U.S. Freeing Spy In Three-Nation Prisoner Exchange

WASHINGTON (UPI) — State Department officials Monday prepared to release a convicted East German spy as part of a three-nation prisoner exchange, amid talk of a deal to free jailed Soviet dissident Anatoly Shcharansky.

the Soviets, for Alan Van Norman, a Minnesota college student imprisoned in East Germany since last summer for trying to smuggle a family out of the country.

garding more possible prisoner trades, State Department officials said.

The Thompson-Van Norman exchange would complete a three-nation swap that began when Miron Marcus, an Israeli citizen, was released along the Mozambique border Sunday.

Two For One Deal

"It was a two for one deal, which is a novelty in that business," said an aide to Rep. Benjamin Gilman, D-N.Y., who helped negotiate the trade. The aide said East German diplomats in Mozambique apparently exerted influence on that nation to free Marcus as part of the deal.

Thompson is serving a 30-year sentence at Lewisburg, Pa. federal prison, and a decision on his application for parole is scheduled to be made May 4. He is expected to be released then, or possibly sooner.

State Department spokesman Tom Reston said the release of Marcos was tied to an "agreement in principle" on the trade of Thompson for Van Norman.

"If there are no unforeseen last-minute circumstances, Thompson is expected to go to East Germany at the conclusion of his parole," Reston said. Reston said Vogel was coming to Washington, at Gilman's invitation, "to discuss a variety of subjects," including the Thompson-Van Norman exchange.

"I can state categorically that no discussions are taking place for an exchange for Mr. Shcharansky," he said. "Nevertheless, we do have a humanitarian interest in what happens to Mr. Shcharansky... I cannot rule out the possibility that Mr. Vogel may raise the subject of Mr. Shcharansky."

Powers Swap Recalled

Vogel, Van Norman's court-appointed lawyer, was instrumental in negotiating the 1962 swap of U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers for Soviet spy Rudolf Abel.

Aides to Gilman, a member of the New York "Save Anatoly Shcharansky Committee," said there was "no indication" yet on the prospects for Shcharansky's release.

Executive director Jerry Goodman of the National Conference on Soviet Jewry said he spoke by telephone with Shcharansky's wife, Avital, in Israel Monday and she knew of no formal efforts to win his freedom.

But Goodman said Vogel may be trying to set up a deal for Shcharansky involving large amounts of money from Flatto Sharon, a multi-millionaire who holds a seat in the Israeli parliament.

CIA Link Denied

The State Department has consistently denied Soviet charges that Shcharansky worked for the CIA, and Reston said the department would make no exchange for the 30-year-old computer programmer "which in any way would imply that Mr. Shcharansky was or is an agent of the U.S. government."

Thompson, 42, who says he was born in East Germany and served as a major in the Soviet intelligence service, was considered bait as long ago as 1975 for an exchange for Lawrence Lunt, a contract employee for the CIA serving a 30-year sentence for espionage in Cuba.

His attorney was angered over the three-nation swap, but aides to Gilman said Cuban Premier Fidel Castro has since proposed — through Vogel — that Lunt be exchanged for Lolita LeBron. She has been jailed for more than 20 years as one of several Puerto Rican nationalists convicted for a shooting attack on the U.S. House in 1954.

There were reports a deal for Shcharansky's release also could involve the release of either LeBron or at least 12 Chilean Communists jailed in the United States.

MART SURGES AHEAD

NEW YORK (AP) — A strong earnings report by Eastman Kodak spurred the stock market strongly ahead Monday in active trading, although the pace was not as frantic as that of a week ago. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial jumped 13.17 points to 826.06.

Teachers, 65, Buck Retirement

By JEFF SOUTH
Avalanche-Journal Staff
IT BECOMES an issue every year about this time: some teachers who have reached 65, the Lubbock Independent School District's mandatory retirement age, protest that they don't want to retire.

Now, in light of a federal law requiring that the age be raised to 70, the argument is a bit different.

A number of local teachers want the school system to implement the new law immediately — and not wait until the federal mandate automatically takes effect in 1979.

"Some teachers at age 65 are ready to go. Others want to work longer. We're hoping this new act of Congress would affect us, but apparently it won't. It doesn't go into effect until the first of January, so we miss out by about six months," said one senior educator.

"The only way we could stay on is for the school board to go ahead and comply with this federal law now. They'll have to do it eventually. Changing the retirement age immediately would allow teachers who turned 65 during the past school year to have the option to continue teaching," she said.

At the moment, however, the school district has no such plans.

Dr. E.C. Leslie, assistant superintendent for administration, whose area of responsibility includes district policies and personnel, said the school system probably will wait until 1979 to revise its mandatory retirement rules.

"This is not something we can just jump into," Leslie said. "There are many considerations involved."

He said school district attorneys will be asked to review the new law and recommend to the board an appropriate policy for implementation next year.

Briscoe Pledges Nursing Project Funds Support

By PAULA TILKER
Avalanche-Journal Staff
INCUMBENT Dolph Briscoe pledged financial support Monday for a School of Nursing at Texas Tech University, and tossed barbed remarks at John Hill, his leading Democratic opponent in the governor's race.

Briscoe, up for re-election to a second four-year term, campaigned briefly at the Lubbock County Courthouse and toured the Health Sciences Center Hospital.

At the hospital, Tech President Cecil Mackey explained to Briscoe that the medical school has "many well-qualified candidates (for nurses) and no programs to offer them."

Securing funding for a nursing school, which has been approved by the Coordinating Board, will be "on top of our agenda, and we would appreciate your support," Mackey added.

Briscoe promised he would support a bill for financial aid during the next legislative session.

Mackey said he understands the governor's remarks to mean "flat, unqualified

Clovis Okays $2.4 Million Bond Issue

CLOVIS, N.M. (Special) — Residents here approved a $2.4 million bond issue for the expansion of the Clovis campus of Eastern New Mexico University by more than five to one.

Election judges said 1,973 voters approved of the measure, while only 391 cast ballots against the proposal.

The money will be added to $1.8 million in state and federal funds for construction of a 110,000-square-foot complex to house academic and vocational study programs.

Campus business manager Jim Turner said the facility would provide space for courses in electro-mechanics, refrigeration, licensed practical nursing, office occupations, art drafting and also a student lounge.

The campus expanded to offer vocational courses in 1971. Since then, the college has grown from 214 full-time students to 633 in 1977.

The bond issue will be utilized during a 15-year time period, Turner said.

Governor Trips On Vote Law

LUBBOCKITES on their way to vote absentee in the governor's race Monday may have done a double take to see one of the men listed on the ballot passing them in the courthouse halls with an outstretched hand, a wide smile and the greeting, "Hi, I'm Dolph Briscoe."

Less than three feet from where a couple of voters sat puzzling over ballots, the incumbent governor, with his wife at his side and a retinue of supporters milling behind him, swept through the county clerk's office to hurriedly shake a few hands and murmur a few greetings.

The brief moments of campaigning could cost Briscoe up to $500, if anyone cared to press charges that he violated an election law that states no one can electioneer within 30 feet of an absentee voting poll.

No Warning Signs

However, in all fairness to Briscoe, who was in Lubbock for the afternoon to campaign, no signs were posted warning of the polling site's proximity.

That, too, is a violation of the Texas Election Code, which states that the clerk's office is responsible for preventing electioneering within 30 feet of the polling place and for putting up warning signs.

When asked by The Avalanche-Journal about the apparent omission, county clerk Frank Guess said he is unsure what the law requires.

But, he added, it virtually would be impossible to "rope off" the absentee voting area, which is on the second floor of the county courthouse.

Candidates Come, Go

And, Guess noted, candidates in several races walk through the area constantly each day. In fact, he said, he is a candidate for re-election, and his office opens onto the voting corridor.

Alton Griffin, criminal district attorney, is up for re-election, and he, too, has offices on the same floor with the absentee voting poll.

Guess said the list could be expanded to include County Judge Rod Shaw, who has offices on the courthouse's first floor but who "walks up here several times a day."

He indicated no plans to correct the situation.

Voters Return To Polls In Runoff Today

LUBBOCK voters will return to the polls today to accomplish what they failed to do earlier this month—elect by clear majority a Place 3 city councilman.

Bob Schmidt and M.J. "Bud" Aderton advanced to today's runoff election after gathering the most votes in the April-1 general election.

The same polling sites used in that election will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. today, and the same punch card and vote-counting methods will be used.

Votes will be canvassed and a winner sworn in Thursday morning during the regular city council meeting in council chambers.

No more than about 10,000 voters are expected to turn out at the polls today, most political observers say. They cite as a reason the generally low-key campaigns waged by Schmidt and Aderton and the fact that only 71 Lubbockites cast absentee ballots during three weeks of voting.

Aderton, 70, is a retired businessman who polled 38 percent of the Place 3

Parents Plan Protest Of 'Excessive Force'

By ESTHER LONGORIA
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A GROUP of Hale Center parents are claiming excessive force is being used to discipline their children at North Elementary School, and they plan to demonstrate at the school today to protest the situation.

"The Concerned Citizens of Hale Center," many of them parents of fourth- and fifth-graders at North Elementary, allege that Principal Haden Moore has used "excessive force" in disciplining the youngsters.

Moore said Monday night he thought the accusation was a "one-sided situation."

"I think the superintendent will put out a statement soon about the situation," he added.

Supt. James Langford, along with five Hale Center school board members, refused to comment Monday on the allegation. A sixth board member, Gene Alexander, could not be reached for comment late Monday.

More than 60 persons were slated to protest today, according to Linda Gomez, the group's spokeswoman. She said many parents also had pulled their children out of the schools today to further dramatize their point.

For the past few years, children have been subjected to excessive bruising and maltreatment at the hands of Moore, Mrs. Gomez, the mother of a four-year-old daughter, said. "I may not have a child at North Elementary now, but I understand what those mothers are going through," she added.

"Discipline is fine but not taken to these extremes," Mrs. Gomez said. See SCHOOL FUSS Page 14

Settlement Looms In Bonds Dispute

IN EXCHANGE for certain unspecified conditions on the city, James Marshall will withdraw his lawsuit seeking to block the sale of $1.73 million in airport revenue bonds, The Avalanche-Journal has learned.

City attorneys are expected to draft a legal opinion about Marshall's proposals today, City Manager Larry Cunningham said. Mayor Dirk West and city staffers may meet again today with Ray Chapman, a Realtor acting on Marshall's behalf, to decide whether to negotiate an out-of-court settlement, Cunningham said.

Attorneys Given Stipulations

The attorneys were given copies of the lengthy stipulations to review Monday night, following a two-hour, late-afternoon meeting during which Chapman proposed the settlement to West and city staffers.

Both Chapman and Cunningham declined to release a copy of Marshall's demands. Cunningham said he prefers to allow the legal staff time to study them. And Chapman said he did not have an extra copy of them.

However, Chapman did say the stipulations concern "mostly assurance of the building" of the proposed airport parking facility, which is to be financed with bond sale proceeds.

Although no party involved in the negotiation meeting would divulge any discussion details, West said that no staff comments were expressed about the proposals, which were read by Chapman while Marshall waited outside the mayor's office.

Chapman, who said he is a long time friend to Marshall, acknowledged that he originated the idea of a negotiated settlement. He said he asked Marshall recently whether a compromise could be reached.

Volunteers To Mediate

And when Marshall answered that he had certain conditions he would want met, Chapman said he volunteered to mediate the dispute.

West said he was unaware of the intention until he received a telephone call from Chapman about 4:30 p.m. Monday. The Realtor said he wanted to meet with West to discuss a possible out-of-court settlement, the mayor said.

He then met with Chapman, Cunningham, city trial attorney Jim Brewster, and finance director Sterling Miller, West added. Cunningham was to inform the remainder of the city council members of the meeting Monday evening, West said.

"There's not a news story at this point," he added.

In his latest of more than a dozen lawsuits, Marshall filed an injunctive motion to stop the sale of airport revenue bonds.

The bonds, which according to state enabling legislation do not have to be approved by voters, were approved by the city council on April 5, a day before Marshall filed suit.

The long time city hall critic, who lost a mayoral bid earlier this month, claims in his suit that the ordinance authorizing the bond sale was not handled properly.

According to the petition, the ordinance See SETTLEMENT Page 14

STEAM STILL RISES — Steam still rises at Geyserville, Calif., power station in Northern California where surveyor William Bell Elliott, more than 130 years ago, feared he'd stumbled on "the gates of hell." The Geysers, as the locals

Geothermal Energy Sought In California Valley

GEYSERVILLE, Calif. (AP) — Etched in the folklore of the rugged Northern California mountain country is the legend of surveyor William Bell Elliott, who saw mysterious vapors drifting from the earth and feared he'd stumbled upon "the gates of hell."

More than 130 years later, Elliott's gates are still steaming, accompanied today by the noise and bustle of power plants, trucks, pipes and people striving to harness the steam as energy to light and power millions of homes.

The Geysers, as the locals call this picturesque area 90 miles north of San Francisco, is the world's largest geothermal energy facility.

The glittering white steam is formed deep below the earth's crust by natural radioactive and frictional forces and the hot molten mass called magma churning at the earth's core.

Described by some as Mother Nature's boiler, the magma is still cooling from the formation of the planet and comes within five to 10 miles of the surface in rare areas.

In such places, the magma releases natural gases and water vapor which mix with water contained in rocks, creating a steam which slips to the surface through fissures.

The early Indians called these steaming canyons north of the famed wine country "the valley of a thousand smokes."

Most of that storybook atmosphere is gone now, yielding to a network of drills and pipes which route the steam to the surface and point it at electricity-generating turbines.

Drilling is done by Union Oil Co. of California with supporting efforts by Magma and Thermal Power companies. The steam removed from the earth is sold to Pacific Gas & Electric Co., which converts it to electricity.

PG&E spokesman Barry Cossette said the Geysers currently accounts for 6 per cent of the utility's energy output. Plans exist to increase it to 10 per cent in the 1980s. The firm serves 5.7 million people in Northern and Central California.

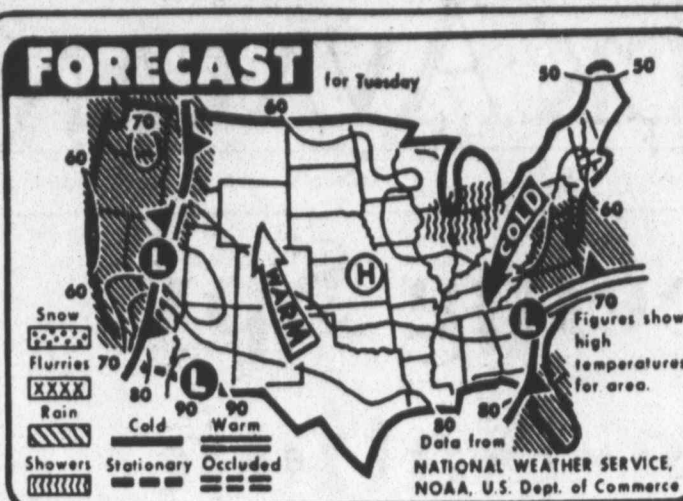

So far, the price is right. Geothermal is PG&E's least expensive form of power, costing 1.7 cents per kilowatt to produce. Oil, the most expensive, costs 4.5 cents for the same kilowatt.

Even critics of geothermal energy concede it is one of the cleanest sources of power available. The major drawback is a strong one — it stinks. Processing the steam causes hydrogen sulfide to mix with the air, triggering an odor of rotten eggs.

James Gordon, chairman of the Lake County board of supervisors, said the residents, already disturbed by landscape changes caused by the power plants, insist that the smell problem be resolved.

"Nothing short of a dramatic... clean up of the existing power plants will resolve this problem," he said.

The Geysers' is one of only three geothermal areas in the world producing steam. There are scores of other active and potential geothermal sites but they produce hot water which FGOE says creates astronomical problems, including corrosion of pipes.

WEATHER FORECAST — The National Weather Service forecast for today predicts a large area of rain in the western part of the nation, and large areas of rain in the eastern portion of the nation. An area of showers is predicted for parts of the upper Midwest. (AP Laserphoto)

Mercury Dips As Front Hits

Northeasterly winds which gusted up to 25 mph Monday in the Lubbock area should settle to 10-15 mph and shift to the southeast today as a cold front passes over the state.

The front should keep temperatures in the upper 70s today and Wednesday and hold the overnight low in the upper 40s.

A warming trend is expected to move into the area by late Wednesday, but may be quickly overcome by another cool front Friday, producing weather conditions similar to today's.

The cool front which invaded central portions of Texas Monday, may produce a few showers east of Pecos through Thursday and Friday as the front continues to move southeast.

Monday, the system triggered severe thunderstorms in central and eastern portions of the Lone Star state. The National Weather Service issued a severe thunderstorm warning at 7:30 p.m. Monday for Henderson, Van Zandt, Anderson, Travis and Blanco counties as a line of severe thunderstorms producing baseball-sized hail earlier in the day moved into those counties.

As central Texas battled thundershowers, West Texans enjoyed generally mild spring weather as Lubbock's high climbed to 76. The morning low was recorded at 45.

Under fair skies winds from the north-east zipped across the South Plains Monday morning in gusts up to 30 mph, but had settled to about 15 mph by the afternoon with occasional gusts as high as 25 mph.

Water Task Force Meets

A-J Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Members of the governor's reconstituted Water Task Force met Monday, hearing reports on efforts to form a national water policy, and getting a pep talk from Water Development Board Chairman A.L. Black of Friona.

Black called the Texas water problems "so large that even a Texan can't lie about it," and told the group, consisting largely of top officials from various river authorities and municipal water districts, his agency would be calling on them for assistance.

Black, also commented that water is "one of the resources we're running out of (in Texas)...as fast or faster than our energy," adding that while there are alternate fuel sources, there is no substitute for water.

The task force voted to meet quarterly on the first Wednesday in April, July, October and January, and at the call of its chairman, Department of Water Resources Executive Director Harvey Davis.

The group will be subdivided into three major committees: Federal Policy and Programs, State Policy and Programs, and Information and Coordination. The last panel is to serve as a contract committee with "outside" groups, such as the League of Women Voters and regional councils of governments, on water matters.

Solar Power Space Vehicle Designed

ATLANTA (AP) — The technology for satellite generation of enough solar power to light 1 million homes has been developed and could be put to use before the end of this century, an official of the Boeing Aerospace Co. said Monday.

Ralph Mansen, manager of the Space-Solar Power Systems for the Seattle aerospace firm, told the annual meeting of the Aviation-Space Writers Association that the technology to harness the sun's power "is with us today — it calls for application of current technologies rather than invention of new sciences."

Mansen said the necessary components for an orbiting solar power station exist today "and we can essentially buy it off the shelf."
"We will be able to deliver commercially available electricity at a price that will compete with any other new source in the 1990s," he said. "There is no real limit to the amount of power that can be supplied."

Boeing engineers have come up with a design that calls for a rectangular-shaped satellite covering an area of about 1 1/2 miles by three miles — almost 50 square miles, or the size of a small city. It would be stationed in sun-synchronous orbit, 22,000 miles above the earth. In that position the satellite would remain in sunlight 99 percent of the time and thus would provide continuous power, Mansen said.

The satellite would be capable of producing electricity to light one million

Beach Boy Nabbed In Tucson Motel

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Dennis Wilson, drummer for The Beach Boys music group, was arrested Monday after a 16-year-old girl allegedly was found with him in his hotel room, police said.

Wilson, 32, was booked and held at Pima County Jail for investigation of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. The girl, whose identity was not released, was taken to the county Juvenile Court Center for investigation of violating curfew.

Police Sgt. Bob Sulzbach said Wilson's arrest at the hotel "apparently involved a party with some underage people there."

On Sunday night, the group had performed at the University of Arizona.

homes or run thousands of factories, he said.

A bill pending in Congress would provide $25 million in the next year's budget for development of a solar power satellite, and would get the program off to a strong start, Mansen said.

Mansen said Boeing and other manufacturers are trying to determine how much the satellite and its solar generated power would cost.

Revenue from one solar power satellite producing 10,000 megawatts of electricity could yield $78.8 billion in 30 years at a rate of 30 mills per kilowatt, which currently is the cost of electricity generated by oil burning generation plants, he estimated.

PARENTS' PRIMER OF GENETICS

Genes Carry Key To Development Of Humans

Although the study of human genetics is complex, the fundamentals of human inheritance can be simplified so that they are understandable to individuals who wish to be knowledgeable about all aspects of their medical and reproductive care. The basic explanation that follows is crucial for anyone who wants to understand how parents pass their traits—both healthy and unhealthy—to their children.

The nucleus of every healthy human cell contains 46 thread-like strands of genetic material called chromosomes. At certain times, these 46 chromosomes can be seen to exist as 23 separate pairs.

The major exception to this rule of 46 chromosomes is the human sex cells—the sperm and the egg. Each of these cells contains exactly half as many chromosomes as the other body cells. Thus, when the sperm, with its 23 chromosomes, and the egg, with its 23 chromosomes, unite, a new cell is created which contains all of the basic blueprints necessary to eventually develop into a complete human being.

This newly-created cell contains 46 chromosomes—in 23 pairs—with half of them inherited from each parent. The new cell is a prototype for each cell that will grow in the future person's body. This is why a child can often be seen to possess certain traits of each parent.

Half of a child's traits may not come from one parent and half from the other, however, because certain characteristics dominate others.

Each newly formed cell must grow and multiply billions of times within the mother's womb before a new human being is ready to be born. And in each of the myriad cell divisions, the offspring cells will contain an exact duplicate of the original set of 46 chromosomes that was formed when the father's sperm and the mother's egg first united.

There are many thousands of possible variations that can occur when the cell of a set of parents unite. Each sperm and each egg, for example, carry the potential to create a different human being. Such variations are able to occur because each chromosome is actually made up of many hundreds of genes.

Genes are chemical complexes of information that govern the specific traits that a person will develop. They are each located at a particular spot on a particular chromosome. The genes are composed of a chemical called deoxyribonucleic acid, called DNA for short. The amazing thing about this complex chemical, DNA, is the way it can exactly replicate itself. And it's all microscopic—even smaller than the tiny solid state components that have been so publicized as being ultra-miniature!

'Since there are so many genes within each of our cells, a few are likely to be abnormal. Indeed, we know that each human being inevitably carries several faulty genes.'

Just as the 46 chromosomes are paired into 23 sets, so too are the genes on those chromosomes. It has been estimated that each human cell contains enough genes to govern about 50,000—separate traits.

The genes account for all of our inherited characteristics—from hair and eye color, to skin shade, baldness characteristics and components of our various components of our various internal organs systems.

Since there are so many genes within each of our cells, a few are likely to be abnormal. Indeed, we know that each human being inevitably carries several faulty genes. Rarely, however, do each of the two parents carry the same defective genes. Thus, when sperm and egg meet, the healthy genes from one parent frequently overshadow—or dominate—the harmful effects of the faulty genes from the other parent with which they are paired. That is why each of us can carry several potentially dangerous genes without apparent ill effects.

It is significant that abnormal genes are not the only ones that can dominate or be dominated. Indeed, all of the genes are subject to this possibility, hence certain eye color or other characteristics can be dominated by their counterparts.

In addition to the interaction of many genes, it is also probably that certain environmental factors—such as drugs, viruses, nutrition or radiation, for example—can adversely affect the development of a new fetus.

Genetic disorders, then, can be classified into three basic groups:

• The chromosome disorders, including Down syndrome, other forms of inherited retardation and a number of sex chromosome disorders.

• Disorders caused by single pairs of genes, such as Tay Sachs disease, sickle cell anemia, cystic fibrosis and hemophilia.

• Disorders caused by a number of pairs of genes and their reaction with environmental factors, called multifactorial disorders. This category includes diseases such as spina bifida (open spine), clubfoot and cleft palate.

Arkansas Seminar For Handicapped Programs Set

A workshop on developing sheltered work programs for the handicapped will be held in Little Rock, Ark., Wednesday thru Friday, by the Texas Tech University Research and Training Center in Mental Retardation and the Arkansas Department of Mental Retardation Development Disabilities Services.

Attending the session will be approximately 70 persons representing state schools, community agencies, day service centers, and rehabilitation facilities serving handicapped individuals in Arkansas.

The workshop will be coordinated by Joan Lydic, training officer with the Arkansas Center. Darrell Ruterford, also a training officer, will assist in conference proceedings.

Instruction will include setting up work programs and developing training programs for handicapped individuals.

Speakers will be James O'Hara, wage-hour analyst, U.S. Department of Social and Rehabilitation Services, Little Rock; and Sylvia Galloway, educational training consultant, Department of Mental Retardation Development Disabilities Services, Little Rock.

The Texas Tech Research and Training Center is one of 19 such centers nationwide. Texas Tech's is one of three national centers that specializes in the study of mental retardation and other handicapping conditions.

Zoo Worker Saves Girl From Leopard

STONEHAM, Mass. (UPI) — A 10-year-old Houston girl was rescued from a black leopard during the weekend by a zoo attendant.

Victoria Waller was watching a program called "Earth Watch" at Walter M. Stone Memorial Zoo Friday with her mother, Virginia.

Police said the girl stepped too close to a leopard's cage in the zoo's mammal house. The adult black male leopard reached a paw through the bars and grabbed her by the hair.

Police said Sally Budrow, 24, of Rockport, Mass., a zoo attendant, was clawed by the animal as she pulled the girl away.

