

Bobby Baker 'Tells All' On Kefauver, LBJ

CHICAGO (UPI) — Bobby Baker, President Lyndon B. Johnson's one-time aide who was convicted of influence peddling, claims the late Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee took bribes in money and sexual favors.

Writing in the June issue of Playboy Magazine with journalist Larry L. King, Baker says Kefauver "was among those senators who willingly put themselves up for sale; he didn't particularly care whether he was paid in coin or women."

The Dallas franchise in the National Football League, Baker said in his article "Wheeling and Dealing," may have been bought through a $25,000 bribe to Kefauver, who was the running mate of Democratic presidential nominee Adlai Stevenson in 1956.

"A group of Texans badly wanted to gain a profitable NFL franchise for Dallas," Baker wrote.

But the group ran into opposition from Washington Redskins owner George Preston Marshall, who Baker said did not want a Southern team in the league because he thought it would dilute his own team's following.

Baker, who was in Johnson's employ in the Senate at the time, said Kefauver's subcommittee was about to consider whether Marshall held an illegal monopoly through his Redskins Television Network.

Baker said a "fellow reveler" approached him and said, "Bobby, I've got to lock up that damn football franchise for Texas and I've been told not to leave any stone unturned."

Baker said he told the courier to see Kefauver. He said the task would require money. Later, the courier returned with a briefcase containing $25,000, which Baker said he delivered to "a Kefauver staff man in his committee office."

In the article, Baker also details personal experiences he said he had in procuring women for Kefauver.

He cited numerous other incidents of questionable political practice during his days in Washington and even following his 1972 release after nearly 17 months in federal prison. Among them:

—Following the Watergate break-in in 1972, Bebe Rebozo and Herbert Kalmbach, both close associates of President Richard M. Nixon, tried to persuade Baker to reveal "dirt" about Democratic National Chairman Lawrence O'Brien.

—For years, Johnson used his influence to hold a monopoly on television programming in Austin by forcing the three networks to let him pick and choose their programs for his station, the only one in Austin.

—Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, at former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's request, persuaded President John F. Kennedy to quash the federal indictment in Philadelphia of a former Eisenhower aide, in return for a future favor.

—Johnson persuaded Kennedy to appoint a congressman to a federal job in a "distant city," Baker said Johnson was having an affair with the congressman's wife.

Storms Rumble On South Plains

By BOB CAMPBELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A storm came up instead of the sun today and sliced Lubbock and the South Plains with desperately needed rain.

The Hub City stayed in a dark twilight into midmorning as the daybreak thunderstorm rained and drizzled a total of 1.12 inches at Lubbock International Airport and up to 1.50 in town.

A severe thunderstorm warning was in effect for Lubbock and Hockley counties from 8:20 a.m. to 9:30 a.m. after a line of very heavy thunderstorms formed from Tahoka to Ropesville and Sundown.

Moving northeast at 30 to 35 miles an hour, the storm bank rolled over Lubbock before 9 a.m. with a heavy downpour mixed with fine, soft hail.

KFYO Radio at 914 Avenue J recorded 1.28 of an inch, and Fire Station No. 1 at 6th and Avenue K had 1.5.

City streetlights were on downtown until about 9:30 a.m., Lubbock Power & Light Co. officials reported.

Downstate in the Permian Basin, police at Crane reported a tornado on the ground 5 miles northwest of Crane and moving northeast.

The small twister bounced through a sparsely populated area of Crane County, police reported, but did no damage.

A wind of 60 to 70 mph at Acuff was reported at 8:15 a.m. by the Lorenzo Civil Defense. The wind reportedly damaged some barns.

Weathermen reported thunderstorms re-developing west of Lubbock from south Terry County and north across Hockley County into Lamb County near Littlefield about midmorning.

Near noon, very heavy thunderstorms were reported from just north of Tahoka to the southeast portion of Lubbock to 3 miles north of Crosbyton.

Other heavy storms covered the area from northeast of Littlefield to east of Levelland.

A Lubbock weatherman said the South Plains probably would stay cloudy and have intermittent showers into the early nighttime.

Awaited by anxious farmers for more than a month, the rain came as a result of "a big dome of cool air" from Minnesota to the northern half of Texas and an upper-level disturbance moving through Texas and into western New Mexico this morning.

It was the first time since .60 fell on Oct. 7, 1977, that Lubbock had received a half-inch of rain or more, and it came at a critical time for farmers needing to plant cotton.

Only 21 fell here in April. In Lubbock, the rain totaled more than an inch in every section of town. There was 1.35 at 22nd Street and Avenue X, an inch at 30th Street and Texas Avenue, 1.24 at 35th Street and Indiana Avenue, 1.25 at 17th Street and Utica Avenue, 1.40 at 50th Street and Avenue B, an inch at 50th and Utica Avenue, 1.25 at 48th Street and Quirt Avenue and an inch in the 900-block of Zenith.

Area reports included 1.60 at Wolfthor, .95 at Levelland, .90 at Lorenzo, .60 and still raining at 10:30 a.m. at Brownfield, .36 at Plainview, .90 at Idal-

French U.N. Troops Battle Palestinians

TYRE, Lebanon (UPI) — French U.N. troops opened fire on a band of Palestinian guerrillas near U.N. positions in southern Lebanon today, killing two and wounding one, a French spokesman said.

In the north, a powerful car bomb exploded in Zaghorta, hometown of right-wing former President Suleiman Franjeh, and initial hospital reports said 30 persons were injured, seven of them critically.

The French, part of the U.N. peacekeepers ordered by the world body to southern Lebanon, have vowed to keep the guerrillas from crossing U.N. lines into Israeli-occupied territory.

French soldiers near the town of Bazouriyeh, inland from the southwest port of Tyre, fired on the Palestinians and killed two and wounded one when the group tripped a warning flare near U.N. lines shortly after midnight, the French spokesman said.

The incident came nearly 24 hours after the French had clashed with a guerrilla team east of Tyre, killing two Arab infiltrators.

The spokesman said: "It seems this is going to continue, and there will be further dead."

Two mine explosions Monday killed four Senegalese U.N. soldiers and wounded four others.

The renewed violence in south Lebanon, target of an Israeli invasion in March, coincided with the bomb explosion in an automobile in north Lebanon.

The bomb went off near a cafe in the northern town of Zghorta, and police had no immediate explanation for the explosion.

The French clash with the guerrillas — near a position vacated by Israel Sunday — sparked tension around Tyre and a charge from the leftist faction involved that "The French entered Lebanon under cover of the U.N. to protect the Israeli enemy."

In the Tyre "area, Lebanese and Palestinian guerrillas patrolled in trucks equipped with heavy machine guns. Armed guerrillas mounted a roadblock to bar French troops from entering Tyre.

Israel has withdrawn to what it termed a "security belt" against Palestinian attacks that varies from 3 to 6 miles inside Lebanon.

Missing Girl Found Alive

McKENZIE, Tenn. (AP) — Eighteen-year-old Jodie Gaines, kidnapped Friday night, was released unharmed today, U.S. Attorney Mike Cody said in Memphis.

He said some arrests had been made in the case.

"She is distraught and upset but OK," Cody said by telephone.

He said she was released at a cabin near the Big Sandy River in the Springville area in neighboring Henry County some 15 miles northeast of McKenzie.

"There have been some arrests," he said. He would not elaborate.

A short time earlier, Carroll County Sheriff Lawrence Garrett had said that Miss Gaines was alive and that he soon would have "good news" about the case. Garrett spoke with reporters at the front door of the family's home, after the kidnaper's father, businessman Ben Gaines, hurried away from the dwelling where he had maintained a tense vigil since Friday.

A reporter asked, "Can you tell us anything about it?" Shaking hands with reporters but walking away, Garrett said, "Only that there's good news."

Asked whether Miss Gaines was alive, he said, "She's alive."

Federal and state agents had been waiting for a break in the case, with only Miss Gaines' abandoned car and a receiver clipped from a pay telephone as clues.

A dispatcher for the Carroll County Sheriff's office said Monday night that Miss Gaines' car was found abandoned earlier in the day about 25 miles southeast of McKenzie.

In another development Monday, a receiver and cord from a pay telephone in a McKenzie service station were clipped by a federal agent and taken to the FBI command post at the McKenzie Motor Inn. The station's manager said he was asked who used the phone Monday morning but he said too many customers passed through the station for him to tell who may have called out.

A family friend said an effort to pay a $250,000 ransom for Miss Gaines' release fell through Monday night but gave few details.

Miss Gaines' father said no payoff had been made and his daughter had not been freed. "We have not paid the ransom and we have not picked her up, no sir," he said.

Mrs. Gaines and her son, Ben Jr., 20, left the family home Monday afternoon and returned by mid-evening.

Hays Brummitt, a friend of Ben Jr.'s, said he learned of the attempted ransom drop in a brief conversation with the youth after he and his mother returned.

"They made the drop in Kentucky instead of Tennessee," Brummitt said. "He said they were supposed to pick Jodie up at a second place, but she didn't show." He declined to confirm published and broadcast reports that the drop had been made in Murray, Ky., about 30 miles north of McKenzie.

It was not clear whether the money was picked up.

The account of an attempted payoff was denied by another family friend. Dick Blay, assistant FBI agent in Memphis, said he knew of no ransom drop being made Monday. Federal agents have agreed to honor a family request that they not interfere with the payoff if one is made.

Mrs. Gaines slipped into the house unnoticed when she and her son returned home after the reported payoff attempt.

Houston Oilers Grab Campbell

NEW YORK (AP) — The Houston Oilers, to the surprise of absolutely no one, officially made Heisman Trophy winner Earl Campbell their No. 1 choice in the opening round of the National Football League's college draft today.

The Dallas Cowboys, drafting in the 28th and last spot because of their Super Bowl victory, selected Michigan State defensive tackle Larry Bethea. The Cowboys said he probably would be used at defensive end.

The pick was a surprise to observers, who know that the Cowboys have three outstanding defensive linemen in Harvey Martin, Ed Jones and Randy White. Even if veteran Jethro Pugh retires, the Cowboys have veterans Larry Cole and Bill Gregory to fill the slot. Dallas also has two young linemen on the roster, Dave Stalls and Greg Schaum.

Coach Tom Landry always has insisted that he drafts the best athlete available regardless of position, however.

Campbell, the University of Texas running back who gained 1,744 yards and was the fifth-leading ground-gainer in major college history, was the man the Oilers wanted as the Houston equivalent of Tony Dorsett, the sensational runner who solidified the Cowboys' offense last season.

To get the shot at the 6-foot, 200-pound Campbell, the Oilers gave Tampa Bay, which owned the No. 1 overall selection, four draft choices (two this season and two next year) and tight end Jimmy Giles.

Houston Coach Bum Phillips, when asked whether Campbell would line up at halfback or fullback, quipped: "After you get the ball in your hands it doesn't make much difference where you're coming from. It's where you're going to that counts."

NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle made the announcement of Houston's selection, then Campbell spoke momentarily, thanking his agent, Mike Trope, for making him an instant millionaire. Campbell has agreed to terms with the Oilers.

The burly running back from Tyler then posed with his new uniform with No. 34 on the jersey.

The Kansas City Chiefs, with a defense that ranked dead last among the NFL's 28 teams last year, had the second choice and selected Art Still, a 6-foot-7 defensive end from the University of Kentucky.

The Chiefs used 12 of the 15 minutes which each team is allotted during the first two rounds. Each club has 5 minutes to make its selection in the remaining 10 rounds. Last year's draft took 19 hours, 29 minutes.

The New Orleans Saints, picking third, took Wes Chandler, a brilliant wide receiver from the University of Florida. They were followed instantly by the New York Jets, who grabbed Chris Ward, a

The guests will include the editor of Nixon's memoirs, Robert Markel of Grosset & Dunlap; publisher Harold Roth, and two executives of Warner Books.

Warner paid Nixon a reported $2 million for rights to "RN: The Memoirs of Richard Nixon."

The excerpts are being syndicated in 50 U.S. and foreign newspapers and periodicals this week. The $19.95 book will be published May 15.

Nixon also has invited former U.S. prisoners of war to his home May 27 during the commemoration in nearby Los Angeles of their release from North Vietnam five years ago.

Patty Hearst Changes Lawyers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst's new lawyer won't comment on what plans he may have to keep the newspaper heiress out of prison on her 1976 bank robbery conviction.

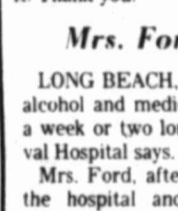

San Francisco attorney George Martinez was named Monday to replace Al Johnson as Miss Hearst's chief lawyer.

Johnson said he would continue to handle Hearst family legal matters and also would represent Miss Hearst in certain specialized areas. He did not elaborate.

The U.S. Supreme Court refused last week to review the conviction and Johnson has not announced what the next step will be. Miss Hearst, sentenced to seven years for her part in the holdup, has served 14 months and would have to serve 14 more before being eligible for parole. She currently is free on $1 million bail.

LONDON (AP) — Kris Kristofferson says he has not kicked his drink problem yet, although he has been on the wagon for 18 months.

KRISTOFFERSON

"I never thought I'd get to the point where I'd have to quit," he said in London, where he and his wife, Rita Coolidge, launched a nationwide tour, their first here since 1972.

"I'm not cured, but I'm more in control. I'm still not together. I'm still self-destructive, still crazy."

"But I'd just as soon drink gasoline as go back to the booze," said Kristofferson.

He said he was a hard drinker before he took the pledge Sept. 20, 1976. He even had it down in black and white in his contracts that he'd have a couple of bottles in his dressing room.

Now he's getting back to the music because "music's the most important thing because it's my creation. When you're acting it's just like singing someone else's stuff."

Disco Divorce

SURREY, British Columbia (AP) — Cathy Lenz got a divorce, then immediately held a party, complete with decorated cake and disco music.

More than 200 guests showed up. Single men among the crowd identified themselves with garter-like armbands; single women wore carnations in their hair.

Cathy, whose last name was Tomlinson, but now uses her maiden name, said her ex-husband, whom she married in 1975, would have been welcome had he decided to show up.

"It wasn't a nasty split-up, so that's why I don't think this party is a mockery on marriage or anything like that," she said. "As a matter of fact, the reason I got the divorce is so that he could get married again."

House Panel Considers Buying Yacht 'Sequoia'

By JOHN LENGEL

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House panel is considering buying back the former presidential yacht Sequoia, and the new owner is figuring the price right now at about $1 million — for openers.

President Carter saw the 52-year-old yacht as a costly frill and authorized its sale last May for $286,000 to real estate entrepreneur Thomas Malloy of Cranston, R.I.

In September, Spartanburg, S.C., investor Norman F. Pulliam, 35, representing a partnership, bought the Sequoia from Malloy for what Pulliam called patriotic and selfish reasons.

Patriotic, Pulliam said in a telephone interview, because he looked on the yacht as 104 feet of "impressive and historic property" used by presidents since Herbert Hoover. Selfish, he added, because he saw the Sequoia as a money-maker.

The yacht has been drydocked at a Wilmington, S.C., boatyard for refurbishing. Pulliam plans to put the Sequoia on exhibit at Myrtle Beach, S.C., in June, figuring annual gross revenues from the venture at "about $500,000."

What did Pulliam pay? Well, he's not saying except to mention that he would have sold it back to the government early on for about $350,000.

Now, Pulliam says a total of $650,000 has been invested in buying and readying the Sequoia for tours, and before letting it go. "I got to have a fair profit..."

"I would have to have at least $1 million as a fair return for me and my partners," said Pulliam, adding that Carter should never have let the yacht go.

"I have no hesitation to sell it to the government. It belongs to the government and the people of this country," said Pulliam.

Rep. Phillip Burton, D-Calif., chairman of the House Interior subcommittee on national parks, is pushing the Sequoia buy-back as part of a wide-ranging national parks bill.

Under the bill the Sequoia would be controlled by the park service, and opened to the public at a small fee with the revenue earmarked for its upkeep. Burton said the boat could be towed around to U.S. ports.

The legislation before Burton's subcommittee would authorize the park service to buy the yacht at a price determined through negotiations. Burton is confident of eventual congressional approval, but that will take several months and Pulliam's investment clock is running.

