Sales Tax Aids City Finances

Vol. 52, No. 136

By PAULA TILKER Avalanche-Journal Staff

Higher than expected sales tax revenues boosted the city's general operating fund $1.1 million over the last fiscal's year total, the city council learned today. Auditors reported that the city's financial condition is sound. Their audit for fiscal year 1976-77 showed the city's yearend balance as of Sept. 30, 1977, to be $4.69 million compared to $3.57 million the previous fiscal year.

Besides discussing the annual financial statement, the city council on a split vote modified and approved a federally-required flood program ordinance.

At Mayor Roy Bass' instigation and on Councilwoman Carolyn Jordan's motion, the council included a clause stating the ordinance was "passed under duress." The addendum also noted that the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) used "blackmail" to force the city's acceptance of the flood pro-

"What HUD is asking us is to pass an ordinance that is admittedly wrong from the outset," Bass said. He suggested that the city make HUD aware of its displeasure by including a protest in the ordi-

Only councilman Alan Henry voted against the ordinance as amended.

HUD had given the city until May 1 to approve the fedeal regulations, which would require anyone living in a designated flood-hazard area to purchase federally subsidized flood insurance. If the ordinance was not adopted, HUD warned, all federal funds to the city would be stopped.

City engineers contend that the map provided by HUD to designate flood-hazard areas is inaccurate. According to city staffers, HUD will not revise the map at

Although revenues for general governmental functions increased 2.3 percent over fiscal year 1975-76, the cost of providing city services jumped by 10.7 percent, the newly released audit shows. However, the general fund showed a healthy increase because of "phenomenal" sales tax revenues, said Stirling Miller, finance director. He said that the revenues for the second consecutive year increased almost 20 percent over the previous year. He attributed the unexpected increase to an ex-See SALES TAX Page 14

Begin Blasts Shift In U.S. Peace Views

MASHINGTON (UPI) — Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin today accused the United States of backing away from an Israeli proposal for a limited return of captured Arab lands.

"It is with deep sorrow that I have to tell you that in a certain moment in recent weeks, those good words of the past suddenly disappeared from the lexicon," Begin said in a National Press Club speech. "... Names, bad names, were thrown into the arena."

He ended the speech with a plea for the revival of the spirit that existed during his talks with Egyptian President Anwar

Begin thus ended the visit, which produced an open disagreement with the administration, on an unyielding note. The dispute was so through that the two sides could not even agree on a statement summarizing the two days of talks.

Politicos Delay Base Closings

WASHINGTON (AP) - Like its predecessors, the Carter administration is finding it was easier to talk about reducing or closing military bases than getting the job done.

Congressional political pressure has forced changes, delays, and even some reversal of proposed base cutbacks.

The latest development came when the Navy announced plans to base four warships at Newport, R.I., next fall to improve "the strategic dispersal of the

About four years ago, the Navy moved 39 ships out of Newport to other bases and virtually dismantled the Rhode Island complex in what was described as a necessary economy move "There was political interest in putting ships back into the Northeast area" one military source said. He said it was "a higher decision than the Navy's," indicating direction came at least from senior Defense Department officials if not from the White House. An administration civilian official said: "It was political."

Similar political pressures - not only from the Northeast but from other regions as well - are reportedly slowing the Pentagon's progress toward a new round of base closings and reduction decisions

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., and a 204-member bipartisan coalition of Northeast and Midwest congressmen, have been demanding that the administration halt what they call a steady drain of military spending from their areas in favor of the South and West.

Last October, the coalition accused the Navy of "stripping all remaining naval facilities from the Northeast."

Carter's record on base actions in his first year as president is a mixed one. A month after he traveled to Massachusetts last year, the Pentagon reversed a Ford administration decision to severely cut operations at Fort Devens, Mass. But Carter went ahead with the Ford administration's plans to close the Frankford arsenal in Philadelphia, despite a campaign promise by Vice President Walter F. Mondale to keep it open.

Senior Pentagon officials had hoped to announce a new round of closings and reductions in February. Now they hope to do so in April.

There is also speculation the administration may wait until after the next Senate vote on the Panama Canal treaties to avoid losing any senators whose support may be needed.

A group described as gypsies led Lub bock County officers this morning on a hectic chase which began after a bank bag containing more than $400 disap-peared from the Idalou Dairy Queen about 11:15 a.m.

Traveling in a Chevrolet, Pontiac and yes, folks — a Cadillac, the caravan left the Dairy Queen and made its way to Lubbock where police, sheriff's deputies and DPS troopers spent about 45 minutes looking for the group.

Two cars were stopped about noon at the intersection of 19th Street and Ave-

Lance Returns Diplomatic Passport WASHINGTON (AP) - Former Budget Director Bert Lance has turned in his diplomatic passport.

"He did not seem to need it any longer," White House press secretary Jody Powell said Wednesday.

Powell said President Carter had not asked Lance, who resigned as budget director last September because of his linancial dealings, to return the passport. The document entitled the president's longtime friend to special privileges during his travels.

Powell refused to tie the return of the passport this week with Lance's recent troubles with the Securities and Exchange Commission. The agency accused Lance and others last week of violating securities laws in an alleged secret takeover attempt of a $2 billion Washington-based bank holding company.

Haig Warns Of Soviet Might

NEW YORK (AP) — The Soviet Union's expanding military capabilities could be used in some part of the world for a "grievous acquisition of territory," says Gen. Alexander Haig Jr.
NATO's military chief told a Foreign

He said the global scope of the expansion is the result of a "year in, year out" policy of increased defense spenu-HAIG ing that has matured and broadened the Soviet military-industrial complex.

The expansion has left "a large residue of modern arms that is serving as "the cutting edge of a growing Soviet influence in Africa," the four-star general said. He said the area was serving as a "breeding ground for Soviet imperial-

Officials Unhappy With Portrait
WASHINGTON (AP) — Some State Department observers said the portrait made Henry Kissinger "look something like a dwarf." Others said "it looked more like a rogues gallery thing." And the former secretary of state himself declined to comment.

The likeness, which has been rejected, was done by Gardner Cox of Boston, one of the country's leading portraitists. He said he was told Kissinger and his wife didn't like the portrait, which was to have hung in the department's elegant seventh-floor reception rooms

"It was beautifully painted, but did not seem to capture the dynamism of Dr. Kissinger," said Clement Conger, the department's curator of furnishings and pictures. The department is looking for another portraitist.

Cox, who did portraits of former Secretaries of State Dean Rusk and the late Dean Acheson, will have his expenses reimbursed. He said the State Department rejection was "cordial" and had "no bitterness." The likeness, which if accepted would have earned Cox $12,000 and expenses, has been returned to the artist and is for sale.

Committee assignments are determined by the parties, and the in-fighting over who will be named to them and even their size was illustrated at the start of the present Congress by a struggle over control of the judiciary panel.

Kennedy wanted to keep Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala., off the committee, as he had succeeded in doing in the previous Congress. A majority of these students will be operators who got hooked as a result of their CB experiences and want to extend their knowledge as well as their ability to communicate.

Why amateur radio licensees are called HAMs, I don't know, but that is the monicker they are aiming at.

Recently we explored some of the aspects of ham operations, pointing out that the ARRL (Amateur Radio Relay League) expects 150,000 converts in 1978 as a result of the intense interest in citizens band. The five classes of licenses for arnateurs are Novice, Technician, General, Advanced and Extra.

For serious CBers who want to cover the world, ham operation is a logical step. The Novice license is a simple test: learning the International Morse Code (CU), being able to send and receive five words per minute and answering correctly 8 out of 10 questions on theory. The test is administered in your home (probably) by a General Class licensee, who is a volunteer. It won't take more

The Technician licensee requires a bit more understanding of the principles of radio, as well as operating procedures ad regulations, than the Novice. This test must be passed at a regional FCC office. But it isn't difficult, and this license class is the most popular.

It's the General Class license that is called "the big one" because it allows skip privileges and opens up the whole world to conversation at any time of the day or night. This test covers theory, principles, operating procedures, as well as the practical use of about 25 formulas. You'll have to work for this one and memorize a considerable amount of information. But it's worth it.

The Advanced Class affords all the privileges of the earlier licenses but it requires slightly more complex technical knowledge and operating techniques. This license does open up some additional frequencies that are restricted from lower class operators. It give you more elbow room. And it prepares you for the Extra Class license, which has with it some little goodies like exclusive subbands, two letter call signs, and the recognition that you have obtained the highest amateur license available.

A lot of equipment isn't necessary for amateur operation. A 12-channel UHF-VHF receiver and transmitter should cost you abut $150-$200. Its a static-free, interference-free personal radio that opens up new worlds to CBers, particularly those who like to linger at their base stations and feel restricted now with their limited range of communication.

If you want more information so you can pursue the ultimate in personal radio — in others words if you're hooked on getting out further than your CB will legally permit — contact Charlie Harris, Newington, Mass., at the Amateur Radio Relay League, and he'll send you all the information you could possibly want to get it under way.

Charlie is a ham enthusiast whose interest in spreading the word is infectious, probably because it is gospel to him and he wants to encourage anyone to con-

Arkansas Commission To Enforce Fire Law

estry Commission plans a crackdown on enforcement of a little-known state law dealing with fires, and if a few folks get hot under the collar, that's all right with

The law requires a person who plans to burn such things as new fields and grasslands to notify the commission prior to setting the fire. Those who don't are guilty of a misdemeanor. "We're in the process of putting out some notices to let people know we do have this law," said James Grant, information officer of the commission. "We've been trying to crackdown over the last few years, but we're publicizing the law more this year."

Mainly, Grant said, the law is concerned with persons who plan to burn brush piles or grass off their garden spots, but he said even those in rural areas who plan to burn leaves should report that to their local authorities.

One of the reasons behind the law is that when rangers see smoke coming from several directions, they will know which ones are controlled fires and which are wildfires.

Depending on the situation, Grant said, violators will be given either a warning or a citation that could carry a fine. The warnings generally would go to the leafburners, but Grant said if in checking one of those out it prevented rangers from taking action on a wildfire, the leaf-burner also would be cited.

The enforcement crackdown comes during the most explosive time of the year for forest fires, which generally runs from Feb. 15-April 15. So far this year, the number of forest fires in the state has declined from 1977.

LITTLE ROCK (UPI) - The state For- In 1977, there were 4,347 fires in which 68,000 acres of woods and 14,000 acres of grass and brushland were lost. There were 114 fires in January, 1977, 913 in February and 1,057 in March. So far this year, there have been 56 in January, 244 in February and 355 for far this month for a total of 655.

The icy, wet winter this year was a factor in reducing the number of fires, Grant said, but last weekend, which was probably the warmest of the year, there were 244 fires from Friday through Sun-drives proponents of the Equal Rights Amendment up the wall, it's all those people who are preading what they say are lies and misinformaon about the ERA.

So the other day, the national organization ER-America took out a full-page ad in the New York Times denouncing this "vocal minority of extrenists who deal in deception.'

Among those claims which ERAmerica says is ludicrous" is the "scare tactic" charge that the ERA would "cause women to be drafted."

I called ERAmerica here and asked its public tions director, Kathleen Currie, if she could refer me to a constitutional expert who would back up the assertions in her organization's ad.

She cheerfully suggested the name of Thomas merson, Lines professor of law emeritus at the Yale University Law School, whom she referred as "the best" legal authority on the ERA.

WHEN I CALLED Emerson and asked him bout the flat statement in the ERAmerica ad at the ERA will "not" (emphasis in the ad) nase women to be drafted, he replied:

"This is wrong. The ERA will cause women to e drafted." As the professor explained it, without the ERA, in time of war, if the draft is reinsted, the Congress could specifically exempt omen from conscription because of their sex. "However, if the ERA becomes law, and war reaks out and the draft is reinstated, such a sexid exemption would be illegal. Thus, the ERA ould cause women to be drafted."

Sincerson even went so far as to say that if the

A CONTRACTOR OF THE PARTY OF TH

WASHINGTON-II there's one thing that could be forced to fight along side men in the combat zone. With ERA in effect women could not be limited to noncombatant roles, because this would be sex-based discrimination, and therefore illegal.

> THE QUESTION OF women being drafted and fighting in a war is not at all academic. A few weeks ago, the Defense Department asked Congress to end the ban on females in combat, raising the possibility that in future conflicts women will be flying fighter planes, serving in infantry units and working aboard destroyers and aircraft

> Antonia Chayes, assistant secretary of the Air Force, is quoted as saying: "This is the first step forward. The real step lies with Congress." As it stands now, Congress could specifically prevent women from being drafted to fight. But with the ERA, this could not be done.

When I asked Emerson, who strongly supports the ERA, to give me some examples of sex discrimination that is so pernicious and so widespread that only a national ERA could remedy these problems, he tries. But I don't think his arguments are compelling.

Offhand Thoughts

When someone says, "That's a good question," you can be sure it's a lot better than the answer you're going to get.

Another sign of age is when you begin to spend more time talking with your pharmacist than with your bartender.

HE SAYS, IN "most states" the husband maintains control of property that comes into the marriage and he can dispose of it even if the wife has earned it. In how many states is this true?

"I don't know," the professor says, "maybe half of the states." When I press him, he concedes that in the past several years the states have "come a long way" in abolishing this type of discrimination, and this "steady progress" has been achieved without a national ERA.

Emerson says that there is still a problem with sex discrimination in important government jobs.

This is legal now, I ask? He pauses.
"Well, no, you're right," he says. "This is already covered by federal anti-discrimination

"YOU REALLY CAN'T make the plausible argument that the ERA will have no effect." It is just not true, he says, alluding to the national head of STOP-ERA Phyllis Schlafly, that the ERA will not change anything.
When I point out to him that Mrs. Schlafly has never said this, that she says that ERA will change things and for the worse, taking away a lot of rights women now enjoy, Emerson says:

"Okay, fine, fair enough. She does argue that.
You're right."

ERAmerica is right. There is a lot of ludicrous misinformation being spread around about the ERA. But as their own ad illustrates, not all this burn dope is being disseminated by opponents of the ERA.

Perhaps ERAmerica should take out a second ad to correct the misinformation it perpetuated

The Kentucky State Senate approved, 32 to 4, a bill requiring the Ten Commandments to be post-

The average American will work until May 11 this year to pay his local, state and federal taxes, says the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. It gets longer each year because people like the striking coal miners and 40-year-old military "retirees" live off the taxpayers instead of working.

Wyoming residents in that same range pay $708, the lowest, New York residents $5,032, the ignest. The average for all 50 states in $1,446, almost double the going rate in Texas.

There, now. Doesn't that brighten your day?

Simultaneously, State Comptroller Bob Bullock reports that Texas spends $87 per capita on public welfare, New York $281 per capita.

Texas' economy is booming, New York's is stagnating. Texas' unemployment is low, New York's high. Wonder why?

Texas legislators are paid $8,400, New York's $23,500, U.S. Congressmen $57,500. Texas is solvent, New York deeply in debt, the U.S. even deeper. Get the picture?

The Federal Communications Commission is seeking public opinion on unwanted junk telephone calls. One aide suggested a random telephone poll to get the answers.

In "The Hog Book," a 272-page tome by one William Hedgepeth, it is claimed that pigs don't say "oink." They say gronk, rawrk, wheeeeeeiiiii and ronk, Hedgepeth contends.

Obviously, Hedgepeth's pigs are trying to tell m something. Probably that they are illegal imnigrants in need of bilingual education.

Adams had managed to lay his hands on a keepsake copy several years ago. The book, published by the Magnolia Petroleum Co. (later Mobil), brought Texas history alive through text and animated cartoons.

For some reason, a particular panel was forever engraved_in my own memory. It showed one wildcatter saying to another, with an oil drilling rig in the background, "It looks like oil, it smells like oil, it tastes like oil. By golly, it is oil!"

A TYPICAL TEXT excerpt in the sprightly book, designed to make history fun, told about Queen Isabella's decision to finance Christopher Columbus' ocean venture.

"It was the best investment she, or any other person ever made," the passage says. "She gambled a penny and won a billion!

Dirk West, who notes that the booklet has been reproduced lately, says he not only learned history "but a lot about cartooning" from it.