Senate Candidate Raps Utility Board

By SYLVIA TEAGUE

The Public Utilities Commission "should never have been established because it removes local control over utility rates," Delwin Jones, Democratic candidate for the state senate said Monday.

Jones told Avalanche-Journal editors he would fight to do away with the commission because it has caused West Texans to pay higher utility bills.

West Texans, who traditionally have some of the lowest rates in the state according to Jones, are not paying "blended rates for all the state." "Without the Public Utilities Commission, West Texans ought to be paying lower rates," he said.

Jones, a former four-term state representative, also said he would vote to reduce the state sales tax to reduce the state's budgetary surplus.

He said he would support a wellhead tax to finance public schools in Texas to take some of the burden off local taxpayers.

Jones said he voted for the Equal Rights Amendment both times it came before the Texas legislature and said he would support the amendment if the word "sex" was changed to "gender".

"I voted for it on the premise that it was for equal job responsibility and equal pay for equal work," he said. The change in wording would prevent homosexuals from claiming they have equal rights under the amendment, he said.

Jones said achievement and experience are the biggest issues in the race. He noted that former state Rep. E.L. Short of Tahoka comes closest to Jones' eight years in the legislature with seven years and five months of service.

However, Short has been present for one less session, he said.

Short will be his major opponent in agricultural areas, Jones said. However, he predicted that the top three candidates in the five-man Democratic contest are former Lubbock mayor Morris Turner, Texas Tech University regent Don Workman

Vasquez Draws Term in Abuse Case

By FRANK PATRICK

Avalanche-Journal Staff

A Lubbock man received a three-year prison term Monday after pleading guilty to the offense of injury to a child.

Pleading guilty before 99th District Judge Thomas L. Clinton was Simon Vasquez Jr., 24, of 315 53rd St.

Vasquez pleaded guilty to injuring his one-year-old son on Sept. 15, 1977. The range of punishment for injury to a child, a second degree felony, is from two to 20 years.

A statement introduced during the proceeding indicated that another of Vasquez's sons, an infant of less than two months, received a broken leg on the same date.

A statement from the mother of the two children, who was 19 at the time of the incident, said she had left the house where she and Vasquez were living about 9:30 a.m. Sept. 15 to apply for a job.

The woman said she returned home at approximately 2 p.m. and noticed the one-year-old had bruises on him.

According to the statement, Vasquez ordered the one-year-old boy to walk and apparently became angry when he could not do so.

"Simon picked (the boy) up and started hitting him hard. He was hitting him with a closed fist," the statement says.

The woman indicated she asked Vasquez not to hit the child, and that he began hitting her, telling her to leave him alone or he would hit the boy more.

"Finally Simon just threw (the one-year-old boy) across the room and he hit against the wall. When he hit the wall the wall cracked," the statement reads.

The mother said the boy began having convulsions. "When (the boy) began having convulsions Simon got mad and started hitting him again," the statement says.

The woman indicated Vasquez eventually left the residence to go to band practice.

She said she was taken by a relative to the police station and that the boy was transported to a local hospital.

The statement says it was later found that the infant, also a male, had suffered a broken leg.

Medical testimony indicated the one-

AN EDITORIAL:

This Bell Toils For Us All

ATTY. GEN. Griffin Bell's decision to prosecute the big fish and turn the little ones loose is arguable, but in an imperfect world less than perfect justice may be the best that can be achieved.

Ever since Bell took office, he has been haunted by the question of how to deal with the illegal break-ins and wiretaps conducted by the FBI in New York in the early 1970's in the pursuit of fugitive Weather Underground radicals.

The Justice Department investigation Bell inherited left much to be desired; just how much so has only recently become evident.

EARLY MISTAKES were compounded by the indictment of John J. Kearney, a former FBI supervisor in New York. It wasn't the decision to prosecute Kearney that created an uproar, but the fact that for one solid year Kearney remained the only FBI official under the gun—the apparent "scapegoat" for higher-ups.

Now Bell has dismissed the case against Kearney, on grounds that he was only following orders, and moved against those who headed the FBI at the time of the alleged illegal entries which he is now charged with authorizing.

WHILE IT'S hard to quarrel with Bell's decision to prosecute the hapless Gray, last seen twisting slowly, slowly in the wind in the Watergate era, it is difficult to feel much satisfaction at his present legal jeopardy.

Anyone familiar with the FBI which Gray so briefly and ignominiously directed knows he was swimming in polluted waters, pulled along by currents not of his own creation.

At first blush, the decision to drop the charges against Kearney and to forego prosecution of any other underlings as well smacks of an unhealthy acceptance of the old Nuremberg defense that those who follow orders cannot be held legally accountable for their actions.

Bell apparently made the right decision inasmuch as the lesser agents granted immunity provided no useful information—since they had none to offer on the original source of the orders they followed.

The reverberations and recriminations will continue for a long while. What is essential now is that Bell and the new FBI director, William Webster, get on with rebuilding the bureau and setting forth clear guidelines for its conduct.

AN EDITORIAL:

Cupboard Bare Of Jawboners

JAWBONING, AS employed by the late Lyndon Johnson, occasionally proved to be a stunningly effective technique of big government. So far, President Carter has given no indication of wanting to be another LBJ, which right off the bat raises a serious question as to the prospects of his anti-inflation program.

Honing native skills in negotiation, compromise and arm-twisting to an ultra-fine edge over many years in Capitol Hill cloakrooms, Johnson wielded them on a grander scale from the White House in persuading leaders of Congress, business, labor and other power centers to view crucial issues of the day the LBJ way.

CARTER, ON the other hand, seems to prefer programs whose success or lack thereof hinges essentially on response to his call for volunteers.

Labor is asked voluntarily to accept a lower rate of wage increase than it feels justified. Business is asked voluntarily to freeze or keep extremely cool price increases and executive salaries.

Even in those areas where, as chief executive, Carter says he's ready to take direct action, some degree of cooperation from Congress will be required, e.g., holding pay increases for 3.5 million federal workers to 5.5 per cent.

THE ONLY unquestioning cooperation the President may find immediately forthcoming will be from his Cousin Cheap.

HENRY J. TAYLOR:

Investment In Bonds Vital To The Economy

THE STOCK MARKET, plunging like "Roscoe" the 1,200-pound diving horse at Atlantic City, is loaded with implications for President Carter. No President in history has ever been re-elected in a bear (declining) market. But the fall diverts our attention from America's workhorses: bonds.

Stocks are, in effect, fractional partnerships in companies. You pay your money and you take your chances. And as a source of corporate funds, stocks have a vital role. Make no mistake about that.

But bond investment, supposedly less risky than stocks, is a true touchstone for our future, decisive in expanding our property. Jobs, payrolls, the human welfare of our people and the whole fabric of expansion or contraction are directly and inevitably affected.

WITHOUT BONDS, we simply could not have the America we have today, nor can we have the America we hope for in the future.

Industrial and utility bonds are mortgages on the company's property. They are a loan to the enterprise. They bear a fixed rate of interest. They have a stated maturity. But bonds are fixed-income securities and the investment community believes that inflationary forces mean avoiding them.

The result is lethal in the demand for bonds. The big, steady, indispensable buyers of bonds are banks, insurance companies, pension portfolios, trust funds, mortgage sources, educational and hospital funds, etc. And look at the switch to stocks.

The Security & Exchange Commission reports that private pension funds have only 32 percent of their total assets in bonds and 60 percent in stocks.

THE U.S. OFFICE of Education, in turn, surveyed the endowment portfolios of 135 colleges and universities. It finds they now average 54 percent in stocks compared to 38 percent in 1950.

Or take electric power utilities. Historically, electric power use has doubled about every 10

Hugh Carter, whose anti-inflationary functions include keeping unneeded White House lights switched off and canceling staff limousine privileges.

But any program that bases future success in the ability of individual and contradictory interests to rise above themselves automatically invites problems.

The voluntary approach may have some inhibiting effect on an inflation rate now at 7 per cent and heading toward double digits providing there is an effective follow-through.

THIS IS NOT, however, an area in which the Carter White House has shown itself particularly adept to date. On energy, the trade deficit and the coal strike, for example, it has been inclined to suggest politely rather than push persistently.

Ultimately, the most effective part of the Carter anti-inflation program may be Robert Strauss. As anti-inflation coordinator, Strauss brings to the task an impressive record as a master persuader and political doer.

As Democratic National Chairman, he bound up the party's financial and factional wounds in time for the 1976 victory and for the past year has been trying to persuade the Japanese to open up their market to U.S. goods and ease the U.S. payments deficit.

Now there's a fellow who knows his jawboning.

Between A Rock And A Hard Place

ROWLAND EVANS & ROBERT NOVAK:

No Names, Please

EVANS

WASHINGTON—The state of Jimmy Carter's global human rights campaign in its second year was reflected on his visit to Nigeria when a vague, super-cautious intimation that even African nations sometimes abuse their citizens was barely kept in his speech.

The original version of President Carter's speech in Lagos contained a more candid statement opposing human rights violations in Africa. But Richard Moose, Assistant Secretary of State for African Affairs, fought like a tiger to get it out.

Presidential speechwriter James Fallows fought back, and the result was a watered-down compromise.

No such caution was shown at the President's previous stop in Brazil, which like Nigeria is under military rule. Carter did not hesitate to men-

ANDREW TULLY:

I Prefer 'em Plain

WASHINGTON—Given the Eastern Establishment's proclivity for the precious, it was inevitable that its snooty members would look down their patrician noses at the good ole boys in Jimmy Carter's White House.

The main complaint seems to be that because the Jody Powells, Hamilton Jordans & Co. are Georgians they display a congenial lack of style and grace.

Implicit in the criticism is that they don't have the proper "cultural" background that would cause them to whisper sweet nothings about Picasso paintings and the ballet instead of soaking up beer and amaretto in low saloons.

Worse is the suggestion that nobody from anywhere in Dixie is suitable to decorate the White House. The exquisites of the East yearn for the day when the Carterites will be replaced by Ivy League types.

TO EMPLOY a Russian phrase, it is well known that this village scold seldom goes out of his way to say anything nice about anyone in the governing estate. Give a pipsy to a bureaucrat or a politician and tomorrow he'll demand the whole flower shop.

But in its snobbish disdain for Carter's Georgians, the Eastern Establishment has revived the Civil War. It is sneering at a whole section of the country for reasons having to do mostly with how to hold a tea cup or sip a dry sherry.

The sin of the Powells and Jordans is that they not only are Southerners and therefore are declassé, they don't even try to behave at least like graduates of Wall Street.

IRONICALLY, MOST of the criticism comes from Democrats, who are all the time posing as the party of the plain people.

At night they dream of John Kennedy's Camelot and even of Harry Truman, who compensated for his Missouri birth by hiring such members of the elite as Dean Acheson.

Jody Powell and Hamilton Jordan say "ain't." After hours, they shoot the breeze with old pals instead of showing up at drinking bouts celebrating the opening of an art show by some joker who can't draw. In short, they behave naturally, like natural human beings.

I don't know how smart these two men are. Sometimes they do dumb things. So did Jack Kennedy when he launched an invasion of Cuba without air cover.

SO DID EVEN my favorite Secretary of State, Dean Acheson, when he precipitated the Korean War by casting South Korea outside the fence of American protection.

But what matters is whether Powell and Jordan serve their President. All the evidence shows they have Carter's confidence, that they do his bidding rather than theirs, that they preserve and protect a man sitting in an office that needs all the loyalty and dedication it can get.

Consequently, their Establishment critics have been reduced to ridiculing them because of their geographical origin. In that respect, they live up to the tradition that says "aristocrats" have the divine right to be ill-mannered. Give me the inbred courtesy and grace of a Savannah gas station attendant any time.

tion human rights differences with the Brazilians and conferred with Roman Catholic Cardinal Paul Arns, a liberal dissenter against the regime.

THE CONTRAST is no accident. After early anti-Soviet emphasis, the Carter human rights crusade has taken this peculiar course: while pulling no punches in assailing anti-Communist dictatorships for their human rights transgressions, Washington often looks the other way at abuses by neutralist dictatorships—particularly in black Africa.

That fits the global strategy chartered by ideological young policymakers at the State Department but offends other liberals in the administration. "It gets hypocritical when we're attacking Brazil and Chile but close our eyes to human rights violations in Africa," one presidential aide told us.

He and others did not believe Carter should ignore such violations on a continent where there is mass murder in Uganda, slave labor in Equatorial Guinea, political repression in a dozen other countries and freedom almost nowhere.

So the draft of his Lagos speech contained a statement that, without mentioning Uganda or any other country by name, condemned what goes on there.

BUT THAT VIOLATED the policy, sculpted by UN Ambassador Andrew Young and Assistant Secretary Moose, of courting black Africa at any price (including rejection of moderate biracial solutions in southern Africa). Moose contended that single statement would doom the President in Africa.

That's when speechwriter Fallows, a liberal young journalist from Texas, stepped in. There were reports he threatened to resign, though well-informed presidential aides tell us it never got that far.

He finally managed to get these two watery sentences through Moose's censorship: "Our concern for human rights extends throughout this continent and throughout the world. Whatever ideology or the power of the race of a government that abuses the rights of its people, we oppose those abuses." No names mentioned, of course.

The Moose-Fallows clash was fought without appeal to Carter, but the President himself is not immune.

ON APRIL 2, HE admitted to a press conference he had not mentioned Uganda's egregious Gen. Idi Amin or his anti-human rights outrages to Lt. Gen. Olusegun Obasanjo, Nigeria's chief of state.

The President next declared "gratitude" that "the organization of African states" has condemned "black leaders" who "deprive persons of human rights."

In fact, last year's meeting of the Organization of African Unity (OAU), which we attended, lionized Idi Amin and issued not one word of criticism against atrocities in Uganda or anywhere on the continent.

Carter wound up equating the United States and Nigeria in making "every effort to enhance human rights." Actually, non-ideological Freedom House calls Nigeria "partly free" and gives it a "5" rating in political rights out of a worst possible "7" (worse than Brazil's "4").

THE PRESIDENT WAS comparing the U.S. to a country where public executions are held, where American newsmen are excluded and where military rule still prevails.

Why this extraordinary treatment for Nigeria? One cynical, high-ranking U.S. official says there is "three-letter answer": oil.

But far more important than dependence on Nigeria as the second-largest oil supplier of the U.S. is its supposed leadership role in black Africa.

If Nigeria wants no talk about the Cuban expeditionary force or black African repression, that is not forced by Young, Moose & Co. as too large a price for friendship.

That actually supports the traditionalist view that foreign policy cannot be based strictly on human rights performance.

But why a double standard for leftist black Africa and rightish Latin America? Since it is hard to argue enlightened self-interest, the suspicion arises that ideological preferences at certain levels of the State Department now shape foreign policy, just as they did the speech at Lagos.

VIRGINIA PAYETTE:

One Dip, Not Two

CHASING CROOKS, fighting fires and collecting garbage is risky, all right, but the most dangerous job around is working for Uncle Sam.

That's the only conclusion any logical taxpayer can leap to once he gets a look at the number of federal employees who retire on disability pensions.

One out of four, it is; and that's not only startling, it's expensive.

You may not be able to put away much toward your own "golden years," but (and maybe this is why) you're paying a large share of the more than $2 billion a year that goes to ailing retirees from the federal trough.

That's a jump of almost 300 percent in 10 years. And while it may take a bit of doing to puzzle out what is so hazardous about sorting paper clips all day, the Civil Service routinely approves 95 percent of all disability applications.

IN 1975, FOR instance, 421,000 signed out sickly. About 60 percent of those were from Civil Service, making it the highest-risk labor in the federal branch.

Not only that, whatever wounds they suffer on the job tend to be the chronic kind that plague them for the rest of their lives. In 1976, only one percent recovered enough to be taken off the disability rolls.

There's some feeling around the General Accounting Office, which is in charge of making sure the government spends its (er...our) money wisely, that this is a bit much, even for the government.

It has suggested that Congress might want to change a few rules to keep the pension system honest, and that's probably the last you'll be hearing about that.

WHAT'S EVEN MORE interesting is that nobody can make a "disabled" retiree take any other kind of work inside the government. Once he's diagnosed as unable to do the job he's "rated" for, he's home free. He can pick up the pension and split.

Often for other, equally well-paying jobs, in private industry. That second paycheck may be all the medicine he needs to get well in a hurry, but when it comes to those monthly checks from Washington, he's "disabled" for life.

And this is partly why, according to a research report from Tax Foundation, the costs of federal pensions is "going through the roof."

As of now, they're inching up to $20 billion a year, which is more than five times what they were 10 years earlier. Five years from now, they're expected to top $28 billion.

That's not counting fringe benefits, a paycheck goodie that usually stops when an ordinary working stiff goes into retirement. But a generous government has seen to it that, when a federal worker retires, he doesn't have to worry about inflation shrinking his monthly checks.

EVERY RETIREE, both civilian and military, is protected by an automatic cost-of-living adjustment that ups the ante whenever the Consumer Price Index goes up three months in a row.

Then Uncle Sam decided to sweeten the kitty even more with the "one-per-cent kicker." This meant that with every cost-of-living boost, the government threw in an extra one percent.

This was bonddoggling on a grand scale. Between 1969 and 1976, there were 10 increases in benefits, or an inflationary "inflation" boost of 72 percent. In that time the cost of living went up only 56 percent.

That caused some talk, which embarrassed Congress (and that's not easy) into repealing the "kicker" and setting up twice-a-year increases.

Then there are those military pensions, which beat anything Santa Claus can come up with. (Especially for the "double-dippers," a two-check parlay that's supposed to be illegal, but which nobody ever seems to get arrested for.)

BUT WHAT MOST folks don't know, says the Tax Foundation, is just how expensive it is to keep up a pension plan that covers more than two million servicemen, 873,000 reservists and 1.2 million retirees.

The Department of Defense says it's around $10 billion a year. Tax Foundation says it's more like $17 billion, or 70 percent more. Thanks to a little Pentagon hanky-panky, that $10 billion is for past service; no mention is made of the extra $7 billion to cover retirements through 1979.

What do individual pension checks add up to? Well, in the military, an officer can retire after 30 years on 62 percent of his final paycheck; an enlisted man on 59 percent; and a Civil Service worker on 44 percent.

If you work in private industry, your pension comes to roughly 35 percent of your final check, and you may have had to work 40 years and be 65 to qualify.

ALSO, ONE OUT of every four of you had to contribute over the years to some kind of pension fund. Nobody in the military has to contribute anything; the taxpayers do it for him.

It's even better than that. Everybody in the armed forces is also eligible for Social Security and they keep it all, tax free. This puts them one up on at least two-thirds of the rest of us, whose pensions are reduced by some part of the SS payment.

To top it all off, everybody in uniform is eligible for a pension after 25 years, which means that many military retirees are still in their 40s and 50s.

This makes them hot prospects for the job market, where they can punch timeclocks alongside the other retirees who are too "disabled" to work for Uncle Sam.

Which is why the rest of us—from January 1 through most of May—have to.

L.M. BOYD:

...Pass It On

Q. "WHAT'S THE MOST weight a New York City fashion model can have now?"

A. Weight isn't as significant as proportion, the agency people say. There's no specific weight limitation, as such. Height, though, is fairly standard. Between 5-foot-7 and 5-foot-9 is about right.

And the hips and thighs are taped with some care, too. Hips over 35 inches are rejected. Most common hip measurement is 33 inches.

Not everybody realizes that Italians in New York City outnumber the Italians in Rome, and the Irish in New York City outnumber the Irish in Dublin, and the Jews in New York City outnumber the Jews in Tel Aviv, but such be the case.

El Salvador Peasants Push For Better Life

(EDITOR'S NOTE: A growing population and a scarcity of land — these are at the root of turmoil that has peasants fighting peasants in the tiny Central American nation of El Salvador. AP Correspondent Tom Fenton recently visited the country and filed this report.)

By TOM FENTON
SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — "I don't know anything about communism," the peasant said. "I do know I am always hungry. I know my children cannot go to school because they have no clothes."

"When there are jobs in the harvest season we work from dawn to dusk for one and a half colones ($2.20) a day. I have no land of my own. I can't afford to rent any. No one will lend me any money because I have nothing to guarantee a loan."

The peasant was commenting on his station in life and telling why he had joined a farmers' federation the military-led government claims is communistic. He asked not to be identified by name, saying he feared reprisals by the government or a vigilante group of other peasants who have taken up the government's side.

The peasant had joined the Christian Federation of Salvadoran Farmers, which along with the Farm Workers Union, seeks land for peasants and higher wages. The two groups have the backing of the Roman Catholic Church, El Salvador's dominant religion. But they have been outlawed by the government for alleged links to communism.

The vigilante group and the military keep them from seizing land, but the church maintains that large-scale violence is brewing.

El Salvador, about the size of Massachusetts, is the most densely populated country on the American continent and the population of more than 4.5 million is growing at 3.1 percent annually. Population density now is about 70 persons per square mile compared to about 10 in the rest of Central America.

According to U.S. government estimates, half the productive land is held by 1,800 persons and 8 percent of the families receive more than half the nation's income.

According to the London-based human rights organization Amnesty International, 83 percent of all Salvadorean children under 5 suffer malnutrition, and 63 in 1,000 will not live until their first birthday.

Ten years ago peasants desperate for land pushed into neighboring Honduras, creating a situation that helped spark a 100-hour military conflict between the two nations in July 1969. It was called the Soccer War because it followed a bitterly contested soccer game between the national teams of the two countries. More than 1,000 persons were reported killed in the fighting.

The peasant who asked to remain anonymous said he joined the Christian Federation of Salvadoran Farmers "because I want a better life. We hope we can make the government listen to us."

He claimed he was driven from his village of Tecoloco, about 20 miles east of San Salvador, during Easter week last month by the vigilante group, the National Democratic Organization. At least 29 persons were reported killed in that area Easter week.

The vigilante group is known by its Spanish acronym, Orden — which is "order" in English.

Anti-government peasants charge that machete-wielding Orden squads patrol villages day and night, harassing people, stoning houses and occasionally killing peasants involved in the outlawed groups.

Orden members attend weekly orientation sessions run by the government in which they are told of dangers of communism and a leftist uprising. Amnesty International says there are 50,000 to 100,000 Orden members and claims that the titular head is the nation's president, Gen. Carlos Humberto Romero.

Granadino Garcia Perez, 40, a peasant from La Esperanza in the mountains near Tecoloco, said he joined Orden because he supports the government.

"These rebels say they want freedom," he said. "They're communist. They don't do any work. They just walk around and hold meetings. They want to own everything."

The Catholic church is embroiled in a dispute with the government over the plight of peasants, with the government charging that leftist priests are fomenting revolution. Archbishop Oscar Arnulfo Romero, himself of a peasant family, says the church is not involved politically but will continue to speak out against any injustice and aid peasants in need.

"We're just trying to be good samaritans," he said. "Some of these peasants have been the victims of severe government repression."

Jurors Get Abortion Decision

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — Dr. William Waddill Jr. would be guilty of murder "by act or omission" if he caused the death of an infant who survived an abortion or failed to try to save the baby, a jury was told Monday as it began deliberations.

Orange County Superior Court Judge James K. Turner also gave the jury an instruction which undermined Waddill's contention that it was humane to allow the death of the almost-aborted baby girl because she would have been severely brain-damaged had she survived.

"A child's right to medical treatment is not diminished by what the quality of the child's future life may be," the judge told the nine men and three women on the jury.

Turner stressed that the abortion performed by Waddill on March 2, 1977, was legal and may not be used to support a conviction. "Baby Girl Weaver" was born alive after the saline abortion. She died about an hour later, and Waddill is accused of strangling her.

During the 14-week trial, the prosecution modified its position, claiming that even if Waddill did not strangle the baby he still could be found guilty of murder for failing to use extraordinary medical measures to save her life.

Waddill could receive 20 years to life in prison if found guilty of either first- or second-degree murder, up to 20 years for attempted first-degree murder or a minimum of six months for attempted second-degree murder.

In his instructions, Turner told the jury: "You may not find the defendant guilty of murder unless you are satisfied that the conduct of the defendant, by act or omission, was the proximate cause of the death of Baby Girl Weaver. You must be satisfied that Baby Girl Weaver would have lived longer had it not been for the conduct of the defendant."

The instruction allows jurors to reach a unanimous verdict of guilty of first-degree murder even if they do not agree on the cause of death and even if some believe the baby was strangled and others believe it died because the doctor didn't try to save it.

Defense co-counsel Dr. Malbour Watson said he felt a guilty verdict would have serious implications for physicians everywhere. "It's a question of whether doctors will be allowed to make a medical judgment or whether every time there is a life or death decision they will have to ask the courts what to do," he said.

The case was brought to authorities by Dr. Ronald Cornelsen, a pediatrician at Westminster Community Hospital. He claimed he saw Waddill with his hands at the infant's throat four times in what Cornelsen believed was an effort to strangle the baby.

House Committee Delays Carter's Tax Proposals

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's battered tax program ran into delay in the House Ways and Means Committee on Monday, but leaders said some kind of tax cut will be enacted this year.

Chairman Al Ullman, D-Ore., said the committee was suspending work on the Carter proposal for tax revisions and a net cut of about $24 billion while Senate and House negotiators seek agreement on the crude oil tax which is part of the president's energy package.

The committee already has voted down important portions of Carter's general tax program, but made its decisions subject to reconsideration later.

