Hussein Rejects Plea By Vance

SECRETARY OF State Cyrus Vance failed Monday to convince Jordan's King Hussein to participate in this week's Middle East peace talks in Cairo. But Hussein did not rule out attending a later conference, perhaps at Geneva. While saying he was "more optimistic than I have been in a long time," the king also warned that if peace efforts fail, "I cannot even tell you the disasters that will befall the area, and even the world." In Damascus, Syria's official Syrian Arab News Agency quoted sources close to President Hafez Assad as saying that "Syria will excuse itself from receiving Mr. Vance (when he arrives today) if he leaders to the Syrian leaders."

But the incident served to stress that Syria remained adamantly opposed to Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's visit to Israel and to the follow-up talks scheduled to begin in Cairo Wednesday morn-

WITH THOUSANDS of America's would cover a farmer's cost in raising his farmers threatening to strike Wednesday, President Carter still could halt the agricultural walkout by pledging to meet farmers' demands for a fair wage for their crops, a farm leader said Monday.

"We're hopeful there can be a meeting between the President and American Agriculture leaders in Washington Tuesday (today)," said Keith Thomas of Springfield, Colo., a founder of the strike movement. "We have people there waiting to meet with him.

Thomas said he hoped large demonstrations by thousands of tractor-riding farmers at state capitals and Washington last weekend would convince the President and other political leaders the farmers are serious.

Unless they receive promises of 100 percent parity, they will begin their

Punch-Card Voting Plan Likely Choice

By JEFF SOUTH Avalanche-Journal Staff

VOTERS probably will be using punch-card devices, instead of lever-operated machines, when Lubbock County's antiquated paper ballots are replaced by a more sophisticated elections ext year commissi Monday.

"I just don't see how we can afford lever-type machines," Commissioner Coy Biggs said after a bid opening revealed the purchase of such a system would run about $1 million - four to five times the cost of punch-card voting equipment.

Final Selection Delayed Biggs and his colleagues delayed the final selection of a voting system until 9 a.m. Thursday, when they meet with the Lubbock County Election Board to analyze bids submitted by manufacturers of the different devices.

Commissioners received bids on new, used and reconditioned machines, of varying capabilities, for both election systems. In addition, price quotations were taken on computers and other accessories necessary for the punch-card

As if that were not enough data for commissioners to digest, manufacturers disagree on how many machines would be required to adequately equip Lub-bock County's 59 polling precincts and 80,000 registered voters.

Punch-card salesmen say the county should buy one of their devices for every 125 voters - a total of about 650 punchcard machines.

Claims Draw Skepticism

Representatives of lever-operated equipment say their machines are faster to vote on and could accommodate 350 voters each on a typical election day. They said Lubbock County would need only 250 lever-operated devices. Commissioners seemed skeptical of the latter claims. Privately, the commissioners court

Insulation Ordinance Changes Discussed By Board Of Appeals

By PAULA TILKER Avalanche-Journal Staff

BUILDING BOARD OF Appeals members Monday informally discussed proposed ordinance amendments that would require surety bonds, permits and specific labeling for organic insulation used in Homebuilders, insulation manufacturers and applicators will respond in writing to the proposals at a Jan. 9 board meeting.

Should the board decide then to approve the proposals suggested by city staffers, it will meet later that month to recommend formally that the city council adopt the changes, said Cecil Turquette, building administrator.

Interpretation Rejected

The proposals represent the building department's answer to a defeat before the building board last week. At that time, the board rejected Turquette's interpretation of insulation ordinance requirements and upheld some homebuilders' and insulators' contention that testing laboratory labeling is not required on bags of cellulose insulation.

After the board's decision, Turquette declared he would push for an ordinance change to provide for such labeling thereby ensuring the quality of loose in-sulation used in Lubbock.

His ideas of how to accomplish that are contained in the proposed changes, which provide that:

-Anybody who installs insulation or contracts to do so in the city must file with the building inspector a $5,000 sure-ty bond. The bond would serve to guarantee compliance with the insulation ordinance requirements.

-No person could insulate a building in Lubbock without first securing a $5 permit from the building inspector. And such a permit would not be issued unless -Except for fibrous glass and mineral See INSULATION Page 12

Mexico Returnees To Go Free

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) - The first of 142 American prisoners returned to the United States from Mexican jails over the weekend are scheduled to be freed from federal custody today.

Forty-four of the prisoners are eligible for immediate release on the basis of good behavior time and work credits they earned while confined in Mexico. But other law agencies will be waiting for some of them.

Face Other Charges U.S. Marshal James Laffoon said at least 29 of the 235 returning prisoners are wanted on other charges in the United States, ranging from airplane hijacking to traffic violations.

The U.S. Parole Commission began closed hearings Monday in the federal jail to determine if any of the rest of the prisoners will be eligible for parole. Those who are eligible will be transferred to a federal jail nearer their home before they are paroled. The Commission said it hopes some can be paroled before Christmas.

Exchange To Resume The last of the prisoners to be repa-triated during the first weekend of the unprecedented prisoner swap, 11 men and four women, arrived by bus at the federal prison in San Diego Monday from Tijuana. The prisoner exchange will resume Friday and Saturday. Only one of the returning prisoners over any proceedings, regardless of their form, intended to challenge, modify or set aside sentences handed down by its

However, the treaty does not bar individuals from bringing habeas corpus ac-tions to challenge the treaty or implementing legislation. In Washington, the State Department rejected charges made by some of the returning prisoners that U.S. officials specifically the American Embassy in Mexico City — had not done all they could for the Americans held in Mexico. "I am convinced that the (U.S.) embassy down there did just about every-thing it could to help in the ways it was allowed and permitted to help," said State Department spokesman John Trattner.

"The most eloquent statement of the results of our efforts is the fact that we have a treaty with Mexico which allows these prisoners to serve their prison in their country of origin if they

California Drought Continues Despite Rains

Manager of the same of the sam

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The dust had hardly settled from the first major California storm of the season before people began asking hopefully, "Is the drought over?"
"Not by a long shot," is the unanimous reply from weather forecasters and water agencies, still reeling from a two-year drought that is the worst in the state's history.

We're in about the same situation as before, even though we have had a couple of good rains," said J. Dietrich Stroeh, general manager for the water agency serving Marin County, the area across the Golden Gate that has been hardest hit by the drought.

"It looks like the rain might be below normal again this

And because the ground is so dry, a lot of rain that does fall will soak into the dirt rather than run into nearly dry reservoirs, he said.

"It would take concentrated rain over a number of weeks to end the crisis," added Stroeh, who said there's little hope that will happen.

Marin County imposed the toughest water rationing in the state, cutting use to 35 percent of normal this year as lawns turned brown, cars stayed dirty and brief shower baths became popular.

The first two major storms brought 70 percent to 90 percent of this season's rainfall, lifting totals to date to near normal and somewhat above last year's record low.

Marin County got the most rain in the last storm. Up to 14 inches fell Nov. 21 in some isolated spots, adding 1.1 billion gallons to county water supply lakes.

San Francisco has received 3.02 inches this season, compared to 3.67 normally and 2.71 last year. On the northern coast, Eureka is about an inch above normal, recording 10.87 inches this year - double last year's figure.

But in the Central Valley, Red Bluff received 4.51 inches

Fresno with .47 is well below normal.

Forecasters can't tell whether the drought will end this winter - but if it continues, the cause will be different than last year, when a high-pressure area off the West Coast blocked normal Pacific storms.

Meteorologist Arthur F. Gustafson of the National Weather Service said water temperatures in the Pacific are different this year and the stubborn high pressure ridge is missing, meaning the region's weather patterns have changed.

In Washington, Donald Gilman of the weather service's long-range forecast center said tentative predictions call for more than normal amounts of precipitation in northern California, Oregon and Washington.

"There's a 55 percent chance of that - by no means certain." Gilman said. "Central California is a tossup. But the general pattern is quite different from the previous year."

While the state waits for more rain, water rationing continues where it has been imposed, and voluntary conservation is still being urged elsewhere.

Oregon and Washington report near normal precipitation for two months, but officials say it will be January or February before they know if the snowpack will provide enough runoff to ease a hydroelectric crisis. In Washington most of the 600 aluminum industry workers laid off because of power cuts last winter are still off the job.

California uses about 40 million acre feet of water a year. with 85 percent going for agriculture and only 15 percent to urban and industrial use. An acre foot of water is an acre of water one foot deep, the amount estimated as the annual use of a family of five.

"We're short about 10 million acre feet of needed water." said Don Neudeck, chief of the State Drought Information

Mansfield Pans Japanese Trade Plans

Mike Mansfield said Monday Japan has not gone far enough with proposals for reducing its big U.S. trade balance and described relations between the two countries as being at a crisis.

"I don't think it is sufficient," the 74year-old Montanan, former majority anese package of tariff reductions and other measures. He made the comment as Japan's minister for external economic affairs, Nobuhiko Ushiba, began talks at the White House to explain the plan.

U.S. imports from Japan amount to about $8 billion more than Japanese purchases from the United States. Economists have said the big Japanese margin contributes to U.S. unemployment.

Johnson Told Aide Of CIA Connection

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Lyndon Johnson told an aide in 1967 he felt the CIA was somehow connected in a plot to assassinate his predecessor, John

The comment was made "in an off moment" to Marvin Watson, who relayed it to FBI official Cartha D. DeLoach. De-Loach recorded it in a memo contained in the 40,001 pages of Kennedy assassination files released last week by the FBI.

Watson said Johnson told him "that he was now convinced there was a plot in connection with the assassination. Watson stated the president felt that CIA had had something to do with this plot." Watson asked for any pertinent material the FBI had on CIA ir olvement. DeLoach said in the memo that he "reminded Watson that the director (the late J. Edgar Hoover) had sent over to the White House all the information in our possession in connection with CIA's attempts to use former agent Robert Maheu and his private detective outfit in contacts with Sam Giancana and other hoodlums, relative to fostering a plot to from Hoover to publisher William Randolph Hearst saying " in my own mind I am convinced (Lee Harvey) Oswald assassinated the president.

The FBI files record that the bureau conducted some 25,000 interviews in its investigation, many of them trying to trace evidence of any plot.

One involved Frank Sturgis, later convicted as a Watergate burglar, who said shortly after Kennedy's assassination Nov. 22, 1963, that Oswald had been in telephone contact with Cuban intelligence a year earlier. Sturgis said Oswald was active in pro-Castro activities in Miami during the same period.

FBI agents interviewed Sturgis five TH 8 PM days after the assassination and reported ne told them his comments were "mere guesses, speculation and rumor based on information about Oswald which was carried in the press. He (Sturgis) said ... he had no idea if it was true or false. He further admitted he had no evidence that Oswald was ever in Miami.

The Warren Commission determined in its investigation of the assassination that there was no evidence of a plot. It also concluded that Oswald was living in Texas in November 1962.

Poor Nations May Adopt Solar Energy

WASHINGTON (AP) - An environmentalist and world traveler is predicting that the poorer nations of the world may adopt solar energy techniques ahead of the industrial nations.

Denis Haves, a researcher for the Worldwatch Institute, a private study group, said Saturday that some developing nations have certain advantages in turning to new techniques for harnessing the energy of sunlight. Among the advantages. Haves said, is the fact that developing nations haven't already built large economic and industrial systems that depend on fossil fuels.

Terrorists--No Right To Life

THE VIOLENT, senseless, needless death of almost 100 innocent people aboard a doomed hijacked Malaysian jetliner last week cries out for greater international cooperation in the fight against this kind of wanton disregard for human life.

But if history serves as model for present and future, the nations of the world will be unable to agree even on a mutually acceptable definition of what terrorism is.

Just four years ago, a special United Nations committee established to formulate such a definition gave up after four weeks of acrimonious debate.

LACKING international cooperation, nations are being compelled to deal with terrorism on their own. Many countries are adopting a hard-line approach, having discovered in such cases the best way to fight fire is with fire.

