

Begin, Sadat Still Sharply Split Over Palestinian Issue

ISMAILIA, Egypt (UPI) — Egypt and Israel ended their two-day Christmas summit Monday in sharp disagreement over the key issue to a Middle East peace — the establishment of a Palestinian state on the West Bank of the Jordan and in the Gaza Strip.

"I don't think there is any gap that cannot be bridged," Begin said. "There is a solution," Sadat said. Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan injected a note of uncertainty into the situation. In a radio interview aboard the plane flying the Israelis back to Israel, he said he was "very worried" by summit developments.

The question is how to avoid running around or hitting a dead end. His remarks conflicted sharply with the optimism displayed by Begin who telephoned President Carter in Georgia to say the talks were "very successful."

Latest Los Angeles Deaths Labeled As 'Copycat Killings'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A 21-year-old woman and a teen-ager who was turned out of a troubled girls' home which had closed for Christmas were strangled by someone apparently imitating the Hillside Strangler, police said Monday.

Thomas Davis, 24, of Los Angeles was booked for investigation of murder in one of the deaths, and Stephen D-Orsey Devizin, 40, a friend of Davis, was taken into custody later.

They said they were turning over their disagreements to two new committees headed by the Israeli and Egyptian foreign and defense ministers who will meet simultaneously in Jerusalem and Cairo to try to solve the political and military questions blocking peace.

He said the deaths of the two young women, whose bodies were found early Saturday, probably were not related to the deaths of 11 young women killed by the Hillside Strangler since mid-October. License Number Traced... He said Davis was traced through a license number provided by a motel employee who saw a man place what he thought was an "unconscious woman," wrapped in blanket, in a car.

But there was no such agreement Monday. Sinai Withdrawal Pledged... Egyptian officials said Israel did pledge to withdraw from all of the Sinai Desert but Egypt insisted on the creation of a Palestinian state and Israel would only offer some degree of self-rule, but not sovereignty.

Striking Farmers Draw Unlawful Acts Warning

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Striking farmers will hurt their cause if they blockade highways and food distribution centers, Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland says. "I thoroughly disapprove of such tactics and it will hurt them," Bergland said in a year-end interview.

"But any effort in this regard has to be supported by the public if it's going to be effective, and I think farmers have a good case to make," he said. "It would be too bad if their good case was destroyed by the actions of a few who exceeded the law."

develop a shortfall in grain in the next 12 months," he explained. But he did not predict a shortage, saying: "We'll draw down on (existing surplus) stocks ... It's highly unlikely we'd see a repeat of 1972 and 1973 when stocks were drawn down to levels regarded by some as dangerously low."

Fight, Shooting Fatal For Lubbock Man, 21

RACIAL slurs reportedly instigated a fight near Texas Tech University that left a 21-year-old Lubbock youth dead only minutes before Christmas Day quietly ended.

Scattered cases of temporary blockades were reported last week, including incidents in which angry farmers delayed delivery of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal for several hours and blocked entrances to a livestock sale at Coldwater, Mich. Bergland has publicly endorsed tractor parades and other demonstrations as an effective way for farmers to make consumers aware of the severe economic squeeze gripping them.

Convert Flees To Rev. Moon

GREELEY, Colo. (UPI) — Rick Schnorr, 28, was en route to California Monday to rejoin the Rev. Sun Myung Moon's Unification Church, having spent a weekend in a Loveland motel room with four unsuccessful deprogrammers.

Police investigating a fight called about 11:45 p.m. Sunday found the body of Clifton Ray Casbeer slumped across the steering wheel of his small foreign car, but his assailants, witnesses said, already had sped off in a 1964 yellow Chevrolet Nova.

Justice of the Peace L.J. Blalack pronounced the youth dead at the scene and ruled his death homicide. Blalack said Monday autopsy reports indicated the youth died of a single gunshot wound to the side rather than from massive cuts suffered in the fight.

The elder Schnorr then hired two investigators and two deprogrammers who abducted his son Wednesday and spent two days attempting to change his religious beliefs. The younger Schnorr attempted to escape Thursday, but was taken to another Loveland hotel where employees became suspicious and alerted police. However, authorities backed off after the deprogrammers showed them a copy of the court order.

Search Suspended For Missing Man

GALVESTON (AP) — An air and sea search for a 28-year-old Houston man who reportedly fell from a fishing boat near here on Christmas Day was suspended because of darkness late Monday, Coast Guard officials said. The identity of the missing man was being withheld pending notification of next of kin.

CLIFTON RAY CASBEER

Several Mexican-American men reportedly chased the man's car to the 2500 block of 4th Street where Casbeer and six Mexican-American men pulled the vehicles over and began fighting. One witness told officers he drove by the area just in time to watch the fight. He honked his horn in an attempt to chase the men away, but upon seeing the men weren't leaving, he turned the car around and began going back to help.

Construction specialists with blowtorches climbed a 20-foot mound of twisted steel and broken concrete to cut heavy metal beams as part of recovery effort at the Continental Grain Co. elevator. Much of the giant elevator complex was demolished by the massive explosion Thursday.

Holiday Fatalities Toll Reaches 340

By United Press International The Christmas traffic death toll hit 340, climbing toward predicted levels Monday as holiday travelers braved icy cold on their homeward journeys. Freezing temperatures extended as far south as Texas and Florida but generally dry conditions helped hold down the number of fatalities.

Research on improving weather forecasts and linking them to crop prospects is still underway. "but we're not good enough with that (yet) to be able to issue ... an official federal forecast on which people can make decisions," he said.

Until late Christmas night, company officials said three more men still were missing, but they revised the figure with an explanation Monday morning. "This has occurred from the moment of the explosion to the present day," Klibert said. "I don't believe Continental officials knew exactly how many were on the premises when it blew."

Turbulence Shakes Up Passengers

MIAMI (UPI) — Steve Schechtman was playing gin rummy aboard a Braniff Airlines DC-8 when the cards went flying through the air.

He fell to his knees and grabbed his seat armrest and tried to hold on, but was hurled to the cabin's ceiling and then dropped back to the floor.

"I've flown many times, but I've never seen anything this bad," Schechtman said of Flight 907 Sunday, which hit a pocket of "clear air turbulence" while en route from New York to Panama.

"People were yelling and screaming and bodies seemed to be flying everywhere. I thought the plane was never going to pull out."

The Christmas day flight began to shake as the jet flew at 37,000 feet south of Bimini. In the next few seconds it plunged 10,000 feet before pilot Charles Winterbottom was able to pull it out of the dive.

The plane was re-routed to Miami, where 26 people were taken to hospital emergency rooms for treatment of cuts and bruises and two others decided not to reboard the plane. One man with a heart condition was hospitalized for observation.

Severe Winds Strike California Again

Roaring winds almost as severe as those which wrought havoc on California last week kicked up again Monday, triggering power outages and spraying heavy rain over much of Southern California.

At least three radio stations and one television station in Bakersfield were blacked out when 60 mph winds knocked down a 70,000-volt power line, but no homes were immediately affected, said Fritz Draeger, a spokesman for Pacific Gas & Electric.

The rains caused rock and mud slides in Southern California mountain areas and flooded several roads in low-lying areas, the California Highway Patrol reported.

By early afternoon, the storm had dumped nearly an inch of rain on Los Angeles, bringing the seasonal rainfall total to more than four inches to date, up by almost half an inch over last year, the National Weather Service said. The normal figure by this date is 4 1/4 inches. The rainfall season, which began July 1, ends next June 30.

The storm was expected to taper off by Tuesday night, although heavy showers remained likely through Tuesday.

Several highways scattered over a wide area were closed because of the rain-caused slides, flooding and poor visibility.

Draeger said that although no additional homes were immediately affected by Monday's winds, 500 homes in the Bakersfield-Arvin area were still without power Monday because of last week's storm.

"The winds aren't as strong as last week but they're getting pretty strong," said Marilyn Covington, a reporter with Radio Station KLYD in Bakersfield, one of the three blacked-out radio stations.

Television station KJTV, a CBS affiliate, was to have carried the Los Angeles Rams football playoff game, and many Southern Californians had gone to Bakersfield to watch it on TV because the non-sellout game was not available on local television.

Clouds, Chill, Rain Expected

Chilly afternoons, cloudy skies and a 20 percent chance of rain are expected to dampen post-Christmas spirits across the South Plains today and Wednesday as a weak cold front moves across the region.

An upper level disturbance originating off the California coast began moving into West Texas Monday night, and forecasters expect it to bring scattered light rain by tonight and Wednesday.

The highs today and Wednesday should rise only to the 40s before plunging to the mid 20s to mid 30s tonight. Winds today should be southerly at 10 to 15 mph.

The amount of sunshine is expected to drop from 6 hours today to a bare two hours Wednesday, as skies become increasingly cloudy.

Overcast skies were reported in portions of south and west Texas Monday as a cool front extended from Wichita Falls southwest to Midland.

Behind the frontal system, temperatures remained in the 40s to 50s, while 60-degree readings were common in south Texas. Statewide extremes ranged from a chilly 43 degrees at Dalhart to a balmy 72 at San Antonio.

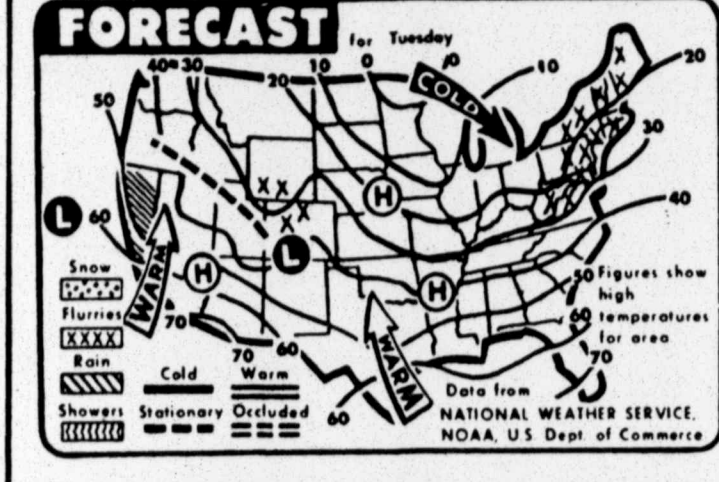

the field was soaking wet for the game with Minnesota even though it had been covered by a tarpaulin prior to kickoff.

The weather bureau said rain also fell over Nevada and Arizona.

To the east, scattered light snow fell over portions of the northern Rockies and the northern Plains, and flurries and occasional snow showers continued in the areas adjacent to the Great Lakes.

Travelers advisories were in effect Monday for parts of upper and lower Michigan as the possibility of new snow accumulations posed hazardous driving conditions.

Travelers advisories also were issued for parts of Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York, near Erie and Ontario lakes. Locally heavy snow squalls were forecast in the snowbelt regions.

Pamphlets To Explain Rights For Disabled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government is preparing to read millions of handicapped people their rights when it comes to schooling, jobs and health care. The message will be distributed in English, Spanish and Braille pamphlets explaining that new laws and regulations offer to the handicapped civil rights guarantees similar to those previously extended to minorities and women. The intended recipients include the deaf and blind, victims of cancer and heart disease, the mentally ill and retarded, alcoholics, drug addicts and people with a host of other disabilities. They are among the estimated 28 million physically and mentally handicapped adults and 8 million handicapped children in America.

"If you are otherwise qualified — for a job, college, welfare or other activity or service — your disability doesn't count," says a pamphlet called "Your Rights As A Disabled Person" being prepared by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

"Federal law is on your side," it says. "Your rights are protected ... if your employer, school, college, hospital or other service provider receives federal assistance. That means federal money, services or property."

It also tells parents of physically or mentally disabled children they "have the right to demand that your federally assisted local public school system provide a free education appropriate to your child's needs."

HEW early next year will distribute 1 million copies of the pamphlet.

It is preparing it and two others intended for schools, colleges, social service agencies, hospitals and other health care facilities as part of a government effort to explain two laws — one barring discrimination against handicapped persons and the other assuring a free public education for all handicapped children. Hospitals, said to be the largest group of health providers affected by Section 504 of the 1973 Rehabilitation Act, will be told they must: provide an emergency room interpreter or make other effective provisions for deaf patients; treat the physical injuries of a person under the influence of alcohol or drugs; and admit disabled persons to natural childbirth, anti-smoking and other public service instruction programs.

Schools, from kindergarten through college, will be told to open their doors to the 1 million children who have not gone to school because of their handicaps and to make education more accessible to other disabled children. "Failure to meet the antidiscrimination requirements could result in withdrawal of federal funding," says the pamphlet for school and college administrators.

The pamphlets list these handicapping conditions among those covered by the laws: alcoholism; cancer; cerebral palsy; deafness or hearing impairment; diabetes; drug addiction; epilepsy; heart disease; mental or emotional illness; mental retardation; multiple sclerosis; muscular dystrophy; orthopedic, speech or visual impairment; and perceptual handicaps such as dyslexia, minimal brain dysfunction and developmental aphasia.

Amnesia Victim Receives Memory For Christmas

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — "Jim Kirk" got a very nice Christmas present this year — he found out who he is. "Jim Kirk" is the name that the Rev. William Peckham gave to the youth who showed up in Springfield about three weeks ago, unable to remember who he was.

The youth stayed with Peckham, became involved in some volunteer work and seemed fine — except that he could remember nothing about his personal life.

"We'd be going to breakfast and I'd ask him if he liked waffles and he'd just shrug," Peckham said. "We found out by trial and error that he didn't like coffee and tomatoes but everything else was all right."

The young man had been complaining of severe headaches, Peckham said Monday. Saturday, when Peckham returned from an errand, he found the youth unconscious.

"I started shaking him, trying to wake him and yelled, 'Jim, wake up! Wake up, Jim!' over and over," Peckham said. "Finally he woke up and looked at me and said, 'My name isn't Jim.' To my astonishment, I discovered he had it all back.

"Even more surprising than that, he had it all back except for the three weeks he had been here."

The youth's name is Lon McGinness. He is 18 and runs a miniature golf course with his two brothers in Janesville, Wis.

He lost his memory Dec. 4 when he was hit on the head with a golf club by robbers who tried to take the business receipts he carried.

After the attack he started hitchhiking toward Texas because he found the name of that state on his belt buckle and thought it might have significance, Peckham said.

Peckham said Springfield police contacted Janesville police, who verified the story the youth told and found the golf club used to hit him. They then contacted McGinness' parents, who were visiting relatives in Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Argentina Heads List Of Violators

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Argentina is Latin America's "most flagrant violator" of human rights and Venezuela has the best record, according to a year-end review issued Monday by the Council on Hemispheric Affairs.

The private research group said Argentina has an estimated 18,000 victims of human rights violations in its jails — "more innocent victims ... than the rest of Latin America combined."

It said Uruguay ranks only second to Argentina on its list of Latin American nations "violating human rights, as killings, abductions and the systematic use of torture continue in these two countries in spite of worldwide international condemnation."

Venezuela, a democracy, was the only Latin American nation awarded a "good human rights score," it said.

Here is how the council assessed other nations:

—Brazil: Human rights situation "gradually improving." Torture and organized killings of government opponents on the decrease, but "little evidence the military is prepared to return Brazil to civilian rule when presidential elections take place next summer."

—Chile: Military government has been denounced by the United Nations for refusal to account for thousands who disappeared after being picked up by security forces.

—Paraguay, Bolivia, Nicaragua, El Salvador and Guatemala: "Poor" records because of government-condoned rightist violence.

—Ecuador and Peru: "Deserve close watch because both countries have been the site of continued government excesses."

—Mexico and Costa Rica: Generally considered important human rights advocates but have "less than perfect grades."

