WASHINGTON (AP) - In knocking down parts of a halfcentury ban on corporate political spending, the Supreme Court is drawing fire from election law watchdogs who say further easing of the restraints could produce a national disaster. A sharply divided court ruled on Wednesday that corporations have a constitutional right to speak out and spend their money on political issue elections. The question remaining is whether that eventually may mean intervention by corporate treasuries

Drug test requested

WASHINGTON (AP) - Saying the use of hard drugs among U.S. servicemen "is increasing at a serious rate." the White House urged Congress today to reinstate a currently prohibited program of random testing of military personnel for heroin addiction. White House drug abuse official Lee Dogoloff made the request in testimony prepared for delivery to the House Committee on Narcotics Abuse and Control, which is holding a hearing on military drug abuse.

Dogoloff told the committee that the White House considers random sampling of military personnel as a reliable tool in the fight against drug abuse.

Shevchenko in job market

UNITED NATIONS (AP) - Arkady N. Shevchenko, the Soviet U.N. official who broke with his government and refused to go home, has indicated that he's open to job offers after resigning from the United Nations with a year's severance pay in his pocket and a book contract to fufill.

Shevchenko and SecretaryGeneral Kurt Waldheim announced Wednesday they had agreed on the termination of his U.N. contract, which still had two years to run, and the payment of $76,116 in severance pay.

The 47-year-old former Soviet diplomat said in a statement issued through his attorney that he hoped "to lead a normal and productive life" in the United States and would make his address "publicly available" after several weeks arranging his affairs.

Observers interpreted this as a signal to publishers, the news media, the lecture circuit, universities and other possible employers.

Shevchenko has been under contract for several years to do a book on disarmament for the Alfred A. Knopf publishing house. After he broke with his government, a spokesman for Knopf indicated his personal story would be more marketable, and he is said to have had offers from four other publishers.

But Shevchenko in his statement said "public discussion at this time of my personal views would not be helpful to Soviet-United States relations or to my family in the Soviet Union." He added that he had assurances that his family - his wife. a grown son and a teenage daughter - would not suffer because of his break with his government.

Wayne Kohout, 31, today was named new director of the Midland Parks and Recreation Department, James Brown, city manager, announced.

Kohout replaces Bob Thomson who is resigning to be parks and recreation director in Lawton, Okla. Kohout's position becomes effective May 1

He has been serving as superintendent of parks since May 1975 and will continue those duties in addition to his new post.

Kohout is a native of Chicago, Ill. He was in the Air Force from 1967 to 1971, stationed at Reese Air Force Base in Lubbock. He earned a bachelor of science degree in parks administration from Texas Tech University.

He worked as a summer intern with the Lincoln, Neb., parks and recreation department in various phases of management.

Kohout was the first to fill the parks superintendent position since it had been vacated in 1972.

Brown commented he is pleased with the selection of Kohout because he has done an "outstanding job in his present position and will continue to ambitions, drinking and romantic do so as director."

Visitor grooms both riders, their horses

Wyndham White was standing with folded arms while watching some classical movements.

He looked like a retiring Southern gentleman

"I like a horse that can move well," he said. "He can be the most beautiful horse in the world, but if he doesn't move well. I have no time for him.' White, a horseman like his forefathers, indeed had time on this recent day in Midland. White was keenly observing his son, as an "old gentleman" put Hugh White and his picturesque horse through some dressage movements - the classical, stylized motion of the graceful horse. That trim old gentleman, who was wearing an Alpine hat and who was issuing stern commands in an Austrian accent, was Franz "Rocky" Rochowansky, 66, former head rider of the famed Spanish Riding School in Vienna, Austria.

Rochowansky, a master horseman and a former Olympics coach in the dressage methods, was at the Midland Polo Club field in one on his occasional appearances here to groom both riders and mounts in that specialized style of horsemanship.

He, cantering in his riding boots with the dressage cut, was absorbed in coaching Hugh White, who, in turn, was trying to whip his trained horse into even more obedience.

"Dressage is sort of like ballet," the senior White said. "All good dancers take ballet ... That's what dressage is for a horse. There's nothing mysterious about it." It's what you might call "fancy hoof-work." Dressage, White said, is nothing more than a horse's natural movements with a burden - a rider

- on his back: A horse, by nature's gift, is a talented dancer, a master of antics and hoof-work in the wild. But getting an enslaved and mounted horse to do particular "dance" movements at any given time takes much training of beast and man. "It takes a hell of a lot of work," said White, an El Paso lawyer.

Dressage is "the last word" in horsemanship. Rochowansky had been in service in the Austrian cavalry and, then, in the Spanish Riding School since the 1930s. throughout the war and until he went on pension in 1955.

Dressage was the pleasure of the emperor. And the white Lipizzan stallien was best suited for dressage.

"Some people go completely 'ape' on dressage," said White who, in contrast to Rochowansky, was wearing a safari-like hat. Though they appeared as if they were two worlds apart, they had like interests. At the Spanish Riding School, White

Carter launches lobby campaign in Congress

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - President Carter has launched an intensive lobbying campaign on Capitol Hill that in-cludes deployment of his Cabinet even at freshman congressmen in behalf of priority bills.

To start off the new campaign, Cabinet officials this week descended on dozens of congressmen from both parties to seek support for reform of the federal bureaucracy — the same issue that won Carter popularity and votes in 1976.

The legislative push is a direct outgrowth of a searching reassessment of the administration's reassessment of the administration's record and techniques at Camp Dvaid, Md., on April 18.

There, according to Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland Wednesday, Carter attributed his decline in popularity to a "kind of fuzziness" in the public perception of is presidency.

Bergland's remarks to reporters at breakfast meeting here provided clues to the president's mood and intentions as his popularity sinks to its lowest ebb.