First copyrighted in 1928, it ended on an upbeat note with construction of the Magnolia "skyscraper" that was to serve as a beacon to a generation of starry-eyed young Texans. The final cartoon panel, atop the building with the Flying Red Horse in the background, had a youngster saying "You can see half of Texas and part of Arkansas from here." For school kids like Les Adams and me, those panels also helped us see back over 400 years of history and forward into a timeless future.

Oh, Sweet Land Of Lassitude

tor. Out to lunch?

WASHINGTON-It gets into your bones, this dreary lassitude, which won't let the authority of government lift its arm that holds the hammer which has got to strike when the iron is hot-or not at all.

It was Monday, March 6, and a few of my eld-erly friends had been celebrating Sunday the Fourth which happened to be the last Inauguration Day-F. D. Roosevelt's of course-before the event was rescheduled to January 20. This is only worth mentioning because FDR, ruthless as a rattlesnake, made such a contrast with Jimmy Carter in handling a crisis. At the lunch hour, 12:30, some of us had listened in dismay to the Carter milk-toast invocation of the Taft-Hartley Act in which he "ordered" the coal forenoon, before the broadcast, I went to hear witnesses at the Senate Energy Committee.

Chairman Haskell, D-Color, announced the meeting would have to end by noon because—if you can believe it—the Panama Canal Debate must resume at that hour.

Considerably before Haskell's gavel, however, we had heard—in slackiaw style—from two load.

It gets into your bones, I said, because in the

AFTER STUPEFYING recitation of banalities ("Coal is our dominant fossil fuel," for example) the energy secretary got to the bottom of a 10-

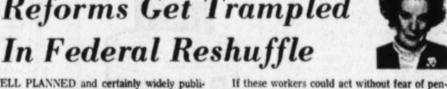

He said, truly, that Congress had voted his new department two methods of getting coal and elec-tricity to the American people—one method was the other "mandatory."

At this point, he could have roared like the lion we all wanted to hear. Instead, be mildly de-clared "There is a need to rethink carefully the entire range of authorities—to meet coal emergencies in the future."

I decided to try for an interview with Secretary Schlesinger, who's been around town in many posts. I taked to the impressive Forrestal Building on Independence Avenue, headquarters of the

WELL PLANNED and certainly widely publicized as President Carter's efforts to reorganize the federal government have been, achievements to date have been admittedly puny.

Most reforms made in reorganizing agencies have been merely cosmetic-small changes at the top, exposure of only the most startling example of waste or corruption or mismanagement.

As in other areas, Carter is discovering that the obstacles facing his reorganization drive are ex-tremely formidable. Why? Obstacle No. 1: Inefficiency is deeply rooted in the bureaucratic maze at all levels. It simply defies its enemies, is utterly untouched by reorganizations at the outward, visible level where agencies are combined, created and reshuffled. Across-the-board cuts never affect it. Bureaucracy always cuts muscle before fat.

OBSTACLE NO. 2: Entirely apart from inefficiency is the fundamental fact that much of the total cost of government consists of what are technically called "transfer payments"-bafflegab meaning the benefits going to tens of mil-lions of Americans in the form of food stamps, welfare checks, Social Security, medicare, medicaid, farm subsidies, etc.

These benefits are not affected one bit by reorganization and re-reorganization.
What, then, can be done? Plenty-but none of the attacks will be easy and none will be protected from wild opposition. * Inefficiency could be cut if the cutters were willing to take on the "sacred cows." In the offices of U.S. Attorneys today, cases are processed with many times the speed ever observed in "normal" agencies.

THE REASON: external pressure for results. When there is little or no external pressure, those in charge have the luxury of delegating more and more decisions to themselves.

More time is spent, more expense is incurred, more mistakes are made-simply because the decisions are more remote from the action itself. The labyrinth of steps created by the bureaucracy is never blamed for these bloopers. The usual claim is that underlings failed to follow instructions and blame is shifted and re-shift-

To cut fat instead of muscle, consider just the stops needed to process an uncomplicated matter within an agency.

IN THE FOOD and Drug Administration, for instance, to refer a matter to another agency in the same city, papers must be filled out and sent to Washington for review, then forwarded to the Washington headquarters of the second agency, and then back to the intended recipient, perhaps in the same original building or across the street!

The costs mount up, the delays stretch into weeks or months. Multiply this by myriad agenas well have crooned or intoned his message, for all the pep it put into the country which very much needs to get peppy.

Do you remember the play "Tobacco Road" where everything was slow-motion futility? Then you can estimate the Washington mood in this crisis which we have the gall to call Energy.

Sylvia Porter:

Reforms Get Trampled In Federal Reshuffle

alty, entirely different facts would emerge for us -and we would get much more service for less. OR AN ATTACK could come via better policing of those "transfer payments." More and more programs are being created where A is to provide services or goods to B, but the bill is paid by C directly to A. No one cares about the cost! A wants as much money as possible, B isn't concerned and C, the payer, is often only in the middle. What's more, the whole system relies on the honesty of the papers A submits to C to tap the Treasury. Fraud Authority and responsibility to police the program should be directed to one reliable source and payments should be stopped when there is evidence of misconduct, poor service, or fraud.

This is almost never done today.

UNDER MEDICARE/MEDICAID, as one example, there is no limit on the amount of money a given practitioner can collect or the number of patients that can be claimed to have been serviced by the same practitioner-even though there is an obvious limit to how many such patients can be given proper treatment by one professional.

If the Carter administration really wants to cut the cost of Big Government, it could find this a great place to begin. Meanwhile, on reorganization itself, unless Carter's team probes to the workings inside the agencies, the President will be appalled by the pace of his progress.

PRATTELN, Switzerland (AP) - Firestone (Switzerland) Inc., the Swiss subsidiary of the U.S. tire maker, will close down production later this year because of rising manufacturing costs and the high exchange rate of the Swiss franc, the company announced.

General Telephone Company of the Southwest has filed tariffs with the Public Utility Commission of Texas to implethe Federal Communications Comtelephone mission's equipment registration program (FCC Docket 19528). The tariffs have an effective date of April 15, 1978. The proposed changes will reduce rates for extension telephones and 25 foot long cords; will restructure charges for service connection, moves and increasing changes, some and reducing others; and will offer reduced monthly rates for one-party business and residence customers who provide their own primary telephone instrument. The proposed changes in rates, with some increasing and others decreasing, reduce General's gross revenues from its Texas operations by $2,565.00.

Cereal Firm Changing Tactics

Now, the Federal Trade Commission

wants to change all that.

The FTC is contemplating a ban on cereal and candy commercials aimed at very young children and a requirement that advertisers of sugared products pay for public service announcements preaching good nutrition and dental health.

The proposal has raised quite stir in the manufacturing capital of the

That, however, is exactly the problem, nutritionists say. Most parents think they are protecting their children from an over-

Auction Slated For Collection Of Old Wines

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) - Six dozen bottles of 19th century wines discovered last spring in the cellar of a Revolutionary War era mansion will be auctioned May 25 in Atlanta.

The wines, considered a treasure because of their age and quality, are expected to bring between $50,000 and $100,000, according to Alexander McNally, director of Heublein, Inc.'s wine auction.

The oldest of the wines to be sold will be an 1865 Chambertin red burgundy, and other vintages will range up to about 1900, said McNally, who is auctioning the wine for the Albany County Historical Association. The association will use auction proceeds to help restore the man-

LONDON (AP) — Pilgrims to Canter-bury 500 years ago enjoyed rudimentary hospital care along the way. For a couple of groat — silver coins worth four pennies — monks provided aid and buried those who didn't survive

That was the start of a tradition of health care in Britain that eventually led doctors to accept the idea of state medi-

The first national health insurance act took effect in 1912. In 1944 the British Medical Association, a doctors' union, welcomed the declared intention of the World War II coalition government to "ensure that every man, woman and child can rely on getting all advice, treatment and care which they need."

To that end, the National Health Service was introduced on July 5, 1948. Through payroll taxes, medical care was made available to all Britons. The only out of pocket costs are minimal fees for prescription drugs and dental and eye care. The first national health insurance act

Rivaling Welfare Plans Encourage HEW Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — The introduction of two welfare plans to rival President Carter's proposal increases chances that Congress will pass a major welfare bill this year, HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. said today.

Investigation Of Strangler Bogs Down

LOS ANGELES (AP) - A state senator says the Hillside Strangler investigation is bogged down because detectives cannot find 90 known sex offenders released from prison before the stranglings began.

Democrat Alan Robbins, chairman of the state Senate Judiciary Subcommittee on Violent Crime, made his remarks after he held closed hearings Wednesday with members of the Hillside Strangler

The stranglings, which now number 13, began last September. Robbins said that between July and September, 90 mentally disordered sex offenders were released from California prisons under the state's new determinate sentencing law.

Robbins said police want to cross-check the fingerprints of sex offenders with prints taken during the strangler investigation but have been unable to do so.

Under the determinate sentencing law, the state Community Release Board holds hearings to determine whether criminals due for release require longer considers Carter's proposal best, the two alternatives include important features that the president views as necessary for the welfare system.

Robbins said 150 more mentally disordered sex offenders are scheduled to be released during the coming year.

Introduction of the two bills "reflects an emerging consensus for significant re-form upon which to build," the secretary of health, education and welfare said. Because of that consensus, Califano said, he is optimistic that a bill can be passed this year, despite the fact it is an election year and key committees are deeply involved in other legislation. "Passage of a major welfare-reform bill that embodies the principles of the administration's proposal would be a signal achievement - for Congress, for the administration and, most important, for the American people," he said. Unlike Carter's proposal, the bills of-fered by Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., and by a bipartisan Senate group would build on the existing welfare programs, rather than starting from scratch. Carter proposes to combine Aid to Families with Dependent Children, Sup-plemental Security Income and food tamps into one new cash-benefits pro-

But Califano had nothing bad to say to the committee about the rival plans. Im-portantly, he said, all three bills agree on the need to:

Establish a minimum national benefit and uniform eligibility rules.
 Provide public-service jobs for poor

Expand the earned-income tax credwhich now provides a bonus of up to st. which now provides a bonus or up to $400 a year for poor families that work.

Sen. Henry Bellmon, R-Okla, a sponsor of one of the rival welfare-revision plans, said Wednesday that the Congressional Budget Office estimates that his proposal would cost $8 billion a year by Carter plan.

But Califano told the Senate committee that the bulk of the additional spending would go for inreased employment oportunities for welfare recipients, rather han for increased cash benefits. "We think this is money spent well,"

"will make my job easier; it will make your job easier. Everybody benefits." The order is binding on executive branch agencies that isssue regulations, such as the auto-safety agency and the Food and Drug Administration.

Carter said he had decided to ask for voluntary compliance from independent agencies, such as the Federal Communications Commission and the Federal Trade Commission, "to preseve their in-dependence." He said he was confident the independents would comply. The order, designed to streamline fed-eral regulations, had been circulated publicly in draft form. Carter said it was the first time a presidential executive order had been published for comment before being issued, something which is required by law for regulations issued by agencies below the White House level.

Americans Still Express Need For Cities

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Americans like their cities as service centers but give them low marks as places to live becau of high taxes and poor educational opportunities for children, a Louis Harris poll said today.

"Although the suburbs and outlying the central city, they have not spun free and have not sup-planted the city in the public's mind," the poll said.

Housing and Urban Development Sec-retary Patricia Roberts Harris, who released the poll, said it shows that "the majority of respondents believe America would be a worse place without cities."

The department contracted the poll in an effort to identify the public's view of its cities, towns and communities as places to live and work and to gauge how Americans assess the future of those The survey gave a high rating to the large and medium-sized cities for cultural activities, public transportation, selection of movies, health care, employment opportunities and shopping But Mrs. Harris said 63 percent of those surveyed said cities had poor public schools and 58 percent said taxes in the Thirty-nine percent of those surveyed said they intended to move in the next year. If they carry out this intention, Mrs. Harris said, it would mean a 10 percent drop in the urban population.

To the younger suburbanites in the 18-to 29-year-old age group, the city is more of a magnet than it is to older suburbanites, she said.

Union Boss Implicated In Murder

NEW YORK (AP) - The New York Post quoted unnamed law enforcement officials today as saying that slain Teams-ters official Salvatore Briguglio personally arranged "the contract murder" of Jimmy Hoffa. The 1975 disappearance of Hoffa, one-time national Teamsters president, is unsolved. But two federal investigators in Detroit have said the Briguglio slaying could bring a break in the case.

The sources said New Jersey Teamsters boss Anthony "Tony Pro" Provenzano, currently on trial here on a loan-kickback charge, was believed to have initiat-ed the order that led to Hoffa's killing, according to the Post. Provenzano one of three men Hoffa believed he was to meet the day he vanishe

New Trial Ordered For Amarillo Man

An Amarillo jury convicted Jim Van-derbilt for the April 1, 1975, murder of Katina Moyer, the daughter of former Rep. Hudson Moyer. The girl was abducted at gunpoint from an Amarillo high school, taken outside the city, and shot in the head.

Prosecutors said they would not ask for the death penalty if Vanderbilt signed a confession. Later the written statement was ruled inadmissible because the deal was ruled improper.

Without the written statement, prose-cutors presented officers who testified Vanderbilt made an oral confession and they then asked for the death penalty, feeling they could because the written statement was not used in the case.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - New technology, new factories and new products are just some of the features being sought for the British colony by the chief secretary of Hong Kong, Sir Denys Roberts.

What Hong Kong needs is not cash but new ideas for products that could be manufactured locally and thereby end Hong Kong's traditional dependence on textiles, Sir Denys said in an interview of Phnom Penh. "But it doesn't matter too much." he said, "since all married men must sleep together. They're allowed only occasional visits to their wives."

In Kompong Speu, west of the Phnom Penh, 35-year-old Si Nol said written permission was required to spend the night in special marriage huts. Such permission was never given more than twice a month, he said.

Rua Sawnkon belonged to a roving unit of tractor drivers and had the opportunity to compare conditions through much of the area northwest of Phnom Penh. "In some places men and women are allowed to live together after marriage, but everywhere young people are kept strictly separated," he said.

While eating, working, and sleeping, young men and women are completely segregated by the Khmer Rouge. Several refugees said this was a special hardship for young people in love but not yet married before the Communist takeover.

Wisconsin Officials Clash Over Rattlesnakes

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, Wis. (UPI) -Crawford County Board Chairman Robert G. Dillman isn't much of a fan of the timber rattler, even though some envi-ronmentalists are worried about the future of the snake.

That's why he asked the state Department of Natural Resources to remove all timber rattlers from his county.

"I hereby request you remove all Timber Rattlesnakes from Crawford County to a reservation of your choice or any zoo for public display," Dillman said in a let-ter to Natural Resources Secretary Anthony S. Earl.

"I don't care how they do it," Dillman said in a telephone interview. "The DNR with all its resources should be able to come up with something. The letter was the latest salvo in his skirmish with state legislators over a bill to allow counties to put a $1 a head bounty on the poisonous timber rattler.

The bill was approved in the Wisconsin Assembly, but the Senate's Natural Resources committee voted 3-2 to table the

Grand Jury Eyes Ex-Solons

WASHINGTON (AP) - A federal grand jury appears headed for a decision on whether to indict any more former congressmen in connection with alleged South Korean influence buying.

Tongsun Park testified before the grand jury Wednesday and there was some speculation that the panel might vote as early as this week or next on whether to hand down more indictments. The Justice Department's top prosecutor, Assistant Attorney General Benjamin R. Civiletti, has said publicly that Park's testimony could lead to grand jury charges against several ex-congressmen and others.

Sources close to the Justice Department investigation say it has focused on payments to former Reps. Otto E. Passman, D-La.: William Minshall, R-Ohio: Cornelius E. Gallagher, D-N.J.; and Edwin Edwards, D-La., who is now governor of Louisiana.

All four say they did nothing wrong and no details have been disclosed on what the Justice Department investigation

Park told House investigators that he paid nearly $200,000 to Passman, $60,000 to Minshall, more than $100,000 to Gallagher and $20,000 to Edwards and his wife, according to sources who were

Park told U.S. prosecutors in Seoul that the money to Passman was in political contributions. But the Korean said he considered it payment for Passman's help in Park's regaining appointment as Seoul's exclusive U.S. rice dealer, according to a transcript.

Passman denies that he got any money from Park and says he fought, not supported, Park's handling of U.S. Food for Peace rice sales to South Korea.

