Personal Income Gain Cited For April

WASHINGTON (AP) — The combined personal income of all Americans increased 1.4 percent in April, a further sign of strong economic growth, the Commerce Department said Wednesday.

Rising personal income means consumers have more money to spend and often encourages merchants and factories to step up production and hire more workers.

The 1.4 percent increase was the largest since a 1.45 gain in October 1977 and followed a 1.36 percent gain in March.

However, about half of the increase may have been eaten up by rising prices, which have gone up an average of 0.7 percent each month this year.

Overall, personal income rose at an annual rate of $23.3 billion in April to $1.68 trillion. That would mean an average annual income of about $7,706 for each adult and child in the United States.

Wages and salaries rose $18.1 billion in April after rising $17.5 billion in March. A big contributor was a $3.5 billion gain in coal mining payrolls after the end of the coal strike in late March.

The housing boom added $3 billion to the wallets of construction workers after a $2.4 billion increase in March. Both increases are much larger than average, the department said.

Factory workers got $2.2 billion more in April, not as strong as the $6.3 billion increase in March, when businesses recovered from the severe winter.

The increase in personal income coincided with other indicators showing the economy is growing despite a slowdown in the winter. Industrial production, employment, retail sales and housing activity were unusually strong in April, government agencies have said.

The government has concentrated its efforts more toward bringing down inflation, which is running at an annual rate of about 9 percent.

The personal income report includes wages and salaries, interest, dividends, Social Security benefits and other payments.

Levelland Names City Manager

A-J Correspondent
LEVELLAND — Mike Gibson, 34, formerly city manager for Port Lavaca, will assume the city manager's post here June 1.

Gibson, who will be receiving a salary of $24,600 a year here, was hired during Tuesday night's Levelland City Council meeting.

Gibson, a graduate of Tyler High School, holds a master's degree in political science from Texas A&M University. He had been active with the Port Lavaca Jaycees.

Gibson replaces Robert Sokoll, who resigned recently to accept the city manager's post in Paris.

Federal Study Claims Fluoridation Not Harmful

BOSTON (AP) — A federal study of 46 cities has concluded that fluoridating water to prevent tooth decay has no adverse effect on people's health.

The study by the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta was undertaken to investigate claims that fluoridation is linked to higher cancer rates.

"There is no evidence to suggest that fluoridation does any harm," Dr. J. David Erickson, who conducted the study, said in an interview.

A report on the federal findings was published in Thursday's issue of the New England Journal of Medicine.

Erickson compared the cause of death of 922,000 people over three years in 46 American cities — 24 of them with fluoridated water and 22 without.

After taking into account differences in race, age, sex, education and population density between the two groups of cities, he found that there was virtually no difference in the death rates. There were 1,124 deaths per 100,000 person years in the fluoridated cities and 1,137 in the non-fluoridated cities.

The death rate from cancer was 195 in the cities with fluoride and 197 in the cities without.

"We don't know of any adverse health effects at the one part per million level" — the concentration of fluoride typically put in water to prevent cavities, Erickson said.

Other studies have shown that children who drink fluoridated water have about 65 percent fewer cavities.

Two critics of fluoridation, John Yiamouyiannis and Dean Burk, compared death rates in 20 cities last year. They concluded that the chance of dying of cancer was "significantly higher" in fluoridated cities.

Yiamouyiannis and Burk released their study linking fluoridation and cancer at a congressional hearing. Yiamouyiannis is science director of the California-based National Health Federation. Burk is a former researcher for the National Cancer Institute.

Erickson said, however, the two researchers failed to take into consideration a variety of other factors, such as differences in age of people who live in the two groups of cities, that could account for the differences.

Erickson wrote that his study "shows that the marked differences in crude mortality experience in the cities with fluoridated and non-fluoridated water supplies were not caused by fluoridation."

His study compared death rates between 1969 and 1971.

Cities studied with fluoridated water were San Francisco; Denver; Washington, D.C.; Jacksonville, Fla.; Miami; Chicago; Indianapolis; Louisville, Ky.; Baltimore; Minneapolis; St. Paul, Minn.; St. Louis; Buffalo, N.Y.; Rochester, N.Y.; Cleveland; Toledo, Ohio; Oklahoma City; Tulsa, Okla.; Philadelphia; Pittsburgh; El Paso, Texas; Norfolk, Va.; Richmond, Va.; and Milwaukee.

Cities studied without fluoridated water were Birmingham, Ala.; Phoenix; Tucson, Ariz.; Long Beach, Calif.; Los Angeles; Oakland, Calif.; Sacramento, Calif.; San Diego; San Jose, Calif.; Tampa, Fla.; Honolulu; Wichita, Kan.; New Orleans; Boston; Kansas City, Mo.; Jersey City, N.J.; Newark, N.J.; Cincinnati; Columbus, Ohio; Portland, Ore.; Austin, Texas; and San Antonio, Texas.

House Panel Rejects Proposed Social Security Tax Rollback

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee reversed itself Wednesday and stifled an election-year effort to roll back Social Security taxes for 106 million workers and their employers.

"I have decided that I cannot live with a vote" to undo the tax increases enacted last December, said Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman. His position, and the committee's turn-about, defies a mandate from the House Democratic Caucus, which last month instructed the panel to write a tax-cut bill.

Ullman had cast the tie-breaker last week when the committee voted 19-18 for a rollback. He and four other members switched their positions Wednesday, resulting in a 21-16 vote against a reduction.

who were surprised by a smaller increase, enacted in 1972, that went into effect this year.

Ways and Means rejected a number of proposals for reducing Social Security taxes before settling last week on the two-year plan. The idea of the proposal was to reduce the tax burden temporarily to give Congress time to come up with a long-term solution.

One factor in the committee's about-face Wednesday was the fact that Congress traditionally has considered Social Security as an insurance program, under which each worker's future benefits have some relation to how much that worker paid in Social Security taxes.

Use income taxes to pay for a part of Social Security, the argument goes, and the huge system will be turned into another welfare program, in which benefits are based not on taxes paid but on need.

Rep. Barber Conable of New York, senior Republican on the committee, argued for a rollback. He said the panel has "a political mandate from the (Democratic) caucus and a strong expression of concern from the American people, which cannot be ignored."

Eight Republicans and 13 Democrats voted against the rollback; four Republicans and 12 Democrats favored it.

Ullman and Reps. Ken Holland, D-S.C., William Frenzel, R-Minn., and L.A. Balfanz, R-Fla., switched from support of the rollback last week to opposition on Wednesday. Rep. John Duncan, R-Tenn., who voted against the cut last week, voted for it Wednesday.

Under present law, each worker pays into Social Security 6.05 percent of the first $17,700 earned this year, or a maximum tax of $1,071. A $10,000-a-year earner pays $605. In both cases, the employer matches the worker's tax.

Next year, the tax will rise to 6.13 percent of the first $22,900 earned, or a maximum $1,404. By 1987, the tax is due to rise to 7.15 percent of the first $42,600, resulting in a maximum tax of $3,046.

The December tax increase will cost a typical worker — one the government says now makes $11,000 but will earn $18,600 by 1987 — about $1.20 a week extra over the next 10 years. For the upper-income worker, the increase will amount to about $12 a week over the next 10 years.

Attempt Expected During June To Extend Skylab's Orbit Life

WASHINGTON — An attempt will be made in June to extend the orbital life of the 5-year-old Skylab space station so the world's largest man-made satellite won't come crashing back to earth next year.

If a ground-controlled maneuver planned by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration is successful, the Skylab could stay aloft an extra year. This would give a team of space shuttle astronauts time to fly up and attach a small rocket to the 85-ton vehicle in late 1979.

The rocket could be used to boost the station into a higher orbit, where it would stay for hundreds of years. Or it could be used to guide the station to an atmospheric re-entry and breakup over a remote ocean area.

If left alone, however, the space station launched in 1973 is expected to fall from orbit between early 1979 and early 1980.

The space administration is concerned about an uncontrolled re-entry during which the vehicle possibly could shower populated areas with large chunks of debris.

Experts say chances of such debris' causing death or damage are remote because the station is orbiting over water 75 percent of the time. But government scientists want to lessen the chance of something's going wrong.

In preparation for next month's attempt to extend the life of the satellite, ground controllers in March began slowly reviving the sleeping giant.

The space station has been largely dormant since the last of three three-man astronaut crews left it in orbit in 1974. Its systems gradually were checked and batteries charged over several weeks, using sun power gathered by the station's solar panels.

These checks showed the Skylab in excellent condition, and Robert A. Froesch, administrator of the space administration, has given the go-ahead for the controlled maneuver in early or mid-June. The maneuver will involve adjusting the satellite's position in space.

If all goes well, radio signals will turn on Skylab's small steering rockets to send the station into a slow end-over-end tumble. This procedure will be aimed at reducing the atmospheric drag tugging the space station toward the earth.

Skylab is flying in a sort of standing-up position relative to the earth. The cylinder-shaped satellite is in a slowly-descending orbit that's bringing it as close as 230 miles to earth. If nothing is done, Skylab's orbit path could drop 80 miles during the next year, bringing it perilously close to falling out of orbit.

What also concerns NASA is Skylab's size. It is 118 feet long and 22 feet in diameter, with the volume of a three-bedroom house. While much of its aluminum skin and other soft metal parts would burn up from atmospheric friction, scientists say they believe the fuel tanks and structural girders of steel and titanium might partially survive and strike earth.

Froesch recently told Congress that "chances of Skylab killing anybody are pretty remote," but that his agency didn't want to take any chances.

However, a House Appropriations subcommittee denied the space administration's request for some $20.5 million to pay for the rocket the shuttle astronauts would attach to Skylab. The panel said it did not think the space station would stay up long enough to accomplish the mission. But it indicated it would reconsider the expenditure if the June maneuver is successful.

When the last astronauts departed the station in 1974, the space administration estimated the satellite would stay up at least until 1983 — plenty of time to mount a shuttle mission.

But higher-than-anticipated sunspot activity on the sun has heated up the earth's atmosphere, increasing the drag on the satellite and pulling it down faster than expected.

The original plan was to send astronauts up with the booster rocket on the fifth shuttle flight in early 1980. This now has been advanced to the third flight, scheduled in October 1979.

Uganda Coffee Draws U.S. Firms' Boycott

By The Associated Press

Major coffee companies said Wednesday they have stopped buying coffee from Uganda to protest policies of that nation's dictator, Idi Amin.

Folger Coffee Co., the largest American importer of coffee from Uganda, began the trend with an announcement Tuesday that it will buy no more beans from the African nation because of Amin.

Folger's announcement came shortly after the International Relations Committee of the House of Representatives approved a resolution condemning Amin and calling on President Carter to "support, and where possible implement, measures such as an embargo on trade with Uganda."

Folger had accounted for about one-fifth of all U.S. imports of coffee from Uganda. During the first nine months of 1977, the latest period for which figures are available, American companies bought 110.4 million pounds of coffee from Uganda valued at $216.4 million.

General Foods, the nation's largest coffee seller, said when asked Wednesday that it hasn't bought any coffee directly from Uganda since December and will cease immediately any indirect purchase through importers and brokers. General Foods sells Maxwell House and several other brands of coffee.

The Nestle Company Inc. of White Plains, N.Y., said Wednesday it discontinued purchases of Ugandan coffee a month ago, adding that Uganda had been a supplier of last resort.

A spokesman for Hills Bros. Coffee Inc., Sharon Swanson, said the company's purchase of coffee from Uganda within the past year was less than 0.5 percent of all coffee bought during the year. She added that Hills Bros. now is purchasing no Ugandan coffee.

The companies' action is not expected to mean much to consumers' pocketbooks. A coffee industry observer who declined to be identified said there probably would be nothing more than a "temporary disruption" of prices in the coffee markets and little or no impact on consumer prices.

He noted that European countries and roasters for the huge "institutional" part of the coffee business — restaurants, office and factory cafeterias and so on — would almost certainly continue buying Ugandan coffee.

Gas Line Hike In Pressure Causes Fires

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Fires broke out in about 25 houses Wednesday, and two were extensively damaged, when pressure in a gas line increased suddenly and fed extra gas into pilot lights and stoves, fire officials said.

The only injuries reported were to two firemen who were taken to a hospital emergency room. The extent of their injuries was not immediately known.

Damage reports were not complete, but police said at least two houses were badly damaged.

The Mansfield Fire Department said there were about 25 fires. A spokesman for Columbia Gas of Ohio, William Chaddock, said in Columbus that he knew of six fires.

Chaddock said pressure in the gas line was reduced to normal shortly after the company learned of the fires.

"The problem's been taken care of. Now we're trying to determine the cause. Something caused a higher-than-normal pressure," he said.

AN EDITORIAL:

A Devil Of A Law To Enforce

ALTHOUGH THE House of Representatives has strengthened legislation governing lobbying activities, the bill's enforcement provisions remain so weak only the Devil himself need shudder in his boots at the prospect of conviction.

The legislation—approved over the objections of the House Judiciary Committee—includes a toothless enforcement mechanism that the Senate will have to strengthen if the law is to be taken seriously.

EXCLUDED FROM all of the bill's provisions is lobbying "conducted solely by volunteers who donate their time." Sounds wonderful, doesn't it?

That well-intentioned exemption was designed to waive the disclosure provisions for small, ill-funded citizen groups. But among those able to take advantage of it is Ralph Nader, technically a volunteer because he draws no salary for his work.

Needless to say, he is one of Washington's most active lobbyists.

Nowhere except in Congress' definition can a Nader be even remotely in the same category with Chamber of Commerce presidents, business men and women and civic workers from over the country who take an occasional trip to Washington to support or oppose legislation that affects them.

EVEN THOSE lobbyists whose activities are covered by the proposed law need not file any reports because the legislation applies to organizations—but not individuals.

Under the House bill, the General Accounting Office rather than the Justice Department has full responsibility for administering the law. But the GAO is an arm of Congress, more susceptible than Justice to pressure exerted by legislators on behalf of their lobbyist friends.

IF JUSTICE is determined to initiate legal prosecution of an alleged violator, it must show that the act in question was "willful," a word the House report equates with "the highest degree of criminal intent."

The office dictionary defines willful as "intentional or deliberate." But the House report insists that for purposes of enforcing the lobbying legislation, it refers to "an act done with a bad purpose, without justifiable excuse, stubbornly, obstinately, perversely and with an evil intent."

Nobody but Satan could be successfully prosecuted under such extremely rigid standards. And, shoot, even he might be able to cop a no contest plea with the right lawyer.

W.L. Stangel: A 'Little Giant'

TEXAS TECH and Lubbock lost one of their true builders and lifelong boosters this week with the death of Dean Emeritus W.L. Stangel.

An original member of the Texas Tech faculty in 1925, he was dean of agriculture during the years that it was struggling for recognition and growth.

By the time Stangel retired in 1958, the school of agriculture had grown in stature on a firm foundation and its continuing success can be traced in large measure to Stangel's building efforts.

DEAN STANGEL, however, was as respected for his activities outside of Texas Tech as for his record therein.

He was named "Top West Texan" by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in 1956, served the State Fair of Texas every year from the 1920s to the 1970s, judged countless livestock shows throughout the Southwest and was a successful businessman. He was chairman emeritus of an insurance company which he helped found in 1946.

A friendly, outgoing man who took an active interest in people as well as in events, Stangel served as a deacon of the First Baptist Church and as president of the Downtown Bible Class. He served in numerous civic capacities.

Although he cherished his childhood nickname of "Runt," Stangel's stature was such that few except his closest friends could bring themselves to call him anything except "Dean"—and many of his close associates felt the same way.

Dean Stangel truly left his mark—and a big one it is—on Texas Tech, on Lubbock and on the Southwest. He has earned a place in West Texas history reserved for those who gave it the most.

Girth Control Ills

AS A SYMBOL of waste and uselessness, Sen. George McGovern's Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs had few peers.

Even the Senate itself finally got around to facing up to that fact and dissolved the committee last Dec. 31. A hitherto unpublished example of the committee's "work" surfaced this week, however.

Entitled "Guidelines for Food Purchasing in the United States," the report advised us consumers to avoid ready-to-eat foods in favor of staples, buy through cooperatives and base decisions on nutrition rather than on what tastes good.

Lawdy, lawdy, how can we ever survive now that we don't have the Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs to "protect" us with information like that?

ART BUCHWALD:

It's Naughty to Tattle About Averell, But...

WASHINGTON—I received a call the other day from the State Department saying they were doing a security check on Ambassador Averell Harriman, who is being considered for a five-week appointment as a member of the UN Conference on Disarmament.

Harriman served seven Presidents in every sensitive position this country has ever dealt with but still had to be cleared by State for this job.

At first I thought it was a joke so I called back to see if they were serious. It turned out they were.

The man in charge was not there so I never had an opportunity to give my opinion as to whether Harriman was a loyal American or not.

THE NEXT DAY I went out of town so I couldn't get back to the security man, but the time lag got me to thinking.

Should I go out on a limb and say that as far as I know Harriman could be trusted, or waffle on the issue in case there was a skeleton in his closet that I didn't know about?

If I vouched for the former governor of New York and they suddenly found a bunch of microfilms in his pumpkin patch, it could hurt me when it was my turn to be considered for an ambassadorship to a UNESCO conference in Paris.

If you look carefully at Harriman's record there is a lot there to make you suspicious.

During World War II he was ambassador to the Soviet Union and knew Josef Stalin personally. That alone should not compromise somebody, but later he also turned up at Yalta with Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin.

THEN THERE WAS the Marshall Plan which Harriman headed up right after the war. It's true he did get Europe back on its feet, but this easily could have been his cover for keeping up his contacts with many socialists who were vying for power at that time.

Money never seemed to be a problem as far as Harriman was concerned. It's true his father left him a small trust fund of over $100 million, but that certainly doesn't explain the lavish dinner parties he threw in Paris.

There had to be money coming from somewhere else. I never found out where.

I lost track of Harriman when he became governor of New York State, though I heard through the grapevine that he was still keeping up his relationships with the Soviet leaders.

THEN IT WAS BACK to Washington where he was involved in working out a deal in Laos and becoming a close advisor to President Kennedy, particularly in his dealings with Khrushchev.

At the time none of us thought anything of it, but when I looked back on it the pieces of the puzzle started to fall into place.

Harriman was for some kind of peaceful coexistence with the Russians, arguing that war was unthinkable, which we now know was the straight Commie line.

As if that weren't enough, Harriman was sent by President Johnson to meet with the North Vietnamese and arrange a peace conference in Paris.

He sold out this country's interests by insisting on a round table instead of a square table, which many people still swear wrecked the talks.

Sec. of State Cy Vance worked with Harriman for the round table on direct orders from people who felt a square table would put the United States at a great advantage.

THE MORE I THOUGHT about it, the more I decided that I couldn't give the ambassador a clean bill of health.

I was eager to get back to the State Department security people and tell them of my suspicions, but by the time I returned from my trip there was a message that Harriman had already been cleared.

Apparently all they asked of his neighbors was if Harriman drank and whether they knew anything about his sex life. He came out okay on both counts, but what do neighbors know?

In 1922, when he was playing polo, there was this girl who lived in Oyster Bay and...

ROWLAND EVANS & ROBERT NOVAK:

EVANS

WASHINGTON—Right-wing challenger Jeffrey Bell awaits his June 6 Republican primary in New Jersey against heavily favored liberal Sen. Clifford Case with diminished hope for 11th hour help from his mentor, Ronald Reagan—a fact with broad implications in 1980 presidential politics.

Bell's political intimates still cannot believe that Reagan will keep his back turned on his former idea man and speechwriter.

But that is precisely what Reagan's most important advisers tell him is essential to consolidate his position within the party as a Republican rather than a conservative ideologue.

Reagan's New Jersey neutrality fits the new policy of non-belligerency toward Republican liberals. Enthusiastic about trying again for President, Reagan covets the role of party unifier in contrast to his unavoidable party-splitting role of 1976.

The danger is that, while appeasing his liberal enemies, Reagan may weaken his conservative base.

REAGAN HAS always been ambivalent about party unity. While preaching the 11th Commandment prohibiting one Republican from speaking ill of another, he challenged and badly wounded an incumbent President.

The ambivalence showed through during a swing through the East last December. On Dec. 15, in a television interview taped with us for RKO-General, he urged Republicans to stop "giving each other political saliva tests...to find out the degree of our Republican purity."

But two days later when asked over WJZ-TV in Baltimore whether the party should avoid challenging a liberal such as Maryland's Sen. Charles Mathias in the 1980 primary, Reagan replied: "Oh, no."

He then hinted that Mathias might well consider switching parties, just as Reagan long ago decided to leave the Democrats. "I'd like to have a talk with him," Reagan said.

MATHIAS TOOK him up on it during a speaking engagement in California a month later. Reagan invited him to his house at Pacific Palisades where on Jan. 18 Reagan, his wife and Mathias had a pleasant visit and political conversation. There was no talk of primary challenges or party switching.

That pleasant chat in California was the first reflection of determination by influential Reagan insiders that his next presidential push should be less abrasive than his last.

This became clear about six weeks later when the executive committee of the Reaganite Citizens for the Republic (CFR) convened in Los Angeles. The question at issue:

Should CFR contribute to 34-year-old ex-Reagan aide Bell's campaign against Case, a 74-year-old symbol of East Coast liberal Republicanism?

Reagan advisers Lyn Nofziger, who personally contributed $50 to Bell, and John Sears argued that both CFR and Reagan should back Bell (who gained notoriety in 1975 as author of the ill-fated Reagan scheme to cut domestic federal spending by $90 billion).

BUT SEN. PAUL Laxalt, Reagan's 1976 campaign chairman, argued that CFR had been set up on the premise that it would not go "head-hunting" against incumbent Republicans.

The prestigious Laxalt easily carried the day, but deeper considerations were at work.

Reagan aides Mike Deaver and Pete Hannaford have long wanted to broaden his appeal within the party (and, for that reason, were not enthusiastic about his campaign against the Panama Canal treaties).

Despite criticism of Reagan's neutrality by the right-wing weekly "Human Events," his staff says only "about five" critical letters have been received. But that is no true measurement.

Grumbling that Reagan, at age 67, is getting out of political touch has been heard among conservatives in the House Republican cloakroom.

How, they ask, can Reagan preach Republican unity after his bold assault against President Ford?

WHAT'S MORE, they contend Bell is no fringe candidate but has generated support from such respectable conservatives as ex-Sen. James Buckley, ex-Treasury Sec. William Simon and Reps. Robert Bauman (Maryland), John Ashbrook (Ohio) and Jack Kemp (New York).

Kemp is another former Reagan aide hungrily eyeing a Senate seat now held by a liberal Republican (Sen. Jacob Javits, whose present term ends in 1980).

