Harrison said the existing agreement for grain pur-chases by the Soviet Union allows that nation to buy

What is the philosophy behind sustaining Communist governments with food and technology? Harrison said, "Though this may be a little extreme, Sen. Humphrey said we should sell them anything

"On balance," he said, "the trade and the sale is beneficial to our economy. "The belief is simply that we are trading with them and they are there, they exist, and we may not like their way of doing things, but there is a lot of skepti-cism that our withholding food from them would necessarily change that. So, I guess it is a matter of a decision that their dollars are as good as anybody else's." Harrison said, "I think it is very likely the Russians will go ahead and purchase about that amount - up

'That agreement was the product of the Russians' desire to guarantee supply on one hand, and our desire to gurantee some sales, but to be able to limit those sales if we get into a situation like we had in 1972 or 1973 when our stocks dropped, and we had to impose an embargo on some of our exports to some good customers, old line customers, because the Russians jumped in and bought large quanties (up to 18

Cool, Dry, Dusty Days Forecast For December

Dreams of a white Christmas on the month more of blowing sand and dust South Plains this year might as well be forgotten again.

In fact, weathermen warned Thursday, the wintery scene traditionally ascribed to the holiday could very well be composed more of gritty, brown dirt than fluffy, white snowflakes this season.

December, in short, promises little but cool, dry, dusty days.

National Weather Service forecasters issued their 30-day outlook for this month Thursday with little encouraging news./ Cold fronts should move through the area every two or three days, dropping temperatures some but not significantly, but they won't be the type fronts that usually bring rain or snow.

Precipitation totals at the end of the month will probably be under the region's normal of .50 of an inch in the southwest counties to .75 of an inch in the eastern and northern counties, and begood possibility December will be a normal and ranged from 94 of an inch

Because of the lower rainfall predictions, forecasters also warned that some area farmers might find themselves in trouble next planting season.

"Rainfall has been well below the seasonal averages during the past three months, and with a late killing freeze the fields throughout the area have lost a high percent of the moisture accumulated during the summer months," their outlook reads. "Since all of the winter months rarely produce significant amounts of moisture, this means that farmers will be faced with seriously dry soils to start the next season's crops.

In November, lack of precipitation was an almost strictly adhered to rule. Nine area reporting stations indicated less than a trace of rain fell within their re-

Road crews labored to re-open Interstate 90 across Snoqualmie Pass after slides and washouts forced closure of the state's main east-west highway Thursday

The damage occurred after state Transportation Department crews gave up trying to bolster a leaky levee from the South Fork of the Snoqualmie River, which rose two feet Thursday. In Snohomish County north of Seattle, site of multi-million-dollar flooding in 1975 that killed 2,000 head of livestock, about 65 persons were evacuated. Some farmers were moving animals to safe locations arranged after the 1975 flood.

The county coordinator of emergency services, Bob Hamlin, said dikes were holding through the morning and sandbagging crews were working. But he pre-quested to leave their homes, said the homish River rose toward an expected crest of 33 feet - 8 feet above flood

> We will have major flooding," he said. "I'm just glad we had enough warning to prepare this time.

> There is nothing we can do but evacuate, and we'll try to do that in as orderly a fashion as possible The National Weather Service blamed the warm, wet weather on a pattern in the upper-level jetstream which has routed a series of Pacific weather disturbances across the state. Forecasters said the current weather pattern, with virtually nonstop rain along the coast and in the mountains, could be expected to continue at least through the night. Rivers were continuing to rise, they said, with crests expected overnight.

Rainfall In November Inundates Easterners

WASHINGTON (A₽) - In a report that will surprise few easterners, the U.S. Geological Survey said Friday that November was the wettest month in at least a Scattered pockets of persistent drought remain in the West, but in the eastern two-thirds of the nation the flow of water in rivers and streams was excessive with flooding in many areas.

Of 156 index stations checked nationwide, 71 showed flows within 25 percent of the highest on record, while 32 were within the lowest 25 percent and 53 were in the normal range.

The nation's five biggest rivers - Mississippi, St. Lawrence, Columbia, Ohio and Missouri - averaged 76 percent more than normal in November, the highest average since January, 1974.

The so-called Big Five are considered a quick check on the pulse of the nation's water supply because they drain about half of the 48 coterminous states.

Survey hydrologists said some of the heavy water flow in the East came as flooding, particularly in North Carolina, Virginia and New Jersey

And the combined freshwater inflow to Chesapeake Bay averaged about 80 billion gallons a day, more than twice nor-mal and the highest November inflow since recordkeeping began in 1951.

Some 60 percent of the total was contributed by the Susquehanna River with a 26-year record inflow of 47 billion gallons

Except in the Pacific Northwest, where flooding was also reported, the drought remains stubborn in most western areas. Particularly affected are California, Utah, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico and Hawaii.

Flow of the Beaver River at Beaver, Utah remained deficient for the 21st straight month and dropped to its lowest November level in 63 years.

The need for water was highlighted by a report from the Marin Municipal Water District in the San Francisco Bay Area which operates the Kent Lake Reservoir.

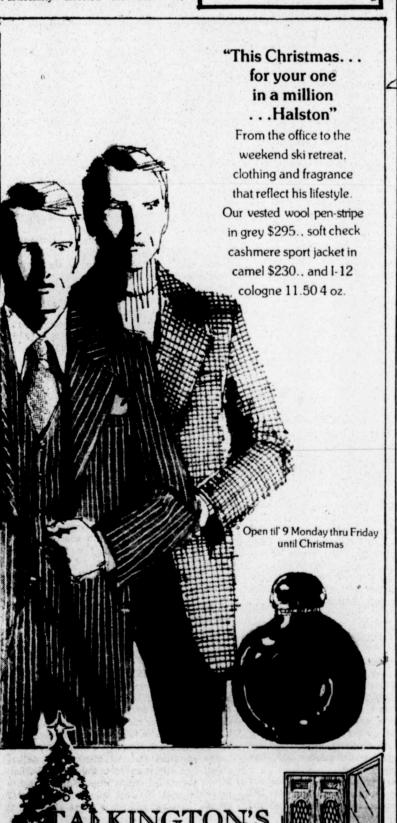

The agency said one of the largest storms on record dumped 14 inches of rain on the area, but this only raised the reservoir from 18 percent to 24 percent of capacity. Normally in November it holds about 67 percent of capacity.

The average November flows of the nation's Big Five rivers were: Mississippi near Vicksburg, Miss., 403 billion gallons per day, 114 percent more than normal; St. Lawrence River at Massena, N.Y., 192 billion gallons, 30 percent more than normal; Missouri River at Hermann, Mo., 80 billion gallons, 184 percent more than normal; Ohio River at Louisville, Ky., 72 billion gallons, 150 percent more than normal, and the Columbia River at The Dalles, Ore., 47 billion gallons, 19 percent

A LAUDABLE first step has been taken in years instead of, say, two to 10. Present law

Some called it the first "full-employment" act. President Truman hailed it as a commitment to take any and all of the measures necessary for a healthy economy.

This bill, said Rep. George H. Bender, R-Ohio, "is a fraud."

NOW, 31 YEARS later, another "new fullemployment bill" has been endorsed by President Carter and sent to Congress for

The aims of the latest new bill are just as murky today as they were in 1946.

The bill's sponsors, Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., and Rep. Augustus Hawkins. D-Calif., see it as a basic commitment to do whatever needs to be done to put people

A more sober interpretation is that the bill is nothing more than a set of flexible employment goals that even the President conceded may never be reached.

WITH MILLIONS of young men coming unemployment rate to 4 percent by 1983 home from war in 1946, Congress passed a without aggravating inflation. Commendable, right?

Too bad there's simply no responsible way to guarantee that the current 7 percent unemployment rate will be reduced to 5 percent, 4 percent or any other percent by some arbitrary date.

THE ORIGINAL Humphrey-Hawkins bill -the one debated during last year's presidential campaign. you'll recall-would have practically commanded the government to be an employer of last resort. Never mind the cost. Just do it.

So far, at least, the President has succeeded in preserving the principle of full employment without committing himself and the country to a deluge of inflationary spending a few years down the line.

The danger is, of course, that future congresses will use Humphrey-Hawkins as justification for creating a lot of expensive makework jobs at, ahem, taxpayer expense.

In truth, the only sure path to full employment is a healthy economy. That means keeping inflation under control by avoiding excessive government spending, deflating any ballooning money supply and drawing the line on unwarranted wage and price decisions by either labor or management. Shuck away the cosmetic fluff and underneath you'll find the same old cob.

While nobody doubted, for better or for worse. the direction of Richard M. Nixon's presidency after ten months, the Carter presidency has neither set nor sought a theme.

THE WASHINGTON bureaucrats have leaped to fill this void with a vengeance, tightening federal regulation and devising new plans for federal direction of the nation's affairs.

But their successful drive to concentrate all power in Washington is most significant, considering the lingering belief of long-time Carterites that regionalizing power still ought to be a dominant Carter theme. A glance at what is happening at Labor, HUD, and HEW: Labor: All regional directors have been eliminated, bringing field offices directly under Washington supervision. Department officials say the regional directors never had much power in the first place so the change does not but White House staffers say centralization is un-

HUD: There is no argument about more centralization here. Not only have the number of field offices been reduced but their authority has been sharply cut back. "The feeling is we had to return the full decision-making to Washington," one high official in HUD told us.

HEW: A reorganization in July removed program responsibilities from regional directors, returning them to Washington, Like Labor, HEW's field offices will be directly supervised by Washington instead of regional offices.

Office of Education employes in the field are being brought back to Washington. HEW spokesmen say Sec. Joseph Califano wants "central responsibility.

JOE CALIFANO LEADS the vanguard of bureaucrats triumphant in the first year of the Carter administration. Reluctantly selected for his post by Carter at the urging of Washington insiders (headed by Vice President Mondale), Washington insider Califano has emerged as a cabinet star in the President's opinion (but not in the opinion of his White House staff) That is remarkable in view of Califano's personification of more spending, more regulation and more centralization. It is explained by other administration officials not as a conversion in Carter's philosophy but as his turning in relief to one member of generally undistinguished cabinet who has his work completed on time and his department under control. Califano's triumph as a master bureaucrat is not isolated. Officials who believe in more, not less, government dominate the administration. Many are graduates of the Ralph Nader school of consumer protection, but more reflect the achetypal bureaucrat predating Ralph Nader by cen-

In the words of one relatively conservative cabinet member: "This administration is filled with people who like to regulate other people.

FOR EXAMPLE, HUD is proposing a plan (devised largely by Assistant Sec. Robert Embry, former Baltimore city housing commissioner) that would require suburbs to put in public housing cluster programs or lose federal money.

Such social engineering can stir up political dogs that Carter might prefer to keep sleeping.

That is why friends of the President, motivated only by his political welfare, wish that Carter would consider at greater length whether he should not fulfill his promises, explicit and implicit, of decentralization, deregulation and a less intrusive role for government.

But most of the bureaucrats are pushing for still more government in 1978, to satisfy the left as well as themselves. Moreover, even if the President belatedly puts his mind to it, it is too late in the day to unscramble the eggs of greater centralization and regulation. The cost may be not only the loss of a distinctive Carter theme but a big-government thrust that is beginning to run strongly against mass

BETWEEN NOW AND New Year's Eve I could (if I had the time) get my face lifted, fly off to Europe, put in a swimming pool, join a country club, bribe somebody, take a course to to improve my sex life, or pay ransom to a kidnapper -and take it all off my income tax.

You can, too. Every one of those deductions is IRS-legal. Under certain conditions. (Well, you knew there had to be a kicker in there somewhere, didn't you?)

Before I explain, I might as well take some of the fun out of this by quoting one of Old Dad's favorite maxims: "It may be deductible but it's not subtractable. So forget it.'

Translated, that's husband-talk for, "You still have to pay for it first. And you don't get it all back on your refund." The only proper wifely retort here is that it's too good a "bargain" to pass

Actually, the conditions aren't all that rough. And there's a new book coming out-"Take It Off!" by Robert Holtzman-that tells you how to go about it from A (abortions) to Y (yachts). No Z. Not even "zilch," which is what most taxpayers have left after Uncle Sam gets his.

HOLTZMAN IS A professor of taxation and accounting, and over the years he's squirreled away more than 1.040 deductions he says most people overlook. ("1,040." get it? Well, never mind.) Deductions that are perfectly legal, even under the new Tax Reform Act, which the government is already talking about reforming again. Take that face lift. Or any other plastic surgery

You bet that's its purpose, and it doesn't even have to be recommended by a doctor. My mirror can make that diagnosis.

As for the trip to Europe, all I have to do is prove it's "in pursuit of business" (like a series of brilliant essays on the European Common Market or a personal interview with Queen Elizabeth) and not spend more than is "reasonable and necessary" on transportation, food and ho-

Medical deductions cover wigs, eyeglasses, false teeth, arms, legs and anything else you can make work, acupuncture, guide dogs, "hearing dogs" for the deaf, crutches and membership in Alcoholics Anonymous.

One man even wrote off the cost of a clarinet and lessons. Seems his young son's upper teeth didn't meet the lowers, and a dentist suggested he take up the clarinet to improve the condition (You can be sure that's one kid who wasn't allowed to skip practice.)

And if a married couple aren't making beautiful music together, they can deduct the cost of a series of treatments to jazz up their performance in the boudoir. That includes the psychiatrists' fees,

PRESIDENT CARTER, who's practically a teetotaler, keeps threatening to kill the "threemartini business meal." But until he does, we can still take a client to dinner, talk business during the wining-and-dining, and then catch the lat-

That's called "goodwill entertainment," folks. and it's deductible. (Probably because the government realizes that, if you had your druthers, you'd really rather share a tuna casserole at home with the family and watch the Gong Show.)

Things get a little stickier with the country club membership. What you have to do here is convince the IRS that at least half the people you want to do business with belong and that by joining you increased your earnings considerably. It also helps if you hate to play golf.

The tax code is up-to-date on blackouts, too Any losses you suffer from casualties on thefts while the lights are out are fully deductible on business property. On non-business property it's anything over $100

If you've received a kidnap threat, a bodyguard is an allowable business expense. If your child should (God forbid) be kidnapped, the ransom you pay to get him back safely is deductible, under the somewhat twisted reasoning that your loss resulted from an illegal seizure of your property with criminal intent.

However, a child is non-business property. So if you paid the kidnapper $500,000, only $499,900 would be allowable. (That $100 non-deductible, remember.)

MY FAVORITE, though, is how the IRS handles bribes and kickbacks. They're allowable if (are you ready for this?) they don't go to a government employe (hah) and if they aren't illegal

That's not all. According to Mr. Holtzman, even if a bribe or kickback is barred by your state's laws, you can still deduct it if (1) it's business-oriented and (2) state officials customarily look the other way when it comes to enforcing that partic-

HISTORIANS HAVE READ that the Greek scientist Archimedes in about 200 B.C. used a big burning-glass to set fire to Roman ships besieging his home town of Syracuse. But inasmuch as the Greeks didn't have the savvy to make that size of burning-glass, those historians couldn't figure out just how he did it. Recently, a modern Greek engineer surmised that Archimedes had soldiers polish their shields and focus the sun's reflections from same on the enemy ships. Not long ago to prove the point, 70 Greek sailors, using simulated shields, likewise zeroed-in a target offshore and set it afire in three seconds.

For months the Carter Administration has been moving to normalize its dealings with Fidel Castro's Cuba, with exchanges of sports teams, diplomatic initiatives, fishing agreements and the like.

This policy is based on the assumption that the Castro Communists were interested in a thaw of their relations with the United States, as part of the wider strategy of detente supposedly being followed by the Soviet Union and the Communist world in general.

IN FACT, there has been precious little evidence that either the Cubans or their Soviet mentors are interested in calling off the Cold War

once Britain's most wanted guerrilla with a price of nearly $50,000 on his head - began an official visit Friday as Israel's prime minister and an honored

The trip was Begin's first to Britain as prime minister and his first anywhere abroad since meeting in Israel last month with Egyptian President Anwar

That unprecedented trip by Sadat sparked hopes of a breakthrough in the search for a Middle East peace settlement, but the British were fearful that Israeli-Egyptian contacts could result in a separate peace that would wreck the Arabs' frail unity

'As much as we admired Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's initiative and Begin's response to it, we believe it has disrupted Arab unity and could do so still more." an authorized British source

"The effect of this could be to harm relations with the West and disrupt oil and other supplies even though we realize Sadat's defined aim is to work for a comprehensive settlement.

Would Go Anywhere

Sadat had said te would go anywhere in search of a Middle East peace, and Begin responded by inviting him to Israel, where he addressed the Israeli Knesset (parliament) in Jerusalem Nov.

Security was tight for Begin's visit, which is to last six days and include 12 hours of talks with British Prime Minister James Callaghan and other British

British and Israeli officials alike said one aim of Begin's visit to Britain was to wipe clean the slate of the past. During World War II and until Israel's independence in 1948. Britain governed Palestine, which included today's Israel. Begin commanded the Irgun Zvei Leumi's guerrilla operations against the Bri-

Many times he evaded capture, living in disguise in Tel Aviv where he secretly met with members of the foreign press, the special United Nations Commission on Palestine and others.

Blowing Up Of Hotel

Among Irgun's more controversial exploits were the blowing up of Jerusalem's King David Hotel in which 95 persons were killed and the hanging of two British sergeants in reprisal for the execution of three Irgun members by the British. This aroused anti-Jewish feelings in Britain, where Begin was often portraved as a criminal

During his guerrilla days the British put a price of 10,000 pounds, then worth nearly $50,000 - on Begin's head. They never captured him.

Another aim of Begin's curent visit is to rally Britain's influence in favor of what Begin would see as a more evenhanded approach to the problems of an Israeli-Arab settlement.

Britain, as a member of the nine-nation European Common Market, is now on record officially backing the establishment of "a homeland for the peace is to be achieved. Begin's answer to this, as conveyed to President Carter when they met last summer in Washington, was blunt: "Europeans should be wary of presenting proposals which may lead to the shedding of Jewish blood. The European continent is drenched with Jewish blood, the Rhine, the Danube, the Vistula and the Dnieper are full of Jewish blood. All Europeans should know that the proposal to establish a Palestinian state in Eretz Yisrael (land of Israel)means one thing only - the shedding of Jewish blood.

Arms Limitation Quest

Begin was also expected to try to persuade Callaghan not to authorize largescale arms supplies to Kuwait, Egypt and Saudi Arabia, as is reaportedly his intention. Multibillion-dollar orders are at stake involving such weapons as complete missile systems, aircraft, tanks and naval vessels and whole arms factories.

Callaghan will host a 60-guest banquet Saturday to welcome Begin. Peers of the realm, ruling Laborites and opposition Conservatives and Liberals will attend. All Britain's political parties are committed not only to the survival of but also to friendship with Israel.

Among the guests will be some who may well have once played a role in trying to track down the onetime Irgunist, who was born in Poland 64 years ago and whose life has been dedicated in one way or another - in Poland and in Israel to the redemption of Jews and Israel-

City Man Sentenced To Prison

Percy D. Perkins, 27, of 2422 E. 7th S was assessed the prison term by a jury in Judge Denzil Bevers' 72nd District Court. The range of punishment for the third degree felony offense is from two to 10

The jury returned the three-year term after Asst. Dist. Atty. Sam Oatman intro duced records showing Perkins had re-ceived a three-year probated sentence in 1972 in connection with a burglary. The defendant was found guilty of the unlawful use of a truck belonging to a connection with the Nov. 23 shooting death of Lee Smith Jr., 29, of 1812 E. 1s

Smith was killed about 3:45 a.m. at club at E. 23rd Street and Fir Avenue.

Perkins was jailed and placed under a $20,000 bond in connection with that case, which is expected to be reviewed by a grand jury next month.

Judge Says Theft Case Not Proven

Dist. Judge Robert C. Wright dismissed a theft of stolen property case against de-fendant Joe Bob Wilson after ruling prosecutors had not produced enough evidence to submit the issue to a jury.

Wilson, 30, who lived at 104 Ave. N when he was arrested, was accused of knowingly possessing stolen property on

Police witnesses, during a brief trial in Wright's 137th District Court, testified they placed a house under surveillance after receiving information that the occu pant was committing burglaries.

Police Sgt. Rivie Garrett testified that a car containing two women, a man and a child was driven to the residence during the daylight hours. Garrett said the man got out of the car and went inside the house, apparently visiting with the suspect inside.

Witnesses indicated the man then returned to the car. Police indicated they could not tell whether or not the man was carrying anything.

The car was subsequently stopped, and, according to testimony, a television set identified as having been stolen in a burglary was found inside the trunk.

Wilson was identified as the adult male occupant of the auto. After evidence was concluded, defense attorney Willis Taylor argued that prosecutors Phil Gamble and Grady Terrill had not proven the television set was even in the defendant's possession. Taylor then requested Wright either to order an instructed verdict of not guilty, or, alternatively, to dismiss the case.

Wilson currently is serving a probated sentence after pleading guilty in 1976 to burglary of a habitation. The Criminal District Attorney's office earlier had attempted to revoke the pro-bation because of the television incident.

Dist. Judge William R. Shaver ruled after a hearing, however, that there was not sufficient evidence to revoke the pro-

"It really bothers me to see endorsements on the symbol of the university. It's wrong and it takes away from the dignity of the symbol," Formby de-

Board members appeared to agree with Formby, and said they would like to see the university discuss with the scoreboard company ways of shifting advertisements to outside the symbol.

The regents also approved a revision to Tech's admission policy which would allow provisionally accepted students two semesters, instead of one, to maintain an acceptable grade point average.

Previously, students admitted with lower than minimum grades and test scores had one semester to achieve a minimum 1.50 grade point average to be allowed to remain at Tech.

In closed session, the board members reportedly discussed several potential candidates for the head coaching job being vacated by Steve Sloan, but sources said no specific candidate was recommended to the board.

Sloan resigned from the position at Tech Thursday to take the head coaching job at the University of Mississippi.

One source said a decision on Sloan's replacement was expected very soon - a week at the outside. Tech athletic director J T King appeared before the board in open session and discussed Tangerine Bowl details, but no mention was made by either King or board members of the search for Sloan's successor. When asked after the meeting about possible candidates for the roaching job,

King said he knew nothing about who the school might hire.

In other business, construction contracts for several renovation projects also were approved, including a $646,000 plan for the Clifford B. and Audrey Jones Stadium Ticket Office and Lettermen's and union

FDA Studies Banning Of Diet Prescriptions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government should ban prescriptions of amphetamines and methamphetamines for dieters because millions of the pills are diverted into the hands of drug abusers, the head of the Drug Enforcement administration said Friday.

Peter B. Bensinger said his agency estimates 50 million of the more than 500 million amphetamine pills produced an-nually in the United States are diverted to "illicit markets, principally through dispensing physicians."

He testified at a Food and Drug Administration hearing on whether to outlaw prescriptions of the drug for weight re-

Bensinger said DEA plans to furnish information to the states within 30 days to identify "amphetamine problem areas." A DEA spokesman said the states will be given code numbers of doctors and pharmacists who handle large amounts of amphetamines. Names will be furnished on request, he added.

The government keeps track of all drugs sold under the Controlled Substances Act, as amphetamines are.

