The man, believed either Caucasian or possibly Latin, was seen alone in the victim's parked car the night before the slaying, police said.

The man is described as about 27 years old, 6-foot-2, with olive-colored skin, some acne marks and very thin - weighing about 150 to 160 pounds. Son Pleads For Rudolf Hess

BONN, West Germany (AP) - Rudolf Hess' son says his 83-year-old father should be released from Spandau prison in West Berlin because his physical condition is deteriorat-

Wolf-Ruediger Hess told a news conference Thursday he believes his father, one-time deputy to Adolf Hitler, is not receiving as much medical attention as he needs. When he last visited Spandau on Monday, Hess said, his father told him he can no longer climb stairs because he is unable to lift one of his legs.

Though his father's leg problem is not unusual for a man of his age, "I cannot shake off the suspicion that he is not receiving as much of the necessary medical attention as would normally be the case," the son said.

Hess has been a prisoner - first in Britain, then in Spandau - since he parachuted into Scotland on May 10, 1941, after a solo flight on a self-styled peace mission. Both the British and Hitler said he was insane.

Sentenced to a life term by the Allies in 1946, Hess is the only prisoner left in Spandau prison, built to hold 600 inmates, and is guarded on a rotating basis by the United France and the Soviet Union

His U.S., British and French jailers have frequently stated their readiness to release Hess on humanitarian grounds, but the Soviet Union refuses, claiming he was one of the worst of the Nazis.

4,000 Thai-American Children Losing Citizenship In Thailand

By DENNIS D. GRAY

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) - About 4,-000 children of American-Thai parents are in the process of losing their Thai citizenship through a decree designed to safeguard Thailand's national security.

The children were abandoned by their fathers or are simply the product of casual unions during the Indochinese war years when the United States kept upwards of 50,000 military personnel in Thailand.

Interior Ministry officials say a 1972 decree aimed at preventing children of Vietnamese refugees from obtaining Thai citizenship now is being applied to the 'Amerasians," as they are known here.

The decree reflects That suspicion of the tens of thousands of Vietnamese who fled to Thailand in the 1950s after the French war in Vietnam.

Successive Thai governments have said some of the Vietnamese were Communist agents or at least easy targets for conversion to Communism.

Thailand has been flooded by Vietnamese refugees who escaped their homeland after the Communist takeover in 1975, and the Thai government is constantly tightening restrictions against them.

Loss of Thai nationality will deprive the children of the right to vote or participate in the Thai government when they grow up. Officials say they also may have trouble getting government jobs and could face travel restrictions.

Robert M. Hearn, head of the Pearl S. Buck Foundation in Thailand, an international child relief agency, said the children might, through a complicated process, be eligible for U.S. citizenship. But Hearn said this "would be meaningless." The children "live in Thai homes, with Thais. They're not going anywhere. Maybe one in a thousand would be interested in becoming an American," Hearn told The Associated Press in an interview. The foundation sponsors 1.227 "Amera-

Hearn said the foundation's children range in age from 10 months to 19 years. He estimated half live with their natural mothers, about 30 percent with a relative, 10 percent are in children's homes and another 10 percent with Thai fami-

Executives Learn Time Management In Loyola Course

By RICHARD NEWCOMBE

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Management expert Peter Drucker advises, "Time is the scarcest resource, and unless it is managed nothing else can be managed," but another expert warns too much efficiency may prove frustrating.

A time management seminar at Loyola College Management Institute is one of the most popular courses in the school's history, attracting business and government leaders from Washington, D.C., Maryland and Pennsylvania.

Drucker's observation is quoted in a brochure promoting the course and Robert Crawford, the institute's director, believes its popularity is evidence that top executives realize the value of time management.

"Time is the key to business success," he said. "Time is really a concept more than anything else, and we try to help people develop a value of time.

"When they start the course some people think of time as a motionless ocean.

Others say it streaks by faster than they can keep track of. Unless an executive controls his own time, his entire productivity will depend on factors beyond his

But he cautions executives who work in bureaucractic organizations, including some agencies of the federal government, to be careful about becoming too

Some of the course's graduates have complained that after they learned to make full use of their time, their company or agency couldn't keep up with

"This happens when you have an inefficient organization that requires a lot of clearing through a central office or single department head who might be inefficient.

"Then all you can do is hope the organization or the fellow in charge changes," he said. "We can only teach people how to make efficient use of their about taking up fishing."

But for most employers, Crawford said, an ageless truth is Parkinson's Law that work expands to fill the time allotted for it — and the concept is stressed in the seminar.

Another key point stressed in the seminar is the "80-20 concept," Crawford

"What that means is that only about 20 percent of what you do accounts for 80 percent of the results you get," he said. "The opposite is true, too. Eighty percent of what most people do is wasted time, and only 20 percent really gets the job done.

"This applies to nearly every field — sales, engineering, what have you," he said. "The secret is having a list of priorities for what you want to accomplish and then getting the most important things done first."

school board packed into the benefit sacks of teachers and employes last year already are coming home to roost.

Insurance premiums for an over-generous group health insurance plan are going up $108,000 a year. That's above the $474,781 already budgeted for the package.

Trustees, who rushed into the ill-considered health plan at the behest of Supt. Ed Irons, now are having second thoughts.

They instructed the administration to find out how much lower the premium would be if the hospitalization feature carried a deductible clause requiring employes to pay the first $100 or so.

WHILE THAT would be a step in the right direction, the mistake made last year won't be fully rectified until the employes are required to pay part, or all, of the insurance premium themselves.

In trying to disguise an extra pay raise as a fringe benefit package last year, the trustees Legislature made this year in saying the too late.

THOSE PLUMP chickens the Lubbock state will start paying employes' share of social security taxes.

It is better to have the compensation reflected in the paychecks and let the employes meet their own obligations, rather than provide them "free" benefits that taxpayers in private employment don't enjoy and can't afford for themselves.

THE SCHOOL district's 3,300 employes now get their health insurance premiums paid for them.

If they see a doctor, employes must pay the first $100 for outpatient treatment. However, if they go to the hospital, the insurance pays the first dollar. This is an open invitation to check into a hospital if a physician will let you.

"Nobody can afford first-dollar coverage, including the taxpayers," trustee Harold Harriger correctly noted.

With hospitalization and health care costs skyrocketing, thus assuring that insurance premiums will continue to rise dramatically, the school board needs to consider getting made the same mistake in principle that the out of this we-pay-all-costs trap before it's Eating Us Out Of House And Home!

James J. Kilpatrick:

An 'Honor' Not Easily Won

WASHINGTON-A couple of months ago, the White House sponsored a tough competition. Richard A. Pettigrew, a presidential assistant, polled members of the House and Senate with a truly demanding series of questions. This was the first question:

"Which federal programs do your constituents think are administered least efficiently? That is the kind of question that Davey Crockett, a former member of the House, once described as a sockdolager. You want to think before responding.

The least efficient federal program? Such a title cannot be lightly conferred. It is an honor not easily won.

IN THE COURSE of time, responses trickled back to the White House. A week or so ago, Pettigrew called off the competition. He refused to tabulate the votes, but he made this clear: Dozens of federal agencies could qualify for the titles of "least efficient" or "most confusing." And what troubles the taxpayers, more than anything else, is plain, old-fashioned delay.

Wisconsin's Sen. William Proxmire emphasized this complaint in a long and detailed reply to the Pettigrew questionnaire.

The Farmers Home Administration, he said, is "notoriously slow" in processing loan applications, and the delays result in serious hardships; the farmer who has to wait six or eight months for a disaster loan may miss the next planting

PROXMIRE HAD other nominations. The Civil Service Commission is so slow that a retiring federal employee may have to wait six months for his first retirement check. The Immigration and Naturalization Service is "probably the slowest of all agencies." It often takes more than a year for the INS to take final action in a particular case.

The Internal Revenue Service, in Proxmire's view, is "probably the least responsive to the needs of the taxpayer."

Moreover, if there were a "most maddening" classification, the IRS would win in a walkaway. One of his constituents spent 23 days trying to get IRS to answer its toll-free telephone line.

"THE IRS," said Proxmire, "also refuses to make amends for its own errors. If a businessman's bank account is attached in error by the IRS, the agency will not advise his creditors that the agency was responsible for any bad checks which may have been written on that account. What About Unemployment?

posed to know

WASHINGTON-I had been that morning to the U.S. Department of Labor interviewing three officials there about the distressing unemployment rate, which the government tells us is something over 7 percent.

Later, I lunched with the labor expert in one of our flashiest law firms, who told me this story.

A wealthy corporate client of the law firm was employing an extraordinarily intelligent and industrious clerical worker. The firm had reasons for wishing to retain the smooth-running services. One reason was that the worker was a woman in a slot that was congenial to female aptitudes.

The second reason was that the woman was a black, thus balancing the required formula of racial employment equality. To the management's dismay, she gave notice to quit, and was altogether candid about the reasons. She already had four illigitimate children. By adding a fifth, she explained, she could draw on Aid for Dependent Children, and get from the government what she was earning from the com-

Sylvia Porter:

Stock Market Flux Can Squeeze Taxes

For instance, if you bought XYZ stock in February 1977, and now have a paper profit, your tax strategy is to sell it soon-either in December '77, or January '78.

If you sell in December, your profit is long-term capital gain. You'd pay twice as much tax if you made the sale in January, when your profit would be short-term, taxed like ordinary income. The reason: if you sell in December, you meet the more-than-nine months holding period for '77 sales. But if you sell in January, you don't meet the more-than-one-year holding period for '78

IF YOU SELL EARLY in January, '78, before you've held the stock for a year, your '78 loss is short-term. That's almost twice as tax valuable as the long-term loss you would get from a sale in the remaining weeks of 1977.

A final hint: while net paper losses, short or long, will in '78 offset up to $3,000 of ordinary income instead of just the $2,000 available in '77, you do not gain by postponing losses to '78. For what you can't deduct this year can be carried over and deducted next year. And any losses

FBI Chief Gives Listeners Lessons In History

By ED ROGERS

WASHINGTON (UPI) - In early England, sheriffs had an effective way to pursue a lawbreaker: they raised a "hue and cry" and all able-bodied men were required to join in the chase. It was a crime

The source of this historical footnote to the age old war against crime is FBI Director Clarence Kelley.

Kelley is not plugging for citizen posses, nor does he want people to take the law into their own hands. He cites historical references in speeches to show there is nothing new about his call for community-wide "crime resistance," or his insistence that the public must help the police if crime is to be stemmed.

These historical references also reveal that Kelley, a policeman all his adult life who will retire Jan. 1 after directing the FBI for 41 /2 years, is a history buff as well, with emphasis on law enforcement.

Kelley recently gave members of the Nebraska Sheriff's Association a lesson about the title they hold, noting that the office of sheriff is "steeped in tradition and history dating back to ninth-century

'As you probably know," Kelley said, "England back then was divided into counties, called shires, whose chief law officer was the shire-reeve, or sheriff."

In those days, the sheriffs executed royal writs and were originally responsible for not only for police and jails, but tax collection as well, Kelley said.

In several speeches Kelley has stressed advances made in police training since the nation's first police school began in Berkeley, Calif., in 1908. He quotes a report former Chief C. B. Horrall wrote in 1947 about Los Angeles police:

"In 1903 ... the requirements of a policeman were very simple. In addition to certain physical requirements, it was necessary that he be able to read and write, do simple arithmetic and have a fair knowledge of the city."

Kelley's comment: "The same was true of most departments of that day. But, as barbers over the centuries have evolved into surgeons, so ill-trained rookies have evolved, and are still evolving, into well-trained professionals.

Kelley repeatedly preaches his gospel of "citizen involvement" in law enforcement, saying it is "absolutely crucial" to

Incumbents See Issue As 'Poison'

The parallel axiom in politics is that incumbent elected officials tend to remain in office unless something happens to change the conditions under which they

Nowhere is this more evident than in the Congress. Senators and House members who choose to seek re-election usually make it, barring some economic social or political upheaval.

There were 18 new senators on hand Congress, but nine of them were replacing senators who did not seek re-election. In the House, 64 freshmen were sworn in. the incumbent was not running.

Many reasons can be given for the high percentage of incumbent survival in politics. One of the major factors is voter recognition, which comes from media attention. Another is the very human tendency to support a proven winner rather than take a chance on an unknown challenger.

It is this element that almost always guarantees incumbent elected officials ample contributions to finance re-election campaigns. Every recent study indicates that below the presidency, incumbents almost always have more money at their disposal than challengers, whatever their politics. Incumbents often can get re-elected without spending a lot of money, but challengers seldom can knock off incumbents without heavy spending. That may be why there is such strong opposition to public financing of House and Senate campaigns in a Congress that would have as much money for their campaigns as incumbents, thereby eliminating one of the major advantages that accounts for the high percentage of re-elections to borrow a phrase from Rep. Barbara Mikulski - that can over-ride other considerations that might seem on the surface to be important.

Thus the fact that both President Carter and Speaker Thomas O'Neill favor public financing of congressional campaigns does not mean it has a good chance of passing in the House, even with its two-thirds Democratic majority. In this case, party loyalty - fragile enough in Congress - falls before political self-

Common Cause, which has had remark able success in pushing congressional reforms, still believes public financing can be passed. It intends to push the issue in the 1978 session of Congress, believing that public financing will pass if legisla-tion can be brought to the floor and members forced to vote on it in the open.

If that is correct, it will constitute a remarkable feat: persuading a large group of politicians to swallow a strong dose of what looks like sure poison to them.

success in reducing crime. Kelley-the-historian takes over to prove it is nothing

'As you are probably aware, the 'hue and cry concept of early England was firmly rooted in a peacekeeping system of mutual responsibility," Kelley told the Greater Dallas Crime Commission in a 1975 speech.

"In effect," Kelley said, "every citizen was a policeman, responsible for the good conduct of other members of the

Kelley made clear he does not favor self-appointed vigilantes. But he also emphasized that cooperation with the police has - historically - been a duty rather than an option

"The official call to action - termed the 'hue and cry' -- was a stern summons for all free men to assist in the pursuit of justice," Kelley said. "Hearing this alarm, one was duty-bound to help run down the fleeing lawbreaker. Failure to do so was in itself a grave offense."

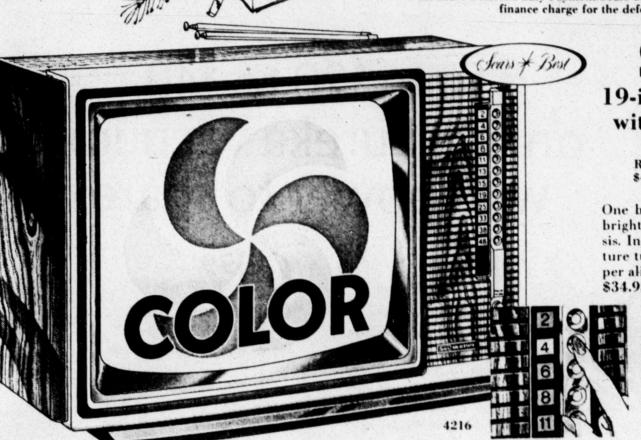

Kelley also cites historical precedents in urging people to inform police when they know of any serious wrongdoing. "Certainly one of the oldest proven methods of meeting our commitments is that of achieving a flow of information from citizens who either have knowledge of or have been witnesses to crimes, Kelley said in a speech last year.

This method was most effective in our Colonial period," Kelley said. "In those Retirees then could earn unlimited pay and still receive full benefits. The Carter administration says the House plan would cost the workers and employers $23 billion in payroll taxes between 1982 and 1987, that it would benefit a small number of people, most of whom are relatively well off.

In 1974, only 14 percent of retired men earned more than the $6,000 figure in the Senate bill. Their average income was

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., said the House plan would allow a $100,000 a year doctor, lawyer or engineer to continue working past age 65, draw full Social Security benefits, and that a $10,000-a-year worker would have to contribute payroll taxes to pay for it.

Other critics of the House version argued that it would require an industrial worker under age 65 to contribute to Social Security so that a fellow worker over 65 could remain on the job and collect tax-free benefits.

They said it would change Social Security from a retirement program in which people receive benefits when they stop working to an annuity, which pays off solely for reaching a predetermined age. The American Association of Retired Persons and National Retired Teachers Association, which together claim 12 mil-lion members, are lobbying for removal of the earnings limit. They say the $23 billion cost estimate ignores the economic stimulation and added taxes which would flow from the work of retired people.

"It appears quite likely that the cost to taxpayers of continuing the earnings limitation is greater than the cost of repeal," Peter Hughes, legislative counsel for the two groups, wrote Goldwater.

But the National Council of Senior Citizens, representing some three million persons generally poorer and including more blacks than the other two retiree groups, says removing the earnings limit would help only those who are able to work and therefore "least in need."

It would prefer Congress to help those at the bottom of the heap, who are untrained or otherwise unable to find work, and who, because they earned little in wages all their lives receive the lowest Social Security benefits.

Ex-Premier Of Vietnam Now Owns Liquor Store

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN NORWALK, Calif. (AP) — The mostly Mexican patrons of Ski's Liquor Store, just off the Santa Ana Freeway, call the dapper mustachioed man behind the cash register "El Presidente."

Tourists from all over, some of them Vietnam veterans with their families, stop off on the way to Disneyland to shake his hand and coax him outside for a

The postman calls twice a day with letters postmarked Ho Chi Minh City and affixed with what now passes for exotic Oriental stamps: happy workers in the communal rice paddy, happy housewives bicycling to market under happy solidarity slogans. Some come simply, starkly addressed: Premier Ky, U.S.A.

'The letters reach me somehow, often by secret ways," said Nguyen Cao Ky settling back in the red leather upholstery of his late model Fleetwood Cadillac.

'Things are bad in Vietnam. People are hungry. Chocolate is a dream. They ask me for help. I do what little I can. There are ways of getting money through to

We caught the former premier and air can jet fighter denouncing Henry Cabot Lodge and the U.S. command for giving marshal of South Vietnam on his way to the bank from his combined liquor store and delicatessen in this heavily Mexican-American suburb of Los Angeles. He had turned the cash register over to an old Vietnamese air force friend, a fellow Skyraider pilot from that doughty band that once staged a dairing raid over North Vietnam, but unfortunately bombed the wrong target.

"In this business you need people you can trust," said the durable survivor of so many coups, countercoups and attempted coups in Saigon. "I employ mostly Vietnamese help. Untrustworthy people can steal $100 a day from the cash register and drink and smoke at your ex-

"I do not recognize this marriage," said Ky, sparing us the details but not the guilt. "He was too American. American society tends to corrupt boys faster than girls. They watch too much TV."

The premier's prime concern these days is keeping the rest of the kids, three boys and two girls ranging in age down to 13 from becoming "too Americanized. Sometimes they listen to me, sometimes no. They do very good in school. My youngest girl is brilliant, all A's.

Giant Firms Moving To Stamford

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP) - More and more small-and medium-sized companies have moved to Fairfield County, following the migration of many of the nation's corporate giants.

'We see it constantly - it is the second wave of corporate relocation," says Harry Harrison, general manager of the Stamford Area Commerce and Industry

Since the mid-1960s, large corporations such as Xerox, General Electric, Continental Oil, American Can and General Telephone & Electronics have moved to Fairfield County. Stamford and Greenwich alone have 21 headquarters of companies on Fortune magazine's list of the 500 largest corporations in the country.

And now hundreds of small companies with interests in such areas as computer software and advertising and marketing services have set up shop in the county. Cameron Hyers moved his advertising agency to Stamford three years ago and the huge corporate headquarters were a big reason.

"I could see it happening all around," he says. He believes, however, that some companies moved too soon. "Some of these headquarters - a good number of them - direct and supervise, but do not have production facilities here. It came as a shock to some people that certain services weren't needed

Another problem for service firms was getting the big firms to deal with them and break from their old New York City

"It took four years for the companies to start taking us seriously," says James Gilreath of Hawthorn Inc., an executive recruiting firm which came to Stamford in 1972 and is now the 19th largest such firm in the country

"We had to prove ourselves. Fortunately, some of the best talent in the world is in Connecticut. There are brilliant people here," Gilreath says.

The influx of the service companies to Fairfield County has spawned competition in fields that a few years ago did not even exist in the area.

And some national service-oriented companies, such as accounting firms, have opened branch operations in Fairfield County. Now, large New York City law and advertising firms are rumored to be looking for office space in the county to open branches there.

Man Misses Delivery Of Mail

FRANKFORT, Maine (UPI) - Charlie Mitchell is learning the hard way that you can expect your mail through rain, sleet, snow and hail but not if the mailman has to cross the street.

The Postal Service stopped deliveries to Mitchell's rural Frankfort home two weeks ago, saying his big metal mailbox is on the wrong side of the road.

A mailman now passes the box twice a day without stopping, and Mitchell has to drive several miles to the post office to pick up his mail.

About a month ago, the Postal Service told Mitchell and 55 other people to move their mail boxes across the road. All but two complied.

Mitchell said he couldn't move his because there was no shoulder across the road and a box there would hang over the pavement and be "liable to clip a motorcyclist in the head.

The Postal Service said it was concerned about safety of its mail carriers and it didn't want them crossing the road on foot. The letter carrier passes Mitchell's house on the side opposite the mail box in the morning, and that's when the Postal Service wants the delivery made so box numbers won't get out of sequ-

The carrier has not been stopping on his afternoon return trip for the past two weeks, even though he passes the box on the right side of the road then.

Frankfort Postmaster John Meehan said he stopped the deliveries to Mitchell's home and that they won't be resumed until he either moves the mail box or gets a special dispensation from the Postal Service allowing the box to stay where it is.

"If we make an exception for him, we'd have to do it for 35 other people, too," Meehan said. "That's not very

Computer Security Becomes Billion Dollar Issue

By LeROY POPE
NEW YORK (UPI) — Computer security has become a billion dollar issue in the United States alone and is growing on a global scale as increasingly sophisticated technology increases the potential for

Carl Hammer of Sperry Univac told the fourth annual computer security conference in New York this month that computer crime is rising so fast it is "becomng everybody's concern.'

The conference was attended by computer professionals from industry, business, banking and other organizations. A number of manufacturers exhibited devices and systems to prevent tampering with legitimate computer functions.

Prof. Brandt R. Allen of the University of Virginia, a speaker at the conference, said disgruntled employees often are responsible for computer abuse or saboAllen said a number of companies are combatting employee espionage by using employee expertise to think up ways the computer can be sabotaged. The experts' suggestions then are used to design a security system.

The growth of tapping the computer for industrial espionage on an international scale was described by two writers earlier this year.

Stephen Barley, an Englishman whose first book on spying, "The Secret Business," was published in the United States last winter, is about to publish a second which focuses on the use of the computer for spying Barley told United Press International that satellite computer communications can be a gold mine to companies that want to use it for industrial spying. It is reportedly relatively easy for an electronics expert to break codes and tap satellite

Barley said companies based in London have found it profitable to spy on satellite communications between large U.S. companies and their European offices. Unfortunately, Barley said, such spying still is not illegal in Britain.

Barley also said using gadgets or ordinary telephone lines to steal secrets stored in computers is much easier than one would imagine

However, the legal department of International Business Machines Corp., the world,'s biggest maker of computers, ex pressed some skepticism about this. The IBM lawyers said they had heard of no lawsuits or criminal prosecutions based on computer espionage

An article by Paul Mixson early this year in Sales & Marketing Management magazine dealt with more mundane methods of stealing trade and industrial secrets - bribing secretaries, or salesmen; using connections such as girlfriends, or even casual listeners-in such as airline stewardesses or sales clerks; or clever follow-up inquiries on apparently routine and inocuous news items. Mixson said one Australian industrial spy was netting half a million dollars a year by buying and reselling information picked up by airline employees, waiters and other persons in positions to overhear interesting conversations or take a peek at important letters.

Some firms are above buying information from industrial spies. Mixson cites Technicon Corp. of Tarrytown, N.Y., which reported to the police an offer by a schoolteacher, to sell for $40,000 com-plete plans to a blood counting machine being brought out by a competitor in Hi-

Carter Having To Wait On Tax Reform Promise

Dillard's

By WALTER R. MEARS WASHINGTON (AP) — Maybe the income tax system isn't such a disgrace after all

The crowds used to cheer when Jimmy Carter vowed a complete overhaul of the tax code. "It is a disgrace to the human race," he'd say, and they would cheer

But attacking the tax laws and rewriting them are vastly different undertak-

'All my life I have heard promises about tax reform, but it never quite happens," Carter said in accepting the Democratic presidential nomination. "With your help we are finally going to make it happen. And you can depend on it." But not now and not soon.

The prospect now is that Carter will recommend that Congress enact tax reductions in the $15 billion to $20 billion dollar range in 1978, but that he won't propose any major overhaul until later. His package apparently will include some minor changes the administration can call a first installment on the promised reform effort. When he was campaigning, Carter said it would take him at least a year in office to put together a detailed, comprehengoing to try to do it one piece at a time because that way, interest groups could concentrate their forces to block action on their favorite tax preferences.

Through most of the campaign season Carter avoided specifics, saying only that he wanted to overhaul, simplify and reform the whole 40,000-page tax code, and would do it in such a way as to decrease taxes on the average man.

Setting his administration's agenda, Carter had said he would come up with tax recommendations early this fall. The draftsmen have been at work for months. Their proposals are expected to be ready for Carter sometime next week, and for Congress after it reconvenes in mid-Janu-

As the timetable slipped, the proposals have become less ambitious, and Secretary of the Treasury W. Michael Blumenthal now says the legislation sent to the election-year Congress will be relatively

When campaigning, Carter was firm and specific on one feature of his tax plan: he always said he would seek to end the tax preference for capital gains. He said all income should be treated alike, so that profits on the sale of stock, real estate or other assets would be taxed at the same rate as other income.

All indications are that the president will not be recommending that change, at

Under present law, there's a tax break for gains on the sale of assets held for at least nine months. The period increases to 12 months effective Jan. 1. Fifty percent of such capital gains are exempt from income taxes.

Or the taxpayer can elect to pay a lower-than-ordinary rate on the full capital gain, an alternative which is to the advantage of some people in high tax brackets.

"I intend to take on myself, as a president's responsibility, at one time, a complete and comprehensive tax reform effort," Carter said in a campaign inter-... I would move to treat all inview. come the same and remove the sharp distinction now drawn depending on where the income is derived

But Blumenthal, in a Wall Street speech on Monday, virtually ruled out a proposal to eliminate the capital gains tax break. "We fully understand the important role preferential tax rates for capital gains have played in encouraging capital formation - especially for venture capital and new businesses," he said. "We will, of course, take this into account in designing reforms to reduce or eliminate unjustified tax preferences."

The changing outlook on Carter tax proposals stems from competing priorities - and political realities. Congress is forming in the 1978 election year, no matter what the White House recommends.

At 7 percent, unemployment still is a major problem for the administration, particularly as it enters a congressional campaign year. So, as he was a year ago in planning for a new administration, Carter is looking at measures to stimu-likely to do a lot more tax cutting than re-forming in the 1978 election year, no mat-put more money into the hands of business and consumers. The problem is compounded this time by the fact that Social Security and energy tax increases will work in the opposite direction.

So that campaign promise to overhaul the whole tax code will have to wait, probably until 1979.

Two Brothers Indicted In Smuggling Probe

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) - Two bans such imports. California brothers have been indicted after a three-year investigation on charges of smuggling Colombian and Mayan artifacts from Latin America.

The report Thursday named David Weiner, 35, a Placerville attorney, and his brother Daniel, 33.

David Weiner has said in the past the art pieces were gifts that have been in his family a number of years, or were brought into the United States legally.

Federal grand jury documents say the two are charged with conspiring between 1973 and 1975 to smuggle artifacts including statues, carvings and jewelry from at least 10 Latin American countries. Customs officials said the artifacts, from 800 to 2,000 years old, were illegally removed from ancient burial grounds or stolen from museums in Mexico, Panama, Costa Rica, Peru and elsewhere. The officials said the artifacts were brought into the United States in viola-

Customs agents said last March they confiscated pieces valued at $100,000 from David Weiner's residence at Shingle Springs, near Placerville.