Closely allied with Bell in a national tax-reduction movement endorsed by Reagan, Kemp went to Milburn, N.J., May 7 to address a Bell fundraiser. While there, Kemp discussed with Bell his intention of telephoning Reagan for a final try to win his endorsement.

To turn down Jack Kemp's last eloquent plea on behalf of Jeff Bell will tax Reagan's toughness. Yet, key advisers tell him he must do so to cool off Republican passions two years hence.

Whether Reagan listens to his head or his heart in 1978 may preview the campaign he can wage in 1980.

ANDREW TULLY:

For Men Only...

WASHINGTON—I was busy trying to hold off the Visigoths when this pamphlet arrived from an outfit in (where else?) Los Angeles. It informed me in glowing terms that earrings for men shortly would become what it called "the in-est of all in styles."

Several males were quoted as warning me that I would be nobody, but nobody, if I left my ears undecorated. The sales pitch declared that wearing earrings—one or two at an outing—"is the latest way to show your independence," and declared unequivocally that "The man is the peacock and the rooster; he should be beautifully plumed."

I checked with my friend Osnos, who spies on style trends, and he reported he had seen a number of male earring wearers in Georgetown.

THAT WAS ENOUGH for me. I can take a hint as well as the next beautiful male. Soon as I wriggle out of this sexy negligee, I'm off to my friendly neighborhood loan shark for a bag of money and then, whoops, to the jeweler's den for a pair of those ruby jobs.

Man and boy, I've worn mostly hair on my ears until now, but I bought a pair of yellow bristles last summer and I suspect I can be had by the haute couture mob.

Lemme look at that gold butterfly ear art, Dearie, and while we're at it what've you got in diamond necklaces?

Don't buck the tide, says I. A lot of men already look like well-spashed palettes and smell variously like peat bogs, vanilla extract, musk oxen, oregano, and new saddles. Obviously, it is our manifest destiny to smell pretty as well as clean.

BESIDES, everything else has failed in my search for independence, and if earrings will bestow equality with the female sex, this thinking male is tempted to go whole hog lest the jewel in the lob go unnoticed in certain wifely quarters. The time seems to have come for an inventory of my wardrobe and makeup kit.

I had grown rather fond of my solid-color pajamas, but if Mode says so I will trade them in for a pink, diaphanous nightie.

I find myself wondering how I'd look in black lace drawers with a fleur de lis embroidered on each thigh.

My seersucker suit is still serviceable, but if it's gone out of style I suppose I can be content with a crimson cocktail outfit by Dior or Henrietta Shapiro-Rappaport.

ADMITTEDLY, WHAT I use for a face poses problems on account it features a nose that has been thrice broken, lived-in lines, and permanent five-o'clock shadow.

But the corner cosmetician assures me there's a new pancake makeup that converts an aging mug into the downy countenance of a teenage guitar addict. Plastic surgeons these days offer a wide choice of noses and fixed smiles.

Lipstick is no problem. It's Nile green for me, and kindly don't smooch too hard. Mama. Also, yellow eye shade for day and purple for night, plus natural dark brown fingernails around the clock. For perfume, what else but Raging Passion?

Draw my bubble bath while I'm getting my hair marcelled. Robert. Today I'm all autonomous ME.

VIRGINIA PAYETTE:

No Frills To Thrill

SOMEBODY, LOOKS like, was listening when the President chided us for expecting the family down the block to do the "sacrificing" it will take to bring inflation down.

Here and there, folks are beginning to grit their teeth and find out how it feels to do without.

General Electric says it will if Carter will. That it's going all out to cut costs throughout its plants so it won't have to up the price of refrigerators, coffeemakers, toasters, etc.

That's on top of the fact that in the past two years prices for all electrical appliances have increased only half as fast as the consumer price index, or 3.2 percent against 6.1 percent.

STILL G.E. thinks it can beat that, and it intends to "exercise maximum ingenuity" to hold costs, and that means prices, down. But it doesn't want to have to go it alone.

It says Carter will have to be even more ingenious to keep out of double-digit territory.

And G.E. hopes he will do it fast, with "boldness and leadership." Like slashing the costs of government and ramming through a "responsible fiscal and monetary policy."

FOOD PRICES ARE shooting up so fast it takes your breath away. And sometimes even your appetite. Last year alone, groceries went up 6.2 percent, and that was before they started going really crazy.

But folks are beginning to do something about that, too. It's called "no-frills" food shopping and it's catching on fast enough to set the fancier supermarkets gnawing on their shopping carts.

It started last year in the Midwest when a couple of grocery stores began selling dry and canned goods with "generic" labels like "peanut butter," "mayonnaise," "spaghetti," etc. No brand names, no pretty labels, no special-of-the-day. Just rock-bottom prices.

WELL, YOU NEVER saw anything like it. It set housewives off on a back-to-basics binge that caught the big supermarket chains with their cash registers down.

Goggle-eyed, they watched shoppers stream into the no-frills stores, paper bags in one hand and a fistful of cash in the other. That's one way the managers keep prices low: no boxes or bags, no charge accounts or checks, and nobody to tote your groceries out to your car.

The cans and boxes aren't displayed on shelves, either. They're put out in cut-off boxes, which housewives have to paw through. They can squeeze the toilet tissue all they like, but they can't smell it. Generic T.P. isn't perfumed. Cheaper that way.

NO FRILLS IS no thrill to some housewives, who say they're leary of the quality of unheard-of brands. And some are turned off by the "depressing warehouse atmosphere."

But enough are going for it to force the bigger food chains to set up no-frill areas in some of their own supermarkets. And analysts say it won't be long before at least 10 percent of the nation's $140-billion-a-year food bill could be spent on the no-frill generic items.

It's an idea Jimmy Carter could try out in plenty of places around Washington.

FOR OPENERS, how about ordering the big shots to work in generic offices? There's no law that says taxpayers have to spring for an expensive redecorating job every time a new bureaucratic boss takes over. But we do.

We could cut down on the millions we spend sending Congressmen on junkets, too. If any one of them ever learned anything valuable "studying" conditions in Paris, Rome, Athens or Rio, we have yet to see any evidence of it. If they're so curious, let 'em buy their own generic jet ticket.

That goes for President Carter as well. All this expensive gallivanting around the world with a wagon train of assistants may bring good will, but it hasn't solved any crises or slowed down any dictatorial tyrants. Not so's you could notice, anyway.

And there's nothing "generic" about the cost of flying Air Force One.

AS FOR GOVERNMENT spending, let's give it the generic route for a while. Maybe our elected leaders can manage to stumble along without their lavishly equipped gymnasiums and swimming pools and tax-subsidized lunches and haircuts and free stamps and sleek limousines.

At least for the duration.

And it's a cinch the rest of us can do with a little less check-cashing in every branch of the government. And a lot less carry-out service on our tax dollars.

BRITAIN'S MUSTARD king once observed: "My fortune came not from the mustard people eat, but from the amount they leave on their plates." Interesting notion. How many other commodities can you think of which likewise generate more profit from waste than from use?

Medical researchers now say that perspiration doesn't get rid of bodily poisons, contrary to longheld belief. Perspiration, they say, is nothing but sterile water with some dissolved salts in it.

Providence, R.I., is credited by some as the first place in the world where all human beings were welcomed regardless of race, color or creed.

Average age at which U.S. military officers retire is 43. Enlisted personnel, age 39.

Q. "JUST HOW common is that thing called jealousy?"

A. Mightily common, studies show. More than 96 percent of a sizable sampling told surveyors recently that they'd experienced jealousy within the last six months.

Q. "How much money did Henry Winkler get in the early days of the 'Happy Days' show? How much now?"

A. Then, about $750 per episode. Now, an estimated $80,000 per episode plus a cut of the profit.

Q. "Do most women get better looking after they've married?"

A. Most women think so, surveys show.

Drinking Habits Persist, But Problem Not Hereditary

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The results of a survey of more than 1,000 American parents and adolescents reveal the drinking habits of American ethnics. Unlike drugs like marijuana or heroin, which garner much publicity, alcohol usage has seldom been the focus of intense study. Now a study sponsored by the National Institute for Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism, carried out by the University of Chicago's National Opinion Research Center, thoroughly details the drinking patterns of American ethnic groups of Western European origin who reside in four major American cities — Chicago, New York, Boston and Minneapolis. The authors of the series are with the University of Chicago's National Opinion Research Center.)

(c) 1978 Universal Press

Ethnic drinking habits show little sign of changing. Differences among various ethnic groups in both the amount of liquor consumed and in the likelihood of having serious drinking problems seem to persist. But drinking problems are not hereditary.

In a study conducted by the National Opinion Research Center (NORC) under a grant from the National Institute for Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism (NIAAA) it was confirmed that Irish, Italian and Swedish Americans are heavy drinkers while Jewish Americans are light drinkers.

The Irish and the Swedes are likely to have serious drinking problems, the Italians and the Jews are much less likely to have such problems (though Italian women, adults and teen-agers, have somewhat higher scores on the drinking problem scales than do Irish women.)

These patterns show relatively little change among grandparents, parent

Fourth In A Series

and adolescent children. Furthermore, the factors that influence problem drinking seem to be almost exactly the same for adults and teen-agers within the various ethnic groups. Mother's drinking rather than father's seems to incline both an adult man and an adolescent boy to serious drinking problems in all four groups. Lack of family affection is especially important for Jewish men and teen-age boys in leading to problem drinking. A drinking problem in one's family and a heavy drinking environment seem to lead to heavy drinking problems for both Italian men and boys. An authoritarian family and low feelings of personal self-confidence seem to create drinking problems for both Irish men and boys. Thus in each generation differences in drinking among the various ethnic groups persist in the amount of liquor consumed, the likelihood of having a drinking problem, and even in the factors which are most likely to cause drinking problems.

However, in none of the groups is there any need to advance a biological or genetic explanation for different drinking habits. Virtually all the differences can be accounted for by environmental influences, such as parents, friends, spouse, or by indirect influences, such as the absence of affection or the presence of authoritarianism or, as in the case of the Irish, low levels of personal self-confidence.

Only among Italians do family drinking problems seem to be transmitted from parents to children and then mostly through the fact that such problems seem to lead Italian men into heavy drinking environments. Problem drinking, then, does NOT seem to be hereditary in a biological sense. The difference in the drinking subcultures can be accounted for almost entirely by learned drinking habits, Jewish Orthodox and Conservative religious abhorrence of too much drink and parent-child relationships of affection and authority.

If a parent is concerned about whether problem drinking will develop in his or her adolescent children, the best advice that could be given on the basis of the NORC/NIAAA survey is:

- a) Go easy on drinking yourself, particularly if you are the mother.
 - b) Demonstrate a lot of sincere and honest affection for your child.
 - c) Democratize the decision-making in your family, especially if you're Irish.
 - d) Control your own problem drinking, especially if you're Italian.
 - e) No matter what your ethnic groups, make clear to your adolescents that you disapprove strongly of heavy drinking. (But, of course, within the context of affection and support described previously.)
- And while you're doing those things, forget about genetic explanations for problem drinking.

TELLA WALKER

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — An Eritrean rebel commander appealed Wednesday for international intervention to halt a purported new Ethiopian offensive in Eritrea Province and stop what he called the government's "genocide campaign" against the Eritrean people.

There has been no confirmation that the Soviet and Cuban-supported Marxist military government in Addis Ababa has launched a new offensive, but its chief, Lt. Col. Mengistu Haile Mariam was quoted in a speech Monday as saying an attack was imminent.

Ahmed Nasser, leader of the Eritrean Liberation Front, largest of the rebel armies, addressed his appeal to all "peace-loving nations," in a statement published by the Damascus-based Eritrean News Agency. He asked them to "come to Eritrea's aid against the Ethiopian offensive and Ethiopia's genocide campaign."

The rebels have seized most of Ethiopia's northernmost province — the East African nation's only route to the sea — during their 16-year fight for independence from the Addis Ababa government.

The agency said Ethiopian warplanes were attacking guerrilla-held towns and villages from the Red Sea coast to the highlands around the provincial capital of Asmara.

"Relentless air raids caused heavy property damage and enormous civilian casualties," the communique said. "The enemy clearly aims at panicking civilian inhabitants into fleeing their villages and towns to the mountains."

Another statement said the heaviest ground fighting since the outbreak of the rebellion in 1962 was raging on two fronts, west and north of Asmara. The news agency said rebels repulsed repeated attempts to break their six-month siege of Asmara and denied what it said were "reports from abroad that the Ethiopians managed to punch through the siege."

The ELF said its forces were holding fast on the coastal front and in the highlands around Asmara in what it called the third straight day of savage combat.

The news agency said rebels were holding off an advance by tank-led Ethiopian troops along a 290-mile-long front in the Dancalia region, from the northern port of Massawa to the southern port of Asseb, overlooking the entrance to the Red Sea.

A rebel communique said Mengistu's government has reinforced the 40,000-man army that allegedly mounted a pincer offensive Monday aimed at crushing the Eritrean rebellion. Earlier guerrilla reports said the attack got under way Saturday.

The Beirut, Lebanon, offices of the two other Eritrean guerrilla groups have made no statements about the reported Ethiopian offensive.

A spokesman for one of the groups, the Eritrean Popular Liberation Front, denied in Khartoum, Sudan, on Wednesday that the counteroffensive had started.

He said the reports were "lies intended to break the morale of our friends and supporters abroad."

The Yugoslav news agency Tanjug reported from Addis Ababa that Mengistu had indicated in a speech Monday that an attack was imminent.

Tanjug quoted him as saying, "the Red Campaign in the east is to be transferred into a well-coordinated Red Campaign in the north against secessionist elements."

The eastern campaign was the successful drive earlier this year by Ethiopian forces, backed by Cuban troops and Soviet advisers, that crushed a secessionist rebellion by Somalis in the Ogaden desert region of Eastern Ethiopia.

Retirement Fete Set For Teacher

ABERNATHY (Special) — A retirement reception for Tella Walker, who has taught social studies for the last 27 years at Abernathy Junior High, is slated from 2:30 to 4 p.m. Sunday in fellowship hall of the First United Methodist Church here.

In the spring of 1977, Walker's students wrote a letter to their state representative praising Walker's life and teaching. As a result, the state legislature passed a resolution commending Walker for his positive influence on the lives of Abernathy's young people.

The reception is open to the public.

Maximum Term Sought For Soviet Dissident

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet prosecutor Wednesday demanded the maximum term of seven years in a labor camp and five years internal exile for Soviet dissident Yuri Orlov in summations at Orlov's trial on charges of "anti-Soviet agitation and propaganda," his wife said.

The Moscow court was expected to return a verdict today, after three days of proceedings.

Irina Orlov told reporters her husband made his own defense summation but was constantly interrupted by Judge Valentina G. Lubentsova and by laughing spectators who packed the courtroom.

Orlov's son, Alexander, 23, said spectators shouted "Spy" and "Traitor" as his father gave his summation.

Western correspondents and Orlov's dissident supporters have been barred from the courthouse, which is guarded by more than a dozen uniformed and plainclothes policemen.

Mrs. Orlov said she was stripped and searched on her way out of the courthouse at the end of the day by three plainclothes security men and two women.

Fiery George Wallace Closes Political Career

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Lacking the drive that thrust him into the national spotlight as a lectern-thumping firebrand, Gov. George C. Wallace is calling it quits after 32 years of political life.

Almost 15 years after he burst onto the national scene as an arch segregationist with his "stand in the schoolhouse door" at the University of Alabama, Wallace announced Tuesday night that he is withdrawing as a candidate for the U.S. Senate. By law, he is unable to run for a third straight term as governor.

At a news conference Wednesday afternoon, Wallace, looking relaxed and fit with a newly acquired tan, said his decision to withdraw from the Senate campaign is final. But he shed little light on the reasons behind the action.

Although he declined to acknowledge in specific terms that he is retiring from politics altogether, he told reporters, "I don't intend to be involved in any campaign at all."

"I just decided I didn't want to run," Wallace said in response to repeated questions from reporters crowded into his Capitol office.

Wallace discounted speculation that his health may have been a factor in the decision, saying, "my health is in good shape. I'm all right."

In a joking use of campaign rhetoric from earlier days, Wallace added, "maybe thinking about being around that many 'pointy-heads' at one time" had something to do with his decision not to go to Washington. "I don't know whether I could take it," he said with a grin.

Wallace said he is relieved at not having to face another campaign, but still regrets not being in a race "I could have won."

Press aide Billy Joe Camp said the 58-year-old governor, newly divorced and confined to a wheelchair with paralyzed legs, will probably return to "private life" in Montgomery after leaving office next January.

Why did Wallace decide to abandon almost the only life he has ever known? "He just didn't want to run," said Camp.

He's not "the George Wallace of old," said the governor's ex-wife, Cornelia, whose exit from the governor's mansion last September led to a divorce settlement four months later.

Others said that Wallace, who enjoys being surrounded by political cronies, was reluctant to abandon his home turf for life among strangers in the nation's capital.

All these factors, and others, were probably in Wallace's mind as he closed the door on a political career that began with his election to the Alabama House in 1946.

Officials Trying To Save Plane

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Salvage experts hope to lift a swamped National Airlines jet out of Escambia Bay on Wednesday, then begin the laborious task of sifting through 100 suitcases and 16,000 pieces of soggy mail, officials say.

The Boeing 727 ditched in the bay May 8, and three of the 58 persons on board drowned.

Cause of the accident has not been determined.

Offshore, Inc., a salvage firm based in Mobile, Ala., began preparations Monday to hoist the 70-ton airplane out of the 12-foot bay waters.

Bob McKenzie, a postal inspector, said the thousands of pieces of mail will be carefully dried, then the Postal Service will "deliver whatever is deliverable."

Officials said luggage will be dried and returned to the National passengers.

Lee Statler, a spokesman for the salvage firm, said a powerful stream of water will be forced beneath the plane to free its landing gear from the mud, then the 727 will be lifted with nylon ropes.

He said a derrick barge and two other vessels will be used to retrieve the plane.

The jetliner now is owned by American Jet Industries of Van Nuys, Calif., which bought it from an insurance firm. No price has been disclosed.

Once the plane is out of the water, it probably will be ferried to Pensacola Naval Air Station or Brookley Air Field in Mobile, officials said.

Elected three times as governor of Alabama, Wallace seemed to enjoy most his four whirlwind campaigns for president, as he taunted the establishment and its "pointy-headed" intellectuals and bureaucrats.

From Maine to California, he plumed the fears and expectations of the nation's middle-class, the "silent majority," generating a wave of support that was at its peak on May 15, 1972, when he was cut down in an assassination attempt at a shopping center in Laurel, Md.

"I guess you could say that Arthur Bremer really messed me up politically with that gun," said Wallace later, referring to his convicted assailant.

Wallace heeded the siren "roar of the crowd" one more time, running for president in 1976. But after a defeat at the hands of fellow Southerner Jimmy Carter in the early primaries, Wallace threw in the towel to support the former Georgia governor.

To reporters, Wallace, troubled by worsening hearing problems, has seemed increasingly disinterested in state matters in recent months, railing against the Legislature while it was in session earlier in the year but holding few press conferences.

As governor, Wallace has spent much of his time at the governor's mansion, chomping on an ever-present cigar as he transacts business by telephone. Much of the detail-work is left to aides.

It is possible that this preference for the broad sweep of politics over day-to-day business contributed to his decision to abandon his bid for a federal office loaded with chores.

The state of Wallace's health remains an unknown factor in his decision. Camp said that, in his opinion, the paralysis and hearing difficulties were "not a factor."

However, he added, "I can't say that if he had not been shot he would have done the same thing."

Camp said Wallace appeared "relieved and elated" after making the announcement, as well as gratified by the warm response from the audience of Alabama city officials.

As for the future, Camp said Wallace had received "several offers" of employment prior to the announcement and would probably receive several more.

But he said the governor is not interested in a proposal to endow a chair for him at an Alabama university.

Deputies Probe Girl's Report Of Rape Attempt

A 13-year-old Lubbock girl escaped an apparent rape attempt late Tuesday night by climbing out a bathroom window and running to a house about a mile away to phone for help.

The girl told Lubbock County Sheriff's deputies that two boys who had been harassing her for several months tried to climb into her room through a window after she retired Tuesday night.

After she fled to the neighboring house, she and the occupant drove into Lubbock and called the sheriff's office.

Officers have the names of the two juvenile suspects.

Apparently hungry burglars broke into a restaurant at 1208 50th St. and took $75 worth of frozen food from the establishment. The burglars gained entry to the restaurant by climbing pipes at the back of the building and forcing open a metal door to the attic.

Burglars also took about $300 in tools from Paul Duran Jr.'s van parked in front of his 1807 E. Auburn St. home. Investigating officers could find no signs of forced entry, but the vehicle's doors, which Duran told police he had locked Tuesday night, were standing open Wednesday morning when Duran went out to the van.

Several Lubbock women reported the theft of purses and contents to police Wednesday.

Mrs. W.L. Strange told police that while she was working at a church at 4316 34th St. someone took her billfold, which contained $44 in cash, several credit cards and her driver's license and social security cards.

While Cindy Lee Brown was talking to some television delivery men outside her 2009 Main St. apartment, someone entered and took her purse containing about $60 in cash.

Lynn Ann DeViti told officers that while she was at work at Texas Instruments at North University Avenue and Loop 289, someone opened her locker and took her purse containing $650.

Thieves took a $135 plant from the porch of Earlene Garland's 2108 Topeka Ave. home. Mrs. Garland told officers the plant and planter were too large to fit in a car and that she had ordered the plant from a specialty shop in Dallas.

Thieves also made off with an air-conditioning unit from the backyard of Jessie Benitez's home at 1318 28th St. Benitez said the unit cost about $250.

Charles Taylor, security chief at Methodist Hospital, told police that someone took a nail gun and its container from the fifth floor of the hospital. He said the gun cost about $200.

Miscreants also were busy early in the week.

Tom R. Baxter of 2305 46th St. reported the rear window of his car was broken out by a baseball-size rock. The cost of replacing the glass would be $125, he said.

Gail Littleton of 4015 32nd St. also reported the rear window of her vehicle broken and that the cost of replacement would be about $100. Police reports indicate the damage was caused by a bottle.

A house burglary worth almost $5,000 to the victim was among the latest barrage of break-ins reported to Lubbock police.

Whoever got into Jesse Ritter's 5317 25th St. residence last weekend reportedly hauled off a stereo, television, some jewelry and several firearms. The total reported loss of $4,727.55 came after entry was made through a window.

According to Daniel Franchino of 1908 E. 5th St., burglars broke through a door at his home Tuesday and made off with a television set and stereo, together valued at $800.

Edward Deo of 1711 E. 26th St. told officers his car was stolen last week and before it was recovered the next day, a rifle, shotgun and assorted tools were stolen from the vehicle. The loss, according to the complainant, was $450.