For example, Pulliam points out that he's preparing to invest another $200,000 for employees and facilities to show the Sequoia this summer.

Burton said he was agnostic at Carter's decision to sell what amounts to a floating piece of American history. "I cannot comprehend the rationale behind the original judgment."

Pilots Killed In Crash

SOCORRO, N.M. (AP) — Two pilots in the New Mexico Air National Guard were killed when their jets collided aloft, said a spokeswoman at Kirtland Air Force Base in Albuquerque.

Millie Wiser said the accident occurred Monday about 30 miles east of Socorro. She identified the dead as Capt. Lawrence Croney, 32, a native of Glendale, Ariz., who had been living in Albuquerque, and Capt. John Lackey, 33, a native of Tularosa.

The A-7D planes, which were assigned to the 150th Tactical Fighter Group based at Kirtland, were on a routine training mission, she said. No other details were released.

Croney, survived by his wife and three children, had ejected and suffered a sprained ankle last Aug. 12 when an A-7D Corsair jet from Davis Monthan Air Force Base crashed on the Gila Bend Gunnery Range in Arizona.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government officials say the population of the nation's prisons continues to grow at a record rate. The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration says that at the end of 1977 there were 292,325 inmates in state and federal prisons, a 5 percent increase over the previous year, which also was a record. Federal prisons held 30,920 inmates, and state institutions held 261,405.

DON WORKMAN STATE SENATE

A WORKMAN For The People of West Texas Wants YOU To Know ... Where He Stands On the Oil and Gas Issue.

Dear Voter:

As a Texas with oil interests, I know the residents of our state are getting the short end of gas and oil sales out-of-state. Northern and eastern states are getting the benefits of Texas' abundance of oil and gas, while our own populace gets higher prices.

It's time Texas gets its fair share of oil and gas revenues. When elected as your State Senator for the 28th State Senatorial District I would help the state to get better income from its oil and gas production by:

- Supporting a phased deregulation of oil and gas over a three-year period, returning the production of oil and gas to the private business sector and giving the oil and gas companies the opportunity to discover and develop new reserves;
- Introducing a bill prohibiting the sale of any oil and gas produced on state land from being sold to out-of-state consumers, thus raising the income of the state and making more oil and gas available to consumers within the State of Texas; and
- Supporting a move to charge out-of-state consumers a flat rate of tax paid on gas and oil instead of the current percentage charged.

This last point is most important. Currently, we are charging 7 1/2 percent sales tax on all oil and gas. However, many of the out-of-state contracts were made when oil and gas were cheap, thus some are paying as little as 50 cents per thousand cubic feet while Texas consumers are paying up to $2 per thousand cubic feet.

Oil and gas are of major importance to the State of Texas. Even now, we have only tapped 20 percent of our available resources. It's time Texans stop giving the rest of the country a free ride. Free enterprise can solve our energy crisis.

Sincerely,

Don

Prisoner Swaps Show Spies Not Forgotten

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert Glenn Thompson, key to the latest East-West spy swap, knows now it's true that his kind are not left to rot in prison.

In spy-filled Germany, intelligence agents say privately that a promise to be taken care of is part of the contract. Both sides, the agents say, try to honor the code.

In Thompson's case the catalyst was Israel's eagerness to have a young, injured pilot freed from communist Mozambique.

Thompson's freedom was demanded by the other side as the price for the return of 24-year-old Miron Marcus. Thompson has been in a U.S. prison for the last 13 years after his conviction as a Russian spy.

East Germany, of all the communist bloc countries in Eastern Europe, has perhaps the greatest influence on the regime that succeeded Portuguese rule in Mozambique. From the start, East Germany recognized and supported rebel forces there.

Enter Wolfgang Vogel, the East German attorney and master dealer in prisoners and spies.

The Israelis approached Vogel directly, asking what could be done.

According to a source, who asked not to be identified, Vogel said Marcus would be freed, but that Thompson must be part of the bargain.

The source said the American government did not object but wondered what it would get in return. It was then, the source said, that Vogel sweetened the pot with 23-year-old Alan Van Norman of Windom, Minn., who was serving a 30-month prison term in East Germany.

Van Norman was arrested last August while trying to smuggle an East German family to the West. He was released through the Berlin wall on Monday, just after Thompson, accompanied by Vogel, crossed the barrier back to obscurity in East Berlin.

Thompson had been released 24 hours earlier from the federal penitentiary in Lewisburg, Pa., where he had served 13 years of a 30-year sentence.

Marcus had been released a week before that.

Thompson, as he walked out of Lewisburg, acknowledged that he is a Soviet agent and that the name "Thompson" was part of his cover. He indicated he was born in what is now East Germany, not in Detroit as was previously believed.

As he left for East Germany, or the Russia he admits trained and employed him, the onetime U. S. Air Force clerk said he will retire.

He had the bad luck to get caught but said he accepted that risk as part of his job. In getting him freed, his Russian employers showed he had not been forgotten.

Vogel has been involved in this kind of swap since he helped arrange the 1962 Berlin exchange of downed American U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers. The Soviets got master spy Rudolf Abel in return.

But this latest deal was the first to span three continents and involve four countries. It also was the first time the Israelis were known to have gone to Vogel to make use of his unquestioned channels of communication.

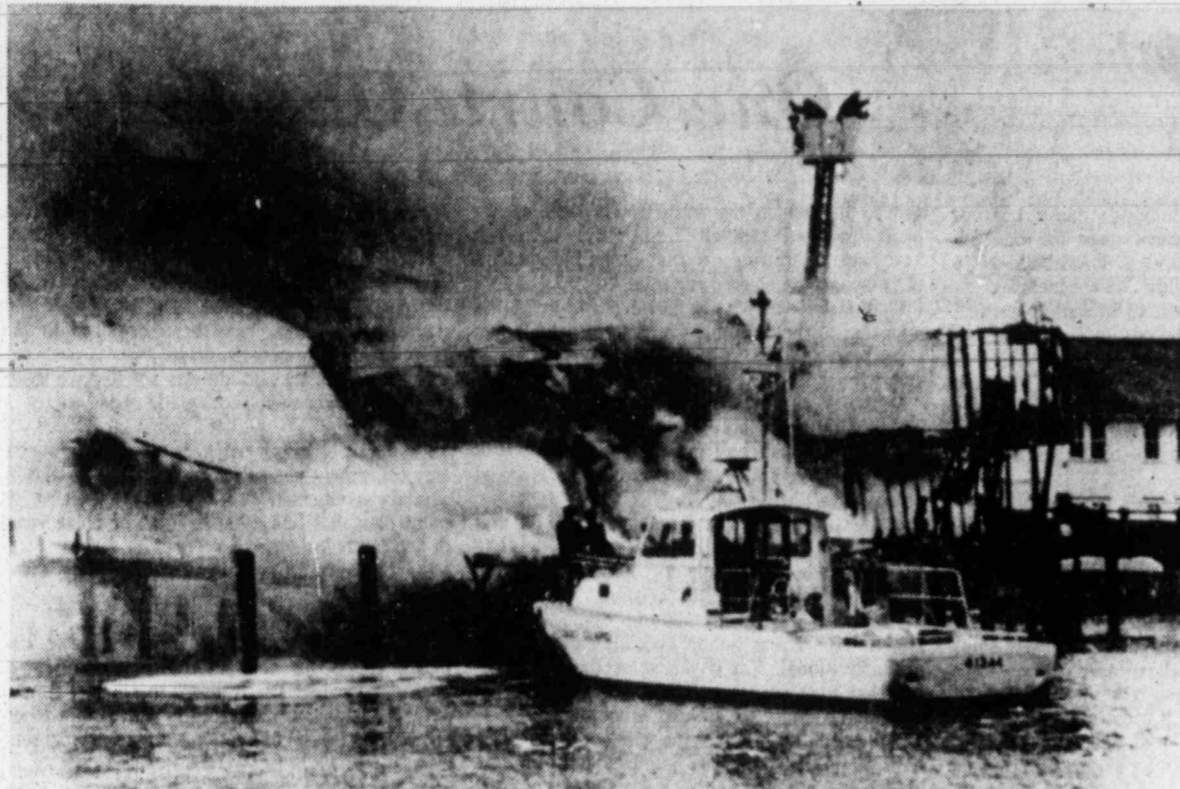

While in Washington for a brief visit, Vogel was said to have discussed yet another possible exchange. Rep. Benjamin Gilman, R-N.Y., said the discussion centered on Anatoly Shcharansky, a Soviet Jewish dissident who wants to go to Israel.

The Soviets allege he is a CIA agent. President Carter has personally denied the charge.

Also named as a possible exchange figure was Lawrence Hunt, a former CIA employee held in Cuba.

According to all the rules of the game, however, that kind of exchange would have to include a really big fish offered in trade by the West.

The only one who fits that description is an East German superspy, Guenther Guillaume, whose activities caused West German Chancellor Willy Brandt to resign. West Germany has stated it will not release Guillaume, no matter what.

RESORT FIRE — A Coast Guard boat and an aerial ladder wet down the smoldering ruins of homes in Chelsea Heights district of Atlantic City early Tuesday. One family was forced to leap into the bay to escape the flames. (AP Laserphoto)

Fires Damage Homes In Atlantic City

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Fires believed set by an arsonist erupted in at least five homes on the bay side of this city today, forcing one family to leap from its home into the frigid water to safety, police said.

"We've had several police officers in the water fishing out two kids and several adults," said police dispatcher John Lee.

The Coast Guard sent two boats and a helicopter to the scene, across town from the famous oceanfront Boardwalk where hotel-casinos are soon to offer legalized gambling.

Authorities said fires were reported in five homes — some of them unoccupied — and three other minor brush fires were reported in the area about 5 a.m. The blazes were under control two hours later.

"It's absolutely without a doubt arson," said Assistant Fire Chief John Brenner. He said two persons were being questioned, but no one had been charged.

Witnesses said Steve Labov, 31, chairman of the city Rent Leveling Board; his wife, Debbie, 29; daughter, Jennifer, 5, and son Paul, 2, jumped from their two-story condominium home into the frigid bay waters. Police dove into the waters and commandeered a pleasure boat to rescue the family.

The Labov home, which hangs over the bay on stilts, was gutted.

Officials at Atlantic City Medical Center said the Labov family was treated for exposure and released. Also treated were four policemen and two firemen.

Carter's Budget Rules Confuse Bureaucrats

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's new budget rules have baffled some bureaucrats and produced both benefits and red tape, the White House said in a report today.

It said the administration cannot estimate the amount of money saved in the first year of using the new "zero-base budgeting" (ZBB) rules.

But it did say the president requested exclusive use of zero-base procedures in preparing the next federal budget. Last year, agencies submitted their spending requests both in new ZBB style and, like a set of training wheels, in the traditional format.

Under zero-base rules, officials are supposed to justify each spending item from scratch; hence the term "zero-base." Traditional methods allow projection of spending items from year to year without necessarily evaluating whether the spending is justified.

A report prepared by the Office of Management and Budget and released through the White House press office today claimed benefits from the new zero-base process including elimination of 25 jobs in the federal job-safety agency and an increase in the amount of personal attention to budget matters given by top-ranking officials.

Other claimed benefits included an end to duplicative testing of space shuttle engine parts by the space agency; increased reliance on state rather than federal training programs in the control of pesticides and an end to a Coast Guard boat-safety program that was found to have served its purpose of expanding state programs.

But the report said no specific dollar value could be placed on the savings from zero-base budgeting for a number of reasons. Budget savings, when they occur, "generally are due to a combination of factors," it said.

In all, the report judged the zero-base program to be "off to a good start" despite a number of problems, including agency officials who were unfamiliar with the new process.

"It was natural that agencies would encounter problems in converting to ZBB in the first year," the report said. "A number of agencies had trouble defining program objectives."

That means the agencies couldn't explain what it is they are supposed to be accomplishing, which the report said made it difficult to assess how much should be spent to do it.

The report also said "most agencies experienced difficulty in identification of minimum levels," the rock-bottom amount of money they could get along on.

"At times, the minimum levels focused on what would not be accomplished rather than on what could still be accomplished," it said, indicating that some agency officials simply warned of the consequences of cutting their budgets.

There also was a marked increase in the amount of paperwork produced by agency officials in their attempts to justify requests for money, the report said. All the 19 major agencies except the space agency showed increases in paperwork.

Agencies also experienced "problems in ranking." Under zero-base procedures officials are supposed to list their spending requests in order of importance, obviously making the last item on the list the most likely to be axed.

Officials Explain Higher Beef Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cattle industry leaders are trying to explain to consumers the reasons behind higher retail beef prices and why producers need years of improved markets to stay in business.

Richard A. McDougal, president of the National Cattlemen's Association, said losses from low prices over the past years have caused cattlemen to reduce their herds. The new higher prices are prompting ranchers to build their herds again, he said, but, "We have to continue to operate profitably for a number of years in order to pay off the debts that have been incurred over the past four or five years."

Burns Proposes Pay Cut

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — President Carter and members of Congress should take the lead in the battle against inflation by accepting a 10 per cent cut in pay, former Federal Reserve Board chairman Arthur Burns has proposed.

Burns, 73, said in a seminar Monday that such sacrifices would be just the beginning of a "long overdue" anti-inflation policy that should include a relaxation of environmental regulations, an easing of regulations on the trucking and rail industries and a massive reduction in the government's "cost-raising practices."

Burns said top corporate executives also should take a 10 per cent salary cut but he would draw the line at asking labor to do so.

"I'm a practical man and that is not a practical proposal," he explained.

Burns predicted the inflation rate would continue to rise in 1978 because of government sanction of a minimum wage increase, Social Security benefits, restrictions on imports, consumer affairs legislation, and the recent wage increase for coal miners.

While Carter "deserves commendation and support" for his anti-inflation measures, he has not gone far enough or fast enough, Burns said.

Burns, appointed to the Federal Reserve Board by former President Richard M. Nixon, predicted the depreciation of the U.S. dollar in international markets would continue in 1978 because there is no U.S. energy policy and thus no program to slow the enormous import of foreign oil.

"The depreciation is a serious threat to the international economy as well as the future of prosperity in our own country," he warned.

PLO Establishes Office In U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department says a new Palestine Liberation Organization office here is legal, but the U.S. government will have no contact with it.

Department spokesman Hodding Carter said Monday the PLO fulfilled all legal requirements, including registration with the Justice Department. Hatim Husseini, a Palestinian citizen of Jordan who heads the office, said in a telephone interview that its purpose is to provide information on Palestinian culture, heritage and political views to the American public.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

No Biz Like Small Biz

SMALL BUSINESSES, which is the category into which most of those on the South Plains fall, account for 55 percent of all private, non-farm employment in this country.

They account, too, for 43 percent of the Gross National Product and provide a livelihood, directly or indirectly, for more than 100 million Americans, according to the National Federation of Independent Business.

When we talk about the nation's future, then, the economic climate for small business becomes extremely important to our way of life and standard of living.

THE WEEK OF April 30 to May 6 has been designated by President Carter as National Small Business Week. It would be nice if he'd take advantage of the occasion to consider some of the problems facing small businesses and what he might do about them.

The main thing he could do would be to quit doing a lot of what he's doing already.

Take inflation, for example. Huge federal budgets and mounting deficits, together with bureaucratic regulations and red tape, are dramatically increasing the costs of doing business.

These costs must be passed on to customers in the form of higher prices, i.e. inflation.

With Carter's blessings, unions have raised wages faster than can be justified and Congress has increased the minimum wage to a level that small businesses can't afford to hire more fulltime employes.

DESPITE ALL of the extra burdens thrust upon them, however, small businessmen remain the backbone of the American dream.

Through their own ambition, ability and application of effort and financial resources, they dare to risk their all with no guarantee of a profit.

When they fail, few notice. When they succeed, they too often become the objects of envy by those who want a cut of their pie without working or risking anything for it.

EVERY BUSINESS in this country started small. So far, the American business climate has been preserved in a way that permits those which grow into giants and those which remain small to exist profitably side by side.

