HEW To Check Tech On Civil Rights Compliance

Avalanche-Journal Staff REPRESENTATIVES from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) will be looking into Texas Tech's compliance with Title VI civil rights regulations, The Avalanche-Journal has learned. An HEW site team is scheduled to be at Texas Tech April 24 for a week-long review of various university procedures, including employment, counseling, tutoring, admissions and recruitment. The visit is part of a review of 18 Texas universities and colleges, announced by HEW Secretary Joseph Califano in Feb-

However, Tech officials say HEW ostensibly could fail to certify Texas Tech for any additional government contracts if the school is found not to be in compliance with the law.

Dr. Glenn Barnett, vice president for planning, says although Tech has, "in good faith," been trying to comply with government affirmative action programs, 'we don't think we've been as successful as we'd like to be" in hiring minority applicants and women.

Barnett flatly denied there was "any kind of even unconscious feeling that Tech won't take minorities." Part of the problem he said, is that outstanding applicants are too few to fill all the jobs.

"It's difficult to get minorities with doctorates here," Richard Klocko, director of personnel, pointed out. "The salaries here are among the lowest 20 percent in the nation and there is nothing Lub-bock really can offer a black PhD."

Klocko said Tech's-affirmative action program "hasn't been working as well as it should. The results are not what we expected, even though the effort is being

A light, but steady, rain began to fall in Lubbock about 6 p.m. Sunday, but once again the city escaped any serious threat from the weather. Late Sunday, officials at the National Weather Service station here had recorded .1 of an inch of moisture with the rain continuing to fall. Forecasters say there is a 20 percent chance that more rain will fall in the area today. A cold front moving across the Panhandle will keep the mercury from rising any higher than the upper 50s this afternoon, with tonight's low expected to dip into the upper 30s, forecasters say.

Most of Sunday's severe weather was located to the east and south of Lubbock. The NWS issued a tornado watch for Mo tley, Cottle, Dickens, King, Garza and Kent Counties along the eastern edge of the Panhandle at about noon. But by 11 p.m. Sunday, weathermen reported the possibility of twisters had disappeared.

Tornado Watches Widespread However, it was a real threat most of the afternoon, and at one point Sunday 71 Texas counties were included in tornado

The most immediate threat Sunday came from severe thunderstorms which stretched from the Big Bend area through San Angelo and Abilene up to the Dallas-Fort Worth region.

At mid-afternoon marble to golf ball size hail was pelting Abilene and the surrounding towns. West of Fort Phantom Lake in that area, the huge hail stones had completely covered the ground.

And at the Veribest Community out-side of San Angelo, Tom Green County sheriff's deputies reported that marble sized hail had damaged some roofs and killed a dog. At Ozona in the Big Bend region, residents reported that baseball size hail stones and wind gusts up to 45 mph ac-companied the one and one-half inches of rainfall received there. Because of the large amounts of rainfall, many central counties issued flash flood warnings. Sunday's threatening weather was ed, however, that Somali troops embittered by the retreat might strike out at Siad Barre.

Gunfire Reported

Western diplomatic sources contacted by telephone in Mogadishu, capital of the East African nation, said gunfire broke out about 8:15 a.m. at the village of Afgoy, eight miles south of Mogadishu, and continued for about two hours. The sources said small arms fire and explosions were heard in the capital.

Siad Barre later announced on official radio, monitored here, that "a few" rebel officers and enlisted men "were immediately faced by the armed forces who put their rebellion down." He said the insurgents were captured and would "be tried according to Somali law."

"We have overcome them. All is well, all is normal," he said.

No official casualty report was given, but the sources said there were indications of deaths. The government news agency in nearby Sudan said a number of Somali leaders were killed but did not say whether they were rebels or govern ment supporters.

"Back To Normal"

By early afternoon, the diplomatic sources said, pedestrian and auto movement was back to normal in Mogadishu, although extra soldiers continued to patrol the streets with civilian police. Tanks stood on sand dunes flanking the airport and the president's nearby headquarters in a military compound, the diplomats reported.

Siad Barre said he was "very sad" that 'individuals connected with the imperialists should attempt to shed Somali blood," and he urged Somalis to be "vigilant against the agents of colonialism who are out to disrupt national unity." Ever since Somalia withdrew its troops from the Ogaden desert of eastern Ethiopia, diplomatic sources in Mogadishu had been warning of a possible coup bid against Siad Barre, who himself took power in a 1969 military uprising. Somalia's forces had joined ethnic Somalis in the Ogaden in an effort to wrest the region from Ethiopian control. The insurgents have continued hit-and-run strikes in the Ogaden, claiming Sunday in a statement broadcast by Somali radio that they blew up a truck and killed 30

Cuban soldiers riding in it near the northern town of Jijiga.

Somalia Coup

There reportedly has been dissatisfaction in the Somali army over the decision

"Everything is possible after a defeat, including a coup. He (Siad Barre) is facing a very hard time," one Arab diplomat had said, requesting anonymity.

Israel Acknowledges Cluster Bombs Used Against Guerrillas refugee camps near Tyre, in the guerrilla-

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) - The Israeli army acknowledged Sunday it had used U.S.-made "cluster" bombs in its invasion of southern Lebanon, saying they were dropped on Palestinian guerrilla positions that fired on northern Israel. The State Department said in Washington Saturday that Israel had used the anti-personnel devices, canisters stuffed with deadly shrapnel bomblets, in violation of American restrictions. The restrictions were not specified. An Israèli army spokesman at that time refused comment The Israeli military said in a communique Sunday: "There were several instances of incessant artillery and Katyusha (rocket) fire on our villages in the north. Cluster bombs were used against these artillery units and field positions" that directed the fire. A spokesman would not specify how many bombs were dropped or where. Solon Raises Question

The charge that Israel used cluster bombs in the invasion, which began March 15, was raised Friday by Rep. Paul McCloskey, R-Calif. He said he had information from "unimpeachable sources" that Israel dropped the bombs in south Lebanon at a crossroads two miles south of Tyre and a refugee camp eight miles east of Tyre. McCloskey said civilians lived in the areas where the bombs were dropped. Reporters in southern Lebanon corroborated the reports that the deadly devices were used.

Less Shaky Over Death

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Americans are becoming less afraid of death and a majority approved of legalized meres killing in a recent poll, according to a new insurance industry report.

It advises insurance executives that these changing attitudes, combined with the steady increase in life expectancy? levels, may impose the need for drasticchange in life insurance concepts. Offering a bizarre scenario of the flamboyant, voluntary death-styles that might be in vogue by the turn of the century, when the average life span could-be 90 years, the report said life insur-ance may simply become secondary to-coverage of the home and the car and toother forms of investment.

Insurance Decline Likely "If people perceive the risk of prema-ture death to be decreasing," it said, "they may buy less life insurance and place more of their money in other fin ancial vehicles."

The report was prepared by the American Council on Life Insurance, a trad association representing firms with percent of the industry's assets.

It said 52 percent of the Americans surveyed last year approved of the pro osition that doctors should be legally a lowed to end the life of a terminally person painlessly, if that person and his family request it.

That finding was compared with a 190 Gallup Poll in which only 36 percent of those surveyed agreed with a similar those surveyed agree

From another, they are an effort to sell" an environmentally dangerous project to New Mexicans.

The Waste Isolation Pilot Plant (WIPP) has generated controversy since federal officials first proposed burying radioactive wastes 2,000 feet deep in salt formations about 25 miles southeast of Carlsbad.

Debate Intensifies

The debate has intensified in recent months with apparent changes in the original purpose of WIPP and should continue as the date for actual storage of material approaches, now estimated near

Proponents claim that the salt bed are so stable geologically that nuclear material can be stored in them for its radioactive lifetime. Opponents argue that too little is known of the possible dangers of geological storage and question the government's candor in explaining the issue

The DOE will hold three public meetings to discuss nuclear waste and the WIPP project -April 11 at Carlsbad; April 12 at Albuquerque and April 14 at Santa Fe. DOE officials scheduled to attend include Deputy Secretary John O'Leary and the director of the Office of Energy Research, John Deutch, who directed a recent task force review of nuclear waste management.

"The principle purpose (of the mee-tilngs) is to gain public input on WIPP and get the reaction of the people in New Mexico as to what they think about it," said George Dennis, director of informa-tion for the DOE's Albulquerque office. "Out of that, we will determine approaches to be made and missions for the

"They say they're coming to get public input, but I think they're coming to sell the WIPP project to the people of New Mexico," said John Liebendorfer, a research associate at the Southwest Re-search and Information Center, one of several state environmental groups op-

several other organizations plan to ap-pear at the DOE meetings to speak against WIPP, said the SRIC opposed the project on environmental and economic He said some geophysists feared the waste would heat the salt beds to where they would become "plastic" and the ra-dioactive material would move. He also said studies have shown that water has permeated the salt formations in the past, showing the formations are not as geologically stable as claimed by project proponents.

Creating a nuclear disposal site also could hurt the state's tourist industry, especially at Carisbad Caverns, he said, and could ruin property values along lines of transportation to the site.

Similar objections are raised by Roxanne Kartchner of Carisbad, the head of an opposition group called the Carisbad nuclear waste forum.

"This is not the best solution (to disposing of nuclear waste); it's the cheapest,"

WASHINGTON (AP) - Four American Jewish children tried on Sunday to present to Soviet diplomats a letter expressing "deep concern for the Jewish children in the Soviet Union." but no one answered the doorbell at the Russian embassy here.

A Soviet spokesman, who refused to give his name, would say only that "the embassy is closed on weekends" when contacted by phone Sunday afternoon.

While the children tried to deliver the letter, addressed to Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev, some 2,500 supporters of the National Conference of Soviet Jewry marched nearby asking for more lenient immigration policies for Soviet. Intrepid Bugs Resist Man, Nature

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Socorro isopod, latest member of the endangered species list, is a credit to crustaceans everywhere and an inspiration to us all.

Appearance-wise, the Socorro isopod Isopods are small, fixed-eyed land or water bugs with seven pairs of legs. The Socorro variety is about a half-inch long with a head nearly three times as broad as it is long. It is described as a relative of the common sowbug, also known as the wood louse.

Today, only 2,500 remain, all confined to a 90-foot section of open drain pipe that leads to an abandoned bath house. What sort of protection can these noble bugs expect now that they have been officially declared endangered? For one thing, it will be illegal to export them, if anyone was contemplating such a step. Nor can they be legally killed or collected or placed in jeopardy by such encroachments as the geothermal projects in the area. Eventually, according to John Paradiso of the Endangered Species Office, it may be possible to find them a new home that is safer and more commodious than a drain pipe.

Paradiso, incidentally, said he became so admiring of the isopods' indomitability, he made their addition to the list sort of a personal project.

WEATHER RESULTS - Saturday night's rash of severe thunderstorms and tornadoes left its mark on the South Plains landscape. One twister dipped out of clouds near the community of Heckville, but no damage was reported. But the storm, which dropped large amounts of rainfall across much of the Panhandle, also filled the furrows of this field, left, five miles south of Heckville, making the irrigation equipment unecessary. And with the rain in that Panhandle town came large hail stones, like the one pictured at center, about two inches in diameter. But once the rain, hail and winds stopped, it was back to business as usual for Steve Panter, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Panter of New Deal. The only weather-related problem faced by young Steve was trying to walk along the muddy roadside in oversized boots to collect the day's mail. (Staff Photos by Norm Tindell)

Heart Surgeon Hero In Kenya

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) - Dr. Christiaan N. Barnard, the white South African surgeon who pioneered heart transplants, has become something of a hero in this black-governed nation for operating without fee on a seriously ill 8-yearold Kenyan girl.

A flood of letters to newspapers hails him as a man who pushed aside the racial barriers in his country to perform a humanitarian deed.

But Barnard first had to recoup from some earlier bad publicity. Last December a letter-to-the-editor was published in a local newspaper accusing him of being a "racialist" on the basis of the reader's interpretation of a speech the surgeon made.

Then Barnard agreed to operate on the black girl, who had a faulty heart valve. The operation last month, with a mixedrace surgical team assisting in Cape Town's Groote Schuur Hospital, was a success

Kenyans also were reading news reports that Barnard had paid the fare for the children of Robert Sobukwe, a black South African nationalist leader, to fly from the United States to attend his funeral after he died Feb. 27. The Sobukwe children were living in American with Andrew Young, the U.S. ambassador to the United Nations. Letters praising Barnard began after he agreed to operate on Joyce Makori, daughter of an auto mechanic. She flew to South Africa with her father and her doctor, Heron Manduku, following a local fund drive.

Barnard has performed surgery on other blacks previously, including a Kenyan boy last year.

In one representative letter, reader Machoka Wesley commented: "It is surprising that a doctor from South Africa which is so far away could agree to conduct such an operation without charge and some of our Kenyans have been reluctant to come to Joyce's aid."

Another reader who signed himself "Edwin O." wrote: "Some time back you published Dr. Barnard's speech after one of your readers had accused him of being a racialist. After reading of his gesture towards Sobukwe's children — arranging for them to attend their father's funeral - and also his gesture towards the young Kenyan girl, I am left to wonder at the truth of such an accusation.

"The doctor is a very rare breed among human beings. I have always waited to see his attitude towards black patients. The doctor is an admirable man with a very good and clean conscience. I do hope he will have a chance of reading my appreciation of him.'

The letter writer who branded Barnard a racist quoted him as saying in a speech that black leader Steve Biko, who died in South African police custody last year, was a "terrorist." Barnard denied ever having said that.

In a book published last year Barnard assailed South Africa's racial separation policy, called apartheid, as one which daily dehumanizes the lives of so many people." On the other hand, he has disagreed with the Carter administration's policy of insisting on black majority rule in South Africa.

In another letter praising Barnard, reader Sammy E. Githenya wrote recently to The Sunday Nation: "Slowly the curtain rises and out of the South African stage of apartheid oppressivism and human injustice emerges a man who knows no color, no race and no discrimination: Dr. Barnard.

"Consent to carry out the operation has strikingly demonstrated Dr. Barnard's humanism, his selflessness coupled by a rigorous defense and maintenance of professional ethics - virtues that cost so little but do so much.

Hundreds of friends, relatives and wellwishers welcomed Joyce on her return home Saturday with her father and Dr.

Submarine Thresher Still Lies On Bottom

BOSTON (UPI) - The seabottom still holds the secret of what happened to the nuclear submarine Thresher, which made its last dive 15 years ago today.

The Thresher, out of the Portsmouth. N.H., Naval Shipyard, plunged silently to the bottom of the Atlantic Ocean 220 miles east of Cape Cod, carrying 129 men to their deaths.

It was the worst peacetime submarine disaster in history.

No ceremonies are planned at the Portsmouth Navy Yard to mark the tragedy.

Many people are still reluctant to talk about the Thresher and other sea disasters, said yard spokesman Bob Johnston. "It's an old Navy tradition - ignore it and it may go away," he said. "After a while time seems to take over and make you think of other things," said Mrs. Michael Dinola, who lost her husband aboard the sub. "You still have a sense of loss though.

Doctors Perform Unusual Abortion

The Swedish domestic news agency said Sunday the operation was carried out in the 24th week of pregnancy when one fetus was found to have a rare metabolic disorder

The doctors, Anders Aberg and Felix Mitelman, were quoted by the agency as saying an ultra-sound technique enabled them to perform the operation. The mother, who recently gave birth to the healthy twin, was unharmed. She was not identified.

