Schoolchildren Risking Future Heart Disease

children increasingly show risk factors for future heart disease.

60 Pages

A number of recent studies indicate environmental, nutritional and other de ficiencies could be endangering the future well-being of youngsters from coast to coast. Heart disease, the nation's leading killer, accounts for about half the deaths in middle-aged men.

"There seems to be no doubt that the roots of arteriosclerosis (one type of hardening of the arteries), certain cancers and stroke begin in childhood, and that many of these 'roots' are related to our personal habits and style of living," one study said. Evidence mounts:

-46 percent of a sample of 8-to 12-year-old boys in California had one risk factor for coronary heart disease, and an additional 14 percent had two or more school years, according to one study. High blood pressure is considered one of the risk factors for diseases involving the heart and blood vessels. Others include cigarette smoking, obesity, poor physical fitness and high levels of fats like cholesterol in the blood.

A National Institutes of Health task force on blood pressure control in children recommended that doctors caring for children aged 3 and older should routinely measure blood pressure once a year.

-A Westchester County-New York City study of schoolchildren aged 11 to 14 found 43 percent had "abnormally high" cholesterol levels; 10 percent reported they were cigarette smokers, with girls outnumbering boys 2-1; 12 percent were overweight, and 2 percent had sufficiently high blood pressure to be referred to studied had one or more risk factor for heart disease

This study, described in a professional journal, tried not only to identify the factors that could lead these suburban and inner-city children to future heart disease, but to involve the children in preventing it. -A federally subsidized study of school-age children in Rochester, Minn., Bogalusa, La., and Muscatine, Iowa, found that "some children attain levels of cholesterol and blood pressure that when present in adults are predictive for the development of future coronary heart disease." The study was described to a Senate health subcommittee Sept. 16.

-The U.S. Public Health Service and the Federal Trade Commission both are trying to improve television advertising directed at children, and U.S. Surgeon General Julius Richmond wants a voluntary effort that could prompt parents to try to reduce their children's consumption of low-nutrition foods and snacks.

City Land Plan Hits New Snag

Vol. 52, No. 45

Avalanche-Journal Staff At the request of developer Ken Flagg, the Lubbock City Council this morning postponed until Dec. 8, the second and final reading of an ordinance to annex about 158 acres of land in Southwest Lub-

The deferment comes in the wake of a recent Justice Department indication that it may reject further annexation in Southwest Lubbock. Flagg's proposal would bring into the city land bordered by Indiana Avenue, Memphis Avenue, 98th and 106th streets. Also to be included would be a 660-foot strip east of Indiana Avenue and a 150-foot strip west of Memphis Avenue.

The status of another developer's annexation request in Southwest Lubbock is pending approval of the voting rights section of the Justice Department. A federal worker in that section last week indicated to the city that further annexations in the southwest part of town may be denied on the grounds minority voting strength would be weakened.

The city council also amended a planning and zoning commission recommendation that land use of tract north and south of 69th Street and east of Slide Road be limited.

After lengthy arbitration between home owners and commercial property owners in the area, the commission recommended that the commercial (C-4) zoning on the tract be limited to 49 types.

The home owners had asked that the uses be limited because the reidential property abuts the commercial zone. The C-4 property owners complained that because the zone was established before the residences were built, they should not be limited in using it.

After an hour of listening to arguments by both sides, the council decided to approve on first reading an ordinance that would limit the C-4 land north of 69th Street to the commission's recommended uses, which the commercial property owners have agreed are acceptable to

The lots south of 69th Street that already have been committed to certain C-4 uses should be allowed to remain, the council decided. But the uncommitted lots should be restricted to local retail (C-2), restricted local retail (C-2A) and general retail (C-3) district uses, the council

This afternoon the council was scheduled to discuss fuel cost pass-throughs, industrial rates for natural gas customers and a proposed interconnect between Lubbock Power and Light and a private

A Community Development Advisory Committee recommendation on how to spend $4.5 million in federal funds also will be informally reviewd.

Detroit School Bus Target Of Shots

DETROIT (AP) - Shots were fired at a moving school bus today, and three children were slightly injured by flying glass, police reported.

Authorities said they were looking for two boys at a high school in connection with the incident

The injured children, all in the middle grades at Boynton Elementary Schools, complained of slivers of glass after arriving at school, the school secretary reported. Their eyes were washed out at nearby hospitals and they were sent home.

Witness Links

AMARILLO (AP) - A defense witness testified today that shooting victim Stan Farr told him he wanted his pistol returned because he might have "trouble" with millionaire murder defendant Cul-

Ronnie Bradshaw, co-owner of a saloon that Farr managed, said Farr pointed out that Davis' estranged wife was going back into divorce court and there could be trouble.

Farr was living with Mrs. Davis at the time, the summer of 1976.

"Is it not a fact that Mr. Farr expressed fear that he might have trouble with Cullen Davis and that's why he wanted his gun back?" prosecutor Marvin Collins asked on cross-examination.

"That's correct," Bradshaw replied.

Bradshaw said, under defense questioning, that Farr told him in June 1976 that he needed his pistol returned because he was also afraid of Horace Copeland, who was slain a year after a shooting spree at the Davis mansion. 'He didn't think Horace would bother him, but he'd have somebody," Bradshaw said Farr told him. A surprise witness Wednesday said Farr was secretly dating her and that he was carrying a pistol the week before he was slain. "He said he needed it because people were after him," Kimberly Lewis, 19,

She said Farr referred to Mrs. Davis as his "investment

Farr, 30, was killed and Mrs. Davis, 36, wounded in the Aug. 2, 1976 shooting at the $6 million Davis mansion in Fort

The defendant's step-daughter Andrea Wilborn, 12, also was slain in the midnight gunfire that crippled Gus Gavrel, 22, a family friend. It is the death of Miss Wilborn for which the 44-year-old Davis is on trial.

Miss Lewis testified she met Farr at the Rhinestone Cowboy, a night club he managed, in March 1976. She said they began dating, mostly during the day, and would meet at the club or at a housing project in which Farr was involved.

Carter Sees Slow Business Upturn

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter said today the nation's unemployment rate has levelled off at 7 percent, and that he does not think his economic stimulus program can begin to have a substantial impact before next year.

"It's a tedious, slow process," the president told a nationally broadcast news conference.

Carter said the "general worldwide economic slowdown" is causing unemployment problems in all nations, a situation he said he hopes will improve next

Carter noted that the economic stimulus package passed by Congress early this year contains $21 billion for programs designed to reduce joblessness. He said the full amount would not be pumped into the economy until next June

Carter also said he expects to endorse within a few days a modified version of full-employment legislation that has been an issue since the 1976 presidential cam-

The bill sponsred by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and Rep. Augustus Hawkins, D-Calif., sets a goal of an adult unemployment rate no higher than 4 percent within five years, and would have the government provide jobs for people who couldn't find them otherwise. Carter said he agrees with the concept and his staff is negotiating changes in the details of the legislation.

On the Middle East, Carter expressed concern about "this new outburst of viol-ence" on the Israel-Lebanon border, but he said he is not condemning Israel for what he described as retaliation for terrorist attacks

"If the provocation was absent, the retaliation would have been unnecessary he said, then adding that "the bloodshed, in my opinion, will not be stopped until the nations are willing to negotiate."

At the same time. Carter said the crossborder fighting points up the "volatile nature" of the Middle East and the need for an early convening of a peace confer-

"The bloodshed, in my opinion, will not be stopped until the nations are willing to negotiate," he said.

Carter said that he does not view the misdemeanor conviction of former CIA Director Richard Helms as a "badge of honor." After Helms had pleaded no contest to a misdemeanor charge that he failed to testify fully before a Senate committee about CIA activities in Chile, his lawyer described the conviction as an

Helms has contended he was upholding his oath to protect CIA secrets.

Carter said the administration's goals in settling the Helms case through plea bargaining were to uphold the law, to uphold the veracity of those who hold high government positions and to protect the security of the nation.

He said those goals were met. But he said of the Helms conviction:

"It is not a badge of honor and a public official does not have a right to lie.

On other topics, Carter: - Said he would present a national health insurance program early next year, but it is "too early yet to lay down specifics" of the program.

- Said there are "about 50,000 dams that need to be inspected without delay' to prevent further tragedies like the Toc-coa dam collapse in Georgia.

— Said he "reluctantly" cancelled his scheduled trip abroad, but "I think the best thing I can do the rest of this year is to work closely with Congress" on energy

Wednesday, told reporters, "we do not apologize for the operation itself."

Lebanese and Palestinian searchers dug deeper into the rubble left by the raiding Israeli warplanes, as the Lebanese government announced the death toll had passed the 100 mark.

The governor's office in Sidon, the provincial capital of South Lebanon, also reported casualties in the bombing and strafing of villages and Palestinian refugee camps in southwest Lebanon.

Officials said at least 80 per cent of the casualties were civilians and most of them were Lebanese.

The Lebanese government charged that the attack was "overt aggression" and said it would bring it to the attention of the U.N. Security Council. The Syrian government radio accused the Israelis of a "deliberate attempt to further obstruct American peacemaking efforts in the Middle East."

Despite Israel's claim that its air force attacked only Palestinian military targets, foreign correspondents who toured devastated villages and a refugee camp found no evidence of guerrilla positions.

"Why have they killed our innocent babies? The wrath of God on the cursed Israeli pilots!" said a Palestinian woman weeping for nine dead children in the infirmary at the Burj el Shimali refugee

School Gets Use Of Heroin Proposals From Blacks In Cancer Eyed

BOYNTON, Okla. (AP) - The Boynton School Board has been handed a list of 'affirmative action proposals" drawn up by a group of black parents in connection with a racial dispute.

A five-member adult delegation presented the two-page list during a short meeting Wednesday night.

The list was headed by a request that a cancelled high school talent show be rescheduled and that Sherida Jones, a black senior, be allowed to read the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s speech, "I had a School Supt. Harold Cantwell said he discouraged the girl from reciting the civil rights speech because he had heard rumors that some former students were planning to disrupt the speech.

After the talent show was scrapped last Friday, all but six of the school's 120 black students, roughly half of the enrollment, began a boycott of classes in protest of the action.

Meanwhile, officials denied reports that the incident had left the town racked with tension.

One reporter on the scene Wednesday night said he visited local taverns and other gathering spots and did not sense that the community was in turmoil over the chain of events.

However, two county sheriff's deputies and some highway patrolmen reportedly went to the meeting as a precauction. But the meeting, attended by about 300 persons, was peaceful and lasted only about 15 minutes

Police Chief Chuck Meyers said earlier in the day that he feared the boycott would bring "outsiders" to the Muskogee County community and that would result in problems.

I'm not worried about our local people - they're good people and can work things out," Meyers said. "But it's out-ofcounty and out-of-state people that come in who can cause problems.

The black delegation asked the school board to reply to the proposals within 48 hours or their case would be turned over to "stronger and more staunch defenders of human rights. The list included a request that no action would be taken against any student involved "in a peaceful protest" and that absenteeism associated with the boycott would in no way affect the students' academic standing. Noting that the town's population is about 50 percent black, the group requested that teaching staff and support vacancies be filled by blacks until school employees are 50 percent black or there is "equal representation.

Of the 20 teachers currently in the system, only four are black.

WASHINGTON (AP) - National Can- cancer patients are being held back be-

cer Institute officials will go to the White House next week to discuss cancer pain and ways of easing it, including the possible use of heroin.

The meeting between Carter administration aides and institute officials, including NCI Director Dr. Arthur Upton. is the result of an administration request to reassess potential medical uses of certain abused drugs, an NCI spokesman

Dr. Peter Bourne, President Carter's special assistant for health matters, said Wednesday the White House wants drugs such as heroin and marijuana reassessed in an unbiased way, without regard to their history of abuse.

Bourne said the request to re-examine controlled drugs on a scientific basis does not mean the administration is advocating their use in medical treatment.

'We don't perceive this as being that large an issue, but thought it should be examined." Bourne said in an interview. White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said Bourne suggested the reevaluation to the president, and Carter agreed to ask NCI to look at heroin as a possible relief for the pain of terminal formed last year after a visit to Japan by "Born Free" author Joy Adamson, will send letters to more than 10 foreign conservation organizations soliciting their support in the project.

The company building the park plans to release 335 lions, tigers, and other wild animals in a forest in Shizuoka Province at the foot of Fuji.

In its appeal - to be mailed to foreign conservation groups - the Elsa Socieity will claim the park would damage the environment and mistreat the animals.

The re-evaluation request, made in a Sept. 21 memo from Bourne to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, specified no timetable for the reassessment. But Bourne said the request could result in more future federal research into the medical aspects of some illegal drugs.

Heroin is used in Great Britain and several other countries to relieve the pain associated with terminal cancer. But I really don't know if heroin is that different from what we are using now." Bourne said. "A decision based on future research may be that other opiate drugs are as good and that no change is needed concerning using heroin."

Dr. Edward C. Tocus, a pharmacologist who is chief of the drug abuse staff of the Food and Drug Administration, said heroin is a form of opium like morphine and other opiate narcotics already used as pain killers in this country.

The body turns heroin into morphine. so it is uncertain if heroin would provide any relief different from that of morphine, which is available for medical treatments. Tocus noted.

Marijuana has been shown in tests in the United States and elsewhere to effectively prevent or relieve some cases of severe nausea, including that common to cancer patients undergoing chemical therapy

While these preliminary results are promising. Tocus said marijuana is not approved for routine nausea treatment because little is known about proper dose levels or what cancer-therapy agents it would work with best.

William Foege said the center estimates that between 15,000 and 45,000 cases of unexplained pneumonia actually may be caused by the Legionnaires bacterium, and 13 percent of the victims die.

Testifying before a U.S. Senate subcommittee on health and scientific research Wednesday, Foege also said four people died of the illness in England recently, the first confirmed cases of Legionnaires' disease outside the United States or Spain.

Thirteen persons with severe pneumonia were admitted to a hospital in Nottingham, England, and four have died," Foege said

U.S. Sens. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass.; Jacob Javits, D-N.Y., and Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., head the committee, which was here to question CDC experts on the illness and progress in research.

It is unsettling to be living in a time when we have the know-how to put a man on the moon and yet can see a mysterious 'agent' sweep through ... a state convention, striking 182 people and causing 29 deaths," said Kennedy, who was chairman of the hearing.

He referred to the outbreak during a state American Legion convention in Philadelphia in 1976, when the disease received its name

Foege said the CDC has devoted more than 73,000 man-hours and spent more than $1.5 million trying to solve the mystery of the disease.

He said there was an outbreak of the disease in Benidorm, Spain, in July 1973 among vacationers from Scotland. Ten developed pneumonia and three died. The bacterium which causes Legionnaires' disease "has been around a long time," Foege said. "Though the first known evidence of its causing illness and death was in 1965, it is likely it was around a long time before then

Gas Pipeline To Carry Oil

WASHINGTON (AP) - The federal government is taking another step toward bringing oil from Alaska's North Slope to the lower 48 states

The action was taken this week by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, which approved plans to convert a natural gas pipeline into an oil line

The pipeline will move Alaska oil from California to Texas.

The commission's vote actually approved abandonment of a 669-mile gas line from Ehrenberg, Ariz. to Jal, N.M.

El Paso Natural Gas Co. plans to lease the facility to Standard Oil of Ohio, which plans to reverse the flow and adapt it for

The project is necessary because the West Coast cannot use all the oil from the new Alaska pipeline. No lines are ready to carry the excess to East and Midwest

The Standard plan still must get state approvals plus the commission's. It still may take two years to complete the con-

Meddler On The Roof

IN ITS INVESTIGATION of the Lubbock Independent School District, the U.S. Office of Education could find no evidence of discrimination against racial minorities.

Pupil-teacher ratios, in fact, are more favorable in those schools in which blacks and browns are in the majority

Everyone, as ought to be the case, is treated equally. A good education, alas, is of no interest to the U.S. Justice Department. It is still pushing its suit, to be heard by federal Judge Halbert O. Woodward beginning Monday, to force more mixing of students on the basis of race.

It would be in the public interest if the Justice Department, in presenting its case, would try to explain where in the constitution it says that racial mix for the sake of racial mix can or ought to tractive urban image through design" and be required.

> Good News: Court-at-law Judge J.Q. Warnick's finding of guilty against persons charged with violating City ordinance by having flashing portable signs on their premises. Bad News: The token fines he imposed. The ordinance needs strong enforcement in the interest of public safety.

What set him off was a conversation, previously reported here, that Assistant City Atty. Ken Jones had with an attorney in the voting rights section of the U.S. Justice Department.

THIS GOVERNMENT lawyer, Bass wrote, said she "might object to future annexations in this (Southwest Lubbock) area because this appears to be housing primarily for anglos and would tend to dilute the voting strength of the minoriwould be in favor of calling their bluff and going ahead with city services and any other courthouse dogfight which might be necessary," Mayor Bass concluded.

IN A LETTER to President Carter, the mayor referred to another bureaucracy's high-handed and dictatorial meddling in local affairs.

Wrote Bass to Carter: "In your campaign and subsequent statements. I have understood you to advocate taking the decision-making process out of Washington and returning it to responsible local government. "HUD is busy working away to do just the opposite, in my opinion...Among other things, HUD arbitrarily is proposing a 75 per cent expenditure directly on low and moderate income neighborhoods and a 25 per cent expenditure for other projects or activities.

"The legislation doesn't say any such thing and (this) is another example of HUD's arrogant attempts to legislate on its own," Bass told the President

IN HIS NEARLY four years in office, Democrat Bass has become increasingly frustrated by the federal government's attempts to deny the people their constitutional right to self-government and local self-determination.

By empowering the Justice Department, HUD. et al, to push their noses into such matters as whether a city will extend its city limits, Congress is inflicting abuses upon the governed.

The annexation area in immediate controversy, incidentally, would add 64 persons to the city's 180,000 population. We're paying federal taxes to have federal bu-

The King, the Queen and the nobles of France were being, or about to be exterminated. The best of times-why not?

Britain had lost its American colonies and, if the French savants only knew it, the American inventor had an operable submarine at the service of France, which could blow open the walls of oak that sheltered British trade and terrified the whole of Europe.

OURS IS THE worst of times without any counterbalance for the good. I think no one will dispute me here. We have the worst President in memory, and perhaps the worst in history.

After declaring the equivalence of war on the energy crisis, the President botched up the battle as field commanders have seldom done.

For a while there was hope that the new and brilliant Secretary of Energy would save the day, but the magnificence of his job and opportunity seemed to have swollen Jim Schlesinger's head.

For a while it seemed that Cyrus Vance, Secretary of State, was a sort of staid Omar Bradley to offset the flamboyance of George Patton, but Vance has faded like a five inning pitcher.

