

Thanksgiving Has Changed, Early Settler Says

By JACK DOUGLAS
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Katie Bell Crump has a lot to be thankful for this Thanksgiving Day. She's been around for 87 previous turkey days and celebrated them in a city she played a part in building.

Miss Crump, a splendid woman with a lot of spunk, is the last of the original settlers of this city.

The feisty, white-haired lady was a year old when she and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W.D. Crump, came to this area from Dallas County in 1890. Lubbock was organized into a town in 1891.

Miss Crump says Lubbockites should give thanks — while gobbling up the turkey — for their city's heritage, its educational system and for its becoming a powerful center for business and agriculture.

"Lubbock has made a good growth spiritually and educationally," the former schoolteacher said. "It had a good start and never slumped ... and others did." The tiny woman lives in a small red-brick house set within a crowded neighborhood filled with dozens of student-packed apartments and facing the downtown skyline.

Except for the antiques which fill her rooms, Miss Crump's living quarters do not reflect the fact that she was here before the university, before the high-rise business buildings and the busy streets, laced with every sort of hamburger, taco and hot dog stand imaginable.

Miss Crump said she will just spend a quiet Thanksgiving with some relatives. A death in the family has put a damper on the festivities.

But she declares, "I'm thankful for this year. I'm thankful that I'm still alive and in Lubbock County and I'm still in my own home."

Lubbock's last original settler interrupted her sprightly pursuit of a fly to talk about the past.

She said there were only scattered ranches when her family came to the sparsely settled plains.

Her father was the third person to become a Lubbock County judge. She described him as a "peacemaker" who smoothed out a feud in the early days between settlements known as the south and north towns.

Miss Crump's first memories of Thanksgiving Day were of neighbors — about 50 — gathering for a feast in the late 1890s or early 1900s.

"For years neighbors would get together and maybe have a ball game. I remember one year, men brought some planks to my family's house and made a

Argentina Rocked By Quake

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — A strong earthquake rocked western Argentina early today, killing at least 50 persons and demolishing numerous buildings, the government said.

The quake, which also injured hundreds of persons, many seriously, struck hardest near San Juan, a wine growing and agricultural city of 500,000 located 800 miles northwest of Buenos Aires near the Chilean border.

The tremors were felt in Buenos Aires as well as across the borders in Chile, Brazil and Peru. No serious damage or casualties were reported in the other countries.

The official news agency Telam said 80 percent of the dwellings in rural communities on the outskirts of San Juan were demolished when the quake hit at 6:28 a.m. (3:28 EST). Most of the dwellings were of adobe or flimsy materials.

The heaviest damage and most casualties occurred in Caucete, a rural town of 20,000 located 18 miles northwest of San Juan, Telam said.

The government ordered emergency flights of medical supplies into the affected province. Planes were diverted to smaller fields in the area because the quake cracked the San Juan airport runway.

In Cordoba, the country's industrial center 465 miles northwest of the capital, two downtown buildings were evacuated after cracks appeared in the walls.

The National Meteorological Institute in Buenos Aires said measuring needles on its seismological instruments "jumped off the paper" because of the intensity of the quake.

The quake registered 7 on the Richter scale. Its epicenter was reported to be 620 miles west of Buenos Aires near the Chilean border.

The Richter Scale is a measure of ground motion in which every increase of one number means a tenfold increase in magnitude. A reading of seven is a major quake capable of causing widespread heavy damage.

In Buenos Aires, thousands of panic-stricken residents ran into the streets when tremors from the quake reached the capital. No damage was reported in Buenos Aires, but windows rattled and buildings swayed.

Tremors are fairly common in the Andean foothill regions of Argentina, but they are rare in Buenos Aires.

In 1944, an earthquake struck the province of San Juan, causing 40,000 deaths.

The San Juan airport was closed because of large cracks in the concrete strip caused by today's quake. The airport tower also was reported damaged.

Half a dozen persons were reported injured, several seriously, in Mendoza, a wine-growing and agricultural center nearly 620 miles west of Buenos Aires.

Mendoza province is south of San Juan province and authorities reported that roads linking the two were cut because the pavement crumpled under the force of the quake.

DOUBLE-LEGGED 'CORNUCOPIA' — Wine glasses and flaming candles are but elegant accoutrements to what will be the main Thanksgiving attraction in many Lubbock homes Thursday — a plump, juicy turkey. If past practices are followed, many Lubbockites will join others around the country in indulging themselves at tables laden with delicious food and then give thanks that the feast day comes but once a year. ## Biggs Drops Idea To Remodel Jail

By JEFF SOUTH
Avalanche-Journal Staff

After toying for months with the idea, Lubbock County officials have now scrapped a proposal to seek remodeling of their existing jail as an alternate when plans for a new detention facility are released to bidders early next year. Commissioner Coy Biggs, the last hold-out for inclusion of a remodeling alternative in the bidding package, said he has dropped the proposal in the interest of time and money.

"It would be nice to have something to fall back on if the bids for a totally new jail come in too high." Biggs said of his earlier push to substitute renovation of the existing 46-year-old structure for some new construction.

"But from what I've been told, the (architectural) cost of drawing up plans for an alternate bid along that line would be just too high and impractical," he said.

Besides, Biggs noted, the county commissioners court seems "pretty well set" on building a completely new jail and may not give very serious consideration to a renovation-construction alternative.

After recent discussions with commissioners, County Architect Arnold Maeker and his staff are drafting "working drawings" — the designs on which contractors will submit bids — for a new detention facility only.

"I personally would like to avoid that alternate" for a combination of remodeling and construction, Maeker said. "To (design plans) for that kind of alternate bid would require a lot of time and money. And unless commissioners are totally convinced they'd get some benefit out of it, I'd recommend against it."

Maeker said he hopes to have the proposed jail designs and bidding information ready for release to contractors in February. If all goes as planned, he said,

Man's Death Ends Fight At Lounge

A 29-year-old Lubbock man became the city's 28th murder victim of the year early today when gunfire erupted at an east-side club.

Lee Smith of 1812 E. 1st St. was pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace L.J. Blalack, who ruled homicide in the incident.

A 27-year-old suspect remained in Lubbock City Jail at noon after being treated and released from Methodist Hospital for a minor gunshot wound suffered during the melee.

The shootings apparently stemmed from an argument which began about 3:30 a.m. at a lounge at E. 23rd Street and Fir Avenue.

A shotgun, allegedly used by the suspect, was recovered at the scene, as were two spent 12-gauge shells. Police accompanied the suspect to the hospital and took him to jail after he was treated for a leg wound.

Services for Smith are pending with South Plains Funeral Home.

The incident was the second homicide in two months at the site.

On Sept. 22, 24-year-old Henry Robinson of 2102 34th St. was shot to death following an argument about 7 a.m.

Egypt Expels Three Top PLO Leaders

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) — Egypt expelled three top Palestine Liberation Organization officials and 20 Palestinian students today then began a political offensive to quell other Arab opposition to President Anwar Sadat's peace initiative.

Foreign Minister Butros Ghali met with the ambassadors of 27 African countries this morning to explain the reasons and results of Sadat's trip to Jerusalem, the first such journey by an Arab leader since the Jewish state was founded 29 years ago.

The ambassadors included the envoys of six Afro-Arab states — Algeria, Morocco, Tunisia, Somalia, Sudan and Mauritania. The semi-official newspaper Al-Ahram said Somali President Mohammed Siad Barre will visit Cairo soon for talks with Sadat as an expression of his support for Sadat.

Israeli newspaper reports and government sources said high-level secret meetings between Egyptian and Israeli officials would follow the Sadat visit and that these could include talks between Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan and Ghali. Dayan and Ghali met in Jerusalem during the Sadat visit.

An Israeli foreign ministry spokesman said "nothing is known so far of any agreements" to continue the dialogue but the Jerusalem Post said the secret talks would begin soon and "will be conducted intensively."

Sadat met today for the first time since his return from Israel with U.S. Ambassador Hermann F. Eilts. Nothing was made public as to what they discussed but Washington dispatches said President Carter is anticipating a message from Sadat.

Carter is keeping in close touch with the Soviet Union and other countries interested in a Geneva peace conference. The United States has praised results of Sadat's meeting with Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin as making peace prospects "more real than at any time in the past 30 years of conflict."

Syrian and Palestinian leaders, spearheading opposition to Egypt's push for peace with Israel, formed a joint delegation today to visit other Arab states and the Soviet Union to lobby for their fight, Syrian government sources said in Damascus.

The delegation will leave for Libya later Wednesday and then visit Saudi Arabia before flying to Moscow, the sources said.

The executive committee of the PLO National Council (parliament) meanwhile postponed for one week a meeting scheduled for Thursday to give more time for Arab discussions of what the Clear, cool weather predicted for Thanksgiving day may be a good omen for Thursday's Arkansas-Texas Tech football struggle — but forecasters fail to mention which team will leave the season's final conference game with that opinion.

And while the South Plains is enjoying mild weather, other parts of the nation

are not so lucky. Washington and Oregon residents were digging out today from the worst snowstorm in more than two decades and Wyoming, still reeling from a blizzard, was faced with more snow.

Lubbock's outlook for Thursday, however, calls for a high near 60, considerably cooler than this afternoon's expected mid-70s top reading. Winds should be northerly at 10 to 15 mph Thursday. Lows tonight are expected to be in the mid-30s.

Fair and cool weather is expected to continue through the Thanksgiving weekend.

While weather watchers predict a mostly mild holiday for Texas, conditions early this morning were not tailored for travelers in some areas of the state.

Fog dropped visibility to about a mile across a wide portion of the state. Brownsville reported near-zero visibility, and reports from the Lower Rio Grande Valley and across the coastal zone and into the Tyler and Texarkana regions indicated fog cover cut visibility to a mile or less.

Fog also was reported at Beaumont-Port Arthur, Longview, McAllen, Palacios, Alice, College Station, Cotulla and Houston.

But the National Weather Service says the state can look forward to mild temperatures for the Thanksgiving holiday.

Sloan Rumors Spark Denial

A flurry of telephone calls to the Texas Tech athletic department this morning had football coach Steve Sloan scrambling anew to deny rumors that he is soon to be departing Raiderland.

According to Ralph Carpenter, sports information director at Tech, he, athletic director JT King and Sloan were bombarded by calls this morning from persons asking whether Sloan were resigning at the end of the season to accept the head coaching job at Ole Miss.

"This is completely unfounded, absolutely unfounded," Sloan told The Avalanche-Journal. "In the first place, Ole Miss just renewed Ken Cooper's contract. They aren't even looking for a coach. I am sure not looking for a job. I don't know how many times I am going to have to repeat saying how happy I am here. I'm not going anywhere."

"Shoot, I'm working like heck just trying to keep this job," Sloan added.

King said the timing of the latest rumor is "horrible."

"Such talk not only can cut into our attendance (against Arkansas) tomorrow, but it also can have an unsettling effect on our football team."

The Raiders host the 6th-ranked Razorbacks Thursday in the final regular season game.

Tito To Visit Romania

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — President Josip Broz Tito of Yugoslavia will visit Romania next month for talks with President Nicolae Ceausescu. The visit will mark the resumption of international activity by the Yugoslav leader after a period of rest. The trip was announced Tuesday. A planned visit to Yugoslavia by President Anwar Sadat of Egypt in late October was canceled. It was announced that doctors ordered Tito, 85, to take a three-week rest from the fatigue of a 24,000-mile summer trip to the Soviet Union, China and North Korea.

Ex-Official Praises Sadat

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Former Undersecretary of State Joseph J. Sisco says Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's weekend trip to Israel was more significant than former President Richard Nixon's trip to China. In an interview Tuesday, Sisco said, "It is a more important meeting than Nixon's beginning of the dialogue with China. You have a situation where literally the Arabs have denied the very existence of the state of Israel, so the Sadat presence amounts to a de facto recognition." However, he noted that a state of war still technically exists between Egypt and Israel, which never was the case between the United States and China. Sisco, who accompanied former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger on his "shuttle diplomacy" trips to the Middle East between 1972 and 1974, was in Beverly Hills to address a Jewish award dinner Tuesday night. The former diplomat is now president of American University in Washington, D.C.

Muskie Making Slow Recovery

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, says his Nov. 12 spinal disc surgery is a success although recovery "will be much slower than I had expected." In a statement from Bethesda Naval Hospital, Muskie said Tuesday, "The past weeks have been weeks of discouragement and pain, but as we are approaching Thanksgiving Day I find myself counting my blessings." Muskie said his family will have Thanksgiving dinner with him in the hospital, and that he is hoping to return home next week and rest three weeks before beginning physical therapy. Muskie entered the hospital Oct. 31.

Sylvia Porter Wins Award

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Financial columnist and author Sylvia Porter will be awarded the William Allen White Foundation prize at a luncheon at the University of Kansas here on Feb. 10. Miss Porter was cited as one who "exemplifies William Allen White in service to profession and ... country." "Sylvia Porter is in the White tradition in several ways, clarity of style, a logical approach to emotional issues, identification with her readers, and guts," said Stuart Awbrey of the Hutchinson, Kan., News, president of the foundation. "Mr. White would have admired her as an independent thinker and as a pioneer," Awbrey said. White became editor of the Emporia (Kan.) Gazette in 1895. He won a Pulitzer Prize in 1923 for editorial writing and another one, posthumously, in 1947 for his autobiography. He died in 1944.

Critic Changes Newspapers

NEW YORK (AP) — Drama and dance critic Clive Barnes is moving from the New York Times to the New York Post. His title at the Post will be associate editor. Roger Wood, executive editor of the Post, would not discuss Barnes' new salary, but said, "Clive is not an insignificant figure in the theater and dance world, and his work contract is not insignificant either." Discussions are under way with the Post's two other critics, Martin Gottfried and Frances Herridge, to "see if it's possible for them to stay," Wood said. Barnes attended Oxford University and was a freelance dance and drama critic for several British publications before joining the Times, initially as a contributor in 1963, then as its dance reviewer, and finally as both drama and dance critic. In a 1968 profile, the Wall Street Journal called Barnes "the most powerful man on Broadway." Barnes is generally thought to have been unhappy with a recent Times' decision limiting his duties to dance. "He was itchy to get back into the theater," said Wood.

Oh Say, Can You Hear?

NEWARK, Ohio (AP) — The rockets zoomed, the smoke billowed and the lights flared, but in City Hall nobody could hear a thing. Pyrotechnic Specialties of Utica, Ohio, put on the display Tuesday at three locations on the outskirts of Newark to test what was to be a new emergency warning system. The rockets were launched to 1,200 feet, leaving billowing clouds of white smoke, a loud boom and plenty of light. Trouble was, a lot of folks in town didn't hear a thing. Herbert Weber, director of the Licking County Red Cross, has been working on the idea ever since the Xenia tornado of 1974. He says sirens cost too much and don't work during power failures. Besides, sirens are used for so many signals, people often don't pay any attention. He said next time they'll send the rockets up higher and try to turn up the noise.

