And, perhaps the most important lesson of all, school desegregation by busing can have many advantages for children, Dietz and his wife Kathy said. To that, their son Joe, now a seventh-grader at Lubbock's Evans Junior High School, can testify.

But as violent and disruptive as those protests were, they would have been much worse had not school authorities, the University of Louisville and other community forces pulled together, Dietz said.

Bails Set For Woman, Two Men

NEW YORK (UPI) — A state judge set bail ranging from $50,000 to $105,000 Sunday for the accused kidnapers of fashion designer Calvin Klein's 11-year-old daughter Marci.

Carter, Sadat Agree To All-Out Effort For Talks Expansion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat ended their summit discussions Sunday, agreeing they will try to expand Middle East peace negotiations and step up the pace of the talks.

Carter and Sadat arrived at the White House by helicopter at 3:38 p.m. CST.
Neither Carter's brief statement nor the White House news release shed any light on the substance of the discussions, which were the longest Carter has had with a foreign leader since he took office.

SUNGLASS WEATHER — Lubbock residents who have had their fill of cloudy, foggy weather during the week, got the chance to enjoy a sunny and mild afternoon Sunday. Protecting his eyes from the glare, but enjoying the warmth, 3-year-old Jonathan Carlen peeks around a bench at Masey Park to grin at the camera.

Poll Shows Close Canal Treaty Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new survey shows that 31 U.S. senators are either opposed to the Panama Canal treaty or are leaning against it, only three shy of the 34 needed to block ratification.

Optimistic In Tone
The statement, which the White House said was approved by the Egyptians, was optimistic in tone, but short on detail.

Balmy Weather Officers Suspended In Injury Incident

SOUTH PLAINS residents who would like to see more of Sunday's mild and sunny weather today, may be in for a disappointment. The National Weather Service says today's mid-50s high should be accompanied by gusty winds, cloudy skies and a 30 percent chance of precipitation.

THREE Lubbock police officers have been relieved of active duty pending investigation of a Saturday episode in Lubbock County Jail that sent a 19-year-old black man to a local hospital with possible internal injuries, the Avalanche-Journal has learned.

Influential Members
Among them are some of the Senate's most influential and senior members. Most of them are Democrats, some of whom chair key committees and key subcommittees and often decide the fate of legislation.

Only Carter Talks
Although the White House said early Sunday afternoon both Carter and Sadat would make statements when they arrived in Washington, only Carter spoke and it was not explained why Sadat had no statement.

A helicopter also arrived for the festivities, much to the delight of the crowd that consisted mainly of children. "I came to see the helicopter," said Thomas Weige, 7.

Foes Mostly Declared
Most treaty foes are believed to have declared themselves already, and Senate observers suggest that most uncommitted members are potential backers of the treaty who are not willing to promise Carter their votes without getting something in return.

DA's Office Notified
Huffman said it would not be appropriate for him to further discuss the case, but Lubbock County Sheriff C.H. "Choc" Blanchard said late Sunday he notified the Criminal District Attorney's office of the incident Saturday night because he thought it was "an uncalled for measure."

Mardi Gras Revelers Calm

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — City officials said Sunday French Quarter revelers participating in the pre-Lenten celebration of Mardi Gras were some of the most nonviolent in recent memory.

Police and volunteer workers said arrests were down sharply this year and for the second year since the violent 1960s, officers on street duty shed their protective helmets.

"I guess the people have been pretty good and staying out of trouble," said Brad Smolkin, a law student volunteer for the Mardi Gras Coalition. "Most of the arrests I saw were municipal charges for sleeping in the bus station — there were hordes of those — and possession of less than an ounce of marijuana."

The coalition staffs a switchboard at Tulane University to offer free legal aid to arrested revelers, provide emergency medical treatment on the street and direct ill-prepared visitors to food and shelter.

"So far we've been getting a lot of calls from people looking for a place to take a shower," Smolkin said. "There's only one place — at the Baptist Rescue Mission on Magazine Street."

On Royal Street, artists set up shop in the middle of the road painting butterflies and geometric designs on faces. In a block surrounding Brennan's Restaurant on Royal and Conti, crowds were entertained by a juggler, guitar and banjo band and two bassoon players.

More than 14 parades rolled through downtown and the suburbs Saturday and Sunday. The biggest was the Krewe of Endymion procession that paraded floats three stories high along Canal Street.

Masked krewe members and guest royalty — including entertainers Doc Severson, Cheryl Ladd and Wayne Newton — threw millions of plastic beads and aluminum doubloons to crowds five people thick along the route.

The Krewe of Bacchus, with king Ed McMahon of the Tonight Show, plotted a parade route through downtown Sunday night that was to end up rolling through the Superdome for a huge after-parade party.

The madness culminates Fat Tuesday when natives and tourists deck themselves in outrageous costumes and masks and pack downtown for parades starting at 8 a.m. It ends at midnight Tuesday when the courts of the Rex and Comus meet at Municipal Auditorium and police and streetsweepers chase the last of celebrants from the gutters.

Administration Taking Half Loaf In Federal Appointments Reform

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration's current difficulties over the appointment of federal prosecutors, typified by the Marston affair, began even before Jimmy Carter took the oath of office.

In the hectic days after the November 1976 election, but before the new administration took over in January 1977, Carter's campaign promise to take politics out of the selection of U.S. attorneys was challenged by Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss.

A year later, the issue of patronage appointments has embroiled the administration in an embarrassing controversy surrounding the ouster of David W. Marston as the U.S. attorney in Philadelphia. Marston, a Republican with a record of winning corruption cases against Democratic politicians, has assailed the administration for replacing him, and has won a host of congressional allies along the way.

Eastland, 73, the long-time chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, which confirms presidential nominees for federal judgeships and prosecutor posts, met with Carter at the Georgia governor's mansion in Atlanta at a time when the president-elect was putting together his Cabinet.

According to one account, Griffin Bell, then a federal appeals court judge, joined the meeting. Eastland reportedly told Carter and Bell that the old way of doing things was adequate and that there was no need for change.

What Eastland was referring to was the time-honored practice of allowing a state's U.S. senators to pick federal prosecutors and judges, at least when the senators were of the same political party as the president.

Eastland and most other senators have been jealous of preserving this important patronage.

This prerogative was being challenged by Carter's pledge, contained in a campaign position paper which declared: "All federal judges and prosecutors should be appointed strictly on the basis of merit, without any consideration of political aspect or influence."

Both Eastland and Carter have recently said they don't recall talking about U.S. prosecutors at that meeting. Eastland says he talked about patronage with Bell while they drove to the mansion to meet Carter.

But Marvin Wall, the Justice Department's chief spokesman, has been quoted as saying that Carter and Eastland talked about the appointment of prosecutors during their meeting in the mansion and that Bell "just sat in" during the discussion.

And Wall says it was Carter himself who agreed to set aside his campaign promise about appointing federal prosecutors strictly on merit.

After Wall's remarks appeared in The Washington Post last week, Wall insisted to other reporters that he didn't know what Carter had agreed to. He declined further comment.

"I'm not going to say any more. The more I say the bigger it gets," Wall remarked.

According to an Eastland aide who declined to be identified, the senator, in his conversation with Bell, "explained the present system and said he thought it was satisfactory."

Asked if either Bell or Carter agreed to these terms, the aide replied, "I don't think there was any need for anyone to say it was agreeable." He added that it might be called "an understanding."

Regardless of who said what to whom, Republican critics say Carter has left the impression with many that his handling of the Marston case shows he has retreated from the position he spelled out as a candidate.

The case led to more serious criticism of the administration when it was disclosed that Rep. Joshua Eilberg, D-Pa., asked Carter to speed Marston's firing at a time when Eilberg was under investigation by Marston's office. Carter has denied he was aware of the investigation when he spoke to Eilberg.

In practice, the administration has concentrated on using merit selection panels to choose federal appeals court judges but has relied largely on the old system in picking prosecutors.

The administration has replaced 66 of the 94 U.S. attorneys in the country, selecting a Republican in only one instance.

Bell signaled the decision to drop Carter's campaign promise when he testified last June before a House judiciary subcommittee that "the decision has been made to leave the U.S. attorney selection in the patronage system ... we have an agreement with the Senate if they take the court of appeals judges out of the patronage system, we would go along on the other."

Michael J. Egan, Bell's aide in charge of patronage, said: "The agreement" to which Judge Bell referred in the testimony ... was an oral exchange between Judge Bell and Sen. Eastland which took place in Atlanta in late December of 1976 or early January of 1977."

Bell told a luncheon at the National Press Club on Jan. 10 that, in effect, the administration is settling now for half a loaf.

He said, "I can't pick out the U.S. attorneys and the President can't pick them out. The senators pick them out. It is true that we have not in one fell swoop done a change in the American system. But I think we have set things in motion that would lead to a drastic change in just a few years."

Or, as a Bell aide put it, "Government is a matter of compromise."

A vote battle developed for place four between incumbent Wesley Gibbs, who is seeking his second term, and former councilman Dave Willis.

On the school board election ballot, also to be marked on April 1, Mrs. Gayle Brothers becomes the second woman here to run for a school trustee position. She filed for a three-year term. Her husband, Don G. Brothers, is a former school board member.

Incumbents Ben Marrs Jr. and Jerry McClendon had not filed for reelection by Friday night.

Air Force Bomber Hit By Vandalism

WARNER ROBINS, Ga. (UPI) — The Air Force said Sunday it was investigating vandalism of a Strategic Air Command B-52 bomber at nearby Robins Air Force Base, which was reportedly armed with Short Range Attack Missiles with nuclear warheads.

The Atlanta Journal-Constitution quoted a source at the base Sunday as saying the bomber was on alert and was carrying the missiles, one of which was tampered with in the incident but not damaged.

The newspaper quoted the source as saying it "looked like somebody beat on (the missile) with a hammer."

It quoted defense experts as saying there was little likelihood that a weapon aboard the plane could be detonated by the kind of external damage reportedly done.

Capt. Tom Mahr, a public information officer at the SAC headquarters at Offutt AFB, Neb., refused to comment on the report that the plane was carrying nuclear weapons.

"As a matter of policy, we neither confirm or deny the presence of nuclear weapons at any specific location," said Mahr.

Mahr said a crew from the 19th Bombardment Wing discovered the vandalism to the B52 during their check of the aircraft Friday morning. "Damage was confined to some crew professional equipment being broken into, several flight publications were scattered in the cockpit and minor damage was done to the aircraft's electrical and hydraulic systems," said Mahr.

The Journal-Constitution source said safety devices were opened on the bomb release mechanisms of the B-52, the plane's battery cables were cut, and one of the missiles "looked like somebody beat on it with a hammer."

Mahr confirmed the B-52 was under guard at the time of the vandalism but declined to say how the vandals might have gained access to it.

He said the incident was under investigation by the Air Force Office of Special Investigations.

Robins base commander, Col. Leslie Candee, said security precautions were tightened immediately after the vandalism was discovered, but refused to confirm or deny that nuclear weapons are stored at the base.

Candee said there were "no indications of an outside threat." He said the incident was analogous to "kid's pranks ... (as) if somebody came and took the spark plugs out of a car."

The SAC unit at Robins is located in an isolated section of the base near a swamp. The newspaper quoted its source as saying each plane has at least one armed security guard "who is supposed to shoot first and ask questions later," and the area is well-lighted and fenced.

The source said there was a heavy fog the night of the incident, however.

Candidates Announce In Paducah

PADUCAH — J.W. Polk, a retired Methodist minister, announced that he will seek the position of Paducah Mayor in the April 1 city election.

In his first political bid, he is opposing local newspaper publisher Jim Caraway for the seat now held by Edward Maxey, appointed in July to fill the unexpired term of resigned Oran Mowrey.

Another contested race is that for place three alderman in which Ireless Brooks is being opposed for reelection by Walter Liedtke, who served as a councilman for a number of terms a few years ago.

A vote battle developed for place four between incumbent Wesley Gibbs, who is seeking his second term, and former councilman Dave Willis.

On the school board election ballot, also to be marked on April 1, Mrs. Gayle Brothers becomes the second woman here to run for a school trustee position. She filed for a three-year term. Her husband, Don G. Brothers, is a former school board member.

Incumbents Ben Marrs Jr. and Jerry McClendon had not filed for reelection by Friday night.

A DAILY MESSAGE FROM The Newspaper Bible.
Matt. 4:3-22, The Living Bible

3 Then Satan tempted Him to get food by changing stones into loaves of bread. "It will prove you are the Son of God," he said.

4 But Jesus told him, "No! For the Scriptures tell us that bread won't feed men's souls: obedience to every word of God is what we need."

5 Then Satan took Him to Jerusalem to the roof of the Temple.

6 "Jump off," he said, "and prove You are the Son of God; for the Scriptures declare, 'God will send His angels to keep you from harm, ... they will prevent you from smashing on the rocks below.'"

7 Jesus retorted, "It also says not to put the Lord God to a foolish test!"

8 Next Satan took Him to the peak of a very high mountain and showed Him the nations of the world and all their glory.

9 "I'll give it all to You," he said, "if You will only kneel and worship me."

10 "Get out of here, Satan," Jesus told him. "The Scriptures say, 'Worship only the Lord-God. Obey only Him.'"

11 Then Satan went away, and angels came and cared for Jesus.

12,13 When Jesus heard that John had been arrested, He left Judea and returned [home-] to Nazareth in Galilee; but soon He moved to Capernaum, beside the Lake of Galilee, close to Zebulun and Naphtali.

14 This fulfilled Isaiah's prophecy:

15 "The land of Zebulun and the land of Naphtali, beside the Lake, and the countryside beyond, the Jordan River, and Upper Galilee where so many foreigners live—

16 There the people who sat in darkness have seen a great Light; they sat in the land of death, and the Light broke through upon them."

17 From then on, Jesus began to preach, "Turn from sin, and turn to God, for the Kingdom of Heaven is near."

18 One day as He was walking along the beach beside the Lake of Galilee, He saw two brothers—Simon, also called Peter, and Andrew—[out in a boat] fishing with a net, for they were commercial fishermen.

19 Jesus called out, "Come along with Me and I will show you how to fish for the souls of men!"

20 And they left their nets at once and went with Him!

21 A little farther up the beach He saw two other brothers, James and John, sitting in a boat with their father Zebedee, mending their nets; and He called to them to come too.

22 At once they stopped their work and, leaving their father behind, went with Him.

Hearing Impaired Teams Compete In Basketball At Special Tournament

GREENFIELD, N.H. (AP) — Outside the gymnasium, it sounded like any basketball game: noise, cheering, even "The Star-Spangled Banner." But for the players, it was different: they and most of the spectators are deaf.

About 130 students and faculty members from New England schools for the deaf came to Crotched Mountain Rehabilitation Center in Greenfield for the three-day tournament ending Saturday night.

On Thursday, the Austine School for the Deaf of Brattleboro, Vt., scored a decisive 112-43 victory against the Governor Baxter State School for the Deaf of Portland, Maine.

But winning took a back seat to communicating, as players from both states offered encouragement and suggestions even as they battled for a slot in the elimination tournament.

The atmosphere at the private, non-profit school at tournament time is "as electric as anywhere else," said center spokesman Bill Roots. He said everyone at Crotched Mountain becomes involved, from severely handicapped students — "who help hang up the signs in the gym and root for the players" — to Center Director Joseph Handy.

By game time, the gymnasium was packed with fans, who came on foot, on crutches and in wheelchairs bearing the names of the occupants' favorite teams. The Austine cheerleaders, who used a mixture of sign language and speech to get their message across, blended their shouts with the roar of the crowd and the stamping of feet.

Referees Steve Cutter and Rick Zecha blew whistles to catch the attention of those players whose hearing is impaired, and waved their arms for those who are deaf.

"These kids know the rules," Cutter said. "They are well-coached, and they certainly know what a foul is. The Brattleboro team compares favorably with any high school I've officiated."

"I'm working a little harder than usual to get their attention, but once somebody catches my eye and stops playing, the others stop right away," he said.

There was no bending of the rules — by either the officials or the players. Fouls were called as rigidly as in any high school contest.

"But I think some of them may be saying a few things behind my back in sign language," Cutter said.

Some of the players have learning or physical disabilities in addition to hearing problems.

"I have one kid with congenital polio and one with minor cerebral palsy on my team," said Crotched Mountain Coach Don Tilton. "Those kids try as hard as they can and they come to every practice. If they're willing to give 110 percent, I'm not going to tell them they can't play."

Most of the teams come into the playoffs after a regular season that includes games against conventional high schools in their areas. The Austine players, who entered the tournament with an 8-4 record, led a southern Vermont high school league for most of the year.

Public Gives Low Ratings In Survey

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans don't think very highly of the business community, the news media and the federal bureaucracy, but many feel the need for government protection, a survey sponsored by U.S. News & World Report shows.

All 25 areas of the public sector identified in the magazine poll, including professionals, labor and education, scored less than 50 percent when respondents were asked about their ability and integrity.

While most persons surveyed opposed excessive government regulation of business and tinkering with the profit motive, 68 percent said government regulation is needed to guarantee safe working conditions.

The survey, released Sunday, also shows that 58 percent of the respondents believe government regulation is the best way to insure safe products. Fifty-four percent say the government should ban the sale of products causing cancer in animals, and 48 percent want a federal consumer protection agency.

The study was conducted by Marketing Concepts Inc., a Washington firm, which compiled 5,900 returns from a scientifically selected sample drawn from a computer list of 65 million households.

Forty-four percent of those questioned said business was doing a good job of "developing new products," and 38 percent credited business with "providing products and services that meet needs."

From there, the rating plunged, with business scoring only 11 percent approval for its handling of shortages and its ability to provide value for money spent.

The business community got the approval of only 9 percent of the respondents for its pollution controls, 8 percent for conserving natural resources, and 7 percent for honesty in advertising.

Responding to questions about individual businesses, 52 percent of the respondents approved of the performance of the airlines industry, while 39 percent liked the performance of banks, 37 percent approved of savings and loan association services, and 35 percent said they were pleased with their telephone companies.

On the ability to get things done, the business finished in sixth place, with a 25 percent approval rate. And on "honesty, dependability and integrity," the business rating fell to 9 percent.

Respondents had more faith in the ability of five other institutions to get things done. Although none had outstanding ratings, the top five were science and technology, with a 38 percent score; the broadcast news media, 35 percent; the medical profession, 29 percent; the print news media, 29 percent, and the Supreme Court, 25 percent.

On the integrity question, science and technology again placed first with 41 percent, followed by the Supreme Court with 33 percent, organized religion with 30 percent, the medical profession with 28 percent, and small business with 27 percent.

Labor leaders registered only a 5 percent approval rating on integrity, barely eclipsing the marks given politicians and the federal bureaucracy on this count.

Congress' Negative Ratings Continue

By LOUIS HARRIS

Congress as a whole receives a poor 63-28 percent negative rating from Americans according to the latest Harris Survey of 1,259 adults nationwide. But when people are asked to rate their own congressmen, they are less severe, giving them a 43-39 percent negative rating. The prevailing wisdom then is that Congress is worse than the sum of its parts.

This phenomenon has not changed much over the past few years. One reason is that familiarity at the congressional level does not breed contempt. Another is that many incumbent congressmen insist they are the exception to the rule when they are running for re-election.

These latest findings about Congress have a special significance. The 43-39 percent negative rating that people give their own representatives and the 42-38 percent negative rating they give the senior senator from their state are not very different from the 49-47 percent negative marks the public accords President Carter.

The implication of these generally unfavorable readings is that in any contest of will between the White House and Congress, neither can be said to have an inbuilt advantage over the other. This is a departure from the usual assumption that the President will almost always have an upper hand over Congress in taking his case to the people simply because he is one well-known individual with high and visible access to the media, while Congress is a collection of 535 individuals who rarely speak with one voice.

Now there are reasons to believe that if Mr. Carter seriously goes to the mat with Congress, and individual congressmen and senators disagree with him, the result could well be a standoff as far as public opinion is concerned.

The overall 63-28 percent negative rating for Congress as a whole is somewhat better than last year's record low of 70-22 percent negative. There was a time back in 1964 and 1965 when Congress as a whole received highly positive ratings. That period saw a honeymoon between President Lyndon Johnson and a Democratic Congress, which passed a spate of Johnson-requested domestic legislation. Since was a 46-46 percent standoff, Congress has always been rated negatively by the public.

On a regional basis, the public is most critical of its own congressmen in the East, where individual representatives receive a 49-35 percent negative rating. In the South, congressmen are given a 43-38 percent negative rating, and in the West, they receive a 44-40 percent negative score. The exception is the Midwest, where individual congressmen receive a positive rating of 46-36 percent.

In the big cities, members of Congress come up with a 46-36 percent negative rating, and in the suburbs, the rating is 43-36 percent negative. But in small towns, individual congressmen receive 41-39 percent positive marks, and in rural areas, 47-41 percent positive marks.

Democrats rate their representatives 43-41 percent negative, Republicans 43-41 percent positive. Independents are negative by 42-38 percent.

Approximately parallel patterns exist when people rate the job being done by their senior U.S. senator.

BEAUTY CONTESTANTS — Twelve contestants will be vying for the Miss Lubbock title in the 1978 Miss Lubbock Pageant at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the Municipal Auditorium. Above are three of the hopefuls, from left, Christie Adams, a telecommunications major at Texas Tech from Uvalde; Cindy Greer, a Texas Tech freshman from Lubbock; and Cindy Ivey, a Lubbock Vocational Nursing student from Haskell. Tickets to the pageant are available at Dunlap's, Hemphill-Wells, Anthony's and at the door. The winner will represent Lubbock in the Miss Texas pageant later this year.

Study Views High Income Families

NEW YORK (AP) — One American family in five now has a yearly income of $25,000 or more, and those 11.1 million families account for more than 40 percent of the nation's buying power, the Conference Board said Sunday.

In 1965 only 9.6 million families were in the top 20 percent of income, and in 1955 there were 8.4 million families in what the Conference Board described as the nation's income elite.

Measured in present-day dollars, it took $19,800 in 1965 to be in the top 20 percent in family income, and $14,900 a decade earlier, the board said.

The Conference Board, a private economic research organization, published the findings in its monthly magazine.

Multiple paychecks account for most of the high family earnings. More than three out of four of the families have at least two persons working, and one of three have three or more family members bringing home a salary.

More than half of these affluent families live in suburbs and 26 percent in cities, the board said. Only three percent of the households are headed by women, and five percent by blacks or other racial minorities.

In the past 10 years, the South has been gaining in family affluence, mostly at the expense of the Northeast.

Today 26 percent of the upper-income families are in the South, compared to 21 percent a decade ago. In the Northeast, the figure has declined from 30 percent then to 26 percent now.

The West had 21 percent of the top-income families 10 years ago and now has 19 percent.

City To Honor Guy Lombardo

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) — South Grove Street in Freeport will be renamed Guy Lombardo Avenue and the Long Creek Marina will be renamed The Guy Lombardo Marina, Hempstead Town's presiding supervisor, Al D'Amato, said Sunday.

"It is most fitting that Guy Lombardo, a man who was so closely associated with the nautical experience, be remembered in this manner," D'Amato said.

The late orchestra leader was a boating enthusiast.

Snow Slide Kills Skier

CHAMONIX, France (AP) — A massive wall of snow swept over a group of five Swiss skiers on Mont Blanc, Sunday morning, killing one of them and injuring three others, police said.

The identity of the dead man was being withheld by police. The three injured skiers were hospitalized at this ski resort town in southeast France, officials said.

The slide was the latest in a series of seasonal avalanches that have struck the entire Alpine region in recent weeks, stranding mountain villagers and vacationing skiers in parts of France, Switzerland, Austria and Italy.

Eleven persons were killed and four others reported missing in Alpine slides Friday.

Nazi Party Wins Right To Parade

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The American Nazi Party has been issued a permit to stage a parade on the city's south side in conjunction with the party's national convention next month, a municipal official says.

Fiddler On The Roof

ROWLAND EVANS & ROBERT NOVAK:

Big Jim's Chances

NOVAK

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—During his first year of elective office, Gov. James R. Thompson of Illinois has passed one test of a viable presidential candidate opposing Jimmy Carter but is in danger of flunking a second test that has long confounded Republican moderates.

There had been doubts how Republican Thompson, who as the U.S. Attorney in Chicago specialized in putting crooked Democratic politicians in federal prison, would get on with a Democratic legislature.