U.S. Customs Agent Lawrence LaDage said that in 1974, it was discovered that Daniel Weiner was in Costa Rica attempting to smuggle artifacts to an unnamed professor at California State University, Sacramento.

A sworn statement by a professor of antiquities at California State University, Fresno, Raphael X. Reichert, said he once was requested to appraise a collection of artifacts at the David Weiner

Reichert said he valued 150 to 200 pieces spread out on a table at $20,000, but this was subject to change because of the "skyrocketing value" of such things. He said he offered to waive his $200 appraiser's fee if the collection could be shown at CSUF, but was told "no deal."

what I'll do," she said. Now, she says, "I guess I'm still upset.

But you know, I've learned a lot." The divorce, granted last month, made her realize, she says, that she was not alone, that millions of women face the question of what to do with their lives when a marriage ends.

High Court Eyes Ban Of Bidding

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Supreme Court has entered another battle involving the "learned professions" and, for openers, the justices are getting a crash course in engineering.

The National Society of Professional Engineers wants the court to uphold its policy of discouraging competitive contract bidding. The society contends such bidding or other forms of fee cutting have resulted in natural disasters, including the collapse several years ago of the Silver Bridge between Ohio and West Virginia.

The engineering group filed a 97-page brief this week in support of its appeal from lower court orders to end its longtime stand discouraging submission of price quotations

It charged that rulings against its policy represent "an unconstitutional blunderbus" abridging members' rights of free speech, publication and association.

However, the Supreme Court has dealt her pricing blows to the "learned including a 1975 ruling in a Northern Virginia case that lawyer groups cannot set a minimum fee schedule for real state title searches.

The U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia affirmed his order which said the policy of the 69,000member engineering society is unethical. The Supreme Court will hear arguments later this term in the case. In its brief, the society outlined the ABC's of the engineering profession, noting an engineer has studied advanced mathematics, dynamics, fluid mechanics, computer science, and design theory, among other things. It said there are no two identical problems in engineering and that competitive bidding is a "sham and an illusion" because no one can estimate costs until a lot of facts are known. When specifics are on the table, the bargaining over fees can begin and the client has the option of finding another engineer, it said. In a separate brief, the Justice Department disagreed. It noted that in 1971 the Tri-State Airport Authority in Huntington, W. Va., sought competitive bids from the five best qualified firms, obtained three and got the job done for $300,000 instead of the $500,000 price set in original negotiations. Government lawyers charged that the society has coordinated efforts to "investigate and punish those who compete in

Egyptian President Uses Shock Therapy In Peace Campaign

JERUSALEM (AP) — President Anwar Sadat's campaign for peace with Israel was born in war four years ago.

It began Oct. 6, 1973, when Sadat and President Hafez Assad of Syria sent their forces in a surprise assault on Israel's plan was not to win back large tracts of territory, but to shake the Middle East out of the six-year stalemate that followed Israel's victory in the 1967 war. With his latest proposal to visit Jerusa-lem and address the Israeli parliament, Sadat appears to be trying shock therapy

Efforts to convene a new Geneva peace conference are bogged down in procedural haggling. The distance between the Arabs and Israelis on the major matters of substance - Israeli withdrawal from the occupied territories, a Palestinian state, the nature of future peace - are so great that fear of failure inhibits progress toward negotiations

Sadat is trying to create "a shock situation, something like the Yom Kippur War, to get out of the stalemate," said one source close to the Israeli govern-

Farmer Has Collection Of Edsels

OXFORD, Pa. (UPI) - Hugh Lesley tugged at the bill of his green cap with the large white "E" and flicked back an old white bedspread. 'Here's our baby," he said with pride. The "baby" was a long, sleek, vermilion convertible with a chrome spare tire cover in the Continental style. The oval grille marked it as a 1958 Edsel Pacer. On his farm Hugh Lesley has about 100 Edsels, mostly of the 1958 vintage, which he calls "the really true Edsel" because it's not just Ford parts in an Edsel shell.

'Anybody interested in the Edsel usually has more than one, but I seem to have more than anybody," he said. Ford built the car - probably the greatest sales disaster in automotive history - in 1958 and 1959 and about 1,500 drastically restyled models in 1960, before finally giving up on them. Most of Lesley's Edsels are scattered haphazardly among the oak trees, or lined up next to the cornfield, their yawning snouts rusting away and their bodies stripped of parts to keep others going Lesley, a corn farmer who admits to bile sucking a lemon and the newspapers sort of built it up. Pretty soon, people got the feeling that the car was a lemon and sales just went downhill. And why does he love the Edsel?

'They were different," he said. "That was Ford's whole idea - to build a car that you could look down the block and tell it was an Edsel. Lesley got his first Edsel in 1960, shortly after Ford announced they were killing It was a second-hand, copper-and-white

That was bought, he said, and "it just sort of grew from there.

Most of Lesley's 100 Edsels were bought for parts. He paid about $50 for

If a car is fixed up - or can run with a little fixing - he'll pay $100 or more.

With a chuckle, Lesley produced a let-ter from a Rhode Island Edsel owner offering to sell his prize for $5,000. "There's not an Edsel around that's worth that kind of money," he said.

We've got kind of a museum here. People come out every weekend just to see the Edsels. Maybe I'll have to put up a museum turnstile or something," said, admitting it would be "just for

HY GARDNER HAS THE ANSWER:

Glad You Asked That!

Q: Did Leon Jaworski in his Watergate memoirs ever indicate what he thought Nixon's chance of survival would have been if he'd gone to trial? - Ciff Haycock. Oakland. Cal.

When asked whether he thought Nixon would have received a fair trial, Jaworski candidly commented: "I knew in my own mind that if an indictment were returned and the court asked me if I believed Nixon could receive a prompt, fair trial as guaranteed by the Constitution, I would have to answer (as an officer of the court) in the negative." On why Nixon did not destroy the tapes, Jaworski theorized: "He hoped to make a fortune from them and his background showed him to be a man greedy for both money and power.

A: Back in the summer of '73. At that time, she said, "We still don't feel we possess one another. Pierre doesn't have any expectations for me to always be at his side, and I don't have to always be at his side. And I don't have any expectations of him to always be at mine!

A: The beer-guzzling dog in "Topper" was named "Neil," who supposedly formed a chapter of A.D.A. (Alcoholic Dogs Anonymous) during the run of the series.

Q: My daughter-in-law thinks Mrs. Olson, "the mountaingrown-coffee woman," is Ann-Margret's mother. I can't believe this is true. Is it? - Mrs. W. S., St. Louis, Mo.

A: No, it isn't. The Folger Lady is Virginia Christine, a TV star in her own right from the '50s. And an accomplished actress. She was seen in 1951 in the Abbott and Costello show. Also played in "Superman" segments in 1954. And appeared in many movies including "The Mummy's Tomb," a 1944 vintage

Typical of Tony's humility, his self-portrait is the most unflattering one in his collection. Official Loses In Libel Suit Against Paper

NEW YORK (AP) — A state Supreme Court justice in Manhattan has ruled against former Chief of Detectives Albert edman who had sued the Daily News for $2 million in a libel action

The suit was based on an article published in March 1976, which mentioned Seedman as an example of how police and fire officials benefitted by a state law that enabled them to retire on threequarters of their salary after suffering heart attacks.

The ruling came in a decision this week by Justice Edward J. Greenfield who said there was "no libel per se" in the ar-

"Even assuming the article contained certain inaccuracies as to plaintiff, it still was not libelous and basically stated a true fact," Greenfield said.

He said Seedman did retire under a heart disability and did recieve a substantial pension and went on to become an executive with a large salary.

Rabbit, Birds Destroyed

CARROLL, Iowa (AP) - Vandals apparently used a broomstick to beat to death a rabbit and 19 wild birds, including two Canada geese whose wings had been clipped so they could not fly.

One goose was decapitated and several other birds at the Swan Lake State Park had their necks wrung. Sheriff John Longnecker said this week.

"This was the operation of a sick bunch of people. It's just ridiculous," said Longnecker. "We have never had anything as vicious as this. It's just vicious.'

David Olson, a conservation officer stationed at Swan Lake, said the attack destroyed the geese, two golden pheasants, a peacock, five turkeys, eight chickens and a guinea hen - about a third of the birds at the preserve.

"A gamekeeper lives near the area and he didn't hear anything," Olson said. Whoever did this just chased them into

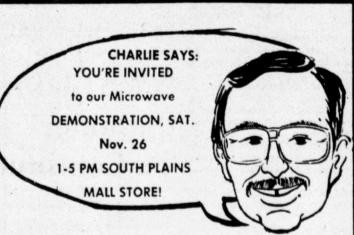

Olson said the incident was not the first in which animals have been mutilated at Last year, the preserve's pet raccoon was dragged to death by a car.

Santa Loses Popularity In Nebraska Capital

By MICHAEL J. BUGEJA
LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — If you are an unemployed fat man with bright red cheeks and remain jolly despite your job prospects, you had better not come to Lincoln in search of a Santa Claus job for the holidays.

A recent check of major department stores, the Salvation Army and the Chamber of Commerce showed St. Nicholas would only be ho-ho-hoing at the Gateway Shopping Center and at the downtown Brandeis-Lincoln store. The two locations are a convenient 50 blocks apart.

The downtown stores of Miller & Paine and J.C. Penney and the Chamber of Commerce will not hire a Santa this year. Ardan Jewlers and Distributors isn't sure and probably won't know until a week before Christmas.

"Once it was popular to have a Santa, but then there were so many it made it confusing for the kids," a Miller & Paine spokesman said.

A spokesman for J.C. Penney said the store apparently doesn't need one, since last year "there was a Santa a few doors down.

The Chamber of Commerce said it had a Santa last year at its Christmas Fantasy Land, "but only about three or four people came each night," an official said. She said the Fantasy Land flop cost "a couple thousand dollars" and this year the money would be put to better use. This year, holiday music will be piped in the downtown area.

A spokesman for a city employment agency specializing in temporary services said there have been no calls so far this year for Santas. "It's sad. Last year there were calls," he said.

The employment agent added that Santa employers must pay for the rental of Santa-suits, which can run as high as $20 a day. This could be a factor, he said. The suits also must be cleaned after they are used.

Gloria Richter of the Nebraska Job Service in Lincoln checked her files and said, "Do you know, for the past couple of years we always had requests for Santas and this year - not a one.

Surely, one would think, the Salvation Army would come to the rescue of unemployed Santas in Lincoln, but Maj. Leonard Espinosa said it really isn't a Salvation Army tradition to use St. Nick. "I bet you're thinking of the Volunteers of America," Espinosa said. "You see, the Salvation Army was founded by William Booth in 1865 in England. He sent a son and a daughter to the United States. "The son, Ballington, had a disagreement with his father and said he would start an American Salvation Army. He founded the Volunteers of America. Instead of a tripod, they used a Santa Claus and a chimney (for donations). Alas, the Volunteers of America has no office - or Santa - in Lincoln

Blacks Supporting Ian Smith's Offer

However, the Rhodesian military command refused to comment on reports that its ground and air forces have invaded neighboring black-ruled Mozambique in search of black Rhodesian guerrillas. There have been no reports of casualties.

A spokesman for the Mozambique general staff in the capital of Maputo said the raid began Wednesday morning near the border town of Chimoio. Stiff fighting was reported in progress Thursday.

Mozambique is used as a launching pad for cross-border raids by Rhodesia's black nationalist guerrillas fighting to topple Smith's minority government. The Rhodesian military command has admitted making several attacks on Mozambique "in hot pursuit" of the guerrillas.

Rhodesian prime minister launched his initiative at a news conference in the city of Bulawayo, 225 miles southwest of Salisbury. It was the first time Smith had expressed support for the concept of national elections in Rhodesia based on universal adult suffrage.

The British Foreign Office declined comment, but an official privately predicted failure for Smith's attempt at an internal settlement. "To achieve peace in Rhodesia it is vi-

Political control of Rhodesia has been in the hands of the white minority since the country declared itself a self-governing British colony in 1923. Rhodesia issued a unilateral declaration of independence in 1965 after Britain refused to grant it independence that would exclude black majority rule.

Leaders Of Palestinians Get Egyptian Invitation

CAIRO (AP) - Palestinian leaders in Israel and the West Bank of the Jordan River have been invited to Egypt to discuss the Mideast situation in light of President Anwar Sadat's visit to Jerusalem, the Middle East News Agency said

The invitation, issued by Egypt's ruling party, was seen as part of an Egyptian move to counter Arab opposition to Sadat's trip, especially from Syria and Yasir Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organiza-

It also is seen as an attempt to bypass the PLO if it fails to come to terms with Sadat and provide a role for moderate Palestinians in any Arab-Israeli peace talks. Israel refuses to deal with the PLO.

The PLO, Syria and other radical Arab nations vehemently opposed Sadat's trip to Jerusalem last weekend, the first visit by an Arab leader to Israel since the founding of the Jewish state 29 years ago.

The invitation to the Palestinians did not say which leaders had been invited, whether any had accepted, or when they would come to Cairo. But it called on them to "distinguish between those who want peace and those who want to destroy everything.

On Thursday Egypt's acting foreign minister, Butros B. Ghali, said the United States will continue to play "an important and positive role" in the Mideast peace process, but that it will be somewhat diminished. "After Sadat's visit to Jerusalem, the

However, Ad Dastour gave no indication whether the three mayors were aware of the invitation to visit Egypt at the time they were interviewed.

Sadat is preparing a speech to the Egyptian Parliament Saturday that a spokesman said would be "dramatic. He gave no details, but the semi-official newspaper Al Ahram said the speech would deal with six points, including the manner and method of convening the Geneva conference and obstacles which

Al Ahram said other points in the speech include the reasons for Sadat's journey to Israel, details of his talks with Israeli leaders, the results of these sessions, how the trip relates to the ultimate solution of the Mideast situation, the obligation of the superpowers to make Geneva succeed and make a separate peace with Israel.

Turkeys Found By Columbus

CHAMPAIGN, III. (UPI) - Christopher Columbus didn't know what he'd come across when he set foot in the New World. He thought all those wild turkeys were east Indian peacocks, a University of Illinois researcher has found. Hugh Johnson, a professor of animal science, paid tribute to Columbus as the discoverer of Thanksgiving's traditional main course Thursday. He said turkeys were plentiful in the new world when Columbus landed. But the huge flocks of wild turkeys were decimated by 1800 and, by 1840, turkeys were becoming rare. By 1900, the American turkey was almost extinct.

Colonists in the New World began hunting turkeys at about the same time the bird was being domesticated in Europe 90 years before the Pilgrims' big thanksgiving feast at Plymouth Rock. But it was early in this century that poultry raisers realized the value of the large, meaty birds and began raising them domestically, Johnson said. He said the birds still were on the tough side but breeders crossed them with the smaller turkeys raised in Europe -descendents of the birds Columbus brought back with

Carter Eyeing Steel Loans

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Carter administration is considering loans to make domestic steel plants more efficient as part of its five-point plan to reduce imports, officials said Friday

The plan, to be considered by President Carter next week, was outlined to congressmen from steel-producing states

The purpose of the plan is to protect steel companies from unfair competition without making them go through the lengthy process of filing suits against foreign producers. The government would set an automatic price level that it considers fair and would charge tariffs for anything below this "reference price."

As outlined to members of the Congressional Steel Caucus, sources said the plan

- Inexpensive loans to make several hundred million dollars available to modernize plants and equipment. - A tax break by permitting faster depreciation of equipment. - Proposed legislation to improve tax benefits for investment in anti-pollution equipment. - A change of rail freight rates to reduce the cost of domestic steel ship-- Replacement of the filing of antidumping suits with the reference price

Under international agreements, a country is said to be dumping its products into another country if it is subsidizing the industry and selling the products below cost. In the United States, tariffs

Fishing Boat, Pot Set Afire

FERNANDINA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) -A 55-foot fishing boat filled with an estimated 25 tons of Colombian marijuana ran aground along the fog-shrouded Atlantic coast early Thursday just north of Jacksonville and was set afire, apparently to destroy the evidence.

All but 1.5 tons of the pot went up in smoke. And before law officers could get the vessel unloaded, it exploded in a fiery blast and sank. Two television newsmen, a deputy and a trustee unloading the cargo were injured slightly. Fire units had hosed down the boat, but the tightly packed marijuana bales would not stop burning. The explosion occurred five hours after the grounding.

The entire load was valued at $15 mil-

The Miami owner and captain of the vessel, Lorenzo Isorda Aros, 56, was later found in the area. His two companions, Marino Caridad Iglesias, 42, of Miami and Pedro Tacheco, 47, of Houston also were arrested. All three were charged with illegal importation of marijuana and ordered held without bond.

The boat's captain told federal Drug Enforcement Agency agents that they had been kidnapped by three men and forced to bring the boatload of pot into the country. Aros said their abductors abandoned ship just two hours before it

Congressmen attending the meeting were said to be encouraged by the shorter time tariffs could take effect and hoped the ailing industry could get back to normal by early next year. Imported steel now accounts for 20 percent of steel sold in this country, but the administration wants to reduce this to 12 to 14 per-

Officials do not consider the plan protectionism because it would aim at countries that are getting a break by selling steel below cost.

However, Japanese steel exporters have said they want a voice in determining how the reference prices are fixed. Some of them consider the plan less dangerous to them than steel import quotas or the current anti-dumping laws.

Somali Forces Battling For Mountain City

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) - Somali and Ethiopian forces are locked in a major battle for the key Ethiopian stronghold of Harar, diplomatic sources in Mogadishu and Addis Ababa said today.

Diplomats in the Somali capital said there were reports that the walled mountain fortress, 250 miles east of Addis Ababa, already has fallen to the Somali offen-

But they said there was no confirmation of this from either the government or the Western Somali Liberation Front, the insurgent group which is said to be doing the bulk of the fighting.

Harar, and its sister city of Dire Dawa. 35 miles to the northwest over the mountains, are Ethiopia's last bastions north of the disputed Ogaden region and their fall would seal the Somalis' hold on four southeastern Ethiopian provinces. One diplomat in Mogadishu said there were confirmed reports that the Somalis have breached the crenelated walls that ring the 1,300-year-old trading center. It was not clear whether the Ethiopians also were displaced from their positions in the mountains which control Harar mili-

Diplomats in the Ethiopian capital said they had received reports the Somalis were at the city limits of Harar, and there was a continuing buildup of forces from both sides in the area. The Ethiopian government has maintained silence on the battle.

"There is a considerable feeling of euphoria here." a diplomat in Mogadishu said. "You get the impression from Somali officials that if the city has not fallen, its fall is imminent. Sources in both capitals said the Ethiopians, reinforced in recent weeks with large quantities of Soviet tanks, rockets and heavy artillery, appeared likely to attempt a massive counterstrike to force the Somalis to regroup to the east.

British Firemen Reassured By Public Support

LONDON (UPI) — Public support for Britain's nationwide firefighters strike has persuaded the strikers to "dig their heels in" until the government comes up with the 30 percent pay increase they demand, a union chief said today.

Fire Brigades Union spokesmen said they had gathered more than a quarter of a million signatures on a petition in sup-port of the striking firefighters and raised

$21,400 from street corner donations. The strikers' claim of support came just a day after a National Opinion Polls survey commissioned for a London news-paper found that 63 percent of those questioned believed the firefighters should get more than the government's 10 per cent ceiling

Boehm's Widow Continues Famed Sculpture Studio

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) - Long before the emergence of the women's movement. Elena Franzolin made her way from her Brooklyn family to the Mechanical School of Optics, which in time qualified her to measure Clark Gable's pupils. As the first woman ophthalmic dispenser for a Fifth Avenue firm in New York City, she recalls those minutes with Ga-"I used to look into his big, blue eyes and measure the pupils and around the ears and make sure everything fit just so, and he'd say 'I'll leave it all up to you whatever glasses' frames you think I should have,' and I'd melt into stutters

Despite her promising future, she left the optics firm in 1949 to sell the sculpture of Edward Marshall Boehm, an unknown artist who was also her husband.

Without training in marketing, advertising or public relations, Helen Boehm persisted in extolling her husband's birds and animals until the name Boehm porcelain earned national recognition. "It came naturally because I was selling my husband whom I loved and believed in," she said during an interview here while attending the convention of the American Iris Society, during which she presented the group with a specially designed iris.

But it took more than love to transform the Boehm enterprise from a Trenton, N.J., basement studio business in 1950 into a $10-million-a-year concern that in 1970 became the first American porcelain studio to export to England.

Mrs. Boehm, a tall blonde with graceful, jeweled hands, used her imagination. While she was still measuring pupils, one day she lured Vincent Andrus, an associate curator at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, to a nearby tailor's shop to see a Boehm display.

He told her, "This is beautiful, equal to any of the European imports," and insisted on paying $60 for each piece, but more important, it was the Boehms' first big

After bringing the purchase to the attention of a newspaper, Mrs. Boehm then took to the bus to sell the porcelain in Boston, Baltimore and Philadelphia.

The buyers told her, "Boehm, we never heard of it. Helen, it will take you 100

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: I have three children from two previous marriages. My new husband of two years is a wonderful provider and husband, but by no means is he a father to my son

He gets along well with my two daughters, but he does not like my 8-year-old son. I can see the hatred growing day by day and there's no way I can stop it.

When my son asks him a question, he says, "Shut up!" When the boy asks me why Dad is so mean to him and Dad hears him, he says, "Don't go running to your mother or you'll get a whipping! He won't show the boy any affection like butting my head against a stone wall. I've tried everything and gotten nowhere. Can you help me?

Losing the Way in GA.

Dear Losing: Anyone who belives that showing affection to a boy will turn him into a homosexual, and that counseling is only for "nuts," is woefully ignorant. If I were you I'd go alone for counseling to learn how to handle this unreasonable man who gets along well with your two daughters but is cruel to your son. (You can bet it has something to do with his male ego and competition.)

He may be a good provider, but until he learns to be a loving, fair and patient father to your son, he's no bargain. Think

I told you about my son. He was the only one who always stood around like he had a lip full of novacaine. Never talked. Never communicated. Always cool and aloof.

In fact, the only time I can ever remember his saying anything to me was when I was baking a cake one afternoon and broke an egg on the side of the bowl. The shells crumbled into the batter and the yolk slid down the entire length of the cupboard and onto the floor.

He watched the entire scene mesmerized. Finally, he looked me squarely in the eye and said, "Way to go, Mom."

Okay, so four words in 8 years isn't a soliloquy, but at least he knew my name. I worried about our ever being able to communicate. I should have known better.

Teenagers don't really begin to communicate with their parents until they leave home to go to school and it costs 80 cents a minute. (Minimum:

he could make West led his diamond, and declarer won the queen. The lure of the ace of clubs in dummy proved irresistible. Declarer crossed to the ten of trumps and sluffed a heart on the ace. Now he thought it would be a good idea to ruff a diamond, so he led dummy's remaining diamond to the ace. Unfortunately West fect. West returned a heart to the king and East exited with a trump. Declarer still had to lose three diamond tricks for

The auction should have alerted declarer to the possiblity of a 5-1 diamond break. There was no urgency to take a heart discard on the ace of clubs - it was more important to secure a diamond ruff in dummy. Therefore, declarer could not afford to touch trumps.

Also, the ace of diamonds had to be protected from a possible ruff. To accomplish this, declarer should have led a low diamond from his hand at trick two. That might cost an overtrick if West had started with two diamonds, but it would have insured the contract against almost any lie of the cards.

The best the defenders can do is allow East to win the diamond, cash two high hearts, then shift to a trump. Declarer wins in hand and leads another low diamond, which he ruffs on the board with the ten of trumps. Now declarer discards his remaining low diamond on the ace of clubs, and he will lose only one diamond and two heart tricks.

Photographs Highlight Many 1978 Calendars

Associated Press Writer

The current appearance of 1978 calendars is a sure sign Christmas and New Year's Day are coming up fast. As for camera fans, there is a fine assortment of photographic calendars to choose from. either as gifts or for personal enjoyment Photographer Sherry Suris has compiled, designed and published as a personal venture two new calendars which assure a month-by-month, year-long exposure to fine art photography. One, Photography - 12 Master Images -1978," provides visual inspiration by a dozen contemporary photography artists. They include: Henri Cartier-Bresson, W. Eugene Smith, Wynn Bullock, Imogen Cunningham, Andre Kertesz, Jacques Henri Lartigue, Josef Sudek, Ralph Steiner, Minor White, George Tice and Shelley Burden.

Another, "Women - Images by 12 Women Photographers," shows how noted female photographers view other women. The photographers include: Eve Arnold, Lilo Raymond, Eva Rubinstein. Sonja Bullaty, Dena, Abigail Heyman, Helen Levitt, Mary Ellen Mark, Holly Maxson, Barbara Morgan, Suzanne Opton and the publisher, Sherry Suris.

Both calendars are printed for fine photographic reproduction on quality coated stock with lettering and titles in distinctive calligraphy. They are spiral bound, measure 121/4 by 91/4 inches, and are designed for either wall hanging or desk decoration. The calendar boxes are roomy enough for daily notations, reminders and appointments.

Aware of collectors and their pursuit of photographica, Miss Suris adds a first in calendar publishing: a special, limited, signed edition of 100 copies of each calendar. In these, individual photographic pages are autographed by the living pho-

The calendars ($5.95) are available nationally from many major photographic galleries and from the national chain of Brentano and Rizzoli book stores. For information about the signed, limited editions, write: SherArt Images, 60 E. 12 St., New York, N.Y. 10003.

Another calendar of historic photographs, several dating back to the 1850s, is entitled "The Photographer's Calendar 1978." It has been compiled and deigned by Liliane De Cock and published Morgan & Morgan, Dobbs Ferry, N.Y., 10522. ($4.95). Fourteen photographs are included in this wall-hanging calendar, selected from the collections of the Library of Congress, George Eastman House, W.D. Morgan, the State Historical Society of Colorado and Barbara Morgan. The photographers represented are: Gertrude Kasebier, Walker Evans, Frederick H. Evans, William H. Jackson, David Octavius Hill, Russell Lee, Laura Gilpin, Robert Howlett, J.C.H. Grabill, Doris Ulmann, John Vachon, Charles Currier and Barbara Morgan.

Subjects range from a pre-1850 study of The Sisters" by Hill to Walker Evans study of a photographer's studio window in 1936; and from Jackson's cover photo of his assistant guiding their equipmentladen mule along a mountain ledge, to Grabill's panoramic view of a Sioux Indian encampment in South Dakota in 1891.

Along with nostalgic photos, "The Photographer's Calendar" includes information and birthdays of historical interest in photography. Distribution of the calendar is through camera stores and book and gift shops.

"Photographing America Desk Calendar - 1978" is a handy household appointment-calendar book to keep track of daily commitments for next year interspersed with beautiful photographs and helpful photo tips. It is a Kodak publication and is bound in hard cover, measur ing 812 by 11 inches

The format of the calendar year is week by week in full pages. About 100 color photos in a wide variety of subject matter illustrate the weekly calendar pages effectively demonstrating top-notch pic ture taking. All the photographs were published previously in "Photographing America," a hard-cover book distributed last year by Kodak and Crown Publications. The photos often provide a peg for photo suggestions and information.

