President Hints Saudi Backing

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (AP) — President Carter came to this oil-rich desert kingdom Tuesday hopeful that Saudi Arabia's conservative leaders may be edging toward a compromise on the thorny issue of Palestinian statehood, a major block to Middle East peace.

Carter met for more than an hour with King Khaled at a guest palace soon after he arrived from New Delhi on the fourth stop of his marathon international tour.

Talks Deal With Mideast

White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said the talks dealt primarily with the Middle East.

"It could be termed a very good meeting," he said. A senior U.S. official aboard Air Force One en route here from New Delhi said, "It would appear they (the Saudis) may be in the process of moving toward our approach on the Palestinian issue."

On the eve of his international tour, Carter told network correspondents he favors creation of a Palestinian homeland on the Israeli-occupied West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip linked to one of the neighboring nations, rather than a new independent "radical" state.

Self-Rule Offered

Israel has offered self-rule — with a continued Israeli military presence — for the 1.1 million Palestinian Arabs in the West Bank and the Gaza Strip.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, with whom Carter meets today in the Upper Nile city of Aswan, said he was "disappointed" by Carter's rejection of his call for an independent Palestinian state and his description of the Israeli negotiating position as "a step forward."

In an interview with The Associated Press at Aswan Tuesday, Egyptian Foreign Minister Mohammed Kamel appealed to the United States to supply fresh momentum to the stalemated Egyptian-Israeli dialogue. But Kamel declined to say what he specifically would like Carter to do.

Egyptian Initiative

The Egyptian initiative toward Israel has been sharply criticized in some Arab states including Egypt's former ally Syria, but Saudi Arabia — a key Mideast power broker which supplies oil dollars to both Egypt and Syria — has remained publicly neutral in the dispute.

The U.S. official, who asked not to be identified, said that "despite his optimism, no major announcements" were expected as a result of Carter's talks here.

The official explained that because of the nature of Mideast politics any role See CARTER Page 12

Sadat Says No More Concessions

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — President Anwar Sadat says Egypt has "run out of concessions" and has asked President Carter to pressure Israel for a more moderate position on a Mideast settlement, a Cairo newspaper said Tuesday.

In Syria, which opposes Sadat's peace initiative with Israel, tens of thousands of Syrians demonstrated in the city of Homs, shouting anti-American and anti-Egyptian slogans. It was the fourth such large demonstration in Syria in three weeks.

Sadat made his comment in an interview with Mexican television carried by the daily Al Gomhuria. The date of the interview was not given.

The Egyptian president said he was ready to re-evaluate his stance on security measures to satisfy Israel but would not compromise on the return of Arab territories occupied by Israel in the 1967 war or on the question of self-determination for the Palestinians, "because I am seeking a lasting and overall peace."

He said Israeli withdrawal from the occupied territories does not constitute an Israeli concession because the lands are purchased punch-card voting system in 1978.

Real Estate Background

Mrs. Nicholson, 44, formerly a real estate salesman, resides at 2330 61st St. She was elected county treasurer in 1974.

"The role of the treasurer is crucial to the check-and-balance system of county government," Mrs. Nicholson, who served last year on State Comptroller Bob Bullock's committee to draft financial management procedures for Texas counties, said.

"Lubbock County needs a strong treasurer, a person with experience in the job, to ensure that a system of balances is maintained," she added.

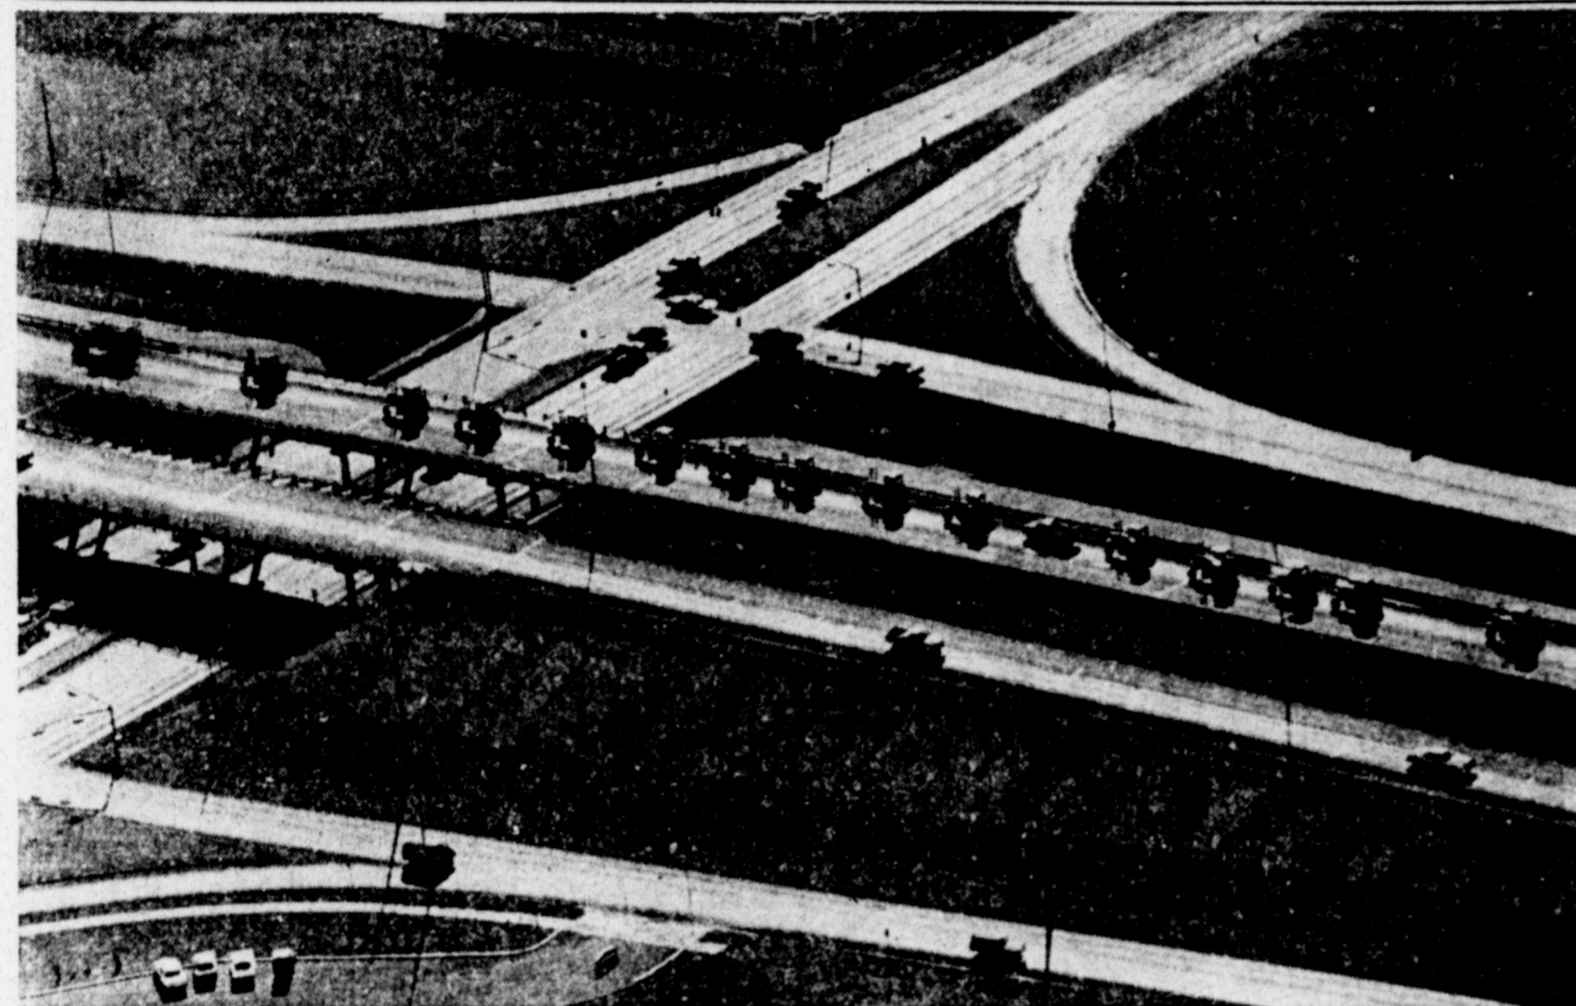

If re-elected, Mrs. Nicholson said she will continue to push for expansion of the Lubbock County treasurer's duties "until this office is fulfilling its constitutional obligation of receiving and disbursing all county funds."

Also, she said she hopes to institute a system by which all funds received by such offices as the county clerk, district clerk and justices of the peace, are deposited in the bank daily — instead of monthly — "to increase our interest yield."

Mrs. Nicholson designated herself as campaign treasurer.

FOLLOW THE LEADER — One after another, more than 1,000 area farm vehicles rumbled into Lubbock once more Tuesday as striking farmers began phase three of the national American Agriculture strike movement. Farmers encircled the city with a ring of tractors 27 miles long until about 2 p.m. Tuesday before leaving as quietly as they came. Avalanche-Journal staff photographer Norm Tindell caught this view of several tractor-transported farmers on South Loop 289 near University Avenue.

Tractorcade Chugs Peacefully

AMERICAN AGRICULTURE farmers' "more militant" third phase rumbled into Lubbock Tuesday — but with only half the "aggressively active" force of farmers that strike leaders had predicted would converge on the city.

Only 1,100 of the 2,400 tractors strike leaders estimated would be needed to completely surround Lubbock showed up about 9 a.m. to circle Lubbock's Loop 289.

The Lubbock tractorcade, which Hereford strike leader Mike McCathern said was staged to keep the farmers' problem in front of the public, was termed "a great success" by state strike officials.

"I think it's fantastic," McCathern, a main organizer of American Agriculture activities across the state, said. "Phase Three began a success, and hopefully Washington will have reacted favorably by the end of January (the end of the phase). If not, then there will most likely be a Phase Four."

Last Planned Phase

Tractorcades across the region Tuesday were the last planned Phase Three demonstrations for this area, according to Robert Mahagan, a Hale Center organizer, though strike leaders will continue to meet with government officials about their problems.

Today, representatives of the striking farm group are scheduled to meet with Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill in several South Plains communities.

Lubbock police officials apparently expected more than the estimated 2,000 farmers who began moving toward the city about 8 a.m. Tuesday from outlying communities, some as far away as the New Mexico state line.

Police Units Beefed

Fifty off-duty policemen were called in, along with 16 units of the Department of Public Safety as the tractors chugged along over the 27-mile circle of roadway.

Only "minor inconveniences" were caused by the tractor caravan, a police department spokesman said following the episode. Officers spent most of their time untangling a few clogged traffic lanes and trying to keep traffic moving at a steady, though slow pace.

Strike leaders in "ramrod trucks" — pickups bearing special American Agriculture ensignias — were directing farmers' vehicles into a single, solid lane of traffic along the loop and then supervising their exits from the highway.

Splinter groups of rallying farmers at times tried to put a more aggressive edge on the strike, but generally failed, police reported.

One group about 10:15 a.m. displayed a large sign on the back of a truck telling farmers to "double up" — to pull their tractors two abreast — but police dispersed the group before traffic became congested.

Most motorists seemed able to maneuver through the columns of vehicles, and few complained.

One man, however, told officers that farmers along the Levelland Highway refused to allow his car to pass their caravan even though he had turned on his emergency flashers upon reaching their group. The man told police he was trying to rush his wife, suffering from heart problems, to a local hospital at the time.

Two County Officials File For Re-Election

By JEFF SOUTH

Avalanche-Journal Staff

LUBBOCK County Clerk Frank Guess and County Treasurer Connie Hopping Nicholson, both Democrats, filed for re-election Tuesday, saying they want another four years to institute improvements in their respective courthouse offices.

Also, Bidal Aguero, 2902 Grinnell St., of the Raza Unida Party, said he will hold a press conference at 10 a.m. today to announce for county commissioner of Precinct 4, Lubbock County's northeast quadrant, Democrat incumbent Alon Brazeli is the only other candidate in that race so far.

Cotton Farmer-Businessman

Guess, 59, of Idalou, took office as county clerk here on Oct. 1, 1969, by appointment of the Lubbock County Commissioners Court after his predecessor retired. Until that time, he had been a cotton farmer and businessman in the Idalou area.

Guess was elected to the post in 1970 and again in 1974.

"I enjoy being county clerk and feel I have done a respectable job at it. During the past eight years, my staff and I have initiated several things to modernize the office and make record-keeping more efficient and accurate at a savings to taxpayers," he said.

Guess said those "marks of progress" have included the use of a computer to index property records and the use of microfilm to store records.

"Another sign of progress is the county's decision to buy a punch-card election system" to replace paper ballots, he said. As supervisor of county elections, Guess will oversee the use of the recently

Woman Sheds Gloom On 100th Birthday

WAYNE, W.Va. (UPI) — Victoria Mills turned 100 Tuesday and displayed newfound optimism as she greeted family and friends who gathered to celebrate her birthday.

"Ha, Ha, I made it!" she said on greeting the new day.

"I feel like I'm on top of the world," she said. "I felt if I passed out before 12 o'clock, I might not make it. But once it was past, it was OK."

Mrs. Mills, because of failing health, told her family and friends that she did not relish the prospect of reaching 100. "I'm not proud of it ... I don't want to live another day after I make 100," she said last week.

That outburst led to repeated admonishments. According to members of the family, Mrs. Mills' doctor, Lawrence Gang of Huntington, dropped by during the New Year's weekend and scolded her.

"I had enough trouble getting you here as it was," Dr. Gang told his patient.

Her birthday brought greetings in the mail from Sen. Robert C. Byrd and Rep. Nick Joe Rahall, D-W.Va., dozens of cards and letters from family and friends and, of course, a gathering of the family at her home.

Mrs. Mills has five children — three of them still living — eight grandchildren, nine great grandchildren and six great great grandchildren. They arrived throughout the day from as far away as New Orleans and Toledo.

The first member of the household to arise, Mr. Mills put on a new green print dress made by her daughter, Phyllis Eichenlaub of Toledo, for her birthday.

By the time the family had finished eating a hearty breakfast, flowers had begun arriving — there was a huge stack of mail to open — and a local television station asked to drop by for an interview.

Asked whether now, on reflection, she hopes to attain 101, Mrs. Mills was non-committal. "I'm going to have to think about it first before I answer that."

Four Perish As Ice Storm Strikes Oregon Area

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Freezing rain turned the Portland metropolitan area into a vast ice rink Tuesday and at least four deaths were blamed on treacherous sidewalks and highways.

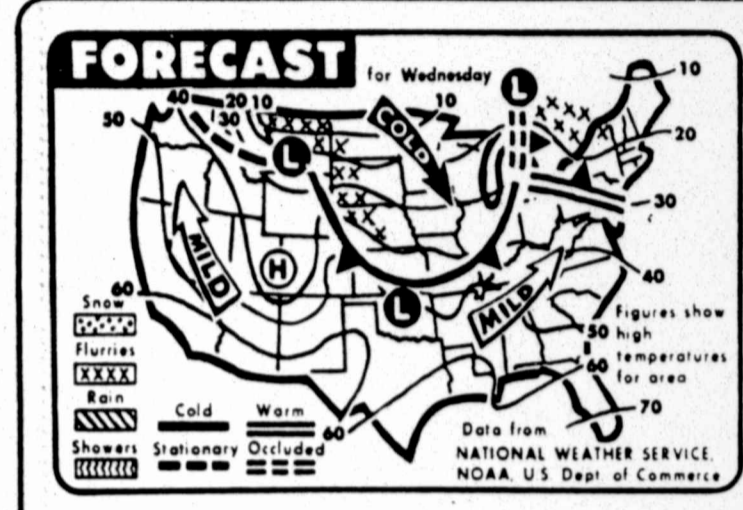

Abandoned cars dotted hillsides and ditches and some motorists could not get out of their driveways. Difficult as it was to drive, a policeman said it nevertheless was "probably easier to drive than walk."

Men, seemed to be wearing hiking boots. "I was walking down this road and the ice was like glass. You could even read a newspaper that was frozen underneath it," said one woman slowly shuffling to work. "I slipped and just kept going on my bottom right in the middle of the road."

A United Airlines 727 slipped from the runway at Portland International Airport. No one was injured, but the airport was closed for about a half-hour while the jet was removed.

Two Chevron Oil Co. tankers overturned at separate locations near Cottage Grove and Eugene, about 100 miles south of Portland, late Monday on Interstate 5. Another truck slid across U.S. 26 near Government Camp east of Portland and plunged over a 2,000-foot embankment, but the occupants escaped serious injury.