Amphetamines are frequently called pep pills or speed on the illegal market. Students, workers and others use them to get high or to stay awake, as well as to help lose weight

Dr. James R. Cooper of the National Institute on Drug Abuse estimated that between 778,000 and 1.6 million youths have used the prescription stimulants il-licitly, and from 9 million to 14 million

Bensinger said 88 percent of the amphetamines are prescribed for weight reduction. He said some "fat elinics" ... are little more than pill-pushing operations. He said the current legal production limits of 485 million doses of amphetamines and 40 million doses of methamphetamines should be slashed to 58 million of amphetamines and 6 million of methamphetamines. This would allow the government to keep a closer watch on the flow of drugs, he said.

Fetus Of Comatose Mother Still Alive

NEW YORK (AP) - Doctors faced difficult decisions Friday in their effort to keep a comatose mother alive for three more months so her unborn child can develop enough to survive.

.... Alleboretterbesterbe

Rosemarie Maniscalco, 27, has been kept alive with a respirator in the intensive-care unit of a Brooklyn hospital since she suffered an apparent stroke on Thanksgiving Eve.

Her 16-week-old fetus is alive, but medical experts said it would have to grow in the womb at least until the 28th week to have a fighting chance of survival after

Doctors said they must determine the extent of the mother's brain damage and decide what life-support methods to use in the effort to save the baby.

Dr. Wolodymyr Tyschenko, a neurologist on the staff at Victory Memorial Hospital in the Bay Ridge section, has not talked to reporters, and the family has given differing accounts of his diagnosis. At first the husband, John, said that he was told his wife had suffered "brain death," meaning no electrical activity showed in the brain. But Rosemarie's mother, Marie Catanzaro, said on Thursday that she had been told that "her brain is not dead, it has had extensive

If the mother remains in the coma, she may need to be fed by a complex intravenous technique called hyperalimentation. Relatively few hospitals have experience in long-term use of the technique, and one of the dangers is infection.

"I want my wife," John Maniscalco said in an interview Thursday night along with the couple's two daughters, Ann Marie, 8, and Linda, 6. "If-I can't have her, at least I want my son or daughter."

Spending Level Set — $15,000

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) - Larry and Martha Baker laid careful plans for a day of shopping, consulting consumer guides, keeping an eye out for sales, even strolling through the store on a practice run. After all, they had a strict spending limit - $15,000

Baker, an Army sergeant who lives in Granite City, Ill., won the KEZK Mystery Song Contest, which entitled him to $15,000 in goods from the Stix, Baer Fuller department store.

He was chosen at random from among hundreds of daily winners On Monday, the Bakers walked through the store, looking for values. Mrs Baker then boned up on several editions of Consumer Reports

On Thursday, followed by clerks, reporters, friends and relatives, and carrying a clipboard listing their preferences, the Bakers headed first for the furniture department. They bought a dining room table, chairs, a bed and a bedroom wall unit: $2,900.

By lunchtime-they had spent $7,033.65, Mrs. Baker calculated. During the afternoon they quickly bought a vacuum cleaner, china, crystal, and sporting Because that's the problem the Office of General Services has with New York State's official Christmas tree.

The 40-foot white spruce was erected on the mall of the Empire State Plaza and promptly drew attention for its lack of beauty and Henry Connors, a General Services spokesman, noted in an understatement that the misshapen tree 'was pretty straggly and so forth."

He said OGS officials decided they would replace it with another tree without even attempting to camouflage its defects with deco-

"I don't know whether the tree got smashed up while it was being hauled here or whether it was just a scrawny tree to begin with," said Connors.

Connors explained the tree was cut by the Department of Environmental Conservation on state land and transported to Albany by the Department of Transportation.

Conferees Open Debate On Natural Gas Prices

Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., citing a House staff analysis, said the Senate bill would prove $52 billion more expensive to consumers between now and 1985 than the House-passed measure would. This would mean $125 a vear in added fuel costs for the average family of four that heats with natural gas. Dingell claimed.

But deregulation advocates disputed these figures. They said lifting price controls would actually be less expensive to the U.S. economy than continued regulation because it would result in the production of more gas.

They claimed that new gas cannot be economically produced at the $1.75 per 1,000 cubic foot price envisioned by the Carter bill, and that shortages worse than the ones of last winter would result.

Rep. Clarence Brown, R-Ohio, said that expecting to get new gas supplies with such a price ceiling is ridiculous. "Why don't we just repeal the law of gravity and the stuff will bubble out of the ground?" he asked.

Brown and other House Republicans are aligned with Senate deregulation advocates on the gas issue.

some days, but other days it could be 50 The county will be getting some additional revenue from the jail merger. All arrests made by city police for Class C misdemeanors involving violations of state law will be processed through the county's justice of the peace courts, rather than municipal court.

In 1976, these cases numbered 3,404 and generated nearly $90,000 in fines money the county, instead of the city. will get next year.

However, commissioners already see some possible uses for the new revenue. It will be needed for food, supplies and other non-personnel items for the extra jail inmates, perhaps more clerical help for the JPs, and possibly the creation of a night magistrate.

They hadn't planned on hiring more iail employees

"I don't know why the sheriff didn't tell us earlier that he was going to need some more employees to make this jail merger work." Commissioner Cov Biggs said. "That would have shed a different light on things.

With all the extra personnel we've had to put in the jail the past few months, they should be able to absorb an increase of 10 prisoners a day," Brazell said.

That might even include a face-to-face onference with Carter.

Briscoe said he understood Congress Commissioners was near a compromise on the energy legislation and "it is imperative that any compromise between the Senate and House versions of the natural gas bill recognize the severe economic harm to Texas which would result if the Carter administration's plan is adopted.

"If the president has his way, the federal bureaucracy will be able to exercise dictatorial power over the economic future of this state. I am not ready to concede this will happen. We ought to be moving toward deregulation of energy and not toward more regulation and manipulation by Secretary (of Energy) Schlesinger's massive new 10 billion dollar energy bureaucracy.' Briscoe also said he would talk with

Wade Doubts FBI Choice

DALLAS (AP) - Dallas District Attornev Henry Wade said Friday he appreciated being recommended by a Dallas congressman to replace Clarence Kelley as director of the FBI "but I don't think there's a possibility it will be offered to "I'm happy here and don't think I would take it if it were offered," Wade

In a Thursday letter to Attorney General Griffin Bell, U.S. Rep. Jim Mattox, D-Texas, recommended Wade, his former boss, for the top post in the nation's police force. "Henry Wade is probably the most well known district attorney in the United States," Mattox wrote. The endorsement came three days after Carter's first choice, U.S. District Judge Frank Johnson, withdrew his name because of health reasons. Kelley will step down in February.

"He (Wade) has enjoyed the reputation of not only being the most well known but the most well respected. Henry Wade is a man of perfection," the Mattox letter said. Neither the White House nor the Justice Department had an immediate response to the recommendation. Wade has been the chief prosecutor in Dallas since 1950. During World War II he served as a special agent for the FBI in Baltimore, Boston and New York. He later served in Ecuador. Peru and other Latin American countries as an FBI intelligence officer. Mattox worked as an assistant prosecutor under Wade for three years before running for the Texas Senate. A Mattox spokesman said the freshman congressman did not consult Wade before sending the letter to Bell cember Cairo conference called by Sadat. Waldheim has called for a conference of all involved parties to be held in New York or Vienna after the Cairo preparatory meeting, but Israel expressed disapproval.

Change Hoped Waldheim said in the interview with Kurier. "I believe if Israel does not change its stand the conference which I proposed will not take place ... perhaps the Israelis will change their stand after the meeting in Cairo. - In Washington, former Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban told reporters America should not "inflate the Soviet role" in Mideast talks. He said that if Israel and Egypt trust the United States and do not trust Moscow, "we have absolutely no obligation to give the Soviet Union a degree of confidence that apparently it has not earned in its relations" with Cairo and Jerusalem. Review Developments

The only speakers at the first threehour formal session of the Tripoli meeting were Khadafy, the host, and Arafat. Visibly tired from overnight discussions, they reviewed swift-moving developments in the Arab world since Sadat's trip to Jerusalem Nov. 19-21, a trip seen here as a sellout of the Arab cause. With them at the closed-door conference in the white People's Palace were Presidents Assad of Syria and Houari Boumedienne of Algeria, Abdul Fetah Ismail of South Yemen's ruling party and an Iraqi delegation including Foreign Minister Saadoun Hamadi.

Iraq, which vies with Libya for leadership of the hardline Arab camp, also was prepared to urge economic sanctions against Egypt's ailing economy, the Palestinian sourcees said

Syria Called Key

Syria, the only country here actually on the front lines with Israel, appeared to be the key to any anti-Sadat drive. Assad said last week there could be no real "divorce" between Arab leaders.

The Syrian leader seemed torn at the Tripoli gathering between anger at Sadat's lone initiatives and a desire to avoid any irreparable split with Egypt, the largest Arab country.

Palestinian officials said the Tripoli conference, if it demonstrated there is a unified hardline camp, could force the Saudis to fall in line with the majority. leaving Egypt isolated.

But this depended in large measure on Syria's willingness to join in. Aside from being the only country here to have fought all-out in Arab wars with Israel, Syria musters one of the largest Arab armies and, by its presence in Lebanon, exercises control over the Palestinian guerrilla movement

Gymnasts' Pianist Has Soviet Background

By SYLVIA TEAGUE

Avalanche-Journal Staff At age 58 Peter Feigelman began again with a new country and a new life.

Although some might call him "over the hill," Feigelman left his home in the Soviet Union in February to start over in the United States.

The former colonel in the Soviet armed forces and the former pianist for the Russian gymnastics team, in Lubbock for a National Gymnastic Elite meet, spoke through an interpreter. Dr. Wolodymyr Zyla, a professor of Germanic and Slavic languages at Texas Tech University.

As a young man, Feigelman was in the Soviet military academy "at the time when Stalin was putting all officers of the Soviet Union under repression." Feigelman said "established officers" at the academy were arrested daily without rea-

The arrests taught him a valuable lesson of survival - "to remain quiet and not to say a word. I was educated to obev." he said

When World War II began, Feigelman said he was sent to the front, where he served in positions of command. He was wounded twice and received 15 distinctions and medals and 20 certificates of appreciation for his courage.

After the war he again occupied commanding positions in the service, inside the Soviet Union. But in his seventh year in the armed forces, Feigelman's world exploded.

His father, a professor of medicine, was accused of being an "enemy of the state." Unable to handle the knowledge that he soon would be arrested, his father killed himself

"As a result his family had to suffer, and definitely I suffered too." Feigelman said. "I was excluded from the Communist party and removed from the army 'I definitely had an extremely difficult life.

At age 33, Feigelman had no belongings and no money. "I had to find some place

But each human being has a little bit of good luck," he recalled. And Feigelman's was having attending music school as a youngster.

A friend, "risking the whole situation, accepted me for a job," accompanying the Russian gymnasts on the piano. "It was very difficult at first, coming in death of Stalin, Feigelman said, "and I was working quite successfully. I was very lucky to play with such Olympic Among those he accompanied were Larysa Latinina ("the absolute champion.") Borys Shakhlin, Marija Gorokhovskaja, Nina Bocharova, Ludmila Turishcheva and Olga Korbut. But although he was permitted to be the accompanist he was not allowed to travel out of the country with the team.

"I filled out the documents many times, but it was always turned down." In 1975 Feigelman's daughter decided to move to the United States, primarily "to establish better life conditions for her son," he said. It is "very difficult for a child of Jewish origin" to get a good education in the Soviet Union, and you have to search out ways to get an education.

Feigelman said he immediately gave his permission to his daughter to move, "while most parents in the Soviet Union say no" to their children.

When a Russian citizen applies for a visa to leave the country, "he looks like an enemy of the state," Feigelman said. The person is immediately discharged from work, and "since you must eat, you have to sell some of your belongings," he

Sadat's Peace Trip Raises Americans

NEW YORK (AP) - Americans are more hopeful that peace can be achieved in the Middle East because of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's recent trip to Israel, an Associated Press-NBC News poll

Fifty-five percent of those questioned said Sadat's trip to Israel made peace more likely. Only 5 percent said the trip made peace a more distant prospect, while 31 percent said it had had no effect. The remainder were unsure.

Sadat's performance as a negotiator has earned him a favorable rating from two-thirds of those interviewed - a far more positive mark than Americans gave either President Jimmy Carter or Israel Prime Minister Menahem Begin for their roles in the Middle East.

rated "excellent" or "good" by 45 percent of those interviewed, while 49 percent gave Begin a positive rating.

But half of the respondents described Carter's Middle Eastern negotiations as 'only fair" or "poor" versus a 35 percent negative rating for Begin and a 24 percent negative finding for Sada. For each man, the remainder of the respondents said they were not sure.

Jewish Americans were the most impressed by Sadat's trip, elevating their favorable opinion of his role in seeking peace to equal that given Begin, Eightysix percent of the Jews interviewed rated Sadat's performance in the Middle East excellent or good, while 87 percent rated Begin's role at the same levels.

Three-quarters of Jewish Americans said Sadat's trip made them more favorable to him. 20 percent said their opinion had not changed and 3 percent said they opinion of Sadat had been damaged.

Of all Americans, 55 percent said the trip had made them more favorable toward Sadat, and only 2 percent said it had made them less favorable. Twenty percent said it made no difference in their feelings about Sadat! Three percent said they were not sure, while another 20 percent said they had not heard about it.

Direct negotiations between the parties in the Middle East were favored as the better path to peace by a 54-33 margin over a new Geneva conference invovling the United States and the U.S.S.R. The remaining 13 percent were undecided.

On a general question of U.S. participation in Middle East negotiations, those interviewed were split.

Forty-nine percent said this country should not take part in peace negotiations, while 43 percent said America should participate.

Only 36 percent rated the president's foreign affair's policies favorably, with 56 percent rating his performance negatively. The rest were unsure.

This rating on foreign affairs performance is 5 percentage points above his 31 percent rating found by the NBC News poll conducted in October. Americans' favorable opinions of Carter's foreign affairs performance are now at similar lev-

With this poll, as with every sample survey, the results can vary from the actual views of all Americans because of chance variations in the sample.

For a poll of 1,804 adults, it can be said with 95 percent confidence that inter-riews with all Americans would vary no more than 3 percentage points up or more than 3 percentage points up or down from the results of this poll. The results can vary from other surveys because of differences in wording of questions, timing of the interviews or how the poll was conducted.

AP-NBC News Conduct Poll On Middle East Developments

views with 1,604 adults across the continental United States were the basis for the AP-NBC News poll released Friday. The interviews were conducted on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Telephone numbers were selected for the interviews in a manner that gives every household in the country with a telephone a roughly equal chance of being chosen. One adult in each household was interviewed, with a systematic procedure employed to provide the proper number of male and female respondents. The results of every sample survey can differ from the actual views of all Americans simply because of chance variations in the sample

For a poll of 1,604 adults, the results of the survey can vary from the opinions of all Americans by no more than three percentage points solely due to chance variations in the sample. This error margin is valid at a 95 per cent confidence level.

Of course, the results could vary from other surveys because of differences in wording of questions, timing of the interviews or how the poll was conducted.

Here is the wording of the questions on the Middle East included in the AP-NBC

Meanwhile, governors representing two-thirds of the 50 states issued proclamations honoring Humphrey.

The politicians with show business figurse and other contributors gathered in Washington at a gala dinner to kickoff a $20 million fund raising campaign to found the Hubert H. Humphrey Institute of Public Affairs at the University of Minnesota Invitations were sent by President and Mrs. Carter, Vice President and Mrs. Mondale and all of Humphrey's 99 Senate colleagues.

The President was to attend the dinner and speak briefly.

Organizers of the event said that 3,700 tickets had been sold, 1,200 more than the capacity of the hotel ballroom where dinner was being held. "They chose to donate even though they could not attend." a spokesman said. The campaign so far is aid to have raised more than $4 million.

Meanwhile Minnesota officials announced that the state's private and publschool children will be given the opporfunity to donate "nickels and dimes" to the Humphrey Institute which is envisioned as a center for the study of govern-

"Suzy wants a pair of skates, Mary wants a dolly, Johnny wants...." Remember when childrens' gift lists for Santa Claus were that simple? Well, parents and relatives, hang on to your wallets. Because this Christmas there are more than 150,000 toys available for children to request, according to the federal Consumers Information Center. And, judging by a recent tour of Lubbock toy stores and departments, there is that much variety in gifts this Christmas for the younger South Plains residents. Dolls are not just plain dolls as they were 20 years ago. They now vary not only in size, appearance and gender, but also in motor functions

They range in size from 3/4 inch to life-size, with some of the life-size models large enough to wear infants' clothing.

There are wooden miniature people, rag dolls, and baby dolls. And dolls shaped like curvaceous young ladies.

Contrary to past practices, toy manufacturers are now making dolls for both boys and girls. The dolls for boys are male and the dolls for girls are female, in case parents are considering a purchase.

And there are dolls which can walk, crawl, drink from a bottle, wet a diaper, cry and talk. In fact, some of the dolls imitate a baby so well, they are almost life-like.

If your child already has its quota of dolls, there are hundreds of doll accessories - clothes of every kind and shape, beauty shops, houses and furniture.

If dolls are not on your child's gift list, perhaps stuffed animals are. Again, the

You don't have just the stuffed dogs and cats anymore. You have stuffed tigers, bears, giraffes, turtles, mice, etc.

Sizes range from approximately three inches to larger than life-size. Some of the stuffed animals would be twice the size of their owners.

Perhaps a mechanical toy is what your youngster wants.

There are cows that produce milk, male toys patterned after superhuman TV heroes, and futuristic space warriors patterned after a recent popular movie. Toy stores still stock such old favorites as model cars, ships, and airplanes, games, puzzles, tea sets, children's furniture, trucks, model trains, construction sets, books, records, rocking horses, and hand puppets.

For the child who is requesting wheels, the variety ranges from a plain-bicycle or tricycle to modern and futuristic-designed cycles.

Toys for the older infants include vehicles designed to aid in the crawling or walking process or units to be hung over the crib to teach different hand-eye

Of course, for the child who has everything, there is the miniature pedal-powered golf cart, calculator, or hand-carved rocking giraffe.

Rural Fire Subsidy Proposed

Avalanche-Journal Staff Commissioner Alton Brazell says he will urge his colleagues to continue paying Lubbock County's rural fire departments $275 for each call they make in un-drafting a plan he feels could end the haggling over rural fire service once and

Instead of paying rural fire departments on a per-call basis, Biggs is studying the possibility of giving each smalltown volunteer unit an outright, lumpsum subsidy, based on the number of fire runs made to unincorporated areas in

As Biggs envisions it, the county annually would decide how much it wants to pay for rural fire service. Then this money would be apportioned to the individual departments according to the per-

Capitol Tree Ready Monday

WASHINGTON (AP) - The official Christmas tree at the U.S. Capitol this year will be ready for decoration on

The U.S. Forest Service said Friday that the tree will arrive here Saturday. It is a 50-foot-tall white spruce from the Nemadji State Forest near Nickerson, Minn. It is being provided by the state of Minnesota in cooperation with the Forest Service, an agency of the Agriculture Department. Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland is a native of Minnesota.

The Capitol tree is not the so-called national Christmas tree which is permanently located near the White House dled by each volunteer unit in past years. The problem, however, is in setting this formula. The county has no firm experience statistics on the newest local volunteer fire departments, New Deal and

The others fighting rural fires are Abernathy, Idalou, Slaton, Wolfforth, Shallowater, New Deal.

Brazell likes the formula idea, which was assembled by Biggs and Commissioner Edgar Chance. However, Brazell said the county may have to go at least one more year paying the various rural departments on a per-call basis until some experience records are established.

The county now pays each department $275 for every fire run made outside of the sponsoring city's municipal limits. Commissioners had budgeted $110,000 for fire service payments for 1977, but according to the most recent estimates payments are running well below that

Brazell said the county may end up this year spending only $90,000 to $100,000 on

When the 1978 budget was assembled this past summer, commissioners estimated continuing the $275 payments would cost the county $135,000 next year. Caught in a fiscal squeeze, they decided to pay each department just $200 a call and set aside only $100,000 for next year.

It now appears, however, that even within the budget of $100,000, the county

centage of the county's rural calls han-could keep paying $275 per call, Brazell

"From our experience this past year. I'd be in favor of continuing the $275 figure " he said

All but one of the volunteer fire departments, Roosevelt, have balked at the proposed $200 per-call subsidy. They told commissioners they need at least $300

Participating rural fire departments say they need the fee hike because of increased expenses due to making more and longer distance runs since the City of Lubbock quit making rural calls Oct. 1,

They cited maintenance, wear-and-tear and gasoline costs, plus the possible need for additional, more sophisticated equip-

Brazell said the $275 offer, if the other commissioners go along, could be a compromise for next year.

Commissioners are scheduled to discuss the fire subsidy dispute at their next meeting, Dec. 15.

Dear Ann: In the past four years our only daughter, age 21. has been strung out on drugs. She has run away twice. (The last time to Mexico. We flew down and brought her home when she became seriously ill.)

She has dropped out of school three times, had an abortion and has been sexually promiscuous with three other men.

This week she decided to live openly with a man she met recently. The fellow has never dated a girl before and just spent $3.000 of his savings to pay off her car debt and other overdue bills. (She has a full-time job.)

We did not bring her up to behave this way. She had a happy childhood, Christian upbringing and loving parents. We stopped giving her money so now she is angry and refuses to speak to us.

What happened to the Biblical adage. "Train up a child in the way he should go and he will not depart from it"? We need some counsel. - Battered Parents

Dear Parents: Many children "depart" from the way they were "trained up," and there is no pat explanation.

Peer pressure and an overwhelming need to rebel against authority are just two factors that may account for your daughter's behavior.

My advice to parents who are faced with such problems is this: Investigate the availability of counseling and suggest it. (There are many drug abuse clinics and mental health centers that do a fine job.) If she refuses, drop the matter. Stop giving money or gifts. Let her know the door is open but make no effort to repair the rupture in the relationship. If your daughter is angry, let her stay angry. In other words. let her alone to grow up and shape up, if and when she chooses. it won't be easy. but it's the only way to go.

Dear Ann: How does one collect from house guests who make long-distance telephone calls and take their own sweet time about paying up?

I just managed to collect a sizable sum from a woman who staved with me over the Labor Day weekend. She'll be back

Dear Ann Landers: What can I do about a neighbor who insists on bringing over all the food she wants to dispose of?

I realize she is trying to be nice but I resent her presenting me with leftovers, slightly stale bakery goods and wilted vegetables and fruit.

We are not in need of anything and I have told her so many times, but she refto take no for an answer. Any suggestions? - Not Grateful

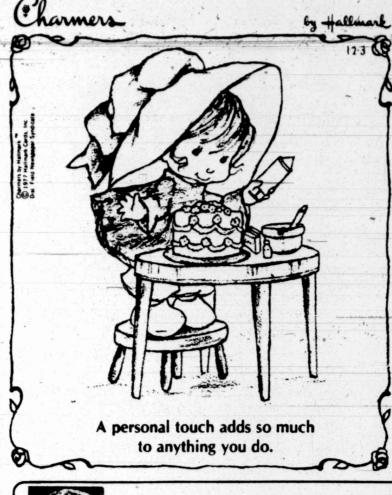

Dear Not: The woman is a compulsive "giver," and you can't do much about her neurosis. Throw out the stale and wilted stuff and give the rest to someone who needs it.