The Lighter Side Of Today's News

Kissinger Named Consultant

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger will be a consultant for a new think-tank operation called the Center for the Study of the American Experience. The announcement was made Tuesday by Dean Frederick Williams of the University of Southern California. Kissinger had talked previously with John Hubbard, president of USC, about becoming director of the center, which is part of the Annenberg School of Communications. Williams said Kissinger was unable to accept the job because of other commitments. Instead, the Nobel Peace Prize winner will help the university find a director, help plan programs and choose the candidates to study at the center. A $10 million contract from the foundation of Walter Annenberg, former U.S. ambassador to the Court of St. James in London, will fund the center.

Testimony Disputed In Trial

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — An expert witness has disputed the testimony of two doctors who gave the Chowchilla kidnap victims a clean bill of health hours after their ordeal. Dr. O. Bruce Dickerson insisted on the witness stand Tuesday that bus driver Ed Ray and 26 children suffered "bodily injury" as a result of their 16½-hour burial in a van. The injuries, he said, were the effects of heat exhaustion. Dickerson said Ray "suffered a permanent injury to the heat-regulating mechanism of his body." He cited Ray's testimony that he no longer could work outside in the heat and tired more easily. Defense attorneys pointed out repeatedly that two doctors saw no evidence of heat exhaustion shortly after the victims escaped. Defense lawyer Lester Gendron asked for Dickerson's opinion on whether these doctors were qualified to diagnose heat exhaustion. "I feel they were not the most qualified," said Dickerson. As for their efforts to diagnose dehydration without medical tools or laboratory tests, Dickerson said, "It's less than scientific." Dickerson was accepted as "an expert in occupational medicine" by both sides. Defense attorneys spent a full day trying to shake the doctor's position, which went directly to the heart of the charges against the three defendants. They strenuously objected to Dickerson's use of the word "bodily injury." The defendants, James Schoenfeld, 26, Richard Schoenfeld, 23, and Fred Woods, 26, are charged with kidnapping with bodily harm, a charge which could bring them life imprisonment without chance of parole. They have pleaded guilty to simple kidnapping. Their defense rests heavily on the contention they never planned to harm the children or Ray and none of the victims was injured. The defense was visibly buoyed by the earlier doctors' testimony that there were no visible injuries. Dickerson repeatedly contended they were wrong. The prosecution's last scheduled witness is another heat exhaustion expert, pediatrician Dr. Delmar Pascoe. He will take the witness stand when court resumes next Tuesday. Counties Suffering Drought Ask Aid

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe has asked the U.S. Department of Agriculture to declare Atascosa, Brazos, McCulloch, Somervell and Williamson Counties disaster areas. # Cheerleader's Parents Settle School Lawsuit

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Parents of a high school cheerleader say they have settled out of court a lawsuit filed against school officials who wanted to spank the girl for being late to class five times. A state court was expected to rule today on the reported agreement between Jones High School, near Oklahoma City, and Ronnie and Peggy Davis, parents of 16-year-old Rhonda Davis. Mrs. Davis said the out-of-court settlement was reached Tuesday and it stipulates that Rhonda would be reinstated without penalty. Rhonda, president of the junior class and football queen, had been allowed to attend classes pending the outcome of the suit. But before it was filed, she had chosen to stay home and risk failing grades rather than allow Principal Robert Foote to spank her. The suit challenged a rule in the school handbook which orders a spanking as punishment for five tardy arrivals. Rhonda was late the fifth time on Nov. 3. Her spanking was set for Nov. 4, and she dropped out of school that day. Rhonda and her mother said that Rhonda's fifth tardiness was caused by a traffic accident and that an earlier one occurred because the girl had been stopped for speeding. They said both tardinesses should be excused.

Miner's Life 'Unstable'

BECKLEY, W.Va. (AP) — The days when a man spent his life in debt to the company store are gone forever, but in many ways a coal miner's life is just as tough.

Steve Gorham, 23, a coal miner for two years, has quit, primarily because he feels negotiations to replace the United Mine Workers' contract with the Bituminous Coal Operators Association that expires Dec. 6 will lead to an unavoidable strike.

Central issues in the talks now being held in Washington between the UMW and the mine operators include the right of a union local to strike, revision of grievance and arbitration procedure and refinancing the UMW health and retirement funds.

"A man that's concerned with getting ahead just can't be in the mines. You're not financially or physically secure," Gorham said.

As a belt operator at Ranger Fuel Co.'s Bolt Mine, Gorham made almost $300 a week. Yet in the first 10 months of 1977 he earned less than $9,000. He says strikes keep the work down.

Men strike over foolish things, Gorham said. "Like no soap in the bathroom, or a man getting his boots stolen. The boots, I can maybe understand that. I mean, the company's supposed to provide security in the bath house and all. And a pair of boots costs $50."

So Gorham has taken a job as a rough carpenter building concrete forms at the R.D. Bailey dam project at Justice, 60 miles away. He gets up at 4 a.m. and doesn't get home until 7 p.m.

But for the first time, he and his fiancée, Pat Underwood, believe they can afford to buy living room furniture on an installment plan.

Working in the mines, Gorham said, "You couldn't plan anything — not buying a car or a house, not even going to the movies." He got his truck, he said, in exchange for building a neighbor's garage.

There are at least 25 other people working with him on the dam who quit the mines for similar reasons, Gorham said.

"The aggravation is so much less, even though he's got to get up at 4 and doesn't get home until 7 or 7:30," Miss Underwood said about Gorham's job as a carpenter. "Striking is hard on a man who's used to working that hard. It's hard on a man to sit around for three weeks."

"The one thing that's bewildering to me," she added, "is that everybody you talk to wants to work, doesn't want to strike. So who's doing all the striking?"

Last summer's 10-week wildcat strike over reductions in union health care benefits caused Gorham to apply for food stamps.

"We don't have any expenses, except rent, and we kept it that way because there's been no stability. If we'd had car payments, or furniture payments, there would have been no way to make it," he said.

"If we hadn't had food stamps, we would never have gotten through. It embarrasses me to go down for the food stamps, but we got down to where we didn't have the money to get gas for the truck so I could go out and look for odd jobs. Those people who sit back on food stamps, on welfare — they can have that."

Gorham has not made up his mind about what he will do after work on the dam slows down when the weather gets bad.

"One of these days I may go back to the mines; it's not a bad job," he said. "The pay's good, and so are the benefits. And the retirement is very good. But until I see it's a stable, financially sound job, I won't go back."

Customs Agents Get Guerrilla Training

NILAND, Calif. (AP) — The United States is dulling the thrust of smugglers by sharpening the skills of its customs agents in a mandatory guerrilla warfare course in the Southern California desert.

After three weeks of rigorous training, even normally chair-bound supervisors learn to run, crawl, fight and shoot back.

The desert games, played out just south of the Chocolate Mountains where Gen. George S. Patton trained his tank and armored cavalry units for World War II, are a reaction to the growing threat from smugglers and their sophisticated tactics in recent years.

"Smugglers are finding ways to get around us," said Bob Lasher, assistant patrol director for the San Diego district. "The stuff continues to be brought in by aircraft and ships."

In 1973, when the U.S. Customs Service started patrolling the Mexican border with Southern California, it seized 27,289 pounds of marijuana in six months.

Smugglers in one recent case delivered a load of marijuana into Canada by freighter and then smuggled it into the United States.

But authorities say the desert training is paying off with more smuggling captures and seizures.

Danger from smugglers has always been acute. Two customs officers were captured by a band of smugglers near Nogales, Ariz., in 1974. They were slain across the border in Mexico.

The program was started soon after the Nogales killings. Treasury funds pay the $30,000 cost of each three-week class.

The Navy's Sea Air and Land (SEAL) team from the Naval Amphibious Base in Coronado, specialists in unconventional warfare, teach how to plan and carry out interdiction missions and stakeouts, how to spot smuggling along canyons, deserts and busy trails, how to deliver agents by helicopter into desolate areas, how to track down and capture air smugglers.

The training days run to midnight without a weekend off.

Water Department Directors Chosen

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Water Development Board has named Dick Whittington deputy director and Charles E. Nemir assistant executive director of the newly created Texas Department of Water Resources.

Whittington has been acting deputy director since Sept. 1. Nemir was acting executive director until the board named Harvey Davis to the permanent directorship Oct. 28.

Threat Of Holiday Strike Appears Over

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The threat of a strike by Greyhound bus drivers and maintenance employees over the Thanksgiving holiday appeared over as union and company negotiators agreed to stick to their talks as long as there's some headway.

Negotiators for the Amalgamated Transit Union, which represents 14,000 Greyhound bus drivers, mechanics and clerks, and company spokesmen said Tuesday they would continue talks even through the holiday if there were signs of progress.

Union Chief Orders Expansion Of Strike

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI) — The International Longshoremen's Association, which has been striking only containerized cargo ships, today halted all shipping in the ports of Baltimore, Philadelphia and New Orleans.

An ILA spokesman said union President Thomas "Teddy" Gleason ordered the expansion of the strike Tuesday night in an apparent effort to persuade shippers to submit new proposals.

The spokesman said the three ports were chosen as targets because shippers there had been "diddling around."

"As long as they had conventional ships moving, they didn't care," he said. John Kopp, the union's international vice president in Baltimore, said the total strike in Baltimore was being used as a "club" to pressure local shippers to sign a new contract covering about 4,000 dock workers.

The announcement of the strike against all shipping operations came Tuesday after contract talks between the ILA and the Steamship Trade Association stalled over a guaranteed annual income.

The shippers offered a final package and representatives of the ILA promptly rejected it.

A spokesman for the shippers said the longshoremen want to turn the guaranteed annual income into a "welfare program."

The ILA had expected to conclude local negotiations last weekend to settle an eight-week strike. A master contract with ports along the East Coast had been settled Nov. 13.

In Galveston, dockworkers will be working all ships this weekend in accordance with a three-year contract agreement reached Tuesday night between the ILA and West Gulf shippers.

A selective strike of dockworkers should end Friday when about 7,000 workmen in 34 ports on the east and gulf coasts vote to ratify the contract, ILA President Thomas W. Gleason said.

Contract bargaining in other ports along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts are progressing.

But a shipping official said the Baltimore talks had been stalled because the locals are trying to reopen negotiations on the income issue.

One negotiator called the ILA demand "too costly, costly to the point where the port could not survive."

"What they (ILA) want is to allow a longshoreman the right to refuse work, even though it's available, and still collect his paycheck..." the negotiator said.

"They want a system where a man wouldn't have any need to work. He would simply get paid under the GAI (guaranteed annual income). In short, a welfare system where a man would get paid for not working," he added.

The ILA proposal provides that a man with seniority could refuse a job — leaving it for a junior man — and still be paid because there would be no other job for him.

Gulf Dock Workers Agree On Contract

GALVESTON (AP) — An agreement was reached Tuesday between the International Longshoremen's Association and the West Gulf Maritime Association on a new contract for about 5,000 dock workers in deepsea local from Lake Charles, La., to Brownsville.

Tentative agreement with an additional 2,000 longshoremen in warehouse and clerks and checkers locals were expected to follow soon, union officials said.

The agreement was reached on the 53rd day of a selective strike that has cost the Houston economy alone more than $11 million.

Hopes Dim In Steel Strike

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — Prospects for settlement of the steelworkers strike on Minnesota's Iron Range dimmed as safety and health issues replaced incentive pay as the paramount concern of strikers.

An improved incentive pay offer by the seven iron ore mining and processing firms hit by the strike resulted in settlements with five locals this week — four in Michigan's Upper Peninsula and one in Minnesota.

However, 10 Minnesota locals are continuing the strike that began Aug. 1 and some United Steelworkers of America spokesmen said they did not expect a settlement soon.

The latest group to join steelworkers returning to work was Local 5440 at Republic, Mich. Officials of the 700-member local said workers endorsed a pact with Cleveland Cliffs Iron Co. by a 2-to-1 margin after lengthy debate Tuesday.

Local 5440 was the last of four steelworker locals in the Upper Peninsula to settle. The three others accepted Cleveland Cliffs' offer earlier this week.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

A Peace Of His Mind

EVEN IF IT proves in the end to have been a futile attempt, the dramatic visit to Israel by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat will have temporarily defused an explosive build-up of Mideast tensions.
If nothing else, the peacemaking mission helped to widen an identifying gulf between the good guys and the bad guys.

However, the softening attitude evidenced by Sadat drew a response in kind from Israel's Begin.
While Begin avoided saying that Israel could accept a Palestinian state, he at least was silent on the point and said that Sadat's visit was a start toward "serious direct dialog...not only between Israel and Egypt but with all the other states...and ultimately out of it will come peace."

Humphrey-Hawkins: Still Bad

WASHINGTON—All of a sudden, the Humphrey-Hawkins bill is back in the news, and if you want a piece of bad news, that's it. No matter how this misguided proposition is watered down or prettied up, it remains pure folly.
In the friendliest possible fashion, out of deference to its principal sponsor, the bill ought to be permanently shelved. The Humphrey-Hawkins bill is the brainchild of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota and Congressman Augustus F. Hawkins of California.

elated form the Humphrey-Hawkins bill embraces all the bankrupt notions of conventional liberalism.
Let me dwell upon the most fallacious notion. This is the notion that in a free society, the most fundamental forces of human nature and of the marketplace can be successfully manipulated by the power of government. It simply is not so.
IN A TOTALITARIAN society, the notion will work. It may work badly—in the Soviet Union, it plainly has worked badly—but it cannot work within the context of a free society. We keep tinkering with bits and pieces.

Why Thanksgiving?

ON SUNDAY afternoon, I stood in the driveway of a Fort Worth service station, slightly disgusted that a ruptured radiator hose was delaying my trip home.
A siren jerked me back to reality. As an ambulance passed on its way to a nearby hospital, my "troubles" evaporated into nothingness.
Whoever was in that ambulance, for whatever reason, had more troubles than I.
Thanksgiving, for most of us, is a day instead of an attitude. We tend to magnify minor inconveniences into major irritations.

Our prayer of Thanksgiving must begin with a request for forgiveness that we are so late in offering it. Only when we consciously recognize what blessings are can we ask that others share in them and know the joy of receiving them.

Holmes Alexander:

...Or What's A Heaven For?

WASHINGTON—Mrs. Juanita Morris Krep, 56, Secretary of Commerce, mother of three, is a quipster who doesn't mind kidding her audience or herself, and she legitimately wins her letter as a varsity social worker for Carter U.
Mrs. Krep said she felt a little uneasy coming before the Washington press corps as a spokesman for the administration which had outlawed the free martini lunch.

Krep, "is lettered with the phrases of those who have tried to describe this concept.
"Noblesse oblige, the social contract, philanthropy, enlightened self-interest, the gospel of wealth, social consciousness, corporate responsibility—these are just a few."
Not content with letting Nature take its course, Mrs. Krep is developing within the Commerce Department something she called a Social Performance Index.

She holds publicity to be necessary, so that leaders will always be visible and admired, while laggards will feel driven to improvement.
Mrs. Krep takes the line that she is not advancing the cause of government regulation, but is offering a chance to undo and abandon much of the regulation that exists.
It is fair to give her full credit for sincerity, and certainly the dismal record of Federal economic intervention is the best argument for her version of laissez-faire.