Sherry Stone of 1629 16th St., No. 368, said her television and tape deck, together valued at $140, were taken from her apartment Tuesday after someone broke through a door.

Darwin Hilliard of 7911 Lynnhaven Drive belatedly reported a toolbox containing $510 worth of assorted tools was stolen from his garage April 30, and Randy Prcin of 6104 Louisville Drive said his wallet, containing $166 cash, was stolen Saturday or Sunday.

Obituaries

Cecil L. Bennett

HOUSTON (Special) — Services were held Monday for Cecil L. Bennett, 78, of Lubbock at Brookside Memorial Funeral Home.

Bennett lived at 4925 Brownfield Highway and was a resident of Lubbock for the past two years.

He died Friday at 3 p.m. at the North-east Medical Center in Humble.

Bennett, nicknamed "Red" by his friends, was a retired boiler maker. He was a Catholic.

He is survived by his ex-wife, Hester Lee; and a son, Cheryl, of Humble.

Two 1976 Killings Linked In Vasquez Murder Trial

Two 1976 killings were linked in testimony Wednesday, as the murder trial of Felix Vasquez Jr. got underway in Judge Denizil Bevers' 72nd District Court.

Vasquez is accused of gunning down Elijio Gonzales on the parking lot of an East Lubbock club.

Gonzales was killed about two weeks after the defendant's brother, Martin Vasquez, 20, was knifed to death. Martin Vasquez reportedly was stabbed 16 times in the face, chest and back.

Gonzales, 24, was shot to death Nov. 20, 1976, at the club lot at Quirt Avenue and E. 19th St., and police theorized at the time the two killings were related.

That theory was confirmed by testimony Wednesday from another of the defendant's brothers, Manuel Vasquez.

The witness, called by the state, testified he and his brother Felix, 27, who lived at 2612 29th St. at the time of the incident, had gone to the club in the early morning hours of Nov. 20 to try to get some information concerning the killing of Martin Vasquez.

Manuel Vasquez said he figured Gonzales "had information on who murdered my brother." He explained that it had been his idea to try to talk to Gonzales and indicated he and Felix Vasquez were also looking for other persons in their quest for information.

Manuel Vasquez said that as he and the defendant pulled into the parking lot they spotted Gonzales and his wife in their car.

The witness said Gonzales got out of the car.

"Elijio looked like he grabbed something from under the car seat and put it in his pocket and turned around," Manuel Vasquez stated.

He said he and his brother also got out of their car. "I thought he (Gonzales) had a weapon or something, so I just

Third Charge In Eight Days, $25,000 Bond Hit City Man

A Lubbock man Wednesday was charged with an offense for the third time in eight days after investigators said they had recovered more than $7,000 in stolen property.

Also Wednesday, a man who was placed on probation last week after pleading guilty to burglary of a habitation was charged with burglary of a vehicle.

The Criminal District Attorney's office recommended a bond of $25,000 for Martin Daniel Lunde, 24, of 1508 32nd St., charged Wednesday with burglary.

Lunde had been charged Monday with burglary of a habitation. He was charged May 10 with forgery.

The DA's office had recommended a $1,000 bond on the forgery case and a bond of $5,000 on the burglary of a habitation charge.

The latest charge against Lunde accus-

A number of items were taken from a storage house and from a well house, reports said.

Sheriff's deputies said they received information indicating that some property from the burglary might be in a garage at Lunde's residence.

Investigators reported that property valued at $7,558 was recovered.

Also charged with burglary in connection with the case was Jay Edward Upton, 17.

A $10,000 bond was recommended for Kevin Scott Farmer, 17, charged Wednesday with burglary of a vehicle. Farmer is accused of illegally entering a vehicle parked in an apartment lot at 1710 Main St. about 1 a.m. Wednesday.

Farmer was assessed an eight-year probation sentence by 72nd Dist. Judge Denizil Bevers May 9 after pleading guilty to the burglary of a habitation charge.

As part of that sentence, the defendant was also ordered to pay $2,422 in restitution.

Also as part of last week's plea bargaining arrangement, theft and burglary cases were ordered dismissed.

In another case, Manuel Garcia, 22, of Dallas, has been charged with unauthorized use of a vehicle.

Mrs. Lopez

Guadalupe Lopez, 54, became Lubbock's 13th traffic fatality of the year early Wednesday when she was struck by a car in the 800 block of Idalou Road.

Mrs. Lopez, of 816 Idalou Road, was pronounced dead at 12:47 a.m. at the scene by Justice of the Peace Wayne LeCroy. LeCroy ruled accidental death in the incident.

Police were flagged down shortly after midnight by a man who said he had just hit a pedestrian crossing the street. When officers turned on a spotlight they saw the woman lying on the west side of Idalou Road.

The driver, Sanko Nash III of 3513 Ute St., said he did not see the woman, who was wearing dark clothing, as she crossed the thoroughfare.

Services for Mrs. Lopez will be at 2 p.m. Friday at South Plains Funeral Home Chapel with Benigna Salas officiating.

Burial will follow in Peaceful Gardens Memorial Park.

The homemaker had lived in Lubbock 35 years, moving here from Temple.

Survivors include two sons, Julian Acosta of Lubbock and Raymond Aguilar of Austin; a sister, Magarita Carrizlas of Lubbock; and four grandchildren.

Meat Guidelines

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon is saving more than $9 million a year on meat purchases by following the guidelines laid down by a Senate panel, Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., said recently.

Meat purchased under the simplified specifications, roughly the same as those used by restaurants, appears to be well received by the servicemen and servicewomen who dine in the Pentagon's mess halls, the Defense Department told Chiles in its initial report on the new buying practices.

Canvass Of Votes Finds Little Change

An official canvass of votes cast in the May 6 primary by Democratic and Republican party officials showed slight changes in vote totals in the 28th District senatorial race and the 19th District congressional race, but none were significant enough to change the outcomes.

The vote count gave Democratic congressional nominee Kent Hance 46,505 or 64.33 percent of the vote. His challenger, Morris Sheats, received 25,791 or 35.67 percent.

In the Republican congressional race George Bush received 6,296 or 47.52 percent; Jim Reese garnered 5,498 or 41.5; and Joe Hickox got 1,455 or 10.98 percent.

Bush and Reese will meet in a runoff on June 3.

The vote gap between the two runoff opponents in the state senate race was narrowed somewhat with the canvass.

The vote count gave Don Workman 17,126 or 31.03 percent and gave E.L. Short 10,997 or 19.92 percent. Workman and Short led a five-man field of contenders on May 6.

Ill Madame Chiang New York Resident

LATTINGTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Madame Chiang Kai-shek, widow of the founding president of Taiwan, is very ill and living a secluded life on a sprawling estate in this Long Island community.

Requests to interview Madame Chiang, whose stepson Chiang Ching-kuo will be inaugurated as Taiwan's second president on Saturday, were turned down.

"Madame is not seeing anyone now," said James Shen, a spokesman for the Nationalist Chinese regime on Taiwan. "She is recuperating and receiving medical attention."

Madame Chiang's presence here has been a closely guarded secret. But interviews with neighbors and others in the community paint a picture of a very ill, elderly woman whose only trips away from the 36-acre estate are to visit doctors. One area resident said she was an invalid, but this could not be confirmed.

State Department sources said security was a concern for the woman whose age is between 78 and 80, according to varying reports of her birthdate. County police say they give the estate extra protection and State Department sources said FBI agents accompany Madame Chiang to and from visits to doctors.

A reporter visiting the estate, which is about 35 miles east of New York City, was denied entrance to the mansion. A man answering the door said Madame Chiang, who shared her late husband's dream of overthrowing the governing Communists on the Chinese mainland, had never been there.

However, neighbors said she had been living in the estate for about 18 months, others in the community have had contact with her and Lt. James Casey of the Nassau County police said, "We are notified by the State Department when she is there, and we give it (estate) extra protection, just because she is who she is."

"Charles Buesing, one of Madame Chiang's neighbors, said, "She's almost living the life of a recluse now... Last year, we saw her walking down her driveway. She was walking very slowly, but looked fine. She was surrounded by three Chinese fellows."

"Madame has a black terrier that comes over to visit us once in awhile," said Buesing's wife, Ann. "All the neighbors have named her Geisha."

Madame Chiang is known to suffer a variety of ailments and was reportedly operated on twice in 1976 in New York for cancer. Following those operations, she was re-elected to the 11-member Presidium of Taiwan, the group which supervises policy for the island nation her husband founded when he fled mainland China in 1949.

That same year, Madame Chiang wrote the members of the Yuan, her country's lawmaking body, that "as soon as my health condition permits me to travel, I shall return home to work for the big plan of recovering mainland China."

But her health has not permitted such a trip.

Scholarship Fund Established

A scholarship fund in the name of Howard Price, who is retiring after 41 years as a teacher and school administrator, has been established by the Lubbock City Council of Parents and Teachers.

The council also named the six local high school graduating seniors who will receive $200 scholarships from the city-wide Parent-Teacher Associations.

The students are Tim Merriwether of Dunbar, Lori Beyer of Lubbock Christian, Valencia Dixon of Estacado, Gloria Gonzales of Lubbock High, Nelta Woodrd of Coronado and Tamara Hicks of Monterey.

The Italian double-bass player Domenico Dragonetti led the double-basses in the Beethoven Festival at Bonn in 1845 at the age of 82.

The PTA council has two funds for scholarships — an available fund and a permanent fund. The available fund, raised primarily through PTA-sponsored drama programs, is used immediately for scholarships. The recently established permanent fund, to be raised through donations and other sources, eventually will generate interest monies that will go into the available fund.

The permanent fund has a goal of $5,000. Currently, there is less than $1,000 in the account.

The PTA council has created a Howard Price Fund that will become a part of the Permanent fund. So far, 22 persons have donated a total of $712 to the Howard Price Fund.

"Because of his dedication to the teaching profession, we feel that as he retires, there is nothing more fitting than to honor Howard Price with gifts that would help assure that we continue to have dedicated teachers like Howard Price," Mary Vines, who chairs the PTA scholarship board of trustees, said.

Donations to the fund may be sent to board treasurer Mrs. Thomas Lewis, 3216 20th St.

The PTA scholarships go to students who plan to enroll at Texas Tech University or Lubbock Christian College and pursue a teaching career.

Price has been a teacher and principal at several schools here. He now serves as director of secondary education.

Woman's Image Sought For Small Dollar Coin

WASHINGTON (AP) — Before Congress has had much time to think about a new, more convenient dollar coin, it finds itself refereeing a warm-up debate with women's rights overtones.

The question on Capitol Hill is this: If the new coin is authorized, should it bear the image of a mythological Miss Liberty or the profile of a real person, women's suffrage pioneer Susan B. Anthony?

This was a paramount question as the House Banking's subcommittee on historic preservation and coinage opened hearings Wednesday on the proposed coin. It would replace the silver dollar and would be half-way in size between a quarter and half-dollar.

Initial testimony was overwhelmingly in favor of the notion of issuing a new dollar coin to reduce dependence on the dollar bill, to expand the merchandising potential of vending machines and, if accepted by the public, to cut the government's currency costs.

But the Liberty-Anthony rivalry stayed close to the fore.

The Treasury came to the hearing touting its design proposal: Liberty on one side, an eagle on the other.

Noting that there are many distinguished Americans of both sexes who could be considered candidates for commemoration, Stella B. Hackel, director of the U.S. Mint, told the subcommittee:

"In our view, expanding the field of design selection beyond historical abstracts and U.S. presidents would set an unwise course in coin design, and invite a controversial debate which would tend to damage the overall success of the proposal."

But the caucus of women House members already has endorsed an Anthony design. Rep. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, has introduced legislation providing for the Anthony design, and a companion bill has been introduced in the House by Rep. Mary Rose Oaker, D-Ohio, a member of the House Banking Committee.

Spokesmen for coin collectors and the coin collecting industry suggested the differences might be resolved by resuming the former practice of minting special commemorative coins from time to time.

Commemorative coins were dropped after a flood of special issues in the 1930s.

The Treasury proposal for the new dollar includes a provision for continuing to mint a part-silver version of the big coin with the profile of the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower. But it would be minted only as a piece for collectors, and would not be for general circulation.

Congress has the last say on the design of the new dollar coin.

Meanwhile, the subcommittee heard general endorsement of a dollar coin smaller and lighter than the Eisenhower dollar, which has practically no circulation. The panel was cautioned, however, that the public would have to be educated to use the new dollar coin in worthwhile quantities.

Philip E. Coldwell, a member of the Federal Reserve's board of governors, said his agency, which is responsible for retiring and replacing worn paper currency, could save more than $30 million a year if a dollar coin were widely used.

But, recalling the unpopularity of the $2 bill recently introduced, Coldwell said that "circulation of the proposed new coin is not automatically ensured."

Financial institutions, retailers and coin machine operators would have to pitch in to support the new coin, he said. Coldwell said a coin could be expected to last 15 years or more, while the average dollar bill must be replaced every 18 months.

He said replacing dollar bills cost the Federal Reserve $28 million in 1977. If even-half the bills were replaced by coins, Coldwell added, there would be an $11 million annual saving. G. Richard Schreiber, president of the National Automatic Merchandising Association, testified that Americans pushed nearly 218 million coins through vending machine slots every 24 hours during 1976.

Schreiber took issue with suggestions that the prices of machine-vended products would go up if a more valuable coin were available.

"Vending machines compete in the marketplace ...," he said. "Unless our products are offered at prices which our potential customers perceive to be fair and reasonable, we would shortly find ourselves out of business."

New Meat Guidelines Help Pentagon Save

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon is saving more than $9 million a year on meat purchases by following the guidelines laid down by a Senate panel, Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., said Wednesday.

Meat purchased under the simplified specifications, roughly the same as those used by restaurants, appears to be well received by the servicemen and service women who dine in the Pentagon's mess halls, the Defense Department told Chiles in its initial report on the new buying practices. Chiles said the previous system had too stringent and unrealistic specifications for meat and invited fraud.

Belgian Zaire Aid Eyed

 "I don't know what action we can take." When Carter met with congressional leaders on Tuesday, he complained about restrictions on his ability to take decisive action to combat Cuban-Soviet involvement in Africa. The only specific constraint mentioned at the White House meeting was the Clark Amendment.

At the State Department on Wednesday, officials confessed they knew little about the Zairean insurgents or their cause.

"The situation on the ground remains quite confused," said Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance as he escorted visiting Zambian President Kenneth Kaunda from a luncheon.

Vance's assistant for African affairs, Richard Moose, said the administration doesn't know whether the rebels hope to take control of Shaba and separate it from the rest of Zaire or whether their goal is to topple President Mobutu Sese Seko and take over all of Zaire. "It's very difficult to know exactly what their political motives are," Moose said.

Zaire as a nation is the product of colonial boundaries drawn arbitrarily by European powers with little regard for tribal loyalties or geography. Shaba, or Katanga, as it was earlier known, has been wracked by secessionist movements since the country became independent in 1960.

The Americans evacuated from the Kolwezi area were taken to Musonoi, about 60 miles north of Kolwezi in the copper-rich Shaba province. Plans called for the evacuees to be flown to Kananga later Wednesday, Carter, the State Department spokesman said.

The 11 missing Americans included two missing Morrison-Knudson employees and one of their dependents, six missionaries, a tourist, and an employee of Geca Mines copper company in Kolwezi, he said.

Spokesman Carter said he could not identify the 11. But he added that there were no reports indicating they had been hurt or captured.

A Morrison-Knudson spokesman in the Zairean capital of Kinshasa said the three missing Americans have not been heard from since last week when Kolwezi was overrun.

"We assume the missing people are safely holed up in a dwelling somewhere," the spokesman said.

Rebel tribesmen were reported gaining ground Wednesday in southern Zaire, stranding 2,500 foreigners behind their lines.

In Kinshasa, more than 100,000 dancing and chanting Zaireans rallied in a stadium in support of President Mobutu Sese Seko's pro-West government and to denounce alleged Cuban and Soviet support for the rebels.

The central government and rebel invaders accused each other of murdering whites in the war zone.

"Foreigners are being hunted in Kolwezi," Foreign Minister Henri Simonet told the Belgian Parliament in Brussels. He said this was the last message Belgian officials received from the rebel-held town in the central African nation's southeastern copper belt.

He urged Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim of the United Nations to take action to aid civilians caught in the fighting.

A United Nations spokesman in New York said Waldheim was in touch with various sources to get foreigners out of the area "on humanitarian grounds."

Belgian Foreign Ministry spokesman Alfred Cahen described the 2,000 Belgians, 400 French citizens and assorted other foreigners in the Kolwezi area as hostages of the rebels.

Some reports said the secessionists in mineral-rich Shaba Province were breaking out of their Kolwezi salient and moving toward the government's important air base at Kamina, 130 miles to the north. Other reports said rebel forces were moving west toward Angola, where theoretically they could link up with comrades based there.

The reports could not be officially confirmed. No news correspondents have been allowed into the area.

Zairean government officials said their troops had intercepted urgent rebel radio messages saying they would be forced to retreat if they did not receive reinforcements immediately.

The Kinshasa government dropped several hundred paratroopers around Kolwezi earlier this week to join ground forces in a drive against the rebels. The Zairean news agency AZAP said the paratroopers recaptured the Kolwezi airport Wednesday after three hours of heavy fighting.

There has been no word on military casualties.

Various reports from diplomats in Kinshasa and from Belgian sources said between five and nine Europeans have been killed in the Kolwezi area — apparently all Belgians, except for one Italian.

In a statement issued in Brussels, the rebel Congolese National Liberation Front denied its forces had killed foreigners in the five-day-old invasion, said they were protecting civilians and blamed any civilian deaths on "barbaric" government forces.

Border Officials See Tidal Wave Of Illegal Aliens

BAYVIEW (AP) — What started as a steady stream of illegal aliens crossing the Rio Grande in hopes of taking advantage of a proposed amnesty program has become a tidal wave, border officials say.

Assistant U.S. Attorney John Smith of Brownsville said the border has been "inundated" by illegal aliens during the past six months. He attributed the crush (the heaviest he said he has seen in his five years in Brownsville) to the amnesty program rumors.

Talk of amnesty was sparked last year when President Carter suggested such a plan.

And the rumors seem to be spreading further south.

"We've had considerable increase over the past year," said Border Patrol Agent Tom Ball of McAllen. "And there are more than ever coming from areas other than Mexico."

Garza said he has some sympathy for the aliens he meets here.

"No one would travel that distance under those conditions unless he really has a bad situation," he said.

He agreed with Cook that there are many repeaters here.

"We see them all ... back and forth. They can just take another bus and come right back after we drop them off. A lot of them go home for a visit and then come right back."

Although Bonilla said he won't be coming back, he will bring home a picture of life north of the narrow river.

"Everybody lives comfortably here and they're having a good time."

New Providers
 Smith said El Salvador and Guatemala are among the new providers of large numbers of illegal aliens. For about $1,000 the Central Americans can be smuggled to major northern cities in the United States, Smith said.

But there are still many free-lancers — individuals who make the long trips by themselves.

Lupario Bonilla, Jose Marcos Alfaro and Santiago Reyes did just that. They all wound up here at the Immigration and Naturalization Service camp where undocumented aliens are held before being deported.

"I heard stories at home about the good money here," Bonilla, 29, said through an interpreter.

Five Days By Bus
 It took him five days to get to the border by bus. He waded across the Rio Grande near Brownsville during daylight. Bonilla found field work in nearby Rio Hondo and toiled for eight days — for a dollar an hour — before he was taken into custody.

He said his employer never asked him where he came from.

He'll be sent back to El Salvador soon and said he won't head north again.

"I saved my fortune to come here and I'm going back empty handed," he said.

Alfaro's story is similar. At 42, he left a wife and eight children in El Salvador.

"I said a prayer and crossed," he said in Spanish about his daylight wading of the Rio Grande.

Works 12 Days
 He managed to work for 12 days in Rio Hondo before he was picked up.

"I heard it was easy to get money here," the farmworker who earned a dollar an hour said.

And it was — compared to the $2 a day he got in El Salvador.

Reyes, 18, headed for the United States on an impulse. Speaking through the interpreter he said he had made no plans — he just got on a bus and went.

"I told my parents and they said if you feel like you can make it go ahead," he said.

B.L. Cook is in charge of the INS facility here. He said the camps holds 246 prisoners and is usually full. Those who are going home voluntarily usually don't spend much time here. But aliens fighting deportation have to wait for the twice weekly visits from immigration judges from San Antonio, Cook said.

Old Military Base
 The camp is housed in an abandoned military base. It is one of four such INS facilities in the country.

Cook said the detention center has some regular clientele — familiar faces that show up again and again.

"We had one kid who started coming here when he was 13. He was just about raised in here. The last time he came in with his wife," Cook said. "God only knows how many times he's been here."

Most of the illegal aliens will be sent home. But there are some unusual cases.

As INS official Joe Garza walked through the facility recently, a bearded man apparently in his 20s, hung up a telephone and talked to Garza.

"How 'bout me going to Spain," the Iranian citizen asked.

The official explained that it did not seem possible.

"How 'bout as a tourist?" the Iranian replied.

More ERA Time Urged
 fort to change the rules in the middle of the game.

Liz Carpenter, co-chairwoman of ERA-America, told the House subcommittee the fight for ERA won't stop next March even if three more states don't ratify it. Neither will the economic boycott of convention cities in unratified states, she added.

House Budget Envisions Cut In Taxes
 whether the relief should be in the form of expanded grants and loans, as Carter proposes, or tuition tax credits, favored by many lawmakers.

The resolution also provides for $115.7 billion in defense spending, or $2.1 billion less than Carter proposed. However, that is still more than some House liberals favored.

The deficit figure was said to be sufficient to honor the president's commitment to European allies to increase spending by 3 percent.

The deficit figure is about $10 billion less than Carter's original estimate.

Republicans argued that the reduction of the deficit was accomplished largely by providing less tax relief than the president recommended and by underestimating expenditures. The GOP has called for even greater tax cuts, matched with spending restraints.

The deficit reduction, said Rep. Samuel L. Devine, R-Ohio, was achieved by "clever manipulation and legislative legerdemain."

But Gaiamo called the budget sound and strong. He said it achieved two key economic goals: "First, to maintain a healthy rate of economic growth in order to move closer to fuller utilization of manpower and capital resources; and second, to do so in a manner that helps restrain inflationary pressures."

House Republican Leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona, urging defeat of the budget resolution, contended that inflation, a reduced tax cut and higher Social Security taxes will mean a net tax increase of about $8 billion.

Senators Hit Labor Bill, Union Chiefs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate opponents of labor law revision went on the attack Wednesday, charging unnamed union leaders with corruption and elitism and repeating claims that the bill would harm small business owners.

