Crack firefighting units battle blaze

Today is the ninth day of the fire. Forty veteran National Forest Service firefighters arrived in Fort Davis late Friday and were on the firelines by 7:30 a.m. Saturday in what was hoped to be the last day of "smoke-eating." The fire has burned a meandering path from its lightningsparked point of origin on the slopes of 8,382-foot high Mount Livermore.

But Saturday afternoon's high winds - which gusted to 30 mph gave new vigor to the fire. Slowly, the blaze has devoured an estimated 10,000 to 12,000 acres of rangeland. according to Dave Hankins of the Texas Forest Service.

As of Saturday night, the Davis Mountain Resort, 15 miles west of Fort Davis on Texas 166, appeared out of immediate danger from the fire.

"Most of the fireline there is cold said Hankins, referring to the perimeter of Skyline Ridge in Limpia Canyon. Volunteer firefighters had been busy in that area in a see-saw effort since April 2. Although the fireline has receded in this southeastern section of the Davis Mountain Range, it still is causing firefighters considerable concern. The 20-member Smokey Bear Hot Shot Team of the National Forest Service was expected to work on the fire until 10 p.m. Saturday, Hankins

The 20-member Silver City Hot Shot Team worked a fire zone three miles due west of the McDonald Observatory until 6 p.m. Saturday, Hankins said.

"They've just about got it mopped up there." Hankins commented, adding that today both crews were expected to attack the remaining fire in the southeastern section of the mountains.

Hankins noted that on Saturday there was a significant dropping off of volunteers fighting the marathon rangeland fire.

"We've only got about 80 volunteers. It had been running between 100 and 150," he said.

Perhaps the reason for the dwindling volunteer force was summarized best by Davis Mountain Resort resident Roy Scudday Friday night: "The volunteers are exhausted. Many have been fighting this thing for 20 hours a day since Sunday (April 2) and they just can't go on any more.

When firefighting efforts begin today, National Forest Service crews will be assisted by a heliocopter equipped with a "water bucket." enabling the dropping of 150 gallons of

Carter may get crude oil tax by agreeing to SS cut

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — In economic policy-making, as in gourmet cooking, the most tempting recipes sometimes are the most exoticsounding. A spurt of cognac over lean fresh ham, done the right way, can work out well on balance. And if you're out of white pepper and pulverized herbs, a healthy mixture of nutmeg, thyme and other spices can make up the difference.

So it's not too surprising that in their quest to work out the nation's delicate domestic and international economic problems, top ad-

Townley extradited

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) - Michael Townley, an American wanted for questioning in the 1976 Washington assassination of Chilean exile Orlando Letelier, was expelled by Chile Saturday and flown to the United States, handcuffed and guarded by two FBI agents.

The expulsion of the longtime Chilean resident came after the United States applied intense pressure on this country's military government.

The 35-year-old electronics expert faced immediate arrest on his arrival. The Ecuadoran Airlines flight was due in New York just before midnight Saturday.

Police put Townley, an Iowa native, on the plane just minutes before his attorney asked the Chilean Supreme Court to delay the expulsion order.

FBI sources have said Townley was sought by Washington authorities as a material witness in the Letelier case. Townley has lived in Chile since he was 14 years old. He made a public plea last week to stay in the Latin American country and denounced American efforts to have him returned to the United States.

"I ask that Chilean justice investigate me here, in my country, Chile," Townley told reporters in Santiago.

ministration officials should be mischievously eyeing a stewpot combination: A proposal to use revenues from the crude oil tax President Carter wants included in the energy bill to help finance a congressionally sought reduction in this bizarre blending. Publicly, he still is staunchly for the crude oil tax and against any cut in Social Security taxes. But he and top administration officials have been hinting privately they'd willingly swallow the combination if it ever came out of congressional kitchens. Indeed, the president has told House leaders it would be the only Social Security tax cut plan he'd find palatable.

At first glance, the recipe seems workable, if somewhat strange. The White House badly wants the crude oil tax, which has been held up for months in conference committee. And Congress is pushing for a rollback in Social Security taxes, which the president opposes. Mix thoroughly, add a dash of election year rhetoric. and everybody's happy. And Carter's much-ballyhooed tax reduction and 'reform'' package is kept intact.

There's no doubt that some sort of crude oil tax is needed. The measure is the only really effective one in Carter's energy package, and its enactment almost certainly would bolster the sagging dollar. And a good many economists can make a solid case for rolling back Social Security taxes. For one thing, the move would help slow inflation.

Backers argue that proposals would have one major advantage: It might possibly persuade some members of Congress who want to cut Social Security taxes to push for the long-stalled crude oil tax - unbottling the key provision in the year-old energy bill. Without any outside boost, the crude oil tax now seems unlikely to pass - with prospects dimming every day.

The difficulty is, while the ingredients may seem tempting enough separately, analysts say blending them together has some serious flaws from an economic standpoint that are likely to leave a bad taste for years. "This proposal has been around here for several weeks now, and it hasn't improved any with age," observes one key official involved in the planning. Economists cite these considerations: -The two proposals are basically incompatible as a financing scheme because one is designed to take in gradually less and less in revenues

City gets trace of rain

It rained for six minutes Saturday. But unless you were outside or looking out between 5:02 p.m. and 5:08 p.m., you might have missed it.

Although the 360-second 'downpour' sponged away a little dust on cars and accumulated in a few puddles, it made no measurable impression on the National Weather Service at the Midland Regional Air Terminal, a spokesman said Saturday

Saturday's rain was the first trace Midland has had since March 21. The last time measurable rain fell here was Feb. 16. So far this year there has been only .56 inch of rain, compared to 2.48 inches normal precipitation for the date, noted the weatherman.

A 30 percent chance of more rain is predicted for today and there exists a 20 percent chance of rain for tonight.

The high temperature today is expected to be in the upper 70s, with the low temperature in the mid-40s. Saturday's high temperature was 87 degrees and the overnight low Friday was 61 degrees.

Saturday's late afternoon storm brought with it Midland County's first tornado watch of the year, which was in effect from 5:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

The watch pertained to an area extending from Midland east to San Angelo and on north all the way to southwestern Kansas, the weather-

Police dog has worms

By KAY HORD

Smokey, Midland Police Department's drug dog, is temporarily out of commission with a parasitic disease that could prove fatal, Police Chief Gideon said Saturday.

Smokey, who was purchased from a Houston firm for approximately $3,000, arrived in Midland Feb. 9.

When we first got Smokey, we had a veterinarian give him a physical. During this physical, the vet discovered Smokey had heart worms. They're trying some type of treat-ment to see if they can clear it, and if not, I guess we will get another animal," Gideon said.

animal." Gideon said.
"Smokey's been at the vet's for about a week. They'll re-test him in about a week. As a last resort, there's an arsenic solution that is used in treatment, but there's a chance the animal could be cured or killed," he

The veterinarian treating Smokey said the dog came from an endemic area for heart worms, and when checked during the physical, the test showed positive results.

"We got in touch with the Houston veterinarian who treated Smokey previously. He said Smokey had been treated for heart worms, and they had never come back," the Midland vet

Scouts show many skills at exposition

Scouts and their friends and relatives by the hundreds were inside and outside the Midland County Exhibit Building Saturday afternoon.

It was Exposition 1978 for the Buffalo Trail Council, with 33 Cub packs, Scout troops and Explorer posts represented in 55 booths, according to Gerald Petty, Scout executive for Midland's Chaparral District. Scouts demonstrated all kinds of skills for the crowd, from climbing a vertical wall using a body harness to taking care of the all too realistic "body wounds" of a pretended motorcycle accident victim. The mountain climbing and rapelling exhibition was done by Scout John C. Bostwick, 13, and Roy Ranne, 17, junior assistant scoutmaster of Troop 232.

Troop 232 is sponsored by the First Baptist Church. Robert Kimball, 17, told observers how to prevent medical shock and take care of the various 'wounds' of the motorcycle accident "victim," who was Bret Crawford, 17. Both were from Troop 270, sponsored by the Elk's Lodge.

Cubmaster Bill Isom of Cub Pack 154 was in a booth called "Our Feathered Friends." He said his Cubs have been learning about the care and feeding of birds found in the Midland area. Their activities included a trip to the home of Midge Erskine, federally-licensed bird rehabilitator, to see how injured birds are rehabilitated. Out in the front yard, Troop 51 of Holy Trinity Episcopal Church demonstrated a course in survival in the wilderness. Troop 152 was also outside, giving canoe instructions and canoe rides in a water-filled trough to visitors, as other scouts crossed a rope bridge over the water. Nobody had fallen in by mid-afternoon. The troop is sponsored by First United Methodist Church.

DIRT, SQUIRT & QUIRT Pecan meeting slated Tuesday

By CHARLES W. GREEN
Midland County Extension Agent

The agricultural outlook for the West Texas area continues to dim with each passing week without rain. Dryland crop procedure can do little but wait and hope for moisture before time runs out.

Producers who have irrigation water are starting over their fields with water on what land they have ready for in preparation for planting in hopes that prices will improve enough to cover the high costs now associated with irrigation due to spiraling

Livestock producers have been steadily culling breeding herds during the last twelve months and some observers estimate that half the cattle have left the country due to the drought.

The April meeting of the Midland Pecan Grower's Association will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the County Extension Office, 218 W. Illinois St., Courthouse Annex Bldg. We have arranged to have Leon New, Extension Agricultural Engineer, Lubbock, to present a program on the irrigation needs of the pecan. This should be an interesting and informative program and the public is invited to attend.

New has had considerable experience in designing irrigation systems for the West Texas area for pecans and this knowledge should be helpful to the commercial as well as the backyard grower of Pecan trees and mesquites are leafing out in the Midland area this spring about two to three weeks earlier than usual. To some old West Texas weather observers, this means spring is here to stay with not more killing frosts. I won't argue this premise one way or the other, but the appearance of leaves on the pecan does signal that it is time to attend to nutritional needs of the trees.

Pecan trees are extremely susceptible to low supplies and quantities of zine in soils and develop zone deficiency symptoms rapidly if supplemental zinc is not applied. Research in zine nutrition on pecans suggests that foliar application is the most efficient means of supplying zinc to the tree.

The leaf of the pecan tree is the most important part of the tree because it is the center of the food (carbohydrates) manufacturing process of the plant. These carbohydrates are used in filling nuts and are instrumental in female flower formation the following spring. In order for leaves to manufacture sufficient carbohydrates for these processes, they need to achieve maximum size and dark green color. For proper formation leaves have to contain adequate

The timing of zinc sprays is very important. Sprays should be applied when leaves are young and just beginning to develop. Leaf tissue at this stage is very active and will absorb more zinc than older, or mature leaves. In addition, older leaves have a layer of wax on the surface which permits very little, if any, absorbtion or zinc.

A spray schedule which has been successfully used in West Texas on bearing trees is as follows: first application-when all buds have broken and showing green. Second application-7 days after first application. Third application-14 days after second application. Fourth application-14-21 days after third

For many years the standard source of zinc for spraying pecan trees has been zinc sulfate. In recent ears it has been determined that the addition of 32% nitrogen solution (Uran) to spray mixture aids in zinc absorption by leaves. The suggested rate of in zinc absorption by leaves. The suggested rate of this spray is 2 to 3 pounds of zinc sulfate, plus 3 pints of Uran per 100 gailons of water. (This is equivalent to 2 level tablespoons zinc sulfate and two teaspoons Uran per one gallon water).

Sprays should be applied at the time of day when humidity is highest. This would be at night or early morning. Also wind should be at a minimum. Pecan trees can be sprayed during the time of pollen shed and in fact this may aid pollination since pollen will be disseminated throughout the tree. Young non-bearing trees are sprayed on the same schedule with additional spraying at two-week intervals, until the additional spraying at two-week intervals, until the first of August. New flushes of growth definitely should be sprayed on all age trees.

Organic farmer lives on nature

By L. J. HESSBURG
CANNON FALLS, Minn. (AP) — Back-to-earth enthusiasts would flip their granola bowls over Merle Tate, 64, whose 100-year-old farm is a monument to the philosophy that "small is beautiful" and "natural

"I don't have to make a lot of money and I'm a natural organic farmer," says Tate. "This energy crunch is kind of a great thing: it teaches people simple things they can do for themselves."

The 120-acre world Tate and his wife, Relen, have scuplted for themselves is a convincing testimony to

Using only turkey manure fertilizer and no pesticides. Tate still claims healthy crop yields of wheat, corn, alfalfa and oats. His 30 cattle are fed only natural grains and allowed to graze the stubble after harvest. No chemical fatteners are pumped

The cows that graze across the farmyard near the Tates' kitchen window look as fat and sassy as any contented Elsies. On the other side of the yard a huge propeller mounted on a tower turns lazily in the

The 52-foot wind generator Tate Installed in his back yard supplies about 340 kilowatts of electrical energy a month, or roughly a third of his electrical consumption. An electric heater supplies about 5 percent of his house's heat. A quaint old woodburning stove provides about 80 percent of the home's heat and an oil heater kicks in sometimes to take up the slack.

Tate gets by on about four cords of wood a year, harvested from a 20-acre stand of hardwood on his land. He also burns used crankcase oil obtained from land. He also burns used crankcase oil obtained from area gas stations to heat his tool shop out back.

Another of his recycling schemes is to salvage bark from a local sawmill and sell it to nurseries and neighbors for organic gardening mulch.

Tate and his wife grind their own flour, and munch away all winter on homemade wheat cereal and bread. Tate also sells the brown wheat to his friends for 25 cents a pound.

Tate spent four years restoring a 1931 Model-A Town Sedan which is much more than a collector's car. Last summer the Tates drove it 3,400 miles on a 12-day tour of Western states. a trip he said was 12-day tour of Western states, a trip he said was made to research energy-saving projects.

Tate's energy-saving interests include production of methyl alcohol from vegetable material — using anything from grass to wheat stubble. The process is relatively simple to engineer and yields a high-quality automobile fuel that Tate claims is as good as

"We've got all kinds of energy; we just have to learn how to use 'em." he says. "We should study how nature works and work with it."

Riches-to-rags Rodriguez not bitter at governor

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - It's taken three months, but Joaquin Rodriguez says he's no longer bitter at Gov. Dolph Briscoe for the job suspension that shattered his comfortable.

Rodriguez, once the $21,000-a-year program director of the Governor's Office of Migrant Affairs (GOMA), and now a $2.65-an-hour shoe salesman, even plans to vote for his

He holds a faint hope of returning to his old job if Briscoe is re-elected.

Briscoe suspended Rodriguez and GOMA director Rogelio Perez with pay in early January after they took the Fifth Amendment in a Brownsville court of inquiry into alleged misuse of federal job-training money. The governor stopped their paychecks a couple of weeks later when both were indicted on charges of "tampering" with a witness in the inquiry.

"I knew at the time he had to take some action. We were public officials. People tend to think of individuals who take the Fifth as having something to hide. Being a political year, with a hard governor's race, I don't think he had any other choice."

Rodriguez said in an interview. He said when Briscoe first cut off his paycheck, he was bitter - "I had payments to make. . . Now I'm barely making the mortgage. Taxes are killing me." Yet, he said, "I will vote for Briscoe. . . . I think he has done a lot more for Mexican-Americans than the other guy"-Attorney General John Hill, Briscoe's chief opponent.

He said he expects his trial to result in acquittal, and is angry it was postponed from its original March 27

"If we come out all right in the trial, I think we will be put back on the payroll but not reinstated immediately...I would like to have my job back. I would like to be back in the governor's office. But most of all, I want my record cleared," Rodriguez

He directs his bitterness mainly toward State District Judge Darrell Hester of Brownsville, who presided over the court of inquiry.

Like Perez, he professes to see election year politics in the inquiry held by Hester, who worked closely with Hill when the attorney general was investigating alleged corruption in Duval County.

The inquiry centered on Don and Clarence Gray, officials of a Harlingen plumbers union's job training program. They have been indicted on several counts of theft.

Of his own case, he said the witness tampering charge was groundless and was based on the fact that he and Perez conversed with other witnesses from their office before testifying.

He said he and Perez' lawyer advised them to take the Fifth because the attorney had heard Hester was going to ask about "personal stuff" other than manpower contracts with the Grays.

"We took the Fifth not because we had something to hide but to spare some ridicule Hester was going to heap on us," he said. Just before the inquiry, he said, a Lower Rio Grande Valley television station had broadcast a story to the effect Perez had entrenched a woman

Hester could not be reached for friend in well-paid manpower jobs.

Rodriguez defended GOMA's record against accusations of high per trainee costs and sloppy management the latter coming from State Auditor George McNiel.

He said figures given out by the Texas Department of Community Affairs distort GOMA's costs. TDCA data says GOMA averaged $8,000 per migrant who was trained and placed

Second canal treaty 'hangs by a thread'

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter is conceding that the second of the two Panama Canal treaties "hangs by a thread" and could be killed by the Senate.

Carter made the assessment when asked about Panamanian objections to a provision allowing future U.S. intervention to keep the Panama

"Well, I think any sort of a change or unpredictable development could endanger the passage of the second Panama treaty in the Senate because it hangs by a thread," the president told a group of out-of-town newspaper editors and broadcast executives

A transcript of the interview was made public by the White House on "The support that we have is very tenuous in some instances," Carter

Panama had protested the U.S. position on intervention in a letter to United Nations Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim.

Reports also had circulated that Panamanian leader Omar Torrijos was prepared to tell Carter that the provision, which Panama believes suggests the United States would be free to interfere in its internal affairs. was unacceptable.

In his interview, Carter stressed that the United States has no intention of intervening in Panamanian affairs after Panama takes control of the international waterway.

The treaty already ratified provides for the continued neutrality of the canal after it passes to the Panamanian government in the year 2000. However, it also contains the DeConcini provision which would allow U.S. military intervention if Panama were unable to keep the canal operating.

The second treaty, due for a vote April 18, provides for the United States to relinquish the canal to Panama by the turn of the century.

over the years while the other requires increasingly larger infusions of funds. Within a few years, the revenues would disappear entirely. while the need for financing would be greater than ever.

The crude oil tax is designed to make up the difference between present domestic oil prices - which are being held down by controls and the world price, which now is substantially higher. Unless world oil prices soar unexpectedly, the crude oil tax is supposed to decline as demostic prices gradually rise.

At the same time, the growing Social Security system would need more revenues over the years. There's almost certain to be a clash.

-Contentions that the scheme might work out temporarily perhaps for a year or two, until something else can be worked out tend to overlook political realities. The oil industry, for example, has been lobbying heavily against any such melding - for fear that once the crude oil tax were linked to the Social Security program, it would never be eliminated. Many analysts see some logic in that fear.

-Even if both measures were passed, there aren't enough revenues left in the crude oil tax to finance any significant segment of the Social Security trust fund. A good portion of the planned crude oil tax receipts marked for everything from research and development to home insulation.

And Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, has said if a crude oil tax is passed, he wants a major share of the revenues to be "plowed back" to the oil companies for new exploration. The current dickering over a possible linkup with Social Security seems likely only to postpone the day of reckoning on the crud oil tax. -The linkage would set a precedent for crazy-quilt financing of the longcherished Social Security system, making it dependent on all sorts of taxes rather than a permanent - and reliable - revenue source. Removing the Medicare and disability components of the program and financing them with general income tax revenues is one thing. But analysts find it difficult to understand how Carter can be wary of that plan and not be even more nervous about the crude oil tax link.

