Insurance Industry Fears Hurricane Disaster

AUSTIN (AP) - The Texas coast has escaped hurricanes since 1970, but such a catastrophe could bring on the "biggest disaster in insurance history," says the chairman of a special insurance pool.

Don Manthe of Dallas said that the Texas Catastrophe Property Insurance Association — "catpool" — is a "potential monster" with $1.6 billion in property

Already, Manthe said, there are approximately 52,000 risks insured in the 14county coastal area served by the association.

More than 62 percent of the coverage is concentrated in Galveston and Brazoria Counties, with approximately 52 percent in Galveston County alone. "We have always known we were in charge of a potential monster, but we had the pool would not keep getting bigger," Manthe said. "The shocking reality of what will surely come with another Hurricane Carla has obligated us to take further action now."

Carla hit Texas in 1961 and caused an estimated $408 million in damage, he

"A major catastrophe could cause some company insolvencies, restrict building for years to come, make it extremely difficult to obtain some kinds of property insurance, and send property insurance rates higher than they are now," he said. "Also, more importantly, lives and property would be threatened during The pool was started in 1971, one year after Hurricane Celia struck and caused insured losses totaling more than $350 million. Celia, Manthe said, made it difficult - if not impossible - to get windstorm insurance in coastal counties. In "catpool" all insurance companies doing business in Texas combine their resources to offer year-round coverage for wind and hail damage. It is primarily designed, however, to cover losses from hurricanes or other catastrophes.

This year, Manthe said, the association plans to step up on-site inspections of new buildings insured in the windstorm pool to be certain that they comply with building code requirements.

He said the association had already spread the liability, "particularly to larger companies which had legally been able to avoid it."

Trustees Consider Additional Busing

Lubbock Independent School District officials indicated today some white students will be assigned to non-neighborhood schools for not one but two semesters of their elementary education as a result of the latest court-ordered integration requirements.

But the district's board of trustees, meeting in a three-hour executive session, was unable to agree on where those students will come from and how the board's previously announced integration plan would be affected.

'No action today," board president Charles Waters said after the meeting. He said the "board discussed several alternatives to amend the plan" to integrate grades one and two, as U.S. District Judge Halbert O. Woodward has ordered. However, Waters added, "We did not arrive at any decision... "We couldn't agree upon the way to do it. This thing is so complicated," Waters

He said the board will hold another closed-door session Tuesday at 7:15 a.m. School trustees "expect to come up with an acceptable plan at that time," Waters

Meanwhile, he said, Superintendent Ed But because of "certain complications," figures" on some of the options discussed.

We need to see all the ramifications of. changes we contemplate to make," Wa-

Woodward this month approved the board's proposal for integration of grades three through six at the minority elementary schools of northside Mahon and Guadalupe and eastside Posey, Martin and Wheatley. That plan involves a crossassignment of students between those five minority campuses and the city's 16 predominantly white schools.

Under the plan, each minority child would be bused to a white school for up to two years of his elementary education, and each white child would be bused to a minority school for one semester of his elementary career.

In approving that proposal, however, Woodward said the district must "submit a new plan or modify the previous submission" to provide for integration of grades one and two.

Waters said the board is "attempting to change the (original) plan as little as possible" and to include integration of grades one and two as an amendment.

Change Mapped In Canal Treaty will propose a reservation to the second Hayakawa said, "It is possible that I may not vote for it (the treaty)."

Panama Canal Treaty which they hope will end the threat to approval of the agreements, congressional sources said

The reservation, or condition, will state in firm terms that the United States has no intention of intervening in Panama's internal affairs.

As presently drafted, the reservation would say that no action taken by the United States under the treaties should be interpreted "as intervention in the internal affairs of Panama and will not be directed at the territorial integrity and the political independence of Panama."

The new reservation would be voted on Tuesday, just before the final vote on the second treaty. That treaty would gradually turn over the canal to Panama by the year 2006. The first treaty, to guarantee the waterway's neutrality, was approved by the Senate 68-32 on March 16.

Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd scheduled a meeting today with Sen. Dennis DeConcini, who authored another reservation. DeConcini's condition upon the treaty would give the United States the right to use military forces to keep the canal open, even if its operations were threatened by problems inside Panama - such as labor strikes.

An aide to DeConcini, D-Ariz., said the senator has not yet seen the proposed reservation meant to offset the impact of

The market was further helped when the government reported March industrial production rose 1.4 percent, the sharp-est rise since a 1.6 percent jump in March 1977, and business sales climbed 3.5 per-cent in February from a 3.2 percent slide during snowy January.

He said both Japan and the United States realize their economic situations are critical, and are in the process of correcting fundamental problems in order to promote world economic recovery and

Jackson said he was particularly angered when farmers were turned away from National Democratic Party headquarters in Washington.

The emergency bill was defeated 268 to 150 after many influential House members said the vote would be close, and Jackson thinks yet-unpublicized White House pressure behind the scenes turned the vote around at the last minute.

"We had signed commitments from some that they would definitely vote for it, and they got their minds switched," he said. "I don't think they switched their minds. They got their minds switched.

Time Short For Filing Tax Return

Monday is not a holiday, but it will be the end of a long three-day weekend for some Lubbock area residents.

Those who have complicated tax re-turns or trouble with numbers will have spent it indoors with pencils, receipts, tax forms and periodic chills when the figures turned out wrong.

And if they take until near the midnight Monday deadline to mail returns, they can drive down to the post office for some of the company that misery loves.

Carlos Rojas of the Internal Revenu Service in Lubbock said this morning that 30 percent of the taxpayers wait until the

Conference Slated On New Agency

By CHRIS CONNELL WASHINGTON (AP) — Two months after President Carter renewed a campaign promise to create a separate Department of Education, his administration is telling Congress what it wants to include in the new agency

Budget director James McIntyre was to confer with the president today before testifying about the administration's preferences to the Senate Governmental. Affairs Committee

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D. Conn., the committee chairman and a former secretary of health, education and welfare for two years in the Kennedy Administration, has 57 sponsors for his bill to establish a new department.

White House officials were still conferring Thursday about which functions to include in the new department and which to exclude.

Only about half the more than $20 billion that the government spends on education passes through HEW.

Sources within and outside the government say the new department was not likely to include HEW's Head Start program for preschoolers, the National Endowment for the Arts and Humanities or the Agriculture Department's school lunch program.

It will be up to Congress to make the final decisions. Although the president has broad powers to reorganize the executive branch, he cannot create a new department without legislative approval by Congress.

The nucleus of the new department would be HEW's Office of Education and the rest of its education division. The Veterans Administration's education programs were not expected to be shifted to the new department.

Veterans' groups protested in February when HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. said that the VA programs were among the "candidates for inclusion."

Califano had been a leading opponent of the effort to separate education pro-grams from HEW. Several years ago, he wrote in his book, "A Presidential Nation," that presidents need fewer, not more, Cabinet officials reporting to

Some supporters of a separate department charge that Califano was trying to undermine the move by even suggesting that VA programs might be involved.

Most public education groups support creation of a new department, saying that education has not been given a prominent place in federal policymaking.

Some college organizations fear that elementary and secondary school interests would dominate the new department.

The largest teachers' group, the National Education Association, is an ardent advocate of the change, but its rival, the American Federation of Teachers, is showed that the U.S. power of the pos-twar world is dwindling. It can no longer call the shots as a superpower. It can only try to accommodate the changes taking place and to establish new relationships with the developing countries.

Carter was on the side of the angels. But as in all complicated political problems, expectations were higher than the president wanted to go, or more probably, felt he could go.

On the problems of human rights, Carter had a broad general discussion of the subject with Brazil's military ruler, Ernesto Geisel. Carter was not in a position to get down to specifics, but leaders of the moderate opposition to the government's policies told him there had been some improvement.

Carter also left Brazil convinced that there are now fewer political prisoners in Brazil's jails and that those in power have become less oppressive.

Talking with Nigerian military leader Olegusun Obasanjo, Carter made it clear that the United States is strongly behind the moves for majority rule in Southwest. Africa (Namibia) and Rhodesia. But Obasanjo wanted the president to get much tougher with South Africa, which still controls Namibia, and to impose a total embargo on that white-ruled country. Carter has said that if South Africa rejects a U.N.-backed solution for Namibia, it would precipitate more "serious" differences between the United States and South Africa.

On the U.S. side, Carter would have preferred to look at the Soviet-Cuban intervention in the Horn of Africa with more concern. Obasanjo did speak of Africans finding the solutions to their own problems, but he apparently does not look at the presence of Cuban troops in Ethiopia in the same light as Carter.

Only in Liberia, did Carter find that the United States is loved. The Liberians turned out in full force for Carter's grand finale in Africa, giving him a welcoming reception that presidents in the past have known when they traveled to far off

Carter's Not A WIN-ner THE PROBLEM, as usual, with President

Carter's version of ex-President Ford's Whip Inflation Now program is that Carter's rhetoric doesn't match his record. Carter sounds very fiscally responsible and middle of the road, eschewing the more reckless options-such as mandatory wage and price controls-that he might have pro-

In fact, there is much in the President's anti-inflation program that would be good if he really meant it. Aye, there's the rub. 'Our first and most direct efforts (to bring inflation and unemployment under control) are within government itself," Carter brave-

"WHERE GOVERNMENT contributes to inflation, that contribution must be lessened," he pledged. "Where government expenditures are too high, that spending must be reduced. Where government imposes an inflationary burden on business, labor and consumers, those burdens must be lightened. Where government can set an example of restraint and efficiency, it must do so.

Our hands are poised for loud applause, but are stilled in mid-air as we take a look at the record.

President Carter has brazenly proposed a record budget next year which would perpetuate $50 billion-a-year deficits. That hardmatches his rhetorical assertion that "spending must be reduced."

He promises to hold federal pay raises this year to "about" 5.5 percent as an "example" to the private sector, adding gratuitously, "this year, I also will freeze the pay of all executive appointees and members of my senior staff.

What he failed to add was that the staff salaries he proposes to "freeze this year" were raised, by him, by 25 per cent in March, 1977, and by another 7 per cent in November. We feel the chill plumb out here.

"WE MUST CUT the inflationary costs which private industry bears as a result of government regulations," Mr. Carter also

This, from a man who wants to impose a consumer advocacy agency atop an already burdensome federal bureaucracy, who repeatedly has let environmental concerns outweigh economic development and who wants to bring the oil and gas industry, for example, under tighter federal control instead of letting the free market work.

We could go on and on, but the picture is clear. If Mr. Carter would do what he says in terms of cutting the federal budget and the federal bureaucracy, the fight against inflation could be won.

But there's no chance so long as his actions to the contrary speak louder than his words to the press.

Copula And Other Unfamiliars

SCRABBLE, VA.—Those of us who write for a living should be indulged a little shop talk now and then. That is what I have in mind today in paying tribute to the late George Oliver Curme, and in pushing a new edition of his grammar of the English language.

If the writing art doesn't interest you, you might want to turn to something else.

Curme (rhymes with firm) was one of the greatest language scholars of this century. He is still vividly remembered at Northwestern University in Evanston, where he served as professor of Germanic philology from 1897 to 1933. As professor emeritus, he taught for a few years at the University of Southern California. He died 30 years ago this month at 88

those words-an old gentleman, white-haired, wire-rimmed glasses, small goatee.

It was said that he almost literally lived in the old Orrington Lunt library, where he could be found in his cubicle seven days and seven nights a week. His passion was grammar

He loved the forms of speech as men love stamps, or coins, or works of art, but he was a good professor: He usually kept his passion at

In 1931 Curme published a volume titled, with admirable brevity, "Syntax." Four years later he produced a companion volume, "Parts Of Speech." They summed up his life's work. First published by D.C. Heath, the books have been out of print for 15 years. Now they have the meaning of the sentence becomes ambiguous. been handsomely revived by the editors of Verbatim, the most charming of all linguistic publications, in a two-volume set at $35. The address is Essex, Conn. 06426.

CURME WAS A meticulous scholar, but never a hidebound one. He took the English language as he found it, warts and all.

'Good english," he wrote, "varies according to the occasion, just as our dress varies according to the occasion. Evening dress would be out of place in playing a football game.

Loose colloquial English, as often described in this book, is frequently as appropriate as a loosefitting garment in moments of relaxation."

Curme had nothing but scorn for "conservative grammarians" or "lesser grammarians who not only show their bad taste, but do a great deal of harm in that they impart erroneous ideas of lan-

The conservative grammarian, he sneered, regards all change as decay, mourns the present slovenly use of the indicative, and hasn't "the slightest insight into the fine constructive work of the last centuries in rebuilding the subjunctive."

SO MUCH FOR the old guard. Curme had a large tolerance for the split infinitive: "It cannot even in the strictest scientific sense be considered ungrammatical." He provided an example

"He failed to entirely comprehend it." If the adverb is moved forward, it becomes a modifier for "failed" instead of for "comprehend," and Curme provided a few strictures on the placement of "only." The careful writer will watch where he puts this innocent little adverb, for its position is vital to meaning:

"Only John passed in Latin...John passed only in Latin...John only passed in Latin.." It is a word to keep one's eye on.

THE OLD PROFESSOR now and then got carried away. One of his fascinations was the verb form known professionally as the "copula." These are verbs that carry some extra, unseen

When we say that "the book is on the table," we are saying that the book is lying on the table.

When we say that "the door blew open," we mean that the wind blew the door open. To Curme, every such copula was an occasion of real excitement. But, then, he could get wrought up about the optative subjunctive. Not many persons ever truly loved the optative subjunctive. Curme did.

Browsing through the two volumes, one is bound to be impressed by the complexity and richness of English speech Such is our awe of foreign tongues that we tend to believe Italian, or French, or Russian surpasses our own language in nuances of expression. Curme, the careful collector, made it evident in ten thousand examples that English is capable of serving purposes both subtle and precise. He was a professor who left a lovely legacy behind.

Wallace says, in fact, that "we don't have an energy problem. We have a deliverability problem and an exploration problem."

He points to natural gas as an example. Texas has an ample supply of intrastate gas because the price has not been regulated and exploration has been encouraged, he says. There is a shortage of interstate supply, however, because that price has been regulated and exploration has been discouraged, he adds.

"So, what does the federal government propose to do?." Wallace asks. "It wants to regulate the intrastate market. That's doing things bass-ackwards: Imposing a failure on a success so as to make a failure of success."

WALLACE SAYS that Texas has an 8 to 10-year supply of oil under existing conditions of pricing, environmental regulations, etc.

If the federal regulators would stand aside, he says, that would be extended to 20 years. By that time, again assuming no federal roadblocks, coaland Texas lignite would supply the nation's reeds, along with nuclear fuel.

"What you may not realize," says Wallace, "is that we have a uranium supply of 8 to 10 years under existing regulations, about the same as for oil. But if we go to breeder reactors (which the Carter administration has blocked), we have a 100-year supply.

WASHINGTON-By this time, we know an important generality about President Jimmy Carter. He's not conservative, but he is cautious to an extreme that amounts to his being timid.

The trait came out strongly on his recent swing through eastern Latin America and western Afri-

It showed most clearly whenever he had cause to approach the subject of nuclear energy which is at once the most hopeful and the most fearsome subject of the free world, the third world and the Communist World.

Strange that a man of Carter's background should show his timidity in this field, of all places.

In addition to being a beneficiary of the early public power programs, Carter was educated out of the U.S. Treasury at Annapolis and eventually had Admiral Rickover as his mentor in the atom-

At home, the President's caution caused cancellation of the plutonium experiment at Clint River in Tennessee, and his reliance on regulators to guard public safety has been a hindrance.

It is fair to say, however, that the private sector as represented by Uranium Enrichment Associates (a consortium of Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, William's Company and Bechetel Corp.) declined to take advantage of President Nixon's and Ford's willingess to move the enrichment program to industry.

Anti-Bafflegab Battle Old As Printed Word

AS OF THIS coming June 1, the nation's first 'Plain English'' law for consumer contracts goes into effect. Under this historic law-chapter 747 of the laws of 1977 for New York state-all consumer contracts must be in understandable everyday language with headings in logical order.

Chapter 747 has attracted attention from coast to coast, for it signals an intensification of the assault on the legal bafflegab not only in binding contracts we sign but also in utterly incompreensible government regulations

A bitter battle has developed between supporters of the new law (and similar legislation) and those who want exceptions for all kinds of documents they insist must be complicated, such as a real estate mortgage on a house or apartment.

MEANWHILE, THE Plain English movement has shifted to Washington, where Rep. Gladys Spellman, D-Md., has introduced an amendment to the Truth in Lending Act to require all consumer credit contracts throughout the country to be "clear and coherent" and to compete with words in common and every day meaning.

Now, new dangers emerge, for the Plain English drive well may spawn a generation of "superlinguistic" experts who say they are the only ones who can write anything you, the average citizen, are supposed to be able to read. That would put an immense barrier in the way of simplification, because the job would be so specialized and so expensive that only the giants of business could afford it.

"BUNK!" SAY I. I have been fighting bafflegab throughout my newspaper career without a Ph.D. in English literature or communications science. Plain English-or Plain Spanish or Plain Whatever-simply means language all of you use and thus can understand.

The Spellman bill has a chance of winning business as well as consumer support, for it might lead to a nationwide single standard of understandability-making it easier for business to meet dozens of different state rules.

THE TRUTH IN Lending Law is even now an almost incredible maze of hypertechnical requirements, which become more complicated every time the Fedaral Reserve Board issues another interpretation.

The published opinion letters alone are well above the 1,000 mark-not to mention court cases, federal agency rulings, and the subparagraphed tome known as Regulation Z which interprets the maze or rules.

If the Truth in Lending group is to be in charge of a drive for simplicity, you might as well forget the whole thing.

(1) THE TRUTH IN Lending rulemakers should be shut out of this and business itself

The blockade of environmentalists and the ble nuclear energy must be considered as a last But in June '77, Secretary Schlesinger liberally interpreted "last resort" to mean that the 66 nuclear plants now operating would be 380 by 2000 A.D. In March of '78, the secretary unleashed himself to the extent of recommending an extensive simplification of the regulations that frighten

50-Story Tower Easy To Spot In Downtown Dallas Complex

DALLAS (AP) - The latest project designed to spruce up downtown Dallas isn't hard to spot. It's the mirror-glass building at the base of the 50-story tower that has the computer-programmed light show on top.

Reunion is the name developers have picked for the hotel-office-shopping complex at the southern edge of the business area. It houses a concrete tower, complete with light show and revolving restaurant and bar, and a 1,000-room Hyatt Regency Hotel that gives Chamber of Commerce convention-seekers more ammunition

Workers have completed the project nearly five months ahead of schedule, prompting everyone concerned to smile a

A product of oilman Ray Hunt's $75 million investment, Reunion came about because of what John Scovell calls a unique relationship between his Woodbine Development Corporation and the City of Dallas contribution to downtown restoration. Scovell said Dallas is a young city and can take advantage of problems other older cities have experienced at their cores. "We have a chance to react ... and we have a city leadership that is very much committed," he said. The whole complex is a cinch to spot from the North Central Texas prairies. Buildings themselves are mirror glass, arranged in a multi-level configuration. A geodesic dome at the top of the concrete tower is capped with computer-con-trolled light bulbs capable of putting on a pulsating light show designed to catch the eyes of persons for miles around. Scovell's project is a stone's throw from a planned special events center that city fathers hope will attract a National Hockey League or National Basketball Association franchise. The city and Woodbine swapped ownership of area land in order to accommodate their independent projects.

The two facilities will be so close that parking can be shared and walkways from the hotel area to the sports complex will be provided, along the lines of Houston's Summit arena and Greenway Plaza office-hotel complex.

On top of that, proposals are on the ta-ble to flood land along the nearby Trinity River to create a town lake, which would be only a few hundred yards from Reunion and the sports complex.

'Hidden' Taxes Take Many Bites Out Of Income

and KATHARINE CLARK

Three months ago, David and Florence Grimley sat at their kitchen table in Malden, Mass., and filled out their incometax returns. Their federal tax for 1977 came to $2895 and their state tax to $854. Total tax after all exemptions and deductions: $3749. Breathing a sigh of relief, they found that the tax man's take amounted to only 17 percent of their in-

Or so they thought. Recently, at our request, they totted up the figures again, this time including a bewildering variety of "hidden" taxes - on everything from automobile tires to phone calls - to determine how much they really paid in taxes in 1977. The answer - nearly one of evey three dollars they earned - shocked

"We had no idea," said David, shaking his head. "We knew they were hitting us in a lot of little ways for a few cents here and there. What we never realized was how those pennies mount up.'

Neither rich nor poor, the Grimleys would seem to be a typical American family in almost every respect. In their 30s, they have been married ten years. They and their two daughters live in a 100-year-old house, purchased in 1974 for $36,500. Their five-year-old car is paid for, and they expect to be driving it for years to come. To guard against emergencies, they keep $1000 in a savings ac-

David is a manger with the Massachusetts Automobile Rating and Accident Prevention Bureau. And he lectures parttime at the Insurance Institute of Northeastern University in Boston. Florence does part-time clerial work. Their income for 1977 totaled $22,247.

The Grimleys do not have an expensive life-style. Their children attend public schools. The family hasn't taken a vacation trip for several years; they belong to no country clubs and entertain only occasionally. They are conservative, even frugal in their purchases. Yet they are unable to save much. Where does their money go? A big chunk is eaten by "hidden" taxes. We went through the Grimleys' meticulous records to find out how much - in addition to federal and state income taxes of $3749 - they pay in tax levies.

For owning a home - despite the age of their house and the fact that they own less than one acre, the Grimleys paid a property tax of $1495. For maintenance and improvements they spent about $500, and a state sales tax of five percent - $25 was built into that. Their telephone bill was $441.64. The five-percent federal tax on local and long-distance calls came

For retirement - during 1977 David paid $965.25 in Social Security taxes (his employer was taxed an equal amount). Florence, working part-time, paid anoth-

For driving a car - their 1973 automobile cost the Grimleys roughly $3300. Since then its value has declined considerably, but not enough to escape the tax man's attention. Along with seven other states and the District of Columbia, Massachusetts subjects automobiles to tax, and for 1977 that bill came to $23.10. During the year, the Grimleys put 15,000 miles on their car, which averages 13 miles per gallon. The combined federal and state taxes add up to 12.5 cents for each of 1,153 gallons, or a total of 144.13. David purchased 24 quarts of oil for $14. The federal excise tax - which is applied to the manufacturer and passed on to the consumer - was 36 cents, the state sales tax 70 cents. Car registration was $14, and the state sales tax on parts, accessories and tires was $19.03. Federal excise tax on new tires was $33.35.

Total tax: $234.35.

For entertainment - at least once a week the Grimleys took their daughters to a neighborhood restaurant, spending on average $7. David and Florence went out to dinner by themselves twice a month, paying an average bill of $15. David bought lunch at a restaurant four days a week and paid an estimated $3.50 per meal. All in all, for eating out, the Grimleys paid $1425. Meals at restaurants were taxed at the rate of eight per-

Total tax: $116.16

For liquor, wine and beer - the Grimleys enjoy an occasional cocktail before their evening meal, and they serve liquor to guests. In 1977 they purchased one gallon of vodka, one of rum and two gallons of bourbon. With a federal tax fo $10.50 per gallon and a state tax of $4.50 per gallon, the Grimleys paid $58.20 in liquor

They calculate that they purchased 26 six-packs of beer last year. The federal government levies a $9 tax on every barrel of beer and the state $3.30, Figuring out how many 12-ounce cans fit into a

Air Force Delays Notice Of Death

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) -It took the Air Force five days to announce the death of its winged mascot, an arctic gray falcon named Baffin. Baffin died at the academy Friday, at the age of 13, but the death was not announced until Wednesday.

An academy spokesman, Capt. Ron Bell, said it took five days to gather information about Baffin, prepare a release and "get it cleared."

barrel of beer took some time; but we calculated that the Grimleys paid a beer tax of $5.81. David and Florence bought three gallons of wine in 1977, taxed by the federal government at a rate of 17 cents per gallon, and by the state at $1.10 per

Total tax: $67.82. For household necessities, applicances, gifts and miscellaneous items - Florence spent an average of $50 per week on food, which in Massachusetts is exempted from tax. Dog food and cat food, detergent, paper towels, facial tissue, toilet paper and small kitchen utensils, however, were subject to state sales tax of five percent, and Florence allocated $15 per week for these items. Additionally, the Grimleys bought a freezer and various other kitchen appliances, at a total cost of $358. They spent another $500 on household items, radios, photographs, toys for the children and miscellaneous odds and ends. the state sales tax applied, of course, to all these purchases.

Total tax: $81.90 Our total for these hidden taxes came to $3257.56 - or almost as much as the combined federal and state income taxes. Because they didn't write down everything in their expense ledgers, some of the figures we used were estimates, and it's probable that the Grimleys simply forgot about some of the taxable purchas-tempt to lump in all the hidden taxes that the manufacturer pays and passes on to the consumer. And those levies are considerable. According to a Tax Foundation study, for instance, taxes are levied 151 times in producing a single loaf of bread. Thus, it's certain that the tax burden the Grimleys shouldered is even higher than the figure is significant. When we added the estimated hidden taxes to the state and federal income-tax payments the family made in 1977, the total came the Grimleys earned.

And they may well be paying even more this year. Although they accept taxes as a "necessary evil," the prospect of having to pay ever-increasing amounts of money in hidden levies depress them. "There should be some ceiling," David says. "You should pay your fair share to-

On the 19th, the Khmer Rouge called local officials together. The fist order was to collect all weapons and register all soldiers of the Lon Nol army. Then the communist victors slashed prices inflated, they said, by war and greedy capitalists. Pork prices were cut from about $3 to 2 cents per 2.2 pounds. A 220-pound sack of rice was cut from $30 to 30 cents.

When merchants protested they couldn't make a profit, the Khmer Rouge commander told them it didn't matter. Cambodia was now socialist. There didn't need to be profits.

On the 20th, word had spread. People came from all over the province to buy. Fights broke out over the fast-disappearing supplies. The Khmer Rouge solved one dispute by shooting the man they judged to be the culprit and leaving the body in the market place. On the 23rd the Khmer Rouge closed the market.

Italy, which sent more than 25 million immigrants to the far corners of the world over the past century, is having an illegal immigrant problem.

Maldives Hit By Tourism

MALE, Maldives (UPI) - The airplane, the tourist and the dollar are transforming this remote island nation in the Indian Ocean that was largely unknown and unvisited for centuries.

A laborer ambles down a street of sand and crushed coral in the clean, whitewashed capital - which is pronounced "Molly." He wears a sarong like his ancestors were for hundreds of years, but his teeshirt reads "Pittsburgh Pirates.

A hotel operator arranges a boat ride to what he sardonically calls a "typical fishing village." Most of the residents do earn their living by fishing, but at the dock stand a dozen stalls with sea shells for sale to tourists

The island next door, studded with gracefully waving coconut palms, is uninahabited except for a beachfront bar where Europeans can sip Scotch or Campari and gaze at some of the most beautiful water and beaches found anywhere.

Less than a decade ago, the Maldives' only regular link to the world outside were boats that ran haphazardly to Colombo, Sri Lanka, bringing cargo or passengers whenever there was demand.

The picture is changing now, thanks largely to a 30-year-old, soft-spoken Maldivian named Ahmed Naseem, who says with just a trace of boastfulness, "I started tourism here.

In 1971, "I had contact with an Italian travel agent," Naseem recalled. "I met him on a ship from Colombo to Male. He was interested in having people come here. We brought in a few journalists and travel writers. We told agents about a resort we didn't even have.