According to Bergland, the "fuzziness" was attributed at Camp David to public confusion about "who is Jimmy Carter? What are his programs and policies?" Carter feels this public image is "fair." but "not the last word." Bergland said.

Bergland said the Camp David talks centered on an analysis of past mistakes and ended with agreement to sharpen the administration's image by focusing on specific "priority" measures every two or hree weeks.

White House spokesman Jody Powell said the intensive lobbying effort this week on reform of the Civil Service will serve as the model for the administration's handling of other key mesures, such a tax reform and

American charged death

Washington Post WASHINGTON — Michael Vernon Townley, a 35-year-old American identified in court as an agent of DINA, the Chilean secret police, was formally charged Wednesday with conspiring to murder Chilean diplomat Oriando Letelier.

Investigative sources said Townley is believed to have traveled to the United States from Chile about a month before the murder to contract out the bombing death of Letelier, an outspoken critic of the Chilean military regime. The same sources have said in the past that the actual bombing was carried out by anti-Castro Cuban exiles in the United States who were politically sympathetic to the Chilean government.

Townley, who FBI sources said has been implicated in several other bombings in Latin America, all apparently directed against opponents of the Chilean military government, was ordered held without bond Wednesday after prosecutors asked that a $5 million bond be set.

Townley is the first person to be officially charged in connection with the Sept. 21, 1976, murder of Letelier and a colleague, Ronni Moffitt. The two died almost immediately from the powerful explosive as it ripped up through the floorboard of the car Letelier was driving en route to the Institue for Policy studies, where both worked at the time. The explosions occurred within sight of the Chilean Embassy here.

One Justice Department source said that "as many as 10" persons in the United States and abroad could be charged in connection with the murders of Letelier and Moffitt.

The facts upon which the charges against Townley are based were filed secretly Wednesday by the federal government, and U.S. Magistrate Henry H. Kennedy Jr.'s decision to hold Townley without bond was made without explanation after a closed session with prosecutors and Townley's attorney, Seymour Glanzer.

Glanzer said he was asking for the secret hearing because "I don't feel I'm free to discuss this case" in public.

Glanzer's request for the closed session came after Assisant U.S. Attorney Eugene M. Propper of the major crimes division asked for the extraordinary high bond of $5 million on Townley because he was an agent of a foreign intelligence service (DINA) that had access to large sums

'It may be worthwhile for them (DINA) to bail him out," Proper said. He also said the high bond was needed because of the possibility Townley might flee if released, pointing out that in the past Townley has used five different aliases and passports from three different countries to travel into the United States on numerous oc-

Townley's name first surfaced in connection with the 19-month-old Letelier murder investigation when he was identified as one of two persons who traveled under false names to the United States on official Chilean passports to meet with persons believed by anvestigators to be involved in the assassination plot.

Slim chance of rain set

The weatherman's forecast of 30 percent chance of rain tonight may not excite Midlanders after predictions failed to come through with moisture.

The National Weather Service at Midland Regional Air Terminal forecast a low tonight near 60 with a chance of thunderstorms. Friday's high should be in the upper 80s. Southerly winds should decrease to 15 to 20 mph tonight.

Stanton, Rankin, Big Lake, Big Spring and Garden City reported some clouds and a chance for rain this morning, although one man said he wouldn't bet on it.

Clear skies and winds were reported in Andrews, Lamesa and Odessa.

Carter delays submitting hot Middle East arms sale package

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - President Carter agreed Wednesday to delay briefly the submission of his controversial Middle East arms sale package to Congress, but reaffirmed his determination to wait only a few days and to fight attempts to block portions of the package.

White House press secretary Jody Powell announced the delay, saying the proposed sale of jets to Israel, Egypt and Saudi Arabia will be submitted to Congress" no later than early next week." Friday is considered the most likely day for submission of the proposals.

In a flurry of congressional and executive branch meetings on the topic, there was no sign of an impending compromise that might head off a legislative battle.

Several senators predicted, after a meeting with Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, that Congress will reject the sales to all three procedural grounds if Carter continues to treat them as a package.

Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan is to meet Thursday morning with a group of senators at the Watergate Hotel. The arms package is likely to be a major topic. Israeli officials maintained it was not discussed Wednesday during Dayan's lengthy talks on Middle East negotiations with Vance. The Dayan-Vance talks are to be completed Thursday.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., who declared Tuesday that the arms sale proposals would be disapproved by Congress, modified that prediction Wednesday. Told that Chairman Clement J. Zablocki, D-Wis., of the House International Relations Committee believed that committee would narrowly fail to recommend that the sale be blocked. O'Neill confessed to making "a snap judgment" and said, "I guess Zablocki knows more about his committee than I do."

White House officials continued to predict that Carter will prevail on the issue. But Powell said the fight in Congress is bound to be "very close and very tough."

"The real issue, which Congress and the country must decide," he said, "is whether it is in the best interest of the United States to maintain, without deviation, its historic commitment to the security of Israel while at the same time we are seeking closer ties with the moderate Arab nations. The president feels strongly that it is."

The press secretary added: "The Congress and the country will have to decide what kind of Middle East we want in the 1980s - whether we want a Middle East where those who seek peace, both among the Arabs and the Israelis, have confidence in the United States, or a Middle East where those moderate Arab nations may be forced to turn to others who don't necessarily share the U.S. commitment to peace and the

In recent days, the opposition to the airplane sales has shifted from the supplying of warplanes to Saudi Arabia - which Israel declares will jeopardize its security — to Carter's decision to treat the sales to all three countries as a package. If planes for one country are voted down, Carter has said, he will withdraw the proposal to sell warplanes to the other two countries involved.

