

Poerner Says No Conflict In Farm Ownership

AUSTIN (AP) — John Poerner said Sunday he has no oil and gas holdings and the three farms he owns in South Texas do not conflict with his duties as a Texas Railroad Commission member.

"I've never bought an oil and gas lease in my life. Never bought any minerals in my life," Poerner, a Democratic runoff candidate for an unexpired term on the commission, said Sunday on a television panel (Capital Eye).

"I bought them for farming. I bought them for pecan orchards. I bought them for peach orchards. And I enjoy doing that very much. And these little old operations that go on down there, drilling a hole or two looking for uranium, that mess that's left with a little old oil well with pipe laying all over the place is a nuisance to me. I wish it were not there."

Poerner's land holdings, which he said he has placed in a blind trust with the Austin National Bank, are a key issue in his race with Jerry Sadler, the other runoff candidate.

Poerner said he bought a Medina County farm in 1976 and it had 70 acres leased for oil. He said a San Antonio firm drilled one well "and it produced about oh, three or four barrels a day for four or five days and then dropped to one. Now it's not producing anything."

He said in 1977 a uranium company drilled about 20 test holes on his land and made him an lease offer but he turned it down. "The lease they offered was so low I was not about to let them tear up a farm that I paid $420 an acre for about $15 an acre bonus," he said.

Poerner, 48, was asked if he thought he had been rude and disrespectful in questioning Sadler's ability to perform because Sadler is 70.

"No," replied Poerner. "I think maybe Mr. Sadler would do a better job being a comedian for Texas."

Poerner said he thought Sadler led the first primary balloting because many voters recognized Sadler's name and not the other three names on the ballot. "I don't think he had pro votes. I think it was just the fact that the Texas Railroad Commission is rather low on the pecking order politically in Texas. I think we just sort of got lost in the tide."

"Now, we're at the top of the ballot and I think the pro votes, the votes for Poerner, the 408,000 votes that I did receive, I think that they're going to return."

Garrison Back In Politics

With Judgeship

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Former district attorney Jim Garrison, who lost three consecutive elections after his sensational investigation of the assassination of President John K. Kennedy, has won a judgeship and a political rebirth.

"Rumors of my death (in politics) were greatly exaggerated," he said.

Garrison Saturday defeated his former top assistant, Denis Barry, in a runoff for a seat on the 4th Louisiana Circuit Court of Appeals. Unofficial totals showed a vote count of 34,157 for Garrison, about 53 percent, to 29,717 for Barry.

"I knew I was right for the job and the job was right for me," Garrison said. "I never had a moment's doubt."

He lost to Harry Connick in a campaign for a fourth term as district attorney and subsequently lost two elections for seats on the Louisiana Supreme Court.

The main issue in the campaign was Garrison's controversial record as a district attorney from 1962-1974.

In the late 1960s, Garrison denounced the Warren Commission report on the Kennedy assassination as a fraud and conducted his own two-year investigation that made national headlines.

Garrison prosecuted businessman Clay Shaw on charges of conspiring with Lee Harvey Oswald to kill the president, but after a 40-day trial a jury deliberated only 55 minutes before acquitting Shaw. Attempts by Garrison to continue the prosecution were set back by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Garrison then underwent a different sort of battle with the federal government. He was indicted on federal charges of bribery and income tax evasion, but later acquitted.

The pipe-smoking criminal attorney, known as "Big Jim" because of his 6-foot-6 stature, emphasized his record of experience in public office during the judgeship campaign. He also criticized Barry for outspending him by more than 2 1/2 to 1 in what he called a "checkbook campaign."

Flag-Waving Iranians Greet Shah, Empress

MASHAD, Iran (AP) — Thousands of flag-waving Iranians lined the streets of this holy city in eastern Iran Sunday to welcome Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi and Empress Farah.

Mashad, Iran's third-largest city with a million residents, has been relatively free of the violence that has swept 32 Iranian cities and claimed at least 40 lives in the past five months.

"Greetings to the king of kings," the crowd chanted as the motorcade sped along the flower-strewn streets behind a wedge of black motorcycles. The royal couple stood up in the back of their tan Rolls-Royce limousine and waved.

The Iranian government is under pressure from dissidents who have taken advantage of a two-year-old liberalization policy to take to the streets. They range from anti-government leftists to conservative religious leaders demanding stricter adherence to Islamic doctrines. Demonstrations often have turned into riots.

"There were a few protests here but they were small," said one Mashad resident. "We support the shah and the mullahs here don't make trouble."

Mullahs are Shiite Moslem leaders who have played a key role in organizing protests in some cities.

Their targets have been movie theaters and liquor stores, which they consider corrupting Western influences, and to some extent the increasing freedom of women.

But the bearded mullahs, dressed in black robes and turbans, joined school children in uniform to greet the shah. Hundreds of mullahs jammed the gold-domed mosque, where the shah prayed in a ceremony filmed by Iranian television.

Empress Farah, considered a women's rights advocate, wore the traditional head-to-toe veil known as the "chador" to pray beside her husband at the gold-and-silver shrine in this oil-rich nation of 25 million.

Under a crystal-glass ceiling, a mullah delivered a sermon in which he said the shah had exercised "the responsibility of fighting the enemies of religion."

"It is important that the young people know the precepts of Islam so they will know what Marxism and Communism really are," the mullah said.

The government has claimed subversives supported by foreign countries have infiltrated demonstrations to turn them violent. It also has accused extremists of exploiting religious issues.

While the government has said leftists and Communists were behind much of the unrest, it has carefully avoided mentioning the Soviet Union on Iran's northern border.

Government sources have said Moscow's goal is to overthrow Iran's pro-Western government and gain access to the Persian Gulf, a strategic waterway through which much of the world's oil passes.

Hunt For Downed Plane Suspended

WACO, Texas (AP) — A Civil Air Patrol search for a plane feared down on a flight from Austin to Dallas was suspended late Sunday.

Nine ground crews and 16 rescue planes had searched an 8,000-square-mile area between Austin and Dallas since Friday when the plane failed to arrive as scheduled at Dallas' Love Field airport.

Dwight Deatherage, air operations officer for the Civil Air Patrol in Dallas, said the group doesn't usually suspend a search until the missing craft has been found, but "after a reasonable time we suspend the mission."

Midland Man Held In Deaths

FREDERICKSBURG (UPI) — Gillespie County authorities Sunday held a Midland, Texas man on charges of involuntary manslaughter in the deaths of three persons killed Saturday in a three-vehicle accident.

A sheriff's department dispatcher said bond had not been set for Jose Leonel Madrid on charges filed by the Department of Public Safety.

DPS officials said a car driven by Madrid struck the rear of a car pulling a trailer, knocking that car into the other lane where it collided head-on with a pickup. Fourteen persons were injured.

Five of the injured were airlifted to a San Antonio hospital. Three were from Gonzales and two were from Mathis. Nine others were treated at a Fredericksburg hospital.

Two of the victims — Sandy Helms, 30, and her son, Darrell, 14, of Mathis — were in the car pulling the trailer, the DPS said. The third victim, Kelly Campise, 11 months, of Deer Park was in the pickup.

Ten of the injured were in the pickup while the other four were in the car pulling the trailer, the spokesman said.

Searing gases of two million degrees F. leap more than 40,000 miles from above the sun's surface.

Zaire Pattern Familiar In Black Africa

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The invasion of Zaire is the latest ominous episode in Africa's saga of turmoil. In the following analysis, an AP correspondent looks at the pattern behind the spreading chaos and the harvest reaped by Soviet Russia and its allies from "third-party wars.")

By LARRY HEINZLERING

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The invasion of Zaire — a nation long an unhappy symbol of chaos and bloodshed — reflects once again the seemingly perpetual turmoil of post-colonial Africa.

A tribal uprising in the heart of the continent, white hostages. A paratroop rescue mission. Charges of Soviet and Cuban intervention. Appeals for western support.

The pattern is familiar in a black Africa plagued by political, economic and social upheaval it often blames on the lingering legacy of white colonial rule.

Much of Africa, like Zaire itself, is deeply troubled by political instability, by poverty, tribal divisions and a hangover from the 19th century European "scramble for Africa."

The attack on Zaire's copper-rich Shaba province by exiled Lunda tribesmen based in Marxist Angola reflects the continent's malaise.

So do other wars in Africa, from the desert wastes of the Western Sahara, Chad and Ethiopia, to the inhospitable bushlands of Angola, Namibia and Rhodesia.

In all these conflicts, one can hear the distinctive crack of soviet-made automatic rifles and the soft, Latin accents of Cuban military advisers. The East-West conflict has come to Africa in full force. The East is openly waging third-party wars. The West, chagrined but immobile, has so far watched from the sidelines.

'Despite tribal eruptions and military coups, the continent long remained a sphere of Western influence, its fledgling nations closely tied to the former colonial power, economically and politically.'

The thrust into Southern Zaire by an estimated 4,000 Lunda tribesmen, the second serious assault in just over a year, threatens not only Zaire's second copper mining region but the central government itself.

The invasion is another major test of Zaire's flamboyant, autocratic, pro-Western President Mobutu Sese Seko, whose unmanageable nation of 25 million people is in serious economic straits.

The invaders are largely Lunda tribesmen, many of them former gendarmes (police) in what was known as Katanga Province (now Shaba), who attempted to secede under the late Moïse Tshombe months after the former Belgian colony, then called the Congo, was granted independence in 1960.

The Lunda were finally crushed by the central government, backed by U.N. forces, three years later in the first of a series of armed uprisings, tribal revolts and outbreaks of violence which made the Congo synonymous with anarchy.

Some 7,000 Katanga gendarmes, who made up the armed forces of breakaway Katanga at the time, fled to neighboring Angola where they have been ever since.

Angola's President Agostinho Neto has been quarrelling with Mobutu ever since Neto came to power in a bloody, three-way civil war in 1975 with the aid of Soviet arms shipments and Cuban troops.

Mobutu covertly supports two pro-Western guerrilla armies seeking to oust the Soviet-backed Neto, who relies on some 19,000 Cuban soldiers in his country to keep him in power. Mobutu, perhaps with reason, is paranoid about Soviet subversion in his unstable country.

In March last year, between 2,000 and 5,000 of the former gendarmes invaded Zaire from Northeastern Angola. Mobutu claimed but never fully proved that the attack was backed by Soviet arms, Cuban advisers and Angolan complicity.

Two and a half months later the invaders were repelled after Zaire's rag-tag, poorly disciplined army of 30,000 men was reinforced with Moroccan troops flown in by France.

Now the gendarmes have returned to their tribal homeland in a bid to control Zaire's mineral wealth and topple Mobutu's 13-year-old regime.

Zaire mirrors Africa in many ways. It is huge, equal in area to the United States East of the Mississippi. Its 25 million citizens spring from some 200 tribes and speak perhaps 400 tongues. It holds enormous mineral wealth and agricultural potential, yet the vast majority of its people are impoverished. The nation has a foreign debt of $3 billion.

The capital, Kinshasa, on the banks of the Congo River has the trappings of 20th century Europe with modern skyscrapers towering over broad tree-lined boulevards abustle with traffic.

Yet 200 miles from town, the paved road stops, and modern life yields to Africa's tribal heritage, to the backward villages in the rain forests and way of life that the European colonial conquests of the 19th century undermined but could neither transform nor eradicate.

Post-colonial Africa still suffers from the effects of the vacuum that followed when the often harsh controls imposed by the European powers were swept away, leaving the new nations without a working political and governing machinery. When Zaire was granted independence, for example, it had a mere 247 university students.

The colonial borders imposed by the European powers ignored tribal realities, which are back to haunt their legacies, and the colonial investments in railways, ports, roads, hospitals and other modern paraphernalia left the mass of the population untouched.

Today, most of black Africa's independent governments are dominated by a small, ambitious, often avaricious European-trained elite. The vast majority of Africa's 230 million people live outside the modern sector, illiterate, poor, unheard in the new, continuing scramble for power among their more educated leaders.

It is this infighting for the inheritance of colonial power that afflicts Zaire and the continent and explains the more than 35 coups, counter coups and palace revolts as well as full-scale civil wars that have broken out in the past two decades.

The key element in it all remains tribalism, the stubborn loyalty of millions of Africans to primitive subgroups that represent a link with a more stable past, certainly amidst bewildering political, economic and social change.

"Tribalism is the scourge of Africa," says President Felix Houphouët-Boigny of the Ivory Coast, one of the few leaders of Africa to keep it in check. His West African nation is stable and one of the most prosperous in black Africa. And like Kenya in East Africa, a model of Third world development.

Tribal boundaries, not the frontiers drawn on maps, make up the real Africa.

The latest disorder in Zaire, as in Angola and most other African states, stems largely from attempts to impose "nationhood" on disparate, rival tribal groups.

In much of Africa, expectations of instant progress have incited unrest and power drives by rival tribes. Exploited by ambitious politicians, tribalism has become the main complication in virtually every African conflict.

'The East-West conflict has come to Africa in full force. The East is openly waging third-party wars. The West, chagrined but immobile, has so far watched from the sidelines.'

The Lunda of Zaire's Shaba province, which provides 65 percent of the nation's foreign exchange earnings, have long been oppressed by President Mobutu. It is not surprising that the Lunda wonder why the wealth of their region is spent, in the name of "nationhood," on multimillion dollar prestige projects in Mobutu's faraway capital of Kinshasa, where Bakongo tribesmen dominate.

The Lunda's answer is either secession or overthrow of Mobutu to gain a share of power at the top.

Over the past two decades, ever since colonial flags began coming down across the continent, Africa largely has been allowed to resolve its internal rivalries alone.

Despite tribal eruptions and military coups, the continent long remained a sphere of Western influence, its fledgling nations closely tied to the former colonial power, economically and politically.

Only occasionally, in the Congo of the 1960s, Ghana, Cameroon and isolated other cases, did the cold war intrude in Africa with half-hearted Soviet efforts to spread Marxist influence.

The Soviet Union backed rebel movements in the Congo, and Bamileke tribesmen in Cameroon, curried favor with newly independent Ghana's Social-

China Accused Of Slander

HONG KONG (UPI) — Hundreds of Vietnamese officials Sunday accused China of slander and said false stories it was spreading about the persecution of Chinese residents in Vietnam "harmed the friendship" between the two countries.

The official Vietnam News Agency, monitored in Hong Kong, said more than 600 National Assembly deputies, People's Council members, political and religious leaders and intellectuals had "voiced their great indignation at the slandorous allegations made against Vietnam."

Participants of a meeting in Saigon of the Fatherland Front Committee and the People's Council adopted a resolution refuting China's claim that Vietnam was persecuting, killing and wounding and expelling ethnic Chinese, the agency said.

"Living in this city, we are in a position to assert that the accusation is completely inconsistent with the truth. We strongly protest against these slanderous charges," the resolution said.

It also said the Chinese charge "has harmed the friendship between the peoples of Vietnam and China" and "only benefits imperialism and reactionary forces."

Hanoi made no response to Peking's request for permission to evacuate Chinese residents by ship. Instead, a spokesman for the foreign ministry proposed that representatives of China and Vietnam meet soon to settle the dispute "in a spirit of friendship."

The official New China News Agency claimed more than 89,000 Chinese have fled Vietnam to China. The Peking government announced a fleet of ships would be sent to rescue other residents but did say when the operation would begin.

One elderly Chinese resident who returned to Yunnan Province was quoted by the agency as saying the "Vietnamese authorities are persecuting Chinese residents, and large numbers of them are longing for an early return to the motherland."

Vietnam contends that the Chinese are leaving the country because of rumors instigated by Cambodia that war will break out between China and Vietnam. It says the Peking regime is also calling on overseas Chinese to return.

Testimony Ends In Rail Lawsuit

DRESDEN, Tenn. (AP) — Testimony has ended in a $4.5 million lawsuit against the Illinois Central Gulf Railroad and the city of Greenfield, but the involved parties face a week's wait for a judgment.

The Circuit Court trial was recessed Thursday, its third day, until June 3 because of scheduling problems of Chancellor Homer Bradberry and several of the attorneys involved.

Bradberry, who is sitting in for Circuit Court Judge Phil B. Harris who recused himself, told attorneys for the three parties to return for the special Saturday court date to make their closing arguments. The jury is then to begin deliberations.

The lawsuit stems from a June 30, 1975, accident in which an ICG freight train hit a truck driven by Garland Tackett. The 42-year-old man died last December — 2½ years after the accident — without recovering from a coma. Tackett's widow, Mrs. Lois Tackett of Memphis, filed the lawsuit claiming negligence on the part of the railroad and the city of Greenfield.

Study On Police Corruption Released

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Preventive strategies and continuing investigations can stamp out organized police corruption, according to a four-city federal study released Sunday.
The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration's report — "Controlling Police Corruption" — showed these techniques succeeded following corruption scandals in Oakland, Calif., in 1955, New York City in 1970, and Newburgh, N.Y., in 1972, the report said.
But a fourth city, dubbed "Central City," only investigated past misdeeds following a 1974 scandal. Its organized corruption also declined, but this was attributed solely to publicity over the scandal.

Officials of "Central City," identified only as midwestern with a 750,000 population, agreed to cooperate with the study if the city's name was withheld.
The report identified organized corruption as an ongoing arrangement with one or more policemen to collect bribes or kickbacks for protecting criminal activity.
The report found most corruption arrangements involved more than one officer, and that "low-visibility opportunities for corruption events" makes policemen more likely "to have a continuing problem with misconduct."

The report said in New York City, "a middle-aged woman handed a beat patrol officer a wallet she said she found on the street. It contained $67 cash and credit cards.
"The wallet was never turned in to the police property division," the report said. The officer was quickly disciplined because the woman was a "police plant."
In all but "Central City," the report said, officials used preventive strategies after the scandal, such as rotating assignments, punishing lax supervisors, and seeking public cooperation.
Officials also conducted investigations including stepped-up bribery prosecution, immunity promises to get tips from lower police ranks, and wiretaps on suspects.

Other methods included patrolling locations "where corruption is likely to occur — gambling houses, prostitution centers, and unlicensed bars," the report said.
"The same strategies for corruption control can be employed in a police department of any size, although the tactics may differ performance for four years after each scandal in the three named cities, but only one year in Central City.
Yale university conducted the research from September 1974, to June 1976, financed by a grant from LEAA.

Swiss Reject Automobile Ban In Votes

BERN Switzerland (AP) — Swiss voters snubbed a proposal Sunday that would have banned the operation of all private vehicles on 12 Sundays each year to "improve the quality of life."
In a separate municipal referendum in Liestal, the electorate supported an initiative to halt nuclear power plant construction.
The driving ban, defeated by a 2-1 margin, came in a nationwide referendum launched by nine engineers and backed by environmentalists who said this alpine country could become a pioneer in the search for cleaner air.

It would have parked more than two million cars, motorboats and aircraft owned by Switzerland's six million citizens on one Sunday each month.
The federal government had urged rejection of the proposal, saying it would curb civil liberties and close Switzerland to some of the 50 million foreign vehicles that enter the country each year.

Anti-nuclear groups scored a success when voters in Liestal adopted an initiative that directs state authorities to resist with "all legal and political means" the construction of nuclear power plants in the northern part of Switzerland.
The vote, adopted by a 2-1 margin, is aimed at preventing what anti-nuclear forces call the "world's heaviest concentration of atomic plants."

Liestal is eight miles southeast of Basel, Switzerland's major industrial city on the Rhine River. Basel voters approved a similar measure one year ago.
Both cities are in an area where Switzerland, France and West Germany have either built, are constructing, or plan to build 14 nuclear power plants.
In the national referendum, voters overwhelmingly defeated a law passed by parliament that would have partially liberalized federal abortion laws by allowing abortion in cases of "serious social emergency." Abortion is now allowed for certain medical reasons.
A referendum that would have legalized all abortions within the first 12 weeks of pregnancy was narrowly defeated in a national referendum last September.

Cooper Grads Emphasize Spirit

Cooper High School honor graduates emphasized the spirit of cooperation and the importance of leadership during Sunday night's commencement exercises at the Lubbock Civic Center Theater.
"I hope that in the years to come our class will be remembered not for its individual achievements alone but for its exceptional spirit of cooperation," said student David B. Collins, the 75-member class.
"I cherish for this community and for each individual senior the hope that the spirit of cooperation that has been fostered in our school years will grow and will bring you many rewards," Collins, the son of Mrs. Frances Collins and the late Rev. Clarence Collins, said.
Valedictorian Karen L. Tate told the Class of '78 to "look behind you because you're a leader in one capacity or another and to look ahead because your future is before you."

"No one can set your goals but yourself," she added. Miss Tate is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Tate.
Terry G. Gaines, third-ranking honor graduate and historian for the class, led his fellow seniors through their history from the first through the twelfth grade, adding that 25 of the graduates have gone through the Cooper school system for all 12 grades.

Mental Illness: Who's Place To Decide?

EDITOR'S NOTE: President Carter recently received a report from his Commission on Mental Health. Here's a look at one of the issues — the constitutional rights of the mentally ill.

By MARC WILSON
CHICAGO (AP) — "Lunatic Record ... In the matter of the alleged insanity of Mary Lincoln."

A jury ruled her insane and committed her to an asylum 10 years after the assassination of her husband.

The former first lady's involuntary commitment was an early seed in a war over the constitutional rights of the mentally ill that blossomed during the civil rights movement of the 1960s. Mrs. Lincoln's dilemma was resolved — 100 years after her trial — but it left the rights of thousands of other mentally ill in question.

Mrs. Lincoln's lunatic record said she did "not manifest either homicidal or suicidal tendencies." In 1975 the U.S. Supreme Court ruled such commitments unconstitutional.

"A finding of 'mental illness' alone cannot justify a state's locking a person up against his will and keeping him indefinitely in simple custodial confinement ...," the court ruled in O'Connor v. Donaldson.

Today if Robert Lincoln — or any other son — asked that his mother be locked away he would have to prove her dangerous as well as mentally ill. But who determines who is dangerous to whom? That is now the key constitutional battle.

In most states a person can be committed against his will if he can be proved "potentially dangerous" to himself or others. But some states — California, Pennsylvania and Michigan — have adopted laws restricting involuntary commitment to those who show they are dangerous by "overt act."

A similar law has been proposed in Illinois by a commission chaired by Circuit Court Judge Joseph Schneider of Chicago. Schneider, who also heads a commission studying mental health law for the President's Commission on Mental Health, presides in the courtroom where Mrs. Lincoln was committed 103 years ago.

A framed copy of her lunatic record hangs in his 17th-floor office, and he gives copies to anyone who asks.

"Mary Lincoln was deprived of her liberty because she was thought to be mentally ill," says Schneider. "Today a person can be deprived of liberty if he is found to be mentally ill and potentially dangerous. How can we deprive someone of liberty on the supposition that he might be dangerous?"

"Who's to say who is potentially dangerous?" adds Paul Friedman, director of the Washington-based Mental Health Law Project. "Studies have shown that psychiatrists are only 50 percent accurate in their predictions of who is potentially dangerous. That's like flipping a coin in the courtroom. How can we take away somebody's liberty based on a coin toss?"

"The power and prestige of psychiatrists have been struck a terrible blow by the crusade for rights for mental patients, and they're becoming terribly offended by the efforts to protect patient rights."

But, says Dr. Alan Stone, professor of law and psychiatry at Harvard University, "No one, including psychiatrists or judges, can predict with 100 percent certainty who will become dangerous. But waiting for a person to commit an overt act simply won't work. If we just wait until someone has already committed a crime, we'll just collapse the civil commitment procedure into the criminal justice system. Mentally ill persons will have to be treated as criminals."

