Syrian gunners in Lebanon claimed to have hit one Israeli plane.

Across Lebanon, reports of casualties among Palestinian and Lebanese refugees mounted toward 50 and there were indications of many more dead and wounded.

Israel said the aim of the assault was to clear a guerrilla-free strip along its northern frontier and deter repetitions of the terrorist raid last weekend in which 33 Israelis died. It was believed to be the biggest Israeli attack ever, and the Palestinians said 25,000 Israeli soldiers were in-

The Palestinians denied they had lost some of the ground witnesses claimed they had, and said fighting continued in the border areas 18 hours after it began at 12:30 a.m. local time (4:30 p.m. Tuesday CST.)

The Jews fell on our heads from the sky and spurted arrows of redhot fire right into our home," a 17-year-old refugee girl, Suad Rajeh, said as she lay bleeding in a Palestinian hospital at Beirut after an air raid. "They stayed less than two minutes, disappeared briefly then came back and hit again.

In three separate raids, a force of at least six warplanes hit Damur, 10 miles south of Beirut, and the Sabra, Ozai and Bourj Barajneh camps on the edge of Beirut, Lebanese air controllers and witnesses said.

Numerous sources said civilian centers were hit. Dr. Fathi Arafat, elder brother of Palestinian terrorist leader Yasser Arafat, said rockets hit a hospital in Damur, a town crammed with 10,000 refugees.

Damur was the base for the PLO terrorists who made the bloody raid on Israel last weekend, two surviving members of the band told Israeli officials.

Area To Face Dusty Spring

stinging, choking, gritty dust storms, agricultural engineer Billy Fryrear bears bad news: West Texas is in for its dustiest days in 25 years.

The news was so bad, in fact, that Fryrear decided not to announce his findings this year after he arrived at his prediction for the number of days of blow-

"It was just too bad," said Fryrear, who had always announced his past predictions. "If somebody came by and asked me, I'd tell them, but I didn't think Big Spring would be too happy about this sort of publicity.

"It's going to be a bad year. During 1977, Fryrear estimated there would be 27 days of blowing dust. There

This year's gritty prediction?

"Eighty-four days of blowing dust," Fryrear said quietly.
But Fryrear added cheerfully that unseasonably cold temperatures, rain and mild winds this winter might shave 10-15 days off that grim prediction.

Fryrear, a soil erosion expert and an experimental team leader at the U.S. Department of Agriculture's field station in this West Texas city, said he developed a new forecasting technique to make his predictions.

He uses a formula that considers evaporation, precipitation and average daily wind movement for the months of September through December of the preceding year. The dust season arrives with warm weather the following spring.

Fyrear said he hopes this year's dust storms aren't as bad as last year's vigorial to the preceding that the proceding the proceding spring is the preceding that the proceding that the cious blasts. "There were sandstorms in the latter part of February and the early part of March that were ranked a seven or eight (on a scale of severity where 10 is the worst). We haven't seen any that bad in a number of years," he said. There were 58 days of blowing dust in 1953, the worst year since the field station began keeping records.

Fryrear believes farmers can take measures to control and reduce their dust storm losses if they understand the climatic factors responsible for wind erosion and can forecast severe dust seasons.

Most of the blowing dust comes from the Texas-New Mexico border. And, of course, almost all Texans know where the dust goes - into their hair, eyes, ears, throats, cars and houses.

West Texas dust has been found in soil samples from all of the eastern states and in Europe, Fryrear said.

ISRAEL RETALIATES - This map shows where Israeli troops and armored vehicles smashed across the border into southern Lebanon Tuesday night, while another force made a landing on the coast. Air strikes against guerrilla camps also were reported in the Beirut region. The attacks were in retaliation for an Arab terrorist raid last weekend which killed 33 Israelis. (AP Laserphoto Map) ject, has received "several inquiries" Hubcap Thefts Costly To City Motorists

By PAT CARLSON Avalanche-Journal Staff

The Hub City is living up to its name.

Hubcaps, and their shiny counterparts, are drawing Lubbock thieves like magnets, and automobile owners are smarting at the loss of almost $100,000 worth of their property just in the past six months. And it's a tiresome task for police also, who are having little luck quelling the hottest craze since the CB radio rip-offs. Most popular these days are hubcaps, wheel covers and mags, all of which are easily procured by anyone on the street. On some days, police receive dozens of reports of the stolen goods, whose owners often complain of losses as great as $700 for a single set.

As a general rule, a hubcap thief here can count on a return of about 10 percent on a good set. If, for example, a $500 set of wheel covers is stolen, the thief usually can get $50, and the goods will be resold for about $200.

"What's real depressing is to catch him (the thief) and not be able to arrest him," said Det. Sgt. Gary Satterfield of the Lubbock Police Department. "We had one case the other day where we caught the guy with the hubcaps wrapped up in a cause the owners couldn't identify the It is the lack of identification, according to police, which stymies their attempts to reduce themounting problem. "We have to be able to prove the goods are stolen, and a ot of times we've known they have been, but without some sort of identifying mark, we don't have enough to make an arrest or release the property if it's recovered," Satterfield ex-

Detectives suggest that all automobile owners make some sort of mark on the hubcaps or wheel covers, and stress that even a scratch will be enough to make the case if the property is recovered.

Many police liken the past few months to the 1950's, which provided the last peak period for such thefts. But 20 years ago, moons, spinners and flippers were worth $25, and a really good set would bring maybe $50.

Inflation, of course, is responsible for the present problem, but so is supply and demand. Drivers are wanting and using more expensive covers on their wheels, and they are paying for their priorities, often more than once.

It does not take a great deal of intelligence or expertise to steal a set of hubcaps, nor does there need to be more than a few opportune moments, even in broad daylight.

Most such thefts occur on Lubbock streets during the daytime in public, open spots, and a recent rash was report ed in the parking lot of a large industrial complex on N. University Avenu denied a similar pre-trial motion.

In the statement read to the jury by Asst. Dist. Atty. Phil Gamble, Ware outlined the night in October in which he and Atkinson joined several other per-sons for a night of drinking at bars.

Ware's statement said that after he and Atkinson drank two half-pints of whiskey they joined the others in a car. Atkinson, who was driving, drove up an embank-ment that dead-ended, Ware said. Changes Noted In Spending

WASHINGTON (AP) - Americans are spending a smaller part of their paychecks for food and clothing but a bigger piece for housing and transportation, the government says.

As wages and prices have climbed substantially since 1960, the average worker substantially has changed the way he divides up his earnings, a Labor Department report shows.

The department discovered the changed spending habits while constructing a new Consumer Price Index, which went into use last month. The index is designed to measure changes in the prices Americans pay for a wide range of goods.

When the old price index was first used in 1960, the average hourly worker spent 26 percent of his income in groceries and restaurants. In 1977, he spent only 20 percent. Nine percent went for clothing in 1960, but just 6 percent was spent for the same purpose last year.

Housing consumed about 35 percent of take-home pay in 1960 while taking up about 41 percent last year. Higher prices for houses, financing, rent, fuel and repairs account for most of the increase.

Transportation costs - gasoline, cars and bus rides - rose from 13 percent to 20 percent of spendable income during the 17-year period.

The average worker's buying power now is about 10 percent above the 1960 level. That's 4 percent below 1972 when spendable income was 14 percent greater

A department economist explained that workers tend to spend a smaller percentage of their disposable income on food and clothing as income increases.

"Historically, as incomes go up, the proportion spent on basic necessities, such as food, has gone down. You can only eat so much food," said Ken Dalton who heads the Consumer Price Index di-spending more for housing and transportation because the cost of those items has grown more rapidly than the cost of food and clothing.

Meanwhile, trips to the doctor and hospital took less of total income, falling from about 7 percent to 4 percent.

But despite higher earning power, workers spent about the same on entertainment, 4 percent, and slightly less on tobacco and personal care items.

By segregating urban consumers from the total population, the department found city dwellers spend 18 percent of each dollar earned for food and beverages, 44 percent for housing, 6 percent for clothing, 18 percent for transportation, 5 percent for medical care, 4 percent for entertainment, and 5 percent for other purposes.

Women Plead Guilty To Drug Smuggling

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) - Florence May Bessier, 61, and Vera Todd Hayes, 59, both of La Pine, Ore., pleaded guilty today to smuggling 2.2 tons of Indian hashish valued at $21 million into Aus-

The court did not set a date for sentenc-

The women admitted smuggling the hashish under the floorboards of a camper they transported aboard a passenger trailed the two through eastern Australia after narcotics agents found the hashish in 4,096 packets in the camper, and arrested the pair when Miss Bessier tried to flee Australia

Inspector Stephen Polden said police are searching for two men who bought the camper in Germany. They were identified as Verne Todd, a nephew of Miss Hayes, and Phillip Shine. Neither man's hometown was given.

A drawing for $20 will be held at the close of the breakfast. Only Chamber of Commerce members are eligible for the drawing and must be present at the breakfast

Oklahoma Lawmen Hold Massive Drug Arrest

HUGO, Okla. (UPI) — Nearly 40 car-loads of law enforcement officers spread over southeastern Oklahoma today in a roundup of suspects in an alleged multi-state narcotics smuggling operation.

Federal, state and county officers gathered at the National Guard Armory in Hugo at about 3:30 a.m. and rolled out to serve arrest warrants shortly after 5 a.m.

The first suspects were returned two hours later to the armory, where they were to be arraigned before a U.S. magistrate later in the day.

The suspects were named in a single indictment returned by a federal grand jury in Muskogee.

'These arrests are the result of a lengthy drug investigation in Southeast Oklahoma headed up by the Oklahoma Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs in cooperation with other agencies, as well as agents from the Texas and Southwestern Cattlemen's Association, Texas Department of Public Safety and other law enforcement personnel in Texas," said U.S. Attorney Julian Fite.

Names of the defendants were not immediately released. One suspect brought into the armory was Anthony Pond, 34, of Idabel, who was arrested in December on a state charge of delivering marijuana. Subpoenas issued by the grand jury included those for all the records from the manager of the McAllen municipal airport relating to fuel service equipment for another Idabel man's airplane. There also were subpoenas for all guest records from two Edinburg motels from Jan. 1 to Dec. 31, 1977.

Choctaw County Sheriff Jumes Buch anan, a key figure in the December state arrest, said the farthest trip from the armory today was about 80 miles, or within four miles of the Arkansas border.

Although Fite declined to specify the number of suspects named in the warrants, he said 30 to 50 was "in the ball-

No Time To 'Give Up'

JUDGING FROM their public comments, some of the City Council candidates would be willing to give up a basic human right -that of self-determination-without a

The subject of electing Council members by wards or districts, instead of by citywide vote, came up at a political rally Sunday.

Several of the candidates said, in effect, that Lubbock may as well go to the ward system because the federal courts are going to order us to do so whether we like it or

"It seems the City should take the voluntary step instead of spending so much money fighting a case precedent shows it will lose," Maria Mercado opined.

SHE WAS REFERRING to a lawsuit, now pending in federal district court here, seeking to force the ward system down Lubbock's throat.

A ruling in the case has been postponed pending Supreme Court review of a somewhat similar case out of Dallas. Even an unfavorable verdict in the Dallas suit, however, would not automatically throw out the Lubbock at-large system because the plan here is a "pure" one and that in Dallas is practiced in Lubbock.

In any event, it is by no means a foregone conclusion that the federal courts will rule it is unconstitutional for every voter to have an equal voice in selecting each member of a city council.

MORE AT ISSUE at the moment is the disturbing attitude on the part of several of the candidates to give in on that point without a fight.

Mayoral candidate Robert Kizer said that a federally mandated change is inevitable and another, James Marshall, opted for an onagain, off-again ward system.

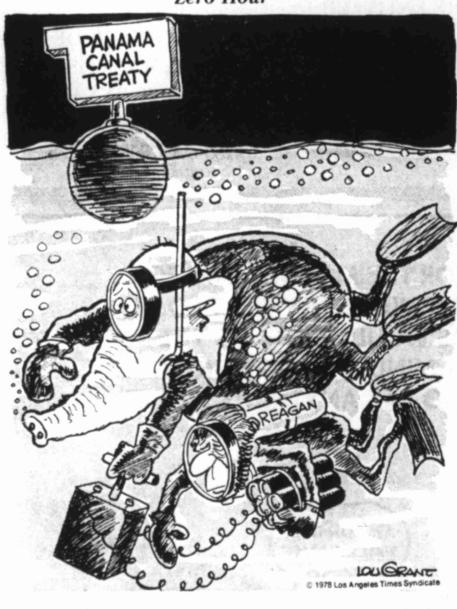

Council candidate Mike Stevens predicted the federal government will "have the city split up like a pie."

Councilman Alan Henry was the only one to say "we must still fight" for the right of self-determination although two other candidates, Bud Aderton and Glad Norman, said they agree at-large elections are better for the people.

That is just the point: The people, not the courts, should have the right to decide whether they want at-large representation or ward system representation.

And no one who aspires to represent the people should be willing to give up that right of political self-determination without a

-Could signal a five-fold increase in canal tolls. With 70 percent of the tonnage bound from or to U.S. ports, we're the ones who'll pay.

-Could cost the U.S. its only military jet airport south of the border. -Could force ships to go 9,000 miles out of their way between New York and San Francisco if the canal is closed either because of inept Panamanian administration or political or military upheaval in the future.

Kay recently toured the Canal Zone and received briefings similar to those U.S. senators have been given.

But, unlike Kay, some of the senators-including Lloyd Bentsen of Texas-came away determined to give up effective control over the U.S.built and owned waterway.

If they're wrong and ratify the treaties anyway, it'll be a mistake of unprecedented proportions in our history.

WASHINGTON-If the navigation settings of their aircraft had been just a little off-course, the leaders of Egypt, Israel and the Palestine Liberation Organization might have been better off.

I contend that Sadat and Begin, who went to Washington, and Arafat who pleaded before the United Nations, would have learned more about what concerns them most had they let down at Augusta, capital of Maine

They would have found there a rousing threemember fight that is a microcosm of the Mideast squabble, and of treaty-and-territorial squabbles back through history.

The Indian tribes of Passamaquoddy and Penobscot are illogically allied with the Federal government, through the Interior and Justice Departments, against Maine which is trying to protect up to 12 million acres of disputed lands.

THIS OUGHT TO sound sort of familiar to Sadat, Begin and Arafat. The disagreements go back about 300 years, not 5000 as is the case in the Mideast, but the ideas involved are as old as the populated world. If Sadat, Begin and Arafat can't learn something by a study of Maine that will shed light of universality on their own problems, it'll be only because they don't want to learn. None are so blind as those who refuse to see. International treaties are the fruit of military with the chiefs and tried to agree on the law. But as late as 1976, and continuing, the landdispute in Maine was in the forefront of the news, and the pleas of the contending attorneys for the Indians, the federal government and the State kept demanding attention.

The case, of course, is far from settled, but I think it pertinent to all parts of the world that the American system presents a model which has very little fault in it

But so far as Sadat, Begin and Arafat are concerned onlookers, I would hope they could learn in Maine that we cannot remake history. What's done, just and unjust, to Arabs, Jews and 'Palestinians," is done.

In no way, as the Maine attorney general says, can the present citizens of Maine be held responsible for events that took place in their state and country 200 years ago. I did not know till recently that there is no statute of limitations that applies to the American Indian.

Herewith a slightly longer, even stranger story: A decade ago, the makers of Schwinn bicycles told the local stores carrying the bikes that they could purchase the products only if they agreed to sell in a limited territory and not to outside "bootleg" dealers.

The Justice Department's antitrust division attacked this as a restraint of trade and won. The Supreme Court ruled that when you buy something, it's yours and you can sell it to anybody else you want to. If somebody tries to stop you, it's illegal.

IN THE CASE involving Continental TV, the present Burger Court in a decision written by WASHINGTON (AP) - If President Carter is willing to mix guns and politics in an election year, the administration may soon propose legislation banning "Saturday night specials" and tightening restrictions on most other handguns.

By MARGARET GENTRY

Administration officials say the draft bill has been ready for weeks, but Carter has not yet decided whether to send it to Congress this spring or shelve it until after the congressional elections in the fall.

If Carter moves ahead with the bill this year, the always touchy gun control issue could become more prominent in scores of Senate and House campaigns. That's a prospect some members of Congress would prefer to avoid.

"Congress has always been sensitive about taking up anything dealing with firearms in an election year," remarked Ronald Gainer, a Justice Department official who played a major role in drafting

He and other administration officials said there's no doubt that Carter will seek the legislation. They noted that Carter promised it during his campaign.

These are the key features of the ad-

-The production and sale of the small, easily concealed handguns known as Saturday night specials would be outlawed. Persons who already own them could keep them, but could not sell them, give them away or even will them to their heirs after their deaths.

-To purchase a handgun, an individual would have to swear that he had never been convicted of a felony or committed to a mental institution. This already is the law, but the new bill would require dealers to submit customers' applications for police and FBI checks, and customers would have to wait a maximum of 21 days for those checks to be completed.

-If an individual applied to buy a gun in a city other than his home, the dealer would have to contact the customer's hometown officials to determine if the customer complied with local gun control

-A license to deal in handguns would cost at least $500 a year, instead of the present $10

-Dealers would have to report the serial numbers of all guns they bought and sold to the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, the agency responsible for enforcing federal gun laws. But dealers would not report the names of buyers and sellers, and the bureau would have no national register of gun owners.

Current law requires dealers to have federal licenses, and requires customers to swear they have no record of felony convictions or mental illness, but there is no waiting period and no check on the truth of the customer's assertions.

Many cities have much tougher laws of their own, but gun control advocates say it's all too easy to evade those laws by buying guns in nearby cities with weaker

The arguments from both sides are familiar. Gun control advocates say thousands of deaths would be prevented if handguns were not so readily available to robbers, to people who quarrel with their relatives, and to children who discover the enticing toy hidden among Daddy's

They say the federal government has no right to tell citizens what kind of weapons they may keep for their own protection and for sport.

"Gun control is neither a conservativeliberal fight nor a Democrat-Republican fight. It's an urban-rural fight," said Neil Knox, an Arizonan transplanted to Washington as the NRA's chief lobbyist. "People in the cities see only one use of guns, and that's a bad use."

Michael Beard, executive directior of the National Coalition to Ban Handguns, agrees that the debate is "basically urban vs. rural.'

Yet, he said, "we are finding a surprising amount of support from riflemen and hunters in the Northwest who say these handguns are giving hunters a bad

Almost everyone involved in the debate hook," he said. agrees that Congress would not complete action on the bill this year even if Carter sends it up immediately.

Despite that assessment, Justice Department officials and gun control advocates want Carter to move quickly.

"The argument is that you get the bill up there and have hearings on it, even if you don't expect to pass it this year or have people stand up and vote on it," said Patricia Wald, assistant attorney general in charge of the department's relations with Congress. "Then it could be reintroduced next year and, with the hearings out of the way, could move to a quick vote.

Nelson Shields, chairman of the National Council to Control Handguns, sees another reason for getting the bill before Congress this year.

'If you don't have a specific bill, it's tougher to force congressmen to take a position on an issue. If there's no bill, it's awfully easy for them to get off the

Like Knox and his staff at the NRA, the gun control lobbyists are scanning maps of congressional districts to identify areas where their foes in the House and Senate might be defeated.

The NRA, with its political action arm, can campaign for or against congressional candidates. Because of their tax status, the Beard and Shields groups cannot campaign but they can publicize candidates' voting records and positions.

The strategists on both sides say they're not yet ready to identify which members of Congress might be vulnerable to a campaign challenge on the gun control issue.

Both sides express confidence about the ultimate chances of congressional approval of the administration's bill. 'Jimmy Carter is going to be blown right out of the water with this bill,"

"The bill has a fighting chance in a non-election year," said Mrs. Wald. From the first days of the drafting process, Gainer said, "the idea was to come up with a bill that could get passed and still do some good."

That motive led department brain-stormers to some novel approaches. "What we're trying to crack down on are the guns that can be concealed. So we thought about a requirement that every handgun be equipped with a crossbar of several inches so it couldn't be put in a pocket. Then we talked about having all handguns painted Dayglo orange, so even if you had it in your pocket, you would feel that everyone could see it," Gainer recounted.

All of that was in jest, of course. The emotions of the gun control issue seem not to have faded in the decades of debate. But Beard said the passion lies on the side of gun control opponents. "We simply don't have the fanatics on Knox argues that gun owners who oppose more government regulation are hardly fanatics, but simply people who enjoy shooting skeet or hunting mountain lions, deer and rabbits and may sometimes choose handguns to do it.

Guns mean pleasure and a sense of personal safety for many people, he said. Including Mrs. Knox. "She has a Smith & Wesson Bodyguard, a small .38. I gave it to her back in 1958, for Mother's Day." Knox confided

Newspaper Urges Consumers To Conserve Energy

By United Press International

Following is a sample of what the nation's newspapers have been saying this

Barre-Montpelier (Vt.) Times—Argus: Consumers are victims of economic exploitation by forces beyond their control in many cases, but on the energy issue they are still one of their own worst enemies

It is less the case in poorer smaller states like Vermont, where at least some degree of energy conservation has caught on and held firm. We also suspect that on balance Vermonters are more sensible and resourceful than most. But Vermont can never hope to be solely self-reliant no matter what it does and it cannot turn a blind eye to the less sensible views of others.

For recent national public opinion polls continue to warn that a majority of this country's more affluent energy users are still largely oblivious to the steadily increasing energy problems in this country.

So when consumers drive like the wind and thumb their noses at predictions of crisis, they're really cutting their own economic throats for the future.

The Beaver County (Pa.) Times:

In some quarters, nuclear generated electricity is called a blessing. In others, it is considered a curse.

The continuing controversy aside, nuclear power has proven to be a blessing during the prolonged coal strike. It has supplied the electricity that has averted the furloughing of worlders that otherwise would have been necessary if less power had been available. It has thereby cushioned the adverse effect on the economy in many ways.

Scripps-Howard Newspapers:

If any more evidence were needed, this winter has provided an object lesson in why we need more nuclear power plants in the United States.

First we had successive waves of rain, sleet and snow in much of the country, causing wet coal piles to freeze and making it difficult to generate electricity.

Now we have severe (or potentially severe) power shortages in the Midwestern states caused by a 10-week coal strike that easily could drag into spring.

Thus it is abundantly clear that coal, like oil, is not always a reliable source of energy. Nuclear power, on the other hand, is generally unaffected by blizzards, strikes, or embargoes of any kind.

The Edison Electric Institutute reports, for example, that Duke Power in North Carolina has been saving 23,222 tons of coal a day by drawing one-third of its electricity from three nuclear plants. As much as 62 percent of the power generated in New England comes from nuclear plants; more than 40 percent of the power in the Chicago area. A nuclear plant at Shippingport is supplying Pittsburgh with 23 percent of its power during the coal strike instead of the usual 10 percent. Other nuclear plants are helping to funnel emergency power into coal-short states like Ohio and Indiana.

Trouble is, only 13 percent of the nation's electricity comes from nuclear power. There simply isn't enough nuclear capacity to cushion the impact of a long coal strike or an oil embargo.

Energy experts theorize about drawing 50 percent of power from nuclear plants by the turn of the century. But unless the nuclear industry gets more public support there won't even be a smattering of new nuclear plants by then.

It now takes 10 to 12 years of cutting through red tape to put a nuclear power plant in operation.

President Carter has been saying for months he wants to shorten the process to six or seven years by approving construction sites in advance and cutting out some of the regulation duplication.

So far, though, the president hasn't come up with legislation to carry out his promises. Which just shows again how quick we are to talk about new nuclear power plants — and how slow we are to actually build them.

San Francisco Chronicle:

While the Panama Canal treaties debate in the U.S. Senate may give the impression to readers of news accounts that it is just another desultory near-filibuster, something else is coming through to those citizens who have had the time and interest to stay with the radio broadcasts or the debate brought by the National Public Radio network. . .

No doubt it is pleasing to the senators to learn that they are being heard an appreciated out there, and if they can achieve an individual sense of statesmanship through the knowledge that millions are listening and evaluating, that should be all to the good.

Frank Mankiewicz, the president of National Public Radio, was in town last week for a broadcasting convention, and he found satisfaction in estimating that 10 million were turned in on the Panama Canal show. That's a lot more listeners than the Congressional Record has readers.

The Miami News:

Name calling and statesmanship don't often go hand in hand. So when they do, it is worth noting, and especially when this rare combination involves a U.S. Senator voting on one of the most controversial issues of the day.

