

'Selfish' Firing Of Top Aides Related By Nixon

NEW YORK (UPI) — In a "selfish" effort to save his presidency, Richard Nixon concedes, he fired his close friends John Ehrlichman and H.R. Haldeman for covering up Watergate — "things that I myself was part of."

In the first installment of his long-awaited memoirs published Sunday in The New York Times and other newspapers, Nixon broke no new ground about the scandal that drove him from office. In fact, his account differed from what some of his closest associates have written.

The writing was cool, almost detached. The former president renewed a theme from his Aug. 8, 1974, resignation speech — that he had committed no crime or misdemeanor warranting impeachment, and was quitting simply because his political base had eroded.

And there was none of the emotional catharsis that accompanied portions of Nixon's television interviews last summer with David Frost, when he declared dramatically: "I have impeached myself. I let the American people down, and I have to carry that burden with me for the rest of my life."

Nixon's explanation of the first 12 months of the scandal was in the first of seven installments excerpted from "RN: The Memoirs of Richard Nixon," a 400,000-word book that will be published May 15 by Grosset and Dunlap.

In it he acknowledges his participation in efforts to cover up the break in June 17, 1972, at Democratic headquarters at the Watergate, and concedes that in all of his statements on the scandal "I failed to tell Americans what they wanted to hear — how a president of the United States could so incompetently allow himself to get in such a situation."

But he says his actions not only were not criminal, but the result of a series of tactical errors or misjudgments made as the Watergate web inexorably tightened around the Oval Office.

"I felt sure it was just a public relations problem that needed only a public relations solution," Nixon wrote.

And when he sought to discredit the testimony of his fired counsel, John W. Dean III, before the Senate Watergate Committee, Nixon acknowledged "I worried about the wrong problem. I went off on a tangent by concentrating all our attention and resources on trying to refute Dean."

"In the end it would make less difference [that] I was not as involved as Dean had alleged than that I was not as uninvolved as I had claimed."

Ironically, the first installment came on the fifth anniversary of the day Nixon accepted the forced resignations of Haldeman and Ehrlichman. With the statement they were "two of the finest public servants it has been my privilege to know." Ehrlichman was released Thursday from federal prison in Safford, Ariz. He had served 18 months for conspiracy and perjury in the Watergate cover-up and the break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Haldeman, serving his Watergate cover-up sentence at the Lompoc, Calif., prison farm, will be eligible for parole in mid-June. Federal parole officials will interview him Tuesday and Wednesday.

A third Nixon confidant, former Attorney General John Mitchell, is on surgical furlough from the prison at Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala. It is considered doubtful he ever will go back, since he too is eligible for parole in mid-June.

"I knew instinctively that Haldeman and Ehrlichman were going to have to leave the White House," Nixon wrote. "I see See 'SELFISH' FIRING Page 20"

Blind Tech Senior Making Mark As Teacher Of Choral Music

By JEFF SOUTH

LON SITTON can't see his students. But he has a gift for hearing them — and that, after all, is what teaching music is about.

"You don't have to have sight to tell what sounds good. You just have to listen, and listen very carefully," said Sitton, 24, a student teacher in the music department at Coronado High School.

He is blind. You wouldn't know that, however, when he stands before young men in the Coronado choral room.

There's no difference. Lon still has to do everything he'd expect from a person with sight. And he does his job very well. Choral director Jerry Neunshwander, Sitton's mentor at the high school, said:

"The kids have learned a lot from him. They always try to get a student teacher, no matter who he is, to see what they can get away with. But Lon has their respect. He's a very fine musician, and the students realize he has much to offer them," Neunshwander said.

Sitton, who sang in church choirs as far back as he can remember, during his childhood in Idalou, is a music education major at Texas Tech.

A university senior, he has been student-teaching at Coronado since mid-January.

"College courses are great, but you really don't know what teaching is like until you're out in the real world working with kids. Before you get up in front of a group of students, you have to know exactly what you're doing," Sitton said.

I have to have the music all worked out in my mind. When I stand to direct a choir, I've got to know how I want each note to sound before the students open their mouths.

For a person who is blind, that takes extra work.

Obviously I can't read the score. So I have to memorize it," Sitton said. He said he has someone play the music for him or listens to the music on tape. Some scores, he said, are in braille, but they are scarce.

If Sitton is unsure of something in the music, he asks his students for assistance.

Once I have the music in my head, I practice the conducting. You don't really need sight for that. I can do the conducting, the hand gestures, as well as anybody. I mean, as any student teacher," Sitton said.

Another part of choral teaching is advising young singers what they might be doing wrong.

If you can look at your students, it might be easier. But there are many things you can tell about the way a person sings without looking at him," Sitton said.

When Sitton hears a voice that is off key or not as full as it should be, he tries to duplicate the sound himself.

"That way, I can tell what you might be doing wrong. Maybe you're singing flat, or you're not opening your mouth or dropping your jaw enough," Sitton said.

Teaching takes practice. I'm not as good as I want to be. I've got a long way to go. But I'm getting there."

Sitton will make his public debut with Coronado May 18 when the school hosts a pops concert. "Close Encounters," Sitton said.

Weather Violence Sweeps Southwest

By KAY BELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

VIOLENT WEATHER swept across much of the state Sunday afternoon, with one tornado destroying a home outside a small community in the northeastern corner of the Panhandle.

The South Plains, however, remained unscathed. Although winds gusted to almost 25 mph at mid-afternoon, Lubbock skies remained mostly clear and city thermometers climbed to 81 degrees.

The National Weather Service says temperatures today should be somewhat cooler, as a frontal system moves eastward. Today's high is expected to reach the mid 70s, with tonight's low in the mid 40s.

Some Rain Possible

The shifting front also is expected to trigger more thunder-showers across the region today, with a 30 percent chance of precipitation for Lubbock by tonight.

Sheriff's officers in the Panhandle town of Booker, in Lipscomb County, reported a tornado destroyed a farm home southeast of that community about 6 p.m. Sunday. No one was injured.

The Booker tornado was the third twister spotted, and the second to touch down, in the Panhandle Sunday. Shortly after 4:30 p.m., a radio station in Perryton reported a twister on the ground northwest of that city. And within half an hour, sheriff's deputies at Canadian also reported sighting a funnel cloud just north of Glazier.

Other Twisters Spotted

Other tornadoes were reported near Waco, south of Cleburne and at Oak Grove Airport, all in north central Texas. No damage was reported.

Sunday's funnels were sparked by a strong upper level disturbance that, combined with a stationary cold front settling across west central Texas, produced a line of severe thunderstorms from Kansas through Oklahoma and into central regions of the Lone Star state.

At one time Sunday afternoon, 56 Texas counties were under a tornado watch. By 7 p.m., however, the watch for the northeastern Panhandle was canceled, leaving only north central Texas under threat of severe weather until 10 p.m. Sunday.

Wind, Hail Reported

Along with the tornadoes, heavy rains, high winds and large hail were reported in the portions of the state hit by the storm system. At mid-afternoon Sunday, Dumas reported golf ball-size hail and the spring storm also stirred up 64 mph wind gusts in the Guadalupe-Davis Mountain area in far West Texas.

Any showers that develop, however, are expected to leave less than 1.4 of an inch of precipitation across the parched region. April's precipitation total was a mere 21 of an inch, and so far this year Lubbock's rainfall amount is down almost two inches from the 4.33 inches recorded by the end of April 1977.

Across the rest of the nation Sunday, thundershowers also dominated the weather scene. Scattered showers stretched from the Rocky Mountains to the Eastern Seaboard, and minor to moderate flooding occurred in the Virginia and Carolinas, areas that were hit by torrential rains late last week.

Heavy rain and small hail also pelted portions of eastern Oklahoma, southern Arkansas and western Louisiana. And other showers were reported over a wide area from Colorado to Wyoming and into Nebraska, producing some road flooding in that already rain-soaked Midwestern state.

A spring cold snap hit the nation's northeastern section Sunday, bringing snow flurries to northern New England and frost and freeze warnings for the northern third of Indiana and portions of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland and the mountains of northwestern Virginia.

The cold spell pulled overnight temperatures in that region below freezing, with a 28-degree low being posted at Buffalo, N.Y., and a low of 31 degrees reported at Albany, N.Y.

Light snow also dusted the higher mountains of southwestern Wyoming, and strong gusty winds and nippy temperatures forced the postponement of a contest Sunday afternoon kite flying planned in Chicago, even though skies there were sunny.

Fog rolled over much of the lower Ohio and middle Mississippi valleys and pushed into the central Plains region, reducing visibility to near zero in some areas.

This Week To Mark Moment Of Truth For Texas Politicos

By The Associated Press
TEXAS POLITICIANS put it all together this week as they wrap up their efforts to win election in Saturday's primary elections.

"They'll all be campaigning clear down to the last dollar," remarked one campaign strategist.

There will be airport rallies, handshaking tours in downtown Dallas, helicopter tours of Houston, riding the polls in San Antonio and so-called news conferences anywhere a candidate can find a TV camera or a reporter with a pencil.

Tennis Match Planned

Republican Jim Baker, candidate for attorney general, even plans a tennis match with former President Gerald Ford to attract attention to his campaign.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe, who normally dines on white linen with candlelight, is inviting supporters to a lakeside noon picnic in Austin.

Attorney General John Hill will be carrying around a special rubber stamp with the word "VETO" in 4-inch letters to emphasize that he would not approve an income tax.

Extra Busy For Krueger

Rep. Bob Krueger, candidate for the Democratic nomination to U.S. Senate, expects to be called back to Washington for two of the final crucial days to vote on a budget bill and an emergency farm bill.

Here generally, subject to frequent change, are the plans of top statewide candidates for the final week.

Hill plans to be in Dallas and Canton Sunday, in Dallas and East Texas today, in Houston, San Antonio and the Valley Tuesday, in West Texas, Waco and back to Dallas Wednesday, hit the Panhandle, South Plains, El Paso and Midland-Odessa Thursday, and on Friday give a final fling at Dallas, Houston and San Antonio. The Hills will vote in Austin and there will be an election watch party at the Driskill Hotel.

Briscoe Due Long Day

Briscoe has a 14-hour schedule set today in Dallas. Tuesday it will be Austin, Houston and Baytown. Wednesday he will be in Houston and the Valley. Thursday, he is back to Dallas and back to Houston Thursday it's Houston, Galveston, Texas City and the area before returning to Austin. There will be an auto tour of South Central Texas Friday, ending with a rally in San Antonio and a final hometown rally in Uvalde. The Briscoes vote Saturday in Uvalde and will watch returns at the Uvalde headquarters.

Isle Of Formosa Jolted By Quake

TAIPEI (AP) — A strong earthquake registering a 6.4 on the Richter scale rocked Taiwan early Sunday but no damage was reported, the Central Weather Bureau said.

A bureau spokesman said the quake was centered at sea some 70 miles north-east of Ilan in eastern Taiwan.

The Richter scale measures ground motion as recorded on seismographs. Each increase of one whole number on the scale means a ten-fold increase in magnitude.

Med Students Learning Spanish

By CANDY SAGON
Avalanche-Journal Staff

TEXAS TECH has the only medical school in the country where learning to say, "Donde duele?" is required of all sophomore level medical students.

"Where does it hurt?" and other basic Spanish phrases necessary for a doctor to know are taught in a crash course in medical Spanish taken by all second-year medical students.

Since their junior year is spent as interns in El Paso, medical school administrators feel it is critical that the students have a working knowledge of Spanish in order to be able to communicate with the Mexican-American patients there.

And because so many Mexican-Americans live in the West Texas area served by the Tech medical school, the school also has begun advising entering freshmen medical students to have a working knowledge of Spanish before enrolling.

Those freshmen who have no knowledge of Spanish will be required to take a year of the language at the undergraduate level in addition to the medical Spanish course in their sophomore year.

Dr. Roberto Bravo, an associate professor of Romance languages, has taught the medical Spanish course since it began last spring.

When the 40 sophomore medical students assemble in his classroom on the first day of the semester, 60 percent of them will have no or very little knowledge of Spanish, Bravo says.

In approximately 10 weeks, he must teach them the Spanish names for all the anatomical terms and illnesses they have just become familiar with in English during their first year of medical school.

The students also must learn how to ask a patient's family history in Spanish, how to conduct a physical exam, how to ask a patient to perform simple tasks, such as sitting up or looking in a certain direction, and how to ask patients questions about every major area of the body.

Bravo hands out about 25 pages of materials to the students, listing all the terms and phrases they need to know. Students also learn what Bravo terms "vital verbs" in Spanish, such as "breathe," "open," "close," "stand up" and "cough."

The course, he says, is the practical, easiest, fastest way of learning Spanish.

Grammar is not stressed. Instead, Bravo works toward teaching the class fluency in spoken Spanish. "I want them to be able to communicate with their Spanish-speaking patients. I gear the whole course to be understandable by people in everyday life."

Bravo says he teaches the students "Tex-Mex," or popular Spanish. He does not teach the formal medical terms for illnesses and conditions, but the terms commonly used by Spanish-speaking patients.

But in addition to the language, Bravo also teaches his students something about their future patients' culture and daily way of life.

"Language can't be taught in a vacuum. As doctors they must know something about the Mexican-American culture," Bravo says.

So the sophomores are taught about Mexican-American family structure, diet, religious beliefs, ideas about folk medicine, crime, alcoholism and how it feels to be a member of a minority.

"Many of the Mexican-Americans these students will treat will have deep inferiority feelings — they won't feel they deserve to be seen by a doctor," Bravo explained.

All the materials used by the class have been assembled by Bravo himself. "I couldn't find a book suited to my purpose," Bravo said, so he collected several books, both in English and in Spanish, and set about making up class materials from which the students could learn.

"I followed the procedures doctors must go through, translating them to Spanish. There are plenty of doctors in my family, so I know the necessary phrases," Bravo said.

The class meets twice a week for 1 1/2 hours. After Bravo lectures, the class is split into small groups to work with tutors who drill the students on the day's lesson.

"The response of the students this year has been excellent. They're very eager to learn," Bravo said.

He added that he is working on developing cassette tapes for next year's class, so students can get more exposure to hearing spoken Spanish.

Florida Widow Finds Purpose In Transcribing Braille

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The apartment is small, just a room, but it is meticulously tidy and as cheering as a sunburst.

A garden of foliage brightens the window ledge and the distant view of Tampa Bay. A piano occupies the wall opposite the bed. A stuffed animal decorates the bedspread. On a folding table, a goose-neck lamp hovers intently over a Braille typewriter.

"My music is my love, my Braille is my love," Wilhelmine Andresson said. "And I love my flowers. Aren't the violets lovely?"

Several pictures adorn the piano. Tucked into the lacework gold frame of one of them, the one closest to the front, is a purple flower, a violet.

The picture shows a slim young man wearing a Sam Browne belt and lieutenant's insignia. Next to him, seated, a young woman smiles adoringly. She has dark, wavy hair and dark, liquid eyes. She is wearing a plain black dress and a single strand of pearls.

"When he came into our lace shop, in Brussels, we had nothing. I was hungry and frightened. The Germans had taken our home and everything in it. That brass coffee pot and the teapot, on the table, they did not find. Those were buried in the yard."

"He took me to dinner. We went to the best place in Brussels, and every time my mother went with us. I was only 18, you see."

"Later, when he asked me to marry him, he brought a bouquet of violets. That night we went alone."

The eyes, 59 years later, are as youthful as the day the picture was made. They vary from rich brown to hazel depending upon the light streaming through the window over the greenery. The hair, silver now, is wavy still.

"He was an engineer. He brought me to his home, in New York, and then we lived in 32 states before we settled down in Philadelphia. Oh, yes, I saw this beautiful country."

"I rode the bus every day in Philadelphia and passed a center for blind people, sort of a clubhouse. I often thought how sad it must be not to be able to see the beauty I saw."

"The beauty of this country is not just its geography. The real beauty is being able to do what you want to do. Here, in America, the horizon of hope is so vast."

"My husband made me realize that. He gave me so much and asked for so little. He was everything to me. I love the memory of him."

"When he became ill and had to go to an institution I took a cottage across the street. For three years I took care of him every day. When he died, six years ago, I thought my life was over."

"It is not. I am not lonely. I am not bored."

"Two years ago I went to the Community Center for the Blind and asked if I could learn Braille. It is difficult to learn. I did my homework every night, and I learned it."

"Now, every day, I get up at 7 and do my household chores. From 10 to 11:30 I play the piano. Music is magic. If I am morose or grouchy, by 11:30 I am singing, playing and singing."

"Then I have my lunch and at 4:30 my shower. After that I get dressed. I dress myself up just as if I were going someplace, and go out and do my errands."

"The rest of the day and into the night I transcribe Braille."

"I do a lot of reading to decide what to transcribe. The people I transcribe for are mostly elderly. I try to select readings that I think would be inspirational for them."

"Don't you think people like to read something inspirational?"

New Rabies Vaccine Produced

WASHINGTON (AP) — Kristin Belliard, 6, says her rabies shots were like rolling on thumb tacks every day, but scientists report some reason for optimism in their battle against the dread disease.

Kristin's story is a familiar one. She and her 8-year-old brother Philip went to a farm in Ontario three weeks ago to ride Lucky, their aunt's favorite horse.

Three days later, Lucky fell ill. Before the week was out, the animal was dead. An autopsy proved what the family had feared all week — rabies.

No one in the family had been bitten by the horse or had any deep wounds. But physicians advised them to undergo the notorious series of injections, just in case.

There was a chance the virus, borne in the horse's saliva, had touched someone's eye or mouth which could lead to transmission of the dread disease, the doctors theorized.

Several days and 14 shots later, Kristin talked of excruciating pain, likening the injections to lying on a bed of thumb tacks. She and her brother were administered the same rabies injections that are given to some 30,000 Americans each year.

The series of painful shots is necessary because there is no cure for rabies once its symptoms appear, and it is believed to be virtually always fatal.

The vaccine is derived from duck embryos in a process developed about 20 years ago, but which was not used routinely throughout the world until about 1972. The duck embryo vaccine replaced the original and more dangerous injections developed by Louis Pasteur from the brain matter of rabbits exposed to rabies.

The rabbit vaccine, which also was extremely painful to administer and could cause severe reactions including paralysis or even death, was the one responsible for the awful reputation of rabies shots.

Now comes scientists and researchers, saying with varying degrees of assertiveness that they may be on the verge of an important development that could contain rabies, which has been on the rise among wildlife in the United States, Canada and much of the world in recent years.

Dr. William Winkler, a veterinarian with the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta (CDC), who has been active in rabies research for many years, said he expects the government to issue a license this year for a new vaccine derived from a virus grown in human cells.

The vaccine, known as interferon, is available only on an experimental basis but it has several advantages over the other vaccine. It offers much greater immunity to the disease than the duck embryo type and doesn't cause adverse reactions among people sensitive to duck protein. It also can be administered in five weekly shots in the shoulder instead of the present dose of 14 to 23 injections given under the skin of the stomach, lower back or thigh.

The CDC, which is part of the U.S. Public Health Service in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, has documented only three cases of humans who caught rabies and survived.

One was a boy in Ohio who contracted the disease in 1971 at the age of 7 and has recovered without any after-effects. Another was a woman in Argentina, and the third was a technician working on a new animal vaccine in a New York laboratory. The technician had been inoculated and was believed immune to the disease. One year later, however, he continues to suffer some weakness and speech problems as a result of brain damage.

Researchers working with animals have had what they call "promising" results in tests of interferon, which they gave to rabid animals and are anxious to test on human victims of the disease.

"Don't quote me as saying we've found a cure for rabies," said one of those familiar with the animal tests, but who asked not to be identified publicly. "We're encouraged by the results so far, and we expect it will be tested on humans somewhere in the world within the next 12 to 24 months," he said.

Interferon is a protein substance produced naturally by the body in response to viral invasion. But scientists thought it had little practical value as a drug because it was extraordinarily expensive to produce in the laboratory.

Recent changes in the method of production and success in human tests against other viral diseases have resulted in a marked increase in the research being done with the substance.

Dr. George Galasso of the National Institutes of Health here said it would not be practical to test interferon in the United States because most people exposed to rabies get the shots, and therefore don't develop the disease.

Field trials are more likely to be conducted in a less-developed nation where medical care is not as readily available and where more people actually contract rabies and die, Galasso said.

Energy Post Nomination Debate Set

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate this week takes up a nomination that some members consider an example of the "revolving door" relationship between government agencies and the industries they regulate.

President Carter named Lynn Coleman, a Texas lawyer with long experience in oil and gas cases, to be general counsel or the top lawyer of the Department of Energy.

The Senate Energy Committee approved the nomination by a 12-6 vote Feb. 9 and referred it to the full Senate, which is scheduled to take it up today.

Coleman's nomination is expected to be approved, with votes from senators who support him outright combined with some who feel Carter has the right to fill slots subject to his appointment with whomever he prefers.

For example, Sens. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., and Frank Church, D-Idaho, said jointly they approved the nomination in committee even though they had reservations about the Energy Department "having, for its chief lawyer, one who has been so closely associated with energy industry interests."

Opponents of Coleman said the most they expect is a respectable minority against the nomination, plus a chance to debate Carter's handling of energy policy and Energy Department appointments.

Both sides say they consider Coleman eminently qualified for the job. He is a partner in the Houston law firm of Vinson and Elkins and has often represented well-known energy firms.

But the opposition contends he cannot be a good, impartial energy industry regulator in light of his past commitment to the companies regulated.

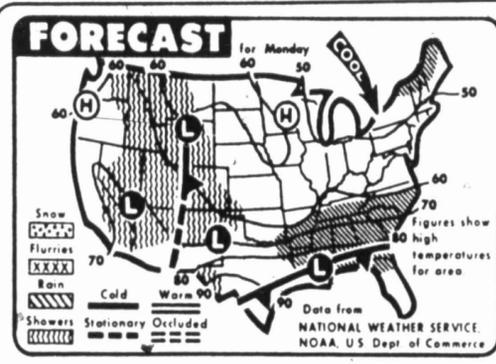

Coleman assured the Energy Committee he could step aside for any legal matter affecting clients of his law firm.

But Sen. John Durkin, D-N.H., told UPI that, considering the companies Coleman has represented, "he would have to excuse himself from so many cases, his job would turn out to be an honorary post."

A memo prepared by the staff of Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, said Coleman "will have to maintain a scoreboard to keep track of the voluminous number of cases from which he must disqualify himself."

One Metzenbaum staff memo said Coleman, working as a lobbyist for Houston Natural Gas Co., drafted a proposal that ultimately became part of the House energy bill, giving certain gas pipelines "a dumping ground for their surplus gas... at exorbitant prices."

Metzenbaum, Durkin and Sens. James Abourezk, D-S.D., and Wendell Anderson, D-Minn., pressed Senate colleagues to turn down Coleman.

Survey Tallies Parole Population In America

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new comprehensive report issued by the Census Bureau Sunday showed more than 1 million adults and 400,000 juveniles were under the supervision of state or local probation and parole agencies in 1976.

Of 1,079,258 adults, 923,060 were on probation in lieu of being jailed and 156,000 had been paroled before completing sentences, the report said. It also said 328,854 juveniles were on probation, 53,347 on parole.

These and other findings resulted from the nation's first comprehensive survey of state and local probation and parole agencies. The Census Bureau published the results in a 182-page booklet packed with facts and tables.

Some of the other findings:

- Males represented 86 percent of the adult parole case load and 90 percent of the adult parole case load, but only 77 percent of the juvenile parole case load.
- Only 72 percent of the juvenile males and 59 percent of the juvenile females were judged to be delinquents. The others had done things that are not considered crimes when committed by adults.
- As of Sept. 1, 1976, the state and local probation and parole agencies had 55,807 employees and the counselors or supervisors of the probation subjects or parolees had an average case load of 48 persons.

Anti-Abortion Priest Jailed For Month

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill. (AP) — A Roman Catholic priest, an opponent of abortion, was ordered to spend 30 consecutive days in the Madison County Jail by Circuit Court Judge Thomas Gibbons.

The Rev. Edward Arentsen was arrested Friday after he failed to meet probation conditions set after his February conviction on disorderly conduct charges. Arentsen and a group of anti-abortion demonstrators picketed a Granite City abortion clinic on Jan. 19. He was arrested when he fought with two police officers who stopped him from entering the clinic.

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill. (AP) — A Roman Catholic priest, an opponent of abortion, was ordered to spend 30 consecutive days in the Madison County Jail by Circuit Court Judge Thomas Gibbons.

The Rev. Edward Arentsen was arrested Friday after he failed to meet probation conditions set after his February conviction on disorderly conduct charges. Arentsen and a group of anti-abortion demonstrators picketed a Granite City abortion clinic on Jan. 19. He was arrested when he fought with two police officers who stopped him from entering the clinic.

Matt. 22: 43-46, 23: 1-17, The Living Bible

45 Since David called Him 'Lord,' how can He be merely his son?"

46 There had no answer. And after that no one dared ask Him any more questions.

CHAPTER 23

1 Then Jesus said to the crowds, and to His disciples,

2 "You would think these Jewish leaders and these Pharisees were Moses, the way they keep making up so many laws!

3 And of course you should obey their every whim! It may be all right to do what they say, but above anything else, don't follow their example. For they don't go what they tell you to do.

4 They load you with impossible demands that they themselves don't even try to keep.

5 Everything they do is done for show. They act holy by wearing on their arms large prayer boxes with Scripture verses inside, and by lengthening the memorial fringes of their robes.

6 And how they love to sit at the head table at banquets, and in the reserved pews in the synagogue!

7 How they enjoy the deference paid them on the streets, and to be called 'Rabbi' and 'Master'!

8 Don't ever let anyone call you that. For only God is your Rabbi and all of you are on the same level, as brothers.

9 And don't address anyone here on earth as 'Father,' for only God in heaven should be addressed like that.

10 And don't be called 'Master,' for only one is your master, even the Messiah.

11 The more lowly your service to others, the greater you are. To be the greatest, be a servant.

12 But those who think themselves great shall be disappointed and humbled; and those who humble themselves shall be exalted.

13,14 Woe to you, Pharisees, and you other religious leaders. Hypocrites! For you won't let others enter the Kingdom of Heaven, and won't go in yourselves. And you pretend to be holy, with all your long, public prayers in the streets, while you are evicting widows from their homes. Hypocrites!

15 Yes, woe upon you hypocrites. For you go to all lengths to make one convert, and then turn him into twice the son of hell you are yourselves.

16 Blind guides! Woe upon you! For your rule is that to swear 'By God's Temple' means nothing—you can break that oath, but to swear 'By the gold in the Temple' is binding!

17 Blind fools! Which is greater, the gold, or the Temple that sanctifies the gold?

Colombian Marijuana Seized

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the Drug Enforcement Administration says the seizure of 574 tons of marijuana in Colombia represents the largest drug raid in history.

"It's a world record in terms of quantity, the mother lode of marijuana," said the official, Peter B. Bensinger. Bensinger was responding late Saturday to reports that Colombian drug agents discovered and then seized marijuana packed and ready for shipment at four clandestine depots on Colombia's Guajira Peninsula. Bensinger said the marijuana had a wholesale value of more than $200 million.