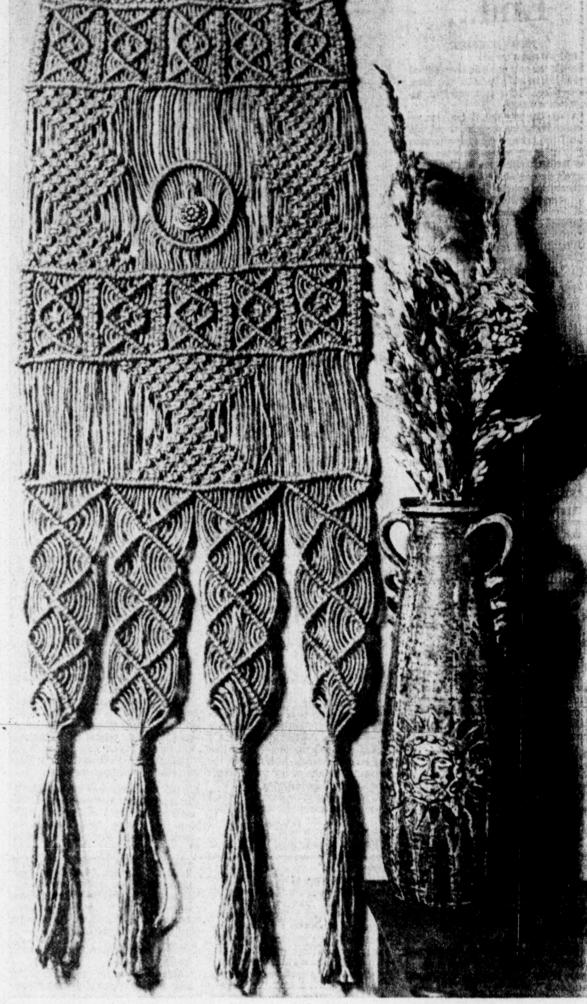

The desk calendar (publication No. AC-97) is available from many photo dealers ($6.95) or from Eastman Kodak, Rochester, N.Y., 14650.

Of course, there are the annual animal alendars by Walter Chandoha, outstanding animal and nature photographer.

For 1978, there are two wall calendars published by Hallmark, Kansas City Mo., featuring Chandoha cats and Chan doha dogs ($4 each)

In addition, there are photo calendars which cater to devotees of varying interests such as tennis, golf, fishing, yoga, the ers, houseplants and the latest in space action - "Star Wars." In short, calendars become daily reminders that pho-

Chippendale Term Can Be Confusing; Explanation Given

By RALPH and TERRY KOVEL

Sometimes the simplest antique term can be confusing. What is a Chippendale chair? The term has three meanings.

Thomas Chippendale was a man who designed and made furniture in London, England during the 18th century. Only a few chairs remain that are documented to have been made in his workshops while he lived. The Chippendale-design books were widely distributed and many furniture makers of his day used his

American furniture makers of the 18th century often made "Chippendale" chairs, or chairs in the "Chippendale

Today the term "Chippendale" chair is seen in furniture advertisements. It means a new chair made in the general style of the designs of Thomas Chippen-

Mr. Chippendale made chairs of many types. The main style copied today has a ball and claw foot, a carved knee on the chair leg, a pierced piece in the center of the back and a curved top to the back of the Chair.

Q. How can I tell if my brass late-18th century andirons are American?

A. There was a wood shortage in England, and by the end of the 17th century, it was very critical. Coal and not wood was burned in the fireplaces. Grates were used to hold the coal. If your andirons are brass and made between 1700 and 1820. they are almost certainly American. The earliestd andirons used in Europe were cast iron. The problem is not the country of origin but the date of origin. Excellent copies of earlier styles have been made through the years.

Q. My new library has high ceilings and shelves. How old are the antique library steps I have sometimes seen in antique shops?

A. A 17th century book owner kept his books on tables, chairs, or in piles on the floor. More and more books were becoming available and by the beginning of the 18th century, the bookcase was developed. Book shelves were built to the ceilng and library steps were used to replace ladders or chairs.

Most library steps were dual purpose pieces of furniture. Some steps could fold up into stools, tables, or chairs. The furniture was made in the prevailing style from the 18th through the 19th century. A few modern library step tables are made

Q. Why does lead glass "ring?"

A. The characteristic ringing sound is caused by the density of the lead glass. Other types have less density and so a less resonant tone.

Intricate Macrame Easy To Achieve

The Earth Harmony Macrame Wall Hanging pictured above ties on some easy hitches for a jute construction that mades for down to earth elegance, knot after knot. The intricate, finely detailed texture of macrame shouldn't put you off, either. It doesn't take long to learn the ropes, and with a little patience you'll be able to tie on a look that's natural.

Basic macrame work naterials include a wooden dowel, jute. T-pins small rubber bands, and a knotting board. For a macrame construction measuring 17" x 48", your knotting board should be at leastd 15" x 20". For this purpose, a piece of insulation or bulletin board will do. When looking for a knotting board, keep in mink you want a surface on which you can easily pin down your Macrame starts from the dowel. Find the midpoint of a seven yard length of jute chord and loop it over the center of the dowel with a Lark's Head Knot. Loop 31 other seven yard strands on either side of your center chord, and form a bobbin of the loose strands, bundling them with a rubber band to keep them out of the way. Your knotting will be worked in a downward direction from the dowel.

The Earth Harmony pattern involves Overhand, Square, Double Half Hitch, Alternating Square, Horizontal Double Half Hitch. Diagonal Double Half Hitch, and Tassel Coil knots. Easy to read macrame diagrams are available to show you how to tie these knots. And they really are not as challenging as they may

Before you design your own macrame patterns, it's a good idea to gain some practice from pre-charted patterns. Earth Harmony is available in a kit that comes with jute, a dowel rod, ceramic beads, "T" pins, rubber bands, and easy to follow instructions with full diagrams and descriptions of macrame knots and

Stamps Commemorate Anniversary Of College

By SYD KRONISH Associated Press Writer

The Isle of Jersey, one of the English Channel Islands - and not to be confused with the State of New Jersey in this country - is having a special celebration this year honoring the 125th anniversary of its Victoria College for Boys. To commemorate the occasion, the Jersey Post Office has issued four new stamps of beautiful design.

Collectors who specialize in "Victoriana" - items pertaining to the reign of Queen Victoria - will welcome these new stamps.

The 7-pence stamp depicts the arrival of Queen Victoria with Prince Albert in 1846 prior to the opening of the college. The 101/2-pence stamp shows how the college looked at the time of its completion. The 11-pence reproduces the bronze statue of Sir Galahad, remembered by all who have passed through the college since 1924 as a memorial to the courage of 128 students of Victoria who gave their lives during World War I. The 13-pence illustrates College Hall where full-size portraits of Queen Victoria and Prince Albert were unveiled at the school's opening in 1852. Each of the new stamps bears Queen Elizabeth's vignette and the inscription Victoria College 125th Anniversary

The 1977 Mint Set of U.S. Commemorative Stamps is a popular purchase for gift or collection. The colorful folder contains all 27 commemorative and special stamps of the United States issued during 1977 and a brief description of each issue. The cover of the 1977 Mint Set features a montage of artwork related to the stamps that wraps around all three sides of the

Among the 1977 issues are three blocks of four stamps - Pueblo Indian Pottery, Butterflies, and Skilled Hands for Independence - plus the pair of Energy stamps focusing attention on energy con-

The set is available for $4 at your post office or you may order your sets at the same price per set plus a 50-cent handling charge (for each order) from the Philatel-Sales Branch, U.S. Postal Service, Washington, D.C., 20265.

Renault Pushing For American Market

NEW YORK (AP) - Renault, the French automotive giant, has opened a campaign to increase its share of the American market. As part of the program, it is trying to buy White Motor Corp., of Eastlake, Ohio.

"It's obvious that a company like ours has an interest in the American truck market," said Pierre Herrmann, president of Renault-USA, in an interview, but he stressed that the American subsidiary "has nothing to do with it. We have not been officially informed that these negotiations are going on.

So far no price has been mentioned publicly for the shares White Motor, which did $1.23 billion of business last year in trucks, farm equipment and other machinery and has 17,453 employees.

White Motors said it has had "exploratory conferences" with possible buyers, but declined to identify them.

100TH BIRTHDAY

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) - Retired Roman Catholic Archbishop Edward Daniel Howard, an early leader in the movement for cooperation with Protestants, observed his 100th birthday Nov. 5, the oldest archbishop in the history of the church in the United States. Formerly head of the Portland Archdiocese, he now lives in Beaverton, Ore.

Edward Reddig, former board chair-man of White Motors, said he was one of them and that the other two bidders were Renault and Daimler-Benz of West Ger-

Renault's push to penetrate the American market, and especially to acquire a plant here, is part of a trend among foreign automakers spearheaded by aggressive Japanese firms.

Honda has acquired a plant site near Marysville, Ohio, to produce motorcycles initially, with an eye to producing cars in the future. Other Japanese automakers reportedly are looking at plant sites in California.

Volkswagen, the West German automaker, has acquired a production plant in New Stanton, Pa.

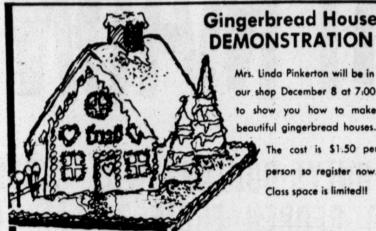

Although Renault has sold 2 million cars worldwide since 1972 and doubled its American sales so far this year to 11,-184, Herrmann said his company's No. 1 problem here still is "to increase awareness that Renault exists." He said the company hopes to increase dealerships to 370 by next year, concentrated on the East and West coasts, and make the United States "our biggest market outside France."

Herrmann said Renault had made financial arrangements based on doubling the number of units sold here once again

He said that to accomplish this, Renault was concentrating on its rakish sports model "Le Car," which will feature a deluxe version next year equipped with power brakes and air conditioni

Many Top Executives Lose Jobs

By JOHN CUNNIFF NEW YORK (AP) — The revolving door of the executive suite is spinning more frustrated and angry chairmen and presidents out into the streets than at any time in recent history, says a professional counter.

"In one-third of the largest industrial corporations the teams at the top were not there five years ago," according to Eugene Jennings, who is a confidential adviser to some of the executives.

And they're not going willingly. More chairmen and presidents of Fortune 500 companies have departed under fire in the past three yars than in any similar period since World War II, states Jennings, who has studied corporate mobility for nearly 30 years.

A professor of management at Michigan State University, and author of many books on corporate personnel strategy, Jennings monitors the movements of top managers in the very large companies. The power struggle has seldom been so intense, he reports.

For the first time since he began his statistical studies in 1948, Jennings said in an interview, the firing rate has exceeded the retirement rate for chairmen and presidents.

Add in the quit rate - 2 of every 3 who quit would be fired if they didn't do so, he says - and the early departures now amount to 1.5 times the retirement rate.

as serious for industry as for the individu-"It reflects on the ability of corporations to nominate and develop top flight people," he said. While this was once an area where America companies excelled, it clearly is one that will demand more attention in the future, he feels. Jennings believes the accelerated turnover rate also reflects the uncertain, changing times that have put pressure on all institutions. He lists these reasons for firings:

—Many of the top executives are poor

carryovers from performers. They are carryovers from the 1960s, when the skills and strategies needed were associated almost solely with growth. Executives with such abilities often aren't big enough for the diverse challenges of today. -Boards of directors are less tolerant of inefficient performances. Themselves subject to more public and governmental scrutiny than ever before, they are less hesitant to dismiss an individual for below par results. Making the job more difficult for the top executive is the fact that in many companies facing new social and economic challenges, the standards of performance are not explicitly stated or even -Chairmen and presidents today are more ofen than before likely to find themselves in a poor "fit." While it might seem this discordance would be spotted before they were elevated to the top jobs, the type of duties in lower level jobs does not always reveal it.

The big issues in the highest corporate offices today involve more consideration of government, ethics, politics, society and other factors not immediately or directly connected with profits.

"It is very hard to find two or more people at the top who will agree on a corporate position regarding new ethical standards, government regulation, political influence and social-economic interest groups," he said.

Resignations, while often demanded, often are hidden behind the noncommital phrase "personal reasons," which in effect is a message to the public that the reasons are "none of your business."

Some presidents and chairmen, however, do quit for genuinely personal rea-sons. Jennings has found that a relative few really decide they've had enough pressure and uncertainty and too little of sensible living.

Rather than being hurried into the revolving door they nudge it themselves, and walk out with their heads high and the feeling they have just begun to live.

Solon's Trip Delays Action On Social Security

By JEFFREY MILLS WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. William M. Ketchum, R-Calif., is delaying final congressional action on major Social Security legislation while he takes a congressional inspection trip to Africa and

A top aide to Ketchum says the eightnation, taxpayer-financed trip is the reason he prevented any conference committee sessions on the bill during the current informal recess.

"Had he not objected (to conference committee meetings during the recess), he would have had a choice between serving on the conference committee and going to Africa. He wanted to do both, so He objected," Kathy Sheehan, Ketchum's legislative aide, said.

Ketchum, who is on the 17-day trip, was unavailable for comment.

His action came Nov. 3, as Congresswas preparing to go on the informal recess that will continue until Nov. 29. Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., wanted to have House conferees on the Social Security bill named."It is a matter of great urgency" that conferees meet during the recess, Ullman said.

However, the Senate had not yet comted action on its version of the legislaon and Ullman needed unanimous con-

Ketchum twice asked Ullman if the onferees would meet during the recess and when Uliman answered the second uestion by saying sessions would be held uring the recess, Ketchum formally objected. The objection means that House conferees cannot be named until at least Nov. 29.

Ullman said in a brief telephone interview, "He (Ketchum) couldn't be here. That's why he objected.'

The delay comes in a bill that both President Carter and the congressional leadership want passed this year to bail out the financially troubled Social Security system by increasing taxes working people pay into it.

However, it is not clear whether a Social Security bill can be passed this year because energy legislation is the No. 1 congressional priority. Some of the legislators who are expected to be conferees on Social Security also are energy conferees and may be preoccupied with that concern for the rest of the year.

A spokesman for the Social Security Administration said if the law is not enacted before Jan. 1 "there will be some extra administrative cost" that taxpayers will have to pay for.

The additional administrative costs would come because parts of the bill would become effective Jan. 1 as it is now written. If the bill is not signed by New Year's, the agency would have to administer current law and then reprogram its computers and print new booklets to conform with the new law.

The Social Security spokesman said no estimate is available of additional costs if the bill is not signed by Jan. 1.

REP. WILLIAM M. KETCHUM

The announced purpose of the trip is to before he left, he said, "The elected representatves of the people have an obligation to become, and remain, personally acquainted with the representative problems and demands of these countries. I consider this trip to be timely, and I look forward to acquiring one-on-one information enabling me to make responsible decisions."

A committee spokesman said House members not on the committee are allowed to go "on a space-available basis."

Houston Police Seek Suspect In Shooting

HOUSTON (AP) — Police were looking for suspects today in the slaying of Jewel Banks Jr. 29. Banks was fatally shot Thursday night at an apartment building

A police Specials Weapons and Tactics (SWAT) team surrounded the building for about five hours when they were told a suspect still was inside.

A .38 caliber bullet was found on the stairway near Banks' body after SWAT. members entered the apartment found no one inside, police said.

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) - President Carter's chief spokesman has reiterated that the president may veto energy legislation which he believes to be too weak.

"Anyone who believes the president will sign a bad bill is seriously mistaken, said White House Press Secretary Jody Powell on Thursday. "No bill may be better than a bad bill.

A conference committee has been trying to put together an energy package on which both the House and Senate agree. The House has passed a package very similar to Carter's proposals, while the Senate has virtually rewritten the president's plan.

Powell's comments here, where the president and his family are spending the Thanksgiving holidays, was prompted by comment made earlier this week by Energy Secretary James Schlesinger.

Schlesinger told reporters on Monday that "there may have to be some adjustments" in the amount of oil subject to price controls "in order to gain support" from the industry. And the secretary said oil and natural gas portions of the energy package before Congress have "a logical connection." He said "the greater the cash flow from natural gas, the less need" for incentives on The remarks were seen by some as a

Carter's energy policy, and were reported to have angered some Carter loyalists in the House. Powell's comment was interpreted as an attempt to refute the impression that Carter is so anxious to see an energy policoncession to opponents in Congress to cy enacted that he might sign weakened legislation. Meanwhile, Carter met on Thursday just returned from a trip to Latin America, including to Venezuela where he was unsuccessful in convincing President Carlos Andres Perez to go along with a freeze on oil prices. Venezuela is a member of the OPEC oil cartel. White House officials said the Carter meeting with Vance was "routine." Vance at a news conference in Caracas had said Wednesday that he and Perez "agreed on everything except oil."

American Women Prefer Sons Over Daughters In Survey

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) - American women would rather have boys than girls, despite claims by most women that they want an equal number of sons and daughters, a University of Michigan re-

e are al-le basis."

Using a new technique for detecting the underlying preferences of women, researcher Lolagene C. Coombs found that of 6,800 married women interviewed, 49 percent preferred boys and 32 percent preferred girls. The other 19 percent wanted an even number of boys and girls.

The strength of preference also was stronger for boys, she said. Twenty percent of the women had a strong desire for sons, while 11 percent had a strong preference for daughters

Mrs. Coombs, of the University of Michigan Population Studies Center, found girls were preferred by Hispanic women and by Catholic women married to Catholic men. She also discovered that black women had a stronger preference

Other than those variations. Mrs. Coombs said, boys were preferred by most women regardless of their economc group, education, religion or location. Mrs. Coombs said 52 percent of the women under 30 preferred boys and 58 percent of those under 20 wanted male

"Sex preferences for boys are often explained by their value as adults - to carry on the family name or for support in old age ... and preferences for girls by their value in childhood - companionship and help around the house," Mrs. Coombs wrote

While noting the preference for sons has had no effect on the male-female ratio of the nation, Mrs. Coombs added:

With the possibility of control of sex of offspring on the horizon, a measure which reveals underlying sex preferences becomes increasingly important."

Her findings, she said, were the first nationwide results of an examination of sex preferences for children that take into account underlying preferences as well as stated preferences.

For instance, a woman expresses a stated preference for boys if she says she would like three sons if she had three

If she says she would like two boys and a girl, she is asked for a second choice of sexual distribution. If she then says three sons, she has an underlying preference

Mrs. Coombs said she was not surprised to find the preference for boys among American women because she had found a similar, although stronger, bias among women in other countries.

In Hungary 60 percent of the women preferred boys, in Korea 95 percent and in Taiwan 98 percent.

Mrs. Coombs interviewed the American women as part of a 1973 study of family growth patterns by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Her study will be published in Family Planning Perspectives, the journal of the Planned Parenthood Federation of

Six Members Of Family Die In Crash

BECKLEY, W.Va. (AP) - Six members of an Illinois family flying here for Thanksgiving were killed when their twin-engine airplane crashed in fog on the grounds of the federal Mine Health and Safety Academy, authorities said. The Chevenne aircraft went down about half a mile south of the Raleigh County Airport Thursday, ripped through a chain link fence at a tennis court, slammed into a concrete practice wall and exploded killing all aboard, state pol-

Killed were Grover Brady, 42, the pilters, Diane Brady, 15, and Debbie Donaldson, 20; Mrs. Donaldson's husband. Eddie, and their 4-month-old daughter, Jennifer Lynn. All were from DuPage County, Ill., and the flight originated

The family was en route to Beckley for a Thanksgiving gathering, state police said. They reported Brady had 25 years of flying experience.

Trooper R.G. Wilfong of the Beckley detachment of the state police, said another couple, Tony and Francince Companio of Streamwood, Ill., were supposed to have been on the flight, but were late arriving at the airport.

Abe Muscari, manager of the Raleigh County Airport, said Brady apparently was trying to land at the airport, but never radioed the control tower.

'He made an approach," Muscari said. "However, it did not make contact with our airport.' "The only thing left was the tail," said

Beth Sherman, a reporter for Beckley radio station WVPB, one of the first on the scene. "The fog was super thick."

There was no damage to the main building of the mining academy, which has an enrollment of between 200 and 300, and no one on the ground was hurt. No students were at the academy because of the holiday.

Bridge Players Win Tourney

ATLANTA (AP) - Thomas K. Sanders of Nashville, Tenn., and Lou Bluhm of Atlanta piled up a huge score in the final session to win the Blue Ribbon Pair championship at the American Contract Bridge League's 1977 fall North Ameri-

Sanders and Bluhm won 587 of a possible 870 points in the final session Thursday night, equivalent to batting .674 in baseball, and finished with 1,125. Both are members of the team that won the 1977 Spingold Trophy earlier this year at Chicago. Their last-session spurt carried them from ninth place to first.

Mike and Kathie Cappelletti of Alexandria, Va., leaders as the final session opened, held on with a strong game, but couldn't withstand the Sanders-Bluhm surge and finished second with 1,058. Bruce Ohmann of Ormond Beach, Fla., and Larry Griffey of Jacksonville, Fla. were third at 1,007; Michael Moss, New York City, and Marvin Rosenblatt, Hartford, Conn., fourth at 1,001; Joan and Vincent Remey of Southfield, Mich., fifth

The Blue Ribbon Pair championship is the most prestigious pair contest in bridge, and entry is limited to players winning specified places in regionally or nationally ranked tournaments. The 1977 contest drew 268 pairs, cut to 60 pairs by two qualification rounds. In the Eastern States Mixed Pair championships Thursday, Helen Smith of Philadelphia and Larry Kozlove of Louisville, Ky., won Flight A with 399 match points of a possible 624. Joe Currie of Halifax, Nova Scotia, and Nancy Hatfield, Campbell, Calif., were second at 389. Flight B honors went to Jerry Jackson of Palos Hills, Ill., and Lorraine Seward of Jacksonville, Fla., at 413, with Julie Gerken of Chicago and Steve Tucker of Glencoe, Ill., second at 392. Sixty teams of four to six players filed entries for the 1977 Reisinger Trophy race opening today.

Energy Experts Discuss Terms

ENID, Okla. (AP) - Okay, so there's an energy crisis. Why can't we understand each other when we talk about it? That was the plaint of Indiana and Pen-nyslvania officials at an opening session of the U.S. Oil and Gas Reserves and Resources Symposium here this week. "Gentlemen, you are the experts, " said Raymond H. Holst, of Harrisburg, Pa., representing the Pennysvlavania Energy Office. "Can you not get together?" He referred to charts on fossil fuel reserves that used different terminology and led to different conclusions. The

"You will find differing conclusions on reserves from three competent groups without institutional bias that reach widely differing conclusions on the same producing reservoir," Mankin said.

But Holst persisted: "Is it so difficult for your group, industry and government experts - apparently you all intermingle - to sit down and come up with a single formula you all can use?

He said he then told Ford of the Soviet violations and the president offered to correct his statement. But he said no correction ever was issued because "such a public confirmation of disarray within the administration would not have helped up in dealing with the Russians."

Through a spokesman, Ford declined comment on Laird's assertions.

Once upon a time - last week, in fact a nine-year-old girl from La Jolla, Calif., came to Washington to visit her physician-father who is here doing whatever medical consultants do. She wanted to see the White House.

Her father has a neighbor, reporter Marlene Cimons of the Washington bureau of the Los Angeles Times. Miss Cimons suggested she could arrange to take the girl to watch President Carter plant a Georgia-raised red maple on the front lawn of the White House. Press Secretary Jody Powell's staff said it would be okay.

That's how Caitlin West, a fifth grader at La Jolla Elementary School, got into the guarded precincts.

Once inside, the California youngster was introduced by the reporter to Rosalynn Carter, who participated in the planting ceremony. When Mrs. Carter heard her first name, she asked if it was the same name as the widow of poet Dylan Thomas, a presidential favorite.

"Yes, that's who I was named after." said Caitlin.

Then, after Mrs. Carter discovered the young visitor was about the same age as her own daughter Amy, she inquired:

'How would you like to come to the White House and play with Amy? She doesn't have anyone to play with tonight. Do you have a long dress? We're having a big reception for the 10th anniversary of the American Film Institute." 'Oh, my God," exclaimed Caitlin, "I think I'm going to have a fit!" Properly outfitted, the youngster re-

Recent weeks have seen the announcement of the Suburban Caucus and only Friday Rep. Mark W. Hannaford, D-Calif., told a Tucson, Ariz., audience he intends to rally western and southern members to a new Sunbelt Coalition.

It would be intended to be at least in part a counterweight to the Northeast-Midwest Coalition organized somewhat earlier by representatives from states whose economy is based on older indus-

The general idea of the specialized caucuses is to exchange information and plan strategy on legislative matters of common interest. They vary substantially in tightness of organization, degree of activity and resources, normally provided by members paying dues and assigning

Most are bipartisan. A typical arrangement is that of the young Suburban Caucus, which has as co-chairmen Reps. John W. Wydler, R-N.Y., and Ronald M.

Black members of the House led the way by setting up their caucus in 1971. It continues to be one of the most active, not confining itself to legislation, but acting as a spokesman for the black community to the president and others.

But the newer caucuses are not reticent. Wydler, for example, told his Long Island constituents the Suburban Caucus has among its goals a better break for the suburban areas in sharing federal contracts, allocating grants, public works financing and mass transit funds.

'Middle-class suburbanites continue to bear the brunt of financing federal programs, while the suburbs in which they live continue to be short-changed in receiving the benefits of these programs he said. "Those who live in the suburbs have long needed a voice in Washington. Now, they have one. The Congresswomen's Caucus announced a promise from Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. that the Health, Education and Welfare Department will conduct a through study of Social Security to identify any remaining discriminations against women that could be corrected

And Hannaford, contending that some of the measures used in allocating federal funds "have been manipulated to the ad-vantage of the frostbelt by the frostbelt" said his embryo coalition will be getting into such issues as the future of the high-way trust fund, sharing of veterans' educational benefits and adequate housing for the senior citizens who gravitate to went to the family dining room upstairs, where they joined the president and Mrs. Carter for a dinner of filet mignon, succotash, string beans and "some sort of ice cream with pieces of peanut brittle in it." Caitlin reported that Carter took off his tuxedo jacket at the dinner table to reveal he was wearing red, white and blue

"I called him 'Mr. President' a couple of times," she wrote. "After a while, he told me, 'You don't have to be so formal.' I said, 'Okay, Jimmy,' and we both

After savoring the mixed blessings of home-cooked turkey, family reunions, holiday traffic and indigestion, the nation awoke today to a monthlong shopping season, with stores full of gifts, and elbowing crowds full of Christmas cheer and grim determina-

A group of Indians, looking back at history, said Thanksgiving was a day for mourning, not gratefulness:

And on Thursday, black comedian Dick Gregory ended Thanksgiving in jail after protesting South African racial policies outside the White House and the South African embassy.

Meanwhile, farmers upset about prices readied a parade on President Carter's hometown, Plains, Ga.

But Carter himself spent a peaceful day at the presidential retreat at Camp David, Md., eating cornbreadstuffed turkey, giblet gravy, candied sweet potatoes, green beans, waldorf salad, rolls and butter, cranberries and pumpkin pie with whipped cream

Vice President Walter F. Mondale, staving in Washington, said he let his wife sleep while he fixed his family's turkey himself, giving his Navy stewards the day off.

In his Thanksgiving proclamation, Carter recalled the first such national message in 1777, and said Americans "can look to the future with hope and confidence" because "we have tamed a continent, established institutions dedicated to protecting our liberties. and secured a place of leadership among nations. But we have never lost sight of the principles upon which our nation was founded."

Fanciful Thanksgiving parades by arch-rival department stores were held in New York, by Macy's, and in Philadelphia, by Gimbels.

The star of the Macy's parade was a five-story-tall Snoopy balloon outfitted with a space suit and life pack

Gimbels' Santa ended the parade in his store's toy department.

The accidental shooting of a policeman marred the Thanksgiving parade in New York. Officer Roland Geddes, 31, was reported in fair condition. He was wounded by a bullet fired from the gun of officer Michael Ligouri as they sat in a bus transporting them to Macy's Department Store for crowd control duty.

Meanwhile, in Plymouth, Mass. some 20 Indians held a vigil. Russell Peters, president of the Mashpee Wampanoag Indian Tribal Council. which is feuding with Mashpee, Mass., over land rights, said: "For Indians. Thanksgiving is now a day of fasting and mourning."