In 1972 the previously uninhabited islands of Kurumba and Bandos, half-anhour or so by speedboat from Male, opened for business. A half-dozen others soon followed. The number of tourists rose from just above zero in 1971 to 18,-

Most tourists come from Germany, Italy or Scandinavia, escaping the harsh winters to lie on white sand beaches only a few hundred miles north of the equa-

Bandos is owned by Maldivian President Ibrahim Nasir and run by Naseem, the president's brother-in-law. Bandos and Kurumba can accommodate only a few more than 100 people each, so there's no overcrowding. In a relaxed atmosphere, many men and women quickly strip off bathing suits in favor of skinnydipping and nude sunbathing.

"We do no advertising at all because we don't provide much in the way of services here - no big hotels or fancy stuff," Naseem said. "All advertising that's done is done by travel agents.

Just about the only activity in the Maldives is swimming or fishing. A 500-mile chain of tropical islands, consisting of 18atolls, the coral reefs are excellent for

On the islands, so small you can walk around one in less than an hour, there's a telephone, one weekly English newspaper - run by Naseem's wife, who is the sister of the president - no cars, no television, no radio. The government has received aid from the brotherly Islamic nation of Kuwait and from other countries to expand the runway at Hullule Airport. a short boat ride from Male, to 11,000

When finished the runway will accommodate large charter jets, ending the need for tourists to fly into Sri Lanka first and then switch to a Boeing 737 jet or propeller plane to continue on to the Mal-

"Tourism has definitely given employment to a whole lot of people and given them a guaranteed income," Naseem

"It also opened up the eyes of many government officials. Development wouldn't have taken place without it. It spurred communications and transport.

"It opened up the eyes of others in the world. Four or five years ago this country was largely unknown. Now other countries know of the Maldives.'

There is remarkably little popular hostility against the immigrants in this racially tolerant country. But labor leaders are worried by the competition this underpaid, legally unprotected labor is providing for Italian workers

They have asked the government to try to contain immigration and they are also trying to persuade the immigrants to demand contract wages and social security coverage.

When the phenomenon began in the early 1960s, Italy was just a transit point for Africans and other illegal migrants on their way to France and other Common Market countries

They entered Italy legally on tourist vi-sas or arrived clandestinely by boat, then were herded illegally across the Alps.

At about the same time, a growing number of housewives discovered that fewer and fewer Italian girls wanted to work as maids and that a maid from the West Indies or Mauritius could be valuable as a status symbol.

The underworld caught on, and a growng number of women "tourists" began arriving from exotic countries - their trips paid for by clandestine employment agents who held their passports as a pledge and threatened to have them sent home if they did not pay a commission on their income from low-paid domestic

U.S. Tourist Takes Case To Kremlin

By JAMES V. HEALION

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) - Joe Dubitzky was stymied by Russian red tape so he used the tried-and-true American method of going straight to the top. Leonid I. Brezhnev apparently agreed Joe had a case

'It's not that I wanted to send in the Marines. I just took every avenue I could. Joe Dubitzky hasn't left a stone unturned," he said in an interview with United Press International.

'My heart shakes a little bit, but I want to let the world know about it," said Joe, 77, the retired owner of an East Hartford neighborhood pharmacy.

Joe emigrated from Russia to the United States in 1920 and graduated from the University of Tennessee's School of Pharmacy with a 98.6 average. He was visiting Moscow two years ago when he bought a samovar - an elaborate brass urn - at a government store for his daughter, Mrs. David Miller of White Plains, N.Y. He paid 85 rubles, the equivalent of $110.

The airport customs people said the samovar, a charcoal-fired urn used to keep water constantly hot for tea, couldn't be taken out of the country.

They threatened to keep his passport unless he signed a receipt in Russian saying he was voluntarily surrendering the samovar. He refused and told them he wanted to see the American ambassador. That did it. They relented.

They said it was antique. If I wanted I could turn it over to a Russian citizen. If I didn't, the government would hold it for 30 days and auction it off."

Joe told them, "So OK, keep the samovar. But give me the purchase price. In U.S.A., you can't eat your cake and have it, too. I didn't come here to break the law. I'm not smuggling."

Joe's wife, Gertrude, was whispering, "Forget it, honey, forget it. It's the end of the rope.' I told her, 'You don't know your husband, Joe Dubitzky. I'll fight to

But customs was not persuaded. They kept the samovar. For a refund they said he should live so long.

Joe returned home and began a letterwriting barrage. No personage was spared. He promised this reporter if anyed, "I'll get back to y

Not even then Secretary of State, Henry Kissinger, or President Ford could get the samovar back. Not even President Carter or Kissinger's successor, Cyrus Vance. Not even Anatoly Dobrynin or the consul of the USSR embassy.

Clifford H. Gross of the American embassy in Moscow said he knew it was no consolation, but such behavior "by customs and other officials here is typical."

When the Soviet trawler Taras Shovchenko violated the 200-mile fishing limit and was towed to Boston by the Coast Guard in March 1977, Joe wanted to put a lien on it but missed the boat by two

He sent a "mailgram" to President Carter and got a letter from Leonard F. Willems, Bilateral Relations, Office of Soviet Union Affairs, Department of State. Willems was not optimistic.

Willems told Joe the State Department's pamphlet, "Travel To The Soviet Union," had been revised to warn Americans about Joe's trouble with the samo-

But Joe wasn't taking "nyet" for an answer. He decided to try the Soviet Union's head man.

'So I wrote Brezhnev in Russian and I

'My dear Mr. Brezhnev: Let me speak from my heart. If you were Joe Dubitzky and I were Leonid Brezhnev, you wouldn't act any differently. I want to discuss my situation.

Your government has been appealing to U.S.A. to observe the friendly relationship between our people within the framework of detente. And I do not believe detente - as we say in U.S.A. - is a one-way road. 'I don't think the way I was treated by USSR officials would contribute to detente. After being away for over 56 years from my homeland, I was ignorant of the fact that samovar was an antique. 'At the time I left Russia, samovars were on every family's dining table as an ordinary item. Please, either return the samovar or refund full purchasing

Three weeks later, he got a check for $110.92 from Moscow airport.

"I cashed it immediately," Joe said. Joe a suggested a headline for this story: "AMERICAN TOURIST WINS BLOOD-LESS BATTLE WITH LEONID BREZH-NEV," but as they sometimes say in Joe's circle: after the whole long story the complete megillah - it was close but

Panel Approves Clinch River Project

By JOHN LENGEL
WASHINGTON (AP) — The next step in deciding the fate of the nation's proposed Clinch River breeder reactor project is up to the full House now that one of its committees has said the project should be kept alive despite President Carter's opposition.

A Carter compromise, that would lead to termination of the project, was put before the House Science Committee by Rep. Walter Flowers, D-Ala., this week. But the panel decided instead to provide more money for the project that would be located on Tennessee's Clinch River.

Carter had offered, in return for stopping the project, support for legislation intended to expedite construction of conventional reactors for electric power pro-

Study of breeder reactor technology would continue, the president proposed, leaving construction of an improved breeder reactor plant to the early 1980s.

But backers of the breeder project are convinced the nation must make a first step toward that method of power production. The Soviet Union and the French, they say, are planning to meet most of their power needs in the future with breeders to reduce their dependence on oil.

The Clinch River breeder would be fueled with plutonium and designed to produce more of the nuclear material than it consumes while powering electricity generators. The excess fuel would go to other reactors.

Nuclear power plants now are dependent on uranium, and the country's reserves are being used up.

Senate Panel Approves Selection Of Civiletti

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate Judiciary Committee, today approved the nomination of Benjamin R. Civiletti to be deputy attorney general.

The panel also agreed to meet next week to consider Republican demands for a special prosecutor who would investigate the dismissal of David Marston as U.S. attorney in Philadelphia.

The vote on President Carter's nomination of Civiletti, now an assistant attornev general and acting deputy, as the No. 2 official in the Justice Department was 10-2, with Republican Sens. Malcolm Wallop of Wyoming and Paul Laxalt of Nevada voting against confirmation.

The vote sends the nomination to the full Senate for approval.

Wallop said he voted against Civiletti because he questioned his credibility, had doubts about his commitment to equal justice and was not satisfied that he was a competent administrator.

He said his doubts about Civiletti's credibility arose from conflicts between his testimony and that of other witnesses.

Baker Jr., now acting assistant attorney general in charge of the Justice Department's criminal division, said in an affidavit that he told Civiletti last Nov. 25 that an investigation of Rep. Joshua Eilberg, D-Pa., was "alive", but Civiletti said he had no recollection of Baker ever discussing the Eilberg case with him.

Although both Civiletti and Baker downplayed this difference in their testimonies, Wallop said it appeared to him to be "much more than a mere conflict in

The removal of Marston became controversial after Carter said at a news conference on Jan. 12 that he had directed Bell to speed it up after receiving a telephone call last Nov. 4 from Eilberg.

At the time, Eilberg was a potential target of a criminal investigation by Marston's office. Carter denied, however, knowing that Eilberg was under suspi-

Wallop also questioned Civiletti's role in the case of former CIA Director Richard Helms, who was charged with a timony before a congressional committee regarding CIA involvement in the downfall of Chilean President Salvador Al-

"I don't think Mr. Civiletti fully appreciates the meaning of equal administration of justice," Wallop said.

He said he questioned Civiletti's administrative capacity because he had shown "a lack of supervision and an apparent lack of communication" with his subordinates in the department since becoming acting deputy attorney general.

Wallop moved to have the committee ask Attorney General Griffin B. Bell to name a special prosecutor to look into the Marston dismissal and to investigate whether any federal laws were broken in connection with the events leading up to the forced resignation last October of budget director Bert Lance.

He withdrew his motion after chairman James Eastland, D-Miss., said he would hold a hearing on such a proposal next Laxalt did not explain his vote against confirmation. Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., who voted for the nomination, said he would support the motion for a special prosecutor but believed that "no facts have come out in my opinon that would warrant me to vote against him.'

The committee has been holding sporadic hearings on the nomination since Feb. 21.

Civiletti, 42, was named by Carter on Dec. 6 as his choice to be Bell's deputy, succeeding Peter Flaherty, who re-

There has been speculation that Carter might name Civiletti as attorney general if Bell leaves office and returns to his home in Atlanta, Ga., before the 1980 presidential election. Bell said in a recent interview that he was considering such a

The jury in Judge Thomas L. Clinton's 99th District Court deliberated about 40 minutes before deciding Tatum, who lived at 1710 E. Colgate St. at the time of the incident, had nothing to do with the convenience store heist.

Tatum had been accused of participating in the April 6, 1976, robbery of the Preston Milk Store at 1101 34th St.

Testimony showed that two women entered the store. One of them reportedly produced a pistol, pointed it at a woman attendant and announced the Officers testified that a car driven by Tatum was stopped later on Teak Avenue about 25 blocks from the store. The two women suspects were also among occupants of the car.

Both women were convicted at earlier trials. The two were called by the state as witnesses in Tatum's trial. They indicated Tatum had let them out at the store at their request, but said they had not told the defendant of their robbery plan. Tatum testified he had no knowledge of the holdup until his car was stopped by police. Defense attorneys Jim Aldridge and Travis Ware said Tatum was simply in the wrong place at the wrong time, with Ware terming him a victim of circumstance in final argument.

Fish, Freeman Get Tech Students' Acclaim As Outstanding Teachers

Dr. Ernest B. Fish of Texas Tech's Department of Park Administration and Landscape Architecture and Dr. Billy G. Freeman of the Department of Agricultural Economics have been outstanding teachers for 1977-78 in the College of Agricultural Sciences.

The student Agricultural Council awarded the two professors the honors at the recent annual Pig Roast and Ag Honors banquet.

The council is made up of two representatives from each of the 10 department clubs of the college and the Agricultural Sciences student senators

Some of the qualities the students look for, according to Dr. William F. Bennett, sponsor of the Agricultural Council, are quality in teaching, emphasis on creativity and innovation; ability to motivate students; knowledge of subject; ability to relate to students; and keeping upto-date on new developments in the subject area.

Small Crop Cutback Indicated In Survey

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Farmers intend to cut total 1978 crop acreage about 3 percent from 1977, an estimate which indicates many growers are enrolling in government acreage reduction programs, an Agriculture Department official said

But Howard Hjort, the department's chief economist, added in a news conference that there are no signs that - on a national basis - growers are heeding the farm strike movement call for a 50 percent cutback in production.

Hjort met reporters after release of a department survey indicating farmers intend to plant 3 percent less corn and nearly 8 percent more soybeans than last year. Total planted acreage of all crops was put at about 341.6 million acres, down 3 percent from 1977 compared with a 2 percent drop forecast in January.

The ecnomist said the new planting survey shows no basis for changing previous forecasts that retail food prices this year will rise 6 to 8 percent.

Hjort said actual plantings probably will be somewhat smaller than those forecast in the new report. Many corn growers will cut plantings of corn or soybeans below the April survey level in order to qualify for payments under a corn acreage diversion program announced March 29, he predicted.

Some of the wheat acreage shown as planted in the current survey also will be abandoned as winter wheat growers bring their cropland down to levels needed to qualify for 1978 supports, the offi-

The survey indicated total acreage of livestock feed grains would be down about 4 percent from 1977, a much sharper drop than the 1 percent decline indieated in a Junuary survey. Hjort said this showed that up to three quarters of all sorghum and barley growers intend to participate in a "set aside" acreage reduction plan to qualify for price supports.

plans as before because crop producers had been uncertain what Congress and the administration would do about key details of 1978 farm programs.

Much of the uncertainty was removed Wednesday when the House defeated an emergency farm bill including price support hikes and production-cutting programs far beyond existing administration

Farm strike leaders vowed Thursday to press forward with plans to persuade farmers to cut production in half this

In an effort to hold down production following a record 1977 harvest which depressed prices, the administration has put several acreage cutback programs into effect this year for wheat, feed grains and cotton.

Thursday's report indicated farmers plan to reduce wheat acreage by 12 percent and cotton by 6 percent, compared with the 7 percent cotton decline forecast in January. Rice acreage is expected to increase 15 percent, however, and sugar-

The planting report showed farmers intend to plant 80.2 million acres of corn, compared with 82.7 million last year, while soybean growers intend to plant 63.7 million acres compared to 59.1 mil-

(In Austin, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown said that although farmers plan to plant less cotton, grain sorghum and corn this year than in 1977, the estimated acreage for other crops remains high.

(Figures from the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service show farmers intend to plant about 400,000 fewer acres in cotton, 500,000 fewer acres in grain sorghum, and 400,000 fewer acres in (That amounts to a 6 percent reduction in cotton, 9 percent reduction in grain and 22 percent reduction in corn planted, Brown said.

(He said this will be the first year since 1972 that corn plantings have declined, and blamed high energy costs and declining corn prices for the reduction.)

In a recent letter to members of association, King shored up his optimism with the revelation that area corn supplies may one day provide a vast reservoir of fuel for the nation.

"The Texas Energy Advisory Board has contacted the TCGA, and a meeting is planned to explore the first stages of converting corn into energy (gasahol)," King explained.

The TCGA executive pointed out that a corn wet milling plant in Dimmitt 'could be converted to the production of alcohol much more feasibly than a new one could be built.

Commenting on the status of corn production on the High Plains, King continued, "Corn is here to stay, and I am convinced there will be more planted than some people are predicting

King pointed to other factors whch should contribute to continued corn pro-

'Corn still has a high yield potential in this area, and many farmers already own corn dryers, storage facilities and harvesting equipment. I feel certain that many farmers will still plant corn." he

According to the Dimmitt native, the TCGA has been working extensively to obtain a more favorable freight rate on corn, and the state group has received the support of the National Corn Growers Association in the matter.

He explained that the TCGA also has cooperated with the Texas A&M University research department to produce a "Corn Diseases Atlas" currently ready for publication, which will assist produ-

King added that the TCGA continues to further corn production on the High Plains through market development, research and legislation.

Cuts In Conservation Spending Resisted

WASHINGTON (AP) - Spending cutbacks proposed by President Carter for some popular agricultural conservation programs have helped spark new efforts by a grassroots organization which for many years has been an important link between local communities and federal and state governments.

The organization is the National Association of Conservation Districts, representing about 3,000 local conservation districts, including farms and thousands of small towns and cities. About 17,000 persons represent the local districts and include farmers, business leaders and others who help map goals and programs aimed at conserving the nation's soil and water resources.

The NACD's 25-member board of directors is met here recently to review coming year.

"They are very concerned about the cutbacks in the president's budget and its implication for cost-sharing programs throughout the country, particularly in the Midwest and the Southwest," says director of in tion for the association.

Almost two dozen federal programs and activities are of prime concern to the NACD. Most of them are handled by the Agriculture Department and, in one way or another, are affected by Carter's budget proposals sent to Congress in January.

The Carter budget is for the fiscal year which will begin Oct. 1. Among its recommendations is a hefty slice in money to operate the Agricultural Conservation Program - commonly called ACP from $190 million this year to $100 mil-its policies and formulate strategy for the lion for next fiscal year. Since the mid-1930s, the ACP has provided farmers federal help in paying for approved conservation projects on their land. Each administration since World War II has sought spending reductions or outright elimination of the program.

But, since it reaches into virtually ery county, ACP has maintained a charmed existence because of congressional support. There are indications that once again Congress will restore most or all of the funds reduced by Carter.

The Carter budget, however, also includes proposed changes in other federal programs and functions which are of concern to the association.

Those include an employee ceiling for the Soil Conservation Service, the USDA agency which provides through its network of field offices the technical expertise needed by farmers and landowners accomplishing the district goals," he to carry out conservation projects.

The Carter budget also holds the line on adding new projects to river basin surveys, watershed planning, flood prevention and similar work. Some programs in the U.S. Forest Service, including money agement, rangeland management and rural community fire protection also have been stalled or not financed enough, the association says.

Muniec said in an interview that the association also is concerned about the future of USDA under reorganization plans being considered by the White House, such as suggestions that some key agencies be shifted to other departments. The Carter budget, plans for federal re-

NACD board's agenda and will be brought to the attention of Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland and appropriate members of Congress, he said. Lyle Bauer, a farmer from Harper, Kan., is the new president of the NACD. and recently described the role of his association and the 3,000 local units which provide its grassroots support.

'Although provisions of the state laws vary, the purposes of districts are similar everywhere: to focus attention on land, water and related resource problems; to develop programs to solve them; and to enlist and coordinate help from all public and private sources that can contribute to

PLAINS AGRICULTURE

By DUANE HOWELL

WITH THE PLANTING SEASON AT HAND, widespread attention is being focused on the dry soils on the High Plains.

The situation has changed little from last fall, as was to have been expected. The winter months normally are dry and the High Plains is just now entering what some observers loosely call the "rainy season.

There is a close correlation between subsoil moisture at planting time and final cotton yields under dryland conditions. And the subsoil now is dry.

"It's not a good situation but it's not a situation where the probabilities of getting a crop in are too bad as yet," says Dr. L. L. Ray, widely known cotton researcher at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Lubbock.

PRECIPITATION LAST SEPTEMBER through December at Lubbock toled only 2.53 inches, less than half the normal of 5.85 inches. The big deficit was in September. Only 0.35-inch was recorded that month, against a normal of 2.52 inches

Fall rains usually contribute greatly to the subsoil reservoir for the following year's crops. The paucity of rains last fall - and accompanying absence of cool temperatures - was good for the region's record cotton crop but left soils so dry that only an extremely wet winter would have replenished the depleted deep moisture.

A long growing season was an important factor in the cotton output reaching an all-time high of approximately 3.3 million bales in the 25-county area. But the extended growing period also gave roots more time in which to extract moisture from the subsoil

The picture for 1978, however, is not all dark.

RAINFALL PROBABILITIES RISE IN APRIL, with the upswing beginning about mid-month. Amounts received in April can be erratic, ranging from skimpy to bountiful, but the long-term average at Lubbock is 1.27 inches.

Then come May with an average of 2.60 inches and June with an average of 2.47 inches. The probabilities of getting a planting rain are high. But there are times when the odds go awry.

One of those times was in 1974. And there are some similarities between then and now. The High Plains in 1973 produced what was a record cotton crop at the time, 2,888,700 bales, and experienced an open, dry fall. But the spring rains didn't come in 1974 and production plummeted to 1,193,100 bales.

An estimated 750,000 acres went unplanted due to the spring drought of 1974. Abandonment took a heavy toll by August on the dryland cotton that did get planted. Hopes for a decent crop were pinned on irrigated cotton.

BUT AUGUST THAT YEAR WAS COLD and wet, just the opposite of what the irrigated cotton needed. And the weather stayed cold and wet, turning what in early August had been promising irrigated cotton prospects into a complete crop disaster. For practical purposes, the cotton crop of 1974 was virtually ter-

Thus the short crop of 1974 certainly wasn't due to the spring drought alone. The odds are heavily against a repeat this year of the experiences of 1974.

There have been since around the turn of the century only about five years when spring drought of such intensity gripped West Texas. These were 1917, 1924, 1933, 1953 and 1974.

A DRY YEAR OFTEN IS A GOOD YEAR for irrigated cotton. The disastrous fall of 1974, however, kept this generalization from holding true. It boosted rainfall for the year to an above-average 23.4 inches.

Above-normal temperatures usually are associated with drought and are good for irrigated cotton, a hot weather plant. Open skies and photosynthesis-fueling sunlight, common during dry weather, also spur cotton development where adequate moisture is present.

Although it is highly important, subsoil moisture is just one of many variables affecting cotton production.

Cattle Price Drops With Active Trade

By Reuters CHICAGO - Cattle futures ended 62 to 15 points lower in active trading of 24,628 contracts Thursday on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange. April was up the most, gaining 90 points after August slippped 37 points. Upward momentum continued from Wednesday as traders noted firmness in cattle and beef. The nearby was at a premium over cash. Demand came despite heavy slaughter and weakness in cash grains.

Deliveries total 83 thus far. Wholesale beef was up 1 1/2 to two cents at 82 1/2 to 83 cents a pound. The six markets expect 5,100 head Monday. Cash cattle were steady to up $1, with the best top at $54.50 per hundredweight. The Omaha top was $51.

Hog futures finished two to 65 points higher, led by distant April. Sales were 7,635 cars. The market rallied after early losses of 45 points in the nearby.

Prices rallied on strength in cash cattle and lifted April through October to new season's highs and the highest since February 1977. The nearby rose to $48.40, up $2 from the best cash price, despite heavy runs and slaughter.

Wholesale hams were unchanged to off 2 1/2 cents at 67 1/4 to 72 cents a pound, Lo.b. river, lowest since June. The six narkets expect 22,600 head on Monday Cash hogs were steady to off 75 cents. with the best top at $46.50 per hun-dredweight, cheapest since January. Pork belly (bacon) futures ended 20 to 105 points higher in active months, led by May. Only distant July was off 60 points on an offer. Sales were 9,138 cars. The market recovered after early losses of 110 points, with gains in ther meat futures attracting support. Initial selling came on heavy hog runs and kill along with increased storings and softness in cash bellies. Wholesale bacon was up one-half to off one-half cent at 68 to 71 1/2 cents a pound, f.o.b. river.

Grain Futures CHICAGO (AP) - Wheat and corn futures declined on the Chicago Board of Trade Thursday, depressed by heavy liq-uidation after the defeat of emergency farm legislation.

Soybeans also posted losses as farmers sold substantially larger amounts at country points and grain companies hedged their purchases by selling in the futures market.

Analysts traced some of the pressure to evening up positions before the Agriculture Department released its report on farmers' planting intentions. They noted, "The impact of the (Carter) administration's farm program, with its increased incentives to reduce acreage, will not be reflected," said a grain analyst, noting that the program was announced after most farmers had been surveyed.

At the close, soybeans were 81/4 to 121/2 cents lower, with May contracts quoted at $7.1312 a bushel; wheat was 9 to 11 cents lower, May $3.131/4; corn was 41/2 to 6 cents lower, May $2.571/4 and oats were 21/2 to 31/4 cents lower, May $1.431/2.

Cotton Futures

NEW YORK (AP) - Cotton futures No. 2 closed 15 cents a bale higher to 75 cents lower Thursday.

Futures prices closed lower in moderate dealings. After the market closed the Agriculture Department said, farmers intended to plant 12.9 million acres in cotton this year 6 percent less than a year ago, but 3 percent more than they said they intended to plant in January.

The average price for strict low middling 11-16 inch spot cotton advanced 17 points to 53.84 cents a pound Wednesday for the ten leading markets, according to the New York Cotton Exchange.

'Bad Advice' Seen On Meat Grading Revision Efforts

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) - A livestock marketing executive says the Department of Agriculture has been given bad advice in its efforts to change meat grading prac-

Van. W. Nutt, chairman of River Markets Group, told a public hearing that the USDA proposals will only serve to cause additional confusion to an already confused and inconsistent beef grading sys-

"We feel that very poor advice has again been given to Assistant Secretary Carol Foreman by individuals within her department." More than 60 representatives of the meat industry, most of them meat packers, were nearly unanimously opposed to a series of proposals announced earlier this year by the USDA. The USDA says the proposals were drawn because of several cases of bribery and corruption in the meat grading program and meat marketing system. The department also said there are "merchandising practices which may tend to mislead consumers and other purchasers of meat." One proposal involves a new USDA meat stamp. Meat graded by the USDA now carries a label of prime, choice, good or one of five others. The USDA has proposed that meat which has not been officially graded by its employes be marked with a new stamp "U.S. Ungraded." Under the present grading system, the USDA said, ungraded meat sometimes is represented for sale as being of better quality than it actually is. So a consumer that may only be of good grade. The meat industry representatives said a new label is unnecessary and will add to the cost to the consumer.

bian and Sudanese troops today moved into the tense suburb of Ain Rummaneh to police a cease-fire between Syrian members of the joint Arab peacekeeping force and Lebanese Christian militiamen.

has attended school or college at least five calendar months of the year. He need not have been living at home.

Rojas said common mistakes in filing returns are not attaching all the W-2 forms, not signing the returns, forgetting to write in Social Security numbers and not copying the Social Security numbers

LaPrade is a 27-year veteran of the agency, an assistant FBI director and chief of the 1,300-agent New York office since early 1975, was head of intelligence during the Weathermen investigation from 1970 to 1972.

Referring to pressure from Bell concerning his alleged part in investigations conducted without warrants, LaPrade said, "Is it proper to ask: Will another political power in Washington desire to prosecute today's actions five years from LaPrade called on all FBI agents now involved in such "warrantless investigations" to stop work until they have written orders from President Carter.

According to a New York FBI source who did not want to be named, Bell asked for LaPrade's resignation Monday after he was named an unindicted co-conspirator in an indictment charging former acting FBI Director L. The fortifications underscored skepticism among some Christian officials that the cease-fire would last.

'It's like trying to cure cancer with an aspirin," an official of the Christian National Liberal Party said of the most recent truce accord since violence flared in suburban Beirut five days ago.

Ain Rummaneh, already pockmarked from the civil war, looked in some areas today like a wasteland. In the hardest hitsections, one in every two houses was hit in the five days of recent fighting

Former Lebanese President Camille Chamoun, a top Christian rightist leader, said he believed the "next 48 hours will be crucial" in determining if the ceasefire would hold.

But residents began to emerge from their homes and walk the streets for the first time since this week.

