Its editorials have been based on facts, allowing its readers to choose their own course.

This week when the first test of reader taste for a free press was made, over 100 readers renewed their subscription within 72 hours after advance notices of the expiration date of their subscriptions were mailed. Over 30 percent of the subscription were for a period exceeding one year.

$100,000 Bond Issue Will Be Decided Saturday

Polls will be open in Sherman County's four precincts Saturday to allow voters to make their decision on the proposed $100,000 bond issue which promoters say is necessary if permanent bridge and culvert improvements are made on the roads selected on this program.

Basing the cost of the $100,000 bond issue to land owners on the County's estimated valuation of 61-2 million, a twenty cent increase per $100 valuation would retire the bond issue in ten years. The estimated average increase in taxation per section would be $5.95 a year. Tax increases per section would range from $4.00 to $7.50, according to available figures.

In precinct 1, ballots will be cast at the Ruby School house with William W. Steel, Jr., presiding judge, assisted by R. K. Everett, judge, Reubin Baskin and Sam Wohlford, clerks.

Precinct 2 voters will cast their ballots at the Lone Star School house with Luther Browder, presiding judge, Cline Gilbert, judge, and Mrs. Frank Blank and H. A. Carter, clerks.

Precinct 3 voters will cast their ballots at the Texhoma, Texas school building. Rennie Hamilton is the presiding judge, assisted by J. N. Bridwell, judge, Carl Craig and Sherman Holt, clerks.

Ballots in precinct 4 will be cast in the district court room of the courthouse in Stratford with E. W. Butler acting as presiding judge. He will be assisted by Jim Taylor, judge, and Chester Guthrie and Earl Shirr, clerks.

When our lighting specialist finishes his survey you'll know just how good or bad your lighting is. Is there enough light to read by in that easy chair? Should you sew by the light of those wall lamps? Do the children have enough light in their room? Is that bed lamp right for reading?

CLOTH STRAINER
Must be cleaned daily... a messy job is easily damaged.

METAL STRAINER
Durable... but tends to clog. Requires cleaning daily.

STAR-SHAPED CELLULOSE ELEMENT
Has high filtering efficiency... but should be replaced by the new, improved "umbrella" type.

Keeps Engine Oil Clean
Twice as Long

Protect your tractor engine with the new International Harvester "umbrella" type filter element. It lasts twice as long as the familiar old-style cloth or metal strainers which had to be cleaned daily and is more efficient than the star-shaped cellulose element. Even under adverse operating conditions the "umbrella" element affords full protection for 120 hours of use (100 hours for Diesel engines).

This new element is made of special, creped cellulose, resin-impregnated and baked to form a plastic-like material that withstands hot oil without collapsing. It keeps oil free from harmful material and filters out particles so small they can be measured only in microns.

For maximum protection use the new "umbrella" element and change regularly at the recommended time interval. Take home a supply today.

Ocean Has 'Dead Spots'
Where Subs May Hide

In some places in the ocean, the mixing of currents produces a certain density known as a "dead spot" because it cannot be penetrated by the echoes reflected from a submerged object when struck by the electric impulses of sonar, the underwater twin of radar. Therefore, a submarine may hide in such waters without fear of detection by either enemy submarines or surface vessels.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

NEEDLEWORK PATTERNS

Runner Had Old-Fashioned Charm
Crochet 'Star of Hope' Spread

5125

HERE'S one of the favorite motifs for crocheted bedspreads—the six pointed "Star of Hope" design. Each block is about 4 1/2 inches from side to side and 5 inches from point to opposite point. The blocks are set together to form a lovely overall design. It will be handsome crocheted in all white, tan or ecru, or blue.

To obtain complete directions for the Star of Hope Bedspread (Pattern No. 5125) block chart, illustrations of stitches

When ironing over zippers use a thick towel under the pressing cloth. This avoids a shiny ridge.

For a "slide-along" clothespin bag get heavy material and sew it on to a coat hanger. Hang it on the clothesline. This eliminates stooping for clothespins.

