

Panel Urges Changes In Military Retirement

WASHINGTON (AP) — A presidential commission today urged overhaul of the hotly-debated military retirement pay system, offering a "design for the future" that it said would eventually save $10 billion a year.

"The system now costs too much money," said chairman Charles J. Zwick, referring particularly to the system of allowing retirement after 20 years of service. Instead, the commission urges that the 20 years be increased to 30.

The commission acknowledged that its predicted $10 billion a year savings would not be reaped until nearly the year 2000, because all present uniformed men and women with at least four years of service would retain the right to retire after 20 years.

The most junior of today's troops, and all those enlisting after the plan becomes effective, would come under the new 30-year plan.

In fact, total Pentagon spending on military compensation would rise for the next 12 to 15 years before starting to drop, because other parts of the commission's proposal call for a variety of improved benefits for many of the 2.1 million men and women on active duty.

The panel said this would persuade more trained and skilled personnel to remain in uniform longer.

Zwick, a former federal budget director and now a Miami banker, handed the 207-page report to President Carter, who created the nine-member commission last year with orders to develop a "long term solution to military compensation."

The president told him "there are some serious defects" in the retirement system.

He said he hoped to make proposals on the retirement system to congress by next January.

The report said the right of military personnel to retire after 20 years of service at half pay for life "can no longer be justified."

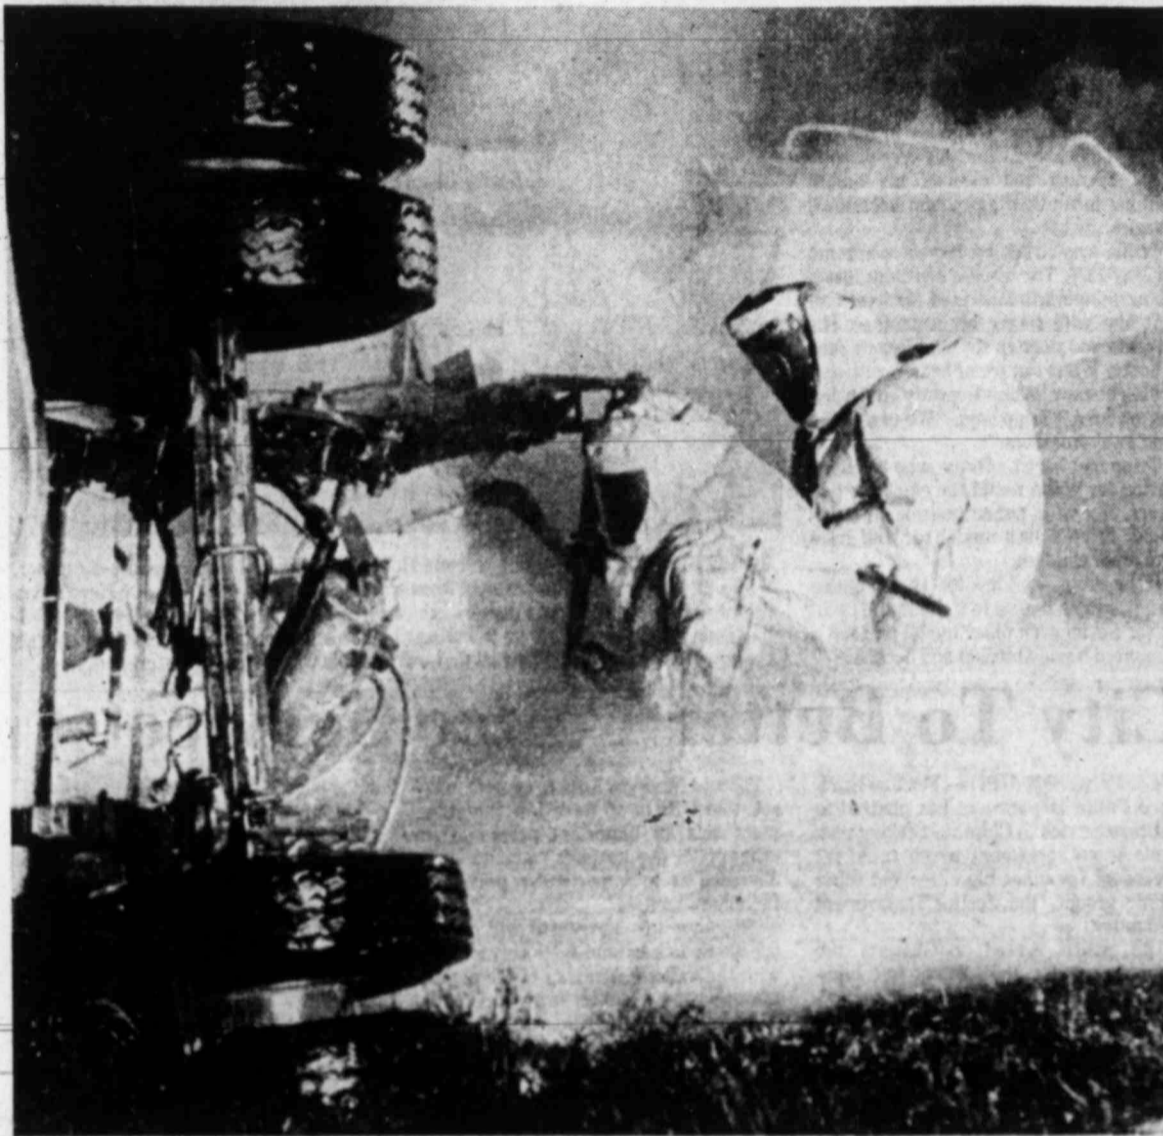

"It is unfair to too many people and has lost much of its credibility with the American people," Zwick said.

Critics contend the current system allows service personnel to retire too young, often in their 40s, and at too high a cost to the taxpayers. The 20-year retirement is blamed for sending pension costs soaring to more than $10 billion this year, with forecasts ranging up to $37.5 billion a year by the end of the century.

Military pensions vary according to rank and years served. According to a recent report, the most numerous retired enlisted personnel was Army sergeant first class or equivalent receiving an average of $6,149 a year. Twelve generals have pensions of $21,545 a year.

The commission recommended extending retirement eligibility to 30 years of service at age 55, as in the federal civil service. At that point, retirees would draw pensions equivalent to about three quarters of their highest active duty pay.

The commission also recommended an end to the much-criticized practice of "double dipping," under which retired military personnel draw pensions while working for the federal government in civilian jobs.

Christians Battling Syrians In Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Christian mourners at a funeral fought a gun duel with Syrian peace-keeping troops in Beirut today, amid reports of a preliminary pullback of Israeli occupation troops in southern Lebanon.

In Israel, a security alert of unprecedented proportions touched off by a false report of a seaborne Palestinian guerrilla strike on Israel's southern coast ended today after 21 hours, and police concentrated on finding the perpetrators of the hoax.

Police announced the end of the alert and a resumption of normal operations by the army, police and civil defense authorities after a fruitless search along the coast south of Tel Aviv for guerrillas who never existed.

In Beirut, where Moslem-Christian clashes have broken out in the past two days, a group of Christian residents fought a half-hour gun duel with Syrian peace-keeping troops that was sparked by the traditional firing at a funeral procession.

Mourners firing into the air suddenly trained their rifles on the Syrians, witnesses said. The Syrians fired back in the first such exchange of fire since a week-

Itel, IBM Snare Computer Bids

By BOB CAMPBELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Capping months of study and years of intermittent discussion of computers, Lubbock County commissioners this morning accepted lease-purchase bids for a $519,605 county computer system.

The awards are to ITEL Corp. to install an IBM 370/125 256K system and to IBM for maintenance and software.

Work already has begun on the county data processing department on the courthouse fourth floor, and the "hardware" part of the system is scheduled to be installed between July 15 and Aug. 15 to be used by the tax assessor-collector this fall.

"We've been talking about this for 20 years," County Judge Rod Shaw said in a conversation after the unanimous vote for approval. "But we didn't see the need for an in-house system."

John Ryan, development coordinator at the Texas Tech University Medical School, chaired a nine-member advisory committee the commissioners appointed last year when they decided an in-house system was needed.

William McCullough, county data processing director and ex-officio member of the committee, read a report and recommendation for the ITEL and IBM bids.

County Auditor Dale Gallimore, the other ex-officio member, said in a cost analysis of the project that a lease-purchase would be $40,550 more expensive than a straight cash purchase in cash outlay over the five years it will take to pay off the system. But he said a lease-purchase arrangement will save $60,000 in interest.

Ryan and committee member Norman Lyons of the Tech business administration department said after the morning session of the commissioners that one consideration was to hold down conversion cost of the county ad valorem "tax package" as it has been being handled by outside computer firms.

With the new system, they explained, it will not be necessary to convert the package into a completely different computer "language."

Bids were considered from 10 corporations. See COMPUTER BIDS Page 14

Senate Approves Farm Aid Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate today approved a multibillion dollar emergency farm aid bill, but the 49-41 vote fell well short of the two-thirds margin it would need to override a promised presidential veto.

(Both of Texas' senators, Democrat Loyd Bentsen and Republican John Tower, voted for the legislation.)

The bill now goes to the House, where a vote is expected Wednesday.

Administration critics of the measure have run up against stiff counter-lobbying efforts from farm bloc supporters, including those involved in the farm strike movement.

Both backers and opponents have predicted a close House vote in the wake of a direct appeal from President Carter that the legislation be defeated. Carter has flatly promised he will veto the bill if it is passed because it is inflationary.

To override a veto, 67 senators — if all 100 were present and voting — would have to vote against the president.

Chairman Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., of the Senate Agriculture Committee urged passage of the bill because, despite controversy over its terms, it "is the only feasible legislative means that is now available ... to help farmers" suffering from low prices for their produce.

Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, a leading opponent, said it would raise food prices for the average family of four by $100 a year, boost government spending by more than $5 billion, and injure livestock producers by raising their feed costs.

The bill would raise basic 1978 grain and cotton supports. It would also allow individual farmers to qualify for still higher supports by making large reductions in planting.

Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., chief architect of the feature granting higher supports for individual farmers who reduce planting, said, "this could be doomsday for the American farmer" unless the bill is passed.

He said hundreds of those in the farm strike movement who thronged to the Capitol to watch the debate "are here because their livelihood is at stake."

Administration officials said earlier that if the bill is defeated in the House, Carter would accept a substitute measure containing an increase in the 1978 wheat target price to $3.40 a bushel.

Before passing the farm bill, the Senate voted 49-43 to suspend a provision of the federal budget act which could have prevented action on the measure before May 15.

Carter, in an advance letter to Democratic leaders, urged defeat of the bill and said unequivocally that if it reaches his desk, "it will be vetoed."

The bill would raise basic 1978 support target prices and crop support loan rates for wheat, feed grains and cotton. The wheat target would go from the present $3 a bushel to $3.50, corn from $2.10 a bushel to $2.40, and cotton from 52 cents a pound to 60 cents.

Action by the Senate follows a long series of protests by farmers, primarily in the Southwest and Southeast regions of the country. The American Agriculture Movement, founded in Colorado and very strong in Texas, has led the demands for full parity for farm crops.

Front Brings Rain, Snow

A cold front sent temperatures skidding across the area this morning, prompting a freeze warning for the Panhandle and portions of the South Plains tonight.

Temperatures in the mid-30s were forecast for the Lubbock area tonight, but in the Amarillo area and northwest portion of the South Plains, weathermen said the mercury could drop to the low 30s.

Rain chances appeared to be diminishing for the area today, however. An early morning probability of 50 percent was trimmed to 30 percent by midday.

If the area escapes a freeze tonight, the danger of frost should be considerably diminished. Tuesday's forecast calls for a warmup to near 70 degrees, much warmer than this afternoon's predicted high in the lower 50s.

The mercury plummeted to 40 degrees here this morning, as cold air poured into the area behind the cold front. Many area towns registered temperatures in the 30s, although no freezing weather was reported anywhere in the state.

April showers turned to snow at Amarillo and other Panhandle points early today, and flash flood warnings were posted in Central and East Texas while tornadoes danced in Uvalde County and near San Angelo and Lamesa.

No serious injuries or damage were noted in early weather reports this morning.

A moistened Hub City early today was just north of a cold front that touched off showers in the area and dropped the twisters in others. That front stretched from near Wichita Falls to the Lubbock area and southwestward into New Mexico.

Lubbock trapped only .19 of an inch of rainfall overnight, and predictions generally call for up to .25 of an inch from scattered showers in West Texas. Some sections of that area may net up to half an inch, the National Weather Service said.

Meanwhile, wind predictions prompted the Weather Service to issue wind warnings for area lakes.

Northerly winds of 15-25 mph today, however, will subside to the moderate 5-15 mph range.

Europeans Take Jab At Carter

LONDON (UPI) — A British newspaper questioned today whether President Carter's "peculiar conscience" rather than strategic considerations led him to refuse to order production of the neutron bomb.

The Financial Times, read by political, business and industrial leaders, said President Carter's performance over the bomb is "not a very convincing way for an alliance, nor to conduct negotiations with the Soviet Union."

The editorial added:

"The Europeans must now recognize President Carter as an erratic, if not unreliable, partner. The Russians, who have led an almost unprecedented campaign against the neutron bomb, must be further encouraged to think that they can get their way whenever they wish."

"And the outside perceptions must be that the Russians are right, even if — as is more than probable — Mr. Carter's refusal to order production was a result of his own peculiar conscience rather than of giving way to Soviet pressure," it said.

The tabloid Daily Mail devoted a full page to a dispatch from its Washington correspondent reporting widespread disillusionment in Congress and among the voters with President Carter's inability to grapple with the economy, the falling dollar and energy.

"Abroad, he has bewildered his embittered NATO allies by his vacillation on the neutron and an inability to halt the currency slide," it said.

It quoted what it said was a current Washington joke in which a Congressman says, "Carter's beginning to look like a one-term President" and another replies, "Yes, but when does it begin?"

U.S., Russia Seek Ban On Killer Satellites

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Cyrus Vance said today the Soviet Union has agreed to begin negotiations next month on a treaty to ban so-called killer satellites.

"Evidence that the Soviet Union is developing an anti-satellite capacity is disturbing," Vance said in an address at the American Society of Newspaper Editors meeting.

"We are prepared to protect ourselves against such a threat and to match the Soviets if necessary," he added. "But a far preferable course is to prevent an anti-satellite race from occurring."

Vance said the United States has "proposed talks with the Soviets aimed at suspending anti-satellite testing and keeping space open for free and peaceful use by all. I can confirm today that the Soviet Union has recently accepted our proposal, and talks will begin next month."

State department officials said the exact time and place of the talks is not set, but it is expected the meeting will be in Geneva, where the United States and the Soviet Union have been holding disarmament negotiations on a series of subjects, including strategic arms limits.

The United States has evidence the Soviets have successfully tested a satellite designed to destroy other satellites. Defense experts consider it to be an ominous development, because the American reconnaissance satellites are the best way of detecting any sudden build-up which could be a prelude to an attack.

Curbing a possible arms race in space has become an important goal of the Carter administration. Only the Soviet Union now has the capability to seek out satellites in orbit and destroy them.

Vance first discussed the idea of banning anti-satellite weapons during a visit to Moscow a year ago.

Vance's speech was also a response to recent Soviet criticisms that the United States is stalling in the strategic arms limitation talks, which have been deadlocked over several technical issues.

Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev, speaking from the deck of a warship off Vladivostok last Friday, accused Carter of stalling "for political purposes." It was in Vladivostok where Brezhnev and President Gerald Ford agreed in 1974 to negotiate a new strategic arms treaty.

Vance said any SALT agreement "must be measured against the yardstick of national security. It must clearly maintain or improve our overall security ... it must take full account of the interests of our allies as well as ourselves."

"And we must have confidence in our independent ability to verify adequately Soviet compliance," he added. "We should not and we will not accept any agreement that does not meet these essential requirements."

He said the United States is prepared to spend whatever necessary to match any Soviet build-up in the absence of a SALT II agreement, although it would clearly benefit both sides to achieve a strategic balance.

Vance also said the two superpowers also will hold talks on limiting sales of non-nuclear arms.

"There are clear limits to what we should expect from arms control," he said. "But it is equally clear that arms control, pursued in a deliberate and measured way, will contribute significantly to reducing the prospect of war."

Mrs. Stapleton Tells Of Problems

DETROIT (AP) — Being sister to a president and pal to a pornographic magazine owner has hurt her ministry, says evangelist Ruth Carter Stapleton. Mrs. Stapleton said in Detroit on Sunday that celebrity hunters flock to evangelical conferences just to meet Jimmy Carter's sister. The celebrity seekers are looking for a handshake rather than religious fulfillment, she said. Mrs. Stapleton said she has reduced the length of evangelical meetings from three days to one to avoid the celebrities.

Vows On The Bow

NEW YORK (AP) — Although Janine Harniss wanted a wedding on the high seas, she has settled for an unofficial ceremony on the Hudson River. The groom, Ernst Grubenman, paid $12 Sunday for the wedding aboard a Circle Line tourist boat on the Hudson. While the ship circled Manhattan, Captain Ed Weber performed his first marriage ceremony. The exchange of vows on the ship's bow was broadcast over a public address system to about 250 passengers. Afterwards, the 19-year-old Bogota, N.J., woman and her 22-year-old groom, a Swiss national who works for an air line, broke open a bottle of champagne. Circle Line provided free hot dogs as the craft bobbed past the Statue of Liberty and up the East River on its three-hour circuit. Since Weber was not empowered to join the couple in matrimony, they said they had taken official vows the night before in Bogota.

Amy Visits Music Hall

NEW YORK (AP) — With Radio City Music Hall apparently about to close, President Carter's daughter, Amy, has joined the thousands to visit the theater in its final days. While hundreds of families waited in long lines Sunday to enter the art deco showplace in Rockefeller Center, the 10-year-old girl was escorted into an "executive entrance" to see what could be Radio City's final production, an Easter show. The show was the high point of a day-long trip for Amy and 240 elementary school classmates, who journeyed here from Washington. Before seeing the high-kicking Rockettes and a movie, the students took a walking tour of the area. Afterwards, Amy returned to the White House with two close friends in a Secret Service car while classmates made the trip in buses. Managers of the music hall have said it will close April 12 because of financial problems.

Farrah Meets With Prince

LONDON (AP) — Farrah Fawcett-Majors has renewed a royal acquaintance with Prince Charles. The actress and the prince, who first met in Hollywood, spoke backstage after a charity show Sunday at the London Palladium. "I find him to be very intelligent, and very charming. I think the best thing about him is that he makes you feel comfortable," the starlet said. After the show, which raised $40,000 for the United World Colleges fund, she attended a party with the show's stars, comedian Bob Newhart and singer Johnny Mathis. Prince Charles also attended. The actress, a former star on the television series "Charlie's Angels," came to England especially for the show with her parents and a sister.

Frost Says Nixon Likes New Life

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — British television host David Frost, who recorded 28 hours of interviews with former President Nixon last year, says Watergate isn't the only reason Nixon has given up public life. Nixon, who resigned in 1972 due to the scandal and who says his political life is over, probably prefers his new, non-political existence, Frost said. "Nixon had been through the fire. The best he could hope for was a rebalancing of history," said Frost, whose interviews with Nixon were televised in a nine-hour series. "Because he did not prevail in the Watergate situation, you have to feel sympathy because of the emptiness of his future," Frost added. The interviews were especially difficult for the former president, Frost said, because Nixon had to come to grips with himself — "it was Nixon versus himself."

Sick Child To Get Dad's Help

DENVER (AP) — Willie Tripp, age 2½ and suffering from Reye's syndrome, faces a lifetime in a nursing home. But first, Bill Tripp himself wants to try to help his son as much as he can. So although it will impose a financial strain on his family, Tripp plans to take a leave of absence from his job as a construction worker and spend two months helping Willie learn to move around and use his arms.

"I can give the little boy a spark to get moving, to want to do something," Tripp says. There is a sense of urgency in Tripp's voice. He says Willie recently began biting himself severely and adds that the 30 minutes of physical and pre-speech therapy that Willie receives daily at the Cerebral Palsy Center in Denver just aren't enough anymore.

If he can't accomplish anything within two months, says Tripp, "We'll have to say that Willie should go to a nursing home." Across the room, Willie lay in the soft folds of a beanbag chair, his eyes periodically opening and closing, his breath coming in muffled gasps and occasional gurgles. Willie was struck by Reye's syndrome in May 1976. The disease sent him into a coma temporarily, infected his liver and left him with severe brain damage. His parents and doctors say they aren't sure whether Willie can see or hear. "Right now, Willie is pretty much living on love," Tripp says. "We can't take that away from him." Tripp and his wife Betty, who has been caring for Willie round the clock for two years, live in a public housing development, drive a 1969 model car and have two other children. If he stops working for two months, Tripp says he'll have to trade in the family car for an even older model and sell a treasured Navajo blanket and necklace.

