Showers, Snow Pelt Southwest

A-J News Services

Snow mixed with rain dampened the eastern section of the Texas Panhandle early today, as a Pacific cool front brought high winds and light snow to much of the western states, but a major storm that socked portions of the nation at the close of the Thanksgiving holiday tapered off early today.

The South Plains remained cool and dry amid all the turbulence, and weathermen scoffed at chances for significant precipitation or temperature changes during the next couple of days.

In many areas of the East, the snow was not as heavy as expected. In New Jersey, for instance, most areas received only about a quarter-inch of snow before the storm passed. The National Weather Service said the reason was that the storm had moved through the state much faster than had been expected.

More than 460 persons died on the nation's highways and streets during the Thanksgiving holiday period, which stretched from Wednesday evening through Sunday. The National Safety Council had predicted between 460 and 560 fatalities.

The storm hit hardest in the Midwest, western New York State and western Pennsylvania.

Six inches of snow were recorded at the Metropolitan Airport outside of Detroit between Sunday noon and early this morning, when the fall tapered off to flurries. The streets of Detroit suburbs were so slippery that taxi companies were refusing to take calls.

In Alpena, Mich., along Lake Huron, nearly 7 inches of snow was recorded and another 2 inches was expected today.

Motorists stranded in Caryville, Tenn., on Interstate 75 north of Knoxville, slept in motel lobbies, a church, an elementary school and on the floor of a coin-operated laundry.

Police Chief Wayne Gunter said, "We had about 4 inches of snow. Then it turned to solid ice." He said northbound cars were unable to climb Jellico Mountain.

"We had our grammar school completely full," Gunter said. He said Caryville's four motels were full, some 175 persons slept in the school, and another 150 to 200 persons found other makeshift lodging.

He said about 15 Caryville families invited stranded travelers to stay overnight. See WEATHER Page 14

Rhodesians Report 1,200 Blacks Slain

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — The Rhodesian government reported today that its ground and air forces have destroyed two guerrilla bases in Mozambique and killed at least 1,200 black nationalists.

A military command statement said the bases were used by Rhodesian black nationalist guerrillas fighting to topple the white minority government.

Troops backed by air support penetrated 132 miles inside Mozambique at one point during raids in the past several days, the military communique said.

The military communique confirmed earlier reports from Mozambique that Rhodesian air and ground attacks had been launched against guerrilla positions in the neighboring country.

Observers noted that if 1,200 guerrillas have been slain in the raids starting last Wednesday, a fifth of the forces of Robert Mugabe's Zimbabwe African National Union forces known to be based in Mozambique have been wiped out.

Informed sources said, meanwhile, that three moderate nationalist leaders have agreed to meet with Prime Minister Ian Smith for talks that could lead to black rule.

The other chief leader of nationalist forces outside Rhodesia, Joshua Nkomo, rejected Smith's promise of elections with universal suffrage as a "deceit" to win time.

The communique stressed that there were no clashes with troops of the Mozambique government, which provides bases in the country for the guerrillas.

No raids were reported against Nkomo's guerrilla forces based in Zambia. One of the camps attacked was at Tembe, described in the communique as 132 miles from the Rhodesian border, in the northwestern Tete province of Mozambique where several camps used by guerrillas are known to have existed.

The other, an operational headquarters, was reported to be at Chimoio which the communique said was 54 miles inside Mozambique.

The communique, which came after six days of official silence on reports from Mozambique of the raids, said one Rhodesian soldier was slain and eight were wounded. All Rhodesian troops have returned to the country, the communique said.

It said the raids were carried out "in the interests of self-defense." In a surprise announcement Thursday, Smith offered to open talks immediately with moderate black leaders living inside Rhodesia and promised elections with universal suffrage in exchange for guarantees safeguarding the interests of the 268,000 whites.

Informed sources said Smith's offer was accepted by Bishop Abel Muzorewa, head of the African National Council; the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole, who leads a faction that broke away from the African National Council, and Chief Jeremiah Chirau, president of the Zimbabwe United People's Organization.

Government officials expect the talks to begin this week.

Smith said Nkomo and Robert Mugabe, the other leader of the guerrilla Patriotic Front, could also participate if they renounced violence.

British Foreign Secretary David Owen gave cautious approval to Smith's proposals, saying the elections he promised must be "demonstrably free and fair." But U.S. Ambassador Andrew Young, Owen's partner in the recent British-American peace initiative, said negotiations without Nkomo and Mugabe would intensify the five-year-old guerrilla war.

Two Israelis Will Attend Cairo Parley

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin formally announced today that Israel will go to Cairo next week-end for a preliminary peace conference and he named two senior officials as Israel's delegates.

They are Dr. Eliahu Ben-Elissar, director-general of the prime minister's office, and Meir Rosenne, the Foreign Ministry's legal adviser.

Begin made the appointments in a speech to the Knesset, or Parliament, discussing the aftermath of President Anwar Sadat's historic trip to Israel and Sadat's invitation to all parties in the Mideast dispute to come to Cairo to prepare for a full-dress Geneva peace conference. So far, only Israel has accepted.

Begin disclosed that Sadat's invitation and Israel's acceptance were exchanged through the Egyptian and Israeli ambassadors at the United Nations, A. Esmat Meguid and Chaim Herzog, rather than through U.S. embassies or any other intermediaries.

In other Mideast developments: — In Cairo, acting Egyptian Foreign Minister Butros B. Ghali confirmed that an invitation had been sent to Yasir Arafat, head of the Palestine Liberation Organization, to send delegates to Cairo.

PLO spokesmen have declared their delegates will not attend the Cairo meeting, but there has been no direct response from Arafat.

A spokesman for Begin said Sunday Israel will not go to Cairo if the PLO does. But in his Knesset speech the prime minister gave no indication whether PLO presence would keep the Israelis out of Cairo.

The Arab anti-Sadat front stiffened with an announcement by Syrian President Hafez Assad that he was ready for a reconciliation with neighboring Iraq. "We are all facing the same danger," Assad said, who has denounced Sadat's unilateral peace moves toward Israel.

Assad told a news conference that he would personally attend a conference of hard-line Arab leaders in Tripoli, Libya, on Thursday.

Begin, in his Knesset address, urged Assad to cease his criticism of Sadat's moves and to begin negotiating with Israel. He issued similar appeals to Jordan and Lebanon.

Then he appealed to his own people to stop "competing" in their willingness to reward Sadat's initiative for peace. He called this "vituperation." Vitur is Hebrew for concession.

Begin apparently was referring to signs among leading Israelis of a new, more moderate attitude to key issues like territory, following Sadat's visit here.

The Israeli leader said Sadat's demand for total evacuation of Arab lands captured in 1967, the redivision of Jerusalem and establishment of a Palestinian state "are unacceptable to us." But he added: "I want to forego polemics. The important thing is the future."

"Last night," the prime minister began his speech, "two ambassadors met, shook hands and said shalom to each other. They were the Egyptian and Israeli ambassadors to the United Nations. The first gave the second a letter, and this is its content." Begin then read the content of the invitation from Ghali and announced his acceptance.

The invitations for Sadat's trip to Israel had been transmitted through U.S. Embassies in Cairo and Tel Aviv, and there had been widespread speculation that the same channel was used this time.

The decision to transmit invitations directly through U.N. ambassadors reflected the improvement in Israeli-Egyptian relations since Sadat's visit.

Goodfellows Here Face Huge Task

What do Goodfellows do? "Glad you asked," Chief Goodfellow said, smiling.

His answer: "First and foremost, Goodfellows take Christmas to children in Lubbock who (Goodfellows Coupon On Page 1, Sec. B) otherwise might miss out on this important event.

As the Goodfellows explain, there is much more to it, much hard work behind the scenes.

First, the Goodfellows compile lists of children in the city who face the bleak prospect of missing Christmas if the Goodfellows fail them. That compilation is slow in progress.

Judging from past figures and growth, the 1977 Goodfellows expect to have a Christmas delivery list of about 9,000 boys and girls.

You can help with this vital phase of the Christmas program. Here's how: if you know a child in the city, not over 14 years of age who needs a Goodfellow visit on Christmas Day, fill out the coupon in this edition of The Avalanche-Journal, and mail to Chief Goodfellow, P.O. Box 491, Lubbock, 79408.

Griffin Eyes Re-Election

Veteran Criminal District Attorney Alton Griffin today said he will run for re-election in 1978.

Griffin — who already has competition by one announced candidate in the May Democratic Party primary — named Ken Nelson as his campaign treasurer in a document filed in the county clerk's office.

"I have better than 20 years experience as a prosecutor here, and feel I am aware of what it takes to maintain the office at a consistent level of performance," Griffin, 50, said.

Griffin began prosecuting cases in Lubbock County in 1956, and first won elective office as county attorney in 1960. He became the county's first criminal dis-

Construction Of Schools Defended By Builder

By JEFF SOUTH
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Quality of school construction on the city's predominantly minority northeast side is every bit as good as that in the heavily white southwest quadrant, an expert witness for the Lubbock Independent School District said today as U.S. Dist. Judge Halbert O. Woodward's hearing on local school desegregation resumed.

Henry Huneke, a homebuilder, architect and city advisor, testified he surveyed 16 schools — eight in the northeast and eight in the southwest — and found the facilities "very much the same."

School attorneys hope to use Huneke's testimony to counter U.S. Justice Department allegations that school planning and construction in the northeast has been haphazard and substandard.

Huneke told Woodward there is no evidence for such claims.

Huneke said in several instances of the eight pairs of schools surveyed, northeast facilities were better planned and constructed.

Each pair included one school from opposite sides of town constructed approximately the same year. Schools within every pair were "identical enough to say that if care was given in one case, care was given in the other," Huneke said.

School attorneys, who hope to conclude the district's defense by midweek, also called Supt. Ed Irons to the stand today.

Irons said that contrary to Justice Department contentions, the closing of Thompson Elementary School in 1974 actually increased integration in the district.

Irons said the move allowed the district to send more minorities to predominantly white Dupre Elementary and more whites to heavily minority Jackson Elementary.

Also Irons noted the closing of Thompson Elementary was approved by the Justice Department and Woodward in a letter dated May 31, 1974.

In other remarks today federal government attorney Steve Gurwin told Woodward the only school the Justice Department considers an integrated campus — Wright Elementary — may have been "desegregated by mistake."

"The Wright school falls into a category of many other schools, in that the district

Dispute Rages On Air Safety

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration is clinging to the "see-and-avoid" concept to avert mid-air collisions, relying on pilots' eyesight instead of modern electronic gear, a congressman complained today.

Rep. John L. Burton, D-Calif., said the equipment would help planes avoid collisions, particularly at airports used by both commercial and private aircraft.

Burton, who is planning two days of House hearings into FAA policies, also accused the agency of wasting up to $50 million in recent years on programs that failed, equipment never delivered and contract irregularities.

Burton, chairman of the government activities and transportation subcommittee, called the practices "slipshod and highly questionable."

A spokesman for the FAA said the agency would respond to the charges at the hearing.

On Sunday, however, an official of the 205,000-member Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association attacked Burton's proposal to require planes to be equipped with electronic devices intended to avoid mid-air collisions.

"The mid-air collision is a problem much overemphasized," said Charles Spence, an association spokesman. "The number of collisions is extremely small and the number of fatalities is very small."

About 30 to 35 mid-air collisions occur each year, most involving private aircraft, Spence said.

He said collision avoidance equipment, which directs aircraft away from other planes, costs about $25,000 and would be too expensive for many of the 750,000 operating pilots in the United States.

The association favors the use of proximity warning indicators, which cost $1,000 to $2,000 and would notify pilots if other aircraft were nearby, Spence said.

Burton said the potential for mid-air collisions is greatest at airports where large commercial airliners mix with smaller aircraft that have no direct link with the control tower.

"In those cases, the 'see-and-avoid' concept is employed as the basic solution to avoiding collisions between these aircraft — even though the FAA's reliance on this concept has been criticized for years," he said.

Burton said many airports have no control towers and rely on "some person on the ground who runs out with a pair of binoculars, looks around, then radios a pilot to give him an 'all clear.'"

He said his subcommittee's investigation of the agency has found that:

— Up to $25 million was wasted over the last two years because persons training to become air traffic controllers dropped out of school.

— There were undocumented or "secret" meetings between FAA officials and contractors after which contracts were modified to the benefit of the contractor and "to the detriment of the taxpayer."

DAYS TO CHRISTMAS

Noted Arkansas Lawmaker Dies

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Sen. John L. McClellan, the Southern conservative who became a national figure through his investigations into labor unions and organized crime, died today in his sleep. He was 81.

McClellan's aides said the senator's body was found by his wife about 6:30 a.m. in their Little Rock apartment.

The Arkansas Democrat, who had served in the Senate for 35 years and ranked second in seniority, had announced last week that he would not seek re-election when his sixth term ended Jan. 3, 1979.

McClellan had a pacemaker implanted to regulate his heartbeat last summer. Last Monday when he announced his decision to retire, McClellan said his health was not a factor in his plans.

As head of the Senate Appropriations Committee, McClellan oversaw billions in federal spending. The defense budget usually fared well under him.

McClellan's law-and-order reputation grew in the 1950s when he took over the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee on the death of Sen. Joseph McCarthy.

McClellan was second in seniority in the Senate to James O. Eastland, D-Miss. Both men were sworn in the same day, but a Senate rule gives higher seniority to the senator from a state in the union longer. Mississippi became a state before Arkansas.

McClellan was known during his long career in the Senate as a relentless investigator of wrongdoing in and out of government. He was first elected to the Senate in 1942 after two terms in the House. He was chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee since August 1972.

The time-consuming responsibilities of that post forced him to give up the helm of the Senate's permanent investigations subcommittee, which he had chaired for a record 14 years, from January 1966 to January 1973.

Meany Helping Nureyev

NEW YORK (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany has added his support to a bid to get Soviet authorities to permit the family of dancer Rudolf Nureyev to leave the Soviet Union. Meany has written the State Department, saying Nureyev's 16-year quest for the visas needed to allow his mother, sister and niece to join him in the West "deserves the support of the government of the United States." Meany expressed a hope that Secretary of State Cyrus Vance "will deem it a fitting and proper effort to introduce this matter at every appropriate level." Vance in reply has informed Meany through an aide, "The White House and the Department of State are following this case closely, and our embassy in Moscow and Consulate General in Leningrad are in touch with the Nureyev family." The American Guild of Musical Artists has taken a lead role among various organizations that have rallied behind Nureyev's efforts to see his family again.

Young Credits Divine Guidance

CLEVELAND (AP) — U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young says he is hopeful for peace in the Mideast and credits divine guidance for Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's recent mission to Israel.

YOUNG

Delivering a sermon Sunday at Olivet Institutional Baptist Church, Young said he "told my Arab brothers that the Lord got hold of Anwar Sadat and he went to Jerusalem last week as a messenger of peace." He called Sadat's visit to Israel "a breakthrough in consciousness," and said that soon "the lamb will lay down with the lion" as peace comes to the Mideast.

In his hour-long sermon, Young reminded the predominantly black congregation how far blacks have come in their struggle for justice and equality. After the sermon, Young greeted about 2,000 persons who attended the service commemorating Olivet's founding 46 years ago. In an interview, the ambassador, who is an ordained minister in the United Church of Christ, said he preaches about twice a month. Last week, he said, he preached in Sweden, where he was on U.N. business.

Cat Loses Desire To Travel

BLACK EAGLE, Mont. (AP) — A member of the Jim Smock family — "Barney" the cat — was especially thankful this Thanksgiving. The Smocks had been looking high and low for Barney since he disappeared Halloween night. Barney, described by Mrs. Smock as a "long-haired alley cat," finally turned up Thanksgiving eve. He had accidentally been closed in the family camper after a trip on Halloween and had been trapped there for 23 days without food or water, Mrs. Smock said. But, she said, Barney, "a super-big cat," was declared in good shape by a veterinarian after a checkup. Barney, an avid camper before the ordeal, apparently has lost his desire to travel. Mrs. Smock said he "didn't even want to get into the car to go to the vet's."

Solon Won't Change Name

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y., has become Shirley Hardwick in her second marriage. But she says she will still call herself Rep. Chisholm. On Saturday, at a suburban hotel, the 52-year-old congresswoman married Arthur Hardwick Jr., 61, a former state assemblyman who runs a liquor store here. Her legal name became Mrs. Hardwick, but she said that when she represents her district — and runs for re-election in 1980 — it will still be as Shirley Chisholm. She described the brief ceremony as "something I have waited for a long, long time." She and Hardwick met in Albany, N.Y., after both were elected to the New York Assembly for the 1965-66 term. The first black woman to be elected to Congress, she was divorced from her husband of 26 years, Conrad Chisholm, in the Dominican Republic on Feb. 4. Hardwick's first wife died. The couple plans to live in Brooklyn, according to the marriage license application.

Steel Officials Voice Optimism

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Steel industry officials, who announced major production cutbacks and job layoffs earlier in the year, see a bright future based upon the federal government's expected reaction to industry troubles. "I think we're now in the middle of a process from which the steel industry will emerge strengthened," said C. William Verity, chairman of Armco Steel, the nation's No. 5 producer. "The kinds of things that have occurred have produced a better understanding of our problems," Verity said in a telephone interview from Middletown, Ohio. Verity, like many industry executives, is encouraged by reports that the Carter administration plans broad-based aid for steelmakers. "We're optimistic," said one steel company economist. "The people in Washington now seem to have a fairly realistic attitude and understand some of our problems." The steel industry has complained that rising foreign competition has chewed up growth in the domestic market, depressed prices and pushed down earnings. The industry also complains about pollution requirements, which industry officials say cost the industry $500 million in 1976. Added to these problems are pressures felt by all businessmen — rising costs for energy, labor and raw material. The Carter administration plan, set to be released this week by the Treasury Department, is expected to cut imports, ease pollution requirements and encourage capital formation. Assistant Treasury Secretary Anthony Solomon has told members of Congress the goal will be to trim foreign steel's share of the market — currently running at 20 percent — to between 12 percent and 14 percent. Domestic producers have complained that foreign steel has been dumped in the United States — sold at prices below the cost of production — to preserve jobs

102 Babies Fill Time For Woman

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — When Opal Cook moved to Indianapolis, she found herself with time on her hands. Now — 40 years and 102 foster children later — she's still finding ways to keep busy. "I don't say how many diapers I've washed over the years, just that there have been a lot of changes around here," she chuckles. "When we moved (here) from a small town, our son was 10 years old and busy with school," she recalls. "I heard about the Children's Bureau, applied for a license and got a little boy. We kept him for three years, and he visits us once in a while with his wife and two children from California." A 19-month-old boy followed, and then came a succession of other babies, many of them newborns straight from the hospital. Mrs. Cook, whose husband, Earl, is a retired sheet metal worker, will be honored by the bureau on Dec. 8 for her years of service. "I've just liked babies all my life," she explains, adding that she had only one brother, and her husband was an only child. "I guess it goes back to my doll-playing days. Nothing fascinates me or thrills me more than to see a little baby all scrubbed and clean, dressed in a cute outfit." Mrs. Cook says that every child she has cared for has presented different challenges, problems and joys, including one blind girl who went through a series of operations while living with the Cooks. The longest any child has stayed was 8½ years, and the shortest was one day. The children's bureau pays medical costs, clothing and a daily fee, although — like most foster parents — the Cooks frequently provide extras in the way of wardrobe and toys. Mrs. Cook also rarely cares for more than one baby at a time. "I want to be fair to each baby," she says, "and I can't be if I have to divide my attention." Mrs. Cook recalls the time years ago that a casual acquaintance ran into her while she was wheeling one of her charges in a stroller. "I expect the baby looks like its father, because it sure doesn't look like you," the acquaintance said. "No, it doesn't look like me — and I've never seen its father," Mrs. Cook replied.

Precautions Urged In Mail Order Shopping

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

'Tis the season when holiday catalogues appear to tempt consumers with visions of mail order merchandise which add up to a multibillion dollar industry. Although December is not the biggest month for the mail order business — January sales are actually the largest — it does bring an increased number of offerings in mailboxes and as supplements to Sunday newspapers.

Consumers planning to shop by mail should take precautions, however, to avoid disappointments. Mail order firms consistently rank high on complaint lists. The Federal Office of Consumer Affairs says that 8.1 percent of all complaints received from February through December 1976 concerned mail orders. Only automobiles drew more complaints.

Federal Trade Commission regulations implemented last year impose strict standards for delivery and it pays to be aware of them.

Under the rules, a manufacturer who promises, in an ad or brochure, that your package will be "rushed to you in a week" — or two weeks or any given period — must ship it within that time.

If the seller does not promise delivery by a certain date, you have the right to have it shipped to you within 30 days after your order is received.

If the merchandise is not shipped — either by the date specified or within the 30-day limit — you have the right to cancel your order. The seller must notify you of the delay and provide a free means — a postage-paid card, for example — for you to reply.

You have two options in the case of such a delay. The first choice is to cancel the order and get your money back — in full. The seller must mail your refund to you within seven business days after you cancel. If you charged the purchase on a credit card, the seller has one billing cycle to adjust the account.

Your other choice is to accept the delay and agree to the new shipping date. If the delay is less than 30 days and you do not reply one way or the other, the seller has the right to assume you agree to the late shipment. If it is more than 30 days, you have to give your express consent to a delay. If you do not reply, the merchant must automatically cancel the order and refund your money.

The regulations do not apply to services like mail order photo finishing, to magazine subscriptions, to mail order seeds and plants or to COD orders. If you have a problem, you can write to Director, Bureau of Consumer Protection, MO-P, Federal Trade Commission, Washington, D.C., 20500.

The Direct Mail Marketing Association, which represents 65 to 70 percent of the industry, also tries to handle consumer complaints. The association's address is: 6 E. 43rd St., New York, N.Y., 10017.

The association also offers a leaflet with guidelines for consumers on mail order shopping. It is available at no charge, but you must send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

A spokesman for the association said almost 75 million catalogues were sent out via third-class mail last year. Millions more were distributed as newspaper supplements or mailed at first-class rates.

The mail order business alone is a $33-billion-a-year industry. The total direct marketing business — including coupons and catalogues in newspapers — added up to $75 billion last year.

An association spokesman conceded that Christmas probably is not the best time to try a mail order house you have not used before. "Even the best companies have to deal with problems of deliveries," he said.

To minimize potential troubles, industry spokesmen and government agencies advise consumers to follow a few basic rules:

- Shop around just as you would with a regular store. Ask friends if they have used a particular company. Check the Better Business Bureau. Find out if the firm is a member of the Direct Mail Marketing Association. If you have time, try placing a small order and see what kind of service you get.
- Read catalogues carefully. Make sure prices include shipping and handling charges. Compare prices with those in retail stores.
- Order as early as possible. Look at the fine print to find out if there is a cut-off date after which delivery cannot be guaranteed. This is particularly important at Christmas.
- Find out what sort of guarantee is included.
- Never send cash. Always pay by money order or check. Keep a record of the number along with the date you placed the order, the name and address of the company, the product and the price.
- Be sure to indicate your name and address clearly. If the item is a gift, make clear where it should be sent.
- If you want to cut down on — or increase — the number of catalogues and other direct mail you get, you can contact the Mail Preference Service of the Direct Mail Marketing Association. The group will notify companies that you want more or less mail. The companies are not bound by law to follow your wishes, but they generally will.

Death Count Held Down By Weather

By United Press International

Law enforcement officials say the bad weather which gripped much of the nation may have helped hold Thanksgiving traffic deaths close to the minimum predicted by the National Safety Council.

"People just can't get going fast enough to make them serious," Illinois state trooper Jim Warren said of the minor fender benders that plagued the Chicago area during Sunday's all-day snowstorm.

As the four-day holiday accidental death count by United Press International drew to a close, at least 455 persons had been killed in traffic accidents reported by 6 a.m. EST. The count, which began at 6 p.m. last Wednesday, ended at midnight local time.

The breakdown of accidental deaths:

Traffic	455
Fires	27
Planes	40
Total	522

California by far outdistanced the remainder of the nation in traffic death totals with 59. New York followed with 24, Illinois and Ohio 23 each, Georgia, Indiana and Michigan 21 each and Missouri 20.

The National Safety Council had estimated a minimum of 460 persons would be killed during the counting period and 20,000 to 25,000 would suffer disabling injuries.

But the holiday estimate was lower than the average toll for a four-day, non-holiday weekend in late autumn because of reduced auto travel and increased use of public transportation, a council spokesman said.

Fires and plane crashes also contributed to the accidental death toll. At least four persons were burned to death in a tavern-apartment fire on Chicago's South Side.

All five persons aboard a single-engine private plane were killed when it crashed in an isolated area near the southern Indiana town of Salem. The Washington County Sheriff's office said the plane was flying in light snow and was not making a routine landing pattern since there was no airport near the crash site.

Three Wisconsin men were missing and believed drowned when their snowmobiles plunged through the ice of Lake Poygan about two miles south of Fremont. Winnebago County authorities said Timothy Tritt, 21; Bryan Lee, 20, and Harold Prespegaard, 32, were killed Saturday when their snowmobiles plunged through the ice into about 15 feet of water. A fourth man was rescued.