The council said the United States has not taken strong enough economic measures against hemispheric human rights violators. "Until Washington gets tough with private banks and corporations that provide economic assistance to Latin American nations irrespective of their human rights records," it said, "the Carter policy will continue to be more shadow than substance."

The group lists as members of its Executive Committee: Chauncey Alexander, executive director, National Association of Social Workers; Manuel Fierro, president, National Congress of Hispanic American Citizens; Douglas Fraser, president, United Auto Workers; and Rabbi Morton Rosenthal, Anti-Defamation League.

Director Laurence Birns said assessments of each nation were made by the council's research staff on the basis of factors including number of political prisoners and representative nature of government. He characterized the council as a "liberal organization" which is "violently against dictatorial regimes in Latin America, particularly those that violate human rights."

Reformed Alcoholics Don't Drink

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Rand Report, claiming some recovered alcoholics safely can take up moderate drinking, hasn't tempted many of them to try hard liquor, beer or wine again, scientists report in the latest "Journal of Studies on Alcohol."

The study, published Monday by Rutgers University, was conducted among alcoholics in the Boston area by Drs. Ralph Hingson, Norman Scotch and Eli Goldman of the Boston University School of Medicine.

The investigation was funded by the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism. The Rand Corporation's report brought a heated response from many in the battle against alcoholism when it came out in June 1976.

Fears were enormous and there was much criticism of the alleged "green light" to drinking again for some alcoholics.

Dr. John Norris, chairman of the board of Alcoholics Anonymous, said, "people are going to die as a result of this report."

Among those expressing a different view was Dr. Morris Chafetz, then director of the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism.

He argued that the Rand Report might loosen some of the "rigid, stereotypic thinking about treating alcoholism."

The followup study started last January and 244 patients were interviewed. Four said they had attempted drinking again after becoming abstinent and had suffered relapse.

The four said the Rand Report was an influence only when they were asked about it directly.

"In only one instance," Hingson said,

"did the (Rand) report appear to play a primary role in the decision about drinking."

The Boston investigators cautioned against unqualified generalization of their findings, saying there is a limitation in a research situation.

Summing up, they said: "Our findings suggest that the Rand Report may have influenced the drinking behavior of only a tiny fraction of people in treatment and of members of the general population."

On the limitations of their research, the investigators made these points:

1. "The Boston area samples do not necessarily reflect the (Rand) report's impact elsewhere."

2. "We are genuinely concerned about the possibility that our sampling procedures may have missed those persons who conceivably might have been influenced by the report — that is, those who as a result of the report might have gone on such a binge that it led to their death. However, after interviewing treatment professionals, our sense is that such people are rare indeed."

Reformed Alcoholics Don't Drink

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Rand Report, claiming some recovered alcoholics safely can take up moderate drinking, hasn't tempted many of them to try hard liquor, beer or wine again, scientists report in the latest "Journal of Studies on Alcohol."

The study, published Monday by Rutgers University, was conducted among alcoholics in the Boston area by Drs. Ralph Hingson, Norman Scotch and Eli Goldmann of the Boston University School of Medicine.

The investigation was funded by the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism.

The Rand Corporation's report brought a heated response from many in the battle against alcoholism when it came out in June 1976.

Fears were enormous and there was much criticism of the alleged "green light" to drinking again for some alcoholics.

Dr. John Norris, chairman of the board of Alcoholics Anonymous, said, "people are going to die as a result of this report."

Among those expressing a different view was Dr. Morris Chafetz, then director of the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism.

He argued that the Rand Report might loosen some of the "rigid, stereotypic thinking about treating alcoholism."

The followup study started last January and 244 patients were interviewed. Four said they had attempted drinking again after becoming abstinent and had suffered relapse.

The four said the Rand Report was an influence only when they were asked about it directly.

"In only one instance," Hingson said,

"did the (Rand) report appear to play a primary role in the decision about drinking."

The Boston investigators cautioned against unqualified generalization of their findings, saying there is a limitation in a research situation.

Summing up, they said:

"Our findings suggest that the Rand Report may have influenced the drinking behavior of only a tiny fraction of people in treatment and of members of the general population."

On the limitations of their research, the investigators made these points:

1. "The Boston area samples do not necessarily reflect the (Rand) report's impact elsewhere."

2. "We are genuinely concerned about the possibility that our sampling procedures may have missed those persons who conceivably might have been influenced by the report — that is, those who as a result of the report might have gone on such a binge that it led to their death. However, after interviewing treatment professionals, our sense is that such people are rare indeed."

Capitol Redecorated While Congress Gone

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Workmen have replaced members of Congress on the floor of the House during the current recess for the most ambitious renovation of the spacious hall in more than a decade.

New carpeting is being installed on the House floor at an estimated cost of $69.135 for 1,975 yards of material, allowing for leftovers for any later repairs.

The project is the most extensive of a score or more of repair and remodeling jobs being carried out while Congress is in a month-long recess between sessions. The Senate settled for new carpeting in the senators' dining room plus overhauling of its Appropriations Committee hearing room.

Carpeting of the House floor entails removal of all the nearly 500 seats and dismantling of miles of wire that operates microphones and the electronic voting boards.

The last such carpeting project was done in the spring of 1965 when material with a basic red background and a mixture of blue and gold flecks was put down. Wear and tear, requiring patching that was noticeable even from the public galleries, prompted the installation of all new carpeting.

The new material is a basic royal blue with light blue flecks. The aisles and well of the floor, where speakers stand for debate, have additional colors of red and gold with gold stars woven into the material.

The color scheme was designed by Capitol Architect George White, and the red approximates the color used on the old House chamber floor in 1822.

Coal Producers Plan To Meet Carter's Goal

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 100 of the nation's biggest coal producers plan to open or expand enough mines to meet President Carter's goal of doubling production by 1985, according to a study released by the National Coal Association.

The industry organization said Sunday that the producers plan 332 new or expanded mines and additional production of 594 million tons of coal annually.

Current capacity is 775 million to 800 million tons, which means that the new production will raise the total to the 1.2 billion tons the president wants, the coal association said.

Actual production could be considerably higher because the study did not include smaller coal producers, Carl E. Bagge, president of the association, said in a statement. These firms produced 250 million tons in 1976, he said.

"This analysis of the private sector's plans for increasing coal production shows that President Carter's goal can be met if the government does not impose unreasonable constraints," Bagge said.

He said he was referring to clean air amendments and surface mining regulations.

Bagge said each 100 million tons of coal which can be used in lieu of imported oil means the nation can avoid importing nearly 400 million barrels of oil costing more than $5 billion.

The association study indicated that the major coal firms plan to expand 142 mines, adding 170 million tons of annual production through 1985. Another 190 new mines capable of producing 424 million tons a year will be opened, it said.

About 199 million additional tons would be produced in the East, most of it in underground mines, the report said. In the West, 359 million tons of new production would come from surface mines.

CHRISTMAS DAY HIJACKING — Law enforcement officials wrestle with the hijacker of an Eastern Airlines flight from Miami at Atlanta's Hartsfield International Airport on Sunday. The hijacker has been identified as Nikolai Wischnewsky, 32, from New York. None of the hostages were injured during their 2½ hour ordeal. (AP Laserphoto)

Hijack Suspect Freed From Prison Last Month

ATLANTA (UPI) — Nikolai Wischnewsky, an alleged hijacker who faces arraignment Tuesday on air piracy charges, was convicted in another phony "bomb" threat attempt in 1975 and was released from a New York state prison only last month.

The 32-year-old Austrian citizen was arrested Sunday at Atlanta's Hartsfield International Airport after he allegedly tried to hijack an Eastern Airlines jetliner to Cuba, using a toy pistol and a fake "bomb." No one was injured.

Wischnewsky faces arraignment before a U.S. magistrate Tuesday and was held without bond Monday in Fulton County jail.

Rockland County, N.Y., District Attorney Kenneth Gribetz said Monday Wischnewsky, whose most recent residence was Pearl River, N.Y., was apprehended in 1975 for trying to hold up a bait and tackle store in Sloatsburg, N.Y.

Gribetz, who had recommended against granting parole to the hijacking suspect earlier this year, recalled that in the 1975 incident Wischnewsky walked into the store and told managers he had a "bomb."

He eventually surrendered, and the "bomb" turned out to be a cigar box. He was tried and convicted on an attempted robbery charge and served 21 months in the state prison at Dannemora, N.Y.

The FBI said the heavily wrapped package which Wischnewsky called a "bomb" aboard the Eastern DC9 jetliner was an AM-FM radio.

Wischnewsky, a longtime resident of Mahwah, N.J., before moving to New York, also served time for armed robbery in 1965.

The airplane hijacking occurred early Sunday morning when Wischnewsky boarded Flight 688 at Jacksonville, Fla., the only passenger in the first class compartment.

While in the air and headed toward Atlanta, crew members said Wischnewsky sent an "incoherent" note to the cockpit, demanding that the plane, with 32 passengers and a four-member crew, turn around and head for Cuba.

He brandished a "pistol," which was later found to be a toy model, and a black box, the transistor radio, which he said was a bomb detonator.

The plane landed at Hartsfield and taxied to a remote runway where most of the women and children were let off.

For 2½ hours FBI agents and local authorities, one of whom boarded the plane almost immediately after it landed, negotiated for the release of more passengers.

"We sort of bullied him," said FBI

Agent Don Cochran.

Finally, the three law enforcement authorities dealing with Wischnewsky overpowered him and grabbed the toy gun when he was momentarily distracted. Only nine passengers were on board at that time.

"It was a very serious situation. We took it seriously all the way," said Cochran.

It was the second hijacking in three months at Hartsfield. On Oct. 20, a man forced a Frontier Airlines jet from Grand Island, Neb., to Atlanta and then took his own life aboard the plane. None of the passengers were hurt.

Treasure Hunter Will Almost Help Others

RAYTOWN, Mo. (UPI) — Robert L. Tatham sits among metal detectors, treasure manuals and a few pieces of gold in his home and gives directions — general ones — to where anyone with enough determination can find nearly a ton of buried Spanish treasure in Cass County, Mo.

Vague directions are all that Tatham, a man of 48 with 16 years experience as a "researching" treasure hunter, will give. He says, sensibly, that it's not smart to tell where a cache of treasure probably is unless he doesn't have time to go look for it himself.

And, Tatham says, as soon as his research pinpoints the Spanish treasure, he believes he'll be able to go and dig it up. He says Missouri has its treasure troves just like the more famous southern states frequented by Spanish and pirates.

"There are five treasure stores within a five-mile radius of where you sit — un-found treasure," Tatham said in a recent interview.

Where they are he wouldn't say, partly because of competition and partly because of legal reasons. Publicizing an account of a treasure often precipitates a bevy of claimants to it, through direct or inherited ownership.

Tatham said direct owners always have a claim on found items, but it is standard practice to arrange a finder's fee, about 10 percent. He said it is the confusing ownership squabbles that prompt treasure hunters to be tight-lipped about their finds, or their potential finds.

For instance, he said, determining the ownership of a 150-year-old coin found in an abandoned house is that has changed ownership five times is not a clear-cut proposition.

But Tatham's prime interest is the research, the hunt and the finding. The first, he said, lies in being able to separate myth from historically based probability that the treasure is there.

Radicals Ignored Warnings Months Before China Quake

HONG KONG (UPI) — The official Chinese news agency says political radicals in Peking ignored warnings from seismologists months before one of history's most devastating earthquakes struck the Tangshan region of north China in 1976.

The New China News Agency said the day before the quake, which killed or injured almost 15 million persons, reports were sent saying the situation was "critical."

But all the warnings were virtually ignored by the National Seismological Bureau, the agency said Sunday.

It said the disclosure of the advance warnings came at a national seismological conference in Peking in December 1976 to step up efforts to improve China's earthquake prediction.

Two other major quakes that hit southwest China the same year were forecast in advance. Chinese officials told the conference. In both cases, sufficient advance warning was given — and acted upon — to help reduce casualties and damage.

The blame for ignoring the advance warnings was put on political radicals working in the national bureau.

"In the spring and summer of last year, Chinese seismological workers and local inhabitants in the Peking-Tientsin-Tangshan-Chang-Chiakou area and Pohai Bay recorded signs of anomaly to varying extents and reported the findings to the National Seismological Bureau in Peking," NCNA said.

However, it said the political radicals "turned a deaf ear to the reports."

"On July 27, more reports reaching Peking indicated the situation was critical," the agency said. A meeting was called to hear the reports and discuss what action to take.

"Hardly had the meeting lasted for an hour or so when they (the radicals) lost their patience and dismissed the session summarily, saying: 'We have a lot of things to do in the Academy of Sciences. Let's look into the matter next week. A dozen hours later, the earthquake occurred.'"

The quake, which struck shortly before dawn on July 28, was centered in the Tangshan-Fengshan area, about 100 miles southeast of Peking. It was the most severe quake recorded in more than a dozen years.

Communist party Chairman Hua Kuo-feng said it "inflicted a loss of lives and property that is rarely seen in history," but no official figures ever have been announced.

Initial estimates attributed to officials in the province where the quake occurred put the casualty toll at more than 655,000 dead and more than 700,000 injured.

Human Rights Effort Attacked By Vietnam

HONG KONG (UPI) — Vietnam sharply attacked the United States Monday, charging President Carter's human rights drive is nothing more than a tactic to divide the "world socialist system."

In one of the strongest attacks against the United States and an equally strong defense of the Soviet Union, the official Vietnam News Agency quoted the Hanoi daily newspaper Nhan Dan as saying: "The United States is still bent on recruiting allies for intervention in other countries."

"The U.S. President considers 'human rights' as the core of his policy. But his campaign for this issue has proved more and more to be an instrument of division against the socialist countries and a means to bring pressure to bear upon allies and pro-U.S. regimes," Nhan Dan said in a VNA broadcast monitored in Hong Kong.

"Unless the United States stops throwing its weight about, its prestige will further decline in the world," the agency said in reference to Carter's planned six-nation tour.

"The world socialist system is by far stronger than the forces of imperialism, and is incessantly expanding its influence," Nhan Dan said. In the Hanoi lexicon, "imperialism" means the United States.

VNA said, "The Soviet Union has not only caught up with, but also outstripped the United States in many important military and technological fields."

Weather Delays Pacific Sea Skiers

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A trio of Californians attempting a 2,500-mile voyage to Hawaii on water-borne motorcycles is two to three days behind schedule due to heavy seas and foul weather, a backer said Monday.

William Barrett Jr. of San Diego, who is helping to fund the adventure, says Tom Calamia, David Calderon and Tracy Shelley have been fighting 30-foot waves generated by two storms since their departure last week for Honolulu.

"They finally had to ease up and move out of the storms' way and lost about 300 miles," Barrett said. "They are making about seven knots and are south of their course by about 100 miles."

Barrett said the trio, hoping to make the longest journey ever on Jet Skis — these modified by a stabilizing device invented by Calamia — now expects to arrive in Hawaii by Thursday if all goes well.

"They called in on Christmas and wished everybody a Merry Christmas from the middle of the ocean," Barrett said.

One of the three adventurers, to be determined by a coin toss with the loser getting the nod, plans to stay on one Jet

Ski as long as possible to set an endurance record, said Barrett.

Each rider has been taking turns keeping one of the mechanized water-borne motorcycles in the sea at all times.

State Department Prepares Canal Treaties Publication

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans who ask their government what the Panama Canal debate is all about are being mailed a little green booklet endorsing the new canal treaties.

The 15-page publication prepared by the State Department has one simple message: The treaties negotiated with Panama by four consecutive American administrations are good for the United States and should be ratified by the Senate.