A HUG FOR WILLIE — Four-year-old Hollie Tripp cradles her 2½-year-old brother, Willie, in her arms at the family's Denver home. Willie is the victim of Reye's syndrome, and his parents and doctors aren't sure whether he can see or hear. But Willie's father, Bill Tripp, says he is willing to quit his job for two months and work with the boy so the family will know all that was possible was done. (AP Laserphoto)

City To Better Police Service

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The San Francisco Police Department has pledged to improve service to Chinese-speaking residents in an agreement which could set precedent for other big cities and other ethnic groups, the Justice Department said today. The police agreed to sharpen the Chinese-speaking skills of its five bilingual officers, publish media announcements in both Chinese and English, and establish liaison channels with Chinese citizens' groups, the department's Law Enforcement Assistance Administration announced. Acting Administrator James M.H. Gregg said in a statement this was the LEAA's first negotiation to insure more equitable police service to a community segment. Previously its concern had been job discrimination. "LEAA's concern encompasses not only equal employment opportunities but also the provision of full criminal justice to all citizens irrespective of race or social background," Gregg said.

Thomas Madden, LEAA general counsel, told UPI in an interview the agreement sets an important precedent for other police departments "which may be alienated from a particular portion of their communities." "We hope this agreement will encourage them to examine their relationships with the various segments of the populations they serve and try to avert potential problems early rather than wait for a calamity," Madden said. The agreement grew out of a complaint by Henry Der, executive director of Chinese for Affirmative Action, on behalf of the Chinese who comprise 10 percent of the population. Only half of them can speak English. "Thousands of Chinese people in the city cannot get help when they need it," Der said. "They cannot talk to officers on patrol. They cannot make a phone call for help." San Francisco's Chinatown was torn by an outbreak of violence more than a year ago.

"This goes beyond earlier federal efforts aimed at stopping unequal treatment of a particular segment of the population or improving the representation of minorities on the work force," Madden said. Madden emphasized the agreement was voluntary and does not mean the San Francisco police have been out of compliance with federal civil rights statutes in the past. The LEAA is currently denying federal aid to the South Carolina Highway Patrol and the Kentucky State Police because of alleged sex discrimination in hiring. Funds for the Virginia State Police were automatically suspended last March 8 when the Justice Department filed a suit charging both race and sex discrimination. The LEAA previously suspended aid to the Cleveland Police Department and the Iowa Men's Reformatory.

Steel Prices Claimed Not Inflation Cause

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The White House has won another fight over steel prices, but the industry says the Carter administration picked the wrong opponent in its battle against inflation. "Steel prices are not the cause of inflation, they are the result of inflation," Kenneth Macy Jr., assistant to the chairman of Wheeling-Pittsburgh Steel, said in a letter to The Associated Press. Other executives say privately that arguments over steel prices divert attention from what they say are the real sources of inflation — a $60 billion federal deficit and costly government regulations.

Since John F. Kennedy's celebrated 1962 clash with U.S. Steel, in which he "jawboned" the company into a price rollback, presidents of both parties have routinely attacked steel price increases as inflationary. President Gerald Ford demanded an explanation from U.S. Steel for a 1974 increase, and President Richard Nixon threatened to encourage steel imports in 1971 when producers proposed an increase for structural steel prices. President Lyndon Johnson told government agencies, which purchased about 9 million tons annually during the Vietnam war, to buy from suppliers who held prices steady. "The steel industry does get beaten on, I think, because it's a very visible industry," said Donald Eldridge, an economist with the Commerce Department's Bureau of Economic Analysis. "But it is also true that it is a basic industry, so there tends to be a multiplier effect," Eldridge said. "They supply many other industries, and every one of them tends to write up price increases." Administrations have used a variety of arm-twisting techniques to modify what they view as trend-setting price increases. U.S. Steel recently rolled back its $10.50 a ton increase to $5.50 a ton, the increase announced by other steel producers after administration officials pleaded for moderation in telephone calls to steel executives.

"The government has tried to control inflation by attacking steel prices for the past two decades and it hasn't worked," said Eugene Frank, a Pittsburgh steel analyst. "They've used price controls, import pressure and words and we have still had double digit inflation in this country. The fact is that steel isn't the inflation culprit."

No Danger Found From Signals

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI) — The federal government has failed to find any evidence to support complaints from residents who said they suffered physical ailments because of mysterious radio signals. The Environmental Protection Agency said during the weekend that, after three days of testing, it could find no unusual or health-improving radio signals in the Eugene area. EPA physicist Richard Tell, a radiation specialist, told a news conference the agency logged over 25 hours of monitoring time on the equipment in its mobile electromagnetic analysis van and "our measurements revealed nothing unusual."

megahertz signal monitored by local electronics experts could be a signal broadcast by a Naval station at Dixon, Calif. He said the Dixon signal under various control settings could produce an apparent pulse-like appearance. He said his investigators were going to examine the Dixon signal readings more closely when they returned to their Las Vegas, Nev., headquarters. But he said they did not expect to have any new findings.

Bridge Collapses In Tours, France

TOURS, France (AP) — The Wilson bridge, one of four bridges across the Loire River in Tours, collapsed Sunday, cutting off water supplies and telephone service to the center of the city. Three arches of the 18th century stone bridge gave way at different times during the day, destroying about half of the 1,300-foot-long structure. There were no casualties. Only one car was moving over the bridge when the first piling collapsed and it was not damaged. During the week the bridge normally is jammed throughout the day. There was no authoritative word on what caused the collapse. One theory was that high water after heavy rains had weakened the structure. Another was that erosion in the extreme drought of 1976 was responsible. And some thought the bridge was suffering from undetected World War II damage.

Officials Locate Body Of Kidnapped Baron

ANTWERP, Belgium (AP) — The body of kidnapped Baron Charles-Victor Bracht was found in a garbage dump early today and authorities said the wealthy businessman had been killed shortly after his abduction March 7.

Police said the body of the 63-year-old nobleman was found at a dump in Oelegem, a village near Antwerp, after an anonymous telephone tip.

Antwerp's Crown Prosecutor Julien van Hoeylandt told reporters after an autopsy that the baron died a violent death. Authorities had considered the possibility that Bracht, who suffered from a heart condition, died of natural causes.

Van Hoeylandt said a telephone caller Sunday night told Bracht's son, Theodore, where the body could be found. The village of Oelegem is about six miles southeast of Schoten, the Antwerp residential suburb where the Bracht family's chateau is located.

Villagers helped the police search the wooded area with searchlights. The body was found in a maggy section near a pond hidden under garbage.

Police were questioning villagers living near the area.

Bracht headed an international conglomerate dealing in tropical products, insurance and construction. The firm's many companies had interests in Zaire, the former Belgian Congo; Indonesia, Latin America and West European countries.

The baron was on his way to his Antwerp office when he was kidnapped at the private parking lot near the office where he always left his car.

After the abduction, the police and Bracht's family imposed a blackout on their contacts with the kidnapers. There were rumors that a ransom of $1.6 million had been asked and that some proof had been supplied to indicate that the baron was still alive, but that was several weeks ago.

Diplomats In Rhodesia Report Progress Today

By JOHN EDLIN
SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — British and American diplomats trying to set the stage for Rhodesian settlement talks including black guerrilla chiefs reported progress today after a meeting with representatives of the current multiracial interim government.

"Things are advancing and progressing," John Graham of the British Foreign Office told reporters after the two-hour meeting. He did not elaborate. Further talks were scheduled for later today, he said.

Prime Minister Ian Smith and his three black associates on Rhodesia's ruling Executive Council had sent deputies to meet with Graham and Stephen Low, U.S. ambassador to Zambia.

Government sources said the outcome of the talks would determine whether the council leaders — Smith, Bishop Abel Muzorewa, the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole and Chief Jeremiah Chirau — would see the two envoys.

The informants said it was unlikely the leaders would see any value in a meeting with Graham and Low, although they probably would welcome talks with Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and British Foreign Secretary David Owen, due in Africa later this week.

Court Admits Statement

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — A district court admitted Sami Esmail's disputed confession as evidence today and opened the trial of the 23-year-old American charged with membership in a terrorist organization.

Judge Dov Levin, president of the three-judge panel, read the decision which said defense attorney Felicia Langer's protest against admitting Esmail's statement "lacks all basis," was "vain and pointless" and "not acceptable."

Esmail, an American of Palestinian descent and a graduate student at Michigan State University, remained in good spirits despite the setback to his case. He told a reporter conditions in prison weren't too bad.

Food and sanitation were "terrible," he said, adding he talked with the other inmates in Arabic and English and was trying to learn Hebrew.

Stern Charges Levelled At Filipino Protesters

By WILLIAM C. MANN
MANILA, Philippines (AP) — The military filed charges of illegal assembly, incitement and sedition today against hundreds of demonstrators arrested in a march protesting alleged fraud in last week's National Assembly elections.

President Ferdinand E. Marcos told a cabinet meeting the charges were consistent with a tougher policy implemented since the end of the elections.

But he said he ordered the release of six Roman Catholic nuns arrested in the march Sunday.

Official reports of the number arrested varied from a police estimate of 553 to a report of 577 from the Philippine Constabulary.

The march was staged to mourn "the death of freedom and democracy" in the Philippines.

The presidential palace said leaders of the peaceful march Sunday also were being investigated "for their participation in the violent and riotous demonstration... Thursday evening."

That referred to a noisy outpouring of support for opposition candidates in Friday's National Assembly elections, the first in 5½ years of martial law. That demonstration also appeared generally peaceful, with reports of only a few minor incidents such as toppled police traffic stations. But Marcos said there were deaths, injuries and destruction of public and private property.

Among those arrested Sunday were former Sen. Lorenzo J. Tanada, 76, one of the country's most respected constitutional lawyers; six Roman Catholic nuns, four opposition candidates, including another former senator Marcos said lost in the elections and a prominent attorney who had handled the opposition's legal affairs.

Police claimed the demonstrators carried homemade bombs and seditious placards calling for revolution. But witnesses said there was no violence and no such banners or placards.

Instead, the marchers carried two wooden coffins and sprays of flowers with purple ribbons on which were written: "Condolences to Freedom and Democracy."

The opposition alleged massive fraud and voter intimidation during the election. The government election commission rejected the charges, saying no proof was offered.

Former Sen. Jovito Salonga said he protested the arrests to Undersecretary of Defense Carmelo Z. Barbero, head of the Office of Civil Relations. He said he pointed out that the constitution guarantees citizens the right to petition the government for redress of grievances, but Barbero countered that the march violated presidential directives.

Tabulation of election results continued at an extremely slow pace. Marcos said his wife, Imelda, and the 20 other administration candidates in Metropolitan Manila had been elected. But the announcement of the latest official results indicated less than 200,000 of possibly 3.5 million votes had been counted.

The announcement said Mrs. Marcos was leading with 106,304 votes, followed by Foreign Secretary Carlos P. Romulo with 106,026.

Official results for the provinces were not announced, but newspapers reported that administration candidates who had been doing poorly in early tabulations were gaining and most now appeared to be winning.

The election was for 165 of the 200 seats in the virtually powerless assembly, which Marcos has said he will call by the end of May. Marcos will appoint some of the other members, while the rest will be named to represent youth, labor and other sectors of society.

The election has no effect on Marcos' tenure as president, which was extended indefinitely by a referendum in 1973. He is also the prime minister and retains the power to legislate by decree if he is not satisfied with the assembly's work. He has promised to leave legislating to the assembly, but only the government — meaning Marcos — can introduce legislation.

Communists Close Markets In Saigon

By ALAN DAWSON
BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — Vietnam's Communist rulers shut down Saigon's private markets in a late-night military raid in their toughest economic move since seizing South Vietnam, travelers arriving in Bangkok report.

"Everyone without exception" will be forced out of private business, Saigon Mayor Vu Dinh Lieu said in a text of a speech broadcast by Saigon Radio and made available today.

Travelers reaching Bangkok during the weekend said uniformed troops occupied the main markets and most shops in central Saigon and neighboring Cholon — the city's Chinatown — in a late-night move March 23 and remained behind locked doors for several days taking inventory.

The travelers said at least 30,000 middle-class families — private traders, businessmen and shopkeepers — were forced to stop private sales and move to production.

Shutting down the trading class is the most severe economic measure taken by Vietnam's government since it won the war almost three years ago with the capture of Saigon.

Because there is a shortage of jobs in Saigon, the order has the effect of ordering the huge middle-class merchant population out of Vietnam's largest city to the countryside.

It is the first time Saigonese have been forced to move. Previously they had been only encouraged.

The travelers said the government has begun designating families who must move to so-called "new economic zones" — rugged virgin lands — to grow crops.

Bracht headed an international conglomerate dealing in tropical products, insurance and construction. The firm's many companies had interests in Zaire, the former Belgian Congo; Indonesia, Latin America and West European countries.

The baron was on his way to his Antwerp office when he was kidnapped at the private parking lot near the office where he always left his car.

After the abduction, the police and Bracht's family imposed a blackout on their contacts with the kidnappers. There were rumors that a ransom of $1.6 million had been asked and that some proof had been supplied to indicate that the baron was still alive, but that was several weeks ago.

A week ago, the Antwerp newspaper Gazet van Antwerpen got a telephone call saying the missing man was dead. The caller gave no indication where the body could be found, and the Gazet published a request to the caller to phone again to help find the body.

On Saturday, Bracht's son, who is managing director of the family holding company, in a television appearance pleaded with the kidnappers to contact him. He said the long detention might endanger his father's health. He also revealed that there had been no contact with the kidnappers for two weeks.

After the telephone call to the son Sunday night, Bracht was the second rich Belgian baron kidnapped this year. Baron Edouard-Jean Empain, who heads a Belgian-French conglomerate with headquarters in Paris, was kidnapped for ransom in the French capital Jan. 23. He was released March 26 after the French police foiled an attempt by his family to pay $8.6 million and captured one of the kidnappers.

The council, created by the "internal" settlement signed in Salisbury March 3 by Smith and the three moderate black leaders, is to guide Rhodesia through elections and the transition to black majority rule by the end of the year.

Observers said the visiting diplomats were shunted to lower-level officials because of the British and American refusal to back the Salisbury agreement. Both nations say the two exiled leaders of the Patriotic Front guerrillas, who were excluded from the negotiations between Smith and the local leaders, must be included in any settlement.

Guerrilla leaders Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe, whose forces have been fighting white rule in Rhodesia for nearly six years from bases in neighboring Zambia and Mozambique, rejected the Salisbury agreement and vowed to step up their war. They demand that they be given control of the government and that the three moderate leaders be shut out.

The Low-Graham mission is the first step in a new British-American effort to bring the moderates — Bishop Abel Muzorewa, the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole and Chief Jeremiah Chirau — together with the guerrilla leaders.

Low and Graham came to Salisbury after talks with Nkomo and Mugabe in Mozambique at which the two leaders agreed to meet later this week with Vance and Owen, probably Friday in Tanzania. Vance and Owen may then fly to Salisbury to try to arrange a meeting of everybody later this month, possibly in Zambia.

But Sithole told a weekend rally in the midlands town of Gweilo that the internal settlement could not be rescinded.

Among those arrested Sunday were former Sen. Lorenzo J. Tanada, 76, one of the country's most respected constitutional lawyers; six Roman Catholic nuns, four opposition candidates, including another former senator Marcos said lost in the elections and a prominent attorney who had handled the opposition's legal affairs.

Police claimed the demonstrators carried homemade bombs and seditious placards calling for revolution. But witnesses said there was no violence and no such banners or placards.

Instead, the marchers carried two wooden coffins and sprays of flowers with purple ribbons on which were written: "Condolences to Freedom and Democracy."

The opposition alleged massive fraud and voter intimidation during the election. The government election commission rejected the charges, saying no proof was offered.

Former Sen. Jovito Salonga said he protested the arrests to Undersecretary of Defense Carmelo Z. Barbero, head of the Office of Civil Relations. He said he pointed out that the constitution guarantees citizens the right to petition the government for redress of grievances, but Barbero countered that the march violated presidential directives.

Tabulation of election results continued at an extremely slow pace. Marcos said his wife, Imelda, and the 20 other administration candidates in Metropolitan Manila had been elected. But the announcement of the latest official results indicated less than 200,000 of possibly 3.5 million votes had been counted.

The announcement said Mrs. Marcos was leading with 106,304 votes, followed by Foreign Secretary Carlos P. Romulo with 106,026.

Official results for the provinces were not announced, but newspapers reported that administration candidates who had been doing poorly in early tabulations were gaining and most now appeared to be winning.

The election was for 165 of the 200 seats in the virtually powerless assembly, which Marcos has said he will call by the end of May. Marcos will appoint some of the other members, while the rest will be named to represent youth, labor and other sectors of society.

The election has no effect on Marcos' tenure as president, which was extended indefinitely by a referendum in 1973. He is also the prime minister and retains the power to legislate by decree if he is not satisfied with the assembly's work. He has promised to leave legislating to the assembly, but only the government — meaning Marcos — can introduce legislation.

Communists Close Markets In Saigon

By ALAN DAWSON
BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — Vietnam's Communist rulers shut down Saigon's private markets in a late-night military raid in their toughest economic move since seizing South Vietnam, travelers arriving in Bangkok report.

"Everyone without exception" will be forced out of private business, Saigon Mayor Vu Dinh Lieu said in a text of a speech broadcast by Saigon Radio and made available today.

Travelers reaching Bangkok during the weekend said uniformed troops occupied the main markets and most shops in central Saigon and neighboring Cholon — the city's Chinatown — in a late-night move March 23 and remained behind locked doors for several days taking inventory.

The travelers said at least 30,000 middle-class families — private traders, businessmen and shopkeepers — were forced to stop private sales and move to production.

Shutting down the trading class is the most severe economic measure taken by Vietnam's government since it won the war almost three years ago with the capture of Saigon.

Because there is a shortage of jobs in Saigon, the order has the effect of ordering the huge middle-class merchant population out of Vietnam's largest city to the countryside.

It is the first time Saigonese have been forced to move. Previously they had been only encouraged.

The travelers said the government has begun designating families who must move to so-called "new economic zones" — rugged virgin lands — to grow crops.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

Issues Aren't The Issue

QUICK QUIZ: Which is more valuable in a tight election—the kind of publicity money can't buy, or the best that it can?

The answer could determine the outcome of the red-hot Republican gubernatorial primary in Pennsylvania...

Early polls show Marston either first or second in a field of five serious contenders...

BUT THOSE surveys were taken before media whiz David Garth, long considered one of the best in the business...

Marston has soaked up the lion's share of free press coverage in the Pennsylvania race...

Careful, Johnny, We Can Get Along Without It!

James J. Kilpatrick:

Thru A Glass Bottle, Darkly

WASHINGTON—In recent weeks, bankers, private traders, and writers in the financial press have concentrated upon the fading value of the dollar...

The dollar is down against the mark, down against the yen, down even against the Italian lire...

Two weeks ago, in the Washington metropolitan area, the rate of exchange on the CB jumped overnight from 5 cents to a dime.

The CB, of course, is the Coke Bottle. It has been trading frantically in the supermarkets of Georgetown, Alexandria, and points as far west as Manassas, Warrenton, and Sperryville.

BECAUSE THE Coca-Cola empire is infinitely divided into Balkan franchises, each with its own bottle currency...

I happened to be in Kentucky last week, and learned that the deposit on returnables went from 5 to 10 cents nearly a year ago.

Louisville took the lead, but within two weeks, in self defense, Shelbyville and Lexington revalued.

Other markets collapsed, including southern Indiana, and the rate of exchange has widely stabilized at the 10-cent level.

I caught wind of the Virginia situation on the afternoon of Friday, March 24, when I dropped by my friendly country bank in Culpeper.

Ordinarily it's possible to pass the time of day with the president of the bank, just hanging around, talking politics, trading baseball cards, whatever.

BUT THIS AFTERNOON my easy-going friend Ralph was like a man possessed by demons. He was restless; his tie was loose; he had a telephone in each hand.

"No time to talk!" he shouted at me. "The money markets have gone mad!"

The head of his foreign exchange division came

THORNBERG IS not necessarily his strongest opponent. Former Philadelphia Dist. Atty. Arlen Specter is better known and at least as well financed.

Former state House Minority Leader Robert Butera and state Senate GOP leader Henry Hager are also in the race, although trailing the three frontrunners.

The biggest factor going for Thornburg, apart from David Garth, is geography—always significant in Pennsylvania.

THORNBERG IS the only candidate from the western part of the state, and stands to benefit if Marston, Specter and Butera split the vote in the greater Philadelphia region.

Even Hager, who has solid strength in his home base in the central and northern part of the state, could have a shot if the big name boys carve up the vote more or less evenly.

Politics makes strange bedfellows but even stranger campaign philosophies.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Just For The Record

A TINY TRIBE of Indians, only 25 of whom still speak their native language fluently, has received a $90,058 federal grant to help preserve said ancient language.