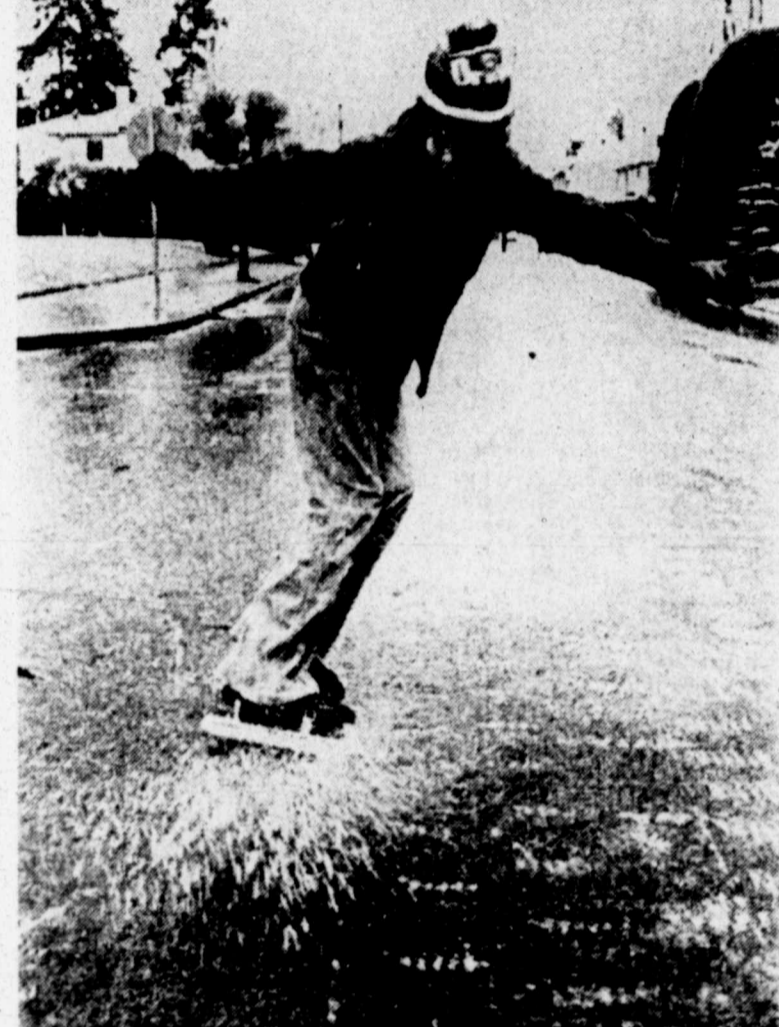

and the lumbering vehicles were able to cover most of their routes. Portland Sgt. Roy Kindrick said five buses were temporarily stranded when they couldn't make it up an icy slope.

Mild days and cool nights are expected for the South Plains as a low pressure system drifts eastward over the state and a weak high pressure area develops over the Four Corners area.

Mine Dispute Strife Continues

By United Press International
An estimated 600 striking United Mine Workers, armed with ax handles, hunting knives and guns, tried to block resumption of coal mining in eastern Tennessee Tuesday. Non-union mines were attacked in Indiana.

"But there's not much we can do," he said. "They outnumber us 40 to one and if anything happened there wouldn't be much we could do."

Most mines in East Tennessee are either non-union or have miners affiliated with the Southern Labor Union. They have been shut down for about three weeks, however, because of roving pickets who moved into the area just before the holidays.

In Washington, negotiations to settle the 5-week-old strike by 188,000 soft coal miners remained recessed with no date set for resumption of talks. Each side blamed the other for the collapse of negotiations.

Anderson County Sheriff Dennis Trotter estimated 200 cars carrying out-of-state pickets moved in convoys around the New River and Windrock areas of east Tennessee Tuesday.

Trotter said he had all his men on the roads keeping an eye on the situation.

members of the caravan, which dispersed after the attacks. Scattered violence was reported in southwestern Virginia. Authorities said there were rock and bottle throwing incidents near Wise, and several drivers for non-union coal companies were injured, none seriously.

No arrests were made, as was the case Monday when about 100 UMW members were arrested after they blocked a road. In that incident, a driver was hit in the head with a railroad spike.

In other strike developments, striking UMW members obeyed court orders and remained off picket lines in Carbon County, Utah. UMW District 22 President Bill Jones called a halt Dec. 19 to picketing, which he said had been ineffective in keeping non-union miners from going to work.

A spokesman for American Electric Power Inc. said the firm's Cook coal loading terminal in Metropolis, Ill., shut down Dec. 14 by damage inflicted by demonstrators — remained closed Tuesday after some 300 UMW pickets showed up at the facility Monday. A scheduled meeting of employees at the non-union coal loading facility scheduled Monday at a Metropolis motel was called off after the pickets appeared.

UMW members in Madisonville, Ky., picketed the state Department for Human Resources building Tuesday, protesting alleged slowness in food stamp processing for miners.

About 250 miners circled Morgantown, Ky., in caravans Tuesday morning and Kentucky State Police continued to investigate two weekend bomb blasts in the eastern part of the state.

Exchange Sets Dress Code

CHICAGO (UPI) — Something new was added Tuesday on the floor of the MidAmerica Commodity Exchange but there were no bid or asking prices for it. The new addition is a dress code.

The exchange's new rules for floor attire which went into effect Tuesday are the first in the history of the 109-year-old exchange. They require members to wear jackets and neckties or turtlenecks while on the trading floor.

The 100 women members will be exempt from the necktie rule but are covered by other provisions of the code, which bans athletic shoes, blue jeans, T-shirts and other non-businesslike attire and prohibits "profanity, vulgarity or speech which intimidates others."

The code also bans smoking, eating and drinking on the trading floor.

A fine of $25 will be imposed for each violation.

But there was a soft spot in the code, too. It includes exceptions to its rules if a banned article of clothing is part of a religious habit.

Exchange chairman Garnet L. Findling said the new code "is intended to reflect the serious nature of the marketplace."

The code applies to all of the exchange's 1,200 members, employees of members, guests of members and employees of the exchange.

Similar codes have been adopted in recent years by other major exchanges in town including the Chicago Board of Trade, The Chicago Mercantile Exchange and the Chicago Board Options Exchange.

Marine Gale Flags Removed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — For forty-four years two red flags, whipping atop the 33-story telephone company building, advised mariners on San Francisco Bay — and financial district executives pausing at the window — that a gale was blowing.

The big gale flags (signalling winds 39 to 54 mph) will be seen no more atop the skyscraper.

Nor will any of the other pennants, signalling small craft warning (winds up to 38 mph), storm warning (winds 55 to 73 mph), or a hurricane warning (winds exceeding 73 mph).

The hurricane signal was flown only once, on Dec. 22, 1955, and was ripped to shreds within moments.

The Coast Guard and the Pacific Telephone Company discontinued the visual warning system Tuesday, explaining that it is no longer necessary to sailors and no longer visible to many landbound San Franciscans who, chasing their hats down Market Street or struggling with an umbrella suddenly inside out, used to look up from the windy streets of the city for confirmation by the telephone company's flag that a gale was blowing in.

Too many new skyscrapers have sprung up around the PT&T building, diminishing the visibility of the flags.

The Coast Guard issued an unceremonious notice to mariners:

"Wind warnings and advisories for the San Francisco area are broadcast via FM radio on a frequency of 162.550 MHz (Station KHB-49)."

Key Issues Still Divide Theologians

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Roman Catholics and Anglicans moved towards a common position on the role of the pope but difficult questions still remain over the question of the pontiff's infallibility. In their second major statement in a week, members of the Anglican-Roman Catholic Consultation in the United States, said they welcomed the so-called Venice Statement on papal authority published last Jan. 20 by the Anglican-Roman Catholic International Commission.

The Venice Statement recognized a "consensus on authority in the church" and envisaged a united church with "universal primacy" centered in the bishop of Rome.

The two churches have been separated since the 16th century.

Last week, the Americans issued a statement summarizing their 12 years of dialogue and called on their leaders to being putting into force the unity they had achieved.

In their new statement, the Americans said the two churches, before they divided, shared "a long period of common history in which a universal primacy functioned in the West."

In addition, they said Anglicans had gradually moved toward accepting Roman Catholic entrance into the ecumenical movement, which they said had "encouraged Anglicans and other Christians to consider the positive values of a universal primacy in a reunited church."

11 Die In Manila Temple Fire

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — A fire swept through a three-story Chinese temple in downtown Manila Tuesday, killing 11 persons celebrating the feast of an ancient god.

Authorities said the fire may have been caused by candles and joss sticks lit amid the bunting and wads of scroll at the temple of the ancient Chinese god Tso Yu Kong.

Eleven charred bodies were found on the third floor of the building in the crowded Santa Cruz commercial district in downtown Manila. Two of the victims were pregnant women.

One 30-year-old woman jumped from the third floor balcony and suffered head injuries when she hit power line that broke her fall. Another man jumped to a nearby roof and escaped unharmed.

Six bodies were found near the balcony and three more persons died as they tried to shield themselves from the flames behind a bed. The rest of the victims were crouched in corners.

The fire started shortly after noon (midnight EST) and raged out of control for 90 minutes. More than 40 persons had left the temple just before the fire erupted.

"I was walking on the street when I saw a sudden burst of flames from the third floor," said Bruno Fernandez Jr.,

24, who lives nearby.

"Three women and a man rushed out to the balcony screaming for help. One woman jumped. The three others stood there. People on the ground shouted to them to jump. You could see their clothes burning on their backs. But they just stood there.

"When the firemen came 30 minutes later, they were all dead," Fernandez said.

Pete De La Cuesta, 44, who lives across the street from the temple, said carts of chickens, roast pigs and boxes of liquor were brought to the building Monday night in preparation for the feast of the Chinese god.

Volvo Recall To Affect 40,000 Cars

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Transportation Department Tuesday announced the recall of an estimated 40,000 1975 model Volvos, saying problems with sticking throttles might make it impossible to control the speed of the vehicles.

Officials of the department's National Highway Traffic Safety Administration outlined an emergency solution for one of two potential problems, but stressed that owners should get both fixed by a dealer as soon as they receive a recall notice from the company.

Transportation officials identified the cars involved as the Volvo Model 240 with the B20F engine, manufactured from August 1974 to May 1975. They said Volvo already has started recalling the vehicles.

One problem involves a plastic sleeve on the throttle cable, the department said. It said the sleeve can break, allowing a spring to expand and cause an increase in engine speed.

"If this occurs, a motorist should immediately turn the ignition key to the 'off' position (not 'lock') and carefully drive to the shoulder of the road," the department's notice said.

The department said the other problem involves fraying of the throttle cable, which could cause the cable to stick at any engine speed. It said signs of such fraying include slower than normal movement of the accelerator or the need to press harder than normal on the accelerator.

"If such symptoms are noticed, owners should seek help immediately," the notice said.

Gasoline Prices Up Less Than Living Costs

NEW YORK (AP) — The price of gasoline, despite predictions of a continuing energy crisis that would sharply boost prices, rose more slowly in 1977 than the general cost of living, according to surveys released Tuesday.

crease of 3 cents to 63.6 cents per gallon last month, a 5 percent increase.

ary 1977, 19.5 percent of gasoline sold was unleaded.

twice as high as it was in 1973," said Ed Vitale of the U.S. Department of Energy.

City Woman Pleads Guilty To Theft

A Lubbock woman received an eight-year probated prison term Tuesday after pleading guilty to theft.

The combined U.S. gasoline price — including regular, unleaded and premium gasoline sold at full-service and self-service pumps — was 61.8 cents per gallon last month, according to the Lundberg Letter.

But Bruce Chalfont, a spokesman for Platt's, said Lundberg's numbers — which show a smaller rate of increase — are more reliable.

One reason cited by experts for the slower-than-expected gasoline price growth is the lingering worldwide oil glut. Gasoline prices rose at a steady rate for the first six months of 1977, but as increased oil production in Alaska, the North Sea and elsewhere began building the glut, gasoline price increases slowed and some decreases were announced in the second half of the year.

He said that the latest figures indicate that higher prices since 1973 already have resulted in a "conservation effect that has created a period of ample supplies which have served to retard still more price increases."

Strike Spokesmen Schedule Interview

Two Panhandle farmers, who are spokesmen for the American Agriculture Movement, will be interviewed on "Capital Eye" Friday night.

The defendant admitted stealing money from her employer while working last year at Al's Music Machine at the South Plains Mall.

The Los Angeles-based newsletter, which surveys 20,000 service stations each month, reported that the average price was up only 2.46 cents, or 4.14 percent, from the 59.4 cents per gallon in January 1977.

Lundberg also reported that the percentage of gasoline sold at self-service pumps rose from 45.4 percent at the beginning of the year to 54.1 percent in December, as more consumers took advantage of the bargains often awaiting those who are willing to pump their own fuel.

Experts also say that reduced economic growth and more efficient vehicles have also helped convince Arab oil producers to impose only small price increases in 1977.

And Vitale said that if the administration has its way in Congress, gasoline prices would increase significantly in 1978, with some of the money rebated to consumers through tax credits.

Strike Spokesmen Schedule Interview

Two Panhandle farmers, who are spokesmen for the American Agriculture Movement, will be interviewed on "Capital Eye" Friday night.

In stipulated testimony, the defendant admitted stealing $3,720 from Alfred Faison by not crediting full payment amounts at the store. "I'd give the customer a full receipt, but I'd keep part of the money and credit the rest to the store," the stipulated testimony read at one point.

The U.S. consumer price index rose about 6.7 percent last year.

And more than one-quarter of all the gasoline sold last year was unleaded fuel, which must be used in most autos produced in the past several years. In January 1977, 19.5 percent of gasoline sold was unleaded.

Federal officials, who have been expecting sharply higher prices to help in their battle to conserve energy, said they were not upset over the reports.

Nile Boatman Hopes Peace Comes Soon For Egyptians

ASWAN, Egypt (AP)—Sayed Abbas, a Nubian boatman on the Nile River near here, says he hopes President Carter can help work out a Mideast peace so the boatman can buy a refrigerator, a television set and take a second wife.

"It is a sad life we are living," said Abbas, 62, who lives with his wife, four children and several hens in a primitive, two-room stone house. "We have had one war after another and we are still nowhere near peace, it seems," he said.

"If the Israelis really want peace, then they should do something, and Carter should make them understand they have to," he added.

Like most Egyptians, Abbas supports President Anwar Sadat's overtures to Israel and his talks with Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin. He had hoped the Sadat-Begin Christmas Day summit would produce an instant settlement.

Carter will meet Sadat Wednesday in Aswan.

"It all depends on Mr. Carter, you see," said Abbas. "If he can make the Israelis come to terms with us then we shall have lots of good things."

"There will be foreign companies, free-spending tourists and then I can even have a second wife to bring gaiety to my old days."

Muslims are permitted up to four wives.

Abbas also dreams of a better home.

His hopes in Carter reflect a general feeling in Egypt that peace is near and will bring better times for everyone.

Nubians are an ancient dak-skinned people that in the time of the pharaohs extended from Aswan in southern Egypt south to Khartoum, Sudan. Many were displaced by the reservoir that formed behind Aswan Dam.

Ten years ago he made a fairly good living selling cigarettes and candy to Western tourists.

But during the 1967 war with Israel, thousands of Russian military advisers swarmed into Aswan to help protect the Soviet-built Aswan Dam from Israeli attack.

"The Russians made my luck go sour," said Abbas. "When they came the foreign tourists went. Eventually, I had to sell my stand because the Russians are not big spenders."

"...I and all my neighbors can have a really good life if only President Carter can understand our president," Abbas said.

"I heard on the radio Mr. Carter is a good man, a believer in God," Abbas said. "If Carter can bring peace 'God will repay him many times over.'"

As his ferry chugged across the Nile, Abbas gestured to the desert around the life-giving strip of green near the river. "My son says we can get all this to become green too, with water from the Nile, when all becomes peace," he said.

Oil Firm Announces Purchase

NEW YORK (AP) — Standard Oil Co. (Ohio), the nation's 20th-largest oil firm and one that has been trying for years to expand its exploration and production capabilities, announced Tuesday the purchase of a British Petroleum Co. subsidiary with 1,000 employees.

The purchase, for a price estimated by sources at more than $10 million, took effect Sunday and is the latest in a series of business dealings between the two firms.

In 1970, Sohio and British Petroleum agreed to a merger that eventually will result in the foreign firm holding 54 percent of Sohio's stock.

The agreement gave Sohio a portion of British Petroleum's holdings in the oil-rich Alaskan north slope and gave the British firm — the second largest foreign oil company — access to Sohio's U.S. marketing expertise.

The purchase announced Tuesday involves a firm called BP Alaska, which had been responsible for geological and other scientific exploration in Alaska and elsewhere in the United States, Sohio spokesman Sam Baker said. Also involved are BP's Anchorage office building and several other ventures, he said.

"This gives us another boost in the exploration and production area," Baker said.

San Francisco will be the headquarters for oil and gas exploration and production activities, and four area offices for exploration will be located in Houston, San Francisco, Denver and Oklahoma City, officials of both firms said.

BP Alaska's 1,000 employees in San Francisco and Alaska have become employees of a new Sohio subsidiary called Sohio Natural Resources Co., and more employees will be hired, Baker said.

Sohio markets gasoline under the Sohio trademark in Ohio, under the Boron trademark in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Indiana and Michigan, and under the BP trademark in several East Coast states.

Report Suggests Oil Policy Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States must begin using its economic powers to make sure its access to foreign oil is less vulnerable to disruption and price squeezes, the General Accounting Office said Tuesday.

The GAO called for the adoption of a national policy that would assist oil-producing nations in meeting legitimate economic needs "as long as they reciprocate with reasonable pricing and production policies."

But it said that policy also should provide for "automatically withdrawing our cooperation and/or applying pressure in the same measure that they seek to act responsibly."

The GAO, which is the investigative arm of Congress, commented in making public the result of a year-long review of the relationship between American multinational oil companies and the governments of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

It recommended that the secretaries of state and energy present to Congress no later than next July 1 a plan to improve the security of U.S.-imported oil supplies at "reasonable" prices by U.S. policy initiatives.

It said these initiatives should be directed toward changes in terms of access to foreign petroleum products, incentives for production in non-OPEC countries, and diplomacy to both OPEC and non-OPEC nations.