ANDREW TULLY:

In Inns Of Yore

WASHINGTON—Whenever the exigencies of my trade force me to doss down for the night in some elongated, artificial stone motel in a wilderness of turnpikes, I recall with gratitude that there was a time when I enjoyed with the 18th Century English poet, William Shenstone, "the warmest welcome at an inn."

Shenstone scribble his paean on a window of an inn in Henley. I should have done the same on the taped windows of the room I occupied for several wartime weeks in London's Savoy Hotel. Despite air raids, blackouts and shortages of food and drink, my welcome was of the warmest.

It would demean members of the Savoy staff to say they did their best in a city under siege. A better way to put it is to state that they treated their guests as guests.

THE JUGGED hare might have been scrawny and tough, but it was served with grace. More, the waiters in the grill retained their sense of humor. "I suspect, Hyde Park," replied my waiter with a wink when I asked where the chef had obtained the "dove" I was struggling with one bomb-filled night.

There are few Savoy left today. Even in Europe, that bastion of Western citizenship, motels seem to be everywhere. Those ineffable lodging houses, with their plastic everything and their slot-machine message devices, have all but taken over America.

The second oldest profession has become standardized. Waking up in the morning, the traveler finds his surroundings no help in deciding whether he's in Niagara Falls or Naples.

BUT ONE CAN live with one's memories. Sitting on the bed in a computerized hostel outside Richmond, I can find comfort recalling the time I shared a suite at the Crillon with the moody, heroic Ernie Pyle just after the liberation of Paris.

There was no water, but the management was equal to the occasion when I inquired at the desk about the availability of some means of moistening my tooth brush. Shortly, a liveried waiter arrived with two bottles of champagne. "It is more antiseptic," he explained.

I am warmed, also, by the memory of afternoon tea at the Peninsula Hotel in Hong Kong, a gin and tonic at the Raffles in Singapore, the universe's best Martini in Bangkok's Erawan. To eat anything on the menu was a delight at the Russell and Royal Hibernian in Dublin, at the Maurice in Paris, Claridges in London, the Westbury in Brussels.

IN WEST BERLIN, my favorite is the Savoy, a small place on one of the streets off the Kurfurstendamm. It has no restaurant, only a breakfast room and bar. But its rooms are the biggest in Germany, its bed czar-sized, its room service all but instantaneous. The best pate maison in Europe was served at the Grand Hotel in Nancy, where I once was foolish enough to snatch the armband from a huge MP.

George Bernard Shaw remarked that "The great advantage of a hotel is that it's a refuge from home life." He might more gently have said that a hotel should be as different as possible from living at home, in that it should pamper its guests 24 hours a day.

That, of course, is what's lacking in the dreadfully up-to-date caravansaries that rear their ugly heads on today's super-highways. With their sameness and their emphasis on do-it-yourselfism, they are the strongest argument in favor of staying home.

In fact, he has proved adroit at negotiation and compromise—skills that in a presidential campaign would be offered in vivid contrast to President Carter's problems with Congress.

But negotiation and compromise have not reconciled either the Reaganite right or the old guard regulars of the Illinois Republican party.

THOMPSON'S FISCAL conservatism and anti-crime program do not convince conservative Republicans in the legislature.

"Believe me, Thompson's a lot more liberal than he seems to be," says one such legislator, determined to fight Thompson-for-President in 1980.

That suggests a formidable problem of enemies within his home state.

But in a broader sense, Big Jim Thompson confronts the same puzzle faced but never solved by Nelson Rockefeller: how to pacify the Republican right sufficiently to get a crack at wooing Democrats in a presidential election.

So far, at least, Thompson does not share Rockefeller's reputation as a free-spending high priest of big government. "We have had too many unrealistically high expectations about what government can do," Thompson told us.

THAT SOUNDS A lot like Gov. Jerry Brown of California and a little like Jimmy Carter. But unlike both of them, Thompson avoids confrontation with the establishment—especially legislators. Instead, he seeks accommodation.

Chiefly, there has been the grand compromise between Thompson and the Chicago Democratic organization. In return for backing a cut-down version of the late Richard J. Daley's long-frustrated Chicago cross-town expressway, Thompson received Democratic help for his balanced budget.

The contrast between Springfield and Washington is not ignored by Thompson. He criticizes Carter for not using his State of the Union message to offer real compromises on energy that would pass a bill without further ordeal.

BIG JIM IS saying, in effect, that's the way I would do it. Within a few weeks of being elected governor, Thompson on trips to Washington was making friends with congressional Democratic leaders.

He also has been making friends in Springfield, radically changing the climate here following the haughty, fierce-eyed Walker. "I personally like the guy a lot," says one of Thompson's most severe Republican critics.

Easily recognized at 6-foot-6, Thompson practices the non-imperial governorship. One day last week, irritated by a critical editorial in a down-state newspaper, he wandered up to the pressroom for a late afternoon shot of bourbon.

The next day, Thompson spent two hours eating lunch with state government public information officers.

"GOV. WALKER WAS unapproachable; he would never go to a lunch like this," said one official, a Walker patronage employe kept on by Thompson. But such breaking of Illinois' partisan tradition is not universally applauded.

County chairmen complain that non-Republicans get the patronage while their telephone calls go unreturned.

Simultaneously, Reaganites grumble about Thompson's vetoes of pro-lactile and anti-abortion bills and support for the women's equal rights amendment (ERA). Both groups protest that "whiz kids" run the state.

Thompson's response to these Republicans is to stress his tough program establishing "class X" violent crimes legislation and his balanced budget, called "our greatest achievement" in a speech last week to the Evanston Chamber of Commerce.

Thompson declared to them that "every time a government official starts using words like 'bold' or 'imaginative,' the taxpayers reach for their wallets to see if they're still here."

The cheer from the Evanston businessmen foretold future use of that applause line.

That cheer truly points to Thompson's main challenge of overcoming his enemies within. Nelson Rockefeller never was able to convince Republicans that he worried about anybody's wallet.

If Thompson does, grumbling at home about abortion, lactile, ERA and even patronage may be kept under control.

JAY HARRIS:

Pay The Piper...

THOUGHT FOR Today: Too many people are ready to grab the stool when the piano needs moving.

OVERHEARD: If you don't think there's too much violence on television, just ask any pro football quarterback.

IT WILL BE interesting to see what happens when the City and School Tax people rev up that computer and start trying to round up all those auto tax strays.

The "wheel" tax, as it is known, long has been a point of controversy in the state. And although upheld in court, the mere mention of it spurs strong pro and con feelings.

Obviously, there is strong opposition to the levy, otherwise the local tax people, as well as those in most major Texas cities, wouldn't have the trouble with it they do.

This is particularly so in college towns where students often register their cars elsewhere, and claim they are "transients." On the other hand, most cities regard such students as fulltime citizens and note they are allowed to vote in the place of college residence.

BUT, MANY argue they should not have to pay the tax because their cars are bought and registered elsewhere, often by their parents.

The strongest argument for the tax is that, other than the sales tax, it is the fairest and most broad-based levy. Too, those who may not otherwise own taxable property thus contribute to the costs of maintaining the city in which they live.

Those against the tax see it as a "nuisance," which has steadily gone up, maintain that it is impossible to enforce equitably and suggest that the powers that be could easily save that much money in City and School budgets if they so desired. Too, it is argued, other major Texas cities do not press it.

"They would burn the courthouse down if they tried that in one major city I could name," a statewide candidate said here last week. It would be interesting to put the whole thing to a referendum, or to see someone run on a platform of seeking to eliminate it.

SLIDE ROAD Sam Says: The older you get, the longer it takes to reach the door when opportunity knocks.

NOWADAYS, THE fellow who has the hardest time staying in college is the football coach.

ALTHOUGH THE verdict is still out, recent studies indicate a major shift to the right among the younger generation.

In a survey of almost 24,000 high school student leaders, analysts came up with some startling findings on a laundry list of social and political issues.

The annual survey, conducted by Who's Who Among American High School Students, came up with these results: Seventy-seven per cent favor maintaining or boosting the current level of defense spending, as compared to only 8 per cent in 1973.

Sixty-six per cent favor reinstating the death penalty, in contrast to 30 per cent in 1971. And 60 per cent consider themselves members of an organized religion. Eighty-eight per cent say they have never used drugs, 61 per cent never tried hard liquor and 70 per cent never had sexual relations, with moral standards given as the major reason.

The findings fly in the face of other polls which show much different results, at least on the latter questions. It should be noted that the poll was among "leaders," not the rank and file.

THE OFFICE Philosopher says: Experience is knowledge acquired too late.

A QUESTION: How many things did you learn yesterday you never knew before?

THERE'S HARDLY a week which isn't taken up with some special designation. This one is no exception.

For the benefit of just about everyone, Feb. 6-10 is National Pay Your Bills Week. Naturally, it was the American Collector's Assn. which so designated it.

Money lending, if not the world's oldest profession certainly is in second place. Yet, nowhere, at no time, has the profession been taken to the heights it has in the U.S.

According to the Federal Reserve System, at the end of November, outstanding consumer credit was about $253 billion. By contrast, the figure was $186 billion at the end of June 1975. Dun's Review says 1978 will be another banner year, with consumer spending hitting $1.2 trillion, credit purchases representing a healthy chunk of that.

BORROWING, OF course, entails repaying. And consumer debt repayments are approaching 15 per cent of disposable income.

Repaying those loans can be a real burden for some. In fact, bill paying is such a problem that organizations such as Debtors Anonymous to help chronic debtors are springing up.

What are some guidelines to measure personal indebtedness?

The ACA says people are probably too deeply in debt when: They use more than 20 per cent of net income to pay for credit purchases; They have to sort and classify bills and then put off paying the less urgent ones and regularly receive delinquency notices;

They use money saved for such things as taxes and insurance to pay bills; take new loans to pay old ones; They receive bills faster than old ones are paid. What's the answer? Assess the problem, make a list of creditors and what is owed each and when, reduce expenses, cut out non-essentials, set up a definite plan of repayment and stick to it.

Polonius may have told Laertes to "neither a borrower or lender be." But if he lived in the U.S., he might have told his son "a prudent borrower be. And pay your bills, kid. It's to your credit..."

AN EDITORIAL:

Black Day In Coal Strike

VIOLENCE THAT erupted in Alabama and Indiana over the weekend again revealed the ugly side of striking union coal miners who have no respect for other people's rights.

In Alabama, more than 200 riot-equipped state troopers used tear gas and faced gunfire to rescue seven non-strikers from striking miners who had threatened to kill them.

If there is any criticism of the troopers' action, it would be that they should have shown no reluctance to use their own weapons against the union hoodlums who were causing all the trouble.

IN INDIANA, one man was killed after 35 strikers showed up in a caravan of cars to interfere with the rights of a handful of non-strikers who had been supplying coal to nearby homes during the union walkout.

The only good to come out of this tragedy was the fact that the dead man was one of the trouble-making strikers rather than one of the men who were merely going about their business.

Few Votes Cast In Nicaraguan Elections

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Polling stations were nearly deserted, Sunday, as voters boycotted municipal elections outside the capital in a snowballing movement to unseat President Anastasio Somoza.

The country has been in political turmoil since the Jan. 10 murder of opposition newspaper publisher Pedro Joaquin Chamorro and has been virtually paralyzed by a two-week-old, nationwide anti-government business and labor strike.

Armed national guardsmen patrolled the city and pushed aside barricades of rubbish flung up by protesting householders in suburban streets.

Leftist guerrilla activity has left 14 dead since Thursday.

"No one is voting," an opposition member of the election board in the northern village of La Paz Centro said. "It's this way all over the country."

Observers consider that the voter turnout, rather than the results, will indicate what support remains for Somoza, whose family has ruled since 1933.

Armed troops were seen throughout the country, but no disturbances were reported.

"The president expects more guerrilla attacks, but he believes the demonstrations will fade away," said Somoza's spokesman, Norman Wolfson, who owns a New York public relations firm.

Somoza has been the target of many demonstrations in recent days. Housewives in Managua have beaten pots and pans between 9 and 10 p.m. each night since Wednesday, calling for Somoza's ouster.

About 100 residents of the El Paraiso housing project, built by the Roman Catholic Maryknoll order on the outskirts of Leon, were gathered at the entrance to the development Sunday, banging pots and pans, shaking rattles and singing.

Sister Estelle, an American, turned to the crowd and asked in Spanish, "Why are you here?"

People shouted back: "We want Somoza to go."

Three trucks carrying armed guardsmen arrived and the people began singing. "Listen brothers, peace is going to come. Let us join together...."

Fernando Zamora Placio, president of the voting district in the compound, said 33 out of 210 registered voters had voted by 10 a.m. However, another board member said privately that only two persons had voted.

There were similarly conflicting reports in other towns.

Some city walls carried slogans, "People, your blood will not be shed in vain," and "Somoza to the wall."

Three-year terms for mayor, city clerk and treasurer were up throughout the country except for the capital of Managua, which is administered by the federal government.

The only legal opposition group in this nation of 2.5 million persons, the Conservative Party, said 52 of its 132 candidates had withdrawn voluntarily in an anti-Somoza protest.

In Leon, a former stronghold of Somoza's Liberal Nationalist Party, acting mayor Oscar Suñeres said guerrillas attacked a cotton cooperative Saturday night, but were driven off, apparently without casualties, after guardsmen fired about 40 shots.

Broken glass littered the streets of Leon, a city of 100,000 persons, Sunday, after 10 days of anti-government protests.

Wolfson said Somoza believed the strike would end Monday.

Somoza made a similar prediction several days ago, maintaining he had overcome the bid to oust his right-wing regime.

However, spokesmen for business and professional organizations said the strike will continue.

Strike organizers claim that 80 percent of the country's businesses are closed while the government says 80 percent are functioning.

Six Said Injured In Ski Lift Mishap

HUNTER, N.Y. (AP) — At least six persons were hospitalized Sunday after a chairlift accident at Hunter Mountain Ski Resort in the northern Catskills.

State Police said chairs on the resort's 3,800-foot "Z-lift" apparently rolled backwards, tossing a number of skiers to the snow below.

A spokesman for the resort, Paul Pete, said he did not know how many persons were on the lift, capable of carrying 1,000 skiers an hour up a 1,400 foot vertical rise, at the time of the accident.

Three persons were taken to Greene County Memorial Hospital in Catskill. Their injuries ranged from scalp cuts to possible broken bones. Three other persons were reported in fair condition at a Kingston hospital.

DECAPITATED — The statue of Portugal's late dictator Antonio O. Salazar in his home town, Santa Comba Dao, remained without a head Sunday.

Statue's Head Causes Riot In Portugal

SANTA COMBA DAO, Portugal (AP) — About 3,000 rioting men, women and children clashed with national guardsmen Sunday in a protest over the government's removal of a new head for the statue of the late dictator Antonio Salazar, a home town hero.

"Give us the head, the head, the head," the demonstrators demanded as guardsmen charged them.

Others cried: "You are afraid of the head because you don't have a head in your government."

At least 12 protesters and several guardsmen were injured during the 14 hours of disturbances that rocked this wine-producing mountain village of 5,000, witnesses said. Guardsmen fired rubber bullets and tear gas to try to control the rioters.

Salazar died in 1971 at age 81. Nearly four years later a democratic revolution ousted his successor, Marcello Caetano. Salazar stressed law-and-order during his 36 years as prime minister and now is remembered fondly by segments of the population tired of Portugal's 18 months of inflation, strikes and government crises.

His statue was erected in front of the courthouse here in 1961. The head was cut off by revolutionaries in 1974 and since then it has become a symbol for Portuguese rightists.

A village ceremony to top the statue with a 100-pound, $2,500 head was planned for Sunday but the Interior and Justice Ministries in Lisbon banned the ceremony on grounds it could lead to violence. During the night residents broke into a warehouse where the head was being kept and placed it on the statue, defying the government order.

Villagers built bonfires in the streets and mounted an all-night vigil, but the national guardsmen arrived and removed the head.

Churchbells rang to summon the villagers, and later firehouse sirens sounded as new bursts of violence erupted around the community. Villagers threatened to cut rail and road links in and out of the village if the head was not returned by Tuesday.

Armored cars and police reinforcements were sent in to clear the streets of roadblocks placed by the rioters.

Witnesses said hundreds of men, women and children taunted the helmeted police, many armed with rifles and shotguns. The national guard reported that some of its men were hurt in stoning incidents.

Hiking Trio Recovered In Hawaii

HONOLULU (AP) — Former Federal Communications Commissioner Nicholas Johnson, actress Kathleen Nolan and a 14-year-old companion were found safe Sunday after getting lost overnight on a hiking trip in a rugged tropical valley, authorities said.

The three were reached and assisted out of the area by fire department searchers after their smoke signal on a mountain ridge was spotted by a helicopter at mid-morning, a fire department spokesman said.

Miss Nolan, Johnson and Donny Callaway had gone hiking Saturday into Wai-kane Valley, across Oahu Island from Honolulu. When they failed to return by sundown, they were reported missing by John P. Craven, Dean of Marine Programs at the University of Hawaii, police said.

The helicopter searched for the three late Saturday night and returned Sunday morning along with a rescue squad that entered the valley on the ground, the fire department spokesman said.

Study Shows Jurists Lack Research Aids

WASHINGTON (AP) — The typical federal judge has poorer research facilities available to him than a beginning law student — a predicament that can cause delays, errors, retrials and additional expense, an unreleased government study shows.

The study, conducted for the Federal Judicial Center, concludes that if the information deficiency could be cleared up there probably would be no need for many of the 100 or more new federal judgeships about to be created by Congress to relieve overworked courts. The center is an administrative arm of the federal court system.

"If they were operating efficiently, there might be no necessity for any new judges, and certainly not on the appellate level," Raymond Taylor, author of the report, said in an interview.

Taylor's study, a copy of which was obtained by The Associated Press, was submitted to the center last September but was not considered by the center's board until Friday. There was no indication whether the center would forward the report to its parent Judicial Conference of the United States or whether its recommendations would be sent to Congress.

The House will vote Tuesday on a bill that would add 110 district judges and 35 circuit judges to the federal judiciary system. The Senate already has authorized the creation of 113 new judgeships.

Taylor, a Raleigh, N.C. lawyer and former librarian at the North Carolina Supreme Court, said that because of the research problem, many judges are "like the doctor doing everything from temperatures to insurance forms with no time for treating the patient."

Without speedy access to the information they need, he said, judges are forced to delay trials until the data is found, or to "shoot from the hip," which can cause errors, reversals, time-consuming retrials and added costs.

Taylor claimed that his reforms would be more efficient and less costly in the long run than the creation of new judgeships.

"It's going to take $75,000 to $85,000 to set up the simplest library for each one of those new judges," he said. "Add to that a secretary, a couple of law clerks, and if he's a trial judge, he'll require an assignment clerk, a probation officer."

"You don't just create 125 new judgeships. You're creating 500 or 700 or perhaps more new jobs to help a person to continue to operate in an archaic, inefficient, wasteful manner."

The essential problem, Taylor's study suggests, is that law research is still done today essentially the way it was in Abraham Lincoln's time — by the judge or his clerk looking up cases and statutes in bound volumes, which very likely won't be readily available.

For a law school to be accredited by the American Association of Law Schools, it is expected to have at least 60,000 volumes. Yet, the collections of the U.S. circuit courts range from 20,803 to 40,549, the report says.

Below the Supreme Court, which has its own library, the federal courts have 2.8 million lawbooks in their collection, which is the largest inventory in a single system anywhere. However, the study shows, there is wholesale duplication and uneven distribution. Some judges have too many books while others have too few, and some have none at all at places where they must hold court.

The report says the 2,831,235 volumes in the federal collection actually contain only 2,500 titles. The rest are duplicates of the same books.

The Supreme Court, which serves nine justices and is located across the street from the massive Library of Congress collection here, has three times that many titles in its private collection.

Compared to the federal court system's 2,500 titles, the Stanford University Law Library, has 72,461, and the University of Michigan has 173,000. This is one of the reasons that federal judges rely heavily on borrowed help from university and other libraries when they are available, the report says.

Judge William J. Jameson, a member of the Temporary Court of Appeals which was set up to relieve overloaded courts, told Taylor that he works with a library of only 50 titles in his chambers in Billings, Mont. He said he uses other court libraries and even borrows from local law firms and the Montana Law School library.

His report has stirred a controversy within the courts' administrative ranks. It suggests several remedies including a better method of obtaining and distributing law books, periodicals and printed opinions.

Witness Says Officer Enjoyed 'Harassing' Mexican-Americans

HOUSTON (UPI) — A surprise rebuttal witness for the government Sunday testified one of the police officers accused in the drowning death of Joe Campos Torres Jr. claimed he "had fun harassing" Mexican-Americans.

The disputed testimony came in an unusual Sunday session of the federal civil rights trial moments after the defense rested its case.

Carol Stager, who worked in a bank where former officer Joseph Janish was a part-time security guard, said the young officer had told her Mexicans caused him a lot of trouble in his work as a patrolman for the Houston Police Department.

Janish, 24, Terry Denson, 27, and Stephen Orlando, 22, face possible maximum sentence of life imprisonment if convicted on the federal charges.

Torres, 23, drowned in Buffalo Bayou downtown on May 6, 1976, following his arrest for drunken brawling. His body was found two days later. The government alleges the police officers denied his civil rights by striking him and then conspiring to cover up their role in the drowning incident.

Mrs. Stager said she liked Janish and had worked near him for a couple of months.

"He said he worked in a bad part of town. He said he hated Mexicans. He said he had fun harassing them," she told prosecutor Mary Sinderson.

Janish's attorney, Mike Andrews, and lawyers Mike Ramsey and Bob Bennett, who represent the other two officers, pleaded with U.S. District Judge Ross N. Sterling to shield the jury from hearing the testimony.

"The sole purpose of having her in this courtroom is to inflame and prejudice the jury," Andrews argued before the judge. "They (the government prosecutors) have set Mr. Janish up by asking him if he liked working in that part of town. They have introduced racial overtones in a case where it has not been a collateral issue."

Sterling allowed the jury to hear the testimony. Earlier he forbade the defense from putting on testimony pertaining to previous accounts of aggressive behavior from Torres and testimony about his military record and training as a paratrooper.

Following the 40-minute morning session the attorneys withdrew to the judge's chamber to begin preparation of the charge to the jury. Final arguments will be heard at 9:30 a.m. Monday in Sterling's courtroom. Denson and Orlando last year were convicted of misdemeanor negligent homicide for their role in Torres' death and sentenced to one year's probation. Another officer Louis Glenn Kinney was severed from the case and will be tried later.

Simple Words Bring Smile To Deaf Man

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — After a lifetime of silence, 71-year-old Leonard Hickman is learning to speak words like "moo," "baby," "me" and "boo."

Hickman, blind and deaf since birth, was trained as a tailor at a school for the blind in Fulton, Mo., where he apparently was taught to read Braille and to communicate in sign language, which he reads by touch.

He has lived at Truman Medical Center 44 years — since he was declared indigent under Jackson County's standards for nursing home care. His closest relative is a half-brother who lives in Independence.

Hickman spends most of his time in his room reading Braille editions of publications such as Reader's Digest and the New York Times.

"He's probably the best-read individual in the hospital," said one hospital official.

Recently Hickman obtained a hearing device that fits on the bone behind the ear and allows him to hear vibrations — even though he cannot determine what is being said.

James Singleton, an audiologist at the center who has worked with him for 11 months, said Hickman probably never will learn to communicate in sentences. Singleton sees the training mostly as a physiological boost.

"Asked what words he most wants to learn to say, Hickman responded through sign language: 'puppy,' 'boy,' 'girl,' 'cow,' 'horse' and 'Leonard,' and 'several other good things.'"

"As small as it may seem to us," said Singleton, "it's a very big thing for him."

Coal Strike Settlement Seen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal mediators kept talking during the weekend with both sides in the two-month-long strike by coal miners, and union leader Arnold Miller said chances for a settlement by Tuesday are "pretty good."

Bargaining sessions between the United Mine Workers and the soft coal industry recessed Friday evening, with only a few areas of disagreement said to remain. A spokesman for the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service said Sunday U.S. mediators had been "working with both sides separately since then — either in person or over the telephone." He said he had no firm word on whether face-to-face negotiations would resume on Monday as expected prior to a Tuesday meeting of the 39-member union bargaining council, which must approve any settlement before it goes to the rank and file for a ratification vote.

