Crime Poll Bares Fear By Texans

By The Associated Press MORE THAN half the Texans who responded to a crime survey said they expect to be the victim of a serious crime within the next 12 months, a criminal justice expert reported Sunday. They said they are afraid to walk alone at night as far away as even a block from home, and three out of four said they have bought a gun or other security device to give them and their families added protection at home.

The findings from this survey suggest that the public is very much aware of the crime problem," said Dr. Raymond Teske Jr., director of a twice-a-year survey research program undertaken this month by Sam Houston State University at its criminal justice center.

Career Criminals Feared Respondents to the initial poll suggested their biggest fear is of career criminals on the streets after having previously served time in prison from previous

They were almost unanimous in saying convicted felons should be denied bond if they are charged with another crime and should have to serve their full time in prison, and not be released early.

Sunday's report was the first release of findings of the Texas Crime Poll, which will be taken on various topics each February and August and released three months later.

Topics for future surveys will include the death penalty, prostitution, marijuana and wife abuse, Teske said.

Theft Causes Concern Regarding which crime they felt they were most likely to be a victim of, theft was listed by 32 percent, burglary 30 percent, robbery 18 percent, vehicle theft 18 percent, rape 7 percent, assault with a weapon 8 percent and assault with body 6 percent. Of the 642 persons completing the questionnaire, taken in a random crosssection sampling of 1,000 Texas residents, 35 percent said they had bought a gun for their protection, 33 percent put on extra door locks, 31 percent added door bolts, 17 percent got watchdogs, 12 percent got window guards, 9 percent got police department I.D. stickers, 4 percent got burglar alarms and 5 percent got security lights or other devices.

More than one half (56 percent) said they are afraid to walk alone at night within one mile of their home, with 23 percent saying they are afraid to venture See CRIME POLL Page 18

Electricity Costs Irk Town Residents

WESTWOOD, Calif. (AP) - This is the week-lights, heaters and everything else electrical shuts down in this sleepy, snowy lumber town. And most of the 1,800 townspeople are looking forward to going backward. Angered by rising costs for electricity, the folk of this northeastern California

The utility company is anguished about the plan. "It's a terrible situation and I'm really unhappy about it," said executive vice president Bradley Bunnin.

"I wish there was some way I could make things better overnight. But it is a general dilemma caused by everything that has made our costs go up and our inability to absorb them."

But some residents, faced with turning off electric heaters in the middle of

"We're going to learn how to talk to each other again," said Paulette Benner, a carpet store owner. "It's almost going to be fun."

Last Wednesday, with the lights still out after the storm subsided, Bartlett Webber took a couple of buckets to his neighborhood beach in Marshfield, some 40 miles south of Boston, hoping to find sea clams washed ashore by the storm. He was amazed to find thousands of lobsters instead.

California Expecting Another Rain Storm

LOS ANGELES (UPI) - A another rain storm was aimed at the already devastated hills north of here Sunday where searchers found one body and a dozen people were still reported missing after a killer storm destroyed a resort area Fri-

The search was called off after The National Weather Service said two more inches of rain with thunderstorms were headed for the Los Angeles area and the northern hills where Friday the mountain hamlet of Hidden Springs was washed away.

At least 11 persons were dead, a dozen still missing in the area and at least three others were missing in other parts of Southern California, struck by hurricane force winds and torrential winds Friday.

A command post was set up at La Crescenta near the foothills of the Angeles National Forest where the 12 people were still missing after a flash flood. "Those mountains are saturated now.

a sheriff's department spokesman said. 'The danger of slides is greater. Some of the boulders are just hanging there waiting to fall." The search party that was using horseback riders, helicopters and four-wheel drive vehicles in the mud-filled ravines was called off when the NWS warning was issued "We're now expecting two more inches of rain. How hazardous that is - we'll just have to wait and see. But we're sure we'll get some more water coming through here again," the spokesman said.

Originally 28 people were reported missing from the Hidden Springs resort area and three campgrounds nearby after a 20-foot high wall of water and mud roared out of the hills destroying everything in its path.

Fifteen persons were reported safe late Saturday and early Sunday, leaving 13 unaccounted for until the one body was found.

Residents in the foothill communities of Tujunga, Sunland and La Crescenta were cleaning up after mud and debris destroyed some homes and caused extensive damage to others.

But Sunday residents were warned shortly after noon they may have to evacuate. Two more inches of rain in the area could cause further slides of mud, rocks and debris, officials said.

Narcotics Agency To Be Reorganized

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Justice Department wants more narcotics agents on the streets, and a reorganization of the Drug Enforcement Administration is aimed at doing just that.

Attorney General Griffin Bell announced the reorganization on Thursday and said it would free 121 special agents from desk work to investigative assignments. Under the plan the number of regional offices will be reduced and supervisors will be given broader control.

Trudeau's Liberal Party government is in trouble. According to Gallup polls for 1977, public backing of the Liberals crested at 51 percent in June but dropped to 42 per cent in December, when the last sampling was taken.

By law, Trudeau need not call an election for the 282-seat House of Commons until 1979. But, Liberal leaders believe their fortunes could grow worse with time and say they expect a June election. Inflation and unemployment, the question of separatism posed by the Parti Quebecois in Quebec and a recent wave of embarrassing revelations are dominating the Canadian political scene in 1978.

The prime minister's hand was strengthened last week by his government's disclosure of an alleged Soviet spy ring and the expulsion of 13 Russian diplomats. The action was greeted with cheers by the public and press and even Joe Clark, leader of the opposition Con-servative Party, praised "a job well

Trudeau has indicated he would not call an election until his popularity in-creased. Buoyed by the spy success, Trudeau jokingly offered to resign Friday and bring on the election.

It's been almost 10 years since the quick-tongued lawyer, then a dynamic 48 years old and the focus of national "Trudeaumania," took over leadership of the Liberal Party and the prime ministership in April 1968. He has carried the Liberals to three general election victories since then, despite some loss of public appeal.

Now at age 58, Trudeau finds his appeal further threatened by what the opp tion calls "more than a score of scan-the early 1970s. Some observers say Trudeau has toned down his wit and political jabs in favor of a more sober, "statesmanlike" approach. They say the shift was caused by his governmental troubles, his separation from his 28-year-old wife Margaret last year and the introduction of television coverage to the oft-rowdy House of Commons sessions last October.

The televised sessions have given greater exposure to Clark, who would lead the election campaign against Trudeau and his Liberals. Liberal Party strategists say

Clark still lacks a broad constituency.
Trudeau, a French-Quebecer from Montreal, is seen by some as the only leader who can hope to mend the current split between the federal government and the separatist Parti Quebecois. Trudeau has said he intends to call the federal election before the separatists hold their planned referendum on whether to pull Quebec out of Canada.

No date has been set for the referendum, but it is expected in the spring of 1979 before the next provincial election.

The prime minister is a personal friend of many Parti Quebecois leaders, including Premier Rene Levesque. Clark, a member of Canada's English majority, has virtually no power base in Quebec.

Yet Clark has locked up support in the traditionally conservative western provinces where economic problems are foremost on the minds of rural citizens.

month with a record number of persons out of work — 991,000 out of a work force of 10 million. At the 1974 election, unemployment stood at 5.1 percent.

In that election, 264 seats were contested. The Liberals captured 141, the Con-servatives 96, the New Democratic Party 16, and the Social Credit Party 10. One independent was elected Zhaiceck said strike leaders had been in the area for only one week, attempting to persuade the estimated 500-700 area growers to seed only 50 percent of their acreage this year.

He said the movement had not recruited heavily in South Texas earlier because of involvement in activities in Washington and elsewhere. However, five strike offices have been opened recently and Zhaiceck said strong participation was expected.

'We hope to have the Valley's participation in our movement, but it's not essential that we have them," he said. "It would set back our movement in Washington somewhat, but only about another two or three weeks. Of course, we're not putting any deadline on it."

A rally Friday drew an estimated 1,200 farmers - only 270 area farmers with the remainder mostly from North Texas. Strike leaders had hoped 15,000 would at-

Diagnosis--Hospital A-Okay

LUBBOCK'S PLUSH new Health Sciences Center Hospital has experienced an unexpectedly large census of paying patients during its first two weeks of operations, a fact which bodes well for the future on several Foremost among the indications is that the public understands and appreciates that the county-owned teaching hospital was conceived and planned to provide the very best in medical care that modern science and technology can provide.

Although it will serve the needy, certainly, the $75 million Health Sciences Center Hospital-medical school complex bears no resemblance to the old concept of a county charity facility.

BY THE END of its first week of operations, according to executive director Gerald Bosworth, the HSCH had 105 patients, only 5 per cent of whom didn't have insurance plans to cover, or help cover, their bills.

The hospital has a capacity of 245 patients but had thought it would take months to get to the level already achieved. The only limiting factor at the moment, Bosworth said, is hiring enough staff to take care of a growing patient load.

It is especially important that a qualified tastic.

staff with a positive attitude, and in sufficient numbers, be assembled for the early months of the hospital's operations.

That is because a hospital stay should be made as pleasant as possible, as well as provide the best of care and treatment. The attitudes and esprit de corps during the early months of operation will set a pattern that likely will persist for years to come.

WITH THE OPENING of the HSCH, snuggled up against the Texas Tech School of Medicine, Lubbock has an opportunity to develop a reputation as the top medical center between Dallas and the Far West.

If the HSCH and other hospitals here are equal to the challenge, as we believe they are, the competition from Amarillo, Midland-Odessa, El Paso and other cities will be for the also-ran slots. The top physicians and researchers, and therefore the best medical care, will be in Lubbock.

Bosworth noted that it is important for the Texas Legislature to fund the teaching costs at teaching hospitals. He also pointed to the current nursing shortage as further justification for adding a School of Nursing to the complex here.

Challenges are ahead, but the start is fan-

The only problem is that it may be a case of locking the borders after the Communists already have taken over.

After the abortive effort to block the Moscow-Cuban armed aggression in Angola, the U.S. not only went along with the idea but more or less encouraged further such Soviet-Castro invasions.

WITH THE LIKES of U.S. Ambassador to the UN Andrew Young lauding the Caban forces as a "stabilizing influence" in Angola, it was no wonder that both the Russians and Red-trained black leaders would welcome

While all this has been taking place the past few months, we in the U.S. have been treated to the spectacle of President Carter, Sec. Vance and others seeking to "improve relations" with Havana.

When the President first brought up the matter last year, this newspaper criticized him heavily for not demanding as a prerequisite to any negotiations whatsoever the immediate withdrawal of Cuban forces from Africa. The White House had given only cursory lip service to that thought

One Bad Plum Can Ruin Entire Patronage Barrel

WASHINGTON-One of the problems with the David Marston case is that it could give political patronage a bad name.

Republicans angered by Marston's ouster as U.S. attorney for Eastern Pennsylvania are berating President Carter, in part, because he is moving to replace a GOPer with someone favored by the Democrats.

On the charge of hypocrisy, I grant, the Republicans have the President dead to rights.

