City Officials Study Farm Protest Plan

Avalanche-Journal Staff City officials are biding their time during an "information gathering stage" before deciding how they will react to striking farmers who are planning to encircle the city Tuesday.

Mayor Roy Bass, City Manager Larry Cunningham and police chief J.T. Alley, who are vacationing, are due back by the time farmers are expected to parade tractors around Loop 289 Tuesday morning.

Blakney and Asst. City Manager Jim Blagg said they are "trying to determine exactly what activities farmers are planning" in the third phase of their protest of low farm prices aimed chiefly at imported commodities. "We would hope that their activities are all lawful and won't require police action," Blakney said. "If it's required, we'll be there to direct traffic" when the massive tractorcade begins moving into

Plans call for tractors and other agricultural machinery to roll into Lubbock along every major highway and form a "bumper to bumper" circle on the loop

"So far the strike doesn't indicate any problem," Blagg said, "except from a traffic standpoint.

A new city ordinance setting minimum speeds of 45 miles per hour on the Loop will not affect Tuesday's action, Blagg said. "Speed limits have not been posted and we would not enforce it (the ordinance) until speed limits have been posted." The new limit is scheduled to go into effect Jan. 8.

As yet, strike leaders are vague about whether the tractors will be able to entirely surround the city or what lanes they will occupy. They did say, however, there are no plans to blockade or shut

Robert Mahagan of the Hale Center strike office, which is coordinating the activities along with the Plainview office, said he did not know whether farmers will try to control entrance and exit lanes

Mahagan encourages citizens with questions, however, to "stop and ask" the farmers. "That's what they'll be there for," he said. Information booths selling American Agriculture caps and bumper stickers also will be set up around the city, Mahagan added, al-

Carter said his position had not changed. He said he favored a Palestinian "entity" tied to Jordan, but not an independent Palestinain nation carved out of the Middle East.

But, "any agreement that can be reached between the Israelis and Egypt would be acceptable to us," he said. Carter praised "the brave people of Poland and particularly Warsaw," saying his talks on issues of peace and war with Edward Gierrek, first secretary of the Communist Party in Poland, and other Polish leaders had been "very fruitful."

Dealing with the international storm touched off by his remarks on the issue of a Palestinian homeland, Carter said he had made no decision to visit Egypt during his nine-day trip abroad, but noted his schedule was flexible and he had "a standing invitation from President Sad-

Carter is scheduled to return to Wash ington Jan. 6.

Should the situation warrant it, Carter said, "we would certainly consider" a quick visit to Cairo - an apparent reference to Sadat's unhappiness about Carter's Palestinian remark.

In a pre-departure interview with cor-respondents from four U.S. television networks Wednesday night, Carter ex-pressed his opposition to "a fairly radical new independent nation in the heart of the Middle East."

In Cairo Thursday, Sadat said, "He is making my job very difficult. This embarrassess me.'

Carter, who wore an earphone through which he received simultaneous translation of a question from a Polish reporter, said he is encouraged by recent progress in arms negotiations with the Soviets and hopes to conclude the Salt II talks next South Korean Foreign Ministry sources said U.S. Congressional leaders have expressed dissatisfaction over the agreement, which would permit Park to testify only in criminal cases and not in U.S. Congressional hearings on officials involved in alleged influence buying on Capitol Hill.

We understand the matter, which is purely an internal American issue, has caused the delay," one Foreign Ministry source said. According to the sources, a six-point agreement worked out by officials of the two countries stipulates that Park will be under no obligation to testify in other than criminal trials of U.S. officials involved in the alleged Korean influencebuying scandal.

U.S. Congressional leaders reacted strongly to the agreement, the sources said, forcing a delay in announcing the accord until Saturday.

The agreement was originally scheduled to the signed and made public in Seoul today, but was postponed until Saturday due to newly developed "procedural difficulties" on the part of the U.S.

Economic Indicators Show Dip

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The government index that is supposed to forecast the direction of the nation's economy fell 0.2 percent in November after four months of modest gains, the government reported today.

The drop in the Commerce Department's Index of Leading Economic Indicators suggests that current levels of unemployment, inflation, factory and housing production are likely to continue through the winter.

The index would have to drop for at least two more months, and by a larger amount, before it would cause concern among economic policymakers about the potential for weakness in the economy. But the report is sure to provide impetus to President Carter's anticipated $25 billion income tax-cut package for individuals and business to be unveiled late next month.

Polluted Air Stirs Furor At Denver

DENVER (UPI) - Gov. Richard Lamm says the blanket of pollution which has smothered the metropolitan area since Thursday makes Denver the worst-polluted city in America at this The governor flew over the pollution in a light plane Thursday to make a personal inspection of the situation. State health officials declared a pollution alert for the area, the first such warning since Nov. Elderly persons and people with heart or lung ailments were advised by the health department to stay indoors and reduce physical activity. 'We're now the worst-polluted city in America," Lamm said. "It's incredible. We've got a vast chemical cloud extending from Colorado Springs north as far as

Lamm urged state employees to ride the bus or take a car pool to get to work, and said state workers would be allowed to report to their jobs an hour late -'grace time" to encourage them to leave their cars at home The pollution buildup began early Thursday when a layer of warm air trapped a layer of pollutant-laden cold air over the metropolitan area. Automobile traffic was blamed for most of the high pollution levels.

The Rocky Mountain range just west of Denver helps to trap polluted air under certain atmospheric conditions, much as the mountains ringing Los Angeles are a factor in that city's pollution problem. Weather experts said they hoped the situation would begin to clear this afternoon with the passage of a new Canadian cold front moving toward the region.

County To Aid 'Detox' Center

By JEFF SOUTH

Avalanche-Journal Staff Lubbock County commissioners today gave a cautious but favorable reception to a request they apply for a federal-state grant to establish an around-the-clock detoxification center for the rehabilitation of persons arrested on alcohol-related Commissioners tentatively agreed to apply for the grant, on behalf of the Lubbock Regional Mental Health-Mental Retardation Center, provided that the county will not be strapped with future financing of the project.

They asked Dr. Ron Whittington, executive director of the local MHMR agency, to provide the commissioners court with an analysis of how the "detox center" would be funded after the expected grant to apply for start-up funding from the Governor's Criminal Justice Division.

Whittington assured commissioners that the county probably would not be called on to pitch in local funding. He said other fiscal sources in the community, notably Alcoholics Anonymous and related groups, have agreed to assume fiscal responsibility for the detox center in the future.

County officials - including Sheriff C.H. "Choc" Blanchard, County Judge Rod Shaw and other local judges, Criminal District Attorney Alton Griffin and most commissioners - were behind the philosophy of the project.

Shaw said the detox center, which would serve as an alternative to throwing drunks in jail or requiring them to seek hospital services many cannot afford, would fill the "greatest gap we have in the community in alcoholism services." He called the proposed center "a miss-ing link" in rehabilitating alcoholics.

judge who ordered Patricia and J. Paul Brennan to stop delivering letters at 10cents-each has lifted the order pending an appeal by the private husband-wife mail service.

U.S. District Judge Harold P. Burke granted a temporary stay Thursday to the P.H. Brennan Hand Delivery Service which carries hundreds of pieces of mail daily in downtown Rochester.

The firm guarantees same-day delivery The Brennans had complied with Burke's order that they cease competing with the U.S. Postal Service. On Wednesday, they put 13-cent stamps on each letter they delivered and canceled each stamp themselves, which they said the postal laws permit. Mrs. Brennan said she was willing to take a three-cent-perletter loss while Burke was deciding whether to grant the stay.

Burke's order stays his previous injunction until Jan. 10, when the Brennans go into a U.S. Court of Appeals in New York to fight the injunction.

Texas received $180 in federal funds per capita; New York received $314 per capita.

This was in 1975, remember, about the time New York began screaming the loudest about how we ought to send more of our money up there to bail out bankrupt New York City. The disparity and the amount would be greater now-and it's too much.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

With all its troubles, 1977 has been a pretty good year for most of us. May 1978 be even better to you. Happy New Year.

FOR THOSE OF us who as children got to Big D only now and then, the Flying Red Horse atop the Magnolia (Mobil) Building was an unforgettable symbol.

We would strain for miles for the first glimpse of it and feel a surge of excitement and adventure when the great moment came.

And now there is talk of tearing it down, building and all. Tear it down! You might as well take away Santa Claus and birthday cakes and the first day of school. It would be like ripping away a part of the heritage which gives us the feeling that, somewhere, we still have roots of splendor, grandeur and everlastingness!

INSTEAD OF dominating the skyline, as it once did, the Flying Red Horse now is overshadowed by newer, taller skyscrapers of clean, straight lines.

But he is still there, somewhere in the urban jungle, and as long as he flies we know that there is a permanence to the traditions we held dear as

We still strain to spot the Flying Red Horse, through the smog and the cracks in the growing Dallas skyline, and we never feel secure in Big D

But it may come down, says Dallas Morning News editorial writer William Murchison, to make room for "progress." Mobil gave the building to the City of Dallas a while back and, writes Murchison, the City "is thinking seriously of letting the building be torn

He, too, thinks this would be a horrible mis-

"It would be different," he says, "were the building unsound, ready for the wrecker's ball. But it is not. It has left in it decades of useful life -provided only that the proper use is found."

THE BUILDING was erected in 1922, its 29 stories making it the third tallest in America at the time, outside of New York City.

"In 1934, the Flying Red Horse of Mobil, new owner of Magnolia, was hoisted into place," Murchison recalls. "The 'horse' is in fact two horses, 14 feet apart. The standing joke of the era had it that Mobil put two horses up to keep Dallas from becoming a one-horse town.

The horse quickly became an identifying symbol of the high-flying spirit of Big D, imaginative and reaching for the stars yet with its feet (or hoofs) planted firmly in a sturdy foundation of everlasting permanence. I hope, as Murchison does, that the Mobil Building and the Flying Red Horse will still be around for my grandchildren's children to see.

For as long as it is there, a part of me will be.

WASHINGTON-The Angel Gabriel was testflying across the United States with the idea of blowing the last trumpet at the approaching end of 1977—that is, Taps for the American Republic. There were many signs down below the soaring angel that the fatal hour was due, or overdue. Congress in the past year and in several years running, was having longer vacations, shorter daily sessions, sparser attendance and showing less

The Congressional Record, the diary of the legislative houses, was becoming thinner than pancakes in volume, and dreary as an idiot's monologue in originality and logic

Gabriel put the trumpet to his feathery lips and was about to blast the Last Call when a voice from the firmament was heard.

"Hold on there, Bird. American for over 200 years has been a favorite of mine and I might just grant a reprieve. It isn't every country that prints In God We Trust' on its currency.

Is College Education Worth The Hassle?

Q. IS A COLLEGE education worth its everclimbing cost and huge financial burden it places on middle-income families and average students particularly?

Q. What about all those college graduates who are driving cabs because they can't find employment in their chosen fields and are forced into jobs at levels way below their capacities?

For the U.S. as a whole, the cost of higher education is now a colossal $85 billion a year! Just to operate our colleges and universities costs about $46 billion. The expenses of the more than 11 million students and the earnings they forfeit while studying adds up to another $39 billion No wonder the crescendo of criticism of higher education, reflected in a mounting number of books charging that we're overeducated, overcharged and under-employed. BUT NOT SO. For the first time, a three-year study looking at the entire array of available evidence on both sides of the issue has provided a documented answer.

And it is an overwhelming yes. American higher education is more than worth the cost to the individual, to society, to the nation.

And the widespread chatter about overeducated cab drivers is part myth and part non-sequitur. The newly completed study has just been published by Jossey-Bass (San Francisco, $10) under the title, "Investment in Learning." It is the work of a team of experts led by noted economist and educator, Dr. Howard R. Bowen, former head of Grinnell College, the University of Iowa and the Claremont University Center. Among Dr. Brown's major conclusions, all doc-

(1) THE ECONOMIC returns to the individual far offset the costs. College graduates earn more both right out of school and over their lifetimes. (2) The non-economic returns are several times as valuable as the economic returns-in the form of personal adjustment and happiness, positive influence upon the family unit, cultural advancement and national security. (3) There is a direct correlation between education and health to the individual and to the health of the nation.

(4) Our country's economic progress and performance could never have been what it has been and what it is were we not enabled by our education to function so effectively as consumers and

BUT PROVOCATIVELY enough, Dr. Bowen emphasizes that it is the impact of higher educa-tion upon the American family which is most important.

According to the study's findings, a college education tends to delay the age of marriage and to reduce the birthrate.

But happily, he was seeing persons like Barbara Jordan and Robert Griffin, resigning in the prime of their power. The trumpet was still at Gabriel's lips but he refrained to toot. "I see you hesitate," the voice said. "I am glad of that. There are people in the Carter administration, and younger persons in the Congress, who are trying hard. America may make a come-

Educated parents take more interest in their children's upbringing than the lesser educated. And even more provocative, there is a cumulative value multiplied with each generation.

To put it more bluntly, as higher education is passed down from generation to generation, the children become markedly different in a variety of ways, including their aspirations. Another of the study's fascinating findings is that while educated people are, on the whole, more satisfied with life, they are inclined to be dissatisfied with the details of their environment -such as pollution, conservation, social-welfare

AS FOR TAXI drivers with doctorates, says Dr.

"Evidence does not support the contention that such cases are numerous or that they are the fault of the colleges.

"Also being a tradesman and being well-educated are not mutually exclusive. The cab driver may be very happy with his lot."

To argue that we are overeducating our children is to say that there is no value to education other than monetary, when in fact, its greatest benefits may be non-monetary.

Moreover, adds Dr. Bowen, to imply that, just because the economy doesn't always accommodate all the highly educated, we shouldn't educate our children, is a dubious morality at best.

HY GARDNER HAS THE ANSWER:

Glad You Asked That!

Q: I like the way Burt Reynolds looks, the way he's built, the way he talks and the way he keeps his feet on he ground. Is all this a pose or does he really have a healthy philosophy? — Mrs. Lillian G., Baltimore.

A: During an interview on the set of "Smokey and the Bandit," Burt indulged in some sensible self-analysis. 'I'm not in the Presley-Tom Jones category," he mused. 'People don't want my sweaty socks or a piece of my shirt. They just seem to want a brief, honest exchange. If you have some fun with them, rap a little and give the fans some dignity, then it's a positive thing. What I hate most to see is an actor signing autographs with that air of condescension or hauteur some of them have.'

Facing big crowds, even friendly ones, is something that bugs Burt. "Large crowds can be a danger," he points out, then cites an example in Georgia while filming "Smokey." Friends insisted everything would be cool, and promised the club they'd visit would be a small one. So he let himself be shanghaied. "Within two minutes" Burt grimaced, "someone whispered in my ear 'Burt Reynolds is here.' Then I was sort of carried up on a stage and several hundred people closed in.

What is Reynolds's ambition? He says he hopes that his "future in the movie industry is as a director. "There are many things I have wanted to do in a film, but couldn't do as a performer. Writing and directing, I can fulfill some of those desires. For instance, I've always wanted to have the male star tell he leading lady that he loves her. But rather than being left pliant and pregnant in a burning field, she'd reply, 'Big deal! I'm splitting for New York!"

A realist, this actor sincerely believes "there is no actor in this business who can deliver a good enough performance to justify our enormous salaries!'

Sure money talks, but Reynolds talks louder!

Q: When I was a girl, Rudy Vallee was our Sinatra, Presley and Tom Jones rolled into one. Do his audiences till swoon when he performs? - Adele Marsh, Hollywood, Cal. A: "They still enjoy my songs and quips," the venerable Val-lee tells us. "But the reaction is more nostalgic . . . I don't attract the squealers who throw their keys, bras and panties onstage. My fans loss their hearing aids, support stockings and Medicare cards!"

Q: When Diahann Carroll started singing in nightclubs, is it true that she looked so sexy they would lock her up in her dressing room between shows? Was this supposed to be a joke? -Gail Stromberg, Norfolk, Va.

A: "It was no joke — this really happened in a small Pennsylvania mining town," Diahann explains. Singing while perched on a bar, she looked so fetching that all the miners fought to fetch her. So for the entire engagement, the management locked her up for her own protection. "They only let me out to sing or to catch breath of fresh air," she laughingly told us.

Q: Wasn't Jack Warden once a lifeguard? - Mrs. . Childers, Minneapolis.