"If the Makah tribe doesn't have a word for boondoggle," Wayne Panter opines, "they soon will have."

President Carter has shelved production of the neutron bomb. Earlier, he killed the B-1 bomber. He also agreed to give away the Panama Canal.

Who needs a bomb or a bomber if he's not going to fight for his property or friends?

THREE TIMES the retired Postal Patron said, he has mailed letters at his home only to have them ignored by the postman—er, excuse me, letter carrier.

"I called the Post Office and they told me that a carrier is not required to pick up mail if he doesn't have any to deliver to you that day."

Postal Patron thinks that's a bad regulation. He says that "when the guy is walking across your yard anyway, 15 feet from your mail box and the letters are in plain view, it seems to me he could pick them up and save you a trip to mail them."

Postal Patron is the old fashioned kind who believes that going the extra mile—or even 15 feet—to provide good service is a worthwhile exercise.

Downstairs at the courthouse, motorists were standing in line for hours to register their cars. Upstairs, according to My Unusually Unreliable Source, a prisoner was being sentenced to three days in the county jail, a fate which he loudly protested.

"If you don't hush," the judge warned him. "I'll make you serve the whole time standing in that line downstairs."

A cat has been called in to deal with a breed of mice in Memphis that has become immune to poisons. It's another example that, when all else fails, it's time to get back to basics.

TODAY'S MAY BOUQUET: To Elo J. And Olga Urbanovsky, who have set up an endowment fund that will provide an annual $12,000 scholarship for a student working toward a doctoral degree in land use planning, management and design at Texas Tech.

As a retired distinguished Horn Professor at Texas Tech, and a landscape architect deluxe, Urbanovsky is making sure that the tradition he established will be forever entrenched at the university.

I'VE BEEN IN this business close to 30 years now, but I guess I'll never understand how somebody somewhere will misinterpret almost anything that's written.

One letter writer, for example, accused me of racism against school trustee Joan Y. Ervin in her bid for re-election.

This is what I wrote: "Incumbent Joan Y. Ervin, a last-minute entrant for re-election after saying she wouldn't run, is helped by the fact she is black just as a new school integration plan is about to be implemented. But she is hurt by a record for absenteeism."

That's about as objective an analysis as anybody could come up with. I supported Mrs. Ervin the first time she ran. So did a lot of other whites; she ran strong in southwest Lubbock. She didn't even have an opponent the first time she ran for re-election.

This time, three other candidates filed for the post which Mrs. Ervin had said she would not seek again. She changed her mind at the last minute.

IT CAN NOT BE written off as racism any time a minority candidate loses; someone always has to lose.

In fact, Mrs. Ervin still got a lot of white votes this time, many of them precisely because she is black.

Those who voted against her did so because they (1) liked another of the candidates better, (2) held her absenteeism against her or (3) differed with her on philosophical grounds.

True, Lynn Stafford, the winner, carried her home precinct, Rush Elementary, 566 to 155 over Mrs. Ervin, who led the two other white candidates in that box.

But if that is to be interpreted as racism, then look at the results in Mrs. Ervin's home box, Ella Hies. There, Mrs. Ervin led Mrs. Stafford, 381 to 4. The other two candidates got one vote each.

Holmes Alexander:

Burning Bridges Before Him

WASHINGTON—If I were Menachem Begin, prime minister of Israel, I would recite to myself the names of Lumumba, Allende and Diem, and consider resignation.

These men were once the chiefs of state in the Congo, in Chile and in South Vietnam. What the three have in common is that they did not please the foreign policy of the United States, and that they all met violent deaths.

I hope nothing happens any time soon to Premier Begin, because it would reflect badly on this country.

There are two points to be made here. One, about ourselves and the other about Mr. Begin. Sadly, the American name has been sullied by our own Congressional committees and their witnesses.

It is no longer gossip, but sworn testimony, that we play hardball—diplomacy around—the world these days, and I am one who wishes it were not so.

BUT PATRICE LUMUMBA, prime minister of the Congo when Dwight Eisenhower was President, made the mistake of asking for Russian military aid to help him suppress a secession movement in the province of Katanga, and Ike did not want the USSR in mid-Africa.

Lumumba soon was murdered, presumably by his own countrymen. The death was thought to be a great convenience to the United States at the time.

When things in Saigon began to turn sour, the Kennedy administration looked for a change of leadership here, and Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge offered President Diem sanctuary in the U.S. embassy—too late because he was trapped and murdered by ambitious men who wanted his job.

Salvatore Allende was the minority but legal President of Chile, and he was a Marxist. Somehow a revolution brewed, supported by American business and government both, Allende died in the attack.

IT ALL COMES down to Begin's refusal to yield on any of the disputes between Israel and the United States, and Israel and Egypt and these disputes are entirely territorial.

Will Israel withdraw from captured lands in the Sinai peninsula, on the West Bank of the Jordan River, from the Gaza Strip along the Mediterranean coast? No, in the Sinai, the prime minister insists on planting Jewish settlers to form a security belt.

On the West Bank, which has 600,000 Arabs and only 7,000 Jews, the Israeli premier has changed the names of two provinces back to their Biblical forms, Judea and Samaria, and declared them part of the Jewish state.

In Gaza, where the population is heavily Arab, the premier again claims the right to rule.

Something's got to give, and Begin seems to be temperamentally incapable of compromise. The unspoken opinion in Washington is that he must go for the peace of the world, and that is not solely the American view.

Abba Eban, once foreign minister of Israel, says that Begin is clinging to the radical Likud party platform of aggression rather than to their nation's hope to exist in peace. Eban put it:

"A statesman must build a bridge between his experience and his vision, between ancient fidelities and new hopes."

It is another way of saying, as one Israeli to another, that this one has not the psychological capacities of statesmanship.

Sylvia Porter:

Whatever You Know Can Save You Dough

IF YOU ARE the parent of a high school student enrolled in an honors program or college-level course, you can — if you act QUICKLY — slash the costs of college and sharply raise the lifelong earnings potential of your son or daughter.

To get the benefits, your child must take the Advanced Placement (AP) exams of the College Board, to be offered in high schools the nation over the week of May 15-19. To order the exams, your child's high school principal's deadline is April 14 at the latest.

The address: AP Exams, Box 977-IS, Princeton, N.J. 07451.

BY TAKING the AP exams, high school seniors, juniors, and sophomores verify their college knowledge in advance, for the colleges of their choice — and the exams are a growing phenomenon widely used in all 50 states as well as for military dependents overseas.

In 1978 alone, the College Board estimates 90,000 students in 4,300 schools will take the tests while just about every top college and university will award college credits for satisfactory AP grades, permit AP students to enter advance courses, or both.

AP students also may go right on to more challenging courses, enrich and diversify their programs, take double majors, enroll in graduate courses as undergraduates — all options greatly enhancing their earning power after graduation.

IF YOUR CHILD earns satisfactory grades on two or more AP exams, he or she may enter college with 15 or 30 credits for college level work in high school (a degree usually requires 120 credits). This alone can cut college education costs 12 to 25 per cent.

And if your child decides to graduate early and enter the job market ahead of time, this option by itself can be worth $12,000 or more in income.

The extent to which AP grading is honored is underlined at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, where AP students make up almost one-fourth of the entire freshman class.

"We consider AP as honors-level courses in an application and tend to give greater weight to those kinds of courses for admissions purposes," says Lance Erickson, associate director of admissions.

SUPPORTING THIS view are the admissions policies at Harvard, Yale, the universities of Utah, Hawaii, Wisconsin, and Pennsylvania, plus hundreds of other colleges and universities.

Each exam costs $32, with exams graded in June. The maximum grade is 5; most institutions award credit and placement for 3 and above. There are 21 AP exams in 13 college disciplines:

American history, art (history and studio), biochemistry, chemistry, English, European history,

French (language and literature), German, classics (Virgil and Latin lyric), mathematics (two calculus exams), music (two exams), physics (three exams), and Spanish (language and literature).

Banning High School, a three-year public high school in a low-income area near the Los Angeles harbor docks, has 3,500 students: 15 per cent Samoan, 15 per cent white, 35 per cent black, 35 per cent Mexican-American.

Like many high schools, Banning has some students who read at third-fourth grade level, others ready for college-level work.

While meeting the serious needs of the first group, the school has not ignored the potential of the second, and it began its AP program five years ago.

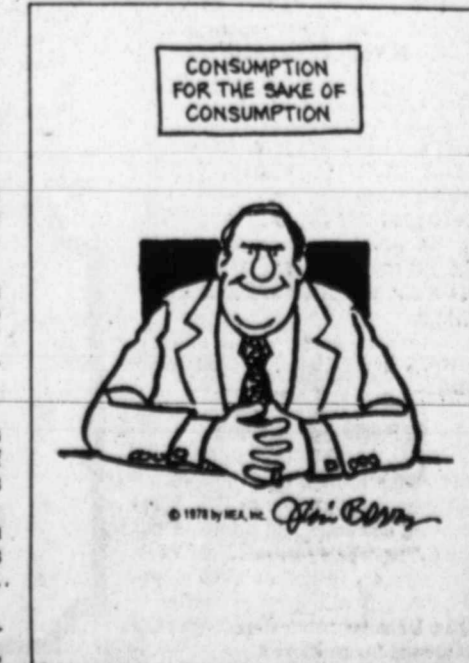

"WHEN YOU COME down to it," concludes the school's principal, James Hanley, "the success of any AP program depends on the motivation of its students and teachers."

As for the costs to a school of offering college-level AP courses, "the major expenses are smaller classes and more teacher preparation," Hanley explains.

"These costs are negligible, compared to the benefits to the students, the parents, the nation."

How about it, parents and students? Why not try? Make the deadline, find out how good you are. Your potentials may be much higher than you think!

Clements Announces Local Co-Chairmen

By FRANK COATS
Avalanche-Journal Staff

GOP gubernatorial nomination candidate Bill Clements announced today that Garon Cagle, Jerry H. Jones and Dr. James Granberry will be co-chairmen for his Lubbock County campaign.

Cagle is the president of Cagle Furniture Company and is a former Lubbock County Republican Party finance chairman.

Jones has been a White House staff member. He was special assistant to Presidents Nixon and Ford from 1971-77. Granberry, former Lubbock mayor, was a 1974 Republican gubernatorial candidate.

BILL CLEMENTS

Clements, speaking this morning at a press conference in the Lubbock International Airport, also announced 20 members of his steering committee for Lubbock County, including former Lubbock County Republican Party Chairman Mike Stevens, a city council candidate in the April 1 election.

Clements, a Dallas drilling contractor and former deputy defense minister, faces former GOP state chairman Ray Hutchison and Clarence Thompson, a Fort Worth dairy worker, in the Republican primary.

Clements says he is the only Republican candidate who can win the race for governor in this historically Democratic Party state.

Clements was in Lubbock for a one-stop press conference and was traveling later today to El Paso, Amarillo and Midland in his private airplane.

Investigators theorized that both vehicles skidded through the intersection and down an embankment before overturning. Justice of the Peace L.J. Blalack is withholding a ruling pending receipt of the Department of Public Safety's traffic report.

Injured in the crash were Jesse Cassarez, 14, Amparito Garcia, 13, and Felicia Garcia, 11, all of Brownfield. The Cassarez youth and Amparito Garcia were listed in serious condition today at Methodist Hospital. Felicia Garcia remained in critical condition today at Methodist.

Two Armed Bandits Rob Area Man, Companion

A 61-year-old Earth man told police he and a woman companion were robbed at gunpoint in an East Lubbock parking lot late Sunday.

According to Serfin M. Vasquez, he and 45-year-old Elida Flores had just gotten out of their car at E. Broadway and Teak Avenue about 8:50 p.m. when they were approached by two men.

One of the bandits reportedly pressed a blue-steel revolver to Vasquez' neck and demanded money. Vasquez said when he replied he had none, the robber reached into his pockets and lifted a wallet and $20.

The woman told officers the other stranger, meanwhile, had run up behind her and stuck what felt like a gun barrel against her neck. She said she was forced to hand over her purse, containing $80, and three rings.

The bandits were last seen running west from the scene.

In burglary and theft reports made to police this weekend, Tommy W. Jones of 1608 22nd St. said someone stole a $100 shotgun from his home sometime during the past two weeks. Reports indicated the point of entry was undetermined.

Three women reported stolen property in two vehicle burglaries at a local residence about 9 p.m. Sunday.

Diana Lampe and Ruth Cummings, who live at 4112 63rd Drive, said a case containing 35 tapes and a purse with $3 cash, respectively, were stolen from their cars parked at their home. Jan Williamson of 5427 79th St. told police her purse, containing keys and identification, also was stolen from one of the vehicles.

One of the biggest hauls made this weekend was the theft of a $2,500 boat and trailer from a residence at 506 52nd St.

Ronnie Presley Abernathy told police that the boat, on its trailer, which was parked in his front yard, was taken between 6:30 p.m. Saturday and 4:20 a.m. Sunday.

Glen Francis Kilburn, manager of The Carriage House at 910 Slaton Highway, reported that approximately $939 had been taken from the establishment's safe sometime Sunday morning.

Burglars made off with an air compressor, valued at $350, from a pickup parked at 5311-B 73rd St. Tim D. Rotten told police that the compressor had been taken from his pickup sometime between 10 p.m. Saturday and 7 a.m. Sunday.

In assault activity, Charles Roberson reported that a black woman, whom he described as about 18-25 years old, tall and thin, jumped him Sunday taking his wallet, which contained about $8. The incident occurred at about 2 a.m. at 13th Street and Avenue G.

In another attempted assault, a 30-year-old woman warded off a would-be attacker by biting his hand.

The woman told police that she noticed a man crawling on his hands and knees by her bed about 3:50 a.m. Sunday. When she asked what he was doing, he then lay on top of her and told her to be quiet.

However, the woman began screaming. At that point, the intruder placed his hand over her mouth, and she bit it. The would-be attacker fled through a front door.

The victim described the man as white, 25 years old, 5 feet 9 inches tall and about 195 pounds. He was wearing a brown stocking over his face, she reported. Apparently the man entered her home through an open bedroom window, the victim told officers.

In break-ins, Fidencio Vega of 2603 1st Place said someone made off with his stereo and 19-inch color television set sometime Saturday night, after apparently entering through a back bedroom window. Vega estimated the loss at $800.

Delmar H. Kraft of 6302 Elgin No. 295 reported the theft Saturday night of a rented television set.

A three-speed bicycle, valued at $100, was stolen from Bobby Atkinson's front porch at 2113 38th St. sometime Saturday night or early Sunday.

Burglars who broke into the Twin Oaks Pharmacy at 3405 34th St. early Sunday, caused $200 damage in trying to enter the building, reported pharmacist Clyde E. Kay. However, Kay told police he would have to inventory the pharmacy today to find out what was taken, if anything.

In a related report, John Callahan, supervisor of the TG&Y store adjacent to the pharmacy, said burglars had done $1,000 damage to that store's roof and wall to obtain entry into the pharmacy.

Santos Martin Mora told police $280 worth of firearms was snatched from his pickup, which was parked at a 1819 E. Broadway club late Saturday.

Someone made off with Cindy Fitzgerald's purse at about 5 p.m. Saturday at the Furr's Family Center at 4426 34th St. Miss Fitzgerald, a clerk at the store, estimated the loss at $215.

Aaron Jackson of 1224 Broadway No. 512 reported that $300 worth of suits was missing from his room Saturday afternoon.

In car thefts, Kathy Sue Sullivan told police someone took her CB radio, tape deck and tapes from her car sometime Saturday while it was parked at Methodist Hospital.

Mary Ann Braun reported the loss of a $173 tape deck from her car, which was parked at the South Plains Mall. She said the break-in occurred sometime between 8 p.m. and 9 p.m. Saturday.

Hubcap thieves made their presence known again.

Gina Annette Gibson told police her car's hubcaps, valued at $200, were probably taken Saturday night while her car was parked at The Depot at 1801 Ave. G.

Walter Storr of 2809 Dover said his four chrome wire-spoke hubcaps were taken from his car, parked at the Cinema West theater between 9 and 11 p.m. Saturday. He estimated the loss at $275.

Ford Raps Russian Role In Mideast

By CHRIS KELLER
NEW YORK (UPI) — Former President Gerald Ford says it is unlikely the Soviet Union will be helpful in reaching a peaceful settlement in the Mideast conflict.

"The Carter administration made a serious mistake bringing the Soviet Union into negotiations in the Middle East," Ford told 1,500 representatives of the National Council of Young Israel in a speech at the Americana Hotel Sunday night.

"The track record of the Soviet Union in the Middle East has not been — and will not be in the future — be that of a constructive role," said Ford, who was booed twice during his 15-minute speech.

In both instances, the jeers came after the one-time chief executive mentioned the name of former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger to the audience at the formal, $100-a-plate dinner.

Ford said that "there was nothing more destructive to the negotiating process" than for the United States to "dogmatically force Egypt, Israel or other nations to make concessions."

"Private cooperation," he said, "is more helpful than public condemnation."

"During my presidency," Ford said at one point, "Israel and Egypt negotiated the Sinai settlement ... with the mastery of Henry Kissinger." A chorus of boos erupted from most of the audience at the mention of Kissinger's name.

When Ford made reference to Kissinger later in the address, members of the audience again booed.

Ford did not wear the traditional Jewish yarmulke found atop the heads of most members of the audience. Gov. Hugh Carey and Mayor Edward Koch, also attending the dinner, each wore the skullcaps as they made brief remarks to the group.

Press Club Award To Go To Mahon

George Mahon has been named recipient of the Greater Lubbock Press Club's 1978 Headliner of the Year Award to be presented during the 18th Annual Gridiron Show Saturday night in the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center Banquet Hall.

"The Press Club could think of no one more deserving of the headliner award than George Mahon," said organization president Steve Monk. "He has been a headliner for 44 years, and the people of his hometown media want to honor him upon his retirement at the end of this year."

The Gridiron Show is the news media's look at the funny side of news and newsmakers of the past year. Funds raised from the event will support scholarships to mass communications students at Texas Tech University.

Included in this year's program are satirical looks at the farm strike, massage parlors and the race for U.S. Congress.

The event begins at 6:30 p.m. with a cocktail hour, followed by a steak dinner at 7:30 p.m. and a two-hour show.

Ticket information may be obtained by calling 762-6411 for the City of Lubbock public information office.

Professor Studies Okie Migration

ROBERT PARK, Calif. (AP) — The migration of 250,000 "Okies" to California in the 1930s was "truly an American epic," according to Prof. Gerald Haslam of Sonoma State College, who has established at the school the Okie Studies Project, a repository for material about the migration.

"Okie" was generally a derogatory term for any poor white migrant who came West," he said. "It referred not only to the 100,000 that came to California from Oklahoma but the 250,000 other rural migrants who came here from Texas, Arkansas, the Dakotas, eastern New Mexico and Missouri."

"They were blind believers in the myth that if you go west far enough everything would be all right," said Haslam, 40, who has taught a course, "The Okie Migration," for the past three years.

By PHILIP GREER And MYRON KANDEL
If you're a stock market investor who's less than enchanted with Wall Street's market analysts, you've just picked up a new and unlikely ally...

Over the course of the last year, we have adopted an increasingly disciplined approach to stock selection. It has become apparent that analysts' earnings and growth projections are tenuous at best, and often bear little relationship to the basic investment return a company generates.

That appraisal might be written off if it came from just another of the Street's large corps of critics, but it doesn't. It's from a memo written by two officials of the Merrill Lynch Capital Fund and Fundamerica of Japan, two mutual funds managed by a division of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Inc., far and away the country's biggest stock brokerage firm.

The memo goes on to explain just what kind of stocks the two funds are interested in buying. Essentially, they want companies whose shares are lower in relation to their profits than the market as a whole...

A number of market analysts are understandably ranked by the Merrill memo, which also explains how much commission business will be directed to analysts who supply usable information on stocks.

If the funds are unhappy with the quality of advice they've been getting — or at least with the investment decisions that have been made — it's easy to understand.

The Merrill Lynch Capital Fund, set up late in 1973 as the Lionel D. Edie Capital Fund (the name was changed in 1976) has had, in common with many mutual funds over the last few years, an undistinguished record.

$105 million now and a per-share value of about $12.50. That doesn't include any dividend or capital gains payouts, which haven't been significant.

Fundamerica of Japan started life in November, 1972, at $30 a share and now is worth about $24.25. It's small by industry standards, with total assets of $20.5 million.

Market analysts — some of the same ones Merrill's mutual funds aren't very high on — have been searching hard for some sign of a broad upturn, but they seem to have found a new problem, instead.

Although the market has been sliding for the last couple of years, or at least the major market averages have been going down, the amount of credit in the market has been climbing steadily.

bers. One is the option market, which helps generate borrowing but doesn't leave the borrower as exposed as before.

According to a study by L.F. Rothschild Unterberg Towbin, option volume in February — adjusted for the fact that each option contract covers 100 shares of stock — was 72 percent of the New York Stock Exchange volume in the same stocks.

