

Congress Revises Farm Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress is pushing a new round of legislation to aid financially distressed farmers, including a bill to pump $4 billion in emergency credit into the farm economy and a possible scaled-down price support bill.

The House, facing a presidential veto threat, agreed two weeks ago to kill a multibillion-dollar bill raising farm supports and slashing crop production. On Monday, it adopted the more modest credit bill by an overwhelming 347-23 vote.

Then, by a routine voice vote, the House accepted a request by Agriculture Committee Chairman Thomas Foley, D-Wash., to send the rejected farm support bill back to a Senate-House conference committee which could seek to draft a down-scaled compromise.

President Carter already has said he will accept a bill raising the 1978 wheat-support target price from the present $3 a bushel rate to $3.40 a bushel.

The House-passed emergency credit bill, allowing individual farmers facing bankruptcy to get government-insured or guaranteed loans of up to $400,000, now goes to the Senate where the Agriculture Committee already has approved a similar bill allowing loans of up to $500,000.

Senate aides said they expect quick floor action on the bill, possibly before the end of this week.

The legislation has the support of the administration and most farm organizations, including the American Agriculture farm strike movement.

Other portions of the House bill would raise lending ceilings under an existing federal farm credit program operated by the Agriculture Department's Farmers Home Administration. Before passing the measure, the House adopted an amendment by Rep. Harold Volkmer, D-Mo., to keep an individual farmer from using both programs simultaneously to get total credit of $900,000.

Without Volkmer's amendment, a farmer's application under the new $400,000 emergency program would be scaled down by any amount he owed the FmHA in its regular program.

Rep. Glenn English, D-Okl., said the bill is "essential if we are to avoid losing an entire generation of family farms" that is currently facing a squeeze because of low grain prices.

SLOW DAY AT POLLS — Election clerks waiting in vain for voters in today's city council runoff election seemed to be the rule at most polling places. By 9 a.m. only 10 Precinct 8 voters had cast ballots for a Place 3 councilman, the post contested

Women's Movement Wins Pension Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pension plans requiring women to contribute a greater portion of their salaries than men because women generally live longer to collect benefits are illegal, the Supreme Court ruled today.

Handing a significant victory to the women's rights movement, the justices voted 6-2 in striking down such pension plans as unlawful sex discrimination.

"Many women do not live as long as the average man and many men outlive the average woman," the court said in an opinion by Justice John Paul Stevens.

"While they were working, those individuals received smaller paychecks because of their sex, but will receive no compensating advantage when they retire," Stevens said in finding that such pension plans violate the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The court's decision today upholds a legal victory won in lower courts by five women employees of the Los Angeles Department of Water and Power.

The women sued the city to protest a requirement that they pay into a compulsory retirement fund 15 percent more of their salaries than men earning the same amount. Their suit was filed on behalf of all female employees of the department.

Under the plan, a woman earning $1,000 a month would pay $25.49 in monthly contributions to the retirement fund; a man earning the same amount each month would face contribution payments of $22.20.

The pension plan, like those covering millions of working women, was based on life-expectancy charts showing that women generally outlive men — and that most women would be collecting pension benefits for a longer time after retirement.

While Stevens' opinion did not question the truth of such studies, it said that such generalizations could not be used to discriminate against every woman worker.

The court distinguished today's decision from a 1976 ruling that employers providing health benefits for workers are under no legal obligation to provide pregnancy benefits.

The 1976 decision dealt with discrimination on the basis of a special physical disability, and was legal, Stevens said. Today's case dealt with discrimination on the basis of sex, he said.

Stevens was joined by Justices Potter Stewart, Byron R. White and Lewis F. Powell Jr. Justice Thurgood Marshall joined in most of Stevens' opinion but was alone in voting that women should be allowed to recover money already lost in payments to the illegally discriminatory pension plans.

Justice Harry A. Blackmun, saying he was troubled with the court's reasoning, joined in the final judgment.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justice William J. Rehnquist dissented.

Justice William J. Brennan took no part in deciding the case.

In another decision, the Supreme Court ruled 8-0 that the National Society of Professional Engineers must stop prohibiting its members from submitting competitive bids for engineering jobs.

The justices ruled that the society's ethical prohibition against competitive bidding violates federal antitrust law.

Neutron Ban Proposed By Soviet Chief

MOSCOW (AP) — President Leonid I. Brezhnev said today the Soviet Union will not build neutron bombs as long as the United States refrains from producing the controversial weapons.

He described President Carter's decision to defer production of neutron warheads as a half-measure that does not settle the issue.

But he reiterated that "we, too, will not begin production of neutron arms so long as the United States does not do so. Further development will depend on Washington."

He added that it was unfortunate the United States has not responded to a Soviet proposal to conclude an agreement reciprocally renouncing manufacture of the neutron weapon, thereby "delivering mankind from it once and for all."

The neutron bomb is a small warhead that could be placed on missiles and artillery shells. It produces twice the deadly radiation of a conventional nuclear bomb but less than a tenth as much explosive power, heat and fallout. This means the bomb can kill people while causing little damage to buildings except in the impact area. The American version was designed to replace the approximately 7,000 nuclear warheads now deployed in Europe.

The Soviet president also called for a halt in the quantitative and qualitative growth of military weapons and armed forces of the major powers and their allies.

He told the 18th congress of the Young Communist League that his government will submit proposals, presumably at the disarmament session of the U.N. General Assembly in New York next month, to stop manufacturing all types of nuclear weapons, to stop developing new types of highly destructive conventional weapons, and to renounce expanding armies and increasing the conventional armaments of the permanent members of the U.N. Security Council and countries associated with them under military agreements.

The Soviet leader confirmed reports by U.S. officials that some progress toward a new agreement limiting long-range nuclear arms was made during Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance's visit to Moscow last week.

Brezhnev said the Americans still hold unacceptable positions on certain issues. But he said he believes by "reciprocal efforts based on sensible and realistic compromise we can complete the drafting of an agreement that will justly take into account the security interests of both parties."

Brezhnev did not go into details. U.S. officials reported earlier that Brezhnev and Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko retreated from their refusal to agree to the United States telling its European allies how to build its cruise missile. But they said the Russians still refused to agree to restrictions on the new Soviet Backfire bomber.

Sears Store Names New Manager

By RAY WESTBROOK
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Wendell H. Cherry, Lubbock store manager for Sears, Roebuck and Co. since 1973, has accepted an assignment as store manager for the firm in San Antonio, according to an announcement by the company.

Cherry will be replaced in Lubbock by A. A. Thom Jr., a native of Wichita Falls and, until his recent transfer, manager at Tyler.

Thom, who has held the Tyler post for the past five years, has extensive experience with Sears. He joined the firm in Wichita Falls and subsequently became assistant manager there. He has worked in the Galveston and Waco stores in merchandising and for a time was employed in the territorial office at Dallas.

Thom is a graduate of the University of Texas. His family consists of his wife, two daughters in college and a son in high school.

Cherry, who is originally from Austin and has a number of relatives in San Antonio, is "happy to get back to the Hill Country." The Military Drive store which he will head there is approximately the same size as the Lubbock operation.

He has been with Sears since July 1947; when he began working at the Alexander, La., store. His positions with the firm have included assistant manager at Waxahachie, assistant manager at Greenville, assistant manager at McAllen, assistant manager at Odessa, manager at Greenville, manager at Tyler, manager at Odessa, and, most recently, manager at Lubbock.

Cherry supervised the transition of Sears from its downtown location to the South Plains Mall last year.

At the time, Cherry called the opening of the mall store "the culmination of my 30 years of service with Sears." He said at opening-day ceremonies, "There are two highlights of my career. The first was

Send Him Back To Minors Until He Learns To Chew

BALTIMORE (AP) — New York Yankee pitcher Ron Guidry left the ballgame because he had bitten off more than he could chew.

The 27-year-old lefthander from Carencro, La., was chewing tobacco when he swallowed the juice in the bottom of the fifth inning of a game against the Baltimore Orioles. He pitched the sixth and seventh, but that chaw can stick in the craw for some time.

"I told Billy (Manager Billy Martin) that I didn't know where I'd be in the eighth and ninth, so he'd better take me out. The worst thing that could have happened to me was to throw up on national television."

ABC-TV televised the contest to parts of the nation as its Monday Night Game of the Week. Guidry recorded the victory as the Yanks defeated the Orioles 8-2. Guidry was cruising along on a four-hitter when he leaped in vain to grab a high chopper by Rich Dauer. The misdirected tobacco juice did him more harm than the Orioles.

"I didn't keep my mouth closed, and when I grunted, the juice slipped down," Guidry explained. "I didn't gag, but it went down so fast I got queasy in the stomach and a headache when it got to me."

Witness Recalls Grisly Discovery

By FRANK PATRICK
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Like pieces from some macabre jigsaw puzzle, prosecutors today began presenting evidence which they feel will tie Kenneth Owen Jaycon to the Christmas Eve murder of William Drew Young III.

The pieces include:

—A burning car, with the 28-year-old Young's body in the trunk, found south of Lubbock about 10 p.m. Dec. 24, 1977.

—A burning cardboard box watched over by two men, spotted by law enforcement officers approximately 1 1/2 miles east of the car nearly two hours later.

—A distinctive baseball cap lying near a 19th Street bar more than 24 hours after Young's body was discovered.

Those pieces of the puzzle were among elements broached by state witnesses today as testimony began in Jaycon's murder trial, being conducted in Judge Thomas L. Clinton's 99th District Court.

Prosecutors Jim Darnell and Tom Cannon already have indicated their case against the trim, black-haired, 31-year-old Jaycon will depend on expected key testimony from three other persons charged in Young's death.

But, before jurors can consider that expected accomplice testimony, the state must produce evidence tending to corroborate the accounts.

Six persons have been charged with Young's murder. They are Tico Lowrance, 27; Homer Lowrance, 37; Jan Payne, 26; Kenneth Wayne Herndon, 35; Jim Gordon, 42, and Jaycon.

Young's body was found in the burning car near FM 1585 and Avenue P.

Sheriff's Deputy Delwin "Sonny" Kee-see testified the 1970-model Plymouth had burned severely, but was smoldering by the time he arrived.

"The heat was so intense that the windshield had melted," Kee-see stated, saying at one point pieces of the melted glass were hanging like "icicles."

Kee-see said he knew Young and recog-

LAETRILE OF VITAMINS?

Medical Community Clashes Over B-15

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Some dismiss B-15 as the Laetrile of vitamins; but others, ranging from Dr. Robert Atkins to the Soviet Olympic team, consume it as if it were energized candy. Additionally, some maverick medical experts think that the vitamin B-15 may be the first preventive medicine for heart attacks. In this exclusive three-part series, Philip Bobbie examines both sides of the controversial, and still FDA-unapproved, vitamin.)

Dr. Atkins prescribes it for super-energy. Dick Gregory fuels up on it during interstate marathons. Muhammad Ali pops it when his blood is on the ropes. The U.S. equestrian team feeds it to the horses. And the USSR Academy of Sciences thinks it's an antidote for heart disease, senility, autism, etc. But a counsel for the Food and Drug Administration, smelling an apricot pit, deems it a hoax and wants it off the market.

Vitamin B-15 is, loosely speaking, the Laetrile of vitamins. In fact, it was first isolated in 1951 by E.T. Krebs, the father of Laetrile, in the same wondrous pit of the humble "prunus armeniaca," or apricot. The use of a substance of such dubious extraction is easily dismissed as quackery. Two-time Nobel-prize winner Linus Pauling, the champion of vitamin C, remains skeptical on this other panacea. "I don't have confidence in anything done in the field of nutrition," Pauling comments. "It's so complicated. But the Russian studies are interesting."

After tinkering with Krebs' formula and experimenting with animals and more than 1,000 patients, the Soviets introduced B-15 to their pharmacies in the mid-60s. They were ecstatic with the results. Professor Yakov Shpirt of Moscow Clinical Hospital No. 60 predicted that B-15 would eventually become as common as table salt in Russian homes. To the timid, Professor Shpirt advised, "We must not fear universal remedies."

Despite the FDA's disapproval, vitamin B-15 is widely available in the United States. The city's health-food stores are well stocked with 100-tablet bottles for about $8, but some of them, like mine, sell B-15 only under the counter. Last month in Chicago, the FDA seized several shipments of Aangamik 15, the brand name for FoodScience Laboratories' best-selling version of the vitamin, for noncompliance with narrow food-additive regulations.

If the FDA wins, B-15 will be wiped out before most of the country knows what it missed. Nutritionists, vitamin therapists, and other practitioners of holistic healing are the voodooists of American medicine, sharing large followings and little standing. So B-15, a potential rival of the established vitamin favorites, C and E, is on trial for its life — and if you really believe, for our lives too.

Vitamin B-15 isn't vitamin at all in the strict sense. That is, it has not been proved an essential dietary requirement whose absence would lead to deficiency or disease. Krebs identified it chemically as pangamic acid or pangamate (pan, "all"; gamate, "seed"), because he claimed it exists in all seeds. On the theory that the substance appears in nature wherever other B-complex vitamins are found, he named it B-15. Other B-complex sources include brew-

Mayor Of Dallas Urges Schools To Fight Ruling

DALLAS (UPI) — Mayor Bob Folsom says he disagrees with a federal appeals court ruling that the city's school district must revise its desegregation plan and favors an appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans, in a 13-page statement made public Monday, said the Dallas Independent School District must eliminate or justify the existence of predominantly one-race schools in its 2-year-old desegregation plan.

The ruling came on an appeal filed by the NAACP.

"I regret the 5th Circuit Court's decision to overturn the plan," Folsom said. "I strongly disagree with the ruling and I would hate to see Dallas have to go through the whole desegregation question again.

"I think the school district might have a better chance with the Supreme Court than the 5th Circuit Court," he said. "At least that has been the trend so far."

The appeals court ordered U.S. District Judge William Taylor to devise a new plan but set no deadline.

The current student assignment plan divides the school district into six subdistricts. Four of those subdistricts substantially reflect the racial makeup of the school system as a whole, the court said. "(But) the other two subdistricts each contain a predominant ethnic group."

"Seagoville, geographically isolated from the rest of the DISD, has an approximately 82 percent Anglo enrollment," the court said.

"East Oak Cliff, bounded by the Trinity River bottom on one side and by Interstate 35 on the other, is approximately 98 percent black."

The 5th Circuit said only one of the DISD's six subdistricts was completely free of one-race schools.

The appeals court panel ordered the DISD to provide transportation for students who choose to transfer from a school in which their race is the majority to one in which their race is a minority.

"The school board, not the students or their parents, must assume the burden of transporting the students," the court said. "The district court is directed to include the majority to minority transfer Ervin's Commercials 'Help' U.S.

WAYNE, N.J. (AP) — Former Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., says he agreed to make a commercial for American Express cards because the government needs the money.

"You know, the government takes 53 1/2 percent of every dollar I make," Ervin told a news conference Monday before a speech at William Paterson College. "I knew the government needed the money. So I figured I'd make some more (from the commercial) so I could pay my income tax."
The 81-year-old Ervin, who chaired the Senate committee investigating the Watergate affair, said he did not object to the various Watergate figures writing books about the subject.
"The First Amendment gives anyone who wants to write a book the right to do so," he said. "They (Watergate figures) need money just like everyone else. They have a lot of legal fees due and as a retired lawyer, I'm all for the paying of legal fees."

Fired Employee To Run For Mayor

CHICAGO (AP) — Jane M. Byrne, a city official fired after she contended taxi fare increases were improperly approved, says that she will challenge Mayor Michael Bilandic in February's Democratic primary.

"A cabal of evil men has fastened itself onto the government of the City of Chicago," Mrs. Byrne said at a news conference Monday.

Bilandic fired Mrs. Byrne from her post as consumer sales commissioner in November after she charged that he "greased" an 11.8 percent cab fare increase. She said Bilandic knew the increase wasn't justified but pushed for it anyway.

Stolen Kisses

NEW YORK (AP) — A woman testified that an officer was trafficking in stolen kisses when he and his partner began writing out a parking ticket.

The Lighter Side Of Today's News

Gail Baxter, 30, appeared Monday at the trial of traffic control agent Toby Wilkins, 30, on charges of official misconduct and attempted coercion. Wilkins allegedly offered to forget about a parking violation in return for a kiss.
"Give me a kiss, and we'll forget about it," she quoted the officer as saying. Wilkins, she testified, put his head in the car window and had "an evil look" in his eyes, "a look of perversion."
Wilkins denied the charge, saying he and another traffic agent, Jerry Brady, approached the car after a truck driver had complained that it was blocking a loading zone.
Brady said that it was he, not Wilkins, who mentioned kissing — "jokingly" — while Wilkins wrote out a ticket.
The case was adjourned until next Friday.

Brzezinski Remark Concerns U.S. Intelligence Specialists

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence specialists are concerned that a remark by President Carter's national security adviser may have given the Russians a clue to the effectiveness of U.S. monitoring of Soviet air defenses.

They fear this may have been a result of Zbigniew Brzezinski's disclosure to newsmen Friday that Soviet jet fighters had fired on a South Korean airliner well inside Russian territory.

At the time Brzezinski said this, the Russians had acknowledged that their fighter planes had intercepted the airliner. But they were silent about any shooting.

It wasn't until more than a day later, after they reached Helsinki, Finland, that survivors confirmed the Soviet attack.

Therefore, it became clear that Brzezinski obtained his information about the shooting through U.S. intelligence monitoring of Soviet communications and a "reading" of Russian pilot radio talk.

Both the United States and the Soviet Union use a variety of highly sophisticated intelligence-gathering electronic devices from satellites, ships, submarines, airplanes and land bases.

While each government knows the other is doing this, intelligence officials are extremely close-mouthed on what kind of methods they use in sensitive situations, and what kind of results they achieve.

These officials contend that public disclosure of methods and results is likely to tell the Russians much about the effectiveness of U.S. intelligence. This could lead to Soviet countermeasures, the specialists say.

Defense officials did say that no radio distress message was received from the Korean plane and no radio call was sent to it from U.S. sources. They did not elaborate.

There are indications that Norwegian radar detected that the South Korean airliner had entered the Soviet air space, and that this information was relayed to

Senator Feels Disappointed

LITTLE ROCK (UPI) — Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., says he is disillusioned with the congressional system and was happier as governor than he is as a senator.

"When I was governor of Arkansas, I went home more gratified than I have from this office," Bumpers told the Washington Post Sunday magazine.

Bumpers entered the Senate in 1975 calling for a commission to study and streamline the Senate. But the problems go deeper than Senate procedures, he said.

"We continue to deal here with the politics of the problem rather than the problem. The job becomes an end in itself — public relations, cosmetics, how much pork you can take home, how many grants you can get for your state. We are all trying to make records to run on," Bumpers said.

