

Top Demo Job Goes To White

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter today named John White, a shrewd and gregarious Texan, as his choice to run the debt-ridden Democratic party and told him the upcoming congressional election year will be "a good challenge."

Carter met with White, deputy secretary of agriculture, and Kenneth Curtis, who is quitting as party boss, in the Oval Office at the White House. The president shook hands with both men.

He thanked Curtis for his service to the party, and Curtis, a former governor of Maine, replied: "Thank you. I've enjoyed it very much." Carter told White he is appreciative of his efforts at the Agriculture Department. The president added: "This (new job) will be a good challenge in the future."

The 52-year-old White is a politician in the mold of astute, story-telling former chairman Robert Strauss of Texas. His selection as party chairman is expected to be formalized at a meeting of the Democratic National Committee on Jan. 21 in Atlanta.

The meeting will follow a Democratic fund-raising dinner. The affair will be one of several aimed at bailing the party out of the red. Carter has agreed to speak to at least five of the dinners, also designed to finance congressional candidates in the 1978 elections.

After meeting with Carter, White told reporters, "We recognize we have some things to do" within the party in 1978. He listed these as paying off the party debt, electing Democratic candidates for Congress and conducting an "affirmative and positive" party meeting next year.

Asked what he would do if other Democrats should challenge for the 1980 presidential nomination, White said: "We'll be fair." But he emphasized that personally he favors Carter's renomination and re-election.

Rescue Crew Finds Ninth Blast Victim

GALVESTON (UPI) — Rescuers and workers slowly moving tons of concrete and twisted metal with a giant crane today found the ninth victim of the third major grain elevator explosion in a week. Five persons still were missing.

Sgt. Raymond Perry, a Galveston County sheriff's department medical examiner, said two more bodies were found after rescue operations resumed today, bringing the total of confirmed dead to nine. He said three federal grain inspectors and two men who had been working near the elevator were missing and presumed dead.

The quick series of explosions at the Farmers Export Co. elevator Tuesday night injured another 20 persons. The blast was felt miles away.

"We're looking for bodies or survivors," said Galveston Fire Chief H.R. O'Donohoe. "It's company people, in there. They don't want any outsiders."

Rescue operations, delayed since before dawn by a lack of equipment, resumed at midmorning with arrival of a crane. Perry said rescue operations were "still at a very slow stage."

Officials said the blasts Tuesday night apparently began in a loading area near the wharf, tore through an underground tunnel connecting the grain elevator to the loading area, and ripped up the side of the silo.

A 200-yard area around the base of the grain silo was sealed by police. The FBI, already investigating the grain elevator explosion at Westwego, La., five days earlier which killed 35 persons, immediately will begin an investigation of the cause of the Galveston explosions.

Workers of the Farmers Export Co., operator of the elevator, handled the heavy and sometimes dangerous excavation work.

O'Donohoe said the cause of the explosions was not known, but that his department, law enforcement agencies, federal agencies and company investigators have started a "thorough investigation."

Tuesday's disaster was the third major grain elevator explosion in a week.

Both of the others were last Thursday. The most devastating was across the Mississippi River from New Orleans at the Continental Grain Company elevator. It killed 35 persons.

The other was at the Sunshine Mills and Grain Inc. elevator at Tupelo, Miss. It killed two and injured 17.

Henry Heckman of J. Heckman and Associates of Kansas City, Mo., arrived in Galveston to make a damage estimate.

Gene Poe, director of engineering for Galveston Wharves, the company with overall responsibility for the island city's shipping industry, said the elevator which exploded was built in 1976 at a cost of $27 million.

Poe said, "It is safe to assume the damage will be in the millions of dollars."

The shock of the Galveston explosion shattered plate glass windows in some buildings near the elevator and rattled windows and walls near downtown several blocks away.

"It looked like a bunch of silver metal fire, then there was a smoke cloud afterward. It looked like it was a hundred feet high at least," said John Larry Price, 34, of Galveston.

Ray Eirhart, 46, was working inside a

Moisture Forecast In Area

A-J News Services

Rain pelted California again today and not-so-welcome snow buried sections of the Northeast, as Old Man Winter finally fixed his fickle gaze on the South Plains. Weather conditions developing in the Southwest may bring West Texas precipitation during the next 36 hours and again this weekend.

And although the idea for a little South Plains moisture seemed to be a form of justice to the water-deprived area, the amounts forecast were skimpy and chances slim.

Weathermen venture a 30 percent chance for small amounts of rain Thursday. Tonight's likelihood for precipitation was set at 20 percent.

Forecasters said moisture chances will be enhanced by a weak upper level weather system moving eastward out of the Southwest. The system is expected to move into eastern New Mexico later today and over the South Plains by Thursday.

And even if showers fail to materialize in the area tonight and Thursday, there's still a possibility for the weekend. The long range forecast for West Texas calls for a chance of rain developing over most sections through Sunday.

Most of the state's rain today should land in the southern areas, where scattered showers were reported this morning. Corpus Christi's .05 of an inch this morning was the state's largest precipitation reading so far today.

But clouds — with or without precipitation — will blanket the state today, and warmer temperatures mostly will hit the 40s and 50s. Panhandle temperatures should range about 40 degrees below the predicted 80-degree weather in parts of South Texas.

Forecasters set Lubbock's top reading today near 90 degrees with overnight lows falling to the low 30s.

Thursday's highs may reach the mid-50s. Winds of 5-10 mph and varying in direction are expected here today and tonight.

Sadat, Begin Chill Hopes

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister Menahem Begin declared today he "will not surrender" to international pressure to accept Egypt's peace terms. In Cairo, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat said he would "definitely not" agree to a continued Israeli military presence on the West Bank or continued Israeli control of East Jerusalem.

"It is clear to me that we have adopted the correct road to peace... there is no doubt that the only way to peace is the path chosen by the government," Begin told the Israeli parliament, or Knesset.

"We have done our share. We have made our contribution. Now it is the turn of the other side."

He said he had support from President Carter, congressional leaders and the American public, and was not expecting any pressure from them to change the plan.

"Even if there was pressure, it would be to no avail," Begin said. "We are used to pressure and we will not surrender."

Begin outlined for the first time in public the plan he presented to Sadat in Ismailia on Christmas day. It calls for Palestinian self-rule on the West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip, and a continued Israeli military presence in the territories.

Sadat's counter-proposals call for a Palestinian state in the West Bank and Gaza.

Sadat today told an Associated Press reporter in Cairo that Egypt would not agree to the presence of Israeli security forces on the West Bank. "The security of the area should be in the hands of the people living in the area," he said.

He also said he would not accept limits on Egyptian troop movements in the Sinai desert under any peace plan. Begin's proposals would restrict Egyptian forces to the western Sinai.

The Egyptian leader said his country is willing to discuss both issues in the joint Israeli-Egyptian military and political committees that begin talks next month to try to resolve differences.

At a news conference earlier today, Sadat said any Middle East peace agreement must return East Jerusalem to Arab sovereignty.

"No one in the Arab world — Moslem or Christian — will agree to Israeli sovereignty upon the Arab section of Jerusalem," he said.

Begin's plan would provide for free access to holy places but does not mention the return of East Jerusalem to the Arabs.

As Begin spoke to the Knesset, about 200 demonstrators from the Israeli town of Yamit, in the occupied Sinai, protested outside the building. The residents fear their town will be in Egyptian territory after Israel withdraws from Sinai.

Sadat had reported some progress on Israeli withdrawal from Sinai, but he and Begin are deeply divided over the Palestinian issue. The Knesset will vote on Begin's plan, and despite some opposition in the ranks of Begin's own Likud Party, he seemed certain to get a majority.

Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan was at his accustomed seat in the Knesset after a mysterious absence on Tuesday. Israeli press reports said today he flew secretly to Iran to report to the shah on Mideast developments and seek his influence in drawing Jordan into the peace talks.

In his remarks before the Knesset, Begin clearly implied that the plan made major concessions and was a fitting reply to Sadat's breakthrough visit to Jerusalem last month, where he called on Israel to make "hard decisions."

But Begin added the autonomy plan did not mean Israel was relinquishing its claim to sovereignty over the West Bank and Gaza.

"We have a rightful claim to this part of the land of Israel," he said. "It is our land."

But he acknowledged that both Jordan and the Palestinians had conflicting claims to the same land.

For that reason, Begin said, Israel was suggesting that the question of sovereignty over the West Bank and Gaza remain open until the claims can be resolved.

"If these conflicting claims remain, and if there is no answer to this conflict, an agreement will not be possible with the Arab states," Begin said.

Referring to opposition by some members of his own party who say his plan gives away too much, Begin said, "One has to accept the responsibilities" of office and that he would stand fast against attack.

In his address to parliament, Begin said

Judge Hears Arkansas Grid Case

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A hearing today into the suspension of three Arkansas Razorback football players from the Orange Bowl centered around an attorney general's opinion which said it was up to Coach Lou Holtz to make the decision.

Attorney John W. Walker, representing the three offensive players, told U.S. District Court Judge Terry L. Shell he wanted to question the staffer who wrote the opinion.

An attorney general's opinion has no standing in law other than as legal advice to state government agencies.

The opinion was presented last week during an administrative hearing at Fayetteville into Holtz's decision to suspend running backs Ben Cowins and Micheal Forrest and flanker Donny Bobo from the Jan. 2 post-season classic at Miami.

The opinion said it was within Holtz's discretion to determine the composition of the team.

Holtz suspended the three last week after an alleged dormitory incident at Fayetteville involving a woman.

Walker wanted to know who issued the opinion, but Ray Trammel, the university's attorney, objected that it wasn't relevant to the case.

However, Shell recessed the hearing so the attorney general's office representative who wrote the opinion could be located.

Ellen Brantley of the attorney general's office, which is assisting the university in the case, said a coach had only certain measures of discipline and that if the court second-guessed Holtz's decision it "would harm discipline on the team."

She said maintenance of discipline is one thing parents consider when they are choosing a school for their child.

Walker said Holtz's decision was based on no written rule, and that rules must be reasonably ascertainable and not as "nebulous as doing right on the football team."

School Desegregation In City Linked To Earlier Decisions

By JEFF SOUTH
Avalanche-Journal Staff
The future of student assignment in Lubbock schools may well be determined by developments, some several years ago, in such places as Denver, Austin, Cincinnati and Dayton.

Those cities, among others, have been involved in major court decisions on school desegregation in the 1970s.

And those decisions frequently have been cited by the federal government and Lubbock Independent School District as pertinent to issues of racial imbalance here.

A reading of the cited cases, numbering in the dozens, shows the involvement of legal principles since the U.S. Supreme Court, in its 1954 ruling on Brown vs. Board of Education of Topeka, Kan., outlawed segregation of black pupils.

The various decisions suggest, first of all, how courts have differed in their application of such principles. For every case cited by the U.S. Justice Department in its push for a comprehensive desegregation plan here, Lubbock school attorneys have been able to find at least one other decision supporting their argument to maintain the status quo.

Also, each court ruling itself seems to have a tinge of ambiguity.

In fact, both the Justice Department and school district often draw upon the same case to bolster their opposed views of school desegregation in Lubbock.

Here is a rundown of the major court decisions U.S. District Judge Halbert O. Woodward has been asked to ponder in deciding Lubbock's dispute:

Hightower vs. West, decided in 1970 by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, set the standard for the limited school desegregation plan Woodward ordered here seven years ago.

Under Hightower, the Justice Department was required to prove the existence of illegal segregation at individual schools, and remedies were to address only those schools found to be remnants of a "dual system."

Also, the Hightower ruling gave Woodward the discretion to keep minority elementary school attendance zones intact, provided that overt segregative practices have ceased and that junior and senior high schools have been desegregated.

That is precisely what Woodward did. He expanded the attendance zones of Dunbar High and Struggs Junior High, previously all-black schools. But he left untouched elementary schools, even MONTCOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Testimony on Cornelia Wallace's charges that her husband, Gov. George C. Wallace, committed violence against her will be heard behind closed doors when the couple's divorce case goes to trial Jan. 4.

However, Circuit Judge Joseph D. Phelps ruled Tuesday that matters relating to financial matters — alimony, support and property division — will be heard in open court.

In his divorce petition, Wallace, 58, cited "incompatibility" and an "irretrievable breakdown" of the couple's six-year marriage.

In Mrs. Wallace's petition, she accused her husband of "cruelty and actual violence" — without specifying the nature the acts involved.

Evangelist Pledges Funds

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham has pledged $10,000 to the newly formed Maranatha Baptist Church, which split from the Plains Baptist Church, once attended by President Carter.

"We're quite proud," state Sen. Hugh Carter, the president's cousin, said Tuesday. "We've asked many people for donations, but this is by far the biggest we've received."

He said Maranatha has collected $32,000 toward its goal of $250,000 to build the new church and landscape property. The new church's 55 members meet in a run-down former Lutheran church.

Maranatha was established last May after about 30 members of Plains Baptist left in a controversy over a whites-only admission policy.

Hugh Carter said Tuesday the racial matter was "overemphasized" by the news media, although it did "bring to the surface some long-time jealousies in the community."

He said Maranatha and Plains Baptist "have an open door (admission) policy." However, he said no blacks have applied to the new church.

Crime Doesn't Pay

HOUSTON (AP) — Scott Sullivan, 29, was surprised when he heard someone talking in his fireplace.

"Hey, anybody out there? I'm in the chimney," a man's voice said. Sullivan said the man explained he had climbed into the chimney to burglarize the house but got stuck. He called the fire department.

"They didn't believe me, so I called police," Sullivan said.

The police didn't believe him either, Sullivan said, but decided to investigate after calling back to confirm the report. Investigators arrived and called firemen again, who removed a 20-year-old, soot-covered man from the chimney.

"I was just walking along and thought I'd climb in and try to burglarize the house," the man told investigators, adding that he had never tried anything like it before and had no plans to try again.

Police said burglary charges would be filed.

First Suit Filed In Grain Blast

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The grain elevator explosion that killed at least 34 persons near here has produced its first damage lawsuit — one seeking $2.9 million for a critically burned survivor.

Cranes and bulldozers scratched through broken concrete and steel today in a search for the body of a missing man whose death would raise the toll from last week's explosion to 35. Those who know why the huge Continental Grain Co. elevator exploded may be among the dead, but the federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration still hopes to find clues that will tell them exactly how it happened.

"We have to work from interviews with witnesses, statements from survivors, reports from plant officials," said Marvin Schierman, OSHA area director. "Any direct evidence of what triggered the explosion probably went up with the blast."

"Washington has told us that if we need anybody or anything to further this investigation, any special expertise or whatever, all I have to do is ask," Schierman added.

Ten survivors remained in hospitals today. A lawsuit seeking damages was filed Tuesday on behalf of one of them, Joey Patterson of River Ridge, against Continental. The suit was filed in state district court.

Schierman said OSHA agents wanted to talk to the injured shortly after the Dec. 22 blast, but that hospital officials would not allow interviewing to begin until Tuesday.

"Our best hope is to find somebody who can give us an inkling of what happened, one that we can corroborate and then begin a process of elimination," said Schierman. "I expect it will be very, very difficult. It may take weeks, months."

The Continental elevator with a capacity of six million bushels, had 73 silos, each 130 feet high. At the front of the line of silos stood the "head house," 250 feet high, where operators mixed and controlled the flow of grain pouring onto a big conveyor belt. The conveyor extended from the top of the head house across the levee, and dumped grain into the hold of ships moored at the dock.

Under certain conditions, grain dust is as volatile as gunpowder and can be set off by a spark.

A spark from some unknown source ignited a blast that ripped the top off the head house and 43 of the silos. Tons of rubble buried a two-story control building and lunchroom beside the head house.

Most of the bodies were retrieved from the control building. Late Tuesday, most of the ground around the grain elevator had been cleared of debris, and cleanup crews began concentrating on silos that were left partially standing.

Wheat Forecast High In 1977

By RODERICK TURNBULL, Kansas City Board Of Trade

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — World wheat production in 1977 didn't turn out quite as large as had been estimated early in the year but international trading is running a little better than anticipated.

This is the way the International Wheat Council in London summed up the situation as 1977 was drawing to a close.

The net result of lower production and greater trade is that carryover stocks in the five major exporting nations will be smaller than had been expected earlier, but ironically, the great bulk of these remaining stocks will be in the United States and almost all of them in North America (the United States and Canada).

The major exporters are the United States, Canada, Australia, Argentina and the European Economic Community.

But, all in all, the situation for American producers is better than it appeared it might be in early summer. Also, this is one year when a situation already difficult at least didn't continue to get worse.

The Wheat Council, which draws on the world for its information, puts world wheat production in 1977 at 383 million metric tons (just over 14 billion bushels).

A month or so ago, the council was estimating world production at 385 to 390 million tons and in the late summer and early fall, the estimate ran as high as from 390 to 400 million tons.

Last year, world production in wheat attained a new record at 417.9 million tons, so the figure for this year falls 8 percent under that record. Still, it would be the second largest crop in history.

The council, incidentally, still called its estimate a forecast. Harvesting was still in progress in the Southern Hemisphere.

The major reductions in wheat yields occurred in the Soviet Union, Argentina and Australia.

After the Soviet Union made its official announcement that the USSR grain crop would total only 194 million tons, the council, as did the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA), lowered its estimate of the Soviet wheat crop to 90 million tons. Previously, the Council had put the Soviet crop in a range of from 95 to 100 million tons.

The Argentina crop is now estimated at 6.5 million tons, down 40 percent from last year while the Australian Wheat Board is saying its harvest will total 9.3 million tons, compared with 11.8 million tons last year. The USDA is estimating the Australian crop at 9 million tons.

The council is estimating world trade in wheat in 1977-78 at 69 to 71 million tons, which is about a million tons larger than an estimate made a month earlier. If the current estimate of 69 to 71 million tons is achieved, it will be substantially above the 61.3 million tons traded last year and also will exceed the previous record of 68.3 million tons set in 1972-73.

It will be recalled that 1972-73 was the year that shook up the world on grain trade. It was the year of the huge Soviet purchases.

But, if the record is broken this marketing year, which is the logical prospect currently, it probably will be accomplished with little or no consternation. The difference between 1972-73 and 1977-78 is on the supply side rather than on demand.

The closing stocks, or carryovers, at the end of their prospective crop years in the five major exporting countries are projected by the council at 51.6 million tons, some 3.4 million tons less than estimated on November 1, and 2.7 million tons below the levels of the 1976-77 carryovers.

Out of the 51.6 million-ton carryover in the major exporting countries, the United States may account for 31.1 million tons, compared with a carryover of 30.2 million tons last year. In other words, the carryover will be rising a little in America.

In all other countries it will be smaller, for Argentina 0.4 million tons, against 2.1 million tons last year; Australia 0.5 million tons, against 2.1 million tons last year; Canada 12.5 million tons, compared with 13.4 million tons last year, and the European Economic Community 7.1 million tons, as compared with 7.5 million tons last year.

The council notes that in the United States there is an expectation for an increase in demand for U.S. wheat because the other exporters are largely already committed. Therefore, any new demand likely would be filled from American supplies.

In recent months, the council in its reports has been putting added emphasis on coarse grain production as well as wheat. It now estimates world production of these grains (rye, corn, barley, oats, sorghum, millet and mixed grains) at 665 million tons, slightly less than the 1976 record of 690 million tons.