Arkansas State Police blamed ice and snow on an Interstate 55 overpass as the cause of a four-car crash early Sunday in which Lou Bertha Taylor, 86, of Alton, Ill., was killed and 14 other persons were injured.

Threat Issued By Trudeau

NEW YORK (AP) — Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau says he would probably resign if Quebec voted strongly to become independent of Canada, according to Newsweek magazine.

The idea of Quebec as a separate nation, Trudeau told the magazine, is disastrous and unthinkable.

No referendum on the subject has been scheduled, but there has been talk of holding one in 1979.

Quebec Premier Rene Levesque, leader of the separatist movement, has said that if the referendum he proposes fails, he will keep trying until a vote goes his way.

Trudeau said: "If Quebec, by a strong majority, voted in a fair referendum with fair questions to leave Canada, and nothing was rigged, my concept would have failed and I would want to resign. Someone else would have to take over."

Teens Charged In Murder Of Florida Postal Worker

MIAMI (AP) — A gang of teen-agers from a middle class neighborhood who boasted that they had the courage to kill lured a postal worker into a home murdered him, dumped his body in a canal and took his car on a joy ride, officials say.

"These children certainly thought out what they were going to do and didn't hesitate," said Metro homicide Detective David Simmons. "On prior occasions some of these juveniles and their friends boasted about having enough courage to kill someone. The way they did it was quite brutal."

Police said an uninvolved teen-ager who had heard sketchy accounts of the murder called police.

An unidentified 16-year-old boy was charged with first degree murder in the slaying of John Henry Sime, 37, of Hialeah, a postal worker whose brother Glenn Sime has won several honors as a policeman in Hialeah.

Another 17-year-old boy has been charged with being an accessory by helping dispose of the body in a canal. Police said a number of other teen-agers, aged 14 to 18, were being sought and some also would be charged with murder. The identities of the youths were withheld because of their ages.

Police said they did not know whether the teen-agers knew John Sime's brother was a policeman but that at least one of the boys knew the victim.

Simmons said the teen-agers, all from the same neighborhood, plotted Sime's death, then tied the body with electrical cord, hurled it into the water and dumped tires and crates of dead chicken remains on the body to camouflage it. They used the victim's car for joy-riding until they wrecked it, police said.

Simmons said that evidence showed the youngsters wanted to rob Sime but also planned to kill him from the start.

Police gave this account of the plot: A boy who knew Sime lured him to the boy's home while his family was out. Other gang members were waiting, expecting to rob Sime of a large amount of cash. But Sime had no money with him and put up a struggle when the teen-ager he knew took his wallet. At that point, several gang members assisted their friend, beating Sime in the head, chest and ribs and strangling him.

His body was put in the rear of a pickup truck and driven three miles to a remote canal where it was dumped.

The teen-agers used Sime's car to attend parties and socialize with friends in the neighborhood. But they smashed the car into several trees during heavy rain Thanksgiving Day and abandoned the wreck.

Police stopped and questioned some of the youths, but the teen-agers denied being in the car.

The car was traced to Sime, who had been reported missing by his brother.

Dr. Dilday To Head Baptist Seminary

ATLANTA (AP) — The pastor of Second-Ponce de Leon Baptist Church in Atlanta, Dr. Russell Dilday, has announced his resignation to become president of Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth.

Dilday, 47, pastor of the Atlanta church since 1969, said his resignation is effective Dec. 18. He will become president-elect of the Texas seminary on Jan. 1. His official duties as president begin Aug. 1, following the retirement of Dr. Robert Naylor on July 31.

Dilday, a native of Amarillo, was elected to the leadership post of the world's largest theological seminary last week during the semi-annual meeting of the seminary's 36-member board of trustees.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

IRS Face Red As Ink

THE CASE OF the Shattered Security has Internal Revenue Service officials at Austin wearing red faces.
 It also has raised questions concerning the vulnerability of supposedly confidential tax returns filed by everyone in Texas and five other surrounding states.
 As reported by the Austin American-Statesman, IRS security agents from Dallas "penetrated" the regional headquarters at Austin in September.
 The security agents even phoned ahead to arrange for their surreptitious planting of a "bomb" and the "bugging" of the top man's telephone.
 POSING AS a group of accountants, the security agents asked for a tour of the IRS facilities, the Austin newspaper learned.
 The group was met at the pre-arranged time and personnel began showing them through the plant. A few of the agents, though, hid in a restroom and waited for the guided tour to proceed without them.
 Then they emerged, read confidential correspondence on desks in the office, rummaged through files and even planted a briefcase with a note in it saying "Boom!"

so that the local officials would know they'd been had when they discovered it.
 After planting a piece of tape in the acting director's telephone to simulate a "bug," the entire group left without detection.
 The "bug" wasn't found until an official in Dallas, in on the charade, phoned and complained there must be something wrong with the man's telephone because he couldn't hear him very well.
 BECAUSE OF the computerized records kept at the regional IRS office, the lack of security is not being taken lightly.
 Tax returns are among the most sensitive instruments that most Americans ever file with a government agency and the thought that efforts to keep them confidential are less than adequate will cause concern in many quarters.
 But maybe there's a ray of hope in all this. Federal bureaucrats, obviously, have not lost their trust in the American people: Nobody at the IRS regional office checked up to see whether the "accountants" who asked for a tour of the place were who they claimed to be.

Slickered Again?

James J. Kilpatrick:

DNA Controls: Easy Does It

WASHINGTON—Now and then, contrary to what you may cynically assume, Congress does a good job. It is doing a good job now in coping with a legislative problem that is complicated beyond the ordinary layman's understanding.
 This is the problem of recombinant DNA research.
 How is Congress coping with the problem? In terms of substantive legislation, Congress is doing nothing at all about the problem.
 And as it happens, this is precisely what the Congress ought to be doing. If ever there were a time for making haste slowly, this is such a time.
 THE SCIENTISTS now engaged in DNA research have entered a field at once fascinating and terrifying. They have unlocked gates that once seemed impenetrable.
 Timidly or boldly, as the case may be, they have begun to explore the mysteries of genetic reproduction.
 By splicing together microscopic particles of deoxyribonucleic acid, the active material in the genes of all living things, they are learning to fashion new forms of living matter.
 Except in the most extravagant view, this is not "playing God." The talk of cloning identical copies of human beings is still in the realm of science fiction.
 Nevertheless, it is generally acknowledged that DNA research carries not only a possibility of great good but also the risk of disastrous harm.
 After nearly a quarter century of tentative forays into pure research, opportunities for applied research suddenly are expanding.
 IN SUCH A situation, it is altogether understandable that a cry would be heard: There ought to be a law! A Senate subcommittee heard that demand.

A number of environmentalists called for strict federal regulation of all DNA recombinant research, whether in government laboratories or in private industry.
 Marcia J. Cleveland, speaking for the Natural Resources Defense Council, said that genetic engineering ranks with nuclear power in its potential danger and ought therefore to be kept under careful federal control.
 ON THE OTHER side of the argument were scientists who warned the Senate subcommittee of the dangers of needless or premature regulation.
 The coolest of these was Dr. Philip Handler, president of the National Academy of Sciences. His testimony was a model of reason and restraint. His chief concern was for the freedom of scientific inquiry.
 "Hopefully," Dr. Handler said, "the day is past when anyone would seriously argue that the government should prohibit free expression of new ideas simply out of fear of the ideas themselves."
 "Totalitarian governments may fear new ideas, Lightly Speaking BUDGET: A family's attempt to live below its earnings.
 Leopold Fechtner says, "I gave my young son a book for his birthday, but he doesn't know what to do with it. There's no place for the batteries."
 Think how much worse the water shortage would be if small children began washing voluntarily.
 Gil Stearn reminds us that the very first unisex wearing apparel was the apron.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Kenneth May

The Tooth Will Ouch

THREE-YEAR-OLD Kameron Romine, son of the Kenneth Romines, was helping his grandmother bake a Thanksgiving cake. She gave him a bite of egg.
 "Ouch," he said.
 "What's wrong?"
 "My teeth stepped on my tongue."
 Vice President Walter Mondale cooked a Thanksgiving turkey. The President checked up to make sure it wasn't his goose.
 SMALL WORLD Department: On a trip to California, Dr. Barry Williams opened a copy of the San Diego Tribune and found John Sinor's column about Dr. Russell Strandtmann.
 The self-described Lubbock "bug doctor" had written his friend Sinor from the South Pole.
 "It's a way to get away from Lubbock, Texas, every so often," the columnist said Strandtmann had written about his trips to Antarctica.
 He told of digging a sleeping trench in the snow at McMurdo Station. That's a hole 8 to 10 feet long, six feet deep and three feet wide, Strandtmann explained.
 He participated with interest while a shelf, large enough to accommodate a man, was dug into the side of the trench.
 "The object of the exercise was to sleep in the shelter we had built," Strandtmann explained. "But when I looked at that hole, it occurred to me that I already knew how to sleep and there was no point to be gained, so I returned to the base."

Jim McConn was elected mayor of Houston last week after a million-dollar campaign. And he was the "common man" candidate.
 In beating former Dist. Atty. Frank Briscoe, 2-1, for the $20,000-a-year job, McConn got 97.5 per cent of the black vote and 64 per cent of the Mexican-American vote, plus three-fourths of the college vote.
 McConn's charge that Briscoe "was just not sensitive to the problems of the minorities" obviously struck a sensitive nerve.
 Skeet Workman, who was in Houston for the Family Day Rally and a peek at the National Women's Conference, says several women in her group were stopped by a couple of Houston men.
 After being surrounded for days by delegates to the NWC, the men explained, "we're just so happy to see some women who look like you."
 Another delegate to the Family Day Rally was quoted as saying her aging mother-in-law "couldn't understand what I had against the joy people and the Lebanese."
 AS AN INDEPENDENT basketball power, North Texas State University has difficulty finding enough quality opposition that's not afraid to schedule the Mean Green.
 After filling its 10,000-seat Coliseum and defeating Southern Methodist University last year, for example, NT Coach Bill Blakeley couldn't get SMU to renew the rivalry.
 This year, Texas Tech has home basketball games against the likes of Oklahoma Baptist, McNeese State, Athletes in Action, South Alabama and Samford.

 We Mean Green types think we'd draw a bigger crowd and give the Raiders a better game. Maybe next year?
 The NT football team finished the season with a 9-2 record, ranked 13th nationally by UPI, and holding an empty bag when the bowl invitations went out.
 Knocking on the SWC door, Coach Haden Fry's team drew better in the Dallas-Fort Worth metropolitan area this year than either SMU or TCU.
 ANYONE WHO drives Lubbock's streets can understand why traffic accident fatalities are at an all-time high.
 The "other guy"—and gal—is driving like a mad person/daughter.
 Going to lunch the other day, one woman turned left in front of me from the center lane of a three-lane one-way street. A man cut sharply in front of me in his speeding in-and-out weaving pattern.
 And another woman edged halfway into one of the southbound traffic lanes from a side street before stopping.
 Next morning, a man waited at a stop sign for traffic to clear from one direction, then drove through the intersection without ever looking in mine. He didn't even look my way as brakes squealed to avoid broadsiding him.
 Careless driving habits seem to be of epidemic proportions here.

Holmes Alexander:

Technology Unlocking Jobs Bank

WASHINGTON—An idea whose time has come will wait for no man—not for a new President or, in the case at hand, not for a new Secretary of Labor.
 The idea of reference is that of bringing together the worker and the job. This used to be as crude a process as nailing a list of job openings to the saloon door.
 Like all enterprises in our century it has become mechanized until job-placement is today an adopted child of the computer age.
 Within the Labor Department are dozens of offices with awkward names, like division of automated matching services.
 These several offices come under the general heading of United States Employment Services (USES).
 The idea which runs through the entire USES apparatus is job-placement.
 It amounts to notifying the individual where there is a position that he is qualified to fill.
 The opportunity may be at the other end of town or the other side of the continent, but there are small funds in USES to transport the worker over a short distance.
 If there are large numbers of workers involved—this happened a few years ago when the Aerospace industry dwindled—the Labor Secretary may have to go to the Congress and ask an appropriation.

The book now coming into use is "Handbook of Occupational Keywords." The information is transmitted by high-speed devices, in code which any trained stenographer can translate.
 The final step is the print-out of a monthly bulletin.
 This bulletin, titled "Occupations in Demand at Job Service Offices" is available at post offices and almost any government place of business.
 The October issue, at my elbow, is headed "Professional, Technical and Managerial Occupations." In alphabetical paragraphs, the occupations are listed from "accountant" to "welder."

 The number of unfilled positions are given for every major and middle-size city.
 The point, which needs repeating is that this process of job-placement is not full-born from President Carter's brain, but is a growth development which has moved through all the postwar administrations. In times ahead, the job-seeker may be able to look up a position as easily as a telephone number.

Sylvia Porter:

Pay What You Owe; Not A Penny More

IF YOU ARE SELLING securities for tax strategy reasons this year, sell before the last trading day of the year (Friday, Dec. 30), to make sure your sale counts on your 1977 tax return.
 Don't make the error of waiting until the last moment.
 Your last appropriate trading day for tax purposes depends on whether you make a profit or take a loss on the sale.
 (1) IF YOU SELL at a profit, Dec. 22 of this year is the key date on a regular way sale (delivery and payment are made after the date of the sale.) If you give your broker a sell order after Dec. 22, the settlement date will be in 1978.
 The settlement date governs when you sell at a profit. So if you make a profit on a sale after Dec. 22, your gain is included in your 1978 taxable income.
 The Dec. 22 date applies to stocks listed on the New York and the American Stock Exchanges. But what if Dec. 22 slips by and, although you had intended to send in a sell order, you forget? What should you do?
 Sell for cash, Prentice-Hall advises. Have your broker sell your stock for cash on or before Dec. 30. Dec. 22 is the cutoff date only on regular way sales.
 (2) IF YOU SELL at a loss, you can sell your stock on the last day of the year and take a tax loss for '77. This means you can tell your broker to sell listed securities for you on Dec. 30 and the loss or losses will be chalked up for 1977.
 And this will be a 1977 loss even if you deliver the stock and are paid in 1978.
 (3) In addition to the usual ins and outs of year-end tax selling, the new capital gain and loss rules are of vital importance.
 The rules are so crucial, so generally unknown, that a recap of the most significant is in order:
 SECURITIES YOU sell in '77 must have been held more than nine months to qualify for long-term gain or loss treatment (old rule: more than six months).
 Starting in 1978, the long-term holding period jumps to more than one year. And the capital loss deduction shelters $2,000 of your highly-taxed ordinary income (old rule: $1,000). Starting in 1978, the amount deductible goes up to $3,000.
 These rules can be vital in selling stocks you bought in the first three months of 1977.
 If, for instance, you bought XYZ stock in February 1977 and it now shows a paper profit which you want to nail down, sell in December.
 Your profit would be long-term capital gain, for you meet the more-than-nine-months holding period rule for 1977 sales.
 IF YOU SELL IN January, your profit would be short-term gain, taxed like ordinary income, for you don't meet the more-than-one-year holding period for long-term gain under 1978's rules.

 As another illustration, if you bought the XYZ stock late in January, it's now showing a paper loss and you want to unload, sell early in January 1978.
 Your 1978 loss is short-term. That's almost twice as valuable from a tax strategy viewpoint as the long-term loss you would get from a sale in the last weeks of 1977.
 The explanation that I cannot overemphasize is that a net capital loss which is short-term shelters ordinary income dollar-for-dollar (up to the maximum dollar ceiling).
 On the other hand, it takes $2 of net long-term loss to offset $1 of ordinary income.
 (4) WHETHER YOUR net paper losses are short-term or long-term, it is not wise tax strategy to postpone them until 1978 on the basis that in 1978 they will offset up to $3,000 of ordinary income instead of just the $2,000 available in 1977.
 While this seems shrewd tax management, you gain nothing by postponing losses to take advantage of the $3,000 figure in 1978, for any losses carried over to 1978 are deducted under 1978 rules.
 A final warning: most of the tax strategy tips in this series are new for 1977. Heed them! Act in time! The IRS demands that you pay all you legally owe in taxes but not one penny more than that.

GOING TO PIECES — Tower Bridge, one of London's best known landmarks, is slowly being shaken to pieces by heavy traffic flow. The 83-year-old structure was built to carry Victorian horse-drawn carriages and today's heavy traffic is causing parts of it to crack. The City of London Corporation announced Sunday that it is applying to the Great London Council to have all trucks over five tons banned from using the bridge. (AP Laserphoto)

Two Murder Trials Underway

Testimony was expected to begin in one trial and jury selection was scheduled in another as two men were on trial for separate murders today in Lubbock.

Jury selection was scheduled to start this afternoon in the capital murder trial of Leroy Wayne Green, accused of the Jan. 12, 1975, shotgun slaying of Warren Andrew McKay.

Selection — to be conducted before 140th Dist. Judge William R. Shaver — is expected to take several days.

Green, 21, who has been confined in Lubbock County Jail for nearly three years, was one of three men who were charged with capital murder after McKay, 64, and his wife, Odessa, 55, were killed.

The bodies of the couple were found lying near a snow-covered dirt road north of Lubbock, only a mile or so from the small country home the McKays had purchased shortly before they were killed.

Prosecutors contend the McKays were killed during a robbery.

Two other defendants in the case have already been tried, with each receiving a life sentence.

Green originally was scheduled to stand trial in late August, and jury selection was started at that time. Shaver, however, declared a mistrial Sept. 1 after it was discovered that a bailiff staying with the sequestered jurors who had been picked was a possible witness in the case.

Testimony was expected to begin this afternoon in the murder trial of Juan

Expert On Wind To Head Group

Dr. Kishor C. Mehta of the Department of Civil Engineering at Texas Tech University has been named chairman of the Subcommittee on Wind Loads for the American National Standards Institute (ANSI).

Mehta has gained nationwide recognition as an authority in wind engineering through his work with the Texas Tech Institute for Disaster Research. The institute was organized following the 1970 Lubbock tornado and emphasizes research in wind engineering.

The 11-member wind loads subcommittee is a long-standing group within the American National Standards Committee of the institute. Its area of concern is described as the "most advanced portion of the standard" in recent years.

At the subcommittee's last meeting, Oct. 31-Nov. 1, members agreed to revise the wind loading standard for the United States by 1980.

The ANSI provides machinery for creating voluntary standards used widely by industry and commerce and often by municipal, state and federal governments.

"Wind is the area in which there is the most inquiry," Mehta said, "and questions fall into a broad range of categories, ranging from such things as the gust response of high-rise buildings to the loading of a guardrail."

While it is difficult, he said, to answer all questions, they give feedback to the subcommittee for consideration of revisions in the standards.

Perkins never fired a shot, police said, but Tulsa officers indicated the man walked up to the car, pushed the shotgun aside, pulled a .22-caliber pistol and fired seven times at Perkins. He was struck in the neck, right arm, and left side.

Ford L. Jennings, 34, of Tulia, who turned himself in to police here, was charged in connection with the shooting and was being held this morning in Swisher County Jail, a sheriff spokesman said.

Perkins had lived in Lubbock for 12 years. He was a former resident of Marshall.

Survivors include two sons, Kelvin Ray of Los Angeles, Calif., and Loran Jr., of Denver, Colo.; his mother, Mrs. Sirvanne Taylor of Lubbock; eight brothers, Lorenzo, George, Percy, Willie, James and Terry, all of Lubbock, and J.D. and Bondell, both of Denver, Colo.; and three sisters, Mrs. Hattie D'Andrade, Mrs. Cathy Lewis and Mrs. Barbara Lewis, all of Lubbock.

Chinese Face Power Shortage

HONG KONG (UPI) — China's top leaders, facing a serious power shortage that may impede the nation's economic development, have ordered a nationwide electricity conservation campaign.

"The (Communist) party central committee, headed by our wise leader Chairman Hua (Kuo-feng) is very much concerned with our country's power industry development," an editorial in the party newspaper, People's Daily, read.

"The committee has instructed that we must place the power industry in the forefront of our national economy."

The editorial, broadcast recently by Peking Radio, followed a series of other articles and public statements in Peking and other parts of the country about the power shortages.

In the November issue of Red Flag Magazine, the party's journal, Mrs. Chien Cheng-ying, minister for water conservation and power, wrote at length about the power problem.

"The consumption of electric power is increasing rapidly. In recent years ... the capital construction plan for electric power has not been fulfilled. The number of generating units installed has fallen (short of) the target. Some generating equipment has fallen into disrepair ..."

"Electric power construction has failed

Rare Birds Enjoy Life In England

SAN DIEGO (AP) — After causing a bureaucratic stir and narrowly escaping execution, 10 rare Tahitian blue lorries smuggled into the United States now dine on nectar and pomegranates in London.

The little birds left here two weeks ago after a storm of controversy to live in quarantine for 35 days in the turn-of-the-century Victorian home of Rosemary Low, a private British aviculturist.

"It's quite cold here," she said in a telephone interview this week from England, "so we've installed a heater to keep the temperature at 70 degrees Fahrenheit. The lorries are eating well and appear very tame and they show no signs of stress at all."

The bird specialist feeds the lorries, brightly colored exotics of the parrot species with brilliant orange beaks, twice daily with a liquid food mixture called nectar (glucose, mal and baby cereal). She said she gives her little wards apples and bananas prepared in a blender and has found "they will take a slice of apple or half a pomegranate and all get together and attack it."

"They sound," she explained, "like what you in America call a chickadee and we British refer to as a chick."

"They're also very acrobatic little birds and spend a lot of time climbing over the roof of their enclosure or running around upside down," she added.

Smuggled into the United States from Tahiti last month, the rare little birds first were quarantined at the San Diego Wild Animal Park while U.S. Customs agents and Department of Agriculture officials squabbled over what to do with them.

Federal regulations require that birds be quarantined or killed to prevent the spread of exotic disease. Officials finally decided that the lorries, believed to be the first of their species to exist outside of their native French Polynesia since the 1930s, would be quarantined outside the country and eventually be allowed to return to the Wild Animal Park to establish breeding colony.

Industrial Hygienist Cites Health Hazards

By CLARENCE ZAITZ
SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Employee health hazards can exist in an office or a massage parlor as well as in an industrial plant, says a toxicology "detective."

Kenneth Cohen, an industrial hygienist, estimates that 50 percent of all problems people take to their doctor are in some way affected by occupational exposure.

And the occupational hazard is not limited to the employee. He often carries it home to his wife and children on his clothing, Cohen said.

Cohen has uncovered health hazards in nearly every occupation he has scrutinized during the past 13 years. In addition to his work for the Navy here, Cohen is a consultant to business and teaches courses in industrial toxicology, including one at the University of California, San Diego.

He's among a relatively small group of industrial hygienists who share a common complaint: "The better we do our job, the less people will know we are doing our job."

Cohen calls them the "Chicken Littles" of industry. "We don't want to say the sky is falling, but there are industrial problems which need to be controlled. If health problems develop, they tell us we didn't do our job. And if there are no problems, they accuse us of always saying there will be."

The home mechanic relining the brakes on his car is exposing himself to asbestos poisoning, Cohen said, so problems are not limited to the workplace. The pesticide worker who tracks residue to his home carpet may be exposing an infant who crawls over that carpet.

The factory worker who may get cyanide or other toxic chemicals splashed onto his clothing may come home to greet an infant, cuddle the child on his shoulder, and expose it to dangerous chemicals.

That's why Cohen insists education is the way industrial health hazards will be eliminated. "Ninety percent of the problems can be cured by education," he insists, "and 10 percent by dollars."

It's necessary to educate doctors, too, Cohen said, and much of his teaching is to professionals. The problem is the difficulty in assessing the impact of chemicals on health. A lot of problems mimic many other diseases, and physicians don't always recognize them for what they are. Many hazards take a long time to become apparent — like cancer-causing asbestos which may not take its toll for 20 to 40 years.

Cohen likes to emphasize that it isn't just the welder or the chrome plater who's exposed to dangerous chemicals.

Each year 1,000 new chemicals are introduced into the marketplace, he said, and from these 100,000 new formulations are being developed. "It's incredibly difficult to assess the impact of this chemical inundation on our health."

A massage parlor said masseuses had developed an underarm rash. Cohen investigated and found the rashes were an allergic reaction to a liquid detergent used to rub down clients. They changed to mineral oil and the problem disappeared.

Around the office Cohen has found secretaries who are allergic to the chemicals in carbonless forms, and to fumes escaping from duplicating machines that aren't properly ventilated.

"In every instance in which I've investigated an industrial health problem, productivity has increased once the situation was corrected," Cohen said.

Industry Ponders Pension Discrimination Suit

By JOHN CUNIFF
 NEW YORK (AP) — In the name of equality, should individual male and female employees contribute equal amounts of money to the company's pension plan? Or is to do so in itself a form of discrimination?

laid down by the U.S. Supreme Court in earlier action.
 The court has stated that you can just as easily create inequality by requiring that identical benefits be provided to persons unequally situated as by requiring different benefits to be provided to persons equally situated.

didn't until recently separate smokers and nonsmokers. But Mercer replies that smoking is a voluntary action, "one subject to change and most difficult to monitor."