A: Yes - in the indoor pool of what was then known as the Park Central Hotel on Times Square. Fortunately, he didn't have to save anyone from drowning and had time to rest and to read scripts for upcoming Broadway plays. At the time, Warden was still recovering from a broken leg he got bailing out of a plane in 1944 when he was with the 101st Airborne Division one of the most decorated outfits in World War II history.

mor? - D.B.L., Knoxville, Tenn. A: This anecdote paints a fair portrait of him. Carradine used to look so much like Lincoln that the late comedian, Ken Murray, once cast him to play Honest Abe in a segment of his TV show. The part caused great anguish for the actor. Because, when he got to Lincoln's address on the field of battle, time forced the director to eliminate the scene without the actor being aware of the cutoff. Later, Ken overheard Carradine on a backstage wall telephone, still in his Lincoln make-up (high hat, shawl and beard), tell a friend: "I'm glad you liked the show but they cut me off right in the middle of my Gettysburg Address." Carradine was so thin in those days he as described as ture Department has adopted a new rule aimed at protecting filbert farmers from foreign filberts.

Barbara Lindeman Schlei, head of the department's Agricultural Marketing Service, announced Wednesday that beginning Feb. 15, "all filberts imported into the United States will be required to measure up to minimum standards" which are in effect for American filberts.

Oregon and Washington are the main commercial producers of U.S. filberts, also called hazel nuts. This year, the twostate crop totaled Il,000 tons, up from 7,-170 tons in 1976.

The crop is regulated under a federal marketing order which includes standards for grade, size, quality and other factors. Mrs. Schlei said that under the new regulations, imported filberts will have to meet the same standards as those in effect for Oregon and Washington.

Mrs. Schlei said that most imported filberts come from Turkey as shelled nuts and from Italy as unshelled nuts.

Social Security Bill Corrects Inequities

Social Security has been much in the news of late. Congress wrapped up its 1977 session by approving a new law designed to correct many of the inequities in the existing system.

My previous comments on Social Security generated a flood of questions from readers. This column will attempt to tackle some of the most common

First off, I'm sorry I can't fill the many requests for that excellent booklet, "A Woman's Guide to Social Security." Copies should be available from your local Social Security office.

If not, send a letter or postcard to the Superintendant of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C., 20402. Ask for a free copy of HEW-Publication (SSA) 75-10127.

Many seniors are unsure if they contributed enough to the Social Security fund during their working days to qualify for benefits at age 62. There's an easy way to learn if you worked long enough to be eligible for a monthly Social Security check.

Simply visit or phone your local Social Security office. There's bound to be one nearby; the Social Security Administration has more branch offices spread around the country than any other government agency. You'll find the address and phone number in the white pages of your phone book under the alphabetical listing "U.S. Government." Social Security offices are manned by courteous and knowledgeable civil servants who really do want to help us with our problems. Even if they don't have the answer to your question at their fingertips, they have access to a shelf of official books and pamphets that might provide the solution to your individual problem. If not, they are connected by a direct line to Social Security's main offices, which are equipped with ty's main offices, which are equipped with computers that can quickly come up with all the necessary information.

But help them to help you by bringing all pertinent documents and other information with you to the Social Security office. Be prepared to discuss the details of you case thoroughly and in detail.

I've received letters from readers complaining that one of Social Security's greatest inequalities is its treatment of divorced women.

That provision would affect the hypothetical homemaker whose husband divorced her after 19 years of marriage, remarried and soon after died. The second wife - even if she had been married to the man for no more than a few months - would receive all his Social Security benefits. Though his children by the first wife might be eligible for some benefits, she would not be entitled

Fortunately Congress has done something about this inequity. One of the features of the new law states that now an elderly person needs to have been married only 10 years to claim benefits as a survivor or divorced person on the

Need For Aid Doubted

NEW YORK (AP) - Sen. William Proxmire, one of the most influential men in Washington's fiscal dealings with New York City, says he is unsure additional federal help is necessary for the ci-

"I don't think it's necessarily a matter of the federal government coming in further to rescue the city," the Wisconsin Democrat said. "It's a matter of the city being able to do it by itself."

As chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, Proxmire has been in a key position in the city's fiscal dealings and loan agreements with the federal govern-

Blind Students Read With Aid Of Device

DENTON (UPI) — Rod Taulman probably won't care for awhile whether the news he reads is fit to print — he's just glad to be able to read it. Taulman, 24, is one of several blind stu-dents at North Texas State University benefiting from a new machine which magnifies lettering to many times its normal size.

Called a VisualTek, the $1,400 device is a gift to the NTSU Library from local District 2E-2 of the Lions Club. Jeffrey Peploe, president of the Lions Organ and Eye Bank in Fort Worth, supervised the installation of the device.

"The VisualTek is really for everyone in the community," Peploe said. "The NTSU Library was chosen for its central location, and we hope that all blind necessity.

Most blind people, like Taulman, have some sight, which the VisualTek takes advantage of by magnifying print on a closed-circuit television screen. The user inserts the material to be read under the large and focus the type.

Taulman is able to recognize letters because of his years of experience with Braille and his childhood memories of printing block letters. But, he says, "I could never read cursive because I have no experience with seeing it."

"One man in California who is 99 per-cent blind has one of these," Peploe said, "and he is reading, one letter at a time, blown up on the screen.

VisualTek is able to give a negative image — black on white — which is easier for many people with visual problems to distinguish. The machine also is raised on legs so that a typewriter can be placed under it. Taulman says VisualTek frees him from dependence on tape recordings and opens new areas of study and research.

He only had one question: "Can a person buy one of these for him-

Gas Drained From Two Tank Cars

GOLDONNA, La. (AP) - Railroad workers drained two leaky propane gas tank cars, ending the threat of another explosion in the center of this town where 18 cars derailed.

And nearly 1,000 evacuees returned to their homes - if they still had homes. A tanker of propane exploded in flames after the derailment Wednesday, destroying everything for 1,000 feet around roughly half this northwest Louisiana town of 200 persons. For another 500 feet, everything was singed or blistered by the heat, with flames fueled by crude oil spewing from a ruptured tanker.

Nearly everyone within 10 miles was evacuated due to the threat of poison chlorine gas which officials feared might leak from derailed cars. But the chlorine tankers were found intact and cleanup crews pumped the liquid from the two leaky propane tank cars into trucks. Police then gave the OK for evacuees to return. Two trainmen were killed when the Kansas City Southern freight train smashed into a log truck on the tracks. Another trainman was critically injured. Three men, including the truck driver, were less seriously hurt Norm Fletcher, civil defense director for Natchitoches Parish, said the evacuatreated for burns. Jones, the truck driver, said it was all over so quickly he couldn't remember what happened. He said his truck slowed down, but "wouldn't stop and it wouldn't go any faster."

State police cited Jones with two counts of negligent homicide and one count of failure to yield right of way. Deputies said they would arrest Jones when released from a Winnfield hospital.

Agency To Ban Imported Auto Headlights

By HOWARD BENEDICT

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Transporto halt the sale in this country of import- power probe. too bright and don't have sealed beams.

The department said these headlights are illegal in the United States and warned it will take legal action against violators, who can be fined up to $800,000.

The action was triggered by passage of legislation in the states of Oregon and Washington to permit sale of these units. most of them made in Europe, The department said it will try to persuade the two states to reverse the decisions.

The imported units have been popular in this country with sports car and recreation vehicle drivers, even though they are illegal. Most have candlepower ranging between 150,000 and 300,000 candellas of light, compared with the U.S. legal maximum of 75,000.

"None of these imported headlamps meets the requirements of our existing safety standard, and the National Traffic and Motor Vehicle Safety Act forbids any state from adopting a headlamp standard that differs from a federal headlamp standard," said Joan Claybrook, head of the department's National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

"We want all states to be aware of this, and we intend to notify all parties concerned that these lamps are illegal for importation or sale in this country," Ms. Claybrook said. "Moreover, we intend to take direct legal action against manufacturers, importers, distributors and dealers in this equipment."

She said the law provides a penalty of up to $1,000 per headlamp with a maximum penalty of $80,000.

The problem with the imported units, she said, is that they are unsealed, permitting dirt and contamination to damage the reflectors; they cannot be mechanically aimed; they are expensive, up to $40 a unit, and can have such a high candlepower that they cause severe glare troubles for approaching vehicles.

Headlights conforming to government standards have longer life because of the sealed beam construction, can be aimed and adjusted easily with mechanical equipment, their glare is lower than the imports, and they cost only $2-$3 a unit,

The safety agency said work is underway to improve driver seeing distance by amending the federal standard to permit 150,000 candlepower illumination when the headlights are on high beam.

Polish Chief Gained Experience In Mines

WARSAW, Poland (AP) - Edward Gierek, the Polish leader President Carter was to hold talks with today, is a big, softspoken man who began his rise to the top post in his nation on the strength of bitter experiences in a far-away coal mine.

Gierek, who turns 65 Jan. 6, has headed the Polish Communist movement since 1970, when he succeeded Wladyslaw Gomulka as first secretary of the Polish United Workers' Party

Gierek says the turning point in his life came in 1926 when, at the age of 13, he had to go to work in a French coal mine. He was a miner for 18 years.

"It was cruel work," Gierek told The Associated Press Thursday.

"Those years have molded in me a determination to struggle to overcome difficulties," he said in an interview in his office hours before Carter arrived for a three-day visit.

Gierek was born to a coal-mining family in the Silesia area of southern Poland and emigrated vith his mother to France in 1923 after his father was killed in a mine accident.

"If you start working at a very early age," he said, "you cannot have respect for those for whom you are working."

Mine conditions then were much worse than they are today, he said, and European coal mines were more primitive than their American counterparts.

Western diplomats credit him with learning political skills well in the succeeding years. They say his ability to share responsibility and delegate authority has kept him at the top of the national party without any serious difficulty de-spite economic problems like those that toppled his two predecessors

The party under Gierek has tolerated an active dissident movement and has recently made overtures to the powerful Roman Catholic Church.

Outspoken Cardinal Stefan Wyszynski, banished to southeast Poland by the Communists in the 1950s, said in his Christmas sermon that party leaders appeared to be seeing the light. Gierek smiled when asked by a report er about Wyszynski's comment and said, 'We have never missed the light.'

But he said there was plenty of room for the church to contribute to the wellbeing of the nation, including combatting immorality and promoting culture.

Gierek began a sweeping moderniza-tion of Polish industry which is now beginning to bear fruit and he says the country is ready to increase exports dramatically to the West.

People move around for an enormous variety of reasons and many move too fast to lug furniture with them, Treece told United Press International. They want "instant living," and don't want to to buy furniture until they are in a position to select a permanent home.

Decaffeinated Coffee

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D. DEAR DR. LAMB - I have been using two different decaffeinated brands of coffee. Recently, a friend told me that when the caffeine is removed something else is used to replace it that can cause cancer. Is this

I've seen TV commercials stating doctors say it's OK to drink decaffeinated coffee. So I am quite concerned if I should continue to drink decaffeinated coffee or not.

DEAR READER - You can forget about the cancer problem in relation to decaffeinated coffee. A few years ago, some of the decaffeinatedd products were made using trichore-thylene, a chemical related to vingle chloride, as a degreasing agent. It was found that large amount of this chemical instilled in the stomachs of mice with a gastric tube might cause cancer in some strains of mice. You need to know that some mice particularly susceptible to cancer and others are more resistant. The amount of chemical used was comparable to a human drinking 50 million cups of decaffeinated coffee a day, which I think most reasonable persons would consider somewhat unrealistic.

Nevertheless, the companies using the chemical as a degreasing agent stopped using it entirely rather than fight the hysteria. I would like to emphasize that not one case of liver cancer or other case of liver cancer or other cancer in human beings has ever been shown to be caused by drinking any amount of decaffeinated cof-fee. So, if it is fear of cancer drinking decaffeinated coffee - fear no more,

I have a somewhat different opinion about advising everyone who can-not tolerate coffee well to switch to a decaffeinated brand. Despite the TV commercials, caffeine is only part of the story. The flavor oils and other chemicals in coffee are irritating to the digestive system of some sensitive people. These people who continue to have digestive complaints may find that stopping all forms of coffee is necessary to get the best re-

I am sending you a copy of The Health Letter number 1-1, Coffee, Tea, Cola Cocoa, to provide you with more information on coffee and other caffeine-containing beverages. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, selfaddressed envelope for it to me in care of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am writing in regard to your column on valve surgery. The advice and explanation you gave to the person was right on.

I had rheumatic fever several times as a child, and was to the point where unable to do anything.

I had the mitral valve replaced 15 years ago. Since then it's been like the good Lord handed me a whole new life. I raised two children, I do all of my housework, bowl, dance and I'm a part-time nursing assistant

This may sound like a testimonial, but I just want people to know that heart surgery really works.

DEAR READER - Thank you for sharing your experience with our readers. Yes, it certainly seems like a miracle when a person gets good results. I would agree with your remarks, with the sole caution that it is wonderful for the person who needs it. Not all cases with valve defects require surgery, and not all cases benefit to the degree that you have. Nevertheless, it is a great and important advance as cases such as yours demonstrate so well.

India Banks Closed By Employee Strike

NEW DELHI, India (AP) - Banks were paralyzed around India today when some 350,000 bank employees began a two-day strike for a larger year-end bonus and improved medical care.

"Not a single bank is functioning in India," said P. P. Tirkha, assistant general secretary of the All India Bank Employees Association. Foreign banks also were affected by the walkout.

Bank workers, who earn between $70 and $100 a month, are demanding bonuses totaling 13 percent of their annual salary. They rejected an offer of 8.33 percent. If an agreement is reached, the bonus will be the first paid in two years. The ousted regime of former Prime Minister Indira Gandhi refused to permit the payment of bonuses during the 20-month national emergency it imposed in 1975.

Celebrate the 12 days of Christmas as Christians the world over used to do, Sister Patricia Knopp wrote, in what she calls "A Modest roposal" in the December issue of "U.S. Catholic" magazine.

Historically, Christians began celebrating the birth of Christ on Dec. 25 and kept right on through Jan. 6, with the Feast of the Three Kings, or Epiphany, Sister Patricia noted. The entire time was given to religious celebrations, family and community parties and gift giving. But somewhere that tradition got lost,

Today, it may be the bombardment of over-abundance - of food, gifts and merrymaking — coming to an abrupt halt on Christmas Day that so often leaves us feeling dull and "done in," Sister Patricia argues. So why not space the celebration out over the 12 days from Dec. 25 to

She recommends "prolonging the joy"

-Opening one gift a day instead of deluging one another all at once;

-Enjoying a special Christmas food each day of the season, by planning "the day of the fruitcake, the candy cane,

-Spend an evening after Christmas enjoying the decorations of your own house, reading or telling the Christmas story, taking time to read the Christmas notes or letters you've received, sing ing

-Continuing to wish people "Merry Christmas" right up until Epiphany; -Making the week after Christmas a real "family timetime," free from the pre-Christmas competition of church, school and business parties.

prolonging the Christmas celebration, Sister Patricia maintains. She said: "Unless we take that time, the important times in our lives slip away and we find we have lived years without really knowing what has happened to time or to us."

The January meeting each year is an entertainment night and is held at home

An outing, in which a long line of travel trailers moves out of the Hub City and proceeds to some spot in West Texas, departs on Friday.

Jennings, pastor of Mr. Zion Baptist Church of Brodhead, and a staff member at Clear Creek Baptist School here, works with inmates at Chenoa Forestry Camp, a minimum security penal institution near Pineville.

He developed an interest in providing activities for the prisoners but learned they could not leave camp unless in the custody of an officer.

Jennings solved that problem by being sworn in as deputy sheriff. He takes the men to church gatherings, civic clubs and other functions in the course of his work.

Athlete Says Lord Began To Open Doors

DENVER (Special)-Jack Dolbin, wide receiver for the Denver Broncos professional football team, is one Christian who doesn't believe in maintaining a "spare tire" relationship with Jesus

It took awhile. Dolbin struggled to establish his priorities-from an injury-riddled collegiate career at Wake Forest University, to a minor league football stint and financial desperation. He went from various jobs to land one as premier pass catcher for the Denver Broncos.

He told Baptist Press he feels he's now succeeded. No longer will he call on God only in times of desperation or just before a football game.

Dolbin admits he hasn't "arrived" yet but claims he's come a long way as a Christian from the days when a friend would sign his name on the attendance sheet at the mandatory chapel services of the Southern Baptist university (Wake Forest) he attended.

Although he was an All-America prospect, Dolbin was plagued with injuries all through college and his hard luck continued after he got out into life. He played some minor league football and then got

One night in the security guard's ob-servation post, while watching some youngsters steal records, he realized he had never made a commitment to God, that he was trying to control his life himself. "I got down on my knees and prayed," he remembers. "I asked God's forgiveness for rejecting Christ and ended the 'spare tire' relationship right

The Lord began to open doors. Dolbin got back into the world of football, the World Football League. And it was there he became affiliated with the Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA). He said it became a moving force in his life.

