

Tax Cut, Budget Facing Tests

Inflation Reduction Study Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's tax cut and anti-inflation plans face a test of strength in the Senate this week as lawmakers begin writing a federal budget for fiscal 1979.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., filed an amendment that would slash from $498.9 billion to $475 billion the spending target set by the Senate Budget Committee.

None of this week's votes on spending targets for fiscal 1979 will be binding; they will only register the sentiment of the Senate on the key issues.

While the Senate concentrates on the budget, the House will consider a code of ethics for the legislative, judicial and executive branches of government, including income disclosure requirements.

A central question on the legislation is whether a proposed rule that would limit House members' outside earned income to $8,625 a year should be killed before it goes into effect.

Members of the House and Senate get salaries of $57,500 a year. Those in leadership posts, such as House and Senate majority and minority leaders, receive slightly higher compensation.

The committee is facing several options as it works on the tax plan proposed by Carter, which would cut individual and business taxes in order to sustain this year's economic growth but take away some deductions in the name of simplification and equity.

The committee has to decide whether that figure is about right, whether it is so high that it risks more inflation, and whether it would be wiser to use some of the money to roll back Social Security tax increases scheduled to take effect next January.

The Senate, in debating the 1979 budget, is facing the same issues on taxes.

The Senate Budget Committee has recommended that Carter's tax cut be delayed three months past the administration's target date of Oct. 1.

ALLERGIES: Your Personal Poisons

World Is Dangerous Place For Allergy Sufferers

By JOHN BARBOUR

IN HER variety of poses, Mother Nature endows people with brains, agility, strength, keen eyesight, acute hearing, all the physical blessings that enhance life.

But for what may be as many as one in six Americans, she has tucked in one little flaw. She has made sensitive to one or another of the thousands of innocent substances on earth.

In short, she has endowed them with one or more very personal poisons. They suffer from allergies.

First In A Series

Their personal poisons are called allergens, and they may be as common as house dust, as subtle as pollen, as cuddly as a cat, as tasty as a tomato.

Further, these personal poisons are not in themselves poisonous. But nature has given some unlucky people a kind of super-sensitivity to otherwise innocent agents.

She has created a dangerous world for allergic people out of the very things that make the world comfortable for others. And quirky as it may be, it is a world of torture and misery. It leaves some of its victims with periodic or constant battles with an unseen enemy that leaves them itching, sneezing, coughing, wheezing. For a few it may mean limited vitality, limited scope, perhaps even a shortened life.

Not everyone who is allergic knows it. For some, contact with their personal poison is so rare that they pass off the symptoms as a transient bout of sneezing, or a passing case of diarrhea. "Something I ate," the victim might say.

Some people break out in hives after too much sun. Some get sick to their stomach after eating a sandwich, and blame the meat when the culprit might be the bread. Some awaken sneezing and coughing after a night on a soft down pillow. Some make it a practice never to visit friends who have dogs or cats, some wonder why they are sneezing after a new carpet has been laid in the office. For many, however, the torture of allergy is so severe or so constant that they seek medical aid. It may be only then that the personal poison is uncovered.

It is easy to test for allergy. The doctor simply scratches the skin and applies a small amount of the potential allergen, whether it be house dust or chocolate. If an itch or a welt or a lump develops, the test is positive.

The difficulty lies in the wide range of things you might be sensitive to. Generally the doctor can narrow the suspects down by investigating when and how you had

Firearms Rule Changes Opposed

By PAT TEAGUE

AT LEAST Two Lubbock men have joined thousands of other letter writers nationally to urge the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms (BATF) to reject six proposed rule changes dealing with firearms.

The BATF, an arm of the United States Treasury Department, announced in the Federal Register March 21 its plans to open a 60-day "comment" period on the proposed changes. The period will conclude May 22.

Two Lubbockites, Kenneth G. Paynter of 2108 65th St. and Joe B. Trammel of 3304 49th St., have seized that opportunity to register their complaints about the half-dozen, proposed rule changes.

If implemented, the BATF changes would include the following: (1) That each firearm manufactured or imported into the United States be stamped with a "unique," 14-digit, serial number.

(2) That each federally licensed firearms agent (dealer, manufacturer, retailer, etc.) file a report, within 24 hours of discovery, of any theft, loss or recovery of a firearm.

(3) That each licensed manufacturer submit a quarterly report on the number of firearms manufactured.

(4) That each licensed manufacturer, importer or dealer must submit a quarterly disposition report. Such a report, according to Charles Nixon, Congressional liaison officer for the BATF, would tell the BATF that dealer X bought 1,500 shotguns during the quarter, sold 800 of them, sent 50 to the factory for repair and had 650 on hand, for example.

(5) The fifth proposal, the BATF says, is designed to streamline the existing procedure used to show that possessors of novelty firearms (machine guns, sawed-off shotguns, explosive devices, etc.) have paid a mandatory $200 transfer tax. A new form, ATF form 6, would allow exhibitors, for example, to ship their firearms across state lines with a minimum of paperwork and interference from local authorities.

(6) A sixth proposal, Nixon says, would close an existing loophole that has caused the ATF trouble in the past. Servicemen have been allowed to bring back two sporting rifles from overseas, but some of them actually have possessed handguns instead of the sporting guns they declared. Later, Nixon says, should such weapons be stolen or lost the owners are reluctant to report them missing since they possessed them illegally. Should the stolen or lost weapon be used in a crime later, BATF has no way of tracing the weapon, Nixon says.

Nixon says the BATF possesses the statutory right to make the proposed changes without Congress' consent, and he cites Title 18, section 926, of the United States Code.

The code reads: "The Secretary (of the Treasury) may prescribe such rules and regulations as he deems reasonably necessary to carry out the provision of this chapter (on firearms)." The code notes that "The Secretary shall give reasonable public notice, and afford to interested parties opportunity for hearing, prior to prescribing such rules and regulations."

Following the conclusion of the "comment" period May 22, Nixon says the BATF will spend 60 additional days or "as long as it takes" to study the comments and proposals. Thereafter, the agency would reserve another 180-day period in which to notify all those affected by whatever proposals are accepted.

Paynter, vice president of a local mortgage concern, recently wrote Rep. George Mahon and Sen. John Tower to voice his disapproval for the proposals.

"On May 22nd, the BATF, under Mr. Carter's direction will begin collecting all information regarding ALL (his emphasis) registered firearms, with the expressed intent of confiscation of said firearms. The ninth rule for communist revolution, as you are aware, calls for registration and confiscation of all firearms. I URGE (his emphasis) both of you honor-

Two Sundown Youths Killed In Head-On

By IRA PERRY

TWO Sundown High School seniors only a few weeks from graduation died and a third man was critically injured Sunday in a head-on collision on Texas 114 west of Lubbock.

Department of Public Safety troopers identified the dead students as Randall Michael Brady, son of Mr. and Mrs. Murrell Brady, and Richard Keith Dyke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Dyke. Both were 18.

The third man, 20-year-old Jimmy Dean McJimsey of Levelland, remained in critical condition late Sunday in Methodist Hospital with head and internal injuries suffered in the 2:40 a.m. mishap.

Authorities said the two Sundown students were traveling east on Texas 114, while the automobile in which McJimsey rode was headed west when the collision occurred.

Dyke and Brady were pronounced dead by Justice of the Peace Charles E. Smith at the scene of the accident five miles west of Lubbock.

The collision was the second head-on incident in which South Plains residents were injured or killed in less than 24 hours.

About 3:55 p.m. Saturday, 15-year-old

Gayla Vaughn was critically injured in a three-car mishap near Odessa on U.S. 385. Miss Vaughn was traveling with the Estacado High School girls' track team when the collision occurred.

She remained in critical condition late Sunday in Odessa's Medical Center Hospital.

Double services for Dyke and Brady will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the Sundown High School gymnasium, with the Rev. Syl Moore, pastor of the Fairview Baptist Church officiating.

Services will be under direction of George Price Funeral Directors of Levelland.

Burial will follow for Brady in the Sundown Cemetery, while graveside services for Dyke will be conducted Wednesday in Mount Pleasant.

A native of Oakdale, La., Brady moved to Sundown from Hobbs, N.M., with his family in 1974. He was active in student activities and was a member of the Sundown Roughnecks football team.

Survivors include his parents; two brothers, Archie of Copperas Cove and Quinten of Sundown; and two sisters, Miss Wanda Brady of Sundown and Irma Burnezky of Levelland.

Palbearers will be Ricky Waygood, John McBride, Donnie Lutrick, Keith Funderburk, Ray Garcia, Mike Funderburk, Wally Rodriguez and David Perez. Born in Killeen, Dyke moved to Sundown with his family, in 1969, from Pep. He was a member of the football, basketball and track squads of Sundown High School.

Survivors include his parents; a brother, Kenneth of Sundown; and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Noel Moore of Calipatria, Calif., and Annie Bell Dyke of Mount Pleasant.

Palbearers will be Tommy Nugent, Noe Rodriguez, Bobby Hedges, Ross D.Y. Junior Perez, Steven Smith, Robert Smith and Jerry McKee.

Rape Conviction Brings Flogging

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (UPI) — Four men convicted of raping a 14-year-old girl were publicly flogged in a soccer stadium Sunday before more than 100,000 persons, including many who perched in trees.

The prisoners had been sentenced to a year in prison at hard labor and 12 lashes each for the crime in Faisalabad.

The crowd carried banners with slogans such as "Long Live Islamic Revolution" and "Long Live Gen. Mohammad Zia Ul Haq."

Two prisoners fainted during the flogging — one after seven lashes and another after eight. They were removed from the flogging pad following the attending physician's examination.

The crowd that packed the stadium was estimated at 100,000, the capacity of the arena, with many others climbing trees to get a good view.

Radio-TV Performer Bernie Howell Dies

LONGTIME Lubbock radio and television personality Bernie Walter Howell died of natural causes.

Howell had hosted the noon-time community affairs program on KMCC for the past five years during which more than 600 Lubbock and South Plains residents had been featured on the program last year alone.

He had also co-hosted the monthly Chamber of Commerce breakfasts since 1968.

After graduating from high school in Vernon in 1933 and attending the University of Oklahoma and Texas Tech University, he began working with KFYO radio in Lubbock.

In the 1940s, Howell accepted a job with Amarillo radio station KGNC to do an organ and musical variety program. He returned to Lubbock in the 1950s for a job with KCBD-TV where he performed daily on both radio and television programs until 1969.

Organ Show Shifted

Howell moved his afternoon organ performance to KMCC in 1969, and, until five years ago, had been heard on KSEL radio with Bill McAlister on "The TTO Show."

He was a native of Vernon and a member of the Central Baptist Church.

Survivors include a son, Jan Richard Howell of Roswell, N.M.; his mother, Mrs. W.B. Howell of Athens; two brothers, John of Maudin, Mo., and Robert of Rexdale, Ontario, Canada; and two grandchildren.

Agreement Reached In Airline Dispute

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Workers and management Sunday reached a temporary agreement that will permit the resumption of El Al passenger flights within 48 hours, spokesmen for both sides said.

The agreement came after 20 days of strikes and a lockout that snarled the plans of tens of thousands of travelers during the busy Passover season and forced them to fly to and from Israel on other airlines.

"You can't say it has everything we wanted but it's certainly a compromise that will enable us to go back to work," said Mordechai Hod, general manager of El Al and a former commander of the air force.

El Al flights were grounded when workers staged union meetings after previous contracts expired.

Management said it intended to restructure its complex framework of labor relations from the ground up.

But the latest agreement calls for the previous contracts with eight separate unions to remain in effect until an overall settlement can be reached covering all of El Al's 5,000 workers.

Wyoming Gets Bewildering Forecast

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (UPI) — Wyoming weather watchers knew something was wrong with Sunday's forecast from the National Weather Service: hot and dusty, temperatures in the 130s, and sandstorms whipped by winds of more than 100 mph.

Even for Wyoming, where springtime weather can fluctuate hourly between balmy, sunny conditions and snowstorms accompanied by fierce winds, the forecast from government meteorologists appeared slightly off the mark.

Reading further in the forecast, it was revealed that the conditions described were for Saudi Arabia, not for this high, arid state of mountains and rolling plains.

"This forecast could be used most any day of the year" in Saudi Arabia, wrote a forecaster in the weather service's Cheyenne office. "The weather there is so predictable that it must rank among the most boring anywhere."

"Just ask anyone in Wyoming and they will tell you that the weather is not boring," the forecaster continued. "In fact, some will tell you that they listen for the forecast and then plan for the opposite."

"Sometimes we wonder if a dart board wouldn't be just as effective at our office as all the computer products we receive. Sometimes it seems impossible to forecast Wyoming weather."

The Wyoming forecast, by the way, called for a warming trend and scattered showers.

Area Weather To Continue Fair, Warm

More fair and warm weather appears in store for the Lubbock area today, with forecasters calling for a high reading in the low 80s. Tonight's low should fall only to the mid 50s.

Today's expected summer weather, a repeat performance of Sunday afternoon, should be triggered by a high pressure system that has settled over the Panhandle. That system helped push the mercury in Lubbock to 80 degrees on Sunday after an early morning low of 46.

Ahead of the high pressure trough, however, a weak cold front moved into south central Texas Sunday afternoon, and sparked thunderstorms in that region.

In addition to the thunderstorms, the National Weather Service at Austin reported a possible tornado sited on radar in the Austin area about 5:20 p.m. Sunday. By 6 p.m. Sunday, however, the funnel cloud had moved out of the region without causing any damage.

Across the rest of the state Sunday, weather was mild, with high readings ranging from 68 degrees at Dalhart to 99 degrees at Laredo and Junction.

Across the nation, a band of showers stretched from the Mississippi Gulf Coast into Pennsylvania on Sunday, and some scattered showers also occurred in the upper Ohio Valley, southern Great Lakes region and across Minnesota into the Dakotas.

Some snow was mixed with rain in the northern parts of Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Widely scattered snow and rain fell over the Montana Rockies, while fog and drizzle was reported over most of Indiana and parts of Kentucky, Ohio and along the shores of Lake Michigan.

Skies were mostly sunny over New England and New York state.

Temperatures were mostly in the 40s for the northern plains and the western Great Lakes. Readings were beginning to creep into the 80s across Florida.

Leaders Discuss World Affairs

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — The rich and the powerful emerged Sunday from a secluded three-day meeting in which they pondered the state of the Western world, concentrating on national economies and the Soviet military buildup.

At a news conference here after the Bilderberg Meeting in nearby Lawrence Township, former British prime minister Lord Home said the conferees had concluded that recognition of the Soviet buildup improved the prospects for world peace.

He said the conference was dominated by discussions of Soviet conventional weapons and the need to get Western economies moving again.

The meeting attracted 104 North American and European leaders, including Zbigniew Brzezinski, President Carter's national security advisor; Swedish Prime Minister Thorbjorn Falldin; Chase Manhattan Bank Chairman David Rockefeller; former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger; West German Parliamentary Secretary of State Andreas von Bulow; and NATO Commander Alexander M. Haig.

They met, ate and slept in secrecy in a cluster of shingled buildings in what was once a farmer's field and is now the Henry Chauncey Conference Center on the grounds of the Educational Testing Service.

Home, the chairman, gave few specifics of what had been said.

"I don't think you'll get much consensus at the Bilderberg," he said. "It doesn't aim at that. We're just here to hear the people who know what they're talking about."

He said participants heard an analysis by Brzezinski of world affairs, and added it was "very useful for the Europeans to hear the American point of view."

First held in 1954 at Bilderberg, the Netherlands, the conference has been held each year since in many locations around the world.

The idea of the meetings was conceived by Prince Bernard, husband of Queen Juliana of Holland, as a way for leading figures to discuss in private and with total frankness issues affecting the Western alliance. Bernard did not attend last year's session at the Hague because of charges of misconduct in the Lockheed affair.

Subjects of this year's wide-ranging conference included "Western defense with its political implications" and "the changing structure of production and trade — consequences for the Western industrialized countries."

Except for an occasional limousine outside, there was little evidence of what was going on inside the Chauncey Center.

But if anyone strayed too near the cen-

Group Eyes Loan Overcharges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans are being overcharged hundreds of millions of dollars when they take out loans but are losing the chance to get it back because records are being destroyed, Consumers Union said Sunday.

The group, which publishes Consumer Reports magazine, said it would file a petition with the Federal Reserve Board Monday asking the Fed to force banks, savings and loans and other lending institutions to keep records longer than the present two-year requirement.

"As it now stands, the group said, two-year-old records are being destroyed on a daily basis, before the government agencies that enforce the Truth in Lending Act can force offending institutions to make restitution.

"These agencies have been considering restitution guidelines since last year.

Ellen Broadman, a lawyer in CU's Washington office, said most of the violations involve such things as misrepresentation of the amount of interest on a loan — telling the consumer the annual percentage rate is 8 1/2 percent, for instance, when in reality it is 9 percent.

She said the comptroller of the currency has estimated that loan overcharges to the customers of national banks alone may run $100 million, "and some people think it's as high as $300 million."

No firm figures are available for other lending institutions, she said, but the amount is believed to be considerable.

If moves are made to force the banks to pay back the overcharges, the comptroller of the currency would be responsible for enforcing the restitution among national banks, while a variety of other agencies would have the same responsibility for policing other types of lending institutions.

CU is currently suing the currency comptroller in an attempt to force public disclosure of bank audits. Such disclosure, it argues, would provide more exact information on the extent of the overcharge problem.

The petition will be filed with the Federal Reserve. CU said, because that agency is responsible under the law for issuing regulations enforcing the Truth in Lending Act. It also has the power to issue rules without the usual public comment waiting period.

"We believe an emergency rule is justified because each day increases the number of transactions, and therefore records of violations, that will be destroyed," said Mark Silbergeld, head of CU's Washington office.

Second Boy's Body Pulled From River

FINDLAY, Ohio (UPI) — Rescue units Sunday recovered the body of the second of two boys who drowned in a canoe accident a day earlier on the Blanchard River. Two firefighters also drowned while trying to save the boys.

Police said the body of Mike Armstrong, 14, was recovered 75 feet downstream from the dam near Riverside Park where the four drowned Saturday afternoon. The body of Troy Best, 15, was recovered Saturday night.

The boys, both from Findlay, were paddling their canoe when they went over a dam near Riverside Park, causing the canoe to founder. The swift current of the rain-swollen river carried the boys down to the bottom of the 18-foot trough formed by the cascading water.

When three firefighters tried to rescue the boys in a rowboat, it also was swept out of control by the current. Jim Walend was rescued while the other two, Rusty Smith and Bill VanAtta, drowned.

Rescue units of the Findlay police and fire departments and units from surrounding communities continued to drag the river Sunday, using nets and grappling hooks, to try to find the firefighters' bodies.

British Fashions Feared 'Kidnapped' In New York

NEW YORK (UPI) — To British fashion show coordinator Eric Hall, crime is a way of life in New York. So with hundreds of top-line original designs "kidnapped" upon arrival from London, he's ready to pay a ransom.

Hall, who arranged for Monday's fashion show at the New York Hilton by the British Fashion Designing Group, said the exclusive designs were stolen when the group arrived at the hotel Saturday afternoon.

Carried off in two wheeled cases were the work of the top 15 British designers, including the complete collection of David Sassoon and Bellville Sassoon. The one-of-a-kind items cost a minimum of a few hundred dollars apiece.

But Hall is not yet ready to pack in the show. He's ready to deal.

"Crime is a business in New York," he said Sunday. "I'm prepared to pay that guy (the clothes thief) more than he can get on the open market."

"It's like paying ransom for the kidnapping of a person. I pay the ransom. I get the clothes. It's a way of doing business. When in Rome, deal like Romans. You can't trust anyone."

The theft wasn't Hall's first bad experience in New York. On his last trip he lost his passport, some jewelry and more than $3,000 in cash.

"This is a jungle of wolves waiting for the lambs to come in," Hall said. "Every time I come here I prepare myself for the worst but it seems to get even worse."

Pollster Eyes 1980 Presidential Elections

By LOUIS HARRIS

In the first Harris survey pairing for the 1980 presidential election, President Carter leads former President Gerald Ford by a 50-42 percent margin. This is better than the slim 2 percentage-point victory Mr. Carter won in 1976.

It is not hard to find the key groups from which the President draws his early lead:

—Blacks say they would vote for Mr. Carter, by an 81-10 percent margin. In sharp contrast there is a 46-46 percent standoff among whites. Thus, as in 1976, the entire Carter lead comes from the black vote. What must be pointed out, however, is that President Carter's job rating by the black community is only 52-44 percent positive today, far too close for comfort.

—By region, the President holds a substantial 52-38 percent lead in the East, and an even more sizable 54-38 percent edge in the South. As in 1976, these two regions are pivotal to Mr. Carter's chances for re-election. In the East, in particular, his job rating has turned very negative.

In the Midwest, former President Ford leads by 47-43 percent, holding much the same narrow advantage he had in 1976. But in the West, which was won by Ford, Mr. Carter now holds a slim 48-45 percent lead.

—Jimmy Carter carries the vote of those who make under $10,000 a year by 56-37 percent, and of those with a high school education by 51-38 percent. He wins the union vote by 53-35 percent, the big city vote by 53-37 percent, and the Catholic vote by 51-40 percent. Together with the black vote, these segments of the electorate represent the old New Deal gut vote. The Jewish vote still goes to President Carter, but only by 44-35 percent.

During his first 15 months in office, Mr. Carter has clearly suffered an erosion in support from traditional Democratic groups. It has not been drastic enough, however, to put him behind in the current pairing.

But the President faces another problem with Democratic voters. He must arouse enough enthusiasm among them to make them turn out on Election Day.

As in 1976, President Carter's vote tends to lag among the more affluent and independent sectors of the electorate. In this most recent Harris Survey of 1,005 adults nationwide who voted in the 1976 election, he runs behind Gerald Ford among the college-educated, professionals, people with incomes of $15,000 and higher, business executives and white collar people. Among independents, whose vote he lost in 1976, he still runs behind by a 50-41 percent margin. All of these groups tend to go to the polls in greater numbers than the normal Democratic voter.

These better-educated, more affluent and more independent voting segments must go Republican in any national election for the GOP nominee to have a chance of winning. While they still favor Gerald Ford, his margin among them is less today than it was two years ago when he ran for the presidency.

In fact, one of the significant implications of this first Harris Survey on the 1980 presidential election is that the Republicans, or at least Mr. Ford, have not really capitalized on the public's disappointment with Mr. Carter. This suggests that speculation about Jimmy Carter being a one-term president is premature. Until public disenchantment puts President Carter behind in the opinion polls, he must be labeled as the early favorite to win re-election.

French Presence Eases Atmosphere In Lebanon

TYRE, Lebanon (AP) — Before Israel invaded southern Lebanon last month, this port city had come to be known as "The People's Republic of Tyre" because of the many Marxist Palestinian guerrillas who used it as a base. Today, some call it the "Sixth Republic of France."

The most visible troops here now wear the light blue helmets of the United Nations Interim Force in Lebanon and the tricolor emblem of France.

The French, who ruled Lebanon by mandate from 1920 to 1942, were the only big power to contribute soldiers to UNIFIL. French paratroopers are stationed in Tyre, and many Lebanese are openly pleased — among them local wine merchants who report a landslide business.

Troops began moving in March 23, and "La Presence" has since grown into the largest and best-equipped of the five national units in UNIFIL. The others are from Sweden, Norway, Iran and Nepal.

The peacekeepers' main job is to separate guerrillas and Israeli forces and help the Beirut government restore its control over the south. The French also are working to return this ravaged region to normalcy.

French divers have cleared the harbor of mines, planted before and during the March 16 invasion. Sappers have disarmed and exploded hundreds of landmines planted by retreating guerrillas and delayed-action, U.S.-made "cluster" bombs dropped by Israeli planes into fields, beaches and refugee camps.

"We think it's very important to make life more normal for these people," Capt. Jean Menegaux told a visitor.

The men, members of the Third Paratroop Battalion from Carcassonne, France, appear to be making life more normal for themselves, too, given the limitations of a tense and dangerous mission.

When the paratroopers come back from patrol or checkpoint duty, they can read slightly outdated newspapers from home, see a French film that changes every two days and wash down a homestyle meal with Lebanese wine.

"Our only rule is that they don't get drunk," Menegaux said.

A recent barracks bash prompted the French commander to ban hard whiskey from the garrison.

The troops are led by Col. Jean Salvan, 46, a battle-hardened veteran who lost his right eye in the French-Algerian war.

"When the one with the glass eye talks with them (the guerrillas), they understand he means business," a Lebanese policeman said.

Tyre was the only area south of the Litani River left in Palestinian hands after Israel invaded in a bid to sweep out the guerrillas.

Confrontations with guerrillas angered by the French takeover were frequent when the U.N. troops first arrived. But incidents have diminished and the city seems far more relaxed.

"We were tested in the beginning, but I think we've earned their respect now," Menegaux said.

A Lebanese government official here agreed. "We are frankly surprised how well UNIFIL and the Palestinians are getting along. It seems to be a confidence in the French as a neutral force and respect for French power."

The men follow a policy that is direct and apparently convincing. They will not shoot unless fired upon. Then they shoot to kill.

"We don't believe in firing in the air as a warning. That seems to have been the problem with some other U.N. units who did not convince the gunmen they were serious," Menegaux said.

The Frenchmen, who patrol a 20-mile-long buffer zone between the Israelis and the Palestinians, say they have had only two shootouts with the guerrillas and none with the Israelis. But UNIFIL sources say there are "almost daily" encounters with guerrillas trying to sneak back into the area still held by Israel. In most cases, the troops catch the insurgents and send them back, the sources said.

Off-duty troops are allowed to roam the city during the day, but they have to stay in groups of three and they must be armed. Tyre is off-limits at night because electricity has not yet been restored. "It's just too dangerous," Menegaux said.

Despite numerous close calls, the French have reported only one casualty, a soldier slightly hurt by shrapnel.

Probably the biggest social hardship for the 700 men from the nation of love is a ban on socializing with women.

"I'm afraid so," shrugged Menegaux. "First of all, we are too busy, but also there are no women."

Library, Julliard Receive $450,000

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Public Library and the Julliard School of Music recently received gifts totaling $450,000 from the Bruno Walter Memorial Foundation.

The Library, which received $200,000, will use the gift to improve and maintain the auditorium of its Library and Museum of the Performing Arts at Lincoln Center, which officially became the Bruno Walter Auditorium, in honor of the conductor, it was announced.

Atomic Power Industry Marks Top Year

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The atomic power industry, beset by controversy and public opposition, says it has never turned in a better or safer performance than it did in 1977.

A report from the Atomic Industrial Forum, the industry trade association, said nuclear power plants boosted their output 31 percent over the 1976 level and provided 12 percent of all U.S. electricity in 1977 — the energy equivalent of 425 million barrels of oil.

"Nuclear energy scored solidly in power plant performance in 1977," said Carl Walske, the president of AIF, boasting that atomic power also gave the nation its least expensive form of electricity.

"What's significant, beyond these statistics showing excellent nuclear performance, are two things," Walske said.

"One is that the enviable public safety record of nuclear energy continues intact, even though more plants are coming into operation and production is soaring.

"The other is that nuclear power is well on its way to becoming, second only to coal, the leading source of electricity in this country in the early 1980s."

Walske's optimistic report comes at a time when nuclear power is embroiled in controversy, particularly over the health hazards posed by atomic waste storage, and by licensing and financial difficulties.

Harris polls show increasing public resistance to nuclear power plants.

The Heritage Foundation, a conservative research organization that favors nuclear power, issued a report last Thursday warning that the most likely course under present conditions may include a nationwide ban on atomic power plants in the near future.

It noted that California in effect already has enacted such a ban.

The AIF report on 1977 performance said: —Atomic plants boosted their electrical output 31 percent over 1976 to nearly 250 billion kilowatt-hours, a larger increase than any other power source. Coal-fired and gas-fired plants increased their power by 4 percent, oil-fired plants went up 12 percent, and hydroelectric production dropped 22 percent.

—Nuclear power supplied the energy equivalent of 120 million tons of bituminous coal, 2.6 trillion cubic feet of natural gas or 425 million barrels of oil that would have cost $5.9 billion if imported.

—Electricity from atomic plants was "demonstrably cheaper" than that from other sources. A nuclear-produced kilowatt cost an average 1.5 cents, the same as in 1976. A coal-produced kilowatt was 2 cents, up from 1.8 cents in 1976. An oil-produced kilowatt was 3.9 cents, up from 3.5 cents in 1976.

—Nuclear power's economic advantage represented a 1977 cost saving of $2.5 billion when compared to the average of oil and coal combined, with much of the saving passed along to consumers.

The study said figures provided by the Arkansas Power and Light Co. show it would have cost a homeowner an extra $10 a month for electricity from fossil fuels instead of from atomic power.

Figures from the Green Mountain Tower Corp. of Vermont, it said, show a $9 saving using nuclear power, and Baltimore Gas and Electric figures show an $8 saving.

Nuclear Missile Plan Under Consideration

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States could have an arsenal of up to 11,000 new land, sea and air-launched nuclear-armed cruise missiles if President Carter approves all four options now under study at the Pentagon, Armed Forces Journal said Sunday.

The missiles alone in a fully approved program would cost up to $20 billion with an equal amount required for air carriers and ground-launching systems, the unofficial monthly magazine said in its May edition.

"Any such deployment would amount to the largest single procurement of any weapon in modern history," Armed Forces Journal said.

The cruise missile is a key issue in the stalled Strategic Arms Limitation Talks with the Soviets.

No decision has been announced yet on which delivery system will be produced or the volume involved. Armed Forces Journal said the top number of missiles if all options are exercised would be close to 11,000.

This would include more than 3,000 sub-sonic, low-flying versions to be carried on B-52 bombers; 6,000 for strategic retaliatory forces to be deployed on about 100 modified commercial or military transports; 1,082 ground-launched missiles for theater nuclear forces; and roughly 650 seabased missiles for possible antiship use to be carried on submarines and surface-combat ships.

"The numbers involved are not just 'blue sky' paper studies," it said, adding that if a go-ahead is given, cruise missiles could enter the deployment stage as early as 1981.

"Those 11,000 cruise missiles are close to the total number of strategic and tactical theater nuclear warheads now deployed with U.S. forces, roughly 13,000 in all," the monthly said.

"That comparison may help explain why Soviet negotiations in the current round of Strategic Arms Limitation Talks have been so insistent that cruise missiles will be included in any SALT II ceilings, or that their range be limited to tactical use," it said.

Armed Forces Journal said six planes are being considered as cruise missile carriers:

—The Boeing 747 and its YC14 advanced, medium, short takeoff and landing plane.

—The McDonnell-Douglas DC10 and its YC-15 advanced, medium, short takeoff and landing craft.

—The Lockheed L-1011 widebodied commercial transport.

—The U.S. Air Force's C-5A military transport, the world's largest plane.

Boeing and General Dynamics Corp. are competing to build the missile itself. The magazine said Defense Secretary Harold Brown's "consolidated guidance" to the armed forces "provides enough latitude for all four (options) to be funded through fiscal year 1984."

It quoted National Security Council staffers and Pentagon officials as saying that full deployment is "within the realm of consideration."

Another Chink In Defense

IT COMES AS no surprise to those who have watched developments that there are growing fears that the concept of an all-volunteer armed services in the U.S. may not be all the nation needs.

This is especially so as the international situation gradually takes on a darker tint and Soviet and Cuban forces continue their piecemeal conquest of Africa.

The most recent spotlight on the possible shortcomings of the volunteer army has been focused as a result of a five-month study of the idea.

TAKING NOTE of the study, Rep. Robin Beard, R-Tenn., told newsmen the survey shows the concept is not working.

"We need to acknowledge there is a serious problem, and I don't think the leadership of the Defense Department or the military has done this because of a can-do mentality," he said.

The congressman, a member of the Armed Services Committee, said although when set up in 1972, the all-volunteer force was based on the idea of a smaller active force backed by larger reserve forces, the actual trend has been just the reverse.

RESULTS OF THE study show that active duty forces are 80,000 short of "wartime" strength.

Reserve and National Guard forces are down 180,000 and the ready reserve pool of replacements is even further depleted.

Good Ol' Golden Rule Days

WHEREVER THE fault lies, it's time for serious attention to the problem of declining educational performance in our public schools. Mounting evidence that students are learning less and less as their parents and other taxpayers pay more and more never ceases to appall.

The National Assessment of Educational Progress, a federally funded survey which for nearly a decade has measured student performance in a wide range of subjects, reports that during the 1970s our youngsters have lost ground in their knowledge and understanding of the basics of citizenship.

A PANEL of educators who revised the National Assessment survey offered a series of possible explanations for the slumping student performance—uninspiring civics textbooks, declining funding of social studies and poor teacher training, to name a few.

Rather than shrug its shoulders and nod its head in sad agreement with this sorry state of affairs, a Dallas school-within-a-school has decided to try a new approach: the old approach.

The David W. Carter Fundamental High School promises to "provide a quality education for every student in a safe and secure environment, respect the rights and respon-

HENRY J. TAYLOR:

Defectors Usually Are Lonely, Peculiar Folks

THE DEFECTION to the United States of United Nations top-ranking Russian official Arkady N. Shevchenko, 47, aide to Secretary General Kurt Waldheim, is an old story to me.

When I served for four years as the American ambassador to Switzerland we had more defectors in Geneva than in any other country in the world.

Shevchenko was Under Secretary General for the Department of Political and Security Council Affairs—an $87,000-a-year post—when his lawyer announced his defection.

He had been on his UN post five years, and knew our country like he knew the back of his hand. But my experience is that, usually, defectors are peculiar people.

UNDOUBTEDLY Shevchenko considered the new freedom precious. He acquired it by giving up most things men consider worthwhile. Loneliness falls over him like a dusty curtain.

His defection meant giving up his wife Leninga, his 25-year-old son Gennady, who works in the Soviet Foreign Ministry, and his 18-year-old daughter Anna, all in Moscow.

Shevchenko gave up his native land and native tongue, his friends in Russia, his work and his possessions to be in what you might call a no-man's land.

Those Shevchenko left behind probably consider him a traitor—and so do those to whom he has come.

A knowledgeable defector like Shevchenko is useful to the United States for the information he can supply. Merely to accept Shevchenko is easy. But what if he is a plant on us?

This is an excruciating decision.

THE DECISION CAN require an almost totally intuitive approach—somehow you have to "feel" the truth. For the man making that decision must have that rare logical brain that can be switched suddenly into an intuitive approach.

The report concludes that in event of a war, combined with the standby status of draft machinery, the results would be a shortage of 500,000 soldiers within 60 days after a conventional conflict started.

OF COURSE, no one anticipates a "conventional" or an "unconventional"—or nuclear—conflict.

But, one of the ways one prevents such things is to be so prepared—in numbers of trained personnel—that no enemy will think it worth the risk to start a war of any kind.

Obviously, the Russian and Cuban adventures in Africa not only are testing grounds to see how far America's will can be bent, but to accomplish the longer range goal of implanting International Communism everywhere.

THERE IS NO question but that a resumption of the draft would be unpopular in many ways.

And the chances are we would see many "patriotic" parents and their offspring suddenly finding ways and means of keeping their sons, and possibly daughters, out of the service.

On the other hand, there would be millions who would gladly serve and as has been the history of the nation, give their all if need be.

Regardless of the philosophy involved, the facts are that as Russian might continues to grow and expand, the United States finds itself in an ever-weakening position.

WHEREVER THE fault lies, it's time for serious attention to the problem of declining educational performance in our public schools. Mounting evidence that students are learning less and less as their parents and other taxpayers pay more and more never ceases to appall.

Imagine also, rules restricting suggestive or otherwise improper dress and requirements mandating large amounts of homework. In the fundamental school, "grades are given for achievement, not effort." Now there's an idea.