 But no insurance company or consultant is likely to push that argument very far because of a peculiar problem: The same reasoning, if applied to insurance in general, would wipe out insurance, which is based on grouping and averaging and Metropolitan.

 All these parties, however, agree that women are different. And because of differences they like to emphasize, they don't exist.

Analysis

en are not equal in the actuarial tables. Women live longer than men. It's a statistical fact.
 This being so, men aren't likely to collect as much money out of the pension fund, while often they pay into the fund an amount equal to their female counterparts.

An essential premise of insurance, it says, is that "all persons in the same class of risk get the same benefits for the same price so that no one class subsidizes another."

The difference between men and women isn't voluntary, nor is it difficult to monitor. We know they are different, says Mercer, and we know that neither men nor women can do much about it no matter how they change lifestyles.

Moreover, it adds a legal consideration: If men, for example, are forced to subsidize the benefits of female employees and retirees, then the unisex table actually could be in violation of the U.S. Equal Pay Act.

The philosophical thrust of that act is that individuals must be considered on the basis of individual capacities and not on the basis of any characteristics gener-

Now that's discrimination, say insurers and others engaged in working out equitable pension benefits. To which women rightists sometimes reply: Nonsense, women and men are equal in the eyes of God and the law.

That would seem to provide support for insurers and consultants such as Mercer. An essential premise of insurance, it says, is that "all persons in the same class of risk get the same benefits for the same price so that no one class subsidizes another."

If we refuse to recognize the differences between men and women in the actuarial table then perhaps health and

 All these parties, however, agree that women are different. And because of differences they like to emphasize, they don't exist.

No matter, is the next response from actuaries; they are not equal in the tables. Sex and the single benefit table is an injustice, it is argued.
 "Like most good things, anti-discrimination rules can be carried to extremes," says William M. Mercer, Inc., an international employee benefit consulting firm. "Mortality differences between the sexes are a biological fact."

But Mercer and other consultants aren't the ones to make the final decision. The courts are. The Supreme Court already has agreed to consider one such case, against the Los Angeles Department of Water and Power.

In that case the lower courts ruled it was unfair to require a female to contribute more than a male in order to receive the same monthly benefit. In effect, they said, a unisex benefit table should be used.

Co-Ops Face Increasing Fuel Costs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rural electric cooperatives, facing higher costs than their urban private utility competitors, are having to charge their customers 12 to 16 percent more than the overall average for the utility industry, a co-op group said today.

For families using 700 kilowatt hours monthly, the survey indicated 50.6 percent of rural co-ops had higher rates than neighboring urban utilities. In rates for users of 250 kilowatts a month, 67 percent of the coops charged more than other utilities.

Robert Nelson, an NRECA spokesman, said a major reason for the higher bills was that many co-ops must pay more for wholesale power supplies than bigger urban utilities. He also stressed that rural co-ops still serve the country's most sparsely settled regions.

Although some co-op areas have been invaded by suburban populations in recent years, Nelson said cooperatives still average only four customers and $1,600 in annual revenue for each mile of line, compared with 40 customers and $24,000 in revenue for investor-owned utilities.

"Many of the gloomier reports have been telling us that buying a home today is a hopeless dream for the average American."

Polish Coloring Book Introduces Culture

DETROIT (UPI) — If someone asks if you've heard about the Polish coloring book, don't wait for the punch line. It's not a joke.

The book is the creation of a Michigan woman of Polish descent who got tired of ethnic jokes and "Kiss me, I'm Polish" buttons.

Catherine Macaro said the book is aimed at filling a void in suitable materials to introduce children to Polish culture.

The idea came to her one day as she watched her own 4-year-old daughter, Mary Jo, playing with crayons and a coloring book.

Why not a coloring book of Polish customs and traditions, she thought.

"This was the approach with dignity I was looking for," Mrs. Macaro explained in a telephone interview from her home in the southeastern Michigan community of Temperance.

She said the television series "Roots" also inspired her.

"I figured if he (Alex Haley) could do that, if he could take such a giant step, I could take a baby step," she said.

Two months ago, the book — with a red-and-white cover resembling the Polish flag — rolled off the presses.

It contains 61 pages of illustrations for kids to color, three more pages of footnotes and a brief bibliography for study and research.

The book, priced at $1.50, is moving briskly at the Center for Polish Studies and Culture at St. Mary's College in the Detroit suburb of Orchard Lake.

A spokesman at the center said many schools have ordered the book for their students. Other Polish centers in the area and one in Milwaukee also have placed orders.

In addition, Mrs. Macaro said one woman saw the book and decided she wanted to do something in a similar vein about Denmark and Finland.

"The response has been far beyond my expectations," Mrs. Macaro said. "We're still in our first printing, but probably will go into the second one sometime next month."

On the subject of culture, she said, "you have to start with the young. It can't be done too much later in life."

Her goal in the project was to create something inexpensive which would be readily available, authentic and "yet interesting to appeal both to kids who would color and to adults who would have to explain the customs and traditions to the child."

Most important, though, was the impact on children.

"The visual approach, especially to children, on any subject is always the most attractive," Mrs. Macaro said.

She was an art major at the University of Toledo and had taught the subjects in schools systems in Indiana and Ohio before moving to Michigan.

She spent about two months on the illustrations.

Her brother, Carl, helped with the project, supplying her with research on Poland's geography, history, traditions, customs and costumes.

The coloring book, she said, resembles a "mini-encyclopedia of the glory that is Poland."

PROBLEM FOR HOUSE MOVER — Chicago's oldest house is moving to a new site where it will be restored to its original grandeur of 1836. But first, house movers will have to solve this moving problem. The Henry B. Clarke house will have to be jacked up, winched across the railroad tracks and lowered on this side of the railroad bridge. (AP Laserphoto)

Truck Firm Could Be Sold Soon

CLEVELAND (AP) — Edward S. Reddig, retired chairman of White Consolidated Industries Inc., says he fears White Motor Corp. may fall into the hands of foreign investors if he can't raise $100 million to buy controlling interest in the company.

"Somebody has to do something quickly," said Reddig, who now is chairman of RL Consolidated Inc. of Canton, Ohio. "The company is going to be sold, and probably to some foreign corporation."

Reddig insists at least two foreign firms could lock up a deal to buy the Cleveland-based truck and farm machinery maker any day now.

Renault USA Inc. of Englewood Cliffs, N.J., confirmed that its parent company is interested in buying Cleveland-based White Motor to gain a bigger share of automotive sales in the United States.

Pierre Herrman, president of Renault USA, said, however, he has not been kept informed of negotiations between the parent company in Paris and the Ohio firm.

Reddig says the other possible foreign investor is Daimler-Benz of West Germany.

A spokesman for White Motor repeated a statement saying that no proposals have been made to sell the company. However, the company has had some "exploratory talks with several companies during the past several months," the statement noted.

Reddig said he met with Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes for two hours, asking the governor to help him get state guarantees for bank loans of about $100 million. He has not been able to get the money, but he said state backing would solve that problem.

"The governor is enthusiastic about helping," Reddig said. "But he knows he doesn't have the legislative authority to do me any good right now. He's reaching for help, and he hopes he can get it."

J. Thomas Walker, director of the Ohio Development Financing Commission, said the agency has about $10 million in a pool used to guarantee bank loans for industry. Walker said his agency can guarantee a loan up to $5 million.

However, he said a $100 million guarantee might be possible with legislation, or through another agency or group of agencies.

Reddig, 73, has tried three times in seven years to buy control of White Motor. As chairman of RL Consolidated, he bought a White Motor engine plant last year, making it the principal business of the Canton company.

White Consolidated Industries, the firm with which Reddig formerly was associated, is a Cleveland-based manufacturer of a wide range of products, including appliances and machine tools.

High Court Ruling Setback For AT&T

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court refused today to thwart government efforts to dismantle the American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

The justices let stand rulings by a federal trial judge and the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals here that the Justice Department may sue AT&T for antitrust violations.

Today's action is a major victory for the government in its attempts to have the antitrust lawsuit it filed in 1974 reach trial.

October Deficit Tops $3 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States recorded the largest monthly trade deficit in its history in October as a dock strike cut deeply into exports, the Commerce Department said today.

A trade deficit means more dollars are leaving the country to pay for foreign goods than the United States is earning from sale of its goods abroad. It can cut into employment and production at home.

The nation bought $3.1 billion more in goods than it sold abroad, surpassing the previous record of $2.8 billion recorded last June.

Government officials have said a trade deficit is inevitable as long as the United States is so dependent on imports of oil. The October figures showed petroleum imports declining from $3.7 billion in September to $3.6 billion last month.

Economists said exporters, anticipating the 2-month-old dock strike, sent many of their goods abroad in September, when exports totaled a strong $10.9 billion. In October, they fell to $9.2 billion, the smallest amount since March 1976, when they were $9 billion.

Every category of exports declined except soybeans and aircraft and spacecraft parts.

The dock strike also cut into imports, which declined from $12.6 billion to $12.3 billion for the month, the smallest since May.

Chemicals and food were particularly hard-hit. Wheat declined by $114.6 million to $194.2 million. Beverages and tobacco fell by $130.3 million to $55 million.

Dock workers on the East and Gulf coasts are scheduled to vote Tuesday on a contract to end the containerized shipping strike, which began Oct. 1.

Most imports were down for the month too, except for transport equipment, antiques, recording systems and inorganic chemicals. Iron and steel and beverages and tobacco showed particularly large declines.

Economists said the September and October figures averaged together, however, showed little change from the previous six months, with the monthly deficit averaging about $2.4 billion. In September, the trade deficit was $1.7 billion.

Overall, exports were down 15.8 percent and imports declined 2.7 percent. The monthly deficit was the 17th in a row.

The administration expects the trade deficit for the year to be about $27 billion, nearly three times the $9.2 billion deficit last year.

The Commerce Department's chief economist, Courtenay Slater, said the trade figures were distorted by the dock strike.

"Exports rose sharply in September as shipments were moved forward in anticipation of the strike," she said. "Exports then fell in October as the strike took effect."

She added, "For the year to date the deficit is running at an annual rate of about $27 billion, reflecting heavy U.S. dependence on imported oil and relatively weak foreign demand for U.S. exports."

"The imbalances in the world economy continue to be a cause of concern, but the unusually large trade deficit in October stems from temporary factors rather than a worsening of the underlying situation."

School Case

had intended to make that a white school," Gurwin said. At the time Wright was built school officials expected the area to be an all-white residential zone, Gurwin said.

In other actions today, the Supreme Court:

— Let stand a lower court's ruling that test pilots in their 50s cannot be taken off the job simply because of their age.

— Agreed to review a decision by New Jersey's highest court that the state has a right to prohibit the dumping of out-of-state garbage within its borders.

— Said it would decide whether the companies that built the Alaska oil pipeline are entitled to crude oil transportation prices that the government contends are exorbitant.

— Let stand the conviction of a Louisville, Ky., man who contends he did not receive a fair trial because he apparently was under the influence of drugs in the courtroom.

The Justice Department's suit charges AT&T and its subsidiaries, Western Electric Co. and Bell Laboratories, with violating Sherman Act antitrust laws by attempting and conspiring to monopolize telecommunications service and equipment in the United States.

The suit named the 23 Bell System telephone companies wholly or partially owned by AT&T as co-conspirators.

The AT&T network of companies was charged with obstructing interconnection of other communications companies with AT&T, obstructing the interconnection of customer-provided equipment and refusing to sell terminal equipment to Bell subscribers.

The government's suit seeks to have AT&T stripped of its controlling interest in Western Electric, the world's largest manufacturer of telephone equipment. It also seeks to divest Western Electric of some manufacturing assets to insure competition in the production and sale of equipment.

The government wants to separate AT&T's Long Lines Department from the 23 operating companies "to the extent necessary to insure competition in telecommunications service and equipment."

In its appeal for Supreme Court review, AT&T argued that "effective competition" is precluded by state and federal laws "which require coordination among the companies providing such services to establish a single unified nationwide telecommunications network."

U.S. District Judge Joseph C. Waddy of Washington ruled last year that the federal courts do have jurisdiction in the government's suit against the Bell System.

In an unusual move, AT&T came directly to the Supreme Court in appealing Waddy's decision, but was turned down by the high court last Jan. 25.

The huge communications firm then argued its case before the appeals court, which ruled against AT&T on May 26.

Calling any trial before Judge Waddy "pointless" unless the jurisdiction question is resolved, AT&T asked in its Supreme Court appeal that the justices grant the issue full review.

It called the impending antitrust action "the most massive undertaking in the history of the American judicial system," and predicted that the trial would take at least 10 years to complete and ultimately cost AT&T and the government more than $1 billion.

The legal paperwork alone — at least 1.2 billion pages of documents — would cost more than $300 million, AT&T said.

"Because the Bell System is a regulated public utility enterprise (the public) will ultimately bear the expenses of both sides of this litigation," it added.

Shooting Death Here Probed By Officers

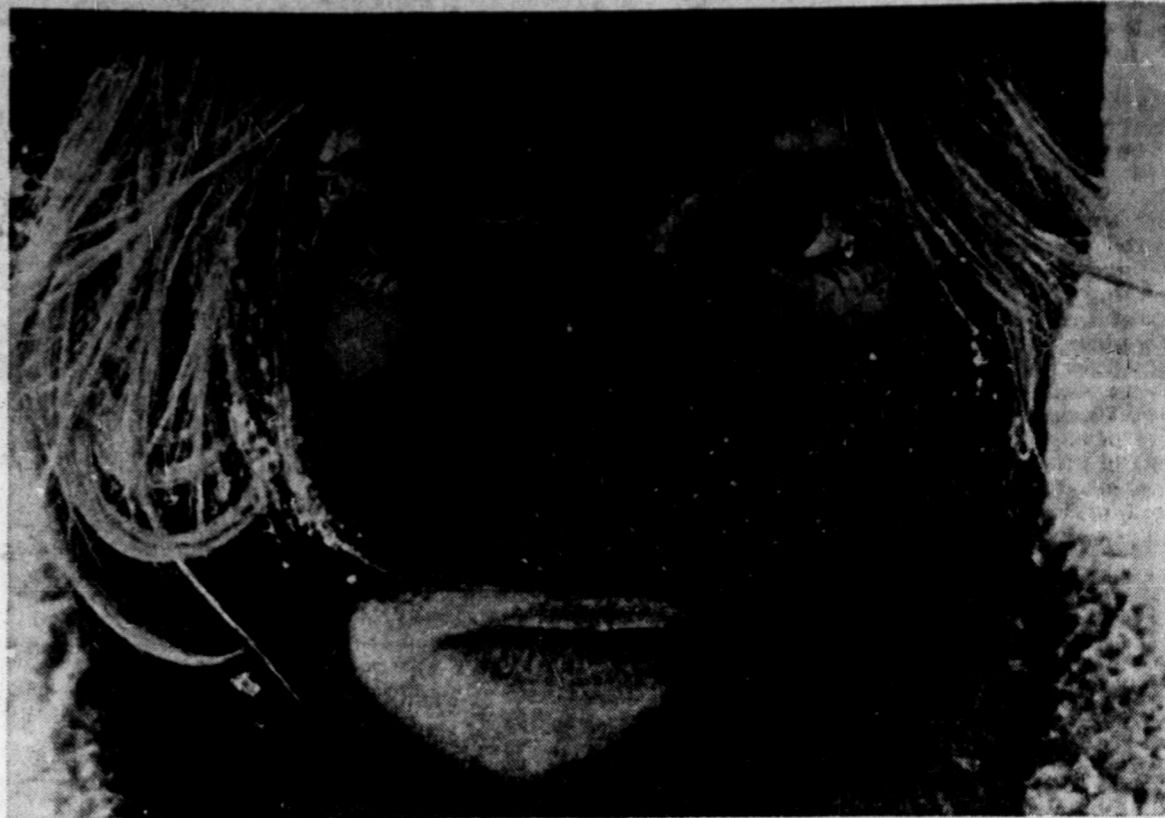

Police at noon were continuing their investigation of the shooting death of a 51-year-old Lubbock man at his westside home early today.

The body of Bob Maynard, former owner of ABC Pharmacy, was found in a bathroom of his 4506 16th St. house about 9 a.m. He had suffered a single gunshot wound in the head.

Detectives at the scene said they were awaiting additional physical evidence before making a final determination in the death.

Justice of the Peace L.J. Blalack said he is withholding his ruling in the case, pending a partial autopsy later today to retrieve the bullet. A small-caliber pistol reportedly was found at the scene.

Services for Maynard are pending with Henderson Funeral Directors.

Social Security Action Delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional difficulty in approving a national energy program is threatening to delay final consideration of a Social Security bill until next year.

Such a delay could mean there will be no increases in Social Security taxes, beyond those already enacted, until 1979. That position is favored by the Senate, while the House prefers raising taxes further on middle- and upper-income workers starting Jan. 1.

President Carter and the Democratic leadership of Congress list energy as the top-priority issue for the remainder of the year, although they are urging final action on Social Security as well.

Action on both may not be possible because the Senate and House members most responsible for Social Security legislation are the same ones who are negotiating a compromise on the tax portions of the energy program. And it appears likely that energy will keep the lawmakers busy until close to Christmas.

After a week's recess, the energy negotiators were to return to work today, still facing the most crucial — and most controversial — energy issues.

Those issues are natural gas pricing and taxing of U.S.-produced crude oil. The latter would drive up the price of gasoline by about 7 cents a gallon.

Energy is not the only subject of controversy on Capitol Hill this week. Negotiators still are looking for a compromise on government-funded abortions that would allow final passage of a $60.2 billion money bill for the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare.

A stopgap law that has continued money for the departments while Congress debates abortion runs out Wednesday night.

The House will vote Tuesday on Carter's plan to reorganize such government education bureaus as the U.S. Information Agency. A final House vote is likely later this week on a bill prohibiting the sexual exploitation of children.

And both the House and Senate may take final action this week on a supplemental appropriation bill affecting the B-1 bomber and the dispute over the nuclear breeder reactor.

The measure supports Carter's position that three remaining B-1s, which have been financed in a separate bill, need not be built. Congress and the president earlier agreed to scuttle production of the long-range bomber.

The same appropriation bill includes $80 million for the Clinch River breeder reactor program near Oak Ridge, Tenn. A bill authorizing that program prompted Carter's first veto.

If Congress is unable to complete action on Social Security this year, that issue is expected to get priority attention when the lawmakers return to town in January.

Experts say that unless Social Security is assured more money, the giant system could be bankrupt by 1983. Efforts could be delayed for several months without harm, but congressional leaders would like to have the problem settled long before the 1978 elections.

The House and Senate have passed separate bills that would sharply increase payroll taxes to bail out Social Security.

The House measure would retain the traditional 50-50 employer-employee split of the tax burden. The Senate voted to dump a greater share of the new taxes on employers.

No matter when a Social Security bill is finally approved, taxes will go up on Jan. 1 because of previously enacted increases.

For example, a $10,000-a-year worker now pays $585 a year to Social Security. That will rise next year to $605. The maximum tax of $965, now paid only by those earning $16,500 or more, will go up to $1,071 next year. That top tax will be paid by those earning $17,700 or more.

If the formula approved by the House should become law, the maximum tax next year would be $1,204, and the maximum wage subject to Social Security tax would be $19,900. The Senate bill would have no increases before Jan. 1, 1979.

Even if Congress is unable to take a final vote on Social Security this year, the lawmakers could make any tax increase retroactive to Jan. 1. But that is considered highly unlikely.

Griffin Eyes Re-Election To Post

tribut attorney when that office was created in 1973.

Attorney John Montford, who waged an unsuccessful campaign against Griffin in 1974, already has announced he will run for the post next year.

"I think if anyone will look at the record and at the statements I made when I took office, he will see that the office has met most of the goals which were established," Griffin said.

He pointed to the number of felony jury trials as one criteria.

"In 1972, there were only 41 felony jury trials. We had 77 in 1973, my first year in office," Griffin stated.

He said the office prosecuted 101 felony jury cases last year, and has tried 104 such cases so far this year.

Griffin cited the addition of a new district court as a step which will call for the trying of more jury cases in 1978.

The DA said he tends to try to give young first offenders a chance, but that his office never offers probation for violent crime.

"First priority with young people is to see if they can be rehabilitated, and the county does have a high rehabilitation rate with young offenders," Griffin said.

"But certainly for crimes of violence we, as a matter of principle, feel they need to be tried — and we do try them."

Griffin termed the responsibility of the office as chiefly administrative, but said he felt an obligation to personally prosecute major violent crimes.

"In the past two years or so, I have prosecuted three capital murder cases, getting two life sentences and a death penalty conviction," Griffin said.

Griffin is a past president of the Texas District and County Attorneys Association. He is chairman of the Criminal Law Section of the State Bar and was named to the Governor's Task Force for implementing provisions of the speedy trial act which goes into effect in July.

More snow was expected today for parts of New York, Pennsylvania and New England.

Meanwhile, the West Coast was buffeted by high winds. Power failures and rough seas were reported in Southern California.

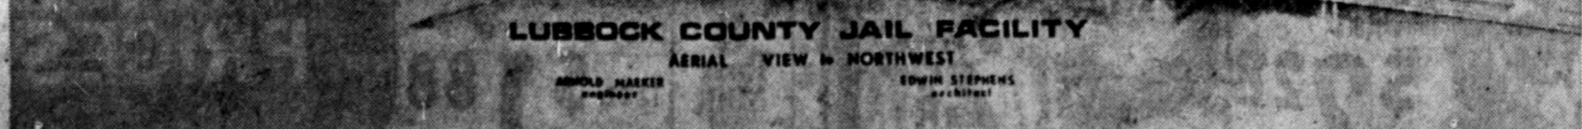

More than 50 boat rescues were reported Sunday after small craft warnings were posted.

On the South Plains, weathermen predicted "no significant precipitation" through Tuesday, but temperatures were expected to climb only to the 50s today and drop to near 30 tonight. Tuesday is expected to be even chillier, with a high in the upper 40s.

South and southwesterly winds of 10-15 mph today should put a chill on the cloud-covered 50-degree readings, but will slow to about 5-10 mph under partly cloudy skies tonight.

But those readings are mild compared to the five-degree low recorded on Nov. 28 a year ago. The high for that day was only 24 degrees and was accompanied by 2.40 inches of snow, bringing the precipitation total at that time to 20.10 inches. This year's precipitation total is 16.12 inches.

Lubbock's Sunday temperatures ranged from 47 to 59 degrees. The low here this morning was 39.

Dickerson Loses Freedom Appeal

By FRANK PATRICK
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Dist. Judge Thomas L. Clinton today denied another bid for freedom on the part of convicted burglar Harold Wayne Dickerson, 32.

At a writ of habeas corpus hearing this morning in Clinton's 99th District Court, the judge turned down court-appointed attorney Phil Brown's request to have Dickerson released from jail because of an allegedly invalid indictment.

Brown gave notice he will appeal the decision to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

Dickerson was convicted by jury in August of the Jan. 29, 1971, burglary of the Naomi Miller Martin residence at 4511 42nd St., and Clinton later assessed an 11-year prison sentence.

Brown claims the indictment in the case is invalid because it was returned subsequent to the five-year statute of limitations.

The state contends the indictment is viable since it contains information that a burglary complaint had been filed in a Justice of the Peace Court on June 26, 1974, within the limitations span.

Brown argued in a brief that the JP complaint was not enough to give a state district court jurisdiction over the case.

"Nowhere does the code of criminal procedure state that the filing in justice court of a complaint alleging a felony offense vests a district court with jurisdiction..." the brief says.

"In fact, the code expressly states that a felony prosecution is not initiated until an indictment is duly acted upon by a grand jury and received by a district court... Further, the district courts in Lubbock County do not have concurrent statutory jurisdiction over felony and misdemeanor cases, as is the case in many counties," the brief continues.

Clinton denied the relief, and continued Dickerson's bond at $10,000. The defendant is currently being held in the county jail pending transfer to the state penitentiary.

Dickerson was originally indicted Feb. 12, 1976, and the Court of Criminal Appeals held the indictment was faulty because it showed on its face that the limitations period had expired.

Subsequent indictments specified, however, that the JP court complaint had been filed before the expiration date. Prosecutors say the filing of the JP court complaint extended the statute of limitations.

Mrs. Martin was murdered two days after reporting the burglary of her residence to police. The body, found sprawled on a living room couch, had been stabbed about 25 times.

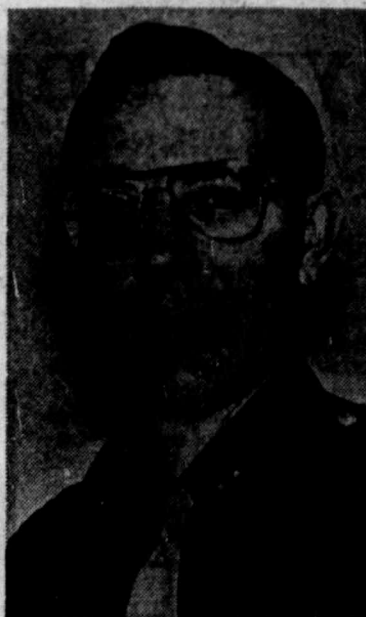

There were teeth marks on the body and a charred area on the chest.