Perhaps most important, economists say the linkup would get in the way of any serious efforts to help the ailing Social Security system by revamping its benefits formulas a step that fiscal analysts, and many lawmakers, say is necessary before the trust fund can be financially sound

The big problem facing Social Security today is that Congress has loaded it with cost-of-living adjustment formulas that commit the government - years in advance - to paying far larger benefits than the system will be able to support.

Analysts say muddling the problem with a new — and itself shaky — source of financing can only get in the way of rational decision-making over the issue. The need to raise domestic oil prices to world price levels is hoped to be only temporary. But the problems of Social Security financing

Finally, there's no guarantee the crude o'll tax would pass, even if Carter did come out publicly in favor of using it to finance a rollback in Social Security taxes. Congress seems bent on reducing payroll taxes anyway - oil tax or no oil tax - and most likely will do so.

Whether for good reason or not, the crude oil tax has had little support in the conference committee that is considering the energy bill, and there's no overwhelming evidence it week, Secretary of the Treasury W. Michael Blumenthal publicly reiterated the administration's official position that the president wants to see the crude oil tax passed and is against any change in last year's Social Security tax hike. But he left the door open to linking the two, saying if Congress passed such a measure, Carter would "consider" it.

Insiders say Blumenthal equivocated on the issue only on orders from the White House. Privately, the Treasury chief is said to think linking the two proposals is patently a bad idea. Instead, he's urged Carter to impose an oil import duty if the

The microfilaria cannot develop into adult heart worms until the infected dog is bitten by a mosquito. The microfilaria is transferred by the mosquito to a non-infected dog.

'The microfilaria in the blood stream of the infected dog will not develop into more adult heart worms. so what we do is check for microfilaria in the blood stream," the vet said.

"Smokey was treated in Houston with an arsenic solution that kills only the adult worms. We have been treating him with Dizan to kill the microfilaria. "When the tests are positive, you don't know if the adults are alive or have been killed. The Houston vet said the adults had been treated and killed. However, our tests still showed microfilaria in the blood.

"So we have one of two things happening. Either the adults are not dead and are giving off more microfilaria, or the Dizan was not effective," he said.

The veterinarian said he was trying the maximum dosage during this treatment. If the tests still are positive, Smokey will have to undergo that most commonly attached treatment again with the arsenic

> "The problem here is that, if killed, the adult heart worm acts like a blood clot and goes directly to the lung. Pneumonia also can set in very

"So it is imperative after the treatment that the dog not be subjected to any exercise for 30 days. He cannot be used for any police activity for 30 days. He's already been out (of use) for a couple of weeks, and it's beginning to restrict his usability by the Police Department because he's been out so much," the vet said.

Should the second arsenic treatment be necessary, Chief Gideon said, Smokey probably would be returned to Houston for the medication.

He also said the officer working with the dog was "just sick" over the illness. If Smokey is returned to Houston and another dog sent to Midland to replace him, Gideon said the same officer will be assigned to work with the new dog.

'We probably would have to send the officer back to Houston to retrain with the new dog, but the training would not have to be as extensive as it previously was.

"Of course, we don't know that we are going to have to have a new dog. Proper treatment may resolve the problem," he said.

"I don't think we're going to get to burn much more," Cox said of the experiment. "It's getting so dry now that we might have a pretty good (uncontrolled) fire on our hands."

The Sul Ross experiment is based on this premise: that burned grassland will produce more yield if it rains - in the seasons to come than will non-burned range land.

"The burning removes rank vegetation and increases the animal's utilization of the area." Cox said Cox, now in his first year at Sul Ross, had been a firefighter for five years in Arizona, in the Great Northwest and in Alaska for five years. The controlled grassland burning increases the soil's fertility and, thus, forage for the cattle.

On the 101 Ranch, which is covered by sacaton (grass), the burned grassland will more than triple in production, he estimated. Controlled burning of rangeland can be beneficial. And he even predicted that the uncontrolled rangeland burning on the ranches (mainly, the McIvor and Eppenauer spreads) would benefit the land, cattle and ranchers in the

Cox also said that nutrients left in the soil by the burning will increase the production of forb, a succulent broad-leaf plant rich in nutrients and favored by cattle.

Right now, Fort Davis ranchers are cursing the fire, Cox said. One of those ranchers who isn't taking too kindly to the spreading fire is Bob Eppenauer of Marfa and Fort

And on Saturday afternoon, Bob Eppenauer said he wasn't all that familiar with controlled burning for the soil's benefit.

"I don't know anything about that smart snuff," he said. "You'll have to ask dad." His father, however, was somewhere on the range checking out the fire's progress. Cox sympathized with the ranchers.

Their real problem now is they don't have enough forage left to carry them into the rainy season," which usually is July, August and September, he said. Furthermore, Cox said that under "no circumstances" would he recommend setting grass fires in the mountainous upland range country that's only accessible by foot or horseback. The Sul Ross experiment is on flat land. Fire lanes are cut between burned areas and non-burned areas. Cox wants his students to study the difference a fire will make.

The burning, which may increase grass production up to four times that of non-burned range land, is, in part, a

EPA water rules to cost Texas

EDITOR'S NOTE — However well-intentioned, the federal government has imposed, and is proposing, water regulations that could cost Texasn millions of dollars. The noble goal is safe, high quality drinking water. But there are problems, as in most bureaucratic schemes. A special report, fifth in a series on Texas water.

By MIKE COCHRAN

DALLAS (AP) — With fire in his eye, Charlie Downing invaded a federal water hearing the other day and told 'em what he and Eagle Pass think of the bureaucracy.

Charlie used a "hell" or two, one "dinky," and "inconclusive" and a ringing "ludicrous."

He came in the name of the Eagle Pass Water

Works System, but he apparently spoke the language of water officials from all sections of the state.

It was not a pleasant moment for the handful of people from the Environmental Protection Agency.

people from the Environmental Protection Agency.
But others in the packed conference room applauded.
"What we need, Charlie, is more people like you

"What we need, Charlie, is more people like you getting up there and telling it like it is," said one who agreed with Charlie's comments.

Downing traveled to Dallas from his city on the Texas-Mexico border to protest governmental insensitivity and the costs of such federal indulgence. His was a $900 complaint, but others at the hearing voiced multi-million dollar concerns.

The controversy involves the Safe Drinking Water Act and proposed new regulations affecting the lives of virtually all Texans, at least indirectly.

But first, Charlie's story:
Due to a mechanical failure compounded by human error, the Eagle Pass water system exceeded the EPA's turbidity requirement for two days, its first violation in 20 years.

"We reported ourselves," Downing said ruefully of the discoloration.
"In enforcing the EPA regulations, the State Department of Health required us to notify all customers by mail, which we did as fast as we could.

"Next, we received a letter from EPA requiring us to place advertisments in the local newspaper, a weekly, and on the local radio station."

This, said Charlie, was an "exercise in futility, as it was wasted on the people."

He said the 5,000 notifications produced but 10 inquiries, most demanding to know: "What the hell are you talking about?"

Although the water was bacteriologically pure, he said, "We were required to expend some $900 of the rate payers' moneys to inform them that a portion of rate-payers' moneys to inform them that a portion of the water was slightly discolored."

The federal government may consider $900 insignificant but, by golly, the Eagle Pass Water System does not. "It was a blow to our tight budget," Charlie grumbled.

After the hearing, he told a reporter, "It's the impersonality of the whole thing ... The truth is, what you're really fighting is the federal bureaucracy."

Whatever, hundreds of Texas water systems fail to meet EPA standards under the Safe Drinking Water Act of 1974. The act directed the EPA to adopt national drinking water regulations applicable to all public water supplies.

More than 500 Texas water systems were found to contain excessive chemical pollutants, predominantly fluoride. They have until 1981 to demineralize or seek alternate sources.

predominantly fluoride. They have until 1981 to demineralize or seek alternate sources.

Just how dangerous fluoride might or might not be is debatable, but the cost of ungrading the offensive is debatable, but the cost of upgrading the offensive systems is fixed roughly at $25 million. re small systems, many of them in tiny towns without access to federal funds.

"If people can't afford it, you can't put a whole town in jail," said David Cochran, chief of the Texas Department of Health's Bureau of Environmental Health.

The health department is the EPA enforcement agency in Texas.

"Usually, when a city doesn't do something about the problem, it's because it doesn't have the money," Cochran said. "We haven't found answer to that.

"Towns are different than industries, which can be fined. But if you take the towns into court and fine 'em, you've kind of compounded the problem. We're not really to that point yet."

But as Charlie Downing pointed out, the EPA's customer notification requirement can be a frustrating, time-consuming and relatively expenchore.

At Goldthwaite, a town of 1,700 in Central Texas. City Manager Dale Allen said the health department "jumped down our throats" last October, contending the city should inform its people that the water there was unsafe.

Allen admits the turbity level exceeded acceptable EPA levels but added, "The people have been drinking it for 15 years and it hasn't hurt them yet."

Nevertheless, the city was given a year to clean up the water.
"I don't really blame the health department, but I do blame the EPA ... Our people feel the federal government, the EPA, is pushing us a little too far,"

Allen said.

He said 60 percent of the Goldthwaites population is 65 or older and on a fixed income. "Elderly people can't afford to pay the cost of this," he said.

"I don't know how we're going to solve this yet.

We've go to get federal or state money. We're looking at the possibility of matching funds."

"It's hard for a small town to operate with all the federal rules and regulations."

Allen said faceless government officials "come up with all these things and they don't figure what it's going to cost the small towns."

Allen and others in similar dilemmas contend the people simply do not know, or care, about the EPA.

TEN GOOD REASONS WHY YOU OR SOMEONE YOU LOVE SHOULD LIVE AT LEISURE LODGE.

HAPPINESS. Everyone has the inalienable right to the pursuit of happiness. And for many of us, as we grow older, true happiness comes from being around people our own age — people with whom we can enjoy conversation, reminiscences, our real feelings — people who understand.

comfort. At Leisure Lodge, we recognize that we are all individuals; everyone is different, and has different needs. Thus, we make every possible effort to see that these needs are met — from turning a thermostat up or down, locating a more comfortable chair, opening the drapes, or closing the drapes — or whatever it takes.

COMPANIONSHIP. We think one of the best reasons for living at Leisure Lodge is knowing that there will always be someone to be with; someone like you (or perhaps someone different, if you prefer.) At Leisure Lodge, you're alone only when you want to be — and we think that's awfully important.

LOVE. That's what living at Leisure Lodge is all about. From the Nurses, to the Aides, to the Cooks, to the Administrators — and certainly, from one guest to another, our home is filled with love. It always will be. Because that's what makes it a home. And we wouldn't have it any other way.

FOOD. There just isn't any better food anywhere. Hot, home-cooked meals, as much as you want, planned and supervised by a dietician, and prepared with love. (We eat here, too, you know, and we eat the same food as our guests.) Strict attention is paid to special diets. Everyone gets what he or she needs; no one gets what they shouldn't have. And usually, with older people, that's not true in even the best of private homes.

CLEANLINESS. We take special pride in making Leisure Lodge shine. Every part of our home is cleaned daily — and you know how important that is, when it comes to preserving good people's good health, at any age. Linens are always clean and fresh, and our guests' personal laundry is done right here in the home, at no charge.

ECONOMY. You might think it costs a lot of money to live here — but it doesn't. In fact, it doesn't cost a bit more to live at Leisure Lodge than at any other home. We're approved by the State Welfare Department for Medicaid — and of course, we're licensed by the State Health Department. Yet the fact is, you can probably live here for less than you can live at home.

ACTIVITIES. Want something to do? Want to have fun, with people your own age? Come to Leisure Lodge, and you've come to the right place! Our Activities Director has more ideas than fifteen computers! There's always something going on. And you'll love it!

NURSES. Ours are the very best anywhere. Bar none! We think so, anyway, and we'd bet you will, too. They care for our guests. They see to it that the proper medications are given, at the proper time. And baths, and shots, and all the other things. But, most of all, they like what they're doing, and they love our guests. And they always remember that a smile, and a cheerful greeting, are sometimes the very best medicine of all!

THERAPY. It comes in all types. Not just in helping people learn to use limbs that have grown weak, or to do things for themselves. We do that, of course, but we do other things, too, that may be even more important. Like making people feel good inside. At Leisure Lodge, we really do care.

Dedication of new building at Midland College set

Acclaimed by visitors for its beauty and functional design, the new Midland College Fine Arts Building will be formally dedicated during ceremonies at 11 a.m. Monday.

"The Fine Arts Building is the final physical facility necessary to handle all our academic and vocational programs at present. The only construction still under way on the campus now is the Chaparral Center. which is designed both for college and community events,' college President Dr. Al G. Langford said.

Making the dedicatory speech will be Texas Secretary of State Steven Oaks. The Midland College choir is expected to perform during the ceremonies.

As part of the opening of the new building, an art show has been assembled in the gallery, featuring paintings by Fritz Scholder and Bill Schenck and ceramics by Paul Soldner. Also on display are paintings by college art faculty members and selected works by former college

The formal opening is one of two special events on the campus Monday. Preceding the dedication is the grand opening of the Lyndon Baines in the Learning Resource Center with Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson scheduled to cut the ribbon.

The public is invited to attend both

Included in a $6.3 million bond issue in February 1976, the Fine Arts Building provides 16 general purpose classrooms, some of which contain conventional student desks. Others have chairs and trapezoidal tables that allow for flexible seating arrangements. Classes in sociology, psychology, anthropology, drama and speech already have begun meeting

Another wing is being used by art and journalism classes. Two large art laboratories are separated by a storage and preparation area. One of the laboratories can be divided by a moveable wall to make it possible for two classes to meet simultaneously. Lockers and storage areas are provided for student use to protect supplies and art work.

The other art laboratory is designed for use by ceramics and art metals classes. Adjacent to this room is an outdoor ceramics court with ample space for kilns and underground

A third room currently is being used as a classroom for weaving.

Also incorporated into this wing is space for a future architectural drawing studio. Journalism and student publications with darkrooms for developing, loading and processing film and several faculty offices are located in this wing.

All three entranceways to the building lead to a central gallery which is designed as a lobby and a showplace for student, faculty and touring art shows. All walls there are carpeted in a neutral color to provide backgrounds for paintings and three-dimensional works. The floor is covered with paver brick, accented with two carpeted areas with couches, chairs and tables for relaxation.

Included in the central portion of the building is a 258-seat lecture hall with stage. Stowaway writing tables are included in each seat.

Other features of the central area are a choir rehearsal room, string laboratories rehearsal area, band practice room, storage areas, radio studio, piano laboratory, music theory laboratories, individual practice rooms and faculty offices.

Lady Bird to be among guests at Midland College ceremonies

Mrs. Lyndon B Johnson and Secretary of State Steven Oaks will be honored guests at the formal openings of the Lyndon Baines Johnson Educational Forum and the new Fine Arts Building Monday at Midland College.

Mrs. Johnson is expected to cut the ribbon during the ceremony to open the LBJ Forum, a teaching and research center, at 10 a.m. in the Learning Resource Center. She will be assisted by Mrs. J. Howard Hodge of Midland, a longtime friend of the Johnson family and the person who conceived the idea of the forum.

Oaks is scheduled to opening ceremony at 11 22, 1973. a.m. in the Fine Arts Building. The public is invited to both

Republicans in black, Democrats in debt, according to FEC report

By DON MeLEOD AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Democrats are even deeper in debt than they had feared while blican coffers continue to swell, according to a Federal Election Commission report on 1977 political

The FEC's report, released Saturday, also shows rapid growth of political action committees formed by special interest groups. These committees took in some $33.2 million last year, almost as much as both the major parties combined.

The new figures were based primarily on quarterly reports filed with the commission through Dec. 31, but also took into account monthly reports through

At year's end, the Democratic Party had bills amounting to some $2.67 million, more than twice what it had on hand, compared with a surplus of $9 million for the GOP.

The commission said the Republican National Committee raised and spent $16.9 million during the year, compared with $6 million for the Democratic National Committee

The Republican House and Senate campaign committees raised $10 million during the same period while their Democratic counterparts took in only $1.3 million.

Total adjusted receipts for all national-level Republican groups were $28.2 million, with disbursements of $25.7 million, contributions of $900,000 to its candidates and debts of $420,000. Counting reserves and funds carried over from the previous year, the GOP had $9.4 million cash on hand in early 1978, the report said.

All national-level Democratic groups, by contrast, raised a combined total of $7.9 million last year, disbursed $7 million, gave only $29,000 to its candidates and wound up with only $1.2 million cash on hand against a $2.67 million debt.

Thursday, March 16, 1978, News Conference

Good morning. I called this news conference to discuss the voluntary surrender of Bob Krueger to the major oil companies. Tell us now, Congressman Krueger. Just how much are you indebted to the major oil companies? The voters are entitled to know how much claim they have on you. I say you are their puppet, their captive. You are trapped by them, oiled by them, greased to them and greased by them.

And we know a man can't be down in a vat of oil and not come out slippery and

If Bob Krueger, because of his effective leadership on behalf of the consumers and producers of energy in Texas, is defeated by this anti-energy and anti-business rhetoric, then no politi-

Let's show our support for Bob Krueger, a man of integrity and courage.

Thanks, 'Pink Ladies'

What would Midland Memorial Hospital do without its Women's Auxiliary, Inc.? Or rather, what would hospital patients do without the MMH Pink Ladies?

Well, in the first place the hospital simply could not afford to employ all the extra help which the auxiliary provides. And the patients would have to do without many of the services which the auxiliary members provide.

Fortunately, however, it isn't a question of having to do without in either case, thanks to the thousands upon thousands of hours donated to the hospital on a continuing basis, day after day and year after year by the Pink Ladies.

Last year, for instance, 148 active auxiliary members worked a total of 29,950 volunteer hours. including board meetings. planning sessions and assisting with the absentee voting for the hospital district last September.

This figure, according to Midland Memorial Headliner, a publication of the hospital's employees, is equal to more than 14 full-time employees and at minimum wage, would have cost MMH in excess of $77,000 in wages alone, without fringe benefits.

And this isn't all they contributed. They gave more than $30,000 for the purchase of patientoriented equipment.

This really is something, isn't it? Something most of us take for granted. Yet it represents hours of hard labor and sacrificial giving on the part of the volunteers in many instances.

And why do they do it? That's easy to answer. They do it because they care for and desire to serve others. This is a marvelous spirit - a spirit of devotion to a most worthy mission.

The Pink Ladies are bound to gain a degree of personal satisfaction from their volunteer labors, certainly, but the hospital patients are the ones who really benefit.

They and all residents of Midland and vicinity are indebted to the Pink Ladies of the Women's Auxiliary of Midland Memorial Hospital for caring and for serving in this particular field.

CHARLEY REESE:

Results of functional literacy tests revealed

By CHARLEY REESE Sun Belt Syndicate

ORLANDO, Fla. - Florida, like several other states, recently mandated functional literacy tests as a pre-requisite to graduating with a high school diploma.

Black students didn't do well. Only 23 percent passed the math portion and only 74 percent, the communications part. Predictably, as has happened in other states, civil rights leaders are claiming the tests are culturally biased.

While I can understand their defensiveness. I think these adults are on the wrong track and are doing a disservice to black children.

Cultural bias is a cop-out. It is stupid to say that a child cannot compute the number of square feet in a rectangle because the problem is expressed in terms of a swimming pool and black children can't relate to swimming pools. That particular question, by the way, was deleted from the Florida tests in deference to black protests.

Cultural bias, as near as I can make out, boils down to the fact that many black children are not as skilled in language use as other ethnic groups. Therefore they have trouble comprehending the questions. I think it is proper and valid to say that this would distort the results of an intelligence

But a functional literacy test does not measure intelligence. It is designed to measure the very thing that is called cultural bias - the ability to read and comprehend language as well as the ability to make simple computations.

