Amarillo area school children were rithout milk today, and South Plains-Panhandle grocery shoppers may find shortages of some food items at the grocery store because of the growing farm strike.

Farmers Tuesday night set up block-ades in front of the Affiliated Foods, Inc., warehouse, the Borden milk plant and Safeway Stores, Inc., in Amarillo to prevent deliveries

All three companies then agreed to stop nearly all food distribution out of Amarillo today.

A spokesman for the loosely organized

American Agriculture association in Hereford claimed some picketers at the Affiliated warehouse were slightly injured Tuesday night when a truck proceeded through a crowd trying to block

"There were about 50 farmers there, the truck drove right on through the people," said Jerome Friemel. "After that, the farmers plugged the gate with tractors to stop the trucks."

However, area law enforcement agencies did not confirm the injury claim.

Jim Graves, general manager of the Amarillo Borden facility, said few of his company trucks were allowed to leave the distribution center this morning.

"The people are not violent. They are as nice as you can be in this situation. They did let us send trucks out to serve hospitals and nursing homes," he said. "But a lot of schools are not going to receive milk today.

Ag Officials Sympathetic

Avalanche-Journal Farm Writer South Plains producers and farm organization leaders today expressed mixed reactions to a national "farm strike."

The strike, organized by a group which calls itself American Agriculture, involves efforts to get farmers and ranchers to halt sales of farm products and expenditures for goods and services in an attempt to get agricultural prices at "100 percent of parity."

Parity is a theoretical price at which a farmer's crop would have the same pur-chasing power it had in 1909-14 when crop prices and the cost of items farmers bought were said to have been in bal-

Indications were that the strike will have lots of sympathy but relatively little active support on the South Plains.

A positive effect, some farm officials indicated, could be that the strike will spotlight increased farm labor costs and show the wide gap between prices re-ceived by farmers and prices paid by con-

"The American Agriculture movement is doing an excellent job of bringing the farmers' problems to the public's atten-tion," said A. W. "Dub" Anthony Jr. of Friona, president of the Grain Sorghum Producers Association. Lloyd Cline of Lamesa, president of the Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., said the 25county organization "is sympathetic with the problems farmers face. "We have continually worked on farm income through legislation over the

At a hearing last month, Wright granted a defense motion or a change of ven-ue, ordering the capital murder trial moved to San Angelo. No date has been set, but indications were that the trial could start next month

The timing could depend, however, on the results of several other pretrial mot-ions, scheduled to be considered at a 9 a.m. Monday hearing in Wright's 137th Dist. Court.

At the request of court-appointed defense attorneys Phil Brown and Tom Richards, Wright ordered a complete men-tal examination of the defendant to be conducted by an evaluation team headed by Dr. Adolph Supak of the Big Spring state mental hospital.

subcommittee handling President Carter's welfare plan voted today to remove most of the proposed tax relief for middle-income persons and to concentrate the help on welfare recipients.

Democrats and Republicans had been uneasy at the prospect of having to defend not only the cost of the welfare plan, but also the additional $3.1 billion that Carter had earmarked for tax reductions for middle-income workers. On a motion by Rep. Charles Rangel, D-N.Y., the special welfare subcommittee knocked out Carter's proposal to spend $4.6 billion on an earned-income Rangel substituted instead a tax credit that would cost $2 billion and would stop at families of four who take home $12,-600. The maximum benefit under the Rangel plan would be $504 per family, compared with $655 under Carter's plan.

Carter administration officials defended their proposal by saying middle-in-come taxpayers needed relief from soaring taxes just as much as low-income workers needed the tax break as an iricentive to stay off welfare rolls.

The subcommittee in effect told the administration to save its tax relief for the middle-income group for inclusion in the upcoming income tax-revision bill expected in January

'We can deal with the earned income tax credit (for the middle class) in the tax bill," said Rep. L.A. Bafalis, R-Fla. "We're just making welfare much more expensive in the eyes of the public if we put it in this bill. It is a very serious tactical mistake."

The subcommittee is pushing to finish all major parts of the president's $30.2billion welfare-revision program this week, but some members fear their work may be undone later.

"My impression is we're just spinning our wheels and there's going to be a lot of backing and filling before this bill is through," said ranking Republican Bar-ber B. Conable of New York.

The welfare revision package — once it is approved by the special subcommittee would still face expected challenges in three standing committees before it goes to the full House.

"I think we're moving along more swimmingly than we might if people thought our final product in this ad hoc subcommittee was going to be the final product in the standing committees," Conable said in an interview.

Lubbeck City Council will consider adopting ordinance amendments to tighten city control over the sale of alcoholic beverages in restaurants. The amendments, to be considered at 9:30 a.m. in council chambers, will make issuance of alcoholic beverage sale permits subject to Zoning Board of Adjustment (ZBA) approval if the beverage sales are not a business's primary use. No late-hour permits would be allowed for businesses that serve alcoholic beverages, and such businesses must be at least 600 feet apart and at least 200 feet from residential zones.

Additional parking must be provided by businesses that sell alcoholic beverages, and permits could be cancelled by the ZBA if it believes the 60-40 limit on alcoholic beverage sale profits is not met. Last week the council rejected proposals drafted by the Planning and Zoning Commission with input from the Lub-bock Restaurant Association. The reject-bock Restaurant Association. The rejected amendments, which would have sidestepped ZBA approval and allowed latehour permits, did not give the city enough control, council members said.

City staffers decided to revamp the current ordinance, which the legal department said was not constitutional on its face and which the zoning department said could not be enforced adequately.

The proposed changes would prevent bars operating as restaurants in zoning districts reserved for legitimate eateries. Bars posing as restaurants also often doctor audit records to show the 20-40 limit is being met. And, city officials say, often legitimate restaurants operating with a late-hour permit sell only liquor from midnight to 2 a.m., thus becoming "minibars."

Tuna Fishermen Do Not Expect To Fight Fishing Regulations

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The 1978 tuna fishing season promises to open without the court battles and fishermen's work the court battles and fishermen's work stoppage that errupted this year because of government restrictions on the number of porpoises which can be killed.

A spokesman for the tuna industry says modified government restrictions on the porpoise kill appear acceptable. The tuna season opens New Year's Day.

Porpoises swim above valuable yellow-fin tuna and lead fishermen to their catch. But the air-breathing porpoises become entangled in the nets and drown or are fatally maimed.

Under a new regulation, tuna fisher-

Under a new regulation, tuna fisher-men — most of them based in San Diego, Calif. — have been required to use fine-mesh nets and take other actions to allow the porpoise to escape unharmed.

Spokesman David Burey of the United States Tuna Foundation said the group, which represents fishermen, canneries and boat owners, believes it can live with quotas proposed by a Commerce Department administrative law judge.

Regulations implementing the quotas, with possible changes by administration officials, are expected to be published

The judge recommended a porpoise kill quota of 51,930 animals in 1978, 41,600 in 1979 and 31,140 in 1980. He also recommended that an escape hatch for por-poise be mandatory in large tuna nets and a zero quota be set for a type of por-

Last year, the boats went out in January at the start of the international tuna fishing season but were forced to return under a court order. Boat owners were given permits in April by federal officials but the captains waited until May 11 to resume fishing.

In October, Burney said, the delay caused a 30 percent drop in tuna revenues, causing many cannery workers to lose their jobs or have their income re-

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The federal government is trying to find a way to provide Eskimos with half the food they need to survive now that an international commission has drastically reduced the number of endangered bowhead whales killed in traditional hunts.

The International Whaling Commission last week lifted a ban on the whale kill, but ruled the Eskimos can land only 12 of the marine mammals or make 18 strikes, whichever comes first. In addition, the commission resolved that no nursing female whales or their calves are to be

A study by the Health, Education and Welfare Departent indicates the Eskimos need 24 whales to supply the more than 4,500 villagers with food. Bowhead whales, up to 60 feet long with an average of 20 inches thickness of blubber, traditionally are hunted in spring and fall.

The new quota "does not satisfy all the subsistence needs of the Eskimos and to the extent that it can," but the United States is committed to finding alternate food sources, Richard Frank, national oceanic and atmospheric administrator, told a news conference Monday.

Frank said HEW and the Interior Department, which has Indian trust responsibilities, must consider alternatives that not only provide Eskimos "vitamins, nutrition and protein, but must be acceptasmall-town fire departments in return for their answering rural fire calls has the advantage of putting a lock on the barn door.

Unfortunately, it does nothing to get the horse back in the stall. The only way to do that is for the county to quit providing "rural" fire service at all.

About the only property owners who benefit are those right on the outskirts of town, within quick response time of the fire trucks

That means that 98 per cent of the taxpayers pay for a service enjoyed by the other 2

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS have wrestled with this knotty problem for years and have come up with the only practical way for keeping a lid on fire call expenses if they are going to continue providing the service.

Under the new plan for 1978, the $100,000 set aside for fire calls will be divided among the small-town fire departments based on the percentage of calls they handled in 1977.

The old plan provided for a $275 payment for each fire call made. This meant that the Commissioners Court had no way to control the total cost.

Fire departments, on the other hand, have complained that the $275 is not enough to

THAT COMPROMISE plan for subsidizing cover expenses. A similar dispute prompted the City of Lubbock and the County to sever their fire call agreement.

Since the $100,000 is the same amount as the County spent on fire calls this year, and since the fire departments say that wasn't enough, it's easy to see that the new plan won't cover their expenses, either, if they answer about the same number of calls in 1978 as they did in 1977.

SO, WHILE THE new lump sum method of payment solves one problem, it does nothing to get at the real heart of the matter.

The situation is this: Property owners inside the City of Lubbock pay between 85 and 90 per cent of all County taxes. This means that, of the $100,000 outlay for "rural" fire calls, city dwellers pay at least $85,000 of the cost-and get no benefit in return.

They have to pay City taxes for their own fire protection, which means they're paying twice and enjoying it less.

The only answer that's fair to all is for the County to get out of the business entirely of subsidizing fire departments. If fringe-area property owners want fire protection, they can ask to be annexed or find some other way in which they can pay for the service themselves.

Let's Go Sledding!

GOLLY GEE NED, whatever would we do without all those protective agencies warning us against environmental dangers we ain't got sense enough to see for ourselves?

Take the National Safety Council, for example. It offers us learned tips on how to be safe while sledding.

First of all-and this is one us ordinary mortals never would think of on our own-the NSC says we should "make certain the children are dressed

It also solemnly intones that "broken parts, sharp edges and split wood invite accidents."

We should remember, too, that when going snow sledding we should look for a spot where 'snow covers the entire area" on which we want

"SLEDDING ANYWHERE near a street is dangerous because it is difficult for drivers to see sleds and, even if seen, icy roads might prevent a stop in time," the NSC warns.

Wanted: Resolve To Be First

WASHINGTON-Melvin Laird's latest of several blasts against Russian cheating on the SALT agreements is not new in substance, but it is new and affirmative in its advice.

The former Defense Secretary for Nixon accuses the Soviets of building new missiles and submarines under camouflage, but there is still another viewpoint which is expressed by Kremlinologists of our town.

It is the viewpoint, for instance, of James Schlesinger, who also was a Defense Secretary under Republican Presidents, that the wily Reds are not so much breaking the arms limitations treaty as they are bending it to their advantage. But Laird's advice is that Congress authorized the President to declare SALT null and void, to cancel out and to lay out a crash program of war-As a guideline, we might set out to reverse the preparedness figures which today show the USSR spending 17 per cent of its gross national product on the military, while we spend only six. We could turn that set of numbers around, in our favor. We could triple the modernization of our ground forces to gain parity with the USSR in

THE SQUAWKS OF the American peace bloc and welfare statists would rend the skies if Laird's proposal were carried to the Senate floor, or if it came to us in one of Jimmy's fireside Laird's advice has everything in its favor except practicability. Public opinion is in no mood to demand rearmament, and without the vox pop the vox politico is nothing but an embarrassed sil-Are we, therefore, hopelessly doomed to disaster? Is there no way to arouse the American people to the increasing Communist threat? Yes, I think that such persons as Laird, who is now an editor-contributor to the mass circulation Reader's Digest, could get the message across through means of the press, television and lecture platform. But the keynote, as always, to this sort of serious and necessary message is credibility. To yell that "The Russians are coming!" won't do because few people sitting snug and well-fed in front of their boob-tubes can see the approaching foe, as the Intelligence Community can clearly discern from their reports.

JUST AS A MATTER of national pride, to say nothing of survival, we ought to be, not just superior, but El Supremo in military might. We need and deserve to have weapons to match our wealth. We need warships that dominate the sea lanes on which we are so dependent for imports. We want missiles and cannons and tanks to declare our will for the sort of world we want to live in. We don't have to start a war. But we should take a trip to the brink.

Nobody laughed when FDR, no favorite of mine, sounded the trumpet for rearmament. The country took Harry Truman to its heart when he talked back to Stalin by sending the American troops to what is now NATO, and the aircraft carriers into what was geographically Russian waters of the Mediterranean.

We have learned to listen to the No Win arguments for so long that we believe in them instead of quizzing them. One drawback to the outbreak of non-violence behind the new world hero, Anwar Sadat of Egypt, is that we are seeing a militarily weak nation getting its way for a while, and this encourages passivity on our part.

But the fact of history is that there is no worse thing for a major nation than weakness, and nothing more becoming in such a nation as military strength. The Russians have learned this. They practice it. Their military posture may be only that-a posture, a pose.

From what Laird has to say, and from what many of us believe, the Soviets have more respect for American power than Americans themselves. Laird writes:

'The Soviets appreciate that the U.S. economy is so strong and our technology so advanced that we can outstrip in any form of weaponry, if we have a national resolve to do so."

If we have a national resolve-seek this first. and all the rest will follow.

That's how the U.S. government tallies the employment-unemployment statistics each month, for it excludes members of the armed forces from the job rolls.

U.S. data collectors also exclude from the work force total the estimated one million who are too "discouraged" to continue looking for work. At the same time, they count the student who, say, holds a job waiting on tables for only one hour a

These definitions and concepts may seem utterly unrealistic, but vitally they affect our employment measures-some observers insisting that they make them too high, others, far too low.

For the first time in 30 years, therefore, a ninemember blue-ribbon panel has begun a comprehensive review of the U.S. government's jobless data, with the goal of helping to restore public As a number of speakers made clear, the cities | confidence in this key economic indicator and policy guide.

of who is working and who is not, policymakers are at a huge disadvantage in finding solutions to our high jobless rate.

1930s-well over a generation ago-that the labor market concepts in use today were developed.

In the years since, profound changes have taken place in the demographics and character of the labor force; women have poured into the labor force and so have teenagers; family patterns have been altered; a multi-billion-dollar system of "transfer" payments (such as welfare, food stamps, unemployment insurance) has grown to provide a cushion against economic dislocation.

But the major impetus for review of the figures has come because these are the numbers which trigger the allocation of close to $17 billion in programs aimed at helping the jobless.

Among the programs: countercyclical revenue sharing, job training, public works. If the data used to direct these funds is misleading, then countless millions may be misallocated and the needy may go without assistance.

REVISION WILL BE tough. Even an apparently innocent and simple change in definition undoubtedly will provoke opposition. If, for instance, military personnel were included in the work force, the unemployment rate in communities where they are located would fall, resulting in a loss to these areas of millions in federa

Carter In Need Rare In Deed

SAN FRANCISCO-More than 7,000 municipal officials gathered here last week for the annual meeting of the National League of Cities. A fair guess is that 6,900 of them were sore at Jimmy Carter. The President who promised so much, in their view, has sadly failed to deliver.

·No question about it: Carter made a heap of promises. On April 1, 1976, he delivered himself of a full-blown statement on "urban policy for the remainder of the 20th Century." Three months later, in an address to the United

Chowchilla Defendants Still Silent

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) - The Chowchilla mass kidnapping trial nears its end with the three confessed abductors maintaining their silence, leaving unanswered the long-standing mystery of why they committed the bizarre crime.

Final arguments were scheduled to ben today before Superior Court Judge Leo Deegan. Both sides rested their cases Tuesday without any of the defendants taking the stand.

The three men - James Schoenfeld, 26, Richard Schoenfeld, 23, and Fred Woods, 26 - admitted earlier this year staging the July 1976 kidnappings but pleaded innocent to the more serious. charges of kidnap with bodily harm.

Deegan, who heard the case without a jury, was not expected to rule as soon as arguments were completed. There was no indication when he would decide If convicted, the defendants could be ants told their side of the story. The guilty pleas averted a full trial on the kidnap charges, leaving only the question of bodily harm in doubt. The government, which was precluded by the judge from offering psychiatric testimony, contended that school bus driver Ed Ray and four of the 26 children abducted while riding home from sum-mer school suffered heat exhaustion while buried for 161/2 hours in a make-

The defense argued that the buried moving van was ventilated and, that the captives endured the ordeal without physical injury.

During 16 days of testimony, both sides presented physicians who had studied medical examinations of the children and previous court testimony. Doctors testifying for the government concluded that Ray and four children showed signs of heat illness

But Dr. Robert H. Herman, the key defense witness, testified that he could not detect signs of any heat injury, and that the children appeared to be in good health when they crawled to freedom.

The captives were taken to the underground van at a rock quarry 100 miles from their Central California hometown. The quarry was owned by Woods' father.

Herman, who spent two days on the witness stand, disputed prosecution arguments that thirst and fainting spells described by some of the captivs were symptoms of heat exhaustion. He said they could have been "normal reactions

He conceded under cross-examination, though, that the hostages suffered some anxiety. But he said they were in the buried van too short a time to suffer any permanent injury.

Public To View Shroud Display

VATICAN CITY (UPI) - The shroud that many Roman Catholics believe draped the body of the crucified Christ is to be put on public display next year for the first time in 45 years, Vatican sources

The 14-foot, brownish linen cloth now held in a silver casket in Turin cathedral appears to have the imprint of a human body on it, said by some Catholics to be that of Christ. Vatican sources said Sunday the shroud will be displayed in a Turin square in September 1978 to commemorate the 400th anniversary of its being brought to Turin by the Kings of Savoy.

It was last put on display in the 1933

Tension Mounts In Coal Strike

By STEVEN PROKESCH United Press International

A clash in Western Kentucky between 400 miners and 60 policemen and a bomb scare at a court in Price, Utah, underlined the powder-keg tension produced by the nationwide soft-coal strike, now in its ninth day.

Three-man teams from the United Mine Workers and the Bituminous Coal Operators Association met briefly Tuesday before federal mediators in Washington and then recessed with no new talks scheduled. Neither UMW President Arnold Miller nor BCOA President Joseph Brennan attended the session.

Meanwhile, the AFL-CIO convention in Los Angeles Tuesday adopted a resolu-tion of support for the UMW. "It's quite obvious that the coal opera-

While most of the 22 states affected by the strike involving about 188,000 miners were quiet Tuesday, a Pennsylvania polceman's description of Clarion County, Pa. - "We are sitting on a powder keg" - applied to many areas.

The most recent major outbreak of violence occurred Tuesday in Western Kentucky and sparked Kentucky Gov. Julian M. Carroll to telegram UMW President Miller:

"I will not hesitate to use the full measure of resources available ... to assure the protection of (Kentucky's) peop and their property and the right of all citizens to engage in peaceful protest or to

Three were injured - two of them policemen - and at least 15 persons were arrested when about 400 miners clashed with 60 policemen in Davies County, Ky. Police, who used riot clubs and tear gas to disperse the UMW members, were trying to enforce an injunction limiting picketing when the outbreak occurred.

Kentucky troopers also said an empty Louisville & Nashville freight train was stopped at Dotiki and had to back up bout 20 miles to get around about 80 UMW pickets.

Many non-UMW operations in Eastern Kentucky and Southern Ohio were closed earlier this week by caravans of UMW members and a leader of the shutdown effort said, "We will have scouts out checking and if they find any that are

Man Hired To Handle

Computer The man hired to "computerine" the Lubbock County Courthouse will begin in January developing a system he says can save taxpayers money and provide better

Basically, his job will be to organize an in-house computer system for tasks that the county has been "farming out" to private firms — at an annual cost of about

McCullough said Tuesday he believes that for the same amount of money, the county could have a computer of its own, capable of handling the already "computerized" tasks as well as many chores now being done by hand. He said his first objective will be to write specifications for leasing a comput-er that will accommodate the four functions - maintenance of the ad va tax roll, voter registration roll, vehicle registration and county clerk's property records — now handled under contract with private firms.

McCullough said he hopes to have a computer installed for performing those tasks by September, 1978. Then, he said, other services - such as scheduling of courts and maintenance of the delinquent tax roll, court records, county welfare department information, county welfare department information, and payroll and accounting — gradually will be added to the computer system.

The computer also will be able to handle the counting of punch-card ballots, should Lubbock County commissioners decide to buy a punch-card election system, McCullough said.

"But a computer will allow county employees to do their jobs more efficiently, so that as their workload grows, we won't be hiring more and more employees, McCullough said.

McCullough currently is employed by Computer Services of the Southwest, which handles the maintenance of records for the Lubbock County tax office.

Aide Recalls Last Flight

LAS VEGAS, Nev.(AP) - Howard Hughes' closest assistant, who joined the tycoon in secret dashes to hideouts around the world, has testified that he was the only aide riding with Hughes on the millionaire's final flight. John Holmes, who was to conclude his unsuccessful race for the senate in 1972. Blanton described the Caribbean swing as a combination pleasure trip and "trade mission" to examine the possibility of exporting soybeans to Jamaica. But he acknowledged that he gave Jamaican officials no notice that he was arriving on any sort of trade mission or that he planned to attend a "Royal Agriculture Conference" there. Blanton also declined to estimate how much of the trip was devoted to the "trade mission" and how much to pleasure, or why he decided to have a physical examination in Jamaica instead of in Tennessee.

The Memphis Commercial Appeal, a daily newspaper with broad regional influence, was among the newspapers poking fun at the trip. In a mock endorse ment of the Jamaican jaunt, the newspaper said in an editorial:

The governor's main theme is that the media has dealt too much with the problems of his administration and over-

Suit Filed In War

Of Movies

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) - Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp. has filed suit in federal court to block a movie theater from replacing "Star Wars" with the film "Close Encounters of the Third Kind."

Twentieth Century-Fox, which made "Star Wars," claims its contract with Westgate Tri Cinema has a holdover provision obligating the theater to show the film until two weeks after gross receipts have fallen below $6,150 during a

"During the most recent week for which figures are available (the week of Nov. 25), gross proceeds were $18,402," the suit claims.

"Star Wars," a science-fiction fantasy released earlier this year, recently passed "Jaws" as the highest grossing film ever. Columbia Pictures' "Close Encounters," also a science-fiction film, has been playing to packed houses since opening last month.

A hearing on 20th Century-Fox's motion for a temporary restraining order was scheduled for this week in federal court here.

"Star Wars" has been showing at the Westgate theater since May 25. Twentieth Century-Fox said it plans an intense advertising campaign for the film during the Christmas season and expects gross receipts for the last two weeks of December to be in excess of $30,000.

"If the defendants breach their contract with the plaintiff and substitute 'Close Encounters' for 'Star Wars,' the plaintiff will be unable to place 'Star Wars' in any other Portland-area theater during the Christmas season and will be irreparably harmed and will sustain a substantial loss of income," the suit

Santa Claus Tale Poses Problems

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) - Telling a child that the doll or electric train under the Christmas tree comes compliments of a credit card and not Santa Claus can be difficult for parents.

But psychologists and school officials say the experience does not have to be a

"A child should hear about Santa Claus from someone who is trusted. It could be a parent or an older brother or sister," Dr. Terry Gutkin of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln said in an interview.

Gutkin, a school psychology specialist, said parents should separate reality from

"It shouldn't be, 'Oh, my, the sun isn't going to rise tomorrow!' It should be handled like sex education," Gutkin said. He said a parent and child should have a sitdown discussion about Santa as soon as "This also goes for the tooth fairy," he said. "The whole thing is a game parents play and it shouldn't shock children when they learn the truth.'

Dr. Howard Halpern of the Child Guidance Center in Lincoln said parents should leave Santa alone because "children will eventually figure it out for them-

"But if Santa Claus became a big deal, my guess would be that there are other problems in the family," he said. "Parents should attempt to understand why the belief in Santa is so important."

Halpern said the whole idea of St. Nick should be kept pleasant. He said parents can create more problems than they solve if they make a child feel ridiculous because of a belief in Santa.

"I might tell a child there is no Santa if the kid didn't get a toy he or she counted on getting and made a big fuss," he said. "I would explain to the child that in life you don't always get what you want." State Education Commissioner Anne Campbell said telling a child there is no Santa Claus should be done at home and not in the classroom or on the play-

"It's just not something that should be handled in the schools," she said.
"I told my oldest girl when she was in the first or second grade. It was a family affair on a social occasion when everyone was getting ready for the holidays."

The best toys at any price, says Landau, are those which require the child to participate and not be passive.

Marbles, bikes, wagons, jump ropes and jacks all require that the children become actively involved while playing. Some toys being sold are so elaborate or so highly mechanized they leave little room for creativity, she says.

"They become pure entertainment like television," she says. And television is giving youngsters a false appetite for those noncreative toys.

When parents indulge children in these with toys when you can't afford the toys, they are succumbing to television advertising, Landau says. 'In effect they are letting television dictate what's good for their children." Parents should think hard about the kinds of playthings they buy their children, she savs.