Sylvia Porter: Digging For Deductions Makes $$ And Sense

(Fifth Of Seven Columns)
IF YOU'RE AMONG America's millions of stockholders, your year-end tax selling time is here. And this year, there are new tax rules you must take into account:
(1) Securities you sell in '77 must have been held for more than nine months to qualify for long-term gain or loss treatment. (Old rule: more than six months.)
(2) The capital loss deduction shelters $2,000 of your highly-taxed ordinary income. (Old rule: $1,000)
(3) And more changes are ahead. If you sell securities in 1978 or later, you must have held them more than one year to qualify for long-term gain or loss treatment.
(4) Also beginning in 1978, you can use the capital loss deduction to shelter $3,000 of ordinary income.

OR SAY YOU bought ABC stock in February 1977, and it shows a paper loss now. By waiting until 1978 to sell, that loss has twice the value from a tax angle as the long-term loss you would get from a December 1977 sale.
The reason is that a net capital loss which is short-term shelters ordinary income dollar-for-dollar (up to the maximum dollar ceiling).
On the other hand, it takes $2 of net long-term loss to offset $1 of ordinary income.
Of course, it would be stupid to place tax considerations above the far more important objectives of letting your profits run and cutting your losses short. Tax aspects should not be the only deciding factor in your year-end tax moves.
But taxes can and should be weighed carefully in your decisions on whether or not to sell. Whatever gains you pull down in 1977 are tax-free to the extent of your '77 losses (or any undeducted losses you carry over from earlier years.)
This leads directly into other vital questions about analyzing your 1977 securities transactions, dividing them into short-term and long-term classifications, getting the maximum benefit from your losses and minimizing taxes on your gains.

Research Team Finds Homosexuality Among California Seagulls

IRVINE, Calif. (UPI) — A university research team says about 14 percent of the female seagulls on an island off the California coast are lesbians, calling it the first solid evidence of widespread homosexuality among wild birds.

One of the female gulls assumes a male role and the birds form stable unions like those of heterosexual seagulls. They go through the motions of mating, lay sterile eggs and defend their nests like other couples, the report said.

No evidence of homosexuality among male birds was found.

"We were absolutely astounded" at the discovery, said Dr. George Hunt of the University of California at Irvine. "This sort of thing has not been found before and was clearly not what we anticipated."

He and his wife, Molly, who is also his co-researcher, studied 1,200 pairs of western seagulls for three years on Santa Barbara Island, an uninhabited rock about 40 miles southwest of Los Angeles. They recently published their findings in Science, the journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The Hunts are also trying to determine whether environmental factors are involved.

A team from the University of Washington, headed by Dr. Donald Farner, is also studying the gulls. The colony has a shortage of male birds, he said, which may be involved with the high number of female pairs. His team is also studying blood samples taken from the lesbian birds, trying to determine if their hormones are normal.

The National Science Foundation recently granted the Hunts and the Farner team, who are cooperating, $62,000 to further their research.

Hunt said the discovery was made by his wife during research into the qualities that make gulls good parents. They found that some nests contained too many eggs, more than the three that a female gull usually lays.

At first they suspected that some females laid eggs in the nests of other birds, he said, but then discovered that most of the eggs in such nests were sterile.

Examination of the birds revealed most couples were actually two female birds, "laying (sterile) eggs in the same nest and defending the same territory, as if they were male and female." Returning to the island over the course of three years, with graduate students to help them trap and examine birds, they discovered that the female couples remained together for years.

Black To Seek Post In Tennessee House

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Rep. Harper Brewer, D-Memphis, says he plans to seek the post of speaker pro tempore of the state House of Representatives next year.

The post was vacated by the recent resignation of Cletus McWilliams, a Franklin Democrat, who was named executive secretary of the state Supreme Court. Brewer's comment came during a break in a national meeting of black legislators, seeking to organize in an effort to make themselves heard on behalf of the nation's 25 million blacks.

Rep. Matthew McNeely, speaker pro tem of the Michigan state House of Representatives, said representatives of the 294 black state senators and state representatives from 48 states are organizing the National Caucus of Black State Legislators.

The black legislators directly represent more than 20 million blacks, he told reporters, but "when any (national) administration wants to get the feelings of the black, they don't come to the black state representatives and senators."

"They go to other organizations. Nobody seems to pay much attention to the black legislative caucus."

Tomorrow's Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A likeable, but indolent, friend may shift her burdens to you because she doesn't want to be saddled with them.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) An acquaintance who knows you on a purely social basis may try to corner you for a favor tomorrow. Be wary of promises made in return.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Those who are wined and dined at your place will appreciate the occasion even more if it is as informal as possible.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Just because distance separates you from someone you love, doesn't mean that this person isn't worth a card or a call.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) As a person who likes to operate free from restraints, you understand the folly of possessiveness. Yet tomorrow, you may try to limit the freedom of one you're fond of.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Make it a point to be equally charming and gracious to all. A violation will offend one who loves you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Beware of romantic involvements that are definite no-no's. It might cause complications that will really rock the boat.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Socially, your behavior will be closely eyed by someone who is less than an ally. She's hoping you'll bomb. Outsmart her.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You may feel a strong inner need to be the center of attention. You could do something rather silly just to achieve this.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It's commendable to praise another, provided the reasons are sincere. To flatter someone for a less noble purpose will backfire tomorrow.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Tomorrow is not the day to try to fit yourself into the picture with someone you know who has a good thing going. Wait until you're asked.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Try to be a leader tomorrow. Letting another make the decisions is no guarantee the choices will be right.

Nov. 24, 1977

A great amount of emphasis this coming year will be devoted to situations that could enhance your stability and security. You may have to work harder, but the sturdier foundations will be worth it.

Cousteau Uses Equipment To 'Travel In Time'

By JOAN HANAUER
NEW YORK (UPI) — The latest project of Captain Jacques Cousteau is time travel — underwater, of course.

"Did you ever read 'The Time Machine,' by H.G. Wells?" Capt. Cousteau asked during an interview, in which he was explaining the basis for his new "Cousteau Odyssey" series on PBS.

"We have developed during my lifetime the means and the tools to penetrate the ocean — the Aqualung, the minisub, houses under the sea, underwater cameras, even television cameras, and much more.

"All this array of hardware we used until now, for what I call the horizontal exploration of the oceans, exploring them as they are today anywhere, at any depth. To explore horizontally is to explore in space.

"In 1976 I tried to turn all this hardware into a radically different use — to explore not in space but in time — vertical exploration, to turn back the clock." The French undersea pioneer and explorer said that he and his son, Philippe, co-producers of the new series, three more shows for PBS is the 1977-78 season, and eight more for the two subsequent series. "Calypto's Search for the Britannic," aired Tuesday night, was chosen for the first because it was the closest in time. The Britannic, sister ship to the Titanic, was converted into a hospital ship in World War I and was sunk in the Aegean Sea Nov. 21, 1916.

"We wanted to start almost in modern times," Cousteau said. "We were turning the clock back some 60 years."

He said future "Odyssey" programs will explore subjects of increasing antiquity — Byzantine, Phoenician, Roman, Greek, Minoan, pre-Minoan.

"We want to begin to investigate the relationship between human beings and their environment, as it has been in the past.

"Have human beings always been destroyers?"

"If they have, how did he cope? How much damage did he do? These are lessons we can get from antiquity."

So far, the answer appears to be that man has always been a destroyer.

"Man has always been a predator, always a destroyer, but there were so few people on this planet," he added. "When there were fewer than a million individuals on this earth, they could not do much harm. The trouble now is that the teeth of the predator have grown so long."

Cousteau today finds all the problems of pollution — from oil spills to overfishing to the other ills he has tried to fight over the years — minor compared to what he considers the overriding evil — the unresolved problems that heavy reliance on nuclear energy could bring.

"We propose a moratorium until there has been time to solve the technological problems. Otherwise what man does today could poison generations for thousands and thousands of years."

Ivan Rebroff Gives Charm At Theater

By MARY CAMPBELL

NEW YORK (AP) — An evening of Russian songs appeals to a limited audience, but basso Ivan Rebroff is presenting such an evening with a good deal of friendly charm at the Bijou Theater.

He opened this week to a sparse audience in the theater, termed "mid-Broadway" because it has only 375 seats. He will continue through Sunday.

Rebroff sings in a five-octave range, moving from a warm bass and bass-baritone up into a head tone and on into falsetto without an audible break in register. The falsetto is sometimes a bit thin, but the transition between low and high is remarkably smooth.

The bass is the German-born son of a Russian couple. In previous visits to this country from Germany, starting in 1970, he has sung at Carnegie Hall, programming more classical selections than the present mostly pop and folk.

Rebroff is 6 feet 6 inches tall and strode onstage to join his four instrumentalists wearing a floor-length fur coat and fur hat. He removed the coat — not the hat — to reveal a tunic costume trimmed in bejeveled ribbons, the trousers tucked into boots.

But flamboyance isn't the main impression Rebroff makes; a friendly stage manner is stronger. He has a good voice, easy to enjoy with its tone as warm and sweet as home-made candy. And he is at ease, and obviously enjoys, dramatizing the songs he sings.

This was most effective in Moussorgsky's "The Flea," a bit arch in a drinking song. Rebroff also sang "Ol' Man River" in English, in his own round tones, admirably imitating nobody.

Critic Lauds 'Uncommon Women' Play

By WILLIAM GLOVER
NEW YORK (AP) — "Uncommon Women and Others" is a downright dramatic pleasure.

The play, about a group of college graduates looking back six years later, opened this week as the second opus in the Phoenix Theater's production series.

Its author, Wendy Wasserstein, etches characters with splashes of venom, dashes of wit and dedicated feminist ardor. Her words and metaphors are uninhibitedly anatomical.

Her seven Mount Holyoke alumnae are a fascinating assemblage of youthful ambitions and post-commencement actualities. On hand are the driving careerist, the raucous rebel, the romantic dawdler, the baffled struggler, even the pre-ordained housewife.

By slipping to and fro in time, Wasserstein cleverly juxtaposes audience awareness and, perhaps too predictably, fixes the fates of these very contemporary, free-talking and hopeful collegians.

The multitude of satiric cartoons are recurrently framed with a disembodied masculine voice which dryly recites the catalogue of values presumably instilled by higher education.

The cast is uniformly outstanding under the direction of Steven Robman, and can be sàjuted fairly only in alphabetical order.

Museum's Purchase Called Mysterious

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The J. Paul Getty Museum has bought a 2,300-year-old Greek statue, one of the rarest and most valuable art objects of the ancient world, for more than $3 million in a "mystery-shrouded" sale, the Los Angeles Times reported Tuesday.

The sale price rivals the more than $3 million that Los Angeles industrialist Armand Hammer recently paid for Rembrandt's painting "Juno," as the highest price ever paid for a single work of art in the United States.

Both "Juno" and the Greek statue, a bronze of a nude athlete, will probably wind up within a few miles of each other in the Los Angeles area, the Times said. By the sales terms, the painting is expected to come, after several years, to the County Museum of Art in Los Angeles.

The Getty Museum, a Roman villa reconstructed on a cliff in Malibu overlooking the Pacific, inherited the bulk of the oil billionaire's fortune and is believed to be the wealthiest non-governmental museum in the world.

The Times said the statue "has been known to exist only since 1970." The newspaper did not say how its existence came to light, who owned it or who sold it.

"The mystery-shrouded sale was concluded last summer in London through Artemus, a Getty-owned subsidiary," the newspaper said.

The statue was described as "an original 4th century (B.C.) Greek bronze depicting a near life-size nude, victorious athlete, closely related to the manner of Lyssippus."

PG PARENTAL GUIDANCE SUGGESTED

"HEROES is another up-and-coming contender for my 10 Best list for 1977. It also marks the auspicious arrival of video sitcom king Henry Winkler as a major screen star... and all three words in that description are well earned."
... he gives a sensitive, thoughtful performance rich in insights made richer by his uncanny ability to convey them. His deceptively free-wheeling style soon gives way to a quiet eloquence in which he says the most with silence and his portrayal should make him a cinch for a Best Actor nomination in next year's Oscar race.
"Balancing him brilliantly is Sally Field... A strong actress with a bold, definitive style of her own... In HEROES she meets her match in Winkler, and playing off an actor of her own intensity only seems to improve her already well-etched performance.
"Also contributing sparks to this saga is Star Wars space captain Harrison Ford, whose touching performance as one of Winkler's former war buddies provides one of the film's most memorably moving sequences... Ford could easily win a Best Supporting Actor nomination for his gentle, persuasive portrait of a soldier whose war wounds will never, ever heal.
"HEROES is the first major film to deal intelligently with the plight of returning Vietnam veterans. It's a sensible, sensitive screen essay, well directed by Jeremy Paul Kagan and wonderfully well-acted by Winkler, Ford and Ms. Field. The result is a very special film that should have a high-priority position on your Must See list."

George Burns Special Offers Hour Of Razor-Sharp Humor

By JAY SHARBUTT
LOS ANGELES (AP) — CBS has this special tonight. It stars an elderly, cigar-smoking gent who started in show biz at age seven, singing with the Peewee Quartet on New York's East Side.
You should see the show, "The George Burns One-Man Show," even though he shares the bill with Bob Hope, Ann-Margret, the Captain and Tennille and Gladys Knight and the Pips.
True, too much is made of the fact Burns now is 81. Indeed, the announcer jokingly says the guests are "standing by just in case" he requires help with this one-man show of his.
They help, but the truth is, Burns doesn't need it. His comedy timing remains razor-sharp and he exudes a sense of fun, an enjoyment of work, rarely seen on specials starting far younger tads.

Burns begins by noting he got Hope as a guest merely by calling him and coughing, causing Hope to be alarmed and summon backup acts, lest the hour prove too rigorous for a man of Burns' age.
This proves a running gag for the show, in which Hope and the rest kid the star, do their respective turns on the stage, then exit to let Burns solo with ancient songs and assorted drolleries.
Among other things, Burns notes he found a small hole in the wall between his dressing room and that of Toni Tennille. He pondered plugging the hole, he says, but "I figured why bother? Let her enjoy herself."

Hope, in his stint, observes that Burns has been an entertainer so long "he once told Noah he doesn't play cruises."
Because of Burns' advanced years, there's a pretty nurse on hand. She complains she can't find his pulse. He explains: "I live in Beverly Hills and have a unlisted pulse."
Good jokes and good times abound in this show. But the best moment is a shaggy vaudeville story he tells about the time he was 19 and lodged in an actors' hotel in Philadelphia.
The yarn concerns coffee, a maid named Trixie, the hotel owner, a tramp actor named Jack Milo and amour. And boy, is it complicated.
But it is mighty funny and delivered with such precision... well, watch the show tonight and see the master at work for yourself.

The Almanac TODAY IN HISTORY

By United Press International
Today is Wednesday, Nov. 23, the 327th day of 1977 with 38 to follow.
The moon is approaching its full phase. The morning stars are Mars, Venus, Jupiter and Saturn.
The evening star is Mercury.
Those born on this date are under the sign of Sagittarius.
Franklin Pierce, 14th president of the United States, was born Nov. 23, 1804.
On this day in history:
In 1942, Congress authorized creation of a World War II Woman's Auxiliary of the U.S. Coast Guard to be known as the "Spars."