Edwards acknowledges getting the $20,000 but says it consisted of a legal $10,000 contribution to his gubernatorial campaign and a legal $10,000 gift to Mrs.

Minshall and Gallagher have said they did nothing wrong, but made no other comment. In the Hancho C. Kim conspiracy trial under way here, the chief prosecution witness says he may have told conflicting stories about delivering $600,000 intended for currying congressional favor for Korea, but blames discrepancies on a faulty memory.

"About the matter of human memory, it is not something you can always in-scribe on the head," Sang Keun Kim testified on Wednesday. "Recollection is often difficult."

S.K. Kim, a former agent for the Korean CIA who defected to this country, faced the witness stand for the fourth day today, undergoing cross examination on his story: That he was the courier for two shipments of $300,000 each that went to Hancho Kim, a Korea-born naturalized American citizen.

Hancho Kim is charged with conspiring to defraud the government by illegally interfering with Congress. He also is charged with lying to a grand jury when he denied receiving the $600,000 from S.K. Kim. Under cross-examination by defense lawyer David Povich, S.K. Kim said that a cash shipment of $256,000 from Korea delivered to his home was accompanied by instructions that he add $44,000 and give it to Hancho Kim.

S.K. Kim said he went to his bank and drew $44,000 of the $100,000 he had received earlier from Korean rice dealer Tongsun Park. He said he brought the money to his home, wrapped the 30 packages of $100 bills and delivered it to Hancho Kim at his home in Lanham, Md.

He also testified that the $56,000 remaining from the Tongsun Park $100,000 went to the publisher of a Korean newspaper in the Washington area and that it was not the last of such payments. Povich then read from an FBI inter-

During the last fiscal year, $1.4 million was transferred from the general fund to the sanitation fund, which has been subsidized since fiscal year 1973-74.

The sanitation fund was subsidized by $855,627 from the general operating fund. An increase in garbage service charges which became effective in October, 1976.

City staffers attribute the diminished losses to increases in airport terminal rentals and parking rentals.

Two hundred French paratroopers have arrived in Beirut from France, and their commander said he expected them to be on station in the south within a few days. He said 400 more French troops would arrive before the end of the week.

U.N. headquarters in New York said 2,-345 troops had been pledged to the 4,000man force the Security Council authorized. They included 600 each from France, Norway and Nepal, 300 from Iran and 245 Swedes from the U.N. buffer force between Israeli and Egyptian forces in the Sinai Desert.

Despite Israel's earlier insistence that its forces would not be withdrawn until it was assured the Palestinian guerrillas could not return to the area just above its northern border, the Israeli television service said the invasion force would be pulled back across the border "within the next few days."

The broadcast gave no source for the report, and there was no official confirmation. But after Prime Minister Menachem Begin met with President Carter in Washington, U.S. officials there said they were confident the Israeli occupation of south Lebanon would end soon after all the peacekeepers were in place. Israeli forces have seized control of

Mrs. Stultz, Felix Matlock and Ofield Dukes, identified in the indictment as Diggs' House employees, were listed in seven other counts as receiving additional amounts of about $3,000 a month for specified periods which the indictment said they then kicked back to Diggs.

Twelve other counts named three other Diggs employees who allegedly received money from the U.S. government while performing services for defendant Diggs personally, his family, and the House of Diggs," the Michigan funeral home that Diggs formerly owned.

None of the persons who allegedly made the kickbacks was charged in the indictment.

Diggs is the senior black member of the House and a founder of the congressional Black Caucus. He has been under investigation by the grand jury for nearly a year. The grand jury subpoenaed payroll and of the north," he said. "In order to have a sandstorm, you've got to have visibility of less than a mile for an hour or so. That usually takes a wind of 30 or 40 miles an hour from the west or southwest." The Lubbock area cloudiness is part of a system of thunderstorms reaching from North Texas to Missouri and showers and snowstorms in Wyoming and Colorado. Stockmen's advisories are in effect in eastern Colorado and western Kansas, an ominous development for ranchers at calving time. An eastward-moving cold front is the primary cause of the snow and rain over the four states, but a weak upper-level air how many employees to hire and what to pay them out of that amount. The indictment said that Diggs got the kickbacks "in order to pay for his person-said was to raise the annual pay of Jean Stultz from $14,667 and $22,700 to $33,667 and $37,355. Matlock's pay was increased, according to the indictment, from between $12,842 and $20,000 to $21,700 and $37,000. The pay of Dukes, a politically prominent Washington public relations consultant, was raised from between $12,000 and $13,000 annually to $37,000. Dukes, in an interview today, denied he had paid kickbacks to Diggs. "I never made any kickbacks to the congressman, period," Dukes said. "I just don't have aything to hide with regard to my profes-

The same was said in the indictment about George G. Johnson, who was paid by the government $19,000 to work as a personal accountant to Diggs and his family and for the House of Diggs.

The indictment said another part of the scheme was to place Hallison Young on the House payroll as a means of paying him $35,000 "for his work as a lawyer for defendant Diggs personally, his family and the House of Diggs Inc.' Diggs is a member of the House Inter-

Jan Osborne, 21, an Indiana University junior, agreed with Adkins' assessment of the students' behavior "Last year it seemed to be a lot rowdier," she said. "More people were getting busted on the beaches. Last year it was the pigs against the kids. Now everyone's minding their own "We're too mellow, we don't cause any hassles anymore." "I was here a half an hour when I got locked up for drinking in public. I was walking out from a motel, had a cup of beer in my hand and stepped on the curb when they grabbed me," said Jackson.

"They've got cops with binoculars and walkie talkies up in the hotels and they're just waiting to get you. I was very upset," he said, adding that he spent the night in jail rather than pay the $40 bail. "I've been here four years in a row now and this is the who tirelessly tried to win their attention.

Tom Renick, 27, supervisor of Volusia County's lifeguards, said 35 towers and six zone stations were being manned this week, but by Wednesday there were relatively few rescues. "The water has been cold — about 64 degrees (air temperatures were in the upper 70s) and we've had a real calm water, too," he said. "But the traffic on the beach is worse than I've ever seen it."

"In the great tradition of the circus, the show goes on," the circus ring announcer

Thousands bowed their heads in silence for Wallenda, who had plunged to his death less than six hours earlier Wednesday during a promotional appearance for the Pan American Circus here. It was a natural end to the 73-year-old Wallenda's tragedy-filled life and the close of an acrobatic era.

"It was the way he wanted to go doing what he loved most," said a circus official who asked not to be named.

Wallenda, carrying a balance pole and wearing beat-up slippers, had walked gracefully as he started across a 300-foot cable strung between the towers of two San Juan resort hotels. Then the wind

He was still walking, leaning into the wind at a 45-degree angle, when a gust threw him off-balance at the halfway mark. He was 120 feet above ground.

Wallenda was still clutching the pole when his body struck a taxi, bounced and landed on the pavement. People fainted and collapsed.

Screams of "Oh my God, oh my God"

Police rushed Wallenda to nearby Presbyterian Hospital. The aerialist was dead on arrival at 10:20 a.m. "Our life is show business," the 58-year big top veteran and founder of the Great Wallendas said in 1972 after the fourth member of his family perished in a highwire accident.

'Without show business we don't survive, and we have to exist." And so the circus here opened at exactly 4 p.m.

"This afternoon all that is missing is the physical presence of Karl Wallenda," the master-of-ceremonies said softly into his microphone. The rest of the Great Wallendas troupe - granddaughter Rietta, 17, and two nephews - were there to carry on the legacy. Wallenda, born in Magdeburg, Germany, in 1905, was the son of a circus aerialist

Tears and grief were pushed aside as the circus came alive with a crash of cymbals. When the sequin-costumed aerialists sauntered into the sawdust ring an hour later, thunderous applause erupted.

Then the trio ascended the platform, minus the man who had taught them everything they knew.

Blonde Rietta twisted and turned on a bar laid across the shoulders of her two wiry partners, Wallenda's nephews, as they stood on the slim wire 50 feet above the ground. Farrel Hetting, 22, carried Rietta on his shoulders as he rode a bicycle across the wire.

A gasp rose from the audience as Ted Gikas, 26, snagged his foot on a jump rope and teetered for several seconds before righting himself and continuing his routine, evidently shaken

A thousand breaths let out as one from the crowd below.

Then it was over. The aerialists took their bows to a standing ovation. But the cheers were little comfort to Rietta, who was led sobbing from the big top. Hetting and Gikas also wept.

The troupe refused to talk to reporters about Wallenda's death, although Rietta, who is planning to marry a member of a tumbling group, denied that she would be leaving the act because of the tragedy. Another Wallenda nephew, Gunther, confirmed when reached at his home in Sarasota, Fla., that the troupe would finish its tour and stay together. "The act will continue, even without Karl,"

Gunther said. Helen Wallenda, the aerialist's wife who retired from the act in 1957, had accompanied her husband to San Juan but did not watch his fatal walk. She had not watched the act since Jan. 30, 1962.

That was when the famous Wallenda seven-member pyramid collapsed at a circus engagement in Detroit, killing two members of the troupe and paralyzing from the waist down a third, Wallenda's

In April 1963, Wallenda's sister-in-law, Yetta Grotofent tumbled backward dur-ing a pole-balancing act in Omaha, Neb., and fell to her death. In 1972, Wallenda's son-in-law, Richard Guzman, 29, was killed in a fall in Wheeling, W.Va. The Great Wallendas performed the pyramid act only once again — in Fort Worth, in November 1963 — before Wal-lenda removed it from his troupe's reper-toire at his wife's request.

Funeral services were tentatively planned for Saturday or Sunday in Sara-ota, the city that was both home and leadquarters for the Wallendas.

"I noticed in the advance release that they called John the veteran and me the rookie," said Crippen, a Navy commander who has been an astronaut since 1969. "Well, it took me 12 years to become a rookie. I heard John say he's not excited yet but I can't help it. I'm very excited right now.' Young and Crippen were named last week as the prime flight crew for the first of six scheduled test flights of the space shuttle orbiter, tentatively scheduled for liftoff next March. "It's too early to get excited right now," said Young, one of 12 astronauts to walk on the moon. "It's still a year away and there's a lot of work to be done." But don't mistake Young's calm for a lack of enthusiasm.

"This is absolutely a revolutionary flying machine," said Young, who previously went into space aboard Gemini 3 and 10 and on Apollo 10 and 16.

"It's going to do things with space flight that will change the world. It's going to do things for aviation that will change aviation in ways that I think even those that are involved can't imagine. So it's going to be a very exciting mission for all of us. There are no bad missions on space flights."

Young and Crippen will man the first of six orbital flights of the orbiter craft, each with increasing complexity, to test it for future flights that will include scientific experimental equipment.

No scientific equipment will be aboard the first flight, which will last 58 hours.

"It (the orbiter) will routinely put up to 65,000 pounds of payload in earth orbit 10 to 100 times cheaper than we've ever been able to do before," Young said. "Being able to get up there routinely will make available our ability to exploit the advantages of space, which is unbelieveable — things you can't buy on earth without a great deal of expense."

Young's flight on Gemini 3 marked the first time a spacecraft changed its path. Apollo 10 made the first orbit of the moon and on Apollo 16, Young and astronaut Charles M. Duke Jr. spent 20 hours, 15 minutes on the moon's sur-old Crippen said. "I knew with the space shuttle I'd get a chance to fly. But I never dreamed I would have a chance to get on the first one."

March 1979 has been projected as the tentative liftoff for Young and Crippen's flight, but there has been speculation the flight may be delayed. Young is leaving speculation to others.

"The program is keyed to a March 1979 launch," Young said. "The thing the crew people want to make sure of is that we are not the long pole in the tent. We want to be ready whenever the launch is set, and that's what we intend to

"We're not going to spend a lot of time worrying about other folks' problems. There are three books that thick (about two inches) on things that have to happen all at the same time to make this vehicle arrive at the launch pad and get ready to go. There's nowhere in there about the crew getting ready to go, but that's our problem and that's the one we're concerned with."

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) also is considering a mission in October 1979 to boost the Skylab into a higher orbit.

Astronaut Fred W. Haise, 45, also named last week on one of the four two-man space shuttle crews, said an effort would be made to boost Skylab to 220 to 240 miles above the earth, or an increase in altitude of about 70 miles. port roles on both Skylab and Apollo-Soyuz programs.

The nation's interstate highway system originally was laid out in the late 1940s, Brazell explained Wednesday. Of the 50,-000-mile package proposed at that time, he said, Congress approved construction of a 41,000-mile system — and in so doing, deleted a project planned for Lub-

"Since then, there have been tremendous shifts in population and traffic pat-terns, as more people moved to the Sunbelt. As a result, there are now large gaps in the system that need to be filled," Bra-

Perhaps the biggest gap, local officials argue, is in the Lubbock area. The nearest north-south interstates are I-35 (from Laredo through Dallas-Fort Worth) to the east and I-25 (Las Cruces, N.M. through Albuquerque, N.M.) to the west. The closest east-west interstates are I-40 (through Amarillo) to the north and I-20 (running southeast from Dallas-Fort Worth through Big Spring to El Paso) to the south. Below I-20 is I-10, making an arc from Houston, San Antonio and El Pa

Brazell noted that Congress has been frugal in authorizing more interstates. An exception, he said, was in the early 1970s when 1,500 miles — including the 120-mile stretch of I-27 from Amarillo to Lubbock - was approved. I-27 still is under

In 1973, Brazell said, Congress asked the Department of Transportation to study 11 proposed interstate projects, in-cluding the extension of I-27 south from Lubbock. The department recommended against those projects.

"That's the background behind the tes-timony that was presented this week. Officials of the cities and states interested in those 11 projects and other highway improvements got together to ask that these proposals be funded in the next highway bill," Brazell said.

'We really want an interstate, and we feel that the needs of this area warrant a full-fledged interstate. But, in light of the costs involved, we're willing to settle for something less," he said.

The delegation, which Brazell said represented Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Nebraska and Georgia, asked Bentsen's subcommittee to authorize the 11 projects as "priority primary highways," the county commis-

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I will cein five months-if one of us doesn't kill the other, that is. I'm only kidding, Abby, but right now we are having a big battle about something we hope you'll settle for Everyone knows that after 50 years of marriage, very few couples "need" anything. In fact, most people our age have moved out of their large homes and into smaller quarters and are glad to get rid of most of their "things."

We are planning a party for our friends and family, and I want to put "No gifts, please" on the invitations. My wife says it is improper to mention "gifts" in an invitation. Our children think we should put "money tree" on the invitations. I am totally against that idea as it is like asking for money. What do you say?

After working as a literary agent, a motion picture and television producer and a director of public relations for Cosmopolitan magazine, Hellman decided to try her hand as a novelist. It was her experience at Cosmo that prompted her to write "In Place of Love," a behind-closed-doors account of competition, greed and success in the world of women's magazines.

"The characters of this novel were in spired by many of the women I've worked with in the so-called glamour world," said Hellman. "They were very interesting people, really, and it struck me that their lives seemed perfectly suit-

The centerpiece of this novel is Kate Johnson, the tough, ambitious and oh-so-determined editor-in-chief, who is handed the job of saving the fading "Woman

Aviva Hellman appears to be an exception to her own rule a woman who has managed to achieve success in two worlds.

Students who feel their rights are being violated are advised to go through several steps. To wit:

Farm Show Slated At Civic Center.

Farm equipment will be on display March 30-April 1 at the first South Plains Farm Show at the Memorial Civic Center. Sponsored by the Southwest Hardware and Implement Association, the event will include exhibitors from across the country, a public forum on the economic plight of farmers, a fashion show and a tractor pulling contest.

Promoters say the millions of dollars worth of machinery is the largest such exhibition ever held on the South Plains.

Bergland Undecided On Deputy

WASHINGTON (AP) - Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland still has not decided on a replacement for John C. White, who resigned as his deputy more than six weeks ago to become chairman of the Democratic National Committee. A source close to the matter said Wednesday that Bergland "is still looking" for candidates, including some names which had been culled from an initial list weeks ago.

The source, who asked not to be named, said that two of three persons who were considered prime candidates for the $57,500-a-year job as deputy secre-tary are still on Bergland's list but that others are being looked over before a final recommendation is made to President Carter. According to the source, Robert Scott, a former governor of North Carolina, and Gene Triggs, an executive with Mississippi Chemicals, Yazoo City, Miss., remain as two possibilities.