"The treaties reflect a statesmanlike resolve to move forward from an outmoded and inequitable status quo, and to achieve a fair solution consistent with both our national interests and our national values," it states.

The booklets are being issued at a time when some State Department officials believe the tide is turning in favor of ratification. A senior official said last week he is certain the treaties will be approved during the first three months of 1978.

Called "Panama Canal: The New Treaties," the booklet outlines the meaning of the new records, the history of U.S.-Panama relations with regard to the waterway and what the agreements accomplish.

Yes, it says, the United States will have the permanent right "to act after the year 2000 (when the canal is turned over to Panama) to insure in any situation that the canal remains open and secure."

No, the treaties do not give the United States the right to intervene in the internal affairs of Panama.

Yes, U.S. warships forever will have the right to transit the waterway "expeditiously." And then, to dispel any doubts, it says that "expeditiously" means "as quickly as possible and without any impediment, going to the head of the line if necessary."

No, the United States will not retain any military bases in the Panama Canal Zone. In fact, the zone will cease to exist.

Yes, Panama — now getting about $2.3 million a year for U.S. control of the canal — will get a much higher annuity: about $70 million.

No, it is not additional money paid by U.S. taxpayers — "all these payments are exclusively from canal revenues."

In its booklet, the administration also seeks to counter some of the political-ideological arguments that have been advanced by anti-treaty groups in the United States, particularly that Panamanian leader Omar Torrijos is pro-communist and that, without U.S. presence, the canal probably would fall into Cuban or Russian hands.

Not so, says the administration. "The facts are that the Panamanian Communist Party is permitted to exist but has no legal status. It has only about 500 members, none of whom are in the government."

Alberto Gainza Paz, Argentine Publisher, Dies

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI) — Alberto Gainza Paz, the editor and publisher who made La Prensa newspaper of Buenos Aires a symbol of the fight for press freedom in Latin America, died of cancer Monday at his home. He was 78.

Tributes poured in from around the world for the tall, soft-spoken man whose open defiance of dictator Juan Peron in the 1950s made him a legend among journalists throughout the world.

Members of Gainza Paz's large family were by his bedside at his death at 6 a.m. Suffering from cancer for some time, his condition worsened Sunday night.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday morning with burial in the family crypt at La Recoleta Cemetery, resting-place of Argentina's most illustrious citizens.

Gainza Paz is survived by his wife, Elvira; three sons, three daughters and numerous grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

His son, Maximo, assistant publisher, is expected to become the fourth generation of the family to run the newspaper.

Argentina Hill, president of the Inter-American Press Association, praised Gainza Paz as "a giant of continental journalism whose passing is mourned by the whole free world... His sacrifice and eventual victory was an inspiration to newspapermen everywhere.

"As president of the Inter-American Press Association in 1959, Gainza Paz led the fight for a free press in other countries and was one of first to speak out against the repressive measures of the Castro dictatorship."

Roderick W. Beaton, president and chief executive officer of UPI, said in a cable to the family of Gainza Paz, "He was truly a giant in the cause of press freedom, integrity, and honor. All of us at United Press International feel we have lost friend..."

Gainza Paz began working on La Prensa in 1921 at the age of 22, was named co-editor in 1923 and co-director in 1927. He took over direction of La Prensa in 1943 when his uncle, Ezequiel P. Paz, became seriously ill. The paper had been founded by Gainza Paz's grandfather, Jose C. Paz, in 1869.

In 1951, Gainza Paz escaped Argentina in a Scandinavian sailboat across the River Plate estuary to Uruguay after Peron confiscated the newspaper and ordered his arrest. It was the final blow in a campaign to silence Argentina's free press and especially La Prensa's independent editorial policy and uncompromising news coverage.

During the years of his exile, Gainza Paz spent time in the United States and was honored by educational and publishing institutions for his championship of freedom of the press.

Upon Peron's overthrow in September 1955, Gainza Paz returned to Argentina and resumed editorship of La Prensa, which had been turned over to the national labor federation during his absence.

One of his first acts was to fumigate the building upon the evacuation of the Peronist personnel and to close two girls' magazines they had been publishing on the side.

To this day, La Prensa's masthead reminds its readers: "Closed and confiscated for defending liberty on Jan. 26, 1951; resumed its editions on Feb. 3, 1956."

Peron, who dominated Argentine politics during 30 years, won a third presidential term in 1973, following his own period of exile.

La Prensa again maintained its independence despite economic pressure from the Peronist government and threats of mob violence.

When Peron died on July 1, 1974, La Prensa printed a harsh obituary that spelled out its view of the harm he had done the country throughout his career.

Under Gainza Paz, La Prensa was regularly cited as one of the world's great newspapers in lists compiled by experts on the world press.

PLO Begins Campaign To End 'Collaboration'

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — The Palestine Liberation Organization said it assassinated an Arab official in the occupied West Bank of Jordan Monday in what it warned was the start of a campaign to "liquidate" Arabs who collaborate with Israel.

The PLO's official information agency Wafa said Hamdi al-Qadi, a Palestinian Arab in charge of education in the Israeli-administered West Bank, was shot to death as he left his home for work Monday morning.

The PLO said similar orders had been issued "to liquidate a number of agents," who, like al-Qadi, had ignored PLO warnings against collaborating with Israeli military authorities.

There was no immediate comment from Israeli officials.

The orders to kill the unspecified number of West Bank Arab officials were given "after the revolution had given them several warnings to stop dealing with the enemy's intelligence service and endangering the security of our people," Wafa said.

Wafa said, "One of our revolutionaries shot at (al-Qadi) while he was going from his home to work at the administration of the Zionist military rulers in Ramallah on the morning of 26-12-77. He was killed on the spot."

The announcement of al-Qadi's assassination followed a PLO statement rejecting Israel's latest proposals for limited Palestinian Arab self-rule in the West Bank.

Those proposals were also rejected by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat during his summit talks with Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin in Ismailia, Egypt Monday.

Khaled al-Fahoum, chairman of the PLO's 291-member National Council, or parliament-in-exile, told reporters in Damascus Monday that no Egyptian-Israeli solution to the Palestinian question would be accepted by the PLO.

"No Arab leader has the right to represent the Palestinians," he said.

Fahoum said Israel was "demanding safeguards but completely ignoring Palestinian rights to a state and self-determination."

He said Palestinians "reject Begin's offer together with any notion of joining the Ismailia talks, between Israeli and Egyptian officials."

Chaplin Services Scheduled

CORSIER-SUR-VEVEY, Switzerland (AP) — A Church of England funeral service will be held Tuesday for Charlie Chaplin in this small Lake Geneva village he called home for the last 25 years of his life.

Known as Charlot to his Swiss neighbors and as The Little Tramp to moviegoers worldwide, Chaplin, 88, died in his sleep Christmas morning. His wife and seven of the couple's eight children were at his bedside.

Only the immediate family and a few close friends will attend the 11:00 a.m. (4 p.m. CST) service conducted by the Rev. Richard Thomason, household members said. Chaplin will be buried in the village cemetery on a hillside overlooking Lake Geneva.

His wife, Oona, who is the daughter of the late American playwright Eugene O'Neill, had asked that the funeral be private. Chaplin had shunned the public spotlight in his later years.

Miss Rachel Ford, Chaplin's longtime business manager and friend, said eight of Chaplin's children, including Sydney Chaplin, his son from a previous marriage, would attend the funeral. Actress-daughter Geraldine, 33, was making a movie in Spain and could not get away, Miss Ford said.

Tributes continued to pour in from Hollywood stars and actors around the world for the little man with the twirling cane and shuffling walk who dominated the silent film industry in the 1920s.

Bob Hope called Chaplin "the original great one in our business," and George Burns praised his ability to make audiences laugh and cry. "He left a real impression on the world," Burns said.

China's official Hsinhua news agency reported Chaplin's death, citing his "many satires on the social system of capitalism."

It was the British-born comedian's visionary talent that made him a "victim of the McCarthy witch-hunt period," Hsinhua said. An investigation of Chaplin's alleged communist associations by the House Committee on Un-American Activities ended in his being barred from re-entering the United States in 1952.

His estrangement with the United States and Hollywood ended in 1972 when he was awarded a special Oscar by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences.

Committee Wants Group To Handle Waterways

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Senate committee will recommend the Transportation Department (DOT) take over the Army Corps of Engineers' responsibility for developing water projects, Sen. Abraham Ribicoff said Monday.

Ribicoff said the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee he chairs has voted 16-0 to approve a report recommending the corps be stripped of its jurisdiction over so-called "pork barrel" water projects costing hundreds of millions of dollars a year.

The corps' jurisdiction over water projects long has been guarded by Congress. But a section of the report made public Monday by Ribicoff calls for an end to the corps' traditional role in building dams, locks and canals, and in the dredging of harbors and channels on inland waterways. The full report will be released Wednesday.

The committee report says "fragmentation" of transportation programs requires reorganization.

It cites as an example the corps' proposal to replace Locks and Dam 26 at Alton, Ill., at a cost of $400 million. Although the project was opposed by environmentalists and railroads competing with the barge industry, the corps was not required to consult with DOT, it says. Ribicoff said the report also recommends giving DOT jurisdiction over other water, air, highway, rail and mass transit programs now scattered among more than 30 federal agencies.

"That was the intent of Congress when DOT was created 10 years ago," the Connecticut Democrat said. "Yet a decade has passed and bits and pieces of transportation regulation and safety enforcement are still scattered throughout the government."

The report includes a recommendation that Congress enact a comprehensive National Transportation Policy Act setting national goals and priorities for all modes of transportation.

John F. Herzer and Associates, a Lubbock, Texas, engineering and architectural firm, is preparing a preliminary design for the project.

Dead Man's House Filled With Traps

BREWER, Maine (AP) — Police bomb experts disarmed booby traps Monday in the home of a recluse who was killed by police after firing on them. Neighboring homes were evacuated.

Police ordered the neighbors to be evacuated while the explosives, including trip-wires and radio-controlled devices, were disarmed.

The explosives were found in the home of Forrest R. Peavey, 38, who, according to District Attorney David Cox, lived alone and kept to himself.

Peavey was shot Sunday night when police in bullet-proof vests slipped into the rear of his house after an hour-long siege in which a policeman was wounded in the shoulder.

Police asked that cab companies and others with two-way radios maintain silence while the radio-controlled explosives were disarmed.

The Christmas shootout occurred, authorities said, after Peavey was spotted around 7 p.m. outside his home clothed in part of a wetsuit and carrying a rifle and pistol.

Police asked Peavey to throw down the weapons, but instead, he raised the handgun and shot Cpl. Albert Parlee. Peavey was shot as police followed him into his two-story house.

USDA Reorganization Plans No Help, Sen. Talmadge Says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Herman Talmadge, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, warned Monday that moves to dismantle the Agriculture Department could hurt both farmers and consumers.

The Georgia Democrat said he would fight efforts to shift some USDA programs to the Interior Department and Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

While distressed farmers are striking and demonstrating because "they don't feel they get sympathetic attention from Washington, concerted and serious efforts are under way to make the Department of Agriculture a minor agency unworthy even of cabinet status," he said.

Talmadge, in a statement issued by his committee, noted HEW Secretary Joseph Califano had proposed the Agriculture Department's food inspection and nutrition programs be shifted into his agency as part of President Carter's forthcoming executive branch reorganization.

Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus has put in semi-public bids for the Forest Service and Soil Conservation Service, both now in the Agriculture Department.

Talmadge said he found Califano's bid "especially ironic."

"Most people would agree that HEW is one of the worst run bureaucracies in government," the Georgian said. "Both farmers and consumers can get a fair hearing in the Department of Agriculture. In HEW, their problems would get lost in the bureaucratic shuffle."

Talmadge noted, however, the Senate Government Operations Committee recently endorsed shifting meat and poultry inspection from the Agriculture Department to the Food and Drug Administration.

"The alarming thing . . . is that (attempts to carve up the Agriculture Department) have strong support both among certain urban members of Congress and in the president's reorganization team," he said. But "I do not intend to sit idly by."

Talmadge said he would make the issue the first matter of discussion before his committee when Congress convenes next month, and he called on President Carter to "make a strong public commitment to maintain and strengthen the Department of Agriculture."

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland has said he is preparing a point-by-point reply to Califano's bid, and will be preparing some counter-bids for control of programs now in other government agencies.

"When all is said and done, I suspect we'll lose some responsibilities we now have and gain others," he said.

Fans Reject Movie Fare

MILAN, Italy (UPI) — One Italian cinema spectator in four is disappointed with the films he sees, according to a poll.

The Doxa organization said 26 percent of those polled said the last film they saw was less good than press reviews and other information led them to expect. Another 26 percent said it was better and 48 percent said it was "neither better nor worse."

Doxa said spectators it polled in 1965 were on the average far more pleased with what they saw.

Holidays Bring Gift Returning

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you got star-spangled earmuffs for Christmas or a necktie with butterflies and polka dots or maybe a hat big enough to hide under, you are not alone. The season of gift-giving has given way to gift-returning.

Joel Woodey, a university professor, says six of every 100 Americans will decide to return or exchange at least one item they received for Christmas. Those millions of shoppers will be confronted with a complex series of laws and policies that may vary from store to store and state to state.

So there are a few things that you might want to know before you leave your house, unwrapped package in hand.

"Store policies seem to fluctuate between maintaining customer good will and a rather jaundiced view of the buying public," said Woodey, a professor at the University of Maryland at Baltimore.

As a general rule, the Council of Better Business Bureaus says, "a store has no obligation to refund the purchase price of an item, to exchange it or to give credit unless there has been misrepresentation or fraud or unless an item is defective."

The council notes that some stores have "no return" policies, and in many states stores must inform original buyers of their return policies.

The business bureau said most stores will grant an exchange for a similar item but in a different size or color. Many stores also will grant credit toward another purchase. In a few cases, cash refunds are available.

If you're planning to return an item, Woodey cautions that most stores require a sales slip or other proof of purchase. He suggests that you keep all such items together, including instruction booklets and warranties.

"It doesn't have to be a complicated filing system, as long as you can find the item," he said.

Where a malfunction is discovered, return policies have become more liberal in recent years, Woodey said. Many items are covered by warranties, and larger manufacturers generally are willing to accept defective items returned by retailers.

Because of liability problems, particularly with injuries caused by small appliances, Woodey said most stores find it easier and cheaper to repair or replace items than to face possible damage suits.

In addition, he says, there has been a change in the liability laws. At one time, a retailer could disclaim responsibility for injuries because he didn't make the appliance, and the manufacturer would also avoid responsibility by having sold the item to the retailer.

Woodey says manufacturers and retailers no longer are able to insulate themselves from liability claims, thus the liberalized return and repair policy.

If you're faced with a product you want to return for one reason or another, you should seek satisfaction first from the seller, Woodey suggests. If that fails, the next place to seek help would be from local consumer offices. Finally, Woodey says you might want to consider taking your action to a small claims court.

Most states have such courts, and Woodey said filing a complaint is simple and inexpensive and the success rate for consumers is very high.

Woodey and the Better Business Bureau also agree on one other thing that isn't likely to help much this year but may come in handy next Christmas season.

You'd do well to learn the return policies of retailers before doing your Christmas shopping.

Christmas Present Saves Family

FAIRFIELD, Conn. (UPI) — The smoke alarm was a Christmas present and still lay under the tree Monday, but it probably saved the lives of a family of four, fire officials said.

A fire broke out early Monday in the home of Eugene Bulakitis, but the smoke alarm alerted him to the blaze and his family of four scurried to safety.

Fairfield Fire Chief David Russell said if the smoke detector had not warned them, the family could have perished in the blaze.