The doctors said they would soon pub-lish details of the operation in medical journals.

Aberg said cases requiring selective abortion are very rare. Previously in such situations both twins had to be aborted.

The fire reportedly started when gas leaking under the house ignited, setting fire to a bedroom close to the Walshes' own bedroom.

AN EDITORIAL:

Lubbock--On The Bright Side

LUBBOCK'S progress during this decade has been remarkable, a taken-for-granted fact that was put into focus by the Committee 70 progress report in Sunday's Avalanche-Journal.

Most people who read the report doubt-

Most people who read the report doubtlessly had not stopped to think before about how many of the community's "Goals for the '70s" have been reached in the less than eight years since they were adopted.

The achievements stand as a living monument to the power of a communitywide spirit applied to a well-planned blueprint for action.

AS THE COMMITTEE'S report emphasized, Lubbock still faces many opportunities and challenges.

That is, however, an encouraging point. It is the nature of progress to establish a continual series of new plateaus from which to faunch new endeavors, not to achieve a self-satisfied pinnacle on which to sit down and twiddle thumbs forevermore.

During the '70s, Lubbock has expanded its economic base, improved its transportation facilities, broadened educational opportunities, rebuilt blighted and tornado-ravaged neighborhoods and made a good start toward enhancing the quality of life for every

Committee 70, a creature of the Chamber of Commerce that ultimately gave everyone in Lubbock an opportunity to participate in setting and working toward community goals, covered some of the highlights in its Sunday report.

THE COMMUNITY, since 1970, has attracted Texas Instruments and other new employers—and existing businesses have expanded. Retail outlets have multiplied.

A medical school has opened and vocational-technical education has been made available by South Plains College. Lubbock Christian College, too, has grown.

Airport facilities and traffic have experi-

Airport facilities and traffic have experienced vast growth. Interstate 27 northward is under construction. The Memorial Civic Center, the Canyon Lakes project and other developments provide new entertainment and recreation possibilities.

Water, traffic, crime control and expressway-highway construction are among those goals on which progress has been made but which remain as challenges for the future.

The main point of the status of the Goals for the '70s, however, is this: Lubbock is a much better city in 1978 than it was in 1970—and "you ain't seen nothin' yet!"

AN EDITORIAL:

Big Laborers Of Discontent

SINCE 1978 is a congressional election year, Big Labor can be expected to exploit its reputed ability to turn out the vote as it seeks support for its legislative goals.

Fortunately for right-to-work advocates this tactic may be losing its effectiveness.

Labor, you'll recall, claimed credit for Carter's winning margin in key industrial states in 1976, but the President has been unresponsive to a number of Labor's demands since he took office.

AFL-CIO BIG BOSS George Meany is all for free trade, provided it meets his definition: "Do unto others as they do unto us barrier for barrier, closed door for closed door."

Alarmed by the effect of imports on U.S. employment, the labor federation has made protectionist trade legislation its primary goal in the current session of Congress.

Protectionist sentiment appears to have gained strength in recent years. Labor can now count on the support of the textile, clothing, steel and electronics industries, all of which face stiff competition from imported products.

Competition from abroad may be partially responsible for the erosion of AFL-CIO membership. When the federation held its convention in December, the unions affiliated with it had a combined membership of 13.5 million, as against 14 million at the time of its previous convention in 1975.

BUT FOREIGN competition is not the only source of uneasiness among labor leaders.

They also are unhappy about several aspects of President Carter's budget plans for FY 1979, including the proposals to eliminate the present tax deduction for union dues and to begin taxing unemployment insurance benefits when family gross income exceeds $25,000.

Much of the opposition to the AFL-CIO's legislative campaign comes from the Emergency Committee for American Trade (E-CAT), a group of 64 multi-national companies that was instrumental in defeating passage of the so-called Burke-Hartke bill in the early 1970s.

Burke-Hartke would have imposed quotas and tariffs on imports that were making major penetration into U.S. markets.

"The climate is certainly there for action," ECAT vice president Raymond Garcia told Business Week, "(but) sloganeering is not going to be enough to fight the fact that we have an unprecedented trade deficit, high unemployment and an election year coming up."

If the overwhelmingly Democratic 95th Congress continues in its unsympathetic ways toward the unions, it's unlikely for labor and lucky for us that Meany & Co. will carry the day in 1978 on all the issues it holds vital.

VIRGINIA PAYETTE:

We've Lost The Ability To Be Concerned--Mahon

IF THERE WAS ever any doubt that folks out there just aren't paying attention, this ought to clear it up: Half the families in a recent poll think their economic situation will be peachydandy by 1983.

That's what 2,500 Americans told a Conference Board survey, anyway. And a third of the 5,000 interviewed said they figured things would probably be the same five years from now.

bly be the same five years from now.
Only 15 percent seem to grasp what's really going on. They're convinced they'll be worse off than they are now.

And if the fact that 1983 gets a 50-percent vote of confidence from anybody startles you, try this must one on for gasps:

THE MOST optimistic groups were those with young families and folks with higher incomes. The very ones, you might suppose, who make it a point to be in the know when it comes to their not-so-almighty-anymore dollars. Makes you wonder where they've been lately.

Prices for the past couple of months have gone up at an annual rate of 9.6 percent, with food prices exploding at an annual double-digit rate of 13.4 percent. And word from the farmers and supermarkets is that this is only the beginning.

And the money men were warning us that the public debt is getting dangerously close to a trillion dollars.

Just for fun one economist whipped out his pocket calculator and figured out how much $1 trillion really is. In terms that even those optimistic taxpayers could understand.

IN $1 BILLS, for instance, a trillion bucks bould: fill a warehouse 47 feet wide, 20 feet high, and eight miles long; placed end to end, stretch 1,909,000 miles, or four million miles beyond the jun; or, stacked up in a pile of silver, dollars, each as high as 5,661,000 Empire State buildings. To put it another way, a shopper would have to pend $100,000 a minute, 24 hours a day, seven lays a week for 19 years to go through a trillion. But a trillion-dollar debt presumably has to be said back, some time. And the only money available to the government is tax money, which is why the federal bite isn't going to ease up noticeably by any 1983.

"IF THAT DOES not startle the American people," says retiring U.S. Rep. George H. Mahon, D-Tex., chairman of the mighty House appropriations committee, "then we as a nation have lost the ability to be concerned about the country's fiscal situation." You listening, you 50 percent?

The total Congressional budget is now over $1 billion, triple what it was five years ago. Senate payrolls in the past two years have shot up 30 percent on top of the salary raise they voted themselves and they're splurging $105 million on their third office building, complete with little extras like a gym, TV studio and rooftop restaurant.

The House is fixing up its third building and wishing it had the nerve to build a fourth. Which means it won't be long now.

AND IF GROCERIES and government don't take it all, there's the matter of financing day-to-day living. That may give you ulcers and high blood pressure, but if you can afford medical care you're still ahead of the game.

Doctors' fees shot up 9.3 percent last year (50 percent more than other consumer prices) and a hospital room costs more than a double at the Ritz. Not only that, medical care is going higher.

And so are college costs. By 1983, when at least some of those optimistic families will be eyeballing tuition fees, a four-year education will cost more than the house they live in.

BUT THERE'S one bright note: It's now against the law for bill collectors to abuse deadbeats with late-night calls, threats or nasty language.

This goes for all family and household debts, including doctors' fees, charge accounts and car payments—if anybody can still afford to drive by 1983, when gas will probably be up to $1 a gallon. (P.S. If, by some miracle, those "cockeyed optimists" turn out to be right, I hope the delirious grin on my face won't interfere with my apolo-

ROWLAND EVANS & ROBERT NOVAK:

Can CIA Survive?

WASHINGTON—The threat to the survival of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) posed by the legislation for its new charter is clearly sounded by extreme proposals in the bill's draft even though some of the worst have been removed.

The most bizarre proposal in the original draft would have legitimized tale-telling out of school by junior CIA officers. This hard-to-believe section instructed junior officers to take their com-

Busing To Balance'

WASHINGTON—Over the phone, the Boston School Committee member sounded contemptuous. "So the judge thinks school busing has worked," he said. "Tell that to the parents of white kids who have stopped going to public schools."

The committeeman was referring to a statement by U.S. District Judge W. Arthur Garrity, who devised Boston's school integration, that "the court's student desegregation plan...seems to be taking hold...The areas of controversy...appear to be diminishing."

Carrity is half right. There have been no more

Garrity is half right. There have been no more demonstrations and marches by white parents. "They (the parents) are all exhausted," said the committeeman. "But we've got a much smaller school system than we used to have, smaller and blacker."

THE FIGURES back him up. White students have flocked to all-white private, Catholic, and suburban schools. In 1973, before Judge Garrity's busing plan went into effect, there were 94,000 students in Boston's public schools, 62 per cent of them white. Today, the enrollment is 72,000, 41 per cent white.

Judge Garrity's argument for busing was that he had been "directed" by the Supreme Court to desegregate. That, too, was only a half truth.

In fact the court's decision in a 1971 case, widely interpreted as giving the green light to whole-sale busing, actually did nothing of the kind.

What the court commanded was an end to foolishness. It said that judges across the country should not assume that because a city's total black pupil population is 20 per cent of the total enrollment it was mandatory that busing be employed to make certain that a neighborhood in that city with only 1 per cent black pupils in its school round up enough black children to increase the black percentage to 20 per cent.

TRUE, THE COURT upheld a busing plan that had been intended to achieve the same racial balance in each school in Charlotte. But it also called upon the lower courts to "make every effort to achieve the greatest possible degree of actual desegregation, taking into account the practicalities of the situation."

Later in that year Chief Justice Warren Burger in effect told lower court judges not to be ridiculous in their busing orders, or at least to read the Supreme Court's Charlotte decision a little more carefully. That decision, Burger noted, did not require "racial balance" in every public school in the country.

THE CASE UPON which Burger's one-man opinion was delivered certainly did not consider practicalities. It involved the school system at Winston-Salem, N.C., where the student population was 72.5 per cent white and 27.5 per cent black. Yet the lower court judge ordered the busing of 34,000 of the district's 50,000 students. That was more than two-thirds of the school population.

There will always be the professional activists who use civil rights to get attention, and there will always be racists determined to keep black children in their (inferior) place.

But it is too bad judges have been so reluctant to summon up a little courage and try an occasional school busing case on its coldly legal mer-

f plaints about "improper" activities directly to the attorney general without informing their CIA superiors.

After outraged protests from the intelligence community, this section was removed. But it reveals all too well the mindset of the Senate committee staff.

Like many counterparts on the Carter administration, they are part of the post-Vietnam syndrome in their fear of American power.

Indeed, they seem motivated more by a desire

Indeed, they seem motivated more by a desire to cripple U.S. intelligence than to revamp a system to compete with the high-flying Soviet model.

SO THE TIME OF troubles for the nation's intelligence system, after all the revelation of secrets, is not ended. The battle for CIA's survival began with Senate Intelligence Committee hearings on the new charter.

The committee staff, headed by the clever and immensely influential William G. Miller, showed precisely where it stands in its preparation of the draft charter.

Answering Miller's request for comment, former CIA directors protested bitterly about the draft. One wrote that it does not attempt "to enhance the proper functioning of an efficient intelligence service, but rather...to prevent one from operation."

Despite the toning-down of some noxious proposals, the draft is still loaded with restrictions on both clandestine intelligence gathering (espionage) and covert actions ("dirty tricks").

The proposed law would require future covert operations to be "essential" to U.S. defense or foreign policy (instead of merely "important" to U.S. security at present).

NOT ONLY THAT, but the President himself would have to provide a "written" opinion stating the following: that the operations are essential; that the benefits "justify" the risks of possible disclosure "to a foreign power"; that "less sensitive" alternatives cannot achieve the desired end.

Students of intelligence, including former CIA directors, fear that putting a President's personal prestige on the line would drastically reduce future covert activities.

So sensitive are such operations, with their admittedly high risk of exposure or failure, that a President's signature ordering them might later be used as blackmail against him.

At least as troubling to U.S. intelligence specialists is the effort of Congress to become, in effect, senior partner with the executive in the CIA's future business.

For example, the Senate and House Intelligence

ence Committees are made active parties in drafting presidential directives and "standards" governing high-risk espionage; they would approve these presidential directives 60 days before they came effective.

Considering Capitol Hill's record of intelligence leaks and congressional refusal to submit its staffers to the same security safeguards that govern the executive, U.S. intelligence and cooperating foreign governments would be under a constant threat of exposure.

Even worse provisions have been removed from early drafts, such as outlawing any attempt by the CIA to seek help from another country for an activity the U.S. could not perform.

THAT AND OTHER early proposals were stricken from the draft because of protests from former CIA directors. But present CIA Director Stansfield Turner has carefully refrained from premature attack on the new charter.

The reason: fear of affronting the powerful anti-intelligence cult still in vogue both in Congress and in influential middle-level ranks of the administration.

But Turner and his sides will have to more to

But Turner and his aides will have to move to the attack soon. They cannot count on the job being done by ex-CIA directors George Bush, James Schlesinger, William Colby, Richard Helms and John McCone. As one wrote in distress to chief of staff Miller:

"I would profoundly distrust any director of Central Intelligence who contended that he could operate an effective secret service under the terms (of the proposed charter)."

JAY HARRIS:

A Climate Of Fear

THERE ARE those who argue that many of the things which disturb citizens today "come with the lease," so to speak.

By this, they mean that higher prices, more Big Brother government, more taxes and a spiraling crime rate are all part of a growing nation.

After all, they say, "people are better off than ever before..."

A downstate colleague making a trip through West Texas and the South Plains the past few days in connection with a series on area politics made the observation that "out here, you folks have it made..."

Coming from one of the state's larger cities, which also has its problems, in comparison it may be a valid comment. But, on balance, and compared to how it could be, the argument that "the bad." goes along with "the good" isn't one we are quite ready to accept.

AND JUDGING from our mail and phone calls of late, neither are many others.

As we noted the other day, Lubbock has a lot going for it, from a billion-dollar-plus bank deposit report to one of the bright spots in the nation's economic picture.

But, we also have some things which rank high on the list of things we could do without...A continued high crime rate, including everything from armed robberies to rape, traffic congestion and the spinoffs from inflation.

The other day we received a letter from a gentleman which is typical of several recently, It said:

"Today's A-J crime report has one rape, one assault, one arson and fifteen burglaries. It also tells of a seven-hour stakeout by seven Lubbock policemen which netted six marijuana cigarettes.

"It seems to me someone has their priorities mixed up. If we can't control all the crime in Lubbock, perhaps we should worry less about who massages what, who smokes what and begin to concentrate seriously on the (deleted) who rape, murder, steal or who in general have no regard for other people or their property."

ANOTHER LETTER enclosed editorial comments from The Washington Star and Arkansas Democrat. Here is what the latter had to say...

"The crime rate in the national capital is an eternal topic of editorial writers. The Washington Star was wondering the other day why Congress talks and talks about District crime, even as it gets worse.

"The Star was talking about the House District Committee's hearing on violent crime. One witness, a judge, spoke of a new breed of juvenile delinquent. When brought to court, these offenders, he said, show a 'casual, indifferent, if not bored attitude toward the whole process.' More than ever, the judge complained, their attitude shows a disregard for the rights of the victims.