Letting his conscience be his guide instead of what he called the "loutish primitivism" of New Hampshire Gov. Meldrim Thomson Jr. and Manchester newspaper publisher William Loeb, Sen. Thomas McIntyre, D-N.H., said he would wate for the Panama Canal treaties.

By United Press International CAPE TOWN, South Africa - Govern-

SALISBURY, Rhodesia - The case of the two cousins accused of planting the bombs that exploded harmlessly in Salis bury recently could provide a test of how well Prime Minister Ian Smith and three moderate black leaders will be able to work together as an interim government

The two, said by police to have planted the bombs on instructions from black insurgents, could receive death sentences.

If sentencing follows the formation of a pre-majority rule interim government, the transitional administration will have the task, previously handled by Rhodesia's president, of confirming the execution order - something the three black moderates might be loath to do for fear of alienating future black voters.

unless you live in California: Jimmy Carter, a former Democratic Party outsider, is president.

Jerry Brown, a Democratic Party far-outsider, is governor of California and wants to be president.

"So there may be some just relationship between the words said in this chamber and their final destination.

. . . Bauman's remarks came during debate on one of the periodic bills to increase the debt ceiling, an issue that provides a forum for fiscal conservatives to warn about the growing national debt and declining value of the dollar.

For example, Rep. Steven Synns, R-Idaho, used the occasion to quote the economist who said:

"It is only the politicians and members of Congress who are able to take ink, a perfectly good commodity, and paper, a perfectly good commodity, and set the ink on the paper and make them both worthless."

President's Gas Plan Not New

By RICHARD E. MEYER WASHINGTON (AP) - Some of Jimmy Carter's allies in Congress were so surprised they hooted and jeered when he endorsed gradually lifting price controls on natural gas.

But, indeed, his announcement at last week's news conference wasn't really new. He had said in the very beginning he was for that sort of thing. He just hadn't been saying it much late-

Indeed, Carter had told members of Congress last April 20 he was for working carefully toward deregulation of newly discovered natural gas as market conditions permit.'

He just didn't include deregulation in his energy bill.

And when the House approved his bill and the Senate wanted phased-in deregulation in two years, the president fought the Senate proposal like a tiger.

Carter talked about "the biggest ripoff in history," enormous industry profits at the expense of consumers and oil and gas company profiteers in his "moral equivalent of war."

"If we deregulate natural gas prices," he said flatly, "the price will go to 15 times more than natural gas prices were before the oil embargo.

He didn't talk much about his campaign position paper calling for deregulation for five years to see how it worked. He didn't talk much about his campaign letter to the governors of Texas and Oklahoma saying, "I will work with Congress to deregulate new natural gas.'

At the news conference, a reporter asked him whether he would endorse a new Senate compromise: to steadily increase the regulated price of new natural gas until 1985 and then lift the price controls altogether.

"Are you willing," the reporter wanted to know, "to accept energy legislation that in a few years would lead to the deregulation of natural gas?"

"Yes, I am," Carter replied. "This was a campaign statement and commitment of mine that I thought natural gas should be deregulated. In my speech to the Congress last April 20th, I repeated this hope and I think that a long phased-in deregulation process without any shocks to our national economy would be acceptable."

Had he flip-flopped? Gone full circle? Shaded his emphasis? Was he being the same obfuscating Jimmy Carter he was accused of being during the campaign? One thing is certain. Some allies who had opposed efforts to decontrol natural gas were caught by surprise. In the House cloakroom, Rep. Toby Moffett, D-Conn., joined other congressmen watching on television when Carter answered the reporter's question.

"There were a lot of hoots and jeers,"

Carter Raps Legislation On Papers

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter opposes legislation that would allow the public to see his presidential papers immediately after he leaves office.

The president feels such a law would stop aides from giving "candid, forceful and blunt" advice, explains Joel W. Solomon, administrator of the General Services Administration.

"The ultimate product ... may be diluted advice to the president," Solomon has told the House government operations

Solomon released a letter from Carter in which the president declared his intention to give his papers to the government when he leaves office. But Carter wants to keep at least tem-

City Wants State To Pick Another Prison Site

By RICHARD H. GROWALD EUREKA, Mo. (UPI) - The mayor of Eureka put his chin on his chest and looked up under his eyebrows. The city administrator, seated in front of the mayor's desk, knew the lowered chin meant "Big Daddy" was about to make a joke and so he leaned back, grinning in anticipation.

"There are three things you need to be a good mayor," said the Honorable William F. (Bud, Big Daddy) Weber.

"First, you got to have some gray hair. It shows you got wisdom. Second, you got to have at least a little paunch, which shows you've had some success.

"And, finally, you got, if you're going to be a good mayor, to have a bad case of the hemorrhoids, so you can sit there and look concerned."

City Administrator Lester B. Baird, 33. gurgled in laughter so loud he had to throw out his arms to steady his chair. The mayor showed his teeth at his own joke and, with the forefinger of his left hand, flicked the single piece of paper on

The wit and wisdom of Mayor Weber he is called "Big Daddy" on the city CB radio band and "Bud" to his face — is treasured and needed in Eureka. The little city is losing a battle to keep the state from building a prison in their midst.

The mayor has the streetfront office in City Hall on Central Street. It is not an imposing building. The Central Street service station keeper points it out as that wooden thing between the parking lot and the red brick Western Auto Upstairs is the office for the city's seven-man police force - called "the Eureka bears" by most on the CB band but 'the local yokels" by the mayor. Downstairs, in the back room, sits Administrator Baird.

'We don't like it worth a damn," Baird said of Gov. Joseph Teasale selecting Eureka as the site for a state prison.

We think of our area as basically recreationally oriented. State parks, county parks, city parks, we have them. And Six Flags, the amusement park with rides and games and shows.

'We've had Olivia Newton John, Tom T. Hall, Barry Manilow and Chuck Barry. We need no criminals, thank you."

The Administrator, his eyeglasses and the blueprint charts behind him signalling his engineering background and his tieless open collar proclaiming his solidarity with the pickup truck and muddypants-legs ways of Big Daddy, rifled through one of the stacks of papers covering his desk.

He searched for a copy of his February testimony to a state senate hearing, attackimg the prison plan. "The governor, well, he acted without even giving us a public hearing. Weird.'

On the Eureka CB radio, Lester Bernard Baird is called "St. Bernard."

Up front, Big Daddy looked at the single piece of paper on his desk. "Keeps me real busy," he said and laughed. Weber had spent the morning prowling the streets, surveying and fixing snow and ice damage to the streets. He hadn't bothered to scrape the mud from his pants

Yep, the prison is a woe. Like the time that monkey escaped.' The monkey, pet of a Eureka family, scrambled into Central Street, up the hill, above the railroad tracks, to the fringe of U. S. Highway 44 used by the commuters to the Chrysler plant and St. Louis, 30 minutes east.

The monkey ran behind the Walker louse. Went right through Mrs. Manentski's flower bed. Up the alley behind the MFA insurance company office. The lo-cal yokels had called for help; the rabbit control folk came and one of them had this pole with a net at the end. 'The monkey ran up the pole, bit the man's finger and ran off with the pole and net. They had called for me but I stayed out of it; I didn't want to get mixed up in no monkey business. Well, they finally coaxed the monkey down from a tree with a banana.

He pushed the piece of paper again. Wonder what we'll do with escaped prison convicts? In 1970 the federal government said Eureka had a population of 2,384. Baird now estimates it at 3,200. The upland pastures off U.S. 44 are now lined with houses for St. Louis commuters. It was the lowland flat pastures that excited the railroad surveyors in 1853. According to local lore one surveyor was so impressed that he yelled "Eureka!" It was 101 years later the city was incorporated. Central Street remains a monument to America's yesterday of small towns. There is the grocery, the antique store, the service station, the insurance offices, the electrical contractor and other shops All but one building - its broken win dows and boarded-up front so annoy the Eureka merchants that they've considered buying it to erase a blot on an otherwise tidy main street - is busy. Up along U.S. 44, spawned by the success of Six Flags, is a McDonalds, a Dairy Queen, a Cedric's Fish and Chips, a Pizza Hut and a Wendy's, all opened in the past two years. A Holiday Inn decorated with railroad antiques opens in March. 'What's the prison going to do for us?" said Baird. "I don't think they'll send out for Big Macs." The City Adminstrator tidied a paper pile. "Oh, sure, the governor says the prison will mean a $2.8 million annual payroll for here. But will it? No. The prison staff will drive in from St. Louis.

"After all, they're putting the prison

RAIL LOAN WASHINGTON (AP) - The Federal Railroad Administration said Tuesday it has reached an agreement with the Chicago and North Western Railroad for federal guarantee of a $17.6 million loan to rehabilitate 2,100 freight cars. The FRA last September agreed to purchase $24.6 million of the railroad's preferred stock to provide money for upgrading seg-ments of its mainlines between Chicago and Omaha and Chicago and Milwaukee.

here so the inmates can be nearer their families, psychiatrists, ministers and lawyers in St. Louis.

Baird grinned. "It'll attract one thing for us - drug traffic."

The mayor lost half his right arm in a 1937 corn shredding machine farm accident. But he went into contracting and built roads and buildings until becoming mayor two elections ago.

"My wife said I was crazy to take the second meeting, right after, when along job. But, well, it pays $75 a month," Big Daddy said and laughed.

"Being mayor is real work. Like our weekly night meeting of me and the six members of the Board of Aldermen. Actually, it's two meetings.

"The first meeting is where we discuss business and everybody starts calling everybody else names and then there's the

"But tha prison the governor wants here, will, now..

He fell silent. Then he smiled. "Deer come strolling down Central Street. Used to have skunks, too,but we got rid of them. Getting rid of the skunks didn't cost us too many citizens." he said, and laughed.

The laughter, which the mayor of Eureka wields as other mayors of others cities might use get-out-the-vote organizations, faded again. With his one hand, Big Daddy wadded up the single piece of paper and basketcomfortable small town. And now along comes the governor and his prison..."

The mayor reached down for his coat which he had tossed onto the floor. "Let me show you where we once had a cougar escape in town. Won't happen again. Board of Aldermen passed an ordinance against cougars..."

Ambassador Praises Japanese

By JOHN F. BARTON
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States, which used to scoff at things
"Made in Japan," would prosper if it copied Japan's economic formula: total commitment to growth and labor-management harmony, according to former U.S. Ambassador James Hodgson.

Hodgson, also a former labor secretary, thinks American workers should follow the example of Japanese employees too, particularly "their positive attitude toward work; their excellent preparation for entering the working world; and, once there, their unexcelled capacity for working cooperatively."

Hodgson believes two national priorities underlie Japan's miraculous post-World War II economic growth: "In national policy, a number one role for a strong economy, and in industrial policy, a number one role for human resources development."

"To me these are the two priorities of contemporary Japanese economic life to which we Americans might properly and profitably direct our national attention," Hodgson said recently.

"In essence, I am suggesting that we as a nation would do well to place a stronger national commitment, first, on a flourishing economy and, second, on achieving a healthier, more positive relationship between American workers, their jobs, and their economic system, and do this through giving greater priority to treatment of our human resources in industry," Hodgson said.

Hodgson expressed his views in "The Wondrous Working World of Japan," a booklet published by the American Enterprise Institute. He was labor secretary in 1970-73 and ambassador to Japan from 1974-77.

Widely respected as a labor expert when he went to Japan, Hodgson said he had to forget almost everything he knew about labor when he got there.

Calling his ambassadorship "a considerable case of culture shock," Hodgson said "What is an American to think, for instance, when he finds himself in a nation where such cherished American shibboleths as 'equal pay for equal work' are neither found in practice nor sought as a goal?"

He was stunned to find Japan a nation where workers oppose a shorter work week, two percent unemployment is unacceptable, young workers have a lower than average unemployment rate, aggressiveness is discouraged as "unsuitably disharmonious," where promotions are based on seniority rather than competence, and "where the workers are obviously pleased with this state of affairs."

The main differences between American and Japanese laborers are rooted in their societies, Hodgson said. "In American life the individual strives to stand out," he said. "The Japanese citizen, however, seeks to fit in."

"And fit in he does — into his family, his schools, his company, his union, his nation. Japan is a nation where the parts fit," Hodgson said.

Hodgson said Japan's modern economic strength is the result of a national commitment to a strong economy and "creation of a highly motivated, talented, rewarded, and employed work force."

"What does all this mean for America?" Hodgson asked.

"Perhaps this," he said. "In attacking our many national employment problems, we in the United States might well consider reversing our past practice of concentrating on cushioning weaknesses and instead proceed to adopt the Japanese approach of capitalizing on strengths."

"We just might discover that most of the weaknesses that have plagued our employment picture for years would largely disappear," Hodgson said.

Railroad Car Hits Speed Of 187 MPH

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese railway engineers announced that an electric rail car attained a record speed of 187 miles per hour in an experimental run and that they plan to pass the 300-mph mark next year.

The National Railway engineers claimed a record for their 10-ton ML-500 because an experimental French car that hit 206 mph broke down immediately after its record run. The previous Japanese record, set by a "Bullet" train, was 178 mph.

As it speeds along the track, the ML-500 is lifted five inches above the rails by magnetic resistance. The test run of the friction-free, floating vehicle was conducted on a two-mile track in Miyazaki on the southern main island of Kyushu.

The engineers said they plan to run the car at 500 kilometer per hour — 311 mph — in 1979.

They said experiments with similar cars are being carried out in the United States, West Germany, the Soviet Union and Canada.

ATLANTA (AP) - If reduced food production doesn't spur politicians to react to demands for a guaranteed farm profit, striking farmers say they'll take their complaints to the ballot box.

Tommy Kersey of Unadilla, Ga., a leader in the American Agriculture movement, said Tuesday that striking farmers throughout the country will meet this week and next to determine what they need to do to conduct mass registration drives aimed at developing a bloc vote.

(However, protesting farmers in Texas have not yet made plans to endorse or campaign against any politicians, American Agriculture spokesman Key Crawford said today at strike headquarters in

("We're not a political group," Craw-ford said. He added, however, that farmers will not vote for anyone they feel is only giving them "lip service."

(An American Agriculture meeting was scheduled at 11:30 a.m. today in Plainview where Atty. Gen. John Hill, who is running for governor, was to speak. Hill was scheduled to report on the progress of his investigation into possible antitrust violations in the cottonseed oil industry.

(There were also to be reports on results of the movement in Washington and an update on the Hidalgo incident.)

The farmers still are relying on the threat of idled acres and reduced food production to make their demands felt by the people, Kersey said.

'We think if a lot of these politicians can't stand up and understand now what we have got to have, then of course when election time comes around, we'll have something to combat it with," Kersey said in a news conference. He said the drive will be aimed at anyone in an agriculture-related field, which he said could include 40 percent of the American work force.

"I don't know about endorsing anybody (for political office), but we dog-gone sure certainly are going to not endorse somebody," he said.

Kersey said the farmers' strike, which began last December, has brought their complaints to merchandisers and retailers of farm-related goods. And he said he believes the tractorcades that farmers organized have informed the American public of the farmers' demands.

'Now what we've got to do is to continue to educate the public. But more than that, we've go to do something to correct our problem. The only thing we can do now is to cut the supply," he said.

Striking farmers say they hope to reduce food production by 50 percent this year to dramatize their demand for a market price equal to 100 percent of parity for their goods.

Motions Slated In Brasfield Murder Trial

A-J Correspondent
WICHITA FALLS — Pre-trial motions were scheduled to be heard at 1:30 p.m. today here before testimony begins in the capital murder trial of 28-year-old Slatonite Philip Carey Brasfield.

Tuesday prosecutors and defense attorneys selected the final two jurors to hear the case.

Empaneled were 54-year-old Geneva Wright, a catering manager for the officer's mess at Sheppard Air Force Base here, and 25-year-old Ricky Lee Lamb, an employee of a local car dealership.

Brasfield is accused of the abductionslaying of six-year-old Johnny Turner, Jr., on or about Oct. 26, 1977. The trial was moved here on a change of venue from Lubbock.

The first-grader's body was found halfnaked in a ravine in the rugged Yellowhouse Canyon area near Slaton after one of the most intensive searches in Lubbock County history by lawmen from several agencies.

The grisly discovery came eight days after the youth first had been reported missing.

The indictment against Brasfield alleges he caused the child's death by asphyxiation conducted "in a manner and means unknown" to the grand jury. The indictment also alleges Brasfield murdered the boy during the course of a kidnapping, thereby raising the charge to capital murder.

If convicted, Brasfield will face either life imprisonment or death, the only punishment options under the Texas capital murder laws.

Malaria Cases Increasing

ATLANTA (AP) - Reported cases of malaria in the United States nearly tripled in the first half of this decade, the national Center for Disease Control says. The CDC has said that from 1970 through 1975, the number of malaria cases among U.S. civilians reported through its surveillance system increased from 151 to 430 a year.

Malaria is transmitted by the bite of an infected Anopheles mosquito.

"Even when travelers are properly informed and do receive prophylactic med-ication, they often stop taking their drugs as soon as they return home," the CDC

Although many countries are listed as especially dangerous to the American traveler, the CDC said malaria is known to exist in Mexico, Haiti, Central America, South America, Africa, the Middle East, the Indian subcontinent, Southeast Asia, Korea, Indonesia and Oceania.

"All persons traveling to one or more of these areas are at the risk of acquiring malaria," the CDC said.

The child, whose first name is Nancy, reportedly disappeared from the parking lot of an eastside club late Saturday, and police here did not receive word until Tuesday that she had been found abandoned in a San Antonio bus station Sunday night.

Lubbock police received word about 1 p.m. Tuesday that the brown-eyed child had been in the Alamo City nearly 41 hours since she was discovered by an offduty policeman about 8:30 p.m. Sunday at a downtown bus station.

Detective Anton Michalec, assigned to the department's theft bureau, was working at the bus station when he found the child with a note affixed to her clothing, along with a $10 bill. The note said: "My name is Nancy, I live in Lubbock. I'm lost. Please send me to the Lubbock Police Department."

San Antonio patrolman Sterling Gotthardt was dispatched to the bus station to take a routine report, and soon after Nancy was transferred to the Children's Shelter, a United Way-sponsored facility.

There, the taciturn child provided workers with few clues to her background, Bexar County Child Welfare spckesman Ron Gossen said Nancy spent the day at the shelter Monday as workers continued trying to obtain information about her family. Tuesday morning, Gossen said, a county welfare worker decided to phone au-Gossen said San Antonio welfare workers and shelter employees initially misunerstood the meaning of the note, written with what was believed to be an eyeliner pencil on a scrap of paper.

He said workers believed the child was from San Antonio and had been abandoned for a one-way trip to Lubbock. Local welfare workers, who will assume responsibility for the followup investigation, counselled with Nancy's parents Tuesday For Nancy, the whole affair began Saturday when the youngster accompanied her mother, grandmother and 8-year-old brother to an Avenue H bar.

Following a disturbance at the club about 9:30 p.m., police said the women and children were told to leave. The two women said a third woman who had been drinking with them, left the lounge at the same time and volunteered to drive all four to another bar.

The group went with the woman, Nancy's mother later told juvenile investigators, and the five drove to an Avenue U residence in hopes of finding a babysitter. But they found no one and they decided to go to another club, this one on Quirt Avenue.

According to Nancy's mother, when the group arrived at the club about 10:30 p.m., Nancy was asleep on a rear seat. As the child's mother bent down to pick up Nancy, the woman driver reportedly told her she'd park the car and bring the child inside shortly.

As the grandmother, mother and son walked towards the building, the young boy suddenly yelled to his mother that the woman was taking his sister. Nancy's mother reportedly told the boy not to worry since the woman was only parking

The mother later told investigators she had called the police to come to the scene because the girl was missing and had spoken to three uniformed officers. Club employees dispute that claim, however, and police say they have been unable to locate such a call after checking the dispatch log.

The trio, without Nancy, reportedly stayed at the club until about 2 a.m., before leaving with an unidentified man. The latest member of the party reportedly drove the grandmother home and took Nancy's mother and brother to a local restaurant to eat. Thereafter, the foursome drove to an address in the 800-block of Avenue C, where they remained until the child's mother notified police at 8:15 a.m. Sunday

About 12 hours later, detective Michalec found the youngster in the bus depot in downtown San Antonio The grandmother and mother, as well as the 8-year-old son, maintained Tuesday that the unidentified woman was about 26 years old, heavy-set with shoulder-length black hair and drove a standard-size, four-door car.

At least one witness at the first club. however, said he clearly recalled seeing the foursome, conspicuous by the child-ren present, and he said no third woman was there.

Korean Lobby Plan Bared

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence reported that South Korea's "covert lobbying operations" here were developed at secret strategy meetings in South Korean President Park Chung Hee's Blue House in Seoul in the fall of 1970 with Park present at least once, the chairman of a House panel said today.

Opening hearings on alleged South Korean influence-buying, Rep. Donald M. Fraser, D-Minn., said his international relations subcommittee will produce evidence that millionaire rice-dealer Tongsun Park was among five Koreans responsible for carrying out the lobbying in Washington.

"According to U.S. intelligence reports," Fraser said, "a plan was presented at the first Blue House meeting which would have placed Tongsun Park in charge of all lobbying operations in the United States, including those of the Korean Central Intelligence Agency

"President Park and his advisers rejected this plan because of objections from a rival faction also engaged in lobbying in the United States," Fraser

Fraser said others responsible for carrying out the lobbying besides Tongsun Park were South Korean Prime Minister Chung Il Kwon, the KCIA and its director, Lee Hu Rak, presidential aide Park Chong Kyu, Pak Bo Hi and Gen. the Justice Department to investigate whether Radio Free Asia, a project of Pak Bo Hi's foundation, should be registered as a South Korean agent.

Documents released by Fraser's sub-committee today showed that Attorney General Mitchell relayed the State Department's request to the FBI. The Justice Department replied subsequently that it could find no grounds to prosecute the Radio Free Asia for failure to register as a foreign agent.

A lengthy report to Mitchell on June 8, 1971 regarding Radio Free Asia described Tongsun Park as a "middle man, influence-peddler and lobbyist" but gave the attorney general no details on Park's activities.

The report was sent to Mitchell by U. Alexis Johnson, an assistant secretary of "The executive branch failed to take adequate measures to halt or prevent questionable Korean activities in this country," Fraser said, with the result that illegal Korean activities "continued to expand and gain momentum for some five years."

He said the reasons for inaction are un-* clear, but that the overriding priorities seem to have been to keep Korean troops in the war in Vietnam, to accomplish U.S. troop reductions in Korea with minimum adverse consequences "and to maintain credibility for the U.S. position in Korea as an unyielding commitment to resist the threat of communist aggres-

The statement added, "I could feel the car thump when I ran over him." The statement concluded with Ware's account of how Adams dragged the 19year-old victim's body into the weeds and of how the group then left the scene.

"I keep asking myself what made me do it," the statement said.

The statement agreed wi given Tuesday by Adams and the two women in the car the night of Atkinson's death. During the testimony, Adams and the one of the women indicated they made statements to the police because they feared they would be held responsible for the death.

In a hearing on the pre-trial motion to suppress the statement, Ware told a similar story, saying he signed the statement because he was "tired, scared, just wanted to get it over with."

He also said the police indicated that if he signed the statement, the judge would let me go."

Police officers told a different story before the jury this morning. Officer Randy Ward repeatedly said that he did not recall a specific conversation in which any promises" of leniency were made to Ware. And Det. Harris Clanton supported Parents who want to sign up early may do so by contacting Irons' office.

One unique aspect of Iles is that it will feature an extended school day - with supervised activities from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Irons noted this schedule will be "especially convenient" for families in which both parents work.

Under the proposal, the school system will provide transportation to and from Iles for students attending from other parts of the city. Parents also will have the option of providing their own transportation

Iles School, 2401 Date Ave., will continue serving elementary pupils residing in the Iles attendance zone. And the school's curriculum will continue to include a "strong emphasis on basic academic skills," as in other elementaries, Irons said.

But, he said, the university's college of education will provide "special things that ordinarily aren't available in an elementary school. 'We know a lot more in the field of education than we actually do or demonstrate," Anderson said. He hopes to bring those practices and ideas together at Iles Anderson said Iles could be "what the little red schoolhouse may have been at its best" - a place for academic and social growth.

