Photographer Displays Unseen Monroe Prints

NEW YORK (AP)—Ten black-and-white and two color photographs of Marilyn Monroe by Milton Greene are on display here this week, the first time they have been available for public view.

The black-and-whites were made against a black background, with the late actress wearing a black body suit, black mesh stockings and sometimes a black top hat. The effect of seemingly disembodied legs, arms and face create some of the most subtly sexy photographs ever.

Greene said the negatives had lain in a drawer for years, although other photographs of Miss Monroe which he took in the '50s have appeared previously, some in Norman Mailer's photo book about her.

As her photographer, Greene became friend, confidante and adviser to Miss Monroe. He recalls one bit of advice she never took, and says he wishes she had, because things might have turned out differently.

He wanted her to break away from the Hollywood "sexpot" mold and work with creative people such as Charlie Chaplin, who, he thought, could bring out her talent as a comedienne.

Brezhnev's Absences Due To Pacemaker?

WASHINGTON (AP)—Administration officials believe Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev, whose frequent disappearances from public view have raised questions about his health, has been given an electronic heart pacemaker.

Brezhnev dropped out of public view last Dec. 12 and was not seen until mid-January. At the time, it was speculated that he had influenza, although the official report said only that he was hospitalized with an undisclosed ailment.

U.S. officials believe that it was during this period that the pacemaker was implanted.

The device, which is placed just under the skin, regulates the pulse through electronic methods.

The Soviet president was 71 years old last Dec. 19.

He is on a tour of Siberia, visiting sites near the Chinese border.

"He can't be in too bad health if he's on a tour of Siberia," said one U.S. official, who did not wish to be identified publicly.

In addition, he is expected to visit West Germany in the spring and there has been speculation that he will attend a United Nations disarmament conference, also in the spring.

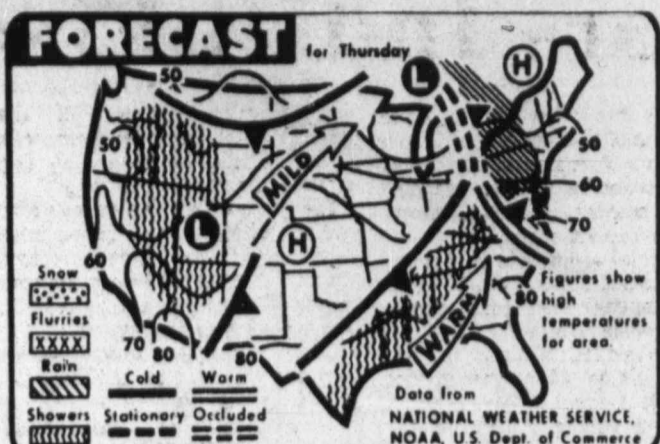

But administration officials steadfastly have refused to confirm that the Soviet leader will be visiting New York for the U.N. meeting.

Brezhnev last June replaced Nikolai V. Podgorny as the Soviet president, making him the undisputed political boss in the Kremlin.

There has been considerable speculation in recent months about Brezhnev's health. The Soviet leader has problems walking, smokes heavily, becomes fatigued and has been absent from public events for long periods without explanation.

The average age of the Soviet politburo is 67 and each new rumor about Brezhnev's health raises further speculation about how long he will remain in power and who will replace him.

WEATHER FORECAST—Showers are expected for most of the west and Pacific Northwest today, says the National Weather Service. Rain is forecast from an area extending from the Great Lakes south to Maryland on the East and showers from Texas extending north to Virginia. (AP Laserphoto)

Florida Manhunt Ends In Six Murder Cases

MIAMI (AP)—An eight-month manhunt ended Wednesday with the arrest of John Errol Ferguson on charges of murdering six persons last year, the FBI said.

Ferguson, 30, was arrested in the Carol City robbery-slaying incident of July 27, 1977. Three other men were arrested in the case last September. Dade County authorities have sought Ferguson on six counts of first-degree murder, two of attempted murder and four counts of robbery, the FBI said.

Continental To Seek Fare Cut

Continental Airlines will ask the Civil Aeronautics Board for permission to cut basic fares by offering a single unrestricted "chickenfeed" fare at 40 percent below coach Monday through Thursday and 30 percent off Friday through Sunday on every flight throughout its mainland route system.

Charles A. Bucks, executive vice president for marketing, cited the company's introduction of the economy fare more than 15 years ago. He said the complexities of today's promotional fares baffle even airline personnel and are almost incomprehensible to the passenger.

Continental, in introducing its new concept, is going back to basic first class, coach and a new low fare. "The passenger can literally fly for 'chickenfeed.' And that's what we named it," Bucks said.

Bucks said the plan will eliminate many restrictions. "You can select the flight you wish without having to choose it many days beforehand or being required to stay any specified period of time at your destination," he noted.

Continental will provide a minimum of 27 and maximum of 100 seats on its DC-10s for the new fare, and a minimum of 16 and maximum of 46 seats on its 727s. The seats will be in the rear of the aircraft. The fare request does not include routes to Hawaii.

Passengers using the "chickenfeed" fare will get a free snack and also can enjoy Continental's stereo entertainment at no cost.

Bucks said the airline expects the coach section of its aircraft to average 55 percent full, thus allowing the use of fold-down center seats and permitting more personalized service. The section reserved for the "chickenfeed" fare will average 85 percent full. He added there will be no mixing of the two classes of service.

The effect on Continental's average ticket price will be approximately the same as that of the current collection of discount fares, said Bucks. Continental's average price per ticket today is $61.78 and with the simplified new fare structure, the figure will be $61.25.

County Grand Jurors Indict Five For Murders

A Lubbock County grand jury Wednesday returned murder indictments against five persons in connection with three separate cases.

They were among 63 indictments returned by jurors to Judge Robert C. Wright's 137th District Court. There were no no-bills.

Two men were indicted today for murder in connection with the death of 25-year-old Thomas Solis Jr., whose bloody, battered body was found in the trunk of his own car Feb. 21.

Indicted were Bonafacio Reyes, 29, of 2019 64th St., and Oscar Rios, 24, of 615 30th St.

Solis' body was removed from the trunk of his 1969 Plymouth Fury parked in the 1100-block of Ute Street on the afternoon of Feb. 21. He died Feb. 22, about eight hours after he was found.

His relatives had reported him missing after he went to an East Broadway club to get hamburgers shortly after midnight Feb. 19, reports indicate.

Officers said Solis' brother located his car and that when police checked it, they found dried blood on the front dash and on the inside of the windshield. Outside the auto, blood was dripping from the left fender well, reports say.

Detectives removed the back seat and discovered the victim in the trunk.

In another case, murder indictments were returned against two persons—one a 16-year-old — as a result of the March 5 slaying of Richard C. Mata Jr., 18.

Indicted in that case were Manuel Viera Arellano, 45, of 514 40th St., and Scott Anthony Euresst of 508 38th St.

Euresst, 16, was charged after being certified as an adult for purposes of criminal prosecution in the case by 237th District Judge John R. McFall.

Mata was gunned down about 1:20 a.m. on the parking lot of the Cotton Club on U.S. 84.

Witness accounts indicated the victim and other men had been arguing periodically through the night at the club, where a birthday party for a 15-year-old girl was in progress.

Investigators arrived to find Mata, of 2003 E. 47th St., lying dead on the south end of the lot. A witness said Mata was attempting to run when he was shot down.

Justice of the Peace L.J. Blalack said it appeared the victim had been shot more than once.

Also indicted today for alleged murder was Ida Mae Johnson, 41, of 1618 Ave. C, Apt. 64. She is accused of the shooting death of her husband Dennis Johnson, 50, of the same address.

Johnson was killed at approximately 9 a.m. March 27 in an apartment at 1709 Ave. C. Reports indicated the victim had been shot in the chest.

Police arrested Mrs. Johnson at a nearby residence.

A car-bicycle collision resulted in an involuntary manslaughter indictment against a 25-year-old Lubbock woman.

Named in that indictment was Janice Kay Williams of 3205 56th St.

The March 25 mishap killed Mackey Avington Paxton, 24, who was operating the bicycle near the intersection of North U.S. 87 and Yucca Avenue.

A charge filed against Miss Williams alleged she caused Paxton's death "by accident and mistake when operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated."

A witness said Miss Williams' auto was traveling north on U.S. 87 when it failed to negotiate a curve. According to reports, Paxton was riding the bicycle approximately three feet west of the east curb line.

The victim, of 302 E. Purdue St., Space 76, reportedly was found lying face down in a ditch about 75 feet from the point of impact.

Also today, an attempted murder indictment was returned against T.W. McClenton, 63, of 1515 Ave. E, No. 11. He is accused of shooting Charles Robinson, 30, Feb. 17 at apartments at 16th Street and Avenue C.

McClenton last week was assessed a life penitentiary term by a jury after being convicted of murder in connection with a 1977 shooting death in the same area as the more recent shooting.

The Criminal District Attorney's office had offered McClenton a 15-year prison term and the dismissal of two pending charges, including the alleged attempted murder, in return for a guilty plea. But McClenton turned down the offer.

Other indictments returned today, with ages and latest possible addresses compiled from county records, include:

Bette Davis Pans 'Romantic Aging'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Nuts to growing old," says actress Bette Davis, who turned 70 on Wednesday.

"Don't you ever believe that life begins at 40 or that it's wonderful to be 70. I'd give anything to be 30 again. Every so often somebody asks me if I've had my face lifted. I always tell them, 'Would I look like this if I did?'"

Miss Davis, who has spent 47 years in films, appeared in three films during the past year: Disney's "Return from Witch Mountain," the television film "Harvest Home" and the all-star Agatha Christie mystery "Death on the Nile," her 85th movie.

"I think the key to life is to never stop accepting its challenges. As far as I'm concerned, once someone stops accepting challenges, he's dead."

About those cigarettes: "The only thing I worry about is dying without a cigarette in my mouth. People have suggested that I give up smoking, to which I answer, 'Whatever for?'"

Term Assessed In Theft Case

A man convicted of theft was assessed a six-year prison term Wednesday by Dist. Judge Thomas L. Clinton.

The punishment was meted out to Charles Earl Hawkins, 33, who lived at 2605 Weber Drive, Apt. D, at the time of the April 1, 1977, offense.

It took a jury earlier this year only 12 minutes to decide Hawkins was guilty of stealing a money bag from a service station at 524 Idalou Road.

Complaining witness James Sprowles identified Hawkins as a man who entered the station about 11 a.m. Sprowles said he discovered that a money bag containing an estimated $400 in cash and some checks was missing after Hawkins left the premises.

Another witness, reportedly traveling in the same car as Hawkins at the time, testified he saw a money bag in Hawkins' possession.

That witness also said he saw the defendant tear up some checks and throw them out the car window.

Testimony indicated the witness later led police to a vacant lot where portions of the checks were found. Three checks reportedly found at the location and pieced together by officers were introduced into evidence at the trial.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By SAM SHULSKY

Q. I will graduate from college in July and expect to begin employment at $11,000 a year. Since my savings still aren't too high, I'd like to invest $200 to $300, but have no idea what firm would take so small an account. Secondly, since my funds are so modest, wouldn't I be better off buying shares selling around $10? I don't see much benefit from buying three shares of a $35 stock.

A. A request to the Investors Service Bureau of the N.Y. Stock Exchange, 11 Wall St., New York, N.Y. 10005 will bring you a list of brokers in your area which outlines their account minima and other details.

I have no quarrel with your eagerness to get started on investing, but I think there are some matters which come first — a sizable savings account (equivalent to at least 3 to 6 months salary) and, perhaps, a basic life insurance plan which would help you take advantage of your youth and also serves as a base for future expansion as needed. Once you get these in place you might begin thinking of investing in securities.

As to procedures: You can, of course, buy shares in a mutual fund with modest sums — both initial payment and thereafter. However, since you seem to want to be active in investing, I imagine you would feel better if the reins were in your own hands.

I suggest you accumulate about $1,000 or so and then discuss the matter with a brokerage firm, explaining that you will have additional sums in future to put into stocks. In the meantime, there would be nothing wrong with boning up on the subject, to which end I'm including some material in your self-addressed return envelope.

Finally, don't let the price tag on the shares influence your investing. With sums of around $1,000 you can buy odd lots of most stocks. If you go into a dividend reinvestment program you can use almost any sum to acquire shares steadily at any price. Since you are not going to be a trader, five shares of a $40 stock pose no disadvantage compared with 100 shares of a $2 stock.

Q. I am a widow living on limited income. I enjoy living in my home very much. It is "free and clear". It could be sold easily. But on further thought, I feel that renting an apartment would not be prudent and would also mean giving up my privacy. I've been advised, instead, to sell out and buy a condominium as a means of eliminating the tax on the profit from the sale of my home. Please comment.

A. I don't care for the suggestion. Here you are living on a limited income in a home you enjoy very much. To eliminate the tax on any profit from a sale you would have to buy a more expensive property, thus increasing your living costs. Furthermore, why move out of a home you very much enjoy into a new set up which may or may not work out?

Why should you pay commission to sell your present home, incur moving and reselling expenses, and higher housing costs, when you are comfortable as you are? Why listen to such a round-about way of countering capital gains taxes when you don't have to take the gain in the first place — in fact, would incur higher living expenses thereby?

Your home, as you describe it, is an excellent asset as is. If you can support it comfortably, there is no reason for wheeling and dealing — taxwise or otherwise.

SHULSKY welcomes written questions, but he will be able to provide answers only through the column.

For information on mutual funds, please include a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Address your requests to Sam Shulsky, care of King Features Syndicate, 235 East 45th St., New York, N.Y. 10017.

GOP Candidates Steal March On Foes

By the Associated Press
Top Democratic candidates for Texas governor carried on their elective jobs Wednesday but Republican candidates were on the campaign trail hot and heavy.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe and members of the Texas Deep Water Port Authority discussed with Washington officials "the most expeditious way" to build an off-shore docking facility for supertankers.

Attorney General John Hill appeared in the Texas Supreme Court opposing the appeal of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. for an order immediately increasing rates by $240 million.

Ray Hutchison, former state Republican chairman and GOP candidate for governor, told an Austin news conference that his opponent, Bill Clements, is trying "to salvage a sinking campaign by claiming that the AFL-CIO has adopted his position on energy production."

"When you get right down to it," Hutchison said, "the AFL-CIO energy plan is nothing more than a blueprint for the nationalization of the oil and gas industry. I can't believe that a Republican supports the nationalization of the oil and gas industry."

Clements claimed in Houston that he has better than a two-to-one lead over Hutchison.

Rep. Bob Krueger, D-Texas, announced in El Paso Wednesday that he has introduced a bill that would provide an additional $27.6 million in federal impact aid to Texas school districts with large numbers of students born in Mexico. The bill would provide $1,000 per Mexican-born student on a one-time basis for construction of facilities or purchase of new materials.

Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown, Democrat, seeking re-election, said he would support the farm legislation proposed by the joint congressional conference committee. He emphasized the plan was an emergency one-year proposal and immediate steps needed to be taken to begin work on long-range legislation.

Rep. Joe Hubenak, D-Rosenberg, also a Democratic candidate for agriculture commissioner, also supported the House-Senate conference committee report.

Railroad Commissioner John Poerner, Democrat, seeking re-election, told an Austin news conference of his private chat Tuesday with Secretary of Energy James Schlesinger. He said he suggested to the secretary that "this nation must be as fair to its own citizens as it is to the foreign countries supplying energy."

Gas Firm Gets Small Hike In Childress

A-J Correspondent
CHILDRESS — After nearly two years of protests by city officials concerning proposed gas rate increases here, a ruling by the Railroad Commission has been announced.

City Manager David Galligan says the long conflict over a proposed rate hike by the Lone Star Gas Company ended when the commission made its ruling this week. He termed it a victory for the city.

Galligan said the commission allowed Lone Star only a two-tenths of one cent per 1,000 cubic feet increase, far less than the utility requested.

According to City Attorney John Forbis, who represented Childress at Austin hearings regarding the increase, Lone Star will be permitted to increase rates in Childress from $1.857 per thousand cubic feet to $1.859. The company had asked city officials for an increase to $1.97 per thousand two years ago but the city turned down the request.

Lone Star then appealed the case to the Railroad Commission last September.

The city attorney explained that the total proposed increase from Childress customers would have amounted to $33,224 per year, but that the final figure approved is just $3,794 annually.

Court Denies Embezzlement Tax Deduction

WASHINGTON (AP) — Embezzling money can't be considered an ordinary part of your employment or business, according to the U.S. Tax Court.
 And as a result, Russell L. Mannette of Skokie, Ill., not only has to pay taxes on the money the court says he embezzled, he can't take a deduction for paying it back.
 The court record says Mannette embezzled $248,575.10 from Skokie Trust and Savings Bank in 1969, 1970 and 1971. He did not report this on his income taxes, and the Internal Revenue Service has since sought to collect back taxes and penalties of more than $150,000, the court said.
 In 1972 Mannette repaid $200,650.21 to the bank, the court said, and subsequently sought to deduct this payment from his taxes as an operating loss for that year.
 Under the law business losses from one year can be carried back and deducted from profits made in the past.
 So Mannette wanted the loss from repaying the embezzled money to be used to help reduce the taxes he owed on that money, the court said.
 While Mannette admitted that embezzling isn't a business in itself, he contended that he used the money as working capital to buy and sell securities and he felt this qualified as a business.
 But the tax court denied his contention, holding that embezzling is not a proper activity for a legitimate securities trader.
 Allowing this deduction would be "against common sense," said the court.
 Mannette also contended that his repayment should be deductible as a theft, since it was "connected with" a theft.

