

City School Plan Wins Approval

By JEFF SOUTH
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Lubbock's proposed school integration plan, a combination of voluntary and mandatory measures, was approved today by U.S. District Judge Halbert O. Woodward. He told the school board to implement the plan in August, the start of the 1978-79 academic year.

In a judgment entered just before noon, Woodward said the 83-page plan submitted by the board April 19 complies with his specifications for integrating nine predominantly minority schools on the city's east and north sides.

"The plan as submitted... will desegregate the schools found to be unconstitutionally segregated under the present mode of operation," the judge said.

He also approved the school board's plans for construction of new facilities — three elementary schools and a junior high — south of Loop 289. Bond monies for such construction were approved by voters a year ago, but the projects had been suspended pending an outcome of the desegregation case.

The U.S. Justice Department, plaintiff in the eight-year-old litigation, has the option to appeal today's ruling. A spokesman for the department was unavailable for comment.

Federal government attorneys have hinted they may appeal on two grounds. Not only do they dislike the school board's integration-construction proposals, but they disagree with Woodward's Jan. 27 ruling that only certain schools — not the entire school system — must be integrated here.

The department has pushed for system-wide integration. In contrast, the school board's plan leaves several schools heavily minority.

In today's memorandum and order, Woodward rebuffed the Justice Department's contentions that the school board's plan puts a disproportionate burden on minorities.

"It is not reasonable to expect that any plan could be equal in every respect," the judge said. "But the court feels that there is no disparate burden on the minority races under the plan submitted by the school board, and it is approved."

Woodward added: "The plan submitted has the advantage of making many of the all-majority (white) schools in the elementary grades of the Lubbock system to now have a partial minority enrollment; and because the plan includes nearly every majority elementary school as well as the five court-ordered minority (elementary) schools, the plan is not likely to be frustrated by white flight."

At the secondary level, the school board's plan involves dispersing students from Struggs Junior High and combining the Struggs facility with Dunbar High for a magnet high school, offering special courses to attract whites on a voluntary basis.

At the elementary level, the board's plan involves closing two schools, establishing a magnet program at Iles and having a cross-assignment between five minority campuses and all of the city's predominantly white schools. Under the plan, minority children would be assigned outside their neighborhood for three years of their elementary education, and white children, for one or two semesters.

The plan would require busing 1,954 elementary students a day — 1,240 whites and 714 minorities. The plan would make each grade (except kindergarten) at the minority elementary cited by Woodward about 70 percent white.

Woodward acknowledged that under the plan, "members of the minority race are transported from the school nearest their home to another school for a longer period of time than those periods in which members of the majority race would be so transported."

"However, a much larger number of majority students are being transported," he said.

Woodward approved plans for magnet programs at Dunbar and Iles, but stipulated: "The court recognizes that since each of these campuses is located in a minority residential area, there is a very real possibility that the campuses will not be truly integrated, but only time will tell whether or not it (the magnet program) See JUDGE RULES Page 14

Fire Injures Three Here

By PAT CARLSON
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A woman and her two small children narrowly escaped death today when they were trapped inside their burning west-side home.

The three victims, identified as Janice Dyer, 24, and her twin sons, Heath and Keith, 4, were listed in fair condition at St. Mary's Hospital shortly after 1 p.m.

Flames erupted at the 3708 32nd St. residence at 10:59 a.m., and although it took firemen only eight minutes to control the blaze, all three victims suffered serious smoke inhalation.

According to fire department Lt. Junior Anthony, the three unconscious victims were found in the front bedroom of the house.

When firemen arrived at the scene, they found the living room of the residence ablaze. Their first attempted entry was through a small side window in the bedroom which contained the woman and two children. When that attempt failed, two firemen, Larry Dwyck and Steve Jones, made their way through the living room.

"Nobody told us there was anybody in here," Anthony said from the small smoke-damaged room. "We had to get that couch out first, then we just hustled in here."

Fire Marshal A.C. Black said the blaze apparently started in the couch in the adjacent living room.

The woman reportedly had tried to push the sofa out of the house when she discovered the fire. However, according to Black, she only succeeded in overturning it.

She then apparently went back to rescue the children from the bedroom, but instead all three became trapped by the flames.

The woman suffered burns on her arms when she tried to move the couch from the house.

According to Black, the woman was found with her head on the floor and her legs over a piece of furniture. One boy was under another couch which had overturned on him, and the other child was lying next to his mother.

Firemen carried them through the gutted living room to a carpenter just outside the front door of the small frame house.

There they worked for about 20 minutes trying to revive the family.

Justice of the Peace Charles E. Smith was summoned to the scene. However, EMS attendants took the victims to the hospital after all three were given oxygen.

Bush Raps Statement By Reese

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Republican congressional candidate George Bush said today a U.S. senator who signed a fund-raising letter for Bush's opponent, Jim Reese, has offered to write another letter — this time in support of Bush.

The Reese letter signed by Sen. Orrin Hatch (R-Utah) is the subject of controversy because of its reference to a "self-professed professional politician" in the race who is receiving money from "left-wing sources."

It also refers to Reese as "the best conservative candidate available."

Bush, who faces Reese in a June 3 runoff election, said he received a call from the senator who said "he didn't want to slam the other guy and didn't want the letter to become an issue in the campaign."

"It's safe to say he was not really aware of what's going on" in this race, Bush said. "He said he'd be glad to write a letter in this primary to voters in this district."

However, Bush said he doubts he'll take advantage of the senator's offer because "our fund-raising is pretty good without the help of a U.S. senator."

The Republican race was forced into a runoff in Saturday's election when Joe Hickox, a retired Air Force lieutenant colonel, received 10.21 percent of the total vote.

The latest figures give Bush 48.7 percent to Reese's 41.09 percent of the vote.

Bush, a Midland oilman, noted Reese "was going to be running behind while I'll be looking over my shoulder." Bush said he fell only 300 votes short of getting a majority and winning the nomination outright.

He said he was "encouraged" by the vote since Reese campaigned all over the Police At Houston Patrol Tense Area

HOUSTON (AP) — Police patrolled a tense north side area today after thousands of Mexican-Americans rioted when police tried to break up a fight at a fiesta in a park.

Police reported shots fired, looting and arson in a 10-block area over a six-hour period Sunday night. A police car and a television mobile unit were burned. Two convenience stores were looted and a fire caused heavy damage to a bakery, variety store, and a laundry in a shopping center.

Twenty-two persons were arrested and about 15 others were injured. One policeman received a broken leg and two television reporters were hospitalized in satisfactory condition with stab wounds.

While more than 100 policemen were at the scene, all other officers were kept on standby alert more than eight hours.

"It was the good guys and the bad guys," said KPRC-TV reporter Jack Cato, who was struck on the forehead with a brick and stabbed in the back. "One Latin American helped me get out and others were still throwing rocks at us."

The initial outbreak occurred as police sought to stop a fight in Moody Park, which is located in a predominantly Mexican-American community that has been upset since Joe Campos Torres, 23, died a year ago while in police custody.

"A couple of people got into a fight and some people jumped in," said State Rep. Ben Reyes. "When the police came, people reacted to their being there."

Police answering the initial call were pelted with rocks and bottles.

Four hours after the outbreak, police reported scattered looting and one store ablaze. They said no one was injured when several shots were fired from an apartment building. Police in riot gear escorted firemen into the area.

Police reported the situation under control at 3 a.m. today.

Reyes said there has been "a very volatile situation" in the Mexican-American community since U.S. District Judge Ross Sterling gave probation sentences to three former policemen who were convicted on charges of violating the civil rights of Torres, who was drowned after being pushed into a downtown bayou May 8, 1977.

"It is very easy at this point to agitate," Reyes said. "People feel like they can't get any justice and they didn't get any justice. Folks have been very upset."

Rachel Lucas, one of the organizers of the fiesta, said several people had been circulating among the crowd talking about the Torres case.

"Someone grabbed a microphone and started screaming for justice for Joe Campos Torres," she said. "These were all young people unknown to us. They were not our people. They were not fiesta people."

Mayor Jim McConn said the police did not overreact in handling the disturbance, despite claims by some Mexican-American leaders that it was another case of harassment by officers.

McConn arrived at the park about an hour after the stabbing and praised the police officers' behavior.

"I watched the Houston police and they showed a lot of restraint—maybe more so than was required," McConn said. "And next week I am not going to listen to people who will say the police swept through the park brutalizing people."

However, Macaririo Ramirez, a local Mexican-American leader, said the size of the police force was an attempt to intimidate the crowd.

"This is really a tragedy to happen in our Chicano community. Granted, there were problems earlier in the evening," Ramirez said. "But when you get 100 to 150 policemen to intimidate a group of bystanders who are just watching, you know that's a sad commentary on the police department."

Officer D.W. Bell, who attempted to make the original arrest, said a mob attacked him and his partner.

"We got the suspect and tried to get him to the car but about 200 people jumped on us and took him away and that's when they starting throwing bottles and busted out the window in our patrol car," Bell said. "I was hit in the neck and leg and my partner was cut."

Donald Bonham, 49, manager of a store in the area, said a man was standing outside with a bullhorn screaming "justice, justice." He was calling for action and within 30 minutes the people around moved in a mass and started looting.

Witnesses said when a policeman was hit by a speeding car, a group of about 50 persons began to cheer.

Briscoe Offers Congratulations To Hill

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe sent a four-word telegram to Attorney General John Hill today conceding he lost the Democratic race for governor.

"Congratulations and best wishes," said Briscoe's telegram that Hill read to a news conference.

"I appreciate that very much," Hill said simply.

Hill said he had already received congratulations Sunday night in a telephone call from President Carter. The two men discussed a possible meeting either in Washington or Texas within several weeks, Hill said.

Hill said he probably will go to Washington a week from this Wednesday to spend several days discussing crucial matters, including energy legislation, with key congressmen.

Hill said he and his wife were leaving this afternoon on a four-day, out-of-state trip to get some rest, but he would be back shortly to start planning his November campaign against Republican nominee Bill Clements and, he said, "his taking over the Texas governor's job."

A prime issue of the campaign, Hill said, was Briscoe's asking for an unprecedented 10 years as Texas governor.

"Briscoe underestimated the voters' feelings on that," he said.

Hill said he probably would propose a constitutional amendment that will limit governors from now on to two four-year terms. "I think that probably will be well-received," he said.

Hill said he had given no thought to resigning his attorney general's job before, and if, he is sworn in as governor in January 1979. "I have been able to carry out duties of the attorney general while waging this campaign," he said, "and I think it will be even easier going into the fall. I don't believe I will have to campaign on an actual day-to-day basis."

Hill said he would make an active campaign against Republican nominee Bill Clements, but Hill expected to win by a wide margin, according to polls his office has taken during the present race.

"Clements has no record in state government," Hill said. "I will be talking about my record and he has none."

Hill said he plans to stress energy issues during his upcoming trip to Washington.

"I will go there as probably Texas' next governor and I think I will have some effect," he said.

Notes continued to trickle in today at the Texas Election Bureau, but officials said there was no question that Hill had grabbed the Democratic nomination without a runoff.

Voters in the Republican primary nominated Bill Clements over Ray Hutchison and both parties defeated the non-binding pari-mutuel referendum.

The Democratic race for the right to meet U.S. Sen. John Tower in November was won by U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger, who led former Texas insurance commissioner Joe Christie all night. Tower was unopposed in the Republican primary.

Hill, 54, narrowly escaped a runoff, gathering 51.26 percent of the vote in the five-man race, according to returns Sunday. Briscoe was at 41.66 percent. Texas Election Bureau officials said the few remaining votes still uncounted would have no effect on the race other than to simply increase Hill's margin of victory.

Museum Asks To Exhibit Art

NEW YORK (AP) — The Museum of Modern Art has asked the French government for permission to exhibit a number of paintings and other art works by the late Pablo Picasso.

A museum spokesman said Sunday that the works are those which Picasso's heirs have agreed to turn over to the French government in lieu of estate taxes.

Museum director Richard Oldenburg said the museum hoped it could exhibit the works before they go on permanent exhibit in a Picasso museum France plans to build.

Betty Ford Returns Home

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Former first lady Betty Ford spent a relaxing weekend at her desert home following her discharge from Long Beach Naval Hospital, a family spokesman said.

Bob Barrett said Sunday that Mrs. Ford's treatment for alcoholism and drug addiction was "absolutely successful." He said she will not require continuing treatment.

Mrs. Ford entered the hospital's alcoholism and drug addiction center April 11 after issuing a statement saying she was "overmedicating" herself. She has long suffered from arthritis and a pinched nerve in her neck.

Lance Praises President

HARTWELL, Ga. (AP) — Jimmy Carter is "without a doubt the most competent, the most intelligent, the most industrious president that we've had the privilege of having in this country for a long, long number of years," says Bert Lance.

Lance, who resigned as federal budget director last year while his personal financial affairs were under investigation, made his comments Sunday to a group of early Carter supporters nicknamed the Peanut Brigade.

"Don't let anybody fool you about his viability as a candidate for re-election in 1980 because that's just what some people would have you believe," Lance said.

Flynt May Start Physical Therapy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Hustler magazine owner Larry Flynt, paralyzed from the waist down from bullet wounds, may begin physical therapy in a week to 10 days, says his physician.

Dr. Larry Carey, chairman of the Ohio State University Department of Surgery, said Flynt, 35, "is healing well and, nutritionally, he looks good."

Flynt was shot March 6 in an ambush outside a Georgia courthouse where he faced trial on obscenity charges. He remained in satisfactory condition Sunday in University Hospital, protected in his private, $106-a-day room by university police and Franklin County sheriff's deputies.

Dr. Ernest Johnson, who will direct Flynt's rehabilitation program, said therapy will include whirlpool baths for exercise and electrical shock to stimulate leg muscles.

Ellsberg Back At Nuclear Plant

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — Daniel Ellsberg, the former Pentagon analyst, has returned with at least 20 other anti-nuclear protesters to the Rocky Flats nuclear plant.

Ellsberg and the group set up camp Sunday just outside the plant's boundaries.

Ellsberg and 27 others had been camped on the little-used railroad spur leading to the plant until Friday when they were arrested by sheriff's deputies. The group was booked on charges of criminal trespass and unlawful blockage of a passageway and released a few hours later.

The protesters are urging an end to the production of nuclear components at Rocky Flats.

Kennedy currently works in Washington for the U.S. Community Services Administration, but is frequently mentioned as the Kennedy family's next likely candidate for elective office.

Gossip columnists in Boston have said Kennedy plans to marry within a few months, but the bachelor kept quiet on that subject.

$2 Flood

TUSCOLA, Ill. (AP) — Gambling wasn't the motive behind the shipment of $24,000 in $2 bills to this rural community of 5,000 in central Illinois.

It was Lyle Myers' way of showing the impact of a small business on a town, he said. Myers paid his 159 employees in $2 bills so the money would circulate in town and "call attention to the importance of a small business."

"The most gratifying thing was the attitude of my employees. They were real gung-ho about this," says Myers, who owns a truck stop, restaurant, gift shop and motel complex near Interstate 57.

The bills showed up in local stores, churches and schools. Myers estimates that three-quarters of the businesses in the area received $2 bills spent by his employees, and he believes the scheme accomplished his goal.