It is clear enough that he is playing patronage politics on this issue, and that the move to cash-ier Marston was prompted by the grandees of the Pennsylvania Democratic Party. The point was conceded by Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell when he ex-

So it is, and if that were all there were to the it is, and it that well with Carter. On balance, in fact, it is probably better than the chief alternative—a eunuchized "civil serv-

This is so because the American political sys-tem rightly assumes that we should have a gov-erament responsive to the people.

IF ELECTED OFFICIALS in the government structure are powerless to replace subordinates in that structure—as has largely become the case in the federal government—then the will of the people at election time can be effectively thwart-

They may vote for Democrats or Republicans for selected higher offices, but the faceless machinery of civil service government will roll placidly on, oblivious of such changes.

It is for this reason that, given a straight-up hoice between patronage and civil service, I would vote for patronage every time.

Patronage in the proper sense means government that is responsive to the electoral process; civil service means government that is unrespon-

This does not excuse Carter from the charge of hypocrisy. Nor does it justify the firing of Marston (which is wrong on other grounds).

BUT IT DOES suggest the incorrectness of attacks on Carter merely because he has exercised the rights of patronage. The problem in the Marston case is something else entirely:

The strong suspicion that the patronage power has been used to obstruct the path of justice, or at a minimum to serve political ends that are in themselves improper. Marston had recently obtained the conviction of two leading Democrats in Pennsylvania and was reportedly on the trail of others, including two powerful Democratic congressmen.

It is now acknowledged that Carter intervened to "expedite" the firing of Marston after talking with one of these congressmen, although the President at first attempted to suggest that this was not the case.

ALL OF WHICH is decidedly different from the simple exercise of patronage, along the lines sug-gested by Atty. Gen. Bell.

While the guilt or innocence of all the parties under investigation is a matter requiring legal de-termination, the actions of the Carter Justice Department and the Democratic congressman give the obvious appearance of maneuvers to derail a to investigation.

The distinction, I think, should be apparent:
Legitimate patronage intended to give the voters what they voted for is one thing. Use of the patronage power, or any power, to impede the scourse of a criminal investigation is quite anoth-on the editorial page of the Washington Post. It seems that Bill Rice had written a piece in which among other things he warned "Not too much grease and not too much heat." Virtually forthwith, a reader whose letter is signed Russell A. Hersch told Bill in effect that he wouldn't know a superior egg dish if it smacked him in the Well, this is a free country. But-horrors! Hersch came close to committing an indictable offense. "Let me explain how my fried eggs turn out just right," he wrote.

FIRST, A CAST-IRON skillet-well seasoned -must be used." he wrote. "There is no substitute. Then put two tablespoons of butter in the skillet and turn the heat up all the way.

"Wait till good and hot, and gently pour in three or four eggs. When you notice the edges browning and the whites firming up, turn the eggs over. Let fry briefly and you're done."

Done, all right. Done with civilization. Hersch's recipe might be ingested by a starving Armenian -firmly holding his nose. But faced with sacriliege, the thinking person would run away from

Then pop in a couple of eggs, gently, so the volks won't break. Cover the skillet

THE IDEA IS TO baste the eggs while frying them. This firms up the whites, but does not harden the yolks. At the same time, the process protects the edges of the whites from what Hersch calls "browning" and I call scorching.

And never, never turn the eggs over. With the basting, that is not only unnecessary but barbaric. A turned-over egg is fit only for feeding to a hungry dog.

I declare, there must be millions of people who just don't know how to deal with the egg. Consider the soft-boiled variety. It is only edible when boiled exactly three minutes.

I use a tiny hour glass that was checked with a stop-watch. Yet I am constantly encountering savages who look down their noses and argue that 10 or 20 or 30 seconds make very little difference in preparing this delectable dish.

THEY ARE THE SORT who sneer at honest social and political convictions. "Don't be so inflexible," they say about a sentence in fine print in the Defense Department's budget. "Why fuss over a petty detail?"

But a perfectly soft-boiled egg is not a petty detail. It matters because of its perfection. Only a three-minute egg has reached its finest state, firm yet yielding Besides, it is dangerous to monkey with one's convictions. Force yourself to eat a 3 1/2-minute egg and the next day they'll slip you a four-minute egg, and before you know it they'll foist on

The egg is a fragile and beautiful thing. In a sterner time, heads have rolled because the care-

But there may be an added factor, a rule formulated in Sacramento political circles: if Jimmy Carter says sweet, Jerry Brown says sour. So, if Jimmy Carter gingerly advocates limited nuclear power development, Jerry Brown wants no nu-clear power development at all.

WHETHER BROWN really thinks he can catch the early stage of "the next Vietnam" or is just trying to be different from President Carter, the process is part of his long-range campaign for the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination. It may also explain why the focus of Brown's governorship seems to be fuzzing over and opposition to him intensifying as he seeks reelection this year. The nuclear question currently revolves around the proposed Sun Desert power reactor to be built near the Arizona state line. Brown's aides hint the governor would veto a bill authorizing the reactor if passed by the legislature. Interviewed at the state capitol, Brown told us the federal government must guarantee that Sun Desert "could be made safe"-specifically, that nuclear waste could be stored safely. But considering the difficulty of ironclad guarantees, will any nuclear power plants be built in California while Brown is governor? "I certainly see the serious possibility that they won't be started," he replied.

FEDERAL EXPERTS believe the storage problem is largely a question of reassuring public opinion that safe storage technology will be developed.

Furthermore, Sec. of Energy James Schlesinger privately informed Brown last year that nuclear power is vital for this state. As for public opinion, Californians overwhelmingly defeated an anti-nuclear ballot referendum in 1976.

But Brown sees that support going the way of hawkish sentiment for Vietnam. While he publicly asserts the adequacy of non-nuclear power, he privately preaches a passionate anti-nuclear ser-

JAY HARKIS:

The Buss Stop...

ANOTHER DAY during which a lot of people wish others "the best," along with some warm and personal sentiments will be observed Tues-

St. Valentine's Day is one of those observances lost in legend to a point, but based on a beautiful story unknown to many. It is set in the Third Century and involves the Roman Emperor Claudis II and a Christian martyr, Valentinus

Defying Claudius' edict to worship 12 gods, Valentinus was imprisoned and sentenced to death for Worshiping Christ. During his imprisonment, the jailer brought his blind daughter, Julia, to speak with the learned Valentinus.

She asked him if "God really hears our prayers?" Told He did, they both prayed for a return of her sight, which was granted. Before he died, Valentinus wrote a last note to Julia, urging her to stay close to God, and he signed it, "From Your Valentine."

HIS SENTENCE was carried out the next day, Feb. 14, 270 A.D. near a gate later named Porta Valentini in his memory.

And he was buried at what is now the Church of Praxedes in Rome. It is claimed that Julia planted a pink-blossomed almond tree near his grave. Today, the almond tree remains a symbol of abiding love and friendship, and the day itself is celebrated in many ways.

One of the most common ways, of course, is with greeting cards, and also with flowers, candy and kisses. The latter the real McCoy.

The Valentine's Day card business is worth a love bundle to the people who print 'em, color 'em and think up all the cute, mushy and sometimes bawdy sayings. But don't overlook the flowers and sweets, either.

Or, for that matter the kisses, which, it seems have a tradition older than Valentine's.

IN FACT, THE history and art of the latter, whose fans celebrate all year long, recently caught the fancy of Robert C. Radcliffe of the National Geographic News Service.

He waxed somewhat poetic about the custom... It was several hundred years ago that Jonathan Swift posed a basic question: "Lord!" he wrote, "I wonder what fool it was that first invented kissing.

History has lost the answer, but kissing was practiced in Biblical times, as the Old Testament records in the Song of Solomon 1:2: "Let him kiss me with the kisses of his mouth: for thy love is better than wine."

Students of the origins of kissing find the beginnings of it all in the billing and cooing of birds, and the biting games of dogs, the NGS says. Charles Darwin speculated that kissing once had to do with the way wild animals seize their prey with their teeth.

SOME OPINIONS vary on whether nose-rubbing is a good idea gone wrong, an intermdeiate step, or an improvement on Western kissing. Even today in the Far East, tradition-minded Japanese and Chinese may be either deeply shocked or hilariously amused when they see a Western husband and wife kissing in public About a hundred years ago, when Chinese first began translating Western novels into their own language, they had to invent a special character to describe kissing.

Just as an aside, if they have sampled some of our recent "anything goes" language, they probably have had to come up with a whole new alpha-

EXPERTS IN culture traits say kissing was thought up in Europe and that it is civilized since semi-civilized people don't engage in the practice Hummm Anyway, kissing and whatever has gone with it has indelibly marked history. Antony and Cleopatra, by way of William Shakespeare, viewed the decline of Egypt and Rome admitting: "We have kiss'd away Kingdoms and provinces.

And to ever-alert Oliver Wendell Holmes: "The sound of a kiss is not so loud as that of a cannon. but its echo lasts a great deal longer.

In olden days, social kissing was so big, practitioners took to perfuming their lips, thus setting the stage for the huge cosmetic industry. The invention of lipstick helped bring on the untraceahle cheek-to-cheek encounter

And excessive kissing has been blamed for forgetfulness, among other things.

EVEN THE ART of diplomacy has been affect-

A busy ambassador, seeking to combine a diplomatic buss with a bow, supposedly came up with hand kissing. And energetic Bob Hope says that "People who throw kisses are mighty hopelessly

All kisses aren't necessarily affectionate. H. L. Mencken observed: "When women kiss, it always reminds one of prize-fighters shaking hands. And for those who argue two can live as cheapWIN as one, especially on love and kisses, it was borothy Dix who warned: "Nobody wants to kiss when hungry." And according to the Spanish, "a kiss without a mustache is like an egg without salt," and to the French, "like a day without

Some of today's anti-smoking crusaders might take note of what Arturo Toscanini said: "I kissed my first woman and smoked my first cigarette on the same day. I have never had time for tobacco since."

But, whether one pays lip service to the practice, on Valentine's Day, or otherwise, there still is Dr. Henry Gibbons' 150-year-old definition of a kiss as: "The anatomical juxtaposition of two orbicularis oris muscles in a state of contraction." There now, for one day isn't that better than

SHOPPING AROUND

When people purchase cars or refrigerators or clothing, they shop around and choose carefully.

But because most people put funeral service out of mind, they really aren't in a very good position to choose when the need to call a funeral director arises.

NEW YORK (UPI) - Major credit card issuers are handing out new plastic to Americans at the highest clip in histo-

New Visa and Master Charge card approvals are averaging almost 75,000 a day. Both cards finished 1977 with record increases and expect substantial gains this year as well.

Industry Itself To Blame

The national economy and the appetite of Americans for credit have less to do with the surge in new cards than an upheaval in the credit card industry. Among the changes that have spurred use of the

- The bank card segment of credit card business, represented by Master Charge and Visa, is the big one. Banks that once issued one card now issue both.

--- For the first time, savings and loans and credit unions are offering cards.

- Department stores, which clung to their own cards for years, now take bank cards -- New uses are being found for credit cards. They include brokerage business and check approval.