The danger is that, in trying to protect everyone from the right to fail, government will suffocate the system that has given the nation its strength and vitality.

The Avalanche-Journal salutes the small businessmen of Lubbock and the West Texas-Eastern New Mexico area. May they prosper forever. They've earned the right.

Still Trying To Get A Handle On The Blimp

John D. Lofton:

A Joint Exercise In Absurdity

WASHINGTON—I feel compelled to clue you in on the heroic attempt to prevent President Carter from setting aside a day to pay tribute to American education. Remember, you read it here first — and probably last.

On April 11, in between a vote to increase funding for the Navajo-Hopi Relocation Commission and a vote to establish the Lowell National Historical Park in Massachusetts, Rep. William Lehman, D-Fla., asked the House to suspend its rules and pass Joint Resolution 767 "to authorize and request the President to issue a proclamation designating April 18, 1978, as 'Education Day, U.S.A.'"

SINCE HIS resolution contained wording paying homage to the Lubavitch Movement and its leader, Rabbi Menachem Mendel Schneerson, whose birthday is April 18, Lehman acknowledged that his proposal "may be a little controversial." (Well, he was right.)

Rep. Pat Schroeder, D-Colo., pointed out that 767 did not fall under the adopted criteria of the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee, which prohibit resolutions concerning living persons.

In addition, resolutions, for some unstated reason, are to be considered only three times a year: in February, June and October. Schroeder fretted that the passage of 767 would "remove the thumb from the dam which has been holding back the flood of such resolutions to the floor in the past three years."

FURTHERMORE, she warned her colleagues that if the aforementioned standards were breached, "other events" which happened on April 18 might have to be considered.

Things like the death of Julius Caesar (the English lawyer) in 1636; the birth of Clarence Darrow (1857); the surrender of the Confederates at Durham Station, N.C. (1864); the introduction of the last of the original four-cylinder Ford Model-B's (1932); and the World Clam-Gulping Championship at Port Townsend, Wash. (1970).

Undaunted by the specter of the House being forced at some future date to honor these events, Rep. Ed Derwinski, R-Ill., fearlessly threw his support behind 767, declaring that "in this case an exception to the committee rule is warranted."

REP. JOHN ROUSSELOT, R-Calif., a staunch conservative, disagreed with Derwinski, saying simply that the resolution "is just plain unnecessary." He, too, worried about the precedent and, not to be outdone by Schroeder, put in the Congressional Record an even longer list of other "very noteworthy events" occurring on April 18.

Among them: the birth of Sam "Wahoo" Crawford, a member of the Baseball Hall of Fame; the birth of Rep. Henry Hyde, R-Ill., and the birth of Queen Mother Frederika of Greece (1917).

Also occurring on April 18, according to Rousselet, were: the first celebration of Palm Sunday in Egypt (387 A.D.); the wrecking of Salona, Guatemala, by an earthquake (1902); the wedding of Prince Rainier of Monaco to Grace Kelly (1956); and last and certainly least, the opening of the first laundromat in the United States, in Fort Worth, Tex. (1934).

ONE MAN'S OPINION Kenneth May One Court, One Vote

NOBODY CALLED Lubbock's name, but our ears were burning last week when the U.S. Supreme Court heard arguments on a challenge to the way Dallas elects its City Council members.

The court, Justice Potter Stewart observed, never has ruled on the constitutionality of at-large districts.

Until it does, he added, there may not be much point in debating the Dallas plan, which calls for eight councilmen to be elected by districts and three—including the mayor—to be chosen at-large.

A suit challenging Lubbock's pure at-large system is pending in federal district court here, awaiting a ruling in the Dallas case—expected in June—to see what effect, if any, the decision would have here.

If there's nothing at all unconstitutional about at-large elections in a city, Justice Stewart said, "that's the end of this (Dallas) case."

STEWART AND other justices recalled the Supreme Court's 1962 "one-man, one-vote" decision and said it applied to state legislatures but not to municipal councils.

"Those are two different animals," Stewart said.

Federal Judge Eldon Mahon, nephew of Rep. George Mahon, held in 1975 that the at-large system as practiced in Dallas since 1931 was unconstitutional.

Rather than fight that decision on its own merits, however, Dallas decided to compromise with minority groups which claimed at-large elections diluted their voting strength.

The result was the B-3 plan, which Mahon approved but which the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals threw out. The 5th Circuit ordered a 10-1 or 11-0 plan, permitting no councilmen but perhaps the mayor to be elected citywide.

That order was stayed, however, while Dallas appealed to the Supreme Court to let its B-3 plan stand.

NOBODY, THEN, has really been putting forth an effort in the Dallas case to present the side for the constitutionality of pure at-large elections in which every member of a City Council is voted on citywide.

If the Supreme Court is going to rule on that question, it should hear from somebody—like Lubbock—who can argue forcefully for at-large elections before making its decision.

There's no way, in my opinion, that an at-large system of electing public officials can be ruled unconstitutional. Not if you subscribe to the belief that race makes no difference and that all men, and women, are created equal.

If the voters of a city want to adopt a ward system, that's their business. I think it's an inferior system in a city of Lubbock's size but the point is that the people—not the courts—should decide how to govern themselves.

Before it monkeys around with that principle, I hope the Supreme Court at least will hear arguments from people who really believe in it, not just from the people in Dallas who were willing to compromise it.

According to one poll taken here after the U.S. Senate had approved the second Panama Canal treaty, 67.4 per cent opposed the giveaway, 19.4 percent favored it and 13.2 percent were undecided.

The Supreme Court ruled that women are discriminated against because they live longer than do men and, thus, have been required to pay more money into pension plans.

No, Virginia, its remedy was not to have women shot to lower their average life expectancies...

Lubbock classroom teachers want their mandatory retirement age raised immediately to age 70. Military servicemen want to continue their retirement plan that lets them have 30 or more years of pension before age 70.

Maybe we could just have the two groups swap combat zones?

Agriculture Commissioner candidate Joe Hubbenak called for the promotion of Christmas trees and grapes as farm crops in Texas. Presumably, the winner of the election will be in a mood for a Christmas celebration, the loser for sour grapes.

THE DEPARTMENT of Health, Education and Welfare, which started out with a $5.4 billion annual budget, is celebrating its 25th anniversary with a $181.3 billion budget.

Under HEW, we have health care costs going out the roof, we are graduating young people from high schools who can't read simple English and we have fourth-generation recipients on welfare.

Ain't it nice when The Gov't throws money at our problems and makes them disappear?

Holmes Alexander:

Bouquet For Death Merchants

WASHINGTON—You'd have to say that working for no-profit, no-loss is a proposition that few commercial manufacturers would undertake.

It will surprise many to know that this is currently being done by a large firm of weapons-makers to prevent the nuclear submarine program from falling behind. Nobody in the picture will admit to anything so soft as altruism or patriotism, but consider the case of General Dynamics Corp. vs U.S. Navy.

There is a sentiment at large in the country that companies which manufacture weapons of war—Communists invented, and leftists adopted the term, merchants-of-death—make no effort whatever except for large profits, and inflated profits at that.

THERE IS NO surer way for a member of Congress, or a "whistle-blower" within the Pentagon civilian force, to draw applause than to dwell upon the depravity and cupidity of arms-makers and their clutch on the taxpayer's purse.

But I take the point that, while scandals have taken place, they are not the normal outcome of a private firm first doing business with its government.

Getting down to particulars, there is this dispute between General Dynamics Corporation and the Department of Navy. It is a dispute carried on thus far in negotiation sessions, sometimes in Congressional hearings, but last month Secretary of the Navy Clayton told the Seapower Subcommittee of the House Armed Services Committee that the matter might come into open courts, before judges and jurors, with a final appeal in the Supreme Court.

THERE ARE REASONS why this might be bad, or might be good. It would be bad if it gave satisfaction to our enemies and their peace-mongering helpers who would like to discredit a partnership between agents of profit-seeking and agents of national defense.

But a day, or many days in open court, would be beneficial in public knowledge if well-conducted.

General Dynamics' Electric Boat Division is not the monopolistic producer of Navy underwater craft, and the Defense Department has taken care to engender competition. But this manufacture is a highly specialized technique, and the nuclear submarine program even more so.

Electric Boat has delivered 267 subs to the Navy, according to the latest annual report, and the financing is almost as delicate as the technique.

For that reason, an arrangement which in layman's language would be called "pay as you go" has become accepted practice.

For reasons that involved complex legislation and arithmetic, the Navy suspended its pay-as-you-go outlays early this year. On March 13, '78, the company advised the Navy that it would stop work on the submarines April 12, which would have been a disaster in the Carter Navy programs which is thin enough in any event.

But on March 21, General Dynamics agreed to extend the April stop-work deadline for another two months. For its part, the Navy Department agreed to "provisional payments" to prevent actual losses over that two month period.

It has seemed to be worthwhile to spell out this agreement which is just as hard-fought, but much less injurious to the country than Labor relations in the civilian field. Our defenders are better cared for than many Americans know, but the bargainers don't like to admit high motives.

Sylvia Porter:

Eddie Cantor Clause No Relation To Santa

WHEN EDDIE CANTOR was invited to the television spectacular celebrating his 65th birthday in January 1957, he never dreamed that he would be giving his name to a provision of the Social Security retirement test which determines how much you, a Social Security beneficiary, can earn and still collect some or all of your monthly benefit checks.

The general retirement rule is that you give up $1 of your benefits for every $2 of earnings above the annual "exempt amount."

The exempt amount this year is $4,000 for beneficiaries ages 65 to 72 (when the Retirement Test no longer applies) and $3,240 for beneficiaries who are under 65.

In 1977, the exempt amount was $3,000 for beneficiaries of all ages. In 1957, when Eddie Cantor turned 65, it was $1,200.

BUT "THE EDDIE Cantor clause" of the Retirement Test is a giant exception to the general rule.

For this provision says that no matter how much you earn in a year, you will get your benefit check for any month in which you have wages that amount to no more than 1/12th of the exempt amount and you do not perform substantial services in self-employment.

Eddie Cantor received $2,000 for his appearance on the network broadcast in 1957, well over the exempt amount of $1,200. But since he did not plan to do any other work in '57, he was eligible to collect his benefits for the remaining months of that year.

APPROACHED BY AN enterprising U.S. government public information specialist, Cantor agreed to help publicize the then all but unknown exception—and also to remind Americans that Social Security benefits are an earned right, not welfare. He turned over his benefits to a favorite charity, a boy's camp at Surprise Lake, N.Y.

But Congress did not design this exception to provide a bonanza for highly paid consultants, real estate salesmen, resort concession operators, technicians, and other specialists who upon reaching 65 can concentrate their work and earnings in one or two months and collect benefits for the balance of the year.

THE EXCEPTION WAS intended primarily for people who might retire in mid-year or later, after earning substantial amounts, and would otherwise be unable to collect any SS benefits until the following year, even though they were completely retired.

It also took note of the retiree who might be able to get an occasional job at good pay. Nevertheless over the years, an elite group of SS beneficiaries has been able to collect more benefits than contemporaries with the same or less earnings who were working year-round. No more!

Along with the drastic financing and other SS changes Congress enacted in '77, it slapped a limit on the use of the Eddie Cantor clause. From now on, you, an SS beneficiary, get the advantage of the exception only in your "initial year of retirement."

A problem emerged, though. As this column pointed out to you last January, because of the way the law is worded, there were two possible interpretations of "initial year of retirement."

UNDER THE STRICT interpretation, the use of the exception could be limited to those of you newly joining the benefit rolls.

Or it could be interpreted to permit those of you already SS beneficiaries to count '78 as your initial year of retirement and thus give you a year of grace to adjust.

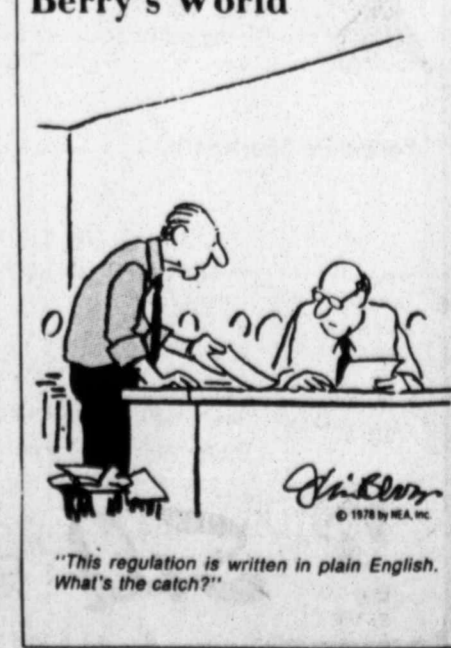

The strict interpretation has just been chosen by HEW Secretary Joe Califano, with the endorsement of the Office of Management and Budget.

This strict interpretation will save the Social Security Trust Funds $159 million in fiscal year '78, another $224 million in fiscal year '79.

BUT MORE THAN three months of '78 have passed—and an estimated 250,000-plus SS beneficiaries who have collected, or are expecting to collect, benefits may be stunned to find that they will not be entitled to benefit checks they've been counting on.

Although most of you will earn more than $10,000 in 1978, U.S. figures show, you well may feel that the U.S. government has broken faith with you or, at least, should have warned you.

If you think you may be among the 250,000 SS beneficiaries who have been or are likely to be overpaid because of Califano's decision, call your local SS office at once for advice on what to do before you sink deeper into the hole.

"This regulation is written in plain English. What's the catch?"

'World's Greatest Salesman' Preaches Technique

By PETER VANDEVANTER
BALTIMORE (UPI) — You might not want to buy a new car from a man who calls himself "Joe Creepo" and says he was a "punk" until he was down and out at the age of 35.

But so many people did that Joe Girard was described as the "greatest salesman in the world" in the Guinness Book of World Records.

Girard, 51, is no longer a salesman, but an author and speaker on the art of selling. A Detroit resident, he is a short, energetic man with cobalt eyes who uses his hands like a symphony conductor when he talks.

Girard is the author of "How to Sell Anything to Anybody."

He criticized other "how to sell" books because they teach egotism — look out for No. 1; and alienation — the power game.

"The secret to selling is giving — repeat business," he said. "If you misrepresent your sale, do you think the buyer is going to come back a second time?"

Girard became a successful businessman by selling a lifetime total of 13,000 cars and trucks, making as much as $200,000 annually from 1963 to 1977.

This January he gave up selling to "preach the gospel of salesmanship" to help other businessmen improve their lives.

"I want to guide people to sell better," he said. "I bet just about anyone who listens to my story can say 'life isn't as bad as it was for this guy,' and then take my advice on how to improve themselves."

Girard said he was "a punk in Detroit until I was 35. My father used to say I could talk my way out of anything. Joe Creepo, that was me. I was thrown out of school, about 40 different jobs and twice was arrested."

At 35 he lost all of his savings in a real estate deal and came home to his family without a job. He turned to selling cars. He said his forte now is the fact he started so late and had to teach himself everything about salesmanship — how to read customers, build a clientele, learn techniques to put people at ease, notice ways to make sure the transaction is moving along.

"I owe it to the world to give back all that took me so long to learn," he said. "I'll never make the kind of money I did again, but I feel at peace with myself because I will help others."

Girard said his selling techniques — stressing face-to-face strategy and hard work at repeat selling — can be applied toward any type of customer.

He said one of the first tactics in any sales approach is to obligate the prospective buyer by offering a cigarette, a ticket to a show or even, yes, the shirt off his back if the customer says he likes it.

But the best way to obligate the customer is to listen, he said — not talk, listen.

From there, the quality of the product and the attention the salesman pays to details concerning what the buyer wants spell the difference.

For the salesman a successful career begins when "you allow a need to develop — a goal in life. Then people begin to have faith in you."

"You have to wake up every morning and make a list of things to do and know what you're going to try that day to get closer to your goal," he said. "There's no being a dreamer in this life."

Girard, who Norman Vincent Peale has labeled the "No. 1 positive thinker," said goals are never achieved easily. "When people ask me how to accomplish something I say the elevator to success is out of order so take the stairs," he said. "People give up too easily and that's a fact — take it from me."

Controversy Surrounds Mansion

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI) — Beverly Hills is known for beautiful mansions and famous residents.