It is the worst of times, also, because we have the worst Congress in memory and possibly in history. The one mighty man of the Hill seems to be Senate Majority leader Robert Byrd.

If the Energy Package can be put together, Byrd will do it. Even so, it will be a poor thing after so much delay and amendment.

A new bastion of strength shows in Senator William Proxmire. D-Wis., the only man with the gumption to vote against Bert Lance's nomination. But Proxmire is a loner. None follow where he heads which is often against the wrong target. Senility has eaten like a worm in the Senate chairmanship-Sparkman, Magnuson, Stennis are dozers, and McClellan snoozes on at the taxpayers' hospital. ## How Private Is Your Private Pension Plan?

WHEN YOU, AN employe, join a private pension plan, are you making an investment to provide for your old age? Do you have a right to know the risks, as well as benefits, involved?

An uproar has been created in legal, business and labor circles by these significant, new questions and the lawsuit which provoked them. It also has split two U.S. government agencies-the SEC and the Labor Department. Briefly, the case involves a now 66-year-old former Teamster, John B. Daniel. He is suing the Teamsters Union and his pension plan trustees, charging that he was defrauded of his pension because he was never told that he had to put in 20 years of quote uninterrupted unquote service to qualify for benefits.

DANIEL ARGUES that when a worker joins a pension plan he is making an investment deci-sion. Thus, his interest in the plan should be considered a security-subject to the anti-fraud provisions of federal securities laws requiring that all material facts, including risk of loss, be disclosed before an investment decision is made.

Daniel was never told these facts, he contends. It was only when he retired three years ago, after 22 1/2 years as a truck driver and plan participant, that his plan trustees informed him he was ineligible for a pension because of an involuntary four-month layoff a full 12 years earlier.

In March 1976, a lower court ruled in Daniel's favor. The Teamsters appealed the decision, and the appeal forced the SEC and Labor Department into diametrically opposed camps.

THE SEC AGREED with Daniel that a worker's interest in a pension plan falls under the anti-fraud rules of the securities laws. The Labor Department sided with the Teamsters, arguing that a pro-Daniel decision would disrupt the collective bargaining process because unions would no longer be able to act as exclusive agents of employes.

The appeals judge termed the Labor Department argument "specious," adding that the only negative effect on unions "will be in preventing them from defrauding their rank and file with Another backer of the Teamsters, the ERISA Regulations Industry Committee which represents some 80 large corporations, claims that if Daniel wins, other workers would sue to collect their denied pensions, thus making pension funds liable for $200 billion.

This prediction "results mainly from their zeal as advocates," said the appellate judge. (ERISA refers to the 1974 Employe Retirement Income Security Act which did not go into effect early enough to cover Daniel.)

THE LABOR Department sympathizes as well with plan administrators who fear the added paperwork and overhead that would come if pension plans fell under the purview of the SEC. The La-bor Department and IRS already share jurisdiction over pension plans.

The appeals court downgraded all these fears and complaints, ruling in favor of Daniel on Aug. 20. The Teamsters plan to appeal to the Supreme

What Makes 'em So-o-o Smart?

WASHINGTON-Of making many books, said the Preacher, there is no end. He might have been thinking of the Washington press corps.

This year has seen a torrent of books-fiction. non-fiction, history and biography-pouring forth from Washington fountains.

THREE BOOKS DEAL with the presidential campaign of 1976, with particular emphasis upon the Jimmy Carter team.

Jules Witcover's "Marathon," from Viking, is a solid, workmanlike survey of Carter's pursuit of the presidency from the time in 1972 when the Georgian made his clumsy bid for the second place on the McGovern ticket.

A less comprehensive account, though it is better documented in some ways, is Martin Schram's "Running for President 1976." Both of these books are the work of major leaguers.

The best in this division, not surprisingly, is Elizabeth Drew's "American Journal." It comes from Random House. Just as her "Washington Journal" provided the best comprehensive look at Watergate, so this big book splendidly covers the larger scene of 1976.

Squarely in the midst of the Ford-Reagan fight for delegates, she inserts a cool sentence: "Today the United States landed on Mars."

MRS. DREW'S great gift as a reporter is to keep things in perspective.

She is a pensive person, quiet, reserved, with an unusual knack of detaching herself from the events she covers.

She works at her craft, incessantly interviewing the men and women who make news; she does her own leg work, notebook in hand; she thinks before she starts batting out copy.

For a single, penetrating look at what it was like, July 4, 1976, Mrs. Drew's 500-word account captures the essence.

In the afternoon, when the bells began ringing at the National Cathedral, she could go out in her backyard and hear them. In the evening, she and some friends "drank beer and ate hamburgers and chocolate cake until it grew dark," and then

Calories Indestructible

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D. DEAR DR LAMB-You have stated that a calorie is a calorie is a calorie. I find this hard to understand. Is there no variability within the net-gross relationship? How does one reckon with caloric content in the stool? Are not some calories more easily extracted from some foods than others? What about the energy used to digest foods? Shouldn't you subtract the energy used to digest food from the calories in the food intake? To illustrate, it would seem the 100 calories of refined sugar would require very little energy to digest, but a high fiber bran would leave the body after much energy expenditure.

taking many calories with it. DEAR READER - Your illustrations are correct. Your application of them is not. When we refer to a calorie being a calorie - no matter what - we simply mean that energy can neither be created nor destroyed. The 100 calories in sugar is 100 calories, and it is no less or no more than 100 calories found in butter, margarine, fruit, or cereal containing bran.

Once you ingest those calories, they must indeed be absorbed, and a person who has a problem in absorption. perhaps with diarrhea, will tend to lose weight even when eating a lot of calories because they are never absorbed into the body. The calories are lost in the stool. However, healthy people without medical problems have a fairly constant absorption and differences in absorption in that case are not significant in terms of preventing obesity or providing en-

Youngest Kidnap Victim Now Topless Dancer

By ROBERT HEARD AUSTIN (AP) — Kidnapped when she was only 29 minutes old, Carolyn Wharton Smith has endured physical abuse all her life, including a gang rape, but still has the body of a topless dancer. She dances for both fun and profit and with the blessing of her husband, Frank, who is a deejay at the Doll House, where she works.

Grain Futures

CHICAGO (AP) - A winter-like storm moving into the Midwest generated slight price gains for grain futures Wednesday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

But larger early gains were pared when commercial grain users sold futures contracts in the soybean and corn pits to hedge their purchases in the cash market.

Soybean contracts rose an average of three cents, with the current November delivery closing at $5.881/2 a bushel. Corn futures gained about one cent, to lift the nearest contract to $2.21% a bushel. In each pit, however, one contract for delivery late next year finished fractionally lower.

Much of the upturn was laid to the prospect of snow and sleet in the Midwest. Soybean and corn combining has been interrupted for more than a week by rains, and further inclement weather could damage unharvested crops.

Higher cash bids for corn also supported the upturn, as did reports that farmers sold only limited amounts of eorn and soybeans at country points overnight.

But hedging, a device used by commercial firms to reduce the risk of price fluctuations, and profit-taking by local professionals worked against the gains.

In the wheat pit, substantial sales by grain exporters were absorbed by local professionals and contracts rose fractionally. Oats posted the largest advances, averaging more than two cents.

Soybean oil and meal futures, paralleling the movement in beans, rose slightly. At the close, soybeans were 1/2 lower to 514 cents a bushel higher, November 5.881/2; wheat 1/4 to 1/2 higher, December 2.67%; corn was % lower to 2 higher, December 2.2134 and oats were 11/2 to 23/4 higher, December 1.341/2.

States Have Different Ideologies, Mutual Needs

By TONY AVIRGAN
DEDZA, Malawi (AP) — The 48 miles of paved road between this small town and the even smaller town of Nchev forms the border between black Africa's most staunchly capitalist and most militantly Marxist states.

To the east is Malawi, where the president-for-life, Dr. Hastings Banda leads his country on a course aimed at achieving economic development through private enterprise and individual initiative.

Across the road is Mozambique where the Marxist-Leninist Frelimo Party has established a "dictatorship of the proletariat" and intends developing the country through communal efforts. The only indication that the road forms a border ideological and political — is a sign at Dedza which says that goods moved across the road are subject to duty.

Malawians say that up to three years ago, when Mozambique was still a Portuguese colony, they used to cross the road to drink Portuguese wine and eat Portuguese food.

One resident of Dedza recalled that he could just walk across the road to eat at a Portuguese cafe. But if he wanted to phone ahead for a reservation, the call to the cafe, which is less than a mile from his house, had to go through London and

The cafe is still there, but the owner, like most other white settlers in Mozam-bique, fled when Frelimo came to power about 2 1/2 years ago.

Residents on the Malawi side of the road say that the wine and fine cooking are now gone

Aside from the signs which advertise "beer" on the Malawi side of the road and "cervejo" on the former Portuguese side, one of the easiest ways to tell which country one is in is by the dress of the women. The Malawian women conform to Banda's strict dress code and wear skirts which reach the floor.

Dress in the cases across the road is likely to be miniskirts.

The land on the Mozambican side of the road is a remote section of that country's Tete Province. There is no indication that Frelimo's revolution has reached this corner of the country.

People on either side of the road go back and forth freely and the Mozambican national language, Portuguese, and the Malawian national language, Chichewa, are spoken interchangeably.

. But the Malawian government, based in Lilongwe, and the Mozambican gov-

WASHINGTON (UPI) - In Washington, D.C., there seems to be Holiday Inn on every corner.

Indeed, there are 27 inns in the District of Columbia and the suburbs of Northern Virginia and Maryland.

We haven't figured out how many there are per square mile," said Ann Wilson of Holiday Inn, Inc. in Memphis, But Washington has one of the highest numbers of inns for a metropolitan Only Los Angeles and New York City including Long Island -outnumber Washington with 29 inns each.

But there is good reason for the proliferation of inns in the nation's capital. It is a premium market because the "economic and demographic variables which make up a good market are growing such as the large number of trade association meetings and conventions taking place, office space absorption rates, extensive business and international business traveling," she said.

The district area was one of the top eight cities showing significant gains in sales, increase in room rates and room occupancy, according to Laventhol & Horwath, a Silver Spring firm which monitors activity in the hotel industry.

"The Washington market has grown 6 percent per year in the past 5 years and we're projecting an 8 to 10 percent annual growth rate for the next five years," said Ron Moitzfield, director of the company's management advisory services.

"Washington is unique in that the federal government provides a degree of insulation from fluctuations in hotel demands. This is the international capital of the United States; there is demand from people who come here on business wth the government and the trade associations and there is convention and tourist

While other cities, like New York, bring in more revenue, "in terms of stability, no other city in the country can compare (with Washington)," he said.

Craig Weichmann, a Holiday Inn marketing officer in charge of corporate acquisition, said before a new inn is purchased the company makes sure the market is strong enough to support a new motel at a profit, while not drawing business from existing inns.

The Connecticut Avenue inn is the only one in the Washington area owned wholly by the parent company.

Twenty-three inns are owned by franchisees who pay an initial franchise fee of $15,000, plus $100 for each room over 100 rooms. Most inns have a 160-room capaci-

MOSCOW (AP) — Eight of the 233 adults at the U.S. embassy in Moscow appear to have unusually high white blood cell counts, embassy sources say, but the State Department contends that continuing Soviet microwave radiation of the building has nothing to do with the blood condition.

Some scientists are questioning this assertion. They point to links between mi-crowaves and blood abnormality found in Soviet clinical studies as well as U.S. laboratory experiments.

The sources say that in tests on 233 adults at the embassy, eight had more than 5,000 lymphocytes, a type of white blood cell, per cubic millimeter of blood. Tests on children were inconclusive, the sources say.

Dr. Kris Murawski, a Red Cross official in Washington, said 1,000 to 3,000 lymphocytes per cubic millimeter is normal for adults.

He also said no figures were available on the statistical incidence of 5,000-plus lymphocyte counts in the United States. But the embassy sources said the incidence of one in 29 at the embassy was unquestionably abnormal. Special testing and review of health histories began for embassy personnel and their families after the Moscow embassy was designated an "unhealthful post" a year ago. That designation entitles Americans serving here to increased hardship pay or better retirement benefits.

However, the State Department denies that the Soviet microwave bombardment — detected as far back as 1962 — has anything to do with the high white-cell levels. The department says anything from virus to intestinal parasites could be reponsible, and that screens mounted over embassy windows reduce the intensity of the microwaves to an indoor level well within both Soviet and American safety standards.

The Soviets deny any attempt to lace the embassy with microwaves. U.S. officials say they believe the beams are intended to foil American electronic devices gathering intelligence.

The elevated white blood cell counts were first reported last January, when the embassy medical office posted a notice saying levels slightly higher than average had been found "in about one-third of the individuals tested" up to that time.

White blood cells are the body's defense against foreign substances and build up in great concentrations to fight infection. But abnormally high counts that persist are symptomatic of blood diseases including leukemia.

Group Fights Hunting On Wildlife Refuges

WASHINGTON (AP) - A conservationist is trying to convince a government task force that hunting is permitted too readily on federal wildlife refuges.

John Grandy, executive vice president of Defenders of Wildlife, a conservation organization, says he hopes to persuade the task force to restrict hunting on the refuges when it takes up the issue today.

The task force was set up to review problems the national wildlife refuge system will face in the coming decade and to suggest solutions.

Each year people legally hunt on about one-third of the nation's 365 national wildlife refuges.

In 1974, hunters killed 296,444 migratory birds, 228,477 upland birds and animals and 10.412 big game animals, including almost every species that can be killed legally on private land, from rabbits and pheasants to moose and bighorn

Proponents of hunting on refuge lands argue that hunters kill only "surplus" game - animals that would otherwise die from natural causes such as starva-

of such rare species as the desert bighorn

"There are only a handful of desert bighorns left," Grandy said. "They shouldn't be subjected to hunting on national wildlife refuges; they're subjected to hunting everywhere else they exist."

Grandy says the government shouldn't allow any species to be hunted "unless it benefits the species concerned."

He contended in an interview that at least 60 percent of a refuge should be set aside to "provide sanctuary to all wild-

Federal refuges were made "inviolate sanctuaries" by the Migratory Bird Con-servation Act of 1929. But the law was amended in 1958 to permit hunting of migratory waterfowl on up to 40 percent of a refuge, and it does not restrict hunting for non-migratory species such as deer, upland birds and small game.

Reporter Finds Novel 'Mainly Unsuccessful'

DITOR'S NOTE: The writer, UPI's State De-ment correspondent, traveled on the Kissinger lle East shuttles, the background for the novel he National Interest," by Marvin Kalb and Ted

By JIM ANDERSON

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Middle East shuttles in 1974-75 were exhilarating and exhausting experiences. Everyone who was there could not help feeling a brush with history, even in supporting roles to Henry Kissinger's star

The only time I ever asked an official for an autograph was the time I asked Kissinger to sign the draft of the map of the Israel-Syrian settlement.

Marvin Kalb and Ted Koppel, two television correspondents (CBS and ABC) who flew on most of the shuttles, have now put their memories and their fantasies into a book.

In the current Washington literary fashion they have concocted a roman a clef, in which the disguised characters closely match real people.

Gloria, the reporter from the Washington Star, can be seen as Marilyn Berger, then of the Washington Post. Brian Fitzgerald, supposedly of the Washington Post, is Jeremiah O'Leary, a crusty veteran of the Washington Star.

The mutual emnity between these two is hinted at, but Kalb-Koppel left out the good parts, such as the time Berger offered to decapitate O'Leary with a tray, or the time O'Leary knocked Berger down in the rush to a Kissinger briefing. The switch of competitors makes Herb Kaufman, supposedly a UPI reporter, of an AP reporter who really was there. The UPI reporters who were on the shuttles didn't make the book.

Kissinger is Felix Vandenberg in the book, with a British accent. His lovehate relationship with the reporters, his habit of nibbling at his fingers, and his penchant for playing games with the truth are accurately portrayed.

"Dr. Jamaal Safat of the OLPP" is actually Yasir Arafat of the Palestine Liberation organization. "Ya'acov Ben-Dor, prime minister of Israel" is Yitzhak Rabin, and almost every other major character is easily recognizable.

Against this background, Kalb and Koppel begin to fantasize. The only really heroic figure is a television correspondent whose last name begins with a

He has everything: instant access to the Secretary of State, an apparently inexhaustible expense account which permits first-class travel to everywhere.

who turns out to be the CIA station chief in Beirut.

In real life none of the reporters had instant access to Kissinger and all of them were too tired or busy to be successful lovers.

The TV correspondent, who repeatedly scoops everybody else on the plane (which is not how it was in real life), is named Darius Kane. The first name is a tribute to the man to whom the book is dedicated, Darius Jhabvala, a frail, saintly correspondent for the Boston Globe, who died in 1974 shortly after the marathon 32-day Jerusalem-Damascus tions, the book has the hard feel of genuine currency. When they are indulging in their fantasies, the book clanks like an old tin can.

Kissinger (who is writing a non-fiction book which will include the shuttles) once quoted a London review of one of his earlier books: "Dr. Kissinger may or may not be a great writer, but anyone who can get through his book is a great reader.

It requires a really exceptional reader to get through the love scenes in "In the National Interest." Even Playboy magazine, which printed an excerpt of the book, charitably excised the love scenes.

nalist cannot find true happiness with a CIA station chief, even she is a dish.

It is a valiant, but mainly unsuccessful try, to make a novel out of the Middle East and the Kissinger diplomacy. The parently inspired by that, another TV reporter, Richard Valeriani of NBC, has begun to put together yet another account of the epic years of the Kissinger shuttles.

Postal Service Eyes Curb Of Deliveries

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Postal Service, considering an end to Saturday mail deliveries, may allow them to continue in some rural areas.

The provision would be aimed at parts of the country where weekly newspapers often are delivered on Saturday. Urban areas probably would not be eligible.

"One of the things we have under consideration is to give rural areas that need Saturday delivery a local option," Deputy Postmaster General William Bolger said in an interview.

Under this option, if Saturday mail were continued in some areas, deliveries would be discontinued in those areas on another day of the week.

Bolger called the proposal "one of the major issues" under consideration in the event deliveries are cut to five days a week

He said any cutback would not take place for at least several months because the Postal Rate Commission must hold hearings on any reduced service proposal, then issue an advisory opinion before the change could take place.

Cutting deliveries to five days a week would save an estimated $412 million a year, which in turn would help hold down postal rate increases, the service says.

The Postal Service now is trying to sort out conflicting results from three polls designed to show whether the public wants Saturday mail deliveries contin-

So far, about 80 percent of the people responding to each poll say they could do without Saturday deliveries. But two of those polls found less than half the respondents approved of the cutback.