In addition to the "overt act" provision, the state commission Schneider chairs has proposed that mental patients be read their rights before they are examined by a doctor and that they be given the right to refuse treatment once they are committed — rights that already exist in a few states.

"Who says they have any such rights?" asks Stone. "The Supreme Court has never ruled on it, and there is substantial case law saying persons who are mentally ill and potentially dangerous aren't covered by the Constitution. And society has a proven right to be protected from dangerous persons."

The Illinois Psychiatric Society also opposes the changes proposed by Schneider's commission.

Dr. Alex J. Spadoni, the society's immediate past president, says the overt act provision would require a person to commit a crime before he could be involuntarily committed. "Murders, suicides, rapes and assaults have increased in states where this provision has been adopted."

"The key to helping someone recover from mental illness is to treat him as early as possible, not after he's killed or hurt himself or someone else ... The idea of making doctors read patients their rights would destroy needed rapport between the doctor and patient and would turn doctors into policemen."

"And to give a patient who has been declared dangerous the right to refuse treatment once in the hospitals is ridiculous. That would simply turn hospitals into prisons and doctors into wardens."

Two years ago Wisconsin adopted a law similar to the one proposed in Illinois. But in mid-February the Wisconsin Legislature rescinded the law and returned to one that makes it easier for the state to commit a person against his will.

Dr. Darold A. Treffert, director of the Winnebago (Wis.) Mental Health Institute, helped prepare the new law. He says the 1975 law forced policemen and courts to charge and convict mentally ill persons with minor crimes and then commit them to mental hospitals as criminals.

"Mentally ill persons should not have to deteriorate to the point of dangerousness when it is obvious that they are in need of treatment and would predictably respond to treatment," he says.

The federal government may end up setting the standards for each state. Already federal courts have ruled — in 1972 in Wyatt vs. Stickney — that states must provide adequate care and security for institutionalized persons; and in the 1975 Donaldson ruling that non-dangerous persons can't be locked away against their will.

Congress is considering a bill that would enable the Justice Department to file civil lawsuits against a state, county or city if they are "subjecting persons residing in any institution to conditions which deprive them of any rights, privileges or immunities secured or protected by the Constitution or the laws of the United States."

The bill, introduced by Rep. Robert Kastermeier, D-Wis., has been approved by the House Judiciary Committee. Committee staff counsel Tim Boggs says the bill should pass Congress this year.

"The federal government has been frustrated in the past in efforts to guarantee constitutional rights for persons in mental hospitals and hospitals for the mentally retarded. This bill should help the Justice Department and the Civil Rights Commission get the job done."

Former mental patients also have begun efforts to protect the rights of institutionalized persons.

"Psychiatrists want it so anyone who doesn't fit the norm can be declared potentially dangerous and locked away," says Tanya Tempkin of the Network Against Psychiatric Abuse in San Francisco. "We want hospital inmates and the public made aware that the Constitution covers everybody."

Although California has one of the most liberal mental health codes, Ms. Tempkin says, "Most of the rights can be denied for so-called good cause, and that may be anything. People in mental hospitals aren't in a good position to stand up for their rights."

Italian Premier Visits America

ROME (UPI) — Premier Giulio Andreotti flew to Washington for policy and defense talks Sunday, leaving behind a country troubled by terrorism, inflation and political discontent.

The Washington trip is Andreotti's first since the formation of his Communist-supported government last March and the Red Brigades kidnap-killing of his predecessor, Aldo Moro.

Government sources say Andreotti will try to reassure the Carter administration that his domestic arrangement with the Communists does not affect Italy's pro-American foreign policy. He also will seek U.S. support for concerted international action against terrorists such as the Red Brigades.

Andreotti and Defense Minister Attilio Ruffini made no statement when they left by Alitalia airliner for Boston en route to Washington.

Foreign Minister Arnaldo Forlani was to join them there for the Tuesday-Wednesday NATO spring meeting of government chiefs and a White House meeting Wednesday with President Carter.

Andreotti and his aides were to go to New York later in the week for the U.N. General Assembly debate on disarmament.

Andreotti is leaving behind serious political and economic problems.

His government has just approved unpopular increases of 20 percent in train fares and 16 percent in electricity rates, plus some tax increases. The measures have irked the Communists and Socialists who complain they were not consulted in advance.

The country also has been wracked by violence, including bombings, shootings and other terrorist attacks, in the wake of Moro's death.

Terrorists Make New Threats

ROME (UPI) — A new communique purportedly from the Red Brigades terrorists who kidnaped and killed ex-Premier Aldo Moro Sunday threatened the lives of two judges, including the one presiding over the Turin trial of imprisoned gang members.

The message appeared as Premier Giulio Andreotti left for Washington for the NATO spring summit meeting and his first talks with President Carter since Moro was assassinated May 9.

Government sources said Andreotti would seek U.S. support for international action against terrorism.

As Andreotti left, four terrorists in army uniforms walked into an army computer center in Rome, held up a soldier at gunpoint and set fire to a fuse connected with four gasoline cans. Then they fled, shouting to the soldier: "Run away with us. Everything is going to blow up."

An explosion was averted when the burning fuse fizzled out.

Firebombings damaged the door of an office of Andreotti's Christian Democratic Party in the north Italian village of Cislavo and the parked cars of three West German air force men in the Sardinian town of Quartu Sant'Elena.

A telephone call led a reporter for the Naples newspaper Roma to the purported Red Brigades message, left in a garage can.

The newspaper said the message announced the establishment of a "Naples column" of the Red Brigades and said the gang's kidnap-killing of Moro was "a victory for the revolutionary movement and a burning defeat for imperialist forces."

The Naples message threatened two Turin judges, including Guido Barbuero who is presiding over the trial of 49 accused terrorists.

"Remember the end of your friend Co-co," the message told the two judges.

Genoa District Attorney Francesco Co-co and his two police escorts were shot to death by Red Brigades gunmen in June 1976.

Poorly Aimed Pie Splatters Carter

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — An unidentified man splattered Billy Carter with the filling of a badly aimed pie while the president's brother was signing autographs at a car dealership here, police said.

The man, who was not identified, threw the pie at Carter's car as he drove away. The pie missed Carter and hit a nearby car.

Panama Presents Mixed Picture To Outsiders

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — A land that lives with the old and the new, Panama is something more than a canal. —About 80 banks, 67 of them foreign, make it a world banking center. —Yet, Cuna Indian women, with gold rings in their noses and wearing brightly colored, handmade blouses, come occasionally to Panama City to sell jungle-made handicrafts on the city streets. —High-rise buildings, elegant neighborhoods, slums, supermarkets, car washes, and hamburger and fried chicken chains make for modern cities. —Yet, about 8,000 Choco Indians, according to authorities, live in an inaccessible jungle in the eastern half of the country, surviving as their ancestors did on slash-and-burn agriculture, hunting and fishing. —Large American cars guzzling gasoline at $1.10 a gallon and colorful jitney buses clog the streets of Panama City; modern passenger liners and merchant ships traverse the Panama Canal; jet planes fly in from all parts of the globe. —Yet, Cuna Indians commute in dugout canoes among the islands of Panama's San Blas Archipelago in the Caribbean. Panama's 1.7 million people are a contrast in themselves: about 70 percent are of mixed race, about 12 percent European and about 14 percent black, many of whom speak English in a Caribbean dialect, although the main language is Spanish.

Seymour Milstein, president of U.S.-based United Brands, says his company plans to spend $6 million in Panama soon to expand the operations of the United Fruit Co., a major banana-producing subsidiary, and on other investments. Bananas are Panama's largest export item, accounting for about $80 million last year. "Gen. Torrijos gave me strong assurances of the future of private investment in Panama," Milstein said in a recent statement, "and indicated the government would take steps to encourage new investment." The economic stagnation has idled and kept in poverty large numbers of the nation's work force, estimated at 500,000. The government says unemployment is around eight percent, but U.S. Embassy sources calculate that it is closer to 15 percent in Panama City and 20-30 percent in Colon, the second largest city on the Atlantic side of the canal. Nearly half the population is concentrated in those two cities. But experts also say Panama has some unique advantages, and that a bright future is in store given the right government incentives. The 480-mile-long nation has been a world crossroad since 1513 when explorer

Vasco Nunez de Balboa, the first European to trek across the isthmus, waded into the Pacific and claimed for Spain all lands its waters touched. Today, by government design, Panama has become a new kind of crossroad. In addition to the high ship traffic and related industries spawned by the canal, Panama City has become a world banking and air travel center. But Panama City, home for some 600,000 persons, also has incredible squalor. Teeming slums exist with entire families crowded into one-room apartments in buildings constructed for the French as workers quarters during their un-

Tiny Republic Studies Red Question

SAN MARINO (AP) — Voters in the world's oldest and smallest republic cast ballots Sunday to determine if the Communists should be brought back into the government after an absence of 21 years. Two busloads of San Marino citizens who live in the United States and made the 4,000-mile flight here to vote were turned away because they arrived after the polls closed at 8 p.m. About 1,600 of the 7,200 eligible voters who have left San Marino live in America, where many are engaged in construction work in Michigan, New York and Ohio. Two planes were chartered to bring back to San Marino those in America who wanted to vote. Up for election in this mountaintop republic were representatives in the 60-member council. Ballots were being hand counted and results weren't expected until Monday morning. As in surrounding Italy, the Christian Democrats and Communists are the leading parties. In the outgoing council, the Christian Democrats held 25 seats, the Communists 16, the Socialists nine, the United Socialists five, the Social Democrats three, the right-wing Committee for the Defense of the Republic one and the moderate Movement for Statutory Liberties one. Authorities said 15,489 persons, or 79 percent of those eligible, voted. They reported the voters represented 94 percent of the resident citizens and 53 percent of those residing abroad. This was the first election here in which 18-year-olds had the right to vote, and there were 2,300 newly enfranchised voters. San Marino, covering only 38 square miles, reputedly was founded in 301 A.D. It is five miles from Italy's eastern Adriatic coast and about 140 miles north of Rome. The Socialist Party, which plays a key role as a third force, had ruled in coalition with the Communists from 1945 to 1957, when the Christian Democrats won the political edge and forged a governing alliance with the Socialists. Last November, the Socialists broke from the coalition by demanding participation of the Communists in the government. The split opened San Marino's longest post-war political crisis. The two-man executive branch, the Captains Regent, had no choice but to disband the 60-member Great and General Council and call elections a year early. An average of 2.5 million tourists annually visit the three medieval castles perched atop San Marino's mountain peaks. Tourist income, production of postage stamps and limited mintings of coins have helped balance San Marino's budget for the past century. Unemployment has been ruled illegal and health care has been free for two decades. But there are signs of growing problems. Official denials notwithstanding, there are reports of 600 jobless, and the 1,000 or so youths who graduate from high school this year have few prospects for work other than manual labor on state projects. The state payroll has grown to more than 60 percent of the budget. Agriculture has virtually vanished and left-wing union activity has intensified. San Marino's Communist leader, Umberto Barilli, has tried to convince voters the country needs his party to deal with such problems.

NATO Summit Meet To Begin

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Riven by internal quarrel and facing growing Soviet challenge, NATO will examine its own future at a Washington summit meeting this week.

The heads of state or government of 14 nations will gather Tuesday morning for the fifth summit of the 29-year-old organization.

France is the exception. It refuses to play a full NATO membership role and will send only its foreign minister.

Centerpiece of the two-day meeting will be two voluminous strategic studies commissioned last year.

One examines current East-West relations and offers a series of economic, military and political options for NATO.

The other lays out 117 long-range defense problems.

The summit will be partly splendor and symbolism, designed to stress unity and minimize the serious divisions within the alliance.

Greece and Turkey — military enemies over Cyprus — are barely on speaking terms, for example.

Greece has withdrawn from military cooperation in NATO.

Turkey has closed U.S. intelligence bases and threatened to turn to Moscow for military supplies if the U.S. arms embargo continues.

President Carter had been circulating a declaration of unity for NATO's 30th anniversary next year, but Turkey refuses to sign. White House officials say the symbolic document will be dropped to avoid embarrassment.

Carter and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance will spend time and energy trying to reconcile Greek and Turk difficulties.

Externally, the alliance faces a menacing build-up of conventional Soviet-bloc forces in central Europe.

U.S. officials said the long-range study proposes increasing NATO defense spending by up to 3 percent for those nations that can afford it.

But the main response to the Soviet buildup will take the form of increased military efficiency.

If adopted, the defense study would make NATO a truly integrated defense organization, with equipment as interchangeable as possible, tactics well synchronized and manpower levels agreed upon.

The study suggests increasing the readiness training of European armies so NATO manpower could be doubled in a matter of days in time of crisis.

In air and sea defense, one master plan would replace a series of overlapping national systems.

And the elusive goal of standardized weaponry has been abandoned in favor of "compatibility" in weapons — meaning that, although member nations may have different makes of planes and cannons, for example, they will all be able to use the same bombs and ammunition.

Area County Group Sets Tractor Pull

TULIA (Special) — Classes for local stock as well as super stock, modified and super-modified classes are planned for the Swisher County Activities Association's second annual tractor pull June 10 and 11.

David Finch, chairman of arrangements, said the pull has a class A ranking, the highest available. Tractor pullers from Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska are expected to enter the contest at the Cobb-Wheeler-Mote Rodeo Arena, northeast of here.

Most of the plans already have been approved at preparatory meetings.

The Washington summit will give them a formal seal of approval and will launch NATO toward its next series of decisions on such matters as Soviet intervention in Africa.

Oklahoma Observes Deaths Of Troopers

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Oklahoma Highway Patrol troopers and law enforcement officers throughout the state pinned black ribbons to their badges over the weekend to mourn three troopers who were killed in a shootout with two prison escapees.

The escapees, wanted in connection with the slayings of an Alabama woman and three Texas men, also died in the shootout Friday.

A fourth trooper was wounded.

The bodies of the slain troopers — Lt. Pat Grimes, 36, of Moore, and Troopers William G. Young, 50, of Woodward and Houston "Pappy" Summers, 62, of Enid — lay in state in the Capitol rotunda Sunday.

Gov. David Boren declared a week of mourning and ordered flags flown at half-staff throughout the state.

Flags also flew at half-staff in Alabama.

Alabama authorities had been searching for Claude Eugene Dennis, 35, and Michael Lancaster, 25, after the slaying of 70-year-old Stacie Beavers on May 23 in Cuba, Ala. Her throat was slashed and her car was stolen.

Texas authorities said they believed Dennis and Lancaster were responsible for the slayings of David Bobo and Mithal Mathew of Garland and Bobby Spencer of Denison and the disappearance of James Dowdy of Hemphill, who is also feared dead.

Dennis and Lancaster escaped from the Oklahoma State Penitentiary at McAlester on April 23. After what authorities called a five-state crime spree, they went to the home of farmer Russell Washington, who had once allowed Dennis to go hunting on his land, near Caddo.

They tied up Washington and his hired hand, Jeff Busby, but allowed them to live. After the pair left, Washington managed to free himself and called police.

Officers awaited Dennis and Lancaster at Caddo, and, in an exchange of gunfire, the troopers and the convicts were killed.

Trooper Hoyt Hughes, 46, of Edmond, who was wounded in the shootout, remained hospitalized in Oklahoma City on Sunday.

Separate funerals for the slain troopers were scheduled for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday to allow uniformed contingents of troopers to attend each service. The families of the three troopers will receive memorials of $25 each from every state trooper, and memorial funds were set up by banks in Durant and radio and television stations in Oklahoma City and Tulsa.

Baptists Ponder Rights Issues

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Southern Baptists are being asked to adopt a declaration committing them to political action on behalf of human rights at home and abroad.

The two-page statement was drafted by the 13-million member Southern Baptist Convention's Christian Life Commission and will be presented to SBC delegates on June 14 in Atlanta.

"Human rights is a major moral issue of our time," the proposed declaration said. "Introduced into the political equation, it has threatened world peace on the one hand and engendered new hope for the oppressed on the other."

"Baptist churches have a stake in the issue of human rights for our own Baptist history and heritage have been formed in a crucible which has both demanded and produced human rights," the declaration said.

The statement will be presented to church members in the midst of a controversy on the issue of human rights for homosexuals.

Anti-gay crusader Anita Bryant is scheduled to speak to a Southern Baptist Pastors' Conference on June 11, just before the opening of the Southern Baptist Convention. Atlanta-area gay activists and human rights proponents have plans for a counter-demonstration.

"The declaration is not an attempt to catalogue worldwide human rights abuses," said Foy Valentine, executive secretary of the Christian Life Commission. "Rather, its purpose is to call attention to Biblical principles for Christians to use in responding to specific human rights issues."

"The declaration affirms the belief that Southern Baptists stand for the worth of the individual, the priesthood of the believer, freedom of conscience, and the sanctity of life."

"We are gravely concerned about the widespread denial of human rights at the hands of our political allies as well as our political adversaries," the statement said. "Our concern for tortured, unjustly imprisoned, and politically oppressed persons abroad is matched by our concern for the rights of women, blacks, ethnic minorities, the poor, the aging, the sick and abused children in our midst."

The declaration urged Southern Baptist citizens be committed to political action on behalf of human rights at home and abroad," and that Southern Baptist pastors "preach the word of God without fear or favor as it highlights human rights."

Southern Baptist churches should "be boldly involved in championing justice for the oppressed, providing food for the hungry, supporting changes in those laws and systems which manipulate the poor while providing welfare for the rich, doing the things that make for peace, and effecting change where change is needed to support basic human rights."

The National Hollerin' Contest of Spivey's Corner, Dunn, N.C., will be held June 17.

A DAILY MESSAGE FROM The Newspaper Bible.

Matthew 27: 25-46, The Living Bible

25 And the mob yelled back, "His blood be on us and on our children!"

26 Then Pilate released Barabbas to them. And after he had whipped Jesus, he gave Him to the Roman soldiers to take away and crucify.

27 But first they took Him into the armory and called out the entire contingent.

28 They stripped Him and put a scarlet robe on Him,

29 And made a crown from long thorns and put it on His head, and placed a stick in His right hand as a scepter and knelt before Him in mockery. "Hail, King of the Jews," they yelled.

30 And they spat on Him and grabbed the stick and beat Him on the head with it.

31 After the mockery, they took off the robe and put His own garment on Him again, and took Him out to crucify Him.

32 As they were on the way to the execution grounds they came across a man from Cyrene, in Africa—Simon was his name—and forced him to carry Jesus' cross.

33 Then they went out to an area known as Golgotha, that is, "Skull Hill."

34 Where the soldiers gave Him drugged wine to drink; but when He had tasted it, He refused.

35 After the crucifixion, the soldiers threw dice to divide up His clothes among themselves.

36 Then they sat around and watched Him as He hung there.

37 And they put a sign above His head, "This is Jesus, the King of the Jews."

38 Two robbers were also crucified there that morning, one on either side of Him.

39 And the people passing by hurled abuse, shaking their heads at Him and saying,

40 "So! You can destroy the Temple and build it again in three days, can you? Well, then, come on down from the cross if you are the Son of God!"

41,42,43 And the chief priests and Jewish leaders also mocked Him. "He saved others," they scoffed, "but he can't save himself! So you are the King of Israel, are you? Come down from the cross and we'll believe you! He trusted God—let God show His approval by delivering him! Didn't he say, 'I am God's Son?'"

44 And the robbers also threw the same in His teeth.

45 That afternoon, the whole earth was covered with darkness for three hours, from noon until three o'clock.

46 About three o'clock, Jesus shouted, "Eli, Eli, lama sabachthani," which means, "My God, My God, why have You forsaken Me?"

ON THE AIR — In an interview on NBC's "Meet the Press," National Security Affairs adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski said the Carter administration has proof of Cuban involvement in the bloody rebel invasion of Zaire's Shaba Province and offered to give this proof to the Senate. (AP Laserphoto)

Proof Of Cuban Involvement In Zaire Offered To Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — National security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski offered Sunday to give the Senate proof that Cubans were "responsible" for the bloody rebel invasion of Zaire's Shaba Province.

In an interview on NBC's "Meet the Press," he also said he discussed the problem of Soviet-Cuban intervention in Africa with Chinese leaders on his trip this month to Peking.

Brzezinski said the administration has "information ... from a variety of sources" to back up President Carter's harsh accusation at a news conference last Thursday that Cuba must share blame for the attack.

The invasion by Angolan-based rebels

"could not have taken place without the invading parties having been armed and trained by the Cubans and indeed perhaps also the East Germans," Brzezinski said.

"We have sufficient evidence to be quite confident in our conclusion that Cuba shares the political and the moral responsibility for the invasion, indeed, even for the outrages that were associated with it."

"If the Senate desires more information," Brzezinski said, "I am certain that we can provide it." He added the facts would be presented "to the legislative branch in an appropriate forum and in an appropriate way ..."

Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, told reporters last week that Cuban officials informed him privately May 15 that their nation had not promoted the Katangese invasion.

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance declined to discuss the extent of available intelligence information on the issue during questioning by the committee last Friday, but CIA Director Stansfield Turner issued a statement saying his agency has solid evidence Cubans trained the Katangese rebels.

Brzezinski explained that the administration is not charging Cuban soldiers were directly involved in the fighting or in commanding troops, but does charge that "the Cuban government and in some measure the Soviet government bear the responsibility for this transgression ..."

He noted at one point the Chinese have been very critical of the Soviet and Cuban presence on the African continent. "And in my comprehensive consultations with the Chinese leaders I did have the opportunity to discuss this issue," he said.

Brzezinski and his aides also gave Chinese officials an unprecedented, detailed briefing on the status of Soviet-American strategic arms talks during his visit and explained at length the contents of some secret White House memorandums on American security goals, according to a New York Times report published Sunday.

"(Blank) stated to DeLoach (another top FBI official) that he was faced with the difficult problem of taking steps to remove King from the national picture," a copy of the memo showed. "He indicates in his comments a lack of confidence that he, alone, could be successful. It is therefore suggested that consideration be given to the following course of action:

"That DeLoach have a further discussion with (Blank) and offer to be helpful in connection with the problem of removal of King from the national scene."

The memo then suggested that (Blank) get together with black leaders such as James Farmer and labor leader A. Philip Randolph, and "on a highly confidential basis could brief such a group on the security background of King." The briefing would include "the use of a tape, such as contemplated in your memorandum, with a transcript for convenience in following the tape, (and) should be most convincing."

"This might have the effect of increasing the stature of (Blank) who is a capable person and is ambitious," it said.

The Senate intelligence committee reported in 1976 that the FBI had "bugged" hotel rooms used by King, allegedly recording meetings he had with women.

With the purpose of "destroying his marriage," the Senate report said, the FBI mailed King a copy of the recording, with an accompanying note "which Dr. King and his advisers interpreted as threatening to release the tape recording unless Dr. King committed suicide."

Another document made public Sunday referred to the Sept. 9, 1964 "monitoring" at Atlanta, Ga., of a conversation between King and Muhammed Ali, who was then facing federal draft evasion charges. In another document, Attorney General Nicholas Katzenbach gave Hoover blanket authority to carry out electronic surveillance in his absence without prior authority as was required at the time.

King was shot and killed in Memphis, Tenn., April 4, 1968. James Earl Ray, an escaped convict, pleaded guilty to the murder and is serving a 99-year prison sentence.