In January, the figure was a whopping 86.8 percent, and in both months options could be responsible for the climbing debt.

The other factor is the trend to borrowing money against stock to pay for non-market purchases, such as new cars or home improvements.

At any rate, analysts say the lack of a decline in borrowings could be yet another sign that the stock market has some more suffering to do.

A DAILY MESSAGE FROM The Newspaper Bible

Mat. 18: 19-35, 19: 1-3, The Living Bible

19 I also tell you this—if two of you agree down here on earth concerning anything you ask for, My Father in heaven will do it for you.

20 For where two or three gather together because they are Mine, I will be right there among them.

21 Then Peter came to Him and asked, "Sir, how often should I forgive a brother who sins against me? Seven times?"

22 "No!" Jesus replied, "seventy times seven!"

23 The Kingdom of Heaven can be compared to a king who decided to bring his accounts up to date.

24 In the process, one of his debtors was brought in who owed him $10,000,000!

25 He couldn't pay, so the king ordered him sold for the debt, also his wife and children and everything he had.

26 But the man fell down before the king, his face in the dust, and said, "Oh, sir, be patient with me and I will pay it all."

27 Then the king was filled with pity for him and released him and forgave his debt.

28 But when the man left the king, he went to a man who owed him $2,000 and grabbed him by the throat and demanded instant payment.

29 The man fell down before him and begged him to give him a little time. "Be patient and I will pay it," he pled.

30 But his creditor wouldn't wait. He had the man arrested and jailed until the debt would be paid in full.

31 Then the man's friends went to the king and told him what had happened.

32 And the king called before him the man he had forgiven and said, "You evil-hearted wretch! Here I forgave you all that tremendous debt, just because you asked me to—"

33 Shouldn't you have mercy on others, just as I had mercy on you?"

34 Then the angry king sent the man to the torture chamber until he had paid every last penny due.

35 So shall My heavenly Father do to you if you refuse to truly forgive your brothers."

The Almanac TODAY IN HISTORY

By United Press International
Today is Monday, April 10, 1978, the 100th day of 1978 with 265 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter.

There is no morning star.

The evening stars are Jupiter, Mars, Venus, Mercury and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Aries.

Famed American explorer Matthew Perry was born April 10, 1874. This is actor Chuck Connors' 54th birthday.

On this day in history: In 1849, Walter Hunt of New York received a patent for his invention of the safety pin.

In 1945, the Nazi concentration camp at Buchenwald was liberated by the U.S. 80th division.

In 1971, the U.S. table tennis team arrived in Red China, the first American group to penetrate the "Bamboo Curtain" since the 1950s.

In 1972, an estimated 2,000 to 4,000 people were killed in an earthquake in Iran.

A thought for the day: French writer Francois Rabelais said, "So much is a man worth as he esteems himself."

Average Wardrobe Of Men Described

NEW YORK (AP) — The average man has seven suits in his wardrobe, reports a men's apparel specialist.

Marvin A. Blumenfeld, of April-Marcus, Inc., a merchandising consulting firm, says that five of the seven suits are shades of blue or gray, including stripes. One is brown and one is either green, rust or tan.

Blumenfeld says that three of the seven suits can be worn throughout the year, while two of the other four are "summer suits" and two are "winter suits."

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: Equal time, please, with the stewardess who describes all stewardesses as "intelligent, gorgeous and in their 20s," and all pilots as "balding, burned out, middle-aged and broke."
May I remind her that pilots are hired in their 20s, and many are handsome, intelligent, eligible and have a very good earning potential.
If this stewardess looks around, she will see many stewardesses who are in their 50s, chubby and old enough to be the pilot's mother.

AN AIRLINE PILOT

Dear Pilot: Here's how another airline pilot put it:

DEAR ABBY: What would a balding, middle-aged pilot who earns more than the vice president of the United States want with a 20-year-old stewardess (or any other 20-year-old) whose vocabulary consists mainly of "Oh wow," and a few other juvenile clichés?

THIRTY YEARS UP FRONT

DEAR ABBY: You wisely told a woman, "Even with your limited education, you are probably a lot brighter than you think you are."
She most certainly is, Abby. I recall the words of the late Will Rogers:
"There is nothing so stupid as an educated man, if you get off the thing that he was educated in."

ARTHUR H. PRINCE

Dear Arthur: Right on. And someone else said, "We're all ignorant — but on different subjects."

CONFIDENTIAL TO YOU. If you are into contemporary poetry, get Jim Kavanaugh's newest book of poems titled, "Winter Has Lasted Too Long." I loved it. If your local bookstore doesn't have it, it should.

Treaty Foes Go To Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of House members who contend both branches of Congress must approve the Panama Canal treaties asked the Supreme Court today to prohibit President Carter from signing treaties approved only by the Senate.

Sponsors said the request for an injunction was filed to gain time for the appeal of a suit dismissed by the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals last week. That suit contended that the House also must vote on the treaties since the pacts would dispose of U.S. property.

"I am optimistic the Supreme Court will accept the case," said Rep. Mickey Edwards, R-Okla., one of 60 House members who have joined in the suit.

The latest legal move came as the Senate resumed debate on the canal issue and as treaty foes continued to try to exploit a controversy between the United States and Panama over language that the Senate added to the first treaty when that pact was approved last month.

Carter administration officials, including Senate treaty proponents, are attempting to find a way to defuse Panamanian objections to the reservation. The provision says the United States can intervene militarily to counter any threat to the canal's operations after Panama takes control of the waterway.

Anti-treaty factions in Panama have criticized the reservation and the government of Gen. Omar Torrijos has told the Carter administration the reservation violates the United Nations charter. However, Torrijos has not formally rejected the provision.

Torrijos also has spelled-out his objections in letters to top United Nations' officials and the heads of western hemisphere nations but again stopped short of saying it was unacceptable.

The dispute gave treaty opponents new hope that they could find the votes needed to kill the second treaty, which would actually turn the canal over to Panama by the year 2000. Defeat of this amendment would kill both treaties since the first pact would guarantee the canal's neutrality once it is under Panama's control.

"There are a lot of guys just waiting to jump off this ship," said Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., the anti-treaty forces' top strategist.

Another leading treaty foe, Sen. James Allen, D-Ala., said Monday he thought the issue had given his side "our very best chance to defeat the treaties."

The Senate is to vote April 18 on the second pact.

The House members' lawsuit contends that disposing of the Panama Canal, the 500-square mile Canal Zone and all U.S. facilities within it by treaty is unconstitutional. They claim the Constitution requires that both the House and Senate vote when deciding whether to dispose of U.S. property.

The appeals court, in a 2-1 ruling last week, held that the Constitution provides "concurrent" powers for disposal of such property either by act of Congress or by treaty.

As recently as late last week, supporters considered Senate approval of the final Panama Canal treaty all but assured.

Now, largely because of Panamanian opposition to amendments adopted with the first treaty, the outlook is not so rosy and President Carter believes ratification "hangs by a thread."

Between now and the date set for a vote on the second treaty, which turns the waterway over to the Panama in the year 2000, a barrage of television advertisements opposing the treaty are planned and emotional debates in the U.S. Senate and in Panama are expected.

The first treaty, delineating U.S. defense and priority passage rights, won Senate approval with only one vote to spare last month. To win that approval, the administration agreed to a number of amendments to be instruments of ratification.

Without them, the treaty probably would have been rejected. With them, it won Senate ratification — but may have lost the support of Panama where opponents are now talking of rejecting the pacts and taking the canal by force.

Most of Panama's opposition centers on an amendment by Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-N.M., asserting U.S. rights to intervene militarily to keep the canal open after Panama takes it over.

Aquilino Boyd, a former Panamanian foreign minister argued over the weekend.

"If it's necessary to read the offensive explanations DeConcini gave to support his amendment to conclude that the Senate, when it approved the amendment, changed the treaty signed by Gen. Omar Torrijos and approved in the October 1977 plebiscite.

"The majority of Panamanians have never accepted the DeConcini amendment... giving the United States unilateral rights to intervene in the internal affairs of Panama, for example in a strike," he said.

Gen. Omar Torrijos himself, in an interview with the Chicago Sun Times, expressed concern over the DeConcini language.

"Did we just lose a war?" he asked. "The U.S. never asked that much of Japan. I cannot believe the American sense of justice would require Panama to give up sovereignty over the canal to get new treaties."

In a weekend interview with a group of visiting editors, Carter said the Senate has no intention of intervening in Panamanian internal affairs.

"I think any sort of a chance or unpredictable development could endanger the passage of the second Panama treaty in the Senate because it hangs by a thread. The support that we have is very tenuous..." the president said.

"Any statement, even if it is well based, by the Panamanians that could cause consternation or doubt in the minds of U.S. senators could very well endanger the passage of the second treaty," said Carter.

WORKING ON DIKES — Volunteers at East Grand Forks, Minn., reinforce dikes Sunday in preparation for a predicted 47-foot flood crest on the river Wednesday. The National Guard was called out to help the residents of the town. Warm weather has triggered flash floods in the upper Midwest. (AP Laserphoto)

Floods Pound Midwest Areas

EAST GRAND FORKS, Minn. (AP) — Volunteers wearing life preservers and carrying whistles patrolled the dikes along the churning Red River which threatened to flood half a dozen towns along the Minnesota-North Dakota border.

Flooding was also reported in Indiana and parts of Kansas and Oklahoma.

Several hundred-dike-walkers, working in shifts, are the key to sounding the alarm in case weak spots occur in the hastily reinforced earthen bulwarks along the Red River.

The dikes, built after floods a decade ago, have kept the swollen river from rushing into residential areas. With the river continuing to rise, the dikes were raised over the weekend by truckloads of clay and thousands of sandbags.

Orley Gunderson, East Grand Forks civil defense director, estimated nearly 1,000 residents have been involved in flood fighting efforts. East Grand Forks has a population of 9,000. On the other side of the river, Grand Forks, N.D., with its 50,000 population, may be in less danger because it is at a slightly higher elevation.

The north-flowing river, swollen by melted snow and recent rains, is to crest here at 47 feet Wednesday. But it could be higher if ice jams occur.

"I'm sure we can stand 48 feet now, but beyond that, God help us," said Gunderson. "We have about two miles of dike to protect the major portion of our city."

The river was 45.1 feet and rising early today. Flood stage is 28.

Generally a 30-yard-wide stream, the river is 8 to 10 miles wide now in places in western Minnesota and eastern North Dakota along a 100-mile stretch from East Grand Forks to the Canadian border.

Many rural homes have become islands in a series of lakes as the encroaching water pushes across the flat farmland. It reaches occasional depths of 10 feet or more, said Roy Aune, of the Minnesota Division of Emergency Services.

Some homes along the river have been evacuated, but nobody knows how many. Several highways and many rural roads are under water, and the town of Oslo, Minn., is virtually cut off from traffic.

Eighty National Guardsmen were sent here Sunday by Gov. Rudy Perpich to help in case of evacuations or looting and to help direct traffic.

A contingent of Coast Guardsmen was on hand with river boats.

In Schneider, Ind., meanwhile, volunteers patrolled a Kankakee river dike Sunday night looking for cracks or leaks in the repair job that ended a week long flood that forced about 150 people out of their homes.

A 35-40 foot hole in the dike was plugged Sunday, but seepage problems appeared within a few hours.

"We've been correcting the problems with more sandbags as they arise," said Rich Behrens, a Lake County Civil Defense spokesman. "We're just sitting here holding our breath and hoping."

Civil defense officials speculated that some of those forced out of their homes by high water might be able to return as early as Wednesday if there is no more rain and the weather is sunny.

Residents in parts of Oklahoma and Kansas were alerted Sunday to be on the lookout for flash floods from heavy rains moving through the area.

As windspeeds drop, though, so will temperatures, according to forecasts.

Fair and warmer conditions were expected on the South Plains — with highs in the 80s and lows in the 40s — Wednesday through Friday.

Statewide, eccentric weather wreaked some confusion if not havoc late Sunday and this morning. A cold front described as "slow-moving" ranged from near Del Rio to Abilene to Wichita Falls, dumping the heavy rains and thunderstorms. Fort Worth was expecting showers this afternoon, and up to two inches accumulation was considered possible in Northeast Texas.

Golfball size hail was noted near Brackettville, 25 miles east of Del Rio. Parts of Abilene were hit by slightly smaller hail that fell over the city briefly Sunday.

Hondo reported heavy rain and light hail about 12:50 a.m. today.

At 4 a.m. today, temperatures ranged from the middle 30s in the Panhandle to the middle 70s in the Rio Grande Valley.

Most area towns reporting minimum temperatures during the 24-hour period ending at 8:45 a.m. today noted upper-30 to mid-40 readings. Chilliast was a 34-degree reading at Dimmitt.

Precipitation totals for that period included .46 of an inch in Dimmitt; .42 of an inch at Morton; .32 at Matador; .31 at Levelland; .36 at Silverton; .23 at Plains; .22 at Friona; .20 at Seminole and Tulla; .19 at Lubbock; .16 at Abernathy, Brownfield, Lockettville and Olton; .15 at Jayton, Lamesa; .13 at Plainview; .12 at Tahoka; .11 at Hereford; .10 at Floydada, Muleshoe and Post; and .07 at Spur.

Elephant's Remains Burned By Mistake

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A Wayne State University biologist who said he had been waiting seven years for the chance to examine a dead elephant was frustrated when the body of Zoella was cremated by mistake.

Zoella died Friday, and after an autopsy at Michigan State University was to be turned over to Jeheskel Shoshani of Wayne State, Shoshani said. But those handling the elephant's body apparently never got the word.

Gas Threat To Florida Town Ends

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — An emergency crew stopped an ammonia gas leak from an overturned tank truck early today, cutting off a cloud of deadly gas that forced the evacuation of several hundred residents in suburban Clair Mel City.

No one was reported injured by the escaping gas, but the tank truck driver was killed and two other motorists were hurt in the three-way accident.

Emergency workers plugged the leaking tank at 4:30 a.m. CST and a giant crane lifted the ammonia tank — owned by the W.R. Grace Chemical Co. — from a ditch and placed it on another trailer rig for transport out of the area.

Joseph Trawick 30, of Tampa, was killed when a van ran a stop sign and plowed into the tanker truck he was driving at 10:30 p.m. Sunday in the Tampa suburb, the Florida Highway Patrol said.

The driver of the van was identified as 22-year-old Alyre Bourgeois, a professional wrestler known as "The Masked Marvel."

Bourgeois was badly injured in the crash that separated the tractor section of the larger rig from the trailer carrying the ammonia tank, the FHP said.

A valve on the ammonia tank was damaged when it rolled into a steep ditch and a stream of the deadly gas threatened the area, forcing the evacuation of several hundred persons from their homes, the FHP said.

The unidentified driver of another vehicle that hit Bourgeois' van was only slightly injured, the FHP said.

Immediately after the accident the Civil Defense, the Red Cross and the Hillsborough County Sheriff's Department set up operations just outside the evacuation perimeter.

Two weeks ago a similar collision involving an ammonia truck occurred near Brandon.

The other finalist was Computer Marketers International (CMI) with an IBM System/370 Model 135 240K, which would have offered more expansion capability but would have cost $603,650.

In other business, the commissioners approved the purchase of three downtown lots for $15,000 each to be converted into parking lots.

The lots on the east side of the 1200-block of Avenue H were owned by Lubbock attorney Bill Wischkaemper.

Budget amendments approved this morning included $90,000 to purchase land now and in the future for parking lots; $98,700 for payments to C.B. Thompson Construction Co. on the data processing center project; $24,000 to pay for a Ballot Tab Counter for the May 1 primary elections; and $7,000 to pay into the salary of an assistant county purchasing agent.

Texan Sought After Threat

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The U.S. Secret Service issued a nationwide bulletin Sunday night for a Humble, Tex., man who allegedly "made a threatening remark about President Carter," and said he was going to Washington to see Carter, a Secret Service official said today.

Two hitchhikers told authorities that a man who gave them a ride Sunday night and dropped them off in Henryetta, Okla., threatened to harm Carter, said Special Agent Ernest Luzania, in charge of the Secret Service in Oklahoma.

Luzania said the man being sought "has indicated interest in the president previous to this" and is listed in Secret Service files.

The hitchhikers told authorities the man identified himself to them, but the Secret Service was not sure the man was actually who he said he was.

Luzania said there have been many cases where someone has threatened the president and identified himself as another person.

"We feel all threats are serious," Luzania said. "A threat's a threat, which has to be verified."

Japan Most Efficient Consumer Of Energy

TOKYO (AP) — Dr. UH Lantzke, executive director of the International Energy Agency, says Japan is one of the most efficient consumers of energy among the 24 nations in the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development.

Interviewed in Paris by the Kyodo news service, Lantzke said Japan used 1.19 tons of oil to create the equivalent of $1,000 gross domestic product in 1977 compared with 1.22 tons in 1975.

Somalia Slaps Cuba, Russia

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Radio Somalia says "new imperialists hostile to Somalia" — the Somali government's label for the Soviet Union and Cuba — were behind an unsuccessful attempt by army officers to overthrow President Mohammed Siad Barre.

"We have overcome them. All is well, all is normal," the president said in a radio speech.

He said loyal troops smashed the rebellion Sunday, which he said was attempted by "a few" officers and enlisted men. They were caught and would "be tried according to Somali law," he added.

Diplomatic observers had predicted Somali soldiers embittered by their defeat in the recent Ogaden war in southeast Ethiopia, might try to overthrow Siad Barre, who himself seized power in a military coup in 1969.

The Somali army helped rebellious Somali tribesmen in the Ogaden capture most of the disputed territory last summer. Then Cuban troops, Soviet arms and Soviet advisers turned the tide for the Ethiopians, and Somalia abandoned the rebels last month.

Said Barre said he was "very sad" that "individuals connected with the imperialists should attempt to shed Somali blood." He urged his people to be "vigilant against the agents of colonialism who are out to disrupt national unity."

Western diplomats in Mogadishu, the Somali capital, said gunfire erupted Sunday morning in a village about eight miles south of the city, and small arms fire and explosions were heard on the outskirts of Mogadishu. The sources said pedestrian and auto traffic was back to normal by early afternoon in the capital although soldiers were patrolling the streets along with the police.

Government broadcasts gave no casualty reports, but the diplomats there were indications some persons were killed. The Sudanese government news agency reported a number of senior army officers were killed, but it did not say whether they were rebels or loyalists.

The Sudanese agency also reported that Siad Barre said four officers would be tried for fomenting the coup attempt.

The Soviet Union was Somalia's chief ally and source of arms until it sided with Ethiopia in the Ogaden War and cut off arms supplies to Somalia in an attempt to force it out of the war. In retaliation, Siad Barre expelled all Russian advisers last October 1977, closed the Soviet naval base in the Somali port of Berbera and broke diplomatic relations with Cuba.

Despite the withdrawal of the Somalia army from the Ogaden, the rebellious tribesmen there claim they are continuing guerrilla attacks on the Ethiopians and their allies. Radio Somalia reported Sunday that a rebel band ambushed a truckload of Cuban soldiers and killed 30 of them near the town of Jijiga, in the northern Ogaden.

The rebels are Moslem Somalis of the same ethnic stock as the people of Somalia. They are fighting to end the Christian Ethiopians' control of their semidesert homeland and annex it to Somalia.

Soviet Trio Says Salary Not Enough

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN
CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — It can be tough trying to make ends meet on $18,000 a year and there is no such thing as a free lunch, say three Soviet technocrats attending Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The three Russians, who spend up to 65 hours a week at MIT as part of the Sloan Fellows Program, receive $18,000 a year as an allowance. They say it is more than they earn at home but it does not go far enough.

"No free lunch," said Valentin Oushakov, 37, a fellow of the Academy for Foreign Trade in Moscow. He was echoing words popularized by America's Nobel Prize winning economist, Milton Friedman, a man with conservative views.

"I don't have any trouble with money in my country, but here yes," said Vadim Andronov, 35, also a fellow at the foreign trade academy.

The two trade fellows and Boris Ivanov, 43, a former sea captain, share a six-room apartment in Belmont, an affluent Boston suburb, do their own cooking and take turns behind the wheel of a car they bought here.

"A '99," said Ivanov, a little vague about the model.

"No, a '98," said Oushakov. "Ninety-eight feet to the gallon."

The Soviets are with 55 Americans and other foreigners from 16 countries in a program for middle-level executives leading to a master's degree in management. The Russians are working with representatives of such American giants as GM, IBM and Eastman Kodak.

Companies and, in the case of the Soviet trio, governments pay tuition of $11,500, not including $500 for books, for the year, said Dean Peter Gil, director of the fellows program.

The total Soviet investment in the three for the year, including tuition, living and travel expenses, is close to $100,000.

"Here it is rent, house, furniture, electricity, gas," wailed Andronov, a slender, dark-haired man who tries to run three miles every morning. "How much? How much? For me it is very difficult to calculate money."

