Food Still Moves Despite Protest

By The Avalanche-Journal Staff
Striking area farmers largely struck out in their attempt during the night and today to squeeze the food supply to Northwest Texas.

Levelland was the only area town reporting food shortages as the farmers picketed mainly without incident throughout the night.

Like farmers across the nation, they had set up picket lines at railroad yards and stop-points on major highways throughout the Lubbock-Amarillo area, hoping to hold up food deliveries and force quick congressional approval of higher crop price supports.

But today, a number of highway stop-points had closed down because they seemed ineffectual, farmers said.

Strike leaders were hazy at midday on whether blockade attempts would continue through Thursday as originally slated. They said they planned to appeal to the U.S. Justice Department over what American Agriculture spokesman called unwarranted interference by the Texas Department of Public Safety.

"Things haven't gone just the way we planned. Some of the trucks are driving right on through," commented Bill Kee-see at Meadow as strikers there dispersed.

Woodrow and Lorenzo blockaders shut down and went home, too, today.

Reports indicated farmers went to the T&P Railroad yard in Big Spring, asking railway employees, especially switching and train crews to stop work. But railroad unions had been told not to respect the picket lines, so the farmers withdrew, spokesmen said.

During the night, farmers flagged down a train outside the town of Quitaque, in Briscoe County, northeast of Lubbock. After checking with state troopers, the farmers learned it was unlawful to stop a train and they then permitted it to leave about 3:30 a.m.

In Levelland, where the food blockade seemed successful, housewives said there was no bread on many store shelves.

Most grocers there were agreeing not to accept bread deliveries. "Generally, since this is a farming community, we're cooperating and will do so up to a point," one grocer said.

Jerry Pinner, United Supermarket manager in Levelland, said he had been informed that if he did not voluntarily cooperate, farmers would shut down supermarkets.

Therefore, he said, he was turning away most deliveries.

A Furr's Supermarket manager in the Hockley County town said citizens there appear to be laying in supplies in fear of future food shortages. Lines were 10 to 15 persons deep at each checkout counter today, "far above average," said Billy Moore.

He reported being out of bread and milk.

There was talk in some Levelland stores that the strike is causing ill will, even in that agriculture-based economy. Customers complained about inconvenience, long lines, and possible price rises due to shortages.

Farmers began converging on major Lubbock area highway arteries late Monday night, hoping to halt truck deliveries. In a well-organized movement, they used citizens band radios to contact truck

VFW Leader Fears Slash

WASHINGTON (AP) — The commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars urged Congress today to stop the "anti-veteran forces and social welfare planners" from taking over veterans' benefits.

John Wasyluk, the VFW national leader, said veterans benefits "have come under the heaviest attack ever" from those forces.

"To such people no one is special and everyone is equal, regardless of contributions to our nation or the total absence thereof. Our veterans and their survivors are very special," he said in a prepared statement.

The VFW, the nation's second largest veterans organization with 1.8 million members, presented its views during the organization's annual mid-winter leadership conference here. Wasyluk cited these developments the past year:

— Joseph A. Califano Jr., shortly after he became secretary of health, education and welfare, included Veterans Administration pensions and service-connected disability compensation in his nationwide welfare report study.

— Chairman Alan K. Campbell of the Civil Service Commission attacked the Veterans Preference Act the day he was sworn into office.

— President Carter last week recommended that veterans' preference for federal jobs be limited to 10 years after leaving service.

— The National Academy of Sciences recommended that the VA hospital and medical care system be integrated into some future national health insurance program and that new Veterans Administration hospitals not be built.

— "Finally, there are those who would turn the VA home loan program over to the Department of Housing and Urban Development and the VA educational program over to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare or to a new Department of Education," he said.

Earlier, Rep. Ray Roberts, D-Texas, chairman of the House Veterans Affairs Committee told the VFW he had been assured by Carter that VA education benefits would not be shifted. Roberts said he has asked the administration for clarification.

Wasyluk called for an increase of 6.5 percent in monthly payments to veterans disabled in military service, compared with an administration proposal of 5.8 percent.

He also urged the widows and orphans of those rated 100 percent disabled in service be given payments regardless of the cause of the veteran's death. Now such payments are made only if the service-connected disability caused the veteran's death.

Carter Ruling Out Seizure Of Mines

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House, anticipating initial defiance by coal miners to any back-to-work order, is hoping that available supplies and at least some resumed mining will tide coal-dependent states over until warm weather arrives.

"We now think we could postpone indefinitely the day of economic catastrophe," said one official, referring to warnings that dwindling coal supplies were pushing the nation to the brink of serious economic setbacks.

This morning the president told congressional leaders that he hopes the miners will obey the injunction. Carter announced Monday that he is seeking a back-to-work order under the Taft-Hartley Act, and that there is no plan to consider alternatives such as seizure of the mines.

Rep. John Brademas of Indiana, the House Democratic whip, reported on Carter's breakfast meeting with the congressional leadership. The congressman said there was no discussion of a temporary federal seizure of the mines.

The over-all White House plan was described by high-level officials, who asked not to be named.

It hinges on several factors to persuade miners to return to work, among them court orders, increase wages — and loss of food stamps if they refuse.

But it also includes the hope that individual coal companies and union districts can reach their own agreements, sending some of the nation's miners back to work under new contracts.

For several weeks, White House officials have been holding out the possibility that individual contracts could be reached outside the national bargaining effort so that some mines, if not all of them, could be reopened.

Now they are saying that the Taft-Hartley injunction might be conducive to such a solution. Once a few such contracts are agreed upon, it is hoped that other union districts and companies would be encouraged to take similar action.

"Several companies and districts have indicated a desire to negotiate independently," said one administration source. "For those that don't, we will be in a position to stretch out available resources until warm weather comes."

One official, who asked not to be named, conceded that the "game plan" was more what the administration sees as a plausible scenario than a well-charted course.

If the administration is not counting completely on the voluntary compliance of the miners, it is at least hoping that the arrival of U.S. marshals carrying back-to-work court orders to the Appalachian coal towns may convince the miners to adopt a more cooperative attitude.

"It could have a sobering effect," said one official, tapping the air with a closed fist.

Deluges In State Trigger Floods

A-J News Services

Thunderstorms dumped heavy rains on the eastern half of Texas today, as chill winds swept the northwestern region of the state.

Flash flood warnings were issued at Wichita Falls and large hail fell in the Houston area.

But weather forecasters promised that the blustery northeasterly winds and dense clouds that played across the South Plains today will skip downstate by tonight, leaving fair skies and warmer temperatures here Wednesday.

Although the Panhandle anticipated light snow today, the National Weather Service at noon eliminated its earlier prediction of a 30 percent chance for scattered light rain in the Lubbock area.

This morning's heavy cloud cover was expected to break up later in the day, boosting the temperature to the mid 40s from this morning's 34-degree low. Continued decreasing cloudiness tonight will accompany a mercury drop into the upper 20s.

Wednesday should dawn with clear skies and a chance for the afternoon high to be near 60. Winds will be light and variable following today's gusts of up to 30 miles per hour.

The extended outlook for the area's weather from Thursday through the weekend calls for no precipitation or significant temperature changes. The highs will be in the upper 60s and the nights' lows in the mid 40s.

Flash flood warnings were posted for Wichita Falls and other North Central Texas towns this morning. Red Cross volunteers in Wichita Falls were ordered to stand by ready to evacuate residents of the Holliday Creek area. The creek, which was bankful by mid-morning, runs through the city.

Wichita Falls police reported flash flooding earlier at one intersection near the creek, and the highway department closed one farm road bridge spanning a river after the bridge was covered by an estimated 10 inches of water.

About 3 inches of rain fell on the city before turning to sleet about 9:30 a.m.

Thunderstorm warnings abounded in other parts of Central and East Texas early today as gusty winds approaching 40 m.p.h. pushed the turbulence through the state.

Tyler reported 1.32 inches of rain overnight as pre-dawn temperatures ranged from near 30 in the Panhandle to the 60s along the coast.

Elsewhere in the nation, moisture moving northward from the Gulf of Mexico collided with a cold front moving southward through the Great Plains to bring a variety of adverse weather to the Midwest today.

Snow fell in a narrow band from southeastern Nebraska across Illinois and into West Virginia, while freezing drizzle was widespread over the eastern half of Kansas. Rain and drizzle extended from North Central Texas and Oklahoma into the lower Ohio Valley.

Bradford, Pa., had the lowest reading in the nation with a chilling low of 12 below zero.

Public Reaction To School Plan Mixed

By JEFF SOUTH
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Public debate won't begin until 7 p.m. Thursday, but citizens already are responding — some for, some against — to the Lubbock Independent School District's proposal to comply with federal Judge Halbert O. Woodward's integration order.

"Response generally has been positive," Dr. E.C. Leslie, Supt. Ed Irons' top assistant, said just before Irons explained the plan at a principals' meeting. Advocates of systemwide integration have rapped the proposal as failing to go far enough and putting a burden on certain minority neighborhoods.

But when considered "in context with the entire community, it (the plan) is fair," Irons said.

Under the plan, if you are white and live in a white neighborhood, your child will be assigned to a minority campus for one semester of his elementary education.

And if you're black or Mexican-American — and reside in the elementary zones of Mahon, Sanders, Guadalupe, Iles, Wheatley, Martin or Posey — your child will be assigned to a predominantly white school for about two of his elementary years.

To integrate the two secondary schools — Dunbar High and Struggs Junior High — cited by Woodward as "constitutional violations," the school board proposes that:

Struggs will be closed; students living in that school's attendance zone will be assigned to O.L. Slaton, Atkins and Hutchinson junior high schools. The Struggs facility will become part of the Dunbar complex.

Dunbar will continue housing all 10th-through 12th-graders in its existing attendance area. In addition, an "extensive magnet program" of unique academic courses will be instituted at the enlarged Dunbar campus to voluntarily attract more white students from throughout the city.

The school board will hold a community meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Lubbock High School auditorium, 2004 19th St., to discuss the plan. The board then will convene at 7:15 a.m. Friday to formally adopt a proposal for immediate submission to Woodward.

The board will present its plan to Woodward in his courtroom at 9 a.m. March 13. At that time, the U.S. Justice Department is expected to object to the district's proposal as too limited. The department has advocated integration of all schools here.

The district's plan does not go that far. However, it does involve "nearly systemwide participation," with almost all parts of the city — and every ethnic group — sharing the burden, Irons said.

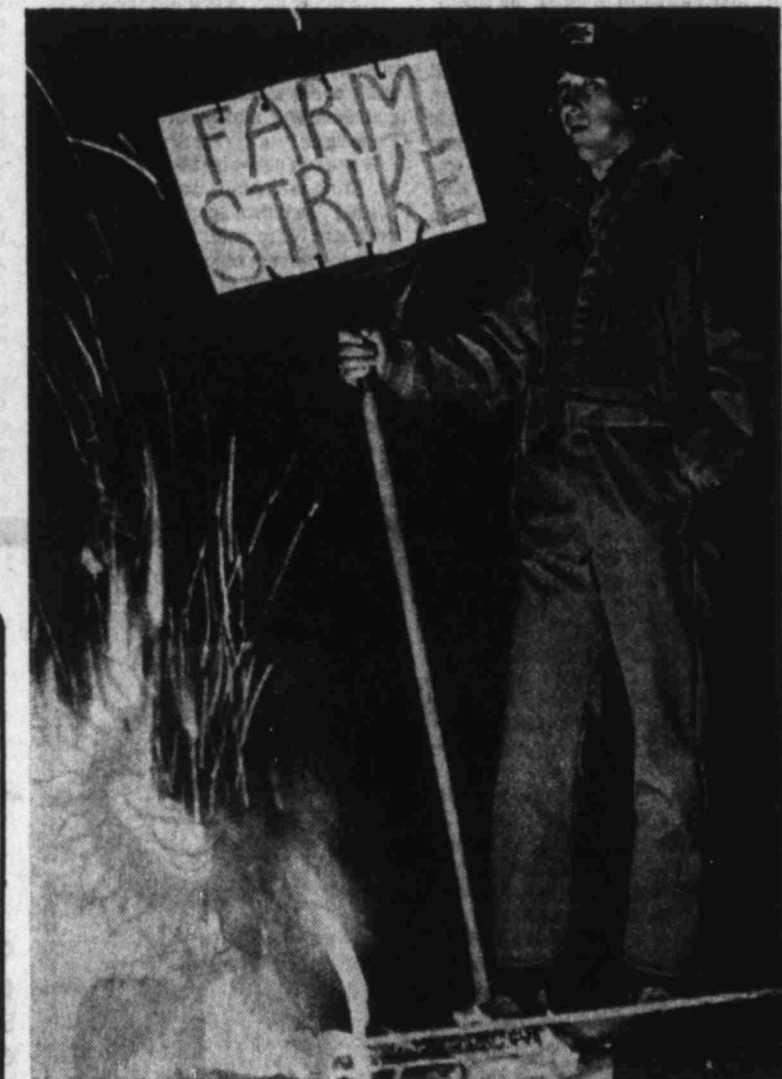

"This plan is as fair as we could possibly get it," Irons said.

The district's proposal will require the busing of 1,308 students — 870 whites and 438 minorities — each semester. The district also would provide transportation for voluntary integration transfers. The plan further provides for the proposed construction of schools south of Loop 289.

Woodward told the district Jan. 27 to make plans to desegregate seven minority elementary schools — Mahon, Guadalupe, Sanders, Posey, Martin, Iles and Wheatley.

For starters, the district proposes to re-

Cage Team Accused In Theft Case

AUSTIN (AP) — Shopkeeper Norma Hofstad says Houston Wheatley basketball players crowded into her jewelry store Thursday night and stole more than a dozen pieces of jewelry valued at approximately $150.

Officials in the Houston Independent School District met today to consider the matter.

Wheatley won the Class AAAA championship on Saturday by defeating San Antonio Fox Tech, 84-83, after beating Houston Cypress-Fairbanks in the semifinals on Friday.

Miss Hofstad said she contacted Wheatley Coach Jackie Carr and was able to get back about one-third of the merchandise, as well as $38 in cash.

Carr personally returned the money and merchandise to Amron Gifts, Miss Hofstad said, about 9:30 a.m. Saturday, just a few hours before the Tech game.

Director Bailey Marshall of the University Interscholastic League said he would write the Houston ISD urging some form of compensation for the store owner.

Wheatley principal A.C. Herald learned of the incident when a reporter called him, and said Carr provided this description of his part in the return of the stolen merchandise:

"Mr. Carr called the boys together (Friday) and told them to give all the jewelry and all the money in their pockets. He told them, 'Give me the jewelry or I'll get the police out here to take you all to jail and we won't play' in the finals.

"We've been up there (to Austin) many times, and we've never had trouble like this," said Herald. "We've had some hell-raising after victories, but nothing like this has ever happened."

Debate Prompts Demonstration

CAMBRIDGE, England (AP) — A harem is no place for a proper British princess.

And in the view of some 70 demonstrators, neither was a debate on the topic "A Woman's Place is in the Harem."

Princess Anne, the 27-year-old daughter of Queen Elizabeth, appeared pale and shaken Monday night as four police officers had to force a path for her through cursing demonstrators when she attended the debate at the Cambridge Union, the university's student debating society.

"The motion of the debate was an insult to all women and we don't mind if we insulted the princess to make our point," said one of the demonstrators, who refused to be identified.

About 750 students had paid $1.90 each to attend the debate, a benefit for the Save the Children Fund. The princess is president of the charity.

Guest speakers at the debate were actress Felicity Kendal, actors Robert Morley and Derek Nimmo and former racing driver Stirling Moss.

Koch Urged To Seek Irish Lass

NEW YORK (AP) — Bachelor Mayor Ed Koch of New York has been invited to look for a wife in Ireland.

The offer by Gerald Y. Goldberg, lord mayor of Cork, Ireland, came Monday during a courtesy call.

"We have many beautiful girls in Ireland," said Goldberg. With a wink, he invited the 53-year-old Koch to visit Cork "as early as possible" and suggested he might find a wife there.

Both mayors are Jewish and Goldberg reminded Koch that "Abraham told Elijah to go look for a wife and a son."

"For a slight consideration, I could probably serve as your plenipotentiary," added Goldberg.

Koch said he was moved by Goldberg's gift of a silver tray bearing Cork's coat of arms "and also by your willingness to intervene on my behalf on other matters."

Bush Eyes Presidency

CLAREMONT, Calif. (AP) — It's all or nothing for former CIA Director George Bush.

Bush said Monday he's thinking about running for president but won't settle for any lower elected office. But he said he might consider being secretary of state under a Republican president.

Bush, 53, said he isn't being "coy" about seeking the 1980 Republican nomination for president. He said the race will be tough, with former President Gerald Ford and former California Gov. Ronald Reagan the current frontrunners.

Other strong contenders, he said, include former Texas Gov. John Connally and Tennessee Sen. Howard Baker.

Bush's comments came in a speech at Claremont Men's College, where he was named an international fellow.

Art Museum Files $1.5 Million Suit

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP) — The Metropolitan Museum of Art says Joan Whitney Payson died before she could fulfill a $5 million pledge to the museum.

The contention is made in a suit seeking $1.5 million from the estate of the late owner of the New York Mets.

The museum said Mrs. Payson had given the museum $3.5 million before she died Oct. 4, 1975, and intended to complete the payments.

The attorney for the estate, Devereaux Milburn of Manhattan, moved in Nassau County Court Monday to have the claim denied. Milburn said no pledge card was signed by Mrs. Payson, and that the estate therefore is not legally bound.

Group Critical Of Princess Grace

WASHINGTON (AP) — All the world may love a princess, but the World Wildlife Fund is not happy with a series of poetry readings by Princess Grace of Monaco.

Her performance, billed as a tribute to the World Wildlife Fund, is entitled "Birds, Beasts and Flowers" and consists of readings of ecological poetry.

Vivian Silverstein, a spokeswoman for the World Wildlife Fund, says many people think the performance is a benefit rather than a tribute although the fund receives no money from the performances.

Arthur Cantor, the princess' booking agent, said the confusion stemmed from an error made earlier this year when the princess' tour was announced. "Somebody at Harvard (where the princess appears tonight) got it mixed up and said that it was a benefit instead of a tribute."

Miss Silverstein said Cantor refused a request to announce on stage the fund would not receive any money from the recital.

Cantor's response: "Why should I correct something I never did?"

Drake's Drake

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Sir Lancelot, Drake University's reading duck, has added a new word to his burgeoning vocabulary.

Graduate students Roy Gilliland and Steve Yund say he now starts to quack when he sees the word "talk." Sir Lancelot already has been taught to respond appropriately when he sees "peck" and "turn."

Yund and Gilliland, under the direction of Dr. Kenneth Lloyd, chairman of Drake's psychology department, train the duck for about an hour every weekday. They say they taught Sir Lancelot to read by rewarding his correct responses with food.

"People can prove they read by reading aloud or giving correct answers on a quiz covering the material they've read, but a duck can't do that," said Yund. "Sir Lancelot's quacking is the only way he can prove he is reading."

NASA Tries To Awaken Space Lab

By HOWARD BENEDICT
WASHINGTON (AP) — Earth engineers are continuing efforts to awaken Skylab, still uncertain whether their initial contacts roused the giant space station from its four-year slumber.

The space laboratory that served as home to three astronaut crews responded to commands from earth Monday with intermittent bursts of radio signals.

Skylab's responses demonstrated that its solar batteries are alive and drawing power from the sun, space officials said.

But it's still too early to tell whether astronauts can once again inhabit the largest man-made space vehicle. The engineers were to send more radio commands today hoping for further clues.

Space officials also need to learn whether they can avoid the space station's uncontrolled re-entry into earth's atmosphere over a populated area.

On its initial eight-minute pass in range of a Bermuda tracking station Monday, Skylab sent two minutes of information about its space surroundings.

Then the signals stopped abruptly, returning three minutes later for another 90 seconds. The latter transmission included only radio signals and no information.

On the second five-minute pass, the trackers received two separate 50-second bursts of radio signals, but no information.

Dr. Herman Thomason, team leader for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, reported the intermittent signals probably resulted from a rolling motion — which at times put the solar panel in shadow, where it could not supply the batteries.

He said the loss of information was caused by a faulty piece of equipment called a voltage converter. Skylab will use two other converters on later tests, which will continue for several days.

If controllers successfully restore power, they later will check all Skylab systems remotely.

If they prove the station is still workable, NASA plans to perform technical maneuvers in mid-April that could add months to the space station's orbital life.

The agency predicts that if nothing is done, Skylab will fall out of orbit between early summer 1979 and the second quarter of 1980. There is concern that the ship is so large it might not burn up from atmospheric friction, leaving large chunks to land in populated areas.

There is a plan to send a manned space shuttle up to the station in October 1979 to attach a small rocket.

Urban Policy To Also Help Small Towns

By JONATHAN WOLMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House and congressional officials have concluded that the president's urban policy must offer federal aid to a broad range of communities, not just to troubled big cities.

At meetings of the National League of Cities this week, federal officials have indicated that President Carter intends to focus his upcoming urban policy to aid distressed cities, but his proposals will not ignore smaller or healthier communities.

"The national urban policy needs to embrace all cities," said policy planner Bertram Carp, a deputy to chief White House domestic adviser Stuart Eizenstat.

"We must show special concern for those cities that show the greatest distress," Carp told 1,700 city officials Monday. "We must also preserve the healthy values of those communities that are doing well."

Carter will announce the details of his urban policy in several weeks.

At one point last fall, the urban plan was subtitled "A program for cities and people in distress." That approach was junked after concerns were raised over the political viability of an urban plan that ignores smaller or healthier communities.

Joseph A. Califano Jr., secretary of health, education and welfare, told the city officials that he stands behind a policy memo in which he warned Eizenstat that concentrating on distressed cities "flies in the face of political reality."

Califano reminded reporters that the Model Cities program was conceived as a one-city demonstration project in the 1960s and was expanded to include 150 communities, mostly at congressional insistence.

The urban policy is still being reworked by Eizenstat's staff, and the president has not given final approval to any major programs, Carp said. However, he outlined three main objectives: meeting the emergency needs of communities in distress; strengthening and stabilizing the private economic base in all cities; and helping to make cities attractive places to live.

Republican Sen. Richard Lugar, a former president of the league of cities who once was mayor of Indianapolis, presented a cautious view of the urban strategy, saying it must have "broad-based support" if Carter's initiatives stand a chance to pass Congress.

"A policy that is targeted toward strictly the Northeast and the Midwest does not have the votes to pass, and it will not," he said.

According to administration officials, one major element of the urban policy is likely to be creation of the so-called urban bank that would provide loans to stimulate economic development.

Originally, policy planners conceived it as a bank that would "target" its funds to large, hardship cities — as few as 20. But as political reality set in, the plans changed. The thinking now is to create a domestic development bank, making funds available to rural areas as well.

At a meeting last week, Eizenstat reportedly told a group of big-city mayors that the administration remains committed to highly targeted programs, but he conceded, "After making sure what the right thing is, we must make sure it is politically practical."

Shots Fired At Naval Sentries

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — A Marine sentry whose post at the entrance to the Navy's Atlantic Fleet headquarters was fired on says if he hadn't moved "I'd probably be in the hospital now."

"It was close, too close," said Pfc. Curtis M. Jones, 19, of Pomona, Calif. "They just missed me by a step."

Navy officials said the shots at Jones' post were fired about 12:30 a.m. Saturday. Two other unmanned posts were struck by bullets about 24 hours later.

The unmanned sentry booths, one at the Norfolk Naval Air Station and the second at another entrance to the Atlantic Fleet Command, "were extensively damaged by high-powered rifle fire," police said.

J.D. Hardison, police chief of the naval base, said officials have no idea of the motive behind the shootings, "but we believe all of the incidents are connected."

All of the windows in the unmanned sentry booth were shot out, he added.

"I was inside the sentry booth and heard what I thought was a firecracker going off," Jones said. "I stepped outside the guard house and there were three more shots."