Lubbockite's Rape Conviction Upheld

AUSTIN (UPI) — The Court of Criminal Appeals Wednesday upheld aggravated rape convictions and prison sentences given men from Belton and Lubbock in separate aggravated rape cases.
 The court rejected the bids for new trials by Johnny Ray Seaton of Belton, sentenced to 99 years in prison for the rape of his 9-year-old stepdaughter, and of Guadalupe Garcia, sentenced to 25 years for the rape of a 17-year-old high school student.
 Seaton argued in his appeal he should not have been convicted of aggravated rape because he said there was not enough evidence to show he used threats of death or serious bodily harm to force his stepdaughter to submit.
 Records show Seaton picked the girl up at their home, drove her to a lake near Belton and beat and raped her. A doctor who examined the girl two days later said she had bruises on her face and head, two black eyes and other bruises on her body.
 Seaton also objected to comments by prosecutors during his trial, but the appellate court rejected each point in his appeal and ruled he must serve the 99-year sentence.
 Garcia was convicted of abducting a high school girl from the school parking lot, driving her to a park north of the school, forcing her at gunpoint to undress herself and him and then raping her.
 The girl said Garcia told her "if I said anything to the police or to anyone that I could be sure not to ever rest again, I'd always have to be looking behind my shoulder because he would be there."

 Garcia said in his appeal the girl first failed to identify him from a police lineup, but later in the company of a police detective said she could identify Garcia but had not done so because she had been frightened.
 He also sought a new trial because three jurors in the case were seen reading a Lubbock newspaper which contained a story about the trial. But the appellate court said the news article contained no information not produced in the presence of the jurors, and had not affected the outcome of Garcia's trial.
 In another case Wednesday, the Criminal Appeals Court refused to reconsider an earlier decision dismissing prostitution charges against Edward Darrell Chance of Houston because the indictment against him failed to specify he knowingly engaged in promotion of prostitution.

Unusual Happens At Rodeos, Miss Miller Says

By FRANK COATS
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Jody Miller says that life isn't always easy and things don't always go smoothly when working in a rodeo.

The country songstress will be performing in the A.B.C. Rodeo, held in the Memorial Coliseum through Saturday night.

The pretty Grammy Award winner was singing in a rodeo one night, when suddenly she looked up and noticed she had company.

The bull rider had inadvertently left the chute open, and 10 white Brahma bulls came out in the arena for an unscheduled bit of excitement.

"I was scared to death," the dark-haired singer said.

But all went well, and no damage was done.

Miss Miller is making her third appearance in Lubbock. The first time she performed here was in 1971 at the Texas Tech Rodeo, and in 1973 she brought her music to the Panhandle South Plains Fair.

She'll be bringing her four-piece band to the stage at the rodeo to perform her Grammy award winning "Queen of the House," as well as her other hits such as the classic "House of the Rising Sun."

Miss Miller plays fiddle and guitar in the band. She learned to play the fiddle after hearing John Denver's song, "Thank God I'm a Country Boy."

"I liked what he did on that tune and decided I wanted to open with it," she said. "But I had to learn to play a fiddle first."

She's been playing the guitar since she was about 12 years old. "Just something I've always done," she said.

Though she's always been on stage singing when she's played rodeos, she says it has occurred to her to be rodeo rider.

"I've thought about it," she said. "I think it would be fun."

When she's not a performer, Jody Miller is Mrs. Monty Brooks, "Queen of the ranch" of an Oklahoma horse farm. She and her daughter and husband raise race horses, and race them at Ruidoso Downs.

She performs in many rodeos now, and knows all the ropes, but when she first started she was rather naive.

The rodeo managers asked her what she was going to wear onstage, and she said she "was going to wear something flimsy like this," she said as she gestured down to a loose-fitting dress.

Firemen Get Pay Hike

LAMESA (Special) — The fire department and city council here apparently settled their differences early Wednesday morning, several hours after the city's 10 firemen had submitted their resignations over a pay raise dispute.

The firemen reached a compromise with the council about 1 a.m. Wednesday by accepting a pay raise from $760 to $850 per month.

Thompson said his department would not accept a plan discussed in the past by the council which would combine the fire and police departments, and might mean a loss of jobs for some.

"If we had wanted to be policemen, we would have applied at the police department," the fire chief said.

At the last three city council meetings, firefighters had been denied their request for the same pay Lamesa policemen get, $881 per month. The firemen's new pay was set retroactively from April 1, City Manager C.A. Taylor said.

The city council went into special session about 7 p.m. Tuesday after the entire fire department turned in their resignations about 3 p.m. Fire Chief Lee Thompson and veteran firefighter Loy Phillips had submitted their retirement papers about noon that day.

Thompson said that after the council had proposed the $90 per month raise, he told Mayor Lloyd Cline he would take the figures to his men, and "if they accept it we'll stay, and if they don't, we'll go."

"I told them (firemen) it was a good offer," the chief said. The decision to accept the raise was unanimous, he said. Thompson said there were two reasons the force decided to stay together: "We all like our jobs, and we feel we are doing a public service to Lamesa and Dawson County."

The council's action also resulted in Thompson's monthly salary moving from $934 to $1,250. The five-man council promoted with raises Asst. Fire Marshal Royce Dyess to fire inspector and investigator; Training Officer Ervin Shipley to assistant fire marshal; and fireman Cecil LeVay to training officer.

Triplet Boys Born Here To Area Couple

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Best of Coahoma are now facing the joys and problems of all new parents — multiplied by three.

The South Plains residents became the parents of triplet sons early Tuesday morning when Mrs. Best gave birth to the trio at the new Health Sciences Center Hospital.

The boys, one weighing 4 pounds 6 1/2 ounces at 1:17 a.m., one weighing 4 pounds 6 1/2 ounces at 1:18 a.m., and one weighing 3 pounds 7 ounces at 1:19 a.m., were not unexpected, however. Mrs. Best's physician had told the Coahoma couple approximately three weeks ago that they were expecting triplets.

The triplet sons are the couple's first children. Mrs. Best said they thought perhaps they might have twins all along, because there is a history of twins in her mother's family.

She added that her husband seemed to have adjusted rather well to the fact they were expecting triplets after the obstetrician had informed them of the possibility. Mrs. Best said they had hoped to have both boys and girls in the triplet set, but that they were satisfied with all boys.

She added that the main thing now is the fact that the boys are here and are healthy babies.

The Coahoma resident said both maternal and paternal grandmothers, as well as several aunts, live close to the couple so she would have help later on after the babies come home from the hospital.

Congratulations

Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Thompson of 4322 4th St. on the birth of a son weighing 8 pounds 15 ounces at 9:40 a.m. Wednesday at University Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Hawk of 3511 Bangor Dr. on the birth of a son weighing 8 pounds 2 ounces at 3:34 a.m. March 19 at University Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Jaye Terry of Rt. 1, Box 283, on the birth of a son weighing 7 pounds 14 ounces at 12:24 p.m. Tuesday in Lubbock Osteopathic Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Best of Coahoma on birth of triplets, a son weighing 4 pounds 6 1/2 ounces at 1:17 a.m., a son weighing 4 pounds 6 1/2 ounces at 1:18 a.m., and a son weighing 3 pounds 7 ounces at 1:19 a.m. Tuesday in Health Sciences Center Hospital.

Mugger's Victim Recalls Terrifying Encounter

EDITOR'S NOTE: The FBI keeps no statistics under the category "mugging," but estimates are that thousands of persons fall victim yearly to muggers. One recent victim was Betsy Kennedy, an Associated Press staff member. Here is her story.

By BETSY KENEDY
NEW YORK (AP)—My mind is thousands of miles from this wet, cold Sunday when a sudden jolt reminds me where I am—headed down the stairs to my subway stop, off to spend an afternoon with friends.

What shakes me back to frightening reality is a young man bumping into me, no, running into me.

It hurts. I glance up to exchange apologies only to realize he isn't backing off.

Instead he grabs me close, putting his hand over my mouth. "Shh, Shh," he whispers. He's nervous. I'm terrified.

Immediately, I think the inevitable worst: rape.

Pure terror as I look up at this stranger. Oh, God! What happens now?

It couldn't have been more than an instant, but my mind races. This is it, the one I've heard about, it seems, all of my 29 years. And it's not the other guy. It's me, the victim of crime.

But now? On this quiet midday?

The Lexington Avenue subway stop at 96th Street is in a deteriorating area, 10 blocks south of Harlem. But just a block west, near my place, are exclusive Park Avenue apartments. This can't happen here. I naively tell myself.

Jumbled thoughts: How can I escape? Steps above me, steps below me. The change booth still far away. And where are all the people? Deathly quiet.

The stage is set. It's him and me on this puddled landing, dirt-stained walls for background. He doesn't seem tough enough somehow. His face is young. Dressed in an eskimo parka and newly pressed pants, he is not my idea of the typical rapist or robber. But then, how would I know?

Suddenly, I'm free. He's let go, or I've broken away. He faces me, holding my shoulder bag in one hand.

"First instincts: 'Go, run, get away, the hell with the purse.'"

So why aren't you running? What's going on? You're no hero.

"Wait," I shout, somehow, as he backs off. "Shh, Shh," he cautions again, now at a much safer distance, backing up the steps into the rain.

Now the thought of losing everything—driver's license, credit cards, checkbook and (worst of all) telephone book—keeps me talking. As long as he doesn't pull a knife or gun and stays over there, I'm safe.

And I'm right. He's not very good at this or he would have beat it ages ago. But there he stands, hesitating.

By now, he's removed the wallet and thrown the purse back at me. I catch it without thinking. Now I begin to follow him.

"Hey, man, at least leave me the credit cards," says this voice coming out of me. "You can have the money." No time to be afraid, just pure impulse.

"There ... open it ... just in there ... but please, leave me the credit cards."

And he does. Slowly, or seemingly slowly, he opens the wallet, takes out the $15, lobs the wallet in my direction, turns and finally runs away.

I turn too and continue into the subway, still acting on impulse. Now come tears, uncontrollable, as I realize what could have happened.

I get to the token booth. "I just got robbed and don't have any money to buy a token," is about all I can manage to the transit worker. My voice is flat, all expression frightened from it.

An old lady standing beside me offers, with her accent, "Here, I give you 50 cents." I mumble thank you, drop one of the quarters, then a glove, pick them both up, get on the subway and go 30 blocks downtown to meet my friends.

Later, the overwhelming sense of fear and helplessness will be replaced by a feeling that this was all absurd. I didn't even call the police.

No Lech Limerick Wins First Prize

NORWICH, Conn. (AP)—It wasn't lecherous enough to suit the judge's taste, but a poem about a bird and illegitimacy has won the $50 first prize in a national limerick contest.

It goes like this:

The bustard's an exquisite fowl,
 With minimal reason to growl:
 He escapes what would be Illegitimacy
 By grace of a fortunate vowel.

"The idea is very clever and made me laugh, and the one-word fourth line is delightful," said the judge, famed science fiction writer Isaac Asimov.

The winning entry came from George D. Vaill, a retired associate secretary at Yale. His was among the 12,000 limericks that were mailed to Mohegan Community College, sponsor of the contest.

In a letter to college president Robert N. Rue, Asimov said that the winning limerick "was, alas, not very lecherous, but we can't insist on lechery as a criteria."

Asimov was also disappointed that the winner, and the five limericks chosen for honorable mention, all came from men. "My thesis concerning limericks and women holds true," he added. "They tend to be dirtier but less clever than men."

Asimov is a confessed limerick enthusiast who agreed to judge the contest for free.

Rue said the entries touched upon a variety of topics, many of them more than slightly obscene—as limericks always have tended to be. They came from almost every state and some foreign countries. Doctors, lawyers, sailors, writers and even several nuns contributed, he said.

He had expected only a few thousand limericks, he said. Rather than send all the entries to Asimov, he and several faculty members and friends selected the 86 they thought were best and forwarded them to the judge in New York.

Dust-Tight Cases

Preserve Artworks

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP)—Housekeepers at The University of Kansas' new $5-million Helen Foresman Spencer Museum of Art are finding dust hard to find.

The museum's older artworks are enclosed in special dusttight display cases made of "water white" glass, a non-tinted material, which contain filtered lighting so that the ultraviolet rays won't fade the rare objects displayed inside.

Americans Leery Of Nuclear-Powered Satellites

By LOUIS HARRIS
By 59-25 percent, a clear majority of Americans would favor an agreement between the United States and the Soviet Union "outlawing the use of all nuclear-powered satellites in space."

The recent episode when a Russian nuclear satellite fell from the sky and exploded in western Canada worried 73 percent of the American people. Public reaction was a combination of fear about the potential dangers of nuclear satellites falling in heavily populated areas and surprise in not knowing that such satellites are orbiting in space.

According to a recent Harris Survey of 1,510 adults nationwide, public concern about the incident was great:

—By 82-7 percent, an overwhelming majority worried that "if the Russian satellite had fallen in the middle of a deeply populated place instead of the northwest woods of Canada, it could have caused people to be burned from radiation."

—By 77-12 percent, a majority also is concerned that "countries can have nuclear-powered satellites in space that could be crashed deliberately into population centers, causing nuclear destruction." The weapons potential of such satellites did not escape the imagination of Americans.

—By 60-26 percent, people thought that "it was shocking that both the Soviet Union and the United States have nuclear-powered satellites in space and kept it a secret from the world." While most Americans favor more cooperation between the United States and Russia in general, they are obviously perturbed by this kind of secret shared knowledge.

However, public reaction to the satellite incident was not all negative. Majorities could see some logic in the satellites being in space:

—An 82-6 percent majority was relieved to discover that "the United States and the Soviet Union are able to cooperate fully on knowing what nuclear satellites are in space and where they are."

—By 62-22 percent, the public can even see some justification for continuing such satellite programs, feeling that "as long as countries such as the Soviet Union and the United States have nuclear weapons, nuclear-powered satellites ought to be allowed, making sure that all safety precautions are followed."

—By 54-16 percent, a majority also can see merit in the argument that "it is important to use the most efficient fuel possible on satellites, and nuclear power is probably the cheapest source of power for this purpose."

However, when people weigh the positives and negatives about nuclear-powered satellites, a 54-27 percent majority concludes that "with the Soviet Union having 16 nuclear satellites still in space and the United States having three, both countries ought to bring them back safely to earth as soon as possible."

And when asked about an agreement "between the United States and Soviet Union outlawing the use of all nuclear-powered satellites in space," a clear-cut 59-25 percent majority opts for such a ban.

It is evident that the basic worry about nuclear-powered satellites going out of control in space simply overwhelms whatever justification scientists and space experts might have for continuing to send them up.

City Records Quiet Crime Month

By PAT CARLSON
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Lubbock recorded one of its quietest months crimewise during March, but despite the apparent Easter-season lull, rape and assault showed increases.

There were only two homicides during the month — a mark already equalled during the first four days of April. Police cleared three such incidents, one of them a February murder.

Sixteen robberies were investigated — an improvement over February's 27. A total of eight heists was cleared each month. Again, firearms were the most commonly used weapon in hold-ups, being used in half the March incidents.

The city recorded 12 forcible rapes last month compared with six during February. Half of last month's reports, however, represented attempts. Police cleared five such incidents during the month.

There were 88 reported assaults in Lubbock last month, compared with 61 during February. A significant increase was shown in the number of reported attackers using firearms or knives. Almost half the assailants in March incidents reportedly used such weapons. The number of assaults cleared during the two months was 70 and 53, respectively.

The number of reported burglaries was down and the clearance rate was up last month. Police recorded 283 break-ins and cleared 65 during March, compared with only 35 of 313 cleared the previous month.

The most dramatic increase was represented by theft. Of 747 reported incidents, police cleared 190. During February, 532 reports were made and 121, cleared.

Lubbock's 56 reported vehicle thefts still amounted to a $172,250 loss for residents. Thirteen vehicles were recovered. During February, 19 of 81 reportedly stolen vehicles were recovered.

A total $470,189 worth of property was reported stolen in the city during March. As usual, other than vehicles, television sets, stereos and radios were the most tempting targets for burglars and thieves. Of the $92,304 worth of such goods stolen last month, only $5,936 was recovered. Of $9,705 worth of firearms reportedly hauled off, only $372 was recovered.

Lubbockites and visitors lost a total $195,946 to thieves during March and $121,582 to burglars. A large increase was recorded in losses of motor vehicle parts and accessories — $44,389 worth during the month. In February, reportedly only $18,954 worth of such property reportedly was stolen. The number of such reported thefts increased during the two months from 94 to 194. Hubcaps were the most often targeted items.

Reported criminal mischief incidents also rose during March with 288 alleged crimes accounting for $48,498 worth of damage. During February, $37,833 worth of damage reportedly was done during 226 incidents.

Raza Unida Candidate Raps Plan

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The La Raza Unida Party candidate for U.S. Senate, Luis Diaz deLeon, Wednesday criticized the Lubbock school desegregation plan as unfair to minority children.

DeLeon, an Austin educational consultant, said he didn't like the plan because more minority children than Anglo children must be bused.

At a Wednesday morning press conference, the 52-year-old Laredo native said he feels he has a good chance of winning the Senate seat now occupied by John Tower.

DeLeon said he hopes Henry Grover of Houston does get on the ballot as an independent, and that U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger is the Democratic Party candidate for the job.

With that cast of characters, deLeon said he would be the only candidate "who doesn't represent big interests like big oil companies and big agri-businesses." Instead, deLeon said, he would be the only candidate in the race representing the consumer.

DeLeon said he decided to run for the Senate after paying a visit to Crystal City in South Texas.

"I was astonished at the conditions which existed," he said. "Fifty percent of the families were still without gas and burning wood."

LoVaca Gathering Company shut the gas off to the town in a price dispute over the gas with city fathers.

"Neither the Railroad Commission or the company are interested in what happened in Crystal City since the gas was turned off," deLeon charged.

Since that time the Railroad Commission has ordered LoVaca to repay consumers $1.6 million, deLeon said. "The Railroad Commission should have amended its order and told LoVaca to turn the gas on" to Crystal City, he said.

DeLeon said the most important issues are economic stability, quality education, environmental protection and energy conservation.

He said he is "not running as a member of an ethnic group, but is trying to represent all of the people."

DeLeon said he favors changing the party name from La Raza Unida, which means one race united, to the plural Razas Unidas to encompass other races.

He said he considers himself "an agent of change within the party."

DeLeon said he regards the jailing of former La Raza gubernatorial candidate Ramsey Muniz as politically motivated and said he didn't think Muniz' arrest and conviction on drug-related charges will hurt deLeon's chances of being elected.