'If the president persists in saying take it all or leave it all, the chances are we will leave it all," said Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., after meeting with Vance Wednesday. At the same time. Javits strongly endorsed supplying warplanes to Israel and used sympathetic language to describe the military needs of Egypt and Saudi Arabia.

The 10 senators who met with Vance were reported to be unanimously opposed to the package nature of the Carter proposals, although they have differences of opinion about the component parts.

The sale of the warplanes can proceed unless the House and Senate pass resolutions of disapproval by majority vote within 30 days after submission of the proposals to Congress. The sales to each of the three countries will be voted on

Tension level raised among Italian leaders

The Los Angeles Times

ROME - A regional official of the Christian Democratic Party was shot in the legs on a Rome street Wednesday, heightening tension among political leaders awaiting word of Aldo Moro, the kidnapped former prime minister.

A telephone call to a Rome newspaper said that the shooting was the work of the Red Brigades, who have taken responsibility for the kidnapping of Moro and the killing of his five guards March 16. The Red Brigades have also said that they were responsible for the killing of two prison guards, one in Milan and one in Turin, in the almost six weeks since Moro was taken captive.

Girolamo Mechelli, former president of the regional government of Lazio, the region surrounding Rome, was shot outside his residence Wednesday morning by a group of three men and a woman. The escape car was found less than 200 yards away but there were no substantial

The anxiety of Italians was dramatized two hours later by Pope Paul VI, who struck an unusually gloomy note in talking about the Moro case, which, he said, "is sadly symbolic of a situation that fills the spirit with bitterness.'

"We still wish, in the name of God, that the end of this drama, in the interest of the same aggressors, will be peaceful and tranquil." he said.

Head-on clash expected on West's Africa plan

By SERGE SCHMEMANN Associated Press Writer

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) - South Africa's acceptance of the Western settlement plan for South-West Africa has set the scene for a head-on diplomatic clash between the Soviets and the West over Africa.

Foreign Secretary Donald Jamieson of Canada, speaking for all five Western authors of the South-West African settlement plan, made clear on Tuesday that the Western blueprint for a democratic transition to an independent Namibia, as the territory also is known, was on a "take-it-or-leave-it" basis. South-West Africa is administered by South Africa and a settlement could mean independence by Dec. 31.

"We are not speaking of concessions one way or another."

Jamieson declared at the United Nations in New York, where South-West Africa is currently the subject of debate in a special General Assembly

The speculation here is that the militant South-West Africa People's Organization, called SWAPO, will impose conditions on the pian, prompting the organization's Soviet backers to veto it when it comes before the U.N. Security Council.

In a statement at the United Nations on Tuesday, Soviet Am-bassador Oleg A. Troyanovsky declared: "We support the transfer of all power in Namibia to the political forces headed by SWAPO."

A Soviet veto would be in effect a gauntlet cast by the Russians before the United States, Britain, Canada, France and West Germany, since by officially sponsoring the plan and by winning South Africa's acceptance the five have taken direct responsibility for its success or failure.

Prime Minister John Vorster of South Africa stressed this point in his letter of acceptance Tuesday when he said: "Bearing in mind ... the assurance by the five Western powers on the Security Council that their proposals are now in a final and definitive form, and that the five are giving them their unreserved backing, the South African government accepts these proposals.

Should the Soviets reject the plan, the Western five would appear to be bound to recognize a South Africabacked "internal settlement" in the territory, whose population is made up of 722,000 blacks and 99,000 whites.

TOKYO - Prime Minister Takeo Fukuda said Wednesday that he would tell President Carter that World peace cannot be insured only with stability in Europe and the United States," when the two leaders meet in Washington next Wednesday.

"Only with prosperity and stability in Asia can there be stability in the world. I intend to stress strongly that America must not detach itelf from Asia," the 73-year-old premier said.

Fukuda made the statement in an interview on the eve of his departure Sunday for his second meeting in two years with Carter.

The premier also made these points:

-If the United States "acts with a posture of assuming responsibility toward the world economy." the solution to the problem of stabilizing the dollar" will come forth naturally.

-Fukuda will emphasize to Carter again the vital importance of developing peaceful uses of nuclear energy while striving to check the proliferation of nuclear weapons.

-The premier will tell Carter that he wants to bring Japan's growing current accounts surplus, which hit $14.1 billion in Japanese fiscal 1977 (ending March 31), down to the vicinity of $6 billion in fiscal 1978.

Fukuda commented about what he called the importance of an American economic and military presence in Asia when asked about reports from other high Japanese officials that the premier would seek from Carter a reaffirmation of an American commitment to Asia.

After the U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam, Asian countries thought the United States might lose interest in Asia and, as a result, felt uneasy. There were many countries like that...now such apprehensions have diminished.

"But I intend to tell President Carter that world peace cannot be insured only with stability in Europe and the United States. Only with prosperity and stability in Asia can there be stability in the world. I intend to stress strongly that America must not detach itself from Asia," he said.

Reminded that he expressed the same opinion to Carter when he visited Washington in March last year, Fukuda said there was "no special implication" in his intention to repeat it again this year.

Asked if Carter did not listen sufficiently last year, Fukuda said:

"He listened. But this is important. Japan is in Asia. It would not do not to take up this issue.'

In response to a question, Fukuda also said that the buildup of the Soviet naval fleet in the Pacific and a decline in the strength of the U.S. 7th Fleet in the western Pacific was "a big

But he said that he did not intend to bring it up in his meeting with Carter which he said would last "only three and a half hours, including discussions over lunch.

'As prime minister of a country with little military power, rather than taking up this kind of problem in the limited time available, there are many other problems to discuss," he Heading the list of those "other problems," he indicated, would be what he called "an era of uncertainty filled with troubles" facing the world economy in the future, including fears about an emergence of protectionism.