Israel led the way last year with its raid on a hijacked French jet at Entebbe Airport in Uganda.

But terrorist is a relative term. Terrorists refer to themselves as revolutionaries or members of liberation movements. Simply stated, what is terrorism to some is heroism to others, depending of course on the evaluator's relative position to the gun barrel. Strident demands for booty might be transformed into pleas for mercy once the finger of authority is on the trigger.

WALTER LAQUEUR, author of a new book titled (appropriately enough) Terrorism, defends the new get-tough tactics. "If governments refused to give in to terrorists." he wrote, "terrorism would be much reduced in scale.

State Department records show that terrorism involves remarkably few risks to the perpetrator. For example, a terrorist involved in a kidnapping has about an 80 per cent change of escaping punishment or

Some experts claim there is a very real threat that one day terrorists will employ chemical or biological weapons. In contrast to nuclear devices, for example, many of these weapons are relatively easy to acquire. Such agents also tend to be easy to conceal, easy to transport and easy to disperse.

Whether such weapons of mass destruction will be added to the terrorist arsenal is uncertain

What is certain is that terrorism will continue its cancerous spread until a spike of international determination and cooperation is driven through its savage blood-thirsty

Portugal: No Easy Answers

THE COLLAPSE of the Socialist government in Portugal under the pressure of knotty economic problems demonstrates how difficult it is to govern a people who lack the will to accept austerity programs necessary to their survival.

Prime Minister Mario Soares resigned after losing a vote of confidence in the national assembly, 159 to 100.

He remains as head of a caretaker government while President Antonio Ramalho Eanes tries to form a new cabinet but, as one western diplomat said, "The country is going down the drain. Nobody can govern and they're stuck without a real government for at least two or three weeks."

Soares himself said "it isn't easy to be prime minister or a secretary of state in this country. The opposition will discover this if they become the government,"

THE "OPPOSITION," in this instance, includes both the Communists on the left and the conservatives on the right, plus the Soares' Socialist holds 101 of the 262 seats in Parliament, not enough for a majority. The Social Democrats have 73 seats, the Social Democratic Center 41, the Communi sts

All voted against Soares, who had refused to form a coalition with any of them in order to get a majority.

All of the factions are unhappy with Portugal's poor economy since democracy overthrew a rightist dictatorship in a 1974 revolution, but they disagree on a solution.

Unhappily, there may be no real solution for Portugal, which is western Europe's poorest country

SOARES TRIED to achieve a measure of progress after coming to power in the wake of a series of post-revolution leftist cabinets.

He angered the Communists by undoing many of the revolutionary programs, such as worker control over many companies. The fact that the workers lacked the technical and managerial know-how to own and man-never divulge, publish or reveal by writing, word, age the firms didn't seem to matter to the leftists

Rightists and centrists, however, say Soares didn't do enough to restore business confidence, find ways to reduce the 15 per cent unemployment rate, wipe out huge trade deficits or bring 30 per cent annual inflation under control.

It is doubtful that anyone can do so until the Portuguese people are willing to accept a period of severe austerity. More likely, though, street demonstrations will lead to violence.

M. STANTON EVANS:

More Blessed To Give When Gift Gets Given

WASHINGTON-This is the season when it is lars, sight unseen, to fund appeals that sound especially blessed to give—if you know what you are giving to.

The problem is that there are so many appeals for charitable, educational, political and other causes that the well-meaning donor is mystified, if not downright disgusted, by the multiplicity of requests.

Finding a batch of direct mail appeals on your desk each week, all of which sound good and worthy, how are you supposed to respond?

This is the subject with which yours truly is tolerably familiar, since I have not only received my share of fund appeals, but have also made them.

THIS EXPERIENCE has prompted considerable feedback on what bothers people about fund requests, and I think the concerns are usually val-

One of the most frequent is: Why don't all you people get together in a single organization or fund drive? The idea is quite logical, and is the rationale for the United Way approach.

Unfortunately, it cuts against the grain of human nature in the fund-raising business. Direct-mail fund-raising can be a profitable venture even if there is little net money for the cause in question. There is all the printing business, creative fees, list rentals and the like on which money will be made by someone even if net dollars for the starving children or homeless animals are comparatively few. This means a couple of things. It means, first of all, that if all the groups with similar purposes could be brought together under a single umbrella today for purposes of fund-raising, somebody would go out and invent another one tomorrow for the simple reason that there is money to be made from it.

And there will be money to be made from it as long as people are willing to send back their dol-good on the surface but do not specify the particular uses to which the money is being put.

IT MEANS ALSO that there are certain appeals in which the fund-raising costs eat up a huge proportion of the money raised-over 90 per cent in ome instances. If you have ever read letters from people who send in their Social Security checks in response to fund appeals, as I have, the notion of 90-plus per cent of the money going to fund-raising costs, instead of the cause, is distressing.

There may be extenuating factors in a given case, and no one can guarantee the outcome of a particular mailing, but an operation that consistently shows that kind of overhead has something

MY ADVICE TO those who receive such fund appeals, therefore, is to ask some obvious ques-

Is the appeal simply a vague promise that something might be done with your money, or is there a definite track record of performance?

Who are the people behind the appeal? Do you know anything about them? What is the financial record of the organization?

In particular, how much of the money it raises goes for fund-raising, as opposed to spending for the program which is the basis of the appeal? Will the organization supply you with this information? A reasonable rule of thumb is that fund-raising costs over the long pull should consume no more than a third of the total budget. Certainly if they get much over 50 per cent, some serious questions should be raised. Any organization that asks you for your money should

Carter Calls On Billy

WASHINGTON-An ecumenical link with political overtones between the powerful evangelical Christian movement and the American Jewish community has caused Pre Lent Carter to seek guidance from the Rev. Billy Graham. He privately sought out the nation's foremost evangelist because his administration's Mideast policy has angered not only Jews but Carter's hardcore base of born-again Christians.

ANDREW TULLY:

Spy Shop Blew It

WASHINGTON-If the court pleases, let us begin at the beginning in the case of Frank Snepp, a former hired hand of the CIA, who has published a critical book, "Decent Interval," about the nation's espionage agency.

When he joined the CIA, Snepp signed the folconduct or otherwise any classified information, including CIA cover aggrangements, to any unauthorized persons without proper consent of the Director of Intelligence or his representative."

Last spring, Snepp also promised CIA Director Stansfield Turner he would submit the manuscript of his book to the agency. Snepp did not do

His explanation is that the CIA had provided certain media people with material aimed at discrediting his book, which accuses the agency of deserting" thousands of Vietnamese collaborators when U.S. forces evacuated Vietnam in 1975.

Well, there you are. Whatever his motives, Snepp violated his contract with and broke his word to the CIA.

IT SEEMS TO ME the CIA missed the boat on this one. Once the agency learned that Snepp was writing that book, it should have taken action protected by judicial precedent.

That is to say, Stansfield should have sought an injunction against Snepp barring him from comment, oral or written, on any matters to which he was privy while an employe of the agency.

That worked against another former CIA hand named Victor Marchetti who turned author with one John Marks to write a book entitled "The CIA and the Cult of Intelligence.

The agency sued to make Marchetti submit the manuscript to the CIA for the clearance before publication. Eventually, a United States Court of Appeals held that the secrecy pact signed by all new CIA employes was a permanently binding contract. Accordingly, the court ordered Marchetti not to write or say anything-for the rest of his life -based on information classified while he worked for the agency. So, the book came out with numerous blocks of white space where the CIA had deleted passages. During the legal wrangling, the Supreme Court refused on two occasions to review the lower court's ruling, thereby in effect approving the

NOW THE SNEPP book has been published (by Random House) because the CIA was out to lunch when it should have been dealing with Snepp as it did with Marchetti. The CIA position is that it didn't know Snepp's book was ready for publication.

Bosh. The agency knew Snepp was writing the book. That should have been enough to send CIA's legal beagles scurrying into court to enforce both the secrecy agreement and the right of the agency to review what Snepp had written.

If there is one mean characteristic vital to a spy shop it is the absolute refusal to risk its internal security on anybody's word (you should pardon the expression) of honor.

In short, the CIA blew it. Whether Snepp should be punished is relatively immaterial. What is needed is a shakeup at our spy shop that will install a few somebodies who can recognize a real and present danger to the agency's secrets and so something about it.

Asking advice from Dr. Graham after some reluctance, the President was counselled to go slow. The role thus played by Billy Graham stems from an interaction of religion and politics, directly affecting American foreign policy. Graham has been courted by leading Jewish activists for several years in a successful effort to bind Jews and Christian evangelists together as a new pro-Israel political force.

UNIFYING 5 MILLION American Jews and 50 million evangelicals (who include Jimmy Carter, a twice-born Christian) is the mutual, anti-Communist fear of Soviet influence in the Middle Those in position to know are loath to talk specifics about what one insider calls the "growing communication" between the President and Billy Carter. This much is known: Carter has personally sought Graham's counsel on evangelical reactions to his Mideast policies, especially since the joint U.S.-Soviet Mideast statement of Oct. 1, which jolted both the Jews and the evangelicals: Graham's response was a clear word of warning, fortifying a cascade of angry criticisms from Jewish activists across the nation about bringing Moscow back into the Middle East equation. It is Graham's conviction that Carter dare not take his evangelical base for granted.

THE SLOW BUILDING of the Jewish-evangelical coalition reached a climax Oct. 30 when Rabbi Marc'H. Tanenbaum, the articulate, imaginative director of the American Jewish Committee's National Interreligious Affairs division, shared the stage with Graham in Atlanta. Graham was there as keynote speaker at the AJC's national excutive council meeting.

Described later by Tanenbaum as "a message intended for the White House," Graham's emotion-packed address attacked Palestinian terrorists and called for America's rededication to the existence and safety of Israel. Two weeks later, Tanenbaum notified all AJC area directors about Graham's speech, citing it as one more example of "deep and widespread (evangelical) support of Israel and opposition to PLO (Palestine Liberation Organization) terror-

"IN VIEW OF public statements by some members of the Carter administration to 'bring leverage' one-sidedly on Israel and to 'baptize' the PLO as legitimate," Tannenbaum said, Graham's opposition to Palestinian "terrorism" was It was also evidence of deep support for Israel

"among the some 50 million evangelical Christians...This support assumed particular value since it comes from 'born-again' Christians who were the first power base of President Carter's What one year ago might have seemed an inevitable connection between Jimmy Carter and Billy Graham was in fact aborted by Carter's concern over Richard Nixon's courtship of Graham. Graham himself is sensitive about this, once telling a press conference in Dallas that although he had been Nixon's White House guest three times, he had visited Lyndon Johnson there more than 30 times.

EVANGELICALS TAKE the Old Testament seriously. Many agree with religious Jews-and Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin-that God intended the Jews to have all of Palestine west of the Jordan River (an historical-religious interpretation shared neither by Carter nor by tens of millions of other Christians and Moslems).

Thus, while playing it low-key, a group of leading evangelical churchmen in a New York Times advertisement last month called themselves particularly troubled by the erosion of American governmental support for Israel evident in the joint U.S.-Soviet statement

The group also viewed with "grave concern" any effort to carve a "political entity" for the Palestinians out of the West Bank.

Just such a "political entity" is the heart of the Carter policy. So to protect his policy in the Mideast-and his evangelical base in the Bible Belt - Jimmy Carter is turning to Billy Graham for EVERY CONGRESSIONAL election we send a flock of "young bucks" to Washington to whip the good ole boys into line. And every time, right before our yes, they turn into good young bucks.

With emphasis on "bucks." Yours and mine. Which they spend on things like office parties, Boy Scott dues, salary increases for themselves and farry war toys even the Pentagon says it

Every other year a new batch sweet-talks us with campaign promises to clean up the youknow-what in the you-know-where, and every other year we fall for it. And get it in the youknew what.

This Congress is no different. It may be operating under new rules, but it's still the same old gashouse gang.