Jones said the first shots may have hit the sergeant of the guard's truck as it moved away from his post. The second entered the front of his guard booth just where he had been standing.

Jones said he ducked back into the booth, below the windowed area, and the third and fourth shots hit the front of his truck booth.

Switches Designed For Handicapped

ORONO, Maine (UPI) — Two electrical engineering students at the University of Maine at Orono say they have invented a device to help the handicapped turn electric appliances on and off.

"With two easily pushed switches, a handicapped person can control anything in his environment which can be plugged into the electric environment control box," said Peter Libby of Waterville and William Holbrook of Rockland.

The university seniors said their device consists of a panel containing nine small red lights, each of which is connected to an appliance. For example, they said, switches can control a radio, television, light or fan.

The first switch flashes the numbers of the appliances on the face of the control box. They said when the right number appears, a second switch is pushed to turn the appliance on or off.

Group Reveals Tax Burdens

NEW YORK (AP) — The average American household's share of the federal tax burden for fiscal 1978 is $5,104, with every man, woman and child carrying a load of almost $1,800, according to the non-profit research group, the Tax Foundation Inc.

You are best off if you live in Mississippi, the foundation said. Each household in that state carries a burden of only $3,532 — 31 percent below the national average.

Worst off are Alaskans — with a per-household burden of $11,607, more than twice the national average.

In addition to Alaska, the most expensive states, on a per-household basis, are Connecticut ($6,592), New Jersey ($6,472), Hawaii ($6,326) and Delaware ($6,271). The cheapest, in addition to Mississippi, are Arkansas ($3,566), South Dakota ($3,946), Alabama ($3,958) and South Carolina ($4,021).

In making its calculations, the foundation used the total tax burden of $388.022 billion as shown in the new federal budget. It distributed the burden according to a formula designed to show where the taxes originate as well as where they are actually collected.

Tobacco taxes, for example, are collected in only a few southern states, the foundation said, but the burden of the tax falls on smokers in all states.

Total state tax burdens vary widely and depend on a number of factors including such things as amount and type of industry and per-capita income.

The Tax Foundation study, released Monday, shows that the single biggest burden, by state, falls on California with a $43.42 billion share of the total. Individual families in the heavily populated state have a per-household burden of $5,241, about 3 percent above the national average.

The second biggest per-state burden — $36,008 billion — is in New York, which has a per-household burden of $5,502, about 8 percent above average.

Alaska, with a government tax bill of $1,358 billion, ranks 42nd in the share of the burden it bears on a per-state basis.

Here is a list, including the 50 states, the District of Columbia and the United States as a whole, of estimated federal tax burdens.

The first column shows the total federal tax burden (figures in millions) of each unit and the second column shows the average federal tax burden per household within the unit:

Snyder Farmer Honored For Conservation

SNYDER (Special) — B.J. Bartels whose farming operation is located east of Snyder, is the Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District's Conservation Farmer for 1977.

Bartels a native of Holland, Texas, graduated from the University of Texas in 1940 with a degree in mechanical engineering. After spending six years as an engineer for Westinghouse in Pittsburgh, Pa., he decided that with his love for the soil "city life" wasn't for him and the Bartels family returned to Texas and a Borden County farm.

The Bartels purchased the 348-acre family farm in 1951. Bartels became a co-operator with the Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District, and entered into a Great Plains Conservation Program contract with the Soil Conservation Service in 1972, with the idea of improving his farm and increasing its productivity.

He is increasing the water-storage ability of his soils by constructing parallel terraces and is controlling erosion from "outside water" by constructing a waterway, all cost-shared under the Great Plains Conservation Program.

Bartels has also improved the productivity of the sandy soils on his farm by the addition of chicken manure and maintaining a good balance of soil improving crops in rotation with cotton.

A pond, surrounding wildlife habitat area, and waste grain which remains in his fields after harvesting grain sorghum provide a winter haven for ducks and sandhill crane.

Bartels married Lois Wissinger a Pittsburg banker's daughter, in 1943. The Bartels have four children Roy Bartels owner of S&M Music Co. of Abilene; Cynthia Sharp of Snyder; Erika Drinnen of Houston; and Lothar Bartels, a Snyder farmer.

Shot At Rare Birds Brings Stiff Penalty

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) — A man who told a judge he mistook a pair of whooping cranes for snow geese won't have a chance to make another hunting mistake for three years.

Federal Judge Edwin L. Mechem sentenced Thurman Ural Witt to 30 days in jail and forbid him to hunt for three years because he shot at the whooping cranes, an endangered animal.

Witt admitted shooting at the whooping cranes while they were in flight at the Bosque del Apache National Wildlife Refuge, but said he thought they were snow geese.

"I want them (whooping cranes) to live as much as anybody else, but I thought for sure they were snow geese," Witt told the judge.

Countries Complete Prisoner Exchange

By CLARENCE ZAITZ
SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The U.S.-Mexico prisoner exchange has ended with little fanfare, and more than half the Americans who were behind bars in Mexico when it began are still there.

The unusual convict swap was completed Monday night with the arrival of 34 U.S. citizens, 33 men and a woman freed from Mexican prisons to U.S. custody, aboard a chartered plane from Mexico City.

Only 13 persons awaited the plane, in contrast to the hullabaloo that greeted the first planeload of prisoners Dec. 9 when a hundreds of bannerwaving relatives, friends, a congressman and scores of reporters turned out.

The final returnees, taken to a federal jail, brought to 281 the number of Americans released under the treaty and left 304 in prison in Mexico, federal officials said.

More had been expected Monday, but five were so close to completing their Mexican prison sentences that they decided to remain behind, said Jim Meko, a spokesman for the U.S. Bureau of Prisons.

The Americans left behind remained for a number of reasons. More than 200 were ineligible because their cases had not yet been completed in the Mexican courts, down to the final confirmation of their sentences, a process which can take two years or more.

About 20 percent of the eligible Americans preferred Mexican prisons, where money can buy amenities forbidden in

Broadcast Artists Boycott Illinois

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Federation of Television and Radio Artists has decided not to hold its 1978 convention in Chicago because Illinois has not ratified the proposed Equal Rights Amendment. "AFTRA is committed to the immediate ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment ... to provide women with full legal equality," according to a resolution passed Sunday.

In Atlanta, meanwhile, the House of Delegates of the American Medical Students Association voted Sunday to hold the organization's future annual conventions only in states where the ERA has been ratified.

Bell To Host Science Day For Students

About 140 South Plains and Panhandle area students are expected to attend Southwestern Bell Telephone Company's annual Science Recognition Day, scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. Thursday in the Texas Tech University Center.

The students, all outstanding in math and science, will hear a keynote address by Tom Davis, Southwestern Bell general manager for engineering and network services.

The featured speaker at the session will be Mrs. Maureen Chan, a member of the technical staff at Bell Telephone Laboratories in Murray Hill, N.J.

Her topic will be "Polymer Conservation." The company's science demonstrator, Bill Haehnel, will demonstrate the picoclock, a development of Bell Telephone Laboratories which shows how every trillionth of a second is used in Bell telecommunications.

Dr. Don Haragan, Texas Tech Associate Professor of Atmospheric Sciences, will address the group on weather modification.

Murder Trial Slated To Begin Wednesday

By FRANK PATRICK
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Testimony in the Samuel Christopher Hawkins III capital murder trial was expected to begin at 9 a.m. Wednesday, provided officials can work out a reported problem concerning one of the 12 jurors in the case.

The way was cleared for the probable start of the trial Monday when Hawkins insisted on accepting the 12th juror to be picked against the advice of his lawyers.

But sources had indicated earlier that a question had arisen concerning the qualifications of another jury member already sequestered.

Officials would not comment on the matter. Presiding District Judge Richard M. Countiss, however, did advise prospective jurors who have not yet been examined that they may still be called on for duty in the case.

The judge Monday informed the remaining panelists they would be told within 24 to 36 hours whether they are still needed.

Officials were expected to be in the 99th District Courtroom only intermittently today. Countiss said the day would be devoted to resolving certain legal matters — one of them apparently concerning the juror question — preparatory to the probable start of testimony Wednesday.

Hawkins, 34, of Amarillo, is accused of stabbing a six-months-pregnant Borger woman to death during an attempted aggravated rape, May 3, 1977.

Abbe Rodgers Hamilton, 19, was found in the bedroom of her Panhandle home, tied hand and foot and stabbed about 10 times.

Named to the jury Monday was Thomas Clifton Loper, a 27-year-old environmental specialist and planner for the South Plains Association of Governments.

It became apparent that a tense situation was developing when Russell Busby, who, along with Gene Storrs, was appointed to represent Hawkins, completed his examination of Loper.

The two defense lawyers asked to approach the bench, then consulted with Countiss. Prosecutors Stephen Cross and Linda Walden, as well as Hawkins, were in on the conference.

Hawkins said he wanted Loper on the jury, even though his two attorneys advised against it.

Storrs and Busby requested a 10-minute recess in order to confer with their client.

Hawkins—a slim father of two who sports a mustache and wispy goatee—remained adamant in his wish to accept the juror.

In another move reflecting disagreement between the defendant and his attorneys, Hawkins Monday told the court he wished to subpoena four medical witnesses.

Countiss ordered the subpoenas to be issued, although Storrs said he did not feel testimony from the prospective witnesses would be beneficial to the defense.

Jury selection began here Feb. 13, and the first juror chosen has been sequestered since Feb. 17.

The friction between Hawkins and his court-appointed lawyers surfaced even before jury selection began. At a pretrial hearing, the attorneys, both white, testified their black client has sometimes expressed "distrust" of them.

Busby testified Hawkins had indicated at one point that he thought "we were working with the DA's office in a conspiracy with him to get him (Hawkins) convicted."

If convicted of the capital charge, Hawkins will face either life imprisonment or the death penalty, the only punishment options which would be open to jurors.

Questions from attorneys during the lengthy jury selection process indicate there may be a possible insanity defense in the trial.

A capital murder indictment was also returned against Hawkins in connection with the February, 1977, slaying of a 12-year-old Amarillo girl. Hawkins was also indicted for alleged aggravated rape in connection with the Sept. 2, 1976, attack of a Hereford woman who investigators say was stabbed 17 times.

Lawmen in the South Plains-Panhandle area said they felt those crimes, along with the killing of Mrs. Hamilton, were committed by a suspect they dubbed the "traveling rapist."

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

Non-Vote Of Confidence

PRESIDENT CARTER has the dubious distinction of attaining the presidency, the nation's most powerful and prestigious office, with the support of exactly 27.2 percent of the electorate.

That startling figure is attributable only in part to Carter's razor-thin margin of victory in the 1976 election.

Principally, it is the product of a continuing decline in participation in elective politics on the part of the country's voters.

THE PLUMMETING rate of public involvement in virtually every major election held in this country since 1960 for more than a decade has been a topic of ceaseless analysis, study, discussion and debate among politicians and political scientists.

"The election process as we know it historically is no longer relevant to millions of citizens," says a report by the two-year-old Washington-based Committee for the Study of the American Electorate.

It notes that only 54.4 per cent of all eligible voters participated in the 1976 presidential election, down from 63.4 per cent in 1960.

Searching for distinguishing characteristics within the vast pool of approximately 70 million non-voters, the committee has reached some intriguing tentative conclusions. Among them:

AN OVERWHELMING 4-1 margin of non-voters cite attitudinal reasons—unhappiness with government and political leadership—rather than structural impediments such as complex registration procedures for their failure to participate.

A large majority of non-voters claim they watch television news regularly and read the newspapers daily, but at the same time they embrace a pervasive distrust of all news media.

Non-voters distrust all large institutions, but at the very bottom of their list are the major political parties. Furthermore, they think that corporations control decisions in Washington and that all major institutions have too much control over people's lives.

Still far from complete, the committee's work nevertheless deserves wider recognition and support—especially from the political parties and politicians who remain oblivious to the very real possibility that their days on the gravy train are numbered.

Paul Scott:

Open Invitation To Disaster

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Kenneth May and One Man's Opinion will return after a brief intermission. In the interim, nationally syndicated columnist Paul Scott will be filling in.)

WASHINGTON—The growing strategic significance of the Soviet's advance military operational base in Cuba is beginning to cause deep new concern among U.S. military-intelligence experts.

The detection of Russian air units used in the defense of the island base is being privately compared to the discovery of the arrival in Cuba of Soviet SAMs, ground to air missiles, six months before the 1962 missile crisis.

As U.S. officials then belatedly discovered, the SAMs were installed by Moscow to protect 1,200-mile range Soviet rockets and medium range bombers that Premier Khrushchev later tried to sneak into Cuba.

In support of their forboding estimate, these experts point out that in recent years the Russians have increased the number of medium-range reconnaissance-bombers from three to 21 in Cuba without a formal protest from the U.S.

THE SOVIETS ALSO have gradually built up a naval base at Cienfuegos, Cuba, complete with facilities to handle radioactive waste from atomic powered submarines and maintenance for surface warships.

The naval base is now fully operational and being used by both Soviet submarines and surface warships despite an agreement—that H. R. Haldeman, former White House aide to President Nixon, says was reached in 1970 with Moscow—to halt construction on it.

The Haldeman revelation is contained in his new book, "The Ends of Power," and was confirmed in this column several years ago by naval officers involved in briefing Nixon on Soviet naval activities in Cuba.

The second group of experts sees the deploying of Soviet pilots in Cuba as a Russian test of President Carter to determine his reaction toward a build-up of their strategic striking power there.

Since the President made no protest of the Soviet pilots, these military-intelligence experts are now concerned that the Russians will take this as a green light for them to gradually increase their strategic striking power in Cuba. As to the form this will take, they are not sure.

Already, the Soviets have turned the entire Cuban military (160,000) into an "offensive force" and are using it to carry out the Kremlin's military-diplomatic objectives in both Africa and Asia.

Most disturbing to intelligence-military experts is the tight surveillance limitations that have been placed on them by the White House.

All aerial surveillance of Cuba was ended by President Carter shortly after he took office as a "good will" gesture toward Castro.

WHILE TOP LEVEL administration officials insist that now there are other ways to detect any new Soviet build-up on the island, these experts claim the cancellation of aerial surveillance seriously limits their capability.

The present use of Soviet airmen in Cuba's defense, they stress, was detected by the interception of communications between pilots and Soviet ground crews but only after they had become operational.

This group sees this self-imposed blackout as leaving the way wide-open for the Russians to present the U.S. with an accomplished fact if and when they again decide to secretly accomplish what they attempted in 1962.

Almost tricked once by an enemy that has grown stronger, a nation that courts this to happen a second time is inviting disaster.

'I'd Feel Easier If He'd Go Away!'

John D. Lofton:

No More Pen-Pushing Paladins

WASHINGTON—When the House voted down, 227 to 189, a proposal to establish a new federal consumer protection agency, Speaker Tip O'Neill, D-Mass., noting that the House had in previous years overwhelmingly supported such an idea, wavered aloud:

"Why, all of a sudden, is there this tremendous change in the feeling of this body? I do not understand it."

Well, Mr. Speaker, the answer to this question is simple. The American people have become increasingly fed up with bureaucrats, with federal regulations. And, finally, this message has gotten through to a majority of the House of Representatives.

As Rep. John Anderson, R-Ill., a former backer of Ralph Nader's branchchild—who this time voted against it—succinctly summed up this anti-Big Government sentiment:

"What I hear from most small businessmen and the average blue-collar worker and consumer is that government's already too big, too intrusive, and too bureaucratic."

the matter is that the American consumer is right now receiving tons of "protection" at the federal level.

In an interview, Frank Marvin, who works in the Office of Consumer Affairs at the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, tells me that there are 30 federal departments and agencies who are presently spending almost $200 million and several thousand man-hours annually to get consumers involved in government decision-making.

A RECENT STUDY by the Center for the Study of American Business at Washington University in St. Louis, Mo., reports that federal regulation in 1976 cost American business—which is to say you and me, since these costs are passed along—a staggering $65.5 billion!

There is however, a backlash against this red tape. A national survey conducted for U.S. News and World Report magazine found that, by a margin of 62 to 23 percent, the American people believe that the more federal regulation there is, the less efficiently business operates.

When the public was asked to rate various institutions on their ability to get things done, more than four times as many Americans gave a "good rating" to Big Business as contrasted with the federal bureaucracy.

As for O'Neill's assertion that American business enjoys some sort of preferential opportunity that the average consumer does not, and that this situation would be remedied by a new federal consumer protection agency, this is also untrue.

The proposed new consumer agency would have had the power to appeal any federal regulatory decision, a right presently available to any private individual who wants to take the time and exert the effort to exercise it.

Holmes Alexander:

Super Fly In Canal Ointment

WASHINGTON—The U.S. Senate would stand with its collective mouth open if the members ever stopped to read and think what the world's technology will be by 2000 A.D.—the year that Panama inherits a canal it never made.

For one thing, whoever's President of the United States or President of the United Mine Workers won't have to worry about coal-mine strikes.

By 2000 A.D. or thereabouts (don't pin me down) we'll have heat and light, for home and factory, coming to us by Space Solar Power Systems.

Satellites hanging 22,000 miles above the Equator will feed the civilized world with inexhaustible electrical power.

Above the fields and above the superhighways will run chain-link fencing designs which we'll call "rectennas"—a composite name for "rectifying antennas"—turning microwave space energy into direct-current electricity.

GRADUALLY, THE CANAL outlived its naval indispensibility. It became a mercantile waterway, not just for the United States, its constructor, but for all nations with seagoing ships.

I have heard and read enough of the Senate debate to believe that, while 99 men and Muriel Humphrey, are thinking hard about today and tomorrow, none has looked toward the day after tomorrow.

Energy from the earth and oceans, and all the products of electrical driven machinery, and the routes by which they travel, are going to mean less and less as these ratified treaties mature.

The Panama Canal may, before our children die, be a picturesque towpath like the one which runs through Georgetown, D.C. In George Washington's day, it was going to link the Alleghenies and the Atlantic by boats that were horse-drawn or steam-driven.

I don't want to leave the subject without pointing out a certain cost-factor that hasn't as yet entered the Senate debate. Imported oil costs us about four times what it did at the beginning of the decade.

But satellite travel, which will soon bring us direct electricity, looks like a rare bargain. In Eisenhower's time the Vanguard satellites carried a 20 to 30 pound payload for $500,000 a pound.

In Kennedy's time the Thor missile had cut the cost down to $10,000 for the same unit. By Nixon's day the Saturn moonrocket charged only $600 a pound for a much larger payload.

Today in the Space Shuttle Era the freight rate is about $150 a pound.

Whoever's Secretary of Energy at the 21st Century opening will be the VIP of the USA. The most important source of his power won't come from the earth or sea, but from the sky.

Sylvia Porter:

Cyclists Find Bikes A Real Gas (Saver)

IF YOU ARE among the 10.5 million to 11 million who will have bought bikes by yearend 1978, thereby smashing every one-year record ever before achieved for bike sales, you must become acutely aware that side by side with the upsurge in cycling has been a perpendicular climb in serious bike-related injuries and fatalities.

This year alone, more than 1,000 cyclists will be killed, mostly in collisions with cars.

More than 400,000 of you also will be seriously injured, reports the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission.

Yes, the CPSC is preparing regulations to govern the safety performance of bicycles introduced into interstate commerce.

Yes, many cities are considering and designing special lanes for cyclists on heavily traveled streets and roads.

Yes, a measure has been introduced into Congress to provide for a heavy ratio of federal spending for the education of the zooming bicycling population.

But your safety—physical and financial—still depends on you. For your own protection, when you buy:

a bike that cannot be adjusted to fit and that is not firmly assembled.

You should be able to straddle the bike with both feet flat on the ground and with no less than one inch clearance between the frame's top tube and the rider's crotch.

The lightweight bicycle is leading today's market, accounting for 54 per cent of sales, and the 10-speed bicycle, in the $80 to $120 range, is by far the biggest seller.

Obvious forces contributing to the new boom are: gasoline savings, mounting recognition of cycling as a form of healthy exercise, federal-state measures designed to stimulate cycling.

Not so obvious is the appeal of the bike to a vast new younger market—that of the mid-teen-agers and younger adults.

IN FACT, the Bicycle Manufacturers Assn. of America, Inc., comes up with the startling statistic that from 1972 to 1978 sales of bikes (imported and domestic) topped sales of passenger cars (also imported and domestic) by 68 million to 60 million!

Before Congress are proposals to allot nearly $50 million for additional bicycle trails across the U.S. and to mandate the Department of Transportation to stimulate cycling to and from work as a restraint on gas consumption.

An estimated 800 million gallons of gas could be saved annually if 5 per cent of city commuters could be switched from the car accelerator to the foot pedal.

- LOOK CLOSELY at all potentially sharp edges. If you have a bike with sharp edges, file them down and cover them with heavy protective tape.
- Study all parts of the frame to be sure there are no improperly welded joints and no fracture due to bad handling.
- Watch out for protrusions which could cause injury to the thigh or groin.
- Check for faulty brakes and road-test a bike before you buy. If you buy a bike with hand-brakes, be sure the levers can be easily moved, especially if the bike is for children with small hands.
- Consider chain guards a "must"—even if your bike's pedals can be rotated backward to release quickly any clothing that might get caught between the chain and sprocket.
- TEST THE handlebars for comfort and safe control. Handlebar ends should not be more than 16 inches above the seat surface, when the seat is in its lowest and the handlebars are in their highest positions.
- Select a bike that is visible from every angle and check for clearances: at least 3 1/2-inch clearance between the pedal and front fender or the tire, and pedals that must not touch the ground when the bike is tilted at least 25 degrees on a turn.
- Inspect tires for cushioning against potholes and rocks and, again, check for braking (meaning a good tread).
- Avoid equipment which rises more than 5 inches above the rear of the seat and do not buy

Voters Ponder Attack Of Apartheid System

DAVIS, Calif. (AP) — A college town with a tradition of confronting controversial issues votes today on whether to withdraw Davis money from banks that have money in white-supremacist South Africa.

The measure, backed by a coalition of student, church and community groups as well as Mayor Bob Black, is a non-binding referendum on whether the city should engage in a phased withdrawal of its funds from private banks that make loans to South African businesses. There was no indication how much money was involved.

If voters approve it, city officials would set up a task force to study how the city could alter its investment policy. City funds would not be pulled out immediately.

"Obviously we won't bring down the apartheid system. On the other hand, people will look at this vote and say, 'Well, at least the people in Davis are willing to say we don't want or need those kinds of investments,'" said Black, a 30-year-old attorney who has been mayor for two years.

Black said the task force might recommend changes in state laws allowing a city such as Davis to avoid investments in banks that do business with South Africa. State law now requires cities to place their money in banks where they get the best interest return.

City officials said Davis has money deposited in the Bank of America and Wells Fargo Bank. Spokesmen for both banks said they do only limited business with South African companies.

Both also said their banks do not condone South Africa's racial policies.

"We do not make credit available to countries with which the United States does not have friendly relations. And we believe we cannot or should not interfere with a country's internal political affairs," Bank of America spokesman Ray Toman said.

The Rev. Darrell Darling, a Methodist minister and a backer of the referendum, says Davis is a manageably sized city of 35,000 with a population that historically has addressed global issues.

"It has been a national trend to adocate individual and local responsibility to increasingly large and unwieldy forms and institutions," Darling said. "And I think the residents of Davis are not willing to throw up their hands and say we have no responsibility for making changes because of the magnitude of the problem."

Davis, which contains a campus of the University of California and sits in the middle of agricultural fields 15 miles west of Sacramento, has enacted controversial measures in the past. In 1972 it began a mandatory growth control program which last year limited the construction of new housing units to 900. And since 1973 the city's energy conservation program has cut energy use by 15 percent.

State Sen. John Dunlap, who represents Davis in the California Legislature, likened the vote to past local referendums on the Vietnam War.

"That helped over a long period of time to change public opinion," Dunlap said.