But a third candidate, Charles E. Bishop, president of the University of Arkansas, Fayetteville, has declined consideration for the job, he said. The three names were among at least 20 Bergland initially

P. R. (Bobby) Smith, a Georgia farmer and Carter-Mondale farm leader in the 1976 campaign, was sworn in this week as assistant secretary in charge of marketing services.

Smith, who worked as an aide to Bergland the past year, was nominated by Carter Feb. 17 and was confirmed by the Senate Feb. 24. He succeeded Robert H. Meyer, a Californian, who resigned last October.

Although it was indicated by Bergland's action last month that he intended to go outside government for White's re-placement, the further search for a candidate means that some persons within the administration now will renew efforts to get the job.

Senate Passes Bill To Raise Retirement Age

By JANET STAIHAR
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate assed and sent to the White House today a bill that will raise the mandatory retirement age to 70 for most Americans and eliminate it for federal employees.

The Senate vote was 62 to 10 after the House approved it earlier this week. President Carter is expected to sign the

This bill is a significant milestone for older Americans," said Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y. "No longer can an employer arbitrarily force a worker to retire at 65 if he or she is qualified to do the job and wants to continue gainful employment."

As soon as the president signs the bill, Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., chairman of the House Aging Committee, said he will introduce another measure to eliminate all mandatory retirement, thus allowing everybody to work as long as they are capable or as long as they can find work.

The bill going to Carter amends the 1967 Age Discrimination Act by making it unlawful for private employers to force workers to retire before age 70 as of Jan.

Beginning in September this year, federal workers would be allowed to continue on the job until they are ready to retire. For most Civil Service employees the forced retirement age is now 70.

The bill applies to private sector work-the U.S. labor force.

Employers would still have the right to discharge persons of any age for incompetence, said Pepper. State and local governments are covered under the new age 70 retirement cu-toff provisions. But there are some occupational exceptions, such as persons in high-risk jobs such as policemen or fire-fighters who could still be forced to retire earlier than 70.

The bill provides for some exceptions and delays.

It will permit mandatory retirement between age 65 and 70 of a person, who for the two years before retirement, was employed in a "bona fide executive or high policymaking position" and is entitled to a pension of at least $27,000 an-

In calculating the income figure for such executives, the bill excludes amounts attributable to Social Security, employee contributions and contributions of prior employers.

Colleges and universities would still be allowed to retire tenured professors at age 65 until July 1, 1982. They had argued against changing the 65 ceiling at all, but settled on the compromise in order to give them time to adjust their hiring poli-

OXNARD, Calif. (AP) - Dennis shaffer ate lizards, ladybugs and snow and drank muddy water to live through six freezing days after his plane crashed during a snowstorm in a mountainous area in Ventura County.

Shaffer, who learned those survival techniques as a Seebee reservist, is recu-perating in St. John's Hospital. He broke both wrists and chipped one heel in the crash, then suffered frostbite in both feet while stranded in temperatures that were below 20 degrees much of the time.

The 42-year-old technician's ordeal began when he was thrown into a snowbank after his single-engine plane slammed into a mountainside March 12 and broke in

He said Wednesday he watched helplessly as his pilot, Ralph Nelms, 50, of Bakersfield, and another passenger, Susan Janoiko, 25, of Porterville, perished in the flaming wreckage of their aircraft.

Shaffer said it took a day and a half for him to remove his boots because of pain and swelling. He fashioned slings for his broken arms, using a sweater and a brassiere that he found in the charred wreck-

He also found some packets of powdered cream and sugar and supplemented this diet with roots, plants, pine nuts and insects.

"I was sitting under a tree and suddenly saw a lizard about 4 inches long," he recalled. "I took a rock, carefully crept over and dropped it on his head. Then I swallowed him whole, without chewing."
"Another time," he added, "I peeled

Smithsonian Gets Women's Torch

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The women's torch today was passed — into history.

Carried by women runners from Seneca Falls, N.Y., scene of early agitation for women's equality, to the big women's rights conference in Houston last fall, the torch was added to the collection of historic objects at the Smithsonian's Mu-seum of History and Technology.

The torch is a symbol of the continuity of the women's movement.

Also added: the large "WOMAN" banner, which hung as a backdrop at Hous-ton; gavels used to preside, badges and butions, organizing booklets, conference programs and tape recordings.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congressional

energy negotiators, after making a major step toward ending their long deadlock on natural gas pricing, are gingerly trying to work out their remaining differences.

By narrow margins, both sides agreed Wednesday to back a compromise lifting price controls from newly discovered natural gas in 1985 and providing for a steady increase in the regulated price between now and then. But they differed on how to accomplish this deregulation.

The Senate conferees want the controls to come off on Jan. 1, 1985. The House negotiators want them to remain on for an additional six months and to make it easier to reimpose them if the president or Congress feels it necessary.

Both proposals would mean higher prices to consumers than under the original House-passed administration plan for continued price controls — but less than under the Senate-passed bill for deregulation in two years.

Wednesday's vote in favor of the principle of deregulation by 1985 — already endorsed by President Carter — marked the first breakthrough in the congressional negotiations on the president's 11month-old energy bill since before Christ-

Senate conferees approved their plan on a 10-7 vote. It was the first time a majority of the Senate negotiators could agree on anything since conferees began debating natural gas pricing on Dec. 2.

House conferees agreed to accept the central elements of the Senate plan, but voted 13-12 to modify it with their own counterproposal.

The conference committee then adjourned until after the 10-day congressional Easter recess, leaving both the Senate and House proposals on the bargaining table. Conference leaders said differences between the two sides are now narrower than ever and predicted they could be reconciled. But "there must be give and take" on both sides in producing the final compromise, cautioned Rep. Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., the conference chairman.

Conferees are mindful that the compro mise must be drafted delicately to avoid losing votes from either side.

Conservatives attacked both plans as not going far enough toward deregulation liberals mounted similar attacks from the left, saying the propsals were too generous to gas producers.

And Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., who

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you think smoking is good for you now, you may be bursting with good health if President Carter and his administration come up with a new cigarette.

At least, that's the impression Carter conveyed to some listeners during his re-cent visit to Winston-Salem, N.C.

As it happens, Winston-Salem is the world headquarters of R. J. Reynolds Industries, a leader in the cigarette busi-

Of course, politicians have been known to tailor their remarks for local consumption, which may have been the case with Carter in Winston-Salem.

Inviting questions from local reporters, the president was asked if he quarreled with the anti-smoking campaign of Jo-seph A. Califano Jr., the secretary of health, education and welfare.

After saying he had no quarrel with Califano, Carter said tobacco "in some instances is damaging to our nation's health, particularly among very young children and those who have respiratory

The non-smoking president added that Califano has "only a $30 million budget on tobacco," two-thirds of which is earmarked for research. He concluded:

"Certainly no one need fear the emphasis on research that will make the use of rooms. Joe Califano was the only one that heard me."

From Winston-Salem, Carter proceeded to Savannah, Ga., where he may well have set a single-day record for campaign-style activities.

Baby-kissing is nothing new for the president. But Carter managed to kiss year-old triplets, which was new. Later, in what seemed a rather unusual move, Carter paused to extend his hand to a medium-sized, fuzzy brown dog being held by a man in a baseball cap that bore the legend, "For the Love of Ben-ji." Dog and president exchanged shakes.

Soon after entering his Savannah hotel, Carter ducked out a back door to pay a St. Patrick's Day visit to Pinkie's Bar nearby. He presumably was more thirsty for votes than for green beer, Pinkie's being a traditional haven for holiday cele-given one of the biggest funerals in recent Savannah history. He was one of Carter's early backers for the presidency.

When Carter attended a holiday reception for local supporters, he described Masters' death as "one of the saddest things that has happened to us, to lose a great American like that."

The president no longer insists that he carry his own luggage on and off airplanes, as he did during the campaign. When he left Georgia on Monday after a weekend rest at St. Simons Island, he mounted the front ramp to Air Force One empty-handed.

Meanwhile, a smallish steward labored up the back ramp carrying two garment bags and two sports-equipment bags containing tennis rackets.

One garment bag bore a cardboard not-ice: "President's Black Tie."

NEW YORK (AP) - Sometime within the next two weeks, a drilling ship will position itself precisely over a selected spot 95 miles east of Atlantic City, N.J., drop eight anchors and then slowly begin drilling through the ocean floor to a depth of 14,000 feet.

Any oil or gas produced from Atlantic sites is expected to reduce significantly the nation's reliance on imports, industry officials say.

After three years of controversy, during which U.S. oil imports increased from 6 million barrels a day to almost 8 million barrels a day, the arrival of that Exxon Corp.-leased ship will mark the beginning of oil exploration off the populous East

"We're anxious to get started," said an Exxon exploration expert. "It seems like we've been waiting forever."

After years of environmentalists' objections, and the industry's payment of $1.1 billion for the right to explore 529,500 acres off the East Coast, the U.S. Supreme Court last month finally cleared the way for drilling to begin

If any commercially producable amounts of oil or gas are found — and experts say the chances of that are about one in five - the fuels will be transported to shore by pipeline.

Despite recent delays in the preparation of its Glomar Pacific drilling ship, Exxon expects to be the first company to begin operations in the so-called Baltimore Canyon. The canyon, below which experts say may be as much as 1.4 billion barrels of oil and 9.4 trillion cubic feet of natural gas, begins south of Long Island and extends off New Jersey to Delaware

Exxon hopes to have its ship in place by next Monday, although it may be there as early as Saturday. Company officials said it would take about 90 days of round-the-clock drilling to complete the well. Continental Oil Co., plans to begin drill-ing with the floating platform New Era a week after Exxon, but says it will need only about 60 days to complete its first

Other major oil companies, including Gulf, Shell, Mobil and Texaco, expect to begin Atlantic drilling operations by mid-

"This operation is particularly impor-tant since any oil found will be going pri-marily to markets in the Northeast that now depend very heavily on imports,' said an industry spokesman.

While imports are expected to drop somewhat this year from last year's level, analysts predict that they will begin inching up again next year.

The high cost of foreign oil, $44.3 bil-lion in 1977, has contributed mightily to the nation's balance-of-payments deficit. And administration officials are concerned about the national security problem associated with depending on imports to supply nearly half our petroleum

Also at stake is the boost any oil discoveries might mean for the economies of

One New Jersey official has predicted that oil or gas discoveries in the Balti-more Canyon could result in as many as 35,000 new jobs for that state.

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Canada has ended a 14-month ban on importing Michigan beef, and Gov. William G. Milliken said Wednesday it was "extremely good news for Michigan agriculture."

Canadian Agriculture Minister Eugene

Whelan formally announced an end to special testing procedures on Michigan beef Tuesday.

In a statement released through his country's Detroit consulate, Whelan said: "As a result of our investigations and the mentation of strict controls in the State of Michigan in October ... we are satisfied that there is no longer any threat of contamination by the chemical PBB in beef cattle."

In the year before the embargo was imposed, about $30 million in Michigan beef was exported to Canada, making it the largest out-of-state market for Michigan. Milliken said the resumption of beef trade "reaffirms the safety of Michigan-

Canada did not ban Michigan beef outright, but imposed special PBB testing on the beef, which virtually halted all Canadian purchases.

Too Much Medicine?

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am male, 46 years old, 165 pounds and am 5-feet-8 inches tall. I have had high blood pressure since 1972. I am in the Air Force and doctors tried several medi-cations and did not agree. Finally they put me on my present medicines of Aldomet, 250 mg, two tablets three times daily plus Dyazide, one capsule two times a day.

My blood pressure is controlled and is 108 over 78. I have a slight headache occasionally. I am not on any

Do you think I am taking too much medicine? What will taking too much medicine do to my health in the fu-

DEAR READER — Your pressure certainly is well controlled. That objective has been reached. The other question is how you feel; and if you have no more complaints than you mentioned, you are doing great.

The decision as to whether a person is taking too much medicine decision.

pends upon whether the medicine causes any unwanted symptoms or complications. If it doesn't then everything is fine.

Individuals have to be individually regulated on various combinations of blood pressure medicines. What works for one is not necessarily the best program for the next case.

I would advise you to lose weight. It might enable you to get along on less medicine. You are too heavy for a person of your height, unless you have a lot of muscles. The test is whether you have any significant fat under the skin around the waist. If you do and you have any tendency to high blood pressure you should get rid of the fat. And I do think it is good idea to cut down on yor salt as well as keep your potassium intake up through frest fruits and fruit

DEAT DR. LAMB - A friend of mine is going to marry his first cous-in. If they have any children will it affect their health any?

DEAR READER - That depends.

State Plans Testing Of Students

1. (AP) . to a public call for a return to the "three-R's," New Hampshire will begin testing its public school students to make sure they leave high school with basic skills.

The New Hampshire Education Department will unveil an "accountability leaves they be the school with the leaves they have been sent to be the school with the school wit plan" next week, which proposes that lo-cal school districts set standards they think students should meet and test students using those criteria.

The plan comes as the state legislature is considering imposing statewide testing for students and is seen as an answer to the public outcry that students are graduating undereducated, unable to read and write, and totally unprepared to deal with society.

State Education Commissioner Robert Brunelle says the plan would prevent students being bumped upwards through the school system without actually learning anything.

Brunelle says the department was given the power to dictate policy for the local districts by the 1973 legislature and has spent the past year developing the plan to help school districts set their own

Reformist Raps Texas Prisons

By FRANK E. GRIFFIS AUSTIN (UPI) — The use of discipline and work in Texas prisons to protect the security of society and of inmates is costly in terms of dollars and in terms of inmates who return to society unrehabili-tated, the director of a prison reform group says.

Charles Sullivan, executive director of Citizens United to Rehabilitate Errants, said the Texas Department of Corrections emphasizes security almost to the total exclusion of rehabilitation because prison officials believe that is what the public wants.

"They have a strong public relations bureau and you get the impression that every one of the inmates is involved in the rehabilitation program that gives them employable skills," Sullivan said, mates.

Sullivan said Texas prisons securely contain law offenders and make them work to help pay the cost of their impris-onment. He said the system is akin to

According to Sullivan the inmates who lack employable skills or education and who are probable repeat offenders are "given up on" and assigned to work in the prison fields, when they should be the ones who receive the most attention:

"Fifty percent of the inmates still work in the fields," Sullivan said. "The person who needs rehabilitation the most is not receiving it.

The TDC has a reputation for tough-said, but a close look at the number of re-peat offenders quickly shows that discip-line is not necessarily effective. The former priest said TDC officials contend the recidivism rate is between 30 and 33 percent. However, John Albach, director of the National Council on Crime and Delinquency in Texas, said it could be as high as 70 percent.

"That points out the need for rehabilitation programs," Sullivan said. "If a former inmate does not have employable skills, then he will fall back on crime it's the whole punitive approach to reha-

"It's just not working," Sullivan said.

"The percentage of people in there are there for property crimes and they could be kept in the communities." The Texas Youth Council, which supervises youthful offenders, has had great success with its community-based programs in cutting expenses and lowering the recivitism rute.

"They cut their costs by 50 percent and are more effective," Sullivan said. "They are doing the opposite of the TDC. They are closing down — instead of building — facilities."

He said the only way the prison system will emphasize rehabilitation rather than discipline is when public pressure forces

"As the state becomes more urbanized the prison system will change," he said. "Right now, they (citizens) just don't realize the cost of it.'

"It is to be expected that freeway standards would be necessary for those portions of the routes through urban areas, but would not be necessary through rural areas," banker Gene Edwards, president-elect of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce and spokesman for the delegation, told the subcommit-would provide: -An an improved link between "huge military complexes at San Antonio and Denver, Colo."

-The "only high-standard north-south route in a 600-mile area bounded by 1-25

-A new connector between five different interstates - 40, 20, 10, 35 and 37. -A "new direct link between the rich agricultural, cattle and mineral resource area of West Texas and the Texas Gulf

The delegation did not have any cost estimates on the project. But Brazell said it "should not be too expensive" because part of the proposed route - U.S. 87 from Lubbock to Lamesa - already has four lanes and necessary overpasses in such areas as Tahoka.