UMW President Arnold Miller told the Charleston Gazette he felt "pretty good" about chances of reaching a contract settlement by Tuesday. Miller said there are only a few areas of disagreement left with negotiators for the Bituminous Coal Operators Association.

He said he would return to Washington in time to resume negotiations with the soft coal industry on Monday.

President Carter was known to be close watching developments because of the worsening coal supply situation in some eastern and midwestern states. On Friday, Carter asked Miller to delay a scheduled weekend meeting of the union's bargaining council so as not to interrupt negotiations.

The longest U.S. coal strike on record has cut mine production to less than half of what it was a year ago and to a mere 20 percent of the output recorded just before the UMW walked out Dec. 6.

Once a settlement is reached, it will take at least 10 days for the union to ratify the new agreement and officially end the strike, officials said. It will take at least 10 days more to reopen underground mines that have been shut down for more than two months, so large-scale production is unlikely to resume before the end of February at best.

Welfare Reform Bill Nearing House Committee Showdown

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House welfare panel makes its final adjustments this week to President Carter's $32 billion welfare plan and then will decide whether to scrap it in favor of a more limited approach.

The House Ways and Means' subcommittee on public assistance and unemployment compensation will choose Wednesday night between Carter's sweeping consolidation of welfare programs and the scaled-down changes proposed by Rep. Al Ullman, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Among other things, Carter's plan would eliminate food stamps as a separate welfare program while Ullman's proposal would retain the program as a separate entity.

Welfare revision continues to be a major issue on Capitol Hill, although some members question whether the administration and House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill are as committed to its passage this year as they were six months ago.

Besides Ullman's committee, the Agriculture and Education and Labor committees also must pass on the bill before it reaches the House floor, and this may cause delays until late spring.

Nevertheless, Rep. James C. Cormack, D-Calif., chairman of the welfare subcommittee, keeps pushing its members to finish the preliminary action swiftly.

Although administration officials are concerned that changes made to Carter's proposal may thwart the goal of getting people off welfare and into jobs, they have hesitated to complain too vigorously.

As Daniel Marcus of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare said, "We realize that if it weren't for Cormack we wouldn't be this far along."

Cormack is less worried about pacifying the administration than in speeding the bill along, knowing that time is the paramount weapon opponents will use against it. The later it gets, the less likely House members facing re-election in November will be agreeable to considering such a costly and controversial measure.

Meanwhile, some groups that have pushed hard for enactment of the bill have nearly given up hope for this year.

Maya Miller, welfare lobbyist for Women's Lobby, said Sen. Daniel Moynihan, D-N.Y., was correct when he said a broad coalition would be needed to get any comprehensive welfare bill through Congress.

Social Security Tightens Up On Issuing Cards

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Social Security Administration is tightening procedures for issuing new Social Security cards as part of an effort to crack down on illegal aliens.

The new procedures will begin this year and are aimed at "possible misuse of the Social Security card as an indicator of lawful status in the United States" and other misuses such as attempted change of identities, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare said.

Applicants for Social Security numbers, regardless of age, will be required to submit "documentary" evidence of age, identity and citizenship or alien status. HEW did not say precisely what would qualify.

At present, only applicants 18 and older must submit evidence of age; evidence of legal alien status is required only if the applicant is not a citizen.

All adults will be interviewed in depth to assure they never had a Social Security number and were not getting one for someone else.

Current procedures give applicants the choice of completing applications at a district office or mailing them in.

The procedures are described in a "budget justification" accompanying the fiscal 1979 budget that was sent to Congress but not otherwise distributed. A copy was given to UPI.

The document also discloses other Social Security changes affecting millions of Americans.

Beginning this year, most employers for the first time since 1938, will report worker earnings information to Social Security annually rather than quarterly. No reports will be required from employers this year except for those that were due in January.

The change, under 1976 legislation, will cover reports on this year's wages, with the first ones due next January. Employers of household workers and state and local government employees must keep reporting quarterly.

A Federal Paperwork Commission estimated in 1971 that annual reporting will save businesses more than $235 million a year. However, HEW said taxpayers will have to come up with $26.5 million to pay for the government workers and equipment needed for the conversion.

SCARS OF THE PAST — The cracked floor of Marin County's Nicasio Reservoir became a familiar scene in California last summer as water sources dried up, forcing severe rationing in many communities. Heavy snow and rains pounded the West in December and January to drop a dramatic curtain on two record dry years. Reservoirs filled and snowpacks grew to near-normal levels, and officials declared the state's worst drought at an end. (AP Laserphoto)

Commericals Ruled Part Of Warranty

HIBBING, Minn. (AP) — If a television commercial shows a pickup truck dashing over rough terrain and sailing through the air without a scratch, do truck owners have a right to expect their vehicles to behave as well? A county district court jury said yes.

The six-member jury last month awarded Steve Lastovitch $500 plus court costs in his suit against the Ford Motor Co. Lastovitch sued after his truck was dented in a rough trip through sand and mud.

The jury ruled that commercials showing vehicles "withstanding such trips are, in effect, part of the vehicles' warranty."

William Thee, a Ford staff lawyer in Dearborn, Mich., had argued that the only warranty on vehicles is the "express warranty" given in writing to buyers at the time of purchase.

He said Ford was "extremely disappointed" with the jury's verdict and is considering an appeal.

Thee said Ford maintains that Lastovitch abused his truck and the company has no plans to change its television commercials.

Lastovitch's case was handled by an attorney for the Minnesota Public Interest Research Group, a consumer advocacy agency.

Kenneth Peterson, staff attorney for the agency, said he hopes Ford will appeal the case but doubts it will.

He said the St. Louis County District Court jury's verdict creates no precedent and probably would not even come to the attention of courts in other states.

It would be in the best interest of Ford not to pursue the matter, he said, because he believes the principle of accepting an advertising claim as warranty would stand on appeal.

Thee said an appeal probably would cost more than the jury's award, but, "We don't want people to feel that if they sue Ford we'll pay them to go away regardless of the merits of the case."

Mrs. Stark died at 11:35 p.m. Friday in Kings Daughters Hospital in Temple.

She moved to Dickens County in 1927 and lived there until 1953. In 1961 she moved to Crosbyton and in 1974 she moved to Belton. She was a member of First Baptist Church of Crosbyton and was a retired registered nurse. She married Luther Stark June 30, 1927 in Stamford.

Survivors include two sons, Bill of Belton and Wiley Imboden of Kansas City, Mo.; a brother, Fred Pool of Longview; two sisters, Mrs. Elli Brown of Arlington and Mrs. Eloise Bissette of Austin; five grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

News Brief

James Wayne Brooks, 46, of El Paso was in serious condition late Sunday in West Texas Hospital with gunshot wounds suffered in an altercation about 1:30 a.m. Saturday. Witnesses told police Brooks was at a nightspot in the 4800 block of Avenue H when he was shot.

Mrs. J.M. Waller

PLAINVIEW (Special) — Services for Mrs. J.M. (Lula May) Waller, 84, of Plainview will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday in First Baptist Church here with the Rev. Carlos McLeod, pastor, officiating.

Burial will be in Plainview Cemetery under direction of Lemons Funeral Home.

Mrs. Waller died at 7 a.m. Sunday at Heritage Home, where she had resided for the past 10 years.

The Gordon native had moved to Plainview as a youngster and was graduated as salutatorian from Plainview High in 1910.

She was a member of First Baptist Church and the "Live Long and Like It" club. Mrs. Waller was named Pioneer Woman of the Year in 1976 and in 1959 was honored by the Plainview Evening Lions Club in its "This Is Your Life" program.

The former Lula May Braselton was married to J.M. Waller June 8, 1910, in Plainview. He died in 1938. Waller was a former Plainview mayor.

Survivors include five daughters, Mrs. Walt (Marguerite) Pinkard of Albuquerque, N.M., Mrs. John (Ellie Marie) Barone of Banning, Calif., Mrs. J.B. (Katherine) Wheeler Jr. of Plainview, Mrs. Alton (May Jo) Hallaway of Lubbock and Mrs. Jack (Carolyn) Dixon of Midland; three sons, Jim Ed of Lubbock, Wayne of Galveston and Richard H. of Long Beach, Calif.; 18 grandchildren; eight great-grandchildren; and two great-great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Melvin Wyatt

LEVELND (Special) — Services for Bessie L. Wyatt, 79, of Levelland will be at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday in First Methodist Church here with the Rev. Elton Wyatt, assistant pastor of St. Luke's Methodist Church in Lubbock, officiating.

Burial will be in City of Levelland Cemetery under direction of Smith Funeral Home.

The Palo Pinto County native had lived in Levelland 50 years. She was a member of First Methodist Church here and was former church secretary.

Survivors include her husband, Melvin "Suie"; a daughter, Mrs. Doug (Theda) Hill of Levelland; a son, Robert Lee of San Marcos; a sister, Mrs. Pansy Weidenbach of Stephenville; and three grandchildren.

Pallbearers will be Joe Tunnell, Harrison Durham, Bill Billingsley, Harry Mann, Frank Bigham and Hubert Cook.

Bergen Evans, Questioner, Dies At 73

CHICAGO (UPI) — Dr. Bergen Evans, author, broadcaster and master of the English language whose quiz show questions stumped millions of television viewers and not a few contestants, has died after a long illness. He was 73.

Evans, who had retired from his post as professor emeritus of English at Northwestern University in 1975, was probably best known for his role as host and wit behind the trivia questions of many television game shows. He died Saturday in Highland Park Hospital.

Early in his career, Evans hosted "The Last Word" and "Down You Go" TV games shows and was awarded the coveted Peabody award in 1957 for his contributions to broadcasting.

His last continuing network TV assignment was writing the questions for two of TV's most popular shows of the late 1950s — "The $64,000 Question" and "The $64,000 Challenge."

As author and co-author of many books, Evans is known for his books "Comfortable Words," "A Dictionary of Contemporary American Usage" and "The Natural History of Nonsense." He taught at Northwestern University for 40 years and retired at the age of 70 — two years after what he termed "the age of statutory senility."

During his active teaching and television careers, he was a ready source for the newsman or feature writer who needed a pertinent quote or phrase. On Jan. 15, 1969 — five days before the first inaugural of Richard Nixon — Evans was asked to comment on the purpose and content of inaugural addresses.

Evans responded: "The three most memorable and memorized quotes are Lincoln's 'with malice toward none,' Franklin Roosevelt's 'the only thing we have to fear is fear itself' and John F. Kennedy's 'ask not what your country can do for you.' One of the functions of the presidency seems to be to give renewed life to forgotten aphorisms. Lincoln borrowed his statement from John Quincy Adams; Roosevelt borrowed his from Henry David Thoreau, and Kennedy borrowed his from Warren G. Harding."

Evans is survived by his widow Jean, two sons and two grandchildren. There will be no services and burial will be private.

Conference Urges Growth Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House Conference on Balanced Growth says a congressional committee should be formed to set national goals for such areas as employment, inflation and economic growth.

The conference, which ended Thursday, also said in an oral report to President Carter that states and regions should prepare growth plans of their own

Alleged Assailant Sought By Police

After getting an invitation to "watch television" with a friend, an 18-year-old Lubbock woman told police she was raped by the man before she ever made it to his apartment.

The Lubbock sales clerk told police she and a friend went to a Lubbock club about 11:30 p.m. Saturday, but she said she left that establishment with a friend after receiving an invitation to go to his home.

When the man stopped his pickup in a cotton field near 90th Street and Elkridge Street, she said she told him to take her back to town because she "needed to use the restroom."

The man refused her pleas, however, and forced her down onto the seat, she said.

After the man raped her three times, she said he drove her to a city store where she ran from the vehicle into another car parked nearby.

Police were still seeking her assailant Sunday.

Police Sunday also were searching for a black man and a Mexican-American man allegedly involved in the holdup of a Lubbock man while his vehicle was stopped for a traffic signal.

Joe M. Martinez of 1937 E. Colgate St. told officers he had stopped for a red light at the intersection of 4th Street and Avenue A when two men opened the doors to his automobile.

One man displayed a large-caliber revolver, he said, and ordered him to "move over."

Martinez said the men drove him to the Fair Park grounds, and one man emptied his wallet of $14 along the way. Once parked, Martinez said, one of the men hit him over the head with the gun, knocking him unconscious for more than an hour.

In other assault incidents, Ebb Baxter of 3418 E. Colgate St. told officers he was walking home after an argument with several folks when he saw a car approaching from behind him.

Baxter said he saw a gun sticking out from the car window, and the next thing he knew, he had been shot once in the leg with a small-caliber weapon. He was treated and released from Methodist Hospital.

Terry Samora of 5111 39th St. told police someone struck her over the head Saturday. She was treated at St. Mary's Hospital and released.

David Garza of 822 Vanda Ave. told officers he was stabbed while dancing about 11:30 p.m. Saturday at a 4th Street club.

In yet another incident, Gilberto Martinez of 1716 E. 1st Place was found by police standing in front of a Broadway pool hall about 7:45 p.m. Saturday. He was bleeding and claimed to have been struck and thrown out of the establishment, officers said.

Katherine Ellen Pratt of 2710 23rd St. reported to police that she was assaulted by another woman after they got in an argument at a residence in the 3800-block of Wayne Ave. Saturday.

Military Pilot Killed In Air Search Effort

A former instructor pilot at Reese Air Force Base was one of two men killed Friday, when their plane crashed at Mount Charleston, about 30 miles west of Las Vegas, Nev.

The former Reese officer, identified as Capt. Vergene Johnson of the 27th Tactical Air Support Squadron out of Davis-Monthan Air Force Base in Tucson, Ariz., reportedly had been transferred from Reese AFB about four months ago.

Capt. Lawrence K. Wilson, of the 23rd Tactical Air Support Squadron from Austin's Bergstrom Air Force Base, was killed with Johnson.

Johnson's aircraft was one of two which crashed while involved in a search and rescue effort for another missing plane, an O-2 Skymaster spotter plane that crashed Jan. 30 in the area.

The search, which has been hampered by explosive material in the area, resumed Sunday for the three men still missing in the crashes. One of the missing men is a 21-year-old civilian pilot whose plane crashed Thursday in the same area.

Sgt. Bob Morr of Nellis Air Force Base said that explosive white phosphorus rockets scattered around Monday's plane crash site have prevented police and air force search and rescue teams from entering the area to look for the missing men.

The two men missing in Monday's plane crash were identified as Capt. Anthony J. Rosa, attached to the 27th Tactical Air Support Squadron from Davis-Monthan and Capt. Victor Valleuela of the 23rd Tactical Air Support Squadron at Bergstrom.

Also missing was Michael Helton, 21, of North Little Rock, who was pilot of a civilian Piper Warrior plane which crashed Thursday. Helton's father and passenger, Lt. Col. Billy J. Helton of Nellis, walked away from the crash site and stumbled Saturday into Air Force searchers near the site of the original O-2 Skymaster plane crash.

An Air Force helicopter also searching for the first plane crashed Saturday, injuring four of five crewmen aboard. Names of the injured, who were being treated at Nellis hospital, were being withheld until relatives could be notified.

An Air Force spokesman said a bomb disposal team was cleaning the explosive white Phosphorus rockets from Monday's crash site.

The rockets were being carried by the Air Force spotter plane which went down 11 miles south-southwest of Indian Springs Auxiliary Airfield.

Hale Tax Man Quits, Takes State Post

PLAINVIEW — Hale County Tax Assessor-Collector Bill Hollars announced his resignation Friday, effective March 1.

He has accepted a position with the state comptroller's office in Austin, where he will begin his duties in early March.

Hale County commissioners will now appoint an acting replacement, who will serve in that capacity until a permanent replacement is elected later this year.

County Judge Henry Heck said commissioners are hopeful of naming an acting replacement who has no desire to campaign for the job full-time.

Once the acting replacement is named, he or she will work with Hollars on a transitional basis until Hollars leaves.

Commissioners will then establish a three-week filing period, March 3-27, for interested persons to enter the May 6 Democratic and Republican primaries. Commissioners said it is possible that the Democratic nominee will be named new tax assessor-collector after the May 6 primary if there is no candidate in the Republican primary.

However, if the Republicans do have a candidate, the acting replacement would continue on the job until the November general election, officials said.

In a prepared statement to commissioners, Hollars said, "I hereby tender my resignation as county tax-assessor collector of Hale County, effective March 1. I have accepted employment with the state comptroller's office in Austin and will be moving there in the near future. I wish to thank all of the county officials and the people of Hale County for the fine cooperation and courtesy shown my office staff and me during my 17 years in the county tax office."

Hollars, a resident of Plainview since 1943, was first elected tax assessor-collector in 1960 and since then has run unopposed in all elections.

City Students Place High In Speech Meets

Speech students at Lubbock, Coronado and Estacado high schools brought back several honors from speech tournaments they attended during the weekend.

Lubbock High students participated in the Golden Spread Forensics Tournament, held at Tascosa High School in Amarillo. Students who advanced to the finals were Mark Rooze in dramatic interpretation, Pete Mojica in humorous interpretation, and Meri Rodriguez in oratory.

John Shelton and Alan Graves placed second in duet acting and Rudy Alvarado garnered third place in dramatic interpretation. Shelton also placed third in humorous interpretation and Graves placed fourth in oratory.

Lubbock High speech students who qualified for the Texas Forensics Association State competition at Baylor University in Waco in March were Graves in oratory, Alvarado in dramatic interpretation and Shelton in humorous interpretation.

Thirty-eight schools participated in the Amarillo tournament.

Coronado and Monterey speech students traveled to Bryan Adams High School in Dallas over the weekend to participate in a tournament there. Sixty-seven high schools competed.

Monterey's Terri Eoff placed third in dramatic interpretation and Terry Riley and Malena Badell qualified for the TFA tournament.

Mark Lanier of Coronado placed third in boys extemporaneous speaking and Polly Maynard gained second place in humorous interpretation.

Hiss To Challenge Perjury Conviction

NEW YORK (UPI) — Alger Hiss plans to go to court in New York this spring in a bid to wipe out the 1950 perjury conviction that sent him to prison for nearly four years, Newsweek magazine reported Sunday.

The magazine said the 73-year-old former diplomat, convicted of lying to a grand jury investigating charges he was a Communist spy, plans to sue with the help of the national Emergency Civil Liberties Committee.

Study Supports Tax Proposals

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Library of Congress, agreeing with a major premise of President Carter's tax bill, said Sunday that erasing two big corporate tax breaks would result in greater growth and productivity in the U.S. economy.

The library's Congressional Research Service concluded that the two tax incentives worsen unemployment and distort investment decisions, luring American dollars to build plants in low-tax foreign countries and encouraging ever-greater imports into the United States.

The study of the tax breaks, known as DISC and deferral, was made at the request of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who supports the administration's campaign to abolish them.

In a statement accompanying the study, Kennedy said the library's findings provide strong support for Carter's recommendations to eliminate "two of the most unjustifiable tax abuses in the Internal Revenue Code."

Together, the two provisions result in tax losses of $1.6 billion a year, the study said.

Under the deferral program, a U.S. corporation can delay payment of income taxes on the earnings of foreign subsidiaries until the profits are returned to the United States. If the earnings are reinvested abroad and never sent back to the United States, they are never taxed in this country.

The DISC tax break allows a company to escape taxation on one-half the profits of a domestic subsidiary formed solely for the purpose of promoting exports. The subsidiary is known as a "domestic international sales corporation," or DISC.

The library said the most obvious effect of deferral is to give U.S.-based firms an incentive for increased investment in developing nations whose tax rates are below those of the United States.

The other side of that coin is that deferral acts as a disincentive for American firms to locate their foreign branches in such industrialized nations as Great Britain, France, West Germany and Japan — U.S. trading partners whose tax rates are higher than in the United States.

Backers of DISC view it as an important tool to spur U.S. exports and reduce the U.S. trade deficit, which is at record high levels because of oil imports.

Therefore, the study found, because of today's system of flexible monetary exchange rates, "in the long run any policy which attempts to permanently improve a nation's balance of payments will be rendered ineffectual by market forces."

The library said it would be impossible to predict with certainty what would happen if the two tax incentives were repealed. One obvious effect would be increased investment in the U.S. economy, the researchers found.

"In general terms... the repeal of deferral and DISC would reduce the tax-induced distortions affecting international investment decisions and thereby increase the overall economic efficiency of investment allocation, resulting in somewhat higher levels of economic growth, real income and productivity," the study concluded.

Humphrey Primary Filing Date Nears

Widow Due Oath

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Muriel Humphrey, widow of Hubert H. Humphrey, becomes a U.S. senator Monday, taking over the job her husband held for almost a quarter of a century.

Mrs. Humphrey, a 65-year-old mother of four and grandmother of 10, will take the oath of office Monday afternoon in the Senate chamber in a traditional and simple ceremony.

She will be accompanied down the center aisle by Sen. Wendell Anderson, now the senior senator from Minnesota, and will take the oath from the presiding officer, probably Vice President Walter Mondale, a Humphrey protégé and close friend.

Mrs. Humphrey will be the only woman member of the Senate and the first since Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, who was defeated for re-election in 1972.

Mrs. Humphrey was named to the Senate seat Jan. 25 by Minnesota Gov. Rudy Perpich. She has been taking a rest in Florida and the Virgin Islands since Humphrey's death of cancer, Jan. 13.

Mrs. Humphrey's appointment lasts only until a special election is held in November, and she has not announced whether she will run for the remainder of her husband's term, which ends in January 1983.

At a news conference in Florida, shortly after accepting the appointment, Mrs. Humphrey said it was too early to speculate about the special election but said of the senate seat, "I do not take it lightly, not as a caretaker job."

Despite the ordeal of Humphrey's long battle with cancer and his death, Mrs. Humphrey said she was in good health — although she was hospitalized briefly for exhaustion last fall — and plans to tackle her duties "in a vigorous manner."

Mrs. Humphrey says she wants to complete "some important business Hubert hoped to finish."

That probably would include working for passage of the full employment Humphrey-Hawkins bill and a revision of the foreign aid program that was partly authored by Humphrey and introduced after his death.

Mrs. Humphrey already has been assigned to the Foreign Relations Committee and the Governmental Affairs Committee. Humphrey also was a member of the Foreign Relations Committee.

A small, petite woman with white hair, Mrs. Humphrey always lived in her husband's shadow. Her main interest, outside of her family and her husband and his career, has been the problems of the mentally retarded.

However, she was a close confidant of Humphrey's during their 40-year marriage, is well-versed in the ways of the Senate, has inherited her husband's staff, and also is considered a fine campaigner.

Cosmonauts Shift Path Of Salyut Space Station

MOSCOW (AP) — Two Soviet cosmonauts, aboard the Salyut 6 space station for their eighth week, fired a rocket propulsion unit Sunday to correct the course of their orbiting space lab. Tass reported.

The Soviet news agency said the trajectory correction was part of the working day for cosmonauts Yuri Romanenko and Georgi Grechko. Tass gave no reason for the path change but said it had been planned.

"To carry out the planned two-impulse maneuver," Tass said, "the cosmonauts twice effected the orientation of the orbital complex, after which the propulsion unit of the Progress 1 spacecraft was switched on."

Progress 1 is an unmanned capsule that ferried supplies to the cosmonauts and remains linked with the space station. A third craft, Soyuz 27, which will be used to take the cosmonauts back to earth, is also docked with the lab.

Tass said all systems aboard the orbiting space complex were functioning normally and that the cosmonauts were "feeling well."

Mayor Of Albany Enters Hospital

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Mayor Erastus Corning II, the nation's senior big city mayor, has been transferred to the coronary care unit at Albany Medical Center here after suffering breathing difficulty during a bout with bronchitis.

Corning, 68, first elected in 1941, was listed in fair condition Saturday. The Democratic mayor was hospitalized last week.

Black Walnut Finds Tree Doctor Friend

OLD TAPPAN, N.J. (AP) — Richard Wolf is not likely to be appreciated until the next generation, or the next. That's all right by him. It is not for his own recognition that he does what he does.

"You don't plant a black walnut tree for yourself," he said, "but somebody has to care about them. There are fewer and fewer American black walnut trees, and the more land we pave over and build on there will be fewer still. I do what I can."

Talks To School Children

Richard Wolf is this generation's Johnny Walnuts.

A few days ago, for instance, he took off from work and went to the school house and gave his annual talk. He told the children — fourth graders — about trees and how they grow and what the world would be like without them.