Hoover Wanted King 'Out Of Way,' Files Show

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An unidentified black leader apparently worked with the FBI in the 1960s in an effort to remove Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. from national prominence in the civil rights movement, according to just-released FBI files.

The secret office files belonging to former FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover were obtained under a Freedom of Information Act request made by the Center for National Security Studies, a private organization.

They "reveal the extent to which King and his close associates were perceived as a threat by the FBI and kept under government surveillance during the five-year period before King's assassination" in 1968, the center said.

It said, for instance, a Dec. 1, 1964, interoffice memo to William Sullivan, then No. 3 in the FBI hierarchy indicated "the FBI and a black leader apparently worked together in an effort to eliminate King."

The name of the collaborator was blanked out in the released document.

Termites Plague U.S. Homeowners

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ogdon Nash's lyric about Cousin May falling through the parlor floor has inspired many smiles, but if termites are nibbling at your home, they aren't funny.

Agriculture Department experts say a well-established colony of 60,000 termites eat only a fifth of an ounce of wood a day, but over time their potential is devastating.

Subterranean termites are found in every state except Alaska and they need warm air and moisture to live.

Unless leaking pipes or a roof leak provides dampness, these termites must find a link to the ground for moisture.

If you can cut off their access to moisture, they will die, the Agriculture Department reports.

But there are also drywood termites in many Southern areas. They need no contact with the soil and can enter your home through cracks in windows or eaves or through attic vents.

Once they're in, fumigation is the most effective way to get rid of them.

If you find or suspect termites check with a responsible pest-control firm. Here are some things the Agriculture Department says to look for:

- Earth tubes between the soil and some wooden structure under the house.
- Hollow wood underneath a finished surface.

- A pile of fecal pellets on the outside of finished wood. The pellets resemble sawdust, but upon close examination they appear very symmetrical with grooves along the side.

Heart Booster Success Gives Lift To Program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An experimental government program appears to be turning the corner in its attempt to prove that implanted blood pumps can give failing hearts the needed boost to recover following surgery.

The pumps have been credited for two straight successes in patients on the with an unusual demonstration of the device's capability in Houston in February, may provide the impetus also to keep the project alive for another year.

The two-year-old effort, financed by the National Heart Institute, has its annual contract expire in September.

The institute's influential Cardiology

Advisory Committee is expected to recommend Wednesday whether they should be continued next year at a cost of about $550,000.

The heart boosters, called left ventricle assist devices, are mounted either in the abdomen or on the outside chest wall. They are used for two to three weeks when the heart fails after otherwise successful open heart surgery.

The committee took a preliminary look at the program early this year and there were suggestions it might recommend terminating the funding because the safety and operation of the pump had been proven and there still were no long-term survivors.

"The presence of total death tends to cast a cloud over any kind of program," said Dr. William Bernhard, of Children's Hospital and head of the Boston group. "With survival of patients, I think it's possible the advisory committee may have second thoughts."

"We have some live patients now and I think we stand a good chance of learning a fair bit in the next year," he said in a telephone interview.

Since December 1975, the fist-sized pumps have been used in a total of 25 people as last-ditch emergency measures when nothing else would work. Several showed circulatory improvement, but until a few months ago, all died.

Then a team led by Dr. John Norman at Houston's Texas Heart Institute implanted the pump on Valentine's Day in a 21-year-old oil field worker whose heart failed during open heart surgery.

Although the pump was designed as a temporary substitute for only one of two heart chambers, it functioned as a total artificial heart for six days until his heart was replaced by a transplanted organ. He died 15 days later of a combination of liver, lung and kidney failure.

More recently, surgeons under Bernhard's direction used a similar pump at University Hospital in Boston to keep an elderly man alive for 4 1/2 days while his heart regained its strength. He is expected to be released from the hospital in a week or two.

The initial success was followed by another in Boston in early May and that patient, a man in his 40s, was reported showing steady improvement.

The institute also is supporting a Penn State University group that reported the first long-term success with a heart pump in a woman last July.

Medical teams in Zurich and Vienna are using similar pumps and two long-term survivors have been reported by the Zurich team, led by Dr. Marco Turina.

During the past 2 1/2 years, pumps have been used on 41 patients. Five are still alive.

Amarillo Newsman To Head State UPI

AMARILLO (UPI) — An Amarillo television station news director has been elected president of the United Press International Broadcasters Association of Texas.

Bill Zortman of KVII-TV was named at the organization's 23rd annual convention Saturday. He succeeds Jim Carola, news director of KILT Radio, Houston. Carola served as president the past year.

New regional vice presidents of the organization include Sid Allen, KLBK-TV, Lubbock, for northwest Texas; Lee Elssesser, KXAS-TV, Fort Worth, for north Texas; Ken Fairchild, KRLD, Dallas, for northeast Texas; Jessie Grimes, KNFM, Midland, for west Texas; Jean Bissonnette, KNOW, Austin, for central Texas; David Anderson, KLVI, Beaumont, for southeast Texas; and Gary Anderson, KHII-TV, Corpus Christi, for south Texas.

Annual awards were presented in several categories, including best newscasts to television stations in Dallas and Temple and radio stations in Houston, Austin, Tyler and Denton.

The awards were presented at a banquet concluding the two-day meeting.

Three of the stations were repeat winners, having won "best newscast" awards last year in UPIBAT competition. They were WFAA-TV, Dallas; KPRC Radio, Houston; and KTTB Radio, Tyler.

Other "best newscast" winners were KCEN-TV, Temple; KNOW, Austin; and KNTU-FM, Denton.

Competition included the Wendell Mays Memorial public affairs award. Winners of this category were KTRK-TV, Houston; KVII-TV, Amarillo; and radio stations WFAA and KBOX, both Dallas; KLVI, Beaumont; and KMHT, Marshall.

Lovington Sponsors Festival Of Arts

LOVINGTON, N.M. (Special) — A "Festival of Arts," sponsored by the Lovington Chamber of Commerce, will be June 17 at the Lea County Fair Building here.

This is the first such event in Lovington, though chamber officials hope to make it an annual event.

Area artists will have display booths and demonstrations of their work and completed works will be offered for sale. Hourly entertainment will include singers and local bands. The festival will open at 9 a.m. and end with an auction at 6 p.m. City officials will be auctioneers at the event, which will offer art items made by senior citizens.

Carter Faces Foreign Aid Limits Opposition

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Troubled by congressional restraints on a president's ability to provide economic and military aid abroad, President Carter may find strong congressional opposition to removing such restrictions, particularly in Africa.

If a battle between Carter and Congress materializes, the Senate will be the scene. Earlier this month, the House voted to keep many of the restrictions that irk Carter in the new foreign aid bill, and sent the measure to the Senate.

"There's a trend in Congress that is building up that puts too much constraint on a president to deal with rapidly changing circumstances," Carter told a news conference in Chicago last week.

In a sense, Carter is reaping the result of earlier congressional distrust of former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's policies in Africa and Vietnam.

Many of the restrictions that have embittered Carter — particularly those conditioning aid to Zambia, Tanzania, Angola, and Mozambique — were enacted because Congress was convinced Kissinger intended to involve the United States directly in the Angolan civil war.

Carter's repeated complaints about those restrictions, at a time when rebels based in Angola invaded Zaire again, seems to have revived some of those congressional fears.

Sen. Dick Clark, D-Iowa, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Africa subcommittee, fears the administration wants to resume military aid, through third countries, to the United Front for the Total Independence of Angola (UNI-TA), a rebel group that Kissinger supported and that opposes the current leftist Angolan government.

But the earlier House debate revealed a bipartisan worry about the impact any aid to Angolan rebels or Zambia, Tanzania, Mozambique and Uganda might have on Rhodesia and South Africa.

Rep. Edwin Derwinski, R-Ill., called black Rhodesian rebels operating from Zambia, "a bunch of Marxist murderers ... There are probably more atrocities committed against innocent black civilians by them than anything committed by colonial rules of the past."

"That also applies to SWAPO in Namibia," Derwinski said in reference to opponents of the government in South African-ruled Southwest Africa. "These people are not noble revolutionaries. They are murderers and if they ever get control of Rhodesia, no one will have any rights."

Rep. Stephen J. Solari, D-N.Y., was one of the few to speak in support of aid for the African frontline nations.

"The fact is that President (Julius) Nyerere of Tanzania, president (Kenneth) Kaunda of Zambia, and President (Samora) Machel of Mozambique have been enormously helpful in assisting us in our effort, together with the British, to bring about a negotiated settlement to the conflict which is now raging in Rhodesia," Solari said.

Kidnapping Suspect May Believe Child Her Own

DALLAS (UPI) — Police Sunday said the woman accused of kidnapping a 2-year-old boy while babysitting the child May 22 has used numerous names in working traveling between Dallas and Kansas recently.

A woman identified as Amanda Banning while babysitting Richard Lysdahl at a motel. But police investigator R.D. Lewis said the FBI identified the missing suspect as Velma I. Booth, 23, a native of Wichita, Kan.

Police have said the woman reportedly suffered a miscarriage May 16 and is under the delusion the child is her own.

Lewis said the woman told employees of a modeling studio where she was working in Dallas at the time of the kidnapping that a warrant for her arrest had been issued in Liberal, Kan., for assaulting a police officer.

Sleepy Rape Suspect Arrested

An alleged 17-year-old rapist who "made himself comfortable" at his victim's home early Sunday, was having to adjust to less than plush trappings at the county jail before noon.

The 48-year-old victim told police the man appeared harmless outside her bedroom window about 6:45 a.m. Sunday, then began cutting the screen open with a knife.

The woman said the man then reached through the screen, lifted the window and climbed inside as she fled down the hallway.

The suspect reportedly grabbed the woman near the front door and placed the knife at her throat. The woman said the suspect threatened to kill her if she opened the door.

Thereafter, the woman said, the man raped her twice in her bedroom.

However, about 10:50 a.m. Sunday, as the man slept on her bed, the woman said she slipped out the house and ran to a neighbor's where she phoned police.

The 17-year-old laborer had a rude awakening about nine minutes later, reports indicated, and found himself at the county jail a quarter hour after that.

A 43-year-old Mexican-American wasn't feeling too well either early Sunday, when he awoke in the 400-block of Walnut Avenue.

The man quickly walked to a woman's doorway and asked that she call police.

He told the woman all he could remember was being at a motel in the 2300-block of 19th Street earlier. When police investigated, they found a 2-by-4 piece of lumber in the street and a large amount of blood.

The man was treated and released at the West Texas Hospital emergency room, a spokesman said.

About the same time Sunday, a 48-year-old East Lubbock woman was taking her own lumps. The victim was found lying in the parking lot at a lounge near 23rd Street and Southeast Drive with two small cuts on her head.

A broken bourbon bottle was found nearby with evidence of blood on it, police said.

John Todd of Rt. 4, Lubbock, said he had gone to the South Plains Mall Satur-

Poison Gas Leak Kills Motel Guests

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (UPI) — Authorities Sunday investigated the leak of carbon monoxide gas that seeped into rooms of sleeping motel patrons, killing two men and injured 16 other persons.

Police identified the victims of the early Sunday leak as Milan Lincoln, Scottsdale, Ariz., and his 88-year-old father-in-law Ben Yates, North Platte, Neb. Both men, who were staying in the same room at the Ship and Anchor Motel, were pronounced dead at the scene.

Lincoln's wife, Florence Lincoln, 44, was admitted to Cox Medical Center in Springfield in serious condition. Another 15 persons overcome by the gas were treated at the center for carbon monoxide poisoning and released Sunday.

City Fire Marshal Daniel Thurman said carbon monoxide fumes from a hot water heater filtered into the ground-floor rooms of the hotel from a vent pipe which was not properly connected in the ceiling. Thurman said authorities were unsure why the vent pipe had been improperly connected.

Authorities were alerted to the scene by hospital officials who said two patrons of the motel entered the medical center for treatment of gas poisoning about 6 a.m. Officers and motel management then evacuated patrons in 23 rooms.

Thurman said the motel will be closed until the leak is repaired.

Crowds Line Boardwalk

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — In a scene reminiscent of Great Depression headlines, gamblers and gawkers waited Sunday to enter the Resorts International Casino while eager merchants said legal gaming was the key to a rosy future.

The line stretched four blocks on the Boardwalk on the third day of gambling at the first American legal gambling casino on the east of Nevada. The curious who crowded into town for the busy Memorial Day weekend waited up to three hours to get in.

More than 150,000 persons passed through the casino in the first three days with more than 5,000 on the floor at one time.

An official said the opening day's take was larger than in any Nevada casino where the average daily is about $250,000.

Crowds pushed and shoved at the hotel entrance as security men checked guests' room keys before letting them through.

"I can see already the last month has brought a complete turnover in the quality of people," said Ronald H. Kugel, whose jewelry store has been on the Boardwalk for 21 years.

"It's a class of people that are better educated and make more money," he said.

"It's going to increase the volume of business we are doing by increasing the individual unit of sales. It's easier to sell a better quality of merchandise," he said.

Larry Alper, an operating party of the famous Steel Pier, said, "This casino very definitely will help our business. I think the town is definitely on the upswing. It can't be stopped now. It's a matter of how far and how fast."

"Our bookings are way up over last summer already," said Philip DeGroodt, general manager of the Sheraton Seaside across the street from the casino's back entrance.

The Rev. Arthur G. O'Rourke, pastor of St. Nicholas of Toletine Catholic Church, predicted it would take about six years to see a trend in beachgoers and vacationers who attend his services.

His church has been serving the religious needs of the area for 75 years. O'Rourke said he was not opposed to casino gambling, like some church leaders.

"It's the individual decision," he said. "If a guy is going to blow his paycheck that is his problem. He's got to make that moral judgment. I can't make it for him. It's like alcohol — it's the abuse, not the use."

Legend Incorrect, Professor Says

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — A college professor says the legendary Mexican revolutionary leader Pancho Villa in real life was nothing like the character depicted in stories and movies.

A century after Villa's birth, Dr. Haldeen Braddy writes in his new book, posterity has balked at fully accepting stories of his brutalities.

The book, "The Paradox of Pancho Villa," is being published by Texas Western Press to mark the centennial anniversary of Villa's birth June 5, 1878.

Braddy describes Villa as "a mustachioed bandit-warrior in a steep-crowned sombrero" who wore "two ornately plated revolvers strapped to his fat waist."

As Centaur of the North, he was "half animal and half man," Braddy writes. "Folklore in both songs and tales about him does not dwell on his atrocities, bestialities, and crimes. Like the shoddy Hollywood movies on Villa, song and story present a romanticized, sentimentalized hero."

Braddy, who retires this year as professor emeritus of English at the University of Texas at El Paso, says Villa not only took part in the March 9, 1916 Columbus raid but he used that invasion of New Mexico in an attempt to entice Americans into war.

Villa supporters contend he did not lead the raid and a 1934 movie, "Viva Villa" depicted him in Casas Grandes when the event took place.

The evidence shows Villa was in Columbus, Dr. Braddy said, and left behind documents on the battlefield showing he had decided three months earlier to provoke the Americans in intervening in the Mexican Revolution.

"It further appears," he said, that the Germans may have intimidated him that if he could force the Yankees to intervene in Mexico, the overthrow of Carranza would automatically establish Villa as the head of a popular government," Braddy writes.

Among sources he quotes on the matter of the battlefield papers is President Wilson who was in Columbus the day of the attack.

Braddy says Carothers examined papers that were in two wallets Villa lost on the battlefield and stated they connected Villa with the San Isabel massacre of a group of Americans in January, 1916 and established the fact that Villa had decided to declare war on the United States.

Villa, whose hopes for the outcome of the revolution had been dashed, was then "playing the last losing cards of a desperate game," Braddy writes.

The book is the fourth on Villa written by Braddy who has been researching the man for many years.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

BY
DR. GEORGE C. THOSTESON

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How does one tell whether or not one is intolerant of milk, per your recent discussion of this subject? I suspect my eight-year-old son has this problem. Must I continue to deprive him of that delicious food in all its forms, ice cream, for instance? — Mrs. P.T.

you experience this you should go in promptly to be checked. The possibility of glaucoma should also be checked out. It will be that simple innocent floaters are involved here, but it is wise to get this verified.

I'll take your first question first, then I have something to add that should be of interest to you regarding your second question — as to whether the child has to be deprived of milk nutrients.

The only certain way to find out if your child is intolerant of the milk sugar (lactose) is through blood sugar tests. The sugar is measured at fasting, then periodically during the next hour and a half after consuming a quantity of the lactose. If the blood sugar level doesn't rise above a certain point at the end of the testing it can be concluded that he is, indeed, intolerant. Symptoms are abdominal distress, bloating, cramps, flatulence, and diarrhea.

Until recently, there was little to do about this problem (which afflicts millions) other than to avoid milk sugar in all forms. Now, ways have been found to break down the offending milk sugar (disaccharide) into simpler sugars (monosaccharides), thus making milk digestible.

A new substance recently marketed pre-hydrolyzes milk sugar before consumption, making it usable for intolerant persons. It is a powder substance added to milk at home before drinking (Lact-Aid).

Manufacturers warn that it should not be used by galactosemics (those with a hereditary disorder disturbing carbohydrate use) and that care be taken with diabetic diets. Ask your doctor about this possibility.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a very nervous person. I hate to go to doctors. I get excited and shake all over. I had to see mine recently and he did an EKG, then told me my heart was bad. Do you think my nervousness could have caused that? — Mrs. A.M.

One wonders what he meant by "bad." The nervousness could have caused a fast rate or irregular rhythm. By "bad" one thinks chiefly of a conduction disorder or muscle changes from a previous heart attack.

You should tell the doctor of your nervousness. Many do not. For this reason it is best to have blood pressure checked twice during a visit, especially if the first reading is higher than normal.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I went to my doctor because I had loss of balance and dizziness. He told me to take Nicobid. Can you explain what that is? What is it for? I am 50. — Mrs. L.M.

It is a commercial brand of niacin, a vitamin B compound. It may be of help in patients with ataxia, a loss of muscular coordination.

To find out what causes high blood pressure and what can be done to treat it, send for a copy of "Controlling Your Blood Pressure (Hypertension)" by Dr. Thosteson. Write to Dr. Thosteson, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Copyright 1978 Field Enterprises, Inc.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Occasionally a small gold "dot" will appear in the center of my eye and increase gradually from a dot to a jagged gold line. When this occurs I sometimes have blurred vision. Most of the time the vision is fine. When this streak occurs it takes 15 minutes to run its course. Does this sound like something I need to consult a specialist about: Is this a "floaters"? — Mrs. E.K.

It could be a floater, but from your description it could be something more important. Floaters are bits of matter that may break loose and float in the eye fluid. They are harmless and transient. The fact that your symptoms last so long and interfere with your vision prompt me to urge an examination by an ophthalmologist. Dramatic eye symptoms (such as showers of floaters and flashes of light) can indicate impending retinal detachment or the bursting of a blood vessel. If

Q.1—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:

What action do you take?
A.—Double. Don't expect a bonanza, although you should defeat two diamonds. With your singleton in partner's suit and four trumps, your hand could easily produce four or more tricks on defense. The main point of the double is to warn partner against bidding spades again.

Q.2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

What action do you take?
A.—Partner rejected your slam try when he simply returned to three no trump over your cue-bid of the enemy suit. However, you have not yet done your hand full justice. Partner is not aware that you have a good six-card suit, so we suggest you bid four diamonds to test his reactions.

Q.3—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

The bidding has proceeded:

What do you bid now?
A.—You have made two slam tries and so far you have elicited the information that partner has second-round heart control and a rebiddable spade suit. There is a tendency to commit the hand to slam, but that would be precipitate. For the moment, you need to do no more than bid three spades. If partner raises to game, you can make one more move by bidding five clubs.

Q.4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦KJ3 ♠J105 ♦KJ985 ♦83
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
1 ♦ 1 ♦ ?
What action do you take?
A.—You do not need much from partner to make slam, and you should make him aware of your ambitions by starting a cue-bidding sequence. Normally when you show controls, you bid your cheapest first-round control. However, in this instance we would begin by cue-bidding four diamonds, instead of three spades, for reasons of economy. When we cue-bid four spades over the expected four heart rebid, partner will have the opportunity to show values in clubs, which is what we need for slam. Also, by reversing the cue-bidding sequence, partner might get the message that we are void in diamonds.

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: I read in your column a reply to a letter in which you state that you took Catholic instruction. It may be presumptuous of me to question you, but since you are a "public person," may I ask if you were planning to switch to Catholicism from Judaism? We'd hate to lose you.

Dear W.S.O.: No way. I took the course in order to better understand Catholicism, but I told the priest in advance I wanted to learn — not turn.

Dear Not: Many women are in agreement with you — but not all. Read On.

DEAR ABBY: I'm the 33-year-old mother of three adorable little girls. I'd like to know the answer to a question I should probably ask my doctor, but I'm afraid he'll think I'm stupid.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were in an elevator with a little old lady who was standing behind us. When the elevator door opened, my husband turned to her and said, "Please go ahead of me, dear."

After my third daughter was born, I was very disappointed. I had prayed so hard for a boy because I knew that's what my husband wanted. My doctor tried to console me by telling me I shouldn't feel I had let my husband down — that the father alone determined the sex of a child.

She gave him a warm smile and replied, "Thank you. You have made my day. It's been years since anyone called me 'dear.'"

How can this be? Sign me...

DEAR Mother: I refuse to sign you "Stupid" — yours is an intelligent question.

Do you wish you had more friends? For the secret of popularity, get Abby's new booklet: "How To Be Popular, You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (24 cents) envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

When a child is conceived, the male's sperm, which contains either a "Y" chromosome or an "X" chromosome for sex determination, fertilizes the female's egg, which contains only an "X" chromosome. Each partner contributes one sex chromosome, but the female's is always an "X." Therefore, if the father's "Y" chromosome fertilizes the egg, the baby will be a boy, but if the father's "X" chromosome connects, the baby will be a girl.

It's addressing all women as "honey, darling, sweetie, dear" — and other patronizing phrases by bosses, store clerks, receptionists and a host of others who should know better. I find it extremely offensive. Abby, you

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK
One never knows how painfully average they are until they go to rent something and discover they are out of their size. It's always been that way with me. At the roller rink, I always had a choice of skating shoes: size 3 or 11. At the ski slopes, it was either the 18-foot acrobatic skis or nothing!

Somehow, when I rented a horse, I knew before I got there they had just let out the last "gentle" one who was at that moment ambling along the path as its rider rode side-saddle with the reins gently resting in one hand. I invariably got one called "El Diablo" who had never been ridden in his life and had been severely whipped by a woman who was a dead ringer for me.

I used to naively think we were the only ones in the world who wanted to rent an inexpensive compact car for our vacation with an adequate trunk, four doors, air conditioning and low gas mileage.

By the time they got to us, they were down to a car that had everything but a body, purple flag on the fender, and a police escort.

Some of the extras included electric doors, carpeted windows, piano bar, and a revolving disco mirror. It also got three miles to the gallon.

I could have predicted a scene that took place at the bowling alley the other night.

"I'd like to rent a pair of bowling shoes," I said.

"What size?"

"Six and a half."

"That's an average size. We're all out. Could you fluff up your socks and try a size 11?"

"Well, I..."

"In men's?"

"I don't..."

"Left-handed? I suppose you want a light ball?" (I nodded.) So does everyone. Right-handed? (I nodded.) With three holes? Those all went in a hurry.