Richaudeau is a jolly, garrulous Frenchman. He runs Chez Camille, one of the best but least pretentious restaurants in a city full of pretentious French restaurants.

Biko Verdict Stirs Strong American Reaction

PRETORIA South Africa (AP) - A magistrate ruled Friday at the end of a 15-day inquest that no proof of criminal responsibility was found in the widely condemned prison death of black leader Steve Biko.

Biko died Sept. 12 in Pretoria Central Prison. An autopsy attributed the death to extensive brain damage.

In pre-dawn raids in Johannesburg's black township of Soweto, security police detained 13 blacks, including Biko's elder brother Khaya and his cousin, Solomon Biko, a family lawyer said. Both Bikos had attended the inquest regularly.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said: "We were shocked by the verdict in the face of compelling evidence, at the least, that Steve Biko was the victim of flagrant neglect and official irresponsibility." He called the new arrests "really shocking."

Assistant Secretary of State Richard Moose said "there was a particular horror about the kind of violence and kind of treatment perpetrated on Biko." He said the founder of the Black Consciousness Movement was a victim of "enormous neglect" and "a lack of apparent concern on the part of authorities.

sparked worldwide protest and new restrictions against blacks in South Africa. These in turn prompted a United Nations arms embargo against the country.

The inquest verdict by Magistrate Marthinus J. Prins, which took three minutes to deliver, brought muted gasps from the some 100 blacks in hearing chamber. Prins declared: "The available evidence does not prove the death was brought about by an act or omission in-The 30-year-old Biko's death Sept. 12 cluding an offense by any person."

Prins, who accepted medical evidence that Biko died from a head injury and extensive brain damage, is scheduled to give written reasons for his verdict in about a week.

Biko's widow, Ntsiki, clad in black, declined any comment as reporters crowded around her after the verdict. Biko family lawyers also refused comment. and attorney Shun Chetty said any interested party could request that a Supreme Court judge review the findings.

"But this does not imply that this is what the Biko family intends to do," said Chetty.

In his brief verdict, following thousands of words of legal argument and intense cross-examination of security policemen, Prins said: "The head injury was probably sustained during the morning of Wednesday, Sept. 7, when the deceased was involved in a struggle with members of the security branch.

appealed Thursday for a firm verdict that Biko died from a physical assault by one or more of the eight security policemen in charge of him on the night of Sept. 6 or the morning of Sept. 7 in the Port Elizabeth central security police offices.

Biko was kept naked for the greater part of his detention and chained hand and foot while in the security police cus-

Kentridge said any verdict exonerating

Deputy Attorney General K. von Lieres, said: "There is no positive evidence to the contrary. During the inquest security police denied beating Biko. Five members of an interrogation squad said Biko went "berserk" on the morning of Sept. 7 when presented with what they claimed was evidence he was a revolutionary, not a man of peace.

They said it took all of them to subdue the 185-pound Biko, and in their testimony some suggested Biko hit his head during the struggle. But none mentioned this in earlier affidavits.

Kentridge maintained Biko was already suffering brain damage Sept. 7 after receiving the fatal injury in the custody of the three-man team overnight.

The night squad all denied assaulting Biko and said they were only guarding the shackled prisoner. Meanwhile, police said a "full investigation" is underway into the death three weeks ago of a black held on a theft charge in Randfontein, 20 miles west of Johannesburg. Officials reported Elliott Salinda, 30, died after bumping his head on a door and then falling backwards into his cell. More than 20 blacks have died in detention in 18 months.

Earlier Friday, Police Minister James T. Kruger told a parade of new recruits that the responsibility of individual officers to uphold "the prestige of the South African police" was great.

Kruger said this is because, besides normal duties, police have to guard the borders against guerrilla infiltration and to fight urban terrorism.

Kruger, who is also minister of justice, declined to comment on the finding of the inquest. "There has been a finding by the magistrate and I have no comment on that," he said

Hitler's Life Poses Problems

Nazi dictator Adolf Hitler came to Germany from Italy, invaded Japan and died before World War II began, according to school compositions of some teen-age U.S. military dependents living in Ger-"Some of the American teen-agers displayed confusion in their compositions about nearly every aspect of Hitler." the U.S. armed forces newspaper Stars and Stripes reported. The Darmstadt-based daily checked through papers written by American junior high and high school students in Hanau, east of Frankfurt, and in West Berlin.

"They were confused about his politics when he lived and even about his nationality," Stars and Stripes reported.

The paper gave these excerpts from compositions written by the students, children of U.S. military personnel stationed in Germany:

'Hitler was some nut that came to Germany. I think he came from Italy (That's what I heard at least.)

"During the war he invaded Japan." "He lived I guess somewhere between 1860-1920. This was just before World War I "Hitler to me was a good man and he tried to do everthing he could for this

The Stars and Stripes added that "one student thought Hitler built the Berlin wall, several thought East Berlin was his domain during his years of power and many thought he was a Communist."

The paper quoted Allen Dale Olson, spokesman for the U.S. overseas dependents school system, as explaining that American schools in Germany do not offer basic or special German history courses. Nonetheless, the Stars and Stripes said students were not completely ignorant of the Austrian-born dictator, who lived from 1889 to 1945 and, like the Japanese, fought the Allies in World War II.

"More than half of the 150 compositions show a general sort of piecemeal

Earlier this year, North German teacher Dieter Bossmann of Flensburg made a similar survey of compositions by about 2,000 German students.

Bossmann, 33, found such observations as "Hitler was our old Fuehrer. He did not allow young people to wear their hair long," or "Hitler was strict with his people and everybody had respect for him The neighbors still wish sometimes that he was back again.

The Stars and Stripes said faulty knowledge about Hitler was not confined to students in Europe It wrote: "One American tells of how his daughter wanted to go to her seventh grade class in New Hampshire decked out like Hitler after the teacher asked them to come dressed like the person in The paper said the man asked his daughter "Why Hitler?" and she replied: Well, they told us in school how he built the superhighways and the Volkswagens and how he rescued Germany from economic depression."

Terrorist Interaction Noted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Growing cooperation among terrorist groups thoughout the world poses an increased threat to civil aviation, the Federal Aviation Administration

The agency said the cooperation is taking the form of mutual training in terrorist tactics and exchange of sophisticated weapons and financial assistance.

"The result is that small terrorist groups are acquiring the resources to undertake more ambitious operations than they have been able to do in the past," the FAA said. The agency detailed its findings in a report to Congress on the civil aviation security

The FAA report said many of these operations could be aimed at aviation, "which long has been a favorite terrorist target because of its high visibility."

It said the terrorist threat to civil aviation is most serious in Europe, the Middle East and South America "where cooperation between the terrorist groups has reached the highest level.

The FAA cited the Oct. 13 hijacking of a West German Lufthansa airliner to Mogadishu, Somalia.

Three of the hijackers were of Middle Eastern origin while the fourth was European," it said. "They demanded the release of two different terrorist groups being held in West Germany and Turkey."

The pilot of the jetliner was shot to death by the terrorists. But the remaining hostages were rescued and three of the hijackers were killed by a special force of German troops which stormed the plane. The report said the United States is not immune to terrorist attacks. It noted that the Fort Lauderdale, Fla., office of Mackey Airlines was bombed last May 25, after it said it was considering resuming scheduled flights to Cuba. An organization opposed to Cuban President Fidel Castro took credit for the bombing. The FAA said that during the first six months of 1977 there were a total of 33 criminal attacks against aviation around the world, resulting in 14 deaths and 42 injuries. One of the deaths occurred April 23 at Washington National Airport when a bomb in a toolbox exploded, killing an airport employee. The criminal acts included 17 hijacking attempts involving 16 airliners and one pri-

HOUSTON (UPI) - Enrique Granados hopes to be home for Christmas, even if it will be a Mexican prison

Granados, 41, a former Juarez school teacher, is one of 12 Mexican nationals serving time in Texas prisons to particepate in the U.S .-Mexico prisoner-exchange treaty.

Granados said after his hearing before U.S. Magistrate Ron G. Blask he wanted to serve his 20year burglary sentence in Mexico so he can be closer to his wife and two children.

He is now serving time in Huntsville, Texas, and his family cannot afford the 800-mile trip just for a two-hour visit. Mexican prisons permit conjugal visits; Texas pris-

Although many Americans com-plain about squalor in Mexican prisons, Granados has no love for his Texas prison experience.

"TDC (Texas Department of Corrections) is a pretty rough joint. It is run by fear and brutality. You are not men, you are robots." he said.

"It will be better there (in Mexico) because I'll have my own identity, my own mind," said Granados, the only one of the 12 who spoke English. "Right now I haven't been my own self in three years.

Mexican Consul Ramon Meade of Houston convinced Granados and the others of the seriousness of

For Hernandez, who must yet appear at an immigration hearing Dec. 14, one of the conditions of the out-of-country pardon is that he never again come to the United States illegally.

Hernandez was up for parole, officials said.

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - Nancy Ferry ment on Tuesday, at the request of a con-Schofield, whose body was found stuffed into a refrigerator here this week, tried earlier this year to have her husband committed to the San Antonio State Hospital, a mental health officer said Friday.

Mrs. Schofield, 53, visited the Bexar County Mental Health Office earlier this year to discuss the matter, said Bob Pugh, the county mental health officer

Arizona Jailers Seek Advice From Texans

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) - Texas officials, at the request of the State of Arizona, are sending two prison administrators to help Arizona solve problems plaguing its prison system.

Arizona officials sought aid after John Moran was fired recently as director of the state's department of corrections. Ron Taylor, administrative assistant to the director of the Texas Department of Corrections, and Jack Kyle, assistant director for business at TDC, will go to Arizona Monday "At this point we know only superficial things about their problems. There is violence in their institutions. Their escape rate is high and we know they are under a very severe court order to reduce overcrowding," Taylor said.

Taylor and Kyle will become Arizona employees for 90 days. As of Monday they will be temporarily off the Texas payroll.

Arizona's largest prison facility is at Florence where 2,000 adult offenders are housed. The Texas prison system includes 21.814 inmates in several units.

We have no intention of creating a Texas Department of Corrections in Arizona," Taylor said. 'We want to help Arizona develop its own plan."

He added that exchange programs between states have been used before.

"There have been times in the past when people from our department have gone to offer aid and advice in other states. And others have come here and helped us with new ideas," he said.

We like to think we are asked to help because of our reputation. We like to think we have a good system, a safe and humane system that satisfies the public demands," he said.

Police To Discourage Future Applicants

HOUSTON (AP) - Houston police, unhappy over the size of a pay hike, plan to use newspaper advertisements to discourage prospective applicants for the city's police academy.

The city council on Wednesday authorized a 9 percent pay increase for the 2,863 policemen. The Police Officers Association originally had asked for a 14.1 percent raise but later cut the request to 10.5 percent.

Detective R. C. Rich, association president, said Friday the group voted to use the newspaper advertisements to express disappointment over the council action.

A letter sent to all member officers said the advertisments will run "on a continuing basis pointing out that a career with the Houston Police Department may not be desirable in view of the attitude displayed by Mayor (Fred) Hofheinz and the City Council over the past four years."

Hofheinz voted against the 9 percent increase, having recommended a 7 percent hike on grounds a higher figure could force a property tax increase.

The council vote was taken after Counilman Jim Westmoreland said Mayorelect Jim McConn had indicated the 9 percent increase could be handled without a tax increase.

Henry Kriegel, city controller, said Thursday granting pay increases amounting to more than $20 million a year makes a tax increase next year a virtual certainty. The council also authorized a 9 percent increase for 2,184 firemen and increases averaging 9 per cent for the 14,-500 employes in other city departments.

Kriegel said the only apparent alternative to a tax increase would be a reduction in the number of city employes. He doubted that personnel would be reduced in that many employes are protected by City Civil Service.

Rich said the decision to purchase the advertisements was almost unanimous among about 100 officers attending a Thursday night meeting.

They expect us to work at less than the cost of living," Rich said of the council's action. "We've tried to convince them but now we want to explain our situation to the public.

Lester Tyre, president of Firefighters Local 341, said discouraging recruitment to protest the amount of the pay increase.

Another alternative, he said, is negotiating with the new mayor.

McConn said he regretted to hear about the police association's vote. "I thought the 9 percent raise was an equitable one," McConn said. "I don't know how much more they could have expected. Police Chief Harry Caldwell said he wanted to see the advertisements and assess their impact on recruiting before commenting. Caldwell said, however, there had been "a great deal of frustration" among police personnel over failure to receive what they considered to be a reasonable pay

Prisoner Held Without Cause

DALLAS (UPI) - Jail officials Friday blamed a "clerical error" for the threemonth imprisonment in county jail of a man who was arrested on two minor traffic offenses.

Norman Brown, a 34-year-old unemployed laborer, "officially" was released from county jail custody Wednesday.

However, Brown has been in serious condition at Parkland Hospital since Nov. 19. Hospital officials said the man apparently contacted pneumonia while in

I honestly believe it was a clerical error," jail director Bob Collins said. "No one intentionally meant to keep him in jail. We are investigating how it occurred. We don't want it to occur again."

Brown was arrested July 15 by Dallas police on two traffic offenses - driving on the wrong side of the street and driving without a license - and for investigation of car theft. He was transferred to

According to Collins, the error occurred when Brown's name was routinely run through the county jail computer.

The computer indicated a "hold" had been placed on Brown by the Dallas police, apparently because of the old car theft charge. That charge, however, had

AHA Ambassador Visits City

The Arlington resident has been involved in gymnastics about four years. She recently performed routines before the affiliate's state board of directors during a meeting in Fort Worth, where she was named the organization's youth Valentine, a World Cup gymnastics ambassador

Mrs. Burkholder said that every state has a youth ambassador to represent the affiliate. The youth ambassadors are named to assist the affiliates in communicating with young people about their physical health and heart disease.

Miss Lee, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Lee of El Paso, is now living in Arlington and training with Bill coach. She trains four to five hours daily 50 weeks of the year.

Valentine said the competition in Lubbock's Memorial Civic Center was Miss Lee's second elite meet. He added that she had competed before with young people her own age in meets before.

The Arlington gymnastics coach said the sport is becoming more well-known throughout the United States, with approximately 450,000 children now partici-

He added that each gymnast trains toward a dream, such as making the U.S. Olympic or World Cup teams, but they work on one meet at a time, concentrating on winning the present competition.

Miss Lee, 13, said she began her career in gymnastics because she always wanted to fly as a child. She related that she was always jumping off a piano onto the living room couch as a child, so her mother enrolled her in a gymnastic class to save the furniture.

Rock Guitarist To Stand Trial

TORONTO (UPI) - Keith Richard, rythmn guitarist for the Rolling Stones, Friday was ordered to stand trial on heroin and cocaine charges that could send him to prison for life.

Judge H.A. Rice, who presided over the preliminary hearing, rejected the arguments of Richard's lawyer that the founding member of the British rock group had no intention of trafficking in heroin, which carries a maximum life sentence:

He continued Richard's $25,000 cash bail, and ordered him to reappear Feb. 6 to have a date set for trial. Richard pleaded not guilty at the outset of the hearing and his Toronto attorney, Austin Cooper, requested a jury trial.

Richard, 33, who sat silently during the six-hour hearing in a neat, navy-blue suit

Cooper told the court Richard was "an extremely successful, internationally renowned and fabulously wealthy rock star," who did not deal in heroin, but who had a heavy habit for which he had been receiving treatment since 1972.

As evidence of Richard's wealth, Cooper introduced a banker's affidavit showing Richard had spent $875,000 in the past three years on personal living expen-

However, Judge Rice said there was enough evidence to convince a jury Richard may have given away some of the heroin to Anita Pallenberg, 34, his common-law wife. Under Canadian law, trafficking is defined as giving, transmitting, delivering and administering, as well as

The charges followed a Royal Canadian Mounted Police raid on the hotel room occupied by Richard, Miss Pallenberg and their son Marlon, 8

Miss Pallenberg had been charged at Toronto airport several days earlier with possession of hashish. She later pleaded guilty to possession of hashish and a small quantity of heroin, and was fined

RCMP officers William Seward and Andrew Hachinsci testified said they searched Richard's hotel room while the millionaire musician lay sleeping.

Utah Speeders Given Warning

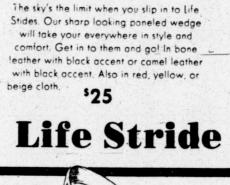

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) - If you work for the state and you want to find a surefire way to meet the governor, why not try for three speeding tickets?

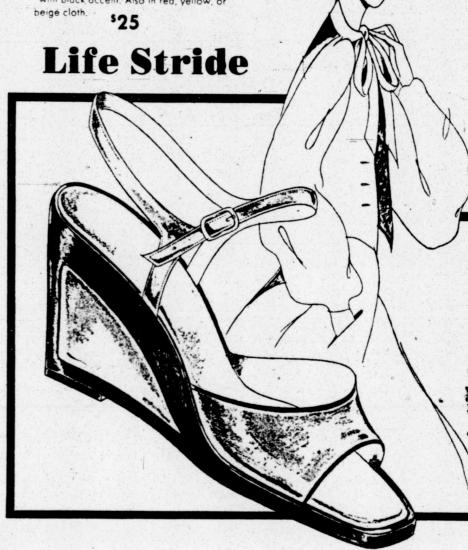

On the third violation, state employees will have a face-to-face chat with Gov. Scott Matheson, the governor's office announced Thursday

Last week, Matheson quietly circulated a memo to all state agencies that he "will not tolerate" employees driving over the 55-mph limit.

He said his office has been getting more complaints about state-owned cars exceeding the speed limit. "State employees must be even more conscious of the law so as to set an example for all to follow," Matheson said.

The Military District of Washington, which is controlled by the Army and has jurisdiction over White House ceremonies, said Friday it is reconsidering its policy of barring women from participating in honor guard ceremonies in the Washington

A decision will be reached by Jan. 31, an Army spokesman

Army officials say women have been excluded because honor guardsmen have been chosen from combat units and women are forbidden by law from combat roles.

But an Army official indicated that height also plays a part in the decision.

The policy of excluding women was challenged by five female members of the Air Force honor guard, who wrote to Mrs. Carter last summer, asking to participate in the White House honor

Sources said the five women who wrote to Mrs. Carter are: Senior Airman Margaret R. Jones; Senior Airman Teresa M. Brown; Airman First Class Cindi Seldwisch; Senior Airman Elizabeth K. Root; Sgt. Madelyn A. Ritz. The sixth female member of the Air Force's 135 person honor guard is Airman Mildred G. Cox.

When first questioned about the letter, one of Mrs. Carter's staffers said the first lady's office had no record of receiving the

But Mrs. Carter issued a statement Friday supporting the participation of women in the White House honor guard.

"I certainly support the military women who wish to partici-pate in White House ceremonies," she said. "I think any fullyqualified member of the Air Force honor guard - man or womshould have a chance to be a part of our official activities. We already have both men and women in the White House Executive Protective Service and as social aides. I am pleas that current policy about the honor guards will be reviewed and considered before January 31." The reasons for barring women from the joint service honor guard were entangled after the Air Force women received a let-ter last August from Army Brig. Gen. Donald W. Connelly. Sources quoted Connelly's letter as saying the women couldn't be in the White House honor guard because they didn't meet

"It is considered appropriate for members of the guard formations to be of a relatively standard it sources quoted the letter as saying. "The range of 5 is to 6 feet 2 inches has been established."

The reason, the letter reportedly said, was to premified military appearing formation."

The Air Force "has found it difficult to recruit we height range," the letter said according to sources. Army spokesman Capt. Former Aide Claims Hughes Only Interested In Profits

Hughes had no interest in running Hughes Tool Co., the basis of his vast fortune, preferring instead to play golf and make films, former aide Noah Dietrich testified Friday in a trial to determine the validity of a purported Hughes will.

"His only interest was in the profit produced," said Dietrich, 89, who is named executor of the Hughes estate in the document known as the Mormon will.

Hughes' relatives, who are not named in the document, say it is a forgery. They say the relationship between Dietrich and Hughes was strained in 1968 - the date on the will - and that Hughes never would have named Dietrich executor.

Dietrich was the first witness in the Clark County District Court trial to determine whether the will really was written by Hughes. He told the jury of eight that when Hughes hired him in 1925 he told Dietrich, "I want you to make me the world's richest man."

He said the eccentric multi-millionaire was not concerned with the workings of Hughes Tool Co. and gave Dietrich his blessing and confidence in running the Hughes often referred to the company's board of directors as "those stooges in Houston," Dietrich testified.

The company's wealth was based on its production of a drilling bit widely used by oil companies.

Dietrich said he eventually became the effective operational head of Hughes Tool Co. because Hughes was busy producing films and playing golf. "He wanted to be the world's best golfer, the world's best aviator, and the world's best movie producer," Dietrich said.

While Dietrich was making money with the company, he testified, Hughes was losing money on film ventures in Holly-

Man Belatedly Begins Prison Term After Call To Forgetful Officials

TALLAHASSEE (AP) - Tom Sheff went to prison Friday on a drug conviction that was forgotten by authorities until the Vietnam War hero reminded them that he faced

Sheriff Ken Katsaris led him away. The sheriff later conceded that Sheff, now a 31-year-old Dothan, Ala., flying instructor and businessman, probably would have avoided the prison term if he hadn't reminded authorities that he should have started serving his sentence nearly

"I'm not sure how it got to this point," the sheriff said. "It might have caught up with him, but if he'd lived a straight life he might have gotten away. I think he did the

Sheff marched off clutching three books for jailhouse reading. One of them explained natural chidbirth. Mrs. Sheff is seven months pregnant and the couple decided to get Sheff's prison term out of the way now

Sheff was convicted of possessing about 40 pounds of marijuana in 1973, shortly before he graduated from Troy State University in Alabama. He said his crime was due to the emotionally scarred aftermath of his tour as a helicopter pilot in Vietnam where he won the Distinguished Flying Cross

Sheff was out on $25,000 bond during an appeal that was rejected in 1976. His attorney at the time said he would seek a reduced sentence but admits now he never brought it to the judge's attention.

"We had an indication that the judge was not going to grant it anyway," said the lawyer, Frank Graham. "We just decided to abandon it. Legally, that was the end of

No appeal could be filed with the court now because the time limit has expired. Any reduction in the term would have to come by action of the state parole board.

Under state law, all offenders serving sentences of less than five years must be interviewed for parole during their first six months.

AUSTIN - Atty. Gen. John Hill has filed suit in Travis County District Court asking that the surety company that posted bond for Draughon's Business College in Lubbock pay $297,000 to the state.

American Indemnity Co. Inc. of Galveston was liable for the tuition refunds to students of 11 proprietary schools when a Bexar County district court entered a judgment against the bonding company, Hill contends.

The schools formerly were owned by Carl D. Wehling.

Low Unemployment A-J Correspondent

CHILDRESS - Unemployment figures in Childress County dropped recently to the lowest level in about a year, accordig to local officials.

Bueford Scarbrough, manager of the Texas Employment Commission office here, said the unemployment rate is now 1.9 percent here, down from 2.5 percent in the last reporting period.