"Well, so goes justice nowadays," the Arkansas paper notes. "The rights of the offenders are the first order of business. Even a juvenile knows that the sociology of his case comes ahead of strict considerations of crime and punishment.

strict considerations of crime and punishment.

"Chief Judge Harold Green of District Superior Court summed up the situation in what has now become a familiar warning: When it is a matter of society choosing between widespread disorder
in a free society and order in a not-so-free society, history shows that freedom loses every time.

"When that happens, of course, we are all losers. We can have order and freedom—the British have it—but only when the criminal law is speedily and sternly applied. We are not doing that. If the offenders of the country are more uncaring of our rights, it is because, as The Star says, we talk and talk, but never apply the solution."

ABOUT THE same time, there appeared the story about the Chicago man who had been charged last summer in the abduction and rape of a woman.

As the man appeared before a judge in a bond hearing a few days ago, police say he had another victim locked in the trunk of his car!

The next day, the woman, who had been momentarily set free, ran down a South Side Chicago street, screaming for help. Police say the man caught her, dragged her into a garage and shot her though the heart.

It is just one of innumerable stories, some of them much closer home than Chicago, where persons with long criminal records, out on relatively low bond or having been released from prison for murder have been involved or accused of some heinous crimes. There are those who say: "The law must take its course, a man is entitled to bond and freedom while waiting trial and prisons should rehabilitate as well as punish..."

Perhaps, but the point here is that repeatedly we read of how first and second offenders are left to roam the streets again. As the British argue, swift justice would at least thwart some of this.

LAST WEEK, we left a night Chamber of Commerce meeting. A woman at the meeting asked that someone walk with her to her car on a nearby parking lot.

The area is well-lighted, but she was fearful. She confided that at home she keeps a gun handy. It is not an uncommon story these days, not only in Lubbock, but across the land.

To return to our original premise: Sure, to a great extent, most Americans are enjoying "the good life" as never before. Those of us on the South Plains may have it made, whatever that means.

But millions of Americans, including those in this area, and particularly in Lubbock, are afraid in far too many instances to walk to their cars or take a casual stroll in their neighborhoods anymore.

And no, we don't have to live in such a "climate of fear." It's going to take all law-abiding citizens to do something about it—neighbors watching after neighbors and their property, law enforcement agencies getting tough and the courts quit worrying about "how" and "why" the offender got there and start handing out swift and sure punishment. It's something we haven't tried enough of of late...

Bomb Poses Problem For West Germans

BONN, West Germany (AP) - President Carter's decision to defer production of the neutron warhead spotlights West Germany's dilemma in dealing with a weapon many military planners see as the key to NATO's defense against a Soviet-bloc invasion.

West Germany would be the first battleground in a Soviet-led armored blitz, most military strategists agree. Bonn wants the neutron weapon to counter Communist military superiority, including the Warsaw Pact's 3-to-1 numerical advantage in tanks.

Europe was one reason Carter decided to delay production.

No U.S. ally in Europe publicly called for production, and the parliaments of Norway and the Netherlands condemned the weapon.

Sources here said Chancellor Helmut Schmidt, a former defense minister, believes the prospect of the neutron weap-on can still be used to squeeze concessions from Moscow in the U.S.-Soviet talks in Vienna on reduction of forces in

But powerful members of Schmidt's Social Democratic Party and its coalition partner, the Free Democrats, fear the weapon will derail East-West arms negotiations and, because of its limited de-

Egon Bahr, executive secretary of the Social Democrats, called the weapon "a perversion of human thinking" that could be built only "in a world gone mad."

Schmidt's political opponents in the Christian Democratic Union and Christian Social Union support production and deployment of the bomb.

CSU Chairman Franz Josef Strauss, also a former defense minister, said Saturday that failure to build the weapon might lead to the "Finlandization," or neutralizing, of Western Europe.

Despite its quiet support for the weapon, the Bonn government said publicly the decision to build it rested solely with Carter. Told earlier this month Carter was leaning toward rejecting the weapon, Schmidt sent his foreign minister, Hans-Dietrich Genscher, to Washington to argue against scrapping it.

After Carter's announcement Friday, Bonn neither welcomed nor condemned the production delay, but urged Washington to "keep its technological options

Genscher said in a radio interview Sunday the White House had no quarrel with West Germany's position in the neutron debate. He noted that Carter's decision leaving open the possibility of future production — still enables the West to use the weapon as a bargaining chip in disarmament talks.

Tactically, the neutron warhead - designed for artillery shells and smaller missiles — seemed to answer the problem of how to defend West Germany without destroying it.

Most of this country's 62 million people live within 250 miles of Communist territory - less than the distance between New York and Washington.

NATO strategists question whether the Western allies, with 800,000 troops in Central Europe, could stop the kind of blitzkrieg, non-nuclear attack the 955,000 troops of the Soviet-led Warsaw Pact are capable of launching.

If NATO used tactical nuclear weapons to stop a Soviet attack, the blast would devastate such major West German cities

Russians Skeptical Of U.S. Intentions

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda on Sunday called President Carter's decision to put off production of neutron warheads a "maneuver" to allow continued development of the weapon.

The Communist Party newspaper said Carter is defying mass protests and is continuing preparations for deployment of the weapon "under the camouflage

The commentary in the newspaper's authoritative international review followed a similar attack on the decision Saturday by the Tass news agency, which called Carter's move a ruse aimed at wringing concessions from the Soviets on unrelated disarmament matters.

Carter announced Friday he is postponing a decision on production of the weapon pending evidence of new Soviet restraint in the arms race.

Analysts here say the Soviet reaction apparently is designed to head off suggestions that Moscow make its own concessions outside the strategic arms limitation talks. The neutron warhead has not been an issue in the talks.

Tass had said also that by linking a final decision on neutron-weapon production to Soviet actions, Carter hopes to put the blame on the Soviets if he goes ahead with production later.

anead with production later.

Pravda said Carter is "pushing the world toward a new round in the arms race" by instructing the Defense Department to proceed with modernization of the Lance missiles and 8-inch artillery shells that would carry neutron devices.

All other newspapers Sunday carried a Tass article accusing Carter of trying to weaken Soviet defenses by calling for Soviet concessions, and of trying to dodge a public outcry against the bomb.

The farm newspaper Selskaya Zhizn accompanied the Tass story with a car-toon showing a Pentagon general lovingly embracing a neutron bomb marked with a skull and crossbones. Radio Moscow said: "By manipulation with the neutron weapon as with a trump card, (the United States) would like to put pressure on the Soviet Union.... Such manipulation manifests the ... pathological distortion of human rea-

In Budapest, the Hungarian Communist Party newspaper Nepszabadsag said Carter's decision was a partial defeat of the "hawks" in Washington, and said the postponement was influenced by international opposition to the bomb.

The Hungarian government political journal, Magyar Hirlap, called the decision "political blackmail, pure and simple."

Nader Eyes U.S. Newspapers

WASHINGTON (AP) - Ralph Nader urged newspapers Sunday to pay more attention to public complaints and recommended that citizen groups give close scrutiny to their local newspapers.

'Newspapers are a privileged and lucrative industry," Nader said. "The only way to ensure that they become more accountable to the people they serve is through active appraisal by the public.

He made the statement as he released a 90-page manual designed to show readers how to appraise and improve their daily

"No other industry has explicit constitutional protection against government regulation of their product. And no other industry has a local monopoly in 971/2 percent of the towns they operate in without any form of public review

"It's clear that some sort of reader feedback to newspapers is needed. Most editors recognize this need in principle but it is up to the consumers if newspapers are to make meeting it a reality," Nader said.

The manual by a Nader associate, David Bollier, proposes that more newspapers take steps to solicit readers' responses. The steps include appointing "ombudsmen" to deal with reader complaints, in-house media critics, expanded space for letters to the editor, regular opinion columns open to members of the community and feedback forms printed in the paper.

The manual praised some newspapers for instituting such measures, including the appointment by the Louisville Courier-Journal and Times of an ombudsman in 1967 and the establishment by the Salt Lake City Tribune in 1970 of a weekly opinion column open to the public and administered by a panel of community

But the manual said such measures are unusual and recommended that exisiting citizen groups consider organizing local press councils. Eugene Patterson, president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, said the group had no immediate reaction to the manual's suggestions. Patterson is editor and president of the St. Petersburg Times.

The introduction to the manual said, "The premise is that too many citizens are being shortchanged by their local paper. The prescription is constant reader scrutiny of a newspaper's perform-ance, and the prospect, through regular reader feedback, is a paper more responsive to citizens and more professional in

The manual provides this advice:

— "Try to identify any patterns of news judgment. For example, does the paper consistently run photos of the latest fatal car wreck, yet fail to attempt any indepth analysis of highway or auto safety

"Do news stories about your congressperson sound even-handed and more than a promotional release? Does your paper run a free weekly or monthly column written by your congressperson? If so, do opponents have an opportunity to offer different viewpoints?"

— Check out the ethics standards for gifts or junkets? Are any specific conflicts of interest prohibited?...The obvious danger of these practices is that news judgment is affected by free dinners, Christmas bottles of liquor and oth-

The manual says many papers do an inadequate job of consumer reporting, partly because it may alienate advertisers. "Only a relatively few papers have done such basic consumer stories as: a survey of supermarket prices; reporting on the enormous price disparity among drug stores in the prices of generic and brand name drugs; the quality and cost of care at local hospitals and nursing homes; and comparative banking services and costs."

It also criticized food and real estate sections in newspapers. "Advertisers vir-tually own the sections, and any probing news is clearly an unwelcome guest. A few papers have crashed the party, however, by encouraging aggressive staff reporting and creative story ideas. A few have even prohibited their advertising departments from contacting writers or editors of these sections."

Krueger Endorses Parity Bill

WASHINGTON (Special) — U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger has endorsed the Flexible Parity Bill of 1978 and has sent letters to members of the House-Senate Conference Committee on the bill, urging its Krueger is a co-sponsor of the bill, the uthor of which is U.S. Rep. Jack Hightower, also of Texas.

The plight of the young farmers and of the family farmers in America has reached crisis proportions," Krueger said. "I firmly believe that the Flexible Parity Act provides us with the most effective means of granting quick assistance to farmers who otherwide would face bankruptcy, which would in turn ead to a greater centralization of agriculture and the eventual liquidation of the American family farm.

The flexible parity formula allows farmers to obtain a higher price for their crops as they reduce planting. Each farmer chooses to set aside from 20 to 50 percent of his farmland. The target price guaranteed for his crop would depend on the percentage of acreage set aside from production

"The flexible parity plan has two important objectives," Krueger said.
"First, it puts money in the hands of the farmer by raising commodity prices, cutting production at the same time by fheans of the set-aside. Second, it allows each individual farmer to write his own farm program, because he controls the price received for his crop by deciding what percentage of his farmland he wants to set aside."

Jeffrey C. Weimer, 29, who resigned from the state police Thursday after five years of service, told authorities he was wounded Feb. 9 by one of two men while standing guard at the estate of Robert Young, a wealthy health-care executive who was found shot to death at his home in nearby Chester County.

"It never happened," William H. Lamb, Chester County district attorney, said Friday. "Trooper Weimer made up the whole thing. This is a very strange, unfortunate situation. That's the only way I can characterize it."

Weimer told authorities he was grazed on the forehead by a bullet and he was, in fact, treated at a local hospital for a head

Based on Weimer's story, police theo-

Q. How would you compare high quali-ty utility commons yielding 7 to 8 percent with certificates of deposit paying 734

A. The savings certificate is a "known," insured as to principal and guaranteed as to yield.

The stock represents a share of a business and all the upside or downside potential or risk that involves. The price of the stock may go up or down; the dividend may be increased or reduced. (And up to the first $200 of dividends received from jointly-owned stock may be exclud-

Q. -I am 49, no dependents, planning on retirement in 10 to 15 years. I presently put money into a bond fund which will pay close to 10 percent. Would this pay-ment remain constant? Could the value of my shares fluctuate? Could I lose mon-

A. -I don't care for the suggestion for several reasons

1) Bonds offer little chance of keeping step with inflation over the 10 to 15 years to your retirement.

2) If you have no dependents, you would most likely pay a substantial tax on the bond interest.

3) I feel the near-10 percent interest rate is overstated. Make 'em prove it.

In answer to your question: A bond fund's earnings and dividends are generally more stable than those of a fund invested in common stock, but they needn't remain constant. The value the shares will fluctuate. You could make or lose money on a withdrawal.

Q.-I seem to have heard somewi that there is as plan under way to permi folks with paid up homes to get a "reverse" mortgage which would give them an income for 20 or 30 years.

A. -This idea has gained some attention in recent months. Rep. Frank Annuzio (H., Ill.) has introduced a bill to enable federally chartered savings and loans to set up such "reverse" mortgage pay

If enacted into law, this would allow older families to take out a loan on their residences. Instead of the loan being disbursed in a lump sum, it would be paid out in monthy installments over a period of years. Thus the families could remain living in their homes and realize incom at the same time.

Q.-I have limited funds and so sought high income from some bonds paying 9 % percent. Now I fear they are not safe. A. -You should not draw your conclu-sions from the 9½ percent interest rate.

Four to five years ago even top-rated companies had to pay up around that level for mortgage money. What should concern you is the fact that your bond's rating was recently dropped to BB, which is a far fetch from best quality -AAA.

Q. I have $4,000 in savings and $5,000 in switch the bank savings to E bonds in order to reduce my tax bill?

A. -No. If you are going to turn to these funds for income this year it is far, far too late to switch to E bonds merely to save one year's income taxes. The savi should remain as is, and your present E bonds should be exchanged for H bonds so as to begin receiving 6 percent income

In another attempted assault, a 30-yearold woman warded off a would-be attacker by biting his hand.

The woman told police that she noticed a man crawling on his hands and knees by her bed about 3:50 a.m. Sunday. When she asked what he was doing, he then lay on top of her and told her to be quiet.

However, the woman began screaming. At that point, the intruder placed his hand over her mouth, and she bit it. The would-be attacker fled through a front

The victim described the man as white, 25 years old, 5 feet 9 inches tall and about 195 pounds. He was wearing a brown stocking over his face, she reported. Apparently the man entered her home through an open bedroom window, the victim told officers.

Apartment Blaze Claims

16 Persons Perish In Series Of Blazes

Two fires in upstate New York and one in Massachusetts early Sunday killed at least 16 persons, including four firefighters who ran out of oxygen while frantically searching a rooming house for a woman mistakenly reported missing.

The firemen died fighting a blaze at a rooming house near Syracuse University in Syracuse, N.Y. Seven persons, including five children, died in a tenement apartment in Lawrence, Mass., and five persons were killed in an apartment house fire in Monticello, N.Y.

"They must have stuck together right to the very end," said Syracuse Fire Chief Thomas Hanlon of the four firefighters, whose bodies were found next to one another in the attic of the gutted three-story frame house.

Firemen Stanley Duda, 34, and Frank Porpiglio, 24, apparently got lost in a maze of narrow hallways on the top floor of the house, and Michael Petragnani, 29, and Robert Schuler, 31, died trying to reach them, Hanlon said.

We found them up there together."