The problem is language. Black leaders claim the language is "white upper middle class." They are right It is. That just happens to be the language the nation's business is conducted in and black children must learn it for the same reason Hispanics, Orientals, and other immigrants to the U.S. must learn it.

They must learn it for the same reason that we would have to learn Chinese or Russian or French if we expected to live, work and succeed in societies in which those were the dominant languages.

To argue that the world must accommodate itself to our local dialect and idioms is nonsense. The world will do no such thing. And it has nothing to do with race or bigotry. An American black who emigrated to a black African nation would be faced with precisely the same problem - he would have to make his language conform to theirs. Tests given in Swahili would have a cultural "bias" against anyone whose native language was not Swahili.

I don't know why so many black leaders are sensitive about the fact that many black children are not as skilled in standard English as white children. Language skill says nothing about a person's intelligence or worth. It merely reflects recent history

For the past two centuries, the great majority of blacks have been forced by law and custom, especially in the South, into jobs that were largely manual and required no verbal skills.

Is it any surprise that children emerging from generations of poverty, from generations of poor or non-existent education, from generations which were forced to rely on their backs instead of their heads to make a living are not as skilled in language use as children who emerge from generations of the opposite conditions?

Of course not. Nor is it any reflection on the children or their abilities or their potential. But it is an obstacle to their ability to make a living and it should be overcome, not denied or excused or run from.

Children who can't read or write don't need a high school diploma. They need to be taught to read and write. Do these civil rights leaders actually believe that a child with a diploma who can't read is going to be able to compete with a child with a diploma who can?

I think some of these leaders, for the sake of their own egos, are sacrificing the welfare of the children. A black graduate faces enough problems without the extra burden of an unsound education.

And they don't get a sound education if their failures are excused on political or racial grounds or if they are told that unlike every other ethnic group they can retain their dialect and slang and still function in a world that is upper middle class and

Martin Luther King was one of the most eloquent speakers and writers in this century. Does the fact that he spoke and wrote in "white upper middle class" English make him an Uncle Tom?

Without literacy tests, the public schools will continue to grind out graduates who have diplomas but no education and without true education. the whole civil rights movement is for

CAPITAL GAMES:

Yes, OSHA is still picking at nits

By GRACE-MARIE ARNETT Copley News Service

WASHINGTON - One of the Carter administraton's most heralded efforts to cut unneeded government regulation is snarled in its own red

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) announced last December that it was following up on President Carter's promise to cut federal regulations by eliminating 1.100 "nit-picking and picayune" rules from its books. Although a careful examination of the discarded rules showed the cuts governments are actually "wars were primarily cosmetic and left most of OSHA's regulations untouched, the OSHA publicity blitz was successful. Newspapers editorialized, senators delivered floor speeches and citizens wrote the agency to praise the "new OSHA" for seeing the light.

But now the cosmetic cuts are ensnarled in red tape of their own.

An innocuous press release from OSHA announced the comment period for saying one thing when they for the proposal to revoke the 1,100 rules has been extended from 60 to 120 Why, just a matter of style, of days after "several interested parties requested more comment time."

The reason: Many individuals and companies want OSHA to keep the "Government regulations are a very good way of introducing new merchandise into the market," said John Proctor, deputy director of OSHA's safety standards program.

Once product lines are developed to provide the equipment firms need to comply with "safety standards," then private companies have a vested nterest in keeping the rules on the

Hale Color Consultants in Baltimore, for example, wrote "OSHA is very foolish in seeking to revoke these portions of their regulations" which require that safety signs be color coded.

And the Oklahoma Petroleum Equipment Institute wrote to protest that OSHA was proposing elimination of a rule that requires service stations to use automatic devices to hold fuel pump nozzles open. The company manufacturers the nozzles and believes the government should continue to make them mandatory.

And some bakeries are protesting OSHA's eliminating the whole set of rules governing their industry. (OSHA said the separate rules were unnecessary because bakeries can be regulated under the same regulations governing general industry.)

'Nobody trusts us," Proctor said. 'The bakers want to go very slowly on this to make sure they are not going to be worse off if they are covered by the general standards. Proctor predicted the backlash.

"Our new manager went on a crusade to clean up our standards and change OSHA's image," he said. "They didn't consult the veterans they thought we were part of the problem, and we are - and now we're running into snags.

Proctor predicted at least half of the 1,100 proposed rule cuts, which cover bakeries, laundries and cooperages, will run into serious obstacles. He says one-fourth of them eventually will be retained, and the fate of another one-fourth will be fought out in the courts. Because of the delays and extension, it will be this summer at the earliest before any of the proposed changes can go into

OSHA provides a case study of the problems and defeats the Carter administration are encountering in trying to reform the government as many agency heads find their illusions turned into delusions.

Mark Russell says

Once again the government has sheepishly announced that it is having trouble spending money. Well then, let's find the penny-pinchers and get rid of them.

The Budget Office, speaking fluent federalese, says the deficit will be smaller "due to downward revisions in outlay estimates." This is called accidental thrift.

A spokesperson in the office of 'Washington Over-Outlay of Public Spending" (WOOPS) says, "We need big league spenders here. This is no place for the faint of heart."

We the people, in order to form a more perfect deficit, were promised a half a trillion dollar budget and by golly we're going to get it.

So join my crusade, "Save Our Deficit." With the money we will go out and beat the bushes recruiting the kind of wastrels and deadbeats it takes to get America back off its feet.

NICK THIMMESCH Problems at CETA involve the drones and the bees

ople of America who pay money to federal government which turns around and gives a fair amount to in-creasing numbers of people who are up against it, or who claim that they can't make it in our society.

Most of us want to help people who are up against it — dependent children, the sick, aged and infirm. More and more of us are becoming disgusted with the other group, and resent giving our money to those who-complain, won't try or refuse to develop self-respect.

Mid-April is the time of the taxpayer, a time to remember how federal money is spent, and to make a mental note for next fall when candidates are running for office. Next fall, ask them about the Comprehenfall, ask them about the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA), now being investigated in several states and cities.

Ask them why CETA money was spent by city councilmen to pad their personal staffs; why aspiring ballerinas were paid $145 a week from these funds to improve their careers: ballerinas were paid $145 a week from these funds to improve their careers; how come CETA funds were used to cover people's ball money, fines and bad raps. Ask all these, and also whether they think it is right for CETA to fund "activist" groups — gay organizations. militant women's groups — as part of public service training.

CETA's 1978 budget is $8 billion, and President Carter wants to hike it to $11.4 billion next year. Its purpose is to train unskilled people, to improve them and the community.

Hatched in the Nixon years, and funded in President Ford's Administration, CETA's basic premise was that local authorities know best where training and education money should be spent. Nixon, Ford and a whole gang of Republicans had long argued that "Big Brother" in Washington didn't know what was agton didn't know what was good for the people back in Peoria.

But no matter how well intentioned any plan is, human beings are fallible and so is CETA. Thanks to some firstrate reporting by the Washington Star we have learned that the misuse of CETA funds allowed the District of Columbia City Council to triple its staff; put political pals on the payroll. ng a councilwoman's son and the wife of a dentist who presumably makes good bucks already. Despite these irregularities, the Department of Labor is granting the District of Columbia an additional $1 million this year for creation of even more CETA

In Alexandria, Va., CETA paid the bail and fines of a man charged with a crime because he was in a city jobs program; and also paid $175 in fines for a woman charged with driving her car without insurance.

In nearby and rich Montgomery County, nine young dance "trainees" are being paid $145 a week from CETA to improve their ballet skills. One young woman, 23, said this bonanza allowed her to quit the parttime jobs she worked at to pay for her previous lessons.

The decisions to pay these monies are made in the offices of mayors. county executives and governors. That means they can be political decisions, though federal regulations prohibit that. It also means that activist groups can write rational applications and get funded.

In Los Angeles, $640,000 in CETA money is marked to help gays find jobs and to teach the public about gay lifestyles and problems. In Rochester, N.Y., the Gay Alliance of Genesee County got a $35,000 grant - though it took a city council debate - to improve the lives and opportunities of the local gay community. Midge Con-stanza. President Carter's omsbudsperson, spoke out publicly for the gay request when she was in Rochester, her hometown. Maybe her advocacy isn't illegal, but isn't it

In New York, the National Congress of Neighborhood Women got enough CETA money to pay the salaries of 243 staffers of their group, the National Gay Task Force, and the militant National Organization for Women.

The justification for funding activists is that their projects ostensibly provide job training - in their cause, of course - and improve their employment opportunities.

Are we coming to the day when there will be more drones than worker bees in our society? One recent report claims that today there are more people receiving checks from the U.S. government than there are people paying money into the federal government. Ask the candidates about that next fall, too.

Texas actually has, de facto if not de jure, a selection system of sorts where appointments are recommended to the governor for vacant judgeships, with the legal profession doing the recommending.

And when a vacancy on an appeals court, or state Supreme Court, or Court of Criminal Appeals, occurs, the candidate or appointee usually has the blessing of at least a goodly number of his colleagues. Still, the ultimate decision lies with the voters, however well or illinformed they may be about a particular candidate.

Vollers has taken up that theme. and has hinted that his opponent may be trying to use a famous name to pick up support at the polls from voters who aren't familiar with the qualifications of the candidates.

Clinton says he's running on his professional expertise and background. So, Vollers says, is he.

Nylons, candy beat bills

WASHINGTON - I've been giving a lot of thought to the dollar lately. Depending on what paper you read, the dollar is sick, sagging, sinking or collapsing under its own weight.

It wasn't always like that. For years after World War II, the dollar commanded respect in every part of the globe. It was the golden age for Americans and we were sought after, flattered, admired and seduced by people dealing in less vaunted currencies. None of us ever dreamed that some day the dollar would be treated in Europe and Japan as a terminal case.

What went wrong? I discussed this the other day with Alain, a French friend, who believes the loss of confidence in the dollar started shortly after the war ended.

He told me, "It wasn't the dollar we were so interested in at that time as American cigarettes, nylon stockings and Hershey bars. If you recall, back then the Europeans were much more interested in bartering for those items than they were in acquiring money. We were perfectly willing to continue taking your cigarettes, nylons and Hershey bars in exchange for lodging, food and favors. But your government forced the dollar on all of us, and we took in so many of them over the years that we finally said, 'Enough is enough.

"Are you trying to say that if the Americans had stuck to cigarettes. nylons and Hershey bars, the dollar wouldn't be in trouble today?"

"Of course. Europeans have an insatiable appetite for cigarettes, nylons and Hershey bars. But when you've seen one dollar you've seen them all.

"We were willing to go on forever giving you anything you wanted if you had stuck to bartering. But your leaders insisted that the only answer to communism was to flood our countries with dollars. What you forgot is that Europeans have always had more faith in chocolate than we have had in our money.

argument. The Europeans started to make their own cigarettes, nylons and candy bars after the war. We would have had to devalue ours as your production increased."

"We only went into the cigarette, nylon and chocolate bar business after our sources of these goodies dried up. In Germany, France and Italy you discouraged your GIs from using cigarettes as currency. You told them if they waved nylons or Hershey bars under our noses they would be considered ugly Americans. But we never thought that way. A carton of cigarettes, or a pair of stockings, or a Hershey bar with almonds in it is something a person never forgets."

"Would you advise the United States to get off the dollar kick and go back to trading in those particular

Harmony needed

To The Editor:

The citizens of Midland County last Tuesday viewed the utter disregard that our three Democrat county commissioners. Charlie Welch. Durward Wright and Jack Leonard. have for the citizens of Midland. First, with a straight face, they announced they would have a public meeting so that the input of all interested citizens and candidates for the job of county judge could be heard. The so-called testimony or public input by independents, Democrats and Republicans alike was overwhelmingly in favor of the appointment of a non-candidate to act as county judge until the general election in November. There was an illusion put forth that the commissioners were interested in what the citizens had to say.

It should be obvious that a deal had been consummated behind closed doors to have this office filled by young Mr. Hansen if he would only file for this office. Frankly, citizens of Midland deserve better representation than has been reflected by this. charade.

Maybe this is what we should expect, if we remember what happened back in 1971. Mr. Wright and Mr. Welch were county commissioners at that time. That was when the state Legislature passed the infamous redistricting bill which divided Midland County into two legislative districts extending from Abilene to Presidio.

This was cheered by the Democrat representative.

It was said that any Democrat, even from another county, would be better than a Republican. Mr. Welch and Mr. Wright did everything in their power to undermine the lawsuit which was filed by citizens of Midland County to challenge the constitutionality of the plan. Thank God, the Supreme Court of Texas ruled the bill to be unconstitutional. It was so flagrant that no appeal to that decision was allowed by the Supreme Midland, in its growth over the past few years, deserves better representation than it is now receiving. Evidently the times have passed these commissioners by, and the political approach can no longer accepted. Midland needs a balanced court, it needs harmony and unity of purpose.

Thanks for aid

To The Editor:

I cannot begin to express my gratitude and heartfelt thanks to the people in Midkiff who came to our aid when we needed help. To the men who made shade for my son, the one that brought a pillow, the little girl that brought ice and cold water to drink, the man from the gas company who gave him oxygen.

I wish to take this opportunity to say thank you from the bottom of my heart. You are wonderful. Also to the paramedics from Midland that came out to bring him back to the hospital

Junkets' reasons?

To The Editor:

Mr. Carter's two million dollar trip. the first of this year, established the fact that a turkey can fly, so now that the Voters' Mistake has taken off on another costly foreign junket, one must look for his reasons. Mr. Carter gave as a reason for this trip the importance of getting to know, and becoming known, personally to and by foreign heads of state. Given Mr. Carter's propensity for lying, one can discount this reason Besides, the worst thing that could happen would be for foreign heads of state to get to know Mr. Carter as well as his subjects know him. Of course, Amy has never traveled to foreign countries before - that might be one reason; another reason may be that court can once again be established. the trip is free to him.

The main reason is probably the fact that it gives Mr. Carter a respite from facing the problems he is incompetent to handle. He is like the person who cannot manage his own affairs, but is always ready to give others advice on how to manage theirs. It is reminiscent of Nixon's running off to Egypt when the fires of Watergate were about to ignite his

If Jimmy Carter has any managerial skills (he has not shown any yet), it seems reasonable for the citizens of this nation to expect him to stay here and employ these skills for the benefit of those who elected him. Perhaps, upon reflection, we might be better off if Carter were president of Panama. Then he might work to let us keep our canal.

Foe congratulated

To The Editor:

I wish to congratulate Mayor Angelo on his victory, and to ask all Midlanders to support our mayor in his sincere efforts to do the best for Midland.

I want to thank all those who supported me through their time, money and votes. The people of Midland are also to be congratulated for their concern for their community. Again, thank you all. Darryl Kersey

Demo shenanigans' Shocked at fine

To The Editor:

In addition to recent publicized shenanigans, the Democrat county commissioners were involved in other efforts which further cheapened the integrity of local government.

They proposed to Republican Party officials various deals just before the 1978 filing deadline. One proposal was that Judge Culver would be appointed to the district court by Gov. Briscoe. Further consideration for this deal was that Judge Ahders would change his filing from county judge to that of Midland County Court-at-Law. Assurance was given that he would have no opposition.

The last and almost humorous, although outrageous, part of the plan was that the remaining Democrat county commissioners would then fill the county judge vacancy with one of their own, Mr. Durwood Wright. As everyone knows, Mr. Wright has no legal experience nor is he a licensed attorney Frankly, I had hoped that young

Mr. Blake Hansen, as a member of the Texas and Midland bar associations, would not make himself a party to the recent deceit on our citizens. I hope that he would say 'No." That he would say, "Let's let the Midland Bar Association consider the qualifications of various attorneys and make recommendations to the county commissioners. Let's put the best interests of the citizens of Midland before the political ambitions of any one group.'

It is hoped that these actions will not be forgotten on Nov. 7, 1978, and that "the rascals" will be turned out and respect for the commissioners

Actions speak

To The Editor:

No matter what we say about our belief in God and in love and peace. what we do always affects us more strongly. Year after year, our school board has scheduled the spring break to begin either Friday before Easter and run the week after or to begin the week before on the weekend of Palm Sunday and end Tuesday after Either way, Easter, the celebration of Resurrection and the highlight of the Christian calendar, becomes a vacation date.

Likewise, Holy Week, the week when Christians gather in prayer, meditation, and eucharist, anticipating the death and resurrection of Christ, loses its solemnity to the ski slopes and days of travel.

I realize this is a values choice to be made by families. Every Christian family certainly has the option of staying within their home congregations and celebrating this Holy Season. In fact, if we did, spring break during Holy Week would be an advantage to the spiritual growth of churches. But few of our members seem to value Holy Week, or even Easter as being that important. This is where our churches have failed.

In order to help our families and our churches to choose to participate in services in their home churches during the Holy Week and Easter, would you, the school board please change the spring break to a week that intentionally does not coincide with Holy Week-Easter?

Such a move on your part would assist families in choosing to participate at least in evening services during Holy Week and hopefully encourage us all to focus our minds and hearts upon the most crucial event and person in the life of humanity and all creation. Your action on this matter will be eternally appreciated.

Rev. Larry Grimm Minister of Christian Nurture The First Presbyterian Church

Lively election!

To The Editor:

Just a word to say "Thank You" for our pre-election news coverage. I thought you gave excellent and impartial information in a series of articles, focusing, in turn, on the several contests for elected officials.

And, if I may say so, your editorial opinion — in opposition to the council endorsement of the Crier Park issue — made for a lively election. Midland did turn out to vote despite record heat of almost 100 degrees

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

I was so shocked to learn that the courts of this city have assessed a $200 fine on one of the principals of our schools for killing birds that, under these conditions, were pests. I felt there was a better way to destroy them, but that is beside the point. The point is he was trying to protect the health and safety of the citizens of Midland's children and yet he was punished for it.

If this condition existed over the emergency entrance of the hospital, would it be allowed or would they be destroyed? And if they were destroyed, would the person or persons be prosecuted for doing so? I can name many, many things this could apply to but I do not have the space to go through them all. I find it hard to believe that the people of this city to be so narrow-minded as to allow this... It appears to me a minority group is dictating to us that human health and safety is immaterial as long as we do not destroy birds, even though they are pests.

The schools have cafeterias preparing food for children to eat. I would like to ask, would you eat food prepared in these surroundings? Also. is the school board going to hire a custodian to keep these bird droppings cleaned up at the taxpayers' expense? If not, suppose some child or visitor of the school slips and falls in this. If this should happen, I am sure there would be liability suits to

I did not realize that there were people in Midland that had so little to do that they could rubble through

The citizens of Midland should respond to this and overturn this outrageous decision. I cannot believe the courts would consider such an outrageous charge, much less assess a punishment on the person.

If the citizens of Midland do not respond to this, then just maybe it's not such a great city after all.

I am listing my name, home address, and phone number. You can contact me if you feel you must.

Green machine

To The Editor:

Recently there was an editorial in this paper about the green machine of Greenwood. I would like to apologize to the group of people that the article was about, for they knew what they wanted and knew how to get it. They showed up at the election poll to prove

What I am saying now goes to those that will sit back and expect a few good people to carry or try to carry their load.

You are the ones that run to the school about everything you don't like, from how it is run to trying to get the superintendent fired. Well, from the way the last election went, you don't have a thing to say about how things are run at the school. You didn't even take time to vote or to even get yourself registered to vote.