"The impact of a small business is tremendous. The baker and the candlestick maker all benefit from small business," Myers said.

Town Hears Promises From Pair

LARK, Utah (AP) — The chairman of a giant corporation and an 81-year-old miner's widow returned to Lark, one to assure residents of fair treatment when the company levels the town, the other to promise her neighbors she would make him stick to his word.

Frank Milliken, chairman of Kennecott Copper Corp.'s board of directors, spent 90 minutes Sunday chatting with residents of the company-owned town. He assured them that they would get a "fair and generous" relocation offer when they must move later this year to make way for strip mining.

An hour after Milliken left, Hilda Grabner, a former schoolteacher and 49-year Lark resident, came home to the cheers of about 50 neighbors and a dinner at a civic club hall.

Mrs. Grabner was spokeswoman for a group of Lark residents who went to New York last week for Kennecott's stockholders' meeting. The group complained that the company had not said what it would pay for the homes and what it would do for renters.

ASSURES RESIDENT—Kennecott Copper's board chairman, Frank Milliken, assured one of the residents of Lark, Utah, Leona Peterson, she'll be taken care of when the mining company levels the town to make way for expanding open-pit operations. (AP Laserphoto)

Mrs. Grabner attracted national attention when she demanded fair play for Lark residents and later joined a sit-in at Kennecott headquarters when she felt company officials were not adequately answering her questions.

Milliken arrived by helicopter at boarded-up Lark School. He then visited five homes, reminiscing with Kennecott employees about people they knew and saying they would be pleased with the company's relocation offer.

Mrs. Grabner said Milliken's visit may have been "a good signal," but she said she and others should wait to hear details of Kennecott's proposal at a town meeting today to see "if it meets our requirements."

"We will cooperate, but we will be firm," she said. "We're not going to give up now that we've gone this far. We are out for justice."

Kennecott announced last December that it would shut down Lark because it did not want to be in "the town business," and because it needed the town's land for its open-pit mine, the largest in the world. Townspeople must vacate by Aug. 31.

Milliken called his proposal "both humane and business-like," but the only details he disclosed were provisions to house elderly and infirm townspeople for the rest of their lives at prices they could afford.

"I think most of the people in Lark are going to be surprised and pleased with it," he said.

Panel Recommends Building Terminal

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Brushing aside objections by the Navy and Marine Corps, the staff of the California Coastal Commission today recommended building a $632 million liquefied natural gas terminal at Camp Pendleton, midway between Los Angeles and San Diego.

The report noted it may take action by the Carter administration to make the military turn over the land for the site.

The commission staff evaluated 82 sites. "Adverse wind, wave and fog conditions, nearby urban areas, earthquake faults and rugged land ruled out most of the coast for siting potentially hazardous LNG terminal operations," said the report. "Seismic evaluations of five of the sites resulted in discovering small active surface faults at two of them."

Torture Instruments Exported

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Thumbscrews are ancient finger-flattening torture instruments usually associated with Chinese dowagers who, according to literature, favored attaching them to errant servants.

So it was with considerable surprise that Rep. Donald Fraser, D-Minn., discovered thumbscrews on a list of non-military crime-control equipment exports published by the Commerce Department.

Other items on the list include leg irons, shackles, electric shock batons, dart guns and psychological stress analysis instruments.

"I find it incredible that these torture instruments from the Dark Ages are still being manufactured, let alone exported abroad," said Fraser.

Last week the House International Relations Committee adopted an amendment proposed by Fraser to prohibit the sale of so-called "crime-control equipment" to "the police, domestic intelligence and other law enforcement forces of governments engaged in gross violations of human rights."

"The regulations now governing the export of these police devices are exceedingly lax," Fraser said in a statement. "Exporters need only a general commercial license from the U.S. Commerce Department."

The amendment, attached to the 1978 foreign assistance bill, would permit such sales only if the president certified in writing extraordinary circumstances were involved.

Fraser's amendment also would require quarterly reports to Congress on such sales valued at more than $100,000 and place crime-control equipment under the State Department's Office of Munitions' control.

Rauer Meyer of the Bureau of Export Control in the Commerce Department confirmed his bureau had "validated license control" for crime-control equipment to communist countries plus South Africa and Namibia. That means, he said, special application for the exports would have to be made and they could be rejected.

But, Meyer said, such items as thumbscrews and leg irons can be exported under a routine general license to other countries.

This is not to say the United States is shipping thousands of thumbscrews to imperil the enemies of Idi Amin in Uganda or others accused of human rights violations.

Meyer said he has "no recollection" of any thumbscrew exports. There are no figures to suggest thumbscrews are a hot export item.

But even if there were a big foreign market for leg irons, shackles, and the like, it would be impossible to tell under the present system, officials said.

For example, the Census Bureau's export statistics from shipper's export declarations lump together such widely diverse items as handcuffs and meat hooks under the heading of "articles, not elsewhere classified, of iron or steel."

Economists Urge Deficit Cut

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Inflation can be slowed without causing a recession, but President Carter's anti-inflation programs probably will not get quick results, says a panel of U.S. economists.

The way to reduce both inflation and unemployment is for the federal government to cut the deficit by $15 billion to $20 billion, Albert H. Cox Jr., president of Merrill Lynch Economics, Inc., said in an interview with U.S. News and World Report.

"Until President Carter and Congress face up to the fact that we've got to cut federal spending — and I mean cut it, not just slow down the increase — we'll never get inflation under control," he said.

Otto Eckstein, president of Data Resources Inc., said the only realistic goal is a very drawn-out slowdown of inflation through reduced government spending, a cautious fiscal and monetary policy and the president's influence on wage and price decisions.

Paul A. Samuelson of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology said the problem is one of long-term "stagflation," and said presidential influence on wage and price increases is "worth a try."

John W. Kendrick of George Washington University said if wage increases could be lowered from 8 percent a year to 5 percent — the rate before 1966 — and productivity was boosted from 2 percent a year to 3 percent, inflation would be close to the level just after World War II.

Saul H. Hymans of the University of Michigan said national leadership is essential, "and that's not just a matter of pointing the right way, but also of convincing the people that the administration will be consistent."

Bangladesh Chief Starts Campaign

DACCA, Bangladesh (AP) — President Ziaur Rahman has launched his campaign for the June 3 election with a promise to establish a "sovereign parliament" that will have power to legislate and impeach the president.

He also said Sunday that martial law would be lifted after a civilian government is installed.

Rahman, the former army chief of staff, came to power in 1976 after a series of coups. His chief opponent is another retired general, Mohammed Otuul Gani Osmany.

Air Strikes Upset Eritrean Life

(EDITOR'S NOTE — The writer of this dispatch and AP photographer Claudio Luffoli returned recently to rebel-held parts of Ethiopia's Eritrea province which they visited a year ago. Here is a report on what they saw on a two-week tour with the secessionist guerrillas.)

By MICHAEL J. DUFFY
MANDEFERA, Eritrea (AP) — The Ethiopian government is carrying out a relentless daytime air war against secessionist guerrillas in Eritrea, forcing many civilians to go about their tasks in the darkness of night. Classes for school-children begin at dusk.

Leaders of the Eritrean Liberation Front claim the aircraft — U.S.-made F-5 Freedom Fighters and Soviet-supplied MIG-21s — are flown by pilots from Cuba and the leftist Arab nation of Yemen. During the two weeks this reporter and AP photographer Claudio Luffoli toured areas controlled by the Liberation Front, known as the ELF, we saw the effects of Ethiopian air power on life inside Eritrea.

From a military point of view, the planes allow the Ethiopians to soften guerrilla positions in hot fighting areas, to maintain some military presence in distant areas controlled by the rebels and to prevent movement of troops and material during the day when every truck on the road is a target.

For civilians, the planes are a source of death and terror that keep life in the cities and villages from returning to normal.

Eritrean rebels have been fighting for independence since Ethiopia annexed their homeland in 1962. Victories in the last two years have brought the ELF and the Eritrean Peoples Liberation Front control of the entire countryside and all but a few of the major cities.

Eritrea, a 45,000-square-mile area, about the size of Pennsylvania, with a population of three million, provides Ethiopia its only access to the sea and is a strategic spot in the Horn of Africa for control of oil traffic through the Red Sea.

Now that Ethiopia has succeeded, with Cuban and Soviet help, in chasing Somali troops from the contested area of the Ogaden in the southeast, the northern province of Eritrea has become the focus of activity. Backing the ground troops are F-5s left over from the late Emperor Haile Selassie's era when Ethiopia was a principal African ally of the United States and MIG-21s that have been imported since the new military regime proclaimed itself revolutionary socialist.

ELF military leaders told us they estimate 4,000 Cuban troops, 35,000 Ethiopians and 100 Soviet-built T-54 tanks are massed south of Eritrea's border, poised for a major attack. They said airstrikes in neighboring Tigre province are being expanded for intensified air strikes.

Most of the estimated 15,000 ELF troops are concentrated in the area between the border and Asmara, the Eritrean capital near the coast, where besieged Ethiopian troops recently made unsuccessful attempts to break through a guerrilla noose around the city.

Our first day inside Eritrea, at an ELF base camp near the Sudanese border, we heard a jet fly overhead just after daybreak and attack a position some 10 miles away. We were told later that the plane had attacked some trucks but that a goat was the only casualty.

The next day in the border town of Tessenet, we saw new air raid shelters dug in the streets and began to see the effects on civilian life. People stayed off the streets during the day and children attended school that began after dark.

Guerrilla leaders say there have been no night flights, adding that the attacks usually come in the early morning and just before dusk. The aircraft fly out of Asmara, which has been under a guerrilla siege for six months and is supplied by air.

In traveling through areas near Barentu, the only spot in western Eritrea where Ethiopian troops are still holding out, we could hear planes joining the fighting there.

In one village, school was conducted during the day but in camouflaged classrooms of thatch a half hour's walk outside the village. In every village and town along the way, the local militia cleared the streets during the day, telling people to remain inside their huts or to spend the day hidden in the fields.

But it was in Mandefera that we saw the greatest effect of bombings. This city, also known as Adi Ugr, is midway between Eritrea's southern border and Asmara. It is the biggest prize won by ELF forces.

The city of some 35,000 people is a major marketing center for the entire area and a showpiece that has attracted refugees from Asmara. The Ethiopians have struck here repeatedly in an apparent effort to disrupt life in what has become virtually the temporary ELF capital.

A MIG-21 made a low pass over the edge of the city our first day here. Anti-aircraft weapons barked out in reply. Women and children in the temporary grain market ran screaming for shelter. But the plane dropped no bombs and did not return. The streets returned to nervous activity.

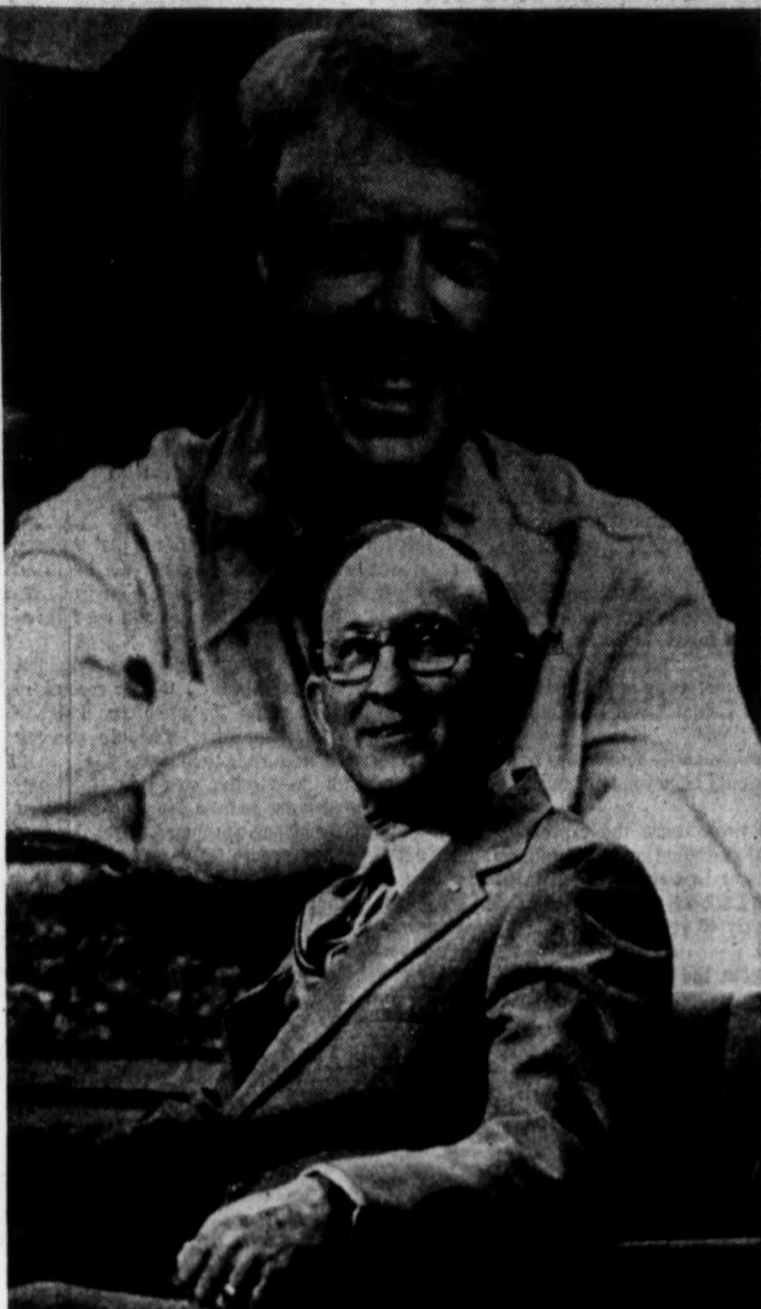

In January, bombs fell on the edge of the central grain market at the height of the business day and more than 50 people were killed, the guerrillas told us. Now the central market, which is still bordered with rubble, is used only at night.

We were shown a shantytown of thatched huts the guerrillas said was burned to the ground by an air attack in early April. The guerrillas claimed 21 persons were killed in the huts and 40 more in a concrete bomb shelter which received a direct hit. They said all the victims were civilians except for two members of the militia.

We saw an unexploded 500-pound bomb, the burned remnants of napalm bombs and a cluster bomb canister. Cluster bombs, an anti-personnel weapons, explode before hitting the ground and rain hundreds of fist-size bomblets over an area about 200 yards in diameter.

Many of the people in Mandefera desperately try to carry on life as usual, but just as many rise early to spend the day outside the city or in the basements of the more substantial buildings such as the Roman Catholic school that dominates the panorama of the town.

There has been no electricity for two weeks because there is no fuel for the generators. School is conducted at night by the flickering light of gas lanterns.

Carters Displeased By Cousin's Book

By HELEN THOMAS
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sources close to the Carters say a new book that calls Amy "bratty," the president's mother "hard-headed" and his brother Billy's new image "unfortunate" is displeasing the White House.

The book, which claims to portray the Carters "warts and all," is "Cousin Beedie and Cousin Hot," by cousin Hugh Carter Sr. and co-author Frances Spatz Leighton.