Anderson and Irons said plans for the Iles program include a broader curriculum, with more emphasis on the fine arts; individualized instruction - even to the point of abandoning traditional grade structures and allowing each student to progress at his own rate; "adult saturation," with professors working with Iles teachers and Tech student teachers in the classrooms; a "multi-cultural emphasis;" and more field trips and community involvement in the school.

Anderson emphasized that these ideas are not experimental" but have been tested and proved successful in Lubbock and other school systems.

'But it's still rare in the U.S. to find a place all of them have been put together," he said.

Samuel Christopher Hawkins III's fate was placed in the hands of a four-woman, eight-man jury this afternoon. They must decide if he is guilty of capital murder - if he stabbed a six-months pregnant Borger housewife to death during an attempted aggravated rape. Hutchinson County District Attorney Stephen Cross, in final arguments this morning, told jurors he thought it would be "easy on your conscience" to convict Hawkins Rehashing testimony, Cross reminded the jury that Abbe Rodgers Hamilton, 19, had been found on a blood-soaked bed with her hands and feet tied with napkins from her own dining table. He waved a pair of her panties, found lying on the floor when her dead body was discovered, and said they had to be removed before she was tied.

Hawkins was the man who removed them, the DA suggested.

Cross then launched into a listing of acts he maintains Hawkins committed prior to allegedly stabbing the pretty brunette to death. The prosection must convince jurors the woman was killed during an attempted aggravated rape in order for the case to have capital, or death penalty, status.

If jurors do not feel that first felony was attempted, they could only consider Hawkins' guilt or innocenece on a lesser charge of plain murder.

"Tying her up was more than mere preparation...going up and looking at that door, rattling that door to see if it was open was more than mere preparation,"

"Walking in with a knife was more than mere preparation. Placing the knife at her throat was more than mere preparation," he finished. Hawkins, 34, an Amarillo meat company employee, gave police a confession about the May 3, 1977, killing. The defense maintains jurors should disregard it on the grounds it allegedly was given involuntarily.

They maintain officers promised Hawkins leniency from a judge and psychiatric treatment if he signed it.

Cross anticipated court-appointed defense lawyers' closing arguments on those points by saying:

"The defense is going to take two or three quotes completely out of context and ask you to speculate as to whether or not that was a promise, ask you to speculate whether or not that induced Samuel Christopher Hawkins to sign."

Cross was referring to statements from a defense transcript of a tape-recording of the police interview that preceded Hawkins giving his confession.

According to the document, Hawkins had asked, "will they sentence me to die for that?" A policeman had answered, according to the transcript, "Sam, to be honest with you, I think the courts would be very lenient with you

Another portion of the transcript also indicates the policeman counseled Hawk-ins not to be ashamed because his illness ed to be mental, rather than phyical. "It is no more your fault than if you caught a cold," the transcript quotes the

Cross reiterated jurors had heard only small portions of the transcript, which differed in some respects from a prosecu-tion transcript of the interview record-

He stressed that the three officers present at the interview denied having made

"The only way the jury can disregard this confession, throw this "The only way the jury can disregard this confession, throw this confession out, is to believe all three police officers got on the stand and lied. You can't speculate, you must base your decision on the evidence," Cross

Amarillo defense lawyer Russell Busby attacked the confession as "incomplete" and told jurors his co-counsel Gene Storrs would later argue their contentions the statement was given involuntar-

In surprise testimony Tuesday, Hutchinson County Sheriff Lon Blackmon revealed he had been conducting night interrogations of Hawkins at the Lubbock County Jail since the trial started in Feb-

The sessions were conducted without the knowledge of the defendant's attor-

'The state said this confession is letter perfect. It makes their whole case," Busby said. "Yet all during this trial Sheriff Blackmon is up in the jail at night for extended periods of time.

"Why would he do this? Why would he spend so much time doing this? Why would he not tell Mr. Storrs and me he was doing this? Why would he not tell Mr. Cross he was doing this?

"Could it be that he is not convinced that this is a complete picture of what happened. That's the only logical conclusion I can come to." Busby declared Busby noted the state had introduced more than 90 separate evidence exhibits during the trial but maintained that only three "in any way" link Sam Hawkins to this crime.

The three he referred to were the confession, and two slides of hair samples. Authorities had testified they found a hair in Mrs. Hamilton's home, and a Federal Bureau of Investigation agent stated it had similar charaterstics to hair taken from Hawkins' head. "On a scale of one to ten, if one is negative and ten is positive, the FBI agent said his test was somewhere between five and ten that the hair in the home was Hawkins," Busby said. He noted the dead woman's husband had testified no black person had ever visited in their home, but he suggested the hair could have come from the head of a black Hutchinson County deputy who was at the death scene. "They are asking you for a conviction of capital murder and this is all the physical evidence they have, and it's at least 50 per cent off," Busby said. Hawkins pleaded not guilty by reason of insanity to the capital murder charge. Judge Richard N. Countiss' instructions for jurors' deliberations on guilt or innocence does not even mention their consideration of an insanity defense.

If convicted on the capital charge, Hawkins faces either life in prison or death - only punishment options open under Texas' murder law.

At a mid-morning White House meeting with DeConcini, Carter said he would not oppose DeConcini's proposa! that the treaties permit the United State to intervene in Panama to forestall any threat to continued canal operations.

Meanwhile, Senate leaders professed optimism that the treaties would draw the needed two-thirds vote needed to turn the waterway over to Panama by the year 2000.

Psychiatrist Believes Brain Controls Lifestyles

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Dr. Arnold Mandell, a researcher on the forefront of brain science, has climbed out of a tortured mid-life crisis with a bright hope that frenetic, success-driven men can shift their brain chemistry to calmness.

Mandell, a widely respected psychiatrist and scientist, took a daring step recently in publishing a book that reveals the psychic depths to which he sank when his career, his health and his marriage broke down.

This confessional is interspersed with his theory, based on many years of studying the brain, that compulsive achievers like him are fueled by the ultimately destructive legacy of animal ancestors. It's a system of the brain, he believes, that controlled hunting, fighting for dominance and territory, mating in macho

In his late 30s, Mandell found the achievement road suddenly washed out from under him. Cancer and heart disease threatened his life; his 20-year marriage disintegrated; his belief in psychiatry faltered; a legal imbroglio over prescribing drugs for San Diego Chargers football players jeopardized his career.

"As 40 approached," he writes in a new book, "Coming of Middle Age," "I could run no longer. My tense life got unstrung, in a succession of snaps, wire strings tangling up in coils of confusion.

tions in place of knowledge, no inspira-tional direction, and a desire to silence the instrument forever.

It was a mid-life crisis on all fronts professional, sexual, medical, existential. According to Mandell, it was only when he surrendered his world-beating lifestyle that he was saved.

"It's an account of a religious conversion told in brain chemical terms," Mandell said of his book in a receent interview. President of the Society for Biological Psychiatry and co-chairman of the Psychiatry Department of the University of California at San Diego, Mandell has spent much of his career looking for ties between the ebb and flow of brain chemicals and emotional states.

Mandell is of course not the first harddriving success to be brought up short by a heart attack and realize, standing in death's shadow, that a calmer way of life

He is unique, however, in connecting the male change of life to a shift in brain

"The book is a desperate wild searching ... it's obvious I didn't find it, I just tried to share the questions," Mandell

He suggests that the "first cycle" of human development - though in this book he is really talking about the male - is encoded in brain systems that originally enabled animals to survive, fight, run, defend territory, breed and protect family.

In his own case, Mandell reflects on his first 35 years as a period of being driven to prove his strength, conquer the academic territory, win a beautiful and intelligent wife, play jazz piano in all-night sessions between classwork: in short, win.

He proposes that this innate aggressiveness is caused by a brain whose chemical balance is dominated by a substance called dopamine.

Dopamine has been likened to a natural stimulant, an innate version of the amphetamine "uppers" that Mandell found pro football players taking to psych themselves up to "kill for four hours in the aft-

The aggression of the dopamine cycle is a reponse to fear, says Mandell; he was running scared as he practiced the piano furiously, sought power, lived "haunted by the shadows of young genius ready to come out of the bushes to take my job."

The first cycle ended for Mandell with a heart attack perhaps brought on by his hell-bent lifestyle, and his career was besmirched in the Chargers' amphetamine scandal. He was put on five years' probation and barred from prescribing amphetamines after a hearing by a state regulatory board.

"I lost everything," Mandell told a re-porter as he drank Irish coffee in an effort to balance his brain chemistry with the concoction's relaxing effects.

"I sold my condominium. I drive a '67 Volkswagen. I'm a broke person. I've been smeared every way you can smear a person. ... I could croak any time.'

In giving up the rage to win, he explains, a man can decide to shift to a second brain chemical system, this one dominated by serotonin, which rather than acting as a stimulant serves to bring calmness.

The scientist changed his life. Slimmed down, began running 10-15 miles a day. Found out, as he writes:

"That it feels good to run for a long nails but something soft and warm ... that quiet is rich and full and not loneliness; that a wild flower has, besides a name, some beautiful colors."

He also feels suffused, he says, with 'energy without anger.'

Mandell's book is not a prescription; he describes his own shift to the second cycle, but can only speculate about the chain of cause and effect. In some people it may be a natural change in brain chemistry, he said.

He said he believes shifts in the brain's chemical messengers can be accom-plished through long-distance running, contemplation of beauty, meditation, and probably through use of new drugs that alter the chemical balance.

But here he is cautious and tentative.

Help Americans Escape Taxes

NEW YORK (AP) - How would you like to save money secretly through a perfectly legal transaction at an American bank and thus evade payment of federal income taxes on the interest you earn?

Incredibly, that offer is being made by some American banks. Equally difficult to believe, the device that makes it possible - or which until recently did - is called the "honor bond."

Regulators don't consider them very honorable, and are moving to plug the legal loophole, described by a savings and loan association official as being "trucktivities of a relatively few bankers have provided an episode in the history of banking that some of the more proper members consider scandalous, cynical, unpatriotic. It began when some commercial banks found there was nothing in the law to prevent them from offering small-denomination savings certificates to the 'bearer" rather than to a named person. Ordinarilly, such certificates are issued in denominations of $100,000 or more for commercial purposes rather than as a form of individual savings. Being issued to the bearer, they can easily be traded.

Small Texas Firm Purchased

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)- Leupold and Stevens, a manufacturer of various instruments and telescopic sights for rifles, has purchased the assets and patents of Transportation Data Corp., an Arlington, Texas, maker of traffic recording devices.

Leupold and Stevens, founded in 1907 to manufacture and repair surveying instruments, employs 390 persons at its suburban Portland plant and has annual sales of $14 million. Leupold also produces the Nmsler line of bullets for reloaders of rifle cartridges.

R. J. Stevens, president of the firm, said the acquisition of the small Texas firm "will enable us to increase our activity in traffic products." He said the new products include a traffic analyzer system and an electronic traffic counter.

SUGAR HARVEST

Terms of the sale were not released.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) -Argentina's sugar harvest produced 16 million tons this year, 11.8 percent over 1977's harvest of 14,310,000 tons. According to the latest estimate from the Ministry of Economy, Argentina's north central province of Tucuman contributed 57.5 percent of the nation's entire production, 5.2 percent more than the previous year.

however, they become attractive ways of hiding interest income from the government. Since they do not carry the purchaser's name, the bank does not report interest earned.

In their ads, a few banks only slightly disguised the tax angle. Enjoy "the privacy of a Swiss bank account," they said.

Analysis

And more blatantly: "The bank will not issue an IRS 1099 form.'

Some bankers were furious about what they considered a provocation to evade taxes. Their trade associations were equally angry. And federal and state regulators were perhaps angriest of all. While he had no legal authority to prevent the practice, John G. Heimann, Comptroller of the Currency, began in recent weeks to write letters to the offending banks.

'The unanimous reaction of those communicating with us is that the advertisements are tantamount to an invitation to evade federal income taxes," he said, continuing with his firm opinion that:

"We believe it is highly inapproriate for national banks to imply" that individuals "might evade federal income taxes simply because the interest income is not reported by the banks."

The Internal Revenue Service added its weight, announcing last week that it was considering a rules change requiring banks to report names and Social Security numbers of purchasers and redeemers.

This week the Treasury Department proposed a change in banking laws that would have the same effect: require that banks record the names of individuals or others purchasing and redeeming the cer-

But the episode might not be easily forgotten. Savings and loan associations are especially angry, because they are in one of their periodic fights with other institutions to capture the saver's dollar.

In times of high or rising interest, such as now, they suffer a disadvantage: they cannot compete by offering higher and higher yields on savings, and so their deposits are threatened.

The activities of some commercial banks in promoting the bearer bonds. therefore, has been especially irritating. The S&Ls consider it more "unfair" competition. They are forbidden to offer

But the larger effect, one that bankers are concerned about, might be that their image has been tarnished at a time when they want the very best relations with the public and regulators.

City Ethnic Group Praises Governor

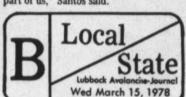

Avalanche-Journal Staff Gov. Dolph Briscoe was greeted with effusive praise and compliments by about 50 Lubbock Mexican-American leaders Tuesday night as he met with the group on his first campaign trip to the Hub City.

Introducing Briscoe to the gathering at the Hilton Inn, Dr. Ray Santos called the governor an "equalizer" and a "courageous fighter" for Mexican-Americans.

Briscoe, seeking a third term, was praised for his programs for bilingual education, migrant laborers and higher education for Mexican-Americans.

Briscoe has appointed more Mexican-Americans to boards and commissions than any other Texas governor before him, Santos said.

"He knows our needs and understands our frustrations because he's always been part of us," Santos said.

Loans To Texan Worry

Proxmire, D-Wis., says he's concerned about loans totaling $1 million that were made to Temple, Texas banker H.K. Allen, President Carter's nominee as vice chairman of the U.S. Export-Import

Allen underwent sharp questioning from Proxmire, chairman of the Senate Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs Committee, and committee member Adlai Stevenson III, D-Ill., about some of his bank loans during his confirmation hear-

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. William Bank of Dallas to Allen from 1960 to 1972. Proxmire said he was specifically concerned about the preferential interest rates accorded Allen that were from two to four percentage points below the prime interest rates at that time.

The senator also asked Allen if he was aware of an-FBI investigation of his stock loans, meaning he borrowed money to buy stock in other banks.

The banker said he was told about the investigation about two months ago. Allen said that after 1972 the interest rates he paid on loans from First National of Dallas were at the prime rate be-torney in Dallas at that time felt Allen was not engaged in any wrongdoing and that it was a common practice in Texas. Proxmire and Stevenson also questioned Allen about his qualifications to

He has announced he will resign if confirmed by the Senate. He was nominated last December to the $50,000 a year post. A White House spokesman said Monday that Carter would stand behind his choice of Allen. "We think Mr. Allen is well-qualified for the position," deputy White House Press secretary Rex Granum said. "We certainly hope and predict that he will win confirmation.' Stevenson and Proxmire feel Allen doesn't have the experience to serve on the board of the import-export bank, known as EXIMBANK. "He's just a small town banker," Russell said. "The senator (Stevenson) feels that he just doesn't have a broad understanding of the world." EXIMBANK, created in 1934, provides direct loans and other U.S. financial assistance to foreign governments and oversees companies wishing to purchase American goods.

The Carter administration has proposed expanding EXIMBANK's activities, upping its lending strength to $3.8 billion, more than a five-fold increase over the 1977 level of $700 million in loans and direct credit.

Santos said the Mexican-American had been in the Dark Ages from the 1920s through the 1960s, but said that under Briscoe's administration "we have come out of the darkness into the dawn.

"We can't afford to go back into the dark ages," Santos said. "We want to see more of the light and he is the only man who can allow us to see more of the light. 'We need Dolph Briscoe in office until

He pledged to continue and expand the programs initiated by his Governor's Office of Migrant Affairs "regardless of the criticism." Briscoe also pointed out he had asked the Justice Department to investigate two of those deaths.

At a news conference earlier, the governor said the only issue in the race between himself and Atty. Gen. Briscoe, 54, refused to discuss his handling of the arrests of more than 200 farmers in Hidalgo recently, but said he had met with American Agriculture representatives recently and decided "we must look to what can be done to ease the plight of the farmer.

The governor said he had contacted every governor in the country and the presi-

CANDIED WALNUTS

Melt basic fondant over hot water; tint and flavor as desired. If fondant seems too thick, stir in a few drops of hot water, adding it by drops at a time. Using a fork, dip walnut halves and large pieces, one at a time, into the fondant. Drop onto waxed paper and let stand until set. As fondant is used, it becomes thickened, and a drop or two of hot water will be ded from time to time. One-half cup it will be sufficient to coat about 30 to 35 large walnut pieces and halves.

DEAR ABBY

Dear Abby: What can be done for a 72year old woman with a drinking problem? That woman is my mother, and it breaks my heart to see her destroying herself. It all began several years ago when dad retired and they started spending their winters in Arizona. Why would a loving respected grandmother turn to alcohol when she hardly ever drank be-

Dad is stricly a one-drink before dinner man. I finally got the courage to speak to mother about it, and she said she could quit anytime, but I know she can't. She drinks alone and thinks no one knows it. I can't force my mother to go to a doctor, and I can't accuse my father of lying when he says she is 'better.' How can I help her. Abby

HEARTBROKEN DAUGHTER DEAR HEARTBROKEN: No one can overcome alcoholism unless he admits that he is powerless against drink. That is the first step in the Alcoholics Anonymous program. Your mother could possibly be helped by joining that group. It's worth a try.

It's a sad fact of life that no one can be helped who will not help himself. Another fine program I highly recommend is Women for Soberty, Inc., P.O. Box 618, Quakertown, Pa. 18951. When writing, please enclose a stamped, long, self addressed envelope since this is a non-profit organization.

DEAR ABBY: I've been going with Adam for two years, and I always thought his family liked me. Adam's brother is getting married next Sunday and Adam will be an usher in the wedding party. I am very upset because I wasn't invited to the wedding. Who does the inviting anyway?

Please answer soon as this has left me sleepless.

DEAR HURT: The bride and her family 'does the inviting .' But the groom and his family are also allowed to invite a certain number of guests. If Adam had requested it, you probably would have been invited. But it's possible that they had to limit the number of guests, or maybe the ushers were asked to 'escort' bridesmaids, so Adam had a 'duty' date. Ask him.

DEAR ABBY: If I don't get this off my chest, I'll burst. We have two sons. There are none better. Both are married and have lovely families.

When we go to their homes, it hurts when we don't see even one photograph of Dad and me in sight.

We've gone to the trouble and expense of having our pictures taken at a good studio. We've even had them enlarged and framed, but apparently they are stored away in some closet.

Our home is filled with pictures of our sons, their wives and children. Am I wrong to feel hurt?

Here's another chance to test your dummy play. Cover up the East and West hands with your thumbs and decide how you would play six diamonds after the lead of the jack of hearts.

If South's diamond suit was genuine (North-South were playing five-card majors), North wanted to be in slam. He made a quiet bid of one spade to see what his

Careful Cleaning Saves Tools

NEW YORK (UPI) - Paint brushes and rollers can be reused several times if they are cleaned and stored correctly after each use.

Paint should not be allowed to dry on the tools. The first step is scraping excess paint off with a round stick onto newspaper.

Brushes and rollers used for oil-based paints should then be cleaned in brush cleaner or mineral spirits, washed in detergent or soap suds and rinsed. Excess moisture should be pressed out before storage.

Tools used for latex-based paints should be washed in sudsy water: work the bristles between thumb and forefinger to remove paint from the heel of a brush. Suds roller nap with both hands.

Follow with a rinse, then use a metal comb on brush bristles to prevent matting and hang brushes by their handles to dry. Place rollers upright or on pegs

Once cleaned, all should be wrapped in foil to keep them dust-free.

SMALL IS SENSIBLE

Since new make-up is a "blind" term. invest in the smallest sizes at first until you know you like it.

South's club rebid confirmed a diamond suit. When South next showed the ace of hearts, North needed no further encouragement to leap to slam.

West leads the jack of hearts. In which hand do you win the trick, and how do you tackle the trump suit?

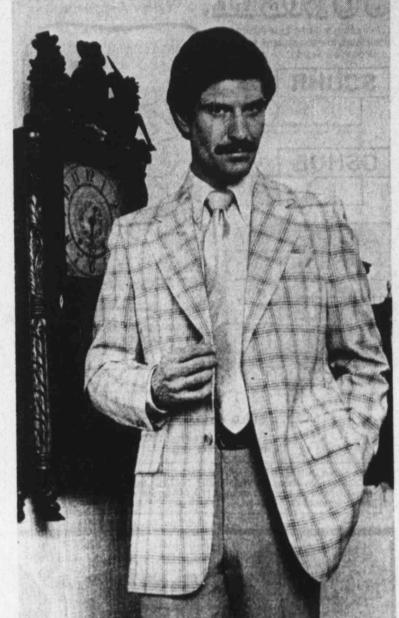

Let's take the second part of the question first. The answer is that you don't know how to play the trump suit because you do not yet know whether you can afford to lose a trick in trumps. To find out, you need to know if the club finesse will succeed.

That answers the first part of the question. It is simpler to win the first heart in dummy and immediately lead a club to the queen. When this wins, you can afford to take a safety play in trumps. Lead low toward dummy and, if West follows with a low trump, finesse the nine. If West shows out, win the ace and lead a trump toward your queen. Either way, that guarantees that you will lose no more than one trump trick.

What if the club finesse were to lose? Now you cannot afford to lose a trump trick and must rely on one of two possibilities: You can either lead the ace of diamonds, hoping to drop a singleton king, or lead the queen in an attempt to find West with the guarded king of trumps and East with the singleton jack. Which of these two methods should you choose? Lead the ace. That works if either defender has a singleton king of trumps. whereas the other line succeeds only when East has specifically the singleton jack. In other words, cashing the ace is twice as likely to bring in the trump suit as leading the queen.

The Slim Gourmet

This year, even calorie-conscious cooks have a shot at winning big bucks in the National Chicken Cooking Contest because this year the rules have been changed. In the past contestants were required to use at least one-quarter cupful of oil in a recipe to serve four, thereby inflating the calorie count by 500 . . . or 125 extra calories per serving. This year the only required ingredient is chicken. And, if there's one food calorie-watchers are familiar with, it's chicken!

How much can you win? Ten thousand dollars, if your recipe is voted tops by a panel of newspaper food writers. In addition, four runners-up are chosen, with prizes of $4,000, $3,000, $2,000 and $1,000. A winner is selected for each state, and each state's finalist also wins an all-expense paid three-day trip to the national competition. A fun event, this year it will be held in Tampa, Fla., on July 26.

Deadline for this year's contest is April 1. You can get complete details and an entry blank by writing to the National Chicken Cooking Contest, P.O. Box 28158, Central Station, Washington, D.C.

Interesting People Abound In Town

Associated Press Writer

RIDGEFIELD, Conn. - My old aunt used to say you never really know who your neighbors are until one day you read about them in the paper being appointed to the White House transportation staff or taken off in the patrol wagon for wife-beating or graduating with high honors from welding school.

And, by George, she was right.

This town, for instance, is chock full of interesting peo ple, what you might call real characters just waiting to be discovered by some sharp-eyed reporter or a playwright in search of a sequel to "Our Town."

Over on Ludlow Hill there's a man who never in all his born days has seen a flying saucer. Old Ben Lovecraft has lived in these rocky, rolling hills of Connecticut for nigh onto half a century, since moving up from the Bronx, without catching so much as a glimmer of an outer world touchdown on his two-acre zoned spread there behind the town dump.

The other night he thought he saw an eerie light reflecting from an elliptical shaped object in his driveway that wasn't there when he took in the cat and turned off the carriage lamps. He put on his new Christmas cardigan, grabbed a flash light from the hall closet and made his way stealthily along the hedges bordering the garage. He could hear chattering and the sound of equipment being unloaded

There in the moonlight, he saw five tiny creatures no bigger than a breadbox with enormous shiny eyes filing out of an aluminum cylinder. They fled in panic the instant his beam hit them.

"You know how racoons scamper after they've tipped over a garbage can to get at a turkey carcass," Ben drawled in his matter of fact way. "I called the Air Force and they didn't want to hear about it. They already had four people on hold with positive sightings."

Fascinating fellow, Ben. A real skeptic. He's seen "Star Wars" twice and "Close Encounters of the Third Kind" three times and doesn't believe a word of either of them.

Over on Lagonwiffle Road, near the new condominiums, there's a young fellow, name of Nick Nevensp who hasn't put his name down for Pan Am's first flight to the moon and says he doesn't intend to, ever. Nick, who moved up from the Bronx a year ago, says he not interested in that space shuttle either.