"To prevent a tragedy from occurring (in the world economy), the responsibility of the United States. which is the No. 1 economic power in military power, is very large. America's responsibility has never been larger than it is now. I want the American government, based upon realization of this fact, to act with responsibility, courage and pride," he

Fukuda was asked what he intended to request Carter to do to stabilize the value of the dollar - a frequent Japanese plea as the dollar has lost some 30 percent of its value against the yen since the beginning of 1977. and he replied:

"I want the United States to act with a posture of assuming responsibility toward the world economy. If that kind of posture is made clear, the (solution) will come forth naturally."

Although the premier's comments indicated that he was not happy with the Carter administation's international economic policies, Fukuda carefully avoided any direct criticism of the United States, even when asked about an American promise made last Jan. 13 which alrady has been broken. That was a promise by the United States in a joint trade statement that Carter's energy bill would be enacted within 90 days, or by April 13.

"I have absolutely no desire to criticize the United States for not carrying out a promise. But I am looking forward to passage of the energy bill without major amendment," he said.

Wife charged with eagle witness death

UVALDE, Texas (AP) - The death of a prosecution witness who testified at last year's widely publicized eagle-hunting trial has been blamed on his estranged wife.

The woman surrendered to authorities in the office of a San Antonio attorney. Charges were filed after an investigation by Uvalde Texas Ranger Joaquin Jackson, Real County Sheriff John Elliott and state Zimmerman was found early Monday by his son, 'ecil, on the floor of the foreman's quarters at the Eagle Ranch in the northwest part of the county. Police said he had been hit by a shotgun blast.

Elliott and Jackson had questioned Mrs. Zimmerman at her home in Kerrville Tuesday night. The couple was separated and a divorce action was pending in district court at Leakey

Jackson said he is convinced the shooting is unrelated to Zimmerman's testimony, which helped convict a Real County commissioner and two other men. It was Zimmerman's call to a state game warden in December 1975 that touched off a state and federal probe of airborne eagle hunting over ranches in rugged Real County.

Zimmerman testified at the federal court trial in San Antonio that he called a game warden after hearing shots fired from a helicopter flying over the ranch in pursuit of a golden eagle. He also told the court signs at the ranch were vandalized after he notified state officials of the hunting incident.

Later, he told authorities his life had been

The income levels represent the cost of three hypothetical lists of goods and services, including taxes, drawn up in the mid-1960s to portray the three relative standards of living.

The survey showed that a dollar goes the farthest in Austin, where a family can maintain a low standard of living on $9,286 a year, a moderate standard on $14,776 and a high standard on $21,727.

But if that family moved to Boston, it would cost $20,609 to maintain a moderate standard. And in metropolitan New York, it would take $31,655 to keep up a high standard. # Wallace and Poerner

Chairman Mack Wallace and Member John H. Poerner of the Texas Railroad Commission deserve nomination for new terms in the May 6 Democrat primary.

Wallace has been a member of the commission since 1973, and he has become an articulate spokesman for a practical, workable energy policy. He is thoroughly familiar with the energy situation and he speaks out loudly and clearly for what he believes is right and in the best interests of the Lone Star State.

He predicts that if oil exploration is encouraged the life of productive fields will be doubled. This would provide time for coal. lignite, nuclear plants and other energy supplies to be developed without curbing the national economy

Wallace knows whereof he speaks and he doesn't pull any punches in telling it like it is or in placing the blame for the energy crisis where it belongs - in Washington, D.C.

He campaigned here recently and was scheduled to address the Midland Downtown Rotary Club today noon.

Poerner, who was named to the commission last year and who now seeks the Democrat nomination for the unexpired term, is a businessman and engineer from Hondo. He agrees with Wallace in that American know-how and technology will meet the total energy challenge. provided that free enterprise is allowed to function. Both are determined to protect the natural resources of Texas, while, at the same time, increasing oil and gas production.

PUBLISHER

The Hondo resident attended a reception given in his honor here shortly after his appointment to the commission last year. He also campaigned here recently.

Poerner is a veteran of three terms in the Texas Legislature. where he established an enviable record.

His hometown newspaper. The Hondo Anvil Herald, had this to say about Poerner in a recent edition.

"John Poerner is a fair-minded man. He is an honest man. He is a man of high integrity and straight-forwardness. He is a strong forthright leader who will never be afflicted with tunnel vision when vital state issues are to be decided."

The Reporter-Telegram endorses Mack Wallace and John Poerner for nomination as members of the Texas Railroad Commission, the state's most important regulatory agency, in the May 6 Democratic Party primary.

The winner of the race for the unexpired term will face James W. Lacy of Midland, who is unopposed in the Republican primary, in the November general election.

The Vietnam vet

The Vietnam veteran had a tougher job than military men in earlier wars simply because of the unpopularity of the conflict and the many difficulties in waging it.

At the same time, he has been shortchanged in national respect and robbed of personal pride in his performance, no matter how commendable his record.

But he does have something going for him.

A handful of congressmen who served in the armed forces during the Vietnam era have vowed to fight the distaste and disinterest to which the Vietnam vet has fallen victim. They've formed a caucus to push for "both substantive programs and symbolic gestures" on behalf of their less fortunate comrades.

Veterans Administration chief Max Cleland and White House adviser Stu Eizenstat to demand a study of the problem of the Vietnam veteran and to seek increased VA benefits for him.

Evidence of appreciation and gestures of encouragement from his friends and neighbors would be equally welcome.

WASHINGTON - I was shocked to turn on the television set last week and see FBI agents taking advantage of the First Amendment to protest the indictments of three of their own for allegedly violating the First Amendment rights of others.