But perhaps none has caused as much controversy as Sheik Mohammed Al-Fassi, who has spent $4 million so far renovating his Sunset Boulevard mansion, including lifelike painted statues and plastic flowers.

Although the pea and olive green color of the house is something of a shock next to the posh, pink Beverly Hills Hotel, it is the nude statues, painted in natural colors — including hair everywhere, but everywhere, that hair should be — that gets the most reaction.

"Do you know what offends me the most?" asked Barbara Lockhart, an interior designer. "It's that they painted even the pubic hair on the statues. I wouldn't object to painting the head hair brown, but the pubic hair?"

A new $1 million copper roof will be a new addition.

On the weekends, motorists park along side streets to get better looks at the painted statuary and there have been several minor auto accidents among gawkers.

Even such celebrities as Paul Newman, Joanne Woodward and Gore Vidal are rumored to have come to see the mansion, themselves overlooked by the crowds.

The 23-year-old sheik is vice president of the Alfassi Trading Co., headed by his father, in Jedah, Saudi Arabia. He and his Italian-born wife, Sheika Dena Al-Fassi, 19, keep a minimum staff of 10 to maintain the 38-room main house, a 10-room guest house and the large grounds. There are also two bodyguards for the couple's two children, a 3-year-old boy and a 3-month-old daughter.

Inside is no less spectacular than outside, with furnishings ranging from a replica of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor's dining table and several wall murals to expensive art works and souvenir plates from Disneyland.

A mosque is being built near the pool and behind the tennis court and workers are installing a $100,000 sound system for the discotheque planned in the basement.

One room houses the sheik's model boat collection and strong colors — red, pink, blue, green, orange and purple — abound.

"When people from different cultures come to Los Angeles, they may have different tastes, different styles," said one Beverly Hills resident. "And their tastes may not fit in with the tastes of the community...."

And for the security-minded, 12 Great Dane dogs will patrol the grounds along with 12 family guards.

Although he knows English, Al-Fassi prefers to speak through an interpreter, Dr. Al Biall, who said, when asked about the flowers. "If the flowers are plastic, so are many of the neighbors ... very plastic people."

Not everyone is upset by the new decor, although most agree it is a bit much, including another Saudi prince.

"As a Saudi," he said, "I'm so embarrassed by it all. This man is behaving like a Texan."

Metrics Inevitable In Farm Industry

WASHINGTON (AP) — It may seem a bit confusing to farmers now, but Agriculture Department experts say that at some point in the future they will speak easily about hectares instead of acres and kilograms instead of bushels.

The prediction is in a recent issue of "Agricuture, the Third Century" which is published by the department's Economics, Statistics and Cooperative Service.

"With metrication, farmers will trade in meters, kilograms and liters rather than in feet, pound and gallons," the report said.

Congress in 1975 authorized a federal board to coordinate voluntary conversion of weights and measures to metric units.

"The law does not specify any deadline or proclaim a goal for an eventual national conversion, but it appears that metrication is inevitable," the report said.

"The United States is the only major industrial country that has not gone metric. Britain, Canada and Australia are among the last nations converting to the metric system."

Currently, grain and many other commodities normally are measured in bushels. A bushel is defined as 2,150.42 cubic inches in volume but its weight ranges from 60 pounds for wheat to 56 pounds for corn, 32 pounds for oats and "anywhere from 32 to 60 pounds for barley, depending on state laws," the report said.

Under the metric system, a kilogram is about 2.2 pounds, a hectare 2.47 acres, a metric ton 2,205 pounds or 1,000 kilograms, and a kilometer about six-tenths of a mile.

"There may be some confusion at first, but the new jargon will soon become familiar as we work with it," the report said. "It's just a question of adjustment."

The USDA has been using some metric units for some time in its crop production reports in supplemental tables accompanying traditional units showing yields in bushels an acre.

Also, since other countries use the metric system, exports of grain and other commodities are reported routinely in metric tons.

Free single copies of the issue of "Agricuture, the Third Century," which includes tables showing how to convert traditional units into metric units and lists of both measurements for various commodities are available from:

Fund Proposed For Research

AUSTIN (Special) — State Rep. Joe A. Hubenak, D-Rosenberg, has announced he will recommend to Gov. Briscoe that an emergency fund of $450,000 be appropriated over the next three years to expedite completion of a high efficiency dust cyclone research project at Texas A&M University.

Hubenak, chairman of the House Agriculture and Livestock Committee, is overseeing a special interim committee studying the grain storage elevator explosion problem.

"During our committee's hearings in Lubbock, Pasadena and Brownsville, we have studied several possibilities for relief to the grain elevator industry," Hubenak said. "One of the basic ways to alleviate explosions in grain storage elevators is increased research."

There have been 141 explosions in the past five years, and the cause of 81 was listed as unknown, he pointed out.

"It is unrealistic to expect an industry to prevent explosions and maintain the safety of employees when no one knows the specific cause for the majority of explosions," said Hubenak.

Hubenak noted that the grain industry already has donated thousands of dollars into research, and that the 80th annual convention of the Texas Grain and Feed Association passed a resolution endorsing the special interim committee's recommendation urging the Governor to release emergency funds.

Candidates For DA Outline Issues

MONTFORD

GRIFFIN

This is the fourth in a series of interviews with candidates whose names will appear on Lubbock County Ballots in Saturday's primary elections. Views of the two persons seeking the position of Criminal District Attorney are presented today. The names of the candidates, both of whom are Democrats, are presented in the order in which they will appear on the ballot.

John Montford, 34, has been an active trial attorney in Lubbock since 1971, and, as a private practitioner, has extensive experience in criminal cases. He was a military prosecutor and is a former U.S. Marine Corps company commander. Currently a major in the Marine reserves, Montford was named Outstanding Young Man of Lubbock for 1973.

Incumbent Alton Griffin, 51, has prosecuted criminal cases in Lubbock County for approximately 20 years, beginning as an assistant district attorney in 1956. He served as Lubbock district attorney from 1962-68 and became Criminal District Attorney when that office was implemented in 1973.

What are your chief qualifications? Your opponent's chief liabilities?

A. Extensive trial experience in the role of both prosecuting and defending attorney.

Extensive professional experience in the investigation, preparation and trial of jury cases in all courts.

Strong administrative and leadership abilities gained through active duty in U.S. Marine Corps and many years in private practice of law.

B. Inflexible, locked-in to set pattern of operation which has not effectively curtailed rising crime rate.

Substandard working relationship with other law enforcement agencies.

The responsibilities of this office call for the leadership of a person with multiple abilities. The operation and record of my office since its formation show my ability and qualifications to meet the varied responsibilities.

Since organizing the office January, 1973, the staff under my leadership has tried 481 felony jury cases in five district courts, 291 misdemeanor cases in two county courts-at-law, have obtained 2,200 felony convictions and approximately 10,000 misdemeanor convictions. During this same time the office collected and paid out to merchants $1,187,420 on hot check cases.

Few prosecutors can match my personal record in court over the years in the trial of cases. In the last four years in the trial of murder cases that I have personally tried, juries have returned three death penalties, four life sentences and one each of 50, 60 and 80 years.

This record shows my ability to organize the work of the office, to train lawyers to perform the work, to personally prosecute cases and to see that the duties of the office are fulfilled. These qualifications come from proper education, experience, and most of all—many hours of hard work.

What do you consider the top issue or issues in the campaign?

The intolerable rising crime rate in Lubbock County and how to effectively put an end to it must rank as the top issue. The issue of developing a team effort between the various law enforcement agencies in order to better fight our rising crime rate is also important.

The only issue ever in an office of this type is who is the most qualified person to head the office. I believe that my record as chief prosecutor of Lubbock County in the past years shows my abilities. There is no substitute for the experience which results from the years I have spent working for the people of this county in court trying cases, in the administration of a large office and in working with the other officials to make Lubbock County a better place in which to live.

Concerning prosecution, do you feel there are major philosophic differences between you and your opponent?

Yes, I believe there are major philosophic differences between myself and my opponent. 1. I feel that the District Attorney should personally be in court on a regular basis representing the law-abiding citizens of the county rather than trying only one or two "sensational" crimes a year. 2. It is essential for us to develop tough, aggressive policies in prosecutions. 3. We must implement frequent use of the multiple offender statutes. 4. We must ask for higher bonds and deny bonds to multiple offenders and persons out on bond who commit another felony; and, 5. It is important that through better administration we have speedier prosecution of cases in order to cut down on excessive lag time between commission of a crime and its resolution in the courts, and to insure certainty of punishment.

My belief in so far as prosecution is concerned is relatively simple. I believe that the laws which are passed by the legislators, elected by the people, should be obeyed. This belief does not lend itself to selective prosecution but requires a broad view of all laws and enforcement of all laws. Because of the high incidence of crime, and the number of cases, practical measures must be taken in order to handle the greatest number of cases possible. With the number of courts which we now have, all cases cannot be tried before juries, and therefore there must be a standard system for taking pleas of guilty and assessing punishment. By working with the judges of the various courts and by following the lead of jury verdicts, a workable system is followed, thus insuring that responsibility for crimes will be faced by those individuals committing the crimes.

Name the offense or offenses for which, as a general rule, you would not offer probation. Why?

1. Murder (first degree felony). 2. Aggravated robbery. 3. Rape. The reason I would not, as a general rule, offer probation for these offenses is because crimes such as these are running rampant in Lubbock County. The criminals that commit these crimes threaten our lives, property, the sanctity of our homes and the safety of our loved ones. To recommend probation in murder cases, as the present District Attorney has done, or for that matter recommending probation in any of these types of cases, is to cheapen the value of human life and undermine the respect for the law in Lubbock County.

It has always been my policy to refuse to agree to probation on the offense of armed or aggravated robbery. I do not believe that anyone who sets out to take property or money from another person by force or threat of death deserves to be in free society.

Each case of an assaultive nature, including murder, must be considered individually, taking into consideration the causes of the offense, the relation of the parties and all facts of the case. I believe that my record in the trial of this type case bears out my beliefs.

Sexual abuse cases, of any nature, would as a general rule be excluded from consideration for probation. In particular, I can think of NO situation that a person, whose victim was a child, would ever be offered a probation.

What should be the major role of the Lubbock Criminal District Attorney? Are you for or against an office administrator?

A. The District Attorney's major role should be that of being a leader, coordinator and representative of the citizens in the law enforcement efforts of Lubbock County.

B. Yes, an administrator would be desirable. In terms of overall savings to taxpayers it would be a significant addition to the staff. For example, 1,000 mass dismissals waste approximately $49,000 in court costs. The money lost by blanket dismissals by the District Attorney's office in the past few years is staggering and is a by-product of poor administration. I believe a good administrator could help us avoid such things, as well as free the lawyers on the staff for trial preparation and courtroom time.

There is no one major role for the Lubbock County Criminal District Attorney. He must try cases which involve major crimes, but he must recognize that he cannot try every case. He must be a teacher, with the ability to train young lawyers, not only the necessary elements and methods of the trial of cases but also to train them to properly evaluate situations to meet the requirement of the law that the duty of the office is to see that justice is done. There are times that this calls for compassion, for understanding and a desire to see problems between people settled in some manner other than in courtroom situations.

Lastly, the District Attorney must be an individual who is willing to accept responsibility, take action based upon the facts at hand and to accept all the responsibilities that go with the office.

There is no way to delegate the responsibilities of the office to an administrator. The people have a right to a District Attorney who accepts all the responsibilities of the office. I have done so in the past and will do so in the future.

DA Candidates Provide Repeat Offender Ideas

By FRANK PATRICK
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Incumbent Alton Griffin and challenger John Montford, competing for the Criminal District Attorney office in Saturday's Democratic primary election, have staked out clearly defined positions.

Griffin is campaigning on the record of his office and his own demonstrated abilities as a courtroom prosecutor.

Montford says the current crime rate points to the need for tougher prosecution and contends new measures can be taken to combat crime more effectively.

Since there is no Republican candidate, the winner of Saturday's election will be assured the office.

In addition to questions posed elsewhere on this page, the two candidates were asked what methods are best utilized in curbing repeat offenders.

"The best way to curb repeat offenders is to put them in the pen. This we did with 155 separate criminals in the year 1977 alone," Griffin answered.

"Insofar as what to do while awaiting trial, I have long advocated and worked for legislation to deny bond to repeat offenders. As the result of work done by myself and other prosecutors over the state, the last legislature has passed such a law and it is now being used by this office."

Governor Sure Of Victory

By The Associated Press

After shaking at least a thousand hands on the sidewalks of downtown Dallas, Gov. Dolph Briscoe says he "absolutely" will win Saturday's Democratic primary against Attorney General John Hill and former Gov. Preston Smith.

"I've never been more encouraged about carrying Dallas County," Briscoe told those who walked with him Monday.

Hill also was in Dallas Monday. He again displayed a new rubber stamp, with "VETO" in four-inch-tall letters to indicate what he would do with any bill to create a state income tax for Texas.

Hill accused Briscoe of stooping low in the governor's newspaper advertisements portraying a hangman's noose and saying Hill had promised voters so much it would take a state income tax to finance them.

Briscoe said he would announce figures today showing that Hill's promises would lead Texas to a state income tax, regardless of Hill's veto pledge.

Campaign finance statements filed Monday in the Secretary of State's office showed Briscoe is outspending Hill by 2-to-1 and is borrowing heavily to finance his campaign.

Briscoe has spent $2.4 million, including $300,000 for a media blitz the last few weeks of the campaign. Briscoe reported $873,500 in loans and $1.2 million in contributions.

Hill reported $1.4 million in contributions and $1.3 million in expenditures. Hill spent $184,778 for media expenses.

Dallas oilman Bill Clements has outspent his rival, former state GOP chairman Ray Hutchison, by a 10-to-1 ratio in the campaign for the Republican gubernatorial nomination. Clements has spent $1.7 million compared to $161,105 for Hutchison.

Clements has raised $304,885 in contributions compared to $138,616 for Hutchison.

Briscoe's major contributions were $1,000 from Mike G. Rutherford of Houston, $2,500 from the Texas Good Government Fund of Houston, $1,000 from the Political Action Committee of Enserch employees, $1,400 from Texas hospitals, $5,000 from Certified Accountants, $1,000 from Lone Star Steel employees, $5,000 from Texas Nursing Homes, $2,000 from Lawyers for Dolph Briscoe, and $1,000 from the wife of Texas cafeteria magnate Roy K. Furr of Lubbock.

Hill received $10,000 from Austin geologist Hiram Moore, $10,000 from Houston investor Morton Cohn, $15,000 from an Austin-based group known as The 200 Women, $5,000 from Victoria furniture store chain owner David Lack, $3,500 from Charles Whynot, $2,000 from former Austin mayor Roy Butler, $4,000 from Austin businessman Jack Rust Crosby, $5,000 from Houston businessman Kenneth Cunningham, $4,400 from Houston builders and $2,500 from the Texas Citizens Political Action Committee, representing bankers.

Permian Realtors Endorse Reese

Republican congressional candidate Jim Reese has received the support of the Midland and Odessa Boards of Realtors, along with a $1,500 contribution to the campaign from the realtors political action committee.

Hal Lambert, Texas Realtors Political Action Committee trustee from Region Four, and Don Harvey Region Four vice president of the Texas association of Realtors, issued the following joint statement:

"After studying all the candidates for Congress in the 19th District, we feel that Jim Reese is the best representative of good, sound conservative government. We also feel Jim Reese will defend the rights of private property ownership for everyone and will fight to preserve our free enterprise system in America."

The term philately, for the hobby of stamp collecting, was coined by M. Herpin, a Frenchman, in 1865.

Griffin said that last year 113 juries were selected in district courts for trials as compared with 42 in 1972, the year before he organized the CDA office. He also said he would work for more courts.

In response to the same question, Montford answered:

"1. Utilization of multiple offender statutes. 2. Recommending and fighting for higher bonds and denial of bond to multiple offenders and persons already out on bond who commit other felonies. 3. Develop a consistent reputation of toughness and aggressiveness in prosecutions. 4. Tougher sentencing tied to less reliance on plea bargaining."