Ullman would not give reporters a firm date for resuming work on the tax bill, but said he hoped it would be next week. He told the committee that, while the postponement had not been planned, it would be useful in avoiding any "panic atmosphere" and giving members more time to think about the complex issues involved.

While Ullman did not say so, the delay also will give the White House more time to lobby for Carter's proposals. The postponement started some speculation that the bill may be lost as Congress' schedule for the year fills up.

When the committee resumes work, a motion will be pending to drop all new tax cuts, merely continuing those voted two years ago and scheduled to expire this year unless Congress acts.

Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, however, told reporters he expects Congress to pass a bill this year, though the cut might be scaled down and its effective date delayed.

O'Neill said economists consulted by the Democratic leadership had given a more optimistic picture of the economic outlook, suggesting that any tax cuts be made effective Jan. 1, 1979, instead of Oct. 1, 1978, as Carter proposed.

Remarkingly, "We have to take into account the facts... we can't pick a figure out of the air," O'Neill offered what he called a ballpark guess that the tax cut, after action by the Senate as well as the House, might be somewhere between $20 billion and $25 billion.

Meanwhile, a spectrum of economists invited to testify before the Ways and Means committee generally agreed there should be a tax cut, but differed widely on the size of the reduction and on how it should be distributed.

Arthur M. Okun, who headed President Lyndon B. Johnson's Council of Economic Advisers, said the size of Carter's proposed cut, about $24 billion, "is about right," and the business tax cuts would stimulate investment.

But he said some $7 billion of the proposed individual income tax cut should be devoted instead to cutting down the increase of Social Security payroll taxes enacted last year.

Use Of Insecticide Brings Conviction

MIAMI (UPI) — An apartment complex manager convicted of using a common ant and roach spray on his garbage cans says the conviction makes him afraid he will carry the reputation of a "poisoner."

Jeff Rudolf, 28, was convicted under obscure state law 828.08 which makes it a misdemeanor to "deposit poison... in any common street, alley, lane or thoroughfare of any kind."

"You can still kill roaches in your own home or apartment, but just don't let the insecticide drift under your front door," said Rudolf's attorney Maynard Gross.

As a result of the court decision, Gross said every mosquito control may be in jeopardy.

"As a matter of fact, the Mosquito Control Division was one of my motion examples in contending the law is unconstitutional. I think the statute is clearly unconstitutional. There are all sorts of ramifications," said Gross.

Last December, Rudolf used the ant and roach spray — obtainable at almost any supermarket — to spray the garbage cans at his apartment complex to halt an infestation of roaches and flies.

A cat belonging to a tenant died and two women living at the complex filed a complaint with the state attorney's office, charging a violation of 828.08.

"My reaction was total disbelief," recalled Rudolf. "I didn't even hire an attorney because I didn't want to spend money on a lawyer for something so ridiculous."

But when Dade County Judge Morton Perry found him guilty in March, Rudolf began taking the matter seriously. He got a new trial because he had never formally waived his right to a jury trial.

Rudolf pleaded no contest and Gross unsuccessfully argued the case on constitutional grounds.

Gross would like to appeal. "But this is going to have to be the end of it. Jeff's financial resources are limited. He couldn't afford to go further on in the appellate procedure," the attorney told UPI.

John Admire, who prosecuted Rudolf, concedes 828.08 "certainly is an unusual law." But he said the issue was not whether Rudolf was responsible for the cat's death, but whether he had indeed used a poison in a public thoroughfare. "My God, you can buy this stuff in the grocery store... I never thought this would be dangerous... There was no intention of harming anything," said Rudolf.

Auto Company Increasing Production

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. has stepped up assemblies of cars and trucks in North America for the second quarter to the highest level for any quarter in its history, the automaker said Monday.

Ford will build 1,213,000 cars and trucks in the U.S. and Canada in the April-June period, breaking the record set in the same quarter last year, said executive vice president William O. Bourke.

The figure represents an increase of 36,000 cars and 13,000 trucks over earlier plans for the quarter. Bourke said. He attributed it to a strong spring upturn in sales.

Of the total 49,000-vehicle increase over original schedules, 46,000 will be built in this country. The quarter will also set an all-time U.S. record, but not a Canadian record, Ford said.

The breakdown for North American production will be 724,000 cars and 318,000 trucks.

The stepped-up production set a Ford record last week, with assembly of 99,911 cars and trucks in North America.

"We will need a record second-quarter build to maintain sales and inventories at reasonable levels through the summer months," said Bourke, head of North American automotive operations.

Ford's previous North American record for a quarter was 1,193,014 cars and trucks.

High-Risk Influenza Victims Targeted For Immunizations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government hopes to immunize about 9 million persons who are particularly vulnerable to various kinds of influenza, the director of the federal Disease Control Center said Monday.

Dr. William H. Foege said the Department of Health, Education and Welfare is seeking to make sure that three categories of high-risk persons get flu vaccine, at an average cost of $1.60 per dose.

— Those between the ages of 6 months and 24 years who have chronic health problems and little natural immunity to influenza.

— Those between 25 and 64 who have some natural immunity but because of chronic health problems might die if they become ill from influenza.

— Those 65 and older.

"We are not proposing a massive, ad hoc effort to immunize the entire population against the current influenza virus," Foege testified before a House Appropriations subcommittee.

He said an estimated 42 million persons fall in the three categories, 8.4 million of whom are immunized each year.

The high-risk program would add 9 million persons to the total of those immunized, he said.

Foege asked the subcommittee to approve a special $15 million for this year's immunization program and another $20 million for fiscal year 1979 which begins Oct. 1.

Foege said the "Russian" flu which swept through parts of the country this year will almost certainly reappear this winter "though to an unknown extent."

Shareholders Sought By Lawyer In Large Damage Award Suits

NEW YORK (AP) — Want to sue a corporation for millions of dollars but don't have the money to go to trial? A New York lawyer has a solution — sell stock in the case and split any court award with the investors.

Carl E. Person says it's a good, safe investment. But he hasn't been able to interest anyone in putting money into a two-year-old $32 million damage suit a Brooklyn inventor has filed against the maker of parlor games, who the inventor says pirated his idea for a game.

The reason, Person said Monday in an interview, is that stock is difficult to sell unless you have a broker dealing in it, which he has not.

The inventor, Christian Thee, is enchanted with the idea, though it hasn't attracted investors in his case.

"It was quite a stroke of genius on Carl's part," he said. "There have to be ways made so the average person has recourse to the courts."

To solve the problem of marketing the stock, Person plans to set up his own brokerage business to sell shares in lawsuits he thinks have a good chance of winning large damage awards. He's got the name for it, Lawsuits Securities Co., but not the $75,000 needed to capitalize it.

"I've created a fail-safe security. People can always get their money back, even if the suit loses," Person said.

Person said it costs between $20,000 and $30,000 a year to take a major case to court. Secretarial and proofreading services are about $3,000 a year, a transcript costs about 90 cents a page and a court reporter can charge to $1,000 a day to provide overnight service on transcripts of a day's proceedings.

To raise that money, Person wants to sell about $500,000 worth of stock in each case in blocks of 100 shares costing $5 a share. The $500,000 would be put into government securities paying about $30,000 a year interest. The interest would finance the case.

If the case is successful, 35 percent of any award would be split among the shareholders before the attorneys or the person bringing the suit get any money. The shareholders also would get back their investment plus interest of 25 percent a year, which would double their investment within three years.

If the case loses, the government securities are sold and the investors get back their money without interest.

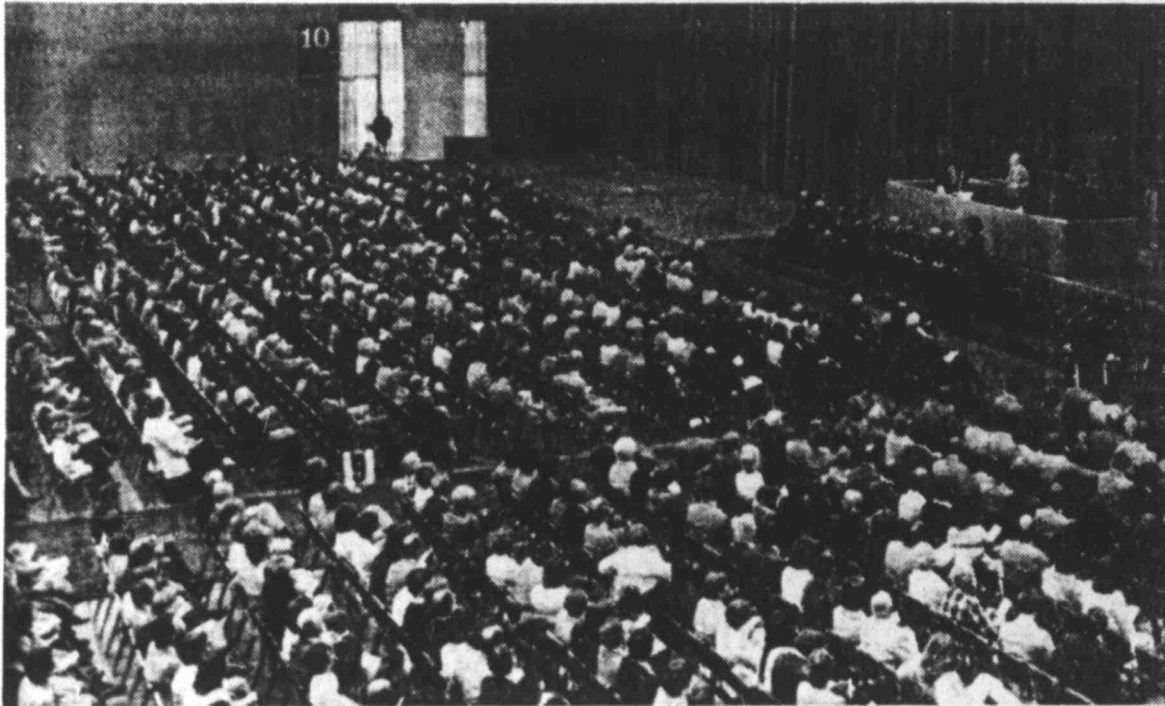

The Securities and Exchange Commission has found nothing wrong with the concept of selling shares in a litigation.

"It's a legitimate offering," said Alexander Bienenstock of the SEC's New York office.

And the New York City Bar Association says there's nothing inherently wrong with the idea.

Thee's suit against Parker Brothers, maker of Monopoly, and its parent company, General Mills, now is waiting for a jury to be selected, Person said. Because of that, he doesn't want to sell any stock in it until the court decides whether to award Thee damages. If that happens, the companies undoubtedly will appeal, he said, and a new round of litigation will be needed to collect.

"The mere fact that you get a judgment doesn't mean that they write a check, unfortunately," he said.

IBM Reports Sunny Future At Stockholders' Meet

DENVER (AP) — International Business Machines Corp. now has on the book the largest backlog of orders in its history and expects continued high demand for its computers and other products, chairman Frank T. Cary told more than 1,500 stockholders at the company's 1978 annual meeting here Monday.

"We think we have lots of opportunity ahead of us," said Cary, who added that the company's "modest" sales gain and "relatively flat earnings" in the first quarter should not be taken as indicative of its performance in the remainder of 1978.

The 20 members of IBM's board were re-elected without opposition at the annual meeting. Stockholders also ratified the continuation of Price Waterhouse Co. as outside auditors and approved a new stock option plan for ranking executives of the company.

Stockholders defeated by an overwhelming margin a proposal made by 16 churches and religious organizations holding IBM stock that the company investigate possible use of its computers for political repression in Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Uruguay.

Cary said such an investigation had been conducted and "no substantiation" of such allegations were found. He added, however, that it was not always possible for the company to know to what uses its products were being put.

In a discussion that included IBM activity in South Africa as well as South America, Cary said the company had decided that no general criteria could be established but would handle instances of possible use of its products for political repression on a case-by-case basis.

"We have not bid on more than one occasions" on contracts to provide computer equipment that might be used for political repression, he said, without specifying the countries involved. "We do think we know repression when we see it," he said.

IBM, the largest U.S. computer maker, last year reported gross income of $18.1 billion and net earnings of $2.7 billion. The company has 147 million shares of stock outstanding and 584,000 stockholders.

Cary reported that IBM's worldwide manufacturing capacity is being expanded to meet what he called record demand for its products.

Farmers Hang Effigy Of President

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — President Carter hung in effigy outside the arena where 2,000 disgruntled farmers from 44 states gathered Monday for an American Agriculture movement convention to discuss ways to earn more money.

Farmers were voting on resolutions designed to draw a plan of action following the defeat in Congress of an emergency farm aid bill which included many provisions sought by the farmers.

Anti-Carter sentiment was strong among the farmers, many of whom said they had expected the former Georgia peanut farmer to be more sensitive to their problems.

Carter "lied to everybody he's talked to, in my opinion," said Tommy Kersey, a farmer from Unadilla, Ga., who said he's traveled to American Agriculture protests in 46 states. "He's sold us out. I wish he'd resign."

Oklahoma Gov. David Boren joined other speakers in telling farmers just what they wanted to hear — that they aren't making enough money.

Boren told farmers, "It's time that the rest of the county bore some of the sacrifice that you have given for them" so farmers can make a decent living.

Boren, a farm strike supporter, told cheering farmers that farmers have made "the greatest single contribution of any group to the strength of the American economy."

Wearing a baseball hat urging a farm strike, Boren said the government should work harder to export more farm products.

Alvin Jenkins, of Campo, Colo., said the American Agriculture movement has helped pump $4 billion into government farm programs since last fall.

Jenkins said the farm strike has improved the rate of loans for farmers, increased certain disaster payments and called the public's attention to the plight of the farmer.

Dallas School Plan Rejected

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A federal appeals court has ordered a judge to come up with a new racial desegregation plan for public schools in Dallas — the nation's eighth largest school district.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals sent the court fight back to U.S. District Court in Dallas for a restudy of the procedure for assigning the district's 146,000 students.

As part of the restudy, the 5th circuit said the district judge might as well reconsider other provisions of the plan to see how they will fit into the revised order.

An effort to include the all-white, 4,600-student Highland Park Independent School District in the Dallas plan was rejected.

The snag in the Dallas plan was its acceptance of some all-black schools, which Dallas school officials say is due to natural boundaries or "white flight" to escape the court-imposed desegregation of city schools.

Of the six subdistricts set up by the plan, one is all-black, the court said. It has 16 schools and 27,500 students. In the other five subdistricts, 50 of the 160 schools are essentially "one-race schools."

assignment plan that leaves many schools in a system one race without specific findings by the district court as to the feasibility of these techniques," the 5th said in a ruling made public Monday.

The 5th circuit suggested that Dallas be required to accept some of the desegregation procedures imposed on other cities by federal courts — pairing, cluster-reassigned to a new attendance zone or who choose to attend a "magnet" school.

As to Highland Park, an area surrounded by the Dallas school district, the 5th circuit said the district has a 20-year history of nondiscrimination and cannot now be accused of segregation.

"We find the district court did not err in refusing to include the Highland Park Independent School District in the student assignment plan for the DISD," the appeals court said.

On the court fight over whether the Dallas district may create a new school in the A. Harris Shopping Center, the 5th circuit upheld the move but also said the district court should consider whether to order the district to assign some whites to the school.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People had argued that the shopping center site would perpetuate school segregation.

State News

A "one-race school" was defined as one that is 90 per cent "anglo" or 90 per cent black and Mexican American.

It may be that all-black districts cannot be avoided, the ruling said, but the present court record does not contain data supporting the arrangement.

"We cannot properly review any studing or extensive busing.

"If the district court determines that the utilization of pairing, clustering or the other desegregation tools is not practicable in the DISD, then the district court must make specific findings to that effect," the ruling said.

One specific item to be included is that the district must provide busing students

Skylab Prepared For Change Of Orbit

HOUSTON (UPI) — Flight controllers at the Johnson Space Center Monday prepared for their second consecutive late-night radio rendezvous with the orbiting Skylab space station.

Engineers are preparing for an attempt later this spring to maneuver the Skylab into a position aimed at increasing its lifetime in orbit.

A radio command from mission control was relayed to the 250-mile high orbiting laboratory from a Madrid, Spain, tracking station a few minutes after midnight Sunday and received an unexpected bonus when Skylab began transmitting data.

"The spacecraft looks okay. The data was on the air-lock module," a JSC spokesman said Monday. "The part that was most interesting was we may not be getting a charge on battery No. 2."

Four other batteries were put on charge during the late night pass.

The status of the one possibly dud battery was uncertain.

The initial command from ground trackers was for the batteries to begin charging. They draw their energy from the spacecraft's solar cells.

"They are going to look at that again (the battery that did not respond.) It may not take a charge, but we are not sure of that, yet."

One battery was out when the mission was shut down four years ago. Flight controllers will make four passes Monday night, the first at Madrid.

"They'll check and make sure everything else is all right," the spokesman said.

Skylab was last heard from on March 13.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration plans 13 more communications sessions with the unmanned spacecraft this week, a spokesman said.

If all goes well, NASA plans in late May or early June to order the 84-ton space station to change its attitude in orbit to decrease its drag in the very thin upper fringes of earth's atmosphere.

That change is expected to keep the craft in orbit until the summer of 1980 when space shuttle astronauts may try to send the laboratory to a higher long-lasting orbit.

Scientists have predicted if nothing is done to Skylab, it could re-enter the earth's orbit as early as the summer of 1979. Much of the craft would burn in the heat of re-entry, but some debris might survive and hit the earth's surface.

Skylab was manned for a total of 168 days on three different missions. Its last three astronauts left it Feb. 8, 1974, after spending 84 days in orbit.

Hale County Paving Project Bids Sought

AUSTIN — A paving project in Hale County will be up for bids at the Department of Highways and Public Transportation May 17.

Bids will be taken on asphalt concrete pavement leveling, sprinkle treatment and sealcoating U.S. 70 from the Lamb County line to Interstate 27 — a distance in excess of 19 miles.

Estimated cost of the project is $852,332, with 80 working days anticipated for completion.

The White House was designed by James Hoban, an Irish-born architect in a competition that paid $500.

Young American's Trek Helps Village's Earthquake Victims

DALLAS (AP) — For a mere 22, Eddie Fischer has probably seen more of Central and North America than anybody else — on foot that is.

Fischer walked from Guatemala to Philadelphia to raise money for earthquake victims in the remote Guatemalan village of Rabinal. Twelve pairs of shoes and 4,100 miles later, Fischer hoofed it into Philadelphia last Oct. 8 after six months on the road. His adopted villagers were $240,000 richer.

The village was ravaged by quakes in February 1976.

The return trip by truck, however, is proving less reliable than his feet, which grew from size 9½ to 11. The truck broke down here last Friday.

"Yes, I would do it again," he said while waiting for a new transmission for the truck. "I really enjoyed seeing America that way and seeing a majority of the people are good."

The former football player said gridiron heroes like Ohio State's Woody Hayes, Dallas Cowboys Coach Tom Landry and quarterback Roger Staubach all helped raise money for his cause. However, most of it, he said, came from average Americans like Dan Sheehan.

The 22-year-old Philadelphian is accompanying Fischer back to Guatemala to help build the 300 needed water wells and a piping system.

Fischer especially recalls an 81-year-old doctor in Pennsylvania who recruited more than $20,000 in medical supplies for the villagers.

"Some of it (the supplies) came from his physician friends who were retired and didn't need it anymore," said Fischer.

Those some doctors are sending a trailer to serve as a doctor's office at the village this June.

"Over half the kids there don't reach the age of three, because their water supply is contaminated and the lack of food," said Fischer. "The life span is 40 years because of these conditions."

Fischer spent a summer in Rabinal after the earthquake. Seeing the villagers trek more than two miles for contaminated water inspired his walk.

"It's going to give these people a chance for life," he said.

CHIROPRACTORS SEEK RESEARCH VOLUNTEERS

The International Pain Control Institute is presently engaged in what is the most extensive research program ever undertaken by the chiropractic profession. This research is directed toward determining the relationship between health problems and spinal misalignments and utilizes a screening process called Contour Analysis.

Volunteers are being sought for screening. Contour Analysis enables taking a three-dimensional picture (called Moire photography) of the topography of the surface of the spine to detect spinal stress deviations. This analysis will be correlated with leg deficiency, patient symptomatology, and levels of spinal tenderness. An analysis of this type can reveal such things as normal and abnormal stress patterns, spinal curvature, muscle spasms, muscle imbalance, spinal distortions, and scoliosis.

This is a public service program for participating volunteers. The doctors are contributing their time, service, and facilities for the program.

Anyone wishing to be a volunteer may telephone participating doctors directly for information or an appointment.

Eagle Witness Found Dead On Ranch

LEAKEY, Texas (UPI) — A key witness against three men convicted of hunting federally protected golden eagles has been found dead on a ranch, law enforcement officials confirmed Monday.

Circumstances of the death of Alfred Zimmerman, manager of the Eagle Ranch, were not immediately known.

Texas Ranger Joaquin Jackson of Uvalde and Real County Sheriff John Elliot were investigating Zimmerman's death. One unconfirmed report said Zimmerman died of a shotgun blast.

Zimmerman testified in federal court at San Antonio last December in the trial of three men charged with hunting and killing at least 70 golden eagles from a helicopter in a two-year conspiracy in Real County.

The ranch foreman reinforced the story of the key witness, helicopter Gerald Heintzelman, by telling the jury he saw a helicopter hovering and an eagle being shot on the Eagle Ranch on Dec. 10, 1975. However, Zimmerman said he and his son could not find the eagle's carcass after the helicopter landed near a deer stand.

U.S. District Judge John Wood Jr. on Feb. 6, 1978, ordered $6,000 in fines against Andrew Allen of Uvalde, a suspended government hunter; Norman Morris Pape, foreman of another ranch, and Real County Commissioner Lanny Leinweber on their misdemeanor convictions.

The Greek poet Epicharmus, who lived from about 530 to 440 B.C., is credited with writing more than 60 plays.

PLAINS AGRICULTURE

By DUANE HOWELL

LEGISLATION TO CLAMP DOWN on meat imports was approved by the Senate Finance Committee last week on a vote of 13-1, indicating the measure may have a good chance of being passed by the entire Senate.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., introduced the bill, which was developed by the National Cattlemen's Association, and pushed it through the committee.

The bill would:
— Impose a quota on preserved or processed beef (unlimited under present law) along with fresh, chilled and frozen beef.

— Adjust the quota for all beef by a countercyclical formula. It would decrease imports when U. S. cow slaughter is up and increase imports when cow slaughter is down. (Over a 10-year period, average annual imports would decrease from about 7 percent of U. S. consumption now to 5 or 6 percent.)

"THIS COUNTERCYCLICAL CONTROL of imports will add stability to the cattle market and assure the U. S. consumer high quality beef at reasonable prices," Bentsen said.

The legislation would replace the "pro-cyclical" aspect of the 1964 Meat Import Quota Act, which allows imports to increase at the same time domestic producers are liquidating their cow herds.

"Even a small increase in imports can have a very negative effect on cattlemen during periods of overproduction," Bentsen said. "This is particularly true for smaller cattlemen."

"A countercyclical formula would be particularly beneficial to smaller, family-owned farms and ranches, which are less able to withstand the upswings and downswings of the cattle cycle than larger corporate operations with ready access to financial markets."

— LIMIT IMPORTS ON A SEMI-ANNUAL BASIS — to 54 percent of the annual quota during any six-month period.

— Limit presidential authority to suspend quotas to periods of national emergencies or natural disasters. (Under present law, the President can suspend quotas any time, and did so in 1972-73 to hold down retail beef prices.

THE TOTAL COTTON EXPORT COMMITMENT for the current marketing year rose to a bulging 6,172,100 running bales during the week ended April 9.

Net new sales amounted to 102,800 bales. The People's Republic of China bought 48,900 bales to push its season commitments for U. S. cotton to 385,000 bales. Other purchases were made by South Korea, Thailand, Japan, Taiwan and Italy.

The week's exports of 182,600 bales were the second largest of the season and brought the total to 3,296,300 bales, compared with 3,095,600 a year ago. Meanwhile, sales of 42,500 bales were reported for the next marketing year, bringing the 1978-79 total to 2,001,520 bales.

Cattle Futures Show Decline

By Reuters

CHICAGO — After trading down as much as the 150-point limit, August led a lower close in live cattle futures Monday on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange.

Futures ended 40 to 127 points weaker on a turnover of 25,471 contracts. Prices fell to one-week lows on local and commission house selling.

There was profit-taking after Friday's rise to new season's highs across the board.

Increasing competition from pork and weakness in cash cattle also were factors as well as limit declines in soybean and pork belly futures.

Wholesale beef was unchanged at 82 to 82 1/2 cents per pound, a one week low. Cash cattle were steady to off $1 with the top at Joliet of $55.50 per hundredweight. Slaughter was estimated at 142,000 head.

The six markets expect 14,700 head to arrive today.

Hog futures quickly erased an early gain of 15 points and tumbled 125 before ending 20 to 122 lower. July paced the decline to three-week lows with total sales at 7,754 cars.

Prices were off three cents from recent highs on aggressive local and commission house selling triggered by limit declines in pork belly and soybeans futures.

Heavier kill recently and increased runs Monday easily offset firmer tones to cash hams.