Judge To Set Date On Trull Money Claims

TYLER (AP) — Now that Don Trull no longer carries the monicker "accused kidnapper" in front of his name, he says he wants the $10,000 he got from Tyler millionaire Billy Pyron during an alleged abduction last August.

Trull, 40, was found innocent Tuesday night of holding Pyron's employee, Bill May, for ransom in a Tyler bank building after dousing the office with gasoline and threatening to light it.

During the four-hour standoff with police, Trull had several telephone conversations with Pyron and police. He demanded and got $10,000, a promissory note for $750,000 and a silver Cadillac.

Trull surrendered to authorities shortly after getting the money and the note. Everything was turned over to the court as evidence.

The Mississippi promoter claims the note and cash were partial payment after being bilked out of $1.5 million in a series of complex land and property deals by Pyron and paroled swindler Billie Sol Estes. He said he never intended to harm May.

Both men testified at Trull's trial last week, as did about 25 others. Many of the witnesses have claimed previously they too were cheated in Estes-promoted schemes.

Trial Judge Glenn Phillips said he will conduct a hearing at an unspecified date to determine who should get the cash and the note. Pyron, like Trull, has laid claim to the evidence.

During the trial, suggestions were made that Pyron and Estes may have committed perjury. However, Smith County District Attorney A.D. Clark III said Wednesday he has no plans to pursue those allegations.

The Lubbock Board of Realtors met Wednesday at South Park Inn, with representatives of the real estate boards from Plainview, Brownfield and Lamesa, to hear an address by Wallace A. Moritz, president of the 44,000-member Texas Association of Realtors.

Moritz told the realtors that forecasts indicate 1978 will be "an outstanding year for those of us who are engaged in real estate."

The association president said, "As you know, 1977 was a banner year, and according to the predictions of the experts, 1978 is going to surpass last year."

The Lubbock board is headed this year by W. F. "Brownie" Brownlee, who chaired Wednesday's program.

Don Osborne, Lubbock realtor and vice president of TAR, introduced Moritz to the assembly.

Other industry officials attending the program included Bill Watkins of Lamesa, Cary Eaves of Plainview and William Noble of Brownfield; all are president of the realtors boards in those cities.

Erv Luedtke of Austin, executive vice president of TAR, briefed the members on the annual state convention, scheduled June 13-17 in Houston.

Moritz said realtors operating in Texas have an advantage since many people now living in the North and East are moving or planning to move to the "Sun Belt."

"This is the first year since 1973 that there will be more than 2 million new housing starts in the United States," he said.

"During the first 11 months of 1977, new housing starts alone were responsible for plowing $57.2 billion into the economic stream of this country," he added, "and this makes our business the third largest business in the U.S."

In spite of the size of the industry, 80 percent of the real estate offices in the nation have four or fewer people engaged in the sale of real estate, according to Moritz.

The association spokesman urged Region 1 members to become involved in the political process.

"This year is going to be important to us — we are going to choose those individuals who are going to represent us in county, state and federal government for the next two, four and six years."

He said, "It behooves us as interested American citizens who have had a great big taste of government intervention that if we want to preserve our government as we know it today, and as we would like our children and grandchildren to know it, it is time we became involved in choosing those people who represent us in the county, state and national governments."

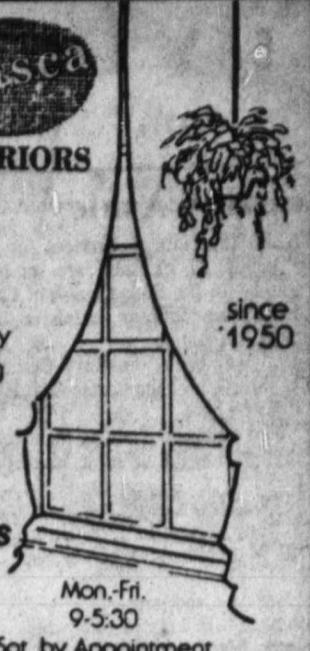

The TAR Political Action Committee will collect and distribute in excess of $300,000 during 1978, according to Moritz.

L.A. Police Sport Red Faces Brought By 'Strangler' Case

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The first body was found Sept. 9. In all, 13 young women have been killed. And the vaunted Los Angeles police department is embarrassed because it has been unable to solve the case of the Hillside Strangler.

The red faces come partly because police have announced several breakthroughs only to have them quickly close up, and partly because Los Angeles police have been featured in fictional television dramas for years as models of efficiency and success.

Most recently, on Monday, a 37-year-old handyman named Peter Mark Jones, who had been arrested in the case and questioned for five days, was released and given an apology by newly appointed police chief Daryl F. Gates.

A boyhood friend, George Shamshak, had implicated the man, and investigators said Shamshak knew things about the case that only detectives and the killer or killers would know.

Shamshak, who had been convicted of armed robbery in Massachusetts and had been brought to California to talk to investigators, remained in federal custody Wednesday. Police spokesman Lt. Dan Cooke said the investigators would be talking to him again.

Meanwhile a 93-member police task force is at work — Gates had headed it before becoming chief recently — but Cooke pointed out that this case is not one that can be solved in short order.

"We have so little in the way of physical evidence," he said.

"The usual homicide is committed in someone's home by known members of the victim's family or friends." He said the victims had been strangled, meaning no murder weapon: left nude, with no clothing to be sent to the lab, and dumped at various locations, with no witnesses.

"We have not figured out the common denominator," he added. The victims have ranged from prostitutes to school girls to the most recent victim last month, a teacher at a bible school.

"At least in the Jack the Ripper case," said Cooke, "you had a common denominator — all the victims were prostitutes. It wasn't much, but it was something."

In a way, such laudatory television dramas as "Dragnet" and "Police Story," which are set in Los Angeles, have only added to the embarrassment.

"I think the public is given a false sense of what police operations are really like" through television drama, said Cooke. He added that television offers the public a false impression of most jobs.

Still, he said, "I think we have a reputation to live up to. Jack Webb (creator of "Dragnet") told me once a number of years ago that he could never have done a Dragnet on many departments in the country."

"Pride," said Los Angeles County Sheriff's Lt. John Brady, "is something the men have in themselves. Television has picked up on this. It wasn't the other way around."

But the backfiring leads in the Hillside Strangler case have done no good at all to the department's reputation. In addition to Jones' arrest, release and the apology to him, they include:

—In February, police arrested a television actor who confessed to the killings. He was released after police explained that he apparently was under the influence of drugs and had nothing whatsoever to do with the case.

—Three months ago, police called a news conference at which two composite drawings of suspects were to be released. But the conference was called off minutes before it was to start when two undercover detectives discovered the drawings depicted them.

Cooke talks good-naturedly about that one: "We discovered the situation ourselves. After all, it does point up the efficiency of our artist that the men would be able to recognize themselves."

Cooke says 9,800 separate leads still need to be checked out.

"It's particularly frustrating," said Cooke, "when you have some really good hot leads that don't pan out."

OIL SPILL SENSOR

WHITING, Ind. (UPI) — An oil company here has installed the nation's first fiber optic sensor to prevent spills and improve the safety of loading operations. GOP National Chairman Makes Candid Bid For Labor Support WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republican national chairman made a big pitch Wednesday for the support of traditionally Democratic organized labor and conceded that his party had not recognized the problems of working people in the past.

"Both parties haven't recovered from the trauma of the crash of 1929" when the Democrats were cast as the party believing government could answer all problems while Republicans believed in private enterprise, said William Brock. "Government is not the answer to all the problems but neither is private enterprise," Brock said in an appearance before a legislative-political conference of the Communications Workers of America.

He said Democrats at least were perceived as the party concerned with the problems of working people, who when given the choice, will "choose the guy who at least recognizes their problems. "I pray our party will recognize the problem and try to deal with it...to let working people choose between two good answers."

Brock also charged that perhaps 30 percent of U.S. elected officials from both parties "ought not be there." He called them "mugwumps" who have no principles and are "only concerned about getting re-elected."

He said those people were attracted to politics because it gave them better jobs than they could get anywhere else.

Brock's appearance was the first by a chairman of the Republican National Committee before a national union meeting in recent memory. Brock said later that he had made overtures to a number of other large unions and was encouraging Republicans to woo big labor's support.

He received a polite reception but was the target of several pointed questions. One delegate from Cincinnati criticized the Republicans for a lack of support of pro-labor issues. "If the party wants us to get interested in it, it has to get interested in us," the delegate said.

Brock acknowledged there was a "divorce between organized labor" and Republican office holders. He said many Republicans do not consider it worthwhile to open up any communication with labor unions but "I'm encouraging them to make that first step. We can at least become sensitized."

He added: "Our guys will kick you, so you don't get involved and we don't know your issues. Where do we break the chain?"

Muriel Views New Term

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Sen. Muriel Humphrey, appointed to her late husband's seat through 1978, will announce Saturday whether she will run in a November election for the remaining four years of his term, spokeswoman Betty South said Tuesday.

Mrs. Humphrey is to speak to the annual Democratic-Farmer-Labor Party's dinner that night. That dinner has been dedicated to the late Sen. Hubert Humphrey.

Mrs. Humphrey was sworn in as a senator on Jan. 25, 12 days after her husband died of cancer. State law requires that a special election be held in November to decide who will fill the term.

Governor Pays Taxes Late

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. (AP) — Sh-h-h-h. Gov. William Milliken is a tardy taxpayer.

Milliken's hometown newspaper, the Traverse City Record-Eagle, reported that the governor was six months late in paying his taxes last year, seven weeks late in 1976 and seven weeks late this year.

"There are thousands of taxpayers who don't pay on time," says Grand County Treasurer Dean Sheets. "The governor is a businessman," said Sheets. "If he wants to wait until after March 1 and pay, that's OK with me."

The governor's tax bill on his Old Mission Peninsula home — valued at $165,000 in 1974 — was $2,835. He paid a $123.89 late payment penalty last year and $34.36 in 1976.

Sheets said he did not know and did not care why Milliken was late, but Robert Berg, an aide to the governor, said: "(It) was one of those things he didn't pay that much attention to..."

Bonds Found In Antique

NORFOLK, Neb. (AP) — Karen Martin almost got more than she bargained for when she purchased an antique buffet for $80 at last week's Norfolk auction house sale.

When auction operator Arnold Bretschneider checked the drawers after the sale, he found $14,500 in U.S. savings bonds beneath one of them.

The bonds were turned over to a Clear Lake, Iowa, man, executor for the estate which had consigned the buffet for the sale.

Visit To Schlesinger Encourages Rail Chief

AUSTIN (AP) — Railroad Commissioner John Poerner said Wednesday federal Energy Secretary James Schlesinger feels a national energy policy must include economic incentives, which is a change in attitude.

POERNER

Poerner, a candidate in the May 6 Democratic primary, reported at a news conference on his 50-minute visit with Schlesinger at the White House on Tuesday. "National legislation must be conducive to new production at the lowest possible level," Poerner said. "Most importantly," he said, "I suggested to the secretary that this nation must be as fair to its own citizens as it is to the foreign countries supplying energy. By doing so, we would eliminate much of our problem in the balance of trade and the alarming concern for a further decline of the American dollar, and existing jobs would be protected and new ones created."

Asked how Schlesinger responded, Poerner said, "I was pleased with his response. He listened, and he felt that federal legislation must include some incentives, which is a change."

He said Schlesinger was aware of the declining value of the dollar, and "one way to change at least a portion of it" would be to increase oil and gas production.

Murders, At-Large Killers Worry Three Towns

By The Associated Press

A Southern military town, a suburb of Detroit, and an industrial city in the heart of the wheat belt share a melancholy frustration these days. In each, a repeat killer is at large.

In Columbus, Ga., police on Wednesday charged a Fort Benning soldier, Spec. 4 William Henry Hance, 26, with murder and extortion in the killing of a black woman. But still unsolved were the strangulations of six white women, which a letter writer has said prompted the black woman's execution.

In Birmingham, Mich., police are saying they may soon close out their efforts to find the person who murdered four children in Oakland County between February 1976 and March 1977.

In Wichita, Kan., a killer calling himself the "BTK Strangler" — for Bind, Torture and Kill — has strangled seven people over the past four years. For a time this week, police thought he may have struck again — but on Wednesday they decided a recent binding and rape was instead linked to another two unsolved crimes — a rape and a rape attempt.

In Columbus, over the past seven months, six elderly white women have been strangled, some of them after being sexually molested. All the slayings have occurred in the Wynnton Road section of town.

Handwritten letters began arriving early last month at police headquarters and at the Columbus Ledger. Somebody calling himself "chairman of the Forces of Evil" threatened in one letter to kill "a black woman every 30 days" until police caught the strangler.

In the letter to the newspaper, the "chairman" also said the body of a Gail Jackson would be found Saturday at Fort Benning, and he vowed to execute a black woman identified as "Irene" on June 1.

Last Thursday, anonymous telephone tips led authorities to the body of Brenda Gail Faison, 21, also known as Gail Jackson, near the base. On Monday, they found the body of Irene Thirkield, 32, on the base.

Both women were black, had lived in Columbus, had been beaten about the head, and had been dead more than two weeks when found.

Police chief Curtis McClung said Wednesday that Hance had been charged with murder and extortion in the Faison killing, and was being held at the base. But the stranglings remained unsolved.

In the Michigan cases, State Police Lt.

Robert Robertson, the top investigator, said his task force probably would close shop by the end of the year with the slayings of four youngsters unsolved.

Four children from Oakland County north of Detroit were abducted and slain between February 1976 and March 1977 and authorities believe the same person is responsible for all four killings.

But, Robertson said, "We all understand it's a difficult case. The day we break camp here is the day we say we've got nothing more to go on and no more leads to check."

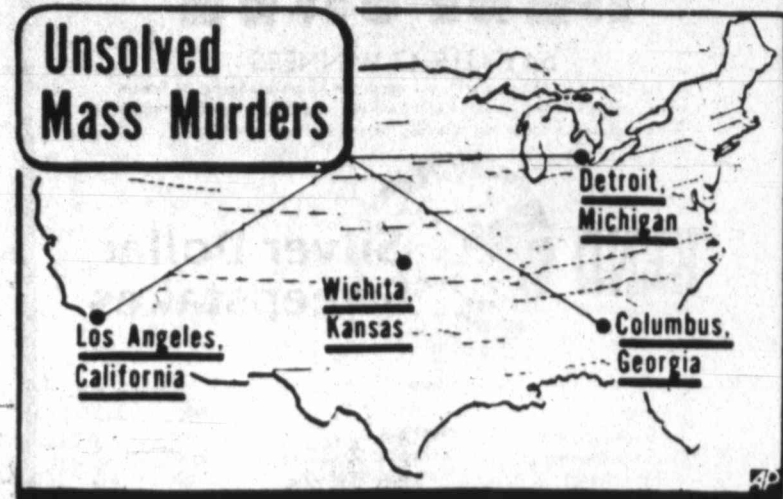

The task force of five state troopers, 17 local law officers and five clerks was created after Kristine Mihelich was found murdered in Franklin Village Jan. 21, 1977. Two months later, the body of Timothy King was found in Livonia. He was last seen talking to a man in a car in a parking lot in Birmingham. Police believe the same man also killed Jill Robinson and Mark Stebbins in earlier slayings.

Police say a man matching the description tried to pick up "about a half dozen" boys and girls in the area this winter, but Robertson refused to speculate whether it was the killer.

Meanwhile, in Wichita, police said the killing of Marian O'Leary, 65, at her home bore some resemblance to the BTK stranglings — but apparently was not linked to them.

The body was found with hands bound and clothing tied around the neck. A piece of cloth in the throat had asphyxiated the woman.

But there were differences with the BTK killings. The killer has written letters claiming responsibility for murdering seven people in the past four years, and no such letter has arrived in the latest strangling. Police Lt. Bill Cornwell also pointed out that the phone lines were not cut this time, and the victim was an older woman.

Weather Takes On Feel Of Spring

After two record-breaking cold months and a nothing-out-of-the-ordinary March, spring may finally have arrived on the South Plains.

National Weather Service long-range forecasts for the month of April indicate the month may be something like a sunbather's delight — warm, not too wet, only slightly dusty and fairly consistent.

Tendencies for shower activity increase during the month, but NWS forecasters said rainfall over the area this month should be only near normal, or about one to two inches with the larger amounts restricted to southeastern counties.

Lubbock's average precipitation for the month is 1.25 inches, considerably greater than the .23 of an inch received during March. That figure still left the area with a yearly total of 2.21, about .27 of an inch above par for the year.

Most precipitation this month should come from cold fronts moving through the region, the forecasters said, but those frontal systems should lose their cooling effects and their frequency about mid-month. Two or curtailed from the same month's totals of prior years. During the past month, only 22 hours in four days were marred by gusty puffs of dust, and forecasters said only on two of those days did the dust become a problem enough to reach duststorm intensity.

The rest of the month, or 293.2 hours of a possible 371.4 hours, was fairly warm and sunny. Forecasters said average temperatures across the South Plains were about 50.3 degrees, or one-half degree above normal, ranging from 1.7 degrees above normal at Abernathy and Littlefield to 1.2 degrees above normal at Floydada.

Maximum temperatures averaged 1.8 degrees above normal at about 67.4 degrees, while minimum temperatures averaged 33.1 degrees, about one-half degree below normal.

This month, forecasters said, temperatures should average only a little above normal, with maximum readings in the 70s and minimums near 40 degrees.

Those warmer readings already have had some effect on area citizens. Forecasters said soil temperatures have warmed rapidly this spring and are averaging about six degrees above normal. Though spotty precipitation may curb that tendency, they said, indications "now point to the potential for earlier than normal planting dates."

To go along, forecasters said the date of the region's last freeze should be earlier than usual across the region. Lubbock's average date for the last freeze of winter's weather is April 10.

During March, precipitation averaged about one-half inch below normal, ranging from 1.14 inches below normal at Jayton to .08 of an inch below at Friona. Snow during the first week of the month, the forecasters said, accounted for most of the month's precipitation.