Kenneth Owen Jayson, 31, convicted of murder last week, was denied bond under the new provision authorizing bail denial to persons on bond accused of committing a felony. Observers could cite few, if any, other instances of the provision being utilized since it went into effect in November.

The candidates were asked if anything could be done to reduce turnover in the DA's office and if they would seek raises in current salaries for top assistants.

Montford answered in part that he believes turnover can be reduced by providing positive leadership and by implementation of extensive, ongoing educational programs in the law.

"Although I am a fiscal conservative, I would in all probability seek raises in starting salaries," Montford also answered. "I believe this would help us secure and retain quality attorneys..."

Griffin noted that turnover has been a traditional problem in all prosecutor offices. "This is because many top young lawyers are willing to sacrifice income for the great professional experience that can be had as an assistant in an office such as this," he answered in part.

But, because such qualified young lawyers grow in the profession, Griffin said, they accept offers from law firms or become qualified to practice on their own.

"I would say that by the nature of some of the duties of the office, that an influx of new blood, so to speak, lends a vitality to the office that could be obtained in no other way," Griffin answered. He did not indicate whether he would or would not ask for salary increases.

Candidates were finally asked what realistic steps are most necessary to improve local law enforcement from the police beat to the courts level.

Griffin indicated Lubbock is a growing city with all the problems of a city. "We must continue to increase the effectiveness of the good officers that we have by giving them additional officers to work with, and giving them additional training and leadership as their departments grow," he answered in part.

Griffin also said Lubbock needs continued "good prosecution which the record of this office shows we have had" and additional courts to handle an increasing case load.

The incumbent said citizens who accept the responsibility of jury service and the fact that without their support officers, prosecutors and judges are "hamstrung" in attempts to enforce the law and maintain order are a necessity.

"Generally, development of an appreciation by all members of the law enforcement team for each other's responsibilities and problems," Montford answered in part.

As part of that objective, Montford said he wishes to institute a program to acquaint assistant DAs with the role, responsibilities and dangers "of the law enforcement officer in the day-to-day duties." He also suggested regular contact and discussions between officials of the various law enforcement agencies.

Montford also said he favors institution of a continuing education program sponsored by the DA's office designed to keep law enforcement agencies abreast of changes in the law.

"Eliminate duplication of efforts, more efficiently utilize the assistant district attorney's time," Montford also answered.

Mondale Visits Marcos

By WILLIAM C. MANN MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Vice President Walter F. Mondale arrived in Manila today to begin a five-nation tour...

"Where there are values and traditions that both our peoples cherish — freedom, individual liberty, human justice, democracy and national independence — I hope my visit can contribute to their greater fulfillment," Mondale told President Ferdinand E. Marcos on his arrival from Honolulu.

Marcos in his welcoming remarks referred to irritations between their governments, including lack of progress in negotiating new military and economic treaties and U.S. criticism of human rights violations...

"But they are issues that will be resolved in friendly dialogue on the negotiating table, in mutual understanding and mutual respect..."

The Philippine president said the disagreements "arise from the adjustments each of our countries has had to make in this time of ferment and change throughout the world."

The chief issue which will be resolved in friendly dialogue on the negotiating table, in mutual understanding and mutual respect...

Mondale in his arrival remarks expressed U.S. support for the Association of Southeast Asian Nations. He said the U.S. government looks forward "to intensifying our consultations with ASEAN at all levels of mutual interest."

Marcos recently accused the State Department's human rights specialist, Patricia Derian, of "trying to tell us how to run our government" and charged that opposition leader Benigno S. Aquino Jr. worked for the CIA.

Winds, Rain Cancel Event

Heavy rain and strong winds railroaded across West Texas causing the cancellation of this morning's ribbon-cutting ceremonies for Santa Fe Railway's new piggy-back facility in Lubbock.

Railway officials held a luncheon at Hilton Inn later to discuss the half-million dollar facility east of Avenue A on Compress Avenue.

The operation will allow for the loading (or unloading) of 135 trailers and containers onto as many as 24 flatcars at the same time. Storage is available for an additional 22 cars at the eight-acre installation.

Santa Fe previously could handle only five cars at a time, according to Bill Cooknell, the railway's district sales manager in Lubbock.

There are seven adjacent areas available for future expansion of the new facility.

Mating Dance Helps Crane In Egg Laying

BARABOO, Wis. (AP) — Tex has laid an egg. And that, in a way, is a tribute to the fancy dancing of Dr. George Archibald, an ornithologist. Tex is an 11-year-old whooping crane who was raised in the living room of Fred Stark of the San Antonio Zoo. She did not meet another crane until after her second birthday. By then she was fonder of humans than birds. Enter Archibald. The dancing he does is a mating dance, weird and awkward steps which he says help bring out the maternal urges of the whooping crane, an endangered species. The International Crane Foundation here, which cares for and studies dozens of rare birds in an effort to prevent their extinction, received recent notoriety for Archibald's mating dance with Tex. Tex was impregnated by artificial insemination. Sperm was obtained from Tony and Angus, two male whooping cranes on loan from the Audubon Zoo in New Orleans. "Archibald was with the crane during her egg laying ordeal," foundation spokesman Norris Klesman said. Tex has laid eggs before, but all were infertile. Archibald said he believes the latest egg is fertile, but he won't be sure until he performs tests in a couple of weeks. If the results are positive, the chick will hatch around Memorial Day weekend, he said.

Tests Support Marijuana Warnings

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (AP) — Warnings that marijuana is dangerous have drawn support from recent scientific tests, says the head of a local hospital's psychiatric department. Dr. Conrad Schwarz of St. Paul's Hospital told the annual meeting of the Alcohol-Drug Education Service that mounting scientific evidence backs up long-standing medical warnings against use of the drug.

"Marijuana is quite clearly a drug that develops tolerance," he told the group, a voluntary organization combatting alcohol and drug abuse.

However, Schwarz said that if dosage problems can be solved, marijuana may aid in immunization to cancer and in eliminating rejection of transplanted organs.

BILLY GRAHAM IN Hungary

This special one hour program documents Billy Graham's recent visit to Hungary to conduct a series of evangelical meetings. He preached the Gospel to 30,000 persons in Hungary and his words reached countless millions around the world through the news media. The largest crowd, of 15,000, gathered at the Tahi Baptist Youth Camp, about twenty miles from Budapest. Mr. Graham told reporters that he was "overwhelmed" by the response. "I'll never forget Hungary," he said.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Brace yourself for a little turbulence around the house tomorrow, because unexpected disruptions can bet everyone on edge. Don't add to the disturbance.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Things you do in haste or out of anger tomorrow will be ill-fated. Keep a cool head. Pace yourself, or you'll wind up doing them over.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Financial risks you wouldn't normally consider are likely to tempt you tomorrow. Better study carefully any bargains offered you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your restlessness tomorrow could cause you to be brusque or abrasive with your family. Provoking their ire will only make you feel worse.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Usually you're quite good at keeping secrets. Tomorrow, in a fit of talkativeness, you're apt to blurt out much more than you should.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Trying to keep up with extravagant friends could cause you to really blow won't even have a good time doing it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you don't get your way tomorrow you could throw a temper tantrum that would be damaging for your image. Practice self-control.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Angry words that should have been left unspoken could be voiced if you debate any sensitive subjects tomorrow. Nothing will be gained.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be leery of dealing with strangers tomorrow or you could find yourself in a complicated situation that will be difficult to unravel.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Much to your embarrassment you could break your word on the spur of the moment tomorrow regarding something quite important to another.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If working with tools tomorrow, be exceptionally cautious and follow all instructions. Serious problems could result from carelessness.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You tend to be a mite flirtatious now, and you may form an attachment suddenly that will end as abruptly as it began.

May 2, 1978

A sudden, dramatic change in your social lifestyle could occur this coming year. Be prepared to meet some unusual people, who will be quite different types from those you've known in the past.

Judge Saves Nesting Grounds

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Superior Court Judge William P. Hogoboom wants time for one good tern.

The California least tern, listed as an endangered species by both the state and federal governments, won a brief reprieve in a continuing confrontation with the Los Angeles Harbor Department.

Acting late Friday, Hogoboom persuaded Harbor Department officials to halt a pavement-scraping operation that was destroying the terns' prospective nesting grounds.

The area in question is an abandoned airstrip on Terminal Island used by the least tern as a breeding ground during the past five years.

But the Harbor Department two weeks ago erected a fence through the site, then parked 3,800 cars on it and finally, on Fridays, began scraping the area down to bare asphalt.

Hogoboom made the request after Sierra Club attorneys argued the operation should be stopped until the matter could be heard in court this week.

Part Of LBJ Ranch For Sale

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A part of what formerly was the historic LBJ Ranch is for sale. "This is the one where he's supposed to have taken Walter Cronkite and all the celebrities hunting in his Lincoln," said Austin real estate man Gene Naumann, who's selling the 1,700-acre. An advertisement in the Wall Street Journal said the property owned by the late President Lyndon B. Johnson is filled with wild fowl, fish, deer and exotic game animals. The ranch land up for sale is not the part where Lady Bird Johnson lives in the famous sprawling white ranch house. That part of the ranch has been given to the LBJ Park, according to Naumann.

The Almanac TODAY IN HISTORY

By United Press International
Today is Tuesday, May 2, the 122nd day of 1978 with 243 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase. The morning star is Mercury. The evening stars are Jupiter, Mars, Venus and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Taurus. Singer-actor Bing Crosby was born May 2, 1904.

On this day in history:
In 1863, Gen. Thomas Jonathan "Stonewall" Jackson was mistakenly shot by his own Confederate soldiers. He died eight days later.

In 1941, the Federal Communications Commission approved the regular scheduling of commercial television broadcasts.

In 1972, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover died at the age of 77.

In 1973, Democrat John Connally, former governor of Texas and treasury secretary in the first Nixon administration, joined the Republican party.

A thought for the day:
Irish poet Oscar Wilde said, "We are all in the gutter, but some of us are looking at the stars."

Rally Seeks To Renew Awareness Of Kent State

By JOHN SPETZ
KENT, Ohio (UPI) — The remnants of the movement that helped force an end to the Vietnam War will gather at Kent State University May 4 for what could be a last hurrah on behalf of "justice" for the Kent State shootings victims.

The call went out early this spring for activists of the '60s and '70s to rally at Kent to renew public awareness of the deaths of four students and the wounding of nine others on May 4, 1970.

Most Kent students have only a vague idea of what occurred eight years ago when Ohio National Guardsmen fired on demonstrators protesting the U.S. attack in Cambodia. Freshmen were only in the fourth grade when the barrage of M-1 rifle fire took the lives of Allison Krause, Jeffrey Miller, Sandra Scheuer and William Schroeder.

Rose Ann "Chic" Canfora, her brother Alan, who was one of the nine wounded, and Gregory Rambo, a witness to the shootings, have returned to Kent State to spearhead the "Stop the Kent State Injustice" drive.

"For eight years we have not stopped and we will not stop bringing the truth to the people until the United States government, (Gov. James A.) Rhodes and this university acknowledge that murder happened here," said Miss Canfora, now a Cleveland public school teacher.

A $46 million federal civil suit against Rhodes and 27 present and former National Guardsmen will be retried in Cleveland. A federal appeals court overturned the first verdict, which exonerated the defendants, ruling the trial judge committed several serious errors in handling the case.

With the trial coming soon, the focus of this year's May 4th rally will shift from the controversial construction of a gymnasium near the site of the shootings to the legal arena. Last year, more than 400 arrests were made among those who demonstrated at the gym site.

"We expect the biggest turnout ever this May 4th," Miss Canfora said. "It's not that the gym is not important, but we have to be realistic about it. Right now it would almost be a waste of energy to concentrate on it with this trial coming up. The overriding issue is justice for those murders." Rambo accused the university of pressuring students through letters to their parents to stay away from Coalition functions. "They'd prefer people to step back on the assembly line and shoot right on through this university without questioning what has been going on."

The Coalition began distributing its own newspaper to students April 10, urging students to attend the May 4 Task Force Program on May 4.

Among those scheduled to speak at the Task Force program were Daniel Ellsberg of Pentagon Papers fame, activist attorney William Kunstler, American Indian Movement leader Vernon Bellecourt and former Students for a Democratic Society President Clark Kissinger.

In the battle for the minds of the student body, KSU President Brage Golding said he found most of the Task Force plans irrelevant or inappropriate.

He also sent a cautionary letter to news media executives asking that on May 4 they consider presenting "a more balanced perspective on the events (or non-events as the case may be) and not give them any more prominence than your usual reports of the events at other universities in your vicinity." Golding said past widespread coverage "has caused a number of parents of prospective students...to decide against attending Kent State University because of the fear that it was in constant turmoil, that there might be danger of injury on the campus, or that students would become 'radicalized' by attending the university."

The students themselves are to be more interested in classes and dances than political involvement. One Kent department head complained about lack of involvement on every level.

"It's not just apathy about May 4," Dr. Robert Alfonso, dean of the college of education, said. "It's a general apathy about everything. You can't even get them to go out to a football game."

State Bar Challenges Do-It-Yourself Divorces

By ROB WOOD

HOUSTON (AP) — Divorce, once a social stigma and a word only whispered in polite society, has become a way of life during recent years and profitable for both attorneys and do-it-yourself organizations.

As more and more states approve uncontested divorce laws, attorneys and those firms offering cheap, non-legal advice have become financial and legal enemies.

The Divorce Services of Texas, a segment of an organization that also has extensive operations in California, Colorado, and Florida, is being challenged by the State Bar of Texas. The Bar has been granted a temporary injunction in state district court stopping the offer of a do-it-yourself divorce for $95.

Van Royce Vibber, president of the organization, said the State Bar is a "monopoly and they are acting like one. The public knows the primary function of the Bar is to protect the astronomically high income of lawyers. The Bar Association is nothing more than a high-priced, feather-bedding union."

John Graml, who represented the Bar Association in the case, told The Associated Press, "the divorce services, which advertise in the news media, are not hurting the lawyers of Texas. It is simply a fact that the public is being had. This service answers to nobody. It is like buying a car for $50 and the damn thing doesn't run. It isn't worth anything."

Graml said some of the work on the divorce cases "are so sloppy that the judges are getting irritated. There are divorces prepared by this service being rejected. There are people who don't know whether they are really divorced or not."

James Greenwood, a prominent Houston attorney, told The AP, "The service is giving legal advice without a license. I'm not against them, but it is like writing your own will or preparing your own income tax."

"You can make a mistake without an expert there to help you and you can be in trouble," he said.

Vibber answered, "Look at it this way. We are not going to charge someone $300 to $350 just to hold their hands. We don't offer legal help, but in an uncontested divorce, our work is guaranteed. We don't deny people have the right to an attorney, but we don't think the Bar Association should deny the public their right to low-cost divorces."

Vibber said the State Bar of Texas was attempting to put him in jail for his divorce service activities and, "I find it incredible that I could be put in jail for offering low-cost divorces, while the white-collar corporate crime is bilking the people of Texas out of hundreds of millions of dollars every year."

"The justice system is royally screwed up, and the State Bar is one of the many contributing factors," he said.

Robert E. Gardner, a young Houston attorney who is still building his practice, said, "The divorce services are a danger to those people who think they are getting something for a cut-rate price. They are not getting the legal service they need. They are not being told about the division of property. All they are getting is a typing service."

"And when those divorce services say attorneys charge $350 for an uncontested divorce, they are not telling the truth. We know what our time is worth, but also consider what a person can pay."

Vibber, in the telephone interview from his office in Santa Monica, Calif., said, "The Bar's main concern is that we are cutting into their fat incomes. They are scared because they don't want to compete with our low prices."

Another Houston attorney who handles many divorce cases — Robert Piro — told The AP, "a majority of the people think all they need are the forms, but no legal assistance. These divorce mills have no skills. No good lawyer will overcharge."

"In fact, I try to talk a lot of people out of using me. I send them to the younger attorneys when there appears to be no major problem, such as child custody or a large estate to be divided."

Vibber answered, "We will fight the State Bar. A person has the constitutional right to represent himself in court. We are not anti-attorney. But the Bar Association is not interested in protecting the public. The associations are interested in protecting their pocketbooks."