When the WFL folded, Dolbin picked through 18 pro football offers and latched on with the Bronchos in Denver. He's glad he did. He played a key role in the team's 12-2 regular season record this

"People look up to pro athletes for all the wrong reasons," Dolbin insists. "But we're able to use it to witness for Him (Christ). It's unfortunate that we're looked up to because we're pro athletes or because we're on TV. But the song says 'Just As I am,' " Some others can give better witnesses than me but aren't as well known."

H ALL TIME

Yesterday is gone. We tear its page from our calendar, for we live in the present.

But often we look back with nostalgia to the many yesterdays which make up the past. In a different mood we plan for the uncertain days ahead, sometimes filling them with happy expectations, sometimes with anxious forebodings.

Where is God in this time pattern of our lives?

Is He in the past alone, incarnate two thousand years ago in the great Teacher of Nazareth? Or does He walk with us through the present, our Companion each day? Does He remove all fear from the future with His promise, the promise of the living Christ, "And lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world?"

Come to Church and learn to know this Christ who is "the same yesterday, today,

FARMERS PROTEST U. S. IMPORTS - Japanese farmers demonstrate near the U. S. embassy in Tokyo, background, carrying placards with slogans against expansion of Japan's imports of U. S. farm products. About 6,000 farmers demonstrated this week against any further concessions to U. S. demands that Japan import more U.S. beef, oranges and other products to help correct a lopsided trade balance

Sabotage Discounted In Grain Explosions

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) - Louisiana's In a news conference last week, Dozier agriculture secretary Wednesday said said investigators from his department grain industry officials privately were discovered an empty conveyor belt was concerned the explosions at three grain moving at speeds faster than 40 miles an storage facilities in the past week might hour just prior to the explosion and a be sabotage rather than accidental

Secretary Gil Dozier said management officials at grain elevators along the Mississippi River in Louisiana had increased security since the explosion Dec. 22 at the Continental Grain Co. in Westwego and Tuesday night's blast at another elevator in Galveston. Searchers were looking for the body of the 35th victim in the rubble in Westwego Wednesday. Officials in Galveston put the death toll at the Farmers Export Co. facility at 16

Hours after the Westwego explosion, a blast ripped through a dog-and-fish food factory that handles large quantities of grain in Tupelo, Miss. Two men were killed in that explosion.

"The security at all the elevators has been tripled," Dozier said. "There is theory that (sabotage was involved) because of the farmers strike or the longshoremen's strike or the fact that grain inspection has been moved from the private sector to the federal sector.

"Some people believe that human wrongdoing was involved," Dozier said. However, the secretary said he did not accept the sabotage theories.

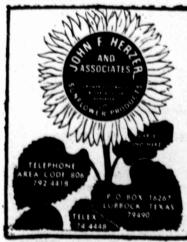

"I admit that's a rash of explosions in the same area of agriculture, but I discount the wrongdoing," he said. "I don't believe they will find there was an attempt to harm the elevators.

Shortly after a Dec. 22 explosion ripped the top of the Continental facility and crushed most of the victims in a cinder block office area, Jefferson Parish sheriff's deputies said the plant had received a bomb threat.

FBI agents were dispatched to the still-smoldering plant hours after the explosion, but they said they were only helping to identify victims and had no orders to conduct a criminal investiga-

"I frankly think that we are going to find there was no wrongdoing or clandestine actions or wrongdoing by man to do harm to these elevators," Dozier said. "But I believe there may have

The rebuilding of huge price-depressed wheat and corn reserves from their low levels of 1974-75 has resulted from record grain harvests the past three years and the inability of domestic use and exports to keep pace with production. Probably no other factor aside from weather has had such a pervasive effect on the U.S. farm economy, and even the huge grain supply is the result of generally good weather.

Grain supplies and prices of wheat and corn, particularly corn, have a direct bearing on a vast portion of the farm economy, affecting producers of cattle, hogs, poultry and dairy cattle.

additional bumper harvests, farmers can expect little financial improvement in

Thus, when corn and other livestock feed grains are relatively cheap as they are now, the tendency among farmers is to feed more of it to animals in hopes of making better profits than selling grain for depressed cash prices.

The existence of the largest grain reserves since the early 1960s also hangs heavily over cash markets, acting as a lid on prices farmers can get for wheat and corn from their local elevators.

Another effect is on how farm land is used for other crops and how federal farm programs are adjusted to compensate for the rising stockpile of grain.

For example, for the first time in five years, farmers will have to take some of their land from production in 1978 to qualify for federal price supports. A program for setting aside 20 percent of a wheat farmer's land from production has been announced by the Agriculture Department and a 10 percent set-aside plan tentatively has been approved for corn and other feed grains.

Even so, the grain stockpile may grow more if current prospects for 1978 harvests materialize. Many of the nation's drought areas, including parts of the important Midwest Corn Belt, have benefited greatly from widespread moisture since last summer.

"Crop output should be large again in 1978, barring major bad weather," says the department's Outlook and Situation Board. "Ample supplies of production inputs, such as pesticides and fertilizer, will facilitate large crop output again."

As an illustration of the immensity of the grain problem, the department says that by next June 1, the U.S. wheat stockpile left over just as the new 1978 harvest is ready will be nearly 1.2 billion bushels, up from 1.1 billion last June and 664 million bushels on June 1, 1976. The corn stockpile next Oct. 1, the beginning of the new marketing year for corn, will be about 1.24 billion bushels, compared with 879 million last Oct. 1 and 398 million bushels on Oct. 1, 1976.

Meanwhile, farm prices of grain have fallen sharply. By Nov. 15, just as the 1977 corn harvest of a record 6.37 billion bushels was winding up, the average was

WASHINGTON (AP) - Faced with $2.48 a bushel. Wheat was $2.48 a bushel. huge grain surpluses and prospects for Three years earlier, in the wake of poor crops elsewhere in the world and a big export demand, corn was bringing farmers around $3.32 a bushel and wheat $4.87 a bushel.

Huge Surpluses Of Grain

Diminish Hopes For 1978

Livestock producers also have had severe ups and downs. Cattle producers, particularly, have had tough going for several years and have undertaken a massive cutback in their herds to help offset sagging market prices.

But with cheaper grain, feedlot production of cattle has picked up. Department experts say that cattle prices overall will improve gradually in 1978, although the increases will be tempered by large supplies of pork and poultry.

Dairy farmers, bolstered by higher government price supports for milk and reduced feed costs, also have expanded production significantly and may be headed for better times in 1978, according to department economists.

But all farmers, whether they produce livestock, wheat, corn, tobacco, cotton, peanuts, vegetables or oranges, have to contend with rising production costs. Farm equipment, fertilizer, fuel and labor all cost much more than they did a few years ago when wheat and corn were bringing record prices.

This has produced the infamous "costprice squeeze" familiar to so many farmers. They produce more - but their net incomes drop because prices they get for commodities are lower and their production costs higher.

Not all farmers fare equally and it is difficult to generalize. A sharp dairy farmer, for example, may have done well last year while a cash grain producer — particularly if he was hit by drought — may have lost his shirt.

One general measure of farmers' financial status is the department's periodic reports on net farm income. This is the money they have left over after paying their bills.

The department experts are hesitant about predicting 1978 net farm income, although they say government payments provided crop producers by the new Food and Agriculture Act will help and that "many livestock producers" will fare better.

Meanwhile, net farm income in 1977 dropped to $20 billion from $21.9 billion in 1976. In 1973, as farmers rode a high tide of rising commodity prices, net farm income soared to a record of $29.9 billion, up from $17.8 billion in 1972.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland says farm prices are too low and that there is no magic solution to the surplus grain problem.

"Only worldwide weather conditions and practical long-range domestic and farm export programs can provide an answer to our surpluses and our priceand-income situation," Bergland says.

Although farm exports have sagged the past year, Bergland and some other officials think the future holds promise, including a recent increase in grain sales to the Soviet Union and Eastern European countries to help make up for reduced harvests.

"Add this to the fact that while the world supply of food is still much better than a few years ago, the balance of world supplies - despite our massive surpluses - are in precarious balance.' Bergland says. "One or two years of low world wide grain production and our surpluses would disappear overnight.

Officials Ponder Cause Of Blast At Galveston

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) - Fire department officials Thursday said either a spark from a railroad engine or a shortcircuited electric switch triggered the killer explosion that ripped apart a grain elevator at the Port of Galveston and left at least 15 persons dead and 22 in-

While investigators attempted to pinpoint the origin of the blast, weary, dirty, and rain-soaked rescue crews dug through the rubble of twisted steel and hunks of concrete in an effort to determine if others had died in the Tuesday explosion, heard 70 miles away Fire Marshall A.D. Carroll told newsmen. "We are still continuing to remove debris and cleanup the tank areas, but we have found no additional bodies." Asked about report that three to five persons may be missing, Carroll said, We have heard reports, but they are iust reports.'

The Federal Grain Inspection Service, who took over the checking of grain on July 1, said five inspectors were killed in the blast, two hospitalized, and one is

The rescue crews worked for the second day in cold, blustery, rainy weather that turned the area into a small swamp with water collecting in the deep, gaping

Howard Doty, 32, an employe of the Farmers Export Co., owners of the grain elevator, said the explosion began in an area where boxcars were unloaded. Doty said he was moving empty boxcars out of the unloading section when the blast

He said the explosion swept down an underground tunnel to the headhouse, where grain is measured and weighed before stored in the nearby 40 silos.

After the first blast, Doty said a chain reaction followed and he heard several more explosions.

Cattle Mart Trading Erratic

By Reuters CHICAGO - Cattle futures ended 22 points higher to 10 lower Thursday on sales of 6,270 contracts on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange.

April was up most and December faced the greatest decline. Prices swung 25 points higher to an equal amount low er in narrow, erratic movements ahead

Late short covering and other buying spilled over from the pork pits and lifted October to equal the season's high. Scattered early selling followed heavy slaughter. This was tempered by steady demand for cattle and beef.

Wholesale beef was unchanged at 69 1/4 cents a pound for all weights, highest since January 1976. Cash cattle were steady, with the best top at $44.50 per hundredweight, a two-week low.

Slaughter was estimated at 151,000 head. The six markets expect receipts of about 3,500 head today. Hog futures were down 25 points in the nearby option but later months gained 25 to 70 led by July and August on a turnover of 6,279 cars. The gain ran to 85 points after losses of as many as 45 to a one-week low in the nearby

Late trading was featured by support from a commission house with cash cattle connections. The sharp discount of futures to cash was a plus.

The spot month tended to give ground on sharply increased hog runs and lower prices coupled with a decline of more than 30 cents in cash hams

Wholesale hams were unchanged to off 1 1/4 cents at 74 to 79 cents per pound, f.o.b. river points, a three-month low. Cash hogs were off $1 to $2.50 with the top in Indianapolis at $46.50, lowest in a

The six major terminals expect arrivals of 15,500 head today. Thursday's kill was set at 298,000 head. Pork belly (bacon) futures rallied from early losses of as many as 75 points in the nearby months to finish 42 to 125 higher led by July which gained 135 points early in the session. Volume was 6,976 contracts.

The rebound lifted prices to new highs since May and more than 10 cents above recent lows. July equalled the season's peak at $56 per hundredweight. Early selling on weak cash hogs was absorbed readily as traders noted light kills and further strength in cash bellies as well as continued reductions in storage stocks.

Wholesale bacon was unchanged to up 21/2 cents at 521/2 to 61 cents per pound, f.o.b. river, the highest since Au-

Fire Marshall Carroll said the spark from a railroad engine was a possibility, but also said an electric switch may have short-circuited in the top of the headhouse, causing a spark to ignite the highly volatile grain dust.

The Yugoslavian ship Sutjeska, loading wheat at the time of the exposion, sustained minor damage and was moved away from the whaves by tug boats.

Vojin Krivokapic, captain of the Sutjeska, said the blast "made vibrations from the wharf, up and down and back and forth like an earthquake."

C.S. Devoy, executive director of the city-owner wharves, said "impact of the explosion upon the wharves' financial position is impossible to determine at

He said the economic posture of the city would be hurt by the temporary loss of ship calls, labor hours and jobs lost.

Devoy said the "wharves are not out of the bulk grain market. Elevator B, now under long-term lease to the Bunge Corp., has a seven-million-bushel capacity and has operated successfully for many years.

Calving Problems Attributed To Immature Heifers

LAS CRUCES, N.M. (Special) - Almost 50 percent of a cattleman's calving problems are associated with first calf heifers, an extension beef cattle specialist at New Mexico State University says. Most of these problems are attributed to heifers being too young and underdeveloped at calving time.

This makes the selection and care of a replacement heifer very important, says Larry Foster. Research indicates that heifers that are 14 to 16 months old and weigh 600 to 700 pounds have the best chance for successful breeding.

Most cow-calf producers want their replacement heifers to calve as two-yearolds (24 to 26 months), Foster says. Since first calf heifers are often bred 20 to 30 days ahead of the mature cow herd, give special attention to the initial selection and growing-developing pro-

If heifers are to calve during the January-March season, they should have been born in that period, preferably during the first half.

They should also reach a weaning weight of 475 to 500 pounds by Nov. 1 (about nine months after birth). This means a daily gain of about 11/4 pounds.

If forage is the only available feed, about three to four pounds per day of concentrated feed may be needed to help heifers reach the desired weights at breeding time.

If first calf heifers are expected to perform as cows, they must received extra feed and care before, during and after calving, the specialist says.

By RODERICK TURNBULL Kansas City Board Of Trade

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - What is grain worth? When trades are made, what prices prevail?

The answers to these questions are provided by markets, but it is a tremendously complicated process. It is almost sible to explain all the services sup-

Maybe one of the most effective ways to assess these services would be to try to imagine what the situation would be if there were no markets, particularly the central markets.

The U.S. Department of Agricultural (USDA) has helped to emphasize the perplexity of the pricing system in a detailed study designed to help its own price reporters to do a better job. Results of the study, made by the Economic Research Service of the USDA, have been published in a 73-page booklet entitled, "The U.S. Cash Grain Trade in 1974: Participants, Transactions, and Information Sources."

As the name suggests, the study is pri-marily interested in cash markets rather than futures.

Futures markets at Chicago, Kansas City and Minneapolis are "highly visible," the study explains, where each price change is recorded and widely disseminated. In contrast, most trading on the cash market is difficult to observe.

A summary of the booklet does help explain some of the many things involved in the marketing of grain. It doesn't offer anything new or anything that farmers and members of the trade haven't known before, but it serves to put these things try elevators, representing about 95 percent for terminal sales. Trucks transported more than half of the corn and soybeans shipped by country elevators while railroads took twothirds of the wheat. Terminals, however, shipped more than half their corn and wheat by rail, almost three-fifths of their soybeans by barge, and overall, 10 percent of their grains by truck. The study says that futures trading trading standarized forward contracts on organize exchanges — plays a major part in grain pricing. Prices for cash transactions are frequently quoted in terms of the basis (the difference between the futures price and the cash price).

Some one-third of the country elevators and two-thirds of the terminal elevators use the basis often to specify price in sales agreements.

The study also emphasized the sheer

Skin Disease In Cattle On Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) - A highly contagious skin disease of cattle caused by tiny mites has more than doubled so far this year, requiring federal and state quarantines to get it cleared up, says the Agriculture Department.

For example, there were 31 outbreaks of cattle scabies reported in November against nine in the same month of last year. Through the first 11 months, 149 outbreaks were reported compared with 58 during the same period of 1976.

Officials said Tuesday that the spread of the disease is primarily due to a number of large sales of infected cattle which then were shipped to different areas. Since the disease is transmitted easily among cattle others have been infected.

The 31 outbreaks in November included 13 in Colorado, one in Iowa, five in Kansas, one in Minnesota, six in Nebraska, two in New Mexico, one in Oregon and two in Texas, the department's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service

Frank J. Mulhearn, administrator of the agency, said that "quarantines were placed on all infected an exposed cattle," until they were treated and found free of scabies mites. The tiny mites are de stroyed when the animals are dipped in pesticide solutions. The mites puncture the skin of cattle and feed on body fluids. The meat from infected cattle is not harmful to consumers, officials said. But when scabies are spread to new areas, the quarantines and treatments interrupt the regular marketing flow of cattle and cost producers money in putting control

Workers To Get Federal Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Labor Department announced Wednesday that 5,-200 workers in five states, including more than 4,700 Maryland and Pennsylvania steelworkers, have been certified eligible for special federal assistance because import competition was a factor in their unemployment.