We still are studying the results annd we have not made up our minds one way or the other," Bolger said.

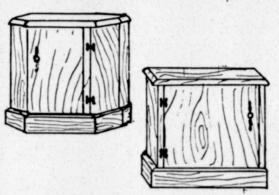

In September, the House voted 377 to 9 to ask the Postal Service to continue sixday delivery. Legislation to prohibit delivery cutbacks, which has received committee approval, is expected to reach the House floor early next year.

The Postal Service announced it was 'seriously considering' the cutback in Commenting on the arrest of Ma, the 39-year-old publisher of the colony's largest newspaper, the Oriental Daily, Narcotics Bureau Superintendent Dick Williamson said in an interview:

"The implication of this case is that it's very dangerous to become involved in drugs here.

The operations of drug dealers and the attitude and approach of the colony police department and government is vastly different today from what it was during the heyday of the drug empires.

A government source said policy then was one of indifference, at times complete apathy

That's changed today. The government has launched publicity campaigns to stress the harmful effects of drugs and has given needed support to police.

The watershed event marking this change in policy, Williamson said, was the smashing of the Godfather empire. Since then, the aim of the Narcotics Bureau, he said, has been "to hit the major figures in the drug syndicates rather than attacking the problem at the street level. That's the job of the police depart-

The Godfather case, Williamson said, made things hot for the other dealers. Many of the major drug personalities left the colony and it set about an exodus of numerous 'chemists' (those who process drugs for street sale).

"Presently drugs are scarce in Hong Kong and expensive.

Most of the drug dealers today are small-time operators whom Williamson described as "suitcase dealers."

'All the equipment they require can actually be put in a suitcase," he said.

These dealers "usually operate in a small flat or, if in a rural area, a hut, and use such household equipment as buckets, small electric heaters and fans

Their deals are prearranged with a particular individual. They very rarely sell their product to just anyone on the streets. It's too dangerous.

During the 1960s and early 1970s, Williamson said, the bosses imported most of their heroin and opium from the Golden Triangle -the infamous poppy-growing region formed by the borders of Burma, Laos and Thailand.

Most of the Golden Triangle drugs reached Hong Kong in freighters or Thai fishing trawlers.

After the drugs were received, drug bosses contracted "chemists" who processed the drugs in refineries often located in apartments.

After the drugs were processed, a deal was made with a distributor who quickly got the product on the streets.

Williamson said about 90 percent of the illegal drugs which used to pour into the colony was for the local market. The rest

London's Shops Lure Foreign Travelers

With airfares to London drastically reduced and the pound greatly devalued, travelers to the British Isles this fall may have more money to spend on those quality goods Britains is famous for.

A new airfare plan, adopted by many scheduled airlines including Pan Am. TWA and Britain's Laker Airways, went into effect in September. The plan offers a round-trip ticket between New York and London for about $250, less than half of the previous charge of $700.

During the past three years, the pound's value has dropped from $2.60 to $1.78. Although this does not always mean much in shopping savings since inflation also has hit the city, visitors will probably find a few bargins favoring the U.S. dollar, according to the American Autombile Association.

London is a shopper's paradise with a maze of fascinating specialty shops in several neighborhoods. Buyers may unearth anything from an antique button to an outsized emerald; discover the best pipes in the world or paintings by one of the Old Mastors

The West End offers the shopper the greatest variety of goods. Bond Street has its jewelers and art galleries: Savile Row its fine tailoring. Charing Cross its old books and Carnaby Street its trendy fashions.

The unforgettable Harrods of Knightsbridge is Britain's largest department store: its floors incorporate everything from baked pheasant to fine crystal

Shoppers with less to spend may prefer Selfridges on Oxford Street, says the AAA, with the store's abundance of takehome gifts and its large restaurant. Nearby Marks and Spencer is noted for value in knitwear and well-made children's clothes.

London abounds with more dealers of antiques than anywhere else in the world, and they can be found in all sections of the city. For instance, Elliott and Snowdon on Kensington Church Street in the southwest section of the city is known for its supply of antique arms and maps. Hart and Halidays on Beauchamp Place also in southwest London, is famous for its ancient fireplace mantels.

More than 100 open-air markets in the city provide colorful settings for the sale of second-hand goods. Probably the most informal of these markets is Petticoat Lane (actually on Middlesex Street in east London), which features strolling entertainers.

Generally, London shops open at 9 a m and close at 5:30 p m. Monday through Saturday. Most are closed on Sunday The Old Curiosity Shop, located on Portsmouth Street, offers a wide range of antiques and is one of the few shops in central London open on Sundays.

A few stores do not open on Saturday afternoons, and some do not open at all on Saturday

Shops in the West End of London stay open until 9 p.m. on Thursdays, and in Knightsbridge, Sloan Square and King's Road, until 8 p.m. on Wednesday, late shopping night.

London suburban stores operate during the same hours, but normally close one afternoon a week, usually Wednesday or Thursday

Travelers' checks in U.S. dollars are accepted in all banks and most hotels and major stores. Banking hours are from 9:30 a.m. until 3:30 p.m., Monday to Friday, closed on weekends. Banks also are open late one afternoon a week — until 4:30 or 7 p.m. — usually on Wednesday and Thursdays.

Shopping organizations provide expert escorts who know where to buy anything a tourist might possibly wish to purchase. Visitors who plan only a short stay in London and who are unfamiliar with shopping areas, may want to take advantage of these escort services. Charges vary according to shopping needs and size of the car hired for the trip.

Among the organizations in London providing shopping escorts are Dundas International, 190 Camden Hill RD., W8, telephone 01-229,6267; Take-A-Guide, 85 Lower Sloane St., Wl, telephone 01-629-5267 and Ask Me Another, 13 New Bond St., Wl, telephone 01-493-3661.

The Citizens' Advice Bureau, with about 100 branches in the Greater London area, offers advice to consumers. Headquarters of the London CAB is 31 Wellington St., WC2E7Q, telephone 01-379-6841. Bureau addresses are available from all London libraries, post officers and town halls and the London telephone directory.

London's public transportation system provides easy access to almost every part of the city. Free pocket maps of London Transport bus and underground — subways to Americans and "tubes" to Londoners — services may be obtained from London Transport Enquiry offices located at Piccadilly Circus, Oxford Circus, King's Cross, Euston, Victoria and St. James underground stations and from the British Tourist Authority, 64 St. James St., SWI, London.

Go-As-You-Please tourist tickets allow four to seven days of unlimited travel on all of London's red buses and most of the underground routes. These tickets are available from the London Transport Information Centers at Piccadilly Circus, Oxford Circus, King's Cross, Euston, Victoria and St. James underground sta-

For about $1.50, tourists may ride double-decker red buses anywhere, any time and as often as they wish for one day. Red bus tickets may be purchased at any underground station or at a London Transport Enquiry office.

Taxicabs are found all over the metropolitan area. If a cab is available, the words, "taxi" or "for hire" are lit up in yellow on top of the vehicle. The minimum fare is 75 cents for the first 900 yards (approximately one-half mile) and prices increase by about eight cents for every 450 yards thereafter. In addition there is an eight-cent charge for each additional passenger and an additional 18 cents to the fare betweenn 9 p.m. and 6

More information about visiting London is available from the British Tourist Authority, 680 Fifth Ave., New York, N.Y. 10019, telephone 212-245-2805, or any local travel agent.

Winter Tour Program Offered

London, for as little as $10 per person per day, highlights British Airways' and Arthur Frommer's new winter tour pro-

"Experience is the key to our ability to offer this low-cost tour program," explains Dave Schneider, U.S. marketing manager. "In the past year British Airways has sent nearly 100,000 persons to London on a variety of Arthur Frommer tours. Our objective is to provide the most value for the lowest price. And 'London On Ten Dollars A Day' is proof we can do that."

do that."

The low price tag includes an escorted transfer from London's Heathrow airport, accommodations with private bath, continental breakfast, one theater ticket (per stay) to a London play or musical, a car for a day, discounts at numerous shops and restaurants, free membership to a London casino

The $10 price per day is based on double occupancy at the Tavistock Hotel. Additional rates from $12 to $20 are available at a selection of five other hotels. Hotel confirmations are subject to availability, and a minimum stay of three days is required.

The program must be purchased in conjunction with one of British Airways' many transatlantic air fares, such as the advance purchase excursion fare starting at $290 (effective Sept.

26, subject to government approval).

British Airways flies to London from eight major U.S. gateway cities: Boston, Chicago, Detroit, Miami, Los Angeles, New York, Philadelphia and Washington, D.C.

"London On Ten Dollars A Day" is available from now through March 22, 1978.

Mart Shows Broad Gains In Trade

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market showed some broad gains

Gainers led losers by close to a 3-1 margin in the mid-morning tally of New York Stock Exchange is-

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which added 2.16 Wednesday, was off .69 at 817.74 after the first hour.

But the average would have shown a gain had it not been for a $3.25-a-share dividend payment adjustment in General Motors, one of the Dow's component stocks.

GM shares led the active list, down 1/4 at 651/4.

Analysts said the market was responding favorably to Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur Burns' reaffirmation Wednesday of the Fed's intention to restrain monetary growth in an effort to combat inflation.

American Telephone & Tele-graph rose % to 60. On Wednesday an offering of 12 million new ATT shares was begun at 59%.

Houston Oil & Minerals, the most active American Stock Exchange issue, gained % to 30%. The company reported sharply higher third quarter earnings Wednesday. Volume on the Big Board was a brisk 5.99 million shares in the first The NYSE's composite common-stock index rose .11 to 51.15, and the Amex market value index picked up .48 to 115.56.

Mistrial Declared In Case

Prosecutors literally tried to fit Jessie Ray Moore in with the crime. But the jury decided — even if the shoe did fit — it was not going to call Moore a criminal.

Moore, 26, formerly of 2611 Weber Dr.,
Apt. D, was accused of the Aug. 28 burglary of a convenience store at E. Soth Street and Southeast Drive.

A mistrial was declared by 140th Dist.
Judge William R. Shaver when a jury was unable to reach a verdict after nearly three hours of deliberation.

In trying to convict Moore, Aast. Dist.
Atty. Bob Jones, in a courtroom demonstration, had the defendant try on a pair of shoes and a shirt which were found near the store.

near the store.
Witness R.L. Caro testified that as he went by the store about 11:30 p.m. he saw a man, who was not wearing a shirt, near the store entrance.

Caro said he called police because it appeared to him that the man was trying to

He said the man fitted the general description given by Caro.

Milam said he pursued the suspect, and that the man dropped an object he was carrying. Milam said the object turned out to be a box of cigarettes.

The policeman said he eventually lost the man in a nearby field.

Found, he said, was a pair of shoes.

Milam also testified that he noticed a car parked in the area which had a shirt in it. The car was registered to Moore, he in it. The car was registered to Moore, he testified. It was brought out that Moore called police to report his car as being stolen about an hour later.

about an hour later.

With the jury watching, Jones had Moore try on the pair of shoes and the shirt confiscated by investigators.

Defense attorney Byron Chappell made light of the ploy. Det. Sgt. Doyle Nelson agreed with Chappell that the clothing could perhaps fit any number of people fitting Moore's general description.

The defense presented no testimony, but Chappell argued the state had failed to prove its case.

Margaret Mead To Visit Tech In December

At the age of 76, Dr. Margaret Mead, world famous anthropologist, has not stopped working.
On her Dec. 5 visit to Texas Tech University she will discuss modern society, from the vantage point of a scientist who has lived among and studied many socie-ties in the South Pacific islands. She has applied the knowledge gained to extensive studies of Western culture.

Mead continues to teach on an adjunct basis at Columbia University, to work as Curator emeritus of Ethnology in the New York and to travel the world talking about her views on education, social roles, culture change, family life and per-

The anthropologist, psychologist, teacher, lecturer, writer and observer of change will speak at Texas Tech at 8:15 p.m. Dec. 5 in the University Center Theatre. The public is invited to attend. In a recent article in Cosmopolitar magazine, Dr. Mead may have summed up her hope for modern society.

"We must remember that this is not an easy time to live in, for women or men. If we considered that more often, we'd all quit blaming ourselves so much." Her honors include 18 honorary doctorates and Time magazine's choice as "Mother of the World" in 1969. Her written works span almost 50 years. In 1928, her first study resulted in a best-selling book, "Coming of Age in Samoa." In 1972, she published "Blackberry Winter: My Earlier Years," an autobiography. "Ruth Benedict: A Biography" came in 1974, and she continues to write for "Redbook" magazine.

Midwest Digs Out After Fierce Storm

Wintry weather that dumped more. than a foot of snow on the upper Midwest ground its way toward Canada today, trailing low temperatures, gusting winds and some heavy snowfall.

The National Weather Service said the storm at midmorning was pushing through upper Michigan and Wisconsin, and said winds as high as 40 miles an and northern Iowa.

Many roads throughout the Midwest closed by the blizzard remained blocked by snowdrifts.

Travelers advisories for blowing and drifting snow continued in effect today for Minnesota, northwest Wisconsin and eastern upper Michigan. A heavy snow warning was issued for western upper

Mammoth Tax Debt By Johnsons Bared

HOUSTON (AP) - The Houston Post said today it has learned that the family of former President Lyndon B. Johnson once owed about $2.5 million in inheritance taxes to the state and federal governments.

In a copyrighted story from its Austin Bureau, the Post said the figure was arrived at after an extensive audit of Johnson's estate by the Internal Revenue Service, which substantially increased those taxes. The newspaper said that audit increased the taxable value of his share of the community property from the $2.9 million originally claimed by the family to A spokesman for the State Comptroller's office said the taxes due Texas have been paid. The IRS refused to say whether federal taxes on the estate had been An inventory of the estate was filed Oct. 23, 1973 and showed assets of about $4.3 million, liabilities of about $1.4 million and the net worth of slightly more than $2.9 million. All amounts are for Johnson's half of the estate he shared with his wife, Lady Bird Johnson.

A Lubbock State School employee testitive solution than one that calls for erection of steel barriers, he said.

Shapp's comments were made in a speech prepared for delivery this morning at a steel conference of political, labor and business leaders.

Meanwhile, Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., said in prepared comments to be delivered later today that President Carter seems to be more concerned with foreign relations than with the plight of the steelworkers.

Carter is jeopardizing the nation's steel workers in order to get a favorable international trade and tariff agreement, he

'Where are the president's priorities? It looks to me as if he's far more worried about diplomatic niceties and our relations with foreign nations that he is about steelworkers," Schweiker said.

Shapp said the steel crisis, though years in the making, has just recently become the focus of attention.

He noted that there are many causes for the industry's plight, including foreign imports, aging mills, a sluggish economy, smaller cars, public works projects, pollution expense and rising labor costs.

"Each of these reasons has some validity, thus the solution for our steel manufacturing problems is not simple," he

"But effective programs must be developed or there is a grave danger this nation could slip into a depresson period of major depth and length.

Shapp said about 10,000 steelworkers in Pennsylvania have been laid off in the past three months and that an estimated 100,000 workers have been affected in the state in the past decade.

We are now paying, in the form of lost jobs, lost income and lost revenues and inflated unemployment compensation and social costs for the failures of past policies to maintain demand for steel and to stimulate on a continuing basis modernization of investments in the steel industry," he said.

"These same dollars which are now committed to the nonproductive support of the unemployed and to the payments of trade adjustment assistance to industries could be targeted to programs to increase demand for steel and to modernize the productive capactity of the industry," the governor said.

The blizzard through this morning dumped 14 inches of snow at Canby, Minn., 13 inches at Bemidji, Minn., 12 at Watertown, S.D., and 11 at International Falls, Minn., the weather service said. Snowfall was heavy, too, in parts of North Dakota, Iowa and Nebraska.

Sunny skies were reported after daybreak in western and northern Minnesota, among the areas hit hardest the last two days, and motorists left stranded through the night were headed for home. Residents of eastern South Dakota bur-

Michael Muzzy, 23, of Thief River Falls, was struck and killed by an industrial loader as he worked to remove snow Wednesday near his hometown. And a motorist, Sandra Kerzman, 25, of Ward Springs, was killed Wednesday morning east of Sauk Centre when she was struck by a car while trying to signal County authorities said an elderly man found frozen near Perham on Wednesday had apparently died of natural causes not related to the storm.

In South Dakota, Gov. Richard Kneip and the state's budget officer, 'Rich Garry, remained stranded in Sioux Falls today after flying in Tuesday for meetings with lawmakers. They were sealed in when the airport was closed.

'Hopefully we'll get the state plane over there at noon," said Dan Garry, the governor's aide in Pierre.

The Highway Patrol still was advising against travel on roads in the extreme eastern part of the state. Snow plows were hampered by cars and trucks stranded along the roadways, they said. Schools and businesses in most of eastern South Dakota remained closed today. Although South Plains conditions were balmy by comparison, the area had its coldest weather of the season early this morning. The temperature dipped to 16 degrees at Spur southeast of Lubbock, and Dimmitt and Olton had wintry 19-degree readings.

Board Endorses Arts Festival

Members of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce board of directors today heard a report on plans for the chamber's nnual banquet Nov. 18 featuring former President Gerald Ford as guest speaker.

Lee Stafford told directors tickets for the banquet at Memorial Civic Center have been sold out for several weeks. About 2,000 are expected to attend the event, at which Rep. George Mahon also will be a guest.

Further details of the former president's visit here have not yet been made

In other action, directors voted to support and endorse the Lubbock arts festival currently being planned by the Lubbock Cultural Affairs Council. The council plans the arts festival in Lubbock, probably in April, 1979, at the Lubbock Civic Center. The directors were briefed by Ken Jones, a member of the city attorney's

Only one Israeli, a 35-year-old mother of two children, was reported killed by the rockets Tuesday. But Lt. Gen. Mordechai Gur, the Israeli chief of staff, said the four-hour span of the attack and the number of rockets fired indicated a change of policy by the guerrillas.

Hutchinson Junior High students probably knew much more about the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, the topic of a special school assembly today, than they had realized.

In science and math, the youngsters use calculators, miniature computers - in part, the product of NASA technology, explained Fred Kubesch of the Johnson Space Center. No doubt the students have read of a

When people think of NASA, they immediately think of space travel and exploration. But that's only part of the picture" Kubesch, a California State University assistant professor and NASA aerospace education specialist said

People don't seem to realize that the research and development NASA does have tremendous application right now, right here on earth.