The book is a hush-hush project which even Hugh Carter's son, Hugh Jr., who is a special assistant to the president, didn't know about until it was completed. Its publication date is Wednesday.

"It was kept a super secret since we began the book a year ago last spring," Mrs. Leighton said. "Hugh Carter Sr. said if he was going to do it, it was going to be an honest portrayal, warts and all," she said.

Sources close to the first family described them as "upset ... unhappy" with some of the book's revelations.

The title comes from the nicknames of the two cousins who grew up together — the president being "Cousin Hot," because his father called him "hotshot," and Hugh being Cousin Beedie because his nurse used to coax him to "beddy-bye, beedie bye."

In the book, Hugh Sr. expresses admiration for first lady Rosalynn Carter.

He says that when Jimmy, Georgia's newly elected governor, and Rosalynn were moving into the governor's mansion in Atlanta in 1971, "Miz Lillian simply went along, too, and cheerfully announced that she would be the acting first lady because Rosalynn wasn't sopunctuated or knowledgeable enough to handle it.

"To Rosalynn's credit, she did not cry and carry on or make Jimmy do her fighting for her. She waited until they were both in the kitchen out of Jimmy's earshot and with a voice that was as steady as she could muster, she told her mother-in-law that she fully intended to run her own household but that Miz Lillian could always 'come and visit.'"

"She even dared to tell her that it would be better if she packed and left and came back when things were in better order," the book says.

Of Billy, Hugh Carter says: "I think Billy's new image is unfortunate. Yet I don't know what Jimmy can do or what he should do. Perhaps after Jimmy is out of the White House, he (Billy) can still go in to comedy as a serious career."

"But I do believe that the timing is a little wrong."

The book suggests being in the limelight has gone to the head of the president's young daughter, Amy, and "is making her just a bit bratty in that she passes judgment and doesn't hesitate to say that this and that are 'dumb' or show her contempt for various people."

"But she may be saved by the calming influence of Rosalynn," it said.

Of "Cousin Hot" himself, cousin Beedie writes that he was convinced he had done a good job as Georgia's governor: "Like a Crusader, he felt that God was on his side."

On the gossipy side, Hugh Carter says, "The president sleeps in jockey shorts, doesn't like his shirts starched too much, likes polyester suits — they are easy to care for."

New Haven Recalls Arnold As Hero

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI) — The city of New Haven remembers Benedict Arnold as a Revolutionary War hero — not a traitor.

Arnold's April 22, 1775, argument with a town official over the keys to a powderhouse was re-enacted this weekend on the steps of the New Haven Post Office.

Arnold had just been named captain of New Haven's new militia. He lined his men up in front of the powderhouse and demanded the keys so his troops could be armed for battle against the British.

The town officials argued Arnold should wait, but historians say Arnold vowed, "None but almighty God shall stop my marching."

After arming his troops, Arnold marched off to war and became a hero. He later turned traitor and led a British force which burned his hometown of New London, Conn., in 1781.

local Goodwill Industries, said the organization "reaches out to the physically and mentally disabled, the socially disadvantaged, alcoholics, drug addicts, the emotionally disturbed, ex-crime offenders and the elderly."

Goodwill Industries rehabilitation programs, which the U.S. Labor Department says serve more than 40 percent of all handicapped people in such programs, provide clients with vocational evaluation services.

In addition, Goodwill provides work adjustment training, personal and social adjustment training, adult basic education, janitorial and maid skills training, work experience and job placement services.

Goodwill Industries has 165 rehabilitation facilities in the United States and 33 affiliates in 22 other countries.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

Getting Black To Basics

WHILE GOP efforts to wean black voters away from the Democratic Party may be paying dividends in some parts of the country, deep-seated differences of perspective can't help but keep gains relatively modest.

Since becoming chairman of the GOP National Committee 1 1/2 years ago, former Sen. Bill Brock, R-Tenn., has fought vigorously to reverse his party's longstanding record of indifference and insensitivity toward blacks.

Others have talked periodically of the importance of broadening the GOP base, but Brock is the first national chairman to put the party's money and muscle where its rhetoric is.

BROCK PERSUADED the charismatic Jesse Jackson to address the full RNC at its Washington meeting earlier this year and Jackson electrified the audience—garnering a flood of additional speaking invitations from GOP state organizations.

On Brock's orders, the national party has stepped forward to underwrite the financially starving public affairs program, "America's Black Forum," which has been threatened by a lack of commercial sponsorship.

All this activity unquestionably has helped the Republican image in the black community, but suspicions linger about the depth of GOP concern. For all of Brock's nuts-and-bolts work, and his efforts to emphasize GOP proposals that appeal to blacks, there remain some very real schisms.

A CLASSIC example was a tentative agenda item for a conference of state and national Republican officeholders in another state.

"Resolved: we support affirmative action...however, we oppose government action which discriminates...by imposing quotas based upon race, color (etc)."

True, there's no question that the "quotas" issue—by whatever name—is a burning one in today's society. And in opposing such numerical standards, the GOP is very much in tune with the white majority.

BUT THIS very issue and its companion, reverse discrimination, constitute a red flag to blacks fearful that no further progress towards equal opportunity can be achieved in the absence of such spurs.

Brock knew the affirmative action item was to be included for discussion but did not protest. "It's an issue we've got to face," he said. Maybe so.

But it's also the kind of issue on which the GOP and blacks are likely to remain light years apart philosophically. Moreover, it's symptomatic of the very real differences of perspective that may barricade GOP inroads among its much-sought-after black vote.

'I've Come For My Annual Bite'

James J. Kilpatrick:

Corporations Are 'People' Too

WASHINGTON—Under the Supreme Court's recent decision in the Massachusetts case, corporations may now exercise a right of free speech they never knew they had.

The idea takes a little getting used to, but on balance, the public interest will be well served. The case arose in the summer of 1976. Massachusetts had scheduled a referendum for November of that year on a state constitutional amendment. The object of the amendment was to let the state legislature impose an individual income tax.

The First National Bank of Boston, in common with other banks and corporations, strongly opposed the proposition and wanted to mount a campaign of paid advertising against it.

Such a campaign would have violated a Massachusetts law making it a crime for any corporation to make expenditures "for the purpose of influencing the vote on referendum proposals."

THE STATUTE specifically prohibited expenditures on the issue of an income tax, and generally limited corporations to paid advertising on referenda "materially affecting" their own business.

The First National Bank, and other plaintiffs, sought an injunction to prohibit prosecution under the law, but the Massachusetts Supreme Court upheld the statute.

A few days ago, the U.S. Supreme Court, by a 5-4 vote, reversed. The effect is to nullify the Massachusetts law, and by extension to nullify similar restrictive statutes in 30 other states.

Speaking for the Court, Justice Powell drew a clear distinction between elections and referenda. Elections involve candidates; referenda involve issues.

The Court's opinion grants no new rights to corporations in the area of campaign contributions.

BUT WHEN IT comes to issues, corporations no longer can be denied the liberty to speak their corporate minds.

The question, said Justice Powell, is not whether the corporations have First Amendment rights that are coextensive with individual rights of free speech.

The question is, rather, whether the Massachusetts law abridges the liberty of expressions of the First Amendment was intended to protect. "We hold that it does."

The speech proposed by the plaintiff corporations, in opposition to a proposed tax, "is at the heart of the First Amendment's protection."

If individual persons wanted to buy advertising space to take sides on a referendum, "no one would suggest that the state could silence their proposed speech."

CORPORATIONS MAY be artificial persons, but even so, they have "at least the liberty to discuss publicly and truthfully all matters of public concern without previous restraint or fear of subsequent punishment."

Such speech "is the type of speech indispensable to decision making in a democracy, and this is no less true because the speech comes from a corporation rather than an individual."

The majority's opinion drew a strong dissent from Justice White, who objected to the whole idea of corporations using their wealth "to acquire an unfair advantage in the political process."

He saw no reason under the Constitution why a state could not prohibit corporate expenditures for ideological purposes.

The decision will serve one useful purpose in correcting the imbalance that now exists in many states. Labor unions have been free, of course, to use their funds in supporting or opposing referendum questions.

Corporations will now have the same opportunity to shape public opinion for or against.

JUSTICE WHITE, in an extravagant phrase, feared that corporations might use their freedom "to consume" the states. So large an apprehension has small support.

Insurance companies are divided on no-fault insurance: auto companies have different views on the air bag; United Airlines supports deregulation while other airlines oppose it; supermarket corporations split on the Agency for Consumer Advocacy. And so on.

Banks and other corporations depend for their survival on a healthy social and economic climate. Even when public issues do not directly affect their profits, these issues may indirectly affect them in all kinds of ways.

In the absence of any good reason to gag them, they ought to have a right to speak out.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

'On' Ramp Needed

LUBBOCK'S only realistic chance to begin relieving its steadily worsening traffic problem during this century will get its first major test of public support Tuesday night.

A public meeting is set for 8 p.m. at the Ballenger School, 40th St. and Ave. L, to discuss the extension of Interstate 27 across the city.

Highway engineers have analyzed 13 routes suggested at earlier public meetings. Tuesday night's session is part of the process for narrowing these down to a precious few.

If all goes well, a public hearing can be held within 12 months on a specific route. Even after the route is nailed down, we still would be years away from even beginning construction.

The greater the public support, and the lesser the opposition, however, the sooner the process can be completed.

AFTER THEIR own studies of the alternatives, city and county officials are agreed that the expressway should be built between Avenues A and H, allowing a block or two on either side of that broad corridor for design flexibility.

My own thought is that—for the greatest benefit to the public—it ought to snuggle up as closely as possible to the east side of the downtown business district, then angle to the western side of the proposed corridor before it crosses 34th Street.

This would help drain traffic from congested arteries west of the CBD if it were made easy to get on and off the I-27 expressway downtown and at 34th and 50th Streets.

Holmes Alexander:

The Greening Of A One-Termer

WASHINGTON—Jimmy Carter, Lawd knows is no giant, but there is a legend that applies. It was said that giants of old had an affinity for the ground on which they walked.

When Daniel Webster, 70, was dying, he said, "The giants grew strong again by touching the earth: the same effect is produced on me by touching the salt seashore."

I write this because I am just back from a President Carter press conference where for the first time his voice, his demeanor, his gestures and his language had presidential strength.

It seemed to me that he had reached down and put his hands on the American earth. He said:

"WE ARE IN a period of relative calm." From his context he meant that the coal strike was over, steel prices had been rolled back, more people had jobs, the stock market was up by 75 points and inflation was no longer running wild. We are returning to normal.

When Carter put his hand on American earth, he was touching something that seemed right. I thought that's why he seems stronger today.

I wished the President had included foreign affairs in the "relative calm" he ascribed to the nation as a whole. The time was right for such a statement because the Secretary of State, Cyrus Vance, was back from a long trip that touched southern Africa and ended in the Soviet Union.

ON THE COSMIC contest of communism vs. freedom, the President was not as wobbly as usual. He was downright sassy to Brezhnev on the matter of the enhanced radiation (neutron) warhead.

The President, in short, took a position of strength against the Russians. It was welcome. We do not know, as yet, what will come of the SALT II negotiations this summer, whether the Russians will back off on the Backfire bomber, or whether we will agree to hobble our cruise missile. But I think every sign is a good sign when it shows the President touching American earth and absorbing strength from it.

About this strength we shall know more in November when the would-be 34 Senators, 35 Governors and the usual number of 435 Representatives are chosen under unusual circumstances.

Time and again at mid-presidential term elections, the Chief Executive's prestige is laid on the line.

Traditionally, he gets a rating in the number of his party members returned or elevated to office, but in November '78 it will be hard to separate Carterites from the opposite.

Almost any interpretation can be placed on the outcome. There is no New Deal or Fair Deal program to stand or fall, for Carter has been anything but a party leader.

What we may learn from the size of the turnout, and from whatever popularity response Carter arouses in his appearances, is the possibility of a one-term President. Until recently the incumbent was taken to be a shoo-in, but this was not true in the cases of Johnson, Nixon and Ford.

At any marked sign of weakness on Carter's part, he is sure to be challenged by fellow Democrats for the 1982 nomination. He is pitifully vulnerable to Governor Jerry Brown of California and Senator Ted Kennedy of Massachusetts.

Though Jimmy Carter, Lawd knows, is no giant, the legend still applies. He will gain strength whenever he makes contact with the genuine American earth.

Under its 20-year plan, the Department of Highways and Public Transportation foresees a distribution of only $81 million in other state and federal funds in Lubbock.

Although the 20-year plan "is not intended as an inflexible, unalterable document," Goode offers little hope for a substantial increase in the amount earmarked for Lubbock, barring a funding miracle.

Lubbock can argue until doom's day—and should—that it is far behind all other cities in Texas in modern transportation arteries, but its last best hope for beginning to catch up is the I-27 route.

SIMONS AND GOODE assure me that they see no reason why construction could not begin on the expressway as soon as all of the environmental impact statements are cleared and the right of way has been acquired.

This assurance is in answer to the complaint that the project is relegated to the second 10 years in the 20-year plan. If there are no unnecessary delays, however, that schedule can be moved forward, according to Simons.

We will still need other east-west street improvements—starting with a long-ago promised 3rd and 4th Street one-way pair—to get the best use out of the north-south I-27 expressway.

That expressway, however, is the key to whatever else can be done to unclog our traffic congestion.

Lubbock can't afford to let this opportunity slip away or get tied up in controversy and red tape.

Death Knell Ringing For Moribund NHI

IT IS CLOSE TO one and a half years since President Carter listed national health insurance among his top legislative priorities and pledged to push hard and fast action.

It is two years since an in-depth survey of a cross-section of the American public disclosed that yearning for a national policy on health care was No. 1 on just about everybody's list.

Now, Carter finally is scheduling a statement of principles on national health insurance for early May, and slating actual proposals to Congress in September.

The legislation's chances for 1978 are near-zero. But the White House domestic policy staff is considering four drafts of plans. Specifically:

(1) A QUASI-PUBLIC corporation, which would administer the national insurance and be responsible for enrolling all eligible persons in the insurance plan; establishing reimbursement policies for health care providers; determining conditions under which individual and professional providers participate; coordinating national health resource development policy.

The corporation would be authorized to receive public funds and private premium contributions—the private payments not to be reflected in the federal budget. An independent board would be responsible for providing the basic coverage.

Such federal programs as Medicare and Medicaid would be eliminated and persons eligible for these programs would be enrolled in the corporation. Private insurance companies would subcontract to administer premium collection and provide payments.

(2) A CONSUMER choice health plan, to provide with protection against major health expenses, yet leave us personally liable for a portion of health costs. It would not apply to low-income groups.

The goal is to motivate us, as consumers, to comparison-shop for a health insurance program or a network of health care providers on the basis of cost—and the presumption is that consumer pressures would compel insurance companies and health providers to market cost-competitive plans.

It is assumed that market pressures would push physicians, hospitals, others, to organize themselves into networks to compete with efficient systems such as Health Maintenance Organizations.

Federal guidelines would include the provision of a minimum benefit package with a limit on consumer out-of-pocket liability; an agreement to allow open enrollment on the basis of community-rated premiums with adjustments for age, sex, and disability.