"Without the smoke detector they would have been killed, it was a great Christmas present. I'm positive it saved their lives. By the time we had ever gotten there otherwise they would have been all gone," he said.

The device was a present to the family from a son, Billy, 22, who is a member of the volunteer fire department in the neighboring town of Weston.

Russell said the son put the gift under the tree on Christmas morning and had the foresight to put batteries in it.

"It's a good thing he did that before he left. It was a great Christmas present," Russell said. "Half of the cellar was in flames by the time we got there. If the family had not been alerted we never would have had a chance to save them."

"We've been pushing these smoke detectors and it's a good thing this family had one," Russell said.

Russell said it was not known how the blaze started, although it appeared to be accidental.

Boy Survives Grizzly Attack

PUEBLO, Colo. (UPI) — A 15-year-old boy was in good condition Monday at Park View Hospital with injuries received in an attack by a bear at the city zoo's bear pit.

Police said Dean Stout climbed into the grizzly pit Saturday and petted the bear before starting to pick up money tossed into the area by visitors. The bear then knocked the boy down and attempted to drag him to the back of the pit.

The bear dropped Stout when a friend of the boy's, who was watching from the walk above the grizzly pit, tossed a trash can at the animal. Police said Stout ran to a tree in the bear area and climbed to safety.

A paramedic from the Pueblo Fire Department's Rescue Unit crawled to the tree on a ladder from the fire truck and rescued the boy.

CHILDRESS — A current fund-raising drive at Childress High School is more than halfway toward its goal, according to Supt. Glen Lowrance.

The superintendent told board members during a recent meeting that donations to build a new trophy case have passed the $1,800 mark.

A total of $3,000 is needed to complete the project, he added.

Lowrance also announced that the Childress school system has been approved for a Title 4-B program, which allows the schools to receive visual media equipment.

Other action by the board included:

CUSTOM FLIP-TOPS NO FLOP — Car customizer Don Bruce of Dallas, Texas, above, turned 10 Lincolns last year into flip-top models; this year he hopes to convert 100 automobiles for a price. He says "I am going to be the best car builder in the world. I want to always be able to introduce myself and say, 'I built your car.'" (AP Laserphoto)

Arlington Man Creates Custom Auto Flip Tops

ARLINGTON (AP) — Next time you're in the market for a $15,000 Lincoln, consider this: For another paltry 20 grand, Don Bruce can give it an air of distinction.

In fact by the time Bruce is through with it, you'll have all the air — fresh, that is — a $35,000 convertible can provide.

The last Mark convertible was built in 1948. It was like telling a smoker that cigarettes have suddenly been outlawed. Immediately, he starts craving one.

"People have a quirk," says philosopher Bruce. "As soon as you say you can't have it, they say, 'I want it,' particularly if they have the money."

Last year, Bruce and his crew of specialists in this Fort Worth suburb turned out 10 of the expensive rag tops. This year, he hopes to lighten the bank accounts of another 100 or so motorists with a yen to be different.

A couple years ago, Bruce built a Cadillac station wagon convertible. The plan at the time was to take orders and build custom cars. The Caddy sold for $24,000. Now, he specializes in re-working Lincolns, which are sold through a Dallas dealership.

Bruce's first creation was bought by a Santa Monica, Calif., car dealer. The car caused such a commotion on the West Coast the dealer gave a cocktail party and auctioned it off. The buyer shipped it to Saudi Arabia.

"Just as well," he quipped. "It's too far to bring in for servicing."

Bruce doesn't think people buy his creations because they have a burning desire for windblown hair. Instead, he says: "They are buying a special car — something nobody else has."

His own burning desire is to build 'em like they used to in the '30s. The reason for the eye-popping price tag of a Bruce original is because all parts are hand-fitted. The imported leather-grained vinyl tops are made in his shop from materials used by Rolls Royce at a cost of $20 a yard.

Radio speakers are relocated in the rear armrests and every metal gizmo inside is chrome plated. The body is steel reinforced.

Bruce said the automobile has replaced the horse "in man's love of mobility. The more luxury in your mobility, the more enjoyable the trip."

Now Equitable Savings is as strong as Gibraltar.

Now Equitable Savings is Gibraltar Savings, the biggest in Texas with assets approaching $2 billion.

As of January 1, 1978, Equitable Savings will have a strong new name: Gibraltar Savings Association. This new organization is the result of the merger of five savings associations in seven major cities across Texas. For Lubbock, Gibraltar offers both a statewide savings service and additional mortgage money to meet the demands of a growing city.

Gibraltar offers statewide service.

In addition to our office in Lubbock, fifty-nine more will serve you across Texas in Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth, Midland, Amarillo, and Corpus Christi.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:
This is a hint I thought up and has been such a big help to me I thought others would like it.

When I empty a reusable plastic food bag, I wash it in soapy water, rinse it well then turn it upside down over the agitator in my washer and close the lid.

This provides a place for the water to drain away and the agitator holds the bag open.

When not using my washer for the plastic bags I also spread damp dish towels over the agitator the same way to dry before tossing them into the dirty clothes hamper.

Really don't remember what I used before this invention... — Louise Dunham

Best idea yet for drying those plastic bags which we can't seem to do without and hate to throw away after using only one time.

I love to use those bags but hate to wash them because I could never find a convenient place for them to dry.

Thanks for giving us your helpful idea. — Heloise

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:
Here's a hint for the ladies when you get real angry at your husband — angry enough to clean house.

Go to the garage where he keeps his car-wash-wax solution, then go to the bathroom and clean the faucets, the bathtub, the chrome tile and the toilet seat.

When it's all nice and polished you have your just reward when he comes home and you hear the first thud. You know he slipped off the waxed toilet seat.

You are all over being angry. — Phyllis Welch

P.S. Oh yes, I'm waiting until he gets me angry enough to climb the kitchen walls.

I wash my adhesive-backed paper with his car wash. If it takes off road grease, well, it ought to take off the kitchen grease.

Now I think that is the funniest letter we have received in a coon's age. A good way to relieve frustrations and look at the nice clean bathroom you have... — Heloise

Dear Heloise:

To speed up cutting celery, place several stalks on top of each other piggyback-fashion. Then cut. — Pauline

HINTS FROM HIM

Dear Heloise:

To patch a leaky ice bag, turn it inside out and patch with bicycle tube patching. — Mr. R.P.

Dear Heloise:

When a great deal of water has been spilled, a pipe has leaked, or the dishwasher has spilled water on the floor, put newspapers down to absorb the water.

When the papers are very wet, put other papers down until the water is gone.

This is much easier than trying to mop the water up. — Carolyn B. Hopkins

Dear Heloise:

I love to reuse mayonnaise jars but dislike leaving the cardboard circle in the lid because it gets wet and rancid.

Circles cut from plastic foam meat trays do an excellent job of taking their place. — Margaret Jolls

Dear Heloise:

While putting away the Christmas decorations my grandmother had an idea.

Use an empty plastic foam egg carton for the small light bulbs.

The egg cartons work great because the light bulbs won't move around and get broken. — L.K.H., Age 11

French Chef Views Cookbook As Novel

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Family Editor

French chef Paul Bocuse sees his cookbook first as a novel, to be read for pleasure, says Colette Rossant, his translator.

It is a well-made point for health-conscious home cooks. The plot of Paul Bocuse's French Cooking (Pantheon $20) is a voyage to Never-Never Land on a sea of butter, cream and dozens of eggs.

The highly praised nouvelle (new) cuisine he is credited with inventing supposedly abandons many rich sauces in favor of simpler fare. An American reading Bocuse's recipes can only wonder if something was lost in the translation.

In his introduction, Bocuse suggests home cooks prepare only one recipe from the book in a single menu. What he didn't say is the average home cook in the United States wouldn't have time for more than one a day.

Don't misunderstand me. It takes more willpower than this writer possesses to resist making Bocuse's recipes from time to time.

Except for the baking and dessert chapters, most directions are adequate for experienced cooks and the results of the few recipes we have tried were superb.

We also admire his philosophy of cooking. He urges home cooks to improvise, to regard even his recipes as guides, not gospel, and to plan menus around the best ingredients available at market from day to day.

Few home cooks in the U.S. have time for daily shopping, or would do it if they could. But the next best thing is planning meals around the best quality ingredients obtainable on your own terms.

The menu consisted of rabbit and woodcock terrines, striped bass en croûte with sauce choron, braised leg of veal, fresh macaroni au gratin, leaf spinach, cheese, an ethereal floating island (œufs à la neige Gissou in the book), Grandmere Bocuse's thin, crisp waffles dusted with sugar, coffee, and superb little cookies.

The only jarring note was the aperitif, Mumm's champagne reduced to cloying sweetness by currant and raspberry syrups.

The wines: pouilly-fuisse Georges Dubouef 1976 and moulin a vent Paul Bocuse 1976.

JACOBY'S ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD & JAMES JACOBY

If we awarded prizes for special hands, South might get one for the worst hand held by a declarer, who bid and made a grand slam. Not just for 1977, but possibly for all time.

Not that South bid the grand slam himself. His partner cue bid diamonds at the five level. South did have a four-card spade suit and bid it. We must confess that South's voice did not peal out like an organ, but sounded rather like a low-toned squeak.

Still he did bid five spades and North promptly raised him to seven.

West opened the king of diamonds. South ruffed in dummy, noted that he had a pretty good play for his grand slam and cashed two top trumps. When both opponents followed he claimed his grand slam.

East protested so South played it out. It required a little care due to the 5-0 heart break, but South was equal to the occasion. He cashed four top hearts to discard one club. This left him with two trumps to ruff the fifth heart and third club.

Ask the Jacobys

A Michigan reader wants to know the correct opening bid with:

The correct opening bid is one club. There is very little chance that this will be passed out while there is greater chance that one spade will be.

One spade is still a good second choice, while an opening two would be a bad call.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By SAM SHULSKY

Q. I'm a widow seeking income and have been assured that if I buy a finance company bond I will get my $10,000 back in 1986.

A corporation bond is backed ONLY by the corporation which issues it. So you must look to the credit rating of the corporation — as expressed by the standard rating agencies — for guidance on quality (or, to put it another way) on the probability that you will receive interest every six months and the $10,000 back in 1986. Your bond is rated BBB (which means it trails the AAA, AA, and A ratings). EBB bonds, says Standard & Poor's, one of the rating agencies, "are regarded as having an adequate capacity to pay principal and interest. Whereas they normally exhibit protection parameters, adverse economic conditions or changing circumstances are more likely to lead to a weakened capacity to pay principal and interest than bonds in the A category." I shouldn't presume to add to that except to say: It's a "good" bond, but it isn't as "good" (as safe?) a bond as you could buy if you were willing to accept $825 or $850 a year (from AAA or AA rated bonds) instead of the $900 you will get from the one you bought. How much concern are you willing to assume for the sake of an additional $50 to $75 a year on your $10,000 investment?

stock issue became a "friend" to the point where it would have to be retained longer than financially feasible. I don't think one should allow the same sentiment that applies to old furniture or the old homestead. (And even then many elderly retired folks come around to the fact that the old 12-room home plus grounds should not be maintained if it wrecks the budget). As to brokerage "hand holding": Not likely, given the pressures of making a living under new securities trading rules and fees.

Three Bombs Shatter French Train Station

PARIS (UPI) — Three powerful bombs shattered the railroad station in suburban Villepinte Monday in what police said was the latest of at least 16 politically motivated terrorist attacks in France within a week.

The explosions disrupted railroad traffic through a vast area north of Paris. But because the attack occurred at 2.45 a.m., when the station was closed, there were no casualties.

Minutes after the railroad attack, an anonymous telephone caller told police the blast was the work of the "Corsican Liberation Front," apparently a clandestine group opposed to France's presence on the Mediterranean island.

France has always had its share of occasional terrorist bomb attacks.

But the latest rash of bombings and shootings is causing serious concern in government circles because of the increased frequency. One was aimed against a prominent politician — Communist leader Georges Marchais.

Officials voiced fears that political terrorism may go on increasing as the crucial National Assembly elections of March 12-19 near.

The French Communist party charged that a band of "fascist" raiders fired on Marchais' country house at Saint-Martin-sur-Oreuse, south of Paris Saturday night.

Marchais chased off the unknown attackers with a warning shot when they first tried to enter his estate, but later the group came back and fired a volley of shots at the wooden door, piercing it in several places, investigators said.

The latest wave of attacks started with a bomb attack that gutted the Fauchon luxury food shop a week ago.

Police said the same elusive attackers apparently had bombed out the Rasputin Paris nightclub Sunday night.

Q. I sometimes wince when you bawl out financially naive people for holding on to low-yielding blue chips when what they need is high income. Perhaps you should help them face up to rethinking their investments. These old holdings are more than just money... they are familiar friends, like old furniture, sort of "family." It is very difficult to sell them without feeling disloyal. And often the less-known stock they buy leaves them with a feeling of insecurity. Perhaps a broker, appreciating their problem, could "hold their hand."

A. It is not my intention to "bawl out" anyone — although I must admit that the 20th letter in a week explaining that a reader insists of holding a 2 1/4 percent current dividend stock because it is yielding him "12 percent on my money" tends to drive me up the wall.

I readily admit that it is easy to form attachments to certain stocks — just as it is easy to develop antagonisms. ("I've never made money in that stock and don't intend to ever touch it again" is a common sentiment even among professionals.)

But I'd certainly refuse to go so far as to allow sentiment to displace cold reasoning. I've held stock and, I would assume, I've met more corporation executives than most laymen investors. But I can't recall that any company's common

Q. When will my E bonds bought in 1942 mature? I am considering cashing them and buying new E bonds.

A. Why? Your present bonds have at least five years to run, and may well run longer if granted further extensions. Why redeem them now and be hit with a big tax on the interest accrued over the last 35 years? Hold on to the present bonds and see what final determinations are made as to maturities.

Q. I've been considering municipal bonds. But if interest rates continue to rise, won't the market value of the bonds go down?

A. Any fixed-interest security (with years to go) will decline in price if interest rates rise.

CHILDHOOD INGENUITY — Little Daniel Rios and his younger brother Oscar didn't waste time taking advantage of the Christmas holidays. The duo organized a quick tetherball game using an El Paso stop sign for the pole, a jump rope as the tether and a paper sack of rags for the ball. (AP Laserphoto).

Nabors To Host Variety Show

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Jim Nabors has unpacked his bags after six straight years on the road to feature his down-home folksy humor on a daily entertainment-talk show.

Nabors owns a palatial mansion in Bel Air but managed to spend fewer than six weeks at home the past year. He traveled to every major city in the country, and a lot of communities in the boondocks headlining his own show.

This year he plans to star only at Bill Harrah's lavish nightclubs in Reno and Lake Tahoe.

"It finally got me down," said Jim. "I'd get home only two or three days at a time and then hit the road again."

"But there were compensations. I got to know all kinds of people from every walk of life during my travels."

"I don't know why, but people don't think of me as a celebrity. They don't stand back in awe like they do with some movie and television stars. It's funny the way they come up and say, 'Hi.'"

"Then they'll tell me something personal, like a daughter getting married or a grandmother dying, just as if I knew as much about them as they do about me. Guess I just bring out that feeling in them."

"I'll tell you this, the TV and movie people in Hollywood and New York should get out on the road like I do. They've forgotten what the mass of the population responds to. They're out of touch with mid-America's tastes. They ought to worry about what viewers want instead of trying to win praise from their peers."

"TV viewing is declining in this country because nobody is really listening to what the public would like to see on the tube."

"The place to meet the public is at county fairs, state fairs, theaters and night clubs."