Museums Group Head Named

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lawrence A. Reger, an official at the National Endowment for the Arts for eight years, has been named director of the American Association of Museums, effective Monday.

Reger, an arts administrator, attorney and consultant, was chosen by a search panel to succeed Richard McLanathan, who resigned to return to writing and education after heading the association since 1975. Reger was the Arts Endowment's general counsel in 1970-71, and later became director of planning and management. From 1975 to this January, he was director of program development and coordination. And since January, Reger has been principal consultant to the Cleveland Foundation.

Rhodes To Enter Hospital

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Minority Leader John Rhodes will be hospitalized this Thursday for the correction of a recurring dislocated shoulder, the result of a high school football injury.

Rhodes, R-Ind., is expected to remain in Sibley Memorial Hospital here for about five days, said a statement released Saturday by his Washington congressional office. Rhodes first injured his left shoulder during tackling practice while he was a sophomore at Council Grove High School in Council Grove, Kan. He decided to have it corrected after his shoulder was dislocated twice in one day last January, the statement said.

Byrd Backs Singlaub Ouster

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd says the Carter administration did the right thing in pressuring Army Maj. Gen. John K. Singlaub to retire following his criticism of President Carter's decision to delay development of the neutron bomb.

"This was his second indiscretion," Byrd said of Singlaub, who was recalled from South Korea last year after assailing the administration's troop withdrawal plans. The West Virginia Democrat told reporters Saturday, "We have to recognize that this is a case where two strikes and you're out. Actually, he should have been out on the first strike." Byrd said statements by military personnel — such as those made by Singlaub in Atlanta last week — cannot be tolerated in a nation where policy matters are decided by civilians.

Builders Okay HUD Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Association of Home Builders is expressing its support for the Carter administration's proposed $33.3 billion, fiscal 1979 budget for the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Merrill Butler, a Southern California home builder and vice president-treasurer of the association, says the organization feels the budget generally deals as best it can with the housing needs of low and moderate income families while remaining within certain budget ceilings. The association has some 99,000 members, and its position on the proposed HUD budget was submitted late last week to a Senate Appropriations subcommittee, which is considering the matter.

Newspaper Endorses Hill

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Times Herald endorsed Attorney General John Hill for the Democratic nomination for governor in its Sunday issues.

Besides endorsing Hill over incumbent Gov. Dolph Briscoe, the Times Herald recommended that its readers vote for the referendum on pari-mutuel betting on horse races. The newspaper called the issue "a legitimate matter of public concern" that deserves a decision by the Texas Legislature.

On other races, the Times Herald gave its editorial backing to Bill Clements for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, Bob Krueger for the U.S. Senate Democratic nomination, Price Daniel Jr. for attorney general, Warren G. Harding for treasurer, Reagan Brown for agriculture commissioner and John Poerner and Mack Wallace for railroad commissioners.

Sail Speed Challenge Set

TROY, Mich. (UPI) — The last time adventurer Karl Thomas went after world attention, he almost drowned.

The 29-year-old daredevil is now at it again. But instead of challenging an ocean in a balloon, Thomas will go after a speed record in a sailboat.

Thomas is nearing completion of his $100,000 "Slingshot" — a 60-foot, one-ton combination iceboat and outrigger canoe in which he hopes to break the world speed record for a sailboat, now set at 38.9 miles per hour.

"Only six people in the world (the British crew of the current record holder) have gone over 30 miles an hour in a sailboat," he said. "We're planning on going 40. We wouldn't be doing this if we couldn't. We've done all our homework."

He said the idea hatched two years ago while he was floating in a raft in the Atlantic Ocean after failing to become the first man to cross in a hot-air balloon. After four days in the raft he was rescued by Russian freighter.

Thomas and his brother, a nuclear submarine designer who created "Slingshot," will race the craft this summer and prepare it for an assault on the record in England this fall.

Professor Donates To Museum

TOKYO (AP) — A retired Japanese professor says he didn't like his government's $114,000 donation to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, so he is matching the donation himself.

"I felt a bit angry that the Japanese prime minister as a head of state can donate a scant 30 million yen — $114,000 — to such a famous museum for repair work, so I decided to add another 30 million," said Tetsuji Yura, an 81-year-old former professor of philosophy at the Tokyo University of Education.

"My donation is just a sign of appreciation to the museum, where I was given a wonderful chance to study Japan's old artwork," he said Sunday in a telephone interview.

Yura said he visited the Boston museum in 1967 to study its collection of 96 paintings by Japanese artist Shohaku Soga.

Prime Minister Takeo Fukuda took his government's gift to the United States on Sunday. He was expected to bring a total of $1.45 billion in contributions for a U.S.-Japanese educational exchange program and for reconstruction of the Boston museum.

Vesco Fraud Charge Revived

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) — The government has asked a federal court to reverse its dismissal of fraud charges against Robert Vesco, a fugitive American financier.

And if such a reversal is issued, Vesco could lose his bid for Costa Rican citizenship.

Vesco, who has lived here since 1972, is seeking Costa Rican citizenship which would prevent his extradition to the United States. He is wanted in the United States in connection with siphoning $224 million from a Swiss-based mutual fund before the firm went bankrupt.

Also, he is wanted for allegedly making an illegal $200,000 contribution to Richard Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign.

Thieves Hit Home of Star

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Four men burglarized the home of rock musician Steven Stills of cash and pistols worth about $520, police said Sunday.

Stills was not at the Bel-Air Estates home on Friday when the men knocked on the door and persuaded caretaker Melvin Choate to let them in, said police Sgt. Bill Achen.

The men tied up Choate and then searched for valuables, he said. The weapons taken were a .357-caliber Magnum revolver and a .25-caliber Italian pistol.

Police Arrest Hitler Group

BERLIN (AP) — Police said Sunday they arrested eight men and a woman for allegedly celebrating Adolf Hitler's birthday inside a West Berlin bar decorated with swastikas and portraits of the dictator.

Public display of Nazi emblems or support of Nazi ideology is illegal in West Germany.

The group, whose members ranged in age from 17 to 69, called itself the NSDAP Ortsgruppe Berlin, an abbreviation for the name of Hitler's National Socialist Workers Party, authorities said. Ortsgruppen were the small district organizations which the Nazis used to consolidate their hold on Germany before and during World War II.

Police said they stormed the bar in West Berlin's Neukoelln district Saturday night and found it decorated with swastikas and pictures of Hitler, who would have been 89 on April 20. Authorities said they also confiscated Nazi propaganda during searches of the suspects' homes.

Pilots' Strike Stalemated

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — The strike of 1,550 Northwest Airlines pilots remained stalemated Sunday with no new negotiations scheduled.

The pilots struck at 12:01 a.m. Saturday at the end of a 30-day cooling-off period.

Colin Wilson, a spokesman for the Airline Pilots Association, said no meetings were scheduled, and Robert Harris, a federal mediator, had returned to Washington.

Wilson said the pilots' negotiators, after a one-day rest Sunday, will explore "every avenue to get things off center."

Meanwhile, Northwest canceled most of its flights, limiting its operations to eight daily flights between Chicago and Minneapolis. Those flights are manned by management personnel.

Roy Erickson, NWA vice president for public relations, said earlier the strike is "hard to conceive" considering the pilots' average wage of $49,800 a year.

But the pilots, who last struck in 1975 for four days, said the airline's proposed 14.3 percent salary increase over three years is inadequate.

The pilots said they have been trying for a year to negotiate a new contract. They said despite the fact that they accepted a federal mediator's offer of binding arbitration and agreed to accept terms of the present pilot contracts at United, Delta and Western Airlines, Northwest found none of "these avenues to avoid a strike" acceptable.

Trade Relations Theme To Dominate Carter's Negotiations With Fukuda

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter and Japanese Prime Minister Takeo Fukuda meet this week, satisfied that the seriously strained trade relations between the two countries are improving and that a full-blown crisis has been averted.

Fukuda, who arrives here Monday and will meet with Carter on Wednesday, is expected to stress how far Japan has gone in recent months to meet U.S. demands for a more balanced trade relationship.

In addition, there were fears a few weeks ago that Fukuda would come here with proposals for drastic measures to stem the slide of the dollar but the currency has since stabilized and even risen on the Tokyo exchange, much to the relief of the Japanese government.

With the two countries enjoying a substantial concurrence of views on security matters, Fukuda's talks will be dominated by economic issues. One subject certain to arise is the seven-nation summit meeting of leaders of Western industrialized nations set for West Germany in July.

In his meetings with Carter, Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and members of Congress, Fukuda will discuss implementation of the various economic policy goals both countries have established in recent months.

Fukuda will be seeking assurances that the administration will spare no effort in promoting enactment of Carter's energy legislation and in ensuring the dollar will be more stable in the future.

The United States believes that Japan, in ongoing multilateral trade negotiations, has not made the kind of tariff reduction proposals which will achieve the goal of "equity and parity" in bilateral trade. Officials say Fukuda is certain to be pressed on this point during his official state visit.

At the end of last year, the U.S.-Japan trade dilemma had reached crisis proportions. Japan had a $10 billion trade surplus advantage over the United States and an even larger current accounts surplus worldwide, partly because its markets were shielded by an almost impenetrable protectionist wall.

In the United States there was accelerating pressure for equivalent protectionist measures, even from traditional proponents of free trade.

Since the start of the year, in the words of special trade negotiator Robert Strauss, Japan has achieved "a change in direction and philosophy."

AN EDITORIAL:

Voting Parents--Use No Hooks

THOUSANDS OF young college-bound Americans and their President have a problem in common: tuition costs. Students can't learn without paying them and Jimmy Carter may not get a presidential paycheck beyond his first term if he doesn't do something about them.

On the basis of a survey of 2,693 institutions of higher learning by the College Entrance Examination Board, student expenses for 1978-79 will increase an average of six percent over the previous year.

Total costs, including Spartan living expenses, will average $3,054 at public and $5,110 at private schools.

FOR THOSE with above-average expectations, the bill will be much higher with tuition alone at a number of name campuses topping $5,000 for the first time and total costs exceeding $8,000.

This latest raising of the ante in the education game is certain to increase the resentment among middle-income families who already believe they are carrying a disproportionately heavy share of the financial burden.

Consequently, election-year pressure will be increased on Congress for some form of tax-relief for this group, to the further disadvantage of the President's own proposals on education assistance.

AN EDITORIAL:

Solar--Heavenly Alternative

THERE ARE a number of reasons for cautious optimism that the heretofore rough balance between solar energy's appeal and its practicability may be beginning to tip in favor of the sun.

As the dawn of Sun Day (Wednesday, May 3) approaches, the Council on Environmental Quality has issued a report which finds solar energy's prospects "brighter than most imagine."

Furthermore, the White House advisory body predicts that by the year 2000 solar technology could be capable of supplying a quarter of U.S. energy requirements. By 2020, the solar share could reach 50 percent.

THE REPORT, the product of an eight-month survey of available information and research on the subject, concluded radiantly that for the period beyond the turn of the century "it is now possible to speak realistically of the U.S. becoming a solar society."

That's the most optimistic evaluation of solar potential to come from an official source in some time, but there's even more to the developing solar story.

Industry also is beginning to warm to sun power, possibly signaling a reversal of what economist Walt Rostow not so long ago described as "a real failure of private enterprise to be enterprising."

M. STANTON EVANS:

No One Wants To Hear, Cuban Gulag Horrors

WASHINGTON--A sad but instructive example of the "double standard" in action is presented by the case of Frank Emmick.

Emmick is an American businessman who was recently released from political imprisonment in Cuba.

He returned to the United States after 14 years in Castro's dungeons, grateful for his freedom and anxious to tell the story of the Cuban dictatorship to the American people. So far, however, he has found very few of them willing to listen.

ON HIS ARRIVAL in the states, Emmick got in touch with the American Security Council (ASC), whose anti-Communist foreign policy broadcasts he had heard in his captivity.

Under the auspices of the ASC, he held a press conference in the nation's capital and told a hair-raising tale of beatings, brutal treatment and other denials of civil liberties in Castro's Cuba.

As Emmick recounted it, he was constantly harassed by the Cuban government beginning in 1961. At one point he was beaten up by five militiamen and thrown in the ocean for dead.

Later his property was confiscated and he was forbidden to leave the island.

In 1963 he was arrested outright, charged with being the local head of the CIA (he denies all connection with the agency) and subjected to the third degree.

"FOR MONTHS," Emmick says, "I was under continuous interrogation at all hours of the day and night. Sometimes they would awaken me in the middle of the night just to ask one question. Occasionally their interrogations would be observed by Russian or Czech individuals."

"The first few days I was threatened to be shot within 48 hours under their special military code, but on the other days it was mostly mental and physical torture because I never fully had an opportunity to rest my mind and body."

This interrogation began a years-long nightmare

Someone proposes the following addition for those pronouncing marriage vows: "Through sickness and health, for better or worse, through baseball season, golf season, football season..."

CARTER CRITICS claim assistance to middle-income families (currently defined as those earning $15,000 to $25,000 annually) is not justified by the financial facts.

Census Bureau and Congressional Budget Office reports indicate a 75 percent increase in college costs between 1967 and 1976, while average family incomes rose by 89 percent.

Thus, they conclude, middle-income families "are actually somewhat ahead." What statistics say about a situation and how wage-earning tax-paying voters feel about it, however, can be two very different matters.

THE BASIC objection to assistance through tax relief is that it would be expensive without necessarily being effective. According to one estimate, more than $300 million in benefits from a tuition tax credit would be paid to families with incomes above $30,000.

A tax deduction of $250 could turn out to be a misguided gesture of goodwill eventually necessitating compensation through increased taxes elsewhere--thereby penalizing the very taxpayers it was designed to relieve.

It's not an easy problem. But it is one that's likely to prove very educational in the care and handling of voting parents in an election year.

AEROSPACE FIRMS are pressing for stepped-up research on solar-power satellites. A bill now before Congress would allocate $25 million to such work during the coming fiscal year.

Power visionaries view this as a start toward what could develop into a system of 50 giant satellites orbiting the earth and beaming power collected by power cells to ground stations via microwave.

Numerous other firms are showing interest in the market for solar power systems for private use. An estimated 30,000 homes in the U.S. are now equipped with solar water heating and some 5,000 have solar space heating. True, that's not many, but just five years ago the number of solar-heated homes stood at about 30.

IT IS AT least an interesting footnote that the nation standing in the least need of an alternative power source--Saudi Arabia--is actively interested in solar energy.

Saudis have anted up $50 million, matched by Washington, for a five-year joint development program.

A major objection to solar energy remains that it is several times more expensive than conventional methods. Through accelerated research, however, that negative element might be eliminated--thereby clearing the way for us to light up our lives with this heavenly resource.

for Emmick that included being locked up in absolute darkness for five months, being jammed into filthy, sweltering dungeons with hundreds of other prisoners and being stabbed in the side with a bayonet.

EMMICK ALSO relates the psychological torture of watching 159 of his fellow inmates being taken out and shot, hearing their cries and being told on three occasions that he was also going to be shot. The conditions described merit full comparison with the Soviet Gulag.

This horrifying story, incredibly, has been made known to very few of the American people, since the TV networks declined to report on Emmick's press conference and such prestigious newspapers as the New York Times and Washington Post also refused to cover it.

The wire services did show up and filed detailed stories on Emmick's revelations, but these were ignored by these major papers.

(The Post, meantime, found space to run a lengthy story about recent charges involving anti-Communist Chile from the left-wing Institute for Policy Studies.)

A FOOTNOTE TO Emmick's problems with the media is his dealings with Rep. Frederick Richmond, D-N.Y., Richmond was one of the two U.S. congressmen instrumental in obtaining Emmick's release from Cuba through talks with Fidel Castro.

Now Richmond is incensed with Emmick for talking about conditions in the Cuban Gulag, claiming that Emmick's statements have enraged the Cuban liaison office in Washington and jeopardized chances of getting four other American prisoners out of Cuba.

Emmick's response was that he made a pact with his fellow prisoners that whoever got to freedom first would tell the world of the conditions in which they were detained, on the usual premise that focusing public opinion on the problem would help get it corrected.

But instead of being greeted with sympathy by his countrymen, Frank Emmick finds himself ignored by the major media and told to keep his trap shut by a U.S. congressman.

ROWLAND EVANS & ROBERT NOVAK:

Can SALT Save Us?

WASHINGTON--The quagmire that President Carter is about to enter in the battle of SALT II is depicted by a secret State Department working paper that contradicts both publicly stated policy and expert opinion.

The working paper asserts that the Minuteman, the U.S. intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM), can survive Soviet attack through the 1980s if the hotly opposed protocol to SALT II is extended.

Yet Carter administration officials are selling the prospective new treaty on grounds that the protocol need not be extended when it expires in 1980. Moreover, Pentagon experts say there is no way SALT II--protocol or no protocol--can protect the Minuteman from Soviet attack.

THE RESTRICTION on mobile missiles becomes decisive because recent Soviet missile tests reveal a dramatic breakthrough in accuracy of Soviet SS-18 and SS-19 ICBMs. Based on that breakthrough, some Pentagon analysts now estimate that the Minuteman would be vulnerable to Soviet attack by the early 1980s.

Put in plain language, that means a major element in U.S. strategic deterrence will be unable to survive a Soviet surprise attack as early as three years from now.

The antidote is to change the present Minuteman silos and develop mobile missiles (pushing ahead the now suspended MX survivable ICBM basing system). But all such activity would be prohibited by SALT II, which does permit the Soviet Union to transform single-warhead missiles into hundreds of multiple-warheads and thereby threaten the Minuteman.

THE ANSWER considered by White House strategists is to make clear that the MX is prohibited only until the protocol expires (in 1980 by U.S. calculations, later by Russian). The Scoop Jacksons can be reassured that MX development will begin then.

Thus the State Department SALT working paper (dated March 7 and titled "The Viability of the U.S. Strategic Deterrence") comes like a warning signal in the night:

"The constraints on qualitative improvements to the Soviet ICBMs in the draft SALT protocol have the potential to improve the Minuteman survivability problem as long as the protocol is extended beyond 1980...We estimate that extending the protocol might increase the theoretical number of Minuteman survivors in 1986 from about 100 to about 200."

This claim that SALT II can save the Minuteman echoes two secret studies prepared by academically-oriented theoreticians for the President.

A WHITE HOUSE-contracted study (called the Press Report after presidential science adviser Frank Press) denied any "imminent" threat to the Minuteman, which "will remain a significant survivable component of the U.S. deterrent throughout most of the 1980s."

A Defense Department-contracted study (called the Jason Report) is even more blunt: "Present Soviet strategic forces no threat to the Minuteman."

The response by Pentagon experts has been sheer outrage. Internal memoranda at the Defense Department contend the two studies reach "unsubstantiated, opinionated and unfounded conclusions" and "indulge in propaganda-like statements."

BUT IS THE President getting this word? Pentagon experts doubt it. And if Carter believes the Minuteman is truly protected under the protocol of SALT II, he becomes entwined in a mass of contradictions from which there is no easy escape.

If the Minuteman can survive through the 1980s, why do the Pentagon experts say otherwise?

If it cannot, will he promise development of mobile missiles once the protocol expires? If he does, what about State Department claims that the protocol protects the Minuteman?

JAY HARRIS:

A Salute To Two

THOUGHT FOR Today: Motivation is when your dreams put on work clothes.

OVERHEARD: The only hand-me-down that children accept anymore is money.

THE SALUTE to veteran Congressmen George Mahon and Omar Burleson at the West Texas C-C shindig was most appropriate.

And coming in the midst of the heated political campaign being waged on several fronts in the area and across the state, it gave one pause for reflection.

Rep. Mahon's 44 years of service, not only to citizens of the 19th Congressional District--the only congressman the district has ever had--ranks as one of the outstanding chapters in U.S. Congressional history.

As a man who has played a major role in shaping the destiny of the nation he loves, and the Free World, Rep. Mahon has truly earned the accolade of Statesman.

As a man who has "walked with Presidents and Kings, yet never lost the common touch," Rep. Mahon has engraved his name in the hearts of all who know him as well as in the Halls of Congress.

IN HONORING Mr. Mahon and Rep. Burleson, the veteran from Anson whose tenure in Congress spans 32 impressive years, the WTCC pays tribute to two men who have meant much to all of Texas.

Time and again, these two stalwarts have stood tall for principles and programs which not only benefitted their constituents back home, but across the nation.

Each man served on powerful committees, Cong. Mahon as chairman of the House Appropriations Committee and as a leading exponent of a strong U.S. defense posture. Cong. Burleson served on numerous key committees, with his work on the Ways and Means body being his hallmark.

Each man came up the hard way and learned early in life the value of a man's word as well as what it took to earn a dollar.

The men who step into their respective shoes will face awesome responsibilities. May God help us choose wisely, and may whoever wins look to Him and to Reps. Mahon and Burleson for guidance. The fate of the nation may well rest on it.

SLIDE ROAD Sam Says: Any man able to forget his mistakes should be smart enough to not mention them.

THE ULTIMATE aim seems to be to shorten the work week so one can hold three jobs and still have the weekend off.

MUCH ADO has been made of the phrase "1984."

Not only the title of a book relating how Big Brother government intrudes into ever facet of our lives, "1984" has come to mean a sort of Domsday Date marking the final loss of liberty.

So, it is not surprising then that one political candidate has hit upon the idea of just abolishing the year. One Lowell Darling, an artist and candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor of California, put it this way:

"To reduce the mounting paranoia resulting from George Orwell's book, we will get rid of 1984...Treat it like the 13th floor of a building. Go directly from 1983 to 1985."

Candidate Darling has something there. In addition to the saving on psychiatrist couches, just think of the saving in government spending, political yak-yak and cocktail parties. Some of Darling's other ideas get pretty far-out, however, including giving a slice of Northern California to the Palestinians and a strip in the south to Israel. Oh well. We've heard worse campaign pledges...

SINCE THIS is more or less an election discourse, a recent item about what young voters are doing caught our interest.

The answer, according to the Census Bureau, is not much.

According to the CB, new, young voters stayed away from the 1976 presidential election in droves, thus accounting for the lowest overall turnout since 1948.

The in-depth study of balloting two years ago shows 54 percent of the voting age population actually went to the polls, the lowest since 51.1 percent straggled to the booths 30 years ago.

THE REPORT says that "a significant part of the decline" can be attributed to the fact that although there are more voters under the age of 35, less and less of them are exercising their voting privilege.

Those in the under 35-year age bracket increased from 28 percent to 40 percent from 1944 to 1976.

The largest jump in that period was when the voting age was lowered to 18 in 1972, at which point many predicted a "youth revolution."

So, what happens? Here and there, young candidates did make it to key positions, including a few mayoralty posts and state legislative jobs.

But, by and large, not only did the under 35's not get elected in large numbers, they failed to "turn out" at the polls in relation to their actual proportion of the voting population. It's too bad. It's their world, too!

New National Smoker Study:

Merit Taste Matches High Tar Competition!

High tar smokers report low tar MERIT delivers flavor of leading high tar brands.

Can low tar MERIT with 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco measure up to the flavor delivery of high tar cigarettes?

Read the research results of a new national smoker study conducted with high tar smokers —smokers like yourself—who taste-tested MERIT against leading high tar brands.

Results Endorse MERIT Breakthrough

Confirmed: Majority of high tar smokers rate MERIT taste equal to—or better than—leading high tar cigarettes tested! Cigarettes having up to twice the tar.

Confirmed: Majority of high tar smokers confirm taste satisfaction of low tar MERIT.

Detailed interviews were also conducted with current MERIT smokers.

Confirmed: 85% of MERIT smokers say it was an "easy switch" from high tar brands.

Confirmed: Overwhelming majority of MERIT smokers say their former high tar brands weren't missed!

Confirmed: 9 out of 10 MERIT smokers not considering other brands.

First Major Alternative To High Tar Smoking

MERIT has proven conclusively that it not only delivers the flavor of high tar brands—but continues to satisfy!

This ability to satisfy over long periods of time could be the most important evidence to date that MERIT is what it claims to be: The first major alternative to high tar smoking.

Candidates Discuss County Issues

This is the third in a series of interviews with candidates whose names will appear on Lubbock County ballots in the May 6 primary elections. Views of the two persons seeking the position of County Commissioner, Precinct 2, are presented today. The names of the candidates, both of whom are Democrats, are presented in the order in which they will appear on the ballot.

Coy E. Biggs, 45, is a former longtime machine shop owner and assistant manager of Slaton Gins who was appointed Precinct 2 county commissioner 14 months ago after the death of Commissioner Max Arrants. He was educated at Slaton High School and Draughon's Business College. He and his wife Johnette have two daughters, Tyra Ann and Rhonda Kay. They live in Slaton.

Paul Enger, 51, is a longtime Lubbock grocer and service station owner who was runner-up in a multi-candidate race for sheriff in 1972 and among 10 persons who applied for the vacancy created by the death of Place 2 County Commissioner Max Arrants in 1976. He and his wife Elwanda live at 913 44th St. in Lubbock. They have a son, Paul Jr. Enger has a high school education.

NO ACCIDENT — Despite appearances, it is no accident that the bow of this ship is sticking over a side street in Istanbul. The vessel is a small freighter under construction in one of the privately owned shipyards that dot the Golden Horn, which opens onto the Sea of Marmara. (AP Laserphoto)

What qualifications do you possess that you consider pertinent to the office of county commissioner?

For 23 years owner and operator of Biggs & Son Machine Shop in Slaton, 2 years assistant manager of Slaton Coop Gins, 14 months as Lubbock county commissioner, 15 years a member of the Slaton Volunteer Fire Department, deacon in the Slaton Church of Christ.

There is no one in the area who has come in contact with more people in every walk of life. My association with the wholesale dairy and bakery business and more than 27 years in my own retail grocery business, plus serving on numerous civic, fraternal and service organizations, all of which required decisions pertaining to strict budget controls.

How do you perceive the role of a county commissioner?

As the cities and urban areas of Lubbock County continue to grow, the demands on the commissioners will become greater than ever. I foresee more frequent meetings than the second and fourth Mondays of every month. If the commissioner attends to his duties thoroughly, he will be a full-time commissioner.

The units of county government, supervised by the County Commissioners Court, are the most important units of government in the U.S. With their tax levying and tax spending powers, as these units are properly administered, the whole of government will be good or bad—weak or strong. The Commissioners Court may be compared to the board of directors of a huge corporation, responsible to its stockholders—the people and taxpayers of the county. Not only does the Commissioners Court do the above today, but is the connecting link to receive and expend large sums of tax money from state and federal governments. This court gives one an opportunity to work in the field of education of youth, aid to dependent children, the aged, handicapped and needy—as well as building and maintaining good county roads.

In what specific areas do you feel that city-county cooperation is most important?

I would like very much to see the City-County Health Unit return to its previous arrangement with full cooperation. Needless to say, we need to work on fire protection for our rural residents, and cooperation is always needed at the jail and in law enforcement.

Rural fire calls, combined city and county health departments; Health Sciences Center Hospital; adequate water supply.

How do you feel about consolidating precincts for road maintenance purposes as opposed to a four-precinct system?