Joint Naval Exercise Announced

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — Vice President Walter Mondale announced today that the United States would join Australia in naval exercises in the Indian Ocean to underscore America's commitment to the defense of Australia.

Mondale made the announcement after a 2 1/2-hour meeting with Prime Minister Malcolm Fraser and his cabinet during which, the vice president said, they discussed security, uranium sales and nuclear safeguards, international trade, cooperation on solar energy and the problem of Vietnamese refugees.

Mondale gave no details on the naval exercises. But he said the United States is a Pacific power and the joint war games would be a reaffirmation "of our commitment to the security of the region."

He stopped short of saying the exercises were an answer to Soviet naval activity in the Indian Ocean, which Fraser has criticized several times.

Mondale said the number of Soviet warships in the Indian Ocean "varies from time to time and has now dropped back."

"It sometimes varies from month to month," he said.

Mondale spoke from a prepared text on the steps of U.S. Ambassador Philip H. Alston's residence with a chorus of white parrots squawking in the trees nearby.

He said the United States and Australia would also work more closely on nuclear safeguards to prevent uranium from being used for weapons.

Australia, which has one third of the world's easily recoverable reserves of uranium ore, has insisted that its customers agree not to reprocess nuclear wastes into plutonium which could be used for weapons.

"We are very supportive of the Australian position," said Mondale, adding that this is the best way to control "the horrors of nuclear proliferation."

The vice president planned further discussion of the continuing flow of Vietnamese refugees to Southeast Asia and Australia at lunch with Fraser and Alston.

"Australia has been quite helpful in this area, and there will be more discussion on many aspects of this problem," he said.

The vice president's arrival Sunday night coincided with that of two more boats carrying 70 refugees who landed at Darwin, Australia's northern port. More than 1,200 Vietnamese have landed on the north coast since the Communists took over South Vietnam three years ago. The Australians want the United States to take more of them and also to help persuade Southeast Asian governments to stop refugee boats bound for Australia.

Mondale came to Australia after visits to Thailand, the Philippines and Indonesia. He goes Tuesday to New Zealand, the last stop on his tour.

Area Legislator Expects To Keep Speaker's Job

AUSTIN (AP) — Speaker Bill Clayton, D-Springlake, today released a list showing support from enough representatives and House candidates to guarantee him an unprecedented third consecutive term.

Clayton listed names from 110 districts, including all candidates in some races still to be decided by runoffs or the November general election. The list contained 121 names.

A majority of the 150 House members elect the speaker.

Clayton's release of the names followed by two days the party primaries, which determined who will serve from most districts.

"These are solid supporters that have indicated to us over and over — some said, 'Put my name at the top of the list,'" Clayton told a news conference.

Supporters of Rep. Buddy Temple, D-Diboll, the only other candidate for speaker, say he is not ready to concede defeat and still has some hope of victory.

The primaries resulted in the defeat of one senator and three representatives, the smallest legislative turnover in years.

Many of the 89 unopposed incumbents received committee chairmanships or choice assignments from Clayton. Only 19 representatives did not seek re-election.

Sen. Frank Lombardino, D-San Antonio, was the sole casualty in the Senate. The heavy set ex-policeman, a lawmaker for more than 11 years, polled 13,612 votes to 19,471 for Rep. Bob Vale and 15,836 for lawyer Phil Hardeberger.

Vale and Hardeberger will meet in a runoff June 3.

Other lawmakers defeated Saturday were Reps. John Bigham, D-Belton; Abe Ribak, D-San Antonio; and Chris Miller, D-Fort Worth.

Bigham, a nine-year House member, fell to William Messer, a former municipal court judge in Belton.

Ribak, first elected in 1974, was one of the House's more outspoken liberals. He was defeated by George Pierce, who had twice lost House races to Ribak.

Miss Miller was defeated by Rep. Gib Lewis, with whom she was paired in a court-ordered redistricting plan to give Tarrant County minorities and Republicans greater representation.

Lewis, chairman of the House Intergovernmental Relations Committee, beat the ardent feminist almost 3 to 1.

Sens. Betty Andujar, R-Fort Worth; Bill Meier, D-Eules; and Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, all won their contested primaries, and Brooks has no opposition in November.

In the race to fill the Senate seat now held by Kent Hance, D-Lubbock, Texas Tech Regent Don Workman of Lubbock and Rep. E. L. Short, D-Tahoka, will meet in a runoff. The GOP candidate is Rep. Joe Robbins, Lubbock.

Hance won the Democratic primary for congressman from the Lubbock area Saturday.

There will be 11 runoff primaries for the House on June 3 and 62 contested elections in November. Republicans and Democrats will square off for six Senate seats in the fall.

Senators who won their primaries without opposition and have no opponents in November are Peyton McKnight, Tyler; Roy Blake, Nacogdoches; Lindon Wil-

LISD To Hold Funds Hearing

The Lubbock Independent School District has set an open hearing for 1:30 p.m. Tuesday to discuss its application for State Compensatory Education Funds and grants under Title I for the 1978-79 school year.

The meeting will be held in the curriculum center of the school administrative offices building, 1628 19th St.

The application seeks grants of approximately $2,000,000, about $30,000 more than those of the current year, according to Warner Sims, director of special projects for the school district.

Under the proposal, 20 elementary schools would be served under the funds allowed by Title I. Five junior high and three senior high schools would also be aided by the grant. These types of funds are designed to alleviate educational deprivation, Sims noted.

The meeting is open to the public, Sims said.

liams, Houston; Lloyd Doggett, Austin; Pete Snelson, Midland; Raul Longoria, Edinburg; and Ray Farabee, Wichita Falls.

Clayton said he thought the large number of unopposed representatives resulting from the 1977 Legislature's having dealt with "some things the people are concerned about."

"If we hadn't handled medical malpractice or if we had produced a school finance bill favoring one area over another, we would have had lots of incumbents opposed," he said.

Two Remain Jailed For City Shootings

A 49-year-old woman and a 67-year-old man remained in Lubbock County Jail today following two weekend homicides here.

The woman was arrested in connection with the death of 49-year-old Elgin Sylvester Wideman of 24 'D Weber Drive.

The man was jailed on suspicion of shooting 50-year-old Virgie Mae Stokes of 4310 E. 63rd St.

Officers arriving at a 2129 E. 30th St. residence about 4:05 p.m. Saturday found Wideman's body sprawled in a hallway of the home and a bloody butcher knife lying on a coffee table nearby.

Wideman had been stabbed in the chest, shoulder and under the chin, police said.

Witnesses at the residence told police an argument had broken out about a half hour before police were notified. The victim and the woman reportedly had struggled when the man allegedly threatened her with a chair and the knife.

When the woman's son heard the scuffle, he reportedly ran into the house to find her lying on the floor holding her right hand. He reportedly shoved Wideman, who fell to the floor face down in the hallway.

Justice of the Peace L. J. Blalack ruled the death homicide, and services for the man are pending with South Plains Funeral Home.

Services for Mrs. Stokes also are pending with South Plains Funeral Home.

Sheriff's deputies said they found the woman dead after arriving at 4310 E. 63rd St. about 6:25 p.m. Saturday.

She was lying face up just outside the kitchen and had been shot twice in the chest with a .38-caliber weapon, deputies said.

Justice of the Peace Wayne LeCroy ruled her death homicide and ordered an autopsy.

Donny Osmond Marries Brigham Young Student

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Singing star Donny Osmond and college student Debra Glenn were married this morning in the Salt Lake City Mormon Temple, a church spokesman said.

The ceremony came two weeks after the couple announced their engagement. They had said the wedding would be in June.

About 50 people stood outside Temple Square as the couple emerged.

Only family members and friends attended the ceremony in the six-spired granite rock building. Church temples are restricted to faithful members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon), who are barred from discussing in detail what takes place inside.

Elder Paul H. Dunn, a member of the church's Quorum of the Seventy and a longtime Osmond family friend, performed the ceremony.

Church spokesman Jerry Cahill said church officials were informed of the marriage plans late Sunday.

Osmond, 20, who co-stars with his sister Marie on ABC television's "The Donny and Marie Show," and Miss Glenn, 19, announced their engagement in Hawaii April 22.

Miss Glenn, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Avery L. Glenn of Provo, is a freshman at Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah, where Osmond has taken classes. A Billings, Mont., native, she moved to Provo at age 12 and graduated from Provo High School last year.

Ron Clark, Osmond family spokesman, said the couple decided last week to marry today. He said the singer begins a three-week singing engagement in Las Vegas on Tuesday, and wanted Miss Glenn to be with him.

Clark said the wedding party of about 40 persons included the entire Osmond family — mother and father and eight other children.

The engagement was announced while Osmond and his sister Marie were filming the motion picture "Aloha Donny and Marie" in Honolulu. The couple first met in 1975 when Miss Glenn and Jay Osmond doubled with Donny and his date.

States To Sign Red River Pact

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Officials from Oklahoma and three other states will meet Friday to sign an agreement they say may begin the move to keep Red River Basin water from being drawn off by arid regions seeking relief through federal courts.

But the signing will be only the first step and officials of Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana say that final implementation may be years away.

The Red River Compact, a 31-page document 22 years in the making, provides for "equitable distribution" of water from Oklahoma's southern border and its tributaries should the four states decide to tap the river's vast potential.

"It divides up the water where everybody is guaranteed some," said James Barnett, acting director of the Oklahoma Water Resources Board. "It's a tradeoff of sorts between the states."

The signing at Denison Dam on the Oklahoma-Texas border is expected to attract officials from areas all along the 1,300-mile river. But it will be years before the plan goes into effect.

The legislatures of the four states must approve the measure as it is now written. If that is done, then Congress must approve the compact and it must be signed by the president.

If rejected, representatives of the four states would have to go back to the negotiating table for the 61st time since the first session was held in 1956.

Energy Aid Payments To Continue

Because of Congressional extension of the Emergency Energy Assistance Program, the Community Services Agency will be able to continue certifying eligible persons for utility payments until May 20, the agency has announced.

The original cutoff date was May 1. New funds will be added to Lubbock's Community Services allocated budget of $45,600, which will be used to pay utility bills for those persons meeting the eligibility requirements.

The maximum income for one person in order to be eligible is $3,925, and each additional family member cannot have an income of more than $1,075, Archie Bottoms, director of Community Services here, said.

These payments are only for current or past due bills, he said, adding that the money cannot be used to build credit with the utility companies.

Also, no money is given those who qualify for payments, he said. The person presents the bill and the agency takes the bill and payment to the utility company.

"No one automatically has a right" to qualify for these payments, Bottoms said. Other factors besides economic eligibility are considered, he said, and special priority is always given to the elderly and the handicapped.

Anyone who thinks he qualifies for these payments should contact the Community Services Agency or go by one of the offices at 820 Texas, in Green Fair Manor, at 3rd St. and Ave. P or the new office at 2407 1st St., Bottoms said.

COLLEGES ASSOCIATION
The North Central Association of Colleges and Schools was founded in 1895 to develop and maintain standards of excellence for universities, colleges and schools. Its first universities and colleges were accredited in 1913.

Overseas Investments Sought

By PHILIP GREER
And MYRON KANDEL

Wall Street may be basking in the stock market's best rally in years, but a sizable chunk of "smart" money is starting to look outside the U.S. for better investment opportunities.

So far, according to participants and observers we've talked to, there isn't anything like a trend established. Wall Street is still the world's most favored investment market. But these sources say interest in overseas investment is getting stronger among professional investors and there have been some significant shifts of capital.

The most important move occurred recently at Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., whose trust department manages more of other people's money — mostly in big pension funds — than any other bank in the country. Morgan has earmarked about $250 million for investment outside the U.S., in effect telling its clients that a portion of their money will go overseas unless they order otherwise. Banks generally don't take steps like that on their own initiative.

As we get the picture, the movement so far is limited to institutional investors and the larger, more sophisticated individuals. Up to now, most U.S. investors have shied away from foreign companies. For one thing, information on foreign firms is harder to come by than figures on U.S. companies — unless they happen to be listed on a U.S. exchange, which means they have to comply with normal disclosure requirements. Even more importantly, though, Americans are not as accustomed to foreign investments as their European counterparts, who generally cross borders — in person or by check — almost as a part of everyday living.

That may change, though. Putnam Management Co. in Boston has been shifting its Putnam Equities Fund into foreign stocks and bonds. The fund, which once held well over $100 million, is down to about $38 million now and about 60 percent of that is invested outside the U.S. Putnam president Robert Riley told us that the goal is to be about 70 percent invested overseas — that includes Japan — and then the fund will start more actively seeking investors.

Riley said his company has been studying overseas markets for about five years and the shift, which involves only a small part of Putnam's overall fund assets, was made because "over the last 20 years, economies overseas have grown faster than our own."

Michael Lipper, whose Lipper Analytical Services monitors nearly 500 mutual funds, told us he expects to see more Americans putting investment dollars into foreign markets.

Lipper said foreign investment still gets a lot more lip service than action — a reading that is echoed by several fund managers — but he pointed out that the best year (before the rally got started) was scored by funds heavy in foreign stocks.

The best of all, he said, was Nomura Capital Fund, which has all its money in Japanese stocks. Second place went to Sherman-Dean Fund, which owns a big slug of Philippines-based Benguet Corp. And, of course, the Templeton Growth Fund, based in the Bahama Islands with a heavy commitment outside the U.S. has long been one of the premier fund performers.

Lipper said, though, that it will be some time before Americans take to foreign companies. "If you analyze wealthy investors," he said, "you find that, along with the Japanese, Americans are the only ones who haven't really diversified abroad."

He pointed out, though, that interest is growing, with a sharp increase in the number of funds trading in gold. And, he said, "there's more gold traded on the Commodity Exchange (New York) and the International Monetary Market (Chicago) than anywhere else in the world."

Foreign investment funds, of course, are nothing new. Recently, in fact, many of them have had trouble attracting and holding shareholders. Over the last year, Nomura Capital has lost $2 million in total assets, slipping from $28 million to $26 million, even though its value per share has gone up (from $9.20 to around $12 in the first quarter alone). New Perspectives Fund has slid from $166 million to $156 million in the same period and the picture is pretty much the same of the whole group of funds.

Nevertheless, a number of observers think interest in foreign investment will continue to grow. They note that the weakness of the U.S. dollar has made American stocks and bonds doubly risky. The price of the securities could fall or their value could be eroded by the dollar's slide. The recent strength in the dollar, which is credited with touching off the stock market rally, is still too new to assure a long-term reversal. So the chances are that more and more American money managers will be focusing on far-away investment.

Woodruff Invented Pullman Cars

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although the railway sleeper car is still known as a Pullman, it was actually originated by another "sleeper" in the field of invention.

Theodore T. Woodruff, of Watertown, N.Y., was granted patents for a special railway seat and couch in 1856. The next year — two years before George Pullman — Woodruff built a sleeping car with backing from friends, according to Intellectual Property Owners, Inc. (IPO), a non-profit group dedicated to strengthening the patent system to encourage innovation and creativity.

