratorium on all nuclear explosions, peaceful as well as military, and gradual destruction of atomic weapons stockpiles.

Marking the Soviet Union's 60th anniversary, the Soviet leader made the proposals in a speech to a joint "celebration meeting" of the Communist Party Central Committee, the Soviet parliament and the parliament of the Russian Federation, largest of the Soviet republics. His speech also:

—Reported a disappointing 1977 grain harvest of 194 million tons, 19 million tons below target and 29.8 million tons below last year's record crop.

—Sharply criticized China, but warned communism's foes that the Soviet-Chinese split may not be permanent.

Brezhnev said the Soviet Union "is effectively looking after its defense capability, but it does not and will not seek military superiority over the other side."

Referring to atomic weapons, Brezhnev said the Soviet Union would like to see the start of "a gradual reduction of existing stockpiles of such weapons, and move toward their complete, total destruction."

President Carter has recently indicated the United States also is interested in progress toward nuclear arms limitations.

He told the U.N. General Assembly last month that the United States is "willing now" to reduce its arsenal of nuclear arms "by 10 percent, by 20 percent, even by 50 percent," if the Soviets would do the same.

He said the United States was prepared to join with other nuclear nations to ban all test explosions, peaceful or military, and has begun to restrain its export of conventional arms.

Carter called for the completion of negotiations on a comprehensive nuclear test ban and asserted: "My country believes that the time has come to end all explosions of nuclear devices, no matter what their claimed justification — peaceful or military."

Brezhnev said the Soviet Union is ready to negotiate an agreement to stop all underground nuclear explosions as well as those already banned in the atmosphere, outer space and under the oceans.

"We are ready to come to an agreement to the effect that, along with banning for a definite period all tests of nuclear weapons, a moratorium would be announced on nuclear blasts for peaceful purposes."

Diplomats in Moscow said Brezhnev's proposals, presented briefly in a state-of-the-world address to Communist leaders, were not detailed enough to allow thorough analysis.

It was the most far-reaching nuclear ban proposed so far. Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko in a speech to the United Nations Sept. 27 proposed a moratorium on underground weapon testing, and the nuclear powers opened talks Oct. 3 in Geneva on proposals to ban all nuclear tests, including those for peaceful purposes. But this latter proposal did not extend to explosions for such peaceful purposes as opening mines or diverting rivers.

The United States and the Soviet Union agreed in 1974 to limit underground nuclear weapon tests to 150 kilotons. This limit was extended in May 1976 to include explosions for peaceful purposes.

Brezhnev's report of a 194-million-ton grain harvest surprised foreign agricultural specialists. The last prediction from Washington was 215 million tons, and some Soviets had been predicting about 205 million.

Brezhnev blamed the low figure on weather conditions that were "far from the best — not even average."

One Western specialist said the "the loss had to have been in the new lands (of Soviet Asia), because in European Russia the crop was 10 million tons above last year's."

The U.S. agriculture department said last month that up to 15 million tons of American grain would be available in the coming year for sale to the Soviet Union. Under the current five-year grain agreement between the two nations, the Russians buy at least 6 million tons of American wheat and corn each year.

The Soviet leader had good news from the meat department, announcing that production for the year would reach about 15 million tons, half a million more than the target and 1.7 million tons more than 1976 production.

He also announced the 1977 cotton harvest. See RUSSIAN Page 14

South Africa Faces Curbs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is banning the export of all police and military equipment to South Africa and recalling the U.S. commercial attaches there to review future economic relations with the racially troubled country, Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance announced today.

He said the moves, which include a halt in U.S. maintenance of old equipment, "reflects our national concern" with the recent South African crackdown on blacks and their supporters.

The ban on police equipment tightens the voluntary arms embargo first imposed in 1963 and enhanced last week by U.S. support at the United Nations for mandatory, worldwide arms sanctions for six months.

The United States recalled its ambassador from Pretoria last month for consultations about U.S. policy toward South Africa.

On another subject, Vance welcomed a call by Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev for a total ban on all peacetime nuclear explosions.

Hotel Fire Kills Five

By The Associated Press

A fire in a residential hotel in Columbia, Ky., was blamed for at least five deaths early today, while dozens of guests fled a fire at a Holiday Inn in Syracuse, N.Y., by climbing down bedsheets and jumping from second-story windows.

In Columbia, about 100 miles south of Louisville, four men died of smoke inhalation and burns in a fire that started in the laundry room of the two-story, 38-room Miller Hotel and destroyed eight businesses housed in the building. A fifth man died of a heart attack after leaving the hotel.

Eight to 10 other hotel guests were missing, authorities said.

In Syracuse, four persons were hospitalized, one in critical condition, after a fire gutted a wing of the 120-room Holiday Inn there.

"By what he announced today we made a major step toward a comprehensive test ban agreement," Vance said.

Brezhnev, launching celebrations of the 60th anniversary of the Russian Revolution, told a gathering in Moscow that the Kremlin is ready to ban all nuclear arms tests "for a definite period."

Vance, reacting at a news conference here, said the United States has been negotiating in Geneva for a ban of four or five years while the Soviets favor "a shorter period of time."

He also confirmed that "on a number of occasions," the Carter administration has appealed to the Russians on the treatment of dissidents, several of whom face trial on serious charges. But Vance said there is no "linkage" between official U.S. concern and efforts to complete a new treaty limiting strategic nuclear weapons.

On the Middle East, he rejected an allegation by Sen. Republican Leader Howard Baker of Tennessee that the Carter administration is playing "Russian roulette" with Israel's security.

In an attack on administration Middle East policies Tuesday, Baker also criticized the Oct. 1 U.S.-Soviet statement that gave Moscow an expanded role in arrangements for a Geneva conference.

Vance acknowledged concern in Israel as there is movement toward negotiations. But he said the Arabs also are uneasy as all the parties "look into the future," partly because some "flexibility" is required on all sides.

"On both sides there are continuing misgivings about the sincerity of the other side," Vance said. He said Israel and the Arabs are asking themselves whether by trying to move toward a settlement they might also "move into a trap."

Responding to Baker, he said: "We are committed to the security of Israel and there has never been a moment of doubt upon this."

Vance went on: "We are not playing Russian roulette as was suggested."

Regarding South Africa, the secretary said: "We have emphasized the importance of beginning progress towards the end of apartheid and full participation for all South Africans."

Canyon Search Proves Futile

By PAT CARLSON
Avalanche-Journal Staff

What appeared to be a clue to the disappearance of a 6-year-old Lubbock boy faded today when the child's father said a small shoe found near a Yellowhorse Canyon stream was not his son's.

Following a week of futile searching throughout much of eastern Lubbock County, investigators today were entering the eighth day of the hunt for Johnny Turner Jr., who was reported missing late last Wednesday.

Late Tuesday, searchers who had been combing a large portion of the canyon north of Slaton found a child's tennis shoe in a small stream, a branch of the Brazos River. According to Lubbock Police Department Juvenile Division Capt. Bill Cox, sheriff's deputies from Post made the find shortly before the search ended at sundown.

Searchers' hopes were raised because the shoe reportedly matched the description of that worn by the youth at the time of his disappearance.

However, the missing boy's father, Johnny Turner of 1028 E. 29th St., said the shoe was not the child's, police reported shortly after noon today.

Witnesses last week had reported seeing a child fitting the Turner boy's description at an East Lubbock service station. They said he was in a light-colored pickup truck driven by a white man. Composite drawings of a suspect were based on the witnesses' description.

Lubbock police today reportedly had taken custody of such a vehicle at the Slaton home of the man charged with the boy's abduction, Philip Carey Brasfield.

Brasfield, 29, a carpenter, was charged Tuesday with aggravated kidnapping, and remained in Lubbock County Jail today in lieu of $100,000 bond.

The charge alleges Brasfield "intentionally and willingly restrained Johnny Turner Jr., by secreting and holding him

Mercury Dips Into 20s In South Plains Area

A-J News Services
Lubbock's low landed on the 32-degree mark early this morning for the first time this season, following a day of cold winds that gusted to 44 mph. It was a sharp contrast to recent calm days with high readings in the 70s and 80s.

Although the thermometer's flirtation with the freezing mark was brief here, much lower temperatures — many in the middle 20s — were recorded in northern and western portions of the South Plains.

A new front stretching across the northwestern portion of the nation today posed the possibility of more cold weather later in the week, but forecasters were not prepared to be specific about its effects.

Today's forecast calls for highs in the lower 60s and a nighttime low near 40. Winds today were expected to increase to the 15-25-mph range, becoming light and variable tonight. Weather should be slightly warmer Thursday, with a high in the upper 60s.

Muleshoe recorded a low of 24 degrees to take honors for the coldest spot in the area this morning, and a number of South Plains stations noted temperatures in the 20s.

Panhandle temperatures also dropped below freezing before dawn today. Dalhart reported 25 degrees. Amarillo hit a 31-degree overnight low. Mountain temperatures near Marfa dropped to 24 degrees.

As the cold front blanketed the state, warm-weather stalwart Brownsville listed a relatively warm 63 degrees, and Big Bend Valley temperatures were expected to reach the 80s, an exception to the chilly rule statewide.

Today's forecast calls for some light rain over portions of North Central and Northeastern Texas. Elsewhere over the eastern section of the state, however, skies were expected to clear today.

Today's high readings across the state generally will land in the mid-50s to mid-70s, forecasters say.

Rain and snow flurries brushed the Amarillo area Tuesday, but snow in that area melted as soon as it hit the ground.

The cold front, which prompted precautions Tuesday to protect tender vegetation and left up to a half foot of snow in the ski areas of Colorado, spread rapidly southward Tuesday, before taking a more easterly turn following its arrival in Texas.

More than six inches of rain fell east of Dallas, and other portions of the state recorded two to four inches.

Savage Storm Hits Pacific Northwest

By United Press International
A deadly Pacific storm, described as one of the worst in 15 years, swept the Washington coast Tuesday night and early today with wind gusts of up to 125 mph, kicking up 20-foot waves.

Gale warnings remained in effect for coastal areas of the Pacific Northwest today and travelers advisories were posted for the Cascade Mountains, where the storm's rains turned to blowing snow.

Heavy rains in the Cascades prompted flash flood watches for the Snoqualmie, Snahomish and Nooksack rivers, which were approaching bankfull early today.

The storm's high velocity winds blew a canopy from a pickup truck crossing the Tacoma Narrows Bridge and sent it smashing into a car driven by Lisa McKell, 20. She died of head injuries. The National Weather Service, which described the storm as one of the fiercest in 15 years, clocked one gust at Rattlesnake Ridge, Wash., at 125 mph. Winds averaged about 80 mph. Waves broke from 14 to 20 feet above normal.

In Seattle, falling trees and branches knocked down power lines, causing numerous outages to tens of thousands of residents. A gust shattered a large glass plate in the Seattle city light building, where extra workers were handling emergency calls, but no one was injured.

In Southern California, warm, desert winds funneled through the mountain passes and swept skies clear of clouds and pollutants. Santa Catalina Island, 32 miles from Los Angeles, could be seen clearly from the Los Angeles foothills.

Hundreds of boaters and offroad motorcyclists took the day off and headed for the lakes and dusty mountain trails.

TEXAS TECH'S STEVE SLOAN Hasn't Talked To Anybody About Ole Miss Job

Ole Miss Eyeing Sloan?

By CARTER CROMWELL
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
Texas Tech head football coach Steve Sloan said this morning that he "hasn't talked to anybody" about the possibility of him replacing Ken Cooper as head coach at the University of Mississippi.

Reports have said Sloan is under consideration for the job, but Sloan said, "Mississippi still has a coach, and I don't think any coach in America would talk to someone about a job that somebody else still has."

"This is pure speculation. They do it every year," added Sloan, whose name has been mentioned in regard to a number of other head coaching jobs since he has been at Tech.

"Every time a coach is getting some pressure, they write a story and throw in about five or six names."

"I know right now I don't have time to think about other jobs. With the season going on, we're too busy to think about much else. You feel lucky if you can keep the job you've got, and you hope the other guy makes it every time."

Sloan said he first heard of the reports Monday. One story in the Memphis Press-Scimitar said Sloan had been offered a six-figure salary to take the job. Other coaches reportedly under consideration for the position were Pat Dye of East Carolina, Bobby Bowden of Florida State, Hayden Fry of

Witness Recalls Mass Abduction

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — A 12-year-old Chowchilla girl wept as she faced her kidnappers in a courtroom and recalled the terror of a mass abduction.

Jodi Heffington, one of 26 children kidnapped with their school bus driver, told of being entombed "in a hole in the ground" where it was dark and hot.

The dark-haired girl broke down as she began to describe the bus hijacking of July 15, 1976.

"A man got out with a gun," Jodi began, then burst into tears.

Superior Court Judge Leo Deegan called a brief recess while Jodi's Across the room, the three admitted kidnappers — James Schoenfeld, 26, Richard Schoenfeld, 23, and Fred Woods, 26 — alternately leaped through papers and glanced impassively at the young witness.

"They told us not to do anything bad or wrong or we were gonna get hurt," Jodi said when she resumed testifying.

The defendants are charged with "kidnapping with bodily harm," a more serious offense than simple kidnapping to which they have pleaded guilty.

If convicted of the bodily harm count, the three would be condemned to life imprisonment without possibility of parole. They have chosen a trial by judge rather than jury, fearing jurors would be swayed by sympathy for the children.

Jodi testified that she suffered repeated nosebleeds during the 27-hour abduction and also hurt her knee, wet her pants and felt "awful."

Jodi and another kidnap victim, Mike Marshall, 15, remembered the children crying and praying as they lay in a buried moving van.

"It was hot," said Marshall. "There was mostly no air."

Some children fainted, he said, and others cried frantically.

"They just kind of screamed, 'I want my mommy,'" he said.

Marshall, the oldest of the children, remembered bus driver Ed Ray leading the kids in shouts toward the roof of the buried van, hoping the kidnappers would hear.

"Ed started yelling up, 'Please let us out. Pretty please,'" Marshall said. "... So we started all saying that together for about 15 minutes."

The teenager, who helped Ray dig an escape route, said the ordeal caused him to hallucinate.

"I saw some trees and a little stream running along," Marshall recalled. "They weren't for real, but I saw them."

Earlier, Ray took the witness stand and related his memories of the nightmare day when he tried to comfort the kidnapped children by holding them close.

"There was a lot of crying," the 56-year-old bus driver said. "The kids — they thought they wouldn't see their mommies and their daddies no more. I thought we were all gonna die right there."

Ray later was hailed as a hero when he and the children dug their way out of the van which was buried in a gravel quarry. His bodily injuries, he said, were two badly cut fingers.

"It was real crowded," he said of conditions in the kidnappers' panel truck which took them to the quarry.

"I laid across the back fender well and the kids piled up against me — on my arms and legs," Ray said.

"I got cramps in my legs and tried to move, but I couldn't because the little kids just started crying more... the poor little kids didn't want to move," he said. "So I let them lay on me."

WITNESSES ARRIVE FOR TRIAL — Bus driver Ed Ray, bottom, who became the hero of the mass abduction of a school bus and 26 children from Chowchilla, Calif., last year, arrived at the courthouse in Oakland, Calif., Tuesday where three men who admit the kidnapping now must defend themselves against charges the victims were injured in the ordeal. At top are Jeff Brown, 10, one of the kidnap victims, and Candy Marshall, sister of Mike Marshall, another kidnap victim. (AP Laserphoto)

Mexican Governor To Work For Jobs

MEXICALI, Mexico (AP) — Roberto de la Madrid, the first U.S.-born governor of a Mexican state, says he will work to develop jobs for Mexican citizens so they won't have to go north of the border seeking jobs.

In his inaugural address after being sworn in Tuesday as governor of Baja California Norte, the 55-year-old native of Calexico, Calif., described illegal migration of Mexican workers to the United States as one of the most difficult problems he faces.

"We, the people of Baja California, as in no other part of the republic, live the intense everyday drama of migration and a search for a solution to unemployment," he said.

De la Madrid said he hopes to create several new government ministries to help alleviate his state's 22 percent unemployment rate, including a Ministry of Tourism and one to ease the legal burdens of U.S. citizens who run afoul of Mexican law while traveling there.

Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo, California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., Arizona Gov. Wesley Bolin and actor John Wayne were among more than 2,000 persons attending the ceremonies at a heavily guarded movie theater.

Lopez Portillo, whose friendship with de la Madrid dates back to the 1940s, urged the newly installed governor in remarks after the inaugural address: "Roberto, do your best so that our people can find work so that they don't cross the border into the United States to find jobs."

At a joint news conference later, de la Madrid and Brown said they would meet regularly to discuss plans for promoting U.S. investment and otherwise providing economic benefits to Baja California.

Brown said he wants to increase the volume of oil and natural gas exported from Mexico to California to help forestall any immediate need for nuclear power in his state and provide additional time to develop alternate energy sources.

De la Madrid, whose family owns a Baja California distributorship for products of Mexico's government-run Pemex oil monopoly, was born in Calexico to Mexican migrant workers who registered his birth across the border in neighboring Mexicali so he would have Mexican citizenship.

The new governor, who speaks flawless English, attended grade school in Mexicali, but went to high school in the San Diego suburb of National City.

He first became wealthy in the banking business during the 1940s and has held office in the U.S. as well as Mexico, having served as vice president of the San Diego Planning Commission in the early 1960s.

When Lopez Portillo became Mexico's president, he named de la Madrid as head of the national lottery.

Exxon Planning To Drill Wells

MIAMI (UPI) — Exxon U.S.A. plans to spend up to $3 million early next year to drill four wells in the Big Cypress Swamp to determine the dimensions of its oil discovery there last spring, a spokesman said Tuesday.

A portion of the money will go for completion of the exploratory well which resulted in the discovery. Work at that site has been delayed through Florida's summer and fall rainy season for fear of causing environmental damage to the swamp, which has been designated a national preserve.

The exploratory well is located 40 miles west of Miami and four miles north of the abandoned Miami Jetpor, now used as a training field for airline flight crews.

Exxon spokesman Ken Dorney said the company has applied to the state Department of Natural Resources and the state Cabinet for permits to drill the four additional wells.

Exxon announced last June it had found significant traces of oil at the 11,600-foot level of the discovery well. However, when work was halted at the onset of the rain, the company had not determined whether the well was commercially productive.

Californian Charged With Drunken Riding

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Nathan Murray was arraigned this week on a charge of drunken riding.

Murray, 24, of Inglewood, Calif., was arrested Sunday night as he allegedly galloped drunkenly down Century Boulevard, swaying in the saddle.

He also was charged with cruelty to animals because the pavement injured the hooves of the unshod horse.

Increase In Tolls Angers Motorists

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Motorists crossing the Golden Gate Bridge didn't take kindly to tolls going from 75 cents to $1.

Angry commuters vented their ire on toll collectors in every way they could think of Tuesday when the new fees went into effect.

At least a dozen drivers quickly handed over 75 cents and roared off without paying the additional quarter.

One man cut a dollar bill into three pieces before handing the toll over.

Several commuters paid their tolls with 100 pennies.

"It's a miserable job out there," said veteran toll collector Richard Hoey, 40. "There's no morale today."

Hoey said one of the commuters who gave him the toll in pennies promised to pay his toll that way daily.

"I told him 'You can do it every day, but you're gonna wait here until I count em'..."

As for the motorists who rushed off without paying the full fee, toll collector Bill Sutton, 47, said, "I can't catch them. I'm not the bionic man."

Traffic was delayed about 15 minutes during the rush hour because of the protests.

Tolls, as well as fares on buses and ferries operated by the bridge district, were increased in hopes of generating an additional $5 million in annual revenues.

Rebel Priest Loses Court Fight

MINEOLA, N.Y. (UPI) — A state Supreme Court justice has ruled that no more than 25 persons may be present next Sunday when rebel Roman Catholic Archbishop Marcel Lefebvre dedicates a shrine at a Long Island estate in Oyster Bay Cove.

Judge Frank Altamari's ruling this week was a victory for Oyster Bay Cove village officials, who had refused to grant a zoning variance to the Society of St. Pius X to allow the Society to use the estate as its American headquarters.

The society, established by Lefebvre, is opposed to the early 1960's reforms of the Second Vatican Council, and is dedicated to the celebration of the now-banned Latin Mass.

Lefebvre, 71, Roman Catholic archbishop of Lille, France, has been suspended from all priestly functions by the Vatican for refusing to conform to the reforms of the Second Vatican Council. Lefebvre has said that for him to accept the changes in Roman Catholic liturgy and doctrine would be tantamount to becoming "quasi-Protestant."

The village board of trustees maintains that use of the former Woodward estate for the society's headquarters would create intolerable parking and traffic problems in the exclusive Oyster Bay Cove community.

more than 500 persons were expected to attend Lefebvre's blessing of the chapel, and he said this would "create a grave threat to the public safety."

"The area of the premises does not have access to parking automobiles," Altamari observed. "Pond Place is only 22 feet wide, and there are apparently no footpaths or sidewalks adjacent to the road."

Robert Foley, the Society's attorney, said he will seek a reversal of Altamari's decision.

Witches Predict Blackout

NEW YORK (UPI) — In 1978 there will be another blackout in New York City, U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young will resign and President Carter will try — unsuccessfully — to replace him with brother Billy.

What's more, Fidel Castro will angrily turn down a razor blade commercial. Who says so?

The New York Center for the Strange this week released the results of this year's nationwide survey of 280 American witches. The center polls the witches annually just before Halloween to learn what's in store for the coming year.

Robert Carson, who bills himself as the center's public opinion research director, noted "last year's survey accurately predicted Jimmy Carter's election victory, the 'Koreagate' scandal in Congress and the New York blackout — although they did not name the date of the massive electrical power failure.

"The popular image of witches as wicked, gnarled hags astride brooms is a terrible injustice to the 17 million men and women throughout the world who look upon witchcraft as a serious religious pursuit," Carson said.

He said the country's practicing witches include "a U.S. senator, the governor of a Western state, a well known feminist, a prominent television sportscaster and the publisher of a leading men's magazine." He would not identify them.

The 10 major predictions this year include:

—The Concorde supersonic jet will be denied permission to land in Los Angeles.

—President Carter will establish full diplomatic relations with Cuba; Fidel Castro then will visit the United States where he will angrily reject a razor blade company's offer of $100,000 to shave his beard off for a television commercial.

—"Koreagate" figure Tongsun Park will voluntarily return to the United States from Korea.

—Medical researchers will announce breakthroughs in the treatment of baldness, prickly heat and tennis elbow.

—New York will experience another blackout.

—Mounting criticism will force Young to resign and Congress will thwart Carter's attempt to replace him with Billy Carter.

—Henry Kissinger will announce his candidacy for the U.S. Senate.

—There will be minor hardships caused by a nationwide shortage of Beluga caviar, earmuffs, bagels and automobile dipsticks.

—The U.S. Supreme Court will rule that truth in advertising laws are unconstitutional.

—Coffee will be plentiful and prices will plummet.

New Bank Code Bans Loans To Aid Apartheid

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's second and third largest banks say they will use their loan regulations to try to prod South Africa into changing its white supremacist policies.

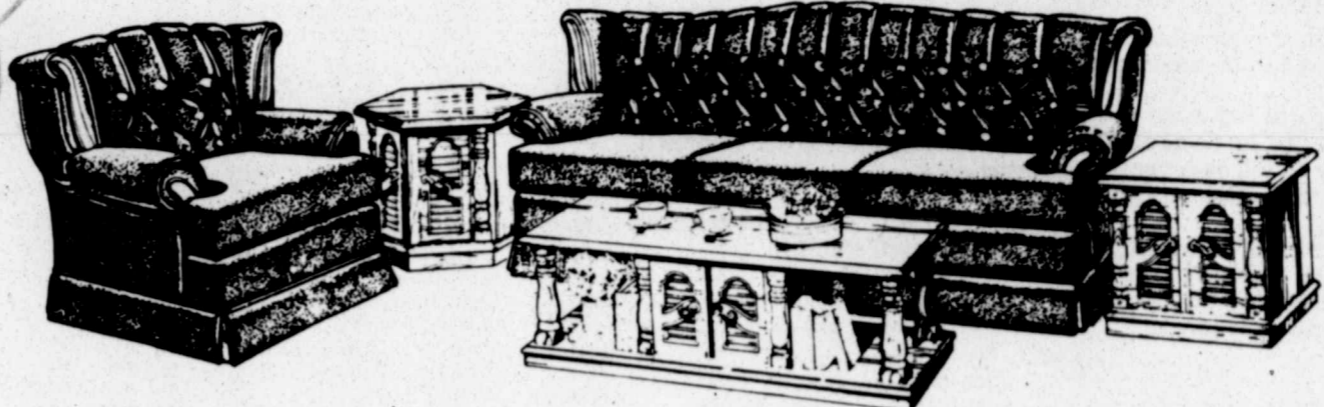

David Rockefeller, chairman of Chase Manhattan Bank, said this week that his bank has adopted a new "Code of Ethics" which would ban loans benefiting apartheid.

At the same time, Chase Manhattan would encourage loans for projects resulting in "social and economic benefit for all South Africans," Rockefeller told a dinner meeting of the American Jewish Committee.

Walter Wriston, chairman of Citibank, said in a telephone interview that the bank "regards apartheid as having a negative effect on South Africa's economic viability."

"So long as this is the case we will continue to moderate our business activities in that country," Wriston said. "Conversely, we would regard tangible progress away from apartheid as a positive factor in our risk-evaluation process and would doubtless expand our business in the country if this trend were evident."

However, United Nations Ambassador Andrew Young says the United States wants to discourage economic sanctions

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Football Pay: 'Hike'

THE U.S. NAVY, according to news reports, may ask female recruits to wait at least two months before becoming pregnant. Not so's the taxpayers can get work out of them while they're in uniform. Just so's routine vaccinations won't cause birth defects.

From the Quote Wrack: "Firing her because of her political opinions is an act of discrimination which we oppose. I would stand for Anita on this issue."—Gay Rights Activist Bob Kunst, reacting to reports that antagonist Anita Bryant may lose her job as the Florida orange juice lady.

vidual, whether or not it sounds Spanish or... "It is the principle of keeping a man out because of his race that is important...They have a right to equal..." Question: Was that argument made in 1964 on behalf of blacks, or in 1977 on behalf of whites?

Continental now is providing Lubbock-to-Oklahoma City flights. Non-stop. That's the best kind.

Texas ranks 18th among the 50 states in per capita appropriations for higher education, according to The Chronicle of Higher Education. It ranks 19th in appropriations based on per capita income.

Someone has figured out that, on average, each American is fed and clothed from farmland acreage equal to the size of five football fields. "Just my luck," says the Office Grouch, "for my five to be covered with Astro turf."

COMMENTING on a vote in the House of Representatives saving Gov't employees from a fate worse than death—being treated like non-Gov't employees—the Dallas Times Herald had this to say: "By voting to continue the exclusion of government workers from Social Security, the House has decided to increase the burden on the rest of the taxpayers..."

"Some economists," according to news reports, believe the federal government's deficit this year of $45 billion, $23 billion less than was expected, wasn't big enough to "spur" the economy. Maybe we ought to outlaw spurs as cruel and inhuman punishment.

Alameda County, Calif., has a population of 1.2 million. It has 16 incorporated cities. It is installing a computerized 911 emergency calls system. With a $711,093 federal taxpayer grant. Comes "free" that way.

"If a government worker has contributed as little as $111 to Social Security during his entire working life, before or after he served the government, he receives $114 or more per month from Social Security after he retires, in addition to his pension.

IN A CIVIL RIGHTS argument before the U.S. Supreme Court, the lawyer for the person claiming his rights had been denied on account of racial discrimination had this to say: "The concept of race itself as a classification becomes in our history and in our understanding an unjust and improper basis upon which to judge people."

RALPH NADER, for once, agrees with me that ticket prices charged by pro football teams are exorbitant. Typically, though, he puts the blame squarely on the owners and absolves the over-paid players. "It is a myth," the Nader organization said, "that ticket prices have any relationship to costs, particularly player salaries."

"Federal employees lobbied strenuously to preserve their gravy train..." One of these days, that gravy train is going to be derailed and the double-dippers will get what's coming to them. And nothing more.

"We do not believe that intelligence, that achievement, that ability are measured by skin pigmentation or by the last surname of an indi-

Baloney. Two or three million dollars in salaries doesn't impact on the gate receipts? That's like saying $600 worth of Nader-inspired safety equipment on a car won't affect its price.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL: Everybody's Business

DESPITE THE so-called "truce" between the Carter administration and the business community, the facts are that both corners are still eyeing each other with a certain degree of suspicion. This bodes no good: 1. For the economy; 2. For the business community; or, 3. For President Carter. Although a businessman, Mr. Carter came to Washington with the support of several groups which have looked on Business in a general sense as "the opposition."

business community have spent more time sparring than seeking ways and means of getting along. As a result, Business leaders have been somewhat reluctant to commit themselves in various areas, including expansion, for fear of what they might face in the next three years of Mr. Carter's term of office. This, indirectly, has had an effect on growth.

THIS WAS especially so as regards Labor, the black community and certain consumer groups. Unfortunately, although he has made an effort in that direction, the President still has the image of feeling he still owes something to the blocs and cliques that put him in office...

FURTHER, EVEN the voters feel that the President is unable to cope with some of the pressing problems which are business-oriented and which affect them. The latest Harris poll shows that a majority of the nation's citizens now has a pessimistic attitude toward the economy and feels that inflation will get worse before it gets better.

His support of numerous labor demands including Repeal of 14 (b), the common situs picketing measure, and the minimum wage bill leave little question as to where he stands.

Also high on the worry list is continued high unemployment. All of these are what might be called "gut" issues. To a great degree, the economic health of a nation is a reflection of the people's confidence in their government and leaders. Obviously, the sparring between the Carter administration and the business community has taken its toll.

AS A RESULT, the administration and the

THE federal "go ahead" signal awaits permission from the states. The legislatures, the public and private utility firms are hounded by fear and superstition, which in turn are dictated by the environmentalists. The states retain a dog-in-the-manger advantage over the central government.