"I didn't find any real differences among the people. Regionalism is dying out. The folks on the East Coast, the South, the Midwest and the West all think pretty much the same about most things."

"I got ideas from a good cross-section of the American people. They think of me as family because I don't look down my nose at them."

Nabors does project an old shoe homeliness which people respond to easily. He hopes to put the knowledge he gained on his travels to use on the new "Jim Nabors Show," a syndicated hour-long series to be seen in 55 markets beginning next month.

Jim's booming baritone will be a regular feature of the show along with guest stars and comedy hijinks. He will employ his homespun humor with members of the audience, too.

"I'm not just going to walk into the audience with a microphone to drop a few one-liners on the people," he said. "They'll sing and dance or do whatever they want. And I'll enjoy chatting with the folks. You can't put them down or make fun of them and have it look right. That's not my style."

Susan Ford, daughter of former President Gerald Ford, will be a recurring member of the cast. Nabors plans to have her assist with interviews. Susan will also shoot still pictures on a variety of assignments for the program.

The opening show, Jan. 9, will feature a couple of Nabors' longtime pals, Carol Burnett and Burt Reynolds.

Bus Robber Search Continues

DETROIT (AP) — Police continued their search Monday for two men who robbed 50 city bus passengers on Christmas Eve and forced a woman to accompany them as they made their getaway.

Police said one of the men boarded the bus, pulled out a gun and ordered the passengers to put their money and jewelry into a cigar box, provided by an accomplice who had been seated in the rear of the bus.

The robber announced, "Don't anyone be a hero or I'll blow your head off," according to passenger V. K. Tiede.

When the box reached the front, the gunman grabbed it and forced Edna Williams, 23, to leave the bus with him. The accomplice rode the bus another three blocks and then got off, witnesses told police.

Mrs. Williams' abductor made her run with him for several blocks, then released her — even giving her instructions on how to get back to the bus stop, police said.

"He kept saying not to cry, that he wouldn't hurt me, but I thought he was saying that so I would keep running," she said. "But even when he let me go, I kept turning around to see if he was going to shoot me. It has really ruined my Christmas. I just thank God I'm alive."

The Detroit Police Department has a special bus patrol, but members of the unit were not aboard the bus struck Christmas Eve.

Burt Young Enjoys Success After Shady, Rough Career

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Hollywood's stars come from all places, all social strata, all types of backgrounds, but seldom has one come along like Burt Young, whose history is so checkered they should print his biography on a checker board. In fact, Burt's early life is still pretty much clouded in mystery. He simply won't talk about it very much, and it comes out only in a mixture of hints and euphemisms. Whatever the past, the present is good and the future promises to be even better. Burt Young really struck it big in "Rocky," playing Talia Shire's brother and, since then, everything he touches seems to turn to myrrh. He has always written, or at least he's been writing for a long time. And, suddenly, his writing is in demand. There is a CBS movie, "Daddy, I Don't Like It Like This," which he wrote and co-stars in with Talia Shire. No air date yet, but it will be seen probably sometime this winter. Then, he's written a movie script, "Uncle Joe Shannon," about a down-and-out trumpet player. He has an office now in the Chartoff-Winkler suite at MGM, and they're going to make that one soon. Young (with a broad wink) says he's going to star in this one, too, and is even learning to play the trumpet to get ready for the part. He is literally swamped with offers to act. And he keeps turning down chances to star in his own television series. He says he's always turned a deaf ear to the series bids — "even when I was hungry." "I've done a few Baretts," cause I like

Blake," he says. "But that's about all the TV I've done — I can count them on the fingers of one hand." Still, he keeps working. He's had juicy character parts in pictures like "Chinatown," "Killer Elite," "Cinderella Liberty," and "Twilight's Last Gleaming" and he's big in the soon-to-be released "The Choirboys." It must be nice for the kid from New York, whose early years were hardly simple. Burt Young — that isn't his real name — is the son of a New York iceman who, at 40, decided he'd rather be a teacher, so quit delivering ice, went to school and became a teacher. Burt started out in school like a teacher's son — smart. "It was OK at first," he says. "But then I noticed that the tough kids in school got all the attention, so I became a tough kid, too. Pretty soon, I could hardly talk at all." He says he grew up with the determination to be a millionaire by the time he was 21. He was in the Marines, for two years, while he was still a teen-ager. He says that was the last legitimate thing he did for about ten years. "I did a lot of things I can't talk about," he says. "A lot of under-the-table business." But what they were, he won't say. At any rate, at one point, he was forced to leave New York. For some reason, he picked Nantucket Island, off Massachusetts, to go to. While he was there, he did the next legitimate thing in his life. He started a silk screen plant, and even taught kids how to do the silk screen process. So Burt Young became an actor — although the barmaid never did — and began a career. He progressed, though some 40 off-Broadway plays into the career that is booming today.

Demonstration Charges Dropped

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charges against comedian-activist Dick Gregory, his wife and three other persons arrested Christmas Day for protesting in front of the South African embassy were dropped Monday in District of Columbia Superior Court. A court spokesman said federal prosecutors decided pressing charges against Gregory, his wife Lillian, Allan Jackson of Salisbury, N.C., and Michael S. Matthews and Eric J. Burit of Washington. The five were arrested for violating a local law prohibiting demonstrations within 500 feet of a foreign embassy. Charges against Gregory, his wife and Massachusetts state Sen. William Owens were dropped last week after their arrest on similar charges on Thanksgiving Day. Gregory said Sunday he was demon-

Carter's Television Use Earns Him 'Place In Media History'

RADNOR, Pa. (UPI) — President Carter has already earned "a place in the history of human communications" with his skillful use of television, says former presidential news secretary George Reedy.

In the Dec. 31 issue of TV Guide magazine, Reedy said Carter "has mastered the art of using television to send rather complicated messages — and to send them in a form that the audience understands."

"At the very least, he has demonstrated that one need not resort to words to put across rather sophisticated points," said Reedy, who was President Johnson's third news secretary.

"Whether subconsciously or by design, Mr. Carter has grasped a potent principle," Reedy said.

"Whatever else may lie in his future, President Carter has already established a new style of presidential leadership that will entitle him to a place in the history of human communications," he said.

Reedy cited the president's fireside chat on the energy problem as an example. He said by merely wearing a sweater, Carter made points about energy conservation more effectively than "a hundred carefully phrased speeches."

"To carry this theme even further, Mr. Carter does not do very well in his conventional uses of the media," Reedy said. He said Carter's 20 news conferences "were not overly impressive."

He said his news conferences "did not hurt him," but added they "were not as memorable in the same sense as his walk up Pennsylvania Avenue hand-in-hand with Amy and Rosalynn during the inaugural parade; his attendance at a New England town meeting... his disc-jockey-type (call-in talk) show, or even his disembarkation from a succession of airplanes with a suitcase slung over his shoulder."

Reedy says that in his conversations with people about the call-in show and the town meeting, "I have found nobody who can remember any of the words even though the events themselves are vivid in their minds."

In addition, Reedy said if Carter's policies fail, television might insulate him from "the kind of hatred that devoured Hoover, Johnson and Nixon in the closing days of their administrations."

Reedy, a Nieman professor of journalism at Marquette University, said television "has a tendency to convert people into disinterested spectators."

"It may well be that Mr. Carter's identification with TV in the public mind has actually engendered a dispassionate attitude toward him," Reedy said.

Hayakawa Asserts Parasitism Encouraged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. S. I. Hayakawa (R-Calif.) says Congress' preoccupation with redistributing wealth encourages Americans to become parasites and it destroys people's motivation to succeed.

In an article in the January issue of Harper's magazine, the former educator compares some forms of federal aid to what happened in colleges in the 1960s and 70s when the grading system was inflated.

"You destroy not only education, you destroy society by giving an A to everyone," he wrote. "This is a philosophical consideration that bothers me very much as I sit in the United States Senate and see its great budget allocations going through."

Hayakawa said nearly everyone accepts the principle that an affluent society must do what it can to prevent hunger and misery and to provide equality of opportunity.

"But how far can a society go in the redistribution of wealth?" he asked.

"I think this is a problem that we've got to face. I do not think that a majority in Congress are trying to face it, or realize that it is a problem, because so many of them are all at work at this business of redistributing income."

Hayakawa said the fashion of giving high grades to most students in the 1960s and 70s has had a "devastating" effect on academic life.

"When illiterate or lazy students could get an A average, good students stopped studying," he said.

"What happens in the schools is not unlike what happens in society at large when the penalties of improvidence, laziness or ignorance are not just softened, but removed," he wrote. "When there is no such thing as failure, there is no such thing as success either. Motivation, the desire to excel, the urge to accomplishment — all these disappear..."

"This, I'm afraid is the direction in which our society has been going steadily for many years," Hayakawa said. People assured of a comfortable living, whether they work or not, become "willing dependents, content with a parasitical relationship to the rest of society," he said.

Hayakawa said America's poor "are not poor by world standards. Our welfare clients live far better than the working people of more than half the world."

MOGOLLON PEOPLE SMALL

The Mogollon people who lived at Gila Cliff Dwellings, now a national monument, were small in height. Women averaged slightly under five feet. Men were a few inches taller.

Fisherman Credits Survival To Size

FORT BRAGG, Calif. (UPI) — The little man, trying to stay afloat, looked at the big man as they drifted apart in a stormy sea, and said, "Well, goodbye and good luck."

Big Nick and Little Ernie were fighting for their lives.

The big man made it. The little man vanished into the waves.

Nick Lackey, who is built like a football tackle, said Monday he doesn't think he would have survived four days at sea in a life raft if he had been a small man.

Lackey, 6-foot-4 and 265 pounds, was rescued by a Greek freighter 20 miles off Coos Bay, Ore., Christmas Eve after withstanding storms and heavy seas following the capsizing of his 38-foot fishing boat.

But his crewman, Ernie Lopez, 5-foot-3 and 135 pounds, didn't have the strength to swim to the raft Lackey had reached.

Lopez, 40, is listed as missing by the Coast Guard, which called off its search for him Christmas Day.

"If I hadn't been a big man, I don't think I would have made it," Lackey, 39, said in Fort Bragg, where he was reunited with his wife and two children Christmas Eve.

In a twist of fate, the family escaped death when a middle-of-the-night phone call from the Coast Guard about Lackey's disappearance at sea woke Mrs. Lackey as their house was burning down.

Lackey said if it had not been for his size, "I think I would have died of exposure."

He described the fierce struggle of both men to survive when his boat, Blessed Redeemer, capsized Tuesday.

"The sea was just savage," he said. "Ernie got out the door but I had to swim out. When we were in the water, Ernie said, 'What do we do now?', and I said, 'Grab the bottom of the boat.'"

After about an hour and a half, the boat, which was upside down, started sinking, but a fish box popped to the surface.

Capital's Altitude Poses Problems

LA PAZ, Bolivia (UPI) — At 11,800 feet above sea level, La Paz is the highest capital in the world — causing some discomfort for tourists.

Visitors should avoid strenuous exercise and could find it necessary to spend time resting the first day.

The Spaniards chose the site for the city in 1548 when they found gold in the Choqueyapu river running through the canyon where La Paz now sits.

Dallas Slaughters Storybook Bears

DALLAS (AP) — It was such a slaughter that the Dallas Cowboys didn't even want the game ball.

Dallas butchered the storybook Chicago Bears 37-7 Monday to roll into the National Conference title game for the sixth time behind rookie Tony Dorsett's two touchdowns and a Walter-Payton-shackling defense that also featured three Charlie Waters interceptions.

"It's the first time this year that our team has played to its full potential," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry.

It was just another day at the office for the playoff-pressurized Cowboys. The game ball rested unmolested at the Cowboys' 37-yard line for five minutes after the final gun before an equipment manager decided to fetch it.

Dallas earned the right to host the NFC title game Jan. 1.

Landry said "Think Pursuit" was the Cowboys' theme in practice with a big bull's-eye put on Payton, Chicago's great runningback. "You can't appreciate Payton unless you're on the sideline," said Landry. "We had to hit him with three or four people to bring him down. As it turned out, we had those three or four people in perfect position just about all day."

Payton gained only 60 yards in 19 carries and was a dazed figure in the Chicago dressing room. Holding his head, Payton said, "I can't remember nothing. I just got hit in the head ... That's all I know." Teammate Roland Harper said Payton was stunned by a tackle in the fourth quarter.

"We learned a lot from this game and we'll be back," Harper added. "Dallas was no better than we thought they were. What they are is good."

Glum Chicago Coach Jack Pardee said: "When the Cowboys get ahead of you 14-0 like they did against us, they can do what they want to. You can't make a mistake."

Waters, who established an NFC playoff record with his three interceptions, said, "We were set up to check him (Payton) out and then play for the pass."

"The Bears don't have anything to be ashamed of. They don't know what we had to go through to get where we are."

Landry said he was "concerned when we fumbled the ball on our first two possessions. But then we settled down and played as well as we can play. We just did one super job of pursuit. Of course, Tony was super. He is just a great runner. And he has a great future."

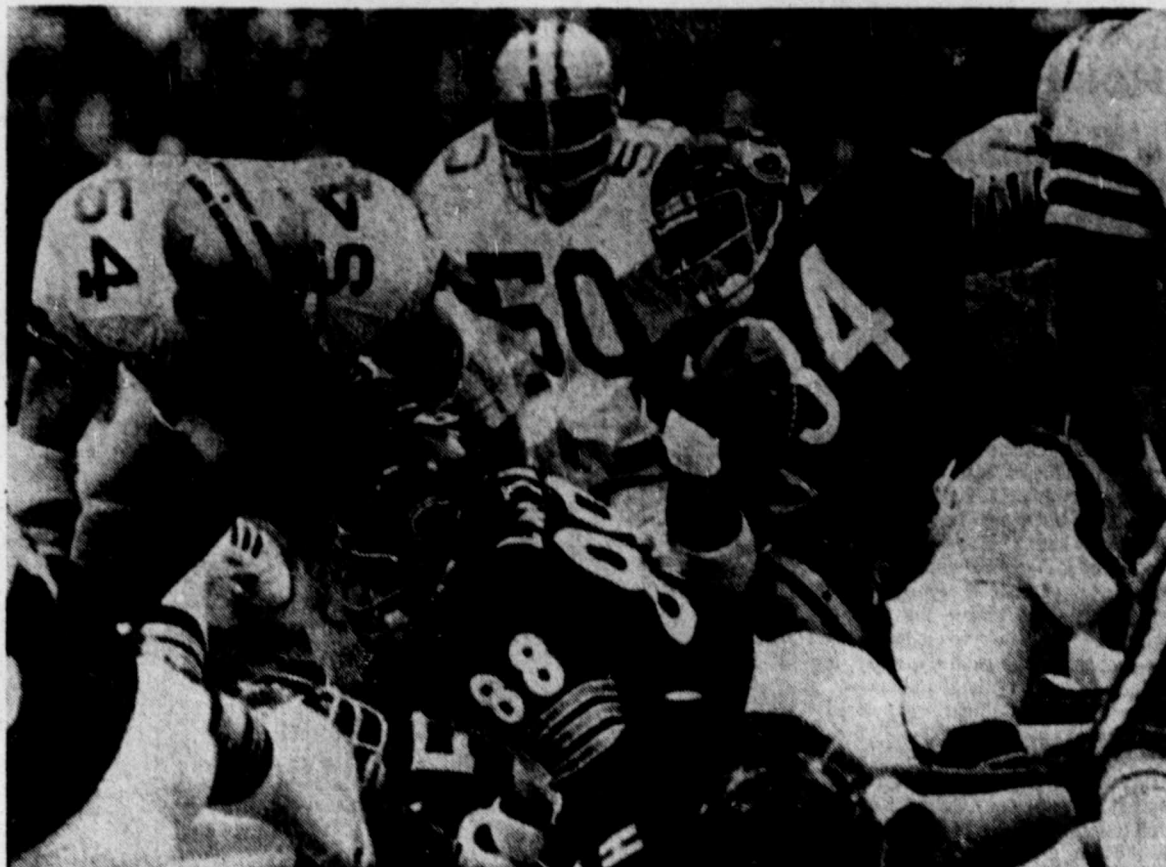

Dorsett, who gained 1,008 yards during his rookie year, darted 22 and 7 yards for TDs and wound up with 85 yards on 17 carries to outduel Payton, the NFL rushing champion with 1,852 yards during the season.