At first, the railroads were not interested, says IPO. Then, the New York Central allowed him to try his car on the New York-Buffalo night express, charging 50 cents for each of the 12 sleeping sections. With orders from the Pennsylvania Railroad in 1858, Woodruff began his operation in Philadelphia. He obtained additional patents, but sold his interest in the business in 1862.

On May 2, 1892, at the age of 81, Woodruff was killed by a speeding express train, long after Pullman had won a near-monopoly in the sleeping car business, says IPO.

RAMSEY'S LAW: THE FLAG IS ALWAYS FLONN ON THE HIGHEST PEAK

Reading Improvement Becomes Major Concern

HOUSTON (AP) — Growing pressure from parents and state legislatures to do something about children who cannot read was foremost in the minds of teachers, school administrators and educational publishers who gathered here last week at the 23rd annual International Reading Association convention.

And while many of the 11,000 registered participants agreed that increasing numbers of youngsters are leaving school unable to perform minimal skills necessary to survive in the late 20th century, there was less agreement on how to stem the tide of functional illiterates.

Suggestions ranged from offering monetary incentives to teachers who work in schools where reading is a serious problem to using newspapers to teach reading and comprehension skills.

Ruth Ann Plate, a reading supervisor from Lorain, Ohio, showed how teachers are using the Lorain Journal to teach reading and comprehension skills to students who have reached junior high school without being able to read.

"There was great concern that we were testing comprehension skills but doing very little to teach them," said Mrs. Plate, who set up the program after the newspaper agreed to donate 800 copies a week to the schools.

A U.S. Office of Education study carried out in 1975 revealed one out of every five adult Americans is incapable of understanding written instructions necessary in carrying out daily activities. These 23 million persons are called functional illiterates — they can read words but they often don't understand what they mean.

Minimal competency and accountability are terms used frequently during meetings and in informal conversation with participants. Many school boards and state legislatures now require proof that students leaving school know how to read a want-ad and write a check. And they hold teachers responsible for students' failure to pass competency tests.

Clare Lynch O'Brien, an educational consultant to the children's television program "Big Blue Marble", said teachers are concerned about the effect of television on learning.

"They say television gives children poor role models and discourages them from reading — and they're often right," she said. "There's something very wrong when you think that by the time a child leaves high school he has spent 15,000 hours watching television and only 12,000 hours in the classroom."

Carnetta Blakely, a former reading teacher now with the North Carolina Department of Education, said pressure to improve reading and comprehension skills has been filtering down from the top.

Zero-Based Budgeting Lauded

By WALTER R. MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Since budget reform was one of President Carter's keynote campaign promises, it is not surprising that the White House has declared the debut year of zero-base budgeting to be a success.

ing it a major point in his campaign promise to improve the efficiency and organization of the federal government.

While the administration says it is working, not everyone agrees. The Republican National Committee cites a study by the Brookings Institution which suggested that zero-base budgeting is not well suited for the federal government, and may even reduce the chances of big cuts in old programs.

"As is the case of many Carter promises, zero-base budgeting works better in theory than in practice," the Republicans said.

So far, neither the critics nor the administration has the facts and figures to prove its case.

Analysis

But don't look for numbers to prove it. There aren't any, although the administration says the benefits will be more visible in the future.

So far, according to the Office of Management and Budget, the zero-base system has produced subtle but nonetheless real improvements in the management of the federal government.

In essence, the report says that Carter's $500 billion federal budget would have been higher if he had not ordered government officials to start from scratch in justifying spending requests, instead of building their cases on prior appropriations.

It does not say how much higher. "Although it would be desirable to point to a single figure that represents the total ZBB savings, it is not possible to do so," the administration appraisal says.

For one thing, it says, new policies and new people, as well as the new system, accounted for budget decisions that saved money. For another, the administration reports that some spending proposals never got to budget draftsmen because the new system caught them at lower levels of the bureaucracy.

The report also claims improvements in management and efficiency that can't be put into dollar terms, although it also acknowledges some bureaucratic difficulties in coping with the change, and an increase in paperwork on the budget.

The zero base system is built around program assessments called decision packages, which then are assigned priorities in spending proposals. There were about 25,000 of them in the preparation of Carter's budget, and about 10,000 of them worked their way up to the Office of Management and Budget, last stop in the process.

The suspicion persists that some bureaucrats filled out the new forms guided by the old rules, and simply recommended a little more money than they got the year before.

Others played a familiar game: since they had to recommend cuts, they proposed changes they knew would not be made. Or, as the Office of Management and Budget put it in bureaucratic jargon: "the minimum levels were arbitrarily developed below realistic levels."

For all that, the White House says the new system is good and is going to get better next year.

Carter said long ago that he wouldn't claim the new budgeting system would create instant miracles in the federal government.

It hasn't, and the White House report seems to strain a bit to cite benefits in the first year of zero-base budgeting. For example, the National Transportation Safety Board decided to worry less about trespasser accidents and more about general rail safety. The Environmental Protection Agency decided to transfer 12 percent of the people in its pesticide program to other duties. The Labor Department eliminated 32 low-priority positions.

Carter already has sent instructions to government executives to cut down on the red tape and make sure the system is applied more extensively in preparing the next budget.

He brought the zero-base system to Washington with him after instituting it as governor of Georgia — and after mak-

Railroad Upkeep Said Improving

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interstate Commerce Commission says the nation's largest railroads are continuing to slowly catch up on maintenance problems and capital improvements that were put off over years of declining profits.

The ICC said deferred maintenance and delayed capital improvements for Class I railroads amounted to $4 billion on June 30, 1977, compared with $4.1 billion on Dec. 31, 1976, and $4.9 billion on June 30, 1974.

Thunderstorms Strike In Mississippi Valley

Thunderstorms that caused weekend flooding in parts of the central Gulf Coast states continued over sections of the Mississippi Valley and moved eastward today. Heavy rain fell from Missouri through Arkansas.

However, fair skies Lubbock experienced Sunday and this morning were predicted to remain through Tuesday, along with warm afternoons.

The high today is expected to reach the upper 70s, dropping to near 50 tonight, with winds blowing from the west-northwest at 15 to 20 miles per hour. The high temperature for Tuesday is expected to reach 80 degrees.

Blowing dust marred the pleasant temperatures in Lubbock today. Winds were gusting up to 35 mph shortly before noon. Fair and warm weather is expected in Lubbock area and West Texas.

Flash flood watches were issued for southern Illinois, southeastern Missouri, Tennessee, northern Alabama and Mississippi. A tornado watch was issued for eastern Arkansas, extreme southeastern Missouri, northeastern Louisiana, western Tennessee and northwestern Mississippi.

Heavy weekend rains caused flooding in parts of Mississippi and Louisiana. Hardest hit was Shreveport, La., where police used boats to evacuate several hundred people from their homes after 5.27 inches of rain fell Saturday and Sunday. A temporary shelter was set up but most of the people had returned to their homes or those of friends and relatives by early today, authorities said.

Baton Rouge and New Orleans also had some flooding, but officials said it was mostly confined to low-lying areas and subsided quickly.

Storms also caused lowland flooding Sunday in southeastern Nebraska and eastern Kansas. A tornado tore a mile-long path through a rural area south of Parsons, in southeastern Kansas, uprooting trees, snapping power line poles and toppling fuel tanks at a mineral plant. No one was injured.

Although a storm that dumped three feet of snow over the weekend on the Rockies and northern Plains lost much of its punch, rain and snow continued to fall on parts of the area today. A travel advisory was out for southwestern South Dakota, while stockmen and travel advisories were issued for northeastern Wyoming.

The weekend storm closed roads temporarily, cut power lines, toppled trees and caused extensive lamb and sheep losses. At least two buildings collapsed in Boulder — the 106-year-old Arnett Hotel and the Colorado Division of Employment Training building.

Rain or showers also covered a large part of the east-central United States from the Virginias through the Carolinas and scattered portions of Kentucky and Tennessee today. Widely scattered showers also dotted central Florida and isolated thunderstorms roamed through east Texas.

As the rain moved eastward through the Mississippi Valley, gradual clearing brought fog, with extensive dense fog forming in western portions of Iowa and Missouri and over eastern Nebraska.

DR. LAMB

Cure For Fatigue Sought

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.
 DEAR DR. LAMB — Are you familiar with chronic fatigue and do you know a possible cure for it? If so can help me? Here's my problem. For the past seven years I have had chronic fatigue even though I pass all my physical fitness tests by many doctors. I am 19, eat a balanced diet, sleep eight hours a day and exercise. Is his fatigue all in my head? If so I am tired of it and want to get rid of it.

enjoy. We are all like that. And we all know how tiresome it is to do something you don't enjoy. I'm sure that is why a number of housewives have fatigue — they don't enjoy house work and it is not sufficiently challenging to them.

Then there are basic conflicts in life that are not resolved and the teen years are full of them. Some of these conflicts may be beneath the surface and still sapping your energy. If you happen to have a basic conflict with your parents and are still living at home that can be a drag.

Habits may sap your energy — particularly excessive smoking. You would be surprised at how many people have more energy when they quit.

So what can you do? I think a medical examination is important for everyone who really has persistent fatigue because one out of five people has an important underlying medical problem that is a contributing factor if not the sole cause. Since you have apparently been given a clean bill of health I think you should see a psychologist or psychiatrist for some professional counseling. He may be able to review your attitudes and find out what is missing in your life that would turn you on.

Sometimes you have to work at changing your environment or meeting new people or whatever is required to have a turnaround in your attitude toward life and your ability to enjoy it. Unless you are happy you can't feel energetic.

I am also sending you The Health Letter number 9-6, Fatigue: Feeling Tired and Wary. It will review the problem in more depth for you. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 326, San Antonio, 78292.

While you are resolving your basic problem and getting help you might readjust your diet. Try eliminating all the sweets and concentrate on proteins, fresh fruits and vegetables, whole grain cereals and dairy products. This may smooth out the way you absorb carbohydrates and improve your energy level some, but I don't want you to use that as a substitute for getting some professional counseling.

Bureaucrats Earn Much, Work Little

WASHINGTON (AP) — Those nasty rumors are true. Our taxes do pay civil servants big salaries — as much as $50,000 a year — to do little or nothing, say administration officials who claim some high-salaried workers haven't been seen in the office in years.

The reason? It's easier to leave incompetents on the payroll but pushed out of sight than it is to fire them.

"We found $50,000 in welfare cases. We were paying them to stay away. One person on a very high salary hadn't been seen there for years," William Drayton, assistant administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, told the Senate Government Operations Committee last week.

Drayton said administration officials began looking at bureaucratic waste when Carter took office — seeking out sand-bagging workers for dismissal. But he said department and agency managers discovered they were spending about 30 percent of their time on dismissal preparations only to find it wasted because of minor procedural errors.

In one case, Drayton said, he found a $40,000-a-year bureaucrat performing at the level of a $10,000 worker.

"I told him to look for another job. He said he wouldn't. He knows we won't do anything about it because we can't spend the time."

Barbara Blum, EPA deputy administrator, joined in the complaining, primarily about civil service hiring practices that give veterans lifetime preference.

She said a test score bonus given veterans is thwarting her attempts to hire women and minorities.

As the system works now, agencies needing a worker are given three names by the commission. Usually, the candidates all are white men because of the point bonus, she said.

"If those three veterans are not as qualified, we have to go back to the Civil Service Commission with each veteran to explain why they are not qualified and then we have to go to the next veteran on the list," she told the committee.

She said the procedure can take a year or longer and, by then, the minority candidate has been hired by a private employer.

Carter wants to cut veterans' lifetime preference to 10 years, except for disabled former soldiers.

Scientists Term Discovery Of Bones Exciting

SAN YSIDRO, N.M. (UPI) — Paleontologists say they are excited about the discovery of the skeleton of a species of Sauropod dinosaur in an arroyo.

"It's a highly interesting and very important discovery," said Barry Kues, a paleontologist and assistant professor of geology at the University of New Mexico.

Kues said the bones, being excavated from a rock formation on Bureau of Land Management land, may be from a species of Sauropod previously unknown to science.

"If this species is new to science, this discovery will add to our knowledge of the types present 140 million years ago," he said. "It also will add to our knowledge about the geographic distribution of dinosaurs."

The dinosaur, which roamed the earth about 140 million years ago, weighed from 20 to 30 tons and was 60 to 70 feet long. It was in the same family as the Brontosaurus.

Kues said the first bones of the dinosaur apparently were found 15 years ago by a rockhound, identified as Bill Johnstone. Kues said Johnstone's effort to get someone interested in the bones "apparently got very little response."

About three weeks ago, a BLM paleontologist went to the site at Johnstone's suggestion and discovered more bones.

Serious excavation work was begun and during the digging, several vertebrae, ribs, a collarbone and limbs were recovered.

"It looks very well preserved and complete, and we should be able to get the bones out intact and piece the skeleton back together," Kues said.

Kissinger Proposes More Aid To Israel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger today urged Congress to tell the Carter administration that Israel should get more jet fighters than the administration now proposes to sell.

Kissinger told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that the number of planes for Israel in the administration's proposal is "at the very lowest end of the spectrum."

The package submitted to Congress by the Carter administration includes 15 F-15s and 75 F-16s for Israel, 60 F-15s for Saudi Arabia and 50 F-5s for Egypt.

Kissinger appeared on Capitol Hill while reports were circulating that the administration was ready to submit a compromise that would increase the number of planes for the Israelis.

A prominent Senate backer of Israel said such a compromise would be welcomed on Capitol Hill, where the proposed sale of the sophisticated F-15s to Saudi Arabia has drawn opposition.

At the White House, Press Secretary Jody Powell today indicated the administration would consider any compromise that promised to avoid a divisive battle with Congress so long as it did not involve altering the present proposals for sales to Israel, Egypt and Saudi Arabia.

Powell said Carter repeatedly has "made it quite clear that the proposals now before Congress will not be altered." He added, "What is possible outside those limits remains to be seen."

Noting that discussions of a possible compromise currently are being held on Capitol Hill, Powell said, "I do not know what the upshot of those discussions will be" and could not "deal with what might be the bottom line."

Kissinger said that while he was in office, the numbers discussed in terms of modernizing the Israeli air force "were several orders of magnitude" higher than the Carter administration proposal.

"The original discussions did not take into consideration arming of Arab states," the former secretary of state added.

While urging an increase in the number of planes for Israel, Kissinger also endorsed the sales to Saudi Arabia and Egypt and said both countries "deserve our support."

Kissinger said he and others in the Ford administration had "technical discussions" in 1975 with the Saudis about the future sale of American jets to Saudi Arabia. He said the Saudis were told then that the F-15 was an "appropriate" plane for them to request. But he said no formal Saudi request was made until the Carter administration took office, partly because the Ford administration had put off the matter pending resolution of an Israeli request for co-production of the F-15. That request was eventually turned down.

Kissinger said, "All the political decisions with respect to the timing, the numbers and the package were made in the current administration."

As for the sale of the less-sophisticated F-5s to Egypt, Kissinger said it would have only a marginal effect on the military balance in the Middle East and was largely a symbolic gesture of U.S. support for Egypt. Kissinger said Saudi Arabia faces a growing military threat. He said the Saudis face Soviet-armed South Yemen and Cuban-assisted Ethiopia on its southern flank and a hostile Iraq to the North.