Wholesale hams were unchanged to up one cent at 70 1/2 to 73 cents per pound, f o b riverpoints, a two-week high. Cash hogs were up 50 cents to off 50 on a top of $47.25.

The major terminals expect receipts of 28,500 head today. Monday's kill was set at 324,000 head.

Pork belly futures (bacon) were lower all day and ended 150 to the limit of 200 points lower on an exchange of 6,169 contracts.

August was down the limit. Prices fell to two-month lows, off as many as 1,576 points.

Selling was touched off by the continued heavy pace of slaughter and belly storings as local stocks edged up to near last year's level. The 10 1/2-cent fall in cash bellies also was a bearish factor.

Wholesale bacon was off one to 2 1/4 cents per pound at 62 1/2 to 66 cents, f o b river, lowest since February.

UGLY DELICACY

The bald-headed ibis is a particularly homely water-fowl. Yet it was one of the first birds of Europe to be protected, mainly because its young were regarded as delicacies that only graced the tables of nobility. The earliest record on an indiscriminate hunting of the bald-headed ibis was issued in 1504 by Archbishop Leonhead of Salzburg.

Cotton Leader Election Set

SPUR (Special) — Dickens County cotton producers and agrusinessmen will elect a businessman Director to succeed the late T. A. Martin of Olton to Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. (PCG) at 8 p.m. here Friday in the Federal Land Bank Building.

A staff member of the Lubbock-based group will conduct the election, present a brief summary of the PCG's objectives and activities and answer questions concerning the commodity organization and its work.

Each of the countries in PCG territory has two directors, one a businessman and the other a cotton producer. They are elected on alternate years to serve two-year terms.

Dickens County producer director is Clyde Crausby of McAdoo.

Grain Elevators Hearing Set

The House Committee on Agriculture and Livestock has scheduled a public hearing here today to gather testimony concerning operation of grain elevators in Texas.

The meeting will begin at 1:30 p.m. in the fifth floor conference room of the First National Bank.

Rep. Joe Hubenak, D-Rosenberg, chairman of the committee, said the panel is studying employee safety, causes of accidents and steps to prevent explosions at grain elevators.

"Grain elevators in Texas are a vital segment of our agriculture economy, providing our farmers with not only domestic markets but access to foreign markets for our agricultural commodities," Hubenak said.

"We must do what we can at the state level to see that they are safe and operable."

Schmidt Relies On Experience In Council Race

BOB SCHMIDT

Bob Schmidt, 48, will face M.J. "Bud" Aderton in a runoff election today for place 3 on the city council.

Schmidt, who lives at 5405 16th Place, is a Lubbock native and owner of Caprock Growers, a wholesale greenhouse. He is a Texas Tech graduate who received a master's degree from Colorado State University. He is past president of the Plains Nurserymen's Association, a Boy Scout troop scoutmaster and treasurer of the International Bedding Plant Association.

At The Avalanche-Journal's request, Schmidt detailed what he believes are his qualifications for office and his position on several city issues.

ISSUE: QUALIFICATIONS

I believe my recent five and a half years on the Planning and Zoning Commission have prepared me to deal with the complex problems of zoning to protect neighborhoods and businesses from less desirable uses. Responding fairly to citizen input for over five years has provided exposure to proper planning for our rapidly growing city.

ISSUE: CITY SPENDING PRIORITIES

I believe the basic priority for city spending is that of an open mind to the total overall needs of our city. Any budget request must be carefully scrutinized to see if it is absolutely necessary and if it provides the most efficient use of tax dollars.

Certain acute problems need special attention but not to the exclusion of less dramatic needs. Recent crime increases suggest major concern in our crime prevention procedures. Zoning and code violations have been a concern of citizens in the campaign. Corrective measures may require additional funding. These are the more dramatic needs but our city has equally important needs in the other thirty departments that we cannot afford to overlook.

ISSUE: WATER SUPPLY DEVELOPMENT

Our vulnerability to water shortage requires a continuous search for good water that can be secured for the long-range future. These sources must be as independent of one another as possible to prevent simultaneous depletion. Surface water as well as subsurface sources should be continuously researched. We need to move quickly but wisely before other municipalities secure the rights to those sources or before acquisition rights become prohibitive.

The quality as well as quantity is important so we don't incur excessive costs to make the water safe and pleasant to drink. New water treatment processes should be constantly reviewed.

ISSUE: BUS SERVICE

I view bus service as a basic essential for our community. We have citizens in our community who of necessity must rely on bus transportation. The elderly, handicapped and children under the driving age need to have adequate means to travel across our sprawling city. The efficiency and convenience of the system will encourage others to use it. Increased ridership would reduce the dependence on tax dollars and relieve some traffic problems. Prohibitive fares to make the system self-supporting tend to be counterproductive by reducing ridership.

I have previously suggested a summer schedule to provide our school age youngsters access to the many community programs available through our parks, museums and libraries to make their summer free time more productive.

ISSUE: ANNEXATION AND CITY EXPANSION

My experience on the Planning and Zoning Commission has made me keenly aware of the problems of annexation and city expansion. If Lubbock is unable to secure effective extraterritorial jurisdiction, then protective annexation may be necessary to reduce the many problems inherited when our city annexes areas outside our zoning and code enforcement. Our comprehensive land use plan defines future thoroughfares and corridors. Protective zoning could eliminate costly relocations of undesirable land uses along our future entrances. Any consideration of annexation requires a careful study of the city's commitment in services to those annexed areas and the balanced utilization of existing city land.

Aderton Details Qualifications For City Council Position

M.J. "Bud" Aderton, who led a field of four contestants for the Place 3 council seat in the April 1 election, will oppose secondplace vote-getter Bob Schmidt in a runoff today.

Aderton, 70, is retired board chairman of Snook & Aderton, Inc. The Illinois native is a professional engineer who has lived in Lubbock 45 years. He is past president of the Lubbock Kiwanis Club, Lubbock Kiwanis Foundation and Lubbock Boys Club.

He is a charter member of the South Plains chapter of the professional engineers association and has served on several municipal and civic boards and commissions. He lives at 3002 25th St.

At The Avalanche-Journal's request, Aderton detailed what he believes are his qualifications for office and his position on several city issues.

ISSUE: QUALIFICATIONS

I think I'm qualified because of the desire to serve the City of Lubbock and because of my background business experience and the length of time that I've lived in the city.

We have to be able to observe what's gone on in the past and try to avoid those mistakes that we have encountered in the past and take advantage of that experience in plotting our course for the future. I can offer a mature judgment. I am for progression and I'd like to see Lubbock become a more attractive city than it is, to help make the decisions to bring that about.

ISSUE: CITY SPENDING PRIORITIES

Early restoration of funds provided for electrical interconnects to serve two purposes. Number one, to provide a continuity of electrical service in case of a disaster. Number two, to resolve the differences that have provoked a series of lawsuits that are holding up public funds needed to provide vital city services.

ISSUE: WATER SUPPLY DEVELOPMENT

The necessity to add to our present municipal water supply should be foremost in every Lubbock citizen's mind. Our city staff and their consultants must be given all the support possible to seek and find a reliable source of water, in sufficient quantity and of a quality, that can be treated to meet federal government standards for use in our city. This treatment is a costly process and every citizen should be aware of it.

We must also strengthen our efforts to reclaim water that has been used. Water is not destroyed, it can be reclaimed and used for industrial purposes. We must make use of this technology. Saving water is as vital as finding it. The more we reclaim for industrial uses, the less demand we place on our potable water supply.

The water plan that has been proposed and is being considered in conjunction with Lubbock Christian College is a worthy project and should be incorporated into our long-range municipal water plan.

ISSUE: BUS SERVICE

The City of Lubbock must provide a public transportation system for those citizens who are handicapped, elderly or deprived of personal transportation means, and for those able to work but who do not have ready access to their jobs and are able to pay a modest transportation fee. If these people are not of sufficient quantity to support an investor-owned transportation system, then it becomes an obligation of the general public to subsidize an adequate system, similar to what we now have, but perhaps not quite as elaborate.

ISSUE: ANNEXATION AND CITY EXPANSION

Lubbock cannot afford to expand to infinity. We must make better use of our land resources within our immediate environs. City services such as sewer, water, electricity, gas, garbage collection, police services, thoroughfares, etcetera, cannot be expanded indefinitely. They must be held adjacent to the present areas.

However, the worst thing Lubbock could do would be to resort to a collection of high-rise slums, just to get the maximum use of our present land and service resources. Businesses that are engaged in providing housing, manufacturing, and office facilities, for people coming to our city to establish new businesses and provide employment for those of us who wish to work and contribute to the personal and public welfare, must be given some encouragement to invest their money to furnish these facilities. We cannot throw every obstacle in their path and expect a reasonable growth of our city.

WHERE TO VOTE IN CITY ELECTIONS — This drawing outlines voting precincts which will be used in Tuesday's city council runoff. It should be used in connection with the list of polling places for city elections to determine where a voter should cast his ballot. The three areas to the north and south of the city shown by dotted lines represent newly annexed areas. City officials say they have contacted residents of those areas and told them to vote in the nearest established precinct. Residents who possess recently issued yellow voter registration cards and who have not moved since registering will find the correct precinct numbers noted on their cards.

Hutchison Charges Opponent With 'Watergate-Type Tactics'

By United Press International
Republican Ray Hutchison said Monday his opponent in the GOP race for the gubernatorial nomination has injected into the campaign Watergate-type tactics such as ransacking offices and preparing enemies lists.

Hutchison, former state GOP chairman, said nomination of Bill Clements would lead to profound embarrassment to Republicans everywhere. He apparently based his comments on news reports quoting a former worker in the Clements campaign who said her office was broken into after she was fired from the campaign.

"I have ignored until now as petty irritants other Clements tactics such as the taking of license plate numbers of vehicles belonging to persons attending functions in my behalf and persons visiting my home," Hutchison said.

"However, it is now obvious that these are more than petty irritants. They are part of a plan to achieve, through whatever unethical and perhaps illegal means necessary, a nomination for public office unavailable any other way.

"I am astounded and utterly appalled at the sickness that manifested itself by these actions," he said. "They symbolize the enormous desperation which occurs when Mr. Clements' vast personal wealth is used irresponsibly and uncontrollably in pursuit of a goal that is beyond his grasp."

In the campaign for the Democratic nomination for governor, Gov. Dolph Briscoe said in the Panhandle Monday Attorney General John Hill's campaign has failed to generate significant support from either business or labor because Hill puts big government ahead of economic expansion and new jobs.

Briscoe noted his administration has encouraged new industry and new jobs while avoiding any increase in state taxes.

"John Hill doesn't have that kind of commitment," Briscoe said. "He is too busy trying to buy votes with big promises. When he speaks out for big spending, in reality he is making an unspoken promise for new taxes in the very near future and specifically a state income tax. There is no other way to finance his promises."

Hill, campaigning in South Texas, repeated his pledge to veto an income tax if he is elected.

"Briscoe began his campaign for election to 10 years in office by saying he'd work for property tax relief, but now he's all but abandoned that concept in favor of talk about the possibility of the Legislature proposing a state income tax if I'm elected governor," Hill said.

"That's not going to happen, not in a thousand years. I'm convinced that we can have property tax relief without a state income tax and I've said that I would veto any state income tax proposal before the ink was dry on the bill."

Rep. Bob Krueger, D-Texas, campaigning in Eastland for the Democratic nomination for the Senate seat now held by Republican John Tower, released position papers on health care and older Americans, and said he favors returning control of health programs for the elderly to local and regional levels.

Krueger also called on his opponent, former State Insurance Board chairman Joe Christie, to discuss issues in the campaign rather than campaigning with gimmicks.

Christie, in a statement issued through his state campaign headquarters, said he supports a compromise energy bill proposed by a congressional conference committee.

"This is probably as good a bill as we're going to get. It is fair both to producers and to consumers," Christie said. He said a plan backed by Krueger calling for immediate deregulation of natural gas prices would have resulted in a windfall profit for producers while doubling natural gas prices in Texas.

Supreme Court Justice T.C. Chadick was endorsed in his bid for the Democratic nomination to a place on the court by 10 of the 11 living former court justices.

Chadick is opposed by Robert Campbell of Waco, and predicted he will win the nomination. He was appointed to succeed Judge Tom Reavley.

Another judicial candidate, Criminal Appeals Court Judge Jim Vollers, also predicted victory in the May 6 Democratic primary. He is opposed by Sam Houston Clinton of Austin.

Gas Rate Plea Turned Down By Board

AUSTIN (AP) — The Railroad Commission Monday rejected Fort Worth's protest over Lone Star Gas Co.'s collection of $900,000 in back charges.

The commission authorized Lone Star in 1976 to add a surcharge of one cent per 1,000 cubic feet of natural gas in order to pay $900,000 it owes its supplier, Lo-Vaca Gathering Co.

Fort Worth had sought a rehearing in the matter, but the commission denied the request.

Examiner Michele Sanchez said the "retail customers in Fort Worth will never have to pay the one-cent surcharge which they have been complaining about" because the city has not passed it on to them.

Dallas, Arlington and Garland also have refused to allow the surcharge.

Cities have original jurisdiction in such matters. The commission was being monitored by the commission to make sure that those Lone Star customers who pay, pay only their share.

TITHE CUSTOM

The tithe (from Old English "teogothian" meaning tenth) was a custom dating back to times of the Old Testament and adopted by the Christian church. Lay people were supposed to contribute one tenth of their annual income to the church. The money, or its equivalent, was used to support the clergy, maintain churches and assist the poor.

Lobby Interview Tapes Sought By Committee

AUSTIN (AP) — A House subcommittee asked its parent committee and another panel Monday to consider issuing subpoenas for tapes of the teacher lobby's interviews with gubernatorial candidates.

Rep. Jim Nugent, D-Kerrville, subcommittee chairman, said he would immediately send the request to the House Public Education Committee and the House Administration Committee.

It would be five days before the committee could meet because of House rules on posting of notice.

Nugent claims Attorney General John Hill made a "back room deal" to win the endorsement of the Texas Educators Political Action Committee — an arm of the Texas State Teachers Association (TSTA).

Nugent is a supporter of Gov. Dolph Briscoe for re-election, as is Rep. Tom Massey, D-San Angelo, chairman of the full education committee.

Nugent and Rep. Hamp Atkinson, D-Texarkana, voted to send the subpoena question to a full committee. Rep. Lee Jackson, R-Dallas, missed the roll call because of a late plane. He said he would have voted "no."

Atkinson's motion not only asked for committee action on the subpoena question but also called on the teachers association to make tapes of its interviews public if "there is nothing to hide."

The subcommittee asked voluntary release of the tapes "so that everyone concerned can take whatever commitments were made, if any, into consideration before they are called on to select their candidate for governor."

Hill has said he made no commitments and has publicly stated he is willing for the tape of his interview to be made public.

A subcommittee has no authority to issue a subpoena, and Nugent said the purpose of the hearing was to lay a factual groundwork for a full committee to do so.

He contends that TSTA gets enormous benefits from state, local and federal tax dollars and, therefore, has no right to keep secret the tapes of its interviews with political candidates.

Nugent called two witnesses, Raymon Bynum, associate state commissioner of education, and Garland Davis, superintendent of the Medina Independent School District.

Both testified about the one "in-service" day a year allowed teachers for meetings of TSTA and other professional organizations.

Bynum said if every teacher and administrator took the day, it would cost about $15 million a year. Local districts have the right to disallow the paid day off for such meetings.

"Not all teachers belong to the same associations," Davis said.

This means, he said, "that every time we let a group of teachers go, we are faced with the expense of additional in-service at home or hiring substitutes."

Davis also said, under questioning from Nugent, that it costs districts money to deduct dues for TSTA and other groups from teachers' paychecks.

Profit Report Spurs Market

NEW YORK (AP) — A stronger-than-expected earnings report from Eastman Kodak helped touch off a new outburst of buying in the stock market Monday, carrying the Dow Jones industrial average to its highest close of the year.

Trading was active, although far off the record pace set a week before at the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones average of 30 blue chips jumped 13.26 to 826.06, with nearly half its advance coming on heated activity in the final hour of the session.

That marked a peak closing level for the average since it finished at 831.17 last Dec. 30 in the final session of 1977.

Since that time the Dow has traced out a deep V-shaped course, bottoming at 742.12 on Feb. 28 and staging a subsequent recovery that reached hectic proportions by mid-April.

New York (AP) — Monday's national price for New York Stock Exchange issues as of NYSE close. Prices and volume consolidated for securities also traded on other exchanges.

Patty Hearst Loses Last-Ditch Appeal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Patricia Hearst lost a last-ditch appeal at the Supreme Court Monday, and almost certainly will have to serve out her prison term for helping the Symbionese Liberation Army rob a California bank in 1974.

With only Justice William Brennan wanting to hear arguments on some aspects of her case, the court let stand without comment her conviction and seven-year sentence.

Lawyers for the 24-year-old heiress said they may ask the high court to reconsider its rejection of the appeal — which is virtually never done — or ask a federal court in San Francisco to reduce her sentence.

Once the Supreme Court's order reaches the district court in California, authorities will be free to order Miss Hearst back to prison, where she served about two months of the sentence before her family posted $1.2 million bail for her release pending appeal.

She would be eligible for parole within 14 months following her return to prison.

James Browning, the former U.S. attorney who prosecuted the case, described any move to keep Miss Hearst out of prison as "the last gasp effort." He said U.S. District Judge William Orrick will have 120 days to consider such a motion, but that she could go back to jail in the interim.

Convicted In 1976
Miss Hearst was convicted in 1976 of helping the terrorist SLA, which had abducted her, rob a San Francisco bank on April 15, 1974.

At one point she announced that she had joined the group. But at her trial, she testified that her companions forced her at gunpoint to take part in the robbery.

After more than a year and a half as a fugitive, Miss Hearst was arrested by the FBI on Sept. 18, 1975, along with others in the terrorist group.

Her lawyers said in the appeal there were a number of legal errors during the trial, both by the judge and by the prosecution. And they said there is no prison in the country where she would be safe, due to her "well-known cooperation with the authorities."

Other Court Actions
In other actions Monday, before starting the final week of arguments this term, the justices:

—Cleared the way for a young California girl to press an $11 million damage suit against NBC and a California station on grounds an episode in a televised movie prompted a sexual attack on her when she was 9 years old.

—Refused to allow the State Department to process notes on Henry Kissinger's telephone conversations as secretary of state while courts decide whether they must be made public.

—Dismissed a challenge to the system under which two federal agencies compare notes on employer compliance with anti-discrimination laws and regulations.

—Agreed to rule whether a railroad worker's future retirement benefits can be considered "community property" to be divided up in a divorce proceeding.

—Rejected Maryland's appeal from invalidation of an obscenity law because bookstore clerks could be punished but not movie projectionists; but upheld the conviction of three persons for violating Georgia's statute outlawing sexual stimulation devices.

Berkowitz Ruled Fit For Trial

NEW YORK (UPI) — Son of Sam suspect David Berkowitz Monday was ruled mentally fit to stand trial next month for the murder of Stacy Moskowitz, the last of six victims in the 44-caliber killings that terrorized this city for a year.

State Supreme Court Justice Joseph Corso, who made the ruling following several days of hearings, set May 8 for the beginning of the trial in Brooklyn.

Following the decision, defense attorneys Ira Jultak and Leon Stern said they would plead Berkowitz innocent by reason of insanity. Berkowitz, in early court hearings, had said he wanted to plead guilty.

Stern and Jultak said that once they have exhausted their preemptory challenges during jury selection, they would file a motion asking that the trial be moved from Brooklyn. A previous motion for a change of venue was denied by a state appeals court.

Fair Trial "Impossible"
"It would be most difficult... impossible to get a fair trial in Brooklyn" because of pre-trial publicity," said Jultak, who added that he did not believe an impartial jury could be found anywhere in the country.

Berkowitz, a 24-year-old former postal worker, is accused of killing six young people and wounding seven others in a series of nighttime ambushes with a .44-caliber "Bulldog" revolver.

The terror spree began July 29, 1976, with the Bronx killing of 18-year-old Donna Luria and ended July 31, 1977 with the slaying of Miss Moskowitz, 20, as she sat in a parked car with her boyfriend. Berkowitz was arrested 10 days later outside his suburban Yonkers apartment.

During the intense hunt for the killer, police and newspaper columnist Jimmy Breslin received cryptic notes that made references to "Son of Sam."

"Ordered" To Kill
At the time of his arrest and later at his first competency hearing, Berkowitz said "Sam" was his 64-year-old neighbor, Sam Carr, who, through his dog, ordered him to kill to quench his thirst for "young blood."

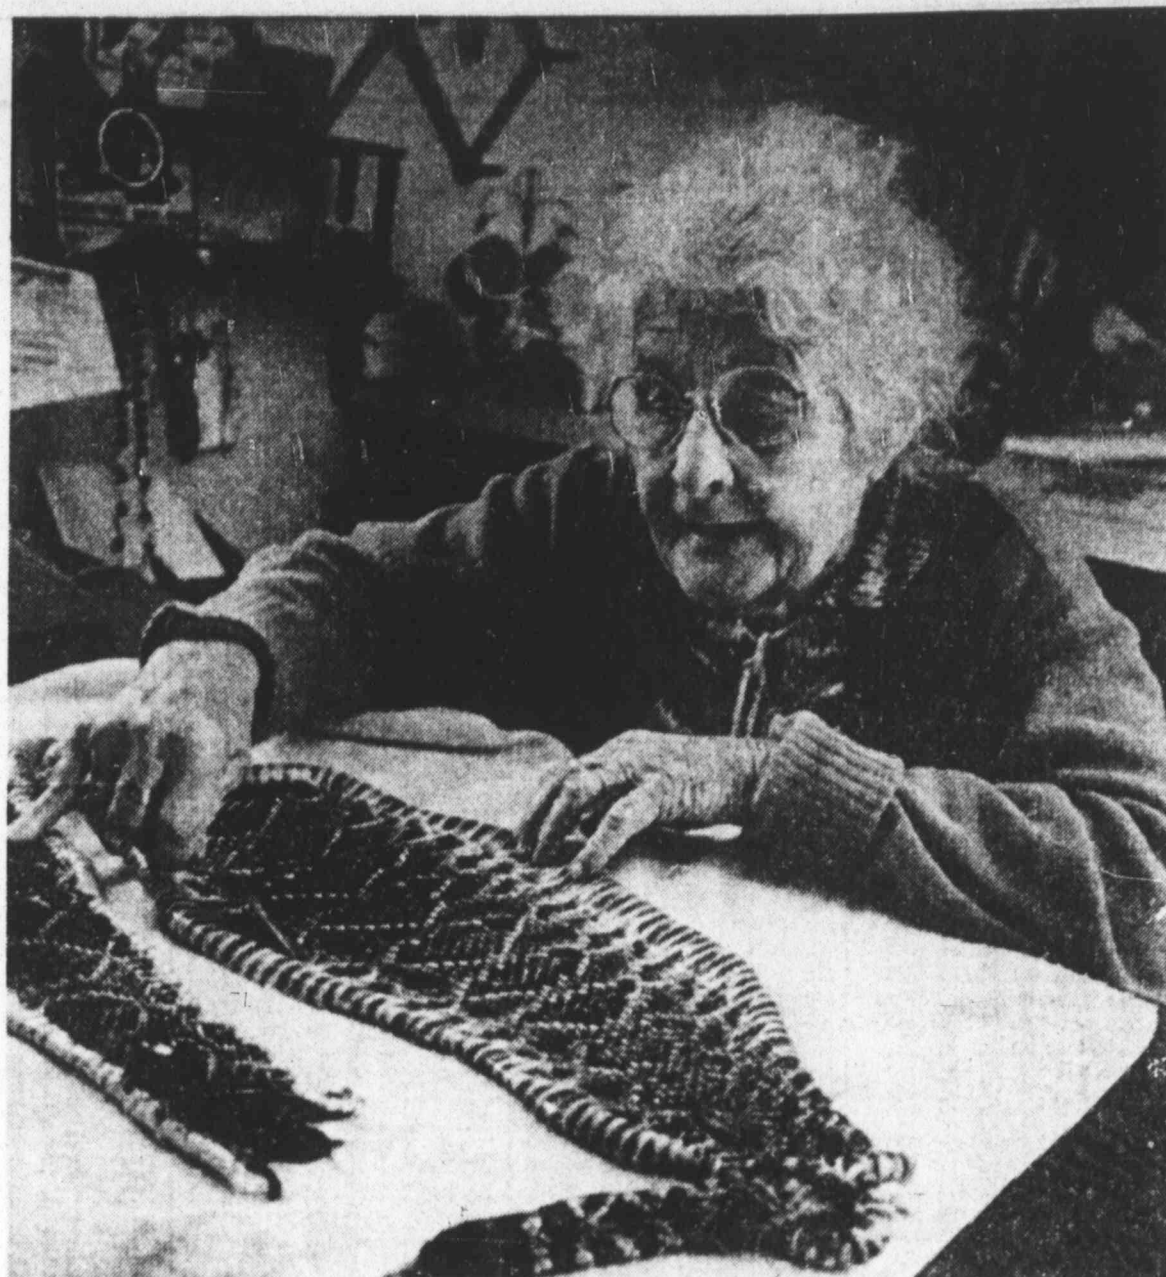

Judge Corso, in his six-page decision, said "a preponderance of evidence" established that "the defendant does not as a result of mental disease or defect lack capacity to understand the proceedings against him or assist in his defense."