Three other firemen were injured slightly while trying to rescue the men. Most of the 10 Syracuse students who lived in the boarding house were away for the weekend, but those who escaped had told firemen they thought a woman student was trapped inside.

Hanlon said the fire apparently was started by a candle about 12:30 a.m.

Lawrence Fire Chief Richard Lacey said the fire in that New England factory town was the worst in 30 years. He said investigators were looking into the possibility of arson, but he called the investigation routine

One man and a woman and her five children, ranging in age from 2 to 13, were trapped in their third-story apartment as the fire raced out of control shortly before dawn. The charred bodies of the children were found in their beds.

Those killed were Roberto Febre, 30, Maria Carillo, 32, and her children, Maria Evette, 13, Evelynn, 11, Tito, 9, Charley, 7, and Raymond, 2.

Twenty-eight other residents escaped into the freezing weather outside, clutching blankets over their nightclothes. They gazed, stunned and weeping, as firefighters brought out the seven bodies, one witness said.

The fire at a 31/2-story, 80-year-old apartment building in Monticello in the Catskills of New York killed five members of one family, and firefighters were searching the rubble Sunday for other

Admittedly, he was not the most readily employable of men. Herve (the name is anglicized to Her-vay Villa-chaze) stands three feet, 11 inches, and he is an actor. Although he kids about his size, he refused jobs that merely capitalized on

"Producers wanted me to play circus performers or elves," he remarked. I told them, 'I'm an actor; I want to act.' I wouldn't take any roles that wouldn't let me act.

His resolve initiated starvation, and at one point his agents lent him money to survive. Persistence paid off. In late 1976 he was hired to play Ricardo Montalban's puckish assistant Tattoo in a pilot film for a series to be called "Fantasy Island." Then he was cast in a major role in Carl Reiner's comedy film. "The One and Only," starring Henry Winkler.

With "Fantasy Island" now a weekly series and a ratings winner, Herve has become an instant celebrity. When he flew to Philadelphia to appear on the Mike Douglas Show last month, the crowds forced him to seek refuge in the airport's men's room 'I like people," he observed, "but if they get too close, I'm afraid I might get

He came to New York to continue his painting, learning English by listening to television. The exposure to TV inspired a desire to be an actor, something his parents discouraged. But Herve persisted, taking lessons and landing a few plays and small films.

His big break came as the develish Nick-Nack in the James Bond film, "The Man. With The Golden Gun." He decided to pursue acting fulltime in his native Paris - and starved. "After nine years as an actor, I still haven't played a role in French," he commented.

The hungry days continued in Hollywood until his career started to accellerate. Now he can afford to move out of a tacky section near downtown Los Angeles and into his own house. Not Bel-Air - he just wants a home where he can grow his own vegetables in the French tradition.

about success changing Woody Allen; he's still a nice, morose, possessed, reclusive introvert.

That balding Jewish boy from Brooklyn with all those hangups we've come to know and love is at the top of the world now, having won Oscars last week in absentia for best director and best screenplay. His creation "Annie Hall" was named best picture and his best friend, Diane Keaton, best actress.

But don't expect a new and different Woody Allen; he's as aloof as ever. In fact, don't be surprised if the comedian, actor, director, playwright, essayist and clarinet player withdraws from the public even further.

It's hard to get to know Woody Allen. He has said that he admired Howard Hughes for his "reclusive quality," and there's the feeling that even his closest friends don't really know the man.

In a wonderful conversation, Norma Lee Clark, his personal secretary for 10 years, said her boss was wonderful and "a wonderful guy to work for." When asked what she liked best about Woody, she said: "His wonderfulness." More probing questions went unanswered

It is no secret that Woody Allen almost never surfaces early in the day, loves lightly browned chocolate malts, owns a white Rolls Royce despite hating automobiles, rarely attends parties and hates everything Hollywood stands for

"It's very hard for Woody to accept laurels for his work," said Charles Joffe. producer of "Annie Hall," who had been with him for 18 years. "He's interested in how well his work comes out and not in

He's not interested in talking, either. Allen's secretary promises interviews in June, his public relations agent says maybe in June, July or August.

"He's just not available," said Richard O'Brien. Allen's public relations man for the past 15 years. "He just does less and less. He just wants to concentrate on his work, that's all. These awards don't mean a thing to him.

So the 42-year-old Allen spends his time these days holed up in his Fifth Avenue penthouse writing, or at a studio editing a new, yet-untitled drama starring Geraldine Page, Maureen Stapleton and Miss

With that "gloomy" film, Allen hopes to combat his biggest self-criticism, that his work has been too trivial. In a recent Time magazine interview he said despairingly that all of his films have been "strikeouts. None of them achieved what I'd hoped to do.

In June, Woody and Miss Keaton will begin filming a new comedy being writ-ten now. It will be Miss Keaton's sixth Allen flick

Woody's difficulty with one-on-one human relationships go much deeper than his dislike for media interviews; he almost hates people. "It's awful when someone stops you on the street; you're instantly the center of a bunch of people." he said a few years back.

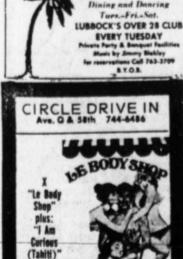

He is addicted to New York, but his affection for this city is probably rooted in its non-conformity, its willingness to let alone someone as successful as Woody

The morning after the Academy Awards show - which clarinet-playing Woody missed so he could keep his habitual Monday night gig with the New Orle ans Funeral and Ragtime Orchestra at Michael's Pub on the East Side - the media posted its obligatory stakeout.

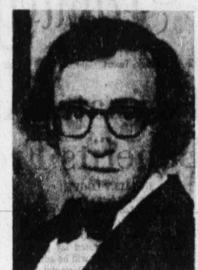

But by midday the majority had left, knowing full-well that it could be days before the star surfaced again. If and when he does, he'll no doubt be sporting his familiar green fatigue jacket. He abandoned a khaki fishing hat when the

"But then, as soon as I did become known, I thought, 'My God, I'm well known, I can't go out.'"

He changed his name from Allen S. Konigsberg to avoid being mistaken for just another German theologian. "I would define my position somewhere between atheism and agnosticism. I vacillate between the two positions frequently," he once said

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I implore you to aid my 22-year-old daughter who years ago was told she had atopic eczema for which there was no cure, only relief. My daughter is very emotional and when she is disturbed the areas affected appear to get worse. The only true relief was when she was getting hydrocortisone.

I personally would like to see her modify her diet to eliminate sugars, vegetables, milk, cokes, etc., and drink more water. Please comment. - Mr. R.J.W.

You obviously have a very sensitive young lady on your hands.

Atopic eczema is also called allergic dermatitis, a skin inflammation thought due to an allergy. The offender is usually a food, although skin contact with some irritant can also be involved.

You are on the right track when you mention modification of her diet. An elimination diet should be considered, but you will need professional help in organizing this. Trying it on your own can be frustrating and unproductive. Eggs, milk, wheat, juices, and chocolate are among chief offenders. Space does not permit me to give you details about trying such a diet. The hydrocortisone often provides relief, but it is only temporary and not the long-range solution. Skin tests might be a quick method of determining sensitivities, but the diet idea seems best for now.

In dealing with a sensitive young person, it is often hard to tell which came first, the eczema or the nervousness. Eczema can make a nervous wreck of an otherwise stable individual. Spending countless hours suffering unbearable itching of unknown origin can unhinge the best of us

Have her seen by an allergist and get the diet experiments underway prompt-

I desire to start working out with weights. Could you give me some help about this method of exercise? Also, would a complete physical be appropriate before I start working out? - M.L.

Even at age 25 I doubt that you could hop up from your office chair and start lifting weights without paying some penalty. Why not take some less strenuous route. It doesn't have to be fancy - a little walking, a bit of jogging, perhaps some formal calisthenics (get a library book). Buy a tennis racket and find a partner. Join a health club. Get in some swimming this summer, perhaps even some hiking. If you smoke, quit or cut down. Lose some weight if you need to. Avoid overstuffed chairs. Try to find a good firm straight-back chair for office hours. This might help correct the back

Soon, you may be able to walk up those few flights of stairs to your office rather than taking the elevator. Getting back into shape is a matter of persistence and

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been told of this treatment for arthritis - one table spoon of cod liver oil thoroughly mixed into two ounces of whole milk or freshly extracted orange juice, to be taken in the morning one hour before you eat for six months. One person told me she had relief in one month. — C.J.P.

I can't dispute your friend's statement, but I don't understand how this could help arthritis. However it may taste, it can't hurt, so don't dispute your friend's "cure". Often things we think will help us can, no matter how unscientific.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: It is true that vitamin B will help ward off mosquitoes if a person is especially sensitive to the bites? - J.D.

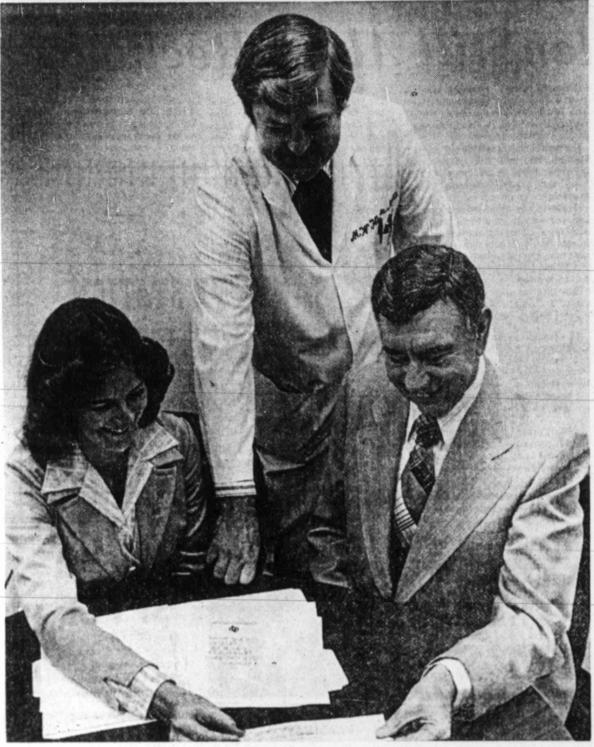

This can occur for some persons but is not true for all. Vitamin B can cause a skin odor mosquitoes find offensive.

Arthritis sufferers can be helped. Dr. Thosteson's booklet discusses many types of arthritis and related joint diseases as well as effective treatments and medications. For a copy of "How You Can Control Arthritis," write to Dr. Thosteson, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

MONEY SAVING BREW SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) - Another coffee grower-processor has just introduced a 13 ounce size that makes as many cups of beverage as a onepound can of coffee roasted and ground by conventional methods. To the eye, the grind looks the same as the older methods, but the cellular structure of the beans is expand-ed during roasting and before grinding. As an additional saving, the manufactur-er packs the new coffee in the same size an it uses for its one-pound product.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE

Years and years ago when you first told us about using nylon net for washing dishes, cleaning tiles, etc. I was able to find small-holed nylon net which was very crinkly and held up for a week or 10 days before becoming limp.

Then as the years went by, the holes in nylon net became larger, and the net became flimsier and it would not last very long if used as a dish rag, etc.

Since so many readers use nylon net, why can't you persuade the manufacturers to make the old type, and I bet milagain. - Mrs. Marian West

You're always reading about how a 100pound woman rushed into a burning building and single-handedly rescued a 200-pound, unconscious man. Or how a man lifted a two-ton tractor off his faithful dog. Shep, and didn't even realize it.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann: So Happy Wally thinks he has something going with his wife because he tucked $3,000 worth of ten-dollar bills in her bra over the last 22 years! According to my figures that breaks down to "success" once every 25 days. If the guy is normal he must have been getting "favors" from caring friends or paying more elsewhere. I'm no mathemetician, but I'm fairly wise in the ways of the world. — World Traveler Based In Sacramento

One thing is sure - for a guy who says he majored in economics, his figuring is lousy. Maybe he should ask his wife to do it for love a few nights during the year and buy himself a pocket calculator.

Subtracting the honeymoon years (he says six) from the 23 they've been married leaves 17. Now divide the $3,000 she kept by $10 and you come up with 300. Divide 300 by 17 and you will find the loving wife sold her favors once every 20 days. This is marriage? - Not By My Standards

Dear Ann: What an amazing (and dumb) arrangement Wally has worked out with his wife. So he gets "lucky" 14 times a year. Big deal. What happens the other 351 nights? A neater arrangement would be for her to keep the $10 if she is NOT interested in his cheap proposition. If she is and it's worth it, she could return the $10 at breakfast with an appropriate bonus thrown in. That's more like it. - For Playing Fair In Fairplay, Mary-save fuel energy for heating water is to throw away a few bucketsful of hot wa-ter every month. The federal Energy Department recommends this method for flushing sediment from hot water tanks. Draining several bucketsful of wa-ter from the faucet at the bottom gets rid of sediment buildup that can keep water from heating properly.

What action do you take? What action do you take?

A.—East's cue-bid has shown a very strong hand, and you would like to take some sort of preemptive action to interfere with the opponent's auction. However, any rash action might be punished severely, because you have a balanced hand. The choice is between a mild raise to three diamonds or a double, and we prefer the latter since it highlights our diamond length and suggests some defensive values.

What do you bid now? A .- Partner must have a very fine hand to redouble and then jump in your suit, so slam must be considered. The simplest way to alert your partner to your aspiration is to cue-bid four diamonds to see what re-sponse that draws.

What do you bid now? A .- While you have a reason-able hand and a good six-card suit, partner's spade response should not thrill you. There is a possibility that the hand is a misfit, so a quiet two hearts now is adequate. That almost surely promises a six-card suit in this sequence.

We would not severely fault you for bidding six no trump, but since your hand is mildly unbalanced and partner should have a doubleton spade on this auction, a suit contract would be preferable. WASHINGTON (UPI) - The nation 'faces an economic "hemorrhage" in 1980 - a stiff reession and a 10 percent or more inflation rate -unless President Carter reduces federal spending, former White House economic adviser Alan Greenspan said Sunday.

Carter is expected to announce an antiinflation plan in a speech Tuesday to the American Society of Newspaper Editors. Aides have said the strategy does not include new programs but stresses voluntary restraint.

But unless his program successfully curbs federal spending, 'we may well see a real recession in 1980 and 1981," said Greenspan, chief economic adviser to President Gerald Ford.

To these criticisms, Klocko points out that many departments only hire PhD's for full professors and, for example, in the field of engineering, only 41 women across the nation in 1976 received doctoral degrees in that field.

"In the case of minorities, the situation is even more difficult," Klocko said. In 1976, there were only 11 blacks in the entire country who had PhD degrees in engineering, he said.

However, Klocko said that under Texas Tech President Cecil Mackey's direction, each vice president now has been instructed to draw up a plan toward achieving affirmative action goals in his area of responsibility.

In the process of making five-year projections for the school's staff, Klocko said he estimates by 1983 Tech will have gained 20 women faculty members, 10 minorities, and have reduced the number of white male faculty members by 56.

DeConcini says he will offer the same language to the second treaty, too.