Friona reported the most snowfall during the month with three inches. Measurable precipitation was reported on only four days during the month.

'Media Center' Concept Alters School Libraries

By JEFF SOUTH
Avalanche-Journal Staff

It's ironic that in commemorating National Library Week, the first thing Lubbock school librarians will tell you is that they don't work in libraries. They work in "media centers."

And they have a good point.

At Smylie Wilson Junior High, project-minded youngsters use their "library" to make filmstrips, tape recordings and even movies for class assignments — a far cry from the traditional book report or term paper.

A team of social studies students there recently videotaped a mock interview with Catherine the Great, portrayed by a classmate, as part of their research on the ambitious empress of Russia in the 1700s, said Wilson librarian Virginia Proffitt.

Other pupils, Mrs. Proffitt said, have used the Wilson library's equipment to produce such audiovisual works as a filmstrip on World War II and a movie re-enacting, with models, the destruction of the Turkish fleet during the Crimean War.

At the Monterey High School library, instead of carting home volumes and volumes of paper material on the subject, students can check out a small binder with 320 "books" on Indians of North America — all "printed" on special, space-saving film called microfiche.

In fact, said librarian Gwen Stephen, Monterey receives its subscriptions to Time, Newsweek and many other magazines and periodicals on microfiche cards, measuring 4 by 6 inches. An entire issue can be put onto a single card, she said.

At such centers, students — often using headphones — listen to a record or tape-recording of a story and read along in a book. Each center can accommodate several students.

"Our libraries are no longer places where you find only shelves and shelves of books," said Carol Bramlett, library services consultant for the Lubbock Independent School District.

"We've branched out into many other forms of materials. And I think students' attitudes toward libraries have changed. They don't go there strictly to do research. Libraries have become a place to both learn and have fun."

Besides books, Lubbock school libraries feature such media as filmstrips, films, maps, models, globes, pictures, cassettes and records — both classical and rock.

And in the case of Wilson Junior High, the library has become a place where students and teachers can make their own materials.

Mrs. Proffitt advises her Wilson students that their classroom reports "can be presented in an audiovisual format that makes learning fun and your report more effective."

This year, her library has facilities for producing photographic prints, slide shows, filmstrips, cassette tape recordings, overhead transparencies and video-tape projects.

Audiovisual materials are relatively new in Lubbock schools. In fact, said Mrs. Northcutt, it was only 12 years ago that the school system libraries in its elementary schools.

The collection of microfiche at Monterey was started about two years ago, in part with federal funds, Mrs. Bramlett

Judicial Confab Opens In Hub

Approximately 40 state district judges are expected to be in attendance today, as Lubbock hosts what is the first West Texas Judicial Conference.

The two-day session, which will include speakers from Texas' highest civil and criminal courts, is being conducted at the Holiday Inn.

Judges attending the conference are from the state's sixth, seventh and ninth administrative judicial districts, basically encompassing an area from Amarillo to El Paso and from the New Mexico line east to Wichita Falls.

Local Dist. Judge Robert C. Wright, chairman of the conference committee which planned the program, said it will be a work session for the judges, with particular emphasis on effects of new legislation.

Three judges of the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals were scheduled to speak this morning.

John Onion, presiding judge of the criminal appeals court, was to assess the impact of the speedy trial act, passed by the last legislature, on the state's judicial system.

Judge Jim Vollers of the appeals court was scheduled to speak on "Pitfalls in the Trial of Capital Felony Cases." Judge Leon Douglas of the appeals court was to discuss topics including evidence in the trial of criminal cases.

Afternoon speakers include Ben Z. Grant, chairman of the judiciary committee of the Texas House of Representatives, and Texas Supreme Court Judge Charles Barrow.

Barrow's topic is "1978 Amendments to Texas Rules of Civil Procedure."

Friday morning speakers include Beaumont court of civil appeals Judge Quentin Keith and Cullen Smith, president-elect of the state bar.

Keith's subject will be "Seldom Encountered Proceedings," while Smith will address the subject of "Judicial Immunity."

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Three months ago I hired the daughter of a good friend of mine to work as a secretary in my office. Fortunately I have two other secretaries who are very competent.

This girl can't type. She is a poor speller and knows nothing about punctuation. Her grammar is terrible and she can't handle the phone. She was late three times last week and takes long lunch hours.

The young lady's father thinks she is brilliant, and tell me repeatedly how much she loves her job. He has done me many favors and his friendship means a great deal. I don't know what to do. His daughter's presence in this office is creating problems. She is definitely not carrying her share of the load.

What shall I do? Please respond in the paper. The dummy opens all the mail. — Boxed In Dear Boxed: You are paying a girl who can't spell, can't type, knows nothing about punctuation, uses poor grammar and can't handle the phone? And you call HER a dummy.

Give the doll her walking papers — and the sooner the better. A friendship that hinges on keeping a relative in your employ isn't worth much.

Dear Ann Landers: Our 67-year-old father was told by a fine dentist several months ago that he should have his few remaining teeth extracted and wear dentures. His mouth was in terrible shape.

After much begging, pleading and cajoling we finally persuaded Pop to get his teeth extracted and dentures put in.

Instead of making the situation better, it is worse. The new teeth cost a fortune. They look unnatural and don't fit. He refuses to wear them. The dentist adjusted them three times without charge and says he simply can't do any more.

Mom won't go anywhere with Pop unless he wears his dentures. He says they kill him, so they stay home and fight. We don't know what to do. Please negotiate a peace settlement. — The War Is Escalating

Dear Es: The denturists should be sent back to the lab (by your father's dentist) and the teeth should be realigned and made to look natural. If, after this is done, the teeth still don't fit, the dentist should take another impression and start all over again. This should be done without charge. Going without teeth can be very bad for one's health. I hope you will follow through for Pop's sake.

Dear Ann: Our 15-year-old daughter received a fur cape from her 18-year-old boyfriend for Valentine's Day. I don't know a great deal about fur but I'm afraid it's mink. When my husband saw it he screamed, "No daughter of mine is going to look like a kept woman. Give the thing back."

Our daughter is upstairs this very minute crying her eyes out. She loves the cape and says her boyfriend saved his own money to buy it for her and that dad is being unfair. What are your views? They've gone together (steady) for three months. — Mamma In The Middle

Dear Mid: A 15-year-old girl needs a mink cape like she needs a third row of teeth. She must have found this kid with a geiger counter. Insist that she return the fur piece. NOW!

Don't get burned by a "line" that's too hot to handle. Play it cool with Ann Landers' guide to "Necking and Petting — What Are the Limits?" Send your request to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611, enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
First — bouquets to you. I need your column. And here's my contribution.

My children are old enough now to have chores around the house. But I got tired of all the nagging to get things done. So I have posted a chart on my kitchen cabinet with each of their names.

They have to be self-starters and do the chores on their own. When they do, each one is recorded under their name and at the end of the week they are given an allowance accordingly.

I must say, it works like a charm. If one does less than the other and earns less, there is no quibbling, because there it is in black and white for them to see just what they have done. And what a relief for Mom! — Marie Preston

Dear Marie:
Perhaps, now you have solved the age-old problem most everyone has with children.

I like this idea so much, think I'll make myself a chart and start recording difficult or unpleasant tasks that I finish. Then at the end of the week, if I'm satisfied with the results, I'll treat myself! See you tomorrow. — Heloise

LETTER OF LOVE

DEAR HELOISE:
You sound like such a happy person. When I read your column you lift my spirits away up high! — Mrs. A.G. Bishop

DEAR HELOISE:
If you don't have candles for a cake, improvise.

I had made my husband a birthday cake the other day (the kind you put fruit cocktail in), but had no candles. Who has 52, anyway?

Well, I just got out the raisins and made large numbers (a 5 and a 2) in the center of the cake.

He was really pleased with my ingenuity, and the raisins blend in well with the other fruit in the cake. — E.K.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

BY DR. GEORGE C. THOSTESON

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Five or six times in the last few years I have aroused in the middle of the night gasping for air. I have to sit up in bed and take several deep breaths, by which time I am awake and frightened. I can't remember any dreams associated with the incidents. I am often under a lot of pressure from my work. I am 26, moderately active, of normal weight, have a good diet, and love to sleep. Any suggestions? — Miss J.J.C.

Sounds as though you have hyperventilation, which can be created by anxiety related to work pressures or from those of extracurricular activity.

There is a special problem called "sleep apnea," in which breathing stops momentarily during sleep. But this is usually found in older persons with lung disease, such as emphysema. In this respect, one might suspect overuse of tobacco. More on this later. Another factor related to tension is a drop in blood sugar (hypoglycemia). This could be remedied by eating a light snack (a glass of milk or a meat sandwich) before retiring.

Try to recall the pattern of your activities on the days preceding the sleep disturbance. If it was a hectic day, suspect the tension factor and take steps to reduce it.

While emphysema (which I mention as a possible cause) does not usually occur in one as young as you, it might not be a bad idea to have a chest X-ray. Also, have your thyroid gland function evaluated.

Young single women frequently experience a variety of emotion- and tension-related symptoms like yours.

age to get through long days at work OK. I'm 28.

Can you comment on this? — F.S.K.

It's possible for you to be both hypoglycemic (have low blood sugar) and be narcoleptic. Certainly, anyone who falls asleep in the shower would be considered as having narcolepsy. You should have had other episodes of falling asleep involuntarily. Be examined. Proper drugs will help you during the day.

For the hypoglycemia aspect, see my booklet on the subject, "Help for Hypoglycemia." Send 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Thosteson, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611. Tiredness in the morning upon awakening is a symptom of this.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: This might sound silly to you, and I really don't know if there is any truth in it. Are there some kind of shots for people who are short and still under the age of 21? — Still Small.

You are referring to injections of HGH (human growth hormones), a substance extracted from human pituitary glands. It can and has been used successfully, but in carefully selected patients whose height growth has stopped prematurely.

The word "prematurely" is the important one. The hormone injections help only before the ends of the long bones have fused (closed off to further growth). After that the hormones have no effect. By age 21 a person's bones have usually stopped their natural growth.

Careful X-ray studies of the bones and glands involved must be done before a patient is selected for this treatment. The necessarily short supply of the human pituitary gland hormone further limits use of this therapy. Man cannot manufacture it synthetically.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How effective is electrolysis? — J.W.

Never any more effective than the person performing it. Some are quite skilled at getting to the follicle of the hair strand and thus eliminating growth from that point. I suggest persons seeking this kind of hair removal ask a dermatologist in their area to recommend an electrolytist with whom he has experience among his own patients.

Emphysema can be controlled. To learn how to live with this serious lung problem, write for a copy of Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "How to Control Emphysema," P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Tune In Tomorrow

By JON-MICHAEL REED

NEW YORK — "Search For Tomorrow" recently held a cocktail reception for its latest cast additions and new headwriter Henry Slesar.

Unfortunately, Lisa Buck (Kylie Halliday) was in California packing her bags to move to the Big Apple where "Search" is taped. George Shannon also moved to New York from the West Coast to create the "Search" role of Chance Halliday. Shannon's last serial stunt was on "Love Is a Many Splendored Thing" during the defunct show's first six months, then Jim Shannon (no relation) picked up George's role.

Peter Ratray wasn't perturbed by the prospect of inheriting the role of Scott Phillips from an actor who's long been associated with the character.

"That's not one of my hangups," said Peter, who implied that his two-month-old axing as Quentin Ames on "Another World" was a heavier burden to bear than being a replacement actor. "So far," confessed the actor, "working conditions and relationship on 'Search' are much more attractive and promising."

Slesar, who will script both CBS's "Search" and ABC's "Edge of Night," admitted "it's not the first time I've written two concurrent serials. I took over as headwriter of 'Somerset' six months after it premiered while also doing 'Edge.' However, both shows were similar in many respects. 'Search' is a departure from 'Edge' with its cops and robbers, crime-mystery orientation. 'Search' is more domestically based and its long, rich history of established characters poses the kind of challenge that warms my writing juices. The two styles will remain intact and not intrude on each other," insisted the writer.

"On the other hand, you know, people commit crimes against each other every day in ways that aren't necessarily against the law. And suspense is a requisite ingredient in almost any form of solid drama, especially a serial," he added with a teasing wink.

Since "Edge" residents include or have included such characters as Nadine, Ansel, Raven Brandy, Draper, Miles, Winter, April, Taffy, Tiffany and Tango, do "Search's" Chance and Kylie portend additional odd-ball names?

"He sometimes spends weeks going through lists of names before he decides on one that's appropriate," answered Slesar's wife.

Bacterial Research Begins At Tech

By SALLY LOGUE Family News Staff

Research aimed at enabling antibiotics to more easily fight gram-negative bacterial infections, such as food poisoning, gonorrhea and those resulting from serious burns, is currently being undertaken at Texas Tech University School of Medicine (TTUSM).

Dana L. Diedrich, Ph.D., assistant professor in the department of microbiology at TTUSM, has received a three year grant totaling $88,970 from the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases for this research.

Dr. Diedrich said that one bacterial type, known as gram-negative bacteria, possesses an outer membrane which contains proteins similar to human connective tissue proteins that causes a decrease of the treatment effectiveness of antibiotics.

These outer membranes were discovered by accident, according to Diedrich, during post doctoral bacterial research he was conducting at the University of Virginia School of Medicine.

"I was looking at the chemical makeup of outer membrane proteins and discovered that the gram-negative bacterial outer membranes were modified in a unique way," he said.

Dr. Diedrich said this mesh-like network in the outer membrane of the bacteria acts as a shield against antibiotics. "The ultimate clinical dream of this research would be to develop some system that would inhibit this network and allow the antibiotics to fight the disease," he said.

This breakthrough would greatly speed up treatment of many diseases. Doctors would be able to treat a gram-negative bacterial disease with existing antibiotics and not have to wait and depend on the development of newer, stronger antibiotics, he said.

Dr. Diedrich's work, which he stresses is some five to ten years possibly from completion, centers around protein chemical analysis supported by bacterial genetics.

Dr. Diedrich said diseases can be treated two ways: with a vaccine before they occur and after they are already in the person's system.

"Vaccines would be the ideal way to treat diseases, but one doesn't plan on getting a urinary tract infection or developing an infection following third degree burns over 50 percent of the body," he said.

Dr. Diedrich joined the TTUSM faculty in June, 1977. He earned his doctorate in microbiology from Pennsylvania State University in 1974 and earned both his bachelor's and master's degrees in microbiology from the University of Kentucky. He is also a member of the editorial board of the "Journal of Bacteriology."

Pessimistic Pete didn't really know how to bid his hand. There might well be a slam or, on the other hand, three notrump might not make. There were lots of possibilities, but he finally decided to jump to three notrump and hope for the best. After all, he was playing match-point duplicate and notrump contracts were often worth a lot of match points.

Pete wasn't happy when he saw the dummy. With both red suits behaving nicely the hand would make seven diamonds. One finesse would be all that would be necessary for six.

Since the only way Pete could get a good match point score would be if both finesses didn't work. Pete played ahead on that assumption. He rose with dummy's ace of heart, came to his hand with a club and lost the diamond finesse.

East shifted to a spade, but Pete took his ace and cashed out two more clubs and five diamonds to wind up with four notrump and a plus 630 score for a top.

Why was it a top? Because the hand would only make five diamonds and when North played notrump a spade would be opened and North would only make three notrump.

SHORT TAKES:

After Broadway roles in such dramas as "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf," "A Delicate Balance," and last year's critically acclaimed "A Texas Trilogy," Henderson Forsythe (David Stewart on "As the World Turns") will make his Great White Way musical debut in "The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas." Henderson plays a singing sheriff in the show that's based on events surrounding the notorious LaGrange, Tex., chicken farm that fronted for a bordello.

Arthur Burghardt is portraying the arrogant big city Dr. Jack Scott on "One Life to Live," who jerks Dorian's cords as well as causing an instant case of dislike on the part of Carla Hall. But as actress Ellen Holly (Carla) revealed on a recent "Donahue" talk show, "instant dislike usually turns into something more affectionate on a soap opera. And, anyway, my character's been happily married for about five years now. It's time she had a little excitement in her life."

She will, indeed, as you'll see when you tune in tomorrow.

State Veto On N-Wastes Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government should give states a major say — including veto power — when sites are selected for permanently storing nuclear wastes, an organization of state legislatures told Congress Wednesday.

The government also should consider financial incentives for a state willing to accept a nuclear waste repository, a spokeswoman for the National Conference of State Legislatures told a Senate subcommittee.

"Few states have any long-term interest in becoming a nuclear garbage dump, and most will not be willing to accept the risks without further assurances, both fiscal and procedural, that their concerns will be met," said the spokeswoman, Iowa state Rep. Mary O'Halloran, who heads the national conference's energy committee.

Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., chairman of the subcommittee on nuclear regulation, said he supports greater state involvement in such decisions but questioned the idea of incentives.

"The federal pocket has a bottom to it, and we're about at it," he said. The panel is considering legislation by Sen. Pete Domenici, R-N.M., that would enable a state to reject plans for a nuclear waste site within its borders.

The government has selected a site near Carlsbad, N.M., to build a pilot plant to handle some radioactive military wastes and experiment with methods of storing wastes from nuclear power plants.

It is also looking for one or more permanent storage sites for commercial wastes by the late 1980s and possibly four more by the turn of the century.

Most commercial nuclear wastes — potentially radioactive for more than 100,000 years — are being stored in the form of spent fuel rods in cooling ponds at reactor sites around the nation.

Nick Franklin, secretary of energy and minerals for New Mexico, agreed that states should have a decisive role in selecting or rejecting potential waste disposal sites.

He said this is especially important to New Mexico because it is being asked to provide the first such site.

"This is a completely new area of human endeavor. The technology is untested. We would have to be assured that wastes can be stored in perpetuity without risk to our citizens," Franklin said.

But a Michigan official argued that no state may be willing to accept a nuclear waste repository if given veto power and that Congress may have to give the government the power to mandate a site. "I don't like it, but it may become necessary," testified Michigan science adviser William C. Taylor.