It Only Takes Two To Tangle

WASHINGTON—Given the federal signal, private companies would construct a floating power plant, nuclear-fueled, off the Delaware-New Jersey coast at minimal risk of disaster.

rather than be overrun by the outnumbering Arabs, the Republic of South Africa is said to have H-weapons to turn aside the stampede of black Africans.

of the President's top security adviser, Zbigniew Brzezinski. He said that the U.S. had commando forces capable of breaking up gangs of terrorists, as Holland and West Germany recently did. He also said that America and Russia had been meeting both in competition and cooperation during the past years.

This floating "mother ship" of energy could feed what the Office of Technological Assistance describes as "a profusion of similar plants in coastal areas around the country."

The U.S. government wants the Jewish nationalist state to defend itself at all costs, and by nuclear means if necessary, against Arab aggression. Just the opposite is true as regards southern Africa. The U.S. wants South Africa and Rhodesia to enjoy the rights of a minority race, with H-bombs if need be.

A combined Russo-American force is the only combination in the world which could enforce peace in the Mideast and southern Africa. But it takes two to tangle.

But, of course, this hasn't been planned, and probably won't be for a long while.

'Round 'n 'Round 'n 'Round They Go!

James J. Kilpatrick:

Open Mouth; Withdraw Foot

WASHINGTON—In the wake of South Africa's crackdown on persons it terms "revolutionaries," we have witnessed great waves of honest protest—and great waves of hypocrisy and ignorance also.

succeeds, the leaders are indeed proclaimed as heroes, and we hang their portraits in our halls of honor.

There are at least two sides to this story. Most Americans have been getting only one. Viewed from the snug towers of academia, or from the marble halls of Capitol Hill, the South African story is one thing.

But if the assault fails, the leaders are known as rebels, and we do not hang their portraits. We hang them.

In this view, the closing of two newspapers and the arrest of 50 black leaders was a brutal, ruthless, totalitarian act—an exercise in racist tyranny that cannot be excused or explained.

It is all in one's point of view. Whatever may be said of the merits of the Bantu leaders' case, the position of the Vorster government surely is not implausible or irrational.

THE VIEW FROM Pretoria is something else entirely. In the view of the Vorster government, the jailed leaders are revolutionaries, pure and simple, seeking what revolutionaries always seek—the overthrow of established government.

AND MOVING AWAY from the specific events of a few days ago, there is much to be said for the government's position on this whole business of black majority rule in South Africa.

The arrested persons are part of an exercise in black political power, orchestrated from abroad, "aimed at the creation of a revolutionary climate, so that when the right moment came, the match could be set to the fuse."

It ought to be kept constantly in mind that South Africa is not to be equated with Angola, or Mozambique, or the Congo, or Rhodesia. South Africa is not now, and never has been, any nation's "colony."

Given this conviction in Pretoria, the government's action may still strike us as inexcusable, but the action surely was not inexplicable.

When black power became irresistible in Angola and Mozambique, the Portuguese could go back to Portugal. As colonialism has departed the African scene, we have seen Belgians, French and English pack their bags and go home.

WE OUGHT TO keep our thinking straight on these matters. We have just been through the bicentennial observance of our own American Revolution, and we tend to equate the very word, revolution, with patriots and powdered wigs and founding fathers.

No such course of action is available to the South Africans: They are home. And they will fight with total commitment to preserve the values that are precious to them.

This is all very well, so far as it goes. When an armed assault against established government Lightly Speaking That gurgling sound you hear are campaign promises going down the drain.

Every time you think you are ready to graduate from the school of experience, somebody thinks up a new course.

God must have loved the IRS agents—he made so many of them.

LET US CONSIDER our own history and be humble. Our black slaves were not seen in 1787 as human beings with equal rights. They were merely "three-fifths of all other persons."

It was not until 1870, after a terrible war, that they were given a right to vote. It was not until 1965, just 12 years ago, that a black person's right to vote in American took on meaning.

What a presumption it is—what arrogance!—for our spokesmen now to lecture South Africa in the virtues of participatory democracy and majority rule.

Time, they say, is a river; and the metaphor tells us that not all societies are borne along at the same speed.

IT HAS TAKEN the United States 370 years to get where we have come from Jamestown, and we have had every advantage of wealth, tradition, homogeneity and gradual assimilation that Providence could offer a people.

Where South Africa is situated on the river, I cannot say; but it is not where we are.

Our principal spokesmen, Messrs. Carter, Mondale and Young, would be well advised to lower their voices and to restrain their rhetoric.

Give a cooling-off period of patience and understanding (and given a gratifying outcome in a domestic election), the Vorster government may well relent.

Some months ago, before our own reckless spokesmen began puffing up the fires of Soweto, a few of the more oppressive aspects of apartheid were fading.

There were hopeful gestures—in sports, in employment, in diplomatic customs. If we mind our own business, for a change, perhaps movement can soon be restored, and the closed newspapers brought back to useful life.

Sylvia Porter:

Doesn't Anyone Listen At Meeting Of Bored?

ITEM: MORE THAN 400 companies have acknowledged illegal or illicit payoffs at home or abroad.

Item: During the past few years alone, hearings have disclosed that "workers at one factory or another have been given cancer, sterility, lung disease or children with birth defects along with their paychecks," accuses Michael Pertschuk, chairman of the Federal Trade Commission.

Item: David Rockefeller, chairman of the Chase Manhattan Bank, recently reported that surveys reveal four out of 10 American adults believe corporations are above the law and untouchable.

Item: Every year since 1967, the incumbent managements of several thousand corporations required to submit data to the SEC have been rejected 99.9 per cent or more of the time. In 73, a typical year, not one of the incumbent directors of the 500 largest industrial firms was even challenged.

THIS IS MERELY a random sampling of assertions made repeatedly during hearings now being conducted by the SEC on corporate governance across the nation.

The SEC's aim is to learn what the public expects of publicly held corporations and how it may help meet your expectations.

The specific focus of the SEC hearings is the adequacy of existing proxy rules to see whether new steps should be taken to increase the role shareholders now play in nominating, electing, or serving on corporations' boards of governors.

The proxy rules, first adopted between 1934 and 1942, have been amended somewhat since those years.

BUT AT THESE hearings, this is the first time the SEC is seriously re-examining whether and how private corporations are governed and whether and how the practices should be changed to make the corporations more accountable to the law and to us, the public.

This issue goes to the heart of the relationships between business and government.

Thus, the hearings, which opened in Washington, D.C., in late September, moved on to Los Angeles Oct. 11-14, started in New York City Oct. 18 and continued through Oct. 28, will conclude in Chicago Friday.

Even at this date, the hearings and the five-month study of corporate governance which preceded them have created an historically high response from stockholders and the overall public. Many groups—particularly charitable, religious and public interest groups—would like to see, among reforms:

- SHAREHOLDERS taking a larger part in selecting nominees to corporate boards;
• Shareholders getting greater access to management's proxy materials, in particular, lists of shareholders in order to nominate persons of their choice to become directors;
• Additional disclosure of information about the qualifications of director nominees, about management remuneration; and;
• Additional information about matters of "social significance," such as home mortgage lending practices or investments in South Africa.

SOME WITNESSES at the Washington sessions, such as Joel Seligman of Northeastern University Law School and co-author of "Taming the Giant Corporation," contend that directors nominated by inside operating officers and controlled by them do not scrutinize management or provide any meaningful protection of the shareholder's stake.

He advocates fully independent corporate boards—neither nominated by nor including any full-time operating executives.

But most corporations and attorneys believe corporations are responsive to shareholders and the public. As illustrations, they cite:

- The increase in the numbers of women and minority directors;
• Adoption of codes of ethics; and,
• Federal and state laws that already provide effective regulations of corporate conduct and investor safeguards.

ONE ORGANIZATION, the American Society of Corporate Secretaries, testified in Washington that requiring firms to disclose more information about knotty social issues would "bury the shareholder in an avalanche of trivial information."

As for the SEC itself, it would prefer to avoid more direct federal regulation by the commission or any other agency. Says its chairman, Harold M. Williams:

"The corporate community must develop within the existing legal framework its own mechanisms for holding itself accountable and meeting the expectations which society holds for it, or society may well demand that government create a new framework."

"When Koreagate is finally resolved, what do you suppose our next 'gate' will be?"

German Finds Way Home After Visit

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP)—Erwin Kreuz, who got off a plane in Bangor, Maine, thinking he was in San Francisco, returned today to West Germany and told reporters, "If Kennedy can say 'I am a Berliner,' then I am a Bangor."

He referred to a speech President John F. Kennedy made on a visit to Berlin in 1963.

Kreuz, who speaks no English, told about 20 reporters at Frankfurt International Airport he already had booked a flight to Bangor for his vacation next year.

"You must say only wonderful, wonderful, of what goes on in America," Kreuz said. He was greeted at the airport by representatives of the U.S. travel service of World Airways and of the West German auto club ADAC, that sold him the roundtrip ticket.

The 50-year-old brewery worker from the Bavarian city of Augsburg left his charter flight last month during a refueling stop in Bangor, thinking he had arrived at his destination in California.

After wandering around for three days, he asked a taxi driver to take him to San Francisco. Then he found out just how big a mistake he had made.

"I thought to myself in German, 'Good Lord, what's going on now,'" he said.

Kreuz managed to find a German-speaking couple in Bangor, who put him up in their home and acted as his interpreters.

When word of his dilemma was made public, Kreuz became an instant celebrity and was entertained by Maine dignitaries, including Gov. James Longley.

The San Francisco Examiner paid for him and his interpreter to visit the California city as its guests. But Kreuz, who is used to a climate closer to that of Maine than California, said his heart still was in Bangor.

Kreuz told reporters he was so moved by the warm reception in Maine that he wanted "never more to leave Bangor." He also was impressed when San Francisco television stations devoted more time on their local newscasts to his arrival than to that of Britain's Prince Charles, who also was in the city.

BACK HOME — Bavarian brewery worker Erwin Kreuz, 50, who became a celebrity within days after he mistakenly stepped off his plane in Bangor, Maine, holds up a typical Bavarian one liter beer stein on his arrival in Frankfurt Tuesday from San Francisco. (AP Laserphoto)

More Rhodesian Whites Emigrate From Country

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI)—Government statistics showed this week that Rhodesia has lost 8,737 whites through emigration so far this year — more than in the previous record year of 1964.

The monthly Digest of Statistics showed 1,479 whites left the country in September while 455 entered.

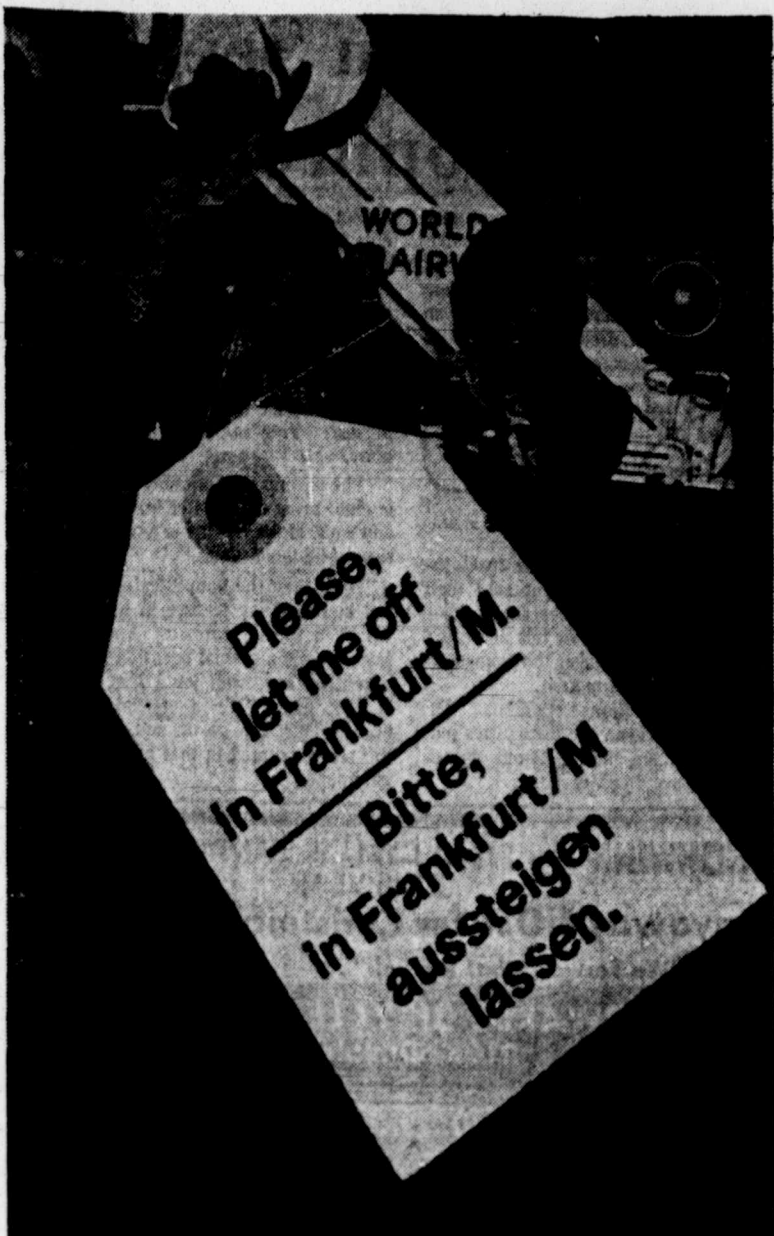

The negative balance of 1,024 for September pushed to 8,737 the number of whites lost through emigration between January and September 1977.

The loss recorded so far this year exceeds the 1964 loss of 8,710.

At that time, the loss was attributed to the uncertainty resulting from Rhodesia's failure to conclude an agreement with Britain over the country's colony status. In November 1965, Prime Minister Ian Smith unilaterally declared independence.

The negative migration balance of 1977 is attributed by government officials to the guerrilla war, increased military commitments for whites and the uncertainty of the whites' future if a majority rule settlement is achieved.

A supplement to the digest showed that Rhodesia's population as of June 30 1977 was estimated to include 6.44 million blacks, 268,000 whites, 10,300 Asians, and 22,000 coloreds — or mulattos.

TIME TO GO — German tourist Erwin Kreuz poses with stewardess Denise Jackson — and a big sign — just before boarding the charter plane taking him back to Europe from San Francisco this week. Kreuz made world headlines when he mistakenly got off his chartered flight from Frankfurt to San Francisco during a stopover in Bangor, Maine. Kreuz spent three days there before he realized Bangor was not in California. After a whirlwind week in Maine, where he was treated like a star, Kreuz was flown to San Francisco by one of the city's newspapers. (AP Laserphoto)

Family Communication Seen As Preventing Schizophrenia

By AL ROSSITER JR.
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Scientists know inheritance has a role in the development of schizophrenia, but two specialists say good family communications techniques may help protect children from the nation's most serious mental illness.

Drs. Lyman Wynne and Margaret Singer of the University of Rochester, who have been studying the family connection with schizophrenia for 20 years, say it takes more than genes to produce a schizophrenic.

"It's our conviction that even with a major genetic predisposition, the opportunities for prevention are very favorable," Wynne said at a news conference at an annual meeting of the Mental Health Association.

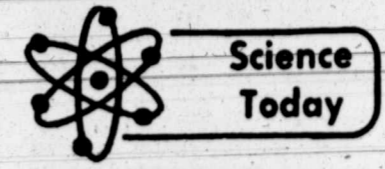

Drs. Wynne and Singer received an association award for their work. Schizophrenia generally refers to situations in which someone withdraws from the real world into a fantasy world of his own. Wynne said people with the illness "in an extreme way are pulled off track from following a focus of attention."

"Schizophrenia is a very frightening disorder," he said. "It's filled with mystery. It's craziness personified. It's the core of madness."

But he said if one considers that only one out of 10 children of a schizophrenic parent will develop the illness, "then we must look for protective factors."

The two researchers believe one such factor may be family communications.

They said they have found that many young adult schizophrenics come from families in which parents have done an inadequate job of preparing children to communicate with their peers. By the time those youngsters reach the age of 10 or so, Dr. Singer said their schoolmates and playmates are noticing something about how they talk and interact with others that makes the youngsters appear socially incompetent.

By communications problems, Dr. Singer did not mean the difficulties parents might have talking about money matters, or relatives, or sports.

"We mean the way in which some parents just go about starting a conversation. The children don't really know what the reference point is."

For example, she said a communicative parent would take a child to a news conference and say to his or her child, "John, this is what's called a press conference. Those men and women are reporters. They're interviewing somebody."

"The parents of a possibly schizophrenic child bring the toddler in, look around and says, 'Johnny, this is a special occasion.' And let it hang."

"Well, then the youngster is left without knowing any picture in his head of what's a special occasion. And the kid says, 'what's a special occasion?' And the parent will say, 'well, it's a thing like this. It's an event. It's a special occasion event.' They can go on and on without the words coming in that have good visual images."

Briton Hunts Carter Plantation

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Noel Currier-Briggs, a consultant to a 200-year-old British genealogical firm, is leading a treasure hunt for the ancestral Tidewater plantation of President Carter's family.

"It's a totally new approach of using archeology, surveying and historical research to put flesh on the bare bones of genealogy," said the Debrett's consultant, whose team is attempting to locate the Carter homestead by flying over an area south of the James River.

Debrett's search for the Carters' colonial Virginia plantation is also an imaginative promotional effort at a time when Alex Haley's best-selling "Roots" has launched millions of Americans on a quest for their family origins.

"We've got the broad outlines of where they were," said Hugh Peskett, Debrett's genealogist. "Often there is archeological evidence visible from the air that isn't visible from the ground."

"Where there were once foundations and walls, grass and trees do not grow as well."

He also said his firm has contacted the White House about its venture "and the president is most interested."

Peskett said he discovered that about 12 or 13 Carters emigrated to Virginia, including a father, son and grandson — all named Thomas Carter.

The eldest Thomas Carter, a London gentleman, arrived in Virginia aboard the "Safety" in 1635 with scattered land grants ranging from 200 to 1,000 acres, Peskett said. He said Carter's family had its roots in a place near London called King's Langley.

"I've been studying the Carter family for a number of years for a number of clients," said Peskett. "In fact, the Carters were among the very first families."

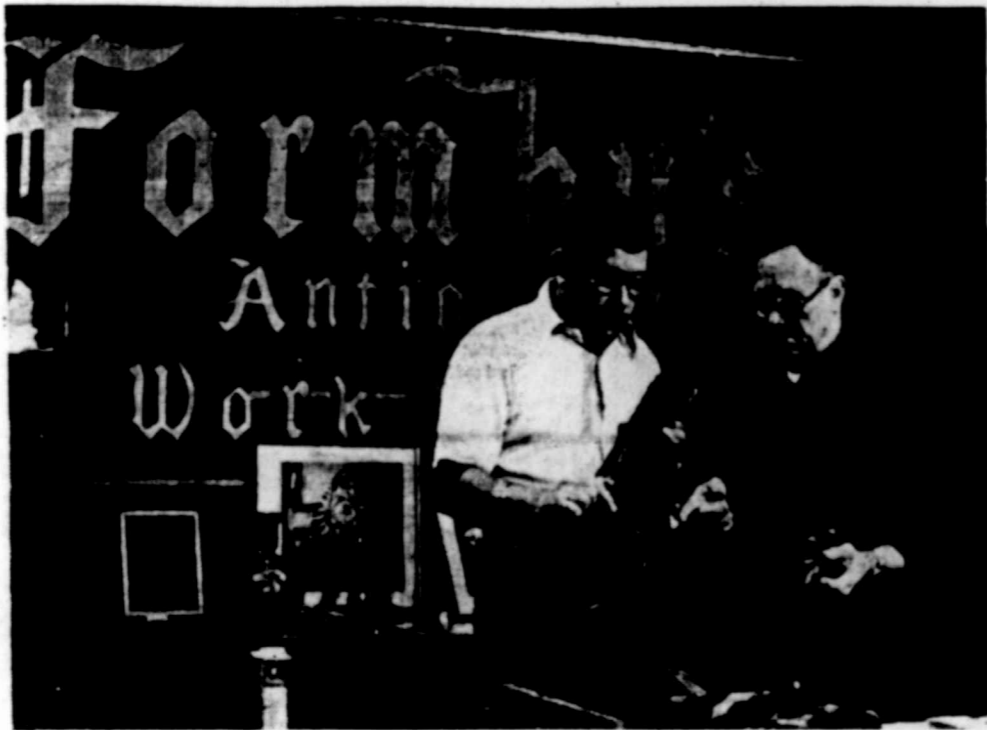

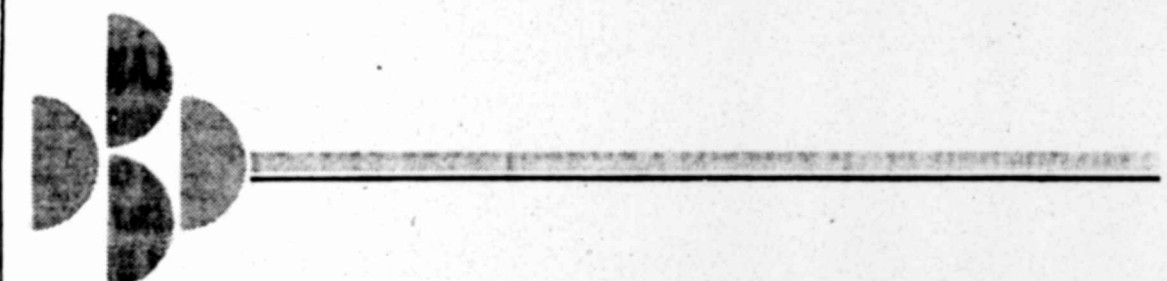

Peskett said two-thirds of his firm's clients are Americans and his own genealogy specialty is Virginians.

"We have a huge interest in British genealogy in this country because, quite plainly, this country is one-half British," said Peskett. Because disputes were recorded in British courts in colonial times, the British firm has easy access to records which normally are not available to Americans searching for their roots.

Medieval Monuments Threatened In Cairo

By NICHOLAS B. TATRO
CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Cairo is in danger of losing many of the medieval mosques, palaces, religious schools and inns that line the twisting back alleys of the old city, according to experts here.

"Cairo may be the city of 1,000 minarets, but most of them are new ones," said one expert. "The old ones have fallen down."

A minaret is a slender tower attached to a mosque from which Moslems are called to prayer.

Cairo's Islamic monuments, some dating to the 10th century, also are the victims of the economic hardship and the exploding population of modern-day Egypt.

"Many people now live in these monuments," said Laila Ibrahim Saragoddine, a scholar of Islamic architecture. "They move in when their houses fall down or when they migrate from the countryside."

Most of the medieval monuments are scattered through the center of Cairo's low-income area where experts say the population density is greater than New York or Paris. Barber shops, schools, government offices, warehouses and stores have been built into or adjacent to the centuries-old structures. One minaret, the Zaweyyat Hanood, even houses a family planning center.

Most have been encrusted with dirt and soot from automobile exhausts, long since blotting out the original white, red and yellow facades.

A survey in 1982 listed 630 monuments. Nearly a century later, experts say, about 520 remain — the others have crumbled away.

"We must be severe," said Abdel Rahman Abd el Tawab, former director general of the Antiquities Department and adviser to the Center for Islamic Documentation. "We should choose some monuments and restore them completely. We will not only protect the public from a dangerous building but save a valuable historical heritage."

Abd el Tawab warned that the rising water table, a spinoff of the steadily higher water supply since the building of the Aswan Dam is weakening the foundations of many of the monuments.

One monument damaged recently was the tomb of Shargarat al-Durr — "Tree of Pearls" — the only woman to have ruled Egypt in the Islamic period.

"The door was broken in and the tomb was used as a bathroom and a valuable wooden panel was stolen," said Dr. Paul Walker, head of the American Research Center. "If there had been some mechanism whereby the repairs were made immediately, this sort of thing wouldn't happen."

'Dynamite' Pumpkin Weighs 232 Pounds

BARBOURSVILLE, W.Va. (AP) — George Mumma has something in his backyard that is orange, weighs 232 pounds and would have made a dynamite Jack O'Lantern.

It's a pumpkin, of course. A retired vocational agriculture instructor, Mumma says he's been growing giant pumpkins for three years. "A fella gave me the seeds," Mumma said. "He just said they were from a big pumpkin. I didn't even give it any special care. It just kept growing on its own."

The main problem is a lack of funds. Abd el Tawab said the Islamic Center's budget for restoration had been cut from about $40,000 last year to about $4,000 this year.

"We have nothing," he said. "Most of the money available goes for restoring Pharaonic monuments because they attract tourists and bring needed foreign exchange."

Despite the lack of funds, restoration work is being done. Most of it is funded by foreign missions — Americans, Danish, French, Dutch, Polish and West German.

Current work includes the partial restoration of an 11th century merchant house, which serves as headquarters for the Islamic Documentation Center. The Poles are restoring a mosque and the American Research Center has begun clean-up work on a Mameluke castle.

The castle, called Beit al Razzaz, is on Darb el Wasir Street which winds down from the Citadel built by Saladin in the 11th century. It is experiencing problems typical of monuments in Cairo.

The government has stored wood in five rooms, rain damage is threatening woodwork and inscriptions, and several displaced families are living on the ground floor. Food is cooked in what once must have been a sultan's garden. Children, dogs and a goose roam freely through the ruins.

A wrecked taxi cab lies upside down on an air raid shelter in the courtyard and a new department store is going up where one of the palace walls once stood. Garbage is tossed from neighboring apartment buildings and the weight of accumulated debris has collapsed one roof.

Walker, who wants to turn the house into a center for archaeologists and scholars, has worked out an agreement with the government to restore the building. He estimates the work will take five years and cost about $700,000, some of which is being financed by the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C.

Monuments such as the Beit al Razzaz once were maintained through private endowments called wakfs, which paid for the labor and maintenance needed for their upkeep. But the private wakfs were abolished by the government in 1963 and no system has been found to replace them.

"We have many fantastic problems in Egypt — internal and external — which certainly have priority over restoration projects," Mrs. Saragoddine said. "But it is very sad to see our monuments in such deplorable condition."

Andre Raymond, a French professor studying the problem, said, "The choice should not be feeding the people or restoring monuments. Both should be done. If they are not restored and all resources are put into the economy then Egypt will be transformed into a country without a past."

Cotton Growers Official Lauds Quality Of High Plains Crop

The quality of High Plains cotton classed through Oct. 21 has been "fantastic," says Donald Johnson, executive vice president of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. in Lubbock.

Livestock Bureau To Meet Thursday

PORTALES (Special) — The Roosevelt County Farm and Livestock Bureau will hold its annual meeting Thursday with a supper at 6 p.m. and the business session at 7 p.m.

Wayne Baker, county Farm Bureau president, said the meeting will be at Portales High School.

A. W. "Bill" Langenegger of Hagerman, president of the New Mexico Farm and Livestock Bureau, will speak.

Baker said the annual meeting provides members an opportunity to help formulate grassroots policies which will guide the local, state and national Farm Bureaus in the coming year.

Johnson compared this year's High Plains fiber characteristics with those reported from other areas of the Cotton Belt and said High Plains cotton "looks better by comparison than ever before."

Grades, micronaire readings and fiber strength tests all are registering substantial improvements over previous years and all compare favorably with cotton from other states.

Staple length of High Plains cotton is always shorter than the national average, but this is the only category in which Lubbock-area cotton falls behind.

"Exceptionally good growing and harvesting weather has helped raise High Plains cotton quality in other respects," Johnson explains, "but staple is primarily determined by variety."

Analysis of quality data on the 415,783 bales classed on the High Plains through Oct. 21, about 13 percent of estimated area production, shows 76 percent of the crop grading strict low middling white and above.

Cotton Data Given By States

The following table shows comparative percentages for each of the 12 states included in the Agriculture Department's Oct. 17 cotton quality report for ginnings prior to Oct. 1.

	GRADE SLM White (41) & above	MICRONAIRE 3.5-4.9 & above	STRENGTH 90,000 psi & above
High Plains	76	85	58
Texas	67	82	35
Alabama	27	50	19
Arizona	85	94	48
Arkansas	56	72	30
California	80	85	53
Georgia	10	73	64
Louisiana	68	49	23
Mississippi	57	73	29
Missouri	51	73	20
New Mexico	84	49	95
South Carolina	35	40	50
Tennessee	58	71	29
National Averages	62	76	33

Latest quality figures from across the Cotton Belt, covering the 2,366,000 bales ginned through Oct. 1, put 62 percent of the national crop in the strict low middling and better grades.

A little more than 85 percent of the early Lubbock crop has "miked" in the premium range of 3.5 to 4.9, a percentage equalled only by California. Fiber strength or presence of High Plains cotton has been excellent, Johnson said, with 58 percent measuring 90,000 pounds per square inch (psi) or above. This compares with a beltwide average of only 33 percent and is above all states except New Mexico and Georgia.

Talks Canceled In Dock Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — Because shippers and union representatives have been unable to agree on job security provisions for dock workers, the head of the 50,000-member International Longshoremen's Association canceled a full-scale bargaining session that was to be held today.

The move by Thomas W. "Teddy" Gleason, who also halted his talks with the New York Shipping Association, largest employer in the current picture, was a set back in the efforts to wind up the East and Gulf coast selective dock strike, now in its second month.

Even so, Wayne L. Horvitz, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, said he still saw no need for a Taft-Hartley injunction which would send longshoremen back to work for an 80-day cooling off period and would free strikebound container ships that now are stranded in American and European ports.

The dispute between the shippers and the dock workers chiefly involves job security provisions for longshoremen who no longer are needed because cargo is now shipped in labor-saving, truck-sized steel boxes that eliminate the repeated manual handling of goods in transit. An earlier attempt to fund a job security plan was declared illegal.

Gleason refused to move on other issues until the guarantees were settled. Thus there has been no movement on union demands for better benefits and a $10-an-hour base wage in place of the current $8.

Prior to Gleason's canceling the bargaining session, the union's 130-member wage-scale committee, which is needed to act on any major contract item affecting dock workers, was to have assembled from all ports from Maine through Texas. Management representatives from ocean cargo transport companies, stevedoring firms, and from management associations in New York, Boston, Providence, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Hampton Roads, Va., also were to be present.

Gleason said efforts to work out local income guarantee plans, along with assurances of their fiscal viability, were continuing in northern ports other than New York, and in some of the southern ports, which had not been asked to attend the Wednesday session.

"New York came in with nothing this morning," he said after a huddle with officials of NYSA, which broke with other northern shippers when its proposals were repeatedly rejected. "It's to their advantage not to agree to anything until they see what the other ports come up with."