Meanwhile, Israeli forces completed a two-phased token pullback from southern Lebanon today and their top commander said they can withdraw totally from the region in a month if all U.N. troops were deployed by then. The Israelis, who launched their partial pullout Tuesday by handing over nine points to U.N. forces, fell back from eight more villages south of the Litani River in the central and eastern sectors of the frontline. They wound up the second phase of the pullback several hours ahead of schedule, a U.N. spokesman said. He said 2,020 of the 4,000 U.N. peacekeeping force troops were in position in southern Lebanon, including a newly arrived 160-man contingent from Nepal. The first of 53 West German air force transports began arriving at Ben-Gurion Airport carrying trucks and other equipment, plus German civilian technicians for the Nepalese contingent. Israeli radio and press reports, meanwhile, said the United States has halted shipments of cluster bombs to Israel pending the outcome of a negotiated agreement on their future use. Israel's use of the devastating we during its incursion into Lebanon to fight Palestinian guerrillas led to warnings by Secretary of State Cyrus Vance that the Israelis may have violated U.S. law.

The government-run radio said in a report from Washington the United States has halted supplies of the cluster bomb units, called CBUs, until it receives assurances from Israel they will never again be used as offensive weapons.

Israeli troops and armored vehicles began their pullout from two villages in the central sector. Atibe and Dir Siran, and the military command said they handed the areas over to Iranian U.N. troops. who were reinforced by a company of newly arrived Nepalese forces.

Forecasts today for a clear, warm weekend - accented by 15-20 mph winds today and Saturday - squeezed chances for rainfall from earlier South Plains weather predictions. Top temperatures predicted for this afternoon and Saturday will be in the mid-80s, the National Weather Service here reported, while tonight's low reading will be in the lower 50s. An extended, Sunday-through-Tuesday outlook for the area calls for a continuation of the mild-mannered weather, with high temperatures to be in the 70s and low readings dropping to the 40s and Thursday temperatures spanned a 46-

83-degree range while prevailing northeasterly winds averaged 15.6 mph through the Hub City And, as dry weather continued on the South Plains, last year's precipitation to-

As on Thursday morning, some coastal regions of the state were hit by fog, some of it heavy. The Corpus Christi area reported a fog cover that reduced visibility to about 1/4 mile, but other areas along the coast and Lower Rio Grande Valley noted three miles, or better, visibility. Temperatures across the state early this morning generally ranged in the 50s and 60s, with extremes of 39 degrees at

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (AP) -Rhodesian guerrilla leaders are expected to endorse the British-American Nan for their country's transition to black rule in a round of meetings begun today with Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and British Foreign Secretary David Owen. But U.S. officials say Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith - and not guerrilla leaders Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe - is blocking a conference of all Rhodesian factions to negotiate a peace agreement. Vance and Owen first met with the two guerrilla chiefs for about a half-hour today at the Kilimanjaro Hotel, where joined by representatives of Botswana, Tanzania and Zambia, three of the black states that back the guerrillas. Envoys from Mozambique, Angola and Nigeria were to join the talks later. Thediscussions are scheduled to continue

Although some differences remain, a senior U.S. official said Nkomo and Mugabe have given their approval to the key elements of the British-American plan to end their six-year-old guerrilla war against Rhodesia's white minority and establish democratic black rule in Britain's former colony in southern Africa

The two key points to which the guerrilla leaders objected previously were a British high commissioner, Lord Carver, at the head of the transition government, and the stationing of a U.N. force in Rhodesia to keep peace during the transition. Nkomo and Mugabeiwere persuaded to agree to these points by their chief supporters, the so-called "front-line" presidents of Tanzania, Zambia, Mozambique, Angola and Botswana. However, U.S. officials have little or no hope that Vance and Owen, when they go Monday to Salisbury, the Rhodesian capital, will be able to get the concurrence of Smith and the three moderate black leaders with whom he signed an agreement on March 3 for transition to black rule by the end of the year. The agreement excludes Nkomo and Mugabe and includes guarantees to Rhodesia's white minority which the guerrilla leaders reject. Meanwhile, Smith and his black associates - Bishop Abel Muzo-

"I am not totally pessimistic, but obviously the signs are not terribly good," said Owen. The moderate black leaders claim they have the support of at least 80 percent of Rhodesia's 6.7 million blacks, and the Rhodesian army clearly holds the upper hand in the guerrilla war. But U.S. officials fear that unless an agreement acceptable to Nkomo and Mugabe is worked out, they will seek the help of Cuban troops and Soviet advisers as thegovernments of Angola and Ethiopia have.

Vance and Owen are going Sunday to South Africa to talk with Foreign Minister Pik Botha about South-West Africa, and then to Salisbury on Monday. Vance is due in Moscow next Friday for arms talks with the Russians

Hunters hoping for antlers and elk nieat - and with no interest in a rug and bear meat - may have been looking to the Supreme Court for rescue before the Montana elk season closed Nov. 27. But silence has prevailed ever since the spirited arguments before the nine justices on

The Montana elk and deer season most areas closes the last Sunday in November. In areas except the northwestern part of the state bear can be killed from April 1 to Nov. 26.

Only Montana has a combination license but many other states impose far higher license fees on out-of-staters than on residents. Montana residents were able to obtain an elk-only license for $8. The outsider's one privilege was a deer only license for $50. Four Minnesota hunters and a Melrose, Mont, outfitter challenged the Montana scheme and lost in a special three-judge federal court in Butte. The opinion held they were asserting only "a chance to engage temporarily in a recreational activity" and not a constitutional right. Montana can charge outsiders more in order to limit the number of elk killed, the court said. The Supreme Court justices asked about the number of licenses issued and the number of animals. Montana has one of the highest elk populations in the Attorney James Goetz of Bozeman, who represented the Minnesotans, placed the number of non-resident elk hunters at 14,000.

'If you've got 14,000 shooting at them, how many do you have left?" one justic asked."Well, we've got substantial numbers of elk in Montana and the elk is quite wily and all elk are not shot," Goetz replied. "In other words, not all hunters get elk ... Of course the number of residents is much greater.

"Well then, I conclude there are a whole lot of bad shots out there," the justice responded.

Well, they have see them first to shoot them," Goetz said.

It was brought out that there is no distinction between resident and non-resident when it comes to shooting with a bow and arrow or shooting wild turkeys. It is rather rare that an elk would be taken by a bow and arrow and turkey is not a very prevalent game bird in Montana," Goetz told the court. Attorney Paul Lenzini, who represent-opens the last Sunday in October and in ed the Montana Fish and Game Commission, was asked whether Montana would survive if the law was knocked down.

Lenzini said "the question is whether the wildlife management program will survive." He said the fee differential is "an extremely important mnagement

He said there were 20,500 combination licenses issued in 1974 and not 14,000. There is now a legal limit of 17,000.

Lenzini also noted that Montana ranchers suffer injury to property and loss of forage by wild animals for which they get no compensation from the state and in this way contribute to the well-being of the elk, whereas outsiders do not.

One justice suggested that elk hunting is "quite an extravagant pursuit" and the $225 fee wouldn't mean much to someone wealthy enough to engage in it.

But Lenzini said the affluent nimrod might not feel the expense but it would make a difference to people like the complainants, who say they can't afford it.

The challengers were Richard Carlson and Jerome Huseby of St. Paul; David Lee of Maplewood; and Donald Moris of Lake Elmo. They were joined by outfitter Lester Baldwin.

According to the complaint, other states charging outsiders more than five times what a resident pays for a license include Alaska, Arkansas, Georgia, Idaho, Indiana, Maine, Minnesota, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Mexico, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, Washington,. West Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

Increase Noted In Home Bu

NEW YORK (AP) - If Americans cannot afford today's high home prices, how is it that construction began on 1.5 million new housing units last year and that 3.6 million existing homes changed

Those figures aren't estimates. When properties change hands, sellers make certain the money they receive is real, or as real as money can be in these funny times. Nothing soft about the numbers.

More pertinent is the question, "Where do buyers get the money?" Last year they paid a median price of $48,700 for new homes and $43,500 for existing homes, the latter a 14.2 percent leap.

From selling existing homes, of course. But studies by the National Association of Realtors show that the largest percentage of buyers are in the 25-35 year age group, made up largely of first-time buy-

Tom Grant, Jr., the new president of the National Association of Realtors, has another explanation: two wage-earners. "This is the price today's generation is willing to pay for housing," he said.

The U.S. League of Savings Association agrees. An upcoming study is expected toshow that large percentages of homebuying families have more than one wage earner, and that some also have other incomes too.

While not disagreeing with them, a study by Morgan Guaranty reveals another explanation, one that would seem to puncture the notion that incomes are lagging far behind housing price increases.

It maintains that the ratio of housing prices to family income has remained almost unchanged throughout the post-World War II period, no matter that some cynics say the American dream is

That ratio is three; a house in recent years has cost three times income. Estimated median family income in 1977 was $16,300. Dividing it into $48,700, the answer is just a small fraction under three. "Clearly," it concludes, "on the basis of an incomes test, concern about a 'crowding out' of middle-income families is overdone." It adds: This is especially true when allowance is made for the fact that part of the rise in price reflects a product much improved in terms of measurable features such as floor space and size of plot."

Morgan concedes that home operating expenses have risen, especially mortgage and fuel costs, but maintains that even when these are worked in, the increased costs have not grown faster than median

Nevertheless, Grant and many of the 580,000 Realtors throughout the country have become distressed about what they feel is an unfair burden on homeowners - the real estate tax.

Israeli Says U.S. Friend

DENVER (AP) - Shimon Peres, the leader of Israel's opposition Labor Party, says that his country still regards the United States as a friend in spite of the chilly reception received by Prime Minister Menachem Begin on his recent trip to Washington.

ister for a few months last year, said his nine-day, nine-city tour of the United States had shown him that American Jews are beginning to develop an uneasy feeling about President Carter's attitude toward Israel Thursday night at a Jewish temple in Denver, Peres said that while he criticizes Begin at home, he stresses unifying factors when he visits foreign countries. He added that the Begin government should be given a thorough chance. "Israel right now is at a watershed. It is facing an extremely important decision. Hopefully, there will be peace. We have to go ahead with construction of the country," he said.

Still. Grant is looking for big things, and not simply because he himself tends to do things in a big way, such as putting together 1,600 acres for industrial development in the Tulsa area.

'We rather suspect we'll have 3.8 million sales of existing homes this year," he said, even though weather conditions depressed sales in January and February. We're ready to ride that prophecy.'

People somehow seem to get the mon-

Maybe it's because of equity from a previous home or two wage-earners, or moonlighting, or simply that incomes have kept pace. But as Morgan Guaranty states, people aren't just buying a roof, they're buying a profit too. Grant says it another way: They're all aware of the the profit potential." That's a strong incentive.

Housing For Department Of Energy Becomes Partisan Issue

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter won easy congressional approval for his Department of Energy but may be getting edgy about where the 9,000 workers will find office space.

The new department has its eye on the 9-year-old James Forrestal Building near Capitol Hill. But the 5,000 Defense Department employees now there don't want to be evicted from those desirable Congressional debate on the issue has taken on a partisan tone with Democrats generally supporting the move and many Republicans denouncing it as a costly boondoggle.

The building in dispute was built to serve as a second but smaller Pentagon.

The General Services Administration says it plans to spend $17 million to move the Energy Department in and relocate the defense bureaucrats in eight other subcommittee, acknowledge that one of the eight locations hasn't been built and that it will cost $98 million to construct.

Republican subcommittee members. adding the construction costs to the moving expenditure, said this week the move will set tax payers back at least $115 million, not counting the $5.4 million the GSA wants to spend to upgrade the Forrestal Building.

Despite those objections the subcom-mittee voted 12-7 to accept the GSA's version of the costs and to recomend that the full committee urge House approval.

"I think there is a better way to go and I think the 5,000 employees of the Department of Defense have some rights," said Rep. William F. Walsh, R-N.Y., one the future by assuring adequate water supplies of acceptable quality," says A.L. Black, chairman of the Texas Water Quality Board. "In order to accommodate this shift in population and avoid finding ourselves in a condition where unemployment is rampant, welfare payments are burdensome and necessities of life are missing it is necessary to bring along the water to compliment the other resources of Texas." Already, underground Houston is a spaghetti bowl of water mains and pipes, valves, pumps, faucets and conduits of every size and description.

Black said should Houston's growth stop at once the area would still need an additional 255,000 acre-feet of surface water annually.

An acre foot is the amount of water needed to flood one acre with one foot of water, or 325,850 gallons.

The balloon-like growth of Texas' larger cities has created the predictable squabbles over water rights, water prices, bond issues, rights-of-way, and a myriad of problems associated with moving water to your kitchen or bath-

Groundwater accounts for 60 percent of Houston's water supply while surface water accounts for the remaining 40 percent. One-third of that is lost by leaking and broken water mains.

With 1,000 persons a week moving into Houston, the city struggles to keep up with the demand of industry and residential users for water. "We think we have plenty of water but the problem is trying to keep up with expansion - getting the pipes and pumping stations in. There will always be wells and we can go farther and farther out for our water but then the farther out you go the more it costs to pipe the water back," explained H.R. Norman, assistant director of the Houston Department of Public Works.

Getting water for thirsty Houstonians is not the problem, Norman said. The problem is how much are they ultimately willing to pay for it.

"We began seeing shortages back in the 1940s and began planning for them. That's when we built Lake Houston," Norman said. He said planners have long considered going as far east as the Neches and Sabine rivers for water but they have delayed such schemes because of the high costs involved. "There's no

Instead, he drew all the trumps, then ran the hearts. He later cashed the ace king of diamonds in the hope of dropping the queen, but when that failed he could gather only eleven tricks.

The defense was stunning-West's heart return is one of the best plays we have come across in some time. Nevertheless, we fault South for failing to spot a dummy reversal that would have landed his contract easily.

When the second trump lead reveals the 4-1 trump break, declarer should cash the ace-king of diamonds. then cross to dummy with a heart. He cashes one more heart on which he discards a diamond. ### At Wit's End...

Someday, some bright insurance executive will come up with a policy for parents of teenagers who leave to get their own apartments.

It has taken us two years to adjust to our daughter getting her own apartment. Two years of walking through rooms that used to have furniture, closets that used to hold linens and towels, cupboards that at one time stored cooking utensils and dishes.

The only thing she left was an echo. We were younger then.

Like the proud phoenix bird, we built from the ashes, adding a chair here. * a table there. Several of our friends gave Booster showers and in time we had the humble beginnings of a lived-in home.

The other day our son announced he was getting his own apartment. I nearly passed out. "Not again. I couldn't take it - having only one set of sheets per bed. bare floors: lamps with no bulbs

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: There is an old man who goes to our church. He's very friendly and everyone likes him, but he's beginning to get on the girls' nerves. (By "girls", I mean any female between 12 and 60.)

You can't really call him a "dirty old man," although he acts like it at times. I wouldn't mind a brief hug as a greeting, but this man does a lot of pinching and patting in the clinches.

I mentioned this to a girlfriend of mine who has also been on the receiving end of his pinching and patting, and she said, 'Forget it - he's 93!"

Abby, do you think a man should be excused for his actions because of his age? PINCHED AND PATTED

Dear P'and P: Certainly, there are two periods in a man's life when he can get away with anything. When he's too young to know what he's doing, and when he's too old.

DEAR ABBY: My sister has a 10-yearold son who was born with one deaf ear and about one-third hearing in the other ear. His doctors have informed my sister that eventually the boy will be totally deaf.

Don't you think my sister is being extremely unfair to hide the truth from her son? She is an intelligent woman, but she seems almost ashamed of her son's handicap. She said she couldn't bear the thought of his studying lip reading or sign language so young

She thinks highly of your advice, Abby, so please answer.

CARING AUNT

Dear Aunt: Your sister is doing her son a shocking disservice. The boy should stari preparing immediately to live in a silent world. It will be much more difficult for him to learn after he has suffered a total hearing loss.

Urge your sister to discuss it with her son's doctors and to follow their recommendations. And I hope for the boy's sake she acts at once.

DEAR ABBY: Our 17-year-old son got a ticket for speeding (he has no car, it was his father's), so we took away his driving privileges for a month. It has been only five days now and this boy is unbearable. He is ugly and hateful. He hardly eats, and he refuses to look at us. He answers our questions with grunts and shrugs, and he says he won't be "nice" until we give him one more chance and restore his driving privileges.

My husband has had one coronary and was told to keep calm and avoid excitement, but this son of ours is pushing him to the boiling point.

I honestly don't know how to cope with this. Should we give in?

SULKY'S MOTHER

Dear Mother: If you "give in" now, you will teach your son that the way to get what he wants in life is to punish those around him with his ugliness. Ignore his act. If he doesn't eat, it's his hunger. Don't ask him any questions. It will only provide him with an opportunity to exhibit his surliness. Let him sweat it out. You'll be doing him a favor.

If you put off writing letters because you don't know what to say, get Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters For All Occasions." Send $1 and a long, starnped (24 cents) envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Mime Helps In Education Classes

NEW BRITAIN, Conn. (AP) - Mallory Bagwell likes his students to clown around - that's what he's teaching them to do.

Bagwell teaches a class in mime and clowning at Central Connecticut State College and at Tunxis Community College in Farmington.

Many of his students at Central Connecticut are education majors. He says mime is particularly useful in special education classes, where it can help students improve self-image and coordina-

Miming and clowning are the same kind of art, contends Bagwell, who gave up a circus contract for a teaching career.

Kits For Building Log Cabins Have Different Price Ranges

Associated Press Writer - We are turning an old porch into an extra room and are having some trouble deciding on a window at the front. We know that regular windows can be purchased in standard sizes all ready to be inserted in the framing, but now we are thinking about the possibility of putting in a bay window. Can it be bought readymade'

A. - Yes. It can be purchased as a complete unit, including the casing. You will have to check the local building regulations, as some of them require that the bay window be supported by a special footing and foundation attached to the regular foundation.

Q. - Sometime within the next few months, our family may attempt to put up a log cabin, not for a vacation home but as a year-round residence. We understand there are many places where kits are sold with all the materials necessary for constructing the house. Do you have any idea of what these kits cost and where they can be obtained?

A. - The kits have a price range as wide as that for houses in general. You can get them for a few thousand dollars to more than $100,000, depending on how large a cabin or log home you want. Write for some of the available brochures and catalogs from different companies and then decide what you want to do. In making your assessments, remember to be sure you know what each kit contains so that you will have an idea of what extra costs there are, as for plumbing, wiring, heating, etc. Some of the places to write for information are: Wickes Lumber, 515 N. Washington St., Saginaw, Mich. 48607; New England Log Homes, 2301 State St., Hamden, Conn. 06518; Ward Cabin Co., P.O. Box 72, Houlton, Maine 04730; and Boyne Falls Log Homes, Boyne Falls, Mich. 49713. There are literally dozens of other companies that sell log cabin kits, but those happen to be firms whose addresses are handy at this time.

er. The panels of the shed are wood. I never finished the wood, since it seemed to have some kind of clear finish already on it. The panels now are getting kind of messy and I am thinking about using varnish on them. Should I use spar varnish? A. - There are additional details re-

Observes Alliance By SYD KRONISH Associated Press Writer

U.S. Stamp

Two hundred years ago the American colonies signed an alliance with France which ultimately helped win the Revolutionary War. To honor the bicentennial of this historic event, the U.S. Postal Service will issue a 13-cent commemorative stamp at York, Pa., on May 4 - the site where the alliance was ratified by the second Continental Congress.

Issuance of the stamp in York marks the second consecutive year that a U.S. commemorative stamp has been dedicated in this same city. The 1977 adhesive observing the 200th anniversary of the drafting of the Articles of Confederation by the Continental Congress was issued in York last September.

When the British occupation of Philadelphia became imminent in the summer. of 1777, the Continental Congress remained in session there until June 1778. and York was thus the capital of the country for some 10 months.

The new stamp features an encircled vignette portraying a porcelain statuette of King Louis XVI and Benjamin Franklin by French sculptor Charles Gabriel Sauvage. In the scene, the French king at left extends to Franklin a document indicating the agreement between the two

The French Alliance stamp is identical in design concept to the Marquis de Lafavette commemorative issued in 1977 to hail the 200th anniversary of the arrival of Lafayette in the United States. Both are in the Bicentennial Series of U.S. stamps which began in 1971. The French Alliance stamp is the only U.S. Bicentennial issue scheduled for 1978.

If you affix your own stamp at the local post office, then address your cover accordingly with the stamp in the upper right hand corner and with peelable return address labels on the envelope. Stamps must be in the upper right corner of the envelope. Return addresses should be on the right side of the envelope near the bottom. Orders must be postmarked no later than May 19 and forwarded to "First Day Cancellations, Postmaster, York, Pa. 17405." No remittance is re-

Photos Capture Wife's Memory

Associated Press Writer

This is a love story.

I love photography. That love came first, when I was a youngster more than half a century ago. And I loved my wife, my partner for 40

The beauty of photography's love is that it begs to be shared with others for then it expands and multiplies its joys, excitement and rewards. I also love my children and grandchildren. And photography has welcomed them with lavish attention and ample Photography is blessed with a permanent memory and total recall. So when we turn the pages of our family photo albums, we remember again the joyous events, the memorable sights and the parade of people in our lives.

That is a blessing now. My wife died a week ago and the period of mourning has been made easier by reviewing a multitude of memories that we shared so beautifully.

Gertrude was my photo shadow, always attached or just a step away. On our many travel trips, while I concentrated on shooting with one, two or three cameras, she carried the gadget bag. The children dubbed her "pack horse number one" on our photo safaris.

She took pictures too and she had two specialties. Using a simple Instamatic, she focused on children everywhere because they reminded her of her own children or grandchildren. And she would take pictures of me in action to show that I was along on the trip.

At times, that could be embarrassing. Like the view of me taking an early morning view from a balcony - garbed only in shorts. Or the time I slid down a rock into a lake, holding the camera up high to save it. I had to strip completely to wring out my clothes. That's the shot

Gertrude was patient, uncomplaining and always ready to be the symbolic human figure in any composition when needed - someone to read a signpost or the spectator admiring a scenic view or the person in the foreground or background to add perspective to a scene.

She was also the alert liaison agent with

Thanks to Gertrude, our home displays a color photograph of which I am most proud. We were in a motel in Toledo, Spain, in March 1963. She awoke very early, pulled back the heavy drapes and saw a glorious sunrise. She hesitated just a moment, then decided to wake me. I saw the magnificent sight and got every camera into action. Out of it came one memorable 35mm Kodacolor negative. With the camera angled down from our balcony, I focused on two boys lugging a basket of coal between them. The sun hit my lens, producing a path of light with rainbow colors at the narrower top edge. The figures were silhouetted with long shadows reaching toward cobblestone steps in the bottom

When I became bogged down with pictures and more pictures, it was Gertrude who organized the family albums and found a home for the prints. She really reached the heights with a series of grandchildren albums. Mori was talked into seeking the job, perversely, by a friend who warned him, 'Don't do it, because no one can do it."

Lioness Escapes Circus In Cairo

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) - A pregnant lioness named Fawzia escaped from the National Circus Thursday and frightened pedestrians and motorists before officials caught her catnapping inside the Justice Ministry.

After causing considerable confusion in the Egyptian capital's streets, Fawzia sought refuge in the Justice Ministry, where, exhausted, she lay down to sleep. Police summoned an animal trainer who gave her an anesthetic before taking her back to the circus. Police said Fawzia escaped from her cage after losing her temper, apparently because of abdominal pains caused by her pregnancy.

Canada's Dollar Falls In Trade

TORONTO (UPI) - The beleaguered Canadian dollar has slipped below 87 U.S. cents for the first time since the depths of the Depression, reflecting Canada's record unemployment and mounting inflation.

At the end of hectic trading Thursday, Canada's dollar changed hands at 86.93 U.S. cents. It reached a high point of $1.03 in November 1976.

Pressured by this week's bad economic news from Ottawa - the biggest rise in inflation in three years and a record 1 million unemployed - the Canadian currency fell to its lowest since 1933 when it plunged to an all-time low of 82.47 U.S.

Families Of Soldiers Eating In Mess Halls

BONN, West Germany (AP) - American soldiers in West Germany are being allowed to stretch their devalued dollars by taking their families to eat in Army mess halls, and military officials say the two-week-old test program is working

"We get about four or five dependents eating here on weekdays. It's usually around 20, 25 on the weekend. I expect the numbers will pick up soon, maybe around 40, 45 a day," said Sgt. Harry L. Shook, who works at the 3rd Infantry Division headquarters dining facility in Wuerzburg.

"I don't like it myself. It's no extra trouble, but my opinion is, this facility is for soldiers, not dependents. The way the mark is going up though, you can't blame them. If I had a family, I'd bring them here too," Shook said.

Like most other Army mess halls in West Germany, the Wuerzburg facility has been serving soldiers' wives and children since April 1. Previously mess halls were off limits to dependents except on such special occasions as Christmas and Thanksgiving.

Under a nine-month trial program first announced by the Pentagon in March, mess privileges are being made available wherever possible to dependents of soldiers in the nine lowest pay-grades - enlisted men and the lower two warrant and by European traders, an apparent spinoff from an improvement in the standing of the U.S. dollar.

"The unemployment report was bad for the dollar, but as far as the markets were concerned, the (inflation report) was the worst news," one trader said.

Statistics Canada said Tuesday the number of Canada's jobless rose 0.3 percent in March over February, to an unadjusted national level of almost 10 per-

The agency delivered another blow when it reported a 1.1 percent jump in the Consumer Price Index between February and March to an annual inflation rate of 8.8 percent - the largest rise since a 1.4 percent increase in July 1975.

Financial experts say the decrease in value of the dollar will help restore Canada's international competitive position but only if there is no sharp outbreak of inflation.

They say the lower Canadian dollar causing higher prices for necessary imports - leads to increased inflation, and business must succeed in keeping costs down to American levels.

But Canada's major labor unions have repeatedly said they will not voluntarily restrict salary demands as the government this month pulls out of its threeyear program of wage and price controls.

Introduced to boost the morale of soldiers hit by the dollar decline, the program is designed particularly to help 20,-000 low-ranking servicemen who brought their families to West Germany at their own expense and do not qualify for free military housing. They have been hardest hit by a slump in the exchange value of the dollar from 2.40 German marks early last year to only about two marks now.

Climbing rent and other bills paid in marks have brought many below the poverty line, recently prompting West Germans who remember post-war CARE packages to donate money, food and other items to needy soldiers.

The program aims to provide soldiers and their families with "a standard of living to which every American citizen is entitled," a statement by U.S. Army Europe (USAREUR) headquarters in Heidelberg said.

"The dining facilities provide good meals, wholesome food and American-style menus," said USAREUR civilian spokesman Rex Gribble. "Dependent dining offers a plus for the wife, freeing her from cooking and dishwashing a few evenings a month."

The aim is not so much to save soldiers money by offering their families a cheap substitute for home meals, but to let them get away from home for a change and eat out at a reasonable price, USA-

REUR officials say. In fact, the mess hall meals generally are no cheaper than eating at home, though they are far more economical than using devalued dollars to pay the mark bill at a German restaurant, he The dependents get up to three meals each day of the week. Adults pay 90 cents for breakfast, $1.45 for lunch and dinner, and $1.65 for brunch, with children under 12 paying about one-third less. USAREUR logistics experts are monitoring the program to recommend whether it should be continued after the trial ends Dec. 31. Sgt. 1st Class Ebert E. Goodman, manager of the dining facility at VII Corps' Kelly Barracks in Stuttgart, said the lowest ranks are not the only ones taking up We have one E-9 who sends in his children once or twice a week," he said.

Army officials had feared that dependents might add too great an additional burden on dining facilities.

But, said Goodman, "it hasn't really affected our work schedule at all, because we get just maybe one or two dependents on an average per meal. I was really surprised. I expected more people to come in. It could change in the near future,

"I don't think we'll have that many dependents coming," said Sgt. 1st Class William Thomas, manager of the dining facility at Patton Barracks in Heidelberg, which opened to families this week. "But we're all for it. It's no problem for us," he said. The Air Force has operated a similar program since 1971, said Capt. Joe Burke, European headquarters spokesman at Ramstein Air Base.