"Saudi Arabia can be excused for believing it is in a gigantic pincer," Kissinger said.

Kissinger was the last scheduled witness before the Foreign Relations Committee acts on Carter's proposal.

Berkowitz Enters Pleas Of Guilty

NEW YORK (AP) — David R. Berkowitz pleaded guilty today to all six of the "Son of Sam" killings that terrorized the city in a year-long random murder rampage.

The 24-year-old pudgy former postal clerk from Yonkers appeared before a packed courtroom and the parents of two of his victims as Supreme Court justices from Brooklyn and The Bronx took pleas of guilty from Berkowitz. He calmly admitted being the killer who struck at night with a .44-caliber revolver.

He had been charged with second-degree murder in the six killings. His guilty pleas today were to the second-degree murder charges.

During the second of two extraordinary court sessions, Bronx District Attorney Mario Merola revealed to the courtroom that Berkowitz had claimed responsibility for setting 2,000 fires in New York City since 1974. He said a spot check of the claims, contained in Berkowitz' diaries, revealed that the fires had occurred.

Many Lubbock Schools Involved In New Plan

Here's a rundown on how each Lubbock school will be affected by the integration plan approved by U.S. District Judge Halbert O. Woodward.

High Schools
Dunbar's attendance zone will be unchanged. But the campus will be expanded to include nearby Struggs Junior High facilities. Dunbar will offer special courses to draw students voluntarily from other high schools.

The "magnet" courses at Dunbar will include electronics, home economics cooperative education, distributive education, cooperative health education and industrial cooperative training. Those courses will be discontinued at Coronado and Monterey. Students at Coronado and Monterey wanting to enroll in such programs will be assigned to Dunbar. For next year, seniors will have the option of graduating with Dunbar or their previous school.

Dunbar also will offer computer science, jazz-rock laboratories, class piano and commercial art (photography, advertising, fashion design, cartooning, etc.) — all unique to Lubbock — as magnet courses.

Students transferring to Dunbar for these special courses or vocational courses will be assigned to Dunbar fulltime. Dunbar also will institute many programs not previously offered due to low enrollment. These are honors courses in English, math, science and history, and competitive athletics in golf and baseball.

Dunbar may offer optional early-morning (7:30 a.m.) classes especially for students who need to get to jobs before noon.

The school district will provide "shuttle bus" transportation between Dunbar and other high schools for transferring students.

The district projects Dunbar will attract 340 students in addition to the 500 residing in the Dunbar zone. The school's enrollment would be about 46 percent white.

Judge Rules

He said the school board must report to him the number and race of students who have signed up to attend Dunbar and Iles by Aug. 1.

If not enough whites sign up, Woodward said, "the court will order new plans for one or more of these schools prior to the opening of the 1978-79 school year to insure that neither of these campuses will be classified as segregated."

The O.L. Slaton attendance zone will be moved from Avenue H to Avenue A. This will reduce the size of the Struggs zone. Struggs will be closed as a junior high.

For the 1978-79 year, seventh-graders living in the Struggs zone will go to Atkins; eighth-graders to Hutchinson; and ninth-graders to O.L. Slaton.

For the 1979-80 year, seventh-graders living in the Struggs zone will go to O.L. Slaton; eighth-graders to Atkins; and ninth-graders to Hutchinson.

Beginning with the 1980-81 year, all seventh-, eighth- and ninth-graders living in the Struggs zone will go to a new junior high school to be built at 80th Street and Avenue N.

This new school also will serve all junior high students living south of Loop 289 and east of Memphis Avenue. The school will open with about 1,000 students, one third of them minority.

Bus transportation will be provided for students residing more than two miles from their assigned campus.

Elementary Schools
Sanders will be closed and zoned into Guadalupe.

Southeast Elementary will be closed. For the 1978-79 year, Southeast students will be assigned to Brown. Thereafter, they will attend a new elementary school to be built at 75th Street and Albany Avenue.

Iles will offer several unique programs, including supervised activities from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., to attract students voluntarily from throughout the city. The Iles magnet is projected to draw enough whites to have an initial enrollment 38 percent white, increasing to 54 percent white in the third year.

Parents will have to provide transportation for students who come early and stay late at Iles. Transportation for transfer students who will be attending only the regular school hours will be provided by the district from "three or four centralized pickup points" in the city.

The attendance zones of Iles, Wheatley, Posey, Martin, Mahon and Guadalupe (including Sanders) will send half of their students in each grade except kindergarten to predominantly white schools. This assignment plan will be designed so that each pupil in the six designated schools spends every other year outside his neighborhood. Some will be assigned for grades one, three and five; others, for grades two, four and six.

For the 1978-79 year, Iles will send its students to Wheelock. Thereafter, Iles students will be sent to a new elementary at 86th Street and Memphis Avenue.

For the 1978-79 year, Wheatley will send its students to Overton. Thereafter, Wheatley will send its students to a new elementary at 76th Street and Elgin Avenue.

Posey will send its students to Stubbs. Martin will send its students to Maedgen.

Mahon will send its students to Hardwick.

Guadalupe (encompassing Sanders) will send its students to Stewart.

The predominantly minority schools of Arnett, Bean, Bozeman, Harwell, Hunt, Jackson, McWhorter, Parkway, Tubbs, Wolfarth and Wright will neither send nor receive students.

Each predominantly white school will send one or two grade levels to a designated non-neighborhood school. Half the students in the levels to be reassigned will go the first semester of the school year, half will go the second semester.

Bayless will send grades two and four to Posey. Thus, students coming through the Bayless system always will be required to spend one semester of second grade and one semester of fourth grade at Posey.

In the same way, Bowie will send grades two and six to Guadalupe. Brown will send its first grade to Posey.

Hardwick will send sixth grade to Mahon. Haynes will send grades two and four to Wheatley.

Maedgen will send its third grade to Mahon. Murfee will send grades five and six to Wheatley.

Overton will send its first grade to Guadalupe. Parsons will send grades three and four to Martin.

Rush will send grades two and five to Mahon. Stewart will send its first grade to Martin.

Stubbs will send its fourth grade to Guadalupe. Wester will send grades three and five to Posey.

Wheelock will send grades two and six to Martin. Williams will send grades five and six to Posey.

Wilson will send grades three and five to Guadalupe. For the 1978-79 year only, Dupre will send its fifth grade to Martin. Also for next year only, Hodges will send its first and third grades to Wheatley. Thereafter, Dupre and Hodges will not send any students.

For the 1979-80 year, three new elementary schools will open south of Loop 289.

The school at 75th Street and Albany Avenue will send its fifth grade to Martin.

The school at 86th Street and Memphis Avenue will send its first grade to Wheatley.

The school at 76th Street and Elgin Avenue will send its third grade to Wheatley. The district will provide transportation between each elementary school and its "sister school." Until new schools are built, special pickups will be made south of Loop 289 for students being reassigned for integration purposes.

County To Open Bids On New Jail In June struction and that nothing could be done to prevent such an occurrence here.

"I guess we could keep a list of who all works on it and not ever throw any of them in jail," Brazzel joked.

Sheriff C.H. Blanchard and jail administrator Gary McGrew also said nothing could be done to preclude the possibility.

Judge Rod Shaw and Commissioner Jim Lancaster are attending a national Council of Governments meeting in Denver, Colo., and were not at the meeting this morning.

In other business, the court approved May 22 for the opening of bids on a parking lot between Broadway and 13th Street and between Avenues H and G. Maeker explained that the lot will provide replacement parking for space to be lost when the jail construction starts.

County juvenile probation officer Lloyd Watts reported approval of a $40,000 Texas Criminal Justice Division grant for phase II planning on a juvenile detention center.

The Austin architects firm of Barnes, Landis, Goodman and Youngblood should have the blueprints and documents ready by August, Watts said.

Nine acres of land for the project have been purchased in northwest Lubbock south of Loop 289 at Boston Avenue.

The commissioners accepted low bids on two purchases: $3,750 from Porter Spray Co. of Lubbock for Precinct 3 roadside spray equipment; and $927 from Hartgraphics of Austin for 3,000 casebinders for the county clerk.

Developer Bobby Fletcher won preliminary plat approval for Cheyenne County Estates, Subdivision at West 34th and Texas 179. Fletcher proposes to have 43 one-acre lots for residential construction.

Actor Ray Milland won an Oscar in 1945 for his work in "The Lost Weekend."

Town Pays Tribute To Glenn Miller

CLARINDA, Iowa (UPI) — Irene Miller Wolfe came to remember her brother and she brought her dancing shoes.

Bob Brown was excited because the music brought back memories of a happy time.

They were two of the participants at a weekend gathering to honor a famous native son, bandleader Glenn Miller, who was born in Clarinda on March 4, 1904. Miller was killed in an Air Force plane crash in Europe in 1944, at the height of his fame.

"I am not a native of Clarinda," Mrs. Wolfe said, "but we come back every year from our home in Estes Park, Colo. We come to remember Glenn and we come to dance to the wonderful, wonderful music."

Clarinda began the Glenn Miller Festival as part of its Bicentennial celebration and the interest has grown.

The festival gives people a chance to tour the Glenn Miller museum, view movies that included Miller music and dance to the big band sounds.

"People are excited about Miller's music and the return of the Big Band. I am involved because I grew up when it was happening. His was my music. Many people today still find it theirs," said Brown, chairman of this year's event. "We hear from more and more fans all over the country and the world now."

The people of Clarinda also are working on the formation of a Glenn Miller Birthplace Society, a group to help coordinate the efforts of all Miller societies around the world.

But for Mrs. Wolfe, the festival is a time to remember and enjoy.

"I think it shows just how good and how lasting the Miller music was that it's still here today. People still enjoy dancing to it. To have lasted this long is the mark of good, good tunes," she said.

The current revision of many of Miller's tunes to a disco beat also indicates a mark of quality, she said.

There is no specific Miller tune which is a favorite for Mrs. Wolfe and her husband, Welby. "We've been dancing to it all for more than 30 years and don't plan on stopping now," she said.

Miller, with his training in classical music and dedication to perfection, might have been a little angry with some of today's music, his sister admitted. "But, by and large, there are a lot of beautiful new tunes. He would have thought most of it was good," she said.

Briscoe Admits Defeat By Hill

tary under Presidents Nixon and Ford, had no trouble defeating Dallas lawyer, Ray Hutchinson, a former state GOP chairman. The oilman garnered an even 73 percent of the ballots to Hutchinson's 24.28 percent. A third candidate, Clarence Thompson of Fort Worth, took the remaining 2.71 percent without campaigning.

Former Texas Gov. Preston Smith, who had been considered by many the man to force Hill and Briscoe into a runoff, finished a poor third with 5.22 percent. Smith was beaten by Briscoe six years ago.

Donald Beagle, a Nederland welding shop owner, and Ray Mayo, an author-publisher from San Juan in the Rio Grande Valley, received mostly local votes and were not factors in the statewide race. Beagle received .81 percent and Mayo, 1.05.

One surprise result of the balloting was Mark White's victory over Price Daniel Jr. as the Democrat's choice for Texas Attorney General. White collected 52.36 percent of the vote. Daniel claimed 47.64 percent. Houston attorney Jim Baker was the unopposed Republican winner.

White, appointed secretary of state by Briscoe, dashed Daniel's comeback hopes, defeating the former Texas House speaker by about five percentage points.

The pari-mutuel referendum failed for the 10th time in three decades. The Democrats knocked it down hard, but the Republicans appeared more lenient.

The Democrats voted against the referendum by a 52-48 percent margin. The Republicans, however, turned the proposal down by a difference of less than one percentage point.

Allen Maley, director of the Anti-Crime Council of Texas, said he hoped "the gambling promoters get the message." Maley said Saturday's defeat, which would not have been binding on the 199 Legislature, meant "that the voters of Texas are getting sick and tired of being forced to vote on this issue every four to six years."

Wildlife Book Destroys Animal Falsehoods

We know that the lion — traditional symbol of kings, modern trademark of majesty — is a skillful and humane hunter, a brave protector of pride and progeny. In contrast, we are convinced that the cowardly, night-skulking hyena is an odious creature that feasts only on the dead, living off the leavings of other animals.

We think of the wolf as vicious and occasionally man-eating; the gorilla as a fearsome King Kong; the crocodile as a coldly sinister reptile. In addition, many of us believe that these wild creatures have a remarkable code of honor that prevents them from killing their own kind — that man is the only animal to murder its own species.

Most of this wildlife information is incorrect — more fancy than fact. For some time, many of us have been anthropomorphizing — creating animal good-guys and bad-guys, and imposing upon them human characteristics, values and standards. Now, in an entertaining and informative new book, The Cult of the Wild, New York Times science writer Boyce Rensberger not only shatters these beliefs but, by drawing on the most authoritative field studies, provides a clear-eyed, unsentimental look at the animal world.

Consider, first, the regal lion. Rensberger cites the work of expert biologist George Schaller, who spent 2900 hours during three years observing wild lions in Africa's Serengeti plains. Schaller found that lions prefer to steal food from other predators rather than hunt it. In parts of Africa, they get more than half their food scavenging prey killed by other animals, or animals that have died of disease. (Lions spend much time watching the sky for hovering vultures.) And, if food is scarce, adult lions eat all that is available while the cubs starve to death. About one third of all cubs die this way, many more from abandonment or by killing by adult lions.

What's more, when required to hunt, the lion does not — as we have believed — leap gracefully onto its prey to kill it humanely by breaking its neck with a mighty blow. Nor does he then willingly permit females and cubs to join the feast. In fact, within the pride, lionesses do more than 90 percent of the killing. They creep up, rush the prey, hook a flank to bring it down, then kill slowly by strangulation. However, the big cats often mangle the job, rushing too soon and misjudging distance. They do better when they hunt as a pride. Then if the prey escapes from one lion, it will likely be driven toward another.

Moreover, our majestic lions are lazy, and spend as much as 20 hours a day sleeping or resting. If they can't steal food from a smaller animal, or find it dead, they spend a mere hour or two a day hunting. And sometimes they kill other adult lions.

Does this mean that our wildlife symbol of nobility is a sorry example of the natural world? Not at all, says Rensberger. Lions just do not live by the standards we have imposed upon them.

"Hyenas," according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica, as quoted by Rensberger, "are principally scavengers and in many regions depend largely on the remains of carcasses left by lions. Although they are generally quite cowardly, they will attack helpless animals and may become quite daring when hungry."

Rensberger reports that, while it echoes popular belief, almost all of that quote is wrong. He cites Hans Kruuk, a Dutch animal-behavior researcher who spent several years in Africa observing hyenas. The results of Kruuk's scientific study proved startling. Notably, Kruuk found that the hyena's main prey is more often healthy, adult wildebeests and zebras than sick or helpless animals. Sometimes hyenas even kill the formidable half-ton African buffalo.

A lone hyena will rush a herd of wildebeests, scattering the animals. Selecting one, it gives chase, often at 40 m.p.h., as far as three miles. When it closes with its prey, its powerful jaws rip so deeply and quickly that the wildebeest is paralyzed and in shock in seconds. The hyena kills, quickly, then feeds. Some scavenger!