Using USDA figures for its projection, it estimates world trade in coarse grains at 80 million tons, 2.2 million tons over an earlier estimate. However, closing stocks or carryovers the world over, excluding the Soviet Union and China, were put at 75 million tons, an increase of 18 million tons over the previous year.

U.S. Space Agency Rejects Request For Probe Of UFOs

By HOWARD BENEDICT

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's space agency has turned down a White House request to reopen a government probe into unidentified flying objects because it says there is no tangible evidence on which to base a study.

Such a probe would be "wasteful and probably unproductive," the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said in a letter to President Carter's science adviser, Dr. Frank Press.

But NASA Administrator Robert Frosch said his agency stands ready to examine any "bona fide physical evidence from credible sources."

"If some new element of hard evidence is brought to our attention, it would be entirely appropriate for a NASA laboratory to analyze and report upon an otherwise unexplained organic or inorganic sample," Frosch said in the letter, sent last week.

Press said he accepted NASA's conclusions and would not pursue the matter further.

The science adviser last July asked NASA to become the government's focal point in a "national revival" of interest in reports of UFO sightings. He recommended the agency set up a panel of inquiry to take up where the Air Force left off in 1969 when it closed its UFO investigation, Project Blue Book.

After 22 years of study and considerable expense, the Air Force concluded that, in the absence of significant findings, continuation of the project was unwarranted.

Press said in July that his office was receiving an upsurge in letters, mostly from young people, asking about UFOs. He assigned NASA the task of answering them, saying his staff was too small.

Many of the recent letters, averaging two or three a day, have been inspired by the popular new UFO movie, "Close Encounters of the Third Kind." Several demand that Carter make good on a campaign promise that if there were any secrets about UFOs he would flush them out.

Carter reported in 1973, while governor of Georgia, that several years earlier he had seen a UFO in the form of a "glowing light" in the night sky over his home state.

Frosch wrote Press that a NASA technical group had carefully considered the UFO request. "I do not feel that we would mount a research effort without a better starting point than we have been able to identify thus far," he added.

"There is an absence of tangible or physical evidence available for thorough laboratory analysis," he said. "I would therefore propose that NASA take no steps to establish a research activity in this area or to convene a symposium on this subject."

Frosch said the action does not indicate that NASA "has come to any conclusion about these phenomena as such. Institutionally, we retain an open mind, a keen sense of scientific curiosity, and a willingness to analyze technical problems within our capability."

Stanton T. Friedman, a nuclear physicist and lecturer on UFOs, called the NASA action "incredible."

"I'm at a loss to understand the ignorance of NASA not to pursue the study of UFOs," he said. "There have been over 60,000 reported UFO sightings, and certainly some of these would be worthy of computer analysis."

Unwed Father's Rights Upheld

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The right of unwed fathers to seek custody of their children has been upheld by the Missouri Court of Appeals.

The appellate court ruling on Tuesday overturned a ruling by St. Louis County Juvenile Court Judge Ninian Edwards. The lower court judge had denied the man the right to intervene in adoption proceedings begun by the child's mother shortly after the child's birth in May 1976, the court said.

Since the birth, the court added, the father has demanded custody, and has arranged visits to a foster home, where the child was placed under custody of the Missouri Division of Family Services.

"Today, sex roles are becoming increasingly flexible and an increasing number of unmarried fathers are both willing and capable of being competent parents," the court ruled. "Moreover, an increasing number of illegitimate children live with their unmarried fathers."

Judge Theodore McMillian, who wrote the appellate court's decision, cited laws in 38 states which recognize unwed fathers' parental rights.

Trains Ram Together In Subway

NEW YORK (AP) — A subway motorman who apparently "blacked out" drove his train at 10 mph into the rear of a second train stopped at a midtown Manhattan station early today, injuring about 30 of the 300 passengers aboard the two trains, police reported.

Most of the injuries appeared to be minor. Some of the injured were treated at Roosevelt, St. Clare's, Bellevue and Lenox Hill hospitals, but none of the hospitals reported any of the injured being admitted.

The Transit Authority blamed a "human problem," and said the cause of the crash was under investigation.

A city police spokesman, however, said the motorman of an "F" train apparently "blacked out," causing his train to hit an "E" train stopped in the IND line station at 53rd Street and Fifth Avenue about 5:15 a.m.

"We were riding along and all of a sudden there was this big bang," a passenger on one of the trains, Antonio Montalvo, 42, of Hempstead, N.Y., told the New York Post. "I let out a yell. I smashed my head on the partition. There was a man in the car. His face was all bloody."

A Transit Authority spokesman said the motorman, identified as E.A. Foy, was treated at St. Clare's Hospital and released. He was taken to authority headquarters in Brooklyn, for a doctor to examine him, the spokesman said. Other details about the motorman and his condition were not known, the spokesman added.

The Transit Authority estimated that the "F" train was traveling at about 10 mph when it hit the rear of the other train. Damage to the trains appeared to be slight, mostly broken glass, and they later left the station under their own power.

"The 'E' train was supposed to be in the station, the 'F' train was not," said Patrick Roach, the Transit Authority's acting superintendent of transportation.

"F" service was rerouted onto "GG" tracks for more than an hour, going directly to Brooklyn and bypassing Manhattan completely, the authority said. "E" trains had been halted in Queens and returned to Jamaica.

Queens-bound trains were not affected, the authority spokesman said.

Normal service was restored by 6:30 a.m., he said, in time to handle the brunt of the morning rush hour.

Local Students Offered $300 Scholarships

Graduates of Lubbock's five public high schools seeking a career in education may be eligible for a $300 scholarship from the Lubbock Classroom Teachers Association, according to Glenna Burns, chairman of the association's scholarship committee.

Local high school graduates who are majoring in education and who have completed their sophomore year of college are invited to apply for one of the five scholarships awarded annually by the association, Mrs. Burns said.

To be eligible, she said, applicants must have an acceptable grade point average in college, intend to teach in an elementary or secondary school and have been graduated from Lubbock, Dunbar, Coronado, Monterey or Estacado high schools.

Counselors in the five senior high schools have application forms. Forms also are available at the teachers association office in Room 5 of Overton Elementary School, 2901 Louisville Ave.

Completed application forms must be returned to high school counselors by Feb. 18. Five $300 scholarships will be awarded.

WHERE HELICOPTER CRASHED — A portion of a Quincy, Mass., apartment building was in ruins Tuesday after a radio station traffic helicopter crashed through the roof and exploded. The pilot and reporter were killed. At least four tenants of the building were injured. (AP Laserphoto)

Helicopter Crash Shatters Crisp, Peaceful Morning

QUINCY, Mass. (AP) — Lynn Michelson had just finished feeding her 10-week-old daughter and returned to bed. On the floor above her in the three-story, brick suburban apartment building, Julia Verga was dressed and ready to leave.

Outside in the crisp winter sky, the traffic helicopter from Boston radio station WEEI, which moments before reported traffic a "lot lighter than usual," went into an erratic dive and crashed through the roof of the apartment building on Station Street, bursting into a ball of flame in Mrs. Verga's apartment.

WEEI reporter Henry "Chip" Whitmore, 29, of Boston, and Richard "Red" Bank, 58, of Marlboro, the chief inspector of the Massachusetts Aeronautics Commission, were killed in the crash Tuesday morning.

Whitmore was reporting on rush hour traffic conditions on the Southeast Expressway, a major artery for thousands of commuters from suburbs south of Boston. He and Bank were filling in for Kevin O'Keefe, who was vacationing, and ordinarily does the job alone.

Cause of the crash was not known immediately. Eyewitnesses said the craft looked out of control, and one reported the helicopter was upside down for a few moments before it crashed. The National Transportation Safety Board started an investigation.

Upstairs from Mrs. Michelson, 26, and her husband, Ronald, 28, Mrs. Verga, 62, was sent reeling from her apartment after the helicopter dove through her bedroom before crashing to the floor below. All three are being treated for severe burns at local hospitals. Mrs. Verga was listed in critical condition at University Hospital. The Michelsons were on the danger list in fair condition at Quincy City Hospital. Their infant daughter escaped with only minor injuries and was released in the custody of her grandmother.

Dr. Anthony Dragone, who treated the Michelsons, said the couple told him a flaming beam fell on their bed. "They pushed it off, ran into the other bedroom, picked the baby up and got out of the apartment."

U.S. Jewish Group Sets Demonstration

NEW YORK (AP) — Rabbi Meir Kahane says he and other members of the militant Jewish Defense League will demonstrate in Israel next week against the Prime Minister Menahem Begin's latest peace proposals.

Kahane, in a speech outside the Israeli consulate Tuesday, said he was opposed to Begin's proposal to grant autonomy to Arabs living on the West Bank of the Jordan, the Gaza Strip and the Golan Heights.

Begin has said Israel will not yield sovereignty over some of the occupied territories, but favors abolishing military rule there while maintaining an Israeli military presence, at least for now.

As Kahane spoke, about 18 members of the National Union of Jewish Activists marched with placards reading: "Jewish land is Jewish blood," "Sadat is a liar" and "Sinai is Jewish, no retreat."

Treaty Critics To Visit Panama

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two conservative Republicans critical of the Panama Canal treaties are spending two days in the Canal Zone talking to people likely to agree with their criticisms.

Sens. Robert Dole of Kansas and Paul Laxalt of Nevada were scheduled to fly today from Washington to Panama. An aide to Dole, the 1976 GOP candidate for vice president, said the pair had no plans to meet with officials of the Panamanian government.

"During the two-day visit, they (Dole and Laxalt) expect to visit U.S. military installations in the Canal Zone and discuss the future defense capabilities for the Panama Canal with members of the While in the U.S.-controlled Canal Zone, Dole and Laxalt will view the American-built waterway as well as visit the locks and talk with canal employees.

A defense briefing is planned and the pair will tour the American military bases and discuss the recently signed Panama canal treaties with members of the zone's American Legion post.

Savings for a rainy day makes good sense at Plains.

Everybody talks about the weather. And when it rains on the Southern High Plains that's really something to talk about.

Everybody talks about saving some money for the future. For the children's college expenses. For a special vacation. For emergencies. For security. But, like the weather, talking about savings doesn't cause anything to happen.

Plains National Bank can help you make something happen about your savings. With passbook savings accounts and certificates of deposit. Both pay the highest interest permitted by law. We'll even draft your checking account monthly to help you automatically set aside a portion of your earnings for that future need.

Next time you want to talk about the weather, talk to your rain maker. Next time you want to talk about savings, talk to Plains National Bank.

Paul Robeson: His Own Victim

WASHINGTON—James Earl Jones is in town at the National Theater, playing the title role in "Paul Robeson."
Interviewing Jones the other day on a local noontime TV news show, his questioner referred to Robeson as a "1950s victim of the Communist hunt in this country because he professed sympathy for the Russian people."

"Paul Robeson, to my knowledge, was a member of the Communist Party for many, many years."
In the Negro commission of the National Committee of the Communist Party we were told never to reveal that Robeson was a member of the Communist Party, because his assignment

All 'Our' Children

WHILE HOMOSEXUALS and radicals have been attracting most of the attention, a far more serious and pervasive threat to the social and economic fabric of family life in America has been at work.

The Carnegie Council on Children, established five years ago by the Carnegie Corp., has issued the first of six reports in book form calling for government programs and taxes to "supplement" parental rights and responsibilities in rearing children.

Headed by psychologist Kenneth Keniston, who wrote three books sympathetically examining the youth rebellion of the 1960s, the Council recommends scrapping "traditional American views" about the family.
AS A WOLF IN sheep's clothing, the Council wraps its socialistic recommendations in the rhetoric of a guardian of the family role, which it distinctly is not as I read a report about its work in the Carnegie Quarterly.

Paul Scott:

Will Only Pagan Signs Remain?

WASHINGTON—Signs and symbols mark the direction one travels in life. This is also true with nations, great or small, and their people.
Located on the ellipse near the White House during the holiday season, The Nativity scene has been a sign of the great religious and Christian heritage of the nation and the true meaning of Christmas to all believers.
The life-size scene of the birth of Christ, with a recorded narration of the Christmas story, has been viewed and heard by millions of visitors to the annual Christmas Pageant of Peace.

LIKE PRAYER IN the nation's schools, The Nativity scene is about to become the victim of apathy, a mounting financial deficit and legal action by those that do not see the destiny of this country linked closely to the beliefs and values of the Christianity.
Begun in 1954 by the National Park Service, The Nativity scene was eliminated from the Pageant of Peace in 1973 by a U.S. District Court decision on the grounds that it violated the separation of church and state.
The Nativity scene, however, was continued as an adjunct to the Pageant of Peace by the American Christian Heritage Association (ACHA).

PLAGUED BY DEFICITS the last four years (more than $8,000), public apathy toward the court decision, and a lack of participation by Churches and citizens across the nation, Barkdoll reports the bad news as follows:
"Our group has come to the sad determination that people really don't care of the most significant Christian event in our history is remembered in conjunction with the Christmas Pageant of Peace."
"The Government will continue to present the pageant replete with the pagan symbols of Christmas—the yule log, Christmas tree and Santa Claus—but with the close of the 1977 Pageant of Peace, The Nativity and the Prince of Peace will go the way of so many of our traditions."

PAUL'S ASSIGNMENT was to work among the intellectuals, the professionals, and artists the party was seeking to penetrate and influence along Communist lines...
"AS FAR AS Paul Robeson's membership in the Communist Party, of that I have not one iota of doubt."
In 1952, Robeson was awarded the Stalin "Peace" Prize, an honor reserved for those who rendered exceptionally distinguished service to the U.S.S.R.

WHEN ROBESON DIED in January 1976, Henry Winston and Gus Hall, the national chairman and general secretary, respectively, of the U.S. Communist Party, issued a joint statement for the party's Central Committee, which praised Robeson, in part, as "a devoted practitioner of the social science of the liberation of the oppressed peoples and emancipation of the working class—Marxism-Leninism."
No, Paul Robeson felt no sympathy for the Soviet people. He may have said he did. But anyone who supported and praised the viciously oppressive system of government that terrorized the Soviet masses could not have possibly felt any such sympathy.

relatively rare instances where the well-being of the child is threatened."
"We believe therefore that services should be organized as close to the individual family level as possible," he adds.

THE CARNEGIE Council proposes to implement its recommendations through new social programs and tax "reforms" that would transfer income from the wealthy and middle-income families to the poor families.
"The Council estimates that the total needed would be something in the range of $40 to $50 billion more than the current tax system collects," the Carnegie Quarterly reports.

OUTLINING ITS socialistic scheme in a book, "All Our Children: The American Family Under Pressure" (Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, $10.95), the Council starts from the premise that new American lifestyles require society to step into the breach left by family failures.
"Clearly, the stay-at-home mother and wage-earning father is no longer the norm, if it ever was."

"Parents, married or not, will continue to have primary responsibility for raising their children, concludes the Council, but they are competing on unequal terms with institutions," the Quarterly reports.

Environmental risks—from food coloring to TV programs—pose such a threat that protecting our children from them "requires specialized knowledge beyond the range of ordinary citizens," the Quarterly reports.
"Child out of four in America is being actively harmed by a 'stacked deck' created by the failings of our society," the Carnegie Council concludes.
We'll take a look tomorrow at some of its recommendations for changing the American society.

The lingering hope is that the Nativity scene, on display this year through January 3, will attract enough national attention to stir up new support throughout the country for its continuation by other groups.
In a city where there are now more deaths than births each year, the passing of the public display of the birth of Christ is seen by believers as another sign of the darkness that appears to be engulfing the nation.
For a nation that would rather kill a million of God's new creation each year than to make room for them in this great Inn, the ending of the public display of the Nativity in the nation's capital appears to be a logical next step.

Already, officials here are discussing the taxing of Churches and religious hospitals and institutions as a prelude to what one can expect from a non-Christian oriented society.
As the Christmas story of nearly 2,000 years ago reveals, the battle for the respect for life and what it represents will go on despite what eventually happens here and in this country.
But still to be decided is whether this generation of Americans will be as wise as those that have gone before us and recognize and publicly honor the One that has protected and bestowed so many benefits upon this nation—or will they forfeit this divine help.

Overdue Tuition Loans De Fault Of Students

AS YEAREND '77 approaches, more than 344,000 young men and women who have received federally guaranteed student loans are in default—leaving the federal government with the nasty job of collecting a huge half-billion dollars from debtors who have "skipped."
To collect the money, the Office of Education has hired 106 employees—and given these workers a staggering workload.
According to OE guidelines, each should be handling an average of 600 cases at any one time.
In fact, the typical collector has a caseload amounting to more than 3,000 accounts, and this total is climbing.
Merely finding the debtor is more than half the problem.
To suggest the magnitude of the task, my Washington associate, Brooke Shearer, interviewed several loan collectors for this column.
One, Judith Dickinson, a senior program official in the San Francisco regional office, described a case on her desk at that moment.

Inventors In U.S. Seen As Endangered Species

By PHILIP GREEN AND MYRON KANDEL

Is the independent American inventor an endangered species?

shelter advantages to the Cambridge partners and to the investors in the new ventures.
The net proceeds of the sale are shared

Business News

He is, says Kenneth and Lawrence Sherman, twin 39-year-old brothers who have made a thriving business out of translating inventions into marketable products. Too many valuable new products, they contend, do not reach the marketplace because of the lack of capital or ineffective management.

Not only is the inventor endangered, agrees Richard A. Onanian, editor and publisher of the Invention Management newsletter, but by failing to encourage him, the nation runs the risk of losing the technological lead it has long held over the rest of the world.

The United States, Onanian notes, was once the undisputed leader in the number of patents issued on a per-capita basis; but now a number of other countries have outstripped us. He also points out that individual inventors now account for only one in four of the new patents issued in the U.S.

"As a nation," he told us, "we're living off the fat of our technological progress of the last 200 years."

The federal government, Onanian contends, himself an inventor and former industrial manager, has failed to provide any coordinated help for the independent inventor, mainly, he says, because such people are not organized and have no lobbying clout in Washington.

Cambridge Research — which now has 104 limited partners who have put up a total of $3,026,000 — has spawned four such companies since it adopted this new approach in 1973. They produce such varied products as a pill package that helps patients adhere to their medication schedules; a water-powered drill that enables firemen to drill quickly through walls, floors and roofs while fighting fires; an inexpensive mechanical computing device to help couples conceive children, and a low-cost electronic method of speeding up the playback of recorded sound.

Investors have put up a total of $14.7 million to fund the companies producing these products. Cambridge finds the financing and recruits the management and then sells the invention to the new company, usually for a payment of 25 percent down with the rest to be paid out over a fixed number of years as the company — hopefully — flourishes. The deals usually involve some considerable tax-approximately equally with the inventor, who receives a portion of the down payment immediately, Sherman said. He added that in the transactions completed so far, the initial payments have ranged from $300,000 to more than $1 million.

Cambridge looks at more than 300 inventions a year, and Sherman takes pains to point out that the inventor is never asked to pay a fee for the evaluation, or contribute to research or development costs or invest in the new venture.

"There are enough charlatans in the field, and we don't want to be mixed up with them," he asserted.

But the company insists that a product it considers must be at a stage that clearly demonstrates its manufacturing and marketing feasibility and it must have an issued patent or one in an advance stage of application. It also wants the product to satisfy a clear, immediate and measurable market need and to be able to be manufactured by conventional techniques and with available materials.

Kenneth Sherman agrees that the focus of attention by big government and big industry has moved away from true innovation. Government emphasis on research and development as a percentage of total outlays is diminishing, he says, and corporations are more interested in the further development of existing products. "This may be a more profitable approach for the companies themselves," he observes, "but it's not good for society."