PARENTS ARE required to confer with teachers and to spend at least two hours each quarter at the school in some kind of volunteer work. Getting the parents involved in their children's lives. Wonder why someone hasn't thought of that one before?

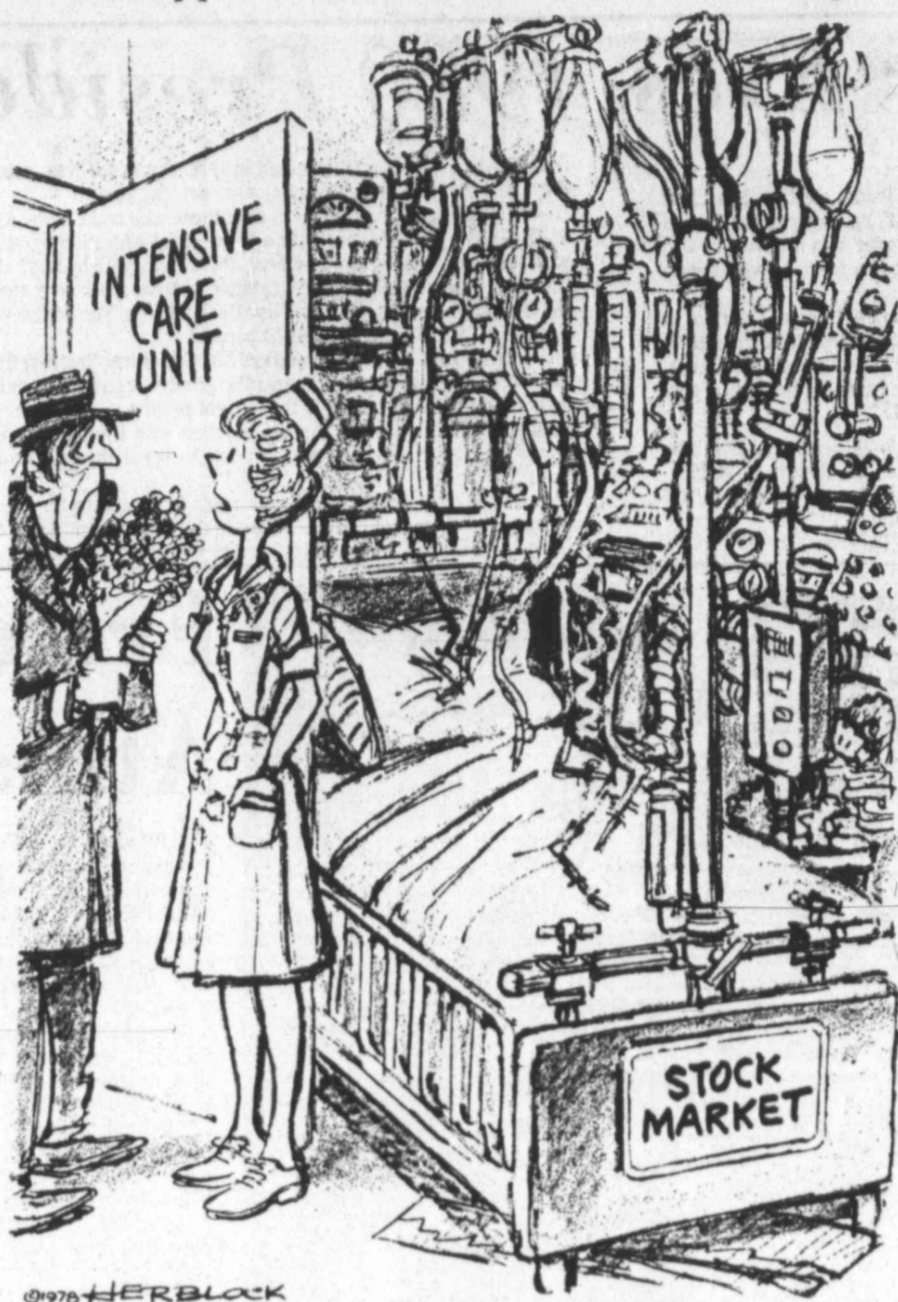

"I thought that putting more work on the kids would make 'em run," said associate principal Leonard Trapp. "But since we began... only one (of 460) has asked to get out."

Children need a rigid, more sequenced approach to education. If they were fully capable of making their own decisions and working at their own pace, they'd be in college not in elementary school.

Carter High has earned today's April bouquet for its attempt to renew stress on the three Rs without sacrificing other subjects. We can ill afford a citizenry ignorant of its heritage or indifferent to its responsibilities.

Writer Offers Reasons For Military Retirement Pay

Editor, Avalanche-Journal: I should like to reply to your editorial on military retirement pay point by point.

(1) You want the cost of living increases ended. How do you expect these men to live? The majority of retirees are enlisted. The retirement pay of a Staff Sergeant with 20 years service is $360 a month. Try buying a house and starting a business on today's market with that. Remember you are 40 years old and finding a job as a nuclear missile specialist is a bit difficult to say the least.

(2) You say American taxpayers ought not to be forced to support this system. Let me tell you, sir, in no uncertain terms, people in the military pay taxes. They pay not only federal taxes they also pay state taxes, even if they are living on federal property. And on top of that they pay state taxes to their home state, not to mention personal property taxes, sales tax, city taxes and any other tax you care to mention. The military are not freeloaders on the American taxpayer. We also are taxpayers.

(3) You seem to feel that 20 years is not a long time to work. In hours on the job, red tape and hardships, 20 years of military service are equal to 40 years of a civilian job. There is no overtime, that means hours, holidays, weekends and vacations are dependent on the needs of the country. There is not enough money in the world to pay for not being home when a baby is born, a child graduates high school or a parent dies.

Finally I would like to point out that today's standing military forces are professionals at what they are doing, they are highly skilled, very dedicated men and women.

The day of the average man leaving his job and family for a few years to win a war and then just disband the military until another war is over can never be brought back. The only way this country can remain strong is to be strong, and this takes motivation. One of the strongest of these is a decent retirement pay for 20 years of putting your life on the line.

What if they gave a war and everyone came, but no one knew what to do, because the professionals had been forced into another line of work?

Denver City Woman Says Palestine Terror Victim

Editor, Avalanche-Journal: In your rebuttal to my letter regarding terrorism in the Middle East, (A-J 4/4/78) you state "Israel is the only nation in the world today which is the target of obliteration by a terrorist group." This may be true at the present moment, but, if successful, it would only be a repeat of what happened to the nation of Palestine inflicted by terrorists.

The British Mandate, under which the so-called Israelis took over Palestine, provided that the rights of existing inhabitants were not to be infringed upon, but now no one who was not born to a Jewish mother may own property in Palestine, not even those whose ancestors had owned property there for generations. Racists? Oh, no, not Israel.

Remember how the roof fell in in Washington when the UN declared Zionism to be racist? Elmer Berger, a Jewish Rabbi, who organized the group known as American Jewish Alternatives to Zionism, explains in a letter to an Arab official just how Zionism is racist.

As for your statement that U.S. petro-dollars poured into Arab coffers which, along with Soviet weapons, find their way into PLO hands: The Arabs were our friends until we armed their enemy to the hilt to enable that enemy to wage two wars of aggression against the Arabs.

It will be recalled that we had agreed to loan (not give) assistance to Egypt to build the Aswan dam but suddenly withdrew the offer and Russia stepped in and aided in the construction of the dam.

Recently, it came to my attention that Canada is going to join Jordan in developing the vast potash deposits in the Dead Sea. Apparently Canada is not governed from Tel Aviv and, incidentally, is not sliding into bankruptcy.

Lubbock Resident Pens A Letter To Uncle Sam

Editor, Avalanche-Journal: Here is an open letter to Uncle Sam...

"Dear Uncle Sam, "Where are you these days? Are you so encumbered in red tape that you can no longer move? Have the infirmities of age taken their toll on your hearing and vision? Is the rumor true that you have taken Communism as your bride? It's important that you keep your estate in fine repair—after all, you remember, I'm one of your heirs."

"Whatever happened to Democracy and the idea that the majority rules? Your forefathers bequeathed you a Constitution that assumes Americans' equality and precious freedom. Over the years many fine young men have sacrificed their lives to protect that Constitution. How could you in your right mind ever allow it to get so muddled up?"

"Funny things are happening out here. We have buses that use fuel shuttling children around because the color of their skin doesn't fit in with the color scheme of their neighborhood schools. We hear proof that previous cities that bused have no tangible results—except that people moved away into fully desegregated areas to escape busing. Yet now whole cities wring their hands and say 'the majority of every race and creed do not want it, but the government orders it so we must make the best of it—we wouldn't want to cause any trouble.' Uncle, that busing costs money. Have you not heard we are in a period of inflation and we also have a fuel shortage?"

"Whatever happened to that 'big stick' you inherited. Can't you shake it enough to wake the American citizens so they will check out the credentials and intentions of the representatives they voted for—and then to keep in touch with them by writing letters? Will you tell the citizens that the apathy of the public is so low that every letter received counts as several thousand votes."

"Can you shake your stick at relatives on the executive, legislative, and judicial side of the family? Will you tell them to quit playing games with big business and lobbyists long enough to go to their hometowns and talk to the people as they pass by the street? Will you supply them with hearing aids so they can hear through the wall of red tape that surrounds them?"

"Dear Uncle, will you please do these things that I ask? Socialism is knocking at your door. Please don't let him in. There are many problems in our world today—please keep our Democracy together so someday I can bequeath it to my children and they to theirs."

"Your loving niece, Liberty."

Former Resident Reads About Self, Town In A-J

Editor, Avalanche-Journal: Few letters come to me penned at 6 a.m., but the Rev. Bob Nicholson, April 2, returned to his home from two previous emergency calls at the hospital, spotted The Sault Ste. Marie, UPI, article in The A-J, took time from already calls beyond the call of duty of a Sunday morning overflowing with Sunday services and responsibilities via the sanctuary, to write a letter my way.

He included your name and address, with the notation that you two are friends. What a wonderful person!

During my teaching years and residence in Lubbock, The A-J was great in giving coverage (to include front-page one Christmas) for the musical reviews and programs presented by my music and business students.

My name remains on the Presbyterian Church inactive list, Nancy Anderson DAR, and South Plains Genealogical Society. Some question my being on any "inactive" list.

Bob sent me seven mimeographed copies of The A-J, April 2, copy. Since my having received them, friends have given me copies that they have received from other states.

Long may the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal continue to be the cultural news medium of the Hub City!

SOMETHING NEW in the way of entertainment was presented at the Civic Center Theater the past weekend, proving once again that sometimes local talent is as good or better than the imported variety.

We refer to the presentation of Finian's Rainbow, which played to good houses in the magnificent showplace two nights running.

What made the event unique in Lubbock entertainment annals is that it indeed was a team effort, a combining of the talents of four major local entities.

Those who wedded their talents for the capitalizing show included the Texas Tech Music Theater, the University Theater, the Lubbock Civic Ballet and Civic Lubbock Inc.

It has hardly been a month since plans for the event were announced. The performers, from the smallest to the tallest, actors, singers, dancers, all gave a topnotch effort.

AS WE UNDERSTAND it, this is just the first in a series of such "joint ventures."

This too is good. For far, far too many years, and especially during the Spring and Summer months, we have heard the old refrain that "there's nothing to do, nowhere to go..."

Well, the hundreds who got a joyous Spring lift from the lulling lyrics, light-hearted and humorous banter and exciting choreography, not to mention a top-drawer stage setting, will testify there indeed is something to do and somewhere to go.

It is not an empty argument that communities, even nations, which have a place for culture in their makeup also have a place for compassion, understanding and the higher callings of mankind. While we often dwell on the "bad things" which sometimes plague our community, we should not forget that there is a brighter side. To all who had a part in "something different," a sweep of the old sombrero, and "the Luck o' the Irish" to all of you!

THE OFFICE Grouch says this summer he's sending his dogs to camp and the kids to obedience school.

ONE OF THE more popular and profitable pastimes is forecasting the future.

The other day, The St. Petersburg Times took a look at what happened to some of 1977's biggies in the Predictions of Things to Come Dept., and found these items:

Gerald Ford becoming a university sports director, a female psychic saving Jimmy Carter's life, Ted and Joan Kennedy rescued at sea, Hawaii hit by a massive tidal wave, hundreds killed "in America's worst train disaster," Jackie O'Neil's marrying, archaeologists finding an ancient space ship in Egypt and the Air Force revealing that it had captured "an alien spacecraft and its humanlike occupants."

None of this came to pass, of course. And in missing the spacecraft as well as the boat, the seers also missed some goodies that did happen.

This is not to put down the Looking Into the Future business, and certainly not ESP and Mental Telepathy. But, it may be just as well the psychics missed. The world might be much duller, or scary, if we did know all ahead of time!

THE RAT race isn't so bad if you are a big cheese.

SOMETIMES IN this crazy world, we get it all together, and then can't figure out what it is!

WITH A Southerner in the White House and an outpouring of commentary about a rising New South, there are occasional reminders that vestiges of the Old South remain.

One such is Confederate Memorial Day, which is still observed as a state holiday in Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi and South Carolina. The observance in Alabama and Mississippi is the fourth Monday in April, today.

In Georgia, it is April 26, South Carolina May 10. And even in neighboring states, no Confederate statue is likely to be without a floral wreath at some appointed time. Sentiment remains strong even if passions of a century ago have passed.

In his classic study, Mind of the South, W. J. Cash reminds us that people everywhere have "eternally sentimentalized the causes of their wars, and particularly the causes that were lost." But, in his unblinking look at his native region, published 37 years ago, he added: "I doubt that the process has ever elsewhere been carried to the length to which it was in the South."

Even the post bellum start of a national Memorial Day adds to the legend. The commander of the Union Army declared May 30, 1868 a day "for the strewing of flowers or otherwise decorating the graves of comrades who died in defense of their country during the late rebellion." When Southern women asked permission to put flowers on Confederate graves at Arlington National Cemetery, they were turned away.

John Hinkel, writing of the event, said: "The Union graves there were heaped high with flowers, but the Confederate graves were left bare and forlorn..."

"That night, there was a blustery wind—and in the morning, the sentries found the Confederate graves buried under flowers blown from the Union graves."

Satellite Photos Go To Work To Help Third World Develop

NEW YORK (AP) — The adventure aspect of space exploration is giving ground to practicality, as scientists turn information gathered in the heavens toward development of the Third World on earth.

Since the first Soviet Sputnik was launched 20 years ago, space technology has moved from the competitive domain of the United States and the Soviet Union toward an international give-and-take system capable of providing even the poorest nations information on resources and natural disaster.

"In the 1970s, we're seeing the practical benefits of space exploration," said Dr. H.G.S. Murthy, who, as director of space applications at the United Nations, works to expand the use of satellite information on earth.

"Man is going to outer space to look down on his own planet," he said, in explaining the experimental remote sensing satellites such as the Landsat, launched by the United States. Murthy said about 50 countries will participate in the 12th International Symposium on Remote Sensing in The Philippines at the end of April to discuss their national programs.

More than 100 countries purchase Landsat data, which, through international agreement, must be made available to any nation that wants it at a reasonable charge.

In addition to locating unknown resources, Landsat can monitor changes in crop yields or detect erosion of land as it passes over the same spot at the same time every 18 days. It also has been used for projects ranging from a survey of the desert locust's invasion of Africa and Asia to detection of geological faults in South America.

Equipped with television cameras and radiometric scanners that obtain image data in colors, the spacecraft orbit the earth every 100 minutes.

Outside the United States, only Italy, Canada and Brazil have ground stations to receive Landsat data directly and process it for their regions, NASA officials said. Argentina, Chile, Zaire and Iran have announced plans to build receiving stations.

Pierre-Marie Adrian, project specialist with the InterAmerican Development Bank in Washington, said, for example, Landsat data had made "a tremendous impact on the budget" of Bolivia.

In addition to making possible the first land map of Bolivia's entire territory, the satellite located a concentration of two important minerals, lithium and potassium, he said.

The cost of analyzing the resource data was $10,000, Adrian said, but the findings prompted American mining companies to invest more than $136 million in Bolivia to explore the deposits.

Murthy said the Soviet Union is conducting experimental remote sensing projects with the German Democratic Republic using multispectral cameras on board Soyuz and Salyut. Some time this year, he said, his native India will launch an experimental earth observation satellite.

Media Executive Has Heart Attack

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — D. Tennant Bryan, chairman of Media General Inc., which publishes the Richmond Times-Dispatch and the News Leader, was listed in satisfactory condition Sunday after suffering a heart attack.

Bryan, 71, who stepped down as publisher of the two newspapers Dec. 30, had complained of chest pains and had gone to Richmond Memorial Hospital Saturday for tests.

Contemporary Explorers Say Challenges Remain

NEW YORK (AP) — Although exploring has changed since the swashbuckling days of Elizabethan adventurers, there's still a lot of ground to be covered, according to anthropologist Charles Brush.

"Many mountains still have not been climbed," says Brush, first vice president of the Explorer's Club. "All the earth's surface has been mapped by satellite, but there are many places that have not yet been penetrated by man, and it's quite a thrill to know that you're the first person to set a foot down somewhere."

The club, founded in 1904, has 18,000 members representing almost all countries in the world, including the Antarctic station, and is supported entirely through dues and contributions.

Theodore Roosevelt and Lowell Thomas are among the names the club has claimed as members, although anyone who is interested in exploring may join, according to Marie Roy, the club's press secretary.

Dmitri Rebikoff, originally from France, was among the 1,300 scientists and pioneers gathered at the club recently to swap notes on their work and to reminisce.

Rebikoff, who has devoted his entire life to the quest for Atlantis, said he met his wife underwater while on an expedition 25 years ago.

But he has also had some close encounters of a less friendly kind, including three with sharks. "To distract them, I fed them my camera," he said.

"The whole underwater world remains (to be explored)," says Brush, "and there are probably thousands of caves that have yet to be discovered."

LT. John Blashford-Snell of Great Britain has concentrated on expeditions to tropical areas. "You can photograph them by satellite, but in a lot of other ways they remain to be explored," he said.

Tropical rainforests grow so quickly and densely that detailed mapping of the forest floor is often impossible. "We've never invented a vehicle that can go through tropical forests, except for man and elephant," he said.

Blashford-Snell will head "Operation Drake," a two-year voyage around the world launched under the aegis of Prince Charles, and scheduled to begin this October in commemoration of Sir Francis Drake's historic trip around the world 400 years ago.

One test he devised to select young participants is as follows: candidates will be put in a room with a python named Monty and told to measure him.

At 11½-feet long, Monty is the largest python in captivity, the 42-year-old explorer said.

A veteran of 18 expeditions, Blashford-Snell was once ambushed by Ethiopian rebels during the first complete descent and exploration of the Blue Nile in 1968.

"They thought we were government agents measuring their land for tax collection. We had a pretty good battle."

BOB SCHMIDT FOR CITY COUNCIL - PLACE 3

TUESDAY APRIL 25 RUN-OFF ELECTION

AN ACTIVE BUSINESSMAN FOR AN ACTIVE LUBBOCK

RESPONSIVE AND RESPONSIBLE

Bob promises to be responsive and responsible to all segments of the city. He pledges services to all citizens by:

- getting the best mileage from your tax dollars
- tackling problems of crime and traffic
- looking ahead so your children will have good water
- making twilight years meaningful for aging citizens

ACTIVE IN LUBBOCK'S GROWTH

During Bob's six years (1972-1978) on the Lubbock Planning and Zoning Commission, he has supported:

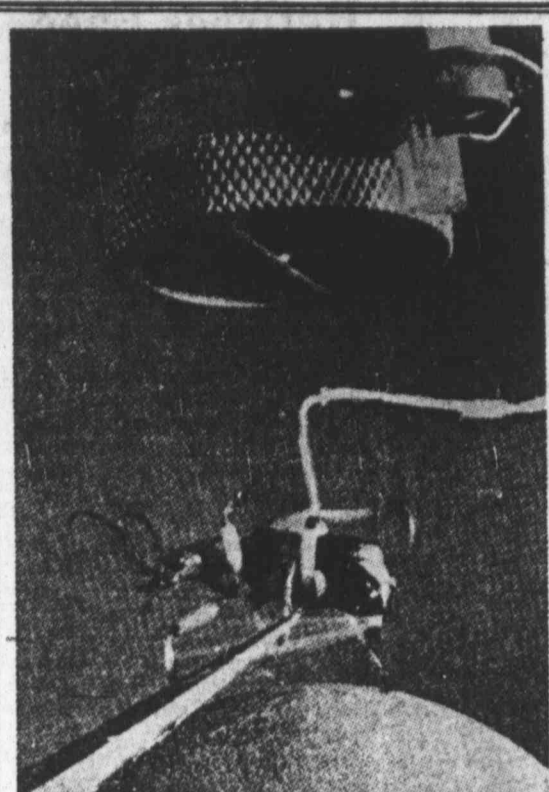

- comprehensive land-use planning for better future growth
- protective zoning for neighborhoods
- more off-street parking
- playa lake parks

BOILING MAD — A bombardier beetle blasts offending tweezers with a searing spray normally reserved for attacking ants. Employing catalytic chemistry, the beetle heats its caustic juice to boiling within two abdominal "explosion chambers." The microphone above picks up a barely audible pop that signals the spray and triggers an electronic flash that freezes the three-hundredths-of-a-second reaction on film. Amazing new developments in imaging and photography are enabling scientists to see things they never saw before.

MUMMYLIKE FIGURE — The computer imaging of National Geographic writer Rick Gore can convey a lot of information to researchers at the Texas Institute for Rehabilitation and Research in Houston. The researchers have adapted the techniques of aerial mapping to get precise three-dimensional measurements of the human body. A computer assembles the data for presentation on a TV screen. Mr. Gore describes the many new techniques in photography and imaging and their impact in the March National Geographic.

Camera Technology Hailed As Benchmark Of Progress

National Geographic News Service

WASHINGTON — With the possible exception of computers, the camera and newer imaging devices are the most important scientific tools of the past century.

"The reason is simple," reports Rick Gore in the March National Geographic. "Cameras extend our vision immeasurably, showing us what is too fast or too slow, too bright or too dim for our eyes to behold. Cameras go where we cannot and document what our memories might soon distort or disregard, or what time and progress will destroy."

Lightning new vistas for scientific research, photography and other imaging techniques probe nearly everywhere in the physical universe—from man, to the cosmos, to within the atom itself.

"Fly's Eye" Lens
Using a "fly's eye" lens with 10,000 microlenses built into it, a Venezuelan experimenter can photographically reduce a 20-volume encyclopedia onto a space the size of a typewritten page.

In the most detailed view of a star other than the sun, a computer and a camera have combined to chart subtle temperature differences—from hot orange to cool blue—on Betelgeuse, 500 light-years away in the constellation Orion. The feat is comparable to photographing a grain of sand a mile distant.

Maps of the human body are being charted through the new science of biostereometrics—the three-dimensional measurement of living things using techniques similar to aerial mapping.

A stereo camera and a strobe light with a speckled filter are aimed at the front side of the human body. A similar setup simultaneously photographs from the rear. The stereo photographs, viewed in pairs, appear as three-dimensional images of the body fore and aft.

Utilizing the artificial texture created by the speckled pattern, a machine plots the coordinates of more than 5,000 points on the body as data for a computer.

Assembling the data for presentation on a TV screen, the computer images the body volume. The computer can also picture the head, an arm, or a leg—from any angle.

Measured Teams of Astronauts
Apollo 16 and Skylab astronauts were measured before and after their flights to determine changes in body volume. More down-to-earth applications include custom-made artificial limbs, early detection of spinal deformations in children, and better treatment of cleft palates.

Other new imaging devices give doctors an accurate view of a patient's internal condition. The most revolutionary is a big doughnut-shaped X-ray machine called a computed-tomography or CT, scanner. Taking thousands of low-dosage X-ray measurements, it creates detailed cross-sectional pictures of a patient's brain or torso.

"With conventional X-rays we can see four things: bone, air, fat, and everything else. But we just can't discriminate between the various soft tissues. We'd be lucky to find the liver," explains Dr. Thomas F. Meaney of the Cleveland Clinic Foundation.

"With the CT scanner we don't just see the liver; if there's anything wrong in the liver that creates a difference of even 1 or 2 percent in the tissue's X-ray absorption rate, we can find it.

"We can see inflammations and distinguish both benign and malignant tumors. We can determine the extent of many cancers. Thus in many substances we can eliminate exploratory surgery."

The CT scanner's clearest advantage is diagnosing brain disorders. Previously, when doctors did a standard X-ray of the skull, all they could see was bone. CT lets them look into the brain. They can find a tumor when it's tiny—before it's too late.

The new eyes of science range far beyond the medical field. Special techniques in the laboratory enable cameras to record the frothy wakes of invisible subatomic particles such as protons and electrons.

Map Moon's Chemistry
Detected in space by Apollo spacecraft, gamma-ray emissions help to map the moon's chemistry. Emanating from earth from radioactive materials, the rays have penetrated dense gold to detail the interior metalwork of a pharaoh's funeral mask for archeologists.

Some new tools of photography are being designed for more mundane uses. In the offing is an instant-replay movie camera with its own erase and edit features. So perhaps are cameras that could store dozens of snapshots in a small electronic memory and replay them like a slide show on the home TV screen.

In some cases, the camera is evolving into something more than a tool. Tied in with the computer, it is, for instance, providing the eyes for a roving robot that someday may explore the surface of Mars.

Concludes Gore: "It will soon be almost impossible to divorce the camera from the computer, and our children may find that in the last quarter of the 20th century we gave eyes to an intelligence more awesome than artificial."

Literary Competition Teams Meet

Lubbock's Coronado High School and Muleshoe High School grabbed top honors in Region 1 AAAA and AA, respectively, in ULL literary competition held Saturday at Texas Tech.

In the AAAA competition, the Lubbock Monterey team took second place sweepstakes honors, and the teams from Waco, Richfield, and El Paso Coronado tied for the third place spot.

In the AA conference, teams from Crane High School and Tulla High took second and third place sweepstakes honors, respectively.

In AAAA, winners in individual events were:
Persuasive speaking: 1. Stewart Bass, Amarillo; 2. Jane Forsythe, Midland; and 3. Jeff Wool, Lubbock Coronado.
Poetry interpretation: 1. Becky McVay, Riverside; 2. Terry Eoff, Lubbock Monterey; and 3. Mike Seago, Amarillo High.
Prose reading: 1. Jan Whittington, Big Spring; 2. Jesus Samaniego, El Paso Coronado; and 3. Greg McCabe, Midland Lee.

Informative speaking: 1. Rina Hsieh, Richfield; 2. Mich ael Shounessy, Midland Lee; and 3. Margaret Ann Rose, Abilene Cooper.
Feature writing: 1. Jeff McLain, Plainview; 2. Diana Willeke, Odessa; and 3. Keely Anthony, Lubbock Coronado.
Editorial writing: 1. Ralph Gauer, Killeen; 2. Robert Ralls, Parkland; and 3. Penny Olmstead, Lubbock Monterey.

Chamber Meet Scheduled

The 60th Annual Convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce will be held in Lubbock Thursday and Friday. Programs Thursday and Friday morning and a business session Friday afternoon will be conducted in the Hilton Inn.

The Friday luncheon and a reception and banquet that evening will be in the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center.

Registration fees for Friday morning programs and the luncheon are $10, and fees for the afternoon business meeting, reception and banquet are $15.

Jackie Onassis Tells Historian Of Kennedy-Johnson Relations

AUSTIN (AP) — Jackie Kennedy Onassis says that after her husband, President John F. Kennedy, was assassinated in 1963 she did not vote for his successor, Lyndon Johnson, in 1964.

Court Martial Of Recruiters Possible

PARRIS ISLAND, S.C. (UPI) — Three Marine Corps recruiters already suspended from duty are being subjected to a formal pre-trial investigation involving the illegal enlistment of 243 Panamanian nationals from the New York City area, a Marine spokesman said Sunday.

The investigation, similar to a grand jury proceeding in civilian court, could take three to four weeks, said Major E.W. Paulson, public affairs officer for the Parris Island Marine Recruit Training Depot.

If formal charges are preferred, the recruiters would be given courts martial. Maj. Gen. A.J. Poillon, the depot commander, ordered the investigation of Staff Sgt. John G. Funk and Gunnery Sgt. Rafael Velez and Luis A. Lumpris, who were suspended from duty several months ago.

The investigation began when Parris Island officials received an anonymous letter that two Panamanian recruits were illegal aliens and had enlisted with fraudulent documents. An initial investigation indicated 112 recruits were involved but a followup probe turned up 131 more.

Of the 243 recruits, 106 were still undergoing training at Parris Island. The remaining 137 already had completed their training when the problem was discovered.

The investigation, which included a review of records at Marine recruiting stations in New York City and Long Island, revealed that many of the Panamanian recruits had enlisted using fraudulent birth certificates and high school diplomas.

After checking the performance and record of each recruit, the Marines retained 54 of the enlistees and discharged 52, who were turned over to the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service. Those who were kept will be eligible for citizenship after a certain period of time.

Death Row Inmate Set Free

CANON CITY, Colo. (UPI) — Sylvester Lee Garrison took the long walk from his death row cell to execution three times. A reprieve sent him back each time. Wednesday, he takes his longest walk in 11 1/2 years — to freedom.

Garrison was convicted in 1967 of murder and sentenced to death. An execution date was set 14 times. He ate his last meal of chicken, cooked onions and fries three times, only to be returned to his cell at the last minute.

His death sentence was overturned several years ago and his 11 1/2 year stay in the state's maximum security facility has earned him a parole, complete with a new set of clothing and $100 to start a new life.

"First, I'm gonna sit on the porch and watch the people for a little while. Watch the cars go by. I'll need a little time to put things behind me. Then I'd like to be child counselor," said Garrison, 45.

Prison has taught Garrison little of value, he said, other than how to roll cigarettes expertly. But he has earned a reputation for helping other inmates, who have labeled him "Godfather."

"I've sat in this hell-hole a long time. I've seen some intelligent kids come and go. And then come back again. They sit in here and rot and get bitter. Get filled with hate. Then some dummy says he's surprised when the kid comes back," he said.

Republicans Slate Delegate Selection

A-J Correspondent
HOBBS, N.M. — Lea County Republicans will convene May 7 at 2 p.m. at Republican Headquarters to select delegates for the state platform convention in June at Santa Fe.

In addition, the group's central committee will present plans for a fund-raiser to the May convention in Hobbs.

The fund-raiser will afford Lea County Republicans the opportunity to meet state Republican candidates. Proceeds will help offset renovation costs on the headquarters building, according to April Westbrook, county chairman.

Mississippi Plane Crash Kills Man

BENNETT, Miss. (AP) — Bolivar County authorities said Sunday Donald Roegner, 56, of Carlisle, Ark., was killed in the crash of a Cessna 172 which went down after it clipped power lines following takeoff from an airstrip here.

The Bolivar County Sheriff's office identified the injured as Dennis Glover, 27, of Carlisle, and Ernest Kestler, 21, of North Little Rock, Ark. Both were reported in fair condition at Delta Medical Center in Greenville.

It was not immediately known which of the three was piloting the plane.

did not vote at all in the presidential race between Johnson and Sen. Barry Goldwater.

"You see, I'd never voted until I was married to Jack," Mrs. Onassis said in a 1974 interview. "I guess my first vote was probably for him for senator, wasn't it?"

"Then this vote (in 1964) would have been — he would have been alive for that vote. And I thought, 'I'm not going to vote for any (other person), because this vote would have been his.'"

Frantz's interview with Mrs. Onassis was recently approved for publication and a transcript was made available by the Lyndon B. Johnson Library here.

Frantz formerly was director of the oral history project at the library. He has interviewed numerous persons about Johnson.

Mrs. Onassis recalled in her interview that Kennedy was annoyed by press speculation that Johnson would be dropped from the ticket in 1964.

"The only thing I know about that is the fact that it would be brought up every now and then and was rather annoying. I don't think he had any intention of dropping Vice President Johnson," Mrs. Onassis said.

She said Kennedy made a point of including Johnson at all state occasions at the White House.

"One thing Prime Minister (Harold) Macmillan, of England had said to Jack about President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon, that Eisenhower never let Nixon on the place, impressed Jack a lot," she said. "Every time there was a state dinner he (Kennedy) wanted the vice president and Mrs. Johnson to come, too. We would meet state guests upstairs in the Oval Room and then walk down with the color guard, so that we would receive the state guests as a foursome, the president and the vice president."

Mrs. Onassis said Sen. William Fulbright of Arkansas, Adlai Stevenson and the president's brother, Robert, warned Kennedy not to make the Texas trip that ended in his death.

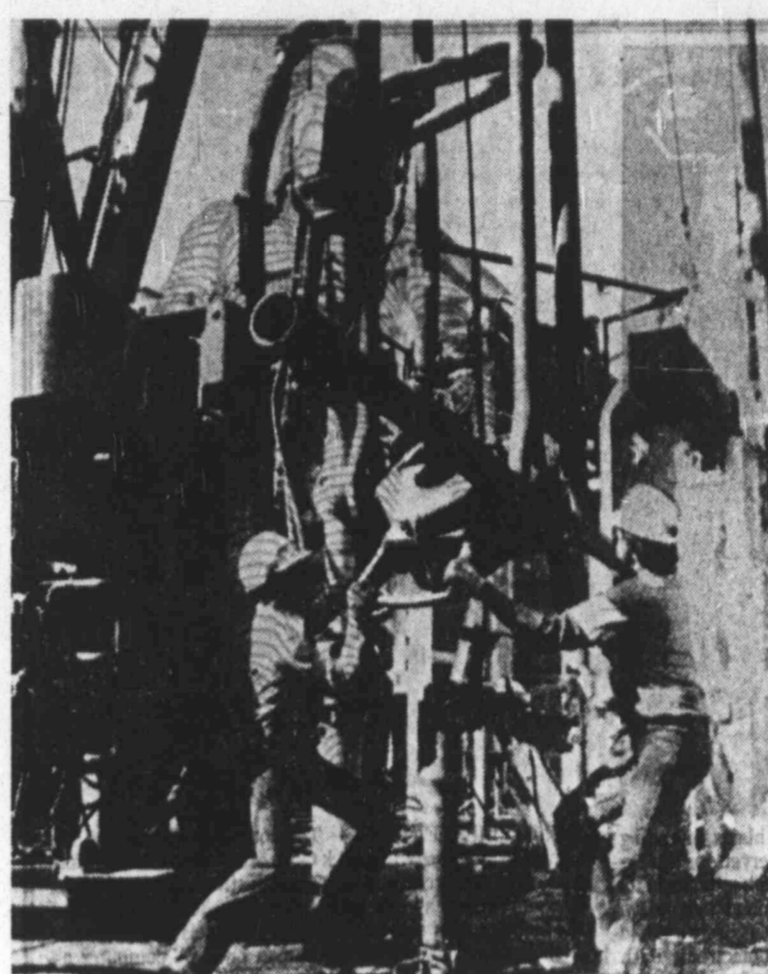

AUSTIN, Texas: his death. "I know he (Kennedy) really got upset," Mrs. Onassis recalled. "Vice President Johnson came to our hotel room in Houston the night before we went to Fort Worth. There was all of this about people not wanting to ride in the car or Sen. (Ralph) Yarborough wouldn't."

"I remember we had dinner in our room alone, Jack and I. Then Vice President Johnson came by, and they had a long talk. I know that was the point of the trip, to heal everything. It was a long talk."

After the assassination, Mrs. Onassis said she asked two favors of Johnson — to approve a Washington renovation commission and to rename the space center in Florida Cape Kennedy. He did both.

"The reason I asked was, I can remember this first speech Jack made in Texas that there would be a rocket one day that would go to the moon," Mrs. Onassis said. "I had this terrible fear that he'd be forgotten, and I thought, 'Well, maybe they'll remember some day that this man did dream that.'"