It said an illusion of U.S. impotence has been created because of a fixation by policymakers on American dependence on imported oil.

"To dissolve this fixation it is necessary for U.S. policymakers to raise their sights above the petroleum marketplace and to recognize that the many strengths of the United States are not nullified by the fact of its present dependence on foreign oil," the GAO said.

In a response to the report, the Department of Energy said most of the GAO recommendations have been considered before and suggested that its conclusions "may seem to promise more than can be delivered."

The State Department said the GAO analysis is incomplete and fails to fully represent present policy. It therefore rejected the planning effort GAO proposed and the report to Congress it recommended.

The GAO recommended specifically that the State and Energy departments should draft policies aimed at encouraging modifications of the terms of agreements which currently permit oil-producing countries to adjust oil prices and other contract terms at will.

It said the use of possible U.S. leverage on oil-producing countries should be more thoroughly explored.

And it said a clear statement should be published of U.S. views on the binding nature of contracts foreign governments make with U.S. corporations.

Exxon Probing Carbon Monoxide Death

BENICIA, Calif. (UPI) — Carbon monoxide wafting through a 100-foot tall tank felled five men, killing three of them at the Exxon USA oil refinery and investigators Tuesday were attempting to determine how the deadly fumes got inside the silo-shaped container.

Eleven men were hospitalized following the mishap Monday. Two were in critical but improved condition. The remaining nine, all members of rescue units, were treated overnight and released, a company spokesman said.

Solano County officials said autopsies indicated the victims died of lack of oxygen and carbon monoxide poisoning.

Michael Schneider, deputy chief of the state Occupational Safety and Health Administration, said the tank contained carbon monoxide. He said a valve may have been accidentally opened somewhere in the giant plant while the victims were inside, allowing the deadly fumes to enter the tank from another part of the refinery.

They were identified as Gerald Johnson, 33, Vacaville; William Scott, 42, and David Soffer, 26, both of Vallejo. All were Exxon employees.

Hearings Scheduled For Title IV Funds

The Lubbock Independent School District will hold a hearing Jan. 11, on the allocation and use of Title IV, part B and C funds under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

Part B funds are used to purchase library materials and audio-visual equipment. Warner Sims, director of special projects for the school district, said that he expects a grant for next year similar to this year's allocation of $104,759.

Part C involves funds that are allocated through competitive requests for innovative projects. There is no local allocation this year for this part of Title IV, Sims said.

Sadat Reports Egypt Out Of Concessions

Arab in the first place.

In Syria, the banner-waving demonstrators shouted, "Down with traitor Sadat," "No to surrender," and "Sadat, a pawn in an American-Israeli plot."

The rally took place as President Carter discussed Mideast peace, among other issues, with King Khalid of Saudi Arabia and sought to persuade the Saudis to join the peace drive started last November by Sadat's visit to Israel.

Syria is a leader of the hardline states opposing the peace moves, claiming Sadat's decision to negotiate directly with Israel hurts Arab unity. Saudi Arabia so far has stayed out of the public aspect of the feud.

A Carter administration official said Tuesday there are signs the Saudis may budge from insisting on establishment of an independent Palestinian state as part of a Mideast settlement. That issue and withdrawal of Israel from Arab lands war are major peace obstacles.

Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin said Tuesday Israel will stand firm on its plan for Palestinian self-rule tied in with continued Israeli military presence on the West Bank and Gaza Strip.

Egypt has rejected the idea, demand-

Reactor Plan For Panhandle Placed On Hold

NRC had been conducting proceedings on the so-called Generic Environmental Statement on Mixed Oxide Fuels (GESMO) to determine whether or not uranium and plutonium might be recycled from spent nuclear fuel.

The NRC, under the same policy statement, had been processing applications for licenses to reprocess spent fuel, but was told in 1976 by the 2nd Circuit Court of Appeals that no licenses for commercial-scale activities could be issued until the GESMO proceedings had been completed.

Following President Carter's announcement of a nuclear non-proliferation policy calling for the indefinite deferral of commercial recycling of plutonium, the NRC suspended the GESMO hearing. Following a public comment period, the commission issued an order just before Christmas "terminating" the proceeding.

In that order the NRC said it was ending the proceedings on pending or future plutonium recycle-related license applications except for small-scale experimentation and those portions of the hearing which involve only spent fuel storage, disposal of existing waste or decommissioning of existing plants.

To Re-Examine Decision

The commission said it would "re-examine" its decision after the completion of a study of alternatives to reprocessing for plutonium.

Springer said it would be "premature" to comment on what impact the termination of the GESMO proceedings ultimately will have on the Amarillo breeder proposal.

Because of their ability to produce more fuel than they consume, breeder reactor development has been heavily supported by the electric utility industry.

Conventional reactors can use only the U-235 isotope. U-235, however, is found in extremely limited quantities (0.7 percent abundance) and that uranium supplies, especially in the U.S., are running out.

But the breeder reactor can use the more plentiful U-238 isotope (99.3 percent abundance) which, in combination with plutonium, can produce a fission reaction and additional fuel at the same time.

In order from that additional fuel to be utilized, however, the spent breeder fuel must be reprocessed and recycled in commercial-scale facilities, such as those who license applications were terminated last month by the NRC.

Carter Seeks Compromise On Palestine

played by the Riyadh government, must remain low-key.

"If they are going to play a role, they cannot play a role by coming out and committing themselves..." the official said.

He predicted the Saudis "will come down very hard in favor of self-determination for Gaza and the West Bank."

The comment appeared to indicate a Saudi shift from previous demands for an independent Palestinian state.

Looking toward today's talks in Aswan, a scheduled hourlong break in Carter's flight from Riyadh to Paris, the official said Carter will ask Sadat three questions:

—What he expects from political and military talks between Israel and Egypt set to begin at the level of foreign and defense ministers later this month.

Position Of Egypt

—What position Egypt will put on the table when negotiations begin.

—And, what specific objections Sadat has to the Israeli proposal for Palestinian self-rule.

Without being specific, the officials said progress has been made since the Christmas Day summit between Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin.

Carter arrived in the sun-baked Saudi Arabian capital of Riyadh at 4:10 p.m. (7:10 a.m. CST). He walked from the gleaming presidential jet onto a carpet of oriental rugs covering the tarmac.

With King Khalid at his side, Carter made a formal arrival statement in which he said, "the primary purpose of my trip and this visit is peace."

"The ties which bind us together are strong and unbreakable," Carter declared in remarks broadcast live by Saudi television.

The president was driven to the Al-Diyafa guest palace, where he will stay during the brief visit, in a motorcade that took him past at least a dozen war sites, evidence of the millions of oil dollars Saudi Arabia is pumping into national development.

Thousands of soldiers stood almost shoulder-to-shoulder lining the approach to the ornate, three-story marble palace.

ing an independent Palestinian state with no Israeli military presence.

Referring to Carter's planned stop today at Aswan, Egypt, for a talk with Sadat, Begin called on Sadat not to ask Carter to apply pressure on Israel for concessions.

Begin said, "We have never asked the United States to pressure Egypt," and said negotiations should continue unhampered.

Momentum Asked

Mohammed Kamel, Egypt's foreign minister, asked the United States to provide fresh momentum for the stalemated talks.

"Americans have a vital role in helping the parties," Kamel said in an interview with the Associated Press.

"We want the United States to use its good offices and good relations with both parties to achieve what we are seeking," Kamel declared to say specifically what he wanted Carter to do to break the deadlock over a Mideast peace settlement.

Specifics Due

He implied specifics would be taken up between Sadat and Carter when the two meet today.

The London-based Arabic language newspaper Al Manar said the Soviet Union will provide Syria with "a giant air defense umbrella" to protect it against an Israeli air attack.

The paper, quoting unnamed diplomatic sources, said Soviet experts already were in Syria to set up and operate the system, which would include air-ground missiles unseen in the Mideast until now.

The independent paper, appearing Tuesday on newsstands in Beirut, said the Soviet move was a result of American support of the Egyptian-Israeli peace talks.

Israel Accused

In Kuwait, the independent paper As Siyassa claimed Israel is massing "irregular volunteers" on its border with Lebanon preparing to purge south Lebanon of Palestinian guerrillas based there.

The paper quoted unnamed foreign sources as saying the volunteers included Arab-speaking Israelis, and right-wing Christian Lebanese militiamen.

The Lebanese Christians, backed by Israel, still skirmish occasionally in Lebanon with leftist guerrillas despite the end of the 19-month Lebanese civil war in November, 1976.

The Palestinians previously had used the part of south Lebanon now occupied by the Christians for raids on Israel.

Boy Attempts To Save Pet, Loses Legs

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A 10-year-old boy who lost both his legs when he slipped under a train while trying to save his new puppy was in serious but stable condition Tuesday and was worrying about his missing pet.

"At the hospital, he asked for the dog," said a neighbor of James M. Harper. "That's all he wants is the dog."

The accident happened Monday as James walked across a one-track trestle over the Hillsborough River with the dog — Misty, a Christmas present — and a 12-year-old friend, David J. Tawzer.

When an Amtrak passenger train approached, its whistle screaming, young Harper grabbed Misty and threw him off the trestle into the water. David scampered to safety, but James slipped under the train.

"We don't know where the dog is," said a neighbor. "We went to look for it because he kept asking for it at the hospital."

Another neighbor described the dog as beige with a white spot on its chest, and "like a husky — super fluffy."

Senators, Torrijos To Discuss Canal

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker, whose vote on the Panama Canal treaties could be critical to their ratification, flew here Tuesday for a five-day study tour.

He repeated on arrival he has not decided whether to vote for the treaties, and said that while in Panama he wants "to make sure there is full agreement" on future U.S. rights to defend and use the waterway.

Baker, a Republican from Tennessee, arrived on a U.S. Air Force plane with fellow Republican Sens. John Chafee of Rhode Island and Jake Garn of Utah. Chafee supports the treaties and Garn opposes them in their present form. Twenty aides accompanied the senators.

To Meet Torrijos

The Americans are to spend today with Gen. Omar Torrijos, the Panamanian leader, and talk with Panamanian and U.S. officials here and in the Canal Zone before leaving Saturday.

Most opinion polls show public sentiment running against ratification, but Capitol Hill observers say the support of Baker, whose term expires this year, could draw enough Senate Republicans along to give the two-thirds vote needed for approval.

Carter and Torrijos signed the treaties in Washington, in September and the Panamanian people approved them in an October referendum.

Debate Opens Soon

The U.S. Senate must ratify the pacts before they can take effect. Debate is expected to begin soon on ratification, sought by the administration and considered among the major questions facing Congress this year.

"There are a number of issues that I intend to discuss with government officials," Baker told an airport news conference. "For instance, the matters that were dealt with in the memorandum of agreement" approved by Carter and Torrijos in October in Washington.

The memorandum was signed after senators complained the treaties did not explicitly define future U.S. rights in the canal, which under the twin pacts would be turned over to Panama by the year 2000.

The memorandum states that the treaties do not allow American intervention in Panamanian affairs but do permit U.S. defense of the canal. It also explains the treaty term "expeditious passage" as meaning U.S. ships may "go to the head of the line" in emergencies.

Torrijos says Panama's future depends on ratification. He invited Baker after Majority Leader Robert Byrd of West Virginia and other senators visited Panama. Torrijos told Byrd he is willing to have the memorandum attached to the treaties if that will help win Senate approval.

Chafee did not allude to the memorandum during the news conference, but Garn said, "We talk about guaranteeing the neutrality of the canal and its use for all nations, yet there was a great deal of vagueness over the rights of the U.S. to ensure that neutrality."

Steel Import Prices Set

mestic companies. However, the process of determining the proper price for imports is lengthy. The new trigger prices are designed to reduce the time required to determine if a foreign producer is dumping steel.

Under the new program, which goes into effect immediately, the Treasury sets a "trigger price" which includes the cost of production in Japan, which is the most efficient of all world steel producers. This trigger price includes overhead and a profit margin, plus shipping, insurance and handling costs to each of four U.S. regions. Normal U.S. customs duties and importers' markups are added to the trigger prices for comparison with U.S. prices.

If a steel product is brought into this country below this price, the Treasury considers it to be illegal and can start its own investigation.

The average trigger announced Tuesday, with the estimated duty, would be $330 per ton for the average steel product imported into this country for the first nine months of 1977. That is $20, or 5.7 percent, below the average price of comparable U.S. steel products in the eastern United States.

The trigger prices affect products representing 75 percent of the value of U.S. steel imports.

LONDON (AP) — The dollar plummeted against major currencies Tuesday in one of the worst days of its yearlong decline.

"Only the United States can stop the dollar's depreciation and because it hasn't been taking any action European operators don't have any confidence in the currency any more," a Paris banker said.

A London dealer said that "the downward push will keep coming" until U.S. monetary authorities take action to strengthen the dollar.

Other London dealers said that as long as the United States continues to post huge monthly trade deficits and U.S. monetary officials maintain what the dealers call "benign neglect," the dollar will continue to lose value.

All-Time Lows

The dollar hit all-time lows against Europe's two strongest currencies, the West German mark and the Swiss franc. In addition it was at its lowest levels in 22 months against the British pound, in 18 months against the French franc and in 16 months against the Italian lire.

Here are Tuesday's closing prices for the dollar, compared with closing prices either Monday or last Friday. Some markets were closed Monday as part of the New Year holiday.

— In Frankfurt, 2.0768 West German marks, down from 2.1025.

— In Zurich, 1.9370 Swiss francs, down from 2.0100.

— In Paris, 4.6425 French francs, down from 4.7000.

— In Milan, 866.95 Italian lire, down from 870.20.

— In Amsterdam, 2.2435 Dutch guilders, down from 2.2635.

Pound Rises

In London, the pound cost $1.954 at Tuesday's closing against $1.919 Friday. Before Tuesday, the last time it cost $1.95 to buy sterling was in March, 1976.

Meanwhile gold, a traditional hedge in times of monetary uncertainty, rose sharply in value. In London it closed at $169.50 an ounce against $165.25 Friday. In Zurich, Europe's other major bullion center, it closed at $168.87 against $166.12 Friday.

Root cause of the dollar's decline is foreign disappointment over U.S. economic performance. The U.S. November trade deficit was $2.08 billion. The month before it was a record $3.09 billion.

Foreign money experts say they also are worried over the lack of a U.S. energy policy to reduce America's money-draining purchases of foreign oil.

European governments and businesses have watched the decline of the dollar with dismay. The decline has made Europe's products more expensive and so less competitive in the important American market. Many suspect this is the reason for the U.S. administration's apparent reluctance to act to bolster the value of the dollar.

European companies have been faced with slashing their profit margins or increasing their prices in the United States.

On the other hand the decline in the value of the dollar makes American products cheaper to sell abroad. But Americans in Europe suffer because their dol-

Dollar Fall Persists In European Markets

"I feel those two heads of state who are in office now (Carter and Torrijos) — them agreeing to it verbally is not sufficient. I would like to see much more clarification, possibly amendments to the treaty..."

The senators were to join Torrijos and other Panamanian officials today for a tour. It was expected to be similar to the one Torrijos gave Byrd in November with stops in several small towns.

The group will be briefed Thursday by the chief of the U.S. Army's southern command, Gen. Dennis McAuliffe. The Americans are to tour the Canal Zone on Friday with Gov. Harold Parfitt and talk with the Panamanian treaty negotiators.

Before leaving Saturday, Baker, Chafee and Garn will hold a second meeting with Torrijos and speak with U.S. residents of the zone.

ars buy less.

European central banks gave the dollar only minimal support Tuesday. The West German Bundesbank bought $6.75 million to try to stem the decline. The Swiss National Bank also intervened, but only to a limited extent.

Strike Ends At Lockheed Locations

BURBANK, Calif. (UPI) — Thousands of production line workers, involved in one of the longest strikes in the history of the aerospace industry, returned to their jobs Tuesday after a 12-week strike against Lockheed Corp., but the company said it may take a full year to recover.

"We are back to a normal work force at our plants in Burbank, Palmdale and other Southern California locations," said company spokesman Jim Ragsdale. "But it will take virtually all this year before we reach a point where we can say we are back on a normal schedule."

20,000 Machinists

Lockheed-California Co., which produces the L-1011 jumbo jet, was one of three Lockheed divisions hit by a strike involving nearly 20,000 aerospace machinists beginning last Oct. 10.

Workers at the company's Lockheed Missiles and Space Co., headquartered in Sunnyvale, Calif., and Lockheed-Georgia Co. at Marietta, Ga., earlier settled on new three-year contracts, leaving an estimated 7,000 Southern California workers still on strike through the New Year's holiday weekend.

Local members of the International Association of Machinists approved a three-year contract offer by the company Monday by a margin of more than 3-to-1 and began returning to work early Tuesday.

"We won the strike," said Rick Celebration, president of IAM Local 727, which represents the Southern California union members. "The company didn't get what it wanted on seniority and it was worth it to us not to have to live with that language forever."

Seniority had been the major stumbling block in negotiations. Under the new pact, current employees would be entitled to the same seniority rights as under the old contract.

Railroad Commission Appointee Sworn In

AUSTIN (AP) — John Poerner was sworn in as a railroad commissioner Tuesday, causing chairman Mack Wallace to comment that the oil and gas regulatory agency, "in effect, becomes a new commission."

On an agency that is known for long-term service, Wallace, 48, is now the senior member with just over four years.

He and Poerner, 44, got their jobs by appointment from Gov. Dolph Briscoe to fill vacancies. The third commissioner, Jon Newton, 36, was elected in 1976.