Scarbrough attributed the improved figures to seasonal harvest activity, increased construction and additional industrial hiring.

The labor force of the county was reported at 3,287 with 3,226 persons working and 61 unemployed.

Scarbrough said the Childress district's best employment rate continues to be in King County, where the percentage is holding steady at 1.2. Only three persons there from a labor force of 242 are un-

Administration Ponders Steel Industry Relief

WASHINGTON (AP) - Administra-tion officials hinted Friday that President Carter is on the verge of ordering strong steps designed to revive the nation's steel industry, including a minimum price guideline for now-cheaper imported steel.

Labor Secretary Ray Marshall told a United Steelworkers gathering that Carter likely will announce his plan within a week and, when he does, "I think you will understand how seriously this administration takes the problem.

"The main priority is to protect American industry from unfair competition," Marshall said

Anthony Solomon, an undersecretary of the treasury and head of a task force on the steel problem, acknowledged that he has sent several recommendations to Carter. He declined to spell out terms, but said "efforts to insure prompt and adequate relief from unfair pricing must be the central element of our response.

Union officials, meanwhile, talked excitedly about steps outlined in an earlier memorandum sent to the White House by Solomon and subsequently obtained by the news media.

The memorandum, which Solomon declined to discuss on ground it was confidential and not necessarily compatible with his final report, called for a system of "triggering prices" on steel imports aimed at reducing the overall import level to about 14 per cent - or less - of domestic consumption. The figure

Required Size Of Labels Criticized

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Saccharin warning labels might be so big they would cover the front of some products, food industry representatives said Fri-

General Foods told a Food and Drug Administration hearing its proposed regulations could result in a warning label that would spill over the entire face of some packages

'The whole front panel would have to be redesigned at tremendous cost, most of which would be born by the consumer," a lawyer for the company told the

He and others objected to an FDA proposal published last month requiring the new saccharin warning statement to appear by Feb. 21 in a type size at least half as big as the description of the product which usually comes right after or beneath the brand name.

In no case, the FDA has proposed, should be warning be in a type size smaller than one-sixteenth of an inch.

The warning statement is required by a law signed last week by Fresident Carter which delays for 18 months the FDA's proposed ban on saccharin as a possible cancer risk.

The warning will state:

"Use of this product may be hazardous to your health. This product contains saccharin which has been determined to cause cancer in laboratory animals." Congress did not specify how big the type should be or where on the packages or bottles it should be placed. Friday's hearing was to answer those questions. A representative of Reed Candy Co.,

Chicago, which makes chewing gum with saccharin, said, "We have a very serious problem in labeling these pieces of gum" because of the type size requirement

FDA officials said they had the question of type size under review.

The National Soft Drink Association, which represents companies selling more than 90 percent of the soda pop bought in the United States, said it would like to put the warning label on bottle caps. But FDA officials rejected that idea.

The group also said vending machines posed a problem

now is 20 per cent The triggering price would set off antidumping actions by the government on any import products sold at less than 5 per cent below the costs of the most efficient international producers, the Japanese. Dumping, simply, is the practice of selling imports at far below cost, usually to capture a market for surplus goods and at the expense of domestic producers who cannot match the price.

Current anti-dumping law already entitles the government to assess special duties against such imports, but complaints are now handled on a case-by-case basis when filed by domestic industries. The so-called triggering price system would enable the government to move more The Solomon memo also outlined steps which could bend existing merger and anti-pollution policies to help domestic steel producers get back on their feet. Some tax breaks, loan guarantees, and even government help for workers who want to take over abandoned steel facilities are other possibilities mentioned in

The anti-dumping measures, both industry and government officials said, could raise domestic steel earnings by $900 million and save about 24,000 jobs that would be lost if importers are allowed to sell at their current pace.

Domestic steel production has dropped from 85 to 81 per cent of capacity in recent years, and thousands of workers have been laid off, particularly at plants in Ohio and Pennsylvania. The Youngstown, Ohio, area has been severely hit.

Steelworkers President Lloyd McBride told the 500 members attending the conference that he believes the government "is finally heeding our pleas..." and added that "there can be no question about the seriousness of the problem. Unless we stop unfair competition against our jobs, our industry will go the same way of the camera industry, the shoe industry and the television makers." Japanese and European steel can be sold at cut rates in the United States partly because their industries are subsidized as a means of fighting unemployment.

Los Angeles Haunted By Fear throughs," according to Cmdr. William

Lt. Edwin Henderson, head of the 42man Hillside Strangler Task Force, revealed that a woman who witnessed the abduction of the latest victim - Laura Rae Wagner, 18 - was hypnotized last Wednesday night by a police expert.

Henderson refused to divulge the nature of the information obtained from the witness, but said it was helpful and was being checked out.

Neighbors said they saw two men force Miss Wagner out of her car only doors away from her Sepulveda home, then take her into their own car and drive off. Her body was found the following day about 30 miles away in the Glassell Park area.

The bodies of 13 young women and girls have been found in the Los Angeles metropolitan area during the past two months, but police have linked only 10 of the slayings because of their similarities. The victims, ranging in age from 12 to 28, were found nude, most sexually molested, abandoned in isolated areas besides roads, and all strangled. Rewards totaling $115,000 have been

In Santa Monica, police have posted a 20 inch-by-24 inch poster at an intersection where one of the victims, Kathleen Robinson, 17, was last seen alive while apparently hitchhiking to her home.

The sign reads: "Help me ... I was last seen alive at Pico Boulevard and Ocean Avenue on Wednesday, Nov. 16 at 9

Police hope the poster, which includes a photo of the girl, might turn up witnesses who may have seen her get into a car But some appeared unaffected by the series of murders.

Standing on the street corner at Figueroa thumbing a ride were a girl who calls herself Pat and said she was 23 and another 15-year-old named Teri

By MARK SHWARTZ

Pacific New Service WASHINGTON - Advocates of decriminalizing heroin received a powerful shot in the arm from the White House recently when President Carter authorized a federal panel to oversee research into the medicinal uses of heroin and mari-

Such studies have been stifled in the U.S. for over half a century because of the political controversy surrounding these drugs, says Dr. Peter Bourne, President Carter's special assistant on health

But now Bourne has received the full backing of the President to loosen federal restrictions on researchers wanting to explore the potential use of the two drugs - heroin to kill pain and marijuana to reduce nausea - in treating terminally ill

Considered one of the most powerful analgesics known to science, heroin is used in Great Britain and other countries to help dying patients alleviate pain. British physicians also administer it as a cough suppressor for people with incurable lung cancer.

Some British hospitals give heroin oral-to the terminally ill in the form of 'Brompton's cocktail's - a mixture of heroin, cocaine, syrup flavoring and other ingredients. The "cocktail" is also gainging popularity in U.S. hospitals, but in this country morphine is used in the drink instead of heroin.

Although morphine, codeine and other narcotics are widely used as pain killers in the U.S., diacetyl-morphine - the chemical name for heroin - is deemed unsafe even under medical supervision.

"Heroin is believed to be two to five times more powerful than morphine,' says Professor Arnold Trebach, who heads the Committee on Treatment of Intractable Pain, a recently formed group that has lobbied for the patient's right to receive heroin if suffering from a painful disease, injury or burn. "And," Trebach adds, "there seems to be no doubt that heroin induces less nausea and allows more freedom of mobility than mor-

Among the committee's advisors is the widow of conservative columnist Stewart

Alsop, who died recently of cancer. Trebach — professor of justice at the American University in Washington, D.C. - is quick to point out that his organization has nothing to do with the movement to legalize laetrile.

"Our committee deals with the issue of care, not cure," he says.

Pain Of Terminally III "Pain is an obscenity," contends Trebach, who lost his wife to cancer a year ago. "I honestly believe there is no need for a person to be in severe pain when terminally ill." Although he praised the Carter Administration as "the most enlightened on this issue in history," Trebach said his committee plans to bring suit against the federal government to make heroin immediately available for medicinal use. "The only people who can't get heroin are people who are dying," charges the Rt. Rev. C. Edward Crowther, assistant bishop for the Episcopal diocese of California and another advisor to the Committee on Treatment. "I am not suggesting that heroin be legalized for everybody; only for people with terminal illnesses," he adds. "The question of addiction is irrelevant when you are dealing with dying patients."

Other committee members, however, are hopeful that President Carter's decision will open the door to research on the decriminalization of heroin for the care of drug addicts. Available To Doctors "Although the treatment of intractable pain is a completely different issue," says committee director Trebach, "I am personally in favor of making heroin available to doctors who then may make the choice to use it for addicts."

Trebach has conducted extensive studies of Britain's liberal narcotics policy that allows government-run clinics to provide low-cost heroin to several dozen registered addicts. He describes the British program as a s"damn good system." But some U.S. opponents of heroin maintenance claim the British have failed to stem the tide of heroin addiction now sweeping Western Europe.

Others argue that the U.S. government should not adopt the role of the pusher.

Those favoring a British-type heroin policy predict that legalization would actually reduce America's spiraling crime rate. If the drug were passed out free, they contend, addicts would not have to steal or engage in illicit activities to pay for their $100-a-day habits.

The surprise announcement by the White House to promote heroin research came on the heels of mounting pressure from some drug abuse workers and civic leaders who believe heroin maintenance could help cure this country's addict population, now estimated at well over 500,-

Within the last several months, for example, the Ohio House of Representatives passed a bill authorizing an experimental heroin maintenance program there; and in California the state bar association has recommended a legislative study of such a project.

Seen As Demonic Drug

'The most damaging thing about heroin is that people see it as the most de-monic of drugs," says Dr. Norman Zinberg, professor of psychiatry at Harvard Medical School and senior consultant to the privately funded Drug Abuse Council in Washington, D.C.

"If heroin were de-mythologized it would be of enormous value," Zinberg adds. "Although heroin maintenance would be very difficult to implement in this country, I would certainly like to play a few games with a small-scale maintenance experiment. Presidential health advisor Bourne says he is willing to consider such a controlled experiment, although he recently told a group of drug experts that Jimmy Carter has rejected heroin maintenance as a "defeatist strategy."

Meanwhile, Dr. Bourne, along with Arthur Upton of the National Cancer Institute and Robert Butler of the National Institute on Aging, are creating a special panel within the National Institute of Health to assist researchers trying to get contracts to study heroin and other illicit Such research is already planned at New York's Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, which expects to receive over $1 million during a five-year period from the National Institute of Drug Abuse.

'What Dr. Bourne wants to do," says his White House press aide Ellen Metsky, "is to see that we expand our research of drugs we haven't studied before.

"Studying the use of heroin for addicts may be down the road somewhere," Metsky adds. "But right now we are just concerned with cancer patients."

says high costs probably will prevent construction of space colonies in the future.

Dr. Jib Fowles, a University of Houston specialist in the future studies, also said a space colony would be anything but the free, utopian society many people wish to imagine. Fowles added that space life would resemble the "confining, intolerant society contemporary life has evolved away from."

Speaking at an extraterrestrial community design session at the American Anthropological Association convention, Fowles indicated the odds for a space colony ever being built are rather low.

He said cost estimates as high as $100 billion may go even higher.

And, he added, man's limited experience in space has not proved it is physiologically possible for humans to live in space for long periods. "Space is inhospitable," he said.

Fowles said the Skylab 4 crew that spent 84 days in space kept their good health, generally speaking, but saw their red blood cell mass decline and suffered an alarming drop in their calcium level as well as smaller losses of nitrogen and phosphorous.

"These losses supposedly resulted from the lack of gravity and could be halted through the artificial gravity of larger rotating installations," Fowles said.

"But such problems do remind us that life away from gravity and in the midst of several forms of radiation is not free of danger.'

Fowles also said space colony life would have to be more regimented than existence on Earth because the margins for error in space are not as wide.

'Earthlings do not have to worry quite so much about the consequences of a valve left open or a duty unfulfilled," he said.

"Humanity has never been so dominated by technology as it vould be in space. It is not an enlargement of personal freedom space colonies can offer humans, it is a diminishment.

Kissinger Optimistic About Peace

WASHINGTON (AP) - Former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, optimistic about prospects for peace in the Middle East, said Friday that he "would leave it up to the parties " to work out a settle-

"They don't need instructions from us,," Kissinger said of the Israeli-Egyptain negotiations in Cairo later this month. "Our aim is to let the parties make progress.'

After calling on his successor, Secretary of State Cyrus R.Vance, Kissinger told reporters the United States still has a role to play in "giving strong support to the negotiations.

But he said the role was not as essential as it had been before Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's diplomatic initative.

"We are supporting that process, any-one who is interested can join and I think that's the right way to do it," Kissinger said.

The Soviet decision to boycott the talks did not disturb Kissinger.

"I certainly did not complain to the secretary of state about the fact that the Soviets would not be in Cairo," he said with a smile.

Kissinger, the principle U.S. mediator in the Middle East during the Nixon and Ford administrations, said that if "a realistic possiblity for peace develops, Syrian President Hafez Assad will join it. But he said he did not think Syria would change its mind about boycotting the talks in Cairo. Kissinger praised Sadat for "a very great initiative" in opening direct negotiations with Israel.

He also said he would be in favor of a separate Israeli-Egyptian agreement as a result of the Cairo meeting although he would prefer a comprehensive agree-ment involving other Arab countries as

Toxic Fumes Make Breathing Dangerous In 'Cancer Valley'

By JEAN CALLAHAN
Pacific News Service

BELLE, W.Va.— It is called "Cancer Valley," and it has earned its nickname. Situated in this steep valley within 10 miles of Charleston, W.Va., are seven large chemical plants and several smaller ones, manufacturing hundreds of different products. The combined impact of their emissions (in a valley subject to frequent temperature inversions) is to create an alphabet soup of toxic compounds in the air.

People who live in Cancer Valley — formally known as Kanawha Valley — say the air is thick with chemicals, and they complain of bronchial pains, chronic coughing, vomiting and shortness of breath

The National Cancer Institute reports that the Kanawha Valley has one of the highest incidences of lung cancer, kidney cancer and leukemia in the U.S. There are disproportionately high rates of throat cancer, face cancer and an extremely rare form of eye cancer.

The National Center for Disease Control reports that a high rate of birth defects of the central nervous system in Kanawha Valley may be related to pollution from the chemical plants, which include Union Carbide, American Viscose, Montsanto, FMC, Diamond Alkali, Allied Chemical and DuPont.

128 Different Chemicals
Kanawha valley plants emit over 128 different chemical compounds. Thirtynine of these are rated highly toxic by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), 12 are known or suspected to be carcinogens (cancer-causing), 29 act as irritants, four have been found to induce gene mutations and one has been linked to birth defects.

Ed Light, a scientist who works for the West Virginia Citizens Action Group in Charleston, recently published a report listing known health hazards for almost 200 chemicals emitted by the plants. Light says even this list is conservative, because "it is so difficult to relate a specific human cancer case to any one environmental factor. The disease may not occur until up to 30 years after the initial exposure."

Kanawha Valley, which runs about a mile wide and 76 miles along West Virginia's Kanawaha River, is home to nearly a quarter million people. Some are coal miners and small truck farmers, but almost half the valley residents work in the chemical plants.

Workers Mostly Unorganized
The workers are mostly unorganized.
Since the 1940s when union organizing led to violence, there has been little labor activity here. Most workers say they fear a tight economy more than health hazards; for many, the risk must be taken in order to work.

Last year, congressional hearings looked into the high-level emissions of nitrosamines (the most deadly familu of carcinogens) in Cancer Valley. The West-sion also expressed concern about hazardous chemical emissions there.

But despite their potentially lethal nature, there is virtually no government regulation of these emissions. And no federal investigation and no amount of local concern has had much impact yet on life in Kanawha Valley.

Earl McCune, 45, has worked at the DuPont plant here in Belle, in the heart of Kanawha Valley, since he graduated from high school. At last year's congressional hearings. McCune documented the cases of 54 of his co-workers who had developed cancer from 1972 to 1976. Over half of the men on McCune's list had also died in that period.

- McCune described lax safety procedures and criticized DuPont's medical records system. He also testified that DuPont's 1,600 workers at the Belle plant had only one source drinking water: a pipe bringing in water from the Kanawha River just 500 feet from where DuPont dumped chemical wastes from the plant.

Louis Gross, another DuPont worker, testified that he had contracted eye cancer, had his eye and half his face removed in surgery and was undergoing chemotherapy and was unable to work. Gross told the congressional panel how he lived on $90 a week disability retirement, paying most of his medical bills because DuPont had appealed a favorable ruling he received from the West Virginis

Workmen's Compensation Board.
At the hearings, Joseph Finklea, director of the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH), promised to study the cancer cases at the Belle plant. In February, DuPont refused NIOSH access to medical personnel records; NIOSH is currently suing for right to access.

Since last year's congressional hearings and Finklea's promise, there have been at least 15 cases of cancer reported at the

But chemical workers are not the only Kanawha Valley residents with health problems that may be related to the plant emissions.

Don Wilson, a 40-year-old high school teacher in South Charleston, recently formed a group called SURVIVAL to organize Valley residents to protect their health. Wilson had become concerned about the high rate of absenteeism at Stonewall Jackson High School where he teaches.

Wilson, his wife, his 17-year-old son and his 12-year-old daughter have all suffered from bronchial problems since 1974. A year ago, his daughter's problems were finally diagnosed as chlorine bronchitis. Q. It

A. Many brokers won't handle lowpriced stocks at all. Some will. If you write to the Investors' Service Bureau, N.Y. Stock Exchange, 11 Wall St., New York City 10005, it will send you a list of brokers in your area with their limitations on accounts, individual issues, and other data which will help you.

I'm not going to argue one way or the other on $2 stocks. A man of 35 is in a position to try whatever he wants to try. There are periods of stock market (or Wall Street) frenzy when $2 stocks are 'hot." There are other periods -and they can stretch out to years -when a $2 stock won't move as much as a quarter point either way. There were periods in the 60s when just getting on an underwriting brokers's new issues list for $2 and $3 stocks proved better than working for a living. There has been almost a complete absence of these flotations in recent years. And the market for outstanding low-priced issues hasn't been any more exciting than those for blue chips.

To sum up: There's no reason you can't trade "cats and dogs." I don't think, however, that you must make $10,000 bets. How about $1,000 as a starter? Or even Suggests Buying Live Christmas Tree

By ELVIN McDONALD

In my early years, the only Christmas trees around our house were hand me downs I dragged home after the neighbors finished with them. My parents weren't cheap, they were just poor, and on the barren plains of western Oklahoma you don't just go out to the woods and chop down the shapliest young evergreen

Besides, as my mother pointed out, Santa always made deliveries to our house on Christmas Eve the same as to the more prosperous farms around us. What really bothered me was the fact that I could not get any of the cast - off trees I brought home to root.

In time, I got sophisticated enough as a gardener to know that I was attempting the impossible, but even now I find it a bittersweet experience to decorate a cut Christmas tree, smelling the fragrant freshness of the forest and knowing all the while that the tree will soon be life-

One alternative is a living tree with a balled — and — burlappped root system.

Another is an artificial tree, but not in my house - our Santa has an aversion to fake plants.

Before I discuss living Christmas trees, want to clarify what I said about cut trees. The vast majority of those sold today are carefully cultivated on tree plantations as a crop to be harvested annually, like wheat or corn. The soil is tilled and enriched; the trees are pruned and protected form insect and disease damage. In other words, there is nothing ecologically wrong with cut Christmas trees.

To get the most out of a cut tree, I suggest these guidelines: Before you buy a tree, shake or bounce it lightly on the ground. If only a few needles drop, the tree is fresh. At home, saw off the butt end of the tree, about an inch or so above the original cut; this enables it to absorb water.

Position your tree in the coolest possible place, away from all heat sources. Keep it supplied with water. Now about that living Christmas tree. Your own trusted nursery or garden center is the place to shop. For in-ground planting afterwards, the best trees are firs, pines, spruces and upright yews. To Be sure the tree you select is alive: avoid anywith a frozen ball of earth about the roots. At home, keep the entire root ball well moistened at all times. No conifer will survive even one short period of severe

The less time your tree stays indoors in a warm room the better its likelihood of living. Well cred for, it should be able to tolerate a week to 10 days inside. When you first bring the tree home, store it outdoors in a protected place or in an unheated garage. Cover the rootball with a heavy blanket.

When you bring it inside, put the tree in a tub or large pot saucer. Keep an inch or two of water in the bottom at all times. Kindling wood can be used to wedge it in a firm upright position, with camouflaging of cotton batting, felt of cut greens on top - or simply give it a fresh burlap and cord wrap if you want industrial chic. Small trees may be planted in a handsome wood tub or tera-cotta pot. Keep the tree away from the fireplace, heat ducts and hot drafts.

After Christmas, remove your tree to a tree on an apartment terrace, choose a cool but not freezing room, porch or gapine or an upright yew. ground where it is to grow permanently - or in a temporary location where it can stay until early spring. Obviousey, you can save yourself a lot of work if you dig the hole before winter freeze-up. Fill it with straw and set the necessary backfill soil in a warm place. Plant as yu would any tree, crefully tamping in soil mixed with moist peat moss. Then flood with warm water.

Mulch heavily with straw, held in place with stones, bricks or boards.

If you plan to use your living tree as an outdoor container plant, keep it in a cold but not freezing place until severe weath-

Plants undergo a process of acclimatization for winter's extreme conditions referred to as hardening off. Plants can survive colder temperatures if the cold weather comes gradually and they are given time to properly harden off. Normally a hard freeze is much more damaging November 15 than on January 15. Let us examine what is meant by plant hardiness. Several hours per year can be saved from carrying plants indoors or protecting them from freeze if one is familiar with hardiness of their plant material. The United States Department of Agricultur (USDA) published a Plant Hardiness Map in cooperation with the American Horticultural Society in 1960. The hardiness of plants is determined by moving a plant to the minimum low temperature at which it will survive. Texas has five hardiness zones ranging from zone 6 (0 F to 10 F) in the Panhandle to zone 10 (30 F to 40 F) in Cameron county, the southernmost county in the state. Therefore, a gardener should familiarize himself with his plant materials for some can withstand much colder temperatures than others. Gold Dust Aucuba (Aucuba japonica variegata) is a zone 6 plant and under normal conditions can survive temperatures as low as 0 F. On the other hand, Weeping Fig (Ficus benjamin) is a zone 10 plant and must be protected; it is therefore normally found indoors.

Gardeners normally containerize their zone 9 and 10 plants so they can be protected by brining them into the greenhouse or garage. However, what can be done to protect the plants which can't be brought indoors?

You can protect them by covering them with leaves, card board, bed spreads, plastics, etc. These "covers", used like hot caps, should be placed over the plant material early each evening. This will capture the radiant heat released by the soil and the plants themselves much as a night with a cloud cover means warmer tempertaturs than does a clear night.

Sprinkling plants with water is an effective way to prevent them from damage as long as the film of water is maintained by a continuous application. Even though a layer of ice is steadily being formed, the plant tissue under the ice is at or above 31.5 F.

This graceful tropical shrub with mottled stems and leathery leaves like warm temperatures, lots of humidity, soil kept moist with good drainage, and partial sun. Do not relocate too often.