"This is very emotional," she told Frantz, "maybe you can understand it."

Retirees Face Cut In Income By Government

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some retired persons who have substantial income from part-time jobs will no longer receive monthly payments due a change in the Social Security law, which took effect Sunday.

The new law ends payment this year of monthly benefits to about 250,000 persons who began to receive Social Security payments last year but who still work part time, the Social Security Administration announced.

Previously, people who applied for benefits but planned to work part of the year — such as teachers, farmers and seasonal workers — were considered retired for each month they did not work.

They could keep their Social Security benefits although their actual income exceeded the annual amount the law allowed them to earn and still receive benefits.

According to the new law enacted last December, persons who plan to work part of the year and earn more than the law allows would not be sent benefit checks for the months they did not work.

However, persons who plan to enter permanent retirement this year will continue to receive monthly payments through the end of the year.

Korean Jetliner Passengers Report On Downing

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — Passengers of a South Korean jetliner downed in the Soviet Union said Sunday they saw no warning signals from a Russian MiG interceptor before it opened fire on them, blasting a hole in the fuselage and killing two persons.

The passengers said the pilot told them he apparently went off-course because a cockpit compass malfunctioned.

Some also said they thought at first the fighter was an American jet welcoming them to Alaska, a refueling stop on what was to have been a Paris-to-Seoul flight.

They spoke with reporters before boarding a Korean Air Lines relief jet that left Helsinki on Sunday. The plane landed at Anchorage International Airport at 11:42 a.m. AST (4:42 p.m. EST) to refuel before heading on to Seoul with a stopover at Tokyo. It carried 103 passengers and crew members from the ill-fated Boeing 707.

The Russians were still holding the pilot and navigator in the Soviet Union, and they confiscated the plane's "black box" flight information recorder.

Ten of those aboard Sunday's flight had been injured by the Soviet gunfire. The relief plane also carried the bodies of the two dead passengers, a Japanese and a Korean. Three passengers chose to return to Europe rather than continue to Seoul.

The survivors' accounts of Thursday's misguided and harrowing flight answered some questions about the incident but raised still others — such as why the Russians took such unusual action when the plane apparently had been over their territory for only 18 minutes.

After the jetliner's forced landing on a frozen lake in northwest Russia, Japanese passengers said, pilot Kim Chang-kyu told them he had a "sixth sense" he was heading in the wrong direction but could not believe he was so far off course.

The plane, flying a polar route, had veered south before it reached the North Pole.

Passengers said eventually a small jet appeared and flew for 10 to 15 minutes alongside the KAL plane, but that they did not see it dip its wings or flash its lights, internationally recognized signals used when ordering a plane to land.

The Soviet news agency Tass said Friday the KAL plane had refused to comply with "repeatedly issued orders to the intruder to follow them in order to land at some nearby airfield."

Karlheinz Schwaken, a steel equipment salesman from Dusseldorf, West Germany, said he watched the plane for more than 10 minutes and saw "no wagging, no signals."

Suddenly the plane vanished, passengers said. Then there was a loud bang and shrapnel sprayed through the 707's cabin.

Something had blown open a grapefruit-sized hole in the left side of the fuselage, and two passengers were fatally injured.

The plane plunged from 35,000 feet to 3,500 feet in minutes and finally made its emergency landing.

Passengers said they saw only one warplane trailing them.

"At first the passengers mistook the Soviet plane for an American fighter escort," said Jean-Claude Fory, a French businessman. "We'd been flying for hours and we thought we were over Anchorage."

The ill-fated flight carried Japanese, Koreans, Chinese and Europeans, but no Americans.

It left Paris at 6:39 a.m. EST Thursday for what should have been a nine-hour over-the-pole flight to Anchorage.

Passenger Seiko Shiozake of Kobe, Japan, who took notes during the incident, said the shooting was at 2:43 p.m. EST Thursday, and that the plane landed at 4:25 p.m.

The pilot had searched for about 1 1/2 hours before landing on a frozen lake near the Soviet city of Kem, 230 miles south of Murmansk, a port city on the Kola Peninsula about 900 miles north of Helsinki.

"We are landing and we see a flame on the left wing," Mrs. Shiozake wrote in her diary. "The moonlight is very bright and reflects on the snow. Captain Kim is applauded."

"The landing was no harder than many I've been in at commercial airports," said Benson Cohen, 55, a London leather goods merchant.

If, as the Soviets claim, the jetliner was over Soviet territory for two hours before landing, it would place the shooting 18 minutes after it entered Soviet air space.

The passengers said they were on the ground about two hours before Soviet rescue helicopters found them and took them to a village, where they were detained in a guarded building until they were flown to Murmansk Saturday to meet a specially dispatched Pan American evacuation jet. It took them to Helsinki, where the KAL relief plane was waiting.

The Pan Am jet, which came from West Berlin, carried a doctor, a nurse and a crew of eight.

South Korea, which has no diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union, asked the United States to negotiate the release of the pilot and navigator Lee Kun-shik.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Tom Reston said U.S. officials had "registered our concern" about the failure of the Soviets to free the crewmen and said the United States believed the two would be freed with the others.

One unanswered question was where the plane actually was flying for hours Thursday before entering Soviet airspace.

KAL President Cho Choon-hoo, who boarded the relief jet Sunday for the trip to Seoul, said the jet had veered off-course 100 miles.

But the plane radioed its last position as near Ellesmere Island, Canada's northernmost point and more than 1,000 miles from where it was forced down. The precise flight plan, filed in Paris, was not available Sunday.

Cho said no negotiations had started on the return of the plane and that the airline was prepared to abandon it if necessary.

Anti-Sadat Terrorists Hit By Egyptian Security Raid

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) — Security authorities have smashed a terrorist ring plotting assassinations and sabotage to undermine the government and thwart President Anwar Sadat's Middle East peace initiative, officials said Sunday.

Police arrested 10 persons, mostly Palestinians but including a Swiss and a West German girl studying Arabic at Cairo's Goethe Institute. No Egyptians were detained.

Leaflets "mentioning the use of violence and the setting up of revolutionary cells" also were seized, officials said.

The semi-official newspaper Al-Ahram said the ring was "aimed at hitting the domestic front and creating political disturbances which would undermine the government regime."

By obstructing the government's attempts to ease Egypt's domestic problems, the group hoped this "would have reflections on Egypt's political efforts abroad," Al-Ahram said.

It said the group was either directly or indirectly under the command of an international organization active throughout Europe, with extensions in the Arab world.

The organization was responsible for recent terror, such as plane hijackings and could be connected to the assassination of Egyptian journalist Youssef Sebail in Nicosia, Cyprus in February and the abduction of former Italian Premier Aldo Moro, the newspaper said.

"Investigation carried out by state Security authorities uncovered the involvement of some extremist European and Arab elements, including a Swiss national and a German girl, in a hostile scheme directed against the security of the state," said Attorney General Ibrahim Kalayoubi.

The newspaper Al-Ahram reported the attorney general ordered the arrest of other Palestinian suspects "but it turned out that some of them had been told to leave the country" after Sadat visited Jerusalem in November.

Investigators found evidence the alleged terrorists planned to get weapons from a underground Palestinian group based in an unidentified Arab capital, the newspaper said.

It said authorities believe the investigation will unravel within the next few days "the dimensions of this grave terroristic scheme as well as the countries which finance it."

Andrews, Spur Take Honors At UIL Meet

High school students from across the region met in Odessa over the weekend to compete for state berths in District 3A and District 1A University Interscholastic League contests.

The first three winners in the UIL Regional literary contests and the top two winners of the journalism competitions will travel to Austin for state UIL competition.

Andrews High School won the literary Sweepstakes Trophy in the 3A division, while the 1A Sweepstakes honor in literary events went to Spur High School.

In individual events, 3A winners were: Debate: 1. John Kimberley and Eric Fryer of Midland Austin; 2. Carol Villarreal and Sonya Williams of Fort Stockton High; 3. Jeff Collier and David Tobias of Andrews High. Informative speaking: 1. Mark Caffey of Monahan High; 2. Tom Boling of Pecos High; 3. Joe Ward of San Angelo Lake View. Persuasive speaking: 1. # Police Seeking Suspect In Barroom Shooting

A barroom brawl over a 25-cent game of pool may have led to the death of a 33-year-old Lubbock man early Sunday, police detectives said.

Officers investigating a shooting at a club in the 3000-block of E. Main Street about 1:20 a.m. Sunday found portions of the floor behind a counter in the building covered with blood, but their search failed to turn up a victim.

A short while later, 33-year-old Robert Humphreys of 2717 E. 9th St. entered the emergency room of West Texas Hospital with the aid of three friends. Police reports indicate the man had been shot once in the chest and once in the upper abdomen with a small-caliber revolver.

Hospital employees labored over the man for almost seven hours before he died, detectives said.

Justice of the Peace L.J. Blalack ruled the death homicide.

Witnesses reportedly told police Humphreys and another man had been playing pool earlier in the night, but that after a series of bets on the outcome of different games, one man became angered.

He stormed out, but returned a short time later brandishing the pistol. He fired after shooting Humphreys twice.

Authorities late Sunday still were seeking the 28-year-old suspect.

Services for Humphreys are pending with South Plains Funeral Home.

Another 41-year-old Lubbockite nearly found herself the victim of a similar, but not as serious, assault.

After being stabbed three times about 7:35 a.m. Sunday, Ida Mae Johnson of 1701 Ave. C No. 16 managed to crawl from her bed to telephone police to report the ordeal.

She said she and a man visiting there had begun arguing just before he suddenly turned and left. He came back soon, though, this time carrying a large butcher knife.

Police reports indicate the woman was stabbed in the chest, the arm and once in the back. She was treated for her injuries at Methodist Hospital and later released.

A 43-year-old San Angelo woman told police she was at a residence in the 4500-block of 34th Street when a man beat her about 3 a.m. Sunday.

Police also were investigating a 21-year-old Mexican-American woman's report that she was raped Saturday afternoon.

The woman said she was with friends at a 4th Street club earlier Friday night and left the club with a girlfriend and a man she met there.

The man drove both women to another man's address where all three spent the night. When she awoke the next morning, she said, she found her friend had gone to the store and she was left alone with the men.

She went into a bedroom, she said, and was forced onto the bed by both men. After one raped her, she said her friend returned and ordered both men out of the house. Police then were notified.

The friend told police one of the men threatened to kill her if she told anyone what had happened.

Officers arrested two men after they almost got away at an 18th Street retirement center about 9:30 p.m. Saturday.

A security guard there noticed an unusual pickup in the parking lot about that time and went to investigate after calling police.

Officers found a piece of a suspected marijuana cigarette by the pickup, but after a search turned up no such contraband they left the men to their affairs.

One officer said he noticed one of the men shaking his leg, as if he had a nervous reaction, but didn't realize the man was trying to shake something out of his trousers until the vehicle drove off.

Left lying on the pavement behind was a plastic bag of a substance believed to be marijuana.

Burglars made large hauls from several Lubbock addresses during the weekend, but some weren't quite as lucky.

Among the larger takes, burglars made off with two watches, $1,200 and another $350 that belonged to a friend of Waverlee Dearman of 2712 E. 7th St., police were told about 1 a.m. Sunday.

Two rifles valued at $225 were reported missing from Dwight Lusk's 6001 34th St. No. 87 home before 2:20 p.m. Saturday.

Paul W. Burroughs of Amarillo told police a jewelry box containing items valued at $2,500 turned up missing from the 2815 44th St. residence where he was staying between 7 p.m. Saturday and 10:30 a.m. Sunday.

Jewelry, a sewing machine and a stereo for a total loss of $950 were taken from Cherry Parr's 5806 27th St. No. M-21 residence between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. Friday.

Tami Sue McGuire of 2405-A 14th St. told officers someone took a $450 camera and several other items valued at $205 from her home before midnight Friday.

Burglars knocked out a glass pane in the front door of Theodore Robinson's 3232 E. 7th St. home to enter and remove a $65 television set Friday, he told police.

For the second time in three days, burglars entered W.C. Edwards' lawnmower shop at 2108 50th St. by going through the air conditioner. Taken in the second burglary were three bicycles and about $80.

Bill Hastings of 5007 Ave. U told police someone took about $40 in coins from coin-operated machines at his business at that address between midnight Friday and 9 a.m. Saturday.

Actor Will Geer Dies; Grandpa On 'Waltons'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Veteran actor Will Geer, the wrinkled grandfather of television's "The Waltons," has died of respiratory arrest at a hospital here, a CBS spokeswoman said Sunday.

Geer, 76, who died Saturday evening at Midway Hospital, had been hospitalized secretly since March 25, said Janet Alston of CBS.

His son, Raleigh, said family members were around Geer's hospital bed, singing "This Land is Your Land" and reciting poems by Robert Frost, when he died.

"He went out as an actor with an audience," Raleigh Geer said.

Geer had been the white-haired patriarch for six years on "The Waltons," a highly rated show about a family living in the Depression and during World War II, based on Earl Hamner's book "The Homecoming."

He won an Emmy for the 1974-75 season as "best supporting actor in a drama series." He also had been nominated the year before.

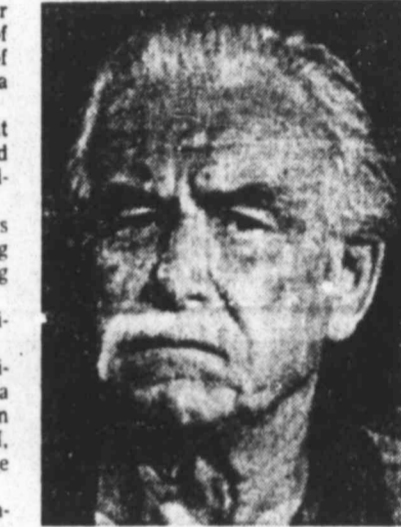

Geer's death closely follows the return to the show of his television wife, Ellen Corby, who suffered a debilitating stroke about a year ago. Miss Corby's real-life return to the series was blended with fiction to become the subject of this season's final segment, filmed Feb. 14.

Geer had more than half a century of experience in various forms of entertainment and was widely known as a Shakespearean troupier. He established Shakespearean gardens at Stratford, Conn., at the Globe Theater in San Diego and at the University of Michigan.

Geer, who held a master's degree in botany, had turned in the 1950s to Shakespeare and the gardening of plants mentioned in Shakespearean works after he was blacklisted by the movie industry for taking the Fifth Amendment before the House Un-American Activities Committee.

Some 50 years ago, he appeared in tent shows, show boats, and also appeared with repertory companies and in Shakespearean groups.

He made his Broadway debut in "The Merry Wives of Windsor." Other Broadway appearances included "Cradle Will Rock," "Bury the Dead," "Waiting for Lefty." "Sing Out the News" and "To-bacco Road."

Meanwhile, Grandpa Walton was also a real-life patriarch to dozens of young actors who performed every weekend in a backyard theater in rustic Topanga Canyon, several miles north of Los Angeles.

"I started in 1973 as a Shakespearean reading under a Sycamore tree," Geer's daughter, Ellen, said. "The whole family was involved. His sons built the place and all his daughters were involved."

Geer, who was divorced from his wife, actress Herta Ware, had seven children and two grandchildren.

Each Saturday and Sunday, groups of young actors — some professionals and some beginners — would gather at the Greek-style theater for workshops, which Geer would preside over as often as his busy schedule allowed.

The Sunday performances, which broadened to include works by John Steinbeck and other modern writers, were held throughout the spring and summer. Despite Geer's death, a performance of Anton Chekhov's "The Seagull" went on as scheduled Sunday.

The theater, called the Theatrum Botanicum, will be the site of memorial services, CBS spokeswoman Alston said. The date was pending.

Bonds To Expand Clovis Campus Due Vote Today

CLOVIS, N.M. (Special) — Voters here will decide a $2.4 million bond issue today calling for the expansion of facilities at the Eastern New Mexico University Clovis Campus.

If passed, the $2.4 million would be added to more than $1.8 million in state and federal funds for construction of new facilities, said Clovis Campus business manager Jim Turner.

If the bond issue is passed, it will span a 15-year time period and will increase property taxes no more than three mills, Turner said.

Expansion plans call for a 110,000-square-foot complex, which will house academic and vocational programs such as electro-machines, refrigeration, licensed practical nursing, office occupations, art drafting and a student lounge.

The Clovis Campus expanded from an academic role to vocational offerings in 1971. Since that time, the college has grown from 214 full-time students to 633 in 1977.

First Americans Enter Cambodia

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — Four officials and journalists from a U.S. communist group became the first Americans allowed into Cambodia when they landed at Phnom Penh airport Saturday, official Radio Phnom Penh said Sunday.

The four Americans, who were not identified, included officials of the pro-China Marxist-Leninist Communist Party of the United States and journalists from the party's journal, "The Call," the radio said.

The broadcast, monitored in Bangkok, said the Americans were on an official visit to Cambodia at the invitation of Cambodia's Committee for Cultural Relations with Foreign Countries and the Chinese ambassador to Cambodia.

Pilot Training Needs Lead Time

By GERRY BURTON
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Lead time is the important factor with the U.S. Air Force's Air Training Command (ATC), says Gen. John W. Roberts, ATC commander. It defines the time ATC has to provide trained personnel and training programs to fill an Air Force need.

Wartime or peacetime, it takes a year to teach a man to fly the supersonic jet trainer, and to become ready to qualify in more sophisticated aircraft.

By the time he can fly, others can be ready to maintain his aircraft, to furnish supplies, to keep the paper work straight, to guard his plane, to treat his ills, to guide his craft and aim its weaponry, to do anything needed in time of war — or near war.

ATC's undergraduate pilot training bases, like Reese AFB at Lubbock, are geared to turn out about 1,500 graduates a year to furnish a steady supply of pilots for the defense of the nation.

With ATC, right now, there is a 10-year lead time in pilots. In a decade, pilots training today will be proficient in any military aircraft. They will have been rotated from plane to desk to plane, and will be capable of filling many positions of leadership from a flying command to a desk-oriented administrative post.

"We are training now the pilots we'll need in 10 years when the current ranks are thinned considerably by retirement," Gen. Roberts explained, in a recent discussion of ATC and Reese, their current status and near future.

A slump in pilot training, caused by an oversupply of pilots after the end of a decade of military involvement in Southeast Asia, has ended.

"The pilot training rate will be going up; there will be more people at Reese," Roberts noted, adding that he is "delighted with the way Reese is going" and noting also that the new instrument flight simulator Reese pioneered for the Air Force is "a real landmark in pilot training."

Roberts will be on hand Thursday for ribbon-cutting ceremonies at 10 a.m. for the $29 million instrument flight simulator.

Concerning the ever-present worry about base closure, Roberts emphasized that the closing of Webb AFB, Texas, and Craig AFB, Ala., pared training bases to the number needed by ATC.

"There is no way we could eliminate another pilot training base," he stressed. Pilot training, like all military action, "hangs on and rotates around the dollar" which is why undergraduate pilot training slumped to new lows in the past few years.

"We should have been training all along, but those furnishing the dollar have looked more at the present number of pilots instead of what we will need in the future.

"It is hard to keep the force going unless we train constantly.... Defense of the country is a very acute thing. We should look 10 years into the future."

One of ATC's responsibilities is to anticipate any training need, and to have trained personnel and a training program set by the time new systems enter the Air Force inventory.

Even though development of the cruise missile is now on presidential hold, ATC must continue to work with possible contractors in the event that it someday is developed.

Lead time is so critical with the cruise missile system, that ATC has crews working with the two companies vying for the contract so that it can be ready with maintenance and maintenance training should the program be reinstated.

"ATC cannot wait until it is contracted. The lead time is too great. We have to be far out in advance of any program — working on it, developing training, while it still is on the drawing board."

ATC crews also are working with the development stages of the F-16.

Crews were working to have flying and maintenance personnel available for the B-1 bomber when it went into production. They were recalled when the B-1 was turned down in favor of the cruise missile.

"I was disappointed in the decision on the B-1, but cannot spend time worrying over its loss," Roberts said. "As blue-suiters, we must concern ourselves with getting the cruise missile aboard and maintaining it."

Keeping all training programs going in 14 ATC bases and dozens of non-ATC locations, as well as anticipating future training needs, allows no time for worry about what might have been.

ATC's responsibility in recruiting and training personnel for the Air Force recently expanded to include the Air University, so that all Air Force training, outside the U.S. Air Academy itself, is under ATC, now the largest command in the Air Force.

Combining ATC-Air University administrative costs — "doing more with less" — will furnish some relief to the tax dollar in the future, but spending for training, Roberts emphasized, should not be cut. He is "of the school that we should train what we need."

Fresh from a Washington meeting with "the chief and other commanders," Roberts noted that "the other commanders were laudatory about the quality of people we are giving them."

Simulator Gives Second Chance

Climbing into the cockpit, the pilot puts on his helmet, closes himself into the craft and informs the tower he is ready to take off.

The runway rushes by a bit shakily as the craft gathers speed and lifts into the air.

Pilot and craft clear the field, head for a routine run to Gail Air Force Base.

Routine turns to concern as fog settles in, sending the craft below, sometimes above, the dense white stuff.

Flying level into unseen space, the pilot moves his hand — too quickly — and the plane spins out of control. The soup lessens and the ground is there, all twisting and too close.

In the second before the sound of impact comes and sight goes, the wish comes: "Let it be a dream — if I could just go back...."

His ears still ringing from the crash, his body still vibrating with the shock, he suddenly is back. There is the moment of doing corrected — and the craft proceeds to Gail AFB, does some touch and go landings, then heads home.

Suddenly, lights flash on, and contemplation of the clouds below turns to instant panic. He checks equipment and dials. Eject procedures race through his head.

Not yet, not yet. Try something.

The light is off, the malfunction no longer threatens. The craft roars with full power and he is off again.

Japanese Railways Struck By Workers

TOKYO (UPI) — Workers of major private railways in Tokyo and other major cities struck for higher wages Sunday in a walkout that forced millions of travelers and vacationers to stay home.

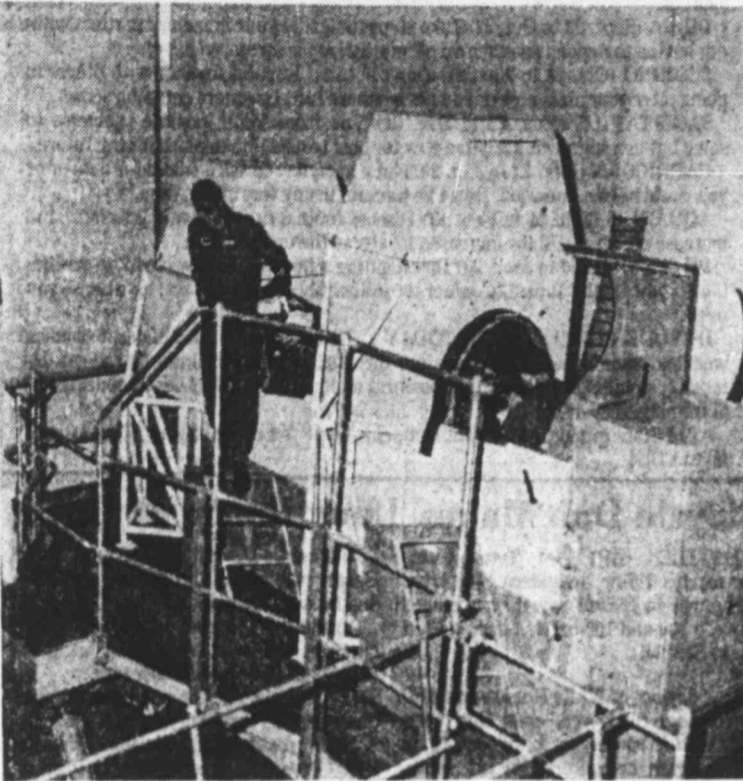

Employees of nine of 13 major private railways carried out a one-day stoppage while those of three others abandoned ticket offices and turnstiles.

They have rejected the management's offer to increase their monthly wage by $39 or 5.5 percent. They are demanding $117.

Government and public enterprise workers led by national railway employees said they have scheduled a four-day joint strike beginning Tuesday while private railways unions plan a three-day stoppage.

GEN. JOHN W. ROBERTS

All training center commanders, he added, have in the past two years gone way beyond requirements.

Among ATC recent products are a handful of women pilots who competed, successfully, for top achievement spots in training with men students.

There were no problems with women aboard the pilot training program. An autographed photograph of the Air Force's first women pilots is a prize possession of Roberts, who kept close watch on the initial training and allowed a great deal of latitude in press coverage of the historic happening.

"We are moving hard and fast in most effective training postures."

This includes recruiting, which Roberts said must be done with one-sixth the budget of other services. The recruiting budget is cut continually, he added, because Air Force recruiting is successful in attracting the quality personnel necessary for both officer and enlisted ranks.

Heading up ATC's massive school system, which begins with recruits and ends with retirement, is a man of easy dignity and controlled strength underwritten by a sense of humor taking him through the frustrations and accomplishments of command.

Without the uniform, he could be mistaken very easily for a university president, completely competent and capable of assistance or discipline with equal candor.

He moves through his command confident of his place in the Air Force world and pleased with his impact on it, very proud of the response to his leadership in making it a better Air Force arm.

Each assignment in a career beginning in March 1943, has been full of the excitement of challenge, the greatest being his current task of recruiting and training Air Force personnel.

How he has met the challenges reflects in the four stars on his personal flag, a sign of continual progression from his first Air Army Air Corps days as an aviation cadet.

A command pilot with three wars and three decades of flying, planning and administrative experience behind him, Roberts is the first four-star general to command ATC.

Matt. 21: 33-46, 22: 1-3, The Living Bible

33 Now listen to this story: A certain landowner planted a vineyard with a hedge around it, and built a platform for the watchman, then leased the vineyard to some farmers on a sharecrop basis, and went away to live in another country.

34 At the time of the grape harvest he sent his agents to the farmers to collect his share.

35 But the farmers attacked his men, beat one, killed one and stoned another.

36 Then he sent a larger group of his men to collect for him, but the results were the same.

37 Finally the owner sent his son, thinking they would surely respect him.

38 But when these farmers saw the son coming they said among themselves, "Here comes the heir to this estate; come on, let's kill him and get it for ourselves!"

39 So they dragged him out of the vineyard and killed him.

40 When the owner returns, what do you think he will do to those farmers?"

41 The Jewish leaders replied, "He will put the wicked men to a horrible death, and lease the vineyard to others who will pay him promptly."

42 Then Jesus asked them, "Didn't you ever read in the Scriptures: 'The stone rejected by the builders has become the cornerstone; how remarkable! what an amazing thing the Lord has done?'"

43 What I mean is that the Kingdom of God shall be taken away from you, and given to a nation that will give God His share of the crop.

44 All who stumble on this rock of truth? shall be broken, but those it falls on will be scattered as dust."

45 When the chief priests and other Jewish leaders realized that Jesus was talking about them—that they were the farmers in His story—

46 They wanted to get rid of Him, but were afraid to try because of the crowds, for they accepted Jesus as a prophet.

CHAPTER 22

1,2 Jesus told several other stories to show what the Kingdom of Heaven is like. "For instance," He said, "it can be illustrated by the story of a king who prepared a great wedding dinner for his son."

3 Many guests were invited, and when the banquet was ready he sent messengers to notify everyone that it was time to come. But all refused!

Inflation Fears Seen In Survey

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — Consumers are still buying at near-record levels but are becoming increasingly concerned in their outlook for overall business conditions, the University of Michigan Survey Research Center has reported.

"Favorable buying attitudes may decline rapidly if inflationary pressures continue to build and consumers shift their concern from buying to saving in response to rising uncertainty," survey directors Richard T. Curtin and George Katona said.

The center's index of consumer sentiment (February 1966 equals 100) stood at 78.8 in March, down 5.5 points from a month earlier and 10 points from a year earlier. The March reading was the lowest in two years.

The survey found that for the first time since the 1974-75 recession, more respondents expect bad times for the economy in the next year than those who expect good times — by a margin of 43 to 37 percent. More people also think conditions are worse now than a year ago.

The survey concluded that "continued concern over inflation and unemployment, together with declining confidence in government economic policy, have led consumers during the past year to adopt a more pessimistic view of future business prospects."

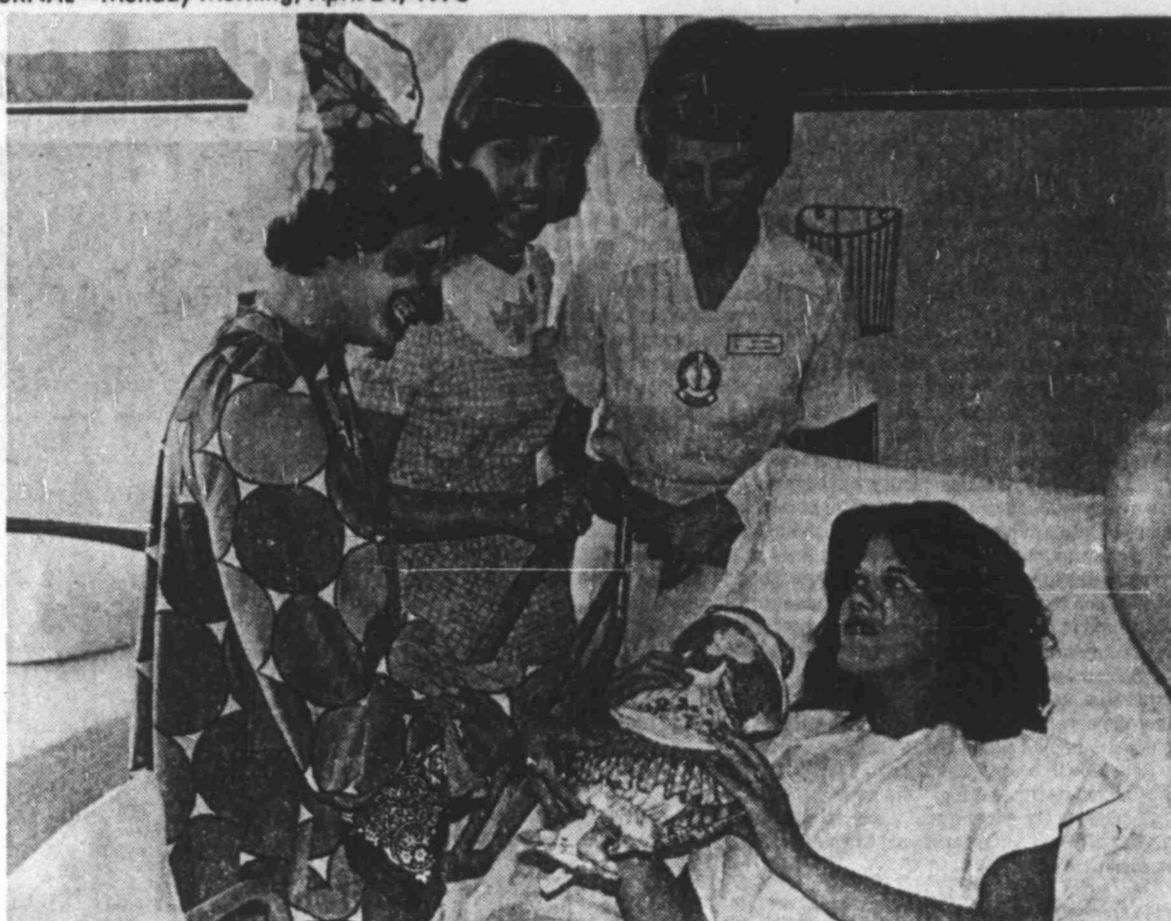

"Yet at the same time favorable current buying attitudes have been fostered through buy-in-advance reactions to expected price increases," it said.

The March survey also found an identical proportion of respondents — 35 percent — thought they were better and worse off than a year ago. The results were little changed from a year ago.

Unemployment worries heightened in March with only 14 percent of the respondents expecting a decline in the jobless rate in the next year compared with 30 percent who were optimistic about increasing employment in February.

Confidence in government's ability to deal with economic problems continued its decline in the latest survey. Ten percent of the respondents rate the government as doing a good job on the economy, down from 22 percent in February 1977.

Psychiatrist Analyzes Stress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The minor stress and aggravation most people encounter daily can build into more serious problems if they are not dealt with effectively, psychiatrist Dr. Roy W. Menninger said Sunday.

In a copyrighted interview with U.S. News and World Report, Menninger, head of the Menninger Institute, Topeka, Kan., estimates that up to 70 percent of minor ailments such as colds, back aches, insomnia and fatigue are "psychosomatic reactions to problems of living."

Menninger said he has studied the effects and causes of stress and has helped to develop "coping strategies" that allow a person to maintain control. The strategies may include exercising, meditation or even taking a few deep breaths.

"People need to recognize when they are under stress and train themselves to withdraw temporarily from their circumstances — to psychologically pull back into a state of reflection or meditation or relaxation."

The particular technique does not matter as much as making it a part of one's personal routine "so that a person can feel: 'Hey this works for me. I'm not helpless in this situation. I am in control of myself.'"

Menninger feels the use of a coping exercise will help people avoid larger mental problems and avoid the need and expense of real psychiatric care. "Over and over, solid evidence is accumulating that people who can do this effectively have just as intense a reaction to stress, but recover from it far more quickly," he said.

Menninger said depression is the most common reaction in people who let stress dominate their lives. He says the clearest "danger signal" is a "sense of 'grayness' about the future. A depressed person usually feels he has nothing to look forward to. He or she will always find ways of demonstrating that even a good thing is not so good after all."

Menninger thinks the increase of serious illness is partially due to stress caused by the rapidly changing life styles Americans face.

"Although we have conquered such dreaded diseases as smallpox and polio, we are seeing more heart problems, cancer, accidents, strokes and lung disease — problems that can frequently be related to life styles."

"In many ways modern America has become a much healthier place in which to live," Menninger said.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are most able to start new week right by putting in effect the result of your investigations over the weekend. You can be successful now in whatever is of primary importance to you.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Pay more attention to paying your bills today and see to it that your affairs are handled more intelligently. Express happiness.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) It is important that you allow more time for outside matters now. Use tact in handling a personal matter with loved one.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Be more precise in whatever work you have to do today and receive added benefits. Perseverance pays off at this time.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Not a good time for taking risks in a business matter. A day to meet with higher-ups and gain the backing you need.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Plan how to make your home life more ideal and increase happiness. A new project needs more study to be successful.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Engage in new activities that will help you get ahead faster in your line of endeavor. Obtain data you need from the right sources.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Take steps to handle your monetary matters without having to depend so much on others. Strive for increased happiness.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't act in a forceful manner with others in going after your aims now or you get nowhere fast. Use more common sense.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have some irksome problems to solve but use your own initiative now for best results. Make plans for the future.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Not a good day to ask a friend for a favor or you could be disappointed. Don't be forceful in any way at this time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Discuss mutual projects with associates and increase efficiency. Show increased loyalty to the one you love.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Investigating a new outlet now could be profitable to you in the future. Contact an influential person for the assistance you need.

Bicycle Duo Makes Long Range Trek

SEATTLE (AP) — Two young Norwegians riding a tandem bike from Anchorage to Miami say they averaged between 100 and 150 miles a day on their way to Seattle.

Naerland, 23, and his partner, Rolfe Berge, who steers the bicycle, rested in Seattle over the weekend.

During their three-week ride from Anchorage, the two encountered temperatures 10 to 15 degrees below zero.

They say they get energy by eating sardines they carry with them.

"That really gives us power in our legs," Naerland said. The trip is sponsored by the Norwegian sardine packing industry.

"One day out of White Horse we ran off the road in a rutty area," said Tore Naerland, who is 95 percent blind due to an optic disease he suffered in his youth. "Our bike was badly damaged. But we weren't injured."

House Leader Sees Compromise On Carter Tax Cut Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of House's tax-writing committee said Sunday he believes President Carter will accept a $15 billion income tax cut instead of the administration's proposed $24 billion reduction.