'The bank card industry today," said John J. Reynolds, president of Interbank Card Association's Master Charge system, "is undergoing a turbulence unmatched since the aarliest days of its existence." Bank cards, of course, really did only begin to take hold 10 years ago.

Where To From Here? 'We are in a hell of a hurry," said Kenneth V. Larkin, senior vice president of Bank of America, San Francisco, originator of BankAmericard (now Visa) and the biggest bank card issuer, "but we don't know where we're going.

To the card holders themselves, Revnolds believes, all the churning in the card industry is "of less than consuming importance." He is speaking of the U.S. holders of 85 million Visa and Master Charge cards. Also, he refers to about 8.5 million holders of tougher-to-get travel and entertainment cards. They are mainly American Express, Diners Club and Carte Blanche

Where the rocketing growth of cardcarrying credit users has its most telling effect is within the industry. It tests the ability of card systems to handle millions more transactions. Of concern to credit watchers is how holders use their expanding credit and how the card issuers go about attracting new business.

Backlash Against Credit Card users certainly have a stake in the changes underway. Particularly, they will be affected by the shape of the electronic cashless systems now being mapped and whether they will be charged more or less for credit card serv-

Behind such practical considerations is an expanding backlash against the notion that credit is as American as the Fourth of July

The average American believes he or she is entitled to credit and hence the drive to open up credit opportunities for women and others," said Gerald U. Lareau, president of the Consumer Credit Counseling Service of Greater New York. But you have another force saving

Indeed, while Americans now have run up a record consumer debt of $212 billion, and it is an essential ingredient of the economy, most don't like the idea of

Being Debt-Free Valued

A 1975 Yankelovich study, sponsored by General Mills Inc., found that 60 percent of 1,200 families interviewed feel being debt-free is a "very important personal value." Forty-five percent said debt removal was a major future goal.

Yet two-thirds of the families use credit for daily expenses; including seven percent who buy food on credit.

What makes debt more palatable, however, is the way it is now defined," the study found. "Debt means falling behind in payments, not simply owing mon-

The latest credit card blizzard was touched off 18 months ago when Visa, bowing to the Justice Department, dropped its long-standing ban forbidding banks to issue Master Charge along with

Banks quickly moved into "duality," some grudgingly but with little competitive choice as neighbor and even far-away banks started signing up customers for new cards and merchants began to honor up good risks for a second card. You have a good Visa record with us so we have approved a Master Charge account for you," goes one telephone solicitation. Unless the consumer responds flatly, "I don't want it," the new card is on its way Rules also were relaxed to allow credit unions and savings institutions to issue cards and many eagerly entered the field.

The plastic flurry has not changed card company views that cash and even checks are here to stay despite steps toward electronic systems.

No Elimination Of Money

"The idea that a grandiose electronic funds transfer system will come into being is a figment of the imagination," said Visa President Dee W. Hock. More processing of orders to transfer money will be done electronically, but Hock says mers won't accept an "ephemeral visual image on a terminal" to replace Citibank of New York has taken the biggest plunge into EFT, investing $50 million to install two ATMs each in most of its 270 branches. Industry observers say the bunk, which also moved last year to sign up credit card customers in 25 states, has taken a huge gamble on ATMs that will either be a major boost or blow to EFT systems nationwide.

Credit users rarely think in such terms but many - 42 percent in the Yankelovich study - view credit cards and charge accounts as a temptation.

Deeply Rooted Attitudes That American attitudes toward credit and debt have deep roots is indicated by the use of the two general types of debt relief provided in the federal bankruptcy

One, covered in Chapter 13 of the bankruptcy act, is a financial reorganization aimed at eventual debt repayment with the aid of court supervision. The other is the so-called straight bankruptcy, wiping out all debts. State laws vary widely over what possessions the debtor may keep after straight bankruptcy.

"We have very few Chapter 13s," says Federal Bankruptcy Judge John J. Gal-gay of the U.S. Southern District of New York. Most bankrupts appearing before him want to wipe out their debts, "like crossing the River Jordan and leaving your sins on the other side," he says.

Court officials say the Southern District had about 25 Chapter 13 personal bankruptcies in 1977 compared to some 1.300

Galgay cites New England and South Galgay cites New English 13 reorga ern states where Chapter 13 reorga tions to pay off debts are much prevalent. "It's a moral or rel - maybe it's less in sophisticated New York," the judge said.

Decline In Bankruptcies

Galgay says he sees no increase in per sonal bankruptcy petitions, and in fact the number declined in his district last year. Card issuers like to note that their deliquency rates declined steadily in 1977 to 2.6 percent not paying on time.

Bankers, relying increasingly on computer screening, say they are more cau-tious than ever in issuing cards to good risks. Still, they are keeping their fingers crossed to see how post-Christmas bills count — when they pay the same as a credit card holder — they are in fact being forced to help finance the cost of credit," in the view of Consumers Union. "... They are paying for a service they don't want and don't get."

Tolls To Bear Extra Canal Cost

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The administration acknowledges that giving up the Panama Canal will cost hundreds of millions of dollars, but still stands by its statement that no payments to Panama will come from U.S. taxpayers' pockets.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, already under fire for questioning the competence of half the nation's trial lawyers, escalated his attack Sunday by declaring that all lawyers should have to earn the right to appear in Calling trial lawyer incompetence "one of the most serious problems facing our profession," Burger told the American Bar Association convention:

"Until we establish special standards for the right to appear in the courts, independent of admissions to the bar generally, we will not solve our problem. I am persuaded that one of the major reasons for congestion and delay in the courts ... is the inadequate peformance of many lawyers who come into the courts."

Burger, the nation's highest-ranking judge, dedicated the major portion of his annual State of the Judiciary speech to the controversial issue of trial lawyer

Nearly 230,000 of the nation's 400,000 lawyers are members of the ABA, an influential trade group.

Burger several times compared the legal and medical professions, once stating, The needs of a modern courtroom can be analogicial roughly to the needs of the modern operating room of the surgeon. in eac situation special training and skills are not simply desireable, they are imperative in the public interest.

The ABA's governing body will consider a resolution this week from the Illinois Bar Association demanding that Burger either "publicly repudiate" comments he made last July about trial lawyer incompetence or provide proof of their accuracy.

The resolution was sparked by testimony Burger gave to the Royal Commission on Legal Services in London in which he estimated that one half of U.S. trial lawyers are unqualified to represent their

While the ABA's powerful board of governors has taken no position on the resolution from Illinois, national president William B. Spann of Atlanta called the chief justice's statistics "grossly disproportionate" and "exaggerated." Spann said ABA studies point to a figure closer to 20 percent. Here for the ABA convention, Attorney General Griffin Bell was drawn into the fracas when asked on a nationally televised interview program whether he agreed with Burger or Spann. Without taking sides, Bell said he thought even a 20 percent statistic was "too high." Talking to reporters later, he agreed with an assessment that the controversy was a tempest about to escape the teapot "when it gets to the (ABA) Lubbock Students House of Delegates.'

He said he saw no benefits in debating Win In Tech

In his speech Sunday, Burger said, "I Forensic Meet stand firmly on the position stated" earlier. He said that 39 percent of all federal judges who gave their views of lawyers' courtroom inadequacy believed it was a serious problem.

That could mean, however, that 61 percent of those judges disagree with Burger's assessment.

The chief justice's public concern about trial lawyer competence dates back to 1973, when, in a speech at Fordham University, he referred to the "low state of American trial advocacy.' But Sunday's speech appeared to represent Burger's sharpest criticism to date. Calling for "special training for those who seek to represent others in the courts," Burger said: "We should take one step at a time, first developing a workable program of minimum stand-

Cactus Alley Art Gallery Assures Selection, Quality

Quality paintings by award-winning artists — at a price to be appreciated — is the correct image of the new Cactus Alley Art Gallery, 2610 Salem Ave., Lub-

With Marjorie Hitch as director, paintings in the gallery have been chosen in adiscriminating manner to afford the public legitimate pictures to be throroughly

No only are original oils, acrylics, pastels, watercolors, and pen/inks featured, but the gallery is stocking frames and art supplies, together with limited-edition prints from southwest artists (Hurley, Gorman, Rippel, Steinke and Sandoval, for example).

Marjorie Hitch brings a host of individual qualifications to her directorship. A native of Lubbock, she was away for some years, returning in 1971. A member of the Lubbock Art Association and the Texas Fine Arts Association, she has studied in Laie, Hawaii; also under Betty Fettig known for her distinctive landscapes, from William Henry Earle of Connectieut; from the Froman School of Art in New Mexico, and from Fred Samuelson of Mexico. "It is a real pleasure to provide the type shop that the Cactus Alley Art Gallery is designed to be," Marjorie explains. "I not only am glad to provide "paintings to enjoy" for my Lubbock friends, but I am glad to report "affordable prices" without resorting to the "mass production" mill that produces pictures unlikely to increase in val-

"Everything at the Cactus Alley Art

Gallery is legitimate," Marjorie correctly

Among artists whose work is represented are Lubbock and regional personalities including Louise Deering, Terry Gill, Bob and Boots Hurmance, Virginia Jones, Ruth MacNaughton, Kathy Middleton, Polly Pitzer, John Richey, Mutt Still and Carole Suddereth.

'Since purchasing the gallery in January, I have been most encouraged by the comments of visitors appreciating the type art selected. Also, at the private opening just conducted, the response was more than I dared anticipate. Thanks, every one of you; I look forward to seeing you, your guests and friends at the Cactus Alley Art Gallery at all times when quality fine art is the desire. 'Sprinkler Systems Are For All Seasons,' Firm Explains

According to Gilbert & Spencer Enterprises of Lubbock, designers and installers of custom lawn irrigation systems, the weather conditions in this part of the country allow their business to operate year round

"Unlike areas with a colder climate, we miss only a very few working days each year due to bad weather conditions," says Bruce Gilbert, president of the firm. 'And, not only do we install our systems on a year round basis, we recommend that they be used year round to insure the healthiest lawn possible. Of course, the amount of watering during the winter should be considerably less than the warmer months, but it should be done nevertheless. And, with one of our completely automatic systems, it is a simple matter for us to adjust the time to a winter watering cycle." Won Honors Having recently returned from the Texas Turf Irrigators Convention in Houston where the firm outclassed seventy-five others to take a first place in the competiup for the spring rush.

Early Installation Advised

According to Fred Spencer, chairman of the board, "Even though we can install our systems during any month of the year, most people don't realize it. Consequently, we have in the past been swamped with jobs in the spring, by people who want more leisure time in the summer. Last year it took us half the summer to complete the jobs that we had contracted in the spring. When you consider that it usually takes us only a week or less to design and install a system for the average residence, you can see why it would pay a person not to wait for spring. And, to help persuade people that the best time to get a Gilbert & Spencer system is now, our prices are now the lowest ever. In spite of our sale, we are still offering the longest guarantee in the area (two years), free estimates, and what we feel are the best systems on today's mar-

'Sprinkler Systems Are For All Seasons,' Firm Explains

According to Gilbert & Spencer Enterprises of Lubbock, designers and installers of custom lawn irrigation systems, the weather conditions in this part of the country allow their business to operate

Bruce Gilbert is shown completing a custom design for a residential sprinkler system . . . it possibly could be another

"Unlike areas with a colder climate, we miss only a very few working days each year due to bad weather conditions," says Bruce Gilbert, president of the firm. "And, not only do we install our systems on a year round basis, we recommend that they be used year round to insure the healthiest lawn possible. Of course, the amount of watering during the winter should be considerably less than the warmer months, but it should be done nevertheless. And, with one of our completely automatic systems, it is a simple matter for us to adjust the time to a winter watering cycle.