"At home, my country pays for everything. The pay is enough. Our government takes care of our people."

Man Hunts Souls At County Jail

By MARTHA BRYSON HODEL
BECKLEY, W.Va. (AP) — Inside the Raleigh County Jail, only a little sunlight filters through the steel mesh covering the windows, and the inmates pass time playing cards in perpetual twilight.

If you're looking for lost souls to save, the Raleigh County Jail is probably as good a place as any, and it's the chosen hunting ground of Charlie Arnott.

For the last 12 or 15 years — he's not certain just how long — Arnott has been visiting the jail on Sunday evenings to conduct a brief church service. He leads a little hymn-singing, and his pastor at the Mount Tabor Baptist Church, Lee Fuller, delivers a brief sermon. Members of several churches in the county take turns carrying a wheezy portable organ to the jail to provide the music.

"Sometimes we get a real revival going in there," Arnott said. "But sometimes the pastor can hardly hear himself over the noise the inmates make playing cards and carrying on."

On a recent Sunday, the jail was quiet as the organist played a hymn which began, "Was it for crimes that I have done He groaned upon the tree?" The prisoners largely ignored Arnott, Pastor Fuller, and the handful of other soul-savers.

As the Baptists arranged themselves in a row before the dimly lit bullpen, they put hymnals in the bars and urged the prisoners to join them. But the hymnals remained untouched, and all but one of the prisoners kept to his cell during Fuller's sermon on the prodigal son.

"The real story is the number of souls we save, the men we help rehabilitate," Arnott said after the service. "We manage to save about three or four a month. Of course, sometimes they're not sincere, they just want to use us. But we do succeed with some."

There were no souls to be saved this Sunday. Despite exhortations to come forward during the final hymn, no one responded. Only one inmate stepped from his cell into the bullpen, and he asked only that Pastor Fuller visit his parents in another part of the county. His mother, he said, had a leg amputated about three years ago and didn't have much opportunity to get out to church.

Still, faith and hope abide among the Sunday visitors, and Arnott said the Mount Tabor congregation will continue their efforts. Packing up hymnals and organ, the visitors distributed religious tracts, hoping that on another day their work would be rewarded.

Annual Reports Get New Look

By JAMES A. WHITE
NEW YORK (UPI) — As government and accountants push more data into corporate annual reports, companies continue to search for ways to make their prime piece of stockholder communication more effective reading.

The annual reports on 1977 now crowding shareholders' mailboxes have the same slick look—glossy covers, striking photos and multicolored graphs—but inside there are signs of departure from the standard "how good we are" jumble of jargon and figures.

Polaroid Corp., for example, adopted a "journal" approach for its report to shareholders with essays focused on "the idea that a company has as many aspects to its character as a person has, seeking fulfillment, and self-expression, power, friendship, creativity, immediate significance and ultimate significance."

A company, wrote Chairman Edwin Land, "has a conscience and high purpose and moral standards and vulnerability. It can sin, feel guilty and repent, it can live and it can hate, it can build and it can destroy."

The magazine format to package "articles" about the company is popping up in an increasing number of annual reports. Leeds & Northrup Co. says its wants to get shareholders "excited" about the company through its magazine report and chip away at the problem of explaining its high-technology business.

"We often compound the communications problem by peppering our prose with industry jargon rarely understood by the non-technical, noncorporate individuals that make up a majority of our shareholder constituency," L&N conceded.

"The magazine approach," it said, "appealed to us because it offered an opportunity to break with tradition and perhaps offer something more meaningful... a vehicle we could make more interesting and more informative than the usual approach."

Whether such tactics are the way of the future is uncertain but it's clear companies have a long way to go to satisfy shareholders.

One stockholder survey found half feel annual reports are not written to be understood. And Touche Ross & Co., the accounting firm, concludes the disclosures companies make about themselves "do not seem to tell shareholders all they want to know."

Even the belief that annual reports, though not perfect, have improved significantly in recent years is challenged by Profs. Robert Dolphi Jr. and Robert A. Wagley of Wright State University, writing last year in the magazine Financial Executive.

"This research indicates that annual reports have not been effective communication devices to the average reader whether he or she be a stockholder, employee, customer, or other interested party," they said based on a study of the 26 largest corporations. "There has been a definite decline in readability of annual reports."

Compounding the problem is the rising cost of the some 10,000 reports published annually. Standard Oil Co. (Indiana) found the reports cost 42 companies an average of 66.4 cents a copy in 1977, up from 30.5 cents in 1972.

Many companies pay much more for today's bigger and lavishly produced reports, making them a cost to be reckoned with when distributed to millions of shareholders.

"We've all seen $4 books that were terrible and $1 books that were outstanding," says Norwood W. Pope, vice president of Orlando-based Sun Banks of Florida.

HEW To Study Texas Tech On Title VI

By CANDY SAGON
Avalanche-Journal Staff
Representatives from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) will be looking into Texas Tech's compliance with Title VI civil rights regulations, The Avalanche-Journal has learned.

B Local State
Lubbock Avalanche-Journal
Monday, Apr. 10, 1978

An HEW site team is scheduled to be at Texas Tech April 24 for a week-long review of various university procedures, including employment, counseling, tutoring, admissions and recruitment.

The visit is part of a review of 18 Texas universities and colleges, announced by HEW Secretary Joseph Califano in February.

Schools in Texas and seven other states will be reviewed within the next two years as part of a program launched by HEW in 1969 to investigate nationwide segregation in higher education.

Miles Schulze, branch chief, Higher Education, with the Dallas office of the Office of Civil Rights, said the HEW site teams will be "interested in a student's opportunities to enter the school of his choice, his opportunities after entering school and the school's retention rate."

Schulze said the teams "are not going in assuming there is a problem but just to see what progress has taken place."

Should HEW find a university in violation of civil rights regulations, a voluntary compliance plan usually can be worked out, Schulze said.

However, Tech officials say HEW ostensibly could fail to certify Texas Tech for any additional government contracts if the school is found not to be in compliance with the law.

Dr. Glenn Barnett, vice president for planning, says although Tech has, "in good faith," been trying to comply with government affirmative action programs, "we don't think we've been as successful as we'd like to be" in hiring minority applicants and women.

Barnett flatly denied there was "any kind of even unconscious feeling that Tech won't take minorities." Part of the problem he said, is that outstanding applicants are too few to fill all the jobs.

"It's difficult to get minorities with doctorates here," Richard Klocko, director of personnel, pointed out. "The salaries here are among the lowest 20 percent in the nation and there is nothing Lubbock really can offer a black PhD."

Klocko said Tech's affirmative action program "hasn't been working as well as it should. The results are not what we expected, even though the effort is being made."

Of the 843 faculty members at Tech, only 26 are minorities. There are 668 white men and 149 white women. Of the minority group, 22 are men and four are women.

Among full professors, figures provided by Klocko reveal 213 white men and 14 white women. The males' average salary is $24,276, while the women's average salary is $21,479 — almost $2,800 less than the men.

Among associate professors, 243 white males draw an average salary of $19,551, while 43 white females are paid an average $19,222.

Assistant professors were listed at 136 white males and 46 white females. The men draw an average salary of $16,193, while the women receive an average of $15,644.

Of instructors, the 10 white men receive an average of $11,896, while the 17

Water Prices Threaten Coast

(EDITOR'S NOTE: For Texas Gulf Coast residents water — salt water — is a way of life. It influences their lives and their lifestyles. But in the future, where will fresh water come from — the water necessary for life itself? This special report, one of a series, shows that fresh water is available — available at a price.)

By JIM BRIGANCE
HOUSTON (AP) — Along the Texas Gulf Coast there is water everywhere, plenty enough to drink — if one has the price.

But in the years to come those most concerned with supplying water say the availability will hinge largely on how much users are willing to pay.

Already, some coastal residents have begun paying part of the price for fresh water. Land is sinking the Baytown-Pasadena-LaPorte area as fresh underground water is pumped out. And scientists say the important shellfish industry may be threatened if over-drawing of fresh water alters the delicate coastal ecology.

"We think we have plenty of water but the problem is trying to keep up with expansion area-wide ... the problem is money," said H. R. Norman, assistant director of the Houston public works department.

Water men agree there is no real or threatened shortage of water on the teeming Gulf Coast. But there is a shortage of money to transport it from one growth area to another. The problem is — they say — how much are industry and private users willing to pay?

South of Houston the land sinks in a long, unbroken line to the sea — past oil rigs and refineries, past the onerous smell of petro-progress and past small bayside communities.

Salt grass and scrub replaced the carefully tended rice fields, and urban sprawl slowly replaced all of that over the past 25 years. Drab by birth, raped by opportunists, this vast savannah from Beaumont to Corpus Christi yet remains rich in natural assets. There are oil fields and refineries and seaports and marine life and tourism.

And now there is a problem of how to bring in water for the demanding millions whose numbers increase annually. Harris County's millions — many of them immigrants from other states — get their water from Lake Houston and Lake Livingston. But the U.S. Geological Survey estimates the need for water will increase fourfold by the year 2020.

The city of Houston is moving westward to tap groundwater supplies and "tremendous amounts of water stored in aquifers north and east of Houston could be withdrawn with reasonable planning," according to Sergio Garza, a hydrologist with the geologic survey.

Your foul weather Friend...STORM ALARM

The Storm Alarm warns you about storms the way a smoke alarm warns you about fires. It sounds an alarm that is triggered by a signal from our local National Weather Service Transmitter.

After it sounds, a report on the danger and survival instructions comes on. When conditions are normal, Storm Alarm picks up the weather station's up-to-the-minute forecasts. Unlike ordinary weather radios, which the user must monitor, Storm Alarm continually monitors itself ... the alarm will sound full blast, whether or not you have the volume turned up and are listening ... even while you're sleeping. The Storm Alarm gives early warning to those who need it most: homeowners, farmers, and construction workers, campers, hunters, fishermen, boating enthusiasts, school, office and hospital administrators.

It works on AC power or a 9-volt battery ... but if bad weather causes an electrical failure, the battery back-up feature automatically converts the unit to battery power. The Storm Alarm at left (Model TA-20) fits easily into the pocket or purse and also features a continuous beeper alarm and flashing warning light that continues to function until reset.

HOLDS MODEL OF SUB — Former Navy Cmdr. Raymond McCool, crew member assigned to the nuclear submarine USS Thresher who missed the vessel's fatal voyage 15 years ago, holds a model of the sub recently in Derry, N.H. (AP Laserphoto)

Navy Man Recalls Sunken Sub

By ANDREW SCHNEIDER
KITTERY, Maine (AP) — Fifteen years after the nuclear submarine USS Thresher took 129 men to their deaths, the 130th crewman — who missed the voyage — says he believes he could have saved the ship.

"I'm not a hero and I'm in no rush to die, but I often wish I was aboard on that test," said Cmdr. Raymond McCool in a voice almost too soft to hear. "I admit I've had years to think about it, but I'm sure there were things I could have done."

The Thresher "could dive deeper, move faster and carry more weapons than any other submarine in the fleet," the Navy said, and there was little concern when the sub left Portsmouth Naval Shipyard for deep water testing the morning of April 10, 1963.

The sub was crowded with 129 men that morning, its crew expanded by 41 extra military and civilian technicians — each one specially assigned for the complex tests that lay ahead.

McCool would have been the 130th man. But just 30 minutes before the Thresher sailed, Capt. John Harvey persuaded him to stay behind. McCool's wife, Barbara, had been blinded temporarily by an exploding bottle of liniment, and Harvey thought McCool should be with her.

At 4 a.m., cutting through the water with the grace of the shark for which it was named, the sleek 287-foot Thresher left the Portsmouth yard where it was designed and built.

For five hours, the tedium of the exhaustive testing was echoed in the colorless radio chatter between the Thresher and the submarine tender Skylark, monitoring the tests on the surface.

At 9:02, stark terror replaced the tedium.

A Navy board of inquiry tried to reconstruct the final 15 minutes of the Thresher by quizzing 120 witnesses, studying 225 exhibits and amassing 1,700 pages of testimony.

McCool was a member of that board. "Greatly simplified, we believe a small leak developed in the salt water piping system," he said. "That leak shorted out the electrical circuitry and shut down the reactor safety system."

With its reactor dead, the Thresher could neither rise nor maintain its position — 1,000 feet below the surface, 220 miles off Boston.

Slowly at first, then at a rapidly increasing pace, the Thresher plunged to the bottom, and to the deadly pressure a mile and a half below the surface.

At 9:17 a.m., Lt. Jim Watson, Skylark's radio operator, "heard the sounds of a ship breaking up — a dull muted roar."

Then silence.

McCool, 48, now a land developer in Derry, N.H., is not eager to talk about the Thresher. But he does.

"When the water shorted out the reactor, that power plant was no longer producing heat, but it was still full of steam," he said. "If you diverted that steam to the emergency engine, the rapid cool-down would have destroyed the reactor ... but I think there would have been enough energy to pull the ship out of the dive."

McCool said the Thresher's crew was sharp and well trained, but it lacked experience.

"You needed someone with enough experience to say 'the hell with the reactor' and draw the steam off for the emergency engine," he said. "So you destroyed the reactor, but at least you might have saved the ship."

"If I were aboard I would have been standing at the spot to do just that, and it would have been my immediate response to the crisis. I think ... I'm sure ... it would have worked. I could have brought the ship up."

The Navy says McCool's theory is logical, but "there is no way of ever knowing for sure," since the wreckage of the Thresher still lies on the ocean floor.

Laetrile Drinkers Risk Death From Poisoning

CHICAGO (UPI) — Cancer patients who drink the controversial drug Laetrile risk sudden death from cyanide poisoning, a research team warned today in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

A 17-year-old girl who had cancer died shortly after swallowing liquid Laetrile in 1976, three physicians at the Kaiser-Permanente Medical Center in Los Angeles wrote in a JAMA article.

Laetrile, which has been promoted as a cancer treatment despite medical opposition, is normally injected. The girl, who obtained Laetrile at a Tijuana, Mexico, clinic, received injections for four weeks. However one day she was unable to administer the drug intravenously and decided to swallow the Laetrile.

Eight to 10 minutes after drinking the Laetrile, the girl developed a severe headache and dizziness. Then she collapsed, went into convulsions and became comatose, the doctors said.

A hospital pumped her stomach and placed her on a respirator. She died 24 hours later, without regaining consciousness.

The researchers said cyanide poisoning, already blamed on use of Laetrile, has the same symptoms and can cause death. The suddenness of the girl's death suggests that oral use of Laetrile might be more dangerous, presumably because the digestive process releases the acid quicker.

"Although the evidence is circumstantial, cyanide poisoning must be strongly suspected as the cause of death of this patient," the physicians

Postal Service Gives Warning Of Swindles

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Today is the start of the Postal Service's Consumer Protection Week, aimed at warning people about the "old brassy snake oil salesman" who is defrauding the public to the tune of nearly $1 billion a year.

Newspapers and broadcasters are being asked to alert consumers to mail order get-rich schemes, phony medical "cures" and real estate swindles.

The service said the old and infirm are major targets, largely because they have trouble getting jobs, must live on fixed incomes, and suffer from ailments and "social isolation."

"One of the cruellest types of schemes perpetrated on the elderly is medical fraud," the report said. "Persons with diseases such as cancer, heart problems and arthritis are often willing to try anything ..."

Besides a "miracle pill" cancer cure, other fraudulent medical wares with prices ranging from $5 to $700 included wrinkle removers, weight reducing gimmicks, hair restorers, bust developers and "cures" for impotency and infertility.

"The old brassy snake oil salesman is still around with his cures," said a Postal Service spokesman, "but he's getting more sophisticated."

The Postal Inspection Service has sent the postmasters packets of case histories showing how con men bilked an estimated $1 billion in fiscal 1977 from unsuspecting consumers.

Las Vegas Hotel Damaged By Fire

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A fire that gutted one of the 800 rooms in the Circus-Circus Hotel forced the evacuation of 4,000 people from the hotel and its casino, the hotel said.

One guest and a security guard were taken to a nearby hospital and treated for smoke inhalation and minor injuries, spokesman Lynn Crowder said Sunday.

Monterey Tops UIL Competition

Monterey High School took top honors over four other area schools despite strong competition from Lubbock Coronado High School for the top title in Saturday's University Interscholastic League District 4-AAAA competition.

Students from Monterey, Coronado, Lubbock High School, Plainview High School and Hereford High School competed at Lubbock Christian College for the right to advance to the regional contest in two weeks.

In most events, the first and second place winners will be eligible to advance to the regional meet.

Monterey students led the district contest with 202 points though followed closely by Coronado with 182. Lubbock High came in third with 107, followed by Plainview with 17 and Hereford with 15 points.

wells and we can go farther and farther out for our water but then the farther out you go the more it costs to pipe the water back. It's a question of how much industry and home users are willing to pay for their water."

In their zeal to produce drinking water, Houston area drillers created a monster perhaps more critical than water shortages — land subsidence.

"This historic current level of pumpage from this (Gulf Coast) aquifer has caused severe water-related problems — notably land subsidence," said A.L. Black, chairman of the Texas Water Control Board. "In order to minimize land surface subsidence in the area it will be necessary to limit the quantity of water withdrawn from the aquifer."

Land subsidence is a condition created when the ground sinks because of removal of its underground water. Such low areas then become vulnerable to flooding from ocean tides, and rainfall collection.

Residential and business areas in Pasadena-Baytown-LaPorte suffered more than $150 million in damage during the period between 1969 and 1973. To combat this insidious problem the Harris-Galveston Coastal Subsidence District was formed, the only organization of its kind in the state.

Since its formation, the group has gained control of regulation of fresh water well drilling and, according to Jim Dewberry, an administrative assistant with the group, land subsidence has been checked.

In the quest for water, marine biologists caution that coastal cities — particularly the larger ones like Beaumont, Houston and Corpus Christi — must guard against removal of too much water from rivers and streams which empty into the Gulf of Mexico.

It is the delicate blend of fresh water and salt water in bays and estuaries that creates the womb-like spawning grounds of shrimp and oysters.

Scott Holt with the Marine Sciences Institute at Port Aransas explains:

"When you cut off fresh water (in bays and estuaries) you cut off the nutrients, and these shellfish need the nutrients. Oysters do well in salt water, but so do their predators and disease."

Holt said the flushing action of fresh water also improves the oyster and shrimp crop by cleaning the spawning area of pollution and disease organisms. Most of Galveston Bay has been closed to oystering because of pollutants pumped into it by industry in Houston and Texas City, and the municipalities nestled along it.

Most agree there are no complicated problems involved in supplying fresh water to the Gulf Coast, unless one considers money a complex problem.

Industry in Texas City already channels water in from the Brazos River, but it does so at a price ultimately paid by users of petroleum and chemical products.

But what is the alternative? Economic stagnation, or decline?

"Our studies show," said Black, "that water development, and especially water importation, are no longer interesting conversation pieces but are economic necessities."

white women are paid an average $11,231.

Klocko called these salary averages "not highly disproportionate."

However, the distribution of men and women faculty members throughout the various departments and colleges on campus recently was the target of an American Association of University Professors committee report.

The report stated that there are no female faculty in agricultural sciences at Tech, none in engineering except in the division of architecture, and no full-time female faculty in the departments of geography, history, mass communications, philosophy and physics.

There are few full-time female faculty members in most other departments and colleges, the report said, except art, English, health, physical education and recreation, music, education and home economics.

To these criticisms, Klocko points out that many departments only hire PhD's for full professors and, for example, in the field of engineering, only 41 women across the nation in 1976 received doctoral degrees in that field.

"In the case of minorities, the situation is even more difficult," Klocko said. In 1976, there were only 11 blacks in the entire country who had PhD degrees in engineering, he said.

However, Klocko said that under Texas Tech President Cecil Mackey's direction, each vice president now has been instructed to draw up a plan toward achieving affirmative action goals in his area of responsibility.

In the process of making five-year projections for the school's staff, Klocko said he estimates by 1983 Tech will have gained 20 women faculty members, 10 minorities, and have reduced the number of white male faculty members by 58.