He also said the country lacks leadership from its senators.

"They are not what I expected they would be," he said. "The Senate has no more Hubert Humphreys."

As the public becomes more aware of the country's problems and angrier about them, Bumpers said, the senators have less time to solve them.

"I think the question is whether the present trend is irreversible. I'm going to try to work to turn it around," he said. "The next 10 years will tell the tale of the future of our system. I am really pessimistic about where we are headed."

Barbershop Keeps Old Days Alive

WOODBURY, Tenn. (AP) — Jim Borren's one-room barbershop is a throwback to days past. A pot-bellied stove supplies heat. Hardwood benches for waiting customers run along two walls.

But then the 80-year-old Borren is a throwback, too, seeing how he refuses to charge more than 25 cents for a haircut and 15 cents for a shave.

Borren's two-bit haircut looked for a while like an endangered species, but a friend came to the rescue.

For the 25 years he has been barbering in his little shop in this rural middle Tennessee town, his landlady, Glera Armstrong, charged him just $30 rent a month, including a living space in the rear. But Mrs. Armstrong died last November, and on Saturday her relatives sold the building which houses the barbershop and a flower shop.

Borren said he bid $15,500, but it was not enough. High bidder Hal Larimer, a Woodbury funeral director, who paid $20,500, said he had no immediate plans for the building but considered Borren a friend and said they will reach some agreement.

"I've buried most of Mr. Borren's family for the past 30 years, and they've been fine people," Larimer said in an interview.

"We've got no intentions of interrupting a fellow's lifelong career," he said, referring to Borren. "I told him just to relax."

Borren said he is relieved to be able to keep his business and home. And the prices are staying.

"I don't want to ever raise the price of my haircuts," the balding Borren said. Borren said his ornate leather-and-wood barber chair is probably older than he is. Other than an electric trimmer for fine work along the neck, Borren sticks to oldtime tonorial tools — the straight razor, comb and scissors — because they are cheaper, he said.

He taught himself the barber's trade years before actually going into business. He got his start one day when his brother needed a haircut. After that, Borren's home was busy with people coming for haircuts.

"For years, he said, he has worked six days a week, 10 hours a day, taking only one holiday a year — Christmas.

Five other barbers work in Woodbury, but competition has not been a problem, he said. "There's enough for everybody ... I've got enough to do. I reckon I cut about 20 heads a day," he said.

And he added one last comment: "I want to cut hair until I'm 100."

"Thanks, boss!"

Almost three million Texans are grateful and happy that their companies provide Blue Cross and Blue Shield Insurance.

Why? Because they know it's the best group health insurance coverage... and the best group health insurance value. They know it offers a complete insurance package — not just health care coverage. They know that claims filing is easy, and that claims are paid promptly. And they know their familiar I.D. card is instantly recognized by doctors and hospitals everywhere.

Best of all, almost three million Texans know their companies think enough of them to provide the best health care insurance. That's something they can be really thankful for. And their companies can feel really good about.

Candidate Jim Reese Endorsed By Reagan

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Although former California Gov. Ronald Reagan said only a month ago he would remain neutral in the Republican contest for Congress from the 19th District, Republican candidate Jim Reese Monday produced a letter from Reagan endorsing his candidacy.

But Reagan's is not the only Reese endorsement letter signed by a national Republican figure.

Although party leaders traditionally take a "hands-off" attitude toward contested primaries, a letter written on the stationery of U.S. Sen. Orrin Hatch (R-Utah) has been circulated all over the country to solicit funds for the Reese campaign.

Reagan's letter to Reese stops short of an outright endorsement, although a Reagan spokesman said endorsement was the intention.

The 1976 presidential hopeful said he was "earnestly seeking to develop a position which supports the cause for which we've worked so hard over the years, while at the same time, one which does not impede our efforts in presenting a united front for the campaigns in November."

"As usual, there are all kinds of arguments to justify a course of action. But as has been said before, 'When in doubt, adhere to principle and ignore the personality,'" the letter continues.

After saying the "bottom line of course, is that a choice must be made," Reagan continues, "The bottom line in this instance is that two years ago I gave public testimony to your leadership, your qualifications, and your personal commitment to those values which are so essential to our national existence."

"You are today the same man, and the challenges to our nation are unchanged. Thus on the basis of principle, I want to wish you success in one of the most important congressional races this year," the letter says.

When asked if he solicited the letter, Reese said he had asked Reagan to come to the district for a fund-raiser which his schedule did not permit.

However, Reese predicted Reagan would be in the district campaigning for Reese if he wins the Republican primary. "I expect to have him here soon," Reese said.

The former mayor of Odessa said the letter would be "helpful to newcomers in the 19th District to help them make a decision in the Republican primary."

Calling Reagan the "outstanding conservative spokesman in the country today," Reese said "I can't tell you how good it is to have the governor over here."

Although the former governor is "out of the country," a spokesman explained why Reagan did an about-face on entering the primary.

Lyn Nofziger, the executive director for Reagan's Citizens for the Republic, said Reagan remains firm in his commitment to stay out of contested primaries where there is a Republican incumbent.

Nofziger emphasized the endorsement was not meant as a "reflection on the other two candidates," and said Reagan would support whoever wins the Republican primary.

"We had been given no reason not to support Reese, and since he had endorsed Jim Reese before, it would look as if we were walking away from a friend" if there was no endorsement.

Reese was not the only Republican candidate for the 19th District congressional seat seeking Reagan's support.

A Joe Hickox supporter wrote Reagan March 16 asking the former governor to endorse Hickox or remain neutral.

A letter from Nofziger dated March 22 said that Reagan had been urged to stay out of it by state Republican chairman Ray Barnhart and Midland Mayor Ernest Angelo, but Reese and Hickox had asked him to "become involved."

"With friends on both sides, we feel that we must remain neutral until after the primary," the letter concludes.

Hickox said he doubted the Reese letter would sway many votes "mainly because West Texas in the 19th District are strong-willed and independent-minded."

However, Hickox said some of his supporters who also are strong Reagan-backers were "disappointed because Reagan decided to get involved."

Hickox said Reagan's participation in the campaign might open up the wounds from 1976 over the Gerald Ford-Reagan split and hurt the chances for Republicans to win in the November general election.

He suggested that the last minute change of heart might be Reagan's feeling that "Jim is now seriously being challenged and in jeopardy of losing and the only thing that could pull out the election would be his endorsement."

The third Republican in the race, Midland oilman George Bush, said he is "convinced that the people of West Texas will make their final decision based on who can do the best job for West Texas as well as who has the best chance of winning in November."

"This is why my campaign has many supporters of Gov. Reagan working diligently for my nomination," he said.

The letter signed by Sen. Hatch was mailed by Richard A. Viguier's company in Falls Church, Va., which is known for its direct-mail fundraising work for right-wing groups and causes.

Viguier has handled fundraising campaigns for organizations such as the Americans Against Union Control of Government and the Citizens Committed for the Right to Keep and Bear Arms. The company has also raised funds for former Alabama Gov. George Wallace.

The three-page letter begins, "In just 30 days there will be a primary election in west (sic) Texas for a crucial seat in Congress. The conservative candidate, Jim Reese, needs your help to win."

"I won't waste your time with a lot of words...What I need from you today, plain and simple, is the largest check you can possibly afford to help elect this strong conservative."

The letter then suggests contributions of "$100 or more."

After mentioning Reese's 1976 race against Congressman George Mahon, the letter implies Mahon's decision to retire was because Reese planned to run again.

"So when Jim said he was going to run for Congress again this year, George Mahon said he was going to retire. That's because Jim Reese looked like a sure winner."

The letter continues: "But when Mahon said he would retire, everyone else jumped into the race. The vacant seat has become a top target by the liberals."

"Money has been pouring into the district from left-wing sources to help a self-professed professional politician win the Democrat (sic) primary. And the odds are they're going to do it."

Jim Reese, according to the letter, is the "best conservative candidate available," has experience campaigning for Congress and "has proven he can get Democrats to vote for him in this area of Texas."

"So if Jim can win the primary on May 6th, odds are he can win the general election in November — even against a hand-picked left-wing candidate."

After a recitation of Reese's stand on the congressional pay raise, inflation, gun control, etc., the letter says, "I've got to stop so you can get a breath and take a moment to write your check."

According to the letter, Reese would use the money raised to write letters to "every conservative registered voter in his district."

When asked about the letter, Reese said he was pleased Hatch "got involved" and mentioned another Utah Senator, Jake Garn, had written a letter on his behalf in 1976.

But Reese refused to respond to the specific charges in the letter concerning the left-wing candidate and money in the race.

"This is not the time to be specific to that," Reese said, promising details would be forthcoming after the primary if he wins.

Reese said he didn't write the letter, although his campaign paid for the mailing, and said the letter was not written by Sen. Hatch either.

"Hatch was asked to sign the fundraising letter," Reese said. "The letter was written by staff people working with the senator in Washington," Reese said.

He said the letter was sent to "people who would be sympathetic to conservative thinking."

When Bush got wind of the letter campaign, he dashed off a letter to Hatch expressing surprise at his entry into a contested Republican primary.

Bush also noted Reese was not the only conservative in the race.

Lubbock Tire Company Reports Theft Of $1,700 In Merchandise

Businesses and residents again lost an assortment of property to burglars and thieves, recent reports made to police indicated.

Whoever broke through a window and tore open a wire-mesh cage at the end of the weekend made off with a $1,700 haul from Wayne Muse Firestone at 2901 Ave. H. According to the owner, several tires and $20 in change from a soft drink machine were stolen.

Michael P. White complained that several pieces of jewelry and about $75 worth of medicine was taken from his 2114 73rd St. residence Monday. Reports indicated entry was gained by cutting a hole in a back screen door. The resident said the property was valued at more than $2,000.

Tech Coaches Due Honor

Texas Tech University basketball coach Gerald Myers and his assistants will be honored at a dinner of champions banquet at 7 p.m. Saturday in the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center banquet hall.

Mayor Dirk West will be the master of ceremonies for the event, which is an effort to raise funds to provide clinical physical therapy services to area multiple sclerosis patients. The banquet is sponsored by the Lubbock chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society.

Robert Newhouse of the Dallas Cowboys will be the guest speaker.

Autographed team footballs and basketballs will be auctioned off with the proceeds going to the MS society, and all donations are tax deductible.

Tickets are $20 each and may be obtained from any member of the Metro Lions Club, Hub City Kiwanis or the Southwest Kiwanis Club.

Tickets are also available at the local MS chapter office at 1220 Broadway, Suite 1501, and at both locations of L&H Drugs.

SPEED OF SOUND

The speed of sound is generally placed at 1,008 feet per second at sea level at 32 degrees Fahrenheit.

Stephen Ray Wilson of 1623 17th St., No. 16, told officers someone pried his front door Monday and got away with more than $2,000 worth of goods including stereo equipment, a television and a CB radio.

According to Bessie Jane Jones, a burglar broke through her 1506 E. 24th St. back door Monday and hauled away jewelry, a television and a .22-caliber pistol.

A similar type handgun reportedly was stolen from Joyce Ann Morgan's 2306-B Ave. T apartment Monday. Reports indicated there was no sign of forced entry.

A bearded bandit who faked the purchase of a pair of trousers just to get the cash register opened at a central Lubbock firm Monday made off with an undetermined amount of money after locking both attendants in a back room.

Forty-year-old clerk Joyce Duke told police a Mexican-American man about 25 years old entered Wilson's Little Red Barn about 5:30 p.m. Monday and, after searching through several stacks, finally decided on a pair of pants and approached the register.

While the man dug into his pockets for money, the woman told police, she opened the cash register and prepared to ring up the purchase. It was then, she said, she noticed the man hadn't produced the money but had pulled a black pistol he had apparently carried into the store.

The man, clad in blue pants, emptied the register and ordered the woman and her mother, who was in the store at the time, to get into a room in the back of the 2223 Ave. H business.

After they were certain the man had fled, his victims called police.

Officers late Monday still were seeking a suspect in that case, but other officers arrested another man Monday for carrying a similar weapon.

Patrolmen who noticed a figure slumped against the steering wheel of a car parked near a 4th Street and Avenue H club about 3:45 a.m. Monday said they discovered a .38-caliber revolver in the man's pocket after waking him. He was arrested for unlawfully carrying a weapon.

When Tim Casper, manager of a 2343 19th St. business returned to work Monday, he found the safe to his firm open and several cash drawers emptied. Casper told police whoever entered the firm about 3 a.m. Monday left with at least $3,500.

Car burglars took $1,028 worth of various items from a car owned by Robert Medlin of Arlington while the vehicle was parked outside a 2627 74th Place residence between 9 p.m. and 10:30 p.m. Sunday.

Danny Joe Davidson of 3308 60th St. told police someone took a $440 radio, a coat and some tapes from his car while it was parked outside a 3006 Slide Road business late Sunday.

Stephanie Tyhurst of 3424 Frankfort Ave. reported the theft of about $90 in cassette tapes from her car late Sunday or early Monday.

City Traffic Panel Votes Against Food Truck Ban

The Citizens Traffic Commission says a school district-proposed ordinance banning food concession trucks from school campuses may create as many problems as it alleviates.

For that reason, the commission has voted not to recommend that the Lubbock City Council pass the suggested law.

The members of the commission, being aware of the irritations resulting from the unwanted litter found wherever fast-food snacks are sold, understand the pressures exerted for seeking a remedy. The traffic advisory panel told the Lubbock Independent School District in a recent letter.

However, the commission said, "The potential from the proposed ordinance to significantly improve conditions is questionable...The hazard to the student would appear to be increased through a greater exposure to vehicular traffic over a wider area" if food vendors are forced farther from campus.

School trustee Giles M. "Buddy" Forbes three months ago proposed that the city be asked to pass an ordinance banning mobile caterers from setting up their stands within two blocks of schoolyards.

Forbes said that at some schools, "these caterers really present a problem — blowing litter, kids running into the streets, that sort of thing. I don't want to put them out of business, but I do want to stop them from parking right next to a school."

Bill Parker, the school system's pupil personnel and safety director, said he had met with assistant city attorney Ken Jones to draft an ordinance along the lines of Forbes' suggestion.

It was that proposed ordinance that the Citizens Traffic Commission turned down.

The commission said it "studied the probable application of the ordinance proposed 'to control food vendors near schools to prevent traffic hazards and the littering of private property and school property."

"The discussion included both probable beneficial influence toward alleviation of hazards to traffic at the immediate vicinity of public school properties, and the probable increase in hazards to students who might choose to walk, or to drive, the greater distance to secure the food or snacks from the vendor's vehicle."

Lubbock Christian Schedules Dinner

Lubbock Christian College and Lubbock Christian School employees will attend the annual Faculty/Staff Dinner today at 7 p.m. in the Betty Hancock Cafeteria on the LCC campus.

Dr. Harvie Pruitt will present service pins to employees who have worked for the college for 20, 15, 10 and five years.

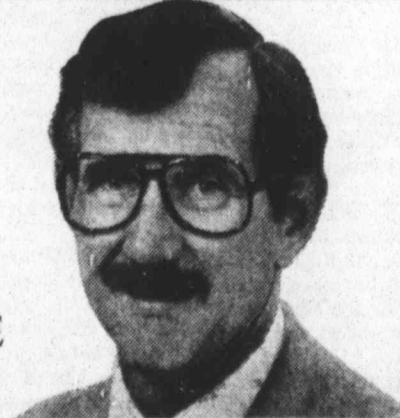

Receiving the 20-year pin will be June Bearden. The 15-year pins will be presented to Bertha Castle, Gary Bowe and Carroll Burcham.

Straws Blowin' In Wind

JIMMY CARTER badly needs a victory on a headline-making domestic or international issue to convince an increasingly doubtful public that his administration means business and is capable of conducting it.

Questioning of the magnolia administration performance and prospect for improvement has become so insistent that the President is placed somewhat in the position of a man being asked to comment in public on when he intends to stop beating his wife.

FOLLOWING AS it did so swiftly on the heels of his announcement of an anti-inflation program, the President's promise to veto subsequent budget-distorting legislation may be something of a political straw. Whether it is a straw in the wind or one to be grasped at remains to be seen.

If there really is a cause-and-effect relationship that translates a sympathetic Congressional vote into a presidential "victory," it's one Jimmy Carter certainly could use right now.

By any number of measures, the Carter presidency appears to have serious cause for concern. Take opinion polls. There is a particular fascination in charting a presidency's progress through these soundings of the public political temper.

A survey taken by The New York Times and CBS gives Mr. Carter a 46 percent public approval rating, down from 64 percent at the start of his administration.

This is a lower point and a farther drop than registered by any recent President with the exception of Gerald Ford—who plummeted from 71 to 44 percent.

BUT JIMMY CARTER appears to be among the least perturbed by the current attention to presidential performance and image. While attentive to criticism, he still gives no indication of entertaining personal doubts on either score. Or intention of significantly modifying same.

He may be justified in a sanguine attitude toward the polls. Indeed, it may come to pass that in this case he's the only one in step. Who knows, an upward swing may follow his current low ratings and eventual legislative successes may justify both his anti-inflation program and the management of it.

For now, however, our problems cry out for something more substantial than straws.

John D. Lofton:

Nader 'May' Be Health Hazard

WASHINGTON—"Are warning labels effective?" I debated this question with Ralph Nader on ABC's "Good Morning America" show. I said "no," Ralph said, "yes." And with all due modesty, and with complete objectivity, I think I skunked him.

First, one has to define what is meant by "effective." If by "effective" it is meant that warning labels prevent or discourage consumers from using whatever it is they are being warned against, the answer is clearly "no." Take, for example, cigarettes.

Since 1965, cigarettes have, by law, been required to feature the following label: "Warning: The surgeon general has determined that cigarette smoking is dangerous to your health."

BESIDES REQUIRING this warning on all cigarette packs, the law also requires that it appear on all cigarette ads as well. In addition to this required warning, since 1971, all cigarette ads have been banned from both radio and TV.

Furthermore, nationwide, every day, there are zillions of so-called "public service" anti-smoking ads. So what has been the result of this campaign? Are people smoking less? No, they are not.

According to the Tobacco Institute, in recent years, more people are smoking than ever before. Cigarette sales have climbed at the rate of about 1 or 2 percent a year. In 1976, cigarette sales were at a record high—$20 billion cigarettes were sold.

Nader responds to this data by saying that not enough information is contained on the cigarette warning label. But what is enough? If Ralph had his way, it would be required by law that each cigarette pack have attached to it by a chain the entire surgeon general's report—you know, like the zip code directory that is attached to the counter at the local post office.