Won Honors Having recently returned from the Texas Turf Irrigators Convention in Houston where the firm outclassed seventy-five others to take a first place in the competiup for the spring rush.

Early Installation Advised

PERSONALIZED, KNOWLEDGEABLE ATTENTION — award-winning design! All jobs by Gilbert-Spencer included a detailed blueprint for the customer.

According to Fred Spencer, chairman of the board, "Even though we can install our systems during any month of the year, most people don't realize it. Consequently, we have in the past been swamped with jobs in the spring, by people who want more leisure time in the summer. Last year it took us half the summer to complete the jobs that we had contracted in the spring. When you consider that it usually takes us only a week or less to design and install a system for the average residence, you can see why it would pay a person not to wait for spring. And, to help persuade people that the best time to get a Gilbert & Spencer system is now, our prices are now the lowest

This statement cannot be taken lightly, for after all, it comes from a firm proven by decades.

Its history goes still further back, as it was established in Dallas in 1926. The American Public Health Association, the Lubbock branch was added three years 1929, some may possibly not realize that plater, and now there are four Texas locations for the Dallas-based corporation. Full-Service Lab

Texas Testing Lab is a full-service laboratory offering services in both chemical and engineering. It offers chemical analysis using modern equipment with electronic balances, pH meters, a spectrophotomer and an atomic absorption unit. (Texas Testing Lab is believed to be the only lab in the entire region to have this atomic absorption unit with its unique capabilities enabling numerous agriculture tests, biochemistry tests, environment tests, food products, forensic chemistry, geochemistry, industrial analysis, metallurgy, petrochemical, pharmaceuticals and cosmetics, and even plastics and fibers testing.) This apparatus not only speeds analysis but increases the accuracy of results over the old "west lab" techniques.

Texas Testing Lab is set up to do analysis on cottonseed, sunflower and other oil seeds. It also is capable of other analysis on agricultural products including vegetable oil, plant tissue and soil analysis. Fertilizer, water, microbiological and other analytical testing is available. Testing is in accordance with standard has "something new" and where everything in stock is marked down in price for the three-day sale beginning today.

Three-Day Sale Spells Huge Savings At Cecil's Drapery

The eagerly-anticipated Once-A-Year Sale begins today at Cecil's Drapery, 2845 34th St.!

This means that for three days, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, there are fantastic buys, with everything in the house reduced in price!

Examples of these sale values, presented now when they can be so well appreciated after the first-of-year expenses, in-

Some drapery odds and ends, values to $10 per yard, now marked 25 cents to 50 cents a yard to clear!

And gorgeous upholstery, regularly priced $15 to $25 a yard, now as low as $5 per yard during the three-day sale. Lots and lots of display drapes are available, marked at one-half price! Woven woods are in stock and available at 20 per cent discount during the sale. Levolors also are marked 20 per cent

(The sale prices are for in-stock items only, of course, and do not apply on custom orders.) Cecil's Drapery traditionally is known for its large stock, and the current season is no exception.

There is a host of new materials, including sheers, antique satins, casements, upholstery, and more. Not only is the stock outstanding, but the staff is known for its expertise in every phase of the business. Check with owners Cecil or Harve Gardner or any of their handpicked staff for service and values one can appreciate in every season of the year.

Whether planning extensive decoration or not, one always can profit by coming in and checking the new arrivals and the big remnant table, the latter provided at all times featuring one-half price values.

There is much that is new, even in a selection that year-in and year-out has been outstanding.

Charlene's, Of Town South, Presents Fashion For Spring

For relief from winter's presence on every hand, what better showroom for the spring to come could one find than at Charlene's of Town South?

Yes, Charlene's is the veritable epitome of the "spring look", what with the exciting wardrobe fashions for the new season in stock and with still others arriving daily.

"Everything at Charlene's invites preparation for a fashion spring!"

(And wouldn't so many of these same apparel items with the unmistakeable 'fresh look" be just right for Valentine? Men, we enjoy assisting you in selections for your Valentine, whether from apparel items or accessories such as distinctive costume jewelry.)

The report also urged the United States to "match informal contacts and gestures which the People's Republic of China and the Soviet Union are making toward South Korea." But it opposed diplomatic recognition of North Korea without reciprocal recognition of South Korea by Pyongyang's allies.

Hatching 'Egg' Really No Yolk

DALLAS (AP) - It's not that anyone in Marilyn Martin's first grade class doubted the egg would hatch. It's just that the darn thing was taking so long.

Mrs. Martin said a student brought the egg for a "show and tell" period, then asked her if it could join five other eggs the children has been incubating some three weeks as a class project.

The round, pinkish little object was examined by the class, the teacher - even a high school science consultant was brought in.

When impatience finally got the better of scientific observation, it was discovered the egg they had been trying so patiently to hatch was a jawbreaker.

The new titleholder will be appearing in her hometown's Lions Club talent show Thursday and Friday, "That show is pretty special to me because that was where I had first sung in public." she recalled.

In capturing the Miss Lubbock crown, Miss Thurman won a $250 scholarship, which she said would be placed in a savings account.

The contest winner said she plans to continue her studies at Tech, adding that "I'll just have to work twice as hard to keep my o grades up.

Of her new title, she said, "I'll still be the same person-with one difference in that I'll be quite a bit more busier."

Support From Family During the hectic preparations for the pageant, the coed said she received a great deal of support from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Thurman of Brownfield: her brother and sister-in-law. Mr. and Mrs. Dan Thurman of Memphis: and her voice instructor. John Gillis of Tech's music faculty. "And I received lots of support and love from all my friends, especially from those in Brownfield.

However, the titleholder was back in the Hub City by Sunday afternoon. She and Jack Geddes, coordinator and manager for the scholarship pageant, already were planning for July's Miss Texas competition in Fort Worth.

Tech's history began when six men selected Lubbock over 37 other West Texas towns as the site of Texas Technological College, now Texas Tech University. Eight years later those six men finally saw their state university created when the 38th State Legislature enacted the bill establishing Texas Tech on Feb. 10, 1923.

Mass Communications Week activities continue today with Public Relations Day. Himan Brown, executive producer of CBS Mystery Theatre, will be the kickoff speaker at 9:35 a.m. in the University Center Theatre. Other public relations executives on hand to speak to students today are Ann Edwards, account representative of Goodwin, Dannenbaum Littman and Wingfield, Inc., of Houston at 10:35 a.m. and George Arnold, president of Derss, Chapman, Bua and Norsworthy Inc., of Dallas at 11:35 a.m.

Prize Winner To Speak Tuesday, Journalism Day activities will begin with a speech by Joe Murray, managing editor of the Pulitzer Prize-winning Lufkin News. Murray will speak at 9:05 a.m. in room 101 of Mass Communications East. Ed Hunter, vice president and executive editor of The Houston Post will be featured speaker at the 10:35 a.m. session followed by a panel discussion of former Texas Tech mass communications students at 1:35 p.m.

Film and Photo Day activities Wednesday include an address by Jim Richardson of the Topeka Capital Journal at 11:35 a.m. and 3:35 p.m. plus several award-winning films. All Film and Photo Day events will be in room 101 of Mass Communications East.

Advertising Day Set Advertising Day Thursday will feature Al Bothwell, account Supervisor of Leo Burnett U.S.A., Chicago, Ill., at 9:05 a.m. in the University Center Coronado Room and John Albers, vice president of marketing of Dr. Pepper Company in Dallas at 10:35 a.m. in the same room. Also Thursday, Wendell Mayes Jr., of KNOW-Radio in Austin, will be inducted into the Texas Tech Mass Communications Hall of Fame.

Maj. Roy Henson, an artillery officer with a college degree in social work who heads the program at the post, said his people have under their care at any time an average of 1,000 "clients." They are treated under guidelines established by a 1975 Army-wide personnel regulation for treatment of "substance abuse. "We treat alcohol and drug abuse as one problem," said Henson, "This treatment is a standard process the Army has set up. It began as early as the late 1960s - as a result of some things we were encountering in Vietnam - when we first recognized we had a drug problem."

The drug problem itself has evolved over the years. Addiction to heroin and opiates - which initially alarmed the Army - is on the decline. Alcohol, followed closely by marijuana, are the most commonly abused chemicals. 'We appear to be moving toward poly-drug use, but the guy's age has a lot to do with what he's abusing," Henson said. With about 86 percent of our clients, alcohol is the primary problem. Of that, about half also use marijuana." While the drug use problem may be re-soldier and is in the best position to refer him for treatment. Last year Henson's staff trained nearly 9,000 sergeants and officers in two-day classes on recognizing drug users and using the rehabilitation program. To help identify a drug user, the com-

That program has been halted because of legal complications, but the commander still may direct a soldier he suspects is using drugs to submit a sam-

In addition, the commander may conduct "health and welfare inspections" of his troops and their quarters, with drugsniffer dogs and handlers from the military police if he needs them.

Once in the program, the client is given a 60-day "intensive" treatment, during which he is counseled twice weekly. If he needs it, the client is moved into a postsponsored "halfway house" for close observation. Once he completes the initial 60 days, the client receives weekly counseling for another 300 days.

At the end of the program, about 70 percent of the clients are declared rehabilitated. The remainder are released from the Army with a "Chapter 13 Discharge" - an administrative release under honorable conditions - and referred to the Veterans Administation for further

Private Accreditation Commission Publishes Local Jail Requirements

WASHINGTON (AP) - The nation's jails should provide each inmate with at least 60 square feet of cell space and should house juveniles and adults in quarters "separated by sight and sound." a professional accreditation commission said Sunday.

"The standards are high. Attaining them will not be an easy task," said the report from the Commission on Accreditation for Corrections.

The commission, a private group representing the nation's state and local prison administrators, published 382 standards for minimum conditions in the estimated 4,000 local jails and lockups in the coun-

Commission spokeswoman Sharon Winkler estimated that "not more than 5 percent could comply fully now." Facilities which comply with the standards may seek commission accreditation, a process that requires an investigation of up to two years.

The standards and the possibility of winning accreditation may help jail administrators and private reform groups persuade local legislatures to spend more money on jail improvements.

The space requirements may be the most difficult to meet. Jails in many parts of the country are becoming overcrowded because state and federal prisons are themselves crowded far beyond capacity. This means more and more prisoners must be held in local jails awaiting transfer to a prison.