Agriculture Meeting Set For Plainview

PLAINVIEW (Special) — A meeting to discuss marketing, agricultural policy and the farm program is scheduled at 9:30 a.m. here Thursday in the Centennial Room of the Hale County State Bank.

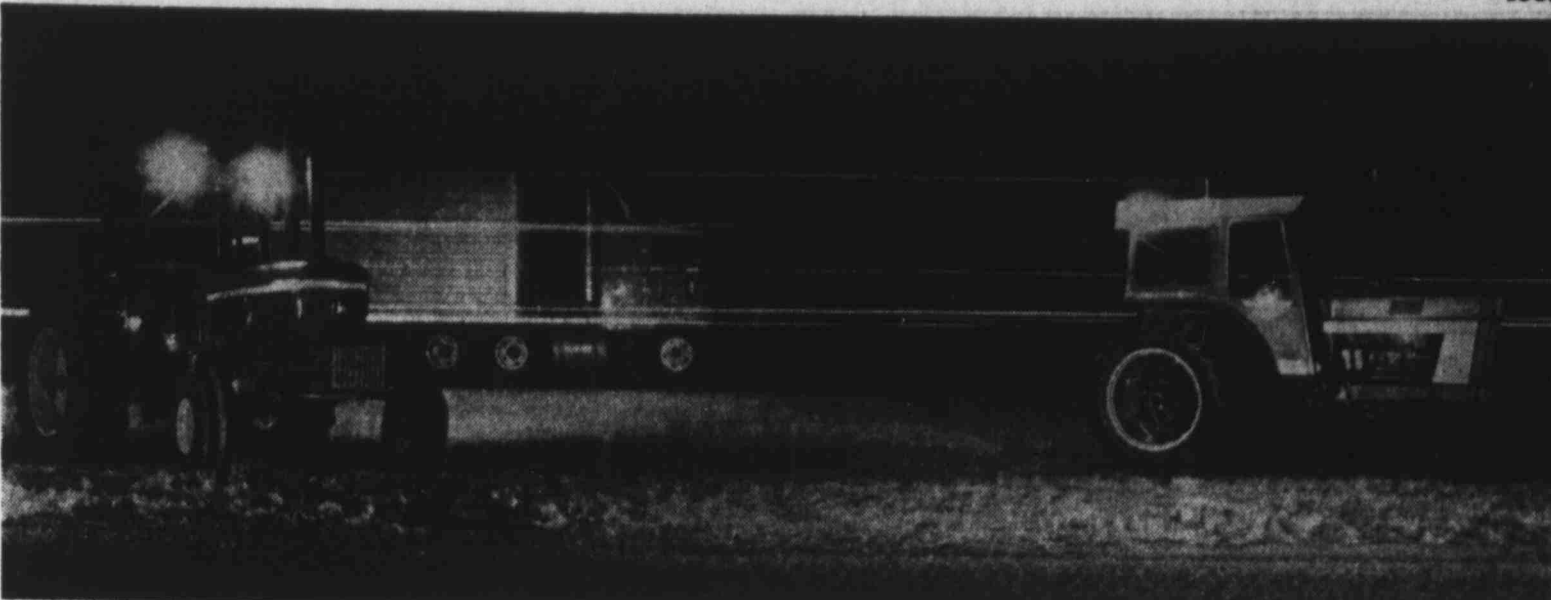

The meeting will be conducted by Dr. Bill Black and Dr. Ronald Knutson, economists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at College Station.

County agent Olle Linder said topics to be discussed include marketing alternatives, forward contracting and exclusive agency bargaining, electronic commodity markets and forward deliverable contract markets, ownership integration and joint ventures, marketing orders, marketing boards, and the farm program.

Examples Irk Alabama Solon

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG

WASHINGTON (AP) — Once upon a time, a powerful nation called Panama decided to build a canal across Alabama and that made Sen. James B. Allen very angry.

Allen is the senator from Alabama, who is leading the fight against ratification of the Panama Canal treaties. A tall, round-shouldered man with slicked-down reddish hair, Allen holds the floor for hours, arguing in an ash dry, nasal drawl for one of the pocketful of amendments and parliamentary ploys he keeps at hand.

Supporters of the treaties listen impatiently, when at all. And when one of them gets the floor, as Sen. John C. Culver of Iowa did the other day, and wants to use a hypothetical state to make a point, Alabama seems to pop to mind.

"If there was a strip through Alabama — let us take this hypothetical example — if there was a strip through Alabama 50 miles long and 10 miles wide," began Culver.

Culver went on. He embellished and Allen seethed.

Then it was Allen's turn to speak:

"I believe that if the distinguished senator from Iowa should ever see fit to leave the Senate he would have no difficulty doing extremely well as a successor to Hans Christian Anderson or the Grimm brothers in relating and weaving fairy tales ..."

"He is not the first senator who has used Alabama in this example. I must confess it is getting under my skin just a little bit."

"I am no longer offended, but I do suggest that the State of Alabama not be used in any hypothetical fairy tale. Let a senator use his own state or use 'State X.'"

No wonder Allen is a little sensitive. His fight against the treaties is not going well.

Late one afternoon, Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, who is anxious to speed the pace of the debate, urged Allen to call up another of his amendments.

Allen replied, "With my track record on the amendments offered and not accepted, I believe I shall wait until another day to offer another amendment and see if I can phrase an amendment that might be more acceptable to the membership."

"I believe 38 is the highest number of votes we have received, and I feel we ought to get somewhere in the neighborhood of 51 or something like that."

When National Public Radio officials began broadcasting the canal debate live from the Senate chamber, they were worried about endless quorum calls — the Senate's version of timeouts.

When a senator "doubts the presence of a quorum," he is rarely interested in whether there are 51 senators on the floor. He knows that the Senate floor is the last place he is likely to see 51 senators.

Senators doubt the presence of a quorum when they want to kill time. But it would upset the dignity of the place, to jump up and shout, "Time!"

Which brings us back to Public Radio, Linda Wertheimer and Tom Hart.

Linda Wertheimer owns the voice you hear explaining what is going on while senators talk. Tom Hart is the Senate staff aide who has the job of making certain there are plenty of senators on the floor at all times ready to talk because Senate leaders did not want air time taken up with quorum calls.

For seven days, the canal debate went on without a quorum call. Ms. Wertheimer ran into Hart in the Capitol and complained that NPR had arranged to have panels of experts discuss the treaties during quorum calls and there had not been any.

The next day the Senate had its first quorum call of the canal debate.

Canal Treaty Foes Agree To Debate Limit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Battered by repeated setbacks in trying to cripple one of two controversial Panama Canal treaties with amendments, opponents are retrenching with an agreement allowing the pact to come to a showdown vote in nine days.

"We took a look at it and figured the time had come to expedite matters," Sen. Paul Laxalt, the anti-treaty forces' chief strategist, said after the arrangement was announced Monday.

The agreement to set a time limit on debating the neutrality pact means the opponents have abandoned their attempts to attach amendments that would tie up Senate business for weeks and which Panama would not accept.

And, in all likelihood, a vote on the second treaty, which would actually give the waterway to Panama, probably will not come before the 10-day recess that begins March 24.

Behind the treaty foes' retrenchment is the evident hope that, over the recess, enough senators will hear enough sentiment against the treaties that the second pact will be scuttled in a floor vote.

For the present, the two sides are in a standoff. While backers don't have the 67 votes to ensure the neutrality pact's ratification, neither can its opponents count on the 34 votes needed to guarantee it will be killed.

While opponents lost in another vote Monday, Laxalt, R-Nev., and Sen. Robert Griffin, R-Mich., said they were not conceding that the neutrality treaty will pass.

Monday's vote, on a proposal to restrict enemy ships from the waterway in wartime, saw the foes muster 40 votes, their highest total yet and six more than would be needed to block ratification.

Majority Leader Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., played down the vote. "A lot of these amendments have surface appeal, and senators vote for them for reasons which I don't attempt to understand," he said.

Treaty foes are still trying, meanwhile, to pick up enough votes on what they consider substantive changes to the neutrality treaty to alter the document.

Laxalt and other treaty opponents said Monday they intend to raise new arguments about the so-called "leadership amendments" drafted by Byrd; Minority Leader Howard Baker, R-Tenn.; and other treaty supporters.

Laxalt said Monday's agreement came after a group of the most ardent foes — he called them the "100 percenters" — met over breakfast Monday. The March 16 proposal was then put to the Senate leadership, which accepted.

Even Sen. James Allen, D-Ala., who has led much of the opponents' floor debate, agreed somewhat grudgingly to go along with the deal.

The arrangement calls for debate on the neutrality treaty — which provides for joint U.S.-Panamanian defense of a neutral Panama Canal after the year 2000 — to end after eight more days.

Byrd hopes that the arrangement will bring an end to the entire issue before May 1.

He earlier had threatened to put the Senate on a six-day schedule and curtail the upcoming recess because the slow-moving debate was intruding on committee business and causing important legislation — including two controversial education aid bills and required work on the new federal budget — to back up on the Senate calendar.

Coal Miner's Family Suffers Strike

By JOE McKNIGHT

ALBANY, Ohio (AP) — Marcia Shields' electric bills are piling up. House payments are overdue and it has been three months since her coal miner husband received a paycheck.

But she hopes the coal strike goes on until miners get a contract they can live with. "We've gone this long, we might as well finish it out," she said Monday.

Her husband, Scott, 27, is a section mechanic at the Raccoon No. 3 mine in Meigs County, Ohio, and is an official of a United Mine Workers local. Mrs. Shields does not work.

"I'm really upset because people are down on the coal miners," she said. "The public thinks the miners are out to make a killing. I don't see it that way. They're not making that much money."

"I'm sick of the way people think it's the miners' fault. We don't enjoy being broke," she added.

The couple and their three children have been able to meet some necessities, aided by food stamps. "That really helps a great deal," she said.

"We're doing the best we can do, but it's starting to hurt really bad now. The electric company is harassing us," Mrs. Shields said in a telephone interview from her home here.

She said the rural electric cooperative that serves them has threatened to turn off power to their all-electric home unless all bills are paid soon.

"They don't want part of it. They want the whole amount," she said. "I have been paying at least $100 a month. But they don't want that."

Family savings have been eaten up by the lengthy workout and the mortgage is now overdue, but she said the mortgage holder had assured her it would not foreclose.

The situation is a little better for Ronnie Anderson, a UMW District 6 executive board member from New Martinsville, Ohio.

"Most of the banks are going along with us," he said. "A Chevrolet dealer in Wheeling is advertising for miners to buy or trade cars and trucks now and says there are no payments for five months," he said.

"Two banks have contacted me personally to say loan money is available to needy miners," Anderson said. "I did not ask what their interest rates were. But they know that as soon as the miners go back to work they are going to get our paychecks and we know we will deal with those business people who have been lenient with us."

Tear Gas Prank Harms Students

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP) — Sixteen high school students required hospital treatment after one of their classmates released tear gas during a school assembly — apparently as a prank, authorities said.

Michael Lynn Gray, 17, a junior at Pennfield High School, was arraigned Monday on a felony charge after the incident.

Lt. Jim Doty of the Calhoun County sheriff's department said Gray asked for a hearing on the charge of placing a foul or offensive substance with intent to injure. Doty said the charge carries up to 15 years in prison.

The youth's bond was set at $3,000, Doty reported.

Police said Gray had a tear gas canister but was unaware what it was. "He thought it was one of those smoke things," a police dispatcher reported. "He did not know it was tear gas."

Asked if the canister was discharged as a prank, the dispatcher replied, "that's what it was."

The canister went off in the school gymnasium during an assembly on energy.

One witness reported "complete panic" as the estimated 150 students in the gymnasium scrambled for the exits to escape the gas.

No injuries were reported by school officials, but some students fainted, others went into convulsions and many suffered nausea and smarting eyes, according to witnesses.

Most pupils were treated at the scene. However, Andrea Beckford at Leila Post Montgomery Hospital said 10 youths were treated there. The Rev. Ron White said six others were taken to Community Hospital.

The high school was evacuated after the gas was released. Pupils first were sent to a nearby junior high school and then home.

Call Reported After Shooting

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ga. (AP) — Shortly after Larry Flynt was shot near the courthouse where his obscenity trial was under way, a telephone caller told the prosecutor he would not have to worry about the trial because "Jesus had taken a hand in it," authorities said today.

Ralph McGee, an investigator for Solicitor Gary Davis, revealed that the county prosecutor had received the anonymous telephone call about 20 minutes after the owner of Hustler magazine was critically wounded in the stomach.

Meanwhile, as Flynt rested in a hospital's intensive care unit after his second round of surgery today, sources at the Georgia state crime laboratory said bullet fragments taken from the shooting scene came from a .44-caliber rifle.

A newsman said he saw bullet casings being taken from an abandoned building across the street from where Flynt and his attorney were shot Monday as they returned to the courthouse from lunch.

McGee confirmed that "at least one bullet casing" was found in the abandoned building.

This morning, Flynt received a brief visit from his wife and President Carter's sister, Aida Andrew M. Jaffe, who was quoted as saying: "If I could get rid of the pain, the rest would be duck soup."

Flynt's condition was "more stable" today, hospital administrators said, but he would remain in critical condition for at least 48 hours.

Today's surgery was to remove his spleen in an effort to control internal bleeding. As after the first operation, Flynt's surgeon said later he was "very happy" with his patient's condition.

In a four-hour operation immediately after the shooting Monday, Flynt had parts of both his large and small intestines removed.

Flynt, 34, a pornography millionaire who recently said he had found God with the help of President Carter's evangelist sister, and his local attorney, Gene Reeves Jr., 47, were wounded during a luncheon recess in the trial in this community of 6,000 about 30 miles northeast of Atlanta.

They had been walking back to the courthouse from a cafeteria where they had a grapefruit drink and a salad.

Flynt was shot twice, said assistant hospital administrator Walt Fielding. Reeves was shot in the arm and the side, said Herald Fahringer, a Flynt attorney.

Andrew Jaffe, a vice president of Flynt's business and a spokesman for the family, said the second operation lasted about 2½ hours and that "the procedure did what it intended to do," control the hemorrhaging.

Jaffe said the surgeon, Dr. Tahier Bagheri, "reported to Mrs. Flynt that he was very happy with the condition of the patient."

Flynt was still listed in critical condition, as was Reeves, said officials at Buto Gwinnett Hospital.

John Hughes, hospital administrator, said late Monday that both men were conscious but were "not strong enough" to talk to police and "too critical to be moved."

Police said they had no suspects. Fahringer said a gunman was seen jumping into a car and speeding off.

A motorist who had been sought for questioning was interrogated Monday night, but police refused to give details.

Hughes said a bullet from one of the victims was turned over to authorities. He would not reveal its caliber or from which man it was taken.

Flynt was visited Monday by his wife, Althea, 24, and by evangelist Ruth Carter Stapleton, President Carter's sister. Flynt said it was after several visits with Mrs. Stapleton last year that he saw a vision of Christ and underwent a religious conversion while traveling in his pink jet.

Mrs. Stapleton, who had come from her home in Fayetteville, N.C., told reporters Monday, "I'm just kind of anxious to see how he is."

Fahringer said Flynt recognized his wife and told her, "I'm going to be all right."

Flynt said in a Cincinnati news conference last month that he feared for his life because of his private investigation into the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Flynt had offered a $1 million reward for information about the slaying, which he believed to be the result of a conspiracy.

Police Chief John Crunkleton said Flynt and Reeves were under guard.

Doug Campbell, Flynt's personal administrator, said Flynt had been optimistic Sunday that his two-week trial here on charges of distributing obscene materials — specifically the August 1977 issue of Hustler — would produce an acquittal.

After the shooting, Judge G. Hughell Harrison declared a mistrial and dismissed the six-member jury.

Ford Returns Leftover Cash
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gerald Ford has repaid about $180,000 in leftover campaign funds to the federal treasury — more than a year after losing the presidency to Jimmy Carter.

The Federal Election Commission still has not completed audits of the Ford campaign or those of other major contenders including Carter and Ronald Reagan.

Ford on Monday refunded $146,121.63 from his primary campaign against Reagan — a contest that ended more than 18 months ago — and $33,350.42 from the general election.

George Wallace is the only candidate with a surplus who has not repaid the government, and his amount is expected to be fairly small.

The remaining candidates and the two political parties have returned $1.8 million to the government in leftover funds from campaigns and the two major party conventions.

Mrs. Alvarado

Rosary for Mrs. Juana Alvarado, 56, of 1506 40th St. will be at 7 p.m. today in the Resthaven-Singleton-Wilson Funeral Home Chapel.

Mass will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday in St. Theresa's Catholic Church at Carlisle. Burial will be in Resthaven Memorial Park.

Mrs. Alvarado died Monday at 2 p.m. in Lubbock Osteopathic Hospital after a lengthy illness.

She was a Yuland native and moved to Lubbock from San Marcos in 1959. She was a member of St. Theresa's Catholic Church in Carlisle.

Survivors include four sons, Jesse of Irving, Rudy of Mineral Wells, Louis of Wolfthor, and Henry of Lubbock; a daughter, Mrs. Elvira Lara of Lubbock; a sister, Mrs. Adelina Esquivel of San Antonio; and six grandchildren.

Mrs. Roy S. Boyd

Maud K. Boyd, 83, of 4502 21st St., widow of a longtime Lubbock County school superintendent, died at 2:05 a.m. today in West Texas Hospital.

Services are pending with Sanders Funeral Home.

A Lubbock County resident since 1924, Mrs. Boyd taught in the Slaton school system from 1924 to 1942. She moved to Lubbock and was employed in the Lubbock County school superintendent's office.

She married the late Roy S. Boyd, former Lubbock County school superintendent, in 1964. He died in 1974.

Mrs. Boyd was a member of the First Baptist Church.

Survivors include a stepson, Roy Weaver Boyd of Dallas; and three sisters, Mrs. R.C. Johnson Sr. of Lubbock, Mrs. John Rice of Tulsa, and Mrs. Arch Lindsey of San Saba.

Mrs. Jewell Cook

Services for Mrs. Jewell Mae Williams Cook, 69, of Pioneer Hotel, are pending with Henderson Funeral Directors.

She was ruled dead of accidental causes by Justice of the Peace L.J. Blalock.

Fire department officials theorized the fire started when she apparently fell asleep while smoking.

She is survived by a sister-in-law, Mrs. Dewey Williams of Vallejo, Calif.

Mrs. A.B. Cranford

DOWNSVILLE, La. (Special) — Services for Mrs. A.B. (Mabel) Cranford, the mother of a Lubbock resident, will be at 10 a.m. Wednesday in the Downsville, La., United Methodist Church.

The Rev. James Leland will officiate. Burial will be in the Downsville United Methodist Church Cemetery under the direction of Kilpatrick Funeral Home at Farmerville, La.

Mrs. Cranford, 79, of Downsville died at her home at 2 p.m. Monday after a brief illness.

A native of Union Parish, La., she was a member of the Downsville United Methodist Church.

Survivors include her husband, Albert B.; five sons, Albert B. of Alexandria, La., William H. of Lubbock, Donald F. Jr. of Texarkana, James R. of Metairie, La., and Joseph S. of Miami, Fla.; a daughter, Mrs. Betty Ware of West Monroe, La.; two sisters, Mrs. Cecelia Hamilton and Mrs. Sue Calhoun, both of Downsville; a brother, Dr. F.D. Henry of Hope, Ark.; 14 grandchildren; and nine great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Elmer Davis

Mrs. Olive Anna Davis, 86, of 3806 63rd Drive died Monday in the home of a son, Charles, at Krum, where was visiting.

Funeral services will be at 10 a.m. Friday in the First United Methodist Church at Okmulege, Okla. Buchanan Funeral Home at Okmulege is in charge of arrangements. Burial will be in an Okmulege cemetery.

Mrs. Davis moved to Lubbock two years ago from Albuquerque, N.M. She was living with a daughter and her husband, Dr. and Mrs. Darris Egger of Lubbock, an official of the Northwest Texas Conference of the United Methodist Church.

The Richmond, Mo., native lived in Okmulege many years. After the death of her husband, Elmer Davis, in March 1952, she moved to Tulsa, Okla., where she was a supervisor for a girls' home several years.

She later moved to Albuquerque from Tulsa. Mrs. Davis was a member of the First United Methodist Church in Okmulege.

Survivors include two sons, Charles Davis of Krum and Mace W. Davis of Albuquerque; two daughters, Mrs. Egger of Lubbock and Mrs. Mary E. Geer of Grand Junction, Colo.; 12 grandchildren; and several great-grandchildren.

The family requests memorials to the Mahon Library for the purchase of large print books.

Mrs. Ruth Ford
BLYTHE, Calif. (Special) — Services for Mrs. Ruth Ford, of Levelland, who had been visiting a son here, are pending with Frye Funeral Home here.

Mrs. Paul Foster

Mrs. Paul (Blanche Eileen) Foster, 64, a former longtime Lubbock resident, died Sunday night in Platteville, Wis., at a sister's home following a lengthy illness.

Services for Mrs. Foster will be at 11 a.m. Thursday in Sanders Funeral Home Chapel. The Rev. Frank Weir, associate chaplain at Methodist Hospital, will officiate.

Burial will be in Resthaven Memorial Park.

The former Miss Blanche Enoch, a Dodgeville, Wis., native, married Paul Foster Oct. 12, 1937. He died March 18, 1975.

A retired medical secretary, she was employed 30 years in the laboratory and pathology department at Methodist Hospital. A 1930 graduate of Floydada High School, she attended Abilene Business College and West Texas State University at Canyon.

Mrs. Foster was a 30-year member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary. She held numerous offices in the VFW Auxiliary and was a former auxiliary district president.

Survivors include a sister, Mrs. Ruth Whitaker of Platteville; a stepdaughter, Mrs. Margaret Straughn of Dallas; and several nieces and nephews.

Mrs. Franklin

LITTLEFIELD (Special) — Services for Grace Elizabeth Franklin, 91, of Littlefield, will be at 10 a.m. Wednesday in Hammons Funeral Chapel with the Rev. Johnny Williams, Methodist minister from Crosbyton, officiating, and Wilburn Dennis, minister of Crescent Park Church of Christ here, assisting.

Graveside services will be at 3 p.m. Wednesday in Roaring Springs Cemetery at Roaring Springs under direction of Hammons Funeral Home here.

Mrs. Franklin died at 6:30 a.m. Monday in a Littlefield hospital after a lengthy illness.

The Hillsboro native had lived in Littlefield four years, and had formerly lived in Wellman and Roaring Springs.

Survivors include six daughters, Mrs. Demp (Rena) Clifton and Mrs. Paul (Ira) Bennett, both of Dickens, Mrs. S. A. (Lilly) Phillips of Plainview, Mrs. J.L. (Margaret) Howard of Amarillo, Mrs. W.B. (Elsie) McMillan of Earth, and Mrs. Bill (Gene) Fudge of Littlefield; four sons, Herman of Haskell, Victor of Wellman, Ernest of Fontana, Calif., and Jerry of Idaho Springs, Colo.; two brothers, Olen Wright of Portales, N.M., and Fred Wright of Littlefield; 28 grandchildren, 55 great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Ben F. Hicks

Mrs. Ben F. (Dell) Hicks of 2510 31st St. died at 5:45 a.m. today in Methodist Hospital.

Services are pending at Sanders Funeral Home.

Mrs. Hicks, a native of Stephenville, had lived here since 1947. Her husband died in 1972.

Survivors include two sons, John J. of Brenham and William R. of Borger; a daughter, Mrs. Hazel Dell Mills of Lubbock; six grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Lucy Hodge

ANTON (Special) — Services for Lucy Ellen Hodge, 83, of Anton, will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday in Bethel Baptist Church here with the Rev. Bill Glenn, pastor of Mt. Olive Baptist Church in Lubbock, officiating.

Burial will be in Anton Cemetery under direction of Hammons Funeral Home in Littlefield.

Mrs. Hodge died Saturday in St. Mary's Hospital in Quincy, Ill., after a long illness.