The decision, covering workers in Arizona, Missouri and Iowa as well as Pennsylvania and Maryland, makes the employees eligible for retraining and special cash allowances to supplement their regular state unemployment benefits. Workers affected are eligible for a maximum

The Labor Department decision affects approximately 4,000 workers at Bethlehem Steel Corp.'s Sparrows Point Plant in Baltimore and 750 workers producing iron-ore ferrous at Bethlehem Mines Corp.'s Grace Mine in Morgantown, Pa.

It also covers 185 workers making titanium dioxide pigment at an NL Industries plant in St. Louis, 175 workers at Magma Copper Co. plants in San Manuel and Superior, Ariz., and 140 clothing workers at the Gross Galesburg Co. facility at Chariton, Iowa. The plant was closed last

The summary notes that grain markets volume of commodities in grain tradin This year corn production exceeded 6 billion bushels and wheat production was more than 2 billion. Grain production in total this year set a new record.

But, the number of establishments involved in the marketing and processing of grain probably has declined somewhat from former years. Consequently, the study suggests, the average volume han-dled per establishment has increased.

Another change from previous years is that the proportion of grains that pass through primary terminal markets is less than in the past. More moves directly to ports for export, particularly to the Gulf.

In the last five years, exports averaged about 30 percent of the total production of food and feed grains; exports via the Gulf accounted for 60 to 65 percent of the price quotation," says the study, "along with quotations from other markets, but the terminal price quotation is not neces-sarily viewed as establishing the market. It becomes a price rather than the price."

The study adds that the decentralization of grain marketing makes price re-porting difficult because quotations must be collected from broader geographic

These are just a few of the examples cited by the study which indicate the complications of grain pricing. As advice specifically for the USDA marketing service, the study tells it more emphasis should be given to reporting prices out-side the traditional terminal markets.

Also, since much trading is for deferred delivery, more attention should be fo-cused on reporting prices for such deliv-ery, and the delivery periods should be specified in the reports.

Commodities

By Mike Stevens

TRADING COMODITIES CAN BE RISKY business, but not nearly as risky as opening a new exchange.

The information statement for the proposed New Orleans Cotton and Commodity Exchange (NOCCE) spells it out on the first page: "The success of a new commodity exchange is speculative in nature. There is considerable difficulty in introducing new contracts even on an established exchange and much more difficulty on a new one."

ALthough NOCCE spokesmen boast of "quite a bit of interest" in their venture, they have only sold about 35 of their 250 memberships thus far, but it has been only two weeks since the exchange began intensive solicitation.

The NOCCE has requested Commodity Futures Trrading Commission permission to trade cotton and rice. Frozen shrimp and soybean contracts stand in

An exhange's success depends on its ability to entice a healthy mixture of commission house and local speculative interests, coupled with trade hedging.

OFFICIALS AT MOST COMMISSION HOUSES agreed, that if others trade there, they will join in. So far, the NOCCE has attracted most of its members from among the locals on the old cotton exchange, which served as both a spot and futures market from 1871 to 1961. It closed because the federal price support system set both floor and ceiling prices.

In an attempt to lure cotton futures traders to the southern market, the NOCCE's cotton contract is based on the existing New York options. Delivery months and quality will be the same, although contract size currently is slated to be either or both 50 and 100 bales. New York trades 100-bale contracts.

TUESDAY'S WHEAT OPENING DREW GREAT interest from incredulous floor traders who witnessed the posting of 13 and 17 cent gains on the boards. The quotes proved accurate but short-lived as the market quickly settled into a trading range 4 or 5 cents above Friday's close.

Circumstances surrounding the extremely high opening (wheat has a 20-cent limit) included large commission house buy stops and a scarcity of sell orders. Many sellers apparently had been scared away from the opening by a report that the People's Republic of China 1977 grain harvests did not equal 1976 totals, the first such production shortfall in decades.

As a result, buy brokers bid prices up one cent at a time until export firms made offerings. The selling halted the run-up and other buyers and sellers found a less extensive range more comfortable. The market's advance also relied on continued momentum generated after the last USDA report of a 14 percent reduction in winter wheat acreage.

Wheat futures closed lower yesterday for the first time in eight sessions. Your comments and suggestions on this column for 1978 can be addressed to

Increase In State's Land Values Slows

By Robert L. Haney

A median price per acre of $475 boosted rural land prices in Texas to a new high in dollar value in 1976. The market in 1977 is mixed but could set another new record in dollar value.

Demand, on the other hand, in the Texas rural land market peaked in 1974. During the first half, demand was so strong that the annual rate of appreciation in land values reached a record of 21.4 percent for the year.

A major market adjustment is reflected in the drop in demand to only 6.8 percent in 1975 and 4.6 percent in 1976. A combination of factors caused the land market to react negatively, according to Dr. Ivan Schmedemann, agricultural economist at Texas A&M University.

"The important factor was the energy crisis, which contributed to a general inflation," says Schmedemann.

The effects of these conditions continued into 1976. The 4.6 percent increase in rural land values in 1976 is the lowest rate since 1966 when the increase was 4.3 percent and the median price per acre was $170."

Schmedemann, is studying rural land values for the Texas Agricultural Experi-ment Station and the Texas Real Estate Research Center.

Because the forces affecting the de-mand for rural land are so varied, looking at trends on a regional basis is a must in Texas. Percentage growth rates were studied over an 11-year period, 1966 through 1976, for each of 25 regions of the state Nearly half of the rural land in Texas, in a broad band running from Northeast Texas to the Rio Grande River, increased 200 to 300 percent in value during the last 11 years.

CHICAGO (AP) Wheat futures prices reversed a recent uptrend Thursday on the Chicago Board of Trade, and other grains drifted a shade lower.

Most of the losses in the wheat pit, where contracts were off almost 3 cents, were attributed to profit-taking. After advancing steadily for the past seven sessions, the March contract dipped to $2.801/4 cents a bushel.

Soybean futures weakened only slightly when soybean oil contracts dropped sharply. Large-scale commission house selling accounted for declines of as much as $5.70 a ton in the oil pit.

An industry publication reported that palm oil stocks worldwide were greater than previously had been thought.

Two major grain exporters executed good-sized purchases in the corn pit, offsetting hedge selling that was a result of a pickup in corn sales at country points.

And South Korea reportedly has bought nearly 300,000 metric tons of corn in the past two days on credit supplied by the Blunt said he understood that Happy farmers would add their vehicles to a 261mile tractorcade stretching from Amarillo to Oklahoma City, Okla.

Harold Bob Bennett of Hart said strikers there likely will sit out the tractorcades on Tuesday but are making plans to go to Washington, D.C., later in January. Dimmitt farmers whose tractors have remained near Lubbock since last week's action will probably return here on Tuesday, said Dick Shackelford. "We plan on staying busy," he noted.

We may as well not try to farm on the land ... with prices as low as they are so we'll have to farm the highways to make a crop," Shackelford said.

"We're all committed to that goal of going to Washington, D.C., and seeing this thing through," he said.

The farmers received some governmental response today when Texas Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown said he supports 100 percent parity for farmers only if it "can be achieved in the marketplace through the free enterprise system.

Strike leader Mike McCathern in Hereford reveled, "I think that it's great that he (Brown) came out in support of 100 percent parity. That's exactly what we wanted all along." Brown's statement, issued in response to requests by farmers and ranchers for his position, was "way overdue," according to McCathern.

Pension System Girl Found In Plane's Study Planned Wreckage

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter may announce next month his long-delayed commission to study the problems of financially strained pension systems of federal, state and local goverments, according to a White House aide.

Tentative plans call for the panel to study, among other things, Social Security pensions for disabled workers under age 65, the financial condition of government pension funds and "double-dipretirees who draw two or more pension checks from different units of the government.

Among the items on the panel's agenda will be the Civil Service retirement system for civilian federal workers, which has an annual cost that is growing at the rate of $1 billion a year, according to latest figures.

That system's long-term projected costs have been officially underestimated by several billion dollars per year, according to an unpublished Civil Service Commission report. Contributions by employees and the government cover only 61 per cent of the amount needed to pay expected future pensions and to provide for a stable reserve fund, the re-

Even in its present condition, the Civil Service pension system is better funded than the Social Security system or the military retirement system, the report

Carter announced at a news conference pension commission "very quickly.

He said then he thought it unfair to allow governmental retirees to draw full pensions while also holding down fulltime jobs.

Carter cited wide disparities in retirement benefits available to people with similar working backgrounds who had paid similar amounts into different retirement funds. And he said many governmental retirement systems, particularly at the local level, are financially unsound, endangering the security of public servants

White House aide Franklin D. Raines said final plans for the panel had been delayed by other matters, including the recently signed increase in Social Security

'We're still planning to set it up,' Raines said in response to a reporter's questions. "We hope to be announcing something in the next month

He said plans for the panel are not yet final, but that it would focus on govern-

Service, veterans' pensions, state and local pension funds, and disability pensions under Social Security. Rising costs brought on by inflation, increased benefits and swelling numbers of retirees have focused criticism on many local, state and federal retirement systems in recent years. New York City's financial crisis has been blamed in part on the generosity of its pension systems, which in some cases allowed workers to retire on pensions higher than their regular salaries. The cost of military pensions is now more than the Army payroll, and headed upward. Even optimistic official forecasts predict the Social Security system will have a long-term deficit despite the new tax increase. The Civil Service system, although among the best-funded of the federal government's many retirement programs, is also increasingly costly. In 1966 it cost $1.7 billion, but that rose to $9.7 billion in 1977 and is projected to cost $10.9 billion in fiscal 1978 and $11.9 billion the year after. The unpublished Civil Service Commission report, which has circulated internally for a year without being released, shows that federal employees contribute less than one-sixth of the projected costs of their own pensions. The report said there is no reason to require employees to contribute more, but noted that there has been pressure to require the government to begin reflecting the full costs of benefits in the budgets of federal agencies

"The full costs of benefits for current employees are not charged against current taxpayers, even on paper," the report said.

from the top of 3,210-foot Rock Mountain, 23 miles east of San Diego. "We were about 75 feet away when we heard a little girl saying, 'Help me, down here'," said Deputy Dennis Wilson, the pilot of the helicopter. "We found her 15 to 25 feet on the other side of the wreckage in high chaparral. She said she had been there a couple of days and was thirsty and cold. 'But she wasn't crying. She was just real happy that we were there."

The plane crashed in a rainstorm on a flight to San Diego from Boulder as Michelle and her grandparents headed for a vacation in Ensenada, Mexico. The plane was last reported early Tuesday over Parker, Ariz., when McCaffrey, 56, inquired by radio about weather conditions. The search was launched Wednesday. A signal from an emergency location transmitter in the plane, activated when it crashed, led the helicopter pilot to the mountain peak. Michelle told doctors she was sleeping when the plane hit and that both she and her 55-year-old grandmother were thrown out.

The woman lived briefly. Her body was found 25 feet from the plane, but McCaffrey's body was found still strapped in the pilot's seat. An orthodontic technician, McCaffrey was described by friends as a good pilot with 500 to 600 hours of flying time. Sheriff's deputies, led by a group of Barona Indians, tried to reach the wreckage Thursday night to recover the bodies Michelle's grandparents, but were forced back. They planned to resume the effort today. Michelle's mother, Carol Robson, flew here Thursday night from the family home at Fort Collins, Colo. "I don't think anybody ever gives their kids enough credit — thank goodness Michelle didn't panic," said Mrs. Robson. 31.

She said Michelle, a Girl Scout, was taught never to panic — "hug a tree but don't panic or run." Mrs. Robson is a Girl Scout leader.

FORT WORTH (AP) - Irate farmers, fresh from a large rally in Cleburne, said they will deploy tractors around this onetime cattle capital today as the farm strike - Texas-style - picks up where it left off before the Christmas holidays.

After a rally and speeches by aspiring politicians and farm leaders, a group of about 80 vehicles drove to Fort Worth and secured agreement from officials at Mrs. Baird's Bakery for a 24-hour shutdown early next month.

Strike organizers' hinted that picket lines may go up at various food processing plants today to secure similar shutdown agreements. However, they refused to detail their plans late Thursday.

The Cleburne demonstration - believed to be the largest such protest in Johnson County's history - included vehicles from several counties, but was small compared with the 1,100-tractor convoy that streamed into Lubbock Dec. 21 or the 500-tractor caravan that blocked food processers' driveways in Amarillo Dec. 14.

However, the theme was the same.

Guatemala, Britain Reach Agreement

By GEORGE GEDDA

WASHINGTON (AP) - Top secret neotiations between Britain and Guatemahave produced a tentative agreement in their 156-year-old conflict over the status of the British colony of Belize, according to diplomatic sources.

The agreement, involving the cession of small area of Belize's territory to Guaemala, has yet to be approved by the oremier of the self-governing colony, George C. Price, the sources say.

An added inducement for Guatemala to settle was the promise of an undetermined amount of development assistance from Britain, the United States and perhaps other countries, according to the informants.

Belize, wedged between Guatemala, Mexico and the Caribbean Sea, has been claimed by Guatemala on the grounds that it inherited Spanish sovereignty over the area. Britain rejects the claim and the two countries have gone to the brink of war several times in recent years. Last July, Britain rushed troops, aircraft and a naval frigate to Belize to head to go along with the proposal. off a Guatemalan invasion threat.

Afterward, Guatemalan Foreign Minister Adolfo Molina Orantes and British Foreign Office Minister Edward Rowlands intensified a negotiating effort that had gone on intermittenly for the previous three years.

The sources, who requested anonymity, said that Guatemala made a major concession in accepting a small strip of thinly-populated territory in the southernmost section of Belize as the price for settlement. Since gaining independence in 1821, Guatemala has claimed sovereignty over the entire territory.

The size of the region that would revert to Guatemala was not specified, but reports ranged from 5 percent to 15 percent. It is said to be made up mostly of swampland with a population not exceeding 2,000. The fate of the agreement now rests in Price's hands. He initially was extremely reluctant to cede any territory to Guatemala but has been under heavy pressure

Price's acceptance of the formula would pave the way for achievement of his longstanding goal of independence for

The British, who maintain about 2,000 troops in Belize, look upon the country as an expensive headache.

They are said to be just as anxious as Price to see the territory become independent, but take seriously the possibility that the Guatemalan army would overrun Belize if independence is granted without a settlement

As explained by the sources, Price is faced with an agonizing choice. He would like to be recalled as the leader who guided Belize to independence but he has extreme reservations about taking that step if it means surrender of any Belize terri-

Carter's comments gave the Arab hardliners more ammunition to use against Sadat, probably jeopardized chances for a quick Middle East settlement and left Sadat - who risked his political life by visiting Jerusalem last month - in a precarious position on the home front.

Failure To Heed Jury Summonses Brings Sentence

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) - Neither tears nor pleas of absent-mindedness would dissaude District Judge Homer Smith from his plan to punish people who failed to respond to summonses for

Smith pronounced sentence on eight offenders this week - three days in his courtroom without pay. He ordered arrest warrants issued for four other persons who failed to heed either the jury summons or the informal contempt of court citations ordering them to appear.

The eight who did show up were reproached individually.

British novelist George Eliot said,

Smith asked them one-by-one why they did not appear for jury duty. Most replied they lost the summons, forgot about it or could not appear because of their jobs.

Smith told them the excuses might have been accepted if they had tried to contact the courthouse, and Roger M. Bondy said he did, but never reached court officials.

"I'm sure sorry. I didn't mean to offend the court. I didn't mean to avoid my civic duty," Bondy said.

Rudy Flores thinks critics of his Uvalde department store's handling of federally subsidized on-the-job trainees are trying to "play a hatchet job" on him.

Two state agencies have come to the defense of Flores Department Store by knocking down reports of alleged irregularities concerning its trainees.

The Texas Department of Community Affairs overruled an evaluation by its own staff. The Governor's Office of Migrant Affairs is rebutting findings of a private auditor who is under contract to the department. Flores says he plays no role in the management of the store, although he owns it. He says he's never even "sold a handkerchief at the store.

Two persons received on-the-job training at the store under the U.S. Department of Labor's Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA). The Middle Rio Grande Development Council was the contractor in one case, the Governor's Office of Migrant Affairs in the

The labor department paid half the $2.30 hourly wages of the CETA trainees. Both contracts were funneled through the Department of Community Affairs.

Flores and officials of the state agencies asserted his store was performing a public service. They said there was no conflict of interest between his government post and the store's employment of trainees under programs overseen by the Department of Community Affairs evaluators said the Flores store violated a rule that only one employee in four can be a CETA trainee. At one time, two of the store's five employees were subsidized by CETA grants.

They also found that one of the workers had previously been an employee of the department store."