Rusk also told the subcommittee that a four-lane divided highway from Dallas through Lubbock and into New Mexico is desperately needed." That route recently has been designated State Highway 114 but state construction funds are in doubt. State Highway 114 comes into Lubbock

"Especially for commercial traffic, we need to link up with the Gulf Coast and the Dallas, Fort Worth market," Brazell

Rusk said the proposed 1-27 extension would provide the "most direct route from the northern tip of Texas to the southernmost area of the state." And he said it would give Lubbock and the South Plains, "one of the largest and most productive agricultural areas of the state." a corridor to get their products to various markets and ports. Other major projects requested by the delegation included routes from Brunswick, Ga., to Kansas City, Mo.; Kansas City to Chicago: Amarillo to Las Cruces: Kansas City to Baton Rouge; and Wichita, Kansas to Tucumcari, N.M.

In all the 11 projects total about 5,000 miles. The delegation asked that 12,000 miles of "priority primary highway" be authorized to give opportunity for inclusion of other proposals.

Congress is expected to consider a Highway and Public Transportation Im-provement Act before the September deadline for fiscal 1979 apportionments.

GAO Director Says Tax Form Puzzling

WASHINGTON (UPI) - With less than a month to go before the income tax filing deadline, a congressional accountant said Wednesday Americans are still puzzled by the tax form and the advice they get from IRS counselors.

Victor Lowe, a division director of the General Accounting Office, said the Internal Revenue Service gives one wrong answer for every 10 questions posed by taxpayers.

The error rate of the new IRS technical advisers providing backup support on tough questions is even worse, said Lowe. They miss one of every three questions, based on a GAO survey.

The IRS got the alimony question right every time in the survey, sad Lowe, but gave the wrong answer three times out of 10 on rental of a summer cottage or other real estate that also involves personal

Other topics ranged from a low of 2.5 wrong answers in 10 to almost 100 percent on the earned income credit.

Lowe said the overall error rate for private practitioners is considerably worse than the overall IRS rate. Private tax consultants, he said, misinterpret two of every 10 questions.

Lowe also told a House Commerce subcommittee the current tax form that was supposed to be simplified continues to confuse taxpayers. He said GAO, the accounting arm of Congress, is drafting its own tax form that will be easier to understand than the current pink and blue

FLAG CONTROVERSY

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) - Despite a federal court suit challenging the action, state and U.S. flags will be flown at half staff on New Hampshire buildings in observance of Good Friday, Gov. Meldrin Thomson said Tuesday.

"It is not necessarily our objective to have our rewrite and redesign of the 1040 forms and instructions adopted," said Lowe. "But to demonstrate to the Congress and the administration that simplification is possible regardless of whether the law is changed.

Lowe said the GAO form will be ready later this spring.

IRS Commissioner Jerome Kurtz admitted the service was sometimes giving faulty advice, but he said there were fewer errors than in previous years. Contrary to Lowe's testimony, Kurtz said the technical advisers had improved the quality of tax advice given to the public.

The advice that IRS counselors provide by telephone or in person is better than in previous years, the IRS says, but there are still too many ed questions.

GAO in the past has found discrepancies in the IRS findings of accuracy by its staff, especially since IRS considers an "accurate" response to be telling a taxpayer what form to use and how to get it.

Kurtz praised the "simplified" tax form last November, declaring there would be fewer mistakes in the current filing period that expires April 17. But the early evidence indicates that most of the errors on the new forms is centered around changes the IRS made in the old

The IRS says the schedule of deductions for those who itemize is the most troublesome area. After a taxpayer completes the itemized list, the taxpaver must then deduct one of three sums before transferring a dollar amount forward to the 1040.

The sum to be duducted is $3,200 for a joint return, $2,200 for singles and heads of households, and $1,600 for married persons filing separately.

The IRS says income averaging also has caused problems because the forms have undergone dramatic alteration in an attempt for simplification.

Election Finance Laws Vary In Effectiveness have campaign laws in the nation that they provide some kind of government financing for state elections.

At the other end of the reform spectrum six states - Alabama, New Mexico, North Dakota, Pennsylvania, South Carolina and Wyoming - do not require candidates to disclose contributions and expenditures before election day.

There are generally two kinds of public financing laws. "Weak" laws permit a taxpayer to add $1 to his tax bill in filing his yearly return, which has resulted in raising very little money. "Strong" laws allow the taxpayer to divert $1 of the taxes already owed. This is the federal sys-

Here is a breakdown of the states that provide public financing as analyzed by Campaign Practices Reports and a survev by UPI:

Idaho — Starting in 1976 a taxpayer could direct $1 of his taxes to the political party of his choice, or to a general fund. Ninety percent of the general fund is divided among the two major parties, with the remaining 10 percent going to all par-ties that have qualified candidates on the state ballot.

Iowa - Individual taxpayers can direct $1 and married couples $2 into the Iowa election campaign fund. The funds are channeled to the central committees of the political parties and can not be used for primaries or nominating conventions.

Kentucky - A 1976 law provides taxpayers can pay an extra $1 which will be divided at the end of each year to the political parties. This kind of weak law - requiring a contribution by the taxpayer has not raised much money.

Maine - Like Kentucky, the taxpayer can pay an extra $1, but he can direct which party it goes to.

'Maryland - A $2 contribution surcharge on the state income tax raised only $500,000 in the first two years, and the state now is considering legislation providing for a tax return checkoff of $1 or $2. Current law directs that 25 percent of all money raised be used for statewide office campaigns, 40 percent for ganeral assembly elections and 35 percent for other off-

Massachusetts - Taxpayers can add $1 to their tax bills. The money goes to can-didates for statewide office, both in primary and general elections.

Michigan - A taxpayer can divert $2 -$4 on a joint return 8 to help finance gubernatorial primary and general elections. The state matches all money checked off on tax returns - thus doubling the fund.

Minnesota - Taxpayers can channel $1 of their taxes to either a general political fund or to a party with candidates on the ballot. Of the general fund, 21 percent goes to the governor-lieutenant governor ticket, 3.6 percent for attorney general, 1.8 percent for secretary of state, state auditor and state treasurer and the remainder to the state legislature.

Montana - Individual taxpayers can direct $1 of their taxes to finance state elections. The money is distributed five months before a gubernatorial election in equal amounts to both parties.

New Jersey - Gubernatorial candidates must raise $40,000 before they can receive money from a $1 checkoff fund. After qualifying, they are eligible for $2 of state money for each additional $1

North Carolina - One dollar can be earmarked for a political party of choice. Undesignated funds are divided among all parties according to voter registration. State parties can use funds only in contested races.

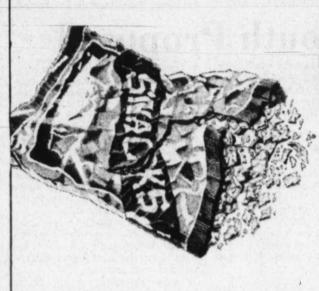

cratic parties divide money raised through a $1 checkoff on the tax forms. The law expires in 1980, and this state will serve as a major test of the future of election reform.

Rhode Island - Taxpayers can direct $1 to a political party or into a general fund to be divided between the parties

according to their vote in the last state-wide election. State party chairmen allocate the funds

Utah - One dollar can be directed to the party of choice. Half goes to the state central committee and the remainder to the county committees on the basis of taxpayers who checked-off $1 for the Avalanche-Journal Staff The Republican race for the 19th Congressional seat heated up Wednesday when candidate Joe Hickox lambasted both his GOP opponents as being "vul-nerable" to attack from Democrats.

Hickox, who retired from the Air Force to run for Congress, said Jim Reese's record as mayor of Odessa is wide open for a frontal attack by the Democrats," and questioned why Reese was not campaigning on his mayoral accomplish-

"He is highly vulnerable in that respect because, apparently, he is not too proud of that record," Hickox said at a Wednesday press conference.

He noted he found no reference in Reese's campaign literature "to his list of accomplishments as mayor.

Noting Republicans must look past the May 6 primary to the November general election, Hickox asked, "Could the Democrats attack his (Reese's) vocal position of getting the government out of our pockets when his record shows just the opposite while mayor?

Could the Democrats accurately accuse him of being a party to adding another layer of bureaucracy while mayor, and now he complains about the many federal bureaucracies?

"I'm really curious as to why a former public official does not stress his achievements while in office during a time when he is seeking higher office," Hickox said. "The Democrats defeated him before and they surely know how to do it again," Hickox observed and suggested the Democrats might want Reese to win for that

As for opponent George Bush, Hickox said the Midland oilman is "closely tied to the oil industry and it can be charged that he would only represent the oil in-

Both Bush and Reese are at a disadvan-

"Lubbock Republicans or Democrats would not take lightly losing the representation (in Congress) to the southern part of the district. "When all the facts are analyzed," Hickox said, "I am the least vulnerable to any attacks by the Democrats. I am not associated with any special interest groups. I seek office for the benefit of Hickox said his comments were "not an attack on my opponents" but were intended to point out the differences among the three candidates.

Apparently he was prompted to offer his observations on the race following an Avalanche-Journal story in which Reese said Bush's and Hickox' speeches "sound like they were taken out of my campaign material two years ago."

Hickox said Reese "would like for you to believe that all of his-ideas and positions on the issues are original," and said Reese is "resentful of the competition" in the race.

"In the case of Mr. Reese, the people in the 19th District should never let cleverness be confused with wisdom.' Hickox also responded to a comment

Reese made when opening his campaign headquarters on March 4 that "we need someone up there rattling the cage, and I'm a pretty good cage rattler."
"Hardly the image of an effective congressman," Hickox observed. "We must elect an effective and competent person who can open doors with a positive attitude of cooperation with all members of the House," he said. "We do not need a person who runs up and down the halls of Congress rattling cages and irritating and antagonizing ev-

Hickox also took Reese to task for his recurring observation "that he needs to change only 5 percent of the votes from 1976 and that makes him the most electa-

TEXARKANA, Ark. (UPI) - The federal government has doubled the money intended for a criminal justice genter that will straddle the state line and house agencies and criminal justice services for Arkansas and Texas.

Gov. David Pryor made the announcement Wednesday in Texarkana with Mayor Bobby Ferguson of the Arkansas side and Mayor David Keller of Texas.

The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration had committed $2.5 million to the center in 1976 and notified Texarkana officials this week another $2.5 million has been added to the project. More than $1.8 million has been provided by state and local sources on both sides.

Police agencies, jails, courts and other services for cities, counties and judicial districts in both states will use the new

Panel To Hear Riklin Tapes

HOUSTON (AP) - Jurors were to be furnished head phone sets today to listen to tape recordings in the bribery trial of

Ed Jay Riklin. Riklin is accused as the man who arranged for pawnshop owner Nukie Fon tenot to pay $60,000 to former State District Judge Garth Bates in return for probation for Fontenot in a robbery case. Bates now is appealing an eight-year prison sentence assessed last year after being convicted on a charge of bribery. The jury and State District Judge Thomas Routt are expected to listen to taped conversations which prosecutors said were made between Riklin and Fon-

Routt found Fontenot in contempt of court Tuesday for refusing to tell jurors who helped him hide jewelry allegedly stolen from the home of a jewelry salesman in August 1975. Routt ordered Fontenot jailed.

Fontenot was released from jail Tuesday night and testified Wednesday he instructed a friend, Clyde Ward, to help move it. Fontenot said Ward was not involved and now denies ever having touched the jewels.

Business Executives Expect Carter To Use Price Freeze

By JOHN CUNNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — In spite of his denials, some business executives continue to believe that President Jimmy Carter is getting into such a bind that he will have to rely on wage-price restraints.

Promises mean nothing on this issue.
They remember that Richard Nixon, who they believed had an even stronger philosophical commitment to free enterprise, suddenly imposed a wage-price freeze

That move trapped some businesses before they could announce price increases, and now they are less inclined to delay and be trapped by any sudden governmental action.

Actions instead are their guide, and they observe that Carter's actions, and in some instances his inaction, actually may have undermined the anti-inflation cause.

The declining dollar, government regulations, farm supports, a higher minimum wage and restrictions on the imports of goods such as steel and shoes are all adding either to business costs or retail prices.

At the same time, progressively higher tration supported, are making it more difficult for many workers to buy the things they need.

The pressure for new wage increases, therefore, is building relentlessly, and everyone by now realizes business isn't going to absorb higher costs if it can pass

Social Security taxes, which the administhem on.

This presents the issue directly to the president, and some critics fear he has so far developed no program for dealing with it. Under pressure, it is said, he might opt for artificial restraints.

The possibility of such an eventuality is even now sending vibrations through the business community, and conceivably could in itself produce even more pressure by encouraging anticipatory price in-

The very possibility has already contributed to the low level of stock market prices, not just because controls are likely to limit profits but because they are also viewed as counterproductive.

That is, there is a widespread belief that controls add to economic imbalances and therefore lead eventually to more of the situation they were intended to con-

At the moment, inflation has not become much more urgent a problem than it was a few months ago, but the trend is becoming clear: it is likely to become worse as the year progresses.

The Center for the Study of American Business finds that the pevailing opinion among professional forecasters is that the overall inflation rate is expected to be in the range of 6 to 6.5 percent this year.

While that is not too much higher than the 1977 rate of just under 6 percent, the important difference is that the economists think it will be worsening as the year wears on.

year wears on.

The center, based at Washington University, St. Louis, also finds economists shaving their estimates of 1978 economic growth, bringing them to just above 4 percent, compared with 5 percent last year.

Court Rules In Favor Of Demotion

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court Wednesday affirmed the demotion of a Carrollton Fire Department lieutenant to private because he allegedly was rude to a late-night woman caller who reported an animal in the wall of her house. The demotion cost Rodney Keeling $180 a month in pay.

Keeling appealed after the Civil Service Commission demoted him on the recommendation of Fire Chief F.J. Doug-

A Dallas trial court reversed the commission's decision and restored Keeling's rank, but the Dallas Court of Civil Appeals ruled that there was substantial evidence to support the demotion.

Court records show that Keeling was on duty, sleeping by the phone, when Patsy Howard called at 11 p.m. to report that there was an animal flopping around in the wall. She said she thought it was a bird. She said it was no emergency.

She testified that Keeling said the old fire department might have answered calls such as to get cats out of trees but the new fire department did not. She said Keeling told her he did not know where she got the idea to call the fire department about such things.

She testified that she called at the suggestion of her brother, Randall Howard, a member of the nearby Addison Fire Department.

Keeling, she said, replied that Addison was "just trying to harass" Carrollton firemen.

firemen.

The woman said when she hung up she was in tears because Keeling had made her feel "like an idiot."

Her brother finally called the Addison animal control officer, who removed a rat from the wall.

Randall Howard called Chief Douglas the next day, and Keeling apologized to Howard's sister. She said she thought that was the end of the matter.

Douglas' charge against Keeling was that he had "lightly disregarded a distress call. A request for aid was rudely dismissed."

The chief said although the woman thought the sound was made by a bird, it could have been a fire. He said the department had a written rule requiring all distress calls to be investigated.

The Supreme Court affirmed the appeals court decision without writing an opinion of its own.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Doctor bills are increasing half again as fast as the overall inflation rate and the situation may get worse, says a new government study that notes American physicians two years ago had a median income of $63,-

The report lists several causes for the rapid increase, focusing on widespread employer-paid insurance coverage. Unless the consumer feels the bite personally, the report says, "there is little reason to predict that physician fee inflation will not continue to outpace price increases in the overall economy.

Medical insurance, both from private insurers and the government, covers 80 percent of the population, a fact that the report says has "exempted physicians' fees from the usually restraining effect of market forces.

The Council on Wage and Price Stability study, released Wednesday, says doctor bills jumped 9.3 percent in 1977, while other consumer prices rose 6.2 percent.

The report "does a very good job describing the problem ... supply and de-mand don't work in medicine," com-mented Dr. Sidney Wolfe, head of the consumer-oriented Health Research Group in Washington.

The Federal Trade Commission, also looking into rising medical costs, is considering allowing doctors to advertise so consumers could compare fees. The FTC says previous prohibitions against physician advertising amount to price fixing.

In a related investigation, the FTC is trying to find out whether health bills are higher because doctors on Blue Shield boards set insurance payments for them-selves. FTC Chairman Michael Pertschuk testified before a House subcommittee on Tuesday that 46 of the 69 plans in the nationwide Blue Shield Association have boards of directors controlled by physicians or by physicians and hospital representatives. He said the report on Blue Shield plans would be ready in the dealers urged Congress today not to enact new federal regulation on the car-repair industry despite widespread con-sumer complaints about repair problems.