With one extra twist: It pays pious lip service to ethical reform, but it doesn't even bother to hide its to-heck-with-the-voters arrogance. If being "ethical" means you do your mischief right out in the open, this Congress is the most ethical

THEIR BIGGEST rip-off of public trust, of course, is the Korean bribery thing, where they grandstand the motions of flushing out every current senator and representative who was on the take. Then they shuffle the feet until the statute of limitations runs out and everybody-old pol or young buck-is homefree.

They deny it. Huffing and puffing, they maintain the investigation is still going on. But depend on it: No Congressman on the Hill is going to be found guilty of accepting a Korean bribe. Not this year, not next year, not ever And then they wonder (or say they do, anyway) why, on a scale of trust, voters put them right on the bottom of the list, a notch or two below snake-oil salesmen. That's why they made such a fuss about laying down that smokescreen they call the "tough new ethics code." All that has been done, so far, is to cut down on slush funds and fat speaking fees from special interest groups.

Not to worry. There are ways around that, and the gentlemen found them early.

RIGHT OFF THE bat, they slid through a fat pay raise for themselves.

Taxpayers squawked their heads off, but Congress just looked out the window. It was an automatic increase; what could they do?

They didn't even bother to fulfill the condition that went along with that extra money: that they start cleaning up the way they run things on the Hill, reorganize everything on an ethical basis, and then follow it.

The House did go through the motions of drawing up a code. A noble blueprint calculated to prevent any more Wayne Hays-type scandals; guarantee public disclosure of where they get their money and how they spend it, and a longoverdue revamping of the inefficient committee

Then they voted it down, 252 to 160.

But not before they quietly voted themselves a little extra spending money-from $4,000 to $14,-000-beginning next year. Just in time for their re-election campaigns. It's supposed to pay for district office space, but there aren't any strings on it. They can use it for whatever they want, and they undoubtedly will. This is on top of their $57,600 salaries and perks, and it's tax-free.

AND WHILE WE'RE on the subject of taxes, Congress long ago declared itself exempt from one of the biggies the rest of us have to pay: the Social Security bite out of our paychecks. Legislators, you see, are coverd by generous government pensions and don't need to fool around with that peasant stuff.

Not only that, they've just passed up a chance to ease the burden on most of us by including government workers in the Social Security program. (Somebody in the House lost his head for a minute there and suggested that might be a dandy way to keep it from going bankrupt.)

There are, by rough count, six million government employes who are now exempt from the compulsory coverage that gets the rest of us. whether we want it or not. They like it that way. They have their own pension plans and they are not thrilled at the idea of paying taxes like the common folks.

SO THE HOUSE put the idea on one of those back-burners they call a "study." And then got ready to increase the Social Security tax for the rest of us to a maximum $2,982 a year

(One mathematician sat down with his handydandy calculator and came up with the shocker: By caving in to the civil servant lobby, the House automatically upped everybody else's Social Security tax by $250 a year.) Meanwhile, we're laying out almost a million dollars a year per Congressman, part of which goes for bigger and bigger staffs to help them with such busy work. Last time anybody counted noses, the legislative bureaucracy was up to around 20,000. Those are the unelected ones who do the work and make the decisions while the big boys are making headlines and politicking for another term. They might even, when you get right down to it, be running the country, for all we know, Or for all their bosses know. Or care.

Soviets Televise Space Link

MOSCOW (AP) - Soviet television showed cosmonauts Yuri Romanenko and Georgy Grechko moving about the Salyut 6 space station Monday in their second day of work aboard the earth-circling lab.

The brief, silent television pictures showed the cosmonauts, wearing light coveralls, checking documents and activating equipment aboard the 71/2-ton station. The lab was orbiting the earth at distances ranging from 166 to 204 miles.

Speculation continued that a second team of cosmonauts might be sent to the laboratory. Tass revealed Sunday that the station has two ports to receive space capsules and that the cosmonauts now on board were checking the remaining docking assembly.

It was also possible, however, the cosmonauts were only investigating to see if a problem in the second assembly caused the failure in October of two other cosmonauts' attempts to link up with the Salyut. Cosmonauts Vladimir Kovalenok and Valery Ryumin got to within 393 feet of the lab but were unable to complete the docking maneuver.

Tass said flight engineer Grechko, a 46-year-old civilian engineer, and mission commander Romanenko, a 33-year-old air force lieutenant colonel, appeared more relaxed in orbit and used casual language for the first time in their conver-

The agency said the cosmonauts, working in 70-degree comfort, were conducting medical and other scientific experiments and gathering earth and atmospheric data.

The cosmonauts rocketed into space in their Soyuz 26 spaceship Saturday morning from the Baikonur launch complex in Soviet Central Asia. They linked up with the space lab early Sunday.

There has been no announcement of the planned length of the flight, which must last 63 days to break the Soviet space endurance record, Tass said the cosmonauts woke up by themselves Monday to start their second working day. Reporting themselves in good health, they are breakfast and began unpacking equipment for use in their experiments.

Flight controller Alexei Yeliseyev said early Monday in a Tass interview he was satisfied with the crew's performance and cosmonauts were conducting 'important, complicated work.'

In another development, the Soviet Union launched an unmanned satellite Monday named Cosmos 966 "to continue studies of outer space." There was no indication it was related to the manned mission.

Health Leaders Unveil Program

WASHINGTON (AP) - Health industry leaders unveiled a voluntary program Monday to hold down hospital costs, with goals that include trimming the double-digit inflation in medical bills and holding the line on the number of hospital

The leaders claimed their voluntary effort would be as effective as the Carter administration's attempt to mandate a 9 percent ceiling on hospital fee increases.

The program was outlined at a news conference by leaders of the American Hospital Association, the Federation of American Hospitals and the American Medical Association.

The nation's hospital bill already totals more than $55 billion annually, with the costs expected to climb 13.7 percent in 1977. In contrast, the Gross National product is expected to rise only 8.5 per-

The health industry groups want to try to hold the cost increases to 11.7 percent in 1978 and 9.7 percent in 1979.

They called for hospitals and doctors to create voluntary cost containment committees at the state level to monitor hospitals' efforts to curb costs.

The nation's 5,800 hospitals will be asked to report certain key indicators of their costs and expenses to these committees each month

The committees would not have enforcement powers, but both hospital officials and the public would be told if a hospital's spending seemed out of line.

The goal of no net increase in hospital beds next year would allow for some new construction, balanced by elimination of excess beds.

They also set a national goal of holding all major capital expenditures, including equipment, to 80 percent of average over the past three years. And they called for a 2 percent increase in productivity in each of the next two years.

The state committees would review the top 15 percent of all the hospitals that showed increases; any hospital with in-creases that exceeded 10 to 11.5 percent, or any hospital where the rate of increas-

Asked what hospitals might do to save money, Dr. Robert B. Hunter of Sedro Wolley, Wash., chairman of the AMA's board of trustees, said, "There are 5,800 answers to that question ... It's going to have an individual effect on each of those

High Court Refuses Hughes Case Plea

HOUSTON (AP) - The U. S. Supreme Court set the stage for the continuation of the Howard Hughes estate trial Monday, rejecting a plea by the State of California to halt the domicile proceedings

Texas Attorney General John Hill said he had anticipated the ruling and that he now will expedite the state's presentation of evidence he hopes will prove Hughes of his death in April 1976.

"It's a step forward for us and it's an obstacle we're glad to have behind us," Hill said of the Supreme Court order.

California had asked the court to halt the Houston proceedings, contending the Supreme Court should settle the domicile

Hill had asked the court not to interfere, saying California and Hughes heirs were in collusion to stop the Houston

Hill said an agreement between the Hughes heirs and California provided that California would receive two percent of the net taxable estate if it were determined Hughes was a legal resident of Texas, but would receive 18 percent if it should be determined the eccentric millionaire was not a Texas resident. "We are pleased with the Supreme Court ruling and will move forward now with our case," Hill said, "I think it will take another week or two to finish our presentation Hill said California had asked that the Houston trial be stopped and that the Su-preme Court transfer the domicile issue to a master who would determine whether Texas was the domicile state for inheritance tax purposes.

"We felt that course would be transferring the decision to only one person, a decision that should be reserved for a Texas jury and a Texas court," Hill said.

While refusing to stop the Houston trial, the Supreme Court did not indicate whether it will eventually consider the merits of the dispute between the two

Hill, however, said the ruling dismisses any immediate relief for the State of Cali-

'We would have been surprised at any opposite conclusion," he said.

The trial before a jury of three men and three women in the court of Harris County Probate Judge Pat Gregory, entered its second week Monday. Hill and his assistants now have introduced into evidence more than 300 documents

The same jury later will hear testimony pertaining to the purported Mormon will. A similar trial on the validity of the will not is in progress in Las Vegas, Nev.

Commission Orders Gas Firms To Refund Money

Commission Monday ordered Coastal States Gas Corp. and LoVaca Gathering Co. to live up to their natural gas contracts and to refund more than $1 billion to their customers.

'The commission should not place itself in the position of rewarding a public utility which pursues profits at any cost in deliberate disregard of its contractual and public utility obligations," said Commissioner Jon Newton.

Langdon dissenting.

Langdon sought to delay the vote. He and Greehey predicted the order would bankrupt LoVaca, and Greehey questioned what the order might do to LoVaca's gas supplies with the "dead of winter" approaching.

Langdon said the order might produce an "almost horror story" in the social and ecomomic life of South Texas.

Newton countered by saying LoVaca has an excess of gas and added, "No lights are going out" as a result of the or-

"If the commission were to excuse the Coastal-LoVaca system from the performance of its contracts," Newton said. 'we would encourage every utility in this state to seek relief from their contractual obligations. The binding nature of private contracts is the foundation upon which business must operate.

"It would be preposterous for the commission to relieve Coastal-LoVaca from its contractual obligations, to give them complete absolution for their sins of utility mismanagement.

LoVaca has some 400 customers, including Austin, San Antonio, Corpus Christi and the Lower Colorado River Authority, and Newton said those cities, as well as Dallas and Fort Worth, suupported his proposal.

In adopting the order the commission wiped out an 1973 interim order that had allowed LoVaca to charge for gas whatever it had to pay producers, plus an extra five cents per thousand cubic feet (mcf).

The 1973 order was adopted after LoVaca curtailed gas deliveries by up to 50 percent in 1972-73, claiming it could no longer operate under its decade-old longterm contracts, which charged approximately 20 cents per mcf.

Under the interim order prices to customers went up to around $2 per mcf, resulting in skyrocketing home utility bills.

The refund would be the difference in original gas prices and what LoVaca charged customers above those prices.

Greehey estimated the difference is $1 million a day. "All of us have to admit that, in the final analysis, there is no perfect solution," said Newton.

SUGAR POLICY CRITICIZED MOSCOW (AP) - The United States' decision to increase sugar import duties by 50 percent shows it is "striving to strengthen its faltering economy at the expense of its trading partners," Pravda said Sunday. You get more work out of your copier by spending ss time with the originals

The people who manufacture copiers rate the speed of their machines by how fast they make many copies from one original. But, the people who use those machines, don't use them that way at all! Most people copy several originals at a time. The result is there's a big difference between "rated" time and "real" time. That difference is the time wasted positioning originals, opening and closing covers, pushing buttons, waiting for each copy cycle to complete.

etc., etc. The new Savin 780 plain paper copier lives up to its rating of 20 copies per minute. It gets it out as fast as you can get it in. Our machine has a document feed that automatically positions and transports each original through the copier. There are no buttons to keep pushing, no covers to keep opening and closing - no shuffling of papers. The Xerox 3100 "rated" at 20 copies per minute, the Xerox 4000 "rated" at 45 copies per minute and the Xerox 3600 "rated" at 60 copies per minute in "real" terms will on the average, copy only 5 different originals in a minute - and that's the real story on "real" time!

Trade up to the new Savin 780, today. You'll not only get more for your money - you'll spend much less to do it.