"Future OJT (on-the-job training) contracts should not be written with Flores Department Store." the evaluators said.

Their comments were overridden, however, at an administrative conference over which department director Ben McDonald presided.

A supplement was added to the evaluation, saying that while rules might have been broken, small employers such as Flores' store are not expected to know

The evaluators "placed incorrect emphasis on how the matter came to pass, and unfair reflections were directed at the Flores Department Store," the supplement read

State Fridoy, Dec. 30, 1977

It placed responsibility on the local subcontractor for manpower services, Val Verde County.

Flores' store also is mentioned in an audit of the Governor's Office of Migrant Affairs which was made by a private firm for the Department of Community Af-

Joaquin Rodriguez, an official of the migrant affairs office, said the audit found wages had been paid to an OJT employee when there was no contract authorizing their payment. Since then, he said, the OJT contract was located.

"The only thing that was questioned was there was no contract that could be found. Apparently it was misplaced," he

Rodriguez said that would "be part of our report" to the Department of Community Affairs.

The department says it will withhold the audit report until all comments are received. The Associated Press formally requested a copy Wednesday, meaning the department has until Jan. 7 to ask Attorney General John Hill whether it legally can deny access to the audit.

Flores said his store manager was approached by CETA contractors and did not seek the trainees. Flores said he himself was not involved in hiring them.

He, Rodriguez and Tom Laramey, counsel for the Department of Community Affairs, said Flores has no authority over the issuance of CETA grants nor over the persons who approve them.

Despite the fact that half the wages of CETA trainees are paid by the federal government, "It's no bargain," Flores

"Is there any conflict of interest because I pay state unemployment compensation, federal unemployment compensation. Social Security taxes and workmen's compensation on these employees?" he

Besides those expenses, he added, there is the loss of the services of regular clerks who must provide training to employees hired under the CETA program.

"I think somebody was trying to play a hatchet job with me," he said of the criti-

Sum Awarded In Suit

HOUSTON (AP) - The family of a 7year-old boy who claimed the boy was blinded as the result of oxygen administered soon after the child's premature birth at Pasadena's Southmore Hospital has been awarded $1.86 million in damages by a state district court jury. Jurors decided Thursday the amount was reasonable compensation for the care, past and future suffering and loss of earning capacity because of the blindness of Alan Spears, son of Sherri Spears.

The jury found there was negligence on the part of the hospital administration, manufacturer of the incubator in which the infant was placed and Dr. Lionel H. Rothenberg, the physician who ordered the oxygen.

Jurors found no negligence on the part of M.L. Doncaster, another doctor named as a defendant in the damage shit State District Judge Reagan Cartwright will determine a later judgment hearing how the jury award will be distributed.

Don Hallmark, attorney for Air-Shields, Inc., of Hatboro, Pa., the manufacturer of the incubator, said it is the position of his client that negligence by the medical staff caused the damage to Hallmark said the jury decision willl be appealed.

Steve McConnico, attorney for the two doctors, said his clients were unaffected by the verdict because of a prior settlement in which the family was paid $100,-000 by the doctors in 1973.

The hospital claimed during the trial that the child would have died had the oxygen not been administered

OSHA Plans Grain Guides

HOUSTON (UPI) - Recent grain elevator explosions that killed more than 50 persons and caused millions in property damage have prompted the Occupational Safety and Health Udministration to plan to issue new safety guidelines to the grain

On Dec. 22 an explosion at the Continental Grain Elevator Co. in Westwego, La., killed 35 persons. Tuesday's explosion at the Furmers Export Co. in Galveston killed 18 more.

An OSHA information officer in Washington Thursday said the federal agency was disturbed by the explosions and would soon issue a general "alert" to the grain industry.

"OSHA is planning to issue an alert sometime next week to the grain industry in the form of general guidelines based on what we have found in the investiga-

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: Because of you, my Christmas was a lot merrier this year. Last year my husband drove me crazy sitting around the house doing nothing. He had just retired at age 65, was in good health, and didn't know what to do with himself. He'd worked hard all his life and never had time to cultivate any hobbies.

I kiddingly suggested he write to you, and he did. You told him to offer his services to some volunteer group, and you named a few. He called the Crippled Children's Society, and they gave him the names of some handicapped children who needed transportation to and from the therapy clinic. He's never been hap-

DEAR ABBY: I may be old-fashioned, but I think it's in very poor taste to give a child money for Christmas. My motherin-law sends my child a check every Christmas, and I get furious with her. I have been tempted to send it back or to send her a check in the same amount.

I feel if she can't take the time (of which she has plenty) to shop for her grandchild, she can keep her money. My child would be more impressed with a sack of jelly beans than he is with grandma's check. Should I tell her to forget it next year?

Dear Furious: NO. I think giving a child a check makes more sense than giving him a gift he feels he must keep (or worse yet, wear) because it's grandma's Christmas gift. You can't go wrong with money, the color is always right, and you don't have to worry about "fit" - it fits into any pocketbook

The fate of the hand rested on the opening lead. At one table, the defending champion in the West seat felt that it was important to get whatever heart tricks were due to his side before declarer could take a discard. Therefore, he selected the eight of hearts as his opening lead.

East won the ace of hearts. He could have shifted to the ace of diamonds and another, giving his partner a ruff, but that would have been the third and last trick for the defenders. No other defense would have prevailed, so the challengers scored their vulnerable

If America believed in royalty, there is no doubt in my mind that the coronation would occur on New Year's Eve. Ascending to the throne in a pair of earth shoes and faded jeans would be the most revered, most sought-after queen in America: Her Royal Highness, the New Year's Eve babysitter.

I am not being dramatic when I say that I have known women who have rushed back into a burning house to rescue their book of "sitters." Their phone numbers are passed around, memorized, and shredded. In fact, no one will ever convince me that the break-in at Watergate was anything but a plan to steal a list of Democratic baby sitters. The time was right — June 17. (After that date, you might just as well forget trying to line someone up.)

There was nothing too good for my New Year's Eve baby sitter. Before she arrived I put in a supply of snacks that would have led a rock festival and had the house so clean you'd have thought we were sell-

The Slim Gourmet By Barbara Gibbons

Now's the time to rekindle a summer romance - the love affair every dieter has with tunafish. Tuna is trim and tasty but ... cold! If you're a Slim Gourmet cook, however, there are lots of ways to fit tuna into winter menus. Yes, tuna's great in sand-wiches and summer salads, but it's even more delicious served piping hot in calo-rie-wise main courses. Winter or summer, hot or cold, tuna's advantages remain the same: low-calorie, low-cholesterol, low-fat, high-protein, inexpensive, quick and easy, always on hand in convenient cans, no cold storage needed!

These easy-do dishes are based on 6and-one-half-or 7-ounce cans of tuna packed in brine or water . . . NOT oil. Water-packed tuna has only 216 calories per can but oil-packed tuna has 309 calories per can

Classroom Should Extend Into Home

By CONNIE GRZELKA NEW YORK (AP) - Prompted by symptoms common to many children, namely sluggishness and a blank stare after school, Sara Ann Friedman decided to spend a day in her son's third-grade classroom. "By the end of the class," she recalls, "I was ready to throw spitballs

Just one day in that "uninspired, unimaginative" classroom led Mrs. Friedman to other concerned parents who thought they'd do some further investigating, only to be told by the school board that parents had "no business in the education of their children.

That was 13 years ago. Mrs. Friedman. now 42 and the mother of three teenagers, long ago questioned whether her children were learning in school as well as they should.

Some of the answers, she learned, were right in her own home. Her solution was simply one of extending the classroom into the home, which she illustrates in her recently published book "How Was School Today, Dear?" "Fine, What's For Dinner?"

"They didn't expect so much from the school system when we were kids. Now they expect more and get less," she la-

A New Yorker and a product of a private school herself, Mrs. Friedman rates her own education as "good." But, she adds, the system of learning public or private school, basic or innovative methods - doesn't matter. "What's important are curiosity, a love of learning and self-respect. They are totally transferable to the rest of a child's life, regardless of the teaching method.

"In life, real learning is of greater value than just achievement in school. Thinking skills are more important than rote mechanical skills," she asserts. "I'd rather see a kid know how to reason and think than just be able to spell correct-

She urges parents to take responsibility for their children's education: "Greater involvement begins with knowing what they are learning in school and making sure that their education doesn't end at 3

"Parents are intimidated by educators and experts, and they're always busy with other things. They never stop to think of what they could do, although they have the resources to supplement their children's education Yet, she cautions, don't make learning a chore. It should be fun; if going to a museum isn't fun, don't go. Household chores can give kids a sense of responsibility. Cooking is one example Mrs. Friedman offers.

'It shows how to organize, how to utilize fractions in a practical setting. Routine chores will take more time when parents go through them step-by-step with a youngster, but the learning benefit

Dinner conversations needn't be intellectual. But whatever the discussion, it has to be family-oriented - sharing problems is equally important, she says.

Israeli Stamps Honor Service To 'Homeland'

Associated Press Writer

Seven new commemorative stamps have been issued by Israel. Two sets of three stamps depict varied works of artand the single adhesive is a tribute to those "who have voluntarily given their services to their homeland."

One set features the works of Efraim Moshe Lilien, who illustrated scenes of the Bible and the people of Israel (before there was a modern State of Israel). From 1908 until his death in 1925, Lilien produced 235 etchings while on four different visits to the Holy Land. Each of the stamps bears the Israeli tabs with in-

The second set features children's drawings on the subject of peace. These drawings reach out for the day when Arab and Israeli children will play together in peace, says the Israel Philatelic Agency. The tabs bear the single line "Children's Drawings on Peace.

The single stamp represents a gesture of appreciation to all of Israel's volunteers by illustrating the story "Let's Help Pull Up Grandfather's Carrot." This story is an ancient one where the old grandfather shows that, with the voluntary help of all members of his family, he can overcome insurmountable obstacles.

Last week we discussed the new U.S. stamp honoring Lindbergh's historic flight to Paris on the 50th anniversary of the occasion, with first-day ceremonies at Roosevelt Field in New York.

Well, prior to the decision giving New York the honors, the city of St. Louis requested that it be awarded the first-day site. One of the groups making the request to the U.S. Postal Service was the St. Louis Globe Democrat, which was the only newspaper to support the flight in 1927. Many of Lindbergh's backers were

Carpeting Can Solve Problem

By ANDY LANG Associated Press Writer

- We have a very old house with a large porch where my wife and I and our children sit around for hours, especially after coming in from the water. The wooden floor of the porch is probably still as solid as the day it was built, but every once in a while one of us gets a splinter in his foot and we have decided to cover the floor with some kind of carpeting. The porch is covered, but is open on three sides and sometimes the floor gets wet in a driving rain. I have been reading about indoor-outdoor carpeting, and wonder whether this can be put down right over the wood and whether it will stand up fairly well.

- To answer the last part first, a good quality indoor-outdoor carpeting is very durable and most certainly can be used for your purpose. While it can be put down over almost any kind of floor, the fact that splinters are developing in the wood suggests that you should first install hardboard or plywood sheets, then the carpeting. Get the underlayment type of either of these products in the 4 by 4 sizes, which are easy to handle.

Q. — I have tried every solution I have ever heard about to get deep stains off the concrete floor of the outdoor shed we have, but nothing has helped. Now I have been told that the only sure way to remove such stains is with muriatic acid. Is this true?

A. - If used very carefully, muriatic acid can be used on small areas and most of the time will do the job. But for the purpose of removing stains from an entire concrete floor, it is dangerous to use. You would be better off to paint the floor to conceal the stains. More precise advice cannot be given since you failed to state the nature of the substance that caused the stains

Q - We have a mahogany piece of furniture from which the old finish has been removed. The wood is sort of deep red. We want to stain it. Can a brown stain be

Yes, but make it a dark brown

- I intend to use a varnish remover to take the old finish off a bureau. The bureau has been waxed on and off for years with a paste wax. Will the varnish remover also remove the wax?

A. - Possibly, but it will make the job allot more difficult, since the remover will have to eat its way through the wax before it can tackle the varnish. Varnish removal is messy enough without making it tougher. Use a commercial wax removing compound, then go ahead with the renioval of the varnish

Why is it that when I use a sand mix, it begins to harden fairly quickly aftet I have added water to it, but when I use a mortar mix for brickwork, it remains workable for a longer period of time? Aren't the ingredients in both mixtures pretty much the same?

- They are, with one notable exception. The mortar mix contains lime, and it is the lime which makes the mix workable longer than a sand mix. Incidentally, if you are working while the sun is out, keep the mixture away from the rays of the sun to prevent it from drying out too quickly.

claimed that city as his hometown. Nevertheless, despite losing out to New York as the first-day site, St. Louis will celebrate the 50th anniversary with a two-day gala affair on May 21-22.

Ironically, the new stamp hailing the solo flight across the Atlantic does not even mention Lindbergh's name.

The telephone bell is still ringing one

Stamps commemorating the centennial of Alexander Graham Bell's inventing the telephone in 1876 are still being issued, although a little tardy. The latest stamp set comes from Grenada-Grenadines which has released seven new stamps tracing telephone designs during the past century.

The 1/2-cent shows Bell's first phone. The 1-cent depicts a phone design of 1895 The 2-cents features a wallmounted phone of 1900. The 35-cents illustrates a phone of 1915. The 75-cents pictures a 1920 wall phone. The $1 has the plastic telephone of 1963. A souvenir sheet shows a modern phone of 1976.

Papua-New Guinea pays tribute to Queen Elizabeth II's Silver Jubilee with a three-stamp set featuring the same portrait of the monarch. One stamp shows the Queen and the national flag. Another stamp depicts Her Royal Highness and the national emblem. The third stamp has Ehzabeth's picture and the map of Papua-New guinea. Each stamp has the inscription "Silver Jubilee 1977

In a new cultural series of stamps, Luxembourg has issued a set of four featur-ing pictures of famous men. The 2-franc shows Johann Wolfgang von Goethe (1749 - 1842). The 5-franc depicts English painter William Turner (1775 -1851). The 6-franc bears a likeness of French writer Victor Hugo (1802 - 1855). The 12-franc illustrates pianist and composer Franz Liszt (1811 - 1886).

Unusual Book Paints Portrait Of Survival

Associated Press Writer

"A Will to Survive' by John Phillips is a book of extraordinary photographs of Israel with an unusual history of its own. It started in 1948 and it took Fate, weaving an odd chain of circumstances, almost three decades before the final pages were put together for its recent publication by The Dial Press, New York ($14.95).

The book begins with the agonizing birth pains that accompanied Israel's emergence as a country on May 14, 1948, by mandate of the United Nations. When British troops withdrew on that date. Arabs started their assault on the Jewish Quarter in the Old City of Jerusalem.

John Phillips, a war-seasoned photojournalist for Life magazine, was accredited to the Arab Legion. He was an American Protestant, born in Algeria, who grew up among both Arabs and Jews. Now, dressed in Arab Legion uniform, he was able to move about freely, taking pictures, because he looked like a British officer attached to the Arab army. He was the only photographer present when the Arab Legion launched its attack on May 18.

For the next 10 days, Phillips watched that led to its inevitable surrender. He photographed the surrender ceremony, the lineup of prisoners, the plight of the wounded and dying, the misery of refugees fleeing through Zion Gate, and finally, the looting and burning by Arab irregulars leaving a ransacked area and charred ruins.

After risking his life taking pictures when Arab mobs got out of control, and aware of strict Arab censorship to prevent news of the sack of the Jewish Quarter from reaching the western world, Phillips had to smuggle his pictures out. However, the dramatic impact and significance of Phillips' remarkable photos was buried, at the time, under other news of turmoil in Europe. Life magazine gave the report from Jerusalem just two pages.

But Phillips couldn't forget the tragic scenes and haunting faces. Did the terrified little girl on the burning street ever find her parents? Were any of the Haganah prisoners still alive? Did the wounded teenager with a shattered leg walk again? The questions went unanswered for 27 years - then Fate stepped in.

John Phillips brought his negatives to an old friend, Ralph Baum, head of Modernage Labs in New York City, for enlargements to be made for presentation to the Metropolitan Museum of Art. Baum, thrilled with the pictures, and leaving soon for Israel, brought a set of prints with him to show his friend, Teddy Kollek, mayor of Jerusalem. Baum re turned with a message: Mayor Kollek wants to meet the photographer on a forthcoming trip to New York.

The meeting took place in May 1975. Mayor Kollek invited Phillips to come to Israel to find and photograph survivors of the 1948 siege shown in the original photographs, and to organize all the pictures for a grand exhibition at the Israel Museum in Jerusalem.