"Such regulation would not solve the problems it is intended to solve and would simply add substantially to the cost of having consumers' automobiles repaired," said James B. Woulfe of the National Automobile Dealers Associa-

He testified to a Senate Commerce subcommittee that has been told by numerous federal and state officials that grievances about cars are their leading source of consumer complaints.

One of those witnesses, Joan Claybrook, administrator of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, estimated that consumers waste at least $20 billion per year in unnecessary, inadequate, incompetent and fraudulent repairs and maintenance.

Woulfe said, "I am disturbed about the press and this $20 billion ripoff that has been bandied around the country in recent days." He called for data to support the estimate, and subcomittee Chairman Wendell H. Ford, D-Ky., said he would ask Ms. Claybrook for such information.

'We just can't afford to pay auto mechanics what we pay them if they are in-competent," Woulfe said. He said industry action is a better solution to consumer problems than government regulation. 'With profit margins already razor-thin, federal regulation is quite likely to put at least some auto repair companies out of business," Woulfe said. would reduce competition and offer the consumer fewer choices as to where to have his or her car repaired."

Bumpers Discovered To Cause Damages

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Automobile manufacturers are still turning out cars with bumpers that do more to damage the car than protect it in a crash, even a mere fender-bender, according to a new Cars subjected to identical crash tests show differences of hundreds of dollars in the amount of damage done, although technology is available to produce a bumper that would reduce the harm to zero in low-speed crashes, the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety said in releasing the results.

The insurance industry-backed group detailed its tests on 1978 model cars at a Senate hearing Tuesday. Albert Kelley, vice president of the organization, said results show "an unacceptably high level of damage being designed into these

Current federal rules impose safety requirements on bumpers, and the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration has ordered stronger steps taken to prevent damage. In 1979 model cars bumpers must be able to protect cars in 5-mph crashes against a barrier, although damage to the bumper itself is allowed; for the 1980 model year the bumper must be able to withstand damage both to itself and the car in the same tests.

But Kelley told the hearing the bumper of a 1978 Buick Skylark, which the manufacturer says already would meet the "no damage" test, flunked in his organization's crash tests.

He also said some manufacturers continue to design bumpers that "override" slide on top of or under another bumper in a crash - even though NHTSA safety standards do not allow that.

Here are the institute's test results showing first the least damage and then the most damage in the crashes:

Taylor-Made Role Change

BILLY TAYLOR HAS unquestionably been asked a stupid question or two by media representatives during his athletic career. More than once, he must have gritted his teeth to keep from either laughing or directing an unkind reply to-

Now, his problem is to refrain from asking that type of question himself. Taylor, you see, is at least temporarily making the transition from jock to golden-throat, having begun work as a sports reporter for KCBD television this week. In his two interviews thus far, the former Texas Tech running back admits that he's been wary of asking a less-than-intelligent question.

"Having been an athlete and having been interviewed before, it's easier for me to think twice before asking a stupid question," Taylor said. "I certainly don't want to ask one. Having been an athlete helps me because I can think of questions more easily than perhaps someone else could.'

Taylor is majoring in sociology at Tech, but feels the television experience will be useful, providing him with another possible line of work, should he not make it in professional football.

Despite having played football for four years at Tech, he lacks just nine hours for his degree. Getting a master's degree and teaching sociology at the college level is a possibility, also. His father, a former career serviceman in the Army, is currently a professor of sociology at the University of Mississippi.

"EVEN IF I make it in pro ball, I'll have to get out eventually, and you have to be prepared to do something else. My agent told me that he knows some guys at NBC and ABC that might be able to help me if I have some experience. Playing in the NFL is a principal goal now — Taylor is expected by many observers to be drafted by the time five rounds have been completed — but he doesn't consider it critical to his future.

"Pro ball has never been my No. 1 goal in life. I've always said that if it comes, it comes. If it doesn't, it doesn't. If it does, it will be like icing on the cake. I guess it could help me financially later on if I do make it." One reason for his desire to play pro ball is the traditional one of wanting to "prove that I can play with the big boys." But there is another, as well. TAYLOR, A 6-0, 210-pounder with speed, power and moves, never consistently performed in accordance with expectations during his collegiate career. He certainly had respectable statistics, and there were periods where he played brilliantly. But those instances were interspersed with ones of just average play. The reasons are not quite clear to Taylor.

'I don't think I really played up to my potential at Tech," he said thoughtfully. "That's one reason I'd like to play pro ball. I'd like another chance to do as well as I think I can do.'

Taylor was recruited highly after a fine career at San Antonio's Jay High School and had a fine freshman season at Tech, but then came the coaching change - Steve Sloan for Jim Carlen - and many Raiders, including Taylor, had a difficult time adjusting.

Sloan's program was infinitely tougher than Carlen's, and Taylor admitted that this was a factor in his unhappiness during his sophomore season, one in which he seriously considered transferring.

"THE PROGRAMS WERE as different as day and night. We never worked hard under Carlen. We never had a curfew or anything. Then Sloan came in and tried to kill us, or so it seemed. I guess it paid off eventually, but it was tough at After much thought, he decided to wait and see how he stood after spring training of 1976 before deciding whether or not to transfer. He then had a good spring, ended up on the first unit, and stayed at Tech. The Raiders' SWC co-championship season followed, and Taylor played extremely well in the final half of the campaign. Then came the 1977 season, an extremely disappointing one for Tech after its high pre-season hopes. "I really thought my senior year would be my best year," Taylor said. "That was the most ready I've ever been for a season. But then I got a hyper-extended knee in a pre-season scrimmage. That was the first time I'd ever been really injured, and it affected me mentally. After that, I just didn't cut on the knee real well. I was worried about it."

But, as he awaits the May pro draft, he's in good shape physically and mentally. During his first two years at Tech, he was termed by more than one person as a hot dog, but maturity has set in.

"Some people have said that I was a hot dog when I came out of high school. I don't know about that, but I know that I have matured a great deal. I'm a much better person after being here for four years.

"I feel that I know where I'm going and what I want out of life. I am more aware of what my goals and values are than I ever have been. I feel that I'm mentally ready for whatever is going to happen."

Tech Takes Two More

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff Texas Tech had it tough and then easy

Wednesday afternoon, as it swept its sec-ond straight doubleheader from Wichita State by counts of 7-6 and 8-5.

In the opener, the Raiders first bounced back from a 4-1 deficit and then had to rely on John Keller's RBI-double in the bottom of the seventh inning of the ning contest to win it.

But Tech jumped ahead quickly in the second game with five first-inning runs and held an 8-2 lead after four frames before holding off a Wichita State rally in the seventh to capture the win.

The victories up Tech's season record to 15-12, and the Raiders are 5-4 in Southwest Conference action going into this weekend's three-game series with SMU in Lubbock. WSU is now 7-9-1 for the

A triple to the 380-foot barrier in leftcenter field by Yeager and a long home run in the same direction by Tim Tolin accounted for the second-inning runs, and Yeager drove in the Shockers' fourth run with a third-inning single.

Tech, however, tied the game in the bottom of the third when third baseman Rusty Laughlin led off with a double, Mike Farmer singled, and centerfielder Randy Newton grounded a single to right field to drive in Laughlin. One out later, first baseman Craig Noonan slammed a ground-rule double to left field to score Farmer and Newton.

Until last year, when Louisiana State finished second and Tennessee third, no large college had ever finished among the top three. WBC is the only team in this year's field to finish as high as third.

The Bruins, who will host the event at Pauley Pavilion, bring a 25-3 record into tonight's game, along with a 13-game winning skein this season and a 30-game winning streak at Pauley Pavilion. Montclair State, which handed Wayland Baptist its second loss of the season by a 72-67 count in the Old Dominion Tournament, is 24-6.

Miss Blazejowski, 5-10, is averaging 38.5 points per game.

Hog Coach Rejects Zone Ideas

ST. LOUIS (AP) — In spite of a scare thrown at Kentucky by Michigan State last week; Arkansas does not plan to flag down the Wildcats with a zone defense when the two collegiate powers collide. Razorbacks Coach Eddie Sutton pledged that Wednesday while weighing his fifth-ranked team's chances against No. 1 Kentucky in Saturday's semifinals of the NCAA basketball tournament at the Checkerdome

"At this point of the season, I don't think anybody's going to put any tricky plays in or just ditch what has gotten them to where they are," Sutton said from Fayetteville, Ark., during a telephone news conference.

"We're basically a man-to-man basketball team," he added. "What's going to be a key as far as we're concerned is defensive board play. I think it's the biggest problem we'll face with a team like Ken-

While Sutton rejected defensive alterations for Kentucky, 28-2, which got by Michigan State 52-49 for the Mideast Regional title, Wildcats Coach Joe Hall was equally against change. There are things I feel are effective against his club that we're just not capable of doing," Hall said of Arkansas, 31-3.

"Quickness has been a problem for us," Hall said, alluding to problems Kentucky might face if it attempted to capitalize on the apparent weaknesses of its foe against pressing defenses. "We usually make a substitution when we need more quickness, but we don't always solve that problem," Hall conceded. "Most of us feel at this stage of the game we usually go with what our team does best regardless of what we think up-sets the opponent." The sentiments on strategy-voiced by Hall and Sutton were echoed in large part by Notre Dame Coach Digger Phelps and Duke Coach Bill Foster, whose teams will clash in the other half of Saturday's

"I just think that we've got to play with what brought us here," said Phelps, whose No. 6 Irish, 23-6, flattened three opponents, including third-ranked De-

Paul 84-64, en route to the Midwest title. "Obviously, that's our depth and our being physical. We're not looking to change any of that," he added. "I think in discussing Duke that Bill Foster has done an excellent job of getting his kids to play

Delph Ruled Eligible

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) - Marvin Delph, the leading scorer in University of Arkansas basketball history, was again eligible today to compete in the NCAA basketball championships after being declared ineligible for about 24 hours earlier this week.

Frank Broyles, University of Arkansas athletic director, said he took the action to declare Delph ineligible after it was discovered that people in Delph's hometown of Conway, Ark., raised funds to send the basketball star's parents last week to the NCAA West Regionals at Albuquerque, N.M.

Meeting by telephone conference call at Broyles' request, the NCAA Subcommittee on Eligibility voted Wednesday to reinstate Delph, just three days before the Razorbacks, 31-3, take on the Kentucky Wildcats, 28-2, in the NCAA national semifinals at St. Louis Saturday.

The committee consists of John Tonner of the University of Connecticut, John Eiler of East Stroudsberg State, and El Malen of Pomona Pitzers College. David Berst, head of the NCAA rules enforcement department, said the fund raising action fell under a rule called "the extra benefits rule."

Broyles said neither Delph, basketball coach Eddie Sutton nor anyone else at the school knew of the fund raising operation until they read about it earlier this

Charles Blanchard, an official of the First State Bank of Conway, said the money raising program was launched by the Conway Chamber of Commerce early Friday morning after Arkansas disposed of UCLA, 74-70, in the West semi-

"We advertised on the radio station and raised approximately $1,100 in about eight hours. In short, we did everything that we wouldn't have done had we known this was a violation of NCAA rules.

The Delphs have now returned all of the money raised to the donors, Blanchard said. It cost them about $550 to fly to Albuqueque in time for Saturday's very well drilled in moving the ball down the floor. They pass as good as any team I've seen. Offensively, it's obvious that (Jim) Spanarkel is their money man."

Duke's Foster, a longtime friend of Phelps, returned his rival's compliment, labeling the Irish "a very deep club."

"I think the interesting thing in watching Notre Dame is that they are a combination of a power team, maybe to a large degree, but they're also a very, very well disciplined team. Their defense moves around very well, and this what we'll see on Saturday afternoon."

"I hope not, and I don't think so," Foster responded when asked if his No. 7 Blue Devils, a young team featuring freshman starters Gene Banks and Kenny Dennard, had not jelled a year earlier than expected.

"We had a good pre-season and than it carried over into the (Atlantic Coast Conference) league," he added of Duke, 26-6. 'Each passing game, I think, added a little bit and we got more confidence in

Dickey 'Not Surprised'

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) - Jim Dickey, not even a season as Kansas State University football coach behind him, says the Big Eight Conference probation announced against K-State Wednesday came as "no shock to me.

'I was aware of the facts back in December," Dickey said. "It wasn't a case of leading me through the dark." The probation, which Big Eight officials say does not yet carry any specific penalties, was brought because the school gave out too many scholarship last year. Ellis Rainsberger, head football coach at the time, resigned last year after a player misidentification scandal. Dickey said he was informed of the situation when he was hired, although he added he wasn't "totally and completely aware of all the circumstances."

Evert Tops Czech Fem Foe

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Top-seeded Chris Evert advanced to the quarter-final round of the $100,000 women's pro tennis tournament, after overcoming a strong challenge from 19-year-old Czechoslovakian Reginia Marsikova.

Evert was in danger until the middle of the second set when she reached stride and defeated Marsikova 4-6, 6-3, 6-0. Virginia Wade, the Wimbledon champion, advanced by defeating Kristien Shaw 7-5, 6-2. Wendy Turnbullsurvived a decision over Terry Holladay by 3-6, 6-4, 7-6. Rosie Casals prevailed by 6-2, 1-6, 7-5 against JoAnne Russell.

Leon Spinks, the ex-marine, is taking marching orders from no one - even if it costs him a version of his world title. "I decide who I will fight ... and when

I'm going to fight," Spinks said Wednesday, his first comments since the World Boxing Council stripped his championship last week for refusing to defend it against Ken Norton. The WBC gave the title to Norton. The competing World Boxing Association still recognizes Spinks for his Feb. 15 split decision over Muhammad Ali. Asked if he will continue to think of himself as champion, Spinks replied at a news conference: "That's what I am." He was in Boston to appear at a dinnerboxing show staged by Helen Hall, a black promoter. The show was to raise money for an inner-city neighborhood

Hudson said Spinks will fight a series of exhibitions in South America and then Ali at an unspecified site in September. The WBC claims Spinks agreed prior to the Ali bout to fight Norton next. "I never did agree to fight Norton," Spinks said. "I never signed any papers." Bob Arum, president of Top Rank Inc., the group with promotional rights for Spinks' next three fights, has conceded that Spinks did accept a WBC edict to fight Norton if he beat Ali. But lawyers for Top Rank contend the ty" to take the title in the Las Vegas 15rounder, and the 1976 Olympic light heavyweight champion is therefore obliged to fight the ex-champion again.

Big Guy Finds Range; Rockets Continue Slump

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar has been having ome problems lately, but you couldn't tell it from his performance against the Houston Rockets Wednesday night.

All the big guy did was score 31 points, grab 14 rebounds and block eight shots to lead the Los Angeles Lakers to a 124-106 National Basketball Association victory.

"I haven't been hitting my jump shot recently, but I was tonight and it comple-mented my other shots," said Jabbar. who is just 24 points shy of the 20,000 mark, a feat accomplished by only eight other players.

"They tried to play aggressive defense against me, but I think I can hold my own against any center in the league." Houston Coach Tom Nissalke agreed

"He is the greatest basketball player of all time." Nissalke said. "When he is making tough shots like that there is not much you can do to stop him."

The Lakers scored nine consecutive points early in the third quarter to overcome a 59-54 Houston lead and never were headed. Despite Calvin Murphy's 36 points, the Rockets dropped their 13th consecutive game.

Elsewhere, the Kansas City Kings up set the Philadelphia 76ers 120-108, the Boston Celtics defeated the Cleveland Cavaliers 105-99, the Washington Bullets trounced the New Orleans Jazz 124-109, the New Jersey Nets downed the Chicago Bulls 105-99 and the Seattle SuperSonics turned back the Buffalo Braves 97-92.

Kings 120, 76ers 108 Bill Robinzine, Tom Burleson and Scott Wedman accounted for 37 points in the third quarter. Philadelphia was 76ers 37-19 in the third period. Ron Boone led Kansas City with 24 points and George McGinnis had 28 for the losers. Philly lost Julius Erving early in the first quarter with what appeared to be a minor knee injury. Celtics 105, Cavaliers 99 Sidney Wicks' three-point play with 1:04 left helped boost Boston to a comeback triumph. The Celtics, who trailed 89-81 with under six minutes left, tied the score at 97 on a jumper by Dave Bing, who led all scorers with 24 points, including nine long-range shots in the second half. Dave Cowens hit Wicks with an alley-oop pass and Wicks dunked the shot ed a free throw for a 100-97 lead.