Sen. Jacob Javits of New York, a key Republican backer of the measure, said, meanwhile, that he would be "seriously interested in a prospective amendment" to alleviate concerns of small businesses.

GOP opponents are filibustering the bill and organized labor's lobbyists say they oppose amendments, particularly before debate is cut off.

Privately, however, administration and labor lobbyists concede the bill is almost certain to be amended before it can pass the Senate. It is less clear whether sponsors will have to agree to amendments before they can garner the 60 votes necessary to choke off the filibuster, in its second day.

"I see this bill as nothing, nothing but a vehicle designed superbly" for "labor kings" to expand their influence, said Sen. Malcolm Wallop, R-Wyo.

Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, a principal opponent of the bill, said it did nothing to protect workers from "union intimidation" or "dues ripoffs," "pension ripoffs" or to guarantee them the right to vote on strike-ending contracts.

"The abuses, the organized crime that has infiltrated organized labor, is a disgrace to the American people," Wallop said, adding that labor unions have a "sorry record when it comes to racism and sexism."

The comments by Wallop and Hatch illustrated a strategy of portraying labor leaders as the chief beneficiaries of the bill, often at the expense of the workers they are elected to represent.

Parking Area Expansion Set At Airport

The minister had been scheduled to appear at the board's November 1977 meeting, but asked that his appearance be postponed for six months so that he could examine the possible implications of the chapel on the grounds of separation of church and state.

However, Coffee said he saw no conflict with such chapels in hospitals but added that the city attorney would be consulted on the matter.

The board also authorized the architectural firm of Parkhill, Smith and Cooper, Inc., to let bids on the first phase of the expansion of airport parking.

Bill Cartwright, the project's architect, said the initial bids are for the paving of the facility and bids for construction of the two-level parking complex would probably be let about July 11.

About 700 cars will be accommodated in the proposed parking building to be located east of the present terminal parking. Construction of the facility will necessitate relocating the airport entry road.

The board also plans to construct a new employees' parking lot south of the terminal which will have 120 spaces.

In other business, the board recommended the adoption of a $2 million proposed operating budget for 1978-79, subject to the approval of the city council.

 Dominican Republic."

In Washington, a bipartisan group of Senators and representatives urged an end to the military intervention, saying that if it continued, it would have "serious consequences for our relations with that country."

Balaguer was seeking his fourth four-year term. He was first elected in 1966 after a civil war that followed the military overthrow in 1963 of the last popularly elected PRD government.

U.S. troops, later incorporated into a pan-American police force, intervened in 1966 to halt the civil war and set the stage for the election of Balaguer, who has maintained close ties with the United States.

Balaguer ran a vigorous campaign on his record of political stability and post civil war economic recovery. Guzman accused the president of allowing corruption to spread through the lower levels of his administration during Balaguer's long tenure.

Sundown Principal To Head Schools

SUNDOWN — Elementary school principal Dalton Gill will serve as interim superintendent of the school system here until a permanent replacement can be found for Dean King, who held that office for three years before he resigned, earlier in May.

King resigned in exchange for $80,000 plus retirement benefits for the remaining three years of his contract.

School trustees, at their Tuesday night regular meeting, selected Gill, a former president of the Chamber of Commerce and unsuccessful candidate for mayor, to replace King.

Home Water Filters Pass Million Mark

LOMBARD, Ill. (AP) — In 1977, the production of filters for household water filtration systems passed the one million mark, according to the Water Quality Association, but wasn't enough to meet demand.

"Production of three to five million units is expected in the years immediately ahead," said Douglas R. Oberhammer, executive director of the association. "With the number of American households at 72 million, it is going to take at least 10 million units annually to catch up with market needs."

Lawsuit Filed By Trustees At Sundown

A-J Correspondent

SUNDOWN — Three school trustees here have filed a civil lawsuit alleging they were libeled by two persons they claim were involved in the distribution of a letter to city residents just before the April 1 elections.

Trustees Dale Childs, Carl Anthony and E.W. Roe filed the lawsuit, alleging libel by defamation of character, in Levelland's 121st District Court. Named as defendants were Sundowners Ella Mae Burnett and C.R. Carpenter.

The lawsuit contends the three men were libeled in the letter, which was distributed to every residence in the city just before midnight the day before voters ousted an incumbent school trustee.

The letter was unsigned and outlined 14 points asking voters to consider their vote carefully. The 14 points dealt with school morale, administration policies and personnel matters.

New Police Chief Named At Lockney

A-J Correspondent

LOCKNEY — Donnie Ballew, 30, a Lockney police officer since October 1974, has been named chief of police here.

He replaces Raymond Hamilton, who resigned in late April.

Ballew, a Plainview native, was assistant chief for the past year.

Reese Youth Recognition Day Fetes Area Student Standouts

By GERRY BURTON
Avalanche-Journal Staff

"Colonel Annette Parham, wing commander" read the name tag on the diminutive bundle of female energy.

Eurting with enthusiasm about the entire scheme of things at Reese Air Force Base, the 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Parham of Idalou slowed down only once — when asked to join her counterpart, Col. Charles E. Bishop, at the microphone to welcome guests to Reese's Youth Recognition Day.

Miss Parham, termed by her sponsoring 4-H club as "one of those one in a million people who will be our nation's hope for the future," was one of three distinguished students selected to top a field of 26 honored as part of Armed Forces Week.

Heading their divisions were Karla Jarman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Jarman of Lubbock and sponsored by the Lubbock Council of Camp Fire Girls, and Joe Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy W. Roberts of Lubbock and Dunbar High School's senior nominee.

They received plaques and $25 savings bonds from Lubbock National Bank plus a ride in the new instrument flight simulator.

All of the students in attendance received certificates of achievement. All are sponsored by South Plains organizations.

At an awards luncheon highlighting the day's events, students, parents and sponsors met three outstanding Reese AFB persons — Capt. Farrell Farmer, who is credited with saving the life of a Lubbock youth following a traffic accident; Lt. Dennis Wise, who holds a world record in parachuting, and Lt. Karen Hagauer, who has directed Reese's Wild Blue Yonder campout for Lubbock youngsters.

Speaker for the luncheon was Lubbock Mayor Dirk West, who noted that the students would have all the inventions of the world and all the mess in the world and who challenged them to face both with creativity and achieve.

Honorees were matched with senior commanders to get a military eye-view of Reese after a morning of tours.

Miss Jarman was deputy commander for maintenance with Col. Tony Pierson and Roberts commanded the Reese AFB Hospital with Lt. Col. Robert Maier.

All students were interviewed by members of the Lubbock Jaycees, who queried them on their activities, their accomplishments and what they wanted to do with the future.

Tuition Tax Credit Backed By Most Americans

By LOUIS HARRIS

A 66-25 percent majority of Americans supports the idea of Congress passing a $250 tuition tax credit for each child for whom a taxpayer is now paying tuition. Sens. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., and Daniel Moynihan, D-N.Y., have sponsored such a bill, although President Carter and the Democratic leadership of Congress oppose it.

The basic reasons why Americans back the bill are not hard to find: —By a lopsided 82-13 percent, a majority feels "it's very hard for middle-class families to afford to send their children to school, and relief for them is long overdue." Among the 23 percent of Americans who pay tuition to send their children to school, an even higher 89-10 percent majority feels this way. Significantly, even among those with no children at tuition schools, an 80-14 percent majority sympathizes with parents who pay for their children's education.

—By 63-28 percent, a majority also feels that the proposed tuition tax cut will be "a way to get some tax relief to parents who send their children to parochial and private schools and have not been able to get any federal aid up to now." Among those who pay tuition, an even higher 73-21 percent majority feels this way.

The most controversial part of the tuition tax credit issue revolves around giving the same relief to those who send their children to religious schools as to those who do not. Traditionally, the courts have declared unconstitutional any direct aid to parochial schools on the grounds that such assistance would violate the separation of church and state. Sens. Moynihan and Packwood have argued that by giving tax relief to the parents of children in religious schools the aid is not going directly to the parochial schools themselves. It is almost certain that if the bill is passed an early test in the federal courts will follow.

In at least two respects, Americans have some doubts about the wisdom of the tuition tax credit, according to the latest Harris Survey of 1,999 adults nationwide:

—A 56-38 percent majority agrees that "it is wrong to give everyone the same tuition tax credit, including rich people who can afford to send their children to school." Among parents who now pay tuition, an almost identical majority feels the same way on this issue.

It is clear from this finding that while people might be willing to give tax credits to those who send their children to parochial schools, they are deeply bothered by the thought of subsidizing the rich. This ties in closely to the general notion shared by 77 percent that most of the tax laws already favor the rich over the poor. —By a relatively close 45-37 percent, a plurality of the public is worried that "if the tuition tax credit bill is passed, it could make the federal deficit higher by $5 billion, which could add to inflation." Among those with children in school where tuition is paid, an even higher 49-33 percent majority holds this view.

The public has become highly aware of the fact that tax reductions can have the same effect as federal spending in that both can lead to a higher federal deficit.

Despite these important reservations, when people are asked outright whether they favor or oppose the tuition tax credit, a clear-cut 66-25 percent majority supports it. It is not surprising that those who will be the beneficiaries of the bill support it by a much higher 77-19 percent. Catholics also back it by a lopsided 78-16 percent, while white Protestants are for it by a lower 59-29 percent.

Given the degree of support for the tuition tax credit, it may be difficult for President Carter to have his veto sustained should he veto the bill. It looks as if it will be difficult, indeed, to stop the tuition tax credit from becoming law.

Sanders School Eyed For Special Programs

Lubbock school trustees today will consider using Sanders Elementary next year to house Project Intercept, Lubbock's alternative school for problem youngsters, and a Head Start program for preschool migrant children.

Sanders, at 610 Third St., will be closed as an elementary school next year under the district's court-ordered integration plan. Superintendent Ed Irons has submitted to the school board a study of possible uses for the facility. The school board will meet at 7:15 a.m. in the district's administrative building, 1628 19th St. Project Intercept, now housed in the administrative annex, is in need of additional space in order to provide an effective learning experience for students assigned to that program. Irons's recommendation states:

"A new facility to be completed within the next two years is to be constructed by the (Lubbock County) juvenile justice department and will include the housing of Project Intercept. This program could use the north wing of (Sanders) school until the new facility is completed," the recommendation said.

Also, Irons said, a local Head Start program for preschool migrant children has asked to rent part of the space in Sanders for the 1978-79 year. The Head Start migrant program is administered by a community group with federal funds and complements the school system's own Head Start program.

"The facility housing this program recently burned, and the program is without an adequate place to hold classes. Approximately 68 three- and four-year-old students are now enrolled in this program," Irons told the board in a memo.

"It is recommended that the Project Intercept program be moved to Sanders and the pre-school migrant program be allowed to rent part of Sanders for the school year 1978-79."

Buddy Holly Park Dedication Slated

An area of land north of the Lubbock Canyon Lakes will be officially dedicated "The Buddy Holly Recreation Area" at 11 a.m. today.

The ceremony is part of the promotion activities for the new Columbia Pictures release "The Buddy Holly Story," a movie based on the life of the Lubbock-born rock innovator.

Speakers at the dedication will include Lubbock mayor Dirk West, KSEL president John Kreiger, an as yet undetermined member of the Holly family and actor Gary Busey.

Busey portrays Holly in "The Buddy Holly Story."

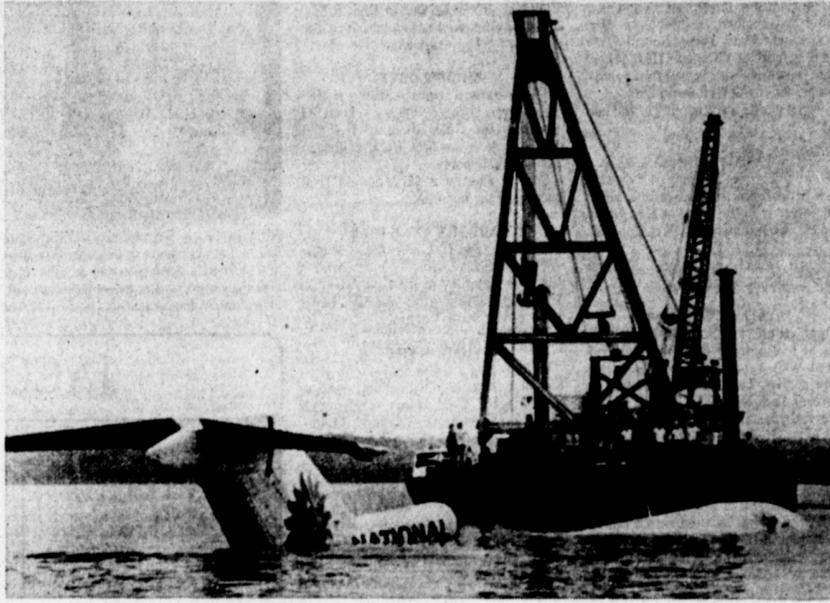

Festivities will continue later with an 8 p.m. invitational screening of "The Buddy Holly Story" at the Cinema West theater.

Few Lea County Candidates Face Opposition In June 6 Primary Vote

A-J Correspondent
HOBBS, N.M. — Lea County's June 6 primary election promises to be a "ho-hum affair," unless statewide contests for governor and U.S. senator live it up, because most county candidates face no opposition.

All five members of the county's state legislative delegation are uncontested. Legislators who filed for re-election are State Sen. Harry McAdams of Hobbs, Democrat; State Reps. Gene Samberson of Lovington and Dan Berry of Eunice, both Democrats; and Republican Reps. R. M. Moran of Hobbs and Hoyt Pattison of Clovis, who serves parts of Curry, Roosevelt and Lea Counties.

Only one incumbent district judge in the Fifth Judicial District, D.D. Archer of Artesia, will face opposition in the Democratic primary. Harvey W. Fort, a Carlsbad attorney, has filed for the position.

Unopposed district judges in the Fifth Judicial District are C. Fincher Neal and N. Randolph Reese, both of Hobbs; Paul Snead of Roswell and John B. Walker of Carlsbad.

George Teague, Lea County sheriff and a Democrat, is running unopposed for a second term.

Two Democrats and one Republican are seeking the District I Lea County Commission post being vacated by incumbeant Troy Fort. Candidates are C.L. "Bobby" Lewis of Crossroads, and Idell Pope Savisky of Lovington, both Democrats; and Eddie Robinson of Lovington, a Republican.

Democrat incumbent county commissioner for District II, Clyde "Red" Arson of Hobbs faces no opponent.

Aubrey Burl Williams of Eunice, a Democrat incumbent, will face opposition for his District III post by Vern S. Gary of Eunice, also a Democrat.

Three candidates, all Democrats from Lovington, are seeking the position being vacated by county clerk Donna Bengel, who cannot succeed herself. Those seeking the spot are June Jacobs, Marjorie Northcutt and Jane Rice Smith.

Earlene Roberts, Lea County Treasurer and the only Republican county office holder, faces no opposition in her bid for re-election.

Other unopposed candidates for county offices, all Democrats, are Ethel H. Dimsha, for the position being vacated by tax assessor Erdice Beavers, who cannot succeed herself; and Probate Judge Peggy Pevey.

Magistrates in Lovington and Eunice are being challenged for re-election by other Democratic candidates. Division I Magistrate Drayton Wasson of Lovington will have two opponents. They are Municipal Judge Jessie Meil, who recently defeated Wasson for the city judge post, and Harvey C. Markley, a Lovington attorney.

In Eunice, Magistrate Millard R.C. Hayes is being opposed by Municipal Judge Lesta D. Burdett. Both were candidates for municipal judge in the recent election, with Burdett winning re-election. Both are Democrats in Division 5.

Unopposed magistrate candidates for re-election, all Democrats, are incumbents Donald D. Hallam of Hobbs in Division 2, Virginia Pior of Tatum in Division 4 and Kenneth B. Walker of Jal in Division 3.

City's Share Of Sales Tax Revenue Down

The City of Lubbock's sales tax rebate this month is down slightly from the same period last year, but the 1978 total payments to date are up about 7 percent from 1977.

Lubbock will receive $249,347 this month as its share of the local-option sales tax, according to the state comptroller's office. That figure compares unfavorably with the $341,345 rebated in May, 1977.

But total payments this year to date are $2,533,176, compared to $2,354,981 at this time last year, according to the comptroller's office. The difference means a 7 percent increase this year.

Sales tax collections in the state for the year total $135.5 million, a 6.1 percent increase over the same period last year, according to the office.

And 898 Texas cities will receive a total of $13.8 million as their May share of the 1 percent sales tax.

As usual, the City of Houston received the largest check for the most amount — $3 million. City sales tax collections there are running 8 percent ahead of last year.

Dallas will receive $1.5 million, while San Antonio will get $731,267.

The city sales tax is collected by merchants along with the state sales tax and is rebated monthly to the cities.

South Plains municipalities that will receive rebates include Abernathy, $1,281; Andrews, $7,033; Aspermont, $779; Big Spring, $24,069; Brownfield, $8,792; Childress, $1,950; Colorado City, $3,245; Crosbyton, $1,293; and Dickens, $3,098.

Also, Dimmitt, $3,333; Earth, $1,068; Floydada, $2,490; Friona, $3,269; Hale Center, $944; Hart, $1,474; Hereford, $10,898; Idalou, $905; Lamesa, $10,196; Levelland, $8,353; Littlefield, $4,595; Lockhart, $5,812; Matador, $1,326; Memphis, $1,215; Morton, $1,346; and Muleshoe, $7,517.

Also, Odessa, $175,878; Olton, $1,946; Paducah, $2,085; Plains, $930; Plainview, $24,128; Post, $2,735; Ralls, $1,279; Seagraves, $1,438; Seminole, $2,732; Silverton, $578; Slaton, $4,706; Snyder, $13,228; Spur, $1,518; Sudan, $578; Tahoka, $1,484; Tulia, $4,085; and Turkey, $683.

VEGETABLE PLATES

Vegetable plates, popular in the 1920s and 1930s, have come back into fashion. For an interesting vegetable combination serve creamed cucumbers, broiled tomatoes, baked yams and broccoli or spinach dressed with butter and lemon juice.

NEW LOOK — Tuxedos remain a traditional look with the added spark of summer colors. Left, a tuxedo in beige with contrasting lapel and sparkling white ruffled formal shirt with bamboo toned accents, makes the bridegroom a standout. Right, the best man is dressed in the same jacket but with formal vest and trousers in contrasting colors. In the background, the bride wears a knit gown with hood.

Breast Cancer Surgery Studied

By C.G. McDANIEL
CHICAGO (AP) — Radical mastectomy for breast cancer does not increase the number of years a woman will live and should therefore be abandoned in favor of less radical surgery, a Rockford, Ill., research team says.

The researchers studied the cases of 1,686 Rockford-area women who underwent surgery for breast cancer between 1924 and 1972. They assessed the number of years each woman survived after the various types of breast surgery. The research team was comprised of Drs. Alfred Meyer and Simmons Smith of the Rockford School of Medicine and Meredith Potter of Rockford College. A report of their study appears in the April issue of the Archives of Surgery, published by the American Medical Association.

"The question of what operation to use in the treatment of cancer of the breast has long been debated," they wrote.

"An analysis of 1,686 surgically treated carcinomas of the breast in one community showed no statistically significant differences in five- and 10-year survival for simple, modified radical, or radical mastectomy," they concluded.

In the radical operation, the breast, the lymph nodes and often some muscle tissue are removed. The simple operation removes only the breast. The success of cancer treatment is generally based upon whether a patient lives for five years or longer after therapy.

Jais. Never mind criticizing the bidding. The hand never took place and the contrived bidding gets South to seven hearts doubled.

Had it been a real hand East might well have quit bridge forever. No defense beats seven hearts.

Dummy's ace of spades wins the first trick. The queen of diamonds is led and East can do nothing better than to cover with the king, losing to South's ace.

West's jack drops. South returns to dummy with the ace of clubs and leads the seven of diamonds. It doesn't matter what East does. South keeps on with diamonds and gets to discard dummy's nine of spades on his fourth diamond. Now he ruffs a spade with the deuce of hearts.

East has had to follow suit for these first seven tricks. He is now down to trumps and will ruff every lead from this point on. It won't do him any good. As each club is led from dummy South will overruff each time. As the last spade and diamond are led from South, dummy's ace and king of hearts will be winners as East undertruffs.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Your columns recently have included many letters praising school bus drivers. I'd like to say a few words about school buses.

Considering the changes in the design of cars (especially safety features) over the past 15 years, I can't help but wonder why the school bus my children ride appears to be identical to the ones I rode in.

The law requires that my car have seat belts, yet the kids are jammed into overcrowded buses with no seat belts to keep them from crashing into that terrible steel bar across the seat in front. You know the one I mean — it's right there, waiting to take out their teeth if there should be a sudden stop.

I realize money is a problem but if the great minds can lick polio and get us to the moon, surely someone can design a safer vehicle to protect our most valued possessions — our children. — A Parent In Clatskanie, Oregon

Dear Parent: I have no answers for you but I will be happy to print one from someone who does. Especially would I welcome a letter from my friends in Detroit.

Dear Ann Landers: My son is a high school junior, age 17. He seems to be conducting a romantic interlude with his 43-year-old English teacher. He has already spent over $100 on candy and flowers and is now looking at a $30 tennis racket for her.

The real problem is that he has told everyone he knows that he wants to marry the woman as soon as he can get a job that will pay him enough. This boy is not qualified to do anything. I don't know what in the world he is thinking about. This has got to be the teacher's fault. She is divorced and I am sure very experienced at this sort of thing. I'd like your advice on how to deal with the matter. — No Name No City No State

Dear N.N.N.: Your best bet is to say nothing and do nothing. Unless the teacher is a complete idiot she will not marry your son. Too bad he's spending so much money on the woman but some kids have to get their lumps firsthand and no one can tell them anything. If you've been on your son's back about this — get off. There are times when silence speaks more eloquently than words. Ending this relationship must be HIS idea — or hers.

Dear Ann Landers: Is it possible for twins to have different fathers? If so, how can it be proved? Are they actually twins if they are sired by different fathers? If not, what are they? Please print this letter and settle a ter-

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My family doctor told me I have hypothyroidism and Graves' disease. I had a series of tests and X-rays. He did not go into much detail in explaining this and I am a little confused. He did say it was something that could be controlled with medication. I am taking 50 milligrams of propylthiouracil three times a day. Will I always have to take this? — Mrs. C.W.S.

I am sure you meant to say you have "hypothyroidism," which is overactivity of the thyroid gland. In Graves' disease the gland overproduces hormones that control body function. Hypothyroidism is the opposite of hypothyroidism. Symptoms include nervousness, fast pulse, weight loss, and tremor. There may be bulging of eyeballs and a noticeable enlargement of the gland (which is in the front of the neck). These latter symptoms may not be present, however.