Tusha Buildings keeps your building from costing too much and taking too long:

Putting up a new building too often means paying more than you expected and taking longer than you thought.

The most frequent reason? No one person is clearly in control. That can cause a basic communication breakdown among all parties involved, resulting in confusion, cost overruns and missed deadlines. But we offer you a team of construction professionals capable of controlling your entire project ... concept to completion. We can handle all the details-planning, rights-of-way, permits, construction, even landscaping. We'll make sure you get your building on-time and on-budget. And we'll do it using construction methods and building systems that can cut up to 40% off some conventional building timetables. So if your next building has time and budget limitations, call us. We'll give you both the building and the control you need.

Strikers Force Dumping Of Non-Union

Striking United Mine Workers members invaded the non-union coal fields of eastern Kentucky on Monday and forced some truck drivers to dump coal alongside highways. Meanwhile, progress was reported at the contract talks, but no quick settlement was in sight.

UMW president Arnold Miller was at the talks in Washington for the first time since last week, when he went home to: West Virginia.

About 400 strikers ranged through parts of Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky in a 100-vehicle caravan. In Kentucky, they forced drivers to empty at least five trucks loaded with non-union coal.

Meanwhile, other miners were picketing non-union mines in Kentucky and other states, including those at the Stearns Mining Co., where occasional violence has broken out since 1976. Two. strikers were arrested at one Kentucky mine and seven others in Indiana

A crowd of about 200 gathered at the Stearns mine, and state police were sent to enforce a court order limiting pickets to six, officials said

About 200 UMW members apparently replaced striking Stearns employes who want to join the UMW - on the picket line.

"I was carrying more than 40 tons of coal and they dumped it right here, partially blocking the ramp," said Marshall.

Hamilton will take over the position Jan. 1, succeeding Joe Sharp, who has resigned the position he filled for 27 years. Hamilton was one of three local attor-

At last December's meeting in Doha, Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates defied the decision by the majority of OPEC members to increase oil prices 15 percent in two stages, 10 percent in January and 5 percent in July. The two moderates opted for a single-stage 5 per cent increase for all of 1977.

The controversy was resolved in June when Saudi Arabia and the Emirates increased their prices to 10 percent and the other 11 members agreed to forego the second-stage 5 percent increase.

The price of oil now is $12.70 per barrel of Arabian light crude. U.S. experts say American gasoline prices increase by about one-half cent per gallon for each 5 percent hike in crude oil.

In answer to other questions, Cardenas declined to offer any specific figures on the number of illegal aliens in the country or in Texas, saying that the estimates derestimated their figures, because their devices cost so much more per unit, to bring the cost of equipping Lubbock County with their product closer to the overall price tag of a punch-card system.

From surveying other counties, Lubbock County Judge Rod Shaw said he has found "people can vote just as fast on punch-card machines as they can on lever-type machines.

Claims "Out Of Proportion" Shaw said the claim that the county would need only one lever-operated machine for every three punch-card devices seems "out of proportion. The election board doesn't feel people vote three times as fast on lever machines." Shaw recommended that in comparing prices of the two systems, the commissioners court and election board should be looking at buying 400 lever-operated machines, or 650 devices - plus accessories - of the punch-card variety. With those figures as a base, this is what commissioners and the election board will be studying Thursday: Systems Compared

The most sophisticated lever-operated machine, giving a printout of results at the end of a day's voting, costs $2,611 new. The price of 400 would be just over $1 million.

Factory-reconditioned machines of a similar capability, although they have been used for the past 17 to 19 years. would cost $1,250 each. The price for 400 of them would be $500,000.

New machines which do not have the printout capability would cost $2,363 each, or $945,200 for a set of 400.

Used lever-operated machines that have not been reconditioned would cost $875 each, or $350,000 for 400.

Features Outlined Lever-operated machines keep a tally of voting results during the day and do not require additional equipment. On the other hand, punch-card devices are only one part of the complete punchcard voting system. New punch-card devices cost $245 each, or $147,000 for the 650 Shaw says

Used punch-card machines, left over from the county's 1976 Democratic Party primary and still stored in the Lubbock County Courthouse, would cost $225 each, or $90,000 for a set of 650. Accessories Add To Cost In addition to the punch-card voting machines, Lubbock County would have to spend about $100,000 more on a ballot-counting computer and related acces-

Biggs estimated that the county could be equipped with a punch-card election system for about $200,000.

Millions of Americans could be affected by the ruling, but its impact is likely to be eased by legislation pending in Congress which would close the loophole for pension plans predating the 1967 law.

Lauren Selden of the American Association of Retired Persons said Monday's decision was "an awful opinion." But he said a bill now in House-Senate conference is expected to raise from 65 to 70 the age at which mandatory retirement is allowed and "make crystal clear that no plan can be bona fide if it requires pre-70 mandatory retirement."

The legislation was sparked in part by this case, in which McMann has been battling in court since 1973 against his forced retirement at age 60 by United Airlines. "End Of Line"

"This is going to be the end of the line as far as my case is concerned," McMann said Monday in an interview. "I was hoping the judges would see it my way, but they didn't. I hope the congressmen can get together now and reconcile the situa-

Chief Justice Warren Burger delivered the majority opinion - one of a series of actions before the court recessed until

At issue was a section of the act which says it is not "unlawful for an employer to observe ... any bona fide employee benefit plan ... which is not a subterfuge to evade the purposes of the act."

"We find nothing to indicate Congress intended wholesale invalidation of retirement plans instituted in good faith" before passage of the act, said Burger, or intended "to require employers to bear the burden of showing a business or economic purpose to justify bona fide preexisting plans as the Fourth Circuit concluded.' Dissenting Opinions

Justice Thurgood Marshall, in a dissenting opinion joined by Justice William Brennan, said the majority opinion gave 'an unduly narrow interpretation" to the act in this first major ruling on it. "We need not decide on a strictly grammatical basis," Marshall said. "We are judges, not linguists, and our task is to divine congressional intent using all available evidence." Marshall said the act's prohibition against discrimination in hiring older Americans is at cross purposes with Monday's ruling that they may be forced to Other Actions

U.S. Protests Soviet Jailing Of Activists

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (UPI) -The United States attacked the Soviet Union at the Belgrade Conference Monday for imprisoning human rights activists. Angry Soviet delegates retorted that Washington "has no moral right to teach other countries about human rights.'

U.S. delegate R. Spencer Oliver told the conference the United States has observed repeated violations of the human rights guarantees of the 1975 Helsinki agreement. The 35-nation Belgrade conference was called to review that accord.

"There are (prisoners), like Mykola Rudenko and Oleksei Tykhy, founders of the Ukrainian Group to Promote Observance of the Helsinki Accord in the U.S.S.R., who were given maximum sentences - 12 and 15 years loss of freedom, respectively - for merely exercising the rights which principle seven (of the agreement) guarantees," Oliver said. Rights Listed

Principle seven pledges the signatory nations "to respect human rights and fundamental freedoms, including the freedom of thought, conscience, religion or belief."

"We could go on and mention other names, other denials of fundamental human rights, including the names of political prisoners, of people who are in prison or in exile because they merely sought to practice their religion or to express their opinions or thoughts," Oliver

It was the sharpest American attack on the Soviet Union at the conference in five weeks, and only the third time U.S. delegates have mentioned specific human rights cases by name.

Soviet delegate Vadim Loginov retorted, "The United States has no moral right to teach other countries about hu-

Lady Churchill Dies At Age 92

LONDON (AP) - Lady Clementine Spencer-Churchill, for 57 years the wife and "darling Clemmie" of Sir Winston Churchill, died of a heart attack at her home Monday. She was 92. Sir Winston, Britain's World War II prime minister who died in 1965 at the age of 90, once wrote of his wedding in 1908: "I married and lived happily ever after.

My marriage was the most fortunate and joyous event which happened to me in the whole of my life, for what can be more glorious than to be united in one's walk through life with a being incapable of an ignoble thought."

Lady Spencer-Churchill was stricken while lunching with her longtime secretary, Miss Nonie Chapman, at her apartment overlooking Hyde Park in the center of fashionable London. Her grandson ber of Parliament, announced her death. Death "Very Sudden"

He said she had no recent history of heart trouble, although she had been in failing health the past few years, and said that in recent weeks "she was remarkably well. This was very sudden.' Lady Spencer-Churchill was dressed and looking forward to an afternoon drive when she collapsed and died 'peacefully," her grandson said. He said her funeral will be private and a memorial service will be held in early 1978. No date has been set for the funer-Last July, Lady Spencer-Churchill underwent abdominal surgery at London's King Edward VII hospital for an undisclosed ailment. Recovery Remarkable

"But she was quite well after that," her grandson said Monday. "In fact, she made a remarkable recovery. In recent weeks she had been quite well and strong and was up and about, and was looking forward to coming away and spending Christmas with us in the country. He said his grandmother was feeling so fit that they ate together in a restaurant only two weeks ago, and since her summer surgery she had felt well enough to invite close friends to dinner at home. The younger Churchill is the son of

Randolph Churchill, Sir Winston and Lady Spencer-Churchill's only son. Randolph was a politician and writer who died in 1968 at age 57. Churchill Family

The couple had four daughters: Diana Churchill, twice married, who died in 1963 from an overdose of sleeping pills; Sarah Churchill, an actress; Mary Churchill, who married prominent British politician Sir Christopher Soames; Marigold Frances Churchill, who died at age 2. Since her husband's death of a stroke,

Lady Spencer-Churchill's only income has been from declining investments and the government pension equalling $27.85 a week due every widow and widower in Lady Spencer-Churchill, who gained the tile of baroness in her own right after Churchill's death, received no benefit from an act passed five years ago by parliament to give pensions to the widows of ministers and members of parliament. The act does not apply to widows of men who left office before April 1972. Recent Plight

During the past few months Lady Spen-cer-Churchill had been forced to sell treasured silver, furniture, and even some paintings by Sir Winston to meet rising rent costs and medical bills.

Britons expressed shock and shame when they heard of her plight and suggested special legislation or a public appeal to provide for her needs, but the proud aristocrat let it be known she deplored any such idea and it was dropped. Five of the paintings Lady Spencer-Churchill sold at Christie's, the fine art dealers, raised 86,300 pounds (then worth $146,710), much more than anticipated. Even a Canadian and the Sultan of Brunei competed fiercely for the chance to buy one of Sir Winston's works. One dealer said: "The bidding today was a mark of the huge respect that many people hold for Lady Churchill's beauty and elegance. Known As Beauty

Born April 1, 1885, to Sir Henry Hozier and Lady Blanche Hozier, she was known as a beauty in 1908 when, as a 23-year-old socialite, she captured the eye of the 34year-old Churchill at a dinner party.

The future prime minister, then a cal net member, proposed soon afterwards in the gardens of Blenheim Palace, his family's 16th century estate. They wed on Sept. 12, 1908, at St. Margaret's Church within sight and sound of Big Ben.

During World War I, the young bride organized canteens for munitions workers. Between the world wars, the Churchills lived at Chartwell, a country house 20 miles from London, raising their growing

Lady Spencer-Churchill first went to 10 Downing Street, the home of Britain's prime ministers, when her husband took the "helm of government in the dark spring of 1940. She brought a wit and courage that enabled her to remark to a friend when bombs were falling: "I have made up my mind to ignore this com-

U.S. Prisons Criticized By Mexicans

MEXICO CITY (UPI) - Mexican prisoners who returned from U.S. jails to serve out their sentences at home charged Monday they received "savage and inhumane" treatment at the hands of American police and complained of homosexuality in U.S. prisons.

"The treatment we got was savage and inhumane. It was humiliating," said Enrique Granados, one of 36 Mexicans repatriated Friday under the new bilateral prisoner exchange treaty.

Nearly 240 of the 572 Americans serving time in Mexican jails will be sent back to the United states this month.

The first group of 61 Americans left Friday on the same plane that brought the Mexicans home.