Unit commanders must decide whether local conditions permit introducing the system, but "most USAFE halls are serving guests and relatives if accompanied by a sponsor," Burke said.

Dollar Moves Up Today

LONDON (AP) - The dollar took on a healthier look in Europe's money markets today and edged up slightly against the strong Japanese yen to end the week there at 219.425, compared with Thursday's closing rate of 218.875.

The Tokyo price rose as high as 219.55 yen after opening at 219.20. Traders said the rise was in anticipation of a Japanese government announcement Saturday of what is believed in the market to be a record or near record surplus of about $2.2 billion in March.

Conventions Boost Economy Of KC

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) - Convention and visitor traffic in Kansas City was big business in 1977, with city officials reporting that more than five million visitors created a $1.5 billion impact on the local economy during the past year.

Two major hotel developments have taken place recently that could affect Kansas City's convention future. Hallmark Cards, Inc., has announced a 750room $40 million Hyatt Regency Hotel to be built at Crown Center. The City Council has voted to purchase a downtown block targeted for a second new luxury

Convention and meeting business in 1977 rose to 116,426,000 - 18.5 percent above 1976. Tourist spending increased to $122,830,000 - 10 percent over the previous year, according to Ray Bennison, president of the city's Convention and Visitors Bureau

Related services are planned that day elsewhere, such as at New York's Riverside Church, with some churches to distribute the "star" at special services Thursday, suggesting members wear it to work or school through the week.

The events are to culminate Saturday, April 22, with "solidarity walks" in many cities and towns. "We intend to make it a national day of Christian-Jewish solidarity." McEvov says.

In most cases, Christian congregations wearing the star will walk in a body to a nearby synagogue, usually at about the end of closing Sabbath services, with Jews and Christians then joining in services memorializing the 6 million Jews slain under Nazism.

That holocaust also was being depicted in a four-part NBC television dramatization April 16 through 19.

Czech Town In Texas Seems Like Europe

By SUSAN STOLER

CORN HILL (AP) - If this little Central Texas town seems familiar to seasoned travelers it may be that it seems more European than Texan, more Czech than red neck.

Located 17 miles north of Georgetown. Corn Hill is a slice of the "Old Country" somehow airlifted across time and space to this pastoral region just off Interstate 35, 17 miles north of Georgetown.

Perched atop a hill overlooking blackland corn and cotton fields is a church built as a miniature of the 14th Century St. Vitus Cathedral at the Prague Castle in Czechoslovakia's capital.

The slate-covered, twin spires of Holy Trinity Catholic Church rise over a setting similar to what Texas' Czech settlers

"It's pretty much like the old country, says the Rev. Gideon Stram, pastor of the church's 180 families. "They settled here and felt at home.

Stram came to America from Hungary in 1949 to escape Russian harassment of priests and religion teachers, but was oorn in what is now Czechoslovakia.

The close community ties that characterize rural European parishes remain at Holy Trinity, he said.

"They're easy to get along with, like a big family. Just Saturday we had a work day to clean the church and a lot of older people even came and helped," he said. Church records show Corn Hill was set-

The forthcoming 91/2-hour television dramatization, "The Holocaust," has all the makings of being the religious television event of the year.

The program, to be presented on NBC-TV over four consecutive nights, details the monstrous story of Hitler's war against the Jews - a war that engulfed the whole world in combat, resulted in the murder of six million Jews and which still lingers on, reviving nightmare memories among Holocaust survivors as a small band of Nazis seek to march through Skokie, Ill.

The television series has been hailed not only by Jews but by mainline and evangelical Protestant, Roman Catholic and Eastern Orthodox religious leaders as among the most important religious television events ever to appear on commercial television.

The series traces the interacting lives of two fictional Berlin families, one Jewis and one Nazi, from 1935 to 1945.

Leading the way in aiding both Jews and Christians to intelligently view the program has been the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, which sees the program as a kind of Jewish "Roots" the powerful dramatization of black his-

"Just as the dramatization stirred all of America and raised the consciousness for and about blacks, 'The Holocaust' is very likely to have the same impact for and about Jews," according to Albert Vorspan, UAHC vice president and director of its Commission on Social Action

Criticism Aired About Manual

ST. LOUIS (UPI) - The Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod is asking its leaders to stop using a conversion manual that has been criticized as anti-Semitic. The Rev. Erwin J. Kolb, director of the synod's evangelism department, said the request will be included in the latest edition of the "Reporter," a weekly synodi-cal publication. Kolb said a revised version of the manual is expected by July 1. Officials of the American Jewish Committee complained last week that the manual, titled "Witnessing to Jewish People," used stereotypes of Jews, inluding drawings of so-called typical Jews "Mr. and Mrs. Abe Goldstein. The Jewish leaders complained that the Lutheran effort at conversion amounts to a declaration that Judaism is an incomplete and inadequate religion. Kolb denied criticism that Jews were unfairly targeted for the conversion ef-the series as well as showings on large television screens in synagogues.

In addition, NBC-TV, in cooperation with the American Jewish Committee, has prepared its own "Viewers' Guide to Holocaust," covering such areas as how could it happen, resistance and armed struggle and the lesson to be learned. The National Council of Churches' Communications Commission has also produced a study guide around the individual shows in the series.

"This series provides an excellent means for Christians and Jews to study together and to explore ways of cooperation and sharing," says Dr. William L. Weiler, executive director of the office on Christian-Jewish relations of the National Council of Churches.

"The series is especially appropriate in confronting the recent rise of neo-Nazism in Europe and North America," he add-

Dr. Sterling Cary, former president of the NCC, said the series "provides much material for discussion the issue of anti-Semitism. It shows how amoral problem solvers can become immoral exponents and implementers of genocide" while the Rev. Victor Albers of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod said, "I hope that every Christian and especially every Lutheran family sees the film."

Dr. Paul Stevens, president of the Southern Baptist Convention's radio and television commission and a prominent television' watchdog, called the series "a watershed in the moral and spiritual life of many of us who feel that somehow our day and generation should learn some things from the failure of the past.' Religious believers who view the series will be confronted by the theological question - some would say mystery - of evil in the world: how and why does it happen?

It is a question with no easy answer. Nor can anyone dismiss what happened in the Holocaust as a mere warp in history, never to be repeated.

'The Holocaust," said Frederic Brussat, "creates an occassion for Christians and Jews to come together in a common even liturgical - act of remembrance.

"In this salutary use, the television medium may actually create a climate for renewed dialogue and understanding between Christians and Jews.

Volunteers Serve As Chaplains At New Hospital

Twenty-two Lubbock ministers are participating in a program at Health Sciences Center Hospital here which provides chaplaincy services to patients on a ull-time basis.

'The program was initiated as a part of the hospital's philosophy of caring for the total patient," said Gerald G. Bosworth, executive director.

Plans for the program were drafted by a steering committee, chaired by the Rev. Jim Sutherlin, pastor of Lubbock's First Christian Church.

.Other members of the committee who were active in establishing the program were: the Rev. Bob Nicholson, First Presbyterian Church; the Rev. Joseph James, St. Elizabeth Catholic Parish; the Rev. Richard Brunk, Gloria Dei Lutheran Church; and the Rev. Lawrence Keene, Shepherd King Lutheran Church. The program was launched March 1 with members of the committee providing chaplaincy services to the patients in the hospital. "The month of March was a time of developing guidelines and procedures for the program," the Rev. Nichol-

A luncheon was held in March for ministers wanting to serve in the program and 22 of them signed up to participate. "Our goal is to sign up 28-30 ministers who will take chaplaincy call one day out of a four-week schedule," the Rev. Suth-

Chaplains begin their duty at 3 p.m. each day and work until 3 p.m. the next day. During the 24-hour period, the volunteer chaplains visit with pre-operative patients as well as all newly-admitted pa-

"During their visiting with patients, the ministers in no way try to take the place they seek to augment his work. Very often, the hospital chaplain will notifiy a patient's personal clergyman of that per-son's confinement in the hospital," Bos-

For those persons hospitalized who do not have a A church preference or a personal clergyman, but feel the need for spiritual guidance during their stay, the volunteer chaplains work to fill this need.

To ensure continuity in the program, the chaplains participate in a report period each afternoon before the 3 p.m. duty time begins. This gives the chaplain going off duty a chance to fill in the new chaplain on those patients who have expressed a desire to have spiritual supporting during their stay.

"As the number of retired ministers nd those serving as associate ministers grows, we hope to have volunteer pastors who will come in on Sunday mornings and provide services for patients in the hospital chapel," said David Butler, director of community relations for the hospital and coordinator of the chaplaincy program.

"We already are in the process of making arrangements for a Saturday night Mass for our Catholic patients," Butler continued.

During hours when the chaplain is not in the building, he can be reached by radio page through the hospital operator. "Not only has the program been meaningful to the hospital and its patients, most of the ministers participating have indicated that it has been meaningful to them." Butler said.

The Rev. Nicholson said: "The pregram has provided two important opportunities for me-the first is a responsiveness to the informational needs and personal anxieties on the part of the patients and their families; and second, sorting and sharing with the medical staff revelant concerns to enable more effective relating to the patient and family.'

Butler said each of the chaplains has told him there is a real challenge each time they enter a patient room in that each situation is new and different..."each patient's needs are unique." Ministers participating are: the Rev. Itlefield.

Visitor Scheduled At Trinity Church

Dr. Harold Sala, director of Guidelines International, will be speaker at Lubbock's Trinity Church, Sunday night at the night worship service.

Dr. Sala is a radio Bible commentator, author of more than a dozen books and publications, and is founder of the Guidelines ministries involving radio, production and distribution of Christian literature, and the sponsorship of family living

Dr. Sala in 1963 was associate pastor of a large church when he said he began to take seriously the words of Jesus, which charged "Go into all the world and preach the gospel to every person." Dr. Sala said he felt like Jesus meant what he said, so he (Dr. Sala) chose radio as the most viable means of accomplishing "the Great Commission.

Today, "Guidelines For Living" and Guidelines For Family Living," two programs which Dr. Sala produces, are translated into 12 languages and broadcast to at least 25 countries.

Dr. Sala lives in Mission Viejo, Calif.

Two Texas Democratic gubernatorial candidates have found an issue they agree on - that they disagree with President Carter on the defeat of the emergency farm bill in the U.S. House.

The President said the defeat was 'good both for the farmers and good for

Attorney General John Hill, campaigning Thursday in San Antonio, said "Our farmers cannot survive another year of red ink and our consumers will lose in the long run if our family farms are taken over by corporate conglomerates.

"Now that the 1978 bill is dead, it's time to take another look at the 1977 bill, which is a four-year program we all know has serious weaknesses," Hill added.

Saying he was "extremely disappointed" by defeat of the bill. Gov. Dolph Briscoe said "Over the past months I have worked closely with the Congress and the administration to develop a program which could give desperately needed relief to Texas farmers

Farmers produce the food that feeds not only America but other nations. They are entitled to some relief," the governor continued Reagan Brown, seeking re-election as state agriculture commissioner, said in Austin he was "tremendously disappointed that our farmers did not get the desired changes in the farm bill. However, this does not signal the end of our efforts to get legislation that will bring stability to agriculture.

'All segments of agriculture must unite to level out the boom and bust cycles that have proved to be so disastrous," Brown

A House subcommittee on public education put off for a week action on a request that the subcommittee subpoena the tapes made when Briscoe and Hill were interviewed by the Texas State Teachers Association's political arm. The teachers group, which endorsed Hill, has refused to release the tapes although both Briscoe and Hill have given their approval.

New Texas residents should be told that the state does not require iron-clad Republican registration. gubernatorial candidate Bill Clements told Houston supporters Thursday.

"We want them all to know they can vote in either primary and then vote their choice in the general election." he said.

The Public Utility Commission should establish one rate for electricity usage in Texas and eliminate the "bonus" rate for big industry, Joe Christie, a Democratic candidate for U.S. Senate, said Thursday.

Christie said "Texans don't want handouts. They never have, but they want fair treatment:

Opposition to the proposed settlement between Lo-Vaca Gathering Co. and its customers was voiced by Jake Johnson, a Democratic candidate for the remainder of an unexpired term on the Texas Railroad Commission. He told an Austin news conference that listening to the discussion of the settlement is "like being a witness to the unconditional surrender of rights of consumers in Texas."

Another Democratic candidate for the railroad commission, John Thomas Henderson, criticized his opponent, incumbent commissioner Mack Wallace, for approving a rate increase sought by Southern Union Gas Co. in Austin. sense to build them plants and pipelines) until you need them.

Picturesque San Antonio — called by some the Queen City of the Southwest - lies like a jewelled reward at the base of the Texas Hill Country. To the north and west the ground climbs heavily toward the Edwards Plateau. South of the Alamo City the land falls quickly into the trackless brush country of chaparral

San Antonio's growth now rivals Dallas and here again agua dulce is an issue. The city's only source of drinking water is the Edwards Aquifer whose recharge zone lies along the city's northers rim. Its protection against contamination and pollution by burgeoning development has become a major political issue.

Reynolds Cate, a member of the San Antonio River Authority board, has warned that sole reliance on the Edwards Aquifer is a dangerous dependence. We definitely need to plan for an auxilliary source. If San Antonio keeps growing at a healthy pace we could be in the same straits as areas like California and Idaho are now. I've been told as long as we have good rains in the recharge. zone, about as much water goes into the aquifer as we now take out. In the early 1950s we had seven years of drought but the city was much smaller then. If that cycle repeated itself we'd be in serious trouble," he said.

Cate said programs such as the Texas Water Plan to import water from other states is no longer a realistic solution. Instead, he offered, revival of the Cibolo Creek Reservoir proposal would help insure adequate water for San Antonio's future. The proposal has been turned aside, however, by city fathers and remains on a back shelf

At present, San Antonio is primarily dependent on the Edwards Aquifer for its water, and upon the rain gods who keep it recharged.

The San Antonio City Water Board has repeatedly tried to get the city council to approve purchase of surface water supplies from the Guadalupe-Blanco River Authority but councilman Glen Hartman has accused the board of manipulation of data, and scare tactics to support its position.

Hartman said the board's own report on projected water needs actually shows a decrease in per capita water use over the past 16 years. Additionally, Hartman said, the Edwards Aquifer recharge shows it to be more than adequate for the foreseeable future

Hartman said the board's report on San Antonio water needs for the future was "in my view a flagrant violation of what should be the cornerstone of any city department or agency - candor More than one million persons from Uvalde east to New Braunfels depend on the Edwards Aquifer and, according to the Edwards Underground Water District, there is more than enough water to go around. Over the past 25 years the area between Dallas and Fort Water has blurred so predictably that it is now possible to travel the 30-mile span without ever leaving a corporate city limit. Grand Prairie, Arlington and other communities in the "mid-cities" area all have become major links in the same huge chain

This large metropolitan area gets its water in part from the Trinity Group Aquiter-a vast underground reservoir that covers much of North and Central Texas. It has been intensely developed for municipal and industrial use in the Dallas-Fort Worth area, and formerly supplied much of the municipal needs for Waco. The tremendous drain on the aquifer by Dallas-Fort Worth has lowered pumping levels and increased costs. Authorities claim the region will double its need for water by the year 2000. Most of the useable water now comes from sur-

LONDON (AP) - Most European na- ple. tions report more people than ever are campaigns by government and medical

Although comparable statistics were not always available, an Associated Press survey showed smoking on the increase in Austria, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, France, Germany, Greece, Romania and Smokers elsewhere seemed to be puffing away as usual, except in Italy and in Britain where a reported seven million people have stopped.

Besides those who have stopped smoking, millions of others say they wish they could but can't, according to an opinion poll by Britain's Department of Health. The survey disclosed nearly seven out of every 10 British smokers would like to kick the habit.

Finland claims to have the world's toughest anti-smoking law, which makes it a criminal offense to sell tobacco or anything relating to smoking to anyone under age 16. All tobacco advertising is banned. So is smoking in places where persons under 16 are allowed.

The latest country to clamp down on cigarette advertising is Greece, whose population includes the heaviest smokers in Europe, according to the Greek minister of social welfare, Dr. Spyros Doxiades, a non-smoker.

Doxiades calculated Greeks older than 15 smoke about 50 cigarettes a week. Estimates in Romania say persons older than 14 smoke about 15 cigarettes a week

The Moscow Literary Gazette has complained that in Soviet schools there is "a growing incidence of smoking among sixth, seventh and eighth graders, a trend often aggravated by the bad example of

In Switzerland, one high school class of 15-year-olds in Basel publicly urged teachers not to smoke where children can Smoking is tolerated in schools in Belgium, but in Czechoslovakia the national anti-smoking program is part of the school curriculum.

Cigarette prices vary greatly around Europe, but cost seems to hold no relationship with the number smoked.

A pack of Romanian cigarettes can cost as little as 20 cents while in Denmark, smokers pay $2.50 per pack. In West Germany, a pack of 22 smokes was hiked to $1.50 with a Jan. 1, 1977, 20cent tax increase. Smokers there reacted by switching to pipes and cigars or rolling their own cigarettes, but a year later, officials report the trend is headed back toward packaged cigarettes. Warnings of the health risks of smoking appear on cigarette packages in Britain, Belgium, Finland, Norway and Sweden and may appear in Czechoslovakia, France, Greece and Italy.

Newspapers and broadcast media in Europe have been widely publicizing the medical hazards of smoking.

In Sweden, where 43 men out of 100 and 34 women of 100 are smokers, the Swedish State Television carries an antismoking campaign on the popular family program, "Sveriges Magasin.

The campaign, planned to go on for months, features anti-smoking experts and a group of heavy smokers who are

On quitting the habit, Mike Daube of the British Action on Smoking and Health group said: "Although there is no miracle cure, seven million Britons have stopped smoking

British official figures March 3 showed national cigarette consumption fell in 1977 to 125.9 billion, down 312 percent from in 1976.

British television, which is forbidden to advertise cigarettes, carries government advertising urging smokers to at least cut down if they can't stop.

The Soviet Union has had mixed success in banning smoking in restaurants, public transportation, government buildings and hospitals.

The Black Sea resort of Sochi declared itself the country's first No Smoking City in 1976. Some people covertly disobey, but the bans on smoking in public places which extend to the famous beaches are enforced.

The Soviet campaign includes a ban on smoking aboard internal Aeroflot flights of less than five hours.

Smoking on national flights is banned ilso in Czechoslovakia, where smoking in hospitals also is forbidden.

WASHINGTON (AP) - On the morning after President Carter delivered his latest fight-inflation speech, Washington newspaper readers could take their pick of reaction reported from business and financial circles.

The lead article in the business section of the Washington Post said "business leaders, such as General Motors Corp. Chairman Thomas A. Murphy, expressed relief that the president continued to reeet wage and price controls

Four pages later, under a headline that read "Dollar Weakens Sharply After Carter's Comments," a New York foreign exchange specialist, James Sinclair, was quoted as saying, "The market had anticipated some form of controls other than the voluntary restraint called for."

Carter, in his carefully prepared address Tuesday to the American Society of Newspaper Editors, noted that, where inflation is concerned, "There are no easy

This was of an understate ment. Indeed, every American will be watching to see if there are any workable answers that do not carry political or economic price tags too inflated to be acceptable to Carter, the Congress, business and labor

Already the unions that represent federal workers are in full cry against a central feature of Carter's anti-inflation program - a proposal to limit the 1978 salary increases for government white collar employees to 5.5 percent.

Carter said he was bent on "setting an example for labor and industry to moderate price and wage increases.

So, for purposes of argument, let's assume Congress approves the wage hike ceiling and that private employers do the same. Then further assume that living costs rise this year by about 7 percent, a level believed likely by many economists.

Obviously, in such circumstances, the worker who is limited to a 5.5 percent wage boost would not be able to buy as much with his 1978 salary as he could a year ago.

Equally obvious is the fact that if this happened on a massive scale, great numbers of Americans would be forced to lower their standard of living - not drastically, to be sure, but enough to feel a-pinch.

Of course, Carter did not voice a direct appeal for lower living standards. Neverhis effort to have federal workers set an example would be a move toward the kind of belt-tightening that leads logically to at least a mild recession.

To be sure, one certain cure for inflation would be deflation - something not seen in this country since the early 1930s. To repeat, the president is not advocating deflation: he does not want to leave office as the new Herbert Hoover.

WASHINGTON (UPI) - A photographer once traveled to New Mexico from Germany just to photograph Maria Mar-

Mrs. Martinez, now 96, is the matriarch of an American Indian family of artists famous for their black-on-black pottery. She and her husband, Julian, made traditional polychrome and redware pots until about 1908, when a Museum of New Mexico official excavated glossy black pot fragments on their Tewa tribal reservation, San Ildefonso Pueblo, near Santa

The find intrigued them. But when they first tried to copy the ancient designs, they were unable to reproduce the black finish. After many experiments, Julian Martinez did so by smothering the fire in their bonfire kiln with dried horse manure and wood ash.

Critics acclaimed the lustrous, silveryblack pots made by his method as even finer in quality than those the Martinezs' ancestors had made 800 years earlier in never got more than $10 for a 3-to-4-foot pot (in those early days). She sold many for 50 cents to $2."

(Today, authenticated older works are valued in the thousands of dollars, Miss Peterson added. She is guest curator of a current show of Martinez pottery at the Smithsonian Institution's Renwick Gallery in Washington, D.C. It continues through Aug. 13. (She said Mrs. Martinez's newer palmsized pieces that sold for about $95 each about four years ago now bring as much as $595 apiece.) Younger generations of the family continue Maria and Julian's tradition. Mrs. Martinez and several of her descendants flew East recently to open both the Renwick exhibit and the sixth International Craft Show of New York State Craftsmen, Inc. in New York City. Three members of the family attended the New York opening and showed and sold their work there. Mrs. Martinez and her granddaughter, Anita Pino Martinez, returned to the pueblo from Washington.

In an interview at the Renwick, Mrs.

works lent by museums and private owners was like a visit with old friends.

"She remembers all the pots, how they were made, for whom they were made and on what occasion - even though she has not seem them for 50 or 60 years," said Barbara Gonzales, Mrs. Martinez' great-granddaughter and family spokes-

Mrs. Gonzales said the clay, particularly that for the black pots, is considered sacred. Prayers are said spontaneously while the pots are formed.

"We see them as having qualities of a person," she said.

For example, a collection of wide-mouthed pots is thought of as a group of men talking or singing. Pots with bold, simple decorations are considered to have male characteristics. Those with more involved designs are considered

Mrs. Martinez learned to make the pueblo's traditional polychrome pottery by watching an aunt. When she and her husband started making black pots, he began developing designs with his own version of traditional Indian feather patand the water serpent.

Their earliest works were unsigned because each piece was a family effort, Mrs. Gonzales said. But as the value became apparent, they began signing each piece, often with two names. Mrs. Martinez now suffers from arthritis in her hands and walks with a cane, but still makes "pinch pots" by shaping clay in the palm of her hand. She has worked since age 13, except for a few years when she stopped potting to mourn the death of one son, Mrs. Gonzales said.

She said pottery is the family's only source of income. Their pots are unique, she said, because all materials are found on the reservation. After demonstrations, excess materials are packed up and returned there.

The potters of another New Mexico pueblo, Santa Clara, historically have made blackware, Miss Peterson said, but theirs differs from the Martinezs' work in motifs and method. They carve or press designs into the clay instead of painting

Mondales Display Southwestern Art

WASHINGTON (UPI) - A vivid, colorful sampling of contemporary American art on loan from museums in the Southwest now graces the walls of the vice presidential mansion. Joan Mondale unveiled the new art this week at a press luncheon, and confided that although she loves this collection, she found it difficult to part with the previous group of paintings and sculpture from the Midwest that had been on display at the Mondale house for a year.

"I really felt as though I had lost some very good friends," said Mrs. Mondale, adding that she hoped to "visit" some of her favorites that have been returned to their Midwestern museum homes.

The new art - paintings, sculpture, prints, drawing, crafts and photographs from 49 artists - came from 22 museums in Arizona, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas on a year's loan.

Mrs. Mondale has a long interest in the arts and conceived the plan to display borrowed works by American artists in the vice presidential home. Harry Parker, director of the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts, helped her choose the individ-

Mrs. Mondale took reporters on a tour of the house, chatting about the works of art, the artists, their backgrounds, the special colors, techniques and style they employed and the influence they had on American art.

She talked of "delicious colors," surface tension, abstraction, expressionism and "anti-human brutality" found in some of the pieces.

"There's nothing that you want to touch in the painting," she observed. while standing by a large painting by Arizona artist Merrill Mahaffey entitled, "Zoroaster's Temple, Grand Canyon, Ar-

"It's purely visual and has a sense of I think it's going to become one of my favorites."

The new exhibit is more abstract and expressionistic than the Midwestern display, and the bright colors and textures lend an entirely different feeling to the rooms in the huge Victorian house atop a hill in northwest Washington.

Several large paintings are the most outstanding of the collection.

For the first time, the art on loan includes an outdoor sculpture - a 7-foottall composition of geometric shapes in stainless steel - which sits prominently

done by David Smith and is among the last works completed before his death in an automobile accident. The late Hans Hoffman, a German who founded an art school in New York, has two works in the exhibit. Hoffman is considered a major influence in abstract expressionist art. The paintings on display demonstrate techniques of acrylics, heavy applications of brilliantly colored paint, watercolors, tempera and etchings. Also included are pottery, sculpture and ceramics. Mrs. Mondale said her youngest son, William, told her at dinner this week, "I like these paintings better because of the other ones." William has been educated by living for a year with beautiful paintings from the Midwest, and now he's ready to appreciate these," she said.

South Sea Islands Produce Odd Cults

Associated Press Writer VILA, NEW HEBRIDES - The South Sea Islands have long been the habitat and breeding ground of strange and exotic cults.

Here in the New Hebrides, as in New Guinea, cargo cults still flourish as they have since the earliest missionaries and traders began unloading shops and filling up warehouses. The cults reached their peak popularity during World War II when strange metal birds appeared from the sky, university stoves and thousands of other marvelous items. peared from the sky, delivering food, jeeps, kerosene The natives hack out jungle airstrips and build bamboo control towers and rattan hangars, praying that the great spirit in the sky will bless them with a cargo visitation. Bush messiahs have convinced them the cargo was intended for the faithful but diverted and stolen by the greedy white men who somehow have mastered the secrets of cargo, the magic words on the pieces of paper they

During the Vietnam War a Johnson cult flourished on the island of Buka of Bougainville. Unhappy with their chief, the 12,000 Buka islanders decided to kidnap President Lyndon Johnson on his way back from the Manila conference and make him their king. Since Johnson resigned a short time later, he might have been available for the post, but the the word never got to Buka. Anyhow, the plot was thwarted before the war canoes set out to spear down Air Force

Marching Rule cults contest the civil authorities on a number of Pacific islands from time to time, most recently on Malaita in the Solomons. Impressed with the power and savvy of the white men, the cultists adopt the military drills and uniformed trappings of their former colonial rulers and march their guerrilla bands menacingly about the place. Several bloody uprisings have been attrib-

On the artificial coral island of Alite in the Solomons sharks are held to be sacred among the Langa Langa people, and the resulting cult has become a tourist

As a protection against malaria-bearing mosquitos and marauding tribes, the Langa Langa build artificial coral islands in the Florida Strait, criss-crossed with canals through which they now take tourist groups in canoes. The big attraction is watching the high priest call up the sharks and rub noses with them as though the movie "Jaws" had never been invented.