'At first the idea of finding people uprooted from their homes three wars and a quarter of a century ago sounded pre-posterous," Phillips says. "But Mayor Teddy Kollek is irrepressible and was

U.S. Anti-Smoking Campaign Slated

WASHINGTON (AP) - A massive federal campaign against cigarette smoking will be launched next year by the Health, Education and Welfare Department, Secretary Joseph A. Califano announced Thursday.

He said details of the program will be made public in several weeks.

"I will have a more vigorous and hardhitting program against cigarettes than this country has ever had," Califano said at a news conference.

Califano declined to comment on the wisdom of federal price supports for tobacco growers.

challenge.

In a short time, Phillips and his wife made the first of three trips to Israel to complete the mission. They were assigned two students as assistants, guides and interpreters and the search for survivors began

Months later, they had located 51 survivors who were interviewed and photographed. They turned out to be an amazing cross section of Israeli citizenry in their origins, life styles and occupations ideal examples of a will to survive.

A terrified little girl - then 7 years of age — running down a burning street is a housewife, married to a Jerusalem taxi driver. From the group of Haganah pris-oners, 25 were identified and found and gave their stories since that fateful day of surrender. Among them: a bank manager, school teacher, hospital administrator, judge, butcher, professor of economics, geologist, newspaper executive, a director of the Jewish National Fund and two lawyers.

The wounded teenager - then 16 was shipped to a Jordanian POW camp where he refused to let an Arab doctor amputate his leg at the knee or to let a was sent back to Jerusalem where he underwent two operations ... which left him with a slight limp, but with his two legs. He now organizes tours for visiting dignitaries for the Government Tourist Office. John Phillips' combined photographs

- then and now - became an exciting exhibition at the Israel Museum in Jerusalem starting in September 1976, where more than half a million people came to view it. Its enthusiastic reception was another endorsement for the idea that the exhibition be published as a permanent book. It would contain a complete text by Phillips with his experiences and thoughts as well as the interviews with the 51 survivors.

The book itself fulfills expectations. The photographs are dramatic and well reproduced. Phillips' story is gripping and reads like a novel. I started and didn't put it down till I finished the last word. It has a Foreword by Golda Meir and an Afterword by Mayor Teddy Kollek. It well deserves its acclaim as the Honor Book at the 1977 Jerusalem Book

As an exhibition, "The Will to Survive" will go on display in New York City at the America-Israel Cultural Foundation in October 1977, Mayor Kollek plans to attend the opening ceremonies of its three-month display. It will then tour other cities in the United States and Canada

Easy-To-Make Quilt Pattern

Creates Patchwork Bouquet

The Grandmother's Flower Garden Quilt pictured above graces any home with a lovely bouquet of patchwork you'll want keep in the family. An easy pattern of hexagonal rosettes can be hand whipped together, and that means lap work. Not only can you forget the bother of a quilting frame, but your hexagons can be stitched together on a sewing maching to save time. This project is strictly quilt as you go, and is well worth the effort. And when it comes to versatility, a reversible, two-sided Mosaic design doubles the charm. The flower garden design is made up of 32 full and 6 partial rosettes in 4 rows of 5 complete rosettes alternating with 3 rows of 4 complete rosettes and 2 incomplete rosettes at each end. Nineteen hexagons go into each rosette: a coral center surrounded by 6 beige patches, which in turn are surrounded by 12 brown patches representing foliage. White hexagons surround each full rosette. The design for the reverse side of your quilt is up to you.

To assemble your hexagons, match a front side patch with a back side patch, with the right sides together. Put a hexagon shaped piece of batting on top and machine stitch a 1/4" seam along 5 sides of the hexagon, leaving the 6th side open. Trim corners slightly, turn right side out, press, and slipstitch the opening closed. Quilt two rows of running stitches 1/4" and 1/2" in from the edge. Rosettes can be stitched together with a small overcast stitch. A border of white hexagons will finish your quilt. This quilt is available in a kit containing 4-inch hexagon fabric for both sides (Calico may vary slightly from prints shown), quilting thread, and instructions. The kit can also be ordered with pre-cut polyester batting. The finished quilt measures 89" x 109", ideal for your double bed. With a coordinated white dust ruffle

(also available) the quilt fits beautifully a queen-size bed, as well.

winters were generally warmer and summers cooler than they are today, said geochemists Samuel Epstein and Crayton

Among the wood samples that Epstein and Yapp examined was one of the oldest living organisms known to man - the bristlecone pine tree that grew in the White Mountains of California.

The wood samples the geochemists studied showed a 22-year cycle of fluctuations in chemical makeup.

"Such a cycle may somehow reflect the 22-year cycle of drought and rain found in the midwest," they said. "The difference in weather patterns between dry and wet periods may result in changes in isotope ratios. If this is true, such records may help in the understanding of such cy-

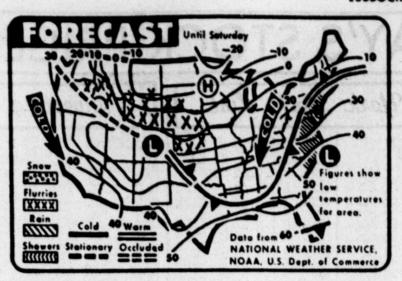

The scientists said that the wood cellulose that makes up trees shows what the climate was at the time. This cellulose can be measured to determine where a tree gets its water, how much humidity there was during the tree's growth and possibly a precise record of ancient cycles of drought and rain.

They measured the ratio of two isotopes - chemical properties in the cellulose - in the ice-age trees and compared them with the chemicals of trees that began growing after the ice age ended.

Lockheed Workers End Strike At Marietta Plant

MARIETTA, Ga. (UPI) - The twomonth strike of aerospace workers at Lockheed's mammoth Marietta plant is over and production will resume next week with the union claiming total victory on seniority rights.

"The strike achieved the basic purpose for which it was called," said Reeves Bowen, the head of the machinists union. We were forced out by the company, and now we have retained daily seniority for all our members.'

Bowen seid the union also won an immediate 40-cent hourly pay raise - up 17 cents from the company's offer at the start of the 60-day strike - along with a 3 percent pay hike in each of the next two years of the contract.

He said seniority was the key to the settlement, and that the company agreed that any employe with even one more day seniority than the man working next to him can "bump" the newer worker if the assembly line is hit by a layoff.

The company issued a statement say-ing. "Lockheed-Georgia Co. is gratified that the members of IAM&AW Lodge 709 have voted to accept the company's contract settlement offer and to return to work. We expect to have our work force

The Georgia vote came a day after aerospace workers in southern California rejected a company offer and decided to stay out on a strike that has run even longer than the Marietta dispute. Lockheed workers at Burbank and Palmdale Calif., have been on strike since Oct. 10.

Bowen said the issues in California were different, and that the vote there had no bearing on the Lockheed-Georgia

TODAY'S STOCK PRICES

Market Ends Week On Upward Note

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market edged upward today, bid-ding to close out a disappointing year on a favorable note.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 1.12 at 831.51. Advances held a slight lead over declines among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said the market was churning amid last-minute maneuvering by traders taking losses for 1977 tax purposes and institutions readying their portfolios for yearend reports.

In the economic news, the Commerce Department reported that its index of leading economic indicators turned downward in November, posting a 0.2 percent decline after four consecutive monthly

Volume on the Big Board came to 9.39 million shares by noontime, against 9.52 million at the same point Thursday.

Task Force To Probe Stranglings

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) - State authorities have assigned a special police squad, including four murder specialists, to help solve the slayings of five elderly women strangled in their homes here over the past four months.

Local authorities say they have increased police patrols in the quiet, residential neighborhood in which all the victims lived.

The latest victim, Kathleen B. Woodruff, was buried in brief graveside services Thursday attended by about 300 mourners, including Mayor Jack Mickle and the city's public safety director.

Mrs. Woodruff, widow of prominent in-dustrialist and former University of Georgia football star and head coach George C. Woodruff, had been beaten and strangled about midnight Tuesday, according to Muscogee County Coroner J. Donald Kilgore. There were similarities - and differences - in her murder and the earlier slayings of four other women, he said. All five victims were women over age

60. All lived alone. All lived within 11/2 miles of each other in the Wynnton Road

The first four victims were sexually assaulted and strangled with a nylon stock-

Kilgore said Mrs. Woodruff was strangled with a scarf she wore around her neck, but the killing was not as brutal as the others. He said he had not completed tests to determine whether she was sexually assaulted.

He said he is not sure all five women were killed by the same person.

"I think it was possibly somebody else. There are some similarities, but some real differences. It could be the same assailant. I'm not ruling it out either way,'

A squad of Georgia Bureau of Investigation agents was assigned to the case Thursday to join with city and county law enforcement officers in a special task GBI official Tom McGreevey said the state squad would include four murder specialists handpicked for the investigation, and Columbus Police Chief Curtis McClung said the task force will work "unti! the cases are solved." McClung said special police patrols in the Wynnton Road area were resumed on Wednesday. They had been cut back just before Christmas because there had been no strangulations since Oct. 29. Rewards totalling $20,000 - including money offered by the city, Gov. George

Busbee and the Columbus newspapers have been posted in the slayings. Ex-Resident Of Lubbock

Gets Post MIAMI (AP) - Gloria Brown Anderson, former managing editor of the Knight Newspapers news service and Sunday editor of the Charlotte Observer, has been named managing editor of The Miami News.

The appointment was announced today by Howard Kleinberg, editor of the Mrs. Anderson, 33, a native of Lubbock, succeeds Otis Wragg, who resigned. She will join the News in late January.

"Gloria Anderson has demonstrated that she is an exciting talent and a news executive of great promise," Kleinberg said. "We are confident she will contribute greatly to making the News an even more compelling ingredient in this community's life than it already is."

Mrs. Anderson graduated from Monterey High School in 1964 and was editor of the school paper, the Monterey Mirror. She received the "outstanding worker award" for her work there. She also received a Brackenridge Scholarship in 1963 and was named one of the 10 national winners on the General Electric Essay Contest scholarship upon high school graduation. She was awarded $6,-000, covering four years of college. Mrs. Anderson is the daughter of Mr.

and Mrs. Harvey P. Brown of 1905 47th St., and once worked in The Avalanche-Journal women's department. Mrs. Anderson was listed in Outstanding Young Women of America in 1971 and was named the Outstanding Young Career Woman of Cincinnati that same year. At the time, she was editor of the Cincinnati Enquirer's Sunday magazine.

Poisoned Wine Strikes Again

COUTANCES, France (UPI) - A poisoned bottle of wine that killed Maxime Masseron on Christmas Eve nearly did in his son-in-law and a carpenter as well as they prepared his body for burial, police said Thursday.

Masseron, 80, and his wife, Renee, had the wine with their Christmas dinner of mussels. Masseron dropped dead, police said, while his wife was rushed to the hospital by neighbors and survived.

Several days later, Masseron's son-inlaw. Paul Isabert, and a local carpenter. Roger Regnault, prepared Masseron for burial at the dead man's home.

The Irving AA chapter is sponsoring an "Alcothon" for the New Year's weekend. One local member called it an informal party for both drinkers and non-drinkers. "It's a place where somebody who doesn't like to be around drunks can come," he said. "The whole family participates. Sometimes there are more nonalcoholics than alcoholics because of the families.

Activities will begin at 2 p.m. Saturday with an informal meeting, followed by a pot-luck dinner, dancing and the traditional black-eyed pea supper at midnight. Football fans can watch the New Year's Day games on television. The AA member said about 70 other groups around the country provide the same sort of alternative.

reminiscent of those found in Europe are scattered throughout this arid country on hilltops and valleys remote from human habitation.

The rings are formed by stone walls a foot or two tall that range in diamater from 15 feet to more than 100 yards. No legends east light on their origins or purpose. Theories are myriad. Amateur archeologists have noted many of the rings have "tails" - one or more appendages that sometimes stretch out for hundreds of yards across the wild-

When viewed from the air, the rings are said to bear a marked similarity to huge circles etched into the Nazca Plain in

The English-language daily newspaper Arab News has speculated that a cluster of stone rings 30 miles north of the Red Sea port of Jidda may be ancient grave sites. The walls are too low to have served as sheep or goat pens, the newspaper reasoned.

Ron Worl of the U.S. Geological Survey made an informal study of the circles along the Red Sea coast. He concluded that the stone rings could be "the desert equivalent of rock carvings," ancient signposts that point the way to fresh water springs or caravan routes.

Several of the "tails" led to water or old desert paths, Worl said.

The answer to the mystery will have to await the arrival of professional archeologists from abroad.

Until recent years, Saudi Arabia was off limits to them, but a new government policy is encouraging research into the kingdom's ancient past.

Last June the antiquities and museum department announced a comprehensive plan for excavations "to learn more about the region's ancient history.

American and European experts have been conducting general surveys of the country's potential archeological sites. Surveys already have been completed in the eastern and western provinces, and studies are underway in the north and archeological research, but no details have been announced, and there are no digs underway now.

The arrival of the experts could shed new light on the ancient Romans, Nabataeans, Lihvanites and the queen of Sheba's Sabaeans, all of whom settled in parts of Arabia. And they may be able to solve the desert's most intriguing secret - the mystery of its stone rings.

More than 45 years later, fear again is widespread - fear of renewed recession, apprehension of accelerating inflation, worry over lost jobs as high unemployment persists and anxiety over what lies ahead after the 1974-1976 recession, the worst since FDR's first inaugural in 1933.

And neither the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, grouping 24 of the most industrialized countries, nor the United Nations Economic Commission for Europe, is optimistic about 1978.

Expansionary measures in the United States, West Germany, Japan, Britain and elsewhere helped some, but not enough, in 1977. In Britain and much of Europe, banks lowered interest rates under government pressure in a bid to stimulate investment by private industry, but takers were few.

Arthur F. Burns, head of the Federal Reserve Board in the United States, recently underlined one cause of the problem: "The specter of serious inflation continues to haunt the entire business community." European businessmen agreed.

A year ago, Americans had given themselves a new leader and Western Europe pinned its hopes on Jimmy Carter to lead the free world back to prosperity. By year's end, however, patience was wearing thin. Worry over the future sent many investors scurrying back to the solidity of gold, forcing the price of bullion up about $30 to $165 an ounce. And worry over Carter's ability to cope with America's economic problems steadily eroded the value of the dollar on foreign exchanges.

Experts at the International Monetary Fund appealed to the United States, Japan and West Germany to take action to help the rest of the world recover from the slump. Washington responded but Japan and West Germany were grudging.

Like the United States, Britain and a number of other countries faced the twin dilemma of high unemployment and inflation. With inflation edging down from 15 percent, Britain tried a modest dose of "reflation" through tax cuts in order to prod industry into investing. The Labor government aimed to bring unemployment down below 1.5 million, about 6 percent of the work force, without firing inflation again.

Britain made a remarkable financial recovery during the year, mainly because of the increasing flow of North Sea oil. Foreign money was pouring into the country for investment and swelled the national reserves to a record $20 billion. The pound sterling, worth $1.70 a year ago, jumped in value, and 1977 was expected to show the first foreign trade surplus in five years.

But investment in private industry remained low and factory output was at the same level as 1970. And after more than two years of wage restraint, Britain's labor unions were restive again. Coal miners, whose national strike brought down the Conservative government of Edward Heath in 1974, demanded a raise of nearly 100 percent and

West Germany and Switzerland, with the two strongest economies in Europe, concentrated on licking inflation during 1977 although both have among the lowest rates in the world - 4 percent for West Germany and 1.5 percent for the Swiss. But prices remained virtually unchanged despite their efforts and unemployment was edging upward at the end of the year

Growth declined in West Germany through much of 1977 and was expected to go even lower next year. Finance Minister Otto Graf Jamsdorff said it was too early to predict what next year will look like but the mood in the government was not optimis-

Economists in the nine-country European Common Market were not optimistic either. Unemployment in the community was above six million, a record high, and average growth among the nine was unlikely to be over 2.5 percent. Inflation was close to 10 percent. Yet three more countries, Greece, Portugal and Spain, with some of the weakest economies in Europe, were clamoring for membership.

The Greeks, though, were going all out to increase output in a bid to pull their economy up to Common Market standards. Industrial production was up 8.8 percent and inflation was down from 13.7 percent in x976 to 11.7 percent.

Spain and Portugal, both struggling to throw off the vestiges of decades of dictatorship, were in dire economic straits with 30 percent inflation, stagnant industry and Spain was somewhat better off because of a booming tourist industry and the centrist government of Premier Adolfo Suarez has secured the backing of most political forces for a tough austerity program. The country's economic future depends on its

Portuguese Premier Mario Soares has no such all-party backing for a similar austerity program, which the IMF and Western bankers are demanding as a condition for the big loans Portugal needs so desperately.