"I think he's ready to accept the will of this committee in the House," said Rep. Al Ullman, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Last week the White House denied published reports saying that Carter was prepared to compromise on his tax cut. The denial came after Ullman and other members of the committee met with Carter. After the meeting, the lawmakers said they detected a willingness on the president's part to compromise.

Ullman, D-Ore., wants to limit the tax cut to $15 billion in order to keep the nation's budget deficit as low as possible.

Ullman, appearing on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers," was asked if he thought Carter would accept a $15 billion tax cut.

"I think certainly he would in the House... I think he's ready to accept the will of this committee in the House," the congressman replied.

Ullman did say, however, he believed Carter would continue to press for the full $24 billion tax cut when the Senate considers the legislation. If the president were successful there and the House approved a smaller tax cut, a compromise between the Senate and House would have to be worked out.

Ullman said his committee would interrupt its work on the tax measures this week to consider the tax elements of the administration's energy program.

House and Senate conferees agreed last week on lifting price controls on newly discovered natural gas by 1985. Congress still must decide whether to enact Carter's proposed tax on domestically produced crude oil.

Ullman supports the tax, which would add about 7 cents a gallon to the cost of gasoline. The House approved the tax last year, but the Senate rejected it and approved more than $40 billion in tax credits to promote energy production and conservation.

Ullman said that if the crude oil tax is dead — as the chairman of the Senate Energy Committee, Sen. Henry Jackson, says it is — "then we go to high import fees."

Jackson, D-Wash., appearing on CBS' "Face the Nation," said any such import fees should be phased in and probably would have no immediate effect on gasoline prices.

"I think they can do it two or three months at a time," Jackson said. But he added that he did not think the import fees would cut down the amount of gasoline used and thereby help solve the energy shortage.

"It's bound to have some impact," he said. "In the case of gasoline, as a taxing matter, unless the total price were over a dollar a gallon, which is not going to happen in an election year, it will not have a deterrent effect on the use of gasoline because... people need automobiles to get to work and so on."

Nixon's Memoirs Termed Controversial By Editor

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Richard Nixon's memoirs "are very definitely biased from his viewpoint" but provide surprising personal portrayals of those close to him, says one of the former president's editors.

"There is no effort to mislead the reader, although this is his (Nixon's) side of it," editor David Frost said in an interview conducted in Oklahoma City where he was visiting relatives over the weekend.

Frost, who is no relation to the David Frost who conducted the Nixon television interviews, spent eight months in San Clemente, Calif., helping edit the former president's forthcoming book, "RN — The Memoirs of Richard Nixon."

Frost, who is chief copy editor of the Grosset & Dunlap publishing firm, refused to discuss specifics of the book, which will be released in May. He said one of the reasons he was chosen for the assignment was that his superiors trusted him to keep quiet.

The 1,200 page book is "very candid and personal, straightforward and direct," Frost said. It contains information "that will prove Nixon was right about a lot of things."

"Readers will be surprised at Nixon's personal portrayal of the people around him," the editor continued. "There are definitely villains and heroes, and they're not necessarily who you'd expect them to be."

"Nixon is likely to emerge as a sympathetic character in the book, Frost believes, though readers may not change their general opinion of the former president."

"I think the book will be very controversial," Frost said. "Everyone who's in it will read it very carefully. Some fared better than most readers would expect and some worse."

Frost worked with freelance writer Nancy Brooks, Nixon staffers and the former president to produce the final text, which covers Nixon's life from childhood until he resigned the presidency and left Washington in August 1974.

"Nancy and I very much were not Nixon apologists," Frost said. "We saw as our job to help him tell his story in the best way we could. We tried to help them (Nixon and his staff) keep the story on track and to keep as much defensiveness out of it as possible. We wanted to let Nixon tell the story and let the facts speak for themselves."

Sometimes, Frost said, the staff members who were helping Nixon write the book had to be told, "This won't wash. You can't do it this way."

Frost said in many instances, Nixon staffers "hadn't convinced us and they wouldn't convince others," with information they wanted in the book. "We'd send in a note and... then they'd rework it."

Nixon was "very good to work with," Frost said. "He is a very hard-working man and was cooperative and appreciative of my efforts."

College Sets Tour Of Country Musical

LEVELLAND (Special) — "Texas Cradle of Giants," a country music road show produced, written and performed by South Plains College faculty and students, is planning several performances across the area.

The two-hour story tells the story of the great musicians of the Lone Star State, from the early 1900's to present.

The show will be making appearances in Turkey at Texas for Bob Willis Day on April 29, Spur on May 6, Tahoka on June 3, and Lovington, N.M. on June 9.

Appearances also are slated in Ralls on June 16, Plains on June 17, and Brownfield on June 24.

Rounding out the tour will a June 27 show at Littlefield, June 30 at Lubbock, and back to SPC for a closing performance on July 4.

Hawaii's Lake Waiau, which is situated at 13,020 feet near the peak of Mauna Koa, is one of the highest lakes in the United States.

Alcohol, Drugs Study Sees Women's Crisis

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Women across the country are in "dreadful trouble" because of overdependency on doctor-prescribed drugs and alcohol, the author of a new study conducted for the National Institute on Drug Abuse said Sunday.

Muriel Nellis said the problem — brought to the public attention by former first lady Betty Ford's personal problems — is reaching epidemic proportions.

"Throughout the nation, without regard to state or geography, women are in dreadful trouble because of overprescription drugs and alcohol," she said the study found.

"These problems are not coincidental with the increase in reported problems of child abuse, family violence, runaway children and a whole host of things including an unmeasured implication for the newborn handicapped and otherwise damaged infants," she said.

Mrs. Nellis said women are more affected than men in part because they are "much more inclined to take prescribed medications and not question them so much."

"Women see physicians much more than do men in the course of their lives," she added.

Women also tend to choose legal substances such as prescription drugs or liquor over illegal ones when seeking release from their problems.

Mrs. Nellis said the report, compiled from state and regional studies, was submitted in March to the Health, Education and Welfare Department's National Institute on Drug Abuse.

The study said 60 percent of psychotropic or mind-altering drugs, 71 percent of antidepressants and 80 percent of amphetamines are prescribed for women. It also said half of the 10 million Americans who are presumed to be alcoholics are women.

Mrs. Nellis said the major drug groups involved are tranquilizers.

"The combination of tranquilizers and alcohol — both forms of depressants — often lead to other kinds of problems," she said. Doctors often prescribe "mood elevators" to combat those problems. A third group of abused drugs is analgesics or painkillers, she said.

Mrs. Ford admitted publicly that she had developed an overdependency on drugs used to kill pain from arthritis and a pinched nerve in her neck, and this was compounded by alcohol. She is being treated at the Long Beach, Calif., Naval Hospital.

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

What's it like to grow up with a mother (or father) who is also a schoolteacher? Janet, a 23-year-old reader from Glendale, Ariz., contends it's less than a religious experience. She writes, "I went past puberty thinking all mothers put candles on birthday cakes with a 'tens' and a 'ones' column. I always got pencils in my Christmas stocking saying, 'Greetings From Your Teacher,' and once for Christmas, I got a six-inch plastic ruler with the name of some kid who moved away.

"I told myself teaching was the last thing I wanted to do, but somehow I find myself not only teaching school, but saving empty Pringles cans and little scraps of felt. I label margarine tubs using wide-tipped magic marker and color code things in my junk drawer. "I even caught myself putting a frowning face on a letter to the gas company about an over-billing."

Now you know, Janet. Teaching is contagious. I married a teacher 28 years ago. Together, we spawned three children. The kids took a vow of silence at the end of each grading period. They sat through 21 commencement exercises. They never sent a letter from camp that wasn't corrected in the margins, graded, and returned.

It isn't easy living with a parent who can interpret your ACT scores... who is never convinced the library has no books on Trotsky... who can snap you awake with a piece of chalk at 60 paces.

Who knows when a holiday isn't... how many juniors REALLY drive to school, and who, when the chips are down, always sides with the administration.

When it came time for our first son to make a decision on his career, I asked him, "Do you want to spend the rest of your weekends for the rest of your life grading papers? Do you want to see everyone else's kids in the daylight — except your own? Do you want to go on a honeymoon and have a pair of little square scissors fall out of your pocket?"

"Do you want to build your social life around the football, basketball and track schedules? Do you want to sit through the 8th grade doing 'The Mikado' 12 years in a row? Do you want to stand around at proms going deaf?"

He handed me his paper, "True, true, true, false, true, true." He inherited the disease all right. Copyright 1978 Field Enterprises, Inc.

KATHY HARRISON MISS NEW YORK CITY

Miss New York City Sets Symphony Appearance

By JANICE JARVIS Family News Staff

The elegant boutiques, spectacular stage shows, and delightful restaurants of New York, tempted Kathy Harrison to trade the West for the big city. But what really put her on the door step of the Big Apple, was the chance to sing. Although she came to New York to pursue a career in opera, Miss Harrison practically fell into an opportunity she had not counted on. While in New York she met a former contestant in the Miss America contest. The chance to win a scholarship and thus further her career was irresistible. She entered the contest — and won the title "Miss New York City." In July she will try for the state title. The national pageant is scheduled for September.

Although responsibilities go with the title, Miss Harrison devotes as much time as possible to her singing career. She is emphatic that the pageant is not a beauty contest but rather a talent competition. "The Miss America Pageant is the largest scholarship talent competition in the U.S.," said Miss Harrison. Because singing lessons are so expensive, a scholarship, she feels, could ease the heavy financial load. Miss Harrison considers singing lessons a worthwhile investment. "In opera it's not enough to sing a song, you have to know the language and the role," she explained. Researching each opera and the language that goes with it is part of the learning process, and Miss Harrison devotes a part of each day to that research.

The rest of each day is spent 'investing' in her career as well. Though she occasionally works in department stores or dinner theaters to make ends meet, she puts singing as most important. Tickets to an opera may sound like an expensive night's entertainment, but Miss Harrison views it as an investment. She observed that she learns from other singers. Although she enjoys holding the title of Miss New York City, she views the chance at a scholarship as a stepping stone in a lifetime career. She has already studied voice for seven years, but knows much work is ahead. "A classical singer really doesn't become marketable until she's about 30 years old," she said.

As for living in the big city, Miss Harrison is convinced New York is the only place for an aspiring singer to be. "New York has the best and worst of everything," she explained. She noted that everything has been an uphill battle, but she added she has been lucky also. "It's hard, but it keeps getting better."

While visiting her parents in Lubbock, Miss Harrison will make a guest appearance with the Lubbock Symphony orchestra at its annual "Pops Nite" concert tonight and Tuesday. Although she enjoys Lubbock she is anxious to return to New York. "In more ways than one, New York has been very good to me," she said.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN AND OMAR SHARIF © 1978 by Chicago Tribune

Q.1—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AQJ1095 ♥A8 ♦A5 ♠AQ7
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
2♦ Pass 3NT Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—It is difficult to construct a hand on which partner could bid three no trump where a slam wouldn't be virtually a lay-down or, at worst, on a finesse. For instance, two kings and a queen in partner's hand might suffice. However, the slam should be played in spades, rather than no trump, because we might have to set up a card in partner's hand via a ruff.

Q.2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠A43 ♥KJ1072 ♦Q8 ♠KJ6
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♦ Pass 1♥ Pass
2NT Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—Simple arithmetic is all we need to arrive at the right spot. Partner has shown 19-20 points and we have 14, giving a combined holding of 33-34—just right for a small slam. Bid six no trump.

Q.3—North-South vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AQJ ♥6 ♦AKQ1092 ♠QJ6
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♦ 1♥ Dble. Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—While partner's double is for penalties and we hesitate to overrule partner on matters of this sort, this is not the type of hand to defend a one-level contract, especially since the penalty is unlikely to compensate for our almost certain vulnerable game. We would insist on game, and the way to get that message across to partner is to cue-bid two hearts. Three no trump is a likely resting place.

Q.4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠83 ♥Q8652 ♦6 ♠K10954
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♦ 2♦ Pass Pass
2♥ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—You could not act at your first turn because you did not have the values to enter the auction. Now that partner has rebid in your five-card heart suit, your hand has improved enormously, and a bid of three hearts would be timorous indeed. We are all in favor of a full-blooded raise to four hearts.

Q.5—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠83 ♥Q965 ♦KJ85 ♠943
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♦ 2♦ Pass Pass
2♥ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—You have a good fit for partner's second suit, but bear in mind that partner's hand is limited—he had other ways to reopen the bidding if he had a really strong hand. We just can't see your hand producing game because too much of your strength is in the opponent's suit, so we suggest you pass. A raise to three hearts would be invitational.

Q.6—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠QJ872 ♥73 ♦K85 ♠A104
Partner opens the bidding with one spade. What do you respond?
A.—You have an awkward responding hand—too strong for two spades, not strong enough for three spades, and not distributional enough for four spades. You have to mark time with a bid, and the logical choice is two clubs. Naturally, you intend raising spades at your next turn.

Q.7—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K82 ♥Q1075 ♦K962 ♠83
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♦ Pass 1♥ Pass
1♦ Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—Since partner might still have a very good hand—up to 18 points—there is no good reason why you should unilaterally decide that one spade is the optimum contract. A bid of one no trump now describes both the shape and strength of your hand, so why not make it?

Q.8—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠J76 ♥A5 ♦K854 ♠Q972
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
1♦ 4♥ ?
What action do you take?
A.—The bidding has developed nastily. You have a fair hand and no good way to show it. To bid four spades could expose your side to a huge penalty, yet to pass would be cowardly. The solution is to double. Partner should realize that you are bidding under pressure and that you are not likely to have a trump stack. If his hand is unsuitable, he can pull the double. If he leaves it in, you should do well—after all, your hand should produce at least two tricks on defense.

Your play to the first trick could decide the fate of the contract! A writer once remarked: "There's no such thing as a blind opening lead, only deaf opening leaders!" ## ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Have you noticed how many people, including those in radio and TV, pronounce February as Feb-yoo-ary? Walter Cronkite, no less, is one of the principal offenders. I will be mighty glad when these so-called experts on the English language get with it. I've written to Mr. Cronkite to protest such sloppy usage, but so far, no reply. How about you trying? — February Freak

Dear Feb: I sent your letter to Walter Cronkite who, incidentally, is a real pussy-cat. Across the top of your letter I wrote:

"Dear Walter: The lady is right. I heard you say it. Please clean up your act or get off the air."
Walter Cronkite telephoned his response. He let me know in no uncertain terms that his act doesn't need cleaning up. Moreover, he said he has no intention of getting off the air. Mr. Cronkite claims the dictionaries are divided as to the pronunciation of February.

I checked several reference books, however, and they all give Feb-yoo-ary as second choice. (See World Book Dictionary, Merriam Webster's New Collegiate, Funk and Wagnall's, American Heritage and Random House.) One of them even has Feb-yoo-ary as preferred, but Feb-yoo-ary IS acceptable, and that's the way it is, Monday, April 24th, 1978.

Dear Ann: I'm a 20-year-old female, very happy with life, in love with a terrific guy. My childhood was normal and I have a great relationship with my parents. So what's the problem?

I have a fear of telephones. Whenever I hear a phone ring my body tenses up, my heart races a mile a minute and my voice becomes shaky. I am very self-conscious about this, which makes me more nervous than ever.

I work part-time in a store and told my employer about this hang-up. He has been very understanding. The only time I have to answer the phone is when no one else is around — and thank heavens, this is almost never.

I can place a call without any trouble — it's answering that shakes me up. How can I conquer this crippling nonsense? — Bell's Stepchild

Dear Child: Buried somewhere in your subconscious is a very unpleasant experience related to a ringing telephone. Perhaps, long ago, you or someone close to you received some terrible news via the phone. You need to dredge up that terrifying experience and talk about it. I recommend therapy. If you can't afford a psychiatrist, check the mental health clinics in your area. (Look in the phone book.)

Alan: "It is so easy to complain about bad luck when your troubles really come from bad play."

Oswald: "South's ace of spades took East's king at trick one. South promptly led a club to dummy. East won with his ace and led another spade. South's ten led to West's jack and West continued spades."

Alan: "As South pointed out after the defense had collected their red aces, plus three spades, he would have made the hand if he had attacked diamonds since West held that ace. After all it had taken a 4-1 club break to defeat him."

Oswald: "South's analysis was incomplete. He should have attacked diamonds first and would have been sure of his contract the way."

Alan: "He should have led a heart to dummy at trick two and led a diamond from dummy. If East held the diamond ace and rose with it South would be sure of three diamond tricks. If East ducked South would shift to clubs and be sure of two clubs and one diamond. In any event the game would have been safe."

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Sometime ago I cut out, made up, and saved your "recipe" for tooth powder, using salt, soda, wintergreen or cloves.

My husband and I used it often — our sons hated it at the time, but now, they're grown up and love it.

Problem arises, however. We're down to the last spoonful and are rationing what is left.

I've torn every likely and unlikely place apart looking for the recipe. Have found scads of yellowed "Heloise" clippings, but not the tooth powder recipe.

Please reprint it as soon as possible so that we may have peace in this family and continue to have clean, healthy teeth and gums.

Thank you so very much, and a big smile for your lovely column. — Syble Engle

Flattery will get you everywhere... Seriously, since the "recipe" appeared in the column, we have received letters from as far away as Africa asking for a reprint and your letter was the clincher.

We decided to print it once more in answer to these many requests. And, gals and guys, if you haven't tried it, please do so, 'cause believe me, those of my friends who have, think it's out of this world. I think you will too, absolutely...

However, before you read any further, let me insert a word of caution:

Use a blender which has a glass container only — do not use plastic — to mix the ingredients in. The friction of the salt being blended may cause a plastic blender jar to be scratched.

You may be able to use an ordinary quart fruit jar in the place of the regular container should the one on your blender be plastic.

One other thing we've learned...

If you don't have a blender you can use a smooth beverage glass or bottle, and on a hard surface, roll the salt — a small amount at a time — until it is a fine powder. We used a piece of foil on a plastic-surfaced counter top. Worked just fine.

Now for the recipe...

First, pour 1 1/2 cups of salt (if you have sensitive teeth use half this amount), into your blender and turn it on high. Turn it off, and shake the container (with the lid on, of course), repeating the process of blending and shaking until the salt is pulverized into a fine, fine, powder.

Next, add a one-pound box of bicarbonate of soda (plain old baking soda, folks). Put the lid back on and blend some more. Shake the blender again, and blend some more until the soda and salt are completely mixed.

That's all there is to it, honeypots, unless you want to add some flavoring, and that's easy.

Divide the mixture in half and add one-eighth-ounce bottle of oil cloves to one batch and one-eighth ounce bottle of oil of wintergreen (available at your drugstore) to the other. Mix each container until well-blended. The aroma is fantabulous.

Now you have two different kinds of tooth powder at a cost of practically nothing.

The oil of cloves tastes good, but all my friends who have been testing it for me like the oil of wintergreen best. Tastes like eating mints, and leaves such a clean taste in one's mouth.

One friend said she didn't like the taste of the oil of cloves as it reminded her of going to the dentist! But she and her husband adored the oil of wintergreen.

Another friend who calls herself, "Heloise's testing block," put real vanilla in some of hers and even like that!

She keeps all three flavors in little plastic pill bottles on her shelf and says, "I use whichever one I am in the mood for!"

Guess it takes all kinds to make a world. (Thank the good Lord!)

Loves, do try this. What have you got to lose? A box of soda and some salt? You can cut the recipe in half if you want and only spend half that much! — Heloise P.S. This was OK'd by my periodontist...

THIS COLUMN was written for you... the homemaker. If you have a hint or a problem write to Heloise 235 East 45th St., New York, N.Y., 10017. Because of the tremendous volume of mail, Heloise is unable to answer individual letters. She will, however, answer your question in her column whenever possible. ### BAKED FISH MEDITERRANEAN

1 tbsp. margarine
1 1/2 to 2 lbs. frozen fish fillets
Salt and black pepper
1/4 cup dry white wine
1/4 cup water
1 tomato, chopped
2 tbsp. prepared mustard
Lemon slices
Melt margarine in large skillet. Season fish with salt and pepper. Roll up, jelly roll style, and place seam-side down, in skillet with margarine. Stir in wine, clam juice, tomato, and mustard. Simmer, uncovered, 10 to 15 minutes, turning occasionally and spooning sauce over fish, until fish flakes easily when pierced with a fork. Garnish with lemon. 4 to 6 servings.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

BY DR. GEORGE C. THOSTESON

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a cardiac patient and suffer frequent attacks of angina pectoris. I consume an average of 100 nitroglycerine tablets a month, but I frequently spill some and have even misplaced and lost bottles.

For some reason I cannot understand, my cardiologist refuses to prescribe more than 100 tablets a month. I would like to have a spare jar for my wife to carry for me, but he still refuses with no explanation. I certainly would not buy them unless I needed them.

I wonder if you would care to comment on this doctor's behavior (before I change doctors)? — A.J.

No need to panfry your doctor over this one. I can think of a couple of good reasons for his refusal:

1. Many medicines lose their potency with time, and nitroglycerine is one of them, particularly if not kept in a dark, well-sealed bottle.

2. This may be his way of being certain you see him for periodic checks, which with your history of frequent angina attacks seems necessary.

There's another reason connected with this matter of drug deterioration. If you kept a "spare" bottle you would have to sharpen up your inventory keeping. You would have to be sure the spare tablets were being used regularly and not allowed to remain unused for long periods. You admit you have had trouble keeping track of your single bottle.

My best advice is to find a second empty bottle and put in your traveling supply, being sure to see it is emptied periodically and refilled with fresh tablets. Mark "spare" on it.

There can be reasons for changing doctors. I don't think this is one of them.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like your thoughts on silicosis pulmonary disease, which my doctor says I have. What is the treatment? Will alcohol damage the lungs further? — Mr. J.K.

Silicosis results from entrapment of dust particles of a sandy nature (silica) within lung tissue. There is no specific treatment, but the condition can be helped. Medicine to dilate the bronchial tubes, inhalation of oxygen, and avoidance of smoking can keep symptoms at a minimum.

Alcohol in moderation will not damage the lungs further. You should avoid exposure to colds and other bronchial diseases as much as possible. If this condition is related to your environment you should wear a mask when exposed to the irritant.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: After my last child was born I developed an epigastric hernia. I can still feel the lump, which is a couple of inches above the navel. I've been told not to have more babies. What is your opinion? — Mrs. G.L.

I can agree with the advice, especially if you have no plans to have the hernia repaired surgically, although that will probably be necessary. This hernia appears because of a weakening of a tough fibrous band of tissue or a separation of muscle in that portion of the abdomen. It is often a defect present at birth and is aggravated by pressures of pregnancy and childbirth. If it doesn't heal itself, which is doubtful, it can enlarge and cause greater problems.

Don't hesitate to have it examined closely. Your future depends on the extent of the hernia and what you do about it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it possible to have a manual breast examination after having an enlargement done (a plastic sac)?
Mrs. J.I.

Yes.

Dear Doctor: Do you prefer allowing an infant to sleep in a dark room, or do you favor the night light? — K.M.

Either way is fine with me. If the tot has no objection to the darkened room, don't use the light. If he has, then a small night light will do no harm.

Is angina pectoris dangerous? Is there a cure? If you would like to learn more about this heart condition, write to Dr. Thosteson, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, booklet, "How to Handle Angina Pectoris." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

CRANBERRY BAKED DUTCH SALMON STEAKS

6 salmon steaks, each about 1 inch thick
Salt and pepper
4 cups seasoned mashed potatoes
1 cup (4 oz.) Edam or Muenster cheese, grated
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1 large onion, chopped
1 cup chopped celery
1 can (8 oz.) whole berry cranberry sauce

Place salmon steaks on a greased, foil-lined shallow baking pan, side by side in a single layer. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. In a bowl, mix mashed potatoes and cheese. Spoon mixture in a mound in the center of each salmon steak. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) for 25 to 30 minutes or until salmon flakes easily when tested with a fork and potatoes are lightly browned. In a saucepan, melt butter and cook onion and celery until soft, about 5 minutes. Stir in whole berry cranberry sauce. Simmer until bubbly. Season to taste with salt. Spoon this sauce over salmon steaks after they have been placed on serving plates. Garnish with parsley, if desired.

Fate Of Moro In Balance, Brigades Say

ROME (UPI) — The Red Brigades intensified their war of nerves with the government Sunday, refusing to give any hint of the fate of kidnapped ex-Premier Aldo Moro. But an attorney for the gang's jailed members said he was sure Moro "can be saved."

Panama offered to take in any terrorists released in a trade-off for Moro's life, but jailed Red Brigades leaders rejected the plan.

Deadline Passes

The Red Brigades, who kidnapped Moro from a Rome street March 16, warned last Thursday they would "execute" him at 3 p.m. (9 a.m. EST) Saturday unless the government agreed to release an unspecified number of Communist prisoners.

The government refused and let the deadline pass. There has been no word since from the Red Brigades.

In an early morning phone call to his ambassador to Italy, Panamanian chief of state Gen. Omar Torrijos said Sunday his government was "disposed to collaborate in any form to save the life" of Moro, who "has always fought to defend social justice in the world."

Panamanian Offer

Ambassador Luis Carlo Zarak said Torrijos instructed him to inform the Italian government that Panama was ready "even to receive in its territory such persons as might be necessary to the success of the effort to save the life of Aldo Moro."

But in Turin, Red Brigades leaders on trial for kidnapping and forming an armed band told their lawyers they would refuse to be party to any exchange since their duty was to "carry on the fight from inside prison."

"My combat post is here inside, not outside prison," Red Brigades founder Renato Curcio told his attorney, Giannino Guiso.

Government leaders refused comment on Italian press speculation that Guiso, who has made several quick trips between Rome, Turin and Milan during the past two days, was acting as a secret intermediary with the kidnapers.

Guiso, one of the few attorneys trusted by the extremist gang, shrugged off suggestions he had been asked to mediate but said he was sure "Moro can be saved."

Papal Intervention

"The intervention of the Pope and the appeal from the United Nations validly meet the preconditions for the suspension of the ultimatum," Guiso said. "They pave the way for the opening of real negotiations."

An aide to U.N. Secretary General Kurt

Waldheim told Italian television interviewers that Waldheim, who Saturday issued a personal appeal for Moro's life, was in constant contact with Italian officials and was "ready to fly to Italy if it seemed he could be useful in untangling the Moro case."

In Vatican City, Pope Paul VI, who earlier addressed an emotional appeal to the gang begging them "on bended knee to free Aldo Moro, simply, unconditionally," said he was still "trembling with fear" at the lack of news.

"We trembled yesterday as the deadline set by his self appointed judges and executioners passed and we are trembling with fear again today," the frail, 80-year-old pontiff told some 50,000 pilgrims assembled in St. Peter's Square for his noon blessing.

Lengthy Vigil

Hundreds of people stood in vigil outside Christian Democratic party headquarters waiting for news and signing public appeals to the Red Brigades to spare Moro's life.

Party officers emerged every half hour to announce the lack of any developments.

At the offices of the Roman Catholic church relief organization Caritas International, which has offered to intervene to save the 61-year-old, five-time premier, officials waited tensely by special telephone lines for word from the kidnapers.

Caritas said it had received hundreds of crank phone calls but none they took seriously.

signed to Dupre Elementary, Thompson Junior High or Lubbock High.

Once they have been accepted, however, they may request assignment to another school for special purposes, Parker said. In this way, a student from a surrounding town could apply for enrollment at Iles or Dunbar, he said.

Tuition for out-of-district transfer students is equal to the local per-pupil cost in the Lubbock district, Parker said. This year, the tuition was about $3 a day.

Parker said the Lubbock system usually gets 30 to 35 out-of-district transfers a year. In some years, the number has been as high as 80, he said.

The deadline for acceptance of transfer requests before May 1 also applies to school districts other than Lubbock, Parker said. Applications must be submitted to district in which the student wants to enroll.

Parker said the applications and deadlines should not be confused with requests for transfer of students from one school to another within the Lubbock Independent School District.

Mexico City Roller Coaster Destroyed

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Firemen blamed an electrical short circuit Sunday for a fire that heavily damaged one of the world's largest roller coasters.

Sixty firemen battled the fire, which destroyed half the roller coaster's wooden frame. No injuries were reported.

The fire broke out Saturday night after the roller coaster and other amusement rides in Chapultepec Park were closed for the day.

the Senate budget panel refused by a narrow margin to recommend such a reduction. That action could be overturned by the full Senate.

In addition to making several decisions on taxes, the Senate must set targets for federal spending during the new fiscal year, weighing the demands of the military, farmers, education, and welfare recipients against the need to reduce the deficit.

Reorganization Speedup Looms

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's campaign to reorganize the federal government is falling behind schedule and will undergo a top-level shake-out this week, administration officials say.

No personnel shifts are anticipated, but some reorganization projects are likely to be shelved and the whole effort will get a more business-oriented focus, the officials said.

Government officials working on the reorganization project said in a series of interviews last week that important initiatives have been delayed and the effort has begun to thrash about without clear direction.

Poor Organization Cited

Reasons offered for the delays include poor organization, sluggish action by Congress, opposition by Cabinet officials to losing any of their authority, and a tendency to distrust and repeat previous reorganization studies.

It was also apparent from the interviews that staff morale is beginning to suffer, although it received a boost last week from President Carter's efforts to end fighting in his Cabinet and his personal lobbying for civil service revision, considered the crown jewel of the reorganization project.

It also appeared that philosophical conflicts are beginning to emerge between budget chief James McIntyre and his top aide for reorganization, Harrison Wellford.

Greater Personal Control

McIntyre, a former Georgia state budget director, is asserting greater personal control over the operations of Wellford, who once was one of Ralph Nader's top aides.

"We've slipped some on our dates on reorganization, there's no denying that," said McIntyre, head of the Office of Management and Budget, the headquarters of the reorganization drive.

McIntyre said the reorganization effort has been spread too thinly, working on as many as 31 different studies at the same time. "In my opinion we cannot afford to go ahead with every study," he said.

He said he plans to make changes this week, narrowing the focus of the reorganizers, downgrading and possibly eliminating some less important studies.

Less Paperwork Planned

He said he intends to place more emphasis on reducing paperwork and federal red tape and reducing regulatory burdens on business.

McIntyre's idea of regulatory reform differs from that of Wellford, who advocates reducing governmental restrictions on rate competition in such industries as trucking, airlines, shipping and communications.

"I think Jim's view will prevail," said one OMB staffer.

If so the likely result will be more emphasis on such things as cutting the cost to businesses of pollution-control regulations and less on consumer-oriented initiatives.

Shifting emphasis "doesn't mean we're going to give up on reorganization," McIntyre said. "We're getting moving again. We had slowed down." He spoke of getting "back on track."

"Never Left Track"

Wellford doesn't feel the project ever left the track, but says it is reaching a natural point in its evolution after 15 months of work. "It's all been leading up to this year where we narrow it down to what are going to be the major legislative objectives of reorganization this term," he said in an interview.

But some of his own staff members express a different view.

"There's a certain amount of lack of communication," one staff member said. "The structural changes that reorganization promised are not taking place."

Another aide said, "The reorganization project is kind of a zoo. You get a lot of naive proposals."

Those two staff members, and others who agreed to talk candidly, did so only on the promise that they not be named.

Accomplishments Boasted

The record of reorganization so far is mixed. The administration claims credit for creating a new Department of Energy; for a reduction in federal paperwork; for reorganizing and shrinking the president's own executive office, and for reshaping our overseas public relations operations into a new International Communications Agency. Only the claimed paperwork reduction affects the public directly.

The president directed executive branch agencies to use clear language in writing regulations, to give greater public notice of any new regulations they are considering, and to consider the cost and impact of major proposals. McIntyre said he will begin an effort to enforce this order as part of this week's planned shake-out.

A reshuffle of civil-rights enforcement activities seems likely to clear Congress next month, and the administration's package of civil service revisions has at least a fighting chance of passing without major modifications this year. The administration, fulfilling a Carter campaign promise, has also endorsed a Senate bill to create a new Department of Education.

Allergies Provide Personal Poisons

allergic attacks.

A similar method is used to desensitize a person to allergenic agents. The doctor simply inoculates the patient bit by bit with the substances to which he is allergic. The body responds by building a tolerance for these agents. But this treatment, like some vaccine, works for a limited period of time and must be repeated over the years.

The surest way of avoiding allergic attacks is to avoid the thing or things you are allergic to. That may be simple when the culprit is shellfish, but very difficult when it is house dust or pollen.

Allergies are often belittled, and the plight of the allergic patients is sometimes the subject of a kind of sick humor. But there is nothing humorous about the pain and suffering of the allergic person.

Allergies cannot be ignored. A child seldom outgrows his asthma before it can cause serious damage to the bronchia tubes and the lungs. In addition allergies invite infection. The rash on the skin, scratched by an erring finger, is an invitation to bacteria. The mucous-filled sinuses and bronchial tubes are a perfect breeding ground for the agents of the common cold and other invaders.

While the secret ways of allergy response are not well known, research in recent years has uncovered some interesting mechanisms. And as researchers learn more about the ways the defense system goes astray, they will be able to tailor-make specific chemicals against abnormalities, and still let the body do its work.

Six Persons Die In Michigan Fire

BURTON, Mich. (AP) — Four children less than six years old were among six persons killed Sunday when an early-morning fire gutted their home, authorities said.

Burton Fire Chief Elmer Craft said the children ranged in age from 2 to 5 years and died of heat and smoke inhalation. The other two victims were women in their 20's, he said.

Two men who were inside the house at the time of the fire were in critical condition at Hurley Medical Center in nearby Flint, Craft said. One jumped from a second-story window and the other left through the front door, he said.

"We got the call about 4:38 a.m., but the house was totally engulfed in flames when we got there," Craft said. Burton is in Genesee County, in the eastern part of Michigan's lower peninsula.

Craft said the fire probably started "in the area of the first floor" but its cause remained under investigation.

Changes In Firearms Rules Opposed

able men to head this act off, before it becomes law. If it does become law, then freedom in this country," he wrote, "is at an end, once and for all."

Comments Invited

Trammel urged those concerned to make their comments known by writing the BATF director and mark letters "Comment for the record."

"Besides cost (sic) you the freedom to bear arms, it would cost the taxpayer about 100 million dollars a year to keep up with these records," Trammel wrote.

Nixon says the BATF received about 2,500 letters — many of them negative — in the days after the announcement was made in the Federal Register.

He claims the agency generally is an unpopular entity, if only for the areas it regulates.

"We've got the booze (alcohol), bombs (firearms) and (cigarette) butts," he muses. "All we'd need is prostitution and we'd have them all."

Nixon concedes that the first proposal, to stamp each firearm with a unique, serial number, would cost all domestic and overseas gun manufacturers, a total of $5 million "to tool up for one time only."

The cost per unit manufactured would be minimal, he says.

The first three digits of the number would tell the BATF who manufactured the gun, the next two would indicate what year the gun was manufactured or imported, the next two numbers would reveal the gun's gauge or caliber and the final seven would be a serial number.

Nixon says it doesn't seem likely, but the BATF has had occasions in which two guns — a domestic weapon and a foreign one — have had the same serial numbers and the proposed system would aim to eliminate that possibility.

The fourth proposal, which calls for each licensed manufacturer or importer to file a quarterly disposition report, would alert the BATF to possible illicit gun dealing.

If a gun dealer along the Mexican border were to report a large amount of weapon sales and transactions, in an area with little population for instance, the BATF would be interested, Nixon said.

Responding to charges that the new regulations would allow more "Big Brother" monitoring of citizens, Nixon said the BATF does not want to know the names of persons owning the guns or their addresses.

Nixon said the agency actually has had that capability since the Gun Control Act of 1968, but ordinarily has no need to know the names and addresses of private citizens who own firearms.

Before arming himself to shoot George Wallace on May 15, 1972, Nixon said, Arthur Bremer made sure he possessed no identification.