Why, then, do we think of the hyena as a foul eater-of-the-dead? Because it is ugly and looks the part, and because hyenas hunt mainly at night, unobserved by most animal behaviorists. At dawn, the lion is seen at the kill, hyenas hovering in the background. It has always been assumed that the lion made the kill, and that the hyenas waited to take the leavings. Hyenas do scavenge — but more often they hunt with great skill. The Dutch naturalist found, too, that hyenas — widely thought to be solitary — live in clans of from 40 to 60, and have an advanced cooperative social structure.

Rensberger also casts a jaundiced eye at our dislike and fear of wolves — a result of our exposure to such tales as "Little Red Riding Hood" and "The Three Little Pigs," with their depiction of wolves as bloodthirsty villains.

Wolf experts Adolph Murie and L. David Mech report that wolves live in highly developed social groups, rarely fight within the pack or kill unnecessarily, are only fair hunters (selecting mainly the weak and diseased), have strong leaders and communicate with musical howls. It has not been proved that a non-rabid wolf ever attacked a human. For years, James W. Curran, editor of the Sault Sainte Marie, Ont., Star, offered a standing reward to anyone who could document an attack by a wolf. Though the offer was widely publicized throughout North America and, to a more limited extent, in Europe, no one could claim the reward.

The Cult of the Wild also objects to the maligning of apes. Over the years, there have been scores of commercial American films that depict gorillas as brutish monsters filled with lust and violence. Nonsense! Wild gorillas are shy, gentle vegetarians who would rather munch on a stalk of wild celery that attack people. Dian Fossey, who has studied gorillas in Africa for more than ten years, claims that in her first 3000 hours of observation she recorded only a few minutes of aggressive behavior. When five roaring male gorillas charged her simultaneously, she shouted, "Whoa!" All five stopped instantly, stared, then ambled away.

Fossey discovered that only 15 percent of their physical interactions are violent. But while these apes are not the vicious beasts of our myths, neither are they cherubic. She observed three instances in which adult male gorillas deliberately killed baby gorillas. "Gorillas, like all other animals," sums up Rensberger, "viewed in an anthropomorphic sense, have their good traits and their bad traits. A mature appreciation of gorillas must accept both."

Rensberger makes no attempt to convince us that the crocodile doesn't kill and eat men. But, using the research of Anthony C. Pooley, a South African specialist in crocodile behavior, he does invest with character and intelligence a creature that most of us consider a murderous animated log. Crocodiles hunt cooperatively, share their food and live in social groups. They are graceful, gentle mates, and are protective of their offspring from the moment of birth, when the mother scoops the newly hatched young out of the sand, carefully places them all in her fanged mouth and carries them to water and to life. The author paints one unforgettable picture of their cooperation: two crocodile walking overland, carrying an antelope carcass between them.

What about man? Is he as bad as painted? Is he, in truth, a creature who has destroyed and perverted the noble ways of the natural world through his wasteful life-style and lack of harmony with nature?

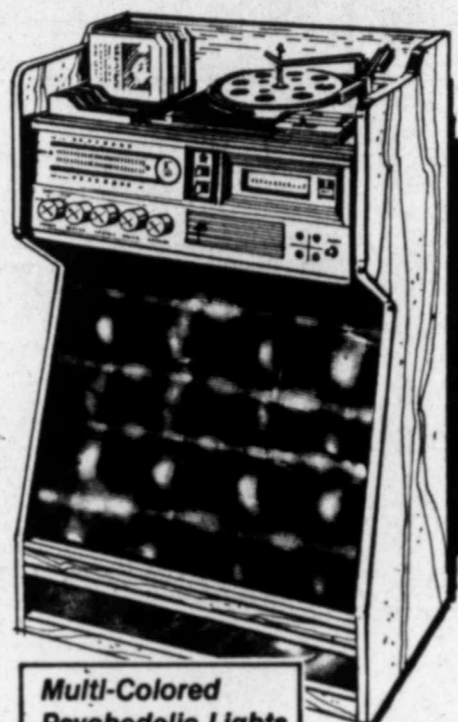

Says Rensberger: "Though our misunderstanding of wild animals has had disastrous consequences for some of the more persecuted wild species, perhaps the most unfortunate consequence is not that we have failed to know or protect the animals, but that we have failed to know ourselves. We have stacked ourselves up against the myths of a pure and noble animal kingdom and found ourselves wanting. Not only is this unfair to our species, but, in a time when closeup studies of wild animals can free us from the myths, it is also irrational."

In sum, we must now realize that the laws of natural behavior are neither so simple nor so obvious as we once thought.

Many Teens Quit Habit After Tests

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — One in four teen-agers will quit smoking after seeing that it makes their hands tremble and their hearts beat faster, a New Hampshire Lung Association study shows.

The study reports the results of a program which pioneered the use of biofeedback machines in smoking education, said Valery Mitchell of the association.

The study indicates that 61 percent of 249 junior and senior high school students who smoked either quit or reduced their smoking. The students were surveyed two months after the biofeedback machines recorded their responses. Twenty-five percent quit and 36 percent cut back.

Another 19 percent switched to a brand of cigarettes lower in tar and nicotine.

One of the tests required students to exhale through a tube into a plastic bag. A device called an ecolyzer then showed the carbon monoxide content — comparable to the blood content of the gas — on a meter.

In the hand-steadiness test, students tried to keep a metal probe centered in a small hole. The number of "hits" on the sides of the hole were recorded electronically before and after a student smoked a cigarette.

Miss Mitchell said the results of the program were "phenomenally high" for an educational program. As a result, lung associations and anti-smoking groups around the country probably will adopt it, she said.

She said hundreds of groups and state lung associations already have expressed interest.

City Woman Reports Rape

A 19-year-old Lubbock woman told police she was raped by two teen-agers Sunday as several of the youths' acquaintances watched and encouraged the attackers.

According to reports, the young woman was part of a foursome who went to an Avenue D residence about 9:30 p.m. She said the two youths, who are schoolmates of hers, pushed her around, removed her clothing and then took turns raping her.

The victim told police that at various times while she was in the house, they were joined by other men who did nothing to intervene during the incident.

Reports indicated the young woman later was allowed to leave and was taken home by two of the witnesses.

In recently reported residential burglaries, Zora Kirkland of 4702 4th St., No. 185, said someone got into her mobile home late Sunday or early today and stole more than $2,700 worth of property, consisting mostly of clothing and jewelry.

Another clothing haul, this one reportedly worth $155, was made from a car parked in the 400-block of Avenue Q recently. Complainant Robert W. Booten Jr. of 1802 5th St., No. 214, said the burglar broke a window to get inside the vehicle.

Brad Williams of 5608 73rd St. and Tommy Turner of 7008 Vinton Ave. both reported that assorted tools were stolen from their garages during the weekend.

Ruby Anderson said someone broke through a window at her 2404 E. 6th St. residence late Sunday or early today and made off with a $100 .32-caliber revolver.

After "casing the joint," a lone bandit returned to an Avenue H motel late Saturday to finish the holdup he apparently had planned earlier.

Desk clerk Linda Jackson told police the man entered the Brass Lantern Motel at 5912 Ave. H about 11:35 p.m. Saturday and inquired about a room there. He left, though, after she told him what the night's stay would cost.

The woman told police he was back five minutes later, but this time hiding his arm under a jacket to make it appear that he had a weapon.

"I don't want any trouble," she said he told her. "I don't want any trouble, but if you have a cash register, I want the money."

The clerk told police she was so astonished at hearing the demands that she didn't move. She said the man then repeated his statements, adding, "this is a robbery."

Police said the man fled the motel with about $150.

In other violent activity, police still were investigating a number of reported assaults.

In one such case, 23-year-old Arthur Hicks Jr., of Route 7, Box 845, told police he was at a 13th Street and Avenue F club about 1:40 a.m. Sunday assisting the manager in searching patrons for weapons.

Hicks said one customer apparently did not want to be searched, and, after telling him so, stabbed Hicks in the arm and shoulder. He was treated at West Texas Hospital and later released.

Police still were checking an 18-year-old youth's report that he was cut severely with a broken bottle during an altercation near 58th Street and Memphis Avenue about 10:30 p.m. Saturday.

The 50th Street resident told officers he and five other youths were throwing water balloons when one of the targets of their attack became angry. The man got out of his car, broke the bottle and began cutting the boy, the victim told police.

Burglars made off with a $330 tape recorder, a $375 television set and a $575 ring from the Vincent Felimon Jimenez residence at 716 3rd St., he told police Sunday.

Tommy Lee Graves of Tahoka told officers someone removed a briefcase and a citizens band radio from his car, parked outside a residence in the 1600 block of Quirt Avenue about 10 p.m. Saturday.

Two rings valued at $850 and a $400 television set were reported missing from the home of Pam Shawford of 709 Ave. R No. 4. She said the items apparently were taken about 4 p.m. Saturday.

Vandals made their way into coin-operated machines at the Double L Laundromat at 2837 Clovis Road between 8 a.m. Friday and 5 p.m. Saturday, taking more than $100 from the coin boxes on the machines.

Steve Arthur Hill of 1501 Vanda Ave. told officers someone took a 1948 pickup truck valued at $150 and a car engine valued at $300 from a fenced area at his business at that address between 3 p.m. and 4 p.m. Saturday.

Debra Caudle told police someone took an $85 tape deck from her 4520-A 35th St. home between 7 p.m. Friday and 61 a.m. Saturday.

Apolinar Prez of 2003 Ave. K told police he went to bed about 10:15 p.m. Friday and laid his wallet on a stereo near his bedroom. When his wife returned home between 7 p.m. Friday and 6 a.m. the door to the residence open and his wallet missing. It contained about $135, he told police.

Eddie J. Hooks of 1312 16th St. told officers someone took $225 in tools from the back of his pickup, parked outside his home between 9 p.m. Saturday and 8 a.m. Sunday.

Gayle Reed of Reed Motors at 804 4th St. told officers someone took $200 in tires from the firm about 11 p.m. Saturday. Officers arrested a 30-year-old man in connection with the incident.

A $250 lawnmower reportedly was taken from Gordon Ray Sim's backyard at his 2515 Bates St. home between 6:30 p.m. Friday and 6:22 p.m. Saturday.

A Lubbock resident told Super M Warehouse manager David Polly he watched a man drive off from the 5000 Gary Ave. store with two of the firm's shopping carts in the back of his pickup. Polly told police the carts were valued at $110 each.

Passenger Injured In Airplane Mishap

AMARILLO (UPI) — A private airplane crashed on takeoff from the Trade-winds Airport Sunday, but two California couples aboard escaped serious injury.

Geneva Crook of Whittier, Calif., was treated for a shoulder injury, however, at an area hospital.

The pilot, John Frank Balicki of Alhambra, Calif., was en route to California with his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Crooks when the crash occurred.

Officials said high, gusty winds caused the plane to veer off the runway and nose-dive at a 45-degree angle into the runway. A rescue team from the Amarillo fire department sprayed the aircraft with foam to prevent it from burning.

Preston Smith Calm In Defeat

A-J Austin Bureau
AUSTIN— Former Gov. Preston Smith of Lubbock watched the elections returns come in Saturday night at his headquarters at the Stephen F. Austin Hotel with the air of a man who is mildly disappointed but hardly surprised.

Smith's wife, Ima, went to bed before midnight, while Smith and a small group of supporters watched a television set and chatted with friends, who stopped by to sample the fried chicken and homemade cookies set up on tables in the suite.

"We got out and worked for you, governor," one man told Smith.

"Well, I appreciate that," Smith replied.

"Well, we haven't forgotten what you did for us," the supporter assured Smith.

Asked if he was surprised by the showing by Attorney General John Hill, Smith answered, "I predicted all along that Hill would lead the ticket."

"I did think I would run a closer race than I did with Briscoe. Would he have done anything differently?"

"The only thing that would have any difference would have been for my original backers to have supported me more than they did—all my financial support went to Briscoe."

"I really think there would be some sort of limitation on the amount of money a state-wide candidate can spend."

"That (unlimited spending) is one thing that is disturbing—a lot of potential candidates for governor might be discouraged from running."

"The governor's office belongs to the people—I sure don't think it ought to be bought."

What are his plans now?"

"I have no plans, other than to continue my business activities...I don't plan to burn any bridges; you never know when you might need them..."

Another supporter comes in.

"Preston, it was good to see you. He enjoyed visiting with Ima and the grandchildren...We had a grandmothers' talk..."

"Thank you so much..."

Finally, Preston Smith also went to bed.

Simona Vega trimmed off inches in all the right places.

Pat Walker's program can help you do it, too!

It was always the same old thing, recalls Simona Vega, who works as a secretary. All her adult life, she faithfully followed diets, counting either calories or carbohydrates. The result: "I would lose pounds and inches—but the inches were always lost in the wrong places!"

Then she discovered the Pat Walker program.

Too good to be true

The remarkable thing about Pat Walker's, Simona continues, is that she counts neither calories nor carbohydrates, yet she has lost 21-1/4 pounds and a total of 36-1/4 inches.

"The inches are coming off where I need them off," she says. "I know it sounds too good to be true, but it is true."

Furthermore, Simona adds, the program is "one I can live with the rest of my life. I know that now. I have more energy and I feel so much better."

For a lovelier you

... discover for yourself the effectiveness of the program conducted by Pat Walker's Figure Perfection International, which has benefited millions during its 26-year history. In any of our tastefully decorated salons, you can reduce safely, pleasantly and in complete privacy.

You'll also have assistance from a friendly, interested counselor. After a confidential figure analysis, she helps you learn sensible eating habits that allow you to eat your favorite foods—but within reason.

SYMMETRICON: the important difference

Your professional counselor also supervises your program on SYMMETRICON, passive exercise equipment exclusive to Pat Walker's. This unit gently firms and tones body tissue while it also stimulates circulation and helps correct posture. And you wear your regular street clothes for the treatments.

In short, Pat Walker provides a quiet, relaxed atmosphere in which you can achieve your weight goal—and your correct figure proportions—without strenuous exercise or stringent diets.

Call TODAY for your free appointment

We invite you to a complimentary treatment and figure analysis—without charge, of course, or obligation. Just call or come by to reserve time for your courtesy appointment.

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

I have always prided myself on the ability to live with my mistakes.

The list is rather extensive and includes an underachiever dog, white carpet in the living room which the underachiever dog thinks is snow, amber lamps in the bathroom that make me look sick when I am well, lawn furniture for which the canvas replacement is sold only in a country under siege, bed pillows that smell like a wet dog on a register, and a feathered wig that the saleswoman promised me was going to come into style next week. (That was in '74).

Call it loyalty. Call it courage. Call it strength. Call it cheap. Whatever, I tough out what I buy. That includes a pair of tan play shoes.

They cost $24 ($5 more than I paid for my husband's wedding ring) and more than I ever paid for a pair of play shoes in my entire life. They had no heel, two straps of leather and a thin sole.

In the store they felt terrific. It's what I imagined heaven felt like when you ran barefoot through a cumulus cloud.

The first hour I had them on at home, my right toe turned red, then purple, and a blister appeared.

The second hour, the blister broke, became infected, and caused pain to shoot all the way to my hip.