The steady stream of technology coming out of NASA is being used in brainsurgery and cancer treatment, home design and kitchen appliances, pollution control and waste disposal, fire prevention and protection for firefighters, law enforcement and airline safety, industrial advancement, food products - the list goes on and on. And all those benefits, Kubesch said, are on top of the advantages and knowledge the United States and other countries gain from actual space travel. As they probe space and other planets,

NASA scientists better understand earth and earth sciences, he said. Also, the space program develops improved means of communication and weather prediction on earth. Kubesch added. Through the Region XVII Education

Service Center, Kubesch is lecturing to junior high schools in Whiteface, Mulesh oe. Olton, Cotton Center, Motley County, Floydada, Lubbock, Denver City, Seminole, Borden County, Slaton and Ralls.

His one-hour program includes demonstrations and discussions of basic principles and concepts in aeronautics, rocketry, satellites, probes, space communications and manned space flights.

Kubesch, who had been a science teacher and coach for eight years in Texas public and parochial schools, also is visiting individual classrooms to talk with students about astronaut training, living in space, propulsion, guidance and navigation, meteorology and geology from space, medical aspects of space flight, lunar exploration and experiments.

"Our job at NASA is so much like your job at school." Kubesch told the Hutchinson gathering. "We're in the business of gaining knowledge, learning new things.

MY ANSWER

By BILLY GRAHAM

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Do you think Christians still are supposed to keep the Ten Commandments; after all, we are living in a different period of time? -

DEAR W.N.O.: Yes, Christians still must obey the Ten Commandments. It is true that many of the regulations found in parts of the Old Testament no longer are directly applicable to our lives, although they may point out some principle about God that still is true. But the Ten Commandments reflect the moral nature of God Himself, and that never changes. It is interesting that every one of the Ten Commandments is either repeated by Jesus or followed by Him in His daily life.

Remember that the Ten Commandments deal with areas of life that are at the heart of society (see Exodus 20). They safeguard human life ("Thou shalt not kill"), family life ("Honour thy father and thy mother ... Thou shalt not commit adultery"), property ("Thou shalt not steal ... Thou shalt not covet") and even personal integrity ("Thou shalt not bear false witness"). If these are disregarded, the result is chaos and anarachy in society. The Ten Commandments also deal with the most important obligation we have - our obligation to worship and serve God, our Creator.

neglects the moral laws of God as summarized in the Ten Commandments Both the Bible and history show that God will judge such a people. I believe we need to get back to the Law of God in our own nation. Jesus summarized the Commandments in this way: "Thou shalt love the Lord

I fear for any nation or individual who thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind ... Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself" (Matthew 22:37, 39). Make these the goals of your life.

Civic Center Launches Audits To Find Funds

Internal and outside audits are being conducted in order to determine what happened to from $1,400 to $2,000, discovered missing recently from the box office of Lubbock Memorial Civic Center, The Avalanche-Journal has learned.

The money was discovered missing following the Oct. 21 appearance of the Doobie Brothers, according to Jim Weston, the director of community facilities. We're hoping the discrepancy is human error," Weston said. "We haven't filed a theft report because we're not certain that's what happened," he added. Weston confirmed that as many as 35 persons had access to the box office on the night of the Doobie Brothers' concert.

Weston said that $1,400 in funds-mostly checks-was missing and that $600 may have been a bookkeeping error. Mickey Yerger, Civic Center executive director, has requested polygraph examinations be administered to staff members, "hoping to exonerate the persons working that night."

MODERN CAVEMAN — Mike Oehler of Bonners Ferry, Idaho, chops wood in front of his underground home, built into the ridge of an Idaho Panhandle mountain for $500, including

Underground Homes Lauded

BONNERS FERRY, Idaho (AP) —
Back-to-the-land pioneer types in this Idaho panhandle region are going a step farther than most of their rural compatriots. They're going back to the caves.

But the lessons they're learning are strictly modern, not from the Stone Age.

A half-dozen underground houses are being constructed in this area. Owners say the subterranean dwellings are cheap, energy efficient, well insulated — warm in the winter, cool in the summer — maintenance free, soundproofed and suitable for use as a fallout shelter.

"We're trying to change the concept that an underground house is a hole," said Mike Oehler, who built his house, including wall-to-wall carpeting, for about $500. He lists 22 advantages to his buried home.

Resembling an underground lean-to, Oehler's house has one corner on the side of the mountain, with a trench from the roof allowing sunlight and ventilation. A plank roof is covered with 18 inches of dirt.

"I built it myself and I can repair it myself," brags Oehler, a summertime Forest Service employee. "I fully expect it to last 60 to 70 years without major repairs.
"Incredibly enough, underground housing would offer a better view in high density areas. All you see in suburbs now is the ticky-tacky house next door. With underground houses, you'd see another landscaped mound."

Architect Malcolm Wells of Cherry Hill, N.J., says last winter's severe cold and energy shortages have revived interest in underground housing.
"Our office has received more than 10,-

Salt, according to National Geographic, was once traded ounce for ounce with 000 letters" inquiring about underground home designs since last winter, Wells said. He said well-designed underground housing reduces energy consumption by 80 percent.

80 percent.

Oehler hauls water in a gallon jug to his ridge-top home. The tap is in the valley near his hog pen, organic garden, underground sauna and partially underground greenhouse. He cooks over an outdoor grate.

The trail to the house sports a sign: "No Motor Vehicles, Motorcycles, Policemen or Attack Dogs."

Harding Happy To Fill Post As Treasurer

By SYLVIA TEAGUE Avalanche-Journal Staff

Even though Warren G. Harding has been state treasurer one month and two days, the thrill of being appointed to handle the state's finances is not gone.

In fact, the man who served almost 27 years as Dallas County Treasurer is still pinching himself to make sure he's not just dreaming that he's state treasurer.

Harding, in Lubbock Wednesday for a reception with local representatives of the financial community, said his ascent to the state office is proof that democracy is alive and well in America. "I sold newspapers on the street corner for 50 or 75 cents - not to go to the movies, but so my mom and dad could buy groceries," he

"For me to be elected county treasurer and be appointed as state treasurer...it's the highest thing that can speak for democracy." Harding said he was called by Gov. Dolph Briscoe at 3:35 p.m. on Oct. 5 and told he would be appointed to the state office.

"I asked the governor what time it was," Harding said, "because I wanted to remember it.

"My heart stood still with joy" after the phone conversation,

Harding recalled. Gov. Briscoe told Harding he was chosen over 200 people who had expressed an interest in the job following the death of longtime Treasurer Jesse James. Harding said he ran for the state office in 1956 "when I was 33 or 34" and received over a half-mil-

Election Costs

Avalanche-Journal Staff
The paltry Lubbock County turnout in the Texas constitutional amendments election cost taxpayers $1.56 per ballot in poll worker expenses, county officials estimated Wednesday.

That is about five times more than election worker expenses for the November, 1976, general election and about three times more than similar costs for the November, 1972, balloting.

Taxpayers put out 31.8 cents and 48 cents per voter respectively for worker costs in those elections, county auditor Dale Gallimore said.

About 63,000 persons went to the polls in the 1976 election and about 62,000 in 1972. Only 4,992 Lubbockites cast ballots this Tuesday, according to Gallimore's

"It's kind of disheartening to prepare for an election and for no one to show up. It takes just as much time for my people to prepare for an election like (Tuesday's) as one where the turnout is normal," Guess said.

County personnel began some work for the Nov. 8 election as far back as 2 1/2 months ago, he explained

That is when the routine of getting county commissioner approval for taking bids and letting a contract on ballot printing began, Guess said.

Election workers must be hired. Kits polling lists, signature rosters, tally sheets and affidavits must be prepared.

Tuesday's election cost a total of about $8,800 - $7,798.01 in election worker costs and perhaps another $1,000 in supplies, county officials said.

A strong turnout would have meant a higher total, but officials would not have minded that as much as they did the expensive per-ballot price tag resulting from the lack of crowds.

But then, Lubbock County never has had a very good reputation for good voter turnout, Guess remarked: "Even in general elections, 60 percent is pretty

Jail Consolidation Possible By Jan. 1

Avalanche-Journal Staff

County Commissioner Alton Brazell says Lubbock's city and county jails may be consolidated as early as Jan. 1. A meeting to discuss the possibility of closing the municipal lock-up and booking all prisoners directly into the county jail will be held Friday, he said.

The session, set for noon in the Emergency Operation Center in the City Hall basement, will involve Commissioners Brazell and Edgar Chance, city council members Alan Henry and Bill McAlister, and law enforcement and legal representatives, Brazell said.

Bill McAlister has suggested that we shoot for the first of the year" in implementing a recommendation to combine jail operations of the two governmental entities, he said.

"I agree with Bill. The sooner we can get this done, the sooner the taxpayers will benefit from it. Also, it will give us (the county) time to work out any problems and make any adjustments in our plans to build a new county jail," Brazell

Friday's meeting has been scheduled to examine the financial implications of the proposed jail merger.

Hopefully we can come out with a contract that will not involve the exchange of money" between the city and county, Brazell said.

Although the merger probably will save the city money now used in the existing municipal jail operation and increase the financial burden on the county, a related proposal "may be able to even things out" for both governmental units, he

Besides consolidating jail operations, city and county officials will be looking at the possibility of processing Lubbock Poviolations through the county's justice of the peace courts, instead of municipal

"From the county's standpoint, we're hoping that those additional fines and fees will be enough to offset the additional JP expenses and the additional cost of keeping city prisoners in the county jail," Brazell said

"From the city's standpoint, we're oping that the loss of fines and fees from municipal court will be offset by

The city also should save some me from a smaller caseload on municipal court, he said. Brazell said city and county officials as yet do not have "concrete figures" on the financial implications. But both entities should be agreeable to the two proposals if the offsetting fig-ures "come fairly close."

"I don't think we're going to be squab-bling about a few dollars," he said. "Affer all, the cost of jail operations is borne by the Lubbock taxpayers — city and county taxpayers. They're the ones who are going to benefit from a more efficient

Currently, arrests by the city police de-partment are booked into the city jail. Since most of the cases involve alleged violations of state law, the prisoners usually are transferred a day or two later to the county jail.

The merger would eliminate the double booking procedure, by having all prisoners — whether arrested by the city or county — placed directly into the county

Declarer needed delicate timing to bring home this hand from a recent team game. Only one of the two declarers was up to the challenge.

The bidding followed similar lines at the two tables. North showed extra values by raising spades freely, and both Souths felt that their hand merited issuing a game invitation, duly accepted by

At the two tables the play to the early tricks followed a like pattern. Both Wests eschewed the apparently obvious heart lead for fear of setting up a trick for declarer and attacked with the queen of diamonds, won by dummy's king. The declarers realized that, besides the trump suit, they were looking at four to NEWSPAPERBOOKS. potential losers in the side suits. The queen of hearts would take care of one loser if West held both high honors likely from the bidding. And East had to hold the king of trumps to give declarer any chance.

Both declarers led the jack of trumps, covered by the king and won by the ace. Now both led a heart, taken by the king. West continued with the jack of diamonds, won by the ace. The eight of spades was covered by the ten and queen, and here the declarers parted

One declarer led another heart. West rose with the ace, cashed the ten of diamonds on which East discarded his remaining heart, and then reverted to hearts. East ruffed the queen and though declarer overruffed, he was stuck with a club loser, and had to go down

The second declarer saw the danger of this line. He avoided it quite simply. He crossed to the king of clubs and led another spade, finessing the six. Now he drew the last trump and then led a heart. West was helpless. He won the ace of hearts, cashed his high diamond but could do no further harm. East had no more trumps to ruff away the queen of hearts, so declarer would always be able to sluff his losing club on her majesty to make his contract.

NEW YORK (WNS) - Mopeds have appeared all over this summer, and quite mature people can be seen on them. Mopeds are bikes with a small one-cylinder helper-engine which can get 120 to 200 miles to a gallon of gasoline, and are much quieter and less polluting than motorcycles and cars. They resemble the old-style bikes with balloon-type tires and bulkier frames more than they do the modern 10-speed bikes.

Speed varies in different models usually from 17-to-30 miles per hour, and speed limits at which they may be operated legally as "non-motorcycles" also varies in different localities.

Moped enthusiasts say the motorized bikes handle as easily as ordinary bikes. They can be controlled and stopped like a bike. To start the engine you simply use the foot pedal to get up a little momentum. You control your speed with a hand throttle. On some, if wish, you can disconnect the engine and just use the foot pedal. Hand brakes control both front and rear wheels.

Undoubtedly mopeds have interesting possibilities for gas-saving, easy parking and local transporation. It's notworthy that the kids aren't buying them particularly. Youngsters can go as fast or faster on their own bikes. The main customers. dealers say, are people in their 30s or old- about eight for regular bicycles, 51 for er who want to save pedalling, especially uphill. Mopeds have been in wide use in Europe for some time.

But we do find mopeds surprisingly expensive, perhaps because they're imported. Granted that we are easily surprised, still, the better quality mopeds usually cost $400 to $500. Options such as windshields and saddlebags further build up the price, just as with cars.

Some models are available for as little as $300 but some of these are not considered to have as good brakes and suspension as the more expensive models.

In contrast, even the better-quality bikes without engines sell for $100 to

The other question is whether mopeds really are as easy to handle as bikes, as the enthusiasts and dealers say they are. While most states classify mopeds as bicycles, some federal officials and insurance companies are concerned that more skills are needed to operate a moped than a regular bike, especially in the use of the hrottle and front-and rear-brakes.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration says moped accident patterns appear to be more similar to those of motorcycles than of bikes. The European experience has been that the death rate per 100,000 vehicles in 1974 was mopeds and 171 for motorcycles.

Certainly mopeds are not for use on the higher-speed highways. Even the higherpowdered motorized bikes can't sustain speeds over 30 miles per hour and so can't keep up with the traffic.

Moreover, people who have used moped on highways say there seems to be a highway pecking order. Just as some car drivers tend to intimidate motor cyclists, some motor cyclists seem to want to intimidate moped-ers.

Moreover, mopeds present a small, low silhouette viewed from front or rear. One federal official has suggested that they be required to have their lights on during

Most safety experts, in fact, would prefer to see mopeds regulated as motor vehicles rather than as bikes.

Some moped-ers themselves may tend to evade legal limitations on speeds by using a larger spark plug. In our experience at least some dealers hint to prospective buyers that this can be done. If you are considering buying one of these gas-saving, admittedly convenient vehicles, consider these points: - While you can switch off the motor. you probably couldn't pedal very long because of the weight of these bikes (usually 60 to 100 pounds). - The issue of whether helmets should be worn is controversial, as it is among motorcyclists. Still, safety officials stron-

ly recommend helmets. - Be prepared to stick to the local streets without heavy traffic or high

- Check the safety features of any effectiveness of the brakes and suspension, but the ease of use of controls, the size of headlights, tail lights and reflectors, and the quality of the tires.

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) - A eache of rare. 19th century wine has been unearthed in the cellar of a Revolution ary-era mansion here, but an expert says it must be examined to determine whether it is "priceless treasure or dust."

Alex McNally, international wine manager at Heublein, Inc., said he was astounded when he first squeezed past the jammed doors of the musty wine cellar of the 180-year-old Ten Broeck Mansion, now owned by the Albany County Historical Association

There he found 30 unopened cases of 26 bottles each. Among them were such rarities as Chateau Mouton-Rothschild 1875, Chateau Lafite 1868 and 1870 and Chambertin 1875.

It has not been determined who put the cache in the cellar or when it was put McNally described the cache as "the largest and most important collection of 19th century, golden age vintages ever discovered in America.

He likened the discovery to the uncovering of King Tutankhamen's tomb in the 1920s and said the wine had great potential value. The cache was to be shipped to Heublein's wine warehouse in East Hartford. Conn., for further inspection. The best of the collection will be offered for sale at Heublein's national auction of rare wines next May in Atlanta, McNally said. Proceeds from the sale will be used to continue restoration of the mansion, which was built in 1797 for Abraham-Ten Broeck, a Revolutionary War general from Albany's Dutch community. Although the historical group has owned the mansion since 1948, association members said the door to the wine cellar remained locked and forgotten because one of the society's board members. Col. William Hannay, had resisted attempts to disturb its contents. Hannay died last November.

The cases will be opened at Heublein's East Hartford facility, and each bottle will be examined individually, McNally

He said that in addition to the estate name and vintage, other key factors determining the value of the wine will be color, the level or fill in the bottle and the condition of the cork

SUGAR HILL, N.H. (UPI) - When William C. Sullivan was No. 3 man at the FBI, he commuted from Washington to New Hampshire's White Mountains to hunt and trap and get away from the "rough, tough, dirty business" he direct-

Officials said Sullivan was doing one of the things he liked best, hunting near his ramshackle red-painted home with an old FBI friend, when he was killed shortly before sunrise Wednesday by a hunter who said he mistook him for a deer.

Dr. Charles Faulkner, a Grafton County medical referee and pathologist at Mary Hitchcock Memorial Hospital in Hanover, said after an autopsy Wednesday night a single rifle bullet through the neck killed Sullivan.

The former boss of wiretapping for the FBI got away from that business in 1971 when he was forced into retirement for questioning the late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover. He later said Hoover became "extremely erratic" in the last three years of his life, but remained a "master blackmailer."

State Fish and Game Department officials, who have jurisdiction over the investigation of hunting deaths in New Hampshire, refused to say if charges were being considered against the hunter who allegedly fired the shot, Robert Daniels, in his early 20s, of Lisbon, N.H., the son of a state policeman. Mason Butterfield, the department's chief of law enforcement, said first indications were the shooting was an accident.

As assistant in charge of the FBI's "Cointelpro" operations, Sullivan had custody of the wiretaps of reporters and National Security Council aides, ordered after the New York Times reported in 1969 the Air Force was bombing Cam-

Testimony before the Senate Intelligence Committee in December 1975 indicated Sullivan was in charge of the left-wing and black groups.

A committee lawyer, Fredrick A.O. Schwartz, testified Sullivan had discussed "techniques designed to destroy a per-son's family life" as part of efforts to prevent black groups from unifying, and to neutralize activities of the New Left.

Schwartz said Sullivan told him, "This is a common practice, rough, tough, dirty business. Whether or not we should be in it or not, that is for you folks to decide. We are in it."

Sullivan told the Boston Globe in 1973 his forced retirement came after he was summoned to Hoover's office.

"His hands were shaking, his face was clouded, he was raving mad," Sullivan said of Hoover. He said Hoover told him "no one has ever spoken to me like this since I became director in 1924.

"I'm no doctor. I can't make a judgment. But he (Hoover) had an unusual personality. In the last three years you couldn't deend upon him. He became ex-tremely erratic," Sullivan said.

Sullivan told the Los Angeles Times in 1973 Hoover "was a master blackmailer and he did it with considerable finesse despite the deterioration of his mind."