The next time one of the little dictators on the school board tells you if you don't like the way things are run in the community or school to move. I think it would be a good idea for you to hook up and move on because, friend you blew it on April 1st. You had a chance to elect a man that was for everyone in the community, but you failed your children and yourself by not going to vote.

The person that says he does not want to get involved in the system is the one that is doing all the griping about the school and the way it is run The next time you get mad and call the school or go over there and jump on the teachers, think first, for I don't believe you have any right to say or do anything about the system. Remember one thing, the system is no better than you make it.

You have a full year before the next election to get yourself registered to vote and to find you someone to represent you in the next school election. Remember one thing, you can help the ones that are trying to carry your load too, or you can leave as some others have, for I guess it was just too much for them to vote.

POSITIVE THINKING 'Be strong and of good courage; be not . . .'

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Here is an easy-to-follow technique which, if practiced faithfully, can give you courage to overcome every difficulty. Just one sentence can do this for you.

You may question whether printed words can generate so great a result, but never minimize the creative force of a dynamic idea. A mental concept has more voltage than electricity; civilizations are changed by ideas. Take these powerful words I am going to suggest. Open your mind to receive them and conceive of the thoughts they carry as dropping from your conscious into your unconscious mind. They can, in due course, give you more courage than you have ever and of a good courage; be not afraid, neither be thou dismayed: for the Lord thy God is with thee whithersoever thou goest."

These are the words: "Be strong

They come from the first chapter of Joshua, the ninth verse. Clip them and keep them in your pocket or under the glass top of your desk; tack them up above the kitchen sink. Say them over and over to yourself and they will help you to generate real

There are some good ideas in a Swedish proverb suggested by my friend Amos Parrish. They are good enough to put up on your mirror: "Fear less, hope more; eat less, chew more; whine less, breathe more; talk less, say more: hate less, love more; and all good things will be yours."

You will notice that this proverb begins "Fear less," or, in other words, get more courage. How do you go about doing this? The secret is to practice courage. In athletics, if you want to win, you must practice. Why, then, do we assume that we may become expert in the mental realm without practice? Practice courage by daily thinking courageous thoughts. Whenever a worry or anxiety strikes, think courageously about it. This requires effort but it will get results. Fear thoughts will gradually lose their power over you. If there is a situation in your life that fills you with fear, mentally endow it not with threatening qualities but with positive

A psychiatrist friend of mine had as patient a little girl who frequently dreamed of being attacked by a tiger and would awake shrieking with terror. Upon investigation, the doctor discovered that an angry cat had once sprung at her and later, in a zoo, she had seen a tiger. Asked to describe the tiger of her dreams, she said he had a big white spot on his forehead. big red eyes, big teeth, stripes all around him and was always snarling.

"I've seen that tiger," the psychiatrist told her. "You have the wrong idea about him. He isn't a mean old tiger. He's a great big pussycat who only wants to play with you. If you will notice, his claws aren't showing. They are drawn in because he wouldn't hurt a little girl

Are you afraid? For example, do you imagine a little pain in the night to be a heart attack? Probably it is nothing at all. Look your tiger in the face. Say to yourself, "My heart is all right." Do the same about any fear that comes to you. Practice thinking courage and you will become courageous.

Betty Talmadge 'ain't running against Herman'

By MYRA MACPHERSON The Washington Post

LOVEJOY, Ga. — "I ain't running against Herman. I'm running for myself. It's important that I not sound like I'm in a fight with Herman. I'm trying to ignore him — and I'm being successful so far."

successful so far."

So speaks Betty Talmadge, divorced from Sen. Herman Talmadge, D.Ga. Locked in a bitter property battle with her former husband, she is seriously considering running for Rep. Jack Flynt's congressional seat now that Flynt has announced he is multiple after this term.

quitting after this term.

"I'm not just whistling 'Dixie.' I'm getting a lot of support." says Betty Talmadge, who is waiting for poll results to make her final decision within the next two weeks. Campaign money? "I haven't got it in my hot little hand yet, but I'm getting promises I can lean on." Suddenly, she chuckles. "If I won, I'd be Herman's congresswoman. Isn't that ridiculous?" Such humor is lost on Talmadge. Asked by a TV reporter if he would support his ex-wife should she run, Talmadge responded: "I do not like to answer 'iffy' questions."

Lovejoy, the Talmadge mansion 35 miles south of Atlanta, sits in Tara country — schlock Tara in part, with Tara Boulevard lined with shopping malls, gas stations and pizza joints. But down a winding road, the 150-year-old plantation looms in whitecolumned splendor. It looks like Home Sweet Home, but for Betty Talmadge, Lovejoy is a bitter anachronism. She sits there, at age 54, in the house where, for 35 years, she played the dutiful political wife and shrewd businesswoman, entertained presidents and first ladies.

Her saga and present problems show the vulnerability of the political wife who banked on a political partnership marriage. The irony of Betty Talmadge's situation is that she grew into a Washington figure — only to find that her financial fate, to date, has been judged by a rural jury far removed from her world.

In round one of their property battle, she lost three quarters of a million dollars (less capital gains taxes) to the senator when a rural jury ruled that he had not given her stock as a gift but for her to hold in trust for him. The case is now on appeal to the Georgia Supreme Court.

"I was flabbergasted at the decision," says Betty Talmadge. "He never told one living soul — including me — that the stock he gave me was a so-called trust."

There appear to be several inconsistencies in Talmadge's sworn statements regarding the stock, which was put in his wife's name in 1967 and sold in 1972. For example, in his initial sworn, written response to questions from her lawyer, Talmadge states that is ex-wife was not entitled to alimony because of numerous financial gifts he gave her, and that "the largest single gift" was the disputed Terminal Facilities stock. Talmadge later amended that. "I did not give her Terminal Facilities. She took it and conveyed it to her own use," the senator later testified. His lawyer, Alex McClennan, said in an interview that he had prepared the initial answers and had made a mistake.

Betty Talmadge and her lawyers emphasize that Talmadge never disclosed to the Senate (or anyone else for that matter) that the stock was held in trust for him. A listing of such assets is required under the Senate disclosure rules. Talmadge argued that the arrangement was not a "formal" trust but an "implied" agreement between man and wife; therefore he saw no necessity to list it in his Senate disclosure files.

Betty Talmadge's lawyer. Stell Huie, charged in arguments to the court, however, that the senator either "intentionally misled" the Senate by filing "fraudulent disclosure statements" or his disclosure statements showed he never seriously claimed any interest in the stock. Says the senator's exwife: "I find it unbelievable that he can tell one story to the United States Senate and another to this jury down here — and no one even seems to care." Talmadge refuses to talk about the case or his divorce.

In the early days, the Talmadge marriage seemed happy enough. In 1948, as the 24-year-old wife of a well-known politician, "my heart was all aflutter," Betty Talmadge recalls—clasping her hands knowingly in a parody of the sweet little ole Southern Girl. Talmadge was then governor of Georgia and Betty, who was 19 when they were married, would simper to the press. "I don't know a thing in the world about politics. Ask me about the home and children and maybe I can answer."

The later years were filled with tragedies and troubles. One son was drowned, another divorced. Her mother and a brother died within the same year. Betty Talmadge went to a psychiatrist to help her through her problems.

By the time Talmadge was a nationally televised figure on the Watergate committee, their life was, she says, mostly keeping up a frontfor political purposes. At the end, 15 months ago, Talmadge filed for divorce on the grounds the marriage was "irretrievably broken." Betty Talmadge counterfiled that the senator was "guilty of cruel treatment" and "habitual intoxication."

In her wood-paneled den, Betty Talmadge points to the TV set where she first learned her husband filed for divorce — on a nightly news program. "Herman was eating supper in the kitchen. I said, "Is it true, what I just heard on TV?" Her husband answered: "Yes."

A bit plump and matronly, with curly gray hair, Betty Talmadge exudes an easy warmth and humor; but she is a woman of determination. She parlayed the Talmadge ham business into a $3-million venture before she sold it. She recently wrote a cookbook, with an introduction by Rosalynn Carter and she now runs a small meat brokerage business.

But she is worried about her future.

Lovejoy, in her husband's name, may not be hers after the property settlement. If the $750,000 in stock and proceeds are awarded to the senator, he will be worth $2 1-4 million and his exwife $250,000, she says. "But he is taking my liquid assets — the rest of it is fixed and I get no income from it."

Looking back over her life. Betty

Looking back over her life. Betty Talmadge says, "As long as I rubbed the hams and made some money and asked no questions, it was a perfect little life. As soon as I started asking questions," she says with a laugh, "I became a little old menopausal, slightly crazy lady.

"I was secretary and treasurer of the family corporation — but all I was supposed to do was sign," she says, evoking the image of Billy Dawn in "Born Yesterday." "They'd send me something and say, 'You sign it.' Well, finally I wanted to see what was going on, to see what losses we had to face."

Trial testimony revealed that networth statements from 1969 to 1971 always listed the disputed stock as an asset of Betty Talmadge alone. And at the time of sale, Talmadge never asked that his wife turn the proceeds over to him.

Asked why he did not, Talmadge in a deposition replied, "Wasn't any need to ask her. She would make some impertinent remark and accuse me of stealing it. I couldn't talk to her even about simple things."

Betty Talmadge shakes her head.
"Well, I continued to politic for him in 1974. I voted with him, and we had our pictures taken together. We must have talked about something."

Talmadge said his reason for putting the stock in his wife's name was to keep "useless newspaper speculation out."

Georgia law states that a transfer of money or stocks to a wife is "presumed to be a gift." In order to prove otherwise, the Georgia Supreme Court has ruled in previous cases, "clear" and "convincing evidence" must be presented to show that both parties understood at the time of transaction that a "resulting trust was contemplated." Betty Talmadge's lawyers thought they ought to win on Georgia law alone, for they had Herman Talmadge giving this testimony:

man Talmadge giving this testimony:
Q: Did you tell anyone why you were putting it in her name?

A: I did not.

Q: Did you tell her?
A: I did not. I never discussed affairs of that nature with members of my family, as a rule.

Another meeting to note: House Committee on Business and Industry's Subcommittee on Tourism and the Texas Sesquicentennial will meet Tuesday (April 11) in South Padre Island.

The subcommittee has been charged with making a study to plan a celebration for the 150th anniversary of Texas independence, and to study the role of state government in developing tourism.

That meeting is in conjunction with the Discover Texas Association annual conference and Texas Travel Counselors annual conference.

Texas Tourist Development Agency reports cities collected $14,450,421 in room taxes from hotel and motel guests last year, an increase of 18.4 percent from 1976.

In 1977, there were 112 communities levying the tax, with eight more reporting they'll begin this year.

Among those is Wichita Falls, TTDA says.

Of the 112, 55 were collecting a three percent tax, but 36 had taken advantage of the new four-percent level permitted under amended legislation - and eight more have indicted they will raise their rates to four percent.

Top 10 in collections (in order) were Houston, Dallas, San Antonio, Austin, El Paso, Fort Worth, Amarillo, Corpus Christi, Arlington and Galveston.

Comptroller Bob Bullock has issued a ruling which may be of particular interest at this time of year.

Corporate takeovers warming up again

By MARTIN MERZER

NEW YORK (AP) - Corporate takeovers, the hottest game in town last summer and fall, are heating up again. And one of the new attempted takeovers erupted into bitterness this past week.

"We're going to beat them and

we're going to beat them as badly as they deserve," predicted T. Roland Berner, chairman of Curtiss-Wright Corp., which is attempting to gain control of Kennecott Copper Corp., a firm with three times the annual sales volume of Curtiss-Wright.

Last summer and fall saw a variety of takeovers, including J. Ray McDermott & Co.'s acquisition of Babcock & Wilcox Co. and Kennecott's purchase of Carborundum Corp. Winter seemed to cool the passion for takeovers, but the action has returned with the onset Why are takeover attempts so attractive that they increased by 30 percent last year? It's simple, said Alfred Rappaport, a merger analyst at Northwestern University.

Ken Peeler gets posts

Kenneth A. Peeler, president of Midland 66 Oil Co., Inc., has been elected treasurer and a member of the board of directors of the newly formed Industry Specialty Insurance Co. - a Texas LP-Gas dealer controlled capital stock company.

Peeler has been with Midland 66, 27 years and has served as district director and regional vice president of the Texas LP-Gas Association, as president of the Texas Oil Marketers Association, and as a member of the Midland Chamber of Commerce.

He currently is a member of the National Advisory Council to the National Federation of Independent Business, is a member of the Council Executive Board of the Boy Scouts of America and is a member of the board of trustees of Midland College.

Industry Specialty Insurance Co. will underwrite the casualty in-surance of the Texas LP-Gas Association's safety group program.

Officers to be elected

The Permian Chapter of the National Secretaries Association will meet at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday in the Commercial Bank & Trust Building. The meeting is for members only.

The Curtiss-Wright bid for control of Kennecott is one of the more interesting corporate fights to develop in recent years. Curtiss-Wright, primarily an aircraft components manufacturer based in WoodRidge, N.J., owns about 9.9 percent of Kennecott's stock.

Curtiss-Wright is seeking proxies from other stockholders, and pro-mises that if it gains voting rights for at least 50 percent of Kennecott's stock, it will dump the current board of directors and elect its own slate of 17 directors.

Berner, who is orchestrating the proxy fight, claimed that Kennecott's current management is incompetent and has made numerous and costly mistakes - including, ironically, that purchase of Carborundum. Kennecott officials so far have refused direct comment on Berner's charges, but they have mailed to stockholders a letter defending their record and seeking support.

In other business developments this past week:

-The Carter administration, beset by a falling dollar, rising prices and large-scale oil imports, was drafting what was described as a new, get-tough approach to controlling inflation. Spokesmen said that inflation control proposals have been "the major focus of action.

And the President told congressional leaders that he would take a larger personal role in lobbying for his energy bill, which he said would help reduce oil imports and ease pressure on the economy.

—Federal Reserve Chairman G.

William Miller predicted an inflation rate this year of 6.5 percent to 7 percent, a bit higher than the rate generally predicted by Carter administration officials.

A few days later, the government announced that wholesale prices rose by 0.6 percent in March, slower than the 1.1 percent rate in February but still at a rate of over 7 percent a year.
Miller also predicted that unemployment would drop to between 5.75 percent and 6 percent by the end of 1978. The Labor Department later announced that unemployment was at 6.2 percent in March.

making great beginnings. They have unbounded enthusiasm, an in-exhaustible reserve of ideas, imagination, personality and charm. They make a spectacular plunge into the ocean of activity while the crowd cheers. But the spray soon begins to fall, and the sea is still again, leaving no trace of their impact. They make a good begin-ning, but they cannot keep going. It is the day after day endurance that is difficult. It is the everlast-ing round of duties that do not sparkle that is wearing. Almost everyone can launch an undertaking, but not everyone has the grit to keep it moving. This is the difference in being great or a "flash in the pan."

Some people have a flair for

No one ever accomplished any-thing in public life without the quality of endurance. Florence Nightingale did not establish the dignity of nursing overnight. She had to keep after it through months and years, first convincing her own family, then officials of the army, the soldiers themselves, and finally the public. The battle that Jane Addams fought against the slums of Chicago was con-tinual and never-ending. No sooner had one area been cleaned up than another appeared. These two great women endured. As Winston Churchill said, "This is no time for ease and comfort. It is the time to dare and endure."

Great art, discoveries, and accomplishments are forged by men and women who keep everlastingly at it. Setbacks, reversals, defeats, failures, come what may, they keep going. If they have bad habits, they try to correct them. When they slip again, they do not give up the battle; they attack it from a different angle.

Endurance is the secret behind every achievement in life. Ideas can come to us like lightning, but the fulfillment of ideas is the result of months of persistent, prodding labor. A very successful man once said, "Genius is one per cent inspiration and ninety-nine per cent perspiration."

No one ever did anything worth doing, unless he was prepared to go on with it long after it became something of a bore.

'40 Carats' to open at Mansion

"40 Carats," a recent Broadway hit, is the next attraction at The Mansion dinner theater.

The two-act comedy opens Tuesday night at the theater, located between Midland and Odessa on U.S. Highway 80, with performances to continue daily except Monday s through April 30. The Mansion's current show, "The Second Time Around," starring stage-screen-TV actor Broderick Crawford, will have a final performance this afternoon. The house will open at 1:30, with performance to begin at 2:30, followed by supper for members of the audience at conclusion of the show.

"40 Carats," opening Tuesday, will feature Mansion producer-director Enid Holm as the star of the show. Playing the young man half her age who falls in love with her, and wants to marry her, is Odessa actor Ken Stacker, last seen in The Mansion's February production. "Never Get Smart With

Other members of the "40 Carats" cast are Rubilee Noble, Anne Hart, Carter Smith, Sid Williams, Harlan Jordan, Elfriede Russell, Richard Folmer, Mary Hennessey and Patricia Bay. The latter four players also are members of the cast of the current show, "Second Time Around."

"40 Carats" is an adaptation by Jay Allen of a comedy by French playwrights Barilley and Gredy. The play had a successful Broadway run with actress Julie Harris in the featured role, and has had equally successful touring productions.

"40 Carats" will have performances at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday and 2:30 p.m. Sunday each week during the remainder of April. Table reservations for all performances may be made through The Mansion box office, 563-1133.

Enid Holm and The Mansion present the comedy "40 Carats" as the next attraction at the dinner theater located between Midland and Odessa on U. S. Highway 80.

It's surprising to find that Willard, who is also a member of the satirical Ace Trucking Company

Holm, managing director of the theater, will star in the comedy which will run through April 30.

New 'tacky talk show' comedy premiers

The Washington Post

Fred Willard looks not at all like a show-biz slickie and quite a bit like an accountant pretending to be a secret agent. "People used to think I was a plain-clothes policeman," he says. "I like to think people who don't know me think I'm a professional athlete. I always wanted to be a ball player.'

That's not the role that fate and Norman Lear chose for him, however. Willard, 38, plays achingly overripe second-banana Jerry Hubbard to Martin Mull's smug Barth Gimble on "America 2Night." the intentionally tacky talk show that started as "Fernwood 2Night" and premieres at 7:30 p.m. Monday in about 45 TV markets.

to kill between the last guest and the commercial so maybe I'll say, 'What if I said this?' and he'll say, 'Oh yes, perfect,' or the other way around. Occasionaly Martin, during a commercial, he'll make some comment that he wants to come on and do a joke about Totie Fields, and I say, 'I don't think you ought to do that.' He's outrageous, yeah.'

The whole show is outrageous, yeah, although outrage is getting so common in television that the program's humor seems not so much sick as just a little ill. The very first "Fernwood 2Night" includes a running contest to see which lucky viewers will get to pull the switch that extinguishes a convicted murderer on Friday night.

To enter they have to complete the sentence "I would like to pull the switch because" in 25 words or less. On Friday, night of the execution, the governor comes through not with a reprieve for the guy on death row but a ban on televising the actual electrocution. So we just see the three contest winners pull their switches and watch the lights dim.

'America 2Night" will be even more of a Pirandello kind of thing." as Willard puts it, than Fernwood 2Night" because actual Hollywood stars come on the show and sit side by side with phony stars. On the first show, Charlton Heston proves a work with, because you can't throw him. I'll think of surprisingly good sport as he is badgered with moronic questions by Jerry Hubbard.

Midlander Barbara Buckley, a student at Angelo State University, is a member of the cast of "Sideshow, new play by San Angeloan Rick Smith which will be performed this week at the 10th annual American College Theatre Festival in Washington, D. C.