The confident Cowboys, in their 11th playoff game in 12 years, scored five straight times after they had fumbled.

Underdog Vikes Stop LA Again

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bob Lee and Chuck Foreman formed the "nemesis" combination for the Minnesota Vikings Monday night as they upset the Los Angeles Rams 14-7 in a National Football League playoff game where the outcome and the weather proved equally as surprising.

The victory earned the Vikings a spot in next Sunday's National Conference championship game against the Dallas Cowboys, who earlier in the day whipped the Chicago Bears 37-7.

"They're a great football team, but we just happened to be their nemesis," said Lee, who was forced to fight the surprisingly bad weather conditions along with the Rams.

"Playing on a field like this is worse than playing in snow," he added. "You're slipping, your runners are slipping and your receivers are slipping."

"I think the thing I was most impressed with was the way our ballcarriers and receivers held onto the ball. It's kind of amazing that we didn't have a single turnover. I feel great about winning this one because of the way they beat us last time (in the regular season)."

Foreman commented, "I was disappointed to see the rain because it hurts my running style. We knew it was tough to hold on to the ball, so we just tried to hold on, get what we could and go down. It was no day for heroes."

"This victory is particularly sweet since we lost one of the finest quarterbacks around and we also lost running Brent McClanahan, and since they sort of embarrassed us the last time we played."

Los Angeles Coach Chuck Knox, whose club has reached the playoffs in the Super Bowl chase five times and never made the big one, said through red-rimmed eyes, "The only thing we can say is that Minnesota outplayed us. We had a couple of opportunities in the first half but we couldn't get in and that hurt us. The field conditions were terrible for both teams. It was a quagmire, but a quagmire for both teams."

Said Pat Haden, the losing quarterback: "Lee threw okay and I didn't —

and that was the difference."

The Vikings parlayed the passing of Lee and the late running of Foreman, plus key interceptions, into their mud-caked victory.

Los Angeles' lone touchdown came with 56 seconds to play on a 1-yard pass from Pat Haden to Harold Jackson.

The Rams then pulled off an onside kick with Jim Jodat recovering on the Minnesota 49 with 53 seconds to go.

Haden ran 5 yards and passed 4 more to Jackson. After an incompleting, Rod Phillips ran 10 yards to the 30 for a first down with 11 seconds to go. Four more seconds ticked away before a pass fell incomplete.

But Haden's desperation last-play pass, a 40-yard heave toward the end zone, was picked off by safety Jeff Wright, securing the victory.

After the Rams failed on a fourth-and-2 play from the Vikings' 31-yard line midway in the first quarter, Lee hit five straight passes for 57 yards and Foreman, finishing with 101 yards on 31 carries, smashed for the final five off right tackle for the touchdown that climaxed a 70-yard, 11-play drive.

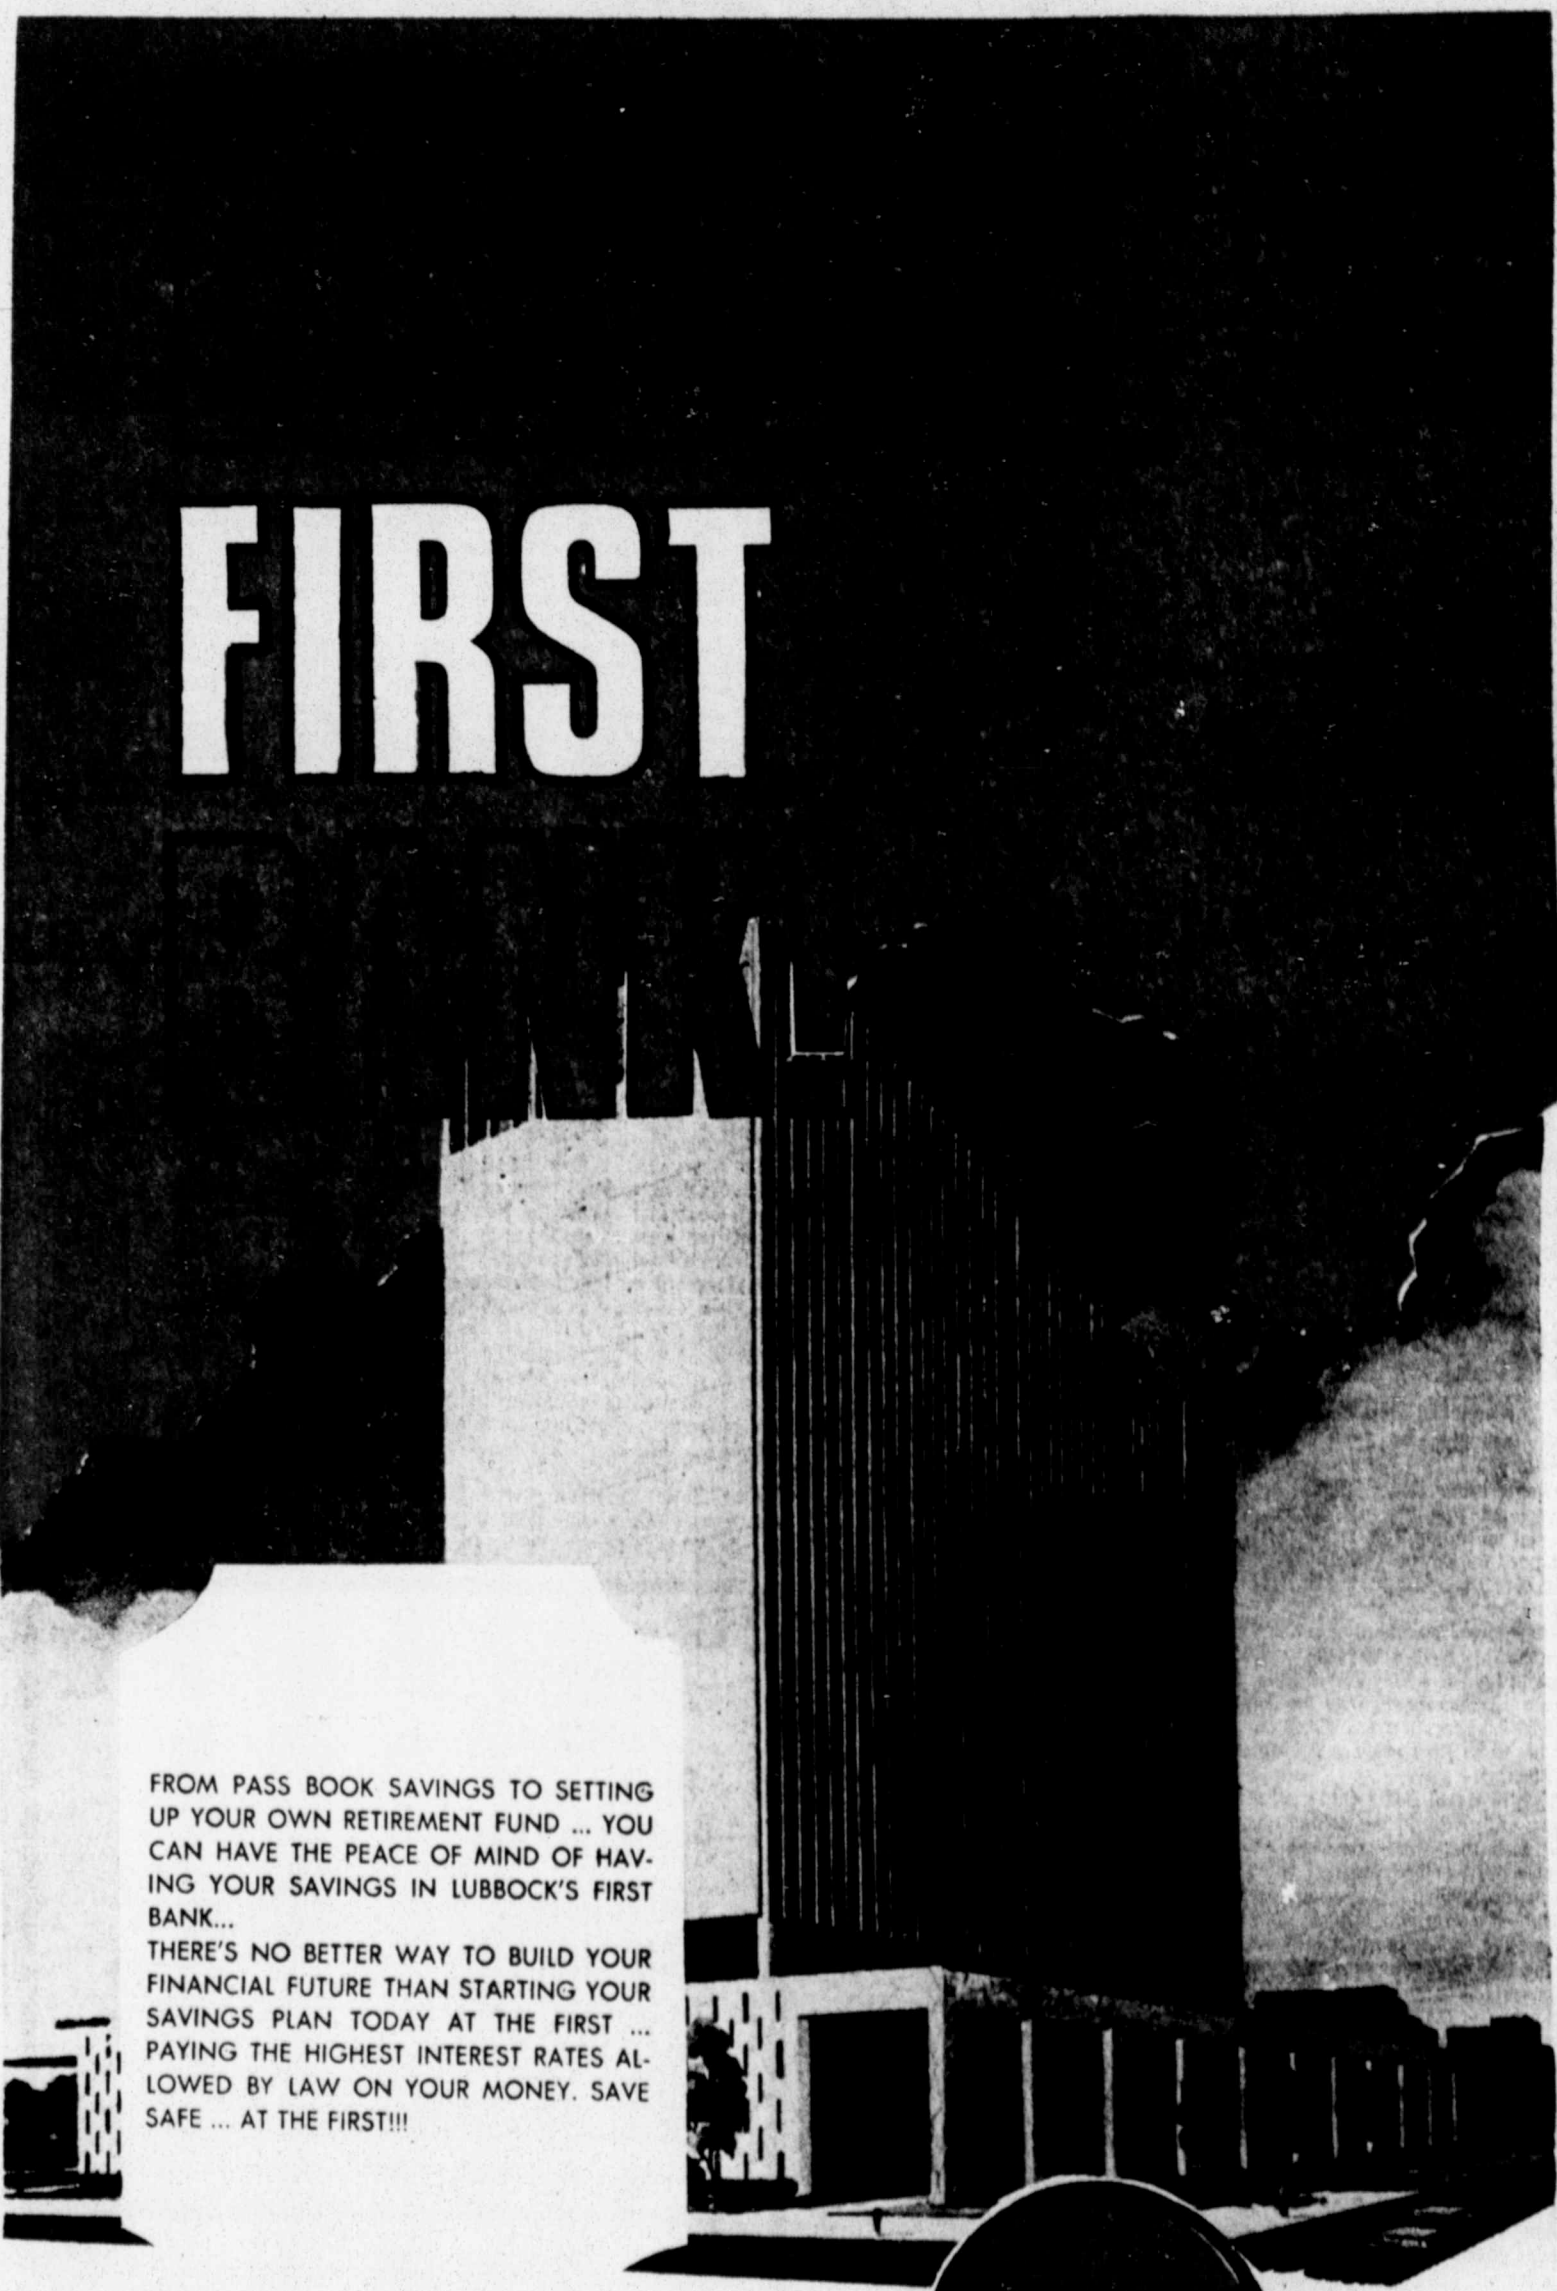

Twice in the first half the Rams and a partisan crowd of 62,538 in the rain-soaked Memorial Coliseum were thwarted.

First, Nate Allen, with his feet just inside the end zone line, intercepted a Pat Haden pass intended for Charles Young. Then, with 3:15 left in the half, Rafael Septien missed a 33-yard field goal attempt when his kick was wide to the right.

The third quarter belonged to Minnesota, even though the Vikings didn't score again until 1:01 was gone in the fourth period. Minnesota, in the first 21 minutes of the second half, controlled the ball a few seconds short of 18 minutes. Of the first 35 offensive plays in that span, the Vikings ran 29 of them.

The Vikings, winners over the Rams in the NFC title game a year ago but losers 35-3 here in the regular season, put the game virtually out of reach on the sloppy

Attorney Plans To File Suit Against UA

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A Little Rock attorney said Monday he plans to file a lawsuit on behalf of three University of Arkansas football players who last week were excluded from playing in the Orange Bowl.