In 1945, World War II rationing ended in the United States on all foods except sugar.
In 1954, the Chinese Communists said they had convicted 11 American airmen and two civilians of espionage.
In 1975, Spain's Generalissimo Franco was buried in a crypt inside the mountain at the Valley of The Fallen.
A thought for the day:
English satirical poet Samuel Butler said, "He that complains against his will is of his own opinion still."

Champagne Producers Launch Education Campaign

EDITOR'S NOTE — "Champagne gives brilliance to the eyes without flushing the face," said the Marquise de Pompadour, mistress of Louis XV. But the phrase "American champagne" will flush the face of any vintner of Epernay. He'll tell you there's no such thing and launch into a lesson about "the real thing."

By MORT ROSENBLUM
EPERNAY, France (AP) — If it's not from the chalky hills of Champagne where Dom Perignon himself lies buried in a church nave — it's not the real thing, vintners here insist, and they want the world to know it.

Around here, "California champagne" is fightin' words.
 "I do not mean to speak ill of U.S. domestic wines," says Christian Pol Roger, a fourth generation bubble baron, "but it is time to call a chicken a chicken, and a pheasant a pheasant."

 Champagne is a small district east of Paris and, by international agreement, only bubbly wine from a snake-shaped tract of 75,000 acres can bear its name. But the United States was excluded from the agreement because it was during Prohibition.

The real champagne is more of a culture and a society than something to drink at bar mitzvahs. The grape aristocracy who hunt bear in Poland and the part-timers who bottle the wine in their basements defend the 300-year-old art with religious zeal.

"It's theft, pure and simple," snorts Etienne Lanson, a maker of fine champagne in nearby Reims. "We don't make Cadillacs or whiskey — why must Americans call their sparkling wine champagne?"

Tradition is sealed into the iron-fenced, scrollworked mansions on Champagne Row, the yellow guest books signed by Napoleon and the lush hills and crumbling villages rising along the Marne.

But, experts say, it is a clear question of taste not pride. "It depends on soil, sun, acidity, sugar content of the grapes and on and on," said one, with a scarcely audible sniff. "American sparkling wines are good. But they are not champagne."

The Champagne Producers Association has been fighting to get that point across. It is particularly difficult in the United States where the Treasury Department's Bureau of Alcohol, Firearms and Tobacco allows winemakers to call champagne anything which has the same characteristics as the real thing.

"Alas, we have no recourse," says Joseph Dargent, association spokesman. "All we can do is try to educate the world that there is a difference."

So far, it has been an uphill fight. Last year France exported four million bottles of champagne to the United States; sales of domestic sparkling wine — three to four times cheaper — were about 90 million bottles. In 25 years, exports to the United States have not surpassed 45 million bottles annually.

Price is a factor, producers admit. The real thing costs upwards of $11 a bottle on most American shelves. Domestic products normally run between $3 and $8.

Lanson is optimistic for the future. "Americans are again becoming a civilized nation, gastronomically speaking, of course, after Prohibition and I think in 10 or 15 years they will appreciate fine wines even more," he says.

But champagne producers are not starving. The French themselves drank 116 million bottles last year, compared with 38 million for export. The British, Italians and Belgians each drink more than Americans.

Nearly 800,000 visitors a year prowl among Champanted rows miles of cellars and trample the edges of neatly planted rows of low vines.

Few miss the Abbey at Hautvillers where a monk named Dom Pierre Perignon reputedly discovered that rather interesting things happened if the local wine were left alone to ferment a second time. He died in 1715 and was buried before the altar.

In Dom Perignon's time one bottle in three splattered from the pressure. But the art has been refined. After a first fermentation wines from up to 50 different vineyards might be blended for bottling. During the second, sediment coats the side of the bottle. It takes three months for a cellar master to shake it down to the cork — a process which takes three years to learn — where it is later removed by other specialists. For the best stuff, it is at least five years from vine to sipper.

"Champagne changes slowly, like the features of a human face," says Pol Roger. "The champagne of today is not that of 100 years ago; it is lighter, with subtle differences. People now drink champagne not just after dinner ... tastes change."

Exterior symbols such as labels change, too. But slowly Pol Roger added a black border to the labels of all bottles shipped to Britain after the death of Winston Churchill, one of the house's most loyal customers.

Vineyard owners total nearly 14,000 and they also change slowly, despite the fact that Epernay has been destroyed 25 times in various wars and sacking, and the fields have suffered. Yet the best land can cost $200,000 an acre.

Of 4,000 producers, the biggest by far is Moët & Chandon, founded in 1743 but now a conglomerate on the Paris stock exchange embracing Hennessy brandy and Christian Dior cosmetics. The group bought the second-largest champagne producer, Mercier, and also the oldest, Ruinart, established in 1729. Last year, they produced 21 million bottles, including their top of the line Dom Perignon.

Moët & Chandon, rather than trying to beat American sparkling wines, is joining them. The company bought vineyards in California's Napa Valley and already has produced its first wine. "We are not, of course, calling it champagne," a spokesman hastened to emphasize.

The less passionate winemakers here say that they consider the best American sparkling wines as very good but the particular conditions of this region cannot be duplicated. "We even tried to reproduce champagne in the nearby Loire Valley," said one. "But it just wasn't the same. Laws forbid the adding of acid or too much sugar ... it's all very complicated."

But even in a country not noted for generous acceptance of foreign imitations of its finest products, scorn is not total. In Moët & Chandon's reception hall, displayed right next to a gilded family tree and a 1741 champagne bottle, is a certificate from 1969 naming Dom Perignon as the year's best sparkling wine. It is from the Food and Wine Society of Southern California.

ITALIAN CHICK PEA SALAD

2 cups diced tomatoes (2 large)
 1 can (1 lb.) chick peas, drained
 4 cups torn chicory
 Zucchini Dressing (recipe follows)
 In medium bowl toss together tomatoes, chick peas and chicory. Toss with Zucchini Dressing. Makes about 6 servings.

Zucchini Dressing: In medium bowl stir together 1/2 cup finely shredded zucchini (1 small), 3/4 cup real mayonnaise, 1 tsp. grated onion, 1/4 cup milk and 1 tsp. soy sauce. Cover and chill. Makes 1 1/2 cups.

MINTED PEAS AND CARROT SALAD

1 lb. carrots, diagonally sliced 1/4-inch thick
 1 pkg. (10 oz.) green peas
 1/3 cup real mayonnaise
 1 tbsp. mint-flavored apple jelly

Cook carrots in salted water until tender-crisp. Cook peas according to package directions; drain. In medium bowl stir together real mayonnaise and jelly. Stir in carrots and peas. Cover and chill. If desired, serve on lettuce. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

A DAILY MESSAGE FROM The Newspaper Bible.

Rev. 2:10B-20, The Living Bible

You will be persecuted for 'ten days.' Remain faithful even when facing death and I will give you the crown of life—an unending, glorious future.

11 Let everyone who can hear, listen to what the Spirit is saying to the churches: He who is victorious shall not be hurt by the Second Death.

12 Write this letter to the leader of the church in Pergamos: This message is from Him who wields the sharp and double-bladed sword.

13 I am fully aware that you live in the city where Satan's throne is, at the center of Satanic worship; and yet you have remained loyal to Me, and refused to deny Me, even when Antipas, My faithful witness, was martyred among you by Satan's devotees.

14 And yet I have a few things against you. You tolerate some among you who do as Balaam did when he taught Balak how to ruin the people of Israel by involving them in sexual sin and encouraging them to go to idol feasts.

15 Yes, you have some of these very same followers of Balaam among you!

16 Change your mind and attitude, or else I will come to you suddenly and fight against them with the sword of My mouth.

17 Let everyone who can hear, listen to what the Spirit is saying to the churches: Every one who is victorious shall eat of the hidden manna, the secret nourishment from heaven; and I will give to each a white stone, and on the stone will be engraved a new name that no one else knows except the one receiving it.

18 Write this letter to the leader of the church in Thyatira: This is a message from the Son of God, whose eyes penetrate like flames of fire, whose feet are like glowing brass.

19 I am aware of all your good deeds—your kindness to the poor, your gifts and service to them; also I know your love and faith and patience, and I can see your constant improvement in all these things.

20 Yet I have this against you: you are permitting that woman Jezebel, who calls herself a prophetess, to teach My servants that sex sin is not a serious matter; she urges them to practice immorality and to eat meat that has been sacrificed to idols.

Trial Changes Woman's Life

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — Francine Hughes feels an enormous sense of freedom, a freedom to stand outside and watch stars and cars and her breath "puff up in the air."

Life is different now, says the mother of four, who was catapulted to national attention by her trial for slaying the ex-husband who beat her for 14 years.

"I just enjoy it. I just take it in. I don't have to worry about what's at home," she said.

"What's at home" used to be ex-husband James Hughes.

It is now almost four weeks since she was acquitted of first-degree murder by reason of insanity.

"The other night I went out on the porch. It was dark. I watched the stars, watched the cars go by, my breath puff up in the air," she said.

The 30-year-old Mrs. Hughes said she is giddy and overwhelmed by requests for television appearances and newspaper interviews — and perplexed by the attention to her plight as a "battered woman."

"Before all this happened, I was like in a small world and it sort of overwhelms me. I don't understand still what's going on," she told The Associated Press Tuesday.

"I know there are certain things I really do want. I want to be successful at a job. I was headed for a business career," she said.

Mrs. Hughes, who in almost nine months in jail crocheted a bedspread for her mother and three aghans for her children, said she now spends time baking bread and cookies, getting ready for the holidays and rediscovering her children, who are aged 6 to 12.

She said the older children understand what has happened, but the youngest, a girl, fears her mother will leave again and needs constant reassurance.

She and the children have settled temporarily in a modest two-story frame home with her mother in Jackson. It was here that she left high school at the age of 16 to marry Hughes, her sweetheart. She said he began to beat her shortly after they were married in 1963, and continued the abuse even after their divorce in 1971.

Shortly after the divorce, Hughes, a 31-year-old former construction worker, was badly injured in an auto accident. He moved into his ex-wife's Danville home so she could care for him. The beatings worsened.

In tears during the nearly two-week trial in Ingham County Circuit Court, she relived her life with Hughes. She told of repeated incidents in which Hughes choked her, threatened her with a knife, teased their children to tears and allowed a family pet to freeze to death.

In the argument that precipitated the killing last March 9, she said, Hughes ripped up her books from classes at a nearby business school, then made her burn them. He pushed TV dinners onto the floor and made her pick up the food, then rubbed it into her hair.

Then, before falling asleep, he raped her.

Claiming self-defense and temporary insanity, Mrs. Hughes testified that she splashed gasoline around Hughes' bed, then set the fuel on fire. Hughes suffocated in the blaze.

The verdict required a psychiatric examination for Mrs. Hughes. She could have been held 60 days, but was released after two psychiatrists spent one hour with her and judged her sane.

Where once Mrs. Hughes' dream was to be a good wife to her husband, now she hopes for a happy home for her children and a successful job. She is already arranging to meet with a counselor at a local business college.

"It's going to take determination and I feel I have that," she said. "I just want to get my foot in the door. You have to start at the bottom somewhere."

But that determination sometimes deserts her.

"I have times when I get depressed ... and feel kind of lost or without any direction or something," she said.

She said she does not resent police or prosecutors who refused to heed her pleas for help. But she adds there needs to be some changes.

Other women in similar situations "shouldn't have to feel that there's no way out for them, that there's no way they can get help," she says.

Although she once said she didn't feel "liberated," but would like to be, Mrs. Hughes now says liberation is for everyone and that she identifies with some feminist beliefs.

"I identify with women everywhere who are in the situation I was in. I have real feelings those women," she said.

Feminists had hoped Mrs. Hughes would win a simple innocent verdict, setting a precedent for the right of women to defend themselves from abuse in domestic disputes.

Mrs. Hughes admitted that she has no answer for beaten women.

"I didn't know what to do," she said. "If people think of me as a symbol or the verdict as a landmark decision, maybe it can help in the future. I hope it does. I hope it does."

A BIRD IN THE HAND — Douglas Hawley of Oswegatchie, N.Y., demonstrated the 50-pound, $25 glider he built. He used plans from a 1909 edition of Popular Mechanics. The pilot stood in a hole in the lower wing and ran down a hill until he took off. Does it fly? Sure enough! Did he crash? Sure enough. (AP Laserphoto)

Glider Pilot Looks For Bigger Hill

OSWEGATCHIE, N.Y. (AP) — This is a story of Douglas Hawley and his old time flying machine, a tale that shows that sometimes a bird in hand still ends up with two in a bush.

Hawley, 28, always wanted to own a glider. Then he found plans for one in a 1909 Popular Mechanics magazine, a nice little plane with a set of double wings and a little tail. It looked something like the famed Wright brothers airplane.

"It took about 25 hours. I worked on it for four or five days," said Hawley, who altered the plans slightly by using plastic to cover the wings instead of muslin and nylon rigging instead of wire.

The glider, which cost $25, had a 20-foot wing span and was 13 feet long. It weighed about 50 pounds.

When Hawley tried the glider on for size — the pilot stands in an opening in the lower wing and holds the craft around his waist — he had a few doubts.

"It's awkward and hard to balance," he said.

That was enough for Hawley, who has nearly completed requirements for a regular pilot's license. Trained by a handful of spectators, he carried his glider through this rural town of 300 residents to a steep sand hill.

Gazing down, Hawley appeared to be having second thoughts.

"A long way down," someone said. "Yup," came the dry reply.

But Hawley took his glider in hand and lunged down the hill.

"He's in the air," yelled one spectator.

Sure enough, there was Hawley flying through the air, three, four seconds, looking fine. Then came a sound like someone thrashing around in a pile of leaves. Hawley and his glider were in a bush at the bottom of the hill.

"Incredible feeling," said an unseated Hawley. "Got to find a bigger hill."

Speeches Set

bia, will lecture on "Aging and Neuro-transmitter Systems."

McGeer also is Minister of Education for the Province of British Columbia.

The final morning of the symposium will feature a series of 15-minute lectures to be submitted in abstract form to symposium organizers by Jan. 1.

The symposium has announced that it will award "a limited number" of "travel grants covering the cost of round-trip economy air travel" for "younger investigators."

Further information about the symposium may be obtained by contacting Dr. David E. Potter, program chairman, Tarbox Parkinson's Disease Symposium, Department of Pharmacology and Therapeutics, Texas Tech University School of Medicine, Lubbock, Tex., 79409, or by calling (806) 743-2409.

The symposium is sponsored by the Tarbox Parkinson's Disease Institute, the Texas Tech medical school and its department of pharmacology and therapeutics and the Office of Educational Development and Continuing Education.

Teacher Insurance Premiums Increase

handle their medical problems through an out-patient clinic or a doctor's office, he said.

School administrators, who had worked with teachers in formulating the original group health package, urged the school board not to reduce the coverage. They said many school employees don't make much money as it is, and that workers already are burdened with paying a deductible and a share of non-hospital medical bills.

Furthermore, administrators said,

Blue Cross-Blue Shield only pays medical charges the company deems reasonable. Often, they said, teachers and school employees are stuck with medical bills Blue Cross rejects.

Also, administrators said they doubt the district could save much if any money by rebidding the health insurance contract or by reducing coverage. They said a survey of 22 Texas school systems shows that Lubbock is paying the lowest insurance premiums for its employees.