With his wife Lillian and Massachu setts state Sen. William Owens, Gregory was arrested and accused of demonstrating within 500 feet of the South African embassy. The three refused release without bail and said they would wait in jail until arraignment today

Outside Plains, Ga, thousands of farmers on tractors and escorted by crop-dusting airplanes prepared a rally today to voice their demand that Congress set a floor price on agricultural products to ensure they will get back production costs and a small profit. Otherwise, farmers say they will go on strike starting Dec. 14.

For many Americans, Thanksgiving also meant the hazards of travel. By early today, more than 140 people had died on the highways. A twin-engine private airplane crashed in Beckley, W. Va., killing six people from an Illinois family who were apparently on their way to a Thanksgiving gathering.

And 800 Amtrak passengers were delayed up to seven hours between Seattle and Los Angeles because a freight train had derailed near Dunsmuir, Calif., and the passengers had to be bused around the site.

Nader Pro-Consumer Solons rganization Reports Ratings Of

WASHINGTON (AP) - Democrats Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts, Dick Clark of Iowa, Gary Hart of Colorado and Paul Sarbanes of Maryland won high marks among senators in a 1977 congressional report card by a Ralph Nader-affiliated organization.

Public Citizen also gave Democratic Reps. Andrew Maguire of New Jersey and Elizabeth Holtzman of New-York the best grades in the House of Representatives for this year's session.

The organization's listings gave Rep. George Mahon of Lubbock an 18 percent rating

Public Citizen, which identifies itself as a pro-consumer organization, issued its ratings on the results of 40 roll call votes in both the House and Senate. Issues surveyed included consumer protection. government revisions, oil and gas policy, atomic power, tax revision, ecology and government subsidies.

Congressional ratings have been compiled for more than three decades by a few organizations. But in recent years they have become an important lobbying weapon for an increasing number of groups

An estimated 30 organizations representing widely varying viewpoints now issue periodic voting ratings by counting the number of "right" or "wrong" votes - those for or against the group's own

Nader said in a statement that Public Citizen's voting index "is a service to citizens so they can make up their own minds and hold their own members of Congress accountable. It does in part what members themselves should be doing - releasing their complete voting records to constituents.' The Public Citizen Index gave four Republicans - John Tower of Texas, Carl Curtis of Nebraska and Clifford Hansen and Malcolm Wallop of Wyoming - the lowest ratings among senators. The four voted with the Public Citizen position only two of 40 times or 5 percent of the time.

Kennedy, Clark, Hart and Sarbanes were in agreement with the organization on 36 of 40 votes for a rating of 90 per-

Miss Holtzman and Maguire agreed with the Public Citizen view on 39 of 40 votes for ratings of 95 percent.

The House member voting against Public Citizen views most often was Rep. Joe Waggoner, D-La., 39 of 40 roll calls.

The organization said Democrats averaged 57 percent ratings in both the House and Senate, more than double the Republican averages of 27 percent in the House and 26 percent in the Senate.

A rating of 90 percent means the member voted with the group's own views on 36 of the 40 votes. Here are ratings for House members:

Bread Nearing Record Price

WASHINGTON (AP) - The retail price of bread has edged up this year and may average close to the record of 36 cents a loaf set in 1975 when farmers were getting more than twice as much for the wheat used to make it.

According to Agriculture Department figures, the average price of a one-pound loaf of white bread through the first nine months of this year was about 35.5 cents. Experts say that some further increases can be expected.

The latest figures show that a loaf of bread sold in stores nationally in September at an average price of 35.7 cents, up from 35.3 cents last January. For all of 1976, the average bread price was 35.3 cents a loaf:

On the heels of soaring wheat prices and other costs, bread rose to a record average of 36 cents a loaf in 1975 from about 34.5 cents in 1974.

But wheat prices at the farm have since tumbled sharply. They rose to a record average at the farm of $5.52 a bushel in early 1974, when large exports drained U.S. wheat reserves to a 25-year low. Since then, however, huge harvests have rebuilt the stockpile to its highest level

Last month, the department reported that on Oct. 15 the farm price of wheat was $2.26 a bushel.

The most recent analysis on where the consumer bread dollar goes is for Sepember, when a one-pound loaf averaged sumers make up the remainder of the retail bread price. Using the September figures against annual bread prices and the farmer's share of what consumers pay for a loaf, it the value of all farm products was more than 7.9 cents a loaf.

-The record average retail price of 36 cents a loaf included 4.5 cents worth of wheat, valued at the farm. Counting other farm ingredients, the share was 6.8

Thus, using those figures against the September breakdown, the farm value of wheat has declined 2.9 cents in each loaf more than 50 percent - since 1974. Meanwhile, the September retail price of bread was up 1.2 cents. The farm price of wheat has edged slightly higher in recent months from its four-year low last summer, when the dropped to 2.2 cents.

A current report on the wheat situation says "the recent rise in wheat prices could lead to some increases in bread prices or result in a narrowing of the farm-retail spread" or middleman

"In any event," the report says, "the impact will be less than a half-cent a loaf. Thus, bread prices should exhibit only a slight change over the next several months."

But while the commission ruled out conspiracy, it concluded that "militant organizations" and "individual agitators sought to encourage violence and helped to create an atmosphere that contributed to the outbreak of disorder."

The riot stemmed from a police raid on an illegal after-hours drinking establishment in the heart of a depressed area of the city.

One informant reportedly told the FBI that only a few smashed windows result-

GROWING OLDER

Consumer Agency Support Urged

By LOU COTTIN

Whose side are you on?

There's a bill before Congress to set up a consumer protection agency. Our AARP (American Association of Retired Persons) and our NCSC (National Council of Senior Citizens) want us to write our congressmen and our senators, demanding that they vote "yes" on the consumer protection agency bill.

That's natural. The vast majority of us senior agers are what may be called "total" consumers. We spend every dollar we get buying consumer commodities and services.

Wait. We oldsters are respectful citizens. We should present the list of supporters of this consumer bill with respect. It's our country's president who heads the list, as follows:

President Carter, Ralph Nader, Consumer Federation of America, Common Cause, Friends of the Earth, AFL-ClO, Sierra Club, American Association of Retired Persons, National Council of Senior Citizens. (We could list more "people" organizations, but space is limited.)

Now look at the opponents of the consumer protection agency bill. For instance:

Exxon, The Business Round Table, General Motors, Proctor and Gamble, Gulf Oil, National Association of Manufacturers, U.S. Chamber of Commerce (We could add more big business names to this list too. But again space is limited.)

Now, I repeat the question. Whose side are you on? Sen. Abraham Ribicoff (D-Conn.) compares the issue to a "David and Goliath" battle. As chairman of the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee, he knows the public interest (consumers, that is) is not properly represented before federal regulatory agencies.

Sen. Charles Percy (R-III.), in an impassioned speech in the Senate (April 6, 1977), put it that "all consumers suffer the indignities of second class citizens." He noted particularly that we, the elderly and those on fixed incomes, are hit hardest when there's no consumer protection. Notice something? This is no Democrat vs. Republican hassle. It's a straight case of the "People" vs. "Big Business."

My own congressman has in the past voted for consumer legislation. This time he's for big business. He stands behind Leon Jaworski, who warns in the press and on the radio that a consumer protection agency would create a "consumer czar" to represent us. That is untrue.

Jaworski is on retainer as an advocate for the Business Round Table. His memorandum to the media fails to point out that the bill gives the consumer protection agency neither political nor regulatory power. All it can do is to advocate before the regulatory agencies. Occasionally it can require agencies to defend the soundness of their rulings in court. This is czarism?

The representative from my neighboring district also is opposed to the bill in its present form. He objects to the fact that "labor" and "agriculture" would not be covered under this consumer legislation.

I can't see the connection of the bill with labor controls. But I agree that agribusiness, dairy products and fresh fruits and vegetables should be controlled. This is, therefore, not a perfect bill.

We consumers will settle for strong control of canned and packaged foods. From our standpoint, exclusion of agricultural control is no reason to vote against all consumer protection.

This bill will give us consumers representation.

Every day hundreds of federal agency decisions are made in regulatory proceedings which affect us consumers. Yet the Federal Trade Commission reports that industry representatives outnumber consumer representatives by 100 to one at these proceedings.

It's important for us senior citizens to note that both the House and the Senate Committees on Aging are strongly for the establishment of a consumer protection agency. Rep. Tom Downey (D-W. Islip) speaks for us seniors directly. He says, "As I've seen in my work on the House Select Committee on Aging, senior citizens are often the first to be hurt by unscrupulous business."

If Downey needs a list of such business, he can get one. It will start with nursing homes, run through to hearing aid ripoffs, pharmaceuticals, utility bills and cans of food with more water than substance. It will include almost everything we seniors buy.

Now if I've made my case for a consumer protection agency, we seniors must get to work. This is the first consumer bill that has presidential support. In fact, President Carter appointed Esther Peterson (a board member of the National Consumer League) as his special assistant for consumer affairs with a bill like this in mind.

Pessimism Revealed In Survey

NEW YORK (UPI) — Somber strains of pessimism and anger mark the latest Harris survey which indicates a plurality of Americans feel the quality of life has deteriorated in the last decade. But unlike the turbulent 1960s, the young are not among the disaffected.

The survey, involving 1,533 adults, indicated the continuing phenomenon of inflation in harness with high unemployment is the major source of gloom, but manufacturers also drew fire as "generally not really caring about the customer."

"As consumers, the people feel by a wide margin of 3 to 1 that they are consistently being shortchanged on product quality and product safety, by shoddy repairs, by warranties and guarantees that are not what they are supposed to be," the survey report noted.

"This country is in the throes of a deepseated consumer revolt, which is likely to grow and have a greater impact in the years ahead."

The survey revealed a plurality of 43-34 percent who felt the quality of life has deteriorated since 1964, and most of those — 49-30 percent — were over 50. Young people were the most optimistic, splitting 37-37 percent on the question.

The survey concluded that younger, more affluent and better educated people are optimistic.

Elderly Poor Hard Hit By Cold

DETROIT (UPI) — A University of Michigan researcher predicts millions of the nation's elderly will shiver this winter, and some may face the grim choice of keeping warm or eating.

Based on a study of this city's elderly poor last winter, Dr. Leon Pastalan said this week about one-fifth of America's senior citizens will have troub!e keeping warm this winter.

Pastalan, head of the university's Institute of Gerontology, said a smaller number would have "really severe problems with money and heat," and some would be forced to choose between eating and paying utility bills.

"I would guess that maybe 1 or 2 percent actually make the choice between eating and keeping warm," Pastalan said in a telephone interview from Ann Arbor. "That's just a stab in the dark. It may be a lot higher."

The researcher's comments came as hundreds of chanting elderly people rallied at the state capitol in Lansing, waving signs reading "Freeze rates, not people" and demanding a break from high utility bills.

University researchers interviewed

more than 300 people during the study,

Pastalan said, and about 20 percent reported having trouble with heating.
"This means all kinds of things," he said, "like the furnace wouldn't keep the place warm, or it was an old house and not well insulated. It also included such problems as the cost of heat."

Of those surveyed, about 7 percent had "a really hard time financially," Pastalan said. "They had to make a choice between the heat and something else," he

DETROIT (UPI) - A University of said. "The choice was a very difficult

Pastalan said the study probably painted a "fairly typical" picture of the plight of old people living outside the nation's so-called "sunbelt" states.

There are more than 22 million Ameri-

t cans over age 65, Pastalan said, and arrestimated 40 percent have incomes below the poverty level.

Tme elderly, who "tend to be rather easy to bully," are particularly hard hit by the cold, the professor said.

Aspirin Safe To Use

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'd appreciate knowing about the habitual use of aspirin — its possible side effects and benefits or health hazards. I take two Excedrin tablets twice a day for dull headaches, caused for the most part by sinus trouble and muscle tension. I've taken aspirin on a daily basis like this for five years now, and I suspect I'm psychologically addicted to this pattern.

I also get a lift from the caffeine in the tablets. I don't drink coffee or tea. I would be interested in the effects of the daily use of caffeine.

Could I be physically addicted to the Excedrin tablets because the aspirin consumption has become such a long term affair? Should I be alarmed by my habit? I am in good health otherwise, and am 30 years old.

I am sure I ask these questions on behalf of many other people as I have friends who admit to similar daily patterns of aspirin consumption to relieve tensions and stress. As you know, arthritis patients use large quantities of aspirin on a long term basis too.

DEAR READER - While you may have established a habit pattern you are not addicted to Excedrin or aspirin or caffeine. You may have developed a psychological dependence on taking medicine, but I wouldn't call it an addiction, psychologically or physically.

Aspirin is an amazingly safe medicine, considering all the different uses of it. I would doubt that you will have any problems with aspirin in as much as you have taken it for five years without trouble. Some people do not tolerate it, but most people do.

You should take the aspirin with meals to protect your stomach from having small granules of it settle against your stomach and possibly irritate it. Otherwise, you should take the aspirin with some milk or something to dilute it in the stomach.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 8-8, Aspirin and Related Medicines. It will give you far more details about these medicines. Others who want his issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, P.O Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. As the issue points out, Excedrin contains 195 mg of aspirin and 65 mg of caffeine.

The caffeine in one tablet is about two-thirds as much as you would get in an average cup of brewed coffee. So you are getting the equivalent of about three cups of coffee a day in terms of caffeine. And that amount may be enough to keep your motor running, but you won't be addicted to it. If you had any indigestion, I would recommend you not take Excedrin or aspirin, because of both their aspirin content and the caffeine.

I do want to caution all readers that they should not use a single aspirin or any of the numerous medicines containing aspirin — many are listed in The Health Letter — for at least a week before any surgery. It may cause problems in controlling bleeding. For the same reason, a pregnant woman should not take aspirin or any such preparations for at least a week before delivery, and I am not so sure it is a good idea during pregnancy anyway.

The anti-clotting action of aspirin may prove useful in helping to prevent heart attacks and strokes. A national study is under way to find out.

Assertiveness Could Benefit Aid Recipients

AN DIEGO (UPI) — Welfare recipients should be trained to be more assertive in demanding benefits, four university sociologists told a meeting of social workers this week.

They should receive assertiveness training in workshops using coaching, re-hearsals, model presentation and homework, the four said in a paper presented at the annual meeting of the National Association of Social Workers.

For example, they said, those going to public health clinics are likely to get better treatment after learning to be assertive with doctors and nurses,

They also cautioned that welfare recipients should be warned of the risks involved in assertive conduct because they "may be particularly vulnerable to retaliation for asserting their rights."

The paper was presented by Eileen Gambrill of the University of California School of Social Welfare and three women from the North Carolina School of Social Work, Madda J. Galinsky, Janice Schopler and Ellen Safier.

Small Percentage Of Catholic Priests Alcoholic, Study Reveals

WASHINGTON (AP) - About 5 percent of the country's 58,300 Roman Catholic priests are alcoholics, according to the church's first broad statistical survey on the subject.

The alcoholic rate is about half that of the estimate commonly used in the past by the church. The new study cited a previous 10 percent rate among priests, but did not give details about who made those estimates.

The findings, gathered in a study by the Rev. Joseph Fichter of the Sociology Department of Loyola University in New Orleans, were released in conjunction with a meeting of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops.

The study did not go into causes for alcoholism among priests, how the problem affects their work or how their parishoners feel about it.

The alcoholic rate among the general male population is not discussed, but the study cites findings that 21 percent of American males are heavy drinkers, compared with 16 percent of priests.

More priests, 39 percent, are total abstainers, compared with 23 percent of all American males, the study noted.

Based on responses to questionnaires from most of the church's dioceses and religious orders, the report noted that contrary to opinion, the proportion of alcoholism among priests is about the same in small communities as in metropolitan

The data, collected for a bishop's committee on priestly life and ministry to help shape programs to deal with the problem, show 2.8 percent of the priests both in dioceses and in religious orders

- have sought treatment for alcoholism. Another 2.2 percent of the diocesan priests and 1.9 percent of the religious order of priests have a "drinking problem and need treatment, but have not sought

NEW YORK - Seventeen evangelical church leaders have voiced "grave concern at any effort to carve out of the historic Jewish homeland another nation or political entity, particularly one which would be governed by terrorists whose stated goal is the destruction of the Jewish state.

While expressing sympathy for the "human needs of all peoples in the Middle East," the statement declared evangelical belief "in the promise of the land to the Jewish people - a promise first made to Abraham and repeated throughout the Scriptures, a promise which has never been abrogated."

Signers on the statement, appearing as a paid advertisement in some major newspapers, included Dr. Arnold T. Olson, past president of the National Association of Evangelicals, and 16 other noted evangelical churchmen. They expressed apprehension at recent trends in U.S. policy toward the Middle East.

NEWARK, N.J. - A federal court judge has ruled that the "science of creative intelligence" - a booster name for Transcendental Meditation - is religious in nature and that government-sponsored classes at several New Jersey schools are unconstitutional.

Judge Curtis H. Meanor of the U.S. District Court declared the program, which used a $40,000 grant from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, "violates the establishment of religion clause of the U.S. Constitution's First Amendment.

Plaintiffs had charged that TM contains substantial elements of Hinduism and should not be taught in public schools. It has been incorporated in school programs in several states.

MINNEAPOLIS -- The American Lutheran Church has suspended two Long Island, N.Y., congregations from the denomination on charges of "subordinating" the Christian Gospel to Jewish religious customs.

The suspended churches are St. John's Lutheran of Massapequa and Christ Lutheran of East Meadow. They have 60 days in which to appeal the suspension. The two churches have integrated Jewish practices in their services, pointing out that Jesus himself was a practicing Jew.

it, according to information from the church's dioceses and orders.

Combined, that makes about 5 percent - or 2,900 members - of the Catholic priesthood with alcoholic problems.

The study found that only one-tenth of the dioceses and religious orders think alcoholism is increasing among priests, while one-fourth think it is decreasing, and the rest feel the trend is about the same as before. But among recovering alcoholic ciergy, one-third believe the "Clergy have more difficulty than other people in admitting they are alcoholics and they put up greater resistance in going for treatment," said most of the recovering alcoholic priests in the study. Only one in five said they went voluntarily without pressure on them.

Among those who have spent time in treatment centers, 73 percent now are staying sober while 19 percent still are struggling with the problem and 8 percent are continuing to drink.

The bishops' priesthood committee, headed by Bishop Raymond J. Gallagher of Lafayette, Ind., is recommending that special health boards utilizing recovering alcoholic priests be set up in each diocese and order.

At present, the study found that in most cases, the bishop himself deals with problem drinkers. But the report says this is not the best system and that confidential boards can better handle the cases, using the knowledge and experience of recovered alcoholics.

As to whether priests should get treatment in facilities open to all alcoholics or in centers exclusively for priests, 64 percent of the responses prefer facilities for priests only, saying:

"It's easier to get a priest to go there. The therapists are familiar with clerical life and know the special circumstances and areas of stress in a priest's life. Alcoholic priests appreciate the privacy and anonymity, companionship and mutual

KIE

By RICHARD H. GROWALD DWARF, Ky. (UPI) — It is Sunday morning and in the Church of God, on the bluff above Troublesome Creek, Wilson Riley, 15, is making a prayer list.

"I suppose I love God the most. Then Mom and Dad. I put family next and then kin and friends like John Fugate over there across the aisle. And, well, maybe hand. "I got no time for funning now. I'm thinking about love," he said.

Two of his sisters, Oda Mae, 10, and Joan, 8, their hair as corn yellow as Wilson's, giggle and poke their brother.

"I'm thinking about Stubby. I'm thinking I'd put Stubby in that list, right after family and before kin.

Black and brown Stubby was Wilson Riley's dog, a chihuahua. "He done got killed, bit to death, by the big dogs. Stub-by was an inside dog, and the outside dogs got him. I loved ol' Stubby." Oda Mae, Joan and Wilson sit in the ninth of the 10 rows of polished pine pews in the one-story, red brick-faced church. "I never known not coming here. Mom and Dad always bring me. My big brother Kenneth, he don't come. He don't have to. He's 23 and he's married. I come because I always come."

Dwarf, population 50, is where, above the Great Smoky Mountains and Daniel Boone National Forest, three roads meet at a low place in the hills north of Hazard town. Like such nearby hamlets as Rowdy, Hardshell and Lost Creek, Dwarf is where mountain people come for groceries, mail, drink and prayer.

"Wonderful bunch of people here," said the Rev. Martin Fugate, 57, serving the final months of a four-year term as minister of the Pentecostal church. "They love the Lord. They'd just as soon give their last dollar to a church as to go buy a pork chop.

The Rev. Fugate is the only man in the church wearing a necktie. The other 17 men have unbuttoned collars. None but the minister wears a jacket. The women and children, outnumbering the men four to one, wear ironed, pressed, brushed, sometimes red and yellow, but mostly dark Sunday best. John Pugh, in a yellow shirt, sits his family in a pew and carries his guitar to the raised front platform where some churches would have an al-

Her brother shoves her right shoulder with a fist. The Rev. Fugate, up front, asks all to turn to page 134 of the hymn book. Mrs. Jean Ritchie begins playing the upright piano the members bought after facing the 50-year-old wooden church at the minister's urging two years ago. "Now when you drive up into Dwarf, you see a brick church. We even put up the steeple," he said.

John Pugh plays, sitting on the bench against the front wall, under the two by three-foot colored reproduction of a painting of the head of Jesus Christ. The Rev. Fugate pulls a guitar from behind the pulpit-lectern and strums and sings along.

The Fugate baritone carries through the church, 10 pews deep and 12 seats wide. A listener can single out the higher tones of Deborah (Dee Dee) Hurt, 8. In eyeglasses and pigtails, she sings louder.

The Rev. Fugate gaze at the pews. His wife looks up and nods. Board To Ask Aid For Dallas Baptist College

DALLAS (AP) - The Executive Board of the Baptist General Convention of Texas will be asked next month to adopt a $2.9 million package to rescue Dallas Baptist College from its financial and accreditation problems.

The Board's executive committee vot-

The school was placed on public probation last year by the Southern Association of College and Schools, which contended that too much of the school's revenue was going to debt retirement. DBC president William E. Thorn said

Biblical Tradition Links Arabs, Jews As Cousins

NEW YORK (AP) - Legend says they're ancestral cousins, those two edgy rivals who had been breathing fury and distrust at each other until they sat down at a table together, the Arabs and the They're both Semitic peoples and according to Scriptural accounts accepted by both Moslems and Jews, they're blood cousins. It might seem odd that they've been such bitter foes. "But families are always having arguments," says Biblical historian Shaye Cohen of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America. "Family arguments always are the most ferocious.

There were hints of that sort of thing, both the entrenched antagonism and also the latent, somewhat surprised consanguinity, when Egypt's President Anwar Sadat and Israel's Prime Minister Menahem Begin met together.

"We liked each other," Begin put it, incredulous but pleased: "May peace be with us all, God willing," said Sadat. Both referred to their shared roots, Sadat to the Biblical patriarch Abraham,

New Book Examines 'Moonies'

By DAVID E. ANDERSON United Press International Writer

No recent religious phenomenon has stirred up as much controversy as Sun Myung Moon, the Korean evangelist, and his Unification Church.

Newspapers, magazines, television and the religious media all have aired charges and counter-charges regarding the man and the movement and even a report prepared in the National Council of Churches has concluded that despite Moon's claims, the Unification Church is not Christian.

But up until now there has been little reporting of the movement from the inside by anyone with "objective" credentials

However, United Church of Christ theologian and philospher Frederick Sontag, the Robert Dennison Professor of Philosophy at Pomona College, has sought to do just that in a new book, "Sun Myung Moon and the Unification Church" (Abingdon Press).

Those looking for a simple "yes" or "no" on Moon and his followers will not find it in Sontag's book.

"I hope people find it disturbing," he said in an interview. "That doesn't bother me at all."

The book is not an expose of the movement, but rather an effort at reporting from inside, with particular attention to its origins, development, growth and doc-

"I didn't have anything in mind when I started looking at the church," Sontag said, "but I felt that something on the theological and religious side was need-

"What the kids (who are members) testify to, you have to take seriously," he

His general conclusion was that the followers of the church had a great spirituality and spoke of intense experiences of the reality of God.

"They pray quite a bit," he said. "There is a strong sense of the reality of God, of the suffering God."

Sontag said such a notion as the suffer-ing God was "non-traditional" but said other theologians, including himself, have been increasingly working with it.

He said that in narrow sense the church was a Christian "heresy" but added that should cause other churches not to act to 'stamp out" the Moonies but rather to "regroup and try to respond" to the ideas of Moon that attract converts and "expose a lot of our weaknesses."

Sontag said the church could be compared in its development to that of the Mormons, and he predicted that it was here to stay and that as the members grow older, begin families and move to other forms of fund-raising than the controversial street solicitations, it will lose some of its dynamism and begin to look more like other denominations.

"The church in Korea is quite sedate now," he said. "It looks like any other mission church where people put on their best clothes for Sunday and have a coffee hour. It is the least vigorous now, and it's no longer on the cutting edge."

In addition, Moon, 57, is beginning to withdraw from the U.S. church, and it is uncertain what will happen to the church after his departure.

Sontag said when asked members about that he was told, "You're just asking the same question we're all asking." 'I don't see anyone on the horizon who can match Moon," he said.

The church also has realized that it "made a mistake" in setting up a confrontation situation between members and parents, Sontag said. "They are now spending a lot of time and money in efforts to deal with parents."

Sontag said he did not want to be considered an apologist for the church but that he thought it was important to look closely at the church's theology.

"They raise some incredibly interesting issues," he said.

gin to the "racial kinship and ancient bonds" between Arab and Jewish people. Their family ties go back to the sons of Abraham: Ishmael, born of Hagar, Egyptian maid of Abraham's wife Sarah, who had urged the affair so her aging husbad could get a son, and Isaac, born later to the aging Sarah, amazed to laughter that she finally could bear a child herself.

Ishmael's offspring are considered the Arabs, as affirmed by the founder of Islam, Mohammed. Isaac bore the Jewish line. The fathers of the two lines were half-brothers, the uncles and the descendant cousins.

After Ishmael and Isaac became toddlers, Sarah on seeing them playing happily together, urged Abraham to throw out the servant woman and her son for he "shall not be heir with my son, Isaac."

This annoyed Abraham because Ishmael was a son, too, but with divine prompting did as Sarah wished, since Abraham's descendants would be named through Isaac, although Ishmael also would sire a nation.

A "great nation," says Genesis 21:18. The boy grew up in the wilderness, becoming an expert bowman. He took an Egyptian wife. His descendants would be so many "they cannot be numbered for multitude," was the Biblical promise of him in Genesis 16.

"He shall be a wild ass of a man, his hand against every man and every man's against all his kinsmen.'

Of Isaac, God told Abraham, "I will establish my covenant with him as an everlasting covenant for his descendants . And your descendants shall possess the gate of their enemies, and by your descendants shall all the nations of the earth bless themselves, because of the Jewish patriarch Jacob.

Isaac married Rebekah, the parents of the Jewish patriarch Jacob.

President Sadat, citing the ancestral ties between Jews, quoted from the Ko-hand against him; and he shall dwell over 13 Jewish tribes. And in the books given to Moses and Jesus and the prophets

"So we agree," Sadat said. "Shalom aleikum - peace be upon you."

Dorothy Day Called Only Living Saint In United States

By DAVID E. ANDERSON
United Press International Writer
Dorothy Day has been called America's only living saint but it is an accolade

"Don't dismiss me that easily," she once told an interviewer.

A devout Roman Catholic, a pacifist, an anarchist, an intellectual, she is best known as the founder and guiding spirit of what may be the nation's most successful anti-poverty program — the Catholic Worker Movement.

The movement is 45 years old now and as Miss Day turns 80 it has spread from its beginnings in New York's Bowery across the land to the point where there is probably no major city without a Catholic Worker hospitality house, soup kitchen or medical clinic for the most destitute of the poor.

In addition, there are 12 farms spread around the country and Miss Day and her followers, long before the back-to-the-land vogue, were firmly convinced of the value of agrarian communal living.