Take a few minutes.she suggests, and remember the toys you bought last year and the year before. Ask yourself: Which toys did they play with the most? Which ones could they use when playing with other children? Which ones became useless because one part was lost?

Then consider toys similar to the ones that lasted longest and the children played with most.

Games like Monopoly and jacks aren't rendered useless because one piece is

Books and puzzles make wonderful gifts, says Landau, as do marbles, pencils, paper and blocks.

She has nothing against dolls, but does suggest that the simpler dolls last the longest 'Children like dolls that they can, change the clothes," she says. "Children don't get attached to expensive toys any more than to cheap ones. 'I know someone who couldn't afford to buy coloring books, so she let her children cut out and color photos from the newspaper and they enjoyed it."

When buying a lasting toy like a bike, Landau says spending a large amount of money is OK because it is something that will last and something which requires the child to participate. A bike won't ride itself.

State Agency Takes Blame For Lines

HARTFORD, Conn.(AP) - State Social Services Commissioner Ed-ward Maher says his agency was to blame for the long lines faced by thousands of welfare women when they applied for emergency grants last

The women waited in the cold for The women waited in the cold for hours to apply for the $25-per-child welfare clothing grants being distributed at the department's regional offices on a first-come, first-served basis. Hawaiians Live Longer, New Figures Reveal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hawaiians live longer than Americans living in any other state and residents of the nation's capital have the shortest life expectancy - two years lower than in any other state - the National Center for Health Statistics said today.

Texas ranks 23rd among the states, with an average lifespan of 70.9 years.

Women in the state can expect to live 7.94 years longer than men, on the aver-

The figures, based on the decade ending in 1971, also found the life expectancy of a black man in America fell to 60 years for the same decade — well below the average life expectancy for all races. Black women averaged 68.3 years for the same period.

Current life expectancy in the United States for all races is 69 years for a man

Hawaii not only had an average life expectancy for both sexes of 73.6 years, but it also was the state with the smallest difference between the life expectancy of men and women. Hawaiian women still could expect to live 5.77 years longer than a man during the decade studied, statistics showed.

The center could not explain why Hawaiians live longer.

In the District of Columbia, the average life expectancy for both sexes was 65.7 years. The closest competitor for the lowest life expectancy was South Carolina, with a life expectancy of 67.96 years for both sexes.

Comparing the decade ending in 1961 with the decade ending in 1971, the center found a shift in longevity among states.

The states with the longest life expectancy for the decade ending in 1961 were Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota and North Dakota in that order. For the decade ending in 1971, the top five were Hawaii, Minnesota, Utah, North Dakota and Nebraska.

California, the nation's most populous state, ranked 17th among the 50 states for life expectancy. Men and women lived 71.7 years, not as long as residents of Washington state but longer than Vermonters, who ranked 18th.

Improvements in ranking on average life expectancy were made by Arisos and New Jersey, while Kentucky and West Virginia slipped in relative ranking in the comparison between decades.

All 50 states recorded some increase in life expectancy.

The center tried to explain statistically the virtues of Hawaii for longer life, but had to rule out such factors as ethnic composition of the island state.

"It is clear that Hawaii's males have a commanding advantage over males in other states in the age-adjusted death rates for all causes and for diseases of the circulatory system," the report concluded.

Wiley Buchanan, head of protocol with President Dwight Eisenhower, figured he traveled nearly a half a million miles during his four year tenure. Six former chiefs of protocol and the current custodian of official good manners got together recently to celebrate the publication of "Protocol — The Complete Handbook of Diplomatic, Official and Social Usage." They agreed that even though the job was terrific, once around the diplomatic scene was enough.

Smoak said he thought protocol was the greatest job in government "because it keeps you closer to more action with less responsibility than any other job in government. You just sit there and listen to heads of state discuss major issues of the world and you never have to say a word."

Henry Catto, chief of protocol from 1974 to 1976, said some people might think that protocol "is an insubstantial job, a tinselly kind of thing. But in reality we are the ones who set the stage against which very important actions take place. "When you keep in mind the Chinese proverb that embarrassment leads to anger, you realize that planning and arrangements can be of great importance," said Catto, a handsome, elegant man.

In fact, all the former protocol officers are handsome, elegant and distinguished looking with their red carnation boutonnieres making them stand out even more in the crowd of ambassadors and old guard Washingtonians.

James Symington, who worked for President Lyndon Johnson from 1966 to 1968, said he doubted if he'd take on such

"In the words of my great-grandfather, Secretary of State John Hay," said Sym-'No man ever takes the same job twice'," adding quickly, "unless maybe

Analysts See Drop In Housing Starts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Housing analysts have predicted that plenty of new dwellings will be built in 1978, but that housing starts should fall short of the near-record levels of 1977.

Analysts at a Federal Home Loan Bank Board conference said they think 1.85 million new housing units will be started next year, a decline from the 2 million expected this year

Donald M. Kaplan, the board's chief economist, emphasized that the 1978 prediction is "very respectable by historical standards."

The housing total for this year is expected to be the highest since 1973, when 2 million units also were started, and single-family house construction could become the highest on record. Last year, builders started work on 1.5 million

The housing panelists predicted modest increases in mortgage interest rates and a slight decline in money flowing into mortgage lending institutions.

A Georgia State University economist said he thinks rents will rise sharply next year because not enough apartment units are available.

versity's Economic Forecasting Project,

"Of course, a continued imbalance between completions and demand (for apartments) will lead to sharply rising rental rates .. A rapid increase in rental rates will increase the demand for singlefamily units, thus continuing near-record sales of new one-family houses in 1978 in the absence of credit restrictions.'

Morris Mark, vice president of Goldman, Sachs and Co., saw housing demand remaining strong because of population movement to the South and West, and anticipatory buying.

Saul Klaman, president of the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks, said mortgage credit will be less available in 1978, but still sufficient to support a high level of housing activity. Klaman does not foresee a big increase in interest

"All things considered, 1978 will be a good, if not spectacular, housing year,"

Veteran George Meany Must Face New Voice Of Labor Opposition

LOS ANGELES (UPI) - AFL-CIO President George Meany begins another term at age 83 anticipating a new voice of opposition within labor's leadership the voice of Machinist President William Meany, the Bronx plumber who has headed the AFL-CIO since 1955, was reelected overwhelmingly by voice vote Monday at the AFL-CIO convention. He begins a new two-year term with a higher $110,000 annual salary.

Secretary-Treasurer Lane Kirkland. Meany's heir apparent, also was re-elected and five vacancies on the AFL-CIO Executive Council were filled - one of them by Winpisinger.

Winpisinger, known as "Wimpy," was chosen to serve in the AFL-CIO inner circle dispite his outspoken criticism of Meany. He and his supporters even ref-used to join the applause following Mean-

AFL-CIO needs younger leadership.
"There is a feeling among union members that he is of advanced age and they have trouble relating to that," Winpisinger said in an inverview. "There are a lot of organized American workers who feel that way.

Winpisinger vowed to challenge Meany's policies in the years ahead.

Many AFL-CIO leaders suggested Meany might step down before the end of his new term, but Meany indicated he intends to be in office at least until 1979.

"I hope and I pray that two years from now we come back with a record of accomplishment," he said. "We truly represent everybody who works for wages

Most of the nearly 900 convention delegates disagreed with Winpisinger. They applauded wildly when Ray Corbett of the New York AFL-CIO declared:

"I ask that you join with me - young turks excepted - in the best interests of those we represent by asking almighty God, our carpenter in heaven, in his infi-nite wisdom to allow our plumber from the sidewalks of New York to serve at least another decade if not more.'

Many Escape Death In Freak Houston Tornado

By ROB WOOD HOUSTON (AP) — Many told of miraculous escapes from death or injury when a tornado struck Tuesday near a crowded Houston freeway, but one person was killed, at least 40 others injured and an estimated 600 homes and buildings were destroyed.

Civil Defense Director Bland McReynolds said if the twister had moved into the downtown area "it would have gutted most of the modern buildings."

Authorities said if the funnel had crossed the bumper-to-bumper freeway during the morning rush hours, the death toll would have been staggering.

Rescue and repair workers scrapped and dug through the shambles left of the homes and the buildings in search of other victims until halted by darkness. Police and sheriff's deputies then set up tight security in the devastated area to prevent looting.

Whitey Martin, chief of the Houston Fire Department's ambulance service, "There could more dead. There said, could be many more injured. Some maybe under debris or lying somewhere in a ditch. We hope not, but that is a possibili-

Many of the 40 injured persons suffered minor injuries.

McReynolds, who flew over the path of the tornado, five miles long and 300 to 500 feet wide, said, "The destctive force I saw snapped trees two feet in diameter like a matchstick and would have destroyed anything in its path."

Police officers said Billy D. Hester, about 50, a superintendent for a construction company, was killed when the torna-do lifted his pickup truck from a highway and hurled it about 350 feet into an oak Describing the death of Hester, Dave Largent, 29, a co-worker said, "It started raining and we all went into the office. Somebody outside yelled tornado. We went out and saw it. It was coming right Largent said most of the 100 workers at WASHINGTON (UPI) - The all-volunteer military, enlisting fewer "duml" recruits than during the years of the draft, may suffer high turnover of personnel be-cause intelligent recruits get left with menial tasks, Rep. Les Aspin says. "There are still lots of jobs in the mili-

The all-volunteer military may be accepting too few recruits with low-level intelligence scores, said Aspin, a frequent critic of Pentagon operations.

Defense Department figures show few-er recruits scoring poorly on military intelligence tests, he said. The number of recruits receiving scores in the marginal category - the equivalent of "D" in an "A" through grading system - has declined with the all-volunteer force, Aspin said.

From 1952 through 1973, the last year of the draft, the percentage of recruits ranked in the poor category ranged from 45.9 percent in 1952 to a low of 12.9 percent in 1961, he said.

Since the abolition of the draft, the percentage of recruits scoring poorly ranged from 10.2 percent in 1974 to 4.8 percent

Aspin said the Pentagon has revealed 40 percent of its recruits are dropped from the rolls before completing first enl-

Another reason for the large turnover may be a change in attitude in the military which once kept "everybody in uniform unless he took a potshot at his sergeant," Aspin said.

"Only in the Vietnam years, when all personnel issues came under review, did people realize that carrying a number of misfits around slowed a unit, lowered morale and generally fouled things up Aspin said.

So far, the replaceable treads have only been tested on C-130 cargo aircraft. The Air Force said that preliminary results after 76 test landings indicate that the replaceable tread will last just as long as conventional cargo aircraft tire treads. It said it found the tire carcass usable for multiple tread replacements. The treads were developed at Wright-

Reporter Discovers Perils Of Border

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) - Seeking a first-hand look at illegal aliens, reporter Louie Gonzalez donned grubby work clothes and traveled the underground railroad from deep Mexico to the California border. He got some story.

In four days, the 27-year-old journalist says he experienced bigotry, felt a knife's cutting blade and stared into the twin barrels of a bandit's shotgun. He says some of the autumn odyssey's most terrifying moments still haunt him. In a recurring dream, a robber who held a shotgun to Gonzalez's head — but did not fire - instead pulls the trigger. "It's messed up my mind," Gonzalez said Tuesday night in an interview. "I have recurring nightmares, the whole shot." He said his journey has also greatly altered his perception of the flight and plight of illegal aliens from Mexico. They have been characterized as a class of people spreading like a cancer across the country, depleting the resources of America," Gonzalez wrote at the beginning of his six-part series published in the Oakland Tribune. They are known by many names — wets, wetbacks, mojados, ilegales, undocumented workers and illegal aliens. But no matter what you call them, they are victims of hardship, brutality, exploitation and violence, as they expend every ounce of their energy in reaching for something better.' Gonzalez's original plan was to dump all identication papers, fly to Guadalajara, take a rattling 54-hour bus ride to Tijuana, join up with other illegals, cross into California and eventually sneak north to Oakland. But he never made his illegal crossing, stopping instead at a secluded mountain shack a short walk from a secret border entry point. The next day he crossed at a legal U.S. immigration checkpoint near San Ysidro. "I had seen more than enough," Gonzalez recalled. Gonzalez said he never slept during his journey for fear of being robbed of the few hundred dollars he had taken to pay alien-smugglers. It was a trip marked -Getting off the bus in Tijuana's roughest section, Gonzalez was stabbed in the side by a teen-ager. The attacker slashed at him three more times before Gonzalez grabbed his arm. He heard it snap — twice. There was no doubt in my mind that he intended to kill me for what I had. It made no difference to him what that was," wrote Gonzales, who continued on without letting his "fellow" illegals know he had been weakened by his

-Trekking through rugged canyons toward the border, the group of about 70 illegals was told by their guide they must not make a sound. But a 7-year-old boy Gonzalez had befriended tripped and impaled himself on a thorny cactus. The boy, choking back tears, never made a sound — despite the dozens of long thorns protruding from his chest. "I don't know if he lived," Gonzalez said. "He was in bad shape." -During the same night, a group of 10 bandits sneaked up on the group and robbed them of money they needed to pay the men who arranged their border

"Click. Click. The sound exploded into the ears like loud thunder," wrote Gonzalez. "Six inches from my head stared the twin barrels of a sawed-off shotgun." Gonzalez lost $190 to the bandits. -Flying back to Oakland - still dressed in his disguise - Gonzalez felt the sting of bitter bigotry.

"I remember the discrimination of a San Diego restaurant as I tried to order my first meal in four days, only to be seated at the end of a far counter away from the mainstream customers.

Storm Chills Northeast; Southwest Dry, Windy

An icy, wet weather system that spread freezing rain and some snow across the Northeast continues to keep residents shivering and highways slippery.

Numerous accidents were reported on roads in the metropiltan New York, Philadelphia and Boston areas. Interstate 95 near Philadelphia and Interstate 81 near Scranton were closed for several hours due to slick road conditions. Most of New England received some snow or freezing rain late Tuesday night. Temperatures in northern Maine got down to 15 degrees

In Woodbridge, N.J., police said icy road conditions led to a collision of a school bus carrying elementary school children and a van carrying handicapped children. Two of the handicapped children, both 8 years old, remained hospitalized in intensive care today with undisclosed injuries.

Rain was reported over the entire Southeast Tuesday, with more cloudiness and rain expected today from a moist, warm weather system.

USDA Official Lauds Program

By BERNARD BRENNER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Assistant Agriculture Secretary Rupert Cutler, with a sideswipe at the Nixon-Ford administrations, says the Carter administration is activating what will be the nation's first comprehensive program for conser-

But, Cutler conceded in a meeting with reporters Tuesday, the Carter team could wind up embarrassing itself if a forthcoming new review of conservation needs shows a need for more federal aid dollars than government budget officials are willing to spend.

The review will be made, Cutler explained, under a law signed by President Carter on Nov. 18. The new Soil and Water Resources Conservation Act of 1977 will help give the government's 44-year-old conservation program "a new direction and impetus," Cutler said.

Under the law, the Agriculture Department is required to make a thorough review of the status of soil, water and related resources by December 1979.

Then, it must develop a five-year program for federal conservation programs, and it must update that five-year plan annually.

Cutler noted that former President Ford vetoed the long-range planning bill last year and charged that the veto "climaxed eight years of administration indifference to the needs of soil and water conservation." difference to the needs of soil and water conservation."

"It marked the end of an era in which farmers were told by (former Agriculture) Secretary Earl Butz to plow up every fencerow in the interests of higher and higher crop production. You cannot run a conservation program when you tell farmers one day that they need to protect marginal land wth grass or trees, and then tell them the next to plow it all up for corn and soybeans," Cutler said. One Agriculture Department official said the review of conservation needs may not show any need for expanding the approximate total of $620 million the agency now spends on various conservation programs. It may be passipand some programs while do-emphasizing others, he explained.

Cutler added, however, that it also is possible the appraisal will she for more federal conservation spending by documenting evidence of mover has been assembled in one place before.

If that happens, he conceded, the administration "could be on the country to the country of the c

But embarrassing or not, Cutter said, the Agriculture Department intends to lay all the facts on the table. And, he added, he plans to seek as much citizen participation as possible in the forthcoming conservation needs review.

"The public deserves not only to know how public programs are going, but also to have a full chance to provide information and ideas on which to have the programs," he said. There will also be close cooperation with local soil conservation districts around the nation, he promised.

Cutter told reporters the new conservation planning effort will be closely coordinated with a similar program already undarway for forestry resources.

This will mean that for the first time, the government will be able to develop a single, coordinated set of short and long-term conservation and forestry programs instead of operating "piecemeal programs on an annual basis."

Major Agriculture Department conservation programs currently include the activities of the Soil Conservation Service, which gives technical aid to farmers through local conservation districts and helps finance small watershed protection programs.

Also, the department's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service operates a $190 million annual program of cost-sharing payments to farmers in-stalling government-approved conservation practices.

Cotton Futures

NEW YORK (AP) - Cotton futures No. 2 closed $2.00 to $3.65 a bale higher

Tuesday. Commercial buying to assure prices and supplies attracted renewed demand for contracts, brokers said. The average price for strict low middling 11-16 inch spot cotton declined 63 points to 47,02 cents a pound Monday for the 10 leading markets, according to the New York Cotton Exchange.

Trading in the Lubbock spot cotton market was moderate on Tuesday. Supplies of cotton for sale were heavy and demand was moderate.

Growers sold mixed lots of new crop cotton at 75 1. 75 points over 1977 loen rafes. Low grades and low mikes brought the most premiums. Gins paid $58-170 per ton for cottonseed, mostly $60-$564.

Classing offices graded 47,000 samples on Tuesday. The season's total stood at 2,275,000 bales, compared with 9,69,000 last year. About 18,000 samples were received and approximately 319,000 were carried over as unclassed.

Quotations are the approximate prices reported to the Agricultural Marketing Service for qualities equal to the U.S. Official Grade and Staple Standards. Prices are for micronaire (mike) readings of 3.5 through 4.9, in mixed lots, uncompressed, free of all charges in the warehouse lot the market. Price trend: steady on Tuesday

Variety Of Feasts Highlights Yule For Norwegians

By SHIRLEY GALLINA

Copley News Service
In Norway, Santa Claus is called Julenisse, and Norwegians wish friends God
Jul — Happy Christmas.

Julenisse has a white beard and wears a pointed red cap. He wears a green and red costume with a blouse worn under a belted knee-length jumper, red socks and mittens. He carries a lantern and a sack of toys on his back. Christmas feasts are different too, and vary according to the region you live

Mildred Husoe of Los Angeles, who was born in the town of Skjervoy, above the Arctic Circle, lived in Oslo after her marriage 40 years ago.

"Christmas Eve starts at 4 in the afternoon in Oslo, when the church bells ring for an hour," she says. "That ushers in the holidays.

"Then we go to church for a family service and return home for our tradition-

In Oslo, the Christmas Eve dinner is a combination of baked country-style pork ribs, "medister" (pork and beef meatballs), and sauerkraut made from Dessert is rice cooked in milk, then blended with almond-flavored whipped cream and served with a fruit sauce or berries.

"Christmas Day, breakfast is a big thing," Husoe says.

"We had homemade luncheon meat, marinated herring, cheeses and homemade Jule Bread, which is a cake-like bread flavored with citron and raisins. "After breakfast, we again went to church, and had our dinner about 4

This dinner includes meat or fowl, and for dessert, Fromgae, a kind of pudding.

Mrs. Husoe says the second day Christmas dinner consists of a fish pudding or any light fish dish with boiled potatoes, cauliflower and a dessert. "In my day, we didn't go back to work until the fourth day," she recalls.

Mrs. Husoe wanted to come to America ever since she was a little girl.

"I only saw fruit at Christmas," she explains. "The pears and apples came from America, and I wanted to be where the fruit was."

Norwegians also have Christmas trees, but their decorations differ, too. The are trimmed with miniature Norwegian flags, gold-sprayed pinecones and lights. Mrs. Husoe follows these traditions, and adds small dolls, birds and lights shaped like icicles. On the floor, she places hand-carved wooden trolls makes as many as 16 varieties.

One of the best known is Krumkake (which means crumbling cake), coneshaped cookies more fragile than blown glass.

For these you need a special Krumkaka iron — a sort of a griddle with patterns worked into the iron. You also will need a special wooden cone on which to shape the cookies.

"I have had my iron ever since I was married," Mrs. Husoe says. "It was one of the first things a bride would buy in my day.

"You can eat the cookies plain or fill them with whipped cream and fruits, such as cooked, dried apricots — or with pudding," she says.

Mrs. Husoe says the older generation still insists on making the cookies from traditional recipes passed down from mother to daughter, but the younger generation is more apt to buy them at a Norwegian bakery.

She insists the only way to measure the ingredients of her Krumkaka is by weight.

You weigh four eggs, then an equal amount each of sugar, butter and flour.

Whip the sugar and eggs together with an electric mixer until stiff. Melt the butter and pour into the egg mixture.

Add flour, a little at a time, beating constantly. Batter will be thick.

If desired, add one-half teaspoon almond extract.

Have the Krumkaka griddle medium-hot, but do not grease.

Put a small tablespoon of batter in the center of the griddle, and close top. Cook a few seconds, then turn iron over and cook a few seconds more. Check to

A POTTER'S WORK - Something different in Christ-

Grandchildren Enjoy Hobbies

Avalanche-Journal Staff "Over the meadow and through the wood" isn't exactly the way Jeff and Tyler Roberts get to grandmother's house. Like other modern youngsters, they find it simpler by street and avenue.

But, the "hooray for the fun" is just as hearty for the special things for them to do at grandmother's house. One of the big specials for Jeff and Tyler is taking part in one of the many hobbies going for grandmother, Mrs. Evan Roberts of 3615 47th St. This time of the year, it's making ornaments for the Christmas tree.

For them, tinsel, paper and glue go by the board for tree decorating. They dive hands first into clay for their creative efforts. It's a lot like playing mud pies, only better.

Their efforts — created with a lot of gooey fun involving rolling out dough like cookie batter, cutting it into shape and then decorating and smoothing - aren't quite the artistic creations of grandmother's, but they are different and something special for the season.

Jeff, 6, and Tyler, 4, have been working with clay for a year now, starting as most potters do with pinch pots - taking a ball of clay and, with pinching and pulling, creating a small pot.

Jeff has gone on to things like turtles while Tyler figures the best is worms, as many as his clay will make after he has worked it to a slimey slab with diligent application of extra water. They, almost, are big enough to try out Mrs. Roberts's first hobby, painting. She will start them off in water color

So far, they are not too interested in her weaving, except for the finished All of her hobbies began as something for the grandchildren or just something

Early animal paintings decorated Jeff's walls and first clay creations were special animals for grandchildren's amusement. "One of a kind" clay art is her goal, although it doesn't always happen that way.

She began tree ornaments to have something different, something Roberts-made on the Roberts tree. Combining her artistry with a brush with craft ability in clay, she made one of such things as a rocking horse, elf, birdhouse, etc.

A successful 1976 debut led into more for this season plus duplicates for friends.

By the time the yule season rolls around next year, she plans to have a completely new set, this time of fairy tale figures.

Busing Gets Disapproval

NAACP plans to push for an appeal U.S. District Judge Halbert O. Woodwar won't order "systemwide integration"

That extent of integration would require some mandatory busing of students. But such a remedy, leaders for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People said at their Decrimination" against blacks and Mexican-meetings, however, disagree. Among them is T.J. Patterson, freshman adviser for Texas Tech University and editor of an eastside weekly newspaper.

"I'm for the neighborhood school concept. Busing would not work here," Patterson said at a panel discussion sponsored by the university's philosophy club.

He said schools in Lubbock's predominantly minority areas have been neglected. But Patterson said the answer is not busing those students out of their neigh-

"Integration to me is not the disappear-ance of that minority group," he said. In-stead, Patterson advocated "upgrading all educational facilities" in the city so

"There's no sense in the world in my little granddaughter living two blocks from a school and having to get bused across town," Strong said. "I can't believe getting my kiddo on a bus every morning is the answer to school integration."

Added Dr. Rodric Schoen, un law professor and past unsuccessful candidate for the Lubbock school board:

"There is no assurance that busing per se will bring about equality education."

However, Schoen noted, school trustees may not have much choice in the matter. If Woodward finds the Lubbock Independent School District guilty of the U.S. Justice Department's charges of discrimination, it will be Woodward's task to formulate a remedy. Woodward is expected to rule on the matter in January.

Schoen said the school system and Jusschoen said the school system and Jus-tice Department will have an opportunity to suggest remedies. "While some busing would have to be involved, the school board can suggest other devices" to cor-rect a possible finding of systemwide dis-crimination, he said.

crimination, he said.

Schoen said the school district may be able to minimize busing by use of "creative alternatives," such as magnet schools — enriching the curriculum at certain campuses to voluntarily draw a mixture of students of different races.

Some NAACP members also have proposed magnet schools as part of a citywide school desegregation plan. But they say such alternatives can have only limited effect and must be coupled with some mandatory busing.

Tom Burtis, a member of the local chapter's education committee, told his group's monthly gathering the NAACP should stand ready to take Woodward's upcoming decision to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans, if nec-

"We need to be prepared to join in an appeal if the (federal district) court does not give us systemwide integration," Burtis said.

"When they finish the remedy part of the trial, if we fail to get systemwide integration, we should encourage the Justice Department to appeal," he said.

The NAACP is not a party in the case. However, the chapter has indicated it may file as a party plaintiff if that's what it takes to carry the appeal to the 5th Circ. it takes to carry the appeal to the 5th Cir-

County Warns Firemen On New Fee Plan

Lubbock County rural firefighters, who now get paid only when they put out a blaze, better be just as diligent under the new "lump-sum subsidy" plan of compensation set to take effect Jan. 1, county commissioners warn.