I REALLY THINK that most people smoke because they want to smoke, and all the warning labels in the world aren't going to alter this situation. As that great American philosopher, Yogi Berra, once said:

"If people don't want to come out to the ball park, nobody can stop them." It's the same with cigarettes. If people don't want to quit smoking, nobody can stop them from refusing to quit.

Now there are warning labels on diet soft-drinks that contain saccharin. This label reads: "Use of this product may be hazardous to your health. This product contains saccharin, which has been determined to cause cancer in laboratory animals." But what does this mean?

I understand what it means as far as laboratory animals, but what does it mean to humans? Should I drink the stuff or not? So it "may" be hazardous to my health. But is it? Does this mean that everything that causes cancer in laboratory animals will cause cancer in humans? I'm skeptical.

PEOPLE MAGAZINE recently ran an article reporting on two Denver doctors who had inserted sterilized dimes in the peritoneal cavities of 35 rats.

Within 14 months it was discovered that nine rats had developed sarcomas (tumors) and nine more had distinct abdominal masses. Malignancies eventually occurred in 63 percent of the rats. The two doctors, in a letter of protest in the

ONE MAN'S OPINION Kenneth May Don't Rush Me...

"DYING WITH DIGNITY has become a catch-all phrase," says a University of Texas assistant professor in medical humanities. "...Terminally ill persons should be able to have parties, sing hymns and clap their hands if they want to."

Reminds me of the story about three guys discussing how they'd like to go when their time came.

"I want to go with a heart attack," said the first. "Just like that. No suffering. Fast."

"Not me," said the second. "I want time to plan everything, put my affairs in order, say goodbye."

"When my time comes," said the third, "I want to be at home in my own bed. My children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren, friends and neighbors will all gather 'round."

"I want them, one by one, to file past my bed and tell me how much they think of me, how they'll miss me when I'm gone. And then I want to linger on and linger on—and finally get well!"

"JUST LAST MONTH," Don Bloyd writes in the local Postal Service news letter, "Postmaster Doyle Berry at Ralls sent a catalog to the Sectional Center for review and, as he said, it just didn't look like it had any postage paid."

Follow-up on this mailing disclosed that Postmaster Berry was right. Almost 200,000 had been mailed nationwide without any postage being paid.

Postmaster Berry's inquiry resulted in collection of $17,936 in revenue due the Postal Service. In that case of Berry's, picking postage paid.

After less than 16 months in office, President Carter has been to every continent except Australia and he's heading to Europe again in July. Considering all the problems he faces in North America, you really can't blame him.

California Gov. Jerry Brown, watching his ratings slip in the popularity polls just as he faces a tough re-election campaign, rues the days when he was such a go-it-alone guy that he refused to attend fund-raising dinners for other Democrats. "If we can coordinate our campaign efforts," he told Democratic legislators the other day, "we can maximize our campaign efforts."

In its 1978-79 budget, the City and County of San Francisco anticipates collecting $255.60 million in local property taxes—and $215.97 million in state and federal revenues. "Local government" has become a misnomer.

ONE REASON the big cities are near bankruptcy, and threatening to take the country down with them, are the big salaries they pay with federal taxpayer assistance.

According to an editorial in the San Francisco Examiner, employees of the heavily subsidized Bay Area Rapid Transit (BART) system are

"drawing pay 10 to 44 percent higher than the scales prevailing for similar jobs in other transportation systems."

"No one is suggesting that their pay be cut, but certainly the scales should be brought more closely in line with the going price on the labor market," the editorial said.

It added that BART salaries "often are taken into account when other public agencies, including the City of San Francisco, set their own pay schedules."

In other words, extravagance begets extravagance, which begets waste, which begets bankruptcy.

"THE PROBLEM goes back in part to BART's early days when it hired a lot of people from other transit systems, such as Greyhound and AC Transit, whose operations were affected by the advent of BART," the Examiner recalled.

It added: "In accord with an agreement with the federal government, many of those employees came in at rather high scales, having accumulated considerable seniority in their original jobs."

Federal bureaucrats, they're saying in effect, forced wasteful salary levels on local officials. BART station agents draw $1,574-a-month paychecks, the Examiner said, "44 percent higher than those of their counterparts in Boston, Atlanta and Washington."

Fittingly, all that money goes into a hole in the ground.

Holmes Alexander:

'GOP Ready For The Ash Can'

WASHINGTON—Three times in our political generation we have been offered the opportunity and the man—Barry Goldwater, Ronald Reagan and now William E. Simon—to lead us out of the desert to sweet waters of freedom.

I interviewed the dark, restless, handsome, valiant-for-the-truth former Treasury Secretary here in his hotel room and found him the same brilliant, passionate spirit as before.

Along with Henry Kissinger, Simon lasted the whole Nixon nightmare without tarnish and indeed with enhanced reputation of a prophet who gets the unusual reward—honor in his own country.

IN THIS INSTANCE, the country of the parable stands for conservatism, for Americanism, which ought to mean the same, and do in the better minds. Kissinger, being a diplomat, is too measured a spokesman to be consistently understood, but Simon is a bull who carries his own china shop and smashes the crockery on Democratic and Republican shelves alike.

Therein, I think, he is different from Goldwater who is a loyalist of the GOP, and won its nomination as well as its lasting admiration. Simon is different from Reagan who showed as two-time Governor of California, a wacky and Democratic state, that Republicanism can be made to work—yes, work—wonders in sane and humane administration.

But Simon, I say, or rather Simon says to and for me, that the GOP has ceased to stand for anything, and might as well go to the ash can.

"THE REPUBLICANS are just as guilty as the Democrats," he said, "because they commit the same crime against the people—the crime of buying their way to power and using the government as a collectivist state to crush individual liberties."

This suggests that Bill Simon, registered and lifelong Republican, spiritually belongs to another party, and I think he does. Not a new party, not a third party, but an old party, the Federalists of Hamilton, who were present at the creation and know what was intended there.

Somewhere in his current book, "A Time For Truth," which I have previously reviewed, Simon points out that every phrase of the Constitution is a Thou-Shall-Not commandment for protection of the people against the central government.

How many of today's American people, and which of the major political parties, have got that straight? Individual men and women ought to be supporters of the government, not the other way round.

Goldwater became a national figure by writing a book, which is what Simon has done. I learn that Reagan is its wholehearted booster in print and in speeches.

That is good news for Simon, and Simon's disciples who want him to head a party ticket. Perhaps even better news is that the intellectual enemies of freedom have taken alarm. He said to me:

"I have already seen the stonewalling of the intellectuals against my book, and ideas beginning to form. Letters and phone calls protest a single paragraph where I take off against Leonard Silk, editorialist of the N.Y. Times."

Of this man it has been said, "Silk sees capitalism as ugly and obscene," and Simon quotes the sentence.

Is he sorry? No. Simon is not. He only wishes he'd given several paragraphs instead of one to Silk if it arouses the eggheads. Anything to make the American people think.

Labels Often Leave Your Threads Bare

FIRST OF TWO RELATED COLUMNS CLOTHES CARE labeling as it exists today is a disgrace—the labels often are far too sketchy to be useful or are misleading, or downright inaccurate.

The effect of these sham labels is all too frequently extremely costly to us in the form of ruined clothes.

And, as a result, sharply revised care labeling rules are about to be issued by the Federal Trade Commission to force clothing manufacturers to disclose in clear language how we can extend the life of our garments through proper maintenance.

This spring, the FTC will take the last major step before its reform of clothes care labeling—placing on the public record a lengthy (500-plus pages) document on care labels for general public comment.

Among the FTC's key findings:

MANY CLOTHING-makers use the care labels to sell their products rather than to help us care for our garments:

Too many manufacturers specify machine washing when drycleaning might be better or they specify drycleaning without pointing out the special procedures required, in order to make their clothes seem easy to care for.

The cleaning methods listed on care labels of what are called "problem garments" have been tested by the International Fabricare Institute (IFI), a trade group representing launderers and drycleaners, at the institute's Silver Spring, Md., research facility.

The method which the label recommends "often actually damages the clothing," reports IFI's executive vice president, Charles R. Riggott, and its research administrator, Bill Fisher.

WHAT'S MORE, Riggott and Fisher say that many manufacturers do no testing at all on their garments. Among five top problems:

(1) Synthetics labeled "professionally dryclean only" too often shrink. Laminates often stiffen and peel when cleaned by the standard procedures most professional drycleaners use.

(2) Water spills and even perspiration will bleed colors on some designer knit dresses, and the dresses' labels carry no warning that steam should not be used in cleaning—a process that causes even more color bleeding.

(3) SOME DRAPES have heat-sensitive yarns woven into the fabric—nearly invisible threads which melt at the touch of a hot iron. Yet the drapes carry no care label warning, and until now the FTC has not required any warning.

(4) Clothes labeled "wash hot" wash well in home washing machines, but are damaged in the hotter wash cycle of commercial washing machines.

(5) Many manufacturers are reluctant to put additional words of warning on care labels that would provide clearer instructions. On the other hand, some manufacturers are overly cautious about the information they put on their clothes labels. A garment with a "dryclean only" tag will may be perfectly machine washable.

YOU MAY BEGIN to distrust all care labels, to ignore the label instructions, and to damage your clothes in washing, the International Fabricare Institute fears. It has pleaded with the FTC and manufacturers to use more comprehensive labeling statements and the FTC obviously agrees wholeheartedly.

In his report after FTC hearings in Washington and Los Angeles last year, presiding officer John A. Gary stated:

"The record is replete with evidence of widespread inaccurate and false care labeling which, if continued, could undermine the consumer's trust in and reliance upon the entire care labeling program."

To remedy the practice of inaccurate or false care labeling, the proposed revised rule (the FTC's) should be amended to require labelers to have a "reasonable basis" to substantiate the accuracy of care maintenance instructions.

"REASONABLE BASIS" would mean subjecting a representative product to the same care and maintenance instructions required by the rule, for a reasonable number of times.

The jungle of the American marketplace is strikingly illustrated by the pitfalls in this one area of clothes maintenance.

It's impossible to count the millions of us who have been misled by today's "excuses" for clothes care labeling, the huge amounts of money we have lost because our clothes have been ruined by improper maintenance.

While we wait for the new rules, there are moves you should make to protect your clothes and your pocketbook. See my next column.

County Officials Delay Jail Construction Bids

Bids for the new Lubbock County Jail probably will be opened sometime in early June or about two weeks later than originally hoped, county commissioners decided Monday.

County architect Arnold Maeker reported Monday afternoon that the formal letter from the Texas Commission on Jail Standards approving jail blueprints had not been received and said bid specifications cannot be printed this week.

The original plan was to open bids for the possible $4-million project in late May. Maeker said contractors will need about a month to prepare bids, and the commissioners agreed to wait until Monday, May 8, to set the date for opening bids.

The jail is expected to be finished east of the existing jail in early 1980.

In other business Monday, the commissioners accepted a low bid of $22,735 from W.B. Abbott & Co. of Lubbock for the construction of two tennis courts in Shallowater Park, which is owned by the county, in central Shallowater.

After the meeting, ended about 3:30 p.m., County Judge Rod Shaw and Commissioners Coy Biggs, Jim Lancaster, Alton Brazell and Edgar Chance met with

The commissioners also passed a resolution asking the highway department to put Interstate 27 through Lubbock between Avenues A and H. In other morning business, the commissioners approved the $4,081 purchase of a closed circuit television camera and monitor and two types of recorders for the county jail. Motorola Communications was the only firm submitting bids, and the commissioners decided for the purchase after a lengthy discussion of various options.

Teachers Want Change In Retirement Age Now

By JEFF SOUTH
Avalanche-Journal Staff

It becomes an issue every year about this time: some teachers who have reached 65, the Lubbock Independent School District's mandatory retirement age, protest that they don't want to retire.

Now, in light of a federal law requiring that the age be raised to 70, the argument is a bit different.

A number of local teachers want the school system to implement the new law immediately — and not wait until the federal mandate automatically takes effect in 1979.

"Some teachers at age 65 are ready to go. Others want to work longer. We were hoping this new act of Congress would affect us, but apparently it won't. It doesn't go into effect until the first of January, so we miss out by about six months," said one senior educator.

"The only way we could stay on is for the school board to go ahead and comply with this federal law now. They'll have to do it eventually. Changing the retirement age immediately would allow teachers who turned 65 during the past school year to have the option to continue teaching," she said.

At the moment, however, the school district has no such plans.

Dr. E.C. Leslie, assistant superintendent for administration, whose area of responsibility includes district policies and personnel, said the school system probably will wait until 1979 to revise its mandatory retirement rules.

"This is not something we can just jump into," Leslie said. "There are many considerations involved."

He said school district attorneys will be asked to review the new law and recommend to the board an appropriate policy for implementation next year.

Immediate implementation of a new retirement policy would cause several problems, Leslie said. For example, in many cases the district already has hired new teachers to replace those retiring under the existing age-65 requirement.

School officials also point out budgetary considerations. Because salaries are based on years of experience, a veteran teacher costs substantially more than a new, beginning teacher — and the district may not be prepared to absorb those extra salary costs on a moment's notice.

Leslie said the district needs time to prepare for a policy change of such widespread implications.

He said he receives "at least a few" complaints each year from teachers who reach age 65 but want to stay on. Leslie said such teachers are "good, dedicated people. I can understand their desire to want to continue teaching."

But, Leslie said, the school district's policy on the matter, adopted in 1971, is clear — and does not provide for exceptions. That policy states:

"The automatic retirement age for personnel of the Lubbock Independent School District is 65; however, employment after 60 is on a year-to-year basis by mutual agreement between the teacher and the administration.

"Retirement at age 65 means that an individual may not begin a new contract if he has reached age 65 on or before June 30."

School officials admit that the age-65 requirement is arbitrary in that many teachers can be effective beyond that age. But Leslie noted that 65 is a generally accepted standard for mandatory retirement — as recognized by even the State Teacher Retirement System.

He said the state provides full retirement benefits to teachers retiring at age 65 and having 10 to 19 years' experience. Full benefits also are provided to teachers with 20 or more years' experience who are retiring as early as 60, he said.

Leslie said the school district typically has 25 to 30 employees affected by the mandatory retirement policy annually. Those numbers, he said, include teachers who elect to retire before age 65 but have accumulated enough experience to draw full benefits.

School board president Charles Waters agreed that the district should give "careful consideration" to revising its retirement policy.

"Certainly we should comply with the law. But it would be advisable to wait until the Texas Education Agency provides some guidance in this area," Waters said.

Leslie noted that, even if the district changed its policy immediately to allow those who just turned 65 to continue teaching, the district would get flak from teachers forced to retire the previous year at 65. The cutoff must be made at some year, he said.

And wherever it is drawn, some teachers will be unhappy.

"I'm not ready to retire. I enjoy teaching. I want to continue teaching. Some school districts already have policies where the retirement age is 70 or 68. I don't think it's fair that Lubbock sticks to 65," said one teacher who reluctantly gave in to her administrator's request for a letter of resignation.

She declined to let her name be used, however, "just on the chance that the school board changes the policy in time for me to stay on. I don't want anybody mad at me."

Leslie said raising the compulsory retirement age to 70 would be no guarantee teachers can stay on until that age. He said they still would be subject to personnel evaluations to ensure they are effective in their jobs.

Work Program Seminar Set

A workshop on developing sheltered work programs for the handicapped will be held in Little Rock, Ark., Wednesday through Friday, by the Texas Tech University Research and Training Center in Mental Retardation and the Arkansas Department of Mental Retardation Development Disabilities Services.

Attending the session will be approximately 70 persons representing state schools, community agencies, day service centers, and rehabilitation facilities serving handicapped individuals in Arkansas.

The workshop will be coordinated by Joan Lydic, training officer with the Arkansas Center. Darrell Ruterford, also a training officer, will assist in conference proceedings.

Speakers will be James O'Hara, wage-hour analyst, U.S. Department of Social and Rehabilitation Services, Little Rock; and Sylvia Galloway, educational training consultant, Department of Mental Retardation Development Disabilities Services, Little Rock.

The Texas Tech Research and Training Center is one of 19 such centers nationwide. Texas Tech is one of three national centers that specializes in the study of mental retardation and other handicapping conditions.

Governor Promises Support For Nursing School At Tech

By PAULA TILKER
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Incumbent Dolph Briscoe pledged financial support Monday for a School of Nursing at Texas Tech University and tossed barbed remarks at John Hill, his leading Democratic opponent in the governor's race.

Briscoe, up for re-election to a second four-year term, campaigned briefly at the Lubbock County Courthouse and toured

Briscoe Errs In Greeting Local Voters

Lubbockites on their way to vote absentee in the governor's race Monday may have done a double take to see one of the men listed on the ballot passing them in the courthouse halls with an outstretched hand, a wide smile and the greeting, "Hi, I'm Dolph Briscoe."

Less than three feet from where a couple of voters sat puzzling over ballots, the incumbent governor, with his wife at his side and a retinue of supporters milling behind him, swept through the county clerk's office to hurriedly shake a few hands and murmur a few greetings.

The brief moments of campaigning could cost Briscoe up to $500, if anyone cared to press charges that he violated an election law that states no one can campaign within 30 feet of an absentee voting poll.

However, in all fairness to Briscoe, who was in Lubbock for the afternoon to campaign, no signs were posted warning of the polling site's proximity.

That, too, is a violation of the Texas Election Code, which states that the clerk's office is responsible for preventing electioneering within 30 feet of the polling place and for putting up warning signs.

When asked by The Avalanche-Journal about the apparent omission, county clerk Frank Guess said he is unsure what the law requires.

But, he added, it virtually would be impossible to "rope off" the absentee voting area, which is on the second floor of the county courthouse.

And, Guess noted, candidates in several races walk through the area constantly each day. In fact, he said, he is a candidate for re-election, and his office opens onto the voting corridor.

Alton Griffin, criminal district attorney, is up for re-election, and he, too, has offices on the same floor with the absentee voting poll.

Guess said the list could be expanded to include County Judge Rod Shaw, who has offices on the courthouse's first floor but who "walks up here several times a day."

He indicated no plans to correct the situation.

New National Smoker Study:

“Easy Switch” Say 85%.

Research concludes MERIT taste makes move to low tar smoking unexpectedly easy.

Every smoker knows it's tough to find a low tar cigarette with enough good taste to switch to—and stick with.

Does MERIT with 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco deliver enough taste to make the switch to low tar easy?

For new evidence—solid evidence—read the results of a new national smoker study conducted with MERIT smokers.

Results Endorse MERIT Breakthrough

Confirmed: 85% of MERIT smokers say it was an “easy switch” from high tar brands.

Confirmed: Overwhelming majority of MERIT smokers say their former high tar brands weren't missed!

Confirmed: 9 out of 10 MERIT smokers not considering other brands.