I will have to oppose the consolidation of precincts for road and bridge maintenance. I believe that road operations in each precinct should be under the direct supervision of the commissioner. Each precinct has its own particular problems and situations, and the people in the rural areas have an easier means of communications with their commissioner and his crew foreman. It is much better to have men working in an area with which they are familiar because of hidden pipelines, erosion problems, personalities, and also it is easier to direct them to special locations. I do favor a central repair shop for maintenance of sheriff's cars and jobs we are unable to handle at precinct shops.

At this time I would not feel justified in consolidating the precincts for this service. However, I am for the utilization of all county road equipment wherever it is needed in the county, in case of an emergency.

Should deputy sheriffs continue to be paid less than city policemen?

I think the role of a deputy sheriff is just as important as that of a city policeman, and their salaries should be comparable. While the pay scale for deputy sheriffs in Lubbock County might be less than that of policemen in the City of Lubbock, it is considerably larger than policemen's salaries in other cities located in Lubbock County.

No.

What would be your approach to providing rural fire protection in Lubbock County?

In the past 15 months I have worked very hard to solve the rural fire problem in Lubbock County. I have succeeded in the organization of one new department at the Roosevelt-Acuff community, and would like to see one and maybe two more volunteer units established in the near future. The volunteer units have done Lubbock County a great service in agreeing to protect our rural taxpayers. I would also continue an effort to solve the difference with the City of Lubbock.

For years the city answered all rural fire calls effectively and efficiently. With the proper spirit of cooperation between city and county governments, this can still be accomplished.

Is there any issue not covered by the above questions on which you would like to comment?

Lubbock County is financially stable, and we need to see that it stays that way without increasing taxes.

Yes. Autopsies should be performed locally. I prefer a full-time medical examiner.

Famed Railroad Spike Shown

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the most famous spikes in transcontinental railroad history, marking completion of a section in Arizona in 1869, is on display in the Smithsonian Museum of History and Technology.

The spike is on loan from the Museum of the City of New York. It is displayed near a replica of the more famous golden spike, the final one driven to support the rails of the transcontinental line. The original golden spike is on display at Stanford University in California.

The Arizona spike is made of iron, silver and gold. It was one of four presentation spikes used in the ceremony, and was presented by Arizona Gov. A.K.P. Safford to the Union Pacific Railroad, a tribute from the state.

Engraved with graceful borders, it is inscribed: "Ribbed with iron, clad in silver and crowned with gold, Arizona presents her offering to the enterprise that has banded a continent, dictated a pathway to commerce. After the ceremony the spike was acquired by Sidney Dillon, a director of the Union Pacific Railroad Co., who attended. The spike remained in the Dillon family until an heir donated it to the New York museum.

Plans for a transcontinental line began early in this country's railroad history. A northwestern route was projected in the 1840s, to be followed by more detailed federal studies.

Support for the project led to the Pacific Railway Act of 1862, which provided land grants and construction funds repayable in reduced tariffs on federal shipments. Construction began the following year.

The Central Pacific Railroad began building eastward from Sacramento, and the Union Pacific, to the west from Omaha. There was little progress until the Civil War ended, however.

Then the project went forward, with crews laying up to 10 miles of track a day. The east and west lines were completed at Promontory, Utah, just north of Salt Lake City, in May 1869. It was there that the "golden spike" ceremony took place on May 10, 1869.

The Arizona spike and an accompanying sign are the newest additions to the museum's Railroad Hall, which traces the history of railroading through full-sized locomotives, passenger cars and scale models. The exhibits are accompanied by authentic railroad sounds.

Southeast Asia Allies Look To Mondale Visit

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Vice President Walter F. Mondale arrives Monday in Southeast Asia at a time when the region's non-Communist nations are worried about possible American neglect in the post-Indochina war era.

An Associated Press survey of the nations involved shows that in speeches, private discussions and newspaper editorials, Southeast Asians are speculating on whether the Carter administration has been able to formulate a "creative" Southeast Asian policy as it deals with more immediate problems in the Middle East and Africa.

Foremost on the Asians' minds are these questions: What would the United States do in the event of Communist aggression? Would proposed U.S. troop withdrawals from South Korea mean an eventual American retreat from Asia? U.S. officials in Washington have expressed hopes that Mondale's tour will open a "new chapter" in U.S.-Southeast Asian relations and show that the United States intends to remain a Pacific power.

The 28,500-mile journey — the first by a U.S. official of high stature since the end of the Indochina conflict in 1975 — will take Mondale to the Philippines, Thailand and Indonesia. He also will visit Australia and New Zealand, which have links to Southeast Asia.

The status of American military bases in the Philippines, human rights, U.S. trade and investment, narcotics trafficking, Indochinese refugees and general development are among the topics expected to be discussed.

The five members of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations — Thailand, Indonesia, Malaysia, Singapore and the Philippines — all say they want to put themselves politically equidistant from all major powers and bring harmony with Communist Indochina — Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia. Still, ASEAN leans to the West.

Singapore's Lee Kuan Yew, perhaps the most pro-American leader in the region, has stressed the need for a strong U.S. military presence in Asia and has been critical of U.S. plans to withdraw from South Korea.

The American military establishment in Southeast Asia now consists of two major bases in the Philippines and the Navy's 7th Fleet. On the peripheries are forces in South Korea, Japan and Taiwan as well as on islands in the South Pacific and the Indian Ocean.

Lee and some of his ASEAN partners have argued that the real power vacuum might well be filled by the Soviet Union, China or, sometime in the future, a re-constructed Vietnam.

The Vietnamese on Sunday celebrated the third anniversary of the fall of Saigon to the Communists with rallies, speeches and newspaper supplements.

Voice of Vietnam radio said thousands attended a rally in Hanoi at which the Communist political leaders told the crowd about the "great successes" achieved by Vietnam over the past three years.

The party newspaper Nhan Dan said April 30, 1975, was a milestone in the Vietnamese revolution.

Since then, the paper said, "Violators of our territory have been duly punished, reactionary forces trying to rear up have been crushed, and the last class of exploitation is being abolished."

In economic matters, Southeast Asia's non-Communist leaders have urged greater American private investment in their countries.

The United States and Southeast Asia already enjoy a healthy and expanding economic relationship. The volume of trade between the United States and ASEAN has expanded from a 1973 value of about $4.5 billion to last year's $10.9 billion.

President Carter's human rights policy also is on Mondale's agenda. Some Southeast Asian leaders have expressed annoyance because U.S. officials have been looking into the human rights situations of their countries.

President Ferdinand E. Marcos of the Philippines, where Mondale opens his tour, has assailed Americans — especially State Department human rights specialist Pat Derian — for "trying to tell us how to run our government."

Even so, some recent liberalization moves in Southeast Asia have been attributed in part to implied pressure from the Carter administration.

Murder Suspects Named In Golden Dragon Case

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A teen-age immigrant who says he is a former Chinese Red Guard unit member helped finger the young street toughs suspected in last year's Golden Dragon restaurant massacre of five patrons and could collect a $100,000 reward.

But Gan Wah Woo, 18, who escaped from China three years ago to join his parents in a tiny apartment in the heart of San Francisco's Chinatown, was being held in a suburban county jail Sunday under tight security. He worries constantly about his own safety and that of his family, a spokesman said.

The 17, good-natured young man has been named in court testimony as the source of police information that led to the arrests of Chinese youths suspected as the three triggermen and their driver. The gunmen burst into the Golden Dragon restaurant last September and sprayed patrons with gunfire, killing five and wounding 11.

The motive for the shooting, police believe, was a feud involving at least two Chinese street gangs.

Gan has a history of narrow scrapes and violence.

He has been charged with assault in a separate incident involving the shooting of two youths during a Chinese New Year celebration.

He says in Mandarin and broken English that he was twice arrested by Chinese authorities near the Pearl River, which separates China from the British colony of Hong Kong, and was held for more than a year. He says he and a friend arrested on the first occasion were both members of a Red Guard unit.

Upon his release three years ago, he returned to the river, hid for several days and finally swam across to Hong Kong. Months later he was in San Francisco where he joined his parents in a public housing project apartment.

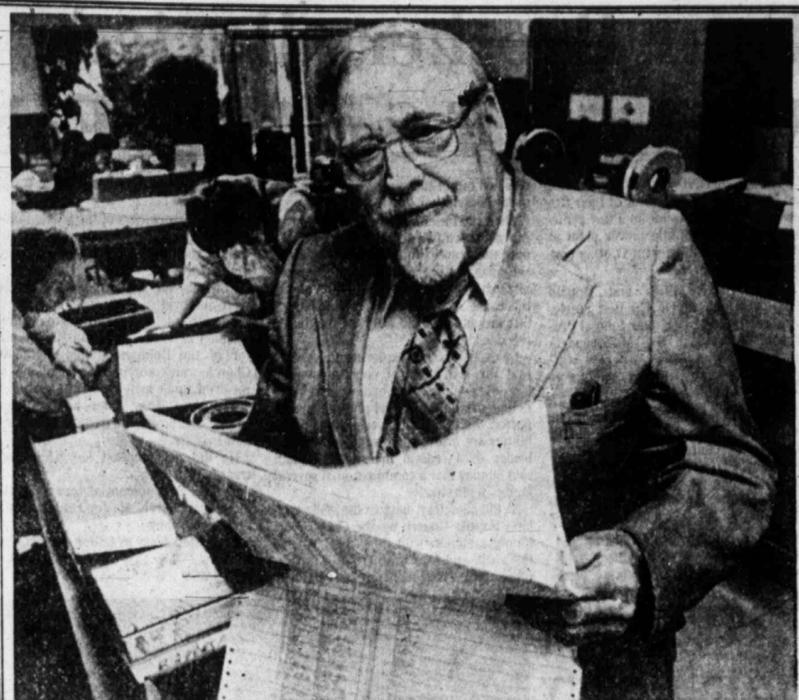

After that it was a steady descent into the world of Chinese youth gangs operating in the city's Chinatown.

First came a brief stint in high school, but he dropped out in 1976 because of his problem with English. Jobs were difficult to find and he took the streets where four main gang groups are said to operate. Police files list them as the Wah Ching, Hop Sing, Cookies and Joe Boys.

In March, 1977 Gan was wounded in the leg by a .357-magnum pistol when a youth seated next to him in a car traded gunfire with youths standing in front of a restaurant.

After that incident and his subsequent arrest in connection with an alleged extortion attempt at a restaurant, Wah Woo went into the investigation files as one of the Joe Boys.

Just when he became a police informant is not clear. Police investigators have refused to discuss his role in the case.

Petroleum Researcher Boasts Varied Background In Oil

LOS ANGELES (AP) — He's constantly at motion in the small, paneled office nestled in a corner of a loy building that has been almost turned over to computers and mailing machines — first to his files, now to the telephone, next to the typewriter, then to the intercom.

The man with silver hair, white beard and a belly that requires red suspenders plus a belt to keep his trousers in place — looks and acts like Santa Claus a few hours before the last flight south.

And Dan Lundberg, while he may not know when you are sleeping or know when you're a yake, does know almost everything about your driving habits: How many miles you drive, what brand of gasoline you buy, whether you prefer regular gasoline or premium or must use unleaded, how much you are paying for it.

His Lundberg Letter, a weekly collection of gasoline marketing statistics and observations drawn from surveys of 20,000 gasoline stations, goes to about 2,000 clients, including all of the major oil companies and distributors. His firm supplies other gasoline marketing statistics in which even the federal government — until recently — relied.

"I'm going to tell you the dirt truth," said Lundberg, who rarely is thought of as humble. "The fact is that we are the (market) research instrument for much of the oil industry." The claim appears to be true.

This human perpetual-motion machine is the most frequently quoted expert in the gasoline retailing business, but he's more than that, too. He's a complex fellow — a man of varied experience who sometimes gets a bit carried away while trying to promote his interests.

Lundberg, 65, has had a varied career as a writer of magazine articles, screenplays and a novel, and as a local news broadcaster and talk show host. But one of the things he does best is public relations, and he knows most of the tricks of the trade.

A reporter visiting Lundberg's office north of Los Angeles is given the grand tour, which ends at Lundberg's trophy case. Then, the visitor is offered various gifts, including books and a record of "the only musical comedy made in Latin." Later, a staff photographer is brought in to record the scene for posterity. Within days, the picture arrives at the visitor's office.

Lundberg came to the West Coast from Boston 45 years ago and began writing scripts for radio and motion pictures. During World War II, he says he worked for Nelson Rockefeller in a diplomatic post.

"Because he (Rockefeller) had an interest in petroleum in Venezuela, I tended to consider that our foreign policy was very much seized with the issue of energy," Lundberg said.

He said during the interview that at the same time he was working for the government, he also was a full-fledged correspondent for CBS News. But a personnel official at CBS said there was no record of Lundberg ever being on the regular payroll, although he might have been a part-time stringer. Later, Lundberg said he recollected that he probably was paid as a stringer.

After the war, he returned to California and his writing career. "But with raising children and everything, I decided to select an industry and I selected petroleum and began as a public relations counsel."

New, Used Car Costs Compared

DETROIT (UPI) — A good used car costs half as much to operate as a new car, according to a study released Sunday by the Hertz Corp., which says it's the world's largest dealer of second-hand cars.

The study by the car rental firm said the average cost of keeping a used car on the road for three years and 30,000 miles is 16.2 cents per mile compared with 30.1 cents for a new car.

"To achieve maximum potential savings, a used car should be kept at least three years at an assumed 10,000 miles per year of travel," Hertz said.

Included in the cost survey were such expenses as depreciation, fuel, insurance, maintenance and repairs, the company said.

Hertz said a used vehicle driven 10,000 miles a year for three years "is only half as costly to operate as is the same car purchased new and likewise driven three years."

"Even though maintenance costs rise in later years, this extra expense does not offset the higher initial depreciation rates on cars," Hertz said.

The company said a new car, purchased in 1978 for $4,864 and driven for three years and 30,000 miles, costs an average of 30.1 cents per mile.

Lubbock High Grads Plan '48ers' Reunion

Lubbock High School's class of 1948 is planning a reunion for Sept. 15-17. Those interested should contact Iris (Jeffcoat) Chetty at 799-3781, or Maxine (Boyd) McKelvy at 799-1985, for registration.

The classes of 1946, '47, '48, '49 and '50 are also invited. Any who were teachers at Lubbock High during the years mentioned are requested to contact Mrs. Chetty or Mrs. McKelvy at the above numbers.

Anyone wishing to help should contact Dot Lawson, who also is collecting written information. Her address is 4504 34th Street, Lubbock, Texas, 79414, phone 795-6347.

average 30.1 cents per mile. The same car bought after a year's use for $3,979 and driven three years would cost 25.3 cents per mile.

The car purchased seven years later for $462 would cost 13.1 cents per mile to operate for three more years, the company said.

"As with a new model, the longer a used unit is kept, the less expensive per mile it becomes to run," the firm said.

The study found the typical purchase price of one-to-four-year-old used cars ranged from 20 percent to 80 percent of below the price of new cars and operating expenses ranged from 10 to 50 percent of typical new-car costs.

Hertz said three out of four U.S. passenger cars bought for personal use are second-hand. Over the past 10 years, 13.5 million used cars were sold annually, the company said.

Hertz said the study also found U.S.-built cars "may last longer — and travel farther — than generally believed in the past. It shows that even after 10 years of operation, 40 to 45 percent of the units are still on the road."

DON WORKMAN • STATE SENATE

A WORKMAN For The People Of West Texas Wants YOU To Know ... Where He Stands On Law And Order.

Dear Voter:

As a member of both the Texas Youth Council and the Juvenile Justice Board, and as a parent, I am naturally concerned with youth crime and crime in general in West Texas. More than 50 percent of crimes committed in this country are committed by persons 18 and under. When elected as your State Senator for the 28th Senatorial District, I will deal with the crime problem in West Texas by:

- Moving the Texas Youth Council toward a regional detention center concept, separating children in need of supervision and truants from serious and habitual offenders and serving as an alternative to jail while juveniles are awaiting trial;
- Urging a change of Title III of the Texas Family Code which deals with juveniles, delinquents, allowing a sentence of an habitual or serious offender to extend past his juvenile age limit of 18;
- Introducing a bill which, first of all, enables a jury, upon request, to have an offender transferred from Texas Youth Council facilities to the Department of Correction when reaching adult age; and secondly, provides that a serious or habitual offender would have a permanent police record after age 18;
- Working toward a plan that denies bond to any person who has been convicted of a major crime and is a chief suspect in a similar crime and also deny bond to someone who is already under bond for a serious offense and is a chief suspect of another similar crime.

It's time the benefit of the doubt goes to society, the victims, and not to the offender. As your State Senator I will work to abolish slow tedious trials and light sentences and bring swift and powerful justice back to the state.

Sincerely,

Don

STEELE BURIAL — Family and friends of the Lee Steele family gather in a country churchyard near Willow Island, W. Va., Sunday for the burial of four of Steele's sons, who were killed in the collapse of a power plant scaffold on Thursday. (AW Laserphoto)

Four Brothers Buried; Victims Of Scaffold Fall

WILLOW ISLAND, W.Va. (AP) — Lee and Molly Steele buried four of their five sons Sunday, side-by-side in a tiny cemetery within sight of the power plant at which they were killed with 47 other construction workers.

Ernest, Larry, Miles and Ronald Steele, and their uncle Emmett Steele, were laid to rest after their funeral procession drove past the Monongahela Power Co. cooling tower where a scaffold collapsed last Thursday, sending 51 men 168 feet to their deaths.

The Rev. Amos McVey, at a funeral in the gymnasium of the Belmont Middle School, said, "We're not here because we have no hope. We're here with the knowledge that while we now are broken and sorrowful, some day we will be reunited and made whole."

But screams of anguish echoed after the bare concrete walls after the 30-minute service, as the five caskets were wheeled out of the gym. About 2,000 people attended.

Then the funeral procession of 300 cars moved down West Virginia Highway 2 past the power station. Mourners could see investigators perched atop the partially completed tower, looking for clues to the cause of the tragedy, which federal officials say was the worst of its kind in this decade.

Investigators are exploring the theory that the last batch of concrete poured atop the cooling tower had not cured sufficiently to hold the steel pins which supported the scaffold. Several other possibilities also are being examined, and the leader of a federal investigating team said Sunday that a combination of several factors seems likely.

At the cemetery, next to the Willow Island Baptist Church on the Ohio River, family members said their good-byes to the uncle and four brothers in a flower-filled tent. They then left as cemetery workers took the caskets to five freshly dug graves.

In all, 10 members of the Steele family were killed. Two of Lee Steele's brothers-in-law and three of his nephews were among the dead.

Funerals for eight additional victims were also held Sunday.

"The Steeles 'took me in and made me a member of the family,'" said McVey, pastor of the Belmont United Methodist Church, remembering the welcome he received upon arriving in the area five years ago. "They knew how to have friends and how to be friends; they knew how to share."

He did not mention last Thursday's tragedy.

Earlier, in a memorial service at the Methodist church, McVey read from the Book of Matthew.

He quoted Jesus as telling complaining workers, "Take that thine is, and go thy way."

Laborers Now Leery Of Towers

HOLLYWOOD, Ala. (AP) — All work was stopped on a cooling tower at a nuclear power plant near here after 51 workers were killed at a similar project in West Virginia. "That was just fine, because we were all pretty shook up," said Jim Ed Goins. "I wouldn't have gone up that ladder for anything."

Goins, a laborer, said he signed on last August at the Tennessee Valley Authority's $1.3 billion Bellefonte nuclear power plant in Scottsboro, just across the highway from this northeast Alabama town, because he wanted to work outdoors.

He also was attracted by the pay: $6.20 an hour with an extra $2 an hour for working in high places, like the 500-foot high cooling tower at the Bellefonte plant now being built by Research Cottrell, the New Jersey firm which also was building the West Virginia tower.

"We're making good money for around here," said Goins, a member of Local 846 of the Laborers Union in Chattanooga.

But after the West Virginia accident, Research Cottrell stopped work last week on the big Bellefonte tower.

Work on similar Research Cottrell projects — in Perry, Ohio, and Berwick, Pa. — also has been halted pending the outcome of the investigation of the West Virginia accident.

Fifty cooling tower workers at the Perry nuclear power plant were told not to return to work until further notice. Art Merins of Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co., one of five utilities which own the Perry plant, said cooling tower workers did not report to their jobs Friday, but the rest of the plant's 1,400 employees did.

Research Cottrell president Dennis Carlton Jones said work also stopped at a Pennsylvania Power Light cooling tower project in Berwick, Pa., following the West Virginia accident.

The scaffolding in the Alabama tower stood empty over the weekend, and officials said it would remain that way for a while.

"The moment I heard about that tragedy in West Virginia, I stopped all prying operations and ordered my men not to jock up the scaffolding on instructions from our company president," said site manager Jim Belcher. "Nobody — supervisory personnel or anybody else — is going back up there until we get the results of the investigation in West Virginia."

Many of the workers at the Scottsboro plant left Saturday to attend funerals of the workers who died in West Virginia.

Belcher said he sent an inspection team and steel reinforcing rod welders onto the scaffold Friday but postponed plans to pour the final 3 feet of the project, which is to be a catwalk on top of the tower from which maintenance crews can replace aviation lights.

The tower is the first of two at Bellefonte. Work was to continue Monday on the second tower, where scaffolding is not yet needed.

But despite the safety precautions, which Belcher said exceeded federal standards, the work seemed nerve-racking to some.

"You'd have to be awful hungry to work up there," said TVA security guard Fred Lockett at Scottsboro.

Knife Used To Settle Ownership Of Bicycle

Mistaken identity may have started a Saturday ruckus, but police said unruly tempers definitely finished it.

While ambulance attendants checked Donald Eilwood Dykes of 2303 14th St. for serious injuries in the stabbing incident, police found out the man who stabbed him may not only have been guilty of assault, but theft as well.

Dykes, 27, told officers he had a bicycle stolen from his home a few days ago when about 2:35 p.m. Saturday he saw a black man riding down the street on what he thought was the exact same bicycle.

After pursuing the man on his own vehicle, Dykes told the rider to "pull it over," he told officers, but the man refused.

Dykes told officers he had offered not to call police if the man would just give back the bicycle, but the man didn't seem to think there was any need to give anything back. He told Dykes it wasn't Dykes' bicycle, and he wasn't getting it back.

The complainant told officers the man then pulled a knife and took a swing at him, slashing Dykes across the face with the blade.

Witnesses reportedly watched both men chasing each other down the alley in the 1100-block of University Avenue for several minutes before the man fled.

Officers arrested a 19-year-old black man a few blocks away from the scene of the altercation for aggravated assault.

Lubbock policemen were posed with another problem a little out of the ordinary when they were sent to investigate an armed robbery only to find out the reported victim could not hear or talk.

Bystanders told police the man's story.

About 4:45 p.m. Saturday, Willie Heron Brown of 1614 Zenith Ave. told police he was working in the 2200-block of Quirt Avenue when he picked up a man and drove him to an address near there. When the man got out of the vehicle, though, he also took Brown's wallet, containing about $45.

Car burglars managed to remove about $1,475 in camera equipment from an automobile owned by Royce L. Acuff of Levelland while the auto was parked on the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center's parking lot about 2:30 p.m. Saturday.

Louis Jimenez reported the theft of a $60 gun from the office of the 500 E. Broadway motel where he works.

Jack Hodges of 3811 37th St. told police someone took an $855 golf club set from the racks at Meadowbrooke Golf Course between 5:30 p.m. and 6:15 p.m. Saturday.

Andre Swims Home In Record Time

ROCKPORT, Maine (UPI) — Andre, Maine's best known seal, Sunday broke all previous records for his annual springtime swim from Marblehead, Mass., and paddled into Rockport harbor about 5:30 a.m. Sunday.

The 17-year-old sea mammal was spotted by two fishermen in the light of dawn swimming near his pen, said Harry Goodridge, Andre's owner and trainer.

Philippine Officials Must Cancel Trips

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — President Ferdinand E. Marcos has ordered cabinet ministers and other key officials to cancel any scheduled trips abroad so as to "whip them in line," the government said.

The announcement said Marcos acted after finding that some government agencies "have failed to provide basic necessities and aid" to the people.

Andre was released from Marblehead Wednesday afternoon after spending the winter at Boston's New England Aquarium. But he "hung around" a few hours before leaving on his annual 180-mile springtime trek to Rockport harbor, Goodridge said.

Andre has been known to take up to two weeks on the journey north, but he "broke all records this year. He made it in less than 3 1/2 days. He didn't mess around," his trainer said.

"Andre's mental attitude is great," said Goodridge. "He's so contented in his pen. It's unbelievable."

"How can Goodridge tell when Andre is content?"

"That's easy. He just kind of lays back in the water, eats a fish once in a while and doesn't scratch at his pen, doesn't try to get out," Goodridge said.

The trainer said he was delighted the seal had returned so quickly. But he said there were some tense moments.

"Usually Andre lets me know where he is. After the second day he was out and I hadn't heard from him, I began to worry," the trainer said.

"But I heard he was at Pemaquid harbor (about 40 miles south of Rockport) yesterday. So, I didn't worry too much," Goodridge said Sunday.

Andre will be alone in his pen for a couple of weeks, Goodridge said. "Smoke," Andre's female companion, will be brought from the aquarium sometime in mid-May.

As for rumors Andre is going to be a father, Goodridge said, "I don't think so. If Smoke did have a pup, it would be in May and I don't think she's fat enough. But we'll see."

First 'Son Of Sam' Trial Set To Begin May 8

NEW YORK (UPI) — David R. Berkowitz, a simpering, bug-eyed former mail clerk accused of being the 44-caliber "Son of Sam" killer, is scheduled to go on trial for murder a week from Monday.

If found guilty, he could walk out a free man in 25 years. That's the law. The decision would be up to the state parole board.

Berkowitz will be 25 on June 1. He stands formally accused of murdering six young people and wounding seven more in a year-long terror spree in three counties of New York City, and his attorneys have entered innocent pleas to all.

The first trial, set for May 8 in Brooklyn by state Supreme Court Justice Joseph R. Corso, is for the last murder, that of Stacy Moscovitz, 20, and for the attempted murder of her date, Robert Violante, 20.

An acquittal by reason of insanity would send him to an institution. Berkowitz has told police that, goaded by demons, he committed all the crimes. There are persistent reports that he has informed his lawyers he will plead guilty to the Moscovitz murder on that first day.

A finding of guilt, by plea or by jury, would put him away in prison or a hospital for the criminally insane with eligibility for parole in 25 years, when he is 50. There is plenty of historical precedent for freeing convicted killers after punishment deemed to be fit.

Sirhan Sirhan, who tried to plead guilty and was dissuaded, was convicted of the Robert F. Kennedy murder in 1969 and sentenced to death, with a later change to life imprisonment. The California Adult Authority has set his release date on parole for 1986; he'll be out then, at age 42, unless he does something bad meanwhile.

Nathan F. Leopold, pleading guilty with his partner Richard Loeb to Chicago's 1924 "crime of the century" senseless murder of 14-year-old Bobby Franks, was paroled, at age 53 after 34 years in prison. Loeb was slain in prison. The judge had sentenced both to life plus 99 years for kidnapping and urged authorities never to let them out.

If Berkowitz pleads, or is found, guilty the judge must set a minimum sentence of 15 to 25 years and a maximum of life. No one expects a New York judge to give this man a minimum of less than 25 years. At the end of the minimum he is eligible for parole. Of course, there exists the possibility of a 15-year minimum sentence.