Newton and Poerner are both former House members from South Texas, with Newton serving from Beeville in 1970-76, and Poerner from Hondo in 1969-75.

Poerner succeeds Jim Langdon, a former El Paso appeals judge, who resigned to practice law after 14 years as a commissioner. He has said he will run for the remaining two years of Langdon's unexpired term in 1978.

Poerner was sworn in before approximately 400 persons in the House chamber.

It was the House, in his final term, he said that "gave me the opportunity to serve under a new brand of government, a new brand of leadership of this state. I had known Dolph and Janey Briscoe for many years prior to 1973, but the supreme respect and closer friendship developed by being here and working with him and for him have provided the most enjoyable years of my life."

"His brand of government is truly my brand of government."

At the time of his appointment, Oct. 28, 1977, Poerner was on Briscoe's staff as director of education resources.

"I knew I needed someone with the ability, experience and integrity to serve the people of this state, and I did not have to look far," said Briscoe in brief remarks following the swearing-in.

The oath of office was administered by Secretary of State Steve Oaks, another Briscoe appointee.

"The railroad commission now has three members," said Wallace. "We're ready to work."

"With your help," said Poerner, "success is as close as a handshake."

AUSTIN (AP) — John Poerner was sworn in as a railroad commissioner Tuesday, causing chairman Mack Wallace to comment that the oil and gas regulatory agency, "in effect, becomes a new commission."

On an agency that is known for long-term service, Wallace, 48, is now the senior member with just over four years.

He and Poerner, 44, got their jobs by appointment from Gov. Dolph Briscoe to fill vacancies. The third commissioner, Jon Newton, 36, was elected in 1976.

Newton and Poerner are both former House members from South Texas, with Newton serving from Beeville in 1970-76, and Poerner from Hondo in 1969-75.

Poerner succeeds Jim Langdon, a former El Paso appeals judge, who resigned to practice law after 14 years as a commissioner. He has said he will run for the remaining two years of Langdon's unexpired term in 1978.

Poerner was sworn in before approximately 400 persons in the House chamber.

 though, the tractors were again moving steadily in a single, unbroken line.

Tractor Force Grows
 The line of tractors in Lubbock continued to grow until about 11:30 a.m. when farmers began to exit the loop and move toward Mackenzie Park where organizers had planned a "picnic" for the striking group.

After lunch, the farmers directed their tractors back toward the loop in time for an air show by 30 supportive crop-dusting planes scheduled for 1:30 p.m.

By 2:30 p.m., most of their tractors had completed their rounds and headed for home.

A few drivers, though, maneuvered their vehicles home via shortcuts through downtown Lubbock, sending police scurrying back to the downtown area.

Off-duty officers, however, were sent home about 3 p.m. when the last tractor group left the city.

Elsewhere on the South Plains, striking farmers made their presence known in Amarillo, Hereford, Dimmitt, Childress, Big Spring and several smaller communities.

Childress Tempers Flare
 A day-long American Agriculture demonstration in Childress aroused tempers of many local residents.

One Childress resident yelled at the farmers. "Why don't you take your $50,000 toy somewhere else to play," as an estimated 75 tractors converged on the Panhandle community about 11 a.m.

A rally at the edge of the city included the burning of a bale of cotton just before the tractors formed a caravan along U.S. 287 through the city, blocking traffic in some places. Farmers reportedly refused to allow patrons in or out of a local supermarket's parking lot once the convoy arrived.

Tractors Block Exits
 Another 150 tractors rolled through downtown Big Spring, and though the demonstration was orderly, police said post-Christmas shoppers expressed some disappointment when they found they were unable to leave the area because of the tractor caravan.

One participant drew attention to the movement with his sign that read: "Blowed out, hauled out, dried out, cussed out and sold out."

A proposed tractorcade between Amarillo and Oklahoma City, Okla., failed to materialize. About 120 tractors converged on Amarillo for a prayer meeting and picnic at a city shopping center. Amarillo police reported no problems with that group.

Visit Farm Bureau
 An estimated 150 Central Texas farmers Tuesday converged on the Texas Farm Bureau headquarters in Waco to meet with bureau president Carroll Chaloupka. Though the bureau earlier said it would not support the strike, Chaloupka agreed Tuesday to meet with Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland for the "betterment of the farmers."

Also Tuesday, U.S. Sen. John Tower met with about 400 Central Texas farmers at the Rotan airport to get an idea of what the farmers there wanted from the government.

Today, South Plains farmers will meet with Hill in Hereford, Dimmitt and Plainview. Hill will meet with Lubbock farmers Thursday.

McCathern said. "We want to know where he stands on the farmers' demands for 100 percent parity, and present to him our ideas."

The next statewide Phase Three demonstrations are scheduled for Thursday when South Plains farmers will join other Texas farmers in El Paso to protest beef imports from Mexico, according to Meadow farmer Roy Blair.

Friday, area representatives are scheduled to meet with the nation's governors and Bergland in Omaha, Neb., to discuss national farm policy.

Bergland Monday reportedly clarified an invitation he extended to several other farm groups to attend the same meeting to say the groups would be invited to a luncheon but not to the meeting where striking farmers would talk about farm policy.

American Agriculture leaders had indicated earlier that they would boycott the meeting unless the invitation was withdrawn.

Should meetings with the Carter administration fail to produce an agreement, farmers say they will plow under five percent of their crops each Tuesday until their goal of 100 percent parity is achieved, according to Mahagan.

Vance To Speak On Canal Pacts
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance will travel to West Virginia, Kentucky and New Orleans later this month for a series of speeches aimed at winning public support for the proposed Panama Canal treaties.

The appearances will supplement President Carter's nationally televised "fireside chat" on the subject in mid-January.

The State Department said Vance will speak on the Panama issue on Jan. 11 before a Chamber of Commerce group at Morris Harvey College in Charleston, W. Va.; on Jan. 12 at a meeting with 100 community leaders in Louisville, Ky.; and later that same day in an address before the New Orleans Chamber of Commerce.

Vance also will speak before the Los Angeles World Affairs Council on Jan. 13. The State Department said the address will cover general foreign policy issues.

Brasfield Venue Change Sought

By FRANK PATRICK
 Avalanche-Journal Staff
 Attorneys for accused child-slayer Philip Carey Brasfield have filed a change of venue motion, saying their client cannot receive a fair trial in Lubbock County.

Court-appointed lawyers Dennis McGill and Mark Hall also asked Dist. Judge William R. Shaver to appoint a neurologist to examine Brasfield, citing alleged head injuries suffered by the defendant as the result of a train-car accident in 1974.

Brasfield, a 28-year-old Slaton carpenter, has been indicted for capital murder as the result of the brutal slaying of 6-year-old Johnny Turner Jr.

 The tiny first grader, son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Turner of 1028 E. 29th St., disappeared Oct. 26.

His body, which showed several stab wounds, was found Nov. 3 lying face down in a ravine in the rugged Yellow-house Canyon area north of Slaton.

An indictment subsequently charged Brasfield with causing the child to die through asphyxiation, conducted in a manner and means unknown to grand jurors.

The defendant is currently being held in Lubbock County Jail without bond. Shaver, 140th District Judge, Tuesday said he hoped to schedule Brasfield's capital murder trial for March or April. He said pretrial motions probably would be heard in February.

The judge indicated he is waiting to set the trial for a time after conclusion of the upcoming Clarence Allen Lackey capital trial.

Lackey, 23, is accused of murdering Toni Dianne Kumpf, and that case is tentatively scheduled to begin later this month.

In asking trial to be moved to a non-adjointing county, defense attorneys pointed to "extensive news coverage and publicity."

Because of publicity, the motion said, a substantial portion of potential jurors have already decided how they would vote on guilt or innocence and/or punishment.

Two affidavits from local citizens supported the motion.
 The attorneys asked for a complete medical examination of Brasfield by a neurologist, but indicated they did not wish the examining doctor to ask Brasfield any questions of a non-medical nature.

"Counsel has learned that the defendant was in an auto-train accident in April, 1974, and was treated for injuries to and about his head at Santa Fe Memorial Hospital in Temple," the motion states.

Because of that history and "subsequent headaches," the defense states in history and objective matters related to the examination "and specifically that the examining doctor not ask any questions relating to the non-medical history."

Brasfield, married and the father of two children, was known to law enforcement officers after being indicted last May for the alleged aggravated sexual abuse of a child.

Brasfield had been released from jail on $5,000 bond after being arrested in connection with that alleged incident.

Other changes include the Rev. James P. Boswell from Wellington's First UMC to Friona, the Rev. Thomas H. Thomson from associate at Amarillo's San Jacinto

UMC to Wellington's First UMC and the Rev. Hershel H. Homer from associate at Amarillo's St. Paul UMC to Abilene's Elmwood West.

Weldon Tucker from Kress to Wylie in Abilene.

The changes at Hereford's First UMC were needed after the retirement of Dr. Jordan Grooms and the change at Fairmont in Abilene was necessitated by the death of the Rev. Ralph Odum.

The Rev. Bill McReynolds was received by transfer from the New Mexico annual conference and the Rev. J.B. Sharp was transferred to the New Mexico annual conference. Fair Park UMC in Abilene still has a vacancy.

Braniff Requests Discounts Approval

DALLAS (UPI) — Braniff International Tuesday asked the Civil Aeronautics Board to approve 15-20 percent discounts for first class air travel effective March 1.

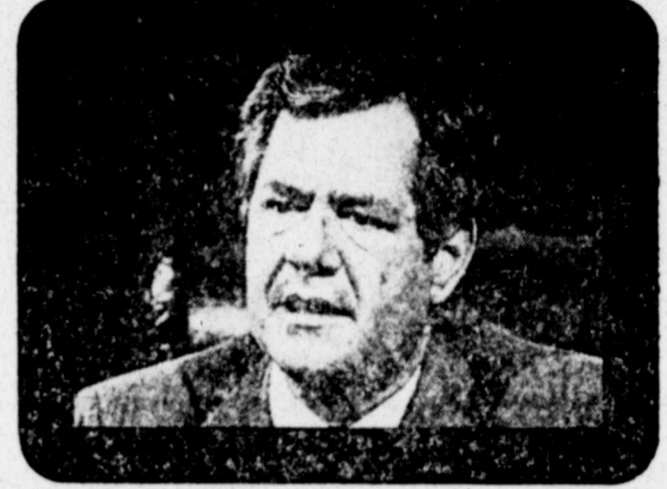

If approved, the discounts would be the only first class promotional fares available on any U.S. airline.

The airline said its proposed first class freedom excursion fare would allow discounts on all Braniff flights in the continental U.S. if tickets were purchased seven days in advance. The proposal included a maximum stay of 30 days and a minimum stay to the Sunday following departure.

Officials said similar discounts for coach fares had stimulated air traffic.

County Seeks Variance For Jail Plan

By JEFF SOUTH
Avalanche-Journal Staff

State officials will inspect the Lubbock County Jail next week, and county commissioners hope the visit yields not only a favorable report on the existing operation but also some helpful advice on building new facilities.

Arnold Maeker, who is designing a replacement for the county's 47-year-old lockup is "in a tizzy" over what he says is a new "inmate housing rule" issued by the Texas Commission on Jail Standards (TCJS).

Under that rule, which Maeker said was "not written into the original standards" and was issued only last August, dayrooms in the proposed new Lubbock County Jail must conform to the same space requirements as cells.

That is, for each prisoner assigned to a dayroom, there must be 40 square feet of space — of which at least 18 square feet must be "clear," free of furnishings or toilet facilities.

Maeker said he was unaware of that requirement when he submitted for TCJS review in December a set of working drawings for the county's proposed new 335-inmate detention center.

The state agency reported the results of its review to the county two weeks ago, and "here's where things get sticky," Maeker said.

The TCJS stated that the architect's plans are in compliance with the bulk of the state standards, even down to the dayroom space requirements, which state officials said seemed to meet the "40 square feet" rule.

When he read that report, Maeker said, "I knew something was wrong. That was the first time I had heard that the dayrooms were supposed to have 40 square feet of space per inmate."

His plans actually called for dayrooms a bit smaller than that. "We are not very far off, but we don't comply with their (dayroom space) rule — because we didn't even know that rule existed," Maeker said.

Maeker told the Lubbock County Commissioners Court there are two ways the proposed jail plans could be redrawn to enlarge the dayrooms:

—Some cells could be eliminated, reducing the prisoner capacity in each of the planned three long-term detention cellblocks from 90 to 86. But this would lower the "manpower efficiency" of the new jail, since the same-sized staff would be required to handle a smaller number of inmates.

—Eight-man cells could be paired to make 16-man cells, freeing up space for larger dayrooms. But 16-man cells are hard to manage and would present problems meeting state requirements to segregate various categories of prisoners, such as non-violent from violent-prone inmates, first-time offenders from repeaters, and pretrial detainees from convicted felons.

County commissioners don't like either alternative. They plan to ask the TCJS for a "variance" or exception to the new construction rules on dayrooms, so the initial plans won't have to be changed.

"Since they (TCJS staffers) said in effect that we comply, and now they're changing the rules on us, I say leave the plans as they are and try to get a variance," Commissioner Alton Brazell remarked.

If the state won't allow a variance, he added, "We may be faced with starting completely over on this project."

Commissioners had hoped to go out for bids on the proposed new jail construction about March.

The TCJS is scheduled to visit the Lubbock County Jail Jan. 10, in with U.S. District Judge Halbert O. Woodward's call for regular inspections of the facility and with other requested variances by the county.

Guy Van Cleave, executive director of the agency, said that while his staff is in Lubbock, "We'd be very happy to work with Mr. Maeker and the commissioners court" on the dayroom matter.

"I don't think we'll have much trouble working it out. Although I can't speak for my commission, I believe that if the dayrooms are within reasonable limits to the state standards, a variance may be possible," Van Cleave said.

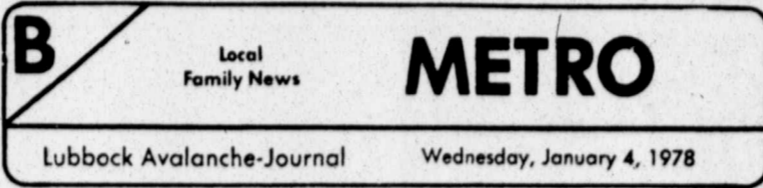

He also said his staff and county officials may come up with other alternatives, to enlarge the dayrooms without sacrificing efficiency or cell sizes.

On another matter, Van Cleave told The Avalanche-Journal he was "mistaken" three weeks ago when he said the county's request to operate its jail with fewer than the state-prescribed number of guards had been withdrawn.

Actually, the TCJS approved that variance, which will be temporary until the new jail is opened in 1980, "as long as a guard is on duty on each floor at all times," Van Cleave said.

The variance was requested because state rules require one guard for every 45 inmates or fraction thereof on each detention floor.

Two floors of Lubbock County's five-story jail house about 60 prisoners. Those floors now have one guard around-the-clock, and county officials did not want to have to place a second guard on each of the levels.

Farm Strike Logo Origin Here

By MONA HARVEY
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The official logo of the American Agriculture Strike movement, designed by Dwight Potts of Lubbock, was not accepted by strike leaders until orders began pouring in to the national office for caps bearing the emblem following sales at an Amarillo rally.

Potts, who created the logo at the behest of his Colorado cousin, Ken Harrison, was first told that the movement should not have an official emblem since it was not really an organization.

Potts' original logo suggestion, in the shape of a shield, was flatly rejected by the agricultural leaders because they said it resembled the emblem of a national farm organization.

When Potts developed the U.S. map logo banded in blue, white and red with "American Agriculture Strike 77" on a white background three days after the strike began in Colorado, strike officials initially said they did not want a logo.

But they told Potts that "if they had an emblem, that is the one they would recognize," he said.

Potts, owner of a silk-screening business east of the city named Super Letters of Texas (SLOT) Promotion, and Harrison sold 175 of the emblem-bearing caps within an hour at an Amarillo strike rally the end of September.

When orders began streaming into the national headquarters, Potts said, the logo was officially adopted Oct. 17.

"They had calls by the hundreds wanting the caps," he said.

About 28,000 of the caps have been sold to 600 strike offices across the country since then, Harrison estimates.

"Up until two weeks ago, all the logos were sewed on here," Potts said.

Harrison was able to persuade Dallas Cap and Emblem Manufacturing Inc. to produce the caps. He was en route to the Dallas Plant Tuesday when he decided to stop off and take orders from farmers in the tractorade around Lubbock.

Potts prints all the official bumper stickers and window stickers for the strike campaign. Other products they have developed include T-shirts and jackets.

Potts said he first got into the production when Harrison invited him to Colorado where he "could probably sell some T-shirts" to strikers there.

Although Potts is participating from a business standpoint on the cap decals, Harrison said he looks on the project as a "means for the strike offices to make money" for expenses, he said.

Harrison, a farmer who participated early in the Colorado strikes, estimates $85,000 to $90,000 worth of caps have been sold at $3 each to strike offices. The local leaders then distribute them at $4 to $5 per cap, he said.

About $130,000 worth of all the products have been sold, he said.

Harrison said he is donating 10 percent of all the cap sales to the national strike office for use in paying telephone bills and travel expenses.

Potts said in addition to a copyright on his design he is also trying to get a trademark "because it looks like it will be an emblem farmers will stand on from now on."

Traffic Commission Listens To School Traffic Problems

By CARRIE LINE CURTIS
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A continuing problem, traffic congestion around two of Lubbock's high schools, was discussed again Tuesday during a meeting of the Citizens Traffic Commission.