Dickerson last week lost a bid for a new trial on the burglary conviction. Brown had requested a new trial on several grounds, among them that jurors had considered evidence outside the trial record during their deliberations.

Jurors said in last week's hearing they had discussed the fact that Mrs. Martin had not testified at the August trial and that it was brought out in the discussion that she was deceased.

The conviction is being appealed, and the question of the validity of the indictment constitutes a collateral appeal.

Brown said he would ask the appeals court to dismiss the indictment with prejudice, thereby making it impossible for the state to re-try the case.

VICTIM AND SUSPECT — Ulysses Cribbs, 32, right, has been booked on one count of first degree murder and three felony charges of shooting with intent to kill, wound or maim. He was booked in connection with a shooting spree at the Club 89, an Omaha, Neb., nightclub. Killed by a shotgun wound to the head was off-duty Douglas County sheriff's deputy Capt. Dennis Lipari, 39, left. (AP Laserphotos)

Man Killed, 25 Hurt In Shooting At Club

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — The nightclub was packed — mostly parents and children — for Dave Wingert's puppet show. The lights were dimming, and Wingert promised "something new and different."

Then came a sound like firecrackers — and a stunned moment or two before it sank in that this was not part of the show.

One club patron lay dying and 25 others wounded as pellets flew from six shotgun blasts fired by a well-dressed gunman.

Another patron was suffering an apparent heart attack.

Horried, the patrons dove for cover.

Ten of the victims remained hospitalized today in conditions ranging from good to fair.

A disabled Vietnam veteran was arrested early Sunday at his home in Omaha and was booked on suspicion of first degree murder and shooting with intent to kill or maim during the shooting at the Club 89 on Saturday night.

Douglas County Attorney Donald Knowles said he would file a formal murder charge today against Ulysses Cribbs, 32. Knowles said he would ask that bail be denied.

Among those injured in the hail of shotgun pellets was a pregnant woman, Patricia Allison, 27, of Omaha. She remained hospitalized early today in fair condition and under close observation with multiple pellet wounds.

Mrs. Allison said she did not hit the floor of the club until her father, Hilary Hoelsing, 54, of rural Hartington, Neb., yelled that he was hit and her husband pulled her to the ground.

"I didn't feel pain for quite a while," she said.

Hoelsing was listed in good condition with an arm wound.

The man shot to death was an off-duty sheriff's deputy, 39-year-old Dennis Lipari, who was shot in the head.

His wife, Ruth, 34, lost her left eye and may lose the sight of the other one, according to Bergan-Mercy Hospital officials.

Cribbs was picked up about six hours after the incident. Police said he was traced through a license plate spotted by a witness outside the club.

Douglas County Sheriff Ted Janing said Cribbs, a native of Omaha who had served with Air Force security in Vietnam, had been given a 100 percent mental disability rating, for which he drew a monthly military disability check of $1,000. Neighbors, who described him as likeable but eccentric, said he was depressed because he could not find a job.

Hearing Slated On Shuttle Cost

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate Appropriations subcommittee has scheduled a hearing Thursday on cost overruns and scheduling delays in the space shuttle program, the chairman of the subcommittee announced today.

Sen. William Proxmire, whose subcommittee handles appropriations for the space program, said the National Aeronautics and Space Administration has conceded an overrun of 4 to 7 percent on the cost of the shuttle.

In addition, the Wisconsin Democrat said, NASA has disclosed that delivery of the last three of five shuttle orbiters may be delayed by about six months.

"These proposed changes may be the tip of the iceberg," Proxmire said. "Further increased costs along with program delays and reduced shuttle performance may be just over the horizon."

One Victim Reported Improving

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Hospital spokesmen in Albuquerque said one of three Israeli nationals injured in a plane crash in southeastern New Mexico is no longer in serious condition.

Gabriel Rosenholtz, 28, of Dallas was listed in fair condition Sunday at the Bernallillo County Medical Center, while Yohanon Lavanon, 44, of Greenville remained in serious condition.

The third man, David Kirren, 27, of Dallas was listed in good condition at the Guadalupe Medical Center in Carlsbad.

A fourth passenger in the plane, Osnat Rosenholtz, 22, was killed in the crash Friday near Carlsbad. The plane was en route from Dallas to El Paso on a holiday outing.

The three injured Israeli nationals were on classified assignment and were working for a Dallas-based electronics firm, officials said.

Preston Kirk, a spokesman for E-Systems Inc., said an Israeli official from New York, Maj. Joseph Ravkaie, had flown to Albuquerque to claim Mrs. Rosenholtz' body and ship it home. Ravkaie was unavailable for comment.

"We're not sure who the plane belonged to," said Kirk. "All the papers in the aircraft were burned up."

Another E-Systems spokesman, W.L. Thomas, declined to discuss employment details. However, he described Rosenholtz and Kirren as "customer representatives" who serve as liaison between the Israeli government and E-Systems at the firm's suburban Greenville plant. Lavanon has been employed by E-Systems about four years, Thomas said.

E-Systems designed a radar system that monitors Arab and Israeli troop and vehicle movements in the Sinai Desert. However, Thomas said, "They weren't working in connection with the project, I don't believe. They were probably off on a weekend flight, on a holiday."

A representative of the National Transportation Safety Board in Denver, Ron Schleede, was to be in Carlsbad Saturday to take charge of the investigation into the crash, a spokeswoman for the board said.

The group reportedly took off from Dallas Thursday, rented a car at the Carlsbad airport and spent the night at a local motel before flying out again the next day for El Paso.

Eddy County Medical Examiner Larry Fanning said the plane hit in a flat, grassy field about one-half mile from the runway and skidded some 75 feet before bursting into flames. He said the survivors suffered severe burns.

State Savings Opens Third Branch Office

State Savings and Loan Association officially opened a third branch office at 21st Street and Knoxville Avenue today, with Mayor Roy Bass cutting a ceremonial ribbon containing $100 in cash bills.

Designated State Savings Medical Branch, the new facility will be open from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. every weekday. It features a night depository large enough to handle large drop-bags, according to Burl D. Greaves, president.

Helen Cox, assistant director of the Methodist Hospital School of Nursing, was presented the cash ribbon as a donation to the School of Nursing.

Others participating in the ribbon cutting ceremony were: Ray Diekemper Jr. of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce; Dr. Monzer Attar, State Savings director; George M. Brewer, Methodist Hospital administrator; and J. R. Blumrosen, chairman of the board of State Savings.

The new branch will serve complimentary refreshments to visitors during the remainder of the week to celebrate the opening.

Report Links Deaths To Sleeping Pills

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Barbiturates — so-called sleeping pills — are associated with nearly 5,000 deaths and some 25,000 trips to hospital emergency wards each year.

Dr. Robert DuPont, director of the National Institute on Drug Abuse, released a study Sunday that was requested by President Carter on sleeping pills and sedatives or tranquilizers.

Carter had told the agency to determine "how we can best control the abuse of barbiturates and other prescription drugs which cause many deaths, while not interfering with their legitimate medical use."

DuPont said in an interview that having sleeping pills in the family medicine cabinet "is like having a loaded gun in the house."

The study "confirmed our understanding that barbiturates, or sleeping pills, pose a unique and serious problem in terms of both death and... abuse," he said.

The researchers estimated nearly 5,000 deaths a year either directly related to barbiturates or in which barbiturates were involved — such as when they were taken in combination with alcohol, and said the drug also was involved in approximately 25,000 trips to hospital emergency wards.

The study said sleeping pills and tranquilizers remain the most commonly prescribed medicines in the world. Americans alone got about 27 million sleeping pill prescriptions — an estimated 1 billion doses — in 1976.

"What came as a major surprise to me in the study was the realization that these drugs are not only dangerous but that they are probably not effective in terms of treating the insomnia," DuPont said.

He said prescription sleeping pills are "often remarkably effective when taken for one or two nights," but the study indicated most such pills seem to be ineffective beyond two weeks' consecutive use and after that can create disorders that themselves cause insomnia.

DuPont said he has asked the Food and Drug Administration to consider requiring drug manufacturers either to demonstrate they are effective with repeated use or to label them accordingly.

Other possible moves, he said, include a national education campaign aimed at doctors and consumers, on the potential dangers and limitations of barbiturates.

"Many patients and doctors are too quick to turn to a pill to deal with the problem of temporary insomnia and frequently ignore the fact that it is a common symptom of depression and anxiety," he said.

He urged doctors to prescribe "the safest medication, and that is certainly not a barbiturate or the most commonly prescribed non-barbiturate sleeping pills such as Doriden, Noludar, Placidyl or methaqualone.

"In fact, the safest and probably the most effective sleeping medications appear to be the benzodiazepine drugs such as Dalmane and Valium," DuPont said.

Polish Communist Visiting Italy

ROME (AP) — Polish Communist leader Edward Gierek arrived today for a three-day official visit to Italy and a meeting with Pope Paul VI.

No other leader of Poland's Communist regime has ever met with the Roman Catholic pontiff although 89 percent of the Polish people are believed to be Catholics. Vatican observers said one of the topics to be discussed is the church's support for Gierek's plans to expand agricultural production.

President Trying To Analyze Impact Of Visit

By HELEN THOMAS
WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter has made glowing pronouncements about Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's personal visit with Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin. But what, if any, concrete accomplishments will unfold?

Carter is assessing the development and seeking to learn what was discussed at the Sadat-Begin sessions in Jerusalem. He must analyze their impact on future peace in the Middle East.

Were the talks a major step along the road to a Geneva peace conference — or to a meaningful separate dialogue between Egypt and Israel?

There is some feeling that Carter was outmaneuvered as the drive for Geneva hit a stalemate and that the ball had gotten away from him. But he is also getting credit for creating conditions that led to the Sadat-Begin meeting.

From the moment he came into office, Carter has focused the spotlight on the Middle East as a danger spot where war could erupt at any time. He has had several rounds of talks with the areas top leaders and foreign ministers, searching for a point of reconciliation of 30 years of hostility between the Israelis and Arabs.

He also has stated on every occasion where the Middle East was the prime topic that the legitimate rights of the Palestinians displaced by the creation of Israel must be taken into account for a Geneva conference — as far back as 1974. He also steadfastly refused to recognize the Palestinian question as the central issue.

The new conditions in the Middle East are forcing a complete reassessment of policies, both on the part of the United States and Israel's Arab neighbors.

Last Sunday, in a six-minute personal prayer, at the First Baptist Church, Carter expressed his hopes:

"Rarely has been there been an opportunity in the history of mankind where the hearts and minds of all people could be attuned in thanksgiving and prayer. We are especially concerned and hopeful about the Middle East.

"The peoples of Libya, Syria, Jordan, Egypt and Israel have been constantly torn and (have) killed one another in a continuing series of conflicts large and small — four wars in the last 30 years."

Carter said the people of the middle East want to live in peace, but instead have been "suffering from the ravages of war."

Begin has said repeatedly that "everything is negotiable" in terms of the Middle East problems. The meeting with Sadat is epic in its symbolism and in terms of lessening tensions and creating an atmosphere where peace is possible.

But the hard questions remain. And their solution calls for all sides to bite the bullet and to make concessions that even six months ago would have appeared impossible.

Analysis

just and lasting peace.

The Sadat visit to Jerusalem had many significant manifestations, not the least of which was psychological. The Egyptian President and the Israeli Prime Minister have now talked on a par. Neither will ever be quite the same again, nor will their governments.

No apparent major concessions have made on either side yet. But the suspicions remain in other parts of the Arab world that a deal has been cut. The Sadat move has broken any semblance of Arab unity, little that there was in the Middle East.

And although the Egyptian press has reported Sadat rejected a separate peace with Begin with a promise of Israeli evacuation of the Sinai, that possibility remains.

Three Killed In Head-On Collision

By United Press International
A father and his two sons were killed in a head-on car-truck collision late Sunday to become Texas' 20th traffic fatalities, pushing the Thanksgiving accidental death toll to 23.

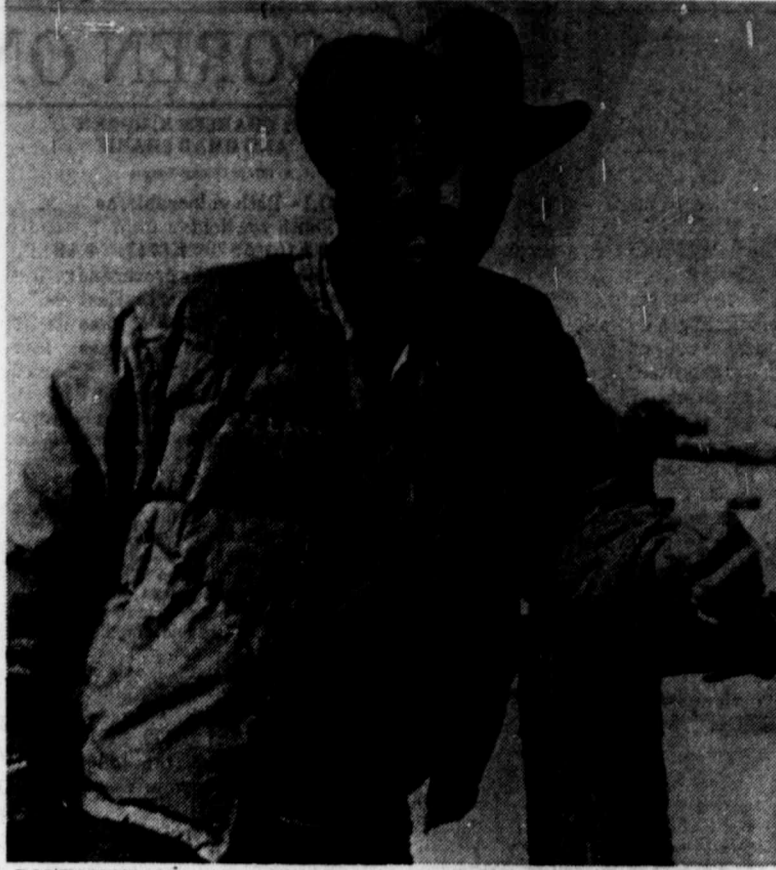

Law enforcement officers said Ray-mundo Dkron, 33, of Atascosa was the driver of a car that collided with a truck in Southwest Bexar County. His sons, Fernando, 2, and Reynaldo, 6 months, were killed.

A 26-year-old suburban Fort Worth woman was struck Saturday night by a freight train. Fort Worth police said they believed Diane Squires of River Oaks received fatal injuries in a fall from viaduct before being struck by the Santa Fe freight train.

Another woman, Victoria German, 23, of El Paso Saturday morning was struck and killed while crossing an interstate highway near El Paso. Portions of the severed body of the woman were found along Interstate 10 near where she was struck by an automobile while trying to cross. No charges were filed against the driver of the car.

Authorities in El Paso also are searching for the driver of a pickup truck that struck and killed William Parker, 19, Wednesday night. Police said after the truck jumped a curb and rolled over Parker, the driver crawled out and ran away.

Three persons died in a fire at a Beaumont halfway house for transients early Thanksgiving Day, and three one-car crashes killed five people during the watch period.

RODEO COWBOY — Anson Thurman of Fallon, Nev., left his lumber yard business because of legal hassles and returned to the professional rodeo circuit after an eight-year absence. Motive Of Woman Cited As Secrecy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A medical publication says the Texas woman who died from a Mexican abortion had crossed the border for purposes of secrecy, not because of a cutoff of U.S. government-funded abortions.

Groups seeking federal funding of abortions under Medicaid have cited the case, which occurred during the summer, to support their arguments.

The Ob.Gyn News, a semimonthly for obstetricians, reported Sunday that the woman had the Mexican operation "to keep the abortion secret from her family," not because she was denied federal aid in the United States.

She had obtained an abortion in Mexico two years before when she could have obtained U.S. funding for it, it said, and her doctor had offered to refer her to two Texas clinics that would have done a low-cost abortion.

The newspaper said the McAllen woman was falsely being portrayed by pro-abortion groups and the press "as a martyr to the Hyde Amendment," the section of federal law prohibiting federal payments for abortions under medical aid programs for the poor.

It said the federal investigator whose report sparked nationwide news accounts knew of the woman's motives, and told Ob.Gyn News that four other women in the area who suffered complications from Mexican abortions were motivated by embarrassment rather than a Medicaid cutoff.

Dr. Julian Gold, investigator from the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, told UPI the facts are as the paper stated, but he added, "There are some things the article made conjectures about that we didn't make."

"My job is to investigate the facts ... and try to present them as factually as possible," he said.

Gold said there is no evidence a Mexican abortion had ended the woman's previous pregnancy in 1975, although "a number of avenues" were investigated.

And he said he cannot conclude absolutely that money was the reason for her trip to Mexico, but "she told her relative (whom the doctor interviewed) it was cheaper. It was going to cost her $40 in Mexico and $220 in Texas."

Officials To Study Teachers' Request

By JEFF SOUTH
Avalanche-Journal Staff
A request that all "honorably" departing teachers, not just those officially retiring at age 65, be deemed eligible for a $1,500 "nest egg" will be considered Tuesday by Lubbock school trustees.

Already wary of cost increases for related fringe benefits, such as group health insurance granted last year, school board members seem reluctant to approve the Lubbock Classroom Teachers Association (LCTA) bid to liberalize the retirement pay plan.

"In my opinion, the intent of the policy was to give this money only to teachers and other employees who are officially retiring — not simply to anybody leaving the employment of the Lubbock school system," said board president Charles Waters.

The retirement bonus stems from a policy proposed by the LCTA and adopted by the school board in mid-1976, allowing Lubbock Independent School District personnel to cash in unused sick leave.

Under the policy, the district agreed to pay school employees a fixed amount at the end of each contract year for sick leave accumulated in excess of 60 days. In addition, "retiring" employees have been permitted to cash in all their unused sick leave, up to the 60-day maximum.

The cash-in rates were set at $25 per day for teachers and certified employees, $12.50 for clerical and classified personnel, and $10 for non-classified workers, such as cafeteria and maintenance personnel.

School district employees, most on 10-month contracts, are authorized one day of sick leave a month.

Thus, the cash-in policy works this way:

Say a teacher has worked for the Lubbock school system six years with perfect attendance and, by the start of the 1977-78 academic term, has accumulated 60 days of sick leave. If he does not miss a day this year, he will have 70 days' leave accrued. To bring that number back to 60, he is allowed to cash in 10 days, for a total $250, at the end of this school year.

And a teacher who is retiring at age 65 after having accumulated 60 days of sick leave gets reimbursed for all of the unused days. That would mean a bonus of $1,500 — 60 days at $25 per day.

In its original request, the LCTA said compensation for unused sick leave up to the 60-day maximum should be available "upon retirement." But in July, the association asked that full reimbursement be extended to any employee "honorably terminating employment" with the local school district.

Waters and other school trustees are reluctant to go along with that request because it would require the district to pay as much as $1,500 to teachers and other school employees who are changing professions or going to work for another school system — and technically, are not retiring.

Waters said the proposed revision would undermine the incentive of the current policy — that is, to encourage teachers to stay with the Lubbock public schools until the end of their careers to collect the full amount possible.

"This policy, as I see it, was meant to be a 'nest egg' for retiring employees," school trustee Jose Ramirez said in a recent interview. He said the sick leave reimbursement program could get "awfully expensive" if it is opened up to all departing employees.

The reimbursement policy cost the district about $137,000 last year.

The policy revision was presented at a school board meeting in July by Hazel King, LCTA immediate past president.

However, Robert Thomas, current

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: After 32 years of marriage, my husband and I separated. He was hard-working, non-drinking and faithful. I forced the separation because he was terribly hard on our three children (they're now all college graduates and married). Also, he refused to socialize with anyone. I felt trapped and stifled, and couldn't take his selfish, insulting way of life. He moved out of our lovely home and into a small apartment.

About a month ago I bumped into him at the shopping center. He invited me to see his apartment, so I went. Before I knew it I found myself in a very amorous situation and I stayed overnight. He served me breakfast in bed and confessed that the separation made him truly appreciate me. He said he could never love anyone the way he loved me and if I took him back he would try his best to be more sociable and make me happy. The next weekend we drove out of town secretly like two young lovers. I didn't want anyone (especially my family) to know. Since then, he's been wining and dining me, and I have been loving it. It's better than our courtship ever was!

People keep telling me how marvelous I look since I got rid of "that pill." They don't know I'm in love all over again.

If I take him back, my friends and family will think I've lost my mind. I'm still ashamed to let them know I'm seeing him. What would you do?

Walking on Air

Dear Walking: I'd take him back and give him a chance to prove his sincerity. And the last thing I'd worry about is what my friends and family think.

DEAR ABBY: I just had confrontation with a woman in a laundromat over her smoking.

I am asthmatic, and cigarette smoke not only offends me, it makes me sick. When I asked her to please put her cigarette out, she told me — and everyone else in the place — in no uncertain terms that she will smoke wherever she wants to. Furthermore, she said there were no "No Smoking" signs in evidence, so I had better get used to it because everybody smokes.

Unfortunately I will now have to go into debt to buy a washer-dryer. I'm sick of bringing home a cough and clothes that stink of cigarette smoke from the laundromat.

Winchester, VA.

Dear Win: I am no defender of smokers, but it's a rare smoker who will not quickly douse his cigarette if someone complains. More and more public places post "No Smoking" signs, which I think is a step in the right direction.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 64-year-old woman and my problem is my husband. He is 68, and no matter where we go, he ogles the women, young or old. His head looks like it's on a swivel. He's been impotent for the last 15 years, so I can't understand why he's looking. He doesn't just look — he leers. One of these days somebody is going to take a poke at him.

When I tell him that his looking is obvious and ask him to please cut it out, he says I am jealous. I'm not really, because I know darned well that all he can do is look.

What I want to know is this: Is he wrong for looking? Or am I wrong for complaining?

Looker's Frau

Dear Frau: Looking in the manner that you describe is rude, so I don't blame you for complaining. However, I seriously doubt that your complaining will put an end to his looking.

If you feel left out and lonely, or wish you knew how to get people to like you, my new booklet, "How To Be Popular; You're Never Too Young or Too Old," is for you. Send $1 along with a long, self-addressed, stamped (24 cents) envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Seattle Mayor Plans Rest From Politics

By LEE MITGANG
Associated Press Writer

He is young, well-liked, a rising star in the Democratic Party's galaxy. But Mayor Wes Uhlman of Seattle says he's had it with politics — for the moment at least — after eight years of personal ups and downs as chief executive of a city with ups and downs of its own.

"I'm going on sabbatical. I feel a lot like the point man on an infantry platoon. You're drawing all the fire and you get a little weary," Uhlman said in a telephone interview.

He made the decision not to run for a third term last March "despite a great deal of pressure to run again," he says. But others inside and outside Seattle government feel he might well have lost a reelection bid, thereby doing irreparable harm to any hopes he harbors for future state, or even national, office.

However, despite his avowed weariness with political life, few around him seriously believe Uhlman has given up hopes of being governor or senator of Washington, or else receiving some attractive Washington job offer from the Carter administration.

At any rate, his mayoralty ends in January and a local television commentator with no political experience, Charles Royer, takes over the office. Uhlman will become a partner in the Seattle law firm of Insee, Best and Chapin.

Uhlman said he had turned down two Carter job offers — a post in the Department of Housing and Urban Development, and the U.S. Commission on Aging — but he didn't foreclose future Washington offers.

"If I was going to do anything out of the Seattle area, it would have to be very attractive," he said.

Uhlman said there was no single event that made him decide.

Corporations Invest In Other Companies

By CHET CURRIER

NEW YORK (AP) — Institutions may be wary and the public disillusioned, but Wall Streeters can point to at least one group of investors that is avidly buying stocks these days — corporations themselves.

In one of the most recent and highly publicized examples of that trend, Kennecott Copper, with $1.2 billion to invest after its court-ordered divestiture of Peabody Coal Co., decided to put a big chunk of the proceeds into an offer for the stock of Carborundum Co.

As the large investment banking firm of Salomon Brothers pointed out recently, the public has been selling stock on balance for two decades.

Many institutions such as insurance companies and pension funds have sharply scaled back the percentage of the money they earmark for stocks, the firm noted.

Even foreign individuals, generally considered a significant source of support for the market in recent years, have lately become a question mark because of declines in the dollar against other major currencies.

By contrast, said Robert S. Salomon Jr., Salomon Brothers' director of stock research, "Corporations, both domestic and foreign, have become in recent years increasingly aggressive buyers of common stock."

Salomon estimates that tender offers for the stock of one company by another this year will reach a record total value of approximately $4 billion.

Companies will have invested up to another $7 billion or $8 billion by year-end, he figures, buying back chunks of their own stock.

Standard & Poor's Corp. recently counted 47 companies that have embarked on stock repurchase plans, among them such giants as International Business Machines, Monsanto, Dow Chemical and Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing.