"It will be a class action suit attempting to enjoin the university from imposing a dual standard against black athletes," attorney John W. Walker said. He said the suit would be filed in U.S. District Court here.

The Arkansas Democrat quoted Walker in its Monday edition as saying, "I have been authorized to litigate the matter. We're hoping it will be ready today. If the court is open, maybe we'll file today. If not, then it won't be until tomorrow," Walker said. Federal offices were closed Monday.

Coach Lou Holtz last week suspended running backs Ben Cowins, Micheal Forrest, and flanker Donny Bobo for undisclosed reasons. The suspensions cover only the Jan. 2 game against the Oklahoma Sooners.

Walker said, "We will be seeking that the university provide as much assistance to black athletes as they do white so they can simply graduate from school. I think we can prove that only a small percentage of black athletes graduate.

"The university provides much more assistance to white athletes. We're also concerned about the assistance the university gives white athletes after they get out of school. The black athletes are sort of cast out into the street after they graduate.

"There are some long-term things involved in this thing. We seek to remedy some situations that have existed in the last nine or ten years."

A University of Arkansas spokesman said early Monday that neither Holtz nor Athletic Director Frank Broyles was available to comment on the allegations.

The Arkansas football team flew to Miami Monday afternoon. Workouts were to begin Tuesday morning in preparation for the Orange Bowl.

A move by some of the trio's teammates to not participate in the bowl game apparently collapsed Saturday after Holtz met with the three standout players here and three others who were considering not playing in the game.

away their first two sorties into Chicago territory.

Quarterback Roger Staubach, who completed 7 of his first 8 passes and wound up hitting 8 of 13 for 134 yards, whipped the Cowboys on drives of 79, 74 and 85 yards as Dallas built a 17-0 halftime lead.

Doug Dennison scored on a 2-yard run. Staubach flipped a 28-yard touchdown pass to tight end Billy Joe DuPree, who made an acrobatic over-the-shoulder catch, and Etrien Herrera kicked the first of his three field goals, a chip-shot 21-yard effort.

The frustrated Bears didn't get a first down until early in the second quarter, and then they were penalized because James Scott spiked the ball when the clock was running.

Waters intercepted Bob Avellini just before the end of the first half and collected two more wayward tosses in the third and fourth quarters.

Linebacker D.D. Lewis intercepted Avellini's first pass of the second half to set up Dorsett's 22-yard scoring run, which made it 24-0.

On the next Chicago possession, Avellini fumbled and Bill Gregory collected the ball on the Bear 11 to set up Herrera's 31-yard field goal.

Dallas' string of scoring was ended when Virgil Livers intercepted Staubach's poorly thrown effort in the third quarter.

Dallas Coach Tom Landry pulled Staubach early in the fourth quarter — but the score still mounted. Tight end Greg Latta of the Bears fumbled and Lewis recovered at the Chicago 7-yard line. Dorsett scored on the next play.

Bears' Coach Gives Credit To Cowboys' Flex Defense

DALLAS (AP) — Walter Payton — wandering aimlessly around a somber Chicago Bears' dressing room with his head in his hands — was still trying to shake off the effects of a 37-7 playoff clubbing at the hands of the Dallas Cowboys.

"I can't remember. I can't remember nothing," said Payton who had taken a shot to the head early in the fourth quarter of Monday's National Football Conference playoff game.

"I just got hit in the head and that was it," he added as he stumbled into the shower. "Right now I don't know what's happening."

A crushing Dallas defense held Payton, who led the National Football League with 1,852 yards this season, to only 60 yards on 19 carries. The Cowboy defense also grabbed four interceptions and pounced on three fumbles in completely dominating the young Bears.

A Bear spokesman said later that Payton would be examined on the way home to Chicago, but added that trainers didn't feel the injury was serious.

"No I don't think they did anything particular to stop him," Chicago Coach Jack Pardee said of his star runningback. "They have the flex (defense) which is designed to stop the run against Payton or anyone else. But the fumbles and pass interceptions really hurt."

"I think the turnovers were kind of indicative of what happened," added Pardee, who guided the Bears to their first playoff appearance since 1963. "We had fumbles or turnovers in seven of eight series in a row. Of course you can't do that and win, especially against a team like the Cowboys."

The Bears had won their last six games in the regular season, including a 12-9 overtime thriller against the New York Giants last week to qualify as the NFC wild card team with a 9-5 record.

And some Bears felt Monday's humiliating loss was served as an orientation to the playoffs.

"We learn from each game, especially a playoff game like this one. We'll be back," said running back Roland Harper. "They were no better than we thought they were. We knew they were really good."

Asked if the Bears learned anything, quarterback Bob Avellini said, "I guess. Maybe you have to crawl before you can walk. We felt we were ready for the game but obviously from the way we played we weren't."

"Dallas was very aggressive today," said Chicago offensive guard Noah Jackson. "We got blocks on them but they'd get up and still try to get the ball carrier. They cut down Walter's ability to stay on a running pattern. He was always trying to dodge them."

"You can't concentrate on any one thing against Dallas," Bear linebacker Doug Buffone said of the potent Cowboy offense that piled up nearly 400 yards total offense.

Times Set For Games

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Football Conference championship game at Denver Jan. 1 will begin at 1 p.m. CST, and the National Conference game at Dallas will begin at 4:30 p.m. CST, the National Football League announced Monday.

Denver entertains Oakland for the AFC title before Dallas hosts Minnesota.

Safeties Shine In Pokes' Win

DALLAS (AP) — It was a triumph for the "fear factor," Dallas safeties Cliff Harris and Charlie Waters chortled Monday after the Cowboys ambushed the Chicago Bears 37-7 and swept into the national conference championship game.

"We didn't expect to win this big," said Harris. "But when that fear factor is there, it makes you play with intensity. I don't know where it comes from but you have got to have it... you can't win without it."

Waters, who established a national conference record with three interceptions, put it this way:

"Our experience is such that we don't take anybody lightly. Everybody can be equal in the first round of the playoffs."

Waters, Harris, middle linebacker Bob Breunig and end Harvey Martin smothered Chicago runningback Walter Payton, who earned only 60 yards on 19 carries in the Cowboys dominated the one-sided duel in every category.

"This has to be our best game of the year," Dallas Coach Tom Landry said. "Every phase of our game was excellent, from our offense to our defense and special teams."

The Cowboys mounted a 17-0 halftime lead, got a couple of touchdowns from rookie Tony Dorsett and dashed into the NFC title game against the winner of the Los Angeles-Minnesota game.

"I think the interception right before halftime really helped us," Landry said of Waters' first interception two steps inside the Dallas goal. "Waters made a fine play, the receiver was wide open."

Said Waters, "I invited Bob (Avellini) to throw it, and I was hoping he was going to throw it like he did. (Greg) Latta looked wide open. He gave it a little bit and it gave me time to run under it."

Whatever the scheme, Landry said, "If he (Waters) hadn't got there, it would have been a touchdown."

However, Waters believed the contest was decided before that critical interception.

"I think the key to the game was when the offense had those two turnovers and the defense went in and stopped them 'boom, boom.' They knew then they were in for a long day. They knew our offense could move the ball."

Dorsett had empathy for Payton, saying, "I have a lot of respect for Walter Payton. We're in this together. He is a great runningback and there is no professional jealousy between us. I feel I did an adequate job."

Quagmire, Minnesota Sink Rams

field with their second touchdown, scored by Sammy Johnson on a 1-yard smash.

The Rams' attempt to get an offense meshed failed when Alan Page sacked Haden for 12 yards back to his 10-yard line. Glen Walker punted to Manfred Moore at the Vikings' 39 and the former Southern California back returned the ball 21 yards to the Los Angeles 40. Johnson's touchdown came 10 plays later, Foreman carrying on five of them for 26 yards, including 11 to the Los Angeles. On that dash he was shaken up and Johnson replaced him to carry twice — first for no gain, then for the touchdown.

Again the Rams came back, moving deep into Minnesota territory before veteran safety Paul Krause intercepted Haden at the 4-yard line and returned the ball 14 yards to frustrate Los Angeles again.

Lawrence McCutcheon carried 16 times for 102 yards for the Rams. It was his 1-yard gain in the first period when the Rams needed 2 for the first down that seemed to wake up the Vikings.

Tarkenton was injured in the ninth game of the season and Lee, who had thrown a TD pass in the Super Bowl loss to Oakland, came on as his replacement. Against the Rams Lee hit his first five passes, then missed his next five and finished with completions on 5 of 10 for 57 yards.

Los Angeles entered the game a 9½-point favorite but expectations of a fast track were ruined when rain began on Christmas afternoon and continued unabated for nearly 24 hours.

The weather resulted in 8,501 no-shows — but those fans on hand saw the Rams mount a quick drive with the opening kickoff.

Wendell Tyler returned the Fred Cox kickoff to the LA 28. John Cappelletti gained 6 yards and McCutcheon burst around right end for 27 before being hauled down by the 32-year-old Page, a 245-pound veteran of 11 NFL seasons.

McCutcheon gained 6 more yards, Cappelletti got 1 and McCutcheon anoter to make it fourth-and-2 at the 31. The Rams went for the 2 yards but Page slammed McCutcheon 1-yard short.

It was a reversal of the Rams' fortunes of a year ago. In that NFC title game against the Vikings they went for a field goal after reaching the Vikings' 1 — but the kick was blocked and Bobby Bryant ran 90 yards for a touchdown that started Minnesota toward a 24-13 victory. This time Page's tackle for the Vikes had the same effect.

Poke Misses Mark On Ram Prediction

IRVING (UPI) — Dallas Cowboy quarterback Roger Staubach, minutes after leading his team to a 37-7 rout of the Chicago Bears, Monday predicted Los Angeles would whip Minnesota in the other National Football Conference playoff game.

However, Minnesota won the game 14-7.

It came about unexpectedly. After fielding questions on the state of the Cowboys, Staubach said: "We've got to beat Los Angeles now. We can't just talk about it."

He noticed the questioning glances from reporters: the Minnesota-Los Angeles game had not even begun.

Smiling, Staubach said, "Oh, I'm sure we're going to play Los Angeles."

No one else was so bold. Cowboy coach Tom Landry said it made no difference who the Cowboys met for the NFC championship next Sunday.

"I never had any preference," he said. "We'll just see who we have to play and get ready."

Pistons Whip Celts 122-100

DETROIT (AP) — Eric Money's 23 points led the Detroit Pistons to their fifth straight National Basketball Association victory with a 122-100 triumph over the Boston Celtics Sunday night.

Detroit pulled away from Boston after trailing 9-8 in the early going and led at the end of the first quarter 28-21 behind 10 points from Chris Ford.

Leon Douglas added 12 points in the second period, during which Detroit pushed its lead to as much as 17 points. The score after two periods was 60-44.

Money's nine points in the third helped the Pistons to a 32-point margin, 100-68, at the end of the quarter.

HOCKEY FINE

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Dave Hanson, a Birmingham Bulls hockey player, has been suspended for four games and fined $600, according to World Hockey Association Executive Director Larry Gordon. Gordon said the suspension came as a result of Hanson's fight with a WHA linesman during the Bulls' game against Edmonton last Sunday here.

FIRST SCORE — Minnesota runner Chuck Foreman raced in for the game's first score after eluding Los Angeles linebacker Jim Youngblood on the rain-soaked turf in the Los Angeles Coliseum Monday. The TD run lifted the Vikings ahead at half 7-0. (AP Laserphoto)

Knox: 'LA Outplayed'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "They simply outplayed us," said red-eyed Coach Chuck Knox in trying to explain the Los Angeles Rams surprising 14-7 playoff loss to the Minnesota Vikings.

"They won — give them credit," Knox said after the dressing room was opened following a 15-minute team meeting.

Knox refused to make alibis, or use the weather as an excuse.

"Sure it was a quagmire out there, but it was quagmire for both teams."

"Let's just say it was a big, big disappointment, he added in summing up the game. He spoke the sentiments of all the Rams who were almost sullen in meeting with the press.

During the regular season the Rams were 10-4 in winning the Western Division title in the NFC and Minnesota was 9-5 in taking the NFC Central. Although the Vikings beat the Rams in preseason, Los Angeles prevailed 35-3 during the regular NFL campaign.

"How the hell do you measure one disappointment against another," said rugged defensive end Jack Youngblood, so near to breaking that he could talk only a few seconds before heading to the showers.

"That is a stupid question," he told one newsman who asked if this year's playoff loss to Minnesota was greater than last year's NFC title defeat by the Vikings.

Minnesota has beaten Los Angeles four times in postseason play since 1969.

"My interception in the end zone midway in the second quarter was the turning point," said a very polite but obviously upset Pat Haden.

He referred to a first down interception by the Vikings Nate Allen in the end zone on a first and goal at the Viking 5.

"Charley (Young) ran his pattern perfectly but I just threw a lousy ball, Haden said. Sure, if I couldn't hit Young I was trying to throw the ball away."

Haden, a 24-year-old Rhodes scholar, was willing to take the blame for the loss.

Dunbar, EHS Favored In Caprock Tournament

By JIM FERGUSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

It's not as easy as ABC picking a favorite for the Caprock ABC basketball tournament. For two good reasons, too, D and E. D stands for Dunbar and E for Estacado.

Currently the city's two hottest cage commodities, the Matadors and the Panthers are considered the teams to watch out for during the 19th annual tournament which tips off today in the Lubbock Coliseum at 9 a.m.

Since the two standout clubs are in opposite brackets of the tournament sponsored by the Caprock American Business Club, a potential pre-district showdown looms on the horizon.

In the small school category, Slaton is expected to meet Lubbock Christian High at 7:30 p.m. Thursday for the crown. "The thought (of a showdown with Dunbar) has crossed my mind," said Estacado coach J. J. Wood, who has led the Mats to an impressive 14-1 mark this season. "But you can never tell about a tournament. A lot of things could happen between now and then."

Dunbar coach Joe McWilliams hasn't added a grey hair worrying about a possible matchup with the upstart Matadors, so he saith. "I really haven't thought about it any," McWilliams said. "We will have a tough enough time getting to the finals without thinking about something else."

McWilliams, who has led Dunbar to two straight District 3-AAA crowns and an 11-3 mark this season, agrees with Wood that a pre-tourney favorite is a might tough to choose. "I like Morton and Dunbar's chances," Wood said. "And you never know about Monterey (the defending tournament champion)."

"I don't know," McWilliams said. "They all have good teams."

McWilliams pointed out that the "physical" part of the game could be the easiest thing the Panthers will have to deal with for the next three days. The "mental" aspect is bothering the DHS coach.

"It is going to be difficult to get up for some of the teams," McWilliams explained. "We have already beaten a few of the teams a couple of times this year. And I know that will be in the back of the team mind."

Dunbar's first-round opponent will be Morton, a team the Panthers nailed recently at the Reese AFB tournament for consolation honors.

McWilliams also noted. "There is going to be a great deal of mental preparation for most of the teams. We have all played each other (with the exception of Park). We'd like to play some other people but that's not possible this time."

Some of the coaches have expressed their displeasure with playing an all-city type format. Only Iowa Park is an unfamiliar foe of any of the eight teams in the large division.

Also entered are Lubbock High, Dimmitt, Monterey, Coronado and Morton.

Competing in the small school category are LCHS, Frenship, Plains, Slaton, Cooper, Tulia, Tahoka and Idalou. Dimmitt, which is competing in the large school class, is the defending small school champion.

Wood said the tournament would "be a great time to polish a few things before district starts." Besides that, well... "It's a little late for experimentation," Wood said. "We'll just try to work on some things that we've been having trouble with."