Demonstrations against the amendment - and the treaty in some places have erupted in Panama. Aquilino Boyd. a former foreign minister, presented an opposing argument over the weekend:

'It isn't necessary to read the offensive explanations DeConcini gave to support his amendment to conclude that the Senate, when it approved the amendment, changed the treaty signed by Gen. Omar Torrijos and approved in the October 1977 plebiscite," said Boyd.

occupied Lebanon acknowledged Sunday that Norwegian U.N. troops had erred in turning over the village of Kawkaba to Palestinian guerrillas. "We all know it was a mistake," Gen.

Emmanuel Erskine said in an interview broadcast over Israeli army radio. The incident had been reported earlier in Oslo and Tel Aviv. Those reports said the Norwegians were reprimanded by U.N. superiors and ordered to return to the village, one mile east of the Litani River, which is that area was the western limit of the Israeli advance. Erskine, confirming that the U.N. com mand had ordered Kawkaba retaken, told the radio: "Before I went they (the Norwegians) had gone back anyway since then the place has been quiet."

His statements came against a background of apparent disagreement between the United Nations and Israel over the speed of an Israeli troop withdrawal from south Lebanon. Pullback Plans Discussed

The Israeli cabinet Sunday discussed plans for a pullback as presented to the United Nations," a spokesman said after

He said Prime Minister Menachem Begin exchanged letters over the weekend with U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim "who asked questions and received answers." The spokesman would not elaborate. Political sources said Waldheim wanted an immediate withdrawal whereas Israel plans a two-part pullback, the first stage starting Tuesday. The Israeli government is under domestic pressure not to let guerrillas back into south Lebanon, which they used as a base for attacks on Israel. There is little public confidence here that the U.N. force - slated to reach 4,000 men - can keep the Palestinians out.

These misgivings remained despite U.N. reports that French U.N. troops traded fire over the weekend with guerrillas near Tyre, on the Mediterranean coast, while Swedish forces exchanged shots with Palestinians near Aqiya Bridge on the Litani.

Fighting Erupts In Beirut, a neighborhood dispute erupted Sunday into a battle between Moslem and Christian militiamen using machine guns and rocket-propelled grenades. Residents of the Chiah neighborhood, along the "green line" that separated warring factions during the 1975-1976 civil war, said the fight started when a Moslem killed a Christian with a pistol.

The Syrian-dominated peacekeeping force said its troops put a halt to the firefight, which appeared to have been limited to a five-block area.

Trial Begins Soon In 'Classic' Murder

Colorado rancher Saturday was mapping his defense in a murder case that has all the trappings of a mystery novel - including a rich spinster, an eerie mansion and a multimillion dollar estate.

Roger Sipe Caldwell, who will be 44 next month, goes on trial Monday for the slaying of Elisabeth Congdon, an 83-yearold spinster and heiress, and Miss Congdon's night nurse, Velma Pietela, 67.

Miss Congdon, an invalid, was smothered in her bed on the second floor of her 39-room mansion on the night of June 26-27, 1977. Her nurse was bludgeoned to death with a brass candlestick.

Caldwell has pleaded innocent to two counts of first degree murder and said he would spend the weekend reviewing his defense plans and checking legal papers he had brought to his prison cell. If convicted, he faces a maximum penalty of life imprisonment. Caldwell's wife, Marjorie, 46, is one two girls taken in by Miss Congdon as infants more than 40 years ago and brought up as her daughters. She in one of the main heirs to Miss Congdon's estate,

The trial was moved from St. Louis County to the Crow Wing County District Court because of pretrial publicity. St. Louis County Judge Jack J. Litman has been assigned to the case.

Chief St. Louis County Prosecutor John DeSanto, 31, described as a young and eager attorney, said he planned to call from 150 to 160 witnesses. Defense attorney Douglas Thomson, 48, one of the state's foremost criminal attorneys, kept his plans close to his vest.

"I have no idea who or how many I will call as witnesses at this time," he said. Court officials said more than 100 prospective jurors had been ordered to report to court for Monday's opening of jury selection. In first degree murder trials, the state is allowed nine preemptory challenges and the defense 15.

The judge and the rival attorneys estimated the trial would last four to six weeks.

PLO, Israeli Settlements Given Low Rating By Opinion In U.S.

In the battle for favorable public opinion in America, both the Arab and Israeli causes are seriously handicapped by positions and tactics that majorities of the American people are unwilling to accept. The Arab position is seriously encumbered by the tactics of the Palestine Liberation Organization. By 57-24 percent, a majority of Americans does not think that the PLO really wants peace in the Middle East. By a nearly unanimous 93-2 percent, the public condemns the PLO for its terrorist tactics, particularly the killing of 37 people in Israel when a bus blew up after being seized by PLO guerrillas. A sizable majority of Americans agrees with the firm Israeli stand of not negotiating with the PLO and its leader, Yasir Arafat.

For its part, Israel meets with serious problems when its prime minister, Menachem Begin, steadfastly refuses to agree to give back, as a part of a peace settlement, most of the territories Israel occupied after the 1967 war. While 27 percent of the public feels that Israel should give up none of the occupied land, a substantial 60 percent think it should give up some part of it. The irony of the American disagreement with Israel in his matter is that no more than 10 percent of the public thinks Israel should give back all of the lands 1t has ccupied. Fifty percent hold the view that Israel should give back some of the occupied territory, and keep 'what it needs to protect its security. Americans would overwhelmingly approve of a clear-cut statement by Israel that it would be willing to give back all occupied territories, except those areas needed for its security. It would be much more difficult for Israel to convince the majority of Americans that, historically and religiously, it is entitled to lay claim to all occupied areas.

In fact, on most of the key issues at stake in the peace negotiations. Americans take positions that are not far from those taken by the Israeli government:

-Only 21 percent of Americans favor an independent Palestinian state on the West Bank of the Jordan. Twice as many Americans would prefer either having the West Bank made into a Palestinian homeland under Jordanian rule or having the Palestinians continue to live in the countries where they now reside.

On the recent Israeli response to the PLO terrorist raid, when Israel's troops occupied the southern tier of Lebanon, a 47-40 percent plurality felt the invasion was ustified. By 47-39 percent, a plurality also favored the United Nations' moving a force of 4,000 troops into Lebanon as a replacement for Israeli troops.

According to a recent Harris Survey of 1,199 adults nationwide, the American public is evenly divided on one key issue - that of Israeli settlements in occupied territories:

-By a narrow 40-39 percent, a plurality feels that Israel is justified in not vacating the settlements it has begun. President Carter has consistently condemned expansion of these settlements. The strongest appeal of the Arab side is not hard to find: Egypt is now seen as a major force working for peace in the Middle East and President Anwar Sadat is the first Arab leader to meet with widespread approval by Americans.

By 70-17 percent, a sizable majority thinks Egypt wants peace, compared to a slightly lower 68-22 percent who feel the

they would trust in case of a falling out in the peace talks, by 43-24 percent, Americans say they would trust Israel over Egypt. However, when an identical question was asked about whom they would trust if a disagreement over peace terms should occur, Sadat is trusted by 35 percent and Begin by an equal 35 percent. Given the fact that American public opinion traditionally has been much more inclined to back the Israelis than the Arabs, it is clear that Sadat has gained important ground in his bid for the confidcountries really wants peace. The irony is that the failure of other Arab nations to support the Sadat peace initiative has worked to diminish American trust in them and to weaken the Arab cause in the United States.

Perhaps the ultimate irony of the Middle East situation is that as peace negotiations have become more difficult, President Carter's own rating on his handling of the Middle ast has also gone down. Just after the Sadat visit to Jerusalem last fall, Mr. Carter's efforts in the Middle East met with 63-29 percent approval. However, as problems arose, his standing in successive surveys has deteriorated - to 57-35 percent positive in January, to 46-45 percent positive in February, and to 48-44 percent negative at the conclusion of Prime Minister Begin's visit with President Carter in March.

Ex-Mental Patient In Shootout

mental patient was holed up in a house Saturday night after allegedly killing a Montana highway patrolman and holding two men hostage in their home, unofficial sources said. The hostages were released unharmed. A newsman on the scene reported that the assailant, identified by authorities as Clyde Rector, 27, of Eureka, ran into the nearby woods after allowing brothers Orangie, 57, and Marion van Horn, 60, to leave their home.

The reporter said the man later returned to the house, which was surrounded by an estimated 25 law officers.

Col. Joe Sol, chief of the Montana Highway Patrol, said Patrolman Michael M. Ren, 30, was shot to death Saturday afternoon when he attempted to apprehend Rector following a high-speed chase through town. Ren was a six-year patrol veteran. Reports indicated about 20 shots were exchanged in the chase, some of them hitting the patrol car.

Orangie van Horn, contacted at his home by The Associated Press before being released, identified the intruder as Rector and called him to the telephone.

The man, who also identified himself as Rector, told the AP that he didn't plan to hurt the van Horns but added that he would not lay down his rifle. "I don't want anybody to get hurt," he said.

Sol said the chase started when Ren attempted to arrest Rector on a felony warrant. Other sources said the warrant was issued for alleged violations of the terms under which Rector had been released from the state mental hospital at Warm

The man identifying himself on the telephone as Rector told the AP the Highway Patrol had been hounding him about getting his pickup truck licensed. He said he reached for his rifle when he was stopped after the chase and saw the patrolman "pointing his gun at me. I thought he was going to blow me away."

Orangie said Rector was armed with a rifle but had never threatened to shoot. He said he was not frightened, "but I wasn't going to try taking that rifle away

Father, Son Find Bonanza In Seashell Selling Trade

WANCHESE, N.C. (AP) - If you have been to a beach resort any recent summer, you are aware that people who sell seashells down by the seashore very nearly outnumber the vacationers. Shells, thousands of them in endless varieties, have burst out of souvenir shops and now appear in grocery stores, filling stations, anywhere, it seems, that there is a spare shelf. The vacation ritual of walking the beach to collect shells, though, usually yields nothing more than a few nondescript remains, mostly broken, soon tossed out.

So where do all those pretty ones for sale come from? "Not from the United States, or at least not many of them." Rusty Stetson said. "They come from Africa, the Philippines, India, Taiwan, Mexico. Face it, if you want a good shell collection, you're not going to get it from the United States.

Rusty and his father are in the international shell game. They sell seashells to seashell sellers. Surprisingly, they are among only a handful of major seashell importers in the country, maybe about a dozen.

"What we do get from the United States, mostly from Florida, is this little rascal. It's what put us in the business in

The little rascal is a land hermit crab, a tree crab, itself a shell collector of sorts in that it doesn't grow its own shell but finds one to its liking that has been discarded.

People who are taken with what appears to be a shell with feet buy land hermit crabs for pets.

About 10 years ago the Stetsons, to their amazement, discovered there were enough such pet lovers up and down the East Coast that they could expand what began as a little roadside shell shop here on Roanoke Island. Where Sir Walter Raleigh lost a colony, became where the Stetsons found a bonanza. They now self-more than 100,000 land hermit crabs every year and no telling how many shells.

The unit the Stetsons use dealing with shells is not dozen. or crate, or carload, but ton. They have no idea how big the business is globally.

If you want to find out, every shell expert you ask will say, Why don't you talk to Tucker Abbott?" Dr. R.T. Abbott, of Hockessin, Del., has written several books about shells including a catalog that names every shell there is and what it is worth

Well, he doesn't know either.

"If you figure that the Philippines exported $30 million worth of shells last year, East Africa about $20 million, Japan $15 million," Dr. Abbott said, "You get an idea of how big the shell business is.

'But don't worry. There are no endangered species of shells. Even shells that disappear after, say, a hurricane always seem to come back." Rusty Stetson will be glad to

VW Sets Production In First U.S. Plant

PITTSBURGH (AP) - Volkswagen, which brought its funny-looking little car to America when the U.S. automakers' motto was "Think Big," begins U.S. production Monday after a construction blitz that turned a mere shell into a working auto plant in less than a year.

The first of Volkswagen's U.S.-produced Rabbit models is scheduled to roll off the assembly line at the nearly completed New Stanton plant 35 miles southeast of Pittsburgh.

We have everything in place to build cars," said plant public relations director Chet Bahn. "The cafeterias aren't yet complete and the administration building still needs partitions and carpeting, but I've already seen a great many car bodies built and painted.

Some 1,200 employees have been riveting, welding and stocking parts at the Westmoreland County facility for weeks. Just the final part of the first U.S.-produced Rabbit remains to installed, and the car is expected to be sent to the Volkswagen museum in Wolfsburg, Germany.

The remaining 200,000 cars Volkswagen will produce here annually will go to dealer showrooms, however, as part of the German firm's push against challenges from Japanese and U.S. small

The company did not locate here by accident. There was competition for the plant by several areas who hoped it could bolster sagging local economies in oncebusy industrial areas.

The multimillion-dollar loan and tax abatement plan that got Volkswagen here was a complex arrangement involving the state, the county, the Chrysler Corp., two townships and two school districts.

Some 4.500 perons are expected to work at the plant when it reaches full production and the annual payroll is estimated at $97 million. About 90 percent of the jobs are to be filled by persons living in a 35-mile radius of the plant, and backup development includes the paving of 1,-000 miles of secondary roads in 17 coun-

As, for Volkswagen, it hopes the plant's production will help return the company to a dominant position in the American marketplace.

Volkswagen's Beetle, which engendered jokes as well as sales when it was first introduced in America, made the company the leading importer of cars in Recently, however, the U.S. dollar has grown weaker in relation to the German mark, cutting Volkswagen's former price edge amid increased competiton.

As recently as 1971, Volkswagen's share of the U.S. market was 6 percent with sales of 570,000 cars. In 1977, the company's new car sales dropped under 260,000 . units, only 2 percent of the market.

Volkswagen board ^achairman Toni Schmuecker said the company will spend up to $250 million on the plant here to bolster its standing.

Assembly of the first Rabbit comes less than a year after crews began paving the 39-acre ground floor of the plant's shell. The structure was built by Chrysler Corp. in 1968 but left unfinished when the auto market declined in 1970.

Papers Allege Moro Ultimatum Delivered

ROME (AP) - Italian newspapers Friday saying that although there was no claimed Sunday that the Red Brigades have sent an ultimatum and possible conditions for the release of kidnapped former Premier Aldo Moro.

The reports, which gave no details of the message, were not confirmed by police. If they are true, however, it may represent the first time specific demands have been laid down for Moro's freedom.

After receiving word of the new message, the newspapers said, Premier Giulio Andreotti called a secret meeting with Interior Minister Francesco Cossiga and police officials. The papers, in conflicting versions, said the message was either a letter or a recording from Moro to his family, or a written statement by the Red Brigades.

the terrorist group that abducted Moro

March 16 The respected Milan newspaper Corriere della Sera said "reliable sources" reported that the Red Brigades addressed the message to Moro's family. In the message, the paper said, his captors listed tough demands for Moro's release.

The paper said police tapped a telephone call Saturday night in which the Marxist urban guerrillas disclosed a dropoff point for the message in a downtown Rome square. Police then intercepted it. the paper said. It did not say to whom the call was made.

'Is it the Red Brigades' reply to Mrs. Eleonora Moro?" the paper asked. Mrs. Moro published an open letter sign her husband would be freed she believed "it may still be possible after so much pain, to embrace him again."

Moro, who led five Italian governments between 1963 and 1976, was kidnapped in a Rome shootout in which his abductors killed his five bodyguards.

The most massive manhunt in Italian history has turned up no sign of him or

No specific demands for his release have been made public, although there has been specultion the kidnappers may link Moro's fate to that of 15 of their comrades being tried in Turin on charges of seeking to overthrow the government by force.