And in extensive taste tests against leading high tar cigarettes—

Confirmed: Majority of high tar smokers rate MERIT taste equal to—or better than—high tar cigarettes tested! Cigarettes having up to twice the tar.

Confirmed: Majority of high tar smokers confirm taste satisfaction of low tar MERIT.

First Major Alternative To High Tar Smoking

MERIT has proven conclusively that it not only delivers the flavor of high tar brands but continues to satisfy!

This ability to satisfy over long periods of time could be the most important evidence to date that MERIT is what it claims to be: the first major alternative to high tar smoking.

Dancers Celebrate Body Form In Fusion Of Lights, Space

By DOLORES BARCLAY
NEW YORK (AP) — There's an electric genius afoot at the Beacon Theater and his name is Alwin Nikolais.

His dance company opened a 10-day tour at the renovated upper westside cultural establishment this week with a superb display of multi-media creativity. Nik, as he is called by friends and fans alike, celebrates beautiful body form and the fusion of lights, space, fabric and movement.

The stage is never bare. Often dancers move in large, tent-like material with patterned lights playing about their shapes.

The 10-dancers who comprise the troupe are among the most highly trained in the art. Never will a quiver escape from a cold or little-worked muscle. Freedom will be step be misplaced or faulty. For the men and women of the Nikolais Dance Theatre operate much the same way as the nucleus of an amoeba — they are the main ingredients of a thriving artistic organism.

Which brings us to Nikolais. He is choreographer, costumer, light designer, director, sound scorer and the heartbeat of every performance. His combined use of movie screens, lights, mirrors and costume have presented some of the most articulate and visionary light shows of the past decade.

Three new works were presented during the first two nights. "Gallery," a seemingly frivolous romp of shooting gallery targets, is a lot more. It opens with a backdrop of huge, bulbous eyeballs. Suddenly, green and yellow targets pop up from behind a counter. Soon, iridescent faces appear. The dancers are now targets on the move, utilizing all the jerky turns and unpredictable falls of shooting gallery sitting ducks.

Humor abounds. So do good performances. Gerald Otte and James Teeters really look like they're having a great deal of fun when they bound on stage in oversized pink buffoon sacks. Their movements are clownlike and expansive. They also are playful.

There are marvelous sustained movements on monkey bars later on in the lengthy work, which illuminate the superior control of the Nikolais group.

"Casting," another world premiere takes place entirely on tiny platforms atop simulated white volcanoes. The dancers, in twos, rise from behind the white humps, silver breastplates gleaming. Two silver rods join the hands of the partners. This is a somewhat shorter work that relies on the creation of geometric patterns by the dancer's bodies and the rods.

In "Guignol," presented on the same program with "Casting," the world of the dummy comes alive. It opens with the dancers clad in harlequin style leotards and tights with fuzzy white wigs. The movements here are carefree abandon. Subsequent vignettes tease the audience and raise the question, who's the real dummy? Human Punch and Judy are observed by human dancers sitting with stuffed puppets.

Later, the entire cast appears with department store mannequins. They place them, dance with them and make love to them. In the end, dummyhood is celebrated by the raising of the mannequins high above the heads of the dancers.

Salutatorian Beat Out By Twin

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI) — Victoria Marie Ball could believe the tag "born loser" could apply to her — especially as it relates to her sibling rivalry.

Twice in four years, Victoria will graduate as salutatorian in her class. This time it's the Class of 1978 at St. Mary's College, the sister institution of the University of Notre Dame. She has a 3.956 average on a 4.0 system.

Top graduate of the class of 427 students, however, will be the same person who beat out Victoria four years ago at Velveue High School in Ohio — her twin sister Valerie.

Valerie finished with a 3.985 average. And a mathematician can determine that's less than three-hundredths of a grade point difference.

Both were majoring in nursing. Both also intend to go on to graduate school after a year of work at hospitals.

Victoria says the pattern was set when they were born.

"I was born second," she said. Valerie is philosophical about the sisterly challenges.

"We push each other to do well. It's really not competition as I know competition. We challenge each other."

"Now, that's what I call a violent show!"

Atomic Power Industry Records Safest Year

By EDWARD K. DeLONG
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Stressing its growing importance in the nation's energy picture, the atomic power industry says 1977 was its most productive year to date — and the safest.

The Atomic Industrial Forum, the industry trade association, reports that nuclear power plants boosted their output 31 percent over the 1976 level and provided 12 percent of all U.S. electricity in 1977 — the energy equivalent of 425 million barrels of oil.

"What's significant, beyond these statistics showing excellent nuclear performance, are two things," said AIF president Carl Walske.

"One is that the enviable public safety record of nuclear energy continues intact, even though more plants are coming into operation and production is soaring.

"The other is that nuclear power is well on its way to becoming, second only to coal, the leading source of electricity in this country in the early 1980s."

The AIF report comes at a time when nuclear power is embroiled in controversy, particularly over the health hazards posed by atomic waste storage.

Licensing delays and financial difficulties have also plagued the industry. A recent Harris poll showed increasing public resistance to nuclear power plants. A report last week by the Heritage Foundation, a conservative research organization that favors nuclear power, warned that a nationwide ban on atomic power plants may be in store for the industry if present conditions continue.

California in effect already has enacted such a ban.

The AIF report cited figures from the Arkansas Power and Light Co. showing it would have cost a homeowner an extra $10 a month for electricity from fossil fuels instead of from atomic power. Savings of $9 were reported by the Green Mountain Power Corp. of Vermont and $8 by Baltimore Gas and Electric.

Parents, Pupils Picket Hale Center Grade School

By ESTHER LONGORIA
Avalanche-Journal Staff

HALE CENTER — More than 180 parents and students picketed Hale Center's North Elementary School this morning, claiming that excessive force is being used to discipline their children there.

"The Concerned Citizens of Hale Center," many of them parents of fourth- and fifth-graders at North Elementary, alleged that Principal Haden Moore has used "excessive force" in disciplining the youngsters.

Supt. James Langford issued a statement this morning concerning the charges that have been levied against Moore.

The statement in part reads, "The charges made against Mr. Moore are grave, and have been given serious consideration by the board of trustees. Furthermore, in accordance with board policy, administration measures have been taken to assure that no student in the school system will be abused by anyone.

"Nevertheless, it is also the policy of the school and the administration to see that proper discipline continues to be maintained at all times in this school district."

However, when reporters asked Moore what those measures were, he refused comment. When asked if the matter was dead, Langford said that the statement speaks for itself.

Langford said school was being conducted as usual today but added that approximately 50 percent of the students, many participating in the protest, were absent.

The school board has listened to parents' allegations and at the present time feels that it is informed as to both sides," Langford added.

When reporters asked Langford if any disciplinary action would be taken against students participating in the demonstration, he said that would be considered at a later time.

Before the superintendent had issued his statement, Moore had refused to comment on the group's allegations, saying that it was up to the superintendent to issue a statement about the situation.

Ricardo Castillo, a member of the citizens group, said this morning that he has contacted the Texas Education Agency about the matter and will be sending letters and pictures concerning the incidents for an investigation by that agency.

"If the board won't act, maybe our actions today can get something accomplished," Father Clarence Huber, pastor of St. Theresa's Catholic Church, said.

In Langford's statement, he said that on April 6 a parent had told him that Moore had used excessive force in paddling a youngster. "The following day, I discussed the matter with Moore, and he told me that, in the presence of another faculty member, he had given the students two licks with the paddle," Langford said. "The faculty member who witnessed the incident has also been interviewed, and her testimony is consistent with Mr. Moore's statements."

For the past few years, children have been subjected to excessive bruising and mal treatment at the hands of Moore, Mrs. Linda Gomez, the mother of a four-year-old daughter, said. "I may not have a child at North Elementary now, but I understand what those mothers are going through," she added.

"Discipline is fine but not taken to these extremes," Mrs. Gomez said. "We don't want to abolish discipline, but if you're going to unnecessarily beat up the children, if they're scared, they won't learn anything."

Representatives of the citizens group met with school board members about the problem last week. "We have asked for his resignation, but the board has told us that they will not dismiss him," Mrs. Gomez said.

"The board has told us they would straighten him out," Mrs. Emilio Jimenez Jr. said. "But they just keep ignoring it."

The group points out that a week ago today Jeffrey Lopez, a fourth grader at North, received an excessive bruising by Moore for "pushing" in line. Mrs. Simon Martinez, Jeffrey's grandmother, said that the youngster received "a great big black and blue bruise" to the back of one leg.

Mrs. Jimenez recalled that last September her son, a fifth grader at North, came home from school with bruises on the backs of both legs "big as heads of lettuce and filled with water blisters." "I asked my son what had happened, and he told me he got a busting from Mr. Moore for hitting a girl who had hit him," she added. "I couldn't stop crying when I saw my child that way."

Mrs. Jimenez said that her husband went to the school board with the problem. "They told my husband that they would talk to him (Moore), but they just keep ignoring it," she said.

Mrs. Al Thornton, the mother of a fifth grade son at North, said that although her son had not been disciplined by Moore, "he tells me about the other children that are being mistreated." "He's going to full around and kill a child," she added. "I hate for my child to be around this type of violence."

Two years ago, Mrs. Thornton remembered, her daughter, then a fifth grader at North, was "mistreated" by Moore. "Mr. Moore, my daughter told me, picked her up by the collar and then dropped her," she said. "She was so nervous about Mr. Moore that it got to where she hated to go to school."

"All the children are afraid, and they don't want to go to school anymore," Mrs. Trini Pardo, the mother of seven children in the Hale Center schools, said Monday. "The same thing is happening over and over again. What if he should cripple a little boy or girl?"

"We're a very peaceful people," Mrs. Gomez, a longtime resident of this farming community of 2,000, said. "But we're in an uproar over this."

Meeting Slated On I-27 Plan

The State Department of Highways and Public Transportation will conduct a public meeting May 9 at 8 p.m. in the Ballenger Elementary School to discuss the proposed corridor routes of Interstate 27 through Lubbock from North Loop 289 to South Loop 289.

The school is located at 1110 40th St.

Maps and other drawings showing the proposed corridor routes which are to be included in the Draft Environmental Statement will be displayed at the meeting.

Any comments from the public on the proposed routes or on any additional routes will be accepted, officials said.

Personnel from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation will be in attendance at this meeting to answer questions and give information concerning the corridors, the State's Relocation Assistance Program and right-of-way acquisition.

The meeting is open to the public.

Portrait Miniatures Sold In Auctions

LONDON (AP) — Hundreds of portrait miniatures collected by the widow of a Pittsburgh steel magnate have been sold for a total of $721,784 in four auctions in Monaco, New York and London, Sotheby Park Bernet reported.

The final sale in the series took place Monday in London and brought $88,000 for the last 91 of the miniatures collected by Greta S. Heckett, who died in July 1976.

Obituary Briefs

Services for Manuel G. Gutierrez, 63, of 117 Ave. N., will be at 10 a.m. Wednesday at St. Joseph's Catholic Church. Burial will be in Peaceful Gardens Memorial Park under direction of Henderson Funeral Directors. Gutierrez died Sunday.

Services for Janie A. Fogerson, 84, will be at 1 p.m. Wednesday in Warren Funeral Chapel in Fort Collins, Colo. Mrs. Fogerson, a former Clovis, N.M., resident, died Sunday at a Fort Collins nursing home after an illness.

DANDELION TIME — Kristen Calkins knows what dandelions are good for in Amarillo's Memorial Park, even if the gardeners don't. They're good for picking when they've gone to seed, and with a mighty blow, the seeds are sent on their way, perhaps to return another season. (AP Laserphoto)

Hubenak Sees Victory In Agricultural Race

State Rep. Joe Hubenak believes he has closed the gap between him and Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown and that he will win the May 6 Democratic primary to head the Texas Agriculture Department.

"In the last six weeks, we've gained tremendous momentum," the Rosenberg legislator said in a press conference here this morning.

Asked which candidate has more support from the American Agriculture Movement, Hubenak said he was given contributions by dissident farmers this morning in meetings at Roby and Tahoka and that he has more support in the AAM.

Although he has not been formally endorsed by them, he said, he also has strong support from the Texas Farm Bureau, the Texas Farmers Union and the Southwest Cattle Raisers Association.

Asked what legal powers the Texas agriculture commissioner has to help farmers out of their financial straits, Hubenak said he helped draft many of the 47 state statutes giving powers to the office during his tenure on the House Agriculture Committee.

He did not enumerate any of the relevant powers in the brief news conference just before noon at Lubbock Civic Center, but said improving markets for agricultural products is an important concern.

"That's my No. 1 priority after I'm elected," he said. "Developing marketing, distribution and transportation systems for agriculture in Texas."

Hubenak released a statement this morning that grape production should be promoted in the South Plains, and he said at the news conference that he would ask for more money for grape and textiles production and brush control research at Texas Tech University.

Gas Leak Kills Three Persons

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Three underground pipeline workers were killed and a fourth Oklahoma Natural Gas Co. workman was in critical condition following a pipeline accident.

Ralph N. Basey, 55, of Oklahoma City, was rushed to Baptist Medical Center following his attempt to rescue three co-workers who were overcome by leaking natural gas Monday afternoon.

The three members of an ONG repair crew were killed when an underground gas line they were working on in a northwest Oklahoma City shopping center parking lot began leaking, authorities said.

The two men pronounced dead at the scene were identified L.G. Weigert, 50, Hahrah, and Ira Lee Bryant, 35, Choctaw. A third man who attempted to rescue the pair, John F. Alexander, 38, Oklahoma City, was dead on arrival at a local hospital. He and Basey were rushed from the scene in ambulances.

Network Denies Delay Of Fall Program Schedule

By JAY SHARBUTT
LOS ANGELES (AP) — It's not true NBC is delaying decisions on its fall program schedule until June, when program whiz Fred Silverman, who pushed ABC to first in ratings, starts running third-rated NBC.

That's the word from John J. McMahon, NBC's West Coast programs chief. He says NBC's prime-time show roster for 1978-79 is being readied now and will be unveiled between May 12 and 15.

(ABC, which Silverman left to become — on June 9 — president of NBC, says its fall lineup probably will be ready this week. CBS' new schedule is due out next month, a few days before that of NBC.) McMahon, asked about rumors NBC is in a scheduling limbo until Silverman arrives to work his magic next fall, said, "I don't think that's true."

"I don't see how anybody can say that's true, because our development has been moving along and we are going to set a schedule (in May)."

"If anybody says we're in a holding pattern when we've been working here 18 hours a day the last couple of months, well, it just seems not an accurate statement."

Without tipping the opposition on what shows will air next fall as NBC attempts a recovery from a sorry season in the ratings, McMahon said two things will be apparent on NBC in 1978-79:

—Much more situation comedy, with NBC hoping to install at least six half-hour sitcoms, compared to two, "Quark" and "CPO Sharkey," that he says now occupy the network's 30-minute chuckles corner.

—Less of the program "stunting" and pre-empted that many industry folk, McMahon included, feel left viewers puzzled this season as to which series were on and when at night.

On Item 2, he says it appears NBC next season will regularly air its miniseries — which caused many pre-emptions this year — on a Sunday-through-Tuesday basis in the last two hours of prime time each night.

"If we lock the miniseries' time period into three given nights, and we stick with that, then we'll have less pre-empting of our regular series on the four other nights," he said.

"I think we're going to try and do that more, so that the audience becomes accustomed to seeing the miniseries on given nights" on a regular basis during next season.

While once-hot "Chico and the Man" won't return next fall, he said, NBC thinks it has a solid roster of new sitcoms from which to choose, with 12 screened so far and five more awaiting official inspection.

He said NBC has high hopes for two comedies now getting a trial run, "Joe and Valerie" and "Rollergirls." Optimism also abounds for two pilots, Jerry Reed's "Good Old Boys," set in Nashville, and "Waverly Wonders," starring Joe Namath, the ex-Jet and ex-Ram.

As for pilots for hourly series, he says, two fantasy shows are afoot, also a stunt-driver show, also a two-lady Western, "Lacy and the Mississippi Queen," and a black family show.

Also, he says, there are three family trade outdoor adventure pilots, plus an adult indoor adventure, "W.E.B.," about a young woman who runs a network's daytime programs department.

It comes from Lin Bolen, head of NBC's daytime show works in New York until she left two years ago to become a producer in Hollywood.

McMahon was asked what changes he anticipates when Silverman officially joins NBC in June and starts pondering a schedule set in May.

"I really don't know," the executive

NBC's 'Holocaust' Praised

By ARNOLD SAWISLAK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It is always more encouraging to see a disease prevented than cured; to hear the affirmative used to answer the negative.

For that reason, despite sincere objections based on artistic merit or strict historical accuracy, NBC deserves credit for devoting nine and a half hours of television prime time to "Holocaust," the "docudrama" that depicted the Nazi effort to murder all the Jews in Europe.

What was shown last Sunday through Wednesday began almost 40 years ago. The median age of the U.S. population in 1976 was 29 years, which means more than 100 million Americans have no personal recollections of the period when the maniac Adolf Hitler set off the frenzy of butchery that destroyed millions of human beings he proclaimed to be racially unfit or politically unacceptable to the New Order.

The argument is not being made here that there is inherent merit in reminding people of that time. Many people feel that compulsive dwelling on the horrors of the past serves no purpose except to perpetuate hate and bitterness.

But there is a constructive reason for showing "Holocaust" and, about the same time, the segment on the Nazi death camps broadcast by CBS' "60 Minutes."

The reason is that there is in this country a tiny but loud minority of arrested development cases who have discovered one way to get in the papers and on television is to dress up as reincarnated Nazis and to defy Hitler and his policies of genocide.

These stunted minds have attracted far more attention than their cause or their numbers merit by demanding the right to publicly celebrate Hitler's birthday (now past) by parading through a Chicago suburb heavily populated by Jews, and more significantly, by a relatively large number of survivors of the Nazi extermination program.

This demand has provoked an intense debate about the constitutional rights of Americans to espouse causes that offend

Pakistanis Arrested In Pornography Case

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (UPI) — The manager and projectionist of a movie theater were arrested Sunday for interspersing pornographic segments in the regular feature, "Fireball."

Some movie houses have been sneaking bits from pornographic films into regular features before largely male audiences who pay four times the normal price of a ticket.

other Americans, even to the extent of advocating the murder of fellow citizens.

Some debaters say what the American Nazis want to do is protected by the free speech guarantee of the First Amendment, no matter how gruesome the content of their message. Opponents argue that the Nazis are expressing no opinions that require the protection of the First Amendment and in fact have forfeited their rights by inciting violence — shouting "fire" in a crowded theater, in the terms of Justice Holmes' opinion on the proper limitations of free speech.

Thus far, it appears the American Nazis have the best of the legal argument, and may get to march in June — which in our win-conscious society might be taken by some to give credence to their point of view.