I ended up with an 85-pound ball used only on weekends by a left-hander with a thumb the size of a ballpoint pen.

My husband came up behind me and said to the girl, "Do you have men's shoes, size 11, left-handed, and a heavy ball with a rather small thumb?"

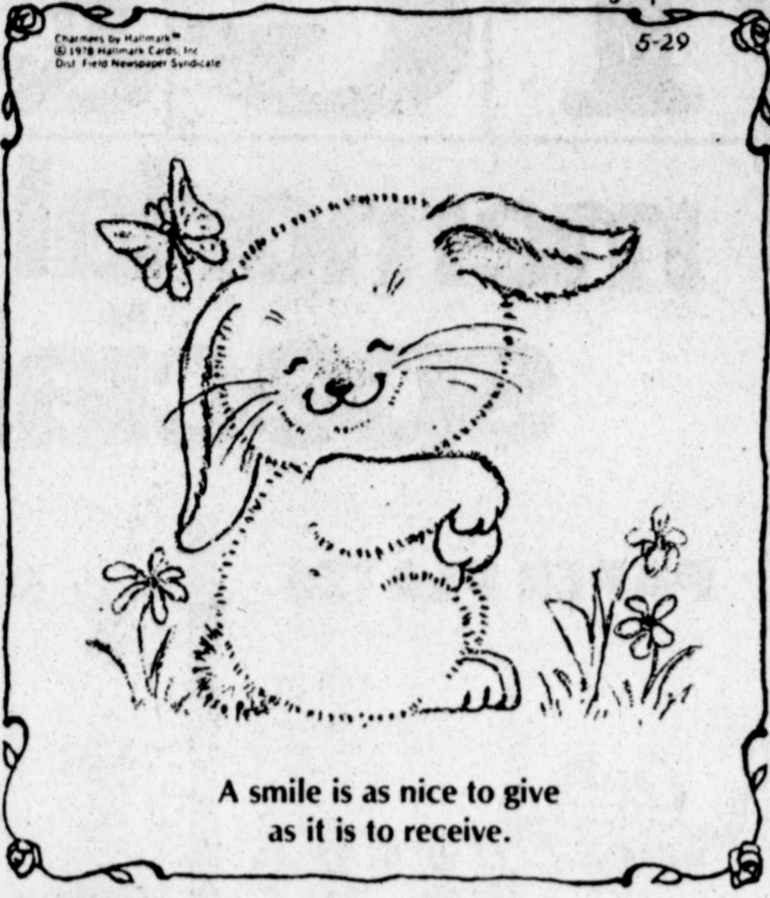

She winced. "Gee, as a matter of fact, we don't. That's a real average size, you know."

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann: I'm a 16-year-old girl. My best friend is 16 also. Last night we were talking on the phone as we do every night after supper and she suddenly asked me if I knew how a person could get bronchial pneumonia — on purpose.

I asked what in the world for. She said, "Oh, I don't want to die or anything like that. I just want to be sick enough to go to the hospital so people will send me cards and flowers and the guys will come and visit me and see me in a pretty night-gown with my hair loose."

I was shocked. At her idea of fun. Have you ever heard of anything so weird? — Friend Of A Stranger: One

Dear Friend: Anyone who has had bronchial pneumonia will tell you it's not fun. Illness is a sure-fire attention-getter. It also provides a respectable excuse for not going to school and doing things that become boring.

People who fail to get satisfaction from their day-to-day achievements sometimes get conveniently "sick." You'd be surprised at how many adults do this — without realizing it. Your friend should thank the Lord for her good health and get those goofy ideas out of her head.

Dear Ann Landers: Last night we had several couples over for an informal supper. The guests were chatting away and I had the stereo tuned to an FM station for some soft background music. Suddenly, Mrs. D. rose from her chair, placed her hand over her heart and just stood there. I thought maybe she was having an attack

Hints from Heloise

DEAR GENTLEMEN:
I have learned something new from a darling hatcheck girl.

Perhaps this is something that you've never thought about before, but just might save you a good hat or coat someday.

Do you know how many men's hats and coats are left in checkrooms each year? It's enough to make you gasp.

She told me that if each of you would tuck your calling card in the inside hat band of all your hats and leaves one in the pocket of your coats, that nearly 100 percent of the time the checkstand will locate you with a phone call.

If you are an out-of-towner, they nearly always drop you a card.

So many men's hats and coats are alike that if one attendant happens to leave the checkroom for a few minutes and another takes her place, there are sometimes mistakes. But most of all, you men forget them.

So let's play "tag" and tag these articles, then you won't have to play "seek and you shall find" tomorrow, for tomorrow you just might not find. — Heloise me for the food. They even write checks for "rent" on their room each night.

Even though it's only scribbling for the 5-year-old it's a treat for both children, and the 7-year-old is learning the proper way to fill out checks and sign them. — N.A.

DEAR HELOISE:
Here's a 15-cent idea. Suppose I decided not to mail this letter after affixing a stamp to the envelope. Can I get my stamp back?

There seems to be no feasible way to get a stamp off an envelope, but it's easy to get the envelope off the stamp. That's right!

Don't pull on the stamp. Just double back the envelope at the edge of the stamp — the two papers separate quite readily. Work around the stamp, being careful not to let the stamp bend — keep it flat.

The stamp comes off unrumpled, unfeathered. A drop of mucilage and it's worth 15 cents again. — A Man in the Ladies Department

THIS COLUMN is written for you...the homemaker. If you have a hint or a problem write to Heloise, 235 E. 45th St., New York, N.Y. 10017. Because of the tremendous volume of mail, Heloise is unable to answer individual letters. She will, however, answer your questions in her column whenever possible.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag
Alan: "How about some articles on percentage plays?"

Oswald: "Let's start with a very simple one. South finds himself in a nice comfortable four-spade contract. He might even make six if everything goes well."

Alan: "His whole aim with this hand is to make six trump tricks, if he can. He is not going to make them on any line of play if West holds three or more to the queen or East holds four or more, including the lady. The best play for six spade tricks is to take an immediate finesse against the queen."

Ask the Experts

Oswald: "This time either play is going to bring home the bacon. The finesse play wins any time East holds Q x x or some 18 percent of the time plus the 9 percent of the time that both plays work. The drop play works the 9 percent that both plays work plus the 9 percent of the time West holds Q x or singleton queen. It loses when East has Q x x."

Alan: "In other words, the finesse play wins 27 percent of the time. The drop play wins only 18 percent."

Amy's Violin Playing Picture Of Concentration

VIENNA, Va. (UPI) — Amy Carter was serious as she played "Twinkle, Twinkle Little Star" Sunday on the violin. Some of the younger musicians cried, others sat and stared at the crowd and one boy used his bow to tidy up the stage.

President and first lady Rosalynn Carter joined about 3,000 parents and family who watched the two-hour performance at Wolf Trap, a national park for the performing arts located about 10 miles from Washington.

About 600 youngsters, some as young as 3, used violins, cellos and violas to play the music of Bach, Vivaldi, Beethoven and other composers. All of them are learning under the Suzuki method, which stresses listening to the music rather than reading it.

Arby, a beginner, performed in the final segment of the program, along with most of the rest of the cast.

The conductor gave her final instructions for the grand finale — which she called "the ever famous variations on Twinkle, Twinkle" — and then told the youngsters to "Play your hearts out."

Amy's face was serious, just like her mother's and father's. As it went on, their expressions turned to smiles. Amy's remained one of fixed concentration.

The presidential daughter learned one of the facts of life of show business. She was upstaged. Younger children were in front of Amy.

Man Glad As 'Dog' Returns

By TANNER LAINE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A Jayton woman reading her Sunday Avalanche-Journal helped bring about a happy ending to a heart-warming story that stretched from Lubbock's Methodist Hospital to the JY Ranch, between Guthrie and Paducah.

Mrs. Inez Chisum was reading a story about the lost dog of rancher Bob Masterson, owner of the JY Ranch, who has been seriously ill in Methodist Hospital for several weeks. Reading about the rancher's devoted pet, she just knew it was the dog her daughter and her husband had found in Spur.

Sure enough it was, and with two phone calls Mrs. Chisum and her daughter and son-in-law had helped reunite the tan and white pooch named "Dog" with his owner.

"Dog" has been missing from the JY Ranch since last weekend. Mrs. Masterson feared the very intelligent animal, who loved her husband so much, was trying to get to Lubbock from the ranch, a distance of about 80 miles.

During his illness, Masterson had been brought down to the ground floor of the hospital in his wheelchair to visit with his pet, and Mrs. Masterson thought "Dog" might be trying to get back to his master.

Sure enough, the dog turned up in Spur Friday, which is on the way from the Guthrie-Paducah area to Lubbock. The dog was impounded at Spur. But before Mrs. Masterson could get to Spur from Lubbock, the dog had jumped an eight-foot fence and escaped.

Later Friday, the dog showed up at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Spradling in Spur. "He was friendly," Mrs. Jean Spradling said. "We just knew that he was someone's pet."

Although Mrs. Spradling didn't know the animal's name, she said she began calling it "Dog" because "he seemed to answer to the name."

On Sunday morning, Mrs. Spradling's mother, Mrs. Chisum, read the story in the A-J describing the dog and how much he meant to the rancher.

She then called her daughter in Spur to tell her about the story. After Mrs. Spradling read the story in the A-J, she knew immediately that she and her husband had the missing pet.

They called Bill Masterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Masterson, and he promptly drove from Paducah to Spur to pick up "Dog."

The "love at first sight" between rancher and dog began one cold, sleeting and snowy day, when Bob Masterson was out driving and saw a little dog, shivering, lost and hungry, near the Pitchfork Ranch. The rancher stopped, and you can guess the rest. "Dog" had a happy home on the big JY spread, and the pair were inseparable.

Now, all that is left to complete the story is for Masterson to get strong enough to get down to street level of the hospital where he can visit his beloved pet.

"DOG" IS FOUND — "Dog," the beloved pet of Guthrie rancher Bob Masterson, was found in Spur Sunday bringing a happy ending to a heart-warming story that had stretched from Methodist Hospital to the JY Ranch. Masterson is seriously ill in Lubbock's Methodist Hospital, and "Dog" had been brought to Lubbock to visit Masterson a time or two. Mrs. Masterson believes the dog was trying to get back to Lubbock to see his master.

Academy Eliminates Tail End Charlie

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (UPI) — There will be no Tail End Charlie when the Air Force Academy graduates the class of '78 Wednesday. A 19-year tradition has come to an end.

The distinction was traditionally bestowed on the cadet with the lowest grade average in the graduating class. His low academic standing meant he was the last man in line to receive a diploma.

Tail End Charlie had some compensation for his lowly academic status: He received a loving cup filled with silver dollars provided by classmates.

Academy spokesman Will Ketterson said the decision to do away with Tail End Charlie was made several months ago.

"The academy was concerned about too much emphasis placed on the position of Tail End Charlie," he said. "Anyone who graduates from the academy has made a significant accomplishment — period."

In the past, all cadets received their diplomas in descending order of academic merit. On Wednesday, cadets will be graduated by squadron and members of each unit will get their diplomas in alphabetical order.

The only exception will be the top 7 percent of the Class of 1978's top graduates, about 68 of them, who will receive their diplomas in descending order of merit, based on academic and military performance.

Cadet Col. Stephan Goldfein, cadet wing commander, said he hasn't noticed much reaction from his wing to the demise of Tail End Charlie.

Heartline

HEARTLINE is a service for senior citizens of all ages. Its purpose is to answer questions and solve problems — fast. If you have a question or a problem not answered in these columns, write Heartline, 114 E. Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 43081. Senior citizens will receive prompt replies, but a stamped, self-addressed envelope must be included with the request. The most useful replies will be printed in this column.

HEARTLINE: I am a 17-year-old high school student. My father has recently passed away. He worked under Civil Service. Can you tell me how long a surviving child can collect a Civil Service annuity? — T.B.

Until the end of the month before the one in which the child marries, dies or reaches 18, except in the following cases: — Payment to a child age 18 or over, who is incapable of self-support because of disability which began before 18, stops at the end of the month before the one in which he or she marries, dies, or becomes capable of self-support.

— A student-child's annuity stops at the end of the month before the one in which he or she marries, dies, ceases to be a student, or reaches age 22, whichever occurs first. A student-child who reaches age 22 during the school year (Sept. 1 through June 30) continues to receive annuity until June 30. A child's annuity which was terminated because he or she ceased to be a student may be resumed if the child again becomes a student. However, a student-child retains the annuity during non-school intervals of not over five months between school years or terms if he or she shows clear intention to continue as a full-time student at the same or a different school.

HEARTLINE: I have always paid everything by cash. Recently I have had many companies sending me applications for credit cards. As of yet, I have never had a credit card. Can you give me a little information on this? — T.S.

Credit cards are almost as numerous in consumers' wallets these days as dollar bills. Perhaps more so. Losing a credit card, however, is not quite as bad as the disappearance of a wallet full of money. It is always wise to carry only the credit cards that will be needed on a particular shopping trip or journey, leaving the others safely locked up at home. The name and serial number of each credit card carried should always be jotted down and placed in an inside pocket, a glass case, or auto glove compartment, so that prompt notification can be made if the credit card itself is lost or stolen. Some insurance companies include a limited amount of coverage against misuse of a credit card in homeowner policies; others offer it for an additional charge. Although it does not provide an insurance policy, the Credit Card Service (4660 Kenmore Ave., Alexandria, Va. 22304) offers a service by subscription that includes notification of all credit card companies of the loss and arranging for a loan to cover transportation back home of the credit card owner.

HEARTLINE: I have read in the paper where a person's Civil Service pension will not reduce any Social Security spouse's benefit. I am drawing my railroad retirement benefit and my wife is presently working for the city government. Will the Civil Service pension reduce the railroad retirement's spouse's benefit? — N.B.

Yes. But for the most part, annuity reductions for public pensions do not apply to individuals retiring in the next five years. Non-dependent husbands and widowers who apply for annuities since December, 1977 will be subject to such reductions. However, annuities on the rolls as of November, 1977 continue to receive their annuities without any reductions for public pensions. Nor does the reduction apply to wives, widows, dependent husbands and dependent widowers who are now eligible, or become eligible, for public pensions or civil service pensions before 1982, regardless of when they begin receiving railroad retirement or Social Security spouse or widower's benefits.

Church Leaders In Legal Bind

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Church of Scientology has received word from government sources that a number of its top-ranking officials will be indicted within the next few days, a spokesman said Sunday.

Church spokesman Gregory Layton said the indictments are expected to be returned against unidentified members of the Scientologists' Guardian Office in Los Angeles, the national headquarters of the church, "around June 1."

He said the charges would revolve around the church's activities to "clear government files of false and malicious reports which the government circulated from agency to agency within the United States and to foreign governments."

A Justice Department spokesman said he could not comment on a secret grand

The investigation began in Washington last July when FBI agents raided church offices in Washington and Los Angeles and carted away thousands of documents.

Some of the documents seized by the government, according to information leaked to reporters, allegedly contain information on a variety of "dirty tricks" carried on by the Scientologists in their two-decade war against the government.

According to the government, the church has infiltrated members into various federal agencies where they have illegally copied and taken documents.

Most recently the church released portions of a previously secret Justice Department report looking at alleged "irregularities" within the Drug Enforcement Administration. Layton said Sunday the church will "stand by its members who may be indicted... Though there may have been alleged illegalities in the strictest sense of the law, the moral issue is decidedly one in favor of the church."

Layton said actions undertaken by the church "were done so in the spirit of self defense, whether such were legal or illegal as alleged by the government."

"Whether the copying of government documents wrongly withheld from a church in its Freedom of Information suits against the government is illegal as alleged by the government is a matter for the courts to decide," Layton said, "but the courts will also have to view the illegalities of the government and its acts of near genocide against the church and its members both here and abroad."

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By SAM SHULSKY

Quite apart from the consideration of yield on investments made by retired investors is the factor of frequency of money coming in. It is just another one of the many factors which I have found, lie beyond computer analysis or investment theory often employed by professional managers but seems to be of great importance to the small investor, especially if he is living on a tight budget.

For years I've sent out a list of generous yielding stocks which pay dividends regularly four times a year — and have paid them for decades (some for nearly a century) without interruption. The following, updated list is NOT all-inclusive. There are hundreds of other issues which your broker can list to get 12 checks a year. Consider buying at least one issue from each group:

Some companies paying dividends in JANUARY, APRIL, JULY and OCTOBER: AT&T, Amstar, Atlantic City Electric, Baltimore Gas & Electric, Bangor Hydro Electric, Bell Telephone of Canada, CPC International, Duquesne Light, Kansas Power & Light, Middle South Utilities, Mountain States Utilities, New England Electric System, New England Tel. & Tel., New Haven Water, Northern States Power, Oklahoma Gas & Electric, Pacific Gas & Electric, Portland General Electric, Southern California Edison, United Illuminating.

Some companies paying dividends in FEBRUARY, MAY, AUGUST and NOVEMBER: American Can, Arkansas Western Gas, Boston Edison, Brooklyn Union Gas, California Water Service, Central Hudson Gas & Electric, Central Vermont Public Service, Columbia Gas, Commonwealth Edison, Consumers Power, Public Service of Colorado, Iowa Power & Light, Long Island Lighting, New York State Electric & Gas, NICOR, Rochester Telephone.

Some companies paying dividends in MARCH, JUNE, SEPTEMBER and DECEMBER: Alabama Gas, Allegheny Power, American Brands, American Electric Power, Arizona Public Service, Celanese Corp., Central Illinois Light, Central Illinois Public Service, Central Maine Power, Consolidated Edison, General Foods, General Motors, Gulf Oil, Inland Steel, Potomac Electric Power, Public Service Electric & Gas, Public Service of Indiana, Texaco, U.S. Gypsum, Union Electric, Wisconsin Electric Power.

Q. We owe $8,000 on our home in the form of an 8 1/2 percent mortgage. We recently inherited $10,000 and would like to invest it for our retirement in 10 years. We aren't too familiar with stock speculation and so have considered a four-to-six-year savings certificate for this $10,000, allowing the mortgage to stand and benefitting from the interest deduction on our income taxes. Or should we pay off the mortgage now?

A. If the only job you will consider for this $10,000 is a savings certificate paying, let us say, 7 1/2 percent, I can't see that there is much difference between the two courses.

You're paying 8 1/2 percent on the $8,000 mortgage, and receiving 7 1/2 percent from $8,000 put into savings certificates. You get a tax credit for the 8 1/2 percent interest paid, but the 7 1/2 percent interest received is taxable. So there's a net budgetary loss there. Any inflation advantage obtained by reducing that $8,000 over the years with cheapening dollars is offset by the loss in strength suffered by the dollars you plan to keep in savings.

If you are not going to risk that $8,000 in equities in attempting to build capital for your retirement over the next 10 years you could use it either to wipe out the mortgage or to acquire a savings certificate... whichever makes you feel more comfortable.

Q. I sold 190 shares of stock at $15 a share and later received a demand from the broker that I return all but $300 of it. He said all I had was 20 shares — not 100.

A. And he was right; the stock had gone through a 1-for-5 reverse split. You no longer had 100 shares — but only 20.

SHULSKY welcomes written questions, but he will be able to provide answers only through the column.

For list of growth and dividend stocks, please include a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Address your request to Sam Shulsky, 235 East 45th Street, New York, N.Y. 10017.

Political Contributions Eyed

By LOUIS HARRIS

Americans are worried about political campaign contributions by both business and labor political action committees. By almost 2-to-1, they would favor reducing the amount that organized business, labor and consumer groups could give to federal campaign from the current $5,000 limit to $2,500.

Under the present law, individuals are limited to a maximum $1,000 contribution to a presidential, U.S. Senate or congressional campaign. However, a business, labor or consumer group is allowed to give as much as $5,000 to any federal campaign. It is evident that the public feels the present disparity between organized and individual giving should be cut in half. Such a bill is now coming up in Congress and is likely to be voted on during this session.

Basically, Americans harbor rather deep suspicions about organized giving in politics. In almost every case in which the latest Harris Survey asked a national cross section of 1,563 adults different types of political contributors, organized groups came up negatively.

By 65-21 percent, a majority feels that political contributions by big companies is a "bad influence on politics and government." Of course, corporations as such cannot give money to candidates on the national action funds contributed by certain employees and stockholders. A 47-32 percent plurality feels these also are a bad influence. It is evident that most Americans are very wary of any kind of corporation-related contributions to political campaigns.

However, by 58-26 percent, a sizable majority also believes that political contributions by labor unions have a "bad influence on politics and government." In the case of labor union political funds contribute to members of unions, a 46-36 percent plurality feels such contributions also have a bad influence.

There was one example of organized giving that was favorably regarded by the public.

By 55-26 percent, a majority feels that political contributions made by consumer action groups have a "good influence on politics and government."

The present gap between organized group giving and individual giving is felt to be "not justified" by a relatively close 44-38 percent plurality.

And when people were asked directly about specific organizations, the set of public opinion was clear:

By 50-27 percent, Americans favor reducing the maximum contribution of corporate political action committees from $5,000 to $2,500.

By 48-28 percent, it also favors limiting the contributions of consumerist political action groups to $2,500.

It is particularly interesting to note how members of labor unions feel about this issue. By 50-38 percent, trade unionists feel that contributions by labor unions to political campaigns are a "bad influence on politics and government." However, by a close 46-37 percent they feel that union funds contributed by members are a good, not a bad influence. By a narrow margin of 44-38 percent, the rank and file of labor feel that the present differential of a $5,000 limit for unions for individuals is justified.

But when asked if they would favor or oppose cutting in half the limit for corporations, unions and consumerist groups, members of labor unions support such a move by 51-26 percent for business groups, and by 49-27 percent for consumerist groups, and by 50-27 percent for their own labor union political action committee. Thus, in the end, union members share the feeling of the rest of the public on this issue.

The latest Harris Survey also made clear just what kind of contributions people feel are healthy for the system:

By 79-10 percent, a sizable majority feels that money donated by "small individual contributors" has a good influence on the system.

By 54-30 percent, a majority also sees a positive effect from contributions from "rich people who sincerely believe in a candidate and what he stands for." Whatever their feelings toward wealthy people, obviously most Americans would rather that well-heeled individuals give money to political campaign than that organized business contributors do so.