Throughout the thousands of Pacific Islands and atolls stretching from Australia to Easter Island and north to Hawiiaa, all kinds of pourri-pourri sorcerers and witch doctors are on hand to curse the enemy's first born or, at election time, threaten death to those voting for the opposition party. Threats rather than promises make for lively politics. But by far the strangest cult to sweep the South Sea Islands has been brought here by a strange breed of white men called tourists. It is the exotic "Shopping Cult" and most of its believers seem to be women. They alight from the big metal birds clutching their "bilong bags," which is pidgin lingo for the big shoulder bags emblazoned with the name of some air line or travel agency.

Female members of the shopping cult often have pink or purple hair. What can you buy here?" is the first question they ask, invariably followed by, "how much is this in your funny money?" Shopping cultists are obsessed with the thought that bigger and better bargains can be had on the next island, in the next country, at the next stop. They fill their bilong bags with shell necklaces, incredibly junky wooden bowls and carvings, badly woven blankets, costumed native dolls, appalling local art work and other assorted trivia that would give the town dump a bad name and soon will. When it comes to haggling, the more predatory female members of the shopping cults could bring oaths on his mother's eyes to the lips of the proprieter of a Moroccan souk.

Your true blue shopping cultist with the bulging binlong bag is convinced in all foreign climes that she is being cheated, shortchanged, and, worse, out-bargained.

Since shopping cults are a recent phenomenon in these islands, post-dating World War II, there has been no known cultural collision between them and a cargo cult. The mind boggles at the thought.

Would the shopping cultists find the bamboo control towers "perfectly precious" (a common term in their brand of pidgin) and try to buy them? Would the cargo cultists fall down and worship the bilong bags or run in fright from the lavender coiffures? Or would they in disgust reject the outer worldly goods they have coveted for so long?

Apparently some Japanese adherents of shopping cult, growing in numbers in the South Pacific, have adopted the rubrics and rituals of Marching Rule. They obediently fall in line behind tour guides holding aloft parasols, tiny flags and other strange devices when trooping off to the central market, the local wood carver or the crossroads souvenir shop with their bilong bags.

Before signing off this informative anthropological treatise, it must be noted that in the entire pidgin lexicon of shopping cult no words are more mystic, sacred or likely to provoke a stampede than "Duty Free." Most followers of this strange New World cult are believed to have "duty free" written on their hearts, just above the bilong bag.

'The thing that really brought me down was the cold in Chicago. I thought Texas was the place to start in the South," Rogers said.

He was right. With brother Nate as a partner, Rogers built a 140-outlet chain in Texas, Louisiana and New Mexico and hasn't finished yet.

Bosworth Analyzes Inflation

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Barry Bosworth knows why we have inflation. He knows also why we fail to contain it. Nothing confusing about it. No mysteries.

Enhancing this understanding is the position Bosworth holds. He is director of the Council on Wage and Price Stability in the executive office of the president of the United States.

This, of course is the same President Carter who this week promised a more dedicated battle against what many now fear is a destructive surge of inflation.

So why isn't inflation stopped dead? It isn't from lack of understanding, Bosworth and his staff suggest. But it might very well be, they indicate, that we don't have the desire to stop it.

We have over the years limited competition, they say, while humanizing our institutions. We have insulated ourselves from the inequities of competition.

We have also hidden our heads in the sand. We have found it easier to accept rather than challenge. We promise ourselves everything — even that which we cannot afford.

Here, distilled, is Bosworth's explanation, which removes any notions that that we are dealing with a plague whose origins are not understood and and against which Washington is relatively helpless: We know that supply-demand imbalances can initiate inflation. That's wellunderstood. Less easily recognized are the reasons why inflation persists even when the supply-demand balance has been restored.

Structural changes in the economy seem to hold part of the answer. The economy has become less sensitive;

"competitive market restraints on some price and wage increases have become limited."

Labor markets, for instance, operate differently from the textbooks. Shielding wages from market forces are unions, professional groups, changing social attitudes, legal wage rate requirements and the like.

"Similarly in product markets, economies of scale, product differentiation, high fixed costs and long construction periods often limit the number of firms that are in immediate price competition..."

Consider these additional factors. "The growth of the public sector, increased government regulation of private decisions, the growth of non-competitive sectors such as medical care,.."

Add to these: "The declining relative importance of the more price-competitive sectors such as agriculture." Together, they have lengthened the lag in the economy's response to changing market forces.

Long-term contracts complicate the problem. "Because many price and wage rates are not subject to continuous review and modification, they are not immediately responsive to changing market conditions."

We must remember also that our views of what is demanded from the economy have changed. We expect more. And we have attempted to moderate inequities by dulling the edge of raw competition.

Together, these factors "have had a combined effect of reducing normal competitive restraints on individual price and wage decisions and lengthening the time over which they occur.

It is the concluding cause that is perhaps most pertinent to the current political-economic climate, involving directly their boss, President Carter, and Congress.

They begin with an unassailable observation: "People naturally want to catch up with rival groups, maintaining or even improving their relative posi-

But then, without using the word politics, they explain that this desire is fed rather than restrained.

More is promised every interest group (e.g., higher nominal incomes, a cleaner environment, or other aspects of general welfare); but without agreement from others to accept less.."

The difficulty, they continue, "is that the sum of the gains — promised and anticipated — exceeds the economy's capacity to provide them, and ultimately inflation becomes the means by which those promises are scaled down."

While the authors don't say so, most people today know that the donors of ersatz benefits sometimes escape responsibility for the damage they have sewn through their weakness or ambition.

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — There may be "100 bottles of Beer On the Wall," but what is probably the world's fastest canning machine is at work here day and night in a brewery. The world's largest brewer, Anheuser-Busch, reports that the machine can fill 1,610 cans of beer a minute — or approximately 2.3 million cans of beer in a 24-hour period.

Art Theft Problem Worsening

Associated Press Writer

Today's art thieves range from international criminals who send stolen paint-

FOR THE RECORD - Barb Gottlieb punches instructions into a terminal of the computer at the International Association of Art Security Wednesday. The non-profit group in New York City keeps a computerized file on stolen and recovered art works. The group finds, its executive director Alan Baer said, that art thefts have reached 'epidemic" proportions. (AP Laserphoto)

A Picasso watercolor stolen Wednesday from a Rochester, N.Y., museum was valued at $150,000. There are no comprehensive statistics on the worth of art stolen every year, but the total is rising. Alan Baer, executive director of the International Association of Art Security, said it is "way in excess of, substantially in excess of, $25 million." Other experts have put the value near $1 billion.

The people interviewed by The Associated Press agreed there is no such thing as a profile of the typical art thief.

'Some thieves are knowledgeable." said a spokesman for the Art Dealers Association of America Inc., who asked not to be identified by name, but "many art crimes" are committed by people who do not know the value of what they have sto-

'As the art market has grown, the thief himself has matured," said New York City police Detective Robert R. Volpe, an expert in recovering stolen works. Volpe said burglars who used to steal jewelry now are turning to art and antiques.

Volpe said there is "joint cooperation among the criminal element" involved in art theft. "It's a crime network." He said this international network often operates along the lines used by organized crime for narcotics. "There's a relationship between the two ... networks," Volpe said, although he added that they do not necessarily involve the same people.

Discussing the diversity of art theft, Huntington Block, head of the Huntington Block Co. of Washington, D.C., which insures many major collections and exhibits, said: "People react differently to

Some thieves want ransom, Block said; others fence the loot. "We've even had a few who just wanted to look at the paintof them (the thieves) are really slick and then some of them are pretty dumb . Most of the important objects that have been stolen have been recovered.

The spokesman for the art dealers group said lesser-known paintings and sculptures often are sold by thieves just as they would sell any other stolen object. The stolen items are unrecognized by the buyer and "easily sink into a kind of anonymity.

At the same time, the spokesman said, "More and more, works are taken which are ransomed back" by insurance companies. Why? "It works. They (the thieves) get their money. They don't have to know how to market a famous work and the collector or institution is simply happy to get the work back."

Volpe disagreed. He said many works used to be ransomed, but said such payments are "no longer an accepted practice." He said law enforcement authorities try to discourage insurance companies from paying ransom which "only invites a second theft" by solving the criminal's problem of how to dispose of the

Baer, whose nonprofit, New Yorkbased association keeps a computerized file of stolen and recovered art works, real and fake, said the problem of art theft from museums, galleries and private collections has reached "epidemic"

Baer said that New York, because of its size, is the best market in the United States for fencing stolen art. But he said cities in Europe and South America are also popular. "There is some similarity between the network of stolen art and

Before we list some of Schery's favorite grasses, let's explain some differences. Kentucky bluegrasses are outstanding sodmakers, spreading by underground rhizomes. The new perennial ryegrasses complement bluegrass; even though they don't spread much, they do sprout in a hurry. A portion of perennial ryegrass in a seed mixture gets you a carpet of green in as little as two weeks of warm, moist

Fine fescues remain excellent for dry shade and not so fertile soils. Colonial bentgrass is greator humid climate that gets only modest care, while Emerald provides 'golf green quality' for elegant, low-mowed swards. Choose Sabre rough bluegrass for damp and shady habitat.

Schery says some pathologists think fungi in the lawn "fight each other to a standstill," thus maintaining a natural balance. Unless a bluegrass is subjected to special hardship, the disease symptoms will be mild at worst, no one fungus

GROWING OLDER Social Security Not

Just For Elderly

That recent hike in payroll taxes made "Social Security" two dirty words for many younger citizens. They wonder why they should take on an extra financial " burden when their retirement is such a long way off.

But Social Security isn't just for the elderly. The system provides benefits to people who aren't even close to joining the

For example, if a parent - no matter what his or her age - dies or becomes disabled after qualifying for Social Security, his or her children may be eligible for monthly payments. If a retiree has young or disabled children, they, too, may be able to collect Social Security. After spending just a little time in the workforce, you will have Social Security protection that will last a lifetime. If you became disabled and could not work for a year or more, Social Security would pay monthly benefits to you and your family until you could return to work. After receiving Social Security disability checks for two years, you would receive Medicare protection. Your survivors may qualify for Social Security checks if you die after contrib-

Your unmarried children would get payments until they reach 18 - or 22 if they remain in school. If you have a child who became disabled before age 22, he or she would continue to receive benefits. Widows and dependent widowers of workers qualify for benefits if they have young children in their care. Like spouses of workers, they also qualify for benefits when they reach old age. Survivors may qualify for these checks if the worker paid into Social Security for as little as 18 months.

But to receive any Social Security benefit, you must have a Social Security number. Americans of all ages should obtain these numbers if they do not already have them. One of the administrators at my local Social Security office told me he had applied for a number for his 2-month-old daughter.

You can file for a number at your local Social Security office. Take along evidence of age, identity and proof of citizenship or alien status. A birth certificate or church record of birth or baptism is preferred as a proof of age and place of birth. If you do not have one of these documents, Social Security will accept another legitimate record, such as proof of school enrollment or church membership, state or federal records, an insurance policy, marriage

The Social Security Administration records each worker's earnings under his or her Social Security number. That's why it's so important to give your employer your correct Social Security number whenever you start a new job.

This will insure that you get full credit for your earnings - credit you or your family will need later when applying for monthly benefit checks.

If you are in business for yourself, you're also covered by Social Security. As your own boss, you have to report your earnings and make your contributions to the Social Security fund to be eligible for retirement, disability or death benefits. The amount of money you or your family can collect depends on past earnings. The higher those earnings - hence, the larger your contributions to the fund - the higher your benefits will be.

To find out more, ask your nearest Social Security office for a copy of the free boooklet, "Social Security Credits - How You Earn Them." (Please don't ask me for the booklet because I don't have extra copies.) Why is Social Security mandatory for nearly everybody but federal workers?

If it were voluntary, as has often been recommended, the low-and moderate-income people least apt to sign up for the program woud likely be those who would later need its benefits most.

When their income stopped because of retirement, disability or death, they wouldn't be able to fall back on Social Security for living expenses. And remember, if it wasn't for the Social Security checks they are now receiving, you might have to take money out of your own paycheck to support your So, my younger readers, while you may resent that big bite taken out of yur weekly wages for Social Security, there should be some consolation in knowing that the system really does mean a measure of security - for everybody.

"I don't definitely intend to run for re-election," he said. "I haven't addressed that question at all.

The automatic reflex is to assume that most presidents want a second term, burdensome as the highest office in the land can be at times.

But most presidents also like to keep friend and political foe guessing and they are not likely to tip their hand so early in

For Carter to say he was not going to run again would make him an instant lame duck. Then the scramble would begin with candidates cropping up all over the place. Because he is titular head of the Democratic Party, it is assumed that he would get the nomination gain, all other things being equal.

have less clout with Congress and his ability to get things done would be nil. In foreign affairs, adversaries might hold the line and just decide to sit tight. The Soviets could decide that they might get a better bargain from a future president in the strategic arms limitation negotiations.

Certainly, that is what the Soviets did in 1974 when they decided that Richard Nixon was through. From that point on, the SALT negotiations and Nixon's trip to Moscow were pointless.

When Lyndon Johnson electrified the world by announcing that he would not seek re-election, he, no doubt, felt liberated. His stock, which had reached a low point, went up. But his effectiveness was hardly enhanced. Vietnam had done him

Sometimes a president decides he has had enough. Harry Truman could have run for another full term. Although the new two-term restriction was passed in his time, it did not apply to him.

Carter likes to leave people guessing. And he has made no bones about the fact that he likes the job. His wife says he is not a quitter, but wants to make his decisions on "what's best for the country."

Few politicians have that luxury. They may decide in their own minds what they believe is best for the country. But since they do not rule by fiat, and must take the constituency with them every inch of the way. Then they must convince Congress and the people that is the right way. Interesting enough, Carter said that he had not made up his mind whether he would run again at a time when the news-

Promoters Say In-Bond Industry Helping U.S.

By RANDY COLLIER CIUDAD JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — An international program is putting frijoles onto Mexican tables and cash into the tills of American firms. It's also putting a bitter taste into the mouths of labor union bosses.

It's called in-bond industry and it allows non-Mexican companies to assemble their products in Mexico, using cheaper Mexican labor, and then return the finished product to its home country. The sale of the finished product in Mexico is prohibited.

William L. Mitchell, director of marketing for the Antonio J. Bermudez Industrial Park located here, says American labor unions are blind if they think the in-bond program is taking away jobs that might be done in the United States.

'Just one facility in our park is operated by RCA. It makes XL100 picture tubes. We have factual information that shows there are 28,000 persons in the United States working for companies that are supplying parts that are used in making these tubes," he said.

"It will mean that these same companies will be moving their operations to Taiwan or Singapore rather having only one assembly plant in Mexico," he said.

The program has created industrial Complexes that employ more than 60,000 Mexicans, mostly women between the ages of 18 and 21, in more than 400 plants located in border cities from the Gulf of Mexico to Mexico's west coast.

A total of 28,000 persons work in two industrial parks here, and that figure is expected to more than double within the next five years.

Both Mexican government and industry officials in the in-bond program has had a social effect on the country, especially in cities such as Juarez where unemploy-

"We would like to have more industry here that uses more men, but the industries currently located here need persons who can do tedious, intricate work.

"Many men have been hired for various positions, but most of them find they don't have the nerves to keep up with the pace," said Mitchell.

The 90 percent female employment rate at the parks in Juarez may change soon though, because General Motors is building a massive installation at the Bermudez park that will hire primarily men. Jaime Bermudez, owner of the El Paso facility, said more heavy industry may come to the city if Mexico constructs a "One thing the industry has done is keep young women single for a longer period of time, thus keeping the birthrate down," said Mitchell.

"Married Mexican women still generally follow the custom of staying at home and minding the house, although that custom is slowly changing.

'Many of these young women working here will work until the day they get married, but they probably will postpone their wedding until they can have a nice 'nest egg' to start off their married life,'

Ciudad Juarez Mayor Manuel Quevado Reyes isn't that worried about the social problems the industries have caused.

"We will wrestle that problem when we have to, but what we have to combat now is unemployment. We would have a much worse social problem if the 28,000 persons working at the parks now suddenly were without jobs," he said.

Mitchell said there are several reasons American companies want to open inbond plants in Mexico other than because the labor is cheaper. He says it has prov-they sure don't want to be fired. Because of this, the turnover rate here is 1.5 to 2 percent and the absentee rate is .5 to 3 percent. More importantly, the production rate at many of our industries is more than 200 percent," he said.

Mitchell, a retired U.S. Army colonel, said he had become impressed with the output of the Mexican worker. "These people have the same work ethic that my father and grandfather had. I don't know when this ethic deteriorated in the United States, but I know it isn't the same as it was when I was a boy. 'I think this has had as much to do with American firms coming here to get jobs done as the lower wages. They know the job will be done capably here," he

The people who don't tolerate sweets well may not feel their best by mid-morning if they eat a sweet breakfast devoid of protein.

So what is the solution? I think you can benfit by including fish in your breakfast. Many low-fat fish make an excellent choice for the breakfast table. Then there are salmon patties or even creamed chicken on toast. You can vary the latter. I also think breakfast is a good place to increase your bran or bulk intake. The cereals containing bulk are good here. You can use hot oatmeal if you want a hot cereal. Being hot as opposed to cold doesn't make a particle of difference as far as nutritional value is concerned. That comment will shock many, but it is true. But there oatmeal and hot oatmeal. Both contain just as many calories.

Another good idea, despite how early the children must get up, is to have an out of bed exercise program. Nothing gets people ready for breakfast as well as some physical work. A dip in the pool in the summer is great. Farm children used to do chores in the morning and were ready for a good breakfast after the chores were done and before walking to school. Of course chores and walking are sort of out of date in our modern life style - too bad. It can form a lifetime pattern of good eating and good exercise that could help your children stay healthier and live longer because you trained them that

Supporters Of ERA Move In On Illinois

SPRINGFIELD, III. (AP) - Like sand in the hourglass held aloft by feminists rallying beneath the Illinois Capitol rotunda, time is running out on the Equal Rights Amendment.

With less than a year until the March 22. 1979, deadline for ratification, its supporters have zeroed in on Illinois with money, lobbyists and volunteers to try to win over the only major Northern holdout state - heeding signs that the proposed constitutional amendment to ban sex discrimination is foundering.

A victory is needed in Illinois, they say, to break the pattern of weakening support for the ERA. Thirty-eight states are needed; 35 have ratified so far but 30 of those were rapid-fire votes during the first year, a heady time of enthusiasm before opponents organized staunchly conservative areas. But the task here is formidable - since 1972, the first year the ERA was up for approval, it has failed in every session to win a required three-fifths majority of both houses of the General Assembly

The last House vote was June 2, 1977. The ERA lost 101-74. The last Senate vote was Dec. 16, 1976. The ERA came up short 29-22, even after then Presidentelect 'Jimmy Carter personally telephoned the state Senate president and asked him to call the measure

Rep. Alan Greiman, D-Skokie, is expected to call for a House vote on the amendment this month or in May It would then go to the Senate. Supporters admit having only 30 firm Senate votes; 36 are needed.

Candidate Pledges To Abolish 1984

LOS ANGELES (UPI) - Among the unusual campaign pledges of Lowell Darling, an artist and candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor of California, is a pledge to abolish 1984.

"To reduce the mounting paranoia resulting from George Orwell's book, we will get rid of 1984," he promises in a capsule summary of his platform, which bears the heading "The Inevitable Campaign Slogans and Promises.

'Treat it like the 13th floor of a building. Go directly from 1983 to 1985."

Other planks cover topics from criminal law ("Murderers should have to eat who they kill"), air pollution ("Certain areas of the state will be declared smoking and no-smoking areas") and "the Beverly Hills solution" to the Middle East conflict:

"A section of Northern California will be given to Palestine and a strip of Southern California will be given to Israel."

Marketing Practice Reversed

And MYRON KANDEL

Robert Stigwood doesn't know whether or not he's invented a new marketing approach for movies - but he's going to find out soon.

Stigwood is a movie producer whose latest offering (along with Gulf & Western's Paramount Pictures division) is "Saturday Night Fever," a film that depends chiefly on its star, John Travolta, and its music to draw audiences.

Early in the game, Stigwood decided that, since the music was so important to the picture, he would turn traditional marketing practices on their head. While the usual method is to release the picture and hope it will create a demand for the soundtrack album, Stigwood brought the album to market first. The result: a movie that managed only so-so reviews but is drawing big dollars at the box office and so far has sold 8 million albums.

'Music is the glamour thing today,' Frederic Gershon told us. "It's the tail that wags the dog." Gerson is the 38-yearold president of the Stigwood Group of Campanies, a catch-all for Stigwood's varied interests that is partially owned by Philips Lamp of The Netherlands and A.G. Siemens of West Germany (and has produced a persistant rumor that Stigwood is fronting for those companies in negotiations to buy a controlling interest repeatedly has denied).

Gershon reconstructed the promotion plan for us this way: For a long time, Stigwood has been the manager of the Bee Gees, a currently popular rock group. About a year ago, he went to their chateau outside Paris to convince them to drop the album they were working on then and, instead, write and record the songs for "Fever." The job wasn't easy; it took several nights of explaining the story line - based on a New York magazine article about the discotheques and the people who frequent them in the Bay Ridge section of Brooklyn, N.Y. - to the Australian group.

The Bee Gees finally did agree to do the music and the albums were ready about two months before the picture was set to open. Promotional kits were sent to disc jockeys across the U.S. who soon found themselves providing free radio promotion time for the movie. As the songs moved up on the record charts -700,000 albums were sold before the picture hit the screen - the DJ's like it or not, were forced to keep promoting.

The picture, which cost $3.5 million to make, did poorly with movie reviewers, but by that time it hardly mattered. It developed "legs," as they say in movieland and so far has grossed well over $65 million in ticket sales.

the same idea will work with other pictures. "the music must be a major part of the picture," he told us. "In this case, we always knew the music would be important.

The first test of the idea is coming in England, although that might not be a true indication of its value. The album has sold about 250,000 copies so far, butthe picture itself is saddled with an "X" rating, which could bar many younger music lovers from seeing it. (In the U.S.

'Fever' was rated "R.") Gershon frankly expressed the hope that the ban on under-18-year-olds would be winked at by theater owners and young people alike, if the picture draws the way he hopes it will.

"It used to be that movie stars - Harlow, or Gable - would be emulated," he "But since the advent of rock and roll, the musicians have been the her-Stigwood, for his part, has refused to compromise and let British theaters use the version that was filmed for U.S. television showing. That film - made by taming down the racier scenes - is expected to be sold for TV showing here for about $6 million for two airings. (In other European countries, there won't be as much of a problem. Dubbing will clean up some of the language. (Sub-titles also understand English will know that what they are seeing won't be what they're hearing.)

The picture - and the promotional campaign - also will be released in Australia, where Gershon doesn't see as much of a problem. There, he said, the population is "more foul-mouthed but lovable," he added. The best test, though will come in Stigwood's next film, "Grease," based on the long-running Broadway smash. Travolta and co-star Olivia Newton John already have cut a record of one song from the picture, which is being sent to disc jockeys in flashy cover. Next comes the al-wood will know if he's found a winning come for the first quarter of 1978, president and chief executive officer John D. Macomber said Wednesday.

Macomber said sales hit the $607 million mark for the first quarter and was up $546 million from the corresponding period last year. Net income was $19 million, up from $11 million for the first quarter

Macomber said although chemical earnings were off from the first quarter of 1977 they had improved from the fourth quarter of last year and made "a very strong contribution to total earn-

Insurance Debates Reopen

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Jimmy Carter and Karen Davis are trying to do what Teddy Roosevelt didn't get the chance to. Franklin Roosevelt shied away from. Harry Truman and Dwight Eisenhower proposed and Lyndon Johndon did piece-

They are reopening the 30-year debate on national health insurance - on whether it is the business of government to make health care available to everyone at no direct out-of-pocket cost.

Government health insurance was instituted by Otto von Bismarck in Germany in 1883 to check the appeal of socialist parties. Every European country followed suit.

Theodore Roosevelt proposed it for America in his losing 1912 "Bull Moose" ampaign. Franklin Roosevelt planned it as part of Social Security, but accepted advice that the idea was too radical.

Harry Truman was the first president to submit health insurance legislation to Congress and Dwight Eisenhower the second. Truman wrote in his memoirs that his failure was his greatest regret.

John Kennedy proposed and Lyndon Johnson enacted the piecemeal approach: Medicare for the old, Medicaid for the poor. Before LBJ left office, he was talking of "Kiddiecare" too.

Now the battle for universal and com prehensive coverage resumes. This month Carter is to propose "principles" for a program under which the health insurance would be made available to evervone at no direct cost to him.

Karen Davis is in charge of coming up with the details. Her title at Health, Education and Welfare is deputy assistant secretary for planning and evaluation.

The idea is to send Congress a draft bill this summer in time for it to become a key issue in this fall's elections. If the voters elect the bill's supporters, the bill could be passed before the presidential election of 1980.

Mrs. Davis, 35, studied mathematics at Rice University but decided that field didn't give her enough chance to do things for people. She switched to eco-

She spent years studying the economics of health care, writing two books on the subject at Brookings Institution, visiting rural areas to study places where health care is most inadequate. She also taught economics for a year at Harvard.

People still die in this country, or be come crippled or disabled," she says, because they cannot afford to go to a doctor or because there is no doctor."

That's part of the problem. Another part is that even those covered by private health insurance are getting priced out of the market. Mrs. Davis can't recall an instance in her own life when she ignored a pain because she did not want to put out $18 for a visit to a doctor. 7 But her father, who farms 1,000 acres of wheat outside of Ponca City, Okla., is underprotected, she says. His private health insurance policy is "incredibly inadequate," with such low benefits and so many exclusions and preconditions that he could still go flat broke through sickness. Millions more are in that boat - though insured, they would be devastated by a major illness.

corded an 11 percent increase in sales are spending capital and research dollars from 1977 and a 73 percent raise in net in- that should result in different and better products in the time to come," Macomber said. ## ileta Perovic Sentenced To 20 Years In Prison

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) - Former Yugoslav diplomat Mileta Perovic, who spent nearly two decades in exile in eastern and western Europe, was sentenced to 20 years' jail Thursday on charges of sedition.

Perovic, who is pro-Soviet, was sentenced after a 22-day hearing closed to the press and public.

A five-judge panel convicted Perovic. 55, of activities aimed at trying to overthrow Yugoslavia's Communist government by force during his exile, spent mainly in the Soviet Union and in France.

Defense lawyer Jovan Barovic told Western reporters Perovic would appeal. He said Perovic, arrested in Yugoslavia last July, was kidnapped in Zurich, Switzerland, by an Italian-speaking group.

Some foreign diplomats here believe the abduction was engineered by the Yugoslav secret police.

There has been no official explanation in Yugoslavia of how Perovic returned. He fled initially to Albania in 1958.

In lengthy court findings released to the press, presiding judge Ilija Simic said that while a professor at Kiev university in the Soviet Union in the 1960s, Perovic set up a clandestine Yugoslav Communist party to oppose President Josip Broz Tito's ruling party.

The judge said that during a spell in Paris in 1972, Perovic tried to recruit members among Yugoslav workers After settling in the West, mainly Paris,

ABC Claims Ratings

By JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (UPI) - "The 1977-78 prime time season is over and ABC has won!'

That was how an ABC memo on the Nielsen ratings began, and while the claim may be premature there's no doubt that's the way it all will come out.

When the season ends depends on who's counting, but in the week ending April 9, 28 shows were on repeats, with only a handful of the programs whose season began in September, '77, still offering new segments this far into '78.

There's no way CBS or NBC can catch up with ABC, which now owns a 20.8 rating for the season and a 33.7 percent share of the audience.