That is where the quality of response comes in. Some had hoped that they would lose their court cases and be restrained from parading. Others have suggested that the best thing to do is simply ignore the Nazis. But both of those solutions answer negativism with more of the same.

By depicting what happened in the late 1930s and 1940s in Europe, the television networks have undertaken affirmatively to show just what it is that American Nazis want to glorify.

There really is no good reason to observe Hitler's birthday, but if some of our fellow Americans insist, NBC and CBS may have found the appropriate way to do it.

BILLY GRAHAM IN Hungary

This special one hour program documents Billy Graham's recent visit to Hungary to conduct a series of evangelical meetings.

He preached the Gospel to 30,000 persons in Hungary and his words reached countless millions around the world through the news media. The largest crowd, of 15,000, gathered at the Tahi Baptist Youth Camp, about twenty miles from Budapest. Mr. Graham told reporters that he was "overwhelmed" by the response. "I'll never forget Hungary," he said.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Putting your needs ahead of your family's is something that is normally foreign to you, but tomorrow things could get so confusing you'll do just that.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Another's actions might anger you tomorrow, but instead of speaking out you may find yourself trying to cool down by going off on a spending spree.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A companion who has taken advantage of your generous nature in the past is going to try to lower the boom on you again. Be careful.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't push yourself beyond the limits of your energies. You'll only frustrate yourself if you take on too much now.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Something confidential regarding a family matter is best kept to yourself tomorrow. You'll be inviting gossip if you don't try to work it out alone.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're likely to find your opinions represent the minority tomorrow on important family issues. Why fight city hall?

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Because you aren't listening you may jump to conclusions tomorrow and yield to the wishes of another against your better judgment.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) One you'll team up with tomorrow is too independent to be a good co-worker. Assert yourself or he'll try to be the boss and really foul things up.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be careful in whom you place your trust tomorrow. Because you're so willing to share you could fall prey to one whose motives are purely selfish.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Sparks will fly at home if you expect others to pick up after you and do things that you should be doing for yourself.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be extremely tactful tomorrow. One you may have to deal with has an old smoldering that's about to ignite.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) In your determination to push a plan tomorrow, you could foolishly overspend. Listen to a wise friend who is trying to stop you.

April 26, 1978

Your financial opportunities look extremely promising this year, provided you don't involve yourself in projects or schemes in which you lack expertise.

Chicago Sun-Times To Receive Award

MUNCIE, Ind. (UPI) — Ball State University's National Journalism Award was to be presented today to the Chicago Sun-Times for its expose of shakedowns, graft and corruption in local government.

The newspaper and the Chicago Better Government Association bought a bar and grill, staffed it with reporters and photographers, then gathered evidence against local, county and state officials "on the take."

The award will be accepted by reporters Pamela Zekman and Zay Smith and photographers Gene Pesak and James Frost.

Other awards recipients include:

POT SHOTS

Teapots tend to be low and wide because tea leaves rise and expand in hot water. Coffee grounds, on the other hand, tend to sink to the bottom of the pot, leaving the pure clean brew at the top; thus coffee pots are generally tall and narrow.

—Dr. Wendell H. Nedderman, president of the University of Texas at Arlington, the John R. Emens National Award for Support of a Free Student Press.

—Maurice L. Denton, assistant vice president of the Federal Land Bank of Louisville, the National Public Relations Achievement Award.

—Wendy Gifford of Seattle, the Indiana Journalism Award.

—Marilyn Kimble, director of the Ball State Summer High School Journalism Workshops, Indiana Scholastic Journalism Award.

—The Foellinger Foundation of Fort Wayne, the Campus Journalism Award.

—Deborah Taylor Givens, editor of the Green River Republican, Morgantown, Ky., the Journalism Alumni Award.

—Gerald W. Stewart, editorial cartoonist for the Fort Wayne News-Sentinel, and Martin Weinberger, editor-publisher of the Claremont, Calif., Courier, Special Citations in Journalism.

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (UPI) — Bess Truman has returned home from an almost month-long session of dietetic and physical therapy and doctors say the former first lady has no serious health problems.

Mrs. Truman and her group of Secret Service agents returned to the 17-room Truman home Sunday after 30 days at the Research Hospital in Kansas City, Mo.

Hospital spokesman Gordon Thomson said the wife of the late President Harry S. Truman, "looked very, very good for 83 years of age."

He said Mrs. Truman, who walks with a cane, was admitted for an annual check-up, to improve her diet, and for physical therapy. Doctors had hospitalized her so that she might gain weight.

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: A classmate of mine who lives down the block is slowly driving me up a wall. Here's how it all started:

A few months ago we both started taking an extension course in human behavior at a nearby university. When it came time to pick topics for term papers, this guy I know picked the subject of death. Ever since then I've had it up to my ears with questions like, "Shirley, would you rather die in a plane crash or in an auto accident?" Or, "Would you rather drown or burn to death?"

He's a nice guy, but he has become so preoccupied with death that he's driving me crazy. Every time I see him he starts in with these depressing questions about death. I've tried avoiding him, but unless I drop the course (which is almost over), it's going to be impossible.

What should I do? I feel like telling him to lease a hearse and leave town.

SHIRLEY

Dear Shirley: Tell your friend that you'd rather die by drowning, accident or fire than be bored to death. And he is becoming a colossal bore.

...

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow, living on a fixed and very limited income. I have a neighbor who is always hounding me to buy raffle tickets, greeting cards, cosmetics, etc.

I can't afford to buy things I neither want nor need, although I've bought a few things just to get rid of her.

Please help me. I am running out of excuses, and she is very persistent.

SUMMERVILLE, GA.

Dear Summerville: As long as you offer excuses instead of reasons, your neighbor will continue to hound you. Simply tell her that you can't afford it, and that will be the end of it.

...

DEAR ABBY: I know you hear from plenty of children who wish their parents wouldn't interfere in their lives so much, but what do you think of parents who expect their children who have left the nest to call and write, but who never phone their children or scribble a note to find out how the children are doing?

I am constantly in touch with my parents, as are my older brothers and sisters, yet we feel rather hurt that they don't, on occasion, contact us. It would be nice to think that maybe they wonder how we weathered the last crisis or how the new job is going. Just because we've grown up and out of their hair shouldn't mean that we've also gone out of their thoughts. I'm always hearing how they're doing when I call, but seldom do I get a thoughtful, "How's everything going with you?" I'd sure appreciate your thoughts on this.

SET ADRIFT

DEAR SET: Are you putting me on? Many more children who have flown the nest neglect their parents than the other way around. Stop sulking in silence. Speak up. To THEM — not to me!

P.E.O. OFFICERS — Among those attending the Texas P.E.O. convention today and Wednesday at the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center are Mrs. Jack Sargent of El Paso, left, state president, and Mrs. Merrill Dillon of Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich. who is representing the Supreme (national) chapter president. The women noted that their families were quite supportive of their work with P.E.O., a philanthropic education organization. (Staff photo by Dennis Copeland)

P.E.O. Officers Here For State Convention

By DALE RAYMAN
Family News Staff

Long before some of the issues raised by the Women's Liberation Movement became a 'cause celebre,' one organization was quietly, steadily working to improve educational opportunities for women.

It still is. The Lubbock chapters of that organization — P.E.O. — are hosts for the state convention, whose activities began formally this morning in the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center. Co-hosts for the event, which ends Wednesday, are chapters from Sweetwater, Plainview, Midland, Odessa, Abilene and San Angelo.

Mrs. Merrill (Ann) Dillon of Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich., representing the Supreme (national) chapter president during the convention, said her association with P.E.O. began long before she became a member.

"My mother and great-aunt were members — I'm originally from Iowa where the organization began — and I can remember back during depression days, delivering the yearbooks when my mother was program chairman," she reminisced.

Support for her work with P.E.O. has come from the male side of her family too.

"My husband is delighted with my P.E.O. work," she said. "He is very much in favor of education for women."

Mrs. Jack (June) Sargent of El Paso, president of the Texas P.E.O., agreed. "My son was seven years old when I joined P.E.O.," she said, "and my family thinks I'm more interesting and a better person because of my work."

Both said that the time involved in travel does not interfere with their family life as much as might be expected.

"You're not really gone that much," Mrs. Dillon said, "and since you set your schedule" (of time to be away), "it's not really bad at all."

In addition to the flexibility in sched-

ing, Mrs. Dillon said her traveling is made more pleasant because her husband often travels with her.

"He's not with me on this trip, but we often just make a vacation of the traveling."

While returning home is convenient for Mrs. Dillon, who will go there for a few days before going on to the Nebraska state convention, Mrs. Sargent said she herself does not use that particular style of travel.

"When I travel around Texas...well, Texas is so big and so spread out, once I get started, I might as well just go the whole way!" she said with a laugh.

Both women were understandably enthusiastic about the success of the many educational programs sponsored by P.E.O.

As secretary of the board of trustees of Cottey College, a fully accredited junior college in Nevada, Mo., owned and operated by P.E.O., Mrs. Dillon was particularly proud of that aspect of the organization's program.

"There are 350 young women there now, and 88 percent of the faculty have their final degree," she said. "Cottey is especially strong in the fine arts, but we have upgraded the sciences program, and that's been good for the girls going on into nursing."

Mrs. Sargent agreed about the many benefits available through the college.

"There are many opportunities at Cottey, because it's a girls' school," she said.

"It's more relaxed, and a student can find herself without having to compete all the time with male students."

"Because of the high academic standards and the many other opportunities, a girl is really ready when she goes into a four-year school," Mrs. Dillon added.

Mrs. Dillon said other educational programs supported by P.E.O. are an educational fund which provides low-interest loans to women who have been recommended by a chapter; the International Peace Scholarship (IPS) program, through which graduate students from foreign countries are given grants with the provision that when their studies are completed, they will return to their own country to help the people there; and a relatively new continuing education program, through which grants are given to help women re-entering the job market learn the skills necessary for success.

"Although the meaning of the letters of our name is secret," Mrs. Sargent said, "our projects are not. People need to know about them — we need to let the community be aware of the college, projects and opportunities that are available."

The sometimes cold financial aspects of college life are softened by the continued interest shown in the recipients of P.E.O. scholarships, grants and loans by the individual chapters, the women noted.

"We try to stay in touch with the girls," Mrs. Sargent said, "to send letters, remembrances on their birthdays, things like that."

"It's more than just giving money," Mrs. Dillon said. "It's giving love."

Bridal Courtesies

CHERYL PITTS

Cheryl Pitts, bride-elect of Stuart Mills, was honored with a shower Saturday in the Briercroft Community Room. There were 12 hostesses.

Special guests were Mrs. Homer Pitts and Mrs. Leona Vaught, mother and grandmother of the bride-elect, and Mrs. Norman Mills and Deana Mills, mother and sister of the future groom.

The couple plans to be married May 6 in First Baptist Church.

KATHEY SHANKLIN

Kathey Shanklin, bride-elect of Randy Unrein was honored with a shower in the home of Mrs. Mabry Peel Sunday.

Special guests were Mrs. Jack Shanklin and Mrs. Opal Schullen, mother and grandmother of the bride elect, and Mrs. Ralph Unrein, mother of the future groom.

The couple plans to be married June 3 in Westminster Presbyterian Church.

LANA MORRIS

Lana Morris, bride-elect, of Jim Hunter was honored with a shower Saturday in the home of Mrs. Norma Heinen. There were 10 co-hostesses.

Special guests were Mrs. Don Morris, mother of the bride-elect, and Mrs. J.D. Hunter, mother of the future groom.

The couple plans to be married June 10 in United Methodist Church in Shallowater.

DEBBIE MAPLES

Debbie Maples, bride-elect, of Clint McKabben was honored with a shower Saturday in the home of Mrs. Kings Sides. There were five co-hostesses.

Special guests were Mrs. Don McKabben, mother of the future groom.

The couple plans to be married May 22 in Asbury United Methodist Church.

ANDREA SOLOMON

Andrea Solomon, bride-elect, of David Bass was honored with a luncheon in the Gold Room Saturday. Hostesses were Mrs. Bill Downing and Mrs. Robert Lehman.

Special guests were Mrs. Lawrence Solomon, mother of the bride-elect, Mrs. Hulian Bass, mother of the future groom, Miss Sherry Bass, sister of the future groom and Mrs. Larry Goldberg, cousin of the bride elect.

The couple plans to be married on June 4 in the Lubbock Country Club.

PATRICIA WADE

Patricia Wade, bride-elect of Eddy Davis, was honored with a shower in the home of Mrs. Bill Burnette Saturday. Hostesses were Mrs. Eugene Sciok, Becky Burnette and Laura Scioli.

Special guests were Mrs. Herschel Wade and Mrs. Jimmy Dobbs, mother and grandmother of the bride-elect and Mrs. Don Davis and Mrs. Johnny Dobbs, mother and grandmother of the future groom.

The couple plans to be married June 3.

ANDREA SOLOMON

Andrea Solomon, bride-elect of David Bass, was honored with a shower Sunday in the home of Rhonda Johnson. Co-hostesses were Kaye Rippetoe.

Special guests were Mrs. Laurence Solomon, mother of the bride-elect and Mrs. Hulian Bass, mother of the future groom.

The couple plan to be married June 4 in the Lubbock Country Club.

KATHRYN JACOBSON

Kathryn Jacobson, bride-elect of James Ogletree, was honored with a cookout Saturday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Copenhaven.

The couple plans to be married May 27 in San Antonio.

NANCY TUCKER

Nancy Tucker, bride-elect of Scott Sharp, was honored with a shower in the home of Mrs. Paul Kirkman Saturday.

Special guests were Mrs. Bill Tucker, mother of the bride-elect, Mrs. George Sharp and Mrs. Byron Bernard, mother and grandmother of the future groom.

The couple plans to be married May 27 in the First Christian Church.

RHONDA PHILLIPS

Rhonda Phillips, bride-elect of Steve Reis, was honored with a shower Saturday in the home of Mrs. Greg Nichols. Co-hostess was Mrs. Vic Bentley.

Special Guests were Mrs. L.D. Phillips, mother of the bride-elect and Mrs. Steve Reis, mother of the future groom.

The couple plans to be married May 12 in First Christian Church.

CATHY WALLER

Cathy Waller, bride-elect of Ross Ellis, was honored with a luncheon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dennis Saturday.

Co-hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Jon Randles. Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. C.R. Ellis, parents of the future groom.

The couple plans to be married May 20.

SHIRLEY COBB

Shirley Cobb was honored with a shower Saturday in the home of Mrs. Clyde Blakely.

Special guests were Mrs. Gene Cobb, mother of the bride-elect and Mrs. D. Wigley, mother of the future groom.

The couple plans to be married June 3.

Dear Omar:
I agree with you completely. Somehow or other, the little swindles you manage to pull off give you more pleasure than many of the really fine plays you come up with over the years.

As an example, I am particularly fond of this hand, which helped Helen Sobel and me to win the Life Master Pairs for the Von Zedtwitz Gold Cup back in 1968.

My bid of three spades was designed more in the hope of keeping the opponents out of the auction than of getting to game, but Helen was never one to linger in a part score if she could see any chance for game. In a way, her decision was right, for the opponents could make ten tricks in a minor-suit contract.

West led the king of hearts and East followed with the six. I was not unhappy with the contract, for we seemed sure of a reasonable score for making nine tricks. The chances for ten were not bright, since East surely held the ace-queen of diamonds for his double once West showed up with the king-queen of hearts.

However, I did not despair. The spots in the hearts suit were significant. I won the ace of hearts, drew trumps in one round and now led a sneaky three of hearts! West saw no reason to squander his queen on a lowly five, so he played low. As I hoped, East was forced to win this trick, and the contract could no longer be defeated.

East cashed the king of clubs and continued with the queen. I ruffed and led the jack of hearts, ruffing in dummy when West covered. I returned to my hand with a club ruff, discarded a diamond from dummy on the ten of hearts, and graciously conceded a diamond trick to the opponents and claimed my contact.

Sincerely,
Charlie

Pesticides Effect People And Plants

By SALLY LOGUE
Family News Staff

The Texas Tech University School of Medicine (TTUSM) has contracted with the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to analyze the effects of pesticides on humans and the environment.

The program under the direction of Dr. Carl A. Nau, clinical professor in the department of pathology at TTUSM, is being conducted in Texas at San Benito.

"Chemicals are important for the production of foods that are needed to feed us and the world. Without these chemicals, food production would decrease. Since chemicals affect insects, fungi, weeds and rodents adversely, it is safe to assume that they would also have toxic effects on humans," said Dr. Nau.

The purpose of the $846,923 EPA contract is to analyze individual experiences with compounds used in insecticides, herbicides, fungicides and rodenticides.

The San Benito area was chosen as the field laboratory site because of its location (the Rio Grande Valley) and the heavy pesticide usage there, according to Dr. Leland Parks, assistant project director and assistant clinical professor of pathology at TTUSM.

Dr. Parks said the Valley laboratory was divided into two areas, the chemical residue laboratory and the investigative unit.

One of the many programs undertaken by the investigative team is the "Human Chronic Effect Study." This study, which has just been completed, deals with people who have a history of acute poisoning by organophosphates, (a type of pesticide) according to Parks.

These people underwent tests including eight hours of neuropsychology testing, neurological exams and blood chemistry tests.

"The idea of the tests was to determine if acute poisoning has a long term effect on the persons ability to function in everyday life," said Parks.

The people used were located by examining hospital and emergency room records in many areas of the country in conjunction with other medical schools, said Parks. TTUSM analyzed about 64 persons in Texas.

Another program now underway is a study to determine if there is a residue of pesticides in mothers' milk.

This nationwide study also made use of hospital records to find nursing mothers. "The La Leche Leagues around the country were extremely helpful in locating nursing mothers and persuading the women to volunteer for the program," he said.

"We don't expect to find anything abnormal as a result of this study," Parks added.

A retrospective study of the Rio Grande Valley area and other parts of the country where pesticide usage is high is also being undertaken by the team.

"We will study the primary high exposure people and compare the cancer rates to those persons with little or no exposure," he said.

"This study, just now in the beginning stages, will probably lead to other cancer related studies," said Parks.

The laboratory also has records of pesticides used in a five state area which includes Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Arkansas and New Mexico.

"These records include all pesticides used for agricultural, industrial and public use purposes," he said.

"These records enable the laboratory to know what kind of pesticides are being used and where, and their medical and environmental potentials," said Parks.

Another important phase of the program will enable the laboratory staff to locate and verify cases of poisoning and determine if they are caused from exposure to pesticides. The PIMS (Pesticide Incidence Monitoring System) program will allow the materials collected from the laboratory's five state area to be coordinated with other similar projects and, according to Parks, a computer file of all pesticide poisoning cases may be established for quick reference.