Bullets 124, Jazz 109 Kevin Grevey scored 30 points, Bob Dandridge 23 and Mitch Kupchak 22 to lead Washington. The Bullets were ahead by as many as 18 points in the second quarter but the lead was down to three at the start of the fourth period. Kupchak, who had only five points at halftime. scored 17 of the Bullets' 27 points in a nine-minute stretch as Washington pulled away in the final quarter.

Pete Maravich, the NBA's leading scorer, hit six of nine shots and scored 12 points in 25 minutes of play. That was twice as long as he played Tuesday night in his first game back after a knee injury.

Nets 105, Bulls 99 Rookie Bernard King scored 33 points and grabbed a career-high 18 rebounds for New Jersey. John Williamson added 23 points as the Nets posted their fourth victory in the last five games. The loss dropped Chicago three games behind Milwaukee in the battle for the final Western Conference playoff berth.

After Cazzie Russell's jump shot gave Chicago a 93-91 lead with 4:38 to play, the Bulls missed their next 11 shots.

also improved his previous best 10.3.

St. Louis Cardinals rocked him for nine hits and three runs in the first four innings of an 8-0 exhibition victory over the Royals.

That was just throwing.

"I really threw the ball better," said the Royals' one-time mound ace. "At times I had good velocity. I threw only one breaking pitch for a called strike and I have to be able to throw it for strikes. My location was terrible on a lot of pitches. I got too many up. That's called pitching.

What I have now is enough velocity, enough movement. I threw some fast balls that were the way they were before I hurt my shoulder.I think they're close enough not to make a difference. If this were April 1 I'd be real concerned. But I think I'll be able to pitch and get guys out in a couple more outing The Royals were held to five hits by Eric-Rasmussen, Buddy Schultz and Pete Vuckovich.

Another comeback pitcher, Detroit's Mark Fidrych, had better results than Busby. The Bird gave up just three singles in six innings as the Tigers trounced the Toronto Blue Jays, lifting his spring record to 4-0.

Fidrych, who gave up just one single in four scoreless innings against Pittsburgh his previous outing, lowered his earned run average to 0.60.

He was throwing sliders today," Manager Ralph Houk said. "He wasn't as sharp as he was against Pittsburgh. But this was his fourth time out and it was time to work on other pitches. He had good stuff. I was going to pitch him five innings, but he didn't throw enough pitches. He wound up with 66. He should be ready for 75 or 80 now.

-A trio of ex-Texas Rangers helped the Atlanta Braves to a 7-0 victory over their termer club. Tommy Boggs allowed one hit in five innings, Jeff Burroughs homered and Eddie Miller had two hits and stole a base. Rob Belloir and Dale Murphy also homered while Boggs and three relievers held the Rangers to three hits.

-Bobby Valentine's 2-run homer in the bottom of the ninth gave the New York Mets a 2-1 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds. Tom Seaver hurled six scoreless innings for the Reds, yielding two hits and triking out six.

-Chicago's Ken Kravec, who hadn't been scored on all spring, took a 4-0 lead into the fourth inning when the Philadelphia Phillies erupted for five runs and went on to defeat the White Sox 10-5.

-Baltimore and Los Angeles committed six errors apiece and the Orioles edged the Dodgers 9-8 with a 4-run rally in the bottom of the 11th inning. The winning run scored when third baseman Lee

Hawaii's Blue Waters Impress Lubbockite

By TED J. SIMON A-J Travel Editor

"As your plane descends Or the islands," said Mrs. R. L. (Alma) Wallace as "As your plane descends over the islands," said Mrs. R. L. (Alma) Wallace as she recalled her trip to Hawaii, "the first ting you notice is how intensely blue the water is as far as you can see. There are many hues, depending on the depth of the water. It's the most beautiful natural water I have ever seen.'

The Lubbock woman, an agent with Lubbock Travel Inc., recently returned from a tour of the Hawaiian Islands as a member of a group of travel agents checking accommodations and attractions for future tourists.

"Waikiki has many high-rise hotels, but you don't get a feeling of a concrete jungle. The Hawaiians have a knack for putting a plant or a tree here and there, so you always have the feeling of tropical surroundings." The travel agent also recalled the large number of miniature Japanese gardens seen during the islands

Mrs. Wallace joined members of her group to go sight-seeing and shopping the first night of their stay in our 50th state. The group was surprised to find many of the open-air shops remain open till 10:00 or 11:00 p.m. Every establishment in Hawaii seems to have an open-air atmosphere. Most of the shops and even the hotel lobbies are not completely enclosed.

"There are several tours of Honolulu that also go outside of the city, so the visitors can see some of the tropical areas tion of the winds and altitude of the ter-mile of an arid area."

Among the sites visited on Oahu was Punchbowl Crater, a volcanic crater in the foothills of the Koolau Mountains just above Honolulu. The crater area is the National Memorial Cemetery of the Pacific. The lookout point offers one of the best views of Waikiki, Diamond Head, and Pearl Harbor.

Beautiful beaches are synonymous with Hawaii, and some of the most beautiful beaches are found on the island of Maui.

"From now on, when I think of Hawaii," recalled the Lubbockite, "I'll remember the beach at Maui. One morning I got up at dawn to walk along the beach. The sunrise over an adjoining island was simply beautiful. It was fascinating to watch bits of light appear on different peaks and then slowly spread till everything was bright with sunshine."

The world traveler continued, "The water was warm and the sand was absolutely clean. And the only sound was that of the surf. I spent quite a while just watching the waves washing the sand onto the beach and then taking it back out again. I guess I watched the waves for an hour and a half." She thought for a moment and then added, "The atmosphere on Maui seemed to be more relaxing and calmer than Oahu or Hawaii

But there is plenty to do on Maui besides watching the surf and walking the beach. Whalers Village may be one of the most interesting shopping centers in the world. The center features a whaling museum, an amphitheater with frequent free entertainment, exhibits relating to the region's whaling past, and numerous

"The shops there are really interesting," remembered Mrs. Wallace. "Some are very specialized and may only feature shirts, or jewelry, or art. And just about everything relates to whaling." She added, "the shopkeepers were unfailingly friendly and allowed you to browse as long as you wanted. Although I purchased very little, I never felt unwel-

The Lubbock travel agent brought home a miniature outrigger canoe, and a shell necklace. She said the Whalers Village is an excellent place for shell or coral collectors. Some of the shells and coral come from as far away as the Mediterranean and the Philippines,

From Maui the travel agents went to the "Big Island" of Hawaii and its famous Kona Coast. The island hoppers stayed at a hotel built atop volcanic rock at the water's edge. The blue water, black rock, green foliage, and the sky's white clouds combined to present one of the most beautiful scenes to be found

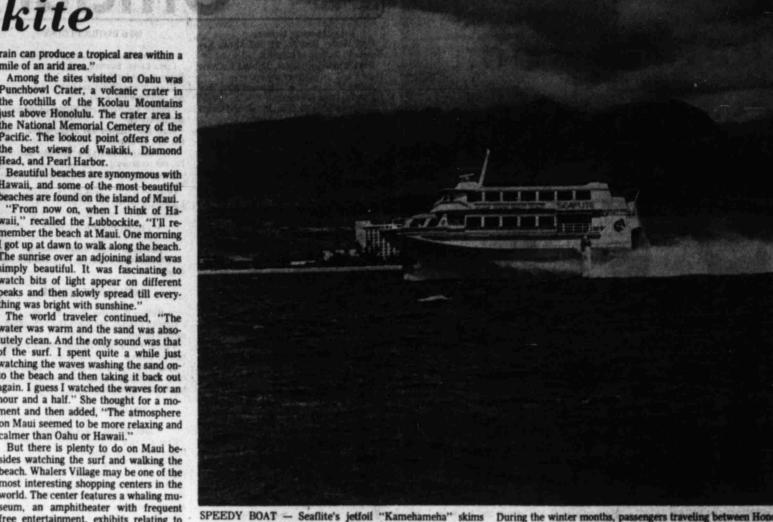

Mrs. Wallace described the beach scene, "The wind was up and the large waves rolled in against the rocky beach. The surf would hit against the rocks and shoot geysers of water up in the sky for what appeared to be 50 or 60 feet. It was quite spectacular!"

A bus tour was enhanced by a driver who proved to be an excellent guide and also a philosopher. "He espoused the idea that mainlanders should remain mainlanders and islanders should always be islanders," explained the Lubbockite. "He believed we should enjoy the difference between our ways of life, rather than trying to become a melting pot. He gave us a good idea of what it was like to be an authentic native islander."

The tour of the island was accented by the sight of wild orchids, and poinsettias taller than the bus. The visitors also saw a grove of macadamia-nut trees belonging to Julie Andrews, and James Stewart's cattle ranch. The driver also showed the mainlanders the site where Captain James Cook, the late-day (1778) discoverer of Hawaii is buried.

Also on "The Big Island" is the Hawaii Volcanoes National Park. The visitors stood near one crater that is approximately three miles across. They also walked through a natural tunnel, seven feet in diameter, that was made by flowing lava.

More information pertaining to Hawaii (air fares, accommodations, etc.) is available from Lubbock Travel Inc., or any local travel agency. Information is also available from Hawaii Visitors Bureau, 2285 Kalakaua Avenue, Honolulu, Hawaii

SURPLUS RIFLES

WASHINGTON (AP) - A Pentagon committee Wednesday postponed for about six weeks a recommendation on whether to expand the sale of surplus M-1 rifles to gun clubs. At issue is the future policy that will govern disposal of some 700,000 surplus rifles.

Deputy City Attorney Lynn Miller told the judge that Patton virtually cornered the market in health food mayonnaise, making $100,000 a year profit off his "Le-cinaise," which was labeled as containing no salt or eggs.

Actually, she said, Patton bought cases of ordinary mayonnaise, then had his em-ployees soak off the labels and substitute

State health officials said Patton's falsely labeled mayonnaise posed a health danger to persons with high blood pressure or kidney problems who are not supposed to eat salt or dairy products.

A recent survey of 2,000 consumers in major United States and Canada market areas indicated only 8.9 percent could identify a brand of pure maple syrup by name. State Court Rules Against Ordinance

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - The state Supreme Court ruled Tuesday the City of Midwest City, Okla., cannot enforce an ordinance requiring a landowner to make improvements on property dedicated to

The court unanimously upheld a lower court order in favor of Associated Milk Producers Inc.

AMPI had been told it would have to dedicate a strip of land along a Midwest City street to the city and pave the strip at its own expense.

The Supreme Court said the ordinance conflicts with a state law prohibiting municipalities from requiring landowners to pay the cost of widening streets.

Syrup Institute hopes to correct those misconceptions with a logo and a promotion campaign throughout the United States and Canada. The logo shows a stylized profile of a tree and a bucket with sap pouring into it.

Claude Tardif, executive director of the industry group, said its 24,000 members produce 90 percent of all commercial maple syrup in the U.S. and Canada. As recently as four years ago, 40 percent of it was sold to the food industry for ingredi-ent use, much of it in three brands of blended table syrup that account for 95 percent of the syrup bought in both coun-

Turdif predicts less than 20 percent will go to industry this year because it is in wider distribution in retail outlets such as supermarkets and food stores.

He said the industry is growing at the rate of about 1,000 new processors yearly. Most are small operations. Only about 20 processors market on a national basis,

He said most newcomers are city folk who buy sugarbushes to use for vacation homes and end up running the businesses with one local employee. "They're most-ly engineers or marketers, and I know two stockbrokers," he said.

Tardif expects retail prices to hold steady this year at about $1.70 per pound, despite the entry of more processors and industry development of a vacuum sysbrigade for collecting sap when it rises in the spring.

Only large processors are expected to tool up with the plastic-tubed equipment, he said. And even with the system, one od-sized tree still produces only about 40 gallons of syrup or two-thirds gallon of maple sugar.

Tardif said maple products remain costly because the industry is still very high labor-and-energy intensive.

He said institute members hope to dou-ble the present annual production of 45-50 million pounds within the next seven

TOKYO (AP) - Japan's new international airport at Narita is due to open the end of this month - six years late, $260 million in the red and plagued with prob-"It's the airport nobody wants," said a

Japan Air Lines official, who asked not to be named. "The airlines don't want it. The passengers don't want it. The local residents don't want it. Even the airport authority doesn't like it.'

About half of the 2,600-acre area set aside for the airport is scheduled to open March 30, with flights due to begin April 2. The land, buildings and runway - completed in 1972, just before the originally planned opening date — cost just over a billion dollars. The local and national governments have spent another $1.2 billion on roads and bridges, and the airlines have put a total of $377 million into their facilities.

But few people are happy with the result. The project, begun in 1966 as the 46year-old facility at Haneda on Tokyo's outskirts became overcrowded, is considered by its many critics to have been poorly planned, poorly executed, and an embarrassment to everyone involved.

The site at Narita, in farm country 41 miles north of Tokyo, was chosen because the government expected little opposition from local residents, either to the construction or the airport itself. But anti-airport groups, mostly of farmers, students and leftists, launched a series of protests and demonstrations that have left four persons dead and delayed opening of the airport for six years, costing the government an estimated $117,000 a day. Japan Air Lines says the delay has cost it $155 million.

Airport opponents say they will have 30,000 persons on hand to demonstrate against the opening.

In addition, railway unions have scheduled brief strikes to protest transportation of fuel for Narita by train, and airline representatives have hinted at legal action against what they consider outrageous proposed charges for using the new

Textile Firm Boss Resigns Position

NEW YORK (AP) - A union organizing drive against J.P. Stevens Co. Inc. has led to the resignation of one of the textile firm's directors, David W. Mitchell, who is also chairman of the board and chief cutive officer of Avon Products

In a brief statement Tuesday, Mitchell said he was resigning because of pressure from the Amalgamated Clothing and Textile Workers Union, which has been pressing other companies to sever their corporate links with Stevens.

Mitchell said he "cannot permit Avon to be drawn into the conflict and to be subjected to the pressures which the union is exerting as a result of my Stevens board membership.

Earlier, the union claimed credit for forcing the resignation of Mitchell and James D. Finley, Stevens' chairman, from their posts as directors of Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co.

The union tactic is the latest in a series of protractted efforts to unionize the textile industry in the South. Stevens, with a long record of anti-union activities, has been made the focus of the drive.

port maintain its construction was essential and Narita was the best site that could be found. Motio Koizumi, an official of the airport corporation, put it this way: "It is a must to open Narita and there's no alternative to Haneda's crowding.' Haneda is one of the busiest airports in the world with nearly 500 passenger flights leaving or arriving daily. Some flights often are forced to hold for periods of 30 minutes or more beyond schedule in order to fit into the jammed traffic Masafumi Kono, a Transport Ministry official dealing with the new airport, said the new airport will provide "benevolent influences for people ... and more and more Japanese will likely think of the new airport as a national symbol.' Shozo Ohata, a Narita banker, said he saw the merits of the facility "only from

Japan's Kyodo news agency calls the transportation network between Tokyo and Narita "disastrous." A high-speed rail line to Narita has been abandoned because Japanese on the proposed route refused to sell their land. Two present rail lines serving the Narita area already are filled to as much as three times capacity during rush hours.

The Narita airport authority officially estimates it will take 60 to 90 minutes to reach the airport from Tokyo by car, train or bus. Airline officials say the authority's test runs did not take into account the extra 30,000 people expected to visit the airport each day.

Airline officials and taxi drivers say more realistic estimates are two to three hours each way, especially during rush

Nearly all international flights now handled at Haneda, about 150 per day, will be moving to Narita, while most domestic flights will remain at the old airport. Only Taiwan's China Airlines will stay at Haneda because the People's Republic of China has objected to using the same airport as the Nationalists. The Narita airport authority will charge the airlines about 2 1/2 times as much to handle those flights - an average of $6,722 per movement of a Boeing 747 jumbo jet, according to Reg Jenkins, vice chairman of the Eoae of Airline

"Narita will be the most expensive airport in the world as far as airline costs,' he said, adding that the difference between charges at Haneda and Narita is equal to the profit on 25 extra passengers per flight to the U.S. West Coast, or 100 passengers to South Korea.