Giant Bank Of Northern Great Plains Owned By North Dakota

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP) — When the people of North Dakota have big financial needs, they often turn to the bank

The $500 million Bank of North Dakota finances rural water systems, helps sugarbeet growers build refineries and makes sure college loans are available for all North Dakota students who need the

The bank is the only wholly stateowned bank in the nation, and it is a giant among financial institutions on the northern Great Plain.

It was started in 1919, the child of a revolt by North Dakota's prairie farmers against the grain and railroad interests they felt had turned the state into a colony of Minneapolis. Today the bank is attracting interest from lawmakers in several other states who think a state bank would put public money to better use than private banks.

A wholly state-owned bank can "do things nobody else can," says bank president H.L. Thorndal.

For example, in the early 1970s Red River Valley sugarbeet growers wanted to build two processing plants. The bank put together the $7.5 million in loans the farmers needed for what amounted to the down payments for their coopera-

"It really wasn't feasible for an out-ofstate bank to do it. It was really 260 different loans to farmers," he said.

One of the reasons for the bank's success is the power of the state's country bankers. They don't want competition from branches of big-city banks, and they don't get it - North Dakota restricts branch banking.

Although the bank operates a bond bank for local subdivisions and manages state trust funds, its primary job is investing the idle revenue of its biggest depositor — the state.

The state makes money on both ends. It gets competitive interest rates on its cash, and most of the profits, $16 million in the last two-year budget period.

The bank also takes deposits from some local subdivisions and handles some private deposits, offering free checking accounts.

The bank is restricted in the kinds of . loans it can make directly to private interests, and many of its loans are participation or secondary market loans. In effect, it buys part or all of loans from smaller banks, keeping them liquid and enabling them to make loans they couldn't otherwise handle.

Its current loans and amounts: -Participation loans, ranging from farm operating loans to a major loan to a tractor factory, totaling $75.4 million, with $15 million of that in farm operating

-Housing, mostly secondary market loans and all under federal guarantee programs, nearly $52 million, including $4 million in low interest loans.

-Federally guaranteed student loans, $31.87 million. State officials say the bank has been a national leader in such loans. -Farm and ranch real estate loans, $12.4 million, and Small Business Administration loans, $11.7 million.

'The bank works, and it works very well," Thorndal says. "I don't see any reason why a state-owned bank wouldn't work in any other state."

Thorndal, who testified earlier this year before a California committee considering a state-owned bank, says the idea should be adapted to the state.

California, which has some of the big-

One idea in California is to direct state pension fund money away from investments regarded as socially undesirable in businesses operating in South Africa, Thorndal, 48, says there is a danger in overdoing the concept of investing state money for social good. Deciding what in-vestments are politically desirable is loaded with the potential for scandal.

AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - Conservative evengelical leaders, ordinarily critical of religious involvement in political affairs, have begun speaking out strongly in support of the state of Israel.

Their swelling advocacy of that cause stems mainly from an exacting application of passages in the Bible.

What drew evengalicals into the fray was the recent joint U.S. Soviet statement about "legitimate rights" of a "Palestinian homeland," a note that had widely distrubed American Jews, sensing a shift in U.S. policy.

On one of the thorniest issues, the evangelical leaders defend Israel's right to Jerusalem and Jordans west bank, wrested from Jordan in the 1967 war, declaring "most evangelicals" uphold Israel's right to it, and adding:

"From the time of Joshua, this land mass has been the exclusive homeland for the Jewish nation. Jerusalem has never been the capital for any other people since the time of David.'

The evangelical usurge about it began Nov. 1 in full-page ads in the New York Times and Washington Post, signed by 14 top evangelicals. Since then, the ad has been duplicated in at least a dozen major newspapers around the country, often signed by local evangelical leaders, along with stories in the evangelical press.

Church News

That wing of U.S. Christianity represents a sizeable force, estimated at up to 50 million. A fundamentalist segment, led by a widely heard radio preacher, the Rev. Carl McIntire, also has taken up the cause.

'Fundamentalist vote with Israel," he and associates say in another newspaperplaced ad, defending Jewish settlements on the West Bank against United Nations censure. "It is time for the United States to end its double talk

The wider evangelical leadership asserts "belief in the promise of the land to the Jewish people - a promise first made to Abraham and repeated throughout Scripture, a promise which has never been abrogated."

Obviously referring to the Palestinian Liberation Organization, which has had Soviet backing, the statement opposes "any effort to carve out of the historic Jewish homeland another nation ... particularly one which would be governed by terrorists whose stated goal is the destruction of the Jewish state.'

The pro-Israel expressions from evangelicals heartened many Jews at a time when they sensed a temporizing of the U.S. stand, bringing Russia back into the picture just when Soviet influence had ebbed in the area.

This had "profoundly shaken" American Jews, says Rabbi Marc H. Tanenbaum, national inter-religious director for the American Jewish committee. "But the evangelical response shows Jews are not alone.

The country's leading evangelist, Billy Graham, recently drew tremendous ovations — including two, prolonged standing rounds of applauses — from about 500 eastern Jewish leaders, once skeptical of him, when he emphasized special evangelical "affinity for the Jews" at an Atlanta meeting.

Mainline church bodies, including the National Council of Churches, also recently stressed Israel's rights as a "free nation," within "secure borders," and while also affirming Palestinian rights, rejected attempts to portray the PLO as repre-

Part of the stepped up Christian support of Israel probably grew out of the weakening of the Christian Marionite position in Lebanon in recent conflict with Moslems, including PLO, costing Christianity a moderating bulwark in Arab areas.

Conservative Christians also share with Jews a deep distrust of Soviet influence in the area - a renewed spectre that may in part have prompted anti-Soviet Egyptian President Sadat's visit to Israel. Many Jews also hailed that visit as providential and promising. However, some liberal ecumenical voices, such as the Christian Century, criticized evangelicals for injecting Biblical history into current "secular conflicts.

CHURCH BRIEFS

Guest preacher Sunday at Covenant Presbyterian Church will be the Rev. Jo Carr, an ordained woman minister of the United Methodist Church. She is on the staff of St. John's United Methodist

The annual Women's Christmas Dinner of Christ Lutheran Church will be held at 5 p.m. Sunday in the Parish Hall. There will be a "White Elephant" gift exchange.

The Women of The Church at Westminster Presbyterian Church will have a Christmas musical program at 11:30 a.m. Monday in the sanctuary. The Texas Tech Singers will be featured.

A worship pulpit/musical drama, "Celebrate Life," will be presented at 7 p.m. Sunday at Monterey Baptist Church, located at 3601 50th St. The presentation is a worship service using actors, musicians and singers, telling the story of Christ, a spokesman said.

A youth-led revival will end Sunday at Westmoreland Baptist Church of Lubbock. Times of services Sunday will be 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. The Rev. Gary Warren is evangelist and Darren Duffy is leading singing. Both are Wayland Baptist College students

The Rev. Wallace White, a missionary to New Guinea, will speak at two Lubbock churches Sunday. At 10:45 a.m., he will be at the First Nazarene Church; and at 7 p.m., he will be at Grace Nazarene Church. Rev. White is touring the West Texas District, Church of the Nazarene.

Church's Carved Doors Show Various Scenes From Bible

Various scenes from the Old and New Testaments are depicted in eight carved, red oak doors in Trinity Church's new church. The building is multi-sided (almost round) and the foyer forms an arc. When the door panels are viewed from left to right, the viewer is led through a cycle of prophecy, beginning with Abraham and concluding with John's vision of the New

Parkinson told Emily Lee Phillips, staff writer of The Ruidoso News, "I made an intensive study of the Bible to choose the scenes I would carve into the warm, red oak, selected for the panels by the church building committee. Parkinson said he picked "those pivotal encounters which best lent themselves to continuity in developing the theme of God's plan - from his promise to Abraham that his seed would become a great nation and a blessing to all men, through the wilderness period and the golden age of Israel, the advent of Christ, the church age, through propecy, the second coming and the millenium to the denouement of the Divine Plan culminating in the Holy Parkinson said in his carvings, he avoided including any whole figure to represent Christ, but the prophet is 'symbolically present" in every panel," he asserted.

The symbolism usually is depicted as a

Titles and scriptures for the engraved and mounted door panels are: "Confirmation of the Promise To Abraham." Genesis 15: 7-12. In this panel, the prophet Abraham is shown as God changes his name from Abram to Abraham, making a convenant. This panel starts the group.

Panel 2 is "The Calling of Moses." Exodus 3:2-6. In this panel, the Hebrew prophet encounters the angel in a burning bush on Mount Zoreb. In the third, David with his lyre, sings

the prophetic "Psalm 22."

"The Suffering Savior "The Sanctification of Isaiah" is the subject of the fourth panel. Scriptural background is Isaiah 6:1-6. This is the last panel of the Old Testament. It centers on Isaiah, showing him as a seraphim touches his lips with a burning coal.

Panel 5 is the first New Testament scene. The title is "The Annunciation." the Biblical background is Luke 1:26-31. Matthew 1:19-25. The artist carved the Virgin Mary, as the angel Gabriel spoke to her about the role she was to play. In the background. Joseph sleeps as an angel appears to him in a dream

"Whitsunday—Birth of The Church" is the title of Panel 6. Scripture is: Acts 2-1-14: Acts 2: 29-32. In it, Peter receives divine inspiration.

The conversion of Saul (Paul) is the 7th panel. Title is "The Conversion of Saul." Biblical reference is Acts 9:3-9.

"The Promises Fulfilled" ends the group. Scripture is Revelations 21:10. It depicts John rapt before the vision of the descending Holy City.

Evangelism Panel Pushes Witnessing World Evangelism Foundation which held its annual meeting in Lubbock Thursday night at Bacon Heights Baptist Church, has an excellent record for "world witnessing."

The Texas-based, non-profit organization was set up in April 1970 to enlist individuals and churches to witness for Christ in all parts of the world.

Its stated purpose is to "add another dimension to Christian endeavor and to accelerate a global witness for Christ."

Its governing board is made up of pastors, laymen, and women from several states. On the board are three former presidents of the Southern Baptist Convention, a college president, two college professors, outstanding businessmen and gifted women, along with pastors of strategic churches. The Advisory Board includes top Christian leadership in overseas countries.

Work of the WEF is accomplished through "Partnership Missions." This is a descriptive term used to explain the concept of evangelistic campaigns conducted. The emphasis is upon sharing. Americans and nationals from other countries work together in a common effort to present the claims of Christ both in the States and overseas. When invitations for "Partnership Missions" are received by the foundation from churches in other lands, churches in the United States are asked to respond. A church in America is enlisted to work with a church overseas.

Usually, the American pastor is asked to enlist eight or 10 of his members to go with him. Prior to the crusade, the churches at home correspond with the Results listed in the annual meeting here included this information: there were nine crusades in 1977 and nine are planned so far in 1978.

Here is a comment from Dr. Billy Graham: "It is my prayer and hope that God will bless the World Evangelism Foundation and that many thousands of laymen will have a fresh vision of sharing Christ with a needy world, and that thousands of churches will be blessed because of believers becoming a part of global, evange-listic outreach. God bless each of you."

Disciples Set NBA Event

Sunday, area Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ), will share a day with friends of the National Benevolent Association (NBA) and Juliette Fowler Guests for the event will be Dr. William T. Gibble, NBA president; Dr. Tommie M. Bouchard, executive director of Juliette Fowler Homes; Ray Heckendorn, NBA vice president; Nancy Wahonick, NBA director of communications; and Jimmy Hays, NBA director of development for Texas and Louisiana.

Several of the officers will preach at Sunday services and talk with church school classes.

A special worship srvice is slated at 7 p.m. at the First Christian Church. Focus of the service will be "Christmas With The Fowler Homes."

Refugees From Asia Lutheran Churches Sponsor

NEW YORK (Special) - When the U.S. Attorney General approved admission of an additional 15,000 Southeast Asian refugees last summer, Lutheran churches across the country immediately began signing up to sponsor families.

In many cases, a congregation had helped re-settle one or more families among the 145,00 refugees who came after the fall of Saigon in 1975. Now they were ready to offer this ministry again.

The work of Lutheran churches in sponsoring refugee families is coordinated and assisted by Lutheran Immigration and Refugee Service (LIRS), an agency serving all Lutheran congregations and supported by the three larger Lutheran bodies in the United States—American Lutheran Church, Lutheran Church in America, and Lutheran Church-Missouri

Ingrid Walter, LIRS director, says her agency, a unit of the Lutheran Council in the USA, has agreed to re-settle 2,250 of the 15,000 newly-approved refugees, about the same percentage (15 percent) it aided in 1975. Though the federal government gives some financial assistance ($300 per refugee, down from $500 in 1975), the actual work of placing refugees is carried out by church and other non-governmental groups which coordinate their work through the American Council of Voluntary Agencies

We find that where there is a need. there is a response," said Ingrid Walter of the LIRS.

Who would doubt that there is much evil in the world today? Wherever man lives, his hatred and cruelty can frustrate all hopes for a better way of life.

But man's gross impulses must be restrained. His energies can be hurnessed for constructive goals. The Church, a powerful force for good, labors to redeem men and to make a better world.

Today the Church needs you - and you need the Church.

Favorite Plant Shop Used For Buying Gifts

By ELVIN MCDONALD

One sport my 13-year-old daughter Jeannene and I share is Saturday afternoon shopping all over New York. We investigate everything from used clothing to model co-op apartments, but our favorite stopping places are plant shops.

Lately, we've been carrying a notebook with us and making a list of gifts we'd live to give — or receive — as gardeners. We have been having a great time and it has made me realize how many wonderful ways, there are to celebrate nature with plants. For example:

Give a collection of scented-leaf geraniums -lemon, rose, lime, coconut, allspice, apple — all in terra-cotta pots with matching saucers. The secret to keeping geraniums compact in a window or fluorescent-light garden is to pinch out the growing tips after only an inch or two of new growth. Try it; you'll be surprised at the relatively bushy, compact habit that

For the person who has no bright window space for growing plants, or has run out owing to an expanding collection, how about the makings of a fluorescentlight garden? You can simply give a fixture and tubes or a prefabricated shelf system. Along with it, I'd give one of these books: "The Complete Book of Houseplants Under Lights" by Charles Marden Fitch (Hawthorn Books) or "The Indoor Light Gardening Book" by Virginie F. And George A. Elbert (Crown something more exotic - maybe a beginning collection of orchids, bromelaids, gesneriads or whatever you think appropriate. For someone with a sunless window that is on the cool side in winter, I'd opt for some unusual ferns. For a hot, sunny environment, I'd select unusual succulents, especially some of the bizarre euphoribias and living stones.

Most people love fragrant flowers. Thrill almost any gardener (or convert someone into being one) by giving a potted sweet-olive (Osmanthus fragrans) in bloom. Another favorite of mine, Cestrum nocturnum, makes an equally welcome gift but it is not likely to be blooming at this time of the year.

If you have the money, I have just the desk for this gift: A bouquet of fresh flowers every Monday morning all year. they be in bunches of one kind per color iris another? I like to see flowers of a kind arranged casually together, more-orless as they appear in the garden. A gift like this is something you can work out with most local florists.

I would also settle for some of the beautiful terra-cotta pots, planters and vases that are coming on the market. Watch in particular for a line from Madderlake, one of New York's havens of horticultural excellence.

There are always books that every gardener want to own. A new one I find myself turning to more and more is "Indoor Plants" by Doris F. Hirsch (Chilton Books); It's $15. If you'd like something more advanced, I suggest "Exotica" (around $80 or the new "Hortus Third" (about $100). My newest book is called "Stop Talking to Your Plants and Lisreading that plants, I recommend V. Sackville-West's "A Joy of Gardening," a re-issue by Harper & Row of the 1958 edition. Under a section labeled "Christmas Presents for Gardening Friends," I found this advice:

People living in towns will presumably be reduced to visiting the nearest florist and will come away with a pot of cyclamen, confident that, if properly treated, the plant will continue to give pleasure for years. May I point out to them that very occasionally you find a scented cyclamen? It is worth sniffing round the array in the hope of coming across one with this additional charm.'

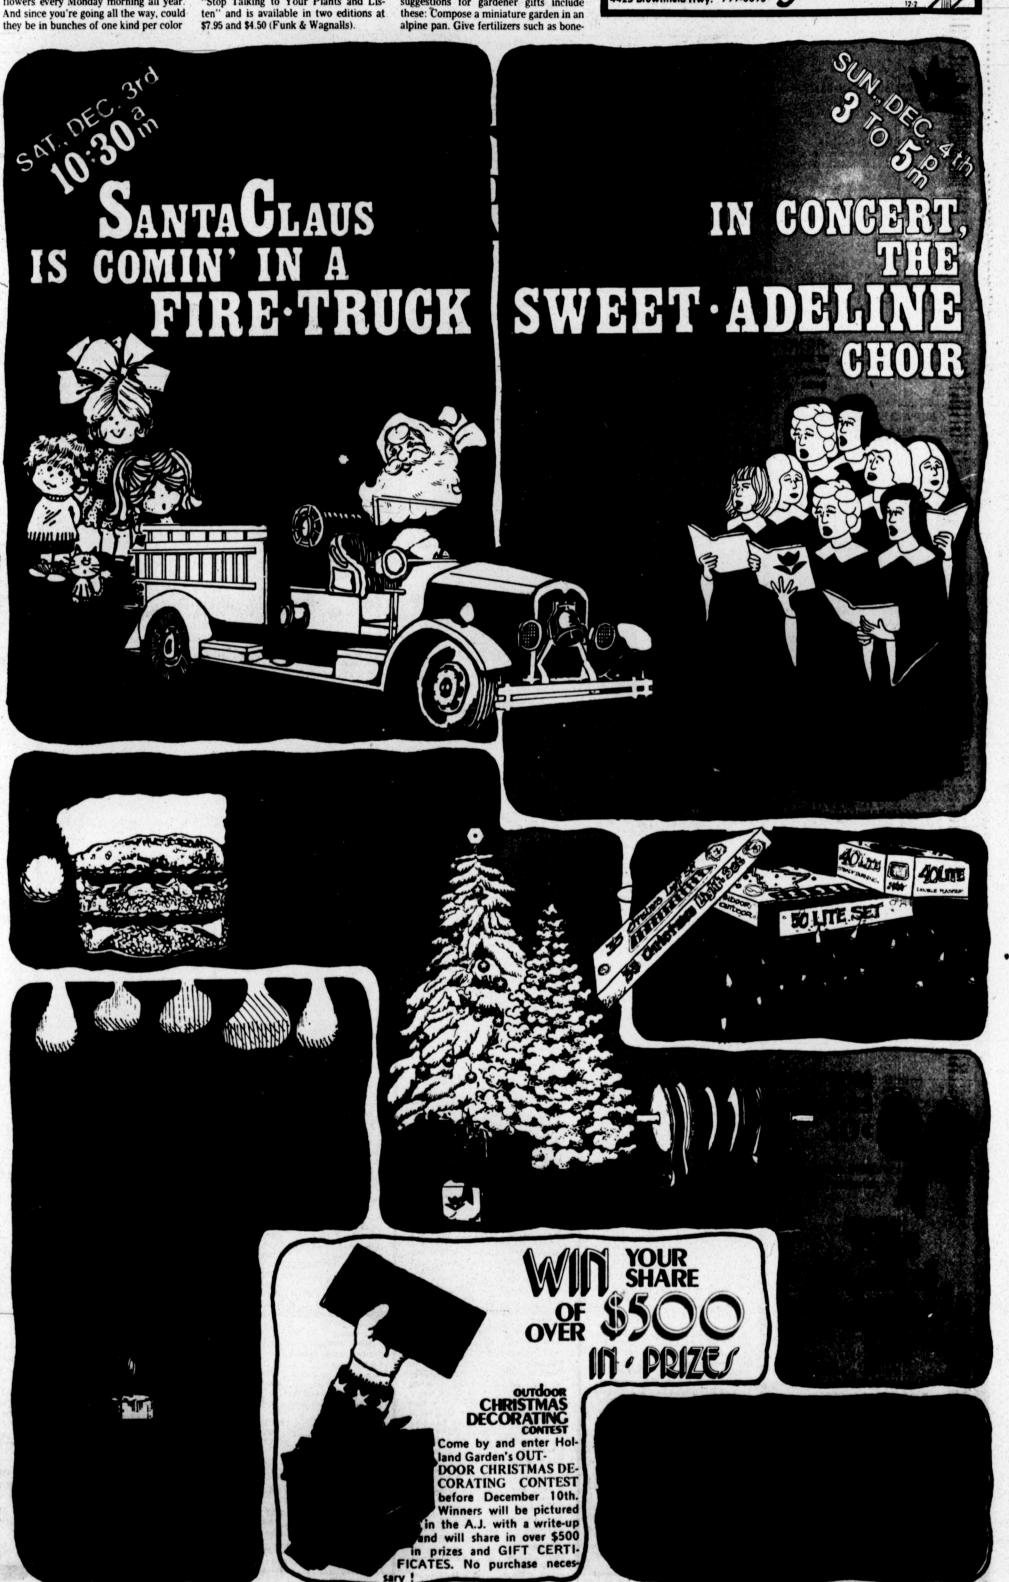

Indeed, "A Joy of Gardening" is worth sniffing out, as it were. I found it enlightening and fun. Sackville-West's other suggestions for gardener gifts include Or how about bags of prepared compost for seed boxes and many other uses!

Well, it would be fun to give a gardenig friend a bag of manure, tied with bow and genuinely thoughtful to share your check the weight of the can when it is filled with water. The right one will feel comfortable in your hand, easily balanced as you walk, and not too much of a heft when the time comes to water hanging plants. The opening at the top should be large enough to allow easy access for mixing fertilizer, yet shaped to prevent water splashing overboard too easily.

CORRA

The ultimate personal car from Chrysler

Cordoba TRY IT ON FOR SIZE

Fresh from its triumph as the most successful new personal sized car in the last five years, the Cordoba - 1978 version - is new in brilliant new ways and comes to you at an attractive, attainable price for such a superbly equipped and outstandingly designed road car.

Comparison proves its value! The '78 CORDOBA has a longer wheelbase (114.9") and more interior roominess (380.8 cu. ins.) than other '78 cars: Chevrolet Monte Carlo, Ford LTDII, Mercury Cougar, Olds Cutless Calais, Pontiac Grand Prix, or Buick Regal.

and CORDOBA has more features and options for your driving/riding comfort that are standard equipment.

Comparison proves its value!

The Avalanche-Journal is one of the few things left in the world that is worth considerably more than the price you pay for it.

The Avalanche-Journal means value. Value that is both tangible and intangible.

Intangible value that comes with the quality of news coverage you receive by reading The Avalanche-Journal — a level of editorial excellence on the local, national and international levels unparalleled in West Texas.

Then there are the tangible benefits derived from reading the Avalanche-Journal. The cash benefits. The money you can save by subscribing to the A-J.

For instance, we publish a variety of store coupons each week. By using just some of them, you can save enough on purchases to more than pay for that week's A-J. Add to this the many advertised sales and your savings are greater.

All this boils down to one point. Subscribing to The Avalanche-Journal is more than getting a newspaper. It's making a profitable investment.

Permian Meets Monterey Today

By TOM HALLIBURTON

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

ODESSA — James Odom warned last summer his Monterey Plainsmen might have a better team than last year's unit and still not survive as long in the play-

Today's game answers whether or not the Plainsmen do last as long in the Class AAAA grid playoff chase. The ambitious Monterey team reached the semifinals last year. And unbeaten Odessa Permian awaits its shot Plainsmen in the quarterfinals at 2 p.m.