Nick took the bus to Hartford last week to visit the Mark Twain house, and it broke down with a vapor lock or a burnt-out transmission or something coming out of Waterbury, which he says taught him a lesson about inter and outergallactic travel.

"If God wanted man to go traipsing about on the stars and planets," he chuckled over his root beer, "He'd have created moonbeams with median strips and rest areas Real philosopher, Nick, and not a word has ever been written about him. Up the Dorks, who actually were at home one night when one of those television polling outfits telephoned to ask which program they were watching

Down in the village, across from the knitting and crochet shop, lives a family,

"We actually were looking at home movies at the time," reminisced Myra Dork, mother of four who moved up from the Bronx last winter. "Of course, I couldn't tell the man that so I said it was one of them family situation come-

Myra says the pollster asked if it was "Soap" they were viewing. "That's it, I told him, and he wanted to know if we had any objections to the strong language being used. Well, Uncle Dudley was visiting us that night and some of the language was pretty rough, seeing as how he hates home movies, even the ones he takes hinself, so it fitted right in with the man's question and I told him we were used to that kind of language around here. I guess they think we're a pretty wild bunch here in Ridgefield.'

And we are. There's a man over on Appleknocker Terrace who was at St. Andrew's in Scotland when Jack Nicklaus drove the 18th green in winning the British Open in 1970. Only Sedge Walker - that's his name ... moved up from the Bronx three years ago - wasn't out at the Old Course that day to watch. Sedge hates golf. He was in the reading room of the university library studying up on old Scottish kirk steeple construction and design, his hobby. Last year when Reggie Jackson hit those three home runs in the last game of the World Series. Sedge came across some fascinating drawings of early Aberdeen and Dundee

Court Candidate Says Name Not Qualification

AUSTIN (AP) - A famous name should not be a qualification for state office, Jim Vollers, candidate for the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals said.

Vollers' opponent in the Democratic primary is Sam Houston Clinton.

"My parents did not name me for a famous Texan," Vollers said at a news conference. "I've been involved in many, many times more criminal cases than my opponent.

Vollers has been on the appeals court since Gov. Dolph Briscoe appointed him to a newly created judgeship on Jan. 1. The court was expanded from five to nine members after voters approved the change in November, 1977.

Before the judicial appointment, Vollers had been the state's prosecuting attorney before the court for nine years. Clinton has charged that Vollers has been out of active practice for nine years.

"I have been in actual practice for nihe years and in constant touch with district and county attorneys in the state," Voll-ers countered. He said his contributions to date are 'around $10,000," and said that $100,000 is usually needed to run a state cam-

Vollers said public knowledge of and interest in court cases has increased in the last two years.

"We all learned two years ago that lawvers don't elect judges - the people do,

Vollers referred to the election of Don Yarbrough of Houston to the Texas Supreme Court, although laywers endorsed Charles Barrow. It has been widely assumed that Yarbrough won because of the resemblance of his name to that of Don Yarborough, who ran two close races for governor in the 1960s.

But in the absence of a discernible Irish community, the real reason for the annual celebration honoring Ireland's patron saint is a chance for everybody to cut up like a bunch of cowhands on Satur-

"It's just a chance for people to come back and visit. It's quite a celebration," said Gary Gandy, chairman of this year's

Among the traditional activities in this West Texas town with the name reminiscent of Ireland include a donegal shenanigan (a beard judging contest), selection of a coleen (an Irish beauty queen), parades and banquets.

A man without a beard becomes as wanted as the fugitives whose pictures once decorated sheriffs' offices. The only thing that protects the clean shaven des--perado is a permit that lets him walk the streets without being tossed in the pokey, according to the town's St. Patrick's Day (tongue in cheek) law.

The celebration has gone on successful-laws banning the rog flowing so freely at St. Patrick's Day parties elsewhere on the Christian map.

"Every good Irishman has a jug under the coat," said Gandy. How many good Irishman live in Shamrock? "Oh, quite a few," he said, not meaning it. The celebration dates from 1938 when Glenn Truax, a high school band director, decided to take advuntage of the community's name. Except for a few World War II and Korean War years, the shenanigans have been going on ever since.

How the town came by its moniker goes back to the 1890s, according to local legend. Then the town was called Exum, but a homesick postmaster named George Nickle changed it to Shamrock in memory of Old Sod.

Christman says his research shows New Christman developed bladder cancer four years ago. The Loyola University Orleans drinking water contains 50 to 150 percent more trihalomethanes than the Environmental Protection Agency's maximum acceptable standards. He said the city has only three years to meet the Christman, who has studied the effects standards.

Trihalomethanes are organic compounds formed when the city's water from the Mississippi River is chlorinated

Christman says persons would be less likely to develop cancer if they drank straight river water instead of tap water.

He says the cheapest way to reduce the carcinogenic level would be to install heavy-duty carbon filters where water is drawn for drinking and cooking. The alternatives, he says, would be prohibitively expensive.

This is where I see it different from the EPA," Christman says. "Only I percent of all water is consumed. So why clean up 100 percent?"

Large carbon filtration systems would cost millions to build and maintain, and Christman says they would use too much

Professor Studies Water In New Orleans energy. By equipping homes with individual units, all water not used for drinking or cooking could be chlorinated at present levels or even reduced in quality.

Commercial carbon filters advertised on television "aren't worth the time to fasten them." Christman says, because they usually consist of a one-ounce carbon filter. Christman says after 30 gallons of water have passed through the portable gadget, they are useless.

The five-pound filters Christman suggests cost more than $150 at present, but he says the cost would come down if they were mass produced.

Town Flees Deadly Gas Following Chemical Fire

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio (UPI) - Fire officials today were uncertain exactly where to begin their investigation of a series of explosions and fire that sent thousands fleeing a cloud of deadly chlorine gas and hundreds of others to hospitals for treatment.

"It's a miracle nobody was killed," Mayor William Crabbe said of Tuesday's blasts at a National Colloid Co. chemical warehouse near the downtown area.

At least 251 persons, including about 100 firemen, were taken to three area hospitals for treatment. Sixty-three of those were admitted, four in serious con-

A DAILY MESSAGE FROM

Newspaper Bible.

Matt. 12:39-50, 13:1-8, The Living Bible

39,40 But Jesus replied, "Only an evil, faithless nation would ask for further proof; and none will be given except what happened to Jonah the prophet! For as Jonah was in the great fish for three days and three nights, so I, the Son of Mankind, shall be in the heart of the earth three days and three 41 The men of Nineveh shall arise against this nation at the judgment and condemn you. For when Jonah preached to them, they repented and turned to God from all their evil ways. And now a greater than Jonah is here-and you refuse to believe Him.

42 The Queen of Sheba shall rise against this nation in the judgment, and condemn it; for she came from a distant land to hear the wisdom of Solomon; and now a greater than Solomon is here-and you refuse to believe Him.

43,44,45 This evil nation is like a man possessed by a demon. For if the demon leaves, it goes into the deserts for a while, seeking rest but finding none. Then it says, 'I will return to the man I came from.' So it returns and finds the man's heart clean but empty! Then the demon finds seven other spirits more evil than itself, and all enter the man and live in him. And so he is worse off than before."

46,47 As Jesus was speaking in a crowded house His mother and talk with Him. When someone told brothers were outside, wanting to Him they were there, 48 He remarked, "Who is My mother? Who are My brothers?" 49 He pointed to His disciples. "Look!" He said, "these are My mother and brothers. 50 Then He added, "Anyone who obeys My Father in heaven is My brother, sister and mother!" CHAPTER 13

I Later that same day, Jesus left the house and went down to the shore, 2,3 Where an immense crowd soon gathered. He got into a boat and taught from it while the people listened on the beach. He used many illustrations such as this one in His sermon: "A farmer was sowing grain in his fields.

4 As he scattered the seed across the ground, some fell beside a path, and the birds came and ate it. 5 And some fell on rocky soil where there was little depth of earth; the plants sprang up quickly enough in the shallow soil. 6 But the hot sun soon scorched them and they withered and died, for they had so little root.

7 Other seeds fell among thorns, and the thorns choked out the tender blades.

8 But some fell on good soil, and produced a crop that was 30, 60 and even 100 times as much as he had planted.

Flagship Hotel Changes Hands

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) - Miami Beach's flagship Fontainebleau Hotel has changed hands for $26.8 million after 14 months under the protective wing of U.S. Bankruptcy Court.

The new owners, Hotelerama Associates Ltd., announced Tuesday that the Fontainebleau will remain open while undergoing a $10-million facelifting program although some of its 1,275 rooms will be closed during the renovations.

A Hotelerama spokesman said the hotel will be run by the hospitality division of Helmsley-Spear Inc., which is controlled by Empire State Building owner Harry Helmsley of New York.

Lawrence M. Schantz, attorney for bankruptcy trustee Larry Gilbert, said the $26.8-million purchase price approved last December by Bankruptcy Judge Thomas Britton may result in the repayment of most of the Fontainebleau's debts accumulated under former owner Ben Novack.

"It depends on how the claims work out." Schantz said. "But there will be substantial recovery to the creditors.

Harold Gardner, the Fontainebleau: public relations representative, said he is beginning a promotional campaign on 'the renaissance of the Fontainebleau' to attract tourists back to the South Florida landmark

Opened in 1954 by Novack, the Fontainebleau was forced into bankruptcy proceedings by creditors in January 1977. It finally was declared bankrupt last October, ending Novack's often controversial

Deadly Disease Strikes Infants

HOUSTON (AP) - A new disease, as yet unnamed and carried by parents unknowingly, is killing and disabling more children than did polio in the 1950s, say two researchers at the Baylor College of

Drs. Carol Baker and Morven Edwards said the disease - known only as "Group B Strep" - strikes some 15,000 infants a year. Half the babies die, they say, and

Hill Seeks To Fight Bell Rates

AUSTIN (AP) - Attorney General John Hill says he wants to do battle again with Southwestern Bell Telephone over the rates charged consumers.

He filed a motion with the Public Utility Commission on Tuesday asking permission to intervene in Southwestern Bell Telephone's $214 million rate increase case.

Intervention would make the attorney general a party, with full rights to crossexamine Bell witnesses, present witnesses of his own and argue before the commission.

Hill said at a news conference his advisers, including Dallas utility consultant Pat Loconto, believe Bell's request is substantially out of line. Bell filed the request Thursday, saving its revenues were not producing an adequate rate of return. The attorney general, currently running for governor, said Loconto had calculated that the increase would raise the return on Bell's common stock from 12.5 percent to as much as 16 percent. "I haven't foreclosed in my own mind that the phone company might be entitled to some rate increase," Hill said. Bell received a $58 million increase in December 1976 - far below the $298 million it requested. Not only would Bell's latest' request raise residential telephone bills, Hill said, but it also would increase charges on CENTREX systems such as the state uses by $10 million. "The impact of an increase of that magnitude would be a burden on the taxpayers of the state," he said in a prepared statement. Reporters also asked Hill about the legitimacy of his activities in the field of

Gov. Dolph Briscoe recently instructed his Criminal Justice Division to determine whether Hill's organized crime division was exceeding its authority under the grant received from the CJD.

"The statutes of this state require the attorney general to respond to grand jury requests. . . In addition, it has been traditional in the attorney general's office for the attorney general to assist the Department of Public Safety in connection with narcotics control in this state. The attorney general has a clear statutory responsibility to move against any clear misapplication of public funds, as in Duval

He said if Briscoe truly believed the attorney general had no business in criminal law enforcement, "why has he allowed his office to fund this (organized crime division) program for the last five

Hill said he doubted the CJD would cancel the $380,000 federal grant that funds the organized crime program.
"It would be a crippling blow," he said.

Area Murder Trial Date Set For May

PLAINS (Special) - The trial of Ricardo Lopez, accused of last April's gunshot slaying of Whitharral High School principal Malcolm Omar Tripp, has been set for May 22 in Plains.

Lopez, 18, of Route 2, Littlefield is jailed in Levelland. Dist. Judge M.C. Ledbetter had tentatively set a March 27 trial date. Ledbetter said Tuesday he moved the date to May after granting Lopez's defense a motion for continuance Patrick Abeyta of Lubbock, Lopez's attorney, said Tuesday that he had asked for more time because he wanted to examine a medical report from the state's psychiatrist before going to trial.

Lopez was found incompetent to stand trial by a Plains jury last June after testimony from a psychiatrist that the defendant was "enamored" with voodoo and black magic. Lopez was deemed competent in late December, however, by Dr. James A. Hunter, clinical director at Rusk State Hospital. The former Whitharral High School student was then discharged from Rusk and returned to the Hockley County Jail in Levelland. Hockley County Dist. Atty. Bill Boedeker is prosecuting the case, along with Lubbock attorney John Montford who was hired by Tripp's family as a special

Tripp, 31, was shot to death on the steps of Whitharral High School about 9 a.m. April 7. Lopez reportedly walked into a nearby grocery store, put a .32 caliber revolver on the counter and told the store's owner to call police and an ambulance. School officials said Tripp had been talking to Lopez a few moments before, asking him why he was not in class.

retarded, with spinal meningitis, or later, with learning and behavioral problems.

"When you say 15,000 infants a year. perhaps that is not an impressive figure.' said Dr. Baker. "But it is a greater toll than the polio babies of the 1950s. It is a heart-breaking experience to see a child born with this disease and then die within two to 12 hours.'

The doctors said the disease was first spotted in children early in the 1970s and its growth as yet is statistically impossible to measure. Their feeling, however, is that the disease is striking more and more children.

Drs. Baker and Edwards said in a recent interview that they are working with doctors at Harvard Medical School to develop a vaccine that would slow and possibly stop spread of the disease, which is similar to group B streptococcus.

The streptococcus family causes such diseases as scarlet fever, rheumatic fever and strep throat, but the new disease produces symptoms of none of these in the parent carrier.

The scientists said the disease is carried by the mother in her vagina or can be transmitted from the father during sex but is not a venereal disease. There are no social or economic boundaries of who contracts the disease, which can strike after a normal pregnancy begins, often too late for treatment, the two researchers said.

We can detect the disease at birth but by then it generally is too late," said Dr. Baker. "We must immunize the mother But because of concern of administering vaccines to pregnant women, the solution seems to be giving the vaccine to women of child-bearing age."

The doctors said a preliminary test with volunteers indicated the possibility immunizing mothers from passing along the disease, even when the father is the carrier. They said large-scale studies would begin this spring to determine the effectiveness of a vaccine.

The two doctors said that it is mandatory to begin an education program, possibly in schools, to tell young people about the disease. Dr. Baker suggested immunizing women who apply for marriage li-

Churches Plan Appeal To Zoning Board

Two churches will make separate appeals to the Zoning Board of Adjustment Thursday for permission to use church property as parking lots.

At the 8:15 a.m. meeting, to be held in council chambers, Evan Roberts for Westminister Presbyterian Church will ask for a special exception to expand the existing parking lot at 3301 33rd St.

Bethany Baptist Church, represented by Ross Spencer, will make a similar request for property at 4407 39th St.

Adolfo Cortinas for Pentecostal Church at 1701 Vanda Ave. will ask board members for permission to replace the current church building with a new one. Because the church is in a two-family residential (R-2) zone, board permission is necessary before changes are made.

Gary Beaty will seek a variance in the square footage requirement for a duplex at 2317 15th St. The ordinance requires a minimum of foot lot for a duplex, and Beaty proposes building one on a 6,300square-foot lot.

The board will hear Lowell Bowman's request for a rear yard setback variance for a duplex on the southwest corner of 74th Street and 75th Drive. The ordinance requires a 15-foot setback. Bowman will ask that the requirement be reduced to five feet to keep the duplex in line with others near it. The other structures were built before the setback requirement was changed, a zoning department spokesman said.

Jimmy Land will seek a similar rear yard variance for duplexes at 4417 and 4427 75th Drive.

Attorney Tom Sawyer, representing John Johnson, will ask the board for a parking requirement variance on several lots at 2138 19th St. He will ask that the required number of spaces be made up by leased spaces on adjacent property.

Scattered Showers Strike Panhandle

A low pressure system that carried heavy rains and high winds from the Mississippi to the Ohio valley and across much of the Northeast faded away into a docile drizzle today.

Gulf states took the heaviest pounding from Tuesday's rain with some flooding reported in low lying areas. But widespread flooding expected in the upper Ohio basin and the East never materialized because lighter-than-expected rains

A cooler weather system moved over the East today and was expected to slow down the thawing of long-standing snow and ice

Rain and snow dotted the central Rockies into southwest Kansas and the pan-handles of Oklahoma and Texas early today. Scattered thunderstorms were reported.

Rainy weather was expected along the northern Pacific coast with skies sunny to partly sunny along the California coast. Mild temperatures were expected to add to the suggestion of Spring, which officially arrives on Monday.

Early morning temperatures around the nation ranged from 13-degrees in Grand Forks, N.D. to 74 in Key West,

A low pressure center - accompanied by brisk northerly and northwesterly winds and followed by a high pressure ridge - continued across Texas this morning, touching off showers in some Panhandle areas but promising to leave the South Plains dry through Thursday.

Fair skies with temperatures reaching the 50s today dominated Lubbock forecasts, but "considerable high cloudiness" covered much of Texas south of a line from Marfa to Waco and Shreveport.

At 4 a.m. temperatures in Texas generally ranged in the 40s and 50s, with the Panhandle noting exceptions in the 30s.

Tuesday temperature extremes in Texas were 36 degrees at Dalhart and 58 at Victoria. Lubbock's minimum reading Tuesday was 36 degrees, recorded at Lubbock International Airport.

and Southeast Texas as the state's warmest spots today. Thermometers there were expected to register in the 76s and 80s by mid-afternoon.

The National Weather Service weather wrap-up for the Lubbock area added a touch of wind — northwesterly at 10-15 mph this afternoon, shifting to 10-15 mph northerly winds tonight — to today's mild weather scene. Forecasts have set tonight's low temperature at about 30 de-

Readings near 60 degrees were expected Thursday in the Lubbock area.

At 8 a.m. today, the National Weather Service reported northwesterly winds at 13 mph and 37 degrees.

Before dawn today the low-pressure center had reached an area between Abilene and Wichita Falls and was mo eastward across North-Central Texas. That center was followed by cooler, dry air pushing southward and eastward. The northwesterly and northerly winds were expected to reach Central Texas by midafternoon today.

Pre-dawn windspeeds generally were 10 mph or less across the state.

Early morning readings included 37 degrees at Amarillo, 46 at Wichita Falls and Texarkana, 45 at Dallas-Fort Worth, 48 at San Antonio, 46 at Lufkin, 47 at Houston, 52 at Corpus Christi, 51 at Brownsville and Del Rio, 52 at San Angelo and 44 at

Grain Futures

THICAGO (AP) - Soybean futures fluctuated wildly on the Chicago Board of Trade Tuesday, buoyed by weak dollar news and depressed in the final moments by reports that a coal strike settlement was imminent. The soybean contracts finished 9 cents lower to 41/2 cents higher. Forn deliveries resisted the late selling to close an average of 2 cents higher, but wheat futures were eroded to steady lev-

News that a coal strike settlement may have been reached immediately depressed silver futures. Earlier, analysts traced an upswing in the soybean complex to strength in silver contracts that was based on continued concern about; the worth of the dollar.

In addition, the Agriculture Department lowered its estimate of Brazilian sovbean production to 10.5 million to 11 million metric tons.

tton Futures

NEW YORK (AP) - Cotton futures No. 2 closed $1.75 a bale lower to $2.75 higher Tuesday.

News that Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland would not recommend a cotton set-aside program this year prompted selling of futures contracts, brokers said.

The average price for strict low middling 11-16 inch spot cotton advanced 62 points to 55.68 cents a pound Monday for the 10 leading markets, according to the New York Cotton Exchange.

Area Pair Snares Top Honors In Southwest Livestock Show

Avalanche-Journal Farm Writer A pair of Lubbock County youths swept the barrow division of the 45th Southwest Junior Livestock Show here Tuesday night at the Panhandle South Plains Fairgrounds.

Judge Paul Gross of Amarillo chose a mediumweight crossbred barrow exhibited by Bobby Richey Jr. of Wolfforth as all breed grand champion and a mediumweight Hampshire shown by Jana Winter of Idalou as the reserve grand champion.

Richey, 14, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Richey. The Frenship Future Farmer of America's (FFA) barrow was bred by James Mitchell of Wolfforth.

Miss Winter, 12, is a member of the Lubbock County 4-H. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Winter. Winter and his son, Jay, bred the reserve grand champion.

The Southwest show, dedicated to the late John Key of Lubbock, will conclude with the sale of prize winning animals at 1 p.m. today in the livestock pavilion. A summary of the top placing barrows by wide margins The state hired Irving P. Krick, a private consultant who was Gen. Dwight D.

Eisenhower's forecaster for the Normandy invasion. He said rainfall would be only 70 to 75 percent of California's normal Another respected expert predicted normal rain and a tree ring expert said the drought would continue another year.

Granger, a University of California climatologist, has developed a new method for long-range weather forecasting which he says gives him about a 95 percent chance of being right. During the next decade, he believes the method could be developed to cover most of the earth's land surface.

Granger's forecast for California in 1977-78 was not his first success. His model produced similar results for the two previous seasons, the only times the model has been tried.

The idea came from another researcher's discovery during the 1973 Sahara drought that there was a delayed relationship between a desert area and the North African coast.

Granger found the weather pattern of the Mexican coast south of Mazatlan repeats itself approximately seven years later in California. A student gathered Mexican weather data back to 1850 during a summer vacation and the relationship was refined by running the data through computer.

"We were working on this in 1975," Granger said, "and at that time, nobody would have funded that kind of stuff. The only help we got was from the university

Granger's 163 percent of normal forecast included an area between Redding and San Diego - the bulk of California -

Solution Offered To Fuel Needs

farmers may be looking to livestock manat ure, some dried-up desert plants, gin vis trash and throwaway melons to solve no some of their energy needs in the future, Texas agricultural scientists say.

Researchers from Texas colleges told a Texas House subcommittee Tuesday that the manure is being used to produce ni pipeline quality methane gas while the petroculture plants can produce oil, rubber or lubricant substitutes.

The gin trash could provide enough energy to gin and dry cottonseed, one researcher said, while another said cull melons, vegetable residue and sugar cane molasses can be converted to alcohol.

The subcommittee concluded two days of hearings Tuesday on alternate sources of energy for agriculture.

Dr. E.L. Fulton of Tarleton State University said he is constructing an electrical generating unit designed to use chicken droppings as its power source.

The droppings are converted into the raw source for methane gas generation,

Taking a normal-sized 50,000 bird operation, Fulton explained, about 4.2 million cubic feet of methane gas could be produced in a year. At five cents per kilowatt, more than $15,000 worth of energy could be produced in a year. "There is no question that producing energy is possible," said Fulton. "We just have to work out a few technical difficulties. I feel this operation is feasible in Texas within a very short time. We will be producing our own energy at the test facility in Tarleton by the end of May."

Pipeline quality gas is produced, as well as a by-product of high-protein liquid fertilizer that can be stored and pumped to Petroculture crops can be grown on semi-arid lands with little or no irrigation, said Texas AM researcher Dr. Dan

"It is becoming apparent that innovative approaches in using renewable re-sources are essential if we are to insure the continued economic vitality of Texas' food and fibers industry," Bragg said.

Bragg said agriculture scientists are studying guayule, Jojoba and euphorbia as possible energy-producing crops. All are drought resistant and can grow in the desert regions of most southwestern states, including Texas, he added.

Methods of converting gin trash to energy must be developed before farmers can tap that potential source of energy, said Dr. Ed Hiler, a Texas AM research-

Dr. Chan C. Connolly of Weslaco, resident director of research at the Texas AM Agricultural Research and Extension Center there, said much Rio Grande Valley research is focusing on potentials for fuels from sugar crops.

The Department of Energy has indicated an interest in building a $25 million demonstration alcohol plant in the Valley, one of five projected demonstration plants in the nation, he said.

Vegetable residues, cull melons and molasses - a by-product of the area's sugar cane industry - can be converted into alcohol should the nine-million-gallon plant be built in Texas, Connolly said.

Charles Sullivan, executive director of Citizens United to Rehabilitate Errants. said Tuesday the board's approval of the Hidalgo County site during a meeting Monday violated the law because the item was not on the agenda

He said the board also illegally failed to put the closed executive session on the agenda. It was during the session that the board approved the land acquisition.