Beatings "Savage" "I was beaten savagely and a friend had several broken ribs," Granados said 'Homosexuality is rampant in that country - there are no conjugal visits like we have here. I knew somebody who hadn't seen a woman in nine years.

Mexican prisons have a system of conjugal visiting rights under which both men and women prisoners are allowed regular private visits with their spouses. The prisoners also complained of racial discrimination in U.S. prisons.

'There's a lot of discrimination among the races. They called me wetback, hot tamale eater, anything they could think of," Granados said.

Prisoners Interviewed Granados and the other prisoners were interviewed at a mass press conference at Santa Martha Acatitla men's prison. All the prisoners interviewed said they were glad to be home and were looking forward to visits from their families, wives and girlfriends. Mario Borrego de Anda, 30, arrested last April in El Paso and sentenced to two years in Latuna Prison in Anthony, N.M., for income tax evasion, said, "The

Industrialist's Wife Abducted

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Two gunmen wearing red stocking masks kidnapped the wife of wealthy Austrian textile industrialist Monday evening as she drove up to the couple's villa in the exclusive Grinzing residential district, police reported

A woman companion of Mrs. Lotte police president Karl Reidinger said.

Car Followed Reidinger said the men had followed Mrs. Boehm's car and when she approached the villa they jumped out and dragged her into their car and drove away, heading toward a wooded hill on the Danube River north of the city.

Reidinger said the two men reportedly spoke German with a Viennese accent. We have two reliable witnesses who saw the first (Mrs. Boehm's) car being

The textile industrialist is reported to be the majority stockholder of a chain of Austrian knitwear and lingerie stores known as "Schoepes." He has interests in a firm that imports textiles from Eastern Europe and the Far East and also is reported to be the majority stockholder of a small supermarket chain.

Boehm was reported among the backers of a controversial textile and clothing wholesale center on the site of Vienna's St. Marx slaughterhouse. The complex was occupied last year by youths demanding it be converted to a youth cen-

Justice Raps Court's Ruling In Rape Case

Justice Harry A. Blackmun on Monday accused the eight men he works with on the nation's highest court of displaying insensitivity toward rape victims. Blackmun's spirited rebuke came in a case involving a pretrial identification of a Chicago man convicted of rape. The court unanimously decided that the man's rights to a fair trial had been violated because he was not represented by a lawyer when identified. Concurring Opinion

In a concurring opinion, Blackmun said he had to "disassociate" himself from what he said was his fellow justices' reference to the rape victim's seeing her assailant's face for "only 10 to 15 seconds." "Time, of course, is always a compara-

"Run for your life!" shouted Claus. He tore down the far side of the mountain

'I'm coming! I'm Coming! Sputtered Tweedleknees, leaping after Claus. He lurched over a rock and went slipping, sprawling, tumbling head over heels until he came to a stop standing on his head with both legs wrapped around a tree.

Opening his upside-down eyes he saw the head of the giant looming over the top of the mountain. The giant grinned.

"Help!" bellowed Tweedleknees. Claus turned and saw the giant reaching out to snatch the elf in his gargantuan fist. His heart pounding, Claus unshouldered the bow the elves had given him to kill the Pigwidgen: He shot the magic arrow into the heart of the giant.

The earth quaked and the mountain tottered when the great giant fell. Tweedleknees leaped to his feet and slid down the mountainside to Claus. "You've done it!" he cried admiringly. "You've killed a giant!" Yes," said Claus gravely, "But I've used the magic arrow and it cannot be used again.'

"Pooh!" exclaimed Tweedleknees. "You've three more weapons. There's no need to worry.'

Then he and Claus continued on their way. The farther north they went the colder the wind blew. One day they met a witch huddled by the side of the road.

"Good day," said Claus, "Can you tell me please if this is the way to the place where the Pigwidgen dwells?"
"I'll tell you nothing," rasped the witch.

"Aren't you cold sitting there?" demanded Tweedleknees.

The witch's eyes flashed green and purple lights. Her face was chinless and her nose was like a tea kettle spout turned upside down.

"It coud be," said Tweedleknees huffily, "that if you acted nicer you" would look nicer.

House Conferees Break Deadlock Over Energy

WASHINGTON (AP) — House energy conferees, trying to break a deadlock among their Senate counterparts, agreed Monday to retreat slightly from their hard-line defense of expanding federal regulation over natural gas.

In a closed-door strategy session, Democratic House members of the panel drafted a new proposal calculated to put the stalled conference committee back on course by making several minor concessions to the oil and gas industry.

Progress on President Carter's energy program has been bogged down by failure of conferees to agree on the presi-dent's proposal for a crude oil tax and his bid to broaden price

However, congressional leaders say it still is unlikely Congress will finish work on the energy bill this year. And a White House official said Monday that Carter has become "increasingly concerned" about Congress' failure to come up with a

Although complete details of the new House natural gas proposal — expected to be formally unveiled on Tuesday — were not immediately available, sources said it contained these key elements:

-Abandonment of the provision in the administration plan extending the government's power to allocate natural gas to now-unregulated markets within the borders of gas-producing states like Texas and Louisiana

—Guaranteeing producers that their prices won't fall below certain specified levels once existing contracts expire and new ones have to be negotiated. Although the proposal falls far short of the price deregulation that the industry is seeking, sources said it was tailored to try to produce a compromise that would break Senate im-

But a conference committee member familiar with the new proposal, who asked not to be identified, predicted that Senate conferees would probably reject the measure. Senate conferees are evenly divided between keeping price controls on natural gas and lifting them.

And Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., the top Senate negotiator, said earlier in the day that there is "less than a 50-50 chance" that the divisive gas-pricing dispute can be settled

House negotiators, although reportedly ready to give up allocation powers over gas produced and used within the same state, agreed to stand fast behind the adminstration's proposal to extend price controls to this intrastate gas, the sources

Congressional leaders have abandoned hope that Congress can complete work on Carter's energy bill this year. But conference Chairman Rep. Harley Staggers, D-W.Va., said he still hopes a natural gas pricing compromise can be framed before Christmas — even if it won't be voted on until early 1978.

Efforts to negotiate a compromise between the House-passed administration plan for continued controls and a Senate-passed bill that would remove all such federal controls have been stymied because nine of the Senate conferees favor the House bill and nine favor the Senate version.

Several House and Senate conferees proposed Monday that Congress be given the legislation conferees have already agreed upon so that the two major unresolved issues — gas and oil prices — can be separated from the rest of the energy package and put off until January.

But Rep. Thomas Ashley, D-Ohio, said House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill would never consent to such an arrangement.

Carter's gas-pricing proposal would raise the price ceiling for newly discovered gas from $1.46 per 1,000 cubic feet to $1.75 in 1978, then allow this ceiling to rise gradually to about

Ashley said House conferees will consider adjusting this ti-metable, presumably to allow the ceiling to rise more rapidly.

Some proponents of deregulation on both the House and Senate side said Monday they could go along with a proposal by Rep. Charles Wiken, D-Texas, to lift price controls after five years but give the president the power to reimpose them if prices skyrocket.

But House conference leaders said they are not ready to embrace such a formula. The proposal was discussed by the Senate conferees in their closed-door session Monday but participants said no votes were taken. Meanwhile, Deputy White House Press Secretary Rex Granum said Carter has become "increasingly concerned" about Congress' failure to come up with an energy bill. But Granum refused to say the president had given up hope of getting a bill before he leaves on Dec. 29 for trips to Europe, the Middle East and Asia.

Granum said failure to complete work on the legislation by the end of the year will raise questions among foreign govern-ments about "our ability as a nation and political system to deal with a problem that has been with us for a long time."

In addition, he said, delays in finishing the energy measures are forcing delays in the final drafting of economic proposals, particularly plans to reduce taxes.

One administration source who asked not to be identified said Carter will have difficulties trying to discuss the energy situation with Saudi Arabia, the largest oil exporter, until he can present a definite U.S. energy strategy.

The source said that discussions overseas of the balance of payments deficit would be hampered because much of it is at-tributable to the cost of the U.S. oil imports.

Fellas, are you looking for a Christmas gift that will help improve your wife's cooking? Or ladies, would a husband who better understands the family's finances be a nice Yuletide gift?

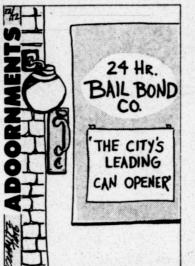

The answer is simple - buy a comput-

While it may take a computer to figure how to make such an investment, inhome computers are available in Lubbock this Christmas, and at a price considerably lower than in years past.

And for you single people, there are backgammon and chess games where the opposing player is a computer. The "micro-computers" have not been readily available until about a year and a half ago, and they did not hit Lubbock until several months ago, said Randal Null, part-owner and manager of the Neighborhood Computer Store, 4902 34th

Null's business and Computer Mart of West Texas, 3506-D Ave. Q, apparently are the only places in the city where the mini-computers can be purchased. However, Tom Chrane, owner and manager of Computer Mart, said his line is directed mainly towards small businesses. ed mainly towards small businesses.

Radio Shack also carries a line of the small computers, but presently is not able to keep them in stock because of high demand

Null, who has a Ph.D. in bio-medical engineering from Louisiana Tech, said he has sold some of the small mechanical brains to persons wanting them for home use. He also stocks the computerized backgammon game (about $200) and chess set (approximately $275).

Null suggested the computers, which range in cost from about $1,600 to $15,-000, can be used to figure income taxes, formulate educational programs for children, store family recipes and help compute a dietary balance and serve as an entertainment center.

The computers, if modified, can also control house systems such as heating and cooling, or a burglar alarm.

The smallest computer stocked by Null is about the size of a shoe box, excluding the video display, a keyboard used to feed in programs and a simple cassette recorder which acts as a storing device.

Null said his smallest computer, which costs about $1,850, would have cost between $25,000 and $50,000 five years ago and been about the size of a refrigerator. Chrane said there is an added cost in learning how to program the computers. While simple programming would not take long to learn, he said, more complex operations probably would take several years. "It (programming) takes exper ence. It's not an exact science as much: an art." Chrane said.

While the micro-computer is a relative-ly new thing, the micro-processor, or me-chanical brain used in the computer, was developed in 1970.

Chrane said he sees a dropping trend in hobbyists buying the small computers to play with, and increasing sales to businesses and schools. "Most of the people who buy these things have a goal, either monetary or academic," Chrane said.

Lubbock Avalanche-Journa Tuesday, December 13, 1977

Null said, however, micro-computer sales are not good during the holiday season because the price is too high for a normal Christmas gift. "People are spending their money in other places,"

Null, who said he left the "academic world" because he could not find a job. got into the computer business because he sees a growing market in the miniature, manmade brains for domestic use.

He adds, "I feel we're getting to a point where there is so much paperwork, we're going to need a good record-keeping system and financial analysis."

Tune In Tomorrow

By JON-MICHAEL REED

NEW YORK — The boys and girls over at NBC are an awfully wily bunch.

As we reported two weeks ago, the characters of Amy and Austin Cushing arrived on the network's top-rated soaper, "Another World," in advance of last week's "For Richer, For Poore: " debut. If "AW's" audience was sufficiently intrigued by the Cushing characters, it was hoped that the audience would follow their exploits from "AS's" Bay City to FR. FP's" Point Claire.

To futher insure a sizeable audience crossover from one show to the other. 'AW's" most popular character, Rachel Cory. traveled with Amy and Austin to the new show. Rachel's estranged husband, Mac, followed shrotly after. And if viewers want to pursue the story trail of an anticipated reconciliation between Mac and Rachel, they will have to do likewise. That's sneaky but it's also brilliant programming — hopefully.