Commissioners said some unincorporated parts of the county, especially in the Woodrow area and on the southern fringe of the City of Lubbock, are still in danger because of their distance from established small-town fire departments.

And county officials don't want those departments - which beginning next year will receive a fixed annual subsidy regardless of the number of rural runs they make - to let up in responding to

To make that clear, the Lubbock County Commissioners Court tacked a special proviso onto its adoption of the new system for compensating rural fire-fighting units: "Anytime the court receives evidence that any department has willfully neglected to answer a reasonable call within its area, county financial support will be withdrawn from that depart-

In the same motion, commissioners said they "continue to encourage the residents immediately south of the City of Lubbock and near the Woodrow community to form a volunteer fire depart-

Under the compensation plan, such a department would be eligible for an initial annual subsidy from the county of $7,-000, the same appropriation earmarked for recently created units as New Deal and Roosevelt.

Also, county commissioners offered to buy a truck and other start-up equipment out of county funds for the proposed fire department south of the City of Lubbock. Commissioners said the department could reimburse the county by returning 50 percent of its annual operating subs to county coffers until the loan is paid

Commissioner Coy Biggs said he plans to meet with civic and service organizations in the Woodrow area to generate support for a volunteer fire department

"If we can get something started south of the Lubbock city limits, we'll just about have the entire county adequately covered for fire protection," Biggs said. Not that Slaton and Wolfforth, the two departments closest to Woodrow, aren't doing their best, he said.

But those departments are several miles away, and it's a burden on them to have to come all the way out to answer a fire call on the edge of the City of Lubbock," Biggs said. He said the response time from Slaton and Wolfforth is "very good considering the distances involved. But it's still not

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

I wish when a TV set would "go," the wood would warp, the rollers would fall off, the paint on the knobs would chip and it would start to smell.

You wouldn't feel so guilty about getting rid of it.

But our set looks so great and majestic as it stands there in the living room...21 inches of shiny mahogany topped off by a bowl of fresh flowers.

The only thing wrong with it is when the Bionic Woman jumps over a building

she keeps on going...Cannon looks like a ballpoint pen...and Laverne and Shirley need a shave.

Not only that, the picture will occasionally go into a spin and you expect to see an orange and two cherries lock into place when it stops.

The other night when we were watching the three angels, my husband said, "Something's wrong with that picture and I can't put my finger on it."

"I think it's because Jaclyn Smith looks like Raymond Massey."

"That's it!" he shouted, "Is it possible we need a new set already?"

"I'm afraid so. Fifteen years fly when you're having fun."

you're having fun."

The new set was only a matter of selecting and having it delivered.

The problem is how do you dispose of an old TV set?

I called my daughter at her apartment.
"How would you like an extra TV set?"
"Is it the one that makes John Wayne look like Woody Allen?"

"It has a beautiful cabinet."

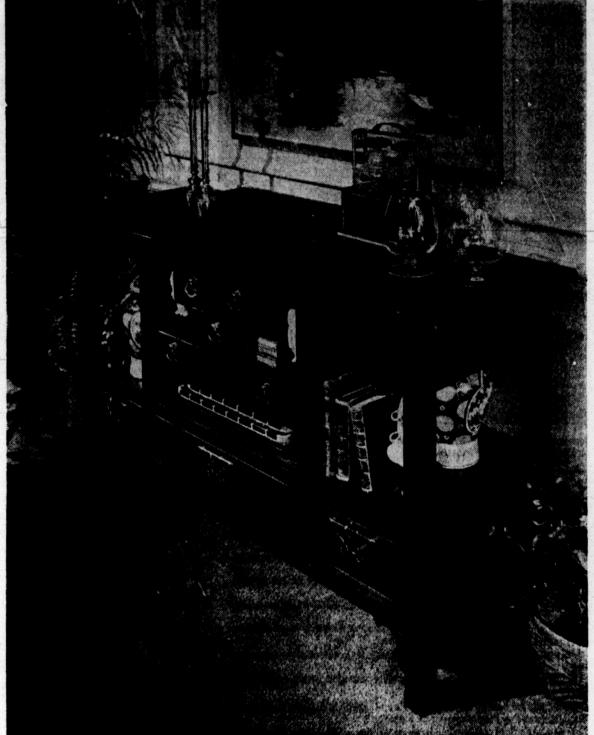

"I'll pass."
I called my son at school. "How would you like your own TV set?"

"Is it portable?"
"It depends on how many of you are there to lift it."

"Maybe we could keep it in the spare room," I told my husband, "I'll bet if someone is handy, they could fix it for "You said that about the one in each bedroom, the kitchen, the garage and the basement. The old one on the porch is even beginning to smell."

Thank goodness.

suit lead attractive, so he chose his singleton trump—a lead we would not normally recommend. East played the ten and declarer won. The king of hearts lost to the ace and West, fearful of breaking one of the minor suits for declarer, made the safe return of the jack of hearts to declarer's queen.

After cashing the aceking of clubs, declarer entered dummy with a heart ruff. On the queen of clubs declarer discarded the king of diamonds, concealing the queen. When the jack of clubs dropped on this trick, declarer continued with the ten. East saw no reason to ruff with a winning trump ("Why waste it?"), and declarer got rid of his remaining diamond.

The rest was easy. A diamond ruff allowed declarer to enter his hand to lead his last heart and ruff in dummy. East could overruff or not as he pleased—two trumps and the ace of hearts were all the decembers could collect.

East should not have conserved his trump tricks. He should have realized that it could not cost to ruff the fourth club. Declarer could still discard his diamond loser, but East could now extract dummy's fang by leading a trump. Declarer would then be unable to ruff his fourth heart, so he would end up losing two trump tricks and two hearts for down one.

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: Christmas is coming soon and I dread it. I belong to a large family and we all go to Mom's for Christmas dinner. Some of us bring prepared dishes and help fix the rest of the meal once we get there.

After dinner all the men retire to the living room, and along with them go a couple of their wives. The wives just sit without even offering to help with the dishes or to clean up the mess. It's always the same ones. They arrive with their husbands and children just in time to eat, and they never lift a finger to help.

How would you word it to let them know that they are expected to pitch in and help?

Had Enough In VA.

Dear Had: Use the direct approach. Go into the living room and ask for "volunteers" for K.P. duty. And if they don't volunteer - draft 'em!

DEAR ABBY: A very likeable and popular girl whom we shall call "Ya'know" is driving us batty with a habit she has acquired.

Her otherwise intelligent conversation is punctuated by frequent and seemingly endless "ya'knows.

We are so distracted by all those "ya'knows" in every sentence that we would like to say something to her, but we don't want to hurt her feelings or get her angry at us.

Any suggestions?

Her Friends

Dear Friends: Tell "va'know" in a friendly, nonjudgmental manner, and observe her reaction. If she appreciates being made aware of this distracting habit and says she'd like to overcome it, offer to help her further by responding, "Yes, I know" each time she drops a 'ya'know'' into a sentence.

But if she resents your well-intentioned criticism, say no more and accept her, "ya'knows" and all.

DEAR ABBY: The other day I came across a poem that seems to state perfectly my reason for writing to you:

"Daughter has her master's Son his Ph.D.

But Dad is the only one Who has a J-O-B.

My husband is ready to retire and we still have all four of our grown, collegeeducated children living with us. We love them all, but we can't go on supporting them forever

With no jobs and little money, there is little likelihood of their marrying and giving us grandchildren before our lives are

Dad and I can't figure out if it's the fear of a challenge, love of their parents or laziness that keeps our children at home and jobless. We are not people of means. and we haven't spoiled any of them. They all have worked hard for their educations, but their lives have come to a dead

Where do we go from here? M. From Mass.

Dear M .: You don't go anywhere. But your college-educated children should go daily in search of employment, and keep going until they land something. If they can't find jobs for which they are trained. they should take whatever they can get in the meantime.

Getting married? No matter how little you have to spend or how unconventional your lifestyle, it can be lovely. Send for Abby's new booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Enclose $1 and a long. stamped (24 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Expert Offers Parents Tips For Christmas

By PETER POWELL

Copley News Service
If your children are especially young and excitable, Christmastime may not be the best time of the year unless you know how to handle them and the holidays.

That's the word from Nancy Thomas. who oversees a program that serves youngsters age 3 to 5, giving them special preparation for kindergarten and beyond.

She has a bachelor's degree from Illinois State University in elementary education and working with the educable mentally handicapped. Her master's degree from Northern Illinois University is in learning disabilities work

As part of her job, she regularly pre pares written materials offering tips for parents on helping their children.

The following is her 1977 Christmas offering for the very young and excitable

Don't pass out idle threats or bribes..."If you don't eat your meal Santa won't bring you anything in three weeks' "If you're good for the next whole month Santa will bring you the trike you want"..."You're such a bad boy today I don't know if Santa will come or not. He only likes good boys.

Threatening a child with not getting a Christmas toy three weeks away is meaningless to him. His concept of time is very short. A very young child lives in the present tense only. He forgets the past and doesn't understand the future.

He's lucky if something stays with him during one day. Besides, you know darn well when it comes right down to it you wouldn't leave his stocking completely empty even if he were the world's worst

You have to be consistent. You have to do what you say! If a child knows you're not going to let him go empty-handed on Christmas, he may act up even more because he knows it doesn't make any dif-

Try not to talk about Christmas topics just before bedtime. It gets a young child all excited and he may not sleep well. He may crawl out of bed and bug you to death with his excitement. Save yourself some grief.

Prolong getting "all geared up" for Christmas yourself. Hold off on decorations and the hub-bub as long as possible. It nearly kills young children to wait for

So, if you have a youngster who gets especially excited about Christmas, try to remain as calm as possible. Your child picks up cues from you.

If you know your child can't stand anticipation, don't leave wrapped packages under the tree. Put them out only on Christmas morning. That way he won't get into trouble by trying to open packages even if you have told him that it's not for him

Remember, a 3-or 4-year-old is extremely ego-centered. He thinks of himself first. Christmas is for him and no one else - or so he thinks.

Hang ornaments that are not breakable where he may touch — these are his to look at. Place other decorations that are breakable out of reach. If you place them where he can reach, it's your fault it's

You must help him in every way you can to make Christmas as positive as possible for him. Christmas is probably the most difficult time for your child. There's almost too much excitement for him to handle If you have a child who is excitable, especially Christmas morning have him or her unwrap only one or two presents in the beginning. Let the newness wear off and bring out another. Don't flood your child with presents. He can only play with one at a time anyway. After he has seen them all, put a couple up for awhile and later switch the toys. That way January and February can be more exciting

Teach your child to respect toys and to put them away properly. If he can't play or put away his toys properly, simply remove them for awhile

Bring them out and watch how he treats them. If he still can't play nicely, remove it again.

Don't threaten, just do it! A child starts learning respect of property very early so it's up to you what he learns about it. If you feel your child's going to get into things (cookies, wrappings) when you're doing special Christmas chores, plan your day so that you do these things when he's Don't provide an opportunity for you to yell at him. You know your child, and if he gets into things, then it's your responsibility to prevent or structure it in a manner that he can receive your praise instead of nagging.

Christmas is certainly a hectic time of year. It may be a little less so if you remember to promise or threaten only what you are really capable of giving or

More Women Enter Job Market

By CAROL DEEGAN
NEW YORK (AP) — Ann Diehl gol married in 1958, one year after she was graduated from high school. Seventeen years later, divorced and the mother of seven children, Ann decided to go back to school and get a job.

Miss Diehl enrolled at the New York State University at Farmingdale, where she is studying business administration. A scholarship plus a job as an administrative assistant at the university, is helping her put herself through school.

"I didn't want just a locked-in job, but was looking for a rewarding career," she said. Her future plans include a master's degree in business administration and a career in the administration of continuing education.

Despite a hectic schedule, Miss Diehl is on the Dean's List, is president of the Long Island Region of the United States Association of Evening Students, and is a member of Alpha Beta Gamma and Phi Theta Kappa award societies.

Her children, who range in age from 5 to 19, are "built-in babysitters."
"I used to be proud of their achievements," she said, "but now we're proud of each other's." Miss Diehl was one of the participants in a day-long workshop in New York City. Among the participants were Alexis Herman, director of the Women's Bureau for the U.S. Labor Department, and Bess Myerson, a well-known columnist and consumer advocate.

Miss Herman said there are more than 37 million female workers in the United States today - about 40 percent of the nation's labor force.

Women have been responsible for twothirds of the labor market expansion in the United States since World War II. More than three million women have entered the U.S. labor force in the last five years, compared with 800,000 men, Miss Herman said

Yet despite the increase in the number of women who are working, the income gap between male and female workers has been widening in recent years.

In 1955, the average woman worker earned 64 cents for every dollar earned by a man. That figure has dropped to 57 cents for every male dollar, Miss Herman

The Labor Department cites two primary reasons for this income gap: a continued concentration of women in lowskilled, low-paying jobs and a sharp rise in the number of women entering the labor market at beginners' level jobs.

Women workers today are concentrated in 20 of the 480 occupations currently identified in the Dictionary of Occupational Titles, Miss Herman said

"The traditional fields have been saturated so that women must think about alternate careers," she said.

And, Bess Myerson pointed out, "there are too many women drowning in secretarial pools."

More and more women are expected to enter the labor force in the years ahead. For many, it will be an economic necessi-

DR. LAMB

Menopause May Cure

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D. DEAR DR. LAMB — I am in my early 40s and, after many months of much discomfort during and before menstruation, my gynecologist ordered an X-ray of my colon. I was advised that it was normal and I had early stages of endometriosis. No

Could you please give me some information about this disease? Does it show up on an X-ray? How does it progress, and when is treatment required? If so, what is the treatment?

Is surgery the only cure? Does the endometriosis tissue irritate the kidneys? Could a woman have more pain on one side than the other with this condition? Is the distress in any way connected with a hormonal imbalance? I have never taken birth control pills because I had mastitis diagnosed 10 years ago.

My gynecologist has become disinterested in helping. What do you recommend?

DEAR READER — Endometriosis is caused by displacement of endometrial tissue that ordinarily lines the uterus to locations outside the uterus. The cells often seed the area in the pelvis. They may locate behind the uterus, around the bladder or the lower colon. These abnormally situated cells tend to swell; at the same time, the lining of the uterus enlarges with the normal menstrual cycle and tends to degenerate as the phase of menstruation-occurs. The cells are encapsulated in fibrous tissue and the bleeding inside the capsule-causes irritation.

The changes in the cells just before and during menstruation are responsible for the pain's characteistic of occuring before and during menstruation, as in your case.

The main features of the disease are pain, which may be anywhere in the abdomen but more commonly in the lower abdomen, and infertility. The loss of reproductive capacity is usually a complication of the endometrial tissue causing scarring of the tubes or damage to the ovaries. A young woman be well advised to go head and have all of her family as soon as possible before she risks becoming infertile.

Pregnancy usually causes the disease to abate, and this is one key to modern therapy. You can treat most cases by a combination of hormones. There are contra-indications to using this approach, such as a woman with breast disease, or those with fibroid tumors of the uterus or any sign of malignancy.

Surgery is used, particularly to repair a damaged tube or remove tissue around a tube or in the ovary. It is used less often today because of advances in hormonal therapy.

Once you have gone through the menopause, and if you don't take too much of the wrong combination of female hormones for you (this varies for the individual), you should stop having trouble. And, yes, the pain can involve the bladder. Your doctor may be counting on the menopause to solve your problem, and may not wish to subject you to surgery or because of your history of breast disease or other findings may not want to put you on hormones.

Your condition may cause you to have an interest in the menopause and I am sending you The Health Letter number 5-12, Menopause, to give you more information about it. Voodoo Practices Widespread In America, Researcher Says

AL ROSSITER IR

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A 33-year-old black man from rural Arkansas grew increasingly irritable, then became fearful when people approached him, and finally suffered a fatal heart seizure after two weeks of hospitalization.

An autopsy found no reason for the man's death. But his wife knew what happened.

She told staff members of the University of Arkansas for Medical Sciences that her husband had angered a "two-headed" and the two-headed caused his death

According to Kenneth Golden, an instructor at the university's psychiatry department, a two-headed is an older woman considered by the community to be a witch who cast spells and healed people.

Golden described the case in a report in the December issue of the American Journal of Psychiatry. He explained that two-headeds, along with "conjure doctors," "root doctors" and "hoodoo men" are believed to be able to trick or hex a person, causing sickness, insanity and death.

"Hexing practices are no longer a phenomenon only of rural isolated communities in the deep South," Golden said. "Physicians have provided evidence that voodoo and hexing practices exist as far north as Connecticut."

Golden said the practice of voodoo in the United States is a blend of African voodoo and European witchcraft beliefs. Golden spent two years in West Africa

Golden spent two-years in West Africa as a Peace Corps teacher and said in the village he lived in, disobedience of tribal custom is punished by fines, banishment or, when the infraction is particularly serious, by curse death.

That, Golden said, means certain death. But for such a curse to be successful, he said the victim has to know he has been cursed, and he has to believe in the power of the person who administers the curse.

The victim feels hopeless and helpless. His eating and drinking habits become irregular. He fatigues easily and eventually, with no interest in living, the victim simply dies.

"Overwhelming feelings of fright, fear, hopelessness and helplessness — not unlike those felt by the cursed African — have been known to cause death in the United States when people have been confronted with the demise of a loved one, a business loss or a dangerous situation," Golden said.

"The implications of these phenomena might be far reaching," he said. "Research can provide the mental health professional with greater understanding of the powerful influence of culture and society on the individual and the intricate relationship of the mind and body."

HONG KONG (UPI) — More than 600 Vietnamese young people "cured" from drug addiction now are turning their energies to productive labor, the Vietnamese News Agency said this week.

The agency said the former drug addicts are "engaged in productive labor at the Phu Van State Farm in Song Be province, north of Ho Chi Minh City (Saigon)."

It also said some 2,000 "former victims of social vices," including 38 prostitutes "of the old regime" have, after attending re-education courses, "proved their determination to start a new life."

The former prostitutes, "after receiving medical treatment and learning a craft at the schools to restore women's dignity in Ho Chi Minh City, have returned to their native villages in Kien Giang province."

The news agency said they "will help the provincial war invalids and social welfare service in teaching handicraft classes for victims of social vices in the

Refugees Towed Back Into Gulf

By EDDIE ADAMS

KHLONG YAI, Thailand (AP) - "I will die! I will die! I will die!" screamed the aged Vietnamese woman aboard the boat of no smiles.

Forty-nine other sick or hungry refugees, half of them children, sat in silence or wept uncontrollably on the deck of the weatherbeaten 30-foot fishing boat that had brought them from Phuquoc, off the west coast of Vietnam, through the dangerous waters off Cambodia.

They thought they had reached freedom that hot November day when they entered the snug harbor of Khlong Yai, a tiny fishing village within shouting distance of the Cambodian border.

But Thai marine police, armed with M-16 rifles, refused them permission to come ashore and towed the crammed fishing boat three hours back out into the Gulf of Siam. Thailand and other Southeast Asian countries that have more than 100,000 refugees from Indochina on their hands are becoming increasingly hostile to new arrivals from Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia.

U.N. and U.S. Embassy sources estimate that those who who flee Vietnam by boat - the boat people - have a 30 to 50 percent chance of survival.

The Cambodian Communists may shoot up the small boats as they travel along the coast. Sea bandits have been known to seize refugee boats and kill evervone aboard for their valuables.

The Vietnamese usually escape in small fishing boats not built to withstand the dangers of the open sea. They generally leave home short of food and fuel. Some are lost at sea.

If they do reach Thailand or Malaysia, the police or the navy send them back to sea. The last boat allowed to dock in Thailand arrived Nov. 19 with 16 persons aboard. The Thais arrested them all. The U.S. Embassy helped get them freed, and they are reported emigrating to the Unit-

A few days later the boat of no smiles was turned away from Khlong Yai. Naked children were crawling about the small cabin, and an infant fed at its mother's breast.

The only other space protected from the punishing rays of the sun, the chill night fogs and the soaking waves was a tiny hold for fish. Three people were trying to sleep in it.

All the others were on deck, using rags and towels as cover against the sun. They were wearing the only clothes they had brought with them.

A 6-year-old boy had pneumonia. A Thai fishing boat gave some medicine to

Not a pair of shoes was to be seen. The refugees' feet were swollen, lacerated and blistered because they hid in the woods until they made their break at 8 o'clock one night, barefoot and dressed in rags so as not to attract attention.

The oldest person aboard was a woman in her late 70s. The youngest was a girl born Nov. 24 in the fish hold to Nguyen Na's 20-year-old wife, Ti. The 21-year-old father had been a medical corpsman in the South Vietnamese navy, trained by the U.S. Navy at San Diego, Calif. He delivered the baby.

The young couple said they wanted to name their daughter Freedom — if the voyage ended in freedom for the family. Most of the 14 men, 11 women and 25 children aboard broke into tears when

Thai officials ordered them back to sea. Their fuel was used up on the five-day voyage and they had also run out of food

After buying them supplies, this correspondent tried to go aboard. The Thai officials wouldn't allow it at first, then re-

The Vietnamese asked for maps and directions to Australia, more than 3,000 miles to the south. The police told them they had no maps for them but pointed in the general direction.

After the police had towed the boat out to sea for three hours, they took in their 300-foot tow rope and prepared to return to Khlong Yai. The Vietnamese shut off their engine and told the police it had broken down.

The police told them to get moving because the Cambodian Communists patrolled the area. They warned that if they tried to return to Thailand, police guns would be waiting.

"If we must die, we must," said a young woman as the police pulled away. 'It's better than to live under communism. If we return to Vietnam, we would all be killed." She added that she had never thought-anything could be so horrible and ugly as life in Vietnam today. Half an hour later, the police returned with orders from Bangkok to remove me for my own safety. Under no circumstances was I to remain.

A Vietnamese woman was disappointed. She felt that if I stayed aboard, some country might accept the boat.

A former Vietnamese navy s aboard said they had no compass or map. "The stars and the sun have guided us this far," he said. "We don't know how long our luck will hold, but this is only the beginning. More and more will escape no matter what it costs. Only the very rich can survive now in Vietnam.' Then the boat moved away, its meager supply of water and fuel in a few rusty cans. A white shirt was tied to the bow by the sleeves as a flag of truce.

I rode for several hours with the marine police. We returned to the general area in which we had seen the boat last. We heard what sounded like machin gun fire, but there was no sign of the refugees or their boat.

Irons Urges Entering Group's Jobless Plan

Avalanche-Journal Staff

Because of frequent resignations prompted by low wages, the Lubbock Independent School District finds it must hire two, sometimes three persons a year to fill each job in such departments as transportation and maintenance.

That high annual rate of employee turnover is a reason why the district's unemployment compensation tab may be unexpectedly large, Superintendent Ed Irons says.

In a memo to school trustees, Irons has proposed that the Lubbock district join/ with others across the state in administering an unemployment benefits program. Beginning Jan. 1, Texas school systems will be required under a new federal law to provide compensation to their out-of-work employees.

Irons said the best way to meet that provision is to enter into a plan offered by the Texas Association of School Boards. Under this proposal, he said, the Lubbock district would pay the association's designated insurance agency $16,-500 a year, plus reimbursement for the actual cost of claims.

In return, the insurance agency and TASB would manage the district's account, handle legal matters arising from unemployment compensation claims and help school officials here minimize costs of the program, Irons said.

Also, he reported to the school board, notification has been received that the Lubbock school system has been included as a party plaintiff in a lawsuit challenging the Federal Unemployment Compensation Amendments of 1976. The school board in October agreed to contribute $2,500 toward the legal fees borne by the National Institute of Municipal Law Officers in contesting the constitutionality of the new federal requirements as they apply to state and local

The City of Lubbock and several other public entities across the country are plaintiffs in that suit.

Under the federal law, local governments for the first time would be forced to pay benefits to their employees who are laid off or otherwise terminated. School officials here, who have the option of paying the money through the Texas Employment Commission or a private insurance agency, fear they may be required to provide compensation to teachers during the summer and to seasonal employees.

Irons' memo said unemployment claims against the Lubbock school system may be exorbitant because of the drastic turnover of employees in such business services departments as custodial and grounds, transportation, warehouse and maintenance.

For example, during the 1974-75 school year, the maintenance department with about 70 positions - experienced a turnover rate of 203 percent, the memo

That is, the district hired an average of three persons to keep each maintenance position filled that year, because so many workers kept leaving the district's em-ment for the 1975-76 school year was 161 percent. And last year, Irons said, it was 97 percent.

Experience in the other departments hasn't been any better, the memo said. For the past three years, the turnover rate in the 240-position custodial and grounds operation has been 118, 64 and 91 percent; in the 50-position transportation department, 104, 180 and 90 percent; and in the 10-position warehouse operation, 86, 76 and 105 percent.

"Keeping these jobs filled can be a real problem," said Robert Knight, the district's personnel director. His staff constantly is in search of bus drivers, custodians and other workers to fill job vacancies in the school system. The 100 percent turnover in some departments - meaning that on the average, every position was vacated by one person and filled by another during the same year - is costly for taxpayers, Knight said. Processing each new employee, a task which requires interviews, extensive paperwork and other chores, costs about $100, Knight said. School officials attribute the high employee attrition to the district's low wage scale for non-classified workers. Last year the starting hourly wage for warehouse storekeepers, custodians and laborers was $2.51; for groundsmen, $2.76; and for bus drivers, $3.38. Salaries for non-classified workers Рe

In his memo, Irons said there are three ways the school system could meet the requirements of the federal unemployment compensation law: -Setting up a fund within the Texas Employment Commission. Irons said the district would be required to ante up $198,000 to do this.