Nearly 21,000 fans are expected to fill W.T. Barrett Stadium to see if the Panthers can continue their playoff magic. Permian broke a halftime deadlock to defeat Denton and Arlington Lamar in the first two rounds. At each of those victories, the winners were accompanied by their large legion of fans and their famous rallying cry, "MOJO."

By the third and fourth quarters, the Permian defense gains the field position by shutting down the opposition. Then the Mojo cry surges around the stadium as the Panthers gradually move toward the opposing goalline. But Odom, the veteran Plainsmen coach, insists his team won't be psyched out by the Mojo mouths.

We don't believe in that kind of stuff," Odom said. "It's 11 men on the field doing their job that makes them successful. But the support they get and the tradition they've established has as 18,000 of the sell-out 21,000 fans expected for the game. Even Permian coach John Wilkins realizes his town appears excited about this game.

There's been a lot of talk with this game. Plus, playing in Odessa has increased the tempo," the Permian coach said. "I hope Monterey just doesn't embarrass us too much.'

Odom hopes the same when he thinks about the Permian team's capabilities. 'They're good and sound and they take advantage of the mistakes you make." Odom said. "Every once in a while, they will break a run on you. (Quarterback Vic) Vines scares you to death with his scrambling.

And Wilkins also sounds petrified about Monterey's quarterback, Ron Reeves.

"We're scared to death what will happen when our little guys try to tackle Reeves. It ought to be illegal for a guy that big to play quarterback. Reeves is going to get his yards so I don't expect them to line up and throw at us about 30 times or anything," said the Mojo men-

Both coaches ignored Monterey's regional game with Bel Air when evaluating the Plainsmen's chances. MHS lost five fumbles in its ragged 36-25 win on Thanksgiving Day in El Paso.

"I think we will play well this week-end," Odom said. "We've looked real sharp all week. It was kind of an unusual situation when we played Bel Air and I don't think you can judge our team on the way we played last week."

Wilkins even figured Monterey might derive some positive aspects from that

'I'm sure they went down there thinking Bel Air wasn't very impressive with a record like 6-5. The kids don't take the team very seriously and the coaching staff usually is guilty of looking ahead. too. You have one of those games and it's just good to get those kind of your sys-

Seagraves Advances To Semis

By JIM FERGUSON

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff The West Texas community of Seagraves may not have one of those stores with the golden arches out front but that certainly doesn't mean there's not a Big Mac in town. There is, and this one's no hamburger. either. Just the contrare.

The Eagles' Steve McCormick, a senior running back who played second fiddle to stalwart Clarence Davis much of the season, scored three touchdowns on runs of 7, 5 and 8 yards to lead Seagraves to a 33-7 win over Sunray in a state Class A quarter-final football clash at Lowrey Field Friday night.

Seagraves, 13-0, meets Wall, a 28-6 victor over Pottsboro in the next week's semifinals. School officials will meet this morning in Big Spring to determine the arrangements.

And to put the mustard on the bread -so to speak- McCormick trotted for 121 yards on 17 carries.

Ronald - and the Seagraves fans which almost filled its side of stadium -were certainly proud.

But McCormick, who scored the first two Seagraves' TDs, didn't do it alone, no

Add the names Dennis Middleton, the Eagle signal-caller; running back extraordinare Davis; and the entire defensive unit which helped set up touchdown after touchdown with its agressive play.

The Seagraves' defenders, led by the strong rush of Daylan Sellers and the heads up secondary work of Keith Ellred, Davis and McCormick, forced Sunray's explosive offense (o four turnovers, three interceptions and a fumble recovery, Sunray's offense, which lived and died this season with the big play, got it only once against the Eagles. After that, it was pure drudgery for the visitors, who ended the season with an 11-2 mark.

After falling behind 13-0, Sunray quarterback Brent MCallie hit speed merchant Mac McClellan with what appeared to be just your run of the mill tosses 30 yards down field. However, McClellan dropped the ball on the Bobcats' own 30 after being jarred loose of the ball, picked it up and raced untouched into the endzone.

McCallie booted the extra point and Sunray had snipped the Seagraves' margin to 13-7.

During the first half, both teams played the part of e good guy by giving the ball back to its opponent. Seagraves, which has had trouble hanging onto the ball of late surrendered the pig bladder three times via fumbles, while the Eagles gave it up on three occasions by pass intercep-

Wilson 'Leads' Coach Hopefuls For Tech Post

CARTER CROMWELL

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
Texas Tech athletic director J T King said Friday that "three or four days" will probably lapse before an announcement will be made regarding a successor to Steve Sloan, who resigned Thursday as Tech's head football coach to accept a similar position at Mississippi.

"That's an honest guess," King said. The Tech Board of Regents met Friday morning in regular session, but did not discuss the coaching vacancy in its open session. It did hold a closed-door executive session, however. King said he recommended no possible replacements for Sloan to the board.

King said he will make his recommendations to Tech president Dr. Cecil Mackey, who will keep the board members ad-

Raiders Down McNeese 69-56

By DON HENRY Executive Sports Editor

Even in the dressing room after Friday night's game, the Raiders were going through this "DEE-fense, DEE-fense, DEE-fense" chant.

That had been the silent signal in the early part of the game, too, as the Raider chilled McNeese State 69-56 Friday night. And with that game tucked away, the Raiders, now undefeated through three games, willhost the Air Force Academy tonight in Lubbock Coliseum. Gametime is 7:30 p.m. The Raiders launched into a stingy man-for-man defense, and the visiting Cowboys from Lake Charles, La., came out in a zone formation defensively. The difference was as great as winning and Tech held the visitors without a point for almost seven minutes. By that time, it had pierced the Cowbovs' defense for 11 points and the trend of the game had been established.

Tech's defense and a cold-shooting effort saw the Cowboys miss their first six shots. By the time forward John Rudd hit from 10 feet out on a jumper, more than 6 1 2 minutes had elapsed. By halftime, the Raiders had a comfortable 35-17 lead. They shot an even 50 percent (15 of 30) for the half, and McNeese connected on 24 percent (six of 25).

The lead went to 18 points in the first half, to 26 in the last half. And with that kind of lead, coach Gerald Myers was able to rest his starters for tonight.

"It was good for us that we could get the lead." the Raider coach commented. That way we didn't have to use our starters as much Because this is the best club Hank (Egan, the AFA coach) has had up there. Our defense was good early. They had zone (defense), and they're big. We were able to hit some-Kent (Williams) had another good shooting job, and (Tommy) Parks put the pressure on them defensively.

barged on to a 17-2 lead. After the count mounted to 25-12, the Cowboys came out of the zone.

Russell had 10 of his game-high 14 points in the first half. Williams scored 12, with 8 of them coming in the first half, and Mike Edwards tossed ers added 11. For the visitors. David Lawrence and Chirley McLaurin had 10 apiece. Baxter hauled down ten rebounds for Tech, but the game honors in that categooffensive coordinator Tom Wilson, a former all-conference quarterback and assistant coach at Tech, is a very strong candidate, and possibly the frontrunner, for the job. He was in Lubbock Thursday night and visited with Tech administration officials. athletic department figures and members of the board. Wilson, who was a candidate for the Tech post in 1974 before it was eventually filled by Sloan, has been offensive coordi nator at A&M for three seasons. His name has been mentioned in regard to several head coaching positions since Tech offensive coordinator Rex Dockery is also thought to be a top contender, for the position vacated by Sloan. He was interviewed Thursday and talked with board members Friday.

Some sources have indicated that Wilson and Dockery are the leaders in the race for the job, but King said following Friday's board meeting that "we have been in contact with several coaches that I would recommend." He declined to say how many.

Baylor head coach Grant Teaff, also a candidate for the Raider post in 1974 before withdrawing himself from consideration, was rumored again to be a top contender when Sloan's resignation appeared to be imminent.

However. Teaff announced Friday that he was not interested in the post.

"I have no inclination of going to Texas Tech," he said. "I have a love for the people at Tech and appreciate them, but I have a home and a great job here at Baylor and I'm happy here. We've

Prior to his announcement, sources had indicated that Teaff's chances for the Tech job were not strong.

Some sources indicate that Tech may not go "outside" to hire a new coach. Its last two coaches, Jim Carlen and Sloan, came from West Virginia and Vanderbilt, respectively.

Maggard Mum On Firing Of Cal Coach

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) - The specific reasons for which California's athletic director. Dave Maggard, fired head football coach Mike White have remained a well kept secret between the

Under a barrage of questioning, Maggard, 37, and White, 41, longtime personal friends and both former Cal football players, have stuck to their agreement not to expand upon the generalities in the surprising original announcement late Wednesday Maggard said again Friday his explanation that he did what he felt was "best for the future of California football" was as far as he would go. He said the response he has had from alumni and fans so far has been "supportive" of his decision.

Tight end George Freitas said he and five other players had met with Maggard and that about 30 of the 90-player squad held a meeting to discuss the firing of White, who had been head coach for six years and had a year to go on his con-

"We could not get anything specific out of him." Freitas said of the talk with Maggard. But the Bears' offensive team captain discounted talk of a player revolt and said. "Some players think they are going to have to stay with the decision." Maggard said some of the players had indicated to him their part in the controversy "was over."

There seems to be general agreement that Cal's disappointing 1977 season did not trigger the firing. Cal was 7-4 for all games but only 3-4 in the Pacific-8 Conference, with two of its victories over Oregon and Oregon State which had a combined 1-13 record in the Pac-8.

Maggard said he acted without alumni or other pressures. And he denied a published report that White left their conference Wednesday not knowing why the ax

EDMONTON, Alberta (AP) - Jim Bennett is a hockey fan who has season tickets to the Edmonton Oilers' World Hockey Association games and plays with 12 other guys in a scrub league around

What sets him apart from other hockey fans is that he is blind.

Bennett and his neighbor, Bob MacEachern, alternate with their wives, Delphine and Doreen, respectively, in going to the games.

He follows the action at the games by listening to a local radio station's play-byplay report on a headphone radio, his head turning from side to side, following

Well, you have to make it look normal so you turn your head," he said at a recent Oilers' game.

He attends the games instead of just listening to them at home on the radio because he feels the team should be supported

"Besides, you can come out here and scream and yell. If you do that at home, they'll lock you up. And if you come to an empty arena, it's boring as hell."

MacEachern said he thinks Bennett gets more kick out of the game than he

NEW YORK (AP) - Freshman defensive end Hugh Green of Pitt and three All-Americans were named Thursday to The Associated Press All-East college football team for 1977.

The All-Americans are Penn State mid-placed four players on the All-South dle guard Randy Sidler and center Tom Brzoza and defensive back Bob Jury, both from Pitt.

Brzoza and Jury made the All-East named on 15 ballots, two more than the team a year ago-Brzoza as an offensive guard-along with fellow repeaters John Pagliaro, a Yale running back and Ivy League Player of the Year for the second consecutive season; defensive tackle Randy Holloway of Pitt and Colgate linebacker Doug Curtis.

Two other members of last year's squad, wide receiver Steve Lewis of West Virginia and center Chuck Lodge of Vil-

Virginia and center Chuck Lodge of Villanova, did not make the 1977 team. Lewis was injured early in the season while Lodge split time between center and linebacker.

Pitt and Penn State dominated the AllEast selections with six and four representatives, respectively. Pitt's other AllEast choices were wide receiver Gordon Jones and offensive tackle Matt Carroll. Besides Sidler, Penn State placed tight end Mickey Shuler, offensive tackle Keith Dorney and sophomore linebacker Rick Donaldson.

Green is the only freshman on the team and Donaldson the only sophomores. Junior who made the squad are Curtis, Jones, Carroll, Dorney, wide receiver Clennie Brundidge of Army, offensive guard John Schmeding of Boston College and defensive end Chuck Schott of Army.

In the offensive backfield with Pagliaro, who finished as the nation's fifth deading rusher with a 128.8-yard pergame average, are quarterback Leamon Hall of Army and running back Joe Gattuso of Navy.

NEW YORK (AP) - ABC-TV said Thursday it will discontinue its coverage of seven Professional Golfers' Association tour events effective at the end of the current contract which runs through ABC officials said the decision to drop the seven events was made for programming and business reasons.

The seven tournaments which ABC will not carry after the 1978 season are the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am, the Hawaiian Open, the Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open, the PGA Tournament Players Championship, the Byron Nelson Classic, the Tournament of Champions and the Hall of Fame Classic.

Sources said the reason for the decision is that the PGA was asking for an exorbitant increase in the rights fee for those seven tournaments. ABC, according to the sources, will pay approximately $1.5 million for rights to those seven events in 1978. The PGA allegedly wanted about $5.2 million for the events for 1979.

ABC apparently felt that ratings for those events did not justify the increases sought and that the result would have left ABC in the red n those events

WOLFFORTH (Special) - Billy Don Hardaway scored 20 points in leading Dunbar to a 61-37 win over host Frenship Friday night.

Frenship held an 8-4 lead after a slow first period, but the Panthers eased to an 18-16 lead going into the second half.

In the third period, however, the Panthers began moving and blitzed their hosts 21-2 to take a 39-18 cushion into the final period.

Behind Hardaway's total, Greg Whitfield netted 11 points, and Wayne Williams canned 10.

For Frenship, Doug Townsend scored 11. and Lloyd Strong added 10. The victory brought Dunbar's record to 4-8. and Frenship fell to 2-3.

Childress Enters Semis, Topples Tahoka 32-21

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff CANYON-Tahoka, which had surprised many folks in advancing to the Class AA quarter-finals, threw a lot of new wrinkles at Childress here Friday

But it was a "wrinkle" that wasn't in the game plan that turned the game completely around in the final five minutes, as No. 10-ranked Childress escaped with a 32-21 victory and ran its playoff record in the past three years to 11-2.

Trailing 25-21, Tahoka's Leslie White retreated into his own end zone to punt. But he elected to run it out and got only to the 9-yard line-12 yards shy of firstdown territory-and Childress got the break it had been lacking all night with 4:41 to play.

Tahoka coach A.D. Shaver later supported White, who had an excellent game, returing six kickoffs for 132 yards and one punt for four.

'Don't blame the kid," Shaver said. He just saw something that wasn't there. That's just one of the breaks of the Childress, which has a touted passing game, threw only seven times. "I think that's a tribute to our secondary that they threw as little as they did," Shaver said.

Really, all you can say is that we got beat 32-21, but I think we'll be back next year. We had a heck of a season, considering where we were picked in the district race (fifth in 5-AA).

All-state runningback candidate Clifford Bailey finished with 127 yards on 28 carries to finish with 2404 vards on 434 carries this year. In the second half, he surpassed the season totals of Bubba Bean of Kirbyville (2366) and Cliff Hoskins of George West, a former Texas Tech back. (2400). He now owns the sixth-best single-season total in state Class AA history.

Trailing 18-7 at intermission, the Bulldogs marched 73 yards after the secondhalf kickoff to score, the big gainer in the seven-play drive being a 21-yard pass from Ed Roberson to Jerry Hatchett.

Bailey carried four times for 33 yards in the drive, including the last three for 16 vards, getting the TD from 2 vards out with 9.11 left. Roberson added the PAT to make it 18-14. Randy Meeks, who played another excellent game at linebacker and had spot duty at quarterback, intercepted a Perry Morren pass with 5:58 left in the third quarter, but Tahoka couldn't move.

White's punt bounced off the shoulder pads of David West, and Jayson Knox recovered for Tahoka at the Childress 23. Roberson converted two key third-

Mike Hoover, also an impressive ballcarrier, scored first in the second half for Seagraves from two yards away to put the count to 19-7. The TD was setup when Wesley Smith hopped on McCallie fumble on the Sunray 36

Davis, who had to wait until the fourth quarter before scoring his first sixer of the night, strolled over from the six with 9:44 remaining to all but ice the game for the Eagles. After the TD, which capped a five-play drive with 26 seconds remaining in the half, the Sunray offense was held check and double check by the Eagles. As a matter of fact, Seagraves held its opponent to only 10 total yards offense following the TD

Using the running of Davis and McCormick, the Eagles marched 53 yards on eight plays to garner the score with McCormick going over from the seven. The longest run of the drive was a 29

and Eagles held a 7-0 ad with 8:30 left in the initial period. Seagraves again tallied with 5:33 remaining before the halftime break when McCormick, this time from five yards out, bulled over to put the lid on a 10-play march which began on the Eagle 34. As on the first march, Seagraves used the dive play to its advantage.

Middleton hit McCormick for two points to up the Eagles' margin to 27-7.

The final Seagraves score was a quickie of sorts. With 2:00 left in the game, McCormick got his third TD, this one from eight yards out. McCormick's TD came on Seagraves' second play of a drive which started on the Sunray 27. Middleton picked up 19 yards on the first snap to move the ball

Then. Childress came to life again. Morren, a 6-0, 180-pound sophomore, marched the Bobcats 61 yards in eight plays, with Ricky Anderson, who carried for 142 yards, scoring from 4 yards out with 10:48 left in the game and Morren booted the PAT to make it 25-21. After White's "wrinkle" failed, it took the Bobcats four plays to score from the 9. Facing fourth down from the 4. Morren faked off tackle to Anderson and then raised up and hit split end Nicky Hardison two steps deep in the end zone for the TD. Morren again booted the PAT, and it was 32-21 with 2:52 left.

Tahoka had the ball twice after that, but Ricky Sims came up with interceptions both times, making his total five in Kimbrough Stadium the last two weeks.

Childress, 12-1, will meet Wylie in the semifinals next week. Wylie ripped Mt. Vernon 35-10 in Mesquite Friday.

Tahoka, in the playoffs for only the second time in its history, had its sevengame winning streak snapped and finished 9-4 The first half was a wild offensive affair and only the fact the clock ran out after Tahoka's first pass completion of the playoffs prevented the Bulldogs from narrowing that 18-7 deficit. Quarterback Roberson, facing fourth and inches from the Childress 48, found

White all alone on the sidelines at the 25 and he sidestepped one Bobcat and appeared to have a clear shot at the end zone. But Jim Eason's shoestring tackle prevented the score as White fell at the 7. Tahoka took advantage of the only mistake of the half - on the opening drive of the game - to march 51 yards in 8 plays to take a 7-0. That, however, only seemed to make Childress mad. The Bobcats promptly marched 64 yards in 5 plays to knot the game, then got a field goal after a 75vard, 12-play drive fizzled at the 5, then zipped 59 yards in 6 plays for another TD and ran over the conversion to take an 18-7 pad before Tahoka's futile drive.

Ronnie Thompson's 10-yard run started Tahoka's TD march, but Roberson got the big play. Facing third and six at the Childress 36 after a penalty, Roberson rolled left, but found three defenders in his way. Circling back to the 45, he found a wall down the right sidelines and galloped to the 5 before Ricky Sims made the saving tackle.

On the second play. Bailey, who carried 14 times for 63 yards in the half and moved past Alpine's Carl Chandler and Bellville's Ernie Koy into eighth place on the all-time season rushing list, got the score from 4 yards out with 7:09 left and Roberson added the PAT.

Following the kickoff, Dean ripped off gains of 18 and 33, with the latter carrying to the five and only Clifford Oages' saving tackle prevented a TD. But on second down, Marvin Leary and Donald Wilhite cleared the way for Anderson's 4vard run Morren added the PAT with 4 56 left and it was tied.

On their next possession, Morren, hit Brett Stone for 12 yards, Anderson bolted for 21 more, and then Morren booted a 22-yard field goal with 10:10 left in the

On their next possession, Morren tossed 39 yards to wingback David West which carried to the 15, then tossed to Jim Eason for 4 yards and a first at the five, where Timmy Atchley, one of seven backs to carry for Childress in the first half, scored from the 5 and Anderson ran over the extras to make 18-7 with 6:30 left

May Captures Six-Man Title

SONORA (AP) - Brian Holmes galloped for 365 yards and five touchdowns despite a chipped bone in his ankle Friday night as unbeaten May captured the state high school six-man football title with a 42-35 victory over Marathon.

The Tigers, who finished at 13-0, had been crushed 62-16 by Marathon in last year's six-man championship game. Holmes scored in the first half on runs of three and 73 yards before suffering the ankle injury. He came back in a seesaw second half to score touchdowns of one. 74 and 34 vards The Mustangs took the lead 29-28 in the third quarter when quarterback Lonnie Salmon scored on a 29-yard jaunt before Holmes scored on his 74-yard run. Salmon threw for two other touch-

FORT WORTH (AP) - Nathan Allen hurled two first half touchdown passes and Doug Hurt galloped for two second half touchdowns Friday night to spark third-ranked Brownwood to a 42-20 Class AAA semifinal football victory over Saginaw Boswell.

The victory was the 13th straight without a loss for the perennially powerful Lions, who will advance to meet either Dickinson or Silsbee in next week's championship game.

Allen hit Jimmy Baker on a 50-yard touchdown pass and connected with Kevin Taylor on a 4-yard scoring pass as the Lions overcame a 7-0 Boswell lead and posted a 14-7 halftime margin.

Hurt raced 25 yards for a third-quarter touchdown and added another in the fi-nal period on a 10-yard run.

Boswell, which ended the season at 9-4-1. got its points on touchdown runs of 12 and 8 yards by Ricky Corbin and a 12yard scoring scamper by Bobby Fowler.

Sloan Greeted By Ole Miss' Happy Throng

Sloan said Friday he had decided to give up a long-term contract and successful team at Texas Tech because he wanted to 'sink or swim" in trying to rebuild Mississippi's football fortunes.

Sloan said after Ole Miss' formal announcement of his hiring that chief among the factors that went into his decision was that "I felt in my heart it was the best thing to do."

"You've got to go by the dictates of your heart," he told cheering students and Ole Miss supporters at a pep rallynews conference. "When you make a decision, never look back. Set up your goals and then proceed

"My feeling is I'd like to sink or swim here." he said. Sloan 33 receives a four-year contract that he said would include an annual salary of $40,000 to $45,000, but benefits and television proceeds reportedly will bring the total package to $75,000 to $100,000. He succeeds Ken Cooper, who resigned Wednesday under alumni pressure after a four year record of 19-25, including 5-6 in the just completed season. In contrast to Thursday when Sloan choaked up and could not complete reading his statement of resignation, Sloan handled Friday's first meeting with Ole Miss backers with humorous comments that kept the throng gathered in the Ole Miss athletic dormitory's cafeteria laugh-

Vaught noted that Sloan had "moved around a great deal in his short career," and added: "He told me he never felt he could tell a recruit 'I'll be with you the in my heart I can tell the recruit I'm going to be with you in the next four

Sloan has been mentioned prominently as the successor to Alabama's Bear Bryant but said Bryant's announcement that he will not retire until he sets a collegiate coaching record did not figure in the decision to move to Ole Miss.