A few new "FR, FP" actors have taken over roles played by others in the show's initial stanza which was known as 'Lovers and Friends' last winter. Darlene Parks took over the role of heroine Megan from "L&F's" Patricia Estrin, who's now on "AW" as Joan Barnard. Hero Rhett Saxton has had a name change to Bill and a change of actors from David Ramsey to Tom Happer. Cynthia Bostick inherited the role of conniving Connie from Susan Foster, while Albert Stratton has assumed John Heffernan's role of Lester Saxton. Nancy Marchand is costarring in nightime's "Lou Grant" series, so the role of Edith Cushing is now played by Laurinda Bar-rett. Original "L&F" players who are continuing in "FR,FP" include Rod Arrants (Austin), Richard Backus (Jason), Christine Jones (Amy). Stephen Joyce (George) and Flora Plumb (Eleanor).

Another asset to "FR,FP" is Patricia Barry as Viola Brewster. Mrs. Barry was one of the most popular actresses on daytime TV when she portrayed Addie Williams on "Days of Our Lives" three years ago. So immense was her fan following that the writers were forced to give her character a last-minute remission from a supposedly incurable illness after the studio was flooded by irate callers. Addie was married to hero Doug, who sired Addie's menopausal baby, Hope. Addie's reprieve was short-lived, however. The writers wrought their revenge by unexpectedly having poor Addie run down in the middle of a street by a Mac truck. Doug later married his stepdaughter, Julie, thereby keeping it all in the family.

Mrs. Barry's own life reads like a soap opera. Her ancestors were Iowa farmers and her father became a prominent surgeon in Davenport. By the time she met her husband, Philip Barry Jr., she had garnered Broadway accolades. Philip Sr. of course was the renowned playwright best-known for "The Philadelphia Story." In his youth, Philip Jr. romped around the world with his socialite parents whose charmed circle of friends included F. Scott Fitzgerald and the Hemingways Patricia assumed the mantle of her movie producer husband's jet-and yachtset ancestry. Although she's now in New York, working out of "FR.FP's" Brooklyn studio, she still maintains the family's columned, many servanted, multi-car garaged Beverly Hills mansion.

In addition to her aristocratic lifestyle, Patricia has done charity chores for the John Tracy Clinic for deaf children and organization duties for such groups as the mayor's committee of the Los Angeles Arts Council and the American National Theatre Academy

In the last twenty years Patricia has been nominated four times for nighttime TV Emmy Award for such performances as the doomed heroine in "Dark Victory" and the title role in "The Wicked Scheme of Jebel Deeks" with Sir Alec Guinness She also appeared as the leading lady in one of NBC's first but shortlived serial effrots, "First Love." Her rich appearances on NBC's newest serial will undoubtedly help the show avoid the pitfalls of becoming a "poorer" casualty.

Vera Moore has returned to her longabsent role of nurse Linda Metcalf on "Another World." Between appearances Mrs. Moore became a wife and mother. Tune in Tomorrow to see if she's of any assistance to troubled Alice.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

DR. GEORGE C. THOSTESON

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What are the rules for treating a person who has been poisoned by carbon monoxide gas, the kind you breathe from a leaky automobile exhaust? And just what happens when a person breathes it? — H.G.

The general rule is to keep the victim quiet and warm and removed from the source of the gas. He should be covered with blankets over and under, but not so far as to hinder breathing. If breathing has stopped, arificial respiration should be used. A supply of pure oxygen should be obtained and medical help summoned quickly. Pneumonia, a common compli-cation, must be guarded against.

Carbon monoxide is released when any material is not burned completely, be it gasoline, natural gas, or other fuel. The gas is dangerous because its molecules attach easily to blood cells, depriving them, and hence body tissue, of oxygen. In severe cases it may be necessary to bleed the victim and substitute fresh blood.

Headache and drowsiness are the common early symptoms of monoxide poisoning, whether from a faulty furnace or car exhaust. While the gas itself is odorless, if one smells fumes in a car, it's wise to open the windows.

Other symptoms of poisoning include muscle twitching, fast pounding pulse, throbbing in the temples, labored breathing, dilated pupils, and high blood pressure. In later stages the skin may turn dusky and the lips blue. Paralysis and coma may follow

The symptoms don't have to be dramatic, but a low level of exposure over a long period can create serious problems. One women wrote me of her experience, in which she was slowly poisoned over a 1,500-mile car trip. Only at the end of the trip did she display the accumulated effects of a leaky exhaust. Beware heaters and wall furnaces, especially in bed-rooms. They should be checked periodically to make sure combustion is complete. That goes for any such device.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can you discuss the thalamic syndrome and what it has to do with stroke? Does it cause pain? Send me your stroke booklet. The 35 cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope are en-

The thalamus (a tiny segment of the mid-brain) can be affected by stroke, either from hemorrhage or blockage of a vessel. Because it is the "pain center," knocking it out of kilter can result in pain, as a burning or extra-sensitivity to mild stimulation. The pain is in the limb affected by the stroke.

Pain-killers seldom help. Only time brings relief, and some degree of irritability may remain. In some, the entire side of the body can be affected. I've had good comments on my new stroke booklet. Your copy is on its way. Others can get one by sending the quarter and envelope to me, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I seem to be hyperventilating. Will tranquilizers help re-

First you should be sure you know what you mean by hyperventilation. Breathing is controlled by the amount of carbon dioxide in the body. This substance is released when we exhale. Sometimes "overbreathing" as with vigorous exercise can reduce the amount of carbon dioxide in the blood, make us gasp for breath. That's hyperventilation.

Tranquilizers can help if the cause is emotional, as it can be in some people But there are other causes of the carbon dioxide imbalance in the blood and those would have to be investigged. Anxiety can be a cause.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I understand that the phrase "myocardial infarction" means the death of the heart muscle. The heart being a vital organ, how do some people survive myocardial infarction? —

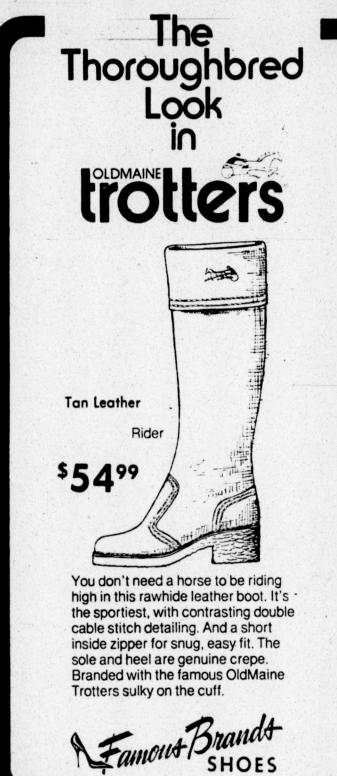

The word "infarct" means death of tis-ue due to interrupted blood supply. It doesn't necessarily mean death of the entire muscle. A small part can be affected and the rest of the heart muscle can go on performing. Most heart-attack dea caused by a wild disturbance in heart.

rhythm (ventricular fibrillation).

The damage from an infarction depends on the size of the blood vessel in-

Is angina pectoris dangerous? Is there a cure? If you would like to learn more about this heart condition, write to Dr. Thosteson, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, for a copy of his booklet, "How To Handle Angina Pectoris." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' ques tions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

ail Request Tabled

By JEFF SOUTH he-Journal Staff

Lubbock County fire fighters in 1978 will get a subsidy about the same as this

And while that compromise is not as big as they requested, they came away from Monday's meeting of the commissioners court happier than Sheriff C.H. "Choc" Blanchard

Blanchard's bid for seven more employees, mostly book-in officers, to accommodate the proposed Jan. 1 merger of Lubbock's city and county jail operations was tabled pending further study by commissioners.

Commissioners, who feel Blanchard's current staffing level is adequate, said the sheriff's insistence to hire more workers could put the jail consolidation plan in jeopardy.

Both issues demonstrate commissioners' concerns to stay within the budget they have adopted for next year.

Traditionally, commissioners have paid each of the county's small-town fire departments a fixed fee for every run they make into unincorporated areas. This year, the rate has been $275 per call - an arrangement that has cost the county $101,000 in 1977.

Commissioners feared that at the same $275 payment, next year's cost would jump to $130,000 or more. So they proposed cutting the subsidy to $200 - until fire departments balked, saying they need at least $300 per call to break even.

On Monday, commissioners approved a compromise.

For starters, they scrapped the system of compensating departments on a percall basis. Such an arrangement, they said, is unpredictable and causes budget overruns, because the county never knows how many fires will occur during a year; and encourages more than one department to respond to a single blaze.

Instead, commissioners took the $100,-000 they have set aside for fire call payments for next year and decided to divide the money among the county's various fire departments in lump-sum payments, based on the percentage of the county's fire calls each handled this year.

In effect, each department will make approximately the same next year as in 1977. A few departments may find their annual subsidy cut by a few thousand dollars, but commissioners said those departments' workloads will be lightened with the creation of new fire-fighting

The problem with the proposed formula, said Commissioner Alton Brazell in voting against the plan, is that the county does not have experience data on the newest departments, New Deal and Roosevelt

Brazell advocated continuing the $275 per-call payment until records are established on what percentage of the county's total fires are handled by each depart-However, Commissioners Coy Biggs and Edgar Chance believe they have that problem worked out. They "robbed" the allocations of the Political Hopefuls Set Plans

"The completion of the merger of the city and county jail operation, the twoyear program of construction of a new county jail, and we're just beginning a program of hiring a computer coordinator to begin a detailed study to move into more operation of the county's business by computer," Brazell said.

'We've made good headway on new rural subdivision rules for public streets, platting and public health, but there still is a lot of work to do, and I'm very interested in that project, too.

Mrs. Oden, 49, and Roy Ward went into a Democratic run-off last year for the Westside Dist. 75-A seat, with Ward coming out on top then, only to lose to Republican Robbins in the November general election.

She is a civic leader with interests in real estate.

Airhart said he will announce for the Eastside Dist. 75-B race "after the first of the year."

A newcomer to actually running for office, Airhart, 35, bears a name well-known in Democratic circles here. He is the son of the late J. B. Airhart, a old Yarborough-line liberal Democrat.

Salinas announced for re-election earlier this year. Robbins, center of some controversy within the Republican Party, has not yet made public his 1978 plans. Both Salinas and Robbins are freshmen legislators.

Corporation Named For Karen Quinlan

MORRISTOWN, N.J. (AP) - A nonprofit corporation has been established to donate money to various charitable organizations in the name of Karen Ann Quinlan, the subject of a landmark court battle over the right to die.

The funds come from income the family made in sale of a book and movie rights about Miss Quinlan, who lapsed into a coma more than 21/2 years ago and later was weaned from a respirator after the family received court permission to end extraordinary medical care.

Lack Of Identification Blocking Murder Probe

PADUCAH (Special) - No identification on the body of a man found at the bottom of a dry cistern near here Saturday temporarily has blocked investigators' efforts to find out who put a bullet into the man's skull and then shoved his body into the 18-foot-deep reservoir.

Cottle County sheriff's deputies said the anonymity of the man, found about 2:15 p.m. Saturday by a county rancher, has blocked further efforts to find his as-

"Without knowing who he is, it's next to impossible to find out who his friends and enemies were and who might have wanted to see him dead," one officer said. "It's just a standstill right now." Authorities are waiting on fingerprint comparison tests to be completed by the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Washington, D.C., in hopes the tests will iden-

He had been dead "six to 10 days" before the rancher found his body at the bottom of the cistern near an abandoned U.S. 83 Saturday.

Dist. Atty. W.H. Heatly said he had been slain by a gunshot just behind the ear with a large caliber revolver at close range in what appeared to be an execution-style killing.

Preliminary investigation, according to Sheriff Frank Taylor, has indicated the man went to the well to meet someone or was driven there. When he arrived, he was ambushed, shot, and dumped intothe well. Boards were thrown over the top to hide the slaying.

His wallet and the murder weapon were missing from the area, Taylor said, though deputies found a "suspicious" set of car tracks.

Taylor said the victim appeared to a white man about 30 years old and weighing 135 pounds. He was 5 feet 5 inches tall and was dressed in small, short-to zippered boots, light blue dress pants, a short-sleeved sports shirt and a tan vinyl jacket. He had dark brown hair and a moustache. Taylor said he wore a watch and a Masonic Lodge ring.