As the year closed, there was worry in France over parliamentary elections next March with Communists and Socialists sharply attacking the government's economic record. Although inflation was down to a moderate 7.3 percent, unemployment was at a record high 1.2 million. Premier Raymond Barre imposed a program of moderate

Italy showed some improvement during the year. Tourists came back in droves, benefitting the country's balance of payments, slightly in surplus compared to a $2 billion deficit at this time last year. And inflation was down from 25 percent to less than 18

Belgium and the Netherlands faced similar problems of relatively high inflation and unemployment and flagging industrial production. In addition, the Netherlands was in the midst of a political crisis after caretaker Premier Joop den Uyl abandoned efforts

An economist in Copenhagen described Denmark's situation as "stabilized stagnation." More of the same is foreseen for 1978. Economic growth was down, inflation

Higher wages and lower output per worker sent Sweden's once strong economy into a tailspin. Swedish goods were priced out of world markets and the output of goods and services for 1977 was down 2.3 percent. The national currency was devalued 5 percent in April and by another 10 percent on Aug. 26. Sweden's Scandinavian neighbors. Denmark and Norway, devalued at the sam time by 5 percent, and Sweden was forced to drop out of the Common Market mone tary system. Industrial investment in Sweden was down 11 percent in 1977 and a fall of 15.5 percent seemed likely for 1978. With unemployment and inflation restricting markets in much of the world, competition in trade was cutting into profit margins to an extent that made businessmen wary of investing for expansion. And at year's end, no sure-fire method of breaking

Lombardo Band To Play New Year's Eve Theme

NEW YORK (AP) - New Year's Eve and Guy Lombardo's Royal Canadians go together like champagne and cheerful toasts. You can't have one without the other - but this year will be different.

The 11/2-hour televised broadcast from the Grand Ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria on Saturday night will be the band's 49th annual New Year's Eve appearance, and its first without Lombardo, who died last month at 75.

For tens of millions of Americans the link between the years has been the soothing sounds of the Canadians, playing what Lombardo liked to call "the sweetest music this side of heaven.'

And this year will be no different, said Lombardo's brother, Victor, who conducts the band now.

'We're going to carry on what Guy established," he said at rehearsal Thursday. "That's the kind of music people

Moose Population Moving To Cities

OTTAWA (AP) - The sudden appearance of moose in the streets of Ottawa may be because of social problems in their natural habitat, authorities say. Some experts suggest a moose population explosion in the outlying areas around the Canadian capital has led the beasts to seek new quarters.

In the confusion, they have wandered into the city causing serious public threat. Three have appeared in the city in recent months. Two were shot, one after a wild chase that ended when the moose fell through a shop window, and the other was tranquilized but died before it could be returned to the forest

"We've been doing it for so long," said another brother, Lebert, who plays first trumpet and is the band's concertmaster. "We're like the milkman's horse. We don't need a lot of directions.

The broadcast will be carried by CBS-TV and 1,000 people are expected to pay between $100 and $150 each to hear the band play some of the top songs of yesteryear as well as those of 1977.

Among them are such standards as 'Too-Ra-Loo-Ra-Loo-Ra, That's an Irish Lullaby" and "Mississippi Mud," two songs associated with Bing Crosby, whose death was within a few weeks of Lombardo's death.

Kenny Gardner and Ty Lemley, who also plays electric guitar, will croon two of this year's hits - "New York, New York" and "You Light Up My Life." Other songs on the program include

'Enjoy Yourself," "Spanish Eyes", "Your Cheating Heart" and "Somewhere, My Love. Joining the Canadians for the evening will be performers Leslie Uggams and Paul Williams. The broadcast will switch to Times

Square shortly before midnight, where CBS-TV personality Lee Jordan will supply the commentary that had been carried on for many years by Ben Grauer, who also died in 1977. At midnight, as the ball drops from the top of the Allied Chemical Tower at Times Square, the band will break into its familiar theme - "Auld Lang Syne."

ell, the crusty Wall street lawyer who rose to national power under Richard Nixon and became mired in the Watergate cover-up conspiracy, is back in the nation's capital - as a patient.

The 64-year-old former attorney general, a federal prisoner on a medical furlough for 18 days, faces the possibility of hip surgery Mitchell was scheduled to enter

Georgetown University Hospital today for additional tests to determine whether he should undergo hip-replacement surgery. Recovery from such surgery could take weeks.

Mitchell is due back at the minimumsecurity federal prison camp at Maxwell Air Force Base in Alabama on Jan. 15.

"It appears he will need a hip-replacement procedure, but the final decision will not be made until completion of the medical tests," said Dr. P.M. Palumbo, an orthopedic surgeon who served with the Washington Redskins football team

Palumbo examined Mitchell for morethan three hours Thursday and said later that "preliminary" tests show he may have to have his hip replaced.

Mitchell was freed from the federal prison three days after Christmas for the examination. The ailment causes "constant pain and (Mitchell) is taking too much valium just to try and ease the pain," his lawyer said in a petition for the furlough. Mitchell walked unassisted from the prison Wednesday and flew by private jet to Washington Federal officials said Mitchell's safety could not be guaranteed at the Federal Prison Medical Center at Springfield, Mo., where ailing federal prisoners ordinarily are taken. Two other former top aides to Nixon, John Ehrlichman and H.R. Haldeman, were given Christmas-season furloughs. Ehrlichman will be paroled in April. Mitchell and Haldeman, who both entered prison in June, are eligible for parole in June 1978.

Special A-bj correspondent HONOLULU — Acceleration isn't the only plus point for a winning basketball team, but it's generally the first evidence and most often the ingredient that wilts the opposition.

Both North Carolina and Stanford had it Thursday night-early today, Lubbock time-in the semifinals of the 14th Annual Rainbow Classic basketball Tournament and, as a result, they'll be meeting in tonight's finals.

North Carolina unfurled streaks of 12, 11 and 8 unanswered points to roll over a bewildered Texas Tech 88-76 and, in the nightcap, a completely changed over Stanford team rushed to a 10-0 lead over lackluster Providence and rolled to a 76-61 victory.

The outcome matches Texas Tech and Providence for third place at 11:10 p.m. tonight (CST) and North Carolina and Stanford in the championship following

For North Carolina, Thursday's play was a continuation of a trend begun the evening before against Brigham Young. But for Stanford, making its best start since 1963-64 at 8-2, it was a transformation from the bumbling squad that measured Hawaii in the first round.

in the game," said Dimmitt coach Ken Cleveland, following the Dunbar's 50-43 win over the 'Cats. "I didn't think our kids would ever be like that against anybody, but it seemed that way.

There were good reasons, too Dunbar, which sports the likes of 6-6 postman Billy Don Hardaway, towered over the much shorter Bobcats at all but one position. And that one was even.

And in that matchup between two of the shorter men on the court, Dunbar won that battle as Wayne Williams outscored Dimmitt ace Rocky Rawls 15-4. "I believe the play of Wayne (Williams) was one of the deciding points of the game," said Dunbar coach Joe McWilliams. "He handled Rawls extremely well. And Rawls is a good player."

Both were named to the Large School Division all-tournament team, which was headed by MVP Hardaway. In other Large School action, Estacado downed Iowa Park 77-60 for third place and Monterey edged Coronado 47-44 for the consolation crown. Tulia outlasted Idalou for the small-school championship, breaking up a tight game in the final stages to win 58-49. Slaton dropped Frenship 66-53 for third place and Lubbook Christian High t consolation honors over Cooper 65-43. Dunbar, which took advantage of its height by lobbing the ball inside to Hardaway who hit only 12 points, jumped out to a 16-8 first-quarter lead and Dimmitt hit a streak which could only be deseribed as some-kind-of-cold.

We were as cold as I've ever seen, Cleveland explained. "I think we were kind of pulling our shots a little when we got open and that accounted for some of

Although Dimmitt was chilly, it managed to stay within striking distance of Dunbar and tied the game 42-42 with four minutes left in the game when Mark Summers hit a 6-foot banker off the glass. However, the Cats only scored a lone point - a free shot by Thompson Maber-

In the hectic final seconds which saw the crowd of 1,400 come to its feet more than once. Dunbar used the scoring punch of Hardaway, Dwight Brown and Williams to put the game on ice. Hardaway hit a field goal, while Brown canned four free shots and Williams a pair of charity tosses.

McWilliams felt the fact that both teams played extremely close games during Wednesday night's semifinal round accounted for the low scoring contest. Both teams are averaging close to 60 points a game this season.

'I think our depth paid off a little bit," McWilliams said. "I know we were tired and they looked the same way. The game was an extremely slow one, too.

Cleveland said a mild surprise was the play of Summers, who ended the night with 16 points. "He kept us in the game, early," said Cleveland.

Estacado used the 19-point performance of Freddie Ivory to post its win over Iowa Park.

The Matadors jumped out early on the Eagles and then sort of strolled home with the victory, their 15th of the year.

Also hitting for Estacado were Willie Powell with 16 points, and Winston Gipson and Mike Chatham, both had 10.

Leading Iowa Park, which was making its first appearance at the tournament, was Rusty Price with 14 points. In what could be a matchup for a dis-

AP Sports Writer Having already established the indisputable fact that there is a Santa Claus. the Denver Broncos are about to prove the existence of Father Time, Mother Nature, the Easter Bunny, Tinker Bell and anyone or anything else you ever

John Schultz Broncos' Invisible Man

DENVER (AP) - John Schultz is a reserve wide receiver who hasn't caught a pass all season, labors inconspicuously on the special teams, and occasionally returns a kickoff. You can't get much more obscure than that.

Schultz, whom autograph hounds push aside to get to the Craig Mortons and Lyle Alzados, is startled when someone from the media asks for an interview or when a fan recognizes him on the street. The lack of attention doesn't bother him; he's just happy to be a part of the Denver

But Schultz won't be saddled with his Invisible Man reputation for long if he makes many more plays like his blocked punt in Denver's first playoff game against Pittsburgh last week

Early in the game, Schultz stormed in and blocked a punt by the Steelers' Rick Engles, then recovered the ball at the Pittsburgh 17-yard line. Denver promptly scored and never trailed in winning 34-21.

"We've worked on different types of blocks all year, but for one reason or another they didn't work," says Schultz, a 5foot-10, 183-pound second-year pro from Maryland. "This one just worked. I came from the end-tackle gap. The fullback should have picked me up but he looked at somebody else. I just went by and got

"It came at a great time, for sure. Naturally, I felt good. It gave us good field position. We wanted to score first. You get a lot of satisfaction when you come through with a play like that, helping out the offense.

"I don't feel I've contributed anything as a receiver this year, so it was especially gratifying to help out on the special teams.

Schultz admits it has been a "frustrating" season for him because of his lack of playing time at wide receiver. He notes that only five passes have been thrown his way all season. "One was dropped, one was intercepted and the other three just weren't on target," he recalls. "It takes a while, I guess, to gain the confidence of the coaches and of the quarter-

All season long, Coach Red Miller has asked for contributions from every member of his squad, and Schultz is a testimony to that belief. Miller's liberal use of reserves has helped keep the starters fresh and was a ingredient in the Broncos' 12-2 season. Schultz figures to see considerable action again Sunday when the Broncos meet the Oakland Raiders for the American Football Conference title.

"We don't want to change anything Miller said Thursday. "Why should you approach a playoff game any differently than a regular-season game? From the first day of training camp we tried to keep our players loose, but to play with intensity and enthusiasm. We've tried to approach Sunday's game like it's just another game.

"I'm sure the same can be said for the Raiders. We'll both try to use what has worked for us during the regular sea-

After all, Denver's already the National $AFC\ Boss$ Football League's Cinderella team, so why leave all those other characters out in the cold?

Yes, Virginia (and California, and Louisiana, and Colorado, etc.), the Broncos are headed for the Super Bowl, there to take on the Dallas Cowboys in a confrontation of former teammate quarter-

The Oakland Raiders, defending Super Bowl champs, will falter in Sunday's American Conference championship not because of Denver's awesome offense (it isn't), nor because of its dynamic defense (it isn't either), but because of whatever it is that causes all invaders to suffer High Anxiety in the Mile High city. Minnesota will do more than falter in the National Conference title game in Texas Stadium. It'll positively crumble The Cowboys' Doomsday Defense II will demolish (a) the Vikings' passing game, and (b) the Vikings' running game. And there's not much else, is there?

Thus, on Jan. 15 in New Orleans' Louisiana Superdome, it'll be Dallas (and current quarterback Roger Staubach) vs. Denver (and former Cowboy quarterback Craig Morton).

Here's how they'll get there: Broncos 30, Raiders 24

There are few cities in the NFL where the so-called home-field advantage really exists. But Denver is one of them. In fact, the madness that is Broncomania may pump up the home team and psyche out the visitors more than in any other ball

Which leads us to wonder: do three hours of screaming one's lungs out in Denver result in Bronc-itis? Never mind.

The Raiders are field-goal favorites but we like the underdogs based on their ability to stop (well, maybe only slow down) the Oakland ground game and force Ken Stabler to the air - and into mistakes the way they did in their first meeting.

Cowboys 38, Vikings 13 Unlike Los Angeles' Memorial Coliseum, Texas Stadium ain't no mud hole.

So much for Minnesota's strategy. The kind of one-man show Chicago put on last Monday, when Dallas shut down Walter Payton and the rest of the Bears, is the kind of one-man show Minnesota will put on - and the Cowboys will slam the door on Chuck Foreman and the rest of the Vikings just as emphatically.

Roger Staubach, Tony Dorsett, Robert Newhouse, Billy Joe DuPree, Drew and Preston Pearson . . . that's no shotgun offense. That's a howitzer!

The 6-foot-1, 190-pound Mesa College player said he made his choice Thursday fter considering several scholarship offers. He led the local school to a 9-1 record, its best ever.

Fairchild, who completed 193 passes in 349 attempts for 2,774 yards and 20 touchdowns last fall, was voted junior college player of the year in California. Among schools over which he picked Michigan State are the University of Washington and Colorado State.

NEW YORK (UPI) - Red Miller stepped into an unpleasant situation at Denver this year and immediately turned the Broncos into the surprise team of the National Football League.

Miller's Broncos earned the first playoff spot in the 18-year history of the franchise this season by winning the AFC West title and Sunday will battle Oakland for a berth in Super Bowl XII Jan. 15 in New Orleans

The 50-year-old Miller today was an overwhelming choice as United Press International's AFC Coach of the Year. He was named on 48 of the 56 ballots cast by UPI's panel of pro football writers, four from euch of the 14 conference cities.

Miami's Don Shula, who took a supposedly rebuilding team and kept it in playoff contention until the last day of the season, received the remaining eight

'That's a tremendous honor," said Miller as he prepared his club for the duel against the Raiders at Mile High Stadium in Denver Sunday. "I am overwhelmed. It means a lot to me personally and gives both myself and my family satisfaction. We have moved around 13 times in my 28-year coaching career and this makes all that moving and hard work worthwhile.

"I am very appreciative to both my assistant coaches and of course the players. I've devoted every waking hour since coming to Denver to making this a winning team. I can't say how much I am pleased.'

Miller, who helped design the New England offense that made that Patriots one of the most explosive clubs in the league last season, had never been offered a head coaching position before. He jumped at the chance with Denver.

The Broncos showed that they would be a team to be reckoned with early in the season when their swarming defense intercepted Oakland quarterback Ken Stabler seven times and sacked him five times in a 30-7 upset of the World Cham-

Denver lost the second game to Oaklund and the only other loss was a 14-7 meaningless decision to Dallas on the final day of the regular season.

DALLAS (AP) — You may see a No. 44 flash across your black and white television screen Sunday and put away your New Year's Day grog becuase it looks like a toy Chuck Foreman.

Foreman, of course, is the dreadnaught Minnesota Vikings runningback, who wears No. 44 and gained 1,112 yards this year despite the loss of quarterback Frank Tarkenton.

But Dallas has its own No. 44 which is lost in the shadow of million dollar rookie runningback Tony Dorsett, who gained 1.007 yards.

The Chicago Bears discovered Robert Newhouse, the little Dallas tree-stump of a fullback in the first round of the National Football Conference playoffs, los-While the Bears were eyeballing Dorsett's every move, Newhouse was romping for 79 yards in the first half in that peculiar style of his which is likened to a runaway State Fair bumper car.

"Newhouse played extremely well," says Dallas Coach Tom Landry. "I think he is certainly an underrated player."

Newhouse gained 721 yards for the Cowboys in 1977 and moved the ball an average of four steps each time he car-

"I'm 100 percent healthy now and it makes a big difference," said Newhouse, who labored with a pulled hamstring in 1976. "Of course, having Tony around now everybody seems surprised when I get the ball."