More than 100 jails are under court orders to improve conditions, and most of the orders require more space for in-

Fight To Control West's Water Revives White, Indian Conflict

By TOM BARRY Pacific News Service

SALT RIVER, Ariz. - The long-waited Central Arizona Project (CAP), which promises to bring 1.2 million acre feet of Colorado River water to the state's oncearid heartland, is already flowing with bitter controversy. The issue is who will have superior water rights — the native Indian tribes who have farmed here for 2 000 years, or the non-Indian newcomers in agriculture, the cities and retirement

The $1.5 billion project, the largest of some 30 federal water projects, is regarded as essential to keeping green the irrigated farmlands and sprawling lawns of Phoenix and Tucson, where Brooklynese is muffling out cowboy drawls.

Need Grows More Critical The need grows more critical by the day, for each year the state removes some 2.2 million acre feet from its rapidly sinking underground water table to supply expanding industry, cotton farming and urban development

However, even as the first 90-mile por-tion of the 300-mile canal nears completion, four central Arizona Indian tribes have gone to court to assert prior rights to the new water, invoking previous treaties and rulings by the U.S. Supreme Court. The tribes — the Ak-Chin, Gila River and Papago — total some 30,000

They say that because of the monumental growth of non-Indian agriculture, industry and municipalities the water table under their own once-productive farmland has sunk almost beyond recovery. They regard the new Colorado River water as their last hope to revive their withering farms and rebuild their traditional

The four Arizona federal suits are only a few of the numerous Indian water rights clams now being contested in the courts. There are five such claims now in litigation over Columbia River water in the Northwest; five in the Rio Grande Basin; three in the Missouri Basin, and

Colorado

Canyon

Because of the population shift from the East, and the demand for energy resources, the conflict over water rights has broken out primarily in the West, and the search for new water has invariably led to the borders of Indian reservations.

The Indian claims to the water are largely based on the 1908 U.S. Supreme Court decision in the Winters case, which guarantees the Indians priority rights to all the water they require to irrigate their

This ruling, known as the Winters Doctrine, has been applied numerous times since then by lower federal courts, and was reaffirmed by the Supreme Court in

The Arizona Indians charge that in recent years, the states and federal agencies have refused to honor the Winters Doctrine, and have given priority to municipal and industrial use, while tribal farm lands have dried up.

Needs, Of City Blamed Cecil Williams, chairman of the Papago Indian tribal council, recalls when his people supported not only themselves, but also nearby communities, by farm-

"Today," he said, "the running streams are gone, and the underground basin has receded at an alarming rate. Wells have gone dry, and the cost of pumping the remaining wells has become exorbitant "

The reason, the Papagos assert, is that the city of Tucson has 20 wells adjacent to the Papago reservation, and mining and agriculture interests also have wells around it. These wells pump water out of the ground continously

The Ak-Chin tribe, west of Phoenix, has seen its water table sink from 60 feet below the surface in 1923, to 400 feet below today. "In recent years, the water level on our reservation has dropped 20 feet every year," said tribal spokesperson Leona Kakar.

As a result, the Indian lands have become drier and expensive, if not impossible, to farm. Nevertheless, Arizona water planners have given priority for CAP water to municipal, industrial and private agricultural use, on the assumption that the Indians already had plenty of water. "Pack Of Lies"

"All the water in the Colorado, and all the water that falls from God, wouldn't satisfy those Indians," says John Linksmiller of the Arizona Water Commission. Their water claims are the damndest pack of lies I've heard "

The tribes claim that the non-Indian water demands are also unrealistic. Says state representative Daniel Peaches, an Indian, "Many have said that if Indian people in Arizona were to receive their full share of the water available, the cities of Phoenix and Tuscon would dry up. This is not necessarily so, because the industrial and municipal consumption of water is something like five or 10 per-

They can also point to statistics showing that Arizona agriculture accounts for only about 12 percent of total personal income in the state, but uses 89 percent of the water. Besides which, the state's major crop, cotton, is overproduced.

Last year, after lengthy negotiations, the Interior Department allocated 20 percent of Colorado River to the tribes for the next 20 years. After that, the Indians would get no CAP water.

Kennedy Gets In The Act Rather than accept that, the Indians went to federal court. They say they are entitled to enough water to irrigate the 177,000 arable acres they own.

Their claim is supported by U.S. Senator Edward Kennedy (D.-Mass.) who has introduced legislation that wwould compensate the Indians for the federal government's neglect of its trust responsibility to protect their water rights.

Kennedy's Central Arizona Tribal Water Rights Act would require the Interior Department to acquire land with adequate surface water supplies, and transfer it to the tribes as compensation for their lost water.

"It appears to me premature to proceed with a public project costing over $1.6 billion to benefit the economy of central Arizona," said Kennedy, "when the economy could be profoundly altered, and the repayment capability of the project seriously threatened by the successful prosecution of the Indian water claims

State and federal water planners are are also aware that strenuous opposition by Arizona Apache Indians was an important element in President Carter's decision last year to eliminate funding for the Orme Dam, planned by the Bureau of Reclmation as a major storage resorvoir. and therefore that Havasupai and Hualapi Indian opposition killed an Interior Department plan to dam the Grand Can-

Meanwhile, the water table under the state continuess to sink, while various interestsd groups — agriculture, mining, the cities - compete for the new Colorado River water.

'This has always been boom and bust country." said State Lands Commissioner Andrew Bettwy. "Maybe the next bust will come when the water's gone.

Second Disbarment Proceedings Begin to have District Judge Donald Carroll Jr. disqualified will be one of the first matters to be handled in the second disbarment trial of District Attorney Bill Green, scheduled to begin here today.

Carroll, who is from Tyler, presided over the proceedings in October and declared a mistrial on Oct. 30 when a jury failed to agree on a verdict.

The District 2-C Bar Association brought disbarment proceedings against Green, 30, after he was convicted last April of public lewdness by an Austin, Texas jury. His arrest with another man in a booth in an adult bookstore in Austin in January, 1977, came in his first month

District Judge Wayne Lawrence of Palestine, asked to hear the motion to have Carroll disqualified for reasons of bias, indicated he would do so on Monday

Carroll was named judge for the first trial after District Judge Tate McCain, in whose 87th District Court the proceedings are being held, had removed him-

Should Green lose his law license, he would be removed from office as district attorney. Green, a lifetime resident of Palestine, represents Anderson, Henderson and Houston counties.

Former Attorney General Waggoner Carr will head the Green defense, as he did in October. He again will be assisted by Dallas lawyers Tom McCorkle and Bob Blinderman Representing the state bar will be Robert Bass of Austin and the state bar's general counsel, Davis Grant.

Green called the idea of another trial "ridiculous." He has appealed his Austin conviction of lewdness. 'What if they throw out the conviction? We've gone through two horrible trials for nothing," he said.

The local bar association grievance committee specified three grounds: the lewdness conviction, alleged perjury committed by Green at his Austin trial, and his flight of several blocks after arrest by a plainclothes officer before he was recaptured in an Austin hotel.

Peter Mansbendel considered himself a chiseler. As such, the Swiss woodcarver chiseled himself a permanent, though somewhat anonymous, place in Texas history.

The beauty of his craft - through artifact and through photographs of other works in historic structures and private homes - goes on display Feb. 19 at The Museum of Texas Tech University.

Three Lubbock woodcarvers — Royace Aikin, Ray Collier and Theresa Martin — will be demonstrating the an at the premiere showing. The exhibit will be on view Feb. 19 through March 26. Mansbendel's name is known well only to those owning some of his creations, done between 1915 and 1940, but his art itself is known to several generations.

He carved decorative woodwork in many campus buildings, particularly the Texas Union and the Main Library, at The University of Texas. In San Antonio, he recreated the carved doors of the Spanish Governor's Pal-

His art decorates many homes and buildings in Austin, Dallas, Houston, San Antonio and other cities, where it topped off the designs of architects who demanded his carving as the final touch for their creations.

Mansbandel immigrated to this country in 1907 and first came to Texas in 1911 to marry a Texas miss he had met at a tea in New York. The couple returned to Austin in 1915 to launch a career that ended when

Gov. Dan Moody delivered the eulogy at the woodcarver's funeral.

Mansbendel sprayed the world around him with beauty in carved wood, for gifts as well as commissions. During the depression, when no one could afford ornate carvings on homes and buildings, Mansbendel continued a 10-hour day of carving for himself and the many gifts for friends. With the depression at its worst, he knocked out eggand-dart molding for lumberyards. He died without ever receiving the plaudits of his adopted state for his contribution to its art. Even today, few know his name, but many have admired his way with the chisel on ornate work in public buildings. The exhibit is sponsored by the West Texas Museum Association.

Outdated Tech Computer Blamed For Administrative Bottleneck

Avalanche-Journal Staff

It's man versus the computer, but in this case both sides are losing.

At Texas Tech, administrators, faculty and students are discovering the university's computer no longer can handle the amount of record-keeping, teaching and research jobs the school demands.

Not only are Tech's computer facilities almost a decade behind the times, but administrators and faculty agree the inadequacy of the computer has caused the university to lose both research grants and potential faculty members.

One professor said faculty members have failed to get research grants because the computer facilities at Tech were insufficient to handle a proposed project.

He also said there has been difficulty hiring "good, capable people" because Tech's computer facilities don't meet

"I can't disagree with that," admitted senior associate vice president Dr. Monty Davenport, whose area of responsibility includes Tech's Computer Center. "Our computer equipment in inadequate for what we want to do."

While Davenport would not call it a crisis, he did say the situation at the university's Computer Center was "an uncomfortable one" — especially since any sig-nificant remedy won't occur for at least The problem with Tech's computer equipment is not that it is obsolete, but rather that it is not a large enough machine to handle all that the university wants it to do. And the list is a long one.

The current computer, an IBM 370/145, is expected to handle all administrative record-keeping for both the university and the medical school, including pay-

These benefits - ranging from deductions for medical expenses to lower tax rates for capital gains - cost the Treasury some $84 billion in lost tax revenues each year. That does not include another $28 billion worth of special benefits for corporations

The new study also found that:

- More than half the benefits of 20 of the 69 individual tax breaks, or tax expenditures as the law calls them, went to taxpavers in the $50,000-plus earning bracket. Supporters say these expenditures are necessary to give high-income persons arcincentive to invest.

- Most of the benefits of another seven tax breaks were claimed by the 5.2 of individuals whose exceeded $30,000

- Taxpayers in the $50,000-plus category reaped 68 percent of the benefits of one of the most expensive of the tax breaks. This expenditure, which resulted in $6.9 billion of lost revenue last year, allows tax-free treatment of half the capital gains realized when property is sold. Few of the 69 expenditures are focused on taxpayers earning $20,000 a year or less. That group accounted for 62 million of the 88 million individuals who filed tax returns in 1977.

The list includes several tax breaks that are important to the estimated 19 million couples or individuals who itemize deductions - a group that includes millions with incomes between $15,000 and $25,000. This also includes the deduction for mortgage interest, which deprived the government of $4.49 billion

Viewed in another light, the benefits of those tax breaks were proportionately greater at high-income levels. For example, only 3.9 percent of the taxpayers made between $30,000 and $50,000 last year, but they claimed one-fourth of the tax savings from deducting mortgage in-

In releasing the Treasury Department study, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, chairman of the Senate Budget Committee, said that it supports President Carter's call for ending or reducing several tax breaks.