Parks said, however, this project is still two to three years away from completion.

Dr. Parks also noted the chemical laboratory acts as a monitoring system for the EPA.

"We analyze random human samples from all over the country on a regular basis." So far the laboratory has done about 1200 urine samples involving the analysis of some 21 individual metabolic products for each sample.

As the number of new pesticides continues to grow, new methodology to study these chemicals must be found. That, according to Parks, is another function of his laboratory.

Along these same lines, Dr. Nau said, TTUSM is participating in a Rebutable Presumption Against Registration (RPAR) program.

Before a company can market a pesticide product it must be licensed by the EPA, he said. These companies have to prove that their new product does not cause excessive harm to the public or the environment.

The companies will submit a paper to the EPA, which then hands the paper over to a school participating in the RPAR program for examination.

Dr. Nau said there are some 40 experts working under his supervision reading these reports and writing opinions for the EPA. If a product is found to be dangerous, the company is so informed and has a chance to rebut the EPA opinion or correct the danger.

"These reviewers must look at the benefit versus the risk of the pesticides," said Nau.

Dr. Parks said the Valley laboratory also serves as a monitoring program for those people with regular exposure to pesticides.

"This lets them know what their exposure level is on a regular basis, but the only way we can help them is if the people cooperate."

Park's team also will be involved in emergency situations involving pesticides. "We try to react quickly to any emergency situation involving pesticides. Last year there were a couple of big fires in pesticide warehouses. Our laboratory worked around the clock to determine what damage had been done by the amounts of pesticide released and when it would be safe for people to return to the area."

The aim of the work being carried on by the San Benito laboratory, in Parks view, is to answer questions that currently have no confirmed answers. "Pesticides receive a lot of bad press, but many claims are not substantiated at this point," he said.

"Of course one can hope that we can develop to the point that pesticides would be safe to use, but that is totally unrealistic. As long as we produce food and fiber, pesticides that might be potentially harmful will be used, and that makes people like me and my team uneasy."

PARSNIP TIMBALES

1 lb. bag parsnips
2 large eggs
1/4 cup milk
1/4 cup fine fresh bread crumbs
1/4 tsp. salt

1 tbsps. grated orange rind
Pare the parsnips, leave whole and steam until tender. Drain. Mash in a food processor or put through a food mill — there should be about 1 3/4 cups. Beat eggs and milk until blended; stir in the bread crumbs, salt and orange rind; mix well with the parsnip. Turn into four 6-ounce buttered custard cups. Place in a pan of hot water so it comes halfway up cups. Bake in a preheated 325-degree oven until a knife inserted in the center comes out clean — 30 minutes. With a small spatula, loosen edges and turn out. Garnish, if you like, with orange slices and parsley sprigs. Makes 4 delicious servings.

Medical Dispute Rages Over Vitamin B-15

er's yeast, ox blood, horse liver, rice bran, corn grits and wheat germ. B-15 is found in all of them.

What does pangamate do exactly? Principally, it increases the supply of oxygen in the blood and its uptake into the body's tissues. From this simple transaction, many medical marvels follow. The cells need oxygen to function normally; hypoxia, or lack of cellular oxygen, is the beginning of bad health and perhaps death. How pangamate performs is not clear, but it does have the added ability to detoxify oxygen-consuming pollutants in the blood.

The Russians especially praise pangamate's miraculous effects on heart patients. By pumping more oxygen into heart tissue starved by narrow arteries, pangamate seems to relieve the symptoms of cardiovascular conditions. Heavy breathing and pain tend to disappear; the discomfort of angina is also remedied. Krebs has never heard of a properly pangamated patient expiring from a heart attack. "It would be insane to say that nobody could die from a coronary under B-15," he remarks. "But, damn it, it would have to be an awfully massive one."

Further Russian research indicates that pangamate normalizes cholesterol levels in the blood and keeps the vessels free of other fatty deposits leading to hardening of the arteries.

Although B-15 is regarded seriously abroad (in France, Germany, Yugoslavia, Japan, Spain, as well as in the USSR), it is mainly a feel-good pill in the land of its origin. FoodScience Laboratories, for instance, dares not advertise any therapeutic benefit lest the FDA consider it a drug and demand rigorous pre-marketing testing. Dom Orlandi, the young president of the family-owned Vermont company, speaks of Aangamik 15 as a "nonfuel nutrient," a dietary supplement beyond the long arm of federal law.

Dr. Robert Atkins recommends B-15 to the weary in "Dr. Atkins' Superenergy Diet." "I use it primarily as a fatigue fighter," he says. "When none of the other vitamins I prescribe works, B-15 can turn a patient's energy picture around rather surprisingly. I rate it with the upper echelon of nutritional agents — on a par with B-6, folic acid, and para-aminobenzoic acid."

He depends on a daily pick-me-up himself. "If I forget to take it, I feel it. If I'm getting tired during the day and I have a meeting at night, I take three B-15s and I'm no longer tired." Atkins would like to mix pangamate into his own multi-vitamin formula, but that would leave him open to an FDA bust.

Soviet athletes eat B-15 like candy, and Russian experiments on swimming rats and human rowers showed a decrease in the buildup of lactic acid, the cause of muscle fatigue. Thus the appeal to long-distance runners like Dick Gregory.

The aging pro can grow young on pangamate, according to Virginia biochemist Dr. Richard Passwater. The increased oxygen not only provides a second wind but another property of the vitamin serves to retain muscle glycogen, or reserve fuel. Not for nothing does Dr. Passwater coach members of the Washington Redskins' "over-the-hill-gang" in B-15 formations.

Muhammad Ali was coming down with iron-deficiency anemia one month before the Jimmy Young fight in 1976. He was overweight and undermotivated. Then Dr. Passwater reached Ali with the notion of taking pangamate, che-lated iron, and other supplements. "Within three days," wrote Passwater in Let's Live magazine, "his blood level was normal again and his desire to train returned." He attributed Ali's consecutive victories over Young, Dunn, and Norton in part to B-15.

For Richard Burns (a pseudonym for a roving media consultant), B-15 is a tonic stronger than Lourdes water. A few years ago, he was a physical wreck. After surviving several terminal diagnoses, he checked into Princeton's Brain Bio Center, a high-powered diagnostic clinic specializing in the treatment of biochemical disorders. Center director Dr. Carl C. Pfeiffer, a pioneer in megavitamin therapy, put Burns onto B-15. Life suddenly became worth living again. "As soon as I took B-15," Burns insists, "I could do eight hours of yoga while still on chemotherapy for a skin condition. Prior to that I spent most of my day in bed. On B-15, I can now run farther, swim longer, and do more push-ups than I could before."

Physical purity is Burn's obsession. He ingests approximately 100 vitamin pills daily and does five hours of strenuous exercise between sunup and sundown. "Without B-15, I would honestly feel shortness of breath and heart palpitations. Apart from losing stamina, I would have less visual clarity and focus; color would appear less intense." Burns is positively mystical on the aphrodisiac powers, so far unnoted in the literature, of B-15. "Orgasm seems to have more length and brilliance of light," he says. "The flash is greater and, in general, your ability to perceive aura is enhanced."

TOMORROW: PART II—B-15 May Hold Physical and Financial Profits

Jail To Deplete County Surplus

By BOB CAMPBELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Lubbock County ended 1977 with a $2.6-million fund balance but will have almost depleted its building fund on completion of the new county jail, computer system and juvenile detention center, County Auditor Dale Gallimore reported Monday.

"Since the 1977 building fund revenues were 73 percent derived from interest income on accumulated reserves, any major projects after 1978 will require alternate sources of funding," Gallimore said in the annual county financial report.

The jail is expected to cost around $3.6 million, the computer system $100,000 and the juvenile detention center about $1 million.

Almost all of the costs will be paid with federal revenue-sharing money to the county.

However, with $511,650 in encumbrances against the $1,019,807 in the building fund at year end, the $453,028 left is not going to produce enough interest to replenish the fund if any major new projects are undertaken, Gallimore said.

Most of the encumbrance is for a central heating and cooling plant currently under construction to serve the county jail and the courthouse complex.

Construction on the jail is scheduled to start at mid-year and be finished in early 1980.

The commissioners have appropriated $500,000 for the juvenile detention center, which will serve 15 counties, and they expect another $500,000 in grants to build it.

Although the building fund is rapidly disappearing, the county ended the year in good shape with revenues exceeding expenditures in all other funds, the auditor said.

Assessed valuations for ad valorem taxes totaled $441.9 million or 11.9 percent more than for the 1976 budget year.

In both revenues and expenditures, the general fund budget ended up better than it was projected to last year.

Large increases above expected income in a number of departments brought actual revenues to $828,981 more — $5,091,308 instead of $4,262,325 — than the estimate when the budget was drawn.

Notable gains were in current taxes, $2,343,759 instead of $2,223,375; beer and liquor fees and commissions, $15,360 instead of $6,000; mixed drink state taxes, $189,247 instead of $152,000; county and district clerk fines and forfeitures, $131,928 instead of $110,000; jury trials from other counties, $13,265 instead of $100; time certificate interest, $328,082 instead of $260,000; sheriff's fees and commissions, $109,569 instead of $70,000; Omnibus Commission, $374,511 instead of $255,000; county clerk, $263,649 instead of $210,000; and district clerk, $148,995 instead of $90,000.

The county spent $80,198 less — $4,745,694 instead of $4,825,893 — than the county commissioners budgeted.

The biggest saver was the juvenile probation office, which expended $44,581 less than the $65,987 it was allotted for office expenses other than salaries and car expenses.

The sheriff spent $10,419 less for salaries — $642,415 instead of $652,834 — than was budgeted.

Gunn, who had indicated during a hearing Monday that he pursued the vehicle at speeds up to 100 mph, told jurors the auto was halted after it turned onto a dirt road.

Gunn said Herndon was the driver of the car and identified Jaycon as the passenger.

The witness said both men appeared neatly dressed but seemed to be intoxicated.

He said he noted that Herndon had a bruise on the bridge of his nose and a cut under his left eye.

Gunn said the men indicated they had been to a Christmas Eve dance. He said they were taken into custody on suspicion of driving while intoxicated and public intoxication.

Keesee testified that on Dec. 26 he found what appeared to be blood stains near the southeast corner of a motel adjacent to the lounge on 19th Street. He testified a blue and yellow baseball cap with the words "CAT" and "Diesel Power" on it was also found in the area.

nized his body in the trunk of the smoldering auto.

"His face was so covered with blood that I thought at first his nose had melted off," Keesee said. The deputy said the victim's hair was "matted" with blood and that Young's clothes were blood soaked. "The clothes were wet with some sort of solution that had a volatile-type odor."

Keesee said he later viewed the body at a funeral home. He said there appeared to be a hole in the back of the victim's neck and another hole near his right jaw.

Meanwhile, testimony indicated that Jaycon and Herndon were arrested the same night after a cardboard box was discovered burning nearly two hours later near Quirt Avenue and FM 1585.

State trooper Max Gunn testified that while on routine patrol on Quirt Avenue he noticed a blaze resembling a camp fire and saw a car parked near the blaze. He said that as his patrol car approached the scene the auto with two men inside it suddenly went east on the farm to market road.

Gunn, who had indicated during a hearing Monday that he pursued the vehicle at speeds up to 100 mph, told jurors the auto was halted after it turned onto a dirt road.

Dayan Says Israel May Reject Planes

By United Press International

U.S. envoy Alfred Atherton and Israeli Foreign Minister Moshé Dayan left the Middle East for the United States today and Dayan warned his country would sacrifice U.S. warplanes if that would stop aircraft sales to Egypt and Saudi Arabia.

Dayan, flying to Washington for talks with Secretary of State Cyrus Vance on the wording of a compromise formula for an Arab-Israeli peace settlement, said he is not taking any new proposals with him.

But he reaffirmed his government's strong opposition to President Carter's decision to sell fighter jets to Egypt, Saudi Arabia and Israel in an all-or-nothing $4.8 billion package deal that goes to Congress Wednesday for an expected tough fight.

"A package deal is not the right way," Dayan told reporters at Ben-Gurion Airport. "Even if we have to absorb the punishment, we will continue to oppose the deal."

But he said he would be glad to discuss any new suggestions that Egypt might have put forward to Atherton in the past four days on the Middle East.

South Plains Gets Chance For Rain

A-J News Services

Thunderstorms that pounded the Hill Country with rain and hail Monday night may roll north and bring rain to Lubbock and the South Plains Wednesday.

The National Weather Service is listing a 20 percent chance of rain for Wednesday after the fair skies of today begin to cloud tonight.

High temperatures today and Wednesday should be in the upper 70s and the low tonight in the low 50s.

East and southeast winds will increase to 15 to 20 miles per hour today, change to southerly at 10 to 15 mph tonight and pick up from the south again Wednesday at 15 to 25 mph and gusting.

Wind warnings will be out for area lakes Wednesday, weathermen said this morning.

The Monday night storms brought a tornado to Gilmer in extreme Northeast Texas and tennis ball-size hail to the Johnson City area west of Austin.

No damage was reported from the tornado.

Golf ball-size hail also was reported from Athens to Copperas Cove east of Killeen.

The cold front that stalled along a line from Texarkana to Del Rio, causing the rain and tornado clouds, dropped overnight low temperatures into the 30s in some South Plains cities.

It was 34 in Dimmitt, 39 in Muleshoe and 37 in Olton.

The overnight low in Lubbock was 43. It was 40 in Friona, Levelland, Matador, Morton and Tulia.

Widely scattered thunderstorms continued booming and raining over the Hill Country of Central Texas before dawn today.

Otherwise, the state had fair skies in the west, partly cloudy skies in the east with patchy fog developing along the Middle Coastal Plains and dense fog cutting visibility to less than a mile at Victoria.

Dimmitt had the lowest reported temperature in the state.

Marfa, one of the coldest places in Texas on recent nights, was one of the hottest Monday with a high of 102 degrees.

It was also 102 at Cotulla.

HURRICANE NAMES

Dissident Gets Aid From U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has cautioned the Soviet Union that its treatment of Soviet dissident Anatoly Shcharansky could have a direct bearing on U.S.-Soviet relations and influence prospects for new arms agreement, administration officials say.

The disclosure came in advance of a scheduled visit here Wednesday of an East German lawyer who reportedly is ready to discuss deals to free Shcharansky and an American CIA employee who is jailed in Cuba.

Administration officials, who asked not to be named, said Moscow was told that unjust treatment of Shcharansky could stimulate anti-Soviet sentiment in the United States and aggravate chances for congressional approval of a strategic arms limitation agreement now being negotiated.

Shcharansky, 29, is awaiting trial on charges of working with other dissidents to collect military and industrial secrets for the CIA. President Carter denies that Shcharansky had links with the CIA.

The East German lawyer planning to come to the United States this week is Wolfgang Vogel, who was involved in a previous Soviet-American prisoner swap in 1962.

He also is helping to arrange, with Rep. Benjamin Gilman, R-N.Y., a prisoner swap among East Germany, the United States and Mozambique. Vogel plans to present his proposals to Gilman at a meeting to be witnessed by a State Department official, sources said. But they said they are not optimistic that a deal for Shcharansky can be struck.

One official explained that any deal involving Shcharansky's freedom in return for that of a convicted Soviet spy "would be tantamount to an admission by the United States that Shcharansky is guilty of the charges against him."

He countered that the United States has no counterproposals of its own to present to Vogel in the Shcharansky negotiations.

According to sources, Vogel also may be prepared to offer the release of self-confessed CIA contract employee Lavrence Lunt, imprisoned in Cuba for the past 13 years on spy charges.

It is generally accepted that Vogel, in return, would ask the United States to free Lolita Lebron, a Puerto Rican nationalist convicted in a 1954 shooting attack on the House of Representatives. A 1976 Lunt-for-Lebron exchange proposal fell through for reasons which are still not clear.

Lunt's lawyer, John Wainwright, said Monday he isn't convinced that Vogel is authorized to negotiate on behalf of the Cuban government.

But Wainwright said he is encouraged by a marked improvement in Cuba's treatment of Lunt over the past year.

Gilman returned Monday from Mozambique, where he served as a go-between in the release of an Israeli citizen, Miron Marcus, who had been held for the past 19 months.

Officials said that in the coming days, the United States will release Robert G. Thompson, convicted of passing secrets to the Soviets. East Germany, in turn, will set free Alan Van Norman of Windom, Minn., convicted in 1977 of trying to smuggle a German doctor and his family to the West.

Swedish Families Losing Power

By BJORN EDLUND
 STOCKHOLM (UPI) — In Sweden, often cited as a model of socialism, more than 90 percent of industry is privately owned and that largely by 15 families.

A government study 10 years ago found these families controlled more than one-fifth of industry. Economic analysts say their share is even greater today.

But the Wallenbergs, Bonniers, Johnsons and the 12 other families are seeing their managerial superiority slowly whittled away even as their wealth grows.

Illnesses Blamed On Refined Foods

STONEHAM, Mass. (UPI) — English-speaking countries have "fit donkeys and sick people" and their poor diets are responsible for a prevalence of diabetes, heart attacks, gallstones and colon-related cancer, a British surgeon says.

Dr. Denis P. Burkitt, 67, told doctors at New England Memorial Hospital seminars last week refined foods have created a nation of "constipated Americans" with serious illnesses because of a lack of fiber in their diets.

Burkitt said in 20 years as a doctor in Africa he seldom encountered some of the serious illnesses that beset residents of Western nations.

Laws calling for union and state representation on company boards, laws regulating job protection and union cooperation in most management decisions have lessened ownership power.

Lennart Laftman, editor of the Affarvarlden business magazine, said the drift is "typically Swedish."

"Not spectacular nationalizations or heated union-employer quarrels, but cooperation and public influence through measures that put the employee side in the same boat with the owners — that is typically Swedish," Laftman said.

The Wallenberg family — its name synonymous to Swedes with tycoon or capitalist — employ more than 150,000 people. SAAB, ASEA, Swedish Match and LM Ericson make up one part of the family empire; the Skandinaviska Enskilda Banken, Sweden's biggest private bank, the other part.

The Bonnier family empire comprises a book publishing firm, the country's biggest publishers of weeklies and monthlies, the two largest newspapers, Dagens Nyheter and Expressen, and manufacturing industries in the printing process field.

"They still make the decisions, but they are tied down by the social commitments embodied in the power-sharing and job-protection laws," Laftman said of the industrial tycoons.

"And with the current crisis, industry and the public economy has become more intertwined.

"A typical example: a firm suffers losses and applies for state subsidies. The government says yes, on condition the firm promises to keep the entire work force," Laftman said.

"Thus the government asserts more influence in our economy than governments in countries with a higher percentage of nationalization."