Horvitz told newsmen in Washington that there had been six Taft-Hartley injunctions to end ILA walkouts and in only one case was a settlement reached during the 80 days. In the other cases, the strikes resumed when the court edict expired.

'Walker' Noted For Fine Sole, Strong Spirit

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP) — At 86, Jesse Hyde is noted as a man with a strong spirit and a fine sole. He loves to walk.

The retired building engineer once walked 410 miles from New York City to Dansville, N.Y. And there was the time he walked 30 miles for a Thanksgiving dinner on a dare.

Hyde, who has been a long-distance walker since 1909, also is noted as a strong supporter of many of the local charities and civic groups. He was honored at a $7-a-plate dinner at the St. John's Ukrainian Church memorial center in nearby Johnson City recently for his activism in the community.

On the 1936 walk from New York City to Dansville, south of Rochester, Hyde says he had trouble with motel owners who wondered why he didn't have a car.

"I'd say it was home in my driveway. I couldn't get a room," he said. "So I got a letter from the mayor and the chief of police saying I walked as a hobby and I was okay."

Until he was 80, Hyde celebrated his birthday by walking one mile for each year of his life. At 80, the walk took 32 hours.

These days, a lot of his walking is the approximately two miles from his home to the Park Diner, where he has breakfast. He seldom drives anywhere.

Hyde offers his services, pushing a lawn mower for homeowners in the area. He says he likes strolling behind the machine because "that way I get paid for walking."

Hyde's wife, Lillian, is also a walker and former member of the Binghamton Hiking Club. They rarely walked together.

Study Counts 14 Abortion Deaths

ATLANTA (AP) — The national Center for Disease Control says 14 women have died from abortions this year, including a poor Texas woman who was the first illegal abortion fatality since Congress prohibited the use of Medicaid funds for elective abortions.

In a seven-year study released Tuesday by the CDC, the center said the 14 deaths were from both legal and illegal abortions.

Congress prohibited the use of federal money for women for elective abortions

Aug. 4. The Texas woman was a 27-year-old Medicaid recipient who died after crossing the border to Reynosa, Mexico, for a cut-rate abortion.

One of five women who were hospitalized after getting cheap abortions at a pharmacy in Mexico, she died at a hospital at McAllen as a result of blood infection and kidney failure, officials said.

The CDC also said there were 855,000 known legal abortions in the United States in 1975, one for every four live births and a 343 percent increase in the number of legal abortions in 1970.

Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. has directed the CDC to obtain information on the public health effect of restricting public funds for abortions.

Abortion cases in 20 hospitals throughout the United States are being monitored by the CDC. The hospitals are distributed between states which have restricted public funding for abortions and those which have no public funding.

However, the CDC said the study began only three weeks ago and results from any of these hospitals will not be available for some time. The fatality in Mexico was reported by a private doctor in Texas, the CDC said.

The summary released Tuesday revealed a sharp decrease in the number of deaths from illegal abortions after the Supreme Court ruled abortion laws unconstitutional in Texas and Georgia. However, complete statistics were not available because the interpretation of the ruling varied from state to state.

The summary said that in 1970, when few states allowed abortions, 128 women died out of a total of 193,000 who had abortions. In 1971, 99 women died out of a total of 486,000 who had abortions.

The CDC said in 1972, 39 of 88 deaths reported were from illegal abortions out of a total of 587,000. In 1970 and 1971, no data were available on how many deaths were from illegal abortions.

In 1973, the CDC said, 19 of 56 deaths were from illegal abortions, out of a total of 616,000 abortions. In 1974, six of the 52 deaths reported were from illegal abortions out of 763,000. And in 1975, only four illegal deaths were reported out of 44 deaths from a total of 855,000 abortions.

The summary said 24 women died in 1976.

ERA Opponent Raps Opinion On Extension

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Phyllis Schlafly, a leading opponent of the Equal Rights Amendment, warned today that she will challenge through the courts any effort by Congress to extend the ratification period for the amendment.

"Absolutely," she declared. "We will do whatever is necessary to do to fight the ERA extension in the Congress and in the courts if it is approved by Congress."

Mrs. Schlafly told reporters she was amazed by the Justice Department's advice to Congress Tuesday that it can double the period for state approval of the amendment, which otherwise would run out in March 1979.

"It's changing rules in the middle of the game," she said. "It's like playing football and adding a fifth quarter so you can catch up."

The Justice Department opinion, delivered to a House subcommittee and the White House, said Congress has the right to extend the period of state ratification from 7 to 14 years. State legislatures that already have ratified the amendment cannot rescind the approval, the department said.

Mrs. Schlafly argued that 14 years defies a Supreme Court ruling that Congress must set a "reasonable" length of time for ratification of constitutional amendments. "This is so patently unfair," she said.

In a brief submitted to the subcommittee, she also argued that such an extension would require the amendment to be "re-ratified" in all the 35 states that already have approved it.

Mrs. Schlafly also said she was amazed that the Justice Department reported that Congress could enact an extension by a simple majority, since constitutional amendments require two-thirds approval.

Appeals Court Upholds Judgments

A-J Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals today upheld the judgments handed down in several Lubbock area cases.

Affirmed by the court were:

— The driving while intoxicated conviction of William Frederick Norris in Lubbock County. Norris was assessed three days in jail and a $75 fine.

— The conviction of Robert B. Boxter in Lubbock County for driving while intoxicated. He was assessed 10 days in jail and a $225 fine.

— The conviction of Cecil Dewayne Edge in Lubbock County for driving while intoxicated. He was assessed 10 days in jail and a $150 fine.

— The driving while license suspended conviction of Jesus Delarosa Flores in Lubbock County. Flores was assessed four days in jail and a $100 fine.

— The three-day jail sentence and $75 fine assessed Edwardo Rodriguez De Leon following his conviction in Lubbock County for driving while intoxicated.

— The forgery by passing conviction of James Ehl in Deaf Smith County. Ehl was assessed five years in prison.

— The revocation of the probation of Nativida "Nick" Cabrera by a Deaf Smith County court. Cabrera previously had entered a plea of guilty to a marijuana possession charge and was assessed a probation five-year prison sentence.

Court records indicated probation was revoked after allegations were made that Cabrera had committed burglary of a vehicle and had been drunk in public.

Judge Orders Delay In Districting Case

By FRANK PATRICK
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The Gene Gaines vs City of Lubbock districting case has been postponed again, this time because of possible upcoming action by the U.S. Supreme Court.

The challenge to the city's at-large method of electing city council members had been scheduled to go to trial Monday.

U.S. Dist. Judge Halbert O. Woodward signed an order vacating that trial date, however, after a conference with attorneys on both sides.

Both sides agreed to the postponement after it was learned the Supreme Court may review a Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals decision on an analogous Dallas case.

"The court agrees with the suggestions by all attorneys that there may be substantive principles of law in the Wise case that will be applicable to this case, and that it would be best to await the Supreme Court's decision before trying this case," Woodward's order stated.

The order went on to say that if the local case were heard and a judgment entered prior to any Supreme Court action, the subsequent action could necessitate a new trial.

Supreme Court Justice Lewis F. Powell has indicated the high court may review the appeals court decision which, in effect, ordered the City of Dallas to switch to complete single-member districting for city council members.

If the court does grant review, its decision could expand, modify or change basic principles applicable to redistricting cases involving municipalities.

In the Dallas case (Lipscomb vs. Wise), black citizens sued, claiming the at-large system unconstitutionally diluted voting powers of blacks.

The city then espoused a plan whereby eight of 11 members would be elected from districts, leaving three at-large seats on the council.

The trial court approved the city plan, but the appeals court reversed the trial court decision and ordered the city to have all members elected from designated districts.

Gaines, president of the local NAACP, filed suit in federal court here on the same principle, claiming the at-large election method unfairly dilutes the voting strength of minorities.

The local case originally had been scheduled for trial Aug. 15, but a plaintiff request for a continuance was granted. Plaintiffs had said they needed more time to study materials furnished by the defense.

MY ANSWER

By BILLY GRAHAM

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I know God is supposed to forgive sin, but I still feel guilty about some of the things I did years ago. How can I avoid this? — C.T.N.

DEAR C.T.N.: I know the memory of things we have done wrong is often with us for a long time, and we feel ashamed because we know we failed God when we sinned. But that memory should not haunt us, nor should we confuse memory with guilt. I remember things I have done that were wrong, but I know those things have been forgiven by God and I no longer bear the guilt.

The only way to be free of feelings of guilt is to believe and trust God's Word when He tells us we have been forgiven.

Why does God forgive us? First, He forgives us because all our sins were placed on Jesus when He died on the cross. "He Himself bore our sins in His body on the cross, so that we might die to sins and live for righteousness; by his wounds you have been healed" (1 Peter 2:24, New International Version). "The blood of Jesus Christ his son cleanseth us from all sin" (1 John 1:7).

God also forgives us because we turn to Him in repentance and faith, confessing our sins to Him. "If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness" (1 John 1:9).

Yes, in Christ we can have forgiveness. Learn to trust God's Word, not your feelings. God's Word says, "As far as the east is from the west, so far hath He removed our transgressions from us" (Psalms 103:12). Or again, the Bible says, "their sins and their iniquities will I remember no more" (Hebrews 8:12). God does not want you to bear a burden of guilt. That is why He sent His Son — to take away that burden.

Court Refuses Plea By Amarillo Lawyer

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court today refused Kerry Knorrp's plea to be reinstated as county attorney of Potter County.

Knorrp sought permission to file a petition for a writ of mandamus to set aside and erase special Judge Arthur Tipps' Oct. 7 order suspending Knorrp temporarily and appointing Edward Poole to serve as county attorney.

Knorrp was suspended after Tipps heard allegations that Knorrp had unlawfully taken county property and misapplied funds.

According to court records, the allegations resulted from an investigation by a special court of inquiry convened by State District Court Judge George Dowlen.

Solons Hit On Health Cost Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate members on a joint committee deciding when the federal government should pay for abortions say House conferees have scuttled a move toward a compromise on the policy.

On Monday the House and Senate conferees narrowed their differences over the MAYORAL CANDIDATES — Edward Koch, left, who came from nowhere to win the Democratic nomination, is considered an all but certain choice to become New York City's 105th mayor. He is given 47 percent of

second from right, the Liberal candidate, generally is seen as a minor factor who can only cut into votes for Koch and Goodman. (AP Laserphotos)

Koch Top Contender For Mayor's Office

By ARTHUR EVERETT
NEW YORK (AP) — Rep. Edward Koch, winner of the Democratic nomination for New York City mayor, goes into the Nov. 8 election as top contender for the top elective job in the nation's largest city.

Political analysts consider Koch the voters' likely choice as 105th mayor of New York. He would be the first bachelor to hold the post in a century and the second Jewish mayor in the city's history.

If elected, Koch, 52, would succeed the city's first Jewish mayor, Abraham Beame.

When the tall, bald Koch announced his candidacy last March 4, 94 of every 100 New Yorkers did not know who he was, despite his service as congressman from Manhattan's East Side district, polls showed. But a strong campaign and the help of Bess Myerson, a nationally known consumer advocate and former Miss America, changed that.

Koch now is the favorite of 47 percent of people likely to vote, according to the latest poll by the Daily News.

Liberal Party candidate Mario Cuomo, New York's secretary of state, drew a 27 percent rating in the News tally.

Other major-party candidates on the November ballot are: —State Sen. Roy Goodman, 47, heir to the Ex-Lax fortune and finance administrator under former Mayor John Lindsay. Goodman is the nominee of the Republican Party.

Radio talk show host Barry Farber, also 47. The Baltimore native was defeated in the GOP primary by Goodman and is running on the Conservative line.

Goodman and Farber each had the favor of 3 percent of the voters in the News poll. The remaining 20 percent of the voters were rated undecided.

Also seeking the post are six minor party candidates who collected a total of 84,374 petition signatures to win a line on the ballot.

The decision will be made by the city's 3.7 million registered voters, of whom two out of three are Democrats.

Koch outpolled Cuomo, Beame and four other rivals — including former Congresswoman Bella Abzug — in the Sept. 8 Democratic primary. In a runoff election Sept. 19, he beat Cuomo 431,849 to 354,222. Cuomo remained on the ballot, however, because of his earlier selection as the lone Liberal Party candidate.

Sale Of Baby Bottles Banned

PORT MORESBY, Papua New Guinea (AP) — Baby bottles have been declared a health hazard by the government of Papua New Guinea, which banned their sale without a doctor's prescription.

The ban followed research in Papua New Guinea which showed breast-fed children were healthier and better nourished than bottle-fed children.

A government information officer said the sale of nipples and pacifiers also was banned under the newly introduced baby food supplies act.

Only registered medical officers, health officers and nurses will be able to authorize the purchase of the articles. They can be sold only by pharmacies, hospitals and health centers.

Mothers had ignored basic hygiene in preparing bottles and pacifiers, causing intestinal infections, the study found.

Breaches of the new regulations carry a fine equal to $250.

Millionaire Freed After Ransom Paid

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (AP) — Dutch multimillionaire Maurits Caransa, freed unharmed by kidnapers early today, said he negotiated his own $4.16 million ransom.

The 61-year-old real estate tycoon told a news conference the four abductors who grabbed him last Friday were "out only for money" and first demanded 40 million guilders ($16.64 million) for his release.

"We bargained and came to the sum of 10 million guilders," he said. He said he wrote his board of directors Sunday afternoon and instructed them to get the money from the bank and arrange "a drop in the street."

Caransa, who controls hotels, real estate and other enterprises valued at more than $40 million, was put out of a car in downtown Amsterdam at 1:30 a.m. local time after a 45-60 minute ride from the "dark den" where he said he was held five days, handcuffed to a bed.

The tycoon told a passing woman who he was, and she put him in a taxi and sent it to police headquarters. He was reunited there with his wife, daughter and several friends. After a physical examination, an ambulance took him to his home in Vinkeveen, south of The Hague.

Appearing dapper and relaxed, Caransa later told reporters at a yacht club there that the abductors "were not political gangsters, just criminals" who said they belonged to the "biggest and best" extortion ring anywhere. He said they spoke French and English.

Caransa said the kidnapers never threatened his life.

Caransa was forced into the back seat of a car early last Friday as he left an Amsterdam club after playing bridge. Chief Inspector Gerard Toonenar said Caransa reported he was kept lying on a bed, handcuffed to a heating pipe throughout the five days, but he was not mistreated or threatened.

He said his captors wore knitted helmets over their faces when they came into the room.

Anonymous telephone calls to Dutch newspapers and authorities claimed the abduction was carried out by terrorist groups, including the West German Red Army Faction and South Moluccan nationalists. But when no political demands were received after several days, the belief grew that it was a kidnapping for money only.

"If the crime were politically motivated it would seem that the kidnapers would have circulated well-documented claims and photos by now," one source had said earlier this week.

Authorities said other telephone calls demanding ransoms ranging from $20,000 to $10 million probably were hoaxes also.

Caransa's wife made a radio appeal Sunday asking the kidnapers to make their demands known.

Caransa, born of a poor Jewish family of Portuguese descent, was imprisoned briefly by the Nazis during World War II, but his parents and two brothers died in concentration camps.

After the war, he began trading in military surplus which he bought from the U.S. Army in Germany and sold in the Middle East. He entered the real estate business in Holland in the early 1950s and now is one of the country's wealthiest men, an owner of race horses, a director of the Amsterdam soccer team and a bridge addict.

Testimony Delayed At Trial Of Davis

AMARILLO (AP) — W.T. Rufner, a stormy defense witness, was called into the judge's chambers early today along with the defense and prosecution teams, casting some doubts over whether he would actually take the stand later in the day.

Rufner is a former boyfriend of Mrs. Davis, estranged wife of capital murder defendant Fort Worth millionaire Cullen Davis. Rufner has criticized defense attorneys in the past for the way they cross-examined Mrs. Davis.

A prosecutor said defense team leader Richard "Racehorse" Haynes "is playing with dynamite by putting this guy (Rufner) on the stand. It could blow up in his face, or it could blow up in our face. Nobody knows what this guy is going to say or do."

"It will be interesting," Haynes smiled as he prepared to interrogate Rufner Tuesday afternoon.

"I am ready," declared Rufner, 38. "I've got some things to say."

But as the session opened today, Rufner and attorneys on both sides went into conference with Judge George Dowlen.

At midmorning Judge Dowlen emerged from his chambers briefly and said the meeting would last for an indefinite time.

When asked if Rufner would testify, Dowlen answered: "I would expect so."

Just what bearing Rufner's testimony could have on the facts of the case was unknown, but Joe Shannon, who has emerged as the chief prosecutor, was to handle cross-examination.

"I drew the black bean," Shannon quipped.

It was Shannon who did a devastating job of questioning Davis' girlfriend, Karen Master, about her contention that Davis was home in bed with her at the time of the August 1976 shootings at Davis' Fort Worth mansion.

Davis, 44, is on trial for his life in the slaying of his stepdaughter Andrea Wilborn, 12, one of two killed in the mid-night assault. Stan Farr, 30, Mrs. Davis' boyfriend, was killed and Mrs. Davis, 36, was wounded, as was Gus Gavrel, Jr., 22, a friend of her elder daughter Dee Davis.

Rufner's name surfaced early in the trial as the man in the red and white Christmas stocking posing with Mrs. Davis in a photograph both suggestive and revealing.

The two were lovers after Davis and Mrs. Davis separated in 1974 and the defense contends, after their breakup, Ruf-ner threatened to kill both Farr and Mrs. Davis.

Before today's appearance, Rufner twice showed up outside the courtroom in a t-shirt depicting himself in the stocking and bearing the inscription: "W.T. Rufner... socks it to 'em."

He confronted Haynes in a brief, bizarre interlude in the hallway at which time Haynes quipped, "I recognize you by your picture."

In less titillating, but perhaps more significant developments, a Fort Worth surgeon testified Tuesday that he could not recall seeing Mrs. Davis and one of her friends in his waiting room five days before the shootings.

Other area lows this morning included 28 degrees at Floydada, Friona, Olton and 26 at Plains.

school in San Antonio, but no injuries were reported in connection with that incident.

Rainfall and 62-degree readings marked a turnaround for Dallas, which only Monday reported a record-high of 90 degrees. That city — along with Brownsville, Lufkin, Mineral Wells and Waco — recorded the nation's highest temperatures Monday.

Four inches of rain at San Antonio and five at Dallas Tuesday provoked flash flood warnings during the first 12 hours of storms following the arrival of Tuesday's front.

An area near Hooks was hit by a "short-lived tornado" that destroyed one house and several other buildings, the National Weather Service reported, but no injuries were reported in connection with the heavy wind.

Overnight lows on the South Plains included 30 degrees at Abertamy, Levelland, Littlefield and Muleshoe Refuge. Dimmitt dropped to 27 degrees, while Hereford recorded 26 degrees. The mercury dropped to 27 degrees at Morton and 29 at Plainview and Seminole.

Social Security Change Scored

WASHINGTON (AP) — HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano today attacked a proposed amendment to eliminate the current $3,000 ceiling on how much retirees can earn annually and still draw full Social Security benefits.

He said such a step, which the House has already approved, would "impose additional taxes on working men and women to enhance the position of a privileged minority — 1.3 million of the nation's 22 million retirees."

More than half the new benefits would go to persons earning more than $10,000, the secretary of Health, Education and Welfare said in a letter to members of the Senate.

Califano praised the Senate Finance Committee's version of the Social Security bill. But he said the Carter administration opposes that panel's proposed increase in the retirement wage ceiling to $4,500 in 1978 and $6,000 in 1979.

He said the administration backs the committee's plan to raise the wage base higher for employers than for employees, and noted that employers can deduct up to half of their Social Security payroll taxes as a business expense while employees "receive no comparable relief."

He also endorsed a proposal to give non-profit employers a tax credit on Social Security payroll taxes.

Califano made his comments as the Social Security legislation was sent to the full Senate by the Finance Committee.

Republicans challenged what they called the panel's "soak the businessman" approach in having employers for the first time pay more into the Social Security system than their employees do.

Employers eventually would pay almost double what their workers contribute to the system under the committee's bill, which the Senate could start considering as early as today. A House bill passed last week would retain the equal tax burden.

Sen. Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska, ranking Republican on the finance committee, says the GOP has a good chance to win retention of equal payroll taxes. He said the American people would reject the anti-business slant of the bill.

Curtis said Republicans also want to keep a House provision that would gradually eliminate the earnings ceiling, which restricts the amount a recipient may earn without losing some benefits.

Both versions of the bill would raise taxes for workers. Under the Senate measure, the tax for the lowest-paid workers would rise about 20 percent in the next decade, and the levy for the highest-paid would more than double.

The purpose of both bills is to save the Social Security fund from running out of money. Social Security now is paying out more in benefits than it takes in through taxes, and the situation is expected to worsen unless remedial action is taken.

Taxes already are scheduled to go up under existing law, but not enough to support the system.

Under existing law, the average worker earning $11,000 annually will pay $22 more next year in Social Security taxes. The ceiling to which taxes are applied will climb from the current $16,500 to at least $17,700 in 1978. And, the maximum tax would rise from the $965 now to $1,071 next year and $1,896 by 1986.

The Senate bill, combined with increases already in the law, would set the maximum tax on employees at $1,525 in 1981. It would rise gradually to $2,263 by 1986.

An employer's maximum would rise to $3,068 in 1979 and $5,625 in 1986.

The House bill contains a maximum tax on employer and employee of $1,945 in 1981, rising to $2,854 by 1986.

Ole Miss athletic director Johnny Vaught said nothing would be decided about the Rebel coaching staff until after the season.

Cooper is in his fourth year at Mississippi and has an overall record of 18-24. He has had just one winning season — a 6-5 mark in 1975. The Rebels upset then-third-ranked Notre Dame early this season, but are currently 4-5.

Cooper has drawn criticism from some of the school's supporters this season. In the wake of that, Ole Miss chancellor Peter Fortune issued a statement last month that supported Cooper and the football program. The school's alumni association unanimously adopted a resolution two weeks ago backing Cooper.

Vaught and Fortune said the program would be evaluated at the end of the season.

Sloan is in his third season at Tech, having taken the job on New Year's Day 1975. His record at Tech is 21-9. The Raiders tied with Houston for the South-west Conference title last year, the first time they had finished that high.

Sloan is well known in the South since he was reared in Tennessee and attended the University of Alabama, starring at quarterback for the Crimson Tide. This is a factor in his name being mentioned often in relation to coaching jobs in the South.

in a place where he was not likely to be found — and with intent to facilitate commission of a felony, to wit: sexual abuse of a child."

Police, who at first said the canyon search was based on the presumed direction of travel of the suspect last Wednesday night and the fact he is a Slaton resident, today admitted there is "more to it" than that.

However, investigators steadfastly refused to reveal any details of their information.

Today, during the second full day of the Slaton search, lawmen, consisting mostly of Lubbock police and Department of Public Safety troopers, returned to a portion of the canyon. At one point searchers, with the aid of a DPS helicopter, again traveled over densely wooded cliffs by way of four-wheel drive vehicles.

Other lawmen, acting on information received late Tuesday, went to private property near Posey today in hopes of finding any clues.

At noon police detectives reportedly were re-questioning witnesses.

Searchers called off their hunt late Tuesday in the canyon area because of darkness. But early today police, sheriff's deputies, DPS troopers and Texas Rangers again began work on the case.

The only evidence searchers found Tuesday was a set of tire tracks, thought to be made by snow tires, and two sets of footprints, believed to be those of an adult and a child.

No other indications of any activity were found, and searchers theorized the footprints may have been made by hunters walking the same field.

Friends of an elderly Slaton woman say the Turner case has spawned threatening phone calls to Mrs. Audie Brasfield of 635 S. 13th St. in Slaton. They say the woman, who is the only Brasfield listed in the Slaton phone book, is related only distantly by marriage to the kidnapping suspect.

However, they say the widow, in her 80s, has been telephoned by persons believing her to be the suspect's mother, and that callers have threatened to kill her.

Maddox Weak After Attack

ATLANTA (AP) — Former Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox says he still feels weak from a recent heart attack, but not too weak to criticize President Carter for "going in too many directions."

"I've been low before, but never this low," Maddox said this week in an interview at his home, where the flamboyant anti-integrationist is recuperating from a severe heart attack which felled him in September.

The 62-year-old Maddox said he probably won't be able to resume his normal activities as a real estate dealer and a nightclub performer before Jan. 1.

Hunts Viewing Mine In Idaho

KELLOGG, Idaho (AP) — Two millionaire oilmen from Dallas were out Tuesday to view a new acquisition — the nation's largest silver mine.

Nelson Bunker Hunt and Herbert Hunt visited the Coeur d'Alene Mining District for an underground tour of the Sunshine Mine near here, a spokesman for the brothers said.

The Hunts own a controlling interest in Great Western United Corp., which recently led a corporate battle against management of Sunshine Mining Co.

Great Western is in the process of assuming control of Sunshine following a successful tender offer to acquire one-third of the firm's common stock.

ATTORNEY GENERAL GRIFFIN BELL Explains His Decision In Helms Case

Bell Defends Helms' Plea

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defending his decision to accept a minor guilty plea from former CIA director Richard Helms rather than going to trial, Attorney General Griffin Bell declared that "only the well-to-do" ever go to jail.

In a long press conference Tuesday, Bell in effect laid the handling of the Carter administration's first big "cover-up" case before the American people.

"It is up to the American people to decide whether it is fair and just," Bell said. "I think it was a fair disposition, myself, and a just disposition."

Did the administration set up a double standard of justice by allowing light sentence for covering up CIA activity in Chile's politics?

Bell said no. "In my judgment, it's only the well-to-do that ever go to prison," he said. "We are much harder on people who are in high positions, it seems to me sometimes."

The Justice Department said bringing Helms to trial on a charge of perjury "would involve tremendous costs ... and might jeopardize national secrets."

Deputy White House Press Secretary Rex Granum was asked how the decision squares with President Carter's election-eve statement that the average person who breaks the law goes to jail while big shots go free.

"I'm well aware of the basis for some skepticism," Granum said, when reminded that the Nixon administration had used national security as a reason for covering up the Watergate scandal.

Helms was allowed to plead no contest Monday to two reduced charges of failing to give full testimony about the Chilean affair to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, with the expectation of avoiding a jail term.

Bell told reporters, "It doesn't set so well with me to say we have not done enough to somebody who is a first offender."

Babies Victims Of Addiction

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) — More than 1,000 babies are born as heroin addicts each year in New York because their mothers are addicted, a U.N. narcotics agency says.

The agency reported a large increase in drug addiction and deaths in Western countries and blamed Burma, Laos and Thailand for producing most of the raw opium for the illicit trade in narcotics.

The U.N. Fund for Drug Abuse Control said that in the United States an estimated 620,000 people are addicted to opium and its derivatives. It said that more than half of all street crimes committed in the United States every year are by drug addicts.

There were some 100,000 addicts in France last year, which is five times the number in 1970. West Germany had about 40,000 addicts last year, 5,000 of them in West Berlin. There were 15,000 in the Netherlands, half of them in Amsterdam.

The agency said there were 2,000 heroin deaths in the United States last year, 325 in West Germany and 99 in France.

The number of deaths in West Germany is expected to rise above 500 this year, with 60 heroin deaths in West Berlin already, the agency said.

Citing official and unofficial sources, the agency said a heroin addict in Washington, D.C. spends $54 daily to get his four doses, which adds up to $20,000 a year.

Most of the raw opium produced in the world comes from the "Golden Triangle" of Burma, Laos and Thailand, it said, with Burma turning out 500 tons of the 600 to 700 tons produced annually by this region.

The 500 tons of opium produced by Burma is sufficient to make 60 tons of heroin which at $4.50 a milligram in Washington streets represents $225 billion.

Metric Measurements On Tires Increased On 1978 Model Cars

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID
WASHINGTON (AP) — A new way of expressing dimensions is being added to tire shopping in America, representing one more step along the road to the metric system of measurement.

The change means you'll see some unfamiliar lettering and numbering on the side of your tires.

Suppose, for example, the tires you now have are labeled "FR78-14."

The "F" refers to the amount of weight the tire can carry. The "R" shows the tire is a radial model. The "78" refers to the relationship between height and width, indicating the tire is 78 percent as high as it is wide, and the "14" shows the tire fits a 14-inch rim.

Generally, the closer the initial code letter is to the beginning of the alphabet, the smaller the tire and the less weight it can carry.

If you go to buy replacements for your "FR78-14" you will find the dealer offering you something marked "P205-75R14."

The "P" indicates the tire is designed for regular use on passenger cars. These are the only metrically numbered tires currently being produced, but some "T" designations — indicating temporary use spares — are expected on the market later this year.

The number "205" is the measurement of the cross section of the tire in millimeters. This is followed by a slash mark, shown here as a dash. Next comes "75," referring to the relationship of height to width rounded to the nearest 5 percent.

The "R" means radial. "B" would indicate bias belted tires and "D" would stand for diagonal or bias ply. The "14" once again shows that the tire fits a 14-inch rim. The 14 has not been converted to metrics because tire rim sizes around the world are measured in inches.

The metrically numbered tires started appearing last year on 1977 Chevettes. More of them will be in use this year on 1978 models, mainly those produced by General Motors.

The old labeling — known as the alpha numeric system — has been in use for seven years. Complete conversion to the new system is expected to take some time because many tires already on the market or in the manufacturing and distribution pipeline are numbered in the old way. Some manufacturers say they will temporarily produce some tires with both types of numbers.

The rest of the information on the side of your tire — the load range, the maximum load limits and cold inflation, the tire ply composition and so on — will remain the same.

A new federal standard requiring labeling on such things as tread wear and resistance to damage has been proposed, but is not yet in effect.

The metric measurements being used in the new tires are not necessarily exactly equal to the old sizes and experts warn that exact interchangeability is not always possible. You may have to adjust the inflation of the tire by up to three pounds.

Most manufacturers have prepared charts showing you what to do, however, and tire dealers should be able to explain any needed adjustments.

Voting "Yes" to Proposition 6 Can Save You Time and Money. Here's How.

Voting "Yes" to Proposition No. 6 will enable our Legislature to establish guidelines for electronic banking in Texas. An optional method of banking that brings bank services to you. Twenty-four hours a day. Here are some points to consider.