He said psychiatric testimony and evidence presented at a four-day, closed competency hearing earlier this month indicated Berkowitz "is most certainly oriented as to time and place and has contact with reality. He can perceive, recall (if he wishes to) and relate."

Berkowitz has been held at the psychiatric ward of Kings County Hospital since his arrest.

Berkowitz was found competent to stand trial at an earlier hearing last fall. But a new hearing was ordered by Corso when he replaced the original judge, who stepped down amid controversy over public statements he had made about the case.

After disposition of the Brooklyn charges, Berkowitz must face indictments in the Bronx and Queens for the other slayings.

Ex-California Solon Given Prison Term

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite a tearful apology and his attorney's fervent plea for mercy, former California Rep. Richard T. Hanna was ordered Monday to spend six months to 2½ years in prison for his role in the Korean influence-buying scandal.

Hanna, a white-haired, 64-year-old Democrat, is the only past or present member of Congress to be convicted in the case. One other, former Rep. Otto Passman of Louisiana, has been charged, and at least two more indictments are widely expected.

A former six-term congressman who moved to Fayetteville, Ark., upon his retirement in 1974, Hanna appeared contrite and shaken as he haltingly told Chief District Judge William Bryant that "I hope in the years that I have left I can do something to atone for what I have done."

Hanna's attorney, Charles McNelis, argued passionately for his freedom, saying that no "conceivable and earthly good would be accomplished" by his incarceration for taking what the government said was upwards of $200,000 from South Korean businessman Tongsun Park.

Soviet Writer Gets Literary Award

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet writer Alexander Chakovsky has been awarded this year's Lenin Prize for his novel about World War II and the siege of Leningrad entitled "Blockade." The Soviet news agency Tass reported Monday.

The prize is the nation's highest literary award. Chakovsky, 65, is editor-in-chief of the weekly Literaturnaya Gazeta.

Remedies, the petition says, should include proper public hearings, detailed accountings of money and creation of sinking funds, voter approval of the petition names as defendants West, city council members Alan Henry, Carolyn Jordan, Bill McAlister, City Secretary Treva Phillips, City Attorney Fred Senter, Cunningham and Miller.

Individual council members and city staffers have indicated repeatedly that they believe the city should not negotiate an out-of-court settlement, which is what the council chose to do several years ago after Marshall filed a suit to block the sale of Lubbock Power and Light revenue bonds.

The indication that a negotiation would not be tried was strengthened when the city recently issued a formal statement through Cunningham that the planned bond sale would proceed as scheduled "until all legal recourses have been exhausted."

He added then that the city plans to secure the earliest possible hearing in the case.

City staffers have indicated privately that they believe the only way to discourage possible future lawsuits by Marshall is to fight his actions in court. Several staffers have said that bowing to certain Marshall demands only encourages him to make more.

In his earlier statement, Cunningham said it would be "regrettable if one person could again interfere with the progress of a city of 175,000 citizens and block the city council's efforts to meet the needs of the community." —PAULA TILKER

Miller Released From Hospital

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — United Mine Workers President Arnold Miller has been released from Mount Sinai Medical Center, where he was recuperating from heart trouble faster than doctors thought he would, the hospital said Monday.

Hospital spokeswoman Judy Stanton said Miller avoided publicity when he was released Sunday because "he was not well enough to meet the press."

She said Miller was having difficulty walking, but otherwise was in good condition although doctors said he would need about three months to recuperate.

Miller, 54, had been hospitalized since March 29, after suffering a mild stroke while resting after settlement of the 111-day coal strike. Shortly before he was to leave the hospital on April 12, Miller suffered a mild heart attack.

Probation Officer Has Arrest Powers
AUSTIN (AP) — A juvenile probation officer has the authority to make arrests, even if he also is an adult probation officer, Attorney General John Hill said Monday.

Hill wrote Fannin County Attorney John Morris that state law gives a juvenile officer powers of a peace officer.

"We do not believe he would lose the powers of a peace officer merely because he is also an adult probation officer," Hill wrote.

This Year's Teacher Retirement Unchanged

requirement is arbitrary in that many teachers can be effective beyond that age. But Leslie noted that 65 is a generally accepted standard for mandatory retirement — as recognized by even the State Teacher Retirement System.

He said the state provides full retirement benefits to teachers retiring at age 65 and having 10 to 19 years' experience. Full benefits also are provided to teachers with 20 or more years' experience who are retiring as early as 60, he said.

Leslie said the school district typically has 25 to 30 employees affected by the mandatory retirement policy annually. Those numbers, he said, include teachers who elect to retire before age 65 but have accumulated enough experience to draw full benefits.

School board president Charles Waters agreed that the district should give "careful consideration" to revising its retirement policy.

"Certainly we should comply with the law. But it would be advisable to wait until the Texas Education Agency provides some guidance in this area," Waters said.

He added then that the city plans to secure the earliest possible hearing in the case.

City staffers have indicated privately that they believe the only way to discourage possible future lawsuits by Marshall is to fight his actions in court. Several staffers have said that bowing to certain Marshall demands only encourages him to make more.

Clothing Store Hit By Bearded Bandit

A bearded bandit who faked the purchase of a pair of trousers just to get the cash register opened at a central Lubbock firm Monday made off with an undetermined amount of money after locking both attendants in a back room.

Forty-year-old clerk Joyce Duke told police a Mexican-American man about 25 years old entered Wilson's Little Red Barn about 5:30 p.m. Monday and, after searching through several stacks, finally decided on a pair of pants and approached the register.

While the man dug into his pockets for money, the woman told police, she opened the cash register and prepared to ring up the purchase. It was then, she said, she noticed the man hadn't produced the money but had pulled a black pistol he had apparently carried into the store.

The man, clad in blue pants, emptied the register and ordered the woman and her mother, who was in the store at the time, to get into a room in the back of the 2223 Ave. H business.

After they were certain the man had fled, his victims called police.

Officers late Monday still were seeking a suspect in that case, but other officers arrested another man Monday for carrying a similar weapon.

Patrolmen who noticed a figure slumped against the steering wheel of a car parked near a 4th Street and Avenue H club about 3:45 a.m. Monday said they discovered a .38-caliber revolver in the man's pocket after waking him. He was arrested for unlawfully carrying a weapon.

When Tim Casper, manager of a 2343 19th St. business returned to work Monday, he found the safe to his firm open and several cash drawers emptied. Casper told police whoever entered the firm about 3 a.m. Monday left with at least $3,500.

Car burglars took $1,028 worth of various items from a car owned by Robert Medlin of Arlington while the vehicle was parked outside a 2627 74th Place residence between 9 p.m. and 10:30 p.m. Sunday.

Danny Joe Davidson of 3308 60th St. told police someone took a $440 radio, a coat and some tapes from his car while it was parked outside a 3006 Slide Road business late Sunday also.

Stephanie Tyhurst of 3424 Frankfort Ave. reported the theft of about $90 in cassette tapes from her car late Sunday or early Monday.

James Bolton of 1923 6th St. No. 3 Rear told police someone took a $525 television set and stereo from his residence at 1623 6th St. No. 3 Rear sometime between 4 p.m. Friday and 12:55 a.m. Monday.

Services for Miss Beulah Starnes, 86, of Austin and a former longtime Lubbock resident, are tentatively set for 3:30 p.m. Wednesday at Weed-Corley Funeral Chapel here.

Three men were wounded early today in related incidents reportedly stemming from a long-running feud.

Two of the victims received only minor pellet wounds and the third casualty was shot in the leg.

One of the victims said he was standing inside the front screen door of his 2nd Street house when a car containing two men stopped outside. He and his brother suffered minor wounds when one of the occupants of the car allegedly fired two shotgun blasts.

The suspects named by the men reportedly had been involved in stabbing another brother a few weeks ago.

Two hours later another member of the victimized family was arrested in the same block after police reportedly found him standing over a 3rd Street resident whom he allegedly had just shot twice.

The assailant, who was holding a 36-inch length of steel pipe, said the wounded man had come at him with the pipe, so he shot him.

Reports indicated the man on the ground had been shot twice in the leg. However, police did not recover the gun at the scene.

At about the same time, officers received a complaint from a woman on 3rd Street who said her front window had been shot out by men who had been involved in the ongoing disagreement for some time.

Police said they noticed several bullet holes in the door frame of the house reportedly caused by a similar incident a few days ago.

In recently reported break-ins, Joe B. Pate Jr. of 6608 Norfolk Ave. said about $4,000 worth of property was stolen from his house last week. The complainant named a suspect who reportedly got through a back window and made off with the goods including a large amount of jewelry and three shotguns.

Services for Bernie Howell, 62, veteran Lubbock radio and television personality, will be at 10 a.m. today at Central Baptist Church with the Rev. James Schoenrock, pastor, officiating.

Burial will follow in Resthaven Memorial Park under the direction of Rix Funeral Directors.

Howell, of 1617 27th St. No. 506 was found dead about noon Sunday by his landlady after she became concerned when he did not appear at a scheduled engagement at the Lubbock Country Club the night before.

Police said he was still in bed and had apparently died in his sleep. Justice of the Peace Charles E. Smith ruled Howell died of natural causes.

Howell had hosted the noon-time community affairs program on KMCC for the past five years during which more than 600 Lubbock and South Plains residents had been featured on the program last year alone.

He had also co-hosted the monthly Chamber of Commerce breakfasts since 1968.

After graduating from high school in Vernon in 1933 and attending the University of Oklahoma and Texas Tech University, he began working with KFYO radio in Lubbock.

In the 1940s, Howell accepted a job with Amarillo radio station KGNC to do an organ and musical variety program. He returned to Lubbock in the 1950s for a job with KCB-TV where he performed daily on both radio and television programs until 1969.

Howell moved his afternoon organ performance to KMCC in 1969, and, until five years ago, had been heard on KSEL radio with Bill McAlister on "The TFO Show."

He was a native of Vernon and a member of the Central Baptist Church.

Survivors include a son, Jan Richard Howell of Roswell, N.M.; his mother, Mrs. W.B. Howell of Athens; two brothers, John of Maudin, Mo., and Robert of Rexdale, Ontario, Canada; and two grandchildren.

A Bernie Howell Scholarship Fund has been set up at Texas Tech University's Music Department and is being handled by Texas Commerce Bank and the First National Bank. The family has requested memorials be sent to the fund.

Services for Ella Conatser, 89, of Seminole, will be at 2 p.m. today in First Baptist Church at Seminole. Burial will be in Seminole Cemetery under direction of Singleton Funeral Home at Seminole. Mrs. Conatser died Sunday.

Services for Manuel G. Gutierrez, 63, of 117 Ave. N., will be at 10 a.m. Wednesday at St. Joseph's Catholic Church. Burial will be in Peaceful Gardens Memorial Park under direction of Henderson Funeral Directors. Gutierrez died Sunday.

Services for Sarah R. Gutierrez, 72, of 2908 Baylor Ave., will be at 2 p.m. today in Church of Faith. Burial will be in City of Lubbock Cemetery under direction of Henderson Funeral Directors. Mrs. Gutierrez died Saturday.

A rosary for Cora Faye Meyer, 74, of Littlefield, will be today in Buffalo, Mo., and funeral mass will be at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday in Saint Williams Catholic Church at Buffalo. Burial will be in Garden of Memories Cemetery at Buffalo, Mo., under direction of Cantion Funeral Home. Mrs. Meyer died Saturday.

Economic Subsidies Aid Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia and East European communist countries have agreed to boost their economic subsidies for Cuba's economy as a reward for increased Cuban involvement in Africa, a U.S. intelligence report says.

The economic props include bonus payments for Cuban sugar at four times the world price and cut-rate oil supplies, according to the report.

"In effect, the Soviet Union is paying Cuba for doing its work in Africa," said one analyst, who asked not to be named.

An earlier intelligence appraisal last month said that, "provided the Russians continue to underwrite it, Cuba probably could increase significantly its commitment in Africa without seriously damaging its economy and military capability."

Last week, the State Department estimated that the number of Cuban soldiers and civilians throughout Africa has climbed by 18,000 since November to a total of about 45,000.

All but about 6,000 of them are military personnel, the department said.

U.S. intelligence specialists said Soviet support for Cuba's economy will be 10 percent greater this year than in 1977 and about triple the level in 1975, the year Cuba started sending troops into Angola.

The report said Russia has agreed to raise its purchases of Cuban sugar to 2.9 million tons, up 200,000 tons from the present level, at four times the world price. Sugar is Cuba's main crop, and depressed world prices have caused some economic difficulties for the island country.

East European countries allied with Russia will buy Cuban sugar at twice the world price, U.S. intelligence specialists said, in effect giving Fidel Castro a $150 million subsidy.

Russia also was reported to have assured Cuba that the island's oil needs will be met at a fixed price of $7.25 a barrel, which the analysts said is a little more than half the world price.

Furthermore, it was said, Russia has promised to increase deliveries of transportation equipment and some other goods.

Meanwhile, intelligence officials said Cuba has not been having trouble obtaining loans in Western countries.

"Western lenders consider the Cubans a good credit risk, apparently because they believe the Russians are the ultimate guarantors of those loans," an intelligence source said.

However, it was reported that foreign aid grants from certain Western nations appear to be drying up.

The report mentioned cancellation by West Germany of a projected aid program in Cuba and indications that the Netherlands and Sweden may halt some aid programs now underway.

Spring Spells Sneezing To Hay Fever Victims

By JOHN BARBOUR

Springtime means rebirth to most of us. But for perhaps as many as one in 20 Americans, it is a rebirth of torture and a threat to a healthy life.

To the hay fever sufferer, there is nothing pleasant about spring, and it is a long wait for the first killing frost of fall. And even that may not bring immediate relief, since after a long summer or sneezing the hay fever sufferer's upper respiratory tract may be chronically inflamed.

Hay fever is caused by pollens and molds and nature has provided a multitude of them. Oddly, it isn't the pollen of flowers that are the culprits. Most ornamentals rely on their pretty colors and pleasant aromas to lure insects which then pick up the heavy pollen on their legs and carry them to another flower to be mated. They are indeed innocent.

But the lighter pollens are designed by nature to be windblown, and these little offenders fill the air from springtime on. They are little more than dust. The pollen of the ragweed, for instance, is only 1,250th of an inch in diameter, but it causes trouble far beyond its size.

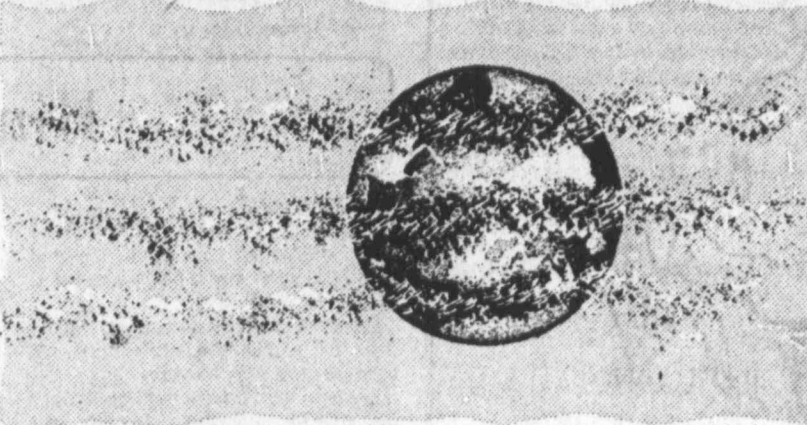

Each season brings a new crop of pollen to harass the hay fever sufferer. In the spring, it is the airborne pollen from trees — birch, maple, oak, ash, poplar, elm, sycamore, walnut and cypress. In midsummer the big producers are the grasses, and from August to frost the world abounds in ragweed and its relatives. Ragweed is so common in the East and Central states that scientists estimate the fall crop produces a quarter million tons of the dust-like pollen.

To the hay fever sufferer, it means paroxysms of sneezing. The roof of the mouth, the eyes and the nose become swollen and itchy. The nose runs and the eyes tear. The throat is sore. There is headaches, irritability, no sleep, upset stomach and in some cases hives.

Like other allergies, hay fever takes months, even years to develop in the susceptible person. The body produces defenses to the pollen, but is overdefends. A number of chemicals are produced in the course of the battle, among them histamine. And it is the histamine that is the prime suspect in causing the irritations and the hives of hay fever.

The hay fever sufferer who tries to live with his malady is asking for trouble. Hay fever frequently leads to asthma, and asthma to severe lung damage and even a shortened life.

Antihistamines frequently provide some relief, but they are not the whole answer. The best defense is to avoid the things you are allergic to, but that is not always easy. While the air abounds in pollen the whole spring and summer long, there are some places that are safe—mountains, northern climes and the seaside or lake shore. But the hay fever sufferer still needs expert medical care to the pinpoint the kind of pollen he is allergic to, and where he can go to avoid it.

Air conditioning helps, but it should be moderate. Doctors advise that the temperature should not be more than 12 degrees below than the outside summer temperatures. Cold irritates the already sore nose and throat areas. Some electrostatic units are effective in removing dust from the air but, again, expert advice is necessary in finding the right machine.

The most effective method for the hay fever sufferer is testing to find out what allergens trigger the attack, and then a patient desensitization program, small injections of the personal poison to build up an effective defense to it.

For the most part, hay fever sufferers can do themselves a favor just by using common sense.

They should stay away from uncut and weedy fields. They should avoid any known nasal irritants—hair sprays, perfumes, wave lotions, tobacco, smoke, insecticides, paint fumes, even the chlorinated water of the swimming pool. When it is not possible to avoid dusty areas, they should wear a nose mask.

They should avoid excesses—over-tiredness, overeating. They should cut down on alcoholic beverages since these produce mucous in the nasal passages. They should avoid severe air conditioning, and stay away from people with colds. A cold only adds insult to injury.

Above all, they should see a doctor—preferably an allergist—to develop a personal program against their personal allergies. They should be prepared for a long siege, but it will be worth it.

Allergy won't go away by itself, and untreated, it will likely become untreatable. It will likely become untreatable and lead to other debilitating diseases.

County Jail Construction Bidding Date Postponed

By BOB CAMPBELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Bids for the new Lubbock County Jail probably will be opened sometime in early June or about two weeks later than originally hoped, county commissioners decided Monday.

County architect Arnold Maeker reported Monday afternoon that the formal letter from the Texas Commission on Jail Standards approving jail blueprints had not been received and said bid specifications cannot be printed this week.

The original plan was to open bids for the possible $4-million project in late May.

Maeker said contractors will need about a month to prepare bids, and the commissioners agreed to wait until Monday, May 8, to set the date for opening bids.

The jail is expected to be finished east of the existing jail in early 1980.

In other business Monday, the commissioners accepted a low bid of $22,735 from W.B. Abbott & Co. of Lubbock for the construction of two tennis courts in Shallowater Park, which is owned by the county, in central Shallowater.

After the meeting ended about 3:30 p.m., County Judge Rod Shaw and Commissioners Coy Biggs, Jim Lancaster, Alton Brazell and Edgar Chance met with Gov. Dolph Briscoe who was touring the courthouse as part of a campaign visit.

Monday morning, the commissioners approved an additional expense of about $3,000 a year for a part-time secretary for Lubbock Justice of the Peace Charles Smith to begin working full-time.

The commissioners also passed a resolution asking the highway department to put Interstate 27 through Lubbock between Avenues A and H.

In a discussion, County Judge Rod Shaw said there are 13 alternatives for bringing the highway through the city, and six of them are in the A-through-H corridor.

Commissioner Alton Brazell said most Lubbock traffic is generated by Texas Tech University and downtown Lubbock and that the corridor suggested by the resolution would serve both sources.

The resolution was offered by Shaw and Brazell, who Shaw said have attended a number of meetings on the issue in recent years.

The discussion followed a question by Commissioner Coy Biggs of Slaton on the reasoning behind the resolution.

A 7-mile, $11.5-million phase of the highway is under construction north of Lubbock as part of a planned 140-mile link between Lubbock and Interstate 40 at Amarillo.

State Department of Highways and Public Transportation engineers said in February 1977 that it would be at least five years before acquisition of right-of-way through Lubbock could begin.

In other morning business, the commissioners approved the $4,081 purchase of a closed circuit television camera and monitor and two types of recorders for the county jail.

Motorola Communications was the only firm submitting bids, and the commissioners decided for the purchase after a lengthy discussion of various options.

In answer to a question from commissioners, jail administrator Gary McGrew said a camera and monitor alone would be of little value.

A device that can record everything the camera sees for up to an hour and a time-lapse recorder taking periodic photographs will be attached to the camera initially for only the booking area of the current jail.

The commissioners said the equipment also will be used in the new jail being planned and that as many as eight cameras might be installed there.

They approved an $1,815 low bid from Jim Settle Fence Co. for 240 feet of chain link fencing and a 20-foot gate on the north side of the Precinct 3 maintenance center at Idalou, which is being expanded.

Time Inc. Schedules Life Magazine Return

NEW YORK (AP) — After nearly six years in limbo, Life magazine will return this October as a monthly publication dominated by photos, its publisher announced Monday.

"The magazine field is generally vigorous, all of our Time Inc. publications are flourishing, and it seems appropriate to bring back one of the great forces in American journalism," Time Inc. editor-in-chief Hedley Donovan said in a statement.

"The power of the picture, which the old Life did so much to magnify, has never been greater than today," Donovan said.

The old Life was a weekly that first was published in 1936. It was suspended at the end of 1972 because of financial losses. At its peak, Life had a circulation of 8.5 million copies and carried nearly $170 million in gross advertising revenues in 1966, an annual record at the time.

Since its suspension, Time Inc. has published 10 Life Special reports, thus keeping the familiar format alive.

Donovan said the revived Life will have predominantly four-color photography, varied with black and white, artists' illustrations and a few articles and columns. The familiar big Life page will be used.

At the outset, the magazine will rely on newsstand sales at $1.50 each. It also will be sold to subscribers for $18 a year. Its advertising circulation base is expected to be 700,000 a month, but advertising rates have not yet been fixed.

"The proposed monthly Life will differ from the weekly magazine both in editorial emphasis and, more fundamentally, in publishing strategy," said Time Inc. Chairman Andrew Heiskell.

"We believe the new Life can deliver high quality consumer readers who are willing to pay top prices. We will try, as far as we can, to bypass expensive postal delivery costs to get our magazine to its readers."

Homemaker Officers Installed At Dallas

Eleven new state officers for the Texas Association, Future Homemakers of America (FHA) were installed at the annual meeting held at the Dallas Convention Center Thursday and Friday.

Officer candidates are elected from ten FHA areas in Texas. A nominating committee then assigns an office for each candidate.

The state FHA Executive Council which plans the activities of the association for the coming year is formed by ten FHA area presidents. State officers for 1978-1979 are Suzanne Knight of San Antonio, president; Kay Chaney of Temple, vice-president of HERO/FHA; Gina Nelson of Arp, vice-president of programs; Patricia Bullock of Milano, vice-president of recreation; Debbie Parker of Happy, vice-president of projects; Pattie Johnson of O'Donnell, vice-president of encounter; Lesa White of Friendswood, vice-president of public relations; De Anna Cowan of San Benito, recording secretary; Pam Lewis of Hico, corresponding secretary; Joy Smith of McKinney, parliamentarian; and Carolee Gofney of New Waverly, historian.

African Guerrillas Commandeer Bus

WINDHOEK, South West Africa (UPI) — Police said Monday black guerrillas had commandeered a bus with more than 70 blacks aboard in South West Africa and forced it to drive into Angola.

Col. Koos Myburgh, head of security police in the huge territory, also known as Namibia, said the incident occurred Saturday and was the third mass kidnapping in southern Africa this year.

He said the bus was on its way from Oshakati to Ruacana in the northern section of the territory near Angola when it slowed to allow a herd of goats to cross the road.

Three gunmen boarded the bus and forced the driver to take a side road leading to the Angolan border six miles away, Myburgh said. When the bus turned off the main road, about 70 guerrillas came out of the bush and escorted it north to the border, he said.

At the frontier, 12 elderly black women on the bus were allowed to leave but an estimated 72 men, women and children passengers were forced to cross into Angola with the guerrillas, Myburgh said.

Tune In Tomorrow

NEW YORK — The folks at NBC's "The Doctors" are as charitable to real persons as they are to their screen patients.

Producer Chuck Weiss is helping to organize this year's Annual Easter Seals Home Service Ball which will be themed "A Soap Opera Gala." The ball honors handicapped Home Service members and provides a rare night on the town in Manhattan for those who normally are shut-ins. Since all of the Home Service members of the Easter Seals program are restricted to their homes, television is a great and sometimes only means of entertainment and communication. And, of course, many of the members are soap opera addicts and soap performers are their idols. Weiss has invited all of the network serials to reserve tables at the gala event so that Home Service members can meet their daytime heroes and heroines. It should prove to be an exciting evening.

SHORT TAKES

The new Faith Coleridge on "Ryan's Hope" is portrayed by Karen Morris, who was born in Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., but was raised on her parents' several thousand-acre cattle ranch near Cheyenne, Wyoming. "RH" is the first professional acting assignment for the 5-foot-7 blue-eyed blonde who was 1974's America's Junior Miss titleholder.

"General Hospital" has found a new actor to fill Michael Gregory's departing shoes. Chris Robinson, a serial freshman, is not playing the role of Dr. Rick Webber.