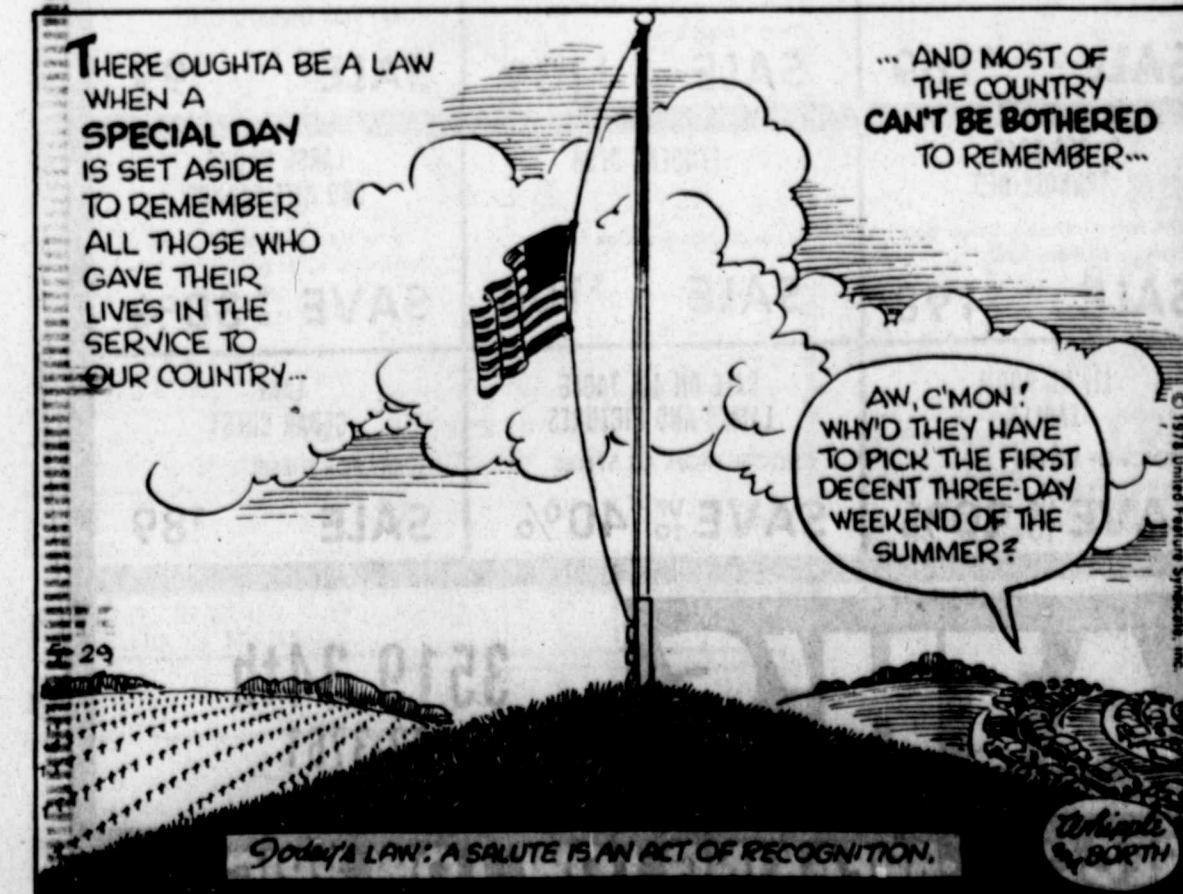

Fire Halts Work At Uranium Mine

WINDHOEK, South-West Africa (AP) — Fire halted production of uranium oxide at the world's largest uranium mine, a spokesman for Rossing Uranium Ltd. said today.

He said the fire, which started Wednesday, injured one worker and damaged one of two solvent extraction plants at the Rossing mine.

Economy Big Issue Troubling Western Canada

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UPI) — Bilingualism and Quebec separatism are remote issues for most western Canadians, who regard the federal government's management of the economy as the major threat to Canada.

Visitors from eastern Canada are aware of a different set of priorities in this seaport city on the Pacific Ocean.

French spoken by crewmembers aboard an airliner approaching Vancouver International Airport probably will be the last visitors will hear during their stay. They are more likely to hear Chinese and Japanese. British Columbia has a large Asian population.

However, all the superficial trappings of officially bilingual Canada are here: food packaging labels, government documents and hotel literature are in both French and English.

British Columbians don't worry about whether the country has one or two official languages and they rarely discuss Quebec separation. Like a lot of other Canadian provinces, they see high unemployment and a sagging economy as the major threat to the country's well-being.

"It's not the great issue that it is back east," said taxi driver Ed Harms of Quebec Premier Rene Levesque's pledge to lead his province to independence.

"Oh, most people want Canada to stay together, all right, but perhaps there should be some changes made to help it stay together."

"There's a lot I don't like about Levesque, but he's done one good thing as far as I'm concerned," Harms said. "He's confronted (Prime Minister Pierre) Trudeau with a problem that must be solved. Is the present confederation setup right for the provinces? If it isn't, then the constitution should be changed so that Quebec can remain part of Canada."

This more or less is what visitors are told if they ask about western attitudes to national unity.

While the challenge to Ottawa by Levesque's Parti Quebecois government apparently leaves them cold, British Columbians fume at what they consider neglect of their problems by the federal government.

New Democratic Party leader Ed Broadbent, though an easterner, summed up local feelings in a recent speech on the U.S.-Canadian West Coast fishing squabble. He described the federal government's attitude as "supine indifference."

The fishing row began earlier this month when a U.S. federal court issued an injunction barring Canadian fishermen from the 200-mile limit of U.S. territorial waters.

The order was stayed after the U.S. government said it would appeal because the ruling threatened current negotiations for a permanent fishing agreement.

between Canada and the United States. Meanwhile, the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union demanded that Ottawa make a commitment to support the fishermen. Premier Bill Bennett appealed personally to Trudeau to take some decisive action.

Finance Minister Jean Chretien's budget decision to place import quotas on shoes and clothing has angered the province. Import and retail business leaders said it would increase prices and threaten jobs dependent on imported Japanese goods.

"Are jobs in B.C.'s importing and retail fields being sacrificed to protect jobs in the shoe and clothing factories of Ontario and Quebec?" asked The Province, a Vancouver newspaper.

The federal government is also blamed for long delays of ships anchored in Vancouver harbor waiting for cargo. Tardy transportation of export grain from the prairies costs shipping companies thousands of dollars each year in wages and port fees.

"Every year it's the same," said company executive Jim Patterson. "The ships sit out in the harbor waiting. "I'm not involved," he said, "but I'm a businessman and I know delays mean money — in this case, lots of money. There's got to be a screwup somewhere along the line and it's the grain that's late and that's a federal transport problem."

Viet Vets Might Get Preference

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Although the Vietnam era veteran is "coming into his own," the giant civil service system ought to give him increased hiring preference and also should give special treatment to disabled veterans. Veterans Administration administrator Max Cleland said Sunday.

Cleland, defending President Carter's controversial civil service reform proposal, said the government should phase out special hiring treatment for longtime vets.

The president's controversial legislation would narrow the Veterans Preference clause that gives all veterans first crack at civil service openings, even if they served in the military 20, 30 or 40 years ago.

Carter considers it a key part of his plans to reform the federal bureaucracy and to open up more government jobs for the hard-core unemployed.

Cleland said Veterans Preference "was initially established after World War II as a readjustment benefit along with other readjustment benefits and the legislation would keep faith with that basic concept."

"The criticism on Veterans Preference has been that 20 or 30 years after a man or woman has come out of the military and has readjusted so to speak, Veterans Preference is still possible," he said in an interview on ABC's "Issues and Answers."

Carter's proposal has drawn considerable opposition on Capitol Hill and from veterans groups. Asked if the administration would compromise on the proposal, Cleland said:

"The administration would like to improve and perfect the legislation so that it focuses the benefit of Veterans Preference upon Vietnam veterans and disabled veterans and to that extent I think the administration would be in a position to help improve the legislation."

4-H Leader Featured At A&M Festivities

A-J Correspondent
KRESS — Swisher County 4-H leader Mrs. Bill Reed will be honored at the state 4-H leader luncheon during the organization's roundup June 7 at Texas A & M.

Mrs. Reed has been a leader of the Kress 4-H Club nine years and works with about 45 members. She received the Silver Spur award for outstanding adult leadership in 1972. The award was given by a vote of other 4-H leaders in the county.

Her children, Wayne, 21, and Denise, 19, were 4-H Gold Star winners and Denise was recipient of the National Food Preservation Scholarship in 1974. Mrs. Reed also received that national scholarship when she was a teenage 4-H member in Hill County.

Ailing Russian Baby Caught In Controversy

ATLANTA (AP) — Seven-month-old Jessica Katz, the subject of an international medical controversy, is "small and weak but adorable," said a Georgia couple who visited the baby in Russia.

Beverly and Gil Held of Macon were in Moscow for an engineering conference last week and saw Jessica, who suffers from the rare digestive disease, malabsorption syndrome, at the home of her parents.

programmers, "and that's my field of expertise," said Held, who supervises a data communications network for the U.S. Civil Service Commission.

The Helds had heard about Jessica before they left for Moscow and contacted the Katzes. Soviet authorities have rejected an offer from a Boston hospital to have Jessica flown to the United States. Doctors in this country have said the child could die without proper care.

A letter signed by 92 members of Congress was sent last week to Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev urging him to "locate expert medical care within the Soviet Union or allow Jessica to travel to the U.S. where the necessary medical treatment can be obtained."

Mrs. Katz met the Helds at their hotel in Moscow and took them to the Katz home, where "they treated us like honored guests," said Mrs. Held, who has one son and a 4-year-old daughter named Jessica.

Both families are Jewish, and Mrs. Held said she found much in common with Mrs. Katz.

"She was excited to find another mother of Jessica, which means 'mother of God' in Hebrew," Mrs. Held said.

Jessica Katz was "sustained by formula brought by American tourists, but not gaining any weight," Held said in a telephone interview Saturday. "Unfortunately, she probably will die. "The formula (sent by the Boston hospital) is sustaining her temporarily, but until she gets — I hate to say competent — good medical care, she won't improve," he said. "The doctors have tried but they just don't know how to treat her there. "And they are afraid if she is successfully treated in America, it will be a smear on their medical system."

Tass, the Soviet news agency, called the controversy "a big hullaballo about nothing," Held said.

Mrs. Held described Jessica as "small and weak but adorable."

"She isn't gaining weight, but she isn't losing any now," she said. "Her eyes are bright, but she is very weak. She couldn't sit up by herself. In fact, she couldn't do very much by herself."

Mrs. Held said that after her visit with Jessica, she remained calm until she and her husband left the Soviet Union.

"I didn't cry until we were on the plane coming home," she said. "It wasn't until then I felt comfortable to let my feelings show."

'Star Wars' Villain Saves Youngsters' Lives

LONDON (UPI) — "Star Wars" was a passport to fame and fortune for many, but not for the actors inside good old C3PO and big bad Darth Vader.

"I'm far better known in this country as the Green Cross Man than I am as Darth Vader," said David Prowse, a hulking body builder whose "Green Cross" career helps save children's lives.

After he climbed out of C3PO's golden shell, British actor Anthony Daniels found London producers tended to feel he "only plays machines." So lately Daniels has been touring South Africa in an American play, with fame and fortune still far off.

"This non-recognition business gets really silly at times," Prowse said in an interview.

"I was making a Green Cross appearance in a school up north, and out of the blue somebody said, 'Hey, did you know Darth Vader is coming to meet you?' Well I mean, I played the part in the movie, and how could I come to meet me? I could only roar back, 'Don't be silly—I'm Darth.'"

Acting is only one of Dave Prowse's three careers. The most interesting is his lifesaving traffic safety career.

Britain's Ministry of Transport set out three years ago to cut the number of small children killed and maimed in traffic accidents by drawing up its "Green Cross Code" — essentially a guide on crossing streets safely. Prowse, now 42, was hired to take the message personally to kids.

"In that time the number of road accidents overall has gone up 5 percent," Prowse said. "But among the kids I'm concerned with — the 5 to 11 age group — accidents actually have fallen 5 percent."

Prowse punches home his traffic safety message partly through his awesome size — he stands 6 feet, 7 inches, weighs 260 pounds, and once was an Olympics weightlifting contender.

In another of his careers he is a fitness expert, helping some 200 patrons tone their muscles in his Dave Prowse Fitness Center in central London. Some customers love his belief that "jogging is a vastly overrated exercise."

His bulk has influenced his second career, as an actor. "I've had to specialize in villains and robots and Frankensteins," he said. "I don't think I've ever played a goodie in all my career."

Prowse was offered the nonvillainous role of the monkeylike spaceship copilot in "Star Wars," but he chose Darth Vader "because everybody remembers the villain rather than the good guy."

Prowse considers his traffic safety role "my biggest-ever commitment. I keep seeing my own three kids in the ones I talk to. It's a great incentive to do it well."

On three or four Green Cross tours a year, hitting up to three schools a day, Prowse gives 500 small children at a time "a kind of one-man show to catch their interest — hand balances, flexing my pectorals, that sort of thing."

"Then comes the traffic safety lesson. 'It's the old message to stop, look and listen," Prowse said. "The Green Cross Code itself is 48 words, and it's typical of ficalese. So I simplify it for the kids."

Prowse has spread his lifesaving message to every major British town — on his latest tour alone he talked to 40,000 children. He peers from Green Cross posters all over the country and is familiar through scores of interviews and television appearances.

In one TV show recently, a tiny vignette showed how mixed up Dave Prowse's roles of Darth Vader and the Green Cross Man have become. With a deadly swoop, Prowse snatched up a little boy and held him eight feet above the ground.

"Are you really very bad?" the young captive asked.

"I am the greatest evil the galaxy has ever known," Prowse roared, and the little boy giggled with glee.

Melville's 'Bartleby' Produced For PBS

NEW YORK (AP) — "I can see that figure now — pallidly neat, pitiably respectable, incurably forlorn!" It was Bartleby.

Thus the reader's — and now the viewer's — introduction to Bartleby, that strange and mysterious character central to Herman Melville's first published short story, "Bartleby the Scrivener."

The entertaining and engrossing tale of a 19th Century Wall Street lawyer and his frustrating relationship with a copyist — or scrivener — named Bartleby, has been produced for public television by Maryland's Center for Public Broadcasting.

Monday evening in some areas and Tuesday night in others.

Joe Colodner, who performed on Broadway last year in "A Memory of Two Mondays" and has extensive experience off-Broadway and in regional theater, plays Bartleby. Nicholas Kepros, with a number of TV and regional theater roles to his credit, is the employer.

The production is, in a sense, unique even for public television.

"We wanted to prove to ourselves if possible that a state system like ours could produce something like this," said Michael B. Styer, executive producer for cultural affairs at the Maryland center, and perhaps serve as an inspiration for other public stations.

"I think many of us have been intimidated by the lavish series underwritten by big corporations," Styer said. "But we felt that we had a strong regional theater to work with, we had the facilities and the production capacity and we could do it in an economical way."

The Maryland production was paid for by the center itself, rather than by a corporate underwriter.

Israel Horowitz, a two-time Obie Award-winning playwright, wrote the script from the story published by Melville in 1853, two years after the American author's best-known novel, "Moby Dick."

"We'd done a search of short story literature," Styer said, "and we kept coming back to 'Bartleby.' We found nobody had really done it, except for a movie made in London in 1972 that made major changes in the story."

"We wanted to be true to Melville, and that was paramount throughout our work," Styer said.

"It took a lot of nerve on my part to take a great work like this and adapt it to television," Horowitz said. "It's vaguely frightening to work with a formidable figure like Melville. 'If I have succeeded, you won't even notice there is another writer involved. It'll be Melville. It will be as though Melville wrote a television play."

Egypt To Scrap Tourist Scheme

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI)—Bowling to popular demand, the government has decided to scrap a multi-million dollar scheme to build a tourist city complete with swimming pools and golf courses at the foot of the Great Pyramids, officials said Sunday.

The order, issued by President Anwar Sadat, said "Egypt's historical heritage should be preserved. This is above all financial considerations."

The plan had come under fire in parliament and the press, which denounced it as a "sacrilege" and insult to the splendor and glory of ancient Egypt.

It was a project of the Hong Kong-based firm Southern Pacific Properties in cooperation with a government-owned company and involved the construction of five hotels, 5,000 villas and 5,000 apartments over a 10,000-acre area two miles south of the Pyramids.

Southern Pacific Properties held a controlling 6 percent interest in the joint venture, paying $2.4 million. Egypt contributed the land on which the project would have been built.

Government critics argued the terms of the 99-year contract were unfair to Egypt. They claimed the land was priced very cheaply and was worth 500 times as much on the market.

"We sold our history, heritage and antiquities for peanuts," one critic recently said.

Critics also objected to the long duration of the contract and said they feared construction work would destroy ancient relics that might be buried in the area.

The government strongly defended the project at first, arguing it was a badly needed boost to the tourist industry. Minister of Tourism Mohab Stino told parliament last February the project would bring in $250 million annually when completed.

But as the storm of protest continued, Sadat ordered a committee set up to re-examine the project. Although its recommendations were not made public, the committee reportedly called for cutting the contract duration to 50 years and raising the Egyptian share to 51 percent.

But Sadat ordered the scrapping of the scheme altogether, emphasizing that the "preservation of Egypt's heritage is a preservation of the heritage of humanity," and that "national sentiment should be respected."

The statement said "measures will be taken to safeguard the interest of shareholders and beneficiaries."

Former Editor Sees More African Trouble

WALTHAM, Mass. (UPI)—U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young Sunday credited U.S. efforts with slowing Cuban involvement in African wars, but former South African editor Donald Woods forecast more violence on the troubled continent.

Young and Woods, a white editor who fled South Africa because of government attempts to silence his criticism of its apartheid policies, received honorary degrees Sunday at Brandeis University's 27th graduation ceremony.

Young, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, credited American and British efforts toward a negotiated settlement of the Rhodesia situation with helping avert "greater Cuban involvement" in that country.

"And so our job, I think, is not to panic, but to press on with the policy that we have been pursuing," he said. "I think that's right for Africa, but more important, it's right for us."

But Woods, now editor of the London Daily Dispatch, said he foresees increasing violence and war on the African continent.

He said the United States "should take a harder line against the Ian Smith (of Rhodesia) and Jon Vorster (of South Africa) governments, not only in the interests of the people of South Africa and Rhodesia, but in the interests of the United States."

"The people who are opposing Vorster and Smith are essentially fighting for the same things that the early American patriots like George Washington fought for," he said.

Woods said events in Zaire are "fairly isolated incidents at the moment. But as far as South Africa is concerned, I can see increasing violence, an escalation in the war in Rhodesia and an escalation in the war in South Africa, too."

Ethiopia Gets Castro Pledge

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI)—Cuban President Fidel Castro has sent a pledge of "militant solidarity" to Ethiopian leader Mengistu Haile Mariam, Addis Ababa Radio announced Sunday.

The reported message came at a time of rumored division between the two countries and uncertainty over Cuba's role in the war against secessionist rebels in Ethiopia's northern province of Eritrea.

Addis Ababa Radio said Castro sent the congratulatory message to Mengistu, the chairman of Marxist Ethiopia's ruling Dergue, on the 15th anniversary of the founding of the Organization of African Unity.

According to the radio, the message "renews Cuba's support for and militant solidarity with the just struggle of the Ethiopian people."

The Cuban leader was quoted as saying the anniversary of the creation of the OAU, which has its headquarters in Addis Ababa, coincided with the "historic victory achieved by the Ethiopian people in defense of the sovereignty, independence and territorial integrity."

This was believed to be a reference to Ethiopia's victory over Somalia in the Ogaden desert war, which was concluded in March after the intervention of thousands of Cuban soldiers on Ethiopia's behalf.

Castro's reported pledge came at a time of growing uncertainty about the relations that exist between Ethiopia and Cuba, which has an estimated 17,000 soldiers in the East African nation.

Last week, diplomats in Addis Ababa reported that there were strong signs that the Cuban ambassador and his counselor, along with the minister of the Southern Yemen embassy, were asked to leave the country.

According to the diplomats, the move was taken after the Cubans became too friendly with the leadership of the All-Ethiopia Socialist Movement, known as Meseon—a Marxist political group that was once close to the Dergue but recently has been denounced and purged as reactionary.

There also was uncertainty about Cuba's attitude toward the war in Eritrea.

Diplomatic sources said that in recent days, large concentrations of Cuban forces have been detected on the perimeter of the northern province, where guerrilla groups claim to hold 95 percent of the territory and have isolated government forces in four towns.

Mengistu announced the start of an offensive in Eritrea two weeks ago, but with the exception of some unsuccessful probes near the province capital of Asmara, it never materialized.

Mengistu also said that Soviet and Cuban forces were "dying with us and fighting with us," but there was no evidence that they had in fact joined the Ethiopian campaign.

Palestinians Ask Return Of Guerrillas To Jordan

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)—A top Palestinian leader Sunday appealed to King Hussein of Jordan to allow the return of guerrillas driven out of his country in the 1970-71 civil war.

Salah Khalaf, in an interview published in the English-language magazine Monday Morning, also renewed a pledge by the Palestine Liberation Organization that it would halt attacks on Israel from southern Lebanon.

Khalaf, also known by his code-name Abu Iyad, is No. 2 man in Al Fatah, the biggest Palestinian guerrilla organization headed by PLO chief Yasser Arafat.

He was asked to comment on King Hussein's expressions of concern about a possible Israeli attack against the East Bank.

"Let's assume he's right. What's the solution?" Khalaf said.

"If King Hussein is truly worried about the East Bank, he must let the forces of the PLO in."

"We are willing. We are ready to send more than three-quarters of our people to Jordan. But who will return us?"

Hussein's Bedouin army launched a crackdown of the Palestinians in "Black September" 1970 and drove them out of the country.

The guerrillas had used Jordanian territory as a staging grounds for attacks on Israel and were accused of plotting to seize power from the king.

Khalaf also said the PLO would avoid any guerrilla confrontations with U.N. peacekeeping troops in south Lebanon and would no longer attack Israel from the border region.

"From south Lebanon, no border action will be undertaken," Khalaf said. "Definitely no shelling across the border."

Bush To Announce Nomination Plans

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Former CIA director George Bush says he'll announce his candidacy early—in 1979 at the latest—if he decides to seek the 1980 GOP presidential nomination.

"I'm not coy about it," Bush said Saturday. "If I decide to do this, I'm going to have to move early. It can't be predicted by what Mr. Ford or Mr. Reagan or anyone else does."

Former President Gerald Ford and former California Gov. Ronald Reagan have indicated they may seek the 1980 nomination. The two were the leading contenders for the 1976 nomination, won by Ford.

Bush, chairman of the Republican National Committee in 1973-1974, was in Columbus for a fund-raiser for Rep. Samuel Devine, R-Ohio.

Bush said he thought it was too early to predict how popular President Carter would be in a second-term campaign.

REBEL SEARCH — A French legionnaire inspects a house in suburb of Kolwezi as the search continues for rebels who may remain in the Shaba Province of Zaire. The French forces were reportedly withdrawing Sunday from the battle-scarred city and turning responsibility for security in the area over to Zairean troops. (AP Laserphoto)

Fighting Halves Output Of Zaire Mines

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—The fighting in southern Zaire is expected to cut copper production in the mining center of Kolwezi, vital to the wobbly economy of the African nation, by 35 to 50 percent this year, Belgian experts say.

They work for Gecamines, the Zairian state-owned company that produces copper and cobalt in Shaba Province, invaded in mid-May by Katangan rebels apparently based in neighboring Angola.

The experts told a Belgian financial publication that six Belgian engineers for Gecamines returned late last week from the Shaba capital of Lubumbashi to inspect the mines at Kolwezi. That city took the brunt of the rebel attack before French and Belgian paratroopers intervened to evacuate white residents and chase out the invaders.

About 70 percent of Gecamines' copper production, normally 450,000 tons a year, is in Kolwezi. Company officials said that figure could drop to between 250,000 and 300,000 tons this year.

The engineers' initial reports reportedly said damage to the mines was less than had been feared.

But European technicians, fearing more of the rebel violence that killed at least 73 whites and 189 blacks in Kolwezi, are reluctant to re-enter the area until their safety can be assured. Some say they will not go back in any case.

This, observers say, makes the resumption of copper and cobalt production as much a military and political problem as a technical one.

An engineer who stayed in Kolwezi during the fighting said mining could resume quickly in some cases but that processing would be slower because fuel, always in short supply, is even scarcer since the rebel invasion.