1. What change in banking procedures can be expected if Proposition No. 6 is approved by voters? No change at all can take place for at least two years. Then a gradual evolution, beginning in the 1980's, will see electronic banking machines and devices distributed throughout Texas cities and towns. Customers can use the machines to withdraw cash, shift funds from savings to checking, pay for merchandise, and perform other simple bank transactions.

2. How would electronic banking machines located throughout a city benefit the customer, "the consumer" of bank services? It's a matter of convenience—customers won't have to drive to their bank for routine transactions. Instead, they have the option of banking electronically, through the use of convenient bank terminals, twenty-four hours a day, holidays and weekends included.

3. Will the use of off-premise machines permit the invasion of a customer's privacy where his or her bank account is concerned? No. Confidentiality between a bank and a depositor will be better protected. Legislation to implement the system will insure the privacy of users be fully protected.

4. Would Proposition No. 6 deny customers personal contact with their bank? Not at all. Banks will still carry on all of their traditional functions, from opening checking and savings accounts to arranging for loans and providing financial counseling and other services. Electronic banking simply gives you an optional method of handling your banking, just as drive-in banking facilities and bank credit cards did when they were introduced.

Already, legislation in forty-four states enables banks to provide electronic bank services for their customers. It's time Texans took action to put bank services everywhere we need them. When we need them.

Help Make Banking Easier for You.

Yerba Mate Served In Argentina

By DIANA PAGE
BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI) — The increasing cost of coffee has forced Buenos Aires coffee bars to try out a "new" drink: the traditional South American herb tea, yerba mate.

Outsiders have long been puzzled by the fact that this drink, made from the leaves of a native plant, is a constant companion of Argentines in their homes but until now has been unavailable at restaurants and coffee shops.

The yerba plant contains a strong stimulant similar to the caffeine in coffee or tea.

The drink is prepared by steeping the yerba leaves in a "mate" (pronounced mah-tay), originally a small round gourd into which a metal tube was placed to act like a straw. These days, the mate is frequently a narrow-mouthed cup of cheap enameled metal.

There is a ritual to fixing yerba mate that gives it a sociable character, accompanied by friendly conversation.

Boiling water is poured over the yerba leaves and the mate is passed around from person to person, each taking a sip of the tea through the same tube, which has a strainer to keep the leaves from passing into the mouth.

Until recently, Argentines left the mate behind at home or office and switched to coffee when having a snack in a coffee shop, but soaring prices have made this an expensive habit.

Argentina imports all its coffee at international prices, which are out of reach for many people due to the country's depressed economy.

Stand-up bars specializing in assembly-line serving of demitasses of thick black coffee have been particularly affected by the drop in coffee consumption.

Now an enterprising group of businessmen is attempting to make yerba mate into a mass production drink that can be served like coffee.

The native drink, served in a plastic cup with a disposable straw, costs half as much as coffee. And its promoters point out the money stays in the country rather than draining foreign exchange.

It remains to be seen whether Argentines can be persuaded to think of yerba mate as something to be hastily gulped at a stand-up bar instead of being sipped in leisurely fashion among friends.

Yerba mate in a plastic cup with disposable straw? It's almost like a gaucho riding a motop scooter.

Castro Wants U.S. To Lift Cuban Embargo

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Arnold Zettlin accompanied Massachusetts businessmen and their wives who spent five days in Cuba investigating trade prospects in case the U.S. lifts its economic embargo.)

By ARNOLD ZETTLIN
BOSTON (AP)—The U.S. trade embargo against Cuba is hurting the island nation.

But Fidel Castro says the embargo never will bring down his regime. "We have totally consolidated ourselves," he said during the visit of Massachusetts businessmen investigating prospects for trade should the U.S. lift the embargo. They were the third such group to visit since April, shortly after President Carter lifted a ban on Americans traveling to Cuba.

Officials repeatedly told their guests of the impact of what they called the blockade.

Jose Llanuza, an Olympic basketball player for Cuba in 1948, said the embargo was keeping out the corn, wheat and soya he needed to feed dairy cattle on his model state farm in Triunvirato, about 75 miles east of Havana.

Passing an incomplete 22-story hospital overlooking the Gulf of Mexico, an official of the Ministry of Foreign Relations said it had taken 10 years to build that much. The blockade, he said, has held up purchase of elevators and other equipment for the structure.

Cubans said the Soviet Union helps the island nation by buying sugar at 23 cents above the world market price and selling Cuba oil at almost half the world price, but economic need has moved Cuba to improve relations with the United States.

Castro and Foreign Trade Minister Marcelo Fernandez Font want Carter to lift the embargo to permit Cuba to sell goods, mostly sugar, to the United States and to buy food, medicines and technology.

Cuba wants the American market, and more.

"It is a necessity for our country to have access to credit," said Font. He wants the United States to give Cuba "most favored nation" trading status, meaning it can do business in the U.S. on the same terms as every other country.

Ease of credit and preferential treatment are political as well as economic issues. As a result, western diplomats in Havana believe the U.S. will move slowly to lift an embargo against a country so closely tied to the Soviet Union and representing a potential military threat 90 miles south of Florida.

Americans point out the Cubans still owe an estimated $1.8 billion in claims on U.S. property and equipment expropriated after Castro took power in January 1959. Castro offered this solution: "The economic harm over 17 years" of cutting off U.S. trade, he explained, plus such items as assassination attempts against him amount to damage "two or three times greater than American claims."

"It has been mutually harmful. We believe we can indemnify each other. The United States will pay us, and we will pay U.S. enterprises," Castro said.

Party Calls GOP Group Divisive

By PAT PATRICK
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The Lubbock County Republican Party Tuesday night publicly disassociated itself from a new organization formed last month — a group which organizers maintain is meant to help, not hurt, the GOP effort here.

County GOP chairman Mike Stevens read a three-page statement in which he expressed concern that:

"...the new organization will split the party effort, cause division in the ranks of party members, and detract from the central purpose of the Republican party of the county — namely to attract strong candidates who share our philosophy, to convince the voters our candidates can best manage the affairs of government, and to provide the helping party organization in which our members can work to further their philosophy of government."

He noted the founders of the new organization, the Active Republicans of Lubbock County, frequently have been critical both of Stevens and of the county GOP executive committee.

His remarks brought the near 40 persons present to their feet applauding.

The new group's organizers, Mike Van Horn and John Ryan, were present during the meeting. Van Horn tried several times to ask questions or make comments on proceedings and generally was ruled out of order.

After the meeting, Van Horn emphasized to a reporter that the Active Republicans of Lubbock is meant to be an enhancement to the formal party organization here — an auxiliary volunteer group to help seek conservative candidates, raise funds on their behalf and get them elected.

He compared it to numerous other volunteer groups that work in other states and in Texas which he said are not a "split" from party regulars.

In his statement, Stevens discounted the Van Horn group's desire to help the county Republican party.

"At no time have the founders of the new organization discussed the purpose

First Ladies Plan Meeting At Border

EL PASO (UPI) — Rosalynn Carter and Carmen Romano de Lopez Portillo will mark the amicable end of a bitter boundary dispute Thursday by dramatizing on the banks of the languid Rio Grande the friendly ties between the United States and Mexico.

Mrs. Carter and Mrs. Lopez Portillo, wife of Mexico's president, will meet at noon on the Bridge of the Americas before proceeding to ceremonies at the Chamizal park and Ciudad Juarez, Mexico.

The festivities in the riverside memorial will celebrate the 10th anniversary of the creation of the park, which sits on territory once hotly disputed between the U.S. and Mexico.

The scrap of land known as the Chamizal originally was part of Mexico, but ended up on the American side when the muddy river changed its course. A settlement was reached to return the 437 acres to Mexico by diverting the Rio Grande down a concrete-lined canal.

After speaking at the Chamizal ceremonies, the first ladies will visit the cultural center in Juarez, where Mrs. Lopez Portillo will brief Mrs. Carter and her party on cultural, educational and economic development plans for the border area.

Mrs. Lopez Portillo also plans to give a luncheon in honor of Mrs. Carter at the Fiesta Real Hotel.

Afterward, they will visit the Pronal cultural center for dedication of the new "Esto es Mexico (this is Mexico)," an exhibit of artistic treasures from all corners of the Republic of Mexico.

Mrs. Carter and Mrs. Lopez Portillo will cross the border to the Chamizal National Memorial in El Paso, where Mrs. Carter will host a cultural festival and reception honoring Mrs. Lopez Portillo.

Among the high ranking dignitaries from the U.S. participating in the events are Assistant Secretary of State Terence Todman, U.S. Ambassador Patrick J. Schools Accused Of Racial Action

By JEFF SOUTH
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Federal government attorneys apparently will try to prove that the Lubbock Independent School District perpetuated segregation in the 1960s by closing inner-city schools, creating optional attendance zones and building new schools in predominantly one-race areas.

Those contentions, and a rebuttal from a former school administrator, are contained in a 200-page transcript of an oral deposition filed in U.S. District Court here. School officials and the U.S. Justice Department are preparing their arguments for a trial to begin Nov. 14.

The document details Justice Department lawyer Steve Gurwin's recent questioning of Dr. Ishmael Hill, employed by the school system from 1937 to 1970, the last 20 years as assistant superintendent. Hill is now a farmer in Canyon.

Perhaps more revealing than the answers Hill gave was the way Gurwin phrased and elaborated on questions. The attorney's attempts to attach racial significance to past school district actions led to some biting exchanges between the two men, according to the transcript.

In one such instance, Hill was defending the school board's designation of optional attendance zones between certain schools. He said the optional zones were meant to remedy overcrowded conditions and phase in integration — not, as Gurwin charged, to isolate minorities.

"We didn't have any rednecks on the board," Hill said.

"I bet," retorted Gurwin. "You are familiar with rednecks, aren't you?" asked Hill. "What a redneck is?"

Replied Gurwin: "Well, as I understand, that came from an election around 1900, somewhere down South..."

Gurwin attacked the optional attendance zones that existed in the past between Alderson and Struggs junior high schools and between Posey and Boseman elementary schools. Students in the affected zones had their choice of schools to attend.

In that respect, Gurwin said, the optional zones perpetuated segregation by allowing whites to attend the schools with the fewest minority students.

But Hill argued that students' color was not a major consideration — and that in any case, the intent was not to segregate students.

He said optional attendance zones were used for such reasons as relieving overcrowding at certain schools, ensuring students' safety and making things more convenient for parents who prefer to drop their children off at school en route to work.

Gurwin also criticized the school district's decisions several years ago to close such inner-city schools as K. Carter, Thompson Elementary and the old East campus.

"The enrollment of the Carter School was fairly stable. If anything, it was growing," he said.

Gurwin said he has been told that "had the Carter School continued, it could have supported a student population for years in the future." Continued operation of central Lubbock schools could have enhanced desegregation, he said.

However, Hill said the schools in ques-

Panel To Rank City Priorities

By PAULA TELKER
Avalanche-Journal Staff

For almost four hours Tuesday night the Community Development Advisory Committee (CDAC) reviewed each of about 80 city department requests for Community Development grant projects.

The department needs will be balanced tonight against citizen project requests when the committee ranks priorities for the fourth year CD program.

The 20-member committee will meet at 7 p.m. in City Hall's training room to decide how $4.5 million in next year's CD program should be spent. The group's recommendation will be sent to the Lubbock City Council, which will make the final spending decision after holding a public hearing.

Although Tuesday's meeting primarily was a background session, one member already indicated disagreement with City Mgr. Larry Cunningham's proposed program.

Cunningham compiled and ranked his list from staff requests. His proposal includes $2.17 million for housing rehabilitation and code enforcement, $105,000 for traffic signals, $250,000 for a day care center and $1.64 million for several projects such as park renovation, paving, street lighting and the addition of a Parkway neighborhood center and a senior citizens center.

Although CDAC Chairman Arnold Maeker reminded the group that the "head-knocking on priorities" should be done at tonight's meeting, one committee member questioned Cunningham's proposals several times.

Airport Board chairman Lloyd Garland took issue with the city manager's top priority ranking of a day care center and traffic signals along Avenue A at 17th and 19th streets.

When the traffic signal proposal, valued by Cunningham at $65,000, was discussed, some committee members questioned whether the improvement is necessary.

Noting that the city is "not sure now they need it," Garland added, "I wonder if you can carry the same judgment from this to other high priorities."

"I just don't know with CD funds how that can be graded as a high priority," Garland said. He added that he is "worried" whether the committee has enough information on which to base its decisions. The traffic signal proposal "hurts his confidence" in the city manager's list, he added.

CDAC members will have several sources upon which to draw projects recommendations. Besides the department and city manager's suggestions, the group will consider recommendations advanced at neighborhood sector meetings.

Results of a questionnaire mailed to citizens in Lubbock Power and Light water bills also will be considered. Of the 48,000 questionnaires sent out, 6,234 were returned and their suggestions noted.

In drawing up their recommendations, CDAC members also will have to include a $175,000 alternate project that can be withdrawn easily, CD Coordinator David Kitten told the group Tuesday.

He explained that the city owes the Department of Housing and Urban Development $175,000 from a loan on the Memorial Civic Center.

The repayment is due by May 31, he said.

We are firmly convinced that using the Unusual No Trump Convention on hands where you are unlikely to buy the contract is a losing proposition — it gives away far more than it gains. This hand from a recent tournament in Newburgh, N.Y., demonstrates this point.

The only thing that can be said for East's Unusual No Trump overall is that the vulnerability was in his favor. However, it did little to hamper North-South's bidding; indeed, some argument could be advanced that it actually facilitated their auction. But it did have serious repercussions in the play.

A diamond lead would have left declarer with no chance, but West, not particularly wanting a ruff, decided to attack with the ten of clubs. East won the queen and ace and continued with a third round, and declarer was considerably relieved when West produced a third club and dummy's king won.

Had there been no adverse bidding, declarer would surely have laid down the ace and king of trumps, setting up two tricks for West and resulting in the contract's defeat. But East's silly intervention had alerted declarer to possible bad breaks, so he set about learning more about the distribution.

Declarer cashed the ace of spades, discarding a diamond from hand, and ruffed a spade. The ace of hearts was followed by a diamond to the king and another spade ruff, felling the king. The hand was now an open book.

East had to have started with a 3-1-5-4 distribution. So declarer crossed to the ace of diamonds and ruffed another spade. Now both West and declarer were down to nothing but three trumps. Declarer simply exited with the ten of trumps and after West won the jack he had to lead from his queen into declarer's K-9 tenace.

Your play to the first trick could decide the fate of the contract! A writer once remarked: "There's no such thing as a blind opening lead, only deaf opening leaders!" Simple Inflation Beating Theory Given

BY BETTY YARMON
 Women's News Service

Here's a way to beat inflation: Buy now instead of later.

The theory is simplicity itself: On the basis of their experience of the last 10 years, when the cost of living jumped more than 80 per cent, Americans of all political persuasions are beginning to suspect that inflation is a sickness that won't go away. Rather, no matter whether the economy gets better or worse, we can anticipate continuous inflation.

Therefore, the theory continues, whatever you want to buy will cost you more the longer you delay. You read the ads of the auto manufacturers, for example, telling you that you will never see such prices again. You think they are awfully high now — and that certainly is true compared with what similar cars cost just a few years ago — and you would love to see them go down. But you suspect that if you make do with your current car for another few years, a new car will cost you that much more when you get around to buying it.

It's the same with other common items. The national average cost of a new house almost doubled in the past five years, from $26,800 to $49,000 last June. So, if you are thinking of a new house, perhaps it's wise to buy it now rather than wait the next several years, when presumably price will go up commensurately. And you will enjoy the new house that much longer.

Meanwhile many of us are beating inflation in another simple way, by learning how to trade down in many areas of living but without really reducing our standard of living. Here are some recent signs of this, in some instances where an actual improvement is shown in the quality of our lives:

1. Our food habits are changing — and probably for the better — as we are forced away by costs from traditional roasts, steaks, and chops, replacing them with fare that not only is less costly but often more nutritious as well. And the imaginative housewife has an opportunity these days to bring to her dinner table interesting and less costly foods and combinations from a variety of ethnic backgrounds — moussaka from Greece, rice pilaf from the Middle East, salade Nicoise from France, fettucine from Italy.

2. The wine boom seems to continue, and for some Americans undoubtedly has replaced more expensive whiskeys and other hard liquors, contributing to a more sober United States.

3. For the first time since World War II days, many U.S. families have gone back to the soil, starting vegetable gardens in their backyards. Tomatoes seem the easiest and best bet, but reports have it that onions, radishes, squash, turnips, carrots, lettuce, cucumbers and beets are among the favorite items of today's inflation-fighting gardeners. Apart from making a modest dent in your food bill and giving you nutritious food, such gardening can be a relaxer from the tensions of everyday life.

4. Many Americans, appalled by sky-rocketing transportation, hotel, restaurant and gasoline costs, stayed home this summer, and learned that vacationing within their own home town can be a pleasure and an eye-opener to ignored joys you and the family can benefit from throughout the year.

5. With furniture prices, particularly of wood, gone through the roof, many homemakers are refinishing or reupholstering what they already have — often retaining charm and workmanship that otherwise might have been tossed away.

Granted, no American would vote for inflation if he had a choice. On the contrary, the pollsters indicate that inflation has replaced unemployment as the No. 1 concern of most people. But inflation seems to be with us whether we like it or not. And at least in some respects, then, there is a silver lining to the dark cloud of inflation that hovers over us.

FONDUE DIP

Add 1/4 cup sour cream or yogurt and use as a dip for raw vegetables or as a fondue dipping for meat or fish.

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: I had a dinner party recently, and invited five couples. I worked hard because I wanted everything to be just right.

Two of my guests brought their own "dinner" in a jar. It was some kind of diet concoction.

I was angry and thought they had a lot of nerve accepting my dinner invitation when they knew they weren't going to eat anything. I told them how hard I had worked preparing the dinner, and urged them to "fall off the wagon" for just that meal, but they wouldn't do it.

I finally decided to be a good sport, but deep down I was hurt. What do you think of such guests, and how would you have handled it?

Still Burning

Dear Burning: Guests who are on special diets should say so when they're invited out. Were I the hostess, and dieters appeared with their own "dinner," I'd have said nothing and permitted them to "drink their dinners" as inconspicuously as possible. (Never would I attempt to get them to "fall off the wagon" or make them feel guilty for sticking with their diets.)

DEAR ABBY: I read with pleasure the letters in your column from women who thought sex was overrated and said they were tired of "faking it" in the bedroom.

It's about time somebody told the truth about sex. I am a normal man, and I don't go crazy over sex either, but I have to be careful where I make that statement.

Women are lucky they can "fake it" in the bedroom. We men have no choice. We have to "perform" in order to prove our "masculinity," and I, for one, am sick of it! Many times I have wished that I could say, "Not tonight, dear, I have a headache."

Women have no idea how much pressure we men are under.

Care to comment?

Pressured

Dear Pressured: If you allow yourself to be "pressured" in order to preserve the "mucho macho" illusion, that's your problem. For my part, a man is just as entitled to have a "headache" as a woman.

DEAR ABBY: Last night I went to sleep with the pillow over my ears to drown out the noise of my parents quarreling. I am the oldest of four, and I feel sort of responsible for the younger ones. My folks have been fighting ever since I can remember.

They fight about little things, like who put gas in the car last, and also over big things like money or my father's not spending enough time with my little brothers.

Abby, this is giving me a nervous stomach because they fight a lot at the supper table. What can a 13-year-old girl do?

Fighters' Daughter

Dear Daughter: Parents who quarrel a lot are not likely to accept criticism, advice or suggestions from their young children. Indeed, they would probably resent it, so there's nothing you can do. Just pray (and so will I) that they see this letter, recognize themselves and do something about it.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Couple Stages 'Real Wedding'

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The society editor suspected a mistake when Donna and Ronald Larrabee announced their marriage.

But Mrs. Larrabee provided the explanation.

In 1958, high school students Donna Seitzinger and Ronald Larrabee ran off to Reno for a quickie marriage. After 15 years and two children, they divorced. Three years later they decided to try it again.

"I was determined, this time, to have a real wedding in our church ... with all the ceremony and ritual," Mrs. Larrabee said.

"I wore a white satin gown ... Ron wore a white tuxedo," she said, adding her 17-year-old son and 8-year-old daughter were part of the wedding party.

"It was really beautiful, and it meant so much — like it was a real marriage and not just an offhand legal thing."

"And of course, I also wanted to have my picture in the paper."

Retiree Expresses Opinions On Current Issues

By GHITA LEVINE
Women's News Service

Anton Irwin (not his real name) is angry at the emphasis placed by the news media on the Bert Lance story.

"It is utterly unimportant to the population what Mr. Lance did, but it is important how the system works for the average American," Mr. Irwin says.

The media, he charges bitterly, is failing in its responsibility to be a voice of the public. "They shouldn't go after people like Lance, they should go door to door and ask average people how they manage."

The stories they would hear, says the 70-year-old man who asked that his real name not be used, would be stories of quiet desperation.

Knock on the blue front door of his freshly painted house, chat for 15 minutes and you hear a tale of suppressed panic. How will they pay for the next paint job five years from now? Will inflation eat up their savings?

What happens when Mrs. Irwin, six years his junior, is forced to retire from her job as an office clerk?

This is a very real worry for the Irwins, despite the Sept. 23rd approval by the House of a bill that would prohibit employers from requiring employees to retire at any age in the federal government and raises the private sector's mandatory retirement age from 65 to 70. The bill is now in the Senate.

As a companion measure to the pending bill, the Carter administration is studying a proposal to withhold payment of full Social Security benefits until recipients reach age 68. Current law allows partial benefits to be paid at age 62, full benefits begin at 65.

The Irwins also worry about their health and self-sufficiency. What if, despite their regimen of exercise, nutrition and daily doses of vitamins, one of them should become terribly ill? Will they end up, as millions of respectable middle-class Americans do in their old age, selling their house, disposing of their possessions and poverty-stricken?

Social Security and Medicare? Mr. Irwin cynically dismisses them as "a joke." Medicare pays less than half of his health costs and Social Security, as an old-age insurance, has failed him.

Mr. Irwin is like millions of Americans who were forced to retire at age 65. Since then he has supplemented his minimal Social Security benefits by teaching music in a private school and to pupils at home. Last year he earned about $4,000, more than the law would allow a retiree on Social Security.

The law allows one receiving Social Security retirement benefits to earn $3,000 a year or $250 in any month from a job or self-employment before Social Security is reduced by one dollar for every two dollars over the limit.

So Mr. Irwin lost 50 cents on every dollar over the Social Security earning limit and forfeited $1,000 of his pension. At the same time, he had to pay Social Security taxes on the entire $4,000, without ever reaping higher benefits because of it.

"If we have small jobs to supplement our income, they still take deductions from our paychecks. If we work over the limit, they penalize us for that too," he said, his voice quickening with anger.

The double penalty — cut back for earning too much and taxed at the same time — is an injustice unheard of in a civilized nation, he says. "We are very behind other countries. Old people don't lose their dignity, say, in England or Scandinavia."

When Mrs. Irwin is forced to retire she will face the added injustice faced by many women. Although she paid Social Security taxes, Mrs. Irwin's benefits will be no more than if she stayed home and never paid in at all. As an elderly office worker, forced to take a job when her husband retired, she earned too little to get any more Social Security than she would have collected as a stay-at-home spouse. With her income on the way out, and his age against him, finding new students as pupils graduate one by one, the Irwins worry about how they will manage in the future.

They are embarrassed to discuss this with family or friends, and they see little that relates to them in the newspapers. "All you read is murder, rape, arson, sex and government corruption, but the human story of what happens to the people at large, there's no coverage whatsoever," Mr. Irwin insists.

Even the current spate of proposed Social Security revisions have little bearing on the Irwin's situation, in his opinion.

"There's no outlet for people like us. Nobody ever asked me, 'What do you think?'" he says.

What he proposes is a press beat that includes reporters regularly talking to the run-of-the-mill people like him. Or a local grievance office where people can air their opinions.

"Something should be organized to collect the voice of the people," he urges. "Someone should listen to the true daily stories, not just of the elderly but of all respectable, middle-class people."

Columnist Discusses Solar Homes, Heat Pump Systems

BY ANDY LANG
AP Newfeatures

A recent column, in a general discussion of the use of solar energy for homes, contained a brief reference to tests under way in Albuquerque, N.M., and Wading River, N.Y., utilizing heat pumps.

Seldom has a comment brought such a flood of mail, with most of the readers asking for more detail on the use of heat pumps in connection with solar energy. Heat pumps powered by electricity actually have been in use for many years, growing in popularity recently along with the increased demand for air conditioning, since they take care of both heating and cooling needs.

The Albuquerque-Wading River projects encompass solar homes with electrical backup systems. Heat pumps will work in conjunction with solar collectors on the roofs of the houses, pulling heat from outside air even during cold weather periods. In addition to supplying the heat directly to the houses, the solar collectors will provide heat to warm water in 200- to 300-gallon storage tanks. These tanks will be used for heating at night and on cloudy days. A mini-computer, located in the basement of each house, will gauge the house's energy requirements and automatically instruct the system how to meet these needs.

Many other such projects are now being tested. In some cases, year-round solar heating and air conditioning systems have already been introduced into development homes. At Sun City, Ariz., such a system has been installed in three-bedroom model houses of approximately 1650 square feet. Such a system is not inexpensive. It's presently priced at $9,500. The engineers figure that the payback period, considering the upward spiral of utility rates, could be less than 10 years. Competition will bring down the cost of solar energy systems, while parts and equipment now handcrafted will be less expensive when manufactured in mass production.

Solar energy systems and products of all sorts are being manufactured by hundreds of companies, with the result that some extravagant claims are being made. The government and industry are working on programs designed to see that the solar products live up to the claims being made for them.

For instance, the Air Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute, a trade association of manufacturers of heating-cooling equipment, expects to have a rating program for solar collectors within a year. The collectors will be rated by their ability to collect heat from the sun, with testing done by independent laboratories as well as the institute. One of the objectives of the program is to provide information that will help consumers decide how long it will take for the cost of the solar equipment to return savings on fuel costs. Incidentally, there are now more than 200 different types or models of solar collectors.

DR. LAMB

Second Opinion Needed

BY LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB—Please tell me what I can do next with my problems. I have diabetes and my blood sugar is 281 with 4 plus urine. My blood pressure is 180 over 120.

My doctor is giving me Tolinas, four tablets a day and for blood pressure two tablets a day of Hydrodiuril and two tablets of Aldomet. This medication is not helping and my doctor isn't very nice about it and has me very worried.

I watch my diet and I am not a salt eater. I have many problems and I worry about everything, especially about my urine. My mouth tastes somewhat like salt.

Please tell me what I could take that will help me. What could I take for that 4 plus urine sugar? I do not care for my doctor.

DEAR READER—I don't know your weight or your age. If you are overweight it is very important that you lose weight both to lower your blood glucose levels and to lower your blood pressure.

I think you should go to another doctor. When a patient isn't happy with his or her doctor it is really better for all concerned to change doctors. You will probably do better with one you like.

No one can clear your urine of sugar, though, until your blood sugar (glucose) level comes down. Whenever the blood glucose level is over 170 there is usually some spilled into the urine. As a person gets older the kidneys change and the blood level may be higher without a positive urine test. That is one reason why blood tests are done at intervals.

Some diabetic specialists might wish to put you on insulin if you have associated kidney damage—which may be the case with your high blood pressure—particularly if you are not overweight. Insulin is commonly used if dietary management fails to result in adequately controlled levels of blood glucose.

Incidentally I would like to have sent you Health Letter number 3-11, Diabetes, Diagnosis, Prevention and Management, but your letter did not have your return address on it. All readers who want a reply should be sure their address is on their letter, not just the envelope they mailed the letter in. Others who want this issue should send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I have heard that cholesterol does not become a problem no matter how much cholesterol-containing food is ingested, if sugar is omitted from the diet. If this is so, would you please explain the role of sugar in cholesterol buildup?

DEAR READER—No, it is not true at all. If you are eating too many calories of any kind and food containing cholesterol you may significantly increase your cholesterol level. This has been observed on some of the so-called magic reducing diets that limit carbohydrates but advocate foods rich in cholesterol and fat.

It is true, however, that if you do not restrict your calories from all sources enough to eliminate or prevent obesity you will not be very successful in lowering your cholesterol, even if you limit the foods that contain cholesterol in your diet.

Woman Firefighter Hired By Coin Flip

NEWPORT, Ky. (UPI)—The shiny silver dollar seemed to hang in the air for an eternity.

When it finally hit the floor, bounced and landed tails side up, Kentucky had its first woman firefighter.

This week's coin toss at a Newport City Commission meeting was the culmination of several years of hope and determination for Sharon Hatfield, a 28-year-old mother of twin girls who broke the sex barrier in the city's fire department.

She had been tied with William Ravenscraft, 23, on Newport's firefighter eligibility list, but the City Commission planned to hire only four firefighters in the near future.

So the commission decided to break the tie with the flip of a coin. But this wasn't a plain old, run-of-the-mill coin toss. It was a ceremony that seemed strangely appropriate for Halloween night.

Cigarette smoke clouded the air in the small meeting room, jammed to capacity with about 50 spectators and several reporters.

The commissioners acted on a few routine matters with Mayor Johnny Peluso presiding. Then Mrs. Hatfield and Ravenscraft were called to the front of the room.

They were told to choose one of two folded slips of paper. One said heads, which Ravenscraft drew, the other tails, which Mrs. Hatfield drew.

Peluso asked a newspaper reporter to toss the silver dollar. Other reporters and photographers crowded around with their cameras, microphones and notebooks.

When Loftus threw the coin in the air, it struck a TV reporter's microphone on the way down and landed tail up.

"It hit his microphone! It hit his microphone!" Ravenscraft shouted. "If you had kept your microphone out of the way, it wouldn't have landed on tails." His voice choked up and tears streamed down his face.

But the city commission wouldn't authorize another toss. Mrs. Hatfield clapped and smiled when she realized she had won.

"Being the first woman firefighter in the state has no meaning to me," she said. "But being a firefighter does."

Wildcat Strikes Disrupt Greyhound Bus Lines

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Wildcat strikes erupted in four states against Greyhound Lines despite pleas by officials of the Amalgamated Transit Union here to stay on the job.