Man Assessed 16-Year Term

A Clovis man was assessed a 16-year penitentiary term Wednesday by 140th Dist. Judge William R. Shaver after a jury found the man guilty of burglary of a habitation.

Shaver levied the punishment against Jay Jerry Ewing, 31, after a hearing in which prosecutors Cindy Miller and Bob Jones introduced evidence concerning three prior convictions of the defendant. Ewing previously was convicted of ag-gravated battery, second degree murder and escape from jail, prosecutors said. Wednesday's conviction was for a Feb. 22 break-in at the Charles Hedges residence northwest of Shallowater. Items taken included two television sets, a vacuum cleaner, camera, portable radio and meat from a freezer.

Auto Parts Taken In Burglary

Police had relatively few new crime reports to investigate today, but most of the complaints filed dealt with an unabated stream of break-ins.

Auto parts, valued at $1,500, reportedly were taken by burglars who got into Solis Bros. Automotive at 302 N. University Avenue Tuesday or Wednesday. According to owner Pete Solis, entry was gained by kicking out a wooden panel in a rear Peter Davidson said someone stole a $385 television set from his 4013 33rd St. house Wednesday afternoon. Reports indicated a back window provided entry.

Vandals caused headaches aplenty in Lubbock early in the week, judging from reports filed with police Wednesday.

Bruce Gentry Jr. of 4802 19th St. was the hardest hit. Gentry said someone splattered acid on his automobile, necessitating a $1,200 paint job.

Meanwhile, Joe Rollins of 2210 Main St. reported the loss of his hubcaps valued at $100 - which were stolen sometime Tuesday.

Joe Young, representing University Dodge at 7007 S. University Ave., said a car owned by his firm was stripped of its wheel covers between Monday and Wednesday. Young estimated the hubcaps' worth at $100.

Pranksters dealt a $190 blow to Harley White Jr. sometime Tuesday or Wednesday when they broke out his car's rear window, parked near his home at 2415

Gladys Hines said someone shot out a window at her dress shop at 2012 34th St. Tuesday or Wednesday. Replacement may cost $150, she said.

Jane Ann Whitley of 2101 16th St. said a CB radio was lifted from her car sometime Sunday or Monday.

After prying a sliding door at Lynetta Wright's 1716 23rd St. residence, burglars reportedly removed a necklace, a television set, a .25-caliber pistol and $100 in cash Wednesday. All told, the victim said intruders made off with $760 in possessions and money.

The season's first real cold snap may have motivated thieves who took winter clothing, quilts and drapes from Mary Lowry's garage at 1906 22nd St. Tuesday.

Texas Superior Service Award Given To Area Soil Chemist

James H. Valentine, area soil chemist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at Lubbock, has received the prestigious Texas Superior Service Award for outstanding educational programs in soil fertility in West Texas.

His award was presented during recent remonies at Texas A&M University.

Valentine was cited "for creative leadership, untiring service and courageous dedication in developing unique, highly efficient soil testing facilities and educational programs in soil fertility with sig-nificant impact on West Texas agricul-

Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel, extension director, said Valentine's establishment of the first publicly-supported soil testing laboratory in West Texas-and his research and educational programs in soil fertility and related areas-have had tremendous impact on the Texas High Plains and on the nation

"His work was a key in the conversion of High Plains agriculture from dryland to irrigated production, which strongly depends on the proper use of commer-cial fertilizers," emphasized Pfannstiel.

Through Valentine's unique abilities to translate research findings into workable language, he turned data into educational programs for producers, commercial fertilizer dealers and homeowners, with nificant success. Pfannstiel add Soil testing by Valentine has served more than 50 counties in five extension districts, and has been so accurate and effective in helping producers to solve them as an important management tool for High Plains agriculture. This, in turn, has stimulated more supportive research, which has developed an improved test for soil nitrate-nitrogen. First tested and proven in the lab at Lubbock, this new technique is now being used in many soil-testing labs across the nation.

Austin State College Soil and Plant Testing Laboratory at Nacogdoches for nine years, and had served four with the U. S. Soil Conservation Service as a soil chemist at Fort Worth.

Police today were continuing their public appeal for help in locating the hit-and-run vehicle which struck and fatally injured an 18-year-old Lubbock woman Saturday.

Rebecca Ann Hairston of 3016 25th St. died at 12:50 p.m. Wednesday in Method-ist Hospital after the incident in the 600block of University Avenue about 6:30 p.m. Saturday.

Graveside services for Miss Hairston were conducted at 2 p.m. today at Resthaven Memorial Park, with the Rev. J.M. Washington of St. Paul's Episcopal Church officiating.

According to witnesses' reports, the vehicle was a white pickup, thought to be a Chevrolet, 1968 or older. Reportedly it had a short, wide bed, with no cover and standard-size tires. There were no chrome side moldings, no CB antenna and small, if any, side mirrors.

Officer V.E. "Pat" Patterson, who compiled the information, said the vehicle also should have "very slight" right front damage.

Police are asking .nyone with possible information on such a vehicle to call 762-6411, extension 423. They also stressed the possibility the owner may have made changes in the vehicle's appearance.

The Texas Tech University coed was struck by the southbound truck, about 45 feet north of 6th Street on University Avdez, 20, of 1503 42nd St. said the driver of the pickup slowed after striking Miss Hairston.

After dining at a nearby restaurant for about an hour, Arismendez said the group split up to walk to separate cars. As the parties walked to their cars at a nearby parking lot, Miss

Hairston was struck. Another Lubbock man reportedly chased the white pickup, which Arismendez described as "dirty" and possibly a 1966 to 1968 Chevrolet. But the second witness told police he lost sight of the truck when another car pulled between him and the fleeing vehicle

Since about 6:45 p.m. Saturday, when police first learned of the incident, officers have sought the driver of the pickup. Miss Hairston was the 39th traffic-relat-

ROME (UPI) — The butcher stood in the doorway vigorously wiping his hands on the front of his bloodstained white smock.

"I've come to see the paintings," he told James Leong, an expatriate American artist whose canvases capture the stormy beauty of Italy in a style that both mystifies and enchants critics. Every year Leong welcomes scores of visitors - plumbers, millionaires, typists and tourists - to his studio overlooking the hustle and bustle of the Campo dei Fiori, Rome's most picturesque market-

The studio commands the first floor of a rambling Roman palace built in 1425 by the princes of Savoy - directly over the ruins of the ancient theater of Pompey in whose halls Julius Caesar was murdered

2,000 years ago. The butcher asked permission to touch the paintings and spent more than an hour feeling each canvas like a blind

"I don't know anything about art but I know a god piece of meat when I feel it, and these feel good," he told Leong and then walled out.

"That meant as much to me as any professional recognition," said the 47-yearold Leng. "It really made me feel Most critics have difficulty describing Leong's work, though some make brave, if sonewhat flowery, efforts - i.e. "Forms with specific volume float free in tonalatmosphere.

"That sounds good, but it really doesn't mean much to anyone," chuckled Leong. 'My work isn't typecast; it doesn't belong to any school. You can call it any-the artist did not seem displeased, however, with an amateur's description of a recent work executed in rich blues as 'a French Impressionist-style painting of enlarged microscope slide.

Inspiration for that particular painting. according to Leong, came "from one of those crazy storms that always are erupting on the border between Tuscany and Umbria."

"All my paintings are landscapes, humanscapes, mountainscapes," he said. Leong spends anywhere from 50 to 250 hours working on each canvas - using paints he grinds himself and "fingers, brushes, knives and compressors.' His works sell for between $250 and $2,-500, and many patrons buy his paintings the "Leong easy time payments

"A lot of people can't afford to plunk down that kind of money all at once," Leong explained. "I've spent my life learning a craft so I could share my ideas of beauty with other people - I don't want that sharing restricted by money." Leong's paintings are in the collections of actors, millionaires and a dozen museums but most, he said, "are sold to normal, everyday people who hear about me and come over to have a look." Actor Vincent Price, an art collector, has a Leong, and Stanley Marcus of the Texas department store fortune has 20 of

as a chef in a French restaurant. "I started painting when I was three years old," he said. "I got ahold of some paints, and covered our walls with murals. It was my first high but my mother didn't appreciate it much." The artist came to Rome on a Guggenheim fellowship in 1958 and has lived here ever since because the Eternal City is "a good place for an artist." 'Rome is closer to the New York art world than Queens," he said. "People interested in art come to Rome - and here they aren't as rushed as they are in New York. They have time to come back for a second or third look at my paintings."

Leong considers those extra viewings important for anyone considering investing in a piece of art.

Survey Reveals It's Better To Be Too Busy Than To Be Free

NEW YORK (AP) - Many of us tenaciously believe the road to greater happiness is paved with leisure time, but a man who claims to know says the view is full of potholes.

John Robinson measured to the minute how people use their 24 hours. He convinced 1,244 urban and suburban individuals to keep diaries, and then he dissected and analyzed and correlated the results and asked for more.

The pattern is unmistakable: "Too much free time is a greater burden than too little free time." Robinson found that people least satisfied with life were those with the most time to exercise options or

Further conclusions may be drawn from the evidence, but one that particularly intrigues Robinson, whose research was financed by National Science Foundation grants, is that free time might be an idolatrous god.

No, the work ethic isn't dead, but for many the goal of work is leisure - on evenings, weekends, vacations, retirement. It is the target of unions. Sociologists sometimes advocate it, advertising almost always. Leisure may in fact be the national ambition.

Robinson, a Ph. D., communications professor and director of communications research at Cleveland State University, maintains we ought to reflect more about what we do with our time. Perhaps keep a 24-hour diary.

His cross-section of Americans did that and then turned the sheets over to him. After years of computer analysis he recently produced "How Americans Use Time" (Praeger Publishers, New York).

While the individual respondents might have been surprised at their own revelations, Robinson probably wasn't any less so. Maybe you won't be either.

-The dominant difference in the way time-usage breaks down is along lines of sex. Only minimal differences result from age, income, region, education and the like. But 80 percent of time given to housework-child rearing is by women.

The men simply do not contribute what seems to be a fair share around the house. Even when the woman works outside the home, the man is unlikely to make a major contribution. And many women say they don't want his help.

With more women entering the labor force, there could be immediate consequences of this division of labor. If, for instance, women have less time for child rearing, and the men don't help, how will children be brought up?

-Americans are more likely than Europeans to spend time visiting, in sports activities and in watching television. About two to 2 1/2 hours a day are spent

Group Seeks To Purchase Newspaper

CINCINNATI (AP) - The Cincinnati Post is not for sale, its editor said after an employee group announced its formation to purchase the 96-year-old afternoon dai-

Former Cincinnati newsman James Ratliff, who led a movement of employees to buy the morning Cincinnati Enquirer in 1952, says he will head another such group to purchase the Post.

"The first thing, however, is to stop the merger with The Cincinnati Enquirer,' Ratliff said in a news conference in front of the Post.

The Post and Enquirer have notified the U.S. Department of Justice that they intend to combine mechanical and advertising operations Jan. 1, 1978. The filing was under the failing newspaper act. The Post reported losses of $1.25 million this

William R. Burleigh, the Post's editor, said, "As we have stated previously, The Cincinnati Post is not for sale. We are actively pursuing a plan for a joint operating agreement which will, if approved by the federal government ... preserve this newspaper as an independent, competititve voice in the community.

Wes Williams, a printer-technician, formed the Committee To Buy the Post. He said 175 objections to the joint venture were filed Sept. 21 with the Justice Department.

Williams said between 600 and 800 persons would lose their jobs under the proposal. Williams said employees are being asked to pledge $1,000 each toward eventual purchase of the Post from the E.W. Scripps Co.

Burleigh said the editorial department will be preserved if the agreement is approved. He said it will be up to the Enquirer to decide which employees are re-

Ratliff, who helped organized the employee ownership movement at the Enquirer, said, "We did it before. We can do

"It is against the interests of the people of Cincinnati to let the editorial voice fall into the hands of one newspaper. If I were an advertiser, I would be in tears because you will have one corporation setting the rates."

Ratliff, a vice president, left the Enquirer in 1956 after Scripps-Howard won control of the newspaper stock. Scripps later was forced to sell its stock following an antitrust suit. The Enquirer is now owned by Combined Communications

Corp., of Phoenix, Ariz. Ratliff said he returned to Cincinnati after selling his Greenwich, Conn., publication, Defense Marketing, to the employees there. Ratliff said the E.W. Scripps Co. had not yet been approached about the plan to purchase the newspaper. Williams said the movement so far has not involved editorial employees. They have been advised that their jobs would not be affected by the joint operation plan, Williams said. Both Ratliff and Williams contend that employee ownership could solve the newspaper's financial problems. it read: With the TV set on.

There is a reason for the choice of phrasing. Robinson is an inquisitive and wary person who once attached cameras to home television sets. Monitoring them, he often found the set on and the room empty.

People also divide their TV time, as they do other activities, with knitting, eating and, contradictory though it seems to be, reading newspapers, books or magazines. Their eyeballs, he says, are not always aimed where you think they are. One-half hour of that TV time, in fact, is secondary viewing. Only the French measure higher in this category, and that's because TV has become part of the French dinner hour, or two or three.

American men spend 40 minutes with newspapers, which makes them more avid newspaper readers that men in other nations, Robinson finds. But 14 of those minutes are secondary. For housewives the numbers are 21 and 10.

There is no limit to John Robinson's computer facts. This is only a fragment. But an observation rising out the the statistical mass is that most of everyone's day is structured - by work, sleep and

Free men and women we call ourselves, but employed men have about 3.8 hours of free time, employed women 3.2 and housewives 5.2 hours.

U.S., Algeria Quietly Strengthen Trade Ties

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) - Although constantly accused in the Algerian press of leading a worldwide imperialist conspiracy, the United States has quietly become Algeria's largest trading partner. Under present plans, the new relationship is likely to continue into the next

those with , say their > soming multibillion dollar trade links with the United States will not affect Algeria's "revolutionary socialism" or the government's moral support of anti-Western causes from Cuba to the Far

> But privately, the skilled technocrats who run Algeria's state-controlled econo take no notice of the strident hostility toward the United States habitually displayed in the government-owned press, radio and television.

Although the attacks have become noticeably less virulant in recent months, the United States, along with Israel, South Africa and Morocco, remains among the chief villains on the world scene as reflected in the press of Moslem nation in North Africa on the Mediterranean Sea. Algeria is a Moslem nation .

The daily El Moujahid recently accused U.S. President Jimmy Carter of trying in vain - to "perpetuate American hege-the United States was forced to accept detente with the Soviet bloc "to avoid being overpowered by the steady prog-ress of the world's progressive forces."

All the media tend to picture the United States as the backbone of the world's reactionary forces.

By constrast, the upsurge in economic and cultural relations with the United States is virtually ignored by the Algerian media. No Algerian newspaper has yet commented on the fact that half the country's 1.01 million barrels of oil exported daily now go to the United States or that more than 2,000 Algerian students are studying - mostly technical subjects

Algeria produces an exceptionally light, low-sulfur crude oil particularly suited to American refineries which pay a quality premium of some $1.60 per barrel for it. In 1976 Algeria sold about half its oil exports to the United States, worth more than $2 billion or 40 percent of its entire export earnings.

In the years following the end of French rule in Algeria, France monopolized Algerian trade to more than 80 percent. It now has fallen into second place among the purchasers of Algerian prod-ucts with $700 million worth a year, although it still holds first place in the countries supplying Algeria's imports, with a total of $1.4 billion in 1976 compared with $487 million from the United States. The U.S. sells Algeria machinery for oil exploration and drilling and for the development of its transportation and paper industries. It also exports meats, various grains, telecommunications equipment, and civilian aircraft.

Fortunately for the pation's cosmo however, the Algeria Sahara holds a of the world's largest known reserve natural gas including at least 2,000 bil cubic meters — or 6 percent of the wi total — of proved recoverable deposits

Current plans and contracts call for a massive growth in Algerian-American trade relations in the 1980s through the shipment of liquified natural gas to the shipment of liquified natural gas to united States in specially built tankers. Numerous contracts are in various stages of negotiation or under consideration by the U.S. Federal Power Com which must give final approval.

If all the current negotiations are successful, Algeria will export 35 billion cubic meters of liquified natural gas annually to the United States by the mid-1980s, representing some 7 percent of to-tal U.S. consumption and an annual Algerian revenue of $1.75 billion at 1977

Another 35 billion cubic meters of gas annually is to be exported to various West European countries, stressing the westward orientation of Algeria's export industries. Unlike oil, the shipment of liquified natural gas requires very substantial investment for the tankers and terminal points. Some American compa ested in Algerian natural gas have insisted that the Algerian authorities share the estimated $17 billion investment as a guarantee against arbitrary interruption

The Algerian authorities have refused to promise they will never cut off gas supplies to the United States as part of a possible future Arab energy embargo. But the American outlet and the related investments are so vital in the minds of Algeria's economic planners that observers here feel they are unlikely to show any enthusiasm for a prolonged gas em-

U.S. Politics Confused By Party Rifts

By ARNOLD SAWISLAK WASHINGTON (UPI) - One of the reasons American politics often confuses its own citizens may be the insistence of politicians that it is a "two-party system." That is a confusing claim, because anyone who looks at American politics can see at least four parties and very lit-

The labels may differ, but in real terms there are two Democratic parties and two Republican parties. logical order that can be demonstrated in chemistry or physics, were able to neatly divide the Democrats and Republicans into "congressional" and "presidential" parties. The congressional, sometimes called "regional," Democrats and Republicans were the conservative wings; the presidential or "national" parties were home for the moderates and liber-

Those classifications fell apart during the 1960s. In 1972, the "liberal" Demo-crats found their presidential candidate in the Senate. In 1976, the "conservative" Republican presidential aspirant was a former big state governor. In the 1972-76 period, political observers tried to keep the Democrats straight by referring to "regular" or "old line" party members as opposed to "New Politics" or "reform" Democrats. Because there were "liberals" and "conserva-tives" in both groups, those labels were useless in trying to describe the bitter di-visions that followed the party's 1968 and

Jimmy Carter came on the scene as a politician identified with neither wing of the party, a situation that allowed the office-hungry adherents of both Democratic factions to join him in a shaky but successful coalition in 1976.

Carter's problems with a Congress dominated almost two-to-one by Democrats may be the sign that his party is reverting to the congressional-presidential division of the 1940s and 1950s.

Meanwhile, the moderate-conservative Republican coalition that Richard Nixon used to rout the liberals in 1968 and 1972 blew up with Watergate, and the GOP reverted to a conservative-liberal civil war. There are some who felt the Republicans, who now qualify as an endangered species, would unite to avoid extinction, but there is new evidence that the suicidal instinct still is strong.