-Administering the program through the school district itself. The cost here is unknown because the district does not know how many claims might be paid

-Authorizing the TASB's insurance agency to represent the school district in the program. The charge would be $16,-500 a year, plus the cost of claims.

His recommendation to participate in the TASB plan will be considered by school trustees at their monthly meeting Thursday at 7:15 a.m. in the district's administration building, 1628 19th St.

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Defense Secretary Harold Brown is expected to submit to President Carter in a few days a defense budget with modifications in aircraft purchases affecting the Navy and Marines, according to Pentagon sources.

Administration sources said Brown's budget for the year starting next October was on the agenda for discussion at a White House meeting with Carter and acting budget director James McIntyre.

The meeting was scheduled Friday, but may be affected by the visit of Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin. The budget is based on revised requests from all three services.

Sources have said the Pentagon's version of the defense budget could go as high as $130 billion. Final changes will be made in a White House review in which that figure is expected to be further reduced before the finished budget goes to Congress in January.

The armed forces submitted their final requests to Brown's office Monday following guidelines laid down by the defense secretary that reflected his own cuts in some programs, sources said.

Some of the biggest changes affected the Navy, which in recent years has gotten a larger share of the defense budget than other services because of its big shipbuilding and aircraft programs.

Among cuts ordered by Brown, the sources said, were a reduction from 36 to 24 in planned production of F14 Tomcat fighters for the Navy in fiscal 1979. The Navy has been criticized for buying too many of the planes, which cost $19.7 million each, at the expense of other air-

The sources said Brown also let stand an earlier decision, despite an appeal by the Navy and Marine Corps, to postpone an advanced model of the Harrier vertical takeoff jet for the Marine Corps until at least the following year.

The present Harrier has been plagued by crashes and maintenance problems and some Pentagon officials have sought to completely scrap the program for the advanced model, known as the AV8B.

Sources said the defense secretary reversed his earlier intention to stretch out development in the 1979 budget of the F18, a new "lightweight" Navy fighter that has come under criticism because of rising costs. The projected per model price tag is now $15.8 million.

They said Brown now planned to buy five test models of the plane instead of two, keeping it on its original schedule to start production in 1980.

In October, Brown had already approved a one-third cut in the number of new ships the Navy had sought in 1979, reducing the number from 29 to 19. That would still leave the Navy with a ship-building program estimated at around $7 billion for the year, sources said.

Unemployment Rise Possible In Britain

LONDON (UPI) - The number of people seeking jobs in Britain could rise by more than two million in the 1980s, mainly because of the huge number of married women wanting a return to work.

The figures were revealed in the House of Commons this week by Employment Secretary Albert Booth.

'Peace' Sought On Aspirin Ads

By CHRIS CONNELL WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration is calling for a ceasefire in a bitter advertising struggle be-tween makers of aspirin and non-aspirin pain relievers.

FDA Commissioner Donald M. Kennedy has asked Sterling Drug Co., makers of Bayer aspirin, to stop a "one-sided" advertising campaign against Tylenol, the top selling aspirin substitute. Bayer's broadcast and print advertisements quote an FDA news release and an FDA advisory panel that said Tylenol and other acetaminophen products are no saf-er than aspirin, and large doses of them can cause liver damage.

At the same time, Kennedy faulted Tylenol for taking statements about aspi-rin's safety out of context from the panel's report and not mentioning the potential liver damage problem from overdoses of Tylenol.

The Federal Trade Commission has jurisdiction over non-prescription drug ads.

Kennedy wrote FTC Commissioner Michael Pertschuk last week, asking him to consider action against misleading ads in the $750 million a year market for overthe-counter pain killers.

"I'm concerned that the fierce competition among manufacturers of non-pre-scription drugs and their advertising battles currently being waged in the media is causing confusion that will ultimately result in erosion of public confidence in self-medication products," Kennedy told

He wrote to Dr. J. Clark Wescoe, chairman of the board of Sterling, saying the Bayer ads "misrepresent the safety issue presented in the panel report and asso-ciate the FDA in what is clearly a one-sided presentation of that issue."

Kennedy also wrote Paul L. Perito, a lawyer for McNeil Laboratories Inc., asking the Fort Washington, Pa., firm "to carefully and objectively review the current advertising for Tylenol to make certain that it meets the criteria of fairness and accuracy

A McNeil representative obtained a copy of the letter to Sterling under the Freedom of Information Act and released it to the media Tuesday. The firm did not release copies of the admonitory letter it received, but the FDA later released all the correspondence.

Tylenol, with a $10 million yearly advertising budget, outsells any other sing'e brand of aspirin or acetaminophen. It has 21 percent of the market, according to Eugene H. Kone, its public relations con-

William J. Brooks, a spokesman for Sterling, said the firm received Kennedy's letter Tuesday and was still preparing a full response. But he expressed surprise at Kennedy's complaint and said, Our ads accurately quote the language of the FDA's release on the panel's report and the report itself."

He declined to give Bayer's sales or advertising figures. In the broadcast version of the Bayer ad, an announcer in a trenchcoat stands before the Jefferson

Students Offer Help In Public Relations

Senior members of public relations classes at the department of mass communications, Texas Tech University, are offering their services free of charge to local non-profit organizations.

The seniors will assist the non-profit organizations in public relations and advertising projects, according to Ralph Sellmeyer, journalism professor.

The assistance will be for the duration of the spring semester.

Organizations desiring further information may call Sellmeyer at his office, 742-3160, or at home, 799-5551.

The FDA has not yet acted on its a during pregnancy. It also said aspires should not make claims for treatment of arthritis and rheumatism since those conditions are too serious for constry to self-medicate.

The panel found that both aspirin and acetaminophen were safe and effective for temporary relief of minor aches and pain and for reducing fever. Aspirin also was judged effective for reducing body joint inflamation.

League Hears Canal Report

A state official of the League of Women Voters told local members Tuesday that Vice President Walter Mondale had termed the old Panama Canal treaty a "vestige of colonialism" and a "situation that can not exist any longer."

Joan Kyre, international relations chairman of the state league, told the local organization Tuesday of her recent visit to Washington, D.C. She had been invited to a meeting designed to increase support for the treaty.

Mondale also said that prospects for sabotage or the chance for another Vietnam-type environment added to reasons for the treaty negotiations, she said.

Phony Identity Nets Arrests

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For four years, a young FBI agent lived in poverty and developed a convincing dialogue of Marxist jargon in an effort to enter the clandestine world of the political underground.

Last month, says undercover agent Richard Giannotti, the word came down from radical cohorts in the Prairie Fire Organizing Committee to help bomb the office of a conservative California legislator.

Instead, he and agent William Reagan — considered trusted members of a small "combat team" that called itself the Revolutionary Action Squad ditched their secret lives to help engineer the group's arrest

Giannotti, officials say, was in the underground for seven years. It has the earmarks of another dramatic FBI success story, but bureau officials concede privately that the big fish got away.

Although one alleged radical leader was arrested, 62-year-old Clayton Van Lydegraf, the best known remain at large — including Bernardine Dohrn, Jeffrey Jones, William Ayres, Cathy Wilkerson and Kathy Boudin — all of them with the radical Weather Underground, officials say. "If we knew where they were, we'd pick them up tonight," says one FBI offi-

Besides Van Lydegraf, others arrested were Judith Bissell, who had been sought for a 1969 Seattle bombing, Leslie Mullins, Curtis Marc Perry and Michael Thomas Justesen. All were active in New Left political groups during the The five were to be arraigned in Superior Court today on charges stemming from an alleged plot to bomb the office of state Sen. John Briggs, an outspoken opponent of homosexual rights.

Van Lydegraf, according to the FBI, is a leader of the Prairie Fire unit, an above ground group that in the past has been a support group associated with the super-secret Weather Underground.

The group takes its name from a writing by Mao Tse-tung, who encouraged revolutionary activity by noting that a single spark can start a prairie fire.

The Prairie Fire committee directed the five suspects' activities, according to FBI documents filed in connection with last month's arrests. The bureau documents say the committee leadership includes five women and Van Lydegraf, who resides in San Francisco

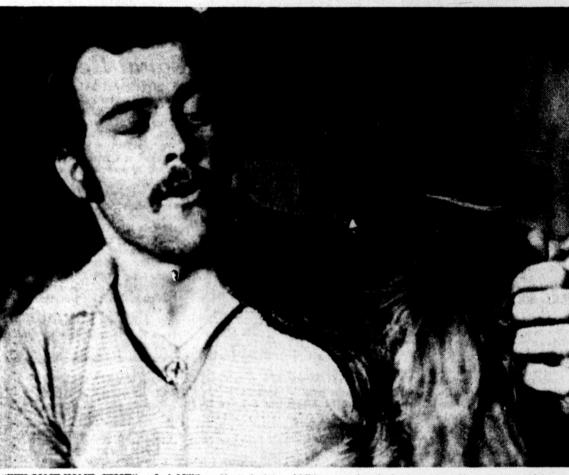

Agent Giannotti lived with Van Lydegraf for more than a year, according to FBI files, and gained the radical patriarch's confidence. But he never learned the whereabouts of the better known radical leaders, most of whom have been

Elmer Lindberg, special agent in charge of the FBI's criminal section in Los Angeles, says, "The purpose of the agent's penetration was to find underground

Reagan and Giannotti amassed "a wealth of knowledge about how the underground operates," according to Lindberg. He judged the results of the lengthy infiltration "worthwhile," but said the question as to whether the agents should blow their cover to arrest a small group of five "was a difficult decision. Reagan and Giannotti joined the Los Angeles revolutionaries last May, allegedly directing firearms training and receiving instruction on explosives. Leftist sources surmise the FBI may have decided to "surface" its undercover agents out of frustration for its failure to locate better known radical leaders. According to Lindberg, the group "was talking about assassinations, about sniping, about blowing up buldings, about putting a bomb under the seat of some judge's car." In a series of simultaneous raids, the FBI found guns and explosives allegedly stockpiled by the group. The group had taken no action with either the guns or the explosives prior to last month's arrests, the FBI reports show.

'Honeymoon' In New York Ends In Jail For Vermont Resident

NEW YORK (UPI) - The Jerry Jenkins "honeymoon" ended sweetly for said Tuesday there was no record of a Mayor Abraham Beame. But things went marriage license for Jenkins in Essex sour for the 26-year-old Vermont resi- Junction, where the couple said they dent, who in less than a week was ripped off, wined and dined, publicized and jailed in the Big Apple. Beame got a gallon of maple syrup

Tuesday from Vermont authorities who were in town to take Jenkins back to the Green Mountain State to face grand larceny and forgery charges.

Jenkins and a woman he introduced as his Darlene, his bride of only a few hours, came to the city from Vermont last Monday and promptly had their car stolen and demolished when the thief took it for a joyride along a sidewalk in the Times Square area.

One person was killed and a dozen others were injured in the spree.

New Yorkers, hoping to erase the town's image as tough and uncaring, opened their hearts to the young couple. They also opened their theaters, hotels, restaurants and sports stadiums in a shower of gifts to the visitors.

Mayor Beame presented them with a silver plate bearing the city seal, in a ceremony that received substantial play in New York newspapers.

Vermont authorities recognized Jenkins as a suspected passer of bad checks and had the 26-year-old disabled Vietnam veteran arrested at the Statler-Hilton Ho-

Gulf Charges Importers With Dumping

PITTSBURGH (AP) - Gulf Oil Chemicals Co. says it has filed anti-dumping complaints against European producers of a chemical needed to make plastics, adhesives and synthetic fibers

The Houston-based Gulf Oil Corp. subsidiary said Tuesday it had charged that European manufacturers, particularly in Italy and the Netherlands, were selling the chemical cumene "at unrealistically

U.S. trade laws forbid the sale of imports below the cost of production or for less than home market prices.

Gulf Oil Chemicals said imports have tripled in recent years and now account for about one third of all U.S. cumene

"Continual price reductions by U.S. producers in an effort to compete with the dumping of cumene from Europe have seriously injured the domestic industry," the company said in a news reeymoon story, A Vermont town clerk were married by a justice of the

Chittendon County Sheriff Ronald Duell came to pick up Jenkins Tuesday, but stopped off first at City Hall with a gallon of his state's famed maple syrup

"We thought it would be a nice gesture," Duell said, noting the Jenkins episode "did not make Vermont look very

"How much does a gallon of maple syrup cost?" Mayor Beame wanted to know. "Twenty-four dollars," Sheriff Duell told him.

"Well, I guess I'll have Mrs. Beame make some pancakes," said the mayor. A spokesman for the Department of host since last Friday, said it cost the city $61.57 a day to house prisoners at the detention center.

As Jenkins was hustled from Manhattan Criminal Court Judge Geraldine Eiber's courtroom, he was asked if he was embarrassed by the whole affair.

"No," said Jenkins, who, has maintained he's innocent of the charges. What about the New Yorkers who had shown him such a good time?

"Thanks a lot," Jenkins said. "I really mean that."

Security Leak's Seriousness Called Surprise To Pentagon

WASHINGTON (AP) - Pentagon officials, apparently kept in the dark for 18 months by West Germany, say they didn't realize the seriousness of a NATO security breach until they read published reports this week.

Defense officials said NATO informed the Pentagon last year there was a security problem, but gave no indication it was as big as disclosed by a Frankfurt newspaper.

On the basis of what he called "sketchy information," one Pentagon official said. 'We don't believe there has been a serious compromise of U.S. weapons technology or other classified U.S informa-

The Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung reported Monday that an East German spy ring passed more than 1,000 secret NATO and West German documents to the communists, including assessments of Western and Soviet bloc military strength and details on new weapons and equipment.
Navy Capt. Kurt Fischer, a defense ministry spokesman, said the newspaper account was "essentially correct." Officials say the United States first learned of the possibility of a security breach after three West German defense ministry employees were arrested in June 1976. Word of this came from NA-TO security officials, it was said.

This October, more than a year later, the NATO security office told the Pentagon the situation was "more serious than originally thought," officials said. Even then, however, there was no tone of urgency or indication that the problem was as bad as pictured in the subsequent newspaper reports.

Pentagon officials offered little speculation on why the German defense ministry did not keep American military officials informed of the extent of the spy operation and its possible consequences

But they acknowledged that Defense ary Harold Br formed of the depth of the military securBrussels with other NATO defense chiefs, including West Germany's Georg

Some Pentagon sources said early indications are that classifed information directly bearing on American forces may have involved less sensitive matters such as logistics. It also was reported that a considerable amount of the information allegedly received by East German spies centered around West German army crisis plans and long-term growth programs. Some Pentagon officials suggested this may have been one reason why German defense authorities did not take American officials into their confidence about the extent of the spy operation. However, Pentagon officials said the

He defended the sometimes rocky footing of the White House's relations with Congress, but acknowledged that "we haven't done a good job in pointing out the bottom line," meaning final approval of the president's program.

"I think this has been one of the most successful congressional sessions in a long, long time," he said, pointing to approval of the president's economic stimulus program, the farm bill, housing legislation, the Energy Department and reorganization authority.

But a host of other issues - election law reform, the proposed $50 tax rebate, labor's common situs picketing bill, hospital cost containment, the consumer protection agency, to name a few - have been defeated, dropped or remain in the congressional mill. In addition, there is no likelihood that an energy program will be completed this year. Carter has said that enactment of a national energy plan would be the ulti-mate measure of his first year in office. Mondale also said: - The administration's role in the Middle East is both a public, "up front" effort and a more private, "healing" role in seeking a comprehensive peace settlement

- The administration wants Japan to increase its economic growth by expanding imports, rather than exports.

Administration agriculture policies have led to a stabilization of farm prices, although "there is no magic solution" to problems facing farmers. - His close relationship with Carter, praised as being unique in the history of the vice presidency, "is deepening and broadening," with Carter "asking me to work on more issues with him than ev-

- Any damage done to the administration by the Bert Lance affair "was very temporary" and Carter still associates with the former budget director because "they are good friends" and the president wants Lance's advice.

Japan Seeks To End Trade Tension ficient amounts to be painful to the Japa nese economy, U.S. officials told Ushiba

By LEONARD CURRY WASHINGTON (UPI) - Facing the prospect of protective legislation, Japanese officials say their country is working on new programs to reduce trade tension with the United States. The new initiatives, some of which may be painful to the Japanese economy, were revealed Tuesday following the second day of meetings between Nobuhiko Ushiba, Japan's new minister of external economic affairs, and administration officials and members of Congress.

A high U.S. official said Japan recog nized its economic growth was not sufficient for consumer demand to absorb enough imports to reduce the Japanese balance of payments surplus and its huge trade advantage with the United States.

But the official said Japan is working on a new package that will help to equal ize trade more than Ushiba indicated when he presented Japan's first proposals on arrival Monday.

Ushiba's program was immediately criticized by Ambassador Robert Strauss and other U.S. officials as "falling short." The new initiatives still are several months from completion. Before the Japanese disclosed the plan to come up with additional proposals, Japanese sources said Ushiba had a tough time in an hour-long meeting with congressional leaders Tuesday

Vanik, D-Ohio, whose home state has been hit hard by layoffs attributed to Japanese steel imports. 'They all had a shot at him," a Japanese diplomat said. "It was like walking into a machine gun." "Japan is creating greater hostility and is in a very precarious situation political ly in America," Vanik told Ushiba.

"If something better doesn't happen within the next 60 to 90 days, we would expect legislative action" to raise barriers that will keep Japanese products from the U.S. market, Vanik said.

Besides the congressmen, Ushiba met with Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland, Commerce Secretary Juanita Kreps, Undersecretary of State for Eco-nomic Affairs Richard N. Cooper and other U.S. officials.

Great Lakes Ice Survey Launched

CLEVELAND (AP) - The U.S. Coast Guard said it began its annual ice recon-naissance flights over the Great Lakes Tuesday to help plot paths for winter

The Coast Guard said it is surveying the lakes in 54-mile swaths and reporting to the Coast Guard's Ice Navigation Center in Cleveland

The Coast Guard said its first request of the season for ice-breaking assistance came last weekend as the western end of Lake Erie was entirely covered.

It was Biggs who helped draft the new compensation plan for the county's rural fire departments and added the amendments supporting a new unit south of the City of Lubbock and cautioning departments about their responsibility to answer all "reasonable" calls.

Beginning in 1978, however, commissioners will take their total annual fire service budget of $100,000 and divide it among the various departments in lumpsum fashion, according to the percentage of the county's fire calls each department handled this past year.

Some commissioners feared that some departments would no longer be as aggressive in making rural fire runs since they will be assured of a predetermined subsidy regardless of the number of fire calls answered

Male Students Fall Behind

WASHINGTON (UPI) - More collegeaged women than men entered college in 1977, the Census Bureau reports.

Without the threat of being drafted into the armed forces, a growing number of young men are foregoing college, a study said Tuesday.

'Young women in 1977 had about the same level of education as men of the same age" and women who were either 18 or 19 this year surpassed male counterparts in college attendance, the report

The report, titled "Educational Attainment in the United States," said there were 1.07 million women aged 18-21 this year who started college, compared to 995,000 men of the same age group.

"An unusually large proportion of men" who were between 18 and 21 in 1970 "may have acquired a college education as a result of the Vietnam conflict." the report said.

"Many may have attended college during the 1960s to take advantage of draft deferments and those who served in the armed forces may have returned to college in the 1970s to take advantage of GI benefits.'

Father's Act Of Love May Have Saved Child

By RICK SCOTT KERRVILLE (AP) — A dying father's last act of love, moments after his airplane crashed into a brushy ridgetop in the rugged Texas hill country, may have saved his 3-year-old daughter's life, officials say.

Shara Sneed, trapped for 35 hours in the wreckage of the small plane, was rescued Tuesday morning by searchers who said they found her "mumbling and groaning

Her father, Gerald Wayne Sneed, a 33year-old San Antonio lawyer who was piloting the single-engine airplane, was killed along with his wife, Susan Parr Sneed, and their 5-year-old son, Shannon.

Rescuers unstrapped Shara from the back seat of the plane, which had crashed Sunday night on an 1,800-foot hill about three miles from the Kerrville Municipal Airport, about 65 miles northwest of San Antonio

A hospital spokesman said Shara was in stable condition in intensive care Tuesday evening, suffering from a fractured leg and arm.

Shara was just mumbling and groaning when we got there," said Dan Waters, president of the First Texas Flying Service in Kerrville and a family friend. "It was nothing you could understand. She had a few abrasions, but other than that she looked pretty good."

Major Anne Farrell, Civil Air Patrol search project coordinator, said the back seat of the airplane apparently loosened and slid foward on impact, jamming partially under the front seat.

It appeared, she said, that Sneed tried to drape himself over his daughter to protect her from the 28-degree nighttime, a gesture "which undoubtedly helped her survive the elements." Major Farrell said the plane did not burn and that "the wreckage wasn't so bad. But the plane hit hard.

The wreckage was spotted Tuesday morning by a plane flown by Jim Thompson, co-owner with Sneed of the wrecked aircraft. A helicopter airlifted the little girl off the hilltop.

Major Farrell told departing searchers Tuesday afternoon that, "Looking at that wreckage, it looks like the boy and the father might have lived, certainly for a few hours.

"But the weather was so bad, we just couldn't find them and get to them," she

The plane crashed Sunday night during a persistent drizzle. Air traffic controllers in San Antonio had received a radio signal from the plane reporting it was low on fuel and was attempting to reach the Kerrville airport.

The family almost made it.

Major Farrell, Thompson and others at the crash site said the aircraft needed only about another 20 feet of altitude to clear the ridge as it approached the air-

Spencer Treharne, also of the First Texas Flying Service, said Sneed was "an excellent pilot" who knew the Kerrville

First Texas Flying Service put five airplanes on the search and worked independently of the Civil Air Patrol, Treharne said.

Thick, low clouds kept searchers out of the air until Tuesday morning when the skies cleared.

Thompson and Waters "re-enacted" the route that Sneed was following and found the Sneed plane "just about where "It looked like they just ran out of fuel before getting over the ridge. It would have been downhill from there.

The crash site was about three miles northeast of the airport.

The plane was on a flight from Winters where Sneed's parents live. The family lived in Boerne, a rural community about 25 miles northwest of San Antonio

Justice of the Peace Spencer Brown said Sneed's body was in the pilot's seat. Mrs. Sneed was in the seat next to him. The son and daughter were in the back seats of the four-place aircraft. Officials of the Federal Aviation Administration and the National Transportation Safety Board were probing the plane's wreckage Tuesday evening for further clues to the mishap.

In 1975, school bus accidents killed about 200 persons, including 90 pupils, 10 bus drivers and 100 other persons, according to the National Safety Council.

layor Of Paradise Has Photographic Memory

By RICHARD H. GROWALD PARADISE, Texas (UPI) — Clanton Leachman pushed through the screen doors into Bridges' Cafe and conversation dropped dead.

At the counter Joe Richardson swung on his stool and watched Leachman, a taller Alfred Hitchcock in cowboy boots, approach past the pool table and the empty shelves, remnant of a former grocer who went out of the land of Paradise in a hurry.

Mrs. Orvalda Bridges, behind the counter with a hamburger spatula in her right hand, stood frozen, her eyes on Leachman. She had been discussing the Sunday night fires with Richardson but now the only sound was Leachman settling onto a stool.

Leachman turned toward Richardson.

The younger man winced. 'May 28," said Leachman

"You got me," said Richardson. The older man turned toward the woman. "Orvalda, yours is..."

Mrs. Bridges waggled the spatula.

'Clanton Leachman! That's enough!" she said.

Leachman smiled that Butch Cassidy and Sundance Kid smile of his man is the first man shy folks of Wise County look for and the last they want to see. Or so they say, smiling. For the 61-year-old unofficial mayor of Paradise has a photographic memory and delights in reciting statistics, especially the ages and birthdays of women of certain years.

Leachman studied the menu tacked on the wall. Mrs. Bridges offers hamburgers, cheeseburgers, coffee, iced tea, soda pop, french fries and, as if proclaiming Paradise remembers its cowboy days, Tex-Mex nachos. He chose a cheeseburger, french fries and iced tea and paid up - $1.60 - and thanked Mrs. Bridges and wished Richardson a happy birthday next year and walked out. Mrs. Bridges ungripped the spatula.

In the main street, which juts west from State Highway 114 without so much as a "Paradise" road sign - the town of 300 is of that type which needs no name sign; you know exactly where it is or you ain't got no business there - Leachman carefully stepped over the island of burnt hay in the roadway.

Sunday night neighborhood youngsters had burned five bales of hay in the street. That had brought in four Wise County deputy sheriffs from Decatur and a state highway police cruiser. In a way, it was a tribute to Paradise of yesteryear.

Once upon a time Paradise — sitting on an invisible line that divides the American east from the American west; to the east is cotton country, thicker population and trees while to the west is a prairie and desert and cactus and brush and cowboys and the remnants of the wild west - leaned wildly west. So wildly that this was the town that Machine Gun Kelly called home.

Burning hay might attract one deputy elsewhere. But this is Paradise and the Leachman crossed to the wooden porch of the Hudson Grocery and the U.S. Post Office. That, plus the cafe and a real estate office, is all that is left of a business district that once sported two banks, saloons, three cotton gins and a two-story office building.