"I've got to make a decision on my life and he's got to make a decision on his life, and they're both not intertwined," said the former Alabama All American. "I pledge to you I'll do everything possible in my power to put the University of Mississippi football program back on top," Sloan said

He said he had "every confidence in myself and the coaches" who will work with him. Sloan was asked if the Mississippi job would be his most challenging and replied: "No, I don't think so. But this one will be very challenging." He said in response to a question about whether he had been contacted about the Missouri coaching vacancy: "Yes, I was contacted by several schools this year. I just had a good feeling about Ole Miss all Sloan said he had no idea about the Mississippi football players that will return next season and said his first priority would be recruiting, sandwiching it around Texas Tech's preparations for the Tangerine Bowl against Florida State. With him at the news conference were four of his Texas Tech assistants, John Cropp, Tommy Limbaugh, Romeo Crennel and Mike Pope. Sloan said each had been offered a position at Ole Miss and

Payton Picked For Picnic Against Buccaneers

Associated Press Writer The countdown is on for Chicago's Walter Payton, who has ground out 1.541 National Football League yards this year.

With three weeks left in the regular season, Payton is 94 yards ahead of O.J. Simpson's record-setting pace in 1973 when the Buffalo star gained 2,003 yards. The problem for Payton is that the Juice spurted in the final three games of that record year, producing in order, 137 yards, 219 and 200 to go over that magic 2,000-yard plateau

So Payton's bulge could melt in a hurry unless he continues to roll up those yards

Sunday against the winless Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

The game is vital for the Bears, who trail Minnesota by one game in the NFC Central race and will be watching the scoreboard, hoping San Francisco can upset the Vikings. They could find some good news up there, too.

Last week's 11-3 left the season's record at 105-49 for .682.

The picks: Chicago 28, Tampa Bay 3 Payton could have a picnic against the poor Bucs. The Bears have no time for sympathy right now, though.

Oakland 24, Los Angeles 14 The Rams kayoed Cleveland a week ago and it got owner Art Modell so angry that he threatened to clean out the organization from top to bottom. Al Davis won't have to do that after the Raiders play LA

Denver 27, Houston 10

Psst. Pass the word. The Broncos are for real. And if you don't believe it, check their record and then ask Baltimore about them.

New England 17, Atlanta 6 The Patriots believe they still have a playoff shot and technically they do. They sure won't let Atlanta's anemic offense spoil it. Dallas 23, Philadelphia 7 The Cowboys have clinched at least a wild card playoff spot and the Eagles have clinched another high draft pick. Isn't that the same story every year?

Pittsburgh 38, Seattle 17 The Steelers took the Jets too lightly and it almost cost them last week. Chuck Noll won't let that happen against the Seahawks, who can give you fits if you're not paying attention St. Louis 24, NY Giants 7 The Cardinals have won seven straight against New York and can't dwell on last

San Diego 17, Cleveland 13

ture and the Browns are barely alive. Give the edge to the home team.

San Francisco 16, Minnesota 13 Upset Special. Did you realize that the 49ers have won five of their last six games? The Tarkenton-less Vikings are limping along and are ripe to be kayoed. Cincinnati 27, Kansas City 21

The Bengals have to keep winning and hope the rest of the teams in the AFC Central scramble start losing. They can control the first part, but not the second. Green Bay 14, Detroit 10

The So-What Bowl. The Packers have lost five in a row. But the Lions can't win on the road. This one might be a tie.

NY Jets 23, New Orleans 17 The young Jets have learned plenty this season. One of the lessons is it's better to play indoors at a place like the Superdome than in blustery Shea Stadium.

Washington 14, Buffalo 6 The grizzled Redskins somehow still are alive in the NFC wild card chase and the Bills are in their own race. . . to finish the season intact. Miami 23, Baltimore 20

It's do-or-die for the Dolphins, who could be eliminated from the playoff picture if they lose to the Colts. But Miami seldom does that at home and with all that's riding on this one, that home-field edge will be vital.

Oilers, Rams Face Similar Challenges

By BRUCE LOWITT

AP Sports Writer For the Houston Oilers and the Los Angeles Rams, Sunday's tasks are similar trying to stop two of the best teams in the National Football League's American Conference. The Oilers, 6-5 and trying to stay alive in the AFC Central Division scramble as well as in the conference wild-card derby, take on the NFL's winningest team, the 10-1 Denver Broncos. The Rams, 8-3 and closing in on the National Conference West crown, play the 9-2 Oakland Raiders, the defending Super Bowl champions.

Sunday's other games are Chicago at Tampa Bay, New England at Atlanta, St. Louis at the New York Giants, Seattle at Pittsburgh, Washington at Buffalo, Cincinnati at Kansas City, Detroit at Green Bay, Philadelphia at Dallas, San Francisco at Minnesota, Cleveland at San Diego and the New York Jets at New Orleans. Baltimore visits Miami in Monday night's AFC showdown game.

Winning at Houston this week will be just about our toughest assignment of the season. The Oilers are playing extremely well right now and they're hard to beat in the Astrodome," says Denver Coach Red Miller - and the oddsmakers tend to agree with him. They've established the Broncos as favorites by only a point or Houston's primary problem will be to penetrate the Broncos' 3-4 alignment that has shut the door on so many teams. Last week it was a key part of the 27-13 triumph over Baltimore.

We've come a long way with our offense this season, but we haven't faced a defense like Denver yet," Oilers Coach Bum Phillips said. Last Sunday Houston faced one of the league's poorest defenses and emerged with a 34-20 victory over Kansas City

Los Angeles, 8-3 and two games ahead of runner-up Atlanta in the NFC West, and Oakland, 9-2 and trailing Denver by one, are meeting for only the second time in regular-season play. Five years ago the Raiders ran away from their Southern California rivals 45-17.

It'll be a meeting of two top runners and two top quarterbacks. For Los Angeles, Pat Haden is the No.1 passer in the National Conference and Lawrence McCutcheon is the conference's No.2 ground-gainer (far behind Chicago's Walter Payton) with 964 yards. Last week LA beat Cleveland 9-0. Mark van Eeghen of Oakland leads AFC rushers with 1,011 vards and Ken Stabler showed last Monday night that he was suffering no ill effects from a banged-up knee by throwing three touchdown passes in a 34-13 rout of Buffalo. Payton needs another big game to stay within striking distance of O.J. Simpson's single-season rushing record of 2,003 yards. He has 1,541 with three games left. If he averages 154 yards a game, he'll hit the record exactly.

The Bears, of course, are more interested in catching Minnesota, the NFC Central leader by one game, while the most successful football season of the modern era began with a chewing-out before the West Virginia game and continued with a killing interception against Penn State, said Coach Fran Curci.

Buccaneers are interested in winning for a change. It's their 26th game and they've

Curci, the SEC coach of the year, termed the incidents "the best turning points" of the Wildcats' 10-1 season their best since 1950.

"The first was right before the West Virginia game," Curci said in an interview. "We came out for warm-ups and the players were kind of lackadaisical and just flopped around. We stopped everything and had an understanding right

"I've seen this happen on other teams," he said. "You have to have discipline. I believe very strongly in that. But we had about a 15-minute understanding and said 'Look, we're going to find some players who want to play'

The program could have taken a nose dive at that point, Curci said.

We had just gotten beat at Baylor and, if there was one game all year I felt confident going into, it was Baylor," he said. "But I never thought we would be centering the ball over our heads and getting kicks blocked.

The Bears turned three turnovers deep in Kentucky territory into touchdowns for a 21-6 victory. West Virginia, the Wildcats third opponent, was riding high at the time with victories over Richmond and Maryland.

The Mountaineers scored early, but Curci's reprimand the previous day had shaken the team. The Wildcats scored the next four touchdowns and breezed to a

The second turning point was at Penn State," Curci said. "We were behind 10-0 and it really looked like the score was going to be 60. We knew we weren't that bad, but they were just doing anything they wanted to do. Then Dallas Owens makes the interception. Owens, who would kill another Penn State drive before the day ended, picked off a Chuck Fusina pass at the Nittany Lions' 23 yardline and raced untouched to the end zone. 'Now it's 10-7 instead of 17-0," said Curci. "That had a dramatic effect. That was when we really got together.'

The 24-20 victory vaulted Kentucky from nowhere to 16th in the Associated Press poll. The Wildcats climbed still higher - to 12th.

PGA and the tour players after the threatened revolt in 1969, one of the specifications was that champions would retain their exemption status. It was something that was earned. It can't be taken away from us."

Lifetime exceptions applied to all PGA and U.S. Open champions before 1970, when the rule was changed to limit the exemption to 10 years. Policy was that once a player won a tour, even his card could never be reviewed. This is changed under the tighter guidelines.

Deane Beaman, tour commissioner, has come under sharp fire from various quarters as a result of tightened qualifying standards. Some newer members are beefing over the lifting of rookie requirements. New players must earn $7,000 the first year and $10,000 the second or have their cards revoked. Previously, the figures were $5,000 and $7,000. There hasn't been so much unrest on the $9 million pro golf tour since 1969 when the tour players threatened to withdraw from the PGA and form an independent organization. A split was prevented through conciliation processes which produced the Tour-officials of the PGA, four tour players and three businessmen. Beman, reached at his headquarters in Washington, D.C., said he felt that the older players were over-reacting to the new guidelines. "All they do is set minimum guidelines for all players," he said. "Players such as Boros, Venturi and Hebert who don't meet these standards can be transferred to another category where they enjoy unlimited sponsor's exemptions.

It would, at first blush, appear to be a "nothing" game — but it means every-thing to a lot of guys in Dallas.

It's Saturday night's matchup between the fifth-ranked Fighting Irish of Notre Dame and the underdog host University of Miami. And the prospect of a victory by the Hurricanes has the Cotton Bowl crowd slightly nervous at best. After all, bringing Notre Dame in to play topranked Texas in Dallas on Jan. 2 wouldn't exactly have the aura of a titanfrom a 24-point underdog.

In Saturday's other major action it's 16th-ranked San Diego State at San Jose State, Bluebonnet Bowl-bound No.17 Texas A&M vs. visiting Houston, Tangerine Bowl-bound No. 19 Florida State at Florida and Arizona at Hawaii.

"Miami has played extremely well at times against the best competition in the nation," Notre Dame Coach Dan Devine says. "Their defensive line is about as good as we've seen. That's been their strong point in most ball games."

But what about the Cotton Bowl, coach? How do the Irish shape up for that? "We haven't discussed the bowl game...It's much more important now to win our last game and the players are mature enough to realize the importance of preparing for the final game," Devine

"You never really know what to expect from an underdog, especially in the last game of the season...It still holds true that the underdog has everything to gain and nothing to lose and that puts the burden on the favorite."

San Diego State's Aztecs take a 9-1 record into their game against San Jose State — but have nothing to look forward to after it. They received no bowl bids, even though they walloped bowl-bound Florida State 41-16 two weeks ago.

Last August, defending Southwest Conference co-champion Houston and talentrich Texas A&M agreed to a shifting of their game back to Saturday since it figured the nationally televised game would Texas ruined all that by crushing the Aggies 57-28 last week to win the title and the Cotton Bowl berth. Thus, about the only interesting sidelight to the game will be George Woodard's performance. The A&M junior needs 40 yards rushing to pass Bubba Bean's 2,846 career yards at the school.

In Saturday's other games, Winston-Salem State and South Carolina State meet in the Gold Bowl at Richmond, Va.; Wabach and Widener play for the Big Ten Takes Shot At Woody After Incident

Woody Hayes Friday was placed on probation and publicly reprimanded by Big Ten Commissioner Wayne Duke for unsportsmanlike conduct in taking a swing at television cameraman.

Hayes took a swing and apparently struck ABC cameraman Michael Freedman late in a 14-6 loss to Michigan Nov. 19. Hayes later publicly and privately apologized to Freedman.

Hayes will have to be on his good behavior for the next year and if he draws another reprimand from the commissioner during that time, he will automatically be suspended from coaching Ohio State for the following two games.

"Based upon my investigation of this matter," Duke said, "I have concluded that Coach Hayes, in striking Mr. Freedman ... violated the Big Ten Conference's regulation dealing with sportsman-like conduct.

"In accordance with conference rules ... I am issuing this public reprimand, ... citing his actions as an unfortunate display of unsportsman-like conduct and invoke the conference rule requiring that should Coach Hayes engage in another unsportsman-like act within one year from this date, he will be automatically suspended from coaching the two football games for Ohio State following the

"I have taken into account the fact that the incident ... occurred during a game the incident and they showed that Freedman was standing between the 33-34 yard lines and within two to four yards of Hayes. This is in violation of NCAA football rules which restrict cameramen outside the 30-yard lines. "However," Duke said, "I want to emphasize that these factors ... do not excuse the action taken by Coach Hayes."

Hayes has been reprimanded and placed on probation before as have Coach Bo Schembechler of Michigan and form-er Illinois Coach Bob Blackman—all for making public comments about officiat-

Hayes had no comments about the reprimand and probation but Harold Enarson, Ohio State University president, issued a statement in which he said he had reviewed the matter with "Hayes who has expressed regrets both publicly and privately for this incident."

Enarson added, "The cruel fact is that a coach is subjected to great provocation. However, this does not justify physical assault upon another person. Coach

"We do not disagree with the commissioner's finding ... We accept the penalty

... and will not appeal his decision.

"The reprimand and the penalty are not to be taken lightly—and we do not do so. But in all fairness there is something that cries to be said. Over the years the Ohio State University teams coached by Woody Hayes have been noted for clean play and good sportsmanship — no small achievement. Over the years, this university has been repeatedly praised by visit-ing teams and spectators for crowd control. Again this is no small achievement.'

BOMBAY, India (ap) - Sixth-seeded Tom Gullikson of the United States defeated India's Anand Amritraj 1-6, 7-6, 6-1 in the quarter-finals of the Indian Grand Prix tennis championship Friday.

Amritraj earlier had upset Tom's top-seeded twin brother, Tim, eliminating him from the tournament. The left-handed Tom Gullickson started weakly and lost the first set in 22 minutes. But Amritraj became erratic and committed sideline errors in the follow-

In the semifinal today, Tom Gullikson will meet the bearded American left-hander, Terry Moor, who fought a gruelling two-setter against Richard Lewis of Britain Friday, 7-6 6-4. Moor and Lewis each played baseline games, but Moor played hot topspin drives for the crucial points.

In other quarter-finals, second-seeded Vijay Amritraj of India beat John Feaver of England 6-4, 6-2. Christophe Freyss of France beat Mike Cahill of the United

ACU Coach Dewitt Jones says all his team needs to keep the standards set by the three straight NAIA national championships won by Texas AI is five or six 80yard scoring drives in its battle with Wisconsin-Stevens Point in the semifinal ranked Southwest Oklahoma, 10-0, takes on fifth-ranked Kearney State, 8-1-1, Saturday in Weatherford, Okla.

The winner of the battle between the two high-octane offenses goes to the NAIA national championship Dec. 10 in Seattle. In the other semifinal game, top-

ACU, which tied AI and shared the Lone Star championship with the Javelinas, is ranked No. 2 in the NAIA Division 1 ratings. The Wildcats racked up a 9-1-1 record averaging 31.5 points and more than 410 yards per game. They boast the NAIA's third-leading passer and a fleet receiver who has caught 46 passes for 986

The Pointers, ranked No. 6, and 8-1-1 for the year, are averaging 31 points and more than 350 yards per game. They also have the NAIA's fourth-leading passer, who has compiled more than 10,000 total yards in his career - more than any other college quarterback.

"We are going to have to take the ball and drive 80 yards five or six times early in the game to keep it away from their high-powered offense," said Jones who is in his first year at ACU.

Pointers' Coach Ron Steiner, said he is concerned about ACU's speed.

We will have to maintain ball control. We don't have anybody with their speed. We'll just have to stay back and see what

Nevada Liquor Stores Offer Lower Prices

STATELINE, Nev. (AP) - Business is so good at Lee Athenour's liquor store here it's enough to drive California tax officials to drink

And if they did a lot of drinking, they would be wise to drive to Athenour's Dart Discount Liquors, located a mere half-mile across the California state line in Nevada, at scenic Lake Tahoe

Athenour is one of many Nevada liquor store owners profiting from the tourist

During Thanksgiving weekend, for example. Dart Discount Liquors attracted between 1,000 and 1,500 customers a day, Athenour said.

'And I'd say 95 percent of those customers came from out of state," Athenour added. "On an average day, I'd say we have 600 customers.

The reason for the liquor boom in Nevada is obvious: it costs less than in California and some other nearby states.

In Washington state, which has some of cent. the highest liquor prices in the nation, a Reno it costs $7.29 or less, depending on at a certain minimum.

"A lot of small Nevada liquor store said. "I'd rather not quote our prices for Nevada Tax Administrator Bruce Smith.

As a result, Smith said Nevada reaped Part of the reason for the low liquor more than $9 million in liquor taxes last prices here is that the state sales tax is year, much to the consternation of states only 3 1/2 percent in the larger counties where residents came home loaded down with liquor purchased here.

"Oregon, Washington and California have asked us if there is anything the state of Nevada can do to help police this type of purchase," Smith said. "Quite simply, there is nothing Nevada can do or wishes to do. The liquor is being purchased at the retail level and all the (Nevada) taxes are being paid. Besides, it would be impossible to determine the residency of all the purchasers."

Smith said authorities in Oregon and Washington have been confiscating liquor from persons bringing it back from Nevada whenever they had more liquor than state law allows for personal consumption - usually no more than two or three gallons.

Smith said that, on the average, a consumer can save 20 percent on liquor purchases here and, when compared with prices in Washington, as much as 50 per-

In Washington, the state sales tax on liquor is 15 percent and in California it is 6

A spot check recently at liquor stores in San Francisco, Seattle and Reno indicated people are paying more in California and Washington for various brands of liquor than it costs in Nevada. The comparisons included:

Smirnoff vodka (fifth) - San Francisco, $6.69; Seattle, $6.25; Reno, $4.79. Jim Beam bourbon (fifth) - San Francisco, $6.79; Seattle, $6.20; Reno, $4.39. Beefeater gin (fifth) - San Francisco.

$7.50; Seattle, $8.10; Reno, $6.39. Chivas Regal - San Francisco, $12.69; Seattle, $13.65; Reno, $11.49. Kahlua (23 ounces) - San Francisco, $9:50; Seattle, $9.20; Reno, $7.39. Liquor in Washington is purchased legally only from the state. There is a 15 percent sales tax. In addition, there is a tax of four cents per fluid ounce.

In California, the state places a $2 per gallon tax on liquor below 100 proof and a $4 per gallon tax on liquor above 100

In Nevada, a state tax of $1.90 per gallon is placed on distilled spirits which contain more than 22 percent alcohol.

Consumers can purchase cheaper wine and beer in California but it's "hard" liquor that tourists come to Nevada to buy.

PLAINS AGRICULTURE

By DUANE HOWELL

DIRECTORS OF THE COMMODITY CREDIT Corp. this week approved storage programs aimed at forming a reserve of 8.2 million metric tons of wheat and 17-19 million metric tons of feed grains.

The board was told, Reuters reported from Washington, that the desirable feed grain mix is about 75 percent corn, 11 percent sorghum, 6 percent barley, and 8 percent oats Storage payments were set at 20 cents a bushel for wheat and corn, Reuters said, with other feed grain payments relative to the corn rate.

The Reuters report said Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland was told the payment could be increased and interest rates adjusted if they do not attract sufficient participation.

PRODUCERS WITH 1976 AND-OR 1977-CROP grain currently under loan or_ producers whose grain is eligible for price support loan or purchase may participate in the program.

Growers can place their wheat or feed grains into the storage programs immediately, the report added, and begin receiving storage payments shortly

Eligibility will be on a first-come, first-served basis until the reserve goals have been accomplished.

Storage credit will end when the market price is at or above 140 percent for wheat or 125 percent for feed grains or at "such other specified percentages of the then current level of price support." Wheat producers will be permitted to redeem the loan for sale in the marketplace and retain earned storage if the market price reaches 140 percent of the then current level of price support for wheat, the report noted. For feed grains, the report added, the market price must reach 125 percent of the support level.

THE CCC WILL CALL THE WHEAT LOANS when the market price reaches 175 percent of the wheat price support level and will call the feed grain loans at

The initial length of the storage program is three years but not more than five

It was reported that a study indicates the greatest market price impact from the reserve placements should come during the 1978-79 marketing year. The increase in market prices during the balance of the 1977-78 marketing year and in 1978-79, it was said, likely will have some effect on the amount of wheat fed to ivestock

Loan and inventory outlays for wheat in fiscal year 1978 (which began last Oct. 1) are projected at $296 million, Reuters reported, including $60 million in reserve storage payments.

The study projected that by increasing the storage payment to 25 cents a bushel, an additional 1.5 million tons of wheat likely would be placed into reserve before May 31, meaning a loan and inventory outlay of $257 million for fiscal 1978, including $75 million for storage.

IF INTEREST CHARGES ALSO WERE WAIVED during the extended period, the 8.2-million-ton goal would be attained at a cost of $232 million, including $75 million for storage, assuming market prices would remain at or above the loan repayment value.

For feed grains, Reuters reported, the impact study anticipates about 10 million tons in the reserve by next Oct. 1. This would be comprised of 6.7 million tons held by producers and 3.5 million tons owned by CCC. Slightly more than 8.0 million tons of the total would be corn.

This should strengthen prices in 1977-78, the study says, because the reserve will isolate about 5 percent of the feed grain supply from the market.

However, most of the price strength will come later in the marketing year, according to the study, and the average season impact will be an increase of perhaps two to five cents a bushel.

But for the 1978 crop, Reuters said the study reported, prices likely will be strengthened by five to 15 cents a bushel.

Cattle Futures Close Higher

CHICAGO - Cattle ftures closed 15-47 points higher Friday led by the two nearby contracts which were up as much as 52 points earlier in the session at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange.

Sales totaled 8,492 contracts in local and commission house trading.

Prices were up all day on a one-cent advance in beef and aggressive retail featuring coupled with light arrivals which overshadowed heavy slaughter this week. A commission house with a cash cattle connection was a good buyer.

Wholesale beef was unchanged at 66 3/4 cents per pound for all weight groups, a five-week high. Cash cattle were steady with a top at $44.25 per hundredweight.

Hog futures rallied from a loss of 17 points to finish 22 to 72 higher led the by the nearby. Volume was set at 6,524 conport. Heavy hog runs and easiness in cash tracts.

Local short covering and commission house support lifted the nearby option to a new season's high despite increased hog runs and lower prices. The fact that futures did not follow-through early sell-

Wholesale hams were unchanged to up two cents at 90 1/2 cents to $1.02 per pound, a two-year high, f.o.b. river points. Cash hogs were steady to off $1.50 with the top at Joliet at $44.

The six major terminals expect 34,000 head to arrive on Monday. The day's slaughter was estimated at 319,000 head. Pork belly (bacon) futures rallied from early losses of 17 points and closed up 37 to 80 led by August on a turnover of 4,177

The market firmed after Thursday's declines with the higher cattle and hog hogs and bellies were ignored.

Wholesale bacon was unchanged to off one cent at 42 1/2 to 45 3/4 cents perpound, f.o.b. river.

U.N. Food Organization Predicts Crop Decline

ROME (AP) — A drop in the forecast or the Soviet grain crop this year has orced the U.N. Food and Agriculture Orconsiders "the minimum safety level." for the Soviet grain crop this year has forced the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization to shift from expectations of a record world crop to a 1.2 percent decline for the year, a spokesman said this week.

This will also prevent the buildup of stocks, designed to give the world a cushion against the sort of food crisis that occurred in 1973-74, he added.