Demonstrating in the streets is not what the FBI does best. Under J. # Idi Amin gets formal U.S. frown

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - For years, we have been reporting on the atrocities of Uganda's grand sachem, Idi Amin, who appears to be a comic-opera figure but is no laughing matter. His goons have slaughtered an estimated 150,000 of his subjects, often for frivolous reasons.

With a great show of disapproval. the United States cut off Amin's foreign aid in 1973. Yet he flies around in grand style in a Grunman Gulfstream jet that is serviced every year at the company plant in Savannah, Ga. Page Airways, another American company, has provided flight crews to into para-military aircraft. We have now learned that the 20 pilots, who hastily returned to Uganda after our report was published, were admitted to the United States on A-2 priority diplomatic visas. Confidential sources say 82 Ugandans entered the country on diplomatic visas. Several of them belong to Amin's notoriously brutal State Research Bureau.

Page Airways and Hanner are currently under investigation by the Securities and Exchange Commission for allegedly making $2.5 million worth of illegal payments to foreign officials. # The Holocaust, and beyond, discussed by columnist

WASHINGTON - When a human tragedy of the Holocaust's enormity is put into the living rooms of an estimated 120 million people - as NBC's celebrated docu-drama was there is an inevitable shock-wave The impact of the series, the conmentary in the print media and the consequent conversations people have among themselves combine to create a powerful punch to the American payche. The tremors can sober, provide needed education, distort and confuse. When the last bit of emotion is current rush into acres of com-

wrung out, there should be reflection on the Holocaust and its implications. First off, the extermination of some 6 million Jews and 500,000 gypsies by the Nazis is a unique horror in world history. Monstrous leaders have annihilated millions of people before. and countless numbers have been murdered even since the Nazi killings. But nowhere in history were given peoples — Jews and gypsies — murdered solely because of what they

True, the Nazis killed millions of others — priests, nuns, partisans, Communists, anarchists, political foes, "enemies of the state." Brutal and inhuman as these killings were, the victims were selected not for what they were at birth but for what they said or did. If any of the aforementioned complied with the Nazi masters, they were spared. If a Jew gypsy complied, he was still doomed.

Moreover, it doesn't quite work to put the mass murder of Jews in the same Morror bin with the people who died as victims of Josef Stalin, Mao. the wanton Turks of 1915 (responsible for the massacre of 500,000 Armenians), the blood-soaked Communist Cambodian regime, Uganda's Idi Amin, Ghengis Khan or other murderous tyrants. Many among these millions could have lived if they converted ideology or religion. became traitors, or just plain signed

The Holocaust also stands alone because it brought together Hitler's insane racism with German efficiency and a dangerous trend in German medicine toward ulitarianisms. Ovens and chemicals were cost-efficient. Long before Hitler's madness, German doctors discussed the forced "good death" of undesirable people.

Indeed, several hundred thousand "defective" Germans were gassed or oisoned in German institutions before the Holocaust. If anyone thinks uniqueness in German character brought on these horrors, consider the strong tendency in the United States to eliminate defectives or potential defectives. There was even a bill in one state legislature calling for the termination of the lives of Mongoloids and other "hopeless" immates in state

Anyway. Hitler proclaimed that Germany must be rid of the consummate evil of Jewry, and thus he dehumanized Jews. That was not only immoral but irrational. Jews are humans, are capable of doing good and bad like any other human beings. So it is just as mistaken to dehumanize Jews by regarding them as incapable of making mistakes or of doing wrong

For example, it is an understandable, even well-intentioned mistake for Israel's most ardent supporters to justify that government's policies in terms of the Holocaust. Because the world stood still while Hitler's murderous racism against Jews and gypsies became virulent does not mean that Israel is infallible, clothed in holiness born of the Holocaust.

Any attempt to exploit the powerful impact of NBC's program and the enormous feeling left in its wake is a disservice to Israel in the long run. Arie (Lova) Eliav is a hero in Israel, though as a member of the Knesset he is strongly opposed to the Begin government's policies. Eliav. a committed Zionist, left the Soviet Union as a small boy when his father was persecuted. As a teen-ager, he used a rifle to guard Jewish settlements in Palestine He fought Nazi armies and, afterwards, was part of a Jewish un-derground which helped rescue survivors of the death camps. Jailed by the British. Eliav escaped and wound up as a daring hero in the Israeli-Arab wars. His wife is a survivor of the Holocaust.

But here is what Elias says

"Israelis are playing on the guilt feelings of American Jews, filling them with horrible equations that the PLO are Nazis. Arafat is Hitler, the whole thing is annihilation. We in Israel are playing on the annihilation

'So American Jews are saying. What the hell, we are sitting in the nice villas of the suburbs ... and these people are going to be annihilated." But this is not true. We are not going to be annihilated. We are the strongest military power in the whole Middle East, and getting stronger.

The Holocaust stands forever as a unique horror. The resolution of the Middle East dispute, and the sound peace which Israel and the Arab nations need so badly, cannot be achieved if we are directed solely by powerful, emotional tides. There must be an honest appraisal of all the facts, and Israel's case must be presented on merit.

dinner to honor Snelson Friday SAN ANGELO - State Senator W. E. "Pete" Snelson of Midland will be honored here Friday as a legislator and as "one of the area's most popular citizens."

Snelson represents the 35-county 25th Senatorial District, reputed to be the largest state senatorial district in the nation.

Snelson's district extends southeasterly and southwesterly from Midland to the Rio Grande.

The program, billed as the "Sen. Pete Snelson Appreciation Reception and Dinner," will begin with a 6:30 p.m. reception on the first floor of the Houston Harte University Center at Angelo State University.