He suggested that, as a first step, the government expand the scope of the proposed Carlsbad project to turn it into a full-scale, permanent repository for spent fuel rods.

Although he insisted, "I am not recommending that the state of New Mexico be an unwilling guinea pig for the nation," Taylor's statement drew a sharp response from Domenici.

"It's very easy for you to suggest that the first step in the solution of this problem is over in New Mexico when Michigan has already said no," Domenici said.

He referred to action by the Michigan legislature to prohibit a waste disposal site from being located there.

Columnist Calls Lawsuit Dismissal 'Setback'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Columnist Jack Anderson says dismissal of his damage suit against former President Richard M. Nixon is "a major setback for freedom of the press."

U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell threw out the suit Tuesday because Anderson refused to disclose some of his sources. The journalist sought more than $20 million from Nixon and former top officials of his administration. He claimed he was the target of attempts to interfere with his work as a newsman, that his wife and children were followed, that his income tax returns were audited, and that there was a plot to murder him by use of poisons and another plot to inject him with hallucinogenic drugs.

Solons Oppose Turkish Arms

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five key members of Congress said Wednesday they will fight President Carter's proposal to lift an arms embargo against Turkey.

The opposition, which had been predicted, is a new snag for Carter's foreign policy, already embroiled in dispute over the Panama Canal, the neutron bomb and the Middle East.

The State Department announced this week that it will move to lift the congressional embargo limiting arms shipments to Turkey in an effort to repair frayed U.S.-Turkish relations.

Unspoken but understood was the U.S. expectation that Turkish Prime Minister Bulent Ecevit will make concessions toward a settlement in Cyprus, where Turkish troops control 38 percent of the island for the 18 percent Turkish Cypriot minority.

The two senators and three congressmen told a news conference the embargo should not be lifted until Turkey starts "good faith negotiations" with the Greek Cypriot administration.

The five are House majority whip John Brademas, D-Ind.; Rep. Benjamin Rosenthal, D-N.Y., a senior member of the House International Relations Committee; Rep. Mario Biaggi, D-N.Y.; Sen. Paul Sarbanes, D-Md., a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and Sen. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo. They said they believe a majority in both House and Senate supports their view.

Seapower Supporters Claim Funding Cut Security Threat

LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional supporters of a stronger U.S. Navy said Wednesday that President Carter's efforts to cut funds for naval shipbuilding poses a clear threat to national security.

Rep. Charles E. Bennett, chairman of the seapower subcommittee of the House Armed Services Committee, opened hearings on Sea Plan 2000, a study which Bennett said shows the need for a larger and balanced U.S. fighting force at sea.

In a statement delivered on the Senate floor, Sen. Strom Thurmond, R.S.C., called the Carter plan "a blueprint for disaster when weighed against the real needs of the U.S. Navy and the threat posed by the Soviet Navy."

Bennett and other subcommittee members criticized the Carter decision to permit the Navy to ask for only 17 new ships for fiscal 1979 at a cost of $6.3 billion.

He said the Carter five-year shipbuilding plan would deliver 99 ships at a $45 billion cost, a level he said involves a drastic cut from previously announced production levels.

"In less than one year the president's Navy program has dropped $18 billion and nearly 100 ships," Bennett said.

"The Department of Defense stresses not defense requirements but rather 'fiscal' constraints as the basis for the Navy's size reduction," he said.

Sea Plan 2000, a study ordered by President Carter last July, states that a balanced naval force is necessary as a hedge against unforeseen developments in the future.

The Carter administration, however, has implied a major shift in policy which would confine the Navy's role of maintaining open sea lanes for the free flow of oil, materiel and manpower.

The Navy's role as a major component in the nation's strategic forces apparently is undergoing a thorough review.

Sea Plan 2000 presents three policy options, which would give the Navy a force level of 439, 535 or 585 ships in the year 2000.

Bennett said the Office of Management and Budget appears to be recommending a force level of between 400 and 450 ships by that year.

Rear Adm. C.A. Trost, the Navy's director of systems analysis, said option one, allowing a one percent real growth level, would eventually require a reduction of U.S. naval force in forward areas, lead to less flexibility in responding to crises, and place in question the nation's ability to reinforce its allies near the Soviet Union.

He said the second option "provides the policy maker with more flexibility and confidence in crises" and retains "sufficient force to have the potential in a major war to move into forward areas near the Soviet Union."

The third option, he said, "provides hedges against losses" lacking in option two.

Supreme Court Lets Court Ruling Stand

A-J Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — The Texas Supreme Court let stand Wednesday lower court rulings which removed all liability from a Panhandle trucking firm for a fatal car-truck collision which killed a Lubbock woman.

The Supreme Court, without comment, upheld lower court decisions in favor of Redi Fuel Transport Inc., and one of its drivers, Guy W. Stewig, a resident of Plainjew.

Stewig was driver of the truck involved in a July, 1975, accident near Snyder fatally injuring a passenger in the other vehicle, Zola Lockett.

The husband and son of Mrs. Lockett sued the transport company and its driver for $100,000 in damages.

However, after a trial jury ruled in favor of the Locketts, the Scurry County district judge issued a "take nothing" judgement to the family.

In October, 1977, that judgement was upheld by the Eastland Court of Civil Appeals, and subsequently agreed to by state's highest civil court.

Safety Equipment Urged For Jumbo Tank Cars

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Railroad Administration hopes to decide quickly whether to speed installation of new safety equipment on jumbo railroad tank cars.

The National Transportation Safety Board urged the agency Tuesday to order the nation's 22,000 jumbo cars equipped with improved couplers and front and rear crash shields by the end of this year — up to three years earlier than required by law.

An FRA official said he hoped a decision could be made by the end of April. The hearings were triggered by a rash of railroad derailments in recent months involving hazardous materials.

First, Second Grades Added To School Integration Plan

By JEFF SOUTH
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Court-ordered integration of grades one and two at cited minority elementary schools here will be added to the plan already announced for the other grades of those campuses. Superintendent Ed Irons said Wednesday.

"The plan we submitted, and the court approved, for grades three through six probably will remain as it is. Integration of grades one and two, as ordered by the court this week, will be in addition to what we've already proposed to do," Irons said after Lynn Stafford and Brad Crawford were sworn in as school trustees at a morning school board meeting.

Irons and Charles Waters, who was re-elected board president by trustees Wednesday, said the Lubbock Independent School District probably will retain the "basic concept" of its desegregation strategy, but simply will "plug in" the primary grades to comply with the ruling by federal Judge Halbert O. Woodward.

Inclusion of the lower grades, Irons said, will necessitate reassigning more students each semester for integration purposes. And, he said, students may have to be reassigned for slightly longer periods of time than under the original proposal.

For example, instead of spending only one semester of their elementary education outside their immediate neighborhood, white students may be reassigned for two semesters. Minority pupils also probably will be reassigned longer than their originally scheduled 1 1/2 to two years.

Those possible additional reassignments would come on top of the reassignments already announced. "We don't anticipate changing the grades or schools that are involved in the original plan," Irons said.

"We hope to keep the original plan intact as much as possible and simply add to it," he said.

Irons believes this is important because parents "seem to be getting accustomed" to the reassignments called for in the original proposal.

Indeed, many westside parents already have visited their northside and eastside "sister schools" — Mahon, Guadalupe, Posey, Martin and Wheatley — to check out the programs and facilities there.

Irons said his administrative staff is drafting proposals to modify the original desegregation plan to include grades one and two. The school board has set an executive session for April 14 to consider those proposals.

Waters, who has just returned from a convention of the National School Boards Association, said the district probably will not appeal Woodward's Monday ruling.

"Whatever the judge orders, I think the board will be glad to comply with," Waters said. He said he was "prepared for" the primary-grade integration requirement — because of recent rulings by higher courts — but had hoped to get by without it.

Waters was pleased that Woodward left the district's basic proposal intact because it is a "sound plan and meets the guidelines set out in the judge's order," except for lower-grade integration.

The school board has until April 24 to submit an amended desegregation plan to Woodward.

At Wednesday's school board session, trustees canvassed Saturday's election results and declared Mrs. Stafford, a parttime secretary and long-time civic worker, winner of Place 1'; and Crawford, an attorney, Place 2 winner.

The two new trustees were administered their oath of office by 137th District Judge Robert C. Wright.

Departing school trustees Joan Ervin and Bob McKelvey were honored with plaques for their service to the school system and especially the youth of Lubbock. Mrs. Ervin, incumbent board secretary, and McKelvey, board vice president, had each served eight years as trustees.

Mrs. Ervin, the first black elected to the board, was defeated in her bid for reelection by Mrs. Stafford. McKelvey had not sought another term.

Waters told Mrs. Ervin, "You have been diligent and hardworking, and certainly you have been faithful to this board."

He noted that McKelvey has been a "steady, cool hand — dependable and reliable." Waters said both departing trustees will be missed.

The board canvassed results of Saturday's election and made a few changes in the figures reported as unofficial returns.

Total number of votes cast in the school board election was 17,317 — a record, about 1,000 votes more than the 1976 race.

In Place 1, Mrs. Stafford received 7,959 votes; Mrs. Ervin, 4,248; Bill Warren, 3,605; and John Ray Jr., 992.

In Place 2, Crawford got 7,149 votes; Claude Dollins, 3,964; Donna Muldrew, 2,566; Edith O'Brien, 2,435; and Robert Lowery, 624.

In the reorganization of the board, trustees picked Waters as board president, Monte Hasie as vice president and Jose Ramirez as board secretary.

The board also changed May 26 from a teacher in-service workday to a class day. That change was needed to make up the unscheduled Feb. 17 holiday due to a snow storm.

Instead of getting out on May 25 as originally planned, students' last day of class will be Friday, May 26.

Offshore Copter Crash Kills Three

GALVESTON (AP) — A helicopter making a routine night flight to offshore oil installations crashed into the Gulf of Mexico early Wednesday, killing three men.

The pilot, co-pilot and a fourth passenger escaped without injury.

The cause of the crash about 63 miles southeast of Galveston had not been determined but Coast Guard Chief Bob Baeten said in New Orleans the helicopter was approaching the drilling vessel Glomar Java Sea.

"It apparently just missed the ship," Baeten said.

In Houston, Dean Baxter of Atlantic Richfield said the night flight by the helicopter owned by Air Logistics of Sabine Pass, involved stops at two or three installations for well logging purposes.

Baxter identified the dead as Dwane M. Rivers, 26, Pasadena an Atlantic Richfield petroleum engineer; Michael L. McKinley, 27, Houston, an Atlantic Richfield geologist; and John S. Hinds, 54, Metairie, La., the captain of the Java Sea.

The three who escaped injury were rescued shortly after the helicopter flipped during the landing attempt and hit the water in an upside down position.

The Coast Guard reported initial efforts by divers to reach the other three occupants were not successful and that the bodies were not recovered from the wreckage until about six hours after the crash.

Black Groups In Rhodesia Offered Posts

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Rhodesia's four-man executive council, which will guide the country to majority rule by the end of the year, Wednesday announced the distribution of the new government's cabinet posts among three black nationalist organizations. The announcement followed several days of negotiations. Sources close to the transitional government said Bishop Abel Muzorewa's United African National Council got the ministries of justice and law and order, finance and transport. The Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole's African National Council received the defense, foreign affairs and agriculture portfolios, and the Zimbabwe United People's Organization led by Senator-Chief Jeremiah Chirau got the ministries of internal affairs, education and water development. The new government will consolidate the cabinet from 18 ministries to nine. The three leaders signed an agreement with Prime Minister Ian Smith March 3 that calls for a new constitution and elections based on universal adult suffrage by the end of the year. Smith is the fourth member of the executive council.

There are to be constitutional safeguards of the rights of the nation's white minority. The settlement is opposed by two guerrilla organizations operating from bases outside Rhodesia and by many nations who feel the guerrillas should be included in the settlement. The black leaders are expected to announce appointees to the posts Thursday. The nine black ministers will form half of the 18-member lower tier ministerial council which will work under the executive council in guiding the day-to-day administration of the country. Each black minister will be paired with a white counterpart throughout the life of the transitional government.

Veteran Newsman Gets Broadcasting Honor

NEW YORK (AP)—Elmer Lower, recently retired vice president for corporate affairs at the American Broadcasting Corporation, has been named 1977 recipient of the Associated Press Broadcasters Robert E. Eunsou Award for distinguished service in broadcasting.

Lower will receive the award at the APB's eighth annual convention June 1-3 in Cincinnati.

The panel making the Eunsou award selection consisted of APB President

Walt Rubens, KOBE, Las Cruces, N.M.; past APB presidents Tom Frawley, Cox Broadcasting, Washington; Frank Balch, WJOY, Burlington, Vt., and Tom Powell, WDAU-TV, Scranton, Pa. Also on the panel were Robert Tobey, KOTS, Deming, N.M.; John Salisbury, KXL, Portland, Ore.; Robert Wells, Harris Enterprises, Hutchinson, Kan., and Carlton Cordell, WALA-TV, Mobile, Ala.

"Bob Eunsou was an old and close friend with whom I worked on three continents," Lower said. "He represented the best qualities in American journalism, both print and broadcast. To receive an award established in his memory is indeed a high honor."

Lower added, "This recognition is doubly appreciated. It was voted by a group of my contemporaries in the field of broadcast journalism, practitioners whose critical judgments are valued."

He has accepted an appointment as a professor at the School of Journalism, University of Missouri, beginning next fall. During this spring and summer, he will act as a visiting professor at James Madison University in Harrisonburg, Va., and at Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah.

Commenting on his selection for the award, Lower took note of what he termed his "second career"—preparing the next generation of American journalists.

"You can count on me to stress the journalistic standards and ethics which are synonymous with the name Bob Eunsou and the Associated Press," he said.

Before assuming the responsibilities of corporate staff vice president of ABC in 1974, Lower had been president of ABC News for 11 years. During that time, he was credited with achieving a tremendous growth of all ABC radio and television news operations.

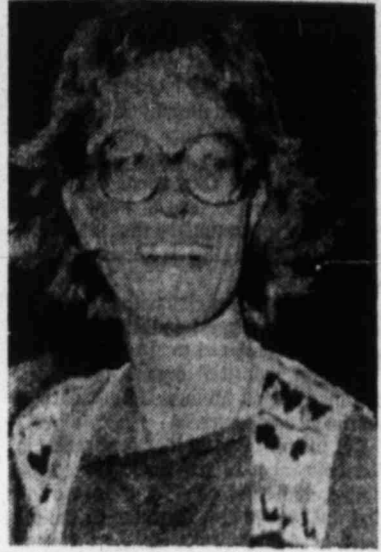

In 1964, he was cofounder of the cooperative News Election Service, generally considered by election specialists as a major step forward in election tabulations. As a journalist, he has covered national elections since 1932 and national political conventions since 1936.

A graduate of the University of Missouri School of Journalism, Lower had worked in the news departments of both the Columbia Broadcasting System and the National Broadcasting Corporation before joining ABC. He was with NBC four years, serving as chief of the Washington Bureau and vice president and general manager of NBC News in New York. He spent six years with CBS News, as head of its Washington bureau before becoming director of special projects in New York.

He had six years of experience as a foreign correspondent for Life magazine and headed its news bureaus in Paris and Los Angeles before becoming a roving correspondent.

He was a reporter for the Louisville (Ky.) Herald-Post and Flint (Mich.) Journal; served with The Associated Press Wirephoto network in Chicago and New York, and worked for United Press in Jefferson City, Mo.; Cleveland and Wash-

Town Says Herons Unwanted

DRUMRIGHT, Okla. (AP)—The swallows are welcome back at Capistrano and the buzzards at Hinkley, Ohio, but the Oklahoma Transportation Department is hoping the herons don't return to Drumright.

They've already held up a road project for five months.

Jerry Chambers, a Transportation Department planning engineer, noted that plans were all set to build a truck bypass around this northeastern Oklahoma city to end the traffic jams caused by big oil trucks.

There wasn't a bird in sight when the department had the project surveyed and staked out and was ready to issue a contract, Chambers said. "And then the birds took up right on the centerline of our project," he said. "They liked those centerline stakes, I guess."

A flock of long-necked herons along with a few grackles and egrets settled down in a grove of tall oak trees in the path of the proposed bypass. Right after the birds game representatives of the Audubon Society concerned about the fate of the new heron rookery.

The state, mindful of federal frustration about disturbing a bird sanctuary, cancelled the contract letting and began looking for an alternate route for the three-mile bypass. Then the birds took off to winter in Mexico.

This week, the Oklahoma Transportation Commission voted to schedule another contract letting for the project in June — with the cooperation of the birds.

"The herons haven't come back into the area yet and probably won't for another couple of weeks," Chambers said. "We're just kind of waiting."

But, he added, "If the birds come back and settle on our centerline stakes again, then we'll just have to back off and start all over."

Betting On Horses Only Part Of Fun At Tracks

By STEPHEN LONGSTREET
Newspaper Enterprise Assoc.

Next to numbers, horse racing is the most popular form of big-money gambling in America. But unlike numbers, betting on horses is usually legal. In its legal form, pari-mutuel betting at the track takes in about $6 billion a year, with 60 million or more people attending the races every year. There are about 6,500 racing days a year in the United States, and 60 or so major races.

At the tracks, some say. No one really knows. 18 percent is taken off as "vigorous." With entrance fee, food and drink, parking and purchase of racing sheets and programs, the average bettor usually is lucky to break even after a day at the track. However, there are winners, and — who knows? — you may be the lucky one.

Many people come to the track convinced that some races are fixed, that there is box information of a "boat ride," and that there are people who can and will pass the secret on to you if you'll buy a ticket for them when you buy your own. These individuals, who are called touts or hangers-on, claim to have inside information. They sometimes pick a winner by chance, but rarely. As "Pony-Benney," whom I knew, put it: "Still, it only costs me time and a quick con. Besides, you can only con some klutz who feels he's getting illegal information."