The 81-year Anton resident was a native of Saint Joe. She was a member of Bethel Baptist Church here.

Survivors include a son, Ernest of Yucaipa, Calif.; a daughter, Stella Eichor of Durham, Mo.; a brother, Hillard Hoffman of Mineral Wells; five grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Richard Mata

Services for Richard Mata, 19, of 2003 E. 47th St., will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday in Pentecost Mission with the Rev. Manuel Vargas, pastor, officiating.

Burial will be in City of Lubbock Cemetery under direction of Henderson Funeral Directors.

Mata was found dead at 1:23 a.m. Sunday outside a Lubbock County club. He had been shot several times. Justice of the Peace L.J. Blalock ruled the death homicide.

The Lubbock native had returned to Lubbock a year ago from Greeley, Colo. Survivors include his wife, Norma; a son, Alexander; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Mata Sr., of Lubbock; and four sisters, Elizabeth Mata, Christina Castillo, Patsy Mata and Dora Mata, all of Lubbock.

Willie Moore

Services for Willie Arthur Moore, 58, of 1908 E. Colgate Ave., will be Wednesday at 2 p.m. at South Plains Funeral Chapel with the Rev. Willie Johnson, officiating.

Burial will be in City of Lubbock Cemetery under direction of South Plains Funeral Home.

Moore died Saturday at 12:45 p.m. in Health Sciences Center Hospital after a brief illness.

He had lived in Lubbock 40 years, coming from Wheelock.

Survivors include his wife, Odell; three daughters, Ollie Mae, Audrey Mae, and Tonya Ann, all of Lubbock; a half-brother, Joseph Vernon Small of San Francisco, Calif.; and two sisters, Mrs. Ella Flagg and Mrs. Louise Sanders, both of Mineral Wells.

J.C. Nesmith

J.C. "Carl" Nesmith, 85, of 2224 E. 47th St. died at 6:43 a.m. today in Highland Hospital following a lengthy illness.

Services are pending with Resthaven-Singleton-Wilson Funeral Home.

The Potosi native moved to Lubbock in 1945 from Ryan, Okla. He was a member of the University Assembly of God Church.

Survivors include his wife, Jannie; a son, Jerry of Lubbock; a daughter, Mrs. Betty Dorsett of Lubbock; two sisters, Mrs. Lela Reynolds and Mrs. Ora Morrison, both of Ryan; and four grandchildren.

Andres Ortega

Services for Andres Ortega Jr., 43, of 2127 73rd St., are pending at Henderson Funeral Directors.

Ortega, a Yorktown native, was dead at 7:10 p.m. Sunday on arrival at Methodist Hospital. He had been shot once. Justice of the Peace L.J. Blalock ruled the death homicide.

Ortega came to Lubbock 20 years ago and was a member of Our Lady of Grace Catholic Church. He was employed by Goulds Pumps, Inc.

Survivors include his wife, Maximina; two stepsons, Rudy Chadis of Pasadena and Roberto Chadis of Fort Hood; two stepdaughters, Isabel Gongo and Connie Rivera; his mother, Maclobia Ortega of Yorktown; a brother and three sisters.

Hill Raps Briscoe For Tax 'Failures'

ODESSA (AP) — Attorney General John Hill said Gov. Dolph Briscoe is the first candidate he ever saw "who advertises his failures in his campaign for re-election."

Hill told a group of supporters Monday in Odessa that Briscoe "has been talking about property tax relief since he first ran for governor 10 years ago and property taxes levied by school districts in Texas have increased faster than any state in the nation since Briscoe took office."

He said the governor has talked about removing the sales tax on utility bills since 1975 "and nothing has happened."

He said Briscoe promised in 1976 to establish a $1 billion nest egg capital reserve fund by hold back some of the projected surplus "and we never heard about that when the legislature met in 1977."

City Man Dies In Accident

Services for James Robert "Jim" Thorson, 33, of 4816 73rd St., the city's fourth traffic fatality of the year, are pending with Franklin-Bartley Funeral Home.

The Texas Instruments employee died in a two-car collision Monday afternoon in the southwest part of the city. He was pronounced dead at the scene of the accident.

The Oregon native had lived in Lubbock since 1977, moving here from Garland. He was transferred here recently from the corporation's plant in Dallas.

Three children riding with Thorson in his 1966 Volkswagen also were injured, one of them critically.

Bruce Keener, 10, received possible head injuries and multiple fractures following the collision at 63rd Street and Toledo Avenue about 5:35 p.m. He remained in critical condition today at Methodist Hospital.

Two other children, Bryan Thorson, 3, and Jeanna Keener, 7, were treated and released at Methodist, a spokesman said.

All three of the injured children live at 4816 73rd St.

Thorson's survivors include his wife, Lois of the home; three sons, Brad Keener, Bruce Keener, and Bryan Thorson, all of the home; a daughter, Jeanna Keener of the home; and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Thorson of Burnsville, Minn.

Witnesses said Thorson's Volkswagen and an older model vehicle were in collision at the intersection.

The second vehicle, driven by Cayle Mark Womack, 16, of 4312 56th St., spun about 20 feet into the front yard of a corner residence, plowing up a portion of the lawn.

Womack was not injured.

Residents in the area have complained previously of the need for a "stop" sign at the uncontrolled intersection.

Both Thorson and the 10-year-old child were thrown from the small car. Thorson landed 24 feet from the car, while young Keener was thrown into a curb about 20 feet away, witnesses said.

Thorson, pronounced dead by Justice of the Peace Wayne LeCroy, apparently suffered massive head injuries and may have died instantly.

A police officer at the scene credited an Air Force medic with opening young Keener's air passage following the collision—an act which may have been critical in the child's survival, the officer said.

UAW Planning To Contribute To Relief Fund

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United Auto Workers union will contribute $2 million to a relief fund to help the families of striking coal miners and pensioners. UAW President Douglas A. Fraser said today.

Fraser told a news conference that top officials of the striking United Mine Workers, including President Arnold Miller, requested the assistance in a recent letter.

"Thousands of people spread throughout the coal fields are enduring tremendous suffering as the coal strike goes into its fourth month," Fraser said.

The 92-day coal strike is threatening massive layoffs in the auto industry as coal supplies dwindle. Fraser conceded that some of his union's 1.6 million members might be upset with the contribution to striking miners, but he said the UAW international executive board voted unanimously to contribute the $2 million.

The UAW has organized food caravans into the coal fields in recent weeks to provide assistance to the families of striking miners.

Fraser said the union would "take another look" at whether to continue the caravans in light of President Carter's decision on Monday to invoke the anti-strike provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Fraser also repeated his earlier preference for federal seizure of the mines as a way of resolving the strike but conceded that Carter had little choice but to take the action he did on Monday.

Fraser said Miller and UMW Secretary-Treasurer Willard Eselstyn wrote him asking for the financial help.

It was not known whether the UMW made similar requests from other unions.

Pair Starts Trial In Hearst Episode

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — A July 17 date was set Monday for the trial of William and Emily Harris on charges of kidnapping Patricia Hearst more than four years ago.

In a five-minute session, Superior Court Judge Stanley Golde also agreed to a new date of May 22 to hear pretrial motions and he set May 15 to hear a defense motion to strike a portion of the indictments against the Harrises.

Defense attorney Leonard Weinglass said the part of the indictment dealing with alleged injury to the newspaper heiress was not supported and he would move to get it knocked out before the trial begins.

STRIKING FARMERS AID STRIKING MINERS — Members of the American Agriculture movement passed out food Monday to striking coal miners in Central City, Ky. About 10,000 people staged a rally in the heart of the western Kentucky coal field for striking United Mine Workers. (AP Laserphoto)

Miners Get Food From Farmers

CENTRAL CITY, Ky. (AP) — Farmers from 11 states rolled in with tons of food for striking coal miners.

About 400 farmers donated the food Monday to an estimated 5,000 striking miners gathered at the Muhlenberg County Fairgrounds.

After listening to farmers' speeches for two hours, the miners gathered around trucks where UMW officials tossed bags of flour, meat and produce into the crowd.

Three hours later, all the food was distributed — 24,000 pounds of flour from Kansas; about 4,000 pounds of hamburger from Texas, Louisiana and Missouri; 600 pounds of Wisconsin cheese; 23,000 pounds of dried beans, potatoes, parsnips and onions from Colorado; a small quantity of canned goods and produce from Illinois and Georgia; and a truckload of livestock from Georgia.

"We'll try to keep sending you stuff to help you hang on, but we can't pay your light bill because when you run out of coal there ain't going to be no light," farmer Tom Kersey of Georgia said from a flatbed truck.

Bob Koehn, who brought a truckload of potatoes from Colorado, said: "The miners are fighting for survival, and that's what we're fighting for. We're all little people; we've come to know that the farm organizations are not representing us, but rather big business."

Another Colorado farmer, Alvin Jenkins Jr., said farmers envy the coal miners' right to vote on wage settlements. Farmers, he said, have little say in the prices they receive for their crops.

Rodeo Cowboy Maintains Lead

DENVER (UPI) — The Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association said Tom Ferguson remained atop the all-around cowboy standings with a hefty 133,082 award in two events at the Houston rodeo.

Ferguson of Miami, Okla., carried off $5,988 in calf roping and picked up another $7,094 in steer wrestling. The weekend earnings broke the record set by his brother, Larry Ferguson, last month with $12,872.

Joe Marvel, Battle Mount, Nev., has earned $10,523 for first place honors in saddle bronc riding and Bruce Ford of Evans, Colo., has pocketed $7,535 to lead in bareback bronc riding, the PRCA said.

Denny Flynn of Charleston, Ark., has the top money in bull riding with $7,952 retained in calf roping with $13,759 in earnings.

Jackie Jo Perrin of Antler, Okla., has earned $3,420 to lead in the barrel racing event.

The Professional Rodeo Cowboy Association standings: All-Around Cowboy — 1. Tom Ferguson, Miami, Okla., $24,385; 2. Larry Ferguson, Miami, Okla., $17,628; 3. Lyle Sankey, Augusta, Kan., $10,841.

Elderly Woman Living In House Overrun By Rats

MIAMI (AP) — A petite, gray-haired widow is living in apparent harmony with a house full of scurrying rats. "You can see dozens of them from the windows," says a neighbor.

"Tails hanging out all over. Rat heads sticking out."

When Collis surveyed the home in the beam of a flashlight, he spotted bright eyes peering back. "There must have been 20 to 30 rats looking out through the jalousies," he said.

But police say she turned away an offer of assistance with a shout of, "I don't need your help," and is doing nothing wrong. She will be left alone as long as the rats stay home and create no public health hazard.

"You can do whatever you want in your own house," said Dr. Richard Morgan, Dade County health director.

The rats were discovered by an astonished police officer Dave Collis on Sunday night after neighbors complained of vermin, saying they feared the woman, known for years as "Mrs. Tyler," was dead.

A current telephone directory lists Dorothy E. Tyler at the address in a modest income neighborhood. The phone has been disconnected.

When Collis surveyed the home in the beam of a flashlight, he spotted bright eyes peering back. "There must have been 20 to 30 rats looking out through the jalousies," he said.

"She refused the aid," said Dade County's assistant environmental health director, Luis Benavides, who had sent the county rodent control director to offer help in removing the rats.

"We have no jurisdiction. A man's home is his castle. Nobody's got jurisdiction inside a house. Maybe she keeps them as pets."

"I said, 'Lady, you've got rats in your house.' She said, 'I know — I'll take care of them,' and slammed the door in our faces."

The officer asked, "Ma'am, are you sure everything's okay?" and the woman replied, "I'm fine — I don't need your help."

Collis said he found no violation of law and took no action.

Neighbor Matthew Bartholomew said he had known Mrs. Tyler since he was a child. He said she was friendly to neighbors.

Collis said he found no violation of law and took no action.

Dechant Re-Elected By Farmers Union

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Tony T. Dechant, National Farmers Union president, has been unanimously re-elected for another two-year term.

Dechant was re-elected Monday at the organization's national convention in Salt Lake City. Dechant has served as president since 1966 and also is president of the International Federation of Agricultural Producers.

Unanimously re-elected as vice-president was Oklahoma Farmers Union President George Stone of Choctaw, Okla.

GAO Finds Social Security Complex Not Secure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional investigators testing the security of the Social Security System's national computer complex walked out recently with a cart carrying the names and addresses of 1.14 million beneficiaries.

The incident was acknowledged by agency officials who said corrective steps have been taken.

The tapes were taken by representatives of the General Accounting Office, the investigative arm of Congress, who later returned them to Social Security officials.

"They were boasting that they were completely secure and we wanted to test and see," a GAO official said. "They were kind of embarrassed."

The GAO has told the Carter administration that, had real computer-era criminals stolen the tapes, adding to or altering the beneficiary list could have resulted in a massive fraud.

The computer facilities at Social Security headquarters in Baltimore process about $80 billion in incoming Social Security taxes and outgoing Social Security benefits a year.

"This is probably the biggest civilian computer center in the world and, frankly, I am shocked at such lax security," said Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., chairman of the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee.

The GAO has conducted several studies intended to ward off computer crime at federal installations at the committee's request.

Social Security spokesman James Brown said the agency has been concerned about security for several years and has tried "different methods" to improve it.

He said in an interview that the system now used has been installed on a trial basis by its manufacturer and has not yet been accepted.

"We are trying to iron out any bugs that we see," he said, adding that because of the GAO investigation, "We are taking immediate corrective steps."

The GAO said that although the Social Security Administration recently has spent $500,000 to install a new security system for its computer operation, "the central computer facility is still not secure."

"Unauthorized personnel have access to the computer room and tape vault," the GAO said in a letter to Social Security's acting administrator, Donald I. Wortman.

"Magnetic tapes, disc packs and other property can be removed without proper authorization and blank and valid Social Security and Medicare cards can be taken from the central computer facility without question," the GAO said.

A source close to the investigation said the GAO auditors found thousands of both kinds of cards stacked in the hallways.

"We were able to remove both blank and valid cards from the central computer facility through both the security gates and the emergency exits," the GAO said.

Brown acknowledged that cards had been stored in insecure places, but said that the situation "has been corrected."

He said security is tighter than the GAO made it seem. Brown emphasized that the GAO auditors had been fully cleared to enter the facility and were permitted "to wander at will" to inspect the security.

Brown said outsiders would find it extremely difficult if not impossible to enter the building in the first place.

He said that "most of our 80,000 employees are honest and are interested only in seeing that we get the right checks to the right people at the right time."

The report said a thief could deactivate the electro-magnetic connectors that trigger the burglar alarm system by removing two screws at the bottom of emergency exit doors.

"Unauthorized personnel can thus exit and enter the central computer facility once these doors are opened," the GAO said. "During our observations a GAO auditor took Social Security property through one of the opened emergency doors without the security guards' awareness."

The investigators said they also were able to remove computer tapes through the guarded main exits "because security guards did not check note books, lunch containers or brief cases for Social Security property."

Brown told The Associated Press that the guards are "now checking everything." He said the guards had been "chastised" and ordered to be more vigilant.

While tapes normally can be removed only when a "tape dispatch pass" is presented, investigators said the passes themselves are vulnerable and that they were able to obtain 10, which they used to remove the tapes.

Finally, the GAO said neither guards nor tape library personnel verify the number of tapes being removed.

"From an authorization for a single reel of tape, we were able to remove an entire cart of 38 tapes — two segments of the Supplemental Assistance master file — from the central computer facility," the report said.

HEW Studies Plans To Pay Homemaker

By CRAIG A. PALMER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Various proposals to compensate homemakers for the "substantial economic value" of their contributions are being considered by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

When Social Security was conceived 40 years ago, it seemed most appropriate to aim the payments at the married couple with a lifelong paid worker and a lifelong unpaid homemaker.

And couples comprising two lifelong breadwinners remain a definite minority among families, says a new government report on the treatment of women under Social Security.

has a substantial economic value to the family, and therefore is entitled to Social Security protection in his or her own right rather than as a dependent of a wage earner, the report said.

HEW Secretary Joseph Califano called the report "an important step toward our goal of assuring that women are treated fairly under Social Security" and said it would serve as the basis for a six-month study of sex differences in the system.

The report discussed several proposals to provide earnings credits for housewives on retirement. They included financing benefits for them from general taxes or through Social Security taxes paid at the self-employed rate.

But the suitability of the present method of providing family protection is being questioned increasingly because of such factors as rising employment of married women, growing recognition of the contribution of homemakers to the family, and an increasing divorce rate.

"While the program has expanded and changed considerably (in the last 40 years), the basic method of providing family protection has not changed," said an HEW report released Monday.

"This method of ... primary benefits for the earner with derivative dependents' benefits for the unpaid spouse and other dependent family members is best suited to lifelong marriages where the spouses have fixed roles as paid worker and unpaid homemaker," it said.

Lifelong homemakers have no Social Security protection in their own right, the report said.

But the homemaker is viewed more widely now as making a contribution that

Social Security Laws Differ For Sexes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A study panel has found 10 provisions of Social Security law that are different for men and women. Some are highly technical and involve only a few recipients, but others are widespread.

They include:

- Benefits are provided for aged divorced wives and aged or disabled surviving divorced wives but not for men in similar circumstances.
- Benefits are provided for a young wife or surviving divorced mother who has in her care a child under 18 or disabled and entitled to benefits, but not for a husband or surviving divorced father in similar circumstances.
- A widow may get benefits on a deceased husband's earnings record if she is not married at the time she applies for the benefits; a widower cannot get such benefits if he has remarried even though the second marriage has ended.
- When both members of a couple receive special age-72 payments, the payment is unequal: the husband receives a full benefit and the wife's benefit is equal to one-half the husband's benefit.
- One provision says an illegitimate child can receive benefits through his father but not his mother.
- In states with community property laws the income from a business operated by a husband and wife is deemed to belong to the husband unless the wife exercises substantially all management and control.

Judge Hearing Pollution Suit

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge is hearing arguments on a suit that seeks to temporarily halt construction of power plants and other facilities that could pollute the air.

The Environmental Defense Fund seeks a preliminary injunction to halt at least 77 facilities until the court decides whether they will have the best anti-pollution equipment.

The Clean Air Act requires that new power plants and other facilities have the best available pollution control technology. The provision applies to facilities under construction since last Aug. 7.

U.S. District Judge Barrington Parker hears arguments today on the suit, which claims the government is permitting construction of facilities that lack the most up-to-date technology.

The defense fund estimated the suit could affect over 30 large coal-fired power plants. The suit also applies to aluminum plants, paper mills, oil storage facilities and sulfur recovery plants.

In a brief with the court, the fund said it does not want the government to revoke construction permits already issued. The fund said a preliminary injunction could halt construction until the issue is resolved during a full-scale trial.

The Environmental Protection Agency earlier declared it would not issue any new construction permits until the suit is resolved.

Hollywood Interviews Still Gush Sometimes

By JAY SHARBUTT
 HOLLYWOOD (AP) — I got to worrying recently about old-style Hollywood interviews that sort of gush. They seem rare now, endangered by a rash of hard-hitting tales of Tinseltown business scandal.

How to detect the rare, old-style story? Well, it often starts by saying a show, call it "The Wayward Waif," is on TV tonight. Then it adds: "It is a gem. Don't miss it. It is that good."

Then you read: "Niles Foon, the veteran actor who so brilliantly plays the father in this two-hour Robert S. Plotkin production, sat down in the Polo Lounge recently to discuss why his show is so good.

"It is so good," he enthused, "because everyone put so much love into it. And it was real love, not phony love."

"Foon, his face unlined despite his 60 years, sipped a glass of Perrier water. He looks better than he's ever looked in his whole life. He was asked why he looks so good.

"I look so good because I jog a lot," he revealed. "The secret, I think, is mental attitude. Without it, you are nothing."

Then you read:

"Foon was asked why he is so brilliant as the father in 'The Wayward Waif,' which is superbly directed by Fenster Jones from a powerful, gripping script by William S. Beamish.

"I guess I am brilliant because I had two things going for me — superb direction by Fenster Jones and a powerful, gripping script by William S. Beamish," the still-handsome actor confided.

"The Wayward Waif" marks a new direction in the 40-year career of Foon, who made his acting debut in 1938 as Mose in Eugene O'Neill's little-known, "Gez, When Does This Play End?"

"Though he played a divorced man, he later became type-cast as one of Hollywood's foremost villains, acclaimed for his work in 'I'm Going to Shoot You,' among others.

"As he sees things, tonight's TV movie marks a new direction in my 20-year career, which began in 1958 when I was Jack in Eugene O'Neill's little-known, "The Play Ends in Two More Hours."

Then you read:

"Foon wore a derby and an exquisitely-tailored caftan to the interview, not the usual blazer and Gucci loafers one so often sees in Hollywood. But then, he is known as a bit of a rebel.

"I'm known as a bit of a rebel," he confessed when asked why he deliberately avoids the usual Hollywood image. "I've always tried to deliberately avoid the usual Hollywood image."

"He disclosed he is writing a new autobiography called 'But Enough About Me, What Did You Think of My Last Movie?' Insiders who've seen the first chapter call it immensely entertaining."

Actress Cited For Winning First Oscar

By BOB THOMAS
 HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Still doll-like and lovely, Janet Gaynor came back to Hollywood for honors as the first actress to win the Oscar.

The president of the Motion Picture Academy, Howard Koch, presented Miss Gaynor, 71, with a citation recently for "her truly immeasurable contribution to the art of motion pictures."

The ceremony, which included the cutting of a three-foot cake in the shape of Oscar, was designed to call attention to the Academy's 50th awards to be televised April 3.

The Philadelphia-born actress was not only the first winner, she was the only actress to be selected for three performances — "In Seventh Heaven," "Sunrise" and "Street Angel." Competition was limited to single performances the following year.

She was asked about that first awards dinner in 1929.

"It was a much smaller affair then, just a bunch of movie people meeting at the Hotel Roosevelt in Hollywood," she replied. "Nobody really felt there was any historical significance. I was pleased to win the award, and it was a thrill because I got to meet Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks for the first time."

Miss Gaynor made several love stories with Charles Farrell.

What is lacking in today's films? "Romance. The emphasis seems to be entirely on sex," she said.

Miss Gaynor started in films as an extra in 1924, and reached stardom four years later at Fox Studios. After "The Young At Heart" in 1939, she retired to be the wife of Gilbert Adrian, the costume designer.

Lambs Given Coats To Fight Winter
 L'ANGAR, England (AP) — Farmer Ernest Silby has outfitted his 100 newborn lambs with bright orange plastic coats to protect them from the rigors of Britain's unusually severe winter.

"We have had up to 10 degrees of frost on some nights recently but the lambs are bounding with health," said Silby. "They look a bit odd, and their mothers are a bit puzzled."

Tomorrow's Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) The people you're working with expect you to follow through if you say you'll do something. Don't be afraid to try new methods if you're sure they'll work.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You may receive information from an unusual source tomorrow. It will be given with the expectation that you won't pass it on. Respect that condition.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A pal could make overtures to you regarding an innovative idea. It has possibilities, but don't get involved if you have strong negative vibes.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) There's good chance you can turn a profit if you don't jeopardize your image in the process. Your opportunities may possess a different quality tomorrow.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't fear doing things in a manner you haven't tried before. Just a slight modification can make a world of difference.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) It's a seller's game right now, so stay away from the marketplace if you can. You're what the sharpies call "an easy mark."

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) In the press of on-rushing events tomorrow, you can fare well so long as you're not vacillating. You won't be overcome if you persevere.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Tomorrow you must keep your mind on what you're doing, business-wise or professionally. New and different approaches pay off only if you can concentrate.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) The people you hobnob with socially can help you attain an important goal tomorrow. You should not, however, let down your hair too soon or too far.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Something you've wanted completed will be well on its way tomorrow, if you'll remain patient. You've waited this long, so don't spoil it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) An imaginative friend tomorrow will help you resolve a matter you've been stewing over. However, don't accept everything he says without first checking.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Though you feel like you can't lose tomorrow, take only calculated risks. You can realize a small gain if you don't go too far out on the financial limb.