The dinner, which is open to the public, will be at 7 p.m. in the center's

The program is to recognize the "outstanding job Sen. Snelson has performed in representing the sprawling 25th Senatorial District of Texas," said Frank Junell, the fete's program chairman. Junell, a San Angelo banker, is a former president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Snelson, an advertising executive, was elected to the Texas House of Representatives in 1960 and was first elected to the Texas Senate in 1964.

The senator's district takes in 59,000 square miles, and includes about 400 local governments and 74 school districts.

Snelson, a native of Grandfalls, holds the master's degree in journalism from Northwestern Univer-

He has served as president pro tem of the Senate and serves on several Senate committees.

Joining him at the Friday program will be his wife, Susan, and their children.

New Odessa protest march due Saturday

ODESSA - A Saturday afternoon march in Odessa to focus on "flaws" in Ector County and to protest an inquest jury's death in the case of Larry Lozano has been granted the Committee of Concerned Citizens for Justice.

On Tuesday, the Odessa City Council granted a parade permit to the committee.

The march is to begin at 2 p.m. Saturday at St. Joseph Catholic Church at 907 S. Dixie St.

Rebecca Bitolas, who appeared before the council to request the parade permit, said the Mexican-American community members she represented felt their viewpoint was not voiced in the April 11-12 hearings to determine the cause of the Jan. 22 death of Lozano in the Ector County Jail where he was an inmate. "We feel this way we will be heard," she said.

One faction contends that Lozano. 27, was beaten and kicked to death while jailed. Others say he did injury to himself after he allegedly went 'berserk' and sheriff deputies and other lawman tried to restrain him.

Odessa Police Chief Jack Tomlin told the council Tuesday that previous protests had been carried out peacefully and that no uprising during the march was likely....

The campaign simplified: The integrity, experience and proven record of Dolph Briscoe! Against the promises of his opponents.

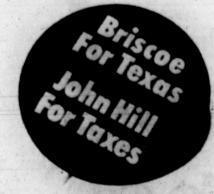

Just try the other candidates on for size. One of Governor Briscoe's opponents was driven out of office in the wake of the Sharpstown scandal. While in office he presided over one of the most divided state governments of modern times. He was also responsible, first as Lt. Governor and then as Governor, for five tax increases by five successive sessions of the Texas Legislature.

Governor Briscoe's other and most active opponent, John Hill, is a big government man. A big spender in the manner of the 1960's. He's big on promises, but what he doesn't tell you is how he'll keep those promises - with your tax dollars.

If Hill's promises are kept, be assured of one thing: you will be faced with a State Income Tax next year.

Governor Briscoe believes — as do most Texans - that such a tax would be bad for our State, burdensome to our taxpayers, stifling to our economy and a direct contributor to inflation in the years ahead.

There is just one candidate in this primary who has a proven record of appropriate and productive leadership. Let's keep Dolph Briscoe as our Governor.

Why Should Dolph Briscoe Be Governor for 10 Years?

There is no good reason!

No other Texas Governor has ever asked for 10 years. much less been elected for 10 years. Dolph Briscoe's record does not merit 10 years in office:

* Yet Briscoe has spont more than $2 million in this campaign - including $900,000 his supporters borrowed from 13 banks - to get 10 years in office.

* Property taxes have increased by 1 BILLION DOLLARS since Briscoe was elected; so far, he has done nothing to provide property tax relief Wolfers costs have more than doubled under Briscoe.

without a fair increase in benefits for those people who really deserve them. The reason is waste. The worst example is Briscoe's own Office of Migrant Affairs, which spends $8,000 for each person it helps find a new job.

Utility rates have skyrocketed while Briscoe has been rnor, without a single sign of concern by the Governor.

It was at the deCompiegne home that she anxiously awaited the next dramatic pas de deau (airborn lift) with partner Bill Martin-Viscount, artistic director of the PCB.

Miss Burton was trained mostly in the English method of ballet (Margo Fontaine is a superlative example of this style). Martin-Viscount on the other hand was trained in Moscow with the Russian method.

Officer thanked for curing wife

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) - A Massachusetts man wrote a letter to Connecticut state police thanking them for giving his "lead-footed" wife a speeding ticket.

The letter thanks state police trooper James Brezniak for his efficiency in issuing a ticket to the man's wife

'The Russian method is much more daring than that of the English," she says with an admiring tone and a hint of a shutter. "The form is Russian arabesque with bent legs, and there are lots of risky lifts.'

Ballerina's 'casual' gestures

A nervous laugh takes us to the next subject-her faux pas or otherwise misfortunes on stage. There was the time she was being held by a dancer in a tree suit and vigorously fell back into the non-existant arms of a nonexistant partner. Then there was the time her partner dropped her-actually he caught her costume, it ripped, and she kept on going.

But this was long ago. Now she has the countenance of a professional. And she has a string of credits to back

The 34-year-old from Atlanta received a Ford Foundation scholarship to the School of American Ballet in New York at age 16, and a year later she joined the New York City Ballet, participating in the company's first tour of the Soviet Union and Europe. She is currently a principal dancer with the Atlanta Ballet, teaches at the Atlanta School of Ballet, travels around the country to dance at the request of ballet com-for driving 66 mph in a 55 mph zone. The unidentified man's letter accounted for his wife's speeding this way: "Unfortunately, she inherited a genetic mutation from both her parents that had not been overcome until three children. Her accomplishments go on

With her tiny frame and stately presence she looks the part of a princess. Obviously others have thought the same since that seems to be her typical role. She says she's a little too short, five-feet exactly, to dance in a line with other adult dancers. But that has worked to her advantage since she has been singled out to dance leading roles and she 'can be partnered easily"

Her princess roles, among them the role of the Sugar Plum Fairy in the PCB production of "The Nutcracker Suite", have strengthened her love for classical ballet. "I love the magic of t-the illusion," she said wistfully. 'Modern dance can get earthy and bizarre. But classical ballet is ethereal. I love the spiritual part of

Taped discussion reduces confusion

A patient often hears little of physician's explanation because of stress and anxiety. One possible solution was offered recently at a meeting of the American Society of Clinical Oncology when Dr. Ernest H. Rosenbaum and Isadora Rosenbaum described tape-recorded discussions during consultations with patients.