Salomon pointed out that this trend reflects "an improvement in corporate liquidity combined, more importantly, with a low level of stock prices. In our opinion, this activity is to some extent a confirmation of the existence of satisfactory returns now available in the equity market."

"But it also must be said that this is essentially an unhealthy trend, since funds so employed are not then available for capital spending. Thus, in all likelihood, this phenomenon will continue to retard growth in plant expenditures so long as the stock market remains at current levels."

William M. LeFevre, an analyst at Wall Street's Granger & Co., observed, "We guess it's a sign of the times that it is now cheaper for someone to buy a going business than to try to start one up from scratch."

With that in mind, numerous investors lately have scurried to buy stocks which analysis or rumor suggests might become future targets of tender offers.

Prices Hurt Young Couples

By JOHN CUNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — It looked perfectly logical at first glance, this defense by the nation's home mortgage lenders against complaints that rising new home prices were excluding many Americans from home-ownership.

New homes usually aren't meant for first-time buyers, explained economists of the U.S. League of Savings Associations, which make most of the home mortgage loans throughout the country.

"Most new homes are built for the second- or third-time buyers," they said. An "overwhelming" 65 percent of all new homes are bought by families "who are using the accumulated equity and appreciated value of their present homes to purchase new housing," they explained.

So what do we offer the first-time buyer who hasn't had the chance to build up much of a down payment? We offer him the used or existing home. It's "a great opportunity," they said. More than 80 percent of all homes sold last year were existing homes, they said. It's true. The National Association of Realtors recorded 3,002,000 such sales, a record. The number will be even higher this year.

Those existing homes are a great buy, said the U.S. League economists. The median price of a newly built home last year was $44,200, but an existing home sold for 13.6 percent less at $38,100.

Watch those figures! Didn't we hear earlier that the people who sold the existing homes benefited not only from accumulated equity but from "appreciated value"? In other words, existing prices seem to be rising too.

How true. That median figure of $38,100 is a good one for certain purposes, but it does after all include some homes that are in very poor condition and ready to be phased out rather than lived in.

This doesn't mean there aren't bargains in existing homes. Many young couples have found, renovated, and upgraded such houses and now have accommodations superior to those who live in brand new houses.

But existing home prices aren't standing still. That $38,100 median figure has already been bumped up to about $44,000, or just about the price of last year's brand new home.

Coal Miners Agree To Resume Meeting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United Mine Workers and the Bituminous Coal Operators Association have agreed to meet Tuesday in Washington to resume negotiations on a nationwide contract.

The meeting was requested by the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service on Sunday. The FMCS said the two parties would meet at 10 a.m. Tuesday.

UMW President Arnold Miller broke off negotiations with the coal industry on Friday night, saying a nationwide strike on Dec. 6 was all but inevitable.

Quite understandable too. Don't blame it's just that kind of appreciation. U.S. League economists point out, provides first-time owners with the ability to apply to a brand new home.

In 1976, the year in which the median price of an existing home was less than more than 20 percent of all existing home sales were at minimum prices of $20,000.

That percentage is much higher this year, as it has been every year this decade. In September 1972, about 12.5 percent of existing home sales were for $20,000 or more; in September 1975 the percentage was 22.1; last year, 20.1.

Existing home prices clearly are soaring, especially in the quality home category. But, yes, there are bargains. Nearly 14 percent of existing sales this year were for $25,000 or less.

The question to be asked about the low-priced homes, however, is how many of them represent genuine bargains and how many are accommodations barely fit for habitation and not likely to appreciate?

A house that is so far gone it cannot grow in value would seem to be a financial sinkhole rather than an investment. And a quality home, the kind that appreciates, seems to be too costly for the first-time buyer.

And if that is so, can the new home market continue to feel assured that it has a steady supply of customers for its product?

Archeologists Find Statues

ROME (UPI) — Archeologists have unearthed a long lost statue of the fighting goddess Minerva, 50 other lifesize statues and hundreds of smaller ones in one of the most exceptional finds of recent times, the dig leader says.

Minerva and the other statues were hidden about 22 centuries ago 19 miles from Rome when worship of the mythological goddess of war and wisdom declined.

Archeologists from Rome University's Institute of Ancient Topography were attracted to the site after learning some illegal antique scavengers had been digging there at night.

The lawful diggers got there first, said leader Paolo Sommella, and cleaned out the deep cave in which the statues had been hidden. Some of the statues are almost whole, and others are in large, easily restored fragments, he said.

The statues all are in terracotta.

Actress To Curtail Hectic Pace

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Barbara Eden, the blonde beauty best remembered for her five-year run as the delectable genie in TV's "I Dream of Jeannie," has a multiple career unlike any actress in Hollywood.

In the span of a few months she starred in the TV movie "Liz Stonestreet," filled a Philadelphia concert hall and headlined a play in Chicago.

Currently she is starring in a new feature film, "Harper Valley PTA," and before the year is out she will guest with Donny and Marie Osmond and take her nightclub act to Miami, Fla.

In this day of specialization, Barbara specializes in versatility.

Not Streisand, nor Fonda, nor Minnelli is as active in so many facets of show business.

Barbara not only keeps moving professionally, she is also on the run privately.

She married Chicago publishing executive Charles Fegert in September. He makes his home in the Windy City. Barbara continues to live in Hollywood.

"It makes for enormous telephone bills and a lot of plane rides," Barbara said.

"It's a good thing we have a flexible marriage. We're kind of in a transition period but we'll work it out."

Barbara was curled up on a divan in her luxurious home which she plans to sell. Her future headquarters will be in Chicago and she will rent an apartment in Hollywood.

She also plans to curtail her hectic professional pace.

"But I won't be cutting out any one element of my career," she said. "As a performer I enjoy 'em all — TV variety shows, TV movies, nightclubs, concerts, the stage and feature movies.

"That's six different careers. And every one of them requires a different discipline or at least a different attitude on my part."

"Nightclubs and concerts are a much more subjective experience. It's you up there, naked, without any character to hide behind. You have to be accepted on a personal level."

"On a TV variety show I'm working for the camera, which is an entirely different technique. The movie camera is even more remote but then I'm into a character and try to lose myself as much as possible."

"Sometimes, I think, when I'm working in so many different mediums I probably get out of touch with who I really am."

"The most physically exhausting is nightclubs. But spending nine hours a day on your feet doing a movie takes its toll too."

"I don't complain about any of it because the exercise keeps my weight exactly where I want it. In fact, I lose weight when I'm on the road."

Barbara has few idle hours even when she's not working. She is the mother of 12-year-old Matthew, born of her marriage to Michael Ansara. She drives him to and from school every day. And Matthew often accompanies his mother on tours during school holidays.

Barbara is entertaining several offers to return to a weekly television series but doesn't like the idea of restricting herself to one medium.

"I suppose a lot of actresses don't want to work as hard as I do," she said.

"I can't say that any one of the disciplines is more rewarding financially than the others. Concerts pay more, but the overhead for costumes, musicians, lighting and all the rest evens it out."

"If other performers shy away from personal appearances maybe they don't want to gamble. There is always the risk of failure involved in concerts, clubs and the stage that you don't take in movies and television."

"If a movie doesn't do well at the box office or if a television show gets a low rating the blame can be placed on the writers or the directors or other performers."

"When you're up there on stage you are responsible for everything that happens. But the immediate rewards are greater, too. There's no thrill in the world like an audience rushing up to you and throwing flowers on stage after a concert."

"The trouble is that the moment is fleeting. You have to do it all over again the next night."

Soap Opera Star To Play 'Hunted Lady' In NBC Movie Tonight

By JAY SHARBUTT
 LOS ANGELES (AP) — For three years, Donna Mills was in a soap opera. "Love is a Many Splendored Thing." As Mrs. Laura Elliott, she says, she suffered a lot, as is the custom in soap operadom. Her husband dallied with an older woman. She got pregnant, but lost the baby. She ran off with a merchant seaman. She lost her memory. She stole her sister's baby. She also had a bad car accident. It was at this point, smiled Miss Mills, an attractive, blonde-haired, blue-eyed native of Chicago, "I had to leave. I couldn't take it any more." But tonight she resumes her suffering. This time, it is as a Los Angeles police detective on the run in a two-hour NBC movie, "The Hunted Lady." The show, which she hopes will become a series, was produced by Quinn Martin.

Martin is the chap who in 1963 began "The Fugitive," in which David Janssen played a doctor on the lam. Tonight's effort may seem just warmed-over lam, but Miss Mills says there are differences. Her fugitive character is not just running from the law (she was framed by the mob after she investigated a politician the mob secretly owned). She also is being chased by a mob hit man, whose marching orders are: "Find her, silence her." But the big difference, she says, is an obvious one, "the difference between a man running and a woman running, a woman alone on the road, trying to get jobs and coping with living alone." In the show's grand finale, she added, she'll still be on the run, which would set the stage for a series if NBC says keep running.

If such happens, it wouldn't be her first prime time series. A few years ago, after playing Clint Eastwood's old flame in "Play Misty For Me," she co-starred in a short-lived comedy, "The Good Life." "It was fun while it lasted, but after that I got offered every comedy pilot in the world," she said. "But I turned them all down because I didn't want to get typed as a comedy actress." "But then," she grinned, "I started doing a lot of 'victim' roles for some reason." She had reference to TV movies involving a damsel, her, in dire distress.

After this, she said, "I started being more selective and went for a wide variety of roles, even as a killer." Miss Mills, soft-spoken and pleasant in manner, has logged 20 credits in as many TV movies since "The Good Life" expired. In fact, she just finished one, a Super Bowl thriller for ABC. By coincidence, David Janssen, the first "Fugitive," was in it.

"I'd never met him before," she said. "I told him I was doing a pilot, a 'Fugitive' kind of thing, and we talked a lot about it. He thought it was a terrific idea, a good premise for a series." Janssen has said he'd never return to the grind of a weekly series.

'Auntie Mame' Trying To Help Nursing Home

By EDWARD W. BASSETT
 NEW YORK (UPI) — Marion Tanner, now in her mid-70s and in a wheel chair, was the spunkiest of those nursing home residents at a Thanksgiving viewing of the movie "Auntie Mame," adapted from novel written by her nephew. For almost 40 years, her Greenwich Village brownstone was a haven for homeless people until she could no longer afford the mortgage and her belongings were literally put on the sidewalk. Now she is fighting to raise $17,000 by Dec. 1 so the Village Nursing Home, just a few blocks from her old residence, can continue to be a home for some 186 elderly and sick residents. The Caring Community, a group of religious organizations in the area trying to save the facility, still must raise another $175,000 by March 1 to keep the home from going bankrupt. The real Auntie Mame, a former actress, displayed much sparkle and keenness as she discussed the nursing home and watched for the first time the film which her nephew, Edward E. Tanner, said was loosely based on her life. "Of course I've read the book many times and I've seen parts of the movie before, but this is the first time I've seen it all the way through," she said. "It really isn't at all biographical and there are parts in it I don't even like," she said.

"Auntie Mame" made Edward Tanner a millionaire, but none of the money ever filtered down to his impoverished aunt. "He died a year ago," Mrs. Tanner said. "He was bright. I am bright. The conversation was always good. But we stopped seeing each other. I think his wife didn't want to meet me." The Village Nursing home is old. It has high ceilings and a faint smell of decay, but Mrs. Tanner feels "it is unique in the area. Where would the people here go if this place goes? That's why it's worth saving." "I'm looking for people with money but I just don't know any," she said as she fingered a thin handkerchief with a tiny silver border. She confessed to being an avid reader because "you can get certain angles on life from books. After all, you can't live all the angles." "I guess I'm concerned with life," she said.

DR. LAMB

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — I have tried to find cereals that have no preservatives, food coloring, or artificial flavoring. I began eating the Quaker Natural Cereals, but discovered they used the term vegetable oil as one of their ingredients. I wrote to the company asking them if this was coconut oil, and indeed it was. They state that "no cholesterol is present in Natural Cereal." Does this mean it is all right for me to continue with these cereals even though they do contain coconut oil?

DEAR READER — I am not fond of the gimmick used by many food companies to state a food has "no cholesterol" when they are using saturated fat in the recipe. It is true that coconut oil and all vegetable products contain no cholesterol, but saturated fat may be even more dangerous. Many scientists think a high saturated fat intake is a major factor in stimulating your own body to form fatty-cholesterol particles that tend to lodge in the arteries and cause heart and vascular disease.

And, I find it equally distasteful to see a food label of "vegetable oil" which misleads many buyers. All too often, the buyer thinks he is getting a vegetable fat low in saturated fat, when in fact it is coconut oil. To fight back, I recommend to my readers that if the product says "vegetable oil," and doesn't specify what kind or tell you how much saturated fat it contains, just boycott it. That will help to bring the food industry around.

As the letter you sent me really admits, the food industry likes to use coconut oil not because it is good for you, but because it improves the shelf life of the product they are selling. I might add that sometimes it is cheaper.

In defense of Quaker's product, I'll have to agree that the amount of fat it contains is relatively small. A little bit of saturated fat is in almost all foods that contain any fat at all, even in safflower oil.

According to the Quaker figures in the letter you sent me, a half cup serving contains 4.2 grams of saturated fat. That translates into about 38 calories, and if you were eating 2,500 calories a day, 15 per cent of your daily saturated fat allowance. The Inter-Society Commission for Heart Disease Resources recommends that we limit our saturated fat (not total fat) intake to 10 percent of our total calories. About three-and-half cups of the Natural Cereal would use your entire daily allowance of saturated fat.

Like many other foods, you can't eat much, but you can eat some. So if the rest of your menu is based on lean meats, fish, and poultry, abundant amounts of vegetables without added saturated fat, and low-fat dairy products, you can still meet the overall dietary recommendation of limiting your total saturated fat intake to no more than 10 percent of your total calories.

To give you a better idea of the proper dietary recommendations about fats, saturated fats, and cholesterol, I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-3, Diet, Preventing Atherosclerosis. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY.

Of course, many of these problems can be corrected if all foods were labeled properly. I wish they also would carry the recommended daily intakes along with them as a public service.

Criticisms Of Actress' Play Stirs Broadway

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
NEW YORK (AP) — Broadway, where there is a broken light bulb for every heartless drama critic, is in a wrist-slapping snit because New York magazine's John Simon has suggested that the luminous, indefatigable Liza Minnelli has "bubbly lips," a face like "a beagle" and "a nose en route to becoming a trunk."

In addition to everything else, like Mrs. Lincoln at Ford's Theater, he didn't think much of the play.

For shooting down "The Act," Miss Minnelli's tireless and at times tiresome new star turn at the Majestic Theater, in terms so personally unflattering to the performer, the League of New York Theaters and Producers has called on the press agents to deny critic Simon his free sharpshooter's seat on the aisle at future openings.

Both the Drama Critics Circle and the Drama Desk, the approved gun clubs of the first night assassins, have protested the league's action as discriminatory, and all sorts of people like gossip columnist Lis Smith and producer Harold Prince have heaped scorn on Simon's "rampant machismo" in calling attention, whether accurately or not, to the star's outer shell rather than her inner fire.

All of which begs the question of whether a performer's physical appearance is fair game for a critic's candor-and-or vitriol.

Superstar Minnelli would not spend more than half the evening in a sequined leotard cut down to the Canal Zone if she were resentful of the idea of being confused with a sex object by the learned critics, any more than MGM put Lana Turner in a sweater so movie goers could admire her diction.

When Bing Crosby called Bob Hope "old ski nose," he was being physical and personal, to say nothing of inviting two decades of counterattacking banter about his own lack of scalp protection.

Walter Kerr, surely the most gracious and kindly of drama critics, once rhapsodized on the "callipygian charms" of dancer Gwen Verdon, which was getting physical below the belt.

Callipygian, according to my Oxford English Dictionary, means "having shapely or finely developed buttocks," from the name of a famous statue of Venus. Critic Kerr, in fact, was so taken with Miss Verdon's iscial tubercities, to use the medical term and avoid offense, he wanted to have them cast in a mold and hung over Shubert Alley as a sort of rear guard Mount Rushmore.

But what, may one ask, would propriety and professional candor require of the critic who had some ifs and buts about the Verdon butt, or, for the sake of argument, the Minnelli proboscis?

My mother, who was a great movie fan and even went on nights when they weren't giving away dishes, would have gone along with what Simon says. Her critiques tended to be very physical since she never could remember the names of the stars, only what they looked like.

"What did you see tonight, Ma?"
 "The Pirate."
 "Who was in it?"
 "Rat Eyes and Lantern Jaw." That meant Judy Garland, Liza's Mom, and Gene Kelly.

Clark Gable, her idol, was "Taxi Doors," because she said with those ears he looked like a taxicab with the back doors open. June Allyson was "Weepy Eyes," Bette Davis: "The Screecher," Leslie Howard: "That Chinless Englishman," John Wayne: "Pine Knot" and Wallace Beery: "Pudding Face."

She saw "Rose Marie" with "Egg Head" and "Needle Nose," which meant the Nelson Eddy-Jeanette MacDonald version. She couldn't abide "Popeye," not the cartoon character but Kirk Douglas, but doted on "Chicken Neck" and "Patent Leather," respectively James Stewart and George Raft.

In most cases Mom was not putting the knock on people she nicknamed. Her physical pseudonyms generally added up to more genteel criticism than emanated from Percy Hammond, one of the theater's more profound observers. "I could knock everything about this play," he dismissed a dismal musical, "except the chorus girls' knees, and nature anticipated me there."

Just the other night, down at the local pizzeria, a critical contretemps ensued over which of "Charley's Angels," new, old or any, really could act. It mattered not to one of the savants which of the four was at her dramatic best unfettered by a bra. "I like the one with the bow legs," he opined, without indicating which angel was so underpinned. Denied the physical approach, the arguments at personem, political cartoonists and caricaturists would be an endangered species, and Sardi's would have to decorate its walls with men's room graffiti or X-rays of Cher's poitrine job.

Psychology Magazine Edited For Public

By TOM JORY
NEW YORK (AP) — "We're still Stone Age people, and there's a mismatch of what we're designed to do and what we must do to live in this changing environment, our ability to adapt."

That's the observation of Dr. Robert Ornstein, and in a sense it's the premise on which he's based Human Nature, a new science-oriented magazine edited for the general reader. The first monthly issue is scheduled for distribution Dec. 6.

"There are a lot of aspects of this culture that are confused and chaotic," said Ornstein, a psychologist, "and it seems to me the information is there that can help alleviate a lot of these problems — and some of it is very interesting."

Ornstein, in his mid-30s, is an associate professor of medical psychology at the University of California's Langley-Porter Institute. He's well known for his research into hemispheric specialization of the brain — or which side of the brain governs which function.

He's president of the Institute for the Study of Human Knowledge and the author of several books, including "The Psychology of Consciousness," which was written as a textbook but consumed by a huge audience outside the classroom.

Human Nature, said Ornstein, grew from the lack of an accessible, readable vehicle for "articles about all the aspects of humanity — cellular to global, birth to death."

The professional and technical journals on the market, Ornstein said, are too detailed, too complex, and the popular-type magazines too superficial.

"We're trying to edit a magazine," Ornstein said, "with articles that carry the authoritative stamp of the people who have actually done the work, translated so most people can understand."

"The hallmark of the magazine will be the relationship of articles to the way people live," Ornstein said.

Ornstein said the choice of the magazine's name, Human Nature, was intentional, allowing examination of a range of subjects — evolution, genetics, the developing child, nutrition and medicine, public health, education, anthropology, religion, anything to "help people understand better the workings of their bodies, of their minds, and of their cultures." The magazine will include articles on subjects such as the meaning of money, the brain and how people think, developments in the treatment of cancer, teaching intuition and the importance of humor. And it will discuss everyday things like kissing and sneezing.

Those subjects and others are becoming more important to people, Ornstein said, as "we enter the postindustrial period where people's work and other aspects of their lives — food, shelter — are more or less taken care of."

"People today," he said, "have the capacity and time to look at aspects of life only a chosen few in history had. And I think people have begun to use technological solutions are secondary — that there are certain aspects of life that aren't solvable that way."

Seattle Man Wins Bellman's Award

SEATTLE (AP) — A hotel bellman here who once aided police in capturing two bank robbers who had been using his hotel as a base of operations was named "Bellman-Bellwoman of the Year."

Don Brown, a 35-year-old father of four, and superintendent of service at Seattle's Washington Plaza, was named winner of the 12th annual competition at the American Hotel and Motel Association's 66th annual convention here.

Judges included Edythe Syvertsen, New York Post travel editor; Ben F. Carruthers, president of the Society of American Travel Writers; and Eric Friedheim, editor and publisher of Travel Agent Magazine.

The competition is co-sponsored by the Association, Samsonite Luggage and United Airlines.

Soviet Officials Delighted By Success Of Exhibits

By JENNIFER KERR
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Halfway through its 18-day run, which once threatened to become a political embarrassment, the Soviet National Exhibition is coexisting easily with a counter-exhibit in Soviet Jewry.

Soviet cultural and commerce officials are delighted that almost 200,000 Americans have come to gawk at the array of scientific hardware and crafts here at the convention center.

And the Jewish Federation-Council is astonished that some 40,000 persons have flocked in lines upstairs to view photographs of Jews persecuted by the Soviet government.

Demonstrations prompted airport-type security, complete with metal detectors for both exhibits, but have been mostly peaceful. The only serious incident occurred on opening day, Nov. 12, when a woman threw a balloon filled with red dye at Soviet official Fedor Nekhaev.

Muriel Moorehead, 27, of Santa Monica was charged with assaulting an official guest of the United States. Nekhaev has filed a $300 claim against the city for his damaged suit.

"It's going very well actually," said Bob Bussjaeger of Burson-Marsteller, the public relations firm for the Soviet exhibit. "Some young Jewish people in prison garb have gone through the exhibit, but they've gone through peacefully."

"We weren't expecting such a lot of visitors, but they keep coming, coming," said Rem Gorbunov of the Soviet Foreign Trade Ministry. "We hope that they can visually see that we are also the same human beings, we have families, children and the same problems."

Gorbunov said the demonstrations have not been a problem. He did note that there were no such protests when the U.S. Bicentennial exhibit visited Moscow last year.

Upstairs, in a small crowded room, Burton Levinson of the Jewish Federation-Council's Commission on Soviet Jewry recalled that he had estimated in advance that perhaps 25,000 people might visit the counter-exhibit. "Soviet Jewry: Six Decades of Oppression."

"Downstairs they see a thing show, not a human show, and we've become a response," he said. "I think they feel that what they see downstairs is too slick, something is missing."

The Federation-Council had to get a city attorney's ruling to obtain permission for the counter-exhibit. Levinson estimates that only about 5 percent of the viewers are Jewish.

On one weekday, both exhibits, which run through Nov. 29, were crowded. Tours of senior citizens wandered through and dozens of school buses carted classrooms of children to the downtown arena.

People stood in long lines to view a model of Moscow, complete with narrative and films, and eye-straining sculptures in the eyes of needles by an Armenian artist.

Also popular were displays of Soviet folk art.

"It was good," said Agor, whose seventh grade class from press toured the exhibit. "I liked the models of space ships and rockets they looked so real."

Private Eye Views Fraud By Computer

FORT WORTH (AP) — Joe Ballew carries Indiana private investigator license number 007, but his business isn't dealing with spies or national secrets.

Ballew is a fraud investigator for a bank in Fort Worth, and he's honing up on what he thinks the next criminal gimmick will be — thievery by computer within electronic funds transfer operations.

A state referendum that would have permitted the electronic transfer of funds from a bank to a merchant failed recently, but Ballew thinks it's only a matter of time before such transactions are commonplace.

"I don't care what kind of system you come up with," the 30-year-old investigator said. "There is always going to be someone who can get into it, around it or by it."

He said odds are good that a small number of professional computer thieves and forgers will manage to get their hands on billions of dollars during the initial stages of electronic transfers.

"Ninety-nine percent of the people who try won't know what they're doing and will get caught," Ballew said. "We're not worried about them."

"We're worried about the one percent ... the highly professional thief who has made a science of beating the system. Right now I am trying to study all the existing rules and regulations. That's the first step."

"We are talking here of an entire new realm of crime. It leaves no tell-tale physical evidence behind. Someone gaining access to a computer can conceivably do anything."

Ballew doesn't say how he'll prevent those things from happening, but he gives would-be pilferers a hint of what they can expect from him. "I never give up," he said.

"I point to the fact that people know I am going to pursue them forever if they steal a nickel from us."

Ballew is a licensed investigator in six states, and his work in Fort Worth has been largely successful. He's reduced the fraud losses at the bank from three percent annually to less than one-half of one percent in six years.

It's not a bad record — even for the other 007.

State Troopers Leave Halls Of South Boston High School

By DANIEL Q. HANEY
BOSTON (AP) — For three years, the stiff blue uniforms of state troopers were as common as dungarees in the halls of South Boston High School. Today, for the first time since the fall of 1974, they are gone.

Once there were almost 500 of them, but on Friday the last of the troopers left the aging, yellow brick school to be replaced, starting today, by 25 school department security aides.