In any event, it is relatively easy to detect and, as your doctor told you, can be controlled with medicine. The drug you mention suppresses the gland's hormone production, but if a patient is sensitive to it reactions can occur, such as hair loss. Dosages are then adjusted.

At this point no one can say how long you will have to take the medicine. It is not always necessary to take it for life. In fact, it is important to return for frequent examinations to determine its effectiveness so that it can be discontinued at the appropriate time. Graves' disease is more common in women than men (6-to-1).

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Five months ago I dislocated my right kneecap. This has happened to both knees before, but not in many years. This is not due to an injury but to shallow sockets and slightly bowed legs. I was told to exercise both legs with sandbags to strengthen the muscles. I have done this and have no further trouble with the dislocation. But I do have a question: when bending the knees there is a grainy or sandy sound as if something is rubbing or grinding. It doesn't hurt, but gives me an uneasy feeling. Can you tell what this is and if it is dangerous? — B.L.A.

The patella (kneecap) is a moveable triangular bone that fits over the ends of the two large leg bones. The sound you hear is actually a rubbing of the kneecap either against adjacent bones or tendons. I suspect you have inefficient bursas in this general area. Bursas are tiny fluid-filled sacs which serve as cushions between such "moving parts."

The condition isn't dangerous, but it is an eerie sound. So long as you have no pain on movement you can continue to do your exercise. It might well strengthen the joints, which may have been congenitally weak or been weakened by your previous injuries.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been having a crackling and scraping of the neck bone at the base of the skull when I turn my head left or right or backward and forward. This has not worsened and it is entirely without pain. Is this condition common at my age? I am 68. Would corrective diet, medicine, or a visit to a chiropractor help eliminate the problem? — A.R.B.

You probably have mild osteoarthritic changes in the neck vertebrae. This is common at your age. None of the measures you suggest — diet, medicine or chiropractic — will help. In fact, forced manipulation of the neck can be harmful. You can mention it to your doctor the next time you see him, but I doubt anything need be done.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have heard the poinsettia plant is poisonous. True? — G.G.

True, more so for some folks than others, as with most irritants. The juice of the leaves, stem, and flowers are toxic. Touching the eyes after handling the plant may cause great irritation. Internally, it can produce diarrhea and cramping.

Your thyroid plays a critical health role for you — in everything from eyesight to fertility. Dr. Thosteson explains this important, and misunderstood, gland in his booklet, "Your Thyroid: How It Works For You." To get a copy, enclose 30 cents and a long, stamped and self-addressed envelope to Dr. Thosteson, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE: I'd like to pass on a few energy-saving hints for users of microwave ovens and charcoal grills.

This is my third year at it and I've learned a lot that I'd like to pass on.

Once you've built a fire in the grill, cook everything you can. Grill a dozen hamburgers or however many you have room for on the grill: cool the hamburgers and slip them into a sandwich-sized plastic or waxed paper bag.

Then stack them in bread wrappers and freeze. Remove as many as needed and reheat in microwave oven and viola — instant barbecued hamburgers with no loss of flavor.

After burgers are done, replenish the coals, and toss on a couple of whole fryers, basting with your favorite sauce until done.

Cool the chickens and bag them in a plastic bag, squeezing all possible air out and freeze. To reheat, follow directions of individual ovens and enjoy the best barbecued chicken ever even if it's pouring down rain.

If you bake, make up a large batch of yeast rolls and, after they are done, cool them. Then separate and toss the rolls into large plastic bags and freeze. Remove individually or in bunches and reheat in the microwave oven according to directions.

You'll save yourself a lot of work and be able to enjoy outdoor cooking too. — Mrs. D.O. Woolf, Jr.

Great idea! You've made life easier for millions of outdoor cooks. Thanks heaps for tipping us off. — Heloise with a sweet, clean odor for the next time the tub is used.

The baking soda does not scratch the finish either. — Jerry

DEAR HELOISE: Since I live alone I fix my supper on a tray and eat in front of the TV.

What to do with my buttered roasting ear of corn on the cob? I use margarine in the little tubs and I found these tubs make wonderful dishes for corn on the cob. — Iris A.

DEAR HELOISE: Camping season is almost here. Take newspaper to layer under your sleeping bag. It will insulate you from the dampness of the ground. — A Reader

DEAR HELOISE: I wish to share something with those who smoke and take long driving vacations.

You know how fast the ashtrays in a car can get full. If you will keep an empty soft drink can in your car caddy you can snuff out the cigarette in the ash tray then just drop the cigarette butt through the tab opening into the can.

When the can gets full, just toss it into a garbage can and replace it with another empty can.

Only ashes are in the ashtray and you won't have to empty it until you get back home. — Eloise Boesche

Pour just a little sand in the soft drink can to snuff out any cigarettes that may be accidentally dropped into the can without first being out. — Heloise

HINTS FROM HIM

DEAR HELOISE: I have another good use for baking soda in addition to the many, many other good uses.

After I bathe, I let the water out of the tub, fold a cloth into a pad and put a fair amount of baking soda on the pad. Work the soda into the pad a little and use it to wipe the tub all around the sides and the bottom to remove the soap residue (the traditionally well-known "ring-around-the-tub").

It not only cleanses the tub but leaves it

Protection Needed For Storage Attics

NEWARK, Del. (AP) — An attic is a good storage area only if it is protected against pests, rain and snow and the floor is well supported by the area below it, warns Pat Wilson, Delaware extension family living agent.

Make sure that items stored in the attic can withstand a variation in temperature from well below freezing to as hot as 140 degrees Fahrenheit, Miss Wilson adds.

ADDED FLAVOR

When you serve mashed potatoes fried or broiled fish, you can give the potatoes extra and appropriate flavor by adding some grated cheddar or Parmesan cheese to them.

PINK SOUFFLE

- 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
- 1 can (6 oz.) frozen fruit punch concentrate, thawed, undiluted
- 4 eggs, separated
- Dash of salt
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 3 tbsps. orange juice
- 1 cup heavy cream
- Whole toasted almonds or toasted chopped almonds (optional)

Select a quart-size souffle dish. Fit it with a firm, upstanding collar made of several folds of foil or waxed paper secured with freezer tape or a rubber band. (Or use a 6-cup souffle dish.)

In a small dish, sprinkle gelatin over three tablespoons thawed punch to soften.

In top of double boiler, mix egg yolks with remaining punch and salt. With rotary beater or wire whisk, beat just until blended. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly, about 6 to 8 minutes or until mixture thickens. Stir in gelatin until dissolved. Pour into large bowl. Cool, stirring frequently.

Beat egg whites until they form soft peaks. Gradually beat in sugar and orange juice, continuing to beat until stiff peaks form. Beat 2/3 cup of the cream until it holds its shape. Gently fold into egg whites, then fold into punch mixture. Turn into prepared souffle dish and chill several hours. Then, if needed, remove collar.

To serve, whip remaining 1/3 cup cream. Spoon onto souffle and garnish with almonds, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

Former Film Mogul Begelman Pleads No Contest

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former Columbia Pictures president David Begelman, once one of the most powerful men in the movie industry, pleaded no contest Wednesday to a charge that he stole $40,000 from the studio.

Begelman, 57, stood before a judge and admitted he had forged three checks on studio accounts in 1977.

He waived his constitutional protection against self-incrimination and said he understood that a plea of "nolo contendere" — no contest — amounted to a plea of guilty.

"Mr. Begelman, you are charged with grand theft," said Deputy District Attorney Sheldon Brown. "How do you plead?"

"Nolo contendere," Begelman said in a firm voice.

Burbank Superior Court Judge Thomas C. Murphy accepted the plea after he was assured by Brown that no promises had been made to Begelman regarding sentencing.

"I'm not going to be a party to any bargains," the judge said. He ordered Begelman to return for sentencing June 28.

Outside the courtroom, Begelman told reporters: "I feel I did the right thing — the appropriate thing to do at this time."

The theft charge stemmed from the forgery of three checks — one for $10,000 written in the name of actor Cliff Robertson, one for $5,000 in the name of director Martin Ritt and one for $25,000 in the name of restaurateur Pierre Groleau.

Robertson brought the matter to police attention and publicly denounced Begelman's financial misdeeds.

Under California law, the plea of nolo contendere differs from a guilty plea only in that it may not be used as an admission of guilt if civil litigation is brought against Begelman in the same case.

Asked if he was apprehensive about sentencing, Begelman said, "In due course, whatever has to be done will be done by the court."

During the court proceeding, Brown said the judge will decide at sentencing whether grand theft will be treated as a felony or a misdemeanor. The felony carries a maximum of one to 10 years in prison and a $5,000 fine. The misdemeanor carries a maximum of a year in jail and $500 fine.

Begelman also could be granted probation.

He was released on his own recognizance pending sentencing.

The "Begelman Affair" shocked Hollywood last fall and eventually toppled Begelman from his position of power.

He first stepped down as head of Columbia last October but returned to power in December with Columbia officials saying he was too valuable an executive to lose.

Begelman, a former agent, saved Columbia from the brink of bankruptcy with several moneymaking films, the most recent being "Close Encounters of the Third Kind."

However, public scrutiny of his financial dealings led to unrest among stockholders as the studio's stock plummeted.

Begelman was forced to resign last February. He has since been signed to an independent producing contract with Columbia, which guarantees him $300,000 a year. He had been making $400,000 as president.

Odessa Man Wins Suit Against Store

AUSTIN (UPI) — Gibson Discount Center Inc. must pay $10,000 to an Odessa man accused by a security officer of shoplifting a hat valued at less than $5, the Texas Supreme Court ruled Wednesday.

The court upheld lower court decisions awarding Guadalupe Cruz $5,000 in actual damages and $5,000 in exemplary damages because of his arrest, confinement and trial on the misdemeanor theft charge.

A jury found Cruz innocent of the theft charge, and the county golf course maintenance supervisor then filed suit against the discount store for false imprisonment and malicious prosecution.

He was accused of taking a hat from the store shelves and wearing it out of the store on Nov. 24, 1974, when he took his mother and sister shopping. All three members of the family told a security officer Cruz had purchased the hat earlier at the Gibson store, but the security officer called police and filed a theft charge against Cruz.

Cruz was jailed overnight, had to post a $102.50 cash bond and agree to pay $1,000 in attorney fees plus the cost of an investigation and trial.

At the trial, he produced a cash register receipt showing he purchased the hat at the Gibson store the month before his arrest.

The Supreme Court, without written opinion, affirmed lower court decisions awarding the damages to Cruz.

"The employees of Gibson never acknowledged that they might have made an honest mistake or that they should have investigated further before filing theft charges on merchandise valued below $5," the Civil Appeals Court said in its opinion on the case.

"Instead they steadfastly refused to believe Mr. Cruz, his mother and his sister and at least one of the employees was unwilling to accept the jury finding as to his innocence even when confronted with the evidence of a prior sale of the hat."

Appeals Court Revises Term For Man's Parole Eligibility

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals affirmed Wednesday a life sentence for a Harris County man convicted of killing his wife.

Arthritis Victim Gets 'New Life'

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Rosemary Valencia recently peeled seven apples in one day. The experience left her exhausted but gratified.

Miss Valencia, 47, has had rheumatoid arthritis since she was 14. She hasn't stood on her feet, baked a pie or performed any ordinary household task in nearly 25 years.

Within the last two years, she has made radical improvement. Now, through a combination of surgery and physical and occupational therapies, she is fulfilling many aspirations she had as an adolescent.

Her doctor is Robert Volz, an orthopedic surgeon at the University of Arizona's Health Sciences Center.

The court, however, reformed Harvey Gill's sentence so that he will not have to wait so long to be eligible for parole.

Gill was sentenced in 1971 to 10 years in the death of Reeves Newsom Jr. Gill later was convicted of the death of his wife and sentenced to life. The sentences were made concurrent.

His life conviction was later reversed. He was convicted a second time in 1975 of the same crime and again sentenced to a life term, consecutive with the 10-year sentence.

Under Texas law, a person must have credit for 20 years served on a life sentence before he can be eligible for parole.

"Thus, although appellant received a life sentence at both trials, the second sentence is more severe than the first in that he will be required to serve a longer period of imprisonment before becoming eligible for parole," the appeals court said.

When a defendant wins an appeal and is later convicted on the same charge, a judge must follow certain guidelines in imposing a severer sentence, the court said. A harsher sentence must be based on the defendant's conduct following the first trial, in order to guard against vindictiveness.

The judge said he made the sentences consecutive because of the multiple killing. The appeals court said that was not sufficient reason.

In other action, the court reversed the robbery conviction of Arthur Daniel Irving because the Dallas County prosecutor improperly argued to the jury. The court said the prosecutor told the jury to rely on his "expertise" in sentencing, when arriving at a penalty in the case.

The court also upheld the murder conviction of Paul David Quinn, sentenced to 99 years in the death of Jimmy Amaden. Amaden was shot to death at the San Jacinto City Ordnance Depot in 1974.

Lubbock Conviction Upheld On Appeal

A-J Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The Court of Criminal Appeals Wednesday upheld the Lubbock County District Court conviction of Jimmy Lee Reed for driving while intoxicated.

The court said no brief has been filed on Reed's behalf, and nothing was presented for review of the three-day jail term and $75 fine Reed was assessed for the offense.

LULAC Convention Set Here

LAREDO (Special) — The League of United Latin American Citizens is holding its 49th annual state convention here today through Sunday at the Laredo Civic Center.

Leonel Castillo, commissioner of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, will be the convention's keynote speaker.

Other guest speakers include John Hill, Democratic nominee for governor; U.S. Sen. John Tower; John Poerner, Railroad Commission candidate; Jim Baker, Republican nominee for state attorney general; U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger, Democratic nominee for U.S. Senator; and Mark White, Democratic nominee for attorney general.

Seminars on "Education for the Mexican American in Texas" and "The Chicano-A Media Perspective" will be included in the convention's agenda.

Desi Pesina of 7017 York in Lubbock will chair the convention's resolutions committee.

"Reform the Administration of Justice in Texas" is the convention's theme.

Plain Language Insurance Policy Backed

AUSTIN (AP) — Big insurance companies endorsed a readable homeowners policy Wednesday, and one homeowner wished out loud for a policy in "straight-forward shirt-sleeve English."

A new plain English policy proposed by an advisory committee.

It may be some time before a decision is made on the readable policy.

Compared with the present document, the proposed new policy has 40 percent fewer words and is on a high school — not college — reading level.

John Knight of Dallas, president of Republic Insurance Co. of Texas, said the policy would "reduce areas of misunderstanding between insurance companies and policyholders."

Lewis Plast of Bloomington, Ill., vice president of State Farm, also endorsed the proposed new policy, saying it "personalized" language by using "you" for the policyholder and "we" for the company. Board chairman Hugh Yantis said he was troubled by the fact that homeowners policies specifically cover things like guns, grave markers, valuable silver and bullion.

"I have no bullion, grave markers, guns or silverware of great value. There is no provision for reducing premiums for people who don't have these," he said.

"That's true, but homeowners is a package policy... I don't have guns, but someone else may not have a boat... Somewhere, you have to establish a policy that fits most of the people," Knight replied.

Jack Jones, the board's property actuary, objected to numerous proposed changes in coverage, including a $500 ceiling on boats — "You can barely buy a short canoe for $500" — and $1,000 on guns — "A deer rifle, two shotguns and a pistol exceed $1,000."

He didn't object to raising the limit on trees and shrubs from $250 to $500.

Kenneth Edwards, speaking for the Independent Insurance Agents of Texas, said people don't need a more readable policy. He said the present one represents years of court decisions. Policyholders, he said, "depend on agents and companies to interpret for them."

"With this in mind, we can't understand the need for the new form," he said.

Robert Bayless of San Angelo, a retired educator, called for policies in "straight-forward, shirt-sleeve English" that can be read "without the services of a Philadelphia lawyer."

He urged the board to allow companies to sell homeowners coverage that would provide full replacement cost of contents.

Bayless complained that insurance companies won't pay full repair cost on a house unless it is insured for at least 80 percent of its value.

"The poor insured finds he is under-insured or over-insured, and if he is lucky he will make out all right, but gambling is illegal in Texas," he said.

Douroucoulis, a small group of American monkeys that range from Nicaragua to Amazonia and eastern Peru, are distinguished by their large eyes.

Victim Flirts With Police

AMARILLO (UPI) — A 24-year-old man has told police someone broke into his northside home, took $30 in cash, a checkbook, a 24-hour bank card — and an ounce of marijuana. The man says he wants the marijuana back.

"Occasionally, we get reports like this, usually from people who just see an opportunity to flirt a little with the norm," said Lt. Walter Bull.

"They realize there's nothing we can do because it's not in their possession. It just gives them an opportunity to say, 'Hey, look what I'm doing and there's nothing you can do about it.'"

Police say they won't return the marijuana even if they find it.

Florida Drug Crackdown Sends Smugglers To Land In Texas

AUSTIN (AP) — Successful crackdowns on Florida drug smuggling are driving illegal traffickers to the Texas coastline, federal and state law enforcement officials agreed Wednesday.

"You couldn't put too many men in that Texas Gulf area," said Jack Bremer, assistant regional commissioner for the U.S. Customs Service Houston region. "No one has the resources at the present time, and frankly no one has devoted that much attention to it."

Bremer told the House Select Committee on Drugs and Alcohol Abuse and Control that federal and state anti-smuggling agencies could improve their efforts by sharing a radio frequency.

Revisions of Texas law and other legislative proposals are being considered by the committee to help halt illegal drug flow into Texas.

Bremer said that last year customs officers seized 183,000 pounds of illegal drugs and made approximately 5,000 arrests. Seizure of certain drugs has doubled, he added, with the worst probably yet to come.

Another federal official agreed that two-year-long efforts to curtail smuggling in Florida have caused dealers to head toward Texas.

"Within the next week or two, we'll get together (with other agencies) and work out a program to control traffic coming in by the sea," said Irvin Swank, area director of the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA).

William Morton, the DEA's liaison with the Texas Department of Public Safety (DPS), suggested that parts of the Texas Controlled Substances Act need re-writing to allow prosecution of doctors in state courts.

Part of the law dealing with diversion of legal drugs into illicit channels has been struck down, Morton said, forcing law enforcement agencies to carry cases to federal court.

Border surveillance is the DPS' top priority, said Floyd Hacker, head of the department's narcotics division. Hacker said the department would make a budget request for an additional 25 officers to be assigned to a new border district.

Houston Security Tight For Riot Bond Hearing

HOUSTON (AP) — Eight bailiffs maintained tight security Wednesday as Travis Morales and two others charged with inciting the May 7 riot at Moody Park appeared briefly in district court to ask that their $500,000 bonds be reduced.

State District Judge Hoyt Armstrong of Dallas postponed the hearing until next Monday, however, when lawyers indicated they plan to call from 15 to 20 witnesses.

Armstrong rescheduled the hearing for the court of Judge Joe Kegans, with whom a county grand jury returned sealed indictments last Thursday against Morales, 25, Thomas Robert Hirschi, 24, and Mara Margolis Youngdahl, 30.

Kegans is attending a judicial conference in Reno, Nev., and Armstrong, as a visiting judge, has been handling the cases.

After hearing the estimates of 15 to 20 witnesses, Armstrong said he could not put aside that much time.

There were no disruptions during the brief proceedings, but Vic Driscoll, chief of the district attorney's trial division, said the special security precautions were taken because "the court was concerned about possible disruptions."

Driscoll said he plans to call witnesses to prove how much damage resulted from the rioting, which included fire-bombing and looting of several stores in the predominantly Mexican-American area on Houston's near north side. He said Texas law authorizes bonds twice the size of damages for persons charged with inciting a riot.

After the Friday arrests, Assistant Police Chief B. K. Johnson said the bonds were set at $500,000 because that figure doubles the estimated riot damages.

Morales is a leader of the People United to Fight Police Brutality, a group that has held several rallies and marches protesting the death of Joe Campos Torres, 23, who died while in police custody last year after his arrest in a bar disturbance.

Morales has said there are about 15 "hard-core" members of the group.

Andrews School Board To Hold Meeting Today

ANDREWS (Special) — The Andrews Independent School District board of trustees will hold a called meeting at 7 p.m. today in the school administration building to consider the 1978-1979 Building Trades project, review the 1977-1978 Building Trades project, and to consider bids for the project.

The board also will hear the Athletic Director's report on high school track, middle school tennis areas, and physical plant needs for the athletic program.

A budget study session and executive session for personnel items will be held and the administrator's salaries also will be considered.

Plain Language Insurance Policy Backed

AUSTIN (AP) — Big insurance companies endorsed a readable homeowners policy Wednesday, and one homeowner wished out loud for a policy in "straight-forward shirt-sleeve English."

The problem nagging the State Insurance Board is the numerous cutbacks in coverage — offset by some gains — in the new plain English policy proposed by an advisory committee.

It may be some time before a decision is made on the readable policy.

Compared with the present document, the proposed new policy has 40 percent fewer words and is on a high school — not college — reading level.

John Knight of Dallas, president of Republic Insurance Co. of Texas, said the policy would "reduce areas of misunderstanding between insurance companies and policyholders."

Lewis Plast of Bloomington, Ill., vice president of State Farm, also endorsed the proposed new policy, saying it "personalized" language by using "you" for the policyholder and "we" for the company.

Board chairman Hugh Yantis said he was troubled by the fact that homeowners policies specifically cover things like guns, grave markers, valuable silver and bullion.

"I have no bullion, grave markers, guns or silverware of great value. There is no provision for reducing premiums for people who don't have these," he said.

"That's true, but homeowners is a package policy... I don't have guns, but someone else may not have a boat... Somewhere, you have to establish a policy that fits most of the people," Knight replied.

Jack Jones, the board's property actuary, objected to numerous proposed changes in coverage, including a $500 ceiling on boats — "You can barely buy a short canoe for $500" — and $1,000 on guns — "A deer rifle, two shotguns and a pistol exceed $1,000."

He didn't object to raising the limit on trees and shrubs from $250 to $500.

Kenneth Edwards, speaking for the Independent Insurance Agents of Texas, said people don't need a more readable policy. He said the present one represents years of court decisions. Policyholders, he said, "depend on agents and companies to interpret for them."

"With this in mind, we can't understand the need for the new form," he said.

Robert Bayless of San Angelo, a retired educator, called for policies in "straight-forward, shirt-sleeve English" that can be read "without the services of a Philadelphia lawyer."

He urged the board to allow companies to sell homeowners coverage that would provide full replacement cost of contents.

Bayless complained that insurance companies won't pay full repair cost on a house unless it is insured for at least 80 percent of its value.