And it is all done without a penny of government help. Indeed, if any government funds do happen to stray to the movement they are promptly returned to the government. When two years ago the Internal Revenue Service attempted to collect back taxes from the Catholic Worker, Miss Day refused — as she has refused to vote, seek tax exemptions or cooperate with the government in most ways - and public opinion quickly rallied to her support. The IRS backed off.

The Catholic Worker is based on the simplest, literal but most radical interpretation of the New Testament: take all that you have and give it to the post for the Catholic Worker that has meant the poorest of the poor.

"It is a strange vocation to love the destitute and dissolute, those peop sleeping in doorways, foul with the fifth of the gutter, dying of drumkeness as malnutrition, fever and cold," she once told writer Colman McCarthy.

But it is a vocation she has consistently followed for the last 45 years aft "giving up" the fashionable intellectual circles of Greenwhich Village of the 1920s.

With co-worker Peter Maurin, another restless reformer with a vision of the Christian idea of the good society, she founded the Catholic Worker newspaper, hawked on the streets of New York for a penny a copy — the price at which it Certainly, the movement was the inspiration for the rise of the Roman Catholic anti-war movement — characterized by militant nonviolence and civil disobedience — in the 1960s.

America's first draft card burner, David Miller, was a Catholic Worker "fellow traveler," and the Revs. Philip and Daniel Berrigan were also strongly influenced by Miss Day and the movement.

Her career has seen her acclaimed as saint and denounced as a communist.

OBSERVING 53RD ANNIVERSARY — One of Lubbock's time-honored churches, Central Baptist Church at 1809 Avenue M, will be celebrating its 53rd anniversary next month. The church had a modest beginning in 1924 as "Lubbock Missionary Church." It has had several buildings. The present complex was started in 1950 with the sanctuary shown here. An educational building was added in 1959. Total value of the church complex is more than $1

Central Baptist Sets Anniversary

By TANNER LAINE Avalanche-Journal Staff

Next month, Central Baptist Church, located at 1809 Ave. M, will celebrate its 53rd year of organization.

The church began as a vision of two men. In the fall of 1924, two state missionaries, W.B. Wages and W.H. Breedling, came to Lubbock to establish a church. They conducted a house-to-house canvass, and located a place to meet.

That place to meet was in the home of Rev. W.N. Jackson at 15th Street and Avenue D. And so, December 21, 1924, "The Lubbock Missionary Baptist Church" (later to become Central Baptist Church) was organized. Ten charter members formed the church.

The first church home was located on two lots at 2205 Ave. Q. The property was deeded to the new church by Mrs. Eva Knight. A small frame building was erected by members. The first services were held in the building, Febr Feb. 22, 1925. A change in location brought a change to "South Side Missionary Baptist Church" from "Lubbock Missionary Baptist Church." The buildings and lots

Rev. W.B. Wages was called as the first pastor. The longest term of any of the early pastors was the ministry of Rev. Jeff D. Welch, from Aug. 23, 1931, to March, 1949. Pastor emeritus of the church today is Rev. Jack A. Welch, who was one of the earlier regular pastors.

Church members at the 2205 Ave. Q location felt the church was too far from the residential areas. So, in 1932, property was purchased at 1315 18th St. The original building was moved to that location. The change in location brought another new name "Central Baptist Church" from "South Side Missionary Baptist

Great growth set in and the church building was expanded three times and eventually the entire block between Avenue L and Avenue M was purchased. In 1950, a new sanctuary was built under leadership of Rev. Jack A. Welch at a cost of $105,000, plus furnishings. The indebtedness was paid off six years ahead of schedule, Jan. 1, 1958. Under the leadership of Pastor John W. Duggar, a new educational building was built in 1959 and continues in use today. The total church property now is valued at more than $1 million.

Under the pastoral leadership of Dr. E. Harold Henderson, Central Baptist Church entered a new phase of ministry—city missions. A Missions Committee was elected, July 11, 1962, to investigate possible sites for a mission congregation. Ground was broken on a site at Indiana Avenue and 66th Street, Feb. 27, 1966. The site had been purchased and paid for. Rev. C.D. Walker was called to serve as city missionary, April 6, 1966. The first service of the new congregation was held Aug. 28, 1966. Attendance that first day was 98 persons and the first offering was $323.56. The mission was organized into Melonie Park Baptist Another city mission project was launched by Central Baptist Church Jan. 28, 1973. The church voted to purchase 10.15 acres of land on 82nd Street between Quaker Avenue and Slide Road. Cost of the land was $60,900. This mission church became Southwest Baptist Church. Before it did, Rev. Burtis Williams became missionary pastor, March 1, 1974. A building was moved on site. First service was held Nov. 24, 1974, with 29 persons attending, bringing an offering

City Pastor Attends Workshop

FORT WORTH (Special) - A former religion writer for a Dallas newspaper told denominational communicators here that members are in local churches today because they want to be and not because it is necessary for political gain.

Helen Parmley, feature writer for The Dallas Morning News said, "People are in the pews because they believe God can use them in some small way in their own little niches to bring about change that will benefit mankind, spiritually as well as socially."

Mrs. Parmley was one of nine media resource persons addressing the Evangelism/Communication Workshop at the American Airlines Learning Center here recently.

Rev. M. Victor Sedinger, minister of Lubbock's Westmont Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), was among the registrants from eight states.

Citing the fact that religious news "has come into its own," Mrs. Parmley called for the church leaders to be open and straight-forward with the news media. "We have seen religious news go from the inside pages to the front pages, to the whole of the newspaper," she said. 'And, that's where I like it.'

Funded by a Lilly Endowment, Inc., grant to help local churches improve their media communication practices and evangelistic efforts, the interdenominational workshop was the fourth in a national series sponsored by 19 denominations and religious groups. Fifty-seven participants used case studies to develop radio and television techniques, news releases, advertising programs, direct mail promotion and evangelism methods. The case studies illustrated different

Thanks to detente, the Soviet Union's 'war' on organized religion will go underground to a great degree. Book Lists Facts On JFK Death

By DENNIS ESKOW

NEW YORK (AP) - The title "The Assassination Please Almanac" is not the most reverent one that could have been chosen for an expansive compendium of facts surrounding the killing of President John F. Kennedy in 1963.

Then again, the creator of this bizarre almanac has never claimed to be rever-

He's Tom Miller, child of the '60s, underground writer, sometimes satirist and one-time center of a First Amendment controversy. His book, he says, is for everyone - above-and-underground.

Miller's almanac lists pertinent and impertinent facts concerning Kennedy's death and the scores of conspiracy theories that have followed it.

"The conspiracy theories are part of American proletariat folk lore," Miller said in a telephone interview from his home in Tucson

The paperback, released last month by the Henry Regnery Co., Chicago, is 274 pages, mostly of chronological lists garnished with quotations from the famous and infamous and with editorial car-

Nothing, it seems, is spared the reader. In 1930, the list tells us, "Jack Ruby was jailed for two days, the result of an altercation." We learn the date the Lee Harvey Oswald started classes at a Lutheran school in the Bronx, N.Y., and even about the progress of Fidel Castro as his revolution gathered steam.

'I took tens of thousands of facts on little three-by-five cards and carefully screened them," said Miller, 30, who wound up with some 8,000 facts he considered worth listing.

Most of the facts thrown out were t that came from a single source and could not be corroborated by another.

"You can't believe how many unexplained death theories there are," said Miller. "Scores of people believe that scores of other people were rubbed out because of their connection with the assassination. But, forget it, you can only document a handful of questionable deaths.

One such death, he says, is the apparent suicide of George de Mohrenschildt in Palm Beach, Fla., last March 30, just hours after an investigator for the House Committee on Assassinations attempted to interview him. De Mohrenschildt had been a friend of Oswald and was identified by a congressional aide as a key witness in the assassination investigation.

Miller says the house panel will have to look into that death as well as Kennedy's Miller says his research for the book has reinforced his belief that there was a conspiracy in the Kennedy shooting, although "it's going to take some time to establish who the conspirators could have been - if it can ever be estab-

That won't happen, Miller says, unless the Assassinations Committee gets funded for about three or four more years.

Miller, a native of Washington, D.C., has lived in Tucson since 1969. He has worked for the granddaddy of underground satirical journals, The Realist. He has also written for Crawdaddy, Rolling Stone, dozens of underground journals and in recent years for Esquire and Har-

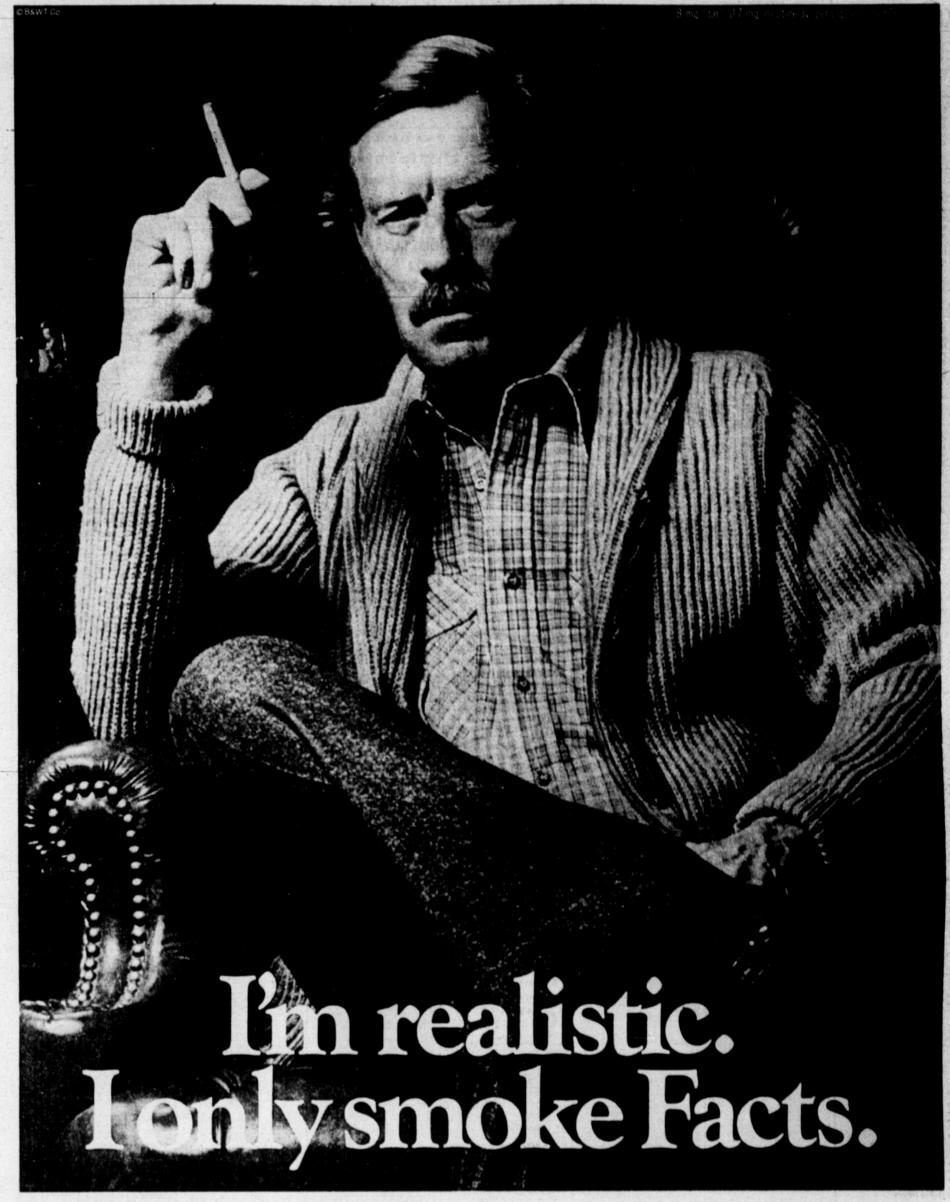

He expects to write another book soon, either about life on the Mexican-U.S. border or about mercenary soldiers.

If things are falling into place for him now, it's a far cry from the way they were in 1971, when a series of federal grand juries set up by the now-defunct Internal Security Division of the Justice Department was delving into the movements of student radicals and liberals.

Miller was subpoenaed to testify in Tucson in August 1971, but refused to talk to the ground jury about anything having to do with the undergound based on the fact that it was his reportorial beat. Miller moved to have the subpoena quashed on grounds that a reporter is protected under the First Amendment.

U.S. District Court Judge William Frey in Tucson supported Miller's contention that he was protected from testifying. The Justice Department appealed to the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals which ruled in Miller's favor in December 1972.

Of all of Thomas Alva Edison's inventions, the phonograph was the one that first brought him international fame.

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Highway speeders are increasing. So are highway

As memories fade of the long lines at service stations during the Arab oil embargo of 1973, Americans increasingly ignore the 55-mph speed limit which grew out of it, says a new Transportation Department report.

The report said higher speeds are eliminating the savings in lives and energy that accompanied the mandatory speed limit on the interstate highway system.

"Highway speeds - after dropping significantly in 1974 and remaining at 1974 levels in 1975 - are gradually increassaid Transportation Secretary Brock Adams in a letter accompanying the report sent to President Carter. "A significant portion of motorists violate the 55-mph speed limit," the report said. From 30 percent to 77 percent of vehicles in various states were exceeding the limit during the first six months of The average speed of freeflowing vehicles was 58 mph on rural interstate highways in 1976 compared with 57.6 in 1975, and 56 mph on urban interstates, compared with 54.7 for 1975, the report said. Wyoming and Connecticut shared the worst record, each with 77 percent of vehicles exceeding the limit, it said. Missouri had 74 percent, Maine 71 percent and Texas 70 percent. Virginia had the lowest rate, with only 30 percent of its vehicles exceeding 55.

CHICAGO (AP) - Airline Canteen Oct. 31, 1977, are understated through the Corp. concealed revenue at O'Hare International Airport from the city by depositing money in two different banks, according to an auditor's report.

The company was supposed to pay 12 percent of all its receipts as rent under an

WASHINGTON (UPI) - You can live without electricity, central heating, deliveries and many services in an emergency - but only if you use good judgment and are prepared in advance.

The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration says many of the hazards of winter storms may be avoided.

The leading causes of death in such storms are weather-related automobile accidents, heart attacks from shoveling snow, storm-induced home fires, carbon monoxide poisoning, accidents from falls and collapse of snow-laden buildings, the agency said.

To make life easier during a severe winter storm, it advised in a recent statement, "You should be ready to live without utilities and services."

"Assume there may be no electricity, no central heating, no deliveries or any way to get groceries, no way to get out of your house for a day or two - and plan accordingly," the agency suggests.

It says you should make sure your car, radio and flashlight batteries are fresh. Winterize the car. Stock extra food, including some that requires no cooking. Be alert for fire hazards from pro-

Senate For eign Relations Committee Showing Age

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The prestigious Senate Foreign Relations Committee will be 161 years old Dec. 10. The oldest committee of the Senate, it has begun showing signs of feebleness. Over the years, its prestige grew from the fact that it generated from within its ranks six presidents, nine vice presidents, 18 secretaries of state and countless ambassadors. It has approved and perfected much legislation, including such farreaching measures as the Marshall Plan after World War II. Part of its problem today appears to be the administration's foreign affairs legis-The State Department, which has worked intimately with a number of Sparkman's predecessors, has not leaned on the Alabaman since he succeeded J.

ferred to Foreign Relations. An Armed Services subcommittee under Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., moved in to rival the committee in reviewing a new U.S.-Soviet strategic arms treaty complicated bills on the Senate floor. But Humphrey, now terminally ill with cancer, is no longer able to provide the lead-

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, has tried repeatedly to step into the breach and assume some leadership duties. But according to aides, he has irritated Sparkman, who believes he is doing a good job as chairman and resents being upstaged by a junior colleague.

Church, according to another committee staffer, is biding his time awaiting Sparkman's departure

Meanwhile, Sen. Dick Clark, D-Iowa, is moving quietly to generate new drive. Clark has worked industriously from the fringes of power, showing a knack for making much out of small pickings.

When he first joined the committee, Clark was offered the African subcommittee, a panel which had been quiescent for years. Clark used it to probe the deepening Soviet involvement in Angola in

Now Clark has immersed himself in Soviet affairs. He gave a speech this fall calling for federal help for Russian studies. He would like to counter the impressive influence Jackson has built up in the details of strategic arms control.

Forgotten Stocks Given To School

NATCHEZ, Miss. (AP) - The urge to be philanthropic can come at odd mo-

It came for J. Balfour Miller, 85, while he was rearranging his stock portfolio in the wee hours of a sleepless night.

As a result of his nocturnal bookkeeping last week; Miller discovered 1,600 shares of a stock he didn't know he had. The next day Miller sold it and donated $50,000 of the profits to the Trinity Day School in Natchez.

Miller, who was hospitalized earlier this year with bleeding ulcers, said he thought he knew his holdings by heart until he came upon the unfamiliar

But for the moment, Jackson has the upper hand with Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, who pays close attention to Jackson's arms control subcommittee.

The Armed Services Committee has no formal jurisdiction over the strategic arms treaty, but Vance knows Jackson's incisive criticisms could doom any SALT 2 accord if they are not taken into account

A pivotal issue for the Foreign Relations Committee will be the Panama Canal treaties. Committee staffers do not feel the three weeks of hearings held in September and October educated the public, or that the State Department provided sufficient support.

Jones is planning more hearings in January, and possibly an informal committee trip to Panama. Such a visit would supplement the trip Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd led to Panama. The panel, looked on by some senators as being too liberal, does not now have the automatic influence which might lead the Senate to ratification of the treaties. Diplomatic strategists believe that unless it becomes clear that two thirds of the Senate will support the controversial pacts, it would be better to let the treaties expire in committee than die a slow death on the Senate calendar or go down in a negative Senate vote.

TEL AVIV. Israel (UPI) - Israel struck oil today along the Gulf of Suez coast in the occupied Egyptian Sinai desert, Energy Minister Yitzhak Modai

The well has produced 4,500 barrels of light, commercially valuable oil since it was struck at 4 a.m., Modai told a group of engineers

It marked the first time in Israel's 29year history that efforts to find oil have succeeded although Israel did take oil from Egypt's Italian-run Abu Rudeis oilfields from the time they were captured in the 1967 Middle East war until they were returned to Egypt in 1975.

Feed Processing Mill In Operation

Avalanche-Journal Farm Writer

An experimental feed processing mill, the first facility at Texas Tech's new multi-phased teaching and agriculture research center, is fully operational and Tech officials are expecting it to make big contributions to the livestock indus-

Located about eight miles east of New Deal, the $550,000 feedmill is at the heart of a 65-acre plot on which all of the College of Agricultural Sciences field laboratories will be built

About $3 million in construction on a feedlot, veterinary clinic, research building, and facilities for swine, horses, sheep and dairy animals already is underway

Dr. Max Lennon, associate dean of agriculture who directs the college's research programs, said this week that feedlot operations could begin as early as January or February. Feedmill operations began this summer.

Near the central building site in separate tracts, about 920 acres of farmland will be devoted to research on all crops grown across the Texas High Plains, according to Dr. Anson Bertrand, dean of agriculture

'This farm was selected because it is typical of the predominant type of land in the area," he explained. "It also has a lot of water under it and it can be fully irrigated for 40 years.

The laboratories and teaching facilities for the College of Agriculture were moved to New Deal when Texas Tech. and Lubbock County officials decided to build a county teaching hospital in conjunction with the university's School of Medicine on land previously designated for agricultural sciences Improving feed efficiency through more effective means of processing will be emphasized in feedmill operations, Lennon said. The mill will serve a dual purpose in instruction and experimenta-

Undergraduate courses in mill management and operation are being offered along with a master's program in formula feed production.

Current enrollment in the College of Agricultural Sciences stands at about 1 -500 undergraduates and another 200 students at the graduate level, according to land grant university in the United States that offers a Ph.D. in agriculture.

Greater feed efficiency is expected to be achieved through research diets with the most practical degree of accuracy in

Feed processing is of vital interest to the livestock industry, Lennon said. Processed feedstuffs are more efficiently utilized by animals in the conversion of feed to body weight gain, allowing more meat to be produced per unit of feed consumed.

In 1975, nearly 10,000 feed mills in the United States were registered with the Food and Drug Administration. Morethan 600 of the plants were in Texas. Lennon said the feed produced in U.S. mills was valued at about $13 billion

"The livestock feed industry is so vast that a change in feed efficiency of only 1 percent carries a price tage of approximately $130 million," he noted. However, the amount of improvement in feed efficiency derived from processing is highly variable, said the educator. It is affected by the type of feedstuff being processed, the processing method and the animal being fed.

For example, pelleting a corn-soybean meal ration for growing swine will improve feed efficiency 8 to 10 percent. If barley were used to replace corn, the improvement would be about 12 percent, Lennon pointed out.

He said the use of steam-flaked grain results in a consistent 10 percent improvement in efficiency of feed used by feedlot cattle, compared with dry rolled

Location of the mill will be one of the greatest benefits that may be derived by the industry, according to Lennon. 'This mill is right in the milddle of the U. S. livestock industry," he said. About 25 percent of the cattle fed for slaughter in the United States are marketed from feedyards within a 250-mile

And there is an ironic contradiction in WASHINGTON (UPI) - American farmers will ship more crops abroad next year than ever before but lower prices will cut export earnings, Agriculture Department officials predict.

With overseas demand for American grain up, experts at the department's recent annual Outlook Conference said overall farm exports in the 1977-78 fiscal year which began Oct. 1 probably will reach a record of about 110 million metric tons, up 8 million tons from 1976-77.

Most of the sales increase will come in shipments of wheat, analysts said. The predicted export total for the 1977-78 season includes nearly 84 million tons of wheat, feed grains and rice, up nearly 10 per cent from the previous season because of an expected jump in wheat

But experts added that average prices for American crops moving to foreign buyers in the new season pro be about 15 per cent below the 1976-77 level, primarily because of lower grain and soybean prices.

As a result, spokesmen said the overall dollar value of American farm exports in the new year may fall to about $22 billion, compared with $24 billion in the previous yeur.

Analysts added that American farm product imports in 1977-78 may reach about $13.5 billion, fractionally above the previous year. As a result, the nation's net return from farm trade - the excess of export sales over imports - is expected to drop to $8.5 billion, more than 20 percent below 1976-77, to the lowest level in five years.

Thomas Saylor, deputy chief of the department's Foreign Agricultural Service, said the outlook for grain sales could improve if Soviet purchases of American grain go beyond the currently-predicted level of 15 million tons for 1977-78.

Soviet officials recently estimated their 1977 grain harvest at 194 million metric tons, well below earlier American forecasts and 13 percent below last year's crop. This helped push estimates of Soviet orders for American grain to the current 15 million ton level, but analysts said there is still "much uncertainover the possibility that purchases could go even higher.

Adding to this uncertainty is the indication that other major grain exporters have already committed their exportable supplies, and that any new foreign demand would be supplied by the United States," a summary prepared for the conference said.

Experts noted that sales to Europe are expected to decline because that region had good crops this year. But they said a big question mark remains about the Peoples Republic of China China will import a record amount of grain in 1977-78, officials said

None of the Chinese purchases so far have been from American stocks and no potential sales are included in current government export forecasts. But if China needs any grain beyond what it has already ordered from other producers including Canuda and Australia, the additional supplies "may come from the United States," the summary added.

J. Dawson Ahalt, head of the department's world outlook and situation board, added in another report to the outlook meeting that the increased foreign sales are coming from record crops which have depressed prices for American farmers.

Even with the prospect of bigger foreign sales. Ahalt said, farm prices in the 1977 calendar year will average about 4 to 5 percent below last year and 1978 should be about the same

Ahalt said that despite the drop in Soviet production and crop prospects in Canada and Australia, larger food supplies are virtually assured for most parts of the world in the coming year.

But, Ahalt added, supplies will be

Nix says the annual average price of choice slaughter steers at Omaha could be $1 to $4 higher than this year's average of about $40.

REDUCED FEEDER CATTLE SUPPLIES and improved demand by cattle feeders are expected to result in higher feeder cattle prices, Nix says. Prices for choice yearling feeder steers, he says, could move to the middle to high $40s for an annual average. Lighter weight feeders, he adds, probably will sell at a premium over yearlings. Total commercial cattle slaughter is projected to be 5 to 8 percent below this year's level. With fed cattle accounting for a higher percentage of the slaughter mix, average weights are expected to be heavier. Thus next year's total beef production, Nix says, may be off only 2 to 5 per

The projected level of slaughter would result in another reduction in the cattle inventory during 1978. With the Jan. 1 cattle inventory due to be down again, next year's calf crop likely will be smaller than the 1977 crop. But in contrast to 1976 and 1977, total cattle and calf slaughter likely would not be larger than the expected calf crop. Nevertheless, Nix says, after allowing for death losses and net imports, another slight reduction is expected in the cat-

The cow herd could about stabilize during 1978 at around 50 million head, the

FEED SUPPLIES, PARTICULARLY FORAGE supplies, will continue to be an important variable in the 1978 cattle outlook, Nix points out.

This year's large grain crops will supply ample quantities of feed grains to support expanded cattle feeding. However, forage supplies, which could have a significant impact on further herd liquidation, are less certain, particularly through the winter months.

Feed costs during 1978 are expected to be below the average for the past few years. Nix says, but probably will be avove 1977 late summer and early fall prices. Larger supplies of grain and soybeans likely will mean more favorable eeding costs than in recent years, he says, and cattle feeding is expected to continue to expand. Placements of cattle on feed likely will show year-to-year increases this fall and through the first half of next year, Nix says. The inventory of cattle on feed, he adds, will continue to build, even though fed cattle marketings also are ex-

The buildup in the inventory of cattle on feed during late 1977 and the continuing increases in placements on feed point to larger supplies of fed cattle

FED MARKETINGS FOR THE YEAR could be up 4 to 6 percent, Nix says, with the largest increases coming during the last half of 1978. He expects fed cattle slaughter to account for more than 65 percent of the total commercial cattle slaughter.

Developments in the cattle and grain markets, however, will have an impact on cattle feeding. If corn prices were to rise sharply because of unexpected developments in the world market or prospects for a very poor 1978 crop, placements of cattle on feed and fed cattle marketings likely would fall below the projected level.

A substantial reduction is expected in the slaughter of steers and heifers directly off grass. Forage supplies and developments in the cattle market, however, will have a big impact on this segment of the slaughter.

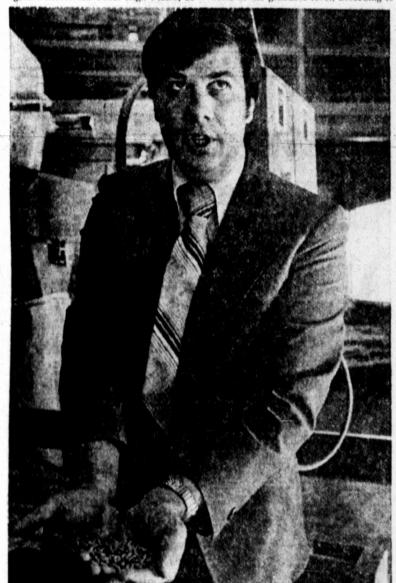

With good grazing conditions and some increase in cattle prices, nonfed steer and heifer slaughter could be reduced by one third or more, Nix says. A declining supply of feeder cattle and an increased demand for feedlot placements by cattle feeders are expected to support a large reduction in nonfed steer and heifer slaughter

THROUGH THE WINTER, YEAR-TO-YEAR reductions may not be very large but could become substantial next spring and continue so for the remain der of the year. Nix says.