Muskie noted that some of the tax breaks Carter wants to eliminate are popular ones that benefit middle-income taxpayers, such as the deductions for state and local gasoline taxes, personal property and sales taxes.

ing - "batch jobs," which require punched computer data cards to be run through for analysis, and "interactive or time sharing" jobs, which involve a person using a computer terminal to do computations.

Unfortunately, when Tech's computer is handling time sharing jobs, fewer batch jobs can be processed. The Computer Center, therefore, has had to limit time sharing hours so more batch jobs can be run - and batch job users still are waiting up to 24 hours to get their data cards run.

According to Herman Phillips, director of the Tech Computer Center, an average of 15,000 to 18,000 batch jobs are run every month at the center. Last October the next five years.

The plan will be submitted to the systerns division of the state auditor's office this spring. If approved, the plan will be used by Tech as a guideline in requesting state appropriations for upgrading the school's computer facilities.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

DR. GEORGE C. THOSTESON

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I'd like to go on this brown rice diet. What do you think of it? What is the difference between brown rice and white rice? - V.R.P.

Why do you want to do this? I can only assume that it is for weight loss, although there can be other health reasons. It has been used in the past for treating high blood pressure of kidney disease. More on this later. I can't comment specifically, anyway, because I don't know just what the phrase "brown rice diet" means to you. If it means nothing but rice (brown or white) in order to deprive yourself of protein for weight-loss purposes, then I heartily disapprove. It is grossly unbalanced. I'll comment more fully if you send me a copy of the complete diet.

White rice is milled more than brown rice, hence does not contain as much of the B vitamins. Another thing, brown rice contains more cellulose, which is good for bulk.

A selling point for this as a weight-loss scheme might be that people living in the Far East get along well on rice. But don't forget, fish is an important second food in those areas, and is a rich source of protein. I see nothing wrong with the rice diet if it includes some protein-rich food along with some citrus fruit.

The thinking behind the rice for hypertension was that it minimized protein in the diet, relieving high blood pressure by easing the strain on weakened kidneys. You don't hear much about it these days.

As a weight-loss plan it rises and falls in popularity as the food faddists alternatey rediscover, then forget about it. My advice: forget the fad plans. Just eat less of what has kept you healthy up to this point. You'll soon shed the excess pounds you have, and you won't be gambling with your health.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband (67) is bald and has tiny little bumps under the scalp. They cannot be seen, but can be felt. He is continuously scratching, which is annoying to him. His doctor told him there is nothing he can do. He sleeps well and is immaculate in his personal habits. Can you help? -S.C.

I can only suggest, not having seen the umps firsthand

It is not uncommon to have tiny sebaceous (sweatgland) cysts or lipoma on the scalp. (The follicles are inactive, but the sweat glands aren't.) A lipoma is a small accumulation of fat under the skin. These need not cause itching, however.

The itching might result from skin dryness, not usual at his age. Does he itch in other places? Rather than resorting to harsh soaps, try an oil lotion after a shampoo to retain moisture in the skin.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please explain something about closing of small blood vessels. My husband was forced to retire because of this and was told his chances of a stroke are two to thee times greater than for a normal person his age (53). How can he learn to live with this condition? He has severe dizziness at times. and also has an inner ear problem and disc deterioration in the neck area. -Mrs.

Closing of the small blood vessels can be due to spasm. Smoking can cause it, or it may be due to atherosclerosis, formation of plaque on the inside walls of the vessels which causes partial obstruction.

You don't mention his weight or blood pressure. Stroke can occur with suddenness in hypertensive persons if the arteries in the neck are affected. His dizziness could be a warning sign of impending stroke, but it can be also be related to either the disc problem or the inner-ear

He can help himself by correcting these various factors -losing weight if he has to, having his high blood pressure treated. His early retirement should allow him to take better care of himself. It is a luxury unfortunately too few can afford.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I take water pills and have noticed that my dentures seem loose. Can the water pills be causing this by making me lose weight? - J.R. Yes, they can.

You can lose weight if you really want to! Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Lost Secrets of Reducing," tells you how -naturally and without gimmicks -to the level best suited to your individual needs. For a copy write to him at P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, enclosing a long, selfaddressed, stamped envelope and 50

Liturgical Stoles Change With Seasons

By MARTHA BOWDEN Family News Staff

In a seven year period Mrs. Helen Releford has made 305 liturgical stoles for 98 ministers serving in the Methodist Church throughout the United States. She first became involved in making the stoles when a friend of hers who was to be ordained asked that she make a stole for the special occasion.

"I was pleased with the result," Mrs. Releford said, and I began to make stoles as gifts for different ministers I've known during my many years as a church member and worker.

The stoles Mrs. Releford makes vary according to the liturgical church year observed by the Methodist Church. In the church year there are seven seasons: Advent, Christmas, Lent, Easter, Pentecost, Epiphany and Kingdom Time.

In making stoles for each of the seasons, colors and symbols are very important, Mrs. Releford said. Stoles for Advent and Lent must be purple. Easter and Christmas stoles are white. In the season of Pentecost, stoles are red. The stoles for Epiphany and Kingdom Time are green.

Along with appropriate colors for the stoles of each season, symbols are signigicant in bearing witness to the major events and teachings commemorated in church history.

Since the season of Lent is now current, Mrs. Releford said she will be devoting a great deal of time in preparing Lenten

FOR EACH NEW SEASON, NEW STOLES - Making liturgical stoles for ministers in the Methodist Church has occupied Mrs. Helen Releford for seven years. As the seasons change in the church year (from Advent to Christmas to Lent to Easter). Mrs. Releford makes stoles appropriate for each season, embroidering the stoles with finely designed symbols representative of the church season's meanings and memories. In the seven years she has been making stoles, Mrs. Releford has made stoles. Lenten symbols she will be embroidering on the stoles are palms (for Palm Sunday), the crown of thorns, and the cross. An additional unusual Lenten symbol she is creating is that of the line

The line and the plummet symbol, she explained, she discovered in reading the Old Testament Book of Amos, in which the Lord declares, "I will hold a plummet line to my people Israel."

The line and plummet symbolize the need for self-examining one's life.

A bowl and towel, representative of Christ's act of washing His disciples' feet at the Last Supper, and a torch, reminiscent of the betrayal and denial of Christ by his disciple, are other Lenten symbols Mrs. Releford will be embroidering on numerous stoles for this year's Lenten

"The church is rich in symbolism." Mrs. Releford observed, "and since symbols are a language in themselves, the better one understands the different symbols of the church, the more one can appreciate the beauty and significance of

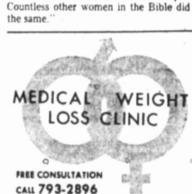

Many of the deas for symbols to use in her embroidery come from reading the Bible, studying songs in the hymnal and listening to sermons, noted Mrs. Rele-

Asked what she considers one of the most rewarding aspects of her work with liturgical stoles, she answered immediately. "It's the people. The ministers I make the stoles for dedicate their lives so fully and whole- heartedly and often get little in return. It's a pleasure to be able to make gifts of my stoles which have religious meaning and also are of practical When not making stoles, Mrs. Releford keeps busy making paraments which consist of altar cloths and covers for the tern and pulpit. Mrs. Releford finds great joy in her vocation, but she doesn't consider her work all that unique or out of the ordinary.

'Just the other day I was reading about Samuel," she remarked. "His mother Hannah made a robe for him annually while he lived and served in the temple.

Anyway, my husband took to his bed last week and on my 26th trip to his room, I gave him my "I've given you the best years of my life" speech.

ions range from prim Victorian elegance to embroidered blue jeans.

Backing the models are historic photographs of fashions in action: the Bloomer girl of yesteryear, beach scenes with women disporting themselves in kneelength swimwear and suffragettes on the

The exhibit was conceived by Betty Mills, curator of historic fashions and textiles, to show the evolution in apparel which paralleled a social revolution making it possible for women to enter a variety of new activities.

The exhibit opens with a young Victorian matron, corseted, bedecked in ostrich plumes and adorned in a black sequinned gown of chiffon and net.

Beyond is an early swimming dress of scratchy, green wool modest enough to fall below the knees. The exhibit also shows the swim suit which evolved, the bikini

The Bloomer girl, who adopted a style created by Amelia Jenks Bloomer, was the forerunner of today's fashion-conscious woman in a slack suit. The dress of the early coed is displayed

One model is seated before a switchboard, dressed in becoming brown, but still achieving the feminine look with bows of taffeta and polonaise skirt.

'The machine of the Industrial Age,' custodian Mills said, "expanded career opportunities for women. Before the age of the machine, women were limited primarily to teaching or dressmaking. When it was discovered that women could operate machines with great efficiency, they found a greater variety of jobs.'

Suffragettes show other changes in attitude. No longer was the figure confined by a too-tight corset. Dresses showed the ankle and were loosely fitted, but feminine touches remain in crocheted gloves, purses and ornamental buttons.

One of the most colorful models illustrates the women who first dared to "bob their crowning glory." The model wears a dress of pink embroidered net over which is worn a plisse combing jacket.

With the bobbed hair, the stage was set for the "flapper era" of the '20s. The Museum model has the black fringed skirt raised to the knees. The look is straight and boyish, and the makeup is heavy.

The last figures in the exhibit are the women who dare to express a mood: a contemporary teenager in embroidered cutoffs and a T-shirt, a booted figure in a Marimekko smock and knickers and a third model in an evening dress of grey beige polyester.

The exhibit will be on display at The Museum through May. Hours are 10 a.m.-5 p.m. weekdays and Saturdays, Sundays from 1-5 p.m. There is no charge.

RAISIN NUT SODA LOAF 1 cup unbleached allpurpose flour

1 cup finely milled whole wheat flour 1 tsp. baking powder 1/2 tsp. baking soda 1/2 tsp. cream of tartar 11/4 tsps. salt 1 tbsp. dark brown sugar 1 cup milk mixed with 1 tbsp. lemon juice 3/4 cup golden raisins 1/4 cup coarsely chopped walnuts

Stir together the flours, leavenings, salt and sugar. Add the milk-lemon-juice mixture and mix well. Work in the raisins and nuts. Turn into a buttered 8 by 4 by 3inch loaf pan and smooth on top. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in the center comes out clean - about 1 hour. Loosen edges and turn out. City Students Gain Awards For Languages

MIDLAND (Special) - All of the eight Latin and Spanish students from Lubbock Monterey High School who traveled to Midland Saturday for competition with other foreign language students from West Texas high schools took home awards, and Mary Ruth Thurmond, a first year Latin student, topped all other students at the competition, including many second and third-year Latin students, in Mythology and in Roman Life.

The competition at Midland Lee High School Saturday drew entrants from ome 15 high schools in Latin, Spanish, German and French. Although several schools were represented by as many as 30 students in the competition, Lubbock Monterey entrants were restricted to Spanish and Latin, with German and French students at the school scheduled to compete elsewhere in the near future, according to Mrs. Pina Jardine, Latin and German instructor, who, along with Mrs. Phyllis Neumann, Spanish instructor, accompanied the students to Mid-

Of the eight entered in the competition, four captured first place honors in cometitions among the foreign language stuents, including Mary Ruth Thurmond's pair of first places.