The ATU called for a mail-in strike vote of its 13,000 Greyhound drivers, terminal, maintenance and office employees as contracts expired at midnight Monday. But union officials urged members to end wildcat strikes against the bus company until the results of the vote are counted Nov. 18.

Greyhound officials said Tuesday that the ATU had rejected a new contract offer worth $59 million over the next three years.

The latest wildcat strike was reported in Salt Lake City, where officials said bus service was disrupted by picketers. Officials said no buses departed the terminal after 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, and drivers of arriving buses were letting passengers out on the street, rather than cross the picket lines.

Supervisory personnel drove the buses back into the terminal.

A Greyhound spokesman said stranded passengers are being referred to the Trailways Bus terminal, one of Greyhound's chief competitors.

A Greyhound bus driver in Cleveland, Ohio, said striking drivers were on the verge of returning to jobs Tuesday when they heard that Pittsburgh, Pa., Greyhound employees also had walked out.

Wildcat strikes also had halted bus service in Charleston, W.Va.

Harry Lesko, Greyhound Lines president, said the contract offer was made to the ATU last Thursday. Union negotiators revealed Monday that the pact had been rejected.

Owen Jones, president of the Greyhound Council of the ATU, said the wildcat strikes involved about 3,000 workers.

Lesko said the offer included an immediate $300 bonus payment to all employees along with continuation of cost-of-living increases. In addition, he said, Greyhound has offered a generous profit-sharing plan based on future earnings.

"We simply are unable to meet additional increased wage and pension demands of the union at this time," Lesko said in a prepared statement. "Greyhound Lines' earnings have plummeted over 50 percent in the last five years due to severe declines in passenger operations and soaring costs for fuel and other expenses."

"As Sam Maroney, president of the ATU pointed out to the membership in August, Greyhound employees already are the highest paid bus employees in the world, with the best pension, insurance and other benefits," Lesko said.

Lesko said on the average, Greyhound's operating costs are about 13 cents a mile higher than those of its nearest competitor, Trailways. Essentially all of that spread represents higher costs for direct labor, he said.

Lesko urged union officials to convince locals to end the wildcat strikes and get the buses rolling.

"The ATU Council members have an obligation to clear these local problems in the best interests of the traveling public," Lesko said.

Jones had called the company's only wage offer "an out and out insult in this day and time," but was not available to comment on Greyhound's statement Tuesday.

Jones said Greyhound negotiators refused to bargain when submitting its proposal Thursday and that the union bargaining team was disbanded after an unproductive session Friday. Jones declined to explain the union's demands, but said the council of 31 local union presidents unanimously rejected the Greyhound offer.

Jones said the union had offered to submit all unresolved issues to final and binding arbitration, but that the offer was rejected by Greyhound.

The union struck Greyhound for nine days in 1974 during the first attempt to negotiate a national contract. Previously, Greyhound workers east and west of the Mississippi River were under separate contracts.

Union officials said it was impossible to estimate the current average salary of Greyhound workers because of various wage rates and methods of computation.

Union officials said striking members of Local 503 of the Amalgamated Transit Union in Cleveland struck over local grievances after their contract expired at midnight Monday.

Bus trips out of two other Ohio cities, Youngstown and Akron, also were cut off as the local set up picket lines. Some workers were reported off the job in Cincinnati as well.

In Pittsburgh, a strike that affects 504 employees began when drivers feared retaliation if they drove into other cities.

Ronald Fulon, a bus driver from North Madison, Ohio, said he and about 25 members of the 600-member local decided to strike after a union meeting Monday. They began picketing the Cleveland Greyhound station carrying homemade signs saying "No Contract, No Work," at midnight Monday.

Gene Clay, the local's drivers' representative, said nearly all the drivers, mechanics and other terminal employees who are members of the union honored the picket line. Clay said union officials tried all day to get the employees to return to their jobs.

Greyhound made arrangements with Trailways and Amtrak to service the passengers who had expected to use the approximately 100 buses which arrive and depart from Cleveland daily, Kirby M. Parnell, Greyhound area manager, said.

Parnell said some buses arrived from other cities Tuesday but none left from Cleveland.

Tech Museum's New Director To Be Speaker

Dr. Leslie C. Drew, new director of The Museum of Texas Tech University, will be speaker for the 48th annual meeting of the West Texas Museum Association at 7 p.m. Monday.

New officers and trustees will be named and Action Awards presented during the dinner session in the museum's main gallery.

Current president J.C. Chambers and women's council president Nancy Tarwater will make brief annual reports.

Action awards are made each year to three individuals or organizations having made significant contributions to the cultural life of the Southern High Plains.

Drew, who assumed duties Tuesday, came to Lubbock from Bozeman, Mont., where he was director of the Museum of the Rockies and a professor of biology at Montana State University.

Prior to his Montana duties, Drew served in a number of museum capacities and as assistant professor of entomology at Michigan State University. He went to Bozeman from Yale University where he was assistant to the director of the Peabody Museum.

Tickets for the dinner, for association members and their guests, are $5.50 per person.

Amy Carter To Get Finland Reindeer

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP) — Shhhhh! Amy Carter isn't supposed to know this, but her Christmas present from the people of Finland is being stored here.

The Helsinki Zoo recently sent a pair of reindeer to the Clifton Animal Import Center, the center's veterinarian says.

A DAILY MESSAGE FROM The Newspaper Bible.

1 John 4: 11-21, 5: 1-4, The Living Bible

11 Dear friends, since God loved us as much as that, we surely ought to love each other too.

12 For though we have never yet seen God, when we love each other God lives in us and His love within us grows ever stronger.

13 And He has put His own Holy Spirit into our hearts as a proof to us that we are living with Him and He with us.

14 And furthermore, we have seen with our own eyes and now tell all the world that God sent His Son to be their Savior.

15 Anyone who believes and says that Jesus is the Son of God has God living in him, and he is living with God.

16 We know how much God loves us because we have felt His love and because we believe Him when He tells us that He loves us dearly. God is love, and anyone who lives in love is living with God and God is living in him.

17 And as we live with Christ, our love grows more perfect and complete; so we will not be ashamed and embarrassed at the day of judgment, but can face Him with confidence and joy, because He loves us and we love Him too.

18 We need have no fear of someone who loves us perfectly; His perfect love for us eliminates all dread of what He might do to us. If we are afraid, it is for fear of what He might do to us, and shows that we are not fully convinced that He really loves us.

19 So you see, our love for Him comes as a result of His loving us first.

20 If anyone says "I love God," but keeps on hating his brother, he is a liar; for if he doesn't love his brother who is right there in front of him, how can he love God whom he has never seen?

21 And God Himself has said that one must love not only God, but his brother too. CHAPTER 5

1 If you believe that Jesus is the Christ—that He is God's Son and your Savior—then you are a child of God. And all who love the Father love His children too.

2 So you can find out how much you love God's children—your brothers and sisters in the Lord—by how much you love and obey God.

3 Loving God means doing what He tells us to do, and really, that isn't hard at all!

4 For every child of God can obey Him, defeating sin and evil pleasure by trusting Christ to help him.

Astronaut Urges 'Getting Away'

CHICAGO (AP) — Edgar D. Mitchell, a computer salesman who once walked on the moon, says it's important for everyone to "get away from it all once and a while."

If you can't arrange a trip to outer space, Mitchell suggests a trip to the country, to a city or "wherever you can go to get a different perspective on life, on why we exist."

Mitchell, an Apollo 14 astronaut, became the sixth person to walk on the moon on Feb. 5, 1971. The trip, he said, changed his view of life.

"They call it a mountain top experience, a religious experience — you get flashes of insight about life," he said in an interview. "When I was in space I looked back at earth and thought of the limitless capability of man. I saw how small, how insignificant the world is in the universe."

Officers Investigating City House Burglaries

Reports of house burglaries with heavy losses continue to boost the city's growing property toll from crime.

Mario Perez of 1303 59th St. told police his house was burglarized between noon and 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, with the loss of three television sets valued at a total of $1,600.

Perez said two of the sets were lifted from the master bedroom and that the other was taken from another bedroom. Entry appeared to be through a kitchen window.

About $650 in cash and a television set, valued at more than $500 reportedly were taken from the 2302 62nd St. residence of Daryl Altman.

Altman said the break-in apparently occurred between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. Tuesday, and entry was made through a rear door.

James L. Gilbert of 6401 33rd St. is without a mailbox today after someone apparently placed an explosive charge in it and detonated it Monday night or Tuesday.

Gilbert said he discovered the remains of the box about 5:30 p.m. A powdery substance reportedly was found inside the ruined mailbox.

Police today were investigating a report by a 12-year-old girl that a man exposed himself to her as she was walking to school Tuesday morning.

The girl told officers she was walking to Dupre Elementary School about 8 a.m. when a man, clad only in a robe and socks, jumped from some bushes and exposed himself. She said she ran to school but did not tell her mother until after classes Tuesday afternoon. The incident reportedly occurred near 22nd Street and Avenue V.

According to B.J. Byrd of 3308 E. Baylor St., his house was burglarized between 1:30 p.m. and 11:30 p.m. Tuesday and a $500 television set was taken. He said a glass pane was removed from a kitchen window.

Bernard John Horak of 5625 4th St., No. 100, told police his place was burglarized Tuesday and $108 was taken from atop his bedroom dresser. Entry apparently was made by prying the front door open.

A television set and stereo reportedly was taken from the home of Kyna Donley of 4903 Ave. G between Monday and Tuesday nights.

A citizen's band radio and antenna reportedly were swiped from the truck of Robbie Buster Monday night or Tuesday morning while it was parked in front of his 1806 E. 1st St. residence. Buster estimated his loss at $400.

Robert E. Ross said someone broke in to his television repair van during the weekend while it was parked at a shop at 1710 Clovis Rd.

Taken from the vehicle were handtools, a television tube caddy and electronic replacement modules valued at $1,500.

Trailer thieves cost Marvin Lee Jones of 2005 69th St. a reported $1,500, after they reportedly made off with two cotton trailers last week from a gin at 13th Street and Avenue A.

A test drive apparently impressed the man who drove away in a 1974 Thunderbird Monday.

Dale Martin said the "customer" left his car at a lot at Broadway and Quirt Avenue Monday, then took the Thunderbird for a test spin. Martin said he had not heard from the man since.

Burglars who entered a west side door at Kelly Holamon's 2019 5th St. residence Sunday made off with an estimated $2,560 worth of assorted items.

Witnesses, who had been staying at Holamon's home in his absence, said they left the premises about two hours Sunday, then returned to find the items gone.

Included in the theft were two televisions, jewelry, two bicycles, $1,000 worth of stereo equipment and meat from a freezer.

In other reports, two Lubbock men reported in separate incidents that they were assaulted Monday.

Ruben Pincon of 3314 E. Bates St. reportedly was unconscious when a policeman—responding to a fight in progress call—arrived at a residence in the 2600-block of E. Bates Street late Monday.

Pincon, who had been at a party at that address, reportedly was struck in the head with a baseball bat, but he was not believed to have been seriously injured.

Elsewhere, Bobby Joe Casanova of 2011 77th St. reportedly was stabbed in the left side of the abdomen a half hour after the attack on Pincon Monday.

Reports indicated Casanova had been called outside at a club in the 1700-block of 4th St. about 11 p.m., when a group of men gathered.

One of the men reportedly asked Casanova questions about one of his relatives, then stabbed the victim in the abdomen.

Bob C. Smith said someone took a television and seven cartons of cigarettes from a service station at N. University Avenue and Loop 289 overnight Monday. After using a ladder to get in a garage door, reports indicated the burglars made off with about $167 in merchandise and caused $50 damage.

Steven Stem of 1802 66th St. wasn't thrilled about his car becoming a movable Texas Tech University mascot late Monday or Tuesday.

Stem said vandals sprayed his car's entire surface with red and black paint, causing an estimated $250 damage.

Stereo speakers and a radio, valued together at $165, reportedly were taken from Burl Ham of 3202 27th St. The items, Ham said, were taken from his parked vehicle.

By PAULA TILKER
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The Planning and Zoning Commission Thursday will consider legalizing a tortilla factory in a residential zone.

Eloisa Gonzales will appeal to the board, which will meet at 6 p.m. in council chambers, to allow her tortilla factory to remain north of 54th Street and west of Oak Avenue.

The area is zoned single-family residential (R-1), and according to zoning ordinance the factory should be in a light manufacturing (M-1) district.

A city spokesman said Mrs. Gonzales and the building inspection department evidently misunderstood each other about the factory site when she asked whether it could be built in the R-1 zone.

Commissioners also will hear a request by Bill Cantrell for Ted Sisco asking that a lot south of 22nd Street and east of Knoxville Avenue be changed from R-1 to apartment-medical (A-M) zoning.

The change would allow a parking lot to be built across the street from Sisco's office.

Bill Steele will ask that several lots south of Erskine Street and west of Dover Avenue be zoned R-1 instead of the current two-family (R-2) zoning.

Don Harris and Tommy Cantrell will seek a change on lots south of 18th Street and west of Aberdeen Avenue. They will ask that the lots be zoned R-2 instead of R-1 to allow duplexes to be built.

A specific use permit zone change will be sought by Bobby Day to allow professional offices north of 65th Street and west of Quaker Avenue.

Commissioners will hear C.C. Knott's request to zone a tract of land west of Loop 289 and about 1,371 feet south of 50th Street from R-1 to M-1.

John C. King will ask that lots north of 22nd Street and about 304 feet east of Avenue G be zoned for high-density apartments (A-2) instead of the current R-2.

Scott C. McKenzie will seek a specific use permit zone change to allow mini-warehouses on a lot north of 2nd Place and about 173 feet east of University Avenue.

Mike Field, representing Craft, Elliott and Field, will appear before commissioners to request that a tract of land be zoned general retail (C-3) instead of its current R-1. The property is north of 66th Street and east of Frankford Avenue.

A similar request will be posed by Harold Harriger for John Abney, Tim Hatch and Dewey Rogers. They will ask that C-3 zoning be applied to R-1 tracts north of Loop 289 and east of Slide Road.

Communities Development Corp., represented by John E. Orr, will ask that a tract about 2,015 feet north of 4th Street and about 2,307 feet east of Slide Road be zoned R-1. The land currently is zoned multi-family (R-3) specific use to allow mobile home use.

B.R. Griffin for Tara Land Co., Inc., will seek a change on property north of 4th Street and east and west of Slide Road.

The change would be from R-1 to family-apartment (A-1), restricted local retail (C-2A), local retail (C-2) and C-3.

Commissioners also will consider Weldon McClure's request for C-4 and M-1 zoning on an R-1 tract west of Clovis Road and Loop 289 between those two streets.

LA Robber In Costume Slays Man

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police say they are seeking a Halloween robber dressed as a skeleton who bound and clubbed a cerebral palsy victim, then beat the man's grandfather to death.

Imre Allen Robitsek, 33, who lived with his grandfather, Zoltan Robitsek, said Tuesday he watched helplessly from his wheelchair as the intruder bound and gagged the 69-year-old man, then beat him to death.

Robitsek told police he was alone when he answered the door of his suburban Studio City home Monday night expecting a trick-or-treater. Instead, the costumed man at the door burst inside and beat the young man in the face, head and chest with a club, police said.

The intruder then knocked the crippled man out of his wheelchair and bound him, police said.

When the elder Robitsek, a textile importer-exporter, returned home, the intruder bound and gagged him and beat him too, apparently seeking money and valuables, police said.

The attacker fled in the dead man's van, taking jewelry and more than $1,000 in cash, said police.

The crippled younger man freed himself two hours later and rolled his wheelchair next door where neighbors summoned police.

Robitsek told reporters that his grandfather had cared for him for two years and was his last living relative.

Philippine Fighting Continues

By VIKTOR LANIAUSKAS
MUTI, The Philippines (UPI) — While peace negotiations last December raised hopes of an end to the bloodshed spilled over five years in the southern Philippines, recent developments point to a renewal of hostilities and little hope that a lasting solution can be reached in the near future.

The jungled isolation of this tiny village in a remote section of the Zamboanga peninsula accurately portrays the difficulties facing Philippine armed forces fighting Moslem guerrillas of the separatist Moro National Liberation Front.

Muti barely qualifies for the status of a village, with only five or six families living in stilted nipa huts comprising its entire population.

The importance of Muti is strategic. It lies astride the national highway running along the hilly eastern coast of the lumber, mineral and soil-rich peninsula. It is just 30 miles north of Zamboanga City, the region's major seaport, and is the suspected landing point of rebel troops.

Zamboanga City has a predominantly Christian population of about 400,000 and is the site of the Armed Forces Southern Command. Appropriately named the City of Flowers, it is a tourist haven and the center of Christian opposition to a Moslem takeover of the rebellion-torn southern provinces.

"We'll fight to retain our land if we have to use just the knives and forks we eat with," said one determined Zamboanga businessman and landholder at the thought of having to evacuate a region inhabited by three generations of his family.

The Philippine military needs little encouragement to go after the Moro Front guerrillas — not after the shooting to death of an army general, nine senior officers and 25 enlisted men and draftees during what the government said were peace negotiations Oct. 10, with a top Moro Front commander on the island of Jolo.

Positioned on an inaccessible hilltop overlooking the lush green valleys in the region of Muti, troops of the 41st Infantry Battalion were settling in to secure the lonely highway leading to Zamboanga City.

Their mood was nervously cheerful despite week-long reports the rebels had attacked several outposts in the region, leaving some 100 soldiers dead.

"I think the government has finally realized that these people (the Moro Front) never had any intention of negotiating a peaceful solution. We're just going to have to go in and get them now," said one highly placed officer referring to negotiations which began at the Tripoli, Libya, exile headquarters of the rebels last December. The negotiations broke off last May.

Despite the determination of the military to end once and for all the five-year secessionist movement, the Moro Front and its estimated 10,000-man force may have other ideas.

Only in late 1974 and 1975 did the rebels directly engage government forces. They have since been content to exasperate the military with hit-and-run tactics launched from the rugged jungles and mountainous terrain that makes up most of the southern Philippines.

Moro Front troops appear to be well organized despite government claims the movement has badly splintered. They also appear to realize that any all-out offensive by the military against their suspected strongholds can only work to their benefit by winning the allegiance of the beleaguered Moslem population in the Zamboanga peninsula, the adjacent Sulu Archipelago and the western coast of the large island of Mindanao.

Government figures place the number of killed in the five years of fighting at 30,000, including civilians, rebels and military personnel. An estimated 100,000 refugees are reported living in the Malaysian state of Sabah off the southwestern tip of the Sulu Archipelago.

The latest outbreak of violence has virtually left the 10-month-old ceasefire in a shambles and it appears it will be some time before the Philippine government and the Moro Front will be able to heal the new wounds.

Oscar Wilde, British author-playwright, was born in Ireland in 1856.

Sinatra On 'Laugh-In' Presents Good Hour Of Rapid-Fire Gags

By JAY SHARBUTT
 LOS ANGELES (AP) — NBC hasn't dented the ratings of ABC's "Charlie's Angels" with "Oregon Trail" on Wednesdays. So tonight, it's summoning the heavy artillery — a "Laugh-In" with Frank Sinatra.

(Frank is on NBC twice more this month. He'll guest-host "Tonight" on Nov. 14, and may reveal then that his first TV movie, "Contract on Cherry Street," will be on NBC five nights later.)

The movie, predictably enough, is briefly joshed tonight, but the plug doesn't distract from a pretty good hour of rapid-fire swiftness, sight gags, satire and assorted risqué risibles.

The show is not flawless, of course. It has some now-tired gags about retired Capitol Hill activist Elizabeth Ray and congressional steno pools. And consumerist Ralph Nader offers some lifeless jabs at wicked automakers.

But the proceeding, greatly aided by such new-season regulars as Robin Williams, June Gable, Lenny Schultz and Kim Braden, has a brisker pace and more bite than the two previous "Laugh-In" specials this year.

One bit early in the hour is a quickie classic — a muscular chap flexes his biceps, triceps and possibly his precepts in time to the crashing beat of "The 1812 Overture."

Another good quickie: as the regulars do a ragged dance routine, a sign flits across the screen with the notation, "Choreography by Gerald Ford."

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., who last summer taped a batch of sayings for use in this season's six "Laugh-In" specials, is on hand from time to time to say, "I can dig it."

The one-time presidential candidate also takes oblique note of a British talk show star's $600,000-plus payment to chat with former President Richard M. Nixon. Says the good senator:

"If you see David Frost, you might mention I once handed in someone else's homework when I was in the 10th grade — and I'm ready to talk about it."

Sinatra, who doesn't stay in the studio much of his time, is seen in a quickie one-liner and guest appearance in whatever it is they do on "Old Blue Eyes," including a bit in which he is rumored to feed with gusto, now and then, also gets in a few lines of the enemy, particularly when a "Groans" (June Gable) gives the wood lowdown in a manner akin to that of Miss Rosa Barrett.

Frank is seated on a platform next to a bucket of green paint. Beneath the platform is Miss Groans. You know what happens next. The happening is accompanied by cheers, balloons and myriads of etc.

It's done in the spirit of good fun. Still, Miss Rosa may not think your things about all this. No kidding. John Barbour, the entertainment critic for KNBC-TV here, appears in and contributes gags to tonight's "Laugh-In."

Compromises Seem Inevitable In Energy Proposal

By TOM BAUM

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although President Carter's energy program has faced some tough going on Capitol Hill, its chances for enactment seem to be improving now that some of the smoke of congressional battle has cleared.

And while the president surely won't get everything he asked for, he might end up with more than some allies in Congress have expected.

Senate compromise seems inevitable as a House-Senate conference committee begins a final version of the bill.

For instance, the president's supporters may have to give some in their bid the reputation of his first-year's domestic program has had a hard time from the outset, even in the House.

Those recurring reports that the program sailed through the House nearly intact before being dismantled by the Senate aren't quite accurate.

The House did pass most of the president's proposals, but only after a major reconstruction effort directed by House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill that followed numerous setbacks before House committees and subcommittees.

At one point, a House Commerce subcommittee even voted to scrap Carter's plan keeping price controls on natural gas in favor of a deregulation scheme more sweeping than that eventually voted by the Senate.

With floor action now ended, the same reconstruction effort that O'Neill and his lieutenants managed in the House is being attempted by conference committee leaders.

Rep. Harley Staggers, D-W.Va., the conference committee chairman, said he expects the end result to be the basic Carter energy package. "We've held the line pretty well to this point," he noted.

But he added: "We all have to give a little bit on everything. . . . It's not like a game of marbles where if you get mad at someone or don't like the rules, you pick up your marbles and leave."

"I've said right along that I think we're going to come up with an energy program this year that the president can sign," observed Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Energy Committee.

The negotiating panel has made little progress in that direction thus far — partly because one of its central players, Sen. Russell Long, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, has been missing.

But with Senate action on energy tax legislation now done, the Louisiana Democrat is expected to play a dominant role in shaping the final compromise.

And even though the Senate bill contains mostly tax breaks, Long clearly favors the energy taxes proposed by the president — so long as their revenues can be used as incentives for more energy production and conservation and not related solely to consumers as Carter proposed.

Major fights still remain for conferees. The panel could deadlock over Carter's plan — rejected by the Senate — to force electric utilities to revise their rate structures. And the natural gas pricing issue remains one of the biggest potential stumbling blocks to a compromise bill.

But with Long's arrival at the negotiating table, congressional leaders are hopeful the scattered pieces of Carter's plan may soon be put together again.

Analysis

Keep down the price of natural gas — in a possible step to win approval of Carter's proposed energy laws.

The administration may also have to accept Senate suggestions that tax revenues be spent, at least in part, to encourage greater energy production and mass transit.

And to get its proposed tax on big, gas-thirsty cars, the administration may have to accept a compromise that combines the tax with a Senate-passed ban on the worst-offending autos.

Despite such give-and-take, congressional Democratic leaders seem determined to salvage as much of the Carter plan as possible.

And its central theme — to force conservation of energy by making scarce fuels more expensive and taxing their inefficient use — seems likely to prevail.

Of course, no one ever said it would be easy pushing through Congress a comprehensive national energy bill that raises costs to consumers.

The plan on which Carter has staked

Tomorrow's Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

BOWTIE (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Ambition is a laudable trait, but guard against being overassertive in your quest for success tomorrow. Others will brand you as "pushy."

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Tomorrow you'll depart from your master plan to go off on time-wasting tangents. You could start many things, but you'll finish very few.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Take nothing for granted business-wise tomorrow. Keep a close eye on even those you trust. Double-check their work.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) One thing you'll insist upon is a truly democratic relationship between you and your mate tomorrow. Should this not happen, you let it be known in no uncertain terms.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) A well-intentioned coworker could offer you a helping hand tomorrow. Politely decline. He could help you right into the hospital if you're working with tools.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Tomorrow is the kind of day not to take business risks. Also avoid advising others in fiscal matters unless you're ready to share the blame if they fail.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Tread lightly at home tomorrow. It won't take much to tip the balance from harmony to hostility.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your temper will have a hairspring trigger tomorrow. Take care not to aim it at someone who has befriended you. It could sever the relationship.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Keep a tight rein on anything that has to do with money or resources tomorrow. Carelessness could cause instant, large losses.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll be set on having your own way tomorrow, but it won't be easy if you come across someone equally resolute. The resulting impasse could trigger an explosion.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Someone may be backbiting you tomorrow and you'll be very incensed if you hear about it. Steer clear of confrontation with the miscreant.

Display To Counter Bolshevik Exhibit

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet official Tuesday dismissed the potential impact of an American Jewish counter-exhibit adjacent to the upcoming Soviet exhibit in Los Angeles marking the 60th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution.

"Some unfriendly groups have tried to create a hostile atmosphere," said the official, Boris A. Borisov, in referring to a display planned by the U.S.-based Jewish Federation Council to focus on Soviet discrimination against Jews.

Municipal officials in Los Angeles have agreed to let the Jewish organization rent space in the city's convention center at the same time as the Soviet exhibit is running, Nov. 12-29.

Borisov, head of the Soviet Chamber of Commerce and Industry, said the counter-exhibit would result in "more noise than any actual harm to our interests."

He noted that organizers of the 60th anniversary exhibit — the biggest Soviet show in the United States in the last decade — were able to solve some problems that had threatened to delay the exhibit.

The State Department said last month that it had not intervened in the dispute between the Soviets and Los Angeles officials on permitting the Jewish display within the convention center.

M. James Wilkinson, deputy director for exchanges on the department's consular desk, said the situation involved a "local decision."

Attorneys Will Try To Prove Schools Aided Segregation

tion were closed because enrollment was indeed falling off, the buildings were old and Lubbock had enough other centrally located schools.

Discussion turned to how the school system, during Hill's tenure, decided where to locate new schools.

Gurwin suggested that over the years new schools traditionally had been built on the fringe of Lubbock's population, accommodating or encouraging outward movement of families, particularly whites.

Though some schools have been located in the central part of the city, Gurwin claimed these facilities served specific minority neighborhoods and thus held together concentrations of minority families.

But Hill said the school system's sole purpose was to locate schools where students live.

"I guess the question comes down to what we believe the school district's duty is to use their construction affirmatively to desegregate the school system," Gurwin said.

He said some schools, such as Martin Elementary, could have been located between white and minority areas, to enhance desegregation.

"Desegregation of student bodies or desegregating faculties was not something considered at the time (the Martin school was built)," Gurwin asked.

Film Company Earnings Rise

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A fourfold increase in third quarter earnings of 20th Century Fox Film Corp. has been reported, with the improved results attributed primarily to huge revenues from "Star Wars."

Earnings for the quarter ending Sept. 24 were $31.6 million, or $4.02 a share, Fox said, compared to $7.6 million, or $1.01 a share, for the year-earlier period. Earnings for the full nine months were $40 million, or $5.16 a share, the company said, compared to $5.1 million, or 67 cents a share, in the same period a year ago.

Third quarter revenues rose to $171.5 million from $98.9 million a year earlier. For the nine months, revenues totaled $361.6 million, compared to $259.8 million.

Dennis C. Stanfill, chairman and chief executive officer, said the key element in the greatly improved results was overwhelming public acceptance of "Star Wars." The science fiction film generated about $103 million in film rentals between its May 25 release and the end of the quarter.

Alan Ladd Jr., president of the company's feature film group, said "Star Wars" is continuing to draw well in the United States and that the principal effect of overseas release will be felt in 1978.

and goals of their organization or ways of developing cooperative efforts between it and the county party, with me, any of the vice chairmen or the executive committee," Stevens said.

"This cannot be construed as a cooperative act," Stevens appealed to Republicans not to "squander" an opportunity in the coming election year to recruit members or win offices by "division and internal fighting." Stevens was supported by resolutions introduced by Mel Monte and George Long.

Long's resolution said the executive committee of Lubbock County "does not approve or sanction political or fund raising activities on behalf of the organization, Active Republicans of Lubbock County."

tional Endowment of Humanities. Mexican officials attending will be Foreign Minister Santiago Roel and governors from Mexican border states.

Mrs. Carter will leave in the late afternoon for Louisiana and on Friday will speak in New Orleans before the National Association for the Mentally Retarded.

"I don't remember it being considered," Hill said.

Gurwin also criticized an arrangement under which, until 1965, white students in northeast Lubbock had been bused to Lubbock High School, then a predominantly white campus.

"Obviously these students were closer to Dunbar," an all-black high school at the time, Gurwin said.

Hill could not recall the specific reasons for the arrangement, but suggested that Dunbar may have been overcrowded and Lubbock High had more room for the northeast students.

"That is not the real reason they weren't sent to Dunbar," Gurwin replied. "It is not the room, that is not what we are really talking about."

"The reason they weren't sent to Dunbar and the reason they went all the way past it to Lubbock High was because Dunbar was a black school, isn't that what we're talking about?" he said.

Gurwin also argued that until U.S. Dist. Judge Halbert O. Woodward ordered the desegregation of Dunbar and Struggs in 1970, the school system had done little or nothing voluntarily to increase integration. Hill, however, maintained that some steps had indeed been taken, such as the location of Estacado High School in an integrated area.

The Justice Department is asking Woodward to order a more comprehensive desegregation plan for the Lubbock school system, and to block the proposed construction of schools in predominantly white residential areas outside Loop 289.

The school system argues that it has faithfully followed the 1970 desegregation order and that existing racial concentrations are simply the result of housing patterns. School attorneys say the schools proposed south of the loop are desperately needed.