The state parole board grants or declines parole applications, on a continuing basis every year.

Berkowitz, in addition to Brooklyn, is charged with three murders in Bronx county and two in Queens, and he can be tried in both places if found mentally competent to stand trial, as he has been in Brooklyn. Guilty sentences in the Bronx and Queens would run concurrently with that in Brooklyn — but the parole board in that case could increase the time before parole eligibility to 30 years.

A Berkowitz guilty plea on May 8 — or any time thereafter during the trial — would have to be an admission of all elements charged: murder, attempted murder, assault, and gun possession. Then the judge would have to satisfy himself by questioning the defendant that Berkowitz knew the nature and consequence and the wrongfulness of the act.

If there were no guilty plea, the trial would proceed on the previous plea of "not guilty by reason of insanity." Hearings on pretrial motions would take two weeks, jury selection up to a month, testimony an indefinite period depending on number of witnesses.

Berkowitz stated last October that he intended to plead guilty, but his personality has been described as fickle. His attorneys are preparing for trial.

If there were a successful plea, or a verdict, of guilty, Justice Corso would by custom fix sentencing for five weeks thereafter, the time required for a probation report, and then turn him over to the Department of Correctional Services.

A review of some of America's sensational criminal cases brings out some interesting facts. Many have forgotten that the legendary Lizzie Borden, the genteel lady with wealthy parents who, the famed verse charges, "took an ax, and gave her mother 40 whacks, and when she saw what she had done, gave her father 41," was acquitted by a New Bedford, Mass., jury in 66 minutes back in 1892.

She had an alibi. Some latter-day students say it was flimsy, that she really was guilty. Others contend the housemaid did it.

Anti-Nuclear Bomb Rally Ends Peacefully

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — A weekend rally that drew some 5,000 protesters to the Rocky Flats nuclear weapons plant drew to a close with an overnight vigil on a little-used railroad track leading to the plant.

For many who stood for four hours in the wind and the rain to decry the use of nuclear power, the weekend held memories of other demonstrations, rallies and marches. But for those who were around for the turmoil of the 1960s, it was a picnic in comparison.

Saturday's demonstration was the largest ever held at the plant, the nation's only producer of the plutonium components for nuclear bombs.

As Jefferson County sheriff's officers on horseback watched from a nearby hill, some 150 demonstrators, including Daniel Ellsberg, who made the Pentagon Papers public, carried sleeping bags and backpacks to the track.

There were no arrests, and plant security officials said the protesters would be allowed to stay as long as they wish, providing they do not move along the tracks toward the plant — about 1 1/2 miles away.

The track is rarely used, said security guard Clarence Crews, adding that the only possible danger to the demonstrators would be illness or the rattlesnakes that inhabit the boulder-strewn plains at the base of the Rocky Mountain foothills.

The track blockade — which organizers said was intended to be symbolic — ended the afternoon rally on the 2 1/2-mile access road leading to the 100-building complex about 16 miles northwest of Denver.

Some two-dozen speakers told of the health dangers of plutonium, called for a halt to the arms race and urged that the plant's nuclear functions be phased out and jobs found for those employees put out of work.

A main objective of the rally, organizers said last week, was to influence U.S. representatives to the U.N. disarmament conference next month.

The mood was festive, although temperatures were in the 40s and intermittent light rain fell throughout the day. Bluegrass musicians performed between speeches; and demonstrators flew kites, ate picnic lunches and carried signs and banners with slogans such as "No nukes is good nukes."

Twice on Saturday, hundreds of balloons were released to show how the winds along the foothills would carry any radiation that might be released from the plant.

Two rows of barricades separated the demonstrators from the security fence ringing the 12-square-mile plant, but there were no confrontations.

The largest previous demonstration at the plant was on Aug. 3, 1976, when about 300 persons showed up to mark the 31st anniversary of the atomic bombing at Hiroshima.

Twenty-two Japanese citizens were on hand Saturday, including Hiroshima survivors.

Built in 1952, Rocky Flats is operated by Rockwell International for the federal government. Plutonium, an intensely radioactive element, is milled and machined at the plant into pieces that form the explosive packages of nuclear weapons.

A plant spokesman said production work generally is not done on weekends and no production work was done Saturday.

Protesters Stage Reunion In Former Detention Area

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (AP) — A drab National Guard armory, used a year ago as a jail for nuclear power protesters, was transformed this weekend into a ballroom for hundreds of former inmates.

But the dozens of bright banners and the blaring of two bands Saturday night failed to mask unpleasant memories for many who were held within the military green walls of the armory.

"I came back tonight so I could show my daughter where the governor of New Hampshire keeps people who oppose his views on nuclear power," said Barbara Miller of Rockville, Conn. "I guess it's like returning to a POW camp. It's just not the same if you haven't lived through it."

At the time of the arrests, many of the protesters refused to pay $100 bail and stayed in the armory for almost two weeks, saying the state should not have required bail on a trespass complaint. Gov. Meldrin Thomson contended the protesters were free to leave at any time and were staying just to cost the state money.

The reunion dance was held by the Portsmouth Clamshell Alliance to commemorate last year's arrest of 1,414 people at the occupation of the Seabrook nuclear plant site and to reaffirm plans to reoccupy the site on June 24, organizers said.

The Portsmouth armory was filled to capacity, and at times long lines of new arrivals were forced by a fire inspector to wait until some of the 700 people inside departed. Some came from as far as Maryland and New York to attend the dance.

Inside the scene was, in ways, similar to countless other reunions of battle veterans. "I feel closer to these people than to the guys I fought with in Vietnam," said Bob Yoder of Rochester, N.Y. "These people are also involved in an unpopular war, but the cause is far more noble and we're all volunteers."

On one wall a large sign read, "Home of the finest... The New Hampshire National Guard." And directly below was a Clamshell poster which urged, "Join the citizen's occupation force."

Many of the veterans of "Seabrook 77" snake-danced around the floor, a joyful contradiction to their past activities in the armory.

But others gathered in small groups retelling war stories and speaking of the "battles" ahead.

As the television lights swept across the banners proclaiming "Save our children" and "Better active today than radioactive tomorrow," Court Dorsey sang what has become the Clamshell battle song.

"Come fight for your freedom and land," he sang. "I'm joining that great occupation. We're closing that power plant down."

The crowd was on its feet. Women holding babies locked arms with gray-haired men, middle-aged women and youngsters in overalls. All loudly singing, many with tears streaming down their faces.

With emotions frequently found in revival meetings the song was repeated again and again.

Canada Announces South Africa 'Code'

OTTAWA (AP) — The Department of External Affairs announced a voluntary code of conduct for Canadian businesses operating in South Africa similar to that already adopted by the United States and Britain.

The companies are asked to report annually on efforts to grant equal pay, better fringe benefits, improved working conditions and bargaining rights to black employees living in the white-ruled African nation.

Sculptor Wants U.S. To Add Mount Rushmore Record Hall

HARLINGEN (AP) — Lincoln Borglum fears that an artwork he is rather proud of may outlive the government of the United States.

"You have these heads up there and there's no record of who the people are or why it was carved ... unless we assume the government will be around for 100,000 years," Borglum said of the four faces carved on Mount Rushmore, S.D.

It was Borglum's father Gutzon who designed and supervised the massive sculpture. But the younger Borglum, now 66, took over the project when his father died, shortly before the 14-year effort ended.

Although Borglum finished the awesome work on the mountain, he still views it as an unfinished dream. He talked about it in his home-studio in this Rio Grande Valley city.

"Fifty thousand years from now they won't know what the hell it is. We don't know why the Sphinx was built or what the Pyramids were for," the artist said.

Merely written records would not be sufficient, he added. Borglum wants to see records that would be almost as permanent as the faces of George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln and Teddy Roosevelt — granite likenesses that erode at the microscopic rate of less than an inch per 100,000 years.

It would be a room cut out of the mountain. On the walls would be an inscription with the history of the United States and who those people are that are carved up there," he said. Work on the proposed hall of records — designed by the elder Borglum — had begun but was cut off by officials in Washington. Gutzon Borglum saw the room as a way to prevent misinterpretation of his work thousands of years from now.

He foresaw future scientists and thinkers mistakenly theorizing that the four faces were gods or that they marked a tomb.

Lincoln Borglum believes it will take a grassroots movement from the people to spark the completion of the proposed hall of records. He sees the hall as the only viable addition to his father's masterpiece.

There have been other suggestions. Some would like to see other presidential faces in the granite.

"FDR is always the top choice and Kennedy is second. But it's a moot question. There's no room for another head," he said.

Borglum keeps busy today and his works are featured in several Texas cities. A Christ statue he created is displayed in Beeville. Rockport has a St. Francis statue done by Borglum and the Gladys Porter Zoo in Brownsville has a Borglum sculpture of the zoo's namesake clutching a baby gorilla.

Periodically he gets calls from people with mountains. There have been contacts from South America, Mexico and New York. None, he said, went beyond the talking stage.

Mountain carving would be a good bit different today from the way his father did it.

MOUNTAIN CARVER — Lincoln Borglum—who completed his father's massive carving on Mount Rushmore—looks at one of his own works in his Harlingen, home. The artist, 66, wants to see a Hall of Records carved in the mountain to tell future generations about the presidential faces. (AP Laserphoto)

Official Controls Questions Of Press

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Tennessee's governor set out last winter to teach news reporters a lesson in positive thinking.

On Dec. 18, Gov. Ray Blanton told statehouse regulars he no longer would answer what he thought were negative questions unless the inquiring reporter already had written about the positive side of the issue. The policy continues — and Blanton has not been asked many negative questions since.

Five months later, in mid-April, his journalism curriculum reached the classroom. A former school teacher, the governor told a Peabody College journalism class he believes he has seen "a slight improvement in the press, not only in the state but nationwide."

Reporters, for their part, generally have ignored Blanton. Attention has been focused in recent months on the legislature and the 1978 political campaigns. Indeed, Blanton has called few news conferences since Dec. 18.

But Blanton now appears ready to have some people, including a few reporters, pay him more attention — possibly as a candidate for re-election. On March 7, the governor got what he considers some positive news: voters ratified a constitutional amendment that makes him the first governor of Tennessee eligible to seek re-election to a second four-year term.

Blanton says he won't make up his mind whether to run until just before the June 3 deadline for the Democratic primary.

Blanton explained at the outset that his positive news policy was designed to combat "the negativism in the news media that is destroying our country."

He urged President Carter and other governors to join him. Jody Powell, the president's press secretary, replied, "We agree with the goal of fair and balanced news, but if we put into practice the procedures you suggest, the president's news conferences would last about seven minutes and I'd have to do away with my daily briefings altogether."

Blanton says he hasn't received responses from other governors, but claims public reaction is about 2 1/2-1 in favor of his policy.

A former West Tennessee congressman, Blanton, 48, was buried in a Republican landslide in 1972 when he challenged Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn. But Blanton used that race to build the organization that helped elect him governor two years later.

Blanton told reporters at his first news conference, "I have always considered public officials and the media have an ad-

Helicopter Crashes In Western Samoa

APIA, Western Samoa (AP) — An American helicopter crashed Saturday while flying a search party to the mountaintop site of a plane crash on Western Samoa.

Authorities said the civilian pilot of the helicopter and his passenger were not injured.

There was no immediate word on what caused the helicopter crash.

The craft was one of two flying search parties to the scene where a South Pacific Island Airways Cessna 402 slammed into a mountain Friday. All ten persons aboard were believed killed.

Officials said search parties have made little progress toward the wreckage because of rough terrain.

The Cessna was flying from Pago Pago on American Samoa to Upolu Island in Western Samoa, an 80-mile trip, when it crashed about 18 miles southeast Apia Airport on Upolu Island.

It was not known if any foreigners were aboard the plane. Officials said all nine passengers had Polynesian names.

Money-Filled Flight Bag Arouses Police Suspicions

SEATTLE (AP) — A flight bag containing nearly $200,000 in cash and gold coins, found April 15 next to a telephone booth at a busy North End intersection, is awaiting a claimant, police say.

Police Maj. C. R. Connery said Friday the money "very possibly" was involved in a kidnapping, extortion or drug deal that went awry. Authorities say the person who found the bag April 15 has requested anonymity. Anyone claiming the money will have to describe precisely what is in the bag to get it.

versary relationship." In a sense, his press relations went downhill from there.

The question that prompted Blanton's positive news policy followed from a series in The Commercial Appeal, Memphis morning newspaper, on spending by the governor's office. Among other things, the newspaper reported several calls were made from Blanton's office to Karen Flint, a woman employee of the Appalachian Regional Commission.

When John S. Triplett, a Commercial

Appeal reporter, rose to ask Blanton if he knew Miss Flint, the news policy was inaugurated.

On Jan. 10, Triplett asked again — and Blanton told him to sit down. The question has not come up again.

Exploratory Research Begins On New Nuclear 'Blast Bomb'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has begun secret exploratory research on a new nuclear "blast bomb" for the military that would produce increased heat and blast but reduced radioactive fallout, it was learned Saturday night.

Funds for preliminary basic research on the blast bomb — which the Pentagon calls the "RRR" or "reduced residual radiation" bomb — are contained in an Energy Department budget request for $1.5 billion for nuclear weapons and other research activities next year.

The budget request was presented to the House Appropriations subcommittee on public works last month by Dr. Donald M. Kerr, acting assistant secretary of energy for defense programs. An unclassified transcript of his testimony was published last week.

In a telephone interview, Kerr said exploratory research on the new blast bomb was under way at government laboratories at Los Alamos, N.M., and Livermore, Calif.

His assignment, he said, was to start work on developing a nuclear device that would "minimize residual radiation due to fallout." The purpose is to "allow prompt access by our ground troops to an area where this device is detonated," Kerr said.

"How the Department of Defense chooses to use this weapon is for them to decide," Kerr said. But he speculated that it could be used to deny the enemy use of an airfield by "creating a big crater in the middle of the runway," or to impose a barrier in the path of advancing enemy armor.

The effects of the blast bomb would be the opposite of the neutron bomb, which features increased radiation but reduced heat and blast. Earlier this month, President Carter ordered production of the neutron bomb deferred indefinitely.

The neutron bomb is designed to be exploded above ground, generating lethal doses of radiation that can penetrate steel and kill or incapacitate enemy tank crews. Destruction of surrounding buildings and other structures would be kept to a minimum.

By contrast, the blast bomb would be detonated at ground level, sending enormous amounts of debris into the air. Its tactical mission on the battlefield might be to dig huge craters, demolish buildings or bury mountain passes under an avalanche of debris. All these tasks once were assigned to atomic demolition mines in the U.S. nuclear stockpile.

Thus, the objective of the preliminary research now under way at Los Alamos and Livermore is to determine whether it is possible to build such a bomb with the characteristic of minimizing radiation of the soil and other debris sent into the air when it is exploded.

The purpose, as Kerr explained, is to allow American combat troops to re-enter the target area as soon as possible after the explosion with minimum exposure to deadly radioactive fallout.

The Energy Department performs research and development of new nuclear weapons for the Defense Department. Its $1.5 billion research request for the new fiscal year starting Oct. 1 represents a $70 million increase over the current fiscal year, according to the transcript of Kerr's testimony before the House subcommittee.

The blast bomb did not appear as a specific item in the Energy Department's budget request for research and development. Nor did it appear in sub-category requesting $612 million for production and maintenance of the U.S. nuclear weapons stockpile, a 21 percent increase over current spending.

Crisis Near On Firing Of Official

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — A powerful faction in Rhodesia's biracial administration Sunday demanded the reinstatement of black cabinet minister Byron Hove, but wavered on whether to quit the interim government in a dispute over his firing.

"The party is reviewing the whole question of its continued participation in the transitional government," the United African National Council said in a statement.

The statement came after a four-hour meeting between party leaders and their head — Bishop Abel Muzorewa, an influential moderate and one of three blacks on Rhodesia's ruling executive council.

Hove, dismissed as co-minister of justice Friday for criticizing the racial makeup of Rhodesia's police and judiciary, told reporters in London that the two-month-old government would be in danger without Muzorewa. He is thought to have the widest support of any council member among Rhodesia's blacks.

"He is the only honest man in this affair, and he is dealing with rogues," said Hove, a 38-year-old attorney who left Rhodesia on Saturday to resume his practice in Britain. "If the split is permanent, it could mean the collapse of the interim government."

Before the UANC meeting here, about 1,500 blacks held a silent demonstration near party headquarters protesting provisions of the agreement signed March 3 between Muzorewa, the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole, Chief Jeremiah Chirau and white Prime Minister Ian Smith. The four thus became the ruling executive council.

The agreement would lead to black majority rule by the end of the year but also provide future safeguards for Rhodesia's 263,000 whites. There are 6.4 million blacks.

Muzorewa, who appointed Hove, called the council's action to remove the black minister "disastrous" and said Saturday that he would discuss with his UANC whether to quit the newly formed government.

Party spokesman Ernest Bulle, co-minister of finance, called for an immediate emergency meeting of the executive council to reinstate Hove. It was believed the UANC would wait and see what the council does before making any final decision on withdrawal.

Muzorewa claimed Hove was sacked without his knowledge — a charge denied by the other two black members of the council.

Hove's dismissal is the first major internal crisis faced by the biracial government.

Mellons, Du Ponts Lead Rich

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Mellon family of Pennsylvania and the du Pont family of Delaware are the nation's two richest families, at the head of some 200,000 American millionaires, a study published in Town and Country magazine said Sunday.

The Hearst Publishing Co. magazine for the leisure-class woman, in its May issue, estimated the wealth of each family as between $3 billion and $5 billion.

The Mellon fortune stems from the Mellon National Bank, covers four generations and includes Gulf Oil, Alcoa, and Koppers Co.

Town and Country said the du Pont wealth spanned six generations, making it the oldest family of the superwealthy. The du Ponts began selling gunpowder to the administration of Thomas Jefferson, the nation's third president, and now own one of the most diversified chemical companies in the world.

Ranking behind the two richest families, with between $2 billion and $3 billion, were the Getty family of California and Daniel K. Ludwig, an 80-year-old publicity-shy New Yorker whose empire includes the largest U.S. oil tanker fleet, the magazine said.

The Rockefeller family (oil, real estate) ranked next, with between $1 billion and $2 billion.

HOUSE PLANTS EXCLUSIVELY—It would seem that most folks already know of The Greenhouse, in South Plains Mall, by the reception it has enjoyed. Pictured in an attractive area of the beautiful shop are (from left) Tody Davidson (owner with husband George Davidson), and staffmember Susie Rampy.

House Plants, Related Items Excel At 'Greenhouse' In Mall

The Greenhouse certainly lives up to its name! Specializing exclusively in house plants, The Greenhouse stocks a fresh, healthy, wide array of house plants including many native to the area and others from South Texas, California and Florida. "We sincerely believe that we offer the best selection of house plants in the area" is the word from George and Tody Davidson, husband-wife owner-operator team of the popular store in South Plains Mall, and a lot of customers throughout the region will agree to the selection found here. The Davidsons have been at The Greenhouse since its opening back when the Mall opened, and since January of this year they have been sole owners. A very able staff assists, including Susie Rampy and Monterey seniors Terry Davidson and Lyle Cox. Full Price Range Not only is the selection outstanding at The Greenhouse (located just west of Chick-fil-A in the west wing of South Plains Mall, but pricing is most competitive. One may select from a range extending from cacti and succulents in 3-inch pots at just 88 cents to the big and beautiful 485 dracena marginata ... and everything in between! The quality and selection is evident even from a casual view at the store's entry way. Note the gorgeous tropicals, the fantastic array of house plants of all types, and the accessories and decor pieces. Beautiful, functional macrame hangers are stocked. And ceramic and clay pots. Hanging baskets are much in evidence and much in demand. There are grow lights, brackets, chains, choices in baskets, and more. "Plant food and everything for plants ... we have it at The Greenhouse." Visa and Master Charge purchases are welcomed, and The Greenhouse stays open from 10 a.m. until 9 p.m., six days a week.

Boston Fern Arriving
 New arrivals continually are added, such as the Boston fern in hanging baskets due to arrive this week. Plants are potted for customers at a nominal fee. "As one of the highlights of your next South Plains Mall visit, browse and select at The Greenhouse as residents throughout West Texas and Eastern New Mexico have done. The word gets around when quality and selection, plus friendliness and convenient location, dominate; we at The Greenhouse appreciate the kind expressions and the growing patronage that has enabled our current stock and services." "May we serve you, too, whether for gifting, for selection for your own home decor or for special occasions such as Mother's Day, just a few days away?" It all is at The Greenhouse, South Plains Mall (with the shop about midway between the fountain and Sears), phone 792-5597.

Miniatures, From The Little Shoppe, Seen As 'Wanted' Mother's Day Gift

There are new arrivals at The Little Shoppe in Cactus Alley, most of which could well be an ideal Mother's Day gift ... especially if mother is intrigued by miniatures, decor pieces, "how to" books, and more. Though already stocking miniatures by the literal thousands, The Little Shoppe has added more, including: There is the butcher block, with tools; candle stand, wig stand, even a Victorian wash stand. And two of those intriguing greenhouses are on their way, due to arrive before Mother's Day. (First come, first served.) And to fill the greenhouses there are miniature plants ... that never die and never need watering! See the metal miniatures, ready for you to paint, including musical instruments, typewriters, doctor's bag, stethoscope, water cans, double-barrel shotguns, baseball bats, boots, tiny airplanes, tennis racket, milk cans, etc! Don't fail to see the wicker bed tray for breakfast in bed, complete with miniature eggs 'n toast on tray, with newspaper, too; and the wicker bed and end table. Then, there are dozens of new oriental rug kits stocked for great needlepoint work. Books are stocked showing how to make fruits and vegetables, kitchen furniture, flowers, needlecraft, shaker furniture, and even on how to light a dollhouse. Three new kits of pre-cut dollhouses are available, with simple gluing all that is necessary. These include an English tudor, Little Victorian and Early American Victorian. There are house plans for a general store and three dollhouses, also. The Little Shoppe has greatly added to its doll house components, with available supplies now including mouldings, baseboards, quarter round, half round, picture frame trim, cornice boards, chairs, gutters, stair stringers, wallpaper, thresholds, clapboard siding, veneer, shingles, wallpaper paste and all! (Observers "in the know" report that The Little Shoppe actually has greater choice and more discriminating selection in miniatures than even the finest shops of the type in the Dallas-Ft. Worth metropolitanplex.) An added note about the new-model Early American and English Tudor homes: One can easily build these by the step-by-step pictures and the pre-cut materials. It is like a course in miniature construction, with unique materials that allow many variations. Only requirement is for hand tools; no power tools are necessary! Also just received are miniature toys, in greater assortment than ever, for the miniature children's rooms. For the hobbyist, for the collector, for the amateur or more advanced 'miniature' aficionado, The Little Shoppe has assembled the most complete selection of houses, furnishings, material and all—in all West Texas! There are furnishings by the hundreds for every miniature room, all in intricate detail, perfect in scale and workmanship. One cannot enumerate all that is The Little Shoppe. Pages could be written listing and describing the miniature copper cookware, the furnishing for every room of a miniature mansion, etc., but one can only comprehend the completeness of the stock through a personal visit. The location: in Cactus Alley, 2610 Salem Ave., just south off the Brownfield Highway in Lubbock.

Imagine, such saving on really great gift items ... clocks to be appreciated for generations. So ... don't delay in checking now with Tick Tock, at 50th Street at Flint Avenue, phone 797-4569, in Monterey Center. There are hundreds of clocks from which to select at Tick Tock. New shipments have added to the already extensive and prestigious choices.

"We service what we sell, with in-store service provided," is further advantage at this better clock shop. Actually there is more than clocks at this fabulous store. See the new hour glasses, the paper weights, desk ornaments (including limited-edition brass and silver plate reproductions of the old Mack truck, specific trains, steam engines, etc.) and even gorgeous, functional sundials. One may select from the Gazo line from the Gazo family clock factory. These are "top of the line" and the wall, mantle and floor models all are masterpieces of gorgeous wood carving. Other lines include Ansonia, Trend, Howard Miller, Colonial, Ridgeway, Decor, Hamilton, Herschede, New England, Seth Thomas, and more. Locally owned and operated by Al and Shirlene Juno, the Tick Tock Clock Shop is a family operation. In-store financing is available.

Hughes Services 'Goes Second Mile' In Fullest Assistance To Customer

For full janitorial services with "plus-benefits that we like to prove", the name to know in Lubbock, Amarillo and throughout the South Plains and Panhandle is Hughes Services, Inc., 101 Sherman Ave. in Lubbock!

(And for purchase of professional maintenance supplies, at the same Lubbock location, there is HUCO Products Co., taking pride in stocking the very best-in equipment and related needs.)

Hughes and HUCO each "go the extra mile" in assisting the customer, helping in maximum benefits from both the services and equipment selection and use.

Customers have long profited from the learning and experience, plus capacity for service, of the Hughes and HUCO personnel. Offices are maintained in both Lubbock and Amarillo, and counties throughout the area are well served by Hughes (with current accounts noted in Levelland, Slaton, Hereford, Canyon, Plainview and other area points.)

"Are you included?"

Assistance That Counts

Hughes Services has a record of customer assistance . . . such as supervision, to assure the right procedures and results for each account.

"If your building has a problem in janitorial servicing, there is no charge from Hughes for an in-depth survey and recommendations."

And if a housewife has a problem on floor care within the home, we are glad at Hughes and HUCO to tell what use and how it should be used.

All this is made possible by "the right products, the devotion to service, and the training that is a continuous procedure for all staffers."

Demonstrations, films, on-job training — all are part of the Hughes and HUCO concept of fullest service, and in keeping with a record of foresight and achievement that might be dated from establishment of Hughes Service back in 1954 and the addition of HUCO Products in 1970, with numerous additions to products and services marking the intervening and ensuing years.

In explaining HUCO Products, president George Hughes puts it this way: "We believe a professional wants strictly professional merchandise; hence any product we sell is used in our own professional maintenance business; we have tested it before recommending and selling it, for sure."

Among the products available from HUCO are Hillyard floor treatments including gym finishes and concrete seals. (One can run a new slab and just as soon as it is dry for walking, a spray seal can be applied to keep it from ever getting stained. How great for a commercial building, or even for the home owner who can seal the garage or even the residence floor before carpeting.)

All types of hospitalization chemicals are stocked.

And Dynasurf products, L&A pressure washers and associated chemicals.

Plus National Super Service floor machines.

(Be sure and learn of the electric powered 20-in. buffer with brush speed of 1,070 rpm, three times as much as usually expected for buffing units. And it is simple enough and easy enough for any woman to run. Imagine, buffing 10,000 sq. ft. per hour! And the finishes last longer with a "wet look" finish that resists scuffing.

Actually, for finest in cleaning equipment and related products, all thoroughly proven, one can with assurance depend upon the progressive HUCO Products Co., 101 Sherman Ave. in Lubbock.

And who cannot benefit from patronizing Hughes Services, Inc., at the same address?