The Red Brigades threatened to hold a 'people's trial" for Moro.

A letter attributed to Moro by his kidnappers last week said time was running out and called for a prisoner exchange as "the only positive solution." The government said the letter appeared genuine

The government has said it will not negotiate with the terrorists.

Pope Paul VI addressed a crowd of 10,-000 from his studio window in the Vatican Sunday, mentioning "the painful contingency our country is facing with sad and threatening episodes." He did not mention Moro specifically.

The Italian Communist Party, which supports the Christian Democrat government, said Sunday that 913 terrorist actions in Italy since the first of the year have killed 17 persons and injured 227

Salb, 27, and four other nature-lovers arrived in December to film and study the endangered bird, second-largest eagle species in the world behind the harpy eagle of Central and South America. The monkey-eating eagle is almost twice the size of the American bald eagle.

So far, the team has documented new findings on the eating and sexual habits of the eagle, which is perilously close to extinction. The group also recorded the death of a chick in the nest they were

Ries, the only authorized Stormaster builder in the South Plains and Panhandle, prides in the Stormaster and in its construction. Stormaster is not new in underground protection; it has been in business for over two decades in the Oklahoma City and Dallas areas.

The Stormaster unit is not pre-fab. It is built in a choice of two sizes, 6 ft. by 8 ft., and the more popular family-size 8 ft. by 10 ft., with construction taking about three days, depending on the weather, of course, and involving digging the hole, setting forms, pouring cement, finishing with paint, special inside plas-ter, benches and electrical outlet.

Centrally-Located Diet Center Fits Programs To Individual

new program and approach to losing weight available at the centrally-located Diet Center, 2321-A 50th St. in Lubbock, phone 793-5444."

Thoroughly experienced counselors there draw upon all facilities of the Diet Center resources and knowledge to work for you Meet these counselors: Marianne

Maestas and Glenda Bratcher. Each has many years in the weight reducing business and are folks you probably already know, as they formerly were with another firm in Lubbock

"We are acquainted with a number of weight reducing programs, and we are thoroughly sold on the Diet Center method new to Lubbock", they emphasize when comparing the available routes to weight loss.

An adjustable program, to fit the needs of the individual, is provided, and all counseling is private. Essentially a diet program, the Diet

Center method also advises light exer-The Diet Center program calls for a well-balanced diet, and the clients will not lose the essential fat on the body, but only the extra adipose fat; the dieters will have all the nutrients necessary to maintain good health while losing adipose fat from the body.

It is pointed out in this connection that there are three types of fat on the body: (1) The structural fat, necessary to the body as it rounds out the body, giving look to the man. This type of fat is quick energy and easily available to the body.

(2) The cushioning fat also is necessary as it cushions the bones so they will not hurt us. It is between the joints, on the hips, knees, feet, etc., and this fat does not show on the body, but it must be there. It also is quick energy fat that is easily available to the body.

(3) The adipose fat is the "extra" fat on the body, fat that is stored to help the body during prolonged starvation periods.

"When a person is on a fad or a starvation diet, or when a person is very ill, the body draws from the quick energy fat that is easily available to the body for emergencies. The person has a gaunt, starved, haggard look. He or she loses structural fat from the face and breast, feeling weak and run down. This type of fat is quickly regained as it is essential to the body and good health.

"At the Diet Center, 2321-A 50th St., remember, clients are on a well-balanced diet and they will not lose the essential fat on the body, but only the extra adipose fat."

At a very, very modest price, one may avail herself or himself of daily counseling during the weight loss period, counseling during stabilization, and further aid during later maintenance for a lifetime of weight control.

With varied programs available, it could be pointed out that possibly the most popular is a 6-week program in pounds, with men losing even more The counselors at the Diet Center, 2321-A 50th St., are happy to work closely with the client's physician if there is a medical problem involved To simplify explanation, it could be said that the most popular Diet Center program takes from two to six weeks with an expected weight loss of one-half to one pound a day. When the desired weight has been attained, a sustaining program, at no further charge, is set up. Then if the old programs of stuffing away food return as fatty deposits, a refresher weigh-in quickly sets one on the

The Diet Center approach is strictly dietary, involving a series of tasty menus that are inexpensive and easy to prepare. The diets help keep the blood sugar stable, serve as natural dieuretics and keep away hunger pangs!

You'll feel well, and if you persevere, in no time at all you'll begin to look as great as you feel!" Inquiries Invited

A dietary supplement that's part of the over-all program supplies an invert sugar that gives immediate energy and reduces the craving for sweets; it is not a drug or medication

Full details are gladly given regarding all facits of the Diet Center plan that involves no shots, drugs or gimmicks. But don't delay; let Glenda or Marianne enter the picture now; call 793-5444 for ap-

"Whatever you love to eat with bread, you'll love a little better with Honey Grain, from Rainbo, now at your favorite supermarket.' Harry Hoopes, president of the Rainbo bakery here that serves supermarkets and grocery stores in this region, naturally is most enthusiastic, correctly pointing out that the introduction is another of the progressive moves by Rainbo that throughout the years has seen the public's preferences, needs and demands, and has done something "delicious" about it! "You simply cannot go wrong with any of the fine Rainbo Baking Co. products, and Honey Grain is no exception." So . . . next time you're in your favorite store to buy a loaf of bread, consider Rainbo just will not take second place to anyone in promotion of good eating for its West Texas friends.

Lock Assortment, Tools For Garden, Home, Builder, All At Childress Firm

"Security" is very much in the minds of most people today. And properly so. It would be foolish, and likely impossible, to seriously consider security for the home or business without attention to the locks . . . such as dead bolts, etc.

And this is where Childress Hardware comes in, for Childress for years has stocked the finest in security hardware. The knowledgeable personnel there will be glad to discuss one's door fastener needs, providing the right lock for the situation at hand

Not only at this time when crime seems to dominate in so many news reports, but for the entire past half-century, Childress Hardware, at 902 Main, has stocked needs for every season, the practical hardware items appreciated

throughout the region. Outdoor Tool Needs

"It also is pointed out that just as soon as the winter weather abates, most of us are anxious to turn attention to the challenges for house, yard and garden improvements; a busy outdoor time of year

The correct tools and equipment can be the big item in convenience and accomplishment, whether the task is lawn and garden work or even a remodeling sprinkling can or a lawn watering device job for the home. For these tools, one can rely with cer-

Then for the home handyman or even the professional builder who appreciates good hand tools, there is a wide stock, including the respected name of Stanley, Crescent, Thorson, Nicholson, Bluegrass, Disston, Lufkin, Plumb and others long associated with quality and integrity in tool-making. On and on the list could go in enumerating the lawn and the building needs provided at Childress Hardware, but suffice it to say that "if it is in the hard-

Cabinet Hardware The Fred Childress Hardware also stocks one of the most extensive line of cabinet hardware in the city, with latest designs in hinges, pulls and latches attractively displayed. Here again brands such as Stylecraft, Christensen, Phylrick and Pfanstiel are indicative of top quality and design. With all this stock, one might have the wrong conception - that the store is messy and ill-arranged - but this is not the case. At Fred Childress Hardware, 902 Main St., the entire stock is grouped for easy viewing and selection. It is a neat, attractive store in which the wife can enjoy shopping.

BUSINESS PRACTICES QUESTIONED

Hollywood Financial Disputes Erupt

LOS ANGELES (AP) - It has all the elements of a blockbuster movie hit: Big-name stars, professional and personal risk, courtroom and executive suite drama. But it isn't a movie. It's a real-life conflict that is spreading through the film industry, television and records,

The conflict centers on accounting and other business practices of major entertainment firms, especially how they divide profits among actors, musicians, producers, directors, writers and others with profit-sharing contracts.

Major movie studios are accused of padded production charges, among them studio everhead and payroll taxes; improper allocation of advertising expenses; and the inclusion of foreign taxes in a film's cost. (In turn they are credited against a studio's U.S. income taxes, so they get some of the money back.)

The object of all that, industry critics say, is to inflate a movie's cost and delay the break-even point, which must be reached before actors, producers, writers and others share in the profits.

The studios reply that most questions involve minor clerical errors and disagreements over contract clauses and there is no pattern of abuse.

Of course, actors, producers and others get hefty salaries. The conflict involves "profit participation" above those sala-

The conflicts are increasing at a time when Hollywood already is under intense public scrutiny due to the "Begelman Affair." David Begelman, Columbia Pictures' TV-movie chief, has been charged with grand theft and forgery for misappropriating $80,000 from the company and others earlier this year. He was suspended from his posts but still holds an independent producing contract with Columbia.

In television, the disputes involve an accounting system that results in hugely popular shows such as "Happy Days," "All In The Family" and "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" showing paper losses during most of their original network runs. Here, too, those who would share in profits claim that studios often use bookkeeping devices to make a winner look like a loser with no profits to share

The studios say the problem is caused by the networks, which allegedly so control the industry that they can get away with paying the studios less than the programs really musicians, music publishers and others involve royalty payments on the sale of records. Those people charge that recording firms sometimes hide sales and profits to avoid paying royalties.

In the recording business, similar complaints by singers,

The firms deny it. "The one thing I'll die with is ethically, when it comes to accounting to our artist, we'll bend over backward for our artist," said an RCA Records spokesman. He did not want to be quoted by name.

At stake is a share in hundreds of millions of dollars in annual profits from movies, television programs and records

"It has happened to me over and over again that I've had either a percentage of TV shows or feature pictures and never received a dime." said producer Stanley Rubin, one of whose recent projects was the television movie "Babe." the story of athlete Babe Zaharias.

The production, shown last season, earned respectable TV ratings and was sold for theater exhibition abroad. Rubin's firm was supposed to receive half the profits from the overseas venture, but so far has received only a $15,000 fee for permission for the foreign release.

'Not only have we not received and (percentage) money, but according to the books, we still owe the studio money for going slightly over budget," said Rubin. He says the studio told him that not enough money was made to offset expen-

Universal, which handled the overseas release, refused to

Rubin doesn't plan to sue. But others are airing their complaints in court, and most of the action involves movies: -Actors Sean Connery and Michael Caine filed a suit last year charging that a distributor, Allied Artists, withheld $218,000 of their profits from the movie, "The Man Who Would Be King.

Mike Gerber, an attorney for Allied Artists, said the firm has filed a countersuit seeking $21.5 million and charging Connery with making defamatory remarks about the compa-

-Another pending lawsuit was filed by "The Exorcist" producer Paul Monash, who eventually dropped out of the movie but retained a 5 percent share of its profits. An audit of the film's books by Monash resulted in a claim for more than $1.4 million from Warner Brothers. The figure included allegedly withheld profits plus penalty charges.

Warner Brothers denies the validity of the claim, but that determination will have to await the trial on the merits," said attorney Joel Boxer, working on the case for Warner

Other actors, writers and producers are breaking Hollywood's traditional code of silence - which many felt was necessary to keep working - and publicizing their differences with studio officials:

-Writer Mario Puzo, who was supposed to receive 10 per-cent of the profit of "Godfather II," said he has received none from Paramount. The picture grossed about $50 mil-

Arthur Barron, chief accountant for Paramount, refused to talk about Puzo's complaint.

-Producers Robert Chartoff and Irwin Winkler, who made the highly successful "Rocky," said they haven't received all the earnings they are entitled to from United Artists because it used some of the money to offset losses on a less-successful film, "New York, New York.

The accounting technique, called cross-collateralization, was authorized by the producers' contract.

-After an audit challenging the accounting of "The Way We Were," Robert Redford, a writer and producer received $250,000 from Columbia.

Audits by outside accountants are becoming routine in Hollywood, and several private auditors estimate that more than $10 million is paid annually in settlement of claims for undistributed profits. The auditors, though, are not impartial observers; they could attract business by over-estimating

But there is no doubt that actors and others are watching industry accountants more closely. And this comes at a time when the major studios' accounting practices are being investigated by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Added to the clamor are concerns being voiced by the firms' stockholders, who could be financially hurt if the accounting practices are found to be illegal or improper.

Columbia Pictures, for example, has been charged in a class-action suit with issuing false and misleading financial reports. The suit, filed by shareholder Dorothy M. Wolin, alleges the reports constituted fraud against purchasers of Columbia stock.

The action seeks unspecified damages to be paid to shareholders whose stock has declined in value because of disclosures involving Columbia and Begelman. The stock is now selling at around $16 per share. Last fall it was over $20.

Columbia refused comment on the stockholder suit or its accounting practices. But several days after the action was filed. Columbia sent a letter to shareholders detailing its version of the recent events and saying the current management has improved the firm's profitability.

Many of the same companies involved in movie production and distributing - Columbia, Universal, Paramount, Warner Brothers - also have divisions which make television series. And the financing of those programs also is causing complaints.

No matter how popular a show like "Happy Days" might be, the accounting system frequently shows a paper loss for several years. After four and a half years of production, during which it emerged as a top-rated program, "Happy Days" is just beginning to show a profit - and only because it is carning millions in daytime reruns.

That situation has led its major star, Henry "Fonzie" Winkler, and three executive producers to complain that Paramount has overstated its expenses for the show by about $400,000, thus delaying the point at which there are profits for them to share.

At the same time, though, the show has been a bonanza. ABC now charges about $35,000 for a 30-second commercial on "Happy Days," Paramount gets at least $200,000 for each of 24 episodes produced yearly and keeps about $30,000 off the top, Winkler has been able to negotiate his salary from a starting $750 per show to about $80,000, and three executive producers split about $10,000 per show

The production companies say that to meet their payrolls and other expenses with the inadequate payments made by the networks for programs, they often must borrow money for each episode. So they only way a program can show a profit is to be syndicated for rerunning after it ends network, prime-time production.

But only a small percentage of shows are successful enough to reach the syndication promised land. Thus, production companies use profits of more successful shows to offset overhead lost on failing programs. In the recording industry, many singers, musicians and publishers — all of whom receive royalties of about 30 cents for each long-playing record sold — regularly audit the firms for which they work. Auditors and lawyers said they have found instances where money is retained by some firms through unrecorded sales and other devices.

And one lawsuit, filed by singer-poet Rod McKuen, resulted in RCA Corp., which owns one of the largest U.S. recording firms, conceding in court papers that it sold 9.5 million records between 1971 and 1973 through an unusual tactic that involved discount sales of records on which reduced royalties or none at all were paid.

RCA denied violating any contract or law. But a week before the case was to go to trial last spring, RCA agreed to a settlement which the AP has learned was worth more than

We have learned that it is very easy to make these things sound sinister when in fact what may be involved is no more than a disagreement between lawyers over the meaning of words in a contract," said the RCA spokesman, who declined to be identified.

MONEY PROBLEMS IN THE ENTERTAINMENT WORLD - Major movie studios are in conflict with producers, directors, actors and other performers over accounting and other business practices, especially on how they divide profits. Producers of the popular TV series "Happy Days," from left, Gary Marshall, Tom Miller and Ed Milkis are among those complaining that the studio has overstated expenses of the show, thus delaying the point at which profits can be shared with performers. (AP Laserphoto)

Seminars, services and youth-counseling sessions are planned at Jewish community centers, churches and schools throughout the country before and after the telecasts.