"The poor insured finds he is under-insured or over-insured, and if he is lucky he will make out all right, but gambling is illegal in Texas," he said.

Douroucoulis, a small group of American monkeys that range from Nicaragua to Amazonia and eastern Peru, are distinguished by their large eyes.

Victim Fights With Police

AMARILLO (UPI) — A 34-year-old man has told police someone broke into his northside home, took $30 in cash, a checkbook, a 24-hour bank card — and an ounce of marijuana. The man says he wants the marijuana back.

"Occasionally, we get reports like this, usually from people who just see an opportunity to flirt a little with the norm," said Lt. Walter Bull.

"They realize there's nothing we can do because it's not in their possession. It just gives them an opportunity to say, 'Hey, look what I'm doing and there's nothing you can do about it.'"

Police say they won't return the marijuana even if they find it.

Florida Drug Crackdown Sends Smugglers To Land In Texas

AUSTIN (AP) — Successful crackdowns on Florida drug smuggling are driving illegal traffickers to the Texas coastline, federal and state law enforcement officials agreed Wednesday.

"You couldn't put too many men in that Texas Gulf area," said Jack Bremer, assistant regional commissioner for the U.S. Customs Service Houston region. "No one has the resources at the present time, and frankly no one has devoted that much attention to it."

Bremer told the House Select Committee on Drugs and Alcohol Abuse and Control that federal and state anti-smuggling agencies could improve their efforts by sharing a radio frequency.

Revisions of Texas law and other legislative proposals are being considered by the committee to help halt illegal drug flow into Texas.

Bremer said that last year customs officers seized 183,000 pounds of illegal drugs and made approximately 5,000 arrests. Seizure of certain drugs has doubled, he added, with the worst probably yet to come.

Another federal official agreed that two-year-long efforts to curtail smuggling in Florida have caused dealers to head toward Texas.

"Within the next week or two, we'll get together (with other agencies) and work out a program to control traffic coming in by the sea," said Irvin Swank, area director of the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA).

William Morton, the DEA's liaison with the Texas Department of Public Safety (DPS), suggested that parts of the Texas Controlled Substances Act need re-writing to allow prosecution of doctors in state courts.

Part of the law dealing with diversion of legal drugs into illicit channels has been struck down, Morton said, forcing law enforcement agencies to carry cases to federal court.

Border surveillance is the DPS' top priority, said Floyd Hacker, head of the department's narcotics division. Hacker said the department would make a budget request for an additional 25 officers to be assigned to a new border district.

Houston Security Tight For Riot Bond Hearing

HOUSTON (AP) — Eight bailiffs maintained tight security Wednesday as Travis Morales and two others charged with inciting the May 7 riot at Moody Park appeared briefly in district court to ask that their $500,000 bonds be reduced.

State District Judge Hoyt Armstrong of Dallas postponed the hearing until next Monday, however, when lawyers indicated they plan to call from 15 to 20 witnesses.

Armstrong rescheduled the hearing for the court of Judge Joe Kegans, with whom a county grand jury returned sealed indictments last Thursday against Morales, 25, Thomas Robert Hirschi, 24, and Mara Margolis Youngdahl, 30.

Kegans is attending a judicial conference in Reno, Nev., and Armstrong, as a visiting judge, has been handling the cases.

After hearing the estimates of 15 to 20 witnesses, Armstrong said he could not put aside that much time.

There were no disruptions during the brief proceedings, but Vic Driscoll, chief of the district attorney's trial division, said the special security precautions were taken because "the court was concerned about possible disruptions."

Driscoll said he plans to call witnesses to prove how much damage resulted from the rioting, which included fire-bombing and looting of several stores in the predominantly Mexican-American area on Houston's near north side. He said Texas law authorizes bonds twice the size of damages for persons charged with inciting a riot.

After the Friday arrests, Assistant Police Chief B. K. Johnson said the bonds were set at $500,000 because that figure doubles the estimated riot damages.

Morales is a leader of the People United to Fight Police Brutality, a group that has held several rallies and marches protesting the death of Joe Campos Torres, 23, who died while in police custody last year after his arrest in a bar disturbance.

Morales has said there are about 15 "hard-core" members of the group.

Andrews School Board To Hold Meeting Today

ANDREWS (Special) — The Andrews Independent School District board of trustees will hold a called meeting at 7 p.m. today in the school administration building to consider the 1978-1979 Building Trades project, review the 1977-1978 Building Trades project, and to consider bids for the project.

The board also will hear the Athletic Director's report on high school track, middle school tennis areas, and physical plant needs for the athletic program.

A budget study session and executive session for personnel items will be held and the administrator's salaries also will be considered.

Officials Say Gas Well Leak Stable

ATHENS (AP) — NFC Petroleum Co. officials said Wednesday that their East Texas gas well leaking dangerous gases is stable and efforts are still underway to cap it. Meanwhile, Department of Public Safety troopers Wednesday found the first evidence thus far of animals killed by the poisonous hydrogen sulfide fumes.

Troopers making routine safety checks in a two-mile area evacuated and cordoned off around the well found dead chickens, cats and dogs, said DPS spokesman Jim Robinson.

Robinson said officers believe the animals may have been killed Monday when the well blew out again and spewed out the poisonous gas.

Bill Egg, NFC chief engineer, told a news conference that oil well firefighter

Red Adair was in Houston selecting equipment to be used to cap the well.

He did not speculate on when the well would be capped.

The two-mile evacuation order remained in effect and residents were allowed back into the area on a necessity basis, Egg said.

He also told reporters that by Thursday NFC will have a representative in Athens to deal with personal problems of those affected by the evacuation.

Egg said "all reasonable expenses for lodging and meals incurred by those evacuated may be charged to the company."

Cost of cleanup operations and drilling a new well to intersect the current well at a depth of 14,000 feet will total several million dollars.

Ona Smith, a secretary at an elementary school five miles from the well site, asked NFC officials to make a special effort to notify the school first in case of any more evacuations. The school has 102 pupils.

"We have been evacuated twice and both times we were the last to be notified," she said. "Monday we smelled the gas and evacuated the school before they even called us."

She said some children suffered headaches and nausea.

The well's drilling rig is still standing, Egg said, but all other equipment has been removed.

Escaping gas is being burned off by a 4- to 6-foot flame and air quality monitoring equipment has detected no measurable quantities of dangerous gases.

Responding to a question that lax safety precautions may have contributed to the well's leakage, Egg replied, "I guarantee no short cuts were being taken."

The well, located 12 miles north of Athens near Walton, began leaking seriously last Thursday.

Crude Oil Runs Reported High

WASHINGTON (AP) — Total crude oil runs to still averaged 14,465,000 barrels daily during the week ended Friday, May 12, the American Petroleum Institute reported Wednesday. This compared with 14,178,000 barrels daily in the previous week and 14,225,000 barrels daily a year ago.

Crude runs east of California averaged 12,288,000 barrels daily compared with 11,859,000 the previous week and 11,989,000 a year ago.

Refiners Hike Gas Output

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's refiners increased gasoline production as seasonal decreases of gasoline supplies continued, the latest weekly supply bulletin from the American Petroleum Institute showed Wednesday.

For the week ending May 12, gasoline production increased to 7 million barrels a day from 6.8 million barrels daily in the previous week. Gasoline inventories declined slightly to 246.1 million barrels from 248.7 million barrels a week earlier, a typical decrease at this time of year.

Meanwhile, supplies of distillates used mainly for home heating increased slightly to 137.8 million barrels from 136.8 million barrels a week earlier, marking the apparent end of the heavy home-heating season.

Crude oil imports rose to 5.6 million barrels daily in the last week from 4.7 million barrels daily a week ago, but still were well below the 6.7 million barrels imported daily at this time last year.

Poor Excuse Not Accepted

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you don't file your income tax return on time, the Tax Court wants to hear a good reason why.

The court upheld a penalty charged to John A. Long Jr. of Stony Brook, N.Y., for failure to file his 1969 return until Feb. 18, 1971.

Long told the court he was delayed by efforts to settle his deceased mother's estate. He said he felt "something might turn up" in the estate which would affect his taxes.

"We do not believe that an individual, exercising ordinary business care or prudence would delay filing income tax returns because 'something might turn up.' Such a vague assertion is simply not sufficient cause for a delay in filing," the court said.

'Ferocious' Dog Toothless

DECATUR, Ill. (AP) — The so-called meanest dog in Illinois, so tough that a sign over his house warns of ferocity, has turned into just another aging puppy.

The dog is Le Roy Brown, owned by junkyard owner Al Hornstein. The sign says, "Le Roy Brown Bad Dog."

When Hornstein first bought Le Roy from a deputy sheriff, the German Shepherd was called Ali and was trained as an Army guard dog — vigilant and ferocious.

Now Le Roy is 18 and his bark is about equal to his toothless bite.

Le Roy Brown's main job these days is to alert Hornstein to the approach of any strangers.

"It's like General MacArthur said. Old watchdogs don't die, they just roll over and get their tummies rubbed," Hornstein says.

Medical Claims Rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Tax Court has rejected an attempt by a Missouri man to take a deduction for expected medical costs and loss of anticipated income.

Weston B. Andrews of Chesterfield had calculated that injuries suffered in an automobile accident had decreased his opportunities for advancement in his work and this resulted in a loss of anticipated earnings. He sought a casualty deduction for this loss, as well as for medical expenses he anticipated.

This was rejected by the Internal Revenue Service and the Tax Court which noted that there are no provisions in the tax law for such deductions.

"Deductions from gross income do not turn on equitable considerations. They depend on legislative grace," the court observed.

Lost Dog Travels Far From Home

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Two women on their lunch break noticed a Labrador retriever — obviously a fine dog but fallen on bad times.

They took him to the Birmingham Humane Society, where a worn tag the dog was wearing led officials to contact a health officer in Del Norte County, Calif. — more than 2,000 miles away.

Del Norte officers then found the owners, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Williams of Crescent City.

Yes, Mrs. Williams cried, it was their dog, Crackerjack, who had been missing six or seven weeks.

She had no idea how Crackerjack had made his way to the Deep South.

But finding him, she said, was "an answer to my prayers."

There was no question about how Crackerjack was going home: by airplane, Wednesday to San Francisco.

Mary Ann Mobley of Brandon, Miss., was named Miss America in 1959.

No Home, No Travel! Rebate

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you want to deduct travel expenses from your taxes you have to have a home to be away from, according to the U.S. Tax Court.

The court upheld a $797 tax judgement against Joram Rauchwerger for the year 1973, when Rauchwerger worked as a traveling salesman for a St. Louis, Mo., photographic firm.

Rauchwerger had been a resident of Tulsa, Okla., according to court papers in the case, and he stored his belongings with family there while working for the St. Louis firm.

In his job, Rauchwerger traveled from city to city and received commissions on his sales. He visited Tulsa only twice, the court noted, although his mail was sent to relatives there.

In filing his taxes, Rauchwerger sought to deduct the cost of lodging, meals, tips and laundry while traveling in his business, but the Internal Revenue Service disallowed the deduction because it did not feel he was "away from home."

Tax law requires business travel expenses to be "away from home" to be deductible.

Rauchwerger claimed that either St. Louis, where his employer was located, or his relatives' home in Tulsa should be considered his home and in either event he was away while traveling on business.

The court disagreed, however, noting that Rauchwerger had no living expenses either in St. Louis or Tulsa while traveling to work in some 44 cities.

"Since we conclude petitioner had no permanent tax home from which he could be away, we must deny petitioner's deduction for his traveling expenses," the court said.

Animal Mystifies Town

SOUTH KINGSTOWN, R.I. (AP) — It's big and gray and has four legs, and the old-timers in this small New England town don't know what it is.

"He's not a fox and he's not a wolf. He's something in between," says Wanton Carpenter, who has lived in nearby Matunuck all his 68 years.

Ben Carpenter, 64, who has also lived here all his life, says "I don't know as I'd want to bump into it. It's a mean-looking thing I'll say."

Whatever it is, local residents say they have seen it with increasing frequency in the past week, and police have said they have seen it, too.

James E. Meyers, a state wildlife biologist based in South Kingstown, said it is possible that the creature is a cross between a coyote and a dog. One coyote-dog creature was documented in the state eight years ago.

Class In Joke Writing Funny

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Students in Jill Feder's class were always cracking jokes, most of them bad. But that was fine with her; how else were they going to learn?

Mrs. Feder, 28, taught an extension course at the University of Wisconsin in joke writing, covering the creation, structuring and selling of gags to professional comedians.

She says few of her 18 students — most of them professional people who look on joke writing as a hobby rather than a potential livelihood — will ever get the chance to sell many jokes.

But she says her non-credit, six-week course, offered for the first time this spring, was fun because the students were more than willing to share their humor.

"Or lack thereof," she prompts. "They were a bunch of hams, is what they were. It made my job a lot easier."

Mrs. Feder says she has sold many jokes to professional comedians, beginning in her teens, when she thought she was skinny and unpopular.

But she claims no desire to write jokes for a living because she prefers to keep it a hobby, to be funny when she feels like it.

So instead she writes technical manuals for the state.

"I like to make the person I'm talking to laugh," she says. "I have that spontaneous need, but I have no desire to perform myself."

jokes weren't really worth repeating, but were generally good for amateurs.

"They fell into a lot of pitfalls," says Mrs. Feder, who will teach the class again next winter. "The most common one for all joke writers is lack of brevity: they let the joke go on too long."

She says one of the better efforts was when she told the class to think up "small apartment" jokes.

One student wrote something about a friend living in an apartment so small he had to microfilm his socks to get them into a drawer.

Mrs. Feder says she can't teach students to be funny, but she can show them how to look at things in a humorous way and then put the thought into a short, smooth structure.

An example, she says, is one of her own jokes. Soupy Sales used a lot a few years ago: "If athletes get athlete's foot, do astronauts get missile-toe?"

Tech Slates School For Savings, Loan

More than 115 officials and employees of savings and loan operations from West Texas and New Mexico will attend the fifth annual Texas Tech School for Savings and Loan Associations this week.

Class sessions will be held in the Business Administration Building.

The school, designed to meet the growing demand for continuing professional development in the savings and loan industry, will feature an intermediate and advanced program.

A broad-based approach is offered with the intermediate program. It is structured to acquaint the newer savings and loan employees with the overall scope of operations and problems in their industry.

The intermediate program consists of approximately 37 hours of formal instruction and discussion. Smaller group sessions will allow participants to interact with each other. Emphasis will be placed on active student involvement in the classroom process. This program has neither experience nor educational requirements.

An in-depth analysis of some key areas of savings and loan operations and practices, with emphasis on how these relate to the association's overall growth and profitability, is offered through the advanced program.

The program utilizes the case study approach and offers alternate problem-solving techniques.

Persons having more than two years' experience within the savings and loan industry and who want to explore in detail specific areas of operation should attend the advanced program.

THE BAND'S LAST WALTZ — The Band rock group, joined by singer-songwriter Bob Dylan, right, appears onstage during their final concert at Winterland skating rink in San Francisco in 1976. A film record of the concert — which featured stage decorations of the San Francisco Opera's "La Traviata" scenery and 20th Century-Fox's "Gone With the Wind" chandeliers — has been released as a feature-length movie directed by Martin Scorsese. (AP Laserphoto)

Last Concert By 'Band' Filmed, Made Into Elegant, Rock Movie

NEW YORK (AP) — The Band started so low key, the story goes, that it didn't even have a name. A secretary in the Albert Grossman office, typing a client list, wrote "the band." Later, in retyping, she capitalized the name. The Band never took another name and has become among the most respected North American rock bands. Robbie Robertson, Levon Helm, Rick Danko, Richard Manuel and Garth Hudson, all but one of them Canadian, played the music of Robertson, made recordings — some called classics — and toured — "everywhere, three times."

They ended it with a blast. They gave a big, highly publicized "farewell to the road" concert in San Francisco in 1976, included a lot of famous musician friends, rented the San Francisco Opera's "La Traviata" scenery and 20th Century-Fox's "Gone With the Wind" chandeliers. And they turned that concert into a movie — with Martin Scorsese directing — and a three-LP recording.

So much care was taken getting the music just so that the movie, "The Last Waltz," only now has come out. Robertson, the leader and lead guitarist of The Band, says, "The idea was to make the music a glorious, wondrous thing to make it true and fine."

"We recorded it on a 24-track system. We mixed it at the best place. They told us we had the longest sound mix ever done there. 'Star Wars' is 100 second."

The farewell concert — Robertson thought calling it "The Last Waltz" sounded better than "The Last Concert" — started out fairly low key.

The group had been on the road since 1959, formed around Ronnie Hawkins' drummer, Helm, to back Hawkins and be known as the Hawks, or Levon and the Hawks. In 1965 they went out with Bob Dylan as his backup musicians. In 1968, their own highly acclaimed record, "Music from Bing Pink," launched them. They first played as a "major league rock act" at a big skating rink, San Francisco's Winterland, in 1969.

On the summer tour, 1976, they decided they'd had enough of the road. They would still record together. But they would play their last live gig on Thanksgiving, at Winterland.

Then, six weeks before the date, they had two ideas. Why not ask a few friends to perform with them and why not document it in some way?

So Robertson asked Scorsese to direct, because he liked the way he used music in his movies. To Robertson's surprise, Scorsese agreed.

Scorsese brought in Hollywood cameramen. They used cranes, dollies and 35mm film, making "The Last Waltz" the first rock concert movie shot in 35.

Scorsese said one problem would be that the concert would go on for hours and takes with big movie cameras are usually a few minutes in length.

The camera and lights might burn out. They might wind up with no movie. But they would try it.

"The lights blew out a couple of times," Robertson says. "Once, when Paul Butterfield was performing, the whole stage blew. The only thing left was spotlights. They happened to hit Butterfield and cross over onto Levon, who was singing 'Mystery Train' with him."

Later, the film looked good. "I was producer," Robertson says. "It was my problem to figure out what to do next. I did a crash course in film financing and contracts and all that stuff. I went to United Artists and structured a deal and they went for it. The bottom line for them was that they had the definitive music film of the '60s and '70s generation."

Now, with some money in hand, Robertson paid the performers and cinematographers. Each one without asking a manager, agreed to take the same amount as everybody else.

Scorsese added two elements to the film. He did some shooting in a recording studio, Emmylou Harris singing "Evangeline" and the Staples singing "The Weight." They were the first group to record that song after it came out on "Music from Big Pink."

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Not a good time to work out association or partnership arrangements with other persons. Do those things yourself that require neat touch and precision. Wait another day for conferring and making arrangements with other persons for a more harmonious relationship.

ARIES (March 21 to Apr. 19) Partners are apt to buck where your ideas are concerned, so use diplomacy and they soon come around to your way of thinking. A situation arises that will need some time to straighten out. Don't act hastily.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get at all that work ahead of you and don't be dependent on others and you accomplish a good ideal. Remain poised so that you do not ruin your nervous system. Take it easy.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Do not indulge in recreation that is too expensive for your pocketbook and show you are wise. Be more willing to cooperate with loved ones. Make life together more ideal.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Avoid a tendency to argue at home and try to establish greater harmony instead. Get rid of tension. Plan a trip that can bring good results, whether of a personal or business nature.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Use much care in driving, walking, since both you and others are apt to make mistakes. Use care in speaking also, since tempers incline to be short.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Be careful in handling financial affairs since you could make serious errors otherwise. Make improvements to real estate and other holdings so that you feel more secure.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You feel dissatisfied and want to make new connections, change your way of living. Wait for a better day before getting started. Analyze financial position well.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be careful in making loans or giving other favors, since they might not all be bona fide. Listen to advice given you by an intelligent friend.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Not a good day to see friends since they are preoccupied with their own affairs. Study fondest aims and how to best gain them. Have a plan for living.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) This is not a good day to get much done where credit matters are concerned, so postpone until tomorrow. Be alert to any changes within your community. Go along with the best of these.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You want to make radical changes, but think them over carefully before you take action. Get your work done in a more up-to-date fashion instead and get good results.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Do what others expect of you and don't waste time foolishly. Try to please good friends more. Evening fine for personal happiness with loved ones.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will have the ability to be of great help to others and solve heavy problems that are difficult for them. Slant education along lines of law, medicine, psychiatry or any profession that means using the fine artistic abilities here, also.

Architect Awarded Gold Medal Defends Design

NEW YORK (AP) — Philip Johnson, who has designed some of the country's most innovative and prestigious buildings, receives the American Institute of Architects' gold medal May 24, the first living architect to be so honored in five years.

"Because I'm old," the 72-year-old architect said when asked why he had been chosen, at this time, for the award. "It's a prize for old age. ... A tombstone is much easier to give out than having to choose from among the younger men," said the man widely considered the dean of American architects.

A slight man with a resonant voice, the architect of the Pennzoil Place in Houston and the IDS Center in downtown Minneapolis commented on his selection for the award with a twinkle in his eye.

But he became serious as he spoke of the controversial design for the forthcoming AT&T skyscraper in New York, which Johnson and his partner John Burgee prepared in association with Harry Simons.

When the building's design model was unveiled here a few weeks ago, some critics, convinced Johnson was playing some kind of joke, likened the unusual structure to a piece of Chippendale furniture unsuited for a place on the New York skyline.

Johnson said suggestions he might be playing a joke made him furious. "I do not joke," he said. "This is the most serious direction I've ever worked in at any time in my life and it's been some 20 years in the back of my mind."

"I felt now the time was right and I proved this when I showed the building to the executives at AT&T," he said. "The chairman took one look at it and said, 'I'll buy it. ... Thank God, it's not another flat-top glass building.'" Johnson said.

A flat-top building it is not. Holding the design model in his hands, Johnson explained that the top portion of the structure, which takes the shape of a broken pediment, "obviously comes from Roman and Baroque architecture. ... There's no question it doesn't come from a piece of furniture."

"The AT&T building will reaffirm the older values of New York architecture," said Johnson, who was an historian before he became an architect. "I have for years been wanting to get back to how to use history in design," he said.

The architect said his building, with its very spacious lobby and arcades, also reflects the consumer-oriented times. "We are taking into consideration the decisions of planning boards when we approach our designs today," he said. He said the days when architects and critics dictated what the public should like are gone.

Silverton To Get Additional Water

A-J Correspondent
SILVERTON — The Silverton City Council has agreed to contract W. B. Bomar for city water from a well on his land southwest of the town square.

The city has previously purchased water from one well belonging to Bomar at the same site. When the contract is signed, the city will install a pump and run a line from the second well.

Council members also voted to join the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission to purchase surplus property and equipment through the commission, Jerry Patton, city manager, said.

Peyton McKnight Governor For Day

AUSTIN (AP) — Sen. Peyton McKnight, D-Tyler, was sworn in Wednesday as governor-for-a-day. The oath of office was administered by District Judge Glenn Phillips, also of Tyler.