The Angelo State University entry in the collegiate festival is this year's winner of the National Student Playwriting Award of the festival.

'Sideshow," a musical play, will be performed at 8 p.m. Monday, opening day of the festival, in Washington's Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts. It will have additional presentations at 2 and 8 p.m.

In addition to winning the National Student Playwriting Award, "Sideshow" shares with a new play from the University of California an award from the David Library of the American Revolution. The award of $2,000 is presented to an original stage work dealing with some aspect of American history.

"Sideshow" deals with the life and times of John Nance "Cactus Jack" Garner, who served as Vice President of the U.S. under President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"Sideshow" was presented at the area College Theatre Festival at Lubbock several months ago and, after winning that event, went on to win at a Southwest regional festival at Fort Worth, qualifying the production for a spot in the national festival competition. The show was given a special performance at Odessa in February under auspices of Odessa's Presidential Museum.

Other winners from various regional festivals to be presented at the national festival this week include productions from the University of Montana, Rhode Island College. Wayne State University, Smith College. University of Detroit and

DR. NEIL SOLOMON Be careful of Laetrile

Dear Dr. Solomon: Why is it that the government doesn't allow people with cancer to use Laetrile if they want to?—Doris W.

Dear Doris: This has been an emotional issue about wihich many people feel very strongly. But let me try to sum up the main factors which the Food and Drug Administration has to take into account.

First of all, the scientific evidence that we have shows that Laetrile is worthless in preventing or treating cancer. The great danger is that cancer patients will delay getting effective medical care or eve up proven methods of treatment and take Laetrile instead. The results can be fatal.

Secondly, it is not correct that Laetrile is itself harmless-like, say, a sugar pill. Laetrile is actually a substance called amygdalin which is found in apricot and other fruit kernels and which contains cyanide, a strong poison

It is not always clear just how the cyanide is released, but we do know that this happens in the presence of certain enzymes (catalysts) found in various fresh fruits as well as lettuce, mushrooms, celery and other vegetables.

Cyanide released into the stomach and intestines prevents the cells of the body from geiling enough oxygen. This can cause dizziness, nausea, a drop in blood pressure, shock, coma, respiratory collapse, and death. That is why taking Laetrile by mouth is considered particularly dangerous, but the shots may also have ill effects.

The dangers of amygdalin as a poison have only recently become widely known. It may be that some deaths attributed to cancer were actually caused by. or at least hastened by, Laetrile.

Another hazard is that Laetrile may be contaminated. Ampules from Mexico have been found with molds that could be dangerous when injected. And other instances of contamination have turned up

About a dozen states have legalized Laetrile, apparently on the assumption that it is safe, even if not effective. But that assumption is false. And according to the FDA, state law does not protect people who promote, distribute, dispense or sell Laetrile

As I said to begin with, the greatest danger is that people with cancer will be diverted from effective treatment by the false hopes of a Laetrile cure. The FDA says that more and more of these tragic ases are coming to light in malpractice suits.

Ringing the bell

By BOB TIEUEL

The Black Experience: Here in Boley, Okla., everybody seems to be looking forward to the annual homecoming and rodeo May 26-28. This 98 percent black town was founded in 1903 and is located on U.S. 62, 68 miles southwest of Tulsa and 62 miles east of Oklahoma City

Believe it or not, the town was named for a white official of the Fort Smith and Western Railway who had encouraged the development, which had begun as a camp of black railroad construction hands. Thomas M. Haynes was chosen as townsite manager, and the town building began on 160 acres which belonged to Abigail Barnett McCormick who had inherited the land from her father. James Barnett, a Creek-Freedman. Additions were made until it comprised almost 500 acres.

Booker T. Washington, after a visit to Boley in 1905, declared that it was 'the most enterprising, and in many ways the most interesting of the Negro towns in the United States. The Boley Progress, the town's first newspaper, did much to sustain interest in the city's growth and pro-sperity. And in 1911 the town was able to boast a population of 4,000 residents. The Boley idea must have struck a responsive note, for today there are a number of mostly black communities surrounding the incorporated town of Boley, like Rusk, IXL, Childsville, Sand Creek, Big Bend and Clearview, and the beat

There are at least 5,000 blacks living within the trade area of Boley today and reports indicate that many of the old timers living in many parts of the U.S. are returning to "home and Boley" and will spend the rest of their days here, where many of the utility companies boast of the "lowers rates in the U.S." The Boley Chamber of Commerce advertises extensively over the nation: "If you are looking for a retirement haven, Boley is the place." Boley is now, leaders say, as much a town of opportunity and challenge as it was 73 years ago and the Chamber's Area Newsletter constantly rings the message.

Boley has a modern water system and a modern telephone system.

There are nearly 20 churches, an elementary school and a high school. Both are integrated. There is a state training school for boys (integrated), a modern library and thanks to federal and state aid, one of the best black police forces in the state. There is also a modern fire department and a recently built city hall, that is the brainchild of Theodore McCormick. one of the town's outstanding business

Will Rogers-Late Oklahoma cowboy and philosopher, was killed in an Alaskan plan crash in 1935. Much of what he said in the 20s and 30s sounds as fresh as today's newpaper. For example: "I was born in the Indian territory, in what is now Oklahoma, and my father was threeeighths Cherokee and my mother was quarter-blood Cherokee. I never got fur enough in arthmetic to figure out just how much Indian that makes me. but there's nothing in my life of which I am more proud than my Indian

"The government told the Cherokees in the treaty that you may have this land as long as the grass grows and the water flows. It was a pretty good line and a pretty good treaty, it seemed, until they struck oil. And then naturally they took the land back from us again."

Another great quote for youthful bellringers: "One thing I have regretted all my life, that I never took a chance on the fifth grade."

Add names of black communities in Boley trade area: Coon's Corner, Happyville, Clayton Chapel, Hillbilly, Valley Grove. There can be little doubt that this Boley area of blackoriented communities make it the largest in the entire United States, leaders say.

Green rides hot putter to 3-stroke lead

By BOB GREEN

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Hubert Green, whose putting brilliance on tricky green of varied speed had produced a spectacular, seven-under-par 65 and a three-shot lead, was composed, confident and in control as he looked ahead to Sunday's final round of the 42nd Masters Golf Tournament.

"I'd rather be three ahead than three behind," he said. "I'm one of the few guys who can lose the tournament. The others have to win it," he said.

And the others figured they would have to get the cooperation of Green to do it.

"If we could get one guy to slow down, we might have a golf tournament." suggested Gene Littler.

AND THAT, said defending titleholder Tom Watson, is not likely. "Hubert's not the kind of player who's going to lay down. You have to go out and beat him," said Watson, tied for second going into the last 18 holes of one of golf's great spectacles. "He's really playing well. He's a tough man to beat down the stretch, so I know I'm going to have to shoot in the 60's to have a shot."

The current U.S. Open titleholder, a two-time winner this season and one of the leaders of the game's current crop of stars, Green's best round of the tournament gave him a 54-hole total of 206.

That was 10-under-par for the gently rolling hills of Augusta National and three strokes in front of Tom Watson, the gritty hard-working, redhaired defending champion who had to rally for a hard-won 68 that included seven birdies and three bogeys in the near-perfect playing conditions—a hot spring day with only a breath of breeze stirring the towering pines.

"Hubert obviously has figured out something about these greens that's beyond me," said puzzled, frustrated Tom Weiskopf. "They're one speed here, another speed there. But he's putting them. I don't know how."

JACK NICKLAUS, a five-time winner of this annual sports classic, also failed to find the proper touch on the putting surfaces and appeared allbut blocked from a successful run at still another major title.

"I've had some very frustrating days putting — and this was one of them." Nicklaus said. "I just couldn't get the ball in the hole. I missed only two greens and was less than 25 feet from the hole on those. I was putting for birdie or eagle on every other hole and I made only three of them.

"I hit some very good putts that just wouldn't go. I hit the hole, five times and they wouldn't drop."

and they wouldn't drop."

He finished with a 69 that left him at 212, eight strokes off the pace.

"I could win from this many strokes back," he said, "if there were only two or three guys in front of me, but with this many, it will be very difficult. I'll have to shoot an extremely good round, a 64 or 65, and hope the others don't play quite that well," said the disappointed Nicklaus.

Low-key veteran Rod Funseth, who

Low-key veteran Rod Funseth, who started the day in a tie for the lead, shot a 70 that left him in a tie at 209 with Watson.

Gene Littler, a quiet, courageous, vastly-respected 47- year-old veteran, extended to 40 holes his no-bogey streak with a solid 70 that left him 210 and alone in fourth place, four strokes back going into the final 18 holes of the chase for the most famous piece of sports haberdashery, the green jacket that goes to the winner.

LEE TREVINO, who once vowed he never again would play in this event and now so desperately wants it to complete a career sweep of the Big Four titles, was ambushed by a triple-bogey seven that sent him reeling back into the pack and dashed his hopes of joining Nicklaus, Gary Player, Ben Hogan and Gene Sarazen as the only players to sweep the Masters, U.S. and British Opens and the PGA.

The brash and brassy Trevino entered the third round in a tie for the lead and still held that position when he prepared to hit his second shot on the par four fifth hole.

He flew that one far over the green into the trees and bushes.

"It disappeared from the earth,"
Trevino said.

His only shot out was low into a bunker. He failed to get it out of the sand on the first try, blew the next to 3½ feet — then missed the putt.

It took the steam out of him.
"I think my green jacket just went the hell out the window," he said.
Trevino finished with a rallying round of par 72 and a tie at 211 — five strokes back — with Australian David Graham, Hale Irwin and Bill Kratzert, one of the more promising of the tour's young players. Irwin fought his way to a 71 while Kratzert had a 67. Graham, who played in the same twosome with Nicklaus, had to overcome a four-putt, double-bogey with five birdies and an eagle for a 67. Wally Armstrong, with a 70, was next at 212.

Weiskopf, Player and dynamic young Severiano Ballesteros, the handsome young Spaniard who has ruled European golf for two years, were in a group at 213. Weiskopf shot a 70, Player a 69 and Ballesteros a 68 that included a 31 on the back nine.

Arnold Palmer, 48, who has won this event four times, was only three shots back when play started, but disappointed his hopeful, faithful followers with a 74 that left him out of contention at 216.

Hound besieges Bulldogs' Peel

By PAUL DOMOWITCH

Ah, the price of success. Larry Peel knows it well.

His Midland High baseball team's 3-2 victory over Abilene Cooper wasn't even five minutes old before the autograph hounds descended unmercifully upon the second-year

Well, actually the hounds amounted to one very small boy who politely asked Larry to sign his baseball, but who's counting. Even Billy Martin had to start somewhere.

"We're comin' on every game,"
Peel said exhuberantly after the win, Midland's second in a row. "I told you. All we needed was consistency from our pitching staff and we'd be in good shape."

Peel got that consistency for the second time in a week Saturday, as junior Archie Booth stymied the Cougars on six hits and picked up his fourth win in five decisions with a little offensive assistance from the Pack's Steve Cole. Cole's contribution was a two-run homer, which broke a 1-1 tie in the bottom of the sixth and gave Midland all of the runs it needed.

"Archie really did a job out there today," Peel said of the young righthander who walked only two and struck out eight while going the distance.

"He only threw one real bad pitch the whole game, and that was the high curve to (Bobby) Mize in the seventh, which he nailed over the fence. But that was about his only mistake. He kept the ball down and away from the hitters, and his slider was working great.

"We're lookin' better everyday."
Defensive lapses have also plagued the Pack at times this season. But Saturday, defense was Booth's guiding light. An outstanding play by third baseman Jimmy Zachry in the first of a ball down the line that had double written all over it put a damper on an early Cooper rally. And a diving catch by leftfielder Kevin Cooper in the fifth snuffed out another potential Cougar upsurge before it got started.

The victory upped Midland's first half district record to 3-3 (9-10 overall). Cooper also stands 3-3 in league play (8-5 overall), and with the rash of upsets Saturday, there is an outside possibility of a seven-way tie for first place when first half 5-4A play concludes Tuesday, if the wins and losses occur in just the right places. And the way the first half has gone thus far, anything is possible.

Cooper pitcher Eddie Jacques came into Saturday's game at Memorial Stadium field unbeaten in three-decisions, and the little 5-foot-6 right-handed breaking ball specialist lived up to expectations through the first five innings, holding Midland to just one run and three hits.

But Booth matched him stride for stride and the smooth-swinging Cole rewarded him for his efforts. With two out in the sixth, and Mark Mead on first, Cole tagged one of Jacques' breaking pitches far over the left field barrier to put the Pack up 3-1.

Booth got a scare in the seventh, when Cooper's Mize led off with a home run of his own to cut the deficit to a single run. But he retired the next three batters in order and Midland had the win.

Lee's late bid falls short at San Angelo

Masters golf scores

By TERRY WILLIAMSON

SAN ANGELO — The Midland Lee Rebels tried to pull off a last ditch stand here Saturday for second place in the San Angelo Relays, but the meet-winning Bobcats played the role of the rude host by winning the competition with 123 points and scuttling Lee's hope for second in the

Lee needed a victory in the mile relay to edge out Odessa Permian for second place, but San Angelo's Danny Abbott held off a determined bid by Lee's Phil Carleton at the finish. Permian, who was disqualified in the mile relay, held on for second place with 81 points, while Lee had 79 for third.

THE MIDLAND High Bulldogs had their best point production of the season for a fourth place 69 points, but they had their share of disappointments since they didn't win an Marfa edged Stanton, 68-61, to win the Division IV run, while Breckenridge won the Division III crown with 102 points. Odessa Ector was an easy victor in Division II with 98 points.

The Rebels got off on a good foot Saturday by winning the 440 relay with a 42.7, their best time of the year behind Jerry Moore, Jami Berry, Doug Guthrie and Dwight Washington, and Midland High was second with a 43.4 behind Jeff Robnett, Chris Sliger, Alvin Price and Jerry Bundage.

MIDLAND HIGH also won second in the two-mile relay with an 8:17.1, with Gene Tuttle, Bill Young, Jeff Adkins and Chuck Stump carrying the load, and Lee was fourth, but thingsbegan to go downhill for both schools after that.

Midland's Stump finished third in the 880 with a 2:00.5, losing again to Angelo's Ed Bruning, while the Pack's Alvin Price came up with a third in the 100 and a second in the 220, both events many thought he would win. He had a 9.8 and 22.5 in the two races, far off his bests of 9.4 and 21.5.

Even Jeff Adkins disappointed the Bulldogs with a lackluster 4:32.0 in the mile, and the mile relay team had a disappointing 3:37.3 for fifth place.

LEE WAS not doing much better as Arthur Pertile was fifth in the 880 with a 2:03.3, and meet favorite Carleton placed fourth in the 440, despite his best time in the finals this year, a 50.0. Carleton could take finishing fourth, but he didn't like losing to San Angelo's Abbot.

"It seems like I lose to him (Abbott) every time we run on asphalt, and I beat him on the cinders," he said. "But we have sinders to run on next week in district."

Then came the turnaround for the Rebels. Sophomore Mike Ybarra picked up an unexpected sixth in the 220 with a 23.2 to set up one of the meet's big upsets.

LEE'S STEVE Hooper, a darkhorse in the mile run, came through with a big upset over Adkins and Angelo's Lon Albert.

"I just had to prove to everybody that I could do it," said Hooper after his 4:26.7 win. "I beat Adkins in a lot of races last year, and I just had to show I could do it this year. I had more kick left this time than ever before. This is the best win I've ever had." he concluded.

Adkins offered no excuses. "I just didn't have it today." he said. "There was no kick, and they just beat me. This can't happen next week or I won't be in the regionals."

THEN JEFF McCowan, 54-34; Rodney Taylor, 53-11; and Herb Pearce, 51-104; brought home 15 points in the shot put to keep Lee in the hunt for second place. Carleton got the baton behind

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — New York Yankees Manager Billy Martin figures his team's potent offensive punch ended up fluttering Saturday in the stiff, 20-mile-an-hour spring wind that whips in from the Arlington

"We should have had four home runs," Martin said after the world champions dropped a 2-1 season opener to the Texas Rangers.

"I managed here, I know this wind. If Jeff Burroughs was here, he'd tell you about it. He hated this wind," added Martin, who managed Burroughs here in 1974 and 1975.

(Box Score, Page 3C)

The wind rendered Burroughs' towering shots into harmless flies and left him frustrated and unhappy. He was later traded to Atlanta.

Martin said Saturday that the wind robbed Willie Randolph, Cliff

Johnson, Lou Pinella and Graig Nettles of home runs that would have ruined John Matlack's Amercan League debut.

Nettles' seventh-inning liner, for instance, bounced near the 370-foot mark on the right field wall, just under the home run line. He was held to a single.

"I've never seen it blow this hard

"I've never seen it blow this hard here," said Nettles. "There's nothing you can do about it. You can't stop the wind from blowing. They (Rangers) used the elements better than we did."

The Yankees lost when Texas' free agent acquisition Richie Zisk planted a Rich Gossage slider in the left-field seats in the bottom of the ninth inning. Why didn't the wind bother Zisk's homer?

"He hit a line shot," said Martin.
"He didn't hit a high ball like Johnson and Pinella."

Abilene derails Lee express, 6-5

By BOB DILLON R-T Sports Writer

ABILENE — Don't look now, but there's a logiam in the torrid District 5-4A baseball race.

Abilene's Eagles scored three runs in the bottom of the seventh inning to knock off the Robert E. Lee Rebels, 6-5 Saturday afternoon at Rose Park.

While the Warbirds were beating Lee, San Angelo Central tripped A Odessa Permian, 9-7 and Midland was knocking off Abilene Cooper, 3-2.

Lee, Abilene and Permian all share

Lee, Abilene and Permian all share first place with 4-2 records while San Angelo has a 3-2-1 mark with its tie game with Odessa still having a bearing on the outcome of the first half race. The Bobcats and Bronchos will have to continue playing the 8-8 tie now that it could be a determining factor in the first half.

Cooper is next with a 3-3 reading, so anything can still happen with one game left in the first half of the race.

LEE HELD on to a 5-3 lead going into the seventh, but reliever Doug Schmidt, had control problems, issuing three walks, two doubles and Terry Austin's base hit into right with the bases loaded and two out.

Austin had earlier ripped a linedrive home run off starter Gary Gibson in the fourth inning to give Abilene a 3-1 lead.

The Eagles jumped on Gibson in the first inning by scoring two runs, but the senior southpaw settled down and gave up only five hits and one run in the following four and one-third innings on the mound.

Mark Pierce walked and Glen Stirman singled him to third and took second on the throw from the outfield. Byron Roberis grounded out to second to score one run and the other came in on Cowboy Hester's liner up the middle for a 2-0 Abilene lead in the first.

LEE GOT one run back in the top of

Andrews selects Bill Shipman

ANDREWS - Former Abilene High School Coach Bill Shipman was named as head football coach at Andrews High School by the Andrews School Board Friday night.

Shipman, who has coached the last two years at Denton, will be returning to the school where he served as an assistant under Glenn Frazier and Max Goldsmith The 51-year-old Shipman succeeds Tommy Watkins, who resigned last winter to take the head coaching position at Iowa Park. Shipman signed a two-year contract for more than $24,000 per year. He will be permitted to bring in as many new assistants

as left with Watkins. Since

Watkins took five aides with him. Shipman will be allowed to add five new coaches. Before going to Denton, where his team lost in last year's AAAA playoffs to Odessa Permian,

Holtz makes pitch

for a real champion

ATLANTA (AP) - Los Angeles left-hander Tommy John had just turned in his first pitching performance of the season and was pleased with it.