When Bremer's gun was recovered, Nixon said, the BATF called the gun manufacturer, then the wholesaler, then the dealer who sold the gun to Bremer.

"It took us 9 minutes and 12 seconds," Nixon said.

But it was a different story in the case of the so-called "Zebra killings" in California, Nixon said.

For most gunowners, Nixon said, the six proposals would be beneficial, rather than harmful.

Guns Recovered Quicker

"If people would think rationally, we could recover a gun more quickly and get it back to the rightful owner" with the proposals, Nixon said.

He admits, however, that the BATF's collective mind is not made up about the regulations.

He cites a recent query by a gunowner who asked what would happen if he received a gun with a unique serial number, then had it re-conditioned, re-fired and re-designed at the manufacturer. Would that be the same gun that originally was described when the serial number was issued?

"It's an excellent question," Nixon said, and the kind of question the BATF is seeking during the comment period. Some persons, including Rep. John Ashbrook (R-Ohio), believe the new regulations will allow the BATF ultimately to flout the second amendment to the United States Constitution.

The amendment reads "A well-regulated militia, being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear arms, shall not be infringed."

Clearly, there are others in his camp who agree.

Paynter is one of them.

"If you listen close (sic), you can hear your fellow American's (sic) saying the same thing. 'It can't happen here.' IT HAPPENS HERE, ON MAY 22, 1978!" he concludes in his letter.

Asians, Latin Americans Eager U.S. Immigrants

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Latin Americans and Asians have displaced Europeans as the people who most come to the United States in search of a new home, a State Department report shows.

The number of immigrants from Asia — particularly Filipinos, Koreans, Chinese and Indians — is growing much faster than those from Latin America and soon may become the largest group of foreign immigrants.

Europeans, who once made up the major immigrant group, still come to the United States, but more as tourists these days. Europeans, together with Japanese and Canadians, made up the bulk of the 3.7 million tourists and other non-immigrants who visited the United States in 1976.

All this emerges from the latest report of the State Department's Bureau of Security and Consular Affairs. The report covers fiscal years 1965 through 1976.

The report shows that a total of 377,896 persons entered the United States on immigrant visas in 1976, an increase of 90,000 over 1965 although slightly below the figures for 1973 and 1974.

During the decade, Latin Americans have formed the largest number of foreign immigrants. A total of 145,906 were admitted into the United States during fiscal year 1976.

The Philippines, South Korea, Taiwan, India and the nations of Indochina contributed to making Asia the second largest source of immigration in 1976 with 142,282.

But the Asians are outpacing the Latin Americans in the immigration growth rate. Thus, the 1976 figure is more than eight times larger than the 15,186 Asian immigrants who came in 1965.

By contrast, the number of Latin American immigrants in fact declined slightly from more than 146,000 in 1965 to just under 146,000 in 1976. Most came from Mexico, Central America and the Caribbean, and only about 15 percent from South America.

Immigration from Europe declined from 117,090 in 1965 to 74,060 in 1976. Africans are coming to the United States in growing numbers, 1,821 in 1965 and 6,683 in 1976, but they are still small compared to Latin Americans and Asians. Only 969 came as immigrants from the Pacific islands and Australia in 1965 and 2,993 in 1976.

The contrast between countries that are sources of immigrants and those that generated the largest number of tourists and other nonimmigrant visitors is shown in a list of the top 10 visa-issuing foreign cities for each category.

Nine of the 10 cities where more people apply for immigrant visas are in Asia with Manila heading the list. London is the 10th.

On the other hand, Tokyo and London have the busiest U.S. consulates as far as applications for non-immigrant visas are concerned. Other big tourist-application cities are in Canada, Australia, Venezuela, Mexico and Brazil.

Late Postcard Nets World War II Memento

NEW YORK (AP) — In 1945, Col. Cyrus H. Maxwell boarded the S.S. General Richardson in Marseilles, France, along with 7,000 other soldiers for a voyage home.

"I was the first ship back," he said.

The ship arrived in Boston Harbor for a welcome by crowds, fire boats shooting towering water streams and a Red Cross package of "sweet milk and a cookie."

Maxwell headed for his home in Delmar, N.Y., where a few months later he received a postcard from Press Association, Inc. of New York, a subsidiary of The Associated Press.

"Do you remember your homeward trip aboard the S.S. General Richardson?" the postcard asked. "Wouldn't you like to have a recent picture of this ship in her troopship riggings? Something for the family album, something to show your friends, something you can point to in years to come and say 'Here's the ship I came home on.'"

"If you would like this photograph, just mail the attached card — the charge of $1.31 for handling, enlarging and mailing can be paid at the time of delivery."

Recently — more than three decades later — Maxwell mailed the card back. And he got his photograph.

And he wrote out a check for $1.31.

"Better late than never," Maxwell, now 78 and living in Bethesda, Md., said in a telephone interview.

"I just found that card and sent it in," he said. "I thought I was wasting a nine-cent stamp. It was a one-cent card. I had to put a nine-cent stamp on it. But, it went through the mail."

Paul Clifford, an AP executive who received the card, mailed a picture of the ship to Maxwell with a note: "We were beginning to think you'd never respond."

"It was kind of cute," Maxwell said of the note.

"I was going through the junk in my desk and I found the card. It was one of the things undone so I thought I'd sent it in."

"I didn't send the check with the card because I just thought it would be wasting time, but they returned the photograph and I sent the $1.31. The picture was appreciated."

"I thought the kids might want to see the picture of the boat that I came home on. I went over on the George Washington."

Maxwell almost tested the alertness of the U.S. mail. "I wanted to put the card in the mail and see what they'd do with it."

Barroom Boast Leads To Stolen Paintings

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — A barroom boast of a "big theft" gave police the break they needed to recover a Rubens masterpiece and nine other paintings stolen in one of Italy's most daring art heists, authorities said Sunday. Three suspects were arrested.

Peter Paul Rubens' "The Three Graces" and the other works, also Flemish, were found undamaged early Sunday and returned to Florence's famed Pitti Palace museum just two days after they were stolen, police reported. Their value has been estimated at more than $1 million.

Police said they arrested Franco Mefiti, 29, and Giovanni Manfredi, 31, the alleged thieves, and attorney Franco Brogi, 37, who was accused of masterminding the operation. The three were jailed on charges of theft and conspiracy, police said.

Police said the break in the case came Friday, the day of the heist, when a man later identified as Mefiti spoke in a bar about a "big theft" at the Pitti Palace. Manfredi was seen with Mefiti, they said.

Investigators, tipped to the remark, searched the apartments of the two men and found undisclosed evidence that led them to the paintings in the trunk of Bro-gi's car, police said. They said Mefiti and Manfredi were questioned and confessed Saturday evening, but the lawyer denied any connection with the theft.

The recovery was one of the fastest ever in Italy, long plagued by art thefts, mainly in unguarded museums and churches. In some instances, years were required to find the stolen art. Other cases remain unsolved.

This was the first theft at the Pitti, which was built in the 15th century and has served as a museum since 1640. Its collection of more than 500 masterpieces from the 16th and 17th century, including priceless Raphaels and Titians, is world-renowned.

Police said the thieves used a ladder to climb from the museum courtyard to a roof, where they broke a skylight sometime between 3 a.m. and 6 a.m. Friday. Descending by rope ladder between the guards' inspection tours, the thieves pulled the paintings off gallery walls in the Palatine wing, where burglar alarms were being installed but were not yet in operation.

The guards must control many galleries and it takes two to three hours for them to tour the whole building.

The Rubens was the most important of the stolen masterpieces. It is a 23-by-14-inch painting on wood of three sister goddesses — Aglaia, Euphrosyne and Thalia — embracing in the nude. In Greek mythology, they were the goddesses of pleasure, charm, and beauty.

Police said the thieves' selection of the Flemish paintings when more valuable works were at hand led authorities to believe the heist was "filling an order."

The Pitti and Florence's other major art gallery, the Uffizi, house some of the richest art collections in the world and each year are visited by hundreds of thousands of tourists.

The Pitti Palace, a massive building whose stately apartments served as reception rooms for the Medicis and later the House of Savoy, is on high ground on the left bank of the Arno River and escaped the 1966 floods that heavily damaged art works in the city.

Among its best-known attractions is the statue of the Medici Venus, which Italy shipped to the United States for the bicentennial celebration in 1976.

years of unsuccessful hospital efforts to revive him. He lapsed into the coma after being hit by a car leaving a village dance Dec. 12, 1955. With some nursing help, she has watched him day and night, feeding him through a stomach tube.

Sen. Henri Caillaud has put forward a draft law which would give terminally ill patients the right, under stringent safeguards including their prior written authorization, to ask doctors not to use extraordinary methods to keep them alive.

Gary Player Back To Old Tricks

Bean Falters In Final Round

THREE TIME WINNER — Gary Player displays his $40,000 check for winning the Houston Open Sunday. Player, who has won his last three starts now, ended the tournament with a 271, 17 under par. (AP Laserphoto)

HOUSTON (AP) — The little man in black did it again. The deficit this time once reached five shots before South African Gary Player uncorked his customary "Sunday Magic" and stormed from well off the pace to make the Houston Open Golf Tournament his third consecutive victory.

"Do you have to be lucky to win three in a row?" someone asked Player, long noted as one of the game's hardest workers and most dedicated competitors. "Yes," said Player, straight-faced as could be. "And it's amazing, isn't it? The more you practice the luckier you get."

Player, who came from seven shots off the pace to win the Masters and Tournament of Champions in his two previous starts, claimed a rare third title in a row with a 3-under-par 69 in the final round. There was little luck involved in it. He missed only one green and saved par three with a 6-foot putt on the 14th "which may have been the shot that won the golf tournament," he said.

He became only the 10th man in history to win three consecutive titles. "I was very much aware of it," Player said. "It's a nice record to have. I've now won six of my last nine (including foreign events). That's my hottest streak since 1974, which was my best year ever."

Player won this one by a single shot over Andy Bean, who started the hot, humid day with a 3-stroke lead, once built it to five then lost three on the pivotal ninth hole alone.

"I got it in the woods and made double bogey," shrugged Bean. "I can't be gloomy about it. I just got to tee it up next week and try to win there."

Just as he had done the last two weeks, Player finished playing ahead of his closest challenger, this time Bean, and had to watch and wait to see if he would be a winner again. He cradled his five-year-old daughter Amanda on his lap while Bean missed a 15-birdie putt on the final hole that would have tied it. The 6-foot-4 Bean finished with a final-round 73 and a 271 total.

Player became the first man in two years to win three consecutive titles. His 270 was 18 strokes under par for the lush 6,997-yard Woodlands Country Club course and the best score on the pro tour this year.

The victory was worth $40,000 from the total purse of $200,000 and increased Player's three-week winnings to $130,000, surpassing his season's earnings in any of the 22 years he has played the American tour.

It marked only the second time he's won three times in a single season and made him the first man since Hubert Green in 1976 to win three consecutive titles. And the little South African became the first foreign player to win three in a row in this country since Bobby Locke, another South African, did it in 1947.

Bill Kratzert, who birdied four holes in a row at one stretch, played his back nine in 30, closed up with a 66 and tied for third at 272 with chunky Bob Murphy. Murphy shot a 70 in the 80-degree weather.

Mike Teid, with a 67, was next at 274.

Veteran Kermit Zarley and 21-year-old rookie Jack Renner followed at 275. Zarley shot a 66, Renner 71.

Lee Trevino had 70-277. Arnold Palmer was 72-284. PGA king Lanny Wadkins was 73-284. Defending titleholder Gene Littler blew to a 76 and a 281 total.

Bean expanded his lead to five shots with early birdies on the third and fourth holes, but bogeyed the next while Player reeled off a string of eight consecutive pars at the start of the day's play.

Bean, whose only previous victory came in the 1977 Doral Open, had a four-stroke advantage going to the ninth. But Player birdied the hole in front of him and Bean hooked his drive into the woods, tried to play out to the fairway but caught a bunker instead. He flew his third shot over the green, chipped back and 2-putted for the double bogey that cut his margin to a single shot.

It stayed that way, even though Player and Bean had to make some clutch saves, until Andy missed the green and bogeyed the 14th.

Now they were even. Player got his second in a bunker on the par 5 16th. But the 5-foot-7 South African, long noted as one of the world's greatest sand players, blew it out to two feet and made the putt that put him in front.

Bean came along right behind him, also got in a bunker in two and came out to three feet. He, too, birdied. And they were still even.

But Gary birdied the 17th, from some 18 feet, and went ahead alone. Bean missed the green and had to chip close to save par.

Sixers Complete Sweep Of N.Y.

By The Associated Press

Doug Collins scored 24 points and Julius Erving added 23 as the visiting Philadelphia 76ers beat the New York Knicks 112-107 Sunday and completed a four-game sweep of their National Basketball Association quarter-final playoff series.

In other playoff action Sunday, San Antonio fell to Washington 98-95, giving the Bullets a 3-1 edge in their best-of-seven; Milwaukee trounced Denver 143-112 to even the series at two games each; and Seattle whipped Portland 99-84, leaving the Sonics with a 2-1 edge.

Philadelphia, which dealt New York its first 4-0 blanking ever in a scheduled seven-game playoff series, next will meet the winner of the Washington-San Antonio series for the Eastern Conference championship.

The game was by far the closest of the four between the teams, but Philadelphia was able to erase an early 13-point deficit and take control in the second half.

Philadelphia had trouble getting its offense untracked and fell behind 50-37 midway through the second quarter as Bob McAdoo scored 14 points, helping New York to its fast start.

By halftime, however, the 76ers had closed the gap to 59-57, and they drew even when center Caldwell Jones hit a jumper opening the third period. Erving led the 76ers' surge with seven points in the second quarter.

BUCKS 143, NUGGETS 112

Rookie Marques Johnson scored a career-high 35 points, 10 in Milwaukee's 40-point third quarter spree, leading the Bucks to a playoff victory over the visiting Denver Nuggets.

Junior Bridgeman scored 22 points and Brian Winters had 20 for the Bucks, who will try and even the best-of-seven Western Conference semifinal series at 2-2 Tuesday night at home.

David Thompson, Dan Issel and Bobby Wilkerson scored 16 apiece for the Nuggets. But Thompson, the NBA's No. 2 scorer with an average of 27.2 points per game, missed nine of his first 10 shots.

and scored only 11 points in the first three quarters.

Johnson worked free inside for four baskets in the first 5:13 of the second half as the Bucks, penetrating the Nuggets' lane-jamming defense much better than in the teams' first two playoff games, stretched their six-point halftime lead to 75-62.

Wilkerson, who scored 10 points in the third quarter, helped pull the Nuggets within 76-68. However, Alex English sank two short baskets from the baseline and David Meyers added four free throws in a run of 10 successive Milwaukee points as the Bucks built their lead to 86-68 with 3:14 left in the period.

The Bucks hit 64 per cent of their third-quarter field goal attempts and carried a 96-76 lead into the last 12 minutes.

BULLETS 98, SPURS 95

Elvin Hayes hit on a slam dunk with 46 seconds left and then blocked a George Gervin layup to give the Washington Bullets a victory over the San Antonio Spurs to take an almost insurmountable 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven quarterfinals.

The series continues in San Antonio Tuesday night with a sixth game, if necessary, here Friday night.

Hayes, who had 23 points, took a pass from Larry Wright and then hit on the dunk to give the Bullets a 96-95 lead, the first advantage they had in the game.

San Antonio got the ball to Gervin, the game high scorer with 35 and the No. 1 scorer in the NBA, who drove for the basket and looped an underhanded shot which Hayes knocked back with 30 seconds remaining.

Washington then attempted to run the clock out but Charles Johnson was fouled with 11 seconds remaining and made only one free throw. After San Antonio missed once more, Bob Dandridge, who led the Bullets with 26 points, also dunked a ball at the game's end.

The Bullets, who have now won three in a row after dropping the opener of the playoffs, got off to a slow start and were fortunate to end the half trailing 47-43, getting four quick baskets within the final seven seconds before intermission.

SEATTLE 99, BLAZERS 84

Veterans Fred Brown and John Johnson ignited a second-half scoring explosion that propelled the Seattle SuperSonics to a nationally-televised victory over the Portland Trail Blazers and a 2-1 lead in their playoff series.

The fourth game of the best-of-seven Western Conference semi-final series is set for Wednesday night in Seattle.

After a miserable first half in which the Sonics shot only 22 percent to Portland's 42 percent, Seattle came out gunning in the third period and ran off a 20-8 spurt, capped by Paul Silas' 10-foot hook for a 64-51 lead with 3:58 remaining. Johnson, who finished with 18 points, all in the second half, pumped in eight in that streak.

Brown's running jumper off the backboard at the buzzer gave Seattle a 71-62 cushion after three periods.

The Sonics continued their impressive shooting and rebounding at both ends of the floor in the final quarter, piecing together a 22-12 run, for a commanding 93-74 lead with 2:56 left to play. Brown and Johnson each scored 10 points in that streak.

NCAA Plans Probe

LExINGTON, Ky. (AP) — An investigation will be carried out to determine if All-American defensive end Art Still violated NCAA rules by hiring an agent before his last college football season at Kentucky, a school spokesman said.

"No way can the university be held responsible for something like this," said Kentucky Athletic Director Cliff Hagan. "We can verify the facts in the matter and that's about it."

Former Ohio State star Matt Snell, now a player agent working out of New York, accused Still of trying to break a contract agreed to last fall, according to a story by Bill Brubaker in Friday's editions of the Miami News.

Snell told the Florida newspaper that a verbal agreement was reached before the season began and a contract signed at the completion of Kentucky's 10-1 season. Still said he signed a contract in August, according to the published report.

Either kind of agreement — verbal or written — is a violation of NCAA rules, officials say.

Still later signed with Mike Trope of Los Angeles, the story said. Trope is the agent who represented 1976 Heisman Trophy winner Tony Dorsett and presently has 1977 Heisman winner Earl Campbell under contract as well.

AIAW Tourney Set Today

SMU's Mary Beth Murph had trouble with the first hole, but after that...

Miss Murph tore into the front nine at Meadowbrook Golf Course with a 4-under-par 32 in warming up for the State AIAW Golf Tournament to be held at Meadowbrook starting today.

Play will begin at 9 a.m., and "If anyone is interesting in seeing some golf women's golf, this will be the place," said Meadowbrook pro-Tech women's golf coach Jay McClure.

Nine teams will be participating in the tournament, with SMU, Texas, Houston Baptist and Lamar University expected to fight it out for the state collegiate golf championship. The teams are among the best in the nation in women's collegiate circles.

In addition to the four top teams, the field will have Texas A&M, TCU, Sam Houston State, Stephen F. Austin and the hostess Tech team.

After going bogey-birdie-bogey on the first three holes of her first look at Meadowbrook, Miss Murph proceeded to tie into a string of birdies which led to her 32, the best of the girls trying out the course.

Another score posted in warmup was the 76 by Houston Baptist's Sherry Donovan who had a 76.

In addition to trying out the course, the women golfers had to contend with a Sunday turnout of 471 golfers over the municipal layout.

Portland Must Blaze Without Star Center

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Bill Walton is out for the rest of the season with a broken foot, but the Portland Trail Blazers are counting on chutzpah to make up for the loss of their star forward.

The break in Walton's left foot was discovered when it was x-rayed Saturday. Blazer team doctor Robert Cook said the break occurred during Friday night's 96-93 playoff victory over the Seattle SuperSonics at Memorial Coliseum.

Coach Jack Ramsay told the rest of the Blazers of Walton's loss before a practice session at the coliseum. "They took it well," Ramsay said. "The attitude was positive. They showed a 'let's do it anyway' attitude."

But even the best of attitudes may not be enough to pull the Blazers through. Walton's loss reduced the 1977 NBA champs to a nine-man roster for Sunday's third game of the best-of-seven series against the Sonics at Seattle. Forward Bob Gross still is recovering from a stress fracture of his left ankle.

Under NBA rules, the Blazers could add one player to their playoff roster only if the roster were reduced to eight players.

Walton missed the final 22 games of the regular season, and the Blazers lost 14 of them. He returned in the opening game of the quarterfinal series with Seattle, scoring 17 points and grabbing 16 rebounds in a 104-95 loss.

He played 15 minutes and scored 10 points in Friday's game, before his foot became so sore to run on.

"Obviously, our team is at its best when Bill is playing, but only when he is playing effectively," said Ramsay. "In the last two games, he wasn't able to play his best. He wasn't able to get up and down the floor."

"Under the conditions, I think we'll play better as a team because we know what Tom (Owens) can do," the coach added. "This will eliminate the uncertainty."

The Blazers left for Seattle Saturday afternoon, but Walton remained behind. He withdrew to his Portland home and was not available for comment.

Owens was moved back into the starting lineup for Sunday. He said he was surprised to get the news of Walton's broken foot.

"This doesn't mean we're dead, absolutely not," said Owens. "We'll have to play some excellent basketball in order to win, but we can do that. We have done it. We just have to keep together."

Walton was plagued by foot problems starting in early February. He played in his last regular-season game on Feb. 28, a 113-92 home win over Philadelphia.

Less than a week later, the 6-foot-11 forward had surgery to relieve a nerve condition in the toes of his right foot. He was having pain in the arch of his left foot at the same time, but that was expected to clear up.

Cook said Walton's break is on the tarsal navicular below the left ankle on the inside. He said it was not related to the pain Walton had been having in the arch of the same foot.

"Bill put quite a bit of demand on his feet in coming back from his injuries, and this was a stress-type development from that," said Cook.

Walton had an injection on the outside of the foot before Friday's game and ran reasonably well early in the contest. Cook said the injection would not have made it possible for Walton to put extra pressure on the bone, causing the fracture.

"The area of the break was not numbed," Cook said. "If it had been, he wouldn't have felt the pain until much later than he did."

Walton's foot will be in a walking cast for about six weeks.

The former UCLA star's professional career has been marred by injuries from the start. He played only 86 games out of a possible 164 in his first two seasons and the Blazers failed to make the playoffs either year.

Cats Within Rules, Barely

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The University Interscholastic League got a glimpse recently at the "secret" of Houston Wheatley's basketball success.

The black Wildcats, winners of the 1978 championship, have captured five Class 4A state schoolboy titles since the UIL tournament was integrated 11 years ago.

Wheatley won the first integrated tournament in 1968.

Coach Jackie Carr was an assistant then, and now he is the head coach.

Wheatley basketball was tested off the court last week by the UIL's state executive committee.

They questioned Carr and principal A.C. Herald Jr. about anonymous tips that Wheatley had broken UIL rules by playing more than two games a week, excluding tournaments.

Such a violation would have forced Wheatley to forfeit its 1978 title, probably to runnerup San Antonio Fox Tech, which lost to Wheatley in overtime, 84-83.

The nine-member committee cleared Wheatley, however, on an 8-1 vote.

Although it requested that the staff investigate whether Wheatley had submitted a list stating that certain players were eligible, UIL director Bailey Marshall said the new probe most likely would not threaten Wheatley's championship.

"They could always say we lost the list," Marshall said, "and we may have."

What worries Marshall most is the manner in which Carr — operating strictly within the rules — shuttles 25-30 players between the "varsity" and "junior varsity."

Marshall thinks it gives Wheatley an advantage, and he doesn't think it will be good for high school basketball if other teams copy Carr.

"The best boys play from week to week," Carr told the committee. "It depends on who's doing the best in practice. If they get up there and mess up, they go back. Nobody can get to the varsity and say, 'I've got it made.'"

Not only does the shifting sharpen the Wildcats' talents, it serves as a disciplinary measure, Carr says.

"If there's a good player and he's cutting classes, he drops back to the JV (junior varsity)," Carr said.

The Houston Independent School District will not permit seniors to play JV basketball, but outside of that restriction Carr can use a player in a "varsity" game one night and a "junior varsity" game later as long as he does not play more than two non-tournament games a week.

Carr admits he waits "until the first district game to declare my varsity. After that, they don't go back anymore (to the JV)."

Keeping track of the different squads and schedules — there is even a sophomore team — "is an amazing administrative feat, and I mean that as a compliment," said committee chairman Tom Hatfield, a former community college president.

Marshall is not so impressed. "By splitting the squad, all 25 or 30 players get experience against top-notch competition," he states. "Other schools are not doing it, but they're going to say, 'Hey, it's going on one place and they're gaining an advantage.'"

The shuffling results in an inferior team occasionally beating a squad they consider the Wheatley "varsity," which, in Carr's mind, may be the JV.

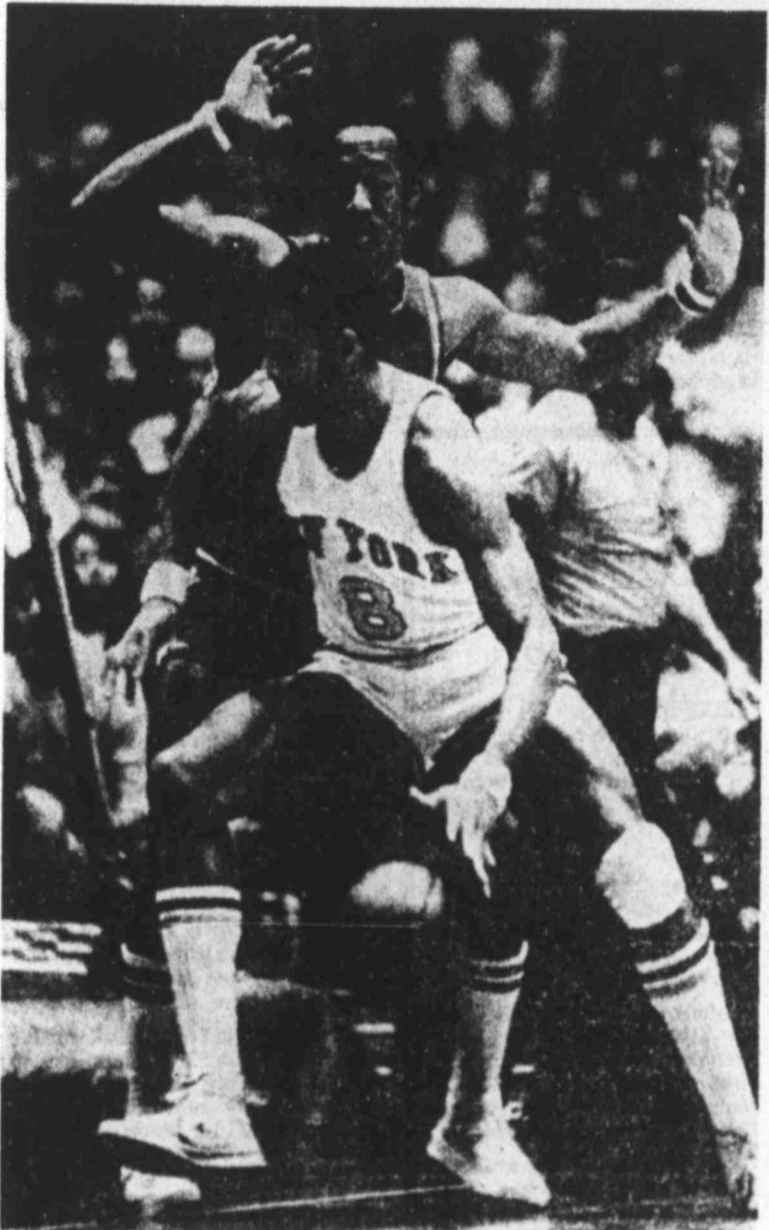

Marshall was instructed to review the two-game limitation, and the review could lead to a new interpretation of the rule, or a rule change, that would stop what Wheatley is doing.

"Other schools at least should know who they are playing — the varsity or the JV," Marshall said.

"We've been on top for a long, long time," said Herald. "We keep beating people on the floor and they say, 'Wheatley keeps winning. They must be crooked.' I have no animosity toward the league (UIL). They police us because they don't understand why we keep winning."

Robinson, Long Triumph

Rex Robertson birdied the final hole to provide the winning margin in the Pinehills Partnership Golf Tournament.

The birdie lifted Robertson and partner Steve Long to a 1-stroke lead and the championship over the charging duo of Al Clary of Wilson and Jimmie exaa of Levelland.

Clary and Johnson ahead fired the day's best round, an 8-under-par 64 for a 129 total.

And the two had finished and waited at the 10th green as Robertson and Long played out Robertson's birdie, which was worth a 6-under-par 66 and a 128 total for the two-day tournament.

Long and Robertson had the first-round lead after an opening 62. Sunday, Long and Robertson played without a bogey, getting six birdies. The strong, w-z winning stretch came midway of the round as they went birdie-birdie-birdie-par-birdie on holes 9 through 13.

Cougs Nab SWC Crown

TYLER, Texas (UPI) — Terry Snodgrass captured the Southwest Conference golf championship by a single shot Sunday and led his Houston Cougars teammates to a stunning final round performance and the team title over second-round leader Texas.

Houston trailed by four going into the final round but the Cougars shot an 11-under 27 for the third tour of the Briarwood Country Club course to finish with a 54-hole total of 86. It was the fifth straight year Houston has won or shared the SWC crown.

Texas finished second at 87, followed by Texas A&M at 89, Arkansas 89, TCU 89, Baylor 90, SMU 90, Rice 91 and Texas Tech 92.

Nastase Falls

HOUSTON (AP) — Brian Gottfried mastered the exaggerated spin shots of Romanian Iie Nastase for a 3-6, 6-2, 6-1 victory Sunday in the finals of the $175,000 World Championship Tennis tournament at River Oaks Country Club.

Gottfried earned $30,000 for his effort. He started slowly, a victim of his own inconsistent forehand and the spins Nastase put on his shots with a specially strung racket that has the four middle strings unwoven.

ONE-IN-ONE

Jack Wheat collected a hole-in-one Sunday at Hill Crest Country Club on the number five hole, a 187-yard par 3. On-lookers were Pete Felton, A.J. Carpenter, G.A. Fardin and Tom Hille.

14. Roger Hornby, Chevrolet, 448.

Johncock Nabs Trenton Title

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Gordon Johncock, driving one of the few four-cylinder powered cars capable of running with the V-8 Cosworths, won the Trenton 200-mile race for Indianapolis cars at the Trenton Speedway Sunday.

The veteran championship car driver's victory was made easier by a scoring error on the part of the United States Auto Club, sanctioning body for the Indianapolis-type racing.

Danny Ongais, driving the Interscope Racing Team's Parnelli-Cosworth, made a lengthy pit stop for a tire change late in the race. Although Johncock accumulated nearly a full lap lead over the Hawaiian-born driver, USAC scoring continued to list Ongais as the race leader and, during subsequent caution periods, he was not allowed to pass the pace car and close up on the rear of the field.

The pace car is supposed to pick up the lead car during caution periods.

Despite the problems, Johncock ran a spirited race, with none of the other cars capable of catching him in the late going.

Vel Miletich, owner of Ongais' car, filed a protest with USAC after the race, asking that Ongais be given second place. He finished fourth, according to USAC scoring.

Although USAC officials conceded that an error in scoring had been made and the pace car was instructed to lead the wrong race car, they said there was no remedy to the error and the results would stand.

The victory was Johncock's second win of the year — he also won the season opener, a 150-mile race at Phoenix (Ariz.) Raceway.

A.J. Foyt, driving a Wildcat DGS, was second and Tom Sneva, who set a new track record in qualifying was third.

Tom Sneva, who set a track record in qualifying, was the early leader, but fell off the pace and finished third.

After the first 30 laps of the 134-lap race on Trenton's 1 1/2-mile asphalt track, it was a two-man battle between Johncock and Ongais. On the 43rd lap, Ongais took the lead for the first time.

In lap 67, Johncock sprinted past Ongais after turning up the "boost" on his engine's turbocharger. His chief mechanic, George Bignotti, said later that caution periods enabled the team to conserve enough fuel to gamble on the higher turbo pressure, which produces more horsepower, but sharply increases fuel consumption. The cars are limited to 115 gallons of fuel for a 200-mile event.

Ongais was 8.5 seconds behind Johncock when he pitted on lap 99. A lengthy delay, as the pit crew struggled to change a tire, enabled Johncock to circle the track and make his own pit stop just as Ongais was about to pull back onto the track.

It was here that USAC scoring began to list Ongais as the leader, although he was nearly a lap off the pace. It took 27 laps for the USAC to decide it was in error and to notify the Ongais team. By then it was too late for Ongais to make up the difference.

Ongais, who had won the past two Indianapolis-type races, at Ontario, Calif. and Texas World speedways, was posted in fourth spot behind Johncock, A.J. Foyt and Sneva.

Lopez Retains Title

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Unmarked Danny "Little Red" Lopez, who intends to remain busy in the ring, overwhelmed Brazilian challenger Jose DePaula in scoring a sixth-round knockout to successfully defend his World Boxing Council featherweight championship at the Olympic Auditorium Sunday afternoon.

"I don't want to lay off too long," said Lopez, who appeared completely relaxed just moments after his one-sided victory. "I'd like to fight again soon, maybe in June. I want to keep busy."

"I just want to hang on to the title as long as I can and make some money," continued Lopez. "Maybe I'll fight Ernesto Herrera next. I don't know. It just doesn't matter."

Lopez said there were no surprises Sunday and although he got off to what he called a slow start, he was never worried.

"After I hurt him, in the second round I knew it was just a matter of time," said the champion. "I was confident all the way."

The bout was stopped at 1:30 of the sixth round with Lopez battering the defenseless challenger at will. It appeared that referee Dick Young was about to stop the bout when a towel was thrown into the ring from DePaula's corner.

ONE-IN-ONE
Mike Phelps fired a hole-in-one on the second hole at Treasure Island, using a wedge Sunday. Looking on were Ron Porter and Bill Bilitie.

Rangers On Track, Halt Losing Skid

By The Associated Press
Richie Zisk drilled a home run into the lower left field seats in the 11th inning Sunday to power the visiting Texas Rangers to a 2-1 victory over the Detroit Tigers as the clubs split a doubleheader.

In the first game, Detroit designated hitter Rusty Staub had a pair of singles, drove in three runs and scored two himself to pace the Tigers to a 9-6 victory.

The Texas victory in the nightcap, which broke an eight-game Rangers' losing streak, went to reliever Len Barker, 1-1, who took over after starter Jim Umberger worked the first nine innings.

Detroit's Jim Crawford, 1-1, was tagged with the defeat after he relieved Dave Rozema, who also started and went nine full innings. The loss snapped the Tigers' five-game winning skid.

Detroit scored in the first inning on three singles, Mickey Stanley crossing the plate on a sharp single to left by John Workman.

Bump Willis tied it for the Rangers as he led off the eighth with his first home run of the season. Zisk's homer was his fourth.

The game was played in a steady drizzle. It had been scheduled for Friday but was played as part of a Sunday doubleheader because of extreme cold and wet grounds Friday.

single the go-ahead run home. Gary Carter, who had received an intentional walk, scored on a single by Parrish.

Starter Steve Rogers, 2-2, went 62.3 innings for the Expos before leaving with a blister on a finger of his pitching hand. He gave up five hits while walking seven and striking out 11, tying a personal career high in that department.

PIRATES 14, CARDS 7
Dave Parker and Rennie Stennett each drove in three runs, leading the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 14-7 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in the first game of a doubleheader.

The Pirates led 5-4 in the second game when play was suspended after six innings by mutual agreement so the Cardinals could catch a plane connection to Montreal.

The second game, a makeup of a game that was rained out Thursday, will be resumed and completed before the next scheduled Pirates-Cardinals meeting in Pittsburgh June 26.

The Pirates took a 4-0 lead in the first inning of the opening game off loser Bob Forsch, 3-1, in his first appearance since his no-hit game a week ago against Philadelphia.

Parker doubled home the Pirates' first run, and Bill Robinson, Stennett and Ed Ott added run-scoring singles. After Omar Moreno's two-run double chased Forsch in the second inning, Parker sliced a two-run homer over the left field wall off Pete Vuckovich.