'Why was the decision to select the site made in secret when those decisions are required by law to be made in public?' Sullivan asked.

He said CURE intends to sue the corrections board for violating the Texas Open Meetings Law.

Sullivan and CURE legal counsel Malcolm Greenstein also said there were other legal problems with the South Texas site. Greenstein said a clause in the appropriations bill requires the site of a new prison unit to be in West Texas.

"I think you'd really have to twist the interpretation to say that Hidalgo County is located in West Texas," Greenstein

'The irony is the board that controls the errants of society is violating criminal law," Greenstein said.

The site of a unit housing 2,500 inmates so close to the Mexican border poses a potential security problem, said Sullivan. He also charged prison officials with contradicting themselves regarding writ-

Mayor Of Village Jailed For Arson

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) - The mayor of a small village near this upstate New York community is in Otsego County Jail after being charged with seconddegree arson in connection with a fire in which an elderly man died.

Richfield Springs Mayor Edward Marzeski, 55, was ordered held without bail Tuesday. Also charged with second-degree arson and jailed without bail in connection with the blaze was Daniel Pawlyshyn, 42, of Herkimer.

The fire last Dec. 31 involved a sevenapartment complex in Richfield Springs owned by the mayor. James Devenpeck, 73, died in the blaze.

The fire was initially labeled accidental but a state police probe resulted in the men's arrests.

50 Convicts Killed In Riot Fire

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) -Fifty convicts at Argentina's largest prison died of burns or smoke inhalation and 64 were hospitalized after rioting inmates set fire to their bedding and furniture, police said.

Police denied that any prisoners at the crowded Villa Devoto prison 10 miles north of the city's center were killed when security forces crushed an inmate revolt Tuesday with teargas grenades and gunfire.

No motive for the riot was given, but one official theorized it could have been a protest against overcrowding or an attempt to cause confusion for an escape attempt. The penitentiary was built for 2,500 prisoners but reportedly holds more than 4.000.

The death toll in the fire was this country's worst prison tragedy and among the worst on record, surpassing the death toll of 43 in a riot and police charge at New York's Attica Prison in 1971.

Forty-four inmates perished in the smoke and flames before firemen could break down the barricaded door of cellblock No. 7 that housed 161 men, a police spokesman reported. Six other prisoners died later in hospitals, the official said. No guards or policemen were injured.

The uprising began Tuesday morning, police said, when 30 guards entered cellblock No. 7 for a routine morning inspection and were attacked by 50 to 60 prisoners waiting in the entrance hallway. Prison officials said the inmates tried to seize some of the guards as hostages but the security men managed to escape.

Residents living near the high-walled pentitentiary reported hearing gunfire and explosions during the three-hour riot. The police spokesman said security forces standing outside the prison fired into the windows of the third-story cell to "intimidate" the rioters and claimed none of the inmates were hit by police

Police said that after the guards escaped, the prisoners piled bedding and other funiture against the cell door and windows and set the materials ablaze. Many prisoners were burned beyond recognition.

After the riot, ambulances escorted by police motorcycles took the injured to local hospitals.

This was a reference to the Ethiopian military government's Marxist program.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Saudi Arabia has told the Carter administration it is prepared to go elsewhere for warplanes if its proposed purchase of 60 F-15 jetfighters becomes bogged down in Congress, a State Department official said Tuesday.

J. Brian Atwood, deputy assistant sec-retary of state, said he has been told by Saudi's royal family that "a delay is just as bad as a rejection" because Saudi Arabia must have the planes as quickly as possible to meet its defense needs.

Some members of Congress have criticized the arms sale as proposed by President Carter because it lumps together the sale of planes to Saudi Arabia and Egypt with a deal to sell arms and jetfighters to

The Eritrean rebels also are Marxists and in the past have looked to Moscow for backing. But despite hopeful talk in Washington that Cuban troops and Soviet advisers would leave Ethiopia after the collapse of the Somali rebellion in the eastern part of the country, observers have been expecting the Cuban forces to move north and aid the Ethiopian army against the Eritreans.

For one thing, the only thing of economic value to Ethiopia in the Ogaden Plateau for which the Somalis were fighting is the railway from Addis Ababa, the Ethiopian capital, to the port of Djibouti. But Eritrea, which the late Emperor Haile Selassie annexed in 1962, provides Ethiopia with its only coast on the Red Sea and the port of Massawa.

The government of Somalia announced Tuesday night that its forces who had been aiding rebel Somali tribesmen in the Ogaden have completed their withdrawal to Somalia. A Yugoslav report from Addis Ababa said Ethiopian forces have advanced to the Somali border in southern Sidano province after capturing six more towns in the Ogaden.

The Somalia government, in a statement issued in Mogadishu, called on the United States and the Soviet Union to negotiate a settlement in the Horn of Africa based on the rights of self-determination to the peoples of the area." The Ethiopian government has already rejected self-determination for the people of the Ogaden since they are ethnic Somali tribesmen who would vote overwhelmingly to join Somalia.

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) - Tomb robbing, a flourishing trade in Egypt since the days of the Pharaohs, is a bigger business than ever, with wealthy foreign investors paying top dollar for remnants of this na-

In 1140 BC, an incense roaster in the Amon Temple at Thebes told a court that a group of robbers approached him one night. "They took me with them and we opened a tomb and brought away a shroud of gold and silver," he confessed.

His trial records turned up on the illegal antiquities market in the same city more than 3,000 years later.

The business hasn't changed much, except incentive is up and the penalties are down. The incense roaster was tortured to elicit his testimony, but records of his sentence are vague.

Modern tomb robbers and antiquity smugglers are subject to a $25 fine. Artifacts smuggled out of Egypt now fetch up to $500,000 from collectors and from investors who see them as a hedge against inflation. Antiquities experts say prices have seared since the Tutankhamen exhibit came to the United States.

'Thieves used to concentrate on things they could carry away, movable objects. Newadays, they are cutting reliefs from the lomb walls," said Dr. Labib Habachi, former head of the Antquities Department and one of the world's leading

Dr. Manfred Bietak, an Austrian arlogist excavating in the Nile Delta, said ancient plunderers sought gold and

Now it is fragments of sarcophagi and even tiny things like rings and figurines," Bietak said. "As interests have changed over the ages, thieves have plundered again and again on the same sites."

Ancient thievery was highly specialized. One family or group would break into a tomb and take only precious metals while others would steal only oil or wood or cloth.

Many of the pieces on today's illegal market are brought in by farmers or vil-lagers who find them or dig as a sideline. "Today most of the thieves are villagers and some of these poor people are pushed by antiquities dealers or foreign collectors," Habachi said.

Near the Valley of the Kings in upper Egypt, there is a village of 15,000 where press reports say virtually all the inhabitants deal in looted antiquities. The goverament built them a new town away from temptation, but the villagers refused to budge.

"It is very simple," explained Al Ahram, Cairo's leading daily newspaper. The land is a virtual underground warehouse of antiquities. They just dig, even under their own houses, and sell what they find,'

Some of the theft is highly organized. One archaeologist said a big international ring of dealers organized the stealing of reliefs from the crypts at the Dendura Temple, one of the best preserved in Egypt. Sixteen pieces were chiseled out even though 30 guards were there.

"These were taken to France and now are in Switzerland, the main place for trade of stolen pieces of art," Habachi said.

Canada Ups Loan Rate To Banks

OTTAWA (AP) - Hoping to strengthen the Canadian dollar, the government has raised the Bank of Canada's lending rate to chartered banks to 8 percent from 7.5 percent and has taken a formal step toward the first sale of federal bonds.

The actions last week came after the Canadian dollar had fallen on New York markets to a post-1933 low of 88.68 U.S. cents. A year ago, it was worth about 95 U.S. cents.

Gerald Bouey, the central bank's governor, said in a statement that the bank rate increase - the first change since last May 9 - was intended to moderate downward pressures on the dollar.

The rate increase, which applies to the Bank of Canada's infrequent loans to chartered banks, probably means higher interest charges for consumers. Other interest rates, such as those for mortgages and bank deposits, generally follow the trend of the Bank of Canada rate.

Finance Minister Jean Chretien also announced that the government had filed a statement with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission as a prelude to an offering of $750 million of Government of Canada bonds in the United States.

Thus begins the grand struggle between man's conscience and wealth.

In 1975, police investigating the murder of an Armenian merchant found what they described as the second largest horde of stolen antiquities in modern history. Coins, jewelry, richly decorated coffins and statuary valued at $1.5 million was found in three houses near Cairo. A year later, police in Aswan discovered a cache of rare Pharaonic pieces worth nearly $300,000 in the possession of a local hotel owner who also worked on excavations.

Egypt's Parliament reacted by proposing stiffer punishment for stealing art works. But after two years of debate, the new law has not been passed.

A Cairo museum official said a project was begun several years ago to register and photograph the millions of priceless objects in the government's possession. But he said it would take $140,000 a year for 10 years to complete the project.

Dr. Victor Girgis, acting head of the Antiquities Department, said the prob-lem of thefts "is a small one really and limited mostly to those who smuggle items out of the country. But Girgis concedes that no statistics are kept by the department and many experts disagree with him, contending the thefts are growing at an alarming rate.

Bietak said museum officials and private dealers should be compelled to register all goods and make dealing in any new, non-registered items illegal.

A temporary ban on export of all items judged to be antiquities including those purchased from licensed dealers was decreed about a year ago in Egypt, although

State Board To Consider Bank Suit

A-J Austin Bureau

AUSTIN-Although the State Banking Board is scheduled once again to consider applications of three proposed banks in South Lubbock, there is a possibility the matter may be aired in the Travis County Courthouse prior to the June 5 board hearing.

The organizers of the proposed Liberty State Bank have filed suit here asking the court to overturn or send back for further consideration the decision of the board denying the three original applications for bank charters.

The lawsuit contends that the board's denial of the applications "was not supported by substantial evidence" and that the members of the board considered information about the issuance of a federal charter to "an affiliate bank of Lubbock National Bank" without giving the applicants prior notice or an opportunity to present evidence related to the affiliate bank.

The discussion of the federal charter was not based on information appearing in the record, the organizers complain, and this "denied due process" to the applicants.

The lawsuit also alleges that the board's order recites testimony which was "merely statements of opinion of unqualified witnesses" and charges that the testimony of those witnesses was 'purely argumentative in nature."

The organizers further complain the board's order "overlooks and apparently ignores pertinent, relevant and material expert testimony" presented on behalf of the applicants by three economists which, the organizers charge, shows a "public need" for a bank in the area.

The suit also points out that the proposed Liberty State Bank application was the first of the three to be filed and, and as such, it would be "legally and logically entitled to preference, other things being more or less equal" of consideration if it were found that only one bank were to be warranted for the area.

The Liberty State Bank organizers and directors listed as plaintiffs in the lawsuit include W.R. Collier, Don Hudg-eons, Harmon Jenkins, Weldon Gibbs and Harold E. Humphries.

Members of the defendant State Banking Board are Banking Commissioner Robert E. Stewart, State Treasurer Warren G. Harding, and citizen board member, Sam E. Carter.

FDA Revokes Vitamin Dose Regulations

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Food and Drug Administration has revoked rules first-proposed more than five years ago in an attempt to make high doses of Vitamins A and D available only with a doctor's prescription.

The move, formalized in a notice appearing in Tuesday's Federal Register, was made necessary by a federal court ruling last year that the FDA could not regulate vitamins as a drug. The ruling came in a suit brought by segments of the health food industry.

An FDA spokesman, however, said the agency has not given up on the issue even though it did not appeal the court ruling further.

"It is the end of that approach," the spokesman said, "but it does not relieve the risk posed by high doses of vitamins A and D. We are now looking at other ways under the law to bring the public's attention to the problem and to restrict high doses.

"But nothing has been decided," he added.

In December 1972 the FDA first proposed that doses of Vitamin A above 10,-000 international units in size and doses of Vitamin D above 400 IUs be made available only by prescription.

"Excessive amounts of Vitamin A taken over long periods can increase pressure within the human skull and may mimic a brain tumor," the agency said at the time.

"Large doses of this vitamin have also been shown to retard growth in children," it added. "Vitamin D in excessive amounts has been shown to retard mental and physical growth in children.

The proposal blew up a storm of protest from the health food industry, which claimed the consumer's freedom of choice was being abridged. A suit by the National Nutritional Foods Association, which represents health food stores, eventually resulted in the regulations being overturned.

Gray Wolves No Longer Endangered WASHINGTON (AP) - Now they've thrown the wolves to the bureaucrats.

And after 31/2 years of deliberation, the bureaucrats have figured out what to do Compromise.

It seems that the gray wolves of Minnesota, enjoying the protection of the En-dangered Species Act and not knowing when they were well off, began to prosper, and therefore to multiply.

That is no way to keep the government from the door.

According to the most recent census, there were an estimated 1,200 gray wolves in Minnesota. Not only that, they were hungry and had taken to munching on livestock.

So on Oct. 4, 1974, the state government of Minnesota cried wolf.

The state asked the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to take Minnesota's gray wolf off the list of endangered species, a classification which made it illegal to kill ranging into populated areas and said that government protection should be dropped altogether.

Analysis

"In response, the service initiated a review on Nov. 21, 1974," the Interior Department reported on March 9, 1978.

A team of wolf specialists spent two years considering the matter. Finally, the experts were ready. They decided that gray wolves residing in Minnesota should henceforth be considered a threatened species instead of an endangered species.

That means that designated government hit men can kill some wolves if they keep eating farm animals.

An endangered species is one threatened by extinction in at least a significant portion of its range. A threatened species is one likely to become endangered in the

With the recommendation of its wolf experts in hand, the Fish and Wildlife Service asked for public comment. The cards, letters and petitions flowed, and — 326 people said the government should stop protecting the wolves, so that farmers could start shooting them when they show up at the sheep fold or the chicken coop.

- Seven people said Minnesota's wolves should be reclassified, from endangered species to threatened species.

So the Fish and Wildlife Service declared that, in accordance with the experts' recommendations and with "relevant public comments," presumably meaning the seven letters, it would make the wolves a threatened species.

The reclassification will permit limited killing of wolves that prey on domestic animals. Only authorized federal or state animals. Only authorized federal or state wildlife agents can shoot them.

Back when the wolf was endangered, instead of just threatened, the government used to trap wolves that attacked livestock and ship them out of the territory. That's the hard way, and besides, it seems that a displaced wolf, moved from its own turf to roam the territory of another pack, is likely to be killed by the resident wolves anyhow.

Even with the new rules, the Minneso-

Even with the new rules, the Minneso-ta wolves can find sanctuary in the north-ern reaches of the state, where there is a 4,462-square-mile range in which they still can't be killed.

Study Shows Car Pools On Decline

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Americans still won't give up their love affair with the automobile, regardless of energy shortages and gasoline prices. The Census Bureau has reported that the popularity of car pools, buses and subways has declined despite government pleas for commuters to leave their cars at home.

The Transportation Department-funded study showed two out of every three workers drove individually to work while 18 percent joined others in car pools.

The median commute was 7.5 miles and took 21 minutes. The government interviewed persons' in 21 large metropolitan areas to determine the mode of transportation people used to get to work. Declines in public transportation usage by commuters oc-curred in 14 of the 21 cities in the survey between 1970 and 1975.

Use of public transportation to work-slipped three percent between 1970 and 1975, the study found, and the public ap-parently cooled to car pooling.

Four percent of those who had been in car pools in 1974 were driving alone oneyear later, the study noted, while just one percent of the workers who drove alone changed to car pools during the next

The blonde youngster from Douglas-ville, Ga., who plays Barry Guiler in the science fiction film, handed Queen Elizabeth II a bouquet of tulips and other spring flowers after the queen and her husband, Prince Philip, attended the movie's London premiere at the annual Royal Film Performance.

"Meeting the queen was more exciting." than making the movie," Cary told reporters afterward.

The film's director, Stephen Spielberg, also attended the benefit premiere and said he had planned to ask the queen, whether she believed in UFOs. But he said he froze when the monarch reached him in the line of entertainment personalities with whom she shook hands.

Proceeds from the benefit go to a charity for British movies and television workers. The film's public run starts today.

Bill Requires Toilets In Cornfields

ST. PAUL (UPI) - The Minnesota House has tentatively approved a bill reaquiring toilet facilities to be provided in cornfields where young people detassel seed corn in the summer.

"We are making a very minimal request," Rep. Mike Sieben, the sponsor, said Wednesday. "As adults we would expect this kind of treatment."

The bill, which must be passed a second time by the House and then by the state Senate, would require one enclosed portable toilet per 20 persons in a detas-

It would also mandate that those under 18 be paid overtime for more than 48 hours of work in a week.

Rep. Richard Wigley of Lake Crystal insisted the bill was not necessary and would force corn companies to move elsewhere, costing summer jobs for many young people.

A seed corn grower himself, Wigley, said farmers cooperated and allowed de-tasselers to use toilet facilities in their Wigley said some firms had experi-mented by putting portable toilets in cornfields only to find the young people did not use them.

DR. LAMB

Death Of Tissue

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D. DEAR DR. LAMB - Can you explain to me what a "brain stem in-

DEAR READER - Infarction mearly means death of tissue. A myocardial infarction means death of myocardial (heart muscle) tissue. An infarct of the kidney is death of some kidney tissue while an infarct of the brain means death of brain tissue.

Your brain is literally a rounded organ resembling a small pumpkin. It is connected to your body through many complex nerve fibers like a giant mass of electrical wires. The areas for different functions in the brain are connected to these wires. The wires all converge and even cross over each other, literally coming together as a giant electrical cable that runs on as the spinal cord. The lower part of the brain that connects to the spinal cord is "stemlike" in shape and is called the "brain stem."

This area has the main nerve tracts to the body and specialized centers that affect movement of the tongue, and mouth. If an artery that supplies blood to this area is plugged so there is not enough circulation to the area it may cause the nerve tissue there to die or infarct. This is a stroke, in plain language. The refinement of the term to say it is a "brain stem infarction" simply tells you the area in-

To put the whole concept into perspective I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-5, Strokes, Cerebral Vascular Accident - Cerebral Thrombosis. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y., 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Nine years ago I had a complete hysterectomy and the surgeon then told me that I would have to take estrogen daily for the rest of my life. This surgeon has since retired and the doctor I saw last fall said I shouldn't be needing this medication any more and should taper off using it. I haven't taken any for four months and am most miserable with hot flashes.

When ovaries are removed which supply the body with necessary hormones, shouldn't these be supplied by other means? In your opinion how dangerous are estrogens? I'm 62 years old

DEAR READER - Each case has to be individualized. Some women produce enough estrogens from the adrenal gland after the ovaries are removed, or have failed from menopause, to have few if any difficulties. Other women do not.

At least in your case one of the worrisome possibilities, cancer of the uterus, has been removed. All that is left in terms of cancer is the question about breast cancer, and if you don't have any breast disease it is not likely to be a factor there either. Actually female hormones may decrease lung cancer and decrease other diseases. So it is not a yes or no situation.

What is left then are questions about increased tendency to form blood clots, a few people who develop high blood pressure with female hormones and similar problems. The blood clot problem can be solved by taking small amounts of anti-clotting medicines. The other rare individuals who develop high blood pressure probably should avoid hormone therapy. That leaves a lot of women who could take hormones under careful supervision and do so with improved health and safety.

House Vote-Rating Groups List Liberals, Conservatives Even

By IRA R. ALLEN

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Unlike a baseball box score, where figures must be reconciled vertically and horizontally before going into the record books, the well publicized scoring of congressional votes most often adds up all wrong

In both cases, however, what counts is not how an individual box score looks in each records. the spring, but who wins the next fall.

There are dozens of issue-oriented groups in Washington that seem to do little but tote up the votes of 535 House and Senate members and publish them every year, rating the members on how often they voted along the group's party line.

Two of the best-known political box scores are put out by Americans for Democratic Action on the left and the American Conservative Union on the right, and the 20 or 30 votes each measures reflect their political bias.

What all the ratings have in common is an attempt to reduce the irreducible - a politician's complex of views - to a per-

Because different ratings rarely measure the same issues - and when they do the key votes are on different procedural questions - very few individual ratings add up to 100 when the conservatism percentage is added to the liberalism quo-

Overall, both groups rate Congress at about 45 percent - 45 percent liberal by ADA and 45 percent conservative by ACU. The missing 10 percent may be accounted for by the difference in votes

But however misleading or insignificant the ratings are for an individual member, they can be valuable in documenting trends. And both the ADA and the ACU agree on at least one thing the 1977 Congress was more conservative than the 1976 Congress.

ACU attributed the trend to junior Democrats trying to preserve previous Republican seats and on greater solidarity within the GOP now that a Democrat is in the White House.

ADA blamed lack of leadership from the White House for failure to improve the liberal ratings and pressure put on members by "well financed or well organized groups perceived by members as potentially instrumental in either their re-election or their defeat."

Ironically, both ADA and ACU tend to put more pressure on their natural allies than their opponents. Thus, someone on the left will often show up as less liberal in the ADA rating than in the ACU chart, and vice versa.

In fact, ACU said it chose its key votes "to test Congress' conservative mettle" because "as the attitude of Americans is becoming more and more conservative, congressmen should be accountable to a higher standard of what ACU believes best represents a conservative philoso-

ADA doesn't say it that way, but the effect is the same, especially among senators up for re-election this year.

For instance, Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., is deemed liberal 97 percent of the time by ACU but only 80 percent of the time by ADA; Sen. Thomas McIntyre, D-N.H., is given an 81 percent liberal rating by ACU but only 55 percent by ADA; Sen. J. Bennett Johnston, D-La., is a 75 percent conservative according to ADA but only 31 percent by ACU; and Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., whose performance is closely monitored because he is Senate GOP leader and a possible presidential candidate, comes out an 85 percent conservative in the ADA rating but only 58 percent in the ACU's.

Marcel Dekker became a publisher in prices, $50 or more for some volumes.

Dekker knew his market. His volumes, many of which he originated and then found experts to write, were essential to the work of limited audiences. They needed them; they were willing to pay.

Today, Marcel Dekker, Inc. has a catalog of hundreds of advanced research titles in chemistry, biology, physics, environmental science, finance, statistics, nutrition, computer science.

The company publishes scores of journals and three encyclopedias. One of them, the Encyclopedia of Library and Informational Science, is expected to reach 32 volumes. At a subscription price of $45 a volume, it might gross close to

At the time, companies had to handlke all the intricate details - dates, manner of filing, charge, etc. - to keep many thousands of patents alive in more than 100 countries.

Most of them relied on foreign patent attorneys to handle part of the chore, at patent attorney prices. Olcott believed Foolproof? Well, he maintains, that claim might be contrued as foolhardy, but he insists that in 15 years he has not committed a single significant error in hundreds of thousands of payments. "To date, our company has represented more than $500 million in corporate prop-erty without paying a pledged $10,000 compensation for any error committed,"

he said in an interview a few days ago.

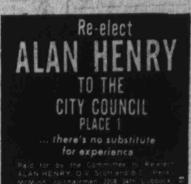

Now based in its own building in Weehauken, N.J., across the Hudson from mid-town Manhattan, Olcott International grosses "in the high seven numbers," could be accomplished at much lower CELYS for You!

One of these is the case of International Paper Co., which has an incentive compensation plan for its top executives based on how much the company's profit improves. Under this plan, J. Stanford Smith, the company's chairman and chief executive, was awarded 10,477 shares for improving profits between 1974, the year he became chairman, and 1976. Actually, however, IP reported profits of $5.95 a share in 1974 and earnings of $5.60 in 1976. And even the latter figure is questioned by a least one analytical or-

The International Paper Plan is tied to how well the company does in comparison to earnings targets that are set every three years. If the targets are exceeded by 25 percent or more, the executives -47 of them in 1976 - get a certain number of shares. If the targets are topped, but by less than 25 percent, they get fewer shares. And if the targets aren't met all, the barrel comes up empty.

The plan (which actually is more complicated than that), is not much different from incentive plans at a lot of other companies. What singles this one out is a recent analysis of International Paper's profit statements by The Quality of Earnings Report, which combs through corpoand examines the the accounting used to prepare them.

According to the report and its editors Thornton O'glove and Robert Olstein, IP has made several changes in its accounting practices over the past few years that have tended to bolster reported profits, even though the company, like a lot of other basic industry giants, hasn't grown much at all. In turn, that has hiked the number of shares paid to the executives. (Olstein and O'glove told us they are not trying to connect the accounting changes to the incentive plan and that the shifts are all well within the range of normal management decisions.)