The taped discussion, made on a standard cassett recorder, is given to the patient to review at home with family members. This is believed to reduce confusion in the mind of the patient and serves to reinforce the information provided in the consultation such as diet, special procedures and medication.

Ballerina Anne Burton, who danced this week as guest performer for the Permian Civic Ballet's "Spring Gala", is a meticulous dancer who thinks of the observor as a painter. Always conscious of correctness of line and proper balance of form, she also conscious of keeping her body arms and legs to the fore so the imaginary painter won't have to worry with unusual problems of perspective (foreshortening). She laughs at the thought of doing classical ballet in Texas since the state has always held more of a Lone Ranger image in her mind. (Staff photos by Brian Hendershot)

Although it originated in Mexico. the taco has become an American in-

While Mexicans favor the soft tacomade with a tortilla that is heated but not fried. Americans prefer crisp taco shells and usually fill them with ground beef while Mexicans use shredded meat

Here are several taco recipes which demonstrate different methods of preparing the shells. One recipe calls for baking buttered tortillas and then folding them. Another employs commercial shells. When making fried tacos, you can fill the tortillas and then fry them, or you can fry and fold the tortilla and then add the meat and other ingredients.

1 pound ground beef 3-4 teaspoon salt

1 (8 ounce) can tomato sauce 1-4 teaspoon hot pepper sauce 11-2 teaspoons chili powder 1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese 24 tortillas Shredded lettuce

Heat 2 tablespoons oil in a skillet, add beef and brown, breaking up with a fork. Sprinkle with salt. Add tomato sauce, hot pepper sauce and chili powder. Simmer, stirring occasionally, until liquid evaporates, about 15 to 20 minutes. Add cheese and stir until partially melted. Cool.

Dip each tortilla in hot oil to soften. Fold in half on paper towels. Fill each 1-3 full. Wrap each taco in plastic wrap and freeze. To serve, unwrap frozen tacos and overlap in shallow baking pan. Bake at 400 degrees 15 minutes. Fill each with shredded lettuce. Makes 24 tacos.

Atlanta must wait until '81 to try rail transmit system

By CHARLES CAMPBELL

ATLANTA (AP) - After paying for rail mass transit for six years, people in Atlanta finally have something to look at - though still nothing to ride. Cranes, barricades and dynamite blasts invaded the city's core, tunnels were dug under famed

Peachtree Street, several downtown thoroughfares were blocked and a 12-mile gash was cut for the first Huge concrete structures rose east of downtown, where much of the rail system is elevated. Several downtown blocks fell to make way for the rails. And Underground Atlanta, the tourist attraction of shops and nightspots beneath a section of downtown streets, lost half its territory to the right-of-way. Officials at MARTA - the Metropolitan Atlanta Rapid Transit Authority — say they will open this mile, X-shaped layout approved by voters in a November 1971 referendum.

Phase A, the only portion of the plan funded, will extend 8 miles east, 4 miles west, 2 miles north and a few blocks south from a central station at Five Points, a downtown intersection. That much is to be completed by April 1981.

There is no timetable, even tentative, for completing the rest of the system. "It is totally dependent on federal funds," a MARTA spokesman says.

But the authority has projected the number of passengers expected to use each station in 1990 -175,000 daily at Five Points, the busiest - assuming that the entire 53-mile setup is operating, ferrying commuters from the affluent northeastern suburbs and whisking travelers south to the airport.

Projections for the year 2000 assume more than 100 miles of rails in five counties will be operating year, on Christmas Day, the first 6.7 miles of the 53-Voters in two of those five counties rejected MARTA

Some critics say a rapid rail system is obsolete, or Money to build the system is from a 1 percent local at best wrong for Atlanta, whose sprawling suburbs sales tax accepted in the same referendum and from federal taxes, which cover $800 million of the $1.02 MARTA concerned that it might be building for the WASHINGTON (AP) - Corporations have a constitutional right to speak out on all political issues, a sharply divided Supreme Court ruled Wednesday.

Voting 5-4, the justices struck down a Massachusetts law that had barred corporations from spending money to make known views on issues not materially affecting their business. The court's majority, in a sweeping freespeech protections cannot be watered down for corporations.

In a strongly worded dissent, Justice Byron R. White said the court may have killed the federal Corrupt Practices Act, a law barring corporations from spending money to help political candidates.

"If the corporate identity of the speaker makes no difference, all the court has done is to reserve the formal interment of the Corrupt Prac-opinion written by Justice Lewis F. tices Act and similar state statutes for Powell Jr., said the Constitution's another day," White contended. The dissenters said today's decision

'casts considerable doubt" on the constitutionality of laws in 31 states which limit corporate political activity. They did not name the states.

The Massachusetts law barring corporations from spending money to oppose any law not "materially affec-ting" them was challenged by five corporations, which argued their free speech rights were being violated. The state's Supreme Judicial Court upheld the law.

The controversy arose in 1976 when the corporations wanted to spend money for an advertising campaign in opposition to a proposed graduated state income tax in Massachusetts. The state has only a flat-rate tax on individual income, and the proposed change was defeated. The corporations appealing the state court's ruling were the First National Bank of Boston, New England Merchants National Bank, the Gillette Co., Digital Equipment Corp.

and the Wyman-Gordon Co. Joining Powell in the majority were Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justices Potter Stewart, Harry A. Blackmun and John Paul Stevens.