He gave each pupil a walnut. This spring, as a class project, they will plant them. "Walnuts planted in the fall germinate better," he said, "but the kids should have fairly good results. The main thing is they now know what a walnut looks like and how to remove the husk and plant it."

He has been doing that himself for years: planting black walnut trees, nurturing them to saplings, giving them away. For miles around, the lawns and dooryards of his friends have become nurseries for black walnut trees that his children's children's friends will climb.

The Walnut Obsession

Richard Wolf, a tree surgeon, has great respect for all trees. His concern for the American black walnut, though, is almost an obsession. He does not consider it the most majestic of trees. He would pick the white oak for that distinction, or, if he lived on the other coast, the redwood. Neither would it get his vote as America's national tree. If there were such a symbol, he would nominate the Douglas fir, for its noble work of sheltering a people.

"Mainly," he said, "it's the wood. Did you ever see more beautiful wood?" He cleared the surface of the coffee table, a six-inch-thick slab of black walnut the size of a beach umbrella. Yes, beautiful.

"People want that wood. Who can blame them? I think people ought to have that wood, but nobody is going to have that wood unless we replace the black walnut trees we take, and they're going fast."

No Frivolous Cutting

For one whose livelihood derives in part from cutting down trees, Richard Wolf is as rare a species as the Juglans nigra, the one he's trying to save. He will not remove a tree, any tree, for what he considers a frivolous reason, such as leaves clogging the roof gutters. "Get someone else," he tells potential customers. When a favorite linden tree in his own yard had to come down to save nearby trees, he got others to do the job and couldn't bear to watch.

In a quarter of a century as a tree surgeon he has, perforce, taken down five black walnuts, each replaced tenfold. The wood from those five is locked in his barn out back.

Supply Not For Sale

Unlike some others in the tree business, who will pay handsomely to take an axe to a valuable black walnut tree, Richard Wolf's supply is not for sale nor was it cut for profit. "I give some of it away. Mostly, it's for my own use, if I ever use it." He uses it, all right. Here and there around his house are bowls and candle holders and other items of black walnut, expertly turned out on his lathe. These he gives away, by the hundreds, promoting conservation of his cherished tree.

"It just doesn't seem decent to make money on a black walnut."

Muleshoe Student In Speech Contest

An 18-year-old senior at Muleshoe High School at Muleshoe, Brad Baker, will represent the American Legion 19th District while competing at the West Texas Fourth Division Contest to be held February 15 in Odessa.

Baker, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacques Baker of Muleshoe, is the first-place winner of the American Legion 19th District Oratorical Contest held Friday at the Western Hill Academy in Lubbock.

He will receive a $300 college scholarship contributed from posts throughout a 20-county area.

"THE NET PROFIT CROP OF 1977"

Some producers contracted their 1977 Sunflower acreage with "The Sunflower People of West Texas", for eleven cents.

Unlike their neighbor, some producers wanted higher prices than the $.11 Cent Per Lb. Contract being offered by "The Sunflower People of West Texas" in their Joint-Venture Contract.

Now when harvest time finally arrived and the crop developed to be the largest in the history of the United States, the farmer who wanted MORE actually got LESS.

Friends, don't get caught again holding the short end of the stick: The "Sunflower People of West Texas" now have contracts available for the 1978 Crop Year.

Long before anyone else establishes a market, "The Sunflower People of West Texas" offer you a Sunflower Production Contract that will give you, the farmer, a price for your product that allows you a Net Profit.

Only by contracting ahead can you guarantee yourself a net profit in planting Sunflowers in 1978.

When you consider that it take less cash per acre to grow Sunflowers than any other crop, one must appreciate the fact that it will greatly reduce cash flow requirements for farming operations.

Each year "The Sunflower People of West Texas" offer new opportunities to the producer who wants to help himself. The "Plant Now-Pay Later" program for Sunflower Planting Seed has allowed many producers to stay in business in hard pressed financial times. The same people again offer this same program to those who would like it.

Rsults of last year's Sunflower Crop show a need for another service to be added: This year you can again contract to have your spraying for Insect Control included and pay for it in the fall when you harvest your crop, should you desire to do so.

Oswald: "There are eleven top tricks. South drew trumps and led a diamond. Had the suit broken 3-3 South would have made a grand slam. A 4-2 break would give him an easy small slam, but West showed out on the first diamond lead. Of course, South had drawn trumps first."

Alan: "East had to hang on to that queen of spades and was forced to discard all but one diamond whereupon the ace and nine of diamonds were both good."

At Wit's End...

BY ERMA BOMBECK

If compliments were food, I'd have starved to death 28 years ago. My husband belongs to that great fraternity of men who not only believe silence is golden...it's safe.

Just once I'd like to come in from the beauty shop and not have him say, "Whatsa matter, couldn't they take you?"

Yesterday, I came in from the beauty shop and he said, "Whatsa matter, couldn't they take you?" "Do you?" "Yes."

"Then that's all that matters."

"What do you mean by a crack like that?" I charged.

"It's not a crack. I liked your hair before."

"Then you liked it better the way it was than you do now. Why don't you admit it?"

"I didn't say that. Is that a new style?"

"You didn't notice that it's Solar Hair? Everyone's wearing it."

"Fine, then you'll look like everyone else."

"Thanks a lot. Do you like the color?" "It's interesting."

"Anwar Sadat is interesting. Hair is exciting, revolutionary, striking, memorable."

"I pick memorable."

"Do you think anyone will notice the change?"

"Do you want them to?"

"Why do you always answer a question with a question?"

"Did I say that?"

"Would it kill you just once to come out and say you liked something?"

"Is that what you want me to say?"

"I want you to say what you feel!"

"I'm hungry, what's for lunch?"

"If you hate my hair so much, I'll have it changed back to the old style and the old color. But just once I wish to heavens you'd give me an honest opinion instead of beating around the bush with those stupid innuendos."

"I think your hair looks like a porcupine in heat," he said clearly.

"Who asked you?" I said, slamming the door.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Every time I had to take my friend to the hospital or to the doctor's, I had to tie his shoes for him as he has arthritis in his fingers.

I had suggested he get loafers or strollers but he could not get his size unless he had them made to order.

One day while driving him to the hospital, an idea came to me. Why not use thin elastic for shoe laces? The one-fourth inch elastic braid is exactly the same width as a shoe lace and one package does exactly two pairs of shoes.

Tie a double knot before you make a bow and then tie a double bow and you never have to retie the bow.

The elastic gives when the foot goes in the shoe and tightens up when the foot is in. The foot also slides very easily out again.

My friend is delighted and says it is wonderful to take care of his own shoes once again.

I do hope, Heloise, that you will print this. So many people with arthritis will find this a help, or even if they do not have arthritis but they are senior citizens, they will find it an easy step.

Being very fond of elderly people I am trusting your column will spread this idea far and wide.

God bless the elderly! — Rita Walters

And may God bless you too, Rita, for your big heart and love for our older generation. — Heloise

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:

This is for all you ladies who absolutely hate to wash down the walls (and who doesn't)?

Buy an inexpensive can of paint and give it to hubby.

Worked great for me. — Marie

Now tell us your secret of how you got your hubby to use the paint. — Heloise

Dear Heloise:

When I receive flowers for a birthday or anniversary I've always hated to throw away the lovely little cards that accompany them.

Now I use them for bookmarks and not only do I have plenty of colorful book-marks, but I'm reminded daily of cherished occasions now past. — Sally Albertson

Dear Heloise: I keep my table leaves between my mattresses and box springs.

They keep the bed firm and keep the leaves from being scratched.

Also I can now remember where I have put them. — Virginia D. Smith

I certainly hope so. — Heloise

Dear Heloise: When you have most of your relatives out of state, as I do, exchanging address labels with those you write to often makes the chore of addressing envelopes a lot easier. — J.E.T.

Dear Heloise:

I crochet and when I want to make fringe, I get a book the right width and wrap the thread around it.

Then I can slip the scissors between the pages for easy cutting. — Ruth Kimmerly

Dear Heloise:

I make a batch of "whatever" (fruit, apple crisp, etc.) and freeze it in margarine cups.

Just a nice amount for someone living alone. I use a different color for different items. — Eleanor

Dear Heloise:

Locate an out-of-date wallpaper book. Use the sheets of wallpaper to line the bottom of the bird cage.

Makes a free and pretty liner. — Mary Holke

Dear Heloise:

This column is written for you... the homemaker. If you have a hint or a problem write to Heloise, 235 E. 45th St., New York, N.Y. Because of the tremendous volume of mail, Heloise is unable to answer individual letters. She will, however, answer your questions in her column whenever possible.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

BY DR. GEORGE C. THOSTESON

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have dry skin, for which the doctor has me on prednisone. It really itches. I want to know if there is something else for dry skin, or if there is something I can take that is less dangerous. Another doctor told me I shouldn't be taking the prednisone. — Mrs. J.W.

You don't give me your age, but from the rest of your letter I gather that you are an elderly person. Dry skin is a common and annoying problem for the elderly. As one gets older, skin is not 100 percent efficient in retaining moisture in the outer layers.

There are things you can do to help, though, which I'll discuss later. I agree with the second doctor that the prednisone is pretty heavy artillery for the problem of ordinary dry skin. It's not suited for long-term treatment. But there may be factors you do not mention in your letter that would make the drug appropriate. (It is a corticosteroid drug and one of its uses is in certain skin diseases.)

The trick in keeping otherwise normal skin moist is simpler than you might think. Try soaking in a warm tub for 15 minutes or so. Then dab your self dry and apply an emollient lotion. The oil will help trap some of that moisture. Use a bland soap for washing, but avoid frequent bathing and showers. Some persons think a bath a day is an absolute necessity. Not so. Often, a sponge bath around the bottom and arm pits is good enough for hygiene and to keep one "smelling nice."

Another factor is the humidity inside your home. It should not be too dry. A humidifier might help. Dry skin is often a seasonal (winter) problem, especially in overheated homes.

If these measures don't help you, look for other, more complex reasons for the dryness — low thyroid, scleroderma, or other ailments that cause skin changes.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a 19-year-old female, 5-foot-8, 113 pounds, fair complexion, and physically in good health.

People are always commenting about the dark blue veins under my eyes. Not dark circles, but little branches of veins. I've had the problem for years now and would like to know the cause and the procedure to remove them without leaving scars. Covering them with makeup doesn't work.

Also, I have a feeling of fatigue. I don't wear glasses, nor do I need them. I have perfect vision. — J.S.

These spider veins are a problem of fair-skinned people, compounded by the fact that skin under the eyes is thinner than elsewhere on the body. The veins show through more easily. Vision doesn't have anything to do with it.

If it's bugging you, see a dermatologist or a plastic surgeon. The process of desiccation (drying out) of the small veins is possible, and leaves minimal scarring if any. Your 113 pounds seems to be a bit on the low side, especially if you are medium- or large-framed. An anemia could accentuate the fairness and the veins. You mention fatigue. That could be a symptom of anemia.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What does it mean when the eye twitches? I have heard superstitions that if your right eye twitches you have trouble and if your left eye does, it is a good sign. —Miss L.

Superstition and medicine don't mix. It is a habit or a tic. They are common in children from age 5 to 12 and usually begin as purposeful movements, but can develop to automatic ones. It's rare for this kind of tic to be a sign of a disease. Some may occur with excessive fatigue.

I knew a doctor whose eyelid twitched only when he did not take his thyroid medication. Most childhood tics are more disturbing to parents than harmful to the child. In children, watch for other signs. Could be signs of the Tourette syndrome, a special problem.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Times, Terminology, Teaching Change

By HARRY GOLDEN
Women's News Service

The word "sissy" had an entirely different meaning when I was a boy on the lower East Side of New York. It carried no implication of homosexuality at all.

In my day a boy was called a "sissy" if he read books, and — or always looked particularly clean, especially if he wore one of those Buster Brown collars. With discretion, a book-reader or even a guy who always looked freshly scrubbed, could conceivably escape the stigma, but there was no way out with the Buster Brown collar. Somehow the immigrant mothers learned about this style; some of them even spoke of Lord Fauntleroy pants. All of this fancy stuff caused many a heartache in the tenements.

Personally, I beat the "sissy" rap by using my head. I was very careful not to read books in front of my friends, and I was never worried about being too "clean." On the East Side we had developed the knack of reading on the street. It was a common sight to see boys and girls, grown men and grown women, walking along the street reading a book, turning the pages without a hitch. There was a trick to this that you learned through experience and I never lost the know-how. But in the early days I used discretion about it.

On the way home from either night school or the library, I closed the book within a block of my neighborhood; then I took off my necktie and tucked the clean collar under my sweater and walked into the block nonchalantly, maybe even casting a deprecating look at the books under my arm as if to say: "Look what I am being forced to do against my will."

Sex, of course, was all around us, even as it encircles the earth and the life of every single one of its inhabitants, but I often wonder, in surprise, how it was possible to maintain the uncanny silence on the subject that existed within a society where hundreds of thousands of people lived within arm's length of each other.

Here and there, of course, a boy strutted around the block with the boast that he had been to "14th Street," which to us meant the "Red Light" district. This

"Red Light" district was a term that may have been coined by the most improbable of men — Theodore Roosevelt — when he was police commissioner of New York.

But in our homes you never spoke about such things, except by innuendo and warning. Occasionally you'd hear a mother scolding her daughter, perhaps because she had been out late: "You want to wind up on 14th Street?"

I am not so sure about this teaching of sex in the home instead of "in the street," as we call it. We would be naive indeed if we overlooked the fact that something important happens in the relationship between father and son at the moment of such a "man-to-man" talk.

What is inescapable is that a third person must dominate such a conversation from beginning to end, and particularly because every precaution is taken not to mention her — the mother.

The boy, whether he knows it or not, is steeped in the taboos of centuries of Judaism and Christianity. When the father discusses sex with him (and particularly because he is his father), something must happen to the image: the boy has of his mother. Four thousand years of religious taboos cannot be wiped out by a couple of books by a child psychologist.

CATERPILLAR LAW

There are so many caterpillars in Brussels that a new law has been passed ordering housewives and maids to make regular searches for them, their eggs and their nests. Under the new law citizens can be jailed for up to seven days for not destroying them.

The bidding has proceeded:

What do you bid now?

A.—While an opening bid opposite an opening bid would normally produce game, your hand contains a flaw—the perfectly flat distribution. Since you have no ruffing value, you should deduct 1 point, reducing the worth of the hand to 12 points. Therefore, a raise to three hearts is quite adequate.

Q.2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AQ1092 ♥A ♦752 ♣AQ98
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 1 NT Pass
2 ♣ Pass 2 ♥ Pass ?
What action do you take?

A.—Pass. Partner has shown a weak hand with a long heart suit and no preference for either of your suits. Game is out of the question, and you are in your best spot.

Q.3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠Q1072 ♥83 ♦6 ♣KJ10952
The bidding has proceeded:

Pass 1 NT Dble. Pass ?
What action do you take?

A.—One no trump doubled may be headed for a heavy defeat if partner would oblige by leading a black suit. Unfortunately, your holding makes it obvious that partner will lead a red suit, and that might cost a trick as well as a tempo. We suggest a jump to three clubs. While this is not forcing, it suggests a game contract—probably three no trump—if partner has a fit for clubs.

Q.4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠AK7652 ♥A85 ♦73 ♣J8
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
3 ♦ Pass ?
What action do you take?

A.—If partner is a reliable bidder, he should have a pretty good hand for a vulnerable preempt, so one more toward game is warranted. Your most likely game is in spades. We suggest you respond three spades. This is forcing, of course. If partner raises, which he should do with any three spades or doubleton honor, or simply returns to four diamonds, pass. You have done your duty.

Q.5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

Pass 2 ♥ 2 ♣ Pass
2 NT Pass 3 ♣ Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A.—Avoid the trap of rebid-ding three no trump. You have already shown your heart stopper and partner has indicated that he is not the least bit interested in no trump. With good four-card support for partner's second suit, you should raise to four clubs.

Q.6—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♦ Pass 1 ♥ Pass
1 NT Pass 2 ♦ Pass
2 ♥ Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Since partner has already shown a minimum opening bid, there is a tendency to pass at this point. However, the two heart bid has improved your hand considerably. The double fit in the red suits increases your trick-taking potential, so you are worth one move toward game. Bid three hearts to advise partner that you are not averse to further action.

Q.7—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠4 ♥J852 ♦Q1073 ♣KJ82
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♥ 1 ♠ Dble. ?
What action do you take?

A.—We are not in the habit of saving partner from his folly, but here a bid of one no trump seems to have everything to gain and little to lose. East should be short in hearts for his double of one spade, so partner rates to have two or three hearts. And if partner can't stand one no trump and can introduce a second suit, you will have located a good fit.

Q.8—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠73 ♥95 ♦A10762 ♣AKQJ

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♥ Pass 2 ♦ Pass
2 ♣ Pass 3 ♣ Pass
4 ♥ Pass ?
What action do you take?

A.—By first reversing with two spades and then jumping to four hearts, partner has shown a strong hand with six or seven very good hearts and four spades (perhaps only three spades). You have considerably more than your bids have shown up to now. The two hands should produce a heart slam, and the only sensible bid is to jump to six hearts.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: What is happening to me? I have such a case of "the downs" I don't know what to make of it. It started a few days before Thanksgiving (traditionally we go to my in-laws' for a big family dinner), and although there is always too much drinking and a lot of competition between the sisters and sisters-in-law, I have had a fairly good time in the past. This year there was more tension than usual, and I had a headache for three days. Also I began to feel quite depressed.

Since Christmas is supposed to be the season to be jolly, I thought I'd get into the holiday spirit, but instead I became worse. It took every ounce of strength to get my Christmas shopping done. Maybe I was depressed because this year the prices of anything half-way decent were out of sight and I couldn't buy the kind of gifts I wanted.

My husband and I had more arguments than usual between December 15th and January 2nd. The kids got on my nerves with their friends running in and out of the house and the stereo was so loud it nearly broke my eardrums. We spent too much money on the tree, new lights, booze, drop-in company, last-minute gifts — the whole bit. On top of everything, I went on an eating binge and gained eight pounds.

The annual Christmas Eve dinner with my family was a nightmare. I tried so hard to be cheerful but I just couldn't pull it off. When we got home my heart was pounding like a trip-hammer and I was shaking like a leaf. My husband asked me what was wrong and I couldn't tell him because I didn't know.

Here it is January and although I seem to be coming out of the blue funk I'm still not 100 per cent. Can you tell me what is my problem? Compared to most people I know my life is pretty good. My husband is a hard worker, faithful, a good father and very understanding. We have four great kids who have never been in any serious trouble. Please give me some insight. — Nameless In N.Y.

Dear Nameless: Your name is Legion and you've just gone through the Holiday Blues.

One reason people become depressed at holiday time is because of the difference between their high expectations and what actually happens. It's such a let-down. They seem to forget that last year wasn't all that great. They cling to the hope that THIS year will be terrific, and of course, it isn't. Everyone believes everyone else is having a ball and they wonder what is wrong with them because they aren't. They also see at close range the truth about family life, and the "joys" of being together. It's hard to admit that your mother-in-law is a lush and your brother is a bore. It's difficult, too,

Carter-Sadat Talks Reflect Optimism

(Continued From Page One) mitment of the United States to play an active role in the search for peace and to redouble its efforts to ensure that progress is made in the weeks ahead.

hand for a portion of the discussions Saturday. They met alone Sunday. The White House said Carter, Sadat and their wives dined together Saturday night, talking informally, and had lunch together Sunday.

Egypt military talks and said they will continue.

And Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin, in an article written for the Miami Herald Sunday, said Israel never can agree to give back all the territory it captured in the 1967 war if that meant exposing Israeli settlements to hostile gunfire.

He said the terms Egypt was demanding would be suicide for Israel. Sadat, who escalated the Middle East peace process dramatically last November with his unprecedented visit to Jerusalem, arrived in Washington Friday and is to leave the United States Wednesday after a farewell session with Carter.

Meeting With Others In the interim, he has scheduled three days of meetings with other government officials and several media appearances. He was to stay at Blair House, the presidential guest quarters across from the White House.

While the White House released little information of substance on the discussions, one official said the minimum result expected is for Sadat to agree to resumption of the high level Jerusalem peace talks he broke off in January.

At best, the source said, Sadat could agree to endorse American wording on a compromise formula for dealing with the problem of a Palestinian homeland, if the document were part of an overall statement on peace principles.

One high White House official said Sunday Carter's goal in the talks was to persuade Sadat to be more flexible on the Palestinian question and to be more amenable to compromises.

Hoped To Bolster Spirits They said Carter also hoped to bolster Sadat's spirits, since the Egyptian leader appeared to fear that the peace talks were not moving rapidly enough.

"He will tell Sadat that peace can't be declared, it must be negotiated," one source said. "And the Egyptians must understand that (Israeli Prime Minister Menachem) Begin's plan for self-rule in the West Bank and Gaza was a responsive gesture that deserves serious consideration by the Egyptians."

Sources said Carter also would tell Sadat at the United States cannot support his idea of self-determination for the Palestinians if that term means establishment of an independent Palestinian state on Israeli's border.

On the other hand, the sources said, Carter thinks Israel must withdraw from at least some of the Sinai, Gaza Strip and West Bank of the Jordan which it occupied in the 1967 war, and sees no reason for Israel to retain civilian settlements on the Sinai once the land is returned to Egypt.

Besides seeking Carter's help to get the peace process moving again, Sadat was expected to discuss his requests for American arms, and sources said Saturday Carter has decided to sell fighter planes to Cairo if Congress agrees.

Decision On Planes Seen Administration officials said Carter decided even before Sadat arrived in the United States Friday to propose selling Egypt some of the F-5E jet fighters it wants.

Although White House spokesman Jerrold Schecter said "no decision has been reached by the president," other administration officials said Carter had made the decision in principle.

The United States never has sold Egypt fighter aircraft or other arms it could use in combat with Israel, so if Carter decided to sell Cairo the F-5E it would be a shift in U.S. policy.

Poll Shows Close Canal Treaty Vote

The AP questionnaire asked senators to say whether they would support the treaty with or without the amendments, whether they opposed any treaty or particularly the one before the Senate, and whether they were undecided or simply not ready to declare themselves.

Only 14 senators said they could support the pact without the guarantees of priority passage and defense rights. Seven said they saw no need for any new treaty with Panama, and 15 said they thought there should be a treaty but not the one at issue. Most objections to the pact appeared based on fear that even with the amendments, security guarantees are inadequate.

Mathias Unresponsive The only senator who did not respond to the questionnaire was Sen. Charles Mathias, R-Md. He is regarded as pro-treaty, but was listed by the AP as undecided.

Financial issues are generating new problems for ratification.

At least three senators and perhaps more, according to Senate sources asking not to be identified, are expressing misgivings after hearings by the Senate Armed Services Committee. In those hearings Canal Zone Gov. Harold Parfitt and U.S. Comptroller Gen. Elmer B. Staats declared that the treaty, despite administration claims to the contrary, would cost U.S. taxpayers millions of dollars.

The panel was told that "direct" costs to the United States arising from ratification of the pact could amount to more than $700 million. It was also told that canal tolls, even if raised sharply, may not be enough to operate the facility during the transition period without help from the U.S. Treasury.

Results Of Survey Here are the results of the AP survey:

ICE JAM BROKEN

WARSAW, Ky. (AP) — Tow boats broke through the winter's worst ice jam on the Ohio River on Sunday, and the U.S. Corps of Engineers hoped to resume traffic on the waterway by Monday morning.

Ambassador To U.N. Recalled By Vietnam

HONG KONG (UPI) — Vietnam recalled its ambassador to the United Nations Sunday, giving in to a U.S. expulsion order but rejecting charges the envoy was a spy.

The official Vietnam News Agency, monitored in Hong Kong, said Ambassador Dinh Ba Thi was being ordered home "because the U.S. government was hindering the activities of the Vietnamese U.N. chief."

No Official Word Yet

In Washington, Charles Shapiro, press duty officer at the State Department, said the United States had not received any official word from Hanoi on Thi, the first U.N. ambassador that Washington has ever expelled.

"If this is true and if he has been withdrawn, we welcome it. We have assumed all along he will leave promptly as we have requested."

Asked when Thi was expected to leave, Shapiro said, "The note that we sent said he was to leave promptly. That means enough time to get his affairs in order and pack his bags."