The reason is a steady decrease in the once-daily outbursts of fighting between blacks and whites that made South Boston High a national symbol of resistance to integration.

In general, resistance to court-ordered school busing seems to be easing, although the most outspoken opponents remain unshakable.

South Boston High sits on a hill in a tough, working-class Irish neighborhood that has been the center of anti-busing sentiment.

Last year, by this time, 440 students at Southie High, as the school is called, had been suspended for fighting and other disruptions. This year, there have been fewer than 50 suspensions.

Jerome Winegar, the school's headmaster, was reluctant to talk about the police pullout, because he said he feared that violence could break out again. Racial tensions at the school, though lower, have not disappeared.

"If we make a big deal out of this and say the school has changed, next week it will raise hell around here," Winegar said.

The neighborhood, too, seems to have lost some of its intense concern with busing. Much of the anti-black graffiti that once peppered South Boston buildings has been painted over. Few stores now display signs urging a white boycott of the school.

But the opposition is far from dead. A few blocks from the school, three or four men and women still answer phones and sell anti-busing buttons at the South Boston Information Center.

The center, which helps direct anti-busing activity, was set up shortly after U.S. District Judge W. Arthur Garrity ordered busing in 1974 to end what he said was a pattern of official segregation in the city school system.

"I think a lot of people are surprised we're still here," said James Kelly, the short, stocky president of the center. "We'll do this forever. People here don't accept busing. They never will."

The center's storefront office, decorated with posters satirizing Garrity, has a look of permanence about it.

Outside hangs a green, shamrock-shaped sign lettered: "With our last breath we'll say NEVER."

Game Points Up Energy Woes

By SUE MAJOR HOLMES
ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — When lights go out on Ron Knief's machine, it means entire communities have run out of energy.

The machine is a game used by the University of New Mexico professor to help him demonstrate to civic and school groups the complexities of energy policy-making. Those in the group can decide what moves to make — and then see the consequences.

"Energy shortages are things that can kill people," says Knief, who uses the gadget to present his programs. "The problem's not a technical problem; it's a people problem. The technology is there if people are willing to make the decisions."

Called the energy-environmental simulator, the machine has a "clock" that ticks away years. As the years add up, energy demand increases and supplies dwindle. The operator makes choices where to conserve, and what energy resources to use.

While he is at the controls — perhaps putting all efforts into research and development to create new energy resources — he makes his policy choices.

If they are the wrong moves, for example, he could discover he just turned off the heat in millions of American homes by letting the nation run out of natural gas without providing an alternative energy source.

Knief, an assistant professor of chemical and nuclear engineering, says people tend to reflect their own backgrounds in deciding what needs conserving and what does not.

Groups in the southern desert city of Las Cruces will turn down the heat, he says, while those in the high northern mountain community of Los Alamos believe air conditioning can be dispensed with.

"Some will blithely turn down (energy for) agriculture all the way. Well, if you don't have that, pretty soon you're not going to care about lighting and heating and all the rest of it."

'Nest Egg'

president of the association, now says all the group wants is a "clarification" of the existing policy.

Since the July request, some teachers have indicated they agree with school trustees that it would be too expensive for the district to allow every departing employee to cash in all unused sick leave, Thomas said.

But, he added, the LCTA wants a statement from the board on how the policy is to be applied to such cases as teachers who really are retiring, but at an age below 65.

The school board will consider the LCTA request Tuesday at 7:15 a.m. in the district's administration building, 1628 19th St.

Also at that meeting, the board will consider renewal of a group health insurance program for the district's 3,300 employees.

HERE, YOU TAKE IT! — Dallas runningback Robert Newhouse, about to be tackled by Washington's Jack Scott, laterals ball back to Tony Dorsett, not shown, during fourth quarter Sunday. Turning The Corner?

THERE'S STILL NO reason for Dallas fans to make reservations in New Orleans for Super Bowl XII, but the Cowboys may have turned the corner in that second-half comeback against the Washington Redskins Sunday. The 'Pokes at least halted a skid that jeopardized their chances of even getting into the playoffs.

It wasn't an artistic triumph, admittedly, and the tough Redskins exploited some weak spots in the Dallas machine. Quarterback Roger Staubach had his problems and the vaunted Doomsday Defense gave up huge chunks of yardage to a team not noted for its offensive power.

But when the time came to put up or shut up, the Cowboys made the big plays at the right time. That is called character by coaches, courage by sportswriters and guts by the players. Coach Tom Landry must be encouraged by the discovery that this Dallas team, like those of recent history, has that priceless trait.

The Cowboys will need all the character they can muster the next few weeks, as they head into the final phase of the regular season and — hopefully — into the playoffs. There are no more breathers on the slate.

The Cowboys come home against Philadelphia, which surely must be the best 2-8 team in the world. Then the 'Pokes travel to San Francisco for one of those Monday night circuses against a 49er team that has made a remarkable recovery after a dismal start.

Finally, the Cowboys finish against surprising Denver, one of the strongest teams in the entire league. Don't think Craig Morton and the Broncos won't be gunning for that one.

You gotta have heart!

DESPITE THE OBSTACLES ahead, the Cowboy players whooped it up in the locker room following their victory over the Redskins. It was the first Dallas sweep over the Redskins since 1971, and just the second 'Poke win at Washington in that span. George Allen and his veterans are mean at home!

Cliff Harris, Dallas' all-pro free safety, summed it up this way: "Playing the Redskins always is an emotional experience. They hate us and we hate them. To beat them up here is, well, the most satisfying thing in the world to me."

It is no secret that many of the older Dallas players resent former Cowboys Calvin Hill and Jean Fugett, who played out their options and signed with Washington. They did it at a time when the Rozelle Rule was in legal limbo, so the Dallas club received no compensation from Washington. To the Cowboys, Hill and Fugett are turncoats and traitors.

Hill made one good run Sunday and Fugett caught one long pass, which ranted Harris and the rest of the Dallas defenders more than a little.

"We had a man on Fugett," Harris explained, "but he faked a turn-in and then went deep. Our guy made a mistake, and at the same time we didn't put any pressure on (Joe) Theismann and gave him time to throw. When that happens, you're in trouble."

Before the game was over, however, Harris gave the Redskin receivers some bruises for souvenirs.

MEMBERS OF THE DALLAS offensive unit agreed, following the game, that it wasn't their most shining hour. But they refused to put the blame on Staubach.

"I think it was a combination of things," wide receiver Golden Richards told interviewers. "The Redskins are pretty tough on defense, and our blocking hasn't been as consistent as we would like. We've dropped some balls we should have caught, too."

"I don't think there's anything drastically wrong with Roger, physically. He's kind of beat up right now, like a lot of players, but he's able to perform. The whole offense just has not played real good the last few weeks."

Roger and his friends moved the ball when it counted in the last half, though, and that is the bottom line on any game.

LOOKING AHEAD, Dallas' chances of getting to the Super Bowl do not appear as bright as they did earlier. Three rugged opponents have exposed some weak spots in both the Cowboy offense and defense, and at this point the 'Pokes do not appear to be as strong as several other NFL contenders.

That patched-up Dallas offensive line is the main problem. If all-pro tackle Rayfield Wright is able to return to the lineup, after months of rehabilitation of his injured knee, the situation would improve sharply. The vision of Tony Dorsett running behind the devastating blocks of big Rayfield must be dancing in Landry's dreams.

But for now, the Cowboys will have to get along with what they have. Which is Staubach's ability in the clutch, the running of Dorsett and Robert Newhouse, and a defense destined for greatness.

Plus that thing the coaches call character.

First-Down Lobby Sways Landry, Tilt

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was just a matter of inches, a half-foot perhaps. The Dallas Cowboys gambled, won and virtually assured themselves of the National Football Conference East title.

To set the scene: with the score of their Sunday game against Washington tied 7-7 in the fourth period, Dallas had the ball on the Redskins' 2-yard line with fourth down and one yard needed for a first down.

"My first inclination was to go for the field goal," said Cowboys Coach Tom Landry. "I just felt like that when you get in there, you ought not come out without any points. If we come away without any points, then all the momentum is theirs."

Landry changed his mind, however, when field goal kicker Elroy Herraera told him the ball was only six inches from the first down.

"It was only a couple of inches," said Herraera. "I knew we could make it and I told him (Landry) if you want me to kick it, I'll kick it. So he called in the quarterback."

The quarterback, Roger Staubach, also wanted to go for it.

"It was the general feeling and my consensus that we go for it," said Landry, with a smile, after pointing out that Dallas had the ball on the 1-yard line in the first quarter but lost the ball on a fumble. Staubach faked right, then went up the middle for the first down against what Landry described as a kind of a defense

"with a crack in it. If they had jumped real tight on us, if they had guessed that way with us, they might have stopped us."

On the next play, rookie runningback Tony Dorsett leaped high over the Washington line for a touchdown, giving the Cowboys a 14-7 victory, a 9-2 record and a

Oilers Bombard Chiefs

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers are playing with the precision of a finely tuned clock as they demonstrated in a 34-20 victory over Kansas City—but time is running out on their playoff hopes.

A Swiss watch maker couldn't have provided better timing for quarterback Dan Pastorini's three touchdown passes Sunday as the Oilers stuck to business and improved their record to 6-5, keeping pace with the other teams in the crowded second place position of the American Football Conference's Central Division.

Oiler Rookie fullback Rob Carpenter rang a few Chiefs chimes with 149 yards rushing on 14 carries to help the Oilers win another battle. But chances of winning the war are slipping away.

"We can't do anything about what Pittsburgh does," Oiler Coach O.A. "Bum" Phillips said, referring to the Steelers' one-game lead over the rest of the Central Division. "We just have to do our job."

But even if the Oilers do their job and win their next three games against Denver, Cleveland and Cincinnati, the hot Steelers still would have to lose two of their last three games to give Houston a playoff spot.

The Oilers quickly established the fact Sunday that they weren't preoccupied with the "ifs" of the playoff picture.

bomb to Ken Burrough on Houston's first offensive play of the game and it was mostly downhill for Kansas City from there.

Pastorini, who completed 11 of 24 passes for 118 yards in the game, also hit Burrough on a 7-yard TD pass and threw three yards to Don Hardeman for another score. Rookie runningback Tim Wilson scored on runs of 11 and one yard to make the Chiefs' misery complete.

Kansas City could muster only field goals of 30 and 26 yards by Jan Stenerud in the first half and added touchdowns late in the fourth quarter on a 36-yard pass from Tony Adams to Walter White and Willie Lee's 10-yard fumble return.

"We did a sloppy job of tackling on the runs," said KC Coach Tom Bettis, whose team dropped to a 2-9 record. "I thought we had some plays shut off but we couldn't make the tackle. When we had field position in the second quarter we couldn't take advantage of it."

Kansas City drove to Houston's 7, 16, and 3 yard lines in the second quarter but had to settle for Stenerud's field goals.

Colts Learn Gospel: Broncos For Real

By The Associated Press
 Ted Marchbroda and the Baltimore Colts are the latest to learn what is becoming gospel around the National Football League: the Denver Broncos are for real.

The Broncos jumped to a 14-0 halftime lead over Baltimore in Sunday's battle of division leaders, saw the Colts close within 14-13, then turned them back with two fourth-quarter touchdowns in posting a 27-13 victory.

"You have to give Denver credit," said Marchbroda, impressed by the offense led by surprising Craig Morton and the rugged Orange Crush defense. "This was probably the biggest game they've been in, and they played almost errorless football."

The Broncos now are 10-1, the best record in the league. They lead defending Super Bowl champion Oakland by 1 1/2 games in the American Football Conference's West Division.

Denver is a newcomer to the ranks of the NFL's elite, but four more familiar names — Dallas, Pittsburgh, Minnesota and Los Angeles — strengthened their playoff chances with victories Sunday.

The Dallas Cowboys, 9-2, took a commanding two-game lead over St. Louis in the National Football Conference's Eastern Division by edging arch-rival Washington 14-7 on a fourth-quarter touchdown by rookie Tony Dorsett. The Redskins now are three games back at 6-5, but have a slim chance at the NFC wildcard playoff berth.

The Pittsburgh Steelers, 7-4, took over sole possession of first place in the AFC Central, beating the New York Jets 23-20 as Terry Bradshaw threw two touchdowns, passes and the Steelers picked off five Jets' aerials. The other three teams in the division, Cincinnati, Cleveland and Houston, are tied for second place at 6-5 in the league's closest divisional race.

The Minnesota Vikings got back on the winning track with a 13-6 triumph over Green Bay as Chuck Foreman ran through the snow for 101 yards. That put the Vikings, 7-4, one game ahead of Chicago in the NFC Central.

And the Los Angeles Rams stayed two games ahead of Atlanta in the NFC West, blanking the Cleveland Browns 9-0 in another game played in snow. It was only the fifth time the Browns have been blanked in 387 regular-season games.

Elsewhere in the NFL Sunday, the Cincinnati Bengals beat the New York Giants 30-13, the Houston Oilers defeated the Kansas City Chiefs 34-20, the Atlanta Falcons blanked the Tampa Bay Buccaneers 17-0, the New England Patriots topped the Philadelphia Eagles 14-6, the San Diego Chargers trimmed the Seattle Seahawks 30-28 and the San Francisco 49ers edged the New Orleans Saints 20-17.

Chicago beat Detroit 31-14 and Miami walloped St. Louis 35-14 Thursday.

Buffalo plays at Oakland tonight in a game which the Raiders, 8-2, must win to stay within striking distance of Denver in the AFC West and remain the front-runner for the AFC wild card.

Morton staked the Broncos to their early lead with touchdown passes of 41 yards to Rick Upchurch and 19 to Jack Dolbin. Baltimore came back in the second half for a touchdown and two field goals behind the crisp short passing of Bert Jones.

But Jones, who completed 11 passes to Don McCauley and nine to Lydell Mitchell, both runningbacks, suffered a critical interception in the final period.

With 7:20 to go in the game, he tried to dump a pass to McCauley in the flat. But Denver linebacker Tom Jackson stepped in front of McCauley, picked off the ball and dashed 73 yards for the clinching touchdown. Morton ran 6 yards for an insurance score with 1:14 left, but Jackson's TD was what tamed the Colts.

"As the game progressed, he (Jones) was gaining confidence in that flat pass," said Jackson. "I just decided to come underneath. I'd been playing one-on-one with McCauley. Bert had been going to him quick. I kept thinking, if he throws it just a little late..."

"I don't think Bert ever saw me. I just wanted to go as far as I could."

While the game ball went to Jackson, Denver Coach Red Miller made it a point to praise the play-calling of Morton, the reclamation quarterback obtained from the New York Giants during the off-season.

"It was Morton's experience that made the difference," said Miller. "He made some great choices. He has what you can't buy with money or draft choices."

Steelers 23, Jets 20

Bradshaw completed scoring strikes of 37 yards to John Stallworth and 5 yards to Lynn Swann, and Franco Harris ran 1 yard for a Pittsburgh touchdown, but Roy Gerela's 37-yard field goal with 5:58 left proved to be the winning margin.

Glen Edwards had two of Pittsburgh's five interceptions. "Interception-wise, it was one of my games," said Edwards. "I guess you could say that for the rest of us, too."

Harris gained 83 yards and became only the third player in NFL history to pile up over 6,000 yards in his first six seasons, joining Jimmy Brown and O.J. Simpson.

Vikings 13, Packers 6

Chuck Foreman rushed for 101 yards and Bob Lee hooked up with Sammy White for a 40-yard scoring strike through the snow as Minnesota beat Green Bay.

"Even in a snowstorm, you have to throw the ball sometimes," reasoned Lee. "In bad conditions, the offense often will have an advantage. Defensive players have to react and often slip."

Rams 9, Browns 0

Pat Haden completed 20 of 29 passes for 172 yards for Los Angeles while Lawrence McCutcheon and John Cappelletti led a solid ground game. Cappelletti's 7-yard touchdown run and Rafael Septien's 18-yard field goal were the only scores, but it was Los Angeles' defense which dominated the game.

"The defense executed the way it should," said Rams defensive end Jack Youngblood. "That's what happens when you execute as perfectly as possible — a shutout."

Bengals 26, Giants 19

The Bengals beat the Giants by beating the weather. Ken Anderson fired three first-half touchdown passes, including a 58-yard bomb to wide receiver Billy Brooks on Cincinnati's first play from scrimmage, before the snow came.

"We thought we had to throw early," said Bengals Coach Bill Johnson. "We knew the weather was going to change."

Falcons 17, Buccaneers 0

It's back to the practice field on Monday, said Tampa Bay Coach John McKay, whose club now is 0-25 over two years after its fifth shutout of the season. "Our offensive line was horrible," added McKay. "That's our poorest offensive effort in two years."

Haskel Stanback scored both Atlanta touchdowns on 1-yard plunges.

The Falcons have given up just 20 points in 11 games and have a shot at the record for fewest points allowed in a 16-game season, 120 by the Redskins in 1976.

Patricia M. Hughes
 Steve Grogan passed for two touchdowns in the first half and the New England defense made them stand up, sealing Philadelphia quarterback Dan Johnson's eighth time.

"Lacking a quarterback is the worst of a touchdown," said New England tackle Tony McGett. "That's my job. That's my paycheck. I don't try to hurt anybody, I just like to let them know I was there."

Chargers 26, Seahawks 20

Dan Fouts, who rejoined San Diego last week after a 125-day holdout, found Charlie Joiner with a 17-yard touchdown pass and defensive end Fred Dean scored 22 yards with an interception for another fourth-quarter score, leading the Chargers over Seattle.

Fouts completed 19 of 26 passes for 189 yards in his season debut.

Edmund 37, Saints 17

Ray Wersching's 42-yard field goal as time ran out provided the winning points for the 49ers, who got 190 yards rushing from Wilbur Jackson.

Denver's 10-1 Mark Best In NFL

Montreal Ices Eskimos

MONTREAL (AP)—The Montreal Alouettes thought so little of quarterback Sonny Wade early in the 1977 Canadian Football League season that they did their best to make a deal for the nine-year veteran.

It's a good thing a deal never materialized, since Wade completed 22 of 40 passes for 340 yards and three touchdowns Sunday in leading the Alouettes to a 41-4 victory over the Edmonton Eskimos and bringing the Grey Cup to Montreal for the third time since 1970.

The 30-year-old Wade was named the outstanding player in the game at the icy Olympic Stadium, an honor he earned in his two previous appearances — in 1970, when Montreal defeated the Calgary Stampeders 23-10 and in 1974, when the Alouettes beat Edmonton, 20-7.

Wade's touchdown passes were thrown within a 3 1/2-minute stretch of the second half. He hit Peter Dalla Riva on a 7-yarder at 12:47 of the third quarter, connected with John O'Leary on a 10-yarder at 14:42 and hit Bob Gaddis from the seven at 1:15 of the fourth.

Montreal field goal kicker Don Sweet contributed the rest of the heroics, booting six field goals to break the Grey Cup record of four he set in 1974. His three converts and two singles gave him 23 points for the contest, breaking the record of 22 set by quarterback Jim Van Pelt of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers in their 35-28 win over the Hamilton Tiger-Cats in 1958.

The 28-year-old Sweet, a native of Vancouver who played college football at Washington State, now has scored 45 points in Grey Cup games — well beyond the old career record of 30 held by Joe Krol of Toronto Argonauts.

Dave Cutler, who set a CFL record with 50 field goals during the regular season, kicked two field goals for the Edmonton points.

The game, played before a record crowd of 68,205 which endured 35 mile-per-hour wind and 14-degree cold, was marred by mistakes, mostly Edmonton's.

The Eskimos lost the ball four times on interceptions, all off starter Bruce Lemmerman, and four times on fumbles. The turnovers led to three Montreal field goals and two touchdowns.

"I think Montreal just adapted better than we did," said Eskimos receiver George McGowan, noting that Edmonton was down only 10-3 at the half but "kept giving up the ball deep in our own end."

All the talk had indicated both clubs expected a defensive battle. But the turnovers changed that, leading to the most one-sided Grey Cup result since Toronto beat Winnipeg 35-0 in 1945.

Sweet's efforts came from distances of 17, 38, 33, 20, 23 and 47 while Cutler's were from 38 and 44 yards.

Lang was the top Edmor on pass receiver with four catches for 65 yards and Strickland was top ground-gainer with eight rushes for 39 yards. Jim Germany, who ran for 1,004 yards this season, carried only three times for 6 yards before being sidelined with a rib injury.

Texas Sports Briefs

Longhorns

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — About the only thing top-ranked Texas knows about fifth-ranked Notre Dame is that it is located in South Bend, Ind., but all that will change in about a week.

"It will take us some time to come down from beating Texas A&M and getting into the Cotton Bowl but we know Notre Dame has an excellent team and we'll be ready," said Texas halfback Johnny "Ham" Jones as the clock ticked off the final seconds of a 57-28 victory Saturday.

Jones said, "We want to be No. 1 because we really worked hard and paid the price to get where we are."

Under New Coach Fred Akers, the Longhorns swept 11 regular season opponents, won the Southwest Conference title and charged into the Cotton Bowl as the host team.

And the Cinderella Longhorns did it the hard way.

"I love this team," said Akers. "They've overcome a lot of adversity. When we lost our quarterbacks nobody complained . . . when we lost our kicker nobody complained. Somebody else just stepped in and did the job."

At the final gun Saturday, the Longhorns, picked to finish fifth in the SWC race after a 5-5-1 season, remained as the only unbeaten, united team in major college football.

They did so with a third-string quarterback, Randy McEachern, a substitute punter, and a substitute placekicker.

The victory sets up a classic rematch between the Longhorns and Fighting Irish. Texas clinched the national title after the 1969 by defeating Notre Dame in the Cotton Bowl and the Fighting Irish knocked Texas off in the Cotton Bowl next year.

"I know nothing about Notre Dame," said bruising tailback Earl Campbell, who scored four touchdowns, rushed for a career high 222 yards, caught his first touchdown pass, and clinched the national scoring and rushing crowns.

Akers' plans on Notre Dame were indefinite. He was more worried about the condition of linebacker Lance Taylor, who suffered a shoulder separation against the Aggies and may have to undergo surgery.

"Somebody will just have to step in for Lance like we have all season," said Akers.

McEachern came off the bench in the first quarter of the Oklahoma game to lead Texas to a 13-6 victory.

Russell Erxleben, bothered by leg problems, was replaced by Ted Constanzo (punting) and Steve McMichael (placekicking) against the Aggies.

"I'm so proud of this team . . . I really appreciate 'em," said Akers, who has made a brilliant debut following the giant footsteps of retired Darrell Royal.

SWC Cagers

The Southwest Conference, hoping to show its brand of basketball has improved, tackles 23 intersectional foes this week after a rocky start.

Seventh-ranked Arkansas, which routed Southwest Missouri 64-47 Saturday night, hosts Mississippi State tonight in the headline encounter.

The SWC battled .333 against outsiders last week, posting a 2-4 ledger with only victories by Arkansas and Baylor, which mashed McMurry 78-52.

Texas Christian, under new Coach Tim Somerville lost twice, Southern Methodist fell to Kentucky, and Texas made a strong showing on the road before dropping a 65-64 encounter to Southern California on two last second free throws.

Texas A&M, Texas Tech and Houston play for the first time tonight.

SLC Football

All that's left of the Southland Conference football season is Louisiana Tech's reward for capturing the championship.

Tech meets the University of Louisville Dec. 17 in the second Annual Independence Bowl.

The bowl serves as the kickoff bowl for the NCAA's 1977 postseason lineup. It's scheduled for 1:30 p.m. in Shreveport's State Fair Stadium.

Tech finished the regular campaign with an 8-1-2 ledger.

LSC Basketball

The Lone Star Conference has the upper hand over non-conference foes in the early part of the long, long basketball season but every league club has found at least one opponent it couldn't handle.

The LSC is 15-10 against outside foes and every club has a blemish.

Howard Payne and East Texas State, the preseason favorites, were beaten.

Howard Payne fell to Southwest Oklahoma 73-71 while East Texas lost twice — to Southern Arkansas and Hendrix, Ark.

WT's Title

By United Press International

The storybook 1977 season ended on a happy note for the West Texas State Buffaloes.

One season after the Buffs were facing termination of their football program they are champions of the Missouri Valley Conference.

West Texas captured the MVC title Saturday with a 28-9 season-ending victory over Southern Illinois. Bo Robinson scored on the game's first play — an 80-yard run — and the Buffaloes did not stop up the rest of the night.

Robinson, a junior from Lamesa who finished as the Missouri Valley Conference's leading rusher, gained 181 yards on just 19 carries and finished the season with 1,399 yards.

He was helped along by quarterback Bill Delaney, who picked up 107 yards himself on 11 carries and scored on a 55-yard run. West Texas piled up 472 yards on the ground and threw only six passes.

The Buffs finished the year with a 6-4-1 record, the only team in the MVC with a winning mark, and their conference record of 5-1 gave them a half-game advantage over Wichita State. The MVC title was decided on a percentage basis this year.

Southern Illinois' setback left it winless in five MVC games and 3-8 for the season.