With poor grazing conditions, particularly during the spring and summer, next year's nonfed steer and heifer slaughter could remain relatively high. Year-to-year reductions in cow slaughter could exceed 15 percent with good grazing conditions and rising feeder cattle prices, Nix says. This would compare with an 8 to 9 percent reduction for 1977 and probably would be sufficient to halt the downturn in cow numbers

Pest Management Draws Increasing Attention

ties believe the time is rapidly approach-ing when farmers will have to use a combination of control measures to keep insects from chewing, boring and otherwise destroying crops before they can be harvested and put into the consumer

The concept is called IPM, which stands for integrated pest management. It is not new, and some of its separate parts may be almost as old as agriculture itself, such as plucking greedy green worms from tomato plants by hand or flailing locusts with clubs

Today's concept of IPM, however, is much more sophisticated and generally

As with most facets of modern, high-stakes farming, selling decisions have bein that today's grain producer has far more marketing alternatives from which to choose. The traditional alternative of cash sale must be weighed against the arithmetic of storage and speculation. And that in turn against possible advan-chemicals have brought them under tough federal regulations. Muir told a Senate agriculture subcommittee recently that one reason for the council's interest in IPM is that "increased pest resistance is limiting the effectiveness of many pesticides" in many countries. Another, he said, is that "the vast majority" of pesticides are based chemically on petroleum and therefore subject to soaring costs and shrinking supplies. The potential of IPM is not lost on the chemical industry, which also was represented before the Senate panel. But William A. White, vice president of the National Agricultural Chemicals Association, said the industry prefers "to talk in terms of pest management" and that IPM "is a part of pest management."

White said, however, that the agricultural producer "is poorly served by specialists warring among themselves over methods, priorities and philosophies.'

White said farmers already have integrated pest control:

"He chooses crops, varieties of crops, and times and locations for plantings that favor efficient pest management. He applies cultural practices to pest management values.

"He is a conservationist and an environmentalist. He knows that his acts today will affect his own future; that his soil can be poisoned or eroded; his water exhausted or polluted."

Sorghum Head Smut Continuing Problem On Southwest's Farms

Sorghum head smut continues to be a problem in many southwestern sorghum producing areas.

"Head smut infections are not as severe this year, but they're still out there," says Jack King of Lubbock, sorghum agronomist for Funk Seeds International. "The worst field infections we've seen this year were running from 13 to 14 percent

In 1976, the disease reached epidemic levels in some areas of the High Plains. Infection ran as high as 70 percent in

"Head smut is a recurring problem Just when you think you've got it knocked down, it picks itself up off the floor and starts fighting back," King

Sorghum planting in many areas of the Southwest was delayed last spring because of inclement weather, and the Funk agronomist feels this, along with the use of resistant hybrids, may have helped reduce the incidence of head smut this year.

Head smut is a soil-borne fungus, meaning sorghum is exposed to the disease as soon as it is planted.

"If sorghum is planted in infected soil early, the plant is exposed to the disease organisms for a longer time, increasing damage potential," King explains. At present, there are four recognized races of sorghum head smut, says Dr. Mike Turner, Funk plant pathologist in Bloomington, Ill. "This disease is caused by a fungus that is capable of changing "Sorghum hybrids come from different genetic backgrounds. The head smut resistant genes of one particular hybrid may be different from those of another. One plant may be resistant to one particular race of head smut, while another plant offers resistance to a second

Turner says that since new races evolve over time, research is in a continuing process of breeding new hybrids resistant to the races that develop.

known by the title farmer. 'The farmer doesn't separate work and leisure as much as people in town," said William Heffernan, a rural sociologist at the University of Missouri-Colum-bia. "He may spend an entire Sunday afternoon working on a show cow. Now someone else may think that's work. But that farmer may not want to be doing anything else in the world. He's the kind of person who really loves his work." Heffernan, who operates a 40-acre farm in addition to his teaching job, called farming a contagious profession with an extremely low job turnover.

"Farmers like being their own boss, being close to nature and carrying out a family tradition," the professor said. "There has to be other reasons than money, especially when you consider the amount of capital they invest and what they get back.

U.S. Department of Agriculture figures for last year show the realized net income per farm was $7,885 with the average acreage at 393 acres. Dr. Norman Whitehair, director of the extension Division at Kansas State University in Manhattan, estimates a typical farmer works 2,500 hundred hours a year - 500 hours longer than someone who puts in 40 hours a week for 50 weeks a year.

Agriculture officials estimate it would cost anywhere between $500,000 and $1 million to set up an average-size farm today - making the business almost prohibitive for anyone not born into a farm

"The high cost is keeping out a lot of young men who want to go into farming." said Dr. Jan Flora, a rural sociologist at Kansas State. "What's going to happen, I think, is that there's going to be a method devised where farmers don't really own their land."

Flora said one possiblity would be the government owning the land and then leasing it to farmers.

'We're beginning to see the demise of the family farm in the sense of the farm being wholly owned by the family who

Both Flora and Heffernan said farmers hold close ties to their churches and tend to think big labor and government have too much power. The two professors also believe farmers gnerally are closer to their families and neighbors

"I think it has a lot to do simply with the fact that there's less geographic movement," Flora said. "The people who live in rural areas have lived there for a long time."

But the closeness among family and friends apparently makes it harder for farmers to accept people with different lifestyles or backgrounds.

"I've been looking at some national surveys and I don't exactly understand why it's true, but rural people in general seem to be less accepting of people who are different than them — in terms of such things as interracial marriages or whether they would vote for a black or a Jew for president," Flora said. "I suppose that comes back to the issue of tight-knit communities.

Flora and Heffernan disagreed on the basic nature of farmers.

'They're optimistic," said Heffernan. "They're always thinking 'things will always get better.' They'll be out there year after year planting a crop and hoping for better prices and weather."

"They're pessimistic about everything in general," Flora said. "I don't claim this is a scientific finding, but I think being so affected by the weather makes them that way."

But most farm experts agree that the image of the farmer wearing bib overalls and a straw hat and saying aw-shucks is a myth today.

"Farmers today are businessman who have to have a vast knowledge in things such as herbicides, pesticides, marketing and high finance," said John Junior Armstrong, head of the Kansas Farm Bureau. "He's just like his city cousin now. If you put them together, you wouldn't be able to tell them apart."

Rural communities, however, still lack some of advantages of metropolitan

But there is cleaner air, more open space and less crime. And there are still people who do not lock their doors at

"I remember when a retired attorney from Washington bought a farm out here," said Heffernan. "The first night in the house he went to lock the doors and found out there were no locks. That kind of shook up someone coming from Washington, D.C."

By CHRIS CONNELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — James B. Cardwell says something is out of whack with the federal retirement and Social Security systems.

He is in a position to know. Cardwell, at age 55, is retiring as commissioner of Social Security after a 35year government career in which he rose through the ranks from a clerk earning $1,440 a year to his current $50,000-a-year

When he leaves in mid-December, he will begin drawing a government pension of about $24,000 and - for the first time in his life - will begin paying taxes into the Social Security system.

Cardwell is taking a top financial job at the Corporation for Public Broadcasting. a private entity, that will pay $53,000 annually. He frankly admits that he wishes his new job was not covered by Social Security because he does not expect to work the 814 years he would need to qualify for Social Security benefits. "If I could look at it very selfishly, I would like to err on the side of not participating in Social Security after having gone this long without participating," he explained in an interview. "But that would be very selfish and I'm willing to Cardwell also wants to avoid becoming a member of a group he has criticized in the past: double-dippers who draw both a federal pension and Social Security ben-pay my share, even if it never accrues to

Although Civil Service pensions are designed to be self-sufficient, about 44 percent of all retired federal workers draw benefits from both systems.

Some federal employees gain Social Security coverage for work they did before or after their government service. Others moonlight, including a large number of the lower-paid clerical workers, Cardwell

But the double-dipping controversy is not over civil servants who work for long periods in jobs covered by Social Security. Rather, it is over those who work for short periods and qualify for a minimum benefit. That Cardwell admits, can be a Social Security pays a minimum monthly benefit of $114 to workers who retire at 65, regardless of how much they earned or contributed. This benefit is weighted to help a person who was presumed to be a lifetime low-wage earner.

Cardwell says the system was built around averages and lacks any method to weed out people who were simply under Social Security for a short time from those who were "truly low-wage earners who deserve the minimum."

"There are lots of people of significant means drawing that minimum benefit from the system," Cardwell said.

He said the Social Security system looks at the records of some federal retiwage earners. It really misreads their circumstances. And it pays them the weighted benefit.

About one-third of state and local government workers and employees of nonprofit groups also are not covered by Social Security and can take advantage of

The bill to refinance the Social Security system that is now in a House-Senate conference committee would make changes to eliminate some of the windfalls. The Senate version would limit how much the federal pensioner could draw from Social Security as a dependent.

The House Ways and Means Committee wanted to require Social Security coverage for all U.S. workers, but the full House reversed that vote and decided instead to undertake a two-year study of universal coverage.

Cardwell says he thinks the situation eventually will be remedied by some integration between the federal retirement plan and Social Security. But he said the committee's attempt to embrace the concept first and "fill in the blanks later" frightened a lot of workers.

Cardwell says he believes a system can be designed to "wash out the windfalls" while still protecting the pension rights of federal and other employees.

Federal workers pay seven percent of their salaries into their retirement plan, which was designed to equal the combination of Social Security and a private

Beyond the question of double-dippers, Cardwell also has doubts about the current federal retirement system, which allows civil servants to draw an annuity at age 55 after 30 years' service or at age 60 after 20 years.

Cardwell, who worked a decade longer than the average federal retiree, said, "I don't like to think I'm taking advantage of anything. I really don't feel that I am. I

But he added, "I do think as a citizen, just standing back and looking at it, that the whole arrangement is not in balance.

In Gleason's view, interport rivalries in which shipping associations are seeking a competetive advantage over one another are the only obstacles to full accords at the two East Coast points and along the eastern portion of the Gulf Coast.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The scene could fit in a surreal Richard Pryor comedy - the TV and movie star at a pay phone in Big Bear, Calif., saying he felt fine, was on vacation and hadn't had a

At his request, hospital officials at the time declined to discuss the nature of his illness, but his grandmother was quoted as saying he'd suffered a heart attack.

Man Claims Sandwiches 'Stolen'

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sandwiches have come a long way since the Earl of Sandwich slapped a slice of meat between two pieces of bread. So complex are some sandwiches that Roy Passin, who describes himself as a "sandwich inventor and engineer of distinction," is going to court over the alleged theft of Passin owns two restaurants in suburban Maryland, and has sued a District of Columbia eatery which, he claims, has filched his recipes and sandwich combi-

But that's a lot of baloney, according to Rich Baker, vice president of Dudley P's. Baker confirmed that he had hired Thomas Dickinson, Passin's former manager, after Passin fired him, but denied any larcenous intent. Rather, he said, he just needed "a good man" to help him change his restaurant menu to include more sandwiches.

'How can you hold a copyright to a food product?" he asked. "How can you say a Reuben sandwich is their idea? If a business can do this (file suit), why hasn't McDonald's put Burger King and Burger Chef out of business?"

He said he'd been put in the hospital's said Pryor, 36, who readily admitted his scramble for success left him pooped at the peak and caused his hospitalization. "I've been working for two years now, and just realized I hadn't taken a break, he said. "And the doctors, of course, told me the body can only do so much."

The non-stop work included concerts, roles in "Silver Streak," "Greased Lightning" and "Which Way Is Up," an NBC special and writing for and starring in his short-lived NBC variety series.

Days" and "Laverne and Shirley," got low ratings. But both Pryor and NBC's programs chief here, John J. McMahon, say ratings aren't the reason the series was discontinued

They say Pryor originally had a 10-show contract, then got the number of weekly shows cut to four. Both sides then had to agree on continuing the series after that or ending it. They opted for the latter.

A big reason was the crush of Pryor's film work, which includes the coming "Blue Collar" he did this year and the movie version of "The Wiz." on which he says he'll start work in New York on Dec.

Also in the wings are two other projects begun before his hospitalization. One is a a script he wrote but declines to discuss. The other is a search for financing of a planned movie, "Gordon Entertaining Nightly," which he co-authored with Paul Hampton. Sure, those projects are ahead of him, as are two NBC specials a season for the next two seasons, he said. But from now on, his pace is going to be markedly slower, his workload markedly lighter.

The trip to the hospital gave him much food for thought, Pryor conceded: "I was on the treadmill — and you often just get on it and don't look back for a while

Hobbits Join Dwarves, Elves In Animated Special

By JOAN HANAUER
NEW YORK (UPI) — In the time when men shared Middle Earth with dwarves and elves, goblins and dragons, there were small, round peaceful chaps named Hobbits who disapproved of adventure as dmething that made you late for dinner. Such a comfortable creature is Bilbo Baggins in NBC's animated production of JRR. Tolkien's "The Hobbit," to be broadcast Sunday at 7 p.m. CST.

Baggins, with voice supplied by Orson Bean, is beguiled into setting out with a group of dwarves to restore the King Under the Mountain to his throne after ousting Smaug (pronounced smog), a deadly dragon with a piercing eye for treasure and trespassers.

The animation, copied carefully after the illustrations of Tolkien's "Hobbit," is delightful, but even better are the people whose voices take up the major roles.

Bean makes a sweetly prosaic Baggins, a reluctant adventurer whose inner qualities even he himself does not recognize. Wiser about such matters is the wizard Gandalf, played by wonderful John Hus-

The dwarves, an unprepossessing lot, are led by Hans Conreid as Thorin Oakenshield, who wants to regain his grandfather's throne and treasure.

As the group climbs the Misty Moun-wood and traverses all manner of menacing countryside, they encounter Otto Preminger as the greedy Elvenking of the forest, Cyril Ritchard as the benign Elrond, the Elf Lord, and Brother Theodore as Gollum, a nasty little creature of darkness with a big appetite, a taste for puzzles and a disconcertingly smarmy method of talking to "Precious."

Finally the unheroic adventurers reach

Court Upholds Visit To Garden Plot

LANSING, Mich. (UPI) - If you live in a multiple family dwelling and your garden grows marijuana instead of silver bells and cockleshells, the Michigan Court of Appeals says the neighbors can

The appeals court this week upheld the 1976 marijuana manufacturing conviction of Thomas John Hopko Honko and his family rented the lower floor of a two-story house in nearby Holt. The John Jewett family occupied the second floor. Each family had its own garden plot in the backyard.

Following an argument with Hopko, Jewett flagged down a cruising Ingham County Sheriff's Department patrol car and told the officer that he believed marijuana was growing in his neighbor's backyard.

Officer Robert Siegrist followed Jewett into the common backyard, where he found 54 marijuana plants ranging in size from eight inches to more than four feet tall growing in Hopko's garden plot. In appealing his conviction, Hopko argued his constitutional rights had been violated because the marijuana was found during an illegal, warrantless search. The first standard for determining whether a warrant is required, the court said, is whether the affected person "holds a reasonable expectation of privacy in the area searched. The court said Hopko "could reasonably expect that his co-tenant, sans invitation, would not enter upon (his) garden plot or invite others to do so. "But we do not believe that defendant could reasonably expect his co-tenant to shut his eyes to what could obviously be observed from the co-tenant's garden 'Nor could he reasonably expect privacy from what invitees of the co-tenant could observe while standing on the cotenant's garden or that part of the lawn area which was shared in common.' The court said the search and seizure of the marijuana plants was not improper, since the officer was invited onto the property and could plainly see the growing plants.

tains, crosses the dark forest of Murk- Lonely Mountain, where Richard Boone as roaringly repulsive Smaug lies sprawled upon the Mountain King's treasure.

The animated adventures are pure delight for Hobbit lovers, and a welcome introduction for those who have never visited Middle Earth. The music is pleasant and helps carry the plot along - there are no showstoppers to slow the action and ruin the story line.

"The Hobbit" surely deserves to become an annual habit.

Security Blanket Makes Ideal Christmas Gift

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI) - For men or women who have everything and don't care what they get for Christmas: a security blanket.

The young men marketing them at $5 each call them "blankettes." They are 8by-12 - inches, that is, not feet. The word "Security" is embroidered on each. They come in robin's egg blue and sapsucker yellow.

The booklet accompanying each blan-kette asks the buyer to fill out a form, giving his or her name, age, shoe size, favorite tuba player and preferred sleeping

The blankette is not for everybody, Blanketeers Smirnoff Division says. Gary and Alan Smirnoff and Clifford Skolnick sey their product can be used by people who are afraid of some unusual things:

asparagus, for example. And company representatives say the blankette is an ideal gift for people who get nervous reading about tinnitus, bruxism and other ailments they didn't even know existed.

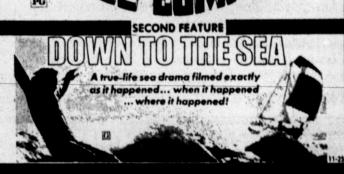

North Carolina egg production in 1976 totaled about 2.8 billion, approximately the same as in the previous year.

Telly Savalas Enjoys Work Despite Hectic Pace

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Telly Savalas isn't an insomniac, but he's getting only four hours sleep a night, thriving on a man-killing work load. The bald actor toils at Universal Studios from dawn until dark as the star of CBS-TV's "Kojak" series. Thereafter he dashes off to Paramount to edit his new movie, "Mati," from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m." He returns home and works on tapes of the film until 2 a.m. The alarm goes off at 6 and Savalas starts the cycle again. Savalas' dedication to "Mati" is a personal matter. He wrote the script, directed and starred in the movie and now is stitching it together. Clear-eyed and energetic, Savalas slowed his hectic pace for an hour the other day during a lunch break in his Universal dressing room.

"It will be a sad day when I begin thinking of all this as work," he said. "I enjoy every minute of it.

When I think about ditchdigging or a thousand other things I might be doing, it makes me appreciate how I earn my liv-

"Mati" is based on the life of Telly's Uncle Katsos, an esteemed New York psychiatrist. Nephew Telly has admired Uncle Katsos since childhood and long has entertained the notion of writing a screenplay about him.

Earlier this year he sat down and wrote the script in eight days. Then, in conjunction with Howard Kotch, Telly produced, directed and starred in the title role. Savalas had no difficulty directing him-

"I usually don't think when I act," he said. "It's an instinctive thing with me. I learn my lines, of course, but I don't plan

Nut Growers Face Crisis

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) - Zero population growth may be the goal of millions, but it's the bane of the peanut butter business.

"This is a really important subject," Barbara Lindemann Schlei told the Peanut Butter Manufacturers and Nut Salters convention last week. "We're facing a major crisis."

"The biggest consumers of peanut butter are people under the age of 18 and zero population growth is hurting the peanut industry," said Mrs. Schei, administrator of the USDA's Agriculture Marketing Service.

Mrs. Schlei said American farmers nearly doubled their peanut per acre production between 1962 and 1976, but consumption did not keep pace with produc-

"The other actors respond to me with affection and gratitude. They know Telly has been down that road. I work at keeping them relaxed. I try to get them to break out of their predictable molds.

'When I'm editing the picture I really don't watch myself. Oh, sometimes I see the character I play, but even in 'Kojak' I don't see Telly. I keep an eye on the oth-

'Acting is the least enjoyable facet of what I'm doing. But I'm not all that dedicated to directing or producing, either. Fate has a lot of different things in store for all of us, and I go with whatever comes along.

Savalas anticipates no confusion between the Greek cop he plays in "Kojak" and the Greek doctor in "Mati."

"If I've got a choice of playing an ethnic role," he said, "why not go to the purest classic form. Hellenism is the only criteria for excellence.

Former school teacher Savalas launched into a brief lecture on religion, philosophy, science and literature quoting everyone from Homer to Aristotle (for whom he was named) to Pericles.

"No one has ever asked me to play a Greek," he said. "So I insist on it myself. I did an episode of 'Combat' 15 years ago and refused to play the character of a colonel unless they made him a Greek.

That show still is played on Greek television every Easter and on Greek independence day. I'm very proud of that.

People won't equate Kojak with the doctor in the film. Kojak is a product of the New York streets. The doctor was born in Greece and is a man of simplicity and innocence.

Borge was playing on an imposing Ger-man-made Bosenderfer piano — "the Rolls Royce of pianos, although the wheels are smaller," he said.

"Steinway has 88 keys, and also three sons. A Bosenderfer has six extra keys and the last four which normally would be white are black instead. There are many horrible things that can happen to a pianist when he, she or it plays.

"Some pianists, used to seeing 88 keys, get disconcerted when they see those four extra ones on the left, and they are colored black instead of white."

Borge, who has been doing a one-man show - or a two-person show with Marylyn Mulvey — at the Imperial Theater in New York City, was in the capital to promote his appearance in the same show at the Kennedy Center next week.

His piano was installed in the south lounge of the opera house, dominated by a Waterford chandelier a good eight feet in diameter and with thousands of crystal

No one who has not lived through it can know about "the feeling of despair -that nothing could be done," he said. And how did he get to be up on top of the Nazi blacklist?

There was a tiny Nazi group in Copenhagen, he said. And it threatened to break his fingers and his legs and arms so that there would be nothing left of him. One day, he was walking by the river and two of them approached him.

"I was quite strong in my arms then from playing, and I grabbed them and threw them both in the water," he said.

Agency Urges Clarity

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congress has been told by its investigative agency it should spell out more precisely who is and who is not an employee for tax pur-

In a report made public this week, the General Accounting Office said costly disputes between the Internal Revenue Service and taxpayers result from uncertainty as to whether a person is employed by a business or is a self-employed contractor selling services to it.

The IRS often decides retroactively that persons who have been classified as self-employed should instead be considered employees, the GAO said.

When this happens, it continued, employers can be assessed employment taxes, such as Social Security and unemployment insurance taxes, for three years back: double taxation can occur under some circumstances when both parties have paid income and Social Security taxes; and self-employed retirement plans can be declared invalid, with painful tax consequences.

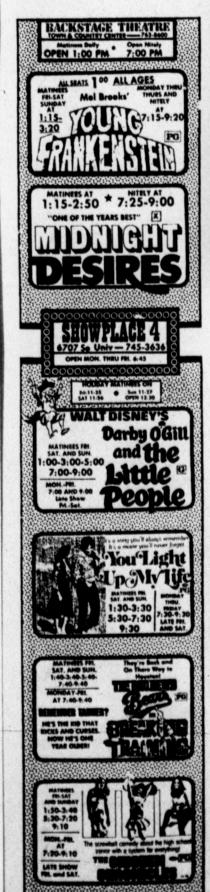

The persons affected include barbers, beauty operators, real estate and insurance sales agents and service station operators, the report said.

It said that in many cases the IRS findings are based on clear principles, but that gray areas remain.

The GAO proposed four standards to determine whether a person is a self-employed contractor, suggesting that anyone who could not meet three of the four

Hogs' Bomb Stuns Tech 17-14 Orange Bowl Breathes Easy

By CARTER CROMWELL

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff Arkansas and Texas Tech gained redemption in the eyes of bowl officials Thursday afternoon. The Razorbacks also gained victory.

Outplayed in the first half and down 14-3 at intermission, the sixth-ranked, Orange Bowl-bound Hogs rallied for a 17-14 triumph in the nationally televised contest, consequently allowing two nervous Orange Bowl representatives to breathe much easier.

Arkansas thus completed its regular season with a 10-1 record and, with a 7-1 SWC mark, can tie for the SWC title if leader Texas loses to Texas A&M Saturday. Still, for a more than a half Thursday, the Razorbacks could do little, and the Orange Bowl reps had visions of one of their choices losing the week after being selected for the seventh straight season. But the Miamians' luck was better this time.

Tangerine Bowl-bound Tech, after being embarrassed by Houston last weekend, was a different team Thursday and Two long scoring drives and a stiff defense had staked the Raiders to their halftime advantage, and they had a fine chance to increase their lead the first time they possessed the ball in the sec-

Tech, which finished with a 7-4 regularseason record and 44 SWC mark, got ex-cellent field position at the Arkansas 40yard line after a punt. It quickly marched to the 14, where it faced third and 2. However, a third-down pass by quarterMike Mock's 31-yard field-goal attempt from the right hash mark was deflected by the Hogs' Patrick Martin with 12:17 remaining in the third quarter.

"That third-and-2 play was the big turn-ing point in the game," Tech head coach Steve Sloan said. "We should have run on the play, instead of passing."

Allison said, "I called an audible, but we should have run the ball. I thought it was third and 7, instead of third and 2. We had two downs to make 2 yards, and I called the wrong play."

Sloan also thought the blocked field goal was a big play. Regular Tech kicker Bill Adams had suffered what was described as a strained left knee earlier and didn't return to the game.

"Mock hadn't practiced field goals much lately," Sloan said. "You just don't think much about your kicker getting hurt. Him being out was a factor on the blocked field goal. We didn't get it off quick enough. After that, Arkansas was in charge. Tech, which had outgained the visitors in yards 235-74 and outfirst-downed them down for the next 19:11 and picked up just four first downs and 97 yards in the second half. And UA, which netted just 293 yards in the game—far below its 425-yard norm—began to move the ball more

Two possessions after killing the Tech threat, Arkansas drove 70 yards in 11 plays for a touchdown. Back Ben Cowins burst for 11 yards to the Raider 11 to set up the touchdown play.

Flanker Donny Bobo streaked down the right side, caught a pass from quart-erback Ron Calcagni at the goal, and scored easily with 3:02 left in the third

Bits And Pieces

JACKIE GRAVES, ASSISTANT director of player personnel for the Philadel-phia Eagles and a Lubbock native, says Texas' Earl Campbell is the best player in college football today. "I gave him the highest grade I've ever given a player in the 12 years I've been scouting, and I've seen a lot of players in that time." . Graves said Florida's Wes Chandler is the best pro prospect in the country as far as receivers go, and that he believes Florida has the most physical talent of any club in the nation this season. Former SMU coach Dave Smith, who was fired in 1975, following three tumultous seasons at the Mustang helm, is now building custom homes in Dallas . . Ex-Tulane head coach Bennie Ellender, who was fired after the 1975 campaign with eight years left on his 10-year contract, isn't doing a whole lot but playing golf and taking it easy. Ellender and a laywer negotiated well and got Tulane to pay off the remainder of his pact in a 15-year period. That's really tough-having a guaranteed income for 15 years ...

Speaking of coaches who've suffered some rough times: Colorado coach Bill Mallory, not exactly Mr. Congeniality of college football, traded vicious verbal blasts with members of the Boulder Buff Club after CU's 52-14 loss to Oklahoma a couple of weeks ago .

AFTER THE SITUATION had gradually begun to boil, a fan asked Mallory about his so-so 15-11-1 Big Eight record since coming to Colorado. Mallory's reply: "Well, you know, I'm here to run the show... And when you people aren't pleased with me, then buy up my contract, or I'll leave and go somewhere

Another fan faced Mallory "jaw-to-jaw," according to Denver's Rocky Mountain News, and said, "I'm going to tell you something. We've got the best group of kids on that football team that anybody in the country has got. And, if any blame goes anywhere, it's not going to the kids. It's the coaching. Earlier a fan had questioned Mallory's practice of benching players after they had made an important mistake. The fan said that Oklahoma fumbles a lot, but OU coach Barry Switzer doesn't bench them. "He sticks with them . . . When a Colorado player makes a mistake, you never see him again." To which Mallory replied: "I don't know how Barry runs his show, but the guys in there for us are the people I feel are best and who I have the most confidence in. You may not agree with me, but that's the way it is." The fan said, "I can't accept that explanation." Mallory came back with, "Well, you don't accept it, but I do because I'm calling the shots." . . .

Subdues Highlanders 36-25

By TOM HALLIBURTON

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff EL PASO-Pesky Bel Air kept fighting an uphill battle throughout the second half with the generous aid of Monterey mistakes, but the Highlanders never quite reached the hilltop.

Every time Bel Air fought back, a guy named Ron Reeves, standing atop the mountain peak, shoved the Highlanders behind some more. With quarterback Reeves' able guidance, the Plainsmen survived five lost fumbles and edged the Highlanders 36-25 in the Class AAAA reonal football playoff round

MHS, now 11-0-1, enters the quarter-finals next week against the winner of Saturday's Odessa Permian-Arlington Lamar game, scheduled in Abilene. But the Plainsmen certainly didn't advance with a razor-sharp performance.