For example, in 1965, IP took over General Crude Oil Co. and changed its accounting from so-called "successful efforts" to "full-cost," both of which are used in the oil industry. The effect, in IP's case, was to increase its reported earnings by some 34 cents of share in 1975 and about 43 cents a share in 1976. While the change is allowed within "generally accepted accounting principles" (although there are battles over it now at the Financial Accounting Standard Board), 1975 was a year in which IP's profits exceeded the target by less than 25 percent.

So, the incentive compensation was increased in proportion to the 34-cent accounting benefit, even though it did not reflect any "real" boost in the sale of gas

In January 1977 IP said it switched its depreciation of pulp and paper mills to a "unit of production" basis. That means that when business is good, depreciation goes up; when business slows, so does the write-down for wear and tear. Olstein says, though, that the effect is that "in slack periods there's less depreciation to charge off, so the earnings are higher; in boom times, the company earns enough and can afford higher depreciation."

The report also analyzes the effect of the lower tax rate reported by IP for the third quarter of last year - adding 14 cents a share to earnings - and of the effects of changes in foreign currency val-

EnvironmentalGroup Raps EPA Decision

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Some segments of the environmental movement charge the administration with caving in to political pressure when it approved a new pesticide to combat the fire ant in

But the Environmental Protection Agency insists public health - not politics - prompted the move.

The fire ant has infested 190 million acres since an elderly bug expert accidentally let it loose at Mobile, Ala., in 1918. Its sting is painful and the mounds it builds can disrupt farm operations.

The Environmental Defense Fund says the EPA violated the law by approving use of the poison and inviting millions of southerners to participate in a year-long experiment with a pesticide whose impact is at best unknown.

EDF has been at the forefront of the coalition of groups in a six-year struggle that led to a ban, effective this June 30, on Mirex, the poison that had been used to control fire ants.

The new pesticide, which EPA approved for limited use during a 12-month period beginning July 1, is Ferriamicide. Bill Butler, EDF's general counsel, calls it "son of Mirex.

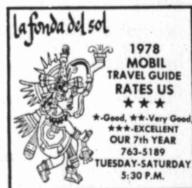

It contains both Mirex and Kepone, the poison that caused extensive, perhaps irreversible harm to water life in Virginia's James River estuary

EPA approved it for use on a moundby-mound basis - not via airplane or from tractor in farm fields. Officials say the amount of poison is very small compared to Mirex, it degrades in the environment and its use will be carefully monitored for damage

But Butler said EPA did not prove a real emergency exists, as the law requires, and gave its okay although substitutes were available. He also said EPA was forced to approve the poison because of intense political pressure by southern lawmakers in Congress who for months have been "holding hostage" certain amendments to existing pesticide laws.

"This is a very offensive precedent in an area where we have got an agency which is supposed to be concerned with public health and where the participants in the administration have been portrayed to the public as being very concerned environmentalists," Butler told

'This is the very first exemption from environmental fight against pesticides all existing pesticide laws which has ever since the days of DDT. It represented a made available a toxic chemical for gen-

Catalog Offers Giant Vegetables of three per customer, before the supply WASHINGTON (UPI) - If you like the seeds of a "Russian mammoth" variety of 1,717 seeds ran out, the catalog reand offers a $250 prize for a new recordholder.

idea of growing six-pound tomatoes, footlong hot peppers or a 400-pound squash, you may want to look at Jane Gruce's latest catalog

A six-pound tomato may be a bit oversized for the average family's salad course. And the owner of Grace's Gardens in Hackettstown, N.J., isn't competing with the giants of the garden industry who offer hundreds of vegetable and flower varieties. Her specialy is the unusual - the square tomato, a hollow tomato variety for stuffing, a yard-long green bean, a foot-long carrot and the "world's most expensive melon seed.'

The melon seed, unfortunately, is all sold out, according to the small, 24-page catalog. But Mrs. Grace says that if you could get it, you might have had a chance to beat the world record set by Ed Weeks of Tarboro, N.C., with a 197-pound wat-

Individual seeds from Weeks' melon

In addition to selling seeds, Mrs. graced acts as official judge and coordinator of American and Canadian horticultural records for the Guinness Book of Records. She also runs her own "Beat the Champ" competition with cash prices for winners.

Sunflower lovers, for example, can compete against Mary Pinkley of Richfield, Minn. According to the catalog, Mary brought a single sunflower seed home from school one day, planted it in a sunny spot and "gave it an awful lot of

The result was a 17-foot, three-inch sunflower - the largest ever grown in the United States, according to Mrs. Grace, although well below the world record of 23 feet, six and a half inches set by an English gardner named Frank Kel-

For anyone who wants to try to beat

The world record tomato, the New Jersey garden expert says, was harvested in August 1976 by Clarence Dailey of Monona, Wis. He picked a six-pound, eightounce fruit from his garden to break the former record of four pounds, four ounces set in 1974 by an Englishman.

The Grace catalog isn't free, incidentally. The 1978 version is being sold by mail for 25 cents, which the garden firm says goes to cover postage costs.

Thumbing through it, you'll find a list of 1978 state fairs with vegetable competitions as well as dates and places for other fairs and festivals.

The Carrot Festival listed in Holtville, Calif., is already over, unfortunately. But you can still catch events including the June 3-6 Strawberry Festival at Lebanon, Ore., the June 22-24 Peach Festival at Clanton, Ala., and the Aug. 25-26 Rutaba-

If you don't like raw vegetables and if the catalog is accurate, you could skip those events and plan on taking in the Sept. 12-16 Bean Soup Festival at McClure, Pa.

Or, if you don't care for traveling, you could stay home and try growing one of Jane Grace's three-foot-long cucumbers.

THE HOUSTON COUGARS have been quite obliging to some prognosticators in the latter part of the current basketball season. Having proved many of them to be correct by winning the Southwest Conference Post-Season Tournament, they then did what a similar segment of the populace expected by getting crushed in the first round of the NCAA playoffs.

For that last accomplishment, it's hard for even the accurate guessers to say "Thank you."

The Southwest Conference is trying to shed its image of mediocrity in basketball, but Houston's performance undoubtedly deepened it in the eyes of many

It was not simply that Houston lost and lost badly. That misfortune can strike any team, no matter how talented it might be. Also, Notre Dame has a very good club and one that had been honed during the season against generally good competition. The Irish certainly were not pushovers.

What was particularly embarassing to SWC fans was that Houston's performance measured up to that of a poor high school team. It was pathetic. A great deal of credit must be handed to Notre Dame for its magnificent shooting and combination defense that confused the Cougars. Still, in the face of this, Houston only did things that exacerbated its dilemma.

THE COUGARS often employed poor judgment. Notre Dame's defense so rattled them that they didn't even try to run their offense. They did not play at Guard Kenneth Williams, who had received a lot of mention in the media for his outside shooting since his insertion into the lineup, apparently let it go to his head. He seemed bent on shooting-and often missing-from 49 feet and far-

When Houston did try to work the ball inside, it again judged badly. The Cougar players seemed to pass the ball only when three Notre Dame players were surrounding one UH player. Lovely. Guess what happened most of these times?

Houston, which has been accused in the past of playing schoolyard-type basketball, had gotten away from this in the latter portion of the season, and it was a major factor in their late-season rush. But the Cougars returned to the schoolyard Sunday. As a result, the Irish won a trip to the Midwest Regional Tournament at Lawrence, Kan.

NBC analyst Al McGuire summed matters up succinctly late in the game by calling it "as dull as dishwater.

SO THAT LEAVES SWC partisans with two hopes in Arkanss and Texas. At this time, the latter seems to be the best hope.

Texas, 23-5, will get 22-7 Nebraska in the Super Drum, where the Longhorns have not lost in 15 games in this, their first season of playing in the huge structure. Nebraska apparently has a talented team, but the pick here is Texas, principally because of the home-court factor.

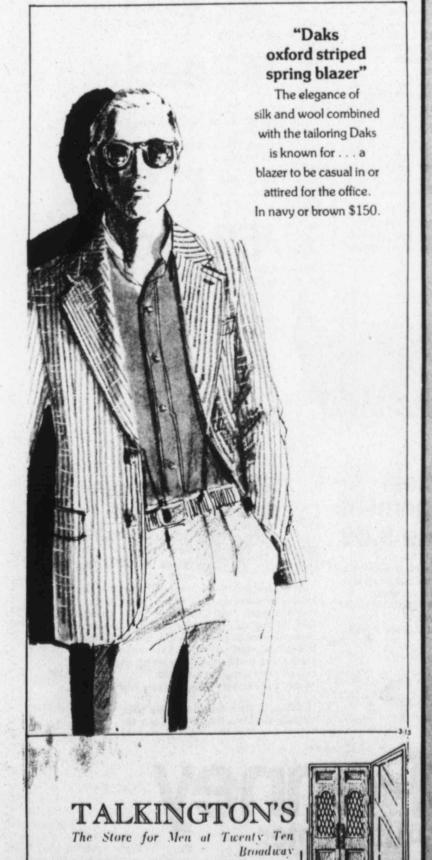

The Razorbacks, on the other hand, face a tough road versus UCLA in the first round of the West Regional at Albuquerque. At least the regional isn't being played at UCLA's Pauley Pavilion this season.

Arkansas certainly has a chance to win, but the Bruins have to be rated as the favorites because of their superior depth. In Ron Brewer, Sidney Moncrief and Marvin Delph, the Razorbacks have three players that can equal most in the nation. But the Hogs' talent thins out after them, while UCLA has much more

Also, UCLA's offense doesn't revolve around just three players, as Arkansas' does. Eddie Sutton has proven that his is a good system, but he makes a mistake by severly limiting postman Steve Schall's and forward Jim Counce's participation in the offense

It is well established that Counce is a poor shooter, but he will not even take a completely wide open shot from reasonable range. Other teams know this and sag in on the Brewer-Moncrief-Delph troika, simply daring Counce to shoot. It puts that much more pressure on the three stars. Against average teams, Arkansas can get away with this, but it's doubtful that it can do it against standout

And, at last check, UCLA qualifies as a standout team.

Cornhuskers Challenge UT Tonight

AUSTIN (UPI) - Abe Lemons says Nebraska doesn't need any extra incentive for tonight's National Invitation Tournament quarter-final game against Texas.

But a pre-game squabble over the location for the second-round NIT game may give the Cornhuskers an additional inspiration in the contest against the Southwest Conference co-champions.

Both Texas and Nebraska were told they could host the second round game if they won opening NIT contests, and Lemons refused to budge, saying his Lon-ghorns would play in their 16,000-seat Su-per Drum or not play at all.

Nebraska offered to flip a coin for the home spot, but the NIT ruled the game would be in Texas.

"At least we met with the NIT and agreed to flip a coin," said Husker Coach Joe Cipriano. "That's more than Texas would say they would do," Lemons says Nebraska is tough enough without any emotional boost. "They are in the Big Eight Conference and they beat Kansas so they are awfully strong," he said. "They know what they are doing." Cipriano said his team will attempt to slow Texas' fast paced game. "This team has been ranked defensively in the top 10 in the country the past two years," he said of his Cornhuskers. "They win by playing smart. We have to control the tempo Lemons said the Longhorns have had difficulty trying to regain the form which carried Texas to its first 20-win season in. 15 years. The Horns had 10 days off at the end of the regular season before losing to-Houston in the Southwest Conference tournament, and had to come from behind in the second half to beat Temple in-the opening NIT game.

"The layoff didn't do anything for us," "Lemons said. "We seem to have a hardtime coming back. We are not playing."

The winner of the Texas-Nebraska will meet Rutgers, a 57-56 victor over Indiana State Tuesday night, in the NIT semifi-nals in New York.

NEW NFL RULES EXPLAINED - National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle explains new rules at a press conference Tuesday at the meeting of head coaches, owners and general managers at Palm Springs, Calif. (AP Laserphoto) thought the Lynn Swanns and Drew Pearsons, the Dave Caspers and Russ Francises, the Ken Stablers and Fran Tarkentons were deadly before, wait'll you see 'em in action next season.

They'll have more time and more room to operate - and perhaps a little less fear about getting clobbered, too, thanks to the votes Tuesday by the National Football League's club owners.

The NFL, concerned that the increasing emphasis on defense and the steady drop in scoring could someday lead to an erosion of fan interest, decided to try and open up the offense in 1978 by:

· Allowing offensive linemen a little more freedom in their use of hands and arms against pass-rushers. · Limiting the amount of contact (called "chucking") a defender can use against a potential receiver. Adding a "side judge," to increase the officials' coverage of downfield pass areas and prohibit mayhem occasionally perpetrated against receivers in the recent past. The owners also decided to allow officials to penalize players who "bait or

"Unquestionably in recent years coaches have adopted a lot of the Darrell Royal philosophy," NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle said of the former University of Texas coach, "that if you pass three things can happen and two of them are bad. Pass-blockers will be able to keep their elbows locked as well as flexed and their hands open as well as closed when dealing with defensive linemen or anyone else who tries to get to the quarter-back.

Potential receivers who used to worry about being chucked (hit, pushed or bumped) any number of times within three yards of the scrimmage line and then again further downfield will now face a maximum of one chuck within five yards and no hits beyond that.

Lubbock High exploded for nine runs in the first three innings and defeated Brownfield 12-8 Tuesday in Mackenzie

The Westerners raised their baseball record to 7-1 overall by receiving clutch hits from the top of their batting order. Leadoff man Noel Jaime doubled in a run, knocked a two-run home run and scored on two other occasions during Lubbock rallies.

The Westerners added two more tallies in the next frame when Jaime crushed his 2-run blast to left, scoring DH Pete Del Busto, who had singled.

Then in the next frame, a two-base error by Brownfield's second baseman allowed Andy Vasquez to score from sec-

DED

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) - It has been a century or so since major league baseball teams began fleeing winter for the bone-thawing climate of the south and the rites of spring training. And, as long as it insists on snowing and freezing up north, you can expect the tradition to continue.

Spring is a wonderful time for baseball. It's a time for hope, a time for positive thinking, a time for harmony. And all three abound - yes, even the harmony in this beach-front town that serves as the winter home of the often-turbulent New York Yankees.

Ball players in Yankee pinstripes have been working out winter kinks for a month now and life has been strangely peaceful so far. Oh, sure, there has been the occasional demand for more money, more contract years, or more of both from Sparky Lyle, who fears going stale in the overcrowded bullpen. But for the most part, serenity has settled on Yan-

TPC Act Tough One To Follow

Tournament Players Championship of, by and for golf's touring pros - has great ambition, the best field of the year and the biggest purse in the game

It also has a very tough act to follow. Given all its superlatives, and they're plentiful, the event still faces a major problem: how can it hope to match the pulsing drama Jack Nicklaus produced in his last two appearances?

First there was the Inverrary Classic, where Nicklaus chipped in three times and birdied his last five holes for a comefrom-behind 1-stroke victory.

Then there was Doral. Again, he chipped in three times - this time in a four-hole stretch that he played birdie-eagle-par-eagle. He played his back nine in 30. used only 9 putts on the fast 10 holes and failed to catch Tom Weiskopf by a single shot in one of golf's greatest finish-

Now there's the TPC, carrying a whopping $342,000 value and billed as the championship of the touring players. It gets underway Thursday on the marshy wastes of the 7,174-yard Sawgrass course, a links-type layout that, in its inaugural last year, proved to be one of the tour's toughest tracks.

The event, which Tour Commissioner Deane Beman hopes to elevate to major tournament status equal to that now enjoyed by the game's Big Four, has the basic ingredients for drama of its own. It has: 1, national television coverage and, 2, the presence in the field of Nick-

It remains, however, for the ingredients to come together with the circumstances. Nicklaus in position to make a challenge and then able to mount that

"Taking nothing away from his ability, he's the luckiest player the game has ever seen," one tourist said. "If you're behind 4-1 and you hit a home run in the ninth inning with the bases empty, you still lose 4-2 and nobody remembers you hit the homer. Every time Nicklaus comes to bat, he hits the homer with two men on base.'

And there's every good chance that, with men on base and the game going into the ninth on Sunday afternoon, Nicklaus may be primed for another golfing

"Obviously, I'm playing well," said the game's greatest performer, who has finished second-first-second in his last three

All of the game's great players are on hand to challenge. Chief among them is Tom Watson, who beat Nicklaus in two historic confrontations last year and has won twice already this season.

Other standouts include Weiskopf PGA champ Lanny Wadkins, U.S. Open king Hubert Green, defending title-holder Mark Hayes, Lee Trevino, Hale Irwin, Ray Floyd, Johnny Miller, Ben Crenshaw, Jerry Pate, Australian Graham Marsh and South African Gary Player. making his first American start of the baseball's most perilous assignment. Hartman's job was to get catcher Thurman Munson, captain of the team, and slugger Reggie Jackson, the World Series hero, to sit down for an interview. To-

Now, if you were paying attention last year, you knew that it would not be the best idea to invite Thurman and Reggie to your next cocktail party. Congenial, they were not.

But that was last year, a world championship ago. This is a brand new spring and Munson and Jackson seem tuned in to the same wavelength. At least they were when Hartman talked with them.

These are two marvelously talented athletes cut from conflicting molds. Munson is an introvert, gruff, often irritable. Jackson is an outgoing, engaging personality who can charm you to pieces, if he feels like it.

Neither's approach is wrong. Rather, it is right for them. They are, after all, individuals from different backgrounds. And they approach their business, this little boy's game that occupies their summers. differently.

It is a safe bet that the Yankees could never have achieved the title if one of them were not around in that turbulent season of '77. And if nothing else, Munson and Jackson gained one important edge from their summer of discontent and that is the mutual respect for each other's abilities on the baseball diamond. Hartman asked Reggie about Munson and got a straight forward reply.

"I think Thurman Munson is the best pressure player I've ever played with,' Jackson said.

No ifs, ands or buts. Straight out. Hartman seemed surprised at the answer. Jackson continued:

"If I didn't feel that way, I would either dodge the question or wouldn't come back because he's straight forward to me

Perhaps Munson, not always the most articulate Yankee, put his relationship with Jackson best. Hartman asked how the two stars felt about each other and Munson brought up the question of hate, which is mentioned so often when their names are linked. Hate, after all, is a pretty strong word.

"I think we're both too fortunate in life to hate anybody, to hate anything" the catcher said.

Think about that. The man said a mouthful. Think about the youngsters in this country who can't wait for some sunshine and warm weather so that they can get out and play this game just for the love of it. Think about the ones who can't. And then think about the Munsons and Jacksons, who are paid thousands upon thousands of dollars to play that very same game.

Thurman went on. 'We've been given a talent to come out, we end up with the same ball club and we both like to play baseball. To say we have any malice or animosity toward

Leslie's Four Homers Spark LCC Sweep

By WALT MCALEXANDER Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

"We certainly need those," admitted Tim Leslie moments after Lubbock Christian College had completed its tripleheader sweep of Jarvis and evened its record at 9-9 Tuesday.

"Now maybe you'll see us playing like we're capable. We certainly got the hits today and that should continue. The slugging first baseman led the way

Mark Summers and Jim Bradford. Also honored were Rusty Lamar and Bobby Patton of Morton, Jeff Whiteside and Kevin Kothmann of Friona, Tommy Twitty of Littlefield and Charles Briscoe and Dean Northcutt of Muleshoe. -Olton placed two of its starting forwards, Melonie Whitten and Dusty Kinnison, on the all-loop girls squad.

Along with Misses Whitten and Kinnison, also honored were forwards Lori Dyer of Dimmitt, Evelyn Grace of Muleshoe, Gayle Williams of Morton and Varia Welch of Friona.

the left of the 400-foot barrier in straightaway center as the Chaparrals romped 14-4, 22-3 and 15-5 over Jarvis Christian.

Surprisingly, the Chaparrals, who have now won six in a row, fell behind in every game, trailing by 2, 1 and 4 runs after Jarvis finished its first swings. But after that, it was all LCC as the Chaps banged out 45 hits on the day and upped their team batting avrage to 39 points to .329.

And Leslie was among the leaders there, too, as he hiked his average 48 points to .415.

Hays was also beaming afterwards. The winning streak, .500 record and sterling performance by the hitter had something to do with it, but he was also pleased by the fact starting pitcher John Ross and Mickey Crump each went the distance and picked up victories. Before Tuesday, the relievers had all six wins.

Ross weathered nine hits, but fanned nine and allowed only two earned runs in evening his mark at 1-1. Crump was wild

Leslie, who now has a team-high 21 RBIs thanks to nine he got Tuesday, had a three-run blow in the second inning of the middle tilt and then unleashed his drive to center in the first inning of the nightcap. "That was the only time I went with a pitch all day," he claimed.

The leadoff hitter for both teams socked homers in the middle tilt, with Harlos Barrett connecting for the Bulldogs, now 4-9-1, and Darius Copley for the victors. Mark Lisle also had a round-tripper in that game. Glenn Wilken and freshman catcher Archie Crim collected homers in the nightcap. Inman's highly productive day was overshadowed by all the homers. The sophomore from Uvalde went 8-for-11 and his average jumped 86 points to game Tuesday, allowing one run - on two singles around a stolen base - in three innings as the Detroit Tigers trounced the Philadelphia Phillies 8-3.

Steve Kemp, Tim Corcoran, Lou Whitaker and Alan Trammell drove in two runs apiece as the Tigers jumped on veterans Jim Lonborg for three runs and Jim Kaat for five.

But Fidrych, who missed the last 12 weeks of 1977 with tendinitis in his pitching arm after winning Rookie of the Year honors in '76, was the big news. The 23year-old righthander said he threw "a heck of a lot more" fast balls than he did in his first spring appearance.

"Every time I go out there, I let loose," he said. "If you short-arm it, you can hurt yourself. Even if I had a sore arm I'd go

Williams-Yaz Rematch On Tap

UPI Sports Editor DUNEDIN, Fla. - The big rematch is all set and should be coming up in another couple of days.

Not the one between Leon Spinks and Muhammad Ali for the world heavyweight title but the one between Ted Williams and Carl Yastrzemski for the world singles title, or at least that small part of the world not spoken for already by either Jimmy Connors or Bjorn Borg.

Some of the Boston Red Sox were talking about the original match between Williams and Yastrzemski before Tuesday's game with the Toronto Blue Javs. It was held in Winter Haven a week ago this past Sunday and Yastrzemski had to chase up and down the court and pull shots out of his ears before beating Williams, who'll be 60 in August and is serving with the Red Sox as a batting instructor this spring, 7-5, 6-4, 7-5.

"I blew him off the court," said Yastrzemski, perfectly aware he was going to get an argument from some of the others listening to him in the Red Sox dugout.

'Don't believe it," piped up Jack Rogers, the club's traveling secretary. "We almost had to carry him off the court."

Yaz frowned. 'He surprised me." admitted the Red Sox' 38-year-old leftfielder. "He's so big. he takes one step and he gets to any ball you hit. How did the match come about in the first place?

Yaz laughed. 'He was popping off in the clubhouse for a week about how he can play tennis, and you know him, he doesn't pop off about anything if he can't do it well. After a little needling back and forth, we played. He's a very prideful man even on the tennis court. I had him down five-nothing in the first set and he tied it up." Burton Moves Up In PBA Standings

AKRON, Ohio (AP) - Nelson Burton Jr., of St. Louis, fresh from a victory in the bowling proprietors' U.S. Open, jumped into the top 20 rankings of 1978 money makers.

According to figures released Tuesday by the Professional Bowlers Association Burton picked up $10,000 in first-place money at Greensboro, N.C., last week boosting his earnings for the 10 weeks of this year's tour to $14,925, good for 13th place in the standings.

But Mark Roth of Staten Island, who finished seventh in the Open, held on to first place in the earnings list, with $55,-390 from the eight tournaments he has

"A couple of bucks," Yastrzemski said, laughing some more. "The smart money

The conversation swung back to baseball, and Yastrzemski, starting his 18th season with the Red Sox, said he still enjoys talking hitting with Williams.

'What do you talk about?" someone asked him.

"We talk about a lot of different things, things like movement, developing rhythm with your hands, arms and body from a standstill," Yastrzemski said. "The big thing is that you have to analyze what he says and apply it to your own

Yastrzemski looked over toward the batting cage where Bobby Doerr, who used to play second base for the Red Sox and is working with some of the Blue Jays on their hitting this spring, was watching them take batting practice.