Specifies Cited

FLOWERS TODAY: UNIQUE AND INVITING

Flowers Today, At Slide Road Location, Invites Comparison

"Wouldn't these days of pre-Mother's Day planning be an excellent time to make or renew acquaintance with Flowers Today, in a class by itself at 5308-B Slide Road?"
The firm's assertion that "we're here to serve you, to do it the way you want it" is most evident even upon initial entry to the beautifully stocked and appointed shop on the west side of Slide Road, with plenty of off-street parking.
Not only does Flowers Today have a most enticing and wide selection of potted plants, green plants, silks, fresh flowers, tropicals, etc., but it stocks a discriminating choice in accessories.

Note The really fine crystal pieces (including antiques and imports), brass and copper ware.
Whatever the decorative item selected at Flowers Today, a fern stand, baker's rack, or other, one can be assured that value is the word.
Owners-operators Tim Tippitt and Winifred Hill would have it no other way.

The firm was purchased by the duo back in November of last year, and word seems to have spread rapidly regarding the type shop, the concept of service, and the merchandise variety provided.
"Serenity" likely is first and correct impression of the so-beautiful shop — from its fern wallpaper to the plush carpet and attractive floral arrangements.
"It all purposely says 'we're glad you're here'."

stocked and served accordingly. Since that date, even more has been learned of customer preferences, and consequent growth and expansion has followed. Yes, the House of Shades and Lamp Repair is here to stay!
Owners Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Houchin report that continually they are able to get more and better stock.
The House of Shades has complete facilities for lamp wiring, repair and rebuilding. One's favorite antique, bottle or vase can be professionally converted to a lamp to specifications. "We'll make a lamp out of any old thing!"
Mr. and Mrs. Houchin point out:

Shades, though a most important part of any decor, do get soiled and worn. A new shade or repairs on present ones present the solution.
"Now, when we say 'lamp shades', we are not talking about only the conventional hardback or stretched shade as many people might think. There are glass shades in many sizes and colors, ball shades, small shades for chandeliers, wooden, silk, metal shades, etc. We have them all."
Special pride is taken in custom shades and in custom lamp building.
"Simply bring us your idea and we will do the rest."

Lee's Custom Jewelers Urges Early Mother's Day Ordering

"For mother, why consider less than a gift of jewelry?
 "And where better could one select a cherished gift than at Lee's Custom Jewelers, 2115 50th St.!"
 Even though Mother's Day is just a few days away, on May 14, Lee's will take special orders through May 8. Ordering of family rings at the very earliest time possible is advised.
 Lee's Custom Jewelers, in Oakwood Center, has a very good selection of mountings, with an equally impressive choice in diamonds and colored stones.
 Gift certificates are available, too, and might in many instances be the proper Mother's Day consideration.
 A very good selection of Longines, Wittnaur, Seiko and Technos fine watches is stocked.
 Actually, something for everyone, and for all ages, is evident in the most attractive displays at Lee's Custom Jewelers (a great place in which to select for graduation remembrances, for sure).
 From watches and bands to quality diamond jewelry of all types, Lee's is assurance that whatever the selection, one can be sure that quality has been the foremost consideration of the firm, passing on this quality at sensible prices.
 Watch repair receives expert attention at Lee's Custom Jewelers, with qualified watchmakers including owner Lee Tyler Jr. on the job. All repair work is done right in the store, with none "sent out", thus assuring both personal and expert attention.
 Lee's is open from 10AM until 6PM, Mondays through Fridays, with Saturday hours 10AM until 2PM.
 Master Charge and Visa purchases are enabled.
 Lee Tyler Jr., a Lubbock resident of some 12 years, purchased the firm six years ago, and he and his wife, Willene, head a staff dedicated to quality merchandise and finest service.
 "For jewelry items sure to please, for Mother's Day, graduation and other situations, and for repair of all major watch brands, one can turn with confidence to Lee's Custom Jewelers, phone 744-4814, in Oakwood Center, Lubbock."

Lock Assortment, Tools For Garden, Home, Builder, All At Childress Firm

"Security" is very much in the minds of most people today. And properly so. It would be foolish, and likely impossible, to seriously consider security for the home or business without attention to the locks... such as dead bolts, etc.
 And this is where Childress Hardware comes in, for Childress for years has stocked the finest in security hardware. The knowledgeable personnel there will be glad to discuss one's door fastener needs, providing the right lock for the situation at hand.
 Not only at this time when crime seems to dominate in so many news reports, but for the entire past half-century, Childress Hardware, at 902 Main, has stocked needs for every season, the practical hardware items appreciated throughout the region.
Outdoor Tool Needs
 "It also is pointed out that just as soon as the winter weather abates, most of us are anxious to turn attention to the challenges for house, yard and garden improvements; a busy outdoor time of year has arrived!
 The correct tools and equipment can be the big item in convenience and accomplishment, whether the task is lawn and garden work or even a remodeling job for the home."
 For these tools, one can rely with certainty on the Fred Childress Hardware Store.
 This is a store that meets the season's needs.
 For example, do these items have a function in your plans:
 Pruning saws, garden hose, sprinklers (from the smallest to the most elaborate), reels for the garden hose, fertilizer spreaders, walking garden plows, rakes, hoes and spades, shears, trimmers, hose, etc.
For Home Improvement
 Then for the home handyman or even the professional builder who appreciates good hand tools, there is a wide stock, including the respected name of Stanley, Crescent, Thorson, Nicholson, Bluegrass, Disston, Lufkin, Plumb and others long associated with quality and integrity in tool-making.
 On and on the list could go in enumerating the lawn and the building needs provided at Childress Hardware, but suffice it to say that "if it is in the hardware line, you can get it there.
 One can purchase an old-fashioned sprinkling can or a lawn watering device that negotiates your yard; a well pulley or a lamp chimney; actually more than 10,000 different items.
 Childress Hardware continues as a popular place with carpenters and craftsmen, who make if headquarters for nails of all sizes, as well as a wide range of other fastenings including stove bolts, capscrews, carriage bolts, machine screws, metal screws, wood screws and brass screws, chain, rope — you name it, for home, industrial or farm use.
Cabinet Hardware
 The Fred Childress Hardware also stocks one of the most extensive line of cabinet hardware in the city, with latest designs in hinges, pulls and latches attractively displayed. Here again brands such as Stylecraft, Christensen, Phylrick and Pfanstiel are indicative of top quality and design.
 With all this stock, one might have the wrong conception — that the store is messy and ill-arranged — but this is not the case. At Fred Childress Hardware, 902 Main St., the entire stock is grouped for easy viewing and selection. It is a neat, attractive store in which the wife can enjoy shopping.

NOVEL IDEA MAKES SENSE — Benito Romo of Maxey Home Improvement Center is shown here with a Genie garage door opener display, pointing out that such automation would be a most suitable Mother's Day Gift.

Genie Garage Door Opener, Finest Storm Doors 'Appreciated By Moms'

Would mother appreciate the convenience, safety and the "thought behind the gift" in receiving a Genie automatic garage door opener for Mother's Day? "Would a beautiful, functional storm door be the 'different' gift she would enjoy? "Or a gift certificate?" If the answer to any of these questions points to a great solution in your own situation of Mother's Day giving, then make a bee line to Maxey Home Improvement Center, 120 N. University Ave., phone 765-7736!

Genie Features Pinpointed
In selection of Genie, by Alliance, one can be assured of such features as latest in residential design, popular price and incorporation of many features of more expensive units.
With Genie, you just touch the button on your portable transmitter, and Genie opens the door, turns on the light and lets you drive right in. An exclusive new light option switch allows you to choose whether the light stays on for two minutes 16 seconds and then automatically turns off after the door is opened or closed, or remains on as long as the door is open.
The AT 55 transmitter has a personal code card inside to lock in the secret signal.
(There are many more features of the Genie automatic garage door opener system; the folks at Maxey Home Improvement Center welcome the opportunity of

Storm Doors
Values continue in storm doors, with prices as low as $89.95 (no speakers) and $109.95 with speaker. Installation and delivery charge in the Lubbock city limits is only $1! These doors are available in 14 models on display, with gold, bronze or white finish, safety glass, heavy extruded corners and other features. (Also ask the Maxey salesman about a complete line of storm windows.)
Special prices are now in effect for all lighting fixtures, 3-wire extension cords for those outdoor Spring needs, marble top vanities, TCI paint, tub enclosures, and more.
For any building and hardware need, chances are that one-stop shopping at Maxey Home Improvement Center and the Maxey Lumber firm on the 100-block N. University Ave. will meet the need... in selection, quality, service and economy.
Maxey makes special effort to stock the "hard to find" but needed items, with full attention of particular needs of the season.
"Are you having trouble with CB units or other signals operating your garage door?"
"If so, a wise suggestion is to contact Maxey Home Improvement Center, 120 N. University Ave., phone 765-7736, and find out how conversion can be made at a nominal fee... ending this irksome problem. It is just that simple."

Many other items and services from this Lubbock firm can be of equal benefit.

Skylights
"Did you realize that skylights are stocked, in both single and double dome, in white or bronze; for residential or commercial use?"
Hence, the firm not only "holds the line" on prices throughout its stock, but it arranges specials whenever possible, such as those now in effect to greatly aid in most every home improvement endeavor.
Look at some of the items that likely are coming in for one's special consideration at this time:
Check the large selection of Amerock cabinet hardware.
And Skil and Black & Decker power tools.
Plus, a tremendous selection of lighting fixtures, plumbing and electric supplies, and just about anything in the building line.
Maxey Home Improvement Center is glad to help one locate the hard-to-find items, getting them or telling where they may be found.
The center is open every week day, from 8 a.m. until 5:30 p.m., Mondays through Fridays, and until 5 p.m. Saturdays.

From time to time partial lists of the products have been published on these pages of the Avalanche-Journal, and readers have noted that the products and brand names are ones that can be appreciated, together with the completeness of this wholesale firm.
Among the benefits area merchants find foremost at El Paso Wholesale Company Lubbock Division, aside from the selection, is the freight situation.

Business & Industrial Review

"THEY'VE HELPED A LOT OF MOTHERS" — Louise Bills, seated, and Pat Nixon, both of Sonotone-Lubbock, aptly suggest gifts of better hearing for 'the mother in your life'.

Sonotone-Lubbock Independent Dealer Suggests Newest Hearing Aid As Gift

The folks at Sonotone-Lubbock not only have a long record of efficiency and service, but they are a sentimental lot! And possibly at no time is this sentimentality, or concern, if you please, more evident than in their appreciation of Mother's Day.

"You only have one mother," Louise Bills, certified hearing aid audiologist, points out. "It has been one of my prime pleasures, since back in 1952, to serve so many mothers of this area, helping them enjoy life more fully with better hearing, and in working with family members in consideration of mother, dad and others with hearing impairments."

"In these pre-Mother's Day weeks, we again remind you 'that a gift for mother, one to help her enjoy life, could be the finest thing you could do. And we would like to help.'"

Whether the consideration is a new hearing aid for mother, or even a check of a current aid, Sonotone-Lubbock, at 2318 Broadway, phone 762-5469 (an independent dealer) can be of real assistance.

New Models

Attention is called to the advantages of the new binaural aids, actually seven times better than the single unit, Louise Bills and staff report.

"The new Starkey CE-3 all-in-the-ear models have been received and could open up a new world for the hard hearing in your family."

Features include volume control with no on-off switch, as this function is by battery door swing-out for more reliability. The volume control cap has raised ribs for easier user manipulation, too. The swing-out battery door allows the user to remove the battery in two different ways.

And in event of damage, the swing-out door may be easily replaced by the dispenser.

A sub-miniature electret microphone permits construction of smaller aids and also offers greater high-frequency response, and an extended range receiver provides additional high-frequency emphasis.

The flexibility of the CE series custom fitting is retained, with optional features enabled.

'Act Now'

"So . . . in thinking of Mother's Day and the gift to please her, now and for days and years to come, consideration of a hearing aid from Sonotone-Lubbock is heartily suggested. Think about it, and do something about it! See Louise and the fine folks at Sonotone-Lubbock for the solution."

"If you have not become acquainted with the group, now would be a very good time to do so. Each staff member exemplifies the firm's concept of service in every contact."

Huntington Recuperating

Manager Louise Bills, newest staff member Pat Nixon, and veteran Ralph Huntington can be of exceptional service. He expresses appreciation for the many acts of remembrance during and since his hospitalization and he looks forward to again serving on full time basis, working with his friends throughout the region.)

"Professionalism with a human touch" at Sonotone-Lubbock has earned appreciation and acclaim of customers throughout the area. Small wonder these people at Sonotone-Lubbock, 2318 Broadway, phone 762-5469, have made life richer for hundreds.

Individual hearing tests, at no obligation, personalized fitting, frequent check-ups, and the interested care of a Sonotone-Lubbock consultant is the service one can expect without exception at this service-oriented Lubbock firm.

"If you have a hearing problem or suspect that you may have one, that visit or call you make to Sonotone-Lubbock may be the most important one you will ever make."

'Selfish' Firing Of Top Aides Related By Nixon

ognized that if they had stayed, they would damage the White House and damage me.

"But there were things that I had known. I had talked with (Charles) Colson about clemency. I, too, had suspected Jeb Magruder (a re-election official) was not telling the truth, but I had done nothing about my suspicions. And I had been aware that attorneys' fees and family-support funds were going to the defendants.

"The difference between us was that Haldeman and Ehrlichman had become trapped by the circumstantial involvement, so far, I was not.

"I was faced with having to fire my friends for things that I myself was part of. I was selfish enough about my own survival to want them to leave."

His televised speech announcing the Haldeman and Ehrlichman "resignations" and Dean's firing, Nixon acknowledged, was filled with excuses.

"They were not explanations of how a president of the United States could so incompetently allow himself to get in such a situation. That was what people really wanted to know, and that was what my April 30 speech and all the other public statements I made about Watergate when I was president failed to tell them."

Here are some points Nixon makes that seem at odds with the writings and recollections of some of his closest aides:

—The former president says he did not learn until he boarded a plane Monday night from Key Biscayne, Fla., to Washington that James McCord, a former CIA employee then working for Nixon's re-election committee, was among those arrested at Democratic headquarters.

Yet Colson, Nixon's special counsel, testified to the House

Judiciary Committee that Nixon had called him from Key Biscayne on Sunday and had become so enraged upon learning of McCord's arrest that he flung an ashtray across the room.

And Judiciary Committee records show Nixon talked with Colson for one hour about Watergate that Monday — two days after the break-in. That day, Nixon says in his memoirs, "the Watergate break-in was still the furthest thing from my mind."

—Nixon writes that he appointed L. Patrick Gray as FBI director, but that Gray through "naivete and stubbornness" permitted his confirmation hearings to degenerate into a "disaster," turning over raw FBI files for public release.

—Yet, he does not mention that on July 6, 1972, Gray cautioned Nixon that "people on your staff are trying to mortally wound you" by misusing the CIA and FBI in the Watergate cover-up.

—Nixon wrote that only after his meeting March 21, 1973, in which Deep issued his now famous "cancer on the presidency" warning, did he realize that the question of who authorized the Watergate break-in "had been overtaken by the new and far more serious problem of the cover-up."

Yet what most Watergate observers believe was the incident that directly precipitated Nixon's resignation was the so-called "smoking gun" tape, when he told Haldeman on June 23 — six days after the burglary — told the CIA to direct Gray and the FBI to "stay the hell out of this business here ... we don't want you to go any further on it."

"As far as I was concerned," Nixon writes, "this was the end of our worries about Watergate."

In actuality, the Judiciary Committee declared in voting articles of impeachment, this decision to use the CIA to deflect the FBI was the beginning of the cover-up Nixon says he did not really learn about for nine months.

BREECHES BUOY RESCUE — When their raft foundered in the Raquette River near Potsdam, N.Y., these eight young men sought refuge in a handy tree. Effort to rescue them with lines dropped by a helicopter failed, so rescuers rigged up a breeches buoy and pulled them to safety one by one through the icy water. (AP Laserphoto)

'Not Minute To Spare,' New Moro Letter Says

ROME (UPI) — Kidnapped ex-Premier Aldo Moro sent handwritten letters to six top politicians, including President Giovanni Leone and Premier Giulio Andreotti, this weekend and at least one implored "there is not a minute to spare."

The letters to Socialist leader Bettino Craxi, Andreotti, Leone, ruling Christian Democratic Senate President Amintore Fanfani, Communist Chamber of Deputies President Pietro Ingrao and Christian Democratic deputy Riccardo Misasi all were received Saturday, shortly after publication of a bitter Moro letter to his Christian Democratic Party upbraiding it for not acting to save him.

Only the contents of the letter to Craxi were made public. In that note, Moro thanked Craxi for recent efforts to save his life by suggesting a milder regime for jailed terrorists.

Moro's letter was delivered to Craxi's office by unspecified members of the Moro family. It was not known how the family received it but there have been indications in recent days that they were trying to contact his Red Brigades kidnappers directly after the government refused to negotiate with them.

Moro, a five-time premier and president of the Christian Democratic Party, was abducted on a Rome street March 16 after a Red Brigades terrorist commando squad killed his five bodyguards.

After a mock trial, the Red Brigades threatened to kill the 61-year-old Moro unless the government released 13 jailed comrades.

The government turned down the demand, described by Andreotti as "absurd," but Moro's new snowstorm of letters proved he was still alive several days

One Dead, 95 Hurt In Mine Collision

TOKYO (AP) — An unmanned ore train collided head-on Sunday with an underground train carrying 107 miners at the Yotsuyama coal mine in Fukuoka, 570 miles southwest of Tokyo. Police said one miner was killed and 95 injured, 15 requiring hospitalization.

Authorities said the 30-car ore carrier was out of control when it slammed into the train about 500 yards from the entrance of the Mitsui Mining Co. pit.

There was no word on the cause of the crash.

today. Tuesday he goes on to Houston, Corpus Christi, San Antonio and the Valley. Wednesday he will be in Corpus Christi, Austin, Waco and Dallas. Thursday he's back to the Golden Triangle, Houston, San Antonio and Austin. Friday he finishes his campaign with a trip to San Antonio, Houston, Dallas and Fort Worth. The Christies vote Saturday in El Paso. Then they will spend most of the day in Austin, before going on to Houston to watch election returns.

Baker, who has no opposition in the Republican primary, meets the former president in "A Star-Spangled Night of Tennis" on Tuesday in Houston. Ford and Baker will be joined in a doubles match with tennis professionals John Newcombe and Dick Stockton.

Mark White, a Democratic candidate for attorney general, plans to finish his last week of campaigning in time to fly to Houston to vote Saturday, then return to Austin to wait for returns.

Although his letters are clearly dictated or influenced, their alternative entreaties and condemnations are having an unnerving effect at top level.

Leaders of most parties are engaged in bitter wrangling with Craxi for his attempts to placate the Red Brigades.

Friends of Moro in his own party and his family are at odds with the leadership for their uncompromising position.

Moro wrote Craxi: "I implore you to continue and increase your efforts. It should be clarified this is not a question of asking others to carry out an act of humanity, since that has proved totally useless, but of launching urgently a series of balanced negotiations for the exchange of political prisoners...."

"Believe me, there is not a minute to spare."

In the continuing search for Moro, police, financial guards and even firemen were called in Sunday morning for raids in several areas of Rome during a five-hour period.

No arrests or discoveries were reported.

Pope Paul VI, speaking from his balcony overlooking St. Peter's Square, told 50,000 visitors: "The difficult days we are experiencing make this a propitious occasion for us to give this feast of the month of May a ray of light and hope. Let us see to it that we do not let it pass in vain."

Tech Student Overcomes Visual Handicap As Music Teacher

ters of the Choral Kind." The concert, which will feature four Coronado choirs, will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the school auditorium.

Sitton will direct a sophomore choir and a group composed mostly of juniors with some seniors. Neuenschwander will direct another sophomore choir and a group composed mostly of seniors with some juniors.

Tickets for the concert — $2 for adults and $1 for students — may be obtained from any Coronado choir member.

Neuenschwander said instructing Sitton in the art of directing a choir has one small difference: he must demonstrate conducting by guiding Sitton's hands through the various gestures, instead of simply showing his student-teacher what movements to make.

"It's tactile rather than visual," said Neuenschwander, who is in his second year as choral director at Coronado.

He said he is especially impressed with Sitton's dedication. Sitton takes an early-morning bus to Coronado from his northside apartment, and while he is assigned there only until noon, Sitton often stays late in the day.

Sitton graduates from Texas Tech this term. He said he hopes to get a job as a choral teacher at a high school in West Texas.

Sitton is a 1972 graduate of Idalou High School, where he was in choir all four years. "We had a good high school choir, and that really inspired me to teach," he said.

Unrepentent Agent Freed In Spy Swap

LEWISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Saying he would do it all again, convicted spy Robert G. Thompson left the Lewisburg Federal Penitentiary on Sunday on his way to asylum in Communist East Germany in a complicated swap involving four governments.

Thompson told waiting newsmen that espionage is not "a game, it's a serious business. But if I had to do it over again, I'd have to do it again. This was my job ... I wouldn't change a day in my life, but I'm glad to be out."

Thompson, 43, who said he was born in Leipzig, in what is now East Germany, was an Air Force clerk convicted of passing secrets to the Soviets in 1965. He had been in Lewisburg, a foreboding red brick prison that once held union boss Jimmy Hoffa, for more than 13 years of a 30-year sentence.

Thompson declined to confirm that he really was a major in the Soviet KGB secret police. He also refused to say what his real name is.

"I can't go into that right now," he replied. "Maybe later on I can give you some more, okay?"

He said he was headed straight for a flight out of the United States to Germany with East German attorney Wolfgang Vogel, instrumental in arranging a prisoner exchange involving Thompson, a young American student jailed by East Germany, and an Israeli pilot released a week earlier by Mozambique in Africa.

"You see how that sun's shining today?" Thompson asked. "That's how I feel."

"I want to thank all the people ... that were involved in helping me get my freedom and I just want to go home and be at peace with the world," Thompson said.

Still left to be freed is Alan Van Norman, 23, of Windom, Minn., waiting in an East Berlin prison.

Van Norman was sentenced to a 2½-year term by the East Germans for trying to smuggle a doctor, his wife and his son to the West. He has been in jail since February 1977.

Thompson said he would not be talking to Van Norman when he gets to East Berlin. Tall, heavy-set, some of his teeth missing, bearded and grey, an obviously euphoric Thompson refused to say where he would meet Vogel and on which flight they would go to East Germany.

It was reliably understood, however, that Vogel and Thompson would meet aboard an aircraft that would first take them to Frankfurt in West Germany.

Thompson said the key to his own release after so many years was the release by Mozambique of Israeli flier Miron Marcus, 24, who was let go by the Communist-controlled regime after 19 months in prison. He was jailed after his light plane made an emergency landing on a flight from Rhodesia to South Africa.

The three-continent swap was the most ambitious undertaken by Vogel, who first became prominent for his role in exchanging downed American U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers for Soviet master spy Rudolf Abel in Berlin in 1962. Since that time, Vogel has been involved in a long series of spy exchanges but also is the channel through which East German prisoners are released to West Germany in return for as much as 40,000 marks — $20,000 — per head.

He was in the United States since last Wednesday, and on Thursday came to Washington to talk with Rep. Benjamin Gilman, R-N.Y. Gilman told a newsman in Washington that he and Vogel had discussed the possibility of trying to free Soviet dissident Anatoly Shcharansky, 29, who wants to go to Israel, possibly in exchange for Lawrence Hunt, a former U.S. CIA employee held in Cuba.

The Thompson-Marcus-Van Norman exchange is seen by some both as a new phase in Vogel's activities and a prelude to perhaps even bigger things to come.

Gilman and Vogel, it was understood, met again in New York after they returned there from Washington.

Thompson said he has three children in the United States but doesn't know where they are. He said he will live in East Berlin with his oldest son, 23.

Thompson said his mother was born in Russia and his father was a German. Both parents are dead.

He said he was going home to Germany and in response to a question in German, replied in German. "I am a citizen of the German Democratic Republic."

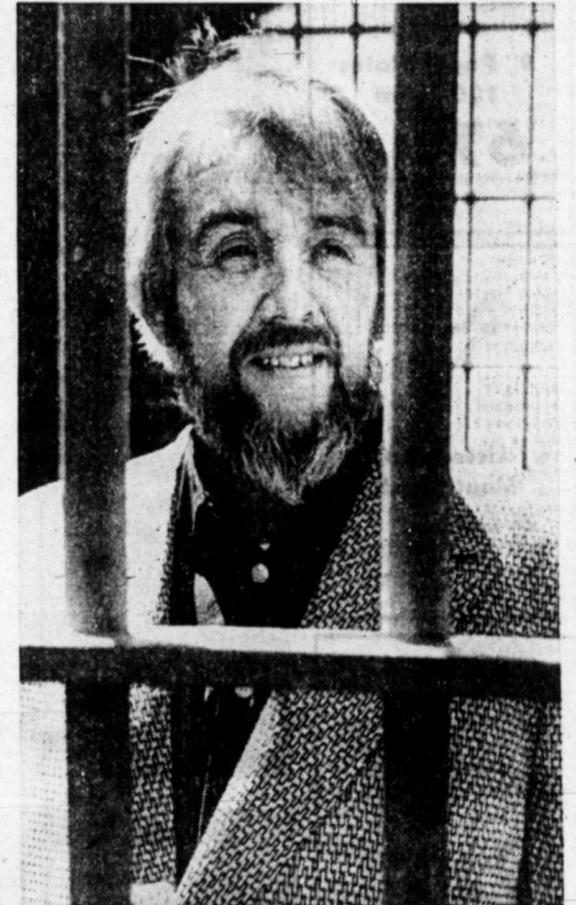

An informed source who did not want to be identified disclosed earlier that Thompson last December wrote President Carter asking for a pardon, claiming he was an East German citizen, and promising to leave the country if he were released, and never come back.

"I'm going to fly right out," Thompson declared. "Go home, eat a home-cooked meal and have my first beer in all these years and maybe see my first woman in all these years."

"It's great to be out, really great. The whole world has changed since I've been here," Thompson said as he walked through the prison gates. "No, no, no, I'm not bitter," he said. "I'm happy just to be out here."

Before he climbed into the green sedan for his trip to the airport, prison officials loaded his belongings. Thompson described the largest packages as containing paintings. "I like landscapes. I did 400 paintings while I was here."

CONVICTED SPY RELEASED — Robert Thompson is framed by bars at Lewisburg (Pa.) Federal Prison shortly before his release Sunday. He is en route to East Germany as part of a prisoner exchange. (AP Laserphoto)

Torrijos Says Insults Reason For Threats

WASHINGTON (AP) — Panamanian ruler Omar Torrijos has sent messages to U.S. Senate leaders explaining that "insults" by their colleagues were responsible for his widely publicized outburst after the Panama Canal treaties were approved by the Senate. The Washington Star reported in its Sunday editions.

In the letters, Torrijos said: "I am the kind of man who finds it impossible to accept insults."

The Star said the messages were delivered by U.S. Ambassador William Jordan this weekend to Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia and Minority Leader Howard Baker of Tennessee.

Within hours after the Senate voted on April 18 to approve the second treaty turning over control of the canal to Panama by the year 2000, Torrijos said in a television speech that he was prepared to destroy the canal if the treaty had been rejected.

The Senate approved the second treaty by a vote of 68 to 32, one vote more than the necessary two-thirds majority. President Carter plans to fly to Panama on June 16 for a ceremonial exchange of treaty documents with Torrijos.