Forbes and Harriger said requiring employees to pay part of their hospitalization costs may not reduce the district's tab substantially, but at least it cut the proposed premium increase a bit.

Before the school district took over the group health insurance program, it was handled by the local teachers' association, usually on the basis of "first-dollar" coverage, Jay Gordon, assistant superintendent for instruction and a member of the district's insurance committee, said.

He said teachers will be disappointed if the board changes the coverage.

School trustees did not dispute that Blue Cross probably needs an increase in rates under the present coverage plan. Of the premiums paid to the carrier so far, 95.9 percent has been paid out in claims. Blue Cross says, and the district seems to agree, that the difference is insufficient to defray administrative overhead.

Currently, the district pays $14.71 a month per employee for group health insurance. At the time bids were awarded, a plan similar to what Harriger and Forbes now advocate would have cost $1.18 a month per employee less.

Exact figures on how the proposed Blue Cross hike would affect the present $14.71 premium were not available.

Hill Supports Gas Company In Lawsuit

AUSTIN (UPI) — Attorney General John Hill is siding with a Fort Worth natural gas producer in its suit against the Federal Power Commission for trying to force the company to sell to out-of-state consumers.

Hill Tuesday said the U.S. Supreme Court would hear arguments on Dec. 7 in the suit filed by Southland Royalty Co. against the FPC.

The attorney general said he wanted the issue resolved before Congress enacted legislation.

"While this issue is being debated in Congress, we may wake up and find the courts have already settled it," Hill said.

That is why I have entered this case to present the argument for continued freedom to choose between selling gas to out-of-state buyers or Texas buyers."

Hill said the case is more important to Texas than to most states because most of the natural gas produced in Texas is consumed within the state.

"This strong intrastate market not only has kept gas flowing to our homes during winter while some Northern states have gone without, but it also has fueled our Gulf Coast petrochemical complex, which is a key contributor to our state's healthy economy," he said.

Louisiana and New Mexico have filed briefs with the Supreme Court supporting Texas' position in the case.

The suit stems from an FPC order issued in 1975 when leases held by Gulf Oil Corp. on land in Crane and Ector Counties expired. Gulf had been selling gas from the land to El Paso Natural Gas Co., which put the fuel into interstate pipelines. The FPC ordered Southland to continue sales to El Paso.

However, Southland officials preferred to sell the gas to Intratek Gas Co., which serves industry and other customers in the Houston area.

Southland filed suit challenging the FPC order, and the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans upheld Southland's right to sell to intrastate customers if it preferred.

Tax Breaks

major investment of their wealth are unfairly taxed, extremely hard hit are those poor and middle income real property owners and renters and those on fixed incomes," Maury said.

The legislature, rather than trying to correct the taxation system to make the tax burden fall more equitably on all taxpayers, chose to address the needs of only one class of taxpayer.

Senators Embark On Canal Voyage

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, said Tuesday he and two other senators will board a ship in New Orleans this week for a trip through the Panama Canal.

Stevens said the voyage may help him make up his mind about the canal treaties negotiated by the Carter administration that the Senate will vote on early next year.

"I feel you shouldn't act on something you haven't seen," said Stevens, who describes himself as leaning toward voting against the accords.

Senators Embark On Canal Voyage

Accompanying him will be Sens. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., and Malcolm Wallop, R-Wyo.

Stevens office said the trip on an Army resupply vessel will begin Friday and probably last through Dec. 4. An aide described it as "more or less of a fact finding thing."

Barnard Preparing To Retire

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Ten years after he performed the world's first successful heart transplant, Dr. Christiaan Barnard is getting ready to put away his scalpel because of arthritis in his hands.

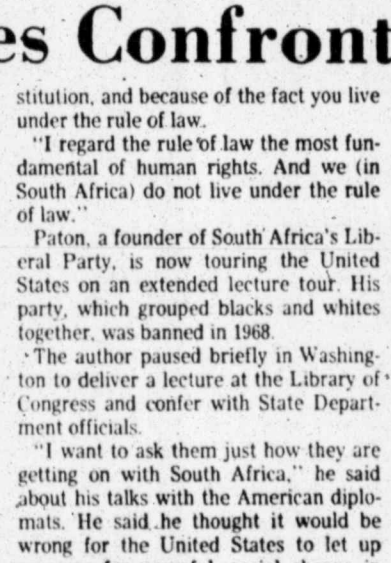

"I operated yesterday ... it was absolute agony," the 55-year surgeon said in an interview a few days ago.

"Every stitch I put in and tied was such an agony. I felt so bad I started using cortisone again, the last thing I wanted to use."

medical professor is $1,300 a month. He gave the proceeds of his most successful book, "One Life," to a medical research fund named after him, but he estimates he has earned $230,000 from his other books.

His 27-year-old second wife, Barbara, is the daughter of a wealthy Johannesburg industrialist and has been described as the most beautiful woman in South Africa. They have two small sons.

Barnard's reaction to the approaching end of active surgery reflects his personal life to a degree.

DR. CHRISTIAAN BARNARD

Schur Hospital have performed 11 total heart transplants, and two of the patients are still alive.

Barnard's last total transplant was in December 1973. Eleven months later, with another medical first, he switched to the technique he says will be commonplace within 10 years, the heteropic or "piggyback" transplant in which a second heart is installed to assist the patient's own heart.

Barnard has performed this complex operation 17 times. Twelve of these double-heart patients are alive and well.

This year Barnard attracted new international attention, and outrage, by grafting a baboon's heart into one desperately ill patient and a chimpanzee's heart into a second.

The baboon heart was too small to do the work required of it, and the 26-year-old woman died within hours. The 59-year-old man who got the chimpanzee heart died three days later. Barnard said his body rejected the animal heart, and had a human heart been available, there is "absolutely no doubt" he would be alive today.

The scarcity of human heart donors has sparked Barnard's latest and most serious argument with the local press.

Other surgeons have told him publicly about donors is "distasteful" and they do not want to refer accident victims to him. He wants a law forbidding the publication of the names of donors. He also wants the right to donate organs taken away from the relatives of a dead person and given to a professional panel.

The decision to donate a heart must be quick. A human heart can be preserved for a maximum of 24 hours, and Barnard does not see research extending this.

Barnard is also incensed by what he calls "double-standard" criticism of South Africa's whites.

He says his cardiac unit's 554 open-heart surgery patients in the first 10 months of this year included 100, most of them black, from other African countries, and 121 from overseas, including sizable groups from Communist Romania, the Seychelles and Mauritius.

He estimates that so far this year overseas patients of his unit have cost the South African taxpayer more than a million dollars.

"We are quite happy about this," he said. "But I just wish when, for example, the Mauritian ambassador tells the United Nations how much he hates apartheid and South Africa's racial policies — and that is fair enough — he would also point out that our doors are always open to their patients."

As he operated on an eight-year-old Colombian girl this month, Barnard continuing, the Colombian government refused visas to South Africa's Davis Cup tennis team.

"We didn't refuse their child a visa," he said, his high-pitched voice rising higher. "She got the same treatment as a South African."

Barnard's future without active surgery still will be a busy one. His plans include advising new cardiac units in South Africa and abroad, counseling young heart surgeons on the job, more books, more time with his family and perhaps politics.

He condemns social racial discrimination, but he also opposes turning South Africa over to the black majority.

He thinks a political solution to the racially divided nation's problems can only be achieved by the ruling — and internationally condemned — National Party. He says he agrees in principle more with the liberal Progressive Reform Party but feels it will never get into power. He also believes the multiracial constitutional conference proposed by the Progressives would result in black rule.

"Peace in this country will come only as a result of a realistic division of the country," he said.

"The Progressive policies would be all right if South Africa had 50 years to solve its problems. But South Africa doesn't have 50 years. And I don't have 50 years to do whatever I can to help."

Writer Sees Confrontation In South Africa

By NICHOLAS DANILOFF
WASHINGTON (UPI) — South African Alan Paton, author of "Cry, The Beloved Country," concludes gloomily that his country's internal policies seem to be leading heading toward "nothing but confrontation, war, revolution."

Then, crumpling up his wrinkled face, the 74-year-old writer acknowledged that he thought of leaving South Africa altogether as did his literary contemporaries Laurens van der Post, Ray Campbell and William Plomer.

"If I believe the future lies in out-and-out confrontation between black and white South Africans," he said at a news conference in the Library of Congress Tuesday, "I think I would rather come to a country like this which has become my spiritual home."

At first, Paton conceded, he regarded England and Scotland as his spiritual home. "But more and more it has become the United States," he said.

"I don't want to be corny," he added, squinting over the top of his black horn-rimmed glasses and answering firmly, almost sharply. "It is because of your Constitution, and because of the fact you live under the rule of law.

"I regard the rule of law the most fundamental of human rights. And we (in South Africa) do not live under the rule of law."

Paton, a founder of South Africa's Liberal Party, is now touring the United States on an extended lecture tour. His party, which grouped blacks and whites together, was banned in 1968.

The author paused briefly in Washington to deliver a lecture at the Library of Congress and confer with State Department officials.

"I want to ask them just how they are getting on with South Africa," he said about his talks with the American diplomats. He said he thought it would be wrong for the United States to let up pressure for peaceful, social change in South Africa.

The United States, he said, should try to move South Africa towards making "political and economic concessions which will stave off the threat of war."

But he was not optimistic. "All of our rulers don't see it that way at all. They see it as interference in our own affairs."

If the government of Prime Minister John Vorster delays change, Paton predicted, he eventually may confront a black Africa armed by Cuba and the Soviet Union.

"The nations of the West would be in a great dilemma. But the nations of the West would not go to the aid of South Africa," Paton predicted.

He said his only source of optimism is the recent visit of Egyptian President Sadat to Jerusalem.

"Who would have thought a week ago this was possible?" he asked. The equivalent, he said, would be for Prime Minister John Vorster to speak with black opposition leaders.

But he considered this unlikely, at least for now.

"I see nothing but confrontation, war, revolution," Paton said.

House Committee Looks At Seacoast Smuggling

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A Coast Guard admiral says that nothing gives the guard more "adrenalin" than the desire to catch smugglers sneaking narcotics into the United States by ship.

Rear Adm. Winford Barrow, commander of the Eighth Coast Guard District here, made the comment Tuesday to members of a House subcommittee looking into yacht hijacking.

He had responded to Rep. David Trean, R-La., who asked whether the Coast Guard showed "reluctance" to investigate criminal activities.

"That is 180 degrees out of phase," Barrow responded. "There is nothing we like to do better than to intercept drug running, nothing that pumps up the adrenalin more."

Yacht hijacking, though a romantic subject, turned out to be of little significance in smuggling operations — according to expert testimony.

"Smuggling narcotics is a covert operation and no smuggler would want the added complication of a stolen boat to draw attention," said Howard Safir, New Orleans deputy director of the Drug Enforcement Administration.

Patterson said there are about 600 missing boats of yacht size, with six known hijackings among those cases, and a possibility of 12 more.

Rep. Mario Biaggi, D-N.Y., is presiding over hearings by the Coast Guard and Navigation subcommittee. The congressmen are gathering testimony to help shape new laws to deal with the rise in seacoast smuggling of marijuana and narcotics.

The session here dealt with yacht piracy, or "yacht-jacking." Another one at Key Biscayne, Fla., to be held today gets into organized boat theft and insurance fraud.

Rep. Jerry M. Patterson, D-Calif., said owners of boats that disappear — boats that may cost $1 million or more — often have difficulty getting an investigation started. He said the yachts involved may cost $1 million or more.

There are too many overlapping agencies "operating with inadequate personnel and just tossing the potato back and forth," Patterson said.

Biaggi said the 12-mile wide belt of Coast Guard jurisdiction along the coast should be extended another 50 miles to give Guardsmen a broad area in which they may stop and search any vessel of under 500 gross tons — including those of foreign registry.

In addition, said Biaggi, new law should impose a penalty on any U.S. citizen caught in possession of illegal narcotics anywhere on the high seas. At present, instead of simple possession the more difficult charge of smuggling, or conspiracy to smuggle, must be proven.

Big Demand Greeted Sale Of New Beer

DAVENPORT, Iowa (UPI) — "Billy Beer" has come to the city in a big way. Distributors of the beer, named in honor of President Carter's brother, Billy Carter, said they had trouble keeping up with demand for the brew during the first weekend it was on sale in eastern Iowa.

They said 2,000 cases of the beer had been ordered and more had to be brought in.

Chaps Nip Tribe At Buzzer 81-80

By WALT McALEXANDER
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Talk about desperate situations, Lubbock Christian College was in one Tuesday night. The Chaps, ahead 79-74 with 64 seconds to play, found themselves trailing McMurry by a point with one second showing on the clock.

It seemed the Lubbockites were destined to suffer their fourth defeat of the young cage season, as they had the ball out of bounds on the side. But Steve Doudney got the ball in to Robert Cobb, whose desperation jumper from the corner was in the air as the buzzer sounded and hit only the bottom of the next, lifting the Chaps to an 81-80 triumph.

Victory No. 1 was not, as one might guess, accomplished in easy fashion. Time and again the Chaps appeared on the verge of putting the game away but each time McMurry, which defeated LCC 89-68 in Abilene last Saturday, came back.

The final, hectic two minutes saw McMurry's student manager, stationed at the scorer's table, called for a technical foul as he gestured to umpire Gib Weaver after Weaver had called the fifth foul on Indian ace Donnie Ray Cruse with 1:57 to play.

LCC was up 74-72 at the time and Robert Watts, who got a 1-and-1 on Cruse's foul plus the two-shot technical, hit three of four free shots and the Chaps had seemingly put it away 77-72.

Nickey Martin canned two free shots with 1:12 left, but Doudney countered those with 64 seconds to play. That's when things got exciting. Jerry Wooten picked up a loose ball and got a bucket with 41 ticks left and hit the front end of a 1-and-1 with 33 seconds to play, then got the tip in of the miss to narrow the tap to 79-78 with 26 seconds.

Edwin Miles missed a free shot with 20 seconds left and Ronnie Courtney drove the length of the floor for a twisting layup and was fouled with nine ticks. He missed the free throw and Mike Kahler pulled in his 14th rebound of the game

Montreal's Dawson Top NL Rookie

NEW YORK (AP) — Centerfielder Andre Dawson today became the second player in the nine-year history of the Montreal Expos to win the National League's Rookie of the Year Award, beating Steve Henderson of the New York Mets by one vote.

"I'm very happy, regardless of how many votes I won by," Dawson said by telephone from his Florida home.

The 23-year-old Dawson, who hit .282 with 19 home runs, 65 runs batted in and 21 stolen bases, received 10 votes in balloting by a 24-man committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America. Henderson, a leftfielder, got nine votes, while first baseman-outfielder Gene Richards of the San Diego Padres received four votes and pitcher Floyd Bannister of the Houston Astros got the other vote.

Pitcher Carl Morton, who won in 1970, was the other Montreal player to take the prize.

"I was a bit surprised that it was as close as it was," said Dawson. "I'm not taking anything away from Steve Henderson. He's a fine ballplayer and had a super year considering the time he spent with the Mets."

Henderson joined the Mets from Cincinnati in the celebrated Tom Seaver deal last June 15. He didn't begin playing regularly until late that month, but finished the season with a .297 batting average, 12 home runs, 65 RBI and six stolen bases.