A two-vehicle collision just south of the city Monday left two men dead and a third hospitalized in serious condition with severe head injuries.

Department of Public Safety troopers said 70-year-old Abel Trevino of Route 1. Box 329, Lubbock, and 27-year-old Tomas Alcron of Mexico were killed about 10 a.m. Monday when their pickup collided with a dump truck at the intersection of 98th Street and Beech Avenue.

Gabriel Trevino, 42, also of Route 1, Lubbock, was taken to Methodist Hospital where he remained in serious condition late Monday.

Trevino was the driver of the pickup, which was westbound on 98th Street pulling a small wooden trailer containing a large pig. A Ulysses, Kan., man was driving the dump truck which was southbound on Beech Avenue. He was unin-The collision caused Trevino's vehicle to spin around and stop about 30 feet from the point of impact. The front of the veticle was demolished but all three occupants remained lodged in the cab.

Services for the dead men are pending with Sanders Funeral Home.

Speeding, Drinking Seen Causing Tragic Accidents

Major C.W. Bell, regional commander of the Texas Department of Public Safety here, has warned that "It is tragic that so many men, women and children will become victims of motor vehicle accidents during the Christmas and New Year holdiays.

He added, "based on past holiday experience, we believe many of the traffic accidents during the holiday will involve either speeding or drinking."

Bell called on motorists to cooperate in law enforcement efforts hold speed down during the holiday. threat posed by drunk drivers.

Maj. Bell noted that law enforcement agencies will be cooperating in an all out effort to make the streets and highways safe, and in addition, he said the Department of Public Safety will be working with the news media, trying to focus public attention on accident dangers during the holiday. Deaths so far during 1977 are running more than 10 percent higher than 1976, and are made even more tragic because they could have been avoided. Drivers are urged to burn their low-beam headlights during daylight hours throughout the holidays as a reminder to others to drive safely and light the way for a safe holiday in Texas.

Shoplifting DPS investigators said the younger Losses Zoom During Yule

NEW YORK (AP) - 'Tis the season to be jolly and, for many people, to shoplift. Merchants around the nation are expecting both Christmas shoppers and thieves to be out in force this month.

The U.S. Commerce Department estimates that shoplifting last year accounted for about $2 billion of the $7.2 billion cost of all crime in the retailing industry. Loss of merchandise through theft by employees, often difficult to distin-$1 billion of the total crime cost.

"Shoplifting has become one of the major problems of management. If they sell a dollar's worth of merchandise, about a nickel of it is to pay for security and shoplifting," said Saul Astor, a security consultant for many stores.

Juveniles, Amateurs

Research indicates that about one customer in 12 or 15 who enters a store steals something. Most shoplifters are juveniles and are amateurs, but they don't steal items worth as much as those taken by adults, studies say.

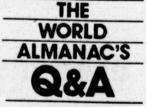

"About 40 percent of our losses are in November and December because of the heavy Christmas sales and crowded stores," said Gordon Williams, a spokesman for the National Retail Merchants Association, which represents department and specialty stores. Record Sales Predicted

An Associated Press survey of large chain and department stores found that most retailers expect a sharp gain in sales for the rest of December that should carry 1977 sales to record levels. But that also is expected to carry shoplifting losses to record levels, retailing and security executives say, because the value of stolen merchandise tends to range from about 2 percent to 4 percent of total sales. The Commerce Department estimates that only one in 35 shoplifters is caught. To increase those odds and make the thieves' job harder, stores have adopted many countermeasures.

Washington Fined, Suspended By NBA

Washington of the Los Angeles Lakers has been suspended for at least 60 days -and possibly for the remainder of the National Basketball Association season -and fined a record $10,000, the NBA announced Monday.

NBA commissioner Lawrence O'Brien handed down the unprecedented penalty for an incident in which Washington punched Kevin Kunnert and Rudy Tomjanovich of the Houston Rockets in a game last Friday night.

O'Brien said that at the end of 60 days, Washington may apply for reinstatement and the commissioner then would determine whether the sqspension would extend through the end of the season.

The suspension will keep Washington out of at least 26 games. During a suspen-

> The suspension reportedly is the longest in NBA history and the fine doubles the record of $5,000; assessed against Lakers' center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar for punching Milwaukee rookie Kent Benson in the first period of the season opener.

> "The stringent penalty reflects the severity of Washington's action on the court," O'Brien said. "A careful review of two video tapes of the game, reports from officials and statements from witnesses persuaded me to take this action."

Tomjanovich is hospitalized with injuries reported to be a fractured cheekbone, a broken nose, a fractured skull and a concusssion. He is out indefinitely.

Don Henry With His Feet On The Ground

TO RALPH CARPENTER, just about every plane trip becomes a white-knuckle flight. He isn't against air transportation; it's just he likes it a lot better when the other guy uses it.

Ralph thumps tubs for Tech athletics and has been doing it well for the past 10 1/2 years. During that time, he and his crew have hosted-in addition to the usual football, basketball, baseball, track, tennis and golf bit-six Coaches All-American all-star games, a national NCAA seminar and a Southwest Conference spring meet. So, he knows what work is.

But, travel. . . well, the distance from the seat of an auto to the West Texas topsoil is about as much air space as Carpenter likes to endure.

Of course, there was the time he and a Tech cohort started to the airport. . Ralph saw the bright new suitcase he had just received as a gift from his mother-inlaw crushed as his boss backed out of the parking lot. That may have had something to do with his feelings for airports and air travel.

TRAVEL IS NOT all bad. He likes to get out, visit around. He's one who follows the old rules. Ones like you always can get a good chicken-fried steak where the truckers stop, don't drink the water in those border towns, and you can always learn something about a town from its cab drivers. Especially the last one.

No one talks to cab drivers more than Carpenter. Being a sports publicist, he likes to ask them if there's a ball game in town. If they answer affirmatively-and correctly if Tech is playing-he feels his word is getting around. If not, well. . . better crank up the ditto machine.

But, he carries that cab driver a bit further. He likes to sit around the barber shop and listen to folks talk. You can always get some good stuff there, on sports and politics.

He tried it a few years ago at Waco. Walked in, got a shine, visited a bit, and listened to the sweaters gossip. He pitched out a sports comment, then let the locals take it from there. They gave John Bridgers, then the Baylor coach, quite a rough going. Finally, this one guy in a chair, his face all lathered up for a shave, really blistered Bridgers, without knowing who was listening.

Finally, he shifted in the chair and commented, "Maybe I've said more than

At which time Carpenter-who greatly admires Bridgers-got up, walked to the barber, handed him a business card, and said, "Give this to the man when you get through.'

BUT, THERE WERE even times when ground travel was a bit too much. Ralph likes to check the scenery, but not from behind the wheel. So, on as many trips as possible, he lets someone else act as chauffeur.

This one time, highways were slick with ice between College Station and Dallas; ice was such that planes weren't landing at Aggieland. So, to get home, there were only rent cars.

Radioman Bob Nash was behind the wheel, doing quite well despite Ralph's backseat comments—until Nash, and an 18-wheeler arrived at a bridge at the same time. Between the ice and Nash's brakes, Ralph and the back seat tried to pass Nash and his front-seat companion. Carpenter eased his grip on the front seat when the car, truck and bridge escaped untouched. But, Carpentered scribbled a couple of words on another business card and passed it to the radio announcer: "Let. . . Me. . . Drive. . .

BUT, CARPENTER IS taking drumbeating act to Ole Miss. He will join coach Steve Sloan there.

Carpenter is a Tech graduate, working in the school's news bureau before moving into athletics. He's one of the stoutest defenders of the South Plains terrain -doesn't even outwardly mind dust. He likes his school, he likes his home state, he likes West Texas.

But, he saw some potential thunder clouds on the horizon. His decision to uproot his family had nothing to do with the coaching selection. Rex Dockery is aware of this; Tom Wilson would have been aware had he been named. But Ralph has worked for Polk Robison and J T King, people he admired and trusted.

With the hint that the athletic director's post would go this summer to someone other than another old friend, John Conley, Ralph evidently saw the possibility of working with new people. Maybe he feels he's past the point where he wants to prove himself to a new boss, although anyone who couldn't be pleased with Ralph's work can't be pleased. Peri-

But, fact that Carpenter feels the need to move points to possible changes in direction, athletically, for Texas Tech.

Ralph was known, in his and the sportswriting professions, as one of the best in his trade. Also, he was just plain good folks. Texas Tech can't afford to lose many more good folks; it has lost enough

THE COTTON OUTLOOK OF LIVERPOOL reports that although Russia's harvest has proceeded much as expected and the final outturn of seed cotton if not of lint - will establish a new record, Northern Hemisphere production prospects generally have had a setback outside the United States during the past

Most significantly, some southern districts of India have been ravaged by

The extent of the damage there, and in neighboring areas where rains have fallen, remains in doubt. But most current estimates of the country's production have fallen to fewer than 67 million bales of 170 kilos, whereas an output of more than 7 million bales previously had been foreseen.

PAKISTAN HAS EXPERIENCED FAVORABLE weather and still seems likely to harvest at least 3.1 million bales of 392 pounds, with as many as 1 million bales expected to be available for export.

Turkey earlier had hoped for a national outturn in the area of 600,000 tons, but the recent official estimate of output in the southern region is much below trade expectations.

Egypt still has to complete the final assessment of her crop, but the outturn is too small to permit further export sales of her medium and shorter-staple cot-

The Sudan has experienced mixed weather conditions for her later maturing crop and cannot now venture a further forecast.

Throughout the franc zone growing countries, however, producers are resigned to disappointing outturns following fitful rains.

South Africa now hopes to increase acreage substantially for the new crop and to reemerge as an exporter.

IN LATIN AMERICA. NO SIGNIFICANT NEW developments are reported as to the current crops in Mexico and Central America, though many farmers report their intentions to reduce new-crop acreage.

The Colombian coastal crop has suffered significant damage from insect attack and its size therefore is in doubt, but drier weather conditions the past two weeks have assisted control measures. Planting operations are well advanced farther south.

Brazil feels that her outturn may approach the bumper crop picked last season. Paraguay and Argentina foresee excellent results. Argentina may produce 180,000 tons, with as much as 80,000 available for the export market.

THE 1977 TEXAS COTTON CROP, now estimated at 5,475,000 bales, is expected to be the largest since 1949 when the all-cotton output totaled 6,050,000

Production last year totaled 3,314,400 bales. Yield is projected at 415 pounds per acre, up from 353 last year but still below the statewide record average of 431 pounds in 1973. Harvested acres are estimated at 6.3 million and show a 40 per cent increase

Cotton Loan Program Explained

cord cotton crops of more than 3.25 million sales on the High Plains draws to a close, farmers are asking questions about use of the Commodity Credit Corp. loan Answers from the Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., come in the form of "mostly information, very little advice.

"For producers who decide not to sell now at these low prices," says PCG executive vice president Donald Johnson, the loan is probably the most economical choice, but the sell-or-hold decision itself is a decision for each individual."

Plains producers have been selling at 100 to 400 points over loan values, depending on quality. The average recently probably has been about 200 points or $10 per bale over the applicable loan rate.

If prices fail to recover sufficiently, farmers who put cotton into the loan may not get the $10 per bale "premium." But should the market rise more than enough to cover carrying charges before the term of the loan expires, the farmer can realize a greater return.

'At the end of the initial 10-month loan period on 1977-78 crop cotton, if prices are still low, farmers will have the option to extend the loan for an additional eight months," Johnson points out.

Under the previous loan program, all cotton loans expired 10 months from the first day of the month in which they were written.

The new option to carry cotton in the loan for a maximum of 18 months, the PCG executive explains, "means the farmer can retain title to his crop long enough for the size of the 1978 crop to exert its full influence on the market.