In opening day action, Morton plays Dunbar at 12:30 p.m., Lubbock High takes on Dimmitt at 6 p.m., Iowa Park tangles with Monterey at 7:30 p.m. and Estacado squares off with Coronado at 9 p.m.

Small school action pits LCHS and Frenship at 9 a.m., Plains against Slaton at 10:30 a.m., Cooper playing Tulia at 2 p.m. and Tahoka meeting Idalou at 3:30 p.m.

Hobbs, Clovis, West Texas Meets Open

A-J Services

What's considered the best field ever assembled will tip off the 20th annual Hobbs Invitational Tournament today.

Cagers from four states — Texas, Arizona, Oklahoma and New Mexico — will vie with the host Eagles, presently 8-0 and ranked No. 1 in the Land of Enchantment being the team to beat.

Hobbs faces Plainview (2-11) at 9 p.m. (CST) tonight. El Paso Irvin (12-3) takes on Altus, Okla., in the first game at 2:30 p.m. Phoenix St. Mary's tackles Ysleta Bel Air (11-3) at 4:15 p.m. Phoenix East faces Albuquerque Valley at 7:30 p.m.

St. Mary's and East are ranked 2-3 in the latest Arizona poll.

The Clovis Holiday Tournament will begin today at 2:30 p.m. CST, with Lovington taking on Albuquerque Sandia. At 4:20, it's Farmington against Pampa, and Portales will go against Alamogordo at 7:30 p.m. At 9:30, the host Wildcats will take on Hereford.

The tournament finals will be at 9:30 p.m. on Thursday night.

Pampa is defending champion. Sandia comes in with the rating as the No. 5 Class AAAA team in New Mexico.

Meanwhile at Slaton, defending Class B state champion Nazareth is figured to battle Class AAAA Monterey and the host squad for the annual West Texas Girls Invitational championship here this week.

The double-elimination affair kicks off with eight games today and will run through Saturday.

Monterey takes on Tahoka at 10 a.m. today in the first game, with Nazareth meeting AA Frenship at 2:30 p.m. and Slaton facing Rotan at 7:30 p.m.

Other games today find Tulia facing Post at 11:30 a.m., Abernathy meeting McCarney at one, Wylie lacking Greenwood at 4:30 p.m., Stanton testing Cooper at six and Idalou squaring off against Lubbock Christian in the finale at 9 p.m.

Wilkens Annoyed

SEATTLE (AP) — Seattle SuperSonics Coach Lenny Wilkens doesn't think much of the $5,000 advertising campaign being conducted by Zaid Abdul-Aziz to gain fan support for rejoining the club.

Abdul-Aziz is a former center for the National Basketball Association.

"We're not a civil-service organization, where you get voted on to do anything," Wilkens said.

"Abdul-Aziz is a very fine human being, but I like the ball club I have. And if he's that good, why haven't other teams come to him?"

Newcombe Downs Smith In Tourney

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Australian John Newcombe, taking advantage of a rain-slicked court that had Stan Smith skidding after his soft shots, beat the American 6-3, 7-6, 7-5 Monday in the third round of the $200,000 Australian Open tennis tournament.

Newcombe, who beat Smith in a 1971 five-set thriller for one of his three Wimbledon titles, displayed a delicate touch with his drop volleys. The 6-foot-4 Smith repeatedly charged the net, only to have his returns strike the cords.

The loss ended Smith's hopes of making the final field of eight for January's $400,000 Grand Prix Masters tournament in New York.

The performance by the 33-year-old Newcombe, returning to tournament play after an absence of one year, thrilled more than 8,000 spectators who waited more than three hours before the saturated courts were ruled fit for play.

In other matches, Bob Gilman of Australia defeated New Zealander Chris Lewis 6-3, 6-3, 7-6 and Robin Drysdale of Britain beat Karl Meiler of West Germany 6-3, 7-6, 7-6.

Virus Strikes Bucks Before Sugar Bowl

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A virus continued to strike Ohio State's football team Monday as the Big Ten co-champions swung into their final week of work for a Sugar Bowl meeting with Alabama.

As many as 25 players and coaches have been bothered by the illness, described by team trainer Billy Hill as a 24 to 36 hour virus.

Two regulars, wingback Jim Harrell and center Mark Lang, along with defensive tackle Eddie Beamon and assistant Coach Mickey Jackson were the latest victims. Harrell and Beamon remained in their hotel rooms while the Buckeyes whished through a two-hour practice in Tulane Stadium.

"It seems to be tapering off," said Hill. "I hope it's run its course."

Meanwhile, Joel Payton, the Buckeyes' No. 1 scorer as a freshman fullback, remained on the sidelines for a third straight practice. The 222-pound Payton, from Mentor, Ohio, suffered a bruised left shoulder in Wednesday's drill.

"It's a day-to-day thing," said Payton, sitting on a training table. "All I know is that it still hurts."

Even if he's healthy, Payton is not expected to start against the Southeastern Conference champions Jan. 2 in the Superdome. The fullback job will go to either Jeff Logan or Paul Campbell.

Felix Lee, another fullback who sprained an ankle Friday, resumed full-scale workouts.

Two third stringers, offensive tackle Tim Burke and linebacker Alvin Washington, suffered minor injuries. Burke stretched left knee ligaments while Washington hurt his toe on the artificial turf.

Woody Hayes, coaching a sixth straight bowl team, gave his squad of 95 the afternoon off. Most of them watched the National Football League playoffs on television and then went to a movie Monday night.

"We'll go pretty light from now on," said Hayes after Monday's practice. He's thinking of switching his morning workouts to the afternoon to acclimate the players to the Sugar Bowl kickoff time of 1 p.m. CST.

Bradley Joins Rockets Club

HOUSTON (AP) — Former Texas Southern University star Alonzo Bradley has signed a 3-year pact with the Houston Rockets.

Bradley, a 6-7 forward, was obtained in a trade with the Indiana Pacers at a salary believed to be $100,000 a year, according to the Houston Post. The Rockets gave up veteran forward Ron Behagen.

The National Basketball Association rookie has not been playing with the Pacers, however. This year he was a member of an amateur team called Athletes in Action, a church-sponsored club that plays major colleges. He averaged 19.7 points through 17 games.

During his career at TSU, Bradley averaged 24.6 points per game and accounted for 1,898 points.

DOOLEY'S WORLD

Stock Market's Chief Enforcer 'Tickets' Wayward Companies

WASHINGTON (AP) — When the stock market's chief cop blows his whistle, Wall Street trembles, wondering what corporation will be ticketed next.

Stanley Sporkin has tagged 32 companies for bribing U.S. and foreign officials in the nearly four years he has headed the enforcement division of the Securities and Exchange Commission. Hundreds of other firms have been taken to court for stock-selling schemes or other violations of securities laws.

A well-known name is no defense against Sporkin. In September, he filed a complaint against Exxon Corp., the world's largest corporation, alleging that it failed to disclose overseas payments.

And last month he obtained a consent order against the largest brokerage house, Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith Inc., for allowing its employees to push a weak stock too aggressively.

Despite resistance from the Nixon administration, Sporkin pushed his investigation into financier Robert L. Vesco about allegations he looted $224 million in assets from mutual funds.

Now Sporkin is looking into the banking practices of President Carter's former budget director, Bert Lance.

But in an interview, Sporkin said his push for convictions and consent orders is useful only if through fear it stops other violators.

"I don't like the idea of uncovering dirt and mud and saying that's the end," he said. "How do we deal with the problem and solve it?"

No one would mistake Sporkin for a Wall Street lawyer. Dressed in rumpled slacks and working out of a cluttered office, he gives the impression of being a persistent but realistic crusader. One publication compared him to the television sleuth, Lieutenant Columbo.

Portly and with dark circles under his eyes, Sporkin, 45, says he keeps a late schedule to follow his cases. After having dinner with his wife, Judy, and three children, he does paperwork at home each night from about 8:30 p.m. to 1 a.m.

"Mostly I sign off with Johnny Carson," he says. "Maybe I ought to kick the habit."

His office is decorated with a picture painted by his wife. It has only one thing on it: a brightly colored briefcase.

Sporkin has the resources of the U.S. government behind him, but often finds himself the underdog.

His staff of about 120 lawyers is smaller and less-experienced than the high-priced attorneys on the other side.

"Our young people are up against the most formidable adversaries money can buy," Sporkin says. "It seems to me ludicrous to think that some of the country's most experienced lawyers could be put upon by one of our youngsters who may be two or three years out of school."

The zeal of some of Sporkin's lawyers has come under criticism from a congressional subcommittee, which is quietly trying to determine whether the rights of defendants and lawyers have been violated.

"They (the SEC lawyers) are instrumental in keeping investors' confidence," says a congressional aide who wished not to be identified, "but there are allegations that in being effective they have trampled on civil liberties."

Sporkin acknowledges there may have been excessive zeal by some of his staff but he complains, "We were criticized for being creative. Why is it that creativity can only come from the other side — the private sector?"

Most cases that the SEC has pursued have not been submitted to the Justice Department for prosecution. Instead, the SEC in 80 percent of its completed cases has relied on out-of-court settlements.

In such cases, the company, without admitting guilt, promises not to commit the offense and promises remedies as part of a court order. Occasionally the publicity alone is damaging enough.

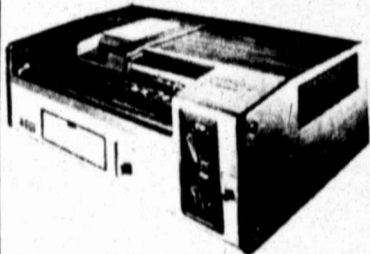

"We can only do what the law permits — get an injunction," said Sporkin. "If they do it again, somebody will go to jail. It has done a lot to keep them from doing it again."

The SEC, for example, was able to get companies to promise not to make overseas bribes to officials even though such payments are not prohibited by U.S. laws. Instead, the agency depended on securities laws which require reporting such payments to the SEC and stockholders.

Groups Boycott Vacation, Convention Centers

By The Associated Press
Some of the nation's top vacation and convention centers are off-limits to supporters of the Equal Rights Amendment and their boycott is costing these cities millions of dollars.

ERA forces targeted New Orleans, Miami, Chicago, Atlanta, St. Louis, Kansas City, Las Vegas, Phoenix, Tucson, Salt Lake City and Richmond — all cities in states that have not ratified the amendment. ERA supporters say their boycott has cost the cities' economies $60 million to $80 million.

Convention officials have said the boycott has cost Atlanta $16 million, Chicago $15 million, Miami $9 million, Kansas City $1.1 million and St. Louis at least $400,000. Officials of other cities would not estimate their losses.

Fifty-five organizations have formally joined the boycott since last February, including the Democratic National Committee, National Education Association, American Psychological Association, United Auto Workers, Common Cause and League of Women Voters.

"This thing is really snowballing," said Sandra Porter of the National Organization for Women, a boycott organizer. "We've not begun to carry out our strategy fully, but it is already working better than we hoped. Chicago is the best example of that."

Chicago's Convention and Tourism Bureau says the boycott has caused the city a "direct financial loss," and has formally urged the Illinois Legislature to adopt the ERA.

"We've received letters from state lawmakers opposing the ERA who were furious," said Allen Goldhamer of the Chicago agency. "They said we were caring in to political causes for financial reasons. But when we've lost 150,000 hotel room reservations, we have to do something."

In Kansas City, Councilman Joe Servises says the city blames the Missouri Legislature for causing the boycott, and plans to press the legislature to pay for all or part of the lost convention business.

Atlanta tourism officials, however, say they will not be pressured into backing the amendment. "We are not attempting to say word one about it to the legislature," said Dick Stormont, chairman of the Atlanta Convention and Visitors Bureau.

Phyllis Schlafly of Alton, Ill., a leading anti-ERA spokeswoman, says the boycott is "just shocking."

"This boycott is a conspiracy against innocent people who have nothing to do with the issue," she said. "I think this boycott is conclusive proof that the proponents can't pass the ERA on its merits."

The ERA has been approved by 35 states and must be ratified by three more by March 22, 1979, to become part of the Constitution. Three states have rescinded approval, but the legality of that is in question.

Several tourism officials say the boycott is aimed at the wrong areas.

"The irony is that legislators from southern Florida have been overwhelmingly in favor of ERA," said Hal Cohen of the Miami convention bureau. "The legislators in northern Florida aren't hurt a damn by a convention boycott. It's like getting mad at Russia and putting an embargo on bananas from Nicaragua — you hurt the wrong people."

A New York City convention official, Martin Gray, said it is too early to see the boycott creating a boom in states, like

New York, that have ratified the ERA.

But he said the effect could become dramatic if the deadline for ERA ratification is extended beyond 1979, a proposal under consideration in Congress.

Tourism officials also reported rumors that anti-ERA groups would start a boycott against states that have passed the amendment, but Mrs. Schlafly said nothing had been planned.

"We don't consider it a proper way to deal with the issue," she said. "Of course, we'll encourage our supporters to go to states that haven't ratified ERA."

Department Accused Of 'Stonewalling'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.) accused the Defense Department on Monday of "stonewalling" congressional investigators seeking to learn why the administration thinks cruise missiles launched from the sea and ground are needed.

Proxmire released an exchange of letters between himself and Charles W. Duncan, deputy secretary of defense, concerning the administration's justifications for the $5 billion cruise missile program.

The cruise missile is a jet-powered pilotless airplane remote-controlled by radio signals with a range of 2,000 miles in a version designed to be launched from ships and a 1,000-mile range in a version designed for launching from B-52 bombers. The air-launched version is the administration's alternative to the B-1 bomber.

Proxmire said that on March 16, after learning of an administration decision to proceed with both ground and sea-launched cruise missiles, he asked for information demonstrating the need for each. Proxmire is chairman of a joint congressional subcommittee on economy in government.

Duncan responded by sending members of his staff, armed with about 30 documents, to meet with members of the subcommittee staff and the staff of the General Accounting Office in July.

The GAO, a fact-finding arm of Congress, had reported in April there was "confusion and uncertainty" as to the need for the cruise program.

In a letter July 26, Proxmire told Duncan the documents "contained many conclusions concerning mission needs but little factual data or analyses supporting the conclusions."

Proxmire said the needed data apparently was in a review ordered by Secretary of Defense Harold Brown and papers prepared by Department of Defense representatives involved in the SALT talks on strategic arms limitation. He asked for these papers.

On Sept. 6, Duncan sent Proxmire a staff study on modernization of the strategic bombing force along with testimony Brown had given before a congressional committee. He said these were the best source of the information sought.

Duncan conceded that the study dealt only with the air-launched missiles and that there were internal SALT memoranda dealing with the ground-launched and sea-launched versions.

"Since these documents are concerned primarily with assessments of various alternative SALT cruise missile limitations, and are basically preliminary decision documents, I believe it is inappropriate to disseminate them outside the SALT working group at this time," he told Proxmire.

In a Dec. 16 letter to Proxmire, Comptroller General Elmer B. Staats, who heads the GAO, said that "with the possible exception of the air-launched version, GAO has not had access to data supporting the need for other land-attack versions of the cruise missile."

In releasing the correspondence, Proxmire said, "The Pentagon cannot expect to win support for costly new programs by stonewalling congressional requests for information explaining their need."

Hotel Develops Group Rental

TRURO, England (UPI) — The King Harry Hotel on Cornwall's Fal river has introduced a novel "rent-a-hotel" scheme for families and groups wishing to spend a country houseparty weekend, or longer.

They can choose their own menus and meal times, run their own entertainment, and even join in some of the domestic arrangements if they wish. "We provide the amenities, resources and staff," says owner Ted Kirkham.

The King Harry is a converted farmhouse complex in the middle of National Trust parkland near Truro, 246 miles southwest of London.