Others included the following: Jay Claborn, 3rd place, latin reading comprehension; Terry Dorsett, 1st place, latin sight recitation; Elizabeth Drew, 1st place, Latin grammar, and 2nd place, Latin reading comprehension; Don Freean, 3rd place, Latin vocabulary; Ayse mkoe, 2nd place in both Latin vocabu-

Fire Destroys Feed Mill

REGIONAL

A-J Correspondent

CLOVIS, N.M. — A Sunday morning fire of undetermined origin destroyed the feed mill at the Wilbur Ellis Elevator here, formerly the El Rancho Milling Company. There were no known injuries.

Joe Maddox, chief of the Clovis fire department, said the department received the call at 8:31 a.m. MST, but the fire was out of control in the mill area by the time firefighters

Firemen were able to save the office area and two large storage warehouses which were adjacent to the mill. Maddox said firemen would remain at the scene today and all through the night to keep the fire from spreading.

The fire was still burning at noon Sunday, but most of the buildings had fallen in. Part of the head house was still standing, but was on the verge of collapse.

When asked if the cause of the fire could be determined, Maddox said he felt very little knowledge would be gained after an investigation. Owners have not been reached for an estimated loss.

In 1956, the Southern Methodist team under the late Coach Doc Hayes and the late Jim Krebs made it into the NCAA final four. The Mustangs ran into Bill Russell and San Francisco. They eventually were rated fourth in the nation that year. In the 1970s, the SWC began to heavily PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Bill Rogers, seeking his first victory after four years on the pro golf tour, jumped into the 2-stroke lead Sunday after four rounds of the $225,000, 90-hole Bob Hope Decet Classic.

Desert Classic.

Rogers shot a 5-under par 67 at Eldorado, one of the four courses used in the tournament, to end 72 holes with a 270, matching the record-breaking score of Rik Messengale a year ago. Rogers would need a 67 in the final Monday to tie the record-

England's Peter Oosterhuis, playing in the last foursome to tee off at Indian Wells, shot a 6-under-par 66, including a 31 on the front nine which he played last, to move within two strokes of Rogers.

Jerry McGee, playing at difficult La Quinta, shot a 2-under-par 70 to end the four rounds with a 274 while Tom Watson, tied for the lead with Rogers Saturday, came in with a par 72 at host club Bermuda Dunes, to drop to five strokes

"It's going to take a 65, maybe a 64, by me because Bill isn't going to vary very much," said Watson, top money winner in 1977 who already had taken two pf the five tournaments this year.

"I watched him practice the other day and he's swinging very well."

Just 70 of the 128 pros made the cut for the final round, with 289 being the score that qualified a player into the fifth round to be played at Bermuda Dunes.

NBC will televise one hour of the final beginning at 4 p.m. EST. beginning at 4 p.m. EST.

Tied with Watson at 275 was Danny Edwards, winner of the Greater Greensboro in 1977, who shot a 68 at Indian Wells.

Tim Simpson, a rookle on the tour last year, was in sixth place by himself shooting a 68 at Indian Wells to put him at 277, seven strokes by Rogers. Veteran Gene Littler, who shot a 69 at Bermuda Dunes, and David Graham, the first round leader who had a 70 at Indian

Williams Suffers Broken Jaw

Kent Williams, a starter at forward throughout the season for Texas sustained a hairline jaw fracture in Saturday night's game with Texas miss one game and possibly two, coach Gerald Myers reported Sunday. Williams, the 6-5 forward from Hobbs, caught an elbow thrown by Aggie forward Willie Foreman in the first half of Saturday night's 78-70 victory in College Station. The injury was x-rayed here Sunday, and Myers rreported they showed the hairline fracture on the left side

"He'll definitely miss the Houston game (here Wednesday) and Texas (here next Saturday)," Myers

Williams is Tech's chief outside threat, and has been one of the team's top weapons against teams which use zone defenses-and UH and Texas both use zones. "Everybody'll just have to take up the slack," observed Myers after hearing about the fracure. "Kent will have the jaw wired Monday (today), and they're have the wires in there for six weeks."

Williams is the team's second-leading scorer, hitting more than 14 points a game.

"Our films show that they were coming down court," Myers said, "and Foreman elbowed him. Kent went down then, and we looked at him and he wanted to stay in. He went down court and put up a little shot and then started staggering. He staggered all the way to midcourt and fell again.

"That's when we took him out. He said later he didn't know too much until late in the game, but he told us that he was all right. The Southwest Conference rules say a doctor is supposed to be present at every game, to assist both teams, but to my knowledge, there was no doctor there Saturday night.

Williams scored only 8 points, 6 of them at the free throw line. And he hit the final four free throws in the contest, sealing the triumph, Tech's 18th in 24 games. Williams played 29 minutes against the Aggies.

College Cage Standings Tech Relying On Youth

By CARTER CROMWELL Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Want a concise assessment of the 1978 Texas Tech baseball team? Well, they've got 23 freshmen and just seven returning lettermen on the 34-man

Some persons would refer to this as a rebuilding season.

The Raiders lost considerable experience and hitting punch when a number of players completed their eligibility following the 1977 campaign, and that was what had kept the Techsans afloat that year.

Tech finished 25-24 in 1977 and was 12-12 in SWC play-the most league wins it had ever managed in one season-principally because of its .311 team batting average. The pitchers struggled most of the season, posting a 5.38 earned-run average and allowing 432 hits in 350 innings. Gone, however, are eight of the top nine batters from 1977, each a .300-plus performer. To put it another way, nearly 70 per cent of Tech's hits last season were made by those eight. The percentages are similar in most offensive catego-"As far as the total squad goes, this might be the most young people we've had," Raider coach Kal Segrist said, as Tech's Friday opener with Hardin-Simmons nears. "In 1974, when last year's seniors were freshmen, we might have been as young, but that's the only time. "I think we have some young guys that have good potential, but we need for them to gain confidence. Our inexperience shows. I feel good about the practices we had in the fall, but we haven't had good weather this spring, so it's put The pitching staff, weak in 1977, has a very untested look about it in 1978. Danny Whitton, 0-2 with a 9.38 ERA and 39 walks in 32 innings last season, is the only senior on the club, but he must obviously improve his performances.

He is nursing a badly pulled hamstring muscle, though. Segrist said that "if we had to play today," he would depend a lot on freshmen Larry, Womble, Rick Hall and Robert Bryant and junior squadman David Bol-

TSN Seeking Bid For SWC Broadcasts

DALLAS (UPI) - A state destrict judge Sunday ordered the Southwest Conference to delay finalizing a broadcasting contract with the Mutual Broadcasting System until a presentation could be made by the Texas State Network.

Representatives of TSN succeeded in at least temporarily stopping the SWC-Mu-tual agreement in a rare Sunday session in the 160th District Court of Judge Leonard Hoffman.

HOLE-IN-ONE

Gordon Redman scored a hole-in-one on the par 3, 170 yard, number 17 hole at Lubbock Country Club Sunday afternoon, using a five iron. Observing were Tom O'Kelley, Walter Crowell and Howard Barnett. The ace was Redman's second career hole-in-one.

"I have decided it is in the best interest of all parties to extend the restraining order," Hoffman said. Hoffman had granted a temporary restraning order Saturday night and simply continued it Sunday.

The broadcast rights to Southwest Conference football games became the object of a furious fight within the radio industry - and now a court case - when the league decided to end its longtime association with the Exxon oil company. The conference and Mutual announced last month they had come to an agreement, but no papers were signed. Conference and Mutual officials had hoped to finalize the agreement Sunday at a meeting in Dallas. But before that meeting could take place TSN gent to court to stop it and convinced Hofxman of its case in arguments that took place in private.

'Cats Thwarted By Tiger Subs

A funny thing happened to the Kentucky Wildcats on their way to another Southeastern Conference victory - they tripped.

Even more humiliating, the Louisiana State basketball team beat them with their second-stringers.

"It seems as if when the other team really wants a game, we roll over and let them have it," said Kentucky Coach Joe Hall after Saturday night's shocking 95-94 overtime loss to LSU. "This is the second time this year this has happened to us that we haven't bowed our neck and faced up to the competition.'

The nation's top-ranked club, beaten for the first time a couple of weeks ago by Alabama, was theoretically head and shoulders above LSU. However, the Wildcats were only mild cats against their SEC colleagues Saturday night, even after the entire starting five of the Tigers had fouled out. LSU had only reserves playing near the end.

"I thought we had an excellent chance to win then," Hall said. "I feel triply disappointed — that's worse than being doubly disappointed. We were playing against their second string."

The result of Kentucky's latest loss has left Hall with a lack of respect for his

Irish Fall To DePaul

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) - Consecutive steals by quick-handed guards Clyde Bradshaw and Randy Ramsey and a basket by Gary Garland with three seconds left in overtime lifted 11th-ranked De-Paul to a 69-68 upset of No. 5 Notre Dame Sunday and snapped the Irish's 22game winning string at home.

Notre Dame, which led by no more than one point until the overtime session, built a seemingly safe 68-63 lead on a spurt of seven straight points.

A basket by Garland cut the lead to three, then Bradshaw, a 6-foot freshman stole the ball and scored on a layup and was fouled with 58 seconds to go. He missed the free throw and Notre Dame rebounded the ball, but Ramsey stole the ball with 42 seconds remaining.

The Irish got the ball back with 10 seconds left on a foul, but Rich Branning missed a free throw, and the Blue Demons got the ball and raced downcourt where Garland lofted the winning shot.

Dave Corzine led DePaul with 23 points, while Garland finished with 16. Bruce Flowers led Notre Dame with 19 points and Dave Batton added 18. Both fouled out in the overtime. DePaul led by two at halftime and Notre Dame took three one-point leads in the second half, but an 8-2 spurt by the Blue Demons put them ahead 47-42 before the Irish rallied to a 61-61 tie at the end of regulation. DePaul, shutting off Notre Dame's running game with a tight zone defense, recorded its 20th victory in 22 games this season and its first at Notre Dame in 11 years. Notre Dame, which had won its last nine games, fell to 16-4. DePaul Coach Ray Meyer said the win almost guarantees his squad a bid for the NCAA tournament. "We don't get the recognition, but this (win) assures us of recognition," he said. Meyer said after the game went into overtime either team could have won. We game the game away in regulation play, but in the overtime we came back," he said.

Notre Dame Coach Digger Phelps agreed that the Blue Demons came back strong after regulation play.

'We fought back before the second half ended and then DePaul fought back at the end of the overtime," he said. "We had the turnovers and the missed foul

With the open fighters cutting their acts short, the prepsters turned into the real crowd-pleasers. Estacado nipped Coronado in the final point standings 15-14 followed by Dunbar's 7, Monterey, Idalou and Levelland's 1 each.

EHS heavyweight Samuel Martin and Dunbar's 132-pound Alvin High won their final matches by default. Two more Matadors, Albert Walker (147) and Liones Essia (139), took unanimous decisions over their opponents.