BREWERS 3, YANKS 2
Larry Sorensen scattered five hits over the first eight innings. Ben Oglivie hit a second-inning home run off Catfish Hunter and Sal Bando delivered a 2-run single, leading the Milwaukee Brewers to a 3-2 victory over the New York Yankees.

Sorensen, 2-1, a 22-year-old right-hander, blanked the Yankees and had retired 16 batters in a row until Reggie Jackson homered with one out in the seventh. He walked one and struck out two, getting Thurman Munson for the final out in the eighth inning following Mickey Rivers' run-scoring double.

Sorensen gave way to Bob McClure at the start of the ninth inning.

ROYALS 6, O's 5
Hal McRae's eighth-inning solo homer provided the winning run after he hit a two-run double in the sixth to break a 3-3 tie as the Kansas City Royals outlasted the Baltimore Orioles 6-5.

McRae belted a Tippy Martinez pitch for his fifth home run of the season. The tie-breaking double by McRae scored rookies Clint Hurdle and Willie Wilson, pinning the defeat on Baltimore reliever Tim Stoddard, 0-1.

The Royals pulled into a 3-3 tie on a two-run single by Darrell Porter off Dennis Martinez in the third. Porter has hit safely in each of Kansas City's 12 games. The Royals also scored in the second as Fred Patek hit into a force play with the bases loaded.

DODGERS 7, ASTROS 3
Rick Monday slugged his eighth home run and drove in three runs to lead a 12-hit Los Angeles attack as the Dodgers defeated the visiting Houston Astros 7-3.

Don Sutton, 2-1, earned the victory while giving up eight hits, four for extra bases, including Bob Watson's first home run of the year.

The Dodgers took a 6-2 lead after three innings. Reggie Smith had a sacrifice fly and Ron Cey and Dusty Baker smashed run-scoring singles in the first inning as the Dodgers jumped to a 3-0 lead against loser Joe Niekro, 1-2.

REDS 2, GIANTS 1
George Foster's infield hit with the bases loaded in the 10th inning gave the Cincinnati Reds a 2-1 victory over the San Francisco Giants in a game played before a Bat Day crowd of 50,510, the biggest in San Francisco Bay Area baseball history.

Joe Morgan's major league record streak of consecutive games without an error for second basemen came to an end as he made a wild throw past first in a rundown situation in the second inning.

TRIBE, BOSOX SPLIT
Carlton Fisk doubled home the tie-breaking run and George Scott followed with a two-run double in the eighth inning as the Boston Red Sox defeated the Cleveland Indians 6-3 in the first game of a doubleheader.

In the second game, Cleveland roared back to post a 10-7 win.

CUBS 3, METS 2
Joe Wallis' single with two out in the 12th inning drove in the winning run as the Chicago Cubs defeated the visiting New York Mets 3-2.

Bobby Murcer opened the Chicago 12th with a bunt single down the third base line and went to third on Dave Rader's two-out single. Wallis followed with his game-winning blow to left-center field just beyond the reach of a diving Lee Mazzilli.

Willie Hernandez, 2-0, pitched the final two innings to get the victory. Butch Metzger, 0-1, took the loss.

The Mets had sent the game into extra innings tied at 2-2 on Steve Henderson's solo home run off Bruce Sutter in the ninth.

ERRORESS STREAK ENDS — Cincinnati second baseman Joe Morgan starts after the ball he dropped on a throw from first baseman Dan Driessen as they attempt to catch Giant

Jack Clark in a rundown in the third inning Sunday at San Francisco. The error ended Morgan's errorless streak at 91 games for a new major league record. (AP Laserphoto)

PADRES 5, BRAVES 4
Shortstop Daryl Chaney's second error of the 12th inning allowed the San Diego Padres to score their winning run and beat the Atlanta Braves 5-4.

With one out in the 5th, George Hendrick was safe when Chaney bobbled his ground ball. One out later, Bill Almon and Ozzie Smith followed with infield singles to load the bases.

Atlanta pitcher Eddie Solomon then wild-pitched Hendrick home to tie the game at 4. Jerry Turner was walked intentionally to reload the bases and Gene Richards then hit a slow roller to Chaney, who threw the ball away, allowing Almon to score the winning run.

Dave Weismister, 1-0, got the victory in relief. Solomon, 0-1, was the loser.

JAYS 4, CHISOX 0
Jesse Jefferson tossed a three-hit shut-out and the Toronto Blue Jays struck for a pair of runs in each of the first two innings to defeat the Chicago White Sox 4-0.

John Mayberry's two-out double scored Bob Bailor and Rico Carti, after both singled, with Toronto's first two runs.

The Blue Jays scored two more in the second inning. Rick Bosetti's two-out double delivered Rick Cerone and, after Bailor was hit by a pitch, Roy Howell greeted reliever Rich Hinton by slapping his first hit up the middle to score Bosetti.

Ralph Garr, with a double to open the game, Clet Lemon, with a one-out single in the fourth, and Wayne Nordhagen, with an infield hit in the eighth, were the only White Sox players to collect hits off the 28-year-old right-hander, now 1-2.

A's 5, MARINERS 0
Mike Edwards drove in three runs with a triple and a single and John Johnson hurled a six-hitter as the Oakland A's dominated the Seattle Mariners 5-0.

Oakland, which posted its 10th victory in its last 11 games, has won seven straight from the Mariners and remains only percentage points behind the Kansas City Royals in the battle for first place in the American League West.

Edwards rapped a line drive to deep right-center in the fifth, chasing home Tony Armas and Miguel Dilone, both of whom had singled. Edwards easily scored from third on Mario Guerrero's single.

Gary Alexander then doubled off the left fielder Bruce Bochte, scoring Guerrero to cap a four-run burst.

Edwards had singled home Armas in the third after the latter beat out an infield single and was sacrificed to second by Dilone.

EXPOS 5, PHILLIES 2
Dave Cash, Ellis Valentin and Larry Parrish drove in runs in a 3-run sixth inning as the Montreal Expos defeated the visiting Philadelphia Phillies 5-2 to complete a sweep of a 3-game weekend series.

The Phillies led 2-1 when Warren Cromarite led off the sixth against loser Jim Lonborg, 1-2, with a single. Cash doubled in a run, and two outs later, Valentin

PIRATES 14, CARDS 7
Dave Parker and Rennie Stennett each drove in three runs, leading the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 14-7 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in the first game of a doubleheader.

The Pirates led 5-4 in the second game when play was suspended after six innings by mutual agreement so the Cardinals could catch a plane connection to Montreal.

The second game, a makeup of a game that was rained out Thursday, will be resumed and completed before the next scheduled Pirates-Cardinals meeting in Pittsburgh June 26.

The Pirates took a 4-0 lead in the first inning of the opening game off loser Bob Forsch, 3-1, in his first appearance since his no-hit game a week ago against Philadelphia.

Cancer Symposium Scheduled Two Days This Week At Tech

A symposium on rapid detection and prevention of cancer and the role of nutrition in relation to the disease will be conducted at Texas Tech University Thursday and Friday.

The symposium on Cancer, Nutrition and Rapid Detection Systems will bring five of the nation's leading authorities on the subjects and one from Great Britain to the campus to join five Texas Tech scientists for presentations.

"The symposium is designed to provide a timely and useful update on recent developments that will have a strong impact on the prevention of cancer," said I. Cecil Felkner, Ph.D., director of the Institute for Mechanisms of Carcinogen Action, Texas Tech. "It is a fact that what we eat can have an effect upon our susceptibility to cancer."

Medical doctors, nutritionists, dietitians, nurses and professional persons in related areas are invited to the two-day session, to be held in the Coronado Room of the University Center.

Objectives of the symposium are to teach participants how rapid screening techniques can identify potential carcinogens in the environment, how the presence of potential carcinogenic substances might be clinically demonstrated in healthy individuals, how nutrition may affect cancer development and how the effects of nutrition may be assessed by a rational-experimental approach.

This continuing medical education offering meets the criteria for nine credit hours in Category I of the Physician's Recognition Award of the American Medical Association. Application has been made for nine elective hours by the American Academy of Family Physicians.

The first day's program will be devoted to rapid detection systems, Felkner said.

Speakers for that day include Vincent F. Simmons, Ph.D., manager, Microbial Genetics Program, Department of Toxicology (formerly the Stanford Research Institute) SRI International, Menlo Park, Calif.; Dr. Felkner; Bryan J. Kilbey, Ph.D., D.Sc., reader in genetics, Department of Genetics, Edinburgh University, Great Britain; and Marvin S. Legator, Ph.D., director, Division of Environmental Toxicology and Epidemiology, University of Texas Medical Branch, Galveston.

Second day speakers are Frederick F. Beckner, M.D., chairman Department of Anatomical and Research Pathology, University of Texas System Cancer Center, M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute, Houston; Bandaru S. Reddy, D.V.M., Ph.D., head, Nutritional Biochemistry, Naylor Dana Institute for Disease Prevention, American Health Foundation, Valhalla, New York; W. Robert Bruce, M.D., Ph.D., professor of medical biophysics, University of Toronto, Ontario Cancer Institute; and S.P. Yang, Ph.D., professor, Department of Food and Nutrition, Texas Tech.

Other Texas Tech scientists who will participate include J. Knox Jones Jr., Ph.D., vice president for Research and Graduate Studies; Pili-Son Song, Ph.D., Department of Chemistry; and Harry F. Sproat, M.D., chairman, Department of Pathology, School of Medicine.

The symposium is sponsored by Texas Tech University's Institute of Food Science and Nutrition, Colleges of Agricultural Sciences, Arts and Sciences and Home Economics and the Office of Research and Graduate Studies; the School of Medicine's Office of Continuing Education, and the Food and Fiber National Institute of Achievement.

Heartline

(HEARTLINE is a service for senior citizens of all ages. Its purpose is to answer questions and solve problems — fast. If you have a question or a problem not answered in these columns, write Heartline, 114 E. Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. Senior citizens will receive prompt replies, but a stamped, self-addressed envelope must be included with the request. The most useful replies will be printed in this column.)

HEARTLINE: I will soon be 62 years old. Would you suggest that I retire early and take reduced Social Security benefits or should I wait until I am 65 to receive my full benefits? — S.F.

This is a question you must answer yourself. However, Heartline feels you should consider the following factors in regard to your Social Security benefits:

1. If you start drawing Social Security at age 62, you are receiving three additional years of income from it, but this income would be 20 percent less yearly than if you waited until 65 to begin drawing.
2. If you wait until 65 to draw, you would receive full benefits, but the money you lost during the three years you did not draw Social Security will take 12 years of drawing to regain (based strictly on income from Social Security).
3. You must decide if a reduced Social Security rate will be sufficient to meet your present and future monetary needs or if the full benefit will be necessary.

We also feel there are many factors not related to Social Security you must consider: the amount of money you would lose by leaving your present job; your present health condition; your desire to continue working; the effect early retirement will have on your private pension plan, if you have one.

These are just some of the questions a person must consider before retiring. Since everyone's situation is different, there will probably be additional questions involved for you, and you are the only one who can answer them. You must weigh the answers to these questions carefully in your own mind, and then make the decision as to when to retire.

HEARTLINE: What is disability income insurance? — B.K.

This type of health insurance helps to replace earnings lost because of physical disability. Some of these policies provide coverage for accidents only; others cover both accident and sickness. Companies offer many kinds of disability income policies, which usually pay on a monthly basis. The amount of insurance an individual can purchase is generally a percentage of his income (60 percent of his gross earnings, for example).

HEARTLINE: My husband has retired from the railroad with 28 years of service. How old must I be to receive a wife's benefit? — K.T.

If he retired after 1974 and he is at least age 62, you can get a reduced spouse annuity at age 62 or a full annuity at age 65 or any age if you have a minor or disabled child in your care. If he retired before 1975 with less than 30 years' service, he must be 65 before you can be entitled to an annuity. Under those circumstances you can still get a reduced annuity at age 62 or a full annuity at age 65 or at any age if you have a minor or disabled child in your care.

Better Mousetrap Invented

MARIETTA, Ohio (AP) — Upon retirement, George Oakes declined to work crossword puzzles and spurned the activities other residents at his nursing home engage in, so he turned to inventing.

Oakes, 91, has taken out a patent on what he calls a better mousetrap.

It's better, cleaner, simpler and can be sold cheaper, he said. "I've tested it down on the farm. I don't think there is anything like it with only two pieces."

Oakes said he used only hand tools to build the trap from sheet metal. He said trapped rodents can be released just by separating the arms of the trap.

"I should hope it would be a selling agent to the women," he said of the release procedure.

Among his other inventions are a tire chain that can be put on a car without jacking it up, and a device to fill fountain pens.

Tossers Miss Chip Mark

BEAVER, Okla. (AP) — Cow chip tossers endured the agony of defeat when they attempted to set a new distance mark at the World Championship Cow Chip Throwing Contest here during the weekend.

Stiff northerly winds blew the cowchips — dried cattle manure — around the outdoor arena in this Panhandle town. As a result of the winds, cow chip tossers turned in their poorest showing since 1974, failing to top 140 feet with any toss.

About 1,500 spectators turned out to watch the competition of athletic skill Saturday, the ninth annual world championships.

Bob Fleming, of Taylorville, Ill., won the men's world championship title, tossing a cow chip 139 feet.

Patty Bruce of Beaver was the top woman among the tossers, managing to throw a chip 85 feet.

Last year, Art Koster of Winona, Kan., threw a chip 190 feet en route to his championship title. This year, his best throw was less than 99 feet.

Arab Language Digest Revived

NEW YORK (AP) — A Reader's Digest Arabic language edition, halted 11 years ago, will be revived this year, magazine president John A. O'Hara said Sunday.

The original "Al Mukhtar" Arabic edition of the monthly magazine was started in 1943 and reached a peak circulation of 116,000 before its publication was suspended in 1967, he said.

"With the infusion of petrodollars, the Arab community has become not only a more prosperous but also a much more sophisticated market of able-to-buy consumers," O'Hara said in explaining the decision to resurrect the Arabic language edition.

Nahar International Publications, Ltd., of Paris will publish the Arabic edition for Reader's Digest and distribute the magazine in the principle 22 countries of the Arab world, he said.

Cash Stashed Before Crash

VICKSBURG, Miss. (AP) — Mack Leach and his wife Olie May found more than stuffing when they ripped into an old rummage sale mattress to make pillows.

Tucked among the feathers was a stack of money totaling $960, apparently stashed away and forgotten nearly 50 years ago.

Leach said the issue dates on the bills ranged from 1902 to 1929, the year the stock market crashed and the Great Depression began. He said the cash included $5's, $10's and $20's, with one $50 and one $100 bill.

Disco Dream Comes True

In 1969 the only one who knew Thelma Houston had a solo album was probably her mother. But by 1976 anyone who turned on his AM or dropped into a disco knew who the sultry screamer was.

Disappointment went down the drain when "Don't Leave Me This Way" finally brought Thelma her first million seller and put her in the spotlight of disco drama.

"It means, wow, I really do exist as a singer. I do count," says Thelma in Disco magazine.

Thelma also comes to the defense of the rhythmic music that launched her, which some detractors call complacent and mindless. "I think disco is very good is going on there. It gives a good psychological lift to people."

"You go to a disco — and I'm speaking from my own experience because I love to go dancing — and you can be depressed or maybe not feeling too good and you get there and the music takes over. You don't think about anything or dwell on your low mood. You go there to unleash all that pent-up energy. Sometimes I go and spend maybe four or five hours dancing non-stop."

Civil War Display Set

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — The public will have a chance to see the original Constitution of the Confederate States of America on Confederate Memorial Day on Wednesday.

The 12-foot-long scroll, saved from possible destruction by a South Carolina newspaperman who salvaged it from looters at a Chester, S.C., train depot, will be displayed at the University of Georgia Library.

Written on calkskin sheets 28 by 31 inches long and glued to form a single scroll, the century-old manuscript is susceptible to damage from light and is shown only on special occasions. The rest of the time it is stored in a copper tube sealed in a vault in the library's special collections department.

The Constitution was modeled after its Union predecessor and was drafted by a committee of 12. But it is recognized as being mostly the work of Thomas R.R. Cobb, an Athens attorney and a Confederate leader in Georgia.

The University of Georgia acquired the document in a large collection of materials donated in 1938 by Wymberley Jones DeRenne of Savannah, owner of Wormsloe Plantation. DeRenne was archivist in the university library for several years.

DeRenne's father bought the document in 1883 from George Hanning of New York, who was acting for the previous owner, Felix deFontaine, a South Carolina newspaperman and Confederate war correspondent.

YMCA Building Hit By Fire

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Fire burned through one end of the 10th floor hallway in the downtown YMCA early Sunday, forcing residents to flee the 245-room building and sending three persons to the hospital.

Fire Chief Clarence Niemerfroth said he is "suspicious" of the cause of the fire, which spread smoke through the top three floors.

A one-gallon can marked flammable was found near the doorway of an unoccupied room that was being used as a storeroom by men doing carpeting work in the building.

Many residents on the 10th, 11th and 12th floors leaned out of windows to get air, some shouting for help. At least two tied bedclothes together into ropes in case they had to climb out their windows.

Men and women residents of the building were evacuated from their rooms and waited in pajamas and robes in the lobby while firemen fought the fire and cleared the building of smoke.

Israel Cool To Treaty With U.S.

By RICHARD C. GROSS

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Israel should not be expected to embrace enthusiastically any formal American proposal to sign a mutual defense pact that would ensure its security needs in a peace agreement with the Arabs.

Carter administration officials broached the possibility of such a pact with the Israelis during Prime Minister Menachem Begin's March talks in Washington but the United States did not make a formal proposal.

Begin said if such a proposal were forthcoming Israel would consider it, but that's all. There was no enthusiastic response to the American suggestion, which was made public by Secretary of State Cyrus Vance.

Vance said President Carter would ask Congress for such a pact if he thought a mutual defense treaty would be the lynchpin needed to allay Israeli fears of security resulting from a peace agreement that would include near total withdrawals from occupied Arab territories.

One diplomat said he thought a mutual defense pact would be the key to get Israel to compromise with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat so the peace process could move forward. But his assessment may not be accurate.

For one thing, a mutual defense pact would mean in all probability the establishment of American air or naval bases — or both — in Israel. The Israelis have reacted coolly to past suggestions about a U.S. naval base at the Mediterranean port of Haifa.

Israeli leaders, including Begin, have said through the years they did not want American servicemen on their soil, though Israel was quite content to receive U.S. weaponry in whatever amounts the Americans would give it.

The point of this approach is that Israel does not want the United States to be in a position where it would have more of a controlling influence on Israel than it has at present with the leverage it exerts as Israel's chief armorer.

"We do not prefer security arrangements to be the main point of a peace settlement," one Israeli official said.

"It's a whole question of whether the superpowers should get involved in this part of the world," an Israeli official said.

Animators Recall Careers With Disney Studios

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Walt Disney called them The Nine Old Men, the term Franklin Roosevelt used for the Supreme Court in the 1930s.

They were Disney's team of immensely talented animators, the men who helped create all the studio's features, from "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" to "The Jungle Book."

Recently Walt Disney Productions gave a party for four of the Nine Old Men — Ollie Johnston, Eric Larson, Wolfgang Reitherman and Frank Thomas. The reason was the forthcoming re-release of "The Jungle Book," the last cartoon feature Disney worked on before his 1966 death. The party was a good occasion to catch up on what has happened to the nine pioneering animators.

All of them came to Disney in the early 1930s, some with architecture and art degrees but unable to find jobs in the Depression. They were drawn to the studio by the startling creativity of the Mickey Mouse cartoons, "The Three Little Pigs" and other Silly Symphonies. Walt was hiring talented young artists by hundreds, aiming towards his dream of a feature-length cartoon.

While many animators were lured away by other cartoon studios, the nine stayed with Disney — and stayed. The work may hold some secret of longevity; only one of the original nine has died — John Lounsbery in 1976.

Milt Kahl, whom many consider the greatest of animators, retired after creating one of his most inspired characters, the mad Medusa of "The Rescuers." Ward Kimball left the studio a few years ago; like Kahl, he was displeased with how things were run after Walt's death. Marc Davis, who helped create classic rides at the Disney parks, departed recently from WED, the corporation's "imagineering" arm.

The last of the nine to remain in animation were Frank Thomas and Ollie Johnston.

"We both retired earlier this year," said Thomas. "We told the studio a year ago that we wanted to quit. We agreed to stay on and help the new kids get started on the next feature, 'The Fox and the Hounds.' We helped on the characters and did some of the early animation.

"Now Ollie and I are just as busy writing a book about all of the things that were developed in animation here at the studio."

"After the first two weeks of retirement, I felt totally adjusted," added Johnston, who spent 45 years making figures on drawing paper come to life. "I got awfully tired of all the meetings; that's a main reason why I wanted to quit. Now I can come back to the studio and watch the other guys suffer."

Larson and Reitherman remain at the studio. For several years Larson has been in charge of the training program, instructing young recruits in the Disney way of animation. "I think this new crop is okay," said the veteran. "They're different from the way we were, but they're talented and eager."

Woolie Reitherman continues as producer-director on the animated features, overseeing the entire operation. He has no plans to quit.

"As long as I enjoy what I'm doing, I'll keep at it," he said. "We must be doing something right. 'The Rescuers' was the number-one moneymaker in France last year and the number-one of all time in Germany. That makes you feel pretty good."

The trouble with animation is the cost, he added. "The Rescuers" ran $7.5 million because of a couple of false starts. "The Fox and the Hounds," due in 1980, is likely to run $8.5 million because of escalating costs.

Shirley Temple Black Celebrates 50th Year

Shirley Temple Black, who lit up Depression-era screens as Hollywood's best loved child star and tap-danced her way to four Academy Awards, hit the half-century mark Sunday.

And if the millions of fans of such movie oldies as "Good Ship Lollipop," "Little Miss Marker," and "Heidi" gave out with a collective groan for her lost youth — and theirs — Mrs. Black seems to have aged well.

A Republican activist, former diplomat and current member of three corporate boards, Mrs. Black spent her birthday quietly — in contrast to her movie heyday when she would be showered with all the glitter 20th Century-Fox could muster.

She said she spent the day with her wealthy businessman husband of 28 years, Charles, putting around their Tudor-style home and tending to their garden, where they grow vegetables, roses and fuchsias.

The day was expected to be interrupted only by a routine business dinner planned for late in the evening.

"Yes, I received a present from my husband — but I'm not going to tell you what it is," the buoyant Mrs. Black said by telephone from her mansion on the San Francisco Peninsula.

"No, I haven't heard anything about a cake, but the family all remembered me."

Back in the '30s, the dimpled moppet's birthday was more than just a family event. One film-industry birthday extravaganza produced 135,000 gifts from all over the world.

Mrs. Black gave up her movie career for marriage and a diplomatic career. She was ambassador to Ghana and to the United Nations in the Nixon administration and served under President Ford greeting foreign luminaries as U.S. chief of protocol.

She admits she would like another ambassadorship if the GOP regains the White House. In the meantime, she is devoting a lot of time to studying the normalization of U.S. relations with China.

A mother of three, Mrs. Black in 1972 became one of the first famous women to announce that she had undergone a mastectomy.

U.S. Reruns Seen On Asian TV Screens

SINGAPORE (AP) — The pretty American with long hair at Kuala Lumpur's Subang Airport looked familiar to one of the baggage porters. "Charlie's Angels," he whispered to a colleague.

Western visitors to a new housing project in Jakarta were greeted by streeturchins chanting "Hello, Mr. Mannix."

Descendants of borneo headhunters watch "The Muppet Show" in their jungle longhouses.

And a bald Singaporean says he "decided to go along with the joke" and lick an occasional lollipop after friends started calling him "Kojak."

American television fare is alive and well and being re-run half-way around the world from New York's network row.

For many in Southeast Asia, the programs are a daily delight. Others worry about the influence and excesses of imported TV.

"Millions of Asians turn on their television sets each night to be greeted by a potpourri of violence, perversions and sundry sordidness, much of it imported. ... Asian television stations are at the mercy of American productions and there is no sign yet that these are about to improve," said Asia Week, a regional newsmagazine.

Labor leader C.V. Devan Nair complained that Singapore's youth is neglecting the written word and picking up unsuitable speech.

"Learning to speak like Steve McGarrett of 'Hawaii Five-O' or like the Bionic Woman is of no help in communicating with your fellow man, except perhaps to irritate them," he said.

Sometimes the assumption that TV reaches most people in Southeast Asia proves incorrect.

William Porter, a former U.S. ambassador to Vietnam, told Congress in December of an elaborate plan to beam propaganda into Cambodia from a TV transmitter built into an airplane. Porter said "Operation Blue Eagle" flopped when it was discovered that there were only three receivers in the country, all in the chief of state's palace.

Cambodia and other parts of Indochina aside, most of the region is covered by the tube, with The Philippines the most saturated.

Five of the country's 27 channels are in metropolitan Manila. The Broadcast Media Council, a regulatory body, estimates that in metro Manila, with a population of almost 8 million, 65 percent of the 976,000 households have sets.

Most channels are on the air from 10 a.m. to 1 a.m. Telecasts are in color and the stations privately owned under close government supervision.

American offerings include "Charlie's Angels," "Six Million Dollar Man," "Wonder Woman" and "Combat."

There are an estimated 600,000 black and white sets and 100,000 color units in Thailand, a country of 38 million. They are served by four provincial stations and four color channels in the capital. One survey reports 80 percent of the sets are switched on each day.

Programming generally is from noon to midnight weekdays, the shows starting at 9 a.m. on weekends and holidays.

American serials and feature films lead the hit parade followed by children's serials from Japan and locally produced horror shows, musicals, drama and Thai-style kick boxing matches.

"Charlie's Angels" and "Wonder Woman" head the latest ratings. "Star-sky and Hutch," "Six Million Dollar Man" and "Mannix" are also in the Top 10.

There is a shorter broadcasting day in Singapore, Malaysia and Indonesia, where all channels are operated by the government.

The "New Mickey Mouse Club" made its Singapore debut recently. Oldies include "The Phil Silvers Show" and "Elery Queen." More modern fare includes "Bionic Woman," "Starky and Hutch" and "The Donny and Marie Show."

About 80 percent of programs on Singapore's two channels are in color. Viewers in this island nation of 2.2 million also are able to watch shows from two channels in neighboring Malaysia.

Kuala Lumpur's two black and white channels go on the air late weekday afternoons with a reading from the Koran and close in the same manner before midnight. The influence of Islam is also apparent in the censoring of love scenes: married couples may be seen kissing, unwed persons may not.

"Kojak," "Bonanza," "Peyton Place" and "The Beverly Hillbillies" entertain Malaysians.

Indonesian officials say their nine black and white TV stations and 11 relay units reach 78 million of the country's 135 million people. Once idyllic Bali alone boasts 10,000 sets.

"Star Trek," "Six Million Dollar Man" and, of course, "Mannix" are popular.

Ramp Sales Booming In Appalachian Hills

HAREWOOD, W.Va. (AP) — Louise Foster became a roadside merchant this spring, peddling a sweet mountain delicacy that some folks say tastes like heaven and smells like hell.

"We've got two prices," she said, pointing to parallel rows of paper bags stacked neatly beside her truck. "The little bags are a dollar-fifty and the big bags are two dollars."

Peeping from each bag were bunches of long, broad leaves, faintly reminiscent of green onions. But they weren't onions, of course. They were ramps.

A cousin of the lily, ramps abound in the Appalachian mountains, popping up each March. Generations of hill folk have cherished them as a delectable spring tonic. They are especially revered in Nicholas County, where residents annually conduct a reeking rite of spring known as a ramp festival.

"My sons dug these ramps," said Louise, watching the traffic on U.S. 60 as she spoke. "Everybody digs them up at Craigsville, where we come from, but not too many people dig ramps down here in Kanawha County. That's why we're here. We sold 42 bags last weekend and we came back with 80 more this week."

Accompanying her were two sons, Raymond and Keibert Jr., and Keibert's wife, Carol, all of Craigsville, in Nicholas County.

"My old man stayed home," said Mrs. Foster, a smiling woman who has 11 children. "He's disabled. It happened right down there, at that mine."

She pointed down the highway toward the Semet-Solvay tippie shute that comes down the mountain and crosses Route 60 at Harewood.

"That happened back in '69," she said, turning to help a customer who wanted a big bag of ramps.

"Business has been good today," she added, pocketing the two dollars. "We've only been here about two hours and we've already sold 40 bags. If we keep this up, we'll be able to go home before the day's out."

While Mrs. Foster likes to earn a little extra money selling ramps, she admits she's not too keen on eating them.

"My husband just loves them, though," she said. "He likes them in hamburgers. Myself, I think they're best in fried potatoes."

Keibert Jr. was eating a bologna sandwich as his mother talked. A chip off the old block, he had garnished the sandwich with a couple of big, juicy ramps.

A pungent aroma hung over the young man as he munched his meal.

"I just finished one of those sandwiches," said Carol Foster, watching her husband as he ate. "I put ramps on mine, too. I had to, out of self-defense."

Forsan Tops Class B Contests

LEVELLAND (Special) — The University Interscholastic League (UIL) Literary Contest for Region I, Conference B, held at South Plains College here Friday, ended with Forsan the overall winner.

Meadow took second, with Happy a close third. Individual awards in informative speaking went to Dan Pulsipher of Happy, first; Sammy Ray of Imperial second; and Willis McCutcheon of Fort Davis, third.

Persuasive speaking winners were Cindy Simpson of Meadow, first; Darryl Birtenfield of Nazareth, second; and Lisa Hensley of Gail, third.

Janet Johnson of Jayton took first in poetry interpretation, followed by Connie Dean of Groom, second, and Joni Stuart of Channing, third.

In prose reading, Kim Lemon of Ropesville took first, Susan Jan Martin of Ackery took second and Cynthia Thiesen of Follete took third.

Competition in newswriting ended with Susan Corbett of Sanderson in first place and Vicki Richardson of Follete in second place. Feature writing ended with Lucy Thixton of Forsans, in first place and Lissa Foster of Happy in second place.

Judges declared John Harwood of Adrian as first place winner in editorial writing and Ben Britten of Groom as second place winner.

Lissa Foster of Happy claimed first place in headline writing and Marka Highley of Forsan took second.

Awards in number sense went to John Rhodes of Sundown, first; Mark Tate of Lenorah second; and Michael Corcoran of Follete, third. "Of Poems, Youth and Spring" presented by Channing High School, was selected as the top one-act play, and Meadow's "The Marvelous Adventures of Tyl" was given second place honors.

Ready writing results were: John Harwood of Adrian, first; Tony Brockman of Nazareth, second; and Susan Corbett of Sanderson, third.

Mark Tate of Lenorah took first in science competition, as Kevin Lindsey of Textline placed second while Johnny Day of McLean and James Sanderfer of Fort Davis tied for third place.

Top shorthand contestants were Mandy Smith of Miami, first; Lance Johnson of Garden City, second; and Susan Skaggs of Adrian, third.

In slide rule, Kyle Osborne of Smyer took first, Ernest Morgan of Forsan took second and Carolyn Moudy of Happy took third.

Spelling results were: Mandy Smith of Miami, first; LaRhonda Carrier of Jayton, of second; and Brenda Williams of Wheeler, third.

In typewriting, Danise Schwartz of Garden City, was first; Kelly Howard of Mobeetie, second; and Nellie Ivey of Imperial, third.

Top debate teams were Ron Roberson and Steve Cowley of Forsan, first. Don Roberson and Carie Poynor of Forsan placing second, and Glynda Burkett and Janna Love of Gail taking third.

ent that New York drug officials said was needed in a simple test for paraquat poison.

Officials of New York State's Division of Substance Abuse had suggested a test requiring just two "readily available" chemicals to detect the presence of paraquat, a herbicide used to kill marijuana. It has been reported that some Mexican marijuana is tainted with the substance, which can cause respiratory failure and irreversible damage to the kidneys and other tissues.

Bill Synder, an aide to Gov. Hugh Carey, said the officials who announced the test "misspoke themselves." They had said that the two chemicals were easily obtainable — one is sodium bicarbonate (baking soda) and the other is sodium dithionite, which they said was used in fixing solutions and therefore available in most photo stores.

Callers to The Associated Press agreed with Synder: sodium dithionite is not, after all, available at most photo stores. It is, however, available at chemical supply stores. Although the state officials said the test was a simple one that could be conducted at home, Synder added that even if smokers could find both chemicals, they shouldn't try to do the test themselves unless they had a background in chemistry.

The test involves washing the amount of marijuana in one cigarette in five cubic centimeters of water, agitating the solution for 15 minutes, then straining the leaves.