Mrs. B's Scheduling Impressive Art Classes

A new schedule in exciting workshops, classes and seminars merits attention at Mrs. B's Arts, Crafts & Gifts, 5105 29th Drive, phone 797-5850, in Lubbock.
 Early inquiry and registration is strongly advised, as all sessions are limited in number of student spaces.
 Canvas painting in oils, both at beginner and advanced levels, will be taught in classes by Frankie (Pee Wee) Lanier, artist and instructor. Classes start April 18.
 Beginner sessions will be on Tuesdays and Thursdays, with advanced classes on Tuesday mornings.
 Frankie Lanier is well known region-wide, with her several years of study and achievement.
 And... Delta Dye fabric painting classes will be taught by Charl Egeland, who also teaches tole painting. These classes have met with exceptional response, and Mrs. B's is happy to announce continuation of these.
 Then, on April 11 (Tuesday) a night beginners class in oil canvas painting will be commenced by Jo Daugherty, another artist hardly needing introduction here.
 Sarah Storrs, another most capable instructor, is conducting tole painting classes.
 Schedules and details on all these opportunities are gladly available from Mrs. B's, but immediate inquiry is wisely advised.
 Attention also is directed to the just-completed rearrangement of the popular art, craft and gift shop. Now, two classrooms are provided in an arrangement permitting more room for instruction and even with more room elsewhere in the functionally-designed facility for convenient display of the wide merchandise stock.
 Supplies for all instructions courses are available at the shop.
 A new shipment of most, most interesting and beautiful picture frames has been received, and of course there is ample supply of stretched canvas, oils, etc.
 A large selection of wood, in-unusual and popular patterns, is stocked for the tole painter.
 And plaster, there is scads of this in many designs.
 Weekly there are new arrivals throughout the diversified stock, and frequent visits are invited to stay abreast of all that's new.
 Mrs. B's, under the ownership and active management of Margie Berryhill, occupies a striking, well-designed and easily found home at 5105 29th Drive (on the cutoff between Brownfield Highway and Slide Road).
 Everything is designed for efficiency and ease in shopping and studying.
 Everything says "we're glad you are among our friends and customers."
 So... let owner Margie Berryhill and her daughter, Stacy, and the highly qualified instructors personally express their greetings to you at Mrs. B's.
 Remember, projects by the scores can originate and develop to completion at Mrs. B's. For shopping satisfaction, pleasure in browsing and selection, and for learning from "pros", this shop is heartily recommended.

THREE GENERATIONS OF FASHION-WISE CAPABILITIES — On the knowledgeable, helpful team at Maxine's Accent is Maxine Willingham, standing, with daughter and assistant manager Sharon Willingham, and her mother, Mary McCollum.

End-Of-Season Fur Showing, Sale Arranged At Maxine's

In keeping with the envied fashion and service achievements of Maxine's Accent in Briercroft Shopping Center, an announcement has been made that adds further emphasis to Maxine's devotion to customer consideration:

Maxine and the entire staff invite attendance to a "first" at the firm, an End-of-Season Fur Sale and Fur Restyling Clinic this Friday and Saturday, April 14 and 15.

Hours for the event are 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. on each day. Maxine is proud to announce that the event will be conducted with the cooperation of Pam Mahoney for A. H. Schechner & Son, fine furriers of Dallas and New York.

Mrs. Mahoney is familiar to fashion-aware Lubbock area residents as she was formerly furrier for a leading Lubbock department store.

Pam has for years excelled in special creative ability and excellent designer tastes in fashioning every fur garment to one's special individual needs. At the showing she will show how to remodel one's old furs into exciting new looks for fall, and she also, at this show only, will be selling market samples at special end-of-season prices.

Layaways and Visa and Master Charge use are welcomed on these high-fashion furs as well as on other merchandise in the selective stock at Maxine's.

Maxine's Accent through the past nine years has become a fashion center for this area, in a large part because of the diversified fashion looks carried in the store.

There is sportswear, street dresses and long dresses for the junior customer. There are many, many fashion looks in the moderate price range for any age.

And for that customer whose life style requires true designer fashions, Maxine's Accent's Designer Salon provides an exciting selection for that person.

The staff takes pride in devoting as much time and effort as necessary in finding the correct apparel for any and all occasions; and from the moderate price range through the designer selection.

Beautiful spring and summer mix-and-match sportswear, sun dresses, swim suits, lingerie and accessories are at their peak at this time in the so-beautiful store.

It is re-emphasized that Maxine's has one of the most extensive and unusual selections of long for all occasions, too.

Daytime suits and dresses for all ages are in abundance.

Ultra suede jumpers, dresses and suits in beautiful pastel yellows, pinks, mint greens, etc., are in the Designer Salon for one's viewing and selection.

The capable staff includes Maxine Willingham; her daughter, Sharon, who is assistant manager; her mother, Mary McCollum; Lue Ree McGee, Beth Pendley, Paula Marberry and part-time staff-members Poppy Burnette and Alice Scarborough.

Assists Pageant Entries

Maxine presently is coordinating the wardrobe for Miss Lubbock in the Miss Texas Pageant competition in July. Maxine also is instrumental in selecting part of the all-cotton wardrobe for the South Plains Maid of Cotton each year, also assisting many other pageant contestants.

Some of the featured lines at Maxine's Accent, correctly indicating the prestigious and fashion lines there, are Corinth Street, Collegian, Lady Wrangler, Frank Lee, Halston, Dalani, Jan's Things, Body English, Melissa Lane, Applause, Les Wilk, College Town, Victor Costa, Intuitions, Strawberry Plant, Act I, Patty O'Neil and many others.

Wouldn't the Fur Showing this weekend also provide a great opportunity for selecting from new arrivals in these great lines for the many spring and summer wardrobe demands?

"We'll eagerly look forward to your visits at Maxine's Accent, this weekend or any time, with a friendly staff and with every service and merchandise item geared to meeting today's fashion needs, for you as an individual and treasured friend."

House Of Shades & Lamp Repair Aids New Look For Any Room, Any Season

"Don't neglect the interior decor when spurred by spring fever to start all those new projects!"

New lamps and/or shades can do a lot for brightening the home for spring and summer, so why delay?

A visit to the House of Shades and Lamp Repair, 2710 50th St., can be the convenient solution.

Even for those familiar with the House of Shades and Lamp Repair, a visit there at this time will reveal added services, newest shades and a full staff to afford every customer consideration.

Unique lamps of distinction, quality lamp shades, replacement lamp parts and glass, expert lamp repair, custom building, re-wiring, re-design and re-finish (to make your lamp a shade better) in essence comprise the business scope of this better lamp house.

Some months ago the House of Shades and Lamp Repair made giant strides, doubling its floor space, as example, to better serve. Consequently, more merchandise was stocked and more convenient display was enabled.

From an outsider's viewpoint, it is noted that actually the expansion in physical facilities was simply another step in many progressive moves at this popular Lubbock firm.

"Come on out and let us personally thank you for your trade and confidence that has made our steady growth possible."

Even at its beginning, this Lubbock firm recognized the needs in its field, and stocked and served accordingly. Since that date, even more has been learned of customer preferences, and consequent growth and expansion has followed. Yes, the House of Shades and Lamp Repair is here to stay!

Owners Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Houchin report that continually they are able to get more and better stock.

The House of Shades has complete facilities for lamp wiring, repair and rebuilding. One's favorite antique, bottle or vase can be professionally converted to a lamp to specifications. "We'll make a lamp out of any old thing!"

Mr. and Mrs. Houchin point out:

Shades, though a most important part of any decor, do get soiled and worn. A new shade or repairs on present ones present the solution.

"Now, when we say 'lamp shades', we are not talking about only the conventional hardback or stretched shade as many people might think. There are glass shades in many sizes and colors, ball shades, small shades for chandeliers, wooden, silk, metal shades, etc. We have them all!"

Special pride is taken in custom shades and in custom lamp building.

"Simply bring us your idea and we will do the rest."

Holt's Shoes Tells Expansion In Women's Fashion Selection

Late last year Holt's Shoes made a very significant announcement — that the firm was in new, expanded, modern quarters in Sunshine Square, 4519 50th St. Now comes another exciting announcement from owners-operators Mr. and Mrs. Joe Haire: The stock of women's fashion shoes has been greatly expanded. (Of course, the very complete stock in other categories is maintained, but the added accent on fashion wear for women means that selection is now afforded in exciting new numbers from still more prestigious lines. Fashion Lines Introduced Select from Carolini, Jack Rogers, Cherokee and Carressa, as example! There are gorgeous, chic arrivals just received; and what a wide selection!

Then there are shoes by Miss America Footworks, Bass, Socialite and Cobbles by Red Cross, and others. And the standbys such as Revelation Exclusive "the most comfortable shoes in the world," the famous Scholl lines, and more, with casual wear stocked fully, just as is the fashion wear. New Bags As further welcome to spring, Holt's has received an expanded stock of beautiful bags to accent any costume for spring and summer. See the Miss Erica, Carnivale, Carpet Bags and other lines sure to appeal. Holt's was for more than a decade in another Lubbock location, and the move to the present quarters has met with enthusiasm by so many. The Haire's are showing their appreciation by adding appreciably to their stock, notably in fashion footwear lines. Not only is the shoe presentation the most complete in Holt's history, but experienced shoe fitters round out the picture of service, a tradition at the firm. Expert fitting is assured, and this can be extremely important for the demands of the season's activities. Both Visa and Master Charge transactions are welcomed. "Won't you pay us a visit . . . soon . . . and share in our pride of the type establishment now afforded, including the expanded fashion stock, at 4519 50th St., in Sunshine Square? We think you'll like what you find . . . a Holt's with the same friendliness and consideration, but with even greater capacity for service."

Stormaster Shelters Seen Popular, Practical Consideration For Family

'Tis the season of the year to especially appreciate the protection of Stormaster Shelters in event of windstorms or tornadoes. "Most likely you have friends who have arranged for the safety of a Stormaster. Have you given your family this same consideration?" "In Lubbock and area, the Stormaster underground shelter protection can be speedily and easily secured by consulting with the Stormaster specialists at 3406 62nd St., phone 792-5977, who season after season have served most admirably, and who have been proven time after time. Stormaster shelters are built right; they serve a definite need in the unsettled spring weather conditions of the South Plains; and they are backed with the professional understanding and integrity of their builder, Homer Ries.

Ries, the only authorized Stormaster builder in the South Plains and Panhandle, prides in the Stormaster and in its construction. A graduate in engineering, he appreciates the needs of the area and the quality of Stormaster. Mrs. Ries is a native of Lubbock; he is a longtime resident and both are graduates of Texas Tech. Stormaster is not new in underground protection; it has been in business for over two decades in the Oklahoma City and Dallas areas. The Stormaster unit is not pre-fab. It is built in a choice of two sizes, 6 ft. by 8 ft., and the more popular family-size 8 ft. by 10 ft., with construction taking about three days, depending on the weather, of course, and involving digging the hole, setting forms, pouring cement, finishing with paint, special inside plaster, benches and electrical outlet.

All concrete work is a one-pour operation with six-sack cement reinforced with paving mesh — no cold joints. It is guaranteed not to leak or seep. It is painted inside and outside and comes complete with seats, vents, electric box and special Stormaster doors. (The doors are so constructed that children may enter unescorted.) The extra-strength plywood door covered with galvanized metal is attached to a heavy steel frame which is embedded in the concrete. This waterproof door was designed especially for this shelter. Stormaster construction qualifies for Title I financing. For full information check now with Homer or Mrs. Ries at Stormaster of Lubbock, 3406 62nd St., phone 792-5977. If there is no answer, please keep calling, day or night. Part-time office help is on the job as well as Mr. and Mrs. Ries.

FOR SELECTION AND SPECIALS, MAXEY CENTER COMES THROUGH Home Improvement Center Sets Specials For Entry To Spring

The "Spring into Spring" Sale continues this week at Maxey Home Improvement Center, with some strikingly significant price reductions, subject to merchandise on hand in the special offerings.

Wouldn't these appeal, now when fix-up, paint-up, outdoor time calls for accelerated activities:

Heavy duty 12 ga., 3-wire extension cord; 25 ft., regular $8.95, for $5.25; 50 ft., regular $12.25, for $9.95; and the long 100 ft., regular $22.40, for just $16.85.

All light fixtures are 20 per cent off. Genie garage door openers start at $99.95. Installation is available. And marble top vanities (20" by 17") are just $36.88, with 10 per cent off on all other sizes, and 10 per cent off on faucets.

Storm doors are as low as $89.95, and several models are stocked. (You owe it to yourself to shop and compare the quality and prices.)

Storm doors from Maxey Home Improvement Center are installed for only $11 installation fee within the Lubbock city limits, and they are shipped anywhere FOB.

TCI paint is 30 per cent off, with white and off-white interior paint at $4.99 per gallon.

Tub enclosures (heavy duty tempered glass, regular $49.95) are now just $35.00.

For any building and hardware need, chances are that one-stop shopping at Maxey Home Improvement Center and the Maxey Lumber firm on the 100-block N. University Ave. will meet the need... in selection, quality, service and economy.

Maxey makes special effort to stock the "hard to find" but needed items, with full attention of particular needs of the season.

"Are you having trouble with CB units or other signals operating your garage door?"

"If so, a wise suggestion is to contact Maxey Home Improvement Center, 120 N. University Ave., phone 765-7736, and find out how conversion can be made at a nominal fee... ending this irksome problem. It is just that simple."

Many other items and services from this Lubbock firm can be of equal benefit.

"Did you realize that skylights are stocked, in both single and double dome, in white or bronze, for residential or commercial use?"

"Maxey Home Improvement Center, 120 N. University Ave., wants you to have the very best at a price you can afford!"

Hence, the firm not only "holds the line" on prices throughout its stock, but it arranges specials whenever possible, such as those now in effect to greatly aid in most every home improvement endeavor.

Look at some of the items that likely are coming in for one's special consideration at this time:

Check the large selection of Amerock cabinet hardware.

And Skil and Black & Decker power tools.

Plus a tremendous selection of lighting fixtures, plumbing and electric supplies, and just about anything in the building line.

Maxey Home Improvement Center is glad to help one locate the hard-to-find items, getting them or telling where they may be found.

The center is open every week day, from 8 a.m. until 5:30 p.m., Mondays through Fridays, and until 5 p.m. Saturdays.

A-1's Early-Season Specials Real Assist In Landscaping

"Come, browse, and select fine-quality merchandise at low A-1 Nursery prices; in fact, a whole bunch of specials are arranged at this time!"

Even at a nursery where values are the rule every day, every season, the current offerings at A-1 bear special note.

A trip, from most anywhere, to A-1 Nursery, 7500 82nd St., phone 792-6070, can be most rewarding.

Look at some of the present specials:

Redbuds, extra nice, at 35 per cent off list price!

And especially nice live oaks group at 35 per cent off, too.

Ground covers (all kinds, individually potted) are 30 cents each or just $4.50 per dozen.

There are fruit trees including apple, peach, pears and plums at $2.99 each (5 to 6 ft. tall, compare at $8.50).

Onion plants are sale priced 30 cents each or 4 for $1!

See and select grape vines at 88 cents (regular $1.99).

Pom pom and poodle plants, really a selective array, are 35 per cent off list.

Fertilizers, Conditioners

Soil conditioners and fertilizers come in for due attention and should be secured at this time, while the price is especially attractive and when they are most needed.

A new shipment of Wonder Gro soil conditioner and root stimulator has arrived.

Zipp 16-8-8 zinc and iron fertilizer, 50 lb. bag covering 2,500 sq. ft., is just $6.99.

Purchase ammonium nitrate, 50 lb. bag, at $8.99.

And Fertilome Weed & Feed Special, 40 lb. bag covering 1,500 sq. ft., is $8.95.

Long Hours

Remember, A-1 Nursery, at 7500 82nd St., is open weekdays 8 a.m. until 6 p.m., and on Sundays from 1:30 p.m. until 5 p.m.

A-1 has a tremendous selection in its every department... well worth the drive to view and select... and save!

Area residents long have benefitted from the landscape design, installation and maintenance services of A-1, and these and other services still are available — plus the special benefits of the new shipments and the unheard-of sale here at beginning of the season.

For more than 20 years, area folks have been assisted by the services of Winfred Self, owner and operator of A-1 Nursery, since 1973 at its present expanded quarters.

Everything at the modern nursery is coordinated for the very best in service. A complete line is stocked including trees, shrubs, vines, fertilizers, insecticides and the numerous other nursery supplies.

The "know how" of Self and his experienced staff possibly is the biggest asset of A-1, however, as hundreds of customers can attest to the superior help there through the years.

"Come on out during the big sale this week and see for yourself how A-1 Nursery can meet your individual needs, at a price you'll appreciate. Just as your neighbor likely already is an enthusiastic A-1 customer, you, too, can benefit from the experience, the interest, the products and the prices of this firm that knows how to get the most into a South Plains landscape."

"Feel good while you lose — in the new program and approach to losing weight available at the centrally-located Diet Center, 2321-A 50th St. in Lubbock, phone 793-5444."

Thoroughly experienced counselors there draw upon all facilities of the Diet Center resources and knowledge to work for you!

"Meet these counselors: Marianne Maestas and Glenda Bratcher. Each has many years in the weight reducing business and are folks you probably already know, as they formerly were with another firm in Lubbock.

"We are acquainted with a number of weight reducing programs, and we are thoroughly sold on the Diet Center method new to Lubbock", they emphasize when comparing the available routes to weight loss.

An adjustable program, to fit the needs of the individual, is provided, and all counseling is private.

Essentially a diet program, the Diet Center method also advises light exercise.

The Diet Center program calls for a well-balanced diet, and the clients will not lose the essential fat on the body, but only the extra adipose fat; the dieters will have all the nutrients necessary to maintain good health while losing adipose fat from the body.

It is pointed out in this connection that there are three types of fat on the body:

- (1) The structural fat, necessary to the body as it rounds out the body, giving soft curves to the woman and an angular look to the man. This type of fat is quick energy and easily available to the body.

- (2) The cushioning fat also is necessary as it cushions the bones so they will not hurt us. It is between the joints, on the hips, knees, feet, etc., and this fat does not show on the body, but it must be there. It also is quick energy fat that is easily available to the body.
- (3) The adipose fat is the "extra" fat on the body; fat that is stored to help the body during prolonged starvation periods.

"When a person is on a fad or a starvation diet, or when a person is very ill, the body draws from the quick energy fat that is easily available to the body for emergencies. The person has a gaunt, starved, haggard look. He or she loses structural fat from the face and breast, feeling weak and run down. This type of fat is quickly regained as it is essential to the body and good health."

"At the Diet Center, 2321-A 50th St., remember, clients are on a well-balanced diet and they will not lose the essential fat on the body, but only the extra adipose fat."

At a very, very modest price, one may avail herself or himself of daily counseling during the weight loss period, counseling during stabilization, and further aid during later maintenance for a lifetime of weight control.

With varied programs available, it could be pointed out that possibly the most popular is a 6-week program in which women usually lose from 18 to 30 pounds, with men losing even more.

The counselors at the Diet Center, 2321-A 50th St., are happy to work closely with the client's physician if there is a medical problem involved.

To simplify explanation, it could be said that the most popular Diet Center program takes from two to six weeks with an expected weight loss of one-half to one pound a day. When the desired weight has been attained, a sustaining program, at no further charge, is set up. Then if the old programs of stuffing away food return as fatty deposits, a refresher weigh-in quickly sets one on the right path.

The Diet Center approach is strictly dietary, involving a series of tasty menus that are inexpensive and easy to prepare. The diets help keep the blood sugar stable, serve as natural diuretics and keep away hunger pangs!

"You'll feel well, and if you persevere, in no time at all you'll begin to look as great as you feel!"

Inquiries Invited

A dietary supplement that's part of the over-all program supplies an invert sugar that gives immediate energy and reduces the craving for sweets; it is not a drug or medication.

Full details are gladly given regarding all facets of the Diet Center plan that involves no shots, drugs or gimmicks. But don't delay; let Glenda or Marianne enter the picture now; call 793-5444 for appointment.

Woolco

Woolco's Camera, Music Shops Affording Selection, Economy

"Why settle for less than selection from Woolco's camera department?"

"This important department not only stocks what you need but also what you want! We carry everything from film to darkroom supplies, and in between. There are the instamatic cameras, instant print cameras, 35 mm lenses and cameras, and movie cameras and projectors.

Film Selection
The film section includes Woolco's own brand, Kadero, as well as Kodak and Polaroid film. Included in the film supply is the new 24-exposure film and the ASA 400 by Kodak, and the faster developing SX-70. (We at Woolco also are pleased to say that we can offer a price as low, if not lower, than any other Lubbock department store, due to our competitive pricing.)

"Our movie cameras, slide projectors and movie projectors are name brands, such as G.A.F. and Kodak, and they include regular 8 mm as well as super-eight and sound."

Woolco also presents the regular 126 and 110 cameras with or without built-in flash attachments. Soon to be received are the newest in the Kodak line of instamatics, so stop by and pick one out to take on that summer vacation!

Film Finishing
Woolco also offers photo finishing as another service. Regular print film, brought in before 6 p.m., is returned in one day, so whether it is film you need or film you need to leave, stop by Woolco... because "we want to be your favorite store!"

Music Shop Excels
Alongside the camera area in the center of the big Woolco store is the music shop.

This is a music shop not only in terms of music but also in terms of what goes with it... Woolco carries a full line of 8-track tapes as well as albums, featuring a 45 chart that is updated weekly.

Budget Buys, Too
"A recent addition to our music shop is a full Spanish selection. These tapes and albums are from the newest artists, and are changed every four to six weeks. We also have added a year-round budget section of $2.99 Spanish tapes and albums!"