The congestion and lack of parking space around the two high schools also was discussed in early 1977 by the commission.

During the regular monthly meeting at City Hall, two residents who live near Monterey High School appeared before the commission requesting some action concerning the traffic congestion and lack of parking space.

One of the residents, who has lived in his house for 19 years, said the traffic congestion this year is worse than it ever has been. He added that one side street near Monterey, Hartford Avenue, is carrying a great deal more traffic, both from students and parents dropping students off at the school.

He requested that no-parking signs currently in place on Hartford Avenue in the 4500-block be continued throughout the entire block or discontinued completely on the block.

The Monterey High School area resident said another neighbor, also present, at the meeting had two small children and the traffic congestion in their block was dangerous for the neighbor's children.

The Monterey area resident said he did not wish to complain about the students parking in his driveway because he feared retaliation by the teen-agers. He added that he had seen one man's wooden fence torn down and the weathervane atop the house torn off. He added the vandalism occurred after the neighbor reported the driveway parking to police and tickets were issued by the police department.

A police official present at the meeting said vandalism of that type frequently occurs if a homeowner reports the driveway parking to police and there is little chance to catch the vandals.

Commission member Paul Mills said the group could consider contacting the high school PTAs to gain the cooperation of students' parents in keeping more vehicles at home. However, he added that he saw little hope of success in reaching the parents who should be informed about the parking situation and traffic congestion.

Commission members also discussed a continuing education program's activities on traffic safety for the city.

Firemen Probing Cause Of Blaze

Fire Marshall A. C. Black said Tuesday it may be "two or three days" before the cause of a three-alarm blaze that swept through a block of downtown Lubbock Sunday is known.

"We're having to move (rubble) piece by piece," Black said. "We're looking at two different spots and we're just not sure which one (holds the clues)," he added.

"We've got too much stuff to move right now."

About 30 firefighters battled the fire for more than six hours in frigid temperatures. The blaze broke out about 7:45 p.m. in the 800-block of Broadway, and before firemen could contain it, flames spread to almost every business on that block.

There were no injuries, however.

Fire Chief Tom Foster said the fire apparently began near a stairwell in the Commercial Hotel, a vacant rooming house in the block.

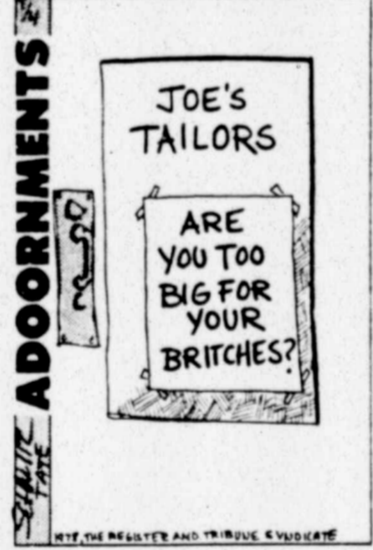

Within minutes of their arrival, firemen had that portion of the blaze under control, and it appeared the fire was on its way to being extinguished.

However, badly-burned support beams gave way, causing the stairwell to plunge through the third story floor down to the second floor, and the flames were rekindled.

The hotel, Huber's Pawn Shop and Chandler's Cafe sustained damage. Lubbock Sales and a barber shop also sustained extensive smoke and water damage, Foster said.

Firemen battled the blaze until about 1 a.m. Monday then left the scene until 8 a.m., when flames erupted again in the smoldering ruins.

Texas Death Toll Equals Predictions

By United Press International
The New Year's holiday weekend fatality count in Texas equaled Department of Public Safety predictions.

A United Press International survey Tuesday showed 30 Texas traffic deaths during the 78-hour holiday period that began at 6 P.M. Friday and ended at midnight Monday.

There were 23 single fatality accidents, two double-fatality crashes and one triple fatality, a DPS spokesman said. Nine one-vehicle accidents killed 10 persons and six head-on crashes killed nine persons. Seven pedestrians were killed by autos and one person was killed in an auto-train wreck.

Hazardous roads slick with snow, ice and rain were responsible for at least one death on the last day of the holiday period.

Travelers advisories had been in effect early Monday for many parts of the state, but roads throughout the state were clear by midday.

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

I have never known anyone personally who has a clean cookie sheet.

There was one woman in the old neighborhood who was rumored to have one, but she was quite weird and when I saw her coming, I always looked the other way.

Cookie sheets are like underwear, dish towels, and toothbrushes. They're never on display to the public, so who cares what they look like.

Men do not understand cookie sheets. My husband watched me put biscuits on mine the other day and said, "That reminds me, I have to have the oil changed in the car this week."

When I didn't respond, he asked, "Just for curiosity's sake, how much does a new cookie sheet cost?"

"The last time I bought one it was around $2.98."

"The last time you bought one, they were using beads and trinkets for money."

"Why should my cookie sheet bother you?"

"Because it looks like a health hazard. What's that baked on it?"

"Which layer?"

"That's not funny, you know. Look at it! It's even rusting in the corners."

"That's because some idiot put water on it."

"Heaven forbid I'd tell you how to run your kitchen, but why don't you pick up a new one?"

"For the same reason you hold your glasses together with a paper clip and have three knots in your shoestring."

"That's different."

Americans need one last bastion from which to defend their cheapness. Maybe it's a favorite lipstick that you use a bobby pin to dig it out with, a pin in your shorts... a cord that's down to two inches on your power mower starter... a broom handle stuck in the sliding glass doors of your $65,000 house... a comb with 15 teeth missing... a $6,000 car with one set of car keys.

All I know is yesterday my husband bought me a new cookie sheet and when I went outside, my neighbor saw me coming and looked the other way.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

BY DR. GEORGE C. THOSTESÓN

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there such a thing as seasonal colitis? Every year beginning about January, I become afflicted with diarrhea (about two to five times a day), with intestinal discomfort and flatulence. All tests, including upper and lower GI and ieces examination, were negative. On the advice of doctors I refrained from milk products and have ruled out food allergy.

Privately, I blame it on the high-blood-pressure medicine I was taking (Dyazide), and stopped taking it on my own. The next year (about January) I got the diarrhea again, so I guess I was wrong about that. I also tried eliminating fresh fruits, vegetables, and coffee. No help. The problem usually lasts until about March, when my bowel movements become normal again. — Mrs. C.S.

I don't like to drag out the often-misused bugaboo about "nerves," but I must. Has anyone suggested your seasonal diarrhea might be due to emotional factors at this time of the year? Holidays (before and after) can be great producers of gastrointestinal problems. Ulcers, for example, are seasonal for some people.

I find the word "colitis" often misused. The "itis" refers to inflammation. A colon (lower bowel) can give trouble without being inflamed or infected. If you have no fever, weight loss, or blood in the stool, and if you are in otherwise good health (except for your blood pressure) you can suspect emotional stress as a cause.

You've eliminated the usual food allergy sources. Dyazide is a diuretic and rarely causes diarrhea. If you haven't told your doctor you stopped taking it, do so, and get back on the blood-pressure therapy you may need.

If the diarrhea problem returns, see a doctor for a reevaluation. You may need medicine to reduce the bowel spasm that may be involved. Dyazide is a combination of thiamterene and hydrochloriazide. This can cause gastrointestinal symptoms. You should report them.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 86 and troubled with bad circulation, the kind that makes it hard to get out of bed in the morning. What can be done? — R.J.V.

"Bad circulation" doesn't really mean much. At your age you undoubtedly have a fair amount of arterial hardening. That may be what you mean. Most likely you have some senile joint changes (arthritis, if you will) that cause muscle stiffness. Your solution is to prime yourself gradually. Sit on the edge of the bed, flex your ankles and knees. Stretch your arms up and sideways to limber up a bit. Then stand up and take off.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have always heard that it is not healthy to walk or indulge in other exercise after eating because this puts a strain on the heart, which has to provide extra blood circulation to the stomach for digestion purposes. Is this correct or a myth? — S.E.

It's correct. Healthy individuals may get away with the practice, but those with heart or heart-related problems (as angina) have to be careful.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it true that breast cysts usually occur on the left breast? If so, why? — Mrs. Y.E.

It is apparently true, and I don't know why.

For a better understanding of colitis and other intestinal ailments their causes and treatment, write to Dr. Thosteson, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, for a copy of his booklet, "Colitis and Kindred Complaints." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Want to fool your family tomorrow morning at breakfast with "scratch" biscuits? Try this:

Open a can of flaky-type canned biscuits. Add a little melted shortening or butter to a baking pan if it sticks, otherwise leave the pan ungreased.

But... before you place the biscuits in the pan, dip them one by one in flour. Shake off excess, then place them in your pan. If you have melted shortening in the pan, don't turn the biscuits over to grease the tops.

Bake them in a moderately hot oven until golden brown. They come out of the oven all flour-o-ry, like homemade ones, and, honestly, Heloise, you can't tell these biscuits — in looks or taste — from the ones your grandmother made.

(I may be exaggerating slightly, but seriously, they really are mouth-watering.)

It's the flour that makes the difference, I think.

Your family will think you got up before dawn to put these homemade biscuits on the breakfast table and you'll probably get seeds of hugs and compliments.

And... if you don't tell them your secret, I won't... — C.C.

Oh-h-h-h! You're sneaky, but it's a deal! — Heloise

LETTER OF THOUGHT

Dear Heloise:

I've had many troubles in my life and most of them never even happened... — Fran Pearson

Dear Heloise:

I believe in keeping my sewing machine well oiled and running smoothly, but I grew weary of taking out the chart which shows all of the tiny points to be oiled.

Today, I grabbed a bottle of red nail polish and, with a dab of the polish, I drew a circle around each spot to be oiled. (Of course, be careful and avoid getting the polish into the mechanism of the machine itself.)

No more chart and the oiling job is done quickly! — Mary Anne

LETTER OF LOVE

Dear Heloise and Daughter:

Your column is like a surprise gift, each time I open our daily newspaper — love, laughter, thought, warnings, tips, etc. It has given me so much help through the years.

Nice to know there are still people who like to share, as your column reflects. So at Christmastime I feel I should thank you for the 365 gifts this year! And may each day this next year bring a ray of sunshine into your lives. — A Devoted Reader

HINTS FROM HIM

Dear Heloise:

Here is a hint for "slippery" weather... Cut a pair of old slacks off and fit them over your shoes. This will help to prevent your slipping on the ice. — Guy W. Roush

Dear Heloise:

Was real thrilled over this brainstorm...

I was replacing our old calendars with the new year's and as they had such pretty pictures (one for each month), I cut off the advertising and presto! a "picture book" for the 2-year-olds in our family. One went ape over a boat scene.

These were put together with coil, but could be stapled. Just watch for any sharp edges.

I have been taking so long and never giving so I intend to start the New Year right. This is Number One! — Reader

Your letter was delightful, your hint delectable and I shall look forward with anticipation to Number Two! You're "right" on track in my book. — Heloise

THIS COLUMN is written for you... the homemaker. If you have a hint or a problem write to Heloise, 235 E. 45th St., New York, N.Y. Because of the tremendous volume of mail, Heloise is unable to answer individual letters. She will, however, answer your questions in her column whenever possible.

North fell in love with this hand. He had won five national championships but never had held eight-card trump support for a partner's opening bid.

He cue bid two hearts to tell his partner he had a strong hand with diamond support. Two hearts usually shows first-round control of hearts, but North stretched the point, so in love was he with his eight diamonds.

On his final turn, he leaped to slam without even using Blackwood. A spade lead would have meant instant defeat. But West, not being clairvoyant made the normal lead of the king of clubs.

South, also many times a national champion, studied the dummy quickly and recognized that he had just one chance: a bluff.

South could see 11 top tricks: eight diamonds, two hearts and a club. There was only one possibility for a 12th trick. It risked going down three tricks instead of one, but the slam bonus made it worthwhile.

Declarer immediately played dummy's jack of hearts. East innocently played low. South played his seven and the jack won the trick!

Now the slam was a cakewalk. South wanted to stand up and cheer. He had pulled a rare and fine swindle. But, being an expert, he reined in his emotions long enough to complain.

"You bid that hand like a lunatic," he told North.

"You made it, didn't you?" quipped North.

East and West were also made and they got into the act.

"Why didn't you cover the jack of hearts?" carped West.

"Why didn't you lead a spade?" shot back East.

No one was happy, except South.

Mobile Medical Tests Help Patients

By DALE SINGER
ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Robin D. Rood is bridging the gap between doctors who don't make house calls and patients who cannot get to a doctor's office.
Rood operates a mobile van equipped to make routine medical tests at the request of doctors. The X-rays and other findings are later analyzed by the physicians who ordered them.
"We can bring the service directly to persons in nursing homes or other people who can't get out," he said. "No one in this area is providing this type of mobile service."

Nursing home operators are pleased.
"To have the portable services available has been a tremendous assistance to our nursing unit and a genuine savings to the patient, too," said Norman Hunter, executive director of one home.
Without the mobile service, a patient needing an X-ray would have to be transferred by ambulance. Hunter estimated such a round trip would cost $100. Del Sefton, administrator of another home, praised Rood's firm for its wide range of services, its prompt response to calls and the training and courtesy of its employees in dealing with the elderly.

"The elderly move slowly and it's a different ball game when you're talking about an X-ray with an older person as opposed to with a teen-ager or a middle-aged adult. This way the patients don't have to be uprooted."
"That's a traumatic experience for an elderly person, to be uprooted in the middle of the night or in bad weather and to be taken back and forth all the time."
"It hasn't cost the patients and their families as much as it did under the old services we were using."
Rood said he wants to keep the cost of medical care down.
"We can go and do an X-ray film for

1/2 oz. jar apple jelly
2 tbsp. red wine vinegar
Grated rind of 1 lemon
1/4 cup lemon juice
1 tsp. ground ginger
Cover the ribs with water in a large sauté pan and bring to a boil; simmer, covered, until tender — about 1 hour. Will the onion in the butter, add the remaining ingredients except the ribs and cook gently, stirring, until the jelly melts. Brush the ribs with the glaze. Broil ribs on rack of broiler pan, about 6 inches from heat source, turning often and brushing with the glaze, until browned — 15 minutes or so. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

1/4 cup finely chopped parsley
In shallow dish, combine shrimp, artichokes, Caesar dressing, and parsley. Cover and marinate in refrigerator, turning occasionally, 4 hours or overnight. To serve, skewer shrimp and artichokes on wooden picks. Makes about 20 appetizers.

7 And I heard the angel of the altar say, "Yes, Lord God Almighty, Your punishments are just and true."
8 Then the fourth angel poured out his flask upon the sun, causing it to scorch all men with its fire.
9 Everyone was burned by this blast of heat, and they cursed the name of God who sent the plagues—they did not change their mind and attitude to give Him glory.
10 Then the fifth angel poured out his flask upon the throne of the Creature from the sea, and his kingdom was plunged into darkness. And his subjects gnawed their tongues in anguish.
11 And cursed the God of heaven for their pains and sores, but they refused to repent of all their evil deeds.
12 The sixth angel poured out his flask upon the great River Euphrates and it dried up so that the kings from the east could march their armies westward without hindrance.
13 And I saw three evil spirits disguised as frogs leap from the mouth of the Dragon, the Creature, and his False Prophet.
14 These miracle-working demons conferred with all the rulers of the world to gather them for battle against the Lord on that great coming Judgment Day of God Almighty.
15 "Take note: I will come as unexpectedly as a thief! Blessed are all who are awaiting Me, who keep their robes in readiness and will not need to walk naked and ashamed."
16 And they gathered all the armies of the world near a place called, in Hebrew, Armageddon—the Mountain of Megiddo.
17 Then the seventh angel poured out his flask into the air; and a mighty shout came from the throne of the temple in heaven, saying, "It is finished!"
18 Then the thunder crashed and rolled, and lightning flashed; and there was a great earthquake of a magnitude unprecedented in human history.
19 The great city of "Babylon" split into three sections, and cities around the world fell in heaps of rubble; and so all of "Babylon's" sins were remembered in God's thoughts, and she was punished to the last drop of anger in the cup of the wine of the fierceness of His wrath.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 59-year-old grandfather who needs an answer. I'm sure other grandpas have been faced with the problem and all of us could profit from your solution.
Recently I took my three-and-a-half-year-old granddaughter for the day. Suddenly she announced, "I have to go potty."

Question: Should I take her to the ladies' restroom where I do not belong? Or to the men's room where SHE does not belong and where she might see things that could be upsetting?
I opted for the women's room and was very lucky. There wasn't anyone in there. I did get an awfully funny look, however, from a woman who was coming in just as we were leaving.

For the next time, what's the best solution? — Mr. Dunno Yet

Dear Mr. D.: Don't press your luck, friend. Next time take your granddaughter to the men's room. I doubt that she will be traumatized by anything she sees there — especially if she has a little brother.

Dear Ann Landers: Hope you can stand another letter about in-laws who speak their native tongue. The subject really hit home.
My husband and his parents have been in this country for 21 years. He can think, write and even dream in English. His parents are not nearly so fluent. You are correct about them speaking in their native language because it is easier, but they are totally insensitive as to how rude their behavior is to me. For example, we will be conversing in English, then all of a sudden they start yammering in Greek and the non-verbal message is clear. "You are an outsider and no longer a part of the conversation."

So, I try to absent myself and find something else to do — like read a magazine or book, do some mending, or phone a friend.
I keep telling myself I should admire and respect them for coming to a foreign country to make a new life, and I ask myself, could I have done so well? But still it hurts. Any suggestions? — Left Out Liz

Dear Liz: If misery loves company, you've got it, dear. I received hundreds of letters from Lizzies who are being "left out" all over the North American continent.
My advice is to enlist your husband's help. Tell him how you feel and let him know how much you would appreciate it if he would switch the conversation back to English when his parents lapse into their native tongue.