It means also that changes in world cotton consumption over the next year and half will come into play while the loan cotton is still under farmer ownership, he

As for advice, PCG officials suggest only that producers might be wise, where feasible, to delay market decisions two or three months. During this period, they point out final cotton program regulations for 1978 will be issued, the U.S. Department of Agriculture will publish January planting intentions report and the outcome of ongoing multifiber trade negotiations will become known.

Wheat Reserve Incentives Offered

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Administration farm officials hoping to persuade farmers to put 300 million bushels of surplus wheat into a grower-owned reserve may be disappointed unless they sweeten federal storage payment schedules, a farmer spokesman warns.

An Agriculture Department source conceded the spokesman may be right.

Under the reserve program, wheat growers whose standard federal price support loans expire on grain from the 1976 and 1977 crops are being offered a chance to get three-year extensions of the

This means the farmers continue to own the grain, which is in storage either on farms or in commercial warehouses. If market prices rise substantially during the three-year reserve period, the growers can repay the support loans with interest and redeem the grain for sale on the open market.

As a further inducement to deposit grain in the reserve, the Agriculture Department has announced it will pay storage costs during the three-year period at a rate of 20 cents per bushel annually for wheat. The same rate will be paid for corn, sorghum and barley deposited in a planned 750 million-bushel feed grain reserve, and a 15-cent per bushel rate is scheduled for oats.

tional Association of Wheat Growers, said the scheduled 20-cent storage payment for wheat may be unattractive to many growers.

Administration officials had said they hoped to have the 300 million-bushel wheat reserve in place by the time the 1978 crop begins moving to market on June 1 next year. But Schwensen said, "it seems clear that program changes will be required if targeted reserve levels are to be reached by the end of May.'

An Agriculture Department source conceded there may be 'a problem" in getting some wheat and corn farmers into the reserve program at the 20 cent per bushel storage rate, particularly among producers who have stored their grain in commercial warehouses rather than in on-farm bins.

In many cases, the source said, the 20 cents the farmer can collect from the government will not cover the storage charge levied by commercial warehous-

The source said some Agriculture Department officials had proposed offering a 25-cent a bushel storage payment. But they were overruled for budget reasons, he indicated.

is eligible for deposit but cannot actually go into the reserve until original 1977 support loans expire in 1978.

Farmers whose support loans expire and who do not want to either put the grain into the three-year reserve or redeem it for open-market sale have a third option available. They can simply keep the price support loan they collected when the grain was placed under support and turn the grain over to the govern-

Agriculture Department records show that of the 474 million bushels of 1976 wheat placed under support, a total of nearly 28 million bushels has so far been turned over to government ownership. The amount of grain from 1977 crops placed under support loans, meanwhile, is up sharply from a year earlier.

As of Nov. 30, wheat growers had put 456 million bushels, nearly a quarter of this year's crop, under federal price support loans which hold the grain off the commercial market. One year earlier, only 148 million bushels of wheat were under loan by Nov. 30.

Corn records are similar. As of Nov. 30, farmers had put 395 million bushels of the 1977 crop under support, compared with 102 million bushels on the same date

Fertilizer Abundant, Price May Be Cheaper

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Agriculture Department says fertlizer supplies are abundant and that farmers can expect fairly stable and possibly lower prices through next spring's planting.

One of the reasons is that government programs for wheat and corn are aimed at reducing 1978 acreages. Also, supplies of some kinds of fertilizer are much larger, meaning more competitive prices in the months ahead. The department already has announced a program to reduce next year's wheat acreage by requiring farmers to set aside crop land equal to 20 percent of their actual 1978 wheat plantings. A conditional 10 percent set-aside program has been announced for next year's feed grain crop, subject to review next spring. Meanwhile, the department's Outlook and Situation Board says that "relatively low" market prices for major commodities, including wheat and corn, will have an effect on how much investment farmers will be prepared to make in fertilizer for 1978 crops. The board said in a recent review that anhydrous ammonia - a major source of nitrogen - is up 16 percent this year to 22.7 million tons. Production of phosphoric acid for phosphate is about the same as in 1976 at 9.3 million tons. The supply of potash involves mostly imported ingredients from Canada, and this demand is expected to continue to exceed domestic production of about three million tons, the report said. In reviewing fertilizer use by farmers

"Fertilizer use by regions reflected drought conditions in the mountain states, generally favorable price prospects at planting time in the southeast and Appalachian regions, and increased cotton acreage in the southern Plains,"

the report said. Looking at the world situation, officials said fertilizer use is expected to continue to increase but that supplies are generally large enough to meet demands.

Price Support Loan Rate Set For Cotton

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland Monday announced he has set the price support loan rate for the 1978 crop of extralong staple cotton at 83.2 cents a pound - the lowest level permitted by law, but still 6.5 cents above the 1977 rate.

The announcement was made as farmers who grow the crop began voting in a four-day mail referendum on whether to ccept government marketing controls for their 1978 crop.

If the controls are accepted, farmers who comply with federal planting allotments will be eligible for support loans at the newly-announced rate, which is 65 percent of the theoretically fair parity price for the crop.

If controls are rejected, supports at 50 percent of parity will be available to growers who comply with planting allotments.

Extra-long staple cotton is a sp fiber, grown on a comparatively small scale mainly in Arizona, New Mexico afd Texas. Production this year was estimated at about 93,000 bales compared with 14.3 million bales of ordinary upland cot-

Spokesmen said a national acreage allotment of 92,381 acres has been set for the 1978 crop, along with a national marketing quota of 97,000 bales.

Actor Celebrates Golden Anniversary

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Lloyd Nolan plays Santa Claus in an episode of "Police Woman" this week, approximately 65 years after he first portrayed Kris Kringle as a grammar school student.

Nolan, 75, is celebrating his golden anniversary as an actor this year with the observation, "I wouldn't have been good at anything else." The veteran character actor sat in the dining room of the Bel Air Country Club where he has been a member for more years than he can remember. He spied Fred MacMurray on the practice putting green and grinned.

The years have been good to both of us." he said.

"I recall when Fred and I and Jimmy Stewart and Bette Davis were all trying to find work on Broadway back in the late 1920s. Now 50 years later, and with a lot of luck, we're doing all right.

"The acting bug bit me the first time I played Santa at the Golden Gate elementary school in San Francisco. I fought it for a while but not very hard."

Nolan attended Stanford University, studying drama, and flunked out in 1924. He found a job as a cadet on the President Polk, a round-the-world cruise ship, with a salary of 25 cents a month.

After a single cruise around the globe the ship burned in Brooklyn and Nolan returned to Stanford only to leave again to try vaudeville. Thereafter he spent a year at the Pasadena Playhouse.

"My first professional stage appearance was with Edward Everett Horton at the old Vine Street theater right here in Hollywood," he said, laughing. "But I have to go to Broadway.

"I'll never forget my big break in 1933 in 'One Sunday Afternoon.' After that I did 'Reunion in Vienna' with Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne. It was in the middle of the Depression and I made $55 a week which was a fortune at the time

"But the important thing was the education I got on stage every night working with the two best actors in the country.

"I only spent six years in New York but even in the midst of the Depression I worked all the time. Maybe it was easier then than it is for youngsters these days. There weren't as many actors.

"There's an enormous amount of talent around now. But I don't know if it gets the polishing we did in vaudeville and on knew if I wanted an acting career I'd stage. Some old vaudevillians refined their acts for 20 years.

"The best investment I ever made was my house in Brentwood," he said. "I bought it in 1942 for $13,500 cash. Today it's worth a million. But I have no intention of selling it.

"My father was a shoe manufacturer in San Francisco and wanted me to go into business with him. But I'd have been a terrible shoe salesman. My grandfather made a fortune in the liquor business. Maybe I could have done better at that.

'Kidding aside, no other kind of work could have brought me the pleasure and good life that I'm enjoying now. At 75 most men are retired.

"That's the great thing about acting. You can work forever. There are no retirement laws for actors.

Does Nolan have any regrets about his long career in show business? Would he have changed anything? "I wouldn't change much," he said.

Teacher Says School Allows Reverse Bias

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) - A voice instructor who has twice won district auditions for the Metropolitan Opera testified Monday she was fired from predominantly black Alabama State University because she is white.

Asked how she reached that conclusion, Ann Davidson Patillo replied," there's no other reason." Mrs. Patillo was among witnesses called in a hearing on a federal court suit which claims "white persons, as a class, have been discriminated against" at Alabama State.

The suit was filed by Charles R. Craig, a former English instructor who also is white. Craig says he, like Mrs. Patillo, was fired without cause.

The class action suit seeks reinstatement of Craig and others who similarly were fired.

Mrs. Patillo, who was voice instructor and opera department director at the state-run university for two years, said she has a bachelor's degree from Brigham Young University, a master's in music from Indiana University and studied in Austria for three years at the Vienna Academy of Music.

She said no official at the school expressed dissatisfaction with her work in her first year and that the music department won accreditation in 1972 through her efforts.

In her final conversation with the head of the music department, Dr. Otis Simmons, she said, she was told to "leave quietly and don't cause any directed him in 'Fun with Dick and Jane.' George has been a big help to Jackie with the comedy, which is new to

"Chefs" is the third big film in a row for Bisset. "The Deep" was a box-office winner that enhanced her salability with producers. She recently completed "The Greek Tycoon" in a role transparently patterned after another Jacqueline. In Paris, Kotcheff has been filming in the kitchens of the city's famed cafes, starting before dawn so as not to interfere with the regular cooking. One morning Jackie was working in the subterrane-an kitchen of the Lido, which had been converted to resemble Buckingham Palace. Afterward she talked about her career and her changed attitude.

"The nice thing about having some success is that you are able to contribute," she remarked. "I can make suggestions about a scene and people will listen, which is the way it should be in a collaborative art. Earlier in my career I worked with directors who didn't want any suggestions, especially from women.

'I must admit that men used to frighten me. I suppose that goes back to my upbringing in England. My father was the voice of authority, and little girls were supposed to look pretty and not ask questions. I don't mean to put down my father, because I adore him. But that's just the way it was in England."

Her fear of men carried over to her career, since the film industry, except for its use of actresses and women in a few crafts, is male-oriented. Directors treated her "like a blind puppet," and she was too scared to object.

"All I know is that I was moved by the story. The woman is a strong role, and it's difficult to find roles that aren't a sex object or a put-upon woman.

"I'm not going to get into that dreary cliche about 'Why don't they write good roles for women?' But I do believe that women are interested in women. They would like to see emotional stories between men and women, or women and

Her last roles have taken Jackie Risset (prounounced Bis-SET) to the Bahamas, Greece and now to Venice, Paris, London and Munich for "Chefs." California remains her base, and she lives in Benedict Canyon with a Frenchman, Victor Drai, now a real estate man. They have been together four years.

Still, Cynthia's mother, who under the stage name of Cely Carrillo once played a lead role in "South Pacific" at the St. James Theater, does not conceal a protective interest in her daugther's life. "We stll pick her up at the theater. We don't leave her alone. We don't neglect her. We feel a responsibility."

Once on stage, however, Cynthia Onrubia does nicely on her own, thank you. Since April, she's been an understudy for adult roles in the longrunning "The Chorus Line" - the youngest featured dancer on Broadway.

She started out as the understudy for two major roles, learned a third and is working on a fourth. "She knows all the parts," offered mother.

Cynthia's show business portfolio begins at 4 when she began taking ballet lessons. By the time she was 7, Cynthia won her first Actor's Equity role in a traveling company production of "South Pacific." At 10, she played in "The King and I" at the Guy Lombardo Theatre on Long Is-

Stock lists, it seems to me, are always interesting if only because they reveal what other people are thinking of for income, growth, speculation, etc. With thousands of corporate equity issues to choose from, it isn't always easy to suggest how non-professional investors should employ their funds. "Not easy" is not quite strong enough. "Dangerous" is a better word. It's for this reason that I'm often willing to present other people's opinions-especially if the source is reputable and the issues mentioned fall within not help with diversification.