On this Thanksgiving night, the Plainmen looked like carved-up turkeys during the first and third quarters and offered scoring opportunities. Despite the sluggish MHS performance, Reeves rushed 13 times for 140 yards and amazing TD runs of 41 and 39 yards to keep Bel Air on the lower side of the scoreboard.

Coach James Odom's Plainsmen over-and took a 22-8 lead into the second half. But two more fumbles helped Bel Air score 9 points and narrow the count to 22-17 midway in the third period,

Holtz Not Excited After Tilt

By JIM FERGUSON Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff On a day of thanks, Lou Holtz didn't seem to be-thankful that is.

"I'm certainly glad we won," the Ar-kansas head coach said, following the Hogs' tenth victory of the year, a 17-14 come-from-behind win over Texas Tech Thursday in Jones Stadium. "But I'm not excited. I'm happy for the players and coaches, though

Holtz concluded by saying "maybe I'm just getting old."

If Holtz thinks he is getting old, maybe he should take a took at the Orange Bowl committeemen who attended the game. They are sporting a few new wrinkles of

"It was a helluva game," one of the Orange claded committee men said, as he waited to be admitted into the Hog dressing room. "They (Arkansas) came back and took it too them (Texas Tech). Thank

The Orange Bowler, who must have felt at times as if someone had poured giblet gravy down his shirt, agreed that, yes, he was " a little nervous at times." "But things worked out, didn't they?"

The Hogs will now play the winner of the Oklahoma-Nebraska game in Miami

For awhile there were questions—and lots of them. Like, "Why go for a first down instead of an almost sure field goal when you are behind 14-9?" and "What about the touchdown call, anything special" and "What about the Raiders, were you surprised?'

"If we had gone for a field goal and made it we would have been behind 14-12 and that would have forced us to get an-other field goal to beat them." Holtz explained. "But a touchdown would have given us a 15-14 advantage. Looking back it was probably a stupid call though. It al-most backfired."

And Raiders. What about the team that was embarrassed by Houston last week

'When they scored 14 and held us to 3, that surprised the heck out of me," a subdued Holtz said. "But I didn't think 14 See LOU HOLTZ Page 2

Ranked Squads Hope To Avoid 'Bug' Tonight

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff Seagraves, Petersburg and Clovis will try to avoid that "bug"-the upset bug -that's been going around the last week, when they enter the second week of state

Littlefield, Tahoka and Jayton hope their foes have come down with that dreaded infection, however.

Regional games are on tap in AAAA, AA and A, with quarter-finals in B and AA and semifinals in New Mexico AAA and AAAA.

Here's a brief look at each game, starting with the ranked teams:

Seagraves vs. Haskell at Snyder The Seagraves Eagles, ranked No. 1 in state and boasting 11-0 mark, face a team that roared to 27-0 halftime lead over Albany last week and coasted home to 40-15

Haskell is led by the running of fullback Vonnie Hise (1,244 yards) and halfback Jimmy Browning (1,279 yards) and the passing of quarterback Rex Pittman (31-

Seagraves is led by Clarence Davis (135-1.316 yards, 23 TDs, 15 PATs), Steve McCormick (123-1,066 yards, 18 TDs) and Mike Hoover (129-703, 10 TDs, 4 PATs) and has held the No. 1 ranking for the last three months

Gametime is 7:30 p.m.

Petersburg vs. Sunray at Plainview The Petersburg Buffaloes, ranked No. 7 in the state, will once again be without super tailback Mike Jones, but Rudy Zapata & Co. more than took up slack last

Both teams are 10-1. Sunray has an explosive passing attack-Brent McCAllie to Mac McClellan-and the running of Brent Broxson, who scored once and picked off two passes in a 17-7 upset of Memphis last week in bidistrict.

Sunray has allowed only 78 points this

Winner of these two Class A games will meet next week in the quarter-finals. Clovis vs. Cibola at Albuquerque

This New Mexico semifinal contest, which starts at 2:30 p.m. CST today, matches the state's No. 2 team, Clovis, against an unranked squad. Clovis is 10-2 on the year and Cibola, the surprise team of New Mexico's AAAA playoffs, is 7-4. Cibola, a four-year-old school, lost to

No. 1-ranked Santa Fe 8-6 during the regular season but won 24-8 in the quarter-fi-

Also on tap today in New Mexico is the Farmington at Albuquerque Sandia tilt at 8:30 p.m. which will decide the other half of the state AAAA title bracket.

Littlefield vs. Childress at Canyon Littlefield, which upset No. 3-ranked Idalou in bidistrict, will be gunning for an upset over No. 10-ranked Childress, which stunned No. 2 Spearman 20-3 last week

The last three years, the winner of the Childress-Spearman game his advanced to the state finals. Spearman doing it in 1974 and Childress the last two years.

Childress soph quarterback Perry Morren has thrown for 1,502 yards and 19 TDs and rushed for 315 more steps. Brett Stone has 26 catches, Nicky Hardison 24 and David West 20.

Littlefield is led by Rudolph Smith, who has carried 172 times for 1,189 yards and nine TDs. The Wildcats defense is led by Jett West (180 tackles), Kent Ball (164 tackles) and Ronnie Milligan (107

Tahoka vs. Kermit at Andrews Can Clifford Bailey make the Top 10?

That's the big question in this AA quarter-final tilt.

The Tahoka tailback has carried 363 times for 2,183 yards and 25 TDs this year. He's only 63 yards away from replacing Johnny "Ham" Jones of Hamliln as the No. 10 man on Class AA's singleseason rushing list.

And if Bailey collects his seventh 200yard rushing game of the year, he'll almost have enough to surpass Levelland coach Bert Gravitt on the list. Gravitt gained 2,443 in leading Denver City to the 1960 state title.

Kermit is 9-2 this year and lsot only to AAA teams. Tahoka is 8-3 and was tabbed for a fifth-place finish in 5-AA. The Bulldogs are led defensively by Randy Meeks (211 tackles), Britt Dockery (177 stops) and David Jolly (133 tackles). Gametime is 8 p.m. Winner here meets the Littlefield-Childress winner in quarter-finals next week.

Jayton vs. Wheeler at Vernon s Class B quarter-final tilt matche two teams with 10 wins; however, Wheeler is undefeated and ranked No. 1 and Jayton is unranked and has two setbacks. Wheeler hopes to keep alive a four-year string that has seen 1-B teams gain at least the state semifinals. Wheeler is averaging 424 yards a game and is led by Marvin Grimes (1,250 yards, 18 TDs) and Dell Ford (751 yards, 11 TDs and a 13.4-

And last but not least, the touchdown

"We had worked on it (the play) last week, and we felt we could get open on it," Holtz pointed out. "We called it during the punt. And then used it." The receiver of the bomb, Bobby Duckworth, a 6-3, 195-pound freshman, said he wasn't nervous when his number was called, only confident, "I knew it (the fly pattern down the west sideline) would be open," the lanky speedster said. "All I had to do was catch it. And I did."

Ron Calcagni, a two-year letterman from Youngstown, Ohio, also expressed confidence in the play.

said, "This should be '6' and I believed it would be," the junior signal caller said. 'I believe in Coach Holtz.'

Calcagni said Duckworth was probably used on the important play because "he has a tendency to get behind people.

Although the Razorbacks did have their tails twisted out of shape the majority of the game, Calcagni said the team "never really changed anything. We just stuck to our game plan."

"Things were frustrating at the first of the game," Calcagni said. "No one had really strapped it to us all year. Tech has fine defensive unit that hits you hard. But we stuck together and came back to play a competitive game.

Monterey's offense moved effectively when it didn't fumble the ball away. The Plainsmen increased their lead to 29-17 with a 52-yard drive in seven plays. Jeff Harp rushed for 24 of those yards on the first play. the first play, Reeves rolled to his left, raced down the sideline and hurdled two tackles before reaching the end zone with 1:12 to play.

Two big plays and one long drive produced all of Monterey's first-half points in the second quarter. Actually, the Plainsmen started coming alive with two minutes left in the first quarter as they trailed 8-0 but started a 91-yard drive in nine plays.

During the series, Reeves picked apart the Bel Air secondary with three passes of 51 yards to split end Eric Voyles. Tailback Jeff Harp carried five times for 27

After Reeves' aerials and Harp's runs moved MHS to the Highlander 13, fullback Joel Gage squirted through a hole at right tackle on the dive part of the option play and rammed into the end zone with 10:29 left in the half.

After two conversion tries were nullified by penalties, Reeves rolled to his right and angled to the flag for a 2-point conversion to tie the count at 8.

After another Bel Air possession fizzled out near midfield, the Plainsmen started again on their 9. Reeves ran and threw to account for 42 yards in three plays as Monterey reached its 49. Rangers 'Retire' Rod Gilbert

NEW YORK (AP) - After 16 seasons in the National Hockey League, Rod Gilbert's playing days are over - at least those with the New York Rangers. The 36-year-old Gilbert, the Rangers' all-time leading scorer and owner of 20 club records, was informed after Wednesday night's 6-3 victory over the Colorado Rockies that he would not play again for New York.

'This decision was the toughest I ever had to make, but we felt we had young players in our organization who were ready to take over his job," said Rangers General Manager John Ferguson.

Gilbert accepted the Rangers' decision although he professed total disagreement with their actions in a prepared statement issued through his attorneys:

"The management of the New York Rangers advised me that it has decided to retire me now. I strongly disagree with this decision. I believe that I am in top physical condition and am playing well. In the last four games, I have scored five points. I believe that I can contribute to the team on the ice not only this season but for seasons to come.

"Nevertheless, I must accept my employers' decision and recognize that after 16 years I shall never again wear the New York Ramgers uniform," the statement

Gilbert is the third Rangers right wing in four days to be phased out by New York's youth movement. Bill Goldsworthy was sent to the Rangers' New Haven farm club in the American Hockey.

League earlier this week and was joined there Thursday by Ken Hodge.

Gilbert, who collected 406 goals and 615 assists for 1,021 points in 1,064 games with the Rangers, is in the final year of a three-year contract valued at $200,000 annually. It was the contract and the youth movement, however, that may have led to Gilbert's release.

During training camp in September, Gilbert left the team after Ferguson refused to guarantee the two option years on the right wing's contract.

The stormy 11-day walkout ended after Gilbert and Ferguson met and settled their "communication problem".

At that time Ferguson said, "I listened to his (Gilbert's) differences and they made a lot of sense. What really was bothering him, more than anything else, was the that he felt he wasn't going to be a part of the Rangers youth movement. But I guess he was misled about that, because he'll be very much a part of it."

However, the 11 days of training camp Gilbert missed took their toll as he got off to a slow start, scoring only two goals and seven assist in 19 games.

The slow start annoyed Ferguson.

"It was not my decision to have Rod Gilbert leave training camp," Ferguson said. "He never really recovered from that loss of time. In effect, he played himself off the team.

Ferguson, who said the final decision to retire Gilbert was reached Wednesday, said age caught up with Gilbert.

"He's a great athlete but time is not on his side. Rod'll be 37 and it just wasn't the same Rod Gilbert we knew. He had slowed down quite a bit and didn't have the burst of speed he needed. His great assest had been scoring goals and he wasn't doing that." Ferguson said.

A Rangers' spokesman said all existing contractual agreements with Gilbert would be honored: They include full payment of his salary for the balance of the season, plus a five-year consulting arrangement with Madison Square Garden if he retires immediately from hockey?

In addition, Gilbert has been offered a full-time executive position with the Garden immediately. If he rejects it, the spokesman said, the Rangers probably would let him make his own deal.

NYRA Wants Vet Barred

NEW YORK (AP) - The New York Racing Association, expressing its con-cern for "the integrity of racing," was expected today to appeal a court order that Dr. Mark Gerard — the veterinarian accused of swapping horses - no longer be barred from its tracks.

The hearing was scheduled in the Appellate Division of state Supreme Court in Brooklyn after a Nassau County Supreme Court judge issued an order Wednesday that ended Gerard's suspen-

In a statement, James Heffernan, acting NYRA president, said of Wednesday's decision: "The New York Racing Association believes strongly in the judicial system of the United States and the State of New York, and will admit Dr. Gerard to the grounds as ordered."

However, he added, "With the evidence at hand, the NYRA will take whatever legal action necessary to protect the racing public and the integrity of racing. We plan to appeal Judge Tomson's order as we feel the higher courts, in their wisdom, will support us."

Gerard is accused of substituting a stakes-winning South American hrose, Cinzano, for a lesser horse, Lebon. The "ringer" won, resulting in an alleged $78,000 payoff for Dr. Gerard at the bet-

Racers has found the formula to scoring: literally skate circles around the goalie. When I get the puck on one side of the net, I skate behind the cage and come out on the other side," Patenaude says.

Coming from one side to the other, the goalie has to put his legs apart and when he does that, I try to shoot the puck between them. That is precisely what he did Thursday night to lead the Racers to a 5-4 World

Hockey Association overtime victory over the Edmonton Oilers. "It certainly worked, didn't it?" said

Patenaude, who got the goal, his third of the game, just 27 seconds from the end. In the night's only other WHA game, the Birmingham Bulls routed the Cincinnati Stingers 12-2. Patenaude's final goal of the night came off a steal by Kevin Devine and

It wasn't until 1936 that the Southern Cal-UCLA series was resumed, and that year it resulted in a 7-7 tie, proving that the Bruins at last belonged in the same league with their red-hot intracity rivals. It's been that way since, and one of the nation's most legendary college football rivalries continues tonight with the usual clash of cymbals and the normally-present high stakes.

and say, 'Ha, ha, you're not going to the Rose Bowl," says Southern Cal Coach John Robinson. "We're more interested in how we play. There's no problem set-This time, however, the roles will be ting up for UCLA."

series, the Bruins winning just once in the past six games.

Before the Trojans and Bruins meet tonight, two other bowl pictures will be cleared up. The winner of the Oklahoma-Nebraska game earlier in the day claims the Big Eight championship and a trip to the Orange Bowl against Arkansas Jan. 2. The loser's consolation prize will be a Dec. 19 date at the Liberty Bowl to play North Carolina.

Third-ranked Oklahoma needs a victory or a tie in the big game while No. 11 Nebraska must win to get a shot at the Razorbacks in the Orange Bowl.

The Razorbacks enhanced their Orange Bowl role with a comeback 17-14 victory over scrappy Texas Tech Thursday. The Red Raiders, a Tangerine Bowl entrant, held a 14-3 lead at halftime of the Thanksgiving Day game before the sixthranked Razorbacks scored twice on touchdown passes by Ron Calgani.

In other Thanksgiving Day games, Larry Fortner's 10-yard touchdown pass to Paul Warth in the final period sparked Miami of Ohio over Cincinnati 12-7 and Ricky Patton ran 85 yards for a TD in the fourh period, leading Jackson State over Alcorn State 23-16.

Meanwhile, several other traditional rivals will be waiting in the wings for Saturday's competition.

RUSTON, La. (AP) - John Henry White and Ricky Herren scrambled for touchdowns and Keith Swilley hit two field goals as Independence Bowl-bound Louisiana Tech smothered Northeast Louisiana 20-0 Thursday afternoon.

Louisiana Tech held 2-9 Northeast Louisiana to 94 yards of offense, while rolling up 389 yards itself. The Southland Conference champion Bulldogs lost last weekend to North Texas State 41-14 but finished their season 8-1-2. Louisiana Tech faces Louisville in the second-annual Independence Bowl Dec. 17 in Shreveport. Swilley kicked a 21-yard field goal early in the second quarter. White, the Bull-touchdown in the third quarter, and Swilley kicked a 30-yard field goal in the fourth quarter.

Northeast Louisiana threatened in the fourth quarter when it smothered a Louisiana Tech punt attempt on the Bulldog 16. But Louisiana Tech pushed Northeast Louisiana back to the 24 and took possession.

Bulldog quarterback Keith Thibodaux connected on 13 of 28 passes for 160 and scrambled for 45 more in 10 carries.

St. John's Meet Names Lapchick

By The Assoiciated Press

He wasn't just another guy named Joe. 'He taught me a lot about life," St. John's Coach Lou Carnesecca says of Joe Lapchick. "The most important thing I learned from him was humility. He once gave me a card that said, 'Peacock Today - Feather Duster Tomorrow.

"I remember that - and I still carry that card in my wallet after all these

To St. John's Sports Information Director Bill Esposito, Lapchick was the ultimate humanist and the all-time No. 1 public relations man.

'He was the fellow who put us on the map nationally," says Esposito. "Joe WAS St. John's when he was here. He was always selling the product, selling the school. He not only made a lot of friends for himself, but for St. John's as

The revered "Big Indian." most successful of all St. John's coaches before his death in 1970, has been remembered by a lot of people for a lot of different reasons - but never officially until the Joe Lapchick Memorial Tournament was started in 1975.

Now in its third year, it's become a fitting testimonial to a powerful legend.

'The tournament has a two-fold purpose," explains Esposito on the eve of tonight's opening round at St. John's' Alumni Hall. "It honors Joe and serves notice that St. John's doesn't feel that New York basketball has been knocked out of the box. We aren't trying to compete with the New York Knicks - just trying to give the fans a fair shake.'

The tournament, one of several around the country opening the 1977-78 college basketball season with a bang, includes a four-team field of 20th-ranked St. John's, Old Dominion, Niagara and Lafayette.

At 6-foot-6, Lapchick was one of basketball's first talented big men. He played with the original Celtics in the Roaring Twenties before coming to St. John's and building a string of powerhouses.

Lapchick coached for 20 years at St. John's, winning 335 games — or roughly one-third of the Redmen's lifetime 1,125 triumphs, fourth on the all-time winning list. His clubs appeared in four National Invitation Tournaments, in 1943, 1944, 1959 and 1965.

"When I was a student and then later sports information director at St. John's during Lapchick's time, people would always want to go over and say hello to him, wherever we traveled," Esposito remembers. "He had great rapport with all kinds of people and the press loved him.

Along with the Lapchick tourney, four others will be started tonight and an on Sunday. The Spider Classic in Richmond, Va., features St. Joseph's, Pa., William Mary, Virginia Commonwealth and Richmond. VMI, Virginia, Roanoke and Madison will be competing in the Virginia Tipoff at Charlottesville, Va.

Mizzou Fires Al Onofrio

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) - Giant-killer Al Onofrio is out after seven turbulent years as Missouri football coach and the search for his replacement is bound to be interesting.

"We hope to get started right after Thanksgiving," said Bill Kircher, a Kansas City lawyer who was one of five people named to a selection committee. "I'm sure the word will get out rapidly. This has to be one of the best coaching jobs in the country.

Onofrio, who survived a concerted ouster attempt at the end of the 1976 season." failed to weather a second. A 24-22 upset loss to arch-rival Kansas Saturday sank the Tigers' record to 4-7 and plunged Onofrio's 7-year mark to 38-41, including one bowl victory and one post-season de-

Griese's Six TD Tosses Rip Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP) — What Miami Coach Don Shula described as fiery emotion was translated into cold execution by Dolphins' quarterback Bob Griese.

Working against a makeshift St. Louis Cardinals defense, the 32-year-old Griese pitched six touchdown passes and routed the St. Louis Cardinals in a 55-14 game that made up half of Thursday's Thanksgiving fare in the National Football League

"I think it went back to Sunday, when we lost a game our players thought they should have won," said Shula, referring to Miami's 23-17 setback against the Cincinnati Bengals.

"I thought they went out and showed a lot of fire. That's one of the finest football games that any team I've been associated with played. Our defense and our offense controlled throughout."

With Griese devestating, the inspired Dolphins capitalized on an injury-torn St. Louis defensive secondary to score eight touchdowns, the most ever by a Miami team.

Griese drilled touchdown passes of 4 and 7 yards to Nat Moore and Duriel Harris in the opening five minutes. And, after Terry Metcalf scored on a 1-yard run for the Cards, Griese unleashed a string of four more scoring aeriels to bury St. Louis under a 41-7 deficit.

His touchdown pass total smashed a Miami record of four in one game and came within one of tying the all-time NFL standard.

NFL standard.

The fusillade also helped boost the Dolphins' record to 8-3, leaving them 1½ games behind the front-running Baltimore Colts, 9-1, in the American Conference East title race.

St. Louis, meanwhile, had its six-game victory string snapped. The Cards dipped to 7-4 in the National Conference East.

"Going into it, I didn't feel like I was going to work on one side anymore than the other," said Griese, who picked on an area defended by Cards' cornerback Carl Allen. "But they had an all-pro (Roger Wehrli) on one side and a rookie (Allen) on the other. Under the situation, we had an opportunity."

Moore tucked in Griese passes of 9 and 28 yards to expand Miami's margin to 28-7 at halftime, setting a Dolphins' onegame record of three touchdown recep-

Runningback Gary Davis hauled in a 17-yard scoring toss and Andre Tillman a 37-yard bomb early in the third quarter, and Griese afterward eased up, permitting Leroy Harris and Benny Malone to score on 4-yard runs.

"It was a matter of execution as much as anything else," said Griese, after directing Miami's awesome offense. "We could run, we could pass. I didn't think it was going to be that easy."

Drawing the maximum from 15 completions in 23 attempts, Griese passed for 207 yards in a 503-yird Miami offense.

The total contrasted steeply with St. Louis' 210 yards, 167 of them on Jim

Louis' 210 yards, 167 of them on Jim Hart's 15-for-28 performancd. Hart pegged 19 yards to Ike Harris for St. Louis' final touchdown with less than 10 minutes left, but by that time most of Late fireworks consisted mainly of two player brawls, both featuring all-NFC Cards' guard Conrad Dobler in the middle of the action.

"Everytime the ball was snapped, he was cheap shotting," insisted Miami rookie defensive end A.J. Duhe. "He was grabbing masks and slugging. They ought to fine him about $6,000."

The Dolphins' Charlie Babb suffered a broken collarbone and teammate Vern Den Herder, a defensive end, sustained a knee injury to rub some of the luster from their one-sidded triumph.

"It looked like it's going to have to be operated on," Shula said of the Den Herder injury. "If that's true, it's going to hurt us, but I was still pleased by what happened out there today."

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Walter Payton is a greedy runner, but he's generous

The Chicago Bears' runningback has been an attention grabber this National Football League season. But he wants to

After scoring one of his two touchdowns Thursday in Chicago's nationally televised 31-14 romp over the Detroit Lions, Payton let guard Noah Jackson slam the ball to the turf and do a TD

And when Payton was about to be interviewed on TV, he demanded that his offensive line stand behind him.

Payton, who set an NFL rushing record of 275 yards Sunday against Minnesota, added 137 in 20 carries against the Lions. The fourth-year pro from Jackson State also caught four passes for 107 yards, including a 75-yard scoring pass from Bob Avellini in the 17-point Bears third quart-

"It was just a complete change of direction from the first to the second half," said Detroit coach Tommy Hudspeth.

Baseball Floating On 'Fidrych Syndrone'

NEW YORK (AP) — Everything in baseball is not euphoric, but America's favorite pastime is floating on the wave of what Commissioner Bowie Kuhn calls "the Fidrych Syn-

"We have a new generation that has fallen in love with the game," the tall, low-key executive said, his optimism reflecting the rosy color of his shirt. "In the past few years we have seen our young people move more toward the arts and cultural things, and I think you can say that baseball, with its non-violent nature, has benefitted from this trend.

"I don't consider it presumptuous when I say baseball is attracting more young people than any other major sport. More and more, these fans relate to the game's personali-

'Mark Fidrych is a manifestation of it - a unique individual that has brought new stimulation to the sport. How long has it been since you saw a crowd call a player out of the dugout to take a bow after the game was over?

The barons of baseball go into their winter meetings in Honolulu in less than two weeks facing a slate of headaches - some new, some old. Topping the agenda probably will be the economic problem, rising out of the unrealistic multimillion dollar price tags on free agents, threatening to throw the competitive scales off balance.

Old scorched acorns include the crunch in the Bay Area (where Oakland and San Francisco provide one too many teams for the population); the prospect of getting a franchise in Washington, D.C., where a watchdog Congress re-sides plus the collective bargaining agreement and television contract, each of which has two more years remaining

But the baseball brass can go to the peaceful islands Dec. 5-9 with buttons popping over an attendance boom which keeps breaking records every year. Crowds in 1977 were up 22 per cent over 1976 and 26 per cent over 1975. The 54,244. 382 fans in 1977 represented a total increase of 20 million over the previous two seasons.

Spectator interest carried over to the playoffs and World Series, with total attendance for 15 games - 813,005 - exceeding that of the 17 games played in 1976. The World Series alone drew 337,708

"A baseball game is not just a contest - it is a happening," said Kuhn, an imposing 6-foot-5 figure who maintains a poker-straight physique and low profile. "It may sound corny but I think it best reflects the personality of the country. It involves conflict, hot emotions, partisan feelings.

"It also involves personalities — especially personalities." The commissioner cited the World Series as the best exammanagers, Billy Martin and Tom Lasorda." Kuhn acknowledged that the princely salaries, automatically turning players into superstars, may have contributed to the surge of new interest, but he gave much of the credit for the game's attendance spiral to the emergence of Mark "The Bird" Fidrych.

Fidrych is the flighty Detroit pitcher who burst on the scene like a thunderclap as a raw, uninhibited rookie in 1976 and mesmerized fans with his mound antics and winning ways. He talked to the ball, did gardening around the mound and won baseball games. It was on a nationally televised game in Detroit June 28, 1976 that "The Bird" dazzled the Yankees 5-1. Thousands remained in the stands, cheering wildly until Fidrych came out to take a bow. Fidrych continued to fill ball parks until suffering an arm injury last season.

"Fidrych popularized the curtain call in baseball," said Kuhn. "Now it's become a baseball tradition."

Ex-Tiger Manager Mayo Smith Dies

DETROIT (AP) - "Auld Lang Syne" echoed from the Tiger Stadium organ that day in September 1970 following a Cleveland Indians-Detroit Tigers baseball

Soon afterwards, Mayo Smith showered and dressed for the last time as manager of the Tigers. "It always will end this way," he said sorrowfully. "I said it before, you either get fired here or somewhere else. Smith, who guided Detroit to an American League pennant and World Series triumph over St. Louis in 1968, had just been fired by Tigers General Manager Jim Campbell. Billy Martin eventually was named Smith's successor

"That hour glass is filled with sand and time will take its course." Smith said as he left the press room for the last time.

On Thursday, Thanksgiving Day, Edward Mayo Smith died at a hospital in Boynton Beach, Fla., two days after suffering a stroke while dining with his family in a Lake Worth restaurant. His daughter said he never regained cons-

Smith, credited with engineering the short but brilliant career of Denny McLain, who won 31 games in 1968, spent the last seven years in retirement in Flor-

"I can't promise we'll win the pennant," he said just before the 1968 sea-"I don't know how those things come out. But this team really grew up last year and I know we'll have a stronger

His 1967 team battled Boston to the wire before losing out to the Red Sox by one game on the final day of the season.

"I grew a year older in the last two days of the 1967 season," Smith said. Smith, who was raised in Lake Worth, spent 36 years in baseball. He played with the Philadelphia Athletics and later managed in the New York Yankees' farm sys-

He went on to manage Philade and Cincinnati before taking over the Tigers after the 1966 season. Charlie Dressen began the 1966 season as manager, but died of a heart attack and was replaced by Bob Swift. He was sidelined by lung cancer and Frank Skaff took over.

Smith's Tiger teams compiled a composite 363-285 record. His last squad, in 1970, finished fourth in the East Division with a 79-83 record, 29 games out of first. His pennant team was 103-59.

Smith gained an instant reputation as a bold and successful gambler when, to get another potent bat in the lineup, he started centerfielder Mickey Stanley at shortstop in the World Series. Stanley had never played the position, but the gamble worked. Generally, Smith got along well with the news media and was well liked by his players. But when he got angry he'd slam the door of his clubhouse office and reporters would have to go elsewhere for

He is survived by his widow, Louise: his daughter, Judith Wolfe, of Miami; a son, Fred, of Lake Worth; and three grandchildren.