But there are those who believe the 15 families are increasing their power, like C. H. Hermansson, former communist party chairman and author of the 1968 report on the "15."

Currently revising his book, Hermansson says, "The concentration of economic power has increased since my first investigation ... This means that power groups totally outside all public control decide whether to produce or not to produce, whether to invest in Sweden or abroad, whether to close down companies or invest in them."

"This means," he said, "that these groups have an enormous influence over the lives of ordinary people."

The two viewpoints are echoed in the current debate over a joint social democratic trade union proposal for wage earner funds.

The funds would consist of 20 percent of the profits of all firms with more than 500 employees — currently some 200 firms. They would be controlled by elected officials and union appointees.

Hermansson and the radical wing of the trade union say the funds will create a cage in which wage-earners will be captured together with the capitalists.

The main-line social democrats say the funds will ensure wage-earner responsibility in industrial management and stop the rise of new "Wallenbergs."

Predicts Laftman:

"It will be no earth-shaker. Those firms who survive will be doing fine, but their survival depends on their cooperation with the public sector."

Chaparrals Tackle High-Flying H-SU

By WALT McALEXANDER
Avalanche-JournalSports Staff

No, it's not an illness that could land one in quarantine, but coach Larry Hays is hoping his Chaparrals come down with "Playoff Fever"—and the sooner the better.

In fact, Hays would like to see that fever running rampant on the home side of the diamond today because he knows visiting Hardin-Simmons, presently battling for a first-ever NCAA playoff spot, will have it.

Hardin-Simmons has won two of three previous meetings with the Chaps this year, bowing 10-9 in the Abilene Intercollegiate Tournament but rebounding to win by 6-4 and 8-5 counts later on. Doug Smith's crew brought a 35-16 mark into today's 1 p.m. Chaparral Stadium tilt and will be closing out their regular season and then must await word on the NCAA District VI Tournament at Arlington in three weeks.

LCC stands 38-16 and has been away from home the last 16 games, during which time the Chaps, ranked No. 7 in the nation, managed only an 8-8 record.

Hardin-Simmons had its 10-game winning streak snapped by Mary Hardin-Baylor 11-3 in the first game last Saturday but rebounded behind Roger Connell's three-hitter to win the nightcap 7-4.

And it's a good bet that Don Lawson and Kenneth McLeod will hurl for the Cowboys today. McLeod hurled a seven-hitter at LCC two weeks ago and Lawson, who suffered the loss in the Abilene Tournament, allowed only six hits as H-SU set a school mark for victories (then 27) in a season.

That also launched the Cowboys on their winning streak.

Today, the Chaps will go with John Ross (5-3) and Richard Nixon (4-0).

Hays reflected a bit on last weekend's series against Dallas Baptist, when the Chaps, hitting a mere .206 as a team (21-for-102) dropped three of four games.

"They just played good ball and beat us. We've been sitting back and out-hitting everyone and not executing real well and that's what we tried to do down there, but it didn't work.

"I think we've been looking ahead to the playoffs ever since we beat Midwestern three out of four. And, because of that, I don't look for us to get any better unless something drastic happens and we wake up to the fact we're not playing good ball and go back to what got us here."

After today's games, LCC will host Texas Wesleyan in four games this weekend must win all four if the Chaps win their sixth straight Texoma Conference title.

TEXOMA NOTES — Carlos Cuervo and Byron Thornton of TWC look Player and Pitcher of the Week honors. Cuervo, inserted into the lineup as designated hitter, went 7-for-16, had 2 doubles, scored 6 runs and stole 7 bases, upping his average from .161 to .255. Thornton, a senior who had lost 10 straight games over two years entering this season, took a no-hitter into the seventh against North Texas before settling for a one-hit, 10-0 win and then allowed Midwestern 6 hits in a 7-2 win, upping his record to 6-4.

Ricky Nix of Midwestern (9-18, upping average from .215 to .277) and Keith Spreckles of TWC (9-23 with 2 doubles, 11 runs scored and 10 stolen bases plus 5 RBIs) were runners-up for the hitting honor and DB's Joe Escobar, who limited LCC to two hits and one walk while fanning six, was the mound runner-up.

DBC only hit .222 (18-for-81) against LCC.

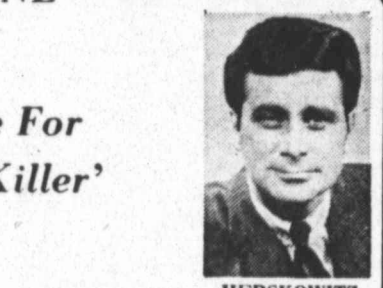

NET HONOREES — Lubbock Christian College tennis coach Larry Rogers, left, beams after presenting this trio of Chaparral netters plaques for the 1978 season Monday night at All-Sports Banquet. Steve Joiner, next to Rogers, was named Newcomer of the Year and Pegi Blackwell and Randy Coleman, far left, were winners of the Hustling Chaparral Awards. Keila Cruce was named the team's Most Improved performer. (Staff Photo by Gary Davis)

Smile For 'The Killer'
By MICKEY HERSKOWITZ And STEVE PERKINS

Q. I saw a picture in a magazine of Muhammad Ali being photographed by a former wrestler, Killer Kowalski. How did Kowalski get to be a photographer? How good a wrestler was he?

A. How does anyone get to be a photographer? Kowalski started by taking candid shots of his fellow wrestlers, as he neared the end of a 30-year career. Pro wrestling magazines were the first to accept his work. Today he earns his living as a free-lance photographer in the Boston area.

If he seems an unlikely photographer, the Killer was not your typical rasser, either. He was an engineering student in college, who always thought of himself, he says, "as urbane, well-read and civilized." He wrestled on weekends to pick up spending money. At 6-foot-7 and 265, he became typed as a heavy, perfected the so-called "claw hold," and was known as Tarzan until 1952, when he accidentally tore an ear off a 350-pound opponent named Yukon Eric. From then on he was Killer Kowalski.

Q. I can remember Joe Louis, in his bum-of-the-month days, knocking out a fighter named Johnny Paycheck. Is the country-and-western singer of the same name related to him in any way?

A. That name has made an interesting comeback. The bearded singer who now uses it was born Donald Lytle, in 1939. That was one year before Louis scored a second-round kayo, in Madison Square Garden, of the boxer Johnny Paycheck (note spelling).

A fight fan, whose light reading must have included "The Ring Record Book," Donald adopted the old fighter's name when he decided to try his luck in Nashville. It had an echo of the workingman songs he wanted to sing. Feisty at 5-foot-6 and 150, he had served hard time in the Navy for punching out an officer. His recent hit record, "Take This Job and Shove It," reflects how many fighters felt after meeting Joe Louis.

Q. What is the story behind George Foster seeing a hypnotist? Does he have a problem? Is it supposed to help him hit home runs?

A. George won't discuss his trips to a hypnotist, but if opposing pitchers thought his visits had anything to do with his 52 homers last year, you would see a lot of finger-snapping on the mound. Foster has not had hypnosis on any regular basis since 1974. That season the Reds sent him back to their Indianapolis farm team. He had played briefly with the Reds in 1973, and the year before had hit only two homers while striking out 44 times in 59 games.

The Cincinnati management felt Foster's concentration was poor.

TWC Captures Top Poll Spot

Texas Wesleyan replaced Lubbock Christian as District VIII's top team in the next-to-last poll.

The Rams are currently 43-19 and lead LCC by three full games with only four left in the Texoma Conference regular season.

LCC, now 38-16, had held the top position the past month.

University of Dallas (26-20 plus 5-0 in Central Zone play) retained third place and South Zone champion Jarvis (23-18-1) remained fourth. Dallas Baptist (21-25-1) and Midwestern (15-24) swapped fifth and sixth spots.

Paul Quinn (20-24 and the South Zone runner-up with a 5-3 mark, a game behind Jarvis) moved from eighth to seventh. Austin College (9-23 but 6-1 in Centralization) moved up two spots to eighth. Wiley (15-17 and 4-3 in Central play), slipped from seventh to ninth and LeTourneau moved from 11th to 10th with a 9-13 mark.

Kahler Nabs Top LCC Award

Basketballer Mike Kahler received the L.D. Hays Award as outstanding senior athlete at the Lubbock Christian College all-sports banquet Monday night.

Kahler, an honor student from DeSoto, also received his third consecutive defensive player-of-the-year award.

Outgoing cage coach Darrell Price announced the formation of a new award, the Lamar Sampy Memorial Award, which will go each year to the outstanding freshman. Sampy, who died during the season of complications resulting from a bout with influenza, was the first recipient of the award named in his honor or as well as being named basketball MVP posthumously.

Willie Sang, the school's first cross-country All-America, was honored along with Jim Cook, Mike Jenkins, Joel Koach, Kip Mibey and Harvey Stewart, all of whom landed berths on the all-District 8 cross-country team.

Steve Joiner was named tennis newcomer of the year, with Keila Cruce being named the most improved. Pegi Blackwell and Randy Coleman received the Hustling Chaparral awards in tennis.

Freshman Gary Norris and Brian Fortner received awards as top free-throw shooter and field goal shooter, respectively, in basketball.

Seniors in all sports also received plaques. No baseball awards were presented as the baseball banquet is scheduled next Monday at the Gridiron Restaurant.

The banquet Monday was held at the Holiday Inn.

Spurs Face Huge Task

The San Antonio Spurs are second-best in a two-team playoff series, but they may be trying harder.

The Spurs are one loss away from elimination by the Washington Bullets, who lead the best-of-seven quarter-final set 3-1 with Game 5 scheduled tonight at San Antonio.

"I know a lot of people have written us off," said San Antonio Coach Doug Moe, whose Spurs have lost their last three games. "While I'd much rather be up 3-1, there is an advantage in that you work harder."

They'll have to work hard to stay alive as the National Basketball Association playoff continue, and that includes getting balanced scoring from the rest of the Spurs shooters. George Gervin has been carrying the team offensively.

"No one else on the team wants to shoot the ball, so George ends up shooting every time," observes Washington's Elvin Hayes. Gervin, the NBA's scoring leader in the regular season, has averaged 37 points per game in the series against Washington.

He collected 35 on Sunday in the Spurs' 98-95 loss, but the next-highest San Antonio scorer was Billy Paulitz with 17, and it was seven points back to Larry Kenon and Mike Gale.

So it's certain the Spurs will have to do something, but Moe won't say what.

"There's no telling what we'll do," he says. "We might use a combination (of things), although I'd rather not pin myself down right now."

"It doesn't matter to us what they do," said Bullets Coach Dick Motta. "We want them to run with us. We try to run with everyone."

The Denver Nuggets take their 2-1 lead over Milwaukee into Game 4 of their quarter-final with the Bucks in the other NBA playoff game tonight. Meanwhile, the Seattle SuperSonics must wait until Wednesday night before trying to enlarge their 2-1 lead over the defending champion Portland Trail Blazers.

The Philadelphia 76ers, who swept the New York Knicks out of the playoffs, await a semifinal opponent.

Oilers Take Drama Out Of NFL Draft

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers have taken the drama out of next week's National Football League draft — it will be Heisman Trophy winner Earl Campbell getting the Oiler nod as the No. 1 pick.

The Oilers made it official Monday when they dealt tight end Jimmy Giles, along with their first and second round picks this year, to Tampa Bay in exchange for the Bucs' No. 1 pick next Tuesday. Houston also gave up its third and fifth selections next season.

There was little doubt in Oiler Coach O.A. "Bum" Phillips' mind about how long it will take Campbell to fit into the Oiler lineup.

Asked how soon Campbell could contribute, Phillips said, "Oh, about as soon

Briefly

GOLF
OXFORD, Ohio — Eastern Kentucky came from 7 strokes back to capture the Mid-American Invitational Golf Tournament at the Houston Woods Golf Course. Eastern Kentucky finished with 752 strokes for the 36-hole event. Miami came from seventh place at the halfway mark to finish second with 737. Notre Dame, the first round leader, finished third with 760. Fourth place went to Western Michigan 763, while Illinois State took fifth with 781.

BASKETBALL
NEW YORK — The National Basketball Association announced that the NBA Eastern Conference final will start in Philadelphia Sunday in the event that Washington eliminates San Antonio in either five or six games. The Bulls led the Spurs 3-1 in the best-of-seven series with the fifth game scheduled in San Antonio tonight and the sixth in Washington Friday. Philadelphia had expressed the desire to start the next series on Thursday if the Bulls win tonight but that request was denied.

TENNIS
LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Harold Solomon and Ken Rosewall scored their first-round victory in the $250,000 Alan King Tennis Classic, and John Lloyd breezed to a surprisingly easy triumph over Jeff Borowiak. Solomon posted a 6-2, 4-6, 6-3 victory over Tim Gulikson and Rosewall scored a 6-4, 6-3 triumph over fellow Australian Paul Kronk. Lloyd, from England, opened the tournament at Caesars Palace with a 6-2, 6-2 victory over Borowiak.

FOOTBALL
BOSTON — Three Bostonians Butch Hobson of the Boston Red Sox named American League player of the week. After a doubleheader in Boston against the Cleveland Indians, Hobson became only the 11th player in major league history to have runs batted in in 10 consecutive games, and still had a chance for the major league mark of 12 consecutive RBI games, set last by Ted Williams in 1952. For the week beginning April 17, Hobson batted .346 with four home runs, one triple, two doubles and 15 RBI.

TRUCK AND FIELD
NEW YORK — The New York Track Writers Association selected Houston McTeer and Mary Decker as the outstanding athletes of the 1978 indoor season. McTeer won seven of eight races during the indoor season and set a world record in the 400-meter dash in 1:00.40. Decker won 10 of 11 races during the indoor season, including a record 2:23.8 for 1,000 yards.

PHILADELPHIA — Marly Suddins from Duquesne, Pa., won the Penn Relay marathon for the second time in three years, with a winning time of two hours, 23 minutes, 51 seconds. Mark Ogden, a senior at Georgetown University, finished second in 2:27:25. One minute ahead of third-placed Peter Borotoff of State College, Pa.

GENERAL
ARLINGTON, Ind. — Federal investigators were piecing together evidence in an effort to determine the cause of a fiery plane crash near Indianapolis that claimed nine lives, including seven officials of the U.S. Auto Club. The victims were returning to Indianapolis from Sunday's USAC race at Trenton, N.J. They included Frank DeRoya, 65, long-time chairman of the USAC technical committee, Ray Marquette, 48, USAC vice president for public affairs, Shm Mazon, 57, assistant to DeRoya, and Don Peabody, 54, head of the sprint car division; Stan Worley, 65, USAC registrar; Judy Phillips, 40, an artist and typist who assisted Marquette; Russ Teagarden, 57, assistant to DeRoya; Dr. Bruce White, 27, a physician who frequently served on the medical staff for USAC races, and the pilot, Don Mulvihill, 57, assistant to DeRoya. Investigators refused to speculate on the cause of the crash, many others believed that weather was the cause.

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. — According to a published report in the Fayetteville Times, amphetamines are being sold to University of North Carolina football players by a member of the team. In the second installment of a 16-part series on drugs and college sports, the Times reported details of drug abuse on the team over the past several years, citing information from affidavits from dozens of current and former players. The Times said players had told them most of the speed team members took was Biphedrine 20, a strong amphetamine in the form of pills and capsules.

HORSE RACING
BALTIMORE — Tim Monk, 64, coasted to a three-length victory over Lord Harry L. in the $12,000 Jim J. Purse at Pimlico.

CORNWELL HEIGHTS, Pa. — Mighty Steve, 59, posted a 1 1/2-length victory over Benning in the $8,000 race at Keystone Race Track.

HALLANDALE, Fla. — Mary L., 54.80, edged Royal Dux by three-quarters of a length to win the $2,000 race at Gulfstream.

NEW YORK — Star De Naskra, 54.60, won the $25,000 Zio Pocket Purse at Aqueduct by 5/8 lengths over Shelter Hall.

Texas Sports Briefs

Texas League

By The Associated Press
 Tim Derryberry had a three-run homer earlier in the game, but it took a walk issued to him in the 12th inning Monday night to give Amarillo a 7-6 Texas League baseball victory over Midland.

In other Texas League action, Arkansas ripped Jackson 10-2. Tulsa walloped Shreveport 7-2 and San Antonio edged El Paso 5-4. The same teams meet again tonight.

Derryberry's walk came with the bases loaded and sent Brian Greer, who also got on base on a walk, across home plate with the winning run. Earlier, Midland took a 1-0 lead in the first when Jim Buckner homered. Tom Tellman, now 1-0 was the winning pitcher. Bob Clark, the losing pitcher, is 0-1.

San Antonio jumped off to a 2-0 lead in the first inning when Myron White hit a home run. Ted Power was the winning pitcher and Mark Wulfemeyer was the loser.

Marty Scott had a home run and Joe Stewart and Blair Stouffer contributed run-scoring doubles as Tulsa defeated Shreveport and moved out of the Texas League's Eastern Division cellar. Don Kainer, now 1-2, got the victory with relief help in the ninth from Steve Bianchi. Jim Smith took the loss, dropping his record to 0-3.

Terry Kennedy slammed a three-run home run for Arkansas in the first inning and they never trailed in moving to the 10-2 victory over Jackson. Earl Bass got the victory, bringing his record to 3-0 while Neil Allen, now 2-1, took the loss for Jackson.

been knocking in many runs." Art Howe opened the 10th with a single to center off losing pitcher Rollie Fingers, 1-3. After Ed Herrmann sacrificed Gonzalez into scoring position, Roger Metzger walked and Wilbur Howard grounded out to put runners on second and third. Walling followed with a shot over the head of Padre left fielder Jerry Turner to give Houston its third straight triumph over San Diego this season.

Fingers, who has been roughed up for 28 hits in 16 innings against Houston over the past two weeks, said he got the pitch where he wanted it. "I thought it was an out," Fingers said. "I started walking off the mound, but he (Turner) never caught up with it."

The Padres took a one-run lead in the first inning on a walk to Gene Richards, a balk by Joaquin Andujar, Turner's ground ball and Oscar Gamble's single to right. Bob Watson boosted Houston into a 3-1 lead in the fourth with a three-run home run into the left field seats off San Diego starter Dave Freisleben. Watson's hit followed a single by Cesar Cedeno and a walk to Jose Cruz.

San Diego fought back to tie the game in the sixth on run-scoring singles by Gamble and Bill Almon, but could not push a runner as far as third base the rest of the game off Andujar and winning pitcher Joe Sambito, 2-0.

"I think this is indicative of the way this ball club is going to play this season," said Watson, who extended his hitting streak to eight games. "We've been having to come back after a slow start (0-5) and we're not about to give up."

Lerch, incidentally, pitched as well as he hit, allowing the Cubs only six hits.