Onanian does see a ray of hope however. He cites the energy-related invention program set up under the National Bureau of Standards to conduct a nationwide search for new products and techniques.

"It's the first time the government has done anything beyond tokenism to help the individual inventor," he says. But, he adds, "it does have a narrow focus."

What should be done on a continuing basis, the Arlington, Mass.-based publisher says, is the establishment of a federal information resource bank that could help individuals find the right outlet for their inventions without getting ripped off.

To supply a bridge between an invention and its introduction into the marketplace, the Sherman brothers formed the Cambridge Research and Development Group 12 years ago. The Westport, Conn.-based partnership seeks to identify new products and place them in brand-new companies specifically organized to undertake their manufacture and sale.

"We felt there had to be some rational approach to moving an invention from the stage to the finished product," Kenneth Sherman explained.

At first, the company specialized in licensing inventions to major companies, among them Procter & Gamble, Colgate-Palmolive, Sony, Panasonic, Squibb and Warner Chilcott. But then, Sherman said, "we decided that many inventions have a better chance for success if sold to independent companies with the control, flexibility, funds and commitment — to do whatever is required to commercialize the product."

We asked Sherman how he would characterize the people who bring him inventions.

"They're extremely eager and enthusiastic," he said. "They're all clever and have an incredible amount of ingenuity. They're also sometimes in another world. Some people might call them 'off the wall.' And often they're very frustrated. Also, a lot of them have been working on things that aren't worthy of their effort and their intellect. They don't consider the value of their own time."

"But we believe them to be important," he added, "and even when we reject their ideas, we try to be helpful and constructive. We give them a five-page list of suggestions on how to develop and exploit an invention. And we instruct our people to look on inventors as an endangered species and treat them accordingly."

Man Runs Business In Woods

By ROBERTA ULRICH

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — John Rosenstock makes his living as a commodities market analyst and broker dealing with markets in Chicago and New York. He likes living in the woods.

Seven months ago he combined the two by setting up his home and business, Pacific Commodity Corp., in a tiny cedar cabin 30 yards from the bank of the Clackamas River near Estacada, a town of 1,690 population 30 miles southeast of Portland.

"Anywhere we can get a telephone we can operate," Rosenstock said.

A native of San Francisco, Rosenstock, 28, said, "I've had enough of big city living and my wife grew up in a small town. We love it."

"This is a much better environment. I am more creative here, more clearheaded. I can walk down to the river on my coffee break. I don't have the distractions of the city and I don't have to commute."

Pacific Commodity consists mostly of Rosenstock and his wife, Candy, with Doug Crowe as research director and chief programmer for the firm's home-built computer that is the focal point of much of Rosenstock's work.

"Doug and I met in a computer class I was taking," Rosenstock said. "We had been renting computer time and wanted to build our own. With his help we did." Building the computer took about six months. It can provide either printed readouts or a visual readout on a color television screen.

"We use the color TV set for graphics," Rosenstock said. He said the colors make charts and graphs easier to read.

"For general economic and monetary information I rely on the private press — specialized newsletters and things like that. I don't pay any attention to news releases. By the time they get in print it's too late."

He subscribes to a leasewire report which brings him minute-by-minute accounts of trading activities each day, however.

He makes his judgments on various commodities through "a technical analysis based on market prices."

"All that is known about supply and demand is reflected in the price," he said.

Rosenstock manages portfolios, advises clients whether to buy or sell and does the traditional broker's job of submitting buy and sell orders to floor brokers at the Chicago Board of Trade, the Chicago Mercantile Exchange and New York Commodity Exchange Center. He also does some trading for his own account.

His contacts with the exchanges would be mostly by telephone even if his office were in Chicago or New York, he said.

He estimates his investment in his business at $42,000 — $12,000 in equipment and parts and the remainder in programming and expertise. "We've made most of it back," he said. "I figure it takes us about a year to get back whatever we put into the business."

Memorial Services Set For Western Filmmaker

By LINDA DEUTSCH
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Howard Hawks guided Gary Cooper to his first Oscar in "Sergeant York" and helped launch the careers of such stars as John Wayne and Lauren Bacall. But his own reputation with film critics was tarnished by his fondness for westerns and his simple credo: "Don't Annoy Audiences. Entertain Them."

The director did just that for 60 years, and at his death at age 81 was planning another western.

Hawks, who created such classics as "Scarface," "To Have and Have Not" and "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," is to be buried Thursday after memorial services in Beverly Hills.

He died Monday night of complications from a fall he suffered at his Palm Springs home several weeks ago. Hawks suffered a concussion and was later confined to a wheelchair. He never recovered.

In 1941, he was nominated for an Academy Award for "Sergeant York." Cooper won for best actor, but Hawks lost.

In 1974, the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, which had virtually ignored him, gave Hawks a special Oscar for his work as "a master American filmmaker whose creative efforts hold a distinguished place in world cinema."

Hawks' fondness for westerns irritated American film critics, who saw him as an anti-intellectual.

But he did not care. He numbered such films as "Rio Bravo" and "El Dorado" among his best.

Every time a man who is a first-rate director goes after a western, you come out with a pretty good picture because a western's good entertainment," he said. "It's dramatic."

His credits included dramas — "To Have and Have Not" and "The Big Sleep" — and many comedies — "Bringing Up Baby," "Mail Order Bride" and "His Girl Friday."

He also had an uncanny knack for developing top stars.

He cast George Raft as a gangster in "Scarface" in 1932. When Raft became nervous, Hawks told him to flip a coin — it became Raft's trademark.

For the same film, Hawks plucked Paul Muni from the Yiddish theater and starred him as gangster Al Capone.

When he saw model Lauren Bacall on a magazine cover he summoned her to Hollywood only to find she had a squeaky voice. He ordered her to lower it. The actress went to a deserted hillside, screamed herself hoarse and returned to become the husky-voiced siren in "To Have and Have Not."

Hawks was a master of the zany comedy style of the 1930s and '40s. In "Twentieth Century" he defined the screwball style which made Carole Lombard a star. In "Bringing Up Baby," he gave Katherine Hepburn her first comic role.

Although the latter became a classic, Hawks was not satisfied with it.

"I think the picture had a great fault," he said later. "There were no normal people in it. Everyone you met was a screwball."

In real life, Hawks drove race cars, bred horses, fished with Ernest Hemingway, hunted with Gary Cooper and wrote scripts with William Faulkner. He married and divorced three times and once headed a motorcycle club whose members included Robert Taylor, Barbara Stanwyck and Clark Gable.

He was born to a wealthy family in Goshen, Ind., and later moved to Pasadena, Calif. After graduation from Pasadena High School, young Howard was sent east for his education at Phillips Exeter Academy and Cornell University, where he earned a degree in mechanical engineering.

But he was fascinated with films, and in 1917 he won his first job as an assistant prop man on a Mary Pickford movie.

After an overseas stint in the Army Air Corps during World War I, Hawks returned to Hollywood to make his first silent feature, "The Road to Glory," a dismal flop.

After that, there were hits: "Dawn Patrol," "Mail Order Bride" and more.

Hawks is survived by daughters Barbara and Kitty, sons David and Greg and four grandchildren.

He was married three times — to Athol Shearer, sister of actress Norma Shearer, to Nancy Gross and to Dee Hartford. All the marriages ended in divorce.

Contract May End Baton Rouge Strike

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Longshoremen and shippers in Baton Rouge have tentatively agreed on a new contract that a union leader says may end a 9-day-old strike by Thursday.

The strike by Local 1830 of the International Longshoremen's Association has closed the Port of Baton Rouge to general cargo and grain shipments.

Petroleum goods, which makes up most of the port's cargo, is not handled by ILA members, and has not been affected by the strike.

Longshoremen in Baton Rouge had been working without a contract since October. Dockworkers in most other Gulf and Atlantic ports settled new contracts a month ago, ending a two-month strike against containerized shipping.

The big issue in the ILA negotiations at Baton Rouge and other ports has been a guaranteed annual income to protect longshoremen from loss of work due to automation.

Mark Young, president of Local 1830, said a settlement was reached Tuesday on the guaranteed income issue, but he would not elaborate. He predicted the membership would ratify the contract overwhelmingly and return to work, possibly Thursday.

The strike in Baton Rouge began last week when Local 1830 put up picket lines, accusing the Baton Rouge Steamship Association of stalling in contract negotiations. Local 1830 and Local 1833, which honored the picket lines, have a combined membership of 400.

White House Group To Discuss Growth

WASHINGTON (AP) — Delegates to a White House conference next month will discuss the federal government's role in guiding economic growth. The four-day conference begins Jan. 29 with participants including businessmen, labor leaders, politicians and academic experts. White House officials said issues to be discussed include full employment, distribution of federal funds, and choices between protecting the environment and economic growth. Three-fourths of the 500 participants were chosen by governors, with the remainder selected by the White House.

WEATHER FORECAST — Showers and snow flurries were forecast today through most of the central states. Snow flurries were also expected for New England. Cold temperatures were expected for most of the country. (AP Laserphoto)

Police To Disclose Composite Drawings

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Police hunting the Hillside Strangler have composite drawings of one or two suspects in the slayings of 11 girls and young women, which the department plans to make public Thursday. Assistant Police Chief Darryl Gates told a news conference Tuesday that the suspects were "Caucasian, perhaps of Latin extraction" but did not otherwise describe them. Gates also conceded that the Strangler Task Force had investigated other police officers as suspects. "We have looked at some police officers in connection with the case," Gates said. "Most of them we have cleared. There are still one or two we still have under investigation." Department spokesmen had previously heatedly denied a magazine report that investigators suspected the strangler could be a policeman. There has been speculation that the strangler posed as a policeman to gain the victims' confidence. At least two men have been arrested as strangler suspects while impersonating officers, wearing police-type clothing and driving imitation "patrol cars." The investigation has revealed "there are an incredible number of people posing as police officers," Gates said. "We have to look at them very, very carefully."

He said it was also possible the strangler was posing as a priest or some other type of authority or trust figure, which lulls victims into a false sense of safety. Los Angeles police said they would seek a criminal complaint today against two men suspected of the "copcat killer" strangling of two women, Paula Glen Ward, 18, and Carolyn Williams, 21. Pasadena police originally believed Miss Ward, whose body was found on a hillside near the Rose Bowl Saturday, was the strangler's 12th victim. However, Pasadena police spokesman John McAlister said Tuesday his department, which had publicly differed with Los Angeles detectives, had come around to the Los Angeles department's view that she was not killed by the strangler. Thomas Davis, 24, and Stephen D'Orsey Devezin, 40, were booked on suspicion of murder in the death of Miss Williams, whose partially nude body was found in a Los Angeles parking lot five hours after Miss Ward's body was found. Charges in Miss Ward's death are expected to be filed in Pasadena. Gates said the deaths of Miss Ward and Miss Williams may have been "copcat" killings, made to appear the work of the strangler, but police were not sure.

Report Notes Increase In Income, Free Time

By LEONARD CURRY
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans enjoy longer lives with more money and free time than their forefathers, but those benefits of 20th century life often are spent watching television or race horses.

The portrait of American life by the Census Bureau also documented continued instability in the American family. Income and leisure time have increased, the report noted, with the average worker retiring at a younger age than his parents and grandparents. And nearly three of every 10 persons said television is the favorite pastime. Of those who go out for entertainment, horseracing is the most popular diversion, drawing 60 million fans in 1974 compared to the 30 million fans who watched major league baseball. Greyhound racing ranked third, followed by pro football and basketball.

The breakdown of the American family continues unabated, the report showed. The number of children touched by divorce was three times the figure 20 years ago, Tuesday's report said. And the annual rate of divorce and annulment has more than doubled. Nine out of 10 Americans report satisfaction with family life, but three out of every 10 want divorce proceedings made easier. One of every 10 white families is headed by a woman and more than one-third of the black families are headed by a woman. Among other findings in Social Indicators 1976 was evidence that Americans get more education than any time in history, but remain short on practical knowledge.

A set of standardized tests given adults found 20 percent were functional illiterates and less than half could meet minimal standards of adequacy for everyday life, including filling out income tax and insurance forms, the report said.

Crime has worsened in the past two decades, the report said, with the rate of violent crimes against people and property crimes tripling since the early 1960s. The average married couple by 1990 will have only one child, the report said, with average family size steadily declining from a peak of 3.7 members in the mid-1960s to 3.4 members now. Life expectancy continues to increase.

Carter Finds Plains Quieter On Return Home

By HELEN THOMAS
 PLAINS, Ga. (UPI) — Backstairs at the Plains White House: President Carter has found he can go home again now that Plains is quieting down and the tourist trade has dropped off.

"This place is drying out," said one woman who had started a small business during the post-election boom in Plains. But Carter, on his return for the Christmas holiday to the village where he grew up, found it all to his liking. "I wish nothing would change," he said nostalgically. Overnight businesses, the "fly by nights," had closed and merchants on Main Street who remained would have a better time of it, he said.

"I like it," he said. "I think it's much better than it was before."

There was no specific answer for why the tourism has slackened and whether it was a question of the glamor wearing off. The failure of Carter to go home more often may be one reason. Another main attraction, his brother Billy Carter, has other fish to fry and is being seen more often around the country in paid command performances rather than in Plains.

Carter also seems to have some nostalgia about the peanut warehouse which the Carter family has leased to a Georgia firm to operate. Carter says he still considers himself a "peanut farmer" but the presidential trappings that surround him make that all seem very remote.

Carter's son, Chip, 28, told reporters he has not made up his mind yet whether to return to Washington to live with his wife Caron, 27, and his 11-month-old son, James Earl Carter, IV.

But others close to the family are saying Chip will not remain in Plains and probably will move into an apartment in Washington rather than living in the White House as he has.

The White House press corps saw a new side of the president when he hosted a Christmas party for them.

Carter and his wife Rosalynn cut loose on the dance floor and the president put a show for the guests, doing the jitterbug to the songs of the '40s.

Carter was also popular with female reporters and wives of correspondents who cut in on him for cheek to cheek dancing.

But Carter has never displayed his dancing talents at official White House parties and some observers say that is why the parties sometimes fall flat. Carter and his wife leave the state rooms promptly at 11 p.m. EST without tarrying or dancing after a state dinner.

The Ford family is doing fine out of the White House.

But whenever the former president comes to town he always drops hints that he may be in the running again in 1980.

On his recent whirlwind tour, he touched all bases and gathered round all his old top advisors.

"I'd rather be skiing in Vail this Christmas than going where President Carter is going — to Tehran and New Dehli," Ford said.

"Is that why you're not going to run again," he was asked.

"No. By 1980," Ford said, "I'll be too old to ski. But not to be president."

Ford's top aide Bob Barrett said that Betty Ford's book will be published in April 1978 and Ford's memoirs will be on the stands in April 1979.

Barrett also reported the Ford children are doing well, including Susan who has become a television star on a Los Angeles talk show.

He said Susan had purchased a condominium in Palm Springs and is a big comfort to her parents now that she has matured.

Former White House photographer David Kennerly apparently blew the secret that Egyptian President Anwar Sadat would be Time Magazine's "Man of the Year."

In order to get pictures of Sadat on an urgent basis, Kennerly told Egyptian officials they were needed because Sadat had been picked as "Man of the Year."

Time usually likes to keep the cover of that issue a secret until publication.

Carter's 79-year-old mother Miss Lillian will be a babysitter at the White House in early January when the Carters are away on their forthcoming overseas journey. She will be holding the fort with 10-year-old Amy.

Leaving California No Trauma For Man

CLEVELAND (AP) — Richard Hongisto, Cleveland's new chief of police, says even people in his new home town say, "You left San Francisco to come here?"

In an interview, the outspoken police chief said Clevelanders think about "the beautiful scenic view, the lack of any pollution and the cosmopolitan, urbane qualities of San Francisco. But I've never been one to spend much time going to the theater or looking out picture windows," he said. "I'm interested in making better government."

Critic Pans Yiddish Drama

By WILLIAM GLOVER
 NEW YORK (AP) — Several innovative stage groups of international repute are represented in a new and oddly listless version of Yiddish theater's famous drama, "The Dybbuk."
 Joseph Chaikin, the director and co-developer of the piece which opened at off-Broadway's Public Theater, recruited his two most important players from the esoteric Paris research center run by Peter Brook.

faithful to the intentions and feelings of the play."

However sincere the intention, the result is a show from which the powerful original amalgam of orthodox piety and mystical superstition has almost totally disappeared.

A starkly angular assortment of scaffolds, benches, lecterns and boxy rooms has been supplied by Woods Mackintosh for the to-do. Old-fashioned Hebraic costuming by Mary Brecht and the lighting by Beverly Emmons are among the more coherent aspects of an uneven, and sorry to say, uninspired undertaking.

Other participants have been drawn from the far-traveled Bread and Puppet troupe, and Chaikin's own Open Theater.

Much of the production's insistent language derives from the 90-minute translation into which Mira Rafalowitz, a Yiddish pundit, has compressed the original, written by Russia's S. Ansky in 1918.

Her program note asserts "we reshaped, changed every scene, eliminated and added material, but we remained

Americans Finish Year With Spending Spree

By JOHN CUNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — Americans really went on a spending binge in the final weeks of the year, and there are indications that a good percentage of the purchases didn't end up under the Christmas tree.

They were consumed instead, literally swallowed, in the form of food and drink. Or so it would seem.

Final figures won't be available for a couple of more weeks, but we do know this: Food store sales in November rose 2.9 percent over those of October, suggesting an amazing increase in intake.

True, some of these purchases might have made gifts, but another set of statistics suggests otherwise. November sales at eating and drinking places leaped 2.1 percent after having been weak in October.

Economists are now studying such statistics to find out what they can about the behavior of the sometimes unpredictable consumer. They have already drawn some conclusions.

—The public was in more of a buying mood than was generally foreseen. The buying began unusually early. October retail sales leaped 2.7 percent over September, and November added another 1.5 over October.

—Early reports of a 1.5 percent increase in the dollar value of automotive purchases for November are suspect.

—There is a possibility that revisions will trim the November auto component of retail sales," Citibank comments. For one thing, it questions that unit sales would be down but dollar sales up so much.

—Shoppers apparently were not reluctant to use credit. That, at least, was the trend that seemed to be setting in early in the final quarter of the year.

Contrary to what some people might expect, consumers assume credit burdens when they feel confident — not when the the absence of ready cash leaves them no other choice.

Personal incomes were up; people were confident; they took on credit.

This burst of consumer activity now presents analysts with the question of how much longer it might continue. Some credit critics say the burden of repayments could hamper sales in 1978.

Another school of thought, however, observes that consumers are still able to repay their borrowings on time. They feel that 1978 sales might indeed be af-fectured by activity this year, but merely because consumers have already purchased many of the items they need.

Whatever, the indomitable consumer has again surprised some of those who claim the title of expert, and has almost made certain a continuation of the expansion into a fourth year.

He might have done it with food and drink and a lot of gifts that the recipient is inclined to return, but that's the way the economy turns.

Marijuana Use Linked To Low Acidity

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Habitual marijuana use may protect smokers from developing peptic ulcers, but it also can leave them more prone to cholera or food poisoning, according to a University of Maryland medical school study.

Stomach acidity, a prime cause of ulcers, is lower among frequent marijuana users, the University of Maryland researchers found. However, stomach acidity is a protection against such food and waterborne diseases as cholera and food poisoning.