"Along the walls of the music shop one will find other items such as posters, lights, blank recording tapes and a line of guitars.

"So, whatever your need in the fields of music or photography, come by and let one of our four salespeople in these departments (Randy, Milton, Tom or Brenda) help with your selection."

HONEY GRAIN — MADE WITH SEVEN WHOLE GRAINS

Rainbo's Honey Grain Bread Makes Debut On Area Shelves

"Whatever you love to eat with bread, you'll love a little better with Honey Grain, from Rainbo, now at your favorite supermarket."

Harry Hoopes, president of the Rainbo bakery here that serves supermarkets and grocery stores in this region, naturally is most enthusiastic, correctly pointing out that the introduction is another of the progressive moves by Rainbo that throughout the years has seen the public's preferences, needs and demands, and has done something "delicious" about it!

"You simply cannot go wrong with any of the fine Rainbo Baking Co. products, and Honey Grain is no exception." So... next time you're in your favorite store to buy a loaf of bread, consider this:

There are many whole grains in nature, and each of them is different. Each has a goodness and richness all its own. Now there's a bread that combines seven, yes, seven of nature's whole grains in a single loaf!

Wheat, rye, corn, barley, soya, rice and oats. That's Honey Grain, packing in the natural grain flavor.

Honey Grain is a light, luscious, whole-grain loaf that is baked with just enough real honey blended in. The honey brings the subtly different flavors of all seven natural whole grains together into one unforgettable, natural taste.

Higher in nutrition, unsurpassed in goodness, Honey Grain bread, from Rainbo, is most, most worthy of your purchase — now!

"Judge it by any means that you judge a bread... by appetite satisfaction, by flavor, by nutrition; and we know you'll ask for Honey Grain... every time!"

Rainbo just will not take second place to anyone in promotion of good eating for its West Texas friends.

Lock Assortment, Tools For Garden, Home, Builder, All At Childress Firm

"Security" is very much in the minds of most people today. And properly so. It would be foolish, and likely impossible, to seriously consider security for the home or business without attention to the locks... such as dead bolts, etc.

And this is where Childress Hardware comes in, for Childress for years has stocked the finest in security hardware. The knowledgeable personnel there will be glad to discuss one's door fastener needs, providing the right lock for the situation at hand.

Not only at this time when crime seems to dominate in so many news reports, but for the entire past half-century, Childress Hardware, at 902 Main, has stocked needs for every season, the practical hardware items appreciated throughout the region.

Outdoor Tool Needs

"It also is pointed out that just as soon as the winter weather abates, most of us are anxious to turn attention to the challenges for house, yard and garden improvements; a busy outdoor time of year has arrived!

The correct tools and equipment can be the big item in convenience and accomplishment, whether the task is lawn and garden work or even a remodeling job for the home."

For these tools, one can rely with certainty on the Fred Childress Hardware Store.

This is a store that meets the season's needs.

For example, do these items have a function in your plans:

- Pruning saws, garden hose, sprinklers (from the smallest to the most elaborate), reels for the garden hose, fertilizer spreaders, walking garden plows, rakes, hoes and spades, shears, trimmers, hose, etc.

For Home Improvement

Then for the home handyman or even the professional builder who appreciates good hand tools, there is a wide stock, including the respected name of Stanley, Crescent, Thorson, Nicholson, Bluegrass, Disston, Lufkin, Plumb and others long associated with quality and integrity in tool-making.

On and on the list could go in enumerating the lawn and the building needs provided at Childress Hardware, but suffice it to say that "if it is in the hardware line, you can get it there."

One can purchase an old-fashioned sprinkling can or a lawn watering device that negotiates your yard; a well pulley or a lamp chimney; actually more than 10,000 different items.

Childress Hardware continues as a popular place with carpenters and craftsmen, who make if headquarters for nails of all sizes, as well as a wide range of other fastenings including stove bolts, capscrews, carriage bolts, machine screws, metal screws, wood screws and brass screws, chain, rope — you name it, for home, industrial or farm use.

Cabinet Hardware

The Fred Childress Hardware also stocks one of the most extensive line of cabinet hardware in the city, with latest designs in hinges, pulls and latches attractively displayed. Here again brands such as Stylecraft, Christensen, Phylrick and Pfanstiel are indicative of top quality and design.

With all this stock, one might have the wrong conception — that the store is messy and ill-arranged — but this is not the case. At Fred Childress Hardware, 902 Main St., the entire stock is grouped for easy viewing and selection. It is a neat, attractive store in which the wife can enjoy shopping.

Player Earns Third Green Coat

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — "I was choking," Gary Player murmured. "I was jumping around with myself."

The intense little South African was describing his 30-minute wait when, after ramming home birdies on seven of his last 10 holes and posting a record-tying 64 Sunday, he watched three golfers try to send the 42nd Masters tournament into the sudden-death playoff he so detests.

One by one they came to the 18th green at the Augusta National Golf Club — and failed. First, defending champion Tom Watson sent his approach shot into the gallery and eventually missed the 10-foot putt he needed. Then unlikely Rod Funseth left his 24-footer an inch to the right of the cup. And finally U.S. Open champion Hubert Green, the frontrunner most of the day and the last man on the course, ran his three-footer past the hole after being disturbed by a radio broadcaster.

Player, waiting in the clubhouse, stood up to accept congratulations for his third victory in the Masters and ninth in the so-called Big Four of golf. A winner here in 1961 and 1974, the 42-year-old globetrotter also has won the U.S. Open once, the PGA twice and the British Open three times.

Player was quick to set his next goal, and just as quick to make known his irritation at being labeled a "fading star" in tournament golf.

"I would like to win a second U.S. Open," he declared. "Only Jack Nicklaus has won the grand slam (all four major tournaments) twice. That is my target at the moment."

His nine birdies included putts of 30 feet on the fourth hole, 12 feet on the nine, 25 feet on the 10th, and 15 on the 12th, 16th and 18th. He tapped in short ones on Nos. 2, 15 and 13. The virtual "gimme" on the par-5, 485-yard 13th came after he left an eagle putt on the lip.

His only bogey came at No. 7, where he missed a five-footer after coming out of a bunker.

Player's 64 — equalling a Masters record also held by four others — gave him a 277 total, 11 under par, and a $45,000 check. Watson finished with a 69, Funseth a 69 and Green a 72 for 278 totals. They each won $21,667.

Tying for fifth at 280 were Bill Kratzert, who shot a closing 69, and Wally Armstrong, 68. Jack Nicklaus shot a final 67 for 281, and Hale Irwin was next with 71 for 82.

Nicklaus birdied four in a row down the stretch Nos. 13-16, but never really got close enough to challenge. That was left to the Watson-Funseth-Green trio.

Watson, who started the day three shots behind Green, was in the lead briefly when he sank an 18-foot eagle putt on the par-5 13th. After bogeying the next

Earl Scudday Challenging The Champs

GEORGE ALLEN, who recently moved to Los Angeles after running out of draft choices and championship hopes at Washington, often has accused the NFL's front office of favoring the Dallas Cowboys. Just because Dallas' Tex Schramm gave Commissioner Pete Rozelle his first job in pro football, Allen insists that the Cowboys get all the breaks in scheduling. Of George is not what you would call a good loser.

Now the league slate for 1978 is out, and it definitely does not help Dallas. In fact, it gives Coach Tom Landry's Super Bowl champs the most severe test in their history. Nine very tough opponents are included in the new 16-game schedule, with major foes back-to-back at crucial times.

Somewhere in Tinsel Town, George must be snickering. There won't be time for Landry to smooth out any kinks in the machinery this season. After an abbreviated four-game exhibition slate in August, the Cowboys jump right into the fray by hosting the Baltimore Colts Sept. 4 in the first of the Monday night spectacles. Hi Dandy, Frank and Howie!

Opening the race against Baltimore is like practicing mouth-to-mouth resuscitation with Jaws.

THE NEXT FOUR weeks will be critical for Dallas' championship hopes. The Cowboys travel to New York for a tussle with the Giants Sept. 10, then fly across the country in the opposite direction to battle the Rams at Los Angeles. Join the Cowboys and see America.

The 'Pokes will find a lot of unfriendly faces at the Coliseum. Good ol' George will be there, of course, eager to carry out owner Carroll Rosenbloom's orders to beat Dallas.

Rosenbloom is so anxious to defeat his former buddy, Schramm, and to win a Super Bowl that he reportedly is going to offer Tampa Bay a bundle of high draft choices and three good players for the rights to Texas' Earl Campbell. Rosenbloom thinks that big Earl might be all the Rams need to go all the way this year.

The veteran Ram players won't be rolling out the welcome wagon, either, after losing two out of their last three playoff games to the Cowboys. The last time Dallas was at the Coliseum, in the 1975 NFC championship tilt, the Cowboys romped to a 37-7 triumph. It was most humiliating to the Hollywood crowd. Rams, like elephants, have long memories.

WHETHER THE COWBOYS win or lose at L.A., they'll be a tired bunch when they finally get back to Texas. No rest awaits them, though, because they must get ready for the arch-rival St. Louis Cardinals. The Cardinals have lost a coach and several of their heralded performers, but the nucleus of the organization remains. They'll give the Cowboys their best shot.

The 'Pokes pack their bags for another long haul the following weekend, when they journey to Washington for a duel with the Redskins Monday night, Oct. 2. Like the Cardinals, the 'Skins have swapped coaches, but still retain the players that have made them so tough in recent years.

Playing a second Monday night game in such a short period is not going to make the Cowboys happy, either. Those video headlines wreck the team's workout routine and frequently result in a letdown the next weekend.

So just five weeks into the season, the Cowboys will have played four toughies and another moderately dangerous team. They will have covered enough air miles to qualify for a commercial pilot's license, and they may have a casualty list that looks like half the team roster.

How will they stand at that point? Some insiders think 4-1, at best, and 2-3, at worst.

THERE WILL BE a lot of rugged games the rest of the way, but nothing that equals that first five weeks. Dallas will play old rival Minnesota in an unusual Thursday night contest Oct. 26, then come back 10 days later with a trip to Miami. But at least there will be a period for recuperation before dueling the Dolphins.

Dallas is back on the Thanksgiving Day double bill this autumn, playing the Redskins at Dallas, then the 'Pokes have another 10-day break before hosting the powerful New England Patriots. The survivors run out the string against the Eagles and the Jets, if there are any survivors.

It is an awesome assignment, from any angle. Cowboy fans will enjoy the slate because the 'Pokes are going to be on national TV more often than that lady with the Swedish accent who sells coffee. Two Monday night games, a Thanksgiving classic and a rare Thursday night tussle offer a lot of variety.

But Landry would settle for less video exposure and an easier schedule. What ever happened to those games we used to call breathers?

Player said he is more than a little bothered to read in U.S. newspapers that he is past his prime because he hasn't won on the American tour since 1974.

"I'm winning all over the damned world," said Player, who has won 112 tournaments. "I don't really know if you people appreciate that. I've got the best golf record in the world."

A runner-up here in 1962 and '65, Player said he could empathize with Watson, Green and Funseth. "Second is the louiest place to finish," he said.

Not that the self-described eternal optimist ever considered that, even though seven shots and eight other players separated him from Green, the leader going into the final round.

Player felt he was playing well with the exception of his putting as he shot 72-69 the first three rounds. A change he'd made a week earlier — stroking, rather than jabbing his putts — wasn't working. "I putted very, very poorly the first three days but very, very well Sunday," he said.

Big Red Machine Quickly Gets In Gear

By The Associated Press

There's one Cincinnati club record that won't be broken this year, no matter how well the Reds play baseball in 1978.

However, that doesn't stop Dan Driessen from wishing thinking.

"I want to see how far we can go without losing a game," says the Cincinnati first baseman.

The Reds, of course, will have to go a long way to beat their consecutive victory record established way back in the 1869-70 seasons, when they were a frightful, free-lancing professional club known as the "Red Stockings." That record — and not surprisingly baseball's all-time record — was 130 straight triumphs.

Sunday's 9-3 victory over the Houston Astros was Cincinnati's fourth in a row this year. And while it hardly threatens the sacred 100-year-old mark, it is a dramatic change from last year's ineffective start when the Reds quickly fell behind the Los Angeles Dodgers, who eventually ran away to the West pennant and finally the National League title.

Incidentally, Cincinnati's start this year is the quickest getway in Reds' history since 1900, in itself a significant accomplishment.

"I would hate to be a pitcher on a team that faces us," said Driessen, who belted a three-run homer as the Reds swept the opening series from the Astros. "You could get mentally tired before facing us."

The Reds' big jump has them a whisker ahead of the Dodgers, also off to a good start. The Dodgers, hoping to replay last year's spectacular beginning, won their third straight game with a 7-4 triumph over the Atlanta Braves.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Philadelphia Phillies routed the St. Louis Cardinals 12-3; the Chicago Cubs edged the Pittsburgh Pirates 4-3; the San Francisco Giants nipped the San Diego Padres 7-5 and the New York Mets defeated the Montreal Expos 6-5 in the first game of a doubleheader before losing the nightcap 5-0.

Along with Driessen's first-inning blast that got the Reds off to a 3-0 start, Cesar Geronimo and Joe Morgan added two-run homers to the Cincinnati attack. Righthander Tom Hume, elevated to a starting role when Paul Moskau was shipped to the minors last week, survived a rocky start to gain the victory. He gave up three runs in the second, including two on bases-loaded walks, then settled down, blanking the Astros over the next five innings.

"Last year we struggled against Houston, even though we thought we were the better club overall," said Driessen, referring to the Astros' upper hand in the season series in 1977. "This year we have the relievers who can do the job. That's the key: You have to have good pitching to beat them. They have a super club right now."

About Cincinnati's good start, Manager Sparky Anderson speaks almost in mythical terms.

"When you are winning, things seem to happen," noted Anderson. "Everything goes better. The offense makes the defense work. With hitters hitting, there are runners on base, lots of runs scoring and bases stolen."

Dodgers 7, Braves 4

Steve Garvey blasted a three-run homer in the sixth inning, helping Los Angeles beat Atlanta. Reggie Smith and Ron Cey were on base with leadoff singles when Garvey connected against Atlanta starter Tommy Boggs, making his first appearance for the Braves since coming to the team in a trade from the Texas Rangers.

Garvey's shot gave the Dodgers their first lead of the game, at 5-4, and they added two insurance runs in the eighth on RBI singles by Rick Monday and Vic Davalillo.

"He sure hit the ball real good," said Dodger Manager Tom Lasorda of Garvey. "He's one of the pure hitters in the game. When this team hits the ball like we're capable of hitting, look out! This team can hit the ball out of Grand Canyon."

Phillies 12, Cardinals 3

Bob Boone and Mike Schmidt each socked three-run homers and Garry Maddox drove in three with a pair of singles as Philadelphia beat St. Louis. Lethander Randy Lerch earned the victory, giving up three hits, including a two-run homer by Keith Hernandez.

John Urrea, raked for seven runs on seven hits in three innings, was the loser.

Cubs 4, Pirates 3

Bill Buckner broke an eighth-inning tie with a solo home run off Bruce Kison to boost Chicago over Pittsburgh. With two outs in the Cub eighth, Buckner drove Kison's first home run this season, unlocking a 3-3 game.

Buckner also rapped two earlier singles and stole a pair of bases off Pirate starter Jerry Reuss as the Cubs gained their first victory of the season after two defeats in Pittsburgh.

"The home run was a mistake, but I got under it a little," said Buckner. "I was trying to get a single, but I got under it a little."

Former Lubbock Monterey standout Donnie Moore gained the victory in relief.

Giants 7, Padres 5

Pinch-hitter Mike Ivie broke a 2-2 tie with an eighth-inning sacrifice fly, leading San Francisco over San Diego. Ivie hit the sacrifice fly to left field with the bases loaded and Larry Herndon followed with a single off San Diego reliever Rolie Fingers to score the game's final run.

The Giants trailed 5-1 after the Padres scored four runs in the third, including three on Dave Winfield's bases-loaded triple off San Francisco's Lynn McGlothen. But they came back to tie the game with the help of Willie McCovey's 494th home run of his career.

Mets 6-0, Expos 5-5

Steve Henderson's pinch-hit grand-slam home run and Bruce Boieslain's two-run shot gave New York's first game victory over Montreal.

Ross Grimsley, making his first National League appearance since 1973, pitched a three-hitter as Montreal won the second game from the Mets and its first of the 1978 season.

Bamberger Enjoys Grand Slam Opening Against Former Team

Opening 3 Grand Slams Former Team

By The Associated Press

It was a grand slam opening in Milwaukee. The Brewers were simply grand and the Baltimore Orioles got slammed.

After managing just 44 runs in 15 meetings with Baltimore last year, the Brewers got off to a blistering start, pounding out 38 hits and scoring 40 runs in sweeping the shellshocked Orioles by scores of 11-3, 16-3 and 13-5.

And to add insult to injury, the Brewers' new manager is none other than George Bamberger, who spent the last decade as the Orioles' pitching coach, where he had the pleasure of tutoring some 19-20 game winners.

"It could be worse... like if I was still their pitching coach," he cracked.

The Brewers' offensive fireworks included an American League homer when they unloaded a grand slam record in each game — Sixto Lezcano on Friday, Gorman Thomas on Saturday and Cecil Cooper on Sunday. That tied the major league mark set by Brooklyn in 1901 and matched by Pittsburgh in 1925.

"The guy I feel sorry for is Ray Miller, who replaced me for the Orioles," Bamberger said. "If I were still their coach they probably would have been whipped the same way. I'll tell you one thing — I'm glad they're leaving town because they're about ready to smoke somebody."

Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver may have been wearing his roughest-colored glasses when he announced bravely: "I'm not worried about our pitching. Don't forget Jim Palmer would have pitched the first game here if he were healthy."

But Palmer, the Orioles' long-time ace, has been bothered by a tender arm and won't pitch for another week or so. If he still hurts, you can bet Weaver will be plenty worried.

Meanwhile, Bamberger denied that his long association with the Orioles' pitchers gave his hitters any sort of advantage.

Royals 5, Indians 4

"I wasn't surprised by what I did out there," said Busby, who blanked Cleveland on two hits for 1-3 innings in the rain and cold in his first big league outing since July 1976 after undergoing arm and knee surgery. "That's my job. What surprised me was that I made the ballbuck at all, considering how I felt before spring training."

"This team had won two straight division championships without me and I felt I had no chance to make the ballbuck. Now, obviously, I feel different."

Red Sox 5, White Sox 0

Bill Lee scattered seven hits, walked one and fanned five in pitching the Red Sox to their first victory of the season while Jim Rice blasted a home run and a pair of singles and scored three times. Three of Boston's runs were unearned, including two in the first inning when the White Sox committed three errors and a passed ball.

Yankees 7, Rangers 1

Ed Figueroa retired the last 19 batters in handcutting Texas on three singles while the Yankees rapped out 15 hits, including two singles and two doubles by Reggie Jackson and RBI singles by Willie Randolph and Mickey Rivers in a tie-breaking sixth inning. Figueroa called it "one of the best three or four games I've ever had."

Tigers 8, Blue Jays 4

Detroit rapped seven hits and drew three walks in a seven-run second inning, with Rusty Staub singling home a pair. The Tigers struck together a walk, three singles, another walk and three more singles before the first out was recorded in the inning.

Angels 3, A's 2

Joe Rudi dove in two runs with a homer and double. The third-inning home run off rookie Alan Wirth was Rudi's first since he suffered a broken right hand last June 26. "I'm still getting the strength back in my hand," he said. "The doctor said it would take a year."

Twins 8, Mariners 6

Roy Smalley's bases-loaded sacrifice fly and Bobby Randall's run-scoring grounder in Minnesota's three-run fifth inning wiped out a one-run Seattle lead and helped the Twins withstand a grand slam by Leon Roberts of the Mariners.

Player's Card Reads: Have Clubs, Will Travel

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Special Correspondent

AUGUSTA, Ga. — He is 150 pounds of gristle, guts and unquenchable pride.

"I don't say I am the best golfer in the world. I will say I have the best record in the world," South Africa's Gary Player declared after winning his third Masters crown Sunday.

It followed an unbelievable surge from seven shots back by the plucky little guy of 42 who was discounted as too old, too rusty and too muscle-bound to meet the challenge of such younger lions as Tom Watson, Hubie Green and Jack Nicklaus.

What did Gary do? He cut them off at the legs with a course record-tying 64 that put him level with Ben Hogan in major championships won — nine.

It probably was Player's most satisfying victory. "It was getting to be a sore point with me," he said. "I read where you fellows said I was a fading star and you were asking why I didn't win any more. And earlier in the week I read where Robert Trent Jones (the famed golf architect) said I didn't have a chance because I was tight in the muscles.

"Bull." The golfing gold prospector from Johannesburg refuses to downgrade Nicklaus, whom he counts as his best friend and acknowledges to be No. 1 in the world, but he bristles when aspersions are cast on his own achievements.