Kate Mulgrew, the original Mary Ryan on "Ryan's Hope," left the soaper for greener pastures. Two weeks after leaving New York for Hollywood she found them. Kat's been signed as one of the female leads in a projected miniseries for CBS, "The Word," based on Irving Wallace's bestselling novel. Filming for the series will take Kate to Rome, Amsterdam and London for location shooting with the show's star, David ("The Fugitive") Jansen.

Soap Opera isn't always a live medium as a Philadelphia acting troupe called the Philadelphia Co. is proving. "Center City Soap," a staged serial with music that integrates commercials for local merchants, is presented six times a week in a storefront of an office building. Variety, the show business newspaper, reported that the attraction, at a ticket price of a buck fifty per head, is drawing turn-away business.

Tune in tomorrow for the real thing.

THE MAILBAG

I know that I've seen Joel Stedman (Walter Vested on "As the World Turns") on a previous serial, but can't remember which one. — T.D., Memphis, Tenn.

About two years ago, Joel played a lascivious photographer who was intent on doing heroine Chris Foster bodily harm on "The Young and the Restless."

I missed a few episodes of "Ryan's Hope" and would like to know what happened to the character of Bill Woodard. — J.B., Elizabeth City, N.C.

Bill, who'd been having heart problems, really ran out of steam when he confronted wife Rae with taped evidence of her clandestine affair with Roger. Although Rae admitted Bill was the only man she truly loved, even though she fooled around with Roger, the confession was too much for Bill to bear and he had a stroke while physically attacking Rae.

Richard Van Vleet is the cat's meow as Chuck Tyler on "All My Children" as far as I'm concerned. Has he done any other roles before coming to daytime? — A.F., Baltimore, Md.

Richard, who was born in Denver, Colo., toured with the U.S.O. before becoming a Universal picture contract player. He guested in such TV series as "Mannix," "Cannon," and "McCloud." He was briefly spotted in the film "Airport."

Richard's most famous screen memory or rather nightmare was in "Ben." He was literally eaten up by the stars of that flick, hundreds of ravaging, rampaging rats. Cat's meow, indeed.

You will be interested in the new book I've edited that includes a short history of "All My Children." Get your copy by sending one dollar to: Tune in Tomorrow, P.O. Box 589, Radio City Station, N.Y., N.Y. 10019. Ask for "All My Children."

Send your questions about soap operas to "Tune In Tomorrow," 230 Park Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10017. Questions cannot be answered personally, but those of general interest will be answered in future columns.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

There must be a better way! I'm so tired of having a collar covered with makeup — costs, blouses, sweater, nothing escapes! I've used different brands of foundations, but no matter what I've tried, it's been the same story for years. I've even tried using a translucent powder over the foundations, blotting with tissue or cold water, etc., but to no avail. Is there such a thing as "model's makeup" available that might help solve the problem? Any assistance or suggestions you may have to offer will be sincerely appreciated. — B. Hutter

I wish I could say there is a better way, but after checking with a representative of a large cosmetic firm, I'm afraid I have rather bad news. Seems there is no such thing as "model's makeup" on the market. The only suggestion the cosmetic people could make was in the method of application.

Namely, if you have been putting the makeup below the jawbone line, don't! According to all their cosmeticians, makeup should never be applied to the neck if you object to a bit on your collars, etc. It will rub off in spite of anything one might do.

However, to avoid a harsh dividing line between facial makeup and the neck, always remember to "feather" the makeup slightly beneath the jawline. Wish I had a magical solution for you, but since I don't, I sincerely hope I've been of some help anyway. — Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Making loops by hand to stuff in dresses to hold belts in place was a chore I disliked doing because of all the tedious stitches required, not to mention trying to keep the thread untangled. By accident I zigzagged over some of the tending seam threads one day and decided I had a good substitute for this tedious sewing.

So I used three strands of matching thread and zigzagged over them. Instant belt loops! Just be sure to make them long enough to catch the ends firmly in a seam. You'll never make the loops by hand again. — H.B.

DEAR HELOISE:

We needed a place to hang our gloves, mittens and hats, so Mom came up with a good idea.

You know those screw-in cup hooks that are put on a wall? Well, after you put the hook in, cut a piece of string about two feet long and tie it on the hook. Then, take five or six spring clothespins and tie them to the string by threading the string through the wire middle of the clothespin and you then have yourself a "glove, mitten and hat hanger-upper."

When you want a glove, mitten, or a hat, just give a gentle tug and there you are. — Jeff Sylvester, Age 12

Hugs and kisses to you, Jeff, for a super idea. We're going to look forward to hearing from you again, and hopefully, for a long time to come. Okay? Thanks. — Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

I was making pie crusts to freeze and thought of a space-saving idea.

I rolled the dough between two sheets of wax paper, then trimmed it (the dough) to the size needed. Rolled it up in the wax paper and slid it into a cardboard tube (from wax paper or foil) and sealed for freezing.

Each crust takes up very little space and the tube protects the dough from breakage. — Mrs. Irene Gildart

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

BY
DR. GEORGE C. THOSTESON

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I need more information on a subject you just mentioned recently — familial tremor. As a child, I can remember my father's hands shaking, although he was a very calm person. At about age 13, I noticed my own hands shaking. Now, at 35, I still shake. My doctor doesn't seem to be able to help, other than to prescribe a tranquilizer, which I take on occasions, and it does help. My 8-year-old son's hands have started shaking, and it worries me. What causes this, and is there any cure? — A.B.S.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have acne fairly bad, but only on my back. I have been told it can be caused by pressure from clothing, etc. Is this true? — A.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: When a person is on a diet for weight loss and is successful, does the stomach shrink? I have a bet with a friend. I say the stomach does not shrink. Do I win or lose? — D.J.J.

There is a kind of acne that is caused or touched off by physical irritation. It is called "stress acne" or "acne mechanica." In young women, a common site is the back and neck-shoulder area. The chief causes are tight bras, turtle-neck sweaters, etc. In boys, it can be noted among football players who wear chafing chinstraps. Bus drivers may get it from constant rubbing of their backs against seat backs. The variations are endless, so it is always wise for young people to make a check of their wearing apparel to see if some such item is contributing to acne eruptions.

The stomach is a hollow, muscular organ that continually expands and contracts with the volume of food or liquid contents. Most weight loss programs include (or should include) a fair amount of bulk. I would say that over the long haul the stomach does not shrink and that you win your bet — on a technicality.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How many hours of sleep should a 5-year-old boy be getting? — A.K.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 20-year-old single female. Over the past few years, I have read many books and articles on how to have a successful marriage. I want very much to have a good life and marriage will be an extremely important part of it. Several years ago, I clipped from your column the "Twelve Rules for a Happy Married Life." I misplaced the clipping and wonder if it might be possible for you to hunt up that column and run it again. I would appreciate it so very much. — Faithful Reader In Pilot Mountain, North Dakota

Dear Pilot: I found the column and herewith repeat with pleasure:

TWELVE RULES FOR A HAPPY MARRIED LIFE

- (1) Never both be angry at once.
- (2) Never yell at each other unless the house is on fire.
- (3) Yield to the wishes of the other as an exercise in self-discipline if you can't think of a better reason.
- (4) If you have a choice between making yourself or your mate look good —

- choose your mate.
- (5) If you feel you must criticize, do so lovingly.
- (6) Never bring up a mistake of the past.
- (7) Neglect the whole world rather than each other.
- (8) Never let the day end without saying at least one complimentary thing to your life's partner.
- (9) Never meet without an affectionate welcome.
- (10) Never go to bed mad.
- (11) When you've made a mistake, talk it out and ask for forgiveness.
- (12) Remember, it takes two to make an argument. The one who is wrong is the one who will be doing most of the talking.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently someone suggested that children be trained not to gawk or ask personal questions of handicapped people. I don't agree. It is normal for children to ask questions. As a handicapped person (an amputee) I am not the least bit upset when a child asks, "What happened to your leg?" I simply tell the youngster I had an accident because I was careless on a bike. His curiosity is quieted and he learns something. Please expand on this vital subject. — Experience Talking

Dear Ex: I asked Dr. Henry Betts, Chief of the Chicago Rehabilitation Institute, to express his opinion on this subject and this is what Dr. Betts said: "The main goal of the disabled is that they be accepted as individuals — not symbols. As with all people, this means understanding and accepting their dissimilarities, strengths and weaknesses, positive and negative traits. To pretend that these features are being overlooked in the disabled (they certainly are not overlooked in others) is to separate the disabled and keep them out of the mainstream where they belong.

"A natural curiosity exists in all people about all others. There is no reason children or adults should avoid asking sincere questions of a disabled person. Manners and tact should be guidelines, however, for all people at all times."

Is alcoholism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Read the booklet, "Alcoholism — Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

The "H" in the code word ARCH stands for "How can I make or beat this contract?" depending on whether you are declarer or a defender.

When East asked himself this question before playing to the first trick, his answer was that he wasn't going to beat it by playing The ten of spades and waiting for two spade tricks. Could he beat it by going right up with the ace of spades and leading back the 10 of clubs?

He had no means of knowing, but as an enterprising player, he meant to find out. Then he rose with the ace of spades and led back the 10 of clubs.

The club shift cooked South's goose to a turn. It didn't matter what he did from then on. He was never going to come to more than eight tricks.

South did duck the first club and played his queen when East continued the suit. West took his king and led back a low club to South's ace. South could have cashed six quick tricks in hearts and spades but, because that would only have postponed the inevitable diamond finesse, South took it right away for down one.

Pat Walker's program is the only way I could become a perfect 36-24-36" says Joyce O'Bar, Abilene, Tex.

Before

Joyce O'Bar after losign 32 lbs. & 53 inches

Mrs. O'Bar proves that: At Pat Walker's you lose where you need to lose. The following is her true statement.

Through the years I have tried almost every diet plan available, only to gain what I lost. Today after being a patron of the Pat Walker Abilene Salon for 2 years and maintaining my weight; my friends and family know what the program has done for me. Personally it is figure perfection! I have lost 32 lbs. and 53 inches. I wear size 7-8 clothes. Before Pat Walker's program, I wore size 14. Today I'm 36-24-36 and will continue my treatments for firming and toning. Pat Walker salons offer complete privacy in elegant surroundings. Passive exercise, no disrobing and each patron has an individualized program. This is the only way I could have accomplished losing the pounds and inches where I wanted, and maintaining my weight. No matter what age or size you are; if you care for your appearance, this program will work for you.

I cared...I'm a believer! Signed: Joyce O'Bar Abilene, Texas

Top French Actress Prefers Exotic Film Sites To France

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Stephane Audran was born in Versailles, France on Nov. 1, 1936."

What's so amazing about that? Only the fact that the information begins her studio biography. It is unheard of for a performer — especially an actress older than 40 — to admit his or her age in an official biography.

Stephane Audran seems perfectly frank about most things, including why she prefers not to make films in France: "The French people used to be able to enjoy life. But in the last few years they have become so depressed and complaining. It is sad. They complain about the government and yet they keep the same government. Usually when people complain enough, they insist on change. But the French seem to enjoy their misery."

Miss Audran is a top actress in France, where she has starred in 17 films directed by Claude Chabrol, her husband. American audiences know her best as one of the aristocrats in Luis Bunuel's "The Discreet Charm of the Bourgeoisie" as well as a victim in the Agatha Christie mystery "Ten Little Indians."

Her only Hollywood film was with George Segal in "The Black Bird," a spoof of "The Maltese Falcon" which somehow never managed to fly.

"I didn't understand what happened on the picture," she remarked. "Everyone was fighting — George, the director and writer, David Giler, the producer, Ray Stark. It's so difficult to do a good film even if the people are getting along well. If you have fights every day, it can't help."

Last year she had a more pleasurable experience working with Czech director Ivan Passer in "Silver Bears." The Columbia film, which is being released in the United States this month, is based on Paul Erdman's novel about chicanery in international finance. It was filmed in Switzerland, Morocco, London and Las Vegas with a cast headed by Michael Caine, Cybil Shepherd, Louis Jourdan, Martin Balsam and Tom Smothers.

Miss Audran was visiting Hollywood after another exotic location — Durango, Mexico, where she appeared in a western, "The Eagle's Wing," with Anthony Harvey — "A Lion in Winter" — as director.

The French actress said she enjoyed working with Passer and Harvey but admitted that she is spoiled because of her association with Bunuel and Chabrol.

"Both of them know exactly where to put the camera, which is rare in directors," she remarked. "They are different in their work, however."

"Bunuel is much more demanding. He knows exactly what he wants and he gets it. He doesn't like actors, though he does like people. As long as you do your job well, he approves of you."

"Chabrol likes actors too much. He is not demanding enough, and we often have fights over this. Other actors enjoy working more with him than I do; he is nicer to them than he is to me."

What happens when their fights become acrimonious?

"He wins, of course. He is gifted, and he is my husband."

Chabrol, one of the film critics who founded the New Wave, cast her in his second film, "Les Cousins" in 1958, and two years later they married. She worked exclusively for him for 10 years, then started films with other directors. Their latest collaboration is "Violette," a real-life story about a French girl who tried to kill both her parents so she could finance her lover's education.

UNUSUALLY FRANK — French actress Stephane Audran is unusually frank about most things, especially for an actress over 40. Her movie biography begins "Stephane Audran born in Versailles, France, on Nov. 1, 1936. She is shown here dressed for her most recent movie, "Silver Bears," to be released in the United States this month. (AP Laserphoto)

TV Music Series Wins Acclaim

AUSTIN (AP) — From its lukewarm reception three years ago, public television's "Austin City Limits" has jumped to prime time viewing and national acclaim for its special fare of country music.

The weekly, hour-long program now features progressive country and rock singers, like Michael Murphy, and traditional country artists such as the Texas Playboys, backup group to the late Bob Wills.

It is now one of the few national programs produced outside a large media center, a distinction its producers say was not easily attained.

"It was pretty rough at first," remembers associate producer Terry Lickona, who moved to Texas four years ago from upstate New York.

"In one way the network (Public Broadcasting Service) was not convinced we could produce a quality series," Lickona said. "And the response to the idea of a country music program, progressive country or otherwise, was luke warm."

Lickona gives credit for selling the idea to executive producer Bill Arhos, a 40-year-old native Texan, who convinced the network to cover almost all the program's $200,000 budget.

The program idea came after the phenomenal rise of the "Austin Sound," a blend of country, rock and blues which was first championed by Willie Nelson, Jerry Jeff Walker, Murphy and others.

"The concept has changed since the start," Lickona said. "Austin City Limits began as a representation of Austin-type music. But we started running low on talent from Austin. So now we attempt to present the full range of country music today."

Each of the season's 13 shows are taped before a capacity 800-member audience in the ultra-modern studios of KLRN-TV, on the University of Texas campus.

The free tickets to the tapings go fast with minimal advertising, Lickona said, stressing the audience participation is a key to the show's success.

BILLY GRAHAM IN Hungary

This special one hour program documents Billy Graham's recent visit to Hungary to conduct a series of evangelical meetings.

He preached the Gospel to 30,000 persons in Hungary and his words reached countless millions around the world through the news media. The largest crowd, of 15,000, gathered at the Tahi Baptist Youth Camp, about twenty miles from Budapest. Mr. Graham told reporters that he was "overwhelmed" by the response. "I'll never forget Hungary," he said.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day to make the necessary changes you have been planning to put in effect which could give you more abundance in the future. Show that you are most thoughtful of others.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Take time to put your business affairs in better order. Be sure to keep promises you have made to others. Get involved in civic affairs.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Use your intuition, which is accurate now, in handling an important business matter. Think along optimistic lines.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A good day to sit down with your associates and state your views and come to a fine understanding. Be more encouraging.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get busy and finish any work you have left undone, especially that which means advancement for you. Be logical.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Let higher-ups be more aware of your talents and gain their support today. This can be a particularly fine day and evening for you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Find the best way to make those who live with you much happier. Show increased devotion to loved one. Safeguard your health.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get together with good friends in spare time and discuss the future. Avoid one who could cause you to spend too much money.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) An ideal day that can bring you more of the good things in life. Discuss important business matters with financial experts.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) The planets are most favorable now for getting ahead in career matters. Take steps to improve relationships with others.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Begin the day right by studying a civic matter and handling it well. Strive to be more efficient in your work. Be wise.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are gregarious by nature and this is a good day to be with as many persons as you can. Be sure to spend your money carefully.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) A particularly fine day to contact influential persons who can help you advance in your line of endeavor. Plan for the future.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will make life fascinating by own thinking, but must be taught to be more aggressive and less passive for best results throughout lifetime. Give as comprehensive an education as you can. Teach to keep an open mind.

Matthau Plays Tricks On Fate

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Walter Matthau sat under the tree of an outdoor restaurant on Beverly Drive across the street from where his new movie, "California Suite," was filming on location. It was noontime and somewhat chilly. He wore a pajama top, a disreputable blue overcoat and baggy trousers, presumably part of his wardrobe.

He squinted his beady eyes in the pale sunshine. His basset hound features were folded in on one another giving him the expression of a moribund moose.

Matthau ordered a chef's salad and watched leaves blow into the dish from the tree above. "You get more salad than you order in this joint," he grumbled dryly, proceeding to pick the unordered greenery from his plate.

He talked idly of this and that, his fondness for George Burns and their work together in "The Sunshine Boys."

"I'm very fond of George," he said. "But then I love all old Jews. I like to play them too. A director friend of mine said, 'Show Walter a grumpy old Jew and he will take him home with him.' That's just about right."

He allowed as how he makes three pictures every two years which means he turns down many more movies than he accepts.

"Even when I'm not working, I work," he said, doing his best to look enigmatic.

Conversation is a game with Matthau, accented by non sequiturs and punctuated with expressive facial gymnastics, mostly doleful.

"When I'm not working I go to the dentist, I remodel the house, I fix up the hi-fi and keep in shape by going for long walks. That's all work. I also gamble on horses and ball games. Sometimes that's not work. I'll win."

"I don't do pictures one after another because I don't want to and because I don't have to. But when too many months go by then I get anxious."

"It's like being on a desert island with no women around. After a year and a half if Phyllis Diller lands you get excited and take her to bed. She may not be what you had in mind, but she is the only one around."

"Perhaps that is a harsh observation. It's analogous to that man on the island and finally sees a female gorilla. He grabs the gorilla and thinks she is the most beautiful thing he has ever seen. Everything is relative."

"It's that way with making movies. After a while a script begins to look good to you even if it isn't."

What elements does Matthau look for in a screenplay?

"Well it may be the director or the location or a combination of the two," he said. "Sometimes a good location is very tempting."

Or a producer will offer to pay you so much money you can buy a house. Even if you don't find the script so good, a new house isn't bad.

Princess Caroline Sets Wedding Date In June

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (AP) — Princess Caroline of Monaco will have a quiet, family-only June wedding quite unlike the publicity-splashed entrance into royalty of her mother, Grace Kelly of Philadelphia.

A palace statement said Monday the 21-year-old brunette beauty will marry Philippe Junot, a 38-year-old French financial adviser, in two "strictly private" ceremonies June 28 and 29 at the royal palace — one civil and the other Roman Catholic in accordance with custom.

The low-key wedding preparations apparently reflect Princess Grace's and Prince Rainier III's widely reported displeasure with the match because of Junot's age and reputation as a playboy.

Because of "the private, family character of the ceremonies," no journalists or photographers will be admitted, the palace statement said. Photographs would be issued afterwards "as soon as possible."

The surprise engagement of Caroline and Junot was announced last Aug. 25 by the royal family in the French daily newspaper Nice-Matin.

Caroline, one of Europe's most attractive catches, met Junot through mutual friends in December 1975 while she was a philosophy student at the Sorbonne in Paris. She and her fiancé are often seen together frequenting chic discotheques, bridle paths and ski slopes.

Attractive and suave, Junot counsels international banks with offices in Paris and Montreal. His father, a former deputy mayor of Paris, is president of the French branch of Westinghouse Electric.

From all appearances, Caroline's wedding will bear little resemblance to her mother's.

Then a 29-year-old American movie star, Grace Kelly entered into one of the oldest princely families of Europe on April 18, 1956, in a simple exchange of "ous" televised by Radio Monte Carlo and Europe's major networks. The religious ceremony followed a day later.

The storybook union transforming Grace Kelly into a real-life princess captured the imagination of millions of Americans fans of the blonde Academy Award winner and a week-long wedding celebration drew thousands to this 370-acre Mediterranean principality.

Besides members of the Kelly clan and Rainier's ancient Grimaldi family, at the wedding were scores of diplomats, U.S. and European reporters, VIP members of Monaco and European society and at least seven television cameras situated around the Throne Room.

QUIET WEDDING — Princess Caroline of Monaco will be married to French financial advisor Philippe Junot on June 28 in private ceremonies in the royal palace in Monaco. It will be a quiet family-only wedding, unlike the publicity splashed entrance into royalty of her mother Grace Kelly of Philadelphia. (AP Laserphoto)

KANGAROO CROSSING? — Lori Lowling, 9, left, and her sister, Stacy, 10, inspect a kangaroo crossing sign in the Waukesha County, Wis., community of Goerkes Corners, which someone put up after several sightings of the animal in the area. No kangaroo has been reported missing in the vicinity. (AP Laserphoto)

'Kangaroo Fever' Hits Wisconsin Residents

WAUKESHA, Wis. (AP) — Residents of the suburban area west of Milwaukee, accustomed to seeing rabbits and squirrels through their backyard windows, have been reporting somewhat larger animals hopping over their hillsides the past two weeks — kangaroos.

Several sightings of the Australian marsupials have been reported to bewildered authorities, starting April 7. In all the reports, the animals are described as fast-moving, between 3 feet and 5 feet tall, the color of a deer, and possessing a long tail.

Lance Nero, of Brookfield, west of Milwaukee, was among the skeptics who laughed at a television newscast Saturday night about a group organizing a hunt for the elusive visitors.

But on Sunday morning, while having toast and coffee at his hilltop home overlooking a wooded area, Nero, 38, saw two animals that looked like kangaroos hop out of a wooded area, across a road, through part of a field and across another road. He ran upstairs and awakened his wife, Loretta.

"Now that I've seen one, I'm wondering if I'm all right," she said after also spotting the animal.

The Waukesha County Sheriff's Department sent a detective to take pictures of the tracks left by the animals on a muddy road. The tracks were described as about 6 inches long, narrow and bearing an imprint indicating a hard toe in front and softer flesh in back.

"The only thing we can do when we get a call is respond to it if there's a unit available," Lt. Alvin Nordseth said.

Janet Napientek of Muskego says she and her husband Gary first saw one of the animals while driving east of Waukesha early one Sunday. She thought it might be an injured deer, "until it stood up on its hind legs" and then jumped over a ditch and out of sight.

"I've seen deer before. I know what a deer looks like. I know it was a kangaroo," Mrs. Napientek said.

Members of the Haeselich family of Pewaukee are just as certain.

"It was going pretty quick. It was hopping. We knew it had to be a kangaroo," Jill Haeselich said after she, her husband, Peter, and his mother, Esther, spotted the animal 50 feet from the dining room window.

Officials at the Milwaukee County Zoo, the only zoo in the area that has kangaroos, says none of them is missing.

Ray Holling, zookeeper at the kangaroo house, speculated that the animals could be wallabies, a smaller member of the kangaroo family that can survive colder weather. But when told of the reported size of the animals, he said, "If they're that tall, it's got to be a kangaroo."

"Ah, the end of a Long Distance day."

"I don't know about you, but I get a lot of personal satisfaction from my job.

"I like to work hard, work fast, and know that when it's all done, I did it. And did it right.

"I couldn't do business without Long Distance. Because it's the only communications tool that lets me express myself, make decisions, and handle problems the way I like—quickly and efficiently.

"Well tomorrow's another day. And for me, that means another Long Distance day. I'm looking forward to it.

"How about you?"

Reagan, Utah Legislator Send Endorsement Letters To Reese

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
 Avalanche-Journal Staff
 Although former California Gov. Ronald Reagan said only a month ago he would remain neutral in the Republican contest for Congress from the 19th District, Republican candidate Jim Reese Monday produced a letter from Reagan endorsing his candidacy.

But Reese's is not the only Reese endorsement letter signed by a national Republican figure.

'Hands-off' Attitude
 Although party leaders traditionally take a "hands-off" attitude toward contested primaries, a letter written on the stationary of U.S. Sen. Orrin Hatch (R-Utah) has been circulated all over the country to solicit funds for the Reese campaign.

Reagan's letter to Reese stops short of an outright endorsement, although a Reagan spokesman said endorsement was the intention.

The 1976 presidential hopeful said he was "earnestly seeking to develop a position which supports the cause for which we've worked so hard over the years, while at the same time, one which does not impede our efforts in presenting a united front for the campaigns in November."

"As usual, there are all kinds of arguments to justify a course of action. But as has been said before, 'When in doubt, adhere to principle and ignore the personality,'" the letter continues.

'The Bottom Line'
 After saying the "bottom line of course, is that a choice must be made," Reagan continues, "The bottom line in this instance is that two years ago I gave public testimony to your leadership, your qualifications, and your personal commitment to those values which are so essential to our national existence."

"You are today the same man, and the challenges to our nation are unchanged. Thus on the basis of principle, I want to wish you success in one of the most important congressional races this year," the letter says.

When asked if he solicited the letter, Reese said he had asked Reagan to come to the district for a fund-raiser which his schedule did not permit.