Dissenting along with White were Justices William J. Brennan Jr., Thurgood Marshall and William H. Rehnquist.

Dear Dr. Solomon: Do nerves have anything to do with the skin rashes you sometimes get when you take certain drugs?—Christie L.

Dear Christie: Drug eruptions, as they are called, are quite common. Some drugs are more likely to cause them than others-antibiotics, for instance-and some people are especially sensitive. And it is possible that a person's state of mind may have something to do with this.

Dr. Sataoshi Okuse of Sapporo Medical College in Japan has done a study that influences both allergic and neurotic factors are involved in drug-induced skin troubles-especially those due to multiple drugs. He suggests that the doctor take into consideration the patient's emotional attitude as well as the underlying disease and the drug itself.

Any unusual effect of a drug-such as a skin eruption-should be brought to the immediate attention of the doctor, of course. It is a warning sign that something may be wrong and that other, more serious results may follow. One must never tell oneself it is "just nerves." It is for the doctor to decide what is amiss and whether it is safe to go on taking the drug.

Dear Dr. Solomon: Is it true that being an only child can make it more difficult to mix with other people and get along well with them later on?—Charlotte T.

Dear Charlotte: I think that the quality of home life, the warmth and love that a child gets, are a good deal more important than how many children there are in the family-as far as the child's whole development goes. A recent study of 3,000 school children conducted by a child phychologist of the University of Minnesota, Shirley Moore, should encourage you. The notion that an only child is less popular with other children is, she says, a myth. The single child does enter nursery-age play groups more slowly at first but soon makes up for lost time. One thing that is very important is that single children be thrown together with others at the pre-school level-neighborhood friends or an informal play

Elevator blast witnesses wary

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - State Rep. Joe Hubenak says his legislative committee may have go behind closed doors to obtain testimony from persons concerning reasons that might shed some light on recent grain elevator explosions.

Hubenak said several witnesses have expressed fear of financial reprisals because of pending lawsuits stemming from the recent blasts, especially from insurance companies who might refuse claims. The committee faces an Oct. 1 deadline and is scheduled to hold six hearings similar to the one conducted here Tuesday before it reports its findings to the Legislature.

"Witnesses have come up off the cuff to give information," said Hubenak, "but they are afraid to do it on the record.

The Rosenburg lawmaker indicated the committee may have to seek special permission to conduct closed-door hearings if witnesses continue to be reluctant.

Kenneth Hubbell, assistant area director of the federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration here, suggested a take-over by the state on elevator inspections might be in order. Hubbell said the federal act that created OSHA in 1970 has no provisions for consultation with elevator operators on safety questions.

Gary Moore, director of safety and insurance of Dimmitt Agra-Industries, said industry officials on the High Plains are "very concerned about the problems" since low humidity in the area is believed to be a contributing factor in the explosions. Moore noted, however, that elevator operators have difficulty understanding OSHA regulations.

Robert Mikeska, a Hubenak aide, said additional funds to research grain dust problems at elevators may be recommended by the House committee in the final report, along with the reinstitution of funds to the Texas Occupational Safety Board for their administration of an inspection program.

Mikeska noted that Texas is one of eight states in the country with no state budget for an occpational safety board.

Voters wipe out gay rights law By MARY VANDEMARK

Associated Press Writer ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) - Voters repealed the gay rights section of St. Paul's human rights ordinance Tuesday, approving an initiative by about 2-1.

With 140 of the city's 161 precincts counted, there were 46,530 votes in favor of the initiative and 24,989 against. The vote deletes from the human rights ordinance a four-year-old amendment prohibiting discrimination in housing, employment, education and public accommodation on the basis of "sexual and affectional preference." Shouts of "Hallelujah" and "Praise the Lord!" greeted announcements of vote totals at Temple Baptist Church, where about 200 proponents of the initiative gathered after the polls closed.

The church's pastor, the Rev. Richard Angwin, was a leader of the repeal effort. He said the vote means homosexuals "will have to keep their sin quiet." In a victory address 90 minutes after the polls closed, Angwin called the amendment, approved by the City Council four years ago, "a travesty that the people of St. Paul would never have stood for had we been given the opportunity to vote."

Kerry Woodward, campaign manager for St. Paul Citizens for Human Rights, said Angwin and his-followers based their campaign on "fear, hatred and deceitful tactics."

eral, 1,980 feet from Business poor in talk, rich in purchasing

NEW YORK (AP) - Those surveys of consumer and business expectations appear oddly at variance with the buying mood now appearing in the stock, housing, automotive and other markets. Consumer confidence in March fell to a two-year low, said the Survey Research Center at the University of Michigan. And financial executives too are said to be less optimistic about the economy. At the same time, sales of many items rose and money poured into the stock market as suddenly as water from a broken dam, fortunately to be soaked up by stocks that had grown dry as an unused sponge.

The people at the Survey Research Center ordinarilly contend that a poor consumer mood almost inevitably is reflected in future sales, but for the time being they are backing off from that position. People are buying goods, they say, because of fears that future prices will be even higher, a phenomenon that if true means problems for Washington's anti-inflation program. Anticipatory buying, it has been noted in the past, is both an expression of low confidence in the nation's economic leadership and a self-fulfilling prophecy of more inflation to come. Executives surveyed in a Conference Board survey also showed less confidence in the ability of the country to restrain inflation. Those questioned look for prices to rise 6.4 percent this year, 6.5 in 1979. While such increases are far below double-digit range, they represent a marked changed from attitudes as recently as last October, when financial executives thought inflation would recede.

is being reflected in public statements by executives. Executives of the nation's biggest companies are making statements that haven't been heard in a while. In Denver this week, Frank Cary, chairman of International Business Machines, told annual