The NBC "docu-drama" is a fictionalized account of the systernatic Nazi destruction of 6 million European Jews before and during World War II and focuses on two families, one Jewish and one Nazi. The series will be shown on four consecutive nights beginning April 16 at 8 p.m. EST.

Schools in Illinois, Florida, Pennsylvania, Louisiana and Minnesota are distributing information on the Holocaust. The mayor of Hartford, Conn., has designated the week of the telecasts as "Holocaust Remembered Week." And Sen. Edward Brooke, Social workers and psychologists will operate a telephone "hot line" after the shows at the Bernard Horwich Jewish Community Center in Chicago to answer questions from young people - arising from the telecasts.

Pamphlets on the Holocaust - some from NBC - on how to deal with questions raised by the series will be given out at sessions similar to one for some 800 teachers and youth workers Wednesday at a school in Skokie, Ill. We're not sure just how the average Jewish teen-ager will

Player Masters Tough Augusta

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) - Gary Player was a portrait of studied, stony, stoic calm as he watched the world's greatest golfers try so mightily, come so close and eventually fail to match the magnificent 64 that won him a third Masters championship Sunday.

But the image of the tough-minded little South African that flashed across the television screens of America and England and Japan and Canada was not an accurate reflection of the emotions he ex-came to the 18th green and fell victim to the course, the pressure and the score he had composed.

"I was choking," Player said. "I didn't know I was on camera and I don't know what I looked like, but I was choking. I was jumping around inside of myself.

He broke his self-imposed calm only when the final man — Hubert Green missed a three-to-four-foot birdie putt a sudden death playoff.

When the little putt slid by the hole Player broke into a broad grin, hastily, happily shrugged into a green jacket and shook the hand of old friend and golfing foe Arnold Palmer.

"The green slopes there. And a three-footer to tie for the Masters isn't ever easy," Player said. . Jack Nicklaus, a five-time winner of favorite to win again, played his final two rounds under the watch of armed security guards. The Associated Press learned from a tournament official who asked not to be identified that a death threat had been made against Nicklaus, who made a too-late move to catch the South African

The muscular little warrior, who abandoned his habitual black attire for lighter colors in the heat of a humid southern spring day, acquired his third Masters championship and ninth major title of his remarkable, unmatched career with a 72hole total of 273, 11 shots under par on the famed, unforgiving, 7,040 yards of gently rolling hills that make up the Au-gusta National Golf Club course.

It was one of the most thrilling of all the Masters, an event that, somehow, seems to have a corner on drama.

Green, defending champion Tom Watson and low-key veteran Rod Funseth, ameek, mild-mannered, Clark Kent type who threatened to become a golfing su-perman without the benefit of a telephone booth, mighty Jack Nicklaus, Wally Armstrong, dark, intense Bill Kratzert, Australian David Graham all made their moves in the near-perfect playing conditions that favored this traditional spring

One by one they faded and failed. The last to go was Green, a 3-shot leader at the end of 54 holes and a front-runner most of the day.

The last man on the golf course, Green lashed a perfectly gorgeous approach shot from his crouched, curious, unortho-dox stance and marched up the hill to the 18th green to the applause of milling thousands. It was a shot reminiscent of the approach on the 17th that secured Player's last Masters title in 1974.

He had that little putt, just about the same one that won him the American National championship last year in Tulsa, Okla., to tie and send the championship into a playoff, now a sudden death affair and one of Player's pet peeves.

He has an American record of 2-11 in sudden death playoffs and long has de-cried that method of of deciding champi-

He avoided it this time.

Hubert hunkered over the ball in a hushed silence — then broke his stance and backed off. He flashed a boyish grin at the gallery and the national television cameras then settled in again with his ancient, green-handled putter.

And he missed. Player was a winner.

Green finished with a round of par 72 and a tie for second at 278 with Watson and Funseth. Watson, who last year conquered Nicklaus in one of the game's great shows, had a share of the lead with Player until he missed the 18th green, then failed on a 10 to 12-foot par-saving putt that would have given him a tie. He shot 69. And Funseth, playing with Watson and well back of Player, had a birdle putt of 15 to 18 feet on the final hole to tie. He missed and finished with a 69.

Armstrong, playing in his first Masters, and Kratzert, generally regarded as one of the finest, most promising of all the young players on the PGA Tour, were next at 280. Kratzert shot 69, Armstrong

Nicklaus, the pretourney favorite to add to his record five Masters titles, made his move too late. One stroke over par after two rounds, Nicklaus finally found his putting touch over the last 18 and shot a 67 for a 281 total.

"In summary," said the man who has revised his schedule to place even greater emphasis on the Big Four events that have served as the focus of his life, "I'm

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) - Jack Nicklaus played the last two rounds of the Masters golf tournament under threat of assassination, The Associated Press learned

The world's No. 1 golfer, a five-time winner of this event, was guarded by uniformed state troopers as well as plainclothes detectives and FBI agents for the Saturday and Sunday rounds.

However, Nicklaus and tournament officials denied there had been a threat. "You must know something I don't know, I know nothing about it," Nicklaus

William H. Lane, the tournament chairman, said that an extra complement of state troopers was assigned to Nicklaus as well as Arnold Palmer, a popular fourtime winner, to help control the crowd. He declined to discuss the death threats, although the AP was given full details of the operation by an unimpeachuniformed troopers, wearing guns, followed Nicklaus every step of the way during practice and playing rounds Saturday and Sunday.

They were on his heels as he went from the clubhouse to the practice tee and followed him to the press room for the routine postround interview. They stood inside the ropes on the course.

Pinkerton guards, who normally handle security measures, said they couldn't recall troopers having guarding the play-

The AP informant gave the following details:

A phone call was received early Saturbefore the third round tee-off by Nicklaus. It was not immediately known where the call came from. However, the caller said Nicklaus would be killed during Sunday's round. State troopers were immediately dispatched to the scene. A pair was assigned to Palmer, not because he also was threatened, but as a decoy measure.

DELWIN JONES PROMISES

Nicklaus' residence here also was closely guarded overnight. Masters officials sought to dissuade Nicklaus' wife, Barbara, from following her husband Sunday. She insisted on joining the gallery.

Nicklaus wore remarkably drab attire blue slacks and a dull green-and-brown horizonaltaly-striped shirt.

He was paired with a longtime friend and fellow townsman from Columbus,

Ohio, Tom Weiskopf. Weiskopf wore an identical shirt, but changed it on the first tee. He wore blue pants, jsut as Nicklaus did. The AP source said the clothing change may have been by design.

Nicklaus said Weiskopf changed his shirt after the gallery kidded them about their indentical shirts.

Reports were that the FBI had a recording of the voice that made the threat and that investigation was proceeding.

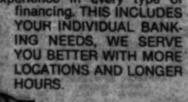

The FBI also declined commer A similar threat was made against Hubert Green during the U.S. Open last June in Tulsa, Oklahoma. The U.S. Golf Association took similar precautionary measures and announced the threat after Green won the tournament

Al Self and M. Brown of Andrews also won a playoff to capture the B flight title. The duo downed Fred Husky and Tommy Evans of Lubbock. Both teams finished regulation with 155s.

Masters Takes Toll

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) - "I made mistakes, and I paid for it," Hubert Green said Sunday after his hopes for a Masters Golf championship ended on the final hole when he missed a three-foot birdie

"I came here to win," he added. "I should have won."

Defending champion Toni Watson also expected to win this prestigious event again. A missed 10foot par putt on the 18th green cost him his chance to become only the second winner ever in successive Longshot Rod Funseth's bid also failed at 18, missing from 24 feet, but the 45-year-old veteran said, "I'm not disappointed. I played

The closing drama had featured a remarkable comeback by South African Gary Player. He birdied 7 of the last 10 holes, fired a recordtying 8-under-par 64 and edged Green, Watson and Funseth by one shot with a 277 total, 11 under par on the Augusta National Golf Club

"I'm very disappointed," Watson said. "I have to say six 3-putts during the 72 holes didn't help my chances. I do feel sorry for Hubert because he had a good opportunity

It was the second dramatic finish in the Masters in four years, reminding the three runnersup of the 1975 chase when Jack Nicklaus claimed his record fifth title by withstanding a closing rush by Tom Weiskopf and Johnny Miller.

Watson mentioned the 1975 finish. Funseth said he and Green, playing in the final twosome, discussed it before plopping their second shots into birdie range on No.

"I'd liked to have won," said Funseth. "I really didn't throw anything away, so I can't complain Watson said he knew what he had to do with his par putt. "It was just the matter of getting it there, and I didn't get it there." Green had backed away from his putt when he heard a radio commentator "saying I need it to tie Gary Player. I said I don't want to tie him, I want to win the tourna-

He backed off the putt, then missed, but refused to lay blame on anyone else.

"I thought it was going in but it definitely must have been a bad putt because I missed it," Green

"It's not the end of the world, I hope," he added. "I just didn't make the putts I needed to. If I shoot 2 under par today, it's histochampion Ray Floyd, 68-286; Jerry Pate, 72-287: Johnny Miller, 70-291, and Lindy (no relation) Miller 71-286. He was the first amateur to break par in this event since 1961, when the then-young Player became the first foreigner to win the Weiskopf, incidentally, had to make a wardrobe change before getting off the first tee. He and Nicklaus, his playing partner, arrived at the white, colonialstyle clubhouse wearing identical shirts.

"Everybody was laughing and giggling at us," Nicklaus said.

"I'm not going to put up with this for 18 holes," said Weiskopf, and quickly changed.

Palmer, the legendary, 48-year-old who won this title four times and was pressed into service as an official at the presentation ceremonies, disappointed his stillhopeful, still-faithful gallery with a 77 that included 41 on the back nine. He finished at 293.

Player, who has scored more than 100 victories around the world, had what may have been his greatest day. He birdied half the holes he played on one of the world's great golf courses and came from 7 shots off the pace at the end of 54 holes. "I'm an eternal optimist," he said.

But even an eternal optimist couldn't have thought of climbing over the shoulders of nine of the world's finest players who led him at the end of three rounds.

There was little indication he was making a major move with his 34 on the front side, which included a birdie on the ninth

Busby Back On Track As KC Triu

CLEVELAND (AP) — Steve Busby, at-empting to make a pitching comeback before spring training. I felt I had no chance to make the club. tempting to make a pitching comeback after operations on his arm and knee, gave the Kansas City Royals a warm glow on a cold Sunday as he picked up his first victory since 1976, a 5-4 triumph over the Cleveland Indians.

Busby, pitching a major league game for the first time since July 1976, shut out Cleveland on two hits for 52-3 innings, leaving with a 3-0 lead.

"I did what I thought was my job," Busby said, trying to suppress his joy. "I felt I kept the ballclub in the game and I got to the point where I had 80-plus pitches, pretty much the same thing I had done in spring training."

The right-hander, considered one of baseball's brightest young stars before his injuries, said he was "surprised I made the ballclub considering how I felt Steve Mingori in the ninth.

DODGERS 7, BRAVES 4 -Steve Garvey blasted a 3-run homer in the sixth inning, helping the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 7-4 victory over the hosting Atlanta Braves. Right-hander Rick Rhoden scattered six hits in seven innings as the defending National League champions completed a sweep of a three-game, season-opening series against the Braves.

Reggie Smith and Ron Cey were on base with leadoff singles when Garvey connected against Atlanta starter Tommy Boggs, making his first appearence for the Braves since coming to the team in a trade from the Texas Rangers.

BOSOX 5, CHISOX 0 -Jim Rice blasted an upper deck home run and a pair of singles and scored three runs to lead Bill Lee and the Boston Red Sox to 5-0 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

The homer was the first in Comiskey Park for Rice, who has now homered in every park in the American League. Lee scattered seven hits in hurling the Red Sox to their first victory of the season after a pair of 6-5 losses to Chicago.

Three of Boston's runs were unearned, including two in the first inning when the White Sox committed three errors and a passed ball.

REDS 9, ASTROS 3 -Dan Dreissen belted a 3-run homer and Cesar Geronimo and Joe Morgan added 2-run shots, powering the Cincinnati Reds to a 9-3 triumph over the visiting Houston Astros.

The victory was the Reds' fourth straight and matched their fastest start in history. The Reds have won four straight only three other times at the start of a season - all in the pennant-winning years of 1940, 1970 and 1976.

Right-hander Tom Hume, elevated to a starting role when Paul Moskau was shipped to the minors last week, survived a rocky start to gain the victory. He gave up three runs in the second, including two on bases-loaded walks, then settled down, blanking the Astros over the next five innings.

CUBS 4, BUCS 3 -Bill Buckner broke an eighth-inning tie with a solo home run off Bruce Kison to give the Chicago Cubs a 4-3 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates. Lubbockite Donnie Moore (1-0) was the winner with relief help from Bruce Sut-

With two outs in the Cub eighth, Buckner drove Kison's first pitch over the right field wall for his first home run this season. Buckner also rapped two earlier singles and stole a pair of bases off Pirate starter Jerry Reuss as the Cubs notched their first victory of the season after two defeats here.

TWINS 8, MARINERS 6 -Roy Smalley's bases-loaded sacrifice fly and Bobby Randall's run-scoring grounder in Minnesota's three-run fifth inning wiped out a one-run Seattle lead and boosted the Twins to an 8-6 victory over the Mariners.

Dan Ford, who drew a walk from rookie reliever Steve Burke to load the bases TScott cf 3000 McBrid rf 4110 with none out in the Twins' fifth, also scored on Randall's grounder to shortstop Larry Milbourne when first baseman Dan Meyer committed an error on the

> GIANTS 7, PADRES 5 -Pinch-hitter Mike Ivie broke a 5-5 tie with an eighthinning sacrifice fly and the San Francisco Giants went on to a 7-5 victory over the visiting San Diego Padres. Ivie hit the sacrifice fly to left field with

ANGELS 3, A's 2 -Joe Rudi drove in two runs with a homer and double ,lifting the California Angels to a 3-2 victory over the Oakland A's behind the pitching of Chris Knapp, Dyar Miller and Dave LaR-Rudi's third-inning home run off rookie

Alan Wirth was his first since he suffered a broken right hand last June 26. His last home run was off Ron Schueler, then with Minnesota, last June 14.

Oakland scored an unearned run in the first inning, taking advantage of Knapp's two-base throwing error on Miguel Dilone's grounder back to the mound. Dilone stole third, Bill North drew a walk and stole second and Dave Revering was walked intentionally to fill the bases. Dilone scored on a sacrifice fly by Jim BREWERS 13, O's 5 -Cecil Cooper's bases-loaded home run - Milwaukee's third grand slam in three games capped a 6-run fourth inning and powered the hot-hitting Brewers to a 13-5 victory over the shellshocked Baltimore Ori-

Larry Hisle added a two-run single in the fourth and the Brewers, now managed by former Baltimore pitching coach George Bamberger, battered Oriole hurling for 40 runs and 38 hits in sweeping the season-opening three-game series. The Brewers scored only 44 runs against the Orioles in 15 meetings last season. Singles by Charlie Moore and Paul Molitor triggered the Brewers' fourth inning. After a sacrifice and an intentional walk to Sal Bando, Hisle delivered his two-run single. A walk reloaded the bases and Cooper drilled an 0-2 pitch from Scott McGregor for his second career grand slam and a 10-2 lead. PHILS 12, CARDS 3 -Bob Boone and Mike Schmidt each socked three-run homers and Garry Maddox drove in three with a pair of singles as the Philadelphia Phillies beat the St. Louis Cardinals 12-3

Left-hander Randy Lerch earned the victory, giving up three hits, including a two-run homer by Keith Hernandez. John Urrea, raked for seven runs on seven hits in three innings, was the loser. The Phillies took a 5-0 lead in the first when Maddox hit a two-run, bases-loaded single, and Boone, who didn't get his first homer of 1977 until May 28, shot over the left field fence.