Mission Closed

A phone call to the Vietnamese U.N. delegation in New York was fielded by an operator who said the mission was closed and refused any comment on when Thi planned to leave.

Last Friday, the Vietnamese government labeled the American expulsion order as "totally unacceptable" and said Thi would remain at the United Nations.

Three Officers Suspended In Jail Injury Incident

There, a man reportedly told them the black man they had seen earlier had threatened him.

The officers went back after the suspect, chased him to 2nd Street and Zenith Avenue and advised him to stop, according to the report.

The man ignored their demand, they said, and when one officers caught him, the suspect reportedly tried to hit the officer with a 33-inch stick which he said resembled an axe handle.

Officers said a brief struggle ensued before the man could be handcuffed, but only "necessary force" was used. The report notes that officers noticed the man was bleeding from a cut on the wrist when the fight began.

The report also notes, "At no time during the struggle was the victim struck by the officers, but rather held to restrain him."

The man then was taken to county jail for booking on charges of assault, resisting arrest, public intoxication and using loud and profane language.

Kicking Claimed

Officers placed the inmate on the floor, the report states, but when an officer tried to help the man up, he kicked the officer in the leg and tried to fight again.

During that episode, according to the report, the man's head fell against the floor, causing his nose to slam against the concrete.

Huffman said late Sunday the department already has initiated an investigation into the matter.

Woman Dies In Shooting

A Mexican-American woman died late Sunday following a shooting at an East Lubbock club.

Police said the woman apparently was shot inside the El Monte Carlo Lounge at 355 Ave. H about 10:45 p.m. She reportedly ran outside the club where she was found when police arrived.

Police said a Mexican-American man had been arrested late Sunday in connection with the incident.

Schools Drafting Plans The Lubbock Independent School District is drafting plans to increase the racial balance and enrollment of nine minority schools, as required by U.S. District Judge Halbert O. Woodward. School officials say such a remedy may involve the entire school system.

What bothers Dietz has been the reaction, or lack of it, from four segments of the community:

—The news media. In Louisville, Dietz said, the city's newspaper and television and radio stations "gave a more progressive, balanced view of desegregation. Here, all they seem to report is the negative side."

—Texas Tech University. "I'm appalled at the lack of leadership at Tech. Nothing is going on in the school of education to prepare the school system for integration." In contrast, Dietz said, the University of Louisville was instrumental in want to accept reality. And if it ends up that their child is bused, they're going to panic," Dietz said.

Some Make Threats "The other reaction is fear, with parents saying, 'It's not going to happen to us because we won't let it. We'll move or put our child in a private school.'"

"They've never stopped to analyze exactly what they're afraid of. It's the parents — not the children — who create this fear about busing and integration. Then the parents pass these attitudes onto their kids," Dietz said.

"We heard all this before in Louisville. It's history repeating itself. The type of reaction we've had already in Lubbock is what leads me to believe the fuel for violence is the same," he said.

Mrs. Dietz said Lubbock parents should re-examine their objections to busing — the fear, for example, that their child may be far from home in the event of an emergency.

"That's a rationalization," she said. "First of all, the City of Lub-

However, a statue of "Popeye the Sailor Man," erected in honor of Elzie Segar, the cartoon strip's creator and a native son of Chester, either escaped the destruction or was reconstructed in a park.

A key ingredient in Official UFO's case is a series of pictures in the magazine purporting to show the saucer attack. Unfortunately, those showing evidence of the extraterrestrial phenomena were blurred.

Flying saucers, nonetheless, were in evidence, and one could make out a fuzzy building leaning to one side. "Could this be an alien on the rooftop of a burning building?" the magazine queried. Another showed squiggly objects labeled "vaguely humanoid in shape."

No One Remembers Other photos were clear. One, of a modern globular water tower, was captioned: "This weird object near the entrance of the Chester Mental Health Center has been giving off a weird glow" since August.

No one thumbing through the magazine distributed free to townspeople could recall the incident. But, said Official UFO, that was because after the disaster Chester was "mysteriously, frighteningly ... somehow resurrected and the memory of the event was erased from all but a select group of minds."

Heavy Turnout Seen At Costa Rica Polls

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) — Large numbers of Costa Ricans voted Sunday in a carnival-like atmosphere for a full slate of candidates in local and national elections, including a neck-and-neck presidential race.

This Central American government — one of the few nations controlled by civilians in Latin America — has hailed its elections as the most democratic and honest in a region dominated by military regimes.

A heavy turnout was reported among the nation's 840,000 registered voters. Small groups cheered and sang outside some of the more than 5,000 polling stations which opened under sunny skies at 5 a.m. (6 a.m. EST).

Presidential Race Close

Analysts said the presidential race was too close to call with the two top contenders — Luis Alberto Monge of the ruling National Liberation Party and Rodrigo Carazo of the Unity Coalition — in a dead heat.

Both men are progressive liberals. The other six candidates vying to succeed President Daniel Oduber were given little chance of winning.

If no candidate gets 40 per cent of the vote, a runoff election would be held in April.

Guillermo Villalobos Arce, the candidate of the National Unification Party which narrowly lost the last election, appeared to be in a position to split the opposition. There was speculation such a split might ensure a Monge victory.

Election Monitored

The ballots, marked in secret, are cast under the supervision of representatives of the nation's supreme elections tribunal who are charged with ensuring an honest vote. The tribunal is directed by businessmen and professionals and is sworn to strict neutrality.

Also monitoring the vote was a three-man delegation sent by the Organization of American States at Costa Rica's request.

Oduber, who is constitutionally barred from serving more than one term or endorsing any presidential candidate, urged his countrymen to vote in the election and unite behind the winner.

The constitution requires all citizens over 18 years of age to vote and provides for a small fine if they don't exercise the privilege. About 20 percent of the electorate abstained from voting last year and the figure was expected to rise to 24 percent this year.

East Areas Due Snows

Travelers advisories were issued for the Virginias, Maryland and Delaware, where snowfall could total as much as 4 inches. Travelers advisories remained in effect from Michigan into Indiana, where 1 or 2 inches of new snow was possible.

In the West, a Pacific weather front swept over northern California. Streets were flooded and power lines and trees were downed. There were scattered power interruptions in the San Francisco bay area.

The National Weather Service said high winds in the region reached gusts over 60 mph in some exposed areas.

By afternoon, the sun broke through in much of the region. But weather forecasters predicted the Sierras would be hit next by heavy rain and snow as the storm moved eastward Sunday evening.

Rain fell along the Pacific Coast from Southern California to Washington state and into the Plateau region as a series of Pacific storms moved onshore. A flash flood watch was issued for the mountains and coastal canyons of Los Angeles, Ventura and Santa Barbara counties. Snow was reported in the higher elevations of California with a travelers advisory in parts of the Sierra Nevada range.

Educator, Family Defend Busing Of Students

Schools Drafting Plans The Lubbock Independent School District is drafting plans to increase the racial balance and enrollment of nine minority schools, as required by U.S. District Judge Halbert O. Woodward. School officials say such a remedy may involve the entire school system.

What bothers Dietz has been the reaction, or lack of it, from four segments of the community:

—The news media. In Louisville, Dietz said, the city's newspaper and television and radio stations "gave a more progressive, balanced view of desegregation. Here, all they seem to report is the negative side."

—Texas Tech University. "I'm appalled at the lack of leadership at Tech. Nothing is going on in the school of education to prepare the school system for integration." In contrast, Dietz said, the University of Louisville was instrumental in bock is not so big that a sick child can't be driven from one part of town to another within 15 or 20 minutes — half an hour at most.

"Besides that, many parents work during the day. Even if their child is attending the school closest to home, they'd have the same problem picking him up in case of emergency."

In fact, Mrs. Dietz said, many working parents probably would find it easier to drive from their business, if it's located downtown, to a school in the central part of Lubbock than to a school in the suburbs.

Objection Disputed Another false objection to busing, she said, is that distance to schools will discourage parent participation in Parent-Teacher Associations and other school activities.

"We didn't find that to be true at all. When your school system is going through something such as integration, your help as a parent is needed — you feel needed. And it's this need, not the proximity to school, that determines how much parents participate in school activities," Mrs. Dietz said.

Regarding students, she sees busing as "a positive force. It shakes up the school system, injects new ideas into the way of doing things and spreads around the resources."

Her husband explained that when children from affluent homes in Jefferson County were assigned to inner-city schools, there was more pressure on the school system administration to upgrade those schools.

And, Dietz said, students assigned from the inner-city to the suburbs brought with them new programs that had been available only in central Louisville. "Jefferson County has a better school system now," he said.

Ride "Like Study Hall" Joe said that half-hour bus ride he used to take from the suburbs to the city was of little importance. "It was like a study hall," he said.

But his parents believe it was more than that. "There's no greater liberal education than taking a bus ride from the affluent part of the city into the downtown area — past the office buildings, the housing projects," Mrs. Dietz said. "The bus ride in itself gave Joey a feeling for the whole idea of integration — how other people live."

The Dietzes reside at 3024 60th St., near Parsons Elementary, where three of their children — Tim, Sharon and Beth — attend. Besides Joe, they have one other child — Mike, in pre-school.

They moved here in 1976 when Don Dietz accepted his position at Texas Tech.

Son Opposed Move "When we decided to leave Louisville and come to Lubbock, it was Joey who voiced the most opposition," Mrs. Dietz said.

"Because of his experiences at Coolidge Taylor, he had a real feel and love for the City of Louisville. It was something the kids in the suburbs never had a chance to enjoy."

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By SAM SHULSKY

Q. I margined some food stock at my brokerage firm in order to buy a large block of an income-type mutual fund. I'm paying more than 8 percent for the margin money and getting less from the fund. I'm very worried and can't sleep because of all the talk of a market crash.

A. I can't imagine what you thought you were accomplishing by borrowing margin money to buy an income fund. Margin is always an expensive source of money and mutual funds aren't likely to pay more than the margin money would cost you. (As a matter of fact, that margin loan costs more than you think because interest is compounded monthly.)

One of the virtues of mutual funds is that you can buy almost any reasonable number of shares you like. Why, then, is it necessary to go into debt to buy a big block of the shares? Certainly any reduction in the fund's commission earned by the large purchase was not sufficient to offset your heavy financing costs.

Again, if you are so desperately in need of income, what are you doing with a big block of stock which yields less than 4 percent? Why wasn't this investment shifted to higher yielding commons, preferreds or bonds?

I don't know what motivated this odd maneuver but I sure don't understand it. If you want income from your money, put it to work in income situations, and stop trying to make money on other people's money.

Q. I would like to clear up some points on mutuals. If I wanted to buy 100 shares of fund quoted "8.97...9.80-.02" what would I pay? If I already owned the shares and wanted to redeem, what would I get? What does that-.02 in the last column mean? Suppose I wanted to invest $1,000 in a fund with a par value of $1 a share but quoted "13.98 NL", how many shares would I get? If I were to redeem the shares, how would I know what I would be getting? What does "portfolio turnover rate" mean? What items in the prospectus should I pay attention to as a guide to performance?

A. You've covered a lot of ground. But here goes:

1. You would pay $9.80 a share, which includes a buying commission of 83 cents a share over the asset value per share of $8.97.

2. If you redeemed, you'd get $8.97.

3. The -.02 means the fund lost 2 cents a share in the previous day's market.

4. The "NL" means this is a "no load" (no-commission) fund. Therefore, you would get "1000 divided by 13.89" shares or 71.994 shares. (The "$1 par" means nothing.)

5) If you were to redeem that day you would get $13.89 a share (although some no-load funds do charge a small 1 percent or so redemption fee.)

6. Portfolio turnover indicated how many times a year the portfolio is turned over in trading.

7. You don't look at the prospectus for any evaluation of fund management. You look at the asset price of the shares. If it goes up, they're doing something right.

Q. Please comment on some unlisted 9 1/2 percent yield municipal bonds which are being offered to retired folks as good income sources.

A. I don't know the bonds. I don't know the organization offering them. I DO know that a yield of 9 1/2 percent indicates high risk. How high? Higher than the risk in an 8 percent bond, a 7 percent bond, a 6 percent bond.

Mineralogist Set For Tech Lecture

Dr. Dan McLachlan Jr., professor of mineralogy at Ohio State University, will deliver the annual Robert A. Welch Foundation Lecture in Chemistry at Texas Tech University, at 8 p.m., today, in room 5, of the Chemistry Building.

His subject will be "The Physical Chemistry of Crystal Growth."

The Welch lecturer is widely known for his contributions to a variety of scientific disciplines through his research in crystallography. He is recognized as an expert on crystal growth in minerals, solid-state phase transformations, and on the applications of x-ray diffraction techniques to the solution of problems in structure.

He has held several important long-term industrial consultancies and holds 12 patents covering a variety of areas.

McLachlan received the B.S. degree from Kansas State University and the M.S. and Ph.D. from Pennsylvania State University.

The lecture at Texas Tech is open to the public at no charge.

NOT YOUR REGULAR DAILY NEWS — Marshall Field, right, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, stands atop desk in city room, as he addressed the staff. Field told the employees that the Chicago Daily News, sole remaining afternoon paper in Chicago, will probably cease publication on March 4 unless its financial problems are solved. (AP Laserphoto)

Executives Seek Means Of Saving Newspaper

CHICAGO (UPI) — The executive board of the Chicago Newspaper Guild met in closed session Sunday to discuss ways to keep the Chicago Daily News from closing after more than 102 years of publication.

The proposals will be reviewed and voted on at a full membership meeting this evening, said Gerald Minkinen, executive director of the guild. Union leaders will then meet Tuesday to discuss them, a requirement under federal labor law.

The board of directors of Field Enterprises, Inc. which publishes both the Sun-Times and the Daily News, voted to Friday to "contemplate ceasing publication" of the Daily News March 4 unless an acceptable means can be devised to save it.

Publisher Marshall Field warned staffers at a meeting Friday it looks certain the newspaper, winner of 15 Pulitzer prizes, will not survive.

The Daily News, one of a number of struggling afternoon newspapers in the nation, has lost $21.7 million since 1974.

Federal labor law requires that newspapers considering radical changes must first discuss them with labor leaders. The meeting Tuesday fulfills that requirement, said James G. Stuart Jr., executive vice president and general counsel of Field Enterprises.

Stuart and Minkinen said they had been informed of two inquiries by outside enterprises about assuming control of the newspaper. Offers, however, were not discussed and prospective bidders were not named.

Anthony R. Martin-Trigona, a Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate and holder of several broadcast properties, said Saturday he has offered $250,000 to "purchase the trade name, Chicago Daily News, and also the good will and certain intangible assets of the paper."

Television Program Change Announced

The local Public Broadcasting Service station, Channel 5, has announced a change on its Monday night schedule.

An hour-long program, beginning at 7 p.m., was scheduled during the weekend.

Anwar Sadat will address members of the National Press Club during a news conference in Washington, D.C.

Newlywed Killed By Fall Of Ride In Amusement Park

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The brief marriage of Miguel and Cathy Garcia was ended by a 50-foot tumble in an amusement park gondola that killed the groom and left the bride in critical condition Sunday, officials said.

Garcia, 23, of suburban Rosemead, died of internal injuries and multiple fractures Saturday, just three hours after the skybucket at Magic Mountain amusement park dropped from its cable 100 yards from the tower where the newlyweds had entered alone.

The couple had driven from their wedding to the park, 25 miles northwest of Los Angeles, to begin their honeymoon, spokesmen said.

Mrs. Garcia, 24, of Chicago, underwent surgery for internal injuries Saturday night, said Pat Van Acker, a nursing supervisor at Henry Mayo Newhall Hospital.

A spokesman for Magic Mountain, Jack Ryan, said Saturday there had been no previous accidents on the aerial ride, which he said had undergone a safety check by park officials and governmental agencies just a week earlier. The ride has been in operation since the park opened in 1971.

Porsches Dominate Daytona

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Rolf Stommelen, Toine Hezemans and Peter Gregg teamed up to nurse their dying Porsche 935 turbo to victory Sunday in the 24 Hours of Daytona endurance race, as Porsches swept the top eight finishing positions. It was a record fourth personal victory for Gregg, even though he spent less than an hour behind the wheel.

Gregg, who captained a team of two Porsche 935s, spent most of his time in the car with which he started the race. It finished a distant eighth after losing 1 hour, 45 minutes early Sunday during an engine change.

Gregg's other entry performed almost flawlessly until seven hours from the finish when its engine began to belch smoke and burn oil at a dangerous pace. With a 130-mile lead, the drivers backed off to a very conservative pace the rest of the way.

At the end, the white, red-and-blue striped Porsche had traveled a record 2,606 miles, roughly the distance from here to Portland, Ore., and had a lead of about 120 miles over the sadly mangled Porsche turbo of two-time Indianapolis 500 winner Johnny Rutherford, Dick Barbour and Manfred Schurti.

The runner-up Porsche lost much of its right side in the first hour of the race when it crashed in the tri-oval section of the course after a tire disintegrated. Some of the left side was torn off in another mishap. The car dropped all the way to 12th once while oil lines damaged in the crash were repaired. Its chance for victory was lost after going down 16 laps early Sunday as the right front wheel was replaced.

Green Claims Title At Hawaiian Open

HONOLULU (AP) — Hubert Green and Bill Kratzert are good friends, but Green said he had to "Get up a hate for him" as they went into a sudden-death playoff Sunday in the $250,000 Hawaiian Open.

Green won the showdown with a 7-foot par putt on the second playoff hole and Kratzert lost it there by missing his 5-foot putt.

"It sounds strange," said a smiling Green after the dramatic finish, "but in a playoff situation you have to concentrate on getting up a grudge against the guy you're playing. You gotta want to get him, beat him."

Green recalled a playoff loss to Don Bies in the Hartford Open when he didn't get himself psyched up enough.

"How could you come down hard on Don Bies," Green said. "He's such a nice guy and I just couldn't seem to do it."

Green seemed calm despite the tension as the tournament went overtime. But Kratzert said he was not exactly relaxed.

"I was feeling a lot of pressure heading into the playoff," Kratzert said. "I was playing against the toughest guy I can think of."

Both players, who parred the first sudden-death playoff hole, No. 15, hit int bunkers around the 450-yard, par-4 16th. Kratzert hit out of the sand and near the hole. Then Green also hit a good shot to leave himself the winning putt that was worth $50,000. Kratzert won $28,500.

Saints Set To Name Field Boss

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The New Orleans Saints of the National Football League scheduled a news conference for Monday, reportedly to announce the hiring of a successor for fired Coach Hank Stram.

There was no official word on who the new coach would be, but it was reported Saturday that Don Coryell, head coach of the St. Louis Cardinals, appeared to be atop the list.

Harry Hulmes, the Saints' vice president for administration, said the team had narrowed the original field of 12 candidates to four, including Coryell.

The two finished regulation play over the 7,234-yard, par-72 Waialae Country Club Coorse with matching 274s, 14 under par.

Kratzert had begun the day in a second-place tie with Gene Littler, George Burns and Hale Irwin, three strokes behind Green's 203.

The current U.S. Open champion, Green had led from early in the second round until the 17th hole on the final day. He missed a short putt there for a bogey 4, falling into a tie with Kratzert.

Green, playing in the group behind Kratzert, missed a nine-foot birdie putt on the 18th that would have won it for him, but then made a scary three-footer to send the tournament into sudden death. Green carded a final-round 71 while Kratzert had a 68.

Mike Morley, Irwin and Bob Wynn tied for third, all at 275. Morley had a closing 66, Irwin shot a 69 and Wynn a 68.

Littler finished all alone at 276 with a 78 Sunday.

The victory was the 13th of his career for Green, and it came in the 13th annual edition of the Hawaiian Open.

The triumph also was his first since he defeated Lou Graham by a stroke to win the U.S. Open last June.

The winner's check puts Green, a 31-year-old who joined the PGA tour in 1970, near the $1 million earnings plateau with $960,000 in winnings. Kratzert, a promising 25-year-old who joined the tour in early 1976, had rounds of 70-67-69-68.

ChiChi Rodriguez, a gallery favorite with the large crowds at the Hawaiian Open, and Bill Calfee finished three strokes behind the leaders with totals of 277.

The final two rounds of the tournament were nationally televised live — except for the playoff holes.

Smith Paces East To All-Star Win

ATLANTA (AP) — Randy Smith, the lightning-quick guard of the Buffalo Braves, scored 27 points, grabbed seven rebounds and handed out six assists to lead the East to a 133-125 victory over the West in the 28th annual National Basketball Association All-Star game.

Smith, playing despite five personal fouls, took command of the game down the stretch, scoring 14 of his points in the fourth quarter to help the East to a come-from-behind victory.

"My job is to run and sometimes take a few jump shots," said the 29-year-old Smith, who has improved steadily during his seven pro seasons since being drafted on the seventh round in 1971.

"I've learned to use my speed because that's the best thing I have going for me."

There was nothing wrong with Smith's shooting touch either as he connected on 11 of 14 tries from the field including a pair of long shots at the end of the first and the second periods.

"Believe it or not, I've been doing that all year at Buffalo," he said of his buzzer-beating bombs.

The East trailed by as many as 17 points in the first half and was behind 108-96 early in the fourth quarter before Smith took command, with help from teammates Julius Erving and Dave Cowens.

Smith scored six straight baskets and helped his team reel off 15 consecutive points midway through the fourth quarter to take a 119-113 lead, the first time the East was in front since the opening basket of the game.

"We seemed to lose a little rhythm when we lost our lead," said West Coach Jack Ramsay. "They were able to sustain their momentum once they got the lead."

Ramsay also said Smith's performance did not surprise him.

"What you saw Randy Smith do today, I've seen many times," said Ramsay.

"Randy played a fantastic game," said East Coach Billy Cunningham. "I thought of taking him out, but I decided to let him play with five fouls because he was so effective."

Erving, limited to just five points in the first three periods, had a basket and nine free throws in the last five minutes of the game and teamed with Cowens to dominate the rebounding down the stretch.

Smith, who was not a starter, was voted the game's most valuable player for which he received a trophy and a car.

It was the East's third victory in the last four All-Star games and gave it an 18-10 in the midwinter competition.

Erving, last year's MVP, and Larry Kenon added 16 points each for the East while Cowens, Doug Collins and Bob McAdoo scored 24 apiece.

David Thompson topped the West with 22 points and Paul Westphal scored 20.

John Havlicek, who had announced that he will be retiring this summer after 17 seasons with the Boston Celtics, received a standing ovation from the sell-out crowd of 15,491 at the Omni when he was introduced before the game.

Havlicek, who tied an NBA record shared by Bob Cousy and Wilt Chamberlain by making his 13th All-Star appearance, responded by scoring the first basket of the game and had six of the East's first eight points.

High School Grid Pair Commits To Raiders

By CARTER CROMWELL
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
With the Wednesday Southwest Conference signing date just two days away, 12 high school prospects have told the Avalanche-Journal that they have committed to Texas Tech.

Most recently, quarterback Steve Stamp and tight end Kevin Kolbye, both of R.L. Turner (Carrollton), have told the A-J that they have given their commitments to the Red Raiders.

Others that have informed the Avalanche-Journal of their commitments to Tech are linemen Randy Hudson of Arlington Sam Houston, Mark Mullen of San Angelo Central, David West of L.D. Bell, Tom Randol of San Antonio Churchill and Mike Stewart of Stafford-Dulles.

Running backs Wes Hightower of Dallas Bishop Dunne and Phil Weatherall of Greenville, back-line-backer Lewis Washington of Kerens, defensive back Greg Iseral of Monterey and wideout Mike Jackson of Houston Lee have also said that they plan to attend Tech next fall.

In addition, Ricky Kempf, a 6-1, 220-pound transfer linebacker from Independence (Mo.) Junior College, has signed with the Raiders and is currently attending classes.

Stamp, a 6-0, 185-pounder, said his final choice was between TCU and Tech. Kolbye, a 6-4 1/2, 215-pounder, chose Tech over TCU and LSU.

Following the Wednesday conference signing date, the SWC schools will then have worry for another week until the national signing date of Feb. 15, when they can first ink prospects to letters-of-intent that are binding throughout the country.

DePaul Emerges As Classy Team

Chicago has suddenly surfaced as a Top Twenty spoiler.

The Blue Demons showed Saturday night why they are ranked No. 13 in the country, beating Oral Roberts 63-57 for their 18th victory in 20 games.