Seated on a bench outside the grocery are B.F. Stroup, 90, Wiley Murphy, 81, Pete Ferguson, 71 and Ray "They call me Baby I'm so young" Hill, 61. They were discussing good old days and called to Leachman.

"We need your mind," Stroup said. "Give us dates."

'Aug. 12, 1933," said Leachman, 66. "Yes, that was the day all the law came for Machine Gun Kelly and the Shannons," said Ferguson.

Ferguson: "Yes."
Leachman: "And he heard the Shannons and Kelly bawling out the postman, Mr. W. U. Harris, and remembered the name Harris. Well, the FBI put the plane times and Harris' name together and they got the gang here in Paradise.' Stroup: "Used to be a lot of shooting in

White House Criticizes Diplomatic Disclosures

Carter still may talk more openly about foreign policy issues than most of his predecessors, but he draws the line clearly at what he considers too much open-

When the Washington Post reported last week from Geneva that "open disagreements are surfacing among members of the U.S. delegation to the stratetic arms limitation talks," White House spokesman Rex Granum soon had a formal response ready:

"We encourage our people to speak up inside the delegation, but we deplore any public discussions of our negotiating position since this does not advance the negotiating process and only gives comfort to those with whom we are trying to ne-

Proceeding with what sounded like hair-splitting, Granum added: "Certainly there are different views on tactical issues ... But there are no substantive differences in our SALT negotiating team."

To many reporters, the deploring of public discussion seemed somewhat at odds with what Carter has said on the subject. In an interview on Aug. 10, for example, Carter said:

"I think it is good to let the American people know the facts behind the controversies and the debates ... I've never had any doubt that the American people ought to be as thoroughly informed as possible and also involved in the decision-making process.'

Even more pertinent to Granum's reaction was a Carter statement on July 29 that openness was "a good move" even if it "exposes our doubts and uncertainties and controversies on occasion.

And at a May 26 news conference, Cart-er said of SALT: "This is a matter that must be addressed openly. It involves not only the Soviet and American people, but it also involves our allies and friends who depend upon us around the world."

On another occasion, the president said: "I don't believe that open debate in itself is a risk. I think it avoids the risk of a serious mistake when a decision is made in secret without the sound judgment and the experience and the common sense of the American people and the Congress being involved in making those crucial decisions.'

Publicly, in fact, he has cited only a single inhibition against the airing of international negotiations: "When we have an agreement with our negotiating partners to refrain from public statements, of course I will do so." Granum did not invoke that stricture.

By coincidence, Granum voiced displeasure over the report from Geneva on the same day he showed great reluctance to discuss handwritten letters Carter had sent to Egyptian President Anwar Sadat. The Egyptian, not Carter, had made known the existence of the personal communications.

"I can appreciate the interest in them and the sealed wax and so forth and the mystique of it all, but I really do not have anything for you on that," Granum said with some sarcasm.

Pressed to say anything at all about the letters (he was not asked about their content), Granum said, "We are best served at this point by not trying to go into that sort of thing.'

Asked to identify the "royal we" and explain his secretiveness, the White House spokesman said:

"We' is the Carter administration, and we are not best served by this because we decided we are not best served by this."

Leftist Politicians Suffer Setbacks In Japan

By ROBERT CRABBE

TOKYO (UPI) — Not many years ago
Japan's left wing politicians hoped 1978 would find them where the French Socialist and Communist parties are making a strong bid for power in a general election.

It hasn't turned out that way.
Once seen as serious challengers for control of the national government, Japanese Socialist and Communist party leaders now plod in frustration across a low

The two parties began working toward the goal of ruling Japan as a coalition in the late 1950s. The Socialist party never has espoused violent—revolution. Under the leadership of Chairman Kenji Miyamoto, the communists disavowed violence, and adopted most of the tactics

The party rewrote the hallowed Marxist phrase "dictatorship of the proletar-iat" into "right of the working class to govern." Miyamoto even criticized suppression of civil liberties in East Europe

The party newspaper "Akahata" (Red Flag) was transformed into a readable sheet with mass appeal that reported baseball and golf along with left-wing politics. It sells more than 600,000 copies

Like the communists of Western Europe, Japan's became estranged from the Soviet Union. Miyamoto fought off a bid by the Soviets to replace him with pro-Moscow members in the early 1960s, and drove them from the party. Common Sense Helps Improve Yule Safety

Christmas is fast approaching and the crush of holiday parties is well under way. 'Tis the season to be merry, a joyous time. But it's also a season when hundreds of persons are killed or injured in automobile crashes.

Some of the more obvious factors influencing holiday accidents are weather unpredictability, poor visibility and increased night driving due to shorter daylight hours, and the fact that more trips are taken to shop, see relatives and friends. Common sense can be a major factor for safety under these conditions.

Common sense also should be a factor when it comes to holiday parties, especially those where alcoholic beverages are served. It doesn't work that way far too often, however. Many who do not usually drink do during this season at parties. They probably don't know their limit. Others who ordinarily would know their limit may have a little extra "holiday cheer." Precaution is the best way to avoid drunk driving after a party. So here are some tips for the host and

1. Always serve food with alcohol. Snacks taste good and slow the rate the body absorbs alcohol. High-protein items, such as cheese and meats, are especially good because they stay in the

2. Have jiggers at the bar so mixed drinks can be measured. Guests are less sures are used.

3. If an alcoholic punch is served, make it with a noncarbonated base.

4. Have nonalcoholic beverages available for those who prefer them but might try the other if that is all that's available. 5. Don't force drinks on guests.

6. Stop serving alcohol about an hour before the party is to end. Serve a special food feature to top the evening. Neither coffee nor any other drink will really help sober anybody — only time can do that.

With all this, there still is a chance someone will drink too much and become potential dangers for themselves and others. If so, here are some things tt can be done:

1. Suggest someone drive him or her home.

2. Suggest staying overnight.

3. If he or she insists on driving, take away the car keys. 4. If necessary, use physical restraint.

Better to chance losing a friendship than a friend.

5. Call a taxi.

6. If other measures fail, call the police to prevent him of her from driving. Shocking? Not really. There is little chance of an arrest, and the sight of a police officer might bring more rational ac-

TV's Place In Society Increasing

RADNOR, Pa. (UPI) - People who once consulted family or church in defining socially acceptable behavior now are being guided solely by television, TV Guide reports.

In an article in next week's issue, the magazine said researchers all agree that the role of television in socialization is becoming increasingly important. They also found TV shows replace reality for heavy viewers. "Both adults and young people turn to television to learn what society considers appropriate behavior, as they once turned to the family, the community or the church for guidance," the article not-

"Moreover," it added, "some young people are more likely to believe television than their own experiences.

The magazine reported that Dr. George Gerbner, of the University of Pennsylvania's Annenberg School of Communications, said that "people who watch a lot of television carry in their heads a television version of reality, rather than a

"Gerbner's interviews show that heavy viewers consistently overestimate the number of policemen in the U.S., the crime rate and their own chances of being mugged or robbed," the article

The magazine added that Gerbner's research showed heavy viewers also have a TV-influenced opinion of family relations, work and the role of women in so-one advertisement comes immediately to mind," McKenna said in a telephone interview Monday from his home near Harrisburg. "It's an ad for a little truck. We won't use any names.

"There'a a Pittsburgh Steelers football player who's a part of this commercial. The little truck goes toward him, and he gives it a good kick against the wall.

"It gets slammed against the wall, then turns rightside up again and just continues to go. That commercial really makes the truck look like a powerhouse," McKenna said.

McKenna said he went with his children to a toy store and saw the truck that was advertised on television. Their reaction, said McKenna: "It's just another

"It's not so much that the commercial has lied, it's the misconception that's created. You kick that truck like that, and the least you can expect is for a wheel to fly off." he said.

Parents, he suggested, "should try to provide some more realistic discriptions of toys, perhaps by comparing a toy in a commercial with one the child already has, thus allowing him to see the difference," he said.

Letting the kids join in toy-buying expeditions also helps, McKenna said, and does not necessarily jeopardize their belief in Santa Claus.

McKenna said his 4-year-old son has been toy shopping and remains a stead-fast believer in Kris Kringle.

No Choice Given TV Viewers

QUINTON, Okla. (UPI) - Television viewers in this eastern Oklahoma town would rather watch Matt Dillon than the Boston Pops - but they don't have that choice anymore. In fact, they can't watch any commercial television programs. All they can watch are the programs offered on educational television, and they don't like

"Down here, television is the main source of entertainment, especially for older people," one resident said. "And when you take that away, people get

The problem is the tower for Channel 3, a new station affiliated with the Oklahoma Educational Television Authority, located on Blue Mountain five miles north of town. The signal from the tower is so strong it is overriding the signals from the commercial stations in Tulsa, Okla., giving residents educational programs on every channel.

The new station began operating about three weeks ago.

"Most people would rather watch 'Gunsmoke,'" said one viewer who used to enjoy the reruns of the popular west-ern on Tulsa television. "I bet 95 percent of the people would rather watch commercial television than educational.

Besides, we already got the educational stations out of Tulsa and Oklahoma City before they put this one in here."

Bob Allen, director of the OETA, said he and his chief engineer met with viewers in Quinton Friday and are working to solve the problem on a case-by-case ba-

"We are optimistic that we can solve the problem in the new few weeks," Allen said. "We also realize that this is a problem of several hundred people, and we are serving an area of about 250,000

Allen said the new tower was put on Blue Mountain so its signal could reach the southeastern tip of the state.

The humoristmedic-artist and author of a new book, "Fight Doctor," has signed with CBS-TV to be the network's color commentator on big fight events. When we wondered what his ambition was in this field, Ferdie frankly answered: "To be outside, not inside, the ring when the champ has his final fight - and retires - like Gene Tunney and Rocky Marciano did - as undefeated heavyweight champion of the world."

ST. LOUIS: We read where Evel Knievel will perform next July Fourth what could be his last stunt: jump out of a B-29, free fall nearly eight miles and try to land in a haystack! That's almost as foolhardy as a rumor that he'll jump over 300 plugged-in microwave ovens - while wearing a pacemaker!

Daughter Seeks Missing Father

SEATTLE (AP) — Rachakonda Rama is alone in a strange country, worrying about her missing father, knowing she can't afford to stay and can't afford to return home to India.

Miss Rama is the 20-year-old daughter of Rachakonda Ramadas, a visiting professor from Madras, India, who vanished Thanksgiving Eve, after saying he was going for a walk

Miss Rama, who accompanied her father to Seattle to study at the University of Washington, says since her father disappeared she been tangled in bureaucratic red tape that has put her in a financial bind.

While authorities try to track down her father, friends have been trying to help Miss Rama find a way to support herself. She said she has $100 in cash and no prospects for a job.

She cannot touch the $1,500 her father left in his bank account, although Gerhard Mueller, head of the university's accounting department, plans to seek a court order to free the money for Miss Rama's use.

Rent and utility bills were due at the end of November, the same time Ramadas was paid. And there was the balance due on their plane fares to the United States.

But the university balked at first at handing over Ramadas' paycheck, since his work was not finished. Then Mueller suggested that Ramadas be considered on sick leave since he had been under a doctor's care for high blood pressure.

The sick days he had accrued covered his absence until the end of the month. But it took telephone calls to Ramadas' wife in India to free the pay and the form approving payment to Miss Rama had to be channeled through the State Department.

When she finally got the money, minus one-third for U.S. income tax and other deductions, it was just enough to pay the utility bills and other minor debts she and her father owed, Miss Rama said.

What was withheld, when it is refunded, will be enough to pay for what they owe for airplane tickets to fly here, she said.

Miss Rama moved in with friends and is looking for a job, but since she is an alien on a student visa, she may not work more than 20 hours a week. And an employer must certify that the job cannot be done by a U.S. citizen.

Mentally Disturbed Persons Get Help From Art Therapy

By C.G. McDANIEL

CHICAGO (AP) — The creative process through which artists see the world differently is being used to help mentally disturbed people solve their problems.

"If people see their lives differently, they can begin to change patterns of behavior," says Don Seiden, an art therapist.

Seiden, a sculptor, is chairman of the art education department at the School of the Art Institute of Chicago, and for 15 years has worked as an art therapist at Presbyterian-St. Luke's Hospital.

Using art, therapists help patients shift their habits of perception, so they may see themselves and the world around them in different ways, he said in an in-

Seiden said that for the mentally ill some memories are too painful to recall and to talk about with a psychologist or psychiatrist.

By painting a picture, though, the patient's unconscious memories emerge.

When art therapists see the memories expressed, they can help the patient deal with them. Also, he said, a pscyhologist or psychiatrist may see hidden clues, and use them in therapy.

As an example, Seiden said patients drawing a family may indicate their relations with members of their own family.

The way they show themselves in relation to others in the picture — close or far apart, touching or not — may bring out disturbances based upon feelings about themselves, he said.

Art, Seiden said, enables people to express themselves "more loosely, more freely" in a way that is a little less threatening than having to talk about experiences.

Even so, he added, the symbolic expression of problems through pictures can be so painful that patients sometimes destroy them immediately.

Tanker Spill Leaves No III Effects By EILEEN McNAMARA

NANTUCKET, Mass. (UPI) - One year ago this week, a rustbucket tanker loaded with 7.6 million gallons of oil ran aground near Nantucket Island. An angry sea made quick work of the Argo Merchant, tearing the ship in half and sinking Experts watched with apprehension as oil poured into the Atlantic and warned of disaster. Environmentalists, scientists, sailors and senators called it the "worst," the "biggest," the "most tragic" oil spill in marine history as the thick, molass seepage threatened the rich Georges Bank fishing grounds and the ecological balance of Nantucket Shoals and coastal Today it's a different story.

"If the Argo Merchant had to go down," University of Rhode Island chemist Eva Hoffman said, "it picked the optimum time and place from an environmental viewpoint. That is a far cry from what I might have said a year ago."

Sheldon Pratt, a biologist who has made two on-site inspections with the University of Rhode Island team since the spill, said there was an initial fear that the No. 6 fuel oil was heavier than it proved it be

"We expected it to sink," he said. "But what we didn't know immediately is that the fuel had been cut with a thinner oil to make it flow easier."

The unexpected buoyancy and prevail-ing winds carried an oil blanket 65 miles long over the rich Georges Bank fishing ground and out to sea.

The Coast Guard tracked the slick for weeks. Lt. Cmdr. Joseph Marotta, chief of the environmental protection branch, said the slick no longer exists.

What has happened since the elements thinned and divided the massive blanket

"It has become part of what we call the North Atlantic tar ball budget," Ms. Hoffman said, "The amount of oil out there was large before anyone ever heard of the Argo Merchant."

She said oil from the Argo Merchant accounts for only I percent of the tar balls now floating in the Atlantic. The other 99 percent came from other spills — from ships that flushed their tanks at sea and natural oil seepage from the ocean floor.

The men who drag for haddock, flounder, cod, sole and shellfish in the waters off Nantucket were among the most vocal skeptics of the disaster theory last winter when their economic livelihood hung in the balance.

Walter Glidden, the busiest fish dealer on Nantucket, which Herman Melville once called an "anthill in the sea," said neither he nor the fishermen were particularly worried at the time of the spill. "And actually, you know, we were right," he said. "It wasn't the disaster they said it would be. Cod catches are up. There's been no decline of other catch-

He said prices were affected by last winter's severe weather but not by the spill.

"I haven't seen fish covered with oil," he said. "The fishermen haven't been running into oil out there."

Ben Chianciola, a fisherman out of Gloucester, recalled dragging up some oily scallops immediately after the spill. But oil has not been a problem since.
"You could run into oil," he said, "but

Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, Wednesday, December 14, 1977

Producer's Fate Sparks Rumors

Officials at Columbia Pictures Industries are still trying to figure out what to do about David Begelman. A few weeks ago, they thought they had an answer, but the apparent solution didn't work out and they're still searching for a new one.

Begelman is the former director, senior executive vice president and head of Columbia's movie and TV subsidiaries who quit the first two jobs and took a leave from the other two at the end of September, amid admissions that he had made "unauthorized financial transactions" with Columbia's money. A man with a big reputation in the movie business, Begelman turned out a number of box-office winners, including "Jaws," "The Front," "Fun with Dick and Jane" and the latest space-age spectacular, "Close Encounters of the Third Kind," which is currently among the top ten grossers in the country although until this week it's been playing in only two theaters.

The audit committee of Columbia's board of directors looked into the case and in the proxy statement for its annual meeting last month, the company said Begelman admitted misusing $35,750 and had paid the money back. He remained a consultant to Columbia, while the company tried to figure out how to get out of the embarrassment without completely losing his services. Just before Thanksgiving, Columbia put out an announcement that it had reached an agreement with Begelman. He would cut his formal ties to the company and become an independent producer in the movie and TV fields - but remain tied to Columbia by a consulting ar-

. (AP Las-

The press release hardly reached editors' desks, though, before Columbia public relations people were on the phone asking that it be returned. They weren't content to ask for it to be destroyed, but they wanted each and every one returned to messengers they sent around to pick them up. No explanation was given at the time, but company spokesmen say now that the announcement was premature — that the deal wasn't completely set when the release was sent out. Recalling a press release ordinarily isn't startling. Usually, it's done because some error of fact has crept into it. Or sometimes a lawyer objects to the wording, or an executive insists on the power of approval at the last minute. But the handout generally is corrected and replaced very quickly. This time, weeks went by without any word from Columbia - and eyebrows started going up in Hollywood, on Wall Street and in Wash-

Rumor mills have been rife with stories about the Begelman case, and we've been poking around to get an idea of how this high-flying executive got into trouble. There have been reports that Begelman is a frequent visitor to Las Vegas. ran up heavy debts and used company funds to pay off some of the chits. Other reports coming to us indicate that he used the money for personal reasons having nothing to do with gambling. According to two sources, he used money that was supposed to cover expenses for cast members. One of the co-producers of "Close Encounters" blew the whistle and the company had to crack down.

It's been a tough time for Columbia president Alan Hirschfield because he and Begelman have been close friends and he respects Begelman's talent. But there are other, more fundamental, complications. The affair comes at a time when Columbia is reportedly looking into some acquisitions - Wall Street mills say

Medal Lost In Italian Red Tape

AUGUSTA, Maine (UPI) — Tomaso Mascioli died Nov. 6 at the age of 85 while the thing he lived for - a World War I medal from his native Itely - was caught up in red tape.

"He lived for that medal," Mascioli's daughter, Josephine Kolegue, said this week. "What upsets me is he didn't even get a chance to hold it. It doesn't mean anything to me now, but it could have because it would have meant so much to Mrs. Kolegue said, "His family sent him to America to be a tailor's apprentice when he was 11 years old. In 1915, when he was 17, he went back to Italy to defend his country because he believed it was right to defend his homeland during

She said her father, whom she lived with in Skowhegan, Maine, felt the medal symbolized the homeland and family he left as a boy. But now, Mrs. Kolegue said, "I feel empty. I have been in shock since my father died. How in the heck can I be bitter? It's nobody's fault, it was just lost in red tape.

"Still, I'm upset," she said. "After trying to get the medal for 4½ years, you would think somebody could have done something, could have noticed."

The Italian consular agent in Maine, Dr. Domenico Santor of Portland, said

this week the Italian government issued the Cross of Vittorio Vanteo to Mascioli on Jan. 31, 1977. He said Italy's consulate in Boston mailed him the medal Nov. 10, but he had not yet tried to contact Mas-among others. Although the Begelman matter doesn't figure to cause Columbia any financial problems, it would have to be spelled but in detail in reports to the Securities and Exchange Commission if any of the deals is finally nailed down. The SEC, which was briefed by Columbia's lawyers when the story broke, has indicated increasing interest in the Begelman matter lately.

Our sources tell us the SEC has asked for information on how long it went on, why nobody spotted it before, and just who held the gambling markers.

The other big question, of course, is whether the $35,750 that Begelman has already paid back is the full extent of the diversion. Although that is the official figure at Columbia, officials at the company, talking privately, haven't been insisting on it. They say only that the total is "less than $100,000" — the same answer they've given from the outset.

Then, too, there's the matter of doing something about Begelman's rather lush contract with Columbia. Even though he's resigned two posts and is on leave from the other two, he is still on the company's books as a consultant and is still being paid his regular salary. That means $4,500 a week, plus part of the cost -$66,000 last year - of his Beverly Hills home, plus a handsome severance provi-

A good deal of Hollywood is vitally interested in the case, too, for more reason than just Begelman's stature in the industry. How expenses are handled is a sensitive point in the movie business, where $37,750 is just pigeonfeed to some mo-

Town Protests Proposed Plant

BAYOU LA BATRE, Ala. (AP) - Residents of Alabama's bayou country at first welcomed plans for a new shipbuilding industry in their marshy backyard. But they are up in arms now because many believe the proposed business is connected with the Unification Cliurch of the Rev. Sun Myung Moon.

John Schmiettke, general manager for the Virginia-based International Seafood company, said this week that the fears of the bayou folk are unwarranted. The company controls U.S. Marine, which is planning new shipbuilding facilities here. Schmiettke said the firm in Norfolk has 'very smooth" relations with that community and, contrary to rumors, the Moon followers who are employed at the firm do not work for free and none of the company money is channeled to Moon.

His comments came after some 1,000 people, about one-third of Roman Catho-lic-dominated Bayou La Batre proper, turned out Sunday at a rally opposing the new industry. A local minister told the crowd that young people "are innocently snared into this satanic power" of Moon.

Several businessmen and civic leaders have formed a group called Concerned Citizens of the South to try to keep the U.S. Marine announced plans to estab-lish the shipbuilding facility two weeks ago when it bought 700 acres of bayouland for $2 million from former Voice of America Director Kenneth Giddens of

Recycling Declining

The Bertlesville center, which receives $400,000 annually in federal funds to improve the process, was the first group to publish data more than 1½ years ago that re-refined oil in an engine is as good as "virgin oil," he said.

The testimony came in a hearing by the Energy Conservation Rescarch Commit-tee, chaired by Rep. Wes Watkins, Don how much money is needed for re-search on the process and a proposal by the Oklahoma delegation that $5 million was needed.

Watkins said a $3.5 million appropriation bill for research on recycling oil would be on the House floor in June.

Rep. Barry Goldwater, R-Calif., said more research money might be needed, but the $5 million proposal is too much.

In other testimoney, Department of Energy spokesman Douglas G. Harvey said federal regulations prohibit the military from using re-refined oil and he suggested the rule be reviewed.

Environmental Protection Agency spokesman H. Lanier Hickman, a Seminole native, testified "re-refined oils can be as good or better than virgin oil as an

"A CAR FOR CHRISTMAS"

One that looks classy (And so many don't)
That gets good gas mil
With features we want

Confused, but determine I covered the town After test driving all of t Here's what I found

A great little car With a great price to be And so many options Besides that, its cute Reclining front seats For a nice long Siesta

But not Ford's Fiesta

Just days before Christmas
And I'm all upset
My wife wants a small car
Which one do I get

To open the hatch
GLC's features
Which one do I get

A seat that moves forward With the touch of a toe The GLC's get it Buy a Honda? Oh, No! Toyota and Rabbit Are both pretty nice But GLC's nicer

Each time I drive it The better I feel I'm falling in leve With an automobile

I found it, I bought it I've gift wrapped the key To my wife's Christmas present Our New GLC

Proxmire Raps U.S. Treasury

Proxmire Tuesday accused the Treasury Department of catering to the whims of jet-set Americans living abroad in supporting what he called a $400-million-ayear tax loophole.

The Wisconsin Democrat, who presents an "award" each month to the federal agency that he thinks displays the biggest, most ridiculous or most ironic example of government waste, saved his "Fleece of the Year" prize for Treasury Department officials. Department officials.

The department supports a move to de-lay until the 1978 tax year a change Con-gress originally approved in 1976 to scale down a tax break for Americans who live in foreign countries. Proxmire has stymied Senate action on the delay this year.

The old law allowed an American living abroad to avoid U.S. taxes on the first $20,000 earned each year. People living abroad for three years received a $25,000 annual exemption. About 150,000 Americans benefit from the tax break.

Congress voted in 1976 to reduce the exemption to $15,000 ($20,000 for employ ees of charitable organizations), but later delayed the date of the change to Jan. 1, 1977. Now the Treasury Department has asked - and the two tax-writing committees of Congress have agreed — to change the effective date to Jan. 1, 1978. That would retroactively restore the higher exemption for the current tax year.

Proxmire says his opposition drew a strong response into law to help offset what often were higher living costs for Americans work-ing in some foreign areas. But, says Proxmire, "an American liv-ing in London, Paris, Rio or at a Greek is land resort has no hardships equal to those of an auto worker in Racine, a pap er mill employee in northern Wisconsin or a farmer near LaCrosse."

"Yet a Wisconsin family of four would pay taxes of $2,500 to $4,000 a year on the amount of income which the American abroad excludes from his income entire-

In seeking another one year of life for the full tax break, Treasury officials "have succumbed to the moans from the mink-swathed Americans abroad who now pay no or few taxes but will have to begin paying taxes (of course they moan), and to the arguments that the provision both creates jobs and stimulates business abroad," Proxmire said.

U.S. Books Now Sold In Russia

By THOMAS KENT

MOSCOW (AP) - The Soviet Union has begun to import large numbers of Western books for sale in Soviet books-

Two Moscow stores are pioneering the project, which began in earnest in the past month. Officials say the program is an effort to comply with the 1975 Helsin-ki agreements, which call for increased literary contacts among countries.