To keep casters which are used under furniture from coming loose, dip them in melted paraffin before placing them under the legs of chairs or tables.

When embroidering, color the transfer pattern with crayons. Use the various colors the embroidered work should be. Then you will know at a glance what color thread is needed.

Bottles containing liquids will not spill when moving or traveling if the tops are sealed by dipping them in melted paraffin.

It is better to use a dull or satin finish paint in the kitchen rather than a glossy paint which reflects light and is hard on the eyes.

The Ampersand

The oldest symbol representing a word is "&," known as the ampersand. Originally, it was one of the 5,000 signs in the world's first shorthand system which was invented by Marcus Tiro in Rome in 63 B. C. and used for 1,000 years. Not only is "&" the only one of these signs to have survived, but it is used today as the symbol for the word "and" in several hundred languages.

NO OTHER winter season, no other Hot Stove League of Sport, has ever known as much discussion nor has seen as many headlines about gambling and bribery as the present winter. Almost every cure in the book has been suggested without covering much ground.

For example George Preston Marshall, owner of the Washington Redskins, suggests that all racing entries, odds and selections should be transferred to the stock market page, away from the sporting page—and that no odds or selections should be carried on football, baseball or basketball games.

Grantland Rice

"Racing is legalized betting," Marshall says, "but it is a financial proposition entirely, not a sporting proposition. It doesn't belong on a sporting page. In my opinion no one connected with college sport, professional football or baseball, in a guiding capacity, should ever be seen at a race track."

I can't see much cure in this. Racing has had no part in the scandals and bribery talk involving other sports. Cupid Black, former Yale football star, has a much sounder suggestion—

"I can see no harm," Black says, "in betting a hat or a reasonable amount with a friend on a football game. Or a fight. The trouble comes when you start betting with bookmakers, where a long array of even small bets can run into millions of dollars, which in turn can be used in the wrong way. I happen to love college football—every variety of football."

No Bets With Bookmakers

"I'd like to see everyone who loves football, who believes it is a great game refuse to make a bet with any bookmaker or any other professional gambler. No one is going to stop the betting on football or any other game. But we can wreck the gambling professionals if we leave them out. This would eliminate the big sums these bookmakers handle. There is always somebody to bet with, apart from the professional gamblers."

This is a sound suggestion. There will always be the cheaper sort of humanity who will still place their bets with the bookies. But the list can be cut down.

The stumbling block is human nature, the selfishness of what a top philosopher has called "the so-called human race." All through the fading winter, a large part of the headlines on sporting pages have been concerned with stopping the gamblers. If most of those, who feel they have to bet on games will only bet among themselves and leave the gamblers out there would be no problems of bribery or crookedness.

This will be impossible to stop in racing, since racing is legalized gambling or legalized betting in 26 or more states. But football, baseball, boxing and basketball still have their thrills apart from any betting angle. Those who happen to like or love these games can solve the problem quickly along the lines suggested above.

Majority Are Honest

There are more than a few kinks in sport, since it is conducted by human beings. But its general average, in the way of honesty, is still well above politics, labor unions or what is known as big business. I don't believe anyone will try to dispute this statement.

The point is that the public at large demands a far higher honesty average from sport than it demands from politics or business or labor unions. The public expects its sports to be completely clean, not nearly clean. Amateur bettors are not going to try to fix anything. Only a few professional gamblers will. But these few can wreck a sport if not suppressed in one way or another. The suppressing part isn't as simple as it sounds. But at least a heavy curb can be developed. After all the publicity that has covered the sporting pages, any athlete from now on who doesn't report an attempted bribe is either a completely dumb or a completely dishonest person.

The terrific amount of money that has come into sport was sure to set the chiselers and crooks to work. Whatever happens, the directing heads of every sport will have to redouble any past efforts in the way of vigilance and guardianship.

Baseball's Major Shifts

The two major shifts of the year in baseball belong to the game's strongest offensive player and the game's best defensive player. This means Hank Greenberg's shift to the Pirates and Joe Gordon's move from the Yankees to the Cleveland Indians.