Electricity was restored Wednesday. The pumping of flooded mines resumed Thursday.

In addition to copper, Zaire produces half of the world's cobalt, about 20,000 tons a year.

NEW LIONS QUEEN — Cecilia Block, right, of District 2-S1 and representing the Lufkin Evening Lions Club, has been chosen as the Texas Lions' state queen for 1979-80. Kalli Sturman, left, of District 2-S2 and representing the Humble Lions Club, was selected as first runner-up. The two girls, who are roommates, were awarded college scholarships with their titles Sunday, during the final day of the three-day state Lions convention here, being hosted by the District 2-T2 Lions Club. Lions Name VP Candidate, State Queen

Everett J. (Ebb) Grindstaff of Ballinger officially was endorsed Sunday by the Texas Lions as a candidate for third vice president of Lions International during the final day of the three-day Lions convention at the Lubbock Civic Center.

Grindstaff will run for the position at the organization's international convention in Montreal in June, 1979. If successful, Grindstaff will serve as president of Lions International in 1982-83. Lions International has 1.2 million members in 149 countries.

A state Lions queen also was chosen Sunday, with Cecilia Block of District 2-S1, representing the Lufkin Evening Lions Club, taking the honors for 1979-80.

Miss Block's roommate, Miss Kalli Layne Sturman of District 2-S2 and representing the Humble Lions Club, was named first runner-up.

Miss Sturman will receive a $300 college scholarship and Miss Block a $500 scholarship from the Past District Governors of Texas Association.

International Lions director Milton H. Tuttle of Des Plaines, Ill., was guest speaker at the Sunday luncheon, and Odessa was named as site of the 1979 state convention.

Abuzzo and Anderson, both from Albuquerque, are adding a partner to the venture this time around—Larry Newman of Albuquerque, a veteran aircraft pilot and president of a hang glider manufacturing company.

Abuzzo and Anderson flew almost 3,000 miles in about 64 hours last year before they were forced to ditch their helium-filled balloon about five miles off the northwest coast of Ireland.

The trio plans to lift off for the second effort in September or October, depending on wind and weather conditions.

Japanese Considered Retaliation, Records Show

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Newly declassified government records reveal that the initial reaction of Japanese military leaders to the atom bombing of Hiroshima was to press for an all-out effort to develop a Japanese A-bomb.

Messages intercepted by U.S. Army codebreakers — until now locked in U.S. government vaults — also reflect the despair felt as it dawned on the Japanese they had become the target of the first atom bomb used in warfare.

A day after the attack, one message said, "The fighting spirit of victims or eyewitnesses has been broken."

A message labeled "Hiroshima Air Raid Spot Report No. 3," transmitted by the Kure Naval District the same day, referred to efforts then under way to develop a Japanese counterpart weapon.

"Research into this is considered to be of considerable value," it said. "It is believed essential that this be completed immediately."

But within a week Japanese military leaders acknowledged to themselves that no hope existed for warding off further atomic attack.

"There is practically no defense measure," said a message radioed to the Japanese naval attaches in Switzerland and Portugal.

These Japanese messages have come to light with the declassification by the National Security Agency of a 40-inch stack of papers.

They constitute the first of thousands of files from "Magic," the name given to the project in which U.S. cryptologists in the days before Pearl Harbor broke the Japanese code and intercepted Japan's most sensitive communications throughout World War II.

The "Magic" files have been deposited in the National Archives, where they were examined by United Press International.

The Hiroshima interceptions meant that within hours of the attack, the Army could furnish President Harry Truman with the same eyewitness accounts that Tokyo was receiving.

The files show a Japanese air unit 80 miles southwest of Hiroshima struggled to find words to describe the devastation.

"A violent, large, special-type bomb, giving the appearance of magnesium, was dropped on the center of the city of Hiroshima this morning by a formation of three or four planes," the unit told the Air General Army in Tokyo.

"There was a blinding flash and a violent blast."

Subsequent messages told of "horrible catastrophes" and "wild and fantastic rumors" sweeping Hiroshima.

"The concussion was beyond imagination, demolishing practically every house in the city," another said.

An estimated 100,000 of Hiroshima's 344,000 residents were killed by the bomb on Aug. 6, 1945 Asian time. Three days later, Nagasaki was bombed, killing an estimated 39,000.

On Aug. 14, a message was flashed to the Japanese fleet: "Japan is willing to accept the Potsdam Declaration." The allies at Potsdam spelled out an ultimatum to Japan: unconditional surrender or total destruction.

The formal surrender occurred aboard the USS Missouri on Sept. 2.

The naval attaches were given this description of Hiroshima:

"The whole city was illuminated by a yellowish light and people on the ground became aware of a great heat in the atmosphere ..."

"Within 500 meters, human intestines were laid bare and eyeballs pulled out and even at 2,000 meters there were deaths from the bomb concussion." IN-

After the bombing, Tokyo suggested the headquarters of the 2nd General Army be moved out of Hiroshima.

The response: "Please give your most careful consideration to the fact that the atomic bomb has injured the health of almost all the staff of the General Army from the commander down."

First the Japanese thought a huge magnesium firebomb had exploded. But within two days the military apparently suspected atomic energy had been unleashed and speculated about the state of Japanese atomic research.

The message is somewhat garbled. At one point, it said, "researches into But it also said, "At (place missing) about five months ago, research was made into the (practical) application of Uranium 235 but no announcements have been made since then. However it is believed that research into the (word missing) of the atom has since been completed and (words missing) research into this is considered to be of considerable value. It is believed that it is essential that this be completed immediately."

This confirms a report in the January 1978 issue of Science magazine that Japan was working on an atomic bomb during the war.

The magazine said the effort probably was doomed because of a lack of manpower, funds and uranium and the disorganization of its military sponsors.

By Aug. 13, the Japanese knew what hit them.

"The substance of this bomb is not an ordinary explosive charge or incendiary material," a message said. "We conclude that it is an atomic bomb."

The Japanese first assumed the bomb, which weighed 9,000 pounds, had been dropped by parachute.

On Aug. 8, an intercepted message read: "Imperial GHQ is investigating the new-type enemy bomb and is devising countermeasures against it. Since this bomb is dropped by parachute, each unit will at once issue orders to have AA guns fire on bombs dropped by parachute."

As for morale, a message from near Hiroshima a day after the attack said:

"As a result of the horrible catastrophes brought about by the recent air raid, there appears to be a gradual increase in the circulation of wild and fantastic rumors. Moreover, there have been an increasing number of cases in which the fighting spirit of victims or eyewitnesses have been broken."

"However, in this prefecture, the mobile police officials are doing everything in their power to (words missing) the spread of such frenzied rumors, and are using every means at their disposal to provide against this in advance. In order to calm the people's fears, they are particularly stressing the fact that, even in the recent air raid, those who took refuge immediately in the safe underground shelters escaped injury completely."

On the same day, a Navy report said, "Casualties have been estimated at 100,000 persons" — an estimate which turned out to be accurate.

Turkish Prime Minister Bulent Ecevit. Ecevit will be in Washington for the NATO summit conference beginning Tuesday.

Kyprianou said in a statement: "If there is any goodwill on the part of the Turkish side, this will be tested during the meeting between (Turkish) Prime Minister (Bulent) Ecevit with President Kyprianou, if it takes place."

"If Mr. Ecevit chooses not to meet President Kyprianou, this will prove he is not serious in solving the problem of Cyprus and that what they have in mind is to create impressions and mislead public opinion and, especially the U.S. Congress."

Turkish sources said it was doubtful Ecevit would honor Kyprianou's request because he feels Denktash is Kyprianou's logical opposite number to negotiate constitutional and territorial issue on Cyprus.

During the week, the State Department will try to acquaint Ecevit with key members of Congress so that he will realize how deeply pro-embargo legislators feel about retaining the arms cutoff until there is substantial progress on the Cyprus issue.

Little Asks Jurist To Halt Extradition

NEW YORK (AP) — Joan Little has asked U.S. Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall to block her extradition to North Carolina to finish serving a 7-to-10-year sentence for breaking and entering.

Miss Little's lawyer, William Kunstler, said Saturday he was notified by the clerk of the Supreme Court that Marshall had received the request and asked Kings County, N.C., District Attorney Eugene Gold to submit papers in reply by Tuesday morning.

The U.S. Court of Appeals turned down Miss Little's petition Friday to block her extradition but ordered that no action be taken to return her to North Carolina before 5 p.m. Tuesday.

Kunstler has argued that if Miss Little, 24, is returned to her home state, her mental and physical health will be endangered. North Carolina officials have denied the allegation.

Miss Little, who is black, was acquitted in 1975 of murdering her white jailer during a sexual assault. She escaped from a Raleigh, N.C., prison last October and was arrested in New York last December.

U.S. Stepping Into Role Of Mediator For Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the collapse of U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim's mediating efforts, the United States has moved in to try to promote a resumption of the Cyprus peace talks.

The U.S. diplomatic effort is considered critical for two reasons:

—The continuing impasse over a peaceful Cyprus settlement has deeply strained relations between NATO members Greece and Turkey, seriously eroding the alliance's southern flank.

—Evidence of progress towards a Cyprus settlement would be an important lever in persuading Congress to lift the partial embargo against Turkey; thereby permitting Turkey's American military equipment to be updated and perhaps stemming Ankara's drift from the West.

The stumbling block for U.S. diplomacy is the steadfast refusal of the Greek Cypriot community on Cyprus to negotiate with the Turkish Cypriot community.

Cyprus President Spyros Kyprianou, whose government represents the Greek Cypriots, has rejected the recent proposals put forward by Turkish Cypriot leader Rauf Denktash through Waldheim.

Denktash recently met with Waldheim at the United Nations and issued a conciliatory statement. He said he was ready to meet at any time or place with Kyprianou to discuss a resumption of the inter-communal Cyprus talks.

The State Department swiftly hailed Denktash's statement May 23 in an apparent effort to place the onus on Kyprianou for refusing to allow the talks to move forward.

At U.S. suggestion, Denktash then traveled to Washington and met with members of the House International Relations Committee May 25.

Afterwards several committee members praised the Turkish Cypriot proposals.

Rep. Clement Zablocki, chairman of the House panel, said Denktash appeared "sincere, determined, and dedicated towards peace."

Meanwhile, Kyprianou tried to deflect administration pressures by reaffirming his objections to the Turkish Cypriot proposals and by calling for a meeting with

Al Unser Wins Third 500 Title

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Al Unser, largely ignored as a serious contender because of development problems with his previously unraced Lola, sprinted out of the pack near the 200-mile mark and ran off to a comfortable 8.3-second victory over pole position starter Tom Sneva in Sunday's $1 million Indianapolis 500.

"The car did what it had to," said the weary Unser, mopping a mask of sweat from his face as the winner's garland was placed over his head and the traditional quart of milk was handed to him in Victory Lane.

"But the big thing was this Cosworth engine. This is the first time one has won here. You could tell by the way it ran all day it was a great engine." Unser said he had two near-misses en route to what he called "the easiest of my 13 races at Indianapolis."

"On my last pit stop," Unser explained, "I scraped the pit wall going out, damaging the wing. I didn't know at that point whether something very serious had happened. The car was pushing a lot at the end."

"And when someone hit the wall early in the race, I was concerned about getting through all the debris without damaging anything on my car. There were wheels and debris all over."

It was the third Indy 500 triumph in the career of the former national champion from Albuquerque. Unser will celebrate his 39th birthday today, when he accepts a check for about $250,000 from speedway president Joe Cloutier at the Victory Dinner.

Asked if a man 38 years, 364 days old was worn out after such a hot grueling race, Unser replied, "I just love to race. If I could do it when I'm 100 years old, I would."

"Whenever you win, it doesn't make any difference how tired you get. It's just a great feeling."

See Unofficial Standings, Page 3D

Unser lost his closest and most persistent challenger when early pace-setter Danny Ongais rolled into Gasoline Alley with a smoking motor in his Parnelli, with slightly less than 100 miles left in the 62nd annual Memorial Weekend classic.

Teammates Gordon Johncock and Steve Krisloff were each one lap down in the third and fourth positions, respectively, after having penalized the equivalent of one full circuit around the 2½-mile Indianapolis Motor Speedway for pit road and caution flag violations.

"It killed our race for us," grieved their chief mechanic George Bignotti.

"Once you're down a lap, what's the use? Why use up all your fuel, and extend your equipment when you're that far back? I'll file a protest, but it won't change the outcome."

"People tell me there's always next year, but I'm not getting any younger."

Four-time winner A.J. Foyt was hampered by a variety of problems all day, which prevented him from successfully defending his title.

Janet Guthrie ran consistently all afternoon and was credited with eighth unofficially, pending the official posting Monday morning. At that time only will the order of finish be set for history.

"For the people who think that women still couldn't do it, maybe this will be one more bit of evidence that they can," she said proudly. "I was shooting for the top five, but I got the top 10 so I'll take that."

Unser, who is still slightly sore from a 200-m.p.h. crash at College Station last month, struggled all month for speed from his new Cosworth-powered Lola.

The first Lola, which turned a lap at 202 m.p.h. in tire tests here in March, was destroyed in that Texas crash, and Unser said the second car was not its equal.

Unser qualified fifth, at 196.474 m.p.h., but as soon as the race started, he was on his way.

At the finish, Unser was ahead of Sneva, a runner-up for the second year in a row. Sneva was a half mile back, closing up slightly near the end, as Unser backed off to save fuel. Unser, the winner here in 1970 and 1971, averaged 161.363 m.p.h., just under the race record.

Sneva had trouble synchronizing his pit stops with the race's six caution flags, something which Unser did better.

Unser broke up a close duel between Ongais and Sneva when he moved in front on the 76th of 200 circuits. Except during pit stops, Unser led most of the rest of the distance.

Unser said his car performed well enough most of the day, but developed some handling difficulties late in the event.

Al Unser, with the help of a super pit stop, while Ongais had a relatively poor one, took a narrow lead over Ongais just prior to the 200-mile point. Sneva lost even more time, and was a distant third. Johncock, the last car on the lead lap, was in fourth.

Foyt, whose Coyote never seemed to respond at the start, struggled to keep up, but finally fell one lap in arrears during the second 100 miles.

At the end of the first 100 miles, Krisloff, Johncock's teammate, had roared into a 14-second lead over Ongais with Sneva close behind in third.

Having the No. 2 driver, Krisloff in this instance, set a torrid early pace is a favorite tactic of chief mechanic George Bignotti. The maneuver is designed to break the other contenders and clear the way for Bignotti's No. 1 driver, Johncock.

It backfired, however, because Krisloff was penalized one lap for passing a car during a caution period. That put Ongais back in front, and Krisloff out of the top 10.

Krisloff had played three yellow flags earlier to his advantage — besides the violation — to pick up the lead.

So officially, Ongais and Sneva were the only leaders in the race until the 75th lap when Al Unser pulled ahead.

Ongais, as expected, blasted away like a rocket at the 10 a.m. CDT green flag, with Sneva, the pole-position starter with a record 202.156 m.p.h. qualifying average, in hot pursuit.

Ongais led for all but six of the first 75 circuits.

Spike Gehlhausen hit the wall just when the first wave of regular pit stops began. Some of the contenders, like Johnny Rutherford and Sneva, made their stops before the yellow. Krisloff, Ongais, and Johncock waited and were able to make service stops during the slow-down.

Gehlhausen's trouble was the third caution period during the first 60 miles, some 15 minutes worth of slowed down running. That benefitted the drivers of the four-cylinder cars, like Johncock and Krisloff, whose engines burn more fuel than the V8s.

Mario Andretti's charge from 33rd spot stopped as soon as he reached the top 10, just 50 miles into the race, having used the caution flags to his advantage. A wire went dead, shutting his motor off. It was changed, but he was out of contention by then. He continued to drop back with engine problems.

Seattle Downs Bullets, Takes 2-1 Series Lead

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — Guard Dennis Johnson sparked a late rally which gave Seattle a nine-point lead, and the SuperSonics held off a belated surge by the Washington Bullets to win 93-92 Sunday and take a 2-1 lead in the National Basketball Association's championship finals.

The next two games of the best-of-seven series will be played in Seattle Tuesday and Friday nights. The SuperSonics have won their last 21 games at the Seattle Center Coliseum, but Tuesday's game will be played at the Kingdome.

The SuperSonics almost blew a five-point lead in the final 19 seconds. Baskets by Elvin Hayes and Tom Henderson pulled the Bullets to within a point. Then Seattle veteran Paul Silas was called for stepping across the endline on the ensuing inbound pass with two seconds remaining.

Bob Dandridge took the final shot for Washington from the corner. The ball rimmed the basket and Hayes missed a swipe at a rebound shot before Silas grabbed the ball.

A five-point string pulled the Bullets to within 88-84. But, after they got possession with 1:39 left, Fred Brown stole a pass from Washington's Charles Johnson and drove in for a layup to give the SuperSonics a 90-84 lead.

Kevin Grevey sank two free throws for the Bullets, who again gained possession on a steal by Charles Johnson. But Grevey missed a shot with 55 seconds to play. John Johnson rebounded for Seattle, leading to two foul shots by Silas to make it 92-86 with 37 seconds left.

Grevey, who was only 1 for 14 from the floor, made two more free throws with 30 seconds left, then Marvin Webster sank one of two free throws for Seattle's winning margin.

CELEBRITY TENNIS SET
LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Eight basketball stars, including Julius Erving, will compete in a sports celebrity tennis tournament for the Dewar's Cup here June 19-22.

Gus Williams and Webster led Seattle with 20 points each, and Webster got 12 rebounds while Silas pulled down 14. Williams scored 16 of his 20 points in the first half, which ended with Seattle leading 49-47.

Dennis Johnson scored only 12 points, but five came early in the fourth quarter, as the SuperSonics pulled ahead 76-68.

An eight-point streak had given Washington a 61-57 lead midway through the third quarter. But an 8-2 spurt moved Seattle ahead 67-65, and two baskets by Silas launched another 9-1 streak. The SuperSonics then kept the lead to the end.

Hayes had 29 points and 20 rebounds for the Bullets, who had a 10-game winning streak snapped at Capital Centre. Dandridge scored 21 points and had six assists.

But the Washington guards were far off form. Grevey missed all seven of his shots in the first half, when four Washington guards combined for a four-for-24 effort, as the whole team shot only 33 percent.

Webster, Seattle's 7-foot-1 center, outscored Washington's Wes Unseld 20 to 2 and battled the Bullets' veteran even off the boards. Jack Sikma scored 17 points for Seattle.

Unseld also fouled Webster away from the ball with 19 seconds left, leading to what turned out to be the decisive point after Webster had missed the first of two shots. The fouling of Webster, a 67 percent foul shooter, was deliberate.

Borg Captures Italian Net Win

ROME (AP) — Top-seeded Bjorn Borg, unshaken by a bee and a barrage of coins hurled from a rowdy partisan crowd, overpowered unranked local favorite Adriano Panatta 1-6, 6-3, 6-1, 4-6, 6-3 in the finals of the $210,000 Italian Open Tennis Championships Sunday.

The 21-year-old Swede, threatening to walk off the court unless the boisterous crowd calmed down, endured a 3-hour marathon in stifling heat for the $24,000 first prize.

Borg, in his first outdoor clay tournament since last October, also survived disputed and changed line calls that always went against him. But his iron nerves held as he personally picked up the coins hurled at him and carried them to the umpire.

At the start of the final, the crowd in the notorious "Lion's Pit" center court was told to abstain from "demonstrations that may disturb the players."

Spaniard Jose Higueras, subjected to jeers and catcalls while leading against Panatta in the semifinals, stormed off the court Saturday.

An overflow crowd of 10,000 appeared calm at first, although at times still applauded Borg's errors. Later, the crowd began to throw coins, turning the center court at the Foro Italico compound into what one observer said was "a sort of Trevi fountain."

Borg's patience was on the verge of running out. At one point, he walked over to Italian umpire Claudio Sederici and said, "One more, I leave."

Earlier, in the first set with the score 1-1, Borg was bothered by a bee and, trying to avoid being stung, he appeared to have hit his left eyebrow with his racket. Borg received first aid and continued play with a swollen eyebrow.

As in previous matches against unseeded players, Borg took his time to settle down, conceding the first set to an agile and rallying Panatta, who broke four of Borg's services.

But in the next two sets, Borg broke Panatta's serve five times and even pulled off uncharacteristic ace himself.

In the men's doubles finals, eighth-seeded Victor Pecci of Paraguay and Belus Prajoux of Chile stormed back from a one-set deficit and a set point in the second set to down third-seeded Czechs Jan Kodes and Tomas Smid 6-7, 7-6, 6-1.

Earlier in the day, the Kodes-Smid duo had eliminated four-time winners Brian Gottfried of the United States and Raul Ramirez of Mexico 7-6, 6-7, 6-3 in completion of a semifinal match called because of darkness Saturday.

In the women's doubles finals, top-seeded Virginia Ruzici of Romania and Mina Jausovec of Yugoslavia defeated unseeded Florentina Mihai of Romania and Betsy Nagelsen of the United States 6-2, 2-6, 7-5.

Michigan Tops Aggies, Gains Berth In CWS

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Tom Owens, a junior righthander, scattered nine hits Sunday and picked up his second shutout of the season as Michigan defeated Texas A&M 3-0 to send the Wolverines to the College World Series.

The victory made Michigan, 29-15, the champion in the three-day NCAA District IV Midwest Regional District tournament.

In Sunday's opener, A&M beat Eastern Michigan 6-1.

The Wolverines scored twice in the fourth inning on back-to-back doubles by Rick Leach and Mike Parker, a single by George Foussianes, a walk and a double-play grounder by Bob Waslewski. Parker scored as Waslewski hit into the double play.

Michigan's final run came in the seventh inning on a walk, two A&M errors and a bases-loaded walk to third baseman Dave Chapman. The losing pitcher was Dave Pieczynski.

Parker, a rightfielder, was named the tournament's most valuable player. His double knocked in what proved to be the winning run, and it was Parker's single in the bottom of the eighth inning Saturday that broke a 4-4 tie as Michigan defeated Eastern Michigan 6-4.

The rightfielder also made three exceptional catches to rob Aggie batters of extra-base hits Sunday.

Michigan won three straight in the regional tournament, defeating A&M 8-1 Friday in addition to Sunday's victory and the win over Eastern Michigan.

This is the fourth straight year the Wolverines have reached the World Series. Michigan is scheduled to play Baylor at 4 p.m. (CDT) Friday. Baylor is the District V champ.

Junior righthander Mark Ross, 11-4, pitched a four-hitter in Sunday's opener, striking out three and walking one but losing his shutout bid in the ninth inning as A&M downed Eastern Michigan 6-1.

Ross's shutout was spoiled in the ninth by singles from Deway Porter and Ray Beckman and a sacrifice fly by Brian Petroff after Ross had retired 23 of the first 24 men to face him, allowing only two runners on base up until then.

The Aggies never trailed after the first inning. Robert Bonner, the game's hitting star, led off with a double, then made it to third as Robert Verde beat out a bunt. Gary Bryant hit a sacrifice fly to knock Bonner in.

A&M got two more in the second on RBI by Bonner and a sacrifice fly and a single by Verde, and closed the scoring with three runs in the fourth inning on two walks and a single by Randy Woodruff, a double by Bonner and a balk.

Bonner wound up the day with three runs and scored two others with two doubles and a sacrifice fly.