As for special services and "winners today" sheets, The Daily Racing Forum is the bettor's bible. It lists a lot of information that puts a bettor wise as to weight, conditions, breeding, past records and Parimutuel betting brings in the biggest gambings take in the nation. It makes all of Nevada's figures seem small. Harland B. Adams, an expert on gambling, states that the Hollywood Park race track in California pays the state more money than all the casinos in Las Vegas and Reno pay Nevada. Add that sum to bets placed illegally with bookies, and you probably have sums close to what the Pentagon spends on its war toys. New York City opened off-track betting centers to take in huge profits. Right now it is estimated that $15 billion a year is bet illegally on horses throughout the country.

Gambler's Digest claims that gambling is America's biggest industry. "It surpasses the combined total volume of the 75 largest industrial organizations... including General Motors, U.S. Steel, and all the oil companies."

But the best part of the horse racing is the enjoyment of the finely turned-out horses, the color of silks, the fresh air and the excited crowds watching the inconsistencies of chance.

said that project will be expanded to other schools in the future, beginning next year with Coronado.

Not only do students get to use the microfiche at school, but they are permitted to check out both microfiche cards and portable microfiche readers for use at home.

"They say that someday, everybody will have a microfiche reader at home," and that most printed material — books, magazines and even newspapers — will be on film, not paper, said Mrs. Stephen.

Already, she said, one manufacturer has put the Bible on microfiche. "An entire copy of the Bible is on one 2-by-2 microfiche card," Mrs. Stephen said.

Mostly, a day at the track is just waiting. Not much more than five minutes of actual racing occurs. Yet it can take four hours to prove you can't trust past records or tout sheets. Actually, most horse bettors hardly ever go to the track. Instead, they bet with their bookies, and follow the results on radio or television.

The bettor's dream is to win on a long shot. (Favorites win about 35 percent of the time and pay meager odds.) The odds are set according to how the bettors' money favors a horse, and can change right up to post time — and actually after the race, when the totalizer goes to work with mathematics and computers.

Horse races are run to make a lot of money for the track and its stockholders. The track takes a fat cut off the top on every ticket sold, and the state tax, too, is considerable. Regardless of which horse wins, the track and state do well. The track's usual cut is about 18 percent. It also takes the nickles and pennies, the odd coins called "breakage." It adds up. A winner often drops his winnings back at the ticket window, and each time he

PARALYZED FARMER USES HOIST—Harold Barley, a paralyzed farmer uses a motor driven harness to hoist himself into his tractor on his 500-acre Millersville, Pa., farm. A hired hand places Barley into the harness. Barley fell 16 feet to the ground paralyzing him from the waist down while hanging tobacco leaves on a barn rail to dry. (AP Laserphoto)

Paraplegic Works Own Farm Fields

By TIM PETTIT

MILLERSVILLE, Pa. (AP) — On most any work day, you'd be hard-pressed to find paralyzed farmer Harold Barley in his wheelchair. Eight years after he lost control of his body from his chest down, the 39-year-old Barley said, "I still don't like to be seen in a wheelchair. I'm more at home in my tractor and my truck. I feel inadequate in a wheelchair."

It was an August day in 1970 when Barley either passed out or his reflexes failed while he was hanging tobacco leaves on a barn rail 16 feet off the ground. On the way down, his head knocked a hay dryer. Nerves in his spine apparently were severed, never to mend, Barley said.

"At first, they figured I couldn't live. They just let me lay in the hospital," he said in an interview in his pickup truck. "But then they figured this bugger is too ornery to die, and they operated."

Today, the man who was supposed to die can be seen tooling around his 500 acres in a special tractor.

Once he pulls himself into the tractor's cab with a motor-driven harness, he doesn't like to get out until the day's work is done.

"I try to pick the jobs that will last all day," Barley said. "And if my hired man isn't there in the morning to help me into the tractor, I'm stuck."

"I'm 100 percent dependent on people for things like that. If a simple thing like a nut comes off a piece of equipment while I'm in the tractor, I need someone on the other end of the radio to bail me out."

Barley plants hay, corn and tobacco on his mostly rented land, and raises more than 175 steers. With a partner he raises 1,000 hogs.

While in the hospital, Barley recalled, he knew he wanted to get back to work. But the reality of that challenge hit him smack in the face when he was released from the hospital to spend Thanksgiving with his family.

"I guess I thought everything would be the same. But I had no strength in my arms, and I had to get around in a wheelchair," he said. "When I got back to the hospital, I was so disgusted I didn't want to go home again."

Those feelings passed, largely with the help of neighbors.

The man with whom he raises hogs — Don Hershey of nearby Manheim — sent two workers to combine Barley's fields during the months he was hospitalized.

That netted $20,000 and Hershey never accepted a cent in payment, Barley said. Other neighbors handled other chores and the animals.

"If a million dollars could have put me back on my legs, my neighbors would have gotten it somehow, I truly believe it," he said.

"When I needed a person to help, it always seemed like there were two there. I figured if they were doing so much, I couldn't quit."

Barley's wife and five daughters pitched in — his only son was a baby when the accident occurred — with Barley acting as manager. Finally, in 1974, he was back in his tractor cab again, actually working the fields.

Court Overturns Conviction

AUSTIN (AP) — A San Antonio man sentenced to life on an attempted burglary charge won a new trial Wednesday because his lawyer wasn't allowed to ask prospective jurors if they thought policemen were more believable than other witnesses.

The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals court overturned Noe H. Trevino's conviction.

Trevino's punishment was set at life imprisonment because he had two prior felony convictions.

"Under the circumstances, knowing whether or not each of the prospective jurors would give greater weight to the testimony of police officers, merely because they are police officers, than to the testimony of non-officers, would have enabled appellant's counsel to exercise more intelligently his peremptory challenges," the court said.

The case was returned to Bexar County district court for a new trial.

In other cases, the court: —Granted habeas corpus relief and set aside the life sentence of Lewis Wallace Smith, who was convicted of felony theft

Jones was sentenced to the maximum of 10 years after the prosecutor told a Bexar County district court jury to "discuss how long the defendant would be required to serve in order to satisfy the sentence imposed."

The court said Texas law prohibits a jury from considering when a defendant would be eligible for parole during discussion of punishment. The case was returned for a new trial.

—Ruled a Bell County grand jury indictment charging Johnny Ray Seaton with aggravated rape of a 9-year-old child was valid despite its failure to state the victim was a female.

"Sexual intercourse is a term which has a specialized meaning in law. Thus, the allegation that the appellant had sexual intercourse with a person is an allegation that he committed the act with a female," the court said.

A coelacanth, a fish thought to have been extinct for 65 million years, was caught off the South African coast in 1938.

Seaton was convicted on the charge and sentenced to 99 years in prison.

Rizzo Urged To Drop White Ethnic Crusade

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Two civic leaders urged Mayor Frank Rizzo on Wednesday to drop his proposed national crusade for white ethnic groups. The full-page newspaper ads were signed by Thacher Longstreth of the Chamber of Commerce, and John R. Bunting Jr., chairman of the First Pennsylvania Corp.

The statement called on Rizzo "as a political leader, a man of engaging personality, of great intuitive intelligence, and as a friend, to end this crusade, to resume being mayor of all the people."

following two prior convictions.

The court said the McLennan County grand jury indictment against Smith was defective because it "fails to allege that the property was taken 'without the owner's effective consent.'" —Overturned George F. Jones' conviction on an attempted burglary charge after ruling the prosecutor made improper arguments to the jury.

Tech Holds Scrimmage

As Rex Dockery visited with the media Wednesday afternoon following Texas Tech's first scrimmage of the spring, one thought was dominant—the youth of the Raider club.

"We've just got so many young guys, and it's tough to have much consistency when you're working with a lot of young guys out there," Dockery said. "When you're young, your execution is not always good. We made a lot of mistakes today. It's tough to make a complete evaluation until I've seen the film, though." Still, the first-year head coach was generally pleased with the scrimmage, which lasted 75 minutes. "The enthusiasm was real good, and the tempo picked up as we went along," he added. "Our receivers caught the ball pretty well, and the quarterbacks threw well."

Receivers Howie Lewis, Godfrey Turner and Edwin Newsome all made some good catches. Turner making one particularly fine grab on the sideline near the end of the scrimmage.

"That's probably the best Howie's looked," Dockery said, "and Godfrey caught the ball well. Newsome, I think, is really going to help us. He's gained 15 pounds in the past year and has gotten a lot tougher."

Dockery said these three will swing between flanker and split end as long as regular split end Brian Nelson is sidelined with a knee injury that he suffered Tuesday. The early diagnosis was a sprain, but Nelson is scheduled to be examined today. Whatever the diagnosis, he is certain to miss at least a few days of workouts.

Dockery was generally pleased with the play of the quarterbacks—a very important area this spring—although they "laid the ball on the ground a couple of times on the option."

The Raiders are scheduled for a more extensive scrimmage Saturday morning, and Dockery said the staff should have a clearer idea of the quarterback situation then.

Six quarterbacks are currently being looked at most seriously. "But Dockery said 'We hope to be able to narrow it down to three or four after Saturday. With so many guys out there now, it's hard to be consistent.'"

The youth angle figured in other areas, too. The Tech staff has been considering implementing portions of the I formation into its attack, but Dockery said that may have to wait.

"We may not get to it. I just don't know. We want to teach our base (the split-back veer) to the kids first."

Masters Golf Tourney Opening Round Today

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — The 42nd Masters offers the possibility of another drama-packed confrontation between Jack Nicklaus and Tom Watson, golf's reigning monarch and the man who would supplant him as the game's premier figure.

If it happens, however: if, in Sunday's final round at famed Augusta National, it will be by accident—not the design of either of the principals.

"The idea is to win the golf tournament," said Watson, "not beat one man. To win the golf tournament you must beat them all. The only man you don't want to beat is yourself."

Nicklaus, who, at one time or another, has turned back the threats of Tom Weiskopf and Johnny Miller and Lee Trevino, has said the same thing many, many times in virtually the same words. It is a credo with him: "The only goal is to win the tournament."

And Nicklaus, unquestionably the greatest player of his time, has won this sports classic a record five times. It is one of the Big Four tournaments—the U.S. and British Opens and the PGA are the others—around which he has built his golfing life and his unparalleled record. It is, as ever, "my first big goal of the year."

This year, Nicklaus, 38, has rearranged his schedule to place even greater emphasis on the Big Four. His plan, he said, was "to play only the tournaments necessary to prepare myself for the majors."

And it has worked. "I can't remember a better start to a season," said Nicklaus, as usual a heavy favorite in an elite, invitational, international field of 78 scheduled to tee off in Thursday's first round.

In his last four starts he finished second, first, second and first. In those four he won more than $155,000. It's the best record on the tour.

But there may be a tiny chink in his armor. Watson thinks he has seen one.

"Jack is scoring very well," said Watson, who bested the mighty man in head-to-head confrontations in the 1977 Masters and British Opens, matches that are destined to become a part of golf's lore and legends. "But he's been chipping in two or three times a round, making long putts, to do it. I don't think he's playing as well as he'd like."

Watson, however, is not at the top of his game. The 1977 Player of the Year won two of the first three tournaments of the season, piled up a quick $100,000 in money-winnings and then tailed off. He's missed the cut in two of his last three starts.

"I'm not as excited about the Masters this year because I'm not playing as well as I was last year," he said. "I'm not swinging as well."

Then he flashed that boyish grin. "But I haven't lost it. It's just hiding in there some place. I just have to find it again."

While those two will serve as the focus of attention for the massive, colorful galleries that swarm the 7,040 yards of juniper and dogwood, magnolia and azalea, jasmine and camellia, the field is heavy with potential challengers for the famed green jacket that goes to the winner of this sports spectacular.

Perhaps the top contenders are quick-swinging, quick-talking unorthodox Hubert Green and 20-year-old Severiano Ballesteros, the spectacular Spaniard who has dominated European golf for two years.

Coronado's Fullerton Quits Cage Position

By TOM HALLIBURTON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
Shed no tears for Jimmy Fullerton. And don't look for any controversy either, because there is none.

Fullerton, the head basketball coach at Coronado for the past three seasons, announced Wednesday his resignation which becomes effective at the end of the present school year.

The 32-year-old Hub City native simply carried no aspirations to become a career coach. The former Lubbock High and Texas Tech cager receives his administrative certification from the state in May and hopes to remain in the Lubbock system on an administrative level.

"It hasn't been a sudden thing, I told Dr. (E.C.) Leslie (assistant superintendent) ent) before I took the Coronado basketball job that I wanted to be considered for an administrative position. I would probably feel the same way even if I had won three district championships in three years," Fullerton said.

The Coronado coach won the District 4-AAAA title in the 1975-76 season, his first year. Fullerton's Mustangs reached the regional playoffs, and he was selected the district's coach of the year after the 25-8 season. Each of last two teams won 10 games as Fullerton's three-year record ended at 45-46.

But the wins and losses played a minor role in forming Fullerton's decision.

"It's a decision I've wrestled with for a

THE DUST WAS still there, the stopwatch wasn't. It was the same, and then again, it definitely wasn't.

It was spring training, a scrimmage session. The offensive units wore one color uniform, the defenses a series of different shades. And, as they worked, dust—supported by strong winds of spring—filtered in over Jones Stadium, making the scattered couple of dozen spectators feel both a bit uncomfortable and, at the same time, at home.

But, the supervisory pattern was altered; for the first time in four years, Steve Sloan was not around, sauntering from group to group, twirling a stopwatch from a black lanyard. In the Sloan regime, the stopwatch had become as much a part of the workout as pats on the rump, screamed instructions, and elbow pads.

Walking around, surveying the various groups in the early stages of the workout, and then stepping back, to get an overall view of the 11-on-11 phase of work, was Rex Dockery. A year ago—even as late as December—Dockery's job was with the offense, mainly down on the trench level, looking up at the towering young men.

But, although he has yet to check out a stopwatch, Dockery was getting the overall look, and it was his workout.

Chaps Up Rank To Fourth

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — South-eastern, Okla., Wednesday held on to the top ranking in the weekly NAIA baseball rankings for the second week, netting 11 of 16 first-place votes from the panel of coaches.

The Durant, Okla., team, runner-up in the 1977 NAIA College World Series, has posted a record of 24-2. Taking second place this week with four first-place votes was Birmingham Southern, moving up from eighth with a 26-3 record.

LaVerne (Calif.) was third at 12-5, Lubbock (Texas) Christian took fourth at 28-9, and defending national champion David Lipscomb (Tenn.) garnered one first-place ballot for its 19-4 record, but dropped from second last week to fifth.

Rounding out the top 10 were Phillips (Okla.), 29-9; Texas Wesleyan, 30-12; Grand Canyon (Ariz.), 21-11; Lewis-Clark State (Idaho), 24-4; and Wilkcam Carey (Miss.), 29-2.

The second 10: Southwestern (Texas), 27-10; Oklahoma Christian, 14-5; Jackson (Miss.) State, 38-3; Newberry (S.C.), 12-4; St. Mary's (Texas), 19-8; Lewis (Ill.) University, 6-12; William Jewell (Mo.), 10-4; tied for 18th were Azusa (Calif.) Pacific, 19-3, and Sam Houston (Texas) State, 20-14; and Wisconsin-Oshkosh, 7-2.

All the teams are vying for a chance to play in the 22nd annual NAIA World Series, a double-elimination tournament set for May 28-31 in St. Joseph, Mo.

"WE'RE NOT DOING a thing different (from the way Sloan had conducted his spring workouts)," Dockery observed after Wednesday's scrimmage. "We're going a little slower, but that's because of all the young players."

Otherwise, it was more of the same, as in 1975... and 1976... and 1977.

There was the change for Dockery, however, from the daily contact and instruction for his individual group of players to the overall view. And there is a time, the new Raider head coach admitted, when he misses the individual contact, the actual coaching experience.

This is not unexpected. Since 1970, Dockery has worked as an assistant coach, and an assistant's responsibility is tutoring a set group of players. Dockery, serving under a series of head coaches, mastered these assistant's assignments to the satisfaction of his superiors, to the place that when Sloan announced in December he was going eastward, Tech turned to Dockery.

"But, I need to try to see all the players, see all the group work I can, so when it comes down to evaluation, I can know as much about them as possible."

"I'm trying to see as much on the defensive end of the field as I can," he added. With his offensive-coordinator duties of the past, it was not his responsibility, nor was there time, to pop up on the defensive side of the field.

"I'M NOT TRYING to work with any group," Dockery said. "I've talked to Steve, and he isn't doing it this year (at Ole Miss)." And Dockery revealed a change which would have taken place here, had there not been a coaching change.

"Steve wasn't going to coach the quarterbacks this year, even if he had stayed. He just felt that there was so much else he could observe by not spending all his time with one group."

"I want to watch as much as I can, too," he added, and this can best be accomplished by bypassing the actual coaching.

AS HE STROLLED around, behind the offensive huddle, Dockery said little, as the offense moved the football—although inconsistently at times—during the scrimmage. Afterwards, he spoke of the good points and not so good, of the work of the quarterbacks ("I thought they looked pretty good as a whole"), the enthusiasm ("I thought it got better as the workout progressed"), at the work of a few receivers, at the marked lack of injuries this spring, and the youth factor and how it dictated the instruction pace.

But, as he talked, it was evident that Dockery had assumed control; it was his team, his workout, his spring training. There appeared no change for change sake. But he has also learned his lessons from past teachers. He admitted he had learned to duck that stopwatch; "I've almost got hit with that thing (being swung innocently enough by Sloan) several times," he laughed.

But, also, he has learned to wait for recorded help in evaluating individual performances. "I'll have to look at the film before I say who did the best."

Seaver To Start Again As Reds Face Astros

By The Associated Press

Tom Seaver is accustomed to opening day pitching assignments. He's never missed one in the last 10 years and he'll be on the job again today when the National League opens its season.

The only difference for the pitcher they call Tom Terrific is that his 11th opening day assignment will be for the Cincinnati Reds instead of the New York Mets. Seaver went to the Reds last June and posted a 14-3 record in the half-season he spent with them and 21-6 overall.

He is the No. 1 hurler on Manager Sparky Anderson's staff and he'll get the call when the Reds open against the Houston Astros before a sellout crowd in Riverfront Stadium. The Astros will counter with J.R. Richard, who had an 18-12 record last season including four victories over the Reds.