Dear Ann: It's time someone rode herd on the American housewife for looking like a slob when she does her marketing. I refer specifically to those who appear in public with tight fitting T-shirts, no bras and rubberized slacks that show everything.
I once read a very clever comment that says it all: "Sweaters and pants should be tight enough to show you are a female but loose enough to show you are a lady."

Italian Bread Recipe Given

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Food Editor
Here in New York, knowing eaters go to several shops specializing in Italian-style foods to buy Pepper Bread. Recently a friend sent us a homemade loaf of it. Delicious! We caged the recipe for you.

ITALIAN-STYLE PEPPER BREAD
1/2 lb. salt pork
6 cups (about) unbleached flour
2 envelopes dry yeast
2 tbsps.
1 1/2 tps. ground black pepper
1 1/2 cups warm water
Cut the skin away from the salt pork; slice 1/4-inch thick; dice into 1/4-inch pieces. In a heavy 9-inch skillet over moderate heat, cook the salt pork until browned and crisp. With a slotted spoon, remove the pork bits (cracklings) from the fat and set aside. Reserve 3 tablespoons of the fat.
In the large bowl of an electric mixer stir together 3 cups of the flour, the yeast, sugar and pepper. Add 2 tablespoons of the reserved fat and the water. Beat at low speed until blended. Beat at high speed for 3 minutes. With a wooden spoon, stir in the cracklings and enough flour (about 2 cups) to make a smooth dough.

Turn out the dough onto a lightly floured board. Knead in enough flour to make a stiff dough. Place in a greased bowl; turn to grease top. Cover and let rise in a warm (about 80 degrees) place until doubled — about 45 minutes. Punch down dough. Cut into 3 equal pieces. On a lightly floured board roll each piece into a 12-by-10-inch rectangle. Roll up tightly; shape into a circle; overlap ends to fasten.
Place on greased cookie sheets. Brush lightly with remaining 1 tablespoon reserved fat. Cover and let rise as previously until doubled — about 30 minutes. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven until bread sounds hollow when tapped with fingers — about 30 minutes. Cool on wire racks.
Makes 3 round loaves.

Dear L.H.C.: I'm pleased you thought the comment was "very clever." I liked it, too — when I wrote it about 15 years ago.

Even if drinking is the "in" thing in your crowd, it needn't crowd you out. Learn the facts from Ann Landers' booklet, "Booze and You — For Teen-Agers Only." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Four New State Judges Take Bench In Austin

AUSTIN (AP) — Four new judges of the Court of Criminal Appeals took the oath of office Tuesday, and one chided reporters for occasionally saying murderers and rapists are freed on technicalities.

Presiding Judge John Onion administered the oaths in an hour-long ceremony in a packed courtroom, with extra chairs extending across the foyer all the way to the doors of the Texas Supreme Court.

After years of stories on the court's national-record caseload, voters approved a constitutional amendment last November enlarging the court from five to nine members.

The two commissioners already serving on the court — writing opinions but not voting — automatically became judges. They are Tom G. Davis of Vernon and Carl Dally of Houston.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe appointed the other two, Bryan District Judge W. C. Davis and Jim Vollers of Beaumont, for nine years the state's attorney representing the prosecution before the high court.

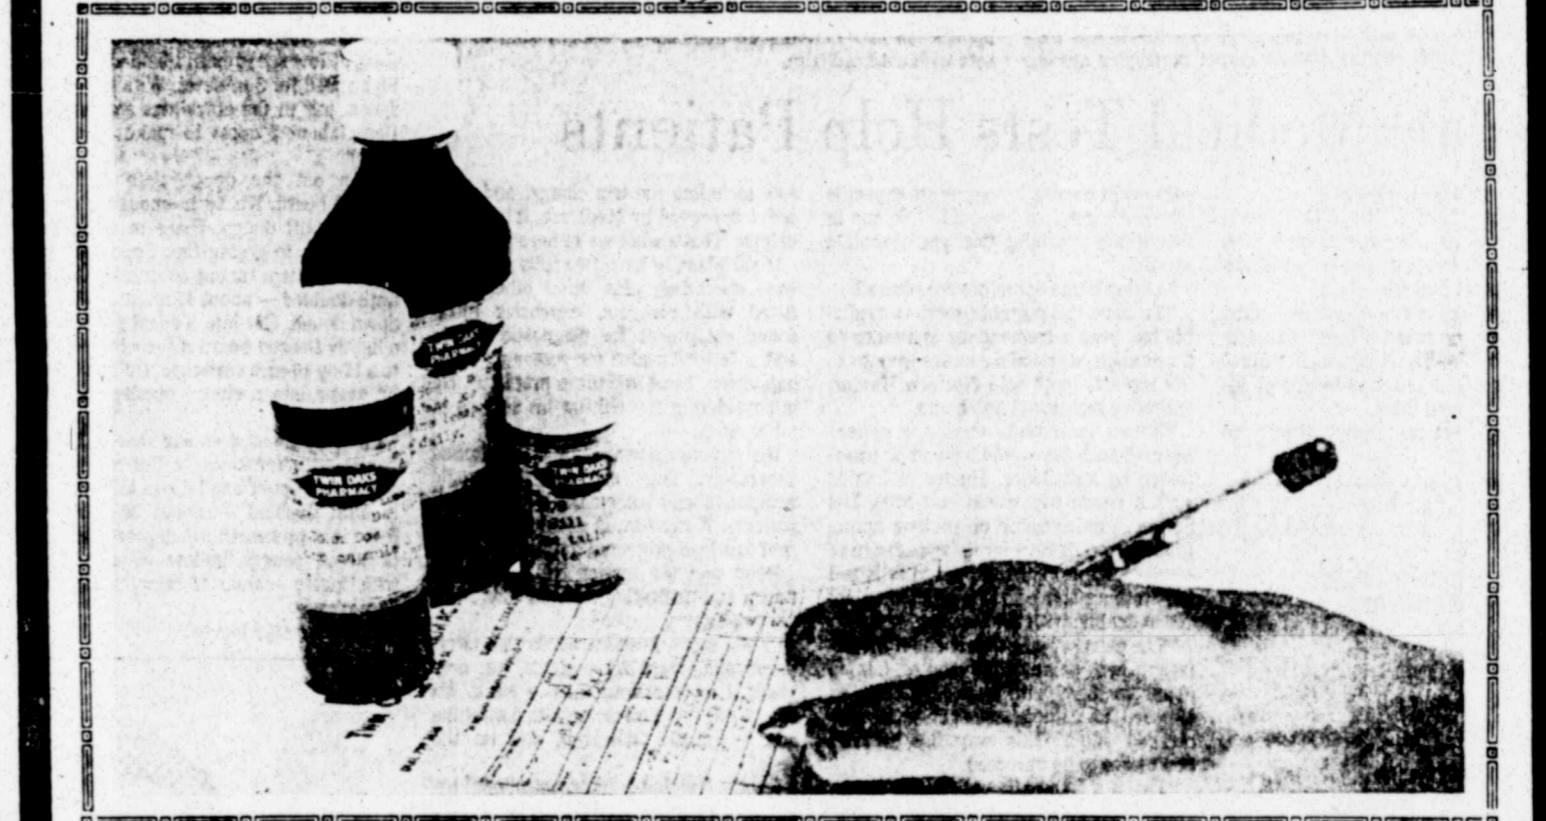

Each judge kissed his wife after taking the oath at the attorneys' podium. Mrs. W. C. Davis and Mrs. Vollers helped their husbands with their new robes.

Dally said the court was not there to "rubber stamp" every conviction. Even persons convicted of heinous crimes have rights, he said, and convictions frequently are reversed not on technicalities but on constitutional principles.

New Location For Medical Program Set

Offices for the Lubbock County Hospital District's medical indigency program have been moved to the Health Sciences Center Hospital, 602 Indiana Ave.
Persons who believe they may qualify for help from the district in paying for such medical expenses as prescriptions and hospitalization may call for an appointment at 743-3542.
Applications will be evaluated by medical indigency counselors according to income guidelines and other criteria adopted by the hospital district.
Until this week, certification of indigents for the district's program had been performed by the Lubbock County Welfare Department in the downtown County Office Building.
That arrangement was terminated Tuesday, with the hospital district itself assuming responsibility for full administration of the medical indigency program.
The hospital district has hired some staff members from the welfare department to ensure continuity in the transition.
The district's medical indigency counseling section is located among administrative offices on the first floor of the county's new Health Sciences Center Hospital.
The county hospital, affiliated with Texas Tech University School of Medicine, will begin admitting patients Feb. 1.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The holiday book shelf, Hollywood section:

Omar Sharif is the latest personality to join the author ranks, collaborating with Marie-Therese Guinard in the slim and modestly titled "The Eternal Male" (Doubleday, $7.95). It's another of those chatty wanderings through movies and romances, more interesting than most because of the actor's Egyptian background.

Sharif is frank about many matters, including his affair with Barbara Streisand during "Funny Girl" (their on-screen kiss threatened to cost him his Egyptian citizenship).

"Barbra Streisand, who struck me as being ugly at first, gradually cast her spell over me. I fell madly in love with her talent and her personality. The feeling was mutual for four months — the time it took to shoot the picture"...

"Life Is a Banquet," proclaimed Auntie Mame, "and most poor s.o.b.'s are starving to death." The famous line has been bowdlerized to "most poor suckers," but the first part remains as the title of Rosalind Russell's posthumous autobiography (with Chris Chase, Random House, $10).

The magnificent Roz lived the philosophy of Mame, her most famous portrayal, yet underneath her devotion to free expression was her strong Catholic upbringing, which influenced her entire life.

"Mine has been a life with a lot of luck in it," she says at the finale. "I've had a good ride." So did her host of friends and admirers...

"This for Remembrance" (Playboy Press, $10) by Rosemary Clooney with Raymond Strait chronicles the triumphs of her singing career and the tragedies of her private life. She tells of the mental crisis caused in 1968 by the walkout of her lover, who was 15 years younger.

"Rosemary, who had always been told she was the strongest, was at the door of total collapse. By July I was in the psychiatric ward of Mt. Sinai Hospital, so unable to cope I was reduced to scrubbing floors as therapy." She writes of the long, hard road back to mental health and career renewal, aided by such friends as Merv Griffin, Dinah Shore and Bing Crosby.

Everything you need to know about Dorothy and her trip down the Yellow Brick Road can be found in "The Making of the Wizard of Oz" (Knopf, $12.95) by Aljean Harmetz. It is a thorough piece of scholarship by a top reporter.

Did you know that some MGM executives wanted to cast Shirley Temple instead of Judy Garland? Or that Ray Bolger didn't want to play the Tin Woodman because "I'm not a tin performer; I'm fluid"? Or that Ed Wynn and W.C. Fields turned down the Wizard role that Frank Morgan finally played? It's all there.

Likewise the entire history of "Gone with the Wind" can be gleaned in "Scarlett Fever" (Collier, $8.95). Drawing from the private collection of Herb Bridges, the book contains a wealth of photographs from all phases of the production.

Not many revelations are possible at this late date, since "Gone with the Wind" has been the most thoroughly researched of movies. It's interesting to note that in 1936 readers could buy the novel's 1,037 pages for $3. It was considered a high price for any book in those times...

Oh, yes — "The One and Only Bing" (Grosset & Dunlap, $5.95) is a tribute to the great crooner's artistry and well-lived life. A production of the Associated Press, it contains a biography by Bob Thomas, filmography by Norm Goldstein, music survey by Mary Campbell, a tribute by Bob Hope, and many, many photographs...

U.S. Employer Hiring Plans Held Optimistic

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite an anticipated seasonal slowdown, hiring confidence among U.S. employers remains positive.

A quarterly survey of 5,000 business firms by Manpower Inc., the world's largest temporary employment service, shows that hiring plans for the first quarter of 1978 are slightly more optimistic than they were a year ago, when an annual hiring pattern that added over 3 million jobs to the U.S. work force was established.

The seasonal drop in hiring is expected because of lower activity in the wholesale-retail fields and the effects of winter.

"Excluding these seasonal factors," said Mitchell S. Fromstein, president of Manpower, "hiring should continue in a positive direction."

One out of every four employers interviewed expects to add employees in the first quarter of 1978, a slight gain from last year, according to the report.

Durable goods, finance, insurance, real estate and public administration are the areas showing the most expected hiring growth in the quarter. The South is the most optimistic region.

Carol Burnett Shrugs Off Show's Low Ratings

LOS ANGELES (AP) — When "The Carol Burnett Show" went on CBS 11 years ago, its competition was "I Spy" and "The Big Valley." Two shows that long ago lapsed into syndication.

Burnett is still there with her mop, scrub pail, company of zanies and bottomless bag of tricks. No comedy-variety series has lasted as long, nor earned as much acclaim.

Trouble developed this season — rating trouble, which is the worst kind. The Burnett Show sank to a perilous 58th among all network shows in 1977-78 season ratings through November. Obviously something had to be done.

The CBS program minds shifted the show from Saturday night to Sunday, where it joins the comedy bloc including "All in the Family," and "Alice." In her sumptuous suite at CBS Television City, Burnett seemed little disturbed by the turn of events.

"Look, it's their (CBS's) store," she observed. "They could just as easily have cancelled us as move us to another night. I'm pleased with the way the network has treated us. I have no gripes."

"Am I disappointed in this season's ratings? 'Disappointment' implies high expectations, and that I didn't have. When I heard about 'Love Boat,' I said 'This will be a hit.' I've heard that before the season started they ran tests on 'Love Boat' against detective shows and other kinds of programs, and 'Love Boat' always scored first.

"It's the same with 'Laverne and Shirley' and 'Happy Days.' Grab the young audiences and you get the ratings. You can't fight it. We have a young audience, too. But obviously not as much as 'Love Boat.'"

CBS's faith in "The Carol Burnett Show" is demonstrated by the show's new offices.

"Do you like the decor?" she asked. "I call it 'early Ross Hunter.' Recently we had Rock Hudson on the show, and I told him that all we needed was for Doris Day to come through the door."

Carol can use the comfortable surroundings at her office, since she spends so much time there. The show operates on a five-day schedule, and that's the main reason for the dropout of Dick Van Dyke.

"For those of us who live here, the schedule is ideal," she explained. "Although we work five days, it's not a 9 to 5 day, so we have plenty of time off."

"But for someone who lives out of town, like Dick, he is stuck here. The situation became acute for him when his family moved from Coronado back to Arizona. That meant Dick finished the show Friday night, caught the plane to Arizona Saturday morning then had to fly back here Sunday night."

Food Price Up 11.7 Percent In 1977

By The Associated Press

Increases in the prices of breakfast foods — eggs, frozen orange juice and sugar — contributed to higher grocery bills at the start of 1978, according to the Associated Press market basket survey.

But the monthly analysis also indicated that coffee drinkers got a break as the retail price of the beverage held or declined. The survey showed that the prices of 14 commonly purchased food and non-food items rose an average of 2.3 percent in December. That brought the year's increase to 11.7 percent. The average overall increase a year earlier was 3.5 percent.

Random List Followed

The figures are based on an AP survey that began March 1, 1973. The news service drew up a random list of 15 commonly purchased grocery items and checked the price at one supermarket in each of 13 cities. The list has been rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month. One item, chocolate chip cookies, had to be dropped when the manufacturer discontinued the package size used in the survey.

The government had projected a 6 percent rise in food prices in 1977. But a spokesman for the Bureau of Labor statistics indicated that through October — the latest national survey available — the price of food purchased for the home had increased 7 percent. Figures for the year will not be available for several weeks, he said.

Between Jan. 1, 1977, and the start of 1978, the AP market basket bill went up at the checklist stores in all 13 cities. When coffee, which soared in price after the crop-killing freeze in Brazil in 1975 — was removed from the list, the bills in all stores still showed increases. But the year's average increase, without coffee, was 6.7 percent — percentages points lower than the average including the beverage.

December Increase Steep

The annual total was boosted by a relatively steep rise in prices in December, some of them seasonal. The AP survey showed that the market basket bill increased last month in 11 cities and decreased in only two. The average increase was 3 percent, the 2.3 percent compared with a 0.4 percent increase a month earlier.

Coffee was not among the items contributing to the December upswing. Only one city, New York, reported an increase in the price of a pound of coffee, four showed decreases, seven stayed the same and one did not have the required brand.

The cost to consumers has leveled off or dropped since the wholesale price of a pound of roasted coffee peaked in June at $4 and began to decline, said George Boecklin, president of the National Coffee Association. Still, coffee sold for $3.60 a pound in one store Jan. 1, 72 percent higher than the $2.09 price tag a year earlier.

Price Supports Reflected

Rising prices for sugar, eggs and frozen orange juice did contribute to the December rise. Price increases also were reported in five cities for chopped chuck and center-cut pork chops and in six for all-beef franks.

Sugar prices are reflecting government price supports instituted for processors early in November, a spokesman for the U.S. Department of Agriculture said. The consumers' cost for sugar increased in December in 10 checklist stores, held steady in two and dropped in only one. The average price for a 5-pound bag of granulated sugar at the beginning of January was $1.12, compared with $1.05 a month earlier.

Grade A medium eggs, which normally rise in price in winter months, were up in 11 cities and down in one. In the 13th checklist store, only extra-large eggs were available. The average Jan. 1 price was 76 cents a dozen, considerably below the 92.5 cents reported a year earlier but up from the Dec. 1 figure of 68.5 cents per dozen.