Razorbacks' Bomb Upends Tech 17-14

Calcagni's throw was deflected by Tech tackle Jim Krahl.

Early in the final period, Arkansas moved near the goal, but the still-stubborn Tech defense said no, stopping Calcagni a half-yard shy of first-down yar-dage on a fourth-and-2 effort. However, that only delayed the course of events.

Arkansas soon forced Tech to punt and took over at its 41-yard line after a 26yard kick by Mock, his first poor one of the game.

The Razorbacks had twice before knifed unsuccessfully at the Raider secondary with the deep pass-often an effective weapon against Tech this sea-son—but came up with a winner the third From his 41, Calcagni rolled slightly to the right and heaved a long throw for freshman wide receiver Bobby Duckworth. Duckworth, many yards behind the Raider defense, caught the ball around the Tech 25 and scored easily. "Duckworth was the primary receiver," Arkansas coach Lou Holtz said. "We had put that play in this week and thought that that was the appropriate time to use it.' "I'd say that that was one of the better calls they've made," Sloan said with a wistful grin." The visitors again went for 2 points, and Calcagni hit Micheal Forrest out of the backfield on the right side for the conversion and a 17-14 lead with 6:18 remaining in the game.

The Raiders had the ball twice more, but fourth-down passes by Allison to tight end Gregg Adkins failed each time. The first was batted down, and the second, on fourth and 7 from the Tech 36, was thrown slightly behind the receiver

In the first half, the Raiders had resembled the team that it had been expected to be prior to the season. They stifled the Razorback offense and ground out yardage against the tough Hog defense, which entered the game allowing aver-

However, Tech rallied immediately with a 15-play, 80-yard TD drive that consumed 6:06. It was only the second time this season that the Raiders have mounted a sustained, ground-oriented march like this against a good defensive team. Flanker Brian Nelson raced 23 yards to Quietly striding along with Raider head coach Steve Sloan was a man wearing different-colored garb, his cap pulled down over his eyes. He walked on past the guards, however.

It was Lou Holtz, the head coach of Arkansas. He stayed only a few minutes behind the closed doors, then ducked out the back way and hustled to his own, victorious dressing room.

What he had done was congratulate the Raiders on their performance in the 17-14

Razorback victory. What he said Sloan couldn't remember; Billy Taylor recalled it as something about "a class team."

"I thought it was third and 7, when it was third and 2 (on a pass incompletion which helped blunt a Tech scoring opportunity inside the Razorbacks' 15 at a time when Tech ap-

Pollutant May Destroy Refuge For Diving Ducks

By WILLIAM PRATER
HAMILTON, Ill. (AP) — An unidentified pollutant in the Mississippi River is killing off the fingernail clam in the Keokuk Pool, described by biologists as the single most important diving duck habitat in North America.

Researchers at the Illinois Natural History Survey fear the same thing may be ing in the Keokuk Pool that ruined the Illinois River as diving duck refuge in a mysterious dieoff in 1954.

The tiny clams, which grow in huge underwater beds, are 90 percent of the diet of such diving ducks as the canvasback and lesser scaup, said biologist Richard E. Sparks. The present fingernail clam population in the 20-mile pool between Fort Madison and Keokuk, Iowa, "is about 10 percent of what it was two years ago," Sparks said. "That's not enough for waste water from fertilizer plants, he the ducks to eat."

The tiny clams are also the principal food of channel catfish and buffalo fish, which make the Keokuk Pool a highly productive commercial fishery.

Fingernail clams usually thrive in a polluted environment, which make the Illinois and Mississippi dieoffs all the more puzzling, Sparks said. "Very little is known about their water quality require-

The survey is studying several pollutants found in much higher concentrations in the Illinois than the Mississippi. The most suspect is ammonia, found in heavy doses in the Illinois due to discharge from the Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago, Sparks said It also comes from fertilizer runoff and Ammonia will kill fingernail clams at concentrations of more than .5 parts per million, biologist Carl Thompson said.

"It's above that now in Pool 19 (Keo-

Pool 19 is the main gathering point for diving ducks from all over the Mississippi Flyway, Bellrose said. From Canada, the Dakotas and Minnesota they stop to feed in Pools 5 and 6 of the Mississippi in northern Wisconsin, then fly to Pool 19. There they drift over the clam beds for birds or more, gorging themselves before the long nonstop flight to wintering grounds in Florida, Mexico and backwa-

If Pool 19 is no longer a source of food, "the birds will have little choice but to fly another thousand miles nonstop," he grounds in a weakened condition. Many will die.

On the Illinois River, more than half a million canvasbacks and various species of bluebills once feasted on the abundant clam beds. By 1955, the diving duck population there was sliced in half. Within three years only a few thousand stopped pool at any one time. In 1976 the Natural History Survey counted 20 million "diving duck days of use," one day for each day a duck remained.

A huge flock of about 150,000 canvasbacks dropped on the pool late last week. "The real question is how long they stay," Bellrose noted.

Equity In Rates Cited As Consumer Concern

this stage of the energy crisis are most concerned over equity and fairness in who pays the higher costs, a speaker from Texas told a conference on "The Consumer and the Utilities" here this

"People realize energy is going to cost more, but they don't feel one class of ratepayers ought to have to pay more than another," said Mrs. Laura Keever of Houston, a member of the energy committee of the League of Women Voters of the United States.

Mrs. Keever, who is chairman of the conservation advisory subcommittee of the Texas Energy Advisory Council, was among leadoff speakers at a conference sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Kansas and the Kansas Corporation Commission.

Gov. Robert F. Bennett welcomed those attending the conference, calling it an important step in bringing about understanding that the cost of energy is going up, but the goal should be fairness in who pays the higher bills.

Later speakers included GmT. Van Bebber, KCC chairman; Robert D. Fink, manager of Gas Service Co.'s marketing

Educator Says Tests Favor Middle Class

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Disadvantaged children, whether white or black, will do worse on IQ tests than middleclass children, California school superintendent Wilson Riles says.

Riles, testifying this week in federal court in a suit challenging the use of IQ tests to place black children in classes for the mentally retarded, rejected the idea that blacks necessarily do worse on the tests than whites.

Earlier in the case, the state filed a deposition saying genetic reasons could explain why more blacks were in classes been mentioned again in the case.

"All tests are culturally discriminato-'Riles said, and all "have bias in favor of the middle class.

"I don't see that it's a color question...If you are poor and culturally disadvantaged, yes, (you) are going to do poorly on the test, you are going to get the short end of the stick, whether you are a member of the minority or of the majority," Riles said.

Riles is a defendant in the suit by plaintiffs who argue that bias in the tests means a higher proportion of black children wind up in classes for the retarded.

U.S. District Judge Robert F. Peckham has barred California from placing black children into classes for the mentally retarded on the basis of IQ tests unless they take into account the cultural background or experience of the children.

Other defendants in the suit are the State Board of Education, the San Francisco School District and its officials.

Marineworld Officials Fight To Save Whale

GALVESTON (UPI) - Officials of Sea-Arama Marineworld are keeping a 24hour watch on a critically ill male adult Pigmy Sperm whale found on the east shore of Galveston Island.

Meteorologist Says Drought Ended In Pacific Northwest

Meterologist Jerome Namias, who accurately predicted the Pacific Northwest's drought, believes normal weather is returning.

"I am optimistic that this marks the end of the three-year drought in Northern California and the seasonal drought in Oregon and Washington," Namias said of the rain and snow storms that pelted the region this week.

Robert Kilburg, president of the Paper Stock Institute of America, explains "The unprecedented demand is due to the pressure now being placed on news supplies by the insulation industry to meet meowner needs."

Millions of Americans, he noted, are in-sulating their homes to minimize fuel costs, "encouraged by pending passage of a tax rebate for home insulation in the emerging energy bill."

The technology of grinding used newsprint and processing it with fire-retar-dant chemicals to make cellulose insulation is at least 50 years old, but the demand for the product wasn't nearly as great as it is now.

First Thanksgiving Worth $8,176 Now

By HUGH R. MULLIGAN The town fathers of Plymouth, Mass., were thankful yesterday that the first Thanksgiving was 356 years ago instead of there and now

At today's food prices, they never could afford it.

It will be recalled from Governor Bradford's Journal that the Mayflower settlers early on established good vibes with the Wampanoag, the resident tribe, when colonist Edward Winslow cured Big Chief Massasoit of his chronic constipation by administering the favorite physic of Dr. Samuel Fuller, the Pilgrim physician who apparently didn't make wigwarn calls.

If George Armstrong Custer had had the hindsight to treat Sitting Bull in this humane manner a couple of centuries later, he might have avoided the unpleasantness at the Little Big Horn and the Sioux chief might have stuck to his old name of Jumping Badger.

Anyhow, the relieved sagamore of the Wampanoag was so grateful at rejoining the regular fellows he warned the Pilgrims of a conspiracy to wipe out Plymouth by the rival Massachusetts Indians and with alacrity, considering his condition, accepted an invite to the First Thanksgiving Dinner.

But, as it turned out, the chief's heart was bigger than the menu. On the apof his braves, instead of just a few assistant sachems to grace the head table, and thereby created history's first Thanksgiving panic in the kitchen.

From the chronicles we know that of the 102 passengers who arrived on the Mayflower, including the two born at sea, only 55 survived that first winter and only five of the 18 wives, who by now probably wished they hadn't either. Here they were slaving over an open fire for an unexpected guest list of 146 and only enough food for a third that many, subtracting the five little ones.

Miles Standish dispatched four of his militiamen with fowling pieces to bag a gaggle of geese, a gobble of wild turkeys and a brace of mallards in the surrounding woods. Nymphet Priscilla Mullins stopped holding hands with John Alden long enough to pluck some lobsters, clams, oysters, cod and eel from the town brook. And the embarrassed Indians untucked their napkins, unquivered their arrows and came back with five deer.

Somehow they got it all together and came up with an eight-course menu that even now would tantalize the cost accountants in the catering department of an elite bar mitsvah palace. There were no pies or fruit cakes that first Thanksgiving, because the colonists had run out of sugar, but the bogs were full of cranberries and, after a fine harvest, the comhouse larder was piled high with orn, barley, peas and dried fruit. The Indians had yet to show them how to use pumpkins, but they had learned the fireside secrets of Indian pudding and ash cakes and how to pop corn and douse it in maple sap, a favorite with the children. The sober Pilgrim Fathers, who didn't trust the local water, brought over enough Scotch whiskey, Holland gin and beer, and other "strong spirits" to last more than a year after the Mayflower departed, and Massasoit's medicine man id taught them how to make red and white wine from the wild grapes that ounded on Cape Cod.

Thomas Hogan, director of catering at the New York Hilton, figures the original Thanksgiving dinner from soup to nuts, from the lobster bisque and oyster stew down through the haunch of venison, the roast wild turkey, the braised mallard and the stuffed goose, "would cost $50 a person today at any first-class hotel or agent from the blue blood of horseshoe crabs is expected to replace the rabbit as a way to test for a bacterial poison in vaccines and other substances injected into humans.

The substance, called Limulus Amebocyte Lysate or LAL, clots when it comes in contact with bacterial endotoxins which can cause fever or even death if they enter the blood stream of people.

That discovery led to a quicker and cheaper way to check vaccines injected into humans for endotoxins, or pyrogens as they are sometimes called. The Food and Drug Administration requires that samples of all biologic materials developed for human use be tested.

The standard way of carrying out the testing is to inject the substances into rabbits. If they develop a fever, then it is

WASHINGTON (UPI) - A peculiar which cost $15 apiece, often are used only a few companies producing LAL, said the once for such a test and then are killed. Three rabbits are required to test every lot of biologics.

This means many thousands of rabbits are used annually by drug companies to test their drugs. The FDA approved the use of LAL last year to test swine flu vaccine for endotoxins and LAL now is used to test some experimental vaccines. "It is a much better technique, simpler, more economical and more sensitive, said Dr. Donald Hochstein of the FDA's Bureau of Biologics. The FDA recently said it would consider approving LAL to test other vaccines

if the manufacturer can demonstrate for a specific product that LAL works at least as well as the rabbit test. Dr. Robert Fennell of Microbiological extract from the blood of horseshoe crabs is merely mixed with the sample substance in a test tube and put in an incubator for a few minutes. If a clear clot forms, then biologists know there is a pyrogen in the material The test is also used in some hospitals for rapid detection of some types of bacteria in spinal fluid. Conventional bacteriological tests of samples from spinal taps take at least 24 hours LAL was developed by Dr. Jack Levin and colleagues at the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine after studying the clotting mechanism horseshoe crabs apparently have used for millions of years as a defense against some kinds of bacteria.

The horseshoe crabs which "donate" the blood are obtained from Maryland's spike-tailed creatures produces about a cup of blood, colored pale blue by the presence of a copper compound. After the blood is obtained from the crab. Fennell said it is returned unharmed to the sea. The clotting substance is extracted from the blood by standard blood cell separation techniques and then freeze dried for storage and shipment. The horseshoe crab, otherwise known as Limulus Polyphemus, is found on the eastern coast of the United States. It is sometimes called a "living fossil" because its ancestors date back several hundred million years.

In the United States, there are over 107 million cars and 26 million trucks and buses in a population of 215,600,000.

But being a business prophet is at best a risky profession that could be compared with a witty Frenchman's definition of a critic - a person whose function it is to be wrong.

When the first solid-state digitals were introduced at the retail level in 1972, analysts were claiming they would quickly destroy the market for all other types of watches and that many jewelers would be driven out of the watch business.

Indeed, sales of the digital watch grew from 8,000-25,000 units in 1972 (depending upon varying estimates) into the millions last year.

Two of the more prominent American makers of quality sweephand watches, Benrus and Gruen, did suffer huge loss-

As prices of digital watches plunged from several hundred dollars to as little as $10, three big semiconductor manufacturers, Intel, American Microsystems and Litronix, pulled out of the finished watch business. Three remain, Fairchild, National Semiconductor and Texas Instruments.

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market was mixed today in a fairly quiet post-Thanksgiving session.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up 7.54 ir, the three sessions before the holiday Thursday, pulled back 1.82 to 841.48 by noon

But gainers held a 3-2 advantage over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts noted a mood of encouragement over the Federal Reserve's recent steady monetary policy and an accompanying stable trend in interest rates.

It appeared, however, that a good many traders were holding back today awaiting the latest weekly money-supply data from the Fed, due at the NYSE close. Carborundum, the most active

NYSE issue, dropped 3/4 to 63. Kennecott Copper was sued by trustees for two stockholders seeking to block the company's bid to acquire Carborundum for $66 a

The Big Board's composite index of all its listed common stocks slipped .03 to 53.16. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index climbed .86 to 122.70. Volume on the NYSE slowed to 8.07 million shares by noon from 12.18 million at the same point on Wednesday.

Japanese Buy

U.S. Dollars

TOKYO (AP) - The Bank of Japan appeared to buy about $40 million near the close of trading today to hold the dollar at 240.025 yen, unchanged from Thursday's close, traders said.

The market was mostly quiet during the day, with the central bank apparently only intervening late in the session. On Thursday, the bank is estimated to have bought nearly $600 million to support the U.S. currency.

Intervention by the central bank in the past six trading sessions has topped $1 billion, sources said. The position of the Bank of Japan is viewed as precarious at the moment by market participants. The huge amount of yen flooding the markets here as a result of central bank dollar buying could bring sharp inflation and other negative economic consequences. Japanese bankers angrily reject implications by some government sources that they were now leading speculative attacks on the dollar.

RARE STAMPS - Eight stamps, worth about $500,000 are shown by U.S. Customs agents James McClung and Robert LaRatta. A closeup, below, shows the stamps which an ex-Army officer says were given to him by a grateful East German couple he smuggled to freedom. Cyclone Victims' Relief Dragging million persons were reported homeless today along the cyclone and tidal wavedevastated southeast coast of India. Politicians continued wrangling over blame for lagging relief operations In the two worst hit districts of Andhra Pradesh state, 475,000 houses were destroved in the violent storm last weekend while the total death toll was still not clear. Estimates ranged from 10,000 to 50,000, but state officials so far confirmed 9,000 had perished.

By BARRY SHLACHTER NEW DELHI, India (AP) - About 3

Those still marooned in flooded villages and hamlets, dozens of which were completely flattened by 20-foot high tidal waves, were receiving supplies by air force helicopters and by a dozen shallow water assault boats, officials said. But a reporter returning from the area said many remote devastated hamlets still have not received any assistance. Pure drinking water was not available in many of them and health officials feared. a breakout of cholera.

In Hyderabad, the Andhra Pradesh state capital, opposition politicians said locally-organized relief measures were absolutely ineffective and inadequate." They accused the state government of 'criminal negligence" for failing to evacuate villagers despite advance warnings of the violent storm. Indian President Neelam Sanjiva Reddy told reporters in Hyderabad it was regrettable that full-scale relief operations began only after the state's chief minister had made an aerial survey of the devastated areas three days after the cyclone

Thanksgiving Meal Eaten Under Water

By ROBERT C. MILLER PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (UPI) -There was just something about Leonard Cozzo's Thanksgiving dinner that didn't seem right.

A traditionalist of the old school, Cozzo made certain everything about the dinner was as traditionally American as the big scoop of ice cream that floated atop the hot mince pie. There was the turkey of course: succulent and juicy inside with the crisp, parchment skin that had been roasted to perfection. The baked ham was a rose pink with the traditional pineapple and raisin sauce. The dressing was New England style - with oysters. For those who had an aversion to turkey, Len had travs of lobster tails swimming in butter on the warming trays and the biscuits came to the table piping hot.

Naturally there were the traditional condiments: the cranberry sauce, giblet gravy, and applesauce preceded by a choice of shrimp or crabmeat cocktails. All this was anchored by mince or pumpkin pie, fruit cake, ice cream or a plate full of them all.

And the guests were typical polyglot American. The Gozzo family was from Steubenville, Ohio. Jim Mullally was from Cincinnati. Tom McClellan III. came all the way from Birmingham, Ala., and Dave Finch was out of West Chazy,

And there certainly was no fault to be found with the decor. There were the posters of turkey and pumpkins on the wall. The stereo played quiet, dinner music, the menus had the horn of plenty printed on the covers and the napkins were made especially for Thanksgiving. But you just had the feeling that the Pilgrim fathers didn't have eating under water in mind when they started the tradition of Thanksgiving dinner. For the meal served by specialist chief. Gozzo and his cooks was prepared and served aboard the nuclear submarine while the black-hulled boat was tied up at The guests all made a rather unusual entrance to the feasting room. They had to squeeze through a deck hatch and descend down two decks to the compact galley where the dinner was served.

Tautog which hosted the crew's families

Seldom has so much good food come out of such a small space as Cozzo and his cooks ladled out Thursday. Charles Ullrich of Bakersfield, Calif., and Lawrence Weller of Millerburg, Pa., worked elbow to elbow in the cramped confines of the kitchen which produced the first prize in the submarine competition for food.

Lt. Cmdr. Finch, the Tautog's executive officer and official host, explained the boat had won second place in the Navy-wide competition for small enlisted dining facilities, narrowly losing to a sur-His guests, between burps, were of the unanimous opinion that the Tautog had been robbed.

No Action Set On Diet Drink

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Food and Drug administration says it plans no action at present beyond requiring warning labels on the liquid protein products sweeping diet-conscious America.

Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., said Thursday FDA sources told him the agency was expected to ban the so-called pre-digested liquid protein diet by Monday. But FDA officials said the report was prema-

They said a top-level meeting on liquid protein was held Wednesday and officials made no plans beyond a mandatory warning label at this time.

Percy said Wednesday he had obtained new figures from the Center for Disease Control stating there were 26 possible deaths linked with liquid protein diets in 11 states and the Canadian province of Ontario.

John T. Walden, FDA assistant commissioner for public affairs, said in a telephone interview Thursday the mandatory warning for each liquid protein product has FDA's "top priority."

FLOWER AUTOMAT - Dana Smith carries a flower arrangement from Watkins Flowers' 24-hour vending shop in Raleigh, N.C., where patrons can get a choice of 14 arrangements any time the need arises. Shop owner Ken Watkins invented the vending machine, which resembles a food vendor. Four or five customers each night are taking advantage of the service. (AP Laserphoto)

Customers Buy Flowers From Vending Machine

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) - People who like to say it with flowers can now make spur-of-the-moment declarations of love, sympathy or remorse at any hour of Raleigh florist Ken Watkins, tired of midnight calls at his home from the desperate, the grieving or the forgetful, has installed a vending machine at his shop which will trade flowers for cash any time.

Watkins consulted for a year with an engineer over the design of his brainchild, which operates much like a conventional food vending machine. It has 14 doors, each opening on a booth in which a flower arrangement has been placed. Customers scan the glass doors, labeled with prices and a selection number. When they make their choice, they deposit the purchase price in $1 and $5 bills and hit the right button. The machine gives them 60 seconds to open the door. "Business is tremendous," says store manager Doug Jones. "It began operating the last week of October. We've been real pleased and our customers are overwhelmed. We're selling four or five of the designs each night." Ten of the 14 compartments are refrigerated. The other four are used for potted plants and dry arrangements. "This could turn into a bonus for the whole industry if it catches on," said Watkins, who has applied for a patent on his idea. "A 24-hour flower shop could get people into the flower buying habit around the clock. 'If a guy gets locked out of his house," Jones chuckled, "I don't know anything that will soften a woman's heart more than flowers.'

Flowers Brighten Holidays

By EARL ARONSON Associated Press Writer

The holiday season is a time for flowers in the home. It is a time for fresh or dried flowers of autumn hue - red, russet, gold and beige, for bronze chrysanthemums, yellow snap-dragons, bright marigolds, burgundy coxcomb and others.

If you prefer dried arrangements around the centerpiece or cornucopia of late season fruits and vegetables, there is so much available: sprigs of wheat, cattails or ornamental grasses, Indian corn, seeds, lotus pods. Or you can hang sprays of bright leaves and dried pods from the front door to welcome guests.

One historian says the early American holiday table did not bear flowers, but they were abundantly displayed on sideboards, chests and buffets.

The cornucopia on the table, however, will be enhanced by fruits and nuts, apples, grapes, gourds, cauliflower, cabbage and broccoli. But don't make your decorations so tall your dinner company will have trouble looking over them.

A note of caution: If you combine fruits and vegetables with floral arrangements, remember that fruits and vegetables give off ethylene gas that shortens the life of fresh flowers.

There are some fine American shrubs and vines that will help supply color to your decorations.

Popular for its orange berries is the pyracantha or firethorn, which grows large outdoors in the sun. Prune judiciously for decorative material. Another is bittersweet, which makes a fine covering for fences. You'll need male and female plants for abundant orange fruits that split open. The foliage and orange fruits last well in dry arrangements or when stems are kept in water. Holly is another, with red berries

Another decorative plant is the Chinese Lantern or Physalis. The orange fruits are encased in a papery, inflated ornamental husk. To raise these, start seeds indoors or in the garden early in the Staying with the orange theme for outdoor decoration there is the Mountain Ash (which isn't very long-lived in the North) and the Tea Viburnum which has clusters of fruit birds enjoy.

Use a variety of materials of different shapes, sizes, colors and textures. Decorative pieces for shelves or mantels don't have to be as fussy as those for tables because they can't be seen from all directions. Just balance them so they don't look top-heavy.

Here are some suggestions:

Colored gourds: a pineapple decorated with a candle and surrounded by smaller fruit; a terrarium with assorted moss, berries and other woodland material (you can use an abandoned fish bowl or tank); on a flat piece of weathered wood arrange pieces of cattails, corn tassels, strawberry corn and rosettes made from corn husks; pine cones sliced to make 'roses"; milkweed pods dissected into very slow oven until they opened to make and watering cans that will do nicely.

Need a container? There are around

Just don't make your arrangements too formal. And there are always roses. (For Earl Aronson's "Associated Press

Archaeologist Discovers Tomb Of King Philip II Of Macedon

SALONICA, Greece (UPI) - King Philip II, the father of Alexander the Great, was stabbed to death at his daughter's wedding feast in 336 B.C., perhaps at the hands of a royal attendant bribed by his enemies.

For 2,314 years the Macedonian monarch lay buried in a large underground tomb amid the golden oppulence befitting ancient kings.

Now Prof. Manolis Andronikos says he has found Philip's tomb hidden beneath 26,160 cubic yards of dirt in the tiny farming village of Vergina, 30 miles southwest of Salonica

Andronikos has spent decades digging for Macedonian tombs, but the Vergina

USDA Slates Pest Control Workshops

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Agriculture Department has set up three workshops in the coming months to discuss plans for integrated pest management, a concept aimed at using a variety of methods to control insects and other enemies of farmers' crops and livestock.

Officials said the first session will be Dec. 13-15 in Kansas City, Mo.: followed by a second Feb. 28-March 3 in Gainesville. Fla.: and a third March 7-9 in Reno.

The sessions will be conducted by the federal-state cooperative extension services in those states.

Officials said the meetings "will be of interest to entomologists, plant pathologists, nematologists, economists and specialists in farm management, weeds and Under integrated pest management, procedures are developed using cultural methods, the vulnerabilities of pests, resistant types of crops, biological controls and pesticides to control the pests. One idea is to reduce the amount of chemical pesticides needed by farmers to control pests.

The Kansas City workshop will cover corn, soybeans, wheat, grain sorghum, forage, alfalfa and sunflowers. At Gainesville, the program will include peaches, citrus, vegetables, potatoes, peanuts, tobacco, soybeans and cotton. The Reno meeting will involve alfalfa grown for seed, cotton, sugarbeets, vegetables, deciduous fruit such as apples, and live-find is the realization of every archaeologist's dream - to unearth evidence of ancient historical figures.

"I held the golden casket containing his bones, and I knew - but was almost afraid to say - it was Philip, father of Alexander," he said Thursday while recounting the find at Salonica University.

Philip not only was the father of Alexander, who in his time ruled most of the known world, but also was a powerful Macedonian king whose army was feared from Athens to India.

Archeologists said Andronikos find was "the most important in Greece for dec-

Andronikos, beaming with pride, told reporters he has been excavating around Vergina for 40 years and first noticed the 40-foot-high mound in the early 1950s.

A bulldozer first uncovered traces of a funeral pyre containing metal harness fittings for three or four horses, a sign that the person buried below was of high rank

Then Andronikos unearthed the marble doorway, topped with a superb fresco showing mounted hunters pursuing deer and a lion through a forest and surrounded by a white facade highlighted in bright blue and red paint. "We knew at once no common mortal was buried in such a tomb," he said

Inside the 16.4-foot-high chamber was a suit of royal armor - a gold-trimmed breastplate, a helmet, shinguards and a shield of leather and wood decorated with ivory and glass.

Nearby lay a gold diadem, a thin crown identical to those carved on the statues of Macedonian kings, and fragments of a gold-decorated scepter.

"It contained the bones of the dead king, covered with a wreath of gold leaves," Andronikos said. The first proof that it was Philip's tomb was that all the artifacts were made during his lifetime. Then, scouring the chamber on his knees with a flashlight, Andronikos found what he called "the proof of proofs" - the ivory heads of five tiny

"Their faces seemed familiar, and when I put them together I realized who they were - Philip himself, his bearded face recognizable from copies of his statues; his parents, his wife Olympias and of course the familiar portrait of Alexan-

1,000 Trees Bring Early Christmas

JOPLIN, Mo. (UPI) - Christmas came a little early to Leafy Smith's house Thursday.

A semi-tractor trailer loaded with Christmas trees ran off Interstate 44 just east of Joplin and into the Smith yard, dumping about 1,000 Christmas trees in

The accident occurred when one of the truck's tires blew out.

The highway patrol said there were no injuries in the mishap. But it took several hours to reload the blue spruces, white pines and scotch pines into the truck.