The Soviet Union has long published its own translations of Western books, often with special prefaces commenting on their contents. But the direct import of Western books in their original languages could significantly broaden the range of titles available to Soviets, particularly those who know foreign languages.

The first batches of books - from the United States, Britain, France, India and West Germany - appear to have been carefully selected. A look through the offerings at the Moscow House of Books. capital's biggest bookstore, discloses no books critical of the Soviet Union or of socialism and few of the inexpensive thrillers and romances that crowd many Western shops. The books on display in Moscow are mainly art, science and classical literature titles, plus an assortment of leftist and Communist literature published in the West. One title offered as a Western book is a collection of writings by North Korean Communist leader Kim Il Sung. published in the United States.

The books have attracted crowds of curious customers despite some extremely high prices by Soviet standards. While most Soviet paperbacks sell for the equivalent of a dollar or less and hard-cover books rarely cost more than $4, the foreign offerings include paperbacks at $5.50 and hardcover books at more than $20.

A Soviet official said the prices were "test prices" that may eventually be lowered. But he said that the original cost of Western books, plus costs of transportation and administration, would probably always keep the books' prices high compared to Soviet publications.

The 200 titles now on sale at the Moscow House of Books include several foreign language dictionaries and phrase books, novels by French writers Francois Mauriac and Emile Zola, medical and computer books, West German bird, animal and children's books, and a history of the British Communist Party. Displayed prominently in a glass case is an album of 1,000 masterpieces from the National Gallery of Art in Washington. But with a price tag of $345 most Russian customers contended themselves with just looking at the album.

Yuri B. Leonov, head of the Soviet "international book" importing firm, said sales of Western books will eventually be expanded to other stores and cities. The firm is handling the import of all Western books under the new program.

"One big obstacle to expanding more is the imbalance in book purchases," Leonov said in an interview with The Asso-

He added that in 1976, for example, the Soviet Union bought books worth $2.4 million from the United States but the Americans bought only $1.1 million worth of Soviet books. Soviet sales to France were worth $590,000 but imports from France totaled $1.37 million, he

Using such figures, the Kremlin has often maintained that the West is dragging its heels on cultural exchanges. But Western officials respond that many of Soviet book imports are technical books with a narrow readership and the Soviets are still adamant about excluding any books that challenge their political line.

The selection of foreign books available here is expected to increase shortly.

Sen. Byrd Refuses To Give Up On Energy Bill For This Year

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG WASHINGTON (AP) - Is there anyone so pessimistic, so gloomy of outlook, that he doubts Congress will pass an energy bill this year?

For shame, says Robert C. Byrd, the Senate's majority leader and leading op-

Few things grieve the West Virginia Democrat more than suggestions Congress might not finish work this year on energy legislation.

This, despite the fact that Christmas is coming and so is the new year and Byrd may be the last person in Washington who still thinks the House and Senate conference committees that have worked fruitlessly on energy bills for two months can resolve their differences before 1978.

Even in the White House, Jody Powell, President Carter's press secretary, describes the president as "philosophical" about the time it is taking Congress to act on the energy proposals the president gave the legislators last April.

But Byrd refuses to give up hope. And so he sounded a little peeved when minority leader Howard H. Baker of Tennessee suggested one day that time was running short for action in 1977.

"I regret that this discussion took place in a way," responded the aggrieved majority leader, "because I am afraid it may leave the impression that the outlook for energy legislation is rather gloomy."

Which brings us to the explanation offered by Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of one group of Senate conferees, after a routinely unproductive conference committee session: "You've just got to waste a certain

And then there's the plan contemplated by Rep. John Rhodes, R-Ariz., the House minority leader, who would like to see shorter sessions of Congress. Rhodes said he has given serious thought to offering legislation that would make it a federal crime to turn on an air conditioner within 50 miles of the nation's capital after June 1. "That would get us out of town promptly every summer," he said.

Quickly, now: if someone is celebrating the 50th anniversary of his 30th birthday, how old is he?

That unique birthday greeting was offered on Dec. 6, by Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., to Sen. Milton R. Young, R-N.D. For those still trying to figure it out, Young was 80 years old.

The Letter of The Law Award goes to the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, for its strict adherence to the federal law that requires government agencies to meet in public and give adequate notice of their sessions. The following press release was sent out by the commission:

Criminal Activity Shows Hike During Holiday, Police Report

By BILL DOYLE Copley News Service

The holiday season to most people means families, fellowship, gift giving and celebrating, but to law enforcement officers it's a time of increased crime and a ton of headaches

While traffic officials are gearing up to handle the increased number of motorists, burglary, robbery and other investigative branches are bracing for the expected jump in purse snatches, street robberies and residential break-ins.

Although police officials have yet to devise a way to stem the increase in crime, they feel an improved public awareness program could have a dramatic effect. While the criminals, like everyone else, need money for presents, the public seems to relax their precautions at Christmas and make it easier to be

Police list street crimes as purse snatches, armed robbery and theft of packages from a person or vehicle.

Criminal activity is also on the increase during the holidays in residential and commercial burglaries.

However, commercial robberies, especially at convenience stores, liquor stores and service stations, don't take such a large jump around Christmas.

Gregory says it's difficult to determine if the economy and unemployment rate can be blamed for the increased crime.

"Robbery activity is increasing each month, but the holiday season annually means a jump. It's hard to separate the two," he explained. "We're more concerned with preventing crime and apprehending the criminal than attempting to

Clarabell Likes Being Present

The mother and daughter had a splendid time. They talked all the ordinary cow things. About how much better they had been lately. About how fine Mrs. Star's new winter coat looked. About the new cows that had joined the herd. And then they talked about Billy. "It's very sad," Mrs. Star said. "All the humans can talk except him. There's something wrong with him." But Clarabell said, "There's nothing wrong with him! He's the nicest human of them all.

"That's the way it works sometimes," Clarabell's mother said. "It's very hard to understand."

And then they talked some more about Christmas, Mrs. Star laughed at Clarabell's story of calves-withbranches. "You saw reindeer. They're not calves at all. They help Santa spread the talking-dust.

"That would be a fine thing," Clarabell said, "That's what I'm going to do when I'm grown.'

"Sweetheart, you must be happy with what you are. A Jersey cow is a fine thing to be. Why, you could have been a goat or a pig or even a weasel.

Clarabell listened, but she didn't believe. All she could think of was how grand it would be to fly. And there was something else. She might be able to get Billy some of the talking dust. Lots of children are like Clarabell: They listen to their mothers, but they still must try things from themselves. She decided to be a reindeer when Billy's eyes were wet and shining.

At first, Clarabell did not understand. But then she remembered that Billy could not talk. It would be like being a cow and having no tail. It would be worse. It would be like having no tail and then meeting a human who had one. That would make you feel very bad indeed.

No wonder Billy had tears in his

Mr. Wilburn, a man with a friendly, round face, reached into the big pocket of his wool overcoat. He took out some papers. "What these will do, Billy, is give you Clarabell as your own cow. She's all yours. Yours to take care of, too. Treat her right, and maybe someday she'll be the mother of a whole bunch of little calves."

Blues Often Accompany Holiday

By BOB CORBETT Copley News Service

"Tis the season to be jolly" and for the most people it is; but for many people the holidays are a time to sing the blues. Dr. David S. Janowsky, head of psychiatric services at the University of California at San Diego's University Hospital, calls the situation the "Whatever happened to Santa Claus syndrome." It's a dangerous situation, he said during an interview, and probably accounts for much of the increase in suicides, psychiatric hospital admissions and emergency room activity during the holidays. The holiday blues, Janowsky said, strike mainly at three types of people: those who are prone to loneliness, have a tendency toward depression or who try to do too much and become overwhelmed.

For such people, he said, the holiday spirit, the Christmas songs, the decorated windows seem to simply accentuate their

Miss Nardini said patients are cautioned during the orientation session never to promise a child anything. Some play Santa Claus, some Mrs. Claus and others are elves who provide sound effects -like ringing bells and pounding hammers - to create the atmosphere of a polar workshop

"We usually have Mrs. Claus answer so the women can get involved." Miss Nardini said. "Many times she asks the children if they can hear the elves working in the shop, and then those patients will ring their bells or hit a block of wood with hammers. It really adds something

Ann Loebeach, a registered music therapist at the institution, said the patients enjoy the activity as much as the children who call.

"You can tell in their expressions and willingness to help that they really enjoy it," she said. "They're really willing to help out, whether by talking on the phone or just ringing bells. They view it as part of their Christmas."

And for any children wondering why they can't call after noon on Christmas Eve, Miss Nardini has an answer: Santa has to pack his sleigh then."

Stock Mart Continues Stalemate

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was little changed today, unable to break the stalemate of the past two sessions.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up .52 on Monday and down .52 Tuesday, managed a .26 gain to 815.49 by noontime today. Declines outnumbered advances by about a 4-3 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said continued weakness in the dollar was keeping traders in a cautious mood

But they also said the market was held down more by an absence of buying interest than by any concerted selling pressure.

Marshall Field Co. jumped 81/8 to 30%, trading for the first time since the company received merg-er overtures from Carter Hawley Hale on Monday.

Marshall Field, which has filed an antitrust suit seeking to block the proposal, today issued a statement from its board of directors rejecting the offer as "inade-The NYSE's composite index of more than 1,500 common stocks point Tuesday.

From the sports Toshiba Sets team that Plant Site always wins...

TOKYO (AP) — Tokyo Shibaura Electric Co. (Toshiba) of Japan said today it plans to build a plant capable of producing about 200,000 color television sets a year at Nashville, Tenn.

It estimated the plant would cost $8.3 million.

Toshiba officials said the company will acquire 100 acres of land for the project and that the plant is expected to start production next summer

They said Toshiba America Inc.. wholly-owned U.S. subsidiary of Toshiba, will handle the project, but they declined to disclose de-

Toshiba America Inc. was established in 1965, and now has sales agents in Chicago, Los Angeles, Dallas and New York.

SPAG Board Endorses Tech Grant

By FRANK COATS
Avalanche-Journal Staff
The South Plains Association of Governments endorsed a $75,000 City of Lubernments endorsed a $75,000 City of Lubbock application for a grant to implement a crime prevention and research project at its monthly meeting Tuesday.
The grant would come from the Criminal Justice Division.
If the grant is approved, the City of Lubbock will contract with Texas Tech University for $25,000 to conduct research for new crime prevention techniques

The research will be done by the psychology and marketing departments.

The remaining $50,000 will be used for a public awareness movement advertising the techniques and ideas that come from the Tech research. Both printed material and mass media advertisements will be used.

City Mgr. Larry Cunningham, speaking at the meeting, said the program would involve "trying to find ways and means to give action to crime prevention techniques and get people to use (the techniques) daily."

"If our frugal city manager thinks it's a good idea then I'm for it and move for fa-vorable comment," Mayor Roy Bass, member of the SPAG Board of Directors,

The board also voted to apply for a $20,000 grant from the Governor's office which is offered for innovative ideas for energy conservation. Truett Mayes, SPAG's executive director, presented to the board plans for an infra-red photography study which would detail the amount of heat loss in homes.

Infra-red film is sensitive to heat and because of that it has often been used in aerial photography to spot heat sources on the ground; in the Vietnam War troop movements could be charted by this method

Mayes proposed hiring Texas Instru-ments of Dallas to fly over the 15-county SPAG region and photograph the dwell-ings. The resultant photographs would be able to show heat losses in homes requiring insulation. Well-insulated homes would show up as dark spots, and homes with a high degree of heat loss would be lighter colored on the photograph.

Mayes originally suggested the project for the cities of Lubbock, Plainview, Littlefield, Levelland, Brownfield and others, but the motion adopting the proposal suggested extending the project over the entire 15-county region.

Mayes estimates that extending the project over the entire region would cost $50,000, including $20,000 from the Governor's office $10,000 in SPAG matching funds and the rest possibly supplied by the electric and gas companies.

Mayes has approached Southwestern Public Service Co. and Pioneer Natural Gas for funding, but has not been given a Should the utility and gas companies fail to provide funding, SPAG will provide the remainder of the money, Mayes said.

In other action, the board also gave favorable comment to a funding request from the South Plains Community Action Association Inc. from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for the South Plains Head Start Program.

The program is a pre-school develop-ment program for poverty children which prepares them for first grade.

Army ROTC Cadets Get Tech Awards

The Army ROTC program at Texas Tech University has concluded activities for the fall semester with an awards pro-

Receiving the Military Science-1 award for the best first-year cadet of the semester was Richard L. Draehn of Richardson. Best second-year cadet of the semester was William D. Rich of Fort Worth, and best Corpsdette of the semester was Margaret Suzanne Prince of Andrews. George B. Morris of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce presented awards to the cadets.

Five cadets received the Distinguished Military Student award presented by Lt. Col. George T. Kimbro, professor of Military science. They were John L. Albin of Lubbock, Nancy H. Davenport of Dallas, Richard J. Patrick of FT. Hood, William J. Smith of Flint and Gerald G. Gibbons of Lubbock.

The award is presented to cadets who are in the upper half of their academic class and have shown exceptional ability as military cadets, Kimbro said. Cadets Robert H. Morgan, El Paso, and

Gregory P. Koenig, Hereford, were awarded three-year full scholarships. The scholarships are based on academic achievement and potential of becoming quality military officers, Kimbro said. The ceremonies were concluded with the changing of command of the ROTC program. Gibbons will replace Davenport as commander next semester.

Family Informs Friends Of Trials, Tribulations

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) - Every December the Crockleys, a couple we met on a cruise years ago, check in with one of those mimeographed Christmas letters that for trauma and tribulation make a prime time suds opera like "Soap" sound like the worst of Louisa May Alcott.

We don't even recall what the Crockleys look like, it's been so long, but we feel we know them all intimately, better than our own kinfolk, from this annual inventory of family births, graduations, travels, marriages, operations and allied gossip. Grannie Hotchkiss, Uncle Phil (the bachelor who is always going off somewhere to be cured of an unspecified ailment), the twins Enid and Persimmon, Aunty Eugenia (lonely, frail, keeper of some secret flame or scandal), the boys Tom, Elwood and Reggie (now grown up with children of their own) and baby Rudy (the last left in the nest) are forever going off on exotic vacations, taking up strange hobbies, changing from one fantastic job to another and getting into adventures one can hardly bear the 12-month wait between letters to catch Hearing from the Crockleys at Christmas is like having Dickens arrive on your doorstep with his analyst. My wife and I zy family during the past year. Did Tom remarry? Is Uncle Phil cured and of what? Was Persimmon able to women's liberate the Yale wrestling team? Will Elwood ever come home?

Wait, it's here. The latest Christmas letter from the Crockleys: "Dearest Friends,

"Hi there, again, and what a year it has been for all of us here at the ranch. You'll notice we've moved again. Daddy Crockley just had to carry out his dream of raising musk ox in Vermont. He's had the idea ever since President Nixon went to China and brought over a pair for the Peking Zoo. Mother Crockley, game for anything, just loves the big bovine ruminants, even if she did get a bad shock from the electrified fence last month.

"Speaking of accidents, Grannie broke her collarbone on Rudy's skate board going down Mather Hill. For a while she and Uncle Phil were in the same hospital, but he was sent home after burning a hole in the sheets with his water pipe.

"Not to worry. They are both fine now. Uncle Phil is into transcendental meditation with Carmine Sutra, a guru from Butan he met on the all-night bus coming back from the sanitarium in Calgary. Phil brought him home for Thanksgiving. He speaks only Urdu but strums that sitar like a regular Johnny Cash and the twins were enchanted. But for her job down at the abattoir, all computerized now, Enid would have run off with him. You know what a romantic she is.

"The whole family was together at Thanksgiving for the first time in ages. Elwood walked in just as Aunty Eugenia was popping her bourbon brownies into the oven, giving us the happiest shock of our lives. He had been living with some Lapp reindeer herders in Saivomoutka, Sweden, and hadn't heard the Vietnam war was over. Elwood had some kind of operation out there and now wants to be

"Reggie and Kathy celebrated their 10th wedding anniversary in June. As usual, he was off on the gold cruise with his nuclear submarine somewhere under the North Atlantic, and she went to see "Jaws" to sort of be with him on their special day. Next Sunday we are all going over to the Beatrice Webb Nursery school to see their youngest, Nancy, almost 5 now, in "Oh! Calcutta!" What a cute idea, and it didn't cost Kathy or the other parents a sou for costumes.

"Tom and Rita, the new wife, went backpacking along the upper Amazon on their honeymoon, taking along both their sets of children to help with the long portages. There was some trouble coming through customs because Frampton, Rita's youngest nipper, wouldn't surrender his tarantula collection. She seems so right for Tom. Her analyst gave her away at the wedding and tore up half his bill as a present. Aunty Eugenia, who dotes on Tom, even danced at their wedding upstairs in the Moose Hall. "It did her so much good to get out after all those years, she consented to read her poems at the library. There was some fuss from a reactionary element who complained even D. H. Lawrence never used language like that

"Persimmon dropped out of Yale, saying she didn't want to be a jock after all, and is now demonstrating water beds in the Claussen's window. Since the Crockleys are an ancient family, with a crest and a motto and for all we know a castle somewhere, we all crossed into Canada for the queen's jubilee and brought back a trunk load of duty free whiskey. So as another year of trips and tribulations and trials, plus a few laughs and many memories, draws to a close, we wish one and all the happiest of Christmas and a great New Year ahead. Be sure to keep in touch ... from all the Crockleys."

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., in a statement at the opening of two days of hearings on a proposed constitutional amendment to provide for the initiative, called for "cautious, thoughtful, thorough and criticial analysis" of it.

"I must say that I have serious reservations about the initiative proposal on the federal level," Bayh said. He did not elaborate

The initiative already is in effect in 23 states.

Under the proposed amendment, voters would be able to get a measure on the ballot by collecting signatures from 3 percent of the voters in at least 10 states within an 18-month period.

If the measure were approved at the polls, it would take effect within 30 days and could not be repealed or amended by Congress for two years except by a twothirds vote of both houses.

Laws passed by initiative would be subject to presidential veto.

Sen James Abourezk, D-S.D., principal sponsor of the measure, said that in the five months since its introduction, it "has become a serious constitutional proposal" commanding bipartisan support.

Abourezk, who has announced he will not seek re-election next year, predicted that "very soon after I leave elected politics, the Senate and the House of Representatives will send this constitutional mendment to the states for their ratification.

House, told the Constitution subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee that if a national initiative had been possible at the time of the Vietnam war 'many of the violent, wrenching aspects of our Vietnam experience could have been avoided.

Rep. Harold S. Sawyer, R-Mich., a cosponsor of the Jones measure, said the initiative might be a means of achieving "a firm and final decision" on such emotional issues as abortion.

"Rest assured, this volatile issue will remain with us so long as we continue to take stopgap measures when a solid decision is in order," Sawyer said. "If Congress does not act, perhaps the people can do better.'

Rep. Guy Vander Jagt, R-Mich., testified in support of a different measure he has introduced to provide for both the initiative and for national referendums on laws passed by Congress. His bill also would make it possible to amend the Constitution by initiative.

Also testifying in support of the initiative were Professor Larry L. Berg of the University of Southern California and Henry J. Abraham, professor of government at the University of Virginia.

Berg said that in an initiative cam-"the public's attention would be focused on debate and discussion of the merits or demerits of public policy issues rather than just on style, looks, image and other similar aspects of many modern campaigns.

Abourezk said in an interview earlier that the existence of the initiative process spur Congress to act more on such issues as taxes and federally fi-cal year, major aid programs were jeopardized along with paychecks for thousands of federal workers. Parties on both sides of the abortion issue lamented the situation but would not budge until Dec.

The House has a rule that it cannot legislate on an appropriations bill but it has 'allowed language that says funds in a bill cannot be used for this or that purpose. That was how Rep. Henry Hyde, R-Ill., got his amendment on the Labor-HEW money bill saying no funds could be used for abortions.

The Senate has no similar rule but the consistent two-to-one votes against the Hyde amendment would have precluded adding such language to the money bill.

"We've got to bring something out and whether it's to change the rule or not, I don't know," said Speaker Thomas D'Neill. "I don't know if it could happen (changing the rule) but it certainly has to be looked into.

Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., who managed the Senate's abortion fight with the House, said he will introduce next month "some four or maybe five bills which will take every aspect of this problem and have them referred to the proper committee in the Senate, so that we can have a national policy on the question of abortion."

If nothing else, the long fight between the House and Senate focused national attention on the general question of abortion. "Right to Life" organizations proved the most effective lobbying force trying to outlaw abortions and the time may be ripe for consideration of a constitutional amendment aimed at that goal.

"I think such an amendment would pass the House but I'm sure the Senate wouldn't accept it," said O'Neill. It would take a two-thirds vote in the House and in the Senate to pass a constitutional amendment and 38 states would have to

There are at least 15 constitutional amendments pending before the House Judiciary Committee but there is no movement to consider them. They range from an outright ban on any abortions to preventing any federal intervention in such bans ordered by individual states.

House Republican leader John Rhodes suggested at the height of the abortion fight that agreement might finally be reached if the Democratic leadership influenced the committee to report out a constitutional amendment

"The votes aren't there in the (judiciary) subcommittee for such an amendment. The last time I checked it was 6-1 against it," said O'Neill.

But the frustration is there and it was best demonstrated by Magnuson in his description of how it affected him and Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., another leader in the fight to get federally funded abortions for poor women.

"It is an agonizing thing. I think about it all the time," he said as the Senate prepared to accept House abortion language and end the deadlock.

"When the senator from Massaschusetts (Brooke) and I talk to each other, we do not even ask, 'How is the weather in Boston?' or, 'How is the weather in Seattle?' We say, 'What is going on with respect to abortion?' We do not even ask each other, 'How are you feeling?'" said Magnuson.

Kansas City Raps Legislature For Not Ratifying Amendment

souri Legislature's refusal to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment has cost the city an estimated $1.1 million in lost convention business, and the state should help make up the loss, according to city

In the next few weeks, city leaders plan to send the Legislature a bill for the lost money and, if necessary, take the state to court to make it pay for at least part of the city's lost convention business.

"It's time we forced it to a dollar-andcents issue, because that's what it is now," Councilman Joe Serviss said. "Not until the Blue Law repeal was pulled from a religious issue to an issue of the dollars we were losing by not having Sunday shopping was the legislature willing to support its repeal.

Three large conventions already sched-uled to take place in Kansas City have been canceled and moved to pro-ERA states since the start of a boycott spon-sored by the National Organization of

A huge list of organizations supporting the ERA has agreed to conduct annual conventions only in states that have ratified the amendment. "We're -serious about this," Serviss said. "The state is going to pay, or at least share a major part, of the losses we're feeling from this boycott."

He said the bill to the Legislature will be marked "payable to Kansas City." Serviss said it will be a $1.1 million invoice covering losses since the start of the convention boycott.

"The ledger sheet will show the Jeff City group what they've cost Kansas City and what they owe us all because they won't support ERA," said Serviss, who is chairman of the city council's finance and audit committee.

The city council has gone on record supporting passage of the ERA — a fact especially upsetting to city officials angry about the state's stand. Serviss said he thinks legislators must be made to see that the ERA no longer is an emotional

"St. Louis, Kansas City, any city in this state that has convention business will feel the effects of this boycott," Serviss said. "They (legislators) have to be forced to look at ERA as a money mat-

An effort will be made by council members this week, Serviss said, to give ratification of the ERA a higher priority on the list of matters the city plans to lobby for next year in Jefferson City.

"The boycott will continue," Serviss said. "It will end up becoming a matter of survival, such as saving our Bartle convention center from financial collapse because conventions keep canceling.

Bad Publicity Hurts Knievel Doll Sales

NEW YORK (UPI) - Celebrity toys are a high-risk venture at best, but daredevil Evel Knievel's latest stunt has made toy business history.

Ideal Toy Corp., which has made Knievel dolls, motorcycles, vans and supercycles since 1973, attributes most of an expected $1.6 million loss in its third quarter to negative publicity surrounding the stuntman and sudden death in the sale of toys bearing his name.

Knievel pleaded no contest to charges he slugged his press agent with a baseball bat and went to jail in late November to serve a six-month sentence.

"In my 21 years with Ideal, I've never known of this kind of thing to happen to a toy line," said Joseph Winkler, senior vice president of finance for the Hollis, N.Y. firm. "We've used real characters back as far as the 1930s when we had the Shirley Temple doll."

Other major toy manufacturers contacted by UPI could not recall any instance in which a celebrity whose name was used to market toys had fallen into public disfavor

Evel Knievel sales, which represented 18 percent of Ideal's $124.8 million volume last year, "were going into a normal decline after four years," Winkler said. 'but they took a nosedive after a number of pieces of bad publicity topped off by the final act.'

The stuntman's public image had begun to pale early this year. A televised jump over a tankful of sharks was rated one of the 10 worst programs of the year, Winkler said. A Knievel movie also flopped and the daredevil generally dropped from the limelight.

Winkler said the company will consider abandoning the Knievel line in February when it evaluates its toy products.

Martin Abrams, president of Mego International, Inc., which markets Cher, Farrah Fawcett-Majors, The Fonz and Muhammad Ali dolls, said: "Evel Knievel toys made in excess of $100 million, but all good things must come to an end and Ideal didn't diversify into other Abrams, who calls celebrity dolls "the cameos of our culture," has minimized the risks in using real personalities.