March 8, 1978
The realization that you don't have to take a back seat to anyone in your sphere of influence will be brought home to you in the year ahead. This could be your coming of age, literally or figuratively. Find out more about yourself by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. # Sex Films Hit Spain; Myths Die

By ARTHUR HERMAN
MADRID, Spain (UPI) — Less than three years ago, a racy movie in Spain meant something like the story of a high-school girl who gets a crush on her teacher-priest.
So to see real sex films, Spaniards made pilgrimages across their country's borders.
No more.
Since the start of 1978, Madrid and Barcelona residents are lining up as early as 10 a.m. to see such "softcore" erotic favorites as "Emmanuelle," "The Story of O," and the more serious, but also previously banned, "Last Tango in Paris."

"I knew that when Franco died these films would come to Spain but I did not think it would happen this fast," said 27-year-old secretary Julita Esteban after seeing "Emmanuelle."
And hardcore fare like "Deep Throat" will arrive as soon as entrepreneurs can meet new regulations for "special" movie houses of 200 seats or less.
It has all been made possible by the democratization that has followed the 1975 death of dictator Francisco Franco. A Dec. 1, 1977, decree by King Juan Carlos abolished film censorship and laid down the ground rules for showing of movies of explicit sex or violence.

The real landmark premiere was that of "Last Tango." Despite being banned in Spain when it first came out in 1972, the film became a myth. Tens of thousands crossed the French border to see it in Perpignan or Biarritz.
And in a national debate carried on in newspapers, bars, and living rooms, Spanish society divided into pro-and anti-Tango forces.
So when "Last Tango" opened in Madrid on Dec. 23, newspapers and magazines came up with headlines like "We're Grown-ups Now" and "The Fall of a Myth."

The respected Madrid daily El Pais said the Spanish premiere marked "a new step in the consolidation of democracy."
"If in a democracy the only person who has the right to knock on the door at 7 a.m. is the milkman — and not the police — freedom also means being able to line up to see Marlon Brando and Maria Schneider (the stars of 'Last Tango')." El Pais editorialized.
The Spanish cinema even is showing an uncensored version of "Emmanuelle 2: the Anti-Virgin." In such liberal bastions as London, viewers at regular commercial cinemas saw the film slightly cut.
And in France the owners of the same film have just won a three-year fight to show it in regular commercial houses.

The Almanac TODAY IN HISTORY

By United Press International
Today is Tuesday, March 7, the 66th day of 1978 with 299 to follow.
The moon is approaching its new phase.
There are no morning stars.
The evening stars are Mercury, Mars, Venus, Jupiter and Saturn.
Those born on this date are under the sign of Pisces.
Noted American botanist Luther Burbank was born March 7, 1849.
On this day in history:
In 1932, in the depths of the Depression, an estimated 3,000 men rioted at the Detroit plant of the Ford Motor Co. Four were killed.
In 1936, Adolf Hitler ordered his Nazi troops into the Rhineland, violating the Versailles Treaty.
In 1945, the U.S. 1st Army crossed the Rhine at Remagen, Germany, as World War II in Europe moved into its closing weeks. Total Allied victory — V-E Day — came May 8.

In 1969, two of the three Apollo 9 astronauts flew their lunar module around the main spacecraft, then linked the two together again.
A thought for the day:
American author Ambrose Bierce said, "Marriage... a community consisting of a master, a mistress and two slaves, making it two in all."

Commerce Fair Set In Miami

MIAMI (AP) — The Trade Fair of the Americas, a 12-day affair designed to encourage more commerce between U.S. and Latin businessmen, opens this week with an inaugural by First Lady Rosalynn Carter.

Mrs. Carter is due to inaugurate the fair Wednesday evening at the Expo-Center near Miami International Airport. She then will attend a reception at the old Viscaya Palace alongside Biscayne Bay.

Secretary-General Alejandro Orfila of the Organization of American States and Florida Gov. Reubin Askew also are expected to attend. The OAS is among the co-sponsors.

Sixteen Latin and Caribbean countries and 500 manufacturers are expected to have representatives at the fair trying to get new business from U.S. customers.

Carter Calls Tito 'Symbol'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter gave a warm welcome today to Yugoslav President Tito, praising him as a symbol of the eagerness for "freedom, independence and liberty that exists in Eastern Europe."

Full military honors were rendered at a welcoming ceremony on the White House south grounds as Tito arrived for a three-day official visit. He met with the president privately after the greeting.

Carter called the 85-year-old leader, making his first visit here since 1971, a "true friend" of the United States and hailed his achievement as the world's longest-serving head of government.

Carter disclosed that, since taking office, he has sought Tito's advice and counsel on global issues in a frequent exchange of correspondence with the Yugoslav leader.

Tito appeared to be in robust health, but wore a somber expression during much of the 20-minute ceremony, witnessed by a large gathering of Yugoslav nationalists.

However, he smiled broadly and shook hands with Carter at the conclusion of their remarks.

Speaking through an interpreter, Tito expressed satisfaction over the improvement in bilateral relations during Carter's tenure. Shortly after taking office, Carter dispatched Vice President Walter F. Mondale to Belgrade for talks with Tito and last October, Defense Secretary

Harold Brown made a similar trip, the first such visit by a Pentagon chief.

Tito is the first communist leader Carter has received, and the president went out of his way to ensure a warm welcome.

Carter praised Tito's role as a founder of the bloc of non-aligned nations and of the United Nations disarmament conference and as the host for the recently concluded review of the 35-nation Helsinki Agreement on human rights.

He also said Tito "has been an inspiration" to others in his determination to maintain Yugoslav independence and territorial integrity. He noted that the Yugoslav constitution itself forbids the nation from capitulating to outside forces.

Tito, who arrived at Andrews Air Force Base in nearby Maryland on Monday night, will be feted at a black tie dinner given by Carter.

Strict security precautions were imposed as Croatian nationalists, who support independence for Yugoslavia's Croat population, were planning anti-Tito demonstrations.

John Skirbin, president of the Croatian National Council, told a news conference Monday that 2,000 demonstrators were expected here from all parts of the country.

Yugoslavia is at the juncture of Eastern and Western Europe. The United States, concerned about the post-Tito era ahead, is anxious to preserve the non-aligned status Tito fashioned for Yugoslavia following his dramatic break with the Soviet Union 30 years ago.

As explained by U.S. officials, who asked not to be named, a successful Soviet effort to return Yugoslavia to Moscow's camp could lead to the isolation of the two pro-Western countries to Yugoslavia's south, Greece and Turkey.

It could also enhance Soviet power in the Mediterranean by giving Moscow access to Yugoslav ports along the Adriatic Sea.

The Carter administration, in a demonstration of U.S. concern about Yugoslavia's future, has been discussing with the Yugoslav officials the possibility of a "modest expansion" of U.S. arms sales to that country.

The sensitivity of Yugoslavia's situation was underscored in a report released Monday by the trilateral commission, made up of citizens from the United States, Western Europe and Japan.

The commission, from whose ranks more than a dozen top Carter administration officials were recruited, said that Yugoslavia is "the most potentially explosive issue in Europe."

"Nobody can be certain that a succession crisis will be avoided which would offer the Soviets an opportunity for at least indirect intervention, if not for direct intervention, that could precipitate a major international crisis," the report said.

It suggested that such intervention can only be prevented by the clear readiness of Yugoslavians to resist it.

ist to imitate a marshal knocking on a closed door.

The administration also is prepared to use court orders to go after as many as 5,000 officials of the United Mine Workers, carrying the government effort well past the union's national level.

One official said at the White House that if court orders are defied, the administration would seek penalties that would put the union's local, as well as national, treasuries in jeopardy.

If that isn't enough, according to the White House plan, the miners may be convinced to return to work if they are paid the higher wages offered by the Bituminous Coal Operators Association in the contract that was rejected over the weekend.

Administration officials have been quick to point out that strikers who defied an injunction could lose their eligibility for food stamps, since the injunction would make the strike illegal.

Reaction Mixed On School Plan

duce those schools to five: Iles would be closed and zoned into Wheatley; and Sanders would be closed and zoned into Guadalupe.

Each of the remaining minority schools cited by Woodward — Mahon, Posey and Martin and newly enlarged Guadalupe and Wheatley zones — would be matched with a predominantly white school. Details have not been released, but those elements will be matched on the basis of size and programs.

Every semester, the minority elementary school will send half of its intermediate students (grades three through six from Posey, Guadalupe and Martin, and four through six from Mahon and Wheatley) to its corresponding white elementary.

The district proposes to use a different system in assigning students from Hardwick and other white elementarys to Mahon, Posey, Martin, Guadalupe and Wheatley.

Each predominantly white elementary school except Hodges and Dupre (both well integrated) would be assigned a particular grade — third, fourth, fifth or sixth — that would go to one of the five minority campuses every year.

Hardwick's third-grade, for instance, may be assigned to Mahon; Wester's fourth-grade, say, to Posey; Maedgen's sixth-grade, to Wheatley, etc. These are only hypothetical examples.

In the Wester-Posey example, half of Wester's fourth-graders would be assigned to Posey for the first semester, and the other half of Wester's fourth-graders for the second semester. Meanwhile, another white school would be sending its third-graders to Posey; another, its fifth-graders; and another, its sixth-graders.

So each student attending a predominantly white elementary school would spend one semester of his elementary education at Mahon, Posey, Martin, Guadalupe or Wheatley.

The district's proposal would exempt the following students from any reassignments:

—Children in kindergarten through grade two. These grades would not be integrated at the schools cited by Woodward.

—Students attending Dupre and

Carter Leads

Fashion List

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — President Carter tops the list of this year's "10 Best Casually Dressed Men" because he gives men confidence in comfortable clothes that are in good taste, according to a fashion group.

Singer Harry Belafonte also is listed because he was a pioneer in casual dress and "early in his career he eschewed the tuxedo for slacks and an open-necked shirt in his performances," according to California Mart, a Los Angeles clothing concern, which released the list Saturday.

Also listed are Los Angeles Dodger pitcher Tommy John, "an outstanding example of how T-shirts ... suit the athletic figure," and George Allen, new coach of the Los Angeles Rams, who "is charmingly casual."

Also chosen were actors Kirk Douglas and Parker Stevenson; motion picture producer Robert Evans; Edward Herrigan, chairman of the board of Cutty Sark; singer Tommy Roe and author Peter Benchley.

Jury Panel Questioned

A-J Correspondent

WICHITA FALLS — Attorneys began questioning the first of 114 prospective jurors today in the capital murder trial of Philip Carey Brasfield, 28, of Slaton.

The trial of Brasfield, charged in the abduction-slaying of 6-year-old Johnny Turner Jr. of Lubbock, was moved here on a change of venue.

The prospective jurors were divided into groups with eight persons scheduled to be questioned this morning, eight more this afternoon, and eight more Wednesday morning until jury selection is completed.

The first person questioned today was Kay Gibson, wife of Wichita County Sheriff John Gibson. She was not chosen to serve on the jury and attorneys were questioning only the second person on the panel late this morning.

A 61-year-old prospective juror became ill earlier this morning and was escorted from the courtroom clutching his chest.

But District Judge William Shaver of Lubbock, who is hearing the case, later said the man was "feeling much better."

The man was taken to Wichita General Hospital as a precaution, Shaver said.

Monday Shaver granted a motion that prohibited photographs or filming of the jury or the defendant.

Today Shaver ordered the prospective jury members not to view any television shows involving "crime, punishment or violence."

The body of the Turner child was found last October in a rugged canyon area near Slaton eight days after he disappeared from his neighborhood.

MINEROLOGICAL SOCIETY

The Mineralogical Society of America was founded in 1912.

Details Of Integration Plan

Here's a rundown on how each Lubbock public school would be affected by the integration plan proposed Monday by school trustees.

Senior High Schools
Dunbar's attendance zone would be unchanged. But the campus would be expanded to include nearby Struggs Junior High facilities. The result would be a new "Dunbar Magnet Complex" offering unique courses that would draw high school students from throughout the city.

The "magnet" courses at Dunbar will include such things as electronics, computer science, home economics cooperative education, distributive education, cooperative health education and industrial cooperative training.

Those courses would be discontinued at Coronado and Monterey. Students at Coronado and Monterey wanting to enroll in such programs would be assigned to Dunbar.

The district would provide transportation to and from Dunbar for students of other high schools. A "shuttle bus program" would allow those students to attend Dunbar full-or part-time, depending on the courses they want to take.

Transportation also would be available for Dunbar students who want to enroll in special courses at other high schools.

Any "commuter" student could return by bus to his "home school" (neighborhood school) to participate in athletics or extracurricular activities.

School officials estimate the Dunbar Magnet Complex would attract about 340 students, in addition to the 500 high school pupils residing in the Dunbar area.

Junior High Schools
Seventh and eighth-graders in the Struggs zone now attend Struggs; ninth-graders in the Struggs zone attend O.L. Slaton. The district proposes that Struggs be closed as a junior high school and used as part of Dunbar. Struggs students would be reassigned this way:

For the 1978-79 year, Struggs' seventh-graders would go to O.L. Slaton; Struggs' eighth-graders to Hutchinson; and Struggs' ninth-graders to Atkins.

For the 1979-80 year, Struggs' seventh-graders would go to Atkins; Struggs' eighth-graders to O.L. Slaton; and Struggs' ninth-graders to Hutchinson.

Meanwhile, the district would be building a new junior high school as approved by voters last year. Originally, that school was to be built in Farrar Estates and take in the southern half of the Evans zone (south of Loop 289, bounded by Frankford Avenue on the west and Elgin Avenue on the east).

The district proposes that the site be moved eastward, but stay south of the loop. Instead of Frankford Avenue, the western boundary for the new school's zone would be Memphis Avenue.

When it opens for the 1980-81 year, the new junior high would accommodate the seventh-, eighth- and ninth-graders living south of Loop 289 (and east of Memphis) and in the former Struggs zone. The school would open with an enrollment of about 1,000 students — one-third of them minority.

To prevent overcrowding at the new school, the Struggs zone would be reduced. The district proposes that the east boundary of the O.L. Slaton attendance area be moved from Avenue H to Avenue A. That change would be effective with the 1978-79 school year.

Elementary Schools
Iles would be closed and zoned into the Wheatley attendance area. Sanders would be closed and zoned into Guadalupe. Southeast Elementary would be closed and zoned into Brown and Wheelock for the 1978-79 year. For the 1979-80 year, Southeast students would go to a new school south of Loop 289.

Every semester, half of the students in grades four, five and six from Mahon will be assigned to a single predominantly white school. Half of those intermediate students will go the first semester; half the second semester.

The same will apply to the newly expanded Wheatley zone.

Every semester, half of the students in grades three through six at Posey will be assigned to a predominantly white school. Again, half of Posey's intermediate students will go the first semester; half the second semester.

The same will apply to Martin and the newly expanded Guadalupe zone.

Generally, each predominantly white school will require one grade to be assigned to either Mahon, Wheatley, Posey, Martin or Guadalupe. For example, Hardwick's third-grade may be assigned to Mahon. Half of Hardwick's third-graders would go the first semester; the other half of Hardwick's third-graders, the second semester.

This "sender" system would apply probably to Bayless, Bowie, Brown, Hardwick, HaynesM Maedgen, Overton, Rush, Stewart, Stubbs, Wester, Wheelock and Wilson.

For the time being, Parsons, Murfee and Williams would be required to send two grades (again, with each student going one semester a year) to a minority school.

Meanwhile, the district would start building three new elementary schools south of Loop 289 — to take in the southern parts of the Parsons, Murfee and Williams zones. When they open for the 1979-80 year, Parsons and its new school would send one grade each to Martin; Murfee and its new school would send one grade each to Wheatley; and Williams and its new school would send one grade each to Posey.

Thus, no white elementary student would be reassigned for more than one semester.

Beginning in 1979-80, students in the north part of the Southeast Elementary zone will attend the new school located south of Williams; students in the south part of the old Southeast zone will attend the new school south of Murfee; and students living in Yellowhouse Canyon — who now attend Roscoe Wilson — will be assigned to the new school south of Parsons.

Storm Damage In West Soars

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Residents of two counties are shoveling mud and searching through wreckage after a week of raging Pacific storms that left at least 37 dead and hundreds of millions in damage in Baja California and San Diego County.

"If we can just get a breathing spell, the worst is over," City Manager J. Wayne Dernetz told the City Council Monday night. However, the National Weather Service predicted another storm for Wednesday that could hamper recovery efforts.

Don Hamilton of the county office of emergency services said Monday that preliminary estimates already totaled $6 million.

In Baja California, government officials predict damage from mudslides and flooding will reach $1 billion. In the border city of Tijuana alone, damage was estimated at $23 million.

"The city is in a state of economic crisis," said Mayor Xicotencatl Leyva Mortera. Roads, water, electricity and telephones may not be restored for 10 days.

At least 21 are known dead in flood-related incidents in Tijuana, including a 2-year-old girl swept from her mother's arms by water. The U.S. Coast Guard continued emergency operations in the devastated Ensenada area about 60 miles south of San Diego.

At least 40 tons of supplies were flown in and 146 people, including 80 children from La Mission Orphanage, were evacuated.

The pilot of a Coast Guard C-130 plane from San Diego rescued 48 Americans, six Mexicans and two dogs from San Quintin south of Ensenada. A surging sea and rain runoff had isolated them since Friday.

Trucks Move On Plains

drivers ahead of picket points.

Flare and flag-waving farmers then hailed the truckers as they drove along.

Contributing to ineffectuality of the blockade was Texas law prohibiting persons from being on roadways and inhibiting traffic. Farmers in Lorenzo claimed the DPS stretched that point, telling them they could not even get off the curb to stop trucks.

A Hereford American Ag strike office spokesman said he intended to talk to the Justice Department today about the "breakdown in communications" with the DPS, and that future food stoppage plans would depend on results of those talks.

One farmer at the Lorenzo strike point on U.S. 62-82 had a near-miss with danger as he tried to wade down a truck. The massive vehicle's side-view mirrors snatched the man's flag from his hand as the truck blew right by him.

Thirty-nine trucks were reported stopped there between midnight and mid-morning today. Those that stopped, however, generally went on their way after drivers came into the Lorenzo Coop Gin for coffee and sandwiches.

That seemed to be the story at most blockade points.

Some 100 farmers had gathered at the Meadow Coop Gin between 11 p.m. Monday and 2 a.m. today.

Farmers there said Furrs, Borden of Lubbock, Affiliated Foods and an Albuquerque-based Baskin-Robbins truck had "turned around and gone back." But Friday, White Swan and Waples-Platter trucks had ignored the pickets, they said.

Early this morning, the Meadow group disbanded, saying they realized their efforts were not doing any good.

Gusty, dusty winds added to their challenge.

They reportedly planned a meeting later today to decide whether to set the blockade up again.

At Anton, farmers on U.S. 84 were dispensing coffee and donuts to truckers who came into a bus converted into a camper.

They said response to the stop-attempts had been better today than during the night "because the truckers understood better what was going on."

Strikers there reported that about 2 a.m. today two trucks traveling together cut "cross country" down dirt roads to avoid the stop-point.

They said the trucks nearly hit a bus during the action.

The men also said one large truck drove a farmer's pickup off the road, avoiding the picket point. "We still don't know what they were trying to do," a farmer said.

The Anton group was unclear on plans for the next few days, but one source said manpower is available there to keep the station going several days. "We've got them (shifts) lined up through Thursday night," he said.

Group Aids Eating Habits

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — I would like your opinion on the Senate Nutrition committee on Dietary Goals for the United States. I have seen that it has been criticized by the American Medical Association and some meat specialists as well as the egg industry and the egg industry. Why would the committee make such recommendations if so many people are against them?

DEAR READER — While I am not in total agreement with all the provisions, it is a good step forward in telling the public what should be done about American eating habits. Incidentally it is not all that different from recommendation for some of the Scandinavian countries. The committee listened to a lot of diversified opinions and after having done so felt these were the valid concepts that emerged.

The committee recommended an increase in carbohydrate consumption to account for 55 to 65 percent of calorie intake. That's fine if it means eating more fresh fruits and vegetables and less reliance on fatty foods or some protein foods that often contain more fat than protein. They also recommended a reduction in sugar intake by about 40 percent which has been cited as an inconsistency since sugar is a carbohydrate. It really isn't inconsistent since as I just noted there are a lot of carbohydrate foods other than sugar — specifically the fruit and vegetable group and the cereal group as well as the carbohydrates in milk. So that complaint is really nit picking.

They recommended reducing the fat consumption from over 40 percent in the American diet to around 30 percent, a figure not much different than recommended by the Inter Society Commission for Heart Disease Resources some years ago. The Commission was made up of many heart specialists and scientists throughout the country.

It was recommended that saturated fats should be limited to 10 percent of total calorie consumption and that the cholesterol intake should be limited to less than 300 milligrams a day, both also recommended by the Commission.

It is said that the AMA complained about these recommendations because other risk factors, which included high blood pressure and high cholesterol, are important. Indeed they are, but obesity is a major factor in developing both high blood pressure and high cholesterol. This leads to still another complaint: that the report failed to stress weight control and it should have. But, by reducing fat intake and sugar intake the resulting calorie intake reduction would go a long way in helping prevent obesity in most people's diet. So in general I think the criticisms are mostly nit picking from special interest groups.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-3, Diet, Preventing Atherosclerosis, which is based on the Inter Society Commission's recommendations, for your information. Others who would like this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, P.O. # Power Plants Suspected Of Influencing Weather

By CARL A. VINES

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (UPI) — About 40 miles northwest of Atlanta, there's a Georgia Power Co. generating plant that is suspected of having an influence on downwind weather patterns.

Researchers at the Oak Ridge National Laboratory in Tennessee want to determine over the next five years if this is true, and if possible, what it may mean to the nation's future energy policy.

A team led by Dr. Ari Patrinos has begun setting up a high concentration of rain gauges and wind measuring devices in an area around Plant Bowen, a 3,120-megawatt plant with two 1,000-foot smoke stacks and four 500-foot, natural-draft cooling towers.

There will be 50 rain gauges, one every 16 miles, placed wherever they can get landowner permission and read regularly by members of the research group. Six wind instruments will be placed at key locations to track surface winds.

The Patrinos team already has been studying National Weather Service data from 1950 through 1976, looking for indications of changes in rainfall and storm intensity within a 30 mile radius of the power plant.

And, says Patrinos, there are indications of increases in rainfall downwind of the plant since the facility went into operation in 1971. It isn't a lot in absolute terms, but sufficient to raise questions about a proposal that the nation might best meet future electric power needs through a system of energy centers.

These centers, involving 20 to 25 power plants in clusters, are viewed by some experts as the answer to generation of the huge amounts of electric energy the nation will need in the future.

"If we find that power plants do affect weather patterns in their areas," Patrinos said, "then such energy centers may not be possible. Or they may have to be located only in areas where population density is low, like a desert."

What concerns the researchers immediately are the heat and moisture from Plant Bowen's cooling towers. "The amounts of heat and moisture emitted from the towers of a large power plant are small compared to those released by even a moderatesized thunderstorm," Patrinos said. "Nevertheless, there is some speculation that cooling tower plumes may act as a triggering mechanism to upset instabilities in the atmosphere, modifying rainfall and disrupting storm patterns."

A typical cooling tower will produce 5,000 megawatts of heat and evaporate 40,000 to 60,000 gallons of water per minute. That's a lot of waste heat and water.

Zarb Hurls Salvos At Gas Controls

By PAT PATRICK
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Former federal energy czar Frank Zarb Monday blasted the whole concept of natural gas price controls and the Senate compromise on gas pricing that negotiators had hoped would end a long stalemate on President Carter's energy package.

Senate conferees were scheduled to meet this afternoon to consider a proposal that would lift controls on natural gas allowing the price ceiling to go immediately from $1.47 per thousand cubic feet to $1.84.

"It's a bad compromise," said Zarb, head of the Federal Energy Administration under President Gerald Ford.