DePaul has emerged as one of the country's best teams this season under the venerable Ray Meyer and Lovola of

LAST DITCH EFFORT — Western Conference's Paul Westphal (44) attempts to pass to a teammate after colliding with Eastern Conference's Doug Collins (20) at the NBA All-Star game in Atlanta Sunday. (AP Laserphoto)

"This is one of my favorite teams," says Meyer, who has been with DePaul for nearly four decades. "It'll take a good team to beat us. It's a fine team in that we shoot with consistency and play with consistency. Plus, these kids bust their necks for me. We'll get better, too."

Curtis Watkins scored 15 points, hitting six free throws in the last three minutes to seal DePaul's victory.

"The reason we were unable to blow them out was they double-teamed our center, Dave Corzine, and it was hard to get the ball to him," said Meyer. "And even when we did get it to him, they collapsed a third man on him. They forced us to shoot from the perimeter and while we're shooting 51 per cent from the floor all year we only shot 40 per cent tonight."

Larry Knight scored 17 points and collected 25 rebounds in Loyola's victory over Georgetown. Gary Fereisel scored two clutch layups and then Knight sank two free throws to highlight Loyola's scoring in overtime.

Only one other ranked team was beaten Saturday when Wake Forest trimmed 11th-ranked Virginia 74-62. Otherwise, results went according to form as top-ranked Kentucky walloped Florida 88-67. No. 2 Arkansas beat Rice 69-48; No. 4 Notre Dame crushed Davidson 100-76; No. 5 UCLA routed California 94-75; No. 6 North Carolina stopped Virginia Tech 101-88; No. 7 Michigan State whipped Indiana 68-59; No. 8 Kansas edged Oklahoma 69-68; No. 9 Louisville topped Cincinnati 83-76 and No. 10 New Mexico defeated Colorado State 91-82.

Also, No. 12 Texas blasted TCU 87-60; No. 15 Florida State topped St. Louis 72-68; No. 16 Providence routed Rhode Island 79-59 and No. 20 San Francisco outlasted Seattle University 96-85.

Frank Johnson scored 19 points and three other Wake Forest players hit double figures to lead the Deacons past Virginia. Wake Forest broke out on an early lead and then coasted the rest of the way.

"The man-to-man defense we played today was exceptional," said Wake Forest Coach Carl Taylor. "It was as good as we've played all year. By and large, we kept their shooters from getting the ball, and that was certainly vital."

Kyle Macy scored 30 points and Kentucky used a 13-2 run at the start of the second half to defeat Southeastern Conference colleague Florida Jack Gwalt and James Lee each added 14 points for the Wildcats.

"We just weren't active defensively and in rebounding in the first half," said Kentucky Coach Joe Hall. "But in the second half, we ganged the boards and went out with a lot more effort, especially Mike Phillips. He got us moving."

Of Macy. Hall noted: "It was his best game so far and he's already had some good ones. He's truly a great player. He was hitting a lot of shots out of the corners. We didn't set it up that way. Kyle had a free hand to find an open spot. I was encouraging the other guards that Macy had a hot hand and they should hand off."

Ron Brewer scored 17 points in a balanced Arkansas attack to lead the Razorbacks past Rice for their 21st victory in 22 games. Sidney Moncreil scored 13 points and had nine rebounds and Marvin Delph contributed 12 points for the Southwest Conference leaders.

Five players, led by Dave Batton's 16 points, scored in double figures to lead Notre Dame over Davidson.

Marquette Edges By SC 69-66

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Third-ranked Marquette, helped by two technical fouls against South Carolina, scored a 69-66 double overtime victory over the Gamecocks in a nationally televised basketball game Sunday.

The triumph spoiled what appeared until the last 16 seconds of regulation to be a happy ending for Frank McGuire Appreciation Day. The veteran South Carolina coach, honored during halftime ceremonies, is scheduled to retire after next season.

Defending national champion Marquette, 17-2, trailed until Butch Lee hit two free throws with 16 seconds remaining in regulation, tying the score at 49.

A last-second shot by South Carolina's Kenny Reynolds bounced off the rim, sending the game into overtime.

Marquette started both overtimes by converting a technical foul after the Gamecocks, 11-11, were penalized for delaying tactics by not coming out of their zone defense quickly enough.

The second technical proved costly, as Marquette took a three-point lead on Lee's free throw and a basket by Gary Rosenberg.

South Carolina cut the gap to one point twice, but Rosenberg scored on a three-point play, and Lee clinched the victory with two free throws with 11 seconds to play, giving Marquette a 69-64 advantage.

The Gamecocks used a zone defense and a deliberate offense to hold the lead until the closing minutes, when they missed four free-throw attempts.

The Warriors led twice in the first five minutes of play, with their biggest lead at 9-6 with 14:24 left in the period. Then Gole Augustus hit two free throws and Karlton Hilton scored a basket to put the Gamecocks ahead, 10-9.

South Carolina led 26-20 at halftime. In the first overtime, Marquette controlled the tip and held the ball when USC dropped into its zone defense. Officials warned the Gamecocks to come out of the zone. USC briefly went man-to-man but fell back into the zone and was assessed a technical foul.

In the second overtime, the technical was assessed for the same reason without warning.

Ector Bouncing Back After Faulty Start

By JIM FERGUSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
There are some folks wondering out loud "Whatever happen to the Ector Eagles' basketball team?"

Folks, the Eagles are alive, well, and trying their damndest to win the second half of the District 2-AAA cage race.

At the beginning of the high school cage season, the Eagles were pegged as one of the top AAA teams, not only in the area, but also in the entire Lone Star State.

Since then, the Odessa group, has won 19 games against nine setbacks. And those nine losses have set tongues to flapping.

"We are just now putting things together," Ector coach Keith Thompson said. "Overall, our team is starting to play better after the slow start."

The slow start Thompson is talking about concerns the Eagles' inability to win the loop's first half crown. The title was captured by somewhat surprising capture by Monahans. Ector ended the first half with a 4-1 mark, Monahans 5-0.

During the first Monahans-Ector contest, the Lobos overcame a ten-point deficit with four minutes remaining in the game to score the dramatic win.

Thompson said the Monahans comeback is "still a mystery." "We've looked at films and talked about it but that loss is still had to explain. I guess we got cold at the wrong time and they got hot."

However, Ector came back two weeks later to blow the Lobos off the throne 92-68 and avenge the earlier loss.

"The loss we had to Monahans made the kids down here wake wake a little bit," Thompson pointed out. "Now we are getting ready to win."

But first the Eagles must get by three more opponents before they can claim the second-half crown and force the Lobos into a playoff for the overall loop crown.

Ector must first meet surprising Andrews Tuesday night. Andrews and Ector are currently tied in the second half with identical 2-0 marks.

"They (Andrews) are the toughest team we have left," Thompson said.

During the first half, Ector had little trouble knocking off the Mustangs, winning the contest 90-62. So much for tough games.

Ector, who owns the District 2-AAA title last year but was forced to stay at home during the playoffs due to a suspension handed down by the University Interscholastic League because one of the Eagles had played in too many tournaments, hope to regain the momentum which carried it to the state crown in 1976.

WTC Seeking WJCC Win

Western Texas College seeks its fifth road victory of Western Junior College Conference action tonight in Amarillo in the key league game.

The three-time defending champions recently share the loop lead with Odessa at 9-3 and New Mexico Military Institute is just a step behind at 8-4.

WTC is 20-5 in the year, as is Odessa, but has won more road games than anyone else in the league. AC brings a 15-10, 6-6 record in tonight's outing, but has won five games at home.

Odessa, which has three road wins, travels to Howard (15-10, 5-7).

Other conference games pit Midland (12-13, 3-9) at Frank Phillips (12-10, 6-6), New Mexico JC (11-14, 3-9) at South Plains (13-10, 5-7) and Clarendon (12-10, 6-6) at NMMI (9-7).

Two women's conference outings are on tap, with league-leading Western Texas at (13-6, 7-1) facing Amarillo (10-5, 3-4) and Odessa (7-12, 3-6) at Howard (20-3, 6-1).

Namath To Appear In NBC Sit-Com

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Namath, who recently announced his retirement after 13 years in pro football, has begun rehearsals for an NBC-TV comedy pilot, "Waverly Wonders."

Namath will portray a basketball coach at fictional Waverly High School in Ohio. NBC, which plans to announce the project on Monday, will bill the prospective hour-long series as the "hilarious misadventures of a winless high school basketball team," according to an industry source.

Namath plays Harry Casey, one of the school's history teachers who gives up playing pro basketball for the Toledo Torpedoes and reluctantly takes the coaching assignment at Waverly.

The project is scheduled to be taped starting Feb. 13 at studios in Burbank, Calif.

NBC is making the pilot in conjunction with Lorimar Productions, with whom Namath is under contract.

The former quarterback for the New York Jets and Los Angeles Rams has appeared in three motion pictures and has made numerous television appearances.

Longhorns, Hogs Continue SWC Cage Power Play

By The Associated Press
Saturday's round of Southwest Conference games proved disappointing for the upset-minded as the leaders — Texas and Arkansas — continued to power their respective ways through the league.

The second-ranked Razorbacks toyed with a hapless Rice team, 69-48, despite a poor shooting night of only 47 percent. Rice, one rung up from the SWC basement, even managed to out-rebound the home team, 39-32, but hit only 34 percent of its shots.

Razorback coach Eddie Sutton said his charges had a "miserable first half but we were better in the second...Our club isn't playing as well as earlier. We must improve in three areas: rebounds, fast breaks and defense. These three areas are not allowing us to blow a team out."

Meanwhile in Austin, Abe Lemmons' 12th-ranked Longhorns had an equally easy time of it with the cellar-dwelling TCU Horned Frogs. Jim Krivacs and company kept the Horns atop the SWC by a half game over Arkansas with a 87-60 sleeper.

A regional television audience watched as Lemmons pulled most of his starters when the game was out of reach and began a bit of experimenting.

"We could have kept going to Krivacs and looked smooth but there was no need in doing that," he said. "We were trying some other stuff for the future and it was on TV, so there was no point in running things up."

Texas Tech held its third place SWC ranking Saturday with a 78-62 victory over sixth place Baylor. The Red Raiders had four men in double figures, led by big Mike Russell, who dropped in 23 points.

Tech coach Gerald Myers conceded

Hit List Issued

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Baltimore Oriole shortstop Mark Belanger says he has a revenge "hit list" for runners who slide into him with their spikes high, according to a newspaper report Saturday.

Belanger, appearing at a clinic to instruct youngsters in the finer points of baseball, said Friday that he has deliberately hit at least one runner in the head with a baseball instead of going for a double play, according to a story in the Albany Knickerbocker News.

"I know who I'm after and they do too," Belanger was quoted as saying. "I've already got one guy in the head with a ball and the others will get it too." "If you don't, they'll take advantage of you," said Belanger, a native of nearby Pittsfield, Mass. "At that point you might as well quit."

job done." Bears' coach Jim Haller called it a "very disappointing game for us. We played terrible. I think it was a culmination of all our earlier heartbreaks in the last couple of weeks."

The duel of the night proved to be in Houston where the Cougars duked it out with the Texas Aggies and finally pulled the rug out from under the visitors, 94-89.

Houston, 4th in the SWC, swapped leads with AM 14 times and benefitted from a couple of last minute technical fouls before the game was decided. The Aggies reluctantly maintained seventh place in the conference but not before freshman Vernon Smith hit 31 points and gave the home folks a good scare. Southern Methodist sat out Saturday's round.

Bald Is Beautiful For Arkansas Trackster

NEW YORK (AP) — Niall O'Shaughnessy, the wispy Irishman, couldn't help but chuckle when he said, "Bald-headed wonder."

He didn't say it maliciously in reference to bald Dick Buerkle, the 30-year-old former Spanish teacher who had come out of retirement this season and set a world indoor record of 3 minutes, 54.9 seconds for the mile, becoming the glamour man of the event.

He said it only with pride and satisfaction Saturday night after having beaten Buerkle with a smart last-lap kick in the 1,500-meter race at the U.S. Olympic Invitational Track and Field Meet at Madison Square Garden.

O'Shaughnessy, a senior at the University of Arkansas, is running a low-key program this year after feeling that he burnt himself out early in 1977 before the NCAA Championships in which he finished second to Wilson Waigwa. The Olympic Invitational was his first major meet of the year — he previously ran in two tri-angulans in Missouri — and he was well prepared for the heralded Buerkle.

He let Buerkle set all the pace for the first 9/4 laps of the 10 1/4-lap race, while staying just a couple of yards behind him. Then, just before the gun for the final lap, he surged into the lead and won going away in the meet record time of 3:39.8.

Buerkle, puffing throughout the race, couldn't even hold second place. Mike Slack of the Chicago Track Club moved up quickly on the last lap to nip Buerkle for the runner-up spot, with both runners timed in 3:40.7.

"I was glad to see Buerkle get out fast," explained O'Shaughnessy, with an accent befitting a man from County Limerick. "I like a fast pace. I knew that if I stuck with him until the last lap, I could beat him. The whole race went exactly the way I wanted it."

"I don't want to make any excuses, he won the race," said the disappointed Buerkle, after his bubble had been burst. "But I haven't been feeling well all week."

He said that he had suffered a foot injury while running 13 miles on Jan. 29, curtailing his pre-meet training.

"I didn't have the lift or the drive on the final lap," he said.

O'Shaughnessy's victory earned him the award as the outstanding male athlete of the meet.

The women's award went to Francie Larrieu for her gutsy triumph in the women's 1,500.

Larrieu churned into the lead after the first lap, then withstood three challenges by her arch-rival, Jan Merrill, and one by Cindy Bremser in winning in the meet record time of 4:14.7. Merrill, trying for her second double in eight days — earlier in the meet, she had won had the 800 meters after capturing the half-mile and the 1,500 at the recent Millrose Games — wound up second in 4:15.3.

The victory avenged Larrieu's narrow loss to Merrill in the Millrose 1,500 and a setback to Mary Decker in the 1,000 at the Los Angeles Times Games Friday night.

"I was more confident than last week," said Larrieu. "I just went out and ran the pace I should have been running. Last week, I ran Jan's pace. And her doubling up helped."

Pampa Harvests Share Of T's During Tascosa Encounter

By TOM HALLIBURTON

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
Gary Abercrombie has seen the sign which reads, "Keep the T on top at Tascosa," but the Pampa basketball coach wonders how the officials interpret that sign.

The first-year cage coach of the Harvesters was sitting quietly on his team bench Friday night when official Royce Cox of Big Spring called a technical on Abercrombie's assistant, John Randles. Within a minute, the head coach's temperature had risen and two more technicals were tossed at him.

Suddenly, Tascosa commanded a 42-32 lead in the opening minute of the second half instead of a 37-32 edge. Yet the young Pampa boss says the three T's came at a great time. The angered Harvesters returned to the floor with the killer instinct, outscored Tascosa 15-2 in the next five minutes and coasted to an important 72-58 victory.

The win moved Pampa into the driver's seat for a shot at the District 3-AAAA playoff spot. The Harvesters end their regular season this week, entertaining Palo Duro and Amarillo High in the Green Pit.

"The technicals probably changed the complexion of the cause our kids took the time to settle down and realize what they had to do in order to get back in the game."

Abercrombie admitted both benches were "yelling and bench jockeying" the officials because of the nature of the game. However, the coach was astonished by the three technicals.

"My assistant never got off the bench. He didn't say anything. Then I went up and said to the official that both benches were hollering and screaming and we would try to be careful. Then he (Cox) gave me one and told me not to say anything. And I told him the clock was dead and I had a right to talk to the official. So he gave me another one," the coach said.

When the whistles silenced, Pampa started playing a devastating brand of basketball with a lineup, which Abercrombie used for the first time Friday night. To add more height and rebound strength, the coach inserted junior post Steve Stout (6-6) and junior forward Darrell Hughes (6-3). The change resulted after 5-7 guard Steve Duke had sprained an ankle 10 days ago.

The two juniors join senior Rickey Bunton (6-6) up front with guards Rusty

Ward (6-5) and Tim Reddell (5-8) still the mainstays. Bunton and Ward are the two returning starters from last year's bi-district champion team.

"Bunton is just a super player. He's a consistent 20-point scorer and schools from the Big 10 and the Pacific coast have shown interest in him. He's a hard worker."

"Ward is a little more versatile but not as consistent. He's the explosive type. One night he'll score 9 points and then 11 points. Then Friday night, he had 14 in the third quarter, 22 in the second half and 27 for the game. He's 6-5 and he can handle the ball real well," Abercrombie said.

If Pampa wins this week's two district games, the Harvesters would like a rematch with the Monterey team which defeated them 66-61 in Lubbock Jan. 3. The Pampa players think the outcome might change the second time.

"Monterey played as good as they could play that night. We felt like we played an average game against them. They shot the ball just super and yet we only lost by five. We didn't feel when the game was over that it would have ended that way on a neutral floor," the Pampa coach said.

But for now, Pampa has to reach the bi-district game before worrying about the opponent any.

Hollywood Stars Depend On 'Dialect Doctor'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—When an actor comes down with a severe case of bilabial split fricatives, he usually turns to one doctor for the cure: Robert Easton, O.D.A.S.

Easton recently returned from Switzerland, where he spent eight weeks treating Jill Ireland during the filming of "Love and Bullets, Charlie."

It was Miss Ireland who laid the O.D.A.S. on him. It means, "Orkness Dialects a Specialty." Easton is dialect doctor to the stars.

He had been called to Europe to teach the British-born actress to speak with an Arkansas accent. On his departure, she presented him with a leather-bound script holder with his new title.

He is better known as the "Henry Higgins of Hollywood," transforming cockney-accented Liza Doolittles into fair ladies. Or vice versa.

He taught Beau Bridges to speak like an upper class Englishman for "Four Feathers." And Laurence Olivier to talk like an American for "The Betsy." Gregory Peck came to him to acquire a German accent for "The Boys From Brazil."

Just prior to an interview at his Pasadena home, Easton had a rush call to help a young actress, Sally Boyden, lose her Australian accent for "Lassie, My Lassie."

Easton, a lanky Texan with red hair, moustache and spade beard, was in 56 movies and hundreds of television shows before his dialect coaching began to squeeze out acting.

"As a character actor I had specialized in dialect roles," he said. "I always lost the leading lady. In 'Coming Round the Mountain' with Abbott and Costello I walked around saying, 'I wuz kicked in the head by a mule, ha, ha, ha.' Intellectually stimulating as these roles were, I wanted to extend my repertoire.

"That's when I began working with other actors, studying phonetics and taping dialect all over the world."

Although largely self-taught — he had to overcome his own Texas twang — Easton studied phonetics at University College in London during three years he lived there with his British-born wife, June. He also teaches at the University of California College of Continuing Education and Sherwood Oaks Experimental College. Virtually every room of his home is stuffed with books on dialect — 17,000 volumes in all.

"I kid around with the dialects when I teach," he said. "I find that when I have to be a disciplinarian I am more comfortable doing it in a German accent. 'I just follow ze orders.'"

"Different dialects have different psychological overtones. Emotions are better expressed in French, Italian or Russian. Scottish is very impassive. Knowing the right gestures is also important in speaking a dialect correctly."

Easton still acts occasionally. He was last seen as the muddling preacher in "The Last of the Mohicans" on television.

"I just had a weekend to spend with Beau Bridges," Easton said. "He has a phenomenal ear. It was remarkable. He had no reservations about being the only American in the cast."

He said he looks for the best way to put the dialect across. "We go over the script and get it on tape so he can listen to it later," he said. "If an actor approaches me, I never have any trouble. But if a producer sends for me to bail someone out you may get resistance. It's an ego thing. Three-fourths of the battle is wanting help."

He said his most exciting experience was working with Olivier. He said, "We flew to location in Rhode Island on the same plane and I coached him all the way. They filmed at night and I would be on the set listening to every rehearsal and take. If it wasn't right, I'd whisper to the director."

Working with Jill Ireland was more difficult — but only because the dialogue was constantly being rewritten.

"She had to have a very specific dialect of the hill country of Arkansas," he said. "A lot of what is considered dialect is merely the retention of the very proper English of Chaucer's time. It's the upper class that has constantly changed. It's considered very chic to use new forms."

Lindsay Wagner came to him when she had to play a lookalike with a Southern accent on "The Bionic Woman." He coached Cicely Tyson for her role as Harriet Tubman in a television movie. She had to speak in a particular black dialect of the 1880s. He taught LeVar Burton a rural black accent for "Almos 'a Man," on the American Short Story Theater on PBS.

"I taught George American Horse to speak as an Indian approaching English as a second language," he said. "He had an Okie accent."

Easton said he often works from 5:30 a.m. to midnight coaching clients and teaching classes. One actress had to rush off for a role and needed quick instruction for an Irish accent. He met her at the airport at 4:30 a.m. and coached her while waiting for her plane. "The other people there thought we were crazy," he said in an Irish brogue.

Throughout the interview Easton illustrated with the appropriate dialect. Once he talked in Old English and was unintelligible.

Not all of his clients are in show business. Two lawyers who had been losing cases came to him. "The first had a New York accent and the juries thought he was too slick," he said. "I moved him toward a generalized American accent. The second had a Southern accent and talked so slow the juries lost interest. I had to slow down the New York and wind up the Southerner."

He has also helped businessmen, lecturers and others in the public eye who wanted to lose bothersome accents.

"I guided them into making the sound they wanted to hear," Easton said. "Objectively, there is no correct pronunciation of English. It's all subjective. It's what sounds good to you."

Distinguished Performance Gives 'Kaspar' Vitality

By WILLIAM D. KERNS
A-J Entertainment Editor

The program notes for the Texas Tech University Lab Theater's production of "Kaspar" indicate that the Peter Handke play is "taken from the true story of a 16-year-old boy named Kaspar Hauser who turned up mysteriously in Nuremberg in 1828. He had with him a letter explaining that a poor laborer had found him as a baby on his doorstep and had fed him and kept him confined in a cellar."

"Although he had the physical and mental capacity of a 'normal' person, Hauser had not developed beyond childhood — he could barely walk or talk. Handke uses this intriguing character not to show how it really is or was with Kaspar Hauser, but to explain what is theoretically possible with someone."

Theatrically possible with someone? Director Cindy Melby's final note is one of the more vague and nondescript statements ever tacked on to a program. Her rendition of the German play, translated into English by Michael Roloff, is also vague at times, but nevertheless full of exciting and tortuous vitality. A thick piece of sorts, it possesses both the joy of innocence and the sinister control of "1984."

Extremely theatrical — perhaps too theatrical for some, with its

INFANTLIKE CURIOSITY — Portraying a young man learning speech and logic for the first time, Steven Peters goes through a bit of hilarious choreography with a folding chair in the Lab Theater's current production of "Kaspar." The play boasts direction by Cindy Melby. It will be staged again at 8:15 p.m. today through Wednesday; call the Lab Theater box office for reservations. (Staff Photo by Gary Davis)

A-J THEATER REVIEW

whiteface makeup and all — it is at once daring and meaningful, comic and terrifying, and without a doubt deserves to be seen.

The play opens with Steven Peters' entrance in the title role: stumbling in the clumsiness which accompanies childlike curiosity, exploring, testing, communicating (even with inanimate objects) through only sentence. Indeed, that sentence "I want to be a person like somebody else was once" — is the only verbal offering during the production's initial ten minutes, spouted in a multitude of expressionistic inflections.

And it doubtful whether anyone, be they professional or virtually untested, could bring more emotion to the part of Kaspar than does Peters; his is a performance rarely equalled on even the most distinguished university stage.

The only other participants, so to speak, are five prompters who use logic and also the inconsistent truths of language to confuse, to brainwash the innocent Kaspar into losing first his individuality and later his self-confidence and, ultimately, all semblance of self-control. We see him bombarded by words: a teaching process by which the "child" learns the bitter emotions in place of the sweet. Learning to walk, after all, can bring about its share of hurts and scrapes due to lost duels with shoelaces and gravity — but the sting is meant to be temporary. Peters transcends his own experience to evoke universal discomfort when he states, "Falling only hurts since I learned how to speak. The pain never stops anymore, ever since I can feel ashamed at falling."

The prompters — Judy Blue, Jerry Cotton, Vanessa Hill, Karl Gore and Debbie Lemen — involve Kaspar in a battle of contradictions, both through the spoken word and physical action. Moving: is it running or limping on crutches? Don't stand when you can sit — sitting all your life is not good. Kaspar is blinded to the in-between; the teachers, torturers if you will, shape and form flesh with words and phrases until, at last, their subject is familiar only with fear and conformity.