"It may be that some remarks of mine over the past few days have given you some puzzlement," Torrijos wrote the senators. "You know, of course, that my country, my people and I personally have been subject to an almost steady stream of criticism from some of your colleagues over the past months.

"These were men who lack your wisdom, your sense of history, your dedication to fair play. And I am the kind of man who finds it impossible to accept insults," the general wrote.

"If anything I have said over the past few days has caused you any pain, please understand that a man who leads a people who have been subjected to a steady flow of criticism, of denigration by men who lack your wisdom, finds it hard to simply sit back and accept insults."

"I have heard that your decision and your advocacy of the cause of forward progress in the relations between countries is a source of some difficulty for you," Torrijos told Baker. "It is hard for someone like me, looking at the political processes of a far-off country, to judge fairly that reaction. Let me just say that I cannot believe that courage and wisdom and dedication to what one considers to be right would not be recognized and rewarded by one's fellow citizens."

"A United States that can do what you have made possible in dealing with a small but proud neighbor is the kind of United States that the world needs. A strong country that can still understand the needs and the pride and hopes of smaller countries everywhere," he said.

The United States will supply 50 percent of the wheat and about 70 percent of the soybeans moving in world trade in 1976.

GENETIC CONNECTION

Parenthood Mystique Gains Hold Over Many

By David Hendin and Joan Marks

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.) — In spite of the remarkable advances in biology and medicine that have led to the freedom to make choices about family planning, prospective parents still pay surprisingly little attention to the complexities of producing the three million babies who are born every year in the United States. Of those three million, about 16,000 will have some form of genetic abnormality.

Statistics? Yes. But when one woman was told of a diagnosed defect in the child she was carrying, she observed, "You spend all your life looking at pictures of pretty babies and their mothers and thinking that will be you. It's pretty gruesome when you are the one who is different."

Sixth In A Series

Both men and women have a deep-seated need to believe that they possess "good genes." Women who feel they have so-called "bad genes" often refer to themselves as "imperfect, inferior, unfeminine, inadequate." Knowledge of the presence of less than-perfect genes seem to implicate the quality of one's sexuality. Parenthood itself is often one's sexual being, though there is no basis in reality — i.e., biology — for such feelings. Nevertheless, myths are powerful forces that do not die easily.

The drive to accomplish the "perfect" experience of parenting a healthy child is so strong in some people that one father who had already sired two severely defective children told of his intention to go on having children until he and his wife "get a good one."

For this man to say to himself and to his immediate world that he should father no more children would have been like admitting he was no longer manly, since fatherhood for him symbolized his masculinity. Someday there will be a prenatal test available to determine if such people who carry these defective genes have passed them on to their offspring. As of this moment, however, certain genetic diseases which do not develop until mid-life cannot be predicted before their symptoms appear.

Pregnancy has sometimes been described as a "normal illness." This implies that the whole process of pregnancy is a time for both physical and emotional stress — and growth — for a woman. Many women — and men, too — still see motherhood as the true destiny of women. It is easy to understand that the emotions aroused by this important event in one's life are powerful, sometimes overwhelming. At times of crisis one's whole being is under stress. Those individuals who have had trouble facing simple life problems may, therefore, have even more difficulty with major changes in life, such as parenthood.

A strong and supportive relationship with one's own parents can often help a couple through the "crisis of pregnancy." However, when relations with parents are strained, it may place even more strain on one's ability to handle pregnancy and childbirth, particularly if things do not go perfectly. As one experienced mother observed: "Mothers have to help daughters a lot when bad babies are born."

Parents should also understand that they may harbor some very hostile feelings toward their defective child as well as toward each other. Since parents are supposed to love their children according to our traditional heritage, such feelings of antipathy toward the defective child will tear at the deepest parental emotions.

"When I saw that there was something wrong with my baby, and I knew it would just never be normal and all that we wished for, I just wished she was dead," recalled one mother, who added, "Of course I couldn't say it to anyone. And then I realized that I must be one sick woman to wish that my own child was dead."

The fact is that as long as individuals do not become obsessive about such feelings, they are perfectly normal ones for the parents of a defective child to experience. Even under more normal circumstances some parents will occasionally wish that their baby had never been born.

This wish is understandable, since even a healthy, normal baby is initially an intruder into what was formerly a very different kind of relationship. Siblings, too, will often harbor negative feelings, and they occasionally will make quiet wishes to themselves that they could once again become an "only child."

Profound guilt feelings also may arise among parents or siblings if a new baby — healthy or sick — does die. Under these circumstances it must be stressed that it was some kind of a physical disease that led to the baby's death, and not the wishes of the parents or siblings. Wishes of this nature cannot kill, but the guilt feelings they arouse can have a serious effect.

In our society, great value is placed on being a good parent. Parents who have born genetically defective children often think this is the result of something bad they have done during pregnancy. Understanding how genes predict the type of fetus to be born helps us to understand reproduction rationally and to know that it is our genes, and not our behavior, that will determine the result.

CHAPTER SIX — ALLERGIES: YOUR PERSONAL POISONS

The 'Something You Ate' May Be Food Allergy

By JOHN BARBOUR
Associated Press Writer

A baby cries with the colic after taking its bottle. A grown man with a passion for lobster finishes his favorite meal and falls to the floor of the restaurant in shock, unconscious. A youngster breaks out in hives after two pieces of strawberry shortcake.

Food allergies are so sensitive to certain foods that even the mere odor of them cooking can trigger an asthma attack or hives or itching eczema. Doctors have seen children who break into such reactions from just touching the shell of an egg.

But more often food allergies are not so clear cut. To allergists they can pose a true detective case — a complicated and difficult diagnosis. For instance, a child breaks into hives after eating spaghetti. Is he allergic to the tomato sauce? To the meat in the sauce? To the seasonings? To the pasta? To the oil used in cooking? To preservatives used in canning the tomatoes?

To make matters worse, skin tests valuable in detecting some other allergies are not as reliable in detecting food allergies. The doctor has to rely instead on solid gumshoe work.

He begins by taking a detailed history of the patient. Where there others in his family who suffered from allergies? What kinds of allergies? What allergic reactions? In one study of 75 allergic people, 55 could find some relative who suffered from some kind of known allergy.

The doctor conducts a complete physical examination as well, because there are other reactions to food that mimic allergies, but are not true allergic reactions. Some people for instance lack the enzymes necessary to digesting gluten in wheat or lactose, the sugar in milk. These deficiencies are not allergic reactions. The patient does not produce sensitizing antibodies to those foods. He simply cannot digest them.

The basic tool of a doctor investigating food allergies is diet. He may put his patient on an allergy-safe diet for a period of time, and then gradually add foods from the normal kitchen fare of the patient. When one causes a reaction — voila, one of the allergic culprits is found. Then that food is dropped and a new one added.

If a patient is allergic to one particular food, he may be allergic to related foods. If he is allergic to Brussel sprouts, he may be allergic as well to radishes, cabbage, broccoli, turnips, cauliflower or other members of the mustard family.

If he allergic to cherries, he may also be allergic to peaches and almonds. If he is allergic to lobster, he may also be allergic to crabs and shrimp, but not to oysters which are a different family. If he is allergic to tomatoes, he may also be allergic to green peppers. If he is allergic to wheat, he may also be allergic to rye as well. If he is allergic to cantaloupe, he might have to check his reaction to pumpkin and cucumbers.

The foods most frequently indicted as allergens are milk, strawberries, eggs, fish, shellfish, wheat, chocolate, tomatoes, oranges, onion, pork, nuts, peas, beans, potatoes, pepper and mustard.

Food allergies strike most often in childhood. But often, unlike other kinds of allergies, food allergies are outgrown as the digestive system reaches maturity.

The best, and in some cases only treatment for a food allergy is to withdraw the food from the diet and substitute other foods with the same nutrient content. Another problem in detecting food allergies is that the symptoms are much like the symptoms of other allergies and other ailments. They can cause asthma, hives, eczema, canker sores, stuffed nose, itchy eyes, dizziness, migraine headaches, hives, swelling of the mouth or throat.

So a doctor has a real problem in weeding out the symptoms and find the causes.

The treatment of a food allergy is much simpler than the diagnosis. The patient can frequently help in the diagnosis by keeping a food diary, listing in detail what he had to eat, and what went into the preparation of the meal. That is not always easy. Some basic foods find their way into many food products. Corn, for instance, is present in some 130 products. Salad oils, derived from corn, peanuts and cottonseed, find their way into innumerable bakery items.

Research in diet manipulation has so far yielded little new. In the meantime, doctors must contend with the fact that as many as 12 million Americans may be sensitive to ingested or injected chemicals, and that finding the true culprit in any given case can be a long and exhausting job.

Americans Reject Weapons Sale

By LOUIS HARRIS

President Carter's plan for selling $4.8 billion worth of military aircraft to Israel, Egypt and Saudi Arabia meets with a flat 66-26 percent rejection by Ameriing peace, not on escalating an arms race in that region.

Based on these results, it will be difficult for U.S. senators and representatives, especially those up for election this percent majority opposes selling the Israelis the F-15s and F-16s they want must make them feel uneasy about the American willingness to maintain the flow of weaponry to their country. An U.S. commitment of military assistance has been both an implicit and cardinal assumption of military planning for Israel.

For Egypt, the findings of this Harris Survey suggest that although Americans deeply admire President Sadat's efforts to achieve peace in the Middle East, they reject Egyptian moves to increase its military power. The public is clearly worried about the prospect of military aid being used in another war.

Americans have repeatedly shown their understanding of the key role that Saudi Arabian oil plays in supplying U.S. needs.

Many also appreciate the anti-inflationary importance of the Saudi decision to freeze oil price increases for 1978. Despite this, the public is not at all willing to make a deal for better treatment on oil in return for building up the Saudi Arabi an military capability with the proposed sale of 60 F-15s.

President Carter, now laboring under a 64-33 percent negative rating, the lowest of his administration, will clearly be courting real disfavor with the American people if he presses forward with this military aircraft sale to the Middle East. Americans took his campaign pledge to decrease the sale of military arms abroad seriously and many will feel that his latest proposal leads straight in an opposite direction.

B Local Family News METRO

cans. The administration's proposal is for a package deal under which all of the countries would receive planes or, if this were rejected, none would receive any.

When the three-country package is un-bundled and the public is asked what it thinks of each individual sale, substantial majorities oppose selling the planes to any of the Middle East powers. By 64-28 percent, a majority is against the sale of the planes to Israel. An even higher 71 to 20 percent majority opposes selling the planes to Egypt. And the proposed sale to Saudi Arabia meets a 73-18 percent opposition.

One reason for this opposition is that a 60-31 percent majority of Americans is consistently wary of almost any arms sale abroad. Another reason stems from a deep feeling that U.S. efforts in the Middle East should be concentrated on making peace, not on escalating an arms race in that region. Based on these results, it will be difficult for U.S. senators and representatives, especially those up for election this November, to try to defend President Carter's aircraft sales package to their constituents. Of course, under the system now in effect, the President does not need Congressional ratification of such an arms sale. But Congress has the right to vote against it within 30 days after the President decides to make such a sale. In effect, it has a veto power over the three-nation package military aircraft deal. If Congress does not act, then the sale can automatically take effect.

The findings of this latest Harris Survey of 1,199 adults nationwide have serious implications for the three countries scheduled to receive the military aircraft. One might have thought that the Israelis would have been pleased to see such solid public opposition to the proposed Carter package deal since it would allow them to maintain their present air superiority in the area.

Congressional rejection of the deal seems unlikely now because Rep. Clement J. Zablocki, D-Wis., chairman of the House International Relations Committee, has said that 15 members are solidly in favor of the sales package while 12 are opposed. He said he can get the four additional votes necessary to block committee passage of a resolution disapproving the sales.

If the committee rejects such a resolution, "that finishes it," Zablocki said.

CUTTING REMARKS

Dayan Hits Aircraft Package Proposed By Administration

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan said Sunday that Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance is wrong to contend that President Carter's proposed jet sales to Israel and two Arab countries will increase chances for peace in the troubled region.

Vance and Dayan basically reiterated public sentiments already expressed over the proposed sales of jet fighters to Israel, Egypt and Saudi Arabia in appearances on nationally broadcast interview programs. Their remarks came on the eve of formal consideration of the sales by Congress.

Vance was interviewed on CBS-TV's "Face the Nation" and Dayan on ABC's "Issues and Answers."

Carter sent his $4.8 billion arms sales proposal to Congress on Friday — setting the clock ticking for a congressional decision by May 28. Under parliamentary rules, Congress has 30 days from the time the president submits a proposed arms sale to express its opposition. If it fails to do so within the time limit, the sales would go through.

In sending the proposal to Capitol Hill on Friday, Carter backed away from a procedural battle with lawmakers by providing senators and representatives with separate proposals for each of proposed sales to the three countries. The administration stopped referring to the sales as an all-or-nothing "package" deal.

But sending the deal to Congress in pieces for separate scrutiny does not alter the administration stance that each country must get jets or none will be armed, Vance said.

"He's got to exercise his judgment as he sees the action taken on each one of the elements of this package," Vance said. "We believe they're an important part of the search for peace in the Middle East. They're important because they fill the needs, the requirements for each one of these countries."

Vance confirmed that the president remains ready to withdraw the entire sales proposal if Congress rejects or seriously alters any part of the package.

In response to the administration position, Dayan said arms sales to Saudi Arabia and Egypt threaten stability in the Middle East.

"I'm afraid I cannot agree with that," Dayan said of Vance's contention that the sales would increase the prospect of Middle East peace.

When asked if he felt the U.S. position was naive, Dayan responded:

"You would be preparing the Arab countries for the next war against Israel by supplying them with American war planes. You would admit that not everything you think is going to happen in one of the Arab countries is going to happen. ... I think that we know what's going on. These are killing machines, not washing machines. And who are they going to use these killing machines against?"

Despite his expressed opposition to the sales to Saudi Arabia and Egypt, Dayan said his country would not withdraw its request if the sales deal is approved.

But the foreign minister said Carter would be unwise to ask Israelis to endorse the deal. He said seeking Israeli support would force the nation to pull back its request for 73 F-16s and 15 F-15s.

Carter also wants to sell 60 F-15s to Saudi Arabia and 50 F-5s to Egypt.

Vietnam Notes Fall Of Saigon Anniversary

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Vietnam celebrated the third anniversary of the fall of Saigon on Sunday with its Communist leaders praising the nation's "great successes" in the post-war period.

Voice of Vietnam radio monitored here said thousands of Vietnamese attended a huge indoor rally in Hanoi to hear speeches by President Ton Duc Thang, Communist Party Chief Le Duan, Vice President Nguyen Huu Tho, Premier Pham Van Dong and other officials.

The broadcast said leaders claimed that farming has been revitalized, hundreds of thousands of unemployed put back to work and economic and cultural programs developed since April 30, 1975.

That was the day the U.S.-backed South Vietnamese government in Saigon surrendered to the Communist forces of the North Vietnamese and Vietcong. The former capital of the south has been renamed Ho Chi Minh City in honor of the late Communist leader.

Marking the occasion, Sunday newspapers in Hanoi issued supplements lauding the reunified country's achievements.

The Communist Party newspaper Nhan Dan said the fall of Saigon was a great milestone in the Vietnamese revolution because it ended 30 years of warfare and marked the date when the "country was reunified forever."

Since then, the newspaper added, "Violators of our territory have been duly punished, reactionary forces trying to rear up have been crushed, and the last class of exploitation is being abolished."

Vietnam is fighting a border conflict with the forces of Communist Cambodia in which each side accuses the other of sending troops across the frontier.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

BY
DR. GEORGE C. THOSTESON

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My mother-in-law has a book about garlic that says it is a wonderful cure and that you should rub it onto a sore or eat a clove a day to kill germs. She also says it purifies the blood and can draw poison out of an earache. Can you comment on the medicinal uses of garlic? — S.S.

Garlic has stubbornly held its ranking in folklore medicine for centuries. It is as hard to suppress the many claims made for it as it is to suppress its odor.

One reference I have on the subject lists no less than 33 conditions (from asthma to worms) for which garlic is supposed to be helpful. A new one, which seems to be enjoying a renaissance of late, is high blood pressure. Curiously, my list of ailments for which garlic is supposed to help includes low blood pressure. The folklorists cannot have it both ways. I was not taught in medical school that the blood could be "purified." There are ways to remove poison from the blood, as in heavy metal poisoning, but garlic is not one of them.

Garlic has no medicinal value. Of course, as a flavoring, it does have its rightful place in cooking.

Most of the false claims for foods and other substances are based on coincidence and the fact that many ailments do tend to subside periodically, or run their course and disappear. Thus, you will find many staunch champions of this or that food or substance who will swear that it "cured" them.

Martin Gardner in his book, "Fads and Fallacies," cites the example of the old witch doctor and the eclipse of the sun. The sun darkens, the savages cringe in fear, and the witch doctor is called in. He waves a wand at the skies and, sure enough, before long the sun pops out again. He has cured the sun of whatever it was that ailed it. Most of the folklore cures fall into their category.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 65 years old and am becoming crippled with arthritis. My husband insists that it is because of the blood pressure pills I take. He says a friend of his takes the same pill and his doctor insists he eat a banana and drink a glass of orange juice a day. His doctor says it will put back what the pills take away.

If that's the case how are the pills doing any good? Can you tell me what's going on? I had a pressure of 212 and it is now down to 160. If I keep taking these pills, should I also take the bananas and juice? — Mrs. C.C.

Your blood pressure pills are not a factor in your arthritis. They work by releasing sodium and water from the system. The idea is to reduce your body's liquid volume and thereby reduce the blood pressure.

One effect of these diuretics can be loss of potassium, one of the vital body minerals. Bananas and orange juice are rich in potassium and tend to offset the loss.

Obviously the medicine is doing some good. You might want to add the banana and orange juice to your diet. If your doctor feels it is necessary, I might add that loss of potassium may cause muscular symptoms that can be confused with arthritis. Report this to your doctor.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have learned quite a bit from your column over the years, so here I am finally with a question. I have a 12-year-old son who is getting spots on his face. They are little brown blotches. They are not raised, but are level with the skin. Is he in need of certain vitamins? What causes these? — Mrs. H.K.

Spots, blotches, and pimples must be seen first hand, of course. There is a possibility these could be freckles. They tend to appear at this time of year when he is getting outdoors more. Freckles are easily "diagnosed." So have the doctor look at them.

Grab a cuppa coffee and read carefully to learn how to make the most beautiful big pompon you can imagine.

Buy a half-yard of nylon net that comes 72 inches wide.

Cut three strips across it about six inches wide, and stack them one on top of the other. Thread a big needle with nylon yarn and, with one-inch basting stitches, go down the middle of the full 72 inches of stacked net.

Then draw this up as one ordinarily does for a double ruffle. Make it as tight as you can and tie the yarn together. Be sure it's tight.

Wrap the yarn around its so-called waistline again, tie tightly on the other side and cut the remaining yarn off at the knot.

Now take each layer of net, one at a time and yank it so it separates. It must stand apart.

When you have done this you will have the most wonderful pompon for scrubbing walls, cabinets, bathroom fixtures and tile floors. They are also great for scrubbing pots, pans and dishes.

Keep one of these scrubbers to use in the bathtub to scrub heels and elbows, and to get out that bathtub ring.

They also make nice brushes for men's hats and closely woven fabrics.

Make several at a time, matching them to the kitchen and bathroom colors. Please cut out this column now and put it in your scrap book.

See you tomorrow. Hugs — Heloise

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I read about an unusual situation recently and wonder if you would give me your opinion of "the problem." The reason I am so interested is because my daughter has the same symptoms.

It seems a stripper who works in a rather shabby club in Detroit was interviewed about her choice of careers. It was learned that as a teenager she discovered that when she wore tight sweaters and blouses, or dresses showing a lot of cleavage, she received a lot more attention from the boys.

When the young woman turned 20, she decided to take dancing lessons and become a go-go dancer.

Her need for attention increased and her inhibitions decreased, with the use of alcohol. Stripping did not satisfy her compulsion to exhibit herself, so she frequently ventured out on the street wearing a raincoat with absolutely nothing underneath. The young woman would stand in a doorway, and as a man approached she would "flash" — giving him a quick eye-flick. The first reaction of the men was surprise — then they were amused. Many laughed. The young woman said she received no sexual satisfaction from her far-out behavior. All she wanted was more attention from men.

I have heard of male flashers and surely they are not seeking more attention from women. What does this sound like to you, Ann? — A California Mom

Dear Mom: The female flasher's motivation is not the same as a male's. The experts tell us that male exhibitionists are usually impotent or extremely unsure of their masculinity. Not only do they get pleasure out of frightening or shocking women, but the fact that they can elicit a "response" assures them that their maleness is still intact — that they are not neutered, even though they may be unable to perform. Sick? Very. A woman flasher behaves in this bizarre manner for exactly the reason stated by the go-go dancer. She has a pathological need for male attention and will go to any extreme to satisfy it. She, too, is sick. Very.

Dear Ann Landers: I suppose this is a dumb question. My mom always laughs when I ask her. But I need an answer.

Has there ever been any record of a top bunk bed falling down and squashing the person in the lower bunk?

I have to share my room with my little sister and she always gets her way. She doesn't want to sleep on the bottom so I have to. We can't separate the beds because the room is too small. I'm afraid to go to sleep.

Please answer this question in the paper. My mom would kill me if she found out I wrote to you. (She doesn't like you — sorry.) I won't sleep until I read your reply. — Nightmares in Uniontown, Penn.

Alan: "How about showing some standard expert plays, if there are standards for experts?"

Oswald: "Here one that might qualify. The defense starts out with three rounds of diamonds. South wins the third diamond with the jack and is ready to go after trumps."

Alan: "The expert will lead the ten spot. This play is more than standard. It is an automatic play for him."

Oswald: "He plans to finesse, but West plays the king. Now we see why our expert led the ten not the queen."

Alan: "West's play of the king on the ten indicates that West held the singleton king. He would not have played it from king and one or more low cards since he might well be jeopardizing a queen or jack that East might be holding."

Oswald: "So our expert proceeds to play East for the rest of the trumps. He leads dummy's six and lets it ride if East fails to cover. Or if East does cover, South wins, get back to dummy with a club and picks up the rest of East's trumps."

Yes, we do. We only have 15 high-card points, but the tens and nines of diamonds and clubs are likely to be worth at least one extra point.

Q.1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♦Q♥KQ1076 ♦A83 ♦J1072
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♦ 1 ♣ Pass 2 ♠
Pass 2 ♣ Pass ?
What action do you take?

GOREN ON BRIDGE

A.—Since partner made a vulnerable overall, he should have reasonable values. Therefore, your hand merits one more try for game. The bid that comes to mind is two no trump.

Q.2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦K92 ♥Q1075 ♦AJ83 ♦84
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♥ Dble. Rdbble. 2 ♦
Pass 3 ♣ ?
What action do you take?
A.—Bid three hearts. It would be foolish to pass the decision around to partner because he may have no convenient rebid. So you must act now, and the recommended action describes your hand perfectly—good support for partner's suit, but a minimum in terms of your redouble.

Q.3—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦A8 ♥AKJ1062 ♦95 ♦872
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♥ Pass 2 ♦ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—Partner's two-over-one response has not improved your hand. You still have the same minimum opening bid you started with, and the only way to show that is to make a simple rebid of two hearts.

Q.4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♦A10976 ♥5 ♦Q85 ♦J762
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
1 ♦ Dble. ?

What action do you take?
A.—You do not have enough to redouble, but a pass now has nothing to recommend it. By the time the auction gets back to you, you may not be able to compete with any degree of safety. We suggest you bid one spade now. If the auction develops favorably, you can show your support for partner's suit later.

Q.5—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦AK10865 ♥AKJ982 ♦9
Your right-hand opponent opens the bidding with one diamond. What do you bid now?

A.—There is no question that you want to play in game in one of your suits. Therefore you must make sure that you get the chance to show both suits.

A double could accomplish that, but it runs the risk that partner might pass for penalties. We prefer a cue-bid of two diamonds, to make sure that partner responds and then keeps the bidding open one round to allow you to describe your hand.

Q.6—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦852 ♥954 ♦763 ♦AJ95
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♥ 1 ♣ Pass 2 ♦
2 ♥ Pass Pass 3 ♦
3 ♥ Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—Partner must have a pretty good hand to bid all the way to the three-level on his own when vulnerable, and your club holding will be a pleasant surprise for him. Nevertheless, we suggest you pass. Partner didn't open with a demand bid and did not take advantage of the various opportunities he had to force you to bid. Therefore, your values should be just about enough to enable him to make his contract.

Q.7—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♦AQJ7 ♥A83 ♦AKQ5 ♦Q6

The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
1 ♣ Dble. Pass 4 ♥
Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—The heart suit must be solid—partner must have the other high honors for his jump to game when you are looking at the ace. Slam is a very live possibility, providing your side has no more than one club loser. If partner has a singleton club or the king, slam will, at worst, depend on a finesse and the odds are that it will succeed because of East's opening bid. Bid five hearts to ask partner about his club holding.

Q.8—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦Q7 ♥Q10 ♦K952 ♦AJ985

The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
1 ♥ Pass Pass 1 ♣
2 ♣ Dble. 2 ♥ Dble.
Pass Pass Pass

What is your opening lead?
A.—It sounds as if dummy is going to come down with short clubs, two or three hearts and little or nothing in the way of high-card strength. Declarer will hope to get a couple of club ruffs in dummy. Your object is to prevent this by getting trumps out of the way as soon as possible, and the best way to protect your club tricks is to lead a trump right away.

Your play to the first trick could decide the fate of the contract! A writer once remarked: "There's no such thing as a blind opening lead, only deaf opening leaders!" INVESTORS' GUIDE

By SAM SHULSKY

Q. We're approaching retirement and becoming concerned about taxes which may cut heavily into our income from savings accounts. Although our combined salaries come to about $20,000 a year (and have never been too much more), we've managed to accumulate savings which give us an annual interest income of $7,000 to $8,000. But this is cut by more than a third by taxes. It seems unfair that we should be taxed on this while far wealthier people make tax-free investments.

A. Where is it written that you, too, may not enjoy tax-exempt investments? And why have you waited until retirement is near before thinking of tax protection for all this money? If you think you'll need tax shelter in retirement, you certainly need it while at work and in a much higher income tax bracket.

I assume you've accumulated somewhere around $100,000 in savings. Tax-exempt bonds (and tax-exempt bond funds) are sold in $1,000 amounts. So what's stopping you from earning somewhere around 6 percent on your money, exempt from federal, state and local income taxes—assuming you are subject to all three?

I am not suggesting that most of the various tax shelters resorted to by wealthy folks will suit your book for the simple reason that many of these shelters derive part of their benefits from a risk-of-loss vs. chance-of-capital gain equation. (And I don't think that everyone's desire to reduce his tax bite qualifies him for high-risk ventures.)

But certainly there is no reason why anyone who wants to reduce the tax on interest income can't do so by going into high-grade, tax-exempt bonds. So, instead of inveighing about the tax laws, do a little investigating at your broker's. I can suggest what you're likely to find.