Injunction Sought Against Egg Farm

By JEFF SOUTH
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The regional director of the Texas Department of Health says his staff this afternoon will ask Lubbock County to seek an injunction against Cal-Maine Foods, whose egg farm allegedly is the source of menacing flies in the Shallowater area.

Dr. John Board said today his office has completed the fly counts and related investigations he believes are necessary to allow Criminal District Attorney Alton Griffin to "determine this (farm) is a public nuisance."

With that determination, Griffin then can file for an injunction to force Cal-Maine to control the insects' breeding, Board said.

An estimated 60 residents of Shallowater and the surrounding area met Monday night with their lawyer, Warren Goss, and with Griffin to discuss legal action against the egg production operation, located in northwest Lubbock County.

The citizens said they have been plagued with flies for the past seven years and that they are fed up with the bureaucracy of getting state and county officials to act in the matter.

Many residents said they want the egg farm shut down altogether. And they indicated they may file a civil suit to attempt just that if county and state officials don't act first and forcefully.

"This is something of concern for all of us — not only because it's an inconvenience, but because it's a health hazard," Billy Hayslip, who moderated the town-hall meeting, said.

"If we're going to get it done, we're going to have to do it ourselves. I don't trust them (Cal-Maine) to try to control the problem. I think we're going to have to close them down to solve it once and for all," said Rhonda Harden, a rural resident who lives near the egg farm.

Jean Holt, owner of a Shallowater restaurant, said the swarms of flies "are about to put me out of business. There's no way I can control them. It's so bad that when the wind is blowing my way, I'm going to have to close the restaurant. I have a right to make a living, too."

The residents contend that poor sanitation and inadequate fly-control measures at the egg farm, which includes several thousand chickens and 12 laying houses, have fostered the insects.

They claim the flies originating at the farm spread into the countryside and even Shallowater proper, bothering children and pets and forcing residents to stay indoors.

"Even in our own homes, we're not safe. The flies get into everything," Mrs. Harden said.

Residents say they've put up with the problem for seven years. There have been periodic efforts to get relief — petitions were circulated and complaints filed with state and county officials — but little has been done, they said.

Last year, after an investigation by the state health department, threats of an injunction by Griffin and a series of Avalanche-Journal stories, residents said Cal-Maine instituted a fly-control program that alleviated the problem for about three weeks.

"But now they're back, and they're worse than ever," Mildred Cook, another rural resident, said.

Griffin told the group he will again threaten an injunction against the company and give the firm 10 days to clean up the farm.

"This year, it (the threat) will work, too. They (Cal-Maine) don't want a lawsuit," Griffin said.

But he said he needs the cooperation of the citizens — and especially the state health department — to monitor the problem.

Monday night, Shallowater citizens formed a committee to keep tabs on the fly problem and follow up on action expected to be taken by state and county authorities. If nothing is done, the committee will recommend whether to file a suit.

Goss said citizens should give the state and county 10 days to act. He said residents then could file a civil suit in U.S. District Court against Cal-Maine, the county and the state health department.

"If these individuals choose not to carry out their responsibilities, then it's up to us as individuals to seek some relief in the civil courts," Goss said.

Goss said Cal-Maine could be fined up to $200 for each day it allows the fly problem to continue.

"The citizens out there are mad. I don't blame them."

But he said there have been problems in initiating legal action against the egg farm.

By state law, Board said, such action is supposed to go through the county health officer. Lubbock County lists as its health officer Dr. James Morris — but in practice, Morris serves only as physician for the county jail.

Board said his staff took to Morris the data the department had collected but that Morris indicated he was unable to act on the complaints.

The state health department then decided to go directly to Griffin — an option the department has under a new state regulation, Board said.

Ex-Editor Honored At SPC

By ESTHER LONGORIA
Avalanche-Journal Staff

LEVELLAND — Former Avalanche-Journal editor Chas. A. Guy was honored Monday by South Plains College officials during the institution's first annual Media Day.

Dr. Marvin Baker, president of the college, presented a plaque to Guy in recognition of 20 years of service to the Levelled facility. The presentation was made during a luncheon attended by area media representatives.

"I have followed the career of South Plains College and have been delighted with its progress and growth," Guy said in accepting the plaque.

"I think the school's upcoming branch in Lubbock will prove more important to that city than to the college itself," he added.

Guy, 76, was editor of The Avalanche-Journal from 1931 until his retirement in 1972.

The late R.B. "Mac" McAlister, long-time Lubbock state representative and area broadcaster, and Helen Roberts, speech and drama instructor at SPC, also were recognized at the luncheon.

McAlister's son, Bill, president of KMCC, presented Dr. Baker with a painting of his father for the school. "My father had a strong fondness for South Plains College, and it was always very important to him to maintain a connection with the college," McAlister said.

In accepting the gift, Dr. Baker said that the painting would hang in an honored place at South Plains College-Lubbock.

Dean Nathan Tubb recognized Mrs. Roberts for her selection as a Piper Professor for 1978. Mrs. Roberts, one of 10 instructors honored by San Antonio's Piper Foundation, will receive a $1,500 check along with the award.

Mrs. Roberts has been a member of the SPC faculty for 10 years and is author of the college's highly successful country music road show, "Texas, Cradle of Giants," now in its second season. She was nominated for the honor by the SPC Faculty Forum.

Media Day was held in conjunction with the school's planned year-long 20th anniversary, which begins May 13.

In 1881, ring-necked pheasants were first successfully introduced in America when birds from eastern China were set free in Oregon.

Deaf Youth Facility Eyed In Levelland

Hearing-impaired children on the fringe of the 20-county South Plains area may no longer have to travel all the way to Lubbock to receive services offered by the Lubbock-based Regional Education Program for the Deaf.

Last year the program established a branch in Plainview. Last month it was Lamesa. And project coordinator Larry Marshall hopes to staff a deaf education class in yet another city, Levelland, next year.

"The idea of these satellites is to serve kids as close to home as possible. It's a great hardship to have students come 50 or 60 miles to Lubbock each day to participate in the program," Marshall said.

Indeed, he said, many deaf children from outlying areas simply cannot make such a trip — even though they "truly need the help we can give them."

That was evident two weeks ago when the regional deaf education program initiated its branch in Lamesa, Marshall said. In assessing the needs of that community, he said, the staff and school authorities identified 25 youngsters who have hearing impairments and could benefit from the program.

"Only one out of those 25 children has been making it to Lubbock. Because of the distances involved, the other kids have not been getting the highly specialized services we can provide," Marshall said.

With the cooperation of Lamesa school officials, Marshall said his program now has established in Lamesa a class staffed by a deaf education teacher and an aide.

The class, he said, is open to elementary and secondary students. Marshall said the Lamesa satellite initially will serve six to eight children — "the most severely handicapped first" — and provide "consultative help" for the instruction of other hearing-impaired youngsters.

The class at Plainview also is staffed by a teacher and an aide, Marshall said. It now serves eight children, including one from Lockney. Next year the Plainview branch, which was established during the 1976-77 term, may have pupils from Floy.

Police Seek Clues In Woman's Death

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Police were seeking clues today in the death of a young woman whose nude body was found floating in the San Antonio River.

A maintenance worker for the San Antonio River Authority found the woman's body Monday morning.

Officers said the woman, who appeared to be in her early 20s, possibly was strangled and thrown into the water over the weekend.

The body was found wedged in some rocks where it had been carried by the current.

Identification was not released.

dada and Hale Center as well, Marshall said.

The proposed satellite for Levelland is included in the regional program's budget for the 1978-79 school year. That budget still must be approved by the Texas Education Agency, Marshall said.

Also in next year's budget are plans for serving children below the age of three, he said. "Currently we are limited to serving persons three to 21. The state is allowing us to add children from birth through age three next year," Marshall said.

All told, the regional program is serving 92 children this year. Marshall says 105-110 are projected for next year.

Most of the services are provided in the Lubbock Independent School District, which is the fiscal agent for the program. Marshall said the program has full-time "self-contained" classes for deaf students at Lubbock High, O.L. Slaton Junior High, Maedgen and Brown elementaries, Guadalupe Elementary (for preschoolers) and the Ballenger School, for deaf children with other handicaps.

Also, several schools have deaf education services offered on a part-time or "resource" basis. These are Monterey and Estacado high schools; Evans, Atkins and Struggs junior highs; and Iles, Wolfarth, Bean, Harwell and Bozeman elementaries.

Last week the regional program co-hosted a statewide workshop on the "hearing impaired, developmentally disabled" in the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center. The workshop focused on such topics as early identification of deaf children, parenting and vocational opportunities.

Dr. E.C. Leslie, assistant superintendent for administration of the Lubbock Independent School District, said at the workshop that the regional deaf education program is an "integral part of our curriculum offering."

Homemade Dolls Aid In Training

ALBION, Mich. (AP) — Betty Beese has 12 "babies" — with more on the way — and everyone is a lifesaver.

Although her babies are empty-headed and helpless themselves, they help save lives because they are homemade mannequins she constructed for use in teaching CPR — cardiopulmonary resuscitation — the lifesaving technique being taught to thousands of people across the country.

CPR is a combination of artificial respiration and artificial circulation used as an emergency procedure when the heart stops beating. Only trained individuals can apply CPR.

"When you teach CPR," says Miss Beese, "it's practice the students need most. If there are 24 students and one mannequin, they don't get much practice. Commercial mannequins can cost as much as $1,000, depending on how elaborate they are. So I dreamed up my own. They cost about $5."

To apply CPR, one person forces air into the victim's lungs by mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, while a second person uses his hands to put rhythmic pressure on the heart to circulate the blood throughout the body. These combined actions are crucial, since the brain needs more oxygen than any other human tissue, and will suffer irreversible damage if it is without oxygen for as little as four minutes.

Miss Beese, 53, was certified as a CPR instructor-trainer by the Michigan Heart Association seven years ago, and two years ago received the same Red Cross certification. She has taught CPR to more than 500 people from all walks of life in Michigan, where she is a professor of physical education at Albion College.

She has offered the Red Cross plans for constructing her mannequins. To make her "babies" — so named by the local hospital staff — she started with a plastic bleach bottle with an oval cut out for the mouth and a rubber baby bottle nipple with the tip cut off for the nose.

Other whimsical facial features are drawn on with a marking pen. A rubber tube, known as a Penrose drain, serves as the windpipe, which is attached to the open end of the bleach bottle. The neck is baseboards hinged together.

The other end of the tube is attached to a plastic bag which simulates the lungs. The bag is tucked into the fore-shortened, T-shirt-clad body and inflates realistically when artificial respiration is applied. A unique feature is an inflatable red rubber ball, commonly used on a school playground. The ball is packed firmly into the area of the chest where pressure is applied to the heart in CPR.

"I spent a lot of years thinking about what to use," Miss Beese says. "That ball has just the right resistance."

A recent addition to her family of mannequins is a large doll resurrected from her childhood days, which she uses for teaching infant CPR.

Today the doll sports a plastic bag for lungs and a plastic lid breastbone inside its blue overalls. Miss Beese is adapting several new dolls for use in practice on infants.

"The big difference in using CPR on infants is the rate and amount of pressure you put on the heart. Babies breathe more rapidly than adults, and you have to adjust for that," she says.

In the past, CPR was used only by physicians, nurses and other health personnel. Today the Red Cross recommends that as many members of the general public as possible be trained in the technique.

Miss Beese is one of a small number of persons qualified to train instructors in CPR. Last year she conducted a course for personnel at the Albion Community Hospital, where the students included the hospital vice president and the nurse anesthetist.

A recent enthusiastic student is the wife of an Albion College professor who suffered a cardiac arrest in the college gymnasium. Using CPR, Miss Beese and another physical education instructor, Carolyn Costa, successfully sustained his breathing and circulation until the hospital emergency room team took over.

The location of their offices in the building where the man collapsed — only a minute or two away — was probably the factor that saved his life and prevented brain damage.

"If the right people are there, you have a chance," said Miss Beese. "We hope to get enough people around trained in CPR so that people's chances are better, wherever they happen to be."

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: If my feelings are childish and unjustified, please let me have it. I am dreading Mother's Day for the following reason: My only child (a daughter, now married) has always been very close to an aunt who has never married. I think it's lovely of my daughter to remember this aunt with a gift at Christmastime, but when she gives her a gift on Mother's Day with a card which says, "You've been like a mother to me," I resent it.

I once told my daughter that I was hurt to have to share that special day with someone else, and she said, "So what? I only gave her a box of candy!"

Abby, it doesn't matter what the gift was, I am her mother and her aunt is not. What do you think?

HURTING

Dear Hurting: Although your feelings of resentment are understandable, try to empathize with one who will never know the joys of motherhood; don't begrudge her one small thrill once a year.

DEAR ABBY: First I read the letter signed, 36 AND STILL A VIRGIN, and then the one from 60 AND STILL A VIRGIN, which moves me to suggest this epitaph for both: "Here lies the bones of Betty Jones. For her life held no terrors. A virgin born. A virgin died. No hits, no runs, no errors." CARL IN MURRYSVILLE, PA.

DEAR ABBY: We were three girls brought up in a strictly Jewish home, so we never had ham, bacon or pork in our house. Now that we are all grown up and married none of us observes the dietary customs, but our parents still do.

My oldest sister has a beautiful home, and when she has mama and papa over, she serves them a dairy dinner, but she always puts a big pork roast on the table for everyone else.

I once told my sister I thought she was out of line to put pork on the table with the folks here, and she said, "We have pork in this house, and they know it, so why be a hypocrite? Besides, in MY home I'll serve whatever I like."

I still think my sister is wrong. Or am I? BEA IN THE BRONX

Dear Bea: Your sister is not only wrong, she's childish, disrespectful and mean. She's trying to show contempt for the old traditions and at the same time let mama and papa know that she's her own boss now and can do as she pleases. (It's true that she can, but she doesn't have to hit them over the head with a pork roast to make her point).

Who said the teen years are the happiest? For Abby's new booklet "What Teenagers Want to Know," write Abby: 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Enclose $1 and a long, stamped (24 cents), self-addressed envelope, please. (C) 1978 by Chicago Tribune — N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

1 lb. young tender carrots, without tops
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup orange juice
1 tbs. margarine
1/2 tsp. pure vanilla
1/4 tsp. ground nutmeg
1 1/2 tps. grated, fresh orange rind

Wash carrots and pare them with a vegetable peeler; remove ends. Cut carrots crosswise into 1/4-inch rounds. In a saucepan put water, orange juice and margarine; add carrots. Cover tightly and simmer over low heat 25 minutes or until carrots are crisp-tender. Check to make sure that carrots don't burn because most of the liquid will be absorbed; add a few tablespoons of water if necessary. Sprinkle carrots with vanilla, nutmeg and orange rind; mix well. # Turner Pledges Auto Tax Fight

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Democratic state senate candidate Morris Turner said Monday, if elected, he would attempt to remove the property tax on automobiles, get permanent state funding for a portion of the operating expenses at Health Sciences Center Hospital and support legislation to prevent "frivolous" lawsuits against Texas cities.

The former Lubbock mayor and city councilman, made the comments in a conversation with Avalanche-Journal editors.

Turner said he tried to abolish the automobile property tax when on the city council, but discovered the body did not have jurisdiction over the tax.

The $7.5 million in delinquent automobile taxes on the books of the city and the school district indicates it is an "unfair tax," Turner said.

"Obviously people resent the tax and feel it is unfair because some pay it and some don't.

"Obviously the people of the city of Lubbock are very unhappy with the law," he said.

The construction firm owner said 25-40 percent of the Health Sciences Center Hospital expenses are "there because of the medical school."

Medical school graduates become doctors all over the state, therefore all parts of the state should help pay for the school, Turner said.

Turner also said he favors having the medical teaching hospital perform autopsies for Lubbock law enforcement officials.

Turner said legislation is needed "desperately to put a stop to frivolous lawsuits that blackmail cities at the whim of some eccentric citizen."

He suggested anyone filing such a suit be required to post a bond so the person would have some liability if the suit was groundless.

But Turner said his number one priority is finding a "sensible approach to public school education."