The researchers said their findings on marijuana use and stomach acidity were an accidental byproduct of a research project aimed at developing better vaccines against cholera.

While testing vaccines, the University of Maryland group monitored stomach

Tourists Take Wildlife Tours

PUERTO MADRYN, Argentina (UPI) — This port city of 20,000, founded by a Welshman in 1865, makes a good base for visits to wildlife reserves in the area of the Valdes peninsula.

Seals and sea lions are found at Punta Loma, about nine miles from Puerto Madryn, and sea birds on the Isla de Los Pajaros in the San Jorge gulf.

"There was a striking statistical relationship between low stomach acid and using marijuana heavily (three or more times a week)," said Dr. David R. Nalin. He said heavy marijuana smokers with normal gastric acid levels were found to be heavy users of alcohol.

Alcohol tends to raise acidity levels and apparently is capable of offsetting marijuana's tendency to lower acidity, Nalin said.

Nalin said the worldwide incidence of cholera is increasing and current vaccines are only 50 percent effective.

The researchers were interested in stomach acidity because scientists think the cholera germ, which enters the body through the mouth, may be killed by the gastric acid, Nalin said.

In developing countries, where cholera often is a major health hazard, residents often have low stomach acid levels, he said.

He said the findings were entirely statistical at this point, but said if marijuana does lower stomach acid as much as the Maryland study indicates, then increasing American use of marijuana might explain declining ulcer rates in the country.

President To Nominate McIntyre As OMB Chief

By MICHAEL DOAN
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's choice to succeed Bert Lance as budget director says he should have no trouble with Congress over his finances. Carter announced Tuesday he will nominate acting budget director James T. McIntyre Jr., 37, to head the Office of Management and Budget. Later, McIntyre told reporters that he listed his net worth one year ago as $100,139 and said it "has not changed significantly since then." Included were total assets of $166,315, including $130,000 in real estate, and $66,176 in debts. By contrast, Lance last January listed $8 million in assets and $5.4 million in liabilities for a net worth of $2.6 million. It was when his bank stock plummeted in value that Lance's finances were jeopardized and his banking activities were examined. Before Lance resigned Sept. 21, banking regulators and congressional investigators found a history of overdrafts and loans that some examiners called questionable. The Senate Governmental Affairs Committee, burned by the Lance affair, has promised to examine future cabinet level nominees more closely. However, McIntyre already has been confirmed by the same committee as deputy director, and his finances are less complicated. McIntyre told reporters he knows of nothing in his past that would jeopardize his confirmation. Unlike the boisterous Lance, McIntyre has a reputation as a quiet, neat and cautious administrator.

Appointed deputy director in the new administration, McIntyre ran the day-to-day business at OMB, while Lance served as a top Carter aide and liaison with business. When Lance resigned, no administration official assumed that role. But McIntyre began making more budget policy. "While my predecessor had more of a personal relationship with the president, mine has been a very professional business relationship," McIntyre said. But he said, "I feel personally relaxed and at ease with the president. I don't mind telling him what I think." McIntyre and Carter have worked almost daily on the 1979 budget, which will be released Jan. 23. Like Lance, McIntyre will be involved in plans to reorganize the government. He disclosed that Carter has made a decision on whether he wants a separate department of education, but McIntyre declined to reveal what Carter's decision is. In introducing McIntyre to reporters, Carter called him "a professional in every sense of the word, a career public servant."

Carter appointed McIntyre as Georgia budget director in October 1972 when Carter was governor. McIntyre kept the post under Gov. George Busbee until he became Lance's deputy last February. McIntyre graduated from the University of Georgia and the University of Georgia Law School before serving as general counsel to the Georgia Municipal Association from 1966 to 1970. He was appointed deputy state revenue commissioner in 1970 before taking the Georgia budget post.

Police Reveal New Leads In City Slaying

While no charges had been filed this morning in connection with the Christmas Eve slaying of William Drew Young III, 28, sheriff's deputies have revealed several important leads in the case. Young, of 6305 Knoxville Drive, was found dead about 10:30 p.m. Saturday inside the trunk of his burned car less than a mile south of FM 1585. He had been beaten and stabbed with a tire tool, and his body was partially burned. Chief Deputy Albert Smith said two suspects were arrested about four hours after the grim discovery on FM 1585. They were taken into custody about three miles from where Young was found. The two men, who were taken to the sheriff's office but later released, were burning several articles of clothes beside their car at the time of their arrest, authorities say. Smith also said deputies were led the next day to an alley behind a 19th Street motel where they found blood stains and a cap similar to one Young was seen wearing Christmas Eve afternoon. However, Smith and investigating deputy Ed Barclay said this morning they had not pieced the murder together, and did not know of a motive for the slaying. Young was last seen alive driving his car about 6 p.m. Saturday. Young, a 1967 Monterey High School graduate who also attended South Plains College and Texas Tech University, was found after two youths phoned the Department of Public Safety to report a car on fire on Avenue P, about eight-tenths of a mile south of FM 1585.

Activities Begin In Contest For Maid Of Cotton

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Maid of Cotton contestants representing 12 cotton-producing states Tuesday night attended the first of a round of formal activities leading up to the selection of the 1978 Maid of Cotton Thursday. A buffet dinner at a local hotel was the first occasion for the 18 women since they began arriving in Memphis Monday. Many more activities are planned for the contestants before one is chosen to succeed Memphis Ellen Clark as the 40th annual Maid of Cotton Thursday night. A Rotary Club luncheon is planned today as well as a dinner-dance tonight. In between the engagements, the women face television appearances and numerous interviews. The winner, chosen from a group of five finalists, will represent the cotton industry on promotion travels in the United States and several foreign countries. Contestants are Jamie Williams, 21, of El Paso, Texas; Becky Bailey, 19, of Lubbock, Texas; Marilyn Boone, 21, Irmo, S.C.; Mona Britt, 20, Jackson, Miss.; Catherine Cush, 21, Memphis; Elizabeth Cook, 19, New Orleans. Cindy Gallagher, 20, Kansas City, Mo.; Cynthia Hamilton, 21, Baton Rouge, La.; Ruth Ann Harman, 20, Durham, N.C.; Lory Hathorn, 21, Wichita Falls, Texas; Claudia Kreutzberg, 21, Riverside, Calif.; Sandra Lambert, 20, Mesa, Ariz.; Kelli Kynch, 20, Santa Teresa, N.M. Lynn Miller, 20, Monrovia, Calif.; Lynda Nolan, 23, Scottsboro, Ala.; Alison Taylor, 23, Clarksville, Ark.; Ellen Timberlake, 22, Arlington, Texas; and Lara Williams, 20, Avory, Miss.

FINAL STOP FOR ORIENT EXPRESS — The Orient Express, which ended its 90-year history of service between Paris and Istanbul, is pictured on the shore of Lake Biwa, near Kyoto, in central Japan. The train, subject of many books and movies, is being turned into a hotel. The hotel is scheduled to open Jan. 1. (AP Laserphoto)

LAMESA (Special) — Services for Marcus Debnam, 76, of Lamesa will be at 2 p.m. Thursday in Lamesa's First Baptist Church with the Rev. J.L. Bass, pastor of Friendship Baptist Church, officiating, and the Rev. John Shugart, assistant chaplain of the Abilene State School, assisting. Burial will follow in Lamesa Memorial Park under direction of Branon Funeral Home. Debnam died at 1:25 p.m. Tuesday in his home following a lengthy illness. The Limestone County native had been a Lamesa and Dawson County resident the past 69 years. He married the former Minnie Mae Pounds June 25, 1933 in the Ballard School House in Dawson County. He was a charter member and deacon of Friendship Baptist Church. Survivors include his wife, a daughter, Wanda J. Vredenburg of Abilene, a son, Travis W. of Lamesa; and four grandchildren. The family suggests memorials to the American Bible Society, the church of their choice or the American Cancer Society.

Mrs. Forrester

Mrs. Minnie Forrester of Bender Terrace Nursing Home died about 9 a.m. today in Methodist Hospital following a lengthy illness. Services are pending with Sanders Funeral Home. Mrs. Forrester, 83, had lived in Lubbock since 1926. A member of the First Baptist Church here, she was the widow of the late E.F. Forrester. Survivors include two brothers, Joe W. Robert of 3117 21st St. and C.B. Robert of Fort Worth; and three sisters, Mrs. Ann Madden of 2416 22nd St., Mrs. Homer Franklin of Big Spring, and Mrs. C.F. Mannon of Dallas.

Mrs. Humphrey

Mrs. Nora Allen Humphrey, a former Lubbock resident, died at 10:30 p.m. Tuesday in a convalescent center at Clute. Services are pending with Resthaven-Singleton-Wilson Funeral Home. Mrs. Humphrey, 84, had lived in Lubbock 20 years before she moved to Clute in 1975. The Hill County native was a member of the First Baptist Church here where she had taught a Sunday school class. Mrs. Humphrey was a member and past president of the Daughters of the Republic of Texas, a past president of the Lubbock Women's Club, member of the Order of Eastern Star, Texas Poet Society and state parliamentarian of the Texas Federation of Music Clubs. Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. H. Riley Prescott of Liberty and Mrs. Warren Johnson of Lake Jackson; three brothers, Dorris Allen of Smyer, Dewey Allen of Austin, and George Herman Allen of Long Beach, Calif.; three grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

Marvin Qualls

LITTLEFIELD (Special) — Services for Marvin Henry Qualls, 71 of Fieldton are set for 2 p.m. Thursday in Fieldton Baptist Church. The Rev. Jimmy Fikes, pastor, will officiate and the Rev. Glenn Wilson, pastor of First Baptist Church at Amherst, will assist. Burial will be in Littlefield Memorial Park under direction of Hammons Funeral Home at Littlefield. Qualls died at 2:25 p.m. Tuesday in Littlefield Hospital after a long illness. The Haskell County native and retired farmer moved to Fieldton in 1925. He married Vera Hukill Nov. 2, 1929. He was a member of Fieldton Baptist Church. Survivors include his wife, Vera; a daughter, Mrs. Laverne Balko of Las Cruces, N.M.; a son, Gerald Ray of Pryor, Okla.; three sisters, Mrs. Bonnie Massengale of Littlefield, Mrs. Susie Lynch of Lubbock, and Mrs. Geneva Farr of Tucson, Ariz.; four brothers, Vernon of Littlefield, H.W. of Roswell, N.M., and Son and Hulan, both of Sudan; and six grandchildren.

Big Spring Man Dies In Mishap

SAN ANGELO (Special) — A 60-year-old Big Spring man was killed shortly after 6 p.m. Tuesday when the car he was driving ran off FM 380 about 6 miles east of here. Larry Clifton Barrett was pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace Charles Long. Barrett reportedly was traveling east when his vehicle apparently went out of control, ran off the road and overturned three times. Barrett, the only occupant of the car, was thrown clear of wreckage. The victim's body was taken to Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home in Big Spring where services were pending this morning.

Obituary Briefs

Services for Stephen Oliver Allgood, 83, of 2124 20th St. will be at 11 a.m. Thursday in Resthaven-Singleton-Wilson Funeral Chapel. Burial will be in Resthaven Memorial Park under direction of Resthaven-Singleton-Wilson Funeral Home. Allgood died Monday. Any young man between the ages of 18-35 is eligible and may be nominated by a club, organization, business or individual. Deadline for nominations is Saturday, Jan. 7. The winner will be selected by an impartial panel of judges not associated with the Jaycees. Applications may be obtained at the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce office, 902 Texas Ave., by calling the Jaycees at 765-6861 or by calling Ben Sims at 795-4301. The DSA winner will advance in competition for the Five Outstanding Young Texans sponsored by the Texas Jaycees.

Conference Planned For Fish Farmers

COLLEGE STATION (UPI) — Fish farmers from Texas and neighboring states will gather at Texas A&M University Jan. 26-27, for the eighth annual Fish Farming Conference. Major topics will include the production of fingerlings, crawfish and other shellfish, economics and tax management, state and federal regulations.

Officers In Illinois Overpower Trucker

MELROSE PARK, Ill. (AP) — A fruit-juice truck driver who allegedly seized two hostages at gunpoint, reportedly as a protest against his supplier, was arrested after being overpowered by officers, police say. The truck driver, Anthony Robins, 26, was charged with forcible restraint and unlawful use of a weapon. He held one person hostage for six hours Tuesday in the incident at the Home Juice Co. offices in Melrose Park, a suburb west of Chicago, police say. There were no injuries. A teen-ager identified by police only as "Joe" accompanied Robins and was named in a juvenile petition on the same charges. Robins demanded $10,000, his birthday off from work and two new trucks in return for the release of his hostage, police said. They said he fired two shots from a .32-caliber pistol in the offices, but no one was hit. A company spokesman said Robins' job-related demands could not be met because Robins does not work for the company. The spokesman added that Robins liked his work so much that he bought his own route from the firm in 1976. Robins was seized after he left the plant shortly after 1 p.m. and went to his car with one of the hostages, his brother and a television reporter. Officers grabbed his pistol and subdued him without more shots being fired. Jerry Sherman, 37, a truck driver and a friend of Robins, said "there was never any indication that something like this would happen... It was a total surprise. He's not an animal, he's people." Steve Brewczynski, a loading dock foreman, said that he and wholesale supervisor Patrick Lane were opening the plant at about 7:15 a.m., when Robins forced them into a small office inside. Brewczynski said Robins, who worked for Home Juice from September 1975 to May 1976, "didn't mistreat us." Brewczynski, 59, of Norridge, was released shortly after 10:15 a.m. after WMAQ-TV newsman Russ Ewing took his place. Ewing was sent for because "he has been involved in several hostage situations in the past," a company spokesman said. Later, WLS-TV reporter Hugh Hill exchanged himself for Ewing. Shortly after noon, Hill placed a piece of paper in a window listing Robins' demands. Robins' brother, Donald, 31, had entered the building with his sister about 10 minutes before the arrests. Donald Robins accused the company of trying to take away his brother's truck which "is almost paid for." "He just wants to keep his job and his truck," Donald Robins said.

LULAC Plans To Award Scholarships

Mexican-American graduates of Lubbock High Schools who will be enrolled at Texas Tech University, South Plains Junior College or Lubbock Christian College during the spring semester are eligible for a $200 scholarship. Sponsored by the League of United Latin American Citizens (LULAC) Ladies Council 281, the scholarship will be awarded in January 1978. To qualify, applicants must be a graduate of one of the Lubbock High Schools, attend Texas Tech, South Plains or Lubbock Christian College, maintain a 2.0 grade point average on a scale of 4.0, show a financial need and demonstrate good character. Applicants must be Mexican-American, and may be of any classification in college. Deadline for applications is Jan. 15, 1978, and forms may be picked up at LEARN Educational Talent Search at 1203 University, Suite 200. For further information call the LEARN Talent Search office at 763-4256.

DR. LAMB

Butter Fat Saturated

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — I am confused about butter fat. I thought from one of your columns that it was high in saturated fats, but according to the dairy company I wrote, it is over one-third unsaturated fat. Does this mean you can use butter instead of polyunsaturated margarines.

DEAR READER — You can use what you want, but the truth is that butter is a high saturated fat product. The information you have been given is misleading. Butter is 19 percent water by weight. It is 46 percent saturated fat, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture handbook (over half to the 81 grams of food material after the weight of water is subtracted). For general rule, think of butter fat as over 50 percent saturated fat.

The Inter-Society Commission for Heart Disease Resources recommends that you limit your saturated fat intake to no more than 10 percent of the calories for your total dietary intake. Clearly, if you use much butter fat, you will quickly exceed the recommended 10 percent.

It is misleading to tell people that butterfat is high in unsaturated fats. The implication is that all unsaturated fats are good for you. There are two types of unsaturated fats, monounsaturated fat and polyunsaturated fats. Only 2 percent of butter is linoleic acids, the polyunsaturated fat it contains. The rest of the unsaturated fat is monounsaturated fat. And, according to the U.S.D.A. values, that represents 29 percent of the weight of butter.

I might add that current thinking is that a small amount of polyunsaturated fat is important in the diet, but there is no reason to think that including monounsaturated fat is of any benefit whatever. It is not considered as important as saturated fat as a factor in raising your body's production of fatty-cholesterol particles identified with heart vascular disease. You should also know that the total fat consumption — both types of unsaturated fat — should be limited to no more than 35 percent of your total calorie intake.

To give you more information about dairy products, I am sending you The Health Letter number 7-2.

Milk Products: Good and Bad. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Being a college student living in a dormitory, I am finding it necessary to wear earplugs. Is there any possibility of physical or even psychological damage with these?

DEAR READER — If you are exposed to a lot of loud music they may even protect your ears from noise damage. The plugs will not harm you, but I would suggest that you keep them clean and be sure they are dry before you insert them to avoid any possible fungal contamination of your ear canals. The noise problem in college dorms appears to be widespread. Perhaps this is an indication that a lot of people go to college for some other reason than to obtain an education.

1978 Spacecraft Launches Set

By AL ROSSITER JR.
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two spacecraft to explore Venus, 10 communications satellites and 13 other assorted spacecraft are on the federal space agency's launch schedule for 1978.

In addition, the space agency plans to carry out major ground tests for the space shuttle rocket plane in the new year and deliver the first spaceplane to the Kennedy Space Center next fall for preparations for its initial orbital flight in 1979.

Fifteen of the unmanned 1978 shots will be for paying customers who will be reimbursing the National Aeronautics and Space Administration anywhere from $6 million to $28 million each for the rocket and launch services.

The agency logged 16 unmanned launchings during the past two years, including two spectacular back-to-back rocket explosions at Cape Canaveral, Fla., Sept. 13 and 29.

A $16 million Delta carrying a European communications satellite was lost first when it blew up 54 seconds after lift-off. An Intelsat 4 commercial communications satellite was destroyed two weeks later when its $28 million Atlas-Centaur rocket exploded one minute after launch.

Backups for both those lost satellites are among the launchings on NASA's schedule for the new year. The big mission of 1978 is the Venus exploration project to be carried out by two Pioneer-class spacecraft to be launched by Atlas-Centaur from Florida.

One will be launched in late May to swing into orbit around the cloud-shrouded planet on Dec. 4 to study the planet for a Venusian year — 225 Earth days. It will be equipped to take radar "pictures" of the planet's surface, showing mountains, craters and other surface features for the first time.

The second craft consists of a large atmospheric probe and three small probes to penetrate the thick Venusian atmosphere 7,000 miles apart Dec. 9. The probes will take atmospheric measurements before plunging to their destruction.

The 1978 launch season is scheduled to open Jan. 6 with the Atlas-Centaur launch of an Intelsat 4A communications satellite from Cape Canaveral for the Comsat Corp.

Newsmen Support Tough CIA Curbs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four U.S.-based foreign correspondents said today they doubt that foreign governments will believe the CIA is serious about prohibiting the use of American journalists.

The four told a House intelligence subcommittee the new CIA policy is a good one. But they said they question whether the new policy will be effective, since it won't be believed. For that reason, the journalists said, they see no point in Congress approving additional laws barring the CIA's use of newsmen for intelligence-gathering purposes.

"I doubt that it (the CIA directive) is going to be believed," said Joseph Fromm, a veteran foreign correspondent for U.S. News & World Report. "I believe whether one is involved in intelligence work or not, you're going to be suspect."

Tad Szulc, a former New York Times correspondent and now a free-lance writer, agreed. Szulc said he believes the CIA directive clearly permits the agency to continue using non-journalists working for U.S. news organizations, including television cameramen and technicians.