"As a hedge against a possible slide in any individual's popularity, Mego's modulars are interchangeable" a spokesman for the New York firm said. "The same little body could be a Cher or a Farrah."

Mego also has cut its production time by manufacturing all components of its celebrity dolls. "The biggest gamble is on long lead times," the spokesman said. "You just hope the celebrity is not a flash in the pan."

The phenomenon of "Star Wars" has created a different problem for Cincinnati-based Kenner Products Co., granted the toy license for the film on the basis of its successful $6 Million Man and Bionic

Although Kenner has drastically slashed production time for its "Star Wars" figures, the General Mills' division can't meet Christmas demand and is giving children boxes filled with gift certificates to be redeemed in late January.

Hermit Crabs Popular As Quiet, Clean Pets

BREMERTON, Wash. (AP) - "Hermit crabs are clean, hardy, eat little and won't reproduce in captivity. They are active, whimsical and have a cute little walk," reads one store's sales pitch

The delightful decapods have become big sellers at pet shops, gift stores and even some department stores across the country in the past year, said a pet store assistant manager.

'They do make good pets," says Barbara Pyper, assistant manager of Import City here. She is planning to buy two herself and already has sold more than a Hermit crabs are good gifts for lonely people, Mrs. Pyper says. She knows of a man who takes his crab to local taverns and shares his beer with it.

"He wouldn't think of pitching it out," she said. "They're good friends." Crabs are easily tamed and aren't violent by nature, she said. They don't bite. They do pinch with their one large pincher, but only if abused or held too long Care is minimal, she said. They eat almost anything, enjoy a fairly warm and moist climate, get a kick out of climbing things and like an environment of moist sand or fermiculite to burrow into.

Crabs are a gregarious lot and need company, which belies their name. The Hermit Crab Co. of St. Petersburg, Fla., warns that alone they become withdrawn, stop moving, lose interest and eventually die. But at $2.50 to $4.50 apiece, depending on size, it isn't expensive to preserve a hermit crab's sanity.

The land hermit crabs are native to the Caribbean and Central and South America. Their most interesting characteristic is their search for a shell. Possessing no shell of their own, they spend a lot of their time house-hunting, trying out shells that have been cast aside by mollusks, usually snails.

Fuel Planners Rely On NWS

By WARREN E. LEARY

WASHINGTON (AP) - The nation's energy planners have decided to trust the National Weather Service's long-range forecasts this winter for energy use projections rather than rely on those of private forecasters.

The vote of confidence in the NWS comes less from an outstanding record for distant predictions - which the service admits it doesn't have - than from uncertainty about how good the private forecasters are, says an Energy Department spokesman.

The weather service says that even if its long-range forecasts aren't always perfect, they are at least as good, if not better, than anyone else's.

Long-range forecasting, meaning predictions for periods a week or more into the future, is just one of many areas in which the NWS is being challenged by private, profit-making forecasters.

Federal forecasters supply basic weather reports and private outfits supplement this for special-interest customers such as oil companies, local governments and some broadcast stations who demand

NWS spokesmen say the nation is getting its money's worth from the relatively small agency. Part of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, the weather service employs only about 5,100 persons and has a yearly budget of less than $200 million.

We figure we are the second mostused government agency, after the Postal Service," says Earl W. Estelle, chief of the NWS public services branch. "But we are very small in number by compari-

The NWS Long Range Prediction Group also is small compared with its responsibility of predicting future weather, critically important to agriculture, energy planning and almost every segment of

Dr. Donald L. Gilman and his staff of six do 30-day temperature and precipitation outlooks and 90-day seasonal temperature forecasts basically by charting upper-level wind patterns.

Gilman says his group uses several methods to interpret the patterns. These include checking back through 30 years of file charts to look for similar movements. using mathematical equations and computers and looking at old temperature probability charts going back to the year

"Our winter temperature forecasts that is, calling it warmer or colder than normal - are right 65 percent of the time," Gilman says. "This is our best season. For the other seasons, we are about 60 percent right.

Gilman's group, and most other forecasters, missed predicting the onset of are. It will be interesting to see how this last winter's severe cold, caused by a sur-turns out.

prisingly abnormal shift in upper-wind

Gilman says the odds are 30 to 1 against a repeat of last winter's conditions and predicts that most of the country can expect a milder winter this year, although it will be colder than normal in some areas. Some private forecasters make much firmer, less conservative long-term predictions than government meteorologists, and there is strong disagreement over methods and accuracy.

The controversy over who makes the best forecasts heated up recently when federal energy officials acknowledged they had considered, but later rejected, a proposal from a private forecaster to make projections this winter.

We decided not to invest funds into buying weather services because we have no idea how good they are," says Barry Yaffe, head of the Energy Department's winter task force. "But we decided instead to do a scientific evaluation of

The department and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration will support the study by the National Academy of Sciences. The evaluation will begin next year by asking private forecasters to provide long-term prediction's and how they arrive at them.

We will do this independent analysis to see if any of these people do better than the National Weather Service, as some claim." Yaffe says Similar attempts have failed in the past because private forecasters consider their methods business secrets and dont want to divulge them, he added.

We will take every precaution to maintain the integrity of the data, but some forecasters still may not want to participate," Yaffe said. "If completed, this will be the first real scientific evalua tion of private forecasters.'

Yaffe says the study will take several years to check the accuracy of predictions over time "since anyone can have a bad year and shouldn't be judged on just

Several major private forecasters, such as the Gordon Barnes Weather Service, have expressed an interest in the study. Yaffe said

Barnes, a Washington, D.C., television weatherman who also runs the private service, told a congressional hearing he could make accurate forecasts for the government better than the National Weather Service

Gilman of the NWS says he doubts that the private predictors do better than his group, but says he welcomes the upcoming evaluation.

"There is no regulation of forecasting and forecasters can say what they want. Gilman says. "Unless the private forecaster is willing to lay out his predictions for scrutiny, it's hard to say how good they Equitable Savings will give you information on tax saving retirement plans.

At Equitable Savings, we'd like to help you get ready for retirement with one of our tax deferred retirement accounts called I.R.A. (Individual Retirement Account) or Keogh. They're a great way to set aside a part of your income for retirement every year without paying taxes on it until you retire. By then, you'll likely be in a lower tax bracket.

If you're employed but not covered by a qualified retirement plan, I.R.A. allows an annual deposit up to $1500 or 15% of your income, whichever is less. Savings are fully tax deductible, and earnings compound tax deferred until distributed.

If you're self-employed, Keogh offers the same benefits and allows an annual contribution up to $7500 or 15% of your income, whichever is less.

If you have completed a qualifying program, I.R.A. Rollover is designed to roll your lump-sum distribution over into an I.R.A., to receive the tax advantage.

DC-3 Crash Claims Evansville Cagers

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) - A chartered DC-3 airplane loaded with college basketball players and team supporters was trying to turn back to the airport here with a spluttering engine when it crashed into a muddy hillside in rain and dense fog, witnesses say.

All 29 aboard were killed, including the entire 14-man University of Evansville basketball team and its coach.

Searchers slogged through the mud to-day looking for two bodies still missing. Many of the 5,000 students on the Methodist-affiliated campus spent the night praying, talking quietly with with friends or meditating.

"We couldn't go to sleep," said David Mensing, an 18-year-old freshman from Peru, Ind. "You just can't take some-thing like that to bed."

The twin engine propeller plane, chartered from National Jet Service Inc.

of Indianapolis, left Dress Regional Air-port here at 7:20 p.m. Tuesday bound for Nashville, Tenn., and "encountered some type of difficulty," said Bill Phipps, deputy coroner for Vanderburgh

He said the plane appeared to have turned back to the airport when it crashed into the hillside.

"We saw it go into the clouds. We heard a loud 'pop.' We heard an engine rev up, then we heard the crash and saw an explosion," said Patrick Alvey, a licensed pilot and owner of Metro Beechcraft Corp., a charter service at the air-

Alvey said he and a companion were among the first people to arrive at the crash scene, near railroad tracks north of a new residential subdivision.

"The fuselage was intact, the left wing was ripped off," he recalled. "Very many bodies were still in their seatbelts and many were strewn around. It was a and many were strewn around. It was a mess — just a total mess.

"We had four people alive. They were just strewn around. The wreckage was on fire. There was nothing we could do for the people inside of it," said Alvey.

"It looked like he was at least trying to get back to the airport," he said of the pilot. Alvey said the plane hit the hill-side at an angle of 240 to 250 degrees

"I would say he lost an engine and tried to get back."

The bodies were taken in a Louisville & Nashville Railroad boxcar to a temporary morgue set up in the city Comm ty Center in downtown Evansville, 10 miles from the crash site. In the room where the rows of bodies lay beneath white sheets, which is sometimes used as a basketball court, a volleyball net was pushed aside for extra space.

John Ed Washington, one of the dead players, "used to come in here and play ball in the gym," said Walter Thomas, a local resident who remembered pick-up games with Washington.

"Now that's where they (the bodies) are. It's unreal."

The bodies were later taken to area fu-

Many Sports Personalities Victim Of Plane Tragedies

Tuesday night's crash of a plane chartered by the University of Evansville basketball team continued a string of air tragedies that have involved sports personalities and clubs

Some of sport's all-time greats have met their deaths in plane disasters, including Pittsburgh Pirates outfielder Roberto Clemente, whose aircraft disappeared on New Year's Eve in 1973 while on a mercy mission to the earthquake vic-

College football coaching legend Knute Rockne met a similar fate in a Kansas cornfield in 1931. Other air victims are Chicago Cubs second baseman Ken Hubbs; Wendell Ladner of basketball's New York Nets and Tragedies of team-wide impact have included the crashes involving football teams from Wichita State, Marshall University and California-Poly of San Luis Obispo, and the United States Olympic Figure Skating team.

On Nov. 12, 1970, 45 players and nine coaches — the entire Marshall University complement — were killed when their plane crashed while approaching an airport in Huntington, W.Va.

Sixteen players on the Cal Poly-SLO club died on Oct. 29, 1960 when their chartered plane went down in Toledo, Ohio, after a game against Bowling Green.

Eighteen members of the Olympic Figure Skating team died when their craft crashed in Belgium on Feb. 15, 1961 en route to the world championships in Czechoslovalda.

European teams also have been hit hard. Eight members of England's Manchester United soccer team were killed in a plane crash near Munich, Germany, in February, 1969. Ten years earlier, the Italian championship soccer team Torino of Turin was wiped out when its plane crashed in the center of Turin.

Four other boxers, including former world middleweight champion Marcel Cerdan of France, also perished in air accidents. Cerdan was killed in 1949 and was followed in later years by Dale Manz, John Maravilla and former lightweight champion Teo Cruz of Santo Domingo.

Sloan Gets Big Welcome

THAT STEVE SLOAN'S name is infinitely more revered in the Southeast than in Texas was conclusively proven not quite two weeks ago.

When Sloan was presented to University of Mississippi partisans 12 days ago—one day after he resigned at Texas Tech—1500 wildy enthusiastic supporters crowded into the athletic dorm cafeteria, the listed capacity of which is 1200.

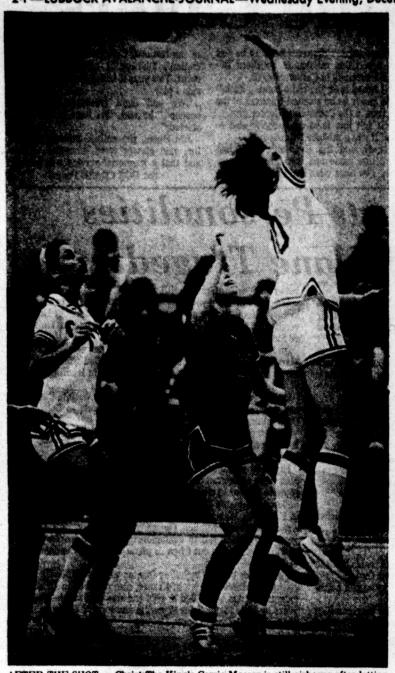

'I've never seen anything like it," said Tommy Limbaugh, an assistant coach who followed Sloan from Tech to Ole Miss. "There were reporters there from places like Knoxville, Nashville and Memphis that had covered the When-Johnny-Comes-Marching-Home reception for (Johnny) Majors last year at Tennessee. They said it was nothing like the one Sloan got."

Sloan, however, professes to not being overwhelmed by it all. "They always give you a reception when you're hired," he said with a trace of a grin. "What happens after that is what counts." True. But what has happened in the last two weeks is indelible in Sloan's

have certainly been proud of the trickery, all right.

The Panthers, who for the second straight night grabbed a commanding lead only to see it sift through their fingers, had to hold off a late Coronado charge in the CHS to post a 73-69 win.

Dunbar grabbed the lead nine seconds deep into the ballgame when Gary Baldove in for an easy layup to visitors a lead which they would never

But they tried, mind you.

In the second quarter, Dunbar mounted a 17-point margin, and it appeared the Panthers were about to drive the Mustangs right out of the gym and onto 34th Street where, luckily, they would be put out of their misery by a car loaded down with Christmas shoppers.

Instead, Coronado, behind the stellar 31-point performance of Jay Norton, who hit 14 of 18 shots from the field, including all 8 he took the second half, pecked away at the DHS lead until it managed to nip the margin all the way down to 3 with 1:48 left in the game.

That is when master magician Billy Don Hardaway went into action.

Matadors Rally To Bop Morton

By TOM HALLIBURTON Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff Estacado achieved much better results against Morton's 2-3 zone defense whenever it decided to move a little bit. For a half Tuesday night in the EHS gym, the Matador offense looked more like a stationary object. By intermission, Estacado trailed 39-29, so coach J.J. Wood gassed up his troops with high octane fuel, and the Matadors ran away in the second half with a 71-65 victory.

"We just started moving better in the second half. We got on the boards better and our press changed the tempo of the game a little bit," Wood said.

Morton entered the game with a 9-0 series edge on the Matadors during Wood's tenure. But the easy-going Estacado coach has guided this team to a number of "first evers" for EHS basketball. Last week, the Matadors won the Snyder tourney for the first time. In the tourney's semifinal, Estacado downed Monterey for the first time in a varsity basketball

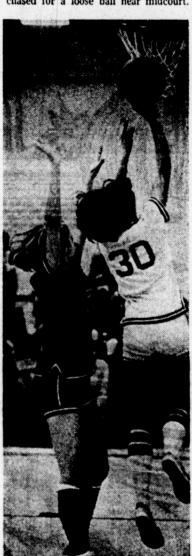

And the 11-1 record at this stage tops any other previous Decembers in Matador roundball land.

The visitors provided more than enough opposition on this night, though. Morton watched Estacado commit turnover after turnover and foul after foul in the first quarter. The Indians roared ahead 22-14 after one period. By half, the 8-point lead increased to 10 as EHS stood 3-for-10 from the free-throw line to Morton's 15-for-20.

However, Freddy Ivory and Willie Powell rushed the Mats to within a bucket after three quarters (51-49) as Morton scored only 2 points in the first four minutes of the period.

Finally at the start of last quarter, Estacado tied the count at 51 on Mike Chatham's jumper. The score remained even during the next three minutes. But with five minutes left, the Matadors gained the lead for good.

Tied at 59, Estacado's Alvin Harris chased for a loose ball near midcourt.

extension awarded to Mississippi coach Ken Cooper. This time, though, Cooper was expected to resign under pressure, and the incessant, wearying question that Sloan had fielded since coming to Tech in January 1975—"Are you going to stay or leave?"-was voiced again.

That day, Sloan's answers indicated a much greater receptiveness to outside offers than he had revealed before. Cooper indeed quit that afternoon. Sloan was offered the job 10 minutes later and said he was seriously considering it.

Late that night, he decided to accept it for reasons about which he has consistently been vague. However, the much-earlier signing date in the Southeastern Conference, concern for his family and a desire to return to his native region are all thought to be parts of the puzzle.

The resignation was announced the next day at a highly emotional press conference, and Sloan and four assistants rushed to Mississippi that afternoon. Ten days of intensive recruiting followed. When they had passed, 20 prospects had agreed to attend Mississippi.

"THAT WAS SUCH an unbelievable time," Sloan said. "I was flying or driving somewhere almost the whole time. You hardly had time to stop. I recruited in Mississippi, Alabama, Tennessee and Louisiana. Coming in late like that (eight days before the signing date) really made things tough. When we came to Tech, we came late, but we at least had three weeks then. That's better than Since returning to Lubbock Monday morning, he's had little time to unwind. Stacks of letters and messages have required answers, and his schedule has been jammed with appointments. Tuesday, the Tech staff began breaking down films of Florida State so the Raiders could start preparing today for their Dec. 23 Tangerine Bowl bout with the Seminoles. Certainly, there has been little time for second thoughts.

"I don't really believe in second thoughts anyway," Sloan said. "Oh, things creep into the back of your mind occasionally, but, once you've made a decision, you can't look back

"When I was in Mississippi, I was worried about recruiting. Now that I'm back here, I'm thinking only of the Tangerine Bowl. I'd sure like to win that game. I'll work for Mississippi after the first of the year."

AND IT WILL be interesting to see what results from that work. Certainly, Sloan is not slipping into a ready-made bed. After years of being an SEC and national power, Ole Miss slipped. It was 19-25 in four years under Cooper, going 5-6 in 1977. And the SEC is similar to the SWC in that it contains five or six teams that are tough year-in and year-out. Sloan's chances of winning at Mississippi don't appear to be any greater than they were at Tech. Certainly, 1978 could be a tough rebuilding year for the Rebels.

But that doesn't mean Sloan doesn't have a good chance to win at Mississippi. The potential for a program equal in quality to Tech's exists at Ole Miss.

The magic the Sloan name weilds in the Southeast should help him in his new position. It meant nothing special to recruits in this region. Sloan's reputation at Tech was that of an excellent coach, but some thought he was a rather mediocre recruiter. Admittedly, though, he was hampered by the constant rumors that he would soon be leaving for Alabama and the concerns of many prospects about the distance from their homes to Tech.

At Ole Miss, the former should not be a severe problem for a while because of Bear Bryant's recent statement that he would coach at least four more seasons and Sloan's stated intention to "sink or swim with this (Ole Miss) decision." Also, the problem of distance will not be a terrific factor there.

Coach Out

CLEVELAND (UPI) - Cleveland owner Art Modell says he will go outside the Browns' organization in search of a new head coach to replace Forrest Gregg, who resigned Tuesday.

Modell said none of his current assistant coaches, including Dick Modzelewski, who will head the club in its last game of the season Sunday against Seattle, will be considered for the job.

Even though their contracts don't expire until next March, Modell said the coaches' names had been given to the National Football League office as "available" for next year with other clubs.

Modell says he already has one name singled out for the head coaching job and hopes to have the position filled within a

'We have one man in mind," said Modell, who refused to reveal who it is. "He doesn't know we're interested and this doesn't preclude others.

"But we are leaning to staying within the ranks of the NFL. That has been one of the strengths of the league. I'm not interested just in a name.

Modell announced Gregg's resignation Tuesday at the NFL team's practice facility at Baldwin-Wallace College, ending three weeks of speculation about his future with the club.

'As of yesterday (Monday) morning we had reached a mutual agreement with Forrest Gregg that he would resign effective at the end of our season," said Modell in a 15-minute news conference along with General Manager Peter Had-

NEW YORK (AP) - Steve Cauthen could have been at Churchill Downs on the first Saturday in May, riding in the Kentucky Derby. He wasn't because he was working at his job. A jockey's job is supposed to be to win, not just to ride, and a mount in the Derby would have given the 17-year-old nothing more than a Derby debut. The horse would have been a Derby starter. Nothing more

"I won three races that day (at Belmont Park) for clients I ride for all the time," said the Kentuckian who has ridden 475 winner this year and who is the first jockey ever to ride winners of $6 million in a single year.

"Nothing disturbs him," Eddie Arcaro, the Hall of Fame jockey, said of Cauthen and his incredible success in his first full riding year, most of it spent on the tough New York circuit.

'In defeat he doesn't look back. Lots of times finishing second, you have to ride better than the guy who won the race.'

Riding better than anyone is Steve Cauthen's mission, a mission that has barely started - because in riding horses, as in any endeavor, greatness is proven only by the test of time.

It's a test Arcaro is sure Cauthen has the knowledge to pass.

"As a great trainer used to say, 'You must have great kinfolk,' (a reference to breeding as the key to horse raceing greatness)," Arcaro said. Cauthen's father is a blacksmith; his mother was a

Wipes Out Cage Team

planned for today or Thursday

The team was to have flown to Nashville, then take a bus to Murfreesboro for a basketball game tonight with Middle Tennessee State University.

The university party aboard included 14 players; Coach Bobby Watson of Newburgh, Ind.; university controller Charles Shike; assistant athletic director Bob Hudson; sports information director Greg Knipping; Marv Bates, a sportscaster for WUEV, the campus radio station; and three team managers, said the sheriff's office.

Authorities said two local team boosters, Charles Goad and Maurice King, also died in the crash. Still missing at dawn were the pilot, Capt. Ty Van Pham, and James Stewart, president of National Jet Service Inc. Also killed were Bill Hartford, general manager of the charter firm, and two crew members - 1st Officer Gaston Ruiz and flight attendant Pam Smith. Phipps said he examined bodies and "most of them suffered head and chest injuries. Phipps said that when he arrived, both wings were off the plane and "the fuselage was broken open. There was a small amount of fire nothing very large. It looked as if there had been extensive fire, however, but it was out when I was there," he said. 'None of the bodies seemed burned or anything.

Sheriff's deputy Tom Rademacher said, "The fog was real bad. The farthest I could see was about a couple hundred feet."

Juan Navarro, driving nearby in a truck, saw the blaze of light and said he thought it was a building on fire. When he learned on his CB radio that a plane had crashed, he said he stopped and ran to the scene.

"There weren't any people screaming or anything. It seemed like everybody was either unconscious or dead," Navarro said.

"They were trying to keep one person alive. He was barely breathing. Then we saw another guy. We had no medical supplies so we had to get a canvas and lift the guy up. I think it was the school banner we used to carry him.

"We brought him down to the railroaad tracks and we tried resuscitation on him, but he died," Navarro said.

The muddy crash scene was littered with college letter jackets and gym bags. Some were marked, "Evansville Aces," the team's nickname. The new team symbol is a riverboat gambler, but until last year, the Aces were portrayed as airplane pilots.

The Los Angeles Lakers, their ranks thinned by trade and suspension, were no match for the New Orlreans Jazz, who let Pete Maravich and Truck Robinson do the things they do best and sent a big Su-perdome crowd home happy.

Maravich, the defending National Basketball Association scoring champion, tossed in 40 points and Robinson, the league's leading rebounder, grabbed 26 rebounds to lead the Jazz to a 117-94 victory over the Los Angeles Lakers Tuesday night before a crowd of 31,119, the second-largest in NBA history.

When Philadelphia came to New Orleans last month, that game drew 35,077 -

"It's always great to win, but especially so at home with this big crowd," said Jazz Coach Elgin Baylor.

The Lakers had to fly in a sick player, Jamaal Wilkes, to muster the eight-man squad required by the league. Los Angeles was down to seven men after the suspension of Kermit Washington and the trade which sent James Edwards and Earl Tatum to Indiana. The two men obtained in the trade, Adrian Dantley and Dave Robisch, had not yet reported.

Three other Lakers, Kenny Carr, Brad Davis and Don Chaney, are on the injured list.

But Coach Jerry West declined the alibi. "Being shorthanded was not a factor because I felt we could play the Jazz well." he said. "We've worked a lot harder, but we are not having much success. It's very frustrating."

All eight NBA games played Tuesday night were won by the home teams.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 33 points and grabbed 16 rebounds for Los Angeles, but it was not enough. A 20-2 burst during one stretch of the second period erased an early Los Angeles advantage and New Orleans led 49-48 at halftime and 77-71 after three quarters before pulling away.

The victory snapped a seven-game losing streak for New Orleans:

Mike Murphy, wearing the traditional Black Belt for excellence, bowed to his teammates and they bowed back, in the finest kung fu tradition. After an appropriate pause, Murphy went through the classic ceremonial paces, chopping the air and screaming, a la Bruce Lee.

Michigan Coach Johnny Orr laughed. "I thought that would get a rise out of him," says Jimmy O'Connell, the sports publicist at Fordham.

The whole thing was staged, of course, to poke fun at the Michigan coach. After a game with Fordham last year, Orr had chided the Rams for their "Karate Defense", in reference to their high-flying,

East Bernard's Campaign Full Of Surprises

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff Naturally, any team that gains a state championship contest cannot be taken for granted.

And, despite the fact East Bernard was not the favorite to win the 26-A race, the Brahmas could rate a slight pick over Seagraves in the Class A championship contest at Brownwood Saturday after-

"This is the way it should be," reported East Bernard mentor Hank Kotzur. "Seagraves is No. 1 and we're No. 2 (in the Harris Ratings) and this is an excellent way to end the year.

Kotzur saw 18 lettermen depart after a 9-1 campaign a year ago when East Bernard shared the crown with Brookshire-Royal but watched the playoffs from the Only five starters returned from that squad. The Brahmas have only a dozen seniors, but they've provided the leadership necessary this fall, Kotzur feels.

'We've got a lot of young people but we've gotten tremendous leadership from our seniors and our captains-junior fullback Norris Powell, senior guardlinebacker Jason Hlavinka and senior two-way tackle Gene Karasek "They set their goal to play in the state championship game back in August and have had a determination to win all year. "We were pretty well set defensively from the start, but we experimented for three games offensively trying to find the right combination. And when we found it, we really took off."