Last week, Carter nominated Samuel D. Zagoria to fill one of the Republican seats on the Federal Election Commission, whose six places are equally divided by law between the "two parties."

Zagoria was not one of the people re ommended for the job by House Republican leader John J. Rhodes or Senate GOP leader Howard Baker. Rhodes expressed outrage, telling the Washington Post that some Republicans felt the ap-pointment might cost the GOP 25 House seats as a result of unfavorable FEC rulings on election laws.

Democrat? Not exactly. He is a former administrative assistant to Sen. Clifford Case, R-N.J. and a registered Republican of 20 years standing. But the conservatives dominating the GOP congressional leadership consider him a "liberal" and therefore unsuited for a Republican seat on the election commission

G.R. FITTERER

15 Million Students Get Lessons On TV

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Watching television may be a way of life for American children, but about 15 million of them get something in exchange - an education.

A study shows that an estimated one third of the 45 million elementary and secondary school students regularly receive instruction by television. The study was conducted by the Corporation for Public Broadcasting and the National Center for Education Statistics.

Elderly Metallurgist Continues Research

PITTSBURGH (AP) - A twice-retired, 76-year-old inventor has postponed his date with a rocking chair for a role in research to make the nation's steel industry more efficient

He is G.R. Fitterer, former dean of engineering at the University of Pittsburgh, who left education at 70 to work in indus-

Fitterer is self-employed, pursuing an idea he claims might save steelmakers 200 million pounds of aluminum a year -about $100 million worth.

Aluminum is needed to absorb impurities in molten steel, and the key to Fitterer's idea is finding how to measure molten steel's temperature and oxygen content. That information would make it possible to calculate precisely the amount of aluminum needed

"We've already run some tests and they are proving our point," the white-haired metallurgist said.

At an age when many old people are settling into their retirements, Fitterer's seems to be working for him.

U.S. Steel Corp., the nation's largest producer, is financing its own research to find ways to reduce consumption of alu-

But Fitterer has been awarded a $99,-600 grant from the federal Energy Research and Development Administration to carry on his work, becoming only the second senior citizen to participate in ERDA's Energy-Related Invention "The domestic steel industry naturally would welcome any development that would reduce either raw materials or melting costs," said an American Iron and Steel Institute spokesman. "The fact that ER-DA has funded Fitterer's work would seem to indicate that it has some merit."

Fitterer has also proposed substituting an iron-aluminum alloy for the pure aluminum now used in steelmaking. He would also like to begin looking for an even cheaper metal for purifying steel.

"If somebody told me to relax and take it easy, I'd laugh at them," he said.

Horse Leg Mystery Solved By Police

YAPHANK, N.Y. (UPI) - Suffolk County police said this week they have solved the mystery surrounding 13 horse legs which were found Nov. 2 along a highway in Commack, N.Y.

An investigation determined that the legs, all sawed off below the knees, were obtained from a Connecticut slaughterhouse by an unidentified man who wanted to "practice" shoeing horses.

Police said the man, who aspires to be a professional horseshoer, told them he took the legs to the Smithtown Dump after he finished his practice sessions.

The area where the legs were found is about 3 miles from the dump. Police said they don't know how they got there.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) - A recent guerrilla offensive by the leftist Sandinista National Liberation Front has triggered increasing policital opposition to President Anastasio Somoza among more moderate sectors of the Nicaraguan population.

In mid-October, Sandinista guerrillas began hit-and-run attacks on Nicaraguan National Guard posts throughout the country, leaving 50 dead and 70 wounded over a two-week period, according to government

Although they are denounced by the Somoza regime as Marxist-Lennist rebels trained by the Cubans, political observers say the Sandinistas are mainly university students, many of whom consider themselves Social Democrats.

Their major objective, at any rate, is to overthrow the Somoza regime, a family affair for more than 40 years.

The Sandinistas are not the only group opposing the Somoza govern-years, content merely to voice its disapproval of the Somoza government

On Oct. 21, the Conservatives walked out of a joint session of congress after Liberals proposed a resolution supporting the National Guard and Somoza and condemning the

They believe the Carter administration, concerned about human rights violations in Nicaragua, is less than enchanted by the Somoza regime.

The Conservatives now are attempting to form an opposition coalition with sympathetic business and church leaders and members of the outlawed Democratic Liberation Union.

While meeting with Union and Conservative officials, church and civic leaders appointed a four-man commission to open a political dialogue with the Somoza government to seek reforms.

Fund Drive Started By Horsemen

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - A campaign war chest is being raised in preparation for another drive in the near future to legalize betting on horse races in Oklahoma, the president of the Oklahoma Horsemen's Association said this

Dr. Wendell Sylvester of Oklahoma City confirmed a fund-raising drive is underway, and said his group would like to make another effort to legalize pari-mutuel racing soon.

He said, however, that there has been no decision on when to make another drive to legalize pari-mutuel racing.

But other sources in the association said tentative plans have been made to make an effort to pass a gambling bill in the 1979 legislative session. "It could be up next year," one source said, "but the 1979 session is a more likely target."

The sources also said the plans do not include another statewide vote on the isgalize it, make it a law, not a constitutional amendment," one source said. The horsemen's group sponsored a petition drive to submit the proposal to state voters in 1974, but the voters rejected the plan by more than 63,000 votes -405,882 to 342,689.

Sylvester said there is nothing new about horsemen's efforts to raise funds and keep the pari-mutuel question alive in Oklahoma.

"We believe pari-mutuel racing is important to Oklahoma's future," he said. That's why we are continuing our efforts. There is nothing mysterious or secret about our work. We make no secret of the fact that we are a political action group, and, as such, we will continue to support those candidates for public office who are supportive of our cause, and we will actively oppose those public officials who have actively opposed what we believe to be best for Oklahoma.

"That's the way the system works." Sylvester said, "and we are more than willing to work within the conlines of that system.

"Even with current restrictive laws," he added, "the horse industry in Oklahoma is a billion-dollar-a-year business.'

Horse racing is legal in Oklahoma, but betting on the races is not. Sylvester said the race tracks at Stroud. Enid and Sallisaw awarded purses totaling more than $1 million last year.

"You can imagine the kind of boost we could have for Oklahoma's economy, if pari-mutuel were not prohibited," he

Financial experts are predicting a financial crunch in state government, Syles-ter said, and legalized betting on horse races could be "a multi-million-dollar a-year edonomic boost for the state."

"Last year, Qualitation, for example, gen-erated more than $6.2 million in tax mon-ey for the state of Arkansas," he said. 'That's money we could also generate in Oklahoma - money that could be used for the school children of this state, and the improvement of roads and county government funding.

GM To Supply Avis With Rent Vehicles

DETROIT (AP) - Avis Inc. has announced that it will drop Chrysler Corp. as its major supplier of daily rental vehicles, substituting General Motors.

The new agreement between the No.2 auto renter and the No.1 automaker goes into effect Sept. 1, 1978, stockholders were told this week. David Mahoney, chairman and chief executive officer of Norton Simon Inc., which completed acquisition of Avis in July, did not elaborate on the new agree-

25°off on the brown sugar that can go 100% further.

It's true. A 16-ounce bottle of new Domino Liquid Brown Sugar can go twice as far as a 16-ounce box of regular brown sugar.

That's enough sugar for 256 more chocolate chip cookies.

Or 18 more servings of baked beans.

Or glaze for two more hams.

And everything you make will turn out beautifully.

Of course, new Domino Liquid Brown Sugar is much simpler to use. Because it's liquid, it's easier to measure and blend. And there are no lumps to pound.

But don't get the idea that it's anything but real brown sugar. It's 100% real brown sugar with no additives, preservatives or artificial coloring.

And for a short time, it also costs 25¢ less than usual.

MHS Hosts Herd, Views Playoffs

By TOM HALLIBURTON

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff Alhough tonight may mark his last Lubbock football appearance, Monterey quarterback Ron Reeves sounds like a man with plenty of games left in the sea-

The stout senior closes out the regular season against Hereford in Lowrey Field at 7:30 p.m. And knowing the luck of MHS coach James Odom in recent playoff coin tosses, the Plainsmen may journey off to various lands after tonight. As offense, he's ready for all that stuff.

"I still feel like I have a lot more games before this season ends. Winning the state championship is the most important thing to me now. And we need the win against Hereford to keep our momentum going into the playoffs. You can't have any letdowns once you get to the playoffs," Reeves said.

The Plainsmen offensive leader feels this year of experience has added to his skills considerably.

Carter Cromwell

Meyer What

SMU Needed

RON MEYER HAS, by his own admission, been somewhat loose-lipped at

"I feel like I'm a lot more in control of things this year. I know what the defense will do most of the time, and I'm able to pick up receivers a lot better, especially the secondary receivers. We've got a lot better offense, too," Reeves added.

Instead of just one wide receive Reeves usually can choose between split end Eric Voyles and wingback Dudley McMinn. Then the backs, fullback Robby McDaniel and tailback Jeff Harp, run and catch more effectively than last year's tandem, according to the MHS

'You can just see McDaniel getting better with every practice and our offensive line has come along, too," he said. But so much of the running and throwing load still falls on Reeves' broad shoulders. Defenses key on his moves each week and the MHS bulldozer continues to avoid injuries.

er gotten hurt in a game. And it scares me to watch so many quarterbacks re-ceive injuries on TV. But you can't think about it during a game. You just have to do the best you can, because if you think about it, it takes your concentration off the game," he said.

Another thing which might distract Reeves' concentration is the amount of interest which the college recruiters are showing. More than a few friends wonder where the star quarterback will attend

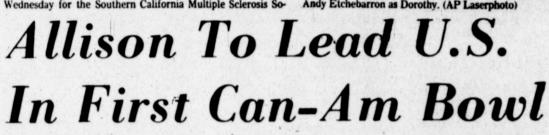

"I used to like OU, but I've kinda lost interest in them this year. Lots of people just want to go somewhere and play football, but I'm looking to go somewhere that has a good school in either pre-optometry or a pre-dental major. I would like to stay fairly close to home, but I'm not ruling out any place yet," he said. And does it matter whether the former linebacker plays quarterback in college? "Well, I want to go someplace where they give me a chance first to play quarterback. Then if they don't think I'm good enough, I guess they can switch me. Who knows, I might end up playing fullback somewhere. . . I don't know," he said. As for now, Reeves and Monterey just want to play five more games after tonight and let the offers take care of them-

SMU'S RON MEYER

Point two: Meyer's comment during his team's stay in Lubbock be-fore its contest with Texas Tech last

As the team plane approached Lubbock, Meyer stared disbelievingly at the bleak, barren plains covered with six inches of snow. It wasn't a winter wonderland-just winter.

That day to an informal gathering and later on his television show, Meyer blurted, "If Tech can build the fifth-ranked team in the nation in a place like Lubbock, then we can sure do it in Dallas."

The construction job will take a while to complete. But Ron Meyer has a chance-just a chance, mind you-to do it.

MEYER WAS WHAT SMU needed following the three-year Dave Smith regime, which resulted in payoffs, probabtion, poor public relations and an increasingly fewer victories.

Meyer, a short, dark-haired, intense man, jumped into a very unpromising situation with both feet and, sometimes, his mouth. But his staff coaxed three wins out of an extremely young team that had a definite 0-11 air about it before last season. And he at least started to get some people interested in SMU football, a bigger task than rebuilding the team.

The former Dallas Cowboy scout and Nevada-Las Vegas head coach has gained respect for the job he's done.

"I'm really impressed with their offensive design, " Tech defensive coordinator Bill Parcells said. "They're using the ability they have to the maximum." Similar observations are made in any discussion of Meyer. And it's an important quality because the Mustangs are short on depth and talent.

SMU has just 61 scholarship players. With a limit of 30 signees per year, the Mustangs will never reach the overall limit of 95, so the depth problem is ob-

Injuries, particularly on defense, have hit hard. Eight freshmen started on defense for the Mustangs last Saturday against Rice. Meyer's probably be among the starting 22 against Tech Saturday. The depth chart this week lists six freshmen and four sophomores on the second-team offense and four freshmen on the second-team defense

MEYER SAID IN the fall that his progam needed to turn the corner this season. After nine games, a 4-5 season mark and 3-3 SWC slate, he feels the Mustangs have made good progress.

"We've gone a long way toward turning the corner," he said. "We'd like to have another victory, but that's going to be tough with Tech and Arkansas left. "Still, we've turned the corner in the sense that we've won more games than we did last year. We played Texas and A&M tough for a while, and Ohio State didn't just blow us off the field." SMU led the Aggies 21-7 at halftime before injuries killed the Mustangs in the second half, as A&M won 38-21. Ohio State topped SMU 35-7, and Texas downed the Ponies 30-14.

"We didn't play Texas as close as we did last year (a 13-12 SMU loss)," Meyer said, "but they're a lot different team than they were in 1976. It would have been closer had we not made some mistakes."

ASIDE FROM HAVING to strengthen his team, Meyer faces the problems of sagging attendance, which translates into lack of money, and tough future Meyer estimates that SMU must average 40,000 fans per home game to break even, but that's a distant goal. Only 6.918 fans attended the SMU-Rice game. It was the smallest crowd SMU

Rangers-Hisle

DALLAS (AP) - Free agent Larry Hisle. the Texas Rangers' fifth-round choice in the re-entry draft, has rejected the Rangers' offer of an estimated 10year, $3 million contract, Hisle's attorney said Wednesday.

In a telegram to Texas owner Brad Corbett, Dick Moss of New York City, rejected the offer.

According to Moss, the terms of that offer were for a total of $3 million - to be paid at $300,000 a year for 10 years although calling for only six years as a player.

In the telegram, Moss praised Corbett for his "gracious consideration and sincere interest.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn has said Rangers General Manager Dan O'Brien was guilty of tampering for remarks made about Ranger efforts to sign Hisle, who led the American League in runs batted in this year for the Minnesota Twins.

Hisle was tagged as the Rangers' top target in the draft, but Kuhn's officials said the tampering penalty would be lightened if they didn't sign Hisle.

Texas then drafted Hisle fifth behind Richie Zisk, who signed with the Rangers Tuesday, and Hisle's Minnesota teammate Lyman Bostock

Moss also applauded Corbett for "resisting improper interference from the commissioner's office and you are especially to be commended for your honor and integrity in keeping your offer open even after the signing of Richie Zisk.

Protest Rejected

MOUNT PLEASANT (AP) - Defending District 7-AAA football champion Mount Pleasant has lost its protest against Atlanta and, with it, its chances to retain the league crown.

The protest, alleging that Atlanta used an ineligible player in its 12-9 victory over Mount Pleasant last Friday, was rejected 6-0 by the District Athletic Committee Wednesday.

Announcement of the decision was made Wednesday by Scott Ferguson, Sulphur Springs superintendent and chairman of the athletic committee.

The decision means that Atlanta, which has clinched the district title with a 940 record, can play Palestine a week from Friday for the bidistrict title. Palestine is 9-1 for the year

Mount Pleasant is 8-1 for the year

Baylor Bears

WACO (AP) - Sophomore Greg Wood, who led Baylor to its only points in a 35-9 drubbing by Arkansas last week, will start for the Bears against Rice on Saturday, says Bears Coach Grant Teaff.

Wood will replace freshman Scott Smith. Teaff said he made the change because Wood had a "fine week of practice" and made a good showing against the Razorbacks.

Teaff said the switch "is not a reflection on Scott's performance, but we Stephens Out To End Errors

By CARTER CROMWELL

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff Willie Stephens has started three games in succession at right cornerback for Texas Tech, but there was a time not so long ago that he seriously wondered about his situation.

Stephens, a sophomore, got his first starting assignment against Rice but suffered a back injury early in the third quarter and was removed from the field on a stretcher. The injury was determined to be a bad bruise a couple of days later, but it was feared for a time to be a cracked vertebra

When it happened, I thought something had been broken," Stephens said. "I couldn't move my left leg at all. I could finally move it some after they took me to the hospital, but I still didn't know what to think.

His back still bothers him occasionally, but not badly.

"Sometimes when I hit somebody head-on and bend my back, it hurts a little, but it's not bad.

The starting assignment against Rice came as somewhat of a surprise. He had been a backup at right corner behind Eric Felton until the week of the Rice game.

"I wasn't looking for the start, but I kind of figured something was up because I'd been at left corner all season. and then they moved me to the right side that week. "Playing the other side took some getting used to at first, because the footwork is different, but I got used to it okay. Now, I'm practicing at both sides during the week. Stephens, a 6-1, 185-pounder with good

That was the gist of the message delivered by Boston Celtics president and General Manager Red Auerbach to his club in a closed-door meeting following Boston's 129-114 loss to the San Antonio Spurs Wednesday night, according to one of the players who sat through the tongue-lashing.

The loss, the Celtics' eighth in nine starts, ties them with New Jersey for the worst record in the National Basketball Association.

Coach Tommy Heinsohn, who huddled with Auerbach after the game, is ready to shake things up.

"I think you are going to see some surprises," Heinsohn said. "We've got to start making some major changes.

One move could involve more playing time for top draft choice Cornbread Maxwell at forward, where Curtis Rowe and Sidney Wicks have been inconsistent.

But according to Celtics center Dave Cowens, it's all a matter of intensity.

"We've got to start going on a suicide mission," he said. "We've got to get mad, start intimidating and playing harder. It was just embarrassing to be out on the court tonight."

San Antonio led 87-80 going into the final period, then buried the Celtics with a 42-point quarter.

In other NBA games, the Buffalo Braves beat the New York Knicks 124-113, the Philadelphia 76ers trounced the New Jersey Nets 130-107, the Detroit Pistons defeated the Houston Rockets 127-107, the Denver Nuggets edged the New Orleans Jazz 115-112 and the Golden State Warriors trimmed the Indiana Pacers 132-129.

Larry Kenon led San Antonio with 27 points. George Gervin had 20 and reserve Allan Bristow added 18. Kenon had 10 points in the fourth-quarter blitz and Bristow had eight.

You name it and we did it wrong." said Heinsohn. "Everything was wrong.

Rowe led the Celtics with 19 points but Cowens had just six. Our defense has got to be the most underrated in the league," said Gervin.

Holding Cowens to just six points shows that we are tough." "I see a big difference in the Celtics," said Bristow, "Tonight, it looked like they just gave up."

Braves 124, Knicks 113

Buffalo erased a five-point halftime deficit behind reserves Bill Willoughby and Jim McDaniels, who combined for 15 points in the second half.