In his mind, Nicklaus' record is based on major championships — an unparalleled 16 — and success on the American tour where he has scored 65 victories and won more than $3 million. Gary likes to consider himself a unique man of the world.

Have clubs, will travel.

"I have played everywhere," he said. "I have won 112 tournaments. I can't even count all the continents on which I have played. Golf is a different game wherever you play — different conditions, different balls, different ways you have to maneuver.

"I am not discrediting Jack but I'd like to see him make five round-trips a year to South Africa the way I make five trips a year to play in this country. Then I'd like to see how well he did."

Player is proud that he is one of four men (the others are Nicklaus, Ben Hogan and Gene Sarazen) to have won the four major championships — the Masters, U.S. and British Opens and American PGA — at least once and to be one step away from a second sweep. Another U.S. Open would do it. He is pointing to Denver.

Gary feels, perhaps justifiably, that he is not given enough credit for his many international triumphs — 11 South African crowns, seven Australian, numerous Japanese, World Cup and others.

He scoffs at the suggestion that advancing age will slow him down. "A man should win as easily at 50 as at 30 years old," he said. "I think I'll still be winning when I am 50."

The lean, 5-foot-8 Player has had a physical fitness fetish ever since he started playing the world tour at the age of 20. He won his first U.S. tour tournament in 1957, the first of his three Masters in 1961, the U.S. Open in 1965 when he donated his entire $25,000 purse to the U.S. caddy fund. He has won British Open crowns in the 1960s, the 1960s and the 1970s.

"I will win in the 1980s, too," he says confidently. He has followed bizarre diets. He used to have bananas delivered to the locker room in bunches. Later he went on a raisin kick and he passed out boxes of raisins to players and the press.

He lifted weights to gain shoulder and arm strength, lengthening his drives by 25 yards. Once in Spain he suffered an injury doing pushups in the bathtub and had to pull out of the World Cup.

"I never miss my exercise," he said. "The other night after the Masters dinner I got home at 10:45 and did my exercises until past midnight. I built my muscle strength by squatting 325 pounds every night."

The 1978 Masters champion is one of a rare breed — intense, dedicated, highly competitive, unafraid to change a putting stroke he's used for 20 years — yet a sensitive family man who maintains an orderly set of priorities.

"I have never seen a man," Arnold Palmer said, "driven by such momentum to succeed."

Gervin, Thompson Sprees End Year

By The Associated Press

The National Basketball Association's 602-game regular season has finally drawn to a close, and it's hard to conceive of a more hectic finish:

• David Thompson scored 73 points Sunday, the third-highest one-game total in NBA history, only to have George Gervin respond with 63 and beat him out for the scoring championship.

• John Havlicek bade a tearful farewell after 16 glorious seasons, bowing out to the cheers of 15,276 at Boston Garden and an audience of millions watching on television by leading the Celtics to one fast victory, 131-114 over the Buffalo Braves.

• Chicago Coach Ed Badger resigned and was succeeded by the popular Jerry Sloan, who promptly lost to Atlanta 99-85 in his debut.

• Milwaukee moved into the playoffs as Golden State was beaten by Seattle 111-106 in the very last regular season game to be completed. Had Golden State won, it would have gotten that final playoff berth.

Thompson, the 6-foot-4 guard of the Denver Nuggets who can become a free agent this summer, took a temporary lead in the scoring race with his big effort in a 139-137 loss to the Detroit Pistons. Only Wilt Chamberlain has scored more points in one game, with marks of 100 and 78.

Gervin was awakened from an afternoon nap and informed of Thompson's big day.

"David T. with 73! My oh my and whoooo!" he exclaimed. Told how many points he needed to win the scoring crown, Gervin said, "I haven't ever hit 58, but I'm going for them. David went first, so it's all out front for me to match."

The 6-foot-7 guard of the San Antonio Spurs came out firing against the Jazz at New Orleans, and while he didn't quite match Thompson's 73, he got his 59th point — and the scoring title — by the middle of the third quarter of the Jazz' 153-132 victory. He sat out most of the remainder of the game, scoring just 10 in the second half.

Jazz 153, Spurs 132

Gervin, who hit 23 of 49 shots, finished with a 27.22 scoring average to Thompson's 27.18 and succeeded New Orleans' Pete Maravich as the NBA scoring king.

Included in Gervin's closing effort was a 33-point second period, the highest scoring quarter in NBA history. It bettered Thompson's 32-point first quarter posted only hours earlier, which in turn had beaten a 31-point quarter posted by Chamberlain in his 100-point game on March 2, 1962.

"That was a phenomenal performance," said Spurs Coach Doug Moe. "We were going to George exclusively and the Jazz were trying to stop him exclusively and it was something to watch."

San Antonio's Louie Dampier, the last remaining American Basketball Association original, scored his 15,000th career point in the game.

Aaron James scored 30 points and four other New Orleans players had 20 or more as the Jazz rolled up its highest point total ever. It was New Orleans' 39th victory of the season, also a club high.

Pistons 139, Nuggets 137

As for Thompson, who hit 28 of 38 from the field, Detroit guard Jim Price said, "Individually, it was the greatest performance I've ever seen. He can score so easily. There's no one like him. He's the best player in the game today."

"They got me the ball and I was hitting," said Thompson, who like Gervin had 53 points in the first half. "Everything was going in for me in the first half. I couldn't keep up with the pace in the second half, though. I got a little tired."

Detroit outscored Denver 69-54 in the second half to win, Al Skinner getting 12 of his 27 points in the final period.

Celtics 131, Braves 114

"It's been a long journey," Havlicek told the crowd at Boston Garden during emotion-charged halftime ceremonies. "I cannot turn back the clock."

He then proceeded to do just that in closing out his brilliant career, playing 41 minutes and scoring 29 points. Havlicek was at his best at the end of his NBA record 1,270th regular season game, getting nine points in just over a minute before being taken out — to a thunderous ovation — with 15 seconds to go.

"I have had 16 good years and I wanted to go out contributing," said Havlicek. "This game was the highlight of the whole season. It's over now, and I'm grateful for the way it turned out."

Hawks 99, Bulls 85

Early Sunday, Badger resigned as coach of the Chicago Bulls, reportedly to seek the head coaching job at the University of Cincinnati. Sloan, Badger's assistant and a former Bulls star, was named interim coach of the club and is the leading candidate to get the job on a permanent basis.

Atlanta spoiled Sloan's debut by outscoring the Bulls 20-4 during one stretch of the third period to take command. John Drew and Steve Hawes led the Hawks with 19 points apiece.

Sonics 111, Warriors 105

Seattle scored the first 10 points of the fourth quarter to take a 94-84 lead and the Warriors could come no closer than five after that as they finished one game behind Milwaukee in the playoff race.

Fred Brown scored 24 points and Marvin Webster 21 as Seattle tied a team record with its 47th victory of the season.

Bullets 123, 76ers 113

Washington got 29 points from veteran reserve guard Charles Johnson, signed in midseason as a free agent, in beating Philadelphia, pulling away from the Sixers in the second half to finish with the third-best record in the Eastern Conference.

Cavaliers 120, Kings 117

Cleveland gained the home-court advantage for its playoff series against New York by beating the Kings behind 31 points by Campy Russell and 30 by Austin Carr. Scott Wedman, who could have become a free agent but signed a new three-year contract before the game, led the Kings with 23 points.

Blazers 114, Lakers 99

Tom Owens, still playing center for Portland in place of the injured Bill Walton, scored 23 as the Blazers beat the Lakers and finished with a 58-24 record, best in the NBA.

"What automatic transmission did for driving, fast-cast ThumBar™ does for fishing."

1976 AND 1977 B.A.S.S. Master Classic Champion Rick Clunn of Montgomery, Texas

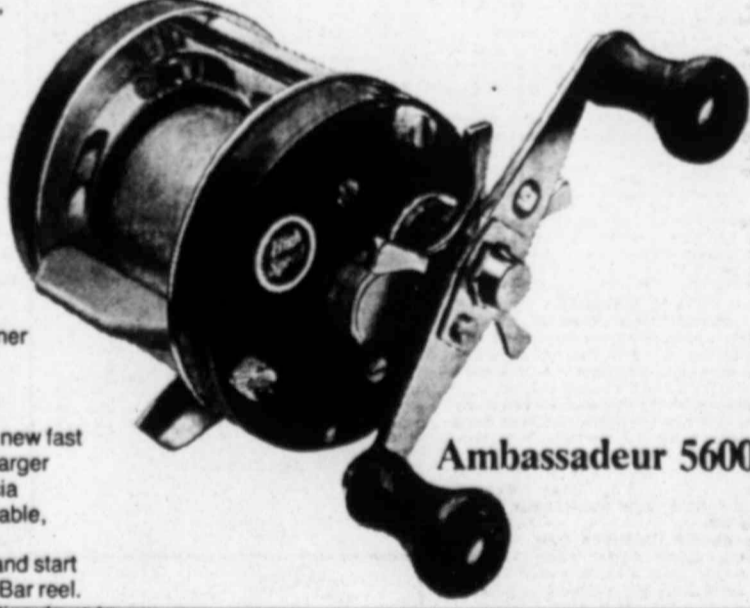

Ambassadeur's exclusive "fast-cast" ThumBar is the most revolutionary advance in baitcasting in years. Designed to give perfect control, ThumBar shifts into free spool with one silk-smooth touch of your thumb. Then, because ThumBar is located directly beneath your thumb, you're automatically in position to control the spool before, during and after your cast. And ThumBar's spool can never disengage or trip accidentally while cranking in line or playing a fish.

ThumBar gives you more casts in an average day, too. And that can mean more fish by the end of the day. Because the more time your lure spends in the water, the better your chances are of catching fish. And the easy-to-palm ThumBar makes handling a pleasure, all day long. Every ThumBar comes with classic Garcia Ambassadeur features such as:

- Dual braking systems for greater freedom from backlash
- Power precision gearing and stainless steel ball bearings
- High-speed 4.7 to 1 gear ratios for greater ease when buzzing spinner baits
- And power handles, standard on all models

One hand. One motion. One complete cast. It's that simple. Garcia's ThumBar reel is available in three versatile sizes. The all new fast retrieve, narrow spool 4600C, classic standard size 5600C and the larger 6600C. All have the same built-in quality that's made the name Garcia Ambassadeur the one you can trust whenever you're looking for durable, dependable tackle.

So join two time B.A.S.S. Master Classic Champion Rick Clunn, and start trusting all your catches to a Garcia Ambassadeur "fast-cast" ThumBar reel. You can get your hands on any one of these terrific new reels by getting down to see your nearest fishing tackle dealer today. They're the reels that make baitcasting simple.

Now, for a limited time, you can get a

Dickey Texas Relays MVP

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Relay fans must be wondering how halfback-sprinter Curtis Dickey does at other sports.

The Texas A&M football star was an overwhelming choice as the outstanding individual performer at the relays after winning a special 100-meter race against Olympic competition and anchoring the Aggies to an upset victory in the 400-meter relay.

New Mexico, winner of the university distance medley on Saturday and the 3,200-meter relay on Sunday, was easily voted the best team.

Dickey, a 205-pound sophomore, got banged up in a Friday football scrimmage but flashed to a 10.22-second victory in the 100 meters on Saturday. He outran Olympians Johnny "Lam" Jones of Texas, and Ainsley Armstrong of Trinidad, as well as Bill Collins, a member of the world record holding 400-meter relay team.

In the 400 relay Sunday, Dickey got a slick handoff from teammate Leslie Kerr and powered past Texas Southern and Michigan runners in the winning time of 39.95.

Texas Southern had set a meet record of 39.87 in the prelims Saturday but slipped to 40.13 for second in the finals.

Dickey, the NCAA indoor champion in the 60 meters, said the races at the relays marked the first time he had been on a track since spring football practice started two weeks ago.

New Mexico, paced by African runners, won the distance medley in 9:34.98 and the 3,200 meters in 7:20.14. In addition, New Mexico was second to Oklahoma in the sprint medley relay Saturday, and Fawcett Kimiayo won the 400-meter hurdles in 50.15 and was second in the 110-meter high hurdles in 13.70. Harrison Koroso of New Mexico was second in the 3,000-meter steeplechase in 8:44.19.

Oklahoma, a Texas-Drake-Kansas winner in the sprint medley last year, started another possible triple this year with its sprint medley triumph in 3:17.62.

Other relay winners Sunday included Arkansas in the 6,400 meters, 16:28.06; Southern Methodist, university distance medley, 9:54.27; Louisiana State University, 800 meters, 1:22.87; Texas Southern, University-College.

Hub Men Win

SLATON (Special) — Steve Lester and Mark Cantrell of Lubbock teamed up to win the Slaton Partnership Golf tournament Sunday. The Hub City pair finished the 36-hole event with a 139, one stroke better than Jack Turney and Kevin Heise of Reese AFB.

Kelly Robinson and Gary Johnson defeated Bill Hart and Richard Melton on the first hole of sudden death to win the A flight after finishing play with 150 scores.

Al Self and M. Brown of Andrews also won a playoff to capture the B flight title. The duo downed Fred Husky and Tommy Evans of Lubbock. Both teams finished regulation with 155s.

university 1,600 meters, 3:05.29; and Prairie View A&M, college 1,600, 3:12.38.

The 51st relays were controversial in that Coach Cleburne Price of Texas, the meet director, switched the Friday night-Saturday schedule to Saturday-Sunday to boost attendance.

The two-day crowd of 15,000 included only 5,000 spectators Sunday in humid, overcast weather, and a probable winner — Henry Marsh of Brigham Young — skipped the 3,000-meter steeplechase because he is a Mormon and does not compete on the Sabbath.

Coach Clyde Hart of Baylor, a Baptist school, also was considered boycotting the relays. "But I didn't think it would be fair to the kids. I wish I had the guts BYU has," he said.

Texas, the host school, was virtually shut out, and Price said of the gigantic track and field meet — "As a meet director, I'm tickled to death. As a head track coach, I'm crying."

Imported Car Sales Reach Record Levels

DETROIT (AP) — Sales of imported cars hit record levels in March and sent the auto industry above the one million sales mark for the first time since October.

At the same time, the import share of the U.S. market dropped slightly as domestic automakers enjoyed a relatively strong March themselves.

March import sales, reported Wednesday, totaled 192,500, up 2.5 percent from the previous March record set last year. That left the imports 6 percent ahead of last year's all-time record pace through the first three months of 1978.

But their share of the U.S. market fell to 17.9 percent in March, compared to 19 percent to 20 percent in the first two months of 1978. U.S. automakers last month were just 1.4 percent off their own near-record sales of March 1977.

The figures brought the total auto industry for March to an annual sales rate of 11.5 million cars, the highest of the year. The industry's March total was 1,075,050 cars, less than 1 percent below March 1977.

Among major imports, only Honda fell short of the record March 1977 levels. Toyota was up 4 percent with sales of 42,785 cars. Datsun broke its own one-month record and jumped 14 percent to 40,693, and Volkswagen climbed 1.3 percent to 23,892. Honda dropped 7.3 percent to 23,139.

Foreign automakers sold more cars in this country last year than ever before, and many analysts have said the wave of imports here had peaked.

But at the same time the total small-car market in this country has swelled, and both foreign manufacturers and Detroit have taken advantage of it. A company analyst who asked not to be identified said Detroit's small-car sales are up about 25 percent this year compared to the imports' 6 percent.

But imports have broken sales records in each of the first three months of 1977. Sales of Japanese-built cars continue to climb despite big price boosts forced by devaluation of the dollar compared to the Japanese yen.

Eskimos Expected To Go Along With Bowhead Whale Quotas

By ALICE Z. CUNEO
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — Eskimos and the government apparently have reached agreement on a way to preserve native culture and the endangered bowhead whale.

"Despite their early stance, all evidence indicates the Eskimos will go along with IWC (International Whaling Commission) quota recommendations," said William Aron of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

The commission last year set a quota on the number of bowheads which could be killed in the spring hunt, setting a quota of 12 whales taken or 18 struck, whichever comes first.

Scientists believe only 500 to 2,000 bowheads still exist.

Government records showed the 1977 spring hunt resulted in 26 whales brought ashore and 79 struck but lost under the ice.

The Eskimos fought the commission quota ruling to the Supreme Court and later threatened to continue the whale hunt in defiance of the government because they considered it vital to survival of their culture.

The hunt, which takes place in spring and fall, is accompanied by native ceremonies. Whale meat is used for food.

But conservationists complained — and the IWC agreed — that the "traditional" 19th century methods of whaling used by the Eskimos were wasteful. Far more whales are struck than killed with traditional whaling methods.

quired by Commerce Department rules. But the department has provided that a permit can be conferred upon them without application.

Government reports indicated the 12 whales will provide only half the nutrition the 4,500 Eskimo villagers need to survive the cold winter.

DR. LAMB

Drug Can Cause Fatigue

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — Four years ago I suffered severe pains in my arms which was diagnosed as angina. After a few months with experimental pills, the doctor put me on Inderal. This has considerably decreased the amount of nitroglycerine tablets I was taking, but I have such little energy and cannot walk a great deal. I also find I must live a very quiet life to avoid the arm pain.

Could you tell me if Inderal would cause this lack of energy? Just what does Inderal do for angina? Is it necessary to continue taking Inderal for the rest of my life? I am in my late 60s. Will this medication cause any side-effects? I have been able to get so little information on this.

DEAR READER — The best way to explain the action of Inderal (propranolol hydrochloride) is to say it limits the action of adrenaline in your body. The adrenaline response in your heart muscle increases heart work and increases the chances of heart pain if you have angina pain from heart disease. Of course the blockage of adrenaline action also helps control certain heart irregularities and also lowers high blood pressure. It is a very useful medicine when given in the right amounts in the right case.

Yes, it has side effects as do almost all known medicines, and it can cause fatigue. The problem is that poor circulation, which you undoubtedly have, also causes fatigue, as does a host of medical problems and even psychological problems. So it is not possible to say that Inderal is the cause of your fatigue. You could simply be depressed by the imposed limited activity your condition dictates.

The likelihood is that you will have to continue to take Inderal or some new medicine to control or prevent angina pain. The biggest aid to decreasing angina for most patients is significant weight reduction — down to the point that there is no underlying fat under the skin. If you have heart pain or high blood pressure, the best thing you can do is to get as skinny as a rail. Also in selected cases a supervised exercise program along with weight reduction may help a good deal. Eliminating salt in the diet is also a help to many. These measures may significantly decrease your need for medicines.

If these measures do not help sufficiently and you still have so much pain that your life style is unpleasant to you, then you could consider a coronary bypass operation. Authorities seem to agree that even if this does not prolong one's life, in many cases it may improve the quality. If that is the goal I think it is better to lose the weight and make the adjustments that can be made first; then see if you still need surgery. In certain instances such an operation may be life saving.

To give you a better understanding of your heart pain I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-10, Heart Attack, Myocardial Infarction, Angina Pectoris. Other readers who want to understand what these are and how they are recognized can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for this issue to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Indians Settle In Country

"I guess this will be the 'something borrowed' for my daughter's wedding."

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. (AP) — It has been more than four years since "Grandfather" settled his people on their 200 acres in hill and brush country near here.

His idea was that the salvation of the urban American Indian lies in going back to the land — not reservation land, but their own small, self-sufficient communities. So far, his plan seems to be working.

Grandfather is Semu Huaute, a full-blooded Chumash medicine man who, with 400 Indians, purchased the land that he hopes someday will be both a permanent home for his people and an Indian cultural center.

The settlement, known as Red Wind, has grown from a collection of shacks and teepees, to 18 families and a population of 71, drawn from a number of different tribes.

Two large hogans have been built for school rooms. A well has been sunk 500 feet and the Indians grow fruit.

Local church and other private contributions paid for the hogans. Students and faculty from California State Polytechnic University here have helped with construction and cultivation.

Rancher Finds Remains Of Rare Reptile

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — A new set of rare dinosaur bones has been discovered in an agricultural area where the reptile lived 65 to 70 million years ago, the University of California announced.

University paleontologists said a two-foot section of the snout, complete with several long teeth, a bone from the lower jaw and a femur were found last summer near Jordan, Mont., by rancher Bob Bufington.

The fossilized remains are of Tyrannosaurus rex, largest meat-eating animal to walk the earth and a favorite monster in movies and illustrations.

The paleontologists said finding even a single bone or tooth is unusual, leading scientists to speculate the beast was rare even in its own time.

William Clemens, professor of paleontology, said he hoped additional bones would be found at the site this summer.

Most remains of the giant reptile have been found in eastern Montana and North Dakota. In the age of the great dinosaurs, the area would have had a subtropical climate.

Tyrannosaurus rex weighed 8 tons, was some 50 feet long and stood close to 20 feet tall. It was characterized by a thick tail longer than its main body, massive hind legs, extremely tiny front legs and a head some 5 feet long.

Clemens said the recent find is interesting but not as interesting as the question of what caused the dinosaurs and certain other animals of the era to suddenly die out millions of years ago.