East Bernard played only one road game in nondistrict and suffered a 3-0 setback at Schulenburg. Since then, however, the Brahmas have have posted five shutouts, allowed 7 points four times, 14 points once and 2 points once en route to a-13-1 mark.

In the playoffs for the first time since 1964, this is East Bernard's first advancement past the quarter-finals, a plateau the Brahmas attained in 1958.

East Bernard blasted Hull-Daisetta 38-0 in bidistrict, bested Poth 17-7 in the quarter-finals and Arp 31-0 in the semifi-

Midland Fems Drop Monterey

MIDLAND (Special) - Midland High used the 24-point performance of Terri Bean and the 22-point showing of Beth Thomasson to whip the Monterey Plainsmen 67-61 here Tuesday night during high school girl's basketball play.

The Bulldogs, now 8-4, took advantage of the Plainsmen in the third quarter to outscore their guests 23-10. The 6-point advantage held up the remainder of the game as both teams hit 14 points each in the final stanza.

For Monterey, Marilyn Beckner had 26 points and Margaret Grennell collected 25 points.

The loss was the second sustained by Monterey this season. The local team has won six.

U.S CREW COACH NAMED HANOVER, N.H. (AP) - Peter Gardner, Dartmouth College crew coach, has been named coach for the U.S. crew cam for 1978. It is his second straight ar as director of the U.S. team. The 1977 eight-man crew made the world championship finals in Amsterdam.

That 17-7 score was the closest game East Bernard had been involved in since the Schulenburg contest.

The Brahmas' defense has been superb this year, allowing less than 200 total yards a game. Plus, the secondary had picked off 34 enemy aerials, with all-state candidate Walter Shorter getting 10 and halfback Lee Bangston 8.

Linebackers Ricky Kramr and Jason Hlavinka are averaging 13 and 12 tackles per game, respectively.

The offense revolves around the run, although sophomore quarterback Greg Losack has hit 48 of 97 passes for 883 yards and 12 TDs, including eight of 16 for 104 last week against Arp.

The top rusher is reserve tailback Marvin Davis, a sophomore who has gained 1,072 yards. Fullback Norris Powell, a junior, has 934 yards and tailback Lee Bangston, a senior, has 930 steps. Shorter, a split end offensively, has 23 catches for 451 yards and 3 TDs.

East Bernard's will take a 354 yard pergame offensive average into Saturday's 2 p.m. contest at Brownwood.

Acree Submits Midland Lee Resignation

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
The voice over the telephone tried to blend a touch of humor into the rather unhappy prevailing mood.

"Well, coaches are kind of transit peo-ple, anyway," said veteran coach Jim

The head football mentor for the past eight seasons at Midland Lee submitted his resignation Tuesday afternoon to the Midland school board, ending four months of intense public pressure and Acree's Rebels were placed on proba-tion on Aug. 24 by the District 5-AAAA executive committee for violating University Interscholastic League rules which prohibited the use of any illegal contact equipment during the first four days of fall workouts, Aug. 15-19. Three days after the probation ruling, Midland's public school Board of Trustees issued a public reprimand to Acree at an emergency meeting. Though the trustees retained their coach, speculation continued throughout the season that Acree would not return next year.

"I thought it would be good for the school and me both. It's been a thing that gradually seemed to be the right thing to do. I had been thinking about it for some time and I finally decided last weekend. I felt like it was time to do something else," Acree said.

The former Texas Tech grid assistant under J T King in 1968 and 1969 accepted the Midland job in 1970. His teams compiled a record of 47-33-2 during those eight seasons, including one outright dis-trict title in 1976 and one cochampionship in 1974. The resignation becomes effective Jan. 16.

"I wasn't aware that he was going to submit the resignation until I was at the school board meeting today," said Mid-land athletic director Sam Cox Tuesday. "It's unfortunate that circumstances have made it difficult and have created a situation from which he felt he had to remove himself. We managed to work to-

Padres Ask Help To Promote Tilt

SAN DIEGO (AP) - The 1978 major league All Star game is scheduled for July 11 at San Diego Stadium and the National League Padres are asking the City Council to toss in $30,000 to help promote Ballard Smith, Padres executive vice president, said Monday the $30,000 from the city's hotel-motel transient occupancy tax is to help defray promotional costs. He said the Padres are guaranteed $75,-000 in proceeds from the game.

Acree indicated he had received a few offers to remain in Midland as a private businessman but remained uncertain about his future's direction.

"I really don't know. I haven't thought that far ahead about it. I guess I'm sort of like a kid in that regard. I don't know whether or not I'll get away from Midland. I've enjoyed the coaching situation and the associations with the people here. It's been eight good years. I guess I'll just have to sit back during the holidays and decide what to do," h said.

A considerable amount of public criticism leveled off during the football season until late October when the Texas High School Coaches Association rapped

A week aftter the regular season's end, Nov. 18, Acree's lawyer, David Lashford, filed suit against the Midland Reporter-Telegram for alleged character damages. Acree indicated to the Avalanche-Journal his intentions to carry out this suit, despite his resignation from the coaching position. However, the Midland coach declined to comment on the nature of the suit because he was advised by his lawyer to remain silent. Meanwhile, Lashford was unavailable for comment on the is-versity in 1954 and immediately entered the coaching profession. He spent six years at Bonham high school in East Texas, serving as the head coach the last two seasons. His Bonham record was 23-3. In 1960, the coach moved to Central Texas as a head coach at Class AAA Corsicana. His Corsicana Tigers compiled a 63-15-2 mark in seven seasons, including a state title in 1963. Then Acree moved to SMU for one season as an aide to Hayden Fry before he joined Tech as a defensive assistant. Acree's overall head coaching record in high school stands 131-50-4.

Construction Halts '78 Kansas Relays

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) - The Kansas Relays, a major collegiate track meet, has been cancelled next spring because of renovation work in progress on the Kansas football stadium.

'We really had no choice in the matter," Kansas Athletic Director Clyde Walker said in making the announcement Tuesday.

The construction company that is doing the work advises us that while the work was going on, no public events could possibly be held. A lot of the problem involved not being able to project a work schedule through the winter months. Work began this week on the $1.8 million renovation of 56-year-old Memorial Stadium, which now seats 52,000. The projected completion date is Sept. 1, eight days before the Jayhawks open their home football schedule against Texas

A&M. The relays were scheduled for April 20-22. "Naturally, this comes as a disappointment to all of us, although it was the only decision that could be made in view of the extensive construction," said Bob Timmons, track coach. "I'm certain there are many coaches and athletes from throughout the midwest who are equally disappointed.'

Monterey's Alford Snares A-A Berth

Monterey offensive tackle Scott Alford has been selected to the 22-man high school All-America team chosen by Football News, it was announced Tuesday.

Football News, the nation's oidest football weekly and based in Detroit, picked five Texans among the first 22. Alford, Perryton runningback Brad Beck, Euless Trinity center Mike Baab, Houston Furr defensive lineman Gary Chachere and Kerrville Tivy defensive lineman Maceo Fifer were chosen from Texas.

A 6-5, 245-pounder, Alford earned all-city and all-district honors during the past two seasons when Monterey went to the state semifinals and quarter-finals. He was also selected to Texas Football magazine's preseason prep all-state

"He has a chance to become a great football player some day," remarked MHS head coach James Odom after hearing the news of Alford's selection.

Associated Press Sports Writer
After last season's bowl predictions, the question was what were we going to do for an encore?

Certainly you remember that this corner called the correct winners of all 11 bowl games, exclusive of the Independence. This time, we have an additional treat in store for you. Not . only are we going to take a crack at all 13 bowl games - including the Independence - but we're going to do it twice once on a won-lost basis and also against the point spread.

The final week of the regular season, by the way, produced a 21-7-1 mark for a .750 percentage, bringing the season's count to 568-227-16 - .714.

We'll run down the bowl games in order, but to give you a sneak preview and so you don't have to jump to the end to find out our Cotton Bowl pick, it's Notre Dame over Texas.

Independence Bowl — Louisiana Tech (7-1-2) vs. Louisville (7-3-1), no line: Maxie Lambright's Louisiana Tech Bulldogs are a perennial power in the Southland Conference and they have a potent aerial game with Keith Thibodeaux pitching and Rod Foppe catching. Vince Gibson's Louisville Cardinals can run the ball, but Tech has one of the nation's top defenses, too. Strangely enough, we're picking . . . Louis-

Liberty Bowl — Nebraska (8-3) favored by 6 over North Carolina (8-2-1): When Oklahoma polished off Nebraska 38-7, Coach Barry Switzer crowed, "We're going to the beach (Miami), not the river (Mississippi)." Nebraska's at the river when they'd rather be at the beach. This formula's called desire . . . North Carolina 24-21.

Hall of Fame Classic — Maryland (7-4) favored by 7½ over Minnesota (7-4): Minnesota's Gophers must have peaked in that 16-0 upset of Michigan because they haven't been very impressive since. The high spot of Maryland's season came way back in its opener, a 21-14 triumph over Clemson. The Terps' injuries should have healed by now . . . Maryland 24-

Tangerine Bowl - Texas Tech (7-4) favored by 7 over Florida State (8-2): This one presents a formula known as the lame duck coach. It's Steve Sloan's finale at Tech as he heads for Ole Miss. That's got to hurt the Red Raiders, no matter how fired up they are. Besides, the Tangerine Bowl's in Florida State's neighborhood . . . Florida State 27-17.

Flesta Bowl — Penn State (10-1) favored by 6½ over Arizo-na State (9-2): This is one of those formulas where Penn State really has nothing to gain while Arizona State is itching to knock off a big-name team like the Nittany Lions, just as it did to Nebraska two years ago. But Joe Paterno keeps saywhat he means. Forget the formula . . . Penn State 28-14.

Gator Bowl — Pitt (8-2-1) favored by 7 over Clemson (8-2-1): Same reasoning as the Fiesta Bowl. Clemson is striving for big-time recognition, but Pitt has too many guns . . . Pitt

Sun Bowl - Louisiana State (7-3) favored by 31/2 over Stanford (8-3): A game of contrasts - LSU's Charles Alexa one of the nation's top runners, against Stanford's Guy Ben-jamin, one of the top passers. LSU has been here before and the Tigers should know enough to keep their distance from friendly Juarez, Mexico. In a wild one . . . LSU 38-31.

Peach Bowl - Iowa State (8-3) favored by 21/2 over North Carolina State (7-4): The Cyclones from the Big Eight Con-ference finally got a bowl invitation after being overlooked a year ago. It's up to them to make the most of it . . . Iowa

Bluebonnet Bowl - Southern California (7-4) favored by 4 over Texas A&M (7-3): In John McKay's last college game, USC embarrassed A&M 20-0 in the 1975 Liberty Bowl. McKay is gone — he finally won another game last Sunday when Tampa Bay knocked off New Orleans — but the Aggies haven't forgotten . . . Texas A&M 28-21.

Rose Bowl — Michigan (10-1) favored by 13½ over Washington (7-4): Are you aware that Michigan basn't wan its final game since beating Obio State 17-3 in 1906. Since then, the Wolverines have dropped three Rose Bowls, one Orange Bowl and are 0-4-1 when they closed out with regular season wind-ups. Time for a change . . Michigan 38-14.

Sugar Bowl — Alabama (10-1) favored by 1% over Obio State (9-2): In combined victories, no coaching match-up in history — in a bowl or anywhere else — can match Alabama a's Bear Bryant (272) vs. Ohio State's Woody Hayes (201).
Even Woody has to play second fiddle to the Bear . . . Alabama 24-14.

Orange Bowl — Oklahoma (10-1) favored by 13 over Arkansas (10-1): Why the large spread between a pair of 10-1 teams? While Arkansas was struggling to beat Texas Tech 17-14 in its last game, Oklahoma was drubbing Nebrasia 30-7, after bombing Colorado 52-14, after crushing Oklahoma 27-

Cotton Bowl — Texas (11-0) favored by 64s over Notre Dame (10-1): If Texas wins, the Longhorns are the intional champs. That would be too cut-and-dried. If Notre Dame wins, however, imagine all the fun when the final AP poll-comes out. The controversy might last forever . . . Notre WICHITA, Kan. (AP) - Adolph Rupp was introduced to basketball, the game he helped revolutionize, nearly 70 years ago on a hard-packed dirt court outside a one-room country school near his parents' Kansas farm home.

Players wore long underwear and overalls to survive the games with other rural schools in those hard Kansas winters, recalled one of Rupp's grade school and high school teammates, Glen Lehman. Once a year, Lehman said, the kids would promote a box supper to raise

University of Kentucky. Rupp died Saturday night at the age of 76 and was buried Tuesday in Lexington, Ky., almost a thousand miles-and more than a thousand games-removed from his birthplace in Halstead, Kan., 30 miles porth of Wichita. The country school house was converted years ago into a farm home. The old Halstead High School that Rupp attended has been torn down and replaced by a new building. And the old City Hall building where he played in high school-coping with a low ceiling and a hot air register in the middle of the floor-is gone to

al" even then. "I remember once I had a nosebleed and the coach was going to put in a sub,' he said. "Dolph wouldn't let him. Dolph wasn't exactly tall. About a little over six feet. But he'd make as many as 10 baskets a game." Lehman, a retired school teacher now living in Newton, Kan., played guard and Rupp was the center. The team's other guard, Eugene Thornhill, is a retired barber living in Hutchinson, Kan., and one of its two substitutes, Charles Sayler, is a retired journalist living in Dodge City. The others are dead.

None of the three said in interviews Tuesday that they thought then that Rupp would develop into the man immortalized as "the Baron of Basketball."

"He was a pretty determined sort of guy," Thornhill said. "He was always ambitious. He was a pretty good politician, he knew how to work things and get things done."

When he went to the University of Kansas, Rupp took courses in accounting and business, recalled Sayler, who roomed with him in Lawrence with some other Halstead classmates. "He said that was good for anything he was going to do," Sayler said.

Thornhill added, "I always figured he'd go into coaching some time of the other. He seemed to know more about it than any of us." And that, recalled Lehman, included the high school team's coach.

Halstead High played the likes of Sedgwick and Burrton. Basketball was a popular sport in the small farming commun ty, whose high school team twice won the state title several years before Rupp attended the school.

"Height didn't count so much in those days," Thornhill said. "We worked the ball in, we didn't do dunking like they do nowadays. And we didn't depend so much on one man all the time." Players also kept a low trajectory on their shots since the ceiling of the City Hall building was only two feet above the backboards. Sedgwick's home court was an old store building with a hot potbelly stove near one sideline and Burrton played in an old garage with a cement floor, so things could have been worse. Halstead's home court also came with a city marshal who often forgot to turn on the water heater for the showers in the basement, Sayler recalled. Rupp went into coaching after graduating from Kansas, where he played for the legendary Phog Allen, and his hometown high school teammates went their sepa-

What's Causing Rise In Sports Violence?

"Boys will be boys" is an axiom in sports that is now as outmoded as highbutton shoes and doilies on the back of grandfather's rocking chair.

In professional sports, boys are not boys any more. They are 7 feet tall and weigh 260 pounds — crosses between giraffes and bears — and they don't come to play any more. They come to destroy.

When they come into contact, even accidentally, it is like two locomotives crashing head-on. When they deliberately tee off on one another — as in two cases this year in the National Basketball Association — injury can be calamatous.

Violence in sports? Why its resurg-ence? What has triggered it? Where does it go from here?

"We are deeply concerned about the root causes," says Larry O'Brien, com-missioner of the NBA. "We worry that violence on the floor can have serious side effects, escalating into fan involve-ment. The situation is intolerable. We have set up a special committee of play-

O'Brien acted decisively in the latest outbreak, imposing a record $10,000 fine and 60-day suspension on the Los Angeles Lakers' Kermit Washington for his attack on Rudy Tomjanovich of the Houston Rockets in a brawl last Friday night in Earlier he had fined the Lakers' Ka-reem Abdul-Jabbar $5,000 for blind-siding Kent Benson of the Milwaukee Bucks. Kareem broke his right hand in the process. The commissioner suspended Adrian Dantley, when he was with the Indiana Pacers, for three days for pursuing Dave Meyers of the Bucks into the dressing room after a skirmish. "This is of special concern to us because basketball, unlike football and hockey, is not a collision sport," O'Brien added. "Our fellows don't wear protec-

The latest brawl bordered on the critiinvolved in a fight with Houston's 7-foot Kevin Kunnert, wheeled to strike the onrushing Tomjanovich. The latter suffered a double fracture of the jaw, a broken Football and ice hockey, by their very nature, breed violence but both the NHL and NFL have launched crusades against excessive roughness. Yet high-sticking, piling on and cheap shots continue on the ice and turf almost unabated.

Seattle Slew Cops Top Horse Award

NEW YORK (AP) - "He's just doing super," says Mickey Taylor of Seattle Slew who stands today as the Horse of the Year for 1977 on the basis of a relatively short but super campaign. There was criticism from some quarters about the fact that Seattle Slew raced only once after his march to the Triple Crown and was a badly beaten fourth in that race July 3.

"We thought that he deserved it," said Taylor, who co-owns Seattle Slew with Dr. Jim Hill, after the 3-year-old colt won the Eclipse Award for Horse of the Year Tuesday, beating out Forego who had won the honor the three previous years. next year he'll show that it was the right vote. Slew edged Martha L. Gerry's Forego 105½ to 84½ in voting by members of the National Turf Writers Association, the Daily Racing Form and the Thoroughbred Racing Associations. Seattle Slew now has won three Eclipse Awards in two years of racing. He also was named 3-year-old champion over Loblolly Stable's Cox's Ridge and was 2year-old champion in 1976. While Forego had his string of Horse of the Year Awards snapped, the 7-year-old g iding once again was voted the best 4year-old and up, besting Connie Ring's Crystal Water.

The 1-2 finishers in other divisions were 2-year-old colt or gelding — Louis Wolf-son's Affirmed and Calumet Farm's Alydar; 2-year-old filly - Randolph Wein-sier's Lakeville Miss and Jean-Luis Levesque's L'Alezane, Canada's Horse of the Year; 3-year-old filly — Calumet's Our Mims and Dan Galbreath's Cum Laudie Laurie; best filly or mare, 4 and up -B.J. Ridder's Cascapedia and George Weasel Jr.'s My Juliet; best sprinter -Mrs. Bertram Firestone's What A Summer and My Juliet:

Best grasss horse - Dana S. Bray Jr.'s 3-year-old Johnny D. and Ogden Mills Phipps' Majestic Light; best steeplechase or hurdle horse - Augustin Stable's Cafe Prince and Beverly R. Stein-

Oilers

CINCINNUTI (UPI) - If the Cincinnati Bengals are to make the playoffs, they must beat "one of the hottest teams in football" in the Houston Oilers, says Bengals' boss Bill Johnson.

If Cincy can win at Houston Sunday, they will travel to Denver to play the Broncos in an opening round playoff game Dec. 24. If the Bengals lose to the Oilers, the playoff berth goes to Pitts-

"Houston right now is one of the hot-test teams in football, so we have to get ready mentally as well as physically,' said Johnson.

The Oilers beat the Browns at Cleveland last weekend and Houston Coach Bum Phillips notes that a winning season is on the line this Sunday.

"By winning Sunday we finish 8-6," said Phillips. "We can't go to the playoffs, but we can prove we're as good as anybody else in the division. It would give us a win over all three of them -Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Cincinnati.

Houston almost beat the Bengals earlier this season, but bowed 13-10 in over-

Johnson says Houston quarterback Dan Pastorini and receiver Ken Burrough are two of the best in football.

"Pastorini has a very strong arm and can go deeper than the usual quarterhe said. "And Burrough is an amazing receiver because of his endurance. He can run a long route and come right back on the very next play and run

But the Bengals also have a hot quurterback in Ken Anderson, who passed for a season high 303 yards in directing last weekend's 17-10 win over Pittsburgh. "It was probably the finest game he's had as a Bengal," Johnson said of Anderson. "He was super, really super." After suffering a 2-4 record the early part of the season, Cincy has come on to win six of its last seven games.

Rockets-LA

HOUSTON (AP) - Added security measures are planned for tonight's National Basketball Association game between the Houston Rockets and Los Angeles Lakers in anticipation of fan reaction to Kermit Washington's one-punch fight last week with Houston's Rudy Tomianovich.

A Summit spokesman declined to say what security measures would be taken. "It may be an emotional game, but it won't be a violent one," the spokesman

Washington has been suspended 60 days without pay and fined $10,000 for decking Tomjanovich in a game last week in Los Angeles. Tomjanovich re-mains in a Los Angeles hospital with a fractured jaw, nose, skull and concus-

A spokesman for the NBA office in New York said Summit representatives have been in close contact with Jack Joyce, the league's director of scrurity. The NBA spokesman called the precautions extraordinary.

Washington punched Tomjanovich in the face as Tomjanovich came in to break up a fight between Washington and Rocket teammate Kevin Kunnert. Washington said he thought he was being attacked and didn't know it was Tomjanovich.

Tomjanovich, who talked Tuesday morning with Rocket guard Calvin Murphy, disputed Washington's story.

"Rudy said their eyes met just before the punch," Murphy said. "He said he should have know that Kermit was crazy and should have put his hands up." Murphy also said "He (Tomjanovich) told me the doctor said he was lucky to be alive.'

Landry-Cowboys

DALLAS (AP) - Tom Landry is refusing to play the "who-he-wants-in-theplayoffs game."

Either Chicago or Minnesota will meet the Dallas Cowboys in the first round of the National Conference playoffs Dec. 26 in Texas Stadium.

A writer slipped Landry - still groggy on only two hours sleep after a wild 42-35 victory over San Francisco Monday night - a sneak question at the Cowboy coach's weekly press conference Tues-

Would you prefer Chicago or Minnesota?" Landry was asked. Landry laughed off the question and then proceeded to list reasons why ei-

Raiders Begin Bowl Workouts

It will be Steve Sloan, not Rex Dockery, that will be directing matters today when Texas Tech officially begins workouts for its Dec. 23 battle with Florida State in the Tangerine Bowl. Sloan, who resigned Dec. 1 to assume the head coaching position at the University of Mississippi, will be in charge of the team for the bowl game, while Rex Dockery, Sloan's replacement at Tech, will resume the offensive coordinator duties he had under Sloan. The Raider players have been running and lifting weights the past several days, but preparation for the bowl game will begin in earnest today. The tasks of breaking down films and scouting Florida State started Tuesday.

Tech has not worked out as a team since its 17-14 loss to Arkansas Thanksgiving Day, nearly three weeks ago. The Raider staff is hopeful that the lengthy rest period allowed its injured players to recover. The 1977 campaign has been tough on Tech, injurywise.

The Raiders will practice today through Saturday before leaving early Sunday morning for Orlando, Fla. The contest will be played Friday at 7 p.m.

Chris Evert: Rumor False

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) -"There's nothing to it. It's not true," U.S. Open women's tennis champion Chris Evert told a tennis club employe, when asked about reports she had wed Jimmy Connors.

The sports worlds' best-known couple, when both were Wimbleton champions a few years ago, Miss Evert and Connors went their separate ways. But they have been vacationing together in Southern California this

"You guys write what you want, you started the story," Connors was quoted by the Los Angeles Times when asked about the marriage report.
"I'm not going to make any kind of statement now," he added.

Islander, Hawks Tie

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) - It was a red-hot team against a freezing cold one. The New York Islanders, who had lost just one of their last 14, met the Chicago Black Hawks, who had won just three of their last 17. Momentum mattered not at all. The Black Hawks and Islanders tied 2-2 in an admittedly lackluster contest.

"Both teams played bad," said Chicago Coach Bob Pulford. "Our team isn't skating well and we gave up the puck too much. I felt fortunate to get the tie."

Islanders Coach Al Arbour wasn't particularly thrilled with his team, either, "We're both usually close-checking but tonight it was a wide open game," said Arbour. "We try to stickhandle too much in our own zone.

Chicago, which trailed twice, pulled even at 2:16 of the third period when Jean Savard scored his seventh goal of the season. Seconds after Islanders goalie Bill Smith made key saves on Dale Tallon and Darcy Rota, Savard picked up the puck drove it in from close range.

Mike Bossy tipped a Pat Price shot past Black Hawks goalie Mike Veisor at 9:21 of the opening period. The goal was Bossy's 22nd of the year, pulling him even with Colorado's Paul Gardner for the National Hockey League lead.

In the other NHL games Tuesday night, the Colorado Rockies beat the Buffalo Sabres 41 and the Vancouver Canucks beat the Washington Capitals 3-1.

Rota tied it for Chicago at 7:10 of the second period, lifting a loose puck over the fallen Smith, but the Islanders went back in front at 14:21 of the period when Gerry Hart's shot glanced off the skate of J.P. Parise and into the net.

The tie was the second of the season between the teams. The other meeting ended in a 4-0 New York triumph last Wednesday night. Islanders center Bryan Trottier thought that game might have spurred the Black Hawks to a stronger performance Tuesday.
"They came at us because we did a job on them in Chicago," he said.

Pulford didn't exactly agree. "I thought we played better against them in losing 4-0 last week," he said. Rockies 4, Sabres 1

Blackhawks Win

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Jim McKenny scored at the 2:01 mark of overtime to give the Dallas Blackhawks a 4-3 victory over the Kansas City Red Wings in Central Hockey League action Tuesday night.