Willoughby, playing only his fourth game of the season, hit three baskets in the last three minutes of the third quarter as the Braves went on a 12-6 spurt to go in front. Then McDaniels, a backup center averaging 14 minutes a game and shooting 22 per cent, scored five straight points at the start of the fourth quarter and sank all three of his shots.

Billy Knight led Buffalo with 30 points, 23 of them in the first half. Forward John Shumate added 26 and held former Brave Bob McAdoo to 18 points for the Knicks.

76ers 130, Nets 107

Philadelphia remained unbeaten under new Coach Billy Cunningham, winning its third in a row as Julius Erving scored 19 points and Darryl Dawkins 16. The Nets' George Johnson led all scorers with 20 points, but 14 of them were in the first

Hopkins, Heinsohn Next In Line To Be Fired?

By The Associated Press

Notes from around the National Basketball Association:

With Gene Shue gone as coach of Philadelphia after just six games, who will be the next to go?

The talk around the league centers on Bob Hopkins of Seattle and Tommy Heinsohn of Boston. Hopkins has a lot of things going against him: · The Sonics are an undermanned team off to a dismal 2-10 start. · Sam Schulman, the Sonics' owner, is not exactly a low-profile guy.

· Hopkins was elevated from assistant coach to head coach as something of an afterthought when Schulman was unable to sign a big-name coach (like Jerry Tarkanian) from the college ranks.

· A successor is waiting in the wings in the person of Lenny Wilkens, very popular with the Seattle fans in his days as a player-coach before the Bill Russell era and now the club's general manager in charge of personnel.

· Hopkins is working on only a one-year contract.

It sounds like the deck is stacked against Hopkins, but he does have one thing going for him. He is immensely popular with the Seattle players. Unfortunately, the players have little say when it comes to coaching changes. So unless the Sonics start winning soon, Hopkins had best start looking over his shoulder.

Heinsohn, meanwhile, has a club which has stumbled to a 1-8 start, the worst record in the league and very un-Celtic-like. indeed. Dave Cowens and Sidney Wicks reportedly don't get along and the team's long-standing problem, a lack of depth. has not been solved.

Boston cannot afford to lose too much more ground to Philadelphia and New York or it might find a playoff berth tough to achieve.

Heinsohn signed a new contract with the Celtics this summer after reports had circulated that the club was considering a change. But coaches with contracts have been dropped before. Right, Mr. Shue?

If Boston does decide to make a change, who would take over? How about John Havlicek, the Celtics' widely years of age? About the only thing wrong with the idea of Havlicek the coach is that it would deprive the Celtics of Havlicek the player, something they can ill afford. Unless he decided to go the playercoach route, of course.

Lest you think the idea of Havlicek as coach is a bit far-fetched, just look at Jerry West in Los Angeles, Willis Reed in New York and Billy Cunningham in Philadelphia. Ex-stars as coaches seems to be the trend these days.

The Los Angeles Lakers currently have 11 men on their roster, plus center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and rookie forward Kenny Carr on the injured list. When both recover, they'll have to cut two to comply with the roster limit of 11 which goes into effect Monday.

Who's going to go? If Coach Jerry West has his way, guards Brad Davis and Ernie DiGregorio would be in trouble. West has little confidence in either, Davis because of his rookie mistakes and Ernie D. because of his defensive shortcomings.

But both are pet projects of Lakers owner Jack Kent Cooke, so don't be sur-

Q. Now that it turns out Billy Martin's contract with the Yankees had two nore years to run, what was behind the talk about his wanting to manage the California Angels? Were the Angels sending out signals?

And STEVE PERKINS

- Leonard Siegel, Southfield, Mich.

A. The front office insider with the Angels tells Hot Line: "Half the teams in baseball would be interested in Martin if he became available. Of course, the other half he has already worked for. We never expected the Yankees to let him go. And what Billy says in anger he doesn't always mean."

Martin admires Gene Autry, the owner of the Angels and one of the few who doesn't meddle in the operation of his team. When Martin's problems with George Steinbrenner spilled into print early in the season, Autry heard from Billy but was careful not to encourage him, fearful of tampering charges.

Even after their World Series jubilation, and Martin's victory bonus, the Yankee situation remains volatile. Sources close to the club say he was on the brink of being fired three times. Supposedly, his job was saved the last time after a plea to Steinbrenner by Mickey Mantle and Whitey Ford.

Q. Whatever happened to those reports that tons of marijuana were found being grown on the farm of Don Gullett, the Yankee pitcher? I recall that he was cleared of any involvement, but I have read nothing about it since then. - Thad Honing, San Antonio

A. Don Gullett makes his living from baseball. Although he owns the Kentucky farm where a sheriff found grass that wasn't blue, the farm was managed by his brother Jack, who was charged in the case. The outcome is still pending.

Plainsmen Cage Unit To Be 'Lightweights' back in our offense," said the coach.

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff There are plenty of times during Monterey's basketball workouts when coach Joe Michalka stops everything and yells, "Hold it, hold it, hold it."

Now the veteran mentor can't do that to the onrushing high school season which begins Tuesday, but maybe Michalka wishes he could. Either someone busts an offensive pattern or forgets his next move in Michalka's man-to-man defense and the tall and talkative coach drives home with a rather acute mig-

"I can't guarantee anything. . . We're vounger than we've been in the last seven years," the coach moaned. Although Michalka can give his youths plenty of seasoning between now and Christmas, he probably can't give them the bulk to supply better rebounding strength. In other words, many of the young Plainsmen could use a few

"We're so skinny that we're going to have to press a little more this year. We just don't have the weight to match up on the boards with most teams," Michalka

As the coach analyzes his roster, he places two players above the rest - his captains Tony Hamby and David Davidson. Each one started most of the time during last year's 19-12 season. Hamby, a 6-41/2 energy package, averaged 7.7 points and 5.1 rebounds a game. Davidson, the 6-0 quarterback guard, averaged 5.4 points a game and 2.6 rebounds. Michalka wishes he had more of their type.

They are two real quality players. The leadership they give will help us greatly,"

A very active big man, Hamby can play inside or outside and will help on the ballhandling chores when the opponent

"Tony is our best jumper, and he's our biggest and most experienced player. He will cover the big man who can score until he gets in foul trouble," Michalka said.

Davidson rates as Monterey's best ballhandler and his coach expects the senior guard will handle the ball much better after a year's experience.

"David is a real good outside shooter and that's valuable against a zone. He has only average speed, but he's a smart player. He's a lot more mature and he knows

After those two players, Michalka abruptly stops bragging, and his voice turns very hesitant. None of the others played more than a few minutes on the varsity last year, and the JV team finished 11-18. One JV grad, Keith Jenkins (6-31/2 senior), assumes the low post position in Monterey's double-post attack. "Jenkins is in there for his post defense and rebounding. He's not a bad shooter, but his main strength is quickness on defense," said the coach.

Lanky junior Kevin Kirkman (6-4) also should start at a wing spot, and Michalka says Kirkman can kill from long range.

Kevin probably can shoot outside as well as anyone we've had here, but he needs experience. We hope that by district he can give us good rebound strength and inside play." Michalka add-Another wing candidate, David Key 15-11), rates a real good inside shooter and one of Monterey's best jumpers, too. But a stomach virus delayed Key's progress for a week earlier this month. "We really don't know who will play at a couple of positions. We'll just have to wait and see what the opposition uses and try to match up with them," the coach said. A couple of guard hopefuls, Craig Ehlo (6-11/2) and Danny Chong (6-0), possess some of the tools. Ehlo rates very steady as a passer while Chong rates as a better shooter than ballhandler.

At present, the depth comes from senior guard Darin Layton (5-9), junior guard Frank Malone (5-9) and junior rebounder Jack Marshall (6-1).

Every dog has its day, goes the old saying, and the barking could be heard all over the National Hockey League Wednesday night.

A case in point is the New York Rangers, last in the Patrick Division, who hadn't beaten Buffalo since Dec. 27, 1974, a 12-game span. But Phil Esposito's two goals and two assists paced the Rangers to an 8-4 victory over the Sabres and boosted his career point total to 1,354, second only to Gordie Howe.

Another surprise saw Minnesota, only 1. invade Chicago, where the Black Hawks lead the Smythe Division with a 5-2-6 mark, and leave with a 2-2 tie.

Vancouver started the night with a 3-7-1 the lower echelon of the NHL, but the St.

site changes will be made?

Louis Blues have been even worse, with one victory in 13 games . . . make that two in 14 after St. Louis' 8-6 triumph over the Canucks.

Washington, whose six points is tied with St. Louis for the fewest in the league, was not to be denied on the "Night of the Woof." The Capitals tied 1-1 with the Detroit Red Wings, 5-4-3.

In a mild upset, Pittsburgh (9 points) whipped Cleveland (11 points) 5-3 to break a five-game losing streak for the Penguins.

was followed saw Toronto blank Atlanta

"The Hawks thought they were going record, which certainly qualifies it for to blow us off the rink in the early going," said Minnesota Coach Ted Harris. "They tried to intimidate us throughout the first period, but my guys refused to give in and made them look like they didn't know what they were doing. As far as I'm concerned a tie on the road is just like a win. The North Stars took a 2-0 lead on goals by Brad Maxwell and Harvey Bennett, but Chicago avoided an embarrassing home loss with third-period goals by Darcy Rota and Stan Mikita, the 503rd of his career but the first this season.

Rangers 8, Sabres 4

Esposito scored twice in a five-goal second period that blitzed the Sabres. Noting that Howe, had collected 455 more points, Esposito was modest about his performance to take over second place. 'There's no way I'll catch Howe unless someone says they'll give me $800,000 for 8,000 goals. Then I'll play until I'm 90 years old," he said.

Blues 8, Canucks 6

Claude Larose's two goals and unassisted scores by Bob MacMillan and Dick Redmond offset a three-goal performance by Vancouver rookie Jere Gillis in a game marred by 14 penalties by each team. Mike Walton added two goals for the Canucks, who have lost seven

Capitals 1, Red Wings 1 Gerry Meehan scored a power-play goal at 14:32 of the second period to offset Detroit's goal by Greg Joly at 17:12 of the opening stanza. The deadlock was Washington's first point in three games, although the Caps are winless in their last

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) - Brigham Young quarterback Marc Wilson is so much like his injured predecessor, Gifford Nielsen, that listing differences between them amounts to hairsplitting

Both have started four games this season for 13th-ranked BYU. Both are 6-foot-5 and 195, adept at other sports, devout Mormons, married to former cheerleaders, good students and want to play pro football.

Statistically, it's more of the same. Before he was lost for the season with a knee injury, Nielsen led the nation in passing, completing 98 of 156 passes for 1,167 yards and 16 touchdowns

Wilson has hit 92 of 155 passes for 1,515 yards and 17 touchdowns. Last week against Utah, Wilson passed for five touchdowns and an NCAA single-game record of 571 yards.

That earned him AP Back f the Week honors for the second time this season. The first was in his initial start, when he threw seven touchdown passes against Colorado State. Nielsen won the honor once.

BYU Coach LaVell Edwards said, "They are the kind of kids, the old cliche goes, you would like to take home and have as your own son

But there are differences between Nielsen, a senior from Provo, and Wilson, a sophomore from Seattle, Wash. A paragon of accuracy. Nielsen threw only three interceptions this year. Wilson has dished up 12, six in a long afternoon against

Wilson, who redshirted last season, said he is surprised at his success. "Actually," he said, "I expected Gifford to win the Heisman Trophy and me to watch him do it."

NEW YORK (AP) - Dr. Mark Gerard, central figure in the Belmont ringer scandal, is free to return to work at the racetrack today while his wife faces a subpoena to testify before the Nassau County grand jury.

A five-judge panel of the appellate division of the state Supreme Court ruled unanimously Wednesday that Dr. Gerard should be allowed to return to work pending a full hearing before the New York Racing and Wagering Board, which suspended him Oct. 25

The panel upheld the ruling of Supreme Court Judge Theodore Velsor on Nov. 4 that the state had not shown sufficient reason to suspend Dr. Gerard without a hearing.

"There is no indication in the record that the appellants have made any finding that the public health, safety or welfare imperatively required such emergency action as a suspension prior to a hearing," wrote Justice Frank Gullotta. The ruling opens the way for Dr. Gerard - suspended after the Racing and Wagering Board accused him of substituting one horse for another in a Sept. 23 race at Belmont Park - to return to work at Belmont where he is veterinarian to about 400 horses.

Moments after the court's decision was announced, it was learned that the Nassau County grand jury, which has been hearing testimony in the case, has issued a subpoena for Mrs. Gerard to testify to-

Her attorney, Richard Reisch of Mineola, N.Y., said he would go to Nassau County court today in an attempt to postpone Mrs. Gerard's appearance until next week. The move would give Reisch more time to prepare Mrs. Gerard for testimony. Reisch has never met personally with Mrs. Gerard, who called in sick for one of their scheduled meetings.

In that Sept. 23 race. Dr. Gerard was seen collecting $78,000 in a wager on a horse called Lebon, who won the race at 57-1 odds. The racing board thinks the horse may actually have been Cinzano. whom Dr. Gerard imported from Uruguay along with Lebon in June. Cinzano. a Uruguayan champion, was reported by Dr. Gerard as destroyed June 12.

In a companion ruling, the appellate court also upheld Judge Velsor's ruling that lifted the suspension of Jack B. Morgan, listed as owner-trainer of Lebon. Morgan was suspended by the racing board along with Dr. Gerard. It was not known if, or when, the Racing and Wagering Board would order a hearing for Dr. Gerard. There was some speculation the board would await possible action by the grand jury before decid-

Mrs. Gerard's involvement in the case began when she was identified by Uruguayan horsemen as the women who traveled to Uruguay in May to sign the purchase papers for Cinzano. Lebon was purchased at about the same time, and several witnesses have told state and Nassau County investigators that they saw Mrs. Gerard taking pictures of Cinzano before he was shipped to the United le in Buenos Aires, it was re ported that Argentine horsemen feel that if a switch has been made involving their exports, it was made in the United States. The same sentiment earlier was expressed by Uruguayan racing officials. "If there was any switch, it was in the United States and not in Argentina," said Alberto Iglesias, owner of the export agency Agencia Tresieta, which has exported some 20 thoroughbreds in the last 112 years for Dr. Gerard.

As the Lebon-Cinzano story was unraveling, it was revealed that racing authorities here were investigating a possible switch involving Enchumao, of Argentine origin, for As de Pique, a Uruguayan horse, and that the same authorities were unsure of the identities of two other Argentine horses, Chirico and Sundoro. All four horses were imported by Dr. Ger-

Davis' Pact Example Of TV Abuse Of Power

By HOWARD SMITH AP TV Sports Writer

Among the more startling revelations to come out of last week's House Communications Committee hearings in Washington were the terms of CBS's contract with boxer Howard Davis.

Until the hearings, CBS steadfastly had refused to reveal details of its deal with Davis. And with good reason. The contract is a clear example of TV's abuse of

The deal, which began last March 3, gives CBS exclusive rights to Davis' bouts through 1980. Through the first 18 months he gets $40,000 for each six-round bout and $50,000 for each eight-rounder.

But during the second 18 months Davis gets $200,000 per fight if he agrees to pay his opponent or $166,667 per bout if CBS pays the opposition. Davis also, apparentpicks his own opponent.

What this means is that Davis can select some worthless pug, offer him $5,000 and keep $195,000 for himself. The obvious opportunities for chicanery are enormous. What kind of an opponent is Davis going to pick under a deal like that? A cheap one no doubt. And how hard is the opponent going to fight if he's taking on the guy who signs his paycheck? And what if the opponent is offered more to lose than to win? And what about the public? How can CBS promote Isn't that an out and out deception?

CBS's answer to all this is that the deal was negotiated by the business department and sports had nothing to do with

Network officials say they realize they made a bad deal and are trying to get out of it. But Davis' people are reluctant to change the terms. No wonder,

CBS has the next Muhammad Ali fight, a Feb. 15 prime time mismatch against either Leon Spinks, with all of six pro fights, including a draw last time out, under his belt, or the legendary Alfio Righetti. Spinks and Righetti will tangle Nov. 18 for the right to face Ali.

The word is that NBC was offered the fight following its successful telecast of Ali-Earnie Shavers. But the network turned it down, possibly feeling the names Spinks and Righetti were not worth the considerable asking price.

Last Saturday night's Ken Norton-Jimmy Young heavyweight fight on ABC set a record for non-title bouts in the ratings. The entire show, which included two other bouts and ran from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m. CST., drew a 25.1 rating and a 44 share. Saturday is Cuba day on television as both NBC and CBS will be televising Cuban sports teams in action, more or less head-to-head.

NBC has Cuba vs. Marquette in basketball from Milwaukee and ABC will feature Cuba vs. the United States in boxing from Houston on "Wide World of Sports.

The basketball game will be unusual in that the biggest ovation will doubtless go to one of the announcers. Al McGuire, who retired as Marquette basketball coach after leading the Warriors to the NCAA championship last season, will be on hand in his new role as NBC commentator. McGuire will appear on court early so that the crowd can cheer itself out well before tip-off time, thus saving time for NBC and sparing his successor Hank Raymonds possible embarrassment.

McGuire has all the tools to be a firstrate commentator. He knows the sport, he's articulate, colorful and not afraid to speak his mind. At least he was as a coach. Time will tell whether he can do the same on the tube.

ABC is all smiles these days following its strong showing in the Emmy Awards, presented annually by the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences.

There were 10 sports categories up for grabs and ABC won eight of them. Frank Gifford was named outstanding sports personality and Chet Forte was the outstanding director for Monday Night Football. The other six awards were all for the Montreal Olympics and included a host of cinematographers, film editors, engineers, cameramen and other technicians. The other two sports Emmys went to situation

In the absence of central authority, the seven member schools have tried to carry on league business, but results have been fragmented.

There are currently 66 former SWAC players on active rosters in the National Football League, and Grambling quarterback Doug Williams was named Tuesday as the nation's Back of the Week. Five members of the conference

-Grambling, Jackson State, Southern, Texas Southern and Alcorn Statemoved up to the National Collegiate Athletic Association's Division I this season. But between the time the conference moved up in status and the time this football season began, SWAC closed its headquarters at an office building here, and nobody has been able to find out if new offices have been opened.

"I won't give any interviews about the inner workings of SWAC," said Commissioner Andrew Brown. "I have no comment. I refuse to schedule any interviews.

Member schools have also complained that they are unable to contact Brown for league statistics- a necessary chore if individuals and teams are to be recognized in national rankings.

"I'm not aware of anyone in the conference trying to get in touch with me," said Brown. "I've given phone numbers in a memorandum each of the Sports Information Directors has on file. If anyone's been having problems, I haven't been made aware of it.