Coronado's pair of football players excited the crowd the most, though. Dean Blumrosen (156) and Steve Mathews (178) each have worked out in the boxing gyms for only two weeks. Blumrosen flung his quick punches past Estacado's George Irving to receive a unanimous decision. Mathews slugged it out with Duntriumph.

In other special awards besides the high-school point tally, the team trophy went to coach Frank Dunlap's Plainview boxing club, the sportsmanship trophy to Levelland's Robin Blake and the Gary Arnold Memorial Trophy to Levelland's Joe Shipley.

Sandies Move Closer To Title

By TOM HALLIBURTON Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff Barry Arnwine didn't deflate all the balls at Pampa or try a deep-freeze type of offense but the Amarillo High cage coach learned a lesson from his first close encounter with Pampa.

The Harvesters edged the Sandies 61-60 in the earlier league meeting and Pam-pa's 6-6 post Rickey Bunton poured in 34 points. So Arnwine watched his films closely and decided his team would have to control the tempo in the Pampa re-

Arnwine's troops journeyed to the ice land where nearly eight inches of snow was lying on the ground. Inside the Pampa pit, things never warmed up either. The Sandies shot only 39 percent to Pam-pa's freezing 32 from the field.

"I've gone over there and covered games for seven or eight years and I can't ever remember seeing Pampa shoot close to 32 percent on its home floor." said an Amarillo reporter.

Pampa led between three and five points throughout the first half and owned a five-point halftime lead. The Harvesters stretched it to 27-20 in the third quarter moments before Bunton collected his fourth foul.

"That gave us a mental lift and we just made a great run on them in the third quarter and early in the fourth quarter. But even when we trailed, we were playing a very deliberate tempo and I felt that, was to our advantage," Arnwine said.

Amarillo needed to counter the Pampa size and Arnwine figured the deliberate tempo was his best chance. Pampa started two 6-6 players, a 6-5, a 6-3 and 5-8 point guard. Arnwin appointed 6-6 Victor, Mitchell on Bunton but the other four Sandie starters measured 6-1, 6-1, 6-0 and Sandie starters measured 6-1, 6-1, 6-0 an

However, the slowdown game stifled Pampa's scorers. Bunton ended with only 9 while guard Rusty Ward finished with 13. Meanwhile, Mitchell picked up 12 points, 14 boards and blocked three their for Amerilla.

"It might have been our best gam based upon how much we needed the win. Our winning this season definitely has depended upon the development of (Victor) Mitchell. He has solidified out team," the Sandies' coach said.

Arnwine, Mitchell and the go sandstorm only need a win over last-place Palo Duro Tuesday night to clinch the 3-AAAA playoff spot and set up a bi-district meeting with Monterey. AHS, Pampa and Tascosa finished the first half in a three-way tie for the league title. But Tuesday's win in the Amarillo High gym would cinch the outright second-half honors for the Sandies (21-6). Palo Duro is 4-21 for the season and 0-7 against district

The expected victory would guarantee Amarillo High's first district roundball title since 1967 and the second one since 1948. But it's the second straight bidis-trict trip for the likable Arnwine, who guided Hereford's 4-AAAA district champs a year ago. When Tom Leezer coaching and stayed at AHS only as a teacher, Arnwine accepted the spot last

'Loft Movement' Saves Inner City Buildings

(EDITOR'S NOTE — America's urban pieneer is the artist in search of a home in the midst of city stums. He's hardy, imaginative and optimistic. Of-ten he succeeds in his search. Just as often he over achieves: others want what he's created and he's off on another quest.)

NEW YORK (AP) - They live in shacks in Atlanta, abandoned storefronts in Chicago, an old Railway Express office in Dallas, a warehouse in San Francisco, the shell of a supermarket in Washington, D.C. They are artists, mostly, claiming what may be America's last housing frontier - loft buildings no one else has the desire or ingenuity to turn into dwellings. What sands between these pioneers and their homes are bureaucrats, landlords, and a maze of city zoning laws and building codes.

These wilderness areas are in the hearts of a dozen or more American cities - abandoned tenements, factory buildings and even chicken coops that only the artistic eve and imagination

This so-called "loft movement" had its spiritual start in SoHo in Lower Manhattan in the mid-60s when perhaps 10,000 artists turned century-old abandoned factories into inexpensive, spacious dwellings and saved that neighborhood from the usual fate of the wrecking ball and the high-rise slum.

Artists now are creating loft homes in many other cities, and the movement is described in a recent book, "Pioneering in the Urban Wilderness," by Jim Strat-

"There are converted loft spaces from Tampa, Fla., to Portland, Maine, to Seattle to Los Angeles. Many are isolated, and most seem isolated from the standpoint of their solitary residents, just as the New York pioneers before 1970 thought there were alone," Stratton thor's interviews with loft dwellers in 23 cities range from heroic struggles to bitter ironies.

Most ironic, says Stratton, is that when artists finally win the right from officials and real estate interests to improve dilapidated buildings and save neighborhoods, they ultimately may lose their new homes to high prices created by outside demand.

The haven that SoHo artist-pioneers created out of the Lower Manhattan wilderness drew interest from the middle class, the chic, the greedy. "Vanity lofts" that appealed to the wealthy were built, boutiques and art galleries and restaurants were opened, and some pioneers are being driven out by soaring

In the best circumstances, the host city will ignore the inevitable list of code and zoning violations when these urban pioneers convert a building never meant to be lived in.

'City zoning says we can't live here, but they are so happy about artists mov ing in that they leave us alone," says Richard Childers, an artist whom Stratton found living in an abandoned Railway Express office in downtown Dallas.

Zoning laws generally are ignored in Denver, too, where Beverly Rosen lives and paints in an 85-year old raccoon skinning factory

Washboard Sales Booming MEMPHIS. Tenn. (UPI) - The manufacturer of oldfashioned wooden washboards is not sure why the market for his out-of-date product remains. But he's selling 100,000 of them a year. Leslie M. Stratton, executive vice president of Wabash Inc., said the Memphis firm got into the washboard business in the early 1900's and has never stopped production. "I don't know how long they will last," Stratton said Friday. "About the only change one can make from the wash-board is to go to the electric washing machine." Stratton said that the washboards are bought by farmers. antique dealers, restaurant owners and an assortment of others for varied uses.

"The big orders today will go out West and probably find their way into Mexico or along the border," he said. "You have people who were raised in rural areas that move to big cities and want to use the washboard.

Stratton said the nostalgia of the washboard is sometimes incorporated for more modern uses.

We had one man buy them and then put clocks into the center of them to sell," he said. "Another man on the West Coast puts hooks on them and uses them as tie racks in his Western stores. It is left up to whatever imagination you

Some people will buy a lot of them, leave them outside in the weather and then sell them as antiques. And one hotel restaurant put their menus on them

The washboard itself has undergone little change, the dealer said.

"They have evolved very little over the years. The basic style is the same but we use different types of materials for the rubbing surface - glass, brass, galvanize metal.

One local store manager, T.A. Pepkin, said his firm, Orgill Brothers & Co., always keep the washboards in stock. "I don't know where they all go," he said. "But we keep them because we continue to sell them. Undoubtedly, they still are being used."

Suspect Outwits Police

NEW PORT RICHEY, Fla. (AP) - It was almost like something from the Keystone Cops - a policeman locked helplessly in the back seat of a runaway patrol car while a wily robbery suspect hot-tailed it away.

The Pasco County sheriff's department said that last week, two deputies picked up a suspect for questioning in a convenience store robbery. But the suspect, who complained of being sick, said riding in the caged-in back seat, which has no door or window handles, would make him sick-

Accountants Set Meeting In Lubbock

The Lubbock Area Chapter of the National Association of Accountants (NAA) has scheduled a technical meeting at 6 p.m. Tuesday at the Big Texan Steak Ranch in Monterey Center.

The speaker will be Lee D. Pennington, president of Associated Financial Planners Inc. of Lubbock. His topic will be 'Financial Planning for the Family Unit.

Pennington, a graduate of Southern Methodist University, instituted Associated Financial Planners Inc., an investment advisory firm, in March, 1975. Prior to that he served as district director, regional director and registered principal of Financial Service Corp. of America.

He currently is also associated with Kelly & Morey Inc., Life Insurance Co. of the Southwest, Provident Life & Accident and AFP Realty.

Lester M. Brewer, vice president of NAA, will also attend the Lubbock meeting. The program will include a reception

Bill Holder, president of the local chapter, said, "Mr. Brewer's visit will provide local NAA members with an opportunity to be brought up to date on various policy matters affecting both the national organization and local chapter. " Brewer is expected to advise chapter officials on methods to improve the overall effectiveness of chapter programs and operations for the coming NAA year.

Brewer is presently the manager of budgets and cost accounting for Hughes Tool Co. in Houston. Prior business connections were with Dressner Industries in various capacities, including manager of cost accounting for the SIE Division, and controller of the SIE Heney Manufacturing Division.

Soviet Cosmonauts Continue Orbiting

MOSCOW (AP) - Yuri Romanenko and Georgy Grechko, the Soviet Union's longest-running space act, Sunday made their 1,000th earth orbit in the Salyut 6 space station, the official news agency Tass reported.

The cosmonauts were fired into space Dec. 11 and linked up with the orbiting laboratory the next day. On Friday, they broke the 63-day record for the longest single Russian space flight. The American record, set in 1974, is 84 days.

Tass said Sunday that the cosmonauts installed a new air filter in their station and photographed the earth's continents and oceans.

The agency said scientists were profiting from the crew's regular reports on dust storms, forest fires and volcanic activity they can see from their vantage point more than 150 miles above earth

PLATTEVILLE, Wis. (UPI) - Beware of that Valentine admirer who claims it's true love. He or she may be dead wrong. Ray Short, a University of Wisconsin-

Platteville sociologist who has taught college courses on marriage and the family for 20 years, is convinced most people who think they're in love are not in love

"You can't trust your heart," Short said in an interview. "Your feelings may betray you into marrying someone for all the wrong reasons.

When your heart gets pierced by Cupid's arrow, it may be Cupid's error." Short has written a book scheduled for publication in May to tell people whether their feelings are those of sex, love or infatuation. The book is entitled, "Is It Sex, Love or Infatuation: How Can I Really He said one out of three marriages ends in divorce, 3 per cent in separation and another 15 to 20 per cent stay married but aren't happy at it." That means, he said, there is only a 50-50 chance that one would make a wise choice of a mate. Short said most marriage failures result from confusion about the nature of true love. He said there are key clues to tell if it's a love that will last or only a passing The clues - all in the form of questions - involve such things as sex appeal, physical attraction, jealousy, quarrels and approval by friends and relatives. "If it's real love, your major interest will be the other person's total personality." he said. "It's not the body, it's Short said men should look for a wornan who is a "wonderful person to be around. She may have a face that would stop a clock or be as flat chested as Uncle Charlie and still be a beautiful person." He warned both sexes - if they are

WINTER VALUES

We know we have to offer special values to sell cars this time of the year, so we've applied a little science and a little magic to do just that. We've reduced our already low prices on new Buicks, vans, and selected used cars.