The West Texas-SIU game closed out the Missouri Valley Conference season and most of the schools in the league were ready for the year to end. The conference finished the year with the worst intersectional record of any of the NCAA Division I leagues.

Wildcats Rip SMU, But Coach Blasts Reserves

By The Associated Press

After watching his top-ranked North Carolina Tar Heels beat Oregon State 94-63 in their first game of the college basketball season, Dean Smith gave them passing grades in offense and rebounding and an A-Plus in defense.

Joe Hall's marks were not so high for his reserves at Kentucky.

"They forgot everything they've been taught," he said after the second-ranked Wildcats scored a 110-86 victory over Southern Methodist Saturday night.

Particularly, Hall was disturbed that his substitutes let a 42-point lead dwindle to 24 in the last three minutes.

"That almost blew my mind," said Hall. "It points out we don't have as deep a bench as we thought we had. They played like high schoolers tonight. We've got to find somebody who's going to play better and more consistent basketball."

Smith, meanwhile, was less critical in assessing his team's opening-game performance Saturday.

"Of the three phases of the game, offense, defense and rebounding, our defense was best," he said. "It made our offense. And on the offensive boards, I thought we played very aggressively for the second and third shots."

Elsewhere in the Top Ten, No. 4 Notre Dame crushed Mississippi 111-62; fifth-ranked San Francisco trimmed San Francisco State 100-67; sixth-ranked UCLA defeated Brigham Young 75-73 Saturday night and Seattle 106-73 Sunday; No. 7 Arkansas hammered Southwest Missouri State 65-47, and ninth-ranked Cincinnati beat Akron 91-81.

Among the other ranked teams, No. 11 Syracuse crushed Cornell 88-61; No. 12 Purdue stopped Xavier (Ohio) 90-82; No. 13 Michigan beat Western Kentucky 87-81; No. 14 Maryland beat American University 78-65 Sunday in the first round of the Maryland Tipoff Tournament; No. 16 Minnesota lost to South Carolina 62-55; No. 17 Wake Forest defeated UNC-Wilmington 83-79, and No. 20 St. John's outscored Old Dominion 81-75 in winning the Joe Lapchick Tournament in New York.

In other action, Clemson won its IPT-AY Tournament with an 82-75 victory over Rhode Island; St. Joseph's, Pa., beat William & Mary 69-60 for the championship of the Spider Classic at Richmond, Va.; Virginia walloped VMI 90-70 and captured the Virginia Tip-Off Tournament at Charlottesville, Va., and the University of New Orleans won its New Orleans Classic with a 90-66 thumping of Tennessee-Chatanooga.

Oregon State had little chance against North Carolina. The Beavers asserted themselves only once in the game, taking a three-point lead in the first half. But the Tar Heels ran off 18 straight points and virtually wrapped up the game with a 44-29 halftime lead. Mike O'Koren led the winners with 21 points and Phil Ford had 20.

Jack Givens had 30 points and Rick Robey 23, leading Kentucky over SMU. The Wildcats had a 104-62 lead with 3:29 left before the reserves came in and lost almost half of the 42-point advantage.

"I thought Kentucky was the No. 1 team in the country before tonight, and they didn't do anything to change that," said SMU Coach Sonny Allen.

While Hall was critical of his team, Digger Phelps couldn't find anything wrong with his Notre Dame squad after the Fighting Irish subdued Mississippi. Don Williams and Kelly Tripucka combined for 32 points, sparking Notre Dame's balanced offense.

"I liked our scoring and playing balance today," said Phelps. "This is the kind of balance that we want all year. We want the consistent offense out of eight or nine players."

Winford Boynes scored 25 points and James Hardy 23, pacing San Francisco's rout of San Francisco State. Hardy, the 6-foot-8 forward playing center while Bill Cartwright recovers from a broken arm, scored 17 points in the second half, when the Dons broke open the game with a 53-29 margin.

Forward James Wilkes' tip-in at the buzzer gave UCLA its Saturday night victory over stubborn Brigham Young, marking Gary Cunningham's debut as head coach with the Bruins. Cunningham, who replaced Gene Bartow this season, made it a two-game weekend sweep, beating Seattle Sunday as David Greenwood scored 21 points.

Assessing the Bruins' performances in the first two games, Cunningham obviously was happier with the Seattle game.

"We had a talk Saturday night after the Brigham Young game," Cunningham said. "We talked about intensity, about rebounding, checking out your man and team play. The team responded very well. I did not raise my voice, but I did speak in a firm, positive tone. We were a different club Sunday, and it showed in our play. When mistakes are made, they should be corrected immediately."

Elaborating on Cunningham's Saturday night pep talk, Greenwood said: "Coach Cunningham gave us a lecture that we should be winning like the traditional UCLA teams. After Saturday night's game, we were all a little tight, and we should have had the jittersbug out. But we played a little looser game today, and we played pretty good."

Arkansas whipped Southwest Missouri State behind Marvin Delph's 20 points. The Razorbacks led only 29-25 at the half, but quickly built a 39-25 lead.

School Solves Lunch Problems

By United Press International
Good-hearted farmers, enterprising students and an imaginative school superintendent have been making a miracle happen in the Hazen, N.D., schools for going on three years now.

"The elevator volunteered to clean it. The North Dakota Wheat Commission gave us advice on proper handling. Local businessmen donated a stone grinder and a motor capable of grinding 15 pounds of flour. We now bake our own

"The 'free' corn went into the freezer. It's more nutritious than canned corn. The results have been highly successful," Crawford said. "Our daily plate count has gone up 66 per cent — more kids are reaching for the school lunch."

Hyperactivity has been of growing concern in every school system in America in recent years. Hundreds of thousands of children in a typical school day must go to the school nurse once or twice for calm-down drugs prescribed by their pediatricians.

D News

Lubbock Avalanche-Journal
Monday, Nov. 28, 1977

Since money's a problem in all school districts, the super. Dr. Joseph C. Crawford, thinks all of America would like to hear how Hazen got its school lunch program into the black, gave its workers a 20 percent raise and built up a "kitty" of $7,500.

bread. It is, literally, free." Next the Hazen miracle workers eliminated all desserts. With money saved, they bought fresh fruit almost all year. Meat was an area of concern.

"The school lunch — 55 cents — has not gone up in three years. In a rural area, which includes a good part of the country, there is no excuse for not having the best food in the world for our children."

"I know there is a debate about the effect of sugar and food colorings and food additives on children's behavior," Crawford said.

"We've also solved the wasted food problem," Crawford said in an interview.

"We now buy our beef live from local ranchers, have it federally inspected and process pure lean hamburger. It costs us about 20 cents less a pound."

Crawford believes big city schools can adopt some of the Hazen school lunch modus operandi and cut into its wasted food problem, too.

"But I also know that in terms of overall behavior there is a decrease in vandalism in our schools and the discipline problem is down to almost nothing with this healthier lunch."

"We're serving better, more natural food and the kids go for it. You should see the clean plates at lunch."

The local banks this year donated money to enable the school district to buy a used corn shelling machine.

Crawford formerly was assistant headmaster at Lake Forest Academy in Chicago and an elementary and junior high principal in St. Paul, Minn. He said cutting down the refined sugar and junk food has had an effect on behavior.

"Before we had a hyperactivity problem. We had many disturbances in classrooms. I think there is a definite connection between the epidemic of hyperactivity in America's schools and the food with additives and artificial colorings, and the way we dose the kids with junk food. Our experience proves it."

Authorities estimate $600 million worth of school lunch is tossed into garbage cans every academic year.

The school kids husked 400 dozen ears of corn last fall. It went into the shelling machine that chopped off the kernels.

Some scientists believe the refined sugar and junk food full of additives and preservatives are helping to make children hyperactive.

"Our experience proves it."

African Groups Fight For City

By The Associated Press

Ethiopians and Somali rebels were reported wrestling for the ancient walled city of Harar, but there were conflicting reports today from Addis Ababa and Mogadishu on the progress of the battle.

Harar, 225 miles east of Addis Ababa, is one of Ethiopia's last two strongholds in the Ogaden desert. Rebels of the Western Somali Liberation Front say they have seized 90 percent of the region, which they want to annex to Somalia.

Rebel sources in the Somali capital of Mogadishu said the rebels had breached the walls of Harar and battled government soldiers in the streets. They said rebels held hills on three sides overlooking Harar and had encircled a large Ethiopian government force 23 miles east of the city.

Western diplomats in Addis Ababa, reached by phone from Nairobi, said the Ethiopians had repulsed the attack and were solidly in control of the 1,000-year-old city. "In fact, if anything, fighting around Harar has subsided over the past few days," said one source.

The Addis Ababa sources said residents of Harar reached by telephone late Sunday reported a lull in the fighting. They said Ethiopia's Marxist military government held weekend rallies in both Harar and Direedawa, the other remaining Ethiopian city 35 miles to the north.

Diplomatic sources in Mogadishu said a force of 800 to 1,000 WSLF rebels had breached Harar's walls while another force secured hills on three sides of the town.

One guerrilla source said the rebels gained control of Harar, one of the last two Ethiopian strongholds in the Ogaden region.

But another source said the rebels held only a small part of the city.

Meanwhile, east of Harar, at Babile Gap, rebel units encircled an Ethiopian force and cut off supplies and reinforcements to the government soldiers, guerrilla sources said. They did not know how many Ethiopian soldiers were trapped but said there could be several thousand.

Backed by tanks and artillery, the government forces at Babile Gap blocked the rebel advance toward Harar for two months. Then the insurgents outflanked the Ethiopians and launched a two-prong drive on Harar, which is 225 miles east of Addis Ababa.

In fighting since July, Somali tribesmen backed by Somalia have won control of more than 95 percent of their native Ogaden region, a semi-desert region in southeast Ethiopia and about a quarter of Ethiopia's total area. The rebels, who are Moslems, are fighting to wrest the territory from the Marxist government in Addis Ababa and annex it to neighboring Moslem Somalia.

Direedawa, 30 miles northwest of Harar, is the other major city in the Ogaden still held by the Ethiopians.

President Mohamed Siad Barre of Somalia left Mogadishu Sunday for Saudi Arabia and Egypt, presumably seeking arms for the Ogaden war.

The Soviet Union was Somalia's supplier of arms but switched its support to the new Marxist military government in Ethiopia and cut off deliveries to Somalia in an attempt to end its support of the Ogaden rebels.

In retaliation, Siad expelled Soviet military and technical advisers this month and barred the Soviet navy from two Somali ports it had been using.

British Firefighters To Continue Strike

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's striking firefighters are vowing to hold out past Christmas if necessary in their already two-week-old strike for a 30 percent pay increase.

"Our members see this as a fight to the death," union leader Dick Foggie said Sunday, but political sources said the striking firefighters, on strike for 15 days, may soften their demands when their pay runs out at the end of the month.

The firefighters, who have never before walked off the job, have no union strike fund, and the political sources said this week could be a turning point in the walkout.

"Without strike pay they know they have a grim Christmas in store," Foggie said. "But they are prepared to accept it. The government is trying to starve us out but we won't budge an inch."

Three people died in fires this weekend, pushing the death toll during the past two weeks to 24.

A 2-year-old boy died and his parents were severely burned in a fire that swept their government housing project in Swansea, Wales, Sunday. A 20-year-old man from Birmingham died during a weekend visit to a friend's apartment in London.

In Maidstone, striking firemen left a picket line and tried to save the life of an elderly woman trapped in her burning home, but she died before they could get her out of her smoke-filled bedroom.

In Edinburgh, army troops Sunday fought a major fire that took nine hours to control and left 18 families homeless. The fire, which gutted a tenement block, was the worst since the strike began. Police it caused $180,000 damage.

Strike leaders planned a meeting in London today to discuss their campaign for a pay raise that is 20 percent above the government's anti-inflation ceiling, and repeated their vow to hold out for the full increase.

The government has offered an immediate 10 percent raise and a cutback of hours to the 35,000 firefighters, who get a basic starting wage of $118 a week.

William Craig, head of the Scottish branch of firefighters union, charged the government is spending $72 million to mobilize the 14,000 troops on emergency firefighting duty. "Yet our claim in total would only cost 46 million pounds ($83 million)," he said.

About 10,000 strikers Saturday marched with their families through London to Prime Minister James Callaghan's official residence at 10 Downing Street. They handed in a petition with 500,000 signatures calling for the government to exempt the firefighters from the 10 percent wage increase ceiling.

Kidnappers Free Italian Executive

CASERTA, Italy (AP) — Kidnappers have freed unarmed Italian insurance executive Mario Amabile, abducted in an ambush 25 days ago, after his family paid a reported $2.2 million ransom, police said Sunday.

Amabile, 64, is the father of Giovanni Amabile, a member of parliament from the ruling Christian Democrat party. The kidnap victim looked weak and tired but was reported in good condition.

Authorities said the kidnappers blindfolded Amabile and plugged his ears with wax before driving him Saturday night to a spot near the village of Arienzio, about 15 miles south of Caserta.

Five masked men wielding machine-guns ambushed the director-general of a major insurance firm Nov. 2, while he was being driven to Rome with his wife. The kidnappers sped away with the businessman leaving his wife and the driver behind.

Shortly after the abduction, police said a caller claiming to represent the kidnappers demanded $22 million for Amabile's release. But reports said Amabile's family paid only $2.2 million in ransom.

Some 63 persons have been kidnapped in Italy so far this year.

Death Toll Reaches Eight In Explosion

BERLIN (AP) — The death toll rose to eight today from the explosion of a steam locomotive at an East German railroad station, the official East German news agency ADN reported.

The explosion, which set the first passenger car afire, occurred as the train from East Berlin was entering the Bitterfeld station Sunday outside Halle, about 72 miles southwest of Berlin. The cause of the blast was under investigation by a special commission of the Transport Ministry, ADN said.

ADN said 45 persons were injured, but about 35 of them were released after treatment at a nearby hospital.

MATCHING SMILES — Actress Farrah Fawcett-Majors and her mother, Mrs. Pauline Fawcett, had wide smiles as they attended a party in Farrah's honor given by Faberge at Katja restaurant in New York Sunday night. U.S. Customs Eyes Marijuana Vessels

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A large fleet of fast-moving vessels ferries marijuana from "motherships" that sit under foreign flags in waters outside United States jurisdiction, officials say.

The U.S. Customs Service says its "look out" list of vessels suspected of smuggling marijuana or drugs now stands at 221 — and it suspects there are many more vessels carrying such illicit cargo.

Of the 221 vessels on the list, 32 are motherships.

Customs and the Coast Guard deal with the modern-day version of prohibition run runners. Last week, Vernon Hamm, a Customs Service acting commissioner for operations, testified here about the problem before the House subcommittee on Coast Guard and Navigation.

Landscaping Teams Place In Contest

Two Texas Tech University landscape architecture teams have tied for Merit Awards in the student design competition of the Texas chapter of the American Society of Landscape Architects (AS-LA).

One team is made up of Alice H. Althaus, Malcolm R. Hester and Robert D. Lanham, while Randall V. Gilbert, Brett B. Long and Stephen M. Metzler compose the other. Hester also has been honored with a $300 ASLA scholarship, awarded by the Texas Chapter.

All the students are senior landscape architecture majors who worked on their competition projects for two and a half weeks in a design class.

A Texas A&M team took the Honor Award in the competition, which drew 30 entries from three universities, Texas Tech, A&M and Oklahoma State University. Tech had nine entries.

The problem related to the new Hyatt Regency Hotel complex in Dallas and required a design incorporating parking areas, a fountain, amphitheater, cafe and circulation systems for pedestrians and vehicles.

Base information was provided by Myrick, Newman and Dahlberg, Inc., planners and engineers in Dallas, who had the contract for the actual work. Walter Dahlberg of that firm served on the competition committee with Texas Tech Prof. Joe Verdoorn and Robert Walker, Houston landscape architect. The committee prepared the problem for the students.

Tech students traveled to Dallas to obtain base information and to see the site with which they were working.

Troop Parity Sought In Europe

By CARL HARTMAN
BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — A movement is on in Western Europe and the United States to get the Soviets and the Western allies talking again about prevention of a surprise attack in Western Europe.

Chancellor Helmut Schmidt of West Germany and two Democrats in the U.S. Congress, Sen. Sam Nunn of Georgia and Rep. Les Aspin of Wisconsin, are pressing the point.

Schmidt argues that another U.S.-Soviet agreement to limit strategic nuclear missiles — SALT II — is near. He says this will balance off the nuclear strength of the two superpowers, giving more importance to the Communist superiority in ground forces in Central Europe.

Negotiations have been going on in Vienna since 1973 on what the United States and its allies call "mutual and balanced" reduction of forces in Central Europe. The NATO members and the Communists have not agreed on anything, and the Soviets even have their own name for the negotiations. They refuse to include "balanced."

Schmidt suggests that the "confidence-building measures" agreed on at the 1975 Helsinki summit conference on European security be made compulsory instead of voluntary.

The Helsinki agreement provides for advance notification to the other side of military maneuvers and invitations to observers. But this is not required and has happened only a few times.

Both the Russians and the Western powers have ways to detect major troop movements on the other side. If advance notification of maneuvers was compulsory, detection of a major movement that had not been preceded by an announcement of maneuvers would be a warning that something suspicious was going on.

Sen. Nunn thinks the matter of troop reductions has been overemphasized.

"If sheer numbers of troops were the principal determinant of military power," he said in a recent speech in August, ta, Ga., "the South Vietnamese would have whipped both the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese army without American help."

By focusing on troop levels instead of confidence-building measures, he said, NATO is looking for an irrelevant agreement.

Rep. Aspin, writing in "The NATO Review," recommended a "firebell" agreement that would station observers permanently at military installations on both sides, restrict the size and frequency of maneuvers, limit the number of troops that can be rotated into Central Europe and require previous announcement of such movements.

One West German official derided Aspin's suggestions.

"Can you imagine an observer being allowed to call home with the message 'Hey, fellers, there's a surprise attack coming'?" he asked.

A few observers already are in positions to do something like that. Since the end of World War II the United States, Britain and France have had small military missions stationed in Potsdam, East Germany, not far from the Soviet military headquarters in East Germany. The Soviets have a similar mission in West Germany.

Even at the height of the cold war, these missions had considerable freedom to drive around and report to their governments. Military attaches at Western embassies in Poland, Hungary and Czechoslovakia make similar trips. So do Communist military attaches in the West.

Occasionally these official spies seem too nosy, and there is an exchange of expulsions. But any special restrictions on them signals an unusual situation and constitutes a warning.

Police Lacking Funds

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — Unless the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration changes its mind, the Plains Police Department will be broke in four days, says Chief Billy McClung.

McClung has asked LEAA to reconsider its rejection of his request for $40,000 to cover expenses until President Carter's hometown can assume financial responsibility for the department next

3.6 Million Tourists Travel In Louisiana

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — They like crawfish, antebellum mansions and narrow lanes of the French Quarter — and they contribute $1.5 billion a year to get their fill.

The state's Department of Culture, Recreation and Tourism released a report during the weekend saying 3.6 million people have visited Louisiana so far this year and pumped $1.5 billion into the economy.

Fur Showing, Expanded Stock Emphasize Shop's Versatility

"Did you realize that Diana's Doll House, 50th Street at Indiana Avenue, is much more than a junior store alone? To emphasize that fact, that mothers and business women, too, can depend upon Diana's for fashion at moderate cost, just as has the younger set, special events have been announced: To correctly convey the situation of a full size range, from 4's to 14's in a distinct department at Diana's Doll House, a "Grand Opening" of the expanded department is underway, continuing through Tuesday. Newest Furs Highlighting the celebration is a fur showing, with informal modeling of gorgeous new furs from Beverly Hills. Included are fox, mink, lynx, chinchilla and more. Also the furs will be shown at a luncheon today at the University-City Club. Every fur piece is marked by impeccable design and craftsmanship; Diana would have it no other way. It all is to emphasize the fact that mother-daughter shopping comes easy at Diana's, whether the desire is sportswear, dresses, holiday apparel, formals, matching accessories and all. Diana's Doll House, in Winchester Square, marked its first birthday in late October. At this, its second Christmas, it has gone "all out" to show appreciation to the customers who have made this year the successful and happy experience that it has been, enabling the expansion of stock and services. Diana Karvis, owner and active operator, emphasizes that "we are most grateful". Not only is Diana saying "thanks" for past patronage, but she suggests the

FURS SAY SO MUCH — FROM DIANA'S DOLL HOUSE — Special fur showings have been arranged to call attention to the merchandise expansion at Diana's where mothers and daughters alike are provided latest in fashion apparel. Grand Opening of the new department is a great opportunity for new customers to become acquainted with Diana's Doll House, one of the most intriguing stores one likely has seen. Concisely, for fashion-conscious wom-

Spring Crest Draperies Aids Practical, Thoughtful Santas

Two key reasons come to mind at this time for becoming acquainted with Spring Crest Draperies of Lubbock, Briercroft Shopping Center, 5302 Ave. Q: (1) "With Christmas almost upon us, wouldn't a gift for the home (drapery, other window wear and bedspreads) be most appreciated? Parents and children alike would well recognize such thoughtfulness... of a gift that would keep on giving for years to come. Gift certificates are available at Spring Crest." (2) Spring Crest Draperies of Lubbock is open Saturdays from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m., as a special convenience to its customers throughout the area. "So... if looking for something better for your home, for your parents' home or for a son, daughter, brother or sister, then it is time to discover just how very much Spring Crest can do for you!" Opened in July by the very personable and knowledgeable husband-wife team, Ben and Brenda Powell, this home-owned and home-operated firm has much that is new in this area. This relatively new but well received drapery store is exclusive dealer for the Spring Crest hardware in the Lubbock area. It is a franchise dealership and consequently passes on the advantages of mass buying power and the 17-year experience of nationally-known Spring Crest to its customers. Why is Spring Crest different? "Actually, Spring Crest Spring-Pleated Custom Draperies are the neatest hanging draperies in the world because they actually hang from a steel spring inserted in the top hem, with no crinoline headers to get soft and fall apart. They must be seen to be thoroughly appreciated." Furthermore, aside from their beauty and simplicity, they are competitively priced. Spring Crest Draperies of Lubbock stocks a complete line of drapery fabrics. Free estimates are given for home or business.

Specific Reductions Told For Three Days

That's right! As an early Christmas bonus from the Strawberry Patch "to show you we appreciate your business this year", the following announcement has been made: For three big days, today through Wednesday (Nov. 28, 29, 30), two special situations have been arranged: Buy One; Get One Free (1) A large number of appropriate season items are included in the offer of "buy one at regular price and get another free!" And look at this added special: (2) All in-stock items are priced at 25 per cent off for these same three days to help one get started on his or her Christmas shopping, with selection of the most unique gifts at a price that is affordable! (No special orders are discounted, of course.) The Strawberry Patch, at 3809 34th St., has so many things new that one could be tempted to spend the entire day browsing, selecting and saving! There are Christmas ornaments for every conceivable need. And door pieces that are out-of-the-ordinary, and so beautiful. The Strawberry Patch actually is "the year-around bazaar store" of Lubbock, and it seems to have outdone itself for the Christmas season. "We hope you'll come out, even if you can spend only a few minutes; we'll be glad to assist in any way possible." Owners Nancy Wood and Judy Posey have really been working with new ideas for one's home decor, with so very much that is not found elsewhere, whether for the children's room, kitchen, etc., or as a Christmas gift. For the child's room there are beautifully handpainted headboards, school desks, light switch plates, wastepaper baskets and more, all to match. Choose your own design and color. Then, for the kitchen and other rooms there are Sweet Shop canister sets, and boxes for stashing sewing needs, plants etc. There are fireplace brooms, too, with fall and Christmas decoration. Stained glass for windows, and hand-painted bath accessories are popular, too. And one simply must see the ice cream stools available in three sizes. Plus fruit baskets for the dining table, drawing boards, boxed cards, all-new Christmas decorations such as bread dough, calico, tree skirts and card holders.

There are new Christmas stockings for all family members. Also 78 calendars; Christmas wraps and distinct purses for the new year. For special orders involving desks, scrapbooks, etc., a Nov. 30 deadline is necessary to assure a completed unit ready for the holiday. Gift Wrap Service With gift wrapping at the Strawberry Patch always "in demand" and always beautiful and different, it also is stressed that "outside" gift wrapping is solicited; bring your packages, wherever purchased, for a wrap with the Strawberry Patch touch. There are toy chests, too, at the Strawberry Patch, and these can be personalized with appropriate decoration. Also see the new "space saver" hanging wall desks and other wall shelf units. It adds to this... the "Merry Christmas" spirit has started and is in full evidence at The Strawberry Patch, 3809 34th St. The above list is only a very small part of the comprehensive stock offered, and Judy and Nancy sincerely hope you will come in, visit, browse, select or order; it is a friendly and fun place in which to get the Christmas spirit!

Charlene's, In Town South, Presents Fashion Wonderland

The holiday atmosphere and Christmas spirit likely seldom has been more in the air than now at the new Charlene's of Town South!

"For holiday occasions, for travel and winter wear, for gifting needs, Charlene's has a beautiful, discriminating selection for your choosing."