Lerch-Led Phils Zap Cubs 12-2

By The Associated Press
 After their inefficient performance in Montreal over the weekend, the Philadelphia Phillies figured to break out in big way.

They did — but they rediscovered their power from the most unlikely source.

Randy Lerch, who gets paid mostly to pitch, did some of the heavy hitting for the Phillies Monday night and led a 12-2 rout of the Chicago Cubs.

"After the way we hit the last three games, I guess I expected something," said Manager Danny Ozark after watching his Phillies pound out 12 hits against the Cubs, including a two-run homer and an RBI double by Lerch.

The hitting display gave the Phillies "a more positive outlook," according to Ozark. They had scored only eight runs while dropping a three-game series to the Expos.

"He hit a pretty good pitch," Ozark said of Lerch's homer in the third inning. "He looked a little like Ted Williams on that."

Noting that the Phillies won their second game in a row in a regionally televised game, Ozark said:

"We've been playing great on the tube. That's a change for us. We usually play lousy."

Lerch, incidentally, pitched as well as he hit, allowing the Cubs only six hits.

Expos 5, Cardinals 3
 Dave Cash and Andre Dawson stroked run-scoring singles off reliever Mark Littell in the seventh inning and triggered Montreal past St. Louis. The victory for the hot Expos was their fifth in a row and ninth in 11 games.

Left-hander Rudy May, an off-season acquisition from the Baltimore Orioles, got his first National League victory with relief help from Stan Bahnsen.

"I was kind of wondering if it was ever going to come or not," said May, who was making his fourth start and had an 0-1 record before Monday night.

May had a "momentary lapse" when he issued two fourth-inning walks.

"I was sick from some kind of bug in Chicago and weaker than I thought I'd be," he said. "I'm usually around the plate, but I lost it for a little bit there before getting it back."

Pirates 4, Mets 2
 An eighth-inning double steal by Omar Moreno and Dave Parker and an ensuing error by New York third baseman Bobby Valentine helped Pittsburgh beat the Mets.

With one out in the Pirate eighth, Moreno walked and stole second. Parker was then intentionally walked before Moreno and Parker executed their double steal and Valentine, playing for ailing Johnny Randle, failed to handle catcher Lenny Stearns' throw that went down the left field line while both runners scored to break a 2-2 tie.

Packers Win Dallas Tourney

DALLAS (Special) — Stockton-Packer of Midland won the Dallas Invitational Softball Tournament last weekend with Lubbockites Larry Hays and Darrell Rosenson winning all the games.

S-P, seeing its first action of the summer, beat Arlington 4-3 in extra innings with Rosenson getting the win in relief, then Rosendon blanked Fort Worth Building Products 4-0. Hays hurled a 5-2 win over Houston A-1 Bonding and Rosenson claimed a 4-1 victory over Duncanville.

S-P and Hays dropped a 1-0 duel to Houston Park-Smyer in the finals of the winner's bracket, then came back to beat Fort Worth Tarrant Glass 8-0 behind Rosenson, who then recorded a 4-2 win over Park-Smyer.

Hays hurled a one-hitter in the finals, winning by a 4-1 count. Buddy Davis, a former all-America at Lubbock Christian College now coaching at Graham, led the team with a .550 mark.

Jack Billingham Finds Grass Greener In AL

By The Associated Press
 For Jack Billingham, the grass is greener in the American League. Mainly because it's mostly real grass.

"I'm happy to come to the American League where there is a lot of grass because I'm a sinker ball pitcher," the 35-year-old right-hander said Monday night after pitching the streaking Detroit Tigers to a three-hit 4-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

After winning 119 games in 10 National League campaigns with Los Angeles, Houston and Cincinnati — plus two more in three World Series, where he has an earned run average of 0.35 in 26 innings — Billingham was dealt to Detroit during spring training for a couple of minor leaguers. He has a 3-0 record and has suddenly become a very important person in the Tigers' pitching rotation, especially with Mark Fidrych's shoulder acting up.

Billingham got all the support he needed in the second inning when the Tigers scored three times on Lance Parrish's double, a walk, Ron LeFlore's RBI single and Steve Dillard's two-run triple. Aurelio Rodriguez homered in the fourth while Billingham blanked the White Sox until the seventh when Bob Molinaro tripled and scored on a sacrifice fly. Chicago's only other hits were third-inning singles by Bill Nahorodny and Greg Pryor.

"I'm excited about the change in leagues," Billingham said. "This is a young club with a lot of enthusiasm and the young kids want to play."

"I had five or six bad starts with Cincinnati last year and Sparky (Manager Sparky Anderson) took me out of the rotation. They wanted to go with the young kids and tried to make a short reliever out of me. I didn't get anyone out. They tried to trade me to the Cubs and I refused because of the ballpark."

"There were only two places I ruled out — the Cubs and San Francisco. I've pitched some good games in Wrigley Field only to lose them when someone hit a fly ball over the fence. I really wanted to come to the American League."

Life Magazine To Appear On Newsstands Again

NEW YORK (AP) — "What's Life?" the old joke began. "A magazine," was the reply.

And a magazine it will be again. Time Inc. announced Monday that it would begin publishing Life again in October. The publication — in its old 13½-by-10½-inch page size with the familiar white-on-red title, is the latest step in the rebirth of American magazines.

Ninety-one magazines have announced so far this year that they will begin publication, according to Folio magazine, the trade publication of magazines. In all of 1974, there were 124 such announcements.

Figures from the Publishers Information Bureau put gross advertising revenue for 96 consumer magazines at $1,965,410,809 for last year. The year before the figure was $1,626,656,136.

As it was put by Chuck Tannen, editor of Folio: "The magazine business is booming."

And now there is Life. What's Life? A magazine. What's it cost? Ten cents. Haven't got ten cents. That's Life.

The very existence of the joke testifies to the part Life played in American life during its 36 years. From Nov. 23, 1936, until Dec. 29, 1972, it redefined photo journalism and showed America its own face.

Robert Capa photographed the Spanish Civil War and David Douglas Duncan the Korean War. In between came jitterbugging, students crammed in phone booths and photographs by Margaret Bourke-White, Carl Mydans, Yousuf Karsh, Alfred Eisenstadt and Henri Cartier-Bresson, to name just a few.

Sir Winston Churchill was published in Life. So were Omar Bradley, Harry Truman, Charles de Gaulle, James Michener and Norman Mailer. Hemingway's "The Old Man and the Sea" first appeared there.

Henry Luce, the publisher who founded Time, Life, Fortune and Sports Illustrated, said in introducing Life 42 years ago that its object would be "to see man's work — his paintings, towers and discoveries; to see things thousands of miles away; things hidden behind walls and within rooms; things dangerous to come to ... to see and be amazed; to see and be instructed."

Hedley Donovan, Time Inc. editor-in-chief, said Monday that the new Life will show "spectacular news events; people, famous and not, captured in memorable moments; the beauties and mysteries of nature, science and medicine; the world of arts, architecture, sport and fashion."

But will the new Life be the old Life? Time Inc. says yes. The white title and red background will be slightly larger. It will be 120 pages, 80 for editorial use, mostly pictures, with concentration on color. It will be a monthly, not a weekly.

Life will cost $1.50, or $18 for a year's subscription. And price is one key to the magazine's resumption. A Time Inc. spokesman said that taking into account special subscription rates, the effective price for an issue of Life was 14 cents at its demise in 1972.

It also faced increased competition from television and the prospect of a 170 percent hike in postal rates in the upcoming five years. It had lost $30 million in the previous four.

Luce was dead then. But his widow, Clare Boothe Luce, said: "There is no place for something that can't survive."

So Life folded. In the 15 years prior to its doing so, Look, Colliers and the Saturday Evening Post had also gone under.

Now Life returns. And Daniel Filipacchi, publisher of the French magazine Paris Match, has purchased the rights to the name Look and promises to revive it later this year.

Most of the new magazines have been specialty publications, able to home in on readers — and advertisers — in a way that television is unable to do. The latest rage, says Tannen, is magazines on running. A year ago new magazines focused on CB radios.

But there are exceptions, general circulation magazines of the type that used to entertain the family before the advent of television. People magazine, which Tannen termed "the great success story of the industry," started with a 1 million circulation in March 1974 and has grown to 2.2 million. Us magazine followed its format.

There are several reasons for what may prove to be a re-emergence of the general interest magazine.

Tannen says simply: "People are spending a lot of time reading. There are more books being sold — paperbacks."

The Time Inc. spokesman says people's "hunger for visual information" is not being satisfied. Figures, although disputed, show that people are watching less television.

And the Time Inc. spokesman had another reason.

"We never for one minute believed there weren't people who still wanted to read Life."

City Attorneys To Give Opinion On Marshall's Settlement Offer

By PAULA TILKER
Avalanche-Journal Staff

City Manager Larry Cunningham conferred with city attorneys today to discuss a Lubbock man's offer to negotiate an agreed judgment in his lawsuit against the city, but no official legal response was drafted by noon.

Cunningham said that city attorneys are expected today to draw up a legal opinion about James Marshall's offer to withdraw his lawsuit blocking the sale of airport revenue bonds in return for stipulated conditions on the city.

City council members then will have to decide whether to bargain with Marshall, the city manager added. Acting through mediator Ray Chapman, Marshall approached Mayor Dirk West late Monday afternoon about negotiating an agreement.

In exchange for certain unspecified conditions on the city, Marshall said he will withdraw his lawsuit seeking to block the sale of $1.73 million in airport revenue bonds.

Neither side would release a copy of the demands, although Marshall supposedly provided a local television station with a copy.

In declining to release the stipulations, Cunningham said that the city wants to act in good faith with Marshall and Chapman, who asked that the demands not be made public.

The city believes its agreement is still binding even though Marshall chose to release a copy, Cunningham added.

Chapman, a realtor, did say the stipulations concern "mostly assurance of the building" of the proposed airport parking facility, which is to be financed with bond sale proceeds.

And Cunningham said one of the nine points Marshall wants is a pledge that the Airport Board and the city council would "conduct meetings according to the Open Meetings Law."

While Marshall waited in an anteroom, Chapman met with West, Cunningham, finance director Sterling Miller and city attorneys for two hours Monday afternoon.

Although no party involved in the negotiation meeting would divulge any discussion details, West said that no staff comments were expressed about the proposals, which were read by Chapman while Marshall waited outside the mayor's office.

Chapman, who said he is a long time friend to Marshall, acknowledged that he originated the idea of a negotiated settlement. He said he asked Marshall recently whether a compromise could be reached.

And when Marshall answered that he had certain conditions he would want met, Chapman said he volunteered to mediate the dispute.

West said he was unaware of the intention until he received a telephone call from Chapman about 4:30 p.m. Monday. The Realtor said he wanted to meet with West to discuss a possible out-of-court settlement, the mayor said.

In his latest of more than a dozen lawsuits, Marshall filed an injunctive motion to stop the sale of airport revenue bonds.

The bonds, which according to state enabling legislation do not have to be approved by voters, were approved by the city council on April 5, a day before Marshall filed suit.

The long time city hall critic, who lost a mayoral bid earlier this month, claims in his suit that the ordinance authorizing the bond sale was not handled properly.

According to the petition, the ordinance was not passed at "properly held hearings," the purpose of the bonds is not specified and it is "vague, indefinite and unfettered."

Furthermore, the petition says, the bonds were not sold in open council meetings, they are not "pure revenue bonds," proper sinking funds are not created, the bond interest rate exceeds 6 percent and the airport is not debt-free.

Remedies, the petition says, should include proper public hearings, detailed accountings of money and creation of sinking funds, voter approval of The petition names as defendants West, city council members Alan Henry, Carolyn Jordan, Bill McAlister, City Secretary Treva Phillips, City Attorney Fred Senter, Cunningham and Miller.

Youth Named In Beating

NEW YORK (AP) — A 12-year-old Brooklyn boy has been charged with beating a 90-year-old woman, kicking her down a flight of stairs and stabbing her in the face before stealing a television set from her apartment, police report.

Police said the youth, whose name was not revealed because of his age, pushed his 15-year-old sister in front of a subway train last February, but she was saved at the last moment by a Transit Authority police officer.

The youth's latest victim, Jennie Kelly, was reported in satisfactory condition today at St. Mary's Hospital.

Police gave this account:

The youth followed Mrs. Kelly to her third-floor apartment April 13 and tried to enter. When she resisted, he kicked her, knocking her downstairs to a second-floor landing. He then followed her down and stabbed her. As she lay bleeding and unconscious, he returned to her apartment, picked up her television and walked away.

After extensive interviews with neighborhood residents and shopkeepers, the youth was arrested Monday as he left a school for mentally disturbed children. Police said he was charged with assault, burglary, robbery and possession of stolen property.

DR. LAMB

Building Bustline

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — Hi! I am 15 years old. I'm writing because I would like to know whether or not there are special exercises I can do to help build up my bustline. If so can you please send me some instructions on how to go about it. Thank you very much. Hurry up!

DEAR READER — Don't be in such a big hurry. If you are that impatient you will not be patient enough to get the results you might get from a sensible exercise program. Some things in life take time as you will realize better as the years go by.

Regardless of what those advertisements tell you, exercises do not increase the size of the breast — yours may increase anyway at your age. The exercise simply enlarges the muscle the breast sits on and improves your posture.

The front of the chest wall is covered with muscles, the pectoralis major and pectoralis minor. To give you an idea of what you can do with these look at some of those chest muscles on the "Mr. America" types. Think of your breast on top of a muscle like Arnold Schwarzenegger has developed and you'll get the idea.

The breast is not muscle but mostly fat, but you have the same muscles he has under that breast.

Any exercise that causes the muscles over the front of the chest to contract against resistance will help develop these muscles. The forward motion as used in swimming the crawl is an example. You can lie down on the bed and hold a small weight in your hand — with your arm outstretched. Now holding the elbow straight, lift the weight up above you. This pulls on the muscles over your chest.

You can move the position of the outstretched arm from your side to above your head and all points in between. Since these muscles fan out over the chest wall this change helps work them all.

Another time-honored exercise is to put both hands together in front of you with the palms against each other and push. This too contracts the chest muscles against resistance.

For best results in building muscles over the front of the chest you want to go to a health club and use some of their equipment.

Also, don't neglect to strengthen the muscles between the shoulder blades. What does that have to do with the breasts? It helps prevent rounded shoulders. If you develop good posture with the shoulders back and don't slump, the breast line will be more prominent. And besides, a girl or boy looks better if he or she has good posture.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 53-year-old woman. I haven't menstruated for two and a half years. Is it possible to get pregnant now? I can get no satisfactory answers from my doctor.

DEAR READER — How doctors hate to answer that question. Why? Because it is often difficult to be absolutely sure. As a general rule, though, if a woman has gone through the menopause and has not menstruated for two years and is past 50, it is most unlikely that she will get pregnant. You should be safe from that worry.

For more information about the menopause, readers can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for The Health Letter number 5-12. Send your request to Dr. Lamb in care of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Jones Opposes Utility Panel

The Public Utilities Commission "should never have been established because it removes local control over utility rates," Delwin Jones, Democratic candidate for the state senate said Monday.

Jones told Avalanche-Journal editors he would fight to do away with the commission because it has caused West Texans to pay higher utility bills.

West Texans, who traditionally have some of the lowest rates in the state according to Jones, are not paying "blended rates for all the state." "Without the Public Utilities Commission, West Texans ought to be paying lower rates," he said.

Jones, a former four-term state representative, also said he would vote to reduce the state sales tax to reduce the state's budgetary surplus.

He said he would support a wellhead tax to finance public schools in Texas to take some of the burden off local taxpayers.

Jones said he voted for the Equal Rights Amendment both times it came before the Texas legislature and said he would support the amendment if the word "sex" was changed to "gender."

"I voted for it on the premise that it was for equal job responsibility and equal pay for equal work," he said.

The change in wording would prevent homosexuals from claiming they have equal rights under the amendment, he said.

Jones said achievement and experience are the biggest issues in the race. He noted that former state Rep. E.L. Short of Tahoka comes closest to Jones' eight years in the legislature with seven years and five months of service.

However, Short has been present for one less session, he said.

Short will be his major opponent in agricultural areas, Jones said. However, he predicted that the top three candidates in the five-man Democratic contest are former Lubbock mayor Morris Turner, Texas Tech University regent Don Workman and himself.

He said the 10 years candidate Jesse George was away from the district will hurt George's candidacy. And, although Jones stopped short of calling George a liberal as others have done, he did label him "more liberal" than the other candidates.

He said George's endorsement by the Central Labor Council "would lead you to say he's more liberal."

After serving four terms in the legislature, why does Jones keep running?

"I proved with my service that I have the ability to represent the people in a responsible manner," Jones said.

He said his original defeat for re-election "came about because of political conflict between me and (former Lt. Gov.) Ben Barnes over the redistricting of the West Texas congressional district."

After Jones opposed Barnes ideas on how to redistrict the 19th Congressional District, Barnes retaliated by redistricting Jones' house district so that Jones' home was in another district, he said.

Although he's been defeated at the polls five times, Jones refused to call himself a loser.

"I don't think I have a reputation as a loser," he said, noting that each time he lost by only a few hundred votes.

"I'm the strongest loser we've ever had," he said.

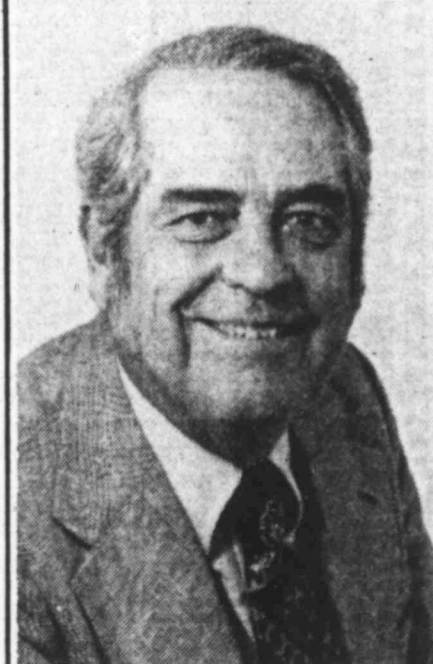

Jones said the biggest issue facing the next legislature will be taxes and predicted there will be "a strong drive to lay the groundwork for a state income tax."

He repeated his one campaign promise that he will "never vote for a state income tax."

Man's Sons Draw

For Gold Watch
PETERBOROUGH, England (AP) — Brickyard worker Thomas Hancock left seven sons and a gold wristwatch when he died at the age of 87. His will directed that his sons draw lots for the watch, a gift from his employer to mark 50 years of service.

"It was father's way of avoiding a family squabble over the watch," said Hancock's daughter, Doris. The winner of the draw was fourth son Malcolm, 55.