Cincinnati traditionally hosts the National League opener but will have to share the baseball spotlight today with three American League games, two of them openers.

The AL season got under way Wednesday night at Seattle with the Minnesota Twins facing the Mariners. Dave Goltz, one of three 20-game winners in the American League last season, was scheduled to start for the Twins against Glenn Abbott, 12-13 in 1977 for the expansion Mariners. A crowd of 50,000 was expected with Hall of Famer Joe DiMaggio scheduled to throw out the first ball.

The Mariners-Twins series continues today when the AL opens on two other fronts.

Crowds of 55,000 are expected in Detroit where Mark "The Bird" Fidrych, coming back from an injury-plagued season, will start for the Tigers against Toronto's Dave Lemanczyk, and at Milwaukee where Mike Flanagan has Baltimore's opening day assignment against the Brewers' Jerry Augustine.

Fidrych, whose antics on the mound captured the imagination of the baseball public when he won rookie of the year honors for a 19-9 season in 1976, battled knee and arm problems and dipped to 6-4 last year. Lemanczyk, who went from Detroit to the Blue Jays in the American League expansion draft, posted a 13-16 mark in Toronto's first season.

Flanagan, who had a 15-10 record last season, inherited Baltimore's opening day assignment when Jim Palmer, the Orioles' ace, came up with shoulder problems during spring training.

Augustine was 12-18 for the Brewers, whose new manager this season is George Bamberger, longtime pitching coach for the Orioles before moving to Milwaukee.

Bamberger is one of three pilots making their major league debuts this week. The others are Bobby Cox in Atlanta and Roger Craig in San Diego.

After the ceremonial Houston-Cincinnati opener the remainder of the National League gets going on Friday with Montreal at New York, Chicago at Pittsburgh and San Diego at San Francisco in day games and St. Louis at Philadelphia and Los Angeles at Atlanta in night action.

Two American League openers are scheduled for Friday with Boston getting under way at Chicago in an afternoon game and California hosting Oakland in a night game.

The final AL opener is scheduled for Saturday when the defending world champion New York Yankees open at Texas and Cleveland hosts the Kansas City Royals.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn planned to attend today's opener between the Baltimore Orioles and Brewers in Milwaukee and then return to New York for Friday's game between the Montreal Expos and the Mets.

As the season got under way, negotiations continued in the effort to move the Oakland A's to Denver. Lee MacPhail, president of the American League, was in Denver this week, working on details of the transfer which may yet take place sometime this season.

Meanwhile, Charles O. Finley, owner of the A's, said his club was preparing for the start of the season in Oakland, where the team's first home game is scheduled for next Monday against Seattle.

"We will very definitely open in Oakland," Finley said.

Asked if he could be as sure that the A's would also close in Oakland, the owner said, "I can't say at this time."

Raiders Down ORU 3-1

TULSA (Special)—Texas Tech broke open a scoreless game with three seventh-inning runs and defeated Oral Roberts 3-1 Wednesday night.

Designated hitter Mike Farmer opened Tech's winning rally with a single, and rightfielder John Keller later belted a two-run home run over the 395-foot barrier in left field.

Catcher Scott Leitgruber then reached base on a wild pitch after a third strike pitch, and third baseman Rusty Laughlin and second baseman Johnny Vestal followed with singles to drive him home.

Oral Roberts came back with a run in the bottom half of the frame, but could get no more.

Chuck Johnson, the second of three Tech pitchers, received credit for the victory, his first without a loss.

Tech is 21-15 for the season. Oral Roberts is 17-9.

The Raiders now travel to Arkansas for a three-game weekend SWC series. The first game will begin at 3 p.m. Friday, with David Bolton scheduled to be Tech's starting pitcher.

long time. I almost decided to get out of coaching a few times. My goal for the last five years has been administration. I knew I didn't want to coach for the rest of my life," he said.

Fullerton hopes to receive an administrative position within the local system. If such a post doesn't become available, he says he will be content to wait awhile for it.

"I would probably have thought about it a lot longer if I had won three district championships, but I didn't really sit around and contemplate the winning and losing. I just reached a point in my life where I felt the time was right to make a change."

"I don't think it would have been good for the program if I had stayed. I think I've coached as long as I can with the enthusiasm and everything you need to do a good job," he said.

Fullerton graduated from LHS in 1963 and played three seasons for Tech's cage team. He was a co-captain and starter his final season, the 1966-67 campaign.

The selection of Fullerton's replacement could take a little time, depending upon the number of interested applicants, according to Lubbock schools athletic director Pete Ragus.

"I think it will take a little time. We haven't received any applications yet," Ragus said Wednesday evening. "I'm sure (CHS assistant coach) Larry Christian will be interested in the job."

Christian told The Avalanche-Journal he intended to apply. Lubbock High head basketball coach C.E. Carmichael remained uncertain about his intentions.

Tech Holds Scrimmage

"because we've got so many young linemen."

Guard Greg Mahoney and tackle Bubba Burns, both of whom played a lot in 1977, have quit the team. Mahoney was a senior-to-be, and Burns a fifth-year senior-to-be. Mahoney started several games last season.

The offensive line is now comprised of tight end James Hadnot, strong tackle Robert Caughlin, strong guard Mark Gesch, center Joe Walstad, quick guard Larry Martin and quick tackle Ken Walter.

Walter, Hadnot and Martin started much of last season, while Walstad also played a lot. Caughlin and Gesch will be sophomores in 1978.

Walstad may end up at strong guard when Kim Taliaferro begins contact work later in the spring. Taliaferro, a converted defensive tackle who is recovering from an off-season knee operation, will be tried at center.

"We're not as far along now as we were last spring because we had a veteran team last year and they had more knowledge of things," Dockery added. "This year, we realized that we were going to have to go slower and do more teaching."

"Defensively, we're just trying to teach them techniques now and see how they come along."

Dockery singled out linebacker Don Kelly, defensive lineman Curtis Reed and defensive backs Larry Flowers and Fredy Taylor for commendation Wednesday.

Defensive end Doug Streater, a junior-to-be, has quit the team. He was first-team at quick end, since Andy Thomas is not participating in spring drills because of off-season knee surgery.

Date Set For Bout

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The rematch between heavyweight champion Leon Spinks and Muhammad Ali will be in the Superdome at New Orleans on Sept. 15, the people who hold the exclusive rights to staging that fight said Wednesday.

However, the agreement-in-principle must be approved by both Spinks and Ali before it is official, said Bob Arum, president of the promotion firm Top Rank Inc. of New York.

Arum said a group of New Orleans businessmen and officials has put up a record sum to attract the fight to the $163-million sports palace.

"The current record is $2.5 million put up by the Philippines for the Ali-Joe Frazier 'thrill in Manila,'" Allen said. "This exceeds that amount. We will talk about the numbers when heavyweight champions Spinks and former champion Ali are in New Orleans for a press conference."

He said he will talk to both men Thursday and hopes to have their approval by the end of the week.

Butch Lewis, vice president of Top Rank, said he and Arum had been locked in conference with city businessmen and officials since Monday evening.

Still to be ironed out are details over the availability of hotel rooms, a waiver of the city's 2 per cent amusement tax and percentages from concessions, he said.

Coliseum Board Ends Talks With Finley

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Coliseum announced Wednesday it would not release the Oakland A's from their lease and expected the team to play at the stadium throughout the 1978 baseball season.

In a special meeting, the Coliseum board of directors voted to end months of fruitless negotiations with team owner Charles O. Finley over the possible sale of the team to a Denver oilman.

It also said it would end negotiations with the neighboring San Francisco Giants over plans for that team to play some of its home games in the Coliseum if the A's sale went through.

The directors said there was no time left to complete negotiations before the A's season opener Monday against the Seattle Mariners and added that already scheduled events would prevent any change in the baseball schedule in mid-season.

"The time for negotiations is over. The time for the baseball games is here. Play ball!" the statement concluded.

Raider Banquet Tickets On Sale

Tickets are now on sale for the annual Red Raider Club-sponsored athletic banquet for Texas Tech.

Tickets, priced at $6 each, are available from the Red Raider Club office, Box 456, Lubbock, or by calling 762-8680. The banquet is scheduled in Lubbock Coliseum, beginning at 6:30 p.m. on April 18. Ticket reservations will be accepted until April 18, RRC officials reported.

The banquet is open to any person interested in Tech athletics.

Speaker for the banquet will be Charlie McClendon, longtime headcoach at LSU.

During his 16 years at LSU, McClendon has taken the Tigers to 11 post-season bowl games.

He was coach of the East all-stars two straight years when the Coaches All-America game was staged in Lubbock. He won the first game here, in 1970, by a 34-27 count and then saw his Easterners defeated 33-28 in the 1971 contest.

Athletes in the various men's sports will be honored at the banquet, and conference winners and all-conference performers recognized.

Highlights of the banquet are the announcement of the top awards. The Pete Cawthon, Dell Morgan and Donny Anderson awards in football, the Polk Robison basketball honor.

Bob Nash, program director at KFYO, will be master of ceremonies again, and entertainment will be supplied by the Court Jesters musical group from Tech.

Annually, the banquet attracts a capacity crowd on the floor of the coliseum.

Navratilova's Citizenship Causes Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — Instead of lobbing tennis balls, two conservative congressmen on opposite sides of tennis pro Martina Navratilova's citizenship question are volleying charges at each other.

Rep. Jim Collins, R-Texas, is sponsoring a bill to help Navratilova, a defector from Czechoslovakia, become a U.S. citizen more quickly by waiving the customary five-year wait.

Collins calls Rep. John Rousselot, R-Calif., "bullheaded" for his part in blocking that bill.

The Californian, a lifetime member of the John Birch Society, is one of three Republicans who screen private relief bills before they reach the House. The others are Reps. Chalmers Wylie, R-Ohio, and Robert Bauman, R-Md.

Rousselot objected to the citizenship bill being discussed Tuesday, which could hurt his chances to pass this session. The House is due to consider the bill again April 18.

Collins said, "There we were, three conservative Republicans on one side (himself and Reps. Hamilton Fish and Jack Kemp, R-N.Y.) supporting the bill and three conservative Republicans (the screening trio) on the other side working to kill it."

"Listen, nobody in this Congress is more conservative or any more anti-Communist than I am," Collins said. He said a refugee from a Communist nation should be aided.

Rousselot has said, "I think Communism is a serious issue." However, he maintains his opposition to the private relief bill is not related to Communism, but to whether an exception should be made when granting citizenship.

If Navratilova, 21, now a Dallas resident, waits the customary period, she cannot become a citizen until 1980. Only U.S. citizens may play on the U.S. team in the Wightman and Federation Cup international tennis matches.

Sandra Haney, the tennis star's personal manager, said Wednesday Navratilova will not comment because the citizenship request was "a delicate situation."

Navratilova lobbied here in February on her own behalf. The bill was later approved by the House Immigration subcommittee and the House Judiciary Committee.

Come-From-Behind Affairs Worry Chaps' Hays

By WALT McALEXANDER
Avalanche Journal Sports Staff

The Streak has both pleased and disappointed Larry Hays. Oh, the Lubbock Christian College baseball mentor wouldn't trade those 27 straight victories for anything in the world. He'd just like to work off the fashion in which they were compiled. "I'm kinda fed up with it," he joked Wednesday when referring to the Chaps' repeated comebacks. "I'm pleased by our competitive nature but I think we get behind because we're careless and feel, 'Oh, well, we're gonna come through.'"

"And that's the kind of thinking that will get us blown out this weekend. Especially playing a team like Texas Wesleyan on the road, you have one less opportunity to come from behind, so it's best to jump in front and stay there."

"Really, I don't think we've played all that well in this streak. Our pitching has been inconsistent early in the game and then settled down and given us a chance to win. But for us to be a good club we've got to get ahead and hold our leads and not give the other team a chance to come from behind."

Over the last 27 games, the Chaps have trailed 17 times and two other times have been tied as late as the fourth inning before breaking away. And, on the season, 20 of the 30 wins have been come-from-behind affairs.

The mound staff has 15 complete games—10 to 8 for the opposition—and a 4.31 ERA compared to a 3.49 for the opponents.

"My big concern is about our pitching," Hays said. "The potential is there, it's just time that the individuals come through." The past seven years depth was always a problem for Hays and he never had more than nine pitchers see action in a year. But he's already used 15 hurlers this spring.

Hays has John Ross "penciled in lightly" to start Friday's second game. Ross has not seen action in nine days since twisting a knee against Kearney State.

Hard-throwing Dick Battle has drawn the opening assignment, with unbeaten Oscar Acosta due to hurt Saturday's opener. The series finale will find either Richard Nixon or Gary Swann drawing the starting nod.

Glenn Wilken returned to action Tuesday after an 18-day layoff and Hays said he would take a long look Wednesday and today at how the shortstop's arm responded to the throwing and any after affects that may have developed.

"Glenn's one of the best shortstops in the country defensively. At the start of the year we felt shortstop, second base and centerfield would be the strength of our defense and we certainly don't need to mess with those positions."

But if Wilken returns to the lineup, what happens to Bobby Doe? "The way Doe hits the ball, he's got to be in the lineup somewhere," Hays said of the switch-hitting freshman from Snyder. "If Wilken is ready to go, Doe will probably do some catching."

"We've tried real hard to play several people a lot this year and bring them along slowly. We'll continue to do that. There's no reason to throw away for one series what we've tried to accomplish all year."

"We'll still use one lineup against left-handers and another against righties. I like the way (Richard) Bowles has performed leading off against lefties and also the way Brady (Brashear) has played against them. But when we face a right-hander, Richard will be in right field and Mark Lisle will be the designated hitter (instead of Brasher in right and Bowles the dh).

"Our catcher haven't thrown out too many people (14 of 64, or 21.9 per cent of those attempting to steal bases), so that position may not be decided by the best arm," Hays has used Doe, Charles Cas-ano, Battle, Archie Crim and Mark Morgan behind the plate this year. But Morgan saw his first duty there Tuesday against ACU. "We're still hoping Morgan's arm improves and he comes on by the end of the season. Anytime we get a big lead and aren't in danger, I'll put him in so he can get back in the groove, but I'm not going to jeopardize a game so he can catch."

Hitting, though, it's a different story. Morgan has five hits in nine pinch-hit appearances and rivals Kenny Toney as the MVP among the bench crew.

"Toney is so valuable as a pinch-hitter, I don't know exactly when to use him in the field," Hays said of the third baseman-pitcher who is nursing a sore shoulder. "We had planned all year for him to get that shoulder ready where he can relieve (he won the only game he's appeared in as a pitcher) but I don't think that's going to materialize now."

"That's why we've been working with Bowles some lately as a pitcher. From here on out we'll be on a Tuesday, Friday-Saturday rotation with conference games on the weekends and we're going to need some other pitchers for the mid-week games."

LCC, which is 10-7 in games outside the Hub City this year, holds a 15-8 advantage over TWC and has beaten the Rams four of seven times in Fort Worth.

MacAndrew's Record Still Short Of Goal

Jim MacAndrew had been hoping for 26 feet. He missed by 5 inches.

MacAndrew, the Raider leaper from Toronto, Canada, had a wind in his back which helped, but he also had an injured heel which didn't help. Nevertheless, the senior trackster leaped 25-7 in winning the long jump at last week's Texas Tech Invitational Track Meet.

The effort was good for a meet record, a school record, the best effort so far in the Southwest Conference as well as the league's athlete-of-the-week honor.

MacAndrew extended his lead in the conference. Prior to last Saturday, his best was 25 feet. Now, he has almost a foot lead on his closest competitor, Aggie trackster-grinder Mike Mosley. The best by Mosley is 24-7 1/4.

And from there, the competition drops to 23-8, a distance achieved by Rice's Curtis Isiah.

"I was hoping I could hit 26 feet," MacAndrew said after his competition last week.

This week, MacAndrew will have plenty of competition, as he will be competing in the Texas Relays. The long jump will be held Sunday afternoon.

MacAndrew feels that if he clears 25 feet, he will place in the meet. Last year, the placings were between 25-10 and 25 feet.

MacAndrew was not the only jumper of note in the conference last week, however. The University of Houston's Brett Dames adjusted to a strong trailing wind to clear 17-1 in the pole vault at the Dallas Invitational. It took a recheck to get the measurement, however.

Dames was inadvertently credited with a 16-7 clearance at the conclusion of the meet, but a recheck with the vault judges verified that he went 17-1 on his second try at the height.

Six other seasonal bests were recorded within the SWC. SMU's Cole Doty had new times of 9.98 in the 100-meter and 20.59 in the 200 meters. The win measurements in Dallas were up to West Texas standards: 30 pph.

Other top SWC marks of the season were 1:48.89 in the 800 meters by Baylor's Mark Collins; 3:44.3 in the 1500 meters by Arkansas' Mike Clark; 13:50.72 in the 5000 meters by Rice's Mike Novelli; and 3:10.30 in the mile relay by Rice.

This weekend's Texas Relays will bring all the conference teams together, but just a few of the individual events will be heavily challenged. With a relay format, the individual races will be the 100, 1500, 5000 meters and both hurdles. The field events will be held, however.

Title IX Guides Not Enough?

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP)—The federal government's Title IX guidelines on equal athletic opportunities for both sexes has helped girls' sports, but "there's an awful lot to be done," according to a University of Iowa instructor.