Bobby Doerr was an excellent hitter, too, and his theory on hitting is different than Ted's," said Yaz, "Bobby says hit down on the ball. Ted says catch it on the up-cut. Me? I'm an uppercutter.'

Doerr and Williams both were with San Diego in the minors together and came up to the Red Sox a year apart, Doerr in 1937 and Williams in 1938. Doerr lived in Oregon and Williams in San Diego and when Williams was due to report to the Red Sox for the first time in the spring of 1938. Eddie Collins, then general manager, called Doerr and told him to make arrangements with Williams to meet in Los Angeles and come to Florida together on the train.

There was a flash flood around San Diego at the time and it washed out the telephone lines," recalled Doerr. "Well, you know how Ted is always thinking. He got hold of a ham operator in San Diego and had him contact another ham operator in Los Angeles, telling me to go the best way I could.

"Babe Herman was on the train with me and the train Ted took in San Diego connected with ours in El Paso. Ted was so excited about going to spring training. He kept talking with Herman about hitting all the time. I remember him picking up this pillow and swinging it in the aisle as if it were a bat."

Rogers came by the batting cage was Doerr was talking.

Midland Rips Ponies 15-6

MIDLAND (Special) - Designated hitter Jim Zachory and catcher James Allen combined for nine RBIs to pace Midland High to a convincing 15-6 high school baseball win over Lubbock Coronado Tuesday afternoon.

Coronado, now 2-6 for the year, jumped out to a 4-0 lead in the second inning behind key hits by Donny Atterburn, Jim Wells and Robert Ledbetter.

But the Ponies, after owning a 6-3 margin, were unable to hold the advantage as MHS scored seven runs in the fifth and five more in the sixth. Zachory was the game's leading hitter. going 3 for 5 at the plate. Allen blasted a home run along with a double aid Midland's cause.

Wells paced Coronado's offensive output with a pair of hits

Starter Ricky Powell was saddled with the loss. Russell Johnson relieved Powell in the fifth. Dennis Pusser came on mop up duties in the sixth of Coronado. Brigham evened his won-loss mark to

Raider Rallies Overcome Hardin-Simmons 6-5,13-7

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Early power displays by Hardin-Simmons were to no avail in both games -Tuesday afternoon, as Texas Tech overcame them to sweep a doubleheader from the Cowboys by counts of 6-5 and 13-7 at the Tech diamond.

The victories increased the Raiders' winning streak to four games and evened their season record at 9-9, the first time Tech has reached that level since after the initial twin bill of the campaign. In the first game Tuesday, the visitors

With one out, Ed Thomas reached base on Tech third baseman Rusty Laughlin's fielding error. After walks to Bobby Lawson and Brad Mann, third baseman Barry Russell singled to drive in Thomas, and second baseman Rusty Hamrie walked to force in Lawson.

Next came the big hit of the inning a line-drive triple of the left-centerfield alley by shortstop Larry Tatum that drove deficit with a run in the second and three in the third inning.

Catcher Scott Leimgrubrer's pop-fly double to right-center scored Brooks Wallace in the second. Randy Newton and Craig Newton each had run-scoring doubles in the third, along with Leimgruber's RBI-single.

Two H-SU errors in the third helped the Tech cause, also,

Freshman righthander Larry Womble. who had relieved starter Robert Bryant after Tatum's triple in the third, held until he required relief help in the final

Meanwhile, the Raiders rallied for the victory. After one was out in their half of the sixth inning, second baseman Johnny Vestal walked, and Laughlin followed with a home run over the leftfield fence that gave Tech its winning margin.

Womble, 1-2, gained the pitching victory, while the loss went to Don Lawson, a persistent Tech nemesis since the 1976

Hardin-Simmons, 10-7, got a quick lead in the second game, too. Tech hurler Gary Moyer struck out the first two batters he faced in the first inning, but then gave up a single to Alan Lakatta and a long, two-run home run over the leftfield fence to first baseman Phillip Tippen.

The Raiders, though, tied it in their half of the first. Newton's infield ground ball drove in Laughlin, and Selby singled to score Newton. Tech then scored four runs in the second frame and six more in the third that was too much for a late Cowboy rally to

RBI-hits by Vestal, Newton, Selby and Wallace accounted for the second-inning

The Raiders then sent 11 batters to the plate in the third. Newton drove in two runs with a single; designated hitter Mike Farmer singled for another pair of runs; Wallace's ground single drove in the fifth of the inning; and Noonan later scored when H-SU third baseman Barry Russell let John Keller's ground ball go

The Cowboys combined two walks, three singles and two Raider errors for five sixth-inning runs, but it wasn't enough to overtake Tech.

The Raiders' final run came in the sixth inning, too, when catcher Dan Hejl reached base on Hamric's error and

Dr. (James) Zumberge and myself," Davis said Tuesday. "Dr. Zumberge is new, and he would like to bring in some new However, Davis admitted it wasn't all his idea.

"It was not all my thinking," said Davis. "It was strictly a hand-in-glove operation between myself and Dr. Zumberge.

Zumberge said Associate Athletic Director Dudley Parker will serve as acting director until a new one is appointed. A university search committee will be headed by Dr. Mike Harvey, chairman of the SMU Faculty Committee on Athlet-

'Dick's record involved the recruiting of a number of outstanding coaches including Ron Meyer, head of SMU's aspiring football program; Sonny Allen, who is responsible for the university's hopes for a basketball team of national stature: Earl Stewart, golf coach; Steve Adair, baseball: Jim Benedict, soccer: and Bill McClain, tennis," Zumberge said.

"In addition, Davis has been instrumental in establishing a strong woman's athletic program . . Davis, who played football for the Mustangs in the late 1940s, said he first discussed the possibility of resigning three months ago with Bobby Stewart, the school's board chairman.

Valley Coach Quits

TURKEY (Special)-Rick Dill, head football coach at Class B Valley High School for the past two seasons, submitted his resignation Tuesday, school officials reported.

Following the resignation, Valley Supt. Wilbur Leaper announced that he will accept applications for the positions. Coaches interested in the position can contact him at Valley High School.

Dill's Patriots last season compiled a 7-3 record, losing all three games in dis-ago that the SMU athletic program 'could be turned around and straightened out" in four years. In that time, Davis asserted, "I've solved more prob-not the result of "explicit pressure from us or Dr. Zumberge." Zumberge is on record as saying that the head football coach should not serve in the dual role as athletic director. Harvey said Davis made his mark in two areas - bringing a business prospective to the entire sports program and single handedly putting together the Southwest Conference basketball tournament.

What I will do is a hard question to answer," said the 51-year-old Davis who was a high successful investments broker before taking the SMU job.

"In all sincerity, anyone would not be happy if they did not win eight or nine sports in the Southwest Conference, but that's impossible. As far as the program's image goes, and as far as solving a lot of SMU's problems, I feel like I've done a

When the wind blows out in Lowrey Field, the idea is just hit a high, hard one and let the wind do the rest of the work. And Monterey's hitters had the right idea Tuesday in the Plainsmen's home baseball opener by clouting 13 hits and stranding only two base runners in a 14-5 spanking of error-prone Midland Lee. The Plainsmen, now 3-2, committed only one error while the Rebels (7-4) committed seven miscues and many of them aided the Monterey scoring assault. Though it was hardly a day for pitchers, MHS senior Ron Reeves chalked up his second win and calmed down a few Lee rallies by striking out 12 Midland hitters. Neither of Midland's two pitchers could brag anywhere near that much.

Reeves weathered one difficult inning as Lee scored three times in top of the third to narrow Monterey's lead to 4-3. Then the Plainsmen batted around for five runs with the aid of one towering home run and three Midland errors in the bottom of third.

With one out in the frame, Phil Bruedigam lined a 3-1 pitch into right for a single. Dana Rieger followed by crunching a 2-run home run, which appeared to travel halfway to Slaton. The smash cleared the 400-foot markers in deep leftcenter field From that point, the inning turned into a comedy of errors.

Bob Fannin raced to second on an error by the third basemen. Fannin advanced to third when Reeves reached second as Lee's shortstop booted a grounder Fannin scored on Mike Wooten's ground out. Reeves added the fourth run of the rally as Lee's second baseman booted a grounder off the bat of Monterey's Tom Bevins, who walked home on Ricky Pinkerton's triple to straightaway center

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas freshman Keith Creel turned in a game-saving relief performance Tuesday to give the Longhorns a 5-4 victory and a sweep of their nonconference college baseball doubleheader with Central Michigan. Texas won the first game 7-2.

Creel entered the game when Central Michigan, trailing 5-4, had runners on first and third. He got second baseman Mark Vanderlinden to pop out, though, and held the Chippewas scoreless in the final two innings to gain the save.

In the opener, Texas broke a 2-2 tie with five runs in the fifth inning. Terry Salazar, who homered in the second game, had a homer in the first game, as did Andre Robertson.

Texas raised its record to 17-5.

Scribe Terms Current WBC Threat Ludicrous

Associated Press Special Correspondent WBC, CBS, WBA, Bophuthatswana, Ali or Norton, Arum or King - it's a wild mess of porridge that's been cooked up for followers of heavyweight boxing.

Nothing unusual. It's a sport that's always been populated by wheelers and dealers, paper mache regulators without clout and characters that leap out of Damon Runyan novels. Even the angles have angles.

Now the WBC - whose square name is World Boxing Council - is threatening to strip the new champion, Leon Spinks, of his title unless he agrees to fight Ken Norton instead of giving a return shot to Muhammad Ali.

All because it says so on a piece of paper. Most ring agreements are written in invisible ink. This is the same WBC that wrested the title from Muhammad Ali in 1967 because of the latter's anti-war stand and allowed him to rust for 31/2 years before the Supreme Court and the American public agreed that Ali may have been right all along

The current WBC threat is equally ludicrous. It ultimately will carry the same impact.

Irrespective of the back room deals and so-called promisory notes, the first shot at Spinks' crown belongs to Ali - if Ali wants it. Ali has paid his dues. He deserves the chance to redeem himself. Besides, we owe him one. If Ali had beaten Spinks, as he was supposed to do, then he should have been compelled to fight Norton as agreed or have his championship declared vacant and opened up to a shootout. But Ali didn't win. Whether it was bad advice, over-confidence, pure carelessness or something else, the great champion allowed himself to be licked by a raw rookie with only

Having lost. Ali deserves at least another chance. He has contributed too much to the game down through the years fighting anybody and everybody, sometimes two and three times over - to be given short shift now It is no idle boast of Ali's that he is not just a single cog in the big complex boxing machine. He is boxing itself - and he remains so until he is put on the shelf for good.

That time is not now. Let's hear no charges that Ali has been ducking Norton, or anybody else. He fought Norton three times, winning twice. Must he, as in tennis, make it best three-of-five?

He had three brutal, punishing battles with Smokin' Joe Frazier, winning the third and rubber clash with a devastating performance in Manila. He stopped the powerful George Foreman, who made mincemeat of both Frazier and Nor-

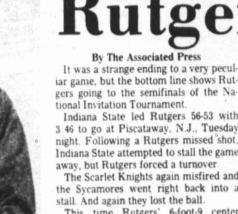

Spinks, a man of character, seems to think that ethically he should give a return chance to the deposed champion who, despite taunts from the sidelines, gave a chance to him. If it's traditional for the champion to give the first shot to the No. 1 contender, who would deny - no matter what the WBC has on a piece of paper — that Ali rates above Norton or anyone else?

Boxing has an unpaid debt to Ali - those 312 years scissored out of his prime years.

So let Spinks and Ali fight again in September. Certainly Ali, with his dedication and resourcefulness, would win the next one, becoming the first man to win the title three times, and retire in glory.

Then, if Norton, Frazier and Foreman - not to mention Earnie Shavers, Larry Holmes, Jimmy Young and Spinks were still of a mood to fight, put them in an elimination and let them slug it out SURPRISE CHOICE - A smiling Dick Harter answers questions at a new conference held to announce that he is the new head basketball coach at Penn State Tuesday. Only last week, the 47-year-old Harter said after a visit that he'd remain at Oregon, where he began a new multiyear contact this past season. (AP Laser-

56-55. Bailey then stole the inbounds pass and hit a 15-foot jumper with 17 seconds

That's where the turmoil began. Indiana State set up for the last shot. trying to work the ball into All-American forward Larry Bird. But the Rutgers boxand-one defense converged on Bird who scored a game-high 23 points - and Harry Morgan missed a desperation shot with three seconds showing on the clock.

"Rutgers played great defense on Bird the whole game and at the end we couldn't get him the ball," said Sycamore Coach Bob King. "Morgan had to take the shot. Rutgers' Tom Brown grabbed the rebound and was intentionally fouled with two seconds to go. He missed the first foul shot and intentionally missed the second, not allowing the Sycamores to set up for a final shot.

Indiana State rebounded Brown's miss and heaved the ball out to Bird, standing at midcourt. He collided with Steve Hefele as time ran out.

King charged referees Bob Wortman and James Desman, both of the neutral Mid-American Conference, claiming that Bird was fouled before the buzzer.

Hog-UCLA Tilt Glamour Match

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) - Marvin Delph will be going against David Greenwood, while Sidney Moncrief and Ron Brewer will be battling Roy Hamilton and Raymond Townsend.

And that says UCLA basketball Coach Gary Cunningham "adds up to an awfully good basketball game.

The game will be the glamour matchup of Thursday night's semifinals of the National Collegiate Athletic Association's Far West regional basketball tourney. Delph, Moncrief and Brewer will lead the fifth-ranked Arkansas Razorbacks against the second-rated UCLA Bruins paced by Greenwood. Hamilton and Townsend. The nationally televised Arkansas-

UCLA clash is set for 6:06 p.m. (CST) at the 17.121-seat University of New Mexico Arena. Surprising Cal State-Fullerton will challenge 11th-ranked San Francisco in the second semifinal contest. The winners will tangle Saturday for a berth in the final four next week in St. Louis. Guards Moncrief and Brewer and forward Delph, a trio of 6-foot-4 sharpshooters who all earned at least honorable mention All-America notice from The Associated Press, have led Arkansas to a 29-3 record, which includes last week's 73-52 handling of Weber State in first round tourney action in Eugene, Ore.

The Bruins also were in Eugene, where guards Hamilton and Townsend, an honorable mention All-America, and Greenwood, a first team All-America forward, led UCLA to an 83-76 triumph over nationally ranked Kansas for the club's 25th victory in 27 outings this season. Fullerton (22-8) and San Francisco (23-

5) earned trips to Albuquerque by winning first round games last weekend at Tempe, Ariz. Fullerton, which is in its first NCAA tourney, stunned nationally rated New Mexico 90-85, while San Francisco upset last year's NCAA runner-up. North Carolina, 68-64. We have lots of respect for Arkansas.

said Cunningham. "I'd say that they are a very well coached team and they play outstanding defense. They run a good fast break. And they have a lot patience on offense. Cunningham said his team will need to play "at both ends of the court" to beat the Hogs. "We have to play good defense and good offense. Eddie Sutton, whose talented basketball squad has excited the football crazy state of Arkansas, said his club will need to be at our peak both physically and mentally. I like to think that rebounding and tempo will be the keys . . The battle between San Francisco and

U.S. Track Team Bows

MILAN, Italy (AP) - Star high jumper Franklin Jacobs said he was not pleased with his victory Tuesday, one of just five for the United States team soundly defeated by a European selection in an indoor track and field meet. Jacobs cleared 7 feet, 5 inches in the times at 7-73/4, one-half inch more than his previous best of 7-71/4, a world record at the time he set it last January. It was another disappointment for an American squad that lost 16 of 21 events

men's high jump, but then failed three and left Milan's Sports Palace a 141-80 The meet lost most of its touch when defections were announced from both teams, particularly American sprinter Houston McTear, nursing a pulled hamstring, and Soviet high jumper Vladimir Yashchenko, who said he was "tired."

The 6-foot-5, 19-year-old Russian had won the European indoor championships here on Sunday, clearing 7-81/2 and breaking Jacob's indoor mark and his own outdoor best of 7-7%.

Jacobs said Yashchenko's default and the absence of consistent contenders killed his drive and he just could not do better. Many other Americans, however, were way below their normal standards and were never in competition.

The team even failed to place a second competitor in two events, the pole vault and the men's shotput.

All five American victories were produced by the men as the women were never in contention. Jodi Anderson of Northridge, Calif., who leaped 20-81/2 in the long jump to finish second behind Jarmila Nygrynova of Czechoslovakia's winning jump of 21-0, was the closest the U.S. women came to first place.

The men's victories, besides Jacobs, a Fairleigh Dickenson University sophomore who beat Rolf Beilschmidt of East Germany at 7-31/4, came from Al Feuerbach of Los Gatos, Calif., in the shotput at 66-10%, Vesco Bradley Fort Lewis, Wash., in the long jump with 25-8, the 1.-600-meter relay in 3 minutes, 8.9 seconds and Herman Frazier of Philadelphia in the 400 meters with a 46.48, the fastest in the world this year.

Frazier edged teammate Stan Vinson of Chicago, 46.50, into second place for the only American 1-2 placing.

Ron Livers of San Jose, Calif., leaped 55-41/2 in the triple jump to come close to Anatoly Piskulin of the Soviet Union, whose winning effort was 55-714. Veteran Charles Foster of Durham, N.C., battled Thomas Munkelt of East Germany right to the tape in the men's 60 meters hur-Munkelt won in 7.65 seconds with Foster timed in 7.67.

Vladimir Trofimvenko of the Soviet Union won the pole vault with a vault of 17-234 meters but then failed in three attempts at a world record 18-53/4.

NBA Pacific Could Rule In Playoffs

ing the National Basketball Association playoffs.

Okay, now stop imagining and look at the NBA standings. Golden State, in last place in the Pacific Division, is just 11/2 games behind Milwaukee in the race for the final Western Conference playoff berth following the Warriors' 103-96 victory over the Chicago Bulls Tuesday

Here's the way the playoff setup works: the four divisional winners qualify, as do the teams with the next four best records in each conference. Thus it is possible for every club from a fiveteam division like the Pacific to qualify, as long as the record of the last-place team in the Pacific is better than the record of the second-place team in the Mid-

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) - Cathy "Cat" Davis, a part-time model, isn't worried about what might happen to her modeling career when she's engaged in her other profession.

"I never worry about getting scarred or messed up," she says. "I'm out there to do it to them, and I'm sure I'll do it

Miss Davis, who is 25, is the World Lightweight Women's Boxing Champion. She has gone into the ring 16 times and won 15 of her bouts with knockouts.

"If it were just style and boxing ability, I could beat anybody," she says, "I think I'm the best boxer in the world."

Still, she wouldn't want to take on Leon Spinks or Muhammad Ali. "Brute force has a lot to do with boxing and men have more brute force than worn-

Miss Davis, who lives in Lodi, took up boxing after she failed to get a fencing schoolarship to Brooklyn College several years ago. She is currently in training for an upcoming bout to defend her title.

Women's boxing hasn't reached the same world wide audience that men's boxing has, but both Miss Davis and her manager, Sal Algieri, expect that to

"At first a lot of guys came to the fights expecting to see a freak show," Algieri said. "Were they ever surprised and now the crowd has changed - 50-50 men and women, not a typical fight crowd at all but very enthusiastic."

Ten states forbid women's boxing, according to the Women's Boxing Federation, and Miss Davis recently had to fight a court battle with New York to become licensed to fight there. The case is under appeal.

"That was one of my more important victories, getting a license in New York," she said. "The New York State Athletic Commission turned me down flat, and since I felt that violated equal protection clauses of the state and federal constitutions, I took the matter to the New York Supreme Court."

Miss Davis works out three days a week in a health spa in Saddle Brook and says, "Getting ready for a fight is something else.

"If I'm going to be fighting, I have to work hard every day in advance. No fighter, male or female, can go in the ring without being in tip-top condition," she said.

The graceful champ, who is 5-foot-10 and weighs 132 pounds, eats a lot of vegetables - raw or steamed - and drinks a raw egg and tomato sauce mixture for breakfast, she said.

Knick Boss Hot At Officiating

NEW YORK (AP) — Coach Willis Reed of the New York Knicks leveled a verbal barrage at referees Bill Saar and Lee Jones following Tuesday night's 135-117 loss to the Los Angeles Lakers.

"It's totally disgraceful, the kind of of-ficiating we had out there tonight," Reed said. "It's a disgrace to the game of basketball. Guys go out there and play hard, but when infractions occur and no fouls are called, it's just got to break their spir-

Saar and Jones called 26 personal fouls against New York - and a technical on Reed - to 21 against Los Angeles. The Lakers took 34 free throws to 19 for the Knicks and outscored New York 29-13 from the free throw line.

But what Reed was really upset about was what he called "special treatment" accorded Lakers center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar by the referees.

"He was getting away with just about anything," said Reed. "He commits fouls and no calls are made, or they give the fouls to somebody else. A couple of times he jumped into guys — no foul.

'Okay, then call it that way at both ends. But they didn't. There can't be that difference from one end of the floor to the other. You've got to call the same play the same way.'

Why should they be intimidated by Jabbar?" Reed asked.

The Lakers' center scored 22 points and grabbed 17 rebounds against the Knicks. He was called for four personal fouls, but on three other occasions fouls that could have been called against Abdul-Jabbar were assessed to other Los Angeles play-

"I would like to think that every NBA official is fair and objective and doesn't bend the rules for anybody," said Reed. "I don't think anybody could say that appened tonight.

"There are close calls which can go either way, that's okay. But there were some plays that were so elementary, any fan could see a foul should be called — and they didn't call anything. Some calls there was no question about, and they didn't make them."

Reed, in his first year as coach of the Knicks, was fined earlier this season by National Basketball Association Commissioner Larry O'Brien for publicly complaining about the caliber of officiating in the league. But he save he inn't magnical the league. But he says he isn't worried about his words costing him money

"The Commissioner can fine me, but what can I do?" asked Reed. "I've got to say what I saw out there. And you guys all saw it, too, so you've got to write about it. You guys are always writing about how bad we are, this time write about how bad the officials are.

'He (O'Brien) should have those guys (Saar and Jones) come to his office," suggested Reed. "I would like to see them run a tape of this game and see what he thought of their officiating."

They sent me a form to rate the officials. What good does it do to rate officials like these? How would you rate these guys? Zero, that's how."

FANS AID WINS

NEW YORK (AP) - Sociologists researching why teams generally win more games at home than on the road say it's fan enthusiasm that makes the home advantage greater in some sports than others, Psychology Today reported in its March edition.

But Southern Tech Coach George Perides surprised everyone in the arena by going into a stall while trailing 21-14 in an effort to re-establish tempo. It worked. The Hornets got control.

Later, Perides put Southern Tech into a four-corner offense with almost 10 minutes to play, but this time the strategy failed because the Hornets didn't have the lead they needed.

Bill O'Rear timed a 15-foot jumper at the buzzer to give Hawaii-Hilo its dramatic victory over Franklin College.

Lawrence Washington scored 16 points for third-seeded Drury, which pulled away from a 52-50 struggle with a 10-0 spree and outscored Midwestern State 34-12 in the next eight minutes. Henry Crawford led Midwestern with 20 points.

Investigative Procedures

WASHINGTON (AP) - There is an unhealthy closeness between the people who "prosecute" and those who act as judge and jury in National Collegiate Athletic Association rules violation cases. congressional witnesses say. Immediate past NCAA President John Fuzak and Missouri Valley Conference

Commissioner Mickey Holmes told the House Oversight and Investigations Committee on Tuesday that the NCAA's investigative procedures need to be changed so accused schools can get a fair hearing. Holmes, whose conference has nine schools, told the subcommittee that he believes major changes will be made in the enforcement procedures at the NCAA's annual convention in San Francisco next January. Fuzak, whose own school was placed on probation while he was president, and Holmes said college presidents and ath-letic officials are becoming increasingly sensitive to individual rights and the lack of due process. One of the problems, Fuzak said, is that the investigative staff and the NCAA

Committee on Infractions, which must rule on violations, have what he described as an "inescapable relationship." When asked by Rep. Thomas A. Luken, D-Ohio, if he would call it "incestuous he replied: "Maybe someone else would se that word, but I would not."

Trade Deficit To OPEC Hits $21.9 Billion In 1977

WASHINGTON (AP) - America's trade deficit with oil-exporting countries in 1977 was $21.9 billion, more than three-fourths of the total U.S. trade deficit of $26.6 billion, according to the Commerce Department.