"Steve's a super player. I see him also

Carter Cromwell Raider, Hog Roles Reversed

TEXAS TECH DEFENSIVE coordinator Bill Parcels paused a moment Tuesday and reflected on Thursday's battle with Arkansas.

"You know, our positions are almost exactly reversed from what they were a year ago," he said.

Indeed, at this time last season, Texas Tech was rated ninth in the nation, had an 8-1 record and was on its way to a share of the Southwest Conference championship. Arkansas was 5-3-1 and had lost two games in a row en route to a four-game skid and a shocking 5-5-1 mark.

This year, things are different. It's the Razorbacks that are on top of matters now. They're 9-1, ranked sixth in the country and still have a shot at part of the SWC title. The Raiders, on the other hand, have a respectable 7-3 record, but are coming off an embarrassing 45-7 loss to Houston, and injuries have dented what was once a very promising campaign.

Injuries to key players were big factors in Arkansas' disappointment, as they have been with Tech in 1977. The Razorbacks have had injuries again this season, but they've been able to cope with them better than they did in 1976. For example, starting noseguard Dale White and cornerback Larry White are out for the season, but Reggie Freeman and Brad Shoup, respectively, have filled in well.

THE KEY, PERHAPS, has been mental toughness.

Last season, Arkansas was 5-1-1 and keeping its head above water, although quarterback Ron Calcagni and others had been hurt. But then came the 31-10 loss to Texas A&M, and the Razorbacks appeared to quit after that.

A vastly inferior SMU team upset them 35-31; Tech thoroughly dominated them in a 30-7 defeat that could have been much worse; and Texas administered a 29-12 whipping in the season finale.

This year, Arkansas lost to Texas 13-9 in the Fayetteville clash between the two Top Ten teams, and UT is now No. 1. The Hogs could easily have won the game and been No. 1 themselves, but they've rallied strongly from that disappointment to win five games in succession, including a clutch 26-20 decision over A&M in College Station.

"We've gotten better this season in all areas," head coach Lou Holtz said, "including squad attitude and mental toughness. Before the season, I wasn't sure how tough we'd be mentally, but I thought we'd get better in that area."

"After the Texas game, I just didn't know how the team would react. We'd lost a game that should have been won, for a variety of reasons."

BUT THERE HAVE been no problems since then. Aside from the added mental toughness, outstanding factors are hard to pinpoint.

"It's difficult to say," Holtz said. "There's been no one particular area that has really stood out. We've gotten better both offensively and defensively."

Quarterback is one aspect in which the Razorbacks are improved. Calcagni was banged up most of the 1976 season, and Arkansas first went with walk-on Mickey Scott in his place and later tried freshmen Houston Nutt and Tom Rystrom. None were very successful at running the offense.

Calcagni has been healthy this year, and his performance has improved remarkably. He's third in the SWC in total offense with a 151-yard average per game and has completed 54 per cent of his passes.

"He's the biggest difference in their offensive team this year, I think," Tech head coach Steve Sloan said.

"He hasn't surprised me, but he's gotten better," Holtz said. "I felt that anything less than a 55-per-cent completion rate would be less than satisfactory, but he's had some dropped."

PRIOR TO THE season, Holtz said that the Razorbacks "wouldn't be dead," if Calcagni was hurt, "but we'd be listing at a 45-degree angle." He no longer feels that way.

"Nutt has improved very much in maturity and overall knowledge of the game. He's never going to be a great runner, but he does some things that offset this."

Defensively, the Razorbacks have shown brightly. They are second in the SWC in total defense, allowing just 239.3 yards per game, and are third in the nation in scoring defense, with an 8.1 allowable per contest.

This despite the fact that only two men on the Arkansas starting defensive unit—tackles Dan Hampton and Jimmy Walker—weigh over 210 pounds. Quickness and speed have received the most credit for UA's success, but Holtz demurred.

"Our quickness is sometimes overrated. Oh, we're fairly quick, I guess, but the biggest thing is that the players have really played hard and they haven't given up the big gainer often."

Holtz To Stop TV Commercials

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — University of Arkansas football coach Lou Holtz said Tuesday that he would not make any more television commercials and that steps were being taken to eliminate one he had made.

He also defended his plans to speak Dec. 1 at a dinner in North Carolina on behalf of Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C.

Holtz made the remarks when responding to questions about an editorial in Tuesday's Arkansas Gazette.

The editorial said it is "especially regrettable that Lou Holtz, insensitive to his almost unique place as a public figure everybody can root for, is now doing direct advertising for at least one business product as well as plunging into campaign politics as well."

"I can assure the people of this state that I will not get involved in any commercials in the future," Holtz said. "Appropriate action has been taken to eliminate the one that had been made."

"My obligation is to the university, but my first obligation is to my family. I was not aware of a university policy (against commercials). I was not exploiting an opportunity."

"I was trying to alleviate a problem and it's been a burdensome one. Had I been aware of the university regulations and had there not been mitigating and extenuating circumstances, I never would have gotten involved in it."

UA President Charles Bishop and Bob Shultz, chairman of the UA Board of Trustees, have defended Holtz's right to participate in Helms' re-election campaign. They cite UA policy declaring that employees may take part in political activity if they do not involve the university's name, its symbols, or its property or supplies.

"Concerning politics, as I understand it, I am still a citizen of this country and entitled to do certain things," Holtz said. "I made a political commitment to do a political endeavor . . . for a Democrat a year ago but my schedule was such that I could not honor the commitment."

"I made a commitment to do one for Senator Jesse Helms. That does not mean I agree with everything everyone does in politics. I'm not a politician, but I am an interested citizen that does get involved in something that he honestly believes.

LOU HOLTZ

Tom Halliburton He's Still The 'Main Coach'

You know the line all the announcers use on Tom Landry... "He's the only coach the Dallas Cowboys have ever had," said a thousand guys named Alex Hawkins or Hawkins Alex or whatever. Unlike Tom Landry, James Odom isn't the only coach Monterey has ever had but he comes dang near close. An insurance man dropped by the house the other day and asked, "Is Odom still coaching out there?" The question was delivered as if the balding MHS mentor deserved the same time stint as the sun, moon and stars. Does the sun still rise in the east? Does Odom still coach at Monterey?

JAMES ODOM

WHEN THE PLAYOFF-BOUND Plainsmen finish another season, Odom will feel as lonely as a Christmas tree again. Matter of fact, that's probably what he will do when the season ends — sell Christmas trees for his Lions Club just like he did after last season.

For now, though, the requests on Odom's time seem to number in the thousands. There are booster club meetings, television interviews, travel arrangements to El Paso and each player needs two nights in a motel room plus meals. Then there's the cashier's checks for the trip and the extra van so all the mop-up reserves can come... And don't forget the Astro-turf at El Paso's Sun Bowl Stadium, which requires the guys to wear different shoes than on plain old grass. And then there are conferences with his coaching staff, same thing with his captains, same thing with the press. And practice time still needs squeezed in, too.

At the end of this rainbow, the television cameras aren't waiting on the sidelines for Odom to knock them over like Woody did the other day. When the game ends, he won't take to the center of the field and shake hands with a Steve Sloan or a Freddy Akers. Well, Odom did shake once with Akers but it's been awhile. Akers coached one year at Lubbock High and rejuvenated the Westerners in a hurry. The Texas coach nipped Odom 14-13 in a Silver Spurs battle that Odom says he should have won. "But you know the old saying, 'If ifs and buts were candy and nuts, then I'd be a millionaire,'" he said.

The old saying says a lot about the way James Odom operates. The veteran coach is a guy with simple tastes in most ways. He would probably prefer to watch "Rocky" at the movies instead of "Star Wars" any day. He'd rather read "The Bible than worry whether or not Cullen Davis killed all those people. Odom probably has too simple tastes for some folks. But that's his style and who's to argue. "I STILL ENJOY THE challenge of just going out on Friday nights and beating the guy on the other side of the field," he said.

This competitiveness in Odom stays young and fresh during a tight game just as it did in those early baby-faced years at Monterey. If you doubt that, just watch an official blow a call against the Plainsmen and see if James isn't hot and bothered. For the past six weeks, Odom has been bothered by a right leg in a cast. Defensive tackle Bo Taylor accidentally landed into Odom's leg on the practice field the day before the district opener at Plainview. The Monterey coach lunged and tried to miss Taylor during the play but stretched some tendons around the ankle. He refuses to walk on the field with his crutches during a game. But the crutches are clearly visible nearly everywhere else he goes. If all goes on schedule, the cast comes off the leg next Wednesday.

"They had to put a new cast on it the other day," he said. "I slipped down on a wet spot in the training room while ago... The only time it really causes a lot of trouble is during the games because I have to put so much weight on it."

Odom can stand to bear the misery without any problem if his team wins four more games before Christmas. The junior-accented Plainsmen gang reached the semifinals to nearly everyone's surprise last year. This time, the thoughts of winning all the candy and nuts loom much greater.

"We're not as good in some spots as we were last year but we're better in others," Odom said. "I think any coach worth his salt tries to win the state title when he gets into the playoffs. But we should have a better chance this year because the age and experience of last year should be in our favor."

THIS WEEK ENDED too soon for the Monterey coach. His preparation for Ysleta Bel Air lasted only two days since the Plainsmen departed for the border city this morning. Since each team gets the same number of days, Odom doesn't mind.

"We feel like we need more time to prepare for them because they do so many things to surprise you. But we may have a few surprises for them, too," he said.

So it's on to El Paso for a second straight Thanksgiving visit. And there's a walk across to Juarez scheduled on Turkey Day morning for the players. However, Odom plans to return to the motel room soon enough to see Tech play Arkansas on the tube. And in the lobby, another Mexican motel manager probably will walk up and ask, "Are you the main coach?"

After 14 seasons, James can still answer "SI."

Foes Find Grid Defense Also Forte of MHS Baseball Coach

By TOM HALLIBURTON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

One of the smartest things James Odom probably ever did at Monterey was turn over the Plainsmen defense—lock, stock and barrel—to Bobby Moegle.

On the verge of becoming the winningest high school baseball coach in Texas history, Moegle coordinates the football defense in his "off-season," and he figures this group may rate as good as any at Monterey. Does this defense outrank the classy bunch of last year? So far, it does by 4 points. The group allowed 58 points last year at this stage to 54 this year. But Thursday night's challenge will differ from any of the previous ones. "I believe our kids are eager to play this one," Moegle told defensive backfield coach Bob Gay after Monday's workout. Ysleta Bel Air, this week's regional playoff foe (8:30 p.m. CST in El Paso), plays football in very unorthodox ways. MHS coaches feel it would be impossible to totally prepare for the Highlanders' offense in two weeks, much less two days.

"Well, they run an unbalanced line about 80 percent of the time," Moegle said. "Sometimes they will have just one lineman on one side of the center. Other times they have two." From the limited knowledge acquired the field. Overall team speed will decide this one... Oklahoma 35-21. Penn State at Pitt: The way things have been going lately in Western Pennsylvania, all the traditional rivalries may pale in comparison to this one before too long. Besides, the Panthers think Joe Paterno cost them a shot at the Orange Bowl... Pitt 30-24.

UCLA vs. Southern California: A victory sends UCLA to the Rose Bowl. USC hasn't done much right lately, losing four of its last six games, which means the Trojans probably will lose things up for their cross-town enemies... Southern Cal 24-14.

Arizona at Arizona State: A funny thing happened to the Sun Devils on their trek to the Fiesta Bowl — they got bumped off by Colorado State in the snow when a victory would have clinched the WAC one of this season's foes have produced that kind of damage, speedsters have remained pesky at times. Monterey's defense has allowed only one score by any team during a close game this season. The Plainsmen blanked five of their 11 opponents and allowed Hobbs, Estacado, Lubbock and Coronado one touchdown each. Rider scored 13 points but one touchdown resulted from a fumble in mid-air and ran 31 yards for a score.

Pampa scored 14 points, but the second TD reached the scoreboard in the final minute after MHS already led 41-7. For individual appraisal, Moegle ranks defensive end Phil Bruedigam and tackle Bo Taylor as the most physical players on his unit. The defensive chief claims quarterback Ron Reeves would fit in the group if he were used at linebacker. Reeves played some linebacker during early segments of the Tascosa game.

Bruedigam and right end Jimmy Green must contain the quarterback on option plays to their respective sides. Safeties Greg Iseral and Mike Wooten must take the pitch man to their respective sides. Each owns good speed and plays pass defense with consistency. "As long as we have Wooten and Iseral, the option is not that big of a threat to us. They both run real well," Moegle said.

Taylor heads the defensive interior along with tackle Gary Hatchett and noseguard Mike Caffey. Defensive line coach Gus Wilson needs Caffey for his quickness and pursuit and Hatchett for his ability to control his gap in the line. Behind this group stands middle linebacker Sam Laine, who lacks the strength of Reeves on straight-ahead plays but shows excellent quickness on playing pass defense. Outside linebacker Neal Thomas stunts, distracts and pressures the opposition and aids in pass coverage.

Six of those front seven plus the two safeties started last year in the playoffs. The newcomers are cornerbacks Andy Barron and Scott Boulter, a pair of 155-pound juniors. "They probably aren't as good as Randy Holman and Leslie Broadhurst were last year at this stage. Holman was a very steady player who never made a mistake, and Broadhurst was a good leader," coach Odom said.

"Boulter is more agile and consistent than Barron, but Andy has more speed." When Moegle, Wilson and Gay mesh, their assets together in one unit, the result often winds up zero for the opposition.

None of this season's foes have produced that kind of damage, speedsters have remained pesky at times. Monterey's defense has allowed only one score by any team during a close game this season. The Plainsmen blanked five of their 11 opponents and allowed Hobbs, Estacado, Lubbock and Coronado one touchdown each. ## Upset Special: Tech 21, Hogs 20

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

What's so tough about picking college football winners? Last week, in a fit of pique at all the skullduggery by the various bowl committees, this corner picked every upset where a Top Twenty team was concerned, 10 in all.

And guess what? Three of them actually came about, giving several bowls plenty of consternation — Colorado State over Arizona State, San Diego State over Florida State and Houston over Texas Tech. In addition, Clemson needed a last-minute touchdown to beat South Carolina.

Even with all the crazy selections, last week's score was 39 right and 19 wrong for a 67.2 percentage. Imagine if we were really bearing down. For the season — and these will be the last picks before the bowl games — it's 546-220-15 — .713.

This is the week that will settle the final lineup for the Cotton, Bluebonnet, Orange, Liberty, Rose and Fiesta bowls. Texas at Texas A&M: These bitter rivals have played six common opponents. Texas has the edge five times and the sixth is only a one-point difference in A&M's favor. Texas is the nation's only unbeaten team so leave it to the good old Aggies to foul that up. Upset Special of the Week... Texas A&M 24-17.

Nebraska at Oklahoma: The Cornhuskers have a different offense and they don't have the great dropback passer (David Humm, Vince Ferragamo) and, according to Oklahoma's Barry Switzer, I.M. Hipp "gives them a dimension they haven't had since Johnny Rodgers — a back who can score from anywhere on the field." Overall team speed will decide this one... Oklahoma 35-21. Penn State at Pitt: The way things have been going lately in Western Pennsylvania, all the traditional rivalries may pale in comparison to this one before too long. Besides, the Panthers think Joe Paterno cost them a shot at the Orange Bowl... Pitt 30-24.