"I wish they had put the speed gun on me today," he said after the Dodgers beat the Atlanta Braves 6-2 Saturday. "Pdid 87 miles per hour in spring training against Cincinnati, and I threw harder today than I did then.

John, a 20-game winner for the defending National League champions, went 7 2-3 innings, striking out four batters.

"Four strikeouts," he said. "That's all I had in 30 innings of spring training.

John gave up a solo home run to Gary Matthews in the fourth inning and a run-scoring single to Jeff Burroughs in the eighth but otherwise was tough in the clinches. "To have just one bullet hit in this park, you have to be happy," he said of homerhaven Atlanta Stadium. "They had, what, 40 or 50 more home runs hit here than anywhere else?" Was John thinking about another 20-game winning season? "Twenty-one." he answered with a smile. "No, seriously, I'm thinking about two wins right now. When I get

CINCINNATI (AP) - Fred Norman held Houston to three hits until the ninth inning in outdueling Joaquin Andujar and Cesar Geronimo tripled home the winning run in the second to give the unbeaten Cincinnati Reds a 2-1 victory over the Houston AStros Saturday.

Norman, at 35 the senior member of Cincinnati's pitching staff, allowed two straight hits to open the game, then permitted only a fifth-inning single to Roger Metzger until Jose Cruz singled with one out in the ninth.

He retired 14 of 15 during one stretch in boosting his lifetime record at Riverfront Stadium to 41-17. Doug Bair came on to get the last two outs, giving the Reds their third consecutive victory over the Astros, who won 13 of 18 from Cincinnati last year.

George Foster tied the game in the second inning with a solo homer, his second in two days. With two out, Dave Concepcion beat out an infield hit and scored on Geronimo's triple.

Houston took a quick 1-0 lead when Terry Puhl singled, moved to third on Enos Cabell's single and scored on Bob Watson's sacrifice fly.

Andujar, who had beaten the Reds five of six times since Cincinnati dealt him to Houston three years ago, limited the Reds to six hits.

Foster, who hit only three homers in April last year when he topped the majors with 52, has six hits in 12 atbats and four RBI.

Barr blanks Padres, 6-0

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Jim Barr fired a seven-hitter and Rob Andrews supplied a three-run triple Saturday, leading the San Francisco Giants to a 6-0 victory over the San Diego Padres.

Andrews drove in the game's first three runs with his triple in the second off Bob Shirley. Jack Clark followed with a single, scoring Andrews.

The Giants added a run in the third on consecutive doubles by Marc Hill and Darrell Evans, and scored once in the seventh when Terry Whitfield's sacrifice fly drove in pinch-runner Skip James.

Barr did not walk a batter, struck out one and did not allow a runner past second base. Ironically, he drew the starting assignment for the second game of the season only because Ed Halicki suffered a minor injury late in spring training.

Andrews, who had three hits in the opening-game loss to the Padres, is in the starting lineup temporarily because Bill Madlock has a sore knee.

Pirates edge Cubs in 10

PITTSBURGH (AP) - Bruce Sutter gave up a bases-loaded walk to Jim Fergosi in the last of the 10th inning to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 4-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs Saturday.

The Pirates had taken a 3-0 lead into the eighth but four hits, including RBI singles by Bill Buckner and Bobby Murcer, and two walks had tied the score.

In the Pirate 10th, Steve Brye lead off with a double to left. Willie Stargell was walked intentionally and after Rennie Stennett had flied out, Sutter walked Ed Ott to fill the bases before issuing the walk to Fregosi that forced in Brye.

The Pirates had scored in the third on Dave Parker's solo home run to right and added two more runs in the seventh with the help of an error.

Fernando Gonzalez had walked with one out and when pitcher Bert Blyleven laid down a bunt, Chicago first baseman Buckner threw the ball into center field attempting to catch Gonzales at second. The ball rolled to wall and both runners scored.

Mets rally to nip Expos

NEW YORK (AP) - Ed Kranepool walloped a two-run, twoout pinch homer in the bottom of the ninth inning, giving the New York Mets a 6-5 comeback victory over the Montreal Expos Saturday.

The Mets were trailing 5-2 when Lee Mazzilli's two-run homer in the eighth put them within a run. When Bruce against Expos starter Rudy May, Len Randle sacrificed the runner to second. Stan Bahnsen relieved May and retired Tim Foli on a long fly to

Then Kranepool batted for winning pitcher Mardie Cornejo and smashed Bahnsen's second pitch over the wall in right field to win it for New York.

Chris Speier had four hits and Dave Cash three in a 13-hit Montreal attack Steve Henderson also homered for New York.

Phillies defeat St. Louis

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Righthander Larry Christenson pitched an eight-hitter and drove in four runs, two with a homer, as the Philadelphia Phillies beat the St. Louis Cardinals 7-0 Saturday night.

Christenson, who won his last seven games of the 1977 season, and 15 of his last 16 en route to a 19-6 record, struck out four and walked one in recording the Phillies' first victory of the Rich Hebner staked Christenson to a 1-0 lead by leading off the second inning with a homer. Ted Sizemore socked a two-out double and Christenson drove him home with a The Phillies increased their lead to

4-0 off Cardinals starter Eric Rasmussen before the right-hander left for a pinch-hitter in the fifth. Two runs came in the fourth when Bob Boone walked and Christenson homered over the left centerfield

It was the eighth career homer for Christenson, who trails only Rick Wise (11) and Schoolboy Rowe on the Phillies' lifetime home run list for pitchers. He had three last season.

Christenson's fourth RBI of the game came in the seventh when the Phillies knocked out reliever Pete Falcone with a three-run rally. He walked with the bases loaded off Falcone's successor, Mark Littell.

CHICAGO (AP) — Chet Lemon's two-out, two-run game-tying double highlighted a four-run eighthinning rally Saturday that boosted the Chicago White Sox to their second consecutive 6-5 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Dennis Eckersley, making his debut for the Red Sox after being acquired from Cleveland last week. turned a 5-2 lead over to relief ace Bill Campbell after seven innings.

But Ralph Garr, Jorge Orta and Lamar Johnson opened the eighth with consecutive singles for one run. Bobby Bonds sacrificed the runners into scoring position and Ron Blomberg struck out but Lemon doubled to tie the game and then scored the winning run on a single by Eric Soderholm.

Eckersley had a one-hit shutout going into the fifth when the White Sox loaded the bases on a walk and singles by Soderholm and Bill Nahorodny before Garr delivered a two-run single.

Boston jumped on Francisco Barrios for three runs 410 011 01-3 in the third inning. Jerry Remy singled, stole second and scored on a single by Jim Rice. After Carl Yastrzemski walked, Lynn and George Scott delivered two-out run-scoring singles.

Burleson homered off Ron Schueler in the fourth and Boston added another run in the fifth on a double

CLEVELAND (AP) - Andre Thornton slammed a two-run homer and Ron Pruitt and Paul Dade added consecutive solo shots to pace the Cleveland Indians to an 8-5 victory over the Kansas City Royals Saturday in the opening game for both teams.

Wayne Garland picked up the victory with three innings of perfect relief from Mike Paxton. Garland went six innings, allowing seven hits and five runs, including two-run homers in the second inning by Fred Patek and Hal McRae.

The Cleveland right-hander allowed only two hits after the Royals' second inning explosion until giving

Brewers swat Birds

MILWAUKEE (AP) - Gorman Thomas belted a grand slam home run and Larry Hisle hit a three-run shot in an eight-run Milwaukee first inning, and rookie Paul Molitor slammed a three-run homer in the fourth to power the Brewers to a 16-3 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Saturday.

Molitor and Thomas knocked in five runs apiece to pace a 15-hit attack against four Oriole pitchers. The Brewers had nine hits in their 11-3 opening-game victory over Baltimore Friday. The Brewers erased a 3-0 deficit with their eightrun barrage in the first. They sent 11 men to the plate and the first eight scored. A single by Cecil Cooper scored one run, and Hisle followed with his second homer in two days. After a single by Ben Oglivie chased loser Dennis Martinez, Joe Kerrigan walked the next two hitters to set up Thomas' grand slam

The Brewers made it 13-3 with five unearned runs

Toronto downs Tigers

DETROIT (AP) - John Mayberry and Tommy Hutton hit their first home runs in Toronto uniforms as the Blue Jays defeated the Detroit Tigers 5-2

Jerry Garvin scattered 11 hits but needed last-out relief from Mike Willis when the Tigers loaded the bases with two out in the ninth. Willis got Jason Thompson to ground out, giving the Blue Jays their first-ever triumph in Detroit after eight losses, seven

Garvin struck out six, including the last two batters in both the sixth and eighth innings to snuff off The Blue Jays opened the scoring with a run in the first off loser Jim Slaton, making his first appearance with the Tigers.

Women assault records

Elkins and Cynthia Woodhead each turned in their second U.S. record performances in the Amateur Athletic Union short course swimming championships Saturday night as the women's division continued a relentless assault on the record book.

Elkins cracked the 100-yard freestyle record in 49.66 and Woodhead came from behind to establish the U.S. record in the 1,650yard freestyle with a 15.55.15

Woodhead, representing the Riverside (Calif.) Aquatics Club, edged ahead of former U.S. recordholder Jennifer Hooker of Mission Viejo (Calif.) Swim Club on the final Hooker, who took the lead at the 1,100-yard mark, finished second in 15:55.70, which also was below her old record of 16:03.24.

Woodhead earlier set a U.S. record in the 200-yard butterfly.

Kim Linehan of the Sarasota, (Fla.) YMCA and Marybeth Linzmeier of the Sequoia Swim Club dueled at a record clip during the first half of the picked up the pace. Linehan even-tually finished third and Linzmeier was fourth.

Elkins, representing the Amberjax Swim Club of Jacksonville, Fla., broke Jill Sterkel's U.S. record in the 100 free style with a 49.66 clocking. Sterkel., of the El Monte (Calif)

Aquatic Club, finished second, equalling her old U.S. record of 49.72. The 14-year-old Elkins, who set a U.S. record in the 200yard freestyle earlier in the meet, took the lead from the starting gun.

Dickey sprints to win

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Muscular Curtis Dickey of Texas A&M streaked to victory in the special 100-meter dash at the Texas Relays Saturday in Dickey, the NCAA indoor champi in 60 meters, ran away from eight other sprinters, including Olympian Johnny "Lam" Jones of Texas and Ainsley Armstrong of the Gulf Coast Track Club.

ReVey Scott of Louisiana State University won the college 100 meters in the same time of 10.22, which is .15 seconds over the Texas Relays record set by Ed Preston of Arkansas State in 1976.

Bill Collins of the Philadelphia Pioneers was second to Dickey in 10.28, while defending champion Robert Woods of Grambling trailed

The two dashes capped the first full day of the 51st Texas Relays before 10,000 spectators in humid, overcast

Dickey, a near 1,000-yard rusher on the A&M football team, rushed for 161 yards in a scrimmage game Friday, then took advantage of a weekend break in the Aggies' spring football drills to run in the special event.

Jones, subpar because of a three-month layoff due to a football injury to his leg, was seventh in 10.53, and Armstrong was eighth in 10.56.

Last year, as a freshman, Jones won the event in a handtimed 9.85 seconds, and Collins was second in

One of the more impressive performances came in the preliminaries as Texas Southern University zoomed to a meet record in the 400-meter relay of 39.87 seconds. The old record was 39.99 seconds, set last year by Oklahoma. The finals are scheduled for Sunday.

Top sprinter Dwayne Strozier of Arizona suffered an apparent leg injury as he ran into a photographer after finishing third in the college 100 meters in 10.26 seconds.

Randy Wilson ran the 800-meter anchor lap in 1:48.1 to bring Oklahoma in with a 3:17.62 time for first place in the university sprint medley relay. William Snoddy, the leadoff runner for the Sooners, said the eam's goal is a world record.

Ken Stadel, an ex-Rice competitor who has the world's fifth best discus throw, won a special event with a heave of 212-9, 10 feet shy of his best. Former NCAA champion Jim McGoldrick, who used to compete for

Frank Estes of Abilene Christian won the pole vault with a leap of 17 feet, one inch under the meet record set by world record holder.

Roth takes $70,000 pin tourney

WINDSOR LOCKS, Conn. (AP) — Mark Roth won an all-New York final Saturday in the $70,000 Greater Hartford Open bowling tournament, outdueling Johnny Petraglia 194-171.

Roth, the Professional Bowlers' Association leading money winner with more than $72,000 this year, earned $8,000. Petraglia received

The victory tied Roth with Petraglia for the most victories ever on one PBA winter tour with four. Petraglia had four in 1971.

Halls of Fame are not for myopic writers, guys who say "Huh?" a lot when you talk softly, who typewrite with one finger and get gas when they eat too fast.

So, what in the world is this unworthy traveler doing in a Hall of Fame? What am I doing in a Hall of Fame if Maury Wills or Enos Slaughter can't get in one?

I'll be cussed if I know, but the National sportscasters and Sportswriters Association inducted me into the same august company as Babe Ruth, Ty Cobb, and the Galloping Ghost this week, and they'll have to explain it to you, I can't. I feel like Rabbit Maranville. Or that guy who played third base with Tinker and Evers and Chance.

YOU KNOW, when a guy makes the real Hall of Fame at Cooperstown or Canton or Pinehurst, he usually can tell you how he got there — his home runs, his catches, passes, drives, nine irons or free-throw percentage.

But, what did I do - out-adjective the next guy? Did I split fewer in-finitives than anybody else? Avoid hitting into the double negative? The pros talk about "playing with pain." Did I write with pain, shrug off the hangovers better than anyone else and hit that space bar with desire?

Did I go with the pitch better, take what the defense gave me? Go for that extra yardage with adverbs hanging all over me?

I do hold the major league vodka record, one game, one season, one Series, and Super Bowl records. I tied the record for most nights on Bourbon Street, and tied with many for most dawns viewed through the bottom of a glass with a cherry in it. But that's not Hall of Fame stuff in my profession. That just makes you a journeyman.

MAYBE IT was my expertise? Uh-uh. I've been covering horse races for 25 years and I still can't tell a colt from a filly except under very special circumstances.

Auto racing? If they took the steering wheel out, I couldn't tell the front from the back of one of those Indy cars. I have no idea what a magneto is, and I'd never drive anything you had to climb in the windows to start moving pick from a moving picture. And the differences between a "high post" and a "low post," I leave to the post office. In football, I could never figure out why every game had to start with a run off tackle, particularly when it always lost two yards or made no

In basketball, I wouldn't know a gain. But coaches look at me pityingly when I ask why. And give me an answer studded with obscure definitions of defenses that make me feel as if I asked Einstein to explain the expanding universe. Baseball? I'll tell you what. I wouldn't know a balk from a hole in the ground. Walt Alston used to draw me pictures, and I still didn't get it. The infield-fly rule is about as simple as calligraphy. It might as well be the Japanese naval code.

PRIZE FIGHTING? All right, I can tell a right cross from a left jab. But I always think the other guy from the one the judges pick won the fight. Anyway, Joe Louis and Ray Robinson were the last fighters I would cross the street to see

Golf? I can't break 90. To tell the truth, I can't break 100. If it weren't for "gimmes" I probably couldn't

So what does that leave - writing? I never wrote a line like "Outlined against the blue-gray October sky, the Four Horsemen rode in. They formed the crest of a Midwest cyclone, etc." I'm no Grantland Rice. I never thought up "Murderer's Row" for the Yankees. I thought that I thought up "Louisville Lip" for the former Cassius Clay but John Hall convinced me he beat me to it. Frankly, it's not worth fighting over.

You know who's in this Hall of Fame? Ring Lardner, for one. If he were alive today, he'd resign., He'd figure. There goes the neighborhood. I got a nerve being in the same county with Ring Lardner, never mind the same shrine.

DAN PARKER is in it. Red Smith. Ted Husing. Dizzy Dean, the only guy to make two Halls of Fame, ours and theirs. Red Barber is there. John Kieran. Graham McNamee. I tell you, there are some guys there who

Media to miss Oklahoma grid aide

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

NEW YORK (AP) - On Tuesday, in Norman, Okla., the Oklahoma Sooners started spring football practice.

The same day, in Wichita, Kan., Larry Lacewell didn't bother to read the sports pages. After eight years as Oklahoma's defensive coordinator, a period in which he coached some of the country's finest defenses, Larry Lacewell was in his second day on the job as public relations director for Safelite Industries, an auto glass company in Wichita.

"I thought about it being the first day of spring practice," Lacewell admitted. "It was the first time I've ever avoided picking up the paper."

OKLAHOMA football will miss him. The media will miss him even more.

When Lacewell was offered the Kansas State head coaching job a few years ago, some wag said the sports writers in Kansas rather than the coach would need unlisted phone numbers.

To put it bluntly, Larry Lacewell would make a lousy sphinx. If the other coaches or players didn't feel like talking, Lacewell was the person to whom everyone turned. He always had time and you always came away with some good quotes. Woody Hayes' style would never have suited

"I didn't need any more stories about me, but I always felt like you guys had a job to do." he said.

FOR ONE who has to stretch to reach 5-foot-8. Lacewell was probably the biggest and most famous assistant coach in the country. How many assistants drive a Lincoln Continental and had their own television show?

Lacewell had come a long way from his Fordyce, Ark., boyhood where he played on the Chiggerbugs in grade school, the Baby Bugs in junior high, the Red Bugs at Fordyce High and then went on to the Arkansas A&M Boll Weevils.

"I came up the hard way, coaching at the Arkansas States, the Arkansas A&Ms, the Kilgore Junior Colleges and the Wichita States," he remembered. "That's why it was so great to be a part of the tradition at Oklahoma.'

How popular was Lacewell? When his resignation hit the campus, a large sign appeared on the same dormitory where students once hung signs for Coach Chuck Fairbanks - like "Chuck Chuck" and "Send Fairbanks to Alaska." Lacewell's sign read, "We'll Miss You, Larry."

"I NEVER recognized my popularity until I left," he said. "I was shocked. For an assistant coach to leave and make the front pages of the major newspapers in the state, that's a warm feeling. A lot of times when you leave a place. especially a coach, you don't get that kind of sen-

Over the years, Lacewell turned down a halfdozen head coaching jobs waiting for the right one to come along. When it finally did - at Missouri - he didn't get it.

The timing wasn't right. Lacewell's old friend-ship with the alleged spy in the Texas-Oklahoma

Darrell Royal...to speak in Midland.

Royal speaks to Landman's group Tuesday

Darrell Royal will be the guest speaker at the Permian Basin Landmen's Association dinnermeeting at Midland Country Club Tuesday night.

The Hollis, Okla., native became one of the legends of college football during his 20 years at the University of Texas. Only Bear Bryant and Woody Hayes ranked ahead of him for most victories among active coaches when he stepped down two years ago to assume UT athletic directorship duties. In 20 seasons, his teams won 11 Southwest Conference championships, three national titles (1963, 1969, 1970) and his teams played in 16 bowl games, little wonder he was installed in the Texas Hall of Fame in 1976.

ROYAL IS a past president of the American Football Coaches Association and cwice was named Coach-of-the-Year by the AFCA and three times named Coach-of-the-Year by the Football Writers of America. He was named Southwesterner of the year four times and SWC Coach-of-the-Year five times. ABC television recognized him as its Coach-of-the-Decade for the 1960s.

During his regime at Austin, Royal was credited for two major innovations. In 1961 he introduced flipflop offensive blocking in the line to keep blocking assignments simplified. He went on to win a national title with the unique version of the Wing-T.