ABC also won the week past, with its broadcast of the 50th annual Academy Awards the top show of the week. With a 36.3 rating and a 68 percent share of the audience, ABC estimates that more than

The season-to-date scores for the runners-up show CBS in second place and NBC in third, and it will take a Herculean effort for NBC to overtake CBS - although certainly the network hopes to do so with such upcomign blockbusters as 'The Holocaust" and, in May, a television film based on the novel "Wheels."

NBC did overtake CBS for second place in the week just past, in part thanks to Helen Hayes and Fred Astaire in "A Family Upside Down, which rated among the top ten.

Another top ten scorer was NBC's "Project: UFO," which brings up the question of lead ins and lead outs. It is the conventional wisdom of television programing that the success of a show depends in part on what went on directly before it and what directly follows. Question: Did "Project: UFO" serve as a lead-in, building a good audience for Helen Hayes and Fred Astaire, or did Hayes-Astaire provide a classy lead-out, following on the extraterrestial footsteps of "UFO?" Only The Shadow knows.

The Barbara Walters special had one of its best outings, with a 34 percent share of the audience.

Among the programs to make their debuts in the week past, CBS had great success with "Amazing Spiderman," the chap who got bitten by a radioactive spider and wound up eighth in the ratings.

Other good beginnings were racked up for ABC's "Harvey Korman Show," in a three-way tie for ninth place, and the networks' "Pat Boone and Family," which tied for 31st, but scored a 33 percent share of the audience in its time period. Disappointments for CBS were the openings of "The Ted Knight Show" and Another Day," both of which were in the bottom ten. Among the new shows to come along late in the season, "The Incredible Hulk" continues to score incredible ratings, "How the West Was Won" remains a winner, "Fantasy Island" isn't fantastic but certainly it's respectable, as is "A.E.S. Hudson St." Even "Richie Brockelman, Private Eye" is doing well enough for a possible return next fall. "Baby, I'm Back" probably won't be, and neither will "Dallas" if it doesn't score higher. The "Sam" ratings are for the dogs, "Husbands, Wives and Lovers" looks like splitsville, "Young Pioeers" are still scraching to get started and "Quark" is right out there with the interstellar garbage.

WATTS TOUR

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Pianist Andre Watts plans to cover the entire life's work of Franz Schubert in an eight-month concert tour marking the 150th anniversary of the composer's death on Nov. 18. The May-December U.S. tour will include solo recitals, chamber music, orchestral music and lieder.

Survivor Remembers Sinking Of Titanic

By ROSEMARY ARMAO

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) - To Frank Goldsmith, the sinking of the Titanic is more than an item of history - it's a memory, undimmed by the 66 years that have passed since he survived it.

Goldsmith, now 75, was 9 years old on April 15, 1912 — an excited young emigre on his way to Detroit from England with parents and friends to start a new life. They were aboard the Titanic on the luxury liner's maiden, and final, voyage.

The retired Air Force worker is one of a handful who survived the sinking of the hip that night in of one of history's worst sea disasters. It claimed 1,500 lives, in- er cluding his father's

"I was calmly dressing myself," he said. "As I was lacing my second shoe, there was a rap on the door. Mother opened it and the doctor came in and

House Passes Increase Of White House Staff

WASHINGTON (AP) - Legislation for the president to nearly double the number of high-level White House assistants won approval in the House and now goes to the Senate. But Republicans pointed out before the 265-134 vote Thursday that President Carter, who sought the increase, had promised during his 1976 presidential campaign that he would cut down the number of White House employees.

Hugh Carter Jr., special assistant to the president for administration, said there are no plans to add significantly to the number of senior White House aides.

He said the authority to make the increases were being sought so that the administration would have flexibility in event of "an emergency like World War II or something

The bill would permit Carter to increase from 55 to 100 the number of executive and supergrade positions on his personal staff. Those posts pay from $42,500 to $57,500 a year.

"All this, keep in mind, is being sponsored and pushed by a president who ran

White House staff and to de-imperialize the presidency," said Rep. John B. Anderson, R-III.

But Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., floor manager of the bill, said the change would bring more accountability to White House hiring practices.

Bangladesh To Get Wheat From U.S.

DACCA, Bangladesh (AP) - The U.S. government agreed to supply another 100,000 tons of wheat to Bangladesh. This brings the total of foreign food promised the Asian nation this year to 1.4 million tons, including 200,000 tons of U.S. grain. The United States is also sending 35,000 bales of cotton to Bangladesh.

faltering, according to diplomats, intelligence sources and travelers returning from the new West African nation.

President Agostinho Neto, a Marxist-Leninist, is described by diplomats, who asked to remain anonymous because of the delicacy of their positions, as "desperate" but unwilling to seek a political solution to what is essentially a tribal war in its third year.

His refusal to negotiate with his enemies and his government's heavy dependence on Cuban troops and thouands of Soviet, Cuban and East European advisers is beginning to draw criticism in some black African capitals.

Proposals are again circulating in African diplomatic circles for a government of "national unity" that would bring the three warring factions together in the former Portuguese colony.

A Western intelligence source said there are indications, but no solid evidence, of growing support for the two antigovernment guerrilla movements from Saudi Arabia, Morocco, Zaire, France and possibly other anti-Communist Middle Eastern and African nations. However, South African support for UNITA, one of the anti-government guerrilla organizations, recently has diminished, the source said. Luanda, the capital and once the jewel of Portugal's African empire, is "like a ghost town," said one recent visitor. 'The shops are virtually empty. There is little food. Nothing is available any-Another source said many of Luanda's to have had a heart attack or to be suffering from cancer and recently went to Moscow for treatment. Diplomats in Moscow said they are fairly certain he is still there, but there has been no confirmation that he is ill.

Neto's government is backed by extensive Soviet weaponry, an estimated 19,-000 Cuban soldiers and perhaps 6,000 Soviet. East European and Cuban military and technical advisers.

"The Neto regime is desperate," one Luanda visitor said. "They cannot survive without the Cubans.

A Cuban pullout, he said, could lead to the collapse of Neto's nominal control of the country within a few months, possibly less.

Angola's economy is kept affoat by revenue from the American Gulf Oil Co., which produced an average of 135,-000 barrels of oil a day last year. It provides the government with an estimated $500 million a year in taxes and royal-

'The oil scene is good - it's the only thing that is good," said one source.

The civil war is essentially a tribal conflict involving Neto's Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola, largely backed by the 1.5 million Mbundus; the National Union for the Total Independence of Angola, or UNITA, led by Jonas Savimbi and supported by the 2 million Ovimbundos, and Holden Roberto's National Front for the Liberation of Angola, representing the millon Bakongos, Angola has a total population of 6 million.

Western analysts report UNITA's guerrillas have destabilized much of the southern third of the country. There also have been reports of heavy fighting in northern Angola between government forces and the National Front.

In recent weeks, according to various accounts, the government's forces have stepped up attacks in both the north and south using Cuban ground forces with Soviet advisers and Soviet-supplied MiG jets piloted by Cubans and East Ger-

HY GARDNER HAS THE ANSWER:

Glad You Asked That!

In a recent luncheon interview with Marilyn Gardner, Henry Winkler discussed his career at length. In the second of three columns he remembers his worst review and talks of the "fabulous redhead" who aids and supports him. Winkler enthusiastically told us about the "fabulous redhead" in Los Angeles he's been dating for about a year. She's got all the qualities he talked about. For a long time, he wouldn't reveal her identity because he wanted to keep that part of his life private. But he finally relented, and the public saw his girl, Stacey Weitzman, for the first time when Barbara Walters interviewed them together on TV recently.

He met his "fabulous redhead" in a clothing store. He asked her if she liked a jacket he picked out, and she said she did. So he bought it. The next time he went in, she was there again. He invited her across the street for a soda. (He doesn't drink hard liquor or even wine.) She's been "the lady in my life ever

She's been a big help to him in his work. While he was filming "Heroes," it was she, not he, who would look at the daily rushes. Then she'd give him her reaction. He can't stand to watch himself on the screen. All he sees are the things he did wrong and he feels watching himself would stifle his creativity.

As we lunched, the star of "Happy Days" was looking forward with great excitement to a very happy evening. He was going to receive an award - "Entertainment Personality of the Year" - from the National Association of Theater Owners. Henry Winkler was in good company. He was joining his old friend, Sylvester (Rocky) Stallone, who was getting the "Actor of the Year" award, Sophia Loren ("Actress of the Year") and Mel Brooks ("Director of the Year").

"I still can't believe it," he said. "It seems like only short while ago that I sat at home watching awards on TV being handed out. I can't get it together that I'm the one that's getting it now. That I'm not buying a ticket to watch someone else get

Most actors remember their bad reviews more vividly than their good ones. The worst review Henry says he ever got was in 1973, when he appeared on Broadway in a play called "42 Seconds from Broadway." It opened and closed the same night. But what got him was that, even though he was in every single scene, critic Clive Barnes never mentioned him once.

The following year, he was in a movie called "Tbe Lords of Flatbush" with another unknown - Sylvester Stallone. Henry played a tough, ducktailed, rough-talking high-school hood in tight pants. (Does the character sound familiar?) And when Time magazine reviewed it, they mentioned Winkler only in passing: "Butchy Weinstein (Henry Winkler) just sort of hangs out and waits for the future to pass by.'

Winkler's future turned out to be only a short distance away. Soon after "Happy Days" was launched, 90 percent of all Paramount mail was addressed to Fonzie. Fonzie's name and likeness was splashed onto T-shirts, book covers, coffee mugs, posters, games, records and a movable doll complete with a fake leather jacket - and a lever you can push down to make the doll's hands do the thumbs-up sign. Incidentally, Winkler invented the Fonzie thumbs-up gesture - to reduce words. He doesn't always have to say, "That's terrific," all the time. He gets the same idea across with the thumbs up - a gesture he took from the Roman gladiators.

But Henry makes very little from all of these by-products. Paramount gets most of it because "they own Fonzie. I own Henry Winkler . . . Paramount has literally existed off 'Happy Days," he sighs. Send your questions to Hy Gardner, "Glad You Asked That," care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1748, Chicago, Ill. 60611. Marilyn and Hy Gardner will answer as many questions as they can in their column, but the volume of mail makes personal replies

'Holocaust' Scorching Experience For Cast

By JOAN HANAUER NEW YORK (UPI) — The Nazi murder of six million European Jews more than 35 years ago will be on network television four successive nights next week, and there are those who question the need for another reminder of terror.

It happened long ago and on another continent, the argument goes, and let the dead lie in peace and the living go on to better days.

The final answer lies with the television audience, which will cast its vote by turning on or tuning out the NBC's 91/2-hour miniseries, "The Holocaust," Sunday through Wednesday.

Some of the reasons for airing the show can be found in the experiences of the

We got permission to explode the building but we couldn't get permission to build it," Berger said. Austrian officials were upset, he said, because the building didn't meet sanitary codes - "it had no bathrooms, you can't have a cafe without bathrooms.

When they finally received an okay to construct the cafe, they could only explode it up to 500 feet because of "the possibility of endangering low-flying aircraft.'

The cast - Miss Harris, Fritz Weaver. Meryl Streep, James Wood, Tovah Feldshuh and others - found that the further into their roles they got, the more depressed they became.

An exception was Blanche Baker, daughter of actress Carol Baker, whose father was a survivor of Auschwitz. Her reaction was fury.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) - The best looking thing that ever happened to television sports is moving to greener pastures and her departure will doubtless cut down on Sunday National Football League rat-

Phyllis George, who with Irv Cross and Brent Mussberger, comprised the football authorities and broadcasters of "The NFL Today," is becoming an actress.

For the past two seasons Phyllis appeared before the CBS weekly football games, at half-time and on post-game shows with Cross and Mussberger, giving scores and offering comments.

People who loathed football tuned in just to watch Phyllis who was a refreshing change from frequently inarticulate jock broadcasters. She was a natural antidote to Howard Cosell.

Phyllis, moreover, is a genuine football authority, a rarity among beautiful wornen. She knows a Z-out pass pattern from a screen pass and a draw play from a play-action maneuver.

In interviews with gridiron stars she never came down with the cutes, playing on her sex appeal or relying on the "I'm just a helpless female" routine. Phyllis was Miss America n 1971 and doubtless would have been Miss America of all the succeeding years if the beauty pageant had allowed it.

But the Atlantic City contest official did the next best thing. They hired her to co-host the pageant for the past five year with Bert Parks. She is also a natural an tidote for Parks.

In the near future (April 24) Phyllis wil act as hostess with George Burns and Bruce Jenner for "The National Colle giate Cheerleading Championships" an play hostess for the new "People" series a pilot program based on the Time Inc magazine.

Phyllis is one of those breathtaking beauties with sufficient self-esteem who doesn't fret about "role-playing" or he femininity. She does not think beaut pageant entrants or cheerleaders an being exploited by sexist males.

"I was cheerleader at Denton High and junior high for seven years," Phyllis said the other day. "And I was a cheerleader at North Texas State, too.

"I loved being a cheerleader. It taught me poise and self-confidence. And I'm al for girls getting into it. It teaches them to work hard and gets them out of their co-

"Cheerleading teaches girls about competition and winning and losing. And they learn a great deal about sports. It's wholesome, it's all-American and there's nothing wrong with that." There's a wholesomeness about Phyllis which she shares with such other Texas beauties as Farrah Fawcett-Majors and Jaclyn Smith of "Charlie's Angels." They love mother, God, Texas and country, not necessarily in that order.

Phyllis is in the process of being divorced from moviemaker Bob Evans which adds a bit of intrigue to hopeful

"Under my new contract with CBS I won't be doing 'The NFL Today' on a regular basis this season," Phyllis said "I'll miss Brent and Irv and I'll miss the close association with football.

"I took a lot of pride in preparing my self for those broadcasts by reading al the press releases from all of the NFI teams. I loved doing all those interviews shows were live. 'We'd be in the studio for eight hour, doing one show after another for the var ious times zones. And, of course, the work kept me close to the Dallas Cown boys, my favorite team. "Everybody likes sports and I've been the center of attention when I go to parties because people like to come up and talk about football. But now it's time for me to move on.

Her new three-year network pact calls for Phyllis to appear in entertainment prime-time programs with the right to choose what she wants to do.

Eventually Phyllis hopes to work in drama and comedy, but not until she feels she is fully prepared. Toward that end she is taking singing, dancing and diction lessons.

In the last few months she has refused offers for TV and theatrical films.

Vincent Price Plays Role Of Oscar Wilde

By WILLIAM GLOVER NEW YORK (AP) - Oscar Wilde, the playwright other writers most like to do plays about, returns for another blithe, beguiling stage visit in "Diversions and Delights. Actually, the Victorian era's noted and notorious wit is lucky to have veteran actor Vincent Price for his earthly surrogate in the production that opened this week at Broadway's O'Neill Theater.

A lot of the text which John Gay, a West Coast television and film scribe, gives Price in this solo stint has been derived from Wilde's own epigrammatic works. Even the cleverest of paradoxes dulls with repetition and some of these lines long ago became cliches. Being a master of subtle gesture and intonation, Price imbues the discursive soliloquoy with artful devices, so that familiar fragments are fleetingly redeemed. Credit Joseph Hardy for direction of the finely modulated perform-

Gay devises the play as taking place in a Paris lecture hall in 1899, the year before Wilde died in poverty and ignominy.

just being myself. It's something else to I'm sure I can do it well. play a character.

'I acted in high school and college plays and I studied drama for four years in New York. But that's not the same thing as working professionally with other professionals. I don't want to act until

"I think I can get away from being Phyllis. At least I have in my acting class-

'The 'People' show is sort of a stepping stone for me from sports and 'The Miss America Pageant.' I'm flexible becoming famous. I guess I already am, thanks to football and Miss America.

"But there's more to life than that. I have goals and I want to attain them. It may sound corny, but there's nothing wrong in that either.'

She laughs, she cries, she feels angry, she feels lonely, she feels guilty, she makes breakfast, she makes love, she makes do, she is strong, she is weak, she is brave, she is scared, she is...

Kissinger's lawyers asked Chief Justice Warren Burger on Tuesday to bar State Department employees from reviewing and processing the notes until a legal argument over them is resolved.

Burger, who is not expected to answer for at least several days, ordered those seeking access to the notes to file replies

'Dr. Kissinger created the notes in the expectation that they would be preserved in a manner which protected his privacy and the privacy of those with whom he spoke," Kissinger's lawyers said. "He believed then, and contends now, that the notes are private papers."

TODAY'S STOCK PRICES

Stock Mart Shows Big Upsurge

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market swept ahead today, caught up in a powerful wave of buying that broke trading-volume records at the New York Stock Exchange. The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 11.52 at Gainers outdistanced losers by more than a 4-1 margin among NYSE-listed issues. Big Board volume reached 23.91 million shares by noontime, mounting a challenge to the single-day record of 44.51 million set Feb. 20, 1976. The first-hour total of 14.97 million made it the busiest opening hour in exchange history.

There was no single news development to explain the upsurge of activity, which began Thursday when the Dow climbed 8.92 points. Analysts said the market's recent strength in the face of bad news on inflation and other economic problems had touched off a rush of buying by investing institutions who had been sitting on large reserves

They also said several factors reinforced the rally today. The dollar climbed in value against leading foreign currencies.

And the relatively small $400 million rise in the basic measure of the money supply reported late Thursday by the Federal Reserve came as a pleasant surprise to Wall

Most Fed-watchers had been predicting a large increase that might prompt the central bank to tighten credit in its efforts to restrain inflation.

The rally reached into nearly every corner of the market, with the exception of gold stocks and some other metals issues. More than 1.-100 NYSE issues had registered gains as of mid-day.

The Big Board's composite index climbed .61 to 51.52. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .90 at 134.58.

Individuals Plead For Iranians

HOUSTON (AP) - Representatives of Iranian student organizations, a former Houston school board member and a political science professor called on a South Texas junior college Thursday to reinstate 85 Iranian students expelled from the school earlier this month.

Bijan Khezri, a member of the Committee for Artistic and Intellectual Freedom in Iran, said at a gathering at the University of Houston that the students at Bee County College in Beeville were being persecuted "for telling the truth about Iran."

The students were among 103 arraigned on criminal trespass charges in Beeville Municipal Court March 13. They are scheduled to appear in court Tuesday.

The school brought charges against them after the students refused to leave the gymnasium where college President Grady Hogue had convoked a meeting March 9 to discuss complaints of unpaid telephone calls to Iran.

Khezri said Hogue had denied the students' First Amendment rights to freedom of speech and assembly by refusing a request to form a club on campus. Iranians make up about 10 percent of the school's 2,000 enrollment.

Hogue said he refused permission because he felt such clubs had been the source of disturbances at other Texas after public protest over their expulsion.

A U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service spokesman said conviction on misdemeanor charges is not grounds for deportation. But he added if an alien on a student visa is not enrolled in a school or college he will be asked to leave the country. The Iranians claim they would be subject to harsh treatment if they were deported to Iran. Unofficial estimates place the number of Iranian students in this country anywhere from 23,000 to 70,000. According to most recent figures from the Texas College and University System there were about 2.000 Iranians in Texas schools in A spokesman at the Iranian Consulate

T.I.M.E.-DC-Records Rise In Earnings

Hugh C. Shurtleff, president of T.I.M.E.-DC Inc., has announced that the company recorded an improvement in quarterly net earnings this year, even though operations were adversely affected by severe weather conditions in the Midwest and Northeast during January and February. Revenues for the first quarter of 1978 were $41.963,000, compared to $36,305. 000 for the same period in 1977, representing an increase of 15.6 percent. Earnings for the first quarter were $861,000, compared to $777,000 for the same period in 1977, for an 10.8 percent increase. Earnings per share amounted to 26 cents per share, compared to 23 cents per share for the first quarter 1977.

Included in the earnings was approximately $468,000 after tax effect realized in this year from the sale of the Portland. Ore., terminal and other miscellaneous property, whereas in 1977 approximately $650,000 after tax effect was realized from the sale of a terminal in New Jer-In February, the board of directors declared a preferred dividend of 18 cents per share and 5 cents per share common dividend. The dividends were paid March 31 to shareholders of record March 10.

During the first quarter the company placed into service 152 new linehaul diesel tractors, which were purchased during the fourth quarter 1977. These new units are expected to reduce maintenance costs during the remainder of 1978, according to Shurtleff.

Movie Producers Use Keenan Wynn As 'Stopper'

teams have a pitcher they call "the stop- respectable. per," a twirler in the regular rotation

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) - Most baseball enough authority to make a losing game There's an actor in Hollywood who has

His name is Keenan Wynn. Motion picture producers pay him $2,500 a day to play small but key roles that stop the audience in its tracks and makes it pay attention to an important story point.

> Wynn is balding, white bearded, possessed of a craggy, pocked face accented by a prominent nose, and deep-set, penetrating blue eyes. He's a superlative character actor who can play anything from a mad scientist to a grungy cowpoke and everything in be-His current movie is "Piranha," his 199th film in a career that covers 40 years. At 62 Wynn is well aware of his stopper reputation. He calls himself a craftsman. "It's a left-handed compliment," he said. "When a producer or a director needs help in a pivotal role that's small but vital, they say, 'Get Wynn. He'll figure out something. Sometimes one small role can be terribly important because it makes a statement or a story point or stands for a point of view that sets off other action or defines a background or represents a larger They want something strong from me that they won't get from a day player or a $500 actor. They're willing to pay $2,500 a 'All that is very well, but it raises the question, can Wynn play a long part?

Well I've played long roles, too, but not at the same prices.

Somehow the brief roles are the ones that stick in people's minds, like my part as Bat Guano in 'Dr. Strangelove' which was only one or two days. Not long ago I was paid $3,000 for one day's work."

That doesn't mean Wynn earns $3,000 daily for longer roles. Usually he works one or two days, sometimes three. His weekly rate is considerably lower.

The producers of "The Bastard," a two-part four-hour MCA Television drama scheduled for next month, paid Wynn his fee for four hours work one after-

They tried the part with a day player and it didn't come off." Wynn explained. It's a story of the American Revolution and I play a Tory, an English patriot who is tarred and feathered.

"He's the only Tory, you see, but he stands for the whole philosophy and attitude of thousands of other men like him. He has to be a strong character.

'It was a rather typical part for me. I play anything but a nice fellow or a straight part. There's got to be something strange about the men I play.

Now that I'm a senior citizen I take the director aside and tell him not to tell me what to do. First let him see what I do and, if he doesn't like it, we can work something out.

"I read the script very carefully. I study the man I'm going to play, investing him strong statement the producer or director is looking for.

"Once I take a man's money I do the very best I can. Most directors know about me and leave me alone. But if they tell me I'm too heavy, or too light, I make the changes.

Wynn says he's been a character actor for 40 years, destined to play supporting roles. He was under contract to MGM in its salad days, playing second fiddle to Van Johnson, Ricardo Montalban, Mario Lanza and Howard Keel.

He became a stock figure in studio

Wynn is a thoughtful and articulate man born to theater tradition. He is enormously proud of the fact that his two sons, Tracy Keenan Wynn and Ned Wynn, are successful screenwriters.

'We are the only four-generation family in the history of movies," he said.

'My grandfather was the great Irish stage actor Frank Keenan who came to films in 1910. In 1912 he directed and starred in 'The Coward.' My father, of course, was Ed Wynn. Then there's me and now my sons.

Possibly because Ed Wynn was among the legendary Broadway comedians, Keenan was typecast in comedy roles for years. Now he does more drama than comedy. While he has appeared in many more films than his famous father, Keenan never attained stardom downs," Keenan said. "Once when things weren't going so well he was playing Las Vegas. It was before he made a big comeback on TV and in movies.

"He would walk out on stage and introduce himself. 'I'm Ed Wynn and if you don't know me, I'm the father of Keenan Wynn. And if you don't know him, he's the guy in the Esther Williams pictures who gets splashed when she dives into

"That was just about right. I made 70 pictures at MGM in 12 years and I acted in only eight of them. The rest were formula, the friend of the hero. I don't play those roles anymore.'

THE NEW SCOREBOARD, which was originally scheduled to be installed at the Texas Tech baseball field in February, was finally in operation this afternoon when the Raiders hosted Houston in a key Southwest Conference game. The new electric scoreboard replaced the old wooden manual one that hadn't Former Tech star quarterback Rodney Allison will leave Lubbock for Toronto May 12 and begin training camp with the Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League May 27. Allison, who had ballooned to 200 pounds recently, is now down to his normal 185. He says he is running three miles per day and doing about a mile's worth of sprints, too. He claims that his left leg, injured last season, is about 95 per cent of normal.

After Arkansas' Mike Clark posted the SWC's best time to date this season in the 1500 meters a couple of weekends ago, he saids, "I knew it (3:44.3) was a good time. I threw up five times after the race. If I only throw up two or three times afterward, it's not a good time."

BAYLOR JAVELIN THROWER Tom Heieren won his event last weekend at the Texas Relays with a throw of 24712. He did it with a borrowed javelin . . . It hasn't been a bad year for Arkansas athletes. The football team was ranked third in the nation with an 11-1 record; the basketball team was 32-4 record and finished third in the NCAA Tournament; the tennis team is ranked in the top 20; and the baseball team is rated sixth in the nation and leads the SWC race. The baseball team's ranking is its first in the top ten. In 1973, it was rated 16th for a while

You say Texas A&M's Curtis Dickey is an excellent athlete? You're right. Example: Last Friday, the 6-2, 205-pounder carried 12 times for 161 yards-including a 65-yard touchdown run-in an Aggie football scrimmage. He then traveled to Austin and won the 100-meter dash in the Texas Relays Saturday with a 10.22 clocking. Sunday, he anchored the Aggies' winning 400-meter relay team that posted a time of 39.95. While an international trio representing Spain, South Africa and Texas shared the lead in the first round of golf's $225,-000 Tournament of Champions, Nicklaus and Crenshaw shared bee-sting miseries.

He scored his first tour victory early this year in the Bob Hope Desert Classic at Palm Springs, Calif., and now finds himself surprisingly sharing the lead in one of the game's more prestigious events. "I know it's only the first round, but I'm loving it," he said.

One shot back at 70 was Gary Player. Cole's more famous countryman who last week won a third Masters championship. Player birdied all four of the par 5 holes.

Raiders Host Houston

By CARTER CROMWELL

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff Still clinging to a chance of gaining a berth in the Southwest Conference Post-Season Tournament, Texas Tech will open a vital three-game series against Houston today with a single game, beginning at 3 p.m. at the Raider field.

The teams will battle in a doubleheader Saturday that will start at 1 p.m.

Tech is currently tied with Texas for fifth place in the SWC standings. Both have 6-9 league marks. The top four finishers in the conference race will compete in the post-season tourney in Austin-May 12-15.

Arkansas leads the league with a 15-3 record, followed by Texas A&M at 12-3, Houston at 11-7 and Baylor at 9-9. The Razorbacks and Aggies have tournament spots clinched, but Houston, Baylor, Tech and Texas are still uncertain about their chances.

The remaining schedules look like this: Houston must travel to Tech and host Arkansas; Baylor will host Rice (5-10) and will play at TCU (4-11); Texas will be at TCU, at home versus SMU and on the road against Tech; and Tech will host Houston, travel to A&M and play Texas at home.

Houston currently has the edge for third place. Of the three principal contenders for the fourth spot-Baylor, Texas and Tech-the Raiders have the toughest schedule on paper. And Tech coach Kal Segrist admits that this last stretch will be tough.

"Losing all three games to Arkansas (last weekend) hurt our chances of getting a playoff berth," he said. "If we had won one or two of the games, it would have taken some of the pressure off us in these last three series.