Numerous legislators and McKnight's family attended the ceremony in the Senate chamber.

McKnight was selected by his colleagues as president pro tempore, or assistant presiding officer of the Senate. The office allows him to serve as governor when the governor and lieutenant governor are out of the state.

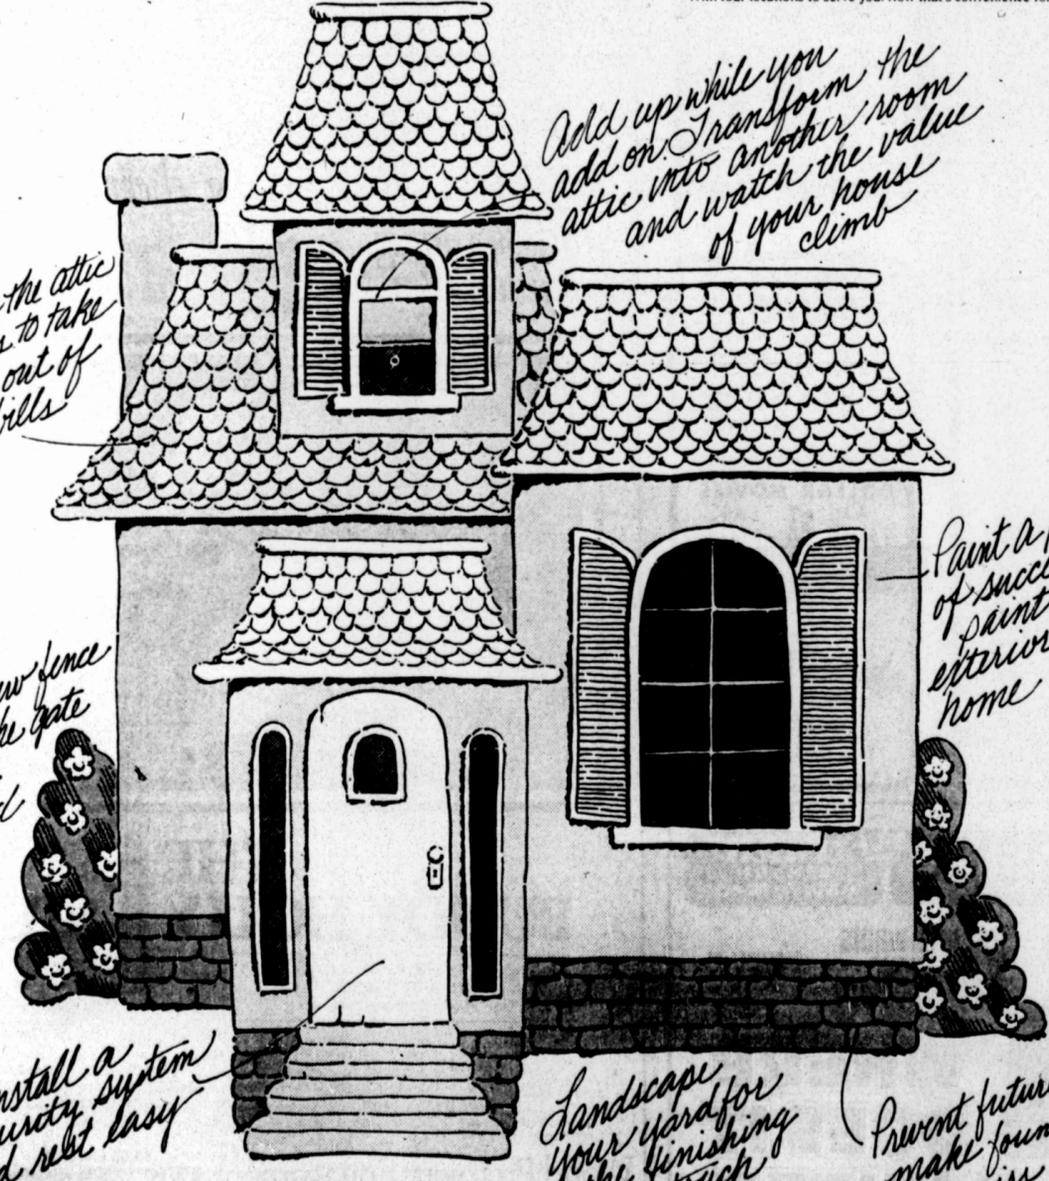

How to improve your home without hurting your budget.

There are probably several home improvements you'd make today if you only had the money. You'd make general repairs to keep your home in good condition. You'd personalize your home to reflect your lifestyle. Or expand it to fit your growing needs. At Lubbock Savings & Loan, we realize these improvements make very wise investments. For your family. And your community. They can also be expensive. And that's where we can help. With home improvement loans. So if you want to fix that crack in the ceiling. Add a third bedroom. Or whatever, see us first. We'll help you make the most out of your budget while you make the most out of your home.

Sign Up For Independence

When young people sign up for newspaper route work, they are really signing up for independence. The kind of independence that goes with earning your own money, running your own business and dealing with people on a one-to-one basis.

Our carriers are young business men and women. They provide a vital service, handle their own finances and reap a handsome profit from their efforts. What better training to prepare them for the future?

If you are interested in stepping into the business world and declaring your own independence, contact our carrier manager right now. He'll give you all of the important facts about carrier work. Then, if you are still interested, he'll provide the pen and show you where to sign... even if your name is John Hancock.

LCC, Carey Win 'Numbers' Games

By WALT McALEXANDER
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

William Carey and Lubbock Christian played the numbers game Wednesday. No, the Mafia wasn't involved, but Mesa State and St. Mary's would up feeling like the bad guys after a battle with Elliott Ness.

More than 600 fans showed up at Chaparral Stadium Wednesday and the opening round of the Area II Tournament was everything it had been billed.

William Carey entered this double-elimination tournament ranked No. 1 in the nation; LCC was listed as No. 9. And both those teams turned the heavy artillery loose late in the game.

The Crusaders from Hattiesburg, Miss., tallied five times in the eighth to break open a close game and whip Mesa State of Grand Junction, Colo., by a 9-2 count. LCC and St. Mary's were involved in a slugfest for the bragging right of Texas for for the first four innings, before the Chaps gradually pulled away and ended the contest early by tallying eight times in the seventh frame, winning 15-5.

St. Mary's, however, came back in the elimination game to post a 6-4 verdict over Mesa and will play at 4 p.m. today against the loser of the LCC-Carey tilt, which is set for 1 p.m.

Carey, which owns a .349 team batting average, started off with a roar, as Alex LaGrone doubled, Ricky McMullen tripled and Greg Moore doubled before Mesa starter Jerry Felt finally got an out.

Ricky Cook had his only trouble in the second when a pair of singles and three walks allowed Mesa to knot the score, but the Mavericks amassed only two baserunners the remainder of the way.

LaGrone, McMullen and Moore, meanwhile, reached base 10 times, scored five runs and collected seven hits, including four by McMullen.

"If we get those top two on, we're in good shape," exclaimed Crusader mentor John Stephenson afterwards. "Not too many people are going to throw LaGrone (who stole his 42nd base in 46 attempts on a pitchout) out and McMullen is just as fast although he's not quite as good a base stealer."

St. Mary's, ranked No. 14 in the nation, jumped off 1-0 in the top of the first on Charlie Migl's RBI single, then LCC went in front 2-1 on Steve Brigante's RBI single and Bobby Doe's bases-loaded walk.

The Chaps tallied twice more in the second on Darius Copley's triple which scored Glenn Wilken and then Tommy Inman scored when Mike Zamora bobbled the ball in left.

St. Mary's made things interesting in the third when, with two outs and the bases loaded, Marty Zolkowski bounced to short, when Wilken went to third and threw the ball past Kenny Toney, hitting

WHO'S THROWING? — Both LCC's Tommy Inman and St. Mary's shortstop Paul Tejada appear to be throwing to first on this play Wednesday. Inman was only bluffing his throw, however, as he scampered back to the bag. (Staff Photo by Milton Adams)

GRITTING HIS TEETH — LCC hurler John Ross grits his teeth as he makes this delivery against St. Mary's Wednesday. Ross picked up his ninth win in 13 decisions, allowing six hits and three earned runs in 5 2/3 innings. (Staff Photo by Milton Adams)

Carlen Pleased By SC Decision

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — University of South Carolina trustees Wednesday reaffirmed their support of President James B. Holderman's reorganization of the school's athletic program. But the board did not address itself specifically to the duties of the newly created post of vice president of athletic affairs.

It was Holderman's appointment March 1 of Dr. James A. Morris to that position that sparked head football coach and athletic director Jim Carlen's threat of legal action against the school. Carlen maintained that Morris had been given duties promised to Carlen in his contract.

In a resolution approved unanimously after a little more than an hour's discussion Wednesday and 3 1/2 hours last week behind closed doors, the board said it stands by its Jan. 25 endorsement of Holderman's decision to have one person oversee the university's athletic program, both on the Columbia campus and regional two and four-year campuses.

But the board failed to detail what duties the vice president will have when Morris turns the post over to a permanent successor July 1.

At a news conference, board Chairman R. Markley Dennis said a position statement outlining a job description for the vice president would be released at a later date.

However, Holderman said the vice president's principal concern is "with the review of budgetary recommendations, allocation of funds and systemwide policy development."

He said creation of the post was a "delegation of presidential authority to a vice president rather than of authority away from someone else to that position."

Holderman said Carlen and head basketball Coach and Associate Athletic Director Frank McGuire will report to the vice president for athletic affairs. However, the director of the Gamecock Club, the university's million-dollar booster organization, will report to Carlen and McGuire "on a day-to-day basis." Under the original plan proposed by Holderman, the director, Ed Pitts, would have reported to Morris.

Holderman called the board's action a "clarification" of his original plan for reorganization, rather than a "substantial modification."

The resolution specifies that Carlen, McGuire, the director of women's athletics and the board's intercollegiate activities committee will have input into who will become the permanent vice president for athletic affairs.

Carlen said Wednesday afternoon he considers the resolution "an endorsement of the total athletic program at the Columbia campus. The only thing left to do

Don Henry Not Just Another Fish Story

SOMEWHERE OUT THERE, a metalsmith is scratching his head, wondering why anyone in his right senses would want a pair of men's sandals bronzed. Meanwhile, at the same time, another guy, his feet well scarred and blistered, is scratching his head, wondering why grown men try to play boys' games.

And, it all came about because of a fishing trip.

But, to back up a few weeks. With four signatures legibly scrawled on national letters-of-intent. Raider basketball boss Gerald Myers felt he could relax. The four players he signed were ones he wanted, and although he missed out on one guard that went to Oklahoma State, Myers said he felt the school had a good recruiting year and he could ease off a bit.

You know: Take the wife out for dinner, play a round of golf without the conscious gnawing, take an afternoon snooze in front of the TV.

About the same time, here came this invitation to go fishing, far from the referees, gripping fans, missed free shots, and overtime turnovers. Myers felt he could really relax, restore the old spirit in the way some folks would put it.

WHEN ONE ATTEMPTS to picture Gerald Myers in a boat, rod-and-reel in hand, on a placid lake, one has to strain the old imagination. Seems rather difficult for Gerald to stand up in a two-man boat and rip off his sports coat without scaring the fish, tipping the canoe and wetting the guide.

But, the invitation was too good to decline, so Myers and aide Rob Evans joined Hobbs businessman-Raider fan Raymond Eaves on the flight to Mexico.

The trio headed southwest, stopping in at this popular fishing lake some 50 miles inland from Las Mochis, where the bass line up to get on your hook, and you call the 4-pounders.

Fishing was good all day Saturday: "I caught one that weighed 6 pounds," Myers bragged. "We brought back more than 100 pounds of fish."

Maybe 100 pounds was not the correct total, maybe he said 1,000. But the fish total was immaterial. It was the night's activity which is the key to it all.

ONE OF THE caretakers of the house where the trio stayed was a teen-ager who played basketball for the town team. In Mexico, communities do not usually have school teams, only a team from the town, organized on a club basis.

These teams will play groups from sur-

Washington, Bonds Mad About Swap

ARLINGTON (AP) — Neither the Bobby Bonds of the Chicago White Sox nor Claudell Washington of the Texas Rangers were pleased to hear they had been exchanged in a trade between the two American League clubs.

"I was happy right here," Bonds said in Chicago Tuesday night. "I was hoping to stay. I just paid two months rent on my apartment and my furniture is on the way. I don't even know where Texas is in the standings."

Washington, an outfielder, trooped to the clubhouse in Arlington Stadium with Ranger majority owner Brad Corbett Tuesday night as Texas was losing to Milwaukee.

"He asked me if I wanted to go to Chicago," Washington said. "I told him I didn't."

It didn't matter. The deal, announced late Tuesday, sent Washington, outfielder Rusty Torres and a minor league player to be named later to Chicago in exchange for Bonds, who was unsigned at Chicago and will become a free agent next year. He could then sell his talents to the highest bidder.

"We're getting a 32-year-old superstar and giving up a 23-year-old budding star," Corbett said. "We honestly feel Bonds is one of the four or five best players in baseball today. And Claudell Washington will be a great player."

Washington, labeled "untouchable" by Manager Billy Hunter just last September, never got going this season. He sprained his ankle during the winter playing basketball and still isn't 100 percent. While he struggled, John Lowenstein got hot at the plate and Richie Zisk played well in the field.

"I'm real sorry for Claudell's situation this year," Hunter said. "He just found himself in a situation and is just now getting into shape. This has been like his spring training."

Hunter said he plans right now to make Bonds the designated hitter when he joins the team, which may be Friday in Seattle.

Bonds said he only was mildly surprised at the announcement, guessing that his status as an unsigned player might have been a factor.

White Sox owner Bill Veech confirmed that the Sox.

"We took a gamble and it didn't work," Veech said. "We felt if we got off to a good start we could worry about signing him later. Since we didn't, we wanted to see if we couldn't salvage something."

Corbett indicated he would make a strong bid to sign Bonds.

Reaction of other players was generally subdued.

"I hate to see Claudell go," said first baseman Mike Hargrove. "He's a helluva guy and a helluva ballplayer. Of course, we're getting a good ballplayer in return."

Outfielder Al Oliver said, "It's a tough game. They've been talking about this trade throughout the winter and throughout the season and the man's just been sitting her idle."

"I don't understand why they had to wait so long. I was just getting close to him personally. We got a super player and now Claudell has his chance to be a superstar. I feel sorry for him that he's lost a month and a half of the season."

Bonds has hit at least 30 home runs and stolen 30 bases in a single season four times — more than any major leaguer. He had one of his best seasons in 1977 when he batted .264 with 36 home runs and 115 RBI. He scored 103 runs and stole 41 bases while playing for the California Angels. This was his first season with the White Sox.

Cauthen Hurts Wrist In Spill

NEW YORK (AP) — Steve Cauthen, rider of Kentucky Derby winner Affirmed, suffered a slight wrist injury Wednesday when he was thrown from his mount after the fourth race at Aqueduct.

Cauthen is scheduled to ride Affirmed Saturday in the Preakness, the second leg of the Triple Crown, at Pimlico Race Course.

Cauthen, the 18-year-old wonder who became the first jockey to win over $6 million when he accomplished the feat last year, was thrown when he tried to pull up his mount, Northern Pro, after the fourth race. The horse seemed to bob his head, causing Cauthen to lose his balance and go sprawling to the track.

The Walton, Ky., native tried to cushion his fall by extending his arm, but came down heavily on his right wrist.

He was examined by track physician John J. Kilgallen and X-rays of the wrist were taken.

Kilgallen said the X-rays of the wrist showed no fracture and diagnosed the injury as a slight sprain.

Cauthen wanted to complete his riding assignments, but Kilgallen advised him to go home and soak the wrist in water.

LA Delegation Presents Bid

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — A Los Angeles delegation survived a two-hour grilling by the International Olympic Committee Wednesday and prepared to insure against financial loss in staging the 1984 Olympic Games.

The IOC votes on Los Angeles' troubled, all-alone bid Thursday. But Mayor Tom Bradley and John C. Argue, chairman of the delegation, were confident their city will get the Games.

They claimed that differences with the IOC over the contract had been smoothed over by the insurance plan.

"The agreement solves the problem with insurance," Argue said. "The insurance will adequately protect the IOC and the U.S. Olympic Committee."

"In the past they have looked to the city for a guarantee. This time they are looking to insurance."

There was no official word from the IOC that it was ready to rewrite its draft contract, which for weeks Los Angeles has been refusing to sign.

Bradley said the lawyers of the two sides will work out a new contract after the Games are awarded to Los Angeles "if the IOC takes that decision Thursday."

The Los Angeles bid, which has been dogged by controversy and argument, reached an unhappy climax when the delegation prepared to present a slide show to the IOC and the projector broke down.

"We couldn't show the slides, but we were able to talk and get the message across about the quality of our sites," Bradley said.

The mayor said that if the IOC votes in favor of Los Angeles, the next step will be to get the city council to agree to the contract.

"Of course it is possible for our city council to turn the agreement down," Bradley said. "But the council has been overwhelming in its support for us from the outset, and I am sure it will support us now."

While Bradley claimed a new contract will be drawn up, IOC sources insisted the original contract drafted by the IOC must be accepted before the Games can be awarded. Los Angeles, seeking to protect itself against a heavy deficit, sent back a new and longer draft contract of its own — and that caused the controversy that threatened to wreck its bid for the Games.

The IOC also heard three rival bids for the 1984 Winter Games, in a less controversial atmosphere.

Prince Berthil of Sweden led a delegation bidding for a new style Winter Games on behalf of Goteborg. The Swedes want to spread the Games around four centers — Goteborg, Are, Falun and Hammarstrand.

They answered questions from Lord Killanin, president of the IOC, about problems caused by distances between the sites.

Bo Bengtsson, secretary of the Swedish Olympic Committee, said afterwards: "The distances will be no great problem in this modern age. It will be possible to fly anyone from one center to another in one hour or a little more."

The other candidates were Sapporo, Japan, which staged the Winter Games of 1972, and Sarajevo, Yugoslavia.

Asked whether he thought the IOC would give Sapporo the Games again so soon, Yoshiro Ito, chairman of the executive committee, said: "All our citizens want the Games, and we told the IOC that."

New Goal Faces Bear

DUBLIN, Ohio (AP) — Winning again in his own tournament, the Memorial, is a personal, private goal for Jack Nicklaus.

"Winning this tournament last year," said golf's premier player, "was the greatest thrill of my life, my greatest accomplishment in golf."

"Now, I want to do it again."

"From the standpoint of my golf record, winning in the majors is my No. 1 goal. From a personal standpoint, winning this is the most important."

"That's what I'm here for this week."

He's here for other things, too. The founder of the tournament, architect of the course, driving force behind the whole affair, is deeply involved in every aspect of the event that is rapidly growing in stature and prestige. He's even been heard to wonder if the trees and flowers will be in bloom for the Thursday-through-Sunday playing dates.

Seven days of rain wiped out the pro-am and restricted Nicklaus' practice time. He hasn't played competitively in a month and got into only two practice rounds over the Muirfield Village Golf Club course, 7,101 yards of Ohio real estate where the young Nicklaus once hunted rabbits and pheasants.

"I don't know what my game will be like," said Nicklaus, who has won twice and finished second twice in an abbreviated playing schedule this year.

Still, as the defending champion, he must be ranked the man to beat in the elite, invitational, 105-man field that will be chasing about $250,000 in total prizes.

"I think it's the best field we've had in the three years of the tournament," Nicklaus said.

Chief among his challengers are South African Gary Player, Tom Watson and Hubert Green, current holders, respectively, of the Masters, British Open and U.S. Open titles. Player and Watson, of course, have won three titles each this season, Green two.

Other leading players include Arnold Palmer, Hale Irwin, Tom Weiskopf, Ray Floyd, Ben Crenshaw, Jerry Pate and Australian David Graham.

They'll be competing on a very wet, soggy layout.

"I think the scores may be a little lower, because of the wet conditions," Nicklaus said. "The greens won't be as fast as last year, but they'll be the fastest on the tour this year."

The forecast is for clearing through the weekend.

The major absentees are Lee Trevino, winner of last week's Colonial National Invitation, and PGA titleholder Lanny Wadkins.

CBS-TV will provide national television coverage of portions of the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday.

Dodgers Get A's Outfielder

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Dodgers, trailing in the National League West Division race, have added another journeyman player. And the A's, frontrunners in the American League West, got a promising younger player in the trade that sent Bill North to Los Angeles and Glenn Burke to Oakland.

"We traded youth for an established player," Dodgers Vice President Al Campanis said of Wednesday's trade of outfielders. "Bill has shown us he is an outstanding player. He'll help us out on overall balance of our ballclub."

"He's a big plus in that he's a switch hitter," Campanis continued. "We're happy to have obtained a player of his caliber."

The 29-year-old North and Burke, 25, both have been used sparingly this year. Each has a .211 batting average for the season.

The senior member of the A's and the last link to Oakland's consecutive World Series champions of 1972-74, North was playing out his option. He was a six-year A's veteran and had a .273 average for the past five years.

He was hurt most of last season, playing in just 56 games and hitting .261. He has stolen 241 bases in his career, and led the league in 1976 with 75 thefts.

A's owner Charles O. Finley kept North out of the A's lineup for most of this season, saying he directed the outfielder be used sparingly because he was playing out his option.

Skies Baffle SM Coach

By CARTER CROMWELL
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

St. Mary's came into the NAIA Area II Tournament with a reputation as being a good fielding team, but committed six errors in Wednesday's 15-5 first-round loss to Lubbock Christian. Thus, the first question that faced Rattler coach Elmer Kosub following the contest concerned the wind.

Did the gusts, he was asked, have much effect on his ballclub?

"No, not really," he replied. "We're not looking for any excuses. All our excuses are in the (LCC) batrack."

Indeed, the Chaparrals hit the ball well in their opening-round victory, which earned them the right to battle the NAIA's top-ranked team — William Carey of Mississippi — in the second round today at 1 p.m. at the LCC Field.

LCC rapped 12 hits — five for extra bases — in the game shortened to seven innings because of the 10-run rule.

"They've got good hitters, no question about it," Kosub said of LCC.

Chap coach Larry Hays was naturally pleased.

"We hit everything today. We looked real good."

Hays said the Chaps, a .340-hitting club prior to the tournament, have usually batted better versus control-type pitchers than the overpowering types, and St. Mary's starter Conrad Perez is more of the control variety, although he didn't show it Wednesday with four walks in five frames.

"Pitchers that just overpower you and come in on the fists a lot are the ones that have given us the most problems," Hays said. "At Arlington (in the district tourney), everything seemed to fall into place for us as far as that goes. Before, we always seemed to catch the real hard throwers."