If the proposed rate schedule goes into effect, Jenkins said, it will almost certainly mean fare increases on flights to and from Japan.

Audience Unenthusiastic After French Dance Company's

NEW YORK (AP) - The Theatre du Silence made its American debut this week to a less than enthusiastic audience at the art deco Beacon Theater.

This 11-member French dance company suffered from many opening night woes, including missed music cues, exposed back stage walls and premature lighting for curtain calls. But mostly, it suffered from an initial case of anemia

Although the male and female dancers showed a genuine knowledge of technique and moved easily to the sometimes demanding choreography, they appeared uncomfortable with their movements. Their steps were more programmed than passionate; more studied than flowing. The exception was the upbeat and humorous "Le Cordon Infernal." choreographed by the troupe's artistic director, Jacques Garnier. Based on the outra-geous and bawdy cartoons of Claire Bre-techer, the dance illuminated the mime talent of Martine Clary and Garnier. They roamed through the comical joys and miseries of courtship, marriage and family with sweeping energy and more than enough abandonment, making good use of the omnipresent cord tied to their waists connecting one to the other.

The program opened with a Merce Cunningham classic, "Summerspace." It is an abstract work that requires definite movements from the dancers. The Theatre du Silence was tentative. Many of Cunningham's subtle intricacies were lost. Another Garnier work, "Pas de Deux," followed.

Inflation Affecting Argentine Workers

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI) -Argentina's guerrilla war gasps its last breaths. A truck zips past the defense minister's home, guns spitting bullets across its facade. The minister is not

Isabel Peron, the last president and heiress to the political party that dominated the nation's politics during most of the last 30 years, sits in a comfortable jail. Offers are made for rights to her memoirs.

Money flows into the once-empty vaults of the central bank as international financiers praise economy minister Jose Martinez de Hoz for bringing Argentina back from the edge of default.

March 24 will be the second anniversary of the military coup in which the armed forces took power from Mrs. Peron, who succeeded her husband on his Argentine workers, who under the government of former president Juan D. Peron were the best-paid and most powerful working force in South America, lose ground to inflation every day.

State-of seige laws are used to stiff-arm union protests for better wages.

"Who ever heard of a nation becoming rich by making its people poor?" one asked.

The commanders and chief of the armed forces have pledged to defeat leftist subversion and restore economic stability. A return to democracy also had been mentioned, but always as being the last step on the return to normalcy.

During the two years of military rule, war between guerrillas and security forces has left at least 1,798 people dead. Prisons were filled with suspected subversives. Others disappeared.

There are indications now that the war is nearing its end.

"It's still tough, but it doesn't seem to be as tough as it was before," a U.S. embassy spokesman said recently of the human rights situation.

A recent public opinion poll by a major newspaper did not mention guerrilla warfare, violence or human rights as being concerns of Argentine. The economy was everybodys's No. 1 subject.

"It's getting harder and harder to live on what you earn," an airlines salesperson told the pollsters. In the last two years the economy min-

Stopping inflation, which reached 360 perecent in 1976, has been a major target of Martinez de Hoz's economic program. The government has in recent years been fueling inflation by printing money to meet budget deficits. The economy minister, however, has cut back sharply

Workers grumbled as their real wages fell 33 percent last year, hitting the lowest level in at least the last 25 years.

New Japanese Airport Plagued By Problems

By TERRY A. ANDERSON

TOKYO (AP) - Japan's new international airport at Narita is due to open the end of this month - six years late, $260 million in the red and plagued with prob-

"It's the airport nobody wants," said a Japan Air Lines official, who asked not to be named. "The airlines don't want it. The passengers don't want it. The local residents don't want it. Even the airport authority doesn't like it. About half of the 2,600-acre area set aside for the airport is scheduled to open March 30, with flights due to begin April 2. The land, buildings and runway - completed in 1972, just before the originally planned opening date — cost just over a billion dollars. The local and national governments have spent another $1.2 billion on roads and bridges, and the airlines have put a total of $377 million into their facilities.

But few people are happy with the re-sult. The project, begun in 1966 as the 46year-old facility at Haneda on Tokyo's outskirts became overcrowded, is considered by its many critics to have been poorly planned, poorly executed, and an embarrassment to everyone involved.

The site at Narita, in farm country 41 miles north of Tokyo, was chosen because the government expected little opposition from local residents, either to the construction or the airport itself. But anti-airport groups, mostly of farmers, students and leftists, launched a series of protests and demonstrations that have left four persons dead and delayed opening of the airport for six years, costing the government an estimated $117,000 a day. Japan Air Lines says the delay has cost it $155 million.

Airport opponents say they will have 30,000 persons on hand to demonstrate against the opening

In addition, railway unions have scheduled brief strikes to protest transportation of fuel for Narita by train, and airline representatives have hinted at legal action against what they consider outrageous proposed charges for using the new

The farmers in the area, many of whom raised peanuts and watermelons, began their protests because of the acquisition of their lands, in some cases handed down by their ancestors, although they were compensated. They also opposed what they saw as the increasing urbanization of many parts of Japan. The leftists and radical students charged it would be used for military purposes, and that it threatened the envi-

Textile Firm Boss Resigns Position

NEW YORK (AP) - A union organizing drive against J.P. Stevens Co. Inc. has led to the resignation of one of the textile firm's directors, David W. Mitchell, who is also chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Avon Products Inc

In a brief statement Tuesday, Mitchell said he was resigning because of pressure from the Amalgamated Clothing and Textile Workers Union, which has been pressing other companies to sever their corporate links with Stevens.

Mitchell said he "cannot permit Avon to be drawn into the conflict and to be subjected to the pressures which the union is exerting as a result of my Stevens board membership.

Earlier, the union claimed credit for forcing the resignation of Mitchell and James D. Finley, Stevens' chairman, from their posts as directors of Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co.

The union tactic is the latest in a series of protractted efforts to unionize the textile industry in the South. Stevens, with a long record of anti-union activities, has been made the focus of the drive.

port problems and congestion

Planners and supporters of the new airport maintain its construction was essential and Narita was the best site that could be found

Motio Koizumi, an official of the airport corporation, put it this way: "It is a must to open Narita and there's no alternative to Haneda's crowding."

Haneda is one of the busiest airports in the world with nearly 500 passenger flights leaving or arriving daily. Some flights often are forced to hold for periods of 30 minutes or more beyond schedule in order to fit into the jammed traffic Masafumi Kono, a Transport Ministry official dealing with the new airport, said the new airport will provide "benevolent influences for people ... and more and more Japanese will likely think of the new airport as a national symbol." Shozo Ohata, a Narita banker, said he saw the merits of the facility "only from a business standpoint, but the city of Narita will be able to boost its revenue from the new airport business.

About 200 business tenants have taken space in the airport buildings, and others have branched out into adjacent areas in anticipation of the activity the new airport will generate.

Narita is the world's second most isolated international airport after the one serving Sao Paulo, Brazil, which is 60 miles away

Japan's Kyodo news agency calls the transportation network between Tokyo and Narita "disastrous." A high-speed rail line to Narita has been abandoned because Japanese on the proposed route refused to sell their land. Two present rail lines serving the Narita area already are filled to as much as three times capacity during rush hours.

The Narita airport authority officially estimates it will take 60 to 90 minutes to reach the airport from Tokyo by car, train or bus. Airline officials say the authority's test runs did not take into account the extra 30,000 people expected to visit the airport each day. Airline officials and taxi drivers say

Nearly all international flights now handled at Haneda, about 150 per day, will be moving to Narita, while most domestic flights will remain at the old airport. Only Taiwan's China Airlines will stay at Haneda because the People's Republic of China has objected to using the same airport as the Nationalists.

The Narita airport authority will charge the airlines about 2 1/2 times as much to handle those flights - an average of $6,722 per movement of a Boeing 747 jumbo jet, according to Reg Jenkins, vice chairman of the Eoae of Airline port in the world as far as airline costs, he said, adding that the difference between charges at Haneda and Narita is equal to the profit on 25 extra passengers per flight to the U.S. West Coast, or 100 passengers to South Korea.

If the proposed rate schedule goes into effect, Jenkins said, it will almost certainly mean fare increases on flights to and from Japan.

Rock Group Undergoes Changes In Name, Personnel, Duties

By BRUCE MEYER
United Press International Writer
"This group practices 100 times more than the other group did," says Fred Turner, "because the other group didn't practice. This is the first group I have ev-er worked in that I haven't had conflict with at least one person in the group — and in 22 years, I have been through a lot

It may sound as if Turner is talking about a brand new group, and in a way, he is. But the name of the band is probably familiar: BTO.

And most of the material, including ome of the finest rock 'n' roll tunes pro-uced in the first half of this decade, is smillar: "Let It Ride," "Takin' Care of siness," "Roll on Down the High-

And three of the members of the band are familiar: Turner, guitarist Blair Thornton and drummer Robbie Buch-

Yet this is not the Bachman-Turner Overdrive of old. The name, with the depar-ture of founding father Randy Bachman, has been formally changed to BTO. And there has been considerable reshuffling

"It's like 'musical chairs' only it's musical instruments, a new game," says Rob-bie. "I'm the only guy who is used to what he is doing, playing drums and sing-ing and being in the background. Ever-yone else has been entirely moved

The most obvious change for those fawith BTO is the ad Clench, formerly of a Canadian band called April Wine, on bass. To make room for him, Turner has shifted to rhythm guitar. Turner continues with most of the lead singing, but the plan is to move Clench toward more vocals as the band evolves.

It's been a year and a half since BTO in any form performed on stage. In that time, Randy Bachman quit the group he had ruled like a dictator and the three re-mad ruled like a dictator and the three remaining members had to spend months getting the business knots untied.

But now they are back and — with Clench fitting in like he was made for the group — hopefully headed toward a reemergence as a major force in simple, straight ahead rock 'n' roll.

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — If a drive-in theater in Plainfield, Ind., opens as scheduled on Good Friday with X-rated films — visible on U.S. 40 — prosecutor Ken Elmendorf says he will be there to close it.

Only a federal court order will stop the Hendricks County chief deputy prosecutor from confiscating the film, Elmendorf said Tuesday after he learned the Maplecroft Theater's lawyer asked for such an order.

Liewellyn H. Pratt, the theater's lawyer, filed the petition for a temporary restraining order in Federal Court at Indianapolis on the grounds that Elmendorf "will immediately and vigorously seek to obtain search warrants for the seizure of said film."

By JOAN HANAUER NEW YORK (UPI) — The latest television hospital is the medical equivalent of the dilapidated detective squad room in 'Barney Miller.'

It's called "A.E.S. Hudson St." and Marcus Welby wouldn't be caught dead there. It's as far from the ultra-modern setting of "Medical Center" as affluent Southern California is from the sidewalks of New York's lower East Side.

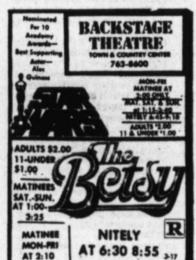

"Hudson St." (A.E.S. stands for Adult Emergency Service) is the brainchild of Danny Arnold, who gave ABC "Barney Miller" and "Fish." The new show replaces "Carter Country" tonight at 8:30 p.m. for a limited run.

'Barney Miller" fans will recognize the star, Gregory Sierra, who played Det. Chano Amangual on the cop comedy se-

Now he's a half-Puerto Rican, half-Jewish doctor with what he describes as an Albert Schweitzer complex trying to help the patients at Hudson St. He speaks without an accent this time, but lapses into Spanish for swearing.

Like "Barney Miller," the laughs depend on the assembled characters and the people who come in - or who are carried in - off the streets of New York, struggling against the system in which you win a few, lose a few.

The regulars on the show include a very pregnant nurse ("It's my eighth baby. They don't have to be delivered any more - I just wrap them up and take them home"), a woman ambu insists she couldn't have hit a pedestrian because somebody would have said something, several other staff members and a male nurse who came out of the closet long ago. He's Ray Stewart, an occasional drop-in on "Barney Miller." The plot of the opening show goes off poses as Dr. Fenton Coody.

NBC Takes Top Spot In Ratings

NEW YORK (AP) - An installment of NBC's most successful series of the TV season, "Little House on the Prairie," was the most-watched program during the week of March 13-19, ending an eight-week ABC hold on the top spot in the ratings, A.C. Nielsen Co. figures show.

But "Little House on the Prairie" was the only NBC program in the week's first 10, and that wasn't enough to affect the networks' weekly standings.

ABC was first again - for the 25th time in 28 weeks this season — with an 18.8 rating, followed by CBS at 18.3 and NBC at 17.1. The networks say that means in an average prime time minute, 18.8 per-cent of the homes in the country with TV were watching ABC.

NBCs triumph at the top displaced ABC's "Happy Days," the previous week's winner, which dipped to No. 5. "Laverne and Shirley," winner the two weeks before that, was second, and a third 'ABC show, "Three's Company,"

All three ABC programs were reruns of earlier épisodes, while "Little House on the Prairie" was the second installment in a two-part show. The NBC show had a rating of 31. Nielsen says that means of all the homes in the country with TV, 31 percent watched all or part of the proto see the movie, Green's heart sank.

"I knew it was a bomb, but I was stuck with it," he said.

The film earned only $4,000 during the month-long run at his theater in Glens Falls, N.Y.

Green and other theater owners want to abolish the practice they say is responsible for many of their losses; blind bidding. Some theater owners testified this week before a Massachusetts legislative committee considering a bill to outlaw the practice.

In blind bidding, theater owners are required to bid for the right to show a first-run film before they have an opportunity to see it — often months before the movie is finished.

Theater owners whose bids are accepted must pay guarantees — which often run into hundreds of thousands of dollars — as a down payment on the film.

"It's like telling a housewife you can't look at the meat in the supermarket, but look at the meat in the supermarket, but you buy it and we'll send it to you," said Sumner Redstone, president of the Bos-ton-based Redstone Theater chain, which has 150 screens nationwide.

Dow Jones Remains Unchanged

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices showed only small changes today in a fairly quiet pre-holiday

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials stood at 757.54, unchanged from Wednesday's close. Gainers held a slight lead over losers among New York Stock Ex-change-listed issues.

In the economic news, G. William Miller, the new chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, indicated to reporters that the Fed would not be hesitant to tighten credit if the recent acceleration of inflation persists.

Analysts said that evoked the prospect of renewed upward pressure on short term interest rates, which might attract money out of stocks and into interest-bearing investments such as Treasury bills.

But they also said some investors appeared to be pleased with the heavy emphasis Miller put on the importance of restraining infla-

New Trial Sought By Hawkins

An April 7 hearing is scheduled in Lubbock on a motion for a new trial for Samuel Christopher Hawkins III, sentenced to death here last week for the slaying of a pregnant Borger housewife.

District Judge Richard N. Countiss said the hearing will be held at 1:30 p.m. Countiss, of the 84th Judicial District, presided at the case moved here on a change of venue from Hutchinson Coun-

Defense attorneys' motion for a new trial mainly is based on two things, they said today: Pictures of the six-monthspregnant dead victim which were introduced into evidence over their objections, and final punishment argument comments made by Hutchinson County Asst. Dist. Atty. Linda Walden.

More than 30 pictures of the dead woman, who had been tied hand and foot, stabbed 10 times and was lying on a blood-soaked bed, were allowed into ev-

Court-appointed defense lawyers Gene Storrs and Russell Busby of Amarillo contend that the pictures were repetitive. of no evidentiary value and served only to inflame and prejudice the jury.

Their new trial motion claims Miss

Walden wrongfully referred in her argument to the defendant's failure to testify Miss Walden had asked jurors to consider whether Hawkins, an Amarillo meat company butcher, had shown any "remorse" or indication he wanted to reform during the trial. Defense lawyers objected and moved for a mistrial. Countiss sustained the objection, overruled the mistrial motion, and instructed the jury not to consider Miss Walden's comment for any purpose. Then the assistant DA compounded the comment by telling jurors she wanted to "explain" to them what she meant, and asked them to think back over Hawkins' seeming impassivity during the trial. Storrs and Busby renewed their objection and mistrial motion. Countiss again sustained and overruled, respectively, and instructed Miss Walden immediately to move into new argument territory. Hawkins, a 34-year-old father of two was convicted of capital murder in the death of Abbe Rodgers Hamilton, 19. The death sentence was returned after only