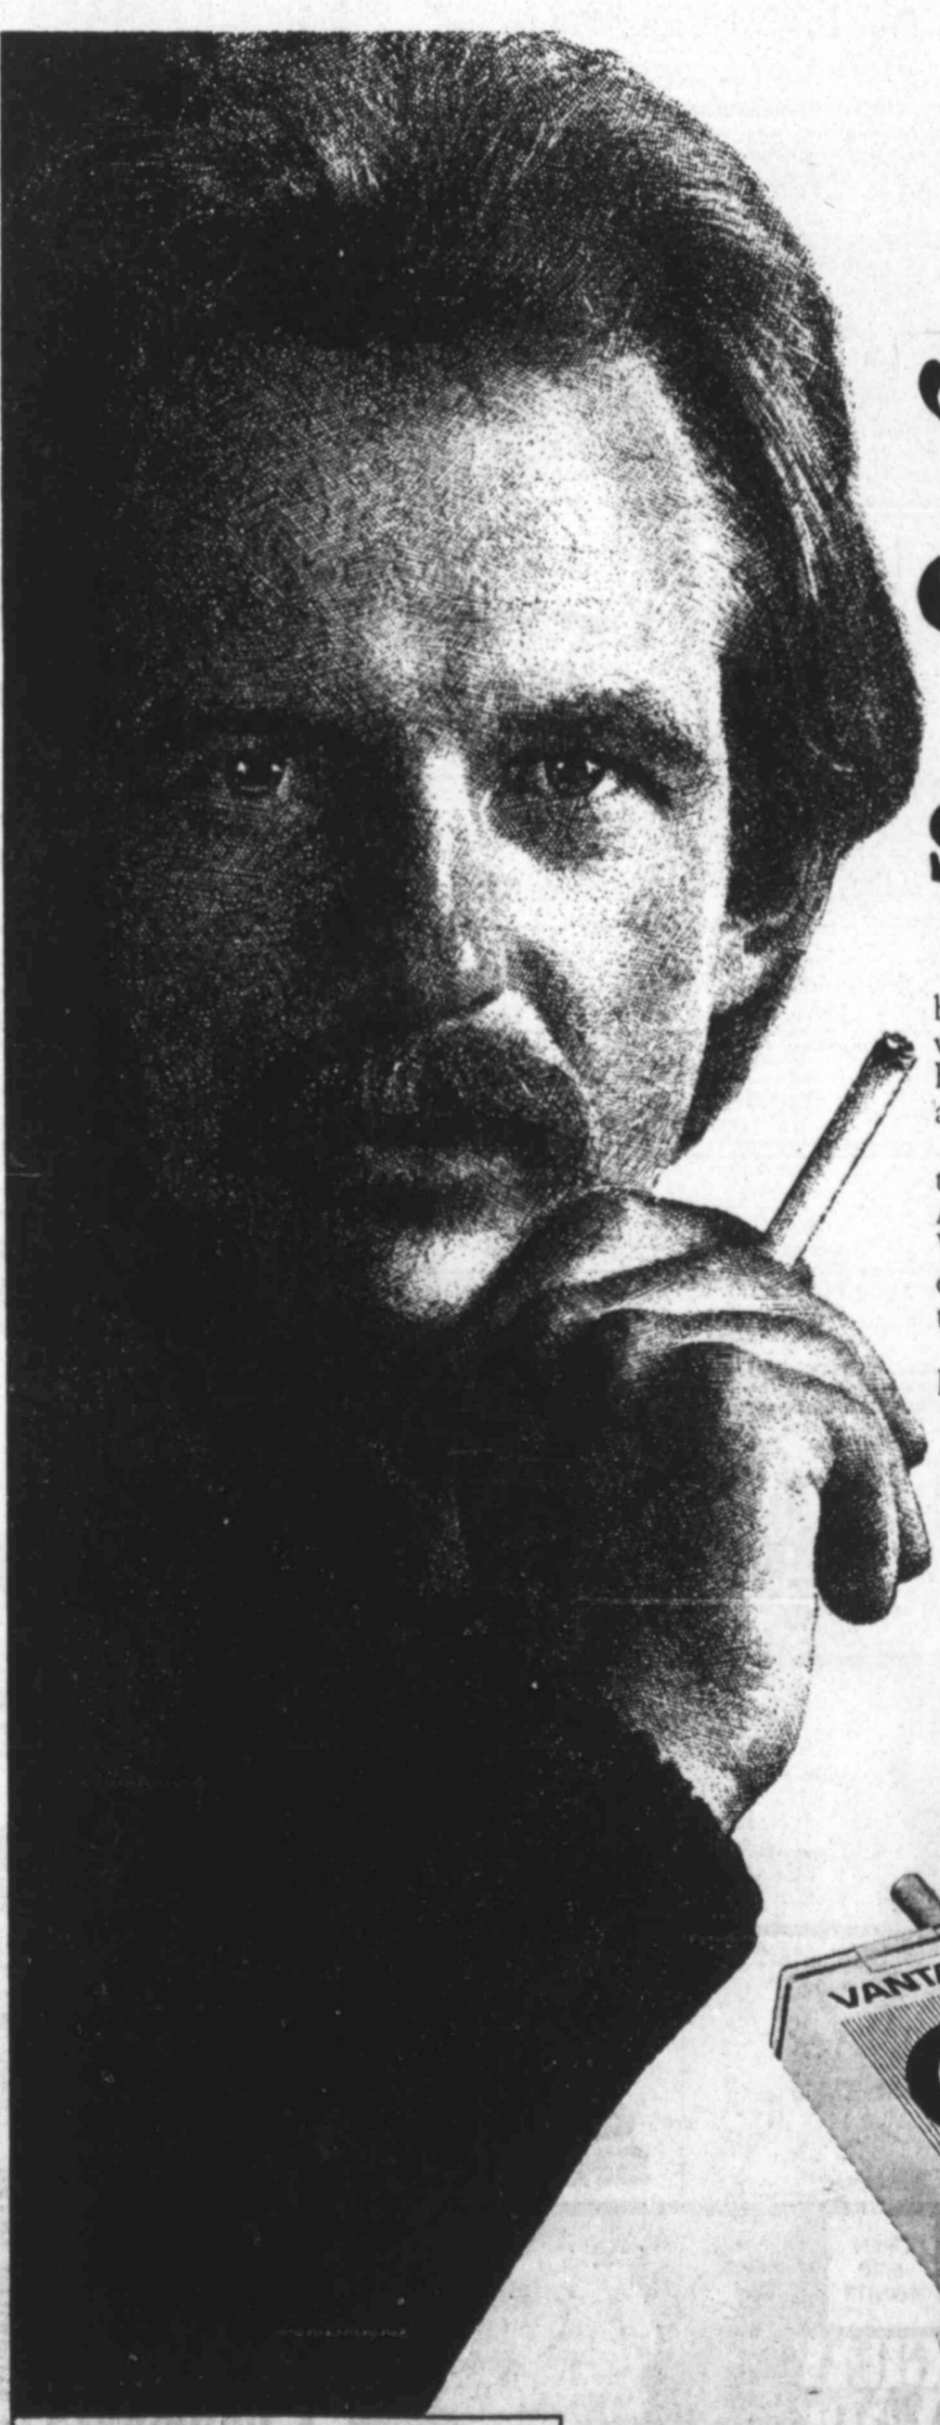

Then, add 100 milligrams of baking soda and 100 milligrams of sodium dithionite. If the solution turns a bluish-green color, paraquat is present.

HOMES LIKE THIS
are usually on a waiting list. Beautiful in every way. 4 large bedrooms + a study, 2 1/2 baths, 2 car garage. Large den & formal dining. Bright kitchen with many, many amenities.

MIT US WHILE WE'RE DOWN
This 3 bedroom, 2 1/2 bath home in Melonie Gardens has just been reduced for you. Gameroom, intercom, storage house, and beautiful landscaping are just a few features. Be the first.

A TOUCH OF CLASS
in this Tracy Heights home. Priced at only $15,97 per square foot with extras like fireplace, formal dining, gameroom and large bedrooms with lots of storage.

HAVE AN ITCH?
for a perfect executive's home? Formal dining, entertainment center, isolated guest room with bath. Excellent location. Don't be uncomfortable when a little scratch (in the 70's) will make you feel so much better.

"GALLERY SPOTLIGHT"
WHY DINKY?
Who says you have to settle for a dinky house at $35,950? This 3 bedroom, 2 bath older home has 1674 square feet. Priced to sell.

IN THE BEGINNING
most people start with a home like this. $31,500 and cute as a bug. 3-2-2, built-in kitchen — even a trash compactor. Sun on your redwood deck and enjoy, enjoy, enjoy!

GIVE YOUR CHILDREN A CHANCE
Cause you'd love to have lived here yourself. Huge trees to shade and play on. 4 bedrooms, 2 1/2 baths, den w/fireplace. Formal living den + gameroom. Room for everyone!

WE'VE SOLD ALL OUR BASEMENTS BUT ONE
Last chance for a 4 bedroom, 3 1/2 bath home with a different look in Melonie Gardens. Lots of wallpaper, beautiful kitchen and priced as a bargain.

ARE YOU ALLERGIC? to high prices? Then try these low equities. (2 FHA — no qualifying, 1 Con) All have 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, double garage, ref. air, fireplaces, built-in kitchens & excellent locations. They're nothing to sneeze at!

Declaration Of Rights Sought

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — West European Communists, long jealous of their political independence from Moscow, now are challenging the Soviet Union on the cherished Marxist theme of workers' rights.

At the 9th congress of the World Federation of Trade Unions, Italian and French delegates demanded a newly ratified declaration of worker rights be applied universally, including in the Soviet bloc. The congress of the Communist-dominated body ended here Saturday.

The declaration demanded workers have the right to join independent labor unions, strike and speak out on social issues.

The Western delegations — led by members of maverick Eurocommunist parties that preach independence from the Moscow line and cooperation with democratic institutions — criticized the close relationship between governments and trade unions in the East bloc. They affirmed the first duty of a union is to its members, not the state.

"We feel for example that diplomatic concerns of state influence the positions of too many trade union organizations, which has a paralyzing effect on the WFTU," Georges Seguy, head of France's Communist-dominated General Confederation of Labor (CGT), told the congress.

On other hand, new WFTU General Secretary Sandor Gaspar of Hungary said that when, as in the East bloc, "the worker state is established — a state which works for the implementation of objectives identical with those of the trade unions — the trade unions cannot remain inapplicable in their positions."

French delegates also claimed labor problems in the West are aired freely in the WFTU, but the lot of workers in the Soviet Union and its allies is considered unsuitable for discussion.

"The situation is quite unbearable in view of the mass media which brings information to all," Joanned Galland of the CGT told The Associated Press.

Such public disagreement between Communists from the two halves of Europe is unusual at WFTU congresses, which usually limit themselves to grinding out anti-capitalist rhetoric. The body was founded in 1945 as a worldwide worker movement, but by 1949, most mainstream Western labor federations had withdrawn in protest against its leftist positions.

The nearly 1,000 delegates and observers attending this congress did see a number of anti-Western resolutions pass — including blasts at the United States for perpetuating the division of Korea and at George Meany's AFL-CIO for its "retrograde attitude."

But the East-West rift here illustrated tensions that have built up among Communists since the 1968 Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia which snuffed out a short-lived liberalization.

Western observers credit the reaction against the invasion with inspiring West European Communists to assert independence from Moscow. Another in a series of such manifestations occurred over the weekend in Spain, where the Communist Party changed its Marxist-Leninist self-description to Marxist in a formal break with Soviet Communism.

Seguy's remarks were published after the French made a written protest.

He told delegates that the CGT was committed to applying the declaration of worker rights in France, and "would like to believe that all the participants in this congress who propose to vote like ourselves are making the same commitment as we are, regardless of the country in which they are carrying out their trade union activity."

School Meal Program Shift Draws Blasts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A White House plan to relieve the Agriculture Department of its responsibility for a program that provides meals to school children is running into stiff opposition from a growing coalition of farmers and consumers, sources said Sunday.

Congressional opposition to the plan to shift the $3 billion programs to a proposed new federal Department of Education has already surfaced.

Last week Chairman Herman Tammadge, D-Ga., of the Senate Agriculture Committee, led all 18 panel members — including ranking GOP member Robert Dole of Kansas, in signing a bipartisan letter blasting the idea.

And now, according to an official of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association, a separate movement involving 23 to 25 rural and consumer-oriented groups is drawing together in opposition to any transfers of major Agriculture Department tasks.

The official, William Murray, said in an interview that some of the widely assorted organizations will be particularly active in fighting the food program transfer because they are opposed to any lessening of Agriculture Department clout.

Aerospace Cook Book Planned

ATLANTA (AP) — Would Orville Wright's bi-cuits get you up and flying in the morning? How about Wilbur's jams and jellies? The chance to try those recipes and others is coming up for aviation enthusiasts who also like to cook.

The National Air and Space Museum in Washington, lively subsidiary of the dignified old Smithsonian Institution, is cooking up something new in publications.

Museum director Michael Collins has asked old-timers in aviation and space to submit recipes for a "gourmet aerospace cookbook."

The book will contain biographical material about contributors and photographs and drawings of them and their vehicles.

The project has not yet been announced officially, but a copy of Collins' letter to aerospace pioneers circulated among delegates to the annual four-day conference of the Aviation-Space Writers Association opening here Monday.

And museum employee Mary Henderson, who came up with the idea, said in a telephone interview that recipes already are arriving from people who were "originals in aviation and space" or were close to such individuals.

A niece of the Wright brothers, first persons to achieve powered flight, has sent in recipes for the biscuits Orville used to bake at Kitty Hawk, N.C., and for jellies and jams that Wilbur produced.

A veteran pilot, unidentified, sent a formula for "air mail meatloaf."

Another entry, perhaps aimed at Georgians of the Carter administration: "grits souffle."

Dr. Jerome Lederer, 75, of Laguna Hills, Calif., president of the Society of Air Mail Pioneers and former director of safety for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, rhapsodized about the campfire-baked blueberry pies of boyhood days in Quebec, but he sent instead a recipe for zwetschen knoedeln — apricot dumplings — a "delicious Austrian peasant dessert literally glowing with a robust, tangy flavor."

Most of the recipes are straightforward, Miss Henderson said. Nothing exotic like Space Shuttle shakes or zero-gravity baked zucchini.

"It's the kind of book you can open and cook from but also it will be fun to read," she said.

Collins, himself a gourmet cook, said in his letter, "A publication such as this will reach a new audience, one with which we do not normally deal, in a unique way with information about the people and machines of flight, as well as new and interesting ideas about food."

Collins, who orbited the moon while two fellow Apollo 11 astronauts achieved history's first lunar landing, said the Air and Space Museum, in addition to displaying historic airplanes and spacecraft, is committed to conservation, research and education. Sales of the cookbook will help raise funds toward that goal.

Two Climbers Finish Sealing Utah Rock

ZION NATIONAL PARK, Utah (AP) — Mountain climbers George Willig and Steve Matous wound up a two-day, 1,500-foot climb of Angels Landing on Sunday, after Willig, within 150 feet of the top, fell about 30 feet to a ledge.

Willig's fall, less than an hour before their climb ended, was stopped by a safety rope anchored by his partner.

Willig was clinging to the sheer sandstone wall of the massive rock at about 4 p.m. MST when his right foot apparently slipped or a supporting rock broke off the wall, sending him into a head-over-heels tumble.

Willig, who was climbing above his partner Steve Matous, bounced off the wall before regaining his grip 30 feet below.

The climb and the fall were televised nationally and were watched by scores of tourists in this southern Utah park.

Matous asked his partner if he was all right after the fall. Willig replied: "It just knocked the wind out of me. No, I'm OK, it knocked the wind out of me and my voice changed."

Matous told Willig to relax and check his hands, equipment and his head.

Willig apparently recovered fully and resumed climbing right away.

The two spent 17 hours, six of them in the dark, on the massive Navajo sandstone rock on Saturday.

The nighttime climb lasted until 1 a.m., with the two men taking advantage of a brilliant full moon and using headlamps like those of coal miners. Willig, 28, and Matous, 23, were about 1,000 feet up the sheer face when they resumed climbing Sunday.

Observers had thought the men bedded down for the night on a rocky protrusion about 7:30 p.m. Saturday. But when dawn broke, the climbers were 200 feet further up the rock.

Ron Matous, Steve's brother at the base camp, said the two risked the climb in the dark because they thought they were behind schedule.

Robert C. Heyder, superintendent of this southern Utah park, said he thought the night climb was ill-advised.

"Maybe they are confident in their equipment and themselves, but I just think that was a dumb thing to do," he said.

As Willig and Matous resumed climbing Sunday, their route was to take them up a vertical crack and then off to the side into a deep gap. Once out of that gap, the remainder of the route appeared relatively easy.

For the second day, weather for the climb was nearly ideal, with clear skies, temperatures in the upper 60s and little wind.

Willig gained fame last year by climbing the 110-story World Trade Center in Manhattan. Matous, a New Yorker, works as a professional guide in Colorado.

ABC Television sponsored the two-day climb for its "Wide World of Sports" segments. The network used eight cameras, including one in a helicopter and two manned by experienced mountaineers dangling from ropes lowered from the top of Angels Landing.

Willig and Matous were equipped with voice transmitters and were able to describe their ascent to the television audience. Often they were heard laughing and joking.

For much of the climb, the two were using aid, such as anchoring "nuts" and pitons. At other times, they were free-climbing, or climbing on the rock itself. At all times, though, they were connected with a 150-foot-long perlon rope, tested at 6,000 pounds.

While the two slept on a narrow lip at the 1,000-foot level early Sunday morning, they were visited by a small animal that slipped into their supply bag and nibbled their food. Ron Matous said it was probably a chipmunk.

During the climb Saturday, pitons slipped several times from the climbers' hands and fell to the base of the rock. Rocks loosened by the climbers also crashed down near camera crews filming from below. No one was hurt.

Hundreds of tourists watched the climb, causing some brief traffic problems in the park.

Motorcyclist Weds Beloved Bike

PLAINVILLE, Conn. (UPI) — Plainville is not the best place in the world to marry a motorcycle. Ask Mark Warner.

Warner said the idea of tying the knot with his Harley Davidson just "popped into my head," partly as a spring celebration and a good excuse to get his friends together.

The ceremony was moved out of Norton Park shortly after noon Saturday when police pointed out that a local ordinance bans non-residents from the park. About 60 of Warner's 100 friends were from out-of-town.

Long Range Budget Viewed By Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress this week takes a step toward planning basic national priorities five years ahead.

When the Senate begins debate Monday on the fiscal 1979 federal budget it will have before it, in more detail than ever before, a picture of what the budget might look like each year through 1983.

The Senate Budget Committee proposed $498.9 billion in federal spending in 1979, a "real" increase — that is, in addition to inflation — of $7.5 billion above this year.

The spending figure is $500 million less than President Carter proposed. It would produce a 1979 deficit of $5.6 billion.

Extending the decisions it recommends for the 1979 budget, the committee projected that spending would increase to $681.5 billion in 1983.

It said the budget could be balanced then if the non-federal part of the economy is reasonably healthy.

Among the committee's more specific proposals for the next five years:

- Continued "real" growth in defense spending to modernize strategic nuclear forces and bolster NATO.
- Funds to permit expansion of aid to the poorest areas of the world.
- Sales and grants of weapons to fewer countries.
- Money for the civilian space program would be less than needed for inflation. Therefore, to finance projects such as a fifth space shuttle orbiter, other space projects would have to be pared.
- Similarly, the committee recommended less than full adjustments for inflation in the areas of science, federal law enforcement, some air and water transportation activities, operation of the Executive Office of President, the Treasury and the General Services Administration.

Some of the five-year estimates are simple projections of present programs. Some appear in the committee's report to be recommendations. None would be binding, even after the budget is adopted.

Not included in the projections were additional proposals which the committee said are likely to be made in Congress and which could add as much as $466 billion to the five-year budget, if all were adopted.

These range from national health insurance to grants to make drinking water safe. The committee made no recommendations on them.

Sen. Henry Bellmon of Oklahoma, ranking Republican on the committee, said the panel "has not dealt as effectively as it should with the issue of national priorities."

By continuing many programs at current levels plus inflation, Bellmon said, the committee's budget "freezes priorities."

Aspin said he had received a letter from the Air Force saying that post commanders have been told that "adherence to dress and appearance standards is an individual and command responsibility that may not be delegated to teams."

GENETIC CONNECTION

Fast-Growing Study Can Help Your Family

By DAVID HENDIN and JOAN MARKS

If you plan to have children, then you must understand the genetic connection. The health and happiness of your family may very well depend on it.

Medical genetics is the fastest-growing and perhaps the most commonly misunderstood area of medicine today; it also may be the field of medicine most critical to your family. You can clearly grasp the importance of understanding the genetic connection when you listen to the parents of a newborn child who has come into the world with an inherited birth defect ask,

"But why us?"

The answer to their question lies in understanding the genetic connection.

The vast majority of babies are born healthy. But the mathematical chances of any family's being victimized by a genetic disease are large enough so that any adult contemplating having children ought to know the basic facts of genetic disease.

We can reassure you by noting that, on the average, each genetic disease occurs only once in every 10,000 live births. In total, however, the incidence of genetic disease is quite high.

Some 20 million Americans today carry true genetic diseases. And about three to five percent of all live births are affected by one or more birth defects — some mild, some devastating.

Those of you who aren't used to reading about the statistics of disease might not think that five percent — or five in every 100 — sounds like much of a problem. Consider, however, that even in 1952, the last big epidemic year for polio, there were 57,879 cases of that dread disease in the United States. That came to 367.4 cases of polio per million Americans. Describe genetic disease in the same der control.

Scientists doubt that they will ever find a vaccine to halt genetic diseases. But this major public health problem could be significantly curtailed, even with the scientific and medical information already available, if only we could acquaint more people with the terms and five cases per 100 live births becomes 50,000 cases per million live births.

The epidemic of genetic disease in the United States, then, is at least 100 times more widespread than was the polio epidemic at its worst! No wonder the National Foundation-March of Dimes, which largely supported work on the polio vaccine, turned its attention to birth defects and genetic diseases once polio was brought under control.

problems. Here are some more of the statistics of genetic disease in the United States Public Health Service:

— As many as half of all miscarriages are caused by gross genetics defects. This amounts to more than 100,000 miscarriages a year in the United States alone.

— At least 40 percent of all infant mortality results from genetic factors.

— Of the three percent of the United States population who are mentally retarded, about four-fifths are believed to carry a genetic component.

— About a third of all patients admitted to hospital pediatric wards are there for genetic reasons.

— Each human being carries between five and eight recessive genes for serious genetic defects and, therefore, faces the possibility of passing on a serious or lethal condition to each child.

These statistics don't even take into account the many conditions that have recently been shown to have a genetic relationship, or others which are strongly suspected of having one. These include heart disease, certain forms of arthritis, diabetes and cancer, as well as the most common mental illnesses, schizophrenia and depressive illness. If these problems are so widespread, why is it that so few of us have been aware of them? Why have we not better understood their costs — not only the medical costs, but the moral and social costs as well?

Although history and scientific development have no doubt been prime reasons for the relatively small amount of attention we have given to hereditary problems for so long, another more significant reason may well be our collective — and gigantic — human ego.

"People subconsciously rebel against the notion that genetic disease is so very widespread," says Dr. Ian Shine, director of the Thomas Hunt Morgan Institute of Genetics in Lexington, Ky. "Darwin notwithstanding, the human being considers himself God's most perfect creation; even the evolutionist considers himself evolution's finest product."

Campaign Expenditures By Candidates Revealed

State Sen. Kent Hance continues to lead financially in the 19th Congressional race, but his Democratic opponent, Morris Sheats, has spent more on the campaign than Hance.

On the Republican side, George Bush has raised and spent the most money, followed by Jim Reese and Joe Hickox.

Reports for the first three months of the year filed with the Federal Election Commission show the following receipts and expenditures for the candidates:

—Hance, $116,371.50 in contributions and $58,384.10 in expenses. During the first three months of 1978 Hance collected $60,393 and spent $48,981.74.

—Sheats, $97,224.27 in contributions and $92,777.03 in expenses. Of those contributions, $52,775.27 was donated during this period, and $54,248.98 was spent.

—Bush, $76,172.32 in contributions and $550,508.62 in expenses. Donations totaling $35,277.32 came during the three-month period, as did expenses of $40,816.26.

—Reese, $52,042.50 in contributions and $45,713.47 in expenses. In the current period $35,825 was donated and $34,174.88 was spent.

—Hickox, $15,343.46 in contributions and $16,226.58 in expenses. Hickox had no prior donations or expenses.

Much of the funding for the campaigns has come from outside the Congressional District. Hance received $14,800 outside the district, including $8,750 in contributions from Political Action Committees (PACs).

Sheats collected $18,500 outside the district, much of it at fund-raising affairs in Houston and Fort Worth.

Bush received $5,455.40 from outside the district, including $500 from one PAC. Reese collected $5,750 outside the area, $5,750 of which came from PACs.

Hickox received contributions of $3,100 from outside the 19th District.

Hance received $6,350 from farmers, $4,550 from fellow attorneys and $4,725 from residents of his hometown of Dimmitt.

Those giving $1,000 to the Hance campaign include:

Doyle D. Conine, Dallas investor; Lucy F. Hopkins, Dallas housewife; Mrs. Robert Hopkins, Dallas housewife; Clifton Cummings, Furr's Inc. vice president; Clem Boverie, Furr's Inc. chairman of the board; Campbell H. Elkins, Lubbock attorney; E. Morten Hopkins Jr. of Dallas, National Mortgage Co. of America vice president; Robert F. Brown, Lamesa car dealer; Roy Furr, president of Furr's Inc.; L.R. French Jr., Midland oil company president; D.C. McWhorter, Hereford cattleman; and Texas Restaurant Association PAC, Austin.

Hance received $5,000 from TEXPAC, an organization of doctors in Austin.

Contributions of $500 came from:

Ross Lumsden, Littlefield farmer; Ron Downing, Breckenridge insurance agent; J.D. Huistadler, Lubbock car dealer; Richard S. Hubbert, Lubbock attorney; G.L. Willis Jr., Dimmitt farmer; Carl Lee Kemp, Dimmitt rancher; John H. Young, Houston attorney; Don R. Kidd, Lubbock attorney; John C. Sims, Lubbock attorney; C.D. Wickson Jr., insurance agency owner; Paul Condit, of Seminole, president implement company; Royce Condit, vice president of Seminole implement company; Delbert Warren, of Seminole, owner of Boot Hill; Wayne Mixon, Seminole gin manager; James E. Welch, Dimmitt farmer; Bennie Claunch, Bula gin owner; S.B. Campbell Jr. of Lubbock, owner of True King Wholesale Co.; Rex Fuller, Lubbock oil producer; R.P. Fuller, Lubbock oil producer; W.A. Yeager of Midland, co-owner of Yeager & Armstrong; Action Committee for Rural Electrification, Washington, D.C.; and EMPAC, central region, Dow Chemical Co., Freeport.

The Life Underwriters PAC in Washington, D.C., made contributions of $500 and $250.

Sheats received $1,000 contributions from:

Gary and Ann Boren of Lubbock, Dunhill Personnel office; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bill Brown of Fort Worth, agricultural director for Texas State Network; Robert B. Brunson, a Houston real estate developer; Mr. and Mrs. Rick Canup, Lubbock real estate broker; Joe D. Horn, Plainview physician; Mr. and Mrs. Dave Kern of Lubbock, aircraft salesman; Mr. and Mrs. R.T. McLelland, Midland life insurance manager; Mr. and Mrs. Kline A. Nall, Texas Tech University professor; C.A. Niemeir, Lubbock investor; Glenn Norwood and Lois Norwood of Houston, retired homebuilder ($1,000 each); Norman and Maureen Norwood, Stafford builder; Norman Norwood, Stafford homebuilder; Robert and Andrea Norwood, Katy homebuilder; Mr. and Mrs. Steve Norwood, Houston builder; Terry Norwood, Richmond builder; Raymond Orson, Lamesa farmer; Mr. and Mrs. Bob J. Perry, Houston; D.R. Perry, Houston; Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Kadke, Fort Worth automobile businessman ($1,000 each); H. Spencer Stone, Houston; Robert M. Voelker, Plainview seed dealer; and Mr. and Mrs. R.J. Walls, Lubbock manufacturer.

Contributions of $500 came from:

Glen D. Akin, Slaton farmer; Mr. and Mrs. Sims Buttram Fort Worth funeral director; Mr. and Mrs. Jess Claiborne, Lamesa grocer; Dr. J. Taylor Evans, Lubbock dentist; Mr. and Mrs. Jack R. Hall, Lubbock oil operator; G.R. Hicks of Muleshoe; Robert Irwin of Houston; Paul E. and Barbara Jantzen, Trinity Church associate pastor; Billy R. and Wanda Jones, Brownfield farmer; T.J. Lawler, Fort Worth grocer; Morris B. Linder, Houston machineworks president; Mr. and Mrs. R.C. Mann, Fort Worth accountant; Duane L. and Barbara Miller, clothing store manager; Mr. and Mrs. Virgil V. Mott, Sugar Land builder; James O. Strahan of Fort Worth; and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry C. Wilson, Pampa convenience store operator.

Bush received $16,056 in contributions from those in oil and oil related industries during the first three months of the year and received most of his money from his hometown of Midland.

Those donating $1,000 to the Bush campaign are:

Thomas C. Brown, Midland, president Tom Brown, Inc.; M.W. Branum, Midland, independent oil operator; Roy E. Campbell, Midland, president of Elcor Corporation; James Gibson, Midland housewife; John Hendrix, Midland, independent oil and gas man; Carolyn Hendrix, Midland housewife; Robert Holt, Midland, independent oil and gas man; Robert K. Hillin, Midland, independent oil and gas man; Gordon Knox, Midland, independent oil and gas man; Robert Mosbacher, Houston, oil and gas producer; Bill Roden, Midland rancher; Pomeroy Smith, Midland, president of Coquina; and Penelope S. Sawyer, Midland housewife.

Bush received $500 donations from:

Bruce Pearson, Midland geologist; C.H. Priddy, Midland corporate executive of Magnatex Corporation; Rauscher Pierce Employee's PAC, Dallas; Ralph Way, Midland geologist; L.G. Wilson, Lubbock investor; James Allison, publisher of the Midland Reporter-Telegram; Frank Cahoon, Midland oil operator; E.R. Duke, president of Mustang Mud in Midland; Campbell Elkins, Lubbock investor; J.N. Gifford, Midland independent oil and gas man; E.J. Hudson, Houston oil and gas man; Hal Hawkins, Anthony, N.M., retiree; Douglas Hannah, Houston realtor; Thornton Hardie

Jr., Midland attorney; R.J. Johnston, Sheffield retiree; William LaForce Jr., Midland petroleum engineer; Cary Maguire, of Dallas, president of Maguire Oil.

Of the $35,825 Reese collected in the first three months of 1978, $15,000 is a 90-day loan from State National Bank in Odessa. Reese's 1976 campaign still owes him $79,000.

The former Odessa mayor had his share of oil money, with $5,600 coming from those employed in the oil industry. He received two PAC contributions — $5,000 from the American Medical Association PAC in Chicago, Ill., and $250 from the Life Underwriters PAC.

Reese's only $1,000 donations came from Alvis Swinny of Odessa, in the oil-field maintenance business, Blackmon and from B.J. of Odessa, employed in oil service supply.

Contributors of $500 include:

Earl Rodman Jr., Odessa oil producer; C. Richard Sivals of Odessa, owner of Sivals Tanks; Larry Stewart, Odessa accountant; Deane Stoltz, Midland oil producer; T.L. Gregory of Odessa; Rod Cagle of Odessa, in the oilfield service business; Jack P. Chapman of Odessa, oil-field supply service; Jake Lawless, Odessa independent oil producer; and Flo Lawless, Odessa housewife.

Reese also received a contribution of $250 from Coors Beer magnate Joseph Coors of Golden, Colo.

Hickox received $1,000 from Bruce T. Page, a Jacks onville, Fla., serviceman; J.C. Barnes Jr., a Midland independent oil operator; and B.D. Gilbert, an investment consultant from New York City.

A contribution of $3,217.23 was accepted from Rosalind K. Haley, a Lubbock housewife, then later refunded. Mrs. Haley also contributed $500 to the campaign.

Other large contributions include: $950 from J. Evetts Haley, a Canyon rancher; and $500 from Sue Stevens, a Denver City rancher and from Mrs. George T. Abell, a Midland housewife.

The campaign has an outstanding debt of $1,823.86 to Thatcher Printing in Lubbock and to a political consultant in Norman, Okla.

Much of the money collected by Hance went to a Lubbock political consultant for consultation and advertising. Hance paid Otice Green Associates a total of $34,098.81. The campaign payroll for the first three months totalled $4,932.92 for five persons.

Sheats paid $19,100.10 to a consulting firm in Dallas, $5,789.88 in salaries for three staffers, $3,500 for television time and $832.48 to a polling firm in Lubbock. Bush paid $21,250.65 to an Austin firm for advertising and paid $4,671.93 in salaries to five workers.

He loaned his campaign $710.25 for travel expenses. Reese spent $9,472 on advertising, $8,557.32 on salaries for three persons and $6,007.75 on polls.

Hickox paid $5,754.85 to Webster and Harris in Lubbock for advertising and $583.14 to an advertising firm in Oklahoma City, Okla.

Congressional candidates must file another report of contributions and expenses on Wednesday.

If the shoreline of the Great Lakes were straightened, it would stretch almost half-way around the world.

Business & Industrial Review

FUNCTIONAL, ATTRACTIVE, ECONOMICAL — Two views are presented here of a Nasco building now in use at the Roosevelt School east of Lubbock. Nasco provides "the new-est thing in buildings — with no bolts, no screws and no leaks!"

Nasco-Fabricated Buildings Serving Multiple Area Needs

"The newest thing in buildings can be built in hours... to last a lifetime... whether for farm, industry, commercial, municipal or school facilities, etc. Unbelievable? But it is true!"
 Also:
 "These same units involve no bolts, no screws, no leaks and they meet all codes!"
 Where is all this available?
 At Nasco Steel Buildings, on the I-dalou Highway just northeast of Lubbock, phone 763-9221.
Local Company
 Founded in Lubbock seven years ago, Nasco is headed by Delmer Hightower, president.
 Hightower was born and reared in Levelland and has been a Lubbock resident 16 years.
 Nasco serves the entire South Plains and adjacent regions, and the firm likes to prove it can deliver a building to one's specifications and have it up most often within two weeks!

 And... in addition, Hightower reports that these buildings are up to 20 per cent cheaper than conventional buildings.
 One may select from 20-ft. to 75-ft. width dimensions, with no penalty for odd widths!
 Nasco, locally owned and operated, has its own skilled erectors to enable a turnkey job (including plumbing, electrical work, etc. as needed); or one may purchase the revolutionary spans for "do-it-yourself" erection, as anyone can erect a Nasco building, it is explained.
 Conventional and K-Span units are fabricated right here in the Lubbock plant of the firm.

Popular for industry, farm and school uses, the Nasco erected buildings come in for some very convincing testimonials.
At Area School
 Attention is directed to such a building recently erected by Nasco as a gym facility at the Roosevelt school just east of Lubbock.
 All in all, one can put more under roof, for less, with the K-Span system. Arched panels, set to an engineered radius, are fed from a K-Span machine and seamed together. No screws, nuts or bolts are used. A complete seal is effected in seconds.
 And note this: these buildings are both attractive and functional.
 "May we at Nasco give you full details, proving how you, too, can put more under roof... at less cost?"

Texas Insulation Systems, Lockney, Affords ThermoCon Process, Products

"Know Texas Insulation Systems, Box 591, Lockney, Texas, phone 652-3348, and profit."
 Specializing in ThermoCon spray-on and loose-fill for residential, commercial and industrial applications, Jerry Ulmer and staff are masters in their field. For full details see Ulmer at the Lockney facility, write Box 591, Lockney, Tex. 79241, or call (806) 652-3348.
 ThermoCon spray-on insulation for metal buildings is one of the fine product-service combinations. Let one of the Texas Insulation Systems technicians give full details, showing what this application can do in your own situation.
 Spray-on ThermoCon affords temperature, sound and fire control in one application!
 Because of its chemical content, it permanently bonds to steel, wood and masonry surfaces painted or not! It provides a strong color-stable environmental system that will not chip, shed, flake, dust or be subject to rot or fungi. ThermoCon is odorless and non-toxic.
 Because it forms a monolithic seal, it can be used wherever temperature, sound or fire control is needed on ceilings or walls, exposed or unexposed. No latining, undercoating or preparatory base is required!
 Because of its workable fibrous texture, ThermoCon can expand and contract with your building without losing its hold. Its built-in flexibility makes it easy to cut, saw, mold, shape or paint.
 Because of its application by pneumatic spray, it is much faster and more economical than conventional insulation, Ulmer emphasizes.
 (ThermoCon, incidentally, is a national company with dealers throughout the nation and in Canada.)
 Appropriate buildings for this ThermoCon system include farm buildings, airplane hangars, industrial plants, warehouses, auditoriums, gyms, showrooms, supermarkets, mobile homes, apartments, condominiums, office buildings, etc.

 "It is twice as effective as wire-backed fiberglass batts; heat intense enough to melt metal will not penetrate ThermoCon's protective barrier!"

'Better Hearing Aid Center' Provides Added Clovis Office

"Did you realize that services of James O. Davidson, certified hearing aid audiologist, are not only available at the Better Hearing Aid Center in Lubbock, on one-day-a-week basis at numerous area towns, but now also at the Clovis Hearing Aid Center?"

A lot of regional folks have depended on the Better Hearing Aid Center, No. 30 Redbud Square in Lubbock, for a long time.

Then it was arranged so that on Wednesdays, Davidson would visit area towns on an announced schedule. This still is in practice.

But in addition, as an added service to friends in New Mexico and the western Panhandle and South Plains, Davidson has provided the Clovis Hearing Aid Center, at 117 E. 7th St., phone 793-6900, in Clovis.

"So take your pick of the center and service most convenient to you: James Davidson renders the same great service at each. He is in the Lubbock Center on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and at Clovis on Tuesday, Thursday and on Saturday morning.

"We are indeed appreciative of the friends, the customers and the benefits of years past, and we trust that with our new arrangement, we can serve you even better in months and years to come."

More about the Lubbock center:

Located about midway between 4th Street and 19th Street on Slide Road, the firm is a multi-line dealer, specializing in all-in-the-ear models. Service and repairs on any make of hearing aid is expertly rendered.

Not only can one purchase the best in hearing aids at the Better Hearing Aid Center, but James O. Davidson, certified hearing aid audiologist there, is most helpful in assisting one "after" the purchase. A few months ago he announced the helpful C.A.R.E. program for this assistance, with the program including a video unit with a series of tapes that explain graphically how to enjoy and use one's aid to the fullest. It helps, among other things, in "learning how to listen," in adjustment of the aid, and even helpful hints on "attitudes."