Landry was asked why he called on Newhouse so many times in the 37-7 thumping of Chicago and he said, "Well, we didn't go into the game planning to call his number that many (16) times. But Chicago kept acting like it was keying on Dorsett so we let Newhouse go."

Judge Terry L. Shell dismissed the reinstatement motion Thursday at the request of the players' attorney, John W. Walker.

State Attorney General Bill Clinton, in Miami for the Orange Bowl, said he believed the three standouts withdrew their request for reinstatement "because they knew they could not prove their case." Cowins' statement also said: "We have never said that we didn't do anything we shouldn't have done. We only said that we are innocent of a crime and have not broken any valid school rule. We still hold to that."

Assistant attorney general Ellen Bran-tley said on behalf of Clinton's staff that the statement by Cowins misstated "the facts as we know them, for purposes we believe to be self serving and designed to conceal the real reason which compelled him to act as he did.

"Coach Holtz and the other defendants vigorously deny any implication that these players or any other athletes have been treated unfairly in disciplinary matters," she said.

Holtz said in Miami he was "happy" to see the players had asked for the suit to be dropped, "for the welfare of the play-

Cowins' testimony in a hearing Wednesday on the reinstatement motion was cut short when Shell recessed the hearing after a conference at the request of Walker.

Before the recess, Cowins was being questioned about the dorm incident by Deputy Attorney General Frank Newell.

Cowins testified that about 10 people were in Trent Bryant's room when 'some of the girl's clothes were removed" in a "playful act."

The recess was called before Cowins gave any further details of the incident. After reporters told Holtz about the incomplete testimony, he said: "There was a reason why they junked it. I think it's

Woman Wants Incident Forgotten

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (UPI) - The woman involved in a dormitory incident that led to the suspension of three Arkansas football players from the Orange Bowl holds no animosity towards any of the players and simply wants the incident to be forgotten, a minister said Thursday.

The Rev. H.D. McCarty said he participated in a prayer session last Friday with the woman and Arkansas Coach Lou Holtz.

The three players - Micheal Forrest, Ben Cowins and Donny Bobo - had filed suit in federal court seeking reinstatement to the bowl squad, but withdrew their request Thursday. McCarty, pastor of University Baptist Church, mailed out his version of the prayer session and said he was releasing the information with Holtz' permission. McCarty said the young woman was a member of his church and is now "sick-their hand.

Lucchesi Says 1977 'Worst Year Of Life

By MILTON RICHMAN

ARLINGTON (UPI) — When they ring out the old year and ring in the new one Saturday at midnight, and most of the others around him are feeling good and singing "Auld Lang Syne," Frank Lucchesi figures to be merely a listener. He doesn't have a whole lot to sing about.

For him, this year was anything but a good one. There was nothing about it which would make him want to put on one of those New Year's Eve hats, pick up a noisemaker and do any celebrating.

First, there was the Lenny Randle episode in Orlando, Fla., back in March when Lucchesi had to be hospitalized six days and undergo surgery after getting a working over from his angered employee, which resulted in three broken bones in his face, two broken ribs and assorted back injuries.

Three months later, the Texas Rangers fired him as their

Frank Lucchesi says that without the slightest show of re-sentment toward Randle, the Rangers or anyone else. He says it pretty much the same way he says everything, softly, thoughtfully and moderately.

The last thing anybody could ever say about Frank Lucchesi is he's an extrovert. Other managers often come on strong. He never does, and that has worked to his disadvan-

He has gotten the reputation in baseball of being too easy, too nice, too understanding, and there is some evidence these characteristics were at least partially responsible for the Rangers letting him go as their manager last June.

Aware of the reputation he has, Lucchesi firmly feels it's

"I don't buy it," he says. "I've managed 17 hard years in the minors - you can emphasize 'hard' - and 4 more years in the majors.

"But when you lose, suddenly they start saying 'he's too easy, he's not tough enough."

"Do you have to be a bastard to win the pennant?" he asked. "You'll never get me to believe that. Gil Hodges proved you don't have to be one at all. And what about men like Danny Murtaugh, Walt Alston and Sparky Anderson? They all did well and I never saw any of them with a whip in

The former Texas manager's tone softened again. "Baseball is a funny game," he said, smiling. "You'll be coaching at third base, the runner will score on a close play and everyone says 'Jeez, that was a great slide.' But when he's thrown out, these same people say "That dumb coach! Why didn't he hold him up at third?"" Frank Lucchesi is pushing 50 and isn't about to change his way of doing things now. He's always going to try to help

A week ago, he was driving home from the local post office when he saw a motorist, obviously having battery trouble, trying to push his car. Nobody was bothering to help him, so Lucchesi swung around and pushed the fellow's car into a

That's the way he is, in or out of a baseball uniform.

Lucchesi is being paid by the Rangers through next year, but he'd like another chance to manage in the majors. He has applied for the Milwaukee job and Harry Dalton told him he'd get back to him. If he doesn't get that job he could be offered a coaching berth with the Brewers.

His civil suit against Randle is still pending and the court case in Orlando possibly may be held sometime in late Feb-

Georgia Stuns Cardinals

By The Associated Press
Bicky Gallon can kick himself for what happened in the Holiday Classic Tournament at Louisville, Ky.

Well, actually, Denny Crum might do it for him - and add a few extra boots for the rest of his Louisville basketball team. Crum had plenty to kick about Thursday night. For one thing, Gallon cost the Cardinals a crucial field goal with offenswe goaltending in overtime. For another, the Cardinals cost themselves plenty more points with their inoffensive play.

Ranked No. 7 in the nation, the Cardinals looked like No. 777 the way they shot Thursday night and as a result, lost a stunning 73-70 overtime decision to surprising Georgia in their own tournament.

'We didn't deserve to win," said an enraged Crum. "You can't shoot 35 percent and expect to win, even at home. We outrebounded them. We had fewer turnovers, and I thought our defense was very good. We did a lot of things well - but we went one for eight in the overtime, and you can't shoot that in overtime and expect to beat anybody. With the Cardinals down 72-70 with 50 seconds to go in the overtime period, Rick Wilson hit what would have been the tying field goal, but the call on Gallon's goaltending voided the points. The usually-poised Cardinals lost two other chances in the final 30 seconds when Bobby Turner and Wilson missed shots.

"I thought we got good shots," said Crum, "but maybe Georgia's defense had something to do with our poor shooting. You just have to make those shots when it comes down to the nitty-gritty. We didn't."

Georgia, led by Walter Daniels' 25 points, was one of several teams to capture holiday hardware in a raft of tour-

Celtics Of Old Return, Topple Bucks 124-115

By The Associated Press It was like old times for the Boston

Celtics.

We played with consistency and we played with pride," said Coach Tom Heinsohn after the Celtics snapped a sixgame losing streak with a 124-115 victory over the Milwaukee Bucks Thursday

"That's the way the Celtics are sup-posed to play," added Heinsohn. "We've only played about six games like that all year, and this was one of them. We reminded people how the old Celtics did

And one old Celtic who helped was Don Chaney, who spent seven years with Boston before playing out his option in 1975. He was reacquired from Los Angeles in the Charlie Scott deal earlier this week.

'Chaney was a factor, no question," said Heinsohn. "He knows how to run the fast break and he knows our offense. He also played some strong defense for us." Chaney scored just four points in his first game back with the Celtics, but his teammates said he contributed far more

"Hey, Duck is a Celtic, that's all," said guard Dave Bing. "I played against him for many years and I was never overly impressed with his basketball skills, but he's always been relegated to the important dirty work. He plays defense, he goes to the lane for a steal, he gets the big rebound and he's unselfish.

"He did a lot of intangible things for us tonight, and we seemed a little more comfortable with him around."

The Celtics hit 56 per cent of their shots from the field and had four players with 20 or more points - Dave Cowens 30. John Havlicek 24 and Jo Jo White and Bing 20 each.

The Bucks, trailing virtually all the way, took a 111-110 lead on a Dave Meyers jumper with 4:25 left. But Boston responded with eight successive points, the last four by Bing, and outscored the Bucks 12-2 to take a 122-113 lead with 54 seconds to play.

Marques Johnson led Milwaukee with

Chaney, meanwhile, said it will take a little time for him to readjust to the Celtic style of play.

"In spring practice, we weren't a good team," said Jackie Sherrill, in his first one sitting. However, Nick Kerbawy, former general manager of the Detroit Lions, topped that one. One year, the training camp dietician complained that one player had eaten 15 pork chops during a meal. Kerbawy looked up the player, Lou Creekmur, and warned him that he might be eating himself out of a job. "Don't worry about it," Creekmur said. "By the way, it was 17, not 15." ...

Not long ago, former Oregon State football coach Dee Andros badly scraped his left leg and hip when the brakes failed on his golf cart while it was going downhill and it jacknifed around a tree and rolled. "Everybody thought we'd been killed," Andros said. "Then here came some old guy hollering at us that he had a tee time and would we kindly move our cart. I asked him if he season as Pitt's football boss. "But in the 15-13, dropping the Panthers' record to 8first quarter of our opening game, I 2-1. thought we had a chance to win the national championship again."

That optimism was quickly shattered when star quarterback Matt Cavanaugh suffered a broken bone in his left arm after being knocked to the ground on a touchdown pass in Pitt's opening game against Notre Dame. The scoring pass gave Pitt a 9-0 lead in a game the Panthers eventually lost 19-9.

Cavanaugh missed several games, and never regained full strength. Meanwhile, Florida, capitalizing on three Cavanaugh fumbles, tied Pitt 17-17 and, in the regular season finale, Penn State downed Pitt

"We played badly in our last game on national TV, and I don't think people got a good view of what our team is all about," said Cavanaugh of the Penn State loss. "I played poorly in situations that could have decided the game."

A certain measure of redemption and a large dose of pride are at stake tonight when the 10th-ranked Panthers play No. 11 Clemson in the Gator Bowl on national television (ABC). Earlier in the day, the New Year's weekend feast of 10 college football games opens with the Blue-Gray Classic in Montgomery, Ala.

Four games are on tap Saturday -Louisiana State against Stanford in the Sun Bowl; North Carolina State against Iowa State in the Peach Bowl; Texas A &M against Southern Cal in the Bluebonnet Bowl, and the East vs. the West in the East-West Sheine Game. After a day off Sunday, when the pros settle their conference championships, the amateurs come back Monday with the four major bowl games and the national championship at stake.

Chicago Fan Needs Part-Time Job To Pay For Season Ducats

CHICAGO (AP) - Bob Rosenberg has to sell a lot of corned beef sandwiches at Shelly's Deli to feed his habit.

Rosenberg is a sports fan. This year he dished out $2,477 for four season tickets for the Chicago Black Hawks, two for the White Sox, four for the Bears and two for the Bulls. He sold some of them, but his net bill still reached $1,043.

Rosenberg isn't a corporation executive, a well-heeled business owner or an heir to a family fortune. So how does a sandwich-maker at his brother's take-out delicatessen in Northbrook come up with the bread for all those seats? 'With part-time jobs, it's not tough.

And my wife works, too," he said. "We don't drive Cadillacs. One of us drives a Vega and the other one drives a Chevette. We live in a townhouse in Skokie. We own it. So take it from there.

"I look at it this way. For baseball we've already paid them for next season and once the season starts we're really not going to miss it. We paid for the Bulls way back in May so the season starts and I'm not even missing it.

"I also have a hobby of collecting programs and stubs from different sporting events and I sell that to kids in the neighborhood and that money helps, too.

Rosenberg, 36, also picks up extra money (he won't say how much) by keeping statistics for the Bears and serving as official scorer for the Bulls. Despite those associations, he is critical of their prices. 'The Bears just went up $1.50 over the last year. But they are still one of the cheapest in all football," he said.

He thinks fans "should get a better deal" when they go to Chicago Stadium to see the Black Hawks and Bulls. He criticized William W. Wirtz, president of the Black Hawks and governor of the Bulls, for waiting until last season to give season ticket holders discounts.

"He should have done that before then. But now that he needs the customers he gives them a break," Rosenberg said.

"But I don't see anything wrong with the Sox prices. And they've got the most games and the most playing dates.'

In 1967, if you were to buy one ticket at the gate to one game each of the Bears, Bulls, Black Hawks, Cubs and White Sox, the cheapest seat would cost you $10.75 and the most expensive $25.25. In 1977, those figures had climbed to $19.50 and $43, increases of 81.4 percent and 70.3

percent, respectively. Rosenberg has made some compromises. He has moved from the mezzanine to the first balcony for Black Hawks games and now watches the White Sox from the lower grandstand instead of box seats. His wife of four years joins him at most games. They have no children. Rosenberg began earning money after he moved to Skokie from Division Street on Chicago's west side. He worked at a drug store for about six years until he was graduated from Evanston Township High School, where he was on the baseball and basketball teams. His love affair with sports began when he was about 12 years old, "just going to games, that was it."

Then, in 1961, it began to rain as he was going to a White Sox game. He stopped into the Stadium and talked with the business manager of the new Chicago Packers of the National Basketball Association. At the age of 20, he came away with his first sports statistician's job.

In 1962, he stayed with the team when they became the Zephyrs. But he lost his job when they moved to Baltimore in Rosenberg, who professes a fondness for mathematics, has been with the Bulls since their creation in 1966 and is in his fifth year with the Bears. He also kept the numbers for the ill-fated Chicago Cougars of the World Hockey Association and Chicago Fire and Wind of the World Football League. But he says he's resisted overtures from the Black Hawks.

"They wanted me to work for them about eight years ago and they wanted to give me two free tickets. But I don't need that. I don't need all the bitching on assists from the players," he said.

He was at Comiskey Park for 70 of the White Sox 77 home dates last season and at the Stadium for all 42 Black Hawk

"I get tired. One night at the Bulls, one night at the Hawks, the next night at the Bulls and so on," he says. "The baseball season isn't so bad, especially when the Sox were winning and we knew a lot of the players. But when they were losing, let me tell you, it was a drag."

Rosenberg's ardor for sports cools when it comes to the Cubs. He went to some of their games when he was younger and Wrigley Field was the closest stadium to his home, but he's never liked

"I root for the other team when I go," he said. "I wouldn't care if the ballpark burned down.

Sox since 1961, the Bears since 1956 and the Black Hawks since 1959, when he sat in the mezzanine for $2.50. Today a mezzanine ticket goes for $10.

Have all those expenses been a financial burden on him? "I've never been in that situation.

DALLAS (AP) - To most people it is just another football game - a good one, to sure the 42nd Cotton Bowl Classic with the national college championship on the line - but for Dan Devine it means another gallon of blood.

"Coaching the pros is a cake walk compared with the pressure you get in a game like this," said the lean, intense coach of Notre Dame's Fighting Irish, who Monday must challenge the No. 1 ranking of powerful, unbeaten Texas.

He can't cross the South Ber. campus without catching the glare of the golden Dome, long a symbol of football greatness. The ghosts of the immortal Knute Rockne and Frank Leahy are alway peering over his shoulder. Ever present through no fault of anyone - is the inevitable comparison with Ara Perseghian, one of the school's most popular and successful coaches, the man he succeeded three years ago.

The coach of Notre Dame must please an alumni that is boundless. People who haven't been within 2,000 miles of South Bend become adopted "grads." Irish, half-irish, Protestant and Catholic, they wave blue and gold colors from the subways of New York to the fish wharves of San Francisco.

They are legion. They are demanding. They are vocal.

- reports escalate that he is to be fired. It's an uncomfortable existence, like hanging on the edge of a cliff by the fingernails. "I am very happy at the moment, as contented as I have been in a long time," Devine said. "My contract at Notre Dame has two more years to run. I can't say what my future plans are. I have reached the point where I must decide on something permanent."

A smallish man, serious in demeanor and lacking the outgoing personality of Perseghian, Devine is beginning to show signs of strain. Yet he hangs tough. "He looks like a college professor," Andy Russell, one of his players, once said, but he is all steel."

Devine still wears the scars of an unhappy venture into the pro game during which he served as coach and general manager of the Green Bay Packers from 1971 through 1974. There, he also had to live up to a tradition - that of the late Vince Lombardi.

"I was naive at Green Bay," he said. Friends and players kept telling me that certain people were trying to undermine me. I refused to believe it.

"It wasn't until forces opposed to me began spreading ugly rumors and even harassing my wife and children that I came to full realization of what was happening. It was a terrible experience.'

During the dark days at Green Bay, Devine's children were teased and spat upon in the school bus, garbage was tossed onto the lawn of the Devine home and anonymous threats were made on