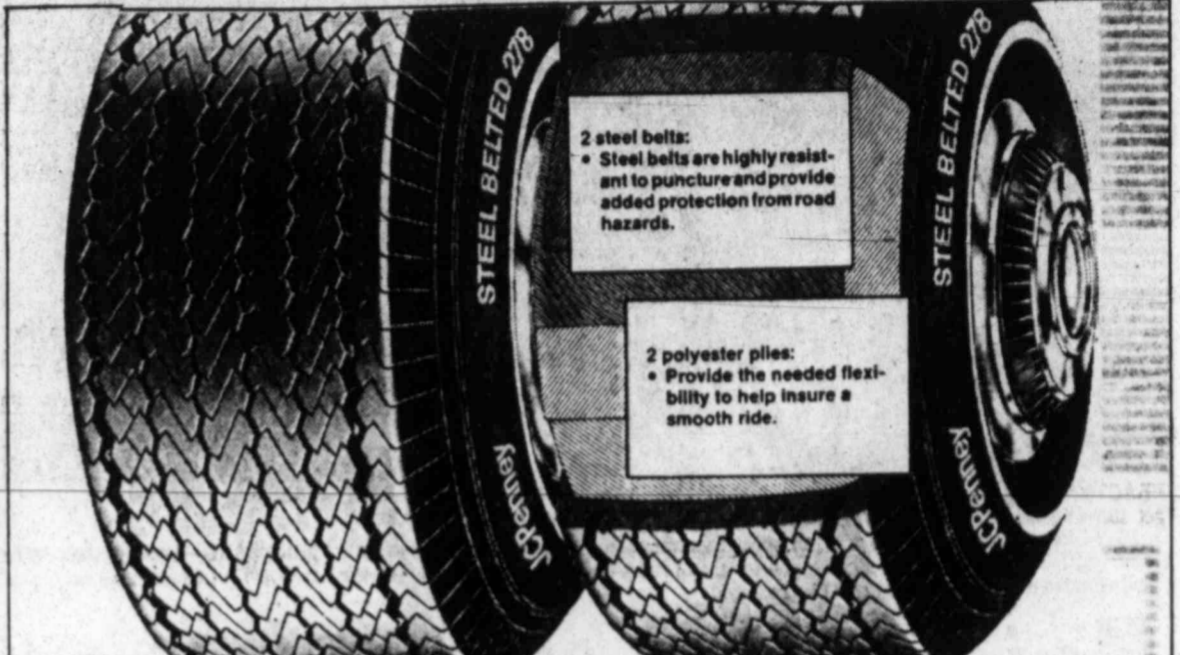

Peg Burke, assistant professor of physical education, said three out of four participants in high school athletics still are boys.

But Burke disagreed with a state athletic official who said Title IX has hurt the growth of girls' sports. Pam Erwin of the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations said the growth of girls' athletics was greater before Title IX was put into effect.

Burke disagreed, saying before Title IX, only 7 percent of participants in high school athletics were girls. That increased to 28 percent for 1976-77.

HOUSTON (AP) — Kevin Stallings guesses that he has had 75 to 100 firm collegiate basketball scholarship offers.

"And many more if I had shown any interest," says the 6-foot-5 Collinsville, Ill., guard.

Stallings plays tonight for the U.S. All-Stars against the Texas All-Stars in the Big Brother Roundball Classic at The Summit.

It was Stallings who last week had a dozen assists as the U.S. team defeated Farwell Jobs Open FARWELL (Special)—New Farwell athletic director Don Alana is in need for three coaches, and applications for the positions are now being accepted. Alana is seeking a boys varsity basketball coach, and two assistant coaches to work with both football and basketball. Persons interested in the positions can contact Alana at 481-3352.

the Pennsylvania All-Stars, 105-100, in the Dapper Dan Classic in Pittsburgh.

"Right now, my list is trimmed down to Illinois, Tennessee, Minnesota, and Cincinnati," Stallings said Wednesday.

"And I really don't know when I'll sign, but it probably won't be long."

The 17-year-old, 185-pounder likes to think of himself as a good ballhandler and dribbler.

"But from what the coaches tell me, my strength is in passing the basketball," he said. "I don't know why because I don't spend any extra time working on passes."

boy great who later starred in the National Basketball Association.

A sprained ankle at Pittsburgh sidelined Anderson, however, and his lineup spot is being taken by Michael Mitchell, a 6-5 guard from Los Angeles.

Other U.S. stars include 6-7 Clarence Tillman, West Philadelphia, 6-3 Fred Thompson, Las Vegas, Walker Russell, the Dapper Dan's most valuable player from Pontiac, Mich., and Leonel Marquetti of Verbum Dei in Los Angeles.

Martin will have height in 6-11 Rudy Woods, Bryan, and three 6-9 stars, James Griffin, Fort Worth Dunbar, Anthony Lee, Tylerand Terry White, El Paso Eastwood.

Martin expects to receive outside shooting punch from 6-6 Joe Costello, Houston Westchester, 6-0 Billy Allen, Dallas Highland Park, 6-5 Terry Teagle, Broadus, and 6-6 Jerry Davis, West Oso.

WHA Head Confident Of Houston

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — World Hockey Association President Howard Baldwin said Wednesday he is confident there will be a WHA team in Houston next season despite a statement from the Houston Aeros' owners that they will either seek a National Hockey League franchise or fold.

"First of all, I am not aware of any indication from the NHL that they will be receptive to a Houston application," Baldwin said in a news release. "I believe that the current ownership of the Aeros might become convinced of the benefits of operating in the WHA next season. If not, I have no doubts of our ability to reorganize a new ownership."

Kenneth Schnitzer, one of five persons who bought the Aeros earlier this year, announced a campaign Tuesday to sell 7,000 season tickets to demonstrate that Houston is ready for an NHL franchise.

Baldwin said that if the Aeros' ticket drive is successful but the NHL doesn't grant them a franchise, "I don't think they can turn their backs on that kind of support."

"By June 1, the WHA, with or without Houston, will be able to exhibit a strong program for a future independent of the NHL. I am not sure that the Aeros can have an answer from the NHL by that date."

"In any event, I have been advised that there are other investors in Houston who are willing to carry on WHA hockey provided the city's hockey future doesn't remain undecided until August or September. I also think some of the principals of the current ownership could be encouraged to join the new group and of course we would welcome them."

"I remain convinced of the viability of the WHA for next season and beyond."

Texans Win Shootout Against Rival Hawks

DALLAS (AP) — The way Dallas Black Hawk Coach Gerry McNamara looks at it, the "greatest race" in the history of the Central Hockey League was decided Tuesday night on a penalty.

But then, McNamara's bullies were on the losing end of a 3-2 sudden-death, overtime decision claimed by arch rival Fort Worth.

After 11 fruitless years, the Jones Trophy finally found its way into the Texans' barren brag box. And the champagne flowed like water.

The Stanley Cup isn't don't tell that to the Texans' rookie player-coach Billy MacMillan, whose club has earned a home berth going into the Adams Cup semifinals.

"We were so hungry we came out too tight at the start, but the guys were determined not to let it slide until tomorrow night," said MacMillan. "They made us work hard for it."

The Dallas-Fort Worth shootouts have served as primers on several occasions for bloody brawls involving fans and well as players. However, it never came to that Tuesday night as 2,638 mostly Dallas fans watched Dwight Bialowas finish the job his Texan teammates started.

The defenseman fired a power play goal through the pads of Hawk goalie Dave Elenbaas at 5:03 into the extra period.

"We deserved a better fate at home, but this game was par for the course with our luck in overtime," Elenbaas said later. His frustration was valid.

Fort Worth managed just 15 shots on goal during the evening, while the Black Hawks gunned 34 at busy Texan goalie Don Cutts.

"I saw Bialowas' goal all the way and also the earlier one (by Alex Pirus). Both of them went right through my legs..."

McNamara was miffed that an overtime game was settled by a power play goal. Fort Worth had a one-man advantage when Dallas' Paul Evans was penalized for slashing in the overtime period.

"It was a lousy call, a murder call," said McNamara. "There's no way there should have been a penalty there. He (referee Charles Banfield) had waved off a tripping call on Jean Savard moments earlier."

"He said he took a dive. So then he gives Evans a slash and the greatest race in the history of the league is decided on a penalty..."

Fort Worth opens at home Friday and

Flyers Hang By Thread In NHL

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Flyers have left opportunity waiting behind the door and now can only hope the New York Islanders won't answer.

The Flyers remain alive in the National Hockey League's Patrick Division race because they tied the Islanders 3-3 when the teams met Tuesday night for what was supposed to be the title-deciding game.

A mathematical chance of retaining the division crown they held since division play began nearly four seasons ago is all the Flyers own.

The Flyers, who were off Wednesday, must win their final three games and hope the Islanders lose their last two.

"We're hanging by a thin thread, but until we're mathematically eliminated, there's still hope," said Ross Lonsberry.

"You're never satisfied when you need a win and don't get it," he added. "But we've played well through the last part of the season, and that has to be on our minds even if we don't finish first."

Still, the Flyers had to come away with some sense of satisfaction and confidence for the playoffs in tying the Islanders without injured Rick MacLeish and Reggie Leach, who was scratched, in the lineup.

"Those are two pretty good goal-scorsers," said goaltender Bernie Phought warent, who faced 35 Islanders' shots. "I thought we did pretty good without those two."

"But I've said this before: if we get first place, we get it," Parent added. "If we don't, it's fine, too. The important thing is being sharp for the playoffs."

Which, the Flyers seem to be. With MacLeish and Leach out, the Flyers had only four 20-goal scorers in their lineup, compared to the Islanders' seven.

But the Flyers countered the younger, faster Islanders with effective bumping, checking hockey that kept the Islanders' champagne party on ice — an effective achievement considering that the match was on the Islanders' home territory.

"I think this game meant a little more to us," said assistant coach Terry Crisp. "They were on home ice and could have salted it away. They could have broken open their champagne. Naturally, we'd have liked the extra point, but we can't be too upset. We played a good solid hockey game."

Jimmy Watson noted the improvement in the Flyers from just before Christmas until the end of February.

"We were in the doldrums. We weren't going anywhere," he said. "I thought we outplayed them."

"Too many games this season our big scorers have come up flat and not enough others have backed them up," Crisp added. "Tonight we had everybody going."

"We've got good momentum now," Parent said.

Head coach Red Miller of Denver served 17 years as an assistant in the NFL before getting his chance at a top spot.

SPORTSMAN'S DIGEST

By Hal Sharp

FAULTS OF A LOW BACKCAST

© 1978 L.A. Times Synd.

If a fly line slaps water or ground on a backcast, this may be your trouble. Your rod is going beyond a vertical angle to the rear (watch the rod in action). You may find it necessary to stop rod's backswing before it reaches vertical to cure this habit.

If the backcast line does not straighten before it drops, the backcast may be weak or you are using too much line.

If backcast line straightens before it slaps down, start it forward sooner.

CHS's Moore Breezes To Top

By JIM FERGUSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
It doesn't take someone with a Ph.D. to realize that Archie Moore wasn't simply breezing along last Saturday at the City Meet. Gusting is more like it. Moore, a Coronado High School junior, took advantage of a nifty little breeze to record a swift 21.7 in the 220. The clocking, which also was good enough to tie a "cast of thousands" for sixth in the state, was still the fastest recorded in the city so far. However, just a step or two behind Moore is Estacado's Kenzie Burrell at 21.9. "Even if he (Moore) hadn't had the wind to his back he still would have run a fast time," said Coronado track coach James Gandy about Moore's stellar performance. "You could tell by the way he ran down the backstretch that he was coming on." Turning on is more like it.

Moore, described by his coach as "not a strong curve runner," fell behind early in the race but made up the distance in the last 100 or so yards when he turned on the after burners, passing Burrell and Dunbar's Jerry Isaacs. "If we could ever get him to run a fast curve then I think he is capable of a 22.1 or faster," Gandy pointed out. "But to expect a race like he ran (at the City Meet) every week is not humanly possible."

During Moore's only try at the 100 this year, he posted a "10.7 or something" at the Hobbs meet. Along with turning in top times in the 220, Moore handles his own on his leg of the mile relay. As a sophomore he clocked a 48.8 anchor leg. "I don't know what he can run this year on the mile relay," Gandy said. "We've never been close enough to anyone yet for him to really have to put out."

ON TOP—Monterey's Chuck Perry clears 6-9 in the high jump during last Saturday's City Meet. Perry's distance was enough to keep him on top of this week's city standings in the high jump. (Staff Photo)

Upward Spiral Of Farmland Values In U.S. Diminishes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The most expensive farmland in the country continues to be in the Corn Belt and the more populated states of the Northeast, the Agriculture Department said Wednesday.

But even in those areas the average value of land has slowed from its rapid gain of recent years. On the average, U.S. farmland values on Feb. 1 were up 9 percent from a year earlier, the smallest rise in six years.

The land values were included in a final report issued by the department's Economics, Statistics and Cooperatives Service.

A preliminary report showing the overall value gain of 9 percent was issued last month.

New Jersey farmland was worth an average of $2,057 an acre on Feb. 1, up 3 percent from a year earlier, the report said. Land in Rhode Island and Connecticut was valued at $1,939 and $1,962 an acre, respectively, up 10 percent.

Five states in the Corn Belt overall showed a land value increase during the year of about 10 percent in 1977-78 against a climb of more than 30 percent in 1976-77. The Feb. 1 values and percentage increases from a year earlier included:

- Ohio $1,263 and 13 percent higher, Indiana $1,303 and 12; Illinois $1,581 and 10; Iowa $1,268 and 4; and Missouri $602 and 14.

The only state showing a decline in value from Feb. 1 of last year was Nebraska with an average of $385 an acre, down 4 percent.

Nationally, the average value of farmland was $490 an acre against $450 on Feb. 1 of last year. In 1972, before commodity prices began soaring and inflation took its full bite, farmland nationally averaged $219 an acre, up 8 percent from 1971.

But then values rose to $246 an acre in 1973, up 12 percent; $302 in 1974, up 23 percent; $341 in 1975, up 13 percent; $387 in 1976, up 13 percent; and $450 in 1977, up 16 percent, according to revised figures in the report.

The lowest-priced farmland as of Feb. 1 was reported at $93 an acre in New Mexico, up 4 percent from a year earlier.

Other states and their average farmland values as of Feb. 1 and their percentage increases from a year earlier, by region, included:

- Northeast — Maine $441 an acre and up 10 percent from a year earlier; New Hampshire $729 and 10; Vermont $597 and 10; Massachusetts $1,242 and 10; New York $589 and 2; Pennsylvania $1,092 and 12; Delaware $1,500 and 12; and Maryland $1,578 and 16.
- Lakes region — Michigan $880 and 12; Wisconsin $690 and 18; and Minnesota $730 and 12.

PLAINS AGRICULTURE

By DUANE HOWELL

CONGRESSIONAL CONFEREES FINISHED formal action on the emergency farm bill Wednesday and sent it along to an uncertain fate in the House and Senate.

Backers and opponents agreed that the bill — major price support provisions of which were agreed to by the conference committee Tuesday — faces a particularly tough time in the House.

Rep. Thomas Foley, D-Wash., chairman of the House Agriculture Committee and leader of the House members of the conference panel, said conflicts with the congressional budget act portend "some very serious problems" in even getting the issue to the House floor.

Foley said the bill's managers would have to seek either a waiver of the budget act provisions from the Rules Committee or to get the bill considered on the floor under a suspension of the rules.

BILLS CONSIDERED UNDER SUSPENSION are not subject to points of order but require a two-thirds vote for passage. Foley doubted if a two-thirds House vote could be mustered.

Additional trouble for the bill was indicated when Rep. Fred Richmond, D-N.Y., refused to sign the conference report which formally decides the measure along for floor consideration.

Richmond said he would actively oppose the bill because its effect on consumer prices had not been estimated.

As the only member of the House Agriculture Committee from a totally urban area, Richmond is considered influential with some urban colleagues on farm issues.

The conferees plan to send the bill to the Senate, where passage is considered more likely, before tackling the problems in the House.

CONFERENCE CHAIRMAN HERMAN TALMADGE, D-Ga., said Senate floor consideration could come as soon as today if sponsors can obtain unanimous consent of the Senate to interrupt Panama Canal treaty deliberations.

Administration officials said they have not been able to develop firm cost estimates on the bill but should have some figures today.

But both Talmadge and Sen. Robert Dole, a key backer of the bill, sought to discount the validity of the cost estimates in advance, arguing that the many variables involved made them meaningless.

"It would be the wildest sort of guess, in my judgment," Talmadge said. Dole declared that "nobody knows what it's going to cost."

THE CONFEREES CLEARED UP SEVERAL technical points before concluding action Wednesday.

They revised a land diversion section to provide that diversion payments to producers of upland cotton, corn, grain sorghum and barley will be made only if their acreage planted to the commodity for harvest in 1978, plus diversion, does not exceed the acreage planted to the commodity for harvest in 1977.

The conferees specified that new loan and target price levels would not become effective until Oct. 1, but with payments made retroactively to cover all 1978 crops.

Crop Thermometer Developed

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Remember the old-time farmer whose notion of when to water crops depended on whether they felt cool or warm to his hand?

That very notion is under intensive study at the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Water Conservation Laboratory here.

Instead of using a hand to take crop temperatures, laboratory director Herman Bouwer and his fellow scientists use super-sensitive infrared thermometers.

Now in the experimental stage, the thermometers are manipulated manually, but the scientists envision infrared equipment mounted in satellites capable of global scanning of agricultural fields.

Already the National Aeronautics and Space Administration has taken "heat pictures" of farm fields near here as part of the project.

At the bottom of this is the principle of water evaporation. When it evaporates, water cools. Likewise, as plants give off moisture through leaves, they are cooled. So, a cool plant has enough water.

COMPLETE STOCKS MARKET INDEX

Mart Makes Broad Gain

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market turned in its strongest showing in almost a month Wednesday with a broad advance that gathered strength as the day progressed.

Trading was active. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial climbed 7.71 to 763.08, on top of a 4.43-point rise Tuesday.

That marked the best daily performance by the blue chips that make up the Dow since the average rose 8.58 points on March 10.

Advances outnumbered declines by close to a 5-2 margin on the New York Stock Exchange, with 1,600-plus issues gaining ground. The NYSE's composite index picked up .43 to 50.09.

Volume on the Big Board accelerated to 27.26 million shares from 20.13 million the day before.

The market's lively behavior contrasted with a generally drab news background.

Brokers said the early stages of the upswing Tuesday appeared to have been inspired by a rally in the depressed dollar in foreign exchange. But while the U.S. currency turned mixed Wednesday, stock prices continued to push ahead.