Even at the age of 36, many years away in the service, Greenberg was lusty enough at bat to lead Ted Williams in home runs and runs batted in.

JESUS SUMS UP HIS CLAIMS

LESSON TEXT—John 12:12-16, 20-32. MEMORY SELECTION—And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me.—John 12:32.

The last week of our Lord's ministry on earth comes before us today as we consider two events—one of which occurred on Sunday and the other on Tuesday. One sees here the attitude of men toward Christ, of God toward men, of the Father toward the Son, and the majestic drawing power of the Saviour.

I. Believing Men Honor Christ (vv. 12-16).

God says, "Him that offereth praise glorifieth me" (Ps. 50:23), and the believer recognizes that "praise is comely for the upright" (Ps. 33:1). Jesus is entirely worthy of the praise of every heart and voice.

Presenting himself as their Messiah, Jesus received the enthusiastic acclaim of his disciples and friends, who were probably joined by others drawn by the excitement.

The Pharisees did not join in (see Luke 19:39, 40), nor did the city, not even knowing who he was (Matt. 21:10, 11). So it is today; some love and praise him, some hate him, others just ignore him. Of which class are you?

He gave Jerusalem and the nation a final opportunity to receive him. It was not yet too late, but it was their last chance. Such a time comes in the life of every one of us. They rejected him. Do we?

But even though some did reject, let us not forget that there were those who shouted, "Hosanna"; who cast their garments down before him and waved palms of victory and joy. Thank God for their holy enthusiasm. Pray God that we may have a little more of it.

II. God Honors Men Who Serve Christ (vv. 20-26).

It is good to note that whatever prompted the coming of the Greeks, they wanted to see Jesus.

A man has progressed far on the road to blessing when he makes known his desire to see Jesus. Coming to him means coming to the One who has the words of eternal life.

Note that the disciples were wise enough to bring the men to Jesus. The true function of every Christian worker is to bring men to him.

The reply of our Lord to the Greeks, and to the disciples who brought them to him, seems a bit singular at first glance. Did he not wish to receive them? They had probably come to see the great religious leader, the King of the Jews—why did he talk about death?

The words of our Lord are clear. Men do not need an example, a leader, a teacher; they need a Saviour. It is as a sacrifice for sin that Christ will draw all men unto himself.

III. The Father Glorifies the Son (vv. 27-30).

The awful blackness of the burden of the world's sins which he was to bear pressed down upon our Lord in an agony of soul beyond our ability to understand. But even his troubled soul did not turn from the hour of death for us.

The question of verse 27 is essentially this: "Should I ask the Father to deliver me from this hour? No, I came to be man's Saviour." He did not look away, nor wish to turn back. He knew why he had come, and he was faithful even to death (Phil. 2:8; Heb. 2:9).

He had only one desire—that the name of God the Father should be glorified (v. 28). Do we who bear his holy name follow in his footsteps? Do we have an eye single to his glory—or do we seek our own? Then came the voice from heaven; the Father had glorified his own name in the Son, and would do it again—yes, again and again.

Jesus knew the Father would do it, he did not need any assurance (v. 30), but for the sake of the people the witness was given. Notice the reaction of the listeners—some recognized that a heavenly message had been given; others had only heard some thunder.

May God give us grace to hear his voice when he speaks, and not consider it merely the rolling of some deep voice of thunder!

IV. The Son Draws All Men to Himself (vv. 31, 32).

Because Christ was lifted up on the cross and died, there is victory over sin and death, declared by his resurrection and ascension to the Father.

Satan is still at liberty in the world, but he is defeated (John 16:11). Death still comes, but the sting is gone for the Christian (I Cor. 15:55-57). The world is still fighting our Lord, but he is drawing men to himself here and there throughout the world.

One day he will come as King of kings and Lord of lords, to declare in its finality the victory which has already been won.

We should be reminded anew that it is Christ the Saviour who will draw men if we will only exalt him in our preaching and teaching. Let us do it!