In 1968, Royal installed the Wishbone formation backfield in which the fullback lined up two yards behind the quarterback and a step up from the other backs.

A social hour at 6:30 p.m. will precede dinner at 7:30 p.m. and the program should begin at about 8

I'm a prime example of inflation, is what I am. I'm in a Hall of Fame with guys whose typewriters I couldn't carry. But that's nothing. Look who's been sleeping in Lincoln's bed lately.

They even had my old pal, John Wayne, lined up to do the induction. But, it turned out, Duke had a more pressing appointment at Massachusetts General Hospital. Tennessee Ernie Ford and Andy Griffith came riding to the rescue, in the best traditions of a John Wayne movie. The Indians lost, as usual.

IT MADE ME very proud, if very mystified. I felt like a guy who had wandered into the wrong parth. who ing brown shoes, and everybody was too polite to throw him out.

It reminds me of the long road that began when either John Carter or Dr. Ed McKenzie called me from North Carelina 15 years ago to say that I had been selected by the ballot of the NSSA for its finalist award. "NSSA?! Salisbury? I protested. "I never heard of them!" "That's all right." was their soothing response. "They never heard of you, either."

And now, here I am immortalized in stone forever, horned-rimmed glasses and all, in this funny little Gone-With-The-Wind town in the Confederacy. It reminds me of the time when Bill Cosby, the comedian; was asked to describe my writing style at a Friars dinner. "Well," he said, "he's a cross between Eleanor Roosevelt-and Hilo Hattie." Shucks, I was proud to be even noticed. And I'm proud to be in the Hall of Fame, too. Just think, me and Joe Di Maggio!

The problem involves motorists with cars requiring unleaded gasoline switching to leaded regular gasoline, a less expensive fuel that renders pollution control catalytic converters ineffective.

The EPA has suggested new controls on the retail price differential between leaded and unleaded.

Members of the National Petroleum Refiners Association expressed their objections before the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee through testimony by Urvan R. Sternfels, an attorney for the trade

Charles F. Darden, president of the International Association of Geophysical Contractors, will address the Permian Basin Geophysical Society at its Tuesday meeting in Midland. University April 20-21.

The meeting, to start with a social hour at 6 p. m., will be held in the Best Western Motel on Interstate 20.

Darden will discuss the growing threat of governmental regulations and restrictions that — unless checked — could bring exploration for new energy supplies in the United States to a complete halt.

He will focus on immediate implications of this government action on geophysical companies who take the first step in the petroleum finding and development chain.

IAGC is an international trade group, headquartered in Houston, which represents the independent service companies and geophysical departments of integrated oil companies that do virtually all of the geophysical petroleum exploration in the U. S. Geophysical data processing, brokerage and exchange companies, geophysical equipment manufacturers and suppliers, and geophysical consultants also are members of the association.

Darden has headed IAGC three years, serving previously in an executive capacity with Continental Oil Co.

A native of Beaumont, Darden holds B.B.A. and M.B.A. degrees from the University of Arkansas and the University of Cincinnati. ## Last-ditch effort made to salvage proposed tax

By CLYDE LA MOTTE Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON - In a last-ditch effort to salvage the proposed crude oil equalization tax (COET), Carter administration officials are now talking with industry representatives and some key Republican members of Congress in an effort to reach an agreement on acceptable terms. At least one such meeting was held last week and another is being planned for early this week. The purpose is to pick up enough support to get Congress to approve the tax, which would be applied in three stages to lift the cost of domestic crude to the 1977 world price level. That is, the tax would be the difference between the controlled price of domestic crude and the world

The House passed the legislation last year but when the proposal reached the Senate Finance Committee it met almost unanimous opposition, especially by the chairman of the committee, Sen. Russell Long (D-La.). He and others said it wasn't really aimed at solving the nation's energy supply problems but, instead, simply a tax device for getting more money in the government till.

Long subsequently declared the proposed tax a dead issue, but the administration is trying to breathe new life into it and thereby salvage what it considers to be a portion of the over-all energy bill.

Although the approach made by Energy Secretary James Schlesinger has not spelled out specific proposals to the industry representatives he has talked with, the secretary has indicated these are some of the types of actions the administration may be willing to take in order to bolster support for passage of the legislation:

- Provide special incentives in the form of higher prices for high-cost oil, or establish a "new" category which would receive near world level

- Specify some phaseout period for domestic crude oil price controls.

- Let domestic producers recoup some or all of the revenues denied holding price levels below those authorized in the energy bill passed in late 1975. That sum now amounts to about $1.2 billion.

From time to time over the past year the administration indicated it planned to take one or more of those steps but has not done so and the proposed legislation as it now stands does not specify such actions. The industry has been wary of these promises, awaiting actual performance. Thus, the administration may now prove its good faith by publishing some proposals, such as one providing for an upward adjustment of domestic oil ceilings in the near future. That is, the administration appears to be willing to take positive action to convince the domestic industry it will keep its promises to provide more incentive to boost domestic energy production. It remains to be seen whether the suggestions the administration is now indicating will be enough to swing any substantial industry support. The general industry inclination up

Hytech adds Fairchild

Hytech Energy Corp. has announced the addition of Mark A. Fairchild to its West Texas Division staff in Midland as division engineer. Fairchild is a 1971 graduate of Texas A&M University with a B.S. degree in Petroleum Engineering.

He has had broad experience in the petroleum industry in engineering as it relates to production and drilling operations throughout the Midcontinent and Gulf Coast areas.

Prior to joining Hytech, Fairchild served as district engineer for Odessa Natural Corp.

Hytech's corporate office are in Midland. Its South Texas Division is to now has been to oppose the crude oil equalization tax, especially so since none of the government revenues from such a tax were being earmarked for use to stimulate domestic exploration and production.

However, it seems unlikely at this point that Congress will be willing to set aside any of the funds for that purpose. That's why the industry is more inclined to listen to possible alternatives, such as letting at least some domestic crude oil price increases occur.

Rep. Al Ullman (D-Ore.), chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said last week that the crude oil equalization tax in some form has to be part of the over-all energy program.

"After some agreement is reached on natural gas legislation. I'm hopeful we will be able to put something together on the equalization tax,' Ullman told a National Press Club luncheon audience.

'We will get an energy bill and a crude oil tax because we have to do it," he said, reflecting the attitude of many in Congress that some form of energy legislation needs to be passed

Ullman earlier had indicated support for earmarking some or all of the oil revenues for use to bolster the social security fund and thereby avoid large increases in social security taxes that have been scheduled.

However, last week Ullman ap peared to be backing away from this approach. He said at the Press Club it still is a possible alternative but he obviously could not strongly advocate that course of action.

Opponents of the crude oil equalization tax or the levying of a crude oil amendment on imports point out that neither course would get to the heart of the energy problem: Increasing domestic energy supplies.

Even so, the equalization tax obviously is back in the picture now as Congress makes a last effort to produce an energy bill.

The outlook is still uncertain, but it is obvious that the administration is going to apply a great deal of pressure. That's why it is seeking out industry opponents of the equalization tax in an effort to win their support or at least to lessen their opposition.

"It's too bad the administration wouldn't listen to us before it drafted an energy plan last year," a disgruntled oil representative said upon learning of the current administration move to seek to work out some acceptable terms with industry.

RRC OKs program

AUSTIN — Output of the Germania (Grayburg) field in Midland County is expected to be boosted by an additional 3,617,000 barrels of oil as the result of approval by the Railroad Commission of a unitization agreement and waterflood okay.

Texaco Inc. sought authorization to unitize and initiate a secondary recovery program in the Midland County field.

The proposed waterflood program will cost approximately $966,000, Texaco advised the commission.

The new operating unit covers 1,200 acres. Total royalty interest and 97.44 percent of the working interest have

Carter announced Friday he was putting off production of neutron warheads pending evidence of new Soviet "restraint" in the arms race. The Soviet news agency Tass, in the first official commentary here on Carter's move, said the U.S. leader is trying to "tie his final decision to matters involving the strengthening of the Soviet Union's defense capability that have no relation to neutron weaponry.'

It said Carter has "the clear goal of obtaining concessions from the Soviet Union on other issues unrelated to the matter at hand.

In a separate commentary, the agency said a key motive behind Carter's decision "is the effort by the increase the danger of nuclear war."

five years after its creation, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has grown from a $5.4-billiona-year infant to a $181.3-billion behemoth that spends more than one-third of every federal dollar.

It will celebrate its silver an-niversary without fanfare this week while the Carter administration unveils details of its plan to take the "E" out of HEW by creating a new. separate Department of Education.

James McIntyre, director of the Office of Management and Budget, will spell out for the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee on Friday what President Carter wants in the new department. Only half the federal education programs are presently administered by HEW.

HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. fought to keep his department intact, but lost. One joke around town had Califano, the former aide to President Lyndon B. Johnson, saying he "didn't want to be the first secretary of HEW to lose a war" even a bureaucratic one.

Califano is pianning a two-day open house celebration of HEW's anniversary next month, with the public invited to a series of music, art, drama and education workshops on May 23-24. But the only thing on tap for the actual birthday, Tuesday, is an award ceremony for HEW em-

HEW dates back in form, if not in name, to before April 11, 1953, when President Dwight D. Eisenhower named Oveta Cuip Hobby, former commander of the Women's Army Corps, as its first secretary.

The department was a direct descendant of the Federal Security Agency, which Franklin D. Roosevelt created in 1939 to coordinate social programs and to avoid a wrangle with Congress over whether it deserved Cabinet status. A Roosevelt adviser, ment of Social Welfare.

In his 1958 memoirs, Brownlow recounted, "The Federal Security Agency was named 'security' instead of 'welfare' because the vice-president, John Nance Garner, told the president that there was a great objection to the terms 'welfare,' 'social welfare,' 'public welfare,' etc. in Congress, that its use could only lead to a continuation of the welfare activities of the government, which should be stopped as soon as possible, but there was no objection to the word 'security' because it looked as if the Social Security Board might be a

Rufus A. Miles Jr., a former assistant HEW secretary and now a Princeton University professor, noted in a lively history of HEW that in the 1930s, security "meant economic security. It was a clear, strong word, with nothing but good overtones for most of the American people."

When it came time to name the new agency in 1953, Miles related. Department of Welfare was rejected on the advice of Sen. Robert A. Taft. So was Department of Human Resources, a name some considered "totalitarian" but which has since found favor with many states.

Poll indicates most feel blacks better off

NEW YORK (AP) - Most Americans agree that blacks are better off now than 10 years ago, but white and black citizens part company when asked just how much progress blacks have made, an Associated Press-NBC News poll

Despite disagreement between blacks and whites about black progress, black Americans are more optimistic about the their future than white Americans are about theirs, the survey shows.

The poll, based on telephone interviews with 1,207 adults in late March, included interviews with a large sample of blacks to insure an accurate picture of black opinion.

About half of the whites interviewed said they believe American blacks are much better off now than 10 years ago. Onethird of the whites said the last decade has left blacks slightly

By contrast, only 20 percent of the blacks interviewed said they felt American blacks are much better off now. Fiftythree percent said citizens of their race are slightly better off.

Although blacks and whites differ on the degree of the progress, 82 percent of all Americans agree that the last 10 years of social change has ended with blacks in better shape in this country than when the decade

Seven percent of the whites and 12 percent of the blacks said blacks are in about the same condition now as 10 years ago. Four percent of the whites and 11 percent of the blacks said blacks are worse off now than 10

Five percent of the whites and four percent of the blacks were not sure.

By PATSY GORDON

Mrs. Earl Hill of Wink was named Outstanding Club Woman during the concluding session of the 18th annual convention of the Western District, Texas Federation of Women's Clubs in the Midland Hilton.

Mrs. Hill has served the Western District more than 16 years. Honorable mention for the same award went to Mrs. Rankin Bradshaw of the Woman's Study Club of Mc-

Camey A Midland woman, Mrs. Carl O. Hydo, a member of the Twentieth Century Study Club, was announced as Outstanding Business and Professional Woman. Named Outstanding Teacher of the district was Mrs. Emily Beard Elrod of the Forsan Study Club.

Tau Lambda of Monahans was chosen as Outstanding Club for best overall reporting and Mrs. Lupe Franco of Fort Stockton was the Western District scholarship winner. Mrs. Franco attends Sul Ross State University at Alpine, majoring in Outstanding Mother, general clubs, Outstanding Mother, general clubs, is Mrs. Jimmie Dunn, a member of the Modern Study Club of Odessa, while Outstanding Mother in the junior division was Mrs. R. W. Painter of the Alpine Woman's Club.

The Modern Study Club of Odessa

also had the highest percentage of members attending the convention. A total of 125 federated club women registered.

Mrs. H. B. Bratton of Pecos, TFWC president-elect. Friday night told the women attending a banquet in their honor that "the name of the game is "change." She said our nation and the world have changed 1,000 years during the last 30.

"The scope of woman's traditional role—that of wife, mother and homemaker— has broadened today and the old domestic skills will no longer suffice. We have found that one of the best ways to continue our education and keep up with what dad and the children are learning is through accepting leadership in our communities, and, if possible, broadening our vision outside of the community by taking an active role in the program established by the General Federation of Women's Clubs," she said.

"'Having a Purpose' distinguishes those persons who grow old from those who get old. Those who get old suffer from the tragic, but preven-table, disease of boredom. Those who grow old, do not.

"The truly liberated woman does not have to compete with man and beat him to feel his equal. She is equal, but different. The woman of the 70s can recycle the past, repackage the present and reopen the future. We need to take time to know people. We need to learn some four letter words like love, live, help and care.

"How will we handle our new responsibilities? This is the challenge to all women of today and especially those of Federation," Bratton said. Western District covers most of West Texas from Big Spring to El Paso and south to Presidio.

Cowboys eat winning roast for 20 years

Mrs. George (Tee) Knox puts the final basting touches on her roast before the judges taste it during the Texas

Beef Cook-Off in San Antonio.

By LANA CUNNINGHAM

Roast, red beans, salad, potatoes and peach

The thought of a meal like this will make most West Texans' mouths water. To the ranch hands who work on the Wolcott Ranch with the George W. (Tee) Knoxes, this meal is typical fare when they have a round-up. For 20 years they have been eating meals like that at round-up time, but never realized they had been eating a prize-winning roast beef. And the funny thing is. Mrs. Knox didn't know her roast beef recipe, which she made up in her head, was worthy of a prize until a couple of

Mrs. Knox entered her "Ranch Round-Up Roast" recipe in the first Texas Beef Cook-Off, was named one of 10 finalists, and went to San Antonio for the final competition.

Flanked by the nine other contestants, one of them a finalist in the Pillsbury Bake-Off, Mrs. Knox had four hours to cook her roast in the convention center in San Antonio

When the three judges finished tasting all entries, it was Mrs. Knox' 20-year-old roast recipe that came in third place. The top two spots were taken by a woman from Abilene and one from

"It all seems so silly." Mrs. Knox said with a laugh. "Cowboys don't eat fancy. They just like a

She explained that her menu with the roast and red beans is about all the cowboys want, but they want "plenty of it." While Midland has been a home base for her and her family, Mrs. Knox has plenty of ranching experience in her background. She began working with cattle and horses in 1943, and continued until she went to Sul Ross State College in 1949, graduating in 1952. She participated on a rodeo team, and was named NIRA champion When she married George Knox in 1954, she moved to the Wolcott Ranch in Martin County and has helped her husband with the family operation. They established a Midland home, she explained, to be able to send the children to school. Kathy, the daughter, is a freshman at Texas A&M University, and Richard is deceased While Mrs. Knox took active part in the schools, parent-teacher associations and church, she is looking forward now to spending more time on the ranch. She admits she enjoys being at the ranch at round-up and branding time. Her active interest in ranching and the beef and cattle industry is what led her to the Tejas group of Texas Cowbelles, based in Big Spring. And it was the state group of Cowbelles that sponsored the first beef cook-off. Although involved in the ranching business for years, Mrs. Knox admitted the Cowbelles have given her information on cattle and beef "that I wasn't up on." The Tejas group includes women who are involved in the ranching or cattle business in some aspect in an area ranging from Big Spring and Stanton to Midland. They are an active group, "but don't advocate take any one stand" when it comes to the beef industry, Mrs. Knox said. "They just get the information out to the people. Its main purpose is to educate the people about beef, and they are considering programs in schools. One idea calls for setting up a table with literature on it in local supermarkets for the public to pick up and read. Another plan is the "Eat Beef on Father's Day" promotion being planned for June. Another way to educate people about beef is to give them beef certificates on special occasions.

"You can get them at the bank and they can be used at a store for any cut of beef," she said.

The Cowbelles and the Texas Department of Agriculture sponsored a forum on food a few months ago in Austin, and there Mrs. Knox learned more about the beef industry and the consumers' side. "Once they understood what we go through to raise beef, they (consumers) didn't complain so much about the price. A University of Texas student who had done a survey said what we (Cowbelles) need to do is to educate the public' Mrs. Knox said.

One of the ways to get the word to the public is through the cooking contest, she said. While in Austin, Mrs. Knox was approached about entering. She really did not think she had a chance to win since it is open to the public, but she sent her three copies of the recipe and resume.

These were judged by home economics students at Sam Houston State University and the 10 finalists were asked to San Antonio for the

The recipes were judged on the basis of taste. ease of preparation and general appearance. Meat had to be no less than two pounds nor more than five of chuck, round, rump or brisket.

'They were looking at just the beef in these recipes, and not casseroles or some fancy dish." the woman said.

She does a lot of cooking by making up the recipes, she said. But, there are a couple of cookbooks she likes. One was published by the Midland Woman's Club sometime in the 1950s. 'They are good, old-fashioned recipes. I can read the recipes and understand them." unlike a

The second is a home demonstration club cookbook which includes recipes for "good, everyday cooking." Mrs. Knox also relies on recipes from her mother and mother-in-law. While the roast recipe ranks as her number one favorite, she also likes her chicken fried steak, barbecue, red beans and peach cobbler.

While in San Antonio, Mrs. Knox said one of the contestants remarked that she could not make red beans. "Red beans are so easy to fix. But, I guess if you cook it a lot, such as for round-ups, you get used to doing it. You put a certain touch

Occasionally, they do resort to eating chicken and pork. "Tee will tell me to go buy a ham since we need to help out the pork industry too," she said, laughing.

When the cowboys on the Wolcott ranch sit down pext August to their typical round-up meal cooked by Mrs. Knox, they may think they are eating the same, good solid food Mrs. Knox, has served them for years. But, Mrs. Knox and the rest of Texas will know those cowboys are eating a "winner."

Energy, desire keep film library on the move

By LANA CUNNINGHAM

Cardboard boxes line two walls while a third wall is marked by bookshelves holding equipment. Films, filmstrips, projectors and papers cover the small area, and in the center of all this is Anne Trout.

Short in height, the dark-haired woman is long on energy when it comes to organizing the film department of the Midland County Public Library. Mrs. Trout was placed in charge of the division in June 1975, and the area is located in a corner of the Fine Arts'

They phased out what was known as the Young Adult Department, Mrs. Trout said, and started the film division with very little equipment. Since then, she has outgrown the space allotted to her. Mrs. Trout, who holds a bachelor of science degree in English and physical education from the University of New Hampshire, went to Lubbock in the summer of 1975 for audio-visual training. A specialist from Austin conducted the seminar.

Film circuit initiated

In 1976 she attended a Texas film library conference in Dallas, and there the idea for a West Texas Film Circuit was originated. Those interested in the circuit met later in Odessa, and Lubbock finally was chosen to the circuit's headquarters.