He said the legislature should consider a school finance bill early in the session, rather than in the last days which is normally the case.

Turner said he does not favor equalizing the funding of rich and poor school districts because "local taxpayers would pick up a bigger burden, while part of the money would be going out of the school district."

A 10 percent increase in pay for school teachers would "accomplish a great deal," Turner said, in keeping competent teachers and staving off the unionization of the state's teachers.

Property tax reform in the form of a bill sponsored by Rep. Wayne Peveto of Orange will be a "volatile" issue in the next legislative session, Turner predicted.

He said he opposes the Peveto bill because it would establish a countywide tax assessment and evaluation board which would set property values for every public entity in the county, except for the county.

"It has devastating implications," Turner said, because an appeal of the board's decision could only be made in Austin.

"I'm a strong believer in local control and the local people need to have the right to reverse a decision," he said.

Public employees "have no right to strike against their employer — the public," Turner said, adding public employees "have a responsibility different from those in private business."

"In my opinion, the right to strike is not inherently given to public employees," he said.

Turner noted his construction firm is the largest in this area which is open shop. "I have no contracts with organized labor," he said.

"I'm not a friend of organized labor and they're not friends of mine," he said.

School Board Candidates List Spending

By JEFF SOUTH
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Attorney Brad Crawford spent more than $1 campaigning for each vote he got in last month's successful bid for a seat on the Lubbock Independent School District board of trustees.

Crawford, who won 7,149 votes in the April 1 election, spent $7,657 on his Place 2 campaign, according to statements filed with the district.

That is tops among the school board candidates who have reported expenditures so far.

Crawford beat Robert Lowery, Donna Muldrew, Claude Dollins and Edith O'Brien for Place 2. Mrs. Muldrew reported campaign expenditures of $1,262; Mrs. O'Brien, of $1,299; and Dollins, of $4,443.

Lowery had not filed his campaign reports with the school district as of midday today.

In the Place 1 race, Lynn Stafford — who won with 7,959 votes — reported expenditures of $3,582. Among her opponents, Bill Warren listed campaign expenses of $982, and Dr. John Ray Jr., $1,233.

Joan Ervin, the Place 1 incumbent who lost her re-election bid, listed expenditures of $2,521.

By state law, candidates must file a report of campaign contributions and expenditures 30 days after the election. That law made Monday the reporting deadline for the April 1 school board race.

The reports cover the period since March 23, the week before the election.

In Place 1, Mrs. Stafford, a part-time secretary, listed for the current period expenditures of $1,432 and contributions of $922. Her only large contributions for the period were from Joe Horkey, $100, and Retha Martin, $200.

Those figures, when combined with past reports, brought her total campaign contributions to $4,108 and her expenditures to $3,582.

Mrs. Ervin reported contributions of $1,124 and expenditures of $1,079 for the current period. Her largest contributors were Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity, $50;

Harry Stokley, $50; and Men's Civic and Social Club, $70.

For her entire campaign, Mrs. Ervin said she collected $2,738 and spent $2,521.

Warren, an accountant with the state highway department, reported expenditures of $657 and contributions of $622 for the current period. All of his contributions were either small donations or out of his own pocket.

Overall, Warren reported collecting and spending $982 on his campaign.

Ray, a pathologist, listed for the current period $25 in contributions and $311 in expenditures. His totals for the campaign were $275 in contributions and $1,233 in expenditures.

In Place 2, Crawford reported for the current period contributions of $2,536 and expenditures of $5,084. His largest contributors were James Granberry, $100; the law partnership of Crenshaw-Dupree & Milam, $1,385; and a donation of $266 to himself.

Overall, Crawford listed having campaign contributions of $6,727 and expenditures of $7,657.

Dollins listed for the current period $2,455 in contributions and $961 in expenditures. His largest contributions were $200 from Dr. and Mrs. Douglas Cone and a $1,735 loan to himself.

Overall, Dollins reported contributions of $4,665, and expenditures of $4,443.

Mrs. Muldrew, a Texas Tech University architecture instructor, listed for the current period contributions of $166 and expenditures of $171.

For the entire campaign, Mrs. Muldrew said she collected and spent $1,262.

Mrs. O'Brien, an Alderson Junior High science teacher, reported for the current period contributions of $180 and expenditures of $651. Overall, she had contributions of $1,205 and expenditures of $1,299.

Lubbock Man Charged In Shooting

A 25-year-old Lubbock man was charged Monday with aggravated assault as the result of a shooting incident near a local convenience store.

Named in the charge was John Larry Davis of 1909 E. Baylor St. The Criminal District Attorney's office recommended a $1,000 bond.

Davis is accused of shooting Clarence Hawkins, 31, of 2020 5th St., Thursday afternoon.

Hawkins reportedly told officers he was sitting on the hood of his car near a convenience store at Parkway Drive and Zenith Avenue and noticed some men involved in a fight.

He indicated that one of the participants left, only to return a few minutes later with a gun. Hawkins said the man pointed the gun at him. The complainant said he ran but was hit by a bullet.

Hawkins said he had never before seen the man until the Thursday incident. The complainant reportedly sustained a wound to the left shoulder blade. Hawkins reportedly was treated and released by a local hospital.

Other witnesses indicated Davis was involved in a fight prior to the shooting incident.

In another case, Robert Davila, 24, has been charged with aggravated robbery. The Criminal District Attorney's office recommended a $5,000 bond.

Davila is accused of the April 6 holdup of a convenience store at 2806 Salem Ave. in which $158 was reported taken.

Hickox Backs Commentary By Singlaub

A 19th Congressional District candidate spoke out strongly Monday in defense of Maj. Gen. John Singlaub and in support of military openness about armed forces issues.

During an afternoon news conference, Joe Hickox commended Singlaub for his outspokenness in publicly criticizing President Carter's decision to not develop the neutron bomb.

Singlaub, who made his comments last week, subsequently was pressured to resign from the Army. He was a 35-year veteran.

"Being thrown out of the Army for telling us the truth about our inadequate defense position is further proof of what I have tried to tell the people of this district about our deteriorating defense situation," said Hickox, a retired Air Force colonel.

When military leaders such as Singlaub "cannot tell the American people the truth about the dangers they face, it is time for them to get out of the military and into civilian life where they can," Hickox said.

"This is one of the reasons that I am in the race," he added.

Reception Set For Principal

H.C. Mears, retiring principal at Roscoe Wilson Elementary School will be honored for his 10 years of service at the school during a reception from 3-5 p.m. Thursday in the school library by Roscoe Wilson's PTA.

Mears, who has been in the education field 47 years, also has served as principal Hunt, Rush and Bozeman elementary schools in Lubbock. He taught a year at Sanders.

He also has taught in Oklahoma, taught all grade levels, and coached basketball in junior high and senior high schools.

He received degrees at Central State College in Oklahoma and the University of Oklahoma. He graduated from Minco, Okla., High School.

ICC To Prevent False Weighing

ATLANTA (AP) — Chairman A. Daniel O'Neal of the Interstate Commerce Commission says the ICC is going to launch a "saturation effort" in some parts of the country this summer to combat "weight bumping" by movers of household goods.

Weight bumping is the illegal addition of weight to a household goods shipment to increase the bill to the consumer.

"We're going to come down hard on movers we find violating regulations," O'Neal told a traffic management seminar Monday. He declined, however, to identify the areas to be involved in the crackdown.

Transsexual Soldier Seeks ID Change

LAWTON, Okla. (AP) — A woman soldier at Fort Sill who is undergoing sex change procedures has asked base officials to change her military identification to a male name.

Officials identified the woman only as "Sharon." They told her the U.S. Army Administration Center at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., has to make such record changes. The woman, an Oklahoma native in her 20s, was placed on temporary retirement status last year after a motorcycle accident, a base spokesman said. She is subject to recall to active duty when she fully recovers from her injuries.

TO HOST PRESIDENT — Paul and Janet Olson, who live in northeast Portland, chat with photographers and reporters outside their home Monday after it was announced they will be the hosts for President Carter when he visits Portland Thursday. # Oregon Family Prepares To Welcome President

By LINDA KRAMER

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Neighbors armed with dustmops and brooms are pitching in to help Paul and Janet Olson spruce up their house for an overnight visit by President Carter.

"We're very proud and excited," Olson said Monday after the White House announced that his family would be host to the president.

The Olsons said their 5-year-old daughter, Kristen, and 3-year-old son, Ehrlin, were having trouble understanding the excitement.

The president has spent similar overnight stays with families in Clinton, Mass.; Yazoo City, Miss.; Des Moines, Iowa; and Bangor, Maine. Carter's visit Thursday with the Olsons will be his first at a private home in the West.

The Olsons' three-story, butterscotch-colored house has four bedrooms and a separate apartment on the top floor which is rented. Rhododendron, irises and geraniums in full purple and pink bloom line the small front yard and a tangle of green plants is visible behind the front picture window.

They live in Portland's Irvington neighborhood, considered a showcase of inner city revitalization.

"This neighborhood has had a real stigma," said Lynn Gerber, who lives across the street from the Olsons. "We had a high crime rate for a while and people would say, 'How can you live in that horrible part of town?' Now they'll say it can't be that bad if the president stays there."

With the help of federal funds, the racially mixed area changed its image in the last eight years. Parks were fixed up, about 300 homes rehabilitated and the crime rate was slashed.

Mrs. Gerber said Secret Service agents warned neighbors to expect crowds trampling their yards and clogging their driveways during Carter's visit.

Olson, 34, is manager of the energy conservation division of the Neil Kelly Co., a Portland firm which designs and remodels buildings and homes. Mrs. Olson, 33, is a former high school teacher. She is expecting a baby in August.

The Olsons moved to Portland 10 years ago from Iowa. Like many Oregonians, they enjoy outdoor activities such as cross-country skiing, backpacking and climbing.

The Olsons' next-door neighbor is Lyle Burnharm, a 72-year-old retired engineer who called himself a Texas Republican.

He said Secret Service agents "asked if they could park a mobile home in our driveway to house their agents. We said, 'Sure.' I didn't vote for him, but he's my president for a few years."

DR. LAMB

Fat, Cholesterol Differ

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — I had some blood tests and was reported to have very high triglycerides. I know this has something to do with cholesterol but would you please tell me exactly what this means and what kind of diet I should be on.

DEAR READER — When you hear triglyceride think fat. Triglyceride are fat. Your body fat is chemically called triglycerides. The triglyceride test you had done is simply a measurement of the fat in your blood.

Fat and cholesterol are two different things. Fatty particles may be combined with cholesterol and even a blood protein to form fatty-cholesterol particles (lipoproteins). We think the cholesterol content or the number and size of the fatty-cholesterol particles is more important than the triglyceride measurement.

Even so, if it is high you should try to improve it. The best way is to lose excess body fat. Adequate exercise at least every other day also helps to lower the triglyceride level. So get on a diet that helps you control your weight and start exercising at least every other day. To give you a better idea of triglycerides and related measurements, I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-2, Cholesterol, Triglycerides, Blood Fats, Atherosclerosis. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Would you please advise in regard to thoracic outlet syndrome? I have been told this is what I have but am not too certain about having my top rib removed. I am left-handed, and my left arm bothers me a lot but I am also concerned with whether or not my arm hurts as a symptom of heart trouble.

I am a 30-year-old female, the only thing I have is an ulcer. My arm seems to flare up when my ulcer does and also in cooler weather. I have wondered about nerves.

DEAR READER — The artery, vein and nerves to the arm come out of the chest (thorax) at the top of the rib cage and pass along under the cla-vicle (collar bone). They can be compressed by the clavicle, muscles in the neck area or even an extra rib.

The pressure on the artery, vein or nerve can cause changes in the arm and hand. Even the meaty palm prominence at the base of the thumb may atrophy.

How much of a problem it really is can only be determined by the doctor's examination and the changes that result from such a condition.

The treatment, if any is needed, is to relieve the pressure. If it is muscle it may need to be severed to release the artery or nerve that is being compressed. If it is the rib a section of it may need to be removed.

Sometimes personal habits contribute to the problem. The habit of putting the hands above the head while sleeping may obstruct the circulation too much during the night. In these cases correction of such habits may be sufficient.

It is very rare for a 30-year-old healthy female to have the type of heart disease that causes pain in the arm and I would think you can stop worrying about that.

Customs Office Site Selected

DALLAS (AP) — The first new district Customs Service office to be created in 12 years will be located at the sprawling Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport in 1979.

U.S. Treasury officials in Washington said the office probably would be completed by October 1979.

Announcement of the new office comes at a time when officials are considering closing similar offices in other areas.

"We have to look at a shift in where business is today," said Treasury Undersecretary Bette Anderson. "That (Dallas-Fort Worth) area has grown tremendously."

Local business and political leaders have sought creation of such an office at the airport since 1974.

Tentative plans call for location of the office at a yet-to-be-built international terminal.

Officials said both freight and passengers will be processed through the new facility.

Carter Develops Assertive Tone

By ARNOLD SAWISLAK
WASHINGTON (UPI) — If you watched President Carter at his last news conference, you may have detected a new assertive tone in his responses to questions.

Phrases like "I do not intend," "I object very vigorously" and "it is not advisable" crackled through the half-hour question-and-answer session.

Carter opened the news conference with a staunch defense of his civil service reorganization plan and went on to reject criticisms of his tax reform and reduction proposals, his dealings with Congress in the energy impasse and his effort to make a package of warplane sales to Israel and its Arab neighbors.

It is unlikely that all of this simply was a case of the reporters catching the president in a feisty mood. Anyone who watched candidate Carter in 1976 recalls that he liked to describe himself in varied terms — farmer, businessman, scientist, government official.

This time he was Jimmy Carter the naval officer, complete with a "command tone" in his voice that snapped like a cat-o-nine tails when anyone suggested he or his administration was off base, out of line or up the creek.

This was a very different Carter from the man who, with only a few exceptions, was patient Paul during the first year of his residence in the White House.

This Carter had been to the mountain — Camp David — where by all accounts he notified his underlings to shape up or ship out and this Carter was not going to defer to anyone in judgment of what is best for the nation.

Analysis

There is something else that could be a factor in the new Carter image. The president, always a careful reader of public opinion polls, may have taken a look at the Gallup Poll released the third week-end of April and discovered that for the first time since taking office, a higher percentage of Americans registered disapproval of his performance in office than approval.

The Gallup gave Carter 39 percent approval and 46 percent disapproval. Fifteen percent had no opinion. To some pollsters, the disapproval rating is far more important than the approval number.

Gannett Chain Announces Promotions

ATLANTA (AP) — Five executive changes in the Gannett chain of newspapers have been announced by Allen H. Neuharth, president and chief executive officer of the group.

The promotions were announced recently at a meeting of Gannett publishers held in conjunction with the convention of the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

John E. Heselden, 58, formerly senior vice president for staff and services, was named senior vice president for marketing.

Rollan D. Melton, 46, who had been senior vice president for Gannett West, was named senior vice president for administration and planning.

Philip T. Gialanella, 47, was named vice president for Gannett agency operations and Gannett Pacific. He had been vice president of Gannett South and will continue as publisher of the Honolulu Star-Bulletin and president of Hawaiian Newspaper Agency, Inc.

Vincent E. Spezzano, 52, former assistant vice president, was named vice president of Gannett South.

CAN-DO!

A new excitement in pocket photography. From Kodak.

Introducing Kodak Ektra cameras. Four new pocket cameras that offer you a choice of CAN-DO features at can-afford prices. From the simple aim-and-shoot Ektra 1 camera to the twin-lens, action-stopping, shade-shooting Tele-Ektra 2 camera, all four models automatically adjust to both normal and super-fast 400-speed color print films (such as Kodacolor 400 film). See your photo dealer and ask him to show you all the remarkable things the new Kodak Ektra cameras CAN-DO for you.

Now! More pictures. More places. More often.

Ektra 1 camera. Just aim and shoot to get clear, sharp pictures. The Ektra 1 camera is the lowest-priced Kodak pocket camera ever!

Tele-Ektra 1 camera. With a flick of your finger, turn normal pictures into telephoto shots—actually bring them twice as close!