St. Louis scored a run in the without a hit — two walks, a fly ball at an infield out — and reduced the delet to 5-3 in the fourth on Hernandez' hoth

TIGERS 8, JAYS 4 —Detroit rapped out seven hits and drew three walks in a seven-run second inning, with Rusty Staub singling home two, as the Tigers posted an 8-4 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays in Detroit.

The Tigers strung together a walk three singles, another walk and three more singles before the first out was re corded in the second. Toronto used three pitchers in the inning, begining with starter Tom Underwood.

METS 6-6. EXPOS 5-5 - Steve Henderson's pinch-hit grand-slam home run and Bruce Boisclair's 2-run shot gave the New York Mets a 6-5 Montreal Expos in the first game of a doubleheader. However, Monteral came back to win the second game 5-0.

Henderson, batting for Ron Hodges, lined a 1-2 pitch from Darold Knowles over the left field fence in the sixth inning for his second homer of the season, breaking open a 2-1 game.

Boisclair who had homered in the first off loser Wayne Twitchell, led off the sixth with a single off reliever Hal Dues.

Havlicek Ends 16-Year Career

BOSTON (AP) - A weeping John Havlicek bid an emotion-packed farewell to the National Basketball Association Sunday, ending his 16-year career as the

As a capacity crowd of 15,276 rocked Boston Garden with a series of prolongued standing ovations, Havlicek said, "It's been a long journey...I cannot turn back the clock.'

Playing in his 1,270th regular season NBA game, a league record, Havlicek said his finale against the Buffalo Braves, and his half time speech, was "without a doubt the toughest thing I've ever tried to do."

With praise coming from a variety of sports notables, including several former Ohio State teammates, Havlicek missed his first three shots before scoring on a 12-foot jumper with 44 seconds left in the first period. He entered the game with 26,366 career regular season points, third on the league's all-time list following Wilt Chamberlain and Oscar Robertson.

If I had a son and he was like John, I'd be the happiest man in the world," said Celtics' President and General Manager Red Auerbach, who also wept.

Havlicek himself brushed tears from his face during pre-game ceremonies as he came to center court and bowed to all four sides of the arena.

He will begin a new career immediately, serving as a color man for CBS-TV during the NBA playoffs. Boston is out of the playoffs for only the third time since Auerbach arrived as coach in 1950.

The Celtics led the gift parade by presenting Havlicek with a $40,000 mobile home-camper and NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien gave Havlicek a check for $925, the super star's career total in fines paid to the league.

The money will be donated to the Special Olympics for handicapped children.

A man who led Boston to eight NBA championships was congratulated by Celtic center Dave Cowens, who said to the fans, "You'll never know what it's like to play with him. He's the best." Telegrams were read from the White House, and show business personalities Rebert Redford, Elton John, Don Rickles and Dionne Warwick.

Havlicek's former Buckeye teammate Bobby Knight, now basketball coach at indiana, called Havlicek "the finest basketball player I've ever seen." Harry Sinden, general manager of the National Hockey League Boston

Bruins, gave Havlicek a silver tray which read: "Nobody did it better. Havlicek poured in 17 points in the fourth quarter as the Celtics crushed Buf-

The capacity crowd chanted "Hondo" - Havlicek's nickname from an old John Wayne movie - as the 38-year-old veteran scored on a variety of twisting layup before getting his final ovation with 15 seconds left in the game. Boston's Dave Bing replaced Havlicek, who left the court with tears streaming down his face. He hugged several teammates as the old Boston Garden rocked with cheers that had Celtics' rookie Cedric Maxwell playing the last few seconds with hands over his ears.

Baseball Chiefs Mourn Frick

Frick, whose contributions as commissioner of baseball elevated him to the game's Hall of Fame, is dead.

The one-time sports writer, who also was a semipro player, a radio commentator and college professor before becoming a baseball adminstrator, died Saturday at Lawrence Hospital after a lengthy illness. He was 83.

"Through 30 years as a baseball leader he brought the game integrity, dedication and a happy tranquility far removed from the turbulence of today," said Bowie Kuhn, the current commissioner.

"It was my good fortune to have worked with him for many of those years and to know how much he cherished baseball and his membership in the Hall of Fame. He belonged there.

Frick also served as president of the National League from 1934 until 1951, and Arthur E. "Red" Patterson, a former longtime executive with the Brooklyn and Los Angeles Dodgers and now assistant to the chairman of the board of the California Angels, recalled:

"He cured several ailing franchises while he was the president of the National League - Brooklyn, Boston, Philadelphia - and I think he helped Cincinnati. There were several franchises that might have gone by the boards. He did a great job of bringing in money, leadership. The man played a major part in the development of the National League, in making it the treat league it is today.

Services and interment will be private. On Sept. 20, 1951, Frick succeeded A.B. "Happy" Chandler as the third baseball commissioner. Kenesaw "Mountain" Landis was the first.

Frick served as commissioner until 1965, when he was succeeded by the late Gen. William Dole Eckert. In 1970 he was elected to the Hall of Fame by the Oldtimer's Selection Committee.

During Frick's reign as commissioner, there were many franchise changes and the National and American leagues each expanded from eight to 10 teams.

In the switching of cities, the Boston Braves moved to Milwaukee and eventually to Atlanta, the St. Louis Browns moved to Baltimore and became the Orioles, the Philadelphia Athletics moved to Kansas City and later became the Oakland A's and the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants switched to Los Angeles and San Francisco, respectively.

National League and the Angels and the second version of the Washington Senators to the American League. The original Senators moved to Minnesota and were renamed the Twins. The second version later became the Texas Rangers. One of the high points of Frick's reign was the signing of a 3-year radio-televi-

Also, while National League president, he led a movement in 1935 to establish the Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N.Y., and he presided over the advent of night baseball.

New York Scalped

NEW YORK (AP) - The City of New York failed to audit nearly $800,000 in vouchers presented to the city in 1976 as maintenance costs for Yankee Stadium and, as a result, lost nearly $2 million in rent, according to the New York Times.

The newspaper reported in its Sunday editions that the New York Yankees baseball club, because of these maintenance costs, received about $10,000 from the city instead of paying the city $800,-000 in rent for 1976. And in 1977, the world champion Yankees paid $171,000 instead of about $1 million, the difference being in maintenance costs which are deductible from rent, the Times said.

Investigators for City Controller Harrison J. Goldin became suspicious after finding a bill that allegedly shows part of the cost of a 1976 television commercial by pitcher Catfish Hunter was charged off as a stadium maintenance cost.

Experts told the Times that the ballclub's lease with the city provides for municipal review of maintenance vouch-

The Pistons rallied from an 83-69 halftime deficit to pull the game out.

They outscored the playoff-bound Nuggets 35-23 in the third period and 34-31 in the final period.

Detroit was led by a last-quarter scoring barrage from Al Skinner, John Shumate and M.L. Carr. Skinner had 12 points in the last quarter, Carr had 10 and Shumate seven.

The Nuggets, who trailed by as many as 15 points in the final period, pulled within two points twice in the final minute when baskets by Carr and two free throws by Skinner saved the game for Detroit.

Skinner finished with 27 points, Carr with 25 and Eric Money with 23 for Detroit. The Pistons finished the season at 38-44, exactly the reverse of their 1976-77 mark. Under Kauffman, the Pistons won 50 percent of their games. Kauffman replaced Coach Herb Brown, who was fired in December. The Nuggets, the Midwest Division champs with 48-34 record, will sit out the first round of the playoffs before return-

A: The Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act provides cash benefits for qualified employees who become sick or unemployed. These benefits in the benefit year which began July 1, 1977, are based on employees' earnings in the calendar year 1976.

To qualify for the normal unemployment or sickness benefits (26-week period), an employee must have had railroad earnings of at least $1,000 in calendar year 1976, not counting more thn $400 in any one month. If 1976 was the employee's first year in the railroad industry, he or she must have worked at least 5 months of that year. the normal benefit period is 26 weeks long. However, an employee with 15 or more years of service may be paid these benefits for an additional 26-week period. An employe with 10 to 14 years of service may be paid an additional 13-week period of unemployment or sickness benefits.

An employee is eligible to receive a daily benefit rate of 60 percent of his last daily rate of pay in the qualifying base year, up to a maximum benefit of $25. The minimum daily benefit rate is $12.70. Since benefits can be paid for up to 10 days in a two week registration period, the maximum amount of benefits is $250 for a two-week registration period.

Liberals Oppose Mideast Arms Sale

WASHINGTON (AP) - Americans for Democratic Action said it opposes President Carter's proposed arms sale package to Egypt, Israel and Saudi Arabia. In meeting Saturday, ADA's national board urged Carter to provide "Israel with the military assistance and equipment necessary to give it the confidence it needs to make the territorial concessions (West Bank and Sinai settlements) which are required for peace.'

The ADA voiced no criticism of the roposed sale of F-5 fighter planes to Egypt, but "strongly opposed the sale of F-15 aircraft to Saudi Arabia" because the advanced fighter-bombers "would enhance Saudi capabilities against Israel and increase the likelihood Saudi Arabia would become involved in any future Arab-Israeli conflict."

Common Games Draw Bettors

By STEPHEN LONGSTREET

Newspaper Enterprise Assoc.

Here is some information about a few of the most common gambling games that are bet on in the United States.

CASINO POKER

This is played legally in Gardera, Calif., near Los Angeles, and is favored by housewives and old ladies with blue-rinsed hair. There are six licensed poker parlors of this type in the United States. The Herbert Group runs the Gardena Club and the Horse Shoe Club. These are open all week except Wednesdays. On Sunday they open at noon for the returning churchgoers who like to play cards. No liquor is served. It's all rather subdued, like a class funeral parlor. While whole families play, there is a rule forbidding children and adults to play at the same table. The clubs collect a fee for the use of the table.

BASEBALL BETTING Betting on baseball through bookmakers is said to reach nearly $4 billion a season. Personal betting at bars, in the office or among friends is estimated to raise the number to $15 billion a season. The odds and handicapping for the bookies is done in Las Vegas. There are private office pools based on runs scored or on innings that decide a game. There are also professional cards for betting, usually run by the Mafia or a local mob. These cost from a dollar up, and one wins or loses on the runs scored by half a dozen teams. It's illegal, of course, but very popular. The card operators take as much as 80 percent for themselves. The cards are sold everywhere - pool halls, newsstands, dry cleaning stores, drug stores, even door to door. A little store can make $600 a week on its cut of 10 percent for selling the cards. In factories, a card handler can make $30,000 to $60,000 a year. It is estimated that $4 billion a year is collected by the card operators. FOOTBALL

Office gambling works like the baseball pool, but with a greater use of the postal service. You make contact with someone who will mail you a weekly ticket that you fill in with your choices. Payment, if you win, comes back by mail. Europe is wild about this kind of pool play on soccer. The odds are decided according to who is playing and the amount of money being wagered. American operators work mostly on the point edge. It's based on what teams are playing and their records. And so the odds, or points, are decided. Book makers do a land-office business in football betting. When college football was the big attraction, weekend betting on 35 college games could bring out $65 million in bets. On pro football, the amount runs as high as in baseball, perhaps higher. To most Americans, sport is a spectator sport.

BASKETBALL This sport has been the most prone to gossip that it is a fixed game for gamblers who like to have a sure thing going. Officials have a way of favoring the local team, so that some bettors in evenly matched games put their money on the home team. There were more fixed basketball games a few years ago than games that were on the level, some believe. People are still leery of pro basketball because of this. It's a fast, wonderful game, and people like to bet on it. Bookmakers will take the play and the point system. It's all in favor of the bookmaker. Of course, you can bet on a total score rather than on win or lose. HOCKEY

In Canada, is has been estimated that gambling money amounting to $30 million a year changes hands. It's less than that in the United States, but the figures are growing. Bookmakers say that a lot of betting on hockey is done during the day by buffs. Few American as yet know the fine points of the game; they just have a liking for fast action and lots of body slamming. The wise ones told me not to bet on a team that's touted to be ahead by two goals or more. This is known as "the spread line," and it puts bad percentages against you.

BOXING

This has been called the most crooked of all sports to bet on. And as gangster and mob interests have entered boxing, the wise should stay away from what looks like a dive or a carry.

A gambler I know advises: "Smart bettors follow the rule: Always bet on the champion because he's picked his opponent; he's wiser in the ring. It's a big-money setup to remain champion; he isn't going to pick the tougher man right off. Betting rules for the gambler in fairly honest bouts are: Don't back a man who has had nearly 50 fights getting there. Don't put your money on a bleeder; the crowd and the ring official have a way of stopping such a fight. Don't back flatfooted fighters. Contests are often won by a pair of legs, not fists. A fighter who has rested too long between bouts is a good man to bet against. Remember, a fighter slows up with age, as do his reflexes. PLAYING CARDS

Manufacturing cards used for pleasure or for gambling is a large industry. The U.S. Playing Card Company of Cincinnati is a giant, run by Andrew Luther Jr., and it is not just king card maker of the United States. The company is the world's largest manufacturer of playing cards and has developed a world market, particularly in the Far East. The plant supplies cards to four out of every five American housholds and distributes to more than a hundred nations. Far East sales now rival those of Las Vegas in volume

While business abroad prospers, growth on the home front moves on. "Frankly, if our best client quit us tomorrow, we could survive very easily," said Luther. The company has a work force of 1,000 employees and 25 presses. One press produces 20,000 decks an hour, 24 hurs a day. Plastic-coated cards are on the market, but most gamblers do not use them.

Luther insists that the base of the business is the rummy and the family that can't afford to go out. "It's still the cheapest form of entertainment going. Most businesses fall off when the economy suffers. Ours gets better."

Brazilian Leader Set

BRASILIA. Brazil (AP) - Brazil's ruling party, the National Renovating Alliance (ARENA), nominated Gen. Joao Baptista de Figueiredo as its presidential candidate late Saturday, virtually ensuring his election by Congress next Oct. 15.

De Figueiredo. 60, and his running mate. Aureliano Chaves; 49, a civilian, received 775 of the 802 votes at the party's convention Saturday night. The remai ing ballots were blank.

De Figueiredo had been handpicked by Brazil's president, Gen. Ernesto Geisel, and ran unopposed.

The new president selected by the ARENA-controlled Brazilian Congress will take office March 15, 1979, for a sixyear term. De Figueiredo, a four-star general and head of Brazil's intelligence service, would be the country's fifth military president since a 1964 coup ousted

President Joso Goulart. The 13 political parties once active in Brazil were dissolved by decree in 1965. ARENA and the opposition Movimento Democratico Brasileiro were later approved as the only two legal parties. A pro-Soviet Brazilian Communist Party, while banned, remains active.

The legal opposition has not yet picked a candidate, and some members are suggesting that the party not select one as a protest of restrictions in the Brazilian political system.