Heard Nabs Atlanta Golf Classic

ATLANTA (AP) — Jerry Heard, playing with the ease and authority that once made him one of the most promising young players in the game, finished off a 5-under-par 67 with a birdie on the final hole Sunday and won the Atlanta Golf Classic.

Heard, 31, whose career was threatened by the same lightning bolt that stunned Lee Trevino, scored the fifth victory of his career and first in four years by two strokes over Tom Watson, Bob Murphy and Lou Graham, who all tied for second.

Heard, whose back was so badly damaged he couldn't move his legs only a year ago, capped his comeback with a 269 total, a spectacular 19 shots under par and a record over the hilly, 6,883-yard Atlanta Country Club course.

Heard, once considered as good or better a prospect than his close friend and contemporary, Johnny Miller, collected $40,000 from the total purse of $200,000 and fulfilled a Trevino prophecy.

"Jerry Heard is back," Trevino said two weeks ago when he'd beaten the casual, easy-going guy in the Colonial National Invitation Tournament. "He will win in the next few weeks," Trevino said.

They were hit by the same lightning bolt in the 1975 Western Open. Later, both were afflicted by similar back troubles. Trevino had to have an operation and eventually regained his winning ways in the 1977 Canadian Open.

Heard, who had had four titles and almost one-half million dollars from 1971 to 1974, opted against surgery. He went into a decline in 1976 and played very little the following year.

He spent eight weeks in bed "watching these guys on television, making their swings, and I couldn't even move my legs. I wondered if I'd ever be able to do it again."

He started back slowly this year, building gradually before making a challenge in the tournament at Fort Worth. This capped the comeback.

Watson, the year's leading money-winner and holder of three 1978 titles, shot a 68 in the hot, humid weather. Graham closed up with a 66. And Murphy, the only man who really had a shot at Heard over the last few holes, bogeyed the final hole for a 70. They tied for second at 271 — the best previous score this course had allowed.

Gibby Gilbert was next at 70-273, and PGA champ Lanny Wadkins followed at 69-274.

Haigood Captures Win At Dragway

Terecia Haigood of Plainview defeated Jack Connolly of Levelland to win first place in the Street Class races at the Lubbock Dragway Sunday afternoon.

In the Motorcycle Division David Welch of Lubbock handed Freddy Legg of Sudan a defeat. Glen Nall lost to Floyd Ford, both from Lubbock, in the Heavy Class.

Winning the Super Pro Class was Hollis Thorne in a 1968 Camaro. Mike Haigood took the first place trophy in the Pro Division, defeating Steve Jones.

He spent eight weeks in bed "watching these guys on television, making their swings, and I couldn't even move my

In the first flight, another hotly contested matchup is brewing. Morris and Mike Thompson, a brother team, are tied with Grant Dukes and Don Roberts, a pair of ex-Texas Tech athletes, at 144. Both teams opened with 74s, then fired identical 70s Sunday.

The day's only hole-in-one was fired by Scott Bishop, the 14-year-old son of Col. Charles Bishop, Reese's Wing Commander. Bishop garnered the ace 130-yard, par 3, number 9 hole. Looking on were Joe Brotherton and Carlos Jordan.

Sadri, McEnroe Gain NCAA Tennis Final

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — North Carolina State's John Sadri served 16 aces on his way to an upset victory over third-seeded Eddie Edwards of Pepperdine Sunday to earn the right to meet the nation's No. 1 college player in the finals of the NCAA individual tennis championships.

The 11th seed, Sadri, a senior, used his powerful serve to beat Edwards 6-1, 6-7, 6-1. He will meet Stanford's John McEnroe in today's NCAA singles final.

McEnroe, the 19-year-old who plans to turn pro at the end of this season, dispatched his teammate Bill Maze, 6-4, 6-7, 6-1, Sunday.

A freshman, McEnroe said he doesn't know much about Sadri's tennis style, but is prepared for him.

"I have never seen Sadri play or scouted him that much. I pick up things during a match. I hope I can return his serve, but I will probably get used to it."

Sadri, who was a quarterfinalist in last year's tournament, said he's never faced McEnroe, except in doubles play earlier in the tournament.

"He's really good and has a nice serve and a good backhand. I'm going to try hard and play like I have been during the tourney. Everybody in the tourney has thought about winning over the champ," Sadri said.

Edwards, who has played both, said he believes Sadri has a chance of defeating McEnroe.

Singles Semifinals

John McEnroe, Stanford, beat Bill Maze, Stanford, 6-4, 6-7, 6-2; John Sadri, N.C. State, beat Eddie Edwards, Pepperdine, 6-1, 6-7, 6-1.

Waltrip Outruns Challengers For Crown In 600

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Darrell Waltrip, surviving a furious four-car dogfight that ended with two caution flags came out in the final five laps, won the $350,000 World 600 stock car race Sunday at the Charlotte Motor Speedway.

Waltrip took the checkered flag during a caution period ahead of Donnie Allison. With four laps left, Dale Earnhardt's Ford smashed into the wall on the third turn, interrupting the pace of what had been a close fight for the lead during most of the 600-mile marathon. The cars were brought back up to racing speed with two laps to go, but a wreck in the second turn involving David Pearson and Benny Parsons ended the contest for all intents.

Bobby Allison took third place in a Ford, with Cale Yarborough fourth in a Chevrolet and Pearson holding on to fifth, despite the accident.

Until a caution period barred the final 100 laps, Waltrip's Chevrolet was the target of a four-car chase. Waltrip, Pearson, Parsons and the Allison circled the 1.5-mile speedway close enough to rub fingers and sling sweat on each other.

Waltrip started the race back of the pack behind Richard Petty. But both of those drivers recovered quickly from their start and moved up front in the early going of NASCAR's longest race.

Petty, after his strong start, fell back a lap during the race with mechanical problems.

The leaders ran flat out until the final laps which were slowed by the yellow flags. There were 43 lead changes during the race.

Pearson jumped from the pole position to an early lead, holding off Yarborough's challenges, as Yarborough repeatedly pulled up beside Pearson's rear fender.

Petty and Waltrip, who both missed the first day of qualifying for the race, started in the 16th and 17th spots in the 40-car field. But they burned up the track early, picking their way through slower cars to run with the leaders in the first 20 laps.

Petty, who has not tasted victory since July 4, 1977 in the Firecracker 400, began dropping back before a fourth of the 600 laps on the 1.5-mile track were run. During a 13-lap caution period that was triggered by a four-car wreck back in the pack on lap 116, Petty made a lengthy pit stop to correct an oil problem and fell back a lap.

The leaders, turning the first 100 laps at better than 150 mph and unhindered by caution flags, ran five-and six-car drafts, with Pearson and Waltrip at the head of the pack.

Waltrip shadowed Pearson lap after lap and, on the 43rd circuit, slipped low on the fourth turn. He eased by Pearson, who was slowed by traffic.

Schwabe Leads All The Way To Win Speedway Main Event

By WAYNE PANTER
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Glenn Schwabe of Austin led flag to flag Sunday to win a hotly contested 50-lap main event before more than 5,000 race fans at Lubbock Speedway Sunday afternoon.

Putting his 1977 Camaro on the pole by virtue of a record-shattering 13.75 qualifying time on the sometimes-slick 3/8 mile paved oval, Schwabe blew off an early challenge from Sunday's J.D. Hughes and in the late stages another by Danny Masten of Borger.

A wild checkered flag lap that saw a dual spinout by Masten and Don Burt of Amarillo, who drove John Foster's Camaro, left Lubbock's Dick Wood in second place. An audit of scoring tapes showed Burt finishing third and Masten fourth.

The win was worth $850 to the Austin racing veteran, as well as a guaranteed starting spot in the "Texas Race of Champions" at Texas World Speedway at College Station in August.

And it also will mean the pole position for today's second installment of the "West Texas Memorial" race, set for 3 p.m. at Southwest Speedway in Amarillo. That race, originally set for Saturday night, was shifted to today after flooding in the Panhandle area rendered the track inaccessible.

The event, largest of its kind ever held here, drew a field of 31 cars from as far away as Colorado Springs, and today's show in Amarillo is expected to have an even larger field, augmented by some Oklahoma entries.

Schwabe, who has won a succession of season championships at Austin and San Antonio, described the win as one of the more satisfying of his career.

Schwabe's car never missed a beat all afternoon and ran like it was on rails as he threaded his way through traffic, beginning with about the 10th lap of the main.

Hughes, who had started on the second row inside, was on Schwabe's back bumper for the first 27 laps, except for two occasions when traffic intervened.

But on lap 28 his '76 Camaro slowed and he pulled in.

When a first turn spinout by Jess Wood of Gruver brought out the red flag on lap 32 Hughes was able to re-enter, but stayed for only a circuit, exiting again with an ailing engine.

Fifth at the finish was Lubbock's Jay Turner, who had turned a surprisingly quick 13.79 in qualifying, 11 of a second faster than Hughes, the only other driver in the 13-second bracket.

Turner will drive with crossed fingers at Amarillo today. During the last half of Sunday's main he sweated out a fluctuating oil pressure reading. "I had to take it easy, save it for tomorrow," he said. "I was real happy with my finish, considering that problem."

Hughes experienced handling problems in qualifying, turning a first lap at 14.05 before coming in to have a six-inch strip of aluminum taped atop his spoiler. "That'll do it," he said confidently before going back out. "I'll get into the 13-second bracket." And he did, although he took Floyd McGrew's checker on the second qualifying lap with the car in a 45-degree drift at the finish line.

Anticipated attrition problems prompted officials to cut the scheduled 75-lap feature to 50 circuits.

Surprisingly, some of the wildest action came in the heat races, with several crashes spicing the show. The only serious mishap came in the trophy dash when James Taylor of Ansen piled his '69 Camaro into the grandstand wall coming off the fourth turn, damaging it to the point he had to trailer the car.

Lubbock's Wayne McCullar survived the wild action to receive the trophy from pretty Patty Fisher, 16-year-old Frenship High School sophomore, who rode to the presentation in the '78 Indy Vette which served as the pace car.

In a pair of races for street stock machines, Stan Arnold was a double winner.

Giants Widen West With Victory

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Terry Whitfield rapped his third double of the game and scored on Darrell Evans' bloop single to left field in the seventh inning, giving the San Francisco Giants a 6-5 victory Sunday over the Los Angeles Dodgers before a crowd of 56,103, biggest of the year in major league baseball.

The victory, coupled with Cincinnati's loss in San Diego, widened the Giants' National League West lead to 1½ games over the Reds and 3½ over the Dodgers.

RED SOX 4, TIGERS 3-3

Dwight Evans hit a two-run homer and Jerry Remy broke out of a slump with a triple and scored the tie-breaking run on Fred Lynn's sacrifice fly in the seventh inning, lifting the Boston Red Sox to a 4-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers and a doubleheader sweep.

The Red Sox also won the first game 4-3 on slugger Jim Rice's 10th-inning leadoff home run, his 18th of the season.

CONTAINER-DUMPER ELIMINATES PROBLEMS — Show is Fabit Corporation's newly-designed, patented and newly-built unit used by the firm's Refuse Services Department and also to be marketed. Exceptional advantages have been incorporated in the unit, made in Lubbock.

New Revolutionary Container Dumper Patented, Tested, Marketed By Fabit

It is making news! We are speaking of Fabit Corporation's new "Container Dumper," selling for use with both new and existing equipment, and also utilized in Fabit's own Refuse Service Division.

Why is the Container Dumper excitingly new, different and efficient? Consider the following:

It is manufactured in Lubbock by the highly capable Fabit Corp. and is being used commercially in the firm's own operation as outlined above, also available for purchase.

It is covered by U.S. patents. This new model picks up and dumps refuse containers from the side of the truck by means of hydraulic cylinders, thus eliminating cables, chains and sprockets that have been a source of trouble on other side-loading equipment.

The Container Dumper handles heavier loads and is even faster than earlier models.

Since the Container Dumper outperforms other available equipment, Fabit Corp. expects the unit to sell readily for use with both new and existing equipment.

One must see this unit in operation to fully appreciate its utility and the engineering that has made it so simple and efficient... by Fabit.

Division Serves Well

Fabit solicits customers in its several departments, with special attention at this time called to the Refuse Service Division.

Providing side-loading container service, the Refuse Service Division is in full operation, servicing enthusiastic customers who appreciate the convenience and reliability.

"Fabit can work for you, too!"

Already established and known for its versatility in custom fabrication, manufacturing of complete machines or parts, the most recent expansion, as announced by Clyde A. Blakeley, president, has proven of special benefit to commercial and industrial accounts in Lubbock and neighboring communities.

The Refuse Service Division is geared to manufacture, sell, lease and service refuse containers.

Advantages Cited

The service is unique in that it uses new automatic side-loading container dumping equipment. Company officials state that the new equipment is better suited for use in narrow alleys or curb-side container installations and that it does not spill as much trash as front-loading container systems.

Lubbock Owned-Operated

Refuse Services Division is headquartered at the Fabit Corporation location at 1408 N. Quirt Ave.

The division is managed by O.T. "Ted" Ratcliff IV who is a 1971 graduate of Texas Tech University with a B.S. degree in Industrial Engineering. Ratcliff has been chief engineer for Fabit Corp. for over two years.

"Refuse Services Division's side-loading container service is cleaner, faster and quieter."

Furthermore, there is provided one source for:

(1) Dependable refuse container service with the best equipment;

(2) Container purchasing, front or side loading containers.

It spills far less trash than front-loading systems, especially in windy weather.

Safety is another big factor, as the truck doesn't back, it just stops, dumps, then goes on, and the driver can see the container during the entire operation.

If noise is a factor, consider the advantages of a container firmly held and handled gently, without banging and clattering and with far less damage to the container.

Fabit knows its business; it holds process and apparatus patents in the refuse services field... and, it is locally owned.

"Establishment of the new division with its wide range of services, provides the first opportunity commercial users have had locally for a side-loading refuse services." For small business, apartments, etc., the advantages are evident.

Meets Other Needs

The unique services of Fabit include engineering and development of prototypes or production models, metal production models, metal shearing, bending, hole punching, rolling, welding, shape cutting, grinding, painting, assembly and wiring, continuous hinges, etc.

Leaseway-Southwest Services Seen Advantageous To Region

Leaseway-Southwest, at 409 E. 50th St., in Lubbock, offers a complete transportation service to busy companies that simply cannot devote the time, space or money required to own and maintain a fleet of vehicles, or in some instances, just one or two units. This progressive leasing firm provides transportation vehicles to serve any size or type business.

Full Service

"Corporations as well as small operators find that full-service transportation package is more efficient from every standpoint."

"Full service" as provided by Leaseway-Southwest Transportation Corp., is exactly what the name implies. The firm provides the maintenance and inspection and even supplies the fuel and pays the taxes on the vehicle!

Personnel there are most adept, serving in a professional but considerate and friendly manner to meet the particular transportation needs of every customer.

Upgrading and additions to its stock is a continuous operation at Leaseway-Southwest.

Leaseway-Southwest's understanding of the short-term, peak and long-term needs of area industry and business is well recognized, contributing to its own growth, too.

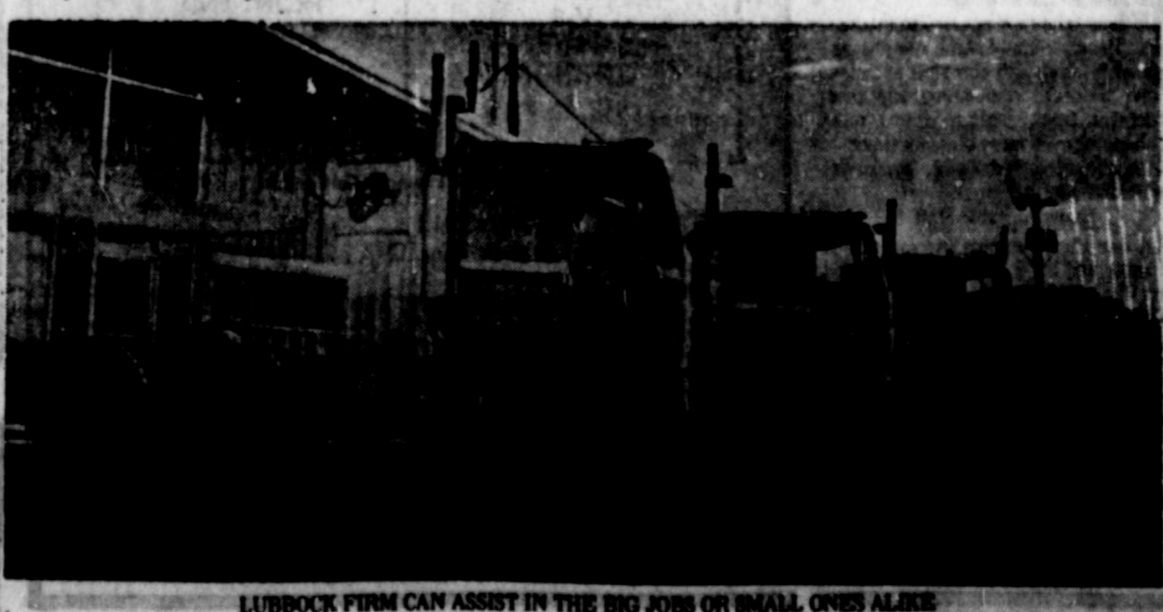

Half-a-hundred Lubbock businesses (and even more) depend on Leaseway-Southwest for transportation vehicle needs.

There must be a very good reason.

In Tune With Times

Keeping abreast with the needs of the area is one of the convincing reasons. Leaseway-Southwest continually adds new equipment for rental and for full-time customers of this service-oriented firm.

"Utilization of leased vehicles is the growing trend in transportation management" it is emphasized by Ken Wright, president.

National Service, Joe Smith Motors Tell Unique Benefits

"If you drive, then National Service Company (NSC) and Joe L. Smith Motors, 1301 19th St., can perform quite a service for you... in fact, several vital services are afforded."

(1) NSC provides "the newest idea in automotive history," the 12,000 mile or 12 month 100 per cent Lubricant Warranty Agreement for one's present vehicle (whether purchased at Joe L. Smith Motors or not).

(2) A rental fleet of family-size and luxury type autos, really better previously-owned cars, affords the type rentals one can really appreciate.

(3) Previously-owned autos, also of family size and luxury type, are sold by Joe L. Smith Motors, a firm proven by Smith's long record of service in Lubbock. In business since 1950, he has been on 19th Street for 12 years, and on the same prominent corner for five years.

Questions Answered
More about the NSC warranty:
The lubricant limited warranty covers 100 per cent of the cost of repairing or replacing water pump, engine assembly, transmission, drive line and differential... and protects against excessive oil consumption.

What does it mean to own a NSC Lubricant Limited Warranty Agreement?
It means that the vehicle you presently own can be protected with full coverage on the power train and parts described above. Joe L. Smith Motors and NSC put their honesty and integrity on the line so that you can drive thousands of carefree miles. It means you don't have to buy another auto in order to get "new car coverage!"

Requirements for qualification are simple and few:
The auto must be inspected and approved by one of the NSC inspectors; it must not have in excess of 68,000 miles; it must be 1972 model to current year model, not be of foreign manufacture or American made sub-compact, and pick-ups must be one-half ton only.

NSC will provide legal documents that give binding proof that your car carries the NSC power train service agreement for 12 months or 12,000 miles, whichever comes first. Nothing is left to chance.

"Leave your worries with us. Call today for an appointment to get full details and have your car inspected."

It is at Joe L. Smith Motors, remember, at 1301 19th St., phone 782-0658.

Hair-Mate Professional Curling Irons Among Items At Plains Beauty Supply

"For all beauty care products, there is no need to search further than Plains Beauty Supply, 4112 34th St., phone 795-8327, in Lubbock.

Even with an ever-impressive stock, there always is something new at Plains Beauty Supply, such as:
Hair-Mate professional all-American curling irons are now stocked and at amazingly low prices.

Select from several models, including the Model 75T regular iron at just $14.95. Features include no-strain, no stick coating, thermo-controlled, built-in safety stand; spring clip hair hold; easy to use; cooling tip; and 100 per cent American engineering, parts and manufacturing.

And there are so many more products in the fantastic stock.

There are skin care and makeup needs, including Organic, the line great for those with allergies, popular with all races.

Teflon curling irons, too; and Hair Mate irons and dryers.

For long, strong, beautiful nails, Plains Beauty Supply has De Lore (that does it all, and all in one bottle).

Another recent offering is the Vidal Sassoon line; you'll like it!

And Shaklee Love makeup.

For those who may not realize the fact, Plains Beauty Supply some months ago doubled its size, with complete functional and beautiful remodeling and rearrangement, from carpet to ceiling, making shopping even more pleasant there.

With the expanded space, stock was correspondingly increased.

Knowledgeable Staff
But one thing remains the same: Pat Urbantke and her capable staff including Fern Vitale and Barbara Nelson still give the friendly and personal assistance that makes selection a pleasure.

Ear piercing, some may not realize, is a service of the firm, with the SteruQuick method available at just $8.95, with no appointment necessary.

Also, Plains Beauty Supply is exclusive distributorship for Lee's Pharmaceutical sculptured nails.

Selling to the public at reasonable retail prices, and to the trade at discount, Plains Beauty Supply carries a stock that reflects the owner's study of better products for every beauty demand.

'Known' Lines
Among the products, whose names hardly need introduction, are:
L'Oréal Cosmetics, Queen Helene mint julep, nail and hand care products of all types from such lines as Diamond Deb, L'Oréal, Misslyn, Claire Topper and others.

There is an excellent supply of mirrors and jewelry for every preference, too.

Strip and individual eye lashes are stocked, as are hair rollers, permanent rods, permanent hair brushes and hair

Eva Gabor Wigs
Eva Gabor wigs, hair pieces and wig care items are stocked.

And curling irons.
Hair dryers are available in sizes from 300 watts to 1,250 watts, from Hair Mate, Conair, VIP 600, Alpha, Astra and Omega.

Product names at the Plains Beauty Supply are well known, and include Clairol, Jheri Redding, Roux, Willa, Inecto, Adois, DeMert and many more.

Petal caps, scarves, sleeping nets and invisible hair nets also are among the scores of beauty care products that crowd the shelves and counters of the attractive store.

Pat Urbantke, a longtime Lubbock resident, has owned Plains Beauty Supply since mid 1974, and since that time she has been most selective in expanding and upgrading a stock sure to please.