In 1976, the deficit with oil-exporting countries was $14.7 billion. The largest oil deficit in 1977 was more than $5 billion with Nigeria, the department said in a trade booklet distributed recently. The United States exported $958.3 million worth of goods to Nigeria and bought $6.1 billion worth of goods, mostly crude oil.

The United States ran an $8.9 billion deficit in trade with the Arab nations and Iran in 1977, more than double the deficit in 1976.

The largest deficit with an Arab country was $3.5 billion with Libya. The United States exported $313 million of goods to the Libyans but bought $3.8 billion of oil. America ran up a deficit of $2.8 billion with Saudi Arabia, the world's largest oil producer, send-ing $3.6 billion of goods to that country but importing $6.4 billion worth of oil.

Trade with Iran was almost even. The United States exported $2.7 billion worth of goods to Iran and imported $2.8 billion of oil.

Other major U.S. deficits were with Indonesia $2.7 billion, Algeria $2.6 billion and the United Arab

Sharks Detect Electric Fields

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Most animals have a sensory array made up of sight, touch, taste, smell and hearing. To that, the shark adds an electric sense.

Dr. Andrianus Kalmijn of the Woods Hole, Mass., Oceanographic Institution, says sharks are guided to their prey by being able to detect weak electric fields generated unintentionally by animals in

In addition, Kalmijn believes sharks use this extraordinary electric sensing capability to orient themselves themselves in open sea, something like an internal electromagnetic compass.

Sharks have been cruising the oceans since before the age of the dinosaurs and Kalmijn and his assistant, Kenneth Rose, suggest the sixth sense of sharks may have had a key role in helping them adapt to changing environments.

Kalmijn and Rose said in the March issue of Natural History, published by the American Museum of Natural History, that sharks owe their sensitivity to several hundred sensory organs marked by pores in the skin of the animal's snout.

Kalmijn has demonstrated in experiments that sharks respond to voltage differences equal to that which would be produced by a flashlight battery connected to electrodes spaced 1,000 miles apart in the ocean.

"Little wonder that this sensitivity is the highest known in the animal kingdom," the report said.

physics say that these electric fields become rapidly weaker and weaker with increasing distance from the animal.

Even so, Kalmijn and Rose said the electric fields generated by small fish and wounded crabs, the main diet of many sharks, are easily detected by sharks within a range of about a foot

'Human beings swimming in the sea produce their own electric fields, which sharks can detect from distances of up to about three feet," the researchers wrote. The fields produced by metals carried or worn on the body - scuba gear, for example - are usually even stronger.'

In a telephone interview, Staats said he told President Carter and Energy Secretary James Schlesinger in a letter last

Spokesmen at the White House and the Department of Energy had no comment except to say government lawyers are examining the letter. They said department lawyers previously concluded the govern-

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) - Disclosures about possible health problems associated with their product have created a controversy in the urea formaldehyde form insulation business.

Several large foam installers have either gone out of business or made drastic cutbacks while others have suffered losses of 50 to 75 percent.

In Connecticut, the foam business "is more dead than alive," according to Williant Gray, vice president of the New York City-based Rapperswill Corp., a major foam manufacturer. "There are a lot of people holding back on their buying decisions because they are apprehen-

Among the company's half-dozen licensed installers in the state "some have suffered losses of 50 to 60 percent — in a couple of cases 75 percent - of the volume they would ordinarily have this time of year," Gray said. Peam insulation firm owners in the state are bitter over what they consider unfair publicity about their product. In recent months, there have been several reports of families complaining of health problems after the walls of their homes were filled with foam insulation

lergic reactions, investigators said. 'It's being blown totally out of proportion," Michael Webb, a partner in a fivemonth-old firm in Norwich, said. "I think it's a fine product. There's nothing more efficient. The percentage of problems has been very slight.'

When properly installed, the foam is said to have the best insulation ability of any material currently in use in sidewalls

"A good foam job is the best yuou can get," said John Orofino, director of the non-profit quasi-public Community Energy Corp. in Hartford. "If it's absolutely technically perfect, you've made a co-

Carter opposes it on grounds that fast breeder reactors - which produce more plutonium than they use - could lead to nuclear proliferation.

After the bill signing last week, the White House repeated that it wants to complete only a systems design for the reactor and plans to use the rest of the appropriation to cover costs of phasing out the rest of the project.

Staats said the law requires the funds to be used to continue design work - not to kill the project.

"We are putting them on notice that if they use the money for that purpose it would be contrary to the law," he said. Staats said the official who authorizes the spending — probably Schlesinger — would be held personally liable for the

The solution, he said, would be for administration officials to get Congress to appropriate money "to terminate the program. But they haven't been able to do that. Just going ahead and using the money is contrary to law.

Ford Motor Co. Planning To Hire More Engineers

DETROIT (AP) - Ford Motor Co. says it will hire up to 1.500 engineers by the end of 1978 to boost its technical staff by 14 percent.

Ford has already hired 300 new engineers since Jan. 1 as part of "the most ambitious product development program ever undertaken by Ford Motor Co.," Vice President Robert L. Alexander said He was referring to the company's crash program to redesign its car and truck fleets by 1985, making them smaller and more fuel-efficient to meet govermment emissions and fuel standards. We are seeking a wide range of academit backgrounds and technological disciplines to fill openings in all phases of design, test and development engineering in our vehicle, powertrain, chassis and body activities," he said. exander also announced plans to construct a multimillion-dollar engineering iter building at Ford's headquartin Dearborn starting sometime this oring. Computers there will serve both orth American and European opera-

e huge technical hiring program and construction plans are part of the $15 bilin to $20 billion Ford expects to spend 1985 to revamp automobile design and production, Alexander said.

The extra engineers alone will add $33 million to Ford's annual payroll, Alexander said.

Competitor General Motors Corp., while not disclosing specific plans, has projected it will be spending $5 billion annually on capital projects by the early 1980s, much of it to meet the same government requirements.

HY GARDNER HAS THE ANSWER:

Glad You Asked That!

Early in December this column asked "Fight Doctor" Ferdie Pacheco (who was in Muhammad Ali's corner for 15 years) what his ambition was in the fight game. He answered: "To be outside, not inside, the ring when the champ has his final fight - and retires as undefeated heavyweight champion of the world." On Wednesday, Feb. 15, 1978, in Las Vegas, Ferdie's ambition was almost realized. But someone changed the script. Ali's crown fell to a 24-year-old kid named Leon Spinks, while his doc was sitting outside the ring, doing color for the CBS telecasting of the Big Brawl. Pacheco's ambition still could be fulfilled. Chances are Ali will once again try to regain the title as he did twice before. Until then Jim Jeffries, Gene Tunney, Joe Louis and Rocky Marciano remain the only heavyweight champions to retire undefeated.

Speaking of great champions, here's a story Jimmy Cannon used to tell about Joe Louis the Brown Bomber. When Joe and Jimmy were at Fort Dix waiting to be discharged from the Army, they met a little man from the boxing world whom they knew. Louis inquired about the man's brother. "Did Sammy get into the Army, too?" Joe asked. "Gosh no, Joe, the Army wouldn't take Sammy,' he said. "Don't you remember how small Sammy is? Sammy's even smaller than I am, much too small to get into the Army." Louis shrugged his broad shoulders. "What difference does that make?" he said. "Small man, get a small gun."

Personal Postcard to Marie and Tony Vitale, Miami: Cleveland Amory came up with this intelligence about who ranked at the top of the heap of the world's favorite personalities during World War II. "Pope Pius XII finished behind Bing Crosby and Frank Sinatra. Others, in this order, were Eisenhower, Father Flanagan, MacArthur, Walter Winchell, Sister Kenny and Bob Hope. Joseph Stalin finished 15th

Q: Is it true that Hank Greenspun, the gutsy Las Vegas Sun publishing pioneer, once slugged mobster Bugsy Siegel? Or is that colorful story just a legend? - Mrs. Linton R., Phoenix.

A: It became a legend only because the incident that never happened became a conversation piece through the years. It all started when a columnist on Hank's paper thought he had the scoop of the year, picturing his boss as a hero. What really happened was that Greenspun, leaving the Flamingo Hotel after a friendly visit with Siegel, slipped on some steps and was caught in the arms of his host. In the next edition Hank rebutted the report: "If I had slugged Bugsy Siegel," he wrote, "I would be celebrating my 17th year at the bottom of Lake Mead!"

Rain Threatens Return Of Buzzards

HINCKLEY, Ohio (AP) - Park ranger Bud Berger says he hopes that a threat of rain won't dampen the expected annual return of the Hinckley buzzards.

"I understand the weather reports call for rain . . . buzzards don't fly in rain," said Berger, who will be on the buzzard watch at dawn Wednesday in this Medina County community. "But Mother Nature has never let us down before, and I don't think she will this year."

The vultures have returned to the community of 4,760 persons each March 15 and local legend says the birds have made their annual appearance for 159

Sheila Gaby, a doctoral candidate in biology at the University of Miami, thinks the buzzards could be the same ones who perch on the roof of the courthouse in downtown Miami from October to

She said the Miami birds have the flight capability to make the trip to Ohio and she hopes to prove that with a buzzard tagging project.

Mrs. Gaby disagrees with another legend that says the birds were first attracted to Hinckley after Wyandot Indians hung a squaw for witchcraft in the early

A more likely possibility is that the birds were there all the time.

Singer Gives Advice On Opera

By JOAN HANAUER NEW YORK (UPI) - How does Beverly Sills suggest parents introduce their children to opera? Very carefully

Much as she loves opera, one of the world's greatest operatic sopranos would choose a child's introduction to opera with great care.

"If a child's first opera is the wrong one, the child could be turned off opera for life," Miss Sills said. The singer, who will host "The New York Philharmonic Young People's Concert" on CBS's Festival of Lively Arts for Young People on March 19, 4 p.m. (CST), continued:

"The first opera should be cheerful, with a lot of young players in pretty costumes, with dancing and movement. Wagnerian opera or anything excessively long is for connoisseurs. For a child it would be a terrible mistake.

"Children like the old classics - something like 'Traviata,' that everybody can

"The opera should be performed by a young company like the New York City Opera, where there will be other young people in the audience. (Miss Sills is retiring from her operatic career in 1980 to become co-director of the City Opera).

"It should be a very pretty opera with singers who look like the parts they are playing, with men singers who are very manly. It puts off a young boy if the lead-ing man as hero is middle-aged and a lit-

Miss Sills, who grinned about doing the "Young People's Concerts" this year and said, "Now I'm Leonard Bernstein," added she saw her first opera when she was 7 years old — "Lakme," with Lily Pons. She was hooked, even if the thing that most fascinated her was Miss Pons' daring costume that revealed the singer's bellybutton.

She suggests that if at all possible a child's first opera be in English.

Some operas like 'Manon' don't translate," she said, giving as an example the way Manon uses French pronouns "tu" and "vous" to indicate personal and less personal relationships. "In English it would all translate as 'you.'

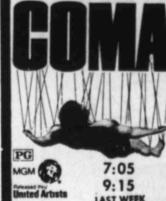

"La Boheme' translates perfectly easi-Puccini died in our lifetime and in Boheme' the characters speak Italian like the people speak in Italy today. 'Traviata' is very translatable.'

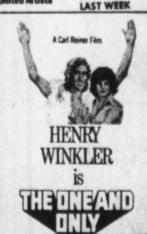

Miss Sills suggested some homework before the performance, so that the child

Vames Lynda Carter 'Most Beautiful'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) - Is Lynda Cartet. TV's "Wonder Woman," really the most beautiful woman in the world?

The London-based International Academy of Beauty says so, although none of the members of that little-known body has ever seen Lynda in the flesh.

So far as is known, the academy, presided over by British fashion designer Bill Gtbb, has never previously announced its choice for the most beautiful woman in s celestial paradise.

Nor, for that matter, has the Internaional Academy of Beauty ever published criteria for singling out one woman from some 2 billion other females inhabg planet earth.

Even Lynda herself, a scrumptious brunette with pale blue eyes that sometimes an a luminescent gray, has no clear-cut dea how the academy selected her. She certainly didn't lobby for the honor nor enter any contest.

is presumed Gibb and company studphotographs of actresses, models and perhaps even police mug shots in reachtheir momentous decision. Lynda was and she was selected the most beautiful man in the world on the basis of one particular portrait that fell into the hands the academy.

One also may assume the academy reedicts its analysis to facial beauty because Lynda's magnificent architecture is not shown in the photograph which won her the honor.

Wobbly though the credentials of the International Academy of Beauty may be in this matter, it is, nonetheless, a considerable distinction for any woman to be dubbed the solar system's most beauti-"What can you possibly say?" Lynda asked. "Terrific. I thought it was great." She was in her mobile home dressing room at The Burbank Studios where her CBS-TV series is filmed. Lynda wore a modest shirt and a pair of skin tight blue jeans. Her abbreviated Wonder Woman ostume was hanging nearby.

Lynda may or may not be the most beautiful woman in the world. But clearly, and under any circumstances she would certainly be a contender if current American tastes in such things were voted on by the male population.

This honor came as a complete surprise," she said. "I didn't know I was eing considered for the title or even if it

"They judged me on a photograph that has been my favorite. It's just a head shot of me looking straight into the camera. There's nothing phony about it.

"It is the nicest photograph I've ever had taken but I don't think of it as me. I look at it almost as a third person."

Lynda, a bright and articulate young woman, is not unaccustomed to being praised for her beauty. She won the 1973 Miss World-USA title. But like many extraordinarily comely women, she is not over-impressed with her appearance. She did, in fact, ask why the academy had made its announcement.

"They never named a most beautiful woman before," she said. "I think it's be-these days and because they are dominating television. Beauty is important. Especially to an actress. But it is important to get past it, too. It seems all my life I've been a 'Miss This or That.' A princess. Now this honor. I don't fight it anymore.

"I'm excited this time because it almost had nothing to do with me in regard to a job. It came at a time when I don't need it. Beauty used to be the reason for my success. It's gotten me to this point but I'm going past that now.

I'm often asked how I feel about beauty. I can't take any credit for it. I had nothing to do with it. My parents did it. They should be given an award.'

Ringo Starr Prepares For Special

LAFF - A - DAY

By JAY SHARBUTT

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) - You always start a story about Ringo Starr by noting he's an ex-Beatle. You always ask him if he favors a Beatles reunion. He says no. And is asked why

'Because it's like a revival, and I don't feel like I ever died," drawls Ringo. He's then asked if he's seen "Beatlemania," a musical in which Beatle look-alikes carry on and sing Beatles songs.

He says no, he doesn't want to, and adds: "Terry Southern, a friend of mine, had the greatest idea. He says what we should do is get together and do a parody on 'Beatlemania.

'That'd be the only way we could get back together and" - an amused smile commenced - "they won't come and see us, either.

Ringo, 37, who left Rory Storme's Hurricanes in 1962 to drum for and make a few bobs with the Beatles until their split in 1970, now is drumming up publicity for his first solo special on U.S. television. Airing April 26 on NBC as "Ringo," it's a rock musical comedy loosely based on Mark Twain's "The Prince and the Pauper." Ringo plays both roles, aided by ex-Beatle George Harrison. Starr said it's about rock stardom, and

"we re-create Ringo as people imagine him, with all the women and joys and luxuries of life - when all he really wants is an hour off."

The look-alike pauper is one Ognir Rratz (sic). He, Starr said, makes his way in this world "selling maps to the stars" homes. He dreams he'll end up some day in one of those mansions.

The interview site could have fit right in the show: a Beverly Hills hotel suite, 70 degrees outside, air-conditioning going inside, a blaze in the fireplace to maintain at least 70 degrees.

But Ringo, clad in a black suit and red sneakers, seemed as serene in such surreal surroundings as in his second movie, "The Magic Christian," a fine, deadpan spoof of the lunacy money can cause.

Possessed of a dry, sardonic sense of humor, Starr spoke of bracing himself for a fresh round of interviews next month after a vacation-and-business trip to Eu-

While there, he said, he'll be touting a new album, "Bad Boy," then return here for the talk-show circuit to mention both agreed he'll find the circuit crowded.

Because the Oscar awards are coming up, he mused, "every actor you've ever seen is on." He grinned and mimicked the average talk-show host: "Oh, you've got a film, have you?

'But it's the game. You have to promote these days. Everyone has to promote.

Nobody is too big not to." Inquiries were made as to whether he has a new movie afoot, seeing as how he's been in about seven since leaving the

"We've said yes to one, and we're thinking about another," he said. He declined to elaborate on either for the time

"Movies, you can't talk about," the ex-Beatle said, aware future film deals often have a way of becoming no deals. "You like to at least start shooting first. That's the only time you feel a bit secure.

Director Plans First Season Of Symphony

NEW YORK (AP) - Zubin Mehta's first season as music director of the New York Philharmonic will include works written by three of his predecessors.

The former directors on the orchestra's 1978-79 program include Gustav Mahler's First Symphony, Leonard Bernstein's "Chichester Psalms," and the U.S. premiere of a piece by Pierre Boulez.

Mehta plans to conduct 16 of the Philharmonic's 32 programs, giving way for a few weeks at a time to such guest conductors as Mstislav Rostropovich, Claudio Abbado and Daniel Barenboim.

Bernstein, who usually conducts several programs each season, is devoting his time to composing, and is not scheduled to conduct.

Barenboim also is scheduled to perform as a solo pianist. Other soloists include Vladimir Ashkenazy, pianist; Itzhak Perlman, Isaac Stern, Pinchas Zukerman and Rodney Friend, violinists,

et Union, also will appear here.

The season is scheduled to open Sept. 14, when Mehta conducts the Mahler symphony and the premiere of a new work by Samuel Barber, "The Ambigui-ties (after Melville)." Mehta also will direct the final concert on May 5. In between, the philharmonic will mark the 150th anniversary of Schubert's death by presenting the composer's eight sympho-nies, his Mass No. 5 and two of his over-

After the screening, director Peter Levin and writer Ronald Rubin stood in front of the audience, answering questions and listening to comments. There were a few complaints about the validity of a depicted AA meeting, but none on the substance of the show. Rubin, reminding the young people this was a commercial network TV show on prime time, said:

'This is not a documentary. We try to do a show the public can enjoy but be reasonably true to the problem. It has to be entertaining. In those boundaries, we try not to make any grave errors.

Stock Mart Retreats Amid Fears

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market retreated today amid caution over developments in the Middle East

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 5.28 at 757.28. Losers took a slight lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. The market began rallying late in Tuesday's session when negotiators for the coal companies and the United Mine Workers announced a tentative settlement. Traders seemed to be hopeful that the union membership would react more favorably to the new pact than they did to the proposal which they rejected early this month But that enthusiasm was tempered today by wariness over Israeli forces' drive into southern Lebanon in retaliation for a terrorist raid last weekend.

Hercules Inc. led the active list, off 1/8 at 13. Blocks of 100,000 and 50,000 shares of the chemical company's stock traded at that price.

National Presto dropped 11/4 to 23% after an 81/4-point slide Tuesday that was blamed on disappointment over the size of the earnings gain reported by the company for 1977.

The NYSE's composite index dropped .16 to 49.59. The American Stock Exchange market value index was up .18 at 125.95.

Volume on the Big Board reached 10.18 million shares by noontime, against 9.08 million at the same point Tuesday

White House Seeks Drug Law Change

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Carter administration plans to ask Congress this week to approve massive changes in the nation's prescription drug laws that are sure to encounter strong pharmaceutical industry opposition.

The legislation, the most comprehensive rewriting of the nation's prescription laws since the Food and Drug Administration was created in 1906, is designed to lift the lid of secrecy from FDA operations and make it easier to get new drugs on the market and pull problem ones off druggists' shelves.

Sources who have seen the most recent draft of the bill, still under review by the White House Office of Management and Budget, say the proposal would:

- Allow provisional approval of some new substances that otherwise might be held up by months or years of research. Such approval could be withdrawn quickly if risks were discovered, another lengthly process under current regula-

- Give the FDA the power to limit distribution of new drugs to hospitals or possibly to patients with prescriptions from certain medical specialists. - Require that prescriptions contain leaflets written in non-medical language telling patients what the drugs are good for and their possible hazards. These pamphlets could be kept from some patients, such as cancer victims unaware that they had the disease. The proposals are now scheduled to be unveiled Thursday.

A provision to make public the scientific data used to justify marketing of a drug already is under fire by the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association, an industry group representing the country's major drug firms.

The industry maintains the legislation would expose trade secrets and stifle in-

In return for making such information ublic before a drug is approved, the FDA would guarantee the company an exclusive five-year license to sell the product in the United States. PMA President Joseph C. Stetler complained there is no way to prevent foreign competitors - or American firms with foreign subsidiaries - from copying the product in an overseas laboratory and selling it everywhere but in the United States.

Another section of the bill attacks what critics say is undue industry influence on physicians who traditionally are given free drug samples and office supplies by salesmen promoting their products. The legislation would bar salesmen from giving a physician more than $5 worth of free samples per visit. The Food and Drug Act was enacted in 1906 to protect the public from adulterated products. Major amendments to the drug section of the law were added in 1938 to require that drugs be safe and in 1962 to require that they be proved

Petitions Filed In Aspermont Slaying Case

HASKELL (Special) - A 16-year-old youth being held in connection with the shotgun slayings of three Aspermont residents may be tried as an adult if petitions filed here Monday are approved by 39th Dist. Court Judge William P. Ra-

Dist. Atty. Joseph Thigpen Monday filed petitions seeking to have the boy tried as an adult for the murders of 38year-old Herman Weldon Swink, his pregnant wife Ilka Ilene, 27, and his 14year-old son Royce Wayne.

The youth has been held in Lubbock County Jail since Feb. 1 while authorities decided whether to seek certification to have him tried as an adult for the Jan. 24 slayings in Aspermont. Authorities found the three shot-gunned in their home about 5 a.m. after the Swink's other son, 16-year-old Roy Swink, broke through a plate glass window and drove across town to an uncle's. The uncle called police. At the home, lawmen found the three had been murdered a short time before

Ratliff earlier had set a Monday hearing for the adjudication proceedings under the family code. After the certification motion was filed, he set 10 a.m. Friday for discussion on the petition and canceled the Monday date. Thigpen, though refusing to comment, issued a press release saying "the request was made because of the seriousness of the offenses and because the welfare of the community requires criminal proceedings."

Senator Opposes Limiting Tenure

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., serving his third term in the Senate, doesn't think much of proposals to limit the tenure of members of Congress, sponsored largely by freshman

In a statement opening hearings by the constitution subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee, Bayh said he had "serious reservations on the merits of these proposals." He questioned whether the proposed constitutional amendments would weaken the legislative branch and whether the federal government would work as well "if it relied on less experienced federal legislators."

Rain Damages California Landmarks

LOS ANGELES (UPI) - The rainstorms that drenched the area did serious damage to two landmarks, internationally known symbols of quirky Southern California - the Hollywood sign and the Watts Towers.

The Hollywood sign, deteriorating for decades, "is beyond hope now," the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce said this Cracks appeared in the Watts Towers and city officials barred visitors from the grounds until they can be repaired, a process expected to take weeks.

The Hollywood sign needs about $150,-000 in repairs, said Mike Sims, executive director of the chamber, and the chamber is going to launch a fund-raising

"It's a cultural monument, one of the few on the West Coast," he said. "We're not about to just let it drift away."

Dispute Rages Over Reasons For Dismissal

BRADFORD, Pa. (AP) - A hospital employee, angered by a doctor's refusal to obey a state law and stop smoking in an elevator, lost his job after he called the doctor "a filthy pig.

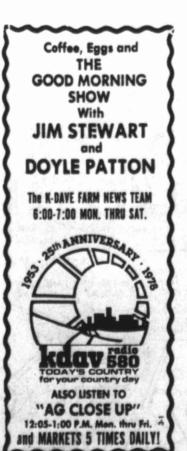

However, officials of Bradford Hospital say the smoking incident had nothing to do with computer programmer Calvin Oakwell's dismissal Hospital administrator Fred Powell said Oakwell was fired last week for erratic and irrational behavior.

"Obviously, we can't have that kind of disrespect for physicians. The smoking incident may have been his reason for his irrational behavior. But his firing had nothing to do with smoking. It has exclusively to do with his behavior." Powell said.

Oakwell, 49, a native of Frewsburg, N.Y., said the doctor's refusal "really bugged me. This doctor was smoking in an elevator, in clear defiance of the law. So I asked him if he thought the rules didn't apply