Ektra 2 camera. Load with 400-speed film, and you can take outdoor action shots, indoor action shots (with electronic flash), shade shots, even shots in brightly spotlighted arenas—without flash!

Tele-Ektra 2 camera. Get the action, the shade. Plus the advantages of taking both normal and telephoto shots. The works! Virtually, all you need is a Tele-Ektra 2 camera and 400-speed film.

New Kodak Ektra cameras.
From less than $20

SAVE MOVE UP TO BUICK WITH RED DOT VALUES

We're seeing red dots at Scoggin-Dickey and that means great values for you — it means we have many cars priced below comparable models of the so-called low priced makes. We've designated a select group of over 60 '78 Buicks as Red Dot values. Save hundreds of dollars on these specially marked cars, until April 30.

PERKINS

HERSKOWITZ

Each 76er Win
Cost $55,000

By MICKEY HERSKOWITZ
And STEVE PERKINS

Q. I would like to know if it is true that Julius Erving and George McGinnis make more money than the Atlanta Hawks? Is Philadelphia the highest paid team in the NBA?

—Virgil Miller, West Palm Beach, Fla.

A. In the money game, Erving and McGinnis can hold their own against the entire Atlanta payroll. According to figures used by NBA insiders, what we have here is a tie: $1.1 million to support Dr. J. and Big Mac ($650,000 and $450,000 per annum) against the same total for 22 Hawks, the highest paid of whom is John Drew, pushing the $200,000 level.

D Sports
Lubbock Avalanche-Journal
Tuesday, May 2, 1978

The 76ers, with a payroll of $2.5 million, are indeed the highest salaried club in pro basketball. Do they get what they pay for? It cost the 76ers roughly $50,000 for each of their 55 wins, twice as much as it cost the Hawks to post 41 wins.

Q. How does Rick Barry's foul shooting average compare with other longtime players in the NBA? Seems like when I check most times he's 9-for-9.

—Joe Wilkins, Miami

A. Barry is the NBA's all-time free throw marksman with a percentage of .896. Among the retired players, only Bill Sharman, Boston's "other" guard, is within 40 percentage points of Barry. Sharman ranks second at .894, followed by Houston's Calvin Murphy at .880. In four of the last six seasons, Barry and Murphy have finished 1-2 at the foul line.

Q. I heard on the radio that a player with the Mets ended his career by hitting into a triple play, but I missed his name. Can you tell me who the player was and any of the details?

—Brock Lemke, Houston

A. On his last time at-bat in the big leagues, on September 30, 1962, in the eighth inning of a game the Mets lost 5-1, catcher Joe Pignatano lined into a triple play against the Cubs. Picked off were Sammy Drake and Richie Ashburn. The play went from second to first to short, Ken Hubbs to Ernie Banks to Andre Rodgers.

Having gone out on a blaze of saddles, Pignatano is still with the Mets, as a coach.

Q. Would you please mention where Walter Johnson, the Washington pitcher, was born and where he went to school?

—L. Oreid, Anaheim, Calif.

A. Johnson was born in Humboldt, Kansas, on November 6, 1887, but won his schoolboy fame in Weiser, Idaho. The Big Train was one of the great "discoveries" of baseball. A traveling salesman fired off a series of letters—referring to him as "the strike-out king of the Snake River Valley League"—to excite the curiosity of the Senators. A Washington scout signed him after one look, getting the Hall of Fame pitcher for a bonus of $100, a monthly salary of $350, and a promise to pay his way back to Idaho if he got released.

Q. I was told that the late Babe Ruth of baseball fame broke another record. What was that record, and the date?

—Robert L.R. Bells, Sr., Gainesville, Fla.

A. Since the Babe hasn't broken any records lately, we assume you must have in mind the one that most often figures in sports trivia questions. As a Boston Red Sox pitcher, the Babe threw 13 scoreless innings against Brooklyn on October 9, 1916, still a World Series record for one game. He held the record for consecutive runless innings in the Series, until it was broken by Whitey Ford of the Yankees. Ruth's season and career home run marks, of course, have been topped—with or without an asterisk—by Roger Maris and Hank Aaron. The Ruth record least likely to be broken is his 1921 output of 457 total bases.

Four Join Hall

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Former Philadelphia Warrior star Paul Arizin thinks a great issue is settled by the fact that he and the other three players inducted this year into the National Basketball Hall of Fame all were forwards.

"After all the debate, who can doubt that it's the forwards who make the game of basketball," Arizin joked during formal ceremonies marking the enshrinement of the four NBA greats and a longtime league referee.

Arizin was a Villanova All-American and an originator of the jump shot who scored 16,266 points and came down with 6,500 rebounds during his decade with the Warriors in the 1950s.

Another of those retired forwards took a moment to reflect Monday on changes in professional basketball. Cliff Hagan, who starred with the St. Louis Hawks, said he finds much more movement and mobility in the game today, both on the court and off it.

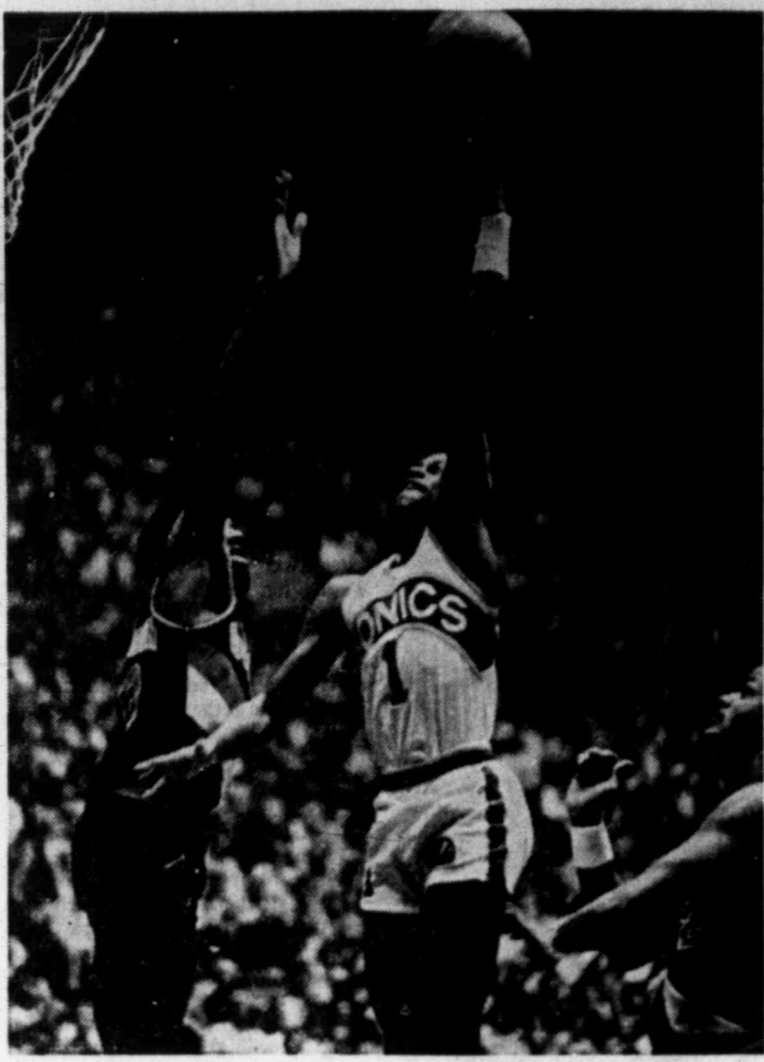

"The game is faster now. There's more movement. The players are much more mobile," said the 6-foot-4 Hagan, 47, a former St. Louis Hawk now director of athletics at the basketball-crazed University of Kentucky, his alma mater.

"Geography has been the biggest change, really. The travel is the big thing now. There were only eight teams then, all in the east," Hagan, known for his hook shot, dropped in 14,908 points for St. Louis from 1956-66 after twice being named All-American at Kentucky.

John Nucatola, retired supervisor of officials for the NBA and a career college basketball official, became the first referee elected to the hall since Dave Tobey in 1961. Also inducted were Minneapolis Laker great Jim Pollard and the late Joe Fulks, another Philadelphia Warrior standout.

A crowd of some 400 jammed the Hall of Fame's main hall on the Springfield College campus, where basketball was invented by James Naismith as a way to keep his students physically fit in the winter.

SuperSonics Oust Champs

SEATTLE (AP) — Suddenly, it becomes a question of how far the Seattle SuperSonics can go.

Playing with the confidence and poise that got them through the rugged times early in the regular season, the surprising Sonics dispatched the beleaguered defending world champion Portland Trail Blazers from the National Basketball Association playoffs with a 105-94 victory Monday night.

The triumph before a wild Coliseum sellout crowd of 14,098 gave the Sonics a 4-2 margin in the best-of-seven series and sends them into the Western Conference finals against the winner of the Denver-Milwaukee series.

"It looks like we're in the groove again. If we are, there's no telling how far this team can go," said a smiling Lenny Wilkens, who took over as Seattle's head coach Nov. 30 with the team mired in the Pacific Division cellar with a 5-17 record.

"Our team showed lots of courage all year long," Wilkens added. "It seems we have had to prove ourselves time and time again. I think it will be more enjoyable from now on."

For Portland, a city that went bananas as the club fashioned upset after upset en route to the NBA title, injuries — and the Sonics — finally took their toll in the end. "This is one of the greatest group of individuals I've ever been around. They've never quit," said a disheartened Portland Coach Jack Ramsay. "They've shown poise and as much class as can be expected with the adversity that we've had."

A streak in the final three minutes of the second period in which Seattle outscored Portland 12-0 to take a 55-49 halftime lead gave the Sonics momentum going into the second half.

"We were all in tune for the game. We were not going to be denied," said veteran guard Fred Brown, whose 11 second-period points sparked the Sonics' rally before halftime.

"They made that run, and up until then it was pretty even," said Johnny Davis, whose 23 points paced the Blazers. "But that's when they got their momentum. They started playing with intensity. They played super basketball."

Playing without regulars Bill Walton and Bob Gross and key reserve Lloyd Neal because of injuries, the Blazers stayed close until midway in the final period.

PORTLAND — Lucas 11 0-2 22, Steele 4 4-4 14, Owens 4 0-2 12, Davis 11 1-2 23, Hollins 3 1-3 7, Calhoun 3 0-4 4, Twardzik 2 4-4 16, Norwood 0 0-0 0. Totals 41 12-18 94.

SEATTLE — J. Johnson 2 3-4 7, Sikma 6 2-2 14, Webster 6 7-11 19, D. Johnson 6 4-5 20, Williams 5 2-8 12, Brown 9 1-2 18, Walker 4 3-5 11, Sitas 0 0-4 2. Totals 40 25-41 105.

Phis Pound 'Frustrated' Tom Terrific

By The Associated Press
What did they say in 1908, when Cy Young won 13 games and lost 21? Was there no hope at all in 1911, when he finished 7-10?

Did everyone then ask, "What's wrong with Cy Young?" the way everyone now is asking, "What's wrong with Tom Seaver?"

Six starts into the 1978 baseball season, Seaver is winless. His earned run average is 6.52. He is, in his own words, "embarrassed and extremely frustrated."

"I've never had a period like I'm going through now," he says. "It's been a humbling experience."

Everyone who didn't know that already found out early Monday night, when Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson yanked Seaver in front of a national television audience. The Reds right-hander, a three-time Young Award winner, gave up seven hits and seven runs — six of them earned — in less than three innings against the Philadelphia Phillies.

Yan Story-Vincent Win Golf Tourney
John Van Story and Joe Vincent turned in a team 55 in winning Sunday's Meadowbrook Partnership Golf Tournament.

55—John Van Story-Joe Vincent, 58—Eugene Bennett-Joe Sanders, 59—Dennis Wood-Jim Harding, 60—Paul Ellsworth-Richard Crenshaw, 61—Woodrow Powell-Kenneth Grissom, Gene Anderson-Steve Streetman, 62—Joe Frain-Bob Wright, Wiley Davis-Orville Kuykendall, Joe Siroiak-Don Dewbee.

Worse, almost, was the six walks he handed out. Where in the past Seaver had been serving bare bones to virtually everyone in the batter's box, now he is serving full-course meals to hungry hitters and everybody's getting fat.

After eating Seaver alive in three innings, the Phillies picked their teeth the rest of the way. They finished with a 12-1 victory, leaving Cincinnati with the scraps and leaving everyone asking Tom Seaver what's wrong.

He answered the only way he could: "I wish I knew what it was. If I did, I wouldn't be in this situation."

In the other National League games, the San Francisco Giants trimmed the St. Louis Cardinals 2-1, the Pittsburgh Pirates bested the San Diego Padres 7-4 and the Atlanta Braves edged the New York Mets 6-5.

In the only American League games, the Boston Red Sox held on for a 9-6 triumph over the Baltimore Orioles and the New York Yankees topped the Kansas City Royals 8-4.

Since Pete Rose went hitless in four at-bats against Steve Carlton and remained four safeties short of the 3,000 milestone, the only saving grace for Reds fans was a seventh-inning home run by Johnny Bench, which ruined Carlton's shutout.

Carlton, who had three hits more than Rose did, had some observations of his own on the Seaver affair.

"It's more of a mental slump than anything," said Carlton, who scattered five hits over eight innings before letting Gene Garber mop up. "He's falling behind and not going after the hitters."

In fact, it's just the reverse. The hitters are going after Tom Seaver and they're having very little trouble finding him. Bake McBride and Richie Hebner also had three hits for Philadelphia.

Monday night's game was over after the Phillies' five-run first inning, during which Carlton laced a two-run single. The Philadelphia left-hander, who led NL pitchers with 15 runs batted in last year, raised his batting average to .429 and lowered his ERA to 2.48.

Giants 2, Cardinals 1
Terry Whitfield doubled and scored from second base on Mark Littell's wild pitch in the eighth inning for the winning run in San Francisco's victory over St. Louis.

The game was spiced by a ninth-inning argument between the Giants' Bill Madlock and rookie umpire Charlie Williams, who was behind the plate for the first time in a major league game.

Madlock, who had struck out twice, stepped out of the batter's box after the count went to two strikes against Cardinals reliever Pete Vukovich. Williams ordered Madlock back into the box, then signalled for Vukovich to throw when his directive was ignored.

Madlock, who had his back to the plate when the pitch was thrown, had to be restrained from going after Williams when the umpire cried, "Strike Three."

A similar incident took place at St. Louis in September two seasons ago, when Madlock stepped out of the box without receiving permission from the umpire and was called out on strikes when then-Cardinals reliever Al Hrabosky pitched anyway.

That one sparked a bench-clearing brawl. Monday night's incident had less impact. The only casualty was Giants third base coach Dave Bristol, who was hit on the head by Williams' hand when he was throwing Madlock out of the game.

Bristol joked about it later. "I can see the story now: 'X-rays of Bristol's head show nothing!'" "I'm just glad it wasn't Lee Weyer," he added, and with good reason. Weyer, another NL umpire, is 6-foot-6 and 250 pounds.

Somewhere in the hubbub was an eight-inning, six-hit performance by San Francisco's Vida Blue.

Pirates 7, Padres 4
Singles by Phil Garner and relief pitcher Jim Bibby keyed the three-run eighth-inning rally that sent Pittsburgh past San Diego.

It was Bibby's first National League hit since 1972, when he singled while with St. Louis. Since then he had been in the American League, which employs the designated hitter.

Dave Winfield cracked a two-run home run for the Padres.

Braves 6, Mets 5
Biff Poceroba and Jeff Burroughs had run-scoring hits in the eighth inning to help Atlanta beat New York in a game marked by four balks — three by Braves pitchers.

Red Sox 9, Orioles 6
Jim Rice slugged a pair of two-run homers and Boston survived Baltimore's ninth-inning rally to snap a four-game losing streak. Al Bumby homered and Ken Singleton had a run-scoring single to bring Baltimore within 9-6.

They subsequently loaded the bases, but reliever Bob Stanley struck out Rick Dempsey to end the game.

Yankees 8, Royals 4
Lou Piniella scored Thurman Munson with the first of four seventh-inning runs to help the Yankees beat Kansas City.