However, Reese predicted Reagan would be in the district campaigning for Reese if he wins the Republican primary.

Reagan Visit Expected
 "I expect to have him here soon," Reese said.

The former mayor of Odessa said the letter would be "helpful to newcomers in the 19th District to help them make a decision in the Republican primary."

Calling Reagan the "outstanding conservative spokesman in the country today," Reese said "I can't tell you how good it is to have the governor over here."

Although the former governor is "out of the country," a spokesman explained why Reagan did an about-face on entering the primary.

Firm Commitment
 Lyn Nofziger, the executive director for Reagan's Citizens for the Republic, said Reagan remains firm in his commitment to stay out of contested primaries where there is a Republican incumbent.

Nofziger emphasized the endorsement was not meant as a "reflection on the other two candidates," and said Reagan would support whoever wins the Republican primary.

"We had been given no reason not to support Reese, and since he had endorsed Jim Reese before, it would look as if we were walking away from a friend" if there was no endorsement.

Reese was not the only Republican candidate for the 19th District congressional seat seeking Reagan's support.

A Joe Hickox supporter wrote Reagan March 16 asking the former governor to endorse Hickox or remain neutral.

Neutrality Urged
 A letter from Nofziger dated March 22 said that Reagan had been urged to stay out of it by state Republican chairman Ray Barnhart and Midland Mayor Ernest Angelo, but Reese and Hickox had asked him to "become involved."

"With friends on both sides, we feel that we must remain neutral until after the primary," the letter concludes.

Hickox said he doubted the Reese letter would sway many votes "mainly because West Texans in the 19th District are strong-willed and independent-minded."

Supporters Disappointed
 However, Hickox said some of his supporters who also are strong Reagan-backers were "disappointed because Reagan decided to get involved."

Hickox said Reagan's participation in the campaign might open up the wounds from 1976 over the Gerald Ford-Reagan split and hurt the chances for Republicans to win in the November general election.

He suggested that the last minute change of heart might be Reagan's feeling that "Jim is now seriously being challenged and in jeopardy of losing and the only thing that could pull out the election would be his endorsement."

The third Republican in the race, Midland oilman George Bush, said he is "convinced that the people of West Texas will make their final decision based on who can do the best job for West Texas as well as who has the best chance of winning in November."

"This is why my campaign has many supporters of Gov. Reagan working diligently for my nomination," he said.

Hatch's Letter
 The letter signed by Sen. Hatch was mailed by Richard A. Vigerie's company in Falls Church, Va., which is known for its direct-mail fundraising work for right-wing groups and causes.

Vigerie has handled fundraising campaigns for organizations such as the Americans Against Union Control of Government and the Citizens Committed for the Right to Keep and Bear Arms. The company has also raised funds for former Alabama Gov. George Wallace.

The three-page letter begins, "In just 30 days there will be a primary election in west (sic) Texas for a crucial seat in Congress. The conservative candidate, Jim Reese, needs your help to win."

"I won't waste your time with a lot of words...What I need from you today, plain and simple, is the largest check you can possibly afford to help elect this strong conservative."

$100 Contributions
 The letter then suggests contributions of "$100 or more."

After mentioning Reese's 1976 race against Congressman George Mahon, the letter implies Mahon's decision to retire was because Reese planned to run again.

"So when Jim said he was going to run for Congress again this year, George Mahon said he was going to retire. That's because Jim Reese looked like a sure winner."

The letter continues: "But when Ma-

Mahon said he would retire, everyone else jumped into the race. The vacant seat has become a top target by the liberals."

 "Money has been pouring into the district from left-wing sources to help a self-professed professional politician win the Democrat (sic) primary. And the odds are they're going to do it."

Jim Reese, according to the letter, is the "best conservative candidate available," has experience campaigning for Congress and "has proven he can get Democrats to vote for him in this area of Texas."

"So if Jim can win the primary on May 6th, odds are he can win the general election in November — even against a hand-picked left-wing candidate."

After a recitation of Reese's stand on the congressional pay raise, inflation, gun control, etc., the letter says, "I've got to stop so you can get a breath and take a moment to write your check."

According to the letter, Reese would use the money raised to write letters to "every conservative registered voter in his district."

Letter Pleases Reese
 When asked about the letter, Reese said he was pleased Hatch "got involved" and mentioned another Utah Senator, Jake Garn, had written a letter on his behalf in 1976.

But Reese refused to respond to the specific charges in the letter concerning the left-wing candidate and money in the race.

"This is not the time to be specific to that," Reese said, promising details would be forthcoming after the primary if he wins.

Reese said he didn't write the letter, although his campaign paid for the mailing, and said the letter was not written by Sen. Hatch either.

"Hatch was asked to sign the fundraising letter," Reese said. "The letter was written by staff people working with the senator in Washington," Reese said.

He said the letter was sent to "people who would be sympathetic to conservative thinking."

When Bush got wind of the letter campaign, he dashed off a letter to Hatch expressing surprise at his entry into a contested Republican primary.

Bush also noted Reese was not the only conservative in the race.

Court Refuses To Decide Case Involving Television Violence

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court refused Monday to decide whether broadcasters are legally responsible when fictional violence is imitated in real life, clearing the way for a trial that could be crucial to the future of television.

The issue someday may return to the high court, but Monday's action opened the way for an unprecedented trial in San Francisco.

In the trial, NBC and television station KRON-TV must defend themselves against a lawsuit seeking $11 million for a 9-year-old girl sexually assaulted four days after a network movie dramatically portrayed a similar crime.

Lawyers for the girl charge that NBC and the San Francisco station were "negligent" and "reckless" in allowing the movie to be broadcast in the early evening when young persons were sure to be in the viewing audience.

On Sept. 10, 1974, NBC televised a fictional drama, "Born Innocent," depicting the life of an unwanted child, a teenage girl. In one scene, the girl is attacked by other females at a reformatory school and is sexually assaulted with a wooden handle.

Four days later, a 9-year-old San Francisco girl was attacked by four older girls on a local beach and "raped" with a beer or soft drink bottle.

A state trial judge dismissed the ensuing civil suit against NBC and KRON but a state appeals court ordered that a jury trial be held on charges raised by the girl's lawyers.

After the California Supreme Court refused to review the case, NBC and KRON came to the nation's highest court — arguing that the trial would set a dangerous precedent.

"The decision of the California Court of Appeal resurrects a lawsuit, the mere pendency of which poses substantial risks of inhibition across the entire spectrum of artistic and journalistic endeavor," lawyers for the network and station argued.

The lawyers added: "If fiction based on reality may, if allegedly imitated, provide a basis for liability, it can be argued that there is little to prevent the courts from basing liability on imitation of reality itself... events depicted as part of media coverage of news."

"Is a station which broadcasts an account of a crime or civil unrest to be liable if imitation occurs?" the appeal asked.

But lawyers for the young sex attack victim told the justices, "We do not seek to impose any prior restraint on the media. We merely seek damages for a negligent and reckless act that has already occurred by the improper time, place and method of telecasting the production."

Marvin Lewis, attorney for the sex attack victim, said after the high court's ruling that he felt television networks would "still be able to produce their dramas and put the news on without any fear of verdicts against them — if they do it discreetly."

He criticized what he called "a poisoning of the airwaves" at hours when children are watching. "If someone is hurt, we don't say 'don't show the program,'" he said. "We merely say 'pay the damages.'"

If NBC and KRON lose the jury trial, presumably they would again raise the free-speech and free-press arguments in an appeal that could once again reach the Supreme Court.

In a statement issued after the high court denied its appeal on Monday, NBC said it "will continue to press its substantial defenses to this case, including its defense that claims of this kind are barred by the First Amendment and that the perpetrators did not view the program."

The court's vote Monday to deny the appeal was 8-1. Justice William J. Brennan Jr. wanted to hear arguments in the case.

Television violence as a legal issue is not totally unprecedented. In the murder trial of a Miami teenager last September, the boy's lawyer tried unsuccessfully to mount a defense of "involuntary television intoxication."

Ronny Zamora could not distinguish the reality of his violent crime, killing an elderly Miami Beach widow, from violent programs he watched on television, the lawyer argued.

The defense, however, tried to deal with television violence in general and not one specific program.

In other matters, the court: — Refused to review Patricia Hearst's 1976 bank robbery conviction. The young newspaper heiress soon may have to go to prison.

— Temporarily blocked State Department employees from combing through secret telephone notes kept by Henry A. Kissinger when he was secretary of state. The court's order allows the records to remain sealed while Kissinger mounts a legal fight to keep them from going public.

— Voted 6-3 to let stand a lower court's decision that prisoners being considered for parole have very few rights in trying to increase their chances of success. The legal issue, one with which the Supreme Court has flirted several times in recent years without reaching a conclusive answer, remains unsettled.

Embezzling Charge Nets Innocent Plea

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A Texas man has pleaded innocent to four federal charges stemming from the alleged embezzlement of nearly half a million dollars from his firm's stockholders.

Weldon A. Gary, 36, of Mineral Wells said he was innocent of one count of conspiracy to transport the money across state lines and to three counts of actually transporting the funds.

U.S. Magistrate Edmund F. Maxwell released Gary on his own recognizance.

An indictment returned April 13 charges that Gary and another officer of Ecological Research Development Corp., Robert L. Taccia, 37, of Fort Worth, embezzled $485,000 between 1972 and 1975.

Bullets Looking To Oust Spurs From Playoffs

By The Associated Press

Washington's rejuvenated Bullets go for the knockout against the San Antonio Spurs when the National Basketball Association quarter-final playoffs resume tonight.

The Bullets, stung by suggestions that age might be catching up with them, have looked young and frisky while beating the Spurs in three of their first four games, including a 98-95 decision Sunday. One more victory would move Washington into the semifinals. Waiting there are the Philadelphia 76ers, who completed a four-game sweep of New York with a 112-107 victory over the Knicks Sunday.

In tonight's other game, Denver, still smarting from Sunday's 143-112 thumping by Milwaukee, faces the Bucks at Milwaukee in Game 4 of their series which the Nuggets lead 2-1.

Defending champion Portland, forced to go the rest of the way without injured center Bill Walton, resumes its series against the SuperSonics at Seattle Wednesday night. The SuperSonics lead 2-1 after beating the Walton-less Trail Blazers 99-84 Sunday.

Elvin Hayes was the difference for Washington Sunday, hitting a slam-dunk in the last minute that gave the Bullets the lead, then rejecting a George Gervin layup with 41 seconds remaining.

The Spurs complained that Gervin had fouled on his drive and that Hayes, who scored 23 points, had been guilty of goaltending on the block. The Big E shrugged off that suggestion.

"I have been blocking shots for 10 years in this league and it was a clean block," Hayes said.

Philadelphia's victory over the Knicks completed the 76ers' sweep and was the closest off the four games. Caldwell Jones continued to harass Knicks high scorer Bob McAdoo on defense and although Jones scored only two points in the game, 76ers Coach Billy Cunningham thought he was Philadelphia's most valuable player.

"He did so much for us — rebounding, blocking shots, helping on defense and stopping McAdoo," said Cunningham.

Milwaukee shot 66 percent from the field and simply wore down Denver, which had won the first two games of their series. Rookie Marques Johnson scored 35 points for the Bucks, hitting a torrid 16 of 21 from the floor.

"I don't think the Bucks did many different things from the first two games," said Nuggets Coach Larry Brown. "But they played defense better, they shot better, they ran better, they passed better, they jumped better. They just looked better."

"There's only one way to look at this," said San Antonio center Billy Paulz, "and that's positively. We're due to beat Washington here."

"It's tough, but it can be done," said San Antonio forward Mark Olberding.

Washington Coach Dick Motta, whose team trailed until the final minutes Sunday before squeaking past San Antonio, still isn't taking the Spurs lightly.

"Granted, they do have their backs to the wall. But I also thought we were fortunate to win," Motta said after Sunday's game.

The Spurs, breaking from their regular run-and-gun style of play, used a slow, deliberate offense Sunday. It helped keep them in the lead until the closing minutes.

San Antonio's spectacular 6-foot-7 guard, George Gervin, the NBA's leading scorer this season, hit 35 points and Paulz added 17. But San Antonio again lacked the balanced scoring it had received throughout the season. Larry Kenon, who averaged 20 points per game, connected for only 10 Sunday.

LCC Athletes Honored

Basketballer Mike Kahler received the L.D. Hays Award as outstanding senior athlete at the Lubbock Christian College all-sports banquet Monday night.

Kahler, an honor student from DeSoto, also received his third consecutive defensive player-of-the-year award.

Outgoing cage coach Darrell Price announced the formation of a new award, the Lamar Sampy Memorial Award, which will go each year to the outstanding freshman, Sampy, who died during the season of complications resulting from a bout with influenza, was the first recipient of the award named in his honor as well as being named basketball MVP posthumously.

Willie Sang, the school's cross-country all-America, was honored along with Jim Cook, Mike Jenkins, Joel Koach, Kip Mi-bey and Harvey Stewart, all of whom landed berths on the all-District 8 cross-country team.

Steve Joiner was named tennis newcomer of the year, with Keila Cruce being named the most improved. Pegi Blackwell and Randy Coleman received the Hust Hustling Chaparral award in tennis.

Freshman Gary Norris and Brian Fortner received awards as top free-throw shooter and field goal shooter, respectively, in basketball.

Seniors in all sports also received plaques. No baseball awards were presented as the baseball banquet is scheduled next Monday at the Gridiron Restaurant.

The banquet was held at the Holiday Inn.

Windy City

LUBBOCK AND WEST Texas just picked up a fan; maybe the area will make Earl Stewart Jr. an honorary citizen. At least, the folks out this way like the way he talks.

Stewart, from Dallas, where more wind originates from windy politicians than from the outside breezes, was talking about the 30-plus gusts blowing in from Amarillo and into the faces of the collegiate golfers playing in the state AIAW tournament at Meadowbrook.

The SMU women's golf coach first admitted that, yes, the wind was a factor for the women golfers, and then went to the fact that the wind blew as hard for one as it did for another.

Then he followed with something the WT Chamber of Commerce could want recorded in bronze (since that bronze shade can't be ruined by sand-blasting): "But, the wind doesn't just blow in West Texas. It blows lots of places."

"Wind hurt us year in a tournament in Hawaii. It's not the same team we have now, but it just takes 'em for a loop."

EVEN THE FIRST-day leader was polite about the winds.

Cindy Lincoln came to the U. of Texas from Boca Raton, Fla., but, "I've played college golf for four years, and we've traveled to different parts of the country. Our team has played in different types of weather," observed Miss Lincoln.

And here's the kicker:

"Believe it or not," she added, "I wasn't putting that well (in her 4-over-par 76, the top round of the day). "I hit quite a few greens, and hit some shots when I needed them."

When she did miss some greens, however, she admitted she was able to get up and down "quite a bit. I was pleased with the score."

Wouldn't a bunch of us?

Red-White Teams Picked

With the teams picked, the Texas Tech players will today today-to see who will be doing the actual coaching in Thursday night's annual Red-White football contest.

The senior Raiders picked the squads for the game Monday. However, the assistants from the Raider staff that will handle the squads in the 7:30 p.m. spring-training windup will not be selected until today.

Earlier, the honorary coaches were selected by head coach Rex Dockery. Tech's new head man will act as sports writer that night, writing the story for Friday morning's Avalanche-Journal. Coaches for the White team will be A-J sports writers Carter Cromwell and Don Henry.

Coaching the Reds will be TV sportscasters Bob Howell, Sid Allen and Doug Rains.

White captains are quarterback Tres Adams and linemen Curtis Reed, Olan Tisdale and Kim Tallaffer. The foursome picked such players as backs Don Earle and Mark Olbert, wide receiver Edwin Newsome, defensive lineman David Hill and defensive back Willie Stephens.

Red captains will be wide receivers Godfrey Turner and Brian Nelson (who is injured and won't play), linebacker Don Kelly, and center Travis Mileur. Their team will include tight end James Hadnot, linebacker Jeff Copeland, defensive backs Steve Dawson and Larry Flowers, quarterback Mark Johnson and runningbacks Sam Bailey and Tim Orr.

The Raiders had been scheduled for a workout Monday, but Dockery decided to skip it and work out today instead. The team will hold its final workout Wednesday afternoon before the final "game" Thursday.

BUT MISS LINCOLN has been down this South Plains road before. The eight visiting teams came in over the weekend, and Texas women had a chance to play a warmup round Sunday. However, Miss Lincoln played the course three years ago in a collegiate tournament so she had a bit more experience on the layout.

"We've been in several tournaments where we've picked up 10 shots (UT is tied with Lamar at 320 behind SMU's 312). We had a bit of difficulty, but now we can get down to business," said Miss Lincoln.

BOTH STEWART AND the Texas coach spoke of the problems of playing in windy conditions as prevailed Monday.

"Wind is probably the most difficult condition to adjust to," said Texas coach Pat Weis. "But, I'm not going to lay the scores totally to the wind factor."

"Girls are accustomed to flowing into the ball," observed Stewart. "Hopefully, I'll get a hold of a girl who can play in the wind, can keep the ball low."

"I don't go for a score (as a goal)," said Stewart. "We set out to do a job. If they do their job, then... But, another team can come in and score well, too. But, tomorrow, 312 might be one helluva of a score, then again (if the wind doesn't blow), it might not be any good."

"But, there's nothing wrong with a 312 under these conditions."

Ponies Lead AIAW

"Anytime, under these conditions, when we can have four scores in the 70s, you're not doing a bad job."

Earl Stewart Jr. was doing the talking, and he was talking about his SMU women's golf team which had just that in grabbing the first-round lead in the state AIAW golf championships.

The Mustang team, ranked No. 1 in the nation, battled the wind and eight other teams to post an 8-stroke lead after the first round.

The second and final round will be played today. All play is at Meadowbrook Golf Course, and today's first golfers will take the course at 9 a.m.

"Well, the wind gave everybody fits today. It wasn't any harder on one than the other," Stewart, the SMU golf coach, admitted Monday after his team had posted the team 312. Texas and Lamar share second at 320, followed by Texas A&M at 326, Houston Baptist at 328, TCU at 332, Texas Tech at 342, Stephen F. Austin at 370 and Sam Houston State at 394.

"You like to hit it under that wind," added Stewart, "but that's a made-up swing. All the girls have fine swings, but they're just not geared up for that pun ch-type playing."

"But, as I say, with four scores in the 70s, I'm very pleased with my girls. I've always maintained that if we do that, we'll be competitive."

Mary Beth Murphy, a freshman, led with 77, Kyle O'Brien and Missie McGeorge had 78s, and Therese Hession 79. The surprise, for Stewart, was the 85 posted by Sandra Yount. "That (85) is just not her game. If there was a surprise, it was that, because she is a much better golfer. She just had one of those rounds that you're not supposed to get a hold of."

Despite the 8-stroke lead and the consistent team play, the low round escaped the Mustangs.

Texas' Cindy Lincoln posted a 4-over-par 76 for the day to lead Miss Murphy, TCU's Toni Wiesner, and Lamar's Pam Johns by a stroke.

Miss O'Brien, Miss McGeorge, Texas' Lori Huxhold and Lamar's Maureen Madill came in at 78.

The wind was such a factor that on the tenth hole, a par-5 where the golfers were hitting straight into the stiff north wind, SMU, as a team, shot 6-over. Texas was 4-over, Lamar and HBC 5-over. Tech, with the experience of playing in

Houston Strikes It Rich, Gets Earl

HOUSTON (AP) — In what Coach Bum Phillips termed a "commitment to excellence," the Houston Oilers obtained Tampa Bay's No. 1 draft choice rights Monday and announced they will select Heisman trophy winner Earl Campbell.

K. S. "Bud" Adams Jr., owner of the Oilers, said signing the Texas running back will be expensive but that Houston will not "dilly-dally" when the National Football League draft begins May 2.

"We won't need the 15-minute time limit to select Campbell," he said.

In relinquishing the No. 1 draft spot, Adams said Tampa obtained Jimmy Giles, a second-year tight end from Alcorn State, and Houston's first and second round draft positions this year and third and fifth round spots in 1979.

The trade is contingent on Giles passing a Bues physical examination.

"This is a commitment to excellence," Phillips said. "It takes a great running back to have a winning football team and this kid is a great running back. Making this move to obtain Earl Campbell is a commitment to excellence."

If Campbell signs with Houston he would become the second Heisman winner to compete with the Oilers.

Adams opened the news conference by saying that until Monday one of the "brightest news spots" in Oiler history had been on Jan. 1, 1960, when his Houston team of the old American Football Conference signed Billy Cannon, the All-American running back from Louisiana State, under a Sugar Bowl goal post.

"We are upgrading that bright spot a bit right now," Adams said.

In four seasons, Cannon scored 35 touchdowns for the Oilers.

"If Earl Campbell turns out as he should we'll have a premium running back for some time to come," Adams said.

Adams said Coach John McKay handled the negotiations for Tampa Bay and Pat Peppier, assistant general manager, negotiated for Houston.

Asked if Tampa Bay was pleased with the deal, Adams said, "I think they like Giles, they'll be getting a starter in him and possibly two more starters with their new first round choices."

"Evidently Tampa Bay could not make a better trade or they would have done so," he added. "We have been thinking about this trade some while but decided just to let Tampa Bay run the gauntlet of offers."

"We're very pleased with this deal," said McKay, "because we are not only getting an established player in Jimmy Giles but we are also able to add two more high draft choices this season and two next year.

"We are at the stage of our development where we need both quality and quantity and this trade qualified under both criteria. It is consistent with our policy of building with young talent for a bright future."

Adams said no one from the Oilers had talked with Campbell.

Adams agreed it would take a substantial amount of money to sign Campbell.

"How much will Campbell get? A lot of money," said agent Mike Trope.

USAC Officials Die In Crash

ARLINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Federal investigators were piecing together evidence Monday in an effort to determine the cause of a fiery plane crash near Indianapolis that claimed nine lives, including seven officials of the U.S. Auto Club.

"We just started, and we've got a lot of areas to investigate," said Jack Harrington, a National Transportation Safety Board official in charge of the investigation. "Certainly, it will be some time before we make our report."

Meanwhile, Rush County Coroner John Todd, aided by a pathologist and a dental professor, began the grim task of matching the shattered remains of the nine victims with the passenger list provided by USAC headquarters at Indianapolis.

The victims were returning to Indianapolis from Sunday's USAC race at Trenton, N.J. They included Frank DeRoy, 65, union chairman of the USAC technical committee; Ray Marquette, 48, USAC vice president for public affairs; Shim Malone, 47, head of USAC's midwest division; Don Peabody, 54, head of the sprint car division; Stan Worley, 65, USAC registrar; Judy Phillips, 40, an artist and typist who assisted Marquette; Russ Teegarden, 57, assistant to DeRoy; Dr. Bruce White, 27, a physician who frequently served on the medical staff for USAC races, and the pilot, Don Mullendore, 53.

The aircraft, a 10-seat Piper Navajo Chieftain, went down Sunday night in a freshly plowed cornfield, about 25 miles southeast of Indianapolis. The plane erupted in flames on impact and dug a crater eight feet deep and 10 feet in diameter.

Wreckage was spread for about 100 yards around the crater.

"We fully accounted for the wreckage here," Harrington said after investigators made an aerial survey to see if any debris had scattered over a wider area.

"(However) there may be some more in the crater," he added. "We're just going to try and get the wreckage out of the crater today (Monday)."

Although the federal investigators refused to speculate on the cause of the crash, many others believed that weather was the cause. A number of thunderstorms and two tornadoes raked Indiana Sunday night, although there were no confirmed reports of violent weather at the immediate crash site when the plane went down.

"I'm sure it wasn't a mechanical malfunction. It must have been severe weather," said Bob Mullendore, a nephew of the pilot and himself a pilot with the same Franklin, Ind.-based charter service.

Auto Racing Tragedies Continue

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Within the past year, auto racing has lost Tony Hulman, millionaire owner of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway; Sid Collins, world-wide radio voice of the Indy 500 for a quarter of a century; drivers James McElreath and Sam Sessions; former Indy winner Floyd Davis, and now seven officials of the U.S. Auto Club.

The year before that, longtime Speedway safety director Jo Quinn died; Hulman's son-in-law and former driver Elmer George was shot to death. Before that, former world driving champion and Indy winner Graham Hill and his protegee, Tony Brise, were killed in a plane crash; former champ Mark Donohue was killed racing, and driver Jimmy Caruthers died of cancer.

Grand prix driver Tom Price died in a racing crash last spring; David Clutter, a member of the Speedway's medical staff, was killed in a car crash last summer; Paul Page, Collins' successor, was injured in a helicopter crash last summer, and driver Pancho Carter was seriously injured at Phoenix last fall.

Over the years, 14 other Indy 500 champions later died racing, one was killed in a highway crash and three-time winner and former Speedway President Wilbur Shaw died in another plane crash.

"It's no jimx," said USAC's Donald Davidson, "but it's a strange thing."

The seven USAC officials, killed late Sunday night in a plane crash southeast of Indianapolis, included longtime technical chairman Frank DeRoy, USAC vice president for public affairs Ray Marquette, sprint division director Don Peabody, midwest division head Shim Malone and registrar Stan Worley.

"It's going to be tough to get a lot of things coordinated (for next month's Indy 500)," Davidson said, "but the race will go on... except with new people."