According to FAO estimates, grain stocks should reach 157 million tons at

The spokesman said that in August, FAO had expected stocks to rise by 10 million tons through next June, to keep

"Now we think that even with large imports, the Soviet Union will have to use about this much (10 million tons) of its stocks," the official said.

Since the Soviet Union is not a member of FAO, more detailed verification of the Soviet position was not possible.

The world grain problem was reflected in the assessment made by FAO's 144-na-tion biennal conference. "Little or no progress has been made" since the 1974 food conference "towards the basic goal of the eradication of hunger and malnu-trition," a conference report said.

The conference, on the eve of its final day of meetings, said it agreed with FAO Director-General Edouard Saouma's prediction that world total food production would rise by only 1 to 1.5 percent during 1977, or less than the population growth of nearly 2 percent, after several years of somewhat faster increases.

"The situation remains fragile and there are no grounds for complacency," said the report, which included all food-

Grain Futures

CHICAGO (AP) - Most commodities futures prices sustained losses on the Chicago Board of Trade this week with soyns coming under the heaviest pres-e, while prices on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange were generally steady.

Soybean prices collapsed Monday under export and commission house selling and spent the whole week trying to recover. Several weak rallies failed, including a half-hearted attempt Friday to ride a soybean oil price surge. Beans were off as much as 24 cents for the week in the May contract and more than 20 cents in

At the close Friday on the CBOT. wheat was 144 cents to 4 cents a bushel lower, December 2.65; corn was unchanged to 1 higher, December 2.20%, oats were 1/2 to 3/4 higher, December 1.361/4 and soybeans were 1/2 to 21/2 higher, January 5.90.

Cotton Futures

NEW YORK (AP) - Cotton futures No. 2 closed 40 cents to $1.40 a bale lower Friday. Commercial hedge selling overcame in-

makes sense to know what to look for. John Koch, a Birdsboro, Pa., grower and spokesman for the National Christmas Tree Association, said prices paid to the people who raise the trees are about 5 or 6 percent higher than they were last year. He said increases at the retail level will vary from area to area.

American Tree Wreath, the country's biggest manufacturer of artificial trees, said retail prices for its products were about 5 percent above 1976 levels, Marketing head Don Warning also said that buyers are choosing more expensive models, despite price increases. Koch said there was a possibility of some spot shortages of trees. He said wholesalers bought up all the trees early in the season this year, indicating they expected demand to be bigger than supply. Growers will sell about 27 million live trees this year, Koch said, about the same as last year.

Probably More

The most popular species are the Scotch pine and the Douglas fir, followed by the Balsam fir. A six-foot Scotch pine sold for about $4.25 to $5.25 at the wholesale level. Freight charges and retailers costs and profits mean consumers will pay at least double this amount and probably more, Koch said.

The first thing to look for when buying a live tree is freshness. Try bending the needles. They should feel rubbery and should not break. The color should be dark green, the tree should have a strong evergreen smell and the butt should be sticky with sap.

To keep the tree fresh, make a new cut at the bottom of the tree - or have the retailer do it for you. This enables the tree to absorb water. Once you get the tree home, put it in a cool place, away from radiators, and give it plenty of water. Check the stand daily to see if it needs refilling. Koch said a tree that has been standing in a lot for some time may absorb as much as three quarts of water a

Grading System

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has a voluntary grading system for trees and some growers tag their products according to quality. The grades are based on shape, density, freshness and absence of defects. U.S. Premium is the top grade, followed by U.S. No. 1 and U.S.

Appearance is also a key factor when it comes to buying an artificial tree. One industry spokesman said realism was the most important consideration. "The better the tree, the faster it sells, the more it looks like a live tree," he said.

Other considerations to keep in mind include ease of assembly, storage and flame resistance. Remember: Just because something is fire resistant, doesn't mean it won't burn at all. Even if the tree is artificial, it should be placed away from heat sources.

Prices generally start at about $10 for a for larger, fuller varieties. The most popular models generally are six feet tall and can be stored in a carton about the size of a small coffee table. The so-called convenience trees - which you do not have to assemble branch-by-branch - are more expensive.

Warning said his company - which accounts for about 55 percent of the artificial trees sold in the United States every year - estimates that about 23 million artificial trees will be in use this year.

'Lady Driller' Likes Tough Life Of Oil Business

TULSA, Okla. (AP) - The oil industry has a "lady driller" and if there are any others her employer hasn't heard of it.

Jean Pello, 26, 5-foot-8, is single, wears a hard hat on the job and size 10 dresses. Co-workers say she is a knock-out in evening clothes

Currently she is working in the Rocky Mountain area for Seismograph Service Corp. of Tulsa, and last winter toiled in waist-deep snow.

She was in Tulsa, not for publicity purposes, but because someone had to drive a four-wheel truck to the shops.

"I was in the San Francisco Bay area putting myself through university by working for the telephone company when the Spirit of '76 got hold of me," she ex-

She said she was driving her car - a bus-type - across country when she ran low on funds in Idaho.

"It so happened an SSC party needed a juggy (person who distributes and picks up telephones) and I got the job," she Impressed by her ability to handle machinery and make repairs on her car, the party manager promoted her to pow-der monkey. In that job she brought explosives to the drilling crew.

Soon after she was promoted to drill-er's helper and after four months got her switching from real to artificial trees. According to Warning, a survey of 23,176 persons who bought artificial trees last year, showed that almost 45 percent had purchased a live tree the year before.

Consumers keep artificial trees an average of six years, although Warning said they can last much longer - "even a lifetime, with proper care.

Discussing buyer preferences, Warning said that eight years ago, the company's best-selling tree cost $19.95. Today, the same model costs $24.95. But the bestselling model is the $49.95 one. And the third most popular style costs $129.

Most of the artificial trees sold today are made of a green plastic. Aluminum trees which were popular several years ago, have gone out of fashion: If you have one of these trees, the Consumer Product Safety Commission warns that you should never put lights on it. Sharp metal

'Wicked Witch' Looks Back On Lengthy Career

NEW YORK (AP) — No ominous messages written with a flaming broom blaze across the sky. No winged monkeys swoop over the trees scaring young girls and small dogs. No beak-nosed, black-clad apparition in a pointy hat leaps about shaking her fist and hurling fireballs.

Instead, in an airy apartment overlooking Manhattan's plush Gramercy Park, the woman who cackled menacingly at a terrified, teen-aged Judy Garland 38 years ago sits obediently in a kitchen chair while a beautician curls her short grey locks with a

"Anybody could've played my part," says Margaret Hamilton, beloved to millions as the Wicked Witch of the West in the 1939 film classic, "The Wizard of Oz." Her image as the green-tinged, gravel-voiced epitome of evil has become an American tradition through annual scheduling of the movie on television.

This Dec. 9, the stern-faced but sweet-tempered Miss Hamilton celebrates her 75th birthday. An active performer, she appeared in a revival here last March of Langdon Mitchell's "The New York Idea." She played a straight-laced, no-nonsense woman the type of character she's performed for more than 50 years on the stage, radio, television and in the movies. "I used to think being typecast had no effect on my life but it does," says the Cleveland-born school teacher who got $23,000 for her memorable role as the Wicked Witch. 'I've been interviewed for a part and everyone's enthusiastic 'til someone says, 'Trouble is, the minute the audience sees her, they'll think of the witch.' That's downgrad-

'If you're a good actress, you should be able to do other kinds of parts," she contends. "I don't think people thought of me as the witch when I did Madame Armfeldt in 'A Little Night Music' or Captain Andy's wife in 'Showboat' or Aunt Eller in 'Okla-

Despite her persistent image as the witch, Miss Hamilton has gained added recognition as Cora, the good-natured general store proprietress who sells coffee in television

'People stop me on the street and say, 'When are you open?'" she says, donning a plain cloth coat to go out for lunch. "I have to stop and think, 'What are they talking about.' Then they say, 'Well, you are Cora, aren't you?' and I say, 'Yes, but there's no store.' (The 'store' is an elaborate set in a Queens TV studio.) 'Oh no,' they say. 'We wanted to come on Sunday.'

At an elegant little restaurant around the corner from her Gramercy Park co-op, Miss Hamilton orders eggs Benedict and black coffee. She is a tiny lady — 5 feet tall hardly the type to terrorize a bunch of munchkins. "I've lost four inches in height, dear, from slipped disks. Maybe I'm melting," she chuckles.

"I remember when the first one slipped. I was going to my 50th reunion at Wheelock College in Boston in 1973. Made me feel as if the top half of my body wasn't resting properly on the bottom half."

It was in 1923 that the actress got her teacher's license from Wheelock - known then as Wheelock Kindergarten Training School - and returned to Cleveland to teach and play character parts in a local playhouse.

Later she appeared in a Greenwich, Conn. Theater Compan's production of Rose Franken's "The Hallams." She was asked to repeat her role of Helen Hallam for her Broadway debut in 1932, when the play opened retitled "Another Language."

By 1939, when "The Wizard of Oz" was released, Miss Hamilton was a seasonded stage and screen actress, having performed with such greats as Helen Hayes, Henry Fonda, Walter Brennan, Merle Oberon and Miriam Hopkins.

"Things are allowed on the stage today that were taboo when I was starting out." Miss Hamilton says as she passes up dessert and sips her coffee. "Nudity, for example, was not part of our package. I'm not terribly interested in that sort of theatre, so I can't say if it's a turn for the worse.

'Whenever I talk to aspiring actresses and actors, I always say, 'The first thing is to know how to do something else, so you can get your clothes cleaned and have your hair done once in a while. Learn typing. There's lots of it to be done.'

A New York resident since 1951, Miss Hamilton lives alone. Her son, a banker, his wife and their three children live in Princeton, N.J. Once or twice a week, Miss Hamilton boards a bus to visit her 81-year-old sister in Montclair, N.J. Another sister and a brother are dead.

"I would never want to live with my son and his family - never, never, never absolutely against that. I've decided that if I couldn't take care of myself, I'd like to be in a small, attractive convalescent home. If I were ill, feeble, If I ever had a stroke -God forbid - put me there."

She pushes back her cup and saucer. Time to catch the 2:45 to Montclair. Miss Hamilton ties a babushka around her head. "You know, dear," she confides, "playing the Witch was not great shakes of acting - just a lot of screaming and yelling and waving my hands around.

Then she cackles .

Russian Store Prepares For Toy Sale

'MOSCOW (AP) - Russia's biggest children's store is preparing for a holiday rush during which some of the cheapest toys in the world will sell "by the truckload" for an estimated $6 million.

Children's World, or "Detsky Mir" in Russian, is the toy-shopping center of the Soviet Union in the weeks that lead up to the big New Year's holiday. Each day during the last two weeks' rush, more than half a million customers. will carry away "truckloads of toys." store officials say. Millions of rubles worth of artificial fir trees and elaborate Russian ornaments also will be sold. The big winter holiday here, on New

But it is much more than a toy store. It also offers clothing, shoes, sporting goods, musical instruments and school supplies.

"Our mission is to serve all the needs of a child," the store's commercial director, Garik Aganesyan, said in an interview. "From the minute a child enters this world until he finishes school, he is in our hands. We provide everything from the baby carriage and the pacifier to the perfume and the ballroom gown for the high school prom.

He said the store sells 80,000 baby carriages a year, 75,000 pairs of skis and 100,-000 pairs of skates - although warm weather so far this year has cut down on

SuicideAttempt Made By Boy

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) - A 10year-old boy, worried because he failed to get a school paper in on time, put a revolver to his head and pulled the trigger in an attempted suicide.

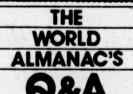

The boy was listed in critical condition Thursday and doctors said if he survived he probably would lose the sight in one

"I killed myself becaus (sic) I have a late papper (sic)," the unidentified boy wrote in the note scribbled to his parents Wednesday.

Sheriff's Sgt. Ernie Marable said the boy's fifth-grade teacher said the child did have an overdue report, "but he and other students often turned in papers late without pressure from the teacher

Lt. John Grisham said the boy was found Wednesday by an older brother in his parents' bedroom. Grisham said the boy apparently shot-himself in another bedroom, then wandered into several other rooms before collapsing in his parents' bedroom.

Grown-UpHuck Finn Buys Sternwhee

MOLINE, Ill. (AP) - When John Vize was a boy he used to stand along the Mississippi River and watch for a sternwheeler to churn by. "I was completely fascinated by them, and I dreamed that one day I'd have one," said Vize, a floridfaced, red-haired, grown-up Huck Finn.

Now he and his wife, Bonnie, have their dream boat.

It wasn't easy. Vize advertised in the Waterways Journal for a sternwheel towboat of 1930 vintage, design suitable for conversion to a houseboat. He got a nibble from a man in Warsaw, Ky., and when he saw "The Belle of Warsaw" in October, he fell in love with it.

"It's the only one of its kind in the world," said Vize.

It is a steel-hull paddler built by an old river boat captain in 1963 as a hobby. Resembling a miniature "Delta Queen," it's 54 feet long with a 14-foot beam, a draft of two feet, and weighs 29 tons.

It's powered by a diesel engine, uses propane gas for cooking and heating, has a generator electric system and all the comforts of home. - a galley, stateroom, bathroom, sleeping quarters for at least

"In order to swing the deal, I sold our home and used the equity to pay $25,000 for the boat," said Vize, 31, a real estate agent. "We moved into a less expensive house so we would have one foot on the ground, but most of the time we spend aboard." The Vizes have no children.

Vize said he never even owned a row boat until he got the sternwheeler. But he planned well for the day his dream would come true.

He joined the U.S. Coast Guard, studied seamanship in San Diego, worked on locks and dams with the Army Corps of Engineers and became a quartermaster, piloting river craft as an expert helmsman for two years on the Mississippi. When he left the service, he worked for a Vize bought the boat from Capt. Russell "Bubby" Hall, a ferry operator in Warsaw. "He had acquired it as a sort of toy and had it on blocks," said Vize.

'After buying it, I thought I had a white elephant because it was too big to haul on the highway," said Vize. "The only thing to do was pilot it down the Ohio River to the confluence of the Mississippi at Cairo (Ill.) and up the Mississippi to its new home, the Sunset Marina

that would do only 7 miles an hour."

Vize piloted the sternwheeler night and day, logging 975 miles — 479 of them on the Mississippi — on a journey that start-ed Oct. 17 and ended at the Sunset Marina Oct. 31.

"It was an adventure I'll never forget as long as I live, but one I would do all over again if I had too," said Vize.

"Some nights I would put up in marinas if I could find space for this size of vessel. But mostly I was on the go all the time," said Vize.

"I would lock the wheel long enough to rush from the pilot house to the galley and grab a fistfult tocold cuts and a hunk of bread. Once I anchored and was about to sit down to a hot meal when I noticed the landscape going by. I had broken an-chor and was out in the current. Never did eat the meal.

'On the Ohio, we went through 20 locks and under a hundred bridges. And fog seemed always to be around us. We spent 12 hours in a chamber of Lock 52 on the Ohio because of fog.

"On the Mississippi at Lock 26 at Alton there was no place to tie up because of the traffic, and I had to maneuver around for five hours to go through," Vize continued. "It was 3 a.m. and the fog was in. Fourteen miles above the lock, I went aground. It took 45 minutes to manuever free. It was plenty spooky, working only with lights and the horn. Once I got a half mile off course in the fog and found myself in back water shoals. I went aground and hit a rock. It bent a spoke in the paddle wheel and broke a bucket. I put in at a marina, welded the spoke and sawed wood for a new paddle. It was the only damage of the trip.'

Vize continues: "I tried to hitch tow rides from barges going upstream but no luck. I must have tried 20 or 30 boats, but regulations prohibit towing of a pleasure vessel unless there is an emergency.

"I was told the Mississippi was running its highest in 18 months. The only way I could get up it was by ducking in and out lette, watching the water depth and things floating by to judge the speed of the current."

Vize said that wing dams, or dikes, are 150 to 300 feet into the water from the shoreline and are built of rocks or creosote piling. Their purpose is to divert and reduce current to the middle of the channel, making it narrow and deep for the heavy traffic.

"There are hundreds, maybe thousands, of these wing dams," said Vize. The distance between them is 300 feet to a mile. And between them is slack water. By ducking in and out I could make some time. Out in the current, it was a matter of making inches at a time. I touched bottom - over the top of an dike

the steel hull took it."

"I became very intimate with landmarks. And on my birthday Oct. 26, alone in the pilot house, I sang 'Happy Birth-day' to myself a thousand times and blew the fog horn," said Vize. "Including insurance, the whole trip cost me less than INCLINE VILLAGE, Nev. -(NEA)-Culture shock has invaded the living room or old-fashioned parlor, the den and occasionally even the bedroom of the American home.

On a typical November evening, the family and friends are clustered to take in the following:

There are 3,800 operating cable TV systems in the country, with 13 million subscribers, and that number is increasing by the proverbial leap and bound monthly. Home Box Office (HBO), an entrepreneurial wing of Time, Inc., the publishing empire, has 370 of them under contract and provides, for a fee, the provocative booking described above that comes right into the home.

When Don Anderson joined HBO exactly three years ago, as manager of affiliate acquisition, it had 30,000 paid subscribers in three states.

Now Home Box Office goes to 800,000 homes in 45 states and, because California has become the major market in the business, Anderson is based in San Francisco as "General Manager-Western Op-

Energy Department Issues Auto Tips

WASHINGTON (AP) - How would you like to save one of every 10 dollars you spend for gasoline? The Department of Energy says that's the amount you can gain by learning to be a better driver.

The department says the average driver in the United States uses more than 600 gallons of gasoline a year. You can cut that total by 10 percent by improving driving habits, the government says. Assuming gasoline is 63 cents a gallon, you could trim your annual bill from $378 to $340.20.

The department is developing a training course to help motorists improve driving skills to save energy and it has six key tips:

-Anticipate stops, turns, lights, yields, traffic lane changes and hills.

-Buffer youself from other traffic. Keep an adequate distance from the car in front of you to allow you to react smoothly and efficiently.

-Conserve momentum by avoiding unnecessary braking, turning and accelerat-

-Decelerate through natural resistances of the engine, exhaust, road, tires and wind.

A typical week will find him in Detroit; Denver and Seattle, touring the territory. But Anderson, signing up new systems weekly, is not your usual travelling salesman.

He is black.

That is unique in an industry which so far has been virtually lily-white. Don Anderson is the highest ranked black man in the cable television industry of the United States.

He is sensitive on this score only because of effect it has on his peers in the business. He attracts more personal publicity than the chairman of the board.

"I don't want anybody to get his nose out of joint," he says apologetically. He

He was, by training an electronic design engineer, having studied at Los Angelos City College and UCLA, and worked for seven years as such big companies as TRW Systems and the Hughes Corporation, concentrating on transmitters and receivers for communications satellites.

"But I always had this thing about song and dance," he says. "I wanted to be a singer. This (the cable TV business) puts me close to it. I'm people-oriented, and after so many years as an engineer, management intrigued me.

What really pushed him away from a drafting table was the Watts riots of 1965. They really made him aware for the first time of his blackness.

"One," he says, "there was a definite reawakening of a strong social consciousness. I had really been incredibly naive. My upbringing was middle class. I was even out of Orange County. At the time I was living in Inglewood, which was basically white. but it was inside the curfew area. I couldn't go out at night.

"Two, I was suddenly very black in an all-white environment. No matter how I had changed my life style, I was now aware that people saw me as black."

He volunteered to set up a skills training center in Watts, teaching electronic assembly in the evening. "Then I bit the bullet," he continues, "and took a $6,000 a year cut to go into the program full time. But I never wanted to be a social

105-Year-Old City Woman Fond Of TV

By JACK DOUGLAS

Avalanche-Journal Staff Bottles of snuff for a person on his birthday? Not too unusual considering all the hard-nosed cowboys roaming West Texas.

But a 105-year-old lady? Now that change the story somewhat.

Mollie Bright, who moved to Lubbock in 1969, celebrated going five vears over the century mark Tuesday. Her gifts were eight 5.5-ounce bottles of Garrett Snuff and a dress.

While records were not available to show who the oldest Lubbockite is, if Mrs. Bright does not take the honor, she is not far from it.

Mrs. Bright is a sharp-m an, but hard of hearing.

She looked a picture of frailty, while talking to a reporter Thursday, her tiny, 100-pound frame nearly lost in a big arm chair, her feet propped on an ottoman and her shoulders wrapped

Her husband, William, died in 1946. when she was 74. Mrs. Bright now lives in a white-framed house near Texas Tech University with her two daughters, Mrs. A.B. Woods and Cleo Whitefield, and a nurse, Juanita Mor-

Mrs. Bright gave birth to five daughters and four sons. All are dead now except for Mrs. Whitefield, Mrs. Woods and Jennie Lea Shepperd of Grand Prairie.

The little woman said her family was not-known for having a long life expectancy. However, the Tennessee native has a sister, Minta Lindley of Houston, who is nine years her junior.

During her lifetime, Mrs. Bright has accumulated about 40 grand children, including great, great-great, great-great-great, and great-great-greatgreat-grandchildren.

The family said "about 40" because 40 was the number "the last time we

As Mrs. Bright reached for her spittoon she said she did not know the reason for her long life. But she added she never drank nor smoked.

"I tried a cigarette once on a train. I ook two puffs on it and it felt like the train-was going backwards," she said. At 102, Mrs. Bright flew for the first time" when she went to Dallas to watch her daughters compete in a bowling tournament. She said the pilot told her she was the oldest person he had ever taken up in the air. The senior Lubbockite said one of her best birthday presents this year was knowing that the Cowboys won their game last Sunday. Mrs. Bright, an avid team fan, received a Cowboy composite with all the players' signatures on it when she turned 100 in 1972, the same year former President Richard Nixon sent her a congratiflatory letter.

Mrs. Bright's favorite pasttime is watching television soap operas and game shows. She also is a fan of Walter Cronkite.

itness Says Defendants Admitted Murder

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - Two defendants in the robbery-slaying of Marjorie Jackson admitted shooting the reclusive widow to get the millions of dollars she kept hidden in her house, the ex-wife of one of the,men testified Friday.

Marjorie Pollitt took the stand in the trial of her former husband, Howard S. Willard, accused of eight offenses, including murder and arson, in last May's multi-million-dollar robbery and death of the grocery heiress.

Mrs. Pollitt, who is charged with robbery, and Pollitt, were arrested in Arizona, where $1.4 million of the stolen Jackson fortune was found buried in the desert. Three other persons charged in the case were arrested after they bought a $12,000 Lincoln Continental with sequentially numbered $100 bills.

Mrs. Pollitt said she accompanied Willard to the widow's northside home several times, beginning last December. She said she drove the getaway car on one trip, when Willard and two companions tried to break into the house

Willard mentioned the Jackson home several times after that, she said, and on May 2, Willard gave her $16,000 in new

"He kept telling me he had inherited she said, adding that when pressed, "He told me he got it up to the witch's house ... he said they got lucky - that witch was in the back yard ... they just walked in the front door and helped

She said Willard told her he and Manuel Robinson of Indianapolis broke into the home, getting $80,000 each.

Mrs. Pollitt testified that on May 4, three days before firemen found Mrs. Jackson's body in her northside home, along with $5 million in cash, she drove