"It's a conference matter, and I have no further comment."

After SWAC headquarters in the office building were closed, Southern University President Jesse Stone offered economical accomodations at the New Orleans conference business such as compiling branch of his school. However, officials feit last season. Grambling had schedat that campus say they've not been taken up on the offer. Brown's home telephone number was not answered during normal business hours, and after-hours calls -eventually successful- met resentment. "The feeling of the conference is that we're running a conference without a commissioner," said Charles Prophet of Mississippi Valley State.

Brown, 33, was given a contract in 1974, reportedly for $25,000 a year for seven years. Originally, he was answerable directly to the Presidents' Council, and it was with that authority that he declared the Grambling-Prairie View game a foruled Oregon State on the same day that it was also scheduled to play Prairie View
— a mixup involving verbal agreements and overlapping areas of authority. Brown's ruling still riles the Grambling athletic department. Before this season started, SWAC's administrative structure was reorganized. and Brown was made answerable to athletic directors of the schools. His salary and office spaces, as well as the salaries of any staff members, was to be paid out of annual $5,000 dues assessed the seven schools of the conference, plus any revenues derived from post-season play.

However, SWAC still owes Tulane Uni rowever, swac san over thate comversity $24,000 from the Grambling South Carolina State meeting in the ill-fated Pelican Bowl at Tulane Stadium in 1974.
Last year's conference basketball tournament was described as "a disaster" by one school's spokesman. There were allegations after the tournament that money was withheld by its promoter.

Tulane negotiated with the conference for payment of the overdue rent, but stopped short of bringing suit.

"We don't know if they have any money," said an attorney for Tulane. "Thinking about what kind of an organization
SWAC is, we don't know if we could sue versity $24,000 from the Gran

Jal, Eunice Seeking Rematch In AA Finals

How does a Jal-Eunice matchup in this year's Class AA state football championship game sound?

It probably sounds just dandy to the football-loving people in those two Lea County communities. And, going into the Class AA semifinals in New Mexico this weekend, the matchup of the two archrivals in the finals looms as a possibility.

LAST WEEK'S RESULTS — Vaughn 18. Navajo
Mission 7: Hagerman 30, Capitan 0; Carrizozo 7, Tatum 6: Corona 26. Mountainair 14.
THIS WEEK'S SCHEDULE — Vaughn at Hagerman, 8:30 p.m. Friday; Carrizozo at Corona, 2:30 p.m. Saturday.

Eunice has won four of its last five games but will face a stern test in Escalante, a consolidated school in Tierra Amarilla. Coach Tommy Gruber's Cardinals not only will be facing a team that is undefeated in eight games, but Eunice must make a 400-mile-plus trip for the Saturday afternoon encounter.

In the Class A playoffs, it's Vaughn vs. Hagerman and Carrizozo vs. Corona in the semifinals. No. 3 Tatum fell out of title contention with a 7-6 loss to defending champion Carrizozo in the opening nearing the finals, the big-school crowd is still trying to make its playoff selections. In District 4-AAAA, Clovis (3-0) and Carlsbad (3-1) have about cinched the league's top two positions, but Hobbs (2-1) could throw the race into a three-way logiam by upsetting Clovis in the season finale for both teams Friday night in

The team will play Western Tex-as College in Slaton Saturday at 7 p.m., and then play UT-El Paso at 6 p.m. CST in El Paso next Tues-

The Tech women are being coached this year by Gay Benson.

Two members of last year's starting lineup will be in competition, Karla Schuette and Sheryl Greer. New on the team will be D'Lynn Brown, a former all-stater from Stratford who was in school at Tech last year but did not compete. Rosemary Scott and Marilyn Payton are transfers from Western Texas. Miss Payton was all-America for WTC.

Mrs. Benson will start Miss Payton, Miss Schuette and Miss Scott and pick the other starters from Miss Greer, Miss Brown and Liz

Jones Tops Beck In Point Chase

Mike Jones scored four TDs last week, and he needed every point to keep his area scoring lead. The Petersburg junior now has 154 points on 25 TDs and four PATs going into the final week of regu-

His lead is down to a single point over Brad Beck of Perryton, who has 22 TDs and 21 PATs, following a 29-point explosion against Borger last week.

Thirteen of the Top 20 players have passed the century mark, but chances appear slim that any more will crack that barrier since all the Class B schools have finished play except for the playoff units. Also, both Jones and Beck will be idle this week awaiting the playoffs.

Three Way's Albert Rand also finished his season last week and ended with 265 points in six-man play. The senior carried 153 times for 1,954 yards this year, caught nine passes for 167 more yards and returned 20 punts and kickoffs for 584 yards to account for 2,705 total yards.

And since the school resumed football in the fall of 1976, Rand, in 17 games, has carried 255 times for 3,236 rushing yards, scored 71 TDs-plus 7 PATs for 433 points-and caught 13 passes for 330 more yards. His 24 returns added 787 yards for a grand total of 4,353 yards ac-derstanding position and they have," Hollinger said.

The problem is that their rules committee meets only once a year and couldn't be brought together in time to have an exception to the rule made.

"However, we will be meeting with the committee after the game, probably in January or February, to have the rule revised for international competition for our second game," Hollinger said.

The game will be played primarily un-der Canadian rules. There will be 12-man teams, three downs and a 10-yard "neutral zone" between the 50-yard lines, all Canadian features.

However, American end zones of only 10 yards will be used. The regulation Canadian end zone is 25 yards deep.

Hollinger said plans for the game are well under way in the U.S. and that the American team has already selected its two quarterbacks. The starting signalcaller will be Allison -a contender last year for the Heismann Trophy before suffering a knee injury.

Backing up Allison will be Learnon Hall of Army-fourth in the U.S. in over-all quarterback statistics this season.

the north zone of District 2-B was mainly a two-team league-Motley County and Sudan, which tied for this year's title.

But from all indications the past month, that duo may have to make room for a third team at the top—Nazareth.

The Swifts finished with a 6-4 mark, their best finish in a decade, and were third with a 4-2 league ledger. And firstyear coach Eddie Hooper saw his chargers win five of their last six games, including four on the road.

"I feel like we came on and got stronger as the season progressed, and I feel like that's important," said Hooper, an assistant the past four years at Littlefield and in his first head coching assignment.

"I'm real excited about the future. I think we can compete We only had four seniors on the team this year, but they were all leaders, and I'm sure we'll miss them (quarterback Kenny Brockman, fullback Chris Book, guard Frank Acker and runningback Derwin Huseman, who ran for 310 yards in the finale against Happy). But we do have the equivalent of 7½ starters coming back on both offense and defense so I look for us to improve." Hooper got in late and then completely switched both the offense and defense, employing a split six and running out of the multiple I.

"Yes, it took a while for us to adjust, them we had an extremely tough schedule early, opening with Farwell, getting Hart the third game and Motley the

"But I think we learned from that. The people here are interested in football and we've got some good kids coming up. We have a fine freshman class and, in fact, two started most of the year and several others played quite a bit.

"We didn't have enough numbers to field a JY or freshman team and our eighth graders didn't have that greet a record, but you can tell there's several with good potential on that team.

he had a Sunday variety show on NBC, Steve Allen tried to install 25 minutes of seriousness in which major historic figures, played by actors, discussed major

After a three-week debate, he says, NBC said no dice. But Allen, in addition to being a comedian, songwriter, author, actor, pianist and struggling trumpet player, also is persistent.

And now, he's readying a second season of that 1958 idea, called "Meeting of Minds," for airing early next year over the 200-plus public TV stations of the Public Broadcasting Service.

As with the last effort, there'll be six one-hour shows. In them, thespians posing as notables ranging from Florence Nightingale to the Marquis de Sade will discuss themselves and their times.

They'll also exchange ideas as the saying goes, on various issues, the exchange written in conversational style by Allen, who does the series at public TV station KCET here.

The show's intent is simple, he says: 'To make people think."

Controversy that came after NBC first rejected his idea kept the project alive, he says. After the rejection, Allen fans sought and got his OK to do the proposed Shower" James finds himself a confused peacemaker between his parents and older sister

When it aired in Los Angeles, he said, it drew a heavy amount of favorable local mail. He assumed the same might happen in other areas. It didn't. In fact, there was no mail at all.

He said he checked with the distributor of his series and found that "Meeting" had been cut, without his knowledge, from the list of shows offered stations outside Los Angeles. He says he never asked why.

"But it turned out to be a lucky accident, because since it proved to be only a local show, the fellow who was our exec-

Do you know whether mail ran in favor of Rubin and his convicted client? If there's a retrial, how will it differ from the first? Also tell us a little more about the lawyer. - The Madden Family, Las Vegas, Nev. A: The scrappy attorney tells us he's a fan of all sporting events, looks in on Kojak and never misses "60 Minutes." We're informed that many vital witnesses, previously unknown to the lawyer, might be used if his appeal is granted - something that couldn't be done originally ance it is necessary to list all witnesses two weeks before the trial commences. Rubin sincerely believes the death blow to his case came when the judge refused to allow a Dr. Margaret Thom ts, assistant deap of students at Florida Technological University in Orlando, to testify on the record. He believes her testimony would have provided the foundation for his "television intoxication"

The mail was 90 percent in Ronney's favor, 10 percent negative. Many letters addressed to the convicted murderer, especially those expressing compassion, were forwarded for whatever solace he could derive from them.

During 1954-54. Rubin was an assistant attorney-general of Florida. He's long been knownan the area as an inventive, fighting lawyer. He won the plaudits of Dolphins fans by going to court to have the TV blackouts on home games lifted if they were sellouts. He also represented several policemen in their fight to wear mustaches. And bucked Florida Power & Light's efforts for increasing fuel adjustment rates without a hearing. He also made an effort to get the federal government to provide a subsidy to save palm trees from a scourge known as Lethal

As a trial lawyer specializing in criminal negligence and consumer protection, the 52-year-old lawyer has won the reputation of being a champion of the underdog who refuses to be muzzled. Rubin rooters, after watching the "new" TV season, agree that if violence doesn't rear its ugly head there's another danger we must face - boredom "killing" people.

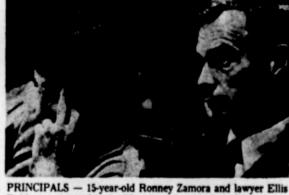

Q: How did movietown Hollywood get its name? - Craig Roberts, Columbus, Ohio.

A: From the Horace Wilcoxes of Toweka, Kan. The couple settled there in 1872. And because the environs reminded Mrs.

Wilcox of the summer home of a Chicago friend, she named it after that area — Hollywood. (Hollywood, Ill., is a small suburb just outside Chicago.)

Q: Does the MPA (Motion Picture Association) include porno

Q: Who first said, "What this country needs is a good five-cent cigar"? Vice President Thomas Marshall or Speaker Joe Cannon? - Henry Calechman, New Haven, Conn.

A: It was our 28th Vice President (in the Woodrow Wilson administration), Thomas Riley Marshall, Marshall, a long-time Democratic Congressman, was born in 1854 in North Manchester, Ind. and died in 1925. He made the remark to John Crockett (then chief clerk of the U.S. Senate), and it became widely cartooned and quoted by contemporary artists and columnists. For instance, Franklin P. Adams, the columnist and radio wit, transposed the saying to "What this country needs is a good five-cent nickel!

Q: How much has crime risen since Carter became President? - R. Surrency, Coral Gables, Fla.

A: It hasn't. The FBI Uniform Crime Report for the period, January through June 1977, shows a decrease of 7 percent in the cities, 6 percent in suburban areas and 4 percent in rural areas - compared to the first three months of 1976.

a blacklisted writer-producer during the McCarthy era who took refuge in England for 23 years, is back in Hollywood with three new projects on his slate.

A master moviemaker, Foreman's credits include "High Noon," "Champion,""Bridge on the River Kwai,""The Guns of Navarone" and "Born Free."

Foreman is a candid man, who says he returned to Hollywood "because of the death of the British film industry.

He was governor of the British Film Institute, a member of the executive council of the Film Producers Association and a Fellow of the Royal Society of Arts. Queen Elizabeth appointed him Honorary Commander of the Civil Division of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire.

Foreman will produce two movies, "S pecter" and "Kramer's War," and a television mini-series, "Mayer and Thalberg," based on the Sam Marx biography of Louis B. Mayer and Irving Thalberg, the giants who built MGM.

He has, moreover, written a screenplay for "Tai Pan," James Clavell's best-selling novel of more than a decade ago, and the script for Irwin Allen's "The Day The World Ended Foreman will collaborate with the writers on all his new projects, as he has on all 20 of his previous films. He has, after all, been nominated for five Academy Awards and won the Oscar for "Bridge on the River Kwai.'

"The biggest kick in this business is directing," he said. "You are given the opportunity to bring words and ideas to life. Producing is a pain in the neck. And writing? With me it's been a lifelong habit."

SEATTLE (AP) - Believe it or not, Eastern Washington and the planet Mars have something in common. Geologists theorize that the huge channels and troughs on Mars were created by catastrophic floods on the now dry planet. The only other place in the solar system known to have experienced such a massive flood is Eastern Washington, hit by a post-Ice Age deluge 12,000 to 18,000 years ago.

"What we see on Mars is remarkably similar to Washington's scablands," geologist Victor R. Baker said this week at the Geological Society of America's 90th Baker, a University of Texas at Austin professor, said ground water, combined with collapse of the Mars crust, could account for sufficient volume of water to create such a flood.

Dog To Be Subject Of Book

NEWINGTON, Conn. (UPI) - Li'l Orphan Annie's dog, Sandy, took one look at the cage he occupied before becoming a big Broadway star and barked: "A joke's a joke, but this is ridiculous.

"Okay, guys. The joke is over and we can go home," Sandy told Bill Berloni, who cares for the flop-eared pooch, a star in the Broadway hit, "Annie."

A talking dog? Not really Berloni was only translating for Sandy when he returned to the Connecticut Humane Society this week to see the cage he occupied before Berloni found him last vear and launched him on his Broadway career. The society has nominated Sandy for the Richard C. Craven Award, a theater honor for animals like the Patsy Award, which has been given to Lassie, Benji, Francis the Mule and Fred the Cockatoo. Berloni took Sandy to the society for a look at his old cage and news of his nomi-

Sandy was just another mutt at the pound when Berloni was working as a technical assistant at the Goodspeed Opera House in East Haddam last year. At that time the show "Annie" was in rehearsal and the producers were stuck for a dog to play the part of Annie's canine sidekick. At the pound, a likely candidate was about to be destroyed when - "Leapin" Lizards!" as Annie would say - Berloni arrived in the nick of time. "I looked over several possibilities, and nobody wanted. He obviously is abused by his former owner. I co he was the dog we were looking for,"

Berloni said. Sandy proved to be an apt pupil.
Sandy was described as "startlingly intelligent" even though all he ever said was "Arf."

Da Vinci Work Believed Hidden Under Painting

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) - A lost masterpiece by Leonardo da Vinci probably lies hidden under another fresco in the Palazzo Vecchio, says a report by researchers to a commission that will decide next month whether to look beneath the second painting.

A research team financed by American philanthropists has delivered four volumes of findings to the commission appointed to find Leonardo's "Battle of Angiari," commemorating a 1440 Florentine victory. The commission will meet Dec. 12 to decide what to do next.

The research team, using high-frequency sound and infrared heat probes, worked for a year before concluding that Leonardo's fresco is under another battle scene with which Giorgio Vasari covered a third of one wall in the Palazzo Vecchio's Great Council Hall.

'We found that from both acoustical and thermal tests, this spot shows a different behavior from any other layers of sub-surface plaster in the whole hall," said Maurizio Seracini, the scientific director of the project.

He said the next step would be to make a small hole in the Vasari painting to sample the pigment beneath it.

American industrialist Armand Hammer, who shared the cost of the search the cartoon feature. "Steamboat Willie." with the Kress Foundation and the by Walt Disney, in 1928.

would provide more funds if permission is given to look behind the Vasari.

The later fresco could be transferred to canvas and the layers of paint beneath it

Leonardo completed the "Battle of Angiari" in the early 16th century during Florence's years as a republic. The fresco disappeared after the Medici family regained power and had Vasari remodel the hall in 1563.

Some art historians believe Leonardo's painting faded away, as his "Last Supper" has done, because he used an impermanent fresco technique. Others believe the mural was painted over because it glorified the republic.

Travers Newton, an art restoration expert from Los Angeles, came to Florence in 1974 and deduced from historical evidence that the Vasari painting covered the spot where the Leonardo was most likely to have been painted. He did not have the equipment to check his conclusion.

Seracini, a native of Florence who studied engineering at the University of California in San Diego, went to work with his team in October 1976.

Charlie's' Identity Not Secret

By JAY SHARBUTT LOS ANGELES (AP) — In every "Charlie's Angels," Charlie, the wealthy, hedonistic boss of the Angels, doles out work by phone while dallying with wellbuilt dollies. But his face is never shown. ABC's press kit on the show doesn't even identify the actor who plays Charlie. This is called a gimmick in some circles. The thespian, of course, is John Forsythe, 59, the urbane Broadway and film star from Carney's Point, N.J., who began his career a few decades back as a public address announcer for the old Brooklyn Dodgers. Forsythe says his cover-up began two seasons ago when Aaron Spelling, a friend and producer of "Angels," asked

"I read it and was not overly impressed," the actor admitted. "But I agreed to do it. They paid me a modest fee and I thought it would be shelved and pushed into oblivion."

But the series seems to be doing okay in the ratings, and Forsythe remains the show's best-known unknown.

This is because, he says, Spelling from the start felt an element of mystery was needed, "and he said, 'Let's not have your name on it, let them wonder who the voice of Charlie is.

"And I said, 'Well, that sounds terrific to me," said Forsythe, the on-camera host of the syndicated "World of Survival" series and the off-camera voice of him to read a script for the two-hour pilot commerials touting Michelob beer.

"I'm constantly amazed at the show's ratings, all those people tuning in to listen to me," he mused, fully aware no one tunes in to see Kate Jackson, Jaclyn Smith or Cheryl Ladd romp about.

Oddly enough, the man who plays Charlie the swinger considers himself one of Hollywood's most domesticated good booze, good wine and good talk." Another oddity: he's met Farrah Faw cett-Majors, now the best-known ex-star of "Angels," but never the three current main events of the series. He shoots all his segments separately, without them. "They've invited me to numerous par-ties, but I've always been tied up some-where, making a movie or whatever," he sighed. "But they drop me notes every now and then.

"When I got down into the bowels of 20th Century-Fox to record my things, there's always a little inscription from Kate or Jackie, saying, 'We love you, Charlie,' with little x-es all over it. "It keeps my day bright, too."