"What does $1.84 mean? Where did it come from? It's a mid-point between two other numbers that don't mean anything."

Zarb said that to accept any kind of federal control of natural gas will make the American natural gas situation worse off than it is now.

"The government can do the most good by getting out of the way," he said.

If government would do that, "over the next 15 years, the nation has the capacity" to accomplish at least four major goals, he said:

- Reduce its rate of growth of energy use from 3 1/2 percent to 2 1/2 percent a year, "almost exclusively" by reducing oil and gas use.
- Increase "moderately" its oil-gas production — "if we let prices go."
- Double coal production and consumption — "if gas and oil prices are deregulated where conversion to coal makes sense."
- Triple nuclear power production. "It should be 20 percent of our election power."

er then, but it probably won't get that high."

Over the long run, America is going to convert its electrical power production to coal and nuclear energy, Zarb stated as fact.

Those companies making such switches now are "making a wise move," he said. "Electric power over the long term is not going to be oil-based or gas-based."

He does not believe the three-month long United Mine Workers coal strike will make those considering coal conversion think twice about it.

"What it does do is point out the illogical policy of not emphasizing Western coal," he said.

"For political reasons, the Carter administration should be 20 percent of our election power."

Hutchison Raps Hill, Briscoe

Gov. Dolph Briscoe showed a lack of leadership in his handling of the arrest of striking farmers in South Texas last week, a Republican candidate for governor charged here Monday.

Ray Hutchison, former chairman of the state Republican Party, said Briscoe "forfeited his office" and allowed his Democratic opponent, Attorney General John Hill to use the situation politically.

The 45-year-old Dallas attorney said he was in McAllen to speak to a teachers' group and witnessed the farmers' arrest.

Hutchison said he was given the opportunity to speak to the throngs of angry farmers, but declined because he did not want to "excite them for political purposes."

"If I had been governor, I would have worked with the police to dismiss the charges which were brought wrongly," the former state representative said.

However, when Briscoe did nothing, Hutchison said Hill "used" the farmers. "The Attorney General has no jurisdiction in the matter," he said, labeling Hill's actions "purely political."

Although the state's governor can't control national farm policy, Hutchison said some state actions could improve the farmers' plight.

He suggested giving some property tax relief to those "in society hurt the most by the tax — the farmer, the rancher and the homeowner."

Hutchison said a special fund could be created to fund the state's colleges and universities in place of the "clearly unconstitutional" property tax.

In addition, he said farmers could be aided by repealing the sales tax on utility bills.

Hutchison hit strongly at big state government while campaigning in Lubbock Monday.

"State government is in the process of uncontrolled growth," he said, "while the governor is perceived as one who controls growth."

The end result is "those who are supposed to be served by the government don't get served," he said.

Hutchison pointed to the growing number of state employees in Texas which has increased from 65,000 in 1963 to 130,000 in 1975 and made government the second largest employer in the state.

He said "skyrocketing state spending," especially on the cost of employee salaries will make a state income tax inevitable, if it continues at the present rate.

Court Releases Inmate

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has ordered the release of a Texas man sentenced to life in prison for bilking his victims of $230.

The appeals court Monday ruled a Texas habitual criminal statute imposed cruel and unusual punishment on William James Rummel and ordered his release from the Texas State Penitentiary.

Rummel was convicted of his first felony — using a credit card to attempt to defraud a merchant of $80 — in 1964 and in 1969 he was convicted of passing a forged $28.36 check.

In January 1973, Rummel was indicted for the felony offense of obtaining $120.75 under false pretenses. The crime is now a misdemeanor.

Judge Homer Thornberry said in his opinion that Rummel could have received as little as five years in prison if he committed a single first-degree felony such as murder, aggravated rape or arson.

"The punishment indiscriminately imposed on Rummel is too harsh," Thornberry said. "The record suggests that no harmful consequences beyond the loss of the money itself flowed from his offenses."

Apartment Dwellers Meet With Utility

By PAULA TILKER
Avalanche-Journal Staff

About 30 angry apartment dwellers met Monday night with Southwestern Public Service Co. representatives to complain about high utility bills and to be told what they probably already knew — they are using more electricity than they realize.

Donna Martin complained to the SPS officials about a $67.10 bill covering 19 days. She and the other apartment dwellers — some of whom reported $72 and $89 bills in two-bedroom units — were told that they could reduce their bills by using energy-saving tips.

facts such as how many baths are taken often make a marked difference in bills.

"It's really hard to compare apartment by apartment," he added.

When another resident complained about a high bill during a month she was absent from home a great deal, SPS official Hervey Gilliland reminded her that "a certain amount of electricity is used whether or not you're there to benefit from it."

The compromise was worked out last week, in hopes of ending a three-month Senate stalemate. It would give the President emergency powers to order gas moved out of producing states like Texas into northern cold-weather states in times of emergency.

Zarb discounted an apparent breakdown in the compromise that surfaced Monday when a Senator who had been expected to support the proposal announced he may vote against it.

Zarb characterized that as "part of the normal process."

"Disagreeing with things makes news. There will be some fellows who won't agree with it...but I think there will be a compromise and I think that's too bad," Zarb said.

"Regulation of natural gas makes no sense at all—it's inconsistent with anything that suggests a solution to the energy problem," he said in a later speech at the Lubbock County Republican Party "Lincoln Dinner."

"Overall, government's action in energy has managed to slow up an energy solution, rather than expedite it."

"The most significant contribution government can make to an energy solution is to get out of the way," he stated.

Some 220 persons paid $15 each to hear Zarb speak, while another 100 couples forked out $100 to attend a private reception and then eat with him.

The county GOP's traditional Lincoln Award for outstanding service went to Mrs. Homer (Vaude) Roper, longtime party volunteer worker.

Zarb criticized Carter's energy package as just more government interference and not a solution to the U.S. energy crisis.

And, beyond that, they will have to pay high bills because of high fuel costs, said the utility company officials.

"Even in the best conditions you're going to pay more than you like. It just costs more," SPS district manager Carroll McDonald told the residents of Lakeside Village Apartments.

Earnest Hudgins, also of SPS, added that small energy-saving techniques combined reduce costs. "It's all these things together, not any one thing," he said. "You've got to sacrifice, but it (reducing bills) can be done."

The SPS officials also suggested that the apartment dwellers learn to read and check their own meters, have their thermostats checked, lower their water heater temperatures and cut back their thermostats when no one is in the apartment.

Another significant factor in energy bills is the time of the year, McDonald said. He explained that bills will peak usually in January, February and August — traditionally the coldest and hottest months of the year.

And, he said, little can be learned from comparing utility bills with neighbors.

"How can you compare?" he asked, explaining that seemingly insignificant

He suggested that in such cases the resident compare readings by checking the meter and also to consider the weather during the period of absence. When the Study the play of this hand, then decide whether declarer was a victim of unlucky distribution, good defense or faulty technique when he failed to make his three no trump contract.

The auction was unremarkable. North bid both his major suits, and had enough in reserve to continue on to game when his partner showed a club stopper.

Declarer won the heart lead in his hand and ran the jack of diamonds. East won the queen and returned the jack of hearts. This was allowed to win and the heart continuation was taken by the king.

The king of diamonds was led from dummy, and East made a fine defensive play—he refused to take his ace. Declarer tried the club finesse, but when that failed he had no way to make his contract. He only had one entry to his hand, and he needed two to set up and run the diamonds. What is your verdict?

We salute you if you found South guilty of negligence in handling his entries. If the opening lead was an honest fourth-best, the hearts were going to break 4-3 (declarer was looking at the deuce in dummy). In that case, declarer could afford to lose two hearts and two diamonds.

South should win the opening lead in dummy to preserve the ace of hearts in his hand. He does not need the diamond finesse—three diamond tricks will be ample. At trick two declarer leads the king of diamonds from dummy, and the defenders are helpless. Whether they hold up one round of diamonds or not, declarer has the two entries he needs to establish his suit. He must come to at least three spades, two hearts, three diamonds and the ace of clubs.

CORNISH BEEF PASTIES

1 lb. beef round steak, cut in ¼-inch cubes
½ cup finely cubed, peeled potatoes
½ cup finely cubed, peeled turnips
½ cup finely cubed carrots
½ cup finely chopped onions
1 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
1 package (11 oz.) pie crust mix
½ cup packaged corn flake crumbs
7 tbsp. cold water

In large mixing bowl, combine beef, potatoes, turnips, carrots, onion, salt and pepper. Set aside. Stir together dry pie crust mix and corn flake crumbs. Add water and mix with fork until dough holds together. Add 1 to 2 teaspoons additional water, if needed. Divide dough into six equal portions. On a lightly floured surface, roll each portion of dough to a 7-inch circle. Place ½ cup of the meat mixture on one-half of each circle. Fold pastry over the filling to make a half circle. Moisten, then using the tines of a fork, seal the edge. Cut slits in the pastry for steam to escape. Place on ungreased baking sheet. Bake in oven at 400 degrees about 45 minutes or until golden brown. Serve with gravy, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

Mandatory Grade Labeling Proposed By Government

By SIDNEY MARGOLIUS

NEW YORK (WNS) — A proposal by the U.S. Department of Agriculture to make grade labeling mandatory on beef at the retail level would be a big help to consumers and farmers, and in the long run would also benefit retailers. Many retail markets already voluntarily label beef with the U.S. grades of Prime, Choice or Good.

Obviously you can't buy with maximum efficiency unless you have reasonable knowledge of what you're buying. If consumers are not in a position to buy economically, the result is a needless additional waste of both family resources and national food reserves.

In an era of proliferating products, varieties and brands, you can find 85 different kinds of meat and poultry and more than 260 combinations of varieties, brands and package sizes of vegetables in a typical supermarket. It's tough to compare all these products without some sort of quality guide.

If meat packers and other food processors are required to show the official quality grades on cans and package, consumers could (1) be sure that a particular brand met an established standard for that grade, and (2) have an intelligent basis for comparing values and for buying according to intended use.

For example, you could select Grade A canned tomatoes for the table when appearance might be important, but Grade

B or C for a stew or casserole, where the product is blended with other foods.

The U.S. Agriculture Department does have many such quality designations. It's significant that processors and distributors usually use official grades in their own wholesale buying and selling but not as often on their retail packages.

Industry spokesmen sometimes argue that if retail food packages were labeled according to government grades, manufacturers wouldn't try to find "new products or better and more exciting" variations of the same products.

But in actual fact, in poultry, juice concentrates, and several other items now often sold by grade, new variations of the standard products have been developed.

Food processors should not fear broader use of grades. In the several commodities in which official grades are widely used, they have helped to win consumer confidence by the quality and to use care in handling foods in order to protect quality.

The most obvious example is egg grading, which is almost universal and which we now take for granted. But few of us would have as much confidence as we do in the eggs we buy if they were not selected and graded according to an official uniform standard — whether state or federal.

Some 80 percent of poultry is graded and labeled with the official U.S. grades. Much of the frozen orange juice concentrate sold is grade labeled. So is much of the cheddar cheese, some meats, nonfat dry milk, some canned and fresh produce and a number of other products.

In some of these instances growers and processors themselves have taken the lead in encouraging use of official grades.

Several localities, notably Chicago and Dade County, Fla., now require that the official U.S. grade be shown on all meats and poultry sold at retail.

These requirements have neither hurt the meat business in those cities nor have they dissuaded consumer from buying the lower grades as is sometimes argued will happen if grades are mandatory.

Rather, the Chicago Consumer Department found, markets that offer lower grades label them prominently and simply provide a reasonable price differential. Consumers have learned that these lower grades are good meat at an economical price and simply need different cooking methods than the costlier Choice grade.

One of the most useful results of widespread grade labeling is that consumers will become educated to the fact that Grade B or C products are as palatable and as nutritious as Grade A but may

That usually means dragging the kids along with her. That may not sound like much of a hardship, but working around the children's naps, it would take my whole day to do it. I can think of a lot of ways I would rather spend my time than doing my mother-in-law's shopping!

FOUND GUILTY — Lucinda Stout, 16, and her attorney, David Lancaster, watched as the jury filed into the courtroom in Dallas. The jury deliberated for an hour Monday night to find Miss Stout guilty in the stabbing death of her mother last June. (AP Laserphoto)

Jury Rules Girl Guilty Of Murder

DALLAS (AP) — A 16-year-old girl who reportedly told a friend she wanted to kill her parents so she could inherit the family car has been convicted of stabbing her mother to death.
 Lucinda Stout maintained an impassive expression as a state court jury declared her guilty Monday after deliberating two hours and 15 minutes.
 Jurors were to hear further arguments today before determining punishment. Maximum sentence would be life imprisonment.
 The trial has generated unusually large crowds. Moments before the jury delivered its verdict, State District Court Judge John Mead ordered deputies and bailiffs to ring the room to quell any outbursts from the divided family and on-lookers.

William Karl, Lucinda's maternal grandfather, called the verdict "rotten" and said he felt she had not gotten a fair trial "because there's been too much publicity."
 The atmosphere peaked last week when the defendant took the stand and shocked the courtroom to silence as she calmly told the jury her father, Harry Stout, stabbed her mother, Sharon, 34, last June 11, and that she then shot him twice.
 But Stout, who spent several weeks in a hospital recovering from his wounds, testified that his daughter stabbed Mrs. Stout and then shot him as he attempted to go to his wife's aid. He said he begged Lucinda to call an ambulance but she refused.

In closing arguments, prosecutor Jim Burnham said the high school junior shot her father only twice in the back because she couldn't shoot him again when he turned to face her.
 "She's a back-stabber and she's a back-shooter and that's the reason she didn't shoot her father, because he was looking at her," said Burnham.
 Testimony at the trial revealed that Lucinda was angry at her parents because her father had prevented her from going out on dates. A high school friend testified that Lucinda told her she planned to kill her parents so she could get the family car.

Commission Names Acting Director

AUSTIN (AP) — John Soule, 32, has been appointed acting director of the Texas Railroad Commission's transportation division. Soule succeeds John R. Neel, who resigned.
 Soule has been serving as assistant special counsel for the commission and formerly was chief counsel for the Texas Aeronautics Commission.

Building Board Interprets City Insulation Ordinance

By PAULA TILKER
 Avalanche-Journal Staff
 In an interpretative ruling on the city's insulation ordinance, the Building Board of Appeals decided Monday that the code must be met for all "occupied spaces" heated to at least 70 degrees.
 And after informally agreeing that the code needed alteration, the board asked members of the pre-engineered metal structure industry to present proposals for change at next month's board meeting.
 The industry, represented by Robert Anderson, had asked the board for an interpretation of insulation requirements in non-occupied buildings such as warehouses. The group contended that requirements should be applied to all phases of the building industry, including concrete structures.
 Board members unanimously voted to interpret the ordinance to mean that insulation must be applied in structures that are occupied by people.
 Examples include homes, offices, schools, churches, display areas and sales areas, the board said. The 70-degree figure is a standard set by the Uniform Building Code.
 Excluded from the requirements will be warehouses and similar storage spaces, the board decided.
 Warehouses especially received the metal industry's concern, said Anderson, president of the Southwest Systems Builders Association. The group is a South Plains organization of builders of pre-engineered metal structures.

Gas Controls

 Administration has been emphasizing Eastern over Western coal. If we had had a heavy production of Western coal in this period, it would have been some kind of offset to the problems caused by shutting down of Eastern union-run mines, Zarb said.
 Persons at the "Lincoln Dinner" in the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center got a chance to see and hear a number of prominent Republicans besides Zarb, now associated with a New York investment firm.
 Two GOP gubernatorial candidates were there — Bill Clements and Ray Hutchison — plus lieutenant governor hopeful Gaylord Marshall.
 Also on hand were Republican 19th Congressional District candidates Jim Reese, George Bush and Joe Hickox, and local office seekers.

Hutchison Visits

 The rate of growth in government are needed, Hutchison said, as well as a governor who "really controls government in Texas" and one who stays in Austin.
 Hutchison suggested authorizing the governor to resubmit board and agency appointees to the state senate for de-confirmation.
 He said the process would allow the philosophy of the governor to "permeate state government" rather than that of his predecessor.
 Hutchison said the state needs someone who "knows something about government."
 "We've already had six years of on-the-job training for Gov. Briscoe, and that's too long," he said.

Sulphur Companies Given Exceptions

AUSTIN (AP) — Texasgulf, Inc., and the Duval Corp., two sulphur mining and processing companies, were granted exceptions Monday to the railroad commission's boiler fuel phaseout rule.
 The rule requires a 10 percent cut in the use of natural gas to fire boilers by 1981 and 25 percent in 1985.
 The commission said Duval would have had to give up $75 million worth of sulphur to save $22.2 million worth of gas or else spend $50 million to convert its boilers to another fuel.
 Texasgulf said its conversion costs would be $49 million. The commission said the loss of sulphur production would be $120.7 million, compared with a saving of $76.6 million worth of gas.

Rate Hike Granted In Texas Cities

AUSTIN (AP) — High Plains Natural Gas Co. was granted a 41-cent increase in its city gate rates at Booker, Canadian, Higgins, Mobetie, Perryton and Spearman on Monday.
 The action by the Texas Railroad Commission increases the rates from 67 cents to $1.08 per 1,000 cubic feet.
 Jim Clout, commission examiner, said none of the affected cities had protested the increase.

CORRECTION:

In Sears "Spring Savings" circular inserted in your newspaper today, the following errors occurred:
 ●Page 3 — Misses polyester shorts at $5.99 should be "sizes 10 to 16"
 ●Page 7 — The illustrations for "C" and "D", $39.95 items are transposed; letters and stock numbers are correct as shown
 ●Page 8 — "Directors Choice II" carpet at $5.99 should read, "Memories" carpet
 ●Page 21 — Installed muffler should also state, "Extra charge for replacing mufflers with welded components"
 The following items will be late arriving in our store, but rainchecks will be issued:
 ●Page 1 — Girls terry shirts, 7-14 at $3.19
 ●Page 2 — Fashion handbags at 25% off
 ●Page 5 — Teepee throw pillows at $7.99 and $14.99, 72x11-in. Bokhara valance, Bokhara tiebacks and ruby-red dinnerware at $11.99
 ●Page 12 — Dynaply 24 tires in H78 and L78-15 whitewalls and blackwalls
 Regarding large home appliances: Sears is trying its best, but the coal strike and severe weather conditions have temporarily affected production and transportation of some appliances. If the appliance advertised is not immediately available, Sears will take your order and promise to provide you with the merchandise as quickly as possible.
 In Sears "Value Days" circular insert of February 28 and March 1, the following errors occurred:
 ●Page 6 — Lighted medicine cabinet has only one outlet and does not have a night light
 ●Page 22 — Girls gathered or tiered skirts "regular $3.99 for $3.19" should have read, "regular $7.99 for $6.39"

CAREER OPPORTUNITY
WHAT I HAVE to offer is no gimmick. I need two people to help me operate an insurance office in the Lubbock area for a national company. I OFFER a fine career for the right person in sales, service, and management. No experience necessary. Will train the right person. Commission agents also welcome. COMMISSION ADVANCE while training, then high commissions thereafter. Exceptional retirement and fringe benefits. REGARDLESS OF the type of work you have been doing, if you're ambitious, want a true career and fine income, a great of good character and of legal age, you might be the right person. DO NOT LET your natural reluctance toward the usual insurance ad prevent you from seeing what we have to show you. You will find it eye-opening and refreshing.

MARK BARRON February Sales Leader

DEAR BUDDY: I'd be interested in buying some rental property in the area of Texas Tech.

"PRUDENT INVESTOR"
"PRUDENT!" How about a duplex in excellent condition with excellent financing available. Great investment.

DEAR BUDDY: I saw your sign at 4303 45th Street. Is this a 3 bedroom that I could redecorate?

"FRUSTRATED DECORATOR"
"FRUSTRATED!" Yes this is a 3 bedroom, 2 bath home and its priced so that it can be redecorated and make you some money. Hurry.

DEAR BUDDY: Help us locate a 4 bedroom "Pad" that's "spaced out" like "with it"....."FUNKY!"

"FUNKY!" Hey man, I've got a 4 bedroom, 2 bath at 2901 74th Place that's "with it". Besides all that it's contemporary.

WIPSHIR UP A POOL?
 But it will be nice come spring-heated too. Vaulted den-living, lifetime room, very nice fireplace, most important of all - Jr has only a 1 1/2 btk to Hardwick elem school. One Dad probably never had it so go for $45,000.

WORLD WAR II VET?
 Or dining room that meant - You earned a NO DOWN Payment right to purchase a home. We have nice one your lady will like. Den-Kit Comb. 3 BR, 2 baths - Fine schools, covered patio that rhymes with steaks $37,500

INCOME PROPERTY
 We don't have many of these that are well located. 1653 Sq. ft. Home that has been remodeled w/new carpet, new paint, storm doors, new central heat & on a lot. Apt. is also super. A lot of merit to this property. Oh, yes apt is furnished, $37,500

NEW HOME SAVINGS?
 Think that over a little bit! The truth is that this sale did not consume me. We are starting a twin to this house and the new price is $87,500. BUT this house is $36,500 to take to pick colors & we hope you like green. Brick, 2 car, 3 Bath Den-living energy efficient. A WOW of a plan. GI or FHA Think about that THOUSAND DOLLARS SAVINGS - a smart thing to do. $36,500

PERSONALITY PLUS?
 The plus in new Personality homes is to name a few: extra insulation in attic, insulated windows and doors, high energy efficient rated air conditioning units, attractive decor and gas heating and cooking. Priced from $22,950. Two to be completed in 30 days. FHA financing.

Johnny White 796-3779

4 Bedroom - $74,500
 6 years ago a friend of ours custom built this home and included lots of good things such as a circular game room, formal dining, double oven, piped in stereo ($1400 top), cedar roof & a petted dog. Included is a permanent backyard 12 x 14 storage. JUST REAL NICE. But the kids moved. This is happiness in this home... CALL US.

WIPSHIR UP A POOL?
 But it will be nice come spring-heated too. Vaulted den-living, lifetime room, very nice fireplace, most important of all - Jr has only a 1 1/2 btk to Hardwick elem school. One Dad probably never had it so go for $45,000.

WORLD WAR II VET?
 Or dining room that meant - You earned a NO DOWN Payment right to purchase a home. We have nice one your lady will like. Den-Kit Comb. 3 BR, 2 baths - Fine schools, covered patio that rhymes with steaks $37,500

INCOME PROPERTY
 We don't have many of these that are well located. 1653 Sq. ft. Home that has been remodeled w/new carpet, new paint, storm doors, new central heat & on a lot. Apt. is also super. A lot of merit to this property. Oh, yes apt is furnished, $37,500

NEW HOME SAVINGS?
 Think that over a little bit! The truth is that this sale did not consume me. We are starting a twin to this house and the new price is $87,500. BUT this house is $36,500 to take to pick colors & we hope you like green. Brick, 2 car, 3 Bath Den-living energy efficient. A WOW of a plan. GI or FHA Think about that THOUSAND DOLLARS SAVINGS - a smart thing to do. $36,500

PERSONALITY PLUS?
 The plus in new Personality homes is to name a few: extra insulation in attic, insulated windows and doors, high energy efficient rated air conditioning units, attractive decor and gas heating and cooking. Priced from $22,950. Two to be completed in 30 days. FHA financing.

Richard Speck Admits Murdering Nurses

CHICAGO (AP) — "Yeah, I killed them. I stabbed and choked them," said Richard Speck, admitting for the first time in a news interview that, while high on whiskey and heroin, he murdered seven of eight young nurses in a South Side townhouse almost 12 years ago.

Speck, whose account of the July 1966 mass murder was published in today's editions of the Chicago Sun-Times, said the eighth nurse was slain by an accomplice who Speck claimed to have killed later and tossed into a railroad boxcar.

But a spokesman for the Chicago Police Department was quick to discount the existence of an accomplice. "Speck's a liar," he said.