(Charlene's opened its added Town South facility only a few weeks ago, but the reception already has been tremendous. One should come out at first opportunity to observe the beautiful decor, the new roominess, the attractively displayed merchandise and all. The original Monterey store still is maintained, with that facility devoted strictly to sportswear.)

The holiday mood prevails, to say the least, at the beautiful Charlene's in Town South (3402 73rd St., Suite F, just off Loop 289).

Holiday Wonderland
"You'll step into a veritable Winter and Christmas Wonderland at Charlene's and realize the excitement of a beautiful season ahead."

New holiday and travel wear is very much in evidence.

The selection of long dresses is most noteworthy, together with party pants, separates in party pants and tops, holiday street-length dresses, and more.

Be sure and see the all-weather travel coats.

And the pant suits, coordinates, lingerie, jewelry and a host of other gift items (such as musical jewelry boxes, lighted make-up cases, travel cases and evening bags, etc.).

Layaway is invited, and gift wrapping is free! Hours are 10 a.m. until 6 p.m., Mondays through Saturdays.

For a refreshing experience in shopping, one is invited to visit the new Charlene's where it is recognized that "everyone loves someone, and that 'someone' loves something special for Christmas. Charlene's can help!"

Lubbock Kash & Karry Wholesale Grocery Opens Way To Top Savings

"Save on your grocery expense and apply these savings to Christmas needs!" It is possible.

"Many of you have profited — for months — by checking the ads of Lubbock Kash & Karry Wholesale Grocery on these pages, and purchasing accordingly. (Selecting at the same time from the hundreds of other items already marked at 'rock bottom' at this popular Lubbock grocery that recently celebrated its second anniversary.)

"Others of you possibly have yet to learn the money-saving truth . . . that Lubbock Kash & Karry Wholesale Grocery can be a tremendous friend to the family budget. May we prove this at a very early date?"

See the Lubbock Kash & Karry Wholesale Grocery ad on these pages for specific examples of the bargains to be found at this unique Lubbock store, at even lower-than-usual prices to celebrate the firm's anniversary.

Certainly, all will agree that it is advantageous to shop more carefully than ever before . . . for price and value. Then . . . be sure and check the Lubbock Kash & Karry ad.

(Not only this week, but check each week on representative money-saving staple items provided by this distinctive firm at 901 N. Ave. Q.

"Did you know that groceries still can be purchased in Lubbock at rock-bottom prices — and — with full carry-out and sacking service?"

"If you are shopping elsewhere, you may be doing much of the work yourself, and still be paying too much; so — try Lubbock Kash & Karry Wholesale Grocery and pocket the savings!"

Located at 901 N. Ave. Q, phone 747-6033, this firm is Lubbock's only independently and wholly owned and operated wholesale grocery.

Low Overhead
It takes pride in "selling for less," a policy made possible by its cash arrangement, low overhead, purchases directly from the manufacturer, its policy of "pick it up yourself and save the difference," and local warehousing.

Co-owners are Tommy Toombs and Noble Sides, with Toombs as manager. Sides, formerly with the Ben E. Keith Co., enjoys a wide acquaintance in the area, as does Tommy who also is a long-time Lubbock resident. Both are on the job to give their personal attention.

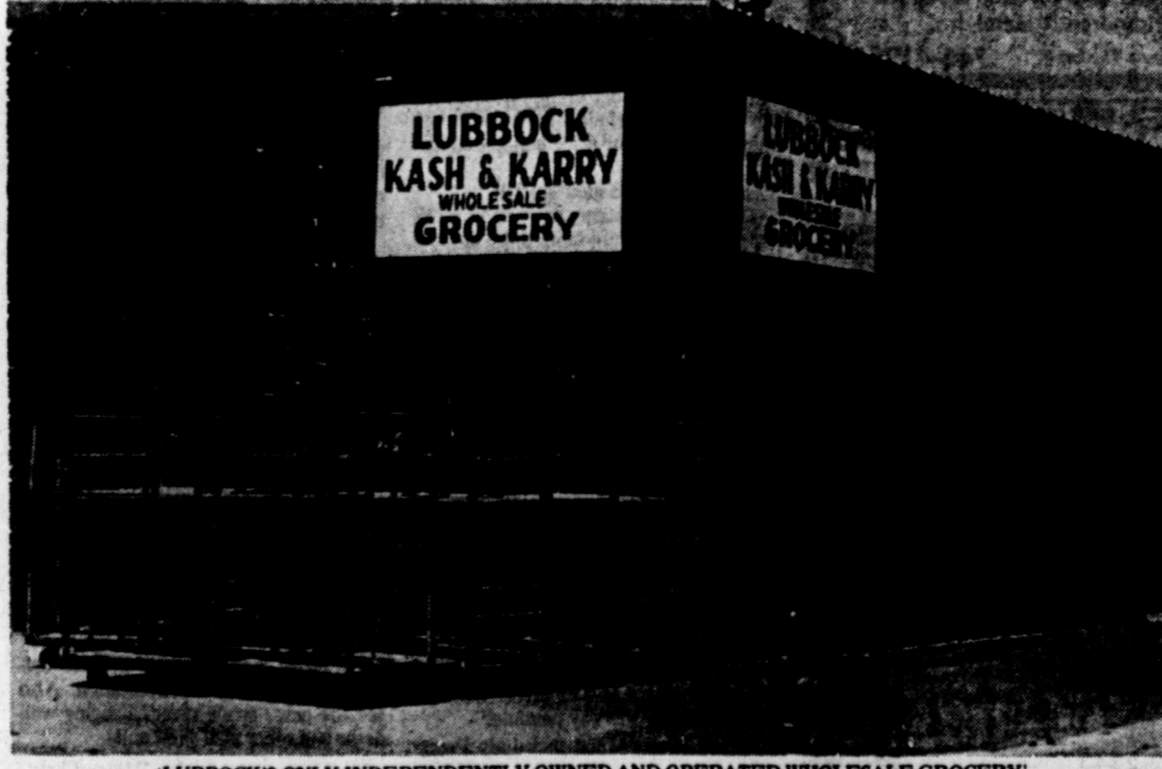

In its fully-stocked quarters on North Avenue Q, Lubbock Kash & Karry sells in quantities as small as one-half case lots, and packaged meats, etc., by the package.

A very good stock of refrigerated products, including these packaged meats, is maintained.

The firm has enjoyed acceptance and appreciation of those even coming long distances to take advantage of the prices and selection. More than 1,600 items are included in the stock that veritably affords "anything for the grocery business," and housed in a big 6,000 sq.ft. building at the north Lubbock location.

Staffmembers are on hand to load merchandise for the purchaser, remember.

Everything is top quality, with definitely no "seconds" even at the low prices.

CHRISTMAS NEEDS RECEIVE TOP BOWMAN PRIORITY

Christmas Holiday Sale Involving Multiple Departments At Bowman's

It is Christmas Holiday Sale time at Bowman Home & Garden Center, 8301 South University Ave. Whether selection is at the fantastic Trim-a-Tree Shop in Bowman's or elsewhere in the big center, one is afforded exceptional opportunity for fixing up the home for the holidays, or in gift selection. (There are great gift ideas throughout Bowman's, and there's no charge for lay-aways.) In addition to the sale values, other inducements are scheduled. Artistry In Metal Mike Gowen, widely-known artist, will be on hand Dec. 9 and Dec. 10 to demonstrate metal sculpture. Both copper and brass pieces will be available for purchase. Look at some of the sale items great for gifting, decorating or home improvement: Poinsettias are just $6.99 each (6-in. pots), and azaleas in the same size pots are $9.99. Cut trees, including Plantation Firs, Douglas and Noble Firs and Scotch Pine, 5 ft. to 7 ft. height, are $7.49 to $24.95. Practical Gifts The great Presto Burger I is priced at $9.88, with the Burger II at $21.88. All West Bend and Sunbeam appliances (in-stock merchandise only) are marked at 30 per cent off regular price. The Moisture Meter would be a great gift. Regularly priced $9.99, it is sale priced at $5.99. Using no batteries and needing no recharging or replacements, it ends guesswork about when to water plants, keeping them lush and healthy without excessive or under-watering. Domestic and exotic tropical foliage is arriving weekly and one can select from such items as ferns, vines, hanging baskets, flowering plants, and more, all at low, low prices. Weed Eaters and Spintrims are specially priced as practical gifts sure to please. And with any paint purchase a big 9 ft. by 12 ft. plastic drop clothes is given free! Titan electric heaters are of special interest at this season, and are priced from $17.49 to $34.95. Each features two-speed action, safety tip-over switch and thermostat controlled. Custom Flocking Custom tree flocking and decorating is available, with delivery anywhere! Custom Bows "Also ... one must see the custom made bows. We at Bowman's custom make all our bows for gift wrapping. Prices for these begin at only 19 cents each." A complete assortment of tree ornaments is stocked, with the traditional shiny glass ornaments as well as the modern handmade and theme types. There are Santas, kissing figures, reindeer, animals, fruit, crystal ornaments, birds and others. And skirts for any tree. Real and artificial wreath material is stocked, with custom wreath making and centerpiece decorating another appreciated service. Tinsel and garland is stocked in abundance ... in gold, silver, red, green, blue and frosted tip, in three, six and nine ply garland. Gift wrapping is available. Whether it is selection from the specialized Christmas stock, the decorations, the gift items, the extensive nursery stock, or items from anywhere in the big facility, Bowman assures top value and selection ... plus ease in shopping ... and low, low prices. "Don't delay ... visit the Bowman Trim-a-Tree Shop now; it is open from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m., Mondays through Saturdays.

Smoke Detection Alarms Seen Essential As Safety Factor

Why a fire-smoke detection system? "Because fire and smoke detection systems can save lives and possessions. Because: (1) There is a residential fire every 20 seconds; (2) 6,000 persons die in residential fires annually; (3) 75 per cent of these are from gas and smoke (asphyxiation); (4) 45 per cent of deaths are under 5 and over 65; (5) 200,000 Americans are injured by fire each year; (6) Nearly 700,000 fires occur in American homes each year with an excess of $874,000,000 damage. "Smoke is the primary killer in fires!" Recognizing this, isn't it time to check with Custom Sound Security Systems and let them explain and install the NuTone Smoke Detection Alarms that are self-contained automatic fire alarm systems that every family can afford? Statistics show that most fatal residential fires begin as slow, smoldering fires. Smoke reveals the presence of fire much sooner than does heat. Early warning of smoke from fires can make the difference between saving lives or falling victim to this insidious killer. Before flames even reach them, 75 per cent of the victims of fire succumb to lethal smoke. (And most of these deaths occur at night when the family is sleeping.) There are two types of smoke detectors that alert one to fires: photoelectric detectors and ionization detectors. They work on entirely different principles. According to Custom Sound Security Systems, tests have indicated that photoelectric detectors respond more quickly to slow, smoldering fires, while ionization detectors respond more quickly to open-flame fires where there is little smoke. "So ... shouldn't NuTone Photoelectric Detectors be installed in every important area of your home ... bedrooms, stairwells, kitchen, basement, heated garage, living room, family room and hallway? We think so, and we at Custom Sound Security Systems want the pleasure of working with you in this protective field. Choose from five models, one for every need. Custom Sound Security Systems can work for you in many ways: "For example, have you desired automatic garage door openers but have for some reason delayed doing something about it? Then, let Custom Sound Security Systems show the advantages of NuTone openers, with their own installation and servicing, all at very competitive pricing. "These openers, and also the NuTone burglar alarms, can be definite safety factors, a real consideration for one's family, in winter or summer, day or night." Custom Sound Security Systems, located at 2802-B York Ave. (just east of Slide Road and north of the 34th Street-Brownfield Highway cutoff) sells its line of very practical products at retail, also installing them when desired, and serves as authorized NuTone service center in the area. The prestigious NuTone line, stocked right at the firm, includes: (1) Garage door openers; (2) Intercom systems; (3) Built-in stereo systems; (4) Built-in vacuum systems; (5) Burglar and fire alarms; and (6) Smoke detectors. Custom Sound Security Systems, with a 25-year tenure in Lubbock, was purchased two years ago by W.C. "Wimp"

Lawrence, eight-year resident with 30 years experience in the field. The firm has been at its present functionally attractive quarters since the first of this year, and the displays and helps provided there, together with the merchandise, make a visit there most rewarding. Come by or call "Wimp" Lawrence at 795-6543, for new revelations in convenience, safety and satisfaction. Supplying to contractors as well as the general public, the firm knows area needs and stocks accordingly. Furthermore, it is licensed and bonded. More about the NuTone residential intruder-fire alarm systems, a sensible alternative to worry: The burglar alarms are available to fit any budget, for a new or existing residence, custom designed to fit customer preferences. Available are local and monitoring systems. "NuTone intruder-fire alarm systems are on guard 24 hours a day, whether one is at home or away, awake or asleep. These systems do not intrude on your lifestyle ... and they help make sure no one else does!" Rugged, packed with features, the NuTone garage door operators are advertised as "the best value in operators today." "Let us show you how you get more with NuTone. And what a delight the NuTone radio-intercom systems and the Musicom stereo systems can be! Get full details, see the displays, learn all about the advantage provided by these and by Custom Sound Security Systems, located in southwest Lubbock. "May we have the pleasure and privilege of working with you, now, for new convenience, safety and pleasure?"

5302 AVENUE Q
Briercroft Shopping Center

Earl Ray Music, In Briercroft, Suggests Holiday Musical Gifts

Wouldn't an ideal Christmas present for that band student son or daughter be a quality instrument from the Earl Ray Music Co. in Briercroft Center?
"Selection there will assure that you are all set — with the best — for current school needs, and beyond."
Service does not end with the rental or sale at this leading band house. Earl Ray maintains the largest band instrument repair department on the South Plains, with fulltime specialists on the job.
"Whether or not you purchased your present band instrument from Earl Ray, they will be glad to give you a price you are sure to appreciate with trade on a better one."
A wide choice of instruments is stocked.

Long a standby as "the South Plains' leading Band House," the Earl Ray Music Co., at 5302 Ave. Q in the Briercroft Shopping Center, pledges the finest in instrument repair and sales, even leasing and trade-up.
For more than a quarter century of being known and trusted by band directors, parents and handsmen throughout the area, Earl Ray Music Co. early in 1974 moved from a former 1502 Ave. Q quarters to the large modern home it now enjoys — a facility that has met with exceptional response from customers who actually are excited about the added conveniences and still-fine service at Earl Ray's.

Selling, servicing and trade-rent-lease of fine instrument lines still is the whole business of Earl Ray. Whether selection if from Conn, Vito, Selmer, Bundy, LeBlac, Ludwig, Bach, Olds, Gemeinhardt, etc., quality is assured.
More and more students throughout Lubbock and entire area are learning the advantages of "trading up" to a better instrument at Earl Ray Music Co. As the students progress in their musical careers, the "trading up" is especially advantageous.
"Whether or not you purchased your present band instrument from Earl Ray, they will be glad to give you a price you are sure to appreciate with trade on a better one."
A wide choice of instruments is stocked.

Meinecke Bros. Gifting Ideas, Selection Eases Shopping Task

Down every aisle at Meinecke Bros., delightful discoveries await for the gifting season.
Appropriate gift items for the homemaker, the special friend, the man of the house... they all can be found at one Lubbock location, Meinecke Bros., 1633 Broadway, where Christmas shopping is made easy.
Among the suggestions (just a few items from the thousands stocked) are:
Cook 'n Ca'jun charcoal-water smoker and grill.
The Hoky floor and carpet sweeper.
Elegant wooden ware, skewer sets, bath soap ensembles, decorator pieces including metal sculpture... even a unique "money jar".
Or the electric pizza baker, the new Dazey donut factory, the Double Mac fast cooker.
Presto Burger, crock pots, canister sets, American teakettles and the Mr. Bacon pan.
Plus Corning Ware, Butter-Rite corn poppers, electric percolators, coffee mugs, Inertia nutcrackers, Pyrex and more.

Beautiful Lamps
Also a really distinctive selection of lamps and candles; and porcelain birds and figurines.
Maybe the perfect gift would be a Lap-Eze portable desk for home, car or leisure.
Or a White Mountain ice cream freezer.
Fireplace Needs
Fire screens (including the beautiful glass screen) and grates, log carriers and tool sets, even Pioneer electric fire starters and Blue Flame log lighters and Cedar Glo chips for a cheery fire.
Be sure and see the Fenton and L. G. Wright lamps, and crystal, too.
And who wouldn't be thrilled at the tremendous choices in China, in Sango, Ironstone by Johnson Bros., Vernon Ware in Pottery, and Poppytrail Pottery... all extraordinary.
Table Cloths
There even are table cloths for the holidays, for gifting and for year-round use; see the vinyl cloths with felt backing!
Then, don't overlook the Imperial Museum collection of exclusive reproductions of American Glass from the Metropolitan Museum of Art, and the provocative selection of stained glass Sun Catchers.

Stocking Stuffers
There are scads of "stocking stuffers" throughout the stock at Meinecke Bros. Gift wrapping is available, of course, as is layaway.
"For complete satisfaction, who could go wrong in selecting at this time-honored store with its many department including housewares, hardware, small electric appliances and hundreds of general items?"
"May we assist you in your Christmas shopping this year at Meinecke Bros., in the same Lubbock location, 1633 Broadway, since 1938, a store dating its founding back to 53 years ago? We would deem it a pleasure to assist you, as we have in years past and for this and other generations.
"Remember, to list the many quality items would be impossible, but we hope the foregoing has hinted of the bonanza in gift items stocked by Meinecke, where the tradition is "name line" merchandise, prices that are right, and where service and appreciation is clearly visible."

"TIS SELECTION TIME — Meinecke Bros. recognizes that the many Christmas situations and preferences call for an equally great selection of quality gifts — and they have stocked accordingly. Pictured calling attention to new lamps and other gifting ideas are Steve Meinecke and staff member Mrs. Mary Alderson.

Holiday Salon Introduces New Staffmembers, Tells Services

For the newest hair cuts and other expert beauty services, one can turn with confidence to the staff at the Holiday Salon of Beauty, 4935 Brownfield Road.

By way of introducing the newest staffmembers, Peggy Tooke and Regina Parrish, these two are presently offering frostings for $20 and Uni Perms for $18.50!

Not only these, but also Hazel Cagle, Lou Cox, Elsie Borden, Kaye Rebber, Jo Ann Fannin, Sharina Bush and Estella Loy are on hand to render the finest in beauty services.

(Lou is a specialist in painless hair removal, too, it is noted.)

At this season of the year, with its added demands for beauty attention, it is pointed out that the best hairstyles begin with the proper cut. This fact is well recognized at the Holiday Salon and is appreciated by its customers.

The entire staff at the Holiday Salon of Beauty has just returned from a special Haircutting Seminar where they studied under some of the nation's greatest hair cutters, together with experts from other nations.

"We learned many new cuts and analyzing techniques for achieving the best results in the newest trends."

The staff at Holiday is excited about the new cuts, together with all the specialties of this better salon.

Manageability for care at home is a key consideration of the stylists, with consultation provided for better results at home for correct care of the new cuts.

For Men and Women
Expert hair care for both men and women begins at the Holiday Salon of Beauty (where the natural curl look for straight hair is enabled); after all, there is no need for men's hair appearance to be drab!

Longtime Area Residents Profess New Hearing Enjoyment, Credit Sonotone

"It makes a difference when you can hear people."
"And now I can hear myself walking; I can hear water running; I can hear the refrigerator come on; I can even hear myself sneeze!"
All this most likely is taken for granted by just about all of us, but it is a new experience for Mrs. Alvin (Lena) Neugebauer of Rt. 2, Slaton.
To make the revelation doubly rewarding, the Neugebauer's daughter, Sheila, 15, also has experienced a hearing problem; and both she and her mother have recently been fitted with Bicros aids from Sonotone.
Fitting with aids at Sonotone-Lubbock almost became a whole-family project. But Louise Bills, certified hearing aid audiologist, was completely honest in her assessment and suggested other courses for Mr. Neugebauer and for a son, Shelby, 13. She declined to fit Alvin, suggesting instead that he consult further with physicians. And for Shelby who has a slight loss, she suggested that he wait for fitting.

Cites Advantages
Mrs. Neugebauer also made several other pertinent observations in both personal visits and in telephone conversations with Louise and others.
"I formerly had to turn my head to hear; no more."
"I had never heard well and had understood when a child that I needed surgery."
"Now, I hear sounds I never heard before. I never thought anyone could help me."
"Really, I feel like a different person, and the aid does not bother me at all. I wore it to church immediately, after fitting on Saturday, though I had been advised to wait some four weeks before wearing it to church."
Others Helped
Such is the testimonial of the Neugebauer family, a household that is one of the many throughout the area whose lives have been made richer because of the understanding, the quality products, the professional knowledge and the desire to serve evident at Sonotone-Lubbock, 2318 Broadway, phone 762-5469.

A highly qualified staff serves at Sonotone-Lubbock, headed by Louise Bills who has been heaped for decades with honors from customer and manufacturer alike. Also on hand is Ralph Huntington, long familiar on the team at Sonotone-Lubbock, and newest staffmember Flo Miller.
Each take personal interest in the people with whom they contact at both the business office and in the course of calls made within homes of the area.
"If you have not become acquainted with them, there is no reason to delay further."
Individual hearing tests, at no obligation; personalized fitting, frequent checkups and the interested care of a Sonotone consultant is the service one can expect and appreciate without exception at Sonotone-Lubbock.
"If you have a hearing problem or suspect that you may have one, why not stop by or call at Sonotone-Lubbock now. That visit or call you make there may be the most important one you will ever make."

Tuftwick Special Purchase Results In Unique Savings

There is a tremendous "special purchase" opportunity now available at Tuftwick Carpet Co. Slide Road and Brownfield Highway in Lubbock.
Tuftwick and a major manufacturer (Milliken) have combined efforts to offer area customers two of the latest carpet styles in an array of color combinations, at actual savings of $3 to $4 per yard.
Involved are the new Scuptura and Pebblebrook styles, both 100 per cent continuous filament nylon, sculptured patterns, and the quality Autoclave heat-set yarns that insure a superior appearance.
One is invited to compare the Scuptura at $14.95, available during this opportunity at $10.95 per square yard installed over one-half inch rebound pad.
And the Pebblebrook, regular $13.95 but now $9.95 during this event at Tuftwick.
These, as spectacular as they may correctly seem, are just two of the savings made available at Tuftwick.
"Don't take our word alone... shop our warehouse and showroom today and discover the savings throughout."

Quality lines include Milliken, as pointed out above, and Philadelphia, Columbia, Lees, Galaxy and others.
"Most folks likely recognize the tremendous pricing advantages at Tuftwick Carpet."
"But did you also realize there are many other factors also contributing to its record of service? Such as installation by what we believe the best carpet installers in the entire area. And a very large selection of materials and patterns always in stock. And a staff that is qualified and anxious to help, yet never push.
There are very outstanding presently available at Tuftwick Carpet Co., Brownfield Highway at Slide Road in Lubbock.
There are full rolls at tremendous markdown prices, and there is a good selection of remnants "at our cost and below!"
The stock is exceptionally large... and the values unquestioned.
"You must see to believe! But hurry: come early for best selection."
It is a galaxy of bargains that is provided at the store long carrying the motto

"Shop Where Your Dollar Buys More."
Store hours are 8 a.m. until 5:30 p.m., Mondays through Fridays, and from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Saturdays.
All the carpet is first quality, as traditional at Tuftwick.
Easy terms are available, with no money down, and with up to 36 months to pay!
"If you have not been through the showrooms of the big Tuftwick Carpet, Inc., within the last few weeks, you are in for a real treat at your next visit."
First, there is a thrilling selection of patterns and materials.
Secondly, the prices and values simply cannot be beat.
Third reason for a trip to Tuftwick Carpet at Brownfield Highway and Slide Road could well be the most attractive display yet. Everything in the showroom has been conveniently displayed for easy viewing, comparison and selection. It is an attractive, inviting place.
The basic reason for shopping Tuftwick has not changed, however, and that is the integrity and experience of a capable staff devoting all efforts to serve."

Conventional 100's Give Way To Merit Taste Science.

'Enriched Flavor'™ technology achieves taste level of higher tar 100mm cigarettes.

For years, smokers of longer length cigarettes were limited to brands that needed high tar to deliver full flavor.

But no longer.

The MERIT taste science that brought full flavor to low tar smoking has now been applied to a longer length cigarette. The result: a 100mm cigarette that delivers taste way out of proportion to tar.

Low tar MERIT 100's. Only 12 mg tar. Yet packed with 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco for extra flavor—the kind of flavor smokers of longer length cigarettes want, but could never get before at such a low tar level. Taste tests proved it.

Test Data Conclusive

12 mg tar MERIT 100's were taste-tested against a number of major 100mm brands ranging from 17 mg to 19 mg tar.

Thousands of smokers were tested. The results: overall, they liked the taste of MERIT 100's as much as the higher tar 100mm brands tested.

MERIT and MERIT Menthol. King Size and 100's.

Only one cigarette has 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco.