Now, Segrist figures that six wins in their last nine games will be enough to to gain the Raiders a tournament spot. Certainly, they must win at least that many Six victories would give Tech a 12-12 league mark. If that happened, it would mean that Baylor would need to win four of its last six games to have a better record than Tech, and that-on paper-is a good possibility.

In most seasons, Texas would appear to be certain to win at least seven or eight of its remaining nine games, since none of its last three opponents have good conference records. But the Longhorns have had injuries and aren't hitting well this year, so they have a wait-and-see label on them in the final stages of the campaign.

The importance of these final games, naturally, hasn't escaped Segrist. "We certainly have to do well in these games," he said. "Particularly, we need to beat Houston and Texas, since they are right there with us in the race for that last playoff spot. If we don't beat Houston and Texas, then we don't deserve to play in the tournament." Tech took two of three games from Baylor earlier in the season.

Tech, though, will have to improve its play if it expects to do well at the last of the campaign. The Raiders did not play well defensively against Arkansas, and their overall pitching performance has slipped the past few weeks. Tech's seasonal earned-run average is now up to

"Arkansas is a good team and played well, but we didn't play as well as we're capable of playing," Segrist said. "We've been strong on defense most of the year, but we broke down against Arkansas. We before falling 6-2 and 8-2. Tonight's opener will match the aces of both staffs, undefeated Chaparral Oscar Acosta (9-0) and Daryl Frazier (6-3) for the Indians.

"I'm scared to death," Hays admitted. 'This may be the key series of the year for us. No one has taken Midwestern seriously and they've continued to beat everyone. Their pitching has made them tough. This is a 'must' series for us because we've still got to go to Dallas Baptist and then get Texas Wesleyan at home. This last half of the schedule is a tough one of us.

"We've just got to take them one at a time, though, and try to win every game.

Roger Maris Confident Of Election To Hall

Associated Press Special Correspondent

NEW YORK - "The Hall of Fame is charity - it's something they give you and not something you necessarily earn," said an embittered Roger Maris. "I'm not one to ask for charity.

"I'm going to be in there some day. If the writers keep me out, there are other ways.

Crew-cut, tanned, young-looking but 30 pounds heavier than when he broke one of baseball's most cherished records with 61 home runs in 1961. Maris returned to Yankee Stadium Thursday for the first time in 12 years.

Along with Mickey Mantle, the other member of the dreaded "M&M" power tandem of the 1960s. Maris drew a tumultuous ovation and, with his Hall of Fame teammate, strolled to the pitcher's mound while a tape of his historic 61st home run was flashed on the scoreboard screen.

Instead of hoisting him in a sphere of baseball respect and immortality, it was a blow that turned the fine outfielder's career from sweet honey into sour milk.

"Before I broke it, Babe Ruth's record of 60 home runs was the one that everybody talked about," the one-time Yankees outfielder said. "Afterward, it became meaningless. The press degraded it, said it was nothing,

"Writers began saying derogatory things about me It was as if I had defiled some institution. They made my life hell." Maris came to the Yankees from Kansas City in 1960, and, although he played side-by-side with Mantle, he became the American League's most valuable player in 1960 and 1961. For three years, through 1962, he had 100 or more runs batted in each season.

"I had back trouble and played in only 90 games in 1963. he recalled. "Still, I hit 23 homers and batted in 53 runs."

In the years immediately following his halcyon 1961 season, Maris said he was the victim of untold abuse, particularhim every chance they got.

"Baseball got to be no fun for me in New York," he said. But I managed. It was when I started getting lambasted in all the other parks around the league - you name them that I found I couldn't take it any longer.

They were years of anguish for me. I suddenly lost all my desire to play. I went out and tried. It was no use. I was washed out. The dedication just wasn't there.

To loss of desire was added physical injury. In 1965, Maris suffered a broken right hand and lost strength in his last two tingers. He was traded to the St. Louis Cardinals at the end of the 1966 season.

'The National League knew I was a fastball hitter." he recalled. "I managed to hang on while they were feeding me the curving and tricky stuff but when they found out I couldn't hit the fastball anymore, I knew time was out."

Maris quit after the 1968 season and retired to Gainesville, Fla., where he now operates a thriving beer distribution business and carefully avoids major league baseball scenes.

In the winter of 1960 and again in 1961, I must have attended more than 100 banquets," he said. "I did it for nothing. I still was taking a beating from the writers. Then, one night I was in Milwaukee to receive an Athlete of the Year Award. I was one of the first ones at the dinner and the last to leave. Chuck Thompson, a sports writer friend who was with me, can attest to that. But a story was written that I was rude, ducked out of the dinner early and offended the guests.

'After that, I said: 'To hell with it.' I've avoided 'All-Star and Oldtimer Games. This is the first time I've been in the Stadium since 1966. George Steinbrenner (Yankees owner) kept pressing me to come, so I came.

Said Mickey Mantle, who already is in the Hall of Fame by vote of the writers: "Roger's 61 home runs are one of the greatest feats in sports. He definitely deserves to be in the

Joe Rudi's one-out home run in the bottom of the 11th inning, barely ahead of a curfew, carried California over Minnesota in a game in which Angels' starter Nolan Ryan struck out 12 and allowed four hits in the first 10 innings.

The 11th was going to be the last inning because the Twins had to catch a plane to Minnesota for their home opener today The Twins opened their half of the 11th before the 3.50 p.m. curfew, and it was exactly 3:55 when Rudi hit his homer.

I was swinging from the heels," said Rudi. "In a situation like that, with one out and no one on, you have nothing else to do. You try to get an extra-base hit. After I hit the ball, I didn't think it was high enough to get out, so I was running hard thinking it was an extra-base hit.

Ryan's 12 strikeouts, by the way, enabled the Angel righthander to pass Texas Ferguson Jenkins and move into the No.

It took six generations of Beams to be satisfied that this is the best way to make 90-proof sour mash whiskey.

With 182 years of experience, you'd think we could make this whiskey faster than we do. We could, but we won't. We make 101month-old Beam's Sour Mash Whiskey to be enjoyed, not guzzled.

We're not sure why slowaging a minimum of 101 months is the secret of this whiskey. All we know is that at 90-Proof it yields a Sour Mash of truly exceptional taste.

Enjoy it without hurrying. Savor it the same way we make it. Slowly and leisurely.

4-4A Golf Teams Busy

Lubbock high school golf teams will be heading north today for competion for both district and tournament action.

At Plainview Country Club, Coronado and Monterey girls will be trying to cut into host Plainview's almost untouchable lead in the final District 4-AAAA girls golf match. And at the same time, the Monterey, Coronado Lubbock boys will be competing in the two-day Amarillo Relays Golf Tournament.

Plainview girls have a team score of 1142 after topping last week's meet at Lubbock. Coronado is in second at 1278, with MHS third at 1298. Winner and runner-up qualifies for the regional meet to be held in Lubbock next Thursday and Friday.

Top two teams and top two individuals make it to regional-and thence on to state. Currently, Hereford's Barbara Scott is the individual leader with a 257 total. Plainview's Ann Horne his a 17shot lead over Coronado's Kim Henson in the battle for second.

At Amarillo, the city's three boys teams will joing 14 others in the AAAA-AAA bracket of the annual meet, and Monterey returns as defending champion. The Plainsmen will join Amarillo High, Hereford, Tascosa and Borger as team favorites. Plainview is in the field, also.

The top division will play at Amarillo Country Club, while 17 schools in the AA-A-B division will compete at Tascosa CC. The junior varsity bracket, which has drawn entries from 19 schools, will be held at the Amarillo municipal course. Monterey is defending champion in the JV division, also.

Leonard Scores TKO In Bout

ard, inspired by a record Maryland indoor boxing crowd of 15,272 fans, scored a controversy-marred third-round knockout over Bobby Haymon of Cleveland in a scheduled eight-round weiterweight bout here Thursday.

The bout went into the ring record book as a technical knockout at the threeminute mark of the third round for the unbeaten (10-0) Palmer Park, Md., boxer. The TKO triggered a heated protest from Haymon's cornermen, who insisted that their fighter had been hit after the bell had sounded to end the round.

Instant replay on the arena telescreen indicated that Leonard landed a right to Haymon's head simultaneously with the bell as referee Harry Ceecchini grabbed the former Olympic champion's shoulder. He unleashed a left that proved the finisher The punch left Haymon draped over

condition to continue and Ceecchini signaled the fight was over.

But that didn't end the protest. Under Maryland State Athletic Commission rules, if Leonard actually landed his punch before the bell, the referee was compelled to count over the helpless Haymon a knockout, but under the circumstances, it has to be a third round TKO because he didn't answer the bell for the fourth (round) "

"It should be recorded as 'no contest',' argued Haymon's cornerman Dom Pollo. "It wasn't so bad that Leonard hit him one time after the bell. But, the referre let him hit again after that. I wanted to file a formal protest, but the boxing secretary (Cohen) told me that it wouldn't help. That this was up to the discretion of

"I heard the bell and started for my corner," said the distraught loser. "I was glad that the round was over. The next thing I remember was a buzzing sound in my head. I said to myself 'I'm hit' and found myself draped over the ropes."

Haymon had been knocked out earlier in the third period and took an eightcount on one knee. But the veteran of 29 bouts claimed he was more shocked than stunned

NEW SPORTING GOODS FIRM OPENS HERE

A completely new concept in sporting goods merchandising comes to Lubbock with the opening of Cleveland Athletics at 5278 34th St. between Slide Road and Loop 289. Specializing in team sports, the new firm offers a complete line of uniforms, shoes and equipment at warehouse prices. Their modern show-room teatures samples of uniforms and equipment for all sports and provides an atmosphere for team buyers to talk over their team needs with experienced personnel. Individual sports enthusiasts also will find their sporting equipment and clo-thing needs at Cleveland Athletics. Area team buyers are invited to call their Toll Free Number 800-692-4312.

records while San Angelo followed closely behind at 4-2-1. Since the Bobcats and Odessa were knotted 8-8 when darkness fell upon Odessa March 28, the whole race remains in complete confusion.

If the game affects the playoff picture at the end of the regular season, the teams will meet a third time to settle the outcome. However, if the game has no bearing on the playoffs, the score will remain an 8-8 deadlock.

"It seems like the teams should play the game now but apparently both schools felt it was smarter to save money and wait," said one veteran District 5-AAAA reporter.

Fortunately, the rest of the South Plains prep baseball districts feature races which are comparatively easy to de-

Here a summary of the races: 4-AAAA - Monterey needs one win Saturday at Plainview to win the first half outright. Two Plainview victories would move the Bulldogs into a position to win the race. However, MHS ends the first half Saturday while PHS still plays a Tuesday doubleheader at Coronado before its half ends.

3-AAAA - Amarillo High clinched at least a share of the first-half title by edging Tascosa 6-5 Tuesday at THS. The Sandies (3-0) need only a win at home today against Pampa while the Rebels (3-1) have ended their first-half slate.

Pampa, Caprock and Palo Duro are in the same position which LHS, CHS and Hereford face in the 3-AAAA race.

1-AAA - The shootout game for the first-half crown awaits Borger (2-0) and Levelland (2-0) Tuesday in Borger at 1 p.m. Neither team owns a winning regular-season record. 2-AAA - The district race begins today for all six teams. Pecos and Odessa Ector sport the top non-district marks with defending champ Pecos, the pre-district tourney winner.

Knicks, Bucks Seek Home Wins

By The Associated Press

The New York Knicks and Milwaukee Bucks, also-rans a year ago, aim to wrap up their National Basketball Association first-round playoff series at home tonight, while the Washington Bullets and Seattle SuperSonics try and close out their series on the road.

"If we play like we did in the opener, we'll be tough to beat," said Knicks Coach Willis Reed, whose club had one of its best games of the season in beating the Cleveland Cavaliers 132-114 at Richfield, Ohio Wednesday night.

Reed's Cleveland counterpart, Bill Fitch, agrees.

'I was worried about something like this," he said. "Everyone around the league will tell you the same thing: if the Knicks play together and shoot well, they're tough. And they played together: they looked like they'd been together five years. They also shot well, hitting 61 percent of their shots. Bob McAdoo led the way with 41 points on 17 for 25 from the field. In addition, they have the home-court advantage tonight.

"If they keep playing like that," conceded Cleveland forward Jim Chones, 'there's not much we can do."

"Two years ago we lost our opener at home to the Bullets but came back to win," said Fitch. "Maybe if the Knicks cool off, we can do it again."

Besides Cleveland at New York, tonight's schedule has the Phoenix Suns at Milwaukee Bucks, the Washington Bullets at Atlanta Hawks and the Seattle SuperSonics at Los Angeles Lakers, the latter on national TV (CBS, 11:30 p.m. EST).

Milwaukee Coach Don Nelson, whose team had the worst record in the Western Conference last season, had listed make ing the playoffs as his club's primary goal this season. But now that the Bucks are there. Nelson sees no reason why they can't keep on going, especially after opening with a 111-103 victory over the Suns at Phoenix.

"There's nothing very complicated about the playoffs," said Nelson, who played in 150 playoff games with the Boston Celtics. "You have to play hard, play well, do all the little things and take advantage of situations as they come up. It's just execution and hard play. It's no big secret.

If that's the case, the Atlanta Hawks should have a chance at tying their series against Washington at home tonight, after losing the opener 103-94 at Landover, and that's not just a phrase," said Hawks Coach Hubie Brown. "We need a maximum effort every time out just to win."

Washington Coach Dick Motta said, They're unorthodox. They come at you in waves. They stay with you like a big shark and get ahold of you. I don't think you'll see any Atlanta game that's pretty. If they played in a dark alley, they'd be

But the Bullets can more than hold their own in muscle, with big men like Wes Unseld, Elvin Hayes, Mitch Kupchak and Greg Ballard to sweep the boards. That was the big difference in the is counting on to win on the road tonight. Seattle, a 102-90 winner at home, seeks to eliminated Los Angeles-one of the pre-playoff favorites-on the road to-

"We go down to LA very confident." said Sonics coach Lenny Wilkens. "If we play defense the way we feel we're capable, we feel confident we can win the game. We won down there a couple of times this year already.

Los Angeles was more vulnerable than usual at home this season, losing 12 times. But Lakers Coach Jerry West thinks his team can turn around the Son-

If we play them as well physically as we did in the opening game, we'll win, said West. "And if we win in Los Ange les. I like our chances in Seattle Sunday

Pacers' First Choice:

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - The Indiana Pacers know who they want when they make the opening selection in the National Basketball Association's college draft. but they don't know if Larry Bird will

The Pacers won the right to make the opening selection Thursday in a coin flip with the Kansas City Kings. The flip was conducted through a telephone conference call in the office of NBA Commissiener Larry O'Brien. Bob Leonard, coach and general manager, participated for the Pacers. Owner Paul Rosenberg and General Manager-President Joe Axelson participated for the Kings.

Leonard quickly said that Bird, an All-American at Indiana State during the 1977-78 season, was his favorite for the draft. However, Bird has another year of college eligibility and he has indicated he intends to stay in school.

'There isn't any outstanding player like a Marques Johnson available this year," Pacers assistant coach Jerry Oliver said Thursday. "We haven't talked to Bird, but if he's interested in playing for Indiana we'd like to know.

Leonard was in on the call for the Pacers from Hawaii, where he plans to vacation for the next two weeks. "We've got time to see who would like to talk trade with us for the top pick." said Leonard, "and then we'll decide how we'll go.

Indiana received the top selection after tying with Kansas City for the worst record in the Western Conference during the 1977-78 NBA season. Earlier in the week, the Pacers won a draw with the Golden State Warriors, who had held Kansas City's pick. The Kings, meanwhile, had acquired the first-round draft pick from the New Jersey Nets, the team with the lowest percentage in the Eastern Conference.

Indiana won the toss when Kansas City incorrectly called heads. But the Kings weren't upset. Axelson said before the flip that "it doesn't really matter whether we win or lose the flip.

Christian College slipped a notch in this week's NAIA baseball rankings, falling to fifth with 165 points.

Southeastern Oklahoma continues to head the poll and the Savages, now 26-6, drew 228 points, 42 more than runner-up

Birmingham Southern (29-5) managed. William Carey of Mississippi made the biggest gain this week, leaping from 10th to third with a 35-4 mark and 179 points after going 6-2 last week. LaVere (Calif., 16-5, 169 points), LCC (32-13), David Lipscomb (Tenn., 22-5, 163) and Phillips (Okla., 28.9, 138) each slipped a notch and hold down the 4-5-6-7

Lewis-Clark (Idaho, 28-6, 134) moved up a notch to eighth, Jackson State (Miss., 42-4, 111) leaped four berths to ninth and Grand Canyon (Ariz., 24-12) fell two spots to 10th.

Texas Wesleyan (34-18, 86) was seventh a week ago but fell to 11th. Southwestern (Texas, 34-13, 52) fell a notch to 12th, Azusa-Pacific (Calif., 22-3, 47) leaped from a tie for 18th to 13th, with Oklahoma Christian (16-9, 38) falling two spots to 14th

St. Mary's (Texas, 20-8, 26) remained 15th, Newberry (S.C., 15-5, 20) fell two spots to 16th, Lewis (Ill., 9-15, 12) fell one notch to 17th, Sam Houston State (Texas, 23-16) and Wisconsin-Oshkosh (7-2) re-

River Oaks

HOUSTON (AP) - Top-seeded Brian Gottfried will play Pat DuPre in the first round of the $175.000 World Championship Tennis tournament beginning Monday at River Oaks Country Club.

Gottfried, a former Trinity University star, will head up the upper bracket in the 32-man field while baseline specialist Eddie Dibbs, the No. 2 seed, will be in the lower bracket.

Raul Ramirez of Mexico is third seeded in the 44th annual tournament and will meet Hans Gildemeister in the opening round. Fourth seeded Harold Solomon, a former Rice University star, will meet Paolo Bertolucci.

Other seeded players in the tournament are Corrado Barazzutti, fifth, Illie Nastase, sixth, Dick Stockton seventh and Wojtek Fibak, eighth.

ARLINGTON (AP) - Texas Rangers baseball team officials said Thursday that pitcher Roger Moret would remain hospitalized "indefinitely" for psychiatric treatment of whatever caused the hurler's mysterious clubhouse trance Wednesday night.

Moret walked off the practice field before Wednesday night's loss to Detroit and was found later standing rigid in the clubhouse, holding a shower clog at arm's length and not moving for nearly an hour

Team Doctor B.J. MyCoskie said Moret was in a "catatonic" state that lasted about an hour. The only person Moret spone with while in that state was Ranger General Manager Dan O'Brien. "All he told me was he wanted to be traded," O'Brien said

Moret had earlier given the Rangers a deadline for trading him, but that was patched over and Moret later pitched effectively for Texas in a victory over New York

Manager Bill Hunter said the Moret ineident had an unsettling effect on his team. "We can't be sitting around and wondering whether he's going to play for us or not." Hunter said.

The Rangers called up Bob Babcock, a 28-year-old righthander from their Class AAA farm club in Tucson and said he would join the team Friday in Boston.

Just before Moret was coaxed into an ambulance Wednesday night, Moret told a reporter, "I want to be traded. You tell

BOSTON (AP) - Carl Yastrzemski, the Boston Red Sox' amazing veteran, had mixed emotions today as he suited up for his 18th Fenway Park opener in a game with the Texas Rangers.

But the Red Sox' 38-year-old slugger was ready to go, back in his old left field position and batting cleanup.

It seems like only yesterday that I played here in my first opener." said Yastrzemski, who broke in with the Red Sox in 1961. "However, it was a long time ago. Just the same, I'll be as charged up as I was for the first one. It's just that it's a little sadder for me personally.

After winning two games and losing three one-run decisions on the road, the Red Sox were set to put what they hope will be a pennant express on display before a packed crowd of some 40,000 at

In an all-out effort to dethrone the New York Yankees in the American League East this year, the Red Sox, under new General Manager Haywood Sullivan, were set to introduce several newcomers. Second baseman Jerry Remy, a former Massachusetts schoolboy sensation acquired from the California Angels, and righthanded pitcher Dennis Eckersley, lured from Cleveland in a multi-player deal late in spring training, were in the starting lineup.

On the bench were Dick Drago, Jack Brohamer, Tom Burgmeier, Frank Duffy. Fred Kendall and rookie pitcher Allen

The Boston batting order was loaded with punch, starting with Remy in the leadoff spot. Following in order were shortstop Rick Burleson, designated hitter Jim Rice, Yastrzemski, catcher Carlton Fisk, centerfielder Fred Lynn, first baseman George Scott, right-fielder Dwight Evans and third baseman Butch

Eckersley, who pitched seven strong innings without being involved in the decision last Saturday in Chicago, was due to be opposed on the mound by right-hander Doyle Alexander. The Rangers checked into town with a 2-3 record, with Alexander the loser of his lone decision.

Texas 200

COLLEGE STATION (AP) - Preparations for the Texas 200, which last year propelled one-time junior high school principal Tom Sneva into the national championship in Indianapolis style racing, began today with preliminary practice rounds.

Sneva, who recently posted a world record of 202.684 miles per hour in qualifying for a race at Ontario, Calif., headed an entry list of 30 for Saturday's nationally televised $110,000 race. Only 22 will

"We weren't off to a very good start last year," recalled Sneva, who came into the race at Texas World Speedway's highspeed two-mile oval with no points toward the national title.

But after dropping out of the first two races in 1977, Sneva bounced back with a closely fought victory over Al Unser here. "It was touch and go," Sneva said. "We almost lost it when a wheel got stuck during a tire change. This season, Sneva is off to a slightly better start, tied with Unser for fourth place in points, thanks mostly to a second-place finish at Ontario. But he still is counting on a good finish here to vault him into a strong position from which to wage his defense of the crown.

Strong challenges are expected from Unser, who recently turned a lap at better than 202 m.p.h. during tire tests at Indianapolis Motor Speedway in a new Lola prepared by Jim Hall of Midland, Texas; from Sneva's own teammate Mario Andretti, the track record holder at 214.158 m.p.h.; four-time Indy 500 winner A.J. Foyt of Houston, and veteran Johnny Rutherford.

The 200 m.p.h. barrier is expected to be breached easily when qualifying starts early Saturday; Danny Ongais recorded a lap at better than 205 m.p.h. here last

Don Earl Happy To Be Tech's No. 1 Tailback

By CARTER CROMWELL Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Don Earl always figured he'd wind up at Texas Tech, scholarship or not. The scholarship just made things that much

After an injury shortened 1976 campaign, the Stamford product was passed over by collegiate recruiters at signing time in February 1977. He had planned to go ahead and come to Tech as a walkon, but he performed well in the high school all-star game in August and Tech came through with a scholarship offer.

Now, in the spring of his freshman year, Earl is the No. 1 tailback for the

"I had always had my heart set on coming to Tech," he said, "and I would have walked on here if I hadn't gotten a schol-

"I had a strained knee that made me miss the first five games of my senior year, and, for a while, they didn't know if they were going to have to operate or not. A lot of schools dropped off me because of that, but Tech didn't,

"I thought I was going to be a wide receiver. Then they told me that I would be tried at cornerback the first 10 days of spring training and be worked on offense "But I spent one day at cornerback and was moved to running back." Soph-to-be Tim Orr had been penciled in as the firstteam tailback before spring training, but he temporarily quit the squad and missed the first three days of drills, enabling Earl to move up to the first unit.

Earl was a running back in high school, but was shifted to wide receiver as a freshman at Tech. However, he was happy to return to the offensive backfield.

'I wanted to play running back all the time," he said. "I was sort of doubtful that they'd do it because of my size (5-8, 180), but there are some other small backs that have made it, so I think I can,

The increased blocking responsibilities that college backs have has been the toughest thing he's had to adjust to. This is in regard to both technique and absorbing the constant physical contact.

I played for a Class AA high school and I never had to block there. I just took the ball and ran. It's different here. You have to block in college. As far as technique goes, one thing I need to work on most is the cut block. Sometimes, I'll leave my feet too soon, and the defensive man has me then."

Earl believes that his small stature may be an advantage, rather than a handicap. 'The defensive men don't see me as quickly as they will a big guy," he said, so I can kind of sneak up on them." He said that he hasn't had much trouble re-adjusting to running back after his year's hiatus from the position. "I had forgotten a lot of stuff, like how Another soph-to-be, Jackie Ellis, is currently at quick guard in place of Larry Martin, who is out for a few days with a badly sprained ankle. Aside from the knee injuries, Dockery was quite pleased with Thursday's practice. "It's the best day we've had," he said enthusiastically. "We really came along today. TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) - Bruce Lietzke doesn't believe he is a superstar among the golfers on the pro tour.

Then, again, he doesn't think he was playing over his head last year when he earned $202,156 for fifth place on the official money winnings list.

This time a year ago, Lietzke had won both the Tucson and Hawaiian Opens, had finished second in the Bob Hope Desert Classic and had posted 26 consecutive rounds no worse than par. In 1977, he also finished second in the Tournament of Champions and finished in the top 10 of tournament fields seven times. This year, going into today's start of the rain-delayed 10th Tallahassee Open, Lietzke had won just $18,069. His best finishes were a tie for sixth in the Citrus Open and a tie for eighth at Doral. "I really didn't expect as much this year." Lietzke said. "It is not so much that I played above my head last year, but ... I'm far from being a superstar. I sorta had that thrust upon me. Last year I made most of my money early, out on the West Coast and in the deserts. It's kind of hard catching up

Raiders Seeking UNM Title

Texas Tech won its last two team titles, but the competition looks to be stacked in favor of the hosts Saturday, as the Raiders enter a five-way meet hosted by the University of New Mexico.

Over the past two weekends, Tech won its invitational meet and then followed with a victory in the Indian Relays at Abilene last Friday. However, New Mexico was_named the outstanding team in the weekend Texas Relays-where no team crown is awarded-and the Lobos, featuring a host of speedy and strong Kenvans, are the favorites.

Competing will be New Mexico, New Mexico State, Tech, West Texas State and Northern Arizona.

Competition will begin at 2:30 p.m.

"With as many strong athletes as they have, I just hope to get out of there alive," commented Tech track coach Corky Oglesby. "I thought we might be able to pick up some points in the field events, but then New Mexico State is coming, which has one of the top weightmen (Dennis Diaz) in this part of the

Tech's prime hopes for a blue ribbon is Jim MacAndrew, the senior long jumper who came within half an inch of winning the Texas Relays title last weekend. He has gone 25-7 this year but had a 25-244 leap last Sunday

Tech's weight hopes ride with Bobby Moeck and Harold Ledet, both of whom will be throwing the shot and discus.

Billy Stone, a freshman from Abilene Cooper, has been consistent at 6-8 this spring. Inthe springs, another Abilene native, Charles Green, will be leading. Green has run 21.1 in the 220 this spring and has helped the Raiders run 41.1 in

Winnipeg, Bulls Talk Good Game

By The Associated Press

The Birmingham Bulls and Winnipeg Jets are talking a good game as they prepare for the opening of their World Hockey Association quarter-final series to-

The Bulls under Coach Glen Somnor are continuing to preach intimidation the practice they follow on the ice while the Jets under Coach Larry Hillman are spouting team spirit and reassuring everyone that they'll answer the Birmingham challenge with goals.

The second game of the best-of-seven Hatskin Award for best goaltending. series will be in Winnipeg Sunday before moving to Birmingham for games three and four. The Edmonton Oilers, meanhile, will go against the New England Whalers in Springfield, Mass., in another series opener tonight, with the second game also in Springfield on Sunday.

The Quebec Nordiques-Houston Aeros series opens Sunday in Houston.