Speck, 36, said in a copyright interview with columnist Bob Greene that he killed his unidentified accomplice, "an effeminate homosexual," because he feared he would testify against Speck.

In January 1977, a doctor who operated on Speck after he tried to commit suicide following his arrest, wrote in Medical Economics magazine that Speck told him: "I killed those girls. Yep, killed 'em all with my hands."

There was no attempt to include that alleged confession in the trial materials because it was "made under heavy medication, it would never have been admissible," said a lawyer who worked in the public defender's office at the time. He did not wish to have his name revealed.

Speck, convicted of killing all eight nurses, originally was sentenced to die in the electric chair, but the Supreme Court overthrew that sentence. He was sentenced to eight consecutive prison terms of 50 to 150 years each for the murders.

At a parole hearing in 1976 Speck maintained his innocence.

"If that one girl wouldn't have spit in my face, they'd all be alive today," Speck told Greene in an interview at Stateville Penitentiary near Joliet.

"It was just one of them weird coincidences. I was high on heroin and whiskey. I'd never shot heroin before. So eight people got killed. Eight girls and that effeminate homosexual."

Just a few hours before the murders, Speck said, he and his accomplice met for the first time on a bridge on the far South Side. He said at first he and his companion only intended burglary.

"The idea of making some money didn't even hit us until that night," he said. "We didn't know nothing about that neighborhood. We didn't pick no house. We just knocked. When people answered the door, we asked for phony names and left. We were waiting for no one to answer so we could break in and burglarize it."

"We knocked on the girls' door. No one answered. It wasn't planned or nothing. When we got upstairs we seen them all in the bedrooms asleep. There were three or four bedrooms, I don't know how many."

"Some girls woke up. We said, 'Stick up! We want your money.' I told one of them to get the money. She spit in my face and said she'd pick me out of a lineup. Ninety-nine percent of the people in this country are stool pigeons. I just blew."

Speck said, "I can't even tell you what she looked like, to be truthful. She got stabbed in the heart."

"By you?" Greene asked.

"Yeah," Speck answered.

"I can't tell you if the girls put up any resistance or not," Speck told Greene. "I killed seven of them; the other guy killed one. We left. He was frantic. He says he doesn't want any of the money at all. He's dead now."

"I know he's dead because I shot him six times."

Speck said his accomplice "would've turned state's evidence on me. 'I was carrying a knife and a gun. We went down to the railroad tracks. He threw the money at me. He said, 'Here, I don't want none of this. None of this.'"

"I knew what he was gonna do, turn state's. So I shot him. I shot him twice in the face. He got up. I was using a .22, a Saturday night special. I shot him four more times in the the face and he went down."

"I put him in a boxcar, and nobody ever found the body."

Greene said Speck did not say how much money he and the alleged accomplice took. Speck was apprehended several days after the murders in a skid row flophouse after a suicide attempt.

"Speck's a liar. It's not true," citywide police homicide Commander Joseph DiLeonardi said of the account. DiLeonardi worked on the case as a detective.

"There was no body found in a boxcar," DiLeonardi said. "All the murders from that night and from several days later have all been cleared up. Only one man committed this crime."

He pointed out that the surviving nurse testified that Speck acted alone in the killings.

"The man (Speck) can say anything he wants at this late stage of the game," the police official added.

Nixon Aide Cites Business Problems

By YARDENA ARAR

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Clay T. Whitehead, the Nixon administration communications chief who once accused the network news media of dispensing liberal-based "ideological plugola," is now a private businessman who says the business community should deliver a little of its own "plugola."

At 39, the bespectacled first director of the Office of Telecommunications Policy still retains the clean-cut boyish look of his Washington days as he deals with an assortment of enterprises.

For the past 18 months, he has been president of Allison Technical Services, a Santa Monica, Calif., based consulting firm that specializes in government regulations and their effect on business and emergency medical services.

He is also involved with a skateboard park development firm, and still keeps a finger on the national political pulse by going to Washington once a month as an unpaid consultant for the Defense Department, the CIA and the National Security Council.

Whitehead was a little-known White House communications staffer when at the age of 31 he was named director of the new White House agency.

At the same 1972 Indianapolis speech in which he criticized broadcast newscasters for disseminating "ideological plugola" and "elitist gossip in the guise of news analysis," he warned affiliates that they could be held "fully accountable" at license renewal time if they failed "to correct imbalance or consistent bias from the networks."

He resigned on Aug. 6, 1974, three days before Nixon resigned, and spent a year at Harvard as a fellow at the Kennedy Institute for Politics before deciding to try business.

"I thought it would be a healthy antidote to the bureaucracy that I had to put up with in government," he said recently in an interview.

Whitehead, who lives with his wife, Margaret, and 18-month-old daughter, Abigail, in the Santa Monica Mountains, says he is happy with his latest career, but he has a few observations on communications problems in the American business community.

CLAY T. WHITEHEAD

"The problem with American business is that it's terribly inarticulate," he said. "In many ways, it's its own worst enemy in national policy debates. You look at the amount of money and effectiveness with which they advertise their product, then look at the work they do in putting across their political philosophy and participate in public debate about business policy ethics."

Whitehead's views on the broadcast media haven't changed.

"The news media have always had this great preoccupation with fairness," he said. "What's fair in covering a story really depends on the reporter's point of view. Pretty much the same people work for ABC news, CBS news, NBC news."

"They tend to have a pretty homogenous view of the world, kind of a romantic view. It's almost inevitable that they're going to be slightly liberal" — the same way people working for major corporations tend to be conservative, he said.

Former Congressional Aide Elko Wins Review Of Prison Sentence

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former Congressional aide Stephen B. Elko, convicted in connection with an influence-peddling scheme, has won a review of his prison sentence in exchange for cooperating with federal authorities who are investigating alleged public corruption.

Responding Monday to Elko's motion for reduction of his three-year sentence, U.S. District Judge Albert Lee Stephens Jr. ordered the former aide to Rep. Daniel J. Flood to report to prison March 17 for a 90-day sentencing study, then return to court for further consideration of his sentence.

Stephens denied a similar motion submitted by Elko's girlfriend and co-defendant, Patricia Brislin, who was sentenced to one year in prison. She also was ordered to report to jail March 17.

At the hearing, Elko's attorneys cited "1,000 pages of notes taken by more than 49-year-old Falls Church, Va., resident's cooperation with authorities."

Specific areas of investigation have not been made public, but Elko has reportedly disclosed information regarding alleged influence-peddling activities by Flood, a 30-year-veteran of Congress.

"I shall continue to keep my commitment fully, candidly and honestly to assist the government and people of the United States," Elko told Stephens Monday.

Stephens indicated he would sentence Elko to some time in prison, saying "an apology for these offenses is not sufficient."

Elko and Miss Brislin were convicted Oct. 19 and sentenced Jan. 9 on charges of conspiracy, bribe solicitation, perjury and obstruction of justice. The charges alleged that the pair accepted $25,000 in bribes to influence Flood to obtain federal assistance for a now-defunct chain of Los Angeles trade schools.

In November, the U.S. Justice Department granted Elko immunity from further prosecution in exchange for his cooperation. The Justice Department was acting on a request from former U.S. Attorney David Marston in Philadelphia, where two grand juries are investigating the case.

Court documents indicate Elko has alleged that some $100,000 in potentially illegal payments were given to Flood for various favors.

Assistant U.S. Attorney David Hinden, prosecutor in the Los Angeles case, argued against reducing the sentences. He accused Miss Brislin of spying on government investigators, saying she had recently "met secretly with one of the key targets of the investigation."

Model Pyramid Attempt Fails

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) — Egyptian authorities have ordered Japanese researchers to tear down a model pyramid on which they had hoped to show how the ancient Egyptians built the gigantic monuments.

The attempt failed and the unfinished structure "look on the appearance of a deformity," the Al Ahran newspaper said today.

Japan's Nippon Television Co. and Wasada University began work on the model pyramid — in the shadows of the Great Pyramids of Giza — two weeks ago to find out how the ancient Egyptians built the much larger pyramids.

The Japanese, employing several thousand Egyptian laborers, had said they would stick to ancient building methods. But Cairo newspapers said they used modern equipment such as cranes and cement.

While laborers worked on the small pyramid, Japanese cameramen shot film from helicopters flying overhead.

Carter Asks Delay Of CAB Move

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter wants the Civil Aeronautics Board to wait until negotiations with Great Britain over aviation policy disputes are completed before the CAB suspends a British airline's U.S. landing rights.

Carter said Monday he would reconsider unilateral retaliation against the British if the negotiations fail to win approval for Braniff International's proposed cut-rate fares between Dallas and London.

CAB officials said the board probably would comply with the president's request.

Last week the CAB asked Carter to approve an order suspending British Caledonian Airways' fares and operating rights between London and Houston because of Britain's refusal to approve the low Dallas-London fares sought by Braniff.

In a letter Monday to CAB Chairman Alfred Kahn, Carter agreed the British refusal to approve Braniff's fares violated the new aviation agreement — called "Bermuda II" — signed last year between the United States and Britain.

"I note, however, that negotiations with the British government concerning this matter began on Feb. 10 and resume today for the period March 6 through March 17," Carter told Kahn.

"I am confident that during these negotiations the British government will adopt a position consistent with Bermuda II, and I therefore request that you withdraw your order at this time."

"If a satisfactory resolution with the British is not reached by March 17, I will reconsider the need for unilateral action by the United States."

Braniff's inaugural London-Dallas flight last Wednesday was canceled because of Britain's rejection of the Texas-based airline's initial low fare proposals and the CAB's refusal to let Braniff raise its fares to the level demanded by Britain.

Carter's request would probably postpone the inaugural flight until at least March 17.

The U.S.-British negotiations originally were scheduled to consider Britain's opposition to low-cost flights by U.S. supplemental airlines similar to those now operated between London and New York by Britain's Laker Airways.

However, U.S. officials said the Braniff issue now appears likely to dominate the negotiations. Under the U.S. interpretation of the air agreement, Britain is bound to accept U.S. airline fares approved by the CAB just as the United States accepts British airline fares approved by authorities in London.

Avalanche-Journal News Services
The University of Kentucky, picked along with North Carolina as the top team in the nation in pre-season voting, lived up to expectations today when it was named the national champion in the United Press International Board of Coaches final college basketball ratings.

By earning the No. 1 spot in final balloting for the fifth time, Kentucky has now captured as many UPI national championships as UCLA. No other teams have won the award as many as five times.

The Wildcats, who head into the NCAA tournament with a 25-2 record, received 29 of a possible 40 first-place votes and a total of 388 points by the nationwide panel of coaches from seven geographic regions.

Kentucky also managed to hold onto its top ranking in The Associated Press poll in the next-to-last balloting of sports writers and broadcasters.

The Wildcats managed 37 of 53 first-place votes and a total of 994 points.

UCLA, 24-2, was second with seven first-place votes and 327 points from UPI and collected 11 firsts and 926 points from AP to hold onto the No. 2 spot there.

Defending NCAA champion Marquette, 24-3, finished third on UPI's list, getting two first-place votes and 310 points. The Warriors are also third on AP with two firsts and 826 points.

New Mexico, 24-3, drew the other pair of UPI first-place votes to help the Lobos climb two places into the fourth spot while Big Ten champion Michigan State, 23-4, rose from No. 8 to No. 5.

Arkansas, 28-3, which was upset by Houston, 70-69, last week in the Southwest Conference tournament, dropped two places to sixth in the final ratings. DePaul, 25-2, one of the season's biggest surprises, maintained the seventh position.

Kansas, 24-4, fell three places to No. 8 in the final voting after suffering an 87-76 upset to Kansas State in the Big Eight tournament while Duke, 23-6, registered the biggest gain of the week by climbing into the No. 9 spot after winning the Atlantic Coast Coast Conference tournament in a surprise.

North Carolina, plagued by injuries in its bid to fulfill early-season predictions, dropped from No. 9 to No. 10 after being upset by Wake Forest, 82-77, in the ACC tournament. The Tar Heels finished 23-7.

Coaches on the panel cast votes for the top 10 teams with points awarded on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis.

Here by sections are the coaches who comprise the UPI major college basketball ratings board:

EAST — Lou Carnesecca, St. John's; Tom Penders, Columbia; Tom Young, Rutgers; Jack Kraft, Rhode Island; Jack Powers, Manhattan, John Thompson, Georgetown.

MIDWEST — Johnny Orr, Michigan; Bib Nichols, Toledo; Digger Phelps, Notre Dame; Ray Meyer, DePaul; Tex Winter, Northwestern; Hank Raymonds, Marquette.

SOUTH — Frank McGuire, South Carolina; Dean Smith, North Carolina; Lefty Driesell, Maryland; C.M. Newton, Alabama; Hugh Durham, Florida State; Norman Sloan, North Carolina State.

MIDLANDS — Joe Cipriano, Nebraska; Norm Stewart, Missouri; Joe Hall,

Kentucky; Ted Owens, Kansas; Jack Hartman, Kansas State; Joe Stowell, Bradley.

SOUTHWEST — Guy Lewis, Houston; Ned Wulk, Arizona State; Eddie Sutton, Arkansas; Ron Ekker, West Texas State; Fred Snowden, Arizona; Roy Danforth, Tulane.

MOUNTAINS — Jim Williams, Colorado State; Jerry Tarkanian, Nevada-Las Vegas; Ken Hayes, New Mexico State; Norm Ellenberger, New Mexico; Dutch Belnap, Utah State; Jim Brandenburg, Montana.

PACIFIC — Bob Boyd, Southern California; Marv Harshman, Washington; Dick Harter, Oregon; Carroll Williams, Santa Clara; Gary Cunningham, UCLA; Bill O'Connor, Seattle.

After the first three, the remainder of AP's Top Ten bears little resemblance to last week.

DePaul jumped from sixth to fourth. The Blue Demons collected one first-place vote and 605 points. New Mexico also moved up two spots, improving to the No. 5 position.

Michigan State moved from ninth to sixth with two Big Ten wins. Arkansas, Kentucky; Ted Owens, Kansas; Jack Hartman, Kansas State; Joe Stowell, Bradley.

SOUTHWEST — Guy Lewis, Houston; Ned Wulk, Arizona State; Eddie Sutton, Arkansas; Ron Ekker, West Texas State; Fred Snowden, Arizona; Roy Danforth, Tulane.

MOUNTAINS — Jim Williams, Colorado State; Jerry Tarkanian, Nevada-Las Vegas; Ken Hayes, New Mexico State; Norm Ellenberger, New Mexico; Dutch Belnap, Utah State; Jim Brandenburg, Montana.

PACIFIC — Bob Boyd, Southern California; Marv Harshman, Washington; Dick Harter, Oregon; Carroll Williams, Santa Clara; Gary Cunningham, UCLA; Bill O'Connor, Seattle.

After the first three, the remainder of AP's Top Ten bears little resemblance to last week.

DePaul jumped from sixth to fourth. The Blue Demons collected one first-place vote and 605 points. New Mexico also moved up two spots, improving to the No. 5 position.

Michigan State moved from ninth to sixth with two Big Ten wins. Arkansas, which was No. 1 three weeks ago, plummeted from fourth to seventh after its 79-69 loss to Houston in the Southwest Conference post-season playoffs.

Duke made the most significant improvement of the week. The Blue Devils leaped from 15th to eighth after capturing the tough Atlantic Coast Conference tournament. Kansas dropped from fifth to ninth after losing to Kansas State in the semifinals of the Big Eight tournament.

Notre Dame rounds out the Top Ten, dropping from seventh. The Irish lost to Dayton in its only action of the week and finished the regular season at 19-6.

HERSKOWITZ

What About Joe Louis?

By MICKEY HERSKOWITZ And STEVE PERKINS

Q. I read nearly two months ago that Joe Louis was doing fine after heart surgery, but have heard little about him since. If he made any comments about the TV movie on his fight with Schmeling I missed them. Same thing about Ali losing the title to Spinks. Is the public being told the truth about the former champion's condition?

— Elliott McCarron, Columbia, S.C.

A. It has been a well-guarded secret that Louis suffered a mild stroke after his open heart surgery in Houston. He is unable to use the telephone and talks with difficulty. His hospital room was registered under different names and changed at intervals to discourage visitors. Understandably, his wife has shielded him from reporters seeking interviews. So widely admired is Louis that a less vigilant effort might lead to delays in his therapy. Although he has returned to his home in Las Vegas, his condition is still serious and his recovery will be slow.

Q. I have always been told that with a fighter the legs go first. But Muhammad Ali was still moving well in the late rounds and it looked to me like Leon Spinks just out-punched him. What happened?

— Mitch Eckman, Duluth, Minn.

A. Those inside Ali's camp expressed concern even before the fight that the unpredictable Muhammad was spending too much time on road work, and too little on sparring. Ali, of course, says he simply misjudged Spinks and will get him next time. But the real question is whether Ali's punch has lost its sting. He jarred his young opponent a few times, but never stunned him. In Ali's case, his hands, not his legs, may have gone first. Not much has been said about the fact that Ali has needed shots of novocaine from Dr. Ferdie Pacheco before his fights in recent years, to deaden the pain in his knuckles.

Q. Will you please tell me the exact height and weight of Jack Dempsey when he became heavyweight boxing champion? And the same for Gene Tunney?

— Alva R. Kane, Boise, Idaho

A. William Harrison "Jack" Dempsey stood 6 foot 1-1/2 inches tall and weighed 187 pounds when he destroyed Jess Willard, nearly six inches taller and 50 pounds heavier, to take the title on July 4, 1919. Tunney's dimensions were 6-1 and 188 pounds when he took the crown from Dempsey in Philadelphia in 1926. Tunney, like Spinks an ex-Marine, was the first to win the heavyweight title on points.

Q. Who holds the world record in the 50-yard dash—indoor and outdoor—and what are the record times?

— Bill Briggs, Texarkana

A. Houston McTear owns the world record at 50 yards with a clocking of five and a quarter seconds. The race is run so infrequently outdoors that there is no recognized record. McTear, of Cerrito (Calif.) Junior College, and Harvey Glance, of Auburn, are considered America's best hopes for the dashes in the 1980 Olympics.

Abe Not Enthused About NIT Outing

By United Press International

Houston will get some of that television exposure that any team likes to have, the Arkansas Razorbacks will have to prepare for an early tipoff and the coach of the Texas Longhorns says he will show up for the game because everybody else is excited about it.

With three Southwest Conference teams involved in postseason play for the first time ever, the sport is getting a lot of hangover attention this week. But Texas Coach Abe Lemons doesn't seem to be too enthused about it.

"My assistant coaches and the players are all excited," said Lemons. "They are wild about it. I'm having trouble getting juiced up, though. It isn't easy to come back after the kind of loss we had last Saturday. I'd just as soon be out recruiting."

"But the players want to play so I guess we will get ready."

The Longhorns, who lost in the finals of the SWC tournament last Saturday, will open play Friday night in Austin in the first round of the National Invitation Tournament against Temple.

A sellout crowd is expected in the Super Drum for Texas first post-season game in four years. If the Longhorns win against the Owls Friday night they advance to the quarter-finals.

The next SWC team in action will be Arkansas, which has to play Saturday at 1:10 p.m. (CST) against Weber State, winner of the Big Sky Conference tournament. Arkansas received an NCAA bid despite its setback in the SWC tournament to Houston.

Arkansas Coach Eddie Sutton plans to leave Fayetteville for the long, round about trip to Eugene on Thursday afternoon.

Then, on Sunday, Houston will take on the Notre Dame Fighting Irish in Tulsa. Game time is set for 3:15 p.m. CST.

"Everybody likes to fight a cobra now and then," said Lewis, whose Cougars should match up well with the physical Irish. "You don't ever have to get your team ready to play a team with their image. Everybody likes to play a team that

UT Loses SS

AUSTIN (AP) — Ronnie Gardenshire, Texas shortstop who set a Southwest Conference RBI record Sunday, will miss most of the season because of a broken thumb. Gardenshire drove in 10 runs with two home runs and a double in Texas' 18-3 win over Arkansas. But he broke his left thumb diving into second base in the third inning. Doctors said surgery is required to repair the thumb, and Gardenshire will miss an estimated six weeks of the season, the University of Texas Sports News Service said Monday.

Swim Coaches

AUSTIN (AP) — Two men have been hired as head coaches of the men's and women's swimming teams at the University of Texas, school officials announced Monday. Eddie Reese, who has coached at Auburn six years, will head the Texas men's team this spring. He succeeds Pat Patterson. Paul Bergen, coach of the Nashville, Tenn., aquatic club, will take charge of the women's program next September. He replaces interim coach Ray Woods. Under Reese, Auburn finished eighth in the nation in 1975 and 1976. Bergen was named American Swim Coaches Association coach of the year in 1977 and is on the coaching staffs of the 1978 U.S. World Games and World Cup competition.

Womens Tennis

DALLAS (AP) — Defending champion Sue Barker of England fell short in a second-set rally Monday night as second-seeded Evonne Goolagong took a 6-3, 7-6 first-round victory in a $100,000 women's professional tennis tournament. Miss Barker was unseeded and came into the match in the middle of a struggling indoor winter tour. Miss Goolagong made a mid-set comeback in the first scrap, fighting back from a service break that caused a 3-0 deficit. Miss Goolagong took last year off to have a baby. She won the Dallas stop in 1976. Two service breaks on unforced errors allowed Miss Goolagong to put Miss Barker away in the first set. A deceptive and penetrating forehand paved the way for Miss Barker's comeback in the second set. Miss Goolagong broke service after Miss Barker missed three straight forehands to force the set at 6-6. Miss Goolagong won the tiebreaker 5-3.

Eighth-seeded Rosemary Casals of Sausalito, Calif., came back from a 0-3 deficit to beat upset-minded Bunny Bruning of La Jolla, Calif., 6-3, 7-5. The tournament is sponsored by Virginia Slims.

Tomjanovich

HOUSTON (AP) — A 1.4 million damage suit has been filed by the Houston Rockets against the Los Angeles Lakers in connection with the injury of Rocket forward Rudy Tomjanovich. Tomjanovich, the Rockets captain and leader scorer at the time, suffered multiple facial fractures Dec. 9 when he was punched by Kermit Washington during National Basketball Association game. Tomjanovich was lost to the Rockets for the season. The U.S. district court suit, filed Monday, seeks $700,000 to cover what it called the team's losses and another $700,000 punitive and exemplary damages for the loss of Tomjanovich. Since Tomjanovich's injury, the Rockets have lost 27 of 41 games and dropped into the cellar of the NBA Central Division. Washington received a 60-day suspension and was fined $10,000 by NBA commissioner Lawrence O'Brien. Prior to the expiration of the suspension Washington was traded by the Lakers to the Boston Celtics. O'Brien had advised Houston Feb. 8 he would not take part in disposition of the dispute between the two teams. "I think we're asking for an amount of money that is extremely fair," said Rocket president and general manager Ray Patterson. The Rockets said in the suit that Washington's punch was "malicious and intentional assault and battery." The suit alleged the Laker franchise was responsible for the consequence of Washington's action, because Washington was acting as an employee of the Lakers when he slugged Tomjanovich. It said the Lakers knew Washington to possess violent tendencies and that he had a history of fighting with members.

Snyder Baseballers Remain Undefeated

SNYDER (Special)—A pair of home runs highlighted Snyder's 7-4 baseball victory over Odessa High Monday. The four-baggers came in the first and fifth innings when Snyder got all its runs. The win upped Snyder's record to 4-0, and Odessa fell to 0-1-1.

of the opposing team and his own teammates. It alleged the Lakers did not take proper measures to control Washington's actions on the court. Patterson said the $700,000 in monetary losses asked for in the suit would cover Tomjanovich's salary (believed to be near $200,000) as well as that of Alton Bradley, who signed a contract as Tomjanovich's replacement. Lawyers for California Pro Sports Inc., the corporation which operates the Lakers, have 30 days to answer the suit. Unless an out of court settlement is reached, the case is not expected to come to trial in U.S. District Judge Woodrow Seals' court for 18 to 24 months. Tomjanovich and his wife, Sophie, filed a damage suit against the Lakers Dec. 29 but did not specify the amount of damages sought. The suit, filed in state court, has been removed to U.S. district court. Tomjanovich underwent three hours of surgery at an Inglewood, Calif., hospital following the incident. His injuries were listed as fractures of the nose, jaw and skull, facial lacerations, brain concussion, loss of blood and leakage of spinal fluid from the brain cavity.