A good quality tax exempt bond will yield you around 6 percent—with nothing deducted for federal and (most) state and local taxes. A good quality 8.7 percent corporate bond will leave you with about 5.9 percent after federal (only) taxes. (State and local deductions will take out more.)

The difference won't make you wealthy, but it will cut your tax bill. And you'll probably feel better.

Q. We notice that you consistently frown on bonds yielding more than 8 percent...

A. I'm puzzled. Where did you get such an idea when the very best quality (AAA) corporate bonds today yield more than 8 percent?

Q. Where does one obtain ratings on municipal bonds?

A. From the manuals of the rating agencies and from brokers who deal in municipal bonds.

Q. I have $20,000 in federal land bank notes maturing in July. Would you recommend reinvestment in other government bonds rather than in common shares. I'm 83.

A. At 83, I favor government bonds.

Q. Do any of the corporations listed on the N.Y. Stock Exchange sell bonds or common shares directly to new investors—that is, without going through a broker?

A. It is not a common practice. Years ago, some large exchange-listed corporations sold new shares directly to the public. In recent years, a few small, new companies (not listed on any exchange) have offered shares directly to the public. But in the vast majority of cases, new issues designed for public distribution are offered through underwriting syndicates and brokers with the issuing corporation paying the brokers' expenses. There is no charge to the investor.

Tomorrow—Turning over all of one's assets.

No new taxes. What does it mean to you?

When Dolph Briscoe became Governor, he set a course of making state government better without new taxes.

In 1972, the experts — as well as Dolph Briscoe's opponents in this year's Governor's race — said it couldn't be done.

Dolph Briscoe proved that it could. He proved that saying "no" to new taxes is saying "yes" to economic prosperity.

Since Governor Briscoe has been in office:

- 1,200 new industries, representing an annual economic impact of more than $11 billion, have moved to Texas.
- More than 850,000 new jobs have been created.
- Texas has been universally acclaimed as having the best political climate in the world for economic investment and growth.

Dolph Briscoe understands that the surest way for a government to strangle its economy is to overburden its taxpayers. In contrast, his most active opponent in this year's Democratic Primary does not. That opponent — by nature and by his own admission — is an activist intent on becoming an activist governor. That means only one thing. It means government regulating our lives with bureaucratic red tape. And it means a governor whose reckless spending promises, if kept, would result in the imposition of a State income tax on you in 1979.

Governor Briscoe has pursued — and throughout his tenure as Governor will continue to pursue — a firm policy of no new taxes. This policy has served the people of Texas well. It has produced the strongest economy in the United States today. And in the process it has enabled the extension of more and better state services to our citizens than ever before in our history — without new or additional taxes.

To keep Texas on this course of prosperity without a State income tax, let's keep the candidate with a proven record. Let's keep Dolph Briscoe as our Governor.

Horns Humbled In SWC

By The Associated Press

For the first time in 12 years, the University of Texas is turning in its baseball togs at the end of the regular season.

Only the first four teams advance to the Southwest Conference Post-Season Baseball Classic May 12-13 at Austin, and the Longhorns came in fifth.

Texas AM wrapped up the title Saturday afternoon. The Aggies and Arkansas were deadlocked for the league lead going into a three-game series at Fayetteville Friday and Saturday.

The Cadets won Friday's game, 6-1, then clinched the championship with a 5-0 shutout Saturday in the first game of a doubleheader.

Arkansas won the last game of the series, 6-5, but it came too late to help the Hogs' title hopes.

The Aggies will meet fourth-place Houston in the first game of the SWC tourney, while Arkansas clashes with Baylor. The regular-season championship guarantees AM a place in the NCAA playoffs regardless of how the SWC tournament comes out.

Baylor, last year's tournament winner, swept TCU to push past Houston in the standings and finish third over the regular season.

AM finished with a 19-5 record, a game ahead of Arkansas' 18-6. Next were Baylor 15-9, Houston 14-10, Texas 12-12, Texas Tech 9-15, SMU 9-15, TCU 7-17 and Rice 6-18.

Texas beat Texas Tech 14-4 Friday to keep its playoff hopes alive, but Baylor went into its series with TCU two full games ahead of the Longhorns and kept ahead with a 14-8 victory Friday over the Frogs.

Baylor, needing only one victory Saturday to win the title.

Hinkle Halts Player's Streak At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Sunday magic, which produced such wonderful comebacks in the last three weeks, finally deserted Gary Player.

"I have no excuses," the little South African said after his spectacular string of success — three victories in a row — was cut off by the power and precision of Lon Hinkle in the New Orleans Open Golf Tournament.

Hinkle, one of the game's longest hitters, birdied the final hole with a brilliant little wedge shot that finished off a 6-under-par 66 and gave him the first title of his 6-year pro career. It came by the margin of a single shot over Gibby Gilbert and Fuzzy Zoeller.

"The sound from the crowd on that wedge shot, it sent chills up my back and down my legs and through my arms and up my neck," Hinkle bubbled.

And the shot, which stopped some 4-5 feet from the flag, not only won him the tournament, it also destroyed Player's hopes of becoming only the third man in history to win four PGA Tour titles in a row.

Actually, Player said, he'd taken himself out of the multiple-man fight when he missed a 6-foot birdie putt on the fifth hole, then bogeyed the ninth, his second shot hitting a cypress tree dripping with Spanish moss.

"You can't be too greedy," said Player. "You have to be a realist. You can't go on winning forever. In this day and age, against this competition, winning three in a row is something I'll remember all my life."

His face showing the fatigue lines of strain and stress accumulated in the dramatic comebacks that brought him victories in the Masters, Tournament of Champions and Houston Open, Player tried mightily but missed in his quest to become the first man in 26 years to win four consecutive PGA Tour titles.

From a five-way tie for the lead at the end of 54 holes, the 42-year-old Player shot a scrambling 72, even par, and finished tied for fifth at 277, 11 under par but 6 shots behind the long-hitting Hinkle.

Player had predicted it would happen, even made a $50 bet with a local newsmen he would be unable to win in the multiple-man scramble of the final round.

"To win in America, you must do everything well," he said. "And no one can just keep on doing everything well indefinitely. Golf won't let you. It's much too humbling a game."

The little man, trailed by a huge, hopeful gallery, quickly dropped out of a share of the lead with a bogey on the first hole. He fell two behind when Hinkle, Gibby Gilbert and Fuzzy Zoeller made their moves. And with a bogey from a bounce off a tree on the ninth, dropped three shots off the pace at the turn.

He never got back in.

Essentially, it was a three-man fight between the 28-year-old Hinkle, Gilbert and Zoeller in the hot, humid, hazy weather. Hinkle, with Player in the last group, finally settled it with an approach shot that hit the flag on the 18th hole. He ran in a four-to-five foot birdie putt that broke a three-way tie and secured his first title in six years of Tour activity.

He finished with a 271 total, a whopping 17 shots below par, and collected $40,000 from the total purse of $200,000. With the $61,208 he'd won earlier this year, the big guy joined Jack Nicklaus, Hubert Green, Player, Tom Watson and Hale Irwin as $100,000 winners this season. That's more than he'd won in his first five years combined.

Gilbert and Zoeller, playing just ahead of Hinkle, tied for

'Big E' Aids As Bullets Down Philadelphia

By The Associated Press

"The only thing I'm looking for is something I've wanted all my life — to win the championship," said Elvin Hayes after he led the visiting Washington Bullets to a 122-117 overtime victory Sunday over the Philadelphia 76ers in the National Basketball Association Playoffs.

The win gave the Bullets a 1-0 lead in the best-of-seven series, which resumes here Wednesday night.

In other NBA playoff action, Portland defeated Seattle 113-89 and Milwaukee blitzed Denver 119-91.

The 32-year-old Hayes, a nine-year pro basketball veteran, devastated the 76ers with 28 points. He hit 10 for 21 from the field, eight of 11 at the foul line, grabbed 18 rebounds and blocked six shots.

"The big difference today is that we crashed the boards," said Hayes, who scored nine of his game-high point total in the five-minute overtime.

"We got the ball inside when we wanted to, went outside when we had to, took the best shots and didn't let them blow us out," said the 6-foot-9 Hayes, who played his college basketball at Houston.

Washington coach Dick Motta picked the same theme as Hayes.

"We rebounded very well, and that was the difference," said the Bullets' coach. "I think we caught the 76ers down a little. They were rusty after being off for a week." But Philadelphia coach Billy Cunningham refused to use the week-long layoff as an excuse.

"The key was the boards," said Cunningham. "We allowed them to get second shots, and since we did not control the boards, it hurt our transition game."

Rangers Continue To Ravage Boston

BEATS THE THROW — Boston Red Sox shortstop Ricky Burleson steals third base in the fourth inning of play. Texas Rangers' third baseman, Toby Harrah, bobbled the late throw from catcher Jim Sundberg during a major league baseball game Sunday in Arlington. (AP Laserphoto)

By The Associated Press
Pinch-hitter John Lowenstein's single off Boston relief ace Bill Campbell capped a 2-run rally in the bottom of the ninth inning Sunday and gave the Texas Rangers a 2-1 victory over the visiting Red Sox behind Ferguson Jenkins' fourth pitching.

The Rangers stretched their winning streak to six games while the Red Sox have dropped four in a row.
Boston held a 1-0 lead behind unbeaten Bill Lee entering the ninth. But Bert Campaneris singled, was sacrificed to second by Al Oliver and came home with the tying run when Richie Zisk greeted Campbell with a looping double into shallow right field.

After Toby Harrah was intentionally walked, Lowenstein's game-winning hit scored pinch-runner Bobby Thompson.
The only run off Jenkins, 2-1, was unearned and came in the fourth inning. Jenkins retired the first 10 Boston batters but then walked Rick Burleson. Burleson went to third when Jenkins threw the ball away on a pickoff attempt and scored on Jim Rice's sacrifice fly.

YANKEES 6, TWINS 2
Chris Chambliss singled to drive in Reggie Jackson with the tie-breaking run in the ninth inning and give the New York Yankees a 3-2 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

Jackson got an infield hit on a dribbler between the mound and home plate to start the inning and continued to second when Twins reliever Mac Scarce, 0-1, threw wildly to first. Two pitches later, Chambliss lined a single to right to score Jackson.

Ron Guidry went 6-1 in innings for New York and checked the Twins on three hits while striking out seven batters before giving way to Rich Gossage with one out and the bases loaded. Gossage, 1-3, went the rest of the way.

A's 2, INDIANS 1
Gary Alexander lined a home run into the left-field bleachers with two out in the ninth inning to give the amazing Oakland A's a 2-1 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

Alexander's homer, his sixth of the season, was only the fourth hit off Rick Wise, 1-4, and came with two strikes on the batter. Oakland reliever Elias Sosa, 3-0, was the winner. He took over for starter Rick Langford in the eighth and blanked the Indians over the final two innings.

Langford pitched out of trouble in the third when Rick Manning reached on an error but was thrown out attempting to steal. Duane Kuiper struck out but Paul Dade and John Grubb singled. Langford struck out Buddy Bell to end the inning.

ROYALS 3, BREWERS 0
Rich Gale, making his major league debut, scattered six hits in seven innings and pitched the Kansas City Royals past the Milwaukee Brewers 3-0 with help from Steve Mingori.

The 6-foot-7 right-hander, called up from Omaha Friday night when Steve Busby was sent out, developed a blister on his throwing hand and was relieved by Mingori at the start of the eighth.

The Royals scored a run in the first inning when Willie Wilson was hit by a pitch, stole second, went to third on Jerry Terrell's grounder and raced home on Hal McRae's grounder.

PHILLIES 11, PADRES 4
Dave Johnson's pinch-hit, grand-slam homer in the fifth inning triggered the Philadelphia Phillies to an 11-4 victory over the San Diego Padres.

Johnson's homer, the fourth grand slam of his 11-year major league career, came off Padre reliever Bob Shirley, who had replaced starter Randy Jones, 1-2, earlier in the inning.

With the score tied 4-4 on Oscar Gamble's two-run homer in the San Diego fifth, Mike Schmidt singled and Greg Luzinski walked. Richie Hebner moved the runners along with a sacrifice bunt and Shirley palmed Garry Maddox intentionally.

METS 6, REDS 4
George Foster's error on Doug Flynn's fourth-inning single allowed the winning run to score as the New York Mets ended a six-game losing streak by beating the Cincinnati Reds 6-4.

Pat Zachry, 3-0, won in his first start against his former teammates. Zachry pitched six innings and allowed all four Red runs but only five hits. Tom Hume, 2-3, took the loss.

The Mets broke a tie after the Reds had wiped out a 4-0 lead. Joel Youngblood walked and Flynn lined a sharp single to left. Foster let it get past him and to the wall while Youngblood scored. Flynn reached second on the error, was bunted to third by Zachry and scored on Lee Mazzilli's second RBI double.

New York scored in the first inning on Steve Henderson's RBI single and got three runs in the second on a single by Youngblood, a walk to Zachry, Mazzilli's first double, and a two-run single by Bobby Valentine.

MARINERS 4, TIGERS 3
Julio Cruz' single with one out in the 11th inning scored Larry Halbourne and gave the Seattle Mariners a 4-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Seattle reliever Enrique Romo, 2-0, stopped the Tigers on one hit over the final 3-2 innings. Romo had pitched out of a bases-loaded jam in the eighth after replacing starter Shane Rawley.

The Mariners tied the score at 3 with a pair of runs in the eighth. Cruz and Steve Braun doubled, chasing Detroit starter Jack Billingham, and Dan Meyer's single off John Hiller scored Braun.

GIANTS 7, PIRATES 3
Willie McCovey and Marc Hill drove in two runs each to back the seven-hit pitching of Bob Knepper and lead the San Francisco Giants to a 7-3 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

McCovey's two-run double down the left field line gave the Giants a 2-0 lead in the first inning off losing pitcher Bert Blyleven, 1-2.

EXPOS 2, ASTROS 1
Rudy May and Stan Bahnsen combined on a 5-hitter and Andre Dawson blasted a home run to lead the visiting Montreal Expos to a 2-1 decision over the Houston Astros.

May, 2-1, gave up all the Astros' hits, including Cesar Cedeno's ninth-inning home run, and walked but one batter before getting relief help from Bahnsen in the last inning.

JAYS 9, ANGELS 2
Roy Howell drove in three runs and Bob Bailor and Rico Carter added two each to pace a 16-hit attack as the Toronto Blue Jays downed the California Angels 9-2 behind the pitching of Jerry Garvin.

Carly hit his sixth home run of the season with Howell on base in the second inning when the Blue Jays scored five runs off loser Chris Knapp, 3-2.

Garvin, 2-1, didn't allow a hit until Dave Chalk's ground single with two out in the fifth.

CUBS 7, BRAVES 5
A 2-run triple by Manny Trillo broke a tie in the eighth inning and gave the visiting Chicago Cubs a 7-5 triumph over the Atlanta Braves.

Trillo connected against Adrian Devine, the third Atlanta pitcher, to send home Bobby Murcer and Steve Ontiveros, both aboard with singles. Bruce Sutter, 2-2, who relieved for the Cubs in the seventh, picked up the victory.

CARDS 4, DODGERS 0
Ken Reitz hammered a solo home run with one out in the seventh inning to snap a scoreless tie and trigger the St. Louis Cardinals to a 4-0 triumph over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Reitz's homer, his third of the year, settled a pitching duel between the Dodgers' Don Sutton, 2-2, and the Cards' John Urra, 2-2, who survived numerous early jams and received relief help from Pete Vuckovich over the final two innings.

Urra walked three Dodgers and hit two others during the first two innings, but survived by keeping the Dodgers hitless until Dave Lopes singled with two out in the fifth.

ORIOLES 8, CHISOX 7
Pinch-hitter Gary Roenicke drew a bases-loaded walk in the eighth inning to force in an unearned run and break a tie and Ken Singleton drove in four more with a homer and single as the Baltimore Orioles defeated the Chicago White Sox 8-7.

The Orioles thus completed a sweep of the three-game series while sending the White Sox to 11th setback in the last 13 games.

Culpepper Snares Main In Speedway's Opener

By WAYNE PANTER
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Jim Culpepper finished in the money only once Sunday afternoon, but that once was the one that counted. The Hereford racing veteran piloted his Camaro to victory over one of the best fields of late-models ever seen at Lubbock Speedway as the outside track launched a new season before an enthusiastic crowd.

Typical of early season racing, the program was dotted with minor mishaps caused in part by handling difficulties with new or rebuilt cars. But over-all, Sunday's racing appeared to herald a banner year, both for participants and for fans.

Top-Quality Cars

The field of late models, coming from Lubbock, Amarillo, Odessa and Hereford, was long on quality; most of the cars could — and some have done so — compete in the best racing company the nation has to offer.

Short fields of Volkswagens and sprints made the stockers — street versions as well as the late models — the focal point of the show, but the latter's performance left little to be desired.

Amarillo drivers took the major share of the victories in the late model division, Wayne McCullar and Dale Escamilla winning the heats and Barry Weaver and Neal DeBord grabbing the semi and trophy dash, respectively.

Griffins Posts Double

Jay Turner of Lubbock, plagued by a valve cover leak that kept the interior of his Camaro filled with smoke the entire afternoon, managed a win in the coney, and John Foster of Odessa and Dick Wood of Lubbock, both of whom looked invincible during the hot laps, had to settle for second spots — Foster in the heat and the semi, Wood in the coney and the main.

R.C. Griffin of Lubbock was the only street stock driver to post a double win, getting Floyd McGrew's checker in the first heat and the trophy dash.

Other winners were Amarillo's Paul Malacara in the second heat, Lubbockite John Bain in the semi and Mike Cox of Lubbock in the main.

Amarillo's Quick In VWs
Jerry Parker and Ron Trench of Amarillo ran one-two in all three VW events, with Lubbock drivers Frances Bilbrey and Don Spear getting third places in the heat and the main, respectively.

Dave "Wolfman" Yeager won the sprint heat and trophy dash, but Johnny Mount grabbed the laurels in the main.

traded by Charles Bolton and Yeager. Two other sprint drivers — Richard Wheat of Lubbock, and Tony Maldonado of Slaton — "motored" in the sprint events. For both it was the first time in competition, and they elected to hang back and watch the pros in action.

Next race program at Lubbock Speedway will be Friday night, when the track launches a regular summer schedule presenting late models, street stocks and VWs, beginning at 8 p.m. Sprints will race on a once-monthly basis.

GEAR CHATTER: Tommy Norvelle of Lubbock went racing Sunday thanks to the burning of some midnight oil... Tommy blew the engine in his street stock practicing Saturday afternoon, but brother Bobby and friend Jerry McDonald pitched in to put in a new engine in an overnight work session.

Amarillo's Randy Hollingsworth was philosophical after he wiped out his Camaro during the hot laps... "It's happened before," he observed while regarding the car, damaged front and rear after he lost it high in the no. 1 turn and spun twice into the wall. "It'll take a month to rebuild, he ventured.

Jay Turner could've used a drag racer's oxygen rig Sunday... A persistent leak at the left valve cover kept a mist of oil on the nearby exhaust header... "And," he said wryly, "you don't go too fast when that stuff is getting onto your tires."

If there were a purse for the best looking rig, it would have to go to Lubbock's Loyd Blackberry. His red, white and blue no. 1 Chevy, arriving on a white car-hauler towed by a blue '65 Chevy pickup, was sanitary all the way... Loyd, 21 and in his second full season of racing, pilots a car engineered by his dad, Earl, for whom it was an initial effort... "I've built a million trucks, but this is my first race car," the elder Blackberry confessed... He's the longtime service manager for Leageway Southwest.

The two sprint drivers taking their first venture in competition never tangled in the opening heat... Tony Maldonado of Slaton looped his supermodified in the first turn and Richard Wheat, understudy to Johnny Mount, brushed by on the outside... When Tony again got out of shape on the restart, Richard said, "I thought he had my number..." Both drivers were pleased with the experience, though, and plan to be back for the next outing.

Don Zahn may have been the most disappointed driver Sunday... After working on his no. 81 sprinter all week, he and Junior Polk took the car out for a shakedown Saturday only to have the gearbox break. Friends all over town joined in a search for parts, but nobody could come up with anything to effect the needed repairs.

The condition of the grounds brought much favorable comment from both the pits and the grandstand... Zahn has graded the pits and the entry road has been oiled preparatory to paving... The work paid off in the relative absence of dust in view of Sunday's wind.

Charges Filed Against Munson

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — A fellow fraternity brother has charged New York Yankee catcher Thurman Munson with attempting to choke him after Munson refused to sign a pledge paddle following Friday night's game with Minnesota.

Stew Thornley, 22, a member of the Delta Upsilon fraternity at the University of Minnesota, said Munson tried to choke him after he insisted that Munson sign the paddle.

Thornley has filed a complaint with the Bloomington, Minn. police department, and although no charges were filed against Munson, a department spokesman said the incident would be investigated today.

Munson was a member of the same fraternity when he attended Kent State University.

Thornley claims he asked Munson for the signature about ten times but finally gave up.

"As we were leaving, a girl I was with said, 'Hi, Thurman,'" explained Thornley. "I told her not to talk to the guy and then he turns around and says, 'I don't like you.'"

"I said, 'Well, the feeling's mutual.' At that point, he reached around and grabbed me by the neck and started choking me," Thornley said.

Munson admitted that he declined to sign the paddle, but he said Thornley grabbed him from behind, Munson then said he did grab Thornley, but nothing came of it.

"Why would I choke him?" Munson asked. "If I choked him he wouldn't be living. He's lucky I didn't, to tell you the truth, because I tried to be nice to him and he wouldn't leave me alone."

HARE AND HOUNDS — Amarillo's Dale Escamilla opens a gap on the field coming off the third turn in the second heat for late model stock cars at Lubbock Speedway Sunday afternoon.

He went on to win the event. Competition in the late model division was some of the highest ever seen at the outside pavement. (Staff Photo by Gary Davis)

"That's as good as I can play," said Gilbert. "I'm not at all disappointed." Then he grinned. "But when you're tied for the lead and shoot 67, you're supposed to win."

Player, Hinkle, Gilbert and Zoeller, along with Homero Blancas, had entered the final round tied for first. Blancas faded to 478 and a 283 total.

Grier Jones was fourth with a 67-274. It was another 3 strokes back to Player, Bob Murphy, Cal Peete and rookie D.A. Weibring tied at 277. Murphy closed up with a 67 in the mildly windy weather. Peete had a 68 and Weibring a 71.

Watson never really got in it after making triple bogey on the first hole of the tournament. He finished at 68-283. Lee Trevino was 72-281.

Sam Still Knows How To Slam

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Sam Snead's side-saddle birdie putts on the final three holes carried him and partner Gardner Dickinson to a legendary finish Sunday, as they captured the $400,000 Legends of Golf Tournament by a single shot.

Snead admitted "it looked as if we were in the bag" after Australian Peter Thompson had holed a 12-foot birdie putt on the 360-yard 16th hole of the par-70 Onion Creek Golf Course.

"If I miss my putt then school is out," said Snead, who poked in a 10-footer to keep his team just one shot behind.

Snead then birdied the 17th hole with a nine-footer and canned a three-footer on 18 for the come-from-behind victory.

The Snead-Dickinson team posted a 17-under-par 193 over 54 holes for the $100,000 first prize. They had a final round 66.

Thompson and fellow Australia Kel Nagle shot a final day 64 for a 16-under par total and split $65,000.

Snead, who has won 84 tournaments, had 14 of his team's 18 birdies over the three-day period.

"It's the best I ever putted side-saddle," said Snead, whose croquet style was outlawed by the Professional Golfers' Association in the early 1970s. "You have to kind of throw your fanny out of gear to use it."

Dickinson, who didn't help his partner a shot in the final 18 holes, joked, "I'm thinking of taking $1 and giving Sam the rest."

Snead said, "Gardner is a great little partner. He kept me pumped up. He kept saying 'Come on Sam, I know you can knock it in.'"

"It's the understatement of the week to say I was discouraged," Dickinson said.

The Snead-Dickinson duo once won $25,000 in a television match play tournament but it was their biggest payday as pros.

"We've won over $100,000 each as partners now," said Dickinson.

Snead sensed the money on the final hole, a 590-yard par-5. He lashed a driver, a one iron and a pitching wedge near the hole.

After Nagle and Thomson had failed on birdie attempts, Snead calmly stroked the ball in for the victory with a gallery of some 10,000 roaring.

"Sometimes it's better to be coming up than to be going down... you have more charge," said Snead, who also had saving par putts on the 13th, 14th, and 15th holes. "It sure looked like we had lost it."

"The biggest single paycheck I ever had before was winning $25,000 for finishing second in Milwaukee," the 66-year-old Snead said.

This tournament for champions 50 years and older was the brainchild of Fred Rapsel, who had a television show years ago filming matches all over the world.

"I hope they keep having it," grinned Snead.

Last place finishers Paul Runyan and Lew Worsham earned $10,000 each.

The teams of Julius Boros and Roberto de Vicenzo and Bob Rosburg and Carmy Middlecoff each earned $36,500 for their third place tie. Each team was 13-under par.

Solomon 'Upsets' Barazzutti

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Harold Solomon won the $50,000 first prize in the $250,000 Alan King Tennis Classic Sunday when Corrado Barazzutti was forced to quit during the second set because of stomach pains. The score of the nationally televised match was 6-1, 3-0 retired.

"I'm sorry, I'm sick," Barazzutti told the crowd of about 3,000 at Caesars Palace. "I cannot play anymore, I'm sorry."

Solomon was in complete control of the match after breaking Barazzutti's serve in the opening game when the Italian committed a number of unforced errors, the first indication that he was not feeling well.

Barazzutti held his service in the third game to pull within 2-1, but Solomon closed out the set with four consecutive games. The American held service to start the second set, broke Barazzutti at love in the second game and then held service again before Barazzutti called it quits.

"I ate bad food last night and was vomiting all night," Barazzutti explained afterwards. "I tried to play but could not. Solomon is a tough player. He hit so many balls back."

Solomon, an outstanding baseline player, wore down the Italian with his steady game. He said he noticed Barazzutti was not feeling well, but that it did not change his strategy.

"I was resolved to keep playing my game and not let up," said Solomon. "I waited for short balls and came to the net, using my forehand as a weapon. This is the first time I've ever won a final in this manner."

After the match, a wheelbarrow containing 50,000 silver dollars was brought onto the court.

Coles Captures Lady Tara Win

ATLANTA (AP) — Second-year pro Janet Coles knocked in a birdie putt from six feet on the third hole of a sudden-death playoff Sunday to capture the $75,000 Lady Tara Golf Tournament.

Coles, from Carmel, Calif., fired a 3-under-par 70 in the final round and moved into a playoff with Saturday's co-leaders, Gloria Ehret and Hollis Stacey, the defending champion.

Ehret lasted until the third playoff hole, missing her 10-foot birdie putt. Stacey went out of contention with a bogey on the first playoff hole.

Coles, who was disqualified in this tournament one year ago for making an illegal drop, claimed the $11,250 first prize, almost as much as she had previously won on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour. Her previous best finish had been a tie for eighth place twice last year.

Coles had several opportunities to end the tournament earlier, missing a four-foot putt on the 18th hole and a six-foot birdie putt on the first playoff hole.

On the third playoff hole, Coles had a booming drive 40 yards beyond Ehret.