UCLA vs. Southern California: A victory sends UCLA to the Rose Bowl. USC hasn't done much right lately, losing four of its last six games, which means the Trojans probably will lose things up for their cross-town enemies... Southern Cal 24-14.

Arizona at Arizona State: A funny thing happened to the Sun Devils on their trek to the Fiesta Bowl — they got bumped off by Colorado State in the snow when a victory would have clinched the WAC berth. When was the last time it snowed in Tempe? ... Arizona State 38-17.

Army vs. Navy at Philadelphia: The volves say Army Coach Homer Smith's job is riding on this one despite the Cadets' first winning season in five years. Smith has brought Army back to respectability, but the Middies seem to have his number... Navy 24-17.

Arkansas at Texas Tech: We've picked Texas A&M to deal the Cotton Bowl a staggering blow by knocking off Texas. Why shouldn't the Orange Bowl suffer, too? Second Upset Special... Texas Tech 21-14.

Other games:
EAST — Boston College 49, Holy Cross 7.
SOUTH — Alabama 35, Auburn 7; Jackson State 28, Alcorn State 0; Louisiana Tech 25, Northeast Louisiana 14; Southwestern Louisiana 27, McNeese State 8; Georgia 20, Georgia Tech 17; Louisiana State 28, Wyoming 14; Florida 34, Miami, Fla. 17; Grambling State 42, Southern U. 31; Tennessee 24, Vanderbilt 14; Virginia Tech 27, VMI 17.
MIDWEST — Miami, O. 17, Cincinnati 13.
SOUTHWEST — Baylor 29, Texas Christian 15; Houston 33, Rice 13; West Texas State 34, Southern Illinois 14.
FAR WEST — San Diego State 38, San Jose State 24; Brigham Young 54, Texas-El Paso 20; Colorado State 30, Utah State 10; South Carolina 23, Hawaii 16; Boise State 34, Idaho 24; Long Beach State 36, Bowling Green 28; New Mexico 24, Utah 17.

ances for the Pittsburgh Pirates. Add that to Lyle's figures of 13-5 record, 26 saves, a 2.17 ERA and 72 appearances for the Yankees.

"We got into 144 games between us," said Gossage. "There's 162 in a season, so that left a few games over for the other guys."

Yankees Ink Hurler Gossage

NEW YORK (AP) — On the day he signed a six-year, multi-million dollar contract with the New York Yankees, relief pitcher Rich Gossage thought back to the days in the rookie leagues when he, Bucky Dent and Terry Forster slept on the floor of their one-bedroom apartment in Appleton, Wis.

"We slept in front of the air conditioner, catching our death of cold," he recalled. Those were the days in the rookie leagues, "Way down at rock bottom," according to Dent, when the trio only had one mattress to share and an "old green '55 Chevy we used to drive around in."

That's because the righthanded Gossage sold his services to the Yankees, who also own a certain lefthanded reliever named Sparky Lyle — the American League's Cy Young Award winner for the 1977 season.

"I told Rich I thought he'd really enjoy playing here," said Dent, who was his teammate at Appleton, later with the Chicago White Sox, and now with the defending World Champions. Gossage feels the same way. "I'm very proud. It's a very big privilege for me. My family and I have followed the Yankees for a long time," he said.

Now, courtesy of the free agent sweepstakes, he brings to New York a brilliant season with an 11-9 record, 26 saves and a 1.62 earned run average in 72 appearances for the Pittsburgh Pirates. Add that to Lyle's figures of 13-5 record, 26 saves, a 2.17 ERA and 72 appearances for the Yankees.

Cobb Chaps' Hero

(From Page One) and kicked it out to Doudney. Doudney dribbled down court, then tried to pass across court to Lowell Walker.

er, but the ball was batted out of bounds just as the clock clicked from two seconds to one. After Cobb's game-winner, McMurry coach Hershel Kimball and his aides huddled around Weaver and Charles Carra-way for 10 minutes, trying to convince them the clock ran out before Cobb's shot, but to no avail.

When everything was totaled, LCC won the game at the foul line, hitting 17 of 30 compared to 16 of 29 for McMurry. And the Chaps were 2-of-11 at one point.

Winning coach Darrell Price was somewhat reserved after the game. "We just haven't been mentally ready to play since the first game (a 95-93 loss on the road to Sul Ross). I don't know what it is. I think maybe we've lost so much, the kids feel they're going to get beat no matter what."

"We've got a physical team and there's no way we should be limited to 26 rebounds like we have been. But how can you coach rebounding? You just throw the ball up and say, 'Go get it.'"

"We're young and we're going to make some mistakes. But we're also going to play some good ball."

And one of those playing good ball Tuesday was Lubbock High product Gary Norris, who hit nine of 15 shots and finished with 21 points.

"Norris did an excellent job of guard Cruse, no matter how many (24) points he had. Cobb and Doudney could have been down since this was the first game they hadn't started, but they came off the bench and did an excellent job."

"And the two guards we started (Miles and Norris) did a great job too."

Lamar Sampy chipped in 19 points, hitting seven of 11 from the field and pulling in seven rebounds. Lowell Walker had 11 boards as LCC won that battle 51-46.

The contest was tied six times and the lead changed hands 14 times. McMurry's largest lead was 3 points at 11-8 with 15:31 to go. LCC, which led by 6 at intermission, also enjoyed a 6-point pad at 73-67 with 4:12 to play.

LCC will take a week off before tackling NIAA power Eastern New Mexico in Portales.

Hardaway's 20 Points Spark 70-59 DHS Win

By JIM FERGUSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
The Lubbock High Westerners had a hard time of it Tuesday night in the LHS gym. "How tough", some of you sadists might ask. Well, if any of the Westerners had tried to slit their wrists following the game, chances are, they would have missed and lopped off a toe or something. The Westerners, shooting a miserable 17 percent from the floor in the first half, dropped their second game the young season Tuesday night, this time to the potent Dunbar Panthers 70-59. The Panthers, who didn't set the net on fire themselves, used to 20-point performance of postman Billy Don Hardaway and the 10-point showing of Wayne Williams, who collected all of his points from the free throw line, to score their second straight win of the year.

Dunbar, which hit 24 of 56 shots from the floor for a cool 43 percent and 22 of 33 tries from the foul line, took a 2-0 lead in the first quarter with 7:04 left and never looked back. At one time the Panthers held a 16-point advantage, but the Westerners hit somewhat of a hot streak and managed to cut that lead to 7 points with 3:22 left in the third stanza.

During the third period, Lubbock High outscored the fast-breaking Panthers 20-15. It turned out to be the only quarter the Westerners could outscore their counterparts although the fourth stanza did end 21-20 in favor of Dunbar.

"We tried to give it back to them then," said Dunbar coach Joe McWilliams, referring to the third period when his Panthers hit only four shots from the field. "We are still turning the ball over a lot and having some foolish fouls that have nothing to do with the play." McWilliams said the solution to the turnover problem is "to work a little harder in the gym and play some more games."

Fouls—and plenty of them in the early going—put a damper on the Westerners, who saw three of their starters, Ron Jenkins, Jimmy Mojica and Scotty Garcia, exit the game with five fouls.

Mojica, who collected three personal fouls in the first quarter, was the first Westerner to feel the wrath of the official's whistle. And then—like the plague—his teammates began to go down one-by-one, until coach C.E. Carmichael was forced to go to the bench for replacements.

Ahlenius' Work On Boards Keys Pony Stampede

By TOM HALLIBURTON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
Most of the times when Coronado's basketball team won last season, it looked pretty good. In other words, when the Mustangs had a bad night, forget it. But Tuesday night in the CHS gym, Coronado didn't exactly tear up the joint. Yet coach Jimmy Fullerton's club still played well enough to beat winless Amarillo Caprock 59-49.

"We didn't play anywhere close to the way we played last night when we lost to Abilene High (80-65)," Fullerton said. "We were tired, we made a lot of fouls and we didn't shoot real well." Nevertheless, a few alert juniors sparked the Mustangs to their first win of the year against two losses. And yes, Fullerton and the hosses needed the win.

Perhaps, the most attentive junior for Coronado was 6-4 post Steve Ahlenius, who led all rebounders with 21 and topped the Coronado scoring column with 13. Seniors Mike Higgins and Jay Norton followed closely behind with 12 and 10 points, respectively. It was the third straight impressive backboard display for Ahlenius, according to CHS coaches. The aggressive battler had collected 17 and 12 boards in the two previous games.

Monterey Girls Drub Permian

ODESSA (Special) — Monterey broke a deliberate game wide open in the fourth quarter to outscore Permian 26-0 and down the Pantherettes 43-4 here Tuesday night.

Marilyn Beckner led the scoring with 21 points followed by Kelli Crow with 12 for Monterey, now 3-0 overall.

Monterey took the opening tip but missed its first shot and Permian went into a stall game for the next six minutes. Monterey had won a 94-14 victory against the same foe last Friday at the MHS gym.

In the fourth quarter, the winners simply stole the ball on several occasions for easy baskets. Permian shot one of five from the field.

night," Fullerton said. "He's a real hoss on the boards."

Another key CHS junior hoss was reserve Mark Reed, who picked up the Mustangs during a sagging stage. Coronado jumped to a 29-20 halftime lead but cooled off in the third quarter.

Caprock outpointed the Mustangs 13-12 in the period, but Reed tallied 8 of his 9 points during the quarter to keep the Mustangs in full gallop for the final stanza.

Caprock closed within 5 points (35-30) with two minutes left in the third quarter. The Longhorns appeared in good shape to get another rebound and narrow the score even more, but Reed positioned himself under the boards and forced a foul. The junior followed with two foul shots.

Neither team ripped the nets on this night as Coronado sank 21 of 55 field shots for 39 percent to Caprock's 16 of 42 for 38 percent. Coronado never worried about losing its lead after the opening minutes.

The Mustangs burst out to a 10-1 edge in the game's first five minutes. During this time, Ahlenius blocked two shots underneath and added a follow shot at the other end.

Higgins and Bill Shockley scored with two foul shots with 7:21 left in the first quarter. Shockley pivoted to his left for a short jumper, making the count 4-1 with 4:51 left in the quarter. Two more charity shots by Higgins made it 6-1 with 4:23 left in the quarter. Moments later, Higgins sank a reverse layup after a sharp dribble-drive around a Caprock guard.

Higgins fouled out but added 4 more key points in the fourth quarter while senior mate Norton collected four fouls but gunned in accurate long-range buckets.

Caprock's Bruce Nipp kept the Longhorns close with 15 points, including 8 in the third quarter. Sherman Stewart followed for Caprock with 10.

Coronado's junior varsity also won, 72-33. Bob Griffin scored 14 points for the Ponies.

Tom Landry

DALLAS (AP) — Since Dallas Cowboys Coach Tom Landry signed a new five-year contract here's what has happened to the 17-year veteran of National Football League wars:

- His team has lost to St. Louis and Pittsburgh.
- A fat three-game lead in the National Conference Eastern Division has shriveled to one game.
- The opponents have outscored the Cowboys a total of 35-3 in the second half.
- He is suffering from a cold so bad that his vision is blurred and his left eye swollen so he couldn't watch arch-rival Washington on television Monday night.

But the classy Landry still managed a sense of humor Tuesday at his weekly press luncheon despite the adversity which has suddenly struck his team.

"I heard the Washington game last night but I sure couldn't watch 'em," said Landry. "It sounded pretty good right until the end."

Washington beat Green Bay 10-9 to setup a showdown with the Cowboys Sunday in the National Conference Eastern Division.

Asked if he might not be able to call plays for quarterback Roger Staubach, Landry quipped, "No such luck. I know how Washington reacts so well I don't have to see to call plays. It's just a matter of executing."

Dallas has lost twice after an 8-0 start, the best in the club's history, and St. Louis lurks just a game behind and Washington is two back.

Landry said he would still take an 11-3 season.

"I don't care where we go for the playoffs," said Landry. "Our job is to get into the playoffs even if it isn't at home."

He said Dallas' problems were typical of the ups and downs that teams hit during the long NFL season.

"There's no way you can play at a high level over 20 games," said Landry. "We were way down Sunday and Pittsburgh was way up."

Pittsburgh whipped the Cowboys 28-13, totally dominating the second half.

Landry said there were a lot of plus factors for Dallas, including the performance of million-dollar rookie Tony Dorsett.

"Tony ran well and he blocked well," said Landry. "We just couldn't make the big third down play."

Landry said his defense has played poorly the last game and a half.

"I guess we just need a challenge and there's no better one than losing two games in a row," said Landry. "If we can beat Washington in their backyard it should give us a psychological lift for the rest of the season."

Bradley Signs

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals have signed safety Bill Bradley and cornerback Rony Colbert, both National Football League veterans, to shore up their injury-depleted defensive secondary.

Bradley, a 30-year-old former Texas standout who was a three-time Pro Bowl participant while with Philadelphia, replaced Mike Sensibaugh, who suffered a broken arm during St. Louis' 21-16 victory Sunday over the Eagles.

The 23-year-old Colbert, originally a New York Giants draft choice, played 14 games with that club in 1975 and re-joined them the next season after he was released by the Seattle Seahawks, who selected him in the NFL's expansion draft.

Bradley, while with Philadelphia, totaled 34 interceptions in eight seasons. He was traded to the Minnesota Vikings, who released him prior to the start of the 1977 season.

Colbert replaces injured Lee Nelson on the Cards' roster. Nelson suffered a knee injury and underwent surgery Tuesday. Both he and Sensibaugh were placed on the NFL's injured reserve list.

Cougars

HOUSTON (UPI) — Football foes thinking toward next year already are trying to worry University of Houston Coach Bill Yeoman.

The question, which is being heard more and more, goes like this, "Which quarterback are you going to play next year?"

Trouble is — for his those expecting an answer — Yeoman has developed a deft sidestep.

"I'm not going to have any problem deciding who will start," he said Tuesday. "It's Delrick, Danny and Durrell who are going to have the problem."

The order in which he listed quarterbacks Brown, Davis and Shepard may be significant. If it's not, at least thoughts of the 1978 battle for the Cougars quarterback job adds some anxiety to Houston's Southwest Conference contest Saturday with crosstown rival Rice.

The Owls, 1-9, are expected to add less resistance in the "Bayou Bucket" bowl than a slippery football would to the high-risk Houston veer offense.

Delrick Brown, a spindly sophomore who took over the veer early this season, will be at the controls. He has performed so well in Houston's last three games, some people are beginning to wonder whether miracle-worker Danny Davis can regain the starting berth.

Davis, of course, has stalked the Cougars sideline this season in street clothes after injuring his shoulder in the second game. He led Houston to a Cotton Bowl victory in 1976 and said he will play again next season.

Freshman Darrell Shepard likely will be red-shirted next season, but there are some observers who say he could step right in if given a chance. He will get that chance in spring practice.

Brown could lose all that he has worked for Saturday if Rice, a pass-minded team which has had two weeks of rest, could upset the Cougars.