"I believe this is a rather dangerous gap," he said.

Fromm and Szulc testified at hearings on the relationship between U.S. newsmen and intelligence agencies along with Ward Just, a former Washington Post correspondent, and Herman Nickel, a Fortune magazine editor and former correspondent.

Most of the correspondents said U.S. intelligence officers can be valuable news sources, but Just contended that reporters should have little or nothing to do with them.

He said he believes reporters cannot tell when an intelligence officer is trying to plant false information or to use them, and since the spies insist on anonymity, the reader is unaware of the possibility he is reading a planted story.

"They have a different temperamental world than the rest of us," Just said, "and you have to be careful when you get around them."

"Sort of like the relationship between the mongoose and the cobra?" asked Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., chairman of the subcommittee.

"I don't know which is which," Just said.

The other three correspondents said reporters have to judge and check the information they get from intelligence sources the same way they would verify information from other sources.

Fromm said he learned that during the 1973 Arab-Israeli war, when he discounted a CIA analyst's information that Egyptian forces had managed to move into the Sinai for their surprise attack. Fromm said he later discovered the information had been exactly correct.

Ideally, the CIA should not be allowed to use foreign reporters any more than American reporters, the correspondents said. But they added that as a practical matter, that probably cannot be prevented.

They agreed the CIA should not be allowed to pay foreign reporters and use them as operatives, but disagreed on whether the agency should be permitted to try to spread propaganda to foreign reporters.

Nickel said CIA propaganda countervailing the opinions in the government-controlled press in many countries might have some value. But Just said he does not think the CIA should be in the propaganda business at all. He said he believes that should be left to the U.S. Information Agency.

CIA Director Stansfield Turner will be called before the panel later to defend restrictions on agency use of journalists.

Rep. Edward P. Boland, D-Mass., chairman of the House Intelligence Committee, said Turner would be called to testify later in the panel's hearings on the relationship between the CIA and the press. No date was set.

Fromm and Szulc testified at hearings on the relationship between U.S. news-

Court Decisions Stir Arguments

though he determined five of them had once been part of a dual system.

School lawyers contend that the Hightower standards still are applicable. Thus, they say the district should not be required to change its existing desegregation plan. Also, they believe the district — under Hightower principles — should be allowed to build new schools in growing areas, even if those areas are predominantly white, because those proposed facilities would not affect the present racial balance.

The Justice Department is trying to block the new construction by relying on a 1968 5th Circuit ruling, United States vs. Board of Public Instruction of Polk County Fla.

The Polk decision, reiterated in a 1975 5th Circuit case involving Autauga County, Ala., requires the Lubbock school board to "consider alternatives before embarking on construction projects which will not serve to remove the vestiges of the dual school system," the department says.

Also, the department says Lubbock's desegregation and construction plans must be re-evaluated under more recent U.S. Supreme Court decisions — notably, Swann vs. Charlotte-Mecklenburg Board of Education in North Carolina in 1971, and Keyes vs. School District No. 1, Denver, Colo., in 1973.

The Swann ruling, the Justice Department notes, says, "People gravitate toward school facilities," and that building new schools on the predominantly white fringe of a city may have an "important impact on the (racial) composition of inner-city neighborhoods."

"Such a policy does more than simply influence the short-run composition of the student body of a new school. It may well promote segregated residential patterns which, when combined with neighborhood (school) zoning, further lock the school system into the mold of separation of the races."

Consequently, the Justice Department argues, Lubbock should not be allowed to build its proposed new schools.

In addition, the Swann ruling states that school districts like Lubbock that have some predominantly one-race schools "have the burden of showing that such school assignments are genuinely nondiscriminatory (and) not the result of present or past discriminatory action."

The department cites the Keyes decision as saying, "A finding of intentionally segregative school board actions in a meaningful portion of a school system creates a presumption that other segregated schools within the system are not adventitious (did not happen by chance)."

The Keyes decision, according to the Justice Department, also says school districts must be required to remedy any segregation resulting from drawing of attendance zones, school closings, school construction and other actions which involved the least bit of "segregative purpose or intent."

The Swann and Keyes rulings represent a "significant clarification" of desegregation doctrine, the department says. They put a burden on the Lubbock school district to prove that the city's entire school system is not the result of segregative actions.

And if school officials can't prove that, the department said, they must be required to implement a "systemwide" desegregation plan, affecting both elementary and secondary levels.

The department says that argument is backed up by last month's 5th Circuit ruling on Austin school desegregation, in which officials there were told to remedy all actions — not just overt segregation — which had the "natural and foreseeable consequences" of keeping races separated.

Fete Commemorates Late Mao Tse-Tung

TOKYO (AP) — Communist Party Chairman Hua Kuo-feng, four vice chairmen and more than 6,000 persons attended a grand soiree in Peking to commemorate the 84th birthday of the late Chairman Mao Tse-tung, the Hsinhua news agency reported.

The agency said a solemn and warm atmosphere prevailed at the event Monday and two huge streamers across the Peoples' Great Hall were inscribed with the slogans, "long live invincible Marxism-Leninism-Mao thought" and "closely follow the wise leader Chairman Hua and carry through to the end the proletarian revolutionary cause pioneered by Chairman Mao."

neys say there is "nothing new" in the Swann, Keyes or Austin decisions that require Woodward to change his 1970 desegregation order.

Quoting the Swann ruling, they said: "It should be clear that the existence of some small number of one-race or virtually one-race schools within a district is not in or of itself the mark of a school system which still practices segregation by law."

And the Keyes decision, the school district maintains, also implies that "not all racial imbalance would violate the Constitution."

The district's first line of defense is that the Justice Department had its chance to push for more desegregation here in 1970, and it's too late to change the existing plan.

School attorneys cite a 1975 6th Circuit ruling on Cincinnati school desegregation: "A public body should not be required to defend repeatedly against the same charge of improper conduct if it has been vindicated" once in the past.

They also cite Swann: "Neither school authorities nor district courts are constitutionally required to make year-by-year adjustments of their racial composition of student bodies once the affirmative duty to desegregate has been accomplished."

In a rebuttal to the Justice Department's Polk reference, school officials say they have indeed considered alternatives to new construction — and that such alternatives, including busing, would be unacceptable.

About the same time the Polk ruling came down, the 5th Circuit also decided the Houston desegregation case and a "different conclusion was reached" regarding school construction, Lubbock school attorneys said.

The Houston case, they said, allowed new schools to be built in predominantly one-race areas as long as no overt segregation was practiced.

The Justice Department says it does have the right to go back and seek changes in Lubbock's seven-year-old desegregation plan. The department bases its views on a 1975 5th Circuit ruling regarding Richardson, Tex., schools.

If the department is correct in that regard, Lubbock school officials then take a different tack.

Grain Blast Toll Rising

concrete warehouse about a half-mile from the explosion.

"The force of the blast rattled the steel doors and knocked them off their tracks," he said.

Earhart said if the explosion had occurred in the main part of the elevator instead of along the loading chute, it would have caused the same kind of destruction that happened in Louisiana last week.

"If that grain elevator went, it would be like an atom bomb," he said.

Workers were unloading grain in the tunnel at the time of the blast. The force of the explosion mangled a railroad switching engine and ripped chunks from the side of the elevator silo.

Robert Steen and Terry Contella were the first Galveston police officers at the scene, and they rushed into the smoke-filled silo yelling for survivors.

The two officers found one dead man immediately, then discovered another man and woman who were alive.

"We couldn't see anything. We heard screaming. We hollered to get to them," said Steen.

He said the two survivors were buried in the rubble and it took more than two hours to extricate them from the twisted beams and building material.

"It was total chaos," Contella said. "There was fire right behind us. We couldn't get water to them."

Leaders Shatter New Exam Of Mitchell Mideast Hopes Scheduled

the military government that has exercised control over the West Bank since Israel captured it in 1967 would be granted "administrative autonomy."

Begin outlined plans for an 11-member council elected by residents of the area to run West Bank affairs, but said "security of the area is in Israeli hands," meaning the Israeli army would remain in control.

Begin said that for the Sinai, his plan called for demilitarization of the peninsula and that the Egyptian army not be allowed to take up positions east of the Gidi and Mitla passes. The proposal would mean that Egyptian forces would remain where they are now, the slice of the Sinai along the Suez Canal.

The prime minister said Israeli settlements in and near the Gaza Strip on occupied Arab land would remain and be under jurisdiction of Israeli law and the protection of Israeli forces.

He said that situation would continue for some years and then Israel would be willing to withdraw to the 1967 border with Egypt.

In other Mideast developments: —Officials in Tehran said President Carter will hold separate meetings in the Iranian capital Friday with Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi and King Hussein of Jordan. Mideast peace and Indian Ocean strategy are expected to be high on the agenda.

—Damasus Radio said hard-line Arab nations will convene a second summit soon to counter Sadat's peace drive. Beirut newspapers said the session will take place Jan. 8 in Algiers. The first anti-Sadat summit took place in Tripoli, Libya, last month.

The plan outlined by Begin was essentially what had been published by the Israeli press when he was in Ismailla. At that meeting, Sadat and Begin agreed on the two committees that would be set up to continue negotiations on an agreement for Middle East peace.

The political committee, chaired by Egyptian and Israeli foreign ministers, will meet in Jerusalem to deal with what Begin called "the question of Arabs of Israel in Judea and Samaria." That is Israel's term for the occupied West Bank.

The committee dealing with military problems, which include arrangements in the Sinai, will meet in Cairo.

Begin spoke for 35 minutes and ended by saying, "This is the journey of our soul, this is the journey of the soul of the entire Jewish people."

The plan, although still far from meeting Sadat's demands for a Palestinian state, is a far-reaching compromise for the prime minister who six months ago supported outright annexation of the West Bank as part of "historic Israel."

In interviews Tuesday, Sadat reiterated his demands for Israeli withdrawal from occupied territory and creation of a Palestinian state.

But he held out hope for an agreement within two months, saying the Egyptian and Israeli positions on the Palestinian issue had narrowed considerably since his visit to Jerusalem last month.

"The Israelis are taking the position of self-determination," he said in an interview with NBC television in Egypt. "Our position is self-determination and really isn't it a great leap and a real success that after only 40 days from the time I visited Jerusalem we are differing on this Palestinian question in this respect."

Israel's opposition Labor Party and the ultra-liberal Shelli Party are opposed to Begin's plan for different reasons. The Labor Party fears West Bank autonomy could form the basis for a Palestinian state in the future. The Shelli Party, which holds only two seats in the 120-member Knesset, supports a Palestinian state.

The most vocal Israeli opposition to Begin so far has come from the ranks of his own supporters. The extreme right wing of his Likud Party supports outright annexation of the West Bank, and some Israeli settlers in the occupied territory have promised to "take up arms" against any attempt to evacuate them.

Carter Signs Water Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter today signed a $28.7 billion anti-pollution bill which gives the government more authority to crack down on toxic chemicals in the nation's waterways.

"This is a fine example of how close cooperation between the administration and the Congress can produce major legislation of national significance," Carter said, in signing the Clean Water Act of 1977.

The measure, which also extends some deadlines for reducing water pollution, was approved by Congress Dec. 15, after a two-year battle over how best to revise federal water pollution laws.

Most of the money provided by the new law — $24.5 billion — will help finance construction of local municipal water treatment plants. The remainder will underwrite the administrative costs of federal water pollution abatement programs.

Congress didn't enact the legislation without a struggle, however. Environmentalists had complained about a provision exempting federal agencies from Environmental Protection Agency regulation of dredging projects in environmentally-sensitive wetlands.

There also was some lengthy debate over the so-called mid course correction to the 1972 Clean Water Act, which gives industrial polluters an additional year, from 1983 to 1984, to install the most advanced types of pollution control equipment.

It also permits a July 1, 1978 deadline for municipalities and industries to meet certain water cleanup standards to be extended on a case-by-case basis.

But the EPA was also given new powers to reduce pollution from a wide variety of toxic chemicals entering the water supply in increasing amounts.

When the bill cleared Congress, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, the chief congressional advocate of tough water pollution laws, said the revision would insure "the restoration of the chemical, physical and biological integrity of the nation's waters."

A requirement that industries pay their share of building publicly-owned sewage treatment plants was extended by 18 months.

Chrysler Says Recall Largest For Company

DETROIT (UPI) — Chrysler Corp.'s recall of 1.3 million cars — the largest recall in its history — raises to nearly 10 million the number of cars and trucks pulled off the road for safety defects by the auto industry this year.

Bowing to pressure from the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, Chrysler said Tuesday that engine problems have caused stalls leading to at least 27 accidents and injuries to seven motorists.

Affected are Dodge Darts and Aspens and Plymouth Valentines and Volares built in the 1975-1977 model years and equipped with either 225-cubic-inch, six-cylinder engines or 318-cubic-inch, eight-cylinder engines.

The recall announcement came after a Detroit newspaper reported earlier this month that Chrysler had discovered the problem in 1976, made assembly line changes and notified dealers — but never told most owners it had discovered the problem and developed ways to fix it.

The spokesman said none of the injuries in the 27 accidents was fatal.

'Three-Martini Lunch' Slogan Not Original

By WALTER R. MEARS
 WASHINGTON (AP) — There's one thing you can say about the three-martini lunch. But after all that gin, you tend to forget what it was.
 Oh, yes. It was that the phrase itself carries a certain ring of wickedness, which makes it a political plus as President Carter tries to put at least a taste of Carter is not the first president to tackle that issue, nor the first candidate to build a slogan around it.

 John F. Kennedy sent Congress a tax bill on April 20, 1961, recommending strict limits on business deductions for expense account entertainment. "These measures will strengthen both our tax structure and the moral fiber of our society," he said.
 Kennedy's Treasury Department said the bill would have permitted limited deductions for the cost of food and beverages "consumed in the course of conducting business. . . ."

The administration recommended limits of $4 to $7 a lunch. There was no mention of a martini quota. Nor did the bill get passed.
 All of that was 16 years ago. By now, $4 to $7 is about enough to entertain a customer or two at a hamburger stand. And forget the martinis.
 Sen. George McGovern went after the deductible business luncheon with a vengeance when he ran for president in 1972. The Democratic nominee had a standard line, part of almost every speech:
 "There is something fundamentally wrong with a tax system that permits a corporate executive to deduct his $20 martini lunch, while a workingman cannot deduct the price of his bologna sandwich."

 Sometimes, but not often, he switched the sandwich to tunafish. Since McGovern got clobbered, it really didn't make much difference what kind of sandwich it was.
 Now, after eight years during which Republicans ran the White House and like the out-of-office Democrats, enjoyed expense account lunches, President Carter is making his move.

"A business executive can charge off a $50 luncheon on a tax return and a truck driver cannot deduct his $1.50 sandwich," he complained during the campaign.
 That's McGovern, adjusted for inflation, minus the bologna sandwich, but with the martini slogan soon to follow.
 But an unusual alliance of businessmen and union leaders is ready to fight on the issue of tax-deductible entertainment. A congressional tax expert said businessmen see it as only a first step in taking away their deductible perks — like first-class air travel and hotel suites where a smaller room would do.

 Hotel and restaurant operators are worried about the impact on their business if entertainment deductions are cut sharply. Labor unions representing waiters, service employees — and the bartenders who make those martinis — are likely to line up against the change, too.
 They're worried about the impact on jobs.
 So the administration will have a fight on the issue. It may be that White House lobbyists can change some minds by inviting selected congressmen to lunch. White wine, of course.

Analysis

reform into his $25 billion tax cut proposal.
 Feed everybody in the office three martinis at lunchtime and there won't be much work done in the afternoon. So how can Congress object to knocking off that kind of business tax deduction.
 It can, has, and almost certainly will again.

Indeed, one knowledgeable congressional tax hand says the business lunch deduction may be the biggest stumbling block to approval of the new Carter tax bill.

Three martinis makes a neat slogan, but it's usually not a three martini lunch. Sometimes it's a Bloody Mary, or a beer or the white wine the Carters serve at the White House these days. Sometimes it's dry.

What is at issue is the deductibility of business lunches, wet or dry. The Carter bill will propose that only half the cost of these lunches be deductible as business expenses.

That could make it a one-and-a-half martini lunch, but never mind. The real issue isn't drinking at lunch. It's buying lunch for a customer, a client or a news source and writing it off as a tax deductible expense.

Gift Returns Not Unusual

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six of every 100 Americans will decide to return or exchange at least one Christmas gift, a college professor says.

Joel Woodey, of the University of Maryland at Baltimore, says these shoppers will find return policies varying from store to store.

The Council of Better Business Bureaus says some stores do not permit returns.

Generally, "a store has no obligation to refund the purchase price of an item, to exchange it or to give credit unless there has been misrepresentation or fraud or unless an item is defective," the group adds.

More stores would rather replace or repair items than face damage suits, Woodey says. Changes in liability laws no longer allow manufacturers and retailers to avoid responsibility for liability claims, Woodey notes.

Woodey suggests that consumers seeking to return a product go first to the seller, then to local consumer offices and finally to small claims court.

Filing a complaint is simple and inexpensive, and consumers often win, Woodey says.

Stock Market Analysts Uncertain Of Forecasts

By CHET CURRIER
NEW YORK (AP) — Please pardon the prophets of Wall Street if they seem to be a little tentative in their annual stock market forecasts this year.

Twelve months ago most of them were outspokenly bullish. But since then the Dow Jones industrial average has fallen about 200 points.

That experience has left many crystal balls clouded with a sticky residue of what commentators often call "uncertainty about the future" or, for variety, "doubts about the outlook."

One veteran of the analytical wars, John W. Schulz at Brea, Murray & Co., formulated this reply for those who might seek his prediction for 1978.

"Sorry, I don't have one. Over the years, I've come to the conclusion that stock market forecasts are neither necessary for acceptable investment results nor necessarily very helpful to the investor-consumer."

"Of course, it's quite possible to produce forecasts that subsequently turn out to be close enough to the mark to have been valuable for the consumer. But I defy any forecaster to forecast accurately which of his market forecasts will have been worth following."

"The problem here is complicated by the fact that the consumer insists on being supplied with forecasts, especially those traditional ones at yearend."

This consumer, Schulz wrote, "deserves to get trapped by forecasts that turn out to be wide of the mark: After all, he demands having an intrinsically unpredictable product served up to him."

Arthur Burns had the right prescription: "If you must forecast, forecast often. That way you give yourself every possible chance to change your mind..."

Raymond F. DeVoe Jr. of Hornblower, Weeks, Noyes & Trask Inc. deftly sidestepped all those obstacles to reach what he described as his "economic under-view" for 1978:

"Each year I am asked, 'What will conditions be like next year?' Usually that is a difficult question to answer and requires a considerable amount of hedging."

"This year, however, I can tell you definitely that there is an easing up of the rate at which business has been easing off. In other words, there is a noticeable slowing up of the slowdown."

an upturn in the down curve — but it is a good deal better than either a speed-up of the slowdown, or a deepening of the down curve; and it does suggest that the climate is about right for an adjustment of this readjustment.

"The indicators suggest a leveling off, referred to as bumping along rock bottom. This will be followed by a gentle pickup, then a faster pickup, a slowdown of the pickup, and finally a leveling off again."

Recording Studios Taking New Shape

NEW YORK (AP) — Pyramid-shaped recording studios will be built in Malibu, Calif., it has been announced here.

The reason is a belief that to achieve the best recorded sound, no two opposite walls should be the same.