Bernice's Hair Fashions Seen Wise Choice For Many Reasons

Aren't these inviting reasons for relying upon Bernice's Hair Fashions . . .
 (A) The staff is unquestionably skilled;
 (B) The location has a lot going for it;
 (C) There are everyday low prices to please; and
 (D) The shop, at 2107 Knoxville Ave., near Methodist Hospital, has just been attractively redecorated.
 Every beauty service, including razor cuts or scissor cuts for both men and women, Uni-Perms, sculptured nails, and more, are afforded at Bernice's.
 Uni-Perms, including cut, shampoo and set, are a sensible $21, and other services at the salon are equally reasonably priced.
 Staffed To Serve
 The staff is schooled in all the new hairstyles and latest methods, and one could do well to form the habit of depending upon Bernice's, phone 795-2604. Early

Registration Deadline Looms At Robert Spence

Remember . . . registration deadline for the summer classes at the Robert Spence School is June 2, just a few days distant.
 Classes begin June 5.
 "Have you decided what you want to accomplish this summer? If the answer is 'no,' why not give Robert Spence a call. Maybe you want to be a model, or maybe that's the farthest thing from your mind. Maybe you just want to be poised, assured, looking and sounding your best. Robert Spence School, in any event, has the training you desire."
 The Robert Spence School is located in the Terrace Center, 4902 34th St., Suite 26-A, phone 797-8134, in Lubbock.
 Classes will be offered with various weekly schedules from 10 a.m. to 12 noon, or 1-3 p.m. Evening classes meet once weekly from 7 until 9 p.m.
 Fully Certified
 All schools in Texas that are teaching any course of instruction must be certified by the Texas Education Agency. This is not only a protection for the school, but also for the students. The Robert Spence School and its staff are certified by the Texas Education Agency and is owned and directed by Brenda Becknell.
 Classes Listed
 Classes are offered in Self Improvement and Personal Development, Professional Modeling, the Classic Woman course, the Little Princess course and the Young Miss course, and are designed to assist girls and women toward the self-realization that leads to mature confidence in one's own image.
 The instructors can impart the skills taught because the classes at the school are small; no more than eight persons are assigned to any instructor in any phase; and teachers devote individual attention to the needs of each.
 Qualified Instructors
 Instructors other than Miss Becknell include Mrs. Jerry (Lynette) Thuet, Mrs. Ralph (Gloria) Madrid, Mrs. Ron (Donna) Chandler, Miss Linda Wilks, and Mrs. Bill (Johnnie) Hardage. They are members of the World Modeling Association. They attend workshops and seminars in New York to update their curriculum and keep abreast of the current trends in the high fashion industry of New York.
 The instructors have been speakers in the public schools, social organizations, banking institutions, small groups and clubs. They are available to give lectures and demonstrations to groups and organizations for a minimal fee. They also teach the short courses for groups of eight or more in the surrounding area towns and in the local area.

Two Dates Remain In Toy, Gift Show Held By South Plains Wholesale

Don't forget . . . two more Sundays remain in the 25th Annual Toy and Gift Show of South Plains Wholesale Variety, Inc., in Lubbock.
 Designed to be of special benefit to the independent merchants of a wide West Texas — Eastern New Mexico region, the show held its first session yesterday, with other dates to be June 4 and June 11, with show hours 10 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. in the big headquarters of South Plains Wholesale Variety, 1701 Ave. H, phone 765-8039, in Lubbock.
 A personal invitation is extended to old and new customers alike . . . to the Southwest's largest show of its kind.
 Many new lines and new products are being shown, and grouping on the second floor is arranged for ease in selection and comparison.
 There are toys, games, candy, stuffed animals, flowers and wreaths, wrapping paper, ribbon and trees, Christmas lights, craft items, candles, glassware, decorations, toiletries, tree stands, blankets, pillow cases, flower accessories, styrofoam and much, much more in stock.
 South Plains Wholesale Variety has been serving the independent merchant throughout West Texas and adjacent areas since 1953. In fact, it has operated under the same name and at the same central Lubbock location throughout this time.
 Wayne Davis, who purchased the business about a year ago, continues its operation as a wholly-locally owned and operated service type of firm. Key staffmembers include Virgil Wingham who has been with the firm 22 years and who is of extreme aid to the buyer.
 School and many all-season needs are arranged along the downstairs aisles, with special occasion items dominating the expansive upper floor area.
 Thanks to South Plains Wholesale Variety, the independent merchant can plan now for full shelves next Christmas, with selection and quality at the Lubbock firm placing the merchant in a very advantageous position in a competitive situation. South Plains Wholesale Variety performs a vital service with its selective stock, its purchase plans and its freight savings.

STILL TIME TO CHOOSE — The South Plains Wholesale Annual Toy/Gift Show has two Sundays remaining for benefit of merchandise selection by the independent retailers of the region.

STAFFED TO SERVE — Among those at the big consolidated Key Auto Supply in its new 1613 Ave. H location are (from left) Jesse DeLeon, L.B. Flud, Bob Collier, Ronald Key, Cubby Key, Clemente Hernandez, Raymond Hinkle and Rosa Williams. An auction sale is set this Saturday at the former store location just across the street.

Just-Moved Key Auto Arranges June 3 Surplus Items Auction

In conjunction with Key Auto Supply's consolidation in its downtown operation, a big auction sale is of immediate interest. It is announced that in connection with the firm's move and expansion, an auction is to be conducted June 3 to dispose of surplus shelving, equipment, other fixtures and also obsolete parts and some discontinued lines. The auction will be conducted by auctioneers Jack Faulks and Travis Butler at 10 a.m. on the announced date, at 1620 Ave. H. Some presses, compressors, bench grinders and other tools are included. "Everything Automotive" long has been the meaningful motto of Key Auto Supply, but now still further good news is revealed: The downtown facilities of Key Auto Supply have been consolidated under one roof, with Key occupying new quarters at 1613 Ave. H. This address is just across Avenue H from the firm's former No. 3 store.

The equipment store and machine shop, formerly at 1709 H, also has been made part of the big new store formerly occupied by Direct Mattress Co. The expanded quarters represent increase from 5,000 sq. ft. to 12,000 ft. floorspace for the firm, it is pointed out by owners Ronald and Cubby Key. All-new store fixtures have been installed at the new location. Unique In Field Key, affording an auto supply business since back in 1957, remains unique in its field, providing auto paint, auto parts, auto equipment and an automotive machine shop, qualifying it as the only firm in Lubbock offering all this, Ronald explains. Auto equipment is a big item at Key Auto Supply. Among some items of special note are: Key stocks air compressors and parts and is service representative for West Texas for the Speedaire air compressor line. It is factory outlet distributor for Ausco hydraulic jacks, bumper jacks, etc. And Key is factory-authorized service repair station for Exide battery chargers, serving as an Exide battery charger and Exide battery outlet. Key is sales representative for the Dupont auto paint line. Key serves the industry and the individual, with wholesale and retail sales. Machine Shop A full-fledged machine shop is maintained, with two machinists skilled in their trade, enabling turning of drums, boring of blocks, valve work, repair of cracked heads, etc. Key is open six days a week. Key Auto continues its business on the same sound principles on which it was founded, the owners emphasize. "We maintain the most complete stock of the highest quality automotive supply items, and we provide dealers, mechanics and individuals with the best possible service."

Gary's Frozen Foods Products Add Zest, Nutrition To Season's Picnics

"What does it take to make those early picnics of the season a success? Balmey days? Yes. Pleasant surroundings? Yes. Family and friends? Yes." But there still is another very necessary ingredient: Food to enjoy! Then depend on Gary's Frozen Food items, great for picnics, snacks, school-meal or for unexpected guests, and all. For sure, a good meal can become an outstanding one if Gary's Frozen Food products have a place on the menu. "We're hearing some mighty good things about Gary's Bar-B-Que Flavored Delight, newest of the Gary's family of products." "Shouldn't you find out for yourself how this and other of the firm's fine products fit into your menu for finest in nutritious food? Discover how Gary's provides the best in barbeque, corn dogs, super dogs, custom cooking, and more. Custom Cooking Gary's is glad to custom prepare any meat, at any time, whether it is wild game or whatnot. Or one may simply discover that the Gary's Frozen Food label in a favorite grocery or supermarket opens the way to variety and nutritious goodness. Select from Gary's Barbeque Flavor Delight, Gary's Corn Dogs, Gary's Bar-B-Que Beef Brisket in bar-b-que sauce, and Gary's super dogs. Whether the occasion is a festive meal, a Sunday dinner or even a snack, or a birthday party, one can profit from dependance upon the home-owned, home-operated Gary's Frozen Food firm and its products. The Bar-B-Que Flavored Delight is newest of the Gary's family of labels, and it is oh-so-good. A beef, beef suet and tex-ured vegetable protein product, it is a new experience in delicious eating. Keep it frozen, and just heat to eat. This new product is available in the area, distributed to retail stores and to institutions. Look for the label. The 10-pack Corn Dogs have met with exceptional response. Consisting of batter mix around a frankfurter, partially cooked in pure vegetable oil, these, too, are easy to prepare. Simply thaw, remove from bag, place in 375-degree oven for 12 to 15 minutes or deep fat fry. Also, one still can get the delicious Gary's Barbeque Beef Brisket in a favorite grocery or supermarket. The many quality products and services from Gary's has made possible the continued growth of the firm, thanks to loyal customers who appreciate good food and Gary's sincere desire to please. The barbeque brisket, super dogs and other quality items from Gary's Frozen Foods, 109th Street at South University Avenue, make many a West Texas meal something special — whether for a special event or simply a change of pace. These products, long recognized as the finest obtainable, are prepared in the modern, enlarged, functionally attractive quarters for Gary's, specifically designed and built for service, in south Lubbock. Every Gary's Frozen Foods product is an experience in goodness: School children, their parents and a lot of other people (unexpected guests included) can attest to the deliciousness of Gary's Super dogs, corn dogs — and the Gary's Bar-B-Que package available on retail basis.

TO CONDUCT FREE CLASSES FOR CHILDREN — Rhea Abbott is pictured with a completed plaster project to call attention to plaster painting classes set for the young set, ages 10 to 16. Check the story for full details.

Children's Classes In Plaster Painting Scheduled By Rhea's

"Are there young people in your family who will have idle time this summer...who would enjoy participation in delightful hobbies?"

Then, note this: At Rhea's Crafts, 2831 34th St., children's classes in Painting on Plaster will commence June 7.

Classes will be divided into the 10-12 age group and the 12-16 age group. Classes will be from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m., with another schedule from 2 p.m. until 5 p.m.

Students will paint on plaster with their choice of pastel chalk, acrylic paints or with the new sponge painting technique.

Instruction Free
And possibly best news of all: There is absolutely no tuition charge! The only expense will be for supplies that are available at Rhea's.

Rhea Abbott will personally instruct the classes.

Early Registration Asked
As space is limited, it is strongly urged that early registration be made to assure inclusion in one of the classes.

Come by Rhea's Crafts, 2831 34th St., or phone 795-2655 for full details.

Won't this be fun? What an opportunity for pleasure and achievement during the summer months.

Exceptional Store
Rhea's Crafts, long and favorably known for its craft supplies and ideas for the creative person, has other situations of interest:

Fresh, new stock augments the already-huge selection.

Rhea's makes each craft project fun (satisfying and economical, too!).

Always-ready assistance is a big factor in the services rendered at Rhea's Crafts, with individual instruction absolutely free when one purchases there.

The long-standing rule is that anyone buying supplies there is welcomed and even encouraged to come in, sit at the big work-table and even use the big spray paint room, completing the selected project without any further charge!

Personal Assistance
Rhea Abbott is on hand to "show you" just how the project is done.

What an opportunity always for uninterrupted pursuit of a craft project, with free instruction!

Everything for decoupage, including one of the largest selection in the area of beautiful prints, is stocked.

Rhea's has a full selection of pastel chalks, some may not yet realize.

Macrame Supplies
Of course, there are macrame supplies for every need.

And Mirro-Magic, too. With this process, one can open "windows" in mirrors to display and frame cherished prints, photographs, decorative paintings or those special mementos.

With this technique, mirrors become frames to reflect and protect fine prints, heirloom photos or decorative painting. All materials are available at Rhea's.

Check also regarding the multiple ways to finish plaster, including antiquing, bronzing, marbelizing, acrylics and pastel chalk.

Rhea's not only has ideas by the scores, but stocks all necessary supplies in kit or individual piece form.

Spray paints and base coats are included in the wide stock.

Glass beads, bangles, etc. are provided.

Get the idea: Rhea's knows the needs of the hobbyist, and stocks — and serves — accordingly.

Texas Insulation Systems, Lockney, Affords ThermoCon Process, Products

"Know Texas Insulation Systems, Box 591, Lockney, Texas, phone 652-3348, and profit."

Specializing in ThermoCon spray-on and loose-fill for residential, commercial and industrial applications, Jerry Ulmer and staff are masters in their field. For full details see Ulmer at the Lockney facility, write Box 591, Lockney, Tex. 79241, or call (806) 652-3348.

Spray-on ThermoCon affords temperature, sound and fire control in one application!

Because of its chemical content, it permanently bonds to steel, wood and masonry surfaces painted or not! It provides a strong color-stable environmental system that will not chip, shed, flake, dust or be subject to rot or fungi. ThermoCon is odorless and non-toxic.

Because it forms a monolithic seal, it can be used wherever temperature, sound or fire control is needed on ceilings or walls, exposed or unexposed. No taping, undercoating or preparatory base is required!

Because of its workable fibrous texture, ThermoCon can expand and contract with your building without losing its hold. Its built-in flexibility makes it easy to cut, saw, mold, shape or paint.

Because of its application by pneumatic spray, it is much faster and more economical than conventional insulation, Ulmer emphasizes.

(ThermoCon, incidently, is a national company with dealers throughout the nation and in Canada.)

Appropriate buildings for this ThermoCon system include farm buildings, airplane hangars, industrial plants, warehouses, auditoriums, gyms, showrooms, supermarkets, mobile homes, apartments, condominiums, office buildings, etc.

"It is twice as effective as wire-backed fiberglass batts: heat intense enough to melt metal will not penetrate ThermoCon's protective barrier!"

DON'T LIFT IT.

WHERE STREAMLINED METHODS, LOW OVERHEAD SAVE FOR EVERY CUSTOMER

Food Budget Gets Assist With Purchase At Kash & Karry Firm

"Have you found it actually impossible to stay within your food budget?"
 "Have you planned to sacrifice elsewhere (vacations, evenings out, new apparel, etc.) to provide nutritious meals for the family?"
 Then it is high time to turn to a Lubbock firm that can be of very real assistance in trimming food costs, enabling better eating without prohibitive cost.
 It is Lubbock Kash & Karry Wholesale Grocery, 901 N. Ave. Q.
 "Many of you have profited — for months — by checking the ads of Lubbock Kash & Karry Wholesale Grocery on these pages, and purchasing accordingly. (Selecting at the same time from the hundreds of other items already marked at 'rock bottom' at this popular Lubbock grocery that recently celebrated its second anniversary.)
 "Others of you possibly have yet to learn the money-saving truth... that Lubbock Kash & Karry Wholesale Grocery can be a tremendous friend to the family budget.
 Certainly, all will agree that it is advantageous to shop more carefully than ever before... for price and value. Then be sure and check the Lubbock Kash & Karry ad.

 (Not only this week but check each week on representative money-saving staple items provided by this distinctive firm at 901 N. Ave. Q.
 Full Service
 "Did you know that groceries still can be purchased in Lubbock at rock-bottom prices — and — with full carry-out and sacking service?"
 "If you are shopping elsewhere, you may be doing much of the work yourself, and still be paying too much; so — try Lubbock Kash & Karry Wholesale Grocery and pocket the savings!"
 Located at 901 N. Ave. Q, phone 747-6033, this firm is Lubbock's only independently and wholly owned and operated wholesale grocery.
 It takes pride in "selling for less," a policy made possible by its cash arrangement, low overhead, purchases directly from the manufacturer, its policy of "pick it up yourself and save the difference," and local warehousing.

Co-owners are Tommy Toombs and Noble Sides, with Toombs as manager. Sides, formerly with the Ben E. Keith Co., enjoys a wide acquaintance in the area, as does Tommy who also is a long-time Lubbock resident. Both are on the job to give their personal attention.
 In its fully-stocked quarters on North Avenue Q, Lubbock Kash & Karry sells in quantities as small as one-half case lots, and packaged meats, etc., by the package.
 A very good stock of refrigerated products, including these packaged meats, is maintained.
 The firm has enjoyed acceptance and appreciation of those even coming long distances to take advantage of the prices and selection. More than 1,600 items are included in the stock that veritably affords "anything for the grocery business," and housed in a big 6,000 sq ft building at the north Lubbock location.
 Staffmembers are on hand to lead merchandise for the purchaser, remember.
 Everything is top quality, with definite no "seconds" even at the low prices.

Diet Center 'Near You' Assured With Opening Of Latest Of Four In City

"Thanks for the reception accorded Lubbock's latest Diet Center... at 4708-B 4th Street (Holiday Center)."
 With opening last Monday of this new facility, Lubbock Diet Centers now are in four locations "to serve you best!"
 Check with any of these, including Glenda Bratcher at the newest, in Holiday Center, 4807-B 4th, phone 793-1387; Marianne Maestas at 2321-A 50th St., phone 793-5444; with Debra Ridpath at 3417 73rd St., phone 793-3438; and Rita Pence at 4902 34th St., Suite 206, Terrace Center, phone 793-5211.
 So now, there is a Diet Center "near you", wherever your address may be.
 Glenda Bratcher points out that the newest Center is open six days a week, with special hours provided for working people as necessary, just as in the earlier-established 2321-A 50th St. facility.
 "Won't you come out and share our pride in this latest Diet Center?"
 It is aptly pointed out that "getting skinny is the national pastime... and there are all kinds of clinics, spas and group programs geared to helping overweight Americans become losers!"
 The Diet Center differs from other weight loss operations, says Glenda, because it is a daily program. Dieters come in daily for a weigh-in and a few minutes of encouragement or counseling rather than coming once a week for group meetings.

 This is seen as a distinct advantage for those who need constant encouragement and those who are reluctant to stand up in a group and confess their gastronomical indiscretions.
 "Feeling good while you lose" is the new program and approach to losing weight available at the Diet Center.
 An adjustable program, to fit the needs of the individual, is provided, and all counseling is private.
 Essentially a diet program, the Diet Center method also advises light exercise.
 The Diet Center program calls for a well-balanced diet, and the clients will not lose the essential fat on the body, but only the extra adipose fat; the dieters will have all the nutrients necessary to maintain good health while losing adipose fat from the body.
 At a very, very modest price, one may avail herself or himself of daily counseling during the weight loss period, counseling during stabilization, and further aid during later maintenance for a lifetime of weight control.

 With varied programs available, it could be pointed out that possibly the most popular is a 6-week program in which women usually lose from 18 to 30 pounds, with men losing even more.
 To simplify explanation, it could be said that the most popular Diet Center program takes from two to six weeks with an expected weight loss of one-half to one pound a day. When the desired weight has been attained, a sustaining program, at no further charge, is set up. Then if the old programs of stuffing away food return as fatty deposits, a refresher weigh-in quickly sets one on the right path.
 The Diet Center approach is strictly dietary, involving a series of tasty menus that are inexpensive and easy to prepare. The diets help keep the blood sugar stable, serve as natural diuretics and keep away hunger pangs!
 "You'll feel well, and if you persevere, in no time at all you'll begin to look as great as you feel!"

Sales, Rentals, Repair, Accessories Included In Chance's Service Scope

Chance's Lawn & Leisure stocks just as the name implies, affording ready source of sale and lease merchandise for outdoor activities.
 With the lawn and garden demanding attention through the busy weeks ahead, Chance's, at 3604 50th St., is especially well prepared, providing quality merchandise at economical prices.
Mowers
 A very, very good selection of new lawn mowers is on the showroom floor.
 Rear-bagger Snapper mowers, push, self propelled and some with electric starters are stocked.
 Also Toro, in side or rear bag; the Lawn Boy rear or side bag; and Jacobsen riding mowers, too.
 Also there are the Yazoo heavy duty commercial mowers, and the really fine Trimmer reel mowers.
 John Deere comes out with a new rear-bag, self propelled model that will be available soon; and other John Deere models are in stock now.

Then there is the "best homeowner or commercial gasoline edger", the Power Trim models, stocked at Chance's.
 A full line of the gas and electric Weed-eaters is stocked at special low prices. Toro and Spin Trim nylon weed cutters are also stocked and recommended.
Sprinkler Needs
 Select, also from Nipak or Ferti Lome fertilizers, replacement parts for mowers, garden hose, even sprinklers.
 Chance's stocks the Rain Bird do-it-yourself sprinkler equipment for underground installation, even making available a rental ditcher.
 A full line of Suhl, John Deere and Homelite chain saws is stocked, with the firm offering service as well as sales.
 Chain saw sharpening is expertly done.
 Limited supply of John Deere bicycles presently is on hand, and one should select early.
Some Reconditioned Units
 Good, used, reconditioned equipment is available at economy prices, including mowers, edgers, and some tillers formerly used as rental units.

 In the rental segment of the firm, one can secure just about anything, it seems.
 There are auto repair tools, small hand and electric tools for the handyman and builder, floor care equipment, cement working equipment, lawn and garden tools, plumbing and even woodworking equipment.
 Dollies and other moving accessories.
 And now a new line of camping equipment for rent, including stoves, lanterns, sleeping bags, tents, catalytic heaters and more. What a benefit for the camper.
 For those taking advantage of late-season ski opportunities, Chance's has all that is needed in snow ski equipment, at low rental fees.
 Chance's Lawn & Leisure maintains a large repair department, and early attention to mower and other needs is advised as there no doubt will be a big rush as the season progresses.

BOATING, FISHING ACCESSORIES STOCKED

Woolco's Fishing Supplies Fill Need In Quality Lines, Saving

'Tis fishin' weather; it is fishing time... and time for selection at Woolco, whatever the fishing need. Woolco has a wide variety of equipment at low Woolco prices... with everything for the novice, the pro and those in between! Name-brand rods are stocked in one of the best selections one will find. There are Gladding, South Bends, Lew's Speed Sticks, Garcia Ambassador, Game Fish and Winfield, as example. In reels and line, such famous names are represented as Zebeo, Garcia, Gladding, Daiwa and Game Fish. For crank baits, Woolco comes through with a very good selection in Rebel, Whopper Stopper, Bomber, Cotton-Cordell, Natural Ike and others. In the worm line, there are 4-in. Ring-worms in all colors, Jelly worms in all colors and a good assortment of Mister Twister. For spinning lures, one cannot go wrong with such brand names as Mann's, Bomber Spinners, Mepps, Laddie, Cotton-Cordell and many others. For the live bait fisherman, we at Woolco carry all sizes in hooks, weights, floats, swivels, minnow traps and other items. Also there are fish locators by Jetco, with depth finder. Woolco carries a large selection of tackle boxes made by Adventure, Old-Pal, VII Check, etc. in all sizes, shapes and colors. Worm boxes are stocked, of course. "For fishing fun ahead, shouldn't Woolco be the first stop?"

Woolco Can Solve Father's Day Gift Search With Wide Recliner Selection

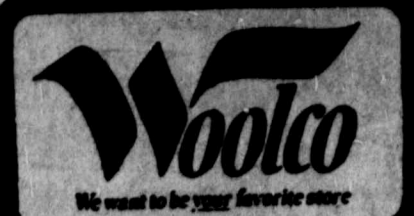

What an opportunity... for Father's Day! "In the Woolco furniture department, we have received a large, large assortment of recliners just in time for Father's Day (just a few days away) on June 18." So, why delay? Come on down to Woolco and select the recliner seemingly made just for dad. Recliners may be placed on layaway,

There are many styles and colors from which to choose. Then, the Woolco furniture department also has two-piece and three-piece living room groupings; dinettes, entertainment centers, music centers, room dividers, even unfinished furniture. And bookcases, bar stools, corner stands, bedroom furniture and living room tables. Also, at Woolco there are furniture catalogs for one to look at and select. Most of the items from the catalog can be secured within 10 to 14 days, with some taking a little longer. In the furniture department, there also are bean bag chairs and hassocks in a variety of colors. "So... for your furniture needs, come down to Woolco and let one of our friendly sales people help you. David Sanchez is the capable department manager, assisted by Danny Abram and Patty Gilbride."