The history of the six-year series indicates that stranger things than that have happened. A missed extra point doomed Houston to one loss. A Rice punt return in another game sprung the Owls to a big win.

Both coaches praised the other team.

"It doesn't make me feel good to read that Rice would like to make this one last shot," Yeoman said. "I have seen them on film and they have improved the last three games."

Rice has lost nine straight, the last three by a combined score of 95-45.

"Houston is the strongest I've seen all fall," Coach Homer Rice said.

Robinson Award

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — Defensive end Rich Carstens, who was credited with 13 tackles in Drake's 13-9 victory over Southern Illinois, has been named the Missouri Valley Conference defensive player of the week.

Carstens was credited with a pass interception, a fumble recovery, three quarterback sacks and five tackles for losses in the game. His 13 total tackles were his season high.

West Texas State runningback Bo Robinson, who picked up 204 yards on 24 carries last week against Tulsa, was named the conference offensive player of the week. WTS won the game 57-21.

Robinson's yardage moved the 6-2, 218-pound junior from Lamesa, past Duane Thomas and Bill Cross into the No. 2 position among the all-time leading ground gainers in West Texas State history. Robinson has 2,481 career yards for the Buffaloes with one game left this year and a full season ahead of him. He is just 906 yards behind Mercury Morris' all-time high of 3,388 career yards.

Robinson leads the conference in rushing with 1,218 yards through the first 10 games of the season.

"Bo is an extremely fine athlete and an excellent talent," said WTS Coach Bill Yung. "But, more than that, he is a fine person."

'Pokes Get 31-13 Nod Over 'Skins

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

We won't bore you with a lot of talk about a turkey. The National Football League will serve that up next Monday night.

Instead, we'll get right to business, namely Thanksgiving Day's side dishes. Walter Payton, having shattered O.J. Simpson's one-game rushing record, takes aim at his one-season mark — and does it against the team Simpson steam-rollered just a year ago. Payton and the Bears also will run roughshod over Detroit. The Lions will come out of the game looking more like (heh-heh) giblets.

St. Louis drives everybody up the wall with its last-gasp victories while Miami drives its coach up the wall with its last-gasp defeats. It won't be that close this time. The Cardinals will knock the (ahem) stuffing out of the Dolphins.

Add to your upset stomach our Upset Special — New Orleans over San Francisco. Last week's 12-2 mark put the season's record at 98-42, .700. This week's pickings:

Bears 27, Lions 10 — Last year Simpson nailed the Lions for 273 yards. Last week Payton rolled up 275 yards. If we didn't know better, we'd expect 300 or more this time. But that would be foolish... wouldn't it?

Cardinals 28, Dolphins 17 — Miami, which gets burned by long passes, usually blows leads late in the game. The Cardinals, who love long passes, won't wait that long.

Chargers 20, Seahawks 10 — Did you know San Diego's got the AFC's No. 1 defense? Did you know Seattle's got the No. 12 defense? Do you know what that adds up to?

Saints 21, 49ers 14 — San Francisco beat New Orleans in overtime two weeks ago — but the 49ers didn't have to worry about Archie Manning then.

Raiders 35, Bills 10 — After turkey sandwiches, turkey hash, turkey burgers and turkey a la mode, we get Monday night indigestion... and this!

Broncos 20, Colts 17 — Denver's mile-high again over being in first place. Baltimore looks good mostly against secondary competition.

Cowboys 31, Redskins 13 — Remember how they've been saying Washington has a shot at a playoff berth. Howdy, partner. BANG!

Rams 24, Browns 17 — Dave Mays will be busy running away from tacklers while Los Angeles runs over the Browns.

Patriots 34, Eagles 20 — New England looks like a playoff contender — half a season too late.

Bengals 33, Giants 13 — Cincinnati uses the reverse. The Giants' offense goes that way.

Vikings 17, Packers 10 — Two teams without quarterbacks — or much of anything else.

Oilers 28, Chiefs 12 — Kansas City's got no offense, no defense and no hope.

Steelers 41, Jets 9 — Like carving up the main course.

Falcons 20, Bucs 7 — Speaking of turkeys...

Four Raiders Selected For All-Star Contests

By CARTER CROWWELL
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

At this point, four senior Texas Tech football players have been selected to play in post-season all-star games.

Cornerback Eric Felton, linebacker Mike Mock and offensive tackle Dan Irons will play in the Blue-Gray game, which matches top senior performers from the North and the South.

The contest will be played Dec. 30 in Montgomery, Ala., and will come one week after the Red Raiders battle Florida State in the Tangerine Bowl in Orlando, Fla. Originally, the game was scheduled on the same date as the Tangerine Bowl but was changed.

Irons and quarterback Rodney Allison will participate in the Hula Bowl and the Japan Bowl. The Hula Bowl will be played in Honolulu Jan. 7, and the Japan Bowl will take place in Tokyo on Jan. 14.

Allison had originally been scheduled to play in the first annual Can-Am Bowl Jan. 8 in Orlando, Fla., but pulled out so he could play in the Hula Bowl. The Can-Am bowl will pit Canadian collegians against American college players. It will replace what was formerly called the American Bowl.

This will be the third straight year a Tech player has performed in the Japan Bowl. Noseguard Ecomet Burley played in the inaugural game in 1975, and linebacker Thomas Howard was a contestant in last year's tilt, which matches U.S. stars from the East and West.

Allison and Irons were chosen for the Hula and Japan Bowls, despite the fact that both have been limited by injuries much of the season. Allison with a

Permian Falls To Plainsmen

Monterey raised its record to 2-1 with a 60-40 win over Odessa Permian here Tuesday night.

David Davidson led the Plainsman attack with 22 points, while Craig Ehlo had 14 points and Tony Hamby 10. Hamby was Monterey's top rebounder with 14.

The Plainsmen led 27-21 at halftime and 39-35 at the end of three quarters but outscored the Panthers 21-5 in the final period to take the victory.

Permian is now 2-2 for the season.

Both were preseason all-conference and all-America candidates, and Allison was a candidate for the Heisman Trophy.

Mock and Felton are strong candidates to make this year's all-Southwest Conference unit.

Previously, Tech has had 27 players perform in the Blue-Gray game and 11 play in the Hula Bowl. Cornerback Tony Green and safety Curtis Jordan were the last Raiders to play in the Blue-Gray contest, in 1975, and Howard was chosen to play in the Hula Bowl following the 1976 campaign.

Subcommittee Calls For Regulating TV Sports

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House communications subcommittee staff has recommended regulating the three television networks to prevent "deceptive and misleading acts" where, in fact, all the players receive money.

The recommendation, in a 72-page report, referred to such competitions as the "Winner-Take-All" tennis championships.

The subcommittee staff also recommended that the Justice Department be given data on the actions of ABC in attempting to influence the 1977 bowl decision of the University of Pittsburgh which, the staff said, "Raises serious anticompetitive questions."

Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, D-Calif., chairman of the subcommittee, was not immediately available for comment on the report. He said after hearings two weeks ago he did not believe new legislation would be necessary.

In calling for new legislation, the staff says the Communications Act is imperfect in dealing with a non-licensed network which commits an improper act or telecasts misleading advertising and promotions.

"It is therefore suggested that the Commission be given certain authority to regulate the networks in cases of deceptive and misleading acts," the report says.

The report said its recommendations are "far short of total regulation of the networks" but would combat tendencies of the networks "to shift blame for abuses to the promoters of the events."

The staff also said the subcommittee might want to propose legislation to protect scholastic and collegiate football seasons against "the potential adverse impact of the expanded National Football League season. Likewise, there may be a desire to protect against Friday night telecasts by baseball's league championship series or World Series."

Among recommendations for the FCC, the staff urged that the question of exclusive contracts with boxers by the networks — such as the ones CBS and ABC have with Olympians Howard Davis and Sugar Ray Leonard, respectively — be referred to the commission for any abuse of the FCC's Prime Time Access Rule.

The staff said the subcommittee also should turn over its files on the payments by ABC to Alex Wallau in relation to the network's U.S. Boxing Championships.

Wallau, an adviser to the network on the championships, warned ABC that 31 of 56 fighters selected for the series were unqualified. He subsequently was taken off the series, but remained with the network and was given $10,000 which, ABC told the subcommittee, was payment for work he had done on the series.

The FCC should also determine whether CBS violated the law in its failure to provide appropriate announcements about the promotional aspects of the tennis championships, the report said.

Replacing Burns Could Help Carter In Re-Election Bid

By PHILIP GREER and MYRON KANDEL

Despite the administration's "we're all friends" public attitude toward Arthur F. Burns, it seems highly likely that President Carter still will replace him when the Federal Reserve Board Chairman's term runs out in January.

It isn't so much that Carter and his economic advisers are opposed to Burns' latest moves to increase short-term interest rates in order to curb rapid growth in the money supply. The crucial issue is that, despite Burns' popularity with financial conservatives, the selection of a new Fed chairman could be Carter's trump card in planning a two-term presidency. Only by making sure that the Federal Reserve will not throw up any roadblocks can the president plan the type of economic program he believes will assure him eight years in the White House. And that can be done only by removing Burns from the Fed helm.

Burns no longer is just a symbol of an independent Federal Reserve whose role over the last two decades has been to act more like the chaperone at the punch bowl when the partygoers get too frisky. He's become an economic advocate — on wages, taxes, incomes policy — and he's used his clout at the Fed, along with impressive media coverage, to press his points.

Congress also has been instrumental in building Burns' strong position. It was a Democratic-run Congress that insisted that the Fed set targets for monetary growth and that Burns report quarterly on the Fed's marksmanship. It was Congress, too, that insisted that minutes of the federal open market committee, which sets Fed policy monthly, be published on a monthly basis. Both actions other voting members of the committee. The autocratic Burns, however, dominates this group and its meetings.

The present Fed board lacks the credentials of past boards. Even under a chairman as strong as William McChesney Martin, the board had such governors as George Mitchell, Dewey Daane and J.L. Robertson, with the expertise and experience to push their points of view on the Fed staff, as well as with the press, which gave broad coverage to their remarks. The present board is relatively new.

Scrutiny of open market committee minutes, though, indicates that disagreement has cropped up recently in interest rate policy. Two governors (economist Henry C. Wallich and businessman David M. Lilly, former chairman of Toro Co., who is filling an unexpired term and doesn't want to sit for another) voted against higher interest rates.

Business News

have given Burns increased access to the media.

But another important reason for Burns' power has been the relatively faceless make-up of the Fed's board. The open market committee is made up of the seven governors of the board, who sit permanently along with the president of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York (now Paul Volcker). The presidents of the 11 other district banks rotate as the

DR. LAMB

A Matter Of Balance

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.
 DEAR DR. LAMB — I have had an equilibrium problem for the past 10 years. I get it about four or five times a year. It frightens me. I've been to two ear specialists, and they tell me it is caused by my internal ear. One said it has something to do with going through the menopause. What I would like to know is, will this ever leave me? I have medication which I carry with me in case I should get this dizziness, and the medicine does help me a lot. I have heard from others who had it at one time, and now they don't have this problem any more. I would be the happiest person if this equilibrium problem would leave me. I'm 64 years old.

meaning that when they have an attack they have an illusion of motion. They feel like they are moving or the environment around them is moving when that is not the case.

True vertigo often is associated with an abnormality of the balance canals of the internal ear. If there are associated findings, it may be disease of the arteries to that area, but in younger people without other findings, it often is related to the ear or the nerve between the ear and the brain.

The cause of the vertigo is important. The inner ear may be sensitive to motion, and motion may cause a violent reaction — simple motion sickness. This problem is well-known to many people. It is self-limited with a complete recovery.

Other people have an irritation of the small balance canals in the inner ear secondary to an illness such as a complication of the flu. This is called toxic labyrinthitis. It may last to some degree for several months, but it too gradually disappears. That is why some of your acquaintances have had "the same thing" and it finally has disappeared.

Still others have a symptom complex we call Meniere's disease that is associated with an accumulation of fluid in the inner ear canals. Anything that increases the body's retention of fluid may make it worse. That may be what the doctor meant who said your condition was related to the menopause. In those cases, the attacks may decrease and sometimes disappear entirely, but usually only after the ear is deaf. Meniere's disease by definition includes a low buzzing in the ear, hearing loss and intermittent attacks of vertigo. It is a complex problem and often difficult to treat.

You are fortunate that the medicine you take does control your symptoms. Not everyone has such good success. To give you a better understanding of the many different things that can cause such problems, I am sending you The Health Letter number 9-10, Dizziness and Vertigo. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, P.O. Box 326, San Antonio 78292.

Glad You Asked That!

Q: Who wrote that 1938 Orson Welles radio show that caused many listeners to believe there actually was an invasion by Martians? — Pat McGraff, Jersey City, N.J.

A: It was based on H.G. Wells's 1898 science-fiction best seller, "War of the Worlds." But radio scriptwriters rewrote the story for listening, not reading. Because of its documentary treatment, the broadcast created a hysteria that rocked this nation and other parts of the world. And since the "invaders" supposedly were "landing" in New Jersey, many residents were so frightened they actually began to evacuate the state.

Q: On the Carson show I heard Myron Cohen start to tell a story about a pregnant 65-year-old woman. But before he completed it, the phone rang and I never did hear the finish. Could you possibly ask Mr. Cohen to give me the punch line? — Mrs. Grace Weiss, Miami Beach, Fla.

A: "Of course," the elegant comedian comments. "I enjoy taking encores. This little old lady from the Bronx went for a physical. Standing nude in a draft, the patient got impatient and started to dress. 'Wait a minute,' the doctor said. 'I want to get the opinion of an associate.' After the consultation, she demanded: 'So what have I got, already?' 'Mrs. H.,' the doctor replied, 'we both agree — you are pregnant.' 'That's impossible,' she gasped. 'I'm 65 years old. I'm going to call my husband.' She dialed and said, 'Hello, Morris — I'm pregnant.' A moment of silence, then Morris said, 'who's this calling?'"

Q: We miss Myrna Loy, long our favorite movie star. Won't she ever make another movie? — Mr. and Mrs. George Russell, Milwaukee.

ORSON WELLES — The celebrity and his former wife, Rita Hayworth, are shown in happier days.

A: Not until the right role comes along. As bright as she's always been beautiful, the veteran actress explains: "I will not play old bags and broods... And since the roles submitted to me were on that level, my last picture before the TV play was 'The April Fools,' almost 10 years ago."

Q: All of us here in a retirement colony are concerned about the conflicting reports that our Social Security checks soon might stop. What's happening? — S.P., Phoenix, Ariz.

A: "No American is ever going to be denied the Social Security benefits he or she has earned," is denied HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano. "No matter what happened to the trust funds, any American eligible for Social Security benefits has a legal right to those benefits, and the federal government is legally obliged to pay them." (Note: Currently, some 33 million draw benefits they have earned. And 104 million pay taxes into the fund.)

Q: What does the expression "Mad Dogs and Englishmen go out in the midday sun" mean? And who first said it? — Leroy T., Columbus, Ohio.

A: Noel Coward in "Mad Dogs and Englishmen." Here's the complete verse: "Mad dogs and Englishmen go out in the midday sun, the Japanese don't care to, the Chinese wouldn't dare to; Hindus and Argentines sleep firmly from twelve to one, but Englishmen detest-a-siesta."