The new studio will consist of a giant pyramid with three smaller pyramids inside, each a recording studio measuring 2,500 feet. Interior wall construction will alternate fiberglass squares with flat surfaces, each 16 inches square.

The announcement was made by Roy Cicala, president of the Record Plant here.

Man Charged With Murder

Murder charges were filed Tuesday against a Lubbock Independent School District employee in connection with the Christmas Day slaying of Clifton Ray Casbeer, 21, of 3214 23rd St.

Charged with Casbeer's gunshot death was John G. Morin, 18, of 316 Ave. R. Morin was released from county jail about 5:30 p.m. Tuesday on a $5,000 bond set by Justice of the Peace L.J. Blalack.

Police investigating a call about 11:45 p.m. Sunday found Casbeer body slumped across the steering wheel of his small foreign car, but his assailants, witnesses said, already had sped off in a yellow Chevrolet Nova.

A vehicle matching that description was detained just minutes later at the intersection of 4th Street and Avenue Q by Sgt. Jerry Parker of the Lubbock Police Department.

While several persons were taken into custody after other officers arrived to provide back-up support for Parker, Morin eventually was the only person detained, police said.

The fight began earlier Sunday when several men reportedly chased the man's car to the 2500-block of 4th Street.

One witness said he drove by the scene just in time to see the fight. He said he honked his horn in an attempt to chase the men away, but returned moments later when the horn blast failed to deter the assailants.

Before arriving, however, the witness said he saw the men get back into the yellow Chevrolet and flee. Casbeer reportedly also got into his own vehicle before the witness arrived, and turned west on 4th Street where the street intersects with University Avenue.

After proceeding about a block, witnesses said Casbeer's auto apparently went out of control, swerved left, continued through a median fence and halted against a south curb in the eastbound lane of 4th Street.

Summoned by the witness' frantic waving, police found Casbeer's body.

Though police reports indicated Casbeer had been beaten severely with beer bottles, Blalack attributed death to a single gunshot wound which entered below the victim's left armpit.

Police subsequently recovered a .38-caliber pistol from the stopped vehicle.

Police Look For Burglars

While major crime appeared to be lacking, police this morning continued their everlasting search for house burglars.

Curtis L. Brown of 1303 65th St. told police that sometime between Tuesday night and early this morning someone broke into his house and stole $1,350 worth of stereo equipment.

The burglar apparently forced open Brown's front door during the night to gain access to the stereo.

Two television sets were reported missing from Mitchell Clayton Wassom's 4610-B Belton St. residence.

Wassom said the break-in could have occurred between 4 p.m. Thursday and 6:30 p.m. Tuesday. He estimated his loss at $400.

Police were investigating a reported burglary at 2503 42nd St. home of Greg Earl Sherrod in which several hundred dollars worth of property was taken. Sherrod said the crime apparently took place between Monday and Tuesday mornings, and that he was missing jewelry, stereo equipment and a shotgun.

Beulah Hungerford of 2007 25th St. told police someone snatched televisions from her bedroom and living room between 9 a.m. Monday and 10 a.m. Tuesday. She estimated her loss at about $700.

While Mrs. Hungerford said she found nothing else missing, her house was ransacked.

A $300 television set was reported missing from Maudie Rene Hamilton's 2010 Elm St. residence. She said someone apparently broke through her bedroom window between noon Friday and 7 p.m. Tuesday.

David L. Stewart of 2715 3rd St., Apt. 62, told police more than $200 worth of property, including a CB radio, camera and knife, was taken from his house sometime Tuesday.

Steve Arthur Rampy of Plainview said he had been in a 19th Street doughnut shop for about 15 minutes Tuesday morning when someone made off with his suitcase from his car parked behind the shop. He estimated his loss at about $200.

John M. Hartly of 2508 38th St. said his pickup was parked at 2508 38th St. Tuesday afternoon when someone took $400 worth of tools from the bed of the truck.

Following a weekend marked by two homicides, criminal activity appeared to wane late Tuesday, although several Lubbockites bemoaned the loss of personal items in the latest rash of reported burglaries.

One Lubbock man was in the unenviable position of not being able to document his own birth or marriage following a break-in at his home.

August Collier of 2807 42nd St. said someone broke into his residence late Monday and stole a cash box and personal papers, including a birth certificate, marriage license and family papers. Collier estimated his loss at $260.

Whoever broke into Donald Booth's car Monday or Tuesday made off with the Huntsville resident's CB radio and pocket camera. The items, stolen from Booth's car parked in the 2700-block of 3rd Street, were valued at $70, according to reports.

Nothing was taken from Frankie Hollis' vehicle Monday or Tuesday, but vandals caused about $150 damage after they broke out her rear window while the vehicle was parked at a restaurant at 50th Street and Slide Road.

Jay Hamman Joins Staff Of Chamber

Jay Hamman, a Lubbock native and Texas Tech University graduate, will serve as public relations director for the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development.

Since graduating from Tech in 1976 with a major in advertising, public relations and a minor in general business, Hamman had been employed as an information assistant in the public relations office of the Sunday School Board of the Southern Baptist Convention in Nashville, Tenn.

In his capacity with the board, he was responsible for contributing stories and pictures and layout work for the board's publication, Circle.

As the chamber's public relations director he will be editor of the Greater Lubbock magazine and will work with the public relations and publicity committees of the organization as well as the Community Ambassadors program.

Hamman, a 1972 Monterey High School graduate, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F.J. Hamman, longtime Lubbock residents.

As a Tech student he was membership selection chairman for the Arts and Science Student Council, member of the Resident Assistants Advisory Board, Texas Tech University complex grounds use committee and a member of Sigma Chi Fraternity.

His honors and accomplishments include the dean's list, Kappa Tau Alpha Honorary Fraternity and the American Academy of Achievement Golden Scroll Award.

NEW LAW PLANNED

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — The United Arab Emirates, worried about the "phenomenon" of elderly oil barons marrying young foreign girls, has decided to draft a new law to outlaw it. The Emirates cabinet formed a special committee from the ministries of religion, interior, labor and foreign affairs to write the new law, the Qatar news agency reported.

Computerized Tombstone Ad Gives False Seguin Address

SEGUIN (AP) — Interested in a talking tombstone? Don't bother to write to an address here, even if it is listed in a national computer magazine.

It's a dead end, says the postmaster in this Central Texas town.

The magazine Kilobaud ran an advertisement recently offering computerized tombstones for "only $74.995." Those interested were asked to write to "Speak of the Dead" at P.O. Box 165 here.

Seguin Postmaster Elroy Exleben said about 25 letters have been returned so far, informing the writers there is no such address.

Contacted in his New Hampshire office, Kilobaud publisher Wayne Green insisted the $500 ad was legitimate. He said he talked to the person who placed it but could not divulge his name due to contractual promises.

John Dilks III of English Creek, N.J., who is credited with inventing the unique markers, said he is convinced the ad was a ruse. Dilks said a similar ad for his company, Creative Tombstones, appeared in another computer-oriented publication last spring.

The basic talking tombstone is a computer terminal that can be activated to produce on its screen a message, a picture of the deceased or an image of the family tree.

Other options, including a sensory device that signals the caretaker when the gravesite grass needs watering, are extra.

"They're all custom-made and we'll do whatever the customer wants," said Dilks. "We can go with a very traditional-type stone with a computer panel built in, or something in stainless steel, or space-age plastic or maybe a molded statue of the person with a read-out on the person's chest."

Ceremonies Slated For Four Judges

AUSTIN (UPI) — Swearing-in ceremonies for four judges on the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals will be held next Tuesday in the court's chambers. Voters approved expansion of the court from five to nine members in a constitutional amendment Nov. 8.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe appointed Jim Vollers of Beakmont and W.C. Davis of Bryan to two of the new slots. The constitutional amendment provided for the other two seats to be taken by two men currently serving as commissioners to the court, Carl E.F. Dally of Houston and Tom G. Davis of Vernon.

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

Open Letter to Researchers at the Rat Place:

Enough is enough. You people have succeeded in taking every bit of joy out of my life under the guise of sparing me disease and prolonging my life. For this I am appreciative.

Our relationship existed solely on blind trust. When you told me research rats succumbed from coffee, diet pills, loud noises, glue from envelopes, snow, I stopped drinking, dieting, listening, writing home and falling face down in the cold, wet stuff.

When you told me your rats expired from saccharin cyclamates, X-rays, booze, cigarettes and too much sun, I swore off all those things.

Now I must insist that you arrange a meeting between a bleached blond rat with lipstick on her teeth and myself or it's all over.

Frankly, I'm beginning to feel like I'm in a Mel Brooks movie and Marty Feldman just issued a story to a newspaper warning, "Two bleached blond rats died mysteriously today on two little bar stools in Transylvania. Dom DeLuise, a bungling researcher, says their deaths could be the result of hair bleach — however, their sugar-free root beer and their rouge containing No. 2 red dye are under investigation."

I am not the only one who is becoming suspicious of anonymous rats. We sit around in groups and ponder where are the people who make their little cigarettes? Their little cocktail glasses? Who does their makeup? Sews their little beach towels?

And if no one has questioned it — they should — why is it only the wonderful things of life are hazardous? Why don't rats succumb to mince pie? (I hate mince pie.) Or rhubarb? Or working Saturdays? Or seeing your dentist twice a year? Or sweat? Or fresh-cut grass or castor oil?

I'm sorry to be a doubter, but you researchers have to understand there's a lot at stake here — my ultimate will to live.

I respectfully request that at some date in the near future you arrange a meeting between your research rats and myself. Even if they have expired, but have a smile on their faces and look terrific, that's good enough for me.

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: I hope you find the following worthy of your column:

"At a certain moment a doctor will determine that my brain has ceased to function and that, for all intents and purposes, my life has stopped."

When that happens, do not attempt to install artificial life into my body by the use of a machine. And don't call this my "deathbed." Call it my "Bed of Life," and let my body be taken from it to help others lead fuller lives.

Give my sight to a man who has never seen a sunrise, a baby's face or love in the eyes of a woman.

Give my heart to a person whose own heart has caused nothing but endless days of pain.

Give my blood to the teenager who has been pulled from the wreckage of his car, so that he might live to see his grandchildren play.

Give my kidneys to one who depends on a machine to exist from week to week.

Take my bones, every muscle, every fiber and nerve in my body and find a way to make a crippled child walk.

Explore every corner of my brain. Take my cells, if necessary, and let them grow so that someday a speechless boy will shout at the crack of a bat and a deaf girl will hear the sound of rain against her window.

Burn what is left of me and scatter the ashes to the winds to help the flowers grow.

If you must bury something, let it be my faults, my weaknesses, and all prejudice against my fellow man.

Give my soul to God.

If by chance you wish to remember me, do it with a kind deed or word to someone who needs you. If you do all I have asked, I will live forever.

DEAR ABBY: My husband owns his own business and travels over a large territory, which means he must be away from home over the weekend quite often.

He keeps asking me to meet him out of town for the weekend as he gets homesick for me.

Abby, we have three children, 8, 11, and 13, and although I can always get someone to take of the children, I have mixed emotions about running off and leaving them just to keep my husband company. What would YOU do?

Traveler's Wife

Dear Wife: I would join my husband as often as common sense and practicality allowed. I would rather have someone taking care of my children than my husband.

Problems? Tell them to Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, write Abby: Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The Slim Gourmet

By Barbara Gibbons

With party time in full swing — and the fireplace season dead ahead — it's time to talk about the waistwatcher's most calorie-safe snack: popcorn. Even the two-fisted snack-snatcher finds it hard to scoop up more than 50 calories worth at once!

Consider this: Plain popcorn is less than 30 calories a cupful (and you'd need two hands cupped together to collect that much at once.) Oil-popped is about 50 calories. Buttered popcorn? That depends on who does the buttering, but even so, it's rarely more than 100 calories a cupful, and less fattening than most alternatives. Differing from chips and dippers, popcorn is "self-contained." It doesn't collect calories in the form of cheese spread or sour cream dip on its way from the cocktail table to your mouth. Popcorn is even high fiber! Popcorn is more than a spectator snack, it's something to do! Popcorn-making is fun for all ages. Popcorn is an unpretentious, friendly food that goes best with fireside floor-sitting.

Speaking of fireplaces, that's the least fattening place to make popcorn... in one of those wire baskets specifically designed for popping corn. No fats or oils needed.

POPCORN WITH LITTLE OR NO FAT — You can still make popcorn with very little (or no) fat added.

The best appliance is an electric corn popper designed for the job... choose one with a nonstick finish to minimize the risk of sticking or burning. There are models with a revolving inner arm to keep the kernels moving as they pop... better yet!

Lacking a corn popper, choose a big, heavy, deep pot with a nonstick finish. It should be covered with the lid slightly off-center. That allows the steam to escape and prevents soggyness.

To make popcorn with little or no fat, spray the inside well with cooking spray for no-fat frying. If you wish, add one tablespoon (no more is needed) of cooking oil (not butter or margarine). Add two or three kernels of corn and turn heat high. When the kernels pop, add one-half cup fresh popping corn.

Shake the pot or popper to keep the corn moving. When the popping stops, it's ready. Empty popped corn immediately into a bowl and season with salt or butter-flavored salt (no butter needed).

SEASONED POPCORN — If you prefer, sprinkle the hot popcorn with garlic salt, seasoned salt, hickory-smoked salt or salt substitute, for folks on low-salt diets.

LEFTOVER POPCORN should be allowed to cool, then bagged in plastic. It can be reheated and re-crisped by spreading it on a cookie tin, and putting it in an oven preheated to 325 degrees for five minutes or so. Or, recycle it into tomorrow's hamburgers. Here's a budget and calorie-stretcher:

CHILI POPCORN BURGERS

- 1 lb fat-trimmed beef round, ground
- 1/2 onion, minced
- 2 tsp chopped green pepper (optional)
- 1 egg, lightly beaten
- 1/2 cup plain tomato sauce
- 1 tsp chili powder
- 2 cups leftover salted popcorn, lightly crushed

Combine ingredients. (Reserve two or three tablespoons tomato sauce to brush on burgers.) Mix lightly. Shape into four hamburgers. Brush lightly with a little of the reserved tomato sauce and broil 5 to 7 minutes. Turn. Top with remaining tomato sauce and broil three or four minutes more. About 200 calories each.

A DAILY MESSAGE FROM
The Newspaper Bible
Rev. 13:16-18, 14:1-10A

16 He required everyone great and small, rich and poor, slave and free — to be tattooed with a certain mark on the right hand or on the forehead.

17 And no one could get a job or even buy in any store without the permit of that mark, which was either the name of the Creature or the code number of his name.

18 Here is a puzzle that calls for careful thought to solve it. Let those who are able, interpret this code: the numerical values of the letters in his name add to 666!

CHAPTER 14

1 Then I saw a Lamb standing on Mount Zion in Jerusalem, and with Him were 144,000 who had His Name and His Father's Name written on their foreheads.

2 And I heard a sound from heaven like the roaring of a great waterfall or the rolling of mighty thunder. It was the singing of a choir accompanied by harps.

3 This tremendous choir—144,000 strong—sang a wonderful new song in front of the throne of God and before the four Living Beings and the twenty-four Elders; and no one could sing this song except those 144,000 who had been redeemed from the earth.

4 For they are spiritually undefiled, pure as virgins,<sup>1</sup> following the Lamb wherever He goes. They have been purchased from among the men on the earth as a consecrated offering to God and the Lamb.

5 No falsehood can be charged against them; they are blameless.

6 And I saw another angel flying through the heavens, carrying the everlasting Good News to preach to those on earth—to every nation, tribe, language and people.

7 "Fear God," he shouted, "and extol His greatness. For the time has come when He will sit as Judge. Worship Him who made the heaven and the earth, the sea and all its sources."

8 Then another angel followed him through the skies, saying, "Babylon is fallen, is fallen—that great city—because she seduced the nations of the world and made them share the wine of her intense impurity and sin."

9 Then a third angel followed them shouting, "Anyone worshipping the Creature from the sea<sup>2</sup> and his statue and accepting his mark on the forehead or the hand,

10 Must drink the wine of the anger of God; it is poured out undiluted into God's cup of wrath.

Opening lead: Queen of ♦.

A slight lapse by the defense gave declarer a chance to put on a virtuoso display to bring home his shaky spade game.

The bidding was routine. After East's overcall, which meets with our approval, South gave his partner a choice of games with his jump to three spades. Since North had no stopper in the enemy suit, he obviously preferred the suit contract.

West led the queen of clubs, and East had the opportunity to direct the defense. He should have played his lowest club, to request that his partner shift the attack. The only suit East could want led was hearts, and that would have rendered declarer helpless there and then.

Unfortunately, East became obsessed with cashing club tricks. He overtook the queen with the king and continued with ace and another in an effort to promote a trump trick for his partner. In view of dummy's trump holding, that was a forlorn hope.

Declarer ruffed high and drew three rounds of trumps. East sluffing a heart. It seemed that the fate of the contract hinged on the heart finesse, but that was unlikely to succeed.

considering East's vulnerable overcall.

Declarer found a very neat solution. He rashed his remaining trump, discarding a heart from dummy. Then he ran three diamonds, ending on the table. The hand was reduced to three cards. Dummy held the ace-queen of hearts and a club, and East was forced to come down to the guarded king of hearts and a club honor.

Declarer simply exited with dummy's club, forcing East to win the trick. Now

East had to lead a heart from the king into dummy's major tenace, so declarer's only losers were three club tricks.

Policy Upsets Farm Leaders

By BERNARD BRENNER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland concedes he has upset some farm leaders by contending that future farm policy should be built around research on nutritional needs.

But he isn't backing away from the policy, Bergland said in a recent interview.

"Some farm leaders are terribly uneasy with what I've done in expanding the department's area of interest," he said.

"They thoroughly disapprove, and I've been criticized by some farm leaders at public meetings. I've not only defended what we've done, I've gone on the offensive to point out that this is the people's department," Bergland added.

The agriculture secretary indicated much of the flak he's getting has grown out of controversies over food safety and standards, including a current effort to reduce the use of nitrates in curing meats such as bacon.

The nitrate case revolves around the fact that the chemical can combine with naturally occurring materials under some circumstances to produce cancer-causing nitrosamines. Assistant Agriculture Secretary Carol Foreman, a prime target of some farm and food industry critics, said recently she was confident methods of assuring nitrosamine-free bacon could be found.

"Some people claim that I had no business at all getting into the nitrate issue. I'm viewed by some as an enemy of the pork industry," Bergland said.

"But my position is that we'd better know more about this (food safety and nutrition) stuff. We've had enough decision-making on the basis of rumor and hearsay and political pressure. The more we can learn about the role of eggs, animal fats, food additives and all the rest, the better off everybody will be — especially farmers," he said.

Once farmers know what's going to happen about food standards, they can adjust their operations, Bergland contended.

"I would rather know the truth wheth-

Analysts See No Change For Farmers

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Most, if not all, of the increase in gross farm income in 1978 will result from expanded government payments, and will be largely offset by rising production costs, according to two economists.

That prediction was made in an analysis of the economic plight of the American farmer by C. Edward Harshbarger and Marvin Duncan in the monthly review of the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City.

In the December review, they wrote that the farmer's plight is not likely to improve significantly in 1978.

"Barring an unexpected spurt in exports, net farm income seems destined to remain at a relatively low level in 1978 — perhaps below $20 billion. Returns of this size are not conducive to the maintenance of a strong agriculture in the long run," the analysts said.