The trio of playoff contenders finished with 54-hole totals of 211, eight under par on the hilly, 6,353-yard Brookfield West Country Club course.

Stacey, who won at Birmingham, Ala., two weeks ago and also lost a playoff last week at Raleigh, N.C., caught a bunker on the first playoff hole and then two-putted for her bogey.

Ehret, winless since capturing the 1973 Birmingham Classic, lipped out a 10-foot birdie putt on the second hole of sudden death.

"I'm not upset about it," said Stacey. "I think I'm playing the best golf on tour right now. Finishing 1, 2, 2 is not to be looked down upon."

Ehret and Stacey each shot 71s. Jan Stephenson and Pat Bradley tied for fourth with 215 and there was a five-way tie at 216.

WHILE SIX MILLION DIED

Immigration Laws Hampered Jews' Escape

EDITOR'S NOTE: Millions of Americans have now watched "Holocaust" on television or read a serialization of the book in newspapers. One question is on all their lips: How could this have happened? In 1947, Arthur D. Morse wrote "While Six Million Died: A Chronicle of American Apathy" (Hart Publishing Co., New York). In it he provides, with full documentation, the painful answer: Because we let it happen. The following article is excerpted from Morse's book (re-released in 1975). It deals with only one aspect of U.S. policy toward the extermination of the Jews by the Nazis. As Morse showed in his book, there were, unfortunately, many others. Morse joined CBS News in 1952 and eventually became executive producer of CBS Reports. He has won many awards, including one from Sigma Delta Chi, as well as the Peabody and Robert E. Sherwood awards. He resigned from CBS in 1965.

On Aug. 1, 1942, history thrust a terrible burden upon Gerhart Riegner, the representative in Switzerland of the World Jewish Congress. On that day, Riegner, who had himself fled from Nazi Germany, learned from a leading German industrialist that Adolf Hitler had ordered the extermination of all the Jews in Europe.

The information, relayed in Lausanne at the risk of the German's life, even specified the instrument of murder: prussic acid, the lethal ingredient of Zyklon B gas.

Under any other circumstances, Riegner might have dismissed the report as macabre exaggeration, but the evidence he had compiled at his listening post in Geneva forced him to take the German's revelation seriously.

Flow of Information

Riegner, like the governments of the United States and Great Britain, had been receiving a constant flow of information about the deportation of Jewish men, women and children to Poland.

He knew — and they knew — about the mass executions of Jewish nationals in Poland and Russia; since the German invasion of the Soviet Union in June 1941, hundreds of thousands of Jews had been shot. The scale of murder was so massive that it could not be masked by the most elaborate security precautions. Detailed reports of their operations had reached the United States and its allies, and, in fact, had been published in daily newspapers.

Yet for all their awareness of the enormity of Nazi barbarism, and Hitler's repeated threats to destroy the Jews, neither the United States nor Great Britain had any knowledge in August 1942 of a specific order for the total extermination of the Jews.

Riegner's informant, a high-ranking official of a firm employing more than 30,000 war workers, had access to Hitler's headquarters. It was there, he claimed, that he had heard the order discussed.

Other events in July lent credence to the terrible news.

Massacre Reported

Only July 1, for example, the Polish government-in-exile, whose couriers kept it informed of every new development, had released a report from underground sources to the Allied governments and the press detailing the massacre of 700,000 Jews since the German invasion in September 1939.

It included a city-by-city roll call of death and revealed the first use of mobile gas vans. Ninety Jews at a time had been packed into each van and asphyxiated by carbon monoxide. The death rate in this operation alone had reached 1,000 a day.

Only July 16, the Nazis had rounded up more than 18,000 Jews in Paris, separated the children from their parents and sent them off on their rash journey eastward. Far from being a secret, the roundup had been announced on July 17 over Berlin radio.

On July 22, the Germans began the "resettlement" of the 380,000 Jews still in the Warsaw ghetto. "Resettlement" involved the shipment of some 6,000 Jews each day by freight car to the nearby concentration camp of Treblinka, where they were asphyxiated by carbon monoxide.

U.S., Britain Informed

The Polish government-in-exile notified the United States and Great Britain that the Germans were now carrying out the annihilation of the remaining occupants of a ghetto whose population had once exceeded half a million.

Besides the full information about all these developments, Riegner and the Allied world had received word in mid-July that deportation trains were removing Jews daily from Belgium, Holland and France.

The more Riegner pondered the quickening tempo of Nazi anti-Semitism, the more he came to accept the credibility of his informant.

But in spite of this mounting evidence of an overall plan for mass murder, Riegner continued to seek additional confirmation. Riegner soon learned that the German industrialist had twice before transmitted secret information whose accuracy had been borne out by later events.

Once he had revealed significant changes in the Nazi high command to the Allies long before they were aware of dissension. What was more remarkable, he had reported five weeks in advance the precise date for the German invasion of the Soviet Union.

Riegner now decided he had sufficient justification to report his news to the United States Government and to key officials of the World Jewish Congress.

Riegner's report was suppressed.

Meanwhile, similar reports mounted higher and higher on Washington desks. One of the most dramatic was that of two non-Jewish escapees, one from Poland, who arrived in Geneva with details of the German liquidation of the Warsaw Ghetto, the death of 50,000 Jews of Lwow, and the German utilization of Jewish corpses for the manufacture of fertilizer.

Thus, in November 1942, an impressive collection of affidavits and personal testimony descended upon Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles in the State Department and Franklin D. Roosevelt in the White House.

First Specific Evidence

Authoritative reports of anti-Jewish barbarity had begun to reach Washington soon after Hitler took power, but Riegner's revelation in 1942 and its subsequent documentation provided the United States with its first specific evidence of a German plan for the total extermination of the Jews.

The Nazi mask had been lifted. The euphemisms that had been used for extermination — words like "resettlement" and reassuring descriptions of "Jewish reservations" — were no longer taken seriously in Europe.

The Jews were bound for destruction and the Allied press frequently published new evidence. Responsible officials in Washington were aware of bulging files reporting Nazi cruelties from every corner of Europe under Hitler's domination.

Now that it was all so neatly documented, what would the United States and its allies do about it?

The man most concerned with this deluge was Assistant Secretary of State Breckenridge Long, whose responsibilities encompassed refugee affairs.

Hand-Picked By F.D.R.

Long, a 61-year-old Missourian, had been hand-picked by Franklin D. Roosevelt. A man who had at one time had been full of praise for Mussolini's fascism, Long was given responsibility for no fewer than 23 of the department's 42 divisions. These included the Visa Division, which served as overseer of foreigners entering the United States; and the Special Division, which acted as watchdog over transmission of U.S. funds overseas.

Long's jurisdiction extended to prisoners of war and civilian internees. Everything connected with possible relief for Jews of Europe thus passed through divisions under Long's supervision — whether visas for visitors or immigrants; the dispatch of funds for food, clothing and medicine; or appeals to the International Red Cross for humane treatment of Jews comparable to that prescribed for prisoners of war or interned civilians.

Long had, of course, not originated U.S. immigration policy. He had inherited a law passed in 1924, which restricted immigration rigidly to some 150,000 aliens a year. Half of this quota was assigned to applicants from England and Ireland. The law had been buttressed with an incredible mosaic of regulations.

Aimed At Old Abuses

These had been directed at 19th-century abuses but, under Long, would now keep out 20th-century Jews.

The restrictions against immigrants likely to become public charges, a stipulation that would later be applied to large numbers of Jews fleeing Hitler, was first enunciated in 1882. The immigration act of that year excluded "any convict, lunatic, idiot or any other person unable to take care of himself without becoming a public charge."

The Alien Contract Labor Law of 1885 would also be invoked in the Hitler era, although it was designed for an utterly different purpose — the prevention of such abuses as the importation of foreign labor to drive down wage rates, particularly in the coal fields. The act stipulated that it was unlawful to assist the entry of aliens under a prior contract for labor.

The Quota Act of 1921 placed the first numerical restrictions on European immigration; it was slashed to three percent of the number of foreign-born of each European nationality residing in the United States in 1910. The census of 1910 was chosen in preference to that of 1920 in order to minimize the proportion of southern and eastern Europeans in the population. In addition, a maximum annual quota of 355,000 immigrants was established.

Maximum Quota Adopted

The Immigration Act of 1924 further reduced the entry of aliens, and in 1929 a maximum annual immigration quota of 153,774 was adopted.

Immigration, which had averaged 900,000 a year at the beginning of the century, had been slashed by more than 80 percent.

Under the new legislation, the acceptance of the immigrants by country would be based upon the ethnic backgrounds of the U.S. population in 1920. From July 1, 1929, when the restriction went into effect, until the administration of Lyndon Johnson approved a new law, the quota of 153,774 was dominated by the 83,575 assigned to Great Britain and Ireland. Thus, more than half the available places had been allocated to nations which were known to provide relatively few applicants.

By contrast, the countries with large numbers of potential immigrants were assigned small quotas: Germany, about 26,000; Poland, 6,000; Italy, 5,500; France, 3,000; Rumania, 300. Later, these impersonal figures would doom Rumanian, Polish and French Jews seeking sanctuary while the English and Irish quotas lay unused.

Until September 1930, the provision denying admission to an immigrant "likely to become a public charge" had rarely been invoked; immigrants of good character and robust health, and with perhaps $100, were regarded as good risks in the expanding American economy.

It was the massive unemployment in the wake of the 1929 crash and not refugees from Adolf Hitler which caused the "public charge" provision to be resurrected from the statute books, dusted off and utilized. And it was Herbert Hoover, not Franklin D. Roosevelt, who revived it.

In March 1933, Rep. Samuel Dickstein of New York introduced a resolution in an effort to revoke Hoover's 1930 order. The Dickstein resolution did not pass. The opposition of the State Department, "patriotic" societies and a majority of Dickstein's own House Committee on Immigration prevailed. The judgment "likely to become a public charge" continued as one of the most effective barriers to immigration during the prewar and war years.

Another major obstacle to immigration for Jews fleeing from Hitler concerned Section 7 (c) of the Immigration Act of 1924, which required the applicant to furnish a police certificate of good character for the previous five years, together with a record of military service, two certified copies of a birth certificate and "two copies of all other available public records" kept by the authorities in the country from which he was departing.

Consuls Became Strict

The law required these documents only "if available," but many American consuls insisted upon full dossiers — and the police certificate in particular.

Although the notion of a Jew's dropping by police headquarters to receive a certificate of good character from his oppressors may strike the reader as a particularly sardonic touch of bureaucracy, State Department files refer repeatedly to this requirement and its importance.

Stringent quotas, the "public charge" provision and the need to provide police certificates were not the only barriers facing the potential immigrant. There was also the "contract labor" provision which made it impossible for workers to enter under employment contracts.

Thus, the prospective immigrant, attempting to meet the "public charge" provision, might assure himself of a job and then be barred because of his foresight.

Further Provisions
As if the "public charge" provision, the necessity of supplying police records and the complexities of the "contract labor" clause were not enough, a further restriction in the Immigration Act of 1917 called for the "exclusion of persons whose ticket or passage is paid for by any corporation, association or society, municipality or foreign government either directly or indirectly."

The originators of this provision could not have foreseen the plight of the German Jews, who were stripped of all their possessions before being cast adrift on endless seas. They were expected to be self-sufficient though penniless, capable of supporting themselves though unemployed, and prepared to pay their passage without accepting help from friends.

But the Immigration Act was not revised. Everyone from the White House on down expressed fears that any attempts to reform it would bring down the wrath of the conservative Southerners, who dominated congressional committees and who would be just as happy to end immigration altogether as to simplify its procedures.

Martin Dies of Texas, who led the restrictionists in the House of Representatives, put it simply:
"We must ignore the tears of sobbing sentimentalists and internationalists, and we must permanently close, lock and bar the gates of our country to new immigration waves and then throw the keys away."

In June 1941, new regulations were issued by the State Department making it virtually impossible for refugees with close relatives in occupied Europe to enter the United States. It was a major triumph for those who, like Breckenridge Long, saw subversion entering the land of liberty, cloaked in the shabby garments of a refugee.

The ruling applied to prospective immigrants from Norway, Holland, Belgium, occupied France, Czechoslovakia, Poland and the Balkans, as well as Germany and Austria.

The harshness of U.S. immigration policy was not lost on Hitler, who turned each aspect of the world's apathy into a weapon for himself. American citizens, he said, had no right to protest his anti-Semitism in view of the United States' own racial discrimination in its immigration policies.

"Through its immigration law," said Hitler, "America has inhibited the unwelcome influx of such races as it has been unable to tolerate in its midst. Nor is America now ready to open its doors to Jews fleeing from Germany."

Roosevelt Insisted

Throughout the prewar and wartime years, Franklin D. Roosevelt insisted on living up to the letter of the immigration law, maintaining that restrictionist elements in Congress would block any reform.

But a change in the law would not have been necessary. As James McDonald, a specialist in international affairs who had been the chairman of the Foreign Policy Association, observed at the time:
"Just as President Hoover, by administrative interpretation, in effect instructed the consuls to block immigration, so now President Roosevelt could, by relaxing further the requirements in the case of refugees, make easier the admission of a few thousands additional Germans a year."

Five days later, at a White House press conference, a reporter asked the president, "Would you recommend a relaxation of our immigration restrictions so that the Jewish refugees could be received in this country?"

"That is not in contemplation," replied the president. "We have the quota system."

The United States not only insisted upon its immigration law throughout the Nazi era, but administered it with severity and callousness.
In spite of unprecedented circumstances, the law was constricted so that even its narrow quotas were not met.
The lamp remained lifted beside the golden door, but the flame had been extinguished and the door was padlocked.

A Stirring Statement
Five-and-a-half years later, on March 24, 1944, President Roosevelt issued the following statement:

"It is therefore fitting that we should again proclaim our determination that none who participate in these acts of savagery shall go unpunished.... That warning applies not only to the leaders but also to their functionaries and subordinates in Germany and in the satellite countries.
"All who knowingly take part in the deportation of Jews to their death in Poland or Norwegians and French to their death in Germany are equally guilty with the executioner. All who share the guilt shall share the punishment."

"Hitler is committing these crimes against humanity in the name of the German people. I ask every German and every man everywhere under Nazi domination to show the world by his action that in his heart he does not share these insane criminal desires. Let him hide these pursued victims, help them to get over their borders, and do what he can to save them from the Nazi hangman."

"I ask him also to keep watch, and to record the evidence that will one day be used to convict the guilty."

Most Forthright Accusation

Roosevelt's declaration was the Allies' most forthright accusation of Nazi guilt and promised a despairing world that the criminal would be punished. It should have been made years earlier.

The collective expression of Allied indignation over known Nazi brutality might have stimulated greater resistance to their German masters within the Axis satellites. It might also have strengthened what little internal opposition existed in Germany.

The cry of compassion from the governments of hundreds of millions of men and women fighting the Nazis would have reached the Jews in ghettos and death camps. The knowledge that they have not been forgotten might have clothed their naked deaths with dignity.

Starved and without weapons, they might have summoned some final reservoir of defiance on the steps of the gas chamber.

But by March 24, 1944, it was too late. Millions had perished.

Only thousands could still be saved.

'All who knowingly take part in the deportation of Jews to their death in Poland or Norwegians and French to their death in Germany are equally guilty with the executioner. All who share the guilt shall share the punishment.'

1944 Report Indicted U.S. 'Acquiescence'

On Jan. 16, 1944, a report was handed to President Franklin D. Roosevelt. Its title: "The Acquiescence of This Government in the Murder of the Jews."

The report, prepared by three Protestant aides in the Treasury Department, was originally intended to convince Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau that U.S. policy had doomed the Jews of Europe and that something had to be done about it. Morgenthau handed a rewritten version to Roosevelt.

In his version, the secretary told the president, "There is a growing number of responsible people and organizations today who have ceased to view our failure (to prevent the extermination of the Jews) as the product of simple incompetence on the part of those officials in the State Department charged with handling the problem. They see plain anti-Semitism motivating the actions of these State Department officials and, rightly or wrongly, it will require little more in the way of proof for this suspicion to explode into a nasty scandal."

According to the original report, signed by Randolph Paul, officials of the U.S.

State Department "have not only failed to use the government machinery at their disposal to rescue Jews from Hitler, but have even gone so far as to use this governmental machinery to prevent the rescue of these Jews."

"They have not only failed to cooperate with private organizations in the efforts of these organizations to work out individual programs of their own, but have taken steps designed to prevent these programs from being put into effect."

TV Drama Called Unique Production

NEW YORK (AP) — Someone said there were 50 people crowded into the small studio just off Park Avenue, and nearly everybody's attention was on the tiny, pink-walled room within the room.

The lights were hot, and many of the onlookers closest to the set had to crane their necks to see around the large camera as it was wheeled in and out of the smaller room.

"Quiet for rehearsal," a young woman shouted. "And... action!" said the director.

"C'mon, let's get dressed," the dark-haired actor in the blue blazer began, then stopped and relaxed. "No. What's the line?"

The reply came from offstage: "C'mon, let's go to Connie's. Let's get dressed."

It was the 18th day of filming for "The Last Tenant," to be aired on ABC the evening of June 25. The man in the blue coat was Tony LoBianco, who stars with Lee Strasberg and Christine Lahti in the original drama by George Rubino.

"There's a little more pressure on everyone because of the time element," LoBianco, who plays Strasberg's eldest son in "The Last Tenant," said minutes later, during a break in the shooting.

"We'll do this in four weeks, while a feature movie would take quite a bit longer to do," he said. "But you adapt. Everyone works harder and quicker, and that's the way it goes."

LoBianco, raised in Brooklyn where his parents still reside, has a background in all aspects of theater, film and television, "and it all pays off when you come down to it," he said. "You know everybody's job — sound, camera, lighting, directing, producing — and sort of instinctively you can help everyone along."

"The Last Tenant" is a unique production in several respects.

Rubino's story of a family that has to decide what to do with its 76-year-old father, was selected for the first "ABC Theatre Award." Rubino, a teacher at John Dewey High School in Queens, got $10,000 as well as production of his play.

In addition, ABC describes the show as Strasberg's dramatic debut on TV, after years as one of the country's most well-known acting teachers. Strasberg was nominated for an Academy Award in 1976 for his role in "The Godfather, Part II."

"It's a wonderful script," LoBianco said of Rubino's play, "an important story, well-handled."

"This is everybody's life," the actor, currently starring in the feature film, "F.I.S.T." with Sylvester Stallone, added. "Almost every person will have to face this situation some time — either with their parents or later with their children."

Strasberg is Frank Russo in "The Last Tenant," an independent man who at first rejects his family's suggestion that he hire a housekeeper, then opposes their plan to move him to a nursing home.

THE LAST TENANT — Tony LoBianco, left, and Lee Strasberg will appear in the ABC television drama, "The Last Tenant," to be broadcast June 25. Strasberg will be making his TV debut as a 76-year-old father whose family has to decide what to do with him. (AP Laserphoto)

Japanese Fear Quake Disaster

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — A Japanese disaster specialist warned in a report published here Sunday that a major earthquake could take more lives in Tokyo now than the 1923 earthquake that killed 100,000.

Masami Sugawara said Japan's wooden houses, while built to withstand earthquakes, offer "little resistance" against fires that can follow major tremors.

Researcher Says Brown Eyes' Reaction Quicker

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) — A Pennsylvania State University physical education professor says he can tell just by gazing into your eyes how quickly you will react to something.

"It's such a bizarre idea, I didn't really believe it at first," says the professor, Dan Landers. "I've become more of a believer."

Landers and his colleagues conducted tests on about 300 persons with extreme eye colors at the university's motor behavior laboratory and found that people with dark brown eyes reacted more quickly to a stimulus than people with baby blue eyes.

The subjects were instructed to lift an index finger from a telegraph key as quickly as possible after seeing a light flash or hearing a bell ring.

"Dark-eyed people were really faster, regardless of sex, race, socio-economic status, or any other factors we examined," Landers said. He emphasized that differences were recorded only in reaction time, not reflex or movement time.

"Once the muscles have been activated in response to a stimulus, blue-eyed people are just as fast in general movement time."

Landers said normal reaction time to a stimulus is 150 to 200 milliseconds. Those with darker eyes reacted 12 to 22 milliseconds faster than those tested with lighter eyes, he said.

One explanation is that melanin — the dark, grainy pigment that gives eyes their color — could be genetically related to the amount of neuromelanin in the nervous system, Landers said in a telephone interview Saturday.

He said scientists determined in 1974 that neuromelanin has electrical properties and acts as a semiconductor switching device in the nervous system.

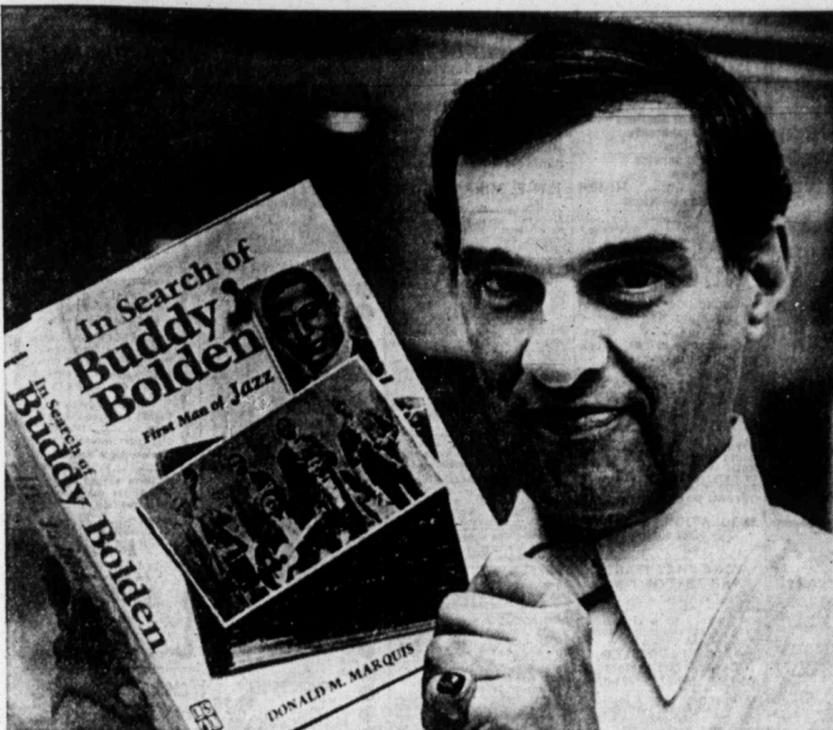

The conclusions of the Penn State researchers, already reported in some scientific publications, have been substantiated by similar testing done at Cornell University, Landers said.

Biography Describes Career Of Legendary Cornet Player

BOLDEN BOOK AND AUTHOR — Donald Marquis, a New Orleans librarian, holds a copy of his book, "In Search of Buddy Bolden: The First Man of Jazz." Marquis worked on the book off and on for the past 10 or 12 years. (AP Laserphoto)

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Old timers say you could hear Buddy Bolden's cornet a mile away and all he had to do to draw a crowd was stand outside and blow a tune.

In his day he was the best — a powerful original, and some say he invented jazz. Even Louis Armstrong talked about Buddy Bolden. Armstrong remembered peeping through a crack in a wall, back when he was a boy, and wondering if he'd ever have the strength to play like that.

Bolden played for only 10 years before he was packed off to an insane asylum in 1907, never having cut a record. But he left a legend as fabulous as his horn.

As the stories go, he would stand in the middle of the park and blast away. When people heard him, they'd know right away who it was and would head for the party. If Bolden was playing, it had to be good.

They said when he walked the street he had a woman to carry his cornet, another to carry his matches, a third to carry his handkerchief, and a fourth to lurk along behind with nothing to carry.

That was a long time ago. Now a new biography attempts to separate fact from legend.

"I worked on it off and on for 10 or 12 years," said Donald Marquis, a New Orleans librarian who has written "In Search of Buddy Bolden: The First Man of Jazz." It will be published this month by Louisiana State University Press.

"I found some things in the archives, and part of the fun was finding people here in New Orleans who knew something about him," said Marquis.

"Every now and then I'd come up with someone who actually knew him or lived in the same neighborhood or something. Eventually, the story kind of came together."

Bolden was at the peak of his musical powers when the mental breakdown came. In 1907 he was committed to state hospital at Jackson, La., where he died in 1931 at the age of 54.

"I guess today he probably would be called a paranoid schizophrenic," said Marquis. "In my book, I spend quite a bit of time trying to determine what caused his breakdown."

Marquis said he was able to clarify some vague aspects of Bolden's life and correct some previously published errors, such as tales that Bolden worked as a barber and edited a scandal sheet.

However, Marquis acknowledged that many things about Bolden may never be known for certain.

"I refuse to step beyond the ground that has been documented by facts," said

Marquis. "I think too many of the early jazz books are ruined by speculation. Years later, someone comes around and finds out that some of the things everyone has been saying for years are not true."

14-Year-Old Son Of Actor To Enter Business World Of Hollywood Films

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Universal Pictures recently announced a three-picture, five-year contract with the production company owned by Walter Matthau. The actor's son, Charlie, will serve as associate producer.

Nothing unusual about a son joining his father's business, especially in Hollywood. Except that Charlie is 14.

Charlie Matthau is already something of a small legend in the film colony. Ever since he was a toddler, his father took him everywhere — on locations, to parties and premieres. Charlie has often been present when Walter gives interviews in his stream-of-consciousness style. The boy always listens, never seeming to exhibit the traits of some movie brats.

He is growing into a tall, good-looking young man with a winning smile through his braces. He also has an air of seriousness befitting his new position as associate producer.

Charlie was in school the other day when his father was working at Los Angeles International Airport in the new Neil Simon comedy, "California Suite." Walter sat at a long table set up for the location lunch, consumed three small salads, and talked about his son.

"Charlie will be a consultant with my company," said Matthau. "He'll be consulted on casts, types of pictures we should make, kinds of advertising campaigns, lots of things. I believe his advice will be valuable."

"I've already found that to be true. I wasn't going to do 'The Sunshine Boys,' Charlie read the script and said, 'This is funny stuff, Poppy.' I said I didn't think so. I had seen the play and didn't think much of it. 'You can make the stuff very funny,' Charlie insisted.

"So I sat down and read the script out loud to him. You know something? He was right."

"Charlie knows a lot about pictures. He went to the Filmex (Los Angeles Film Exposition) marathon and saw 13 movies in a row; his favorite was 'The Lost Weekend.'"

"He's also good at figures. He has made $6,000 in the stock market, starting with $500. How did he do it? Damned if I know. He talks to people — rich people — and he studies the earning ratios. I don't even know what the hell that is."

Matthau admitted that he has been criticized for including Charlie in the adult world.

"People tell me, 'Let him be a real boy, let him play ball and join the Little League.' It seems to me that's falling into the trap of identification with uniformity. I suppose it's important to be psycholog-cally equipped to be part of the mob. Playing ball may be good practice to be a politician."

"But I'll bet you that Vladimir Horowitz didn't play ball in the afternoon. He was inside, learning to play the piano."

Charlie has played bit roles in his father's films, the latest as Glenda Jackson's son in "House Calls." Son David, 25, who has an acting contract at Universal, has a small part in "California Suite." Daughter Jenny is a UCLA student with no apparent interest in acting.