BENNY GOODMAN

Jazz Musician Schedules Concert At Carnegie Hall

NEW YORK (AP) — Benny Goodman gave a little party to announce that he'll give a concert in Carnegie Hall in January to commemorate the first jazz concert held there 40 years ago.

Goodman also headed that concert — which proved a smashing success — on Jan. 16, 1938. The anniversary concert will be Jan. 17, 1978, because Carnegie already is booked for the 16th.

The King of Swing Tuesday quoted himself talking to his wife. "I said, 'I don't know about 40 years. But I suppose it would be optimistic, really, to wait 50 years.'" She said, "Not optimistic — unrealistic."

Goodman said he'll try to get some of the soloists who played with him in Carnegie in 1938 to appear again in 1978. Ten years ago, he invited them all to his New York apartment for a party. Since, drummer Gene Krupa as well as saxophonists Johnny Hodges and Harry Carney of the Duke Ellington Band, among others who appeared with him then, have died.

He'll have musicians on stage this time who weren't there in '38. Goodman says, "depending on availability. We'll have a fun night."

Officer Captures Escapee, Honor

MEDICINE BOW, Wyo. (UPI) — Wyoming's peace officer of the year couldn't have had a better day Tuesday.

A few hours before he received the award, Peter Muchmore captured an escapee from the state prison.

Muchmore, a Wyoming Game and Fish officer, was elk hunting when he found the escapee and held him for sheriff's officers.

New Product May Replace Wood

By NICK GREGORY
CHICAGO (UPI) — A new substitute for expensive wood furniture construction could stimulate more interest in furniture design than any development in recent years, according to its developer.
 Masonite, developed by Chicago-based Masonite Corp., is made from an old product — fiberboard.
 Its use up to now has been confined to wallboard, but the firm hopes the interest shown by furniture designers and manufacturers will reduce its dependency on the construction industry.
 The Masonite process gives fiberboard a three-dimensional, wood grain appearance through a compressed molding process, which the firm is attempting to patent. The product not only looks and feels like wood, it can be stained or lacquered the same as wood.
 Larry Poe, Masonite vice president in charge of industrial and furniture components, said inquiries have been frequent and from many different sources and may stimulate more interest in furniture design than any development in recent years.

 "The product will give the designer a great deal more flexibility and the customer a wider selection."
 The process embosses the edges to make the product ideal as a replacement for plastic or expensive hardwood for use as table tops, cabinet drawers and drawer fronts.
 "Another strong advantage in the process is that it will allow a manufacturer to mix surfaces for in-lays," Poe said. "A coffee table with a wooden frame can be designed with a top consisting of non-wood inlays — butcher block, cork, linen, slate, burlap or any combination — with the compressed fiberboard."

He said this means that furniture manufacturers can introduce many interesting, intricate and attractive patterns that are "prohibitively expensive to use in pure wood."
 Poe said cost of making molds for the new process is about one-half of that for producing the parts in plastic.
 Masonite expects the new product to be profitable from the start and to become a hefty contributor to the firm's overall financial picture in three to five years.
 Production is scheduled to begin in December when Masonite opens a new 45,000 square foot factory in Oxford, N.C. The firm plans to expand to 200 employees and 125,000 square feet.
 "Two major furniture manufacturers would like to have exclusive rights," Poe said. "That won't happen because this product has wide enough appeal for the entire industry."

But there will be a built-in degree of exclusivity for Masonite customers because each will be required to submit a scale model of any piece they would like to order.
 "We'd make the mold, which would be ours," Poe said. "We wouldn't use it for anyone but the customer who submitted the model and chances of two manufacturers submitting the identical design are virtually non-existent."
 Each mold would allow Masonite to produce hundreds of thousands of parts for repeat orders, Poe said.

Whiskey Firm Plans $40 Million Campaign

By PHILIP GREER and MYRON KANDEL
 The American arm of the world's largest whiskey distilling company, the Canadian-based Seagram's Co., is launching the most aggressive marketing campaign in the history of the liquor industry in an effort to turn around the flagging fortunes of some of this country's best-known whiskeys.
 Seagram Distillers Co. plans to spend $40 million in advertising during the current fiscal year to convince the American public to buy more of its eleven leading brands, particularly Seven Crown blending whiskey, VO and Crown Royal Canadian whiskeys, Seagram's gin and Wolfschmidt vodka. That's double the amount spent the previous year, and it is an unprecedented total, even for the free-spending liquor industry.
 More than half of that expenditure will go for two brands alone — Seven Crown and VO. The blended whiskey is by far the industry leader in its category, with more than a third of the entire market share. Last year, it also was the best-selling brand in the U.S. liquor market as a whole. Despite these distinctions, however, it has been hurt because the overall blended whiskey market has been falling off by an average of about 5 percent a year since 1970, and American tastes have turned more toward the "white goods" of the liquor industry, notably vodka and rum, as well as toward white wine as a cocktail.
 Even Canadian whiskey, which has shown strong growth over the last decade, has been affected by this trend. Last year, for example, Canadian turned in the best performance of all "brown" spirits and yet was off by 2 percent. Here, too, Seagram is the category leader, with VO edging out Hiram Walker's Canadian Club by a 25 percent to 23 percent market share last year.
 Interestingly, the biggest percentage increase in advertising expenditures among the major Seagram brands will go for Wolfschmidt vodka, whose $5 million budget represents a whopping 455 percent increase over last year.
 Marvin R. Shanken, editor and publisher of Impact, a newsletter considered the bible of the wine and liquor industry, reports that the decline in the shipments of distilled spirits that began early last year has been continuing, with a 1.8 percent drop for the first six months of 1977.
 What's most disturbing for the industry, he told us, is the continuing slowdown in the growth rate of white goods (which also include gin and tequila, in addition to vodka and rum). They accounted for 36 percent of total distilled spirits shipments last year. "Without stronger growth from this group, the industry will be in deep trouble," he said.
 Two years ago Shanken was considered a lone voice in the wilderness when he warned that the growing popularity of white wine as a before-dinner cocktail posed a real threat to the liquor industry, even to the growing popularity of vodka, which was then growing by better than 11 percent a year. (For the first six months of this year, Shanken's figures put Vodka's growth at only 2.3 percent.)

 He was particularly criticized for his prediction that wine shipments would soon exceed those of distilled spirits. But Shanken is sticking to his guns, asserting that if the growth rates of the 1970s continue, shipments of wine into trade channels will surpass those of distilled spirits by the end of 1980.
 Meanwhile, the high-stakes jockeying for shares of the liquor market picks up steam as Seagram accelerates its spending and the other industry giants move to meet it.
 American Telephone & Telegraph made quite a stir in Wall Street the week before last with its announcement that it will sell 12 million new shares of stock. It's likely, though, that the move by the communications giant didn't make any friends among its own shareholders.
 At the beginning of October, those investors received their regular quarterly dividend of $1.05 a share. A total of 660,000 investors, who hold more than 124 million shares have chosen not to receive dividends in cash, but rather to have the money automatically invested in AT&T stock, a plan that the company has been encouraging. So those shares were bought for them at about $63 a share, the going price at the time.
 Two weeks later, though, Ma Bell announced its big new sale — at a price of $60 a share. Its own shareholders — who, theoretically, at least, are the owners of the company — were thereby stuffed out of $3 a share in the space of just a few days. The word is that Telephone waited to announce its offering so that the stock price could come closer to its book value of around $56 a share. That made it a more attractive buy for new prospects, but it didn't do much for the oldtimers.

TV Show Schedules President's Mother

ATLANTA (AP) — Television interview show host Phil Donahue says Lillian Carter, the president's mother, told Donahue he talked too much. But she still agreed to be on his show.
 Miss Lillian was scheduled to tape a show with Donahue in Atlanta today. Donahue said he called Miss Lillian at her Plains, Ga., home to invite her to appear on the syndicated show and got an unusual, but kind, response:
 "Miss Lillian, I said, 'I know you are very busy, but I'd be grateful if I could get into your schedule. I know you have a lot of other things to do, and I promise not to be a bother to you, but if there is any way you could possibly see your way clear to...' I never finished the sentence."
 "She said, 'Phil, you're talking too much.'"

PROTECT THE PAINT ON YOUR CAR WITH POLYGYLCOAT. The revolutionary new protective sealant that is not a wax or polish and can only be applied by your new car dealer. GUARANTEED FOR THREE FULL YEARS—Your auto purchase today is a necessity. Buy with the future in mind. POLYGYLCOAT PRESERVES! NO NEED TO EVER WAX YOUR CAR AGAIN!

Polygylocoat is a paint and chrome sealant finish—guaranteed to protect your car against fading, corrosion, oxidation, and loss of gloss for three years. Comprised of Dow 500, paraffin, silicone, with a kerogene base, Polygylocoat breaks through the tiny paint pores in the surface and penetrates 2-3 layers into the paint sealing it and shedding it against the foreign elements that cause corrosion, rust, and loss of gloss.

Not only will Polygylocoat eliminate the need for waxing, but it will virtually maintain your car's showroom finish, thereby enhancing resale potential. It should be applied to all new cars and properly prepared used cars. KEEPS YOUR PAINT AND CHROME LIKE NEW!

Tech Not Same
Without Rodney

STEVE SLOAN, USUALLY able to put up an excellent public front after defeats, was noticeably more subdued after Texas Tech's loss to Texas A&M, in which outstanding quarterback Rodney Allison was injured.

"I'll tell you," he said slowly. "Losing Rodney really hurts."

Indeed, Tech hasn't been the same since he's been sidelined, although it won three straight games at one point during his absence.

No team, particularly a successful one, can be a one-man team—especially not in football, which employs 11 offensive and 11 defensive players on each club.

However, one player has made a gigantic difference in some cases, and Allison has done it for Tech. The Raiders have other good players, but Allison is the spark, the great player who gives his team a lift with his accomplishments and leadership. His loss has been felt greatly.

Another example is the case of Texas' Earl Campbell last season. He pulled a hamstring before the season and wasn't healthy the entire year. With him hobbled, Texas was 5-5-1. With him, the Longhorns would probably have been 8-3 or 9-2. They lost one game by one point, one by three, one by 10 and tied another. There's little question that a player with Campbell's ability would have made the difference in at least three of those games.

THE GREAT PLAYER like this not only gains yards, scores points or makes tackles for his team, but he gives it a mental boost, too. When he's playing, his team is uplifted. When he's sidelined, the opposite effect occurs.

"You wouldn't believe the gloom that fell over practice the Saturday that Earl first hurt his hamstring," a person close to the UT situation said. "It was that different without him."

Tech found itself at the opposite end of the spectrum Saturday against Texas. Allison entered the game with 9:15 remaining in the first half, his first action since the A&M contest. The crowd reaction was prompt and vociferous. The mere entrance of one player into a game doesn't often stir a reaction of the sort Allison's evoked.

Most of the fans—Texas and Tech, alike—stood. Tech fans nearly went crazy. Longhorn players that had been sitting on the bench suddenly moved to the sideline to watch the action.

More importantly for the Raiders, Allison sparked his teammates, who hadn't done much offensively up to that point. The players crowded around him in the huddle and seemingly couldn't wait to get to the line of scrimmage.

There was a little extra bounce in their steps, a bit more quickness in their movements. They promptly marched to the Texas six-yard line before being halted by a holding penalty and Allison's fumble. But the error didn't really tarnish Allison's reputation. In his only four plays of the game, he had demonstrated his intrinsic value to the team.

"WE WERE ALL pretty tired before he came in because it was hot," Tech center Terry Anderson said, "but we suddenly got enthused when he came in. It seemed that we all got a spark of energy, even though he wasn't in there for that many plays."

Flanker Brian Nelson remarked, "I was tired, but I kind of got my second wind when he came in. Everybody in the huddle was saying 'All right. It's time to go now.'"

Both players singled out Allison's leadership capability as being one of his strongest assets.

"It's a tough thing to pinpoint, but he just takes charge when he's in there," Nelson said. "He such a big leader. We all respect him."

Anderson, a senior who is starting for the third season, said, "We've all been waiting for him to come back. Tres (Adami) and (Mark) Johnson have done a good job, but Rodney is such a leader. His experience and poise under pressure kind of set him apart from others. We lost his confidence and leadership when he got hurt."

"I don't think we expect too much out of him. We don't expect him to win the game by himself. And we certainly don't block any less hard for anybody else who's in there. But there's just something about him—you expect something to happen when he's in there."

Bluebonnet Bowl To Scout Tech

HOUSTON (AP) — Bluebonnet Bowl representatives will scout eight college games this week to search for participants for the Dec. 31 post-season football game in the Astrodome.

Officials said games scouts will attend include Houston-Texas, Baylor-Arkansas, TCU-Texas Tech, Oklahoma-Oklahoma State, Alabama-LSU, Colorado-Iowa State, Nebraska-Missouri and Georgia Tech-Notre Dame.

Nebraska edged Tech 27-24 in last year's game.

Bids for 1977-78 post-season games cannot be extended or accepted before 6 p.m. CST Nov. 19.

Carlton Nabs NL Cy Young Award

NEW YORK (AP) — Steve Carlton, the lefthander who parlayed power and finesse into 23 victories for the Philadelphia Phillies in 1977, was named winner of the Cy Young Award today as the National League's outstanding pitcher.

It was the second time Carlton has won the honor, awarded annually to the outstanding pitcher in each league after a vote of a committee of members of the Baseball Writers Association of America, two from each league city. He also won it in 1972.

Carlton, the major leagues' winningest pitcher who compiled a 23-10 record in leading the Phillies to the East Division title, was an easy winner in the Cy Young balloting, receiving 17 of 24 first-place votes and 104 points.

Tommy John of the West Division champion Los Angeles Dodgers was second with 54 points, including three first-place votes. Tom Seaver of Cincinnati and Rick Reuschel of Chicago tied for third with 18 points each, Seaver getting two first-place votes and Reuschel one.

Others receiving votes were Pittsburgh's John Candelaria, 17 points and one first-place mention, and Chicago's Bruce Sutter, a relief pitcher, five points.

Five points are awarded for a first-place vote, three for a second and one for a third.

The American League Cy Young Award winner, announced last week, was relief pitcher Sparky Lyle of the world champion New York Yankees.

The 32-year-old Carlton is the sixth pitcher in baseball history to win the Cy Young Award more than once. Seaver, Sandy Koufax and Jim Palmer each have won it three times, Bob Gibson won it twice and Denny McLain won it once and shared it once. The award was instituted in 1956, and in 1967 the baseball writers began making separate awards for each league.

Carlton is currently on a three-week hunting expedition in British Columbia, Canada, a spokesman for the Phillies said.

Phillies Manager Danny Ozark, from his home in Vero Beach, Fla., said he felt Carlton would get the award "from September on. He was pitching that well. He won some big games for me."

After winning 27 games in 1972, Carlton tailed off to three mediocre seasons — 13-20, 16-13, 15-14 — in Ozark's first three years as manager of the Phils. But last year he bounced back to 20-7, and he topped that this summer.

Ozark attributes the comeback to the Phils' reacquisition late in 1975 of veteran Tim McCarver, who has become Carlton's designated catcher.

"I think Steve has a lot of confidence in him as far as his ability in calling pitches," Ozark said of McCarver. "That helped Steve. It took some of the burden off him."

"He wanted to pitch and win and show everyone he was the Steve Carlton of five years ago. I don't think there was any time this year he went after the Cy Young. He just went out there and concentrated on being a good pitcher."

As his designated catcher, McCarver was perhaps more familiar with Carlton's moundwork than anyone else.

"The big guy used to overpower the hitters with that hopping fast ball," he said. "Now he still overpowers them, but he also gets them out with finesse. It makes no difference what he throws. He can get them all over the plate, and that's why he's such a great pitcher."

The sight of the 6-foot-5, 210-pound Carlton on the mound is a frightening one to National League hitters, particularly those who bat from the left side of the plate. "Hitting against Carlton is like trying to eat soup with a fork," is the way Pittsburgh Pirates slugger Willie Stargell puts it.

Windham Boys Top List

By WALT McALEXANDER
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
A brother act and a pair of defensive specialists head The Avalanche-Journal's weekly area honor roll list.
Lazbuddie's Mike Windham and Russell Windham, along with Kress' Carlos Amador and Sudan's Lonnie Williams, played major roles in their team's victories last week.
Both Windhams are 6-0, 155, but senior Mike carried 16 times for 161 yards and three TDs and had a 2-point conversion run in a 55-7 romp over Siverton. Then on defense, the safety had two unassisted tackles, 11 assists, and carried back an intercepted pass 35 yards to the 2-yard line to set up another Longhorn score.

Freshman Russell caught two passes for 77 yards and a TD as well as carrying four times for 30 yards. From his middle linebacker post, he had eight unassisted tackles, 15 assists and recovered a fumble.
Amador, a 5-10, 198-pound defensive tackle, had his personal high with 24 tackles in a 19-6 win over Bovina. Amador, who doubles as the Kangaroo center, has managed at least 13 tackles in every game this year.

Williams, an all-stater last year, continued to anchor Sudan's line from his nose-guard berth. In just over two quarters of action in a 69-6 romp over Smyer, he had nine assists, eight unassisted tackles and caused two fumbles.
Others with top performances last week include:
Sudan runningbacks Joel Williams and John Miles both went over the 1,000-yard barrier. Williams has 1,062 yards and an 8.2 average and Miles has 1,041 yards and an 8.3 norm. Both had nine carries against Smyer, with Miles getting 122 yards and Williams 102.

Crosbyton's Marvin Wiley had 25 carries for 162 yards and one TD in a 21-7 win over Hale Center. Junior halfback Kelly Feree had 13 carries for 93 yards and had punts of 40, 51 and 62 yards against the Owls.
Petersburg's Mike Jones was limited to 137 yards and one TD in a 23-14 win over New Deal but upped his season's rushing total to 1,623 yards and his point total to 130.
Whitharral quarterback Jimmy Don Polk carried 17 times for 162 yards and hit 14 of 22 passes for 232 more yards and accounted for five TDs in a 45-43 loss to Cotton Center.
Three Way's Albert Rand blasted for seven TDs and had 241 yards on 14 carries in a 75-29 victory over Grady that was called at halftime because of the 46-point rule.
Plainview's Royce Coleman had 111 yards on 11 carries including a 37-yard TD gallop in a 39-6 romp over Pampa.
Ropes' Gary Means booted field goals of 15 and 22 yards, scored on a 9-yard run and booted three PATs in a 28-0 victory over Anton.
Eunice's Kevin Davidson carried 25 times for 118 yards in an 18-14 win over Jal. Jal's Ricky Jennings had 17 carries for 106 yards and two TDs.
Post's Randy Baker tallied TDs on gallops of 3, 9 and 99 yards in a 20-6 win over Post and also caught a 31-yard pass which helped set up one of the shorter runs.
Danny Clark of Lockney carried 19 times for 120 yards including a 66-yard TD burst in an 18-17 loss to Tulia.
Hobbs' Roy Gomez managed 106 yards on 16 carries including TD gallops of 19 and 50 yards in a 31-14 victory over Roswell Goddard.
Derwin Huseman rushed for 157 yards and scored on a 20-yard run as Nazareth upset Valley 14-6. Huseman had missed the two previous games with injuries.
Clay Freeman neared the 1,400-yard mark and scored three TDs as Loop blizztered Bethel Christian 64-19.
Rudolph Smith sparked Littlefield with 130 yards and one TD on 19 carries and Raymond Baiza had 24 totes for 82 yards and two scores as the Wildcats blanked Olton 33-0.
Jeff Whiteside rambled for 154 yards on 12 tries and Glen London had 18 for 115 in Fritona's 13-7 upset over Muleshoe.
Dimmitt's Jack Stewart hit only three of 10 passes in a 28-14 win over Morton, but all three went for TDs and accounted for 201 yards. Stewart's tosses went 56 yards to Robin Touchstone, 81 yards to Thompson Mayberry and 64 yards to Reggie Washington.
Borden County's Craig Peterson scored five TDs and ran across two PATs, gaining 68 yards, and caught 38-yard TD pass.

Seagraves Coach Feels Staying No. 1 'Tough'

Seagraves is rolling along undefeated through eight games of the 1977 season and closing in on its fourth consecutive district championship.
However, coach Jim Eddins is taking nothing for granted right now, especially with Plains looming just ahead.
Eddins said he was definitely surprised that Stanton, a team Seagraves beat 27-7, could score 25 points on Plains (in a 25-0 win last week). "but they did."
Winner of the Plains-Seagraves tilt the past five years has captured the league crown. "It's always a good game when our two schools get together," Eddins said, "and it doesn't make any difference who's favored."
"The last six years, with maybe one exception, the games have been extremely close."
In those last five games, Plains won 7-0 and 8-6 in 1972 and 1973, then Seagraves took over, winning 22-2 in 1974, 55-7 in 1975 and 20-14 last year, when Plains entered the game undefeated.
The Eagles have been No. 1 ranked in both state wire-service polls most of the year. "I'm happy that the people think enough of us to rate us No. 1," Eddins said, "but actually, as far as we're concerned, it's made it tough. Everyone has played us tough. Now the scores may not indicate that, but everyone seems to give that little extra when they play Seagraves."

Eddins feels his Eagles may have a little more depth now that at the beginning of the year. And the main reason is that he had to juggle the lineup because of injuries.
"We haven't had any major injuries, but we had a couple of nagging-type injuries early and had to do some switching, and that has given us more depth. Also, we've moved a couple of kids up off the JV, and that's helped."
"Our offensive line was inexperienced at the first of the year even though all seniors are playing there. But only David Welch at left guard and Wesley Smith at right end started last year."
"And, to my way of thinking, the offensive line is the hardest place to play in football."
"Right now, because of the line's maturity, we have been able to move the ball fairly well and that's probably the biggest reason we've enjoyed the success we have this year. We've given up quite a few points, but our defense is playing a little better now than it did earlier and it's because of the whole unit."

"But this game (Plains) is important to both clubs. They can force a possible three-way tie by beating us and, even if we win Friday and O'Donnell beats Stanton—which could happen—then we'd have to win that last game to represent the league."

MIKE JONES

Petersburg's Jones Retains Scoring Lead

Mike Jones only managed one TD last week yet managed to hang onto his area scoring leadership. In fact, he increased his pad over runner-up Jerry Lee of Motley County from 1 to 7 points.
The Petersburg junior now has 130 points on the season and is also the area's top rusher with 1,623 yards, despite getting only 137 yards in a 23-14 win over New Deal last week.
Clifford Bailey jumped from fifth to third in the scoring race as the Tahoka junior—also well over 1,400 yards rushing for the season—scored three times in a 28-7 win over Cooper.
But Three Way's Albert Rand continues to be the big scorer on the South Plains. He had a seven-TD performance in a 75-29 homecoming victory over Grady and now has 229 points on the year. His nearest rival in the six-man world is Loop's Clay Freeman, who had 133.

Rare Black Marlin Wins Fishing Title

HONOLULU (AP) — David Rockett hooked a rare fish to win first place in the Lahaina Yacht Club fishing championship off the island of Maui — a 559 1/2-pound black marlin, considered a rarity in Hawaiian waters.
Rockett's catch was by far the biggest of the tournament. It was more than 200 pounds heavier than the next best, a 321-pound blue marlin.
A black marlin weighing 559 pounds is rare at this time of year, said a spokesman for the local billfish association. The last one caught off Hawaiian waters was 394 pounds.

"There's no doubt about it, he controlled the ball game last Friday night." And that's right from the coach's mouth.

The man doing the praising is Estacado mentor Louis Kelley, the praisee is Matador linebacker Mike Chatham, the Avalanche-Journal's defensive back of the week.

Chatham, who sat out the past three games with an ankle injury suffered against Monterey, had 12 unassisted tackles as he roamed from sideline-to-side-line, end zone-to-end zone and locker room-to-locker room hitting everything that moved during the Mats' 21-14 have-to win over Snyder.

The victory keeps the Matadors tied with Dunbar for second place in the District 3-AAA chase, only one step behind league-leading Lake View.

Yep, the win was a big one all right. And Chatham played an important role in it, claims the coach.

"We are really pleased with the way he (Chatham) came off that injury and played against Snyder," Kelly said, adding that the 195-pounder would probably see some action at quarterback Friday night in Sweetwater—which indicates Chatham has recovered completely from the ankle injury.

"If Mike hadn't been hurt he would have been starting at quarterback all along for us," Kelley said.

Kelley pointed out that Chatham, a rugged tackler who can take the hard knocks just as well as he can deliver them, is one of the more valuable players on the team despite being only a junior.

"We are glad he's back and no one else has him," Kelley said. "He is just a versatile athlete. He can play anyone of seven positions really well."

Also nominated by local coaches for the honor were Coronado's Richard Brown, who had one interception; Monterey's Mike Wooten, one interception and eight tackles; Christ the King's Edward Robless, one interception and five unassisted tackles; Dunbar's Daryl Green, one interception and six tackles; Lubbock High's Jimmy Garza, two interceptions and four tackles and Lubbock Christian's Shawn Williams, one interception.

Garnering the offensive lineman of the week award is Gregory Cooks of Dunbar.

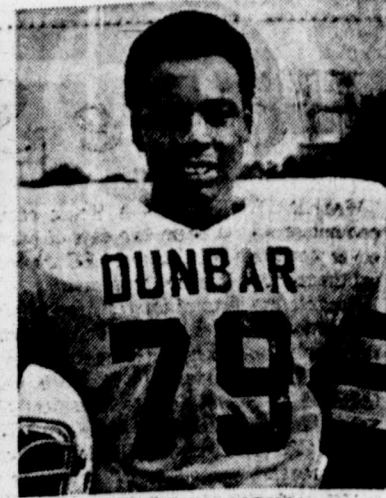

"Gregory really came around this week and played a great game for us," coach Van Jefferson said.

Also cited were Shawn Williams of LCHS, Jim McGann of CTK, Larry DeLeon of LHS, Mitchell Harris of Estacado, last week's winner George Morris of Monterey and Ben Poliard of Coronado.

George Tellez of Lubbock High collected eight unassisted tackles and two quarterback traps during the Westerner's heart-stopping win over Hereford to garner the defensive lineman honor.

House Subcommittee To Delve Into TV Sports

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House communications subcommittee was to begin two days of hearings today to discover whether ABC, CBS and NBC are covering or controlling the sports events they broadcast.

Possible conflicts of interest, sports event scheduling to accommodate television and TV's advertising and promotional policies are subjects being studied by the panel.

Alvin Rush, president of NBC sports, was to testify today, followed by Rooney Arledge, president of ABC News and Sports, and sportscaster Howard Cosell. Bob Wussler, president of CBS sports, is scheduled for Thursday morning.

"In general, we will try to determine whether the networks have become so involved with arranging, promoting and scheduling sports events that they in effect, have come to control these events," said Rep. Lionel Van Deerling, D-Calif., the subcommittee's chairman.

"In other words," he said, "is the public seeing an independent event covered by electronic journalists or an event staged for and controlled by television?"

Among the areas to be probed by the 14-member panel are whether there is a conflict of interest in a network having an exclusive contract with a fighter.

For example, ABC and CBS have exclusive contracts with Olympic champions Sugar Ray Leonard and Howard Davis, respectively.

"What do these contracts mean in terms of coverage?" asked a subcommittee staff member who is working on the probe.

"Do the networks favor putting their own fighters on the air over others? Doesn't the constant exposure build up the fighter whether he deserves it or not?" he asked.

Another area of conflict, the staffer said, is the televising of college football.

He cited allegations that ABC, which has the college television contract, persuaded last year's national champion Pittsburgh to choose to compete in the Sugar Bowl, which ABC televised, in exchange for payments and provisions of additional appearances in future years.

He said the committee also wants to question the networks on the changing in times and sites and even the nature of an event for television.

As examples, the subcommittee staff member indicated that NBC changed the nature of the Muhammad Ali-Earnie Shavers fight by giving round-by-round scoring to the home audience but not the live crowd.

He also said the committee wanted to know ABC's role in the fourth game of the National League playoffs between Philadelphia and Los Angeles that was played in a steady downpour.

On the anthology series, such as ABC's "Wide World of Sports," which each network now has or will have soon, the committee wants to know if the events are shortened for television, how old they are and whether special arrangements are made for TV, such as adding the voices of the announcers after the event is over.

On the advertising policies, the committee wants to know if the networks advertise that a contestant will appear on television in an event, such as a golf or tennis match, to build up the audience when they know the celebrity is not.

Scorecard/Tuesday

TENNIS

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. — Top-seeded Chris Evert was upset by eighth-seeded Dianne Fromholtz 7-6, 6-4 in the first round of a $25,000 round-robin tennis tournament. The first and only service break of the match was recorded in the second set when Miss Fromholtz broke Miss Evert's serve to take a 4-2 lead. Miss Fromholtz won the tiebreaker in the first set 5-4. She trailed the tiebreaker 31-until rallying for three straight points.

Miss Evert then evened the match, but Miss Fromholtz won the final point when Miss Evert hit the ball into the net following a disputed baseline call.

In later matches, Wimbledon champion Virginia Wade of Britain defeated Martina Navratilova of Dallas 7-5 and Wendy Turnbull defeated Betty Stove of the Netherlands 7-6.

BUENOS AIRES — Betsy Nagelsen of Chicago beat Flavia Pennetta 6-4, 7-6 in the first round of the $10,000 Argentine River Plate tennis tournament. Argentina's No. 1 woman player, Beatriz Arango, defeated Jane Stratton of Salt Lake City 6-7, 6-2, 6-4 and Viviane Costello of Argentina downed Romanian Virginia Ruzici 7-6, 6-2. In both Miss Ruzici defaulted with a leg cramp.

TOKYO — Top-seeded Manuel Orantes of Spain beat Marty Riessen 6-3, 6-1 in first round play of the $100,000 Fred Perry Japan Open tennis championships.

In another first round match, Hank Pfister defeated MacLara de Mexico 7-6, 6-4.

In second round action, third-seeded Harold Solomon overpowered Pat Dupre 6-3, 6-2, fourth-seeded Roscoe Tanner ousted Jan Couillie of France 6-4, 6-2 and No. 8 Kim Warwick of Australia defeated Ono Paron of New Zealand 7-4, 1-6, 6-4.