Orange Growers Blame Freeze

Florida growers blamed increased demand and lower supply because of a freeze last January for the first in the wholesale and, consequently, retail prices of frozen orange juice concentrate. The wholesale price of one dozen, 6 ounce cans of concentrate — now a record $3.30 — was reflected in juice price rises in eight checklist stores. The price did not change in four cities and dropped in only one. On Jan. 1, the average price for a single, 6 ounce can was just over 48 cents-up about 1.5 cents from a month earlier and some 15 cents higher than a year ago.

Increases in meat prices were, in general, small or balanced by decreases. William Cathcart, an agricultural economist, said this was because "feed prices leveled off this year" and there was "little change in supply, overall."

A look at all the items in the AP survey showed more increases and fewer decreases in price in December than in November. Here are the percentages of items showing increases and decreases:

	Nov.	Dec.
Up	26.9	38.5
Down	15.4	14.3
Unchanged	55.0	44.0
Unavailable	2.7	3.2

No attempt was made to weight the AP survey results according to population density or in terms of what percent of a family's actual grocery outlay each item represents.

The day of the week on which the check was made depending on the month. Standard brands and sizes were used when available. If the requested size and brand was not available on March 1, 1973, a comparable substitute was selected. Items temporarily out of stock on one of the survey dates being compared were not included in the overall total.

The AP did not attempt to compare actual prices from city to city; to say, for example, that eggs cost more in one area than another. The only comparisons were made in terms of percentages of increase or decrease, saying a particular item went up 10 percent in one city and 6 percent in another.

The USDA market basket issued each month is based on a complex set of statistics. It includes 65 retail items of U.S. farm-produced foods in amounts that theoretically could supply a household of 3.2 persons for one year. The department, which draws on information from 1,500 supermarkets in compiling its report, says the figures do not correspond to actual family food spending and are used mainly to illustrate changes in costs.

The items on the AP checklist are chopped chuck, center cut pork chops, frozen orange juice concentrate, coffee, paper towels, butter, Grade A medium white eggs, creamy peanut butter, laundry detergent, fabric softener, tomato sauce, milk, frankfurters and granulated sugar.

The cities checked were Albuquerque, Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Providence, R.I., Salt Lake City and Seattle.

Round Steak Leads Grocery Cost Hike

By SAM SCHAAL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A 20-cent jump on a pound of round steak led an overall 46-cent hike on 16 commonly purchased food items surveyed Tuesday by The Avalanche-Journal.

Tuesday's total of $18.66 is 46 cents higher than last month, and $2.33 higher than this time last year.

Round steak, now at $1.39 per pound, has returned to its January 1977 price tag. Up 20 cents from last month, round steak also showed a 20-cent hike in November.

Also cutting into shoppers' budgets this month is one dozen medium eggs. Priced at 53 cents last month, eggs are now 70 cents. However, eggs hit a high of 95 cents a dozen in February.

Also showing price boosts are bread, green beans, sugar and wieners. A large loaf of white bread held steady at 56 cents for seven months before jumping to 61 cents this month. In June, bread dipped three cents.

Sugar, priced at 97 cents for three months, helped itself to a 6-cent boost. Sugar also was hiked four cents in October.

Priced at $1.39 from October to December, a one-pound package of beef wieners now cost $1.45. Wieners hit a low of 99 cents in April and May before jumping to $1.38 from June to September.

A can of whole green beans has returned to its November tag of 43 cents after dipping to 41 cents last month. Green beans were 39 cents in January of last year and dipped to 34 cents in April. They were boosted to 36 cents in May.

The only item showing a decrease this month is a one-pound head of iceberg lettuce. It dropped from 59 cents to 49 cents. Last month's price, however, showed a 26-cent hike from November. Lettuce has been a highly fluctuating product over the past year.

Items holding the same price during this survey are milk, margarine, bacon, flour, potatoes, fryer chicken, coffee, peanut butter and laundry detergent.

Coffee has held steady at $3.49 a pound since November, when it dropped 10 cents. A year ago, coffee was percolating at $2.39 per pound.

Milk has held at $1.96 a gallon for four consecutive months. It showed a four-cent hike in October.

Margarine, priced at 70 cents for a one-pound stick package, was boosted 6 cents in December. A year ago, it was 54 cents.

Bacon, in a one-pound package, continues to hold down its price from November. Now tagged at $1.59, it was $1.69 in November.

After holding steady for seven months at 77 cents, a five-pound bag of flour was boosted to 79 cents in November. Today, it continues to show that price tag.

A 10-pound bag of potatoes rose 20 cents to $1.09 in November, and jumped again to $1.19 in December. This month, potatoes held steady at $1.19.

For the third month, a one-pound fryer chicken is still 49 cents. Peanut butter, in the 12-ounce jar of the creamy variety, is holding at 86 cents for the second month. It was tagged at 69 cents for 17 consecutive months before leaping to 82 cents in October. In December, it again showed a four-cent hike.

A 49-ounce box of laundry detergent continued to hold at $1.49. In December, it dropped its 10-cent off label of $1.39.

Kennedy, Chinese Leader Confer

TOKYO (AP) — Chinese Foreign Minister Huang Hua met in Peking Tuesday with Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., China's Hsinhua news agency reported.

In a dispatch from Peking, Hsinhua said Huang and Kennedy had "a friendly talk." No details on the meeting were given.

Medicare Costs Raised

WASHINGTON (AP) — Elderly Americans will have to pay 50 cents more a month starting in July for the portion of Medicare that helps pay doctors' bills and other out-of-hospital medical expenses.

The monthly premium for Part B of Medicare will increase to $8.20 from $7.70, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare announced.

Nearly all the 26 million persons who are eligible for free hospital insurance under Part A of Medicare also voluntarily enroll in Part B, with the monthly premium deducted in most cases from their Social Security or Railroad Retirement benefits.

The monthly premium jumped from $7.20 to $7.70 last July. It has climbed steadily from $3 a month when the program began in July 1966.

However, the premium pays only a portion of the full cost of the medical insurance. HEW said that a full premium would be $13.40 a month. The government makes up the difference from general revenues. The increases in the premium are limited to the same percentage that Social Security benefits are raised each year.

The raise in both the benefits in 1977 and in the premium in July works out to 5.9 percent. Social Security recipients 65 or older and some disabled persons automatically are eligible for Part A of Medicare with no premium charged.

HEW also announced that monthly premiums will rise on July 1 to $63 from $54 for 21,000 persons who voluntarily enrolled in Part A. These persons must pay for the coverage like a regular insurance plan because they did not qualify for Social Security or Railroad Retirement.

Notre Dame Grabs No. 1 In Final Poll

Avalanche-Journal News Services
Before the season, Notre Dame was picked by many as the best collegiate football team in the land. Tuesday, the two wire services, and their sportswriter-sportscaster and coaching panels agreed. After the 38-10 victory over previously undefeated Texas, the leader at the end of the regular season, Notre Dame was voted the national championship, its seventh time for such an honor.

United Press International and The Associated Press, agreed. The UPI poll is conducted among college coaches, the AP version selected by sports writers and broadcasters.

The unanimous, but the supporting cast was somewhat different. In both polls, Arkansas, which shellacked Oklahoma 31-6 in the Orange Bowl, was presented with the third spot. Texas, which fell to Notre Dame in the Cotton Bowl, was fourth in the AP poll, fifth behind Penn State in the UPI listing. All five teams finished the season with 11-1 records.

The AP top ten had, behind the top four, Penn State, Kentucky, Oklahoma, Pittsburgh, Michigan and Washington.

UPI's remaining spots went to Oklahoma, Pittsburgh, Michigan, Washington and Nebraska. UPI, following an agreement with the American Football Coaches Association, does not consider teams on NCAA probation, and Kentucky falls in that category. AP considers all teams.

The win in the AP list is the seventh time in the 42-year history of the poll that Notre Dame has finished on top.

In AP, the Irish received 37 1/3 of 64 first-place votes for 1,180 of a possible 1,280 points.

Alabama, No. 3 at the end of the season (behind Texas and OU), polled 19 1/3 first-place votes. Arkansas landed 5 1/3 first-place votes and Texas the remaining two.

In UPI, Notre Dame was named first on 23 votes. Alabama 13, Arkansas two and Texas one.

UPI wound up with its closest ballot for the national championship since 1966 when Notre Dame edged Michigan State by only five points. That year also marked the only other UPI national championship won by the Fighting Irish since the coaches board was originated in 1950.

UPI's second ten saw Florida State (10-2 and 40-17 winner over Texas Tech in the Tangerine Bowl) leading off, followed by Ohio State and Southern California tied for 12th, North Carolina, Stanford, North Texas State and Brigham Young tied for 16th, Arizona State and San Diego State and North Carolina State sharing 19th.

AP's second ten had Ohio State, Nebraska, Southern Cal, Florida State, Stanford, San Diego State, North Carolina, Arizona State, Clemson, and Brigham Young.

Texas A&M fell out of the AP list after its 47-28 loss to Southern Cal in the Bluebonnet Bowl.

In the 1977 preseason AP poll, OU was ranked No. 1, followed by Michigan, Notre Dame, Southern California, Ohio State, Alabama, Pitt, Texas Tech, Texas A&M and Maryland.

Notre Dame Coach Dan Devine gathered a number of his players and coaches in his Dallas hotel room for the AP announcement and a loud cheer went up when Devine raised his hand to signal No. 1.

"I have a combined feeling of being humble and thankful," said Devine, who has compiled a 28-7 record in three seasons as Notre Dame's head coach.

"You know I try to hold my emotions in, but I'm kind of quivering all over right now. I'm just so thankful that my staff and players are the kind of people that they are."

Red Raiders Return Home To Battle Samford

By DON HENRY
Executive Sports Editor

For a month, Texas Tech has had a set lineup, but now, a game before the Southwest Conference season arrives, coach Gerald Myers is not sure.

The Raiders will take on Samford University in Lubbock Coliseum tonight, but Tuesday, Myers admitted, "Honestly, I'm not sure who we'll start."

It is a case of getting in the final experimentation before the Raiders open the league race at Austin Saturday, and Myers is having trouble deciding which combination to use first.

Tech came back from the Classic in Honolulu with one sunburned assistant coach and two more blisters on its record. Going into tonight's 7:30 p.m. contest, the Raiders are 7-3. They dropped a 12-point decision to the nation's No. 2 team (North Carolina) and a 1-point to 18th-ranked Providence. The win was over Rhode Island in overtime.

But, "We're not playing as well now as I'd hoped we would," Myers said. "We're making a lot of mental errors on defense. We'll go along okay for a while, then miss an assignment."

"We need to be rebounding better, too. That's the big thing. We've had trouble rebounding all season."

Tech has opened all 11 games—including the Athletes IVN Action "exhibition" —with a lineup of 6-9 juco transfer Joe Baxter at center, 6-5 Kent Williams and 6-7 Mike Russell at forwards and 6-3 Mike Edwards and 6-0 Tommy Parks at guards.

Despite the unsettled opening unit, Myers feels he will have to go most of the time with these five, plus 6-1 guard Geoff Huston, 6-4 swingman Thad Sanders and 6-8 freshman Ralph Brewster.

Russell is averaging about 20 points a game, but he and Williams have been the only consistent double-figure scorers.

"We played well against Rhode Island (in the first game of the tournament), didn't look good against North Carolina, then could have won the Providence game (being beaten on a jumper from the key with two seconds remaining). But, we weren't shooting well that night."

Samford will come in with a 2-6 record, with one of the losses being by a 106-91 count to Texas A&M in the Birmingham Class Tournament Dec. 17.

The Birmingham team is expected to open with a lineup of 6-2 William Williams, 6-4 Jake McGill, 6-7 Robbin Bumby, 5-11 Ervin Terry and 6-10 Steve Khan.

Bumby leads the team in scoring with a 13.4-point average.

After tonight, the Raiders will play three of their first four conference games on the road. Tech will play Texas in Austin Saturday night then host TCU next Monday, then head for Baylor and Rice for games Jan. 12 and 14, respectively.

Tickets will be on sale for tonight's game, reported ticket manager Carol Baker. The tickets, priced at $3.50 and $4, will be on sale an hour before gametime.

Tickets are available since the Tech students are off campus for the holiday-semester break.

ONCE THEY HAD gotten rid of the elves and giant toadstools and dragons and twirlers hand renditions of the "Close Encounters" theme, there was little left except the tattered remnants of "We're No. 1" banners.

Out there somewhere, Fred Akers and Bo Schembechler and Barry Switzer and Woody Hayes are stumbling around blindly, dazed, mumbling incoherently and wondering from whence came all those dive bombers.

Such people as Steve Sloan and Emory Bellard may have had time to analyze it, the source of those rumbling dump trucks. They might not have been able to locate the license numbers but by now they've recovered enough to realize the entire world wasn't mad at them, personally.

The Christmas-holiday carnage wasn't all on the highways.

'Tis the season to be jolly, they tell us at every turn of the dial or page, but for some, after the bowl season, the question is, "What's to be jolly about?" Maybe not "Bah, humbug," but for sure it isn't all merry.

FOR DAYS—NAY, for years—they'll talk about the Jan. 2, 1978, bowl games, and not so much because they usually play the Big Four on Jan. 1. The outcomes, and the decisiveness of them, will bring on the talk. It was as if Watergate, Teapot Dome and the presidential elections had hit on the same day that Neil Armstrong took his first giant step for mankind.

And the favorites were slugged around made it even more interesting. A one-point upset is worth extra mention, but just multiply that by 18. Or when a national institution like Woody Hayes is manhandled by 29 points.

Now, just about everyone with more wins than losses can point the first finger toward the skies and yell, "We're Number . . ." well you know what number, you hear it so often it's getting rather humdrum.

AND, THE WAY the collegiate game is going, it may be a difficult choice—at least not a clear, unanimous stand-out—in future years to locate a national champion. Basketball and other sports, where a playoff system is permissible, leave little doubt. But, football leaves a bit for everyone.

Penn State can claim as much right as, say Alabama or Notre Dame. It is 11-1, also. Texas, yes. Arkansas, yes. Anyone else?

It's the distribution of physical wealth, for one thing. This principle has been advanced during the seasons when a

Longhorn Comments Riled Notre Dame

DALLAS (AP) — Taunts from Texas fans and players turned Notre Dame's Fighting Irish into an adrenalin-charged team Monday that crushed the previously No. 1-ranked Longhorn team 38-10 in the Cotton Bowl.

"We entered the game with great respect for Texas as a team, but they didn't have a bit for us," said Notre Dame runningback Vagas Ferguson, who scored three touchdowns, and was named the most valuable offensive player.

He added, "They kept downing us all the time in the paper... they didn't think we were in their class... this hurt our pride."

Middlelinebacker Bob Golie, who kept Heisman Trophy winner Earl Campbell from running on his accustomed touchdown jaunts, said, "There wasn't much respect for our team. People kept telling us for two weeks Texas was going to walk all over us."

Golie was the game's outstanding defensive player.

Tight end Ken MacAfee said, "We read what the Texas players had to say in the papers. And we couldn't sleep some nights because Texas fans were running down the halls yelling 'Hook 'Em Horns.'"

MacAfee said the key to the shocking victory was controlling the line of scrimmage, particularly Outland Trophy winner Brad Shearer.

"You can't say enough about the job that (offensive guard) Ernie Hughes did on Shearer," said MacAfee.

Hughes said, "They shot off their mouths a lot in the newspapers. Shearer called me just an average blocker and said he had faced better guards this season. That fired me up."

Hughes said the Notre Dame coaches kept reminding him of Shearer's remarks.

"They reminded me every day."

Texas was certainly complimentary of the Irish after the game which drew a record 76,000 fans for the 42nd annual Classic.

"I've got nothing but praise for them," said Shearer. "They played a super defensive game and took advantage of every mistake we made offensively."

Notre Dame only had to travel 27, 35, 20 and 29 yards for its first four touchdowns.

Notre Dame Coach Dan Devine, asked where he thought the Irish had beaten Texas besides just the scoreboard said, "Just about every place that you can beat them."

The Irish held Campbell to 116 yards rushing which to most players is a good day but just average for the Longhorn All-American.

"He's a great player but we just kept hitting him and hitting him," said Irish defensive end Ross Browner. "We didn't arm tackle him. I think we got his respect."

"Notre Dame is good... real good," said Campbell after the game.

Landry Says Mental Pressure Factor

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Cowboy Coach Tom Landry said Tuesday he didn't believe the Super Bowl hoopla would rattle the Denver Broncos "because they play so much on emotion I don't know of anything that can affect them."

"I think the mental pressure is something of a factor because it does change your routine," said the dean of the National Football League coaches. "You use the same routine for 22 weeks in a row then things are so drastically different with the interviews and travel a week ahead of the game."

"You just hope you peak at the right time. We'll start to work Thursday and go through Saturday then take Sunday off and fly to New Orleans Monday."

The Cowboys love New Orleans—site of Super Bowl XII Jan. 15.

"There's no thrill like winning your first Super Bowl," said Landry. "That 1971 team was our greatest. We were so confident. It's one of the few times that I went into a game knowing we were going to win."

The Cowboys whipped Miami 24-3 in Tulane Stadium.

"This team probably has more athletes on it but they are not as seasoned as the '71 team," said Landry.

Dallas' victory in 1971 was the last time a National Conference team has prevailed over its American Conference rivals in the Super Bowl.