Also killed was one of DeRoy's assistants, Russ Teegarden; typist Judy Phillips; Dr. Bruce White, and pilot Don Mullendore.

"I can't imagine who would fill Worley's spot," said Davidson. "There was no underduty there. The sprints and midwests will be in an upheaval. There really were no assistants there, either. Where do you go?"

The probable successor to DeRoy, who began at the Speedway as a riding mechanic in 1930, is Jack Beckley, his chief deputy.

Hulman, who took over a ramshackle, weed-infested Speedway in 1946, turned the Indianapolis 500 into the world's richest and most prestigious auto race. He died last winter at the age of 76.

Collins, whose voice reached more than 100 million persons over 1,200 Speedway network stations, took his own life last May after a long battle with the debilitating "Lou Gehrig's disease."

Philly Starting To Show Power

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Charming or bombing, the Philadelphia 76ers have come a long way this year.

On Sunday they completed a four-game sweep of the New York Knicks with a 112-107 victory in Madison Square Garden to advance to the National Basketball Association's Eastern finals against the San Antonio-Washington winner.

It's no surprise the Sixers have come so far. Indeed, the team's preseason ticket campaign was built around the slogan, "We Owe You One," a reference to last year's title loss to the Portland Trail Blazers.

The surprise is that the Sixers are winning through teamwork. And not just one team, but two. This high-priced conglomerate of freelance stars has gelled under first-year coach Billy Cunningham.

"We got two units on this team," said reserve forward-guard and team cheerleader Joe Bryant. "The first team is the charm squad. We're the bomb squad. When they're not charming, we know it's up to us to do it."

Sunday's victory wasn't a textbook example of how to sweep a series. The Sixers turned the ball over 21 times, missed 14 foul shots and hit only 41 of 88 shots from the floor.

"When we got down 13, we just went in and started scratching and clawing," said reserve guard Lloyd Free, whose long-range jumpers gave the bomb squad its name. "We just get it together until the starters get themselves together."

"Generally, even a team that has a bench doesn't rely on it as much as we do," said reserve forward Steve Mix, another charter member of the bomb squad. "But it's different here. We know if we do well what the consequences can be, we can win the championship."

"We have a lot of pride," added 21-year-old center Darryl Dawkins, whose awesome potential has begun to take shape this year with increased playing time. "And right now, the bomb squad is rolling on."

In 28 minutes Sunday, Free scored 17 points. Bryant played 22 minutes, adding 8 points and holding New York rookie guard Roy Williams, the only consistent Knick scorer throughout the series, to a single basket. Mix had 12 points, including two important baskets in the fourth quarter.

Dawkins' time was limited because starting center Caldwell Jones was playing so well. "CJ just did so much," Cunningham said. "The second half today was an example." Jones had nine rebounds and three blocked shots in the second half.

WASN'T THAT A FOUL? — Portland Trail Blazers coach Jack Ramsay indicates a holding foul to referees during Sunday's NBA game against the Seattle SuperSonics in Seattle. Seattle won the game 99-84 to take a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven Western Conference semifinal series. (AP Laserphoto)

NHL Playoffs Resume Tonight

By The Associated Press

The National Hockey League playoffs bid a fond, if temporary, farewell to the Detroit Olympia, where the Red Wings labored almost fruitlessly against the Montreal Canadiens in their quarter-final round.

There was some fruit: a banana, to be exact. It was thrown on the ice — along with 50 octopi (an unofficial record), three fish, a chicken, a wooden glider and one inflated green octopus toy — during Friday night's 4-2 Canadiens victory.

There was nothing headlined from the rafters during Sunday's 8-0 Montreal triumph as the Canadiens skated to their eighth consecutive playoff triumph at Detroit and pulled into a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven set.

It is left to the Red Wings to win at Montreal in Game 5 tonight to send the series back to the Olympia. But the record shows one Detroit victory in the Canadiens' Forum home since March 20, 1974.

The Buffalo Sabres find themselves in a similar bind, looking up at the Philadelphia Flyers from a 3-1 deficit. Game 5 tonight will be played at Philadelphia's Spectrum home, where Buffalo has won just once in the last 21 games the teams have played.

The Toronto Maple Leafs and New York Islanders contest Game 5 — or, more appropriately, Round 5 — of their quarter-final slugfest at the Nassau Coliseum with every indication that the spearing, slashing, boarding, high sticking and fighting will continue.

The games have been low scoring — the Islanders' 4-1 opening-game triumph produced the series' widest winning margin, with the others ending in a 3-2 overtime New York triumph and 2-0 and 3-1 victories for the Maple Leafs.

The Islanders have been thrown off their game somewhat by the fierce Toronto bodywork, but New York Coach Al Arbour insists, "We'll play it any way we want." The Maple Leafs want it rough.

"We're trying to play as rough as we can," says Toronto Coach Roger Neilson. "We think it's our best chance to win."

Ironically, despite 223 minutes in penalties, any number of fights and loads of body-checking — some of it legal — the most serious injury of the New York-Toronto series involved two of the most gentlemanly players on both teams.

Star Maple Leafs defenseman Borje Salming was hospitalized Sunday night with hemorrhaging behind his right eye after falling on the stick of Islanders center Lorne Henning.

Rookie Ready For Debut

NEW YORK (AP) — When the New York Yankees play in Baltimore tonight, big Jim Beattie is scheduled to make his major league pitching debut against the Orioles' Jim Palmer, who has won 195 games and three Cy Young Awards as the American League's top hurler.

"I don't feel like it's my first major league game," says Beattie, a 6-foot-6, 23-year-old right-hander who was recalled from the minors last week when sore-shouldered Don Gullett went on the disabled list.

"I don't think I'll be nervous or anything. Maybe I'll get a few butterflies the day of the game, but it's something my adrenalin will handle. I'll just go out with the same type of attitude I had in spring training and try to pitch my type of game."

Beattie's attitude in the spring amazed Manager Billy Martin, along with his crackling fast ball and snapping breaking pitches. The articulate Dartmouth College graduate won a job by posting a 1.71 earned run average, but a roster problem — Ken Clay had no options left — forced the Yankees to send him to the Pacific Coast League, where he threw a five-hit shutout in his only appearance.

"It was the best I ever saw anyone take being sent down to the minors, especially after such a good spring," Martin said. "He was happy with the fact that he regained his confidence and he knew he'd be back."

Beattie, who majored in art at Dartmouth and graduated in 31-3 years, has his head screwed on straight.

"I kind of prepared myself for being sent down," he explained. "I saw it coming. I knew I'd just be a fill-in unless someone got hurt and I figured they wanted to keep me pitching as a starter in a regular rotation."

"The biggest letdown you get in the minors is the difference in the parks and the size of the crowds, but I haven't experienced that yet in the majors so it wasn't really a letdown."

Nor is Beattie awed by having to go against Palmer in his debut. They faced each other in a minor league exhibition game in late spring — Beattie had been sent out and the Orioles left Palmer in Florida to work out some arm soreness — and Beattie went six innings with a 1-0 lead.

"He was just getting in shape and wasn't throwing very hard," Beattie remembers. "But I got a good look at him because the warm-up mounds were side-by-side. He looked like a young kid and he seemed to be in real good shape."

"But I can't worry about Palmer. Our hitters have got to worry about him." Beattie majored in art at Dartmouth and once planned to study architecture in graduate school. Now, the South Portland, Maine, resident intends to go to business school this fall at either North-eastern or Boston University.

Until last week, Beattie had never been in the dugout of a big league ballpark and someone wanted to know how he liked the architectural design of Yankee Stadium.

"Nice," he said.

Billie Jean Sets Future Net Goals

NEW YORK (AP) — Billie Jean King, receiving another honor for her contributions to women's sports, said Monday that she has three main tennis objectives.

"I would like to see the women's tour improved to gain in spectator appeal," she said. "I want to help the New York Apples defend their World Team Tennis title and I want to win another Wimbledon."

King, 34, long a militant force in the women's lib movement, received the Pinch "Woman Athlete of the World" award.

The honor, based on an international poll of sports writers, carried with it a handsome trophy and a $10,000 prize. Previous winners were tennis star Chris Evert, in 1976, and Romania's Olympic gymnastics sensation, Nadia Comaneci, in 1977.

"I am happy that women at last have gained the recognition once confined to male athletes," Billie Jean said, receiving the award from Herman I. Merinoff, president of Renfield Importers Inc. "I have played better tennis than now but I never have worked as hard."

Billie Jean has returned to full time competition after fighting back from a knee operation — her third in eight years — in 1976 that threatened to end her career.

Red Sox Mania Strikes Boston

BOSTON (AP) — Baseball mania arrived with spring fever in New England, but some Boston Red Sox fans fear the American League team may crush them with kindness.

Complaints about unruly mobs at tiny Fenway Park flooded some radio talk shows Sunday night after the Red Sox completed a stunningly successful athletic and financial homestand.

The team won eight of 10 games and packed the chummy park with standing-room crowds that exceeded 35,000.

There were allegations that the standees jostled those in reserved seats and generally ran amuck.

Fenway Park capacity officially is listed as 33,502. But the Red Sox have exceeded that total several times.

Team officials, however, discounted charges that they oversold the ballpark.

"You're always going to have a certain number of problems with unruly fans," said team vice president, Edward "Buddy" LeRoux. "On Saturday, we didn't have one arrest."

That day, against the Cleveland Indians, the Red Sox drew 36,005. For a Sunday doubleheader against Cleveland, the mob swelled to 36,388, second largest one-day turnout in the team's history and largest in almost half-a-century.

LeRoux said the team cuts off standing room ticket sales of $2.50 apiece at 2,500. However, on Sunday at least, several hundred more than that were sold.

"We had only six arrests during the entire homestand," said the team's security chief, Joe McDermott. "I'd say that's a pretty damn good record."

"A lot of complaints about security at the park are exaggerated," he added.

Last season, Boston set a team attendance mark of 2,074,549, the first time the club topped two million.

Prospects for a new record will depend on the Red Sox' showing and the weather, says LeRoux. Rainouts could force single-admission doubleheaders.

Regardless, the Red Sox never will break the one-game Fenway attendance record—41,766—set in 1934 for Babe Ruth's final visit to Boston as a New York Yankee. Fans were allowed to stand in the outfield on that August day.

But with LeRoux and other investors hoping to buy the franchise for $15 million cash from the estate of the late Thomas A. Yawkey, efforts will be made to pump as much black ink as possible into the operation.

From time to time, 3,500 of the 7,500 bleacher seats will be sold on a reserved basis, when other reserved seats are sold at least two weeks in advance.

In such cases, the $2 bleacher tab will be hiked to $3 to cover costs of an added security patrol that already totals up to 200 men, including ushers.

MEET SLATED

Chaps Host Pokes

By WALT McALEXANDER
Avalanche-Journal/Sports Staff
No, it's not an illness that could land one in quarantine, but coach Larry Hays is hoping his Chaparrals come down with "Playoff Fever"—and the sooner the better.

In fact, Hays would like to see that fever-rampant on the home side of the diamond today because he knows visiting Hardin-Simmons, presently battling for a first-ever NCAA playoff spot, will have it.

Hardin-Simmons has won two of three previous meetings with the Chaps this year, bowing 10-9 in the Abilene Intercollegiate Tournament but rebounding to win by 6-4 and 8-5 counts later on.

Doug Smith's crew brings a 35-16 mark into today's 1 p.m. Chaparral Stadium battle and will be closing out their regular season and then must await word on the NCAA District VI Tournament at Arlington in three weeks.

LCC stands 38-16 and has been away from home the last 16 games, during which time the Chaps, ranked No. 7 in the nation, managed only an 8-8 record.

Hardin-Simmons had its 10-game winning streak snapped by Mary Hardin-Baylor 11-3 in the first game last Saturday but rebounded behind Roger Connell's three-hitter to win the nightcap 7-4.

And it's a good bet that Don Lawson and Kenneth McLeod will hurl for the Cowboys today. McLeod hurled a seven-hitter at LCC two weeks ago and Lawson, who suffered the loss in the Abilene Tournament, allowed only six hits as H-SU set a school mark for victories (then 27) in a season.

That also launched the Cowboys on their winning streak.

Today, the Chaps will go with John Ross (5-3) and Richard Nixon (4-0).

Hays reflected a bit on last weekend's series against Dallas Baptist, when the Chaps, hitting a mere .206 as a team (21-for-102) dropped three of four games.

"They just played good ball and beat us. We've been sitting back and outthitting everyone and not executing real well and that's what we tried to do down there, but it didn't work.

"I think we've been looking ahead to the playoffs ever since we beat Midwestern three out of four. And, because of that, I don't look for us to get any better unless something drastic happens and we wake up to the fact we're not playing good ball and go back to what got us here."

After today's games, LCC will host Texas Wesleyan in four games this weekend and must win all four if the Chaps win their sixth straight Texoma Conference title.

TEXOMA NOTES — Carlos Cuervo and Byron Thornton of TWC took Player and Pitcher of the Week honors. Cuervo, inserted into the lineup as designated hitter, went 7-for-16, had 2 doubles, scored 6 runs and stole 7 bases, upping his average from .161 to .255. Thornton, a senior who had lost 10 straight games over two years entering this season, took a no-hitter into the seventh against North Texas before settling for a one-hit, 10-in win and then allowed Midwestern 6 hits in a 7-2 win, upping his record to 6-4.

Ricky Nix of Midwestern (9-18, upping average from .215 to .277) and Keith Spreckles of TWC (9-23 with 2 doubles, 11 runs scored and 10 stolen bases plus 5 RBIs) were runners-up for the hitting honor and DBC's Joe Escobar, who limited LCC to two hits and one walk while fanning six, was the mound runner-up.

LCC Tumbles In Loop Poll

Texas Wesleyan replaced Lubbock Christian as District VIII's top team in the next-to-last poll.

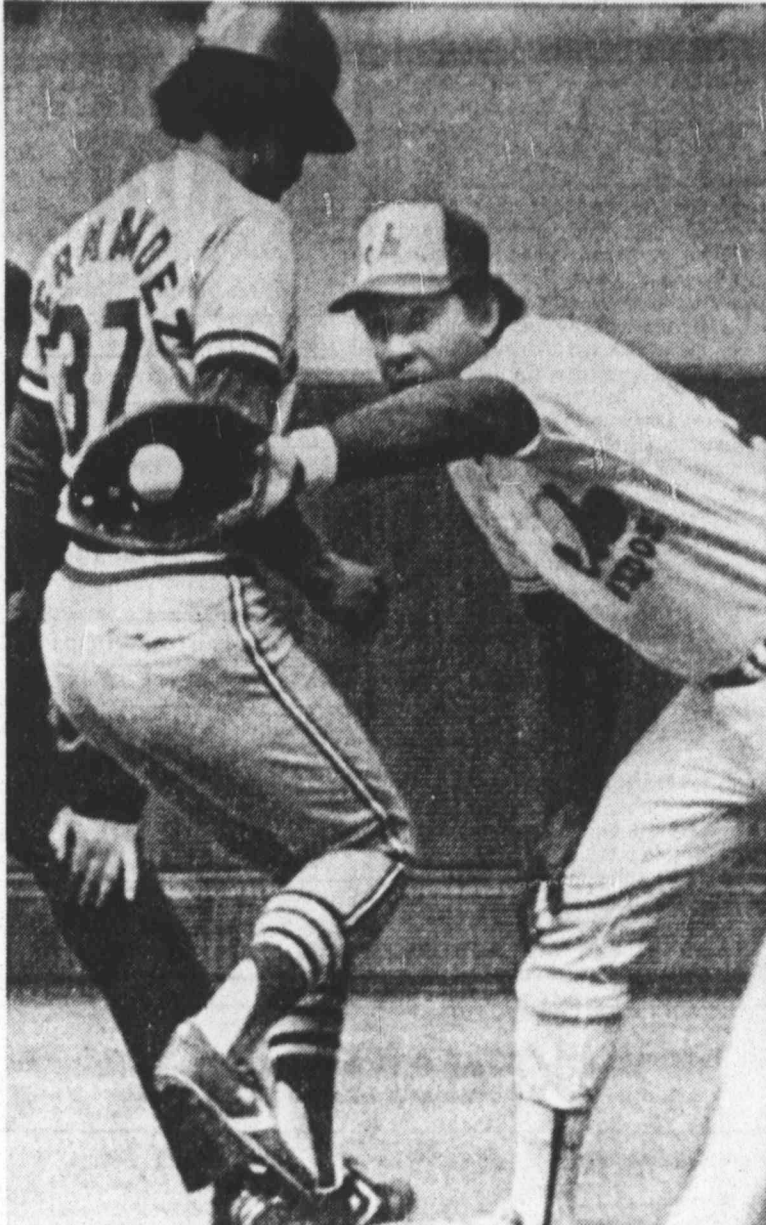

The Rams are currently 43-19 and lead LCC by three full games with only four left in the Texoma Conference regular season.

LCC, now 38-16, had held the top position the past month.

University of Dallas (26-20 plus 5-0 in Central Zone play) retained third place and South Zone champion Jarvis (23-18) remained fourth. Dallas Baptist (21-25-1) and Midwestern (15-24) swapped fifth and sixth spots.

Paul Quinn (20-24) and the South Zone runner-up with a 5-3 mark, a game behind Jarvis) jumped from eighth to seventh. Austin College (9-23 but 6-1 in Central) moved up two spots to eighth, Wiley (15-17) and 4-3 in Central play, slipped from seventh to ninth and LeTourneau moved from 11th to 10th with a 9-13 mark.

Rangers Lose Again, This Time To KC

By The Associated Press
Tom Poquette slapped a 2-run sixth-inning homer to key a 6-run Kansas City uprising and the Royals stormed from behind to whip the slump-ridden Texas Rangers 8-6 Monday night.

Reliever Doug Bird gained his first victory of the season with 52-3 scoreless innings after the Rangers bombed starter Jim Colborn for six runs and nine hits. Newly acquired Reggie Cleveland was tagged with his second loss in as many decisions in relief of Texas starter Dock Ellis.

Two walks and Amos Otis' RBI single started the big rally for the Royals. Freddie Patek picked up his third RBI of the night with a grounder as Cleveland replaced Ellis.

Poquette then cracked his second homer of the year to give Kansas City a one-run lead. Hal McRae followed with a double and George Brett lined a run-scoring single to make it 8-6.

Texas built a 6-2 lead through four innings, chasing Colborn. Jim Sundberg knocked in two runs with a double and a single while Bump Willis drilled three consecutive singles off Colborn.

ASTROS 4, PADRES 3
Dennis Walling's pinch single scored pinch-runner Julio Gonzalez from third base with two out in the 10th inning to give the Houston Astros a 4-3 victory over the San Diego Padres in the Astrodome.

Art Howe singled in the Houston 10th and pinch-runner Gonzalez was sacrificed to second by Ed Herrmann. Roger Metzger was walked and Wilber Howard moved the runners into scoring position with a groundout, setting the stage for Walling's game-winner.

The Padres scored a first-inning run on a walk to Gene Richards, a balk by Houston starter Joaquin Andujar and a two-out single by Oscar Gamble.

The Astros, held hitless by San Diego starter Dave Freisleben through the first three innings, touched the right-hander for three runs in the fourth. A one-out single by Cesar Cedeno and a walk to Jose Cruz preceded a three-run homer by Bob Watson. The homer, Watson's second in two days, extended his hitting streak to eight games.

PHILLIES 12, CUBS 2
Randy Lerch pitched a six-hitter and drove in three runs with a home run and a double as the Philadelphia Phillies defeated the visiting Chicago Cubs 12-2 in a regionally televised baseball game.

Lerch, 2-1, knocked in the Phillies' first runs with a two-run shot over the right-center field wall in the third inning.

With Chicago leading 1-0 in the top of the third, Bob Boone tripled off Woody Fryman, 0-1. Lerch worked Fryman to a 3-2 count before slamming the first home run of his two-year major league career.

Boone opened the Phillies' fifth with a single to left, advanced to second on Jerry Martin's fly ball to left and scored as Lerch laced a double into the gap in right-center.

Lerch, who reached base in all four trips to the plate, struck out five and walked five.

TIGERS 4, CHISOX 1
Steve Dillard tripled home two runs and Aurelio Rodriguez homered, leading Jack Billingham and the Detroit Tigers to a 4-1 American League victory over the visiting Chicago White Sox.

The Tigers, capturing their sixth victory in their last seven starts, scored three times in the second inning off loser Ken Kravec, 1-2, while Billingham, a 35-year-old former National Leaguer, posted his third victory in as many starts with a three-hitter.

With one out in the Detroit second, Lance Parrish doubled and Rodriguez drew a walk. Mark Wagner fouled out but Ron LeFlore singled a run home before Dillard delivered his two-run triple into the right field corner.

PIRATES 4, METS 2
An eighth-inning double steal by Omar Moreno and Dave Parker and an ensuing error by New York third baseman Bobby Valentine gave Pittsburgh a 4-2 victory over the Mets.

With one out in the eighth, Moreno walked and stole second. Parker was then intentionally walked. Then Moreno and Parker executed their double steal and Valentine, playing for the ailing Len Ryans, failed to handle catcher John Stearns' throw, which went down the left field line as both runners scored to break a 2-2 tie.

The Mets, who had trailed 2-0 while being checked by Pittsburgh starter Jim Rooker, tied it in the seventh against four Pirate pitchers. Pinch-hitters Ed Kronepohl and Joel Youngblood each delivered RBI singles with two out. Lee Mazzilli then singled to load the bases but Kent Tekulve, the fourth Pirate pitcher, retired Tim Lincecum on a forceout.

EXPOS 5, CARDS 3
Dave Cash and Andre Dawson stroked run-scoring singles off reliever Mark Littell in the seventh inning to break a 3-3 tie and the host Montreal Expos went on to defeat the St. Louis Cardinals 5-3.

It was the fifth consecutive victory for the Expos, leading the National League Eastern division, and their ninth victory in 11 games. Left-hander Rudy May got eighth inning relief help from Stan Bahsen and posted his first National League victory in two decisions since joining Montreal in a trade from the Baltimore Orioles.

The Cardinals had tied the score 3-3 on a two-run home run by Roger Freed in the sixth inning, but the Expos regained the lead in the seventh. Larry Parrish and Warren Cromartie walked before Cash and Dawson delivered consecutive singles for the decisive runs.

INDIANS 4, JAYS 2
Johnny Grubb and Andre Thornton delivered run-scoring doubles in the first inning as the visiting Cleveland Indians beat the Toronto Blue Jays 4-2.

Jim Norris opened the game with an infield hit and Grubb and Thornton followed with their doubles.

Cleveland tallied again in the second as Rick Manning, with the second of three hits in the inning, singled off first base.

Pigeon Race Held

Max Gillitt's entries grabbed the first two spots in the Lubbock Racing Pigeon Club's weather-hampered race from Houston over the weekend.

The race was held over two days as the birds ran into severe weather downstate. Despite the weather, the winning bird was timed at a speed of 954.494 yards per minute for the 460-mile race.

Aldridge Bird Wins

A bird owned by Ken and Jeana Aldridge of Lake Ransom Canyon captured first place at the Lubbock Homing Pigeon Club's weekly race, averaging 37.6 miles per hour from Tulsa, Okla., a distance of 380 miles.

The second place bird was owned by C.O. Anderson of Abernathy. The club will hold a race from Joplin, Mo., a distance of 500 miles, Sunday.

Sims Paces SPC

LAWRENCE, Kan. (Special)—Larry Sims won three-for-three in leading the South Plains College aggregation in last weekend's Kansas Relays.

Sims won the junior college mile in 4:10.0, the three-mile in 14:00.7 and anchored the winning SPC distance medley with a 4.08 mile, all in one afternoon.

SPC's distance medley won in 9:57, as John Reyes ran the 880 in 1:54.2, David Contreras the 440 in 50.9, Bert Torres the three-quarter mile in 3:04.6 and Sims on the anchor. Also, Saturday, Reyes won the 880 in 1:55.5 and Manny Bautista the six-mile in 29:35.7.

Torres ran fourth to Sims in the open JC mile in 4:16.6.

The performance by the SPC group was good for fourth in the team standings among junior colleges. It was the first time that SPC had competed in the Kansas Relays.

New National Smoker Study:

“Easy Switch” Say 85%.

Research concludes MERIT taste makes move to low tar smoking unexpectedly easy.

Every smoker knows it's tough to find a low tar cigarette with enough good taste to switch to—and stick with.

Does MERIT with 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco deliver enough taste to make the switch to low tar easy?

For new evidence—solid evidence—read the results of a new national smoker study conducted with MERIT smokers.

Results Endorse MERIT Breakthrough

Confirmed: 85% of MERIT smokers say it was an “easy switch” from high tar brands.

Confirmed: Overwhelming majority of MERIT smokers say their former high tar brands weren't missed!

Confirmed: 9 out of 10 MERIT smokers not considering other brands.

And in extensive taste tests against leading high tar cigarettes—

Confirmed: Majority of high tar smokers rate MERIT taste equal to—or better than—high tar cigarettes tested! Cigarettes having up to twice the tar.

Confirmed: Majority of high tar smokers confirm taste satisfaction of low tar MERIT.

First Major Alternative To High Tar Smoking

MERIT has proven conclusively that it not only delivers the flavor of high tar brands but continues to satisfy!

This ability to satisfy over long periods of time could be the most important evidence to date that MERIT is what it claims to be: the first major alternative to high tar smoking.