COLOGNE, West Germany — Bjorn Borg of Sweden crushed countryman Kjell Johansson 6-2, 6-2 in the first round of the $50,000 Cologne Grand Prix tennis tournament. In other matches, John Feaver of Britain upset eighth-seeded Charles Pasarell 6-3, 2-6, 6-4. Belasi Terich of Hungary beat Jon Yull of South Africa 6-3, 6-4 and Buster Mottram of Britain beat Erik Dillen 6-4, 7-6.

FOOTBALL

OKLAHOMA, Calif. — Greg Cole, a 17-year-old high school football player, died of injuries suffered to a game last Saturday. St. John's Hospital officials said Cole, a 6-foot-3, 220-pound senior tackle for Agoura High School, died of a blood clot on the brain, officials said.

Cole was injured in his school's game against Channel Islands High School. He made a tackle, seemed stunned, but made it to the sidelines. He collapsed moments later and was taken to the hospital, where tests disclosed that he was hemorrhaging.

of the Florida State League. Placed on the roster: Joe Keener, Don DeMoko and Gerald Hannans, pitchers. Sent Dave Gronlund and Jeff Terpo, pitchers, to Denver.

HOCKEY

OAKLAND STOMPERS — Named R.C. Owens as director of marketing and promotions.

THE COSMOS — Signed David Brice and Rickie Davis.

FOOTBALL

MINNESOTA VIKINGS — Signed Manfred Moore, kick returner.

SEATTLE SEAHAWKS — Signed Fred Reyle, tight end.

WASHINGTON REDSKINS — Signed Joe Theismann, quarterback, to a multi-year contract.

HOCKEY

PHILADELPHIA FLYERS — Purchased Terry Murray, defenseman, from the Detroit Red Wings. Reassigned Denny Clark, defenseman, to Milwaukee of the International Hockey League.

ST. LOUIS BLUES — Acquired Inge Hammarstrom, forward, from the Toronto Maple Leafs in exchange for Jerry Butler, forward. Sent Yves Boucher, goaltender, to the Salt Lake of the Central Hockey League.

Crosby Records Shocker

By The Associated Press

Defending state AAA champion Beaumont Hebert's 23-game winning streak came to an end and Decatur, ranked No. 4 in AA, lost to No. 6 Jacksboro, but the rest of the teams in The Associated Press Schoolboy Football poll followed the form charts last week.

Port Neches-Groves in AAAA, Gregory-Portland in AAA, Bellville in AA, Seagraves in A and Wheeler in B all easily retained their places atop their divisions.

Crosby provided the biggest shocker of the week's games, upending Hebert 6-0 after losing 72-16 last year in the first meeting ever between the two teams.

Decatur took its upbeaten record and slight fortunes' role against No. 6-ranked Jacksboro but lost out 16-13.

Neither however, dropped out of the rankings and no newcomers made it in.

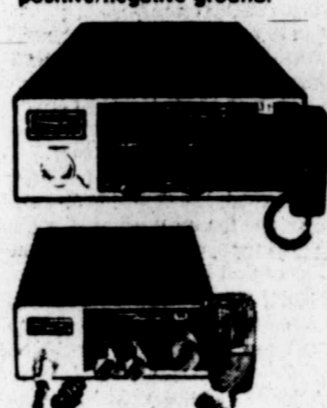

Hebert, which zipped to an unbeaten record last season and was 7-0 prior to last week's game, dropped from seventh to 10th following its 6-0 loss. Hebert reached Crosby's 12-yard line with 3:24 in the game but fumbled away its last chance.

Decatur fell from fourth to ninth after its narrow loss to Jacksboro, which jumped to fourth this week.

Port Neches-Groves, which had an open date last week, polled 13 of 18 first place votes. Runner-up Temple had one first place vote.

PERKINS

Giants Still Pro Team?

By MICKEY HERSKOWITZ And STEVE PERKINS

Q. Can you please tell me what is going on with the New York Giants? They just beat San Francisco, another great team, and threw only six passes. This is pro football? Also, has a Giants' team ever thrown so few passes? What is the NFL record for fewest passes by a team?

— Hal Feinlayson, Passaic, N.J.

A. The Giants, at the moment, are only technically in pro football, after being mismanaged for the past 18 years from the top man down to the waterboy. The idea against San Francisco was for the Giants not to beat themselves, because they knew the 49ers couldn't do it without help. They were barely right.

Back in 1955, the Giants threw only seven passes in a game. The record is zero passes, which has happened six times in NFL history, the last being Green Bay against Chicago in 1949.

Q. Although nothing was reported in our local papers, as the papers are pro "the big dead machine," didn't Steve Garvey tie a major league record for the most extra base hits in a nine-inning game, on August 16?

— L. L. LaDaha, Louisville, Ky.

A. The date was August 28 and Garvey had three doubles and two home runs. The record is listed under "long hits," and the feat had been accomplished only three other times since the turn of the century:

Joe Adcock, four homers and a double; Lou Boudreau, four doubles and a homer; and Willie Stargell in 1970 with two homers and three doubles.

Q. I have been a fan of Nolan Ryan a long time and would like to know how many career strikeouts he has, and also where he stands on the all-time strikeout list.

— Tom M. Coche, Longview

A. Ryan has 2,426 strikeouts to date. This puts him 15th on the all-time list. You may be able to see more of Ryan next summer. The Texas Rangers will try mightily this off-season to trade for his services.

Q. Can you tell me anything about LSU halfback Charles Alexander and how he rates with pro scouts against the other college runners?

— Estelle Whiting, Alexandria, La.

A. In Baton Rouge, as you may know, they call him "Alexander the Great." He is truly regarded as the finest Tiger runner since Billy Cannon in 1957-59. Alexander is 6 foot 2 inches and 214 pounds and he runs the 40-yard dash in 4.4 seconds. This is Tony Dorsett speed.

Alexander is from Texas' Galveston Ball high school. Earl Campbell of Texas and Terry Miller of Oklahoma State will be the first two runningbacks drafted in the NFL, but some scouting combines place Alexander ahead of Miller as a pro prospect.

Q. Whatever happened to Royal Ski, the $1 million two-year-old? The last I heard he was injured. Is he retired?

— Sammy Benton, Portland, Ore.

Royal Ski is still racing, but not very well. He ran at Belmont this season. He suffered the equine equivalent of shin splints, and had never come back to his early form.

'Ringer' Case Could Involve 90 Animals

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP) — The State Racing and Wagering Board was expected to fly several key witnesses here from Uruguay today or Thursday to testify in the mushrooming and complex New York race horse switch scandal.

The scandal already has resulted in the indefinite suspension of veterinarian Dr. Mark Gerard over the alleged substitution of Uruguayan stakes winner Cinzano for the less successful Lebon. And on Tuesday, the Racing and Wagering Board revealed that two Argentine imports — Chirico and Sundoro — might be "ringers."

It also was learned Tuesday that the Racing and Wagering Board was investigating the alleged substitution of stakes-winning Enchumao — reportedly owned at one time by Dr. Gerard and his wife — for As de Pique II.

That brought to six the number of horses known to be involved in an investigation that might encompass as many as 90 animals.

The whole thing began when the Racing and Wagering Board accused Dr. Gerard of killing a South American horse named Lebon on June 12 and running a faster horse at Belmont Park under the same name. That horse was believed to be Cinzano, but state officials still are trying to make a positive identification.

On Sept. 23 at Belmont, Lebon won at odds of 57-1 and Dr. Gerard's attorneys admitted he won a big bet on the race. One bettor reportedly won more than $78,000.

On Tuesday, State Supreme Court Judge Theodore Velsor listened to 1 1/2 hours of testimony before refusing to grant Dr. Gerard an injunction. He also reserved a decision on whether to order a full hearing for Dr. Gerard before the Racing and Wagering Board.

Both Lebon and As de Pique II are under heavy guard — Lebon at Belmont and As de Pique II at a farm in New Jersey — and the New York Daily News said a decision would be made today whether to do the same with Chirico and Sundoro, both stabled at Belmont Park.

"We just don't want Chirico and Sundoro racing," the New York Times quoted a Racing and Wagering Board spokesman as saying. "We're keeping an eye on them."

Tour Golfers Seek Longer Playing Year

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (AP) — Instead of shorter, the pro golf tour may be getting longer.

The PGA Tour Policy Board rejected a controversial proposal that would have ended the long schedule with the World Series of Golf around Oct. 1.

Instead, in a meeting Tuesday held before the start of the $200,000 Walt Disney World National Team Championship, the board established a policy of "continuing to entertain sponsors or communities wishing to come on the tour," Commissioner Deane Beman said.

The proposal, which originated in the Commissioner's office, would have ended the tour with the World Series of Golf. Any events after that would have been unofficial. The proposal was vigorously opposed by most touring pros.

"The board decided to take no action to terminate the tour at any early date," Beman said.

Instead, the board decided to pursue a policy, in effect for the last 15 months, of adding official events to the schedule if responsible sponsors are willing to take dates in the fall not already filled.

"From a potentially shorter season," Beman said, "we're looking at a potentially longer season."

The tour, with about 44 official events, now runs from the first week in January through the first week in November.

The board also ordered a feasibility study of the purchase of land in Jacksonville, Fla. and the construction of a golf course to be the permanent site of the annual Tournament Players Championship.

The board also reduced from three to two the number of years a player can claim an exemption from his position on the top 50 all-time money-winning list; made holders of lifetime exemptions subject to review of their playing rights; raised from $7,000 to $10,000 the amount of annual winnings necessary to retain playing rights; and established a special "life membership" category for certain players.

Islanders Douse Flames

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — This was during the strategy session before the Atlanta Flames went out to play the New York Islanders. "Watch out for Trotter in the slot," someone said.

The words fell on deaf ears. Bryan Trotter scored four goals — all from 15 feet or less — and added an assist as the Islanders overwhelmed the Flames 9-0 Tuesday night.

This was during the pregame strategy session in the New York dressing room. "We gotta bang some bodies," said Clark Gillies, the left wing on Trotter's line. Everyone knew the team wasn't hitting enough and their style of play was suffering as a result.

These words did not go unheeded. Within moments, Trotter put a solid hit on John Gould in the defensive corner; Denis Potvin pounded Tom Lysiak in the neutral zone; Bob Nystrom hammered Miles Zaharko into the offensive boards.

"And things," said New York Coach Al Arbour, "started to fall into place."

The puck started falling into the net for the Islanders just 1:49 after the opening faceoff when Nystrom swatted J.P. Parise's centering pass past Flames goalie Phil Myre.

At 8:10 Paris, with every cooperation from the Atlanta defense, swept in from the sideboards and scored on a 20-foot backhand. Jean Potvin made it 3-0 just 46 seconds later with a 50-foot slapshot.

But then, the crowd of 14,702 would learn, the show belonged to Trotter — very simply the most spectacular unspectacular player in the National Hockey League.

Trotter took a pass from Gillies and skated down the center. Flames defenseman Richard Mulhern gripped his left arm, so Trotter shot with his right — shovelling a 15-foot shot past Myre and making it look as though everyone can score on one-handed shots.

Then he tapped in a Bossy pass for a 5-0 lead and after Bossy had made it 6-0, Trotter captured the puck behind the Atlanta net, skated in front and sent the rebound of his four-foot shot past Myre.

"The slot area. You've got to watch him there," a weary Myre said later.

"Tonight, we obviously didn't."

He made it 8-0 in the third period, another four-footer, then tried to convince people that "I wasn't working hard. The puck was bouncing my way. Things were happening, that's all."

"Unfortunately, Atlanta just couldn't get anything going," he said. "When they tried, we took it away from them."

Maybe that's because the Islanders practiced what they preached in their pregame strategy session. Maybe that's because the Trotter-Gillies-Bossy line finished the night with 13 points: Bossy had a goal and four assists and Gillies three assists.

Maybe that's because Bryan Trotter simply is one of the hottest players in the NHL right now with 12 points in the last six games. It's no coincidence that the Islanders are unbeaten in their last seven.

The triumph extended New York's domination of Atlanta. Of the last 17 games the teams have played dating back to Dec. 28, 1974, the Islanders have won eight and tied eight, losing only once.

Many of the previous games were close. Tuesday night was no contest.

By the time it was 8-4, New York goalie Billy Smith decided enough was enough. Swedish import Goran Hogosta needed the work more than Smith needed the shutout.

So Smith went to Arbour after two periods — it was 7-0 by then — and said, "He (Hogosta) hasn't played yet. Why not give him a chance? There may not be another one for a long time."

Blues 7, Kings 3

Garry Unger scored three goals to give St. Louis its first victory of the season after eight losses and a tie. Hockey's iron man, he's played 733 games in a row, said, "I just figured, 'Well, why not? Everything else hasn't worked, so we might as well try the old style.'"

"We'd been skating around all over the place. By the time I got the puck I was too tired to do anything with it. Tonight I figured I'd just shoot and the heck with the extra play."

So he scored on three of his five shots and got the Blues on the winning track.

Schramm Offers Suggestioins On Officiating

DALLAS (UPI) — It's always open season on officials in the National Football League and from the inner sanctum of the Dallas Cowboys Tuesday Tex Schramm said it was time the league did something to correct the situation.

The always touchy subject of officials arose because of comments made in Houston the day before by Oilers coach Bum Phillips about a call he felt cost his team a victory against the Cincinnati Bengals.

"Phillips said he thought it was time the NFL hired full-time officials to improve the quality of the profession. Schramm, the Cowboys general manager, said he did not agree with that, but did say something ought to be done.

"I think we need to change our approach in the way officials are trained, graded, hired and fired," said Schramm. "I don't feel sufficient work is being done in this regard.

"And the league officials are aware of my feelings on this. Sometimes it's not the guys doing the job who are at fault, but the guys doing the hiring."

Does this mean Schramm thinks the NFL game officials are not held accountable enough for their actions?

"That's right, they should be held more accountable," he said. "By and large our officials do a darn good job. But maybe 80 per cent of the officials are taking the rap for what 20 per cent are doing.

"I think they are all trying. But it's like in anything else. Some people are more capable of doing the job than others. Some are better at working under stress, some are better at making quick decisions and some people are going to have a higher percentage of accuracy.

"I think when officials make mistakes that should be given some consideration and when they make the right decision in a tough situation that should be given consideration, too."

Schramm, therefore, thinks the league should do a better job of weeding out officials who have demonstrated they cannot perform under pressure. But he is not one of the instant replay advocates.

"In watching the replay of the Cincinnati-Pittsburgh game that resulted in the suspension of Melvin Morgan, I thought the incident involving Mel Blount was no different than that of Morgan's," Schramm said.

"But when they looked at the films from all the different angles, you could see that Blount was looking at the ball and going for the ball when they collided. No flag was thrown on Blount and it was the proper decision. The official on the field is in better position to see what is going on than the instant replay cameras.

"And if you put cameras all over the stadium to do the officiating you would wind up with a bigger production than you have in televising the game to the public."

Schramm praised the official who overruled another one in Dallas' 37-0 win over Detroit last Sunday.

hit (quarterback) Roger Staubach late," Schramm said. "But he couldn't see that the ball was loose and the Lions player was diving for the loose ball. It was good that the penalty was overruled. Sometime they let those wrong calls stand."

Schramm does not go along with the full-time official concept because he thinks it would be hard to hire as high quality a person as is now found among the NFL officials.

"We have people of very high integrity officiating our games," Schramm said. "What kind of future would there be for a full-time official after he left the game. I just don't think we could attract the high caliber of people like we do now."

It's not the integrity of any official that Schramm questions. It is simply that person's ability to do the job. And if he can't do the job, Schramm says, he should not be allowed to keep it.

Scribe's Upset Special: BU Over Hogs

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
NEW YORK (AP) — Back in 1949 and 1950 when Charlie McClendon played for the University of Kentucky the coach was a fellow named Paul William Bryant, also known as "Bear."

"He was," McClendon remembers, "the meanest son of a gun I ever saw," adding: "It was a gift from heaven for a boy from Lewisville, Ark., to have an opportunity to go to Kentucky. It was certainly the greatest experience for me. "Coach Bryant was a disciplinarian. He knew how to win and he taught me how to win."

Come Saturday, McClendon and Bryant will be on opposite sides of the field in Baton Rouge, La.—Bryant and second-ranked Alabama on one side, McClendon and No. 18 Louisiana State on the other.

For the selection in this game, lend an ear to Bear Bryant, who twitted this corner for fruitlessly picking Mississippi State to beat his Crimson Tide last week.

"I think Alabama's gonna win," he says. Okay, Bear, so do we... Alabama 24-14.

Last week's score was 52 right, 19 wrong and two ties, a 732 percentage, including Indiana over Minnesota in one of the Upset Specials. For the season we're 350-141-12—713.

Texas at Houston: The Longhorns are No. 1, having outscored seven opponents 264-44, but runningback Earl Campbell warns that they "aren't playing as well as we're capable. Something little always seems to slow us down. Maybe we're saving it for somebody down the line." Like Houston, maybe... Texas 21-10.

Oklahoma at Oklahoma State: Guess which team wants revenge for last year? ... Oklahoma 38-21.

Georgia Tech at Notre Dame: Guess which team wants revenge for last year? ... Notre Dame 35-7.

Ohio State at Illinois: No revenge motive here. Illinois hasn't beaten the Buckeyes since 1967 and the point difference in the intervening nine years has been 331-90 in favor of... Ohio State 49-7.

Northwestern at Michigan: Would you believe this as the Upset Special? Not unless you want to be put away... Michigan 41-0.

Kentucky at Vanderbilt: The Wildcats, on probation, aren't going anywhere after the season, except possibly higher in the rankings... Kentucky 28-7.

Baylor at Arkansas: Most of the Southwest Conference headlines have gone to Texas, Arkansas, Texas A&M, Texas Tech and Houston and they've overlooked a pretty good club on the banks of the Brazos in Waco. Upset Special of the Week... Baylor 23-16.

Penn State at North Carolina State: Back to revenge. The Wolfpack beat the Nittany Lions—how's that for an animal act?—in 1974 and 1975 but Penn State got hunk last year 41-20. And this year... Penn State 34-14.

Nebraska at Missouri: Ol' Mizou got back in the upset business last week, shocking Colorado. But the Cornhuskers also seem to be on the right track... Nebraska 21-17.

Pitt at West Virginia: When these backyard rivals get together you can usually discount things like West Virginia losing its last three games... Pitt 28-17.

Clemson at North Carolina: Clemson has been one of the nation's surprise teams but the bubble is due to burst. If not this week, then next against Notre Dame... North Carolina 17-7.

Stanford at Southern California: The Trojans uncharacteristically have lost three of their last four games, beating up only on hapless Oregon. It's time for the real USC to stand up... Southern Cal 31-21.

Washington at California: Will Washington be looking ahead to Southern Cal or will California be looking back to Southern Cal? The former... California 34-24.

Wyoming at Arizona State: Wyoming dethroned ASU last year and the Sun Devils don't take kindly to things like that... Arizona State 29-12.

Colorado at Iowa State: The Golden Buffs, ranked third in the nation just three weeks ago, appear somewhat tarnished after a tie with Kansas and losses to Nebraska and Missouri... Iowa State 24-21.

Memphis State at Tennessee: Do you know how close Memphis is to being unbeaten? A four-point loss to Ole Miss and one-pointers to Louisville and North Texas State, that's how close... Tennessee 20-13.

David Walker

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — It's not a new story to David Walker, this "no respect" bit.

He was once a 16-year-old starting quarterback at Texas A&M. And his confidence took a licking.

Then he got hurt and decided to hook it out of Aggie land because he was being used as a third stringer shortly before the 1975 season.

He returned in 1976 from his Sulphur, La., home and led the Aggies to a 10-2 season that included a Sun Bowl victory over Florida.

This year he has directed Texas A&M to a 6-1 ledger. But last Saturday's game was typical. No respect. Southern Methodist said, in effect, "Walker we're going to guard everybody in the backfield but you. Run if you can."

Walker ran and ran and ran. He gained 182 yards and scored one touchdown. He also passed for two more scores in the 38-21 victory.

The performance earned Walker the Associated Press Southwest Conference Offensive Player of the Week award.

"It was his best football game since he's been here," said Aggie Coach Emory Bellard. "He really played a physical game."

Walker won the respect of SMU Coach Ron Meyer, who said, "The guy is one heckuva a good athlete. But A&M can hurt you in a lot of ways. And Walker does a good job of using every weapon they have and he's a better runner than a lot of people think."

Walker said, "SMU was taking the pitch man and the fullback every time and that left it up to me to make something happen."

Walker has 902 yards total offense this year for the 10th-ranked Aggies, with 342 of the steps coming overland.

In his first start against Texas Christian as a freshman, Walker ran for 81 yards—that was back in 1973. It was his best single game rushing until last Saturday.

"If David Walker wasn't hurting after the SMU game, he's abnormal," said Bellard.

Froggies

FORT WORTH (AP) — Texas Christian will only have two, maybe three, healthy offensive guards for Saturday's game against Texas Tech, says Horned Frog Coach F.A. Dry.

Dry has seen three of his top four guards go down with injuries in the past few weeks.

Starter Bill Kinder has missed the last two games with water on the knee, while the other regular, freshman Frank Hartman, suffered a shoulder injury in last week's loss to Houston.

Kinder's replacement, senior Jim Blackwelder, is out with a neck injury.

Dry said Blackwelder is definitely out for the Southwest Conference contest against Texas Tech, while Hartman is questionable. Kinder should be back, however, Dry added.

Cutting Horses

AMARILLO (AP) — More than 100 horses will be competing this weekend for a record $44,000 in prize money in the world championship cutting horse competition.

The championships will get under way Thursday, with two preliminary rounds. The finals are slated for Friday and Saturday nights.

UT Quarterbacks

AUSTIN (AP) — The No. 1-ranked Texas Longhorns, already cut to the bone in the quarterback department, has lost another signal caller, says Texas Coach Fred Akers.

Akers said Tuesday that freshman Sanford Coggins went out with an ankle injury suffered in a junior-varsity game with UT-Arlington.

Coggins joins freshman Les Koenig on crutches, making four Texas signal callers now using crutches to walk.

Mark McBeth has a broken leg and Jon Aune a knee injury. Both were hurt in the Oklahoma game.

That leaves starter Randy McEachern, who was third string when McBeth and Aune went down, freshman Sam Ansley, and redshirt junior Ted Constanzo, also recovering from knee surgery, as the only quarterbacks on the Texas roster.

Shepard Situation

HOUSTON (AP) — The "Darrell Shepard Situation," apparently is the least talked about subject on the universities of Texas and Houston football teams but is a lively topic with everyone else.

Shepard, one of the most intensely recruited athletes in the state early this year, appeared headed for Texas but suddenly changed his mind and signed with the Cougars.

Houston eventually was placed on one-year's probation by the National Collegiate Athletic Association for recruiting violations related to Shepard amid unproven rumors that it was the Longhorns who turned in the Cougars.

Sounds like good fodder for stirring up a grudge match when the Longhorns bring their No. 1 national ranking here Saturday against the Cougars, right?

Wrong say both Houston's Bill Yeoman and Texas' Fred Akers.

"The only time I ever talk about it is when someone in the news media asks about it," Yeoman said Tuesday. "The kids could care less. All they ever watch is when Darrell throws well or runs hard, then they notice the Darrell Shepard situation. Then if he puts one on the ground, they notice that too."

Akers denied again Tuesday that he reported the Cougars but says he would have if he had the information. "I don't think any coach would withhold it if he had information like that," Akers said.

But Akers says he hasn't given it another thought. "I haven't given it (losing Shepard) much thought to tell the truth," he said. "When he signed with someone else, I quit thinking about it right then."

Yeoman doesn't think the Longhorns have forgotten last year's 30-0 Houston victory in Austin that snapped Texas' 42-game home winning streak.

"I somehow feel that on their summer jobs this year, that many of their players, when they threw that shovel of dirt or drove that nail or whatever they had thoughts of this game in mind," Yeoman said. "I think this is what is great about this rivalry."

For a series of only three games, the rivalry really got intense quickly. The series record stands even at 1-1. Texas whipped the Cougars 28-7 in 1953 and in 1968 the two teams battled to a 20-20 highly publicized tie in Austin prior to last year's shocker.

Yeoman says the 72,000 fans expected for Saturday afternoon's game is what it's all about.

"The fact that so many people are interested is comforting," Yeoman said. "It may not be too comforting to us down on the field but at least it will be good to know our efforts are paid for."

SMU-Florida

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — The University of Florida and Southern Methodist University are close to final agreement on playing their opening football game next year in Orlando's Tangerine Bowl.

SMU Athletic Director Dick Davis said Tuesday his school's faculty committee had approved his recommendation to switch the Sept. 16 game from the Dallas Cotton Bowl to this Central Florida city.

It's now up to Florida and Orlando officials, Davis said.

Florida Athletic Director Ray Graves, who met with Davis and city officials last week, said he would present the plan to UF's athletic board.

The major reason cited for the switch is the poor attendance at the Mustangs' non-conference games in the Cotton Bowl.

Wilkes-Led Bledsoe Tops Union

Greg Wilkes hit 25 points to lead Bledsoe to a 58-55 overtime win over Union Tuesday night.

Leading Union was Stacy Dunn with 14 points.

In girl's play, Keri Bledsoe poured in 14 points to lead Bledsoe to a 43-41 win over Union. Gena Fought hit 25 for the loser.

McAdoo Wins Pair

McAdoo opened the season with a pair of road victories over Spade, with the girls winning 48-27 and the boys 56-54.

The hosts got 31 points and 23 rebounds from Lynn Cowan in the boys game, but that wasn't enough. Albert Osuna had 20 for the victors.

Sally Pullen ripped the nets for 41 points to direct the McAdoo girls. Vicki Mills had 17 for Spade.

Valley 71, Jayton 67

Valley held off a late Jayton rally Tuesday night to post a 71-67 season-opening girls basketball win over the host Jaybirds. Tuesday was the first day for Interscholastic League basketball games.

Trailing 58-42 at the end of three quarters, Jayton made a run at the visitors by tallying 25 points during the final period. However, Valley, behind the 51-point scoring spree of Cherice Price, bucketed 13 to assure itself of the opening-night victory.

Bridgette Hamilton was the leading scorer for Jayton with 41 points.

Anton 53, Sundown 42

Visiting Anton used the 22 points-per-game of Martha Nichols to defeat Sundown 53-42. Gail Eberhart had 20 for Sundown.

Southland 58, Patton Springs 45

Stacy Rush tossed in 32 points to lead Southland past Patton Springs. Deanna Shaw was high for the losers with 27.

Klondike 59, Smyer 43

Jeanie Bradford managed 35 points as Klondike whipped Smyer 59-43. Cindy Burleson topped Smyer with 27.

Three Way 49, Sudan 45

Three Way topped Sudan, with Princess Parkman scoring 24 points and Tammy Davis 21. Tracy Hill led the losers with 22.

Whiteface 49, Lazbuddie 44

Whiteface stopped Lazbuddie 49-44 as Ginger Peden tossed in 23 points. Judy Lust led the losers with 21.

Open Champs Help Dedicate Course

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Three U. S. Open champions, Jack Nicklaus, Hubert Green and Jerry Pate, helped dedicate a golf course designed by Nicklaus and then played the first official round Tuesday.

The Shoal Creek course, Nicklaus said, "wasn't designed to be the toughest. It wasn't meant to be the easiest. It was designed to challenge good players."

A Birmingham businessman, Hall Thompson, hired Nicklaus to lay out the 7,029-yard course. "I had a superior piece of property, a willing owner and financial backing," Nicklaus said.

The cost to Thompson was not announced. The course lies between Oak and Double Oak mountains south of Birmingham.

Frank Broyles, athletic director at Arkansas, was master of ceremonies at the dedication, attended by several thousand people.

Thompson hit the first ball off the first tee and then the three pros played their exhibition round. Pate had 68, 4 under par. Nicklaus was 70 and Green 75.

In 1921, Allen Sotheron, pitching for three teams in the American League, worked 178 innings without allowing a home run.

Raider Passing Game Inconsistent In '77

By CARTER CROMWELL
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

It's hard for John Cropp to evaluate his receivers and not look at Texas Tech's total offensive picture up to this point in the 1977 season.

"I'm not disappointed with any of our receivers, individually," he said, "but it's kind of like it is with our whole offense. I don't think any of us are satisfied with our performance as a team, offensively."

"The passing game just hasn't been what it has been in the past or what it needs to be for us to win. We've had difficulty in all areas."

Inexperience at quarterback and in the line because of injuries have been the principal reasons for Tech's inconsistency on offense this season.

Last season, after seven games, Tech had completed 54 of 94 passes for a 57.4 completion percentage. The total passing yardage was 952, or nearly 18 yards per reception. This year, the Raiders have thrown more, but had less success, connecting on just 60 of 118 for slightly less than 51 per cent. They've totaled 725 yards for a 12-yard average per catch. The passing game has been inconsistent most of the time.

Currently, fullback Billy Taylor is the club's leading receiver with 18 catches, while split end Sammy Williams has 14. They are the only players who have caught more than 10 passes.

Cropp is high on Williams, although his pace is well behind that of the past two seasons, in which he caught 34 and 32 passes, respectively.

"I think he's an excellent player," Cropp said. "He's unselfish and team oriented. We've used him as a tight end a number of times when we've gone to a two-tight-end setup, and he's been willing to get in there and block to help the team move the ball."

Redshirt sophomore Howie Lewis backs up Williams. Godfrey Turner and Brian Nelson alternate at flanker and James Hadnot and Gregg Adkins split time at tight end to give Tech a good group of receivers.

"This is the best group I've ever had," Cropp said. "We've been able to play a lot of people all year. We're able to alternate at tight end and flanker. All those guys have played in every game, except Howie, who didn't play against Texas."

Injuries have been a factor at flanker, as both Nelson and Turner have missed a good amount of time because of leg injuries.

"That's made it a difficult situation at that position for most of the fall," Cropp said. "When they've been healthy, they've played well, but the missed practice time is going to make a difference."

Cropp has been pleased with the tight end play.

"Adkins has been very consistent, and Hadnot is improving. You have to have two good tight ends to be a good team nowadays," Hadnot, a 6-2, 235-pound sophomore, is one of the team's best athletes.

The receiver situation is much different than what it was in 1975. Tech's first season under Sloan. The Raiders had little experience at receiver then, and had less speed and depth than they possess now.

However, sophomore Williams came on well that year. Last season, Nelson, then a soph, made good contributions. Turner, who had walked on in 1975, became eligible, giving Tech another solid receiver in 1976. Adkins was moved from the offensive line last year, too.