Area Service
Other benefits also are provided at Better Hearing Aid Center. Davidson makes scheduled trips throughout the area, and those desiring service or consultation "near to home" are invited to check his ads appearing each Monday on these pages to learn of his current schedule.

In West Lubbock
"If you hear ... but do not always understand ... maybe all you need is the custom-made, all-in-the-ear hearing aid from Better Hearing Aid Center, Redbud Square (on Slide Road), phone 792-0507."
Learn about the convenience and utility of the tiny unit that fits all in the ear, helping nature help you hear better.
For hearing loss suitable to correction and improvement through amplification,

AT LUBBOCK CENTER — James O. Davidson, certified hearing aid audiologist, and staffmember Agnes Vanderveer at the Better Hearing Aid Center in Redbud Square, invite inquiries regarding the firm's services in sales and repairs at its two big centers and at appointed times throughout the area.

a "Contour" hearing aid by Dahlberg offers a special kind of hearing help for mild, moderate or moderately-severe hearing impairment.

Starting with an exact impression of your own ear, a plastic shell is formed which duplicates the contours of your ear. Dahlberg's evaluation committee then analyzes your hearing loss supplied by your hearing aid specialist and selects the most suitable degree and type of amplification. Dahlberg's manufacturing staff then assembles the electronic components specified and makes your "Contour" to order within your own contoured shell ... providing your personal hearing aid.

"Individually made to order for you, no two are alike."
And remember ... at the Better Hearing Aid Center there is a liberal hearing aid trial rental plan.

Davidson, a Lubbock resident since 1948 and an area native, is most sincere — and qualified — in his invitation to call 792-0507 or come by the center for professional assistance. He is most enthused, and rightly so, about the two custom-made, all-in-the-ear aids (1) The Miracle Ear and (2) The Contour all-in-the-ear model, both from Dahlberg.

Protection Plan
Davidson and customers alike express enthusiasm for the related "Dahlberg Consumer Protection Plan" in which a 30-day money-back privilege is afforded (with exception of custom made earmolds and dispensing fee).

Long-Established Policy

"See your doctor first, then see us," long has been the sensible suggestion of Davidson, multi-line dealer service 22 counties in Texas and eastern New Mexico, a policy initiated without prompting of government regulations.

Miracle Ear

"Our new variable compression settings enable fitting the hearing aid to your individual loss. We have numerous models, one of which will parallel your hearing loss.

"Mild nerve deafness? Then 'Miracle Ear' may be all you need to hear clearly again. It fits entirely in your ear and is ideal for the majority of persons who can still hear but have trouble understanding words.

"If you hear sounds but don't always understand words (a classic symptom of nerve impairment), our recommendation is Miracle Ear, developed and patented by Dahlberg Electronics, Inc."

Aids Electronically Tested

At the Better Hearing Aid Center, all hearing aids are electronically tested before going to the customer.

"Do not hesitate to visit or call (phone 792-0507, or residence phone 799-0333). Likely Jim Davidson, hearing aid audiologist, can help you, too."

Gary's Frozen Foods Products Add Zest, Nutrition To Season's Picnics

"What does it take to make those early picnics of the season a success? Balmly days? Yes. Pleasant surroundings? Yes. Family and friends? Yes."

But there still is another very necessary ingredient: Food to enjoy!

Then depend on Gary's Frozen Food items, great for picnics, snacks, school-time meal or for unexpected guests, and all.

For sure, a good meal can become an outstanding one if Gary's Frozen Food products have a place on the menu.

"We're hearing some mighty good things about Gary's Bar-B-Que Flavored Delight, newest of the Gary's family of products!"

"Shouldn't you find out for yourself how this and other of the firm's fine products fit into your menu for finest in nutritious food? Discover how Gary's provides the best in barbecue, corn dogs, super dogs, custom cooking, and more.

Custom Cooking
Gary's is glad to custom prepare any meat, at any time, whether it is wild game or whatnot.

Or one may simply discover that the Gary's Frozen Food label in a favorite grocery or supermarket opens the way to variety and nutritious goodness.

Select from Gary's Barbecue Flavor Delight, Gary's Corn Dogs, Gary's Bar-B-Que Beef Brisket in bar-b-que sauce, and Gary's super dogs. Whether the occasion is a festive meal, a Sunday dinner or even a snack, or a birthday party, one can profit from dependance upon the home-owned, home-operated Gary's Frozen Food firm and its products.

The Bar-B-Que Flavored Delight is newest of the Gary's family of labels, and it is oh-so-good. A beef, beef suet and tex-ured vegetable protein product, it is a new experience in delicious eating. Keep it frozen, and just heat to eat.

This new product is available in the area, distributed to retail stores and to institutions. Look for the label.

The 10-pack Corn Dogs have met with exceptional response.

Consisting of batter mix around a frankfurter, partially cooked in pure vegetable oil, these, too, are easy to prepare. Simply thaw, remove from bag, place in 375-degree oven for 12 to 15 minutes or deep fat fry.

Also, one still can get the delicious Gary's Barbecue Beef Brisket in a favorite grocery or supermarket.

The many quality products and services from Gary's has made possible the continued growth of the firm, thanks to loyal customers who appreciate good food and Gary's sincere desire to please.

The barbecue brisket, super dogs and other quality items from Gary's Frozen Foods, 109th Street at South University Avenue, make many a West Texas meal something special — whether for a special event or simply a change of pace.

These products, long recognized as the finest obtainable, are prepared in the modern, enlarged, functionally attractive quarters for Gary's, specifically designed and built for service, in south Lubbock.

Every Gary's Frozen Foods product is an experience in goodness! School children, their parents and a lot of other people (unexpected guests included) can attest to the deliciousness of Gary's Super dogs, corn dogs — and the Gary's Bar-B-Que package available on retail basis.

SPIC & SPAN — WHERE CLOTHING CARE IS RIGHT

Clothing-Related Hints Given By Spic & Span Professionals

Spic & Span One Hour Cleaners has served the people of Lubbock for 29 years.

Experience is important. "So, the wise suggestion today could well be to entrust your drycleaning to the Spic & Span One Hour Cleaners, at one of its two Lubbock locations: at 50th & U. or 70th & Indiana."

Spic & Span likes to help in every way possible, and it is happy to pass on hints and observations, with three being singled out this week: (1) Fashions for the new summer season, (2) Closet Management, and (3) Wise Purchasing.

Fashion Trends Told
 Fabrics making the most news at this time are printed cotton lenos, gauzes and voiles, cotton lace and nets, linens, silk blends and a growing number of pastel and bright clear colored madras plaids.

Dresses are very popular for spring and summer '78, and are appearing in cotton interlock prints, tissue linen, crinkle-cotton gauze and poly-silk jacquards. Most of the new dress styles have new touches such as bat-wing sleeves, peplums and new waistline treatments. Also lace, ruffles, tiers and flounces are incorporated into most of the dresses.

Silky fabrics with textural touches such as waffles, mini-twills, satin stripes and embroidery are an important part of today's separates.

(To retain the beauty of all these great fashions, let us as your professional dry-cleaner care for the garments for longer-lasting wearability.)

"Purchase Wisely"

Buying new clothes often is an exciting event, related to happy times, holidays and great expectations. But one should not become so absorbed in selecting just the right fashion or in meeting the budget that cleaning and laundering is forgotten. The time to begin thinking about drycleaning a garment is at the time of purchase.

Good care practice begins with the inspection of the labels and tags and with asking questions before purchase. The care necessary to keep something clean and attractive may be important in deciding whether or not to buy it in the first place.

Garments that are both washable and drycleanable may be labeled washable with no mention of drycleanability. However, garments labeled washable generally can also be drycleaned.

Drycleaning is particularly effective in removing greasy, oily soils and stains from the synthetic fabrics, which have an affinity for oils and cling to them.

Closet Management Advised
 "Likely, with the change of seasons, you have commenced cleaning and reorganizing the closets . . . or you are thinking about it!"

The following are some helpful hints for good closet management:

Out-of-season clothes should be cleaned before storing for the warm months.

Don't keep clothes you don't wear anymore. If they are still usable, give them to charity. You can claim the "fair market value" of usable clothing as a deduction when you give it to charity.

After wearing a garment, promptly hang it on a hanger that is shaped for it. Shaped wooden or plastic hangers are for jackets and coats. Clamp type hangers are for skirts and pants. Don't hang sweaters or knits. Lay them flat in a drawer.

Always remember, proper closet care means longer wear, and out-of-season apparel should be cleaned before storing. Let your drycleaner help.

Pros on the Job
 And remember, further:

Chester and Janette Holder, owners of Spic & Span Cleaners, specialize in one thing only: "the dry cleaning industry". They are real pros in the drycleaning field and both are active workers in the business, keeping their minds alert for anything new that comes on the market. Spic & Span is member of local, state and international trade associations in the field.

Attention is called to the added plant (at 70th and Indiana) which has proven especially convenient to "all you people who have migrated on south and west".

The original plant, at 2109 50th St., is going strong, so now one has a choice for Spic & Span service, on 50th or further south and west on Indiana.

Remember the Spic & Span motto: "Some bigger, none better; no brag, just fact!"

Earl Ray Music Advises 'Trading Up', Choosing From Fine Instrument Lines

"Wouldn't this be a very good time for you as a band student to 'trade up' to a quality instrument to best serve you in the progress that you have made in your music pursuit?"

"Let us at Earl Ray Music Co. show you how easy and rewarding this can be." Reliance upon the Earl Ray Music Co. can solve (and easily so) the many situations for the music minded.

Long a standby as "the South Plains' leading Band House," the Earl Ray Music Co., at 5302 Ave. Q in the Briercroft Shopping Center, pledges the finest in instrument repair and sales, even leasing and trade-up.

For more than a quarter century of being known and trusted by band directors, parents and bandsmen throughout the area, Earl Ray Music Co. early in 1974 moved from a former 1502 Ave. Q quarters to the large modern home it now enjoys — a facility that has met with exceptional response from customers who actually are excited about the added conveniences and still-fine service at Earl Ray's.

Selling, servicing and trade-rent-lease of fine instrument lines still is the whole business of Earl Ray. Whether selection if from Conn, Vito, Selmer, Bunday, LeBlac, Ludwig, Bach, Olds, Gemeinhardt, etc., quality is assured.

More and more students throughout Lubbock and entire area are learning the advantages of "trading up" to a better instrument at Earl Ray Music Co. As the students progress in their musical carriers, the "trading up" is especially advantageous.

Whether or not you purchased your present band instrument from Earl Ray, they will be glad to give you a price you are sure to appreciate with trade on a better one.

A wide choice of instruments is stocked.

"Selection at Earl Ray Music Co. will assure that you are all set — with the best — for current school needs, and beyond."

Service does not end with the rental or sale at this leading band house. Earl Ray maintains the largest band instrument repair department on the South Plains, remember, with fulltime specialists on the job.

Hallie's Thrift Shoppe Seen Cutting Expense For Wardrobe

Has wardrobe expenditure been sacrificed for other needs? Is your clothing budget less than desired and needed?

The answer to either likely will focus attention on a sensible solution... recognition of Hallie's Thrift Shoppe as a great place to trade.

Hallie's Thrift Shoppe, 3510 Ave. Q, can appreciably aid the fashion need and the economy need "for you, too" in every season of the year.

It's a reality: One can beat inflation, beat the rising apparel costs, by depending upon Hallie's Thrift Shoppe for the right apparel at lowest prices.

At Hallie's Thrift Shoppe there is lots of new merchandise plus consignment items that are strictly "first class" that can be a smart solution to the wardrobe budget.

With the seasonal expenses now present, and with the increased costs at every hand, it is exciting to find a firm that can greatly reduce some of this cash outlay.

One can dress smartly for every season, and at a cost "that can be lived with," thanks to Hallie's Thrift Shoppe's full selection and unique business concept.

Hallie's, primarily a resale shop for better merchandise, has been at its present 3510 Ave. Q location (with off-street parking) more than four years, with owner-operator Hallie Payne formerly at another Avenue Q location for five years.

The exceptional stock, attractively displayed with plenty of room for selection and fitting, involves top quality new and nearly new formal wear, school and street wear, etc.

There are clothes for the entire family (sold on consignment) and the prices are most appealing.

"If you have items suitable for consignment, call Hallie's at 744-6772 for appointment and arrangements."

Though a wide stock is on hand, Hallie's at the present especially solicits consignments of top quality and fashionable long dresses and men's wear.

New merchandise from area stores also is stocked by Hallie's.

Easy off-street parking at both front and rear is just one of the conveniences at Hallie's Thrift Shoppe.

"We'll cater your party, business meeting, school functions, family get-togethers and all!"

"That's right, now we can bring the same great food you have enjoyed at Southern Sea right to you anywhere in the South Plains and High Plains area!"

All this is made possible by the facilities, experience, dedication, expertise and consideration of the folks at Southern Sea, Indiana Avenue at South Loop 289, phone 799-6555, in Lubbock.

Bob and Priscilla Sims are owners, staying in the lead in providing better eating, in the restaurant, for take-out, and now via catering.

"We can serve any item from our popular menu in our catering service, and other items can be custom prepared."

Cowling Furniture Presents Selection, Price Advantages

There are outstanding "In-Store Specials" now in effect at Cowling Furniture!

And the largest selection of recliners the firm has ever offered.

Plus more!

With an enlarged, yet most discriminating, selection offered, Cowling's Furniture, 1210 Ave. Q, has "what's right and what's quality" for every furniture need.

Opening in late 1975, Cowling's has become recognized as a good firm, with good merchandise, with integrity and with a quality-savings combination to be appreciated.

With so very much presented in its selection, it is impossible to enumerate all, but these arrivals likely should come in for special note:

The best selection of sofas yet stocked by Cowling's is currently presented.

Rattan Now Stocked
New groupings for every room of the home are available.

Some extremely good quality Rattan furniture has been added to the extensive stock.

A very good supply of credenzas, consoles, bedroom and dining room groupings is another present situation, all in readiness for one's Spring redecorating. All in all, Cowling's has the largest stock yet; they have continually stocked good lines and are staying with these respected and well-known brands.

Both investment art and just "plain pretty art work" is stocked in a beautiful array of selective paintings, tastefully arranged throughout the attractive store.

"This is an out-of-the-ordinary furniture store," more than a few customers have found, and Ken Cowling and family want the opportunity to personally show this as the truth. Modest on the outside, the big store is most impressive within; actually, entry is into a whole new world of quality furniture at prices to please.

"If it is all-around good taste that you appreciate, then let Cowling's friendly family staff serve you. The firm is a family store, family owned and operated, with each member doing his and her best to bring your own family the very finest home furnishings to fit your budget."

Financing is available, and personal attention in every visit and transaction is a watchword at Cowling's, just south off Broadway, on Avenue Q. Both an east and north entry is provided, with appreciated off-street parking at the north.

Lubbock Kash & Karry Wholesale Grocery Tells 'Budget-Saving Truth'

"Possibly your intentions have been to budget in '78... even including your food items. But have you found that it seems impossible to stay within your food budget?"

Happily, there is a Lubbock firm that can be of very real assistance: Lubbock Kash & Karry Wholesale Grocery, 901 N. Ave. Q.

"Many of you have profited — for months — by checking the ads of Lubbock Kash & Karry Wholesale Grocery on these pages, and purchasing accordingly. (Selecting at the same time from the hundreds of other items already marked at "rock bottom" at this popular Lubbock grocery that recently celebrated its second anniversary).

"Others of you possibly have yet to learn the money-saving truth... that Lubbock Kash & Karry Wholesale Grocery can be a tremendous friend to the family budget.

Certainly, all will agree that it is advantageous to shop more carefully than ever before... for price and value. Then... be sure and check the Lubbock Kash & Karry ad.

(Not only this week but check each week on representative money-saving staple items provided by this distinctive firm at 901 N. Ave. Q.

Full Service
"Did you know that groceries still can be purchased in Lubbock at rock-bottom prices — and — with full carry-out and sackings service?"

"If you are shopping elsewhere, you may be doing much of the work yourself, and still be paying too much; so — try Lubbock Kash & Karry Wholesale Grocery and pocket the savings!"

Located at 901 N. Ave. Q, phone 747-6033, this firm is Lubbock's only independently and wholly owned and operated wholesale grocery.

It takes pride in "selling for less," a policy made possible by its cash arrangement, low overhead, purchases directly from the manufacturer, its policy of "pick it up yourself and save the difference," and local warehousing.

Personalized Service
Co-owners are Tommy Toombs and Noble Sides, with Toombs as manager. Sides, formerly with the Ben E. Keith Co., enjoys a wide acquaintance in the area, as does Tommy who also is a long-time Lubbock resident. Both are on the job to give their personal attention.

In its fully-stocked quarters on North Avenue Q, Lubbock Kash & Karry sells in quantities as small as one-half case lots, and packaged meats, etc., by the package.

A very good stock of refrigerated products, including these packaged meats, is maintained.

The firm has enjoyed acceptance and appreciation of those even coming long distances to take advantage of the prices and selection. More than 1,600 items are included in the stock that veritably affords "anything for the grocery business," and housed in a big 6,000 sq. ft. building at the north Lubbock location.

Staffmembers are on hand to load merchandise for the purchaser, remember.

Everything is top quality, with definitely no "seconds" even at the low prices.

Business & Industrial Review

'LET'S GO FISHING' — Roy Mackey (left) DE student employee at Woolco, and James Oswalt of the Sports Department there call attention to the exceptionally large stock of fishing needs now on the racks and shelves.

Popular Names In 'Everything For Fisherman' Proven Fact At Woolco

Fishing fever? Then, remember, Woolco has a wide variety of equipment at low Woolco prices.

Everything for the novice, the expert,

Jogging Shorts

The "now" look at Woolco is comfortable and casual.

"Jog" is the word that creates the image, the Trim Fit jogging shorts with smart, bold racer stripes are the central theme!

Coordinated mesh shorts and shirts with racer stripes complete this "cool" outfit.

Furthermore, it is pointed out that the sleek warm-up suit is a "must" for the stylish look and for comfort.

"Novelty Tee-shirts are the summer apparel choices for the fun and carefree mood, and Woolco offers the largest selection in town!"

and for everyone in between is stocked, especially notable in the rods and reels.

The tremendous selection of rods includes ultra-light ones and the salt-water rods, too. There are Lew's Speed Sticks to land those record bass catches!

Several great names in sporting goods provide the great choices at Woolco (Garcia, Daiwa and Shakespeare as example).

Reels include the precision crafted Daiwa light-weights, the complete line of Zebco reels and a great selection of fine Garcia reels.

There also is a wide variety of combinations with rod and reel at one low price.

Terminal Tackle

See the vast selection of terminal tackle assembled at Woolco.

The biggest names in lures are presented, including Bomber, Cotton Cordell, Mepps and many more.

There's a great selection of budget lures, and of corks, hooks and sinkers in every size and shape.

And fishing line in abundance. Tackle boxes are stocked to every size to accommodate all one's fishing supplies.

Woolco has a great assortment of life vests for every size and budget.

"So, shop Woolco for quality, selection and low price; shop Woolco with confidence, and save."

Sun Care Products

Time to think of summer comfort, beauty and fun; right?

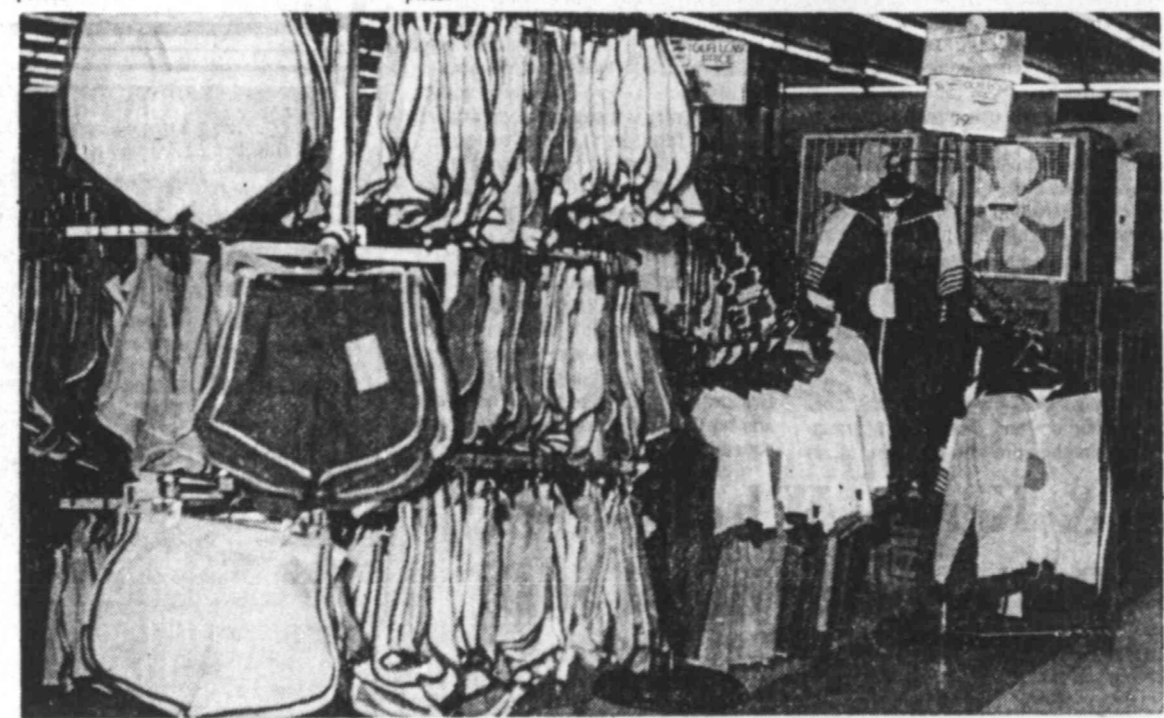

Then, Woolco has some very appropriate and appreciated aids:

At Woolco we are featuring Coppertone sun care products for the beautiful summer tan.

There is the Super Shade for the extra sensitive skin, and oils for the easier-to-tan people. There also is Noksote for the easy-to-burn nose.

Woolco carries a full line of perfume items, some may not realize. There is Jovan, Prince Machivelli, Charlie, Intimate, etc., and for the man in the house there are selections from British Sterling, Bravura, Musk, Jovan and English Leather.

Woolco wants you to have a fun summer!

Selection, Quality, Economy Afford Triple Advantages At A-1 Nursery

"For quality in every item, for selection from the fruit trees you have been desiring, for bedding plants by the thousands... A-1 Nursery comes through with the merchandise and with a price to appeal!"

"Come, browse and select at A-1 Nursery, 7500 82nd St., phone 792-6070, where specials are posted wherever possible, enabling even lower prices than the sensible ones that the public has long found at A-1 Nursery."

Note these, among the current values:

Fruit Trees
Extra nice apple, peach, pear and plum trees, 5 ft. to 6 ft. height, at $2.99 each (compare at $8.50!)
And pecan trees, 5-6 ft. at $6.66 or 2 for $12; and the giant size 12-14 ft., regular $39.95, on sale at just $10.88 or 2 for $20.
Also note the huge gladioli and canna bulbs, a selection at 29 cents or 4 for $1; And onion plants (red, yellow, white, sets 89 cents per pound; bunch, 39 cents or 4 for $1;

Bermuda Seed
Red or white seed potatoes are 25 cents per pound, and bermuda grass seed (Arizona hulled) is $2.99 per pound.
All kinds of ground covers are stocked at 39 cents each at this time, or $4.50 per dozen.
Regular $1.99 grape vines are sale priced at 88 cents;
Pom pom and poodle plants (new shipment) are 35 per cent off list;

Fertilizers, Conditioners
Soil conditioners and fertilizers come in for due attention and should be secured at this time, while the price is especially attractive and when they are most needed.
A new shipment of Wonder Gro soil conditioner and root stimulator has arrived.
Zipp 16-8-8 zinc and iron fertilizer, 50 lb. bag covering 2,500 sq. ft., is just $6.99.
Purchase ammonium nitrate, 50 lb. bag, at $8.99.
And Fertillome Weed & Feed Special, 40 lb. bag covering 1,500 sq. ft., is $8.95.

Long Hours
Remember, A-1 Nursery, at 7500 82nd St., is open weekdays 8 a.m. until 6 p.m., and on Sundays from 1:30 p.m. until 5 p.m.

A-1 has a tremendous selection in its every department... well worth the drive to view and select... and save!
Area residents long have benefitted from the landscape design, installation and maintenance services of A-1, and these and other services still are available — plus the special benefits of the new shipments and the unheard-of sale here at beginning of the season.
For more than 20 years, area folks have been assisted by the services of Winfred Self, owner and operator of A-1 Nursery, since 1973 at its present expanded quarters.
Everything at the modern nursery is coordinated for the very best in service. A complete line is stocked including trees, shrubs, vines, fertilizers, insecticides and the numerous other nursery supplies.
The "know how" of Self and his experienced staff possibly is the biggest asset of A-1, however, as hundreds of customers can attest to the superior help there through the years.
"Come on out during the big sale this week and see for yourself how A-1 Nursery can meet your individual needs, at a price you'll appreciate. Just as your neighbor likely already is an enthusiastic A-1 customer, you, too, can benefit from the experience, the interest, the products and the prices of this firm that knows how to get the most into a South Plains landscape."

Cruz's Bicycle & Lawnmower Repair Shop, 4204 1/2 W. 19th St., has a tremendous stock of yard care products... lawnmowers, tillers, edgers, hand tools, etc., together with related products and with repair and rental services of extreme convenience.
Some may not realize that Cruz's has rental units.
It does have these, including lawn mowers, edgers, tillers, even a concrete mixer, gasoline-powered posthole digger, centrifugal water pumps, and more.
Bicycles are a big item, too, including new Vista and Ross units.

Plainview's Westridge Manor Said 'Most Unique Within Area'

"Yes, most emphatically, you can enjoy the privacy of 'at home' living with the security of a protected environment, at Westridge Manor, West Texas' most exclusive and unique retirement living facility, at 4304 West 2nd St., Westridge Park, Plainview (west of the Coca Cola plant on Interstate 27)."

Not a nursing home... and not an apartment complex but an "in-between" service, that is Westridge Manor in Plainview.

At this "different" retirement home, the residents live in casual elegance as explained by owner Joe Turner, where they receive no regimentation, no institutionalism and no commercialism.
Designed to be nice enough for his own mother, Turner planned Westridge Manor "for anybody's mom and dad."
One simply cannot understand the difference that is Westridge Manor without a personal visit (which is invited) but the following thumbnail sketch of pertinent features is bound to hint of the special type facility that has been provided.
There is no buy-in, no deposit, just monthly rent.
Westridge Manor is for retired ladies and gentlemen who may need minimum assistance.
High-quality home-style living is enabled at minimal cost.
There is the privacy of one's own living quarters.

Residents may use their own furniture if preferred.
Many Services Included
The following services are included at no extra charge to the Manor's residents:
Maid service on a regular basis;
Meals prepared in a home-style manner, with special diets observed.
Mail service to one's room if desired.
Pick-up and delivery of pharmaceuticals, dry cleaning, flowers, etc.
Even van service to church, local activities, doctor, hospital, beauty and barber shops, shopping, etc.
Other services, provided at a slight additional charge, include telephone in one's own room, cable TV, and more.
Further Benefits Cited
Special features due for consideration include:
Large, private rooms, with private bath.
Full-time live-in manager-nurse;
Laundry room for personal items.
A concessions room with beverages available.

ACTIVITIES ROOM — The tastefully appointed activities area is one of the popular rooms and considerations at Westridge Manor where casual elegance is provided in retirement living.

LUBBOCK FIRM CAN ASSIST IN THE BIG JOBS OR SMALL ONE'S ALIKE

Leaseway-Southwest Services Seen Advantageous To Region

Leaseway-Southwest, at 409 E. 50th St., in Lubbock, offers a complete transportation service to busy companies that simply cannot devote the time, space or money required to own and maintain a fleet of vehicles, or in some instances, just one or two units. This progressive leasing firm provides transportation vehicles to serve any size or type business.

Full Service
 "Corporations as well as small operators find that full-service transportation package is more efficient from every standpoint."
 "Full service" as provided by Leaseway-Southwest Transportation Corp., is exactly what the name implies. The firm provides the maintenance and inspection and even supplies the fuel and pays the taxes on the vehicle!

 Personnel there are most adept, serving in a professional but considerate and friendly manner to meet the particular transportation needs of every customer.
 "We'd like to count you, too, among our customers."
 Upgrading and additions to its stock is a continuous operation at Leaseway-Southwest.
 Leaseway-Southwest's understanding of the short-term, peak and long-term needs of area industry and business is well recognized, contributing to its own growth, too.

Half-a-hundred Lubbock businesses (and even more) depend on Leaseway-Southwest for transportation vehicle needs.
 There must be a very good reason.
In Tune With Times
 Keeping abreast with the needs of the area is one of the convincing reasons. Leaseway-Southwest continually adds new equipment for rental and for full-time customers of this service-oriented firm.
 "Utilization of leased vehicles is the growing trend in transportation management" it is emphasized by Ken Wright, president.

Summer Driving Economy Receives Assist From Johnnie Johnson Exxon

"Have you been hearing all the good things about the superior Exxon Uniflo motor oil? But you thought it might be too expensive?
 Then there's good news:
 Let Johnnie Johnson make a "Spring Change Over" for your auto, changing to gas-saving Uniflo; and Johnnie will allow 50 cents per quart for your old oil!
 "Can't beat that, can you?"
 Judging from the rapidly increasing patronage, a lot of Lubbock folks are glad to rely upon Johnnie Johnson in his own business, the Johnnie Johnson Exxon at 34th Street and Knoxville Avenue!
 Johnnie, with over two decades experience (with one downtown Lubbock firm for 17 years as front end specialist and most recently as service manager) five months ago announced his ownership of the big facility on 34th Street.

 Features of Johnnie Johnson Exxon, phone 795-5942, include:
 Expert wheel alignment, with brake and front end work a specialty, and with quality Bear spin balancing and wheel alignment equipment utilized;
 Shocks, mufflers, tail pipes;
 Tires and batteries, together with other accessories;
 Oil filters and additives;
 -Even tune-ups! (A mechanic is on duty six days a week.)
 "Doesn't all this fit into your own needs for readying the family vehicles for summer travel?"
 A state inspection station, Johnnie Johnson Exxon is open seven days a week.

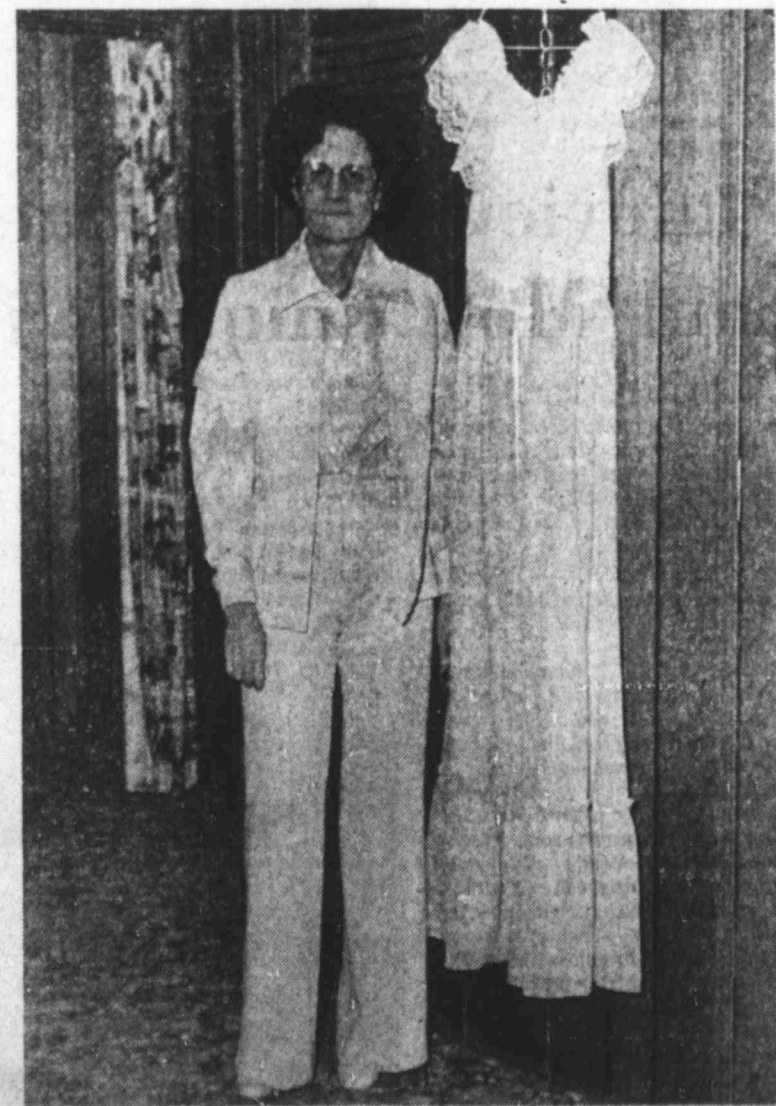

Huge access and parking aprons make "pulling in to Johnnie's" most convenient, and not only is this convenience to be appreciated, but the entire facility is attractive, clean and thoroughly geared to efficiency in customer service.
 Whether it is for gasoline, front end work or a tune up, whatever the service or product needed from Johnnie's, one can be assured that this veteran in the field sincerely appreciates the trade and confidence.
 "Johnnie has been around a long time and likely already has served you. He welcomes old friends and new ones alike to come in, visit, and form the habit of depending upon him... now at the 34th Street and Knoxville corner."

Vetral's Stages Sale As New Summer Arrivals Swell Stock

Vetral's Fashions is making it oh-so-easy to shop for Mother's Day!
 First, there are the current sale values, with 20 per cent reduction posted on all spring dresses and sportswear!
 Then, there are the racks chock full of new summer selections, with likely the prettiest assortment yet seen even at Vetral's.
 There are modish long dresses, short dresses, pants suits and sun dresses, all in fabrics, patterns and colors that clearly denote quality and desirability.
 See the gorgeous colors... peaches, yellows, whites, blues and all. See the feminine look so prevalent in new-season wear.
 Vetral's has it all!
 Everything at Vetral's is new nothing is in the expansive racks but fresh, delightful stock.
 "The Best for Less" is the meaningful slogan at Vetral's Fashions, located just east of Lubbock. Go east on the well-marked route, from Lubbock's East 4th Street, to north of the Roosevelt School. The drive takes less time than many instances of traffic fighting within one's own city area.
 Though open from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m., Vetral's is glad to open late for the convenience of customers wishing to shop at a later hour.
 This is just one of the thoughtful gestures of the smart apparel shop. (Remember, simply take FM 40 east of Lubbock for six miles, then go three-fourths mile south.) The fashion shop on the west side of the pavement is clearly marked and features easy access and plenty of paved parking. No congestion here! No high overhead here!
 Owners Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Davis traditionally assure real treats in fashion and quality at sensible prices. They and their capable assistants give the customer every benefit.
 Select from pant suits, coordinates, dresses, sweaters, blouses, etc., that reflect the care in which Vetral's buys and stocks.
 For those who already know the everyday low prices and the chic merchandise at Vetral's, enthusiasm naturally is being shown for the new spring arrivals. For those who may not have patronized Vetral's, now would be an excellent time to come out and shop while selection is at its best.

Vetral's can be called, directly (toll free) from Lubbock; dial 842-3376. Master Charge and Visa card use is welcomed.

NEW, GREAT FOR SEASON - Mrs. Jimmy Davis, owner of Vetral's Fashions, popular apparel shop just east of Lubbock, calls attention here to a long dress of poly and cotton, with the "in" feminine look, just one of the many chic arrivals for summer at Vetral's where all spring merchandise now is marked at sale prices.