Through this circuit, the Midland library has access to hundreds of films and filmstrips. Mrs. Trout has a list of visual aids available and a person or group desiring a particular one can contact Mrs. Trout and have it ordered, she said.

Mrs. Trout said she saw the move coming for instituting and expanding the film library. "It complements books. It does not take the place of them," she

The film library is trying to meet the needs for almost everyone, she added

They have films which can be used by various companies for their employees, such as ones on safety. Or. organizations can pick up films to be shown during their meetings. Energy slides are available for oil companies and community groups. They also have slides on the treasures of King Tut, the Holy Land and other foreign

Films cover wide range

Filmstrips come in a wide range of topics, from children's stories, to Christmas to health. Films, both 8mm and 16mm are available, some with pund, and some without. Included are excerpts from "The Sound of Music," "Star Wars," "Phantom of the Opera," and Abbott and Costello. While many families in Midland do own equipment to use the films and filmstrips, Mrs. Trout said the library doesn't expect everyone to have their own and loans out the equipment when necessary. This includes film, slide and filmstrip projectors of various sizes to fit the individual's need. There also is a small projector in a carrying case which is ideal to keep a sick child entertained while home in bed, she said.

Keeping tabs on all equipment and films is not easy. She currently is compiling a list of all films and equipment available. She also spends time previewing new films as they come in and checking film and equipment that has been returned for any necessary repairs.

Takes job to public

Mrs. Trout does not confine her job to one corner of the library, though. She takes it out to the people and is constantly seeking new ways to get more people involved in

"If I have more time, I can reach more people," she said. Even now, she has regular programs set up at various nursing homes, and she said more and more residents are attending the film sessions.

She is making contact with the city's child care centers as to what is available to them in keeping the children entertained. "The kids love the soundless movies," she

Mrs. Trout has the desire to accomplish something with her job, and as a result, she is making plans for what she would like to see in the new section of the library when the old American Legion Hall located next to the library is remodeled.

Hopes for preview room

Her first dream is for a preview room. Currently, she has to use the one empty wall in her corner for looking at a film. "If someone is planning a program, they need to know what is in the film." she said. The wall does not allow enough space to preview the film properly.

She also would like to see a room to show films to groups who come to the library. "I have visions of senior citizens coming by on a bus from nursing homes and being entertained with films." she said.

It would have to be on the ground level and accessible to these and handicapped people. They also need an area to listen to tapes and cassettes. This is the future," she Mrs. Trout also would like to see a Saturday film feature time set up for children.

New equipment is needed, she said, pointing out the 15-year-old wheel used to roll a film after it has been Testing a new filmstrip on water safety is Anne Trout, who is in charge of the film division of the Midland County Public Library. Films, filmstrips, returned. "Maybe we can get some more sophisticated equipment, but nothing elaborate," she added.

The budget she now has is small, but she said she stretches it to go as far as possible. Helping the department are people and organizations who donate films.

Her job, she said, "is time-consuming, difficult and apquires planning ahead. But, it's one of the best things I think we (the library) do."

Whether or not Mrs. Trout ever gets her space in the new addition, it won't make much any difference in her work. She still will be expanding her division to fulfill her

A jewler's life is a happy life. One of our greatest pleasures is a happy customer. Too of-

A regular customer will bring in a "real find" a

Institute opens on friendly air

By JUDY BACHRACH The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - It wasn't only that it was a clear, breezy day in spring. Or that a lot of those present were sex educators, therapists and counselors and you would, after all, expect them to talk about what they did for a living. Or that there were some pretty explicit movies being viewed on the second floor of the Mayflower

The American Association of Sex Educators, Counselors and Therapists began its 11th National Sex Institute Thursday, and it was more than friendly. Hovering in the air above the casual embraces and greetings of 1,000 participants were enticing snatches of conversation . . .

"I bet he tried to seduce you You would make a great subject for hypnosis. Have you ever tried it This is her second marriage

Kaye, a handsome professor of health education at Brooklyn's Kingsborough Community College who, in his blue-and brownstriped ski jacket looked like a Playboy advertisement for a pipe.

"I'd like to see some studies on male multi-orgasmic phenomena." Kaye told Hite with great ear-

Hite said that she would, too. As it hapens, she is now working on a book about male sexuality

"Like you said." she told Kaye, there's not enough going on about it." Then she brightened and leaned over toward the health professor, "Want to give me your name and address, so I can send you my questionaire?

She took out a tube of French lipstick and repaired her makeup.

Plant, bake sale planned by center

The Lancaster Garden Center-Museum of the Southwest will have its annual Plant and Bake Sale and Bazaar from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Wednesday in the center, 1705 W. Indiana

Members of participating clubs and friends will contribute pies, ked foods, casseroles, breads, cakes, jams and relishes, as well as craft items and house plants.

The center is managed by volunteers of participating garden clubs to assist Midland gardeners, when they request information about horticultural problems. Seminars are cosponsored with county extension agents and are open to the public without charge.

Proceeds from the sale will go toward purchase of reed screens and an exhaust fan for the center's greenhouse and general maintenance of the center's grounds and building.

THE WINE DRINKER

Grape glut turns grower to vintner

By TOM TABLE Copley News Service

What does a grower do when there is a glut of grapes on the market and an entire harvest could be lost if something weren't done soon?

For Charles Kreck, he checked the alternatives and figured, what the heck, the time had come to make his own wine.

The timing wasnt great for the former Southern California hardware merchant. New acreage was coming into bearing and new syndicates, many without contracts to sell their grapes, were dump-

If you are a big drinker of wines, it will be important to you to find a wine store that stocks what you like and takes good care of their wines and their customers. A lot depends on the honesty and intelligence of your wine dealer. Some questions you might ask about your wine mer-chant before you become a regular customer are: Does she/he keep the corked fine wines lying on their sides to keep the corks moist? Is the store neatly arranged so you can easily find the wine you want? Does she/he stock a large variety of wines?

Will she/he accept a returned off-bottle for refund or exchange?

Does she/he give discounts on wine bought by the case? A good wine merchant can make your wine drinking a lot more

Stress gives people superhuman abilities

y ERMA BOMBECK People do superhuman things in me of stress.

You're always reading about how a 00-pound woman rushed into a burnng building and single-handedly escued a 200-pound, unconscious nan. Or how a man lifted a two-ton ractor off his faithful dog. Shep, and lidn't even realize it.

I not only understand the henomenon; I participate in it. Oh, nothing so dramatic that it gets enough to astound and amaze my husband "Who moved the freezer?" he asked the other day.

"I did." "It's not possible." he said.

"All things are possible when you drop your car keys behind them. I could scale Mt. Rushmore and crawl on my hands and knees out to the end of Lincoln's wart, if my car keys were hanging there."

"I don't understand something," he said. "Why is it you can't press together a clasp at the top of the zipper on your dress, but you can move a freezer?'

Simple. It's called the Superman Stress Principle: Motivation overcomes your ignorance of hernias." 'I never heard of it.'

"That's funny. You use the Superman Stress Principle all the time. Remember last summer when you loaded you boat on top of the station you to dance with me at the picnic you said you had a bad back?"

"C'mon..."

"Kids use it too. Your son can press 200 pounds in gym class. I asked him to take the garbage cans to the curb the other night and he made a furrow in our grass dragging them that a small child could disappear through. By the way, do you think you could move the piano to the west wall for

THE LONELY LADY OF SAN CLEMENTE: PART XIII

St Pat's care kept Nixon 'on track'

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following excerpt is adapted from the book, "The Lonely Lady of San Clemente: The Story of Pat Nixon," (c) 1978 by Lester David. Reprinted by permission of Thomas Y Crowell Co. The full-length book will be published by Crowell in late summer.

By LESTER DAVID

They were sitting apart, he in the presidential compartment of the big airplane, and she in 'e the First Lady's quarters just behind, when they officially ceased being president of the United States and the first lady.

Nixon's resignation was to take effect at noon. Three minutes later Gerald Ford was sworn in by Chief Justice Warren Burger in the East Room. At the time Air Force One was 39,000 feet above Missouri, halfway between St. Louis and Kansas City.

Tricia and Ed Cox had gone toward the rear to listen by radio to the new president's inaugural address. (Julie and David had remained in Washington.) Neither Richard Nixon nor his wife left their compartments to hear the broadcast or to talk to one

Four hours and 44 minutes after the big Boeing 2700 took off from Andrews Air Force base, it landed at the El Toro Marine Base 14 miles from San Clemente. Some 5,000 persons, sitting on bleachers, were there to welcome them. Pat, the mask with the tight smile affixed, emerged and followed her citizen-husband to a microphone. "We're home," he said, and the crowd cheered. "Having completed one task," he said. "does not mean that we will just sit and enjoy this marvelous California slimate and do nothing." Pat, at his right, stood stiffly, hands at her sides. The family boarded a helicopter which lurched up and flew off to La Casa Pacifica, where it landed on the helipad adjacent to the office complex. There, golf carts took them a quarter-mile to the house. About 300 persons were outside the gates but could not see the Nixons

Security was drum-tight. No reporters were allowed inside and the pool TV camera was permitted no closer than a half-mile from the gate. where all it picked up were walls, trees, shrubs. Even the welcoming mayor of San Clemente was kept out, though his wife, with a large bouquet of yellow roses for Pat, was admitted. It was the first of a floral flood to arrive that same day. Pat was amazed press secretary Helen Smith, who had telephoned, "I got 400 flower arrangements."

There was little time for thinking those first few weeks: she was much too busy. Crates had to be unpacked. their contents sorted and rearranged; the furniture had to be place, repaired when necessary. And her husband had to be watched carefully. As events were to turn out, this would be the most important of her concerns.

The day before their departure, while the family was packing, she had gone to his bedroom in the White House and had personally chosen a collection of objects she knew he liked, familiar things he had collected over the years. She had put them into a special crate and, after their arrival at San Clemente, unpacked them and placed them herself around his bedchamber so that, when he awoke in the morning, the change would not seem so stark and abrupt.

After the unpacking and settling-in, Pat began a garden and spent hours in The Nixons were swaddled in almost total isolation. Bebe Reboze and Robert Abplanalp were the only visitors permitted. It was, said one observer, as if Richard Nixon has pulled the ladder up behind him. There was a secluded area near ceanside, south of the state, called Red Beach. It was military property and the public was barred. They went there once. A month later they slipped out in the darkness and drove to the baronial Palm Springs estate of Walter Annenberg, former am-bassador to the Court of St. James's, where they stayed five days.

That was all. Julie denied heatedly that her mother was "hiding." She told me at the time: "She's trapped there. The press is keeping a death watch on the use, and the moment she steps out they'll pounce on her. What do you expect her to do, stand at the checkout line at the Alpha Beta supermarket?

Nevertheless, her friends were becoming worried about her. Victor Lasky, one of the few journalists whom the Nixons trusted, says she was "numb." Earl Mazo uses the same word and adds: "Hurt beyond words." Helen Smith recalls that those early days were "hard for her, so very hard." Helen Drown says it was "a miserably awful time...the worst period in their lives."

Compounding Nixon's emotional problem was the phlebitis which had eased somewhat during the crisis month but had flared up again at San Clemente. By mid-September, despite President Ford's unconditional pardon, Dr. Walter T. Tkach, who had been his doctor at the White House, found Nixon in deplorable emotional shape. "a ravaged man who had lost the will to fight." Quickly, Nixon's staff denied this was so. But it was.

Dr. Tkach, now surgeon general at Andrews Air Force Base, recalls that neither Pat nor her husband talked about the resignation. Pat would talk of the flower beds she was putting into shape, the house, everything but the crisis they had gone through. But he could see her concern. Even more clearly, he saw that Nixon's condition was deteriorating. He urged him to go to a hospital but Nixon stubbornly refused. "I can't get him near one," Dr. Tkach said at the time, and quoted Nixon as saying: "If I go into a hospital, I'll never come out alive."

On Sept. 23 Nixon finally entered Memorial Hospital Medical Center in Long Beach, where Dr. John C. Lungren, his personal doctor, found no need for surgery at the time. A clot had been discovered in his right lung. but that and the phlebitis were responding to treatment. He remained 12 days and was discharged on Oct. 4 with instructions to rest.

Late that month he was readmitted when his condition worsened, and surgery was performed after tests had shown the presence of new and dangerous clots. During surgery, he suffered intensive bleeding and was in shock for five hours. Pat was staying at Jack and Helene Drowns' home in Rolling Hills so she could be nearer to the hospital. She was there daily. During the days he was on the critical list. she never left. She sat outside his room, coming to see him when the doctor permitted it for a few minutes. She held her husband's hand then and talked quietly to him, telling him he would soon be well.

When he opened his eyes after comson he saw. Later the doctor told him he had been "more dead than alive." On Nov. 3 he was removed from the critical list. Ten days later he was allowed to go home.

Were it not for Pat Nixon's constant attention and encouragement during the low points in his life from August until past Thanksgiving. Richard Nixon may have gone over the brink into a total nervous breakdown.

He had come close. He admits that he had been in "the depths." Helen Smith is one of their intimate friends who will say on the record that Pat helped bring him out of the darkness.

"During those critical days and weeks," she told me, "Mrs. Nixon gave him strength, was right behind him, encouraging him.

"She told him to look forward to new accomplishments, then to look back on all his great positive ac-complishments, which she enumerated...If she had not been there, and if he didn't have the devotion of his family at that critical juncture, he would have suffered a real emotional collapse because he thought that everyone had turned against him at that point."

Ethel Kennedy did the same thing with her husband after the assassination of his brother in 1963. Robert Kennedy slipped into a depression several weeks after the murder. He would not return to his job as attorney general for a while, and when he did he would spend hours staring at nothing or go suddenly for long walks.

Home at Hickory Hill he would sit unmoving and silent. Ethel made certain that the household routine was not disrupted, that there would be no show of sadness in the house, that friends would be present to distract Bobby from his gloom. By midsummer, Bobby's depression lifted. But now Pat Nixon's own personal problems were just beginning. (NEXT: Full Circle)

A pathetic little birthday party was held at La Casa gifts. Abplanalp had bought an apron inscribed: "I and they all sang "Happy Birthday" as Nixon blew Pacifica on Jan. 9, five months after the resignation. Nixon had almost died following surgery. He was pale and shrunken, and he was emerging from the deepest depression of his life.

He was 62 years old. He sat at one end of the long table and Pat, watching him carefully, sat opposite. Between them were only five guests.

The party was a surprise. He had told Pat the day before that they would have a quiet little celebration by themselves. "We'll have dinner and then we'll open a bottle of wine," he'd said. Then she received a telephone call from Victor Lasky in Washington, who told her that old friends were cooking up something. Bob Abplanalp in Florida had called Bebe Rebozo, who had phoned Lasky. "Let's go out to San Clemente," Abpainalp had said, "and surprise the Old Man on his birthday." They would bring along some big steaks and some of those king crab claws with the special sauce Nixon liked; and they'd load up with lots of gag presents and, of course, a large birthday cake. Pat quickly agreed and promised not to tell. A restauranteur from Miami and Abplanalp's lawyer rounded out the group.

Nixon was astounded to see them arrive. He stood outside in the cold, greeting them effusively. On the walk from the office complex to the main house, Lasky noted the grounds. Already they had begun to look seedy. They went inside the house and Nixon kept exclaiming that he could't get over the surprise. Pat was almost childishly delighted that she had pulled it off successfully.

Well," she said at last, "I guess I'd better go up and get dressed." Fifteen minutes later a fire had been started in the living room and Nixon mixed drinks; he and Pat had wine. There was a two-pound jar of caviar from the shah of Iran. "Nixon kept urging us to eat the stuff, like a Jewish mother." Lasky says. "Eat it, or the shah will be angry." Pat laugh-

Israel had sent a scroll which Nixon had placed on the mantle. He went to get it to show to his guests, reached up and almost fell. Lasky, behind him, grabbed him and was shocked at how frail he was. "He was nothing, just bones. He was so weak. he was at the weakest point in his life."

Afterward, in the living room, Nixon opened his

After seeing a Pat Walker's ad in the newspaper, she took a free treatment and decided to try the plan. Now, a year later, she is 44-3/4 pounds lighter and 50-1/4 inches smaller! (That's Kaye with one of the children in the small photo, taken just before she made her first visit to a Pat Walker's salon.)

It has been very satisfying to see the weight and inches go down, Kaye reports. Friends and relatives comment on how young she looksand even more important, she adds, "I feel younger." She recommends the Pat Walker's method for anyone with a weight problem because the counselors are "so friendly and supportive" and the treatments on the passive exercise unit are "relaxing, not strenuous."

It can work for you, too!

If you've been struggling to lose weight, but haven't succeeded, take your cue from Kaye Voigt and get acquainted with the staff at Pat Walker's. They can help you trim away unwanted pounds while you shape and firm your figureall without rigid diets or strenuous exercises. Counseling and treatments are conducted in absolute privacy in a the Texas Department of Agriculture ows about seven out of 100 Texas motorists have not been getting a true

And some "haywire pumps," according to Commissioner Reagan Brown, actually "burp air" into the tank along with gasoline.

Brown said inspections of 24,385 umps in 74 Texas cities resulted in ,643 being condemned for repairs. About 730 were delivering a short measure and 548 were dispensing too much. Another 365 went to the repair hop for other causes. "All inaccurate pumps are im-mediately locked down and connned for repairs," said Brown. "We find some instances of deliberate fraud, but most violations are the result of careless maintenance. Essentially our inspection program is

'Overall, the average of incorrect pumps was much lower than department records show the situation just five years ago," Brown

He urged Texas drivers to be on the lookout for pumps not operating correctly and to immediately notify his department.

"For instance, if a pump im-mediately registers a penny or two after being turned on, without dispensing any gas, the device is stealing money," Brown said.

New skunk spray won't deter rapists By LEW SCARR Copley News Service

SAN FRANCISCO - A new "skunk spray" developed to cool the ardor of a would-be rapist only turns a cleansmelling assailant into a foul-smelling

That is the opinion of a medical specialist who believes there is no way to prevent rape. "We like to brag about primary prevention measures against disease such as immunization," Dr. Herbert Bauer said here, "but the fact is we certainly know of no way to prevent rape, certainly not with the so-called skunk spray being marketed."

"Staying at home doesn't prevent it and going out doesn't either. The only thing we as physicians can do is treat the person emotionally after the rape and that is not a good way to pratice

Bauer, a former public health director, now is a professor in the community medicine department at University of California at Davis.

Susan C. Weeks, project director of the Queens Bench Foundation, a rapevictim advocacy center in San Francisco, said that after four years' treatment of rape victims here she knows of no sure-fire way to deter a

"What can a woman do? I just don't know," she said. "It is a decision a woman has to make for herself. Resistance against attack at first may be all right, but it also may only escalate the rape. Weeks said a whistle used by the victim may be a useful alarm, but she cannot recommend it "across the board.'

She believes there are a lot of myths associated with rape

"Men do get raped," she said. "We have had more cases of reported raped males in the last two months than in the previous six years Always they are raped by other males." However, she said, the male rapists are as often as not heterosexuals.

"Vulnerability is the key," she said.
"If a gang of juveniles, let's say, is feeling hostile, it doesn't make any difference if they are homosexual or heterosexuals. "If the male is in the wrong place at the wrong time, he can be raped," she concluded.

"Most rapes occur outdoors -- that is a myth." Weeks said that 50 percent of rape cases occur indoors and 20 percent occur in the victims' homes.