Asked if he felt the NFC was inferior to the AFC, Landry replied, "I don't feel inferior. You've got to give them (the AFC) credit. They have some great teams. Of course, we sent most of them (former NFL teams before the merger with the old American Football League) over there."

The inevitable question about Craig Morton playing against his old team popped up and Landry said, "Craig was with our team so long he knows where to work against us. Of course, that works both ways."

Landry said the Cowboys were in good physical condition except for specialty team captain and tight end Jay Saldi and rookie runningback Tony Dorsett.

UA Win No Upset To Holtz

MIAMI (AP) — "I don't consider this a major upset," Coach Lou Holtz said Tuesday describing sixth-ranked Arkansas' surprising 31-6 drubbing of No. 2-ranked Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl.

Holtz was so confident of Arkansas' abilities that he even had a fourth-quarter prevention defense in his game plan and let his players crack pre-game jokes in the dressing room when NBC-TV pushed the kickoff back 30 minutes.

"I've always heard that you can evaluate a coach's personality by his play-calling and one coach told me I'm crazy," Holtz quipped.

Maybe Holtz isn't crazy but there were some who considered him slightly off-center when he insisted all along that his Razorbacks wouldn't be overwhelmed by Oklahoma's No. 1-ranked rushing offense or the Sooners' All-American-filled defense.

Even his mother wasn't exactly brimming with confidence.

"She came all the way down here for the game but she couldn't watch it in person and I don't think she could watch it on TV, either. I sure appreciate the vote of confidence," Holtz deadpanned.

Arkansas had to withstand the loss of four offensive stars — All-American guard Leotis Harris was sidelined with a knee injury and Holtz suspended three others for a dormitory incident — but the Razorbacks' first-year coach never wavered in his belief that mighty Oklahoma could be had.

"It was a real confidence-builder when we started working on a fourth-quarter prevention defense where they'd have to score three times to win it," Holtz said. And, as it turned out, it was 24-0 after three periods.

And when the kickoff was delayed, Holtz didn't let his team worry about it.

"We told jokes," he said, "and I'll tell you some of 'em were bad jokes. My limited repertoire wasn't helped at all. It was just something to do to pass the time."

UA Win No Upset To Holtz

What Arkansas did on the field was an embarrassment to the Sooners, who envisioned a shot at college football's national championship after No. 1-ranked Texas was kayoed by Notre Dame in the Cotton Bowl.

"There's no question it was the most thorough and disappointing defeat we've had in my five years as head coach," said Barry Switzer. "The way we lost is what bothers me more than the defeat itself. No team should do that to us."

"Our offense and defense complemented each other perfectly — they both struggled. Both phases of the game did poorly and no Oklahoma team I've had has ever played that poor on defense."

The ground-gobbling Sooners were out-rushed 317-239 and Arkansas sophomore Roland Sales almost outgained them himself with an Orange Bowl record 205 yards and two touchdowns.

"I felt two things were really important going in," Holtz said. "First, being able to overcome all the controversy surrounding this team. I felt compassion for the players who came down here because all they could read about was what had happened to the team. I tried to bury that situation."

"Second was whether the players believed they could win. I felt we could win. There was no doubt in my mind and I never said one word about being the underdog. I wanted the people around the country to respect us. I felt that going 10-1 and coming to a bowl, we should deserve a little more respect than we had."

Injury Knocks Campbell Out Of Senior Bowl

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—Heisman Trophy winner Earl Campbell of Texas won't be playing in the Senior Bowl or any other post-season football game due to an ankle injury, a spokesman for the Senior Bowl said Tuesday.

Rea Schuessler, general manager of the game between senior grid stars, said Campbell telephoned him and said an injury to his instep in the Cotton Bowl game will keep him from playing in the Senior Bowl and all other post-season games.

The Senior Bowl, which kicks off here Jan. 7, had announced earlier that Campbell was on its roster of invitees. Officials of the Hula Bowl in Honolulu, which also kicks off Jan. 7, countered by saying Campbell had committed himself to the Hula Bowl.

The reported injury presumably leaves that argument moot.

Schuessler said Campbell will be replaced on the South roster by Larry Collins, a speedster from Texas A&I who scored more than 60 touchdowns in his career.

The Senior Bowl earlier announced that tight end Reese McCall of Auburn will replace Kentucky star Derrick Ramsey on the South squad and defensive lineman Barry Bennett of Concordia College in Minnesota will replace Larry Bethea of Michigan State on the North roster.

All others slated to play in the game joined the Senior Bowl camp or were on their way Tuesday, Schuessler said.

Dorsett Nabs Top Offensive Rookie Title

NEW YORK (AP) — Tony Dorsett of the Dallas Cowboys, the Heisman Trophy winner who sprinted his way into a select group of 1,000-yard gainers, was named Tuesday The Associated Press Offensive Rookie of the Year in the National Football League.

Dorsett, only the eighth NFL player ever to gain 1,000 yards as a rookie, was an overwhelming choice. He received 79 of the 84 votes cast by a nationwide panel of 84 sports writers and broadcasters, three from each NFL franchise city.

Wesley Walker, the New York Jets' wide receiver, got three votes. Los Angeles wide receiver Billy Waddy and Chicago offensive tackle Ted Albrecht received one vote apiece.

Dorsett was the hottest item in the nation as a collegian at the University of Pittsburgh, rushing for an all-time NCAA-record 6,082 yards plus 58 touchdowns, and becoming the first collegian to have three 1,500-yard seasons and four 1,000-yard seasons. It was no surprise when the Panthers won the national championship and he won the Heisman Trophy, symbolic of college football's premier player.

In the pros, Dorsett knew what he wanted — or, more precisely, what he didn't want. He didn't want to play in Seattle, he said.

So the Seahawks and Cowboys worked a trade, Dallas getting Seattle's first-round pick (No. 2 behind Tampa Bay, which took runningback Ricky Bell), and the Cowboys giving up their first-round pick.

Coach Frustrated Despite Queens' Mark

PLAINVIEW (Special)—Ten games, ten wins, and still, Wayland Baptist College's Dean Weese feels the Queens aren't playing well.

"It bothers me," said Weese recently, after the Queens won their tenth game and stepped to the top of the national women's basketball ratings. "If we're going to be No. 1, we should look like it, and it's frustrating to me when we don't look the part."

Weese feels he's speaking for the team, too, when he adds, "I think they're just like me. They're more concerned about playing well than winning and being No. 1. Right now, we've got to be more consistent."

The WBC coach should understand consistency. He has won 610 games, as a high school and college coach, and he has averaged more than 30 wins a year in his 20 seasons. His teams have lost only 97 times.

"I think we're fortunate to be 10-0 with the schedule we've played," said Weese, noting road victories over Kansas State, Kansas and Texas, as well as wins over Louisiana Tech, national juco champ Panola and Stephen F. Austin.

The wins helped lift the Queens to the top spot nationally. As to how the rating has affected the team, Weese remarked, "It's something that works differently on each individual. Some use it as a motivating force, and others may tend to take it for granted that we should be there."

"I don't think there's any pressure (from the Queens' winning tradition). I would like for us to have more pride in our ratings and tradition and let it be a motivating force for us."

Despite the record, Weese feels the team has been inconsistent in its play.

"We're hitting 51 percent from the field, which is very good. We're not scoring quite as many points as last year, but (this year) we don't have anyone weak on our schedule."

"I think we're better defensively. We haven't pressed that much so far, but we're getting it together."

Weese feels the team has gotten steady performances from 6-1 all-American senior Marie Kocurek, 5-11 junior Valeria Goodwin and 5-10 sophomore Kathy Harston.

The team is in the midst of a holiday break which Weese feels can be helpful, physically and mentally.

"With people like Mississippi College (here Saturday), North Carolina State (at Raleigh Jan. 12) Delta State (Cleveland, Miss., Jan. 21) and the Old Dominion Tournament (Jan. 13-14) coming up, we should come back excited about our schedule."

The crowds here haven't motivated the team as the coach had hoped. "I've been disappointed that our crowds haven't been as good as they should be. There were probably 2,500 at the Kansas State game and maybe 3,000 at Kansas University and probably that many at the Texas game (all on the road)."

"I think it will come along as Plainview becomes more girls-basketball oriented. We get great student-body support. It's just a matter of getting adults in the stands to make it even better."

As to begin No. 1. "Well, before those three big games (Panola, Stephen F. Austin, Texas), I told the girls if we beat them, I thought we deserved to be No. 1. And, according to the scores, maybe we do deserve to be there."

AP Names Cauthen Athlete Of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Steve Cauthen, who missed his high school senior prom because he was busy making horse racing history, was named Athlete of the Year for 1977 Tuesday by The Associated Press.

The 17-year-old jockey from Walton, Ky., is the first horse racing personality to win in the 47-year history of the award.

"Nothing disturbs him," said Hall of Fame jockey Eddie Arcaro of the young man who kept his cool throughout his red-hot year. "In defeat he doesn't look back."

But Steve Cauthen will look back on 1977, and he will be hard to him to see the defeats that are as much as part of a jockey's life as his tack. Some scenes on which his mind's eye can focus:

—Dec. 10: winning with Gold Seeker Purse on Little Happiness at Aqueduct to become the first jockey to ride winners of $6 million in a single year.

—Nov. 29: riding six winners at Aqueduct. It marked the third time during the year he rode that many winners in a day in New York, an accomplishment matched by no one.

—May 23: suffering a broken wrist and ribs and cuts of the face and hands when Bay Streak broke a leg and fell during the fourth race at Belmont Park.

—June 23: winning with his first ride since his spill on Little Miracle at Belmont Park.

—June 29: riding three winners at Belmont on his first day without an apprentices five-pound weight allowance.

At the end of the year Cauthen had ridden 488 winners and the purses of his mounts totaled $6,151,750. He was the

Lyle Released On Cash Bond

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — Ranking heavyweight boxer Ron Lyle was released on $1,000 cash bond Tuesday after being advised that he would be charged with second-degree murder in the New Year's Eve shooting death of his former trainer.

Lyle, who was led into court in handcuffs, must post a $10,000 property bond by Thursday to remain free. No date was set for arraignment and pleading.

Lyle, 35, is ranked among the top five heavyweights in the world. He appeared somber as he stood before Judge James Zimmerman, simply nodding his head in response to Zimmerman's questions.

Lyle could be sentenced to life in the Colorado State Penitentiary if he is convicted of second-degree murder. He has been there before. Lyle began boxing at the prison in the 1960s when he was serving a sentence for a 1960 shooting death.

He was paroled and pardoned in 1969, and has since put together a 35-5-1 record as a professional boxer.

Lyle is charged in connection with the slaying of Vernon M. Clark, who was shot once in the head during a New Year's Eve gathering at Lyle's home in the Denver suburb of Lakewood. Clark had been Lyle's trainer until last March.

Lyle was led into court wearing a green denim county jail uniform. Defense attorney Walter Gerash objected to the handcuffing of Lyle in court, and the handcuffs were removed while he was advised of his rights.

Gerash had indicated before Tuesday's hearing that Lyle would plead innocent and will argue that self-defense was involved in the shooting of Clark.

Lyle had been arrested by Lakewood police for investigation of first-degree murder. Chief Deputy District Attorney Dan Fahney said the district attorney's office had decided to file the second-degree murder charge "because of the lack of premeditation in the shooting."

9th Grade Tourney Scheduled Today

The City Ninth Grade Basketball Tournament will begin its four-day run today at 3 p.m. at the Lubbock High Gym.

All nine Lubbock junior highs will be represented with boys and girls teams. Championship games for each division will be played Saturday night.

Troubled Celtics Fire Heinsohn

BOSTON (AP)—Tom Heinsohn, the winningest active coach in the National Basketball Association, was fired Tuesday by the troubled Boston Celtics, and Tom Sanders was installed with orders to communicate with the players.

"Familiarity breeds contempt. The players have been around Tommy for too long," Celtics President and General Manager Red Auerbach said after axing his excitable former star forward and giving the job to Heinsohn's soft-spoken assistant.

With the team off to its worst start, 11-23, Auerbach said the Celtics "have got to have new blood. I felt the present situation could not be turned around."

At a news conference with Sanders, Auerbach conceded that players' gripes about Heinsohn "did have something to do with" the firing.

"That," Auerbach said, "coupled with getting the hell knocked out of us."

Sanders, a former Celtics forward, was hired as Heinsohn got the news at a morning team practice in Lexington.

"I procrastinated," Auerbach said. "I didn't have the guts to do it."

Sanders, a former teammate of Heinsohn and a former player under the fired coach, vowed to seek suggestions from his players to eliminate what was termed the team's defeatist complex.

"I'm interested in getting all I can get out of the talent," Sanders said. "There aren't any communications gaps when you are winning, and we're not that far away. The personnel is there."

Until he rejoined the Celtics last summer, Sanders was a losing basketball coach at Harvard University after his retirement in 1973.

A week after Auerbach made a major trade with Los Angeles—star guard Charlie Scott to the Lakers for suspended forward Kermit Washington and former Celtics guard Don Chaney—the general manager fired Heinsohn in "the most traumatic experience in my 32 years in the NBA."

"After many, many weeks of trying to turn this situation around, it was my decision to relieve Tommy of his coaching duties," Auerbach said, claiming team owner Irving H. Levin was not the hatchet man.

Last month, Levin offered Heinsohn's job to Auerbach, who turned it down.

"Change was mandatory for the good of the Celtics," Auerbach said. "We have not given up on this season..."

Heinsohn was the first Celtics' coach fired in nearly 30 years — since John

"Honey" Russell was released at the end of the 1947-48 season.

Heinsohn will not stay with the Celtics in any capacity and may turn to the insurance business or broadcasting. He said he will consider another NBA coaching job if it's offered.

"I think this was in the works since the West Coast trip last month," Heinsohn said of the firing. "We had a whole bunch of new players. Our biggest problem was that we never got all our new people together so that we could teach them what we wanted."

The Celtics were winless on their West Coast swing.

"The virus of losing took effect and that was it," he said from his Natick, Mass., home. "But I've given my 100 percent best."

Heinsohn, who entered the season with a 416-240 record in nine years, was only the fifth Celtics' coach in the team's 31-year history.

He won NBA titles in 1974 and 1976 and had five NBA Atlantic Division championships.

Aside from Auerbach, who had a 938-479 coaching record, Heinsohn won more NBA games than any other coach.

His tough-guy demeanor, however, upset some players and Auerbach had to intercede with Levin last year to get Heinsohn a new two-year contract.

Top Netters Vie In 'Masters'

NEW YORK (AP) — Eight tennis players will gather at Madison Square Garden today to hash over once again the year-old question: Who's No. 1 among the men?

It's not likely anyone will be satisfied that the victor here is king, but for the first time since the U.S. Open at Forest Hills last summer, the three main contenders — Jimmy Connors, Bjorn Borg and Guillermo Vilas — will play in the same event, on the same surface (the synthetic Supreme Court) and with roughly the same amount of rest (a few weeks each).

The event is the Grand Prix Masters, a round-robin tournament that is the culmination of the 1977 international series. The participants are the top eight points-earners in the Grand Prix international series standings and that's why the distribution in the draw might seem a little peculiar.

Filling out the draw are No. 2 Brian Gottfried, No. 4 Manuel Orantes, No. 5 Eddie Dibbs, No. 6 Roscoe Tanner and No. 7 Raul Ramirez.

Vilas, the Argentine clay-court specialist who downed Connors in the final of the U.S. Open, is seeded first, the top man in the standings. A rematch with Connors is set for Thursday night.

Vilas played nearly all the Grand Prix tournaments, earning the $300,000 bonus for the most points earned.

He has to play here in order to collect the bonus, though, and he and his coach, Ion Tiriac, aren't pleased. Vilas, fit but tired, would have preferred to end 1977 back in December where it belonged. Colgate, sponsoring the Masters for the first time, moved the Masters from December to January in order to get it on national television.

Borg, who beat Connors in the Wimbleton final in perhaps the most dramatic singles match of the year, is seeded third. They won't meet in the regular matches here because they are not in the same group, but there could be a rematch in the semis or finals.

After a summer of World Team Tennis and shoulder pain that forced him to retire from the U.S. Open, Borg has won six consecutive tournaments and 31 matches. He hasn't met Vilas in six months but has won six of their last seven meetings and is 11-4 lifetime against the Argentine.

Connors, having lost the two big titles last year, could use a victory here to restore confidence in his right to vie for the throne. He is seeded eighth after playing a shorter 1977 schedule than the other top players.

Today's pairings have Gottfried against Tanner and Dibbs vs. Connors in the afternoon; Borg vs. Ramirez and Vilas vs. Orantes at night.

COMPLETE STOCK MARKET INDEX

Dollar Link Drops Mart

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market suffered a sharp setback in the opening session of 1978 Tuesday as the dollar took a pounding in foreign-exchange markets.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 13.43 to 817.74, posting its biggest loss since it dropped 14.12 points on Dec. 6.

Declines outnumbered advances by a 5-2 margin on the New York Stock Exchange, with more than 1,000 issues losing ground, and the NYSE's composite index dropped .68 to 51.26.

Volume on the Big Board slowed to 17.72 million shares from 23.56 million in the previous session.

The dollar fell sharply during the day against several leading European currencies, resuming its slide of the latter stages of 1977. Foreign-exchange trading was described as hectic.

The price of gold, often considered a measure of international uncertainty, meanwhile rose sharply.

New York (AP) — Tuesday's national prices for New York Stock Exchange issues as of NYSE close. Prices and volume consolidated for securities also traded on other markets.