"I'll stir things up," says Somnor, "I know some people won't like what we're going to do but we've come this far to win, at all costs. We won't create any giant scenes. Nobody is going to be jumping off the bench to club somebody over the head with his stick. But it's going to be a rough series, it better be.

Which means the two clubs, which were involved in two bench-clearing brawls in Winnipeg this season, will emerge with numerous bruises and ach-

"If the Bulls start to goon it up I think it'll hurt them because they'll get a lot of penalties and we have a lot of guys who can score on power plays," said Willy Lindstrom, a doubtful starter for the Jets because of a rib injury

Hillman said the Jets will have to be check with a little more authority" to meet the Bulls' challenge

The Whalers, meanwhile, have been trying to salvage their season which has included the loss of their home rink.

The Hartford Civic Center's roof collapsed early one morning last winter under weight of ice and snow, forcing the team out of town. They moved to the Springfield Civic Center, continued to win games and draw fans, and finished the season by clinching the WHA's Ben

"We desperately wanted to win the goaltending award," said Whalers Coach Henry Neale. "We couldn't be in any better frame of mind going into the playoffs than we are now.

As for the outcome of the Edmonton series. Neale said, "They'll have to play awfully well to beat us. If we play the way we have been, I don't think they

The Whalers will be led into the playoffs by the ninth and tenth highest scorers in the WHA, Gordie Howe and his son Mark. One of the team's award-winning netminders - veteran Al Smith - also gives the Whalers an edge in the series.

Flyers Eliminate Rockies

By The Associated Press Coach Pat Kelly motioned towards the locker room, where his Colorado Rockies removed their uniforms for the final time this National Hockey League season.

"There's no shame in that room there," he said. "Nineteen guys worked their heads off and Philadelphia didn't just push us aside. They had to work for

The Flyers worked for their 3-1 triumph over Kelly's charges Thursday night and moved into the Stanley Cup playoff quarter-finals

"It was a real good series, sald Phila-delphia center Bobby Clarke. "We played well and didn't give up many scoring chances, and that helps. Elsewhere, Don Murdoch's goal at 1:37 of overtime carried the New York Rangers past the Buffalo Sabres 4-3 and forced a deciding game Saturday night in the teams' best-of-three set. But two other first-round matchups were decided. The Detroit Red Wings eliminated the Atlanta Flames 3-2 on Bill

Lochead's goal with 1:34 remaining and the Toronto Maple Leafs ousted the Los Angeles Kings 4-0 behind Mike Palmateer's shutout goaltending and a solid performance by center Darryl Sittler. "I didn't think the referee was too great," muttered Kelly, fighting to the very last. "If he has guts enough to look at himself in the mirror tomorrow and say he called a fair hockey game, then I better change my religion."

Referee Wally Harris called only two penalties in the deciding contest, both on said Gare. "but you've got to give us

the Flyers, both in the opening period. "If it's close and they don't call anything, then they might as well throw the rule boook out and just let it go. Let them play," said Kelly. Philadelphia's Reggie Leach and Colorado's Dennis Owchar had traded firstperiod goals. The game stood at 1-1 until the third period, when the Flyers outshot the Rockies 20-4 and got goals from Don Saleski and Bob Kelly.

Mel Bridgman set up both third-period goals for Philadelphia, which outshot Colorado 44-18 in the opening game and 45-17 on Thursday.

Murdoch's tally capped a wacky overtime in which each team had a goal disallowed. Pat Hickey, who had scored earlier, had his apparent tally disqualified just 50 seconds into the extra session when referee John McCauley overruled the goal judge and decided the puck never entered the net. Danny Gare, who had produced the game's third tie with 1:56 left in the second period, had his goal waved off 32 seconds later when McCauley ruled he kicked in the disc.

Murdoch finally whipped a 10-foot shot past Buffalo goalie Dmn Edwards to decide matters until Saturday's contest. "If McCauley had called back that period. "I was tired at the faceoff," said the left wing. "I was so tired that if we hadn't gotten that TV commercial I would have pulled myself out. The break for advertising gave me the wind to make that rush."

Lochead rushed past Atlanta defense-men Pat Ribble and Richard Mulhern, then drew goalie Dan Bouchard out of the net and steered the puck home to give the Red Wings their first home playoff victory since 1966.

"I have only one statement to make and this is it," said Flames Coach Fred Creighton: "If any supporters of ours are disappointed, they should jump into my shoes right now.

Tom Lysiak and Bobby Lalonde connected for Atlanta while Vaclav Nedomansky scored his second playoff goal for Detroit before a record Olympia crowd of

Maple Leafs 4, Kings 0 Sittler scored a goal and set up two others, backing Mike Palmateer's third shut-out of Los Angeles this season and start-

Close checking by Sittler and Jimmy Jones kept the Kings' top scorers, Marcel Dionne and Butch Goring, without a point in the two games. The last three games we played them, they shut us out twice," noticed Los Angeles Coach Ron Stewart, who was serenaded with choruses of "Goodbye, Stewart," as the game wore on. "I'm proud of the guys. They never gave up until the last minute, but you've got to score goals to win hockey games.'

Ron Ellis, Lanny McDonald and Jones had the other goals for Toronto. Palmateer stopped 21 shots.

River Oaks

HOUSTON (AP) - Top-seeded Brian Gottfried will play Pat DuPre in the first round of the $175,000 World Championship Tennis tournament beginning Monday at River Oaks Country Club.

Gottfried, a former Trinity University star, will head up the upper bracket in the 32-man field while baseline specialist Eddie Dibbs, the No. 2 seed, will be in the lower bracket.

Raul Ramirez of Mexico is third seeded in the 44th annual tournament and will meet Hans Gildemeister in the opening round. Fourth seeded Harold Solomon, a former Rice University star, will meet Paolo Bertolucci.

Other seeded players in the tournament are Corrado Barazzutti, fifth, Illie Nastase, sixth, Dick Stockton seventh and Wojtek Fibak, eighth.

Championship finals in the tournament are scheduled April 23.

ARLINGTON (AP) - Texas Rangers baseball team officials said Thursday that pitcher Roger Moret would remain hospitalized "indefinitely" for psychiatric treatment of whatever caused the hurler's mysterious clubhouse trance Wednesday night.

Moret walked off the practice field before Wednesday night's loss to Detroit and was found later standing rigid in the clubhouse, holding a shower clog at arm's length and not moving for nearly an hour

Team Doctor B.J. MyCoskie said Moret was in a "catatonic" state that lasted about an hour. The only person Moret spone with while in that state was Ranger General Manager Dan O'Brien. "All he told me was he wanted to be traded."

Moret had earlier given the Rangers a deadline for trading him, but that was patched over and Moret later pitched effectively for Texas in a victory over

Manager Bill Hunter said the Moret ineident had an unsettling effect on his team. "We can't be sitting around and wondering whether he's going to play for us or not," Hunter said.

The Rangers called up Bob Babcock, a 28-year-old righthander from their Class AAA farm club in Tucson and said he would join the team Friday in Boston. Just before Moret was coaxed into an ambulance Wednesday night, Moret told a reporter, "I want to be traded. You tell

HOUSTON (AP) - The Houston Aeros with a do-or-die season ticket campaign off the ice, face a similar situation on the ice Sunday when they meet the Quebec Nordiques in the first round of the World Hockey Association playoffs.

Rangers

BOSTON (AP) - Carl Yastrzemski, the Boston Red Sox' amazing veteran, had mixed emotions today as he suited up for his 18th Fenway Park opener in a game with the Texas Rangers.

"It's a little sadder than in other years," Yastrzemski said. "This is the first opener my mother has missed." Yastrzemski took a brief moment to recall his mother, who died early this year after a long fight with cancer. But the Red Sox' 38-year-old slugger was ready to go, back in his old left field position and batting cleanup. 'It seems like only yesterday that I played here in my first opener," said Yastrzemski, who broke in with the Red Sox in 1961. "However, it was a long time ago. Just the same, I'll be as charged up as I was for the first one. It's just that it's a little sadder for me personally.

After winning two games and losing three one-run decisions on the road, the Red Sox were set to put what they hope will be a pennant express on display before a packed crowd of some 40,000 at Friendly Fenway. In an all-out effort to dethrone the New York Yankees in the American League East this year, the Red Sox, under new General Manager Haywood Sullivan, were set to introduce several newcomers. Second baseman Jerry Remy, a former

Massachusetts schoolboy sensation acquired from the California Angels, and righthanded pitcher Dennis Eckersley, lured from Cleveland in a multi-player deal late in spring training, were in the starting lineup.

On the bench were Dick Drago, Jack Brohamer, Tom Burgmeier, Frank Duffy, Fred Kendall and rookie pitcher Allen

The Boston batting order was loaded with punch, starting with Remy in the leadoff spot. Following in order were shortstop Rick Burleson, designated hitter Jim Rice, Yastrzemski, catcher Carlton Fisk, centerfielder Fred Lynn, first baseman George Scott, right-fielder Dwight Evans and third baseman Butch

Eckersley, who pitched seven strong innings without being involved in the decision last Saturday in Chicago, was due to be opposed on the mound by right-hander Doyle Alexander. The Rangers checked into town with a 2-3 record, with Alexander the loser of his lone decision.

"We weren't off to a very good start last year," recalled Sneva, who came into the race at Texas World Speedway's highspeed two-mile oval with no points toward the national title.

"It was touch and go," Sneva said. "We almost lost it when a wheel got stuck during a tire change.

This season, Sneva is off to a slightly better start, tied with Unser for fourth place in points, thanks mostly to a second-place finish at Ontario. But he still is counting on a good finish here to vault him into a strong position from which to wage his defense of the crown.

Strong challenges are expected from Unser, who recently turned a lap at better than 202 m.p.h. during tire tests at Indianapolis Motor Speedway in a new Lola prepared by Jim Hall of Midland, Texas; from Sneva's own teammate Mario Andretti, the track record holder at 214 158 m.p.h.: four-time Indy 500 winner A.J. ## Don Earl Happy To Be Tech's No. 1 Tailback

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff Don Earl always figured he'd wind up at Texas Tech, scholarship or not. The scholarship just made things that much

After an injury shortened 1976 cam paign, the Stamford product was passed over by collegiate recruiters at signing time in February 1977. He had planned to go ahead and come to Tech as a walkon, but he performed well in the high school all-star game in August and Tech came through with a scholarship offer.

Now, in the spring of his freshman year, Earl is the No. 1 tailback for the

"I had always had my heart set on coming to Tech," he said, "and I would have walked on here if I hadn't gotten a schol-

"I had a strained knee that made me miss the first five games of my senior year, and, for a while, they didn't know if they were going to have to operate or not. A lot of schools dropped off me because of that, but Tech didn't.

Considering everything. Earl is rather surprised to be the squad's first-team tailback now.

"I thought I was going to be a wide receiver. Then they told me that I would be tried at cornerback the first 10 days of spring training and be worked on offense "But I spent one day at cornerback and was moved to running back." Soph-to-be Tim Orr had been penciled in as the firstteam tailback before spring training, but he temporarily quit the squad and missed the first three days of drills, enabling Earl to move up to the first unit.

Earl was a running back in high school, but was shifted to wide receiver as a freshman at Tech. However, he was happy to return to the offensive backfield.

"I wanted to play running back all the time," he said. "I was sort of doubtful that they'd do it because of my size (5-8, 180), but there are some other small backs that have made it, so I think I can,

The increased blocking responsibilities that college backs have has been the toughest thing he's had to adjust to. This is in regard to both technique and absorbing the constant physical contact.

"I played for a Class AA high school, and I never had to block there. I just took the ball and ran. It's different here. You have to block in college. As far as technique goes, one thing I need to work on most is the cut block. Sometimes, I'll leave my feet too soon, and the defensive man has me then."

Earl believes that his small stature may be an advantage, rather than a handicap. "The defensive men don't see me as quickly as they will a big guy," he said,

so I can kind of sneak up on them." He said that he hasn't had much trouble re-adjusting to running back after his year's hiatus from the position. "I had forgotten a lot of stuff, like how NOTES: Two Tech players suffered knee injuries in Thursday's workout-ofensive tackle Robert Caughlin and defensive tackle Jim Verden, both of whom were on the first t eam. Both were helped from the field. A diagnosis is expected to e available .today. Sophomore-to-be Conway Wheat will probably replace Caughlin, another soph-to-be, head coach Rex Dockery said. . . Another soph-to-be, Jackie Ellis, is currently at quick guard in place of Larry Martin, who is out for a lew days with a badly sprained ankle. Aside from the knee injuries, Dockery was quite pleased with Thursday's practice. "It's the best day we've had," he said enthusiastically. "We really came along today. There was a lot of competition, and the players hit hard." Dockery said the quarterbacks and receivers did well in the outside passing drill, and that the defense did "excep#### tionally well" in goal-line drills. Rain Delays Tallahassee

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) - Bruce Lietzke doesn't believe he is a superstar among the golfers on the pro tour.

Then, again, he doesn't think he was playing over his head last year when he earned $202.156 for fifth place on the official money winnings list This time a year ago, Lietzke had won both the Tucson and Hawaiian Opens. had finished second in the Bob Hope Desert Classic and had posted 26 consecutive rounds no worse than par. In 1977, he also finished second in the year," Lietzke said. "It is not so much that I played above my head last year, but ... I'm far from being a superstar. I sorta had that thrust upon me. Last year I made most of my money early, out on the West Coast and in the deserts. It's kind of hard catching up.

Tournament of Champions and finished in the top 10 of tournament fields seven times. This year, going into today's start of the rain-delayed 10th Tallahassee Open, Lietzke had won just $18,069. His best finishes were a tie for sixth in the Citrus Open and a tie for eighth at Doral. "I really didn't expect as much this

Raiders Seeking UNM Title

Texas Tech won its last two team titles but the competition looks to be stacked in favor of the hosts Saturday, as the Raiders enter a five-way meet hosted by the University of New Mexico.

Over the past two weekends, Tech won its invitational meet and then followed with a victory in the Indian Relays at Abilene last Friday. However, New Mexico was named the outstanding team in the weekend Texas Relays-where no team crown is awarded-and the Lobos, featuring a host of speedy and strong Kenvans, are the favorites.

Competition will begin at 2:30 p.m.

With as many strong athletes as they have, I just hope to get out of there commented Tech track coach Corky Oglesby. "I thought we might be able to pick up some points in the field events, but then New Mexico State is coming, which has one of the top weightmen (Dennis Diaz) in this part of the

Tech's prime hopes for a blue ribbon is Jim MacAndrew, the senior long jumper who came within half an inch of winning the Texas Relays title last weekend. He has gone 25-7 this year but had a 25-23/4 leap last Sunday

Tech's weight hopes ride with Bobby Moeck and Harold Ledet, both of whom will be throwing the shot and discus.

Billy Stone, a freshman from Abilene Cooper, has been consistent at 6-8 this spring. Inthe springs, another Abilene native, Charles Green, will be leading.

Green has run 21.1 in the 220 this spring and has helped the Raiders run 41.1 in the sprint relay.

Running on that relay will be Green. MacAndrew, footballer Billy Taylor and Cody Bradford.

Winnipeg, Bulls Talk Good Game

The Birmingham Bulls and Winnipeg Jets are talking a good game as they prepare for the opening of their World Hockey Association quarter-final series to-

The Bulls under Coach Glen Somnor are continuing to preach intimidation the practice they follow on the ice while the Jets under Coach Larry Hillman are spouting team spirit and reassuring everyone that they'll answer the Birmingham challenge with goals. The second game of the best-of-seven series will be in Winnipeg Sunday before moving to Birmingham for games three and four. The Edmonton Oilers, meanhile, will go against the New England Whalers in Springfield, Mass., in another series opener tonight, with the second game also in Springfield on Sunday.

The Quebec Nordiques-Houston Aeros series opens Sunday in Houston.

"I'll stir things up," says Somnor, "I know some people won't like what we're going to do but we've come this far to win, at all costs. We won't create any giant scenes. Nobody is going to be jumping off the bench to club somebody over the head with his stick. But it's going to be a rough series, it better be.

Which means the two clubs, which were involved in two bench-clearing brawls in Winnipeg this season, will emerge with numerous bruises and ach-

But Hillman and the Jets insist the Bulls' intimidation tactics won't win the series for them.

"If the Bulls start to goon it up I think it'll hurt them because they'll get a lot of penalties and we have a lot of guys who can score on power plays," said Willy Lindstrom, a doubtful starter for the Jets because of a rib injury

Hillman said the Jets will have to be more aggressive, "take the body and meet the Bulls' challenge

The Whalers, meanwhile, have been trying to salvage their season which has included the loss of their home rink.

The Hartford Civic Center's roof collapsed early one morning last winter under weight of ice and snow, forcing the team out of town. They moved to the Springfield Civic Center, continued to win games and draw fans, and finished the season by clinching the WHA's Ben Hatskin Award for best goaltending.

"We desperately wanted to win the goaltending award," said Whalers Coach Henry Neale. "We couldn't be in any better frame of mind going into the playoffs than we are now.

As for the outcome of the Edmonton series, Neale said, "They'll have to play awfully well to beat us. If we play the way we have been. I don't think they

The Whalers will be led into the playoffs by the ninth and tenth highest scorers in the WHA. Gordie Howe and his son Mark. One of the team's award-winning netminders - veteran Al Smith - also gives the Whalers an edge in the series.

Flyers Eliminate Rockies

By The Associated Press

Coach Pat Kelly motioned towards the locker room, where his Colorado Rockies removed their uniforms for the final time this National Hockey League season.

'There's no shame in that room there," he said. "Nineteen guys worked their heads off and Philadelphia didn't just push us aside. They had to work for

The Flyers worked for their 3-1 triumph over Kelly's charges Thursday night and moved into the Stanley Cup playoff quarter-finals.

"It was a real good series, said Philadelphia center Bobby Clarke. "We played well and didn't give up many scoring chances, and that helps."

Elsewhere, Don Murdoch's goal at 1:37 of overtime carried the New York Rangers past the Buffalo Sabres 4-3 and forced a deciding game Saturday night in the teams' best-of-three set.

But two other first-round matchups were decided. The Detroit Red Wings eliminated the Atlanta Flames 3-2 on Bill Lochead's goal-with 1:34 remaining and the Toronto Maple Leafs ousted the Los Angeles Kings 4-0 behind Mike Palmateer's shutout goaltending and a solid performance by center Darryl Sittler.

"I didn't think the referee was too great," muttered Kelly, fighting to the very last. "If he has guts enough to look at himself in the mirror tomorrow and say he called a fair hockey game, then I better change my religion.

Referee Wally Harris called only two penalties in the deciding contest, both on said Gare. "but you've got to give us

the Flyers, both in the opening period. "If it's close and they don't call anything, then they might as well throw the rule boook out and just let it go. Let them play," said Kelly.

Philadelphia's Reggie Leach and Colorado's Dennis Owchar had traded firstperiod goals. The game stood at 1-1 until the third period, when the Flyers outshot the Rockies 20-4 and got goals from Don Saleski and Bob Kelly.

Mel Bridgman set up both third-period goals for Philadelphia, which outshot Colorado 44-18 in the opening game and 45-17 on Thursday.

Rangers 4, Sabres 3

Murdoch's tally capped a wacky overtime in which each team had a goal disallowed. Pat Hickey, who had scored earlier, had his apparent tally disqualified just 50 seconds into the extra session when referee John McCauley overruled the goal judge and decided the puck never entered the net.

Danny Gare, who had produced the game's third tie with 1:56 left in the second period, had his goal waved off 32 seconds later when McCauley ruled he kicked in the disc. Murdoch finally whipped a 10-foot shot past Buffalo goalie Dmn Edwards to decide matters until Saturday's contest. "If McCauley had called back that one," said Murdoch, "I'd have killed

"You've got to give them credit because they worked hard and they won," credit, too, because we're going to win the next one

Red Wings 3, Flames 2 Credit television with a big assist on Lochead's goal, his second of the third

"I was tired at the faceoff," said the left wing. "I was so tired that if we hadn't gotten that TV commercial I would have pulled myself out. The break for advertising gave me the wind to make

Lochead rushed past Atlanta defensemen Pat Ribble and Richard Mulhern, then drew goalie Dan Bouchard out of the net and steered the puck home to give the Red Wings their first home playoff victory since 1966.

"I have only one statement to make and this is it," said Flames Coach Fred Creighton: "If any supporters of ours are disappointed, they should jump into my shoes right now."

Tom Lysiak and Bobby Lalonde connected for Atlanta while Vaclav Nedomansky scored his second playoff goal for Detroit before a record Olympia crowd of

Maple Leafs 4, Kings 0 Sittler scored a goal and set up two others, backing Mike Palmateer's third shut-out of Los Angeles this season and starting the Kings' vacation. "We've never put two games together like this before this year," said Toronto Coach Roger Neilson. "They've never been up like this before."

Close checking by Sittler and Jimmy Jones kept the Kings' top scorers, Marcel Dionne and Butch Goring, without a point in the two games. "The last three games we played them, they shut us out twice," noticed Los Angeles Coach Ron Stewart, who was serenaded with choruses of "Goodbye, Stewart," as the game wore on. "I'm proud of the guys. They never gave up until the last minute, but you've got to score goals

Ron Ellis, Lanny McDonald and Jones had the other goals for Toronto. Palmateer stopped 21 shots.

DAMAGED BY VANDALS - Vandals smeared a colorless paste that caused colors to run on the 17th century oil painting "Joyful Company," by Dirck Hals, top, and a 15th century religious triptych or three-paneled painting, by an unknown Spanish artist. The smearing, discovered Tuesday, at the Staedel Museum in Frankfurt, West Germany, was the third attack on art works in Europe in nine days. Police said there were

Lawsuits Hurt Earnings Of Olympia Brewing Co.

TUMWATER, Wash. (AP) - Olympia Brewing Co. earnings for the first quarter will be about $900,000, down from $1.6 million a year ago, Rick Schmidt, company president, said this week.

Earnings will return about 35 cents a share, compared with 62 cents a share the first quarter of 1977, he said.

A $2.7 million after-tax settlement of a suit resulted in a net loss of $1.1 million, or 42 cents per share, he told shareholders at an annual meeting.

The out-of-court settlement came in March 1977 with distributors who claimed Olympia's acquisition of the Theodore Hamm Co. and its change in distribution procedures violated federal antitrust law. Olympia chose not to dis-over the firm. About 140 of those distributors filed suit.

Revenues for first three months are expected to be $78 million, up from $77.47 million a year ago, Schmidt said. The brewer shipped 1,448,000 barrels of beer during the period, compared to 1,510,000 barrels the first quarter last year, he said.

Schmidt said first-quarter results reflect stepped-up competition from the industry's major brewers. Also a factor, Schmidt said, were healthy sales of Olympia Gold, a reduced-calorie brew. Olympia's board of directors declared a dividend of 221/2 cents, unchanged from

An Associated Press spot check after last week's slashings of paintings in London and Amsterdam found few similar attacks in the United States. But museum officials said they did not want to ty at the Art Institute of Chicago.

The officials noted two distinct prob-

Laurence Chalmers, president of the museum, said key works in the $250 million collection are shielded by plexiglass or similar synthetics; other paintings are getting similar protection.

"If there is no way to stop this madness (vandalism), at the very least the public is going to have to view great works of art from behind plexiglass and not in their pristine forms," said Chal-

The museum security system combines guard forces, electronic surveillance and closed-circuit television. But, Chalmers said, "All the security in the worle will not prevent a guy standing in front of a painting from pulling a knife and slashing it."

Tom L. Freudenheim, director of the Baltimore Museum of Art, agreed. "There's no security system that will protect you from crazy people," he said, adding that the museum had moved to put glass or plexiglass on all major paintings in recent years. Freudenheim said the trend was "unfortunate," adding: "Your direct relationship with the painting) is somewhat limited" because glass tends to reflect light and create a light distortion

Ann Edwards, assistant public relations director at the Cleveland Art Museum, said security was doubled after two small southeast Indian art objects were stolen two years ago. Many paintings are covered with glass; others have rails or plant barriers in front of them.

"I don't like to see the paintings under glass because there are reflections," said Miss Edwards. "Obviously, when you have to look through something, it takes away from the painting. But we have to Gerard Shirar, director of security at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, said: "We will take precautions, but we can't change our business. We can't put enormous restraints on the public because of the acts of a few. We are a teaching institution. Allowing people to get up close to the works of art is an important part

At the Norton-Simon Art Museum in Pasadena, Calif., public relations spokesman Norman Watts said, "We have a staff of guards, an elaborate system of - both electronic and visual - ers." He said most paintings are covered with glass or plexiglass.

The Denver Art Museum uses electronic alarms and plexiglass for special displays. A spokesman said officials were "very aware of the problems many museums have had with paintings being slashed. We have gone over every work of art to determine how it could be damaged and discussed possible ways to minimize the risks. We realize that there will always be risks, but the only sure way to guard against damage is to close

No cure for her pain can be found and she finds herself more miserable because the doctors cannot help her. Dr. Richard Black said this is an example of the type of patient who comes to visit the Johns Hopkins Hospital Paln Black, eo-director of the clinic, said its philosophy is to teach the patient to manage the pain and learn to reduce it to a tolerable level. But most of the time the pain cannot be eliminated, he said.

Black said "pain is the third largest economic medical problem, next to cancer and cardiovascular disease".

Black said it has been documented that pain costs a substantial amount of money as well. For example, in California last year, he said, lower back pain cost insurance companies $200 million in payments to subscribers.

Black and his colleagues in the field contend that chronic pain is not adequately dealt with in medical schools. They say that medical students are taught to handle acute pain, which can often make chronic pain worse.

American society is too oriented toward medication or surgery, he said, citing one patient who has pain in his low back and has had 42 operations without alleviation of his problem.

The Hopkins pain clinic includes spe-cialists from several disciplines who work together as a team to examine a patient's problem from every possible an-

The clinic at Hopkins was started four years ago and handles both in-patients and out-patients. It has a waiting fist of five months and sees patients from all over the world.

"These people have real problems and may reveal it in different ways," he said.

During his first visit, a patient receives a thorough medical examination and is interviewed by a psychologist or other specialist. The patient's family also is interviewed. Black said that in many cases a patient may have a marital problem or be unhappy at work, and might reveal his unhappiness through physical pain. In such cases the counselor may recommend seeking legal help or similar kinds of solutions.

He said terminal cancer patients are usually well-adjusted individuals who are struck by an overwhelming disaster. But their loved ones may sometimes make matters worse by frequently administering pain killers since they figure that person will die soon anyway, he said. Many insurance companies do not understand how problems are handled at the Hopkins pain clinic and may refuse to pay for treatment, he said. But he added there are some that do cooperate and will pay for treatment at the clinic, but they are in the minority.

Black is currently involved with a computer study attempting to define pain on a nationwide level.

Computer terminals will be set up in hospitals across the country to interview patients, take a "pain" history and conduct tests to simply standardize information. Black hopes the program will be established across the country by 1981.

1976 to 1,400 this year but cannot grow much more because there is not enough room. So scientists are trying to move the flock to Aggatu.

The imported foxes on Aggatu are being killed off with poison. Two federal scientists will baby-sit the new population through the summer, in case other problems develop.

The geese will be taken to Aggatu in June and penned "more for protection than confinement," said Dan Benfield, the agency's endangered species coordinator. The birds will be released in Sep-

'Then hopefully they'll fly off into the sunset for California," Benfield said. Scientists hope the teacher geese will return to Aggatu in the spring with their students, rather than returning to their birthplace at Buldir. It likely will take three years to establish the geese on Aggatu, if the system works. And if it does, scientists will remove foxes from other islands to create The teacher geese who winter in Florinew habitats for the geese. When the