The economists predicted expanded sales of livestock and possibly higher price for cattle would cause total cash receipts from farm marketings in 1978 to nearly match the levels of the previous two years.

Harshbarger and Duncan said net farm income has slipped from a high of nearly $30 billion in 1973 to about $20 billion this year. "Most of this decline is attributable to sharply rising production costs, which underscores agriculture's vulnerability to the ravages of inflation."

The Stamp act of 1765 was the first internal tax that Britain ever imposed.

Publication Says Ford Dropped 'Dual Displacement' Engine

DETROIT (AP) — Has another of Ford Motor Co.'s "better ideas" gone the way of the Edsel? A trade publication says yes.

Ford has canceled plans to sell a six-cylinder engine that would have run on three cylinders under light load, the Metalworking News edition of American Metal Market reported in this week's editions.

A Ford spokesman said he was not aware of the report. The auto industry is currently shut down for the holiday week.

The introduction of the engine, expected sometime in the next calendar year, was postponed indefinitely because prototypes did not achieve the fuel economy expected of them, Metalworking News reported.

In typical driving, the engine was forced to run on all six cylinders more than Ford had expected, the report said.

The publication said its report was based on "sources within the company."

When Ford announced development of the so-called "dual displacement" engine in September 1976, company officials predicted a fuel savings of 10 percent.

"We are very optimistic about its potential," a top executive said then.

Ford will continue its work on the concept, concentrating more on V-8's, the Metalworking News report said.

The V-8 engines being tested include some that will operate on four, five, six or seven cylinders. The reduction in-cylinder use in those engines may be made during highway cruising, or at idle, Metalworking News said.

Bridge Tenders Say Job Not Hard, Just Boring

SEATTLE (AP) — Raising and lowering the city's seven drawbridges isn't really hard work, bridge tenders admit, but it is boring. Some say it's even a lousy place to study.

"It gets lonely up here," says Clint Christian, night tender on the Fremont Bridge. "People drive by, ride by, pedal by, fly by, walk by, jog by and sail by — but they don't stop by."

Visitors, in fact, are forbidden.

"The most distressing aspect of the job is that you are all alone but can't be private," Christian says. "How many times do you see a bridge-tender at the windows? Hardly ever. If you stand and stretch, the whole world sees."

Christian's perch contains an imposing array of buttons, dials, levers and lights. For the most part, all he has to do is push the buttons in proper sequence — power on, stop lights on, lower exit gates, lower approach gates, unlock center lock, open bridge — then reverse the sequence after the vessel has passed.

It is a more difficult operation on the heavily traveled Spokane Street Bridge over the Duwamish Waterway, where Clyde Vinton has been at the controls for 28 years.

As senior bridge-tender, he also is the best-paid — $7.55 an hour, including a 50-cent bonus for working the most difficult bridge.

Boston Official Says 'Gallery' Aiding In Collection Of City Taxes

By JOANNE D'ALCOMO
 BOSTON (AP) — More people are paying their late taxes three months after the unveiling of a "rogues' gallery" picturing several taxpayers officials said were delinquent in paying their bills, the city tax collector says.

 The "rogues' gallery," located in a prominent place in City Hall, featured photographs of 18 taxpayers city officials said owed a total of nearly $20 million.
 Three politicians, a national theater chain, the Boston stock exchange and the bankrupt Penn Central railroad were among the targets of the exhibit, which was constructed in September and dismantled a month later.

Tax Collector Newell Cook, who has kept the large black and white photographs in his office, admits the gallery was a publicity gimmick, but says it also was a success.

"It shows the little guy we go after the big guys," he said.

Cook said his department has been able to collect more overdue taxes than last year, but the biggest gain has been the number of this year's bills that have been paid on time.

This year's collections are running about $5 million to $6 million ahead of the taxes paid for the same period last year, Cook said. The taxpayers shown in the photographs, however, still have not paid all the taxes the city says they owe and the city is preparing to take them to court.

Although the photographs have been taken down, the controversy it created has not yet settled.

Cook faces a total of $7 million in damage suits filed by two politicians who claim the publicity harmed them.

"It's a violation of my constitutional rights," said State Sen. Bill Owens, one of the campaign's targets.

Owens, who represents the city's Roxbury section, and two other politicians succeeded in obtaining a court order forcing the city to remove their pictures shortly after the display was set up.

"I don't want to think I was embarrassed, but I might have been," Owens said. "But then I think, why should I be embarrassed that I'm broke?"

Governor's Councillor Herbert Connolly says he was "hurt" when he learned he was in the gallery.

"It was to harass people," said Connolly, who claims the city made a mistake when it listed him as a delinquent.

"We have a system through the courts and it should have been done in a proper and orderly fashion," he added.

The tax collector, though, promises to do it again if he believes it will do some good.

"If I'm going to be sued for collecting tax money, then so be it," Cook said.

The Almanac TODAY IN HISTORY

By United Press International
 Today is Wednesday, Dec. 28, the 562nd day of 1977 with three to follow.
 The moon is between its full phase and last quarter.
 The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Saturn.
 The evening star is Jupiter.
 Those born on this date are under the sign of Capricorn.
 Woodrow Wilson, 28th president of the United States, was born Dec. 28, 1856.
 On this day in history:
 In 1832, John Calhoun, at odds with President Andrew Jackson, became the first vice president to resign.

In 1846, Iowa was admitted to the Union as the 29th state.
 In 1869, William Semple of Mount Vernon, Ohio, was granted a patent for chewing gum.
 In 1945, Congress officially recognized the "Pledge of Allegiance" to the flag of the United States.
 A thought for the day:
 British novelist Aldous Huxley said, "There's one corner of the universe you can be certain of improving, and that's your own self."

Geisel Signs Brazilian Divorce Bill

BRASILIA, Brazil (UPI) — Divorce became legal in this predominantly Roman Catholic country today, ending a 25-year struggle to alter the Brazilian constitution.

President Ernesto Geisel, a Lutheran who remained strictly removed from the divorce debate, signed the bill this week without making any alterations in its text.

Presidential press spokesman Col. Toledo Camargo said Geisel had doubts about the legality of the bill's article 38 which allows individuals the right to only one legal divorce, but signed the bill in keeping with his policy of "being strictly removed from the process since the beginning of its legislative process."

Camargo said a decision concerning article 38's legality will have to come from the Brazilian Supreme Court.

Congress approved the pro-divorce constitutional amendment for the second and final time June 23 by a vote of 226 to 159 despite a last-minute pressure campaign by the National Conference of Brazilian Bishops who warned the church would "take note of the names of politicians who favor the approval of divorce."

The adopted amendment, the seventh proposed in the last 25 years by Sen. Nelson Carneiro, changed the constitutional clause reading "marriages are indissoluble" to read "marriages are dissoluble after three years of legal or five years of de-facto separation."

Unity Sought In Church Conference

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
NEW YORK (AP) — A joint Roman Catholic-Episcopal church group in the United States, while acknowledging differences, said it has found "a significant and substantial unity between them."

Reporting on 12 years of work by the national Roman Catholic-Anglican consultation, participants Tuesday advocated that this "unity be given expression in an immediate responding together" in various ways of work and worship.

In the report, summarizing the results of 19 meetings, the joint dialogue group said the two churches "agree at the level of faith" on such basic matters as baptism, the Bible as the word of God, Holy Communion or the Eucharist, priesthood and ordination, ethics and personal life in Christ, the nature and mission of the church.

The participants suggested the sponsoring bodies approve establishment of any or all of five joint task forces in the following areas: Evangelism, prayer and spirituality, world hunger, "covenants" of cooperation between Catholic and Episcopal parishes and other bodies, and on the pastoral role of bishops.

The group identified four "problem areas" which were recommended to the sponsoring churches for further investigation, including:

- Authority in the church, including the role of pope and bishops, but said further work may permit drawing up a set of mutual affirmations about the ministry of the Bishop of Rome, the pope.
- The "growing claims of Christian women for full participation and partnership with men in the life of the church and the world." The Episcopal Church now admits women to the priesthood, Roman Catholicism does not.
- The relation between "normative tradition and individual conscience in our respective churches."
- A study of "the degree of unity that each of us feels necessary as prerequisite to sacramental sharing in communion."

Co-chairmen of the group are Roman Catholic Bishop Raymond W. Lillard of Savannah, Ga., and Episcopal Bishop Arthur A. Vogel of Kansas City, Mo.

City Break-Ins

thorn's 2806 42nd St. residence Monday, stealing her $350 television set, reports indicated.

Meanwhile, Carman Garcia of Slaton said someone stole her purse and wallet, along with $20 cash, Sunday or Monday. The items were taken from her car which was parked in a lot at a club at 34th Street and Slide Road.

$23.7 Million Paid In Cigarette Taxes

AUSTIN (UPI) — Texans paid $23.7 million in cigarette taxes during November — an increase of $708,000 from the same month in 1976. Treasurer Warren G. Harding reported Tuesday.

Harding said stamp tax collections on cigarettes for November, 1977, totaled $24,704,100, compared to $22,995,400 for November, 1976. Collections also were up from October, 1977, when cigarette tax revenues totaled $24,558,179.

HY GARDNER HAS THE ANSWER:

Glad You Asked That!

We heard that one of the gifts Amy Carter wanted for Santa Claus was a chainsaw. Which makes more sense than you think. Chainsaws aren't half as dangerous as chain-smoking. . . . The CBS special her peers staged for Elizabeth Taylor seemed more sincere than any of those movie or TV award spectacles. She simply glowed with the love heaped upon her, overwhelmed, "showing off" to her husband, John Warner, at her side. Of all those who feted Elizabeth and were most entertaining, our kudos go to Frank Gorshin and Rowan and Martin, whose presence on TV again would give the season a vitality it now lacks. . . . Why are they picking on Charo with the accusation that she cheated on her age? Doesn't everybody — regardless of sex? . . . Nice to hear that "The Show of Shows" is coming back — as a book. Which could be followed by the reuniting of Sid Caesar and Imogene Coca.

"The reason I enjoy golf so much," admits Bob Hope, "is I've found it's the perfect game for guys who are too old for girls but still want to get into a trap! . . . while on the subject, the brilliant Carl Reiner, in an ad paid for by a sports equipment bankroller (AMF), confesses: "My tennis was laughable, which got me invited to loads of celebrity tournaments. I'd disguise how bad I was by playing it for laughs. The spectators seemed to enjoy me, but I didn't. So I resolved to take lessons and gain respect. That was two years ago. I'm still getting laughs — but they're not as raucous!"

No, Jackie Gleason did not originate "The Honeymooners" on radio. The original series co-starred Grace and Eddie Albert.

The late Laird Cregar was not related to Raymond Burr. What they had in common was acting talent and plenty of hett.

Orson Welles's dad didn't "invent" an airplane — but, it says here, "he tried very hard to invent one." . . . Soap opera magazine editor Paul Denis claims that when Erica Slezak of "One Late to Live" was redecorating her co-op with Early American antiques, George Burns sent a card asking if he was included in her decorations.

Paul Burke, star of the "12 O'Clock High" TV series, "Naked City," "Noah's Ark," etc., between acting assignments is the TV spokesman for those thousands of Radio Shacks. Paul's pop was neither a cop nor an actor. He was a New Orleans saloon-keeper. . . . Michelle Phillips, whose romance with Warren Beatty wavers but doesn't wilt entirely, dedicates her new album to, you guessed who — Warren Beatty. It's titled "Victim of Romance." . . . Tina Louise of "Gilligan's Island" has only one regret about that series. She no longer collects royalties on all those reruns. Ruthie and Milton Berle proudly tell us their son Billy gets his pilot's license this year. He started flying when he was only 3. . . . Here's a pip we overheard at the bar of Pip's n Beverly Hills: A movie producer telling Hollywood manager Mimi Weber: "Darling, I'm so happy for your success with Nick Nolte and other clients, must apologize when I think of all the phone calls you made that I failed to return!"

When Jay Murray talks about "my son the professor," he's referring to Warren, a former network manager of comedy shows, who taught a class in humor at the California State University. . . . Lainie Kazan, once understudy and nightly threat to Barbra Streisand in the early Broadway run of "Funny Girl," is now the star and hostess of the Lainie Room in Century City's Playboy Club and packing them in like some cities are packing in snow. VIPs can rent the multimillion-dollar estate of Harold Lloyd for private parties, fully staffed. . . . Don't shed any tears about not seeing Max Baer Jr. in a new series. He's a multimillionaire from the other side of the camera. He produced "The Macon County Line," "Ode to Billy Joe," etc.

LIZA RETURNS TO THEATER — Liza Minnelli read mail in her dressing room at the Majestic Theater in New York Tuesday night as she prepared to resume her starring role in "The Act." ## Air Force Investigates Crash

NEW SALEM, Mass. (AP) — The Air Force has begun an investigation of a fighter-bomber crash into a thick grove of trees near this central Massachusetts town.

An Air National Guard Sgt. Dan Sosnicki said air police guarded the F-100 wreckage overnight, pending the arrival of an Air Force investigative team.

An Air National Guard pilot had parachuted safely from the disabled jet Tuesday, and the plane glided three miles over hilly, forested central Massachusetts before coming down in the trees.

The pilot, Capt. David O. Clark, 36, of Springfield, was immediately picked up by two teen-agers returning from an ice skating party. A military helicopter flew him back to Barnes Municipal Airport in Westfield, where his flight originated.

Wilson Center Adds Director

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The grandson of Woodrow Wilson, dean of the Washington Cathedral since 1951, has been named associate director of the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars.

The Rev. Francis B. Sayre joins the Wilson Center fulltime March 1, director James Billington announced Tuesday.

Sayre, well known in Washington and across the country, was responsible for completion of much of the famed gothic style cathedral, including installation of half of the cathedral's stained glass.

Billington said Sayre's "knowledge of the Washington community and his many interests reaching beyond Washington will help us in charting the future development of the Center which is dedicated to the memory of the scholar and president who was his grandfather."

Sayre was born in the White House Jan. 17, 1915 and was educated at Williams College, Union Theological Seminary in New York and the Episcopal Theological School in Cambridge, Mass.

air combat training flight north. He said on the way back to Barnes, Clark reported difficulty with his jet.

Clark was alone in the plane.

Statistics Come Under Scrutiny

By ARNOLD SAWISLAK
WASHINGTON (UPI) — About once a month, Julius Shiskin becomes a television star. He and his numbers become big news.

Shiskin is the commissioner of the Labor department's Bureau of Labor Statistics; the man in charge of such vital federal measurements of national economic health as the monthly estimate of unemployment and the consumer price index. You see him on television explaining the numbers he has collected to congressional committees and reporters.

When Shiskin speaks, things happen. The wages of millions of workers and retirees are tied to the consumer price index. Billions in federal funds are allocated on the basis of unemployment statistics.

Recently Shiskin gave reporters a preview of a new price index that is going to replace the "market basket" that has measured the cost of goods and services in the United States for several decades.

The new CPI, which is supposed to be ready in February — reflecting January prices — will represent a much broader sample of items and the shopping habits of a much larger group of consumers.

In the course of explaining what the new index will tell consumers, Shiskin also went to some pains to explain what it will not reveal.

Shiskin emphasized that the CPI measures only the prices of things most Americans buy each month. But it does not deal with such important outlays as taxes, and it is not to be regarded as a "cost of living" index.

While he was at it, Shiskin also warned against regarding the monthly estimates of unemployment as measures of economic hardship in the United States. The jobless figures are based on people who actively sought work last month — thus leaving out "discouraged workers" who have stopped seeking jobs.

BLS does have another index for discouraged workers, but it does not try to measure the impact of unemployment on the people it counts as jobless.

Thus, the unemployed father of a family which has no other source of support is counted the same as the pensioner trying to supplement a retirement income, a teen-ager trying to earn enough for a new stereo system or a wife who is looking for work even though her husband has a full-time job.

Shiskin said it would be necessary to inquire into income to get a picture of economic hardship with the jobless figures, but that measurement is in the jurisdiction of the Health, Education and Welfare department, not Labor.

The commissioner said it would be possible for BLS to collect some of these other statistics, but it had not been given the assignment or the funds to do so.

The government spends a lot of money to collect the statistics Shiskin works with, and probably gets its money's worth. But it struck at least one reporter in the audience that there is something odd about collecting figures on prices but getting no valid cost of living index; surveying unemployment and coming out with no useful measure of economic hardship.

Church Group Proposes FCC Reforms

By JOAN HANAUER
NEW YORK (UPI) — The United Church of Christ is proposing that the Federal Communications Commission grant broadcast licenses to stations for an indefinite period.

This is not an example of Christmas charity gone berserk — the church's office of communication also wants the FCC to permit filing of public petitions to revoke station licenses at any time for action by the FCC.

The notion behind the proposal is simple — the present three-year license renewal now required is a waste of time and money for stations that fulfill their responsibilities, and three years is too long to allow a station that isn't acting in the public interest to stay in business.

The United Church of Christ is one of the most active and aware groups in watch-dogging the television industry and it has just put forth a draft bill of proposed reform of the Communications Act of 1934.

What is remarkable about many of the proposed reforms is their simplicity. It seems the height of reason to ask the FCC to specify the standard by which a broadcaster's performance in the public interest is measured.

As the legal memorandum prepared for the office of communication by Lewis J. Paper, of Lowenstein, Sandler, Brochin, Kohl and Fisher, explains:

"All too often in the past the FCC has failed to articulate the criteria it has applied or will apply in evaluating a broadcast licensee's performance. This chronic ambiguity on the FCC's part makes it difficult for the public to assert its rights in Commission proceedings because the public is often unsure as to what it has a right to expect from licensees. The FCC's ambiguity here also creates problems for the licensees, who may suddenly find themselves subject to a standard previously unknown to them."

The proposed reforms also would allow license challengers pre-hearing access to station records.

Americans Put More Money In Social Programs

By STEVEN R. HURST
WASHINGTON (AP) — Social programs, both private and public, now take more than a quarter of the gross national product, double the figure of 25 years ago.

But despite the big increase, a new study on American life says, Americans are showing greater support for putting dollars into social programs.

Social programs in 1950 were taking 13.4 percent of a gross national product of $284.7 billion. In 1975, they were taking 27.3 percent of $1.51 trillion.

In 1973, 53.8 percent of Americans polled said too much was going to welfare programs. Two years later, only 45.2 percent of the group felt the same way.

But at the same time, a majority of Americans said they placed higher priorities on improving national health, halting crime, dealing with drug addiction, protecting the environment and improving education than on social programs.

Those are some of the findings in "Social Indicators 1976," a 564-page volume of graphs and charts put together over a four-year period by Denis F. Johnston, a Commerce Department sociologist, and his team of statisticians.

Commerce Secretary Juanita Krepps said the document is designed to make it easier for Americans to decide what progress the country is making or failing to make toward the common goal of improving our lives.

The report spans subject matters ranging from trends in U.S. health improvements to what Americans are spending to live today compared to 30 years ago.

It offers the obscure — one table is titled, "Selected Characteristics of Persons Doing Volunteer Work, 1965 and 1974" — to the obvious — noting that 37.4 percent of people not registering to vote say they aren't interested in voting.

One table measures membership in the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts (membership in both is down from 1970).

The department also offers a disclaimer, warning against "unwarranted conclusions as to cause-and-effect relationships or unwarranted inferences as to the reasons for the observed differences."