Graduated players like Ricky Bates, Pat Felix and Sylvester Brown performed well, too. Now, Tech will return four of those top six receivers next year, losing Adkins and Williams.

"Receivers are a recruiting priority for us this year because we need to get some young receivers in here and train them. It's awfully hard for a receiver to step right in and play in our system."

"Still, things look pretty good as far as next year goes. We do have a lot of receivers coming back."

NOTES: Tech drilled for over two hours in the cold Tuesday afternoon, preparing for Saturday's 2 p.m. contest with TCU in Jones Stadium. Head coach Steve Sloan said that quarterbacks Mark Johnson (bruisd thigh) and Rodney Allison "still can't run." Offensive line-man Wilbert Cunningham (knee) and cornerback Craig Harris (leg) were injured Tuesday. "We'll have to wait and see how badly they're hurt," Sloan said.

Torrez Throws Cap In Free Agent Ring

NEW YORK (AP) — "I'm anxious to see what my market value will be," said New York Yankees pitcher Mike Torrez, looking ahead to Friday's re-entry draft of baseball's free agents. "I can't sell myself short."

The 32-year-old righthander, who won 17 games for the Yankees during the regular season and two in the World Series, reportedly is seeking a five-year contract for between $1.75 million and $2 million.

He could have pulled out of the draft as late as Monday midnight by signing with the Yankees, with whom he and his agent, Gary Walker, have been holding steady negotiations. The Yankees reportedly have offered between $1.25 million and $1.5 million, and say they will continue to try and sign Torrez.

"We never stopped negotiating and we still won't," says club President Gabe Paul. "You've got to run the ball out."

That's not the situation in Chicago, where White Sox owner Bill Veeck says he is not going to try and sign outfielders Oscar Gamble and Richie Zisk, both of whom will go through the draft Friday.

"It would cost $1 million a year to sign them for anywhere from three to five years," said Veeck. "That's what their two paychecks would have added up to in 1978."

And Calvin Griffith, owner of the Minnesota Twins, says he will make no effort to sign nine of the 11 players from his organization who will become free agents, the exceptions being outfield stars Larry Hisle and Lyman Bostock.

The 65-year-old Griffith is a strong opponent of the free agent system. "It's going to be the ruination of baseball," he predicted. "One of these days the owners are going to get hit with a sledgehammer and see what damn fools they are."

There are several wrinkles in this year's draft with new categories added to the option playoffs who formed the talent pool a year ago, when Reggie Jackson of the Yankees was the most expensive selection at $2.9 million. Among the new categories is a list of players with major league contracts for 1976 who were optioned to minor league teams.

Clubs losing players in the six-year veteran category will be compensated with free agent selections from next June.

The Toronto Blue Jays will open Friday's draft, followed by Atlanta, Oakland, the New York Mets, Seattle, San Diego, Milwaukee, Montreal, Cleveland, San Francisco, Detroit, the Chicago Cubs and California.

Then Houston, Minnesota, St. Louis, the White Sox, Cincinnati, Texas, Pittsburgh, Boston, Los Angeles, Baltimore, Philadelphia, the Yankees and Kansas City.

NEW YORK (AP) — Here is the list of baseball players eligible, as of noon Tuesday, for Friday's re-entry draft: OPTION PLAYERS:

Jazz, Atlanta Running 1-2; NBA Surprised

By The Associated Press
The first-place New Orleans Jazz?
The second-place Atlanta Hawks?
 There was supposed to be a dogfight for the lead in the National Basketball Association's Central Division, but the combatants were expected to be Houston, Washington and Cleveland—certainly not New Orleans and Atlanta.

The Jazz raised their record to 5-1 and retained a one-half game lead over the 4-1 Hawks with a 99-88 victory over Chicago Tuesday night, its first victory over the Bulls in New Orleans.

"New Orleans is a better team this year, with better people," said Chicago Coach Ed Badger. "Robinson and Goodrich make a big difference."

Forward Truck Robinson scored 28 points and grabbed 10 rebounds for the Jazz, which ran its winning streak to five. Pete Maravich added 27 points and Gail Goodrich, the reserve guard who joined New Orleans a year ago, had 10.

It's still early, of course, but Jazz Coach Elgin Baylor is happy with what he has seen.

"Our team is playing very well right now," he said. "We are playing with patience on offense and very good team defense."

Atlanta stayed close by beating the Seattle SuperSonics 102-99.

In other NBA games, the Milwaukee Bucks beat the Kansas City Kings 115-95, the Golden State Warriors stopped the San Antonio Spurs 108-97, the Cleveland Cavaliers defeated the Denver Nuggets 110-93 and the Portland Trail Blazers topped the New York Knicks 113-104.

Chicago got 28 points from guard Wilbur Holland, but star center Artis Gilmore was held to eight by Jazz pivotmen Rich Kelley and Joe Meriwether. "I wouldn't say Gilmore played a bad game as much as I'd say Kelley and Meriwether played good games," said Badger.

The Jazz moved in front with 12 straight points midway through the first half. Chicago got within 81-79 midway through the fourth quarter but Maravich and Goodrich helped the Jazz pull away again.

Hawks 102, Sonics 99
 Forwards Ron Behagen and John Drew hit two baskets apiece in the closing minutes of the Hawks' triumph. Behagen put Atlanta in front 94-93 with a short jumper with 2:13 to play, then Drew clinched the victory by connecting on a 17-footer, then stealing the ball and making a dunk following a court-length drive.

Two Football Games Moved
 Two area games have been moved up to Thursday this week so the schools involved may attend a teachers meeting in Amarillo Friday.

Sudan will be at Silvertown and Lazbudee at Valley Thursday night in Dist. 2-B North Zone games. Sudan has an opportunity to tie for the title with a win over Silvertown, but Motley County will represent the zone.

The Matadors, ranked No. 10 in the state, will face No. 7-ranked Groom in a non-district battle this week and will meet No. 5-ranked Ropes for the zone title Nov. 11. That game will be played at 7:30 p.m. in Petersburg.

Winner of the Nov. 11 game will face No. 1-ranked Wheeler in bidistrict Nov. 18.

Dunbar Falls To Brownfield
 Brownfield wasted little time in defeating Dunbar Tuesday night in District 3-AAA girls' volleyball action as the Cubs downed their hosts in straight games 15-6, 15-8.

Janie Lawlis had 10 points for the winners, while Dunbar's Brenda Johnson collected 3.

In other 3-AAA action, Snyder downed Sweetwater 15-2, 15-1.

Plainview Hosts Motocross Races
 PLAINVIEW (Special)—The Plainview Jaycees will sponsor the Jaycee Grand Prix Motocross race from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. Nov. 6 at the Running Water Draw Park in Plainview.

Entry fee is $15 per rider, and the deadline is midnight Nov. 3. Late entry fee will be $20. Entries should be mailed to Box 1056, Plainview.

Seventy-five to 100 riders are expected to enter.

The Sonics, who got 29 rebounds from center Marvin Webster, were limited to 41 points in the second half.

Cavaliers 110, Nuggets 93
 Cleveland hit 54 per cent of its shots in the first half in opening a 70-54 lead and stayed comfortably in front. Jim Chones led Cleveland with 21 points and Walt Frazier had 15.

Bucks 115, Kings 95
 The young Bucks moved into the lead in the Midwest Division with a 4-2 mark behind 23 points from Junior Bridgeman, 15 points from rookie center Kent Benson and 15 assists from Quinn Buckner. Bridgeman scored 11 in the second quarter when Milwaukee opened up a 65-42 advantage. The Bucks led by as many as 31 points in the second half.

Warriors 108, Spurs 97
 Rick Barry and Robert Parish combined for 26 points in the fourth quarter as Golden State pulled away to its third victory in a row. Barry led all scorers with 28 points.

Blazers 113, Knicks 104
 Bill Walton clinched Portland's 22nd consecutive home-court victory—including last season's playoffs—by hitting a short bank shot and a pair of free throws in the final minute. He finished with 23 points, although he was rested for much of the game.

Portland's record now is 5-1, best in the Pacific Division, while the Knicks' 3-3 mark leads the Atlantic Division.

LA Due Visit From Killanin

LONDON (AP) — Lord Killanin, president of the International Olympic Committee, starts a world tour this week with a three-day stopover at Los Angeles, would-be host city for the 1984 Games.

"Los Angeles made a very good impression when it applied for the 1980 Games three years ago," Killanin said. "On that occasion the IOC decided by vote in favor of Moscow."

"This time Los Angeles is the only candidate — a rather disappointing situation. There is really no reason to suppose it will not get the Games, but it is not yet a certainty and will not be until Los Angeles puts its case before the IOC next May."

"Meanwhile I may be able to give them some help and advice while I am there."

Killanin is scheduled to arrive in Los Angeles Thursday and to leave for New Zealand Sunday.

Los Angeles, like any runner in a one-horse race, simply has to clear the obstacles to reach the finish line. Before being officially awarded the Games it has to satisfy 21 international sports federations that it can handle the Olympic sports and show the IOC that it is geared to house 8,000 athletes and team officials and provide facilities for 5,000 news and television personnel.

Los Angeles is the first city in Olympic history to bid for the Games alone.

Tehran posted a bid a year ago but has since withdrawn it. IOC sources believe that oil-rich Iran, one of the few countries in the world that unquestionably could afford to stage the Olympics, pulled out for political reasons.

In the last two years, the Iranians have been campaigning to get Mainland China into the Olympics instead of Taiwan, which the IOC currently recognizes. They have also backed moves to exclude Israel from the Asian Games for security reasons.

Any city bidding for the Olympics must guarantee free entry to the athletes of all countries recognized by the IOC — and that includes both Taiwan and Israel.

Los Angeles will be required to do that and will need the backing of the White House.

The Montreal Games almost collapsed last year because the Canadian government, on short notice, refused to admit the Taiwanese under the name of the Republic of China — the title by which the Taiwan Olympic Committee is recognized by the IOC.

Stock Mart Continues To Slide

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued to slip in early trading today amid worries over rising interest rates and the economic outlook.

The noon Dow Jones industrial average posted a 2.16 loss to 804.75, after falling more than 11 points Tuesday, its steepest one-day plunge in more than three months.

The Dow was down more than three points and trading was active at the start of the day, but slackened off somewhat by late morning. Volume on the Big Board at midday came to 9.03 million shares, compared to 7.66 million Tuesday.

There were more than twice as many losers as gainers among all issues listed on the New York Stock Exchange. The NYSE's composite index of common stocks showed a 1.9 decline to 49.94.

Analysts said negative factors that worked on the market included the prospect for higher interest rates and concern that the government's wholesale price index for October would show a rise when that report comes out Thursday.

The much-watched Dow Jones industrial average last flirted with the 800 level on Oct. 25 closing at 801.54. The rally that ensued proved to be a weak one, lasting only three sessions before the market moved lower again on Monday.

Among actively traded issues, Southern Co. was unchanged at 17 by mid-day; Xerox Corp. was off 1/4 to 47 1/2; Citicorp was off 1/4 to 22 1/4; Coca Cola was off 1/4 to 36 1/4; and International Business Machines dropped 1/4 to 252 1/4.

On the American Stock Exchange, Houston Oil & Minerals led the noon active list, gaining 1/2 to 27 1/4. The market value index lost 16 to 111.80.

REV. L.H. DEGRATE

Church Slates Guest Speaker

The Rev. L.H. Degrate, chairman of the Educational Board for the West Texas Baptist District Association, will be the featured speaker for the young people's department at New Hope Baptist Church at 8 p.m. Friday.

The Rev. Degrate works through the association to raise funds for scholarship awards for students attending Bishop College in Dallas.

The Rev. A.L. Dunn is host pastor of the New Hope Baptist Church and also moderator for the West Texas Baptist District Association. He has conducted evangelistic services and fund-raising campaigns for youths to attend summer camp as well as participating in district and state work of the church.

The Rev. Dunn has held evangelistic services in Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Kansas and Colorado. He is a pianist and singer, as well as a minister.

He said, "I encourage many young people to enter vocational training. Many students are not college material and have a need for vocational training where many jobs now are open."

Mrs. R.B. Thompson is district youth director and chairman of the program committee at the church.

$257,509 Awarded To Perry Como

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — Perry Como has been awarded $257,509 for injuries he suffered when he tumbled from a stage while taping a 1971 Christmas special for NBC.

The 65-year-old singer had sought $1 million in damages on grounds of negligence. He tumbled from a divided stage while filming "Perry Como's Winter Show," suffering a compound fracture to his left knee and injuries to his left foot and hip.

Como contended he was unable to perform for more than six months and lost $1 million in income. The judgment was to be paid by NBC and Pasetta Productions, Inc. Charges against a second production company were dropped earlier.

LAFF - A - DAY

"Guess I will put the cats out for the night."

Woman Leads Orchestra For Injured Conductor

NEW YORK (AP) — Symphony conductor George Solti, severely injured in a fall, relinquished his baton to his female assistant and listened proudly as she directed the orchestra through one of Gustav Mahler's most difficult compositions to a standing ovation in Carnegie Hall.

Solti, who suffered a sprained wrist and strained back, neck and shoulder muscles in a fall in Chicago last Friday, turned over his Chicago Symphony Orchestra and Mahler's Eighth Symphony to Margaret Hillis.

The symphony is 80 minutes long and is almost totally choral or vocal-ensemble music. Miss Hillis is director of the orchestra's chorus and has often conducted the two ensembles in the choral-orchestral repertory. So finding herself in front of the group was not exactly new.

The job of announcing that Solti would not conduct fell to Carnegie Hall's, Julius Bloom. Bloom explained that the conductor, after his accident, would need at least another day's rest before returning to the podium. He said Miss Hillis would conduct instead.

Miss Hillis' name was greeted with friendly cheers.

She did not try to imitate Solti's interpretation of Mahler, but followed her own style.

HY GARDNER HAS THE ANSWER:

Glad You Asked That!

Q: We were baffled when we saw Dusty Baker of the Los Angeles Dodgers hit a home run with the bases loaded in the second playoff game with the Phillies. My father said there was another player named "Home Run Baker." Who did he play for? What was his full name? And how did he get his nickname? — Mrs. Charles Dagan, Philadelphia.

A: The original "Home Run" Baker, who joined the Philadelphia Athletics in 1908, won that nickname in 1911 when he led the American League in home runs with a total of only nine home runs. He remained the leader in 1912 with 10 homers and in 1913 with 13, the most he ever hit in one season. Born John Franklin Baker in 1886, he entered the Baseball Hall of Fame in 1968, eight years before he died. His career home-run total (1908 to 1932) was 28.

Q: Who, after a bumpy trans-Atlantic flight, put his experience in these words: "The food the stewardess served was so bad, some passengers sent out for sandwiches?" — Gloria T. Puchall, N.Y.

A: Bob Hope.

Q: Who is in for eddies in the news; what's your favorite in recent weeks? — P.L. O'Connell, Phoenix, Ariz.

A: A great-grandmother of 95 suddenly growing new teeth. She's a Mrs. Francesca Paolo di Bias of Parma, Italy. She has eight surviving children, 56 grandchildren and 18 great-grandchildren. (In her house the tooth fairy would have to work overtime!)

Q: Battle a controversy. Where was the first Republican Convention held, in Washington or New York? — Mrs. A. DuBois, Indianapolis.

A: Neither. It was held at Lafayette Hall in Pittsburgh, Feb. 22, 1856. The nominee, John C. Fremont, lost. But at the next convention (1860), the party came up with a winner — Abraham Lincoln.

Q: Why hasn't Doris Day, long one of our most popular TV personalities, returned to the tube? Was she fired by her network or sponsors? — Louise Kass, Seattle.

A: No. She fired herself! Doris called it a day when she returned from her popular show in 1973. "I'm tired," she explained. "Doing a filmed series for five years is extremely hard and I don't think another year of 'The Doris Day Show' in its present form is going to lend anybody anywhere, except maybe to the bank. I have nothing against banks either. We all need a source of income. I'm only saying that there must be a better way and when and if I find one, I'll be back on TV the next day. If they'll have me!"

Q: If John Young's book about Hitler should ever become the basis for a TV series, which facts do you predict would make the most sensation? — Mrs. Reggie Martin, Columbus, Ohio.

A: Title your pick: That Hitler never was a paperhanger or a house painter. But he was a choirboy who loved to read Westerns and play cowboys and Indians. That he was plagued by a paralytic fear of cancer, a genuine heart condition and uncontrollable substance. That at least four women attempted suicide over him — and at least three succeeded. That Hitler could type, drive a car (heavily), play the piano (somewhat), used an elastic exerciser to stay in shape and, like Napoleon, had a photographic memory.

In his early years as an unsuccessful artist, Toland recounts. Hitler spent three and a half months on a Viennese skid row. That the Nazi laws defining "Jewishness" were carefully drawn to exclude both Jesus Christ and Adolf Hitler, who feared that one of his grandparents might have been a Jew. That Hitler underwent two attacks of blindness, at least one of which was hysterical and may have played a significant role in his political destiny. That Gertrude Stein thought Hitler should get the Nobel Peace Prize and that George Bernard Shaw defended him in the English press. That Sven Hedin, the renowned Swedish explorer, wrote that Hitler was "endowed with a genuine solicitude for the welfare of his fellow citizens."

Toland also says that when Hitler served in the German Army during World War I, he was not given officers rank on the ground that he "lacked the capacity for leadership!" And that Hitler had written in his postwar plans that Joseph Goebbels, his minister of propaganda, would become dictator of New York, and Field Marshal Hermann Goering personally would oversee the "racial cleansing" of New York City.

Store Filled With Comic Books

DALLAS (UPI) — Somewhere wedged among the crumpled Burroughs papers and the tattered Tales of Terror is a comic book.

Who knows it's under the Hall of Heron's gutter or behind the book stall that sits with the weight of years of back issues of Mad Magazine. Or maybe it was sold last week.

"Our filing system is somewhat suspect," said Kurt Smith, the distributor-proprietor of Perelandra. "But we always find what we are looking for. We'll meet the title."

For the past 17 years Smith, 26, and his partner, Steve Chomover, 27, have collected, sorted, read and saved hundreds of comic books — or "funny books" as they like to refer to them — science fiction and superhero pulp fiction.

For the past 10 months, the two young men have commercially sold and swapped their magazines from a Henderson Street shop where the rent is low enough and the traffic is heavy enough to keep open a struggling enterprise with its roots in childhood nostalgia.

"There's not a lot of money involved with buying and swapping funny books," Smith said. "But it gives us a chance to add to our collection and we don't starve."

The shop is named Perelandra after a fantasy world created by the late science fiction writer C.S. Lewis.

"It's all about a British scientist hijacked to Mars. It's classic good versus evil, spiritual Armageddon and the like," Smith said. "It was pretty heavy stuff, however, for 1944."

"It was our favorite science fiction book. It was logical we would name our shop honoring it."

A trip to the Henderson Street Perelandra rates as a fantasy odyssey back into childhood.

There are shelves of adventure magazines and children's books about Roy Rogers, athletic heroes and space explorers. Superman comics abound along with the Green Lantern, Batman and the endless number of Marvel Comics heroes.

Among the yellowing issues one can find even the elusive Donald Duck.

"Mickey Mouse was something of a wimp. Donald Duck had the best storylines and the best characterization. One of my prized possessions — and a rare one too — is the Donald Duck funny book which introduces Uncle Scrooge," Smith said.

That issue, incidentally, is not for sale.

Actresses Enjoying Dramatic Turnabout With 'Women's Movies'

By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — For two decades now actresses have lamented the passing of romantic movie love stories or "women's pictures" while the screen has been filled with the hijinks and macho antics of leading men.

As a result, the duller category in the annual Oscar derby has been the Academy Award for best actress. Either the entries were desultory or foregone conclusions for the lack of competition.

Instead of boy meets girl, audiences have been barraged with pairs of roistering or contending males.

The result has been disastrous for actresses. The list of top Hollywood female stars has been reduced to Barbra Streisand, Liza Minnelli and Jane Fonda, all of whom are Oscar winners.

The sexual revolution left producers in limbo. What to do with leading ladies?

No one would believe the passive fragile flowers of old, pining away for a prince charming. Moviegoers weren't prepared for women in action-adventure epics. Strident feminist roles appealed to neither sex.

"The Godfather," "The French Connection," "Towering Inferno," "Patton" and "Rocky" held marginal roles for women.

The recent obsession with violence left women in the roles of victims or possibly accessories.

How do you fit in a believable dramatic part for women in disaster epics?

And where was there room for a femme fatale in "Jaws" and "Star Wars"?

War pictures, science fiction and cops and robbers films included women in decorative or supporting roles.

More often than not, when women did have prominent parts they were exploited as sex symbols. Nude scenes became de rigueur.

While the feminist movement gained independence, dignity and rights for women all over the world, females became almost obsolete in movies.

In the past three Academy Awards the Oscars were won by Faye Dunaway ("Network"), Louise Fletcher ("One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest") and Ellen Burstyn ("Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore").

All were outstanding performances, and all were odds-on favorites. Also, the actresses managed to keep their clothes on. Still, there simply were too few roles that warranted academy nominations.

This year, however, the ladies are enjoying a dramatic turnabout.

Not since 1968, when Streisand and Katharine Hepburn tied for the Oscar, has the competition among leading ladies promised to be as keen or exciting as this year.

At least eight actresses are in the running for nominations and not all of the best films of 1977 have been released.

Two pictures, "Turning Point" and "Julia," include outstanding performances by a pair of leading ladies.

Shirley MacLaine and Anne Bancroft are stunning as a pair of ballerinas who choose different lifestyles in "Turning Point." Jane Fonda and Vanessa Redgrave share rave reviews for their poignant roles in "Julia."

Curiously, the males in both films are inconsequential — a complete reversal of a 20-year trend.

Newcomer Kathleen Quinlan is being touted by critics for a nomination for her sensitive role in "I Never Promised You a Rose Garden."

Sophia Loren has weighed in for a nomination in an old-fashioned love story, with some new twists, in "A Very Special Day." She is teamed for the ninth time with Europe's darling of the bouidor, Marcello Mastroianni, who plays a homosexual in the story.

Sissy Spacek is another hot potential nominee for her role in "Three Women," another movie aimed at the stuffy audience, and one in which the actors are little more than spear carriers.

Diane Keaton, long a foil in Woody Allen pictures, comes into her own as a dramatic star in "Waiting for Mr. Goodbar." Once again, the leading man takes a back seat.

Marthe Keller has won plaudits for her role as the dying beauty in "Bobby Deerfield." In this picture, however, the male lead, Al Pacino, provides something more than a sounding board for feminine histrionics.

While there appears to be no organized effort at appealing to the feminist movement or to social consciousness among movie producers, Hollywood is more responsive than ever to the boxoffice.

Driftwood Sculpture Makes Termite Meal

CHICAGO (UPI) — A work of art turned out to be something to chew on.

Termites found "California Wood Circle" by British artist Richard Long to be tasty. They liked it so much that James Speyer, the curator of 20th century art at the Art Institute of Chicago, removed the piece from an exhibit.

Speyer said the termites were discovered in Long's driftwood sculpture Friday.

The piece was shipped to Long's dealer in New York for fumigation. The sculpture eventually will rejoin the show when it travels to Washington, San Francisco, Fort Worth, Tex., and Cincinnati.

Green Hair, Headaches Symptoms Of Punk Rock

By PETER J. BOYER
LOS ANGELES (AP) — In case you haven't noticed, something called punk rock is going around. It gives some people green hair and has been known to cause headaches in others.

The people with the green hair are those who've caught the punk contagion and like it; members of the Blank Generation, teen-aged reckless riders of the New Wave. Folks with the headaches are those who've heard punk rock and don't like it, but think they should.

Punk rock — loud, fast and simple — is a reaction to the elaborate spinnings of musical fancy being churned out by the pop music establishment. It is, those in the know say, an expression of the listless 1970s, a musical style born of cynicism and alienation. The '50s gave us Elvis and the greasers, the '60s the Beatles and hippies. The '70s give us punk, with its concomitant sociology of drunkenness, apathy and anarchy, and the plain old fun of buying green or orange hair dye and dressing up funny to shock the old folks.

Ever since Elvis swayed in with his sensual sneer and black leather jacket, giving kids the thrill of liking music that scared their folks, pundits have engaged in a vigilant search for belwether developments in teen-age music. A lot of them missed the boat with the Beatles, and they didn't want to get caught again.

The result has been the payment of inordinant attention to the various twists and turns taken in the evolution of the art form known as rock and roll. You may remember a certain fellow who adorned the cover of two national news magazines at the same time two summers ago. Bruce Springstein proved not to be the rock messiah.

You may also remember last year's fireworks over reggae, the Caribbean beat. Whatever happened to reggae?

And disco, although a definite musical trend of the '70s, can hardly be considered a new rock form. It is merely repackaged soul from the '60s, and R&B before that.

So here we have punk. At first it seemed just a new form of shock rock — which hasn't been disproven — but when crowds started to gather at New York's CBGB club to hear the stuff, the predictions started rolling. Los Angeles picked up on punk, and the Whiskey club became a haven for West Coast punkers. "It's gotta be important," one rock writer said, "you've got a Sunset Strip scene again."

Lovers of the form took heart when the giants in the record industry began to pay attention to the punk, or new wave, bands. There was a stampede to sign some groups, and it seemed like punk might be king.

Well, is punk rock the ultimate expression of the musical soul of the '70s? Could be. But there are some signs that the new wave will quickly grow old and that punk, alas, is junk.

Perhaps the most ominous of these signs is the fact so many people think that punk ... well, stinks. Not just the chrome-domes who think all rock music is bad, but folks who should have a little more respect for the stuff if it's going to be the biggest musical statement of a generation.

Note: Harvey Kubernick, West Coast writer for England's biggest rock magazine, Melody Maker, says he has been writing about punk for more than a year. He follows it, analyzes it, writes about it, but here are some of his random personal comments on punk. "It is boring, three-chord music without melody ... dingy vocals and one-line statements. It can't last past Christmas."

Kim Fowley, creator of the female teen-age punk group, the Runaways, says the music "is boring and I hope it goes away soon ... It doesn't have any substance ... It is a reaction to black disco music, and because of that, it won't last."

Another of the bells that may be tolling for punk is its most pleasing element — the fact punk is "rock and roll getting back to basics," as Warner Bros.' Bob Merlis put it, explaining his excitement over his company's deal with the punk label, Sire.

Almost everybody who is looking for a reason to like punk uses the phrase, "back to basics." What they mean, one supposes, is the driving, simplistic punk sound is amateurish.

Strangely enough, the bizarre aspects of punk — the weird dress and rebellious behavior that go with the sound — do not figure into the music's prominent criticism. The hedonistic craziness of punk, its orgy-orientation, disdain for order, the masochism, are actually placed in the music's plus column by those analyzing punk's potential. Critical comment, meanwhile, seems to dwell more on the music's backward simplicity and lack of artistic merit.

But if punk music is indeed a step back, its detractors say, the form thus spells its own doom. Art backward bound does not grow.

Finally, there is the bottom line in the great big business of pop music — does it sell?

"Let's face it," says Warner's Merlis, "the business is based on greed. American record companies saw punk drawing a crowd and said, 'Hey, let's get in on that before it's too late.'"

And that's just what the big companies did. Warner Bros., Arista, CBS, Mercury and most of the other big boys have dozens of punkers in their stables, and the hot-shot promotion departments are busy.

To make it really big, records need airplay. Not just on progressive big-city FM stations, where the with-it jocks can play what they will, but in Memphis, in Dallas, in St. Louis and Cleveland. AM rockers in places like Peoria have to play the stuff for success, and they won't play it unless it's too big to ignore.

And too big to ignore, punk rock doesn't seem to be.

"No, we're not playing it," says Harriet Lapides, music director of Memphis' WMBQ. "There doesn't seem to be any demand for it. We called around some record stores to see if there had been any demand for it, and there was no big interest. Right now, it just seems like a fad. A lot of people have a very bad impression of it."

"Geez, I can't imagine a punk song we've played," says Mike Spears, program director for KJL, a mammoth L.A. AM rocker. "Punk's just now beginning, but it's no great shakes. It's not the next Beatles."

If punk proves to be just another fad, don't feel too sorry for the record companies. There's plenty of room in the wildly expanding business for fads.

"There's no risk," says Warner's Merlis. "We're not going to go out of business. An analogy is probably reggae. Everybody thought it the next big thing. It failed. But there are people still buying reggae albums. If punk doesn't really catch fire, record companies know they can still sell some of them."

"Besides," Merlis adds, "we've still got Fleetwood Mac."

Vague Obscenity Law Disarms Porno Fight

CLEVELAND (AP) — A ruling that Ohio's obscenity law is unconstitutionally vague and broad apparently has disarmed troops in Cleveland Mayor Ralph J. Perk's war on pornography.

U.S. District Judge John Manos, in a 147-page ruling this week, said Ohio's obscenity law lacked specifics concerning what types of sexual conduct should be banned.

Ohio Attorney General William J. Brown said the state would appeal, but Cleveland assistant Law Director Bruce Taylor said night there would be no more obscenity arrests until the status of state laws has been clarified.

Manos granted the Sovereign News Co. of Cleveland a preliminary injunction against enforcement of the state law by Cuyahoga County Prosecutor John Corrigan and Cleveland police.

But the judge made no decision immediately on Sovereign's request for $200,000 in damages from city and county authorities.

Sovereign, which police have called a major distributor of pornographic materials, had cited the First Amendment in asking for the injunction and damages following a raid by Cleveland and Dayton police at the company's estate warehouse last Feb. 16.

The distributor had asked for a similar judgment and injunction against Montgomery County Prosecutor Lee C. Falke and Dayton city police. However, Manos dismissed this part of the action, which left standing indictments returned against Sovereign News by the Montgomery County grand jury May 3.

Manos declined to consider the constitutionality of Ohio's organized crime law, also cited in indictments by a county grand jury.

Dayton police said they joined forces with Cleveland police after learning that Sovereign was supplying bookstores in that area.

Manos' ruling also declared unconstitutional a subsection of the state obscenity laws banning acts of extreme or bizarre violence, cruelty and brutality.

"This court finds that the line drawn between hard-core pornography... and the depictions and descriptions of sexual conduct which may not be restricted depends on the amount of physical activity...." Manos said in an opinion accompanying the ruling.