One of Peters' most brilliant moments comes at the close of Act One, when he struggles to keep his hand in a 3-finger Boy Scout salute while relating, as though reciting for inspection, how he has changed. Fearful of reproach from his teachers, desiring assistance from his classmates (the audience), his struggle is hard. His arm grows too heavy, his fingers uncontrollable.

Almost predictably, rebellious concepts creep in and his fingers tighten into a fist he can lift. But it is the final glance Peters offers which is the most frightening, a sort of half smile as though to say he knows he has some sort of power, but is not really sure just what he's going to do with it. Or whether he could even if he wanted to.

All we know for certain is that his dreams are lost. He no longer wants to be like somebody else was once. He has learned violence. He has learned greed. Envy and fear. The child is no more.

In Act Two, Kaspar fights his oppressors with the same weapon. Words. As he puts it, "I learned to pacify everything that screams with sentences." Peters is magnificent with his emotional shifts here, involved mainly in a long monologue in which he expresses first his ego, then realization of false power while telling us his schooling history. Walking up aisles, Peters, with an incredibly emoting pair of eyes, relates, "With my first sentence, I was trapped. ... I have been converted to reality." There can be no worse fate.

Brainwashers turn vindictive. Chaos reigns. Destruction is imminent.

Naturally, in any piece of thought-provoking theatrics, a one-time experience is nowhere near enough to capture all nuances or messages. But the unmistakable talents of Peters — who is equally adept at expressing innocence and shame, boldness and terror — and director Cindy Melby make "Kaspar" an enthralling production of a "what if" story. Miss Melby's stage decisions — the prompters set off by screens (Kaspar tormented by disconnected voices), the choreographed clumsiness with chairs and table drawers, Kaspar himself leaving the stage to

And I might add, a play such as this is the perfect vehicle for small, intimate theaters the likes of the Lab.

Overlapping dialogue can be a problem, though, in that not everything is understood. (This can be taken a different way, in that the overlapping helps us empathize with Kaspar's confusion.) The prompters' different deliveries helped out. Reasoning behind lighting effects was sometimes unclear, though the blackouts were always effectively used. And one has to question the furious antics of the others on stage while Peters is speaking.

As incredibly funny as their roughhouse cruelties are, nothing they do seems as important as the fantastic and revealing words being delivered by Peters. Too often, the volume of the extras interfered.

There were also some technical problems with microphones Saturday night but, throughout, the play stood up as one of the more daring and entertaining productions this city has seen. It is total theater, horrifying us too often by stripping reality of its many disguises. Steven Peters, by his performance in this play alone, proves he and the stage should remain close friends. And Cindy Melby's imaginative way of granting us comedy, and scaring us in the process, shows that she, too, should remain no stranger to the craft.

"Kaspar" is theater in its truest and most difficult form. It demands thought, deserves appreciation. It may earn a variety of responses and, personally, I hope that's the case. That this play, which denotes the act of brainwashing someone into conformity, could draw such individualistic responses would, after all, be the biggest paradox of all.

"Kaspar" will be staged at 8:15 p.m. today through Wednesday. Steven Peters and Robin M. Stanton are alternating in the title role; call the theater box office for reservations and cast information.

Rio Jammed As Carnival Continues

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Samba music played from every corner of this southeastern Brazilian city and dancing continued without a break Sunday as millions celebrated at the nation's annual carnival.

An estimated five million city residents and 400,000 tourists jammed into Rio de Janeiro for the opening parade on Saturday followed by a procession Sunday featuring 20,000 musicians, singers and dancers.

Thousands crowded into the giant ca-

neco dance hall for the carnival ball Saturday night. At one point, police escorted a woman out of the hall when she removed her sequined halter top while dancing.

In the 100-plus temperatures, some bars were reported running out of beer.

About 27,000 policemen were assigned to patrol the street until the carnival festivities end on Ash Wednesday. Police reported a high incidence of assaults. One victim told police that thieves robbed him of his watch, shoes and $20 and then gave him 50 cents for bus fare home.

Police Chief Jose Gomes Sobrinho, in charge of carnival security, said the festival opened "with complete normality and tranquility."

Several rock stars were in Brazil for the festivities, including Rod Stewart, Peter Frampton and Elton John.

In Salvador, about 780 miles to the northeast, huge floats carrying musicians rolled through the streets Saturday as thousands of people sang and danced in the procession.

Biographical Exhibition Portrays Sir Thomas More

LONDON (UPI) — King Henry VIII sent Sir Thomas More to the Tower scaffold where he uttered his famous words, "The King's good servant, but God's first."

More served his monarch, his God and his own conscience with a dedication that made him one of history's greatest Englishmen.

He was without doubt a man for all seasons — lawyer, gentleman, humanist scholar, writer and philosopher whose works included "Utopia," brilliant diplomat and statesman, the highest official of his land, martyr.

The National Portrait Gallery is marking the 500th anniversary of More's birth on Feb. 7, 1478 with a major retrospective of his life.

It sets him in the context of his age, an early 16th century torn by political and religious upheavals. It traces his career through the exciting if uncertain years of Henry VIII's reign, etches the splendor at court and the atmosphere of learning and gentleness that characterized More's life at home.

"The exhibition is one of the most comprehensive biographical surveys of a great man ever to be staged," said John Hayes, the National Portrait Gallery director.

"So much about More's life and work is relevant to our own times. His integrity and courage, the humor and sense of irony which tempered the rigor of his mind, the total absence of pretentiousness that marked his public life, the love of family — all combine to make More one of the most appealing figures in English history."

The exhibition, which ends March 12, includes Windsor Castle's famous drawings by Holbein of More and his family. There is Holbein's only surviving painting of Henry VIII, considered one of the best and most revealing impressions of the Tudor king.

More's own prayer book, with the margin notes he made while awaiting death in the Tower of London, is on display as well as scores of important books, manuscripts, letters and documents written by

The written material illuminates More's extraordinary integrity, his refreshing wit, his spiritual and humanitarian qualities.

Teen-Agers Read Whole Bible Aloud

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — There were a number of exhausted teen-agers with drooping eyelids, but a Pontotoc minister found out how long it takes to read the Bible straight through — 66 hours, 58 minutes.

The Rev. Don Taggart had been curious for a number of years about how long it would take to read from Genesis to Revelation. With the help of eight young church volunteers he found out. The non-stop reading session was tape recorded.

"I always wondered about this, but I was not ready to tackle it by myself," said Taggart, 22, pastor of the Bethlehem Free Will Baptist Church in Pontotoc. "I had been planning to do this for almost a year but had never been able to enlist any help. I decided that during the Christmas holidays I would try it."

Taggart, a native of Vernon, Ala., assembled the teen-agers on a Tuesday evening, and the group completed reading the 1,834-page King James version on the following Friday.

"We worked in shifts, two on each shift," he said in a telephone interview. "We kept going on a continuous basis for the entire period. Each person would read about 20 or 30 minutes and the next person would then take over."

Taggart, a student at Itawamba Junior College in Fulton, said he believes the feat is a world record. He has mailed the certification to the Guinness Book of World Records in London.

"I have not heard from Guinness but, from doing research, I have never found where anyone has tried this," he said.

Taggart said the Old Testament took 52 hours to read and the New Testament 14 hours, 58 minutes.

College Sets Photo Contest

ODESSA (Special) — The first annual Odessa College Student Photo Contest is being sponsored by the Latent Image Association, a student photography club at OC.

Any person currently enrolled in a university, college, or high school in Texas, Arkansas, New Mexico, or Louisiana, is eligible to enter.

There will be a college division and a high school division featuring sections of human interest, landscape, commercial and fashion, news and sports, social landscape, formal portrait, and outdoor portrait, and pictorial.

One entry from each black and white and color category will be awarded a $20 cash prize.

A separate category for OC faculty members will also be available.

Judging will take place in the Fine Arts Building at OC on Feb. 25 at 9 a.m.

Contestants are invited to view the judging and all winning photos will be retained through March 13 for exhibition. Entries will be accepted through Feb. 23.

A fee of one dollar for the first print and 50 cents for each additional print per section must accompany each entry. An identification label must be attached listing name, school, category, division, section, and return address of the contestant.

MICROWAVE OVEN WITH PLAN-A-MEAL & BUILT-IN BROWNER.

Rapid Range 7000 is a real Meal Planner—a touch of the finger activates 8 cooking operations—ROAST • BAKE • STEW • SIMMER • KEEP WARM • DEFROST • BROWN • NORMAL COOKING

- Oven is computerized—You can set up to 4 cooking operations which will start and stop exactly at the time you've programmed. Just push the buttons and when you come home your meal is done.
- Activates non-microwave functions, i.e., coffee maker automatically goes on while you're enjoying your main course.
- Built-in Browner makes food look crisp and delicious.
- 3-position glass tray adjusts for browning.
- Easy to clean—food wipes off easily, because it doesn't cook on. No protruding buttons to wipe around.
- Digital timer indicates the exact cooking time and time of day.
- Family-size oven capacity with oven light that stays on while you're cooking.

SPACE.
COMFORT.
LUXURY.

You'll be amazed at all the space and comfort in Horizon. See below. But cold statistics can't tell you how great it feels to have all that head room and leg room. Six footers can sit up straight in front with their hats on. In back, they can sit up straight—hats off! And there's stretch-out room for legs and knees. In the back as well as front. The seating is pure comfort. Full bucket seats in front are standard. They're individually adjustable to suit the short, medium and tall—bliss 'em all. As for luxury? Even the basic Horizon starts at an attractive level—and you can upgrade from there to the optional Custom or Premium interior trims. Pure elegance!

Legal Notices

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE, Antitrust Division. A proposed consent judgment and competitive impact statement (CIS) in United States v. Lubbock County Beverage Association, CCA's, Inc., Cresced Keys Package Store, Inc., Pinkie's, Inc., and The All Star Company, was filed on January 9, 1978. The complaint alleged that the defendants and co-conspirators had engaged in a combination and conspiracy to raise, fix, stabilize, or maintain prices for the sale of alcoholic beverages in Lubbock County. The judgment prohibits the defendant corporation from entering into or maintaining any agreement or understanding to raise, fix, stabilize, or maintain prices for the sale of alcoholic beverages. Each defendant retailer is also prohibited from communicating or exchanging with any other retailer of alcoholic beverages the actual or proposed prices for the sale of alcoholic beverages prior to communication to the public generally. The CIS provides details concerning the scope of the proposed judgment and the effect the proposed judgment will have on competition. The judgment and CIS are published in the Federal Register and are available at request or for inspection in Room 2307, Department of Justice, Washington, D.C. and for inspection at the Office of the Clerk of the United States District Court for the Northern District of Texas, Lubbock Division, Lubbock, Texas. Comments concerning the judgment should be directed to Barry F. McNeil, Antitrust Division, 1101 Commerce Street, Room 804, Dallas, Texas 75242, by April 12, 1978.

Jesse Owens Slates Appearance At Tech

Jesse Owens, dubbed the "World's Fastest Human" for his track feats at the height of his career, will talk about "A Life of Fulfillment" at a public lecture at 8:15 p.m. Saturday in the Center Theatre. Tickets are $2.50 for students and $3.40 for the public.

A religious service will take place at 11 a.m., Feb. 12, in St. Luke Baptist Church and a gospel program, Feb. 26, at 3 p.m. in Lyons Chapel, 1704 E. 26th Street.

Opening ceremonies will take place at 12:30 p.m. Tuesday in the University Center.

Other fun events during the month include a Fashion Show '78 from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m., Feb. 12, in the University Center with tickets $1.75 for students and $2 for the public; a Mr. Sweet Contest, a male takeoff on beauty contests, at 7 p.m., Feb. 14, in the University Center; a Greek Show by fraternities and sororities at 9:45 p.m. in Mass Communications 101, Feb. 25, and, following that, a SOBU party at the Red Raider Inn. Tickets for the Greek Show are $1 and for the party $1.

Owens, one of the greatest track and field stars of the century, is renowned also for his philanthropic activities on behalf of youth and for underprivileged Americans.

Owens in 1936 won international distinction in the Olympic games, setting records as he won individual titles in the 100 meters, 200 meters and broad jump, and running in the victorious relay team. His Olympic broad jump record was unsurpassed for 24 years.

He holds the highest honor the U.S. can bestow, the Medal of Freedom, for his tireless efforts, particularly on behalf of youth.

Other events include a performance of the TNT Powerhouse of Cleveland, Ohio, co-sponsored by the University Center, at 8:15 p.m., Saturday, in the Center Theatre. Tickets are $2.50 for students and $3.40 for the public.

Guide Volunteers Sought

What any museum can always use is volunteer help, and the Museum of Texas Tech University is recruiting hosts and hostesses to train for service in buildings at the Ranching Heritage Center.

Increased numbers of visitors on weekends from May 1 through Oct. 31 increase the importance of the role of the hosts and hostesses, according to Judy Hunter, program coordinator at The Museum.

She said that volunteers will be given four hours of training, two hours on each of two Sundays, one in February or March and one in April. Training times will depend, she said, on the houses in which the volunteers are selected to

HOW TO GET EXTRA SALES FOR YOUR BUSINESS

Put Classified Ads on your selling team right now.

Classified Ads mean increased sales because they head straight for the best prospects any business has — the people who have already decided they want a product or service and are now trying to decide where to get it. These are the people who voluntarily seek out your ad in the Classified columns. The audience you want for your "sales talk in print" is ready and waiting for you.

No need to ever miss a prospect as he comes into the market either — because, by taking advantage of Classified's low commercial rates, you can easily afford to advertise every day.

Classified Ads are flexible, easily changed to meet new selling opportunities as they arise — and, teamed up with your display advertising, they give a potent extra push to special promotions.

There's more... but why not do yourself and your business a favor... dial the number below today for an experienced account representative who'll help you plan the Classified Advertising program that makes it so easy for you to move ahead for more sales and profits.

LUBBOCK'S MOST COMPLETE WHOLESALE
 SELLING TO RETAIL STORES ONLY

Alamo Beauty Salon Under New Ownership, Arranges Specials

Long known and respected in Lubbock, the Alamo Beauty Salon is now under new ownership!

Frances and Jimmy Bilbrey (new owners but well known, to be sure) invite all old and new customers to visit the Alamo, 5023 Ave. H, phones 744-2588 and 744-7295.

"We have the same policy of efficiency, service and friendliness as former owners Jewell and Luther Flournoy. They are retired and doing well."

"The coffee pot still is always on; so come in at earliest convenience for a cup and let's renew acquaintance or get acquainted for the first time."

As introductory specials just right for Valentine's Day and for Easter, note the following prices:

A Uniperm special is just $18.50, Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays. Frostings, the same days, are $18.50. Permanents are $10 on these days, too.

As a special benefit, Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays are designated Senior Citizens Days, with $1 off on any service given senior citizens upon presentation of this notice, until Easter. (Of course, all others are welcomed on these days and throughout the week, just as are the senior citizens.)

A very, very efficient staff still remains the rule at the Alamo Beauty Salon, and include:

Operators Nancy Stephens, Shirley Ritter, Linda Steinbaugh, Hazel Kahl, Reda Elmore, Thelma Stewart, Laquitta Stewart, Ida Compton, Kim Kitchens

Jones, Rosa Garcia, Pat Brooks, Dolly Rates, Cathy Taylor and Norma Lloyd, manicurist; and Wanda Pinkert, receptionist; Henrietta Burleson and Alice Creed, shampoo; assistant Mary Sharp, and Frances Bilbrey, manager.

Ear piercing is a service of the Alamo that some may not realize is a Redken Retail Center, together with KMS.

"In the same location of 14 years, the Alamo provides a spacious waiting area, 17 dryers, always a large number of hair stylists for maximum service, and it prides in all the qualities that make for a better beauty salon.

"For your next beauty appointment, try the Alamo, under new ownership but with most of the same familiar faces; we will do our very best to please you."

New Arrivals Swell Volume, Pattern Choices at Carpets Unlimited Firm

Carpets Unlimited, at 810 50th St. (just east of Avenue H off 50th) has just unloaded a full truck of exciting new carpet, with five more loads arriving momentarily, presenting a situation with two key benefits:

"(1) Room must be made for the new arrivals, so sale prices still continue on stock that must be moved. Many customers learned during the January Clearance just how reasonable prices could be at Carpets Unlimited; well, these rock-bottom clearance prices still are in effect for merchandise left after the Clearance... so hurry on down!"

"(2) The fresh, new arrivals mean latest in carpet fashions, available right here in Lubbock at Carpets Unlimited, at prices to be appreciated.

Gemini Carpets, of which Carpets Unlimited is a division, makes available its own private-label Soft 'n Silky heavy, heavy sculptured shag at $11.49, installed over pad. Select from subtle tones in nine exciting colors in this introductory special.

New Gemini Store

Announcement also is made that Gemini has opened a second Lubbock store: Gemini Carpets, opened only last month, at 2541 34th St. Travis Castleberry is manager.

It is emphasized that both the Lubbock stores carry the same high-grade carpeting and that announced prices are the same at both. Select in most instances for a carpet "just what you want" in a price range from $3.99 to $9.99!

More about Carpets Unlimited:

It is not a "remnant store", but rather is a division of Gemini Carpets, a West Texas company with nine-store buying power and qualifying as one of the larger dealers in the area.

Ron Head, lifelong Lubbock resident and thoroughly experienced in the carpet field, is manager of Carpets Unlimited.

Both commercial and residential carpet is stocked, and samples also are kept on the floor, as are full rolls, with sometimes remnants and short ends.

The firm has its own skilled installers. No-obligation estimates are gladly given, and representatives are happy to bring samples to the home or business.

Financing is available, and Master Charge and Visa purchases are welcomed.

Business & Industrial Review

'Top Lines, Fullest Service, Discount Prices' Told By York

"Imagine... the quality tire that you prefer... but at discount price!" York Discount Tire Center, 38th Street and Avenue Q in Lubbock, invites: "Check our discount prices before you buy. We are dealers for the IRI all-steel radials and for Remington and Michelin."
 Established for 38 years in Amarillo, York Discount Tire Center opened its added Lubbock store in June 1976. Jay and Bonnie Martin, a husband-wife team that "are your kind of folks" are managers of the Lubbock store, and both are thoroughly experienced in the tire field.

IRI Introduced
 They are most enthused about the International Rubber Industries (IRI) all-steel radial passenger tire, pointing out that "this is the finest radial made, carries a 50,000 mile warranty and is available in Lubbock only at York."

Also stocked are Michelin and Remington auto and truck tires (with York as wholesale and distributor outlet for each). Re-tread truck and passenger tires are stocked. And Star and Kelly tractor tires. Other services of the big Lubbock center include Hunter front end alignment, Gabriel stock installation, brake work, even lube and oil filter change.

DISNEYLAND PACKAGE AMONG TRAVEL VALUES

Jay, Bonnie and the entire staff know the tire business and their pleasure in serving is evident in every transaction and in every product and service drawing favorable acclaim for the firm. More about the sensational IRI "America's first all-steel radial": All radials are not alike; there are three types, including the all-steel radial which is a steel sidewall and steel belted tire, such as IRI makes. Then there is a fabric sidewall, steel belted tire, and finally, the third type of radial is a fabric sidewall, fabric belted tire.

pleasure can be assured the customer. Look at some of these services: "We can help with the highly restricted Super Saver air fares," Jean reveals, and further inquiry is invited. And again: "Cruises may now be the very best buy in the travel market, and it would be wise to book now for exciting summer cruises."

"Tours to Hawaii still are excellent buys."

So... the all steel radial (IRI) is protected on three sides by tough steel, giving the driver real advantages in safety and mileage. It is re-emphasized, IRI all-steel radials are guaranteed to 50,000 miles! There are three layers of steel under the tread, not just two. On the industry standard puncture test it takes 10,082 inch pounds to break through this tire! "Furthermore, IRI puts 21 fine flexible steel wires in each cable, compared to five thick wires in competitive tires, which makes for a ride equal to the finest fabric tires. In terms of 'handling', IRI puts steel stabilizers on both sides of the bead which gives fast and quick response to steering action."

"For finest in tires, for prices you can understand, for folks who want to see you ride comfortably and safely, make acquaintance now of York Discount Tire Center, Avenue Q at 38th St., phone 747-4657, in Lubbock."

There is the Hawaiian Hospitality Holiday at only $449 from Dallas (add $33.86 from Lubbock) that includes transportation, lodging and even transfers! And Fly Aweigh seven-day fly-cruises as low as $560 including lodging, for a full week, with all the excitement and variety one could imagine or expect from a Caribbean cruise. Alaska trips also are a very good buy now, and one is invited to book now for cruise-flight combos. "All kinds of excursion fares are available, so call and ask for details regarding one of your own preference."

Motor coach tours are popular and economical, leaving from Amarillo and Dallas. Even Amtrak tickets are sold right at the Lubbock Travel, Inc. offices! (Ask about the free fare for kids involving box tops.) And there are the Amtrak U. S. Rail Path plans. Plus good tours to Europe and Africa. Whatever the destination, whatever the mode of travel, a Lubbock Travel staff member most likely has been to the very spot you wish to visit and can help immeasurably in your planning. No Added Charge "And there is absolutely no charge to you for this valuable aid."

MODERN THROUGHOUT — The new Martinizing Cleaners at 3322 83rd Street is a veritable showplace cleaning establishment, and manager Scott Rickman (pictured) invites reliance upon this new facility with the superior services traditional at the Martinizing plants in Lubbock under ownership of Gordon Mahon.

Martinizing Cleaners, New In South Lubbock, Open To Serve

"Have you discovered the all-new Martinizing Cleaners, at 3322 83rd St. (just one block east of Indiana Avenue) in south Lubbock?"

Open for one month, this newest of the three Martinizing facilities in Lubbock has drawn wide acclaim from those discovering its capacity for service, its convenient location, its new and extensive equipment and its large and most attractive building.

As with the two other Martinizing plants in Lubbock (4902 Knoxville and 2910 Slide Road), the new facility is owned by long time Lubbock dry cleaner Gordon Mahon.

The firm is a member of the Texas Laundry and Dry Cleaners Association.

Scott Rickman Manager

Scott Rickman, with the other Martinizing locations in Lubbock for several years, has been named manager of the 83rd Street operation, and he welcomes old and new friends alike to rely upon this better cleaning establishment affording complete dry cleaning services.

Whether it is drapes, suedes or even pillows, Martinizing Cleaners proves that "Martinizing" is the "Most" in dry cleaning!

With convenient drive-through lane and with adequate and convenient off-street parking, Martinizing Cleaners is designed for maximum customer convenience.

Hours are 7 a.m. until 6 p.m., Mondays through Fridays, closing one hour earlier at 5 p.m. on Saturdays.

Quick Service

Quick service is gladly given when requested, at no extra charge. In fact, on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays, items in by 3 p.m. can be picked up the same day! And on Wednesdays and Saturdays the deadline is a sensible 11 a.m.

"We really believe we have the most modern cleaning plant in the city and area," Mahon and Rickman emphasize, "and we welcome the opportunity of proving how it can be of special service in your own situation."

City Steam Laundry is utilized for shirts and other laundry work.

Pillow Cleaning

More about the pillow cleaning: In the pillow cleaning process, all feathers are removed from ticking and the contents are individually sanitized. Reuffed and clean, they are put into new ticking, returned soft and buoyant as new.

Ozone gas is utilized in deodorizing the feathers. New ticking plus added feathers as desired are part of the finished operation. (You get your own feathers back, with added ones as asked.) A choice of ticking in coloring and patterns is available, with all guaranteed fast color 100 per cent new cotton that is feather-proof and down-proof.

More about the care of your clothes from these knowledgeable cleaners:

Attention is given to tailoring, zippers, pockets, reweaving, box storage, shower proofing, moth proofing, re-sizing, dry cleaning of draperies, wash 'n' wear, blankets and bedspreads, for example.

"Most damage to garments in the dry-cleaning process comes from overheated temperatures in the process," said Mahon. And One Hour Martinizing in Lubbock has done something about it!

Now, safe and efficient cleaning is provided for bonded fabrics, knits, most plastics even, fur-lined and trimmed garments, leather, suede and even jeweled garments and pile coats!