Hays feels the Chaparrals are doing a better job now of bunting and running.

"Too much of the time this year, we've just waited for the big inning, and it didn't come sometimes. When we weren't hitting, we also weren't bunting or running or doing other things well to get some runs."

"I was glad to see us hit the ball well in every inning today."

It was a big inning that decided the game, however. LCC combined four hits — three extra-base blows — a three-run St. Mary's error and five walks for eight runs in the seventh frame.

The Rattlers, 33-9 before the tournament, committed the six errors, and their three pitchers walked nine batters.

"I said before the tournament that pitching had to carry us, and we didn't get the good pitching against LCC," Kosub said. "It all goes back to pitching."

Hays felt that the wind and the terrain bothered St. Mary's, and Kosub, although he steadfastly refrained from blaming the conditions for his club's loss, admitted that they some effect.

"There's a big sky out in the this part of the country, and they're used to having a lot of trees around," Hays said.

"I guess the sky made some difference," Kosub added. "Tuesday, we fielded some fly balls, and our outfielders had trouble judging them."

In all three of Wednesday's games, players from the three teams other than LCC clearly had trouble judging balls hit into the air, and a few that should have been caught fell to the ground.

"The wind didn't help us," Kosub admitted, "but LCC had to put up with it, too."

LCC was able to control reasonably well St. Mary's Danny Heep, the Rattlers' big hitter with a .416 average, by not giving him many good pitches to hit. Heep was 1-2 with two walks and a sixth-inning run-scoring double.

"We had heard so much about him that we pitched to him very carefully," Hays said. "He wouldn't swing at any bad pitches, either. We got into a position where we had to pitch to him in the sixth inning, and he hit it well."

The problem for Hays now is lack of pitching depth, one that has plagued the Chaparrals all season and was exacerbated recently by the elbow injury to No. 1 pitcher Oscar Acosta, who will not be able to pitch in the Area Tournament.

Righthander Gary Swann will pitch for the Chaps today, "and we'll play it by ear after that," Hays said. "If we lose a game, it's going to be a long road for us. We can't count on scoring that many runs every time."

WATCHING IT FALL — St. Mary's shortstop Paul Tejada (2) and left fielder Mike Zamora watch as Mark Lisle's seventh-inning hit falls for a single and plate two Chaparral runs Wednesday. LCC won 15-5 in a game halted in the bottom of the seventh by the 10-run rule. (Staff Photo by Milton Adams)

Blue Wins Sixth Straight For Hot SF

By The Associated Press
Vida Blue struck out 11 batters over seven innings and contributed a run-scoring double as the San Francisco Giants rolled to their seventh straight victory, beating the Chicago Cubs 9-5 Wednesday.

Blue, 6-1, posted his sixth consecutive victory. It was the 11th triumph in 12 games for the National League West leaders.

The Giants scored 7 runs in the first three innings off Cubs starter Ray Burris, 2-3, including four in the first when Larry Herndon had a 2-run single. Jack Clark hit his fourth homer of the season, a solo shot in the second, and Mike Ivie opened the Giants' third with his second homer of the year.

EXPOS 5, REDS 4
Andre Dawson raced home from third base on a wild pitch by Cincinnati reliever Dale Murray in the bottom of the 11th inning as the Montreal Expos edged Cincinnati.

Dave Cash led off the 11th with a single against Murray, 1-1, and went to second on an error by center fielder George Foster. Murray then walked Dawson intentionally before Gary Carter reached first on a fielder's choice with Cash forced at third.

Ellis Valentine made it to first on another fielder's choice with Carter erased at second and Dawson moving to third.

PADRES 5, CARDS 2
Gene Richards' two-run single capped a 4-run third-inning uprising which carried the San Diego Padres to a 5-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals and sweep of their 3-game series.

The loss was the seventh straight for the Cardinals, who also dropped their ninth straight game in San Diego Stadium. St. Louis has not won in San Diego since July 17, 1976.

ASTROS 2, PHILS 1
Catcher Bob Boone's 2-run throwing error in the third inning accounted for all of Houston's runs, and Tom Dixon hurried four innings of scoreless relief to help the Astros trim Philadelphia for their fifth straight victory.

The Astros loaded the bases with one out in the third on a walk to Joe Ferguson, a ground rule double by Roger Metzger and a walk to Terry Puhl. Enos Cabell followed with a grounder to third baseman Mike Schmidt, who threw to the plate to force Ferguson. Boone's relay to first base in an attempt to complete the double play sailed into the Astros' bullpen down the right field line, allowing both Metzger and Puhl to score.

METS, BRAVES SPLIT
Nino Espinosa scattered six hits and Len Randle singled home the winning run as the New York Mets notched a 3-1 victory and a split of their two-night doubleheader with the Atlanta Braves.

Atlanta won the opener 2-1 on Jerry Royster's run-scoring single in the 10th, backing a four-hitter by Phil Niekro, 3-6. Jerry Koosman, 2-4, was the starter and loser for the Mets in the opener.

CHISOX 9, ANGELS 6
Bill Naharodny and Jorge Orta each belted 2-run homers in the eighth inning Wednesday night as the Chicago White Sox snapped a four-game losing streak with a victory over California.

Orta's fifth homer of the season capped a 5-run uprising in the eighth against loser Nolan Ryan, 2-3. Eric Soderholm's run-scoring single drove in the first run in the inning and Naharodny followed Soderholm's hit with his third homer to give Chicago a 7-1 lead.

Horns Bypass Ags' Golfers

DENTON (AP) — Texas' Jon Chafee and Dale Blackburn each shot a 2-under-par 69 Wednesday to move the Longhorns past Texas A&M and into an 11-stroke lead in the Southwest Spring Classic golf tournament.

Texas started Wednesday's second round eight strokes behind the Aggies, but managed to compile a 2-under 282 for a 575 total in 36 holes to bypass A&M.

First round co-leaders Richard Cromwell and Dave Ogrin of Texas A&M found the going rough Wednesday on the par-71

Denton Country Club course. Cromwell jumped to a 76 and Ogrin shot 75.

Texas Wesleyan is one stroke behind the Aggies at 587 and Oklahoma City has a 588 total. Steve Brewster led TWC in Wednesday's round with a 2-under 69 for a 36-hole card of 143.

OCU golfers David Kedy and Rod Rist took the individual honors Wednesday. Kedy, the individual leader, shot a 69 and is 3-under at 139 for 36 holes. Rist tied the low round of the tournament with a 3-under 68.

Tech Track Signs

A pair of twins that led Lovington to the New Mexico Class AAA state championship will be running for Texas Tech next year. Raider track coach Corky Oglesby announced.

Signed to national letters-of-intent are twins Keith and Paul Alexander, the first track signees this spring.

Between them, the Alexanders won or figured in six gold medals as Lovington scored 71½ points to win the title. Tucunari was a distant second with 40 points.

Paul Alexander won the high hurdles in 14.12 and Keith was second at 14.34. In the 180-yard low hurdles, Keith was the winner in 19.93 and Paul finished second at 20.07. Paul had a best time of 18.8.

Kuhne, Schuchard Survive Openers

MONROE, La. (Special) — Two Texas Tech women advanced in the first round of the individual portion of the regional AIAW Tennis Tournament being held here.

Kathy Kuhne of Tech defeated Vicki Saraga of SMU 7-5, 4-6, 6-2, and Karen Schuchard of Tech ousted Susie Brennan of Oklahoma 6-4, 6-4.

Karen McCarter of LSU defeated Kim Hood of Tech 7-5, 6-4, and Leisa Berry of Oklahoma State stopped Mame Bevers of Tech 6-0, 6-1.

Today, Miss Kuhne will play Sherry Duncan of Northeast Louisiana and Miss Schuchard will take on Ann Ellis of LSU.

The doubles competition will begin today.

The team portion of the tournament was completed Wednesday, with Trinity defeating LSU 7-2 for the championship. Northeast Louisiana nipped SMU 5-4 for third.

rounding towns, much like summer basketball teams in this part of the land.

"We had fished all day and went down there just to watch," Myers recalls. "I was wearing a pair of shorts and these sandals I had just bought, and Rob had on a pair of old shoes."

"In the center of town, they have this enclosed area like a patio with stands surrounding the court. The stands will seat about 500, I guess."

"When we got there," Myers said, "they were playing a girls volleyball game. A bunch of kids ran up and someone told them we were basketball coaches. Then up came this guy with a whistle around his neck and asked us if we would play their team."

"Shoot, we couldn't play. No way. But, finally, Raymond said we'd play for five minutes. I didn't agree to it, but what could we do?"

down the court), I realized I'd better strap those sandals on tight, that concrete was hard."

Myers found out what was in store when five minutes stretched into ten, and the whistle blew ending the first half.

There was, the trio realized, another ten minutes to play.

"Here I am 42, Rob is 32, and Raymond is 38. They gave us probably the best two players, but they were all young kids who can run all day. One time, I went up for a shot, missed, got my rebound, shot and missed again. I shot four times and missed 'em all. The last time, I just backed off and let somebody else get the rebound," Myers admitted, exhausted by even telling the yarn.

"Finally, they said we had two minutes left. We were ahead by 4 points, and then they scored. We ended up winning by 2 points."

Thus closed another chapter in international friendship. Not only did the Mexicans let the Yanks win, but in an effort to promote goodwill, they let Myers escape without a technical.

In ten years or so, a young man will thrill his young daughter with a tale of the time he played the great American coaches... and almost won.

And, some day, when Myers is cleaning out the closet, he'll come upon a few straps of dusty leather... and wish he'd saved that 6-point bass instead.

WELL, EVANS, STANDING a good 6-3, controlled the tip and slapped it to Myers. The Raider coach dribbled down and shot. Missed. The Mexican group raced down and shot. Missed. Then, it was Evans' time and he popped from the top of the key.

The stands went wild.

"They'd cheer for every basket, whether we scored or their own team," said Myers. "But, by this time (three trips member the name of the construction company or the Houston car dealer. And his mother, Mrs. Jewellean Manley of Houston, told the newspaper her son was not employed last summer and that he received a "very small amount" of insurance money from Tenneco Inc. in Houston where his deceased father worked.

"I really don't know where he got the car," Mrs. Manley was quoted as saying. "He just told me he had the car and he didn't know how long he was going to be able to keep it."

"Anybody is free to believe anything they want," Stanley said.

"But I'm personally satisfied there was no wrongdoing. I don't think it's any secret that the Dallas papers somehow, some way would like to stop us from going into Texas and recruiting. Not only so, but Oklahoma as well."

Stanley said Manley gets $232-a-month Social Security payment from his father's death and that he received a yearly Equal Opportunity Grant from the federal government of $1,400. In addition, Stanley said, Manley gets about $600 per semester in insurance money from the company his father worked for.

"It appears to me a guy can drive a car who gets that kind of money," Stanley said. "But that's really not anybody's business. The amount of money a kid gets from the estate of his dead daddy is nobody's business but his own."

Another Oklahoma State player identified in the Times Herald story was Steve Hammond, the Oklahoma Back of the Year last year. The Times Herald said Hammond first denied he had a car, but when told his stepfather had confirmed ownership said, "They're telling us not to answer those type of questions. They busted a lot of people up here and everybody is a little scared."

"I talked to the Hammond kid," Stanley said. "His mother and daddy both have good jobs and his daddy bought the car for him for graduation."

FCA Picnic Set Sunday

Presentation of the annual Miles Langenhenn Memorial Award will be highlight of the annual Fellowship of Christian Athletes picnic, to be held Sunday afternoon at Chapman Field.

The program will be from 4-6 p.m., with FCA members and their parents invited, reported FCA field representative Ed Mooney.

The award goes annually to the outstanding FCA athlete in the city. It is named after former Tech athlete and FCA member Miles Langenhenn who was killed in an industrial accident here following his collegiate career.

Nominees are Kelly Roberts, Lubbock High; Wayne Williams, Dunbar; L.C. Route, Estacado; Dee Law, Coronado, and Ron Reeves, Monterey.

NAIA Track Begins Today

ABILENE (AP) — A four-team race for the national outdoor track and field championship is expected during the NAIA meet today, Friday and Saturday.

Last year's runner-up, Adams State College of Alamosa, Colo., 1978 host Abilene Christian, Southern University of Baton Rouge, La., and Texas Southern are the favorites after defending champion Jackson State of Mississippi announced earlier in the week it would not enter.

A record 877 athletes from 138 schools in 34 states and Canada have entered the 23-event meet.

Eleven individual champions will defend 1977 titles. They are Wylie Turner, 200 meters, Angelo State, Texas; Evans White, 800 meters, Prairie View, Texas; Scott McMillen, 1,500 meters, Adams State; Lewis Pike, 110-meter high hurdles, Henderson State, Ark.; Mike Cooper, high jump, Cumberland, Ky.; Paul White, shot put, Arkansas Tech; Charles Shipman, discus, Pembroke State, N.C.;

Danny Neugent, hammer throw, Oklahoma Christian; Bill Waters, decathlon, Point Loma, Calif.; John Kebero, steeplechase, Abilene Christian; and Carl Williams, long jump, Abilene Christian.

Other top entries include weightman Frank Gross of Adams State, hurdler Ricky Davenport of Southern, half-miler Gerald Masterson of Ouachita Baptist, Ark., and 17-6 pole vaulter Frank Estes and Billy Olson, both of Abilene Christian.

Gross, a top contender in three events, has thrown the shot 63-4 and the discus 194-7. He was upset by White last year.

Pike (13.66) and Davenport (13.68) are expected to battle in the high hurdles.

White, who won in a record 1:47.39 last year, will face top competition from Masterson and a strong field in the 800 meters.

ACU and Jackson State tied for the recent NAIA indoor crown in February in Kansas City.

Bill Would Require Agriculture Transport Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation approved Wednesday by the Senate Agriculture Committee would require the Agriculture Department to study the national transportation system to see if it meets agriculture's needs.

The committee gave little attention to the Agriculture Department's view that such studies are the responsibility of the Transportation Department, which already is doing some surveys and cooperating with the Agriculture Department.

The measure also would require the Agriculture Department to participate in all federal regulatory proceedings that affect transportation of agricultural products. There were about 12,800 such actions last year throughout the government. The Agriculture Department now picks which proceedings it participates in.

The committee also adopted a non-binding "sense of the Senate" resolution urging the Interstate Commerce Commission to take specified steps to assure more efficient use of railroad freight cars to move crops and to encourage building of more cars.

The bill does not attempt to take over any Transportation Department jurisdiction, said Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., the committee chairman, and the ICC supports it. Most of the resolution's proposals already are under consideration, ICC Chairman A. Daniel O'Neal said.

Both actions stem from the perennial spring shortage of box cars and covered hopper cars to move grain out of Midwest country elevators and terminals before the new crops come in.

This year, federal officials and Kansas Gov. Robert Bennett have told the committee, the shortage is more critical than ever, with orders for 30,000 to 35,000 cars not yet met by the railroads. The buildup of surplus grain that is now in ter storms and the coal miners' strike, were given as the reasons.

When the grain can't be delivered to buyers on time, the price paid farmers is reduced. When the elevators can't be cleared to receive the harvest, the grain often must be stored on the ground. Price-support loans aren't available on that stock, so farmers can't get cash to tide them over until it's sold.

The bill would require the Agriculture Department to study U.S. rail lines and recommend within six months a national transportation system adequate to meet agriculture's needs, with a final plan to achieve it presented within 34 months.

In a letter to the panel, Assistant Agriculture Secretary Carol Tucker Foran said that the Transportation Department is already responsible under other laws for such projects and Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland is participating "to ensure that the needs of agriculture are adequately represented."

Grain Futures

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat and corn futures were narrowly mixed, but soybeans dropped lower on the Chicago Board of Trade today.

Clear skies in the Midwest and a pickup in country grain movement initially exerted pressure on prices.

But the prospect of more rain by the weekend spurred some buying, since farmers need several days of warm, dry weather to resume planting. Recent price hikes, especially for corn, have stemmed from planting delays caused by an unusually wet spring.

Most of the weakness in soybeans was attributed to liquidation before May contracts expire at the end of the week, as well as evening up positions before the Agriculture Department releases a revision of the supply-demand outlook for soybeans and soybean products.

Brazil denied a rumor that its soybean crop estimate might be increased. The rumor prompted some late selling during the preceding session.

At the close, soybeans were 1/2 to 1 1/2 cents lower, with May contracts quoted at $7 1/4 a bushel, wheat was 1 cent lower to 1 1/4 cents higher, May $3.20; corn was 1/4 cent lower to 1 1/4 cents higher, May $2 2/2; and oats were 1/2 to 1 cent lower, May $1.44.

Cotton Futures

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures No. 2 closed $7.00 to $7.70 a bale higher Wednesday.

Futures closed higher in active trading based on weather related planting problems, brokers said.

The average price for strict low middling 11-16 inch spot cotton declined 56 points to 57.15 cents a pound Tuesday for the ten leading markets, according to the New York Cotton Exchange.

Cattle Futures Close Lower

By Reuters

CHICAGO — Cattle futures slumped 115 points Wednesday after an early gain of 65 and finally ended 25 to 95 lower on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange.

August led the decline. Volume was estimated at 34,207 contracts.

Feeder cattle futures fell 80 to 150 points with May off the limit on a total of 3,667 turnovers.

Resistance came after prices rose to highest levels since 1973 with traders fearful of adverse consumer reaction to record high cattle and beef prices this week.

Wholesale beef was unchanged at 89 to 90 cents per pound, a February 1974 high. Cash cattle were steady to up $1. Best top was an historic high of $61 per hundredweight in Sioux City.

Slaughter was estimated at 145,000 head today, the six markets expect 9,800 head to arrive.

Hog futures slumped 120 points before finishing 50 to 95 lower led by the nearby July. Sales were 9,600 points.

The market reacted after an early gain of 25 points and a new season's high in December.

Profit-taking and other selling was triggered after prices rose to highest points since March 1977 as traders feared consumer resistance to escalating meat prices.

Weakness in other meat pits also influenced selling.

Wholesale hams were unchanged to up three-fourths cent at 79 to 80 3/4 cents per pound, f.o.b. river points, a nine-week high. Cash hogs were steady to $1 higher with the top at Peoria of $52.50 per hundredweight, best since February.

The major terminals expect 26,500 head to arrive today, Wednesday's kill was estimated at 275,000 head.

Pork belly (bacon) futures plunged 150 to 200 points led by July through February at the limit after nearby May also fell a like amount. Volume was 9,592 turnovers.

competitor of U.S. oilseeds in the world market.

The report said that because of the larger demand the farm price of soybeans for the 1977-78 marketing year, which will end Aug. 31 now is expected to average $6 a bushel. Although that would be down from the 1976-77 average of $6.81 a bushel, it would be more than 50 cents a bushel above what the USDA estimated last winter when the export outlook was not as good.

Officials said that the soybean reserve when the next marketing year begins Sept. 1 is expected to be about 170 million bushels instead of the 200 million bushels projected less than a month ago in a similar report. The carryover last Sept. 1 was down to 103 million bushels as a result of the relatively small 1976 U.S. soybean harvest.

The new figures are expected to put further pressure on farmers to plant more soybeans this year. Another factor is that corn planting has been delayed this spring because of wet weather, thus making soybeans an attractive alternate because those can be planted later than corn.

Part of the increased demand was attributed to Brazil's smaller soybean crop this year, which normally is the leading

Mart Records Another Gain

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market overcame spells of selling at the opening and near the close to record its sixth straight gain in another extremely active session Wednesday.

Analysts said recent signs that the economy was moving ahead at a healthy pace had helped reinforce this spring's outburst of enthusiasm for stocks.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose 4.07 to 858.37, establishing an eight-month high for the second successive day. Over the past six sessions the average has climbed 36.30 points.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange totaled 45.49 million shares, against 48.18 million Tuesday.

Until April 14 of this year, exchange volume had surpassed 40 million shares only once — on Feb. 20, 1976. Since then it has happened 10 times, with the record of 63.51 million having been set on April 17.

Stock prices declined briefly at the opening. But by late morning traders who had been waiting for a pullback to do some "catch-up" buying had put the market back on the offensive.

Prices for New York Stock Exchange issues of NYSE closed, plus volume considered for securities also traded on other markets.

Board Approves Two New Banks

AUSTIN (AP) — The State Banking Board has approved applications for charters by the proposed Community Bank and Trust of Rockdale and Campbell Road Bank of Dallas.

The board also approved an application by the Citizens National Bank and Trust Co. of Baytown to convert to a state bank to be known as Citizens Bank and Trust Co. of Baytown.

It denied a charter application by the proposed Community State Bank of Hondo. The board said it did not think there was a public necessity for the bank, and business volume did not indicate that the bank would be profitable.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By SAM SHULSKY

Q. A company in which I own stock is asking shareholders to give up their pre-emptive rights. Seems to me, we shareholders should insist on keeping these rights and, instead, canceling all those fat stock options.

A. Let's take one thing at a time. A pre-emptive rights clause requires that any new issue of stock must first be offered to present shareholders before it is offered to the general public (if the shareholders don't buy all of the new issue).

You can develop a lot of heat on the question of pre-emptive rights. Some shareholders feel that since they already own stock in a company they should be given first chance to buy more via any new issue... especially since the new stock is generally offered at a slight discount from the going market price.

I am not at all convinced — either by arithmetic or by market experience following such offerings — that the financial value of pre-emptive rights to present shareholders is as significant as popularly believed. If you already own the company via shares selling in the open market at $23.50 who, do you suppose, is making up that difference? And, who, do you suppose, reaps the benefits if the additional shares are sold directly to the public and bring $25 per share in to your company?

Corporation officials have an argument against pre-emptive rights offerings: the process is much slower and more uncertain than a normal public underwriting by bankers who pay for the issue at noon one day and then re-sell it to the public, assuming any subsequent risk of a falling stock market.

No decision. What I don't follow is your pairing pre-emptive rights with stock options which are basically a tax gimmick for the benefit of corporation officials. Companies which award these options to executives argue that the options help attract and reward good managers. It has always seemed to me that a laborer is worthy of his hire. And that if he's a good "laborer" he should be paid a good salary on which he pays taxes to Uncle Sam just as all of us do. I don't like to see a corporation which makes widgets for a living also used as a tax gimmick for a favored few. One NO vote on options. But don't confuse the issue by tying them in with pre-emptive rights.

Q. I'm convinced interest rates are going to rise. Where can we place with absolute safety money coming from certificates of deposit maturing today so that we can take advantage of higher rates when they come.

A. In day-to-day insured savings accounts or in Treasury bills or bonds coming due when you think money rates will be higher.

Shulsky welcomes written questions, but he will be able to provide answers only through the column.