A few other indications of changing American life listed in the report:

—The amount of leisure time available to Americans increased 11 percent between 1965 and 1975, but time devoted to family care declined nearly 25 percent. Time spent working changed little.

—In 1960, some 28 percent of the population listed television watching as a favorite leisure activity. By 1975, the figure had jumped to 46 percent.

—Nervous breakdowns, or feeling that a breakdown was near, became rarer in the 1960s. But women continued to report breakdowns or the feeling that one was approaching twice as often as men.

—Americans are dying for different reasons than they did 10 and 25 years ago. Deaths from heart attacks and strokes are down. Deaths from suicide, murder and cirrhosis of the liver — commonly associated with alcoholism — are up.

—The median income of all American families, taking inflation into account, had nearly doubled in the 1970s compared to the 1940s. Minority groups did even better, making 2.4 times as much per family for the same time comparison.

—More of the average family's spendable income is going for housing now than at the end of World War II, up from 21.7 percent to 27.8 percent. But the share that goes for food and clothing dropped sharply in the same period, from 47.6 percent to 30.6 percent in 1974.

—People who own their own homes are twice as likely to rate their neighborhoods as "excellent" than are renters. But the majority of both think their neighborhoods are at least "good."

—Most people — about 63 percent — describe their marriages as "very happy," about the same percentage as two years earlier. And an increasing number, up to almost 50 percent in 1975, believe it should be more difficult to get a divorce.

The best news in the report may be for plumbers. The percentage of homes with indoor plumbing has increased from 55.4 percent in 1940 to 96.8 percent in 1974.

Bobcats Claw LHS 80-55; Dunbar Ekes Past Morton

By JIM FERGUSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
Ken Cleveland had nary a vision of grandeur when he entered his Dimmitt Bobcats in the Caprock basketball tournament's large-school division.

Playing the part of David, looking to KO a Goliath or two along the way never crossed the Dimmitt mentor's mind. Or did it?
"The tournament director called and asked me if we would like to go up a division this year," Cleveland explained. "And that's really the only reason I did it."

Cleveland admitted though he wanted the 'Cats to play some tough competition before the district action starts next week.

Also hitting in double figures for CHS were Mike Higgins with 10 points and Iru Shockley with 15 points.

During today's play, Dimmitt takes on Estacado at 7:30 p.m., Dunbar meets Iowa Park at 9 p.m., Morton plays Monterey at 2 p.m. and Lubbock High tangles with Coronado at 12:30 p.m.

Dimmitt, which won the small-school division last year, attempts to become the first team in the 19-year history of the event to win crowns in both divisions.

—But Cleveland said that might be easier said than done.

"Estacado has a good basketball team, the best record in the city and all that," Cleveland said. "And they should be hard to beat, all right."

The lopsided score was somewhat of a puzzle for Cleveland, who has watched the Cats fall to the Westerners by three points and then come back and whip the Lubbock group by four points.

"It's just one of those things," Cleveland said, adding that there is really no way to explain what happened on the court at Lubbock Coliseum.

"I could see how the home court advantage helped during the first couple of games," he added. "But here, well, I don't know."

Then he simply shrugged.
The Cats, now 14-3, opened the game with a fast start and held 39-31 halftime lead due mainly to Rawls' aerial acrobatics and Bradford's hot shooting from the lane.

Lubbock High found itself trailing by as many as 14 points during the first half, but the scrappy bunch continued to peck away at the DHS lead. Scotty Garcia, who ended the evening with 8 points, hit a

T-Bowl On Rise

WHATEVER ONE THOUGHT of the 1977 Tangerine Bowl—and, with the 40-17 final score, there are definitely schools of thinking at each extreme—it is certain that the bowl is on the rise. A rapid rise.

T-Bowl officials had sworn for weeks before the game that this was the case, but outsiders couldn't know whether or not it was merely a case of the boys putting a good front before the public. But the bowl proved its potential.

The bowl has existed since 1946, but only began to reach—er, try for—big-time status in 1976 when Oklahoma State and Brigham Young performed before 32,000 fans in a stadium just enlarged from 18,000 seats to 50,546.

This year, Texas Tech and Florida State drew a crowd that officially numbered 44,502, and that appeared to be an accurate count, not the usual inflated one. This and a ticket price increase of $2 ($8 to $10) enabled the bowl to substantially increase the payments it made to each participating team.

In 1976, the T-Bowl paid Oklahoma State and Brigham Young $107,000 apiece, the lowest payoff of the year's 11 major bowls. This year, Tech's and Florida State's purses are expected to be in the $190,000 range, although nothing has been announced officially.

A MONTH AGO, T-Bowl officials had hoped to draw 40,000 fans and pay $175,000 to each team, but they increased their goal as the game neared and the total ticket sale went higher. They missed on their magic number of 45,688, which would have meant a $200,000 payday for each club, but not by much.

The $190,000 figure clearly outshines $107,000, and it tops what the Astro-Bluebonnet ($185,000) and Sun (160,000) Bowls paid in 1976. Of course, bowls expect to increase their payoffs each year—nine of the 11 did a year ago—but the Tangerine greatly narrowed the gap between it and the others this season, if it didn't actually overtake one or two.

Tangerine Bowl director Bert Lacey has said that his bowl has the potential to be the best bowl, other than the Rose, Cotton, Sugar and Orange, which are more established and far outdistance the others in attendance and payoffs to participating teams.

The 1977 report is not nearly completed, since eight of this year's 12 major bowls are yet to be played, but there is little reason to doubt Lacey's contention.

THE GAP BETWEEN what the Tangerine Bowl is expected to pay this year and what the Gator Bowl—the fifth largest bowl in those terms—paid in 1976 ($299,000) is substantial, but not insurmountable when one considers the improvement from 1976 to 1977. Other payoffs in 1976 were $286,000 (Lierty), $224,000 (Peach) and $217,000 (Fiesta).

It's hard to dwell too much on the payoffs to the participating clubs. The larger its payoff the better chance a bowl has of attracting top teams.

Lacey's timetable was to get 40,000 fans this year and then fill the stadium in 1978. The latter appears to be a definite possibility, barring poor weather or bad luck in team selection.

Lacey has said that the bowl needs a strong Southern host team each year to help attract a good crowd, at least until the bowl becomes firmly established. Undoubtedly, the theory has some validity. The stadium was packed last Friday with vocal FSU partisans, ecstatic over their school's first winning season since 1972 and its first bowl appearance since 1971.

The bowl's principal inducements are generally good weather and the vast amount of activities in the Orlando, Fla., area for teams and fans to indulge in.

Near Orlando are Sea World, Circus World, Disney World, Cypress Gardens and Cape Canaveral, site of the Kennedy Space Center. Beaches are just 40 miles away by interstate highway, a short distance to travel, particularly if a fan is from an area like Lubbock that is far from much water.

Last year, Brigham Young and Oklahoma State players and coaches spoke highly of the attractions in Orlando and of the Tangerine Bowl's hospitality. Tech and Florida State people voiced similar sentiment.

ONE GOAL THE bowl must attain before it becomes a truly major one is land a major television network contract. MIZLOU has telecast the bowl for the past two years and it will complete its contract in 1978. T-Bowl officials naturally hope to hook up with a major network then.

MIZLOU covered more than 90 per cent of the nation with the Tech-FSU telecast, but it can't provide the saturation and expertise that ABC, CBS or NBC can.

The Tangerine Bowl was not run perfectly this year. Bowl officials didn't pay enough attention to the needs of the media, and the press-box operation was quite inept. It appeared that anyone with a normal pulse rate was allowed in the working press area, and the general impression was that the bowl's leaders were new at the game, which they are. Lacey has some sports public relations experience, but he has been with the Tangerine Bowl just six months.

But these and other problems can easily be eliminated. Barring unforeseen circumstances, look for the Tangerine Bowl to continue its ascent up the bowl ladder.

Raiders Tackle Rhode Island

HONOLULU, Hawaii (Special)— Gerald Myers realizes he came a long distance—and in the wrong direction—to run into the University of Rhode Island. But, the Texas Tech coach isn't alone in this misdirected geography study.

For instance, Providence College's basketballers left Providence, R.I., to come here to play Lafayette College of Easton, Pa., on a neutral court. Or the Tar Heels from North Carolina flew across the Rockies to this island chain to play Brigham Young University, which is headquartered right off the Great Salt Lake.

The jumbled arrangement is the pairing for the prestigious Rainbow Classic Basketball Tournament, a collection of seven Mainland universities and the host University of Hawaii during the Christmas holidays.

The tournament actually began late Tuesday night (Lubbock time) with the hosts playing Stanford and Providence taking on Lafayette. Tech gets its first court action tonight when it goes against Rhode Island at 11:10 p.m. CST. Two hours later, nationally ranked North Carolina takes on BYU.

The tournament continues through Friday night's finals.

And while dodging surfboards, grass skirts and policemen wearing badges and Hawaii 5-0, Myers will be hunting for a starting lineup.

This will be his final major tuneup before start of the Southwest Conference chase next week, and he said, prior to departing Lubbock, that he hoped he would "be pretty set (on a starting lineup) when we come out of the tournament."

"I think we've gained a lot of experience this month. We've improved our rebounding—we've picked up a little bit just about every game."

"We've tried several combinations (during games), trying to see what group works best, and I think we're getting things down better."

"This is going to be a test for us. This is a tough field. There's no looking ahead to North Carolina expected to be the foe of tonight's winner) in the semifinals, because Rhode Island is an awful good team."

San Francisco, one of the nation's top ten teams, found out about the Rams last weekend. Rhode Island defeated the Dons in San Francisco by 2 points.

"That shows how strong they are," said Myers. "They can give you a lot of problems. They have a real good zone defense and we didn't shoot good in the other tournament (two weeks ago at the Volunteer Classic). We have to be more aggressive on offense."

"And they had four guys score in double figures against San Francisco, so you can't gang up on one guy. Jack Kraft (the Rhode Island coach) has been around a long time, is a good coach."

"Rhode Island is better than Utah (the only team to beat Tech this year) when they run that zone. They (the Rams) can hurt you with their press, too."

Myers said he planned no changes in

Hoyas Crush Holy Cross

By The Associated Press
Wherever Georgetown's basketball team plays, some wise guy in the crowd will undoubtedly ask the musical question, "What the heck's a Hoya?" George Blaney has the answer today.

"They're a Top Twenty team, no doubt," says the Holy Cross coach. "They've been in the NCAA playoffs two of the last three years. I'd say you have to be pretty good to do that. As far as we're concerned, they're one of the toughest teams for us to beat."

Since the early 1940s, the Hoyas haven't really been among the nation's prestige teams — but Coach John Thompson is working on that matter in the Holiday Festival Tournament.

Generally considered in pre-game assessments to be the darkhorse of the tourney in New York's Madison Square Garden, the Hoyas are now in the running for the championship after Tuesday night's crushing 79-65 triumph over 12th-ranked Holy Cross.

The Hoyas will play for the title Thursday night against Alabama, a 68-65 victor over Princeton in the other first-round game.

"They really do play well against us," said Blaney, who has now lost three straight games to Georgetown. "Tonight, they took our game away. Our game is driving for the basket and passing — and they stopped it. You have to give Georgetown credit for that. They did a heckuva job defending us. We came in here with a good reputation — but I guess that's a little tarnished now."

After the Hoyas surprised the Crusaders, Alabama defeated Princeton in a game that was no surprise — the Tide's mercurial speed overcoming the Tigers' patient, textbook style.

"We prepare harder to play Princeton than any other team outside of the Southeastern Conference," said Alabama's Reggie King. "They're a tough team to get ready for. They do so many things well."

Derrick Jackson scored 22 points, including 10 in a game-breaking stretch, to lead the Georgetown victory. Keith McCord had 17 points and Reggie King and Robert Scott 16 each as Alabama defeated Princeton.

In another tournament, fifth-ranked Marquette won its own Milwaukee Classic for the 10th straight year with a 65-56 victory over Texas. Jerome Whitehead's 21 points paced a balanced Warrior offense.

"I said last night we would have to go inside to beat Texas, and we did," said Marquette Coach Hank Raymonds. "You've got to get a big guy like Whitehead inside and you've got to go to him."

The broad-shouldered Marquette center agreed.

"We play according to the other team's defense, and their defense allowed me to get low and do what I did. We passed the ball around to move their zone, and passed to me low when we found a seam."

The Longhorns hurt themselves with a poor shooting night, hitting only 32 percent of their floor shots.

"We had a chance to win," said Texas Coach Abe Lemons. "All we had to do was put a guy at the top of the key who could shoot, but we must have missed 10 blank shots."

Indiana, the nation's 15th-ranked team, whipped Jacksonville 69-59 and Florida rolled past St. Bonaventure 88-75 in opening-round games of the Gator Bowl Tournament in Jacksonville, Fla.

Mike Woodson's 21 points and aggressive rebounding by his teammates earned the Hoosiers their victory. Florida defeated the Bonnies behind Larry Brewster's 22 points.

Terry Tyler scored 20 points and had a brilliant night defensively to lead the University of Detroit's 20th-ranked Titans to a 109-71 victory over Eastern Michigan in the finals of the Motor City Tournament in Detroit.

The Titan center grabbed 23 rebounds, blocked 12 shots and had five steals to win the tourney's most valuable player prize.

"When we do the things we're supposed to do, we do all right," said Detroit Coach Dave Gaines. "Our press worked tonight and Tyler was super on defense. I think we have it all together now and are ready to roll."

Eastern Michigan Coach Ray Scott thinks so, too.

"U of D is a great team," he said. "We were outgunned and outclassed. That's all there was to it."

Ernie Cobb scored 26 points as Boston College defeated Oklahoma 77-71 and Blake Taylor's 31 points rallied Arizona State over Oral Roberts 82-66 in opening-round action of the All-College Tournament in Oklahoma City.

Kansas State whipped Colorado 82-72 behind Curtis Redding's 30 points and Brian Banks scored 24 to spark Nebraska to an 82-72 victory over Oklahoma State in the Big Eight Tournament in Kansas City.

In the Far West Classic in Portland, Ore., Bill McShane scored 14 points and collected 12 rebounds as Oregon State rolled past Rice 75-58. In another first-round game, Rory Sparrow and Alex Bradley combined for 26 second-half points to lead Villanova to a 78-73 victory.

Kansas Relays 'On' Again

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Kansas track Coach Bob Timmons says the Kansas Relays, canceled two weeks ago because of renovation of KU's Memorial Stadium, will be held this year, but moved to other facilities in Lawrence, Norman, Okla., and Emporia, Kan.

"Only the marathon will be at KU. It, of course, will maintain the possibility of winning the triple crown at Texas, Kansas and Drake," Timmons said.

Under the temporary alignment, the university men's competition will be run April 21-22 at the University of Oklahoma, the college men's and university-college-junior college women's divisions April 21-22 at Emporia State, and the junior college men's division April 22 at Haskell.

High school events will be run April 21-22 at a site to be determined by the Shawnee Mission School District in suburban Kansas City.

The makeshift schedule will mean the elimination of the open division, except for the marathon.

Renovation of Memorial Stadium, site of the 52 previous Kansas Relays, began last week and is scheduled to be completed Sept. 1, 1978.

Timmons said the meet would return to the Kansas facility in 1979.

Browns Select Sam Rutigliano

CLEVELAND (AP) — Sam Rutigliano, who equates successful coaching with good teaching, has become the fifth coach in the Cleveland Browns' 27 years in the National Football League.

Rutigliano, his expressive, angular face framed by straight black hair and looking dapper in a conservative vested suit, said, "I think a successful football team is a great melting pot. There is a tremendous chemistry involved. I think you must have the proper chemistry between the management, coaching staff and the players."

"I've always dreamed of being a head coach in the National Football League," Rutigliano added moments after Browns owner Art Modell made the announcement of his appointment. "This has been my goal since I became an assistant coach in the NFL 11 years ago. I think the years of preparation I've had will serve me well."

Rutigliano, who comes to the Browns from New Orleans, where he was a receiver coach, succeeds Forrest Gregg, who resigned under pressure on Dec. 13 with his team one week away from its final record of 6-8.

"Rutigliano said his first order of business will be to familiarize himself with the Browns' organization and assemble a staff, adding, "The coaches we get will be very, very important. I want coaches who are great teachers."

"They will have to be firm, fair, extremely knowledgeable and able to work with the players," he added. "Everybody has a stroke bucket, and the best coach is someone who can put an arm around a guy's shoulder when he has to, or put a size 10 where it needs to be put when necessary."

Rutigliano, 45, served under Hank Stram at New Orleans, and previously worked as an assistant under Lou Saban at Denver, Chuck Fairbanks at New England and Weeb Ewbank with the New York Jets.

Modell said Rutigliano was selected from a long list of candidates, which quickly was narrowed down to three finalists, adding, "I think the one thing that decided it was when I spent 45 minutes with (former Denver runningback) Floyd Little last week. He said when Sam was at Denver, it was the only time in his career he ever wished he was a receiver."

"One other ingredient in this equation is that he's a teacher," Modell added. "He's contemporary in his knowledge of the game."

Now Equitable Savings is as strong as Gibraltar.

Now Equitable Savings is Gibraltar Savings, the biggest in Texas with assets approaching $2 billion.

As of January 1, 1978, Equitable Savings will have a strong new name: Gibraltar Savings Association. This new organization is the result of the merger of five savings associations in seven major cities across Texas. For Lubbock, Gibraltar offers both a statewide savings service and additional mortgage money to meet the demands of a growing city.

Gibraltar offers statewide service.

In addition to our office in Lubbock, fifty-nine more will serve you across Texas in Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth, Midland, Amarillo, and Corpus Christi.

Gibraltar is financial strength.

The merger of these five Texas associations will bring Gibraltar's assets to nearly $2 billion. Reserves will exceed any other savings association in Texas.

Financial strength like this makes a Gibraltar savings plan one of the safest investments available in Texas today.

Gibraltar's money will work in Lubbock.

We are committed to the principle of reinvesting local deposits in local mortgage loans. Additionally, Gibraltar's statewide organization will generate large blocks of mortgage money to take care of any job, no matter how big it may be.

Gibraltar is a new name for old friends.

Gibraltar in Lubbock will be staffed by the same local, friendly people you know at Equitable. You'll find them still on the job serving your financial needs in the same dedicated way. Gibraltar Savings is a strong new name in town, working for you.

Reid Finally Regains Scoring Touch

By The Associated Press
Minnesota North Stars defenseman Tom Reid had his comments poised and ready. It had been 218 games since he had been able to use them.

After scoring a goal for the first time since February 1975, Reid was asked if he remembered his last goal.

"Do I remember my last goal? I don't even remember my last game," he joked.

It hadn't been the most artistic of tallies. With 9:47 played in the first period of Minnesota's game against the St. Louis Blues Tuesday night, defense mate Fred Barret wound up for a shot.

Reid was in front of the St. Louis net — admittedly an unusual place for a defenseman — when Barret's shot deflected off his knee and past Blues goalie Phil Myre.

"I'm just lucky Fred shot it," said Reid. "Otherwise, it might have hurt when it hit me."

Winning goals rarely hurt anyone but the opposition. North Stars goalie Pete LoPresti stopped 37 St. Louis shots for his second shutout of the season, making Reid's goal stand up in Minnesota's 1-0 triumph.

"That's two shutouts for me this year," he said before his tongue got lost in his cheek. "The next thing you know, they'll be expecting me to do it."

Nobody expected the North Stars or the Blues to record shutouts, since Tuesday night's game matched the two teams with the worst defensive marks in the