"The new system," according to Mahon, "provides the most up-to-date cleaning techniques available for today's wide variety of fabrics."

Manufactured by Du Pont, "Valclene" is the world's first fluorocarbon to be used in drycleaning. It consists of a fluorocarbon solvent and a special detergent, a combination that supplies unique dry-cleaning properties and high performance benefits.

The installation at One Hour Martinizing features a highly sophisticated Universal 75 Super machine, the only one on the entire South Plains. Minimum heat (less than 100 degrees) is involved in the new cleaning process, assuring no damage, shrinkage or bleeding (color loss).

"Many tumblers operate at 160 degrees," Mahon explains, "and many fibers and adhesives will not stand tumbling while wet with even 140 degrees as dangerously high. And imagine, our new process, solvent and equipment keeps the heat at less than 100 degrees! Consequently there is no fire hazard, and its use is healthier, too. Low solvent and low temperature drying enables the versatile capabilities.

Special Care

One Hour Martinizing prides in being clothes care specialists, knowing fabrics and the special care many of them require... how to remove spots and stains... finish garments to look their very best.

Professional finishing can't be matched just by hanging something on a hanger or home touch-up. That's why it "shows" when one's clothes receive the expert professional care that Martinizing gives them.

Burger Barns, In Two City Locations, Afford Tasty Menu, Appealing Prices

"Take your pick of the one-and-only Burger Barns... at 1935 19th Street (across from Lubbock High School) or at 3210 Ave. H."

Aside from all the "plus factors" such as generous portions, specially blended meat, prices to please, the two locations, and even a car wash at the 19th Street location, the menu at Burger Barn is most enticing.

Prices, Selection Appeal

Select from the Whamburger, with tater tots, at $1.45; steak on bun at 95 cents; jumbo burger, $1.15; large burger, 95 cents; regular burger 75 cents.

And hot bar-b-q at 95 cents; ham on bun, 95 cents; super dog on a stick, just 39 cents; chili dog, 59 cents;

Taco, 39 cents; taco burger, 49 cents (add 45 cents for baskets, add 15 cents for cheese).

And there are steak fingers, just $1.45; onion rings, 55 cents, tater tots, 50 cents, french fries, 45 cents, shakes and malts at 60 cents; even sundaes and fountain drinks at low prices.

Note this: the jumbo burgers are made with one-third pound of fresh ground meat at Burger Barn!

In his 13th year of ownership, Shannon Hughes can point with pride to the products and services that have resulted in growth of the establishments.

Hughes developed his own special cut steak meat for steak fingers and Steak-on-bun served at the Burger Barn.

A Lubbock resident since back in 1951, he takes pleasure in treating his friends and customers right. A visit to either location will verify this, for sure.

Agents Of Farmers Insurance Group Dedicated To Service

"You can count on your Farmers Insurance Group agent for the personalized approach to insurance that customers have appreciated for the past 50 years."
So, meet two more of the capable agents this week that exemplify this brand of service, Don Busby and Lanny Harris, each operating agencies at 3534 34th St. in Lubbock.
Each emphasize that "if you already are utilizing the services of a Farmers Insurance Group agent, you know the benefits; if not, then you should inquire at soonest time for your own profit and wellbeing, learning how the scope of services is such that there is a plan for you, no matter your insurance needs. In fact, we'll even design a flexible policy that changes to fit the way your life changes."
There are several offices manned and headed by Farmers Insurance Group agents in Lubbock. Actually there are some 18 such agents affording "anything in insurance", and these are being introduced from week to week in these pages.
Don Busby is an area native, and his understanding of regional needs, plus his background in banking and insurance, renders him capable of very qualified service.
Don is a native of Friona, and is a graduate of Friona High School. He attended the University of North Texas at Denton, went into the Navy in '66, lived in Amarillo afterward, then moving to Lubbock in 1971. He established his agency here in 1973 in the same site now occupied, at 3534 34th St.
Busby especially enjoys serving the commercial community, together with homeowners, personal and business life insurance needs, though providing the gamut in insurance services.
"I love helping people, and I like to round out all one's insurance needs, including mortgage cancellation and all."
He is an LUTC graduate (taking two years courses), is an active member of the Life Masters Club and holds numerous honors including the Certificate of Accomplishment in Commercial Insurance.
Mrs. Busby is the former Neoma McGarry of Dallas.

DON BUSBY

LANNY HARRIS

Lanny Harris came to Lubbock in '65 to attend Texas Tech ... and he stayed!
Harris is from Stratford, graduating from high school there, and graduating from Texas Tech in '69, majoring in finance and banking.
He joined Farmers three years ago after four other years in insurance experience in Lubbock.
Not only does he enjoy the service opportunities of the insurance field, but he draws upon his schooling background of related studies to serve even more fully.
Auto and homeowners insurance possibly could be termed his specialties, though he offers the complete Farmers list of services.
Harris has been honored in the insurance field in numerous instances, and he is an LUTC graduate in the life (Part 1) phase.
Mrs. Harris is the former Vickie Esty of New Deal, known region-wide as the 1967 South Plains Maid of Cotton.
Mr. and Mrs. Harris have two sons, Bryan, 8, a student at Parsons Elementary School, and Lance, age 3.
Harris is active in community affairs, was a Pi Kappa Alpha at Tech, and is a member of the Mackenzie Masonic Lodge and the Lubbock Scottish Rite.

"Anything in insurance" is the correct image of Farmers Insurance Group, Los Angeles based organization celebrating its 50th anniversary in 1978 and one that has been represented in Lubbock for over a quarter century.
Offices Listed
Eight office locations are now utilized in Lubbock. These are located at 3328 82nd St. (the district office); 2221 34th St., 5106 Slide Road, 5602 Slide Road, 3534 34th St., 3409 50th St., 4417 50th St., and 7402 University Ave.
Among the local Farmers Insurance Group agents are Jerry Rose, Jim White, Don Busby, Rick Dyer, Gene Cribbs, Gary Jeter, Dick Heath, Aline Baxter, Joe Schoenig, John Hatchett, Howard Havery, Lee Robertson, Lanny Harris, Don Freeman, Jere Smith, Presley Schofner and Philip Wilbanks. Bill Hatchett is district manager.
Each is thoroughly versed in the full spectrum of insurance services — auto, fire, life, truck, boat, commercial, liability and all.

Kershner's Country Gardens Readied For Spring Demands

Beautiful lawns and landscapes do not "just happen!"
So very often, in this area they are the result of reliance upon Kershner's Country Gardens for the finest in climatically adapted plants.
Further aid also can be realized from Creative Landscapes, phone 799-3646, where a most comprehensive service is provided ... from design to execution, even including sprinkler systems, concrete work, all kinds of related construction including tropical patios. A complete landscaping service is afforded.
"We believe we can open a whole new world of landscape enjoyment for you through one or more of our several services and products at Creative Landscapes and Kershner's Country Gardens.
Of special interest now at Kershner's is the fresh new shipment of bare root fruit trees. An extremely good selection is offered, and now is the time to plant.
Choose from apples, apricots, plums, peaches, pears, cherries and grapes.

The "drop-in" customer is most welcome ... simply come 2 1/2 miles west of Loop 289 on West 19th Street, then turn 1/2 mile north ... to Kershner's Country Gardens, a name correctly defining the nature of this business long respected and appreciated on the South Plains.
Kershner Country Gardens is anticipating a big season, and has stocked and grown accordingly.
Tropics
Owner Charles Sudduth has just returned from Florida where he purchased a great selection of tropical plants that are arriving soon.
Kershner has an enviable selection of climatically adapted plants in its own stock, also purchasing in California other plants adapted to this area.
Kershner Country Gardens presently is in process of potting roses, with these to be ready by April 15.
Pecan trees are due any day, with all the popular varieties afforded.

Shade Trees
Also, depend on Kershner for all the better varieties of growing shade trees including golden locust, Shademaster locust, Chaparral fruitless mulberry and others.
All varieties of junipers are stocked, both the ground cover and upright varieties; and further good news is that these are made available at very reasonable prices.
Also, see the juniper and arizona cypress available for windbreaks.
Kershner Country Gardens is owned and actively managed by Sudduth, well known in a multi-state area. (He has been consulting landscape architect for such projects as Six Flags Over Texas, Six Flags Over Georgia, and Six Flags Over Mid-America.
Kershner's welcomes the visits and trade of all interested in landscape improvement, whether as a homeowner, groundskeeper or landscape contractor, for example.

EXTENSIVE JEWELRY SELECTION — Toni Camden and Jackie Raines call attention to the many jewelry items at Woolco suitable for occasions of the season, such as Valentine's Day and graduation.

Valentine Gift Of Jewelry Aptly Suggested By Woolco

"Did you realize that Woolco's Fine Jewelry Department offers a complete merchandise assortment for every occasion?"

It is true that such a stock is provided, with quality and prices one can appreciate.

"For Valentine's Day, may we remind that a diamond is a gift of love; the quality of a diamond never diminishes." What better gift for that special valentine could there be than a diamond ring, pendant or earrings?

"Woolco diamonds are great values because they come directly from the manufacturer to Woolco whose low mark-up policy assures the customer of the best possible buy."

Free Engraving

Also carried is a full line of personalized jewelry... and the engraving is free! One may choose from necklaces and earrings to money clips or Spield ID bracelets.

"Can't you see that Woolco's Jewelry Department is the perfect place to put your feelings into words?"

The watch selection at Woolco ranges from LED and LCD digital watches to 17-jewel watches from Waltham, Helbro and Elgin.

Watches for every member of the family are available, including Mickey Mouse, Snoopy and of course the ever-popular Timex.

"We have a great selection of turquoise and abalone jewelry, too, and a most recent addition is genuine jade."

Electric razors are available for both men and women, and are from such respected manufacturers as Norelco, Remington and Sunbeam.

As always, Woolco stocks a complete supply of costume jewelry, with styles to enhance any wardrobe.

"Come to Woolco and let our friendly salespersons help you with your jewelry selections."

Woolco's Customer Service Center Designed For Fullest Convenience

"As many of you already know, to your convenience, Woolco has 'put it all together', consolidating the Credit, Lay-away, Refund and Exchange, Raincheck and Check Approval departments into one central location called the Customer Service Center."

This Customer Service Center is located at the rear of the big Woolco store, clearly marked and convenient to all.

"We feel that this arrangement and the related procedures greatly improves service to Woolco customers; we are sure that as soon as you realize this convenience, you will be as enthusiastic as we are."

Attention is directed to the fact that all refunds and exchanges are now being handled courteously and efficiently at this Customer Service Center.

The check approval procedure also is pinpointed for attention, with all checks now being submitted for approval at the Customer Service Center prior to checking out.

"We feel this will make the customer service at the check-out area faster and more efficient."

"Recognizing all this as a major change in procedure from the past, we at Woolco know that the customer will need time to adjust to these changes, but we feel that once one becomes accustomed to the arrangement, you will realize the convenience and the Woolco effort toward more efficient service."

After all, the Woolco slogan is "we want to be your favorite store", and the Customer Service Center arrangement is designed as a factor in this invitation that reflects the firm's five-point program of (1) good merchandise, (2) customer satisfaction, (3) courtesy, (4) friendliness and (5) good service.

"All in all, we want you to know we aren't perfect, but we sincerely want to be your favorite store and we continually strive to earn this position with our service and our products."

Home Improvement Center Sets
Specials, Tells New Manager

Maxey Home Improvement Center comes through handsomely in selection, quality, service and very real economy! Benito Romo, with the firm for over four years, recently has been named manager of the Maxey Home Improvement Center, and he pledges every effort to serve the area resident and the building trades in the manner traditional with the firm.

Special prices, whenever possible, are posted from time to time to aid the customer. Examples of this policy, with current specials arranged, includes a big 20 per cent off on all light fixtures. Vanities are marked 20 per cent off, Romo adds.

And faucets for vanities are 10 per cent off.

Garage Door Openers
Special prices are posted on Genie Garage door openers, now during the season when possibly the safety and convenience features of these automatic facilities can be most appreciated. Maxey Home Improvement Center installs the openers, too.

Also Peerless storm doors come in for special attention, with the firm stocking several models. (You owe it to yourself to shop and compare the quality and prices before you buy.)

Storm doors from Maxey are installed for only $1 installation fee within the Lubbock city limits, and they are shipped anywhere FOB.

For any building and hardware needs, chances are that one-stop shopping at Maxey Home Improvement Center and the Maxey Lumber firm on the 100-block N. University Ave. will meet the need... in selection, quality, service and economy.

Maxey makes special effort to stock the "hard to find" but needed items, with full attention of particular needs of the season.

"Are you having trouble with CB units or other signals operating your garage door?"

"If so, a wise suggestion is to contact Maxey Home Improvement Center, 120 N. University Ave., phone 765-7736, and find out how conversion can be made at a nominal fee... ending this irksome problem. It is just that simple."

Many other items and services from this Lubbock firm can be of equal benefit.

"Did you realize that skylights are stocked, in both single and double dome, in white or bronze, for residential or commercial use?"

This great way of "letting the sunshine in" is becoming quite popular, and Maxey

Home Improvement Center has stocked accordingly.

Or check for beautiful marble top vanities, and tub enclosures.

Also shutters and outside blinds.

"Maxey Home Improvement Center, 120 N. University Ave., wants you to have the very best at a price you can afford!"

Hence, the firm not only "holds the line" on prices throughout its stock, but it arranges specials whenever possible, such as those now in effect to greatly aid in most every home improvement endeavor.

Look at some of the items that likely are coming in for one's special consideration at this time:

Check the large selection of Amerock cabinet hardware.

And Skil and Black & Decker power tools.

Plus, a tremendous selection of lighting fixtures, plumbing and electric supplies, and just about anything in the building line.

Maxey Home Improvement Center is glad to help one locate the hard-to-find items, getting them or telling where they may be found.

The center is open every week day, from 8 a.m. until 5:30 p.m., Mondays through Fridays, and until 5 p.m. Saturdays.

Wig Sales, Styling, Beauty Care
Included In Hair Square Benefits

For superiority in wig styling, product sales and hair styling, a lot of people surely brag on the Hair Square in Cap-

of Corena Rangel since mid-1977. Corena, a four-year staffmember of the salon, has a decade of hairdressing experience in Lubbock, and she invites all to rely upon the better salon that is Hair Square.

B & I Contract Time Prompting Attention

Opportunity again has been made available for participation in the Business and Industrial pages (B & I) of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, with the semi-annual contract sign-up underway this week. With deadline of next Monday, immediate attention is necessary for those wishing these pages "to work for you, too, in a most unique, valuable, effective manner as they have for others."

Especially in recent months, advertisers and readers alike have made a point of expressing appreciation of these pages. The section is well read, to be sure.

"For full details how your own business or service can be explained and promoted in stories and pictures, advertisers are urged to take action this week. See an Avalanche-Journal retail advertising salesman or call 762-8844, Extensions 223 or 213, and a member of the advertising staff will then explain every facet of the program and help plan a comprehensive schedule of presentations.

The periodic stories and pictures, together with ads that week after week carry their impact, are enabled in a package that can be a noticeable factor in the banner merchandising months ahead... for the spring season, for entry into the outdoor summer months with their travel, recreation and new clothing demands, and finally for the back-to-school preparation in late summer.

Many businesses and services actually consider the B & I presentations as best opportunity for "getting the message across," documented testimonials indicate month after month.

"We feel the article was excellent and we truly appreciate the time you devoted on emphasizing the points we felt needed extra attention," one letter to the B & I editor read.

Another businessman wrote: "My business was exceptional on the day the story ran; in fact, it was the best day I have had..."

These are representative of many other expressions of benefit by the B & I pages.

Now, in your own situation, does this sound familiar:

"I have said, time and again, that next time I'm going to be on the B&I pages. My business associates have reported the effectiveness, and readers have expressed their enthusiasm for the informative stories and ads."

Remember, those interested in being represented through these factual stories and pictures for the first time, or as continuation of former rewarding schedules, should call 762-8844, Extension 223 or 213, and "get the ball rolling" without delay.

"We believe you'll be glad you did."

A complete selection of wigs, by Rene of Paris, is stocked, together with human hair pieces. A highly skilled staff has had extensive training in wig styling.

Hair Square is a Redken Retail Center, using and selling at retail the respected Redken products.

As added service, other items made available at the Hair Square include accessories, jewelry, scarfs, sweaters, purses and even hanging plants.

Staff Listed
Stylists at the Salon include Ann Tutilewski, Marina Gallegos, Sally DeVita, Ribba Lopez, Isabel Castillo, Vicki Moreno, Bea Rodriguez, Eilda Zapata, and Maricella Garcia; Margie Cypert, manicurist, and Brenda Thomas, receptionist.

The staff recently attended a Paul Mitchell hair cutting team seminar, learning latest cuts and techniques, passing the benefits on to Hair Square customers in quality, fashion styling.

Prices at Hair Square are reported most reasonable, whether for purchase, styling or delightful restyling of wigs. (Excellent styling results can be expected, whether the hairpiece was originally purchased at Hair Square or not.)

For looking one's prettiest, selection of a hairpiece, and appointment for beauty care from one of the stylist staff, or purchase of Redken products, reliance upon the Hair Square in Caprock Center remains well advised under the ownership of Corena Rangel.

It all adds to this: Hair Square measures up admirably in all the considerations that mark it as a superior hair center.

Business & Industrial Review

Young Esquire Presenting New Easter, Spring Apparel Items

"Do you realize that Easter comes early this year... on March 26!"
 "This means that it is high time to ready the wardrobe, and certainly the young men and boys in the family should not be neglected in this matter; Young Esquire comes to the rescue!"
 Yes, Young Esquire, in Memphis Place, 50th Street at Memphis Avenue, is now in its 10th year and draws upon its wide experience and expertise in providing fashionable wear for the season at hand.

New spring and Easter wear dominates the stock... in every department.

Wide Size Range
 Whether the need is in young men's sizes 35 through 39, or in boys' sizes 5 through 20, Young Esquire has the apparel to please... now.

One simply must visit the store at earliest convenient time to thoroughly realize the attractive stock already provided for Easter and the many spring occasions.

Father-son shopping was never easier! Name-brand merchandise at popular prices, for both men and young men, comprises the extensive stock at Young Esquire, and the approval and generous acceptance of an appreciated clientele has resulted in the growth and tremendous stock of the popular Lubbock firm.

For wardrobe selection for the new season, one-stop shopping at Young Esquire can meet every boy's and young man's need.

History Unique
 History of Young Esquire is quite an engaging success story, unique and interesting.

Young Esquire was established Oct. 2, 1968 as a result of affection for a young grandson and the frustrating attempts to help his mother with shopping for his wardrobe!

Mike Gilmore at age 4 was unwittingly the real drive behind establishment of the firm.

At that time he couldn't have cared less about the clothes he wore to Sunday School, nursery or to neighborhood birthday parties. The matter of being "in style" probably ran a poor second to the games, fun and ice cream when "dress-up" time came.

READY FOR EARLY EASTER — Young Esquire owner 'Marge' Helm displays a new spring suit by Mr. Chips, available in all the young men's and boys' sizes at the Memphis Place store where scads of spring merchandise has been provided.

The responsibility for his appearance was taken more seriously by his mother, Mrs. Larry Gilmore, and his dotting grandmother, "Marge" Helm, who became the owner and active manager of Young Esquire.

The wife of a successful Lubbock businessman, "Aunt Marge," as she is affectionately known by many, says the going into business was the farthest thing from her mind until shortly before establishing the highly successful Young Esquire.

"The repeated, frustrating shopping trips with Mrs. Gilmore for Mike and sister, Debbie, pointed up a glaring weakness in the Lubbock shopping scene," she recalls.

For Debbie, the situation was not bad. Many stores had considered the needs of the younger misses, and it is no big problem shopping for them, Mrs. Helm points out.

"Shopping for Mike was an appalling situation," she relates. "We went from store to store trying to find a selection of styles and sizes — to no avail. I finally said I guess I would just have to open up my own shop — and that's exactly what I did!"

Layaway purchases are invited, as are Master Charge and Visa transactions. The Young Esquire is open from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Winter's Weather Focuses Attention To Overhead Automatic Door Benefits

"Did the bad weather find you enjoying the convenience of an automatic overhead door installation for your garage?"

"Or have you envied your neighbor who with such facilities was spared exposure to snow and sleet, avoided walking on slick driveways to open or shut the garage door, and who could drive in to a well-lighted garage at any hour of the night, enjoying both convenience and security?"

Let Overhead Door Co., 50th Street at Frankford Avenue (just off the Brownfield Highway near the Loop), phone 797-4141, come to your rescue!

Convenience, safety and protection — this is the whole story of automatic overhead doors from Overhead Door Co. of Lubbock.

Serving with the same fine products and desire to please, traditional with the firm for over 20 years, the Overhead Door Company of Lubbock is in relatively new location and in large, modern quarters.

For those who looked to the Overhead Door Company of Lubbock for years at its former 5283 34th St. location, the present location and expansion can be especially appreciated. The new facility is much larger than the former home, with greater storage, and even parking, to give the maximum of customer service.

So... what better time is there to visit Overhead Door Co., to arrange for an automatic overhead door for the family's benefit now and for seasons to come, upgrading a present home or in building a new one.

"Give your home distinction and new convenience at low cost. Give your family the Overhead Door electric operator from Overhead Door Co. of Lubbock."

Auto-Mate 80
 Special attention is called to the Auto-Mate 80, the ultimate garage door opener with all the features one would expect, and more.

Security and convenience are synonymous with the Auto-Mate 80. The simple touch of a button on the remote transmitter is all it takes to open, close and lock the garage door. Added security is automatic as the door itself since when down, the door is securely locked.

A powerful 1/3 h.p. motor, operating on standard 115 V household current, provides smooth, quiet, dependable and positive operation of the door.

Complete Operator Safety
 An instant reversing mechanism indures complete safety should the closing door encounter an obstacle. Should a power failure occur, a spring-loaded quick disconnect instantly converts the door to manual operation and is simply reconnected by hand.

This heavy duty, UL-approved operator can handle sectional or one-piece doors up to 18' by 8' or two single car doors hooked up tandem.

Automatic Doors represent a wise gesture by the head of the family. With these doors, the wife can open the garage, enter and lock it without leaving her vehicle — quite a convenience benefit in inclement weather (wind, rain, dust, snow), and a definite safety factor on dark nights.

Free Estimates
 The Overhead Door Company of Lubbock is glad to demonstrate how simple it is to enjoy these benefits. Call for free estimate.

Overhead doors are available and recommended, also, for commercial and industrial buildings.

Whether selection is from a steel, wood or fiberglass overhead door, Tim Hatch at Overhead Door Co. assures the very best value in installation and sales, resulting in lasting satisfaction.

'Close-Out Sale' Commencing Today At Lazy Daisy In City

For months, Lubbock and area folks have depended upon the Lazy Daisy, 5406 Slide Road, for quality and beauty (without exorbitant price) in a most intriguing selection of decor items, art and craft supplies and gifts.

Announcement now is made that The Lazy Daisy is closing.

In fact, the Closing Business Sale begins today at The Lazy Daisy, with everything in stock drastically reduced in price, and with even the fixtures for sale. It all must go!

Some come early for best selection.

Drastic Price Cuts
 Note the following specific savings: All cards are one-half price, including the quality Drawing Board line of Valentine, Easter and all-occasion cards.

All blank china is marked 20 per cent off (and there is a most provocative selection available).

Hand-painted and gift items are priced from 20 per cent to even 50 per cent discount!

All art supplies are 20 to 25 per cent off, including name-brand paints, a good selection of wood cut for decoupage and other plaques.

Real butterflies, in gorgeous array, are among the gift and decor items, and are marked at 20 per cent off.

Absolutely everything (with the items too numerous to list) is marked down to clear.

Sandra Copp, owner, announces that "the shop must go", but that she plans to teach, accept custom orders and participate in bazaars, with specific announcements on these later. Her mother-in-law, Martha Copp, also will continue in the instruction field and in special art work.

The sale begins today. Regular hours are being observed (10 a.m. until 6 p.m., with later closing at 9 p.m. on Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays).

"We greatly appreciate the business of our loyal customers while we have served at The Lazy Daisy," the owners emphasize, "and we appreciate the many kindnesses and friendships accorded us. Our loss is your gain, so come on while selection is complete and save hard dollars and cents in every department of the shop."

Remember the location, 5406 Slide Road.