Rockets-Newlin

HOUSTON (UPI) — Houston Rockets guard Mike Newlin will miss two games with a lower back strain, a Rockets spokesman said Monday. Newlin returned to Houston Monday after suffering the injury at Washington Sunday afternoon and spending the night in a hospital. He will miss games at New York tonight and against Portland Wednesday.

TCU-TWC Split

FORT WORTH (UPI) — Gary Lejahn-azar and Chris Phillips hit home runs to lead Texas Wesleyan to a 7-4 victory over Texas Christian in the opener of a doubleheader Monday but the Horned Frogs won the second game 4-2 behind the five-hit pitching of Glenn Pierce. In the first game John Anke, 2-0, was the winning pitcher while Cameron Young, 1-1, took the loss. Pierce evened his record at 11 and David Whisonant, 0-1, was the loser in the second game.

PV Triumphs

PRAIRIE VIEW (AP) — Larry Hagan's 34 points and 15 rebounds led Prairie View A&M to an 85-82 victory over Wiley in a NAIA District 8 semifinal contest Monday night. Prairie View trailed at halftime 45-37. The District 8 final will be played Wednesday night when Prairie View travels to Wichita Falls to take on Midwestern State.

TCU Rips Tech

FORT WORTH (AP) — Jimbo Allen rode his strong service to a 6-7, 7-6, 6-2 victory over Felix Amaya Monday and paced Texas Christian to an 8-0 triumph over Texas Tech in a Southwest Conference tennis match. "Jimbo's match could have gone either way," Coach Tut Bartzan said. "He knew we needed the win, and he came back to get it for us." Allen and David Kelly took Harrison Bowes and Amaya 5-4 in a tiebreaker to record a 6-4, 7-6 doubles victory. The win gave TCU a 6-0 dual record, while Tech dropped to 1-3.

WBC Tumbles

WICHITA FALLS (AP) — Midwestern State battled from a 47-42 halftime deficit to defeat Wayland Baptist 103-100 in an NAIA District 8 semifinal contest at home Monday night. Midwestern will now host Prairie View A&M Wednesday night for the right to go to Kansas City and the national tournament.

Henry Crawford and Alfred Clark led Midwestern with 22 points each, while Donnie Seale poured in 30 for Wayland. Wayland Baptist closed out its season with a 15-17 record. Midwestern is now 20-12.

Ponies, LHS Set Outings

By TOM HALLIBURTON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
It seems very early in the season for a baseball coach to worry about his team's overaggressiveness but that was the raucous word LHS coach Vince Buffamonte used Monday. His team's overaggressive ways spelled a split during Saturday's doubleheader at Midland High. Maybe the Westerner can tone it down a little today in MacKenzie Park against Abilene High at 4 p.m. Across town in LCC's Chaparral Field, Coronado tests Midland Lee for the third time at 4 p.m. "We need to control ourselves a little. Our base running and our defense was a little too aggressive," Buffamonte said. "We would dive for balls which turned into doubles and triples and they should have been singles. I was happy about a lot of things, though." For one thing, the LHS coach was pleased his team smacked out 23 hits in the two games while pitchers Abel Cardenas and David Rush allowed only 11 walks to Midland's 11. Buffamonte said Rush looked better against Midland High but that Cardenas (2-0) received the starting nod for today's game against Abilene's Gary Green (0-1).

The Abilene pitcher was shelled in his other appearance last Thursday at Coronado. Mustang bats scored five times as Green departed after one-third of an inning. The winning pitcher in that game, Coronado's Gene Segrest, seeks his second win of the year against Midland Lee today. CHS coach John Dudley felt his team could have gained a split Saturday's doubleheader, which the Rebels won 7-6 and 11-1. "I felt like we could have won the first game," Dudley said. "We had runners on second and third in the top of the seventh and couldn't tie the ball game. Then we played a lot of new players in the second game and we committed a whole bunch of errors." Dudley may experiment with Richard Davis in place of Terry Spradling at shortstop today. Rick Powell and Dennis Pusser picked up the losses against the Rebels Saturday.

Monterey now must wait until Friday to open its season after losing three games to the weather last weekend. The MHS-Midland High game has been reset for March 15 in Midland while the doubleheader with Permian has been cancelled. MHS plays Lee in its first of four games in the Midland Tournament of Champions Friday at 12:30 p.m.

Herd Holds Tourney Lead

Hereford invaded Lubbock territory Monday and grabbed a 7-strake lead in the District 4-AAAA golf chase. Hereford fired a team 317 over the Meadowbrook Golf course with Coronado finishing second with 324. Monterey was third at 327, followed by Plainview 337, Plainview B-team 352, Lubbock High 362, Lubbock II-team 435, Monterey B-team 344, Coronado B-team 349, and Hereford B-team 359.

Cliff Baggett of Monterey was medalist with a 77, and James McDowell of Hereford and David Groom of Coronado turned in 78s. The tournament Monday replaced the one originally scheduled for last Friday. Snow, ice and cold conditions forced the postponement. The next district match will be held Friday at Plainview.

LCMS Nine Wins

Gary Linn powered a grand-slam home run in backing Tim Perrin's eight-pitching as Lubbock Christian High School outscored Coronado junior varsity 14-12 in a baseball game Monday. Perrin struck out seven en route to the victory. The losing pitcher was Mark Gibson. Greg Dement homered for the Coronado JV. In another JV contest, Monterey outlasted Lubbock High 14-5.

SPC Fems Win

LEVELLAND (Special)—South Plains women crushed Abilene Christian 9-0 in a tennis match Monday. ACU was not able to take a set off the SPC women. SPC is now 13-4 in dual matches and opens the spring Western JC Conference season at Midland College Wednesday.

Frank Lucchesi Only Wants '175 Pounds Of Justice'

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. — Twelve months and a thousand nightmares later, Frank Lucchesi finds it hard to forgive and forget. "It's not that I want a pound of flesh — I want 175 pounds of justice," the fatherly, mild-mannered ex-manager of the Texas Rangers says, recalling the beating he took from an outraged Lenny Randle a year ago. The 51-year-old descendant of Italian immigrants, a baseball man for half his lifetime, has lost his job as manager of the Rangers. Owner Brad Corbett has kept him on as a trouble shooter and man of all trades. He contends he still is plagued by injuries lingering from the attack. His family has suffered from worry. His two small children have been subjected to embarrassment at school. His professional future is clouded. The widely publicized incident occurred at a spring training game last March 28 while Lucchesi's Rangers were in Orlando, Fla., to play the Minnesota Twins. Lucchesi had named young Bump Wills, rookie son of speedster Maury Wills, to start at Randle's old position at second base. "There was nothing personal in it," Lucchesi explained. "I had conferred with my coaches. They were unanimous that Wills, because of his youth and speed, should be given a shot because of his facility in making double plays. Randle came up to me in the dugout and said he'd like to talk to me in private. The next thing I knew I woke up in the hospital." Randle was fined $10,000 and suspended for a month. Subsequently he was traded to the New York Mets where he proceeded to play outstanding baseball, express regret over his impetuous action and throw himself wholeheartedly into religious work, particularly among underprivileged black youngsters. Because of this seeming penitence, pressure has been exerted on Lucchesi to drop a civil suit now pending. "When I start wavering I think of all the agony I and my whole family have gone through," Lucchesi says. "I can't forget the story that appeared in the paper the day after the attack quoting Randle as saying, 'I slept peacefully last night for the first time in weeks,' as if he was glad he did it. "The money means nothing to me. It's the integrity of baseball that's on trial." Lucchesi points to a scar near his right temple, visible through his shock of curly, graying hair. Three bones were broken in his right cheek. He had to undergo facial plastic surgery. He suffered two broken ribs. "My teeth looked like a hand grenade had exploded in my mouth," he said. "It was a long time before I could sleep with the right side of my face on the pillow. But the worst thing was what happened to my two kids — my boy, 13, and girl, 11. They were teased by other kids at school who taunted, 'Ya, ya, ya, your daddy got beat up, didn't he?'" But the greatest hurt, the little skipper said, was the reflection on his ability as a manager. "They said I became withdrawn — that I was too soft," he said. "Listen, I managed 19 years in the minors — from Class D through Triple A — before I got my first major league job with the Phillies in 1970. A good record, too. "I haven't changed. I am not a whip-cracking sort of guy. I always operated one-on-one, tried to be understanding, keep the team loose the way Tom Lasorda does at L.A. "I've lost my appetite for managing. I want to coach. That's where I belong, on the field. But I don't mind being isolated from all this violence. "Look at TV. In sports, the convicts are running the prison."

Toronto Inks Metcalf

TORONTO (AP) — Terry Metcalf, leaving behind an unhappy situation with the National Football League's St. Louis Cardinals, doesn't think he's jumping out of the frying pan and into the fire by joining the Canadian Football League's Toronto Argonauts. The talented, all-purpose running back joining the Argos Monday by signing a multi-year contract reportedly worth $100,000 a year in basic salary plus incentive bonuses that could earn him another $50,000. Metcalf, 26, left the Cardinals after playing out his option last season, claiming he was turned off by the attitude of the St. Louis owners and fans. Joining the Argos, however, he comes under intense pressure from the team owners and fans as well. The Argos haven't won the Grey Cup championship since 1952 and fans are becoming impatient with the team's constant attempts to win by hiring high-priced stars.

Many such attempts have ended with disillusionment on both sides, as in the case of U.S. college star Anthony Davis, who came here two years ago then left after one poor season. The Argos and the fans claimed Davis wasn't earning his big salary while Davis departed claiming the Argos were responsible for many of his problems. When asked Monday if he was aware of the history of stars failing in Toronto, Metcalf said: "I'm a team man. I'm a quiet guy. Big headiness doesn't get you anything. It's not my style." "What about the possibility that other Hub Boxers Seek Crowns is on TV every Saturday or Sunday." The Houston-Notre Dame game will be televised over much of the country although parts of the network will receive the Duke-Rhode Island game from Charlotte, N.C., and other sections will get the Pennsylvania-St. Bonaventure game in Philadelphia. "Once you get in the playoffs, anybody you get is going to be good," Lewis said. "Say we'd gotten Louisville or DePaul. They're good teams." "At least we're playing at Oral Roberts in the first round. And Oral Roberts isn't Catholic." Raiders Honored For the second time in three years, Texas Tech has been awarded the Southwest Conference's sportsmanship trophy. The award was announced at halftime of Saturday night's SWC basketball tournament championship game. The award was for the previous year. Tech also won the annual award two years ago.

FORT WORTH (Special) — Five Hub City area boxers begin their quest for state golden gloves titles tonight in the state AAU boxing tournament at Will Rogers Coliseum. Domingo Amador and Raymond Amalia of the Lubbock Warriors, David Williams of the Lubbock Dragons, Matt Adams of Brownfield and Dennis Cravey of Plainview advanced from the Lubbock region last month. The matches continue through Saturday night with winners advancing to the national AAU tourney, March 21-25 in Albuquerque. A group of 16 fighters will compete in each weight division.

Argo players will resent yet another star player coming in who earns far more than they do? Metcalf said he didn't expect that winning the other players' confidence would be a major problem. His biggest problem, he said, would be learning the CFL rules. Despite his confidence in his ability to avoid the pitfalls that have trapped other former Argos stars, Metcalf faces some incentive bonuses that could earn him another $50,000. "Terry Metcalf can do it all," proclaimed Argos General Manager Dick Shatto when he introduced the California State graduate at Monday's news conference. "He can run the football. He can catch it. Metcalf capably handles both kickoff and punt returns. "He is an impressive young man who is motivated by his own personal pride in wanting to excel. "Landing Metcalf is certainly another major coup. This coming season our fans,

Spinks Mulls Fight Offer

NEW YORK (AP) — World heavyweight boxing champion Leon Spinks is having $14 million second thoughts about fighting Ken Norton. Spinks, who disclosed Monday that a rib injury may prevent him from fighting Norton in May, is mulling over an offer from the newly created African republic of Bophutatswana to fight Muhammad Ali there, the New York Daily News reported in its editions today. Bophutatswana is offering Bob Arum of Top Rank $6.5 million just to bring an Ali-Spinks fight to the country, which is located in the Cape Province of South Africa and derives its wealth from cattle and platinum. The News reported. Arum met with Ali's lawyer, Charles Lomax, and a representative from Bophutatswana in his office on Monday. If the deal is made, Arum would retain all commercial and closed circuit television rights and foreign rights that would bring the total value of the fight to $14 million. Each fighter would receive $5 million for the fight, which would be held in Bophutatswana's capital of Mmabatho, the News said. Spinks supposedly would receive $1.5 million for a fight with Norton in Las Vegas.

An Ali-Spinks fight in Bophutatswana faces one unique difficulty. The republic, headed by Prime Minister Dr. Lucas Mangope, is not recognized by the United States or the United Nations. If this proves a difficulty, then the republic's negotiators said the fight could be fought in neighboring Botswana, which does have world sanction. Spinks may incur the wrath of the World Boxing Council if he decides to accept a fight with Ali in Bophutatswana. The WBC has been pushing the Spinks-Norton encounter and they could revoke the champion's crown should he withdraw to fight Ali. Arum, however, thinks the WBC demanded Norton get a shot at the winner of the Ali-Spinks fight because fight promoter Don King, Norton and Jimmy Young, chipped in a total of $15,000 of the Young-Norton fight to the WBC. The News reported. The money was then used by the WBC for air fare for their delegates to their annual conference in Madrid.

FOOTBALL
WASHINGTON — The National Football League Players Association said it has decided to organize sports agents and those who represent players in numerous professional sports. Ed Garvey, the football players' association's executive director, said the new association will establish a code of ethics for agents and lawyers, including requirements that fees, services and clients be fully disclosed.
NEW YORK — World heavyweight champion Len Spinks has a rib injury which could affect his fighting in the near future. It was announced, Spinks allegedly injured his rib cartilage before he upset Muhammad Ali on Feb. 15. Milton Chwasky, attorney for Spinks, said Monday that "before the fight I didn't know about a rib injury because I wasn't involved in training. After the fight he had a rib injury." It was the first disclosure of the injury to the new champion, who was photographed dancing at a New York discotheque Feb. 23 with no apparent signs of an injury.
SKING
WATERVILLE VALLEY, N.H. — Andreas Wenger of Liechtenstein battled fierce winds to win the giant slalom and move into third place in the combined World Cup standings. Hardaway As MVP
Billy Don Hardaway, recently named Player of the Year for Lubbock high schools, reaped yet another honor Monday by being selected the outstanding cager of District 3-AAA.
The 6-6 Dunbar High School senior, averaged 27.5 points in loop play, for the District champion Panthers. During Hardaway's varsity stint, the Panthers won the loop crown three times. It is also the third time Hardaway has landed a spot on the All-District team.
Joe McWilliams, who guided the Panthers to a regional tourney berth with a respectable 24-5 record, was honored by his peers as Coach of the Year.
Also named to the elite squad from Dunbar were Greg Whitfield, a 6-2 senior who averaged 20.1 points and Wayne Williams, one of two junior honored. Williams, a 5-8 guard, averaged 12.5 points.
Whitfield, like Hardaway, was a unanimous choice.
Honored from loop runner-up Estacado were 6-2 Freddy Ivory (10.0), 6-0 Alvin Harris (13.0) and 6-3 Willie Powell (14.0). The three, along with honorable mention selection Mike Chatham, last year's sophomore of the year, helped lead the Matadors to their finest season ever.
Other unanimous choices were 5-8 Arnold Martinez of Lamesa (18.0), 6-5 Randy Courtney of Snyder (20.0), 6-0 Doug Martin of Lake View (13.6) and 6-2 Kerry Crmiff of Brownfield (21.3). All are seniors.
Also selection to the list, but not unanimously, were 6-2 Paul Layfill of Sweetwater (16.0), and 6-2 Mark Duncan of Sweetwater (10.0). Duncan was the other junior on the team.
Named the the honorable mention were Richard Crayton and Lucius Jeffrey of Snyder, Everett Todd of Sweetwater and Josh Robinson and Rubin Steinborn of Lamesa.
The sacrifices in order to be successful."
The Tigerettes have only five seniors on the 14-player roster, and only two of those—Lynn Webb and Roxanne McDonald—start.
So, judging by that, Slaton will have plenty of firepower next year when it seeks its eighth straight loop title.
However, Miss Wilson is concerned about Flugerville's size: 6-2 and 5-10 posts and 5-5 out front at forwards and 5-7, 5-7, 5-6 on the guard end.
"Out tallest player is 5-9 1/2 (Miss Webb), so it's going to be extremely difficult for us to match up with them," Slaton's other starting forwards are 5-7 Cynthia Robinson and 5-6 Chris Kennedy.
That trio combined for all 63 points against Spearman and 63 more against Dimmitt. Miss Webb had games of 26 and 37, Miss Robinson 25 and 18 and Miss Kennedy 12 and 8.
The Tigerettes played seven girls against Spearman and nine against Dimmitt. "We don't have a lot of height on the guard end, but we have a lot of depth there," Miss Wilson admitted. The Tigerettes starters on that end are the 5-5 Miss McDonald, 5-7 junior Debbie Bednarz, and 5-7 junior Janee Jensen. The top subs are 5-5 soph Esoleta Whaley and 5-4 senior Sherrie Eakin.
On the forward end, 5-6 junior Linda Lewis averaged 10 points a game during the regular season. Other than that, the prospects would be 5-6 senior Debbie Heinrich, 5-4 sophomore Jill Basinger and Miss Bednarz, who can switch over from the guard end.
"Success Means Security for Others"
Last year, Richard L. Williams attained such an outstanding record of providing personal and business life insurance protection to Lubbock area residents that he's earned membership in THE EQUITABLE'S NATIONAL COUNCIL and THE EQUITABLE'S PRESTIGIOUS HALL OF FAME.
Through Richard Williams efforts, hundreds of people in this community have been helped to meet such diverse needs as funds for emergencies, education, retirement and mortgage repayment. He has also helped ensure business stability with a wide range of executive plans and group coverages.
We're proud of Richard Williams for his professionalism and for his outstanding sales and service record. Why not give him a call at 744-2213 or stop by to see him at 17 Briercrest Office Park.

ARE YOU LOSING HUNDREDS OF DOLLARS EACH MONTH?
If you are renting or leasing, each month's rent check is money down the drain. You receive absolutely no return on your money. With home ownership you not only receive the privacy and the amenities that come with owning your own home, but with each month you are building up an equity in your home. Your property is appreciating in value and you receive a valuable tax deduction, which in itself can save you hundreds of dollars each year.
Home ownership is not only one of today's greatest means to guard yourself against inflation, but it is also an investment with potentially high return capabilities.
So if you would like to see your money working for you instead of your landlord, call or come by and let us show you where you are now and where you could be with our NEW COMPUTER ANALYSIS.

Chaps Capture Opening Slugfest With Miners

EL PASO (Special)—Lubbock Christian hit UTEP with a barrage of homers—including four in a row—but UTEP hit LCC's pitcher and in the process might have salvaged half of Monday's rain-soaked doubleheader.
With the home runs popping off the bats at a rapid rate, LCC bombed the Miners 15-13 in ten innings in the opener but UTEP recovered and did some bombing of its own in a 12-4, second-game verdict.
The Chaparrals came up with 5 runs in the top of the tenth to win the opener. Kenny Toney led off with a single, Richard Bowles and Clark Langdon followed with singles, the latter scoring Tony. Bobby Doe doubled in Bowles and Langdon, before Tommy Inman unloaded his second homer of the game.
UTEP countered with 3 runs in the bottom of the tenth but fell short.
The home-run barrage came in the third, when Inman led off with a shot to right field, followed by left-center field blasts by Tom Leslie and Mark Lisle.
Then Glen Wilken lined to right field, where the outfielder tried for a diving catch. The effort missed, and the ball rolled to the fence, Wilken scoring an inside-the-parker.
In that first game, Dick Battle, pinch hitting, was popped on the elbow by the UTEP pitcher, causing a deep bruise. Battle was to have been the pitcher in the second game, but coach Larry Hays had to go with relievers in that game, and UTEP went to work on them for 17 hits and the win.
LCC got all its runs in the seventh inning, as Toney singled, Langdon walked, and Doe doubled in Toney. Langdon scored on Bowles' sacrifice fly, and Darus Copley scored on a double steal.
The two teams played again today with the doubleheader starting at noon CST. Monday's games were bothered by rain and cold, with the first tilt delayed three times by rain.

Austin Junket Old Hat For Slaton Coach

SLATON (Special) — Cathy Wilson made this trip before and that could be a big aid in Slaton's quest of a second state championship.
The perennial 5-AA champs have made this trek only once before, that being in 1974, but brought back the state championship that year.
Miss Wilson, who learned her trade at Wayland Baptist College, is making her third straight venture to the Capitol City and is hoping her team can win a second state title.
Back in 1976 Miss Wilson coached Nazareth into the state meet for the first time in history, but it finished a 35-4 year by losing to eventual state champion Neches in the semifinals.
Last year the Swiftettes captured the state championship to climax a 36-4 campaign.
Slaton has posted a 32-5 mark this year and will face Flugerville (35-2) at 3:30 p.m. Thursday in the opening round of the state tournament.
The other first-round game pits Granberry (34-4) against Palacios (20-9) at 2 p.m. Thursday, with the title game set for 10 a.m. Saturday in the Super Drum.
Despite the fact Slaton knocked off defending state champion Spearman in the first round of regional play, Miss Wilson said she didn't feel her squad should be the favorite. "When you get to state, everyone is tough and I doubt that you can say one team is favored."
Miss Wilson did say she felt her squad gave a "super effort" in whipping Spearman 63-49 and Dimmitt 66-51 in Lubbock last weekend.
"We've come on strong as a team the last month. There hasn't been one individual, it's just been a team effort. When you get into the playoffs you start getting a little more intense and you know what you have to do to win."
"The girls have been very mature about their wins and I don't think they'll be hyper active or jittery down in Austin."
"This has been a strange year. We've had a lot of adjustments to make, both on my part and the kids' part. After all things are said and done, we just did what we had to do to win and to get long together."
"Naturally, there's a difference from Class B ball to AA ball. But we only have 25 girls out from sophomores on up. That's not a lot, but those who are out are interested in playing and in making

Elite Squad Named In 8-B

WHITEFACE (Special) — Smyer dominated the 8-B girls All-District team with three performers.
District champ Whiteface, Wilson, Ropesville and New Home each had two selections, with New Home suppling the only sister act.
The sisters are senior Mary Edna Hiracheta, a senior guard, and D.J. Hiracheta, a sophomore forward.
Other forwards are Sherry Means (Ropes Jr.), Cindy Burleson (Smyer Sr.), Ginger deden (Whiteface Sr.), Mitzi Smith (Meadow Sr.) and Tracy Lee (Wilson Sr.).
Other guards are Cheryl Fowler (Ropes Jr.), Helen Chambers (Whiteface Sr.), Sheri Sloan (Wilson Sr.), Gayle EYerhart (Sundown Sr.), Jana Robinson (Smyer Sr.) and Beverly McNeese (Smyer Sr.).

Tech Soccer Teers Split At Tourney
Texas Tech's soccer team split a pair of games in the Southwest Conference Tournament at Houston last weekend, losing 1-0 to Houston and nipping Rice 4-3.
La Latome's early goal was all Houston needed to hand the Raiders a season-opening loss.
However, Tech bounced back against Rice as A. Shah Nandar scored all of the Raider goals, with assists by Tony DeChellis, Gene Barnes and Larry Thompson. The Techsans never trailed against the