We all know shoes are like horses that throw you. You get right back on them to let them know who is in command. I mounted those shoes every day for three months. Finally, one day my husband said, "Do your feet hurt?"

"Why do you ask?"

"You walk like Quasimodo. I've never seen your right shoulder touch the floor before when you walked."

"It's the shoes. I'm breaking them in."

"They don't look new."

"That's because I've been wearing them for three months."

"If they hurt your feet, why don't you throw them away?"

"And leave all that good sole? Don't worry. I'll know when it's time to throw them away. I'll get a sign."

"Why don't you ask Shirley how she stands 'em? She has a pair just like them."

I steadied myself against the wall. "Shirley has a pair of shoes just like these? In the same color?" I slipped them off and threw them in the back of the closet.

You don't have to strike me with lightning!

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN AND OMAR SHARIF © 1978 by Chicago Tribune

Q.1—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠AQ10 ♠AKJ1052 ♦83 ♣KJ

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Pass 3 ♦ Pass

3 ♠ Pass 6 NT Pass

What action do you take?

A.—Bid seven no trump. Your partner was prepared to contract for a small slam on the basis that you held a minimum opening bid and a rebiddable heart suit. Since you have quite a bit in reserve, the grand slam should be a laydown.

Q.2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠872 ♠J62 ♦A10754 ♣84

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♦ Pass

2 NT Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Pass. Partner has shown 19-20 points, and your 5 won't quite stretch to game—especially if partner holds only a doubleton diamond. Bear in mind that partner's jump to two no trump, while strongly invitational, is not forcing. You barely had enough for your initial squeak, and it would be folly to jeopardize a possible part score.

Q.3—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠QJ6 ♠AJ953 ♦854 ♣92

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass

2 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Two diamonds. You have enough for only one forward-going bid, and you have made it. All you can do for the moment is take preference to partner's first suit. A rebid of two hearts would show a much better suit than you possess.

Q.4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠K7 ♠AQ4 ♦AJ76 ♣A843

The bidding has proceeded:

East South West North

1 ♠ 1 NT Pass 3 ♣

Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Partner's response comes as a pleasant surprise. Even though it is not forcing, he should have a good suit and perhaps just enough on the side to give you a good play for slam. At any rate, you must tell partner that you have a maximum no trump and good fit.

Q.5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠K105 ♠J6 ♦A852 ♣AK107

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Dble. 1 ♠ Pass

What action do you take?

A.—Partner might be bidding out of weakness, or he might have a hand just short of a redouble. One thing is sure—his spade suit is at least five cards long. You can advise him of the fit and that your hand is better than minimum by raising to two spades. If he has a fair hand, he will bid again.

Q.6—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠AJ92 ♠74 ♦KJ7 ♣AK97

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass

2 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Some jump is in order, and it would seem that the obvious bid is four clubs. However, the key to a slam could be partner's heart holding, and if you jump in clubs you might not have the space to describe your hand fully. We suggest that you first bid three diamonds, intending to show your club support at your next turn. That could save a level of bidding and enable you to probe for the slam with greater accuracy.

Q.7—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠KQ10954 ♠6 ♦9 ♣K10762

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass

2 NT Pass 3 ♣ Pass

3 NT Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Partner has shown 19-20 points, and that, combined with your highly distributional hand, suggests that there could be a slam in one of your suits. Therefore, we recommend a bid of four clubs to hear what that elicits from partner.

Q.8—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠AKQ854 ♠742 ♦6 ♣A65

Your right-hand opponent opens the bidding with one spade. What action do you take?

and you can accomplish that with one bid—a cue-bid of three hearts.

A.—None at all—there is nothing you can do for the moment. It is presumptuous to suppose that your opponent is psyching. Pass, and see how the bidding develops.

Your play to the first trick could decide the fate of the contract! A writer once remarked: "There's no such thing as a blind opening lead, only deaf opening leaders!" Learn to find the winning attack with Charles Goren's "Opening Leads." For your copy, send $1.70 to "Goren Leads," P.O. Box 259, Norwood, N.J., 07648. Make checks payable to NEWSPAPERBOOKS.

ULTRAVIOLET EFFECTS

CHICAGO (UPI) — A combination of oxygen and ultraviolet light may play a role in the higher incidence of skin cancer in blonds and redheads than in brunettes, researchers have reported. "We have shown that ultraviolet light destroys pheomelanin, the skin pigment in redheads and blonds," Dr. Miles R. Chedekel said. "This would explain the poor tolerance to ultraviolet light and the greater susceptibility to skin cancer found in redheads and blonds."

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: Why is it that brides-to-be can write hundreds of invitations and wedding announcements to people they scarcely know, but after the wedding they can't write a simple thank-you note for the gift?

This has happened to me so often lately I am about ready to stop buying gifts.

You have a booklet on "How To Have a Lovely Wedding." How about writing one on what to do afterwards?

L.S. IN BOONE, IOWA

Dear L: I have. It's "How To Write Letters For All Occasions."

DEAR ABBY: The woman signed SICK WITH FRIGHT reminded me of myself not too long ago. I too was afraid to open my mouth in a group because I felt I had nothing important to say.

At age 43, I went back to college and earned a degree in accounting, but I was too shy and self-conscious to stand up and talk in front of a group. Then I joined Toastmasters Club 990 of TRW where I was employed — and still am. Three years later I was elected president of the club!

The first six times I stood before an audience (of only 20), I shook like a leaf. Today, I am calm and enjoy it!

Toastmasters is a club where we learn how to listen, think and speak better. There is a Toastmasters Club in nearly every city. Tell SICK WITH FRIGHT to look in the yellow pages of her phone book, or call the Chamber of Commerce. I know she can overcome her fright. If I did it, she can.

EVY IN HAWTHORNE, CALIF.

Dear Evy: I know you're right. Some of the best speakers I've ever heard were once "sick with fright" but overcame it — thanks to Toastmasters.

DEAR ABBY: Last summer I read a very moving article in your column about a 17-year-old boy who had been killed in a car accident due to his own reckless driving. It made a deep impression on me. Little did I know that we would lose our own 18-year-old son in a car accident soon after. If this letter saves one life it will be worth writing.

Our son wasn't driving Mother's or

Father's car, he was walking home from a party with a friend. A car stopped and the driver, a 19-year-old boy, offered the boys a ride home. They happily accepted.

The driver started to speed and the police took out after him. He refused to stop. Finally he struck a tree and his car was severed in half!

Our son was killed instantly and his friend died three days later without regaining consciousness. The driver survived with minor injuries. This happened only half a mile from our home.

We later learned that the driver of the car was on probation and the car was stolen, so he was afraid to stop. No alcohol was involved. And yes, Abby, he was our only son.

LONELY IN LIJOLIET, ILL.

Dear Lonely: There is a valuable lesson to be learned here. Never accept a ride just because it's offered.

Are your problems too heavy to handle alone? Let Abby help you. For a personal, unpublished reply, write: Abby: Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

I have always prided myself on the ability to live with my mistakes.

The list is rather extensive and includes an underachiever dog, white carpet in the living room which the underachiever dog thinks is snow, amber lamps in the bathroom that make me look sick when I am well, lawn furniture for which the canvas replacement is sold only in a country under siege, bed pillows that smell like a wet dog on a register, and a feathered wig that the saleswoman promised me was going to come into style next week. (That was in '74).

Call it loyalty. Call it courage. Call it strength. Call it cheap. Whatever, I tough out what I buy. (That includes a pair of tan play shoes.

They cost $24 ($5 more than I paid for my husband's wedding ring) and more than I ever paid for a pair of play shoes in my entire life. They had no heel, two straps of leather and a thin sole.

In the store they felt terrific. It's what I imagined heaven felt like when you ran barefoot through a cumulus cloud.

The first hour I had them on at home, my right toe turned red, then purple, and a blister appeared.

The second hour, the blister broke, became infected, and caused pain to shoot all the way to my hip.

We all know shoes are like horses that throw you. You get right back on them to let them know who is in command. I mounted those shoes every day for three months. Finally, one day my husband said, "Do your feet hurt?"

"Why do you ask?"

"You walk like Quasimodo. I've never seen your right shoulder touch the floor before when you walked."

"It's the shoes. I'm breaking them in."

"They don't look new."

"That's because I've been wearing them for three months."

"If they hurt your feet, why don't you throw them away?"

"And leave all that good sole? Don't worry. I'll know when it's time to throw them away. I'll get a sign."

"Why don't you ask Shirley how she stands 'em? She has a pair just like them."

I steadied myself against the wall. "Shirley has a pair of shoes just like these? In the same color?" I slipped them off and threw them in the back of the closet.

You don't have to strike me with lightning!

Weddings

TOOKER-GATES

Suzanne Tooker and Steven Gates were married at 3 p.m. Sunday in United Methodist Church in Abernathy.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. O.W. Tooker of Abernathy and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gates of San Antonio.

Kathi Guerrant of Abernathy was maid of honor. Richard Mecher of San Antonio was best man.

The bride was graduated from Abernathy High School. The bridegroom was graduated from Texas Tech University.

After a wedding trip to New Orleans, the couple will live in Lubbock.

BOTKIN-REEVES

Mary Botkin and Garnet Reeves, Jr., were married Saturday in Forrest Heights Methodist Church.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Andy Behrends, of Dimmitt and Mrs. Garnet Reeves. The bridegroom is also the son of Mr. Garnet Reeves, Sr.

Leslee Reeves, daughter of the bridegroom was maid of honor. Ron Reeves, son of the bridegroom, was best man.

After a wedding trip to Hawaii, the couple will live in Lubbock.

Junior League Delegates Attend Meeting

Mrs. Wayne Culp, Mrs. Charles Key and Mrs. John Blakey will represent the Junior League of Lubbock as delegates to the 1978 Annual Conference of the Association of Junior Leagues, Inc. today through Thursday in the Crown Center Hotel in Kansas City, Missouri.

Over 650 delegates from the United States, Canada and Mexico will participate in the five-day conference and explore through speakers, panel discussions and workshops the conference theme "The Responsibilities of Power: Authority, Accountability and Advocacy."

Delegates will be trained in organizational self-assessment, a program designed to aid Leagues in determining what aspects of Junior League structure bring the most membership satisfaction.

An international voluntary organization, the Association of Junior Leagues, Inc., is comprised of 234 autonomous Junior Leagues representing over 120,000 individual members.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN AND OMAR SHARIF © 1978 by Chicago Tribune

Q.1—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠AQ10 ♣AKJ1052 ♦83 ♣QJ
 The bidding has proceeded:
 South West North East
 1 ♠ Pass 3 ♦ Pass
 3 ♠ Pass 6NT Pass ?

What action do you take?
 A.—Bid seven no trump. Your partner was prepared to contract for a small slam on the basis that you held a minimum opening bid and a rebiddable heart suit. Since you have quite a bit in reserve, the grand slam should be a laydown.

Q.2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠872 ♣J62 ♦A10754 ♣84
 The bidding has proceeded:
 North East South West
 1 ♠ Pass 1 ♦ Pass
 2NT Pass ?

What action do you take?
 A.—Partner has shown 19-20 points, and your 5 won't quite stretch to game—especially if partner holds only a doubleton diamond. Bear in mind that partner's jump to two no trump, while strongly invitational, is not forcing. You barely had enough for your initial squeak, and it would be folly to jeopardize a possible part score.

Q.3—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠QJ6 ♣AJ953 ♦854 ♣92
 The bidding has proceeded:
 North East South West
 1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass
 2 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
 A.—Two diamonds. You have enough for only one forward-going bid, and you have made it. All you can do for the moment is take preference to partner's first suit. A rebid to hearts would show a much better suit than you possess.

Q.4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
 ♠K7 ♣AQ4 ♦AJ76 ♣A843
 The bidding has proceeded:
 East South West North
 1 ♠ 1NT Pass 3 ♣ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
 A.—Partner's response comes as a pleasant surprise. Even though it is not forcing, he should have a good suit and perhaps just enough on the side to give you a good play for slam. At any rate, you must tell partner that you have a maximum no trump and good fit.

and you can accomplish that with one bid—a cue-bid of three hearts.

Q.5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠K105 ♣J6 ♦A852 ♣AK107
 The bidding has proceeded:
 South West North East
 1 ♠ Dble. 1 ♠ Pass ?

What action do you take?
 A.—Partner might be bidding out of weakness, or he might have a hand just short of a re-double. One thing is sure—his spade suit is at least five cards long. You can advise him of the fit and that your hand is better than minimum by raising to two spades. If he has a fair hand, he will bid again.

Q.6—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
 ♠AJ92 ♣74 ♦KJ7 ♣AK97
 The bidding has proceeded:
 North East South West
 1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass
 2 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
 A.—Some jump is in order, and it would seem that the obvious bid is four clubs. However, the key to a slam could be partner's heart holding, and if you jump in clubs you might not have the space to describe your hand fully. We suggest that you first bid three diamonds, intending to show your club support at your next turn. That could save a level of bidding and enable you to probe for the slam with greater accuracy.

Q.7—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠KQ10954 ♣6 ♦9 ♣K10762
 The bidding has proceeded:
 North East South West
 1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass
 2NT Pass 3 ♣ Pass
 3NT Pass ?

What action do you take?
 A.—Partner has shown 19-20 points, and that, combined with your highly distributional hand, suggests that there could be a slam in one of your suits. Therefore, we recommend a bid of four clubs to hear what that elicits from partner.

Q.8—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠AKQ854 ♣742 ♦6 ♣A65
 Your right-hand opponent opens the bidding with one spade. What action do you take?

A.—None at all—there is nothing you can do for the moment. It is presumptuous to suppose that your opponent is psyching, Pass, and see how the bidding develops.

Your play to the first trick could decide the fate of the contract! A writer once remarked: "There's no such thing as a blind opening lead, only deaf opening leaders!" Learn to find the winning attack with Charles Goren's "Opening Leads." For your copy, send $1.70 to "Goren Leads," P.O. Box 259, Norwood, N.J., 07648. Make checks payable to NEWSPAPERBOOKS.

ULTRAVIOLET EFFECTS
 CHICAGO (UPI) — A combination of oxygen and ultraviolet light may play a role in the higher incidence of skin cancer in blonds and redheads than in brunettes, researchers have reported. "We have shown that ultraviolet light destroys pheomelanin, the skin pigment in redheads and blonds," Dr. Miles R. Chedekel said. "This would explain the poor tolerance to ultraviolet light and the greater susceptibility to skin cancer found in redheads and blonds."

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: Why is it that brides-to-be can write hundreds of invitations and wedding announcements to people they scarcely know, but after the wedding they can't write a simple thank-you note for the gift?

This has happened to me so often lately I am about ready to stop buying gifts.

You have a booklet on "How To Have a Lovely Wedding." How about writing one on what to do afterwards?
 L.S. IN BOONE, IOWA

Dear L: I have. It's "How To Write Letters For All Occasions."

DEAR ABBY: The woman signed SICK WITH FRIGHT reminded me of myself not too long ago. I too was afraid to open my mouth in a group because I felt I had nothing important to say.

At age 43, I went back to college and earned a degree in accounting, but I was too shy and self-conscious to stand up and talk in front of a group. Then I joined Toastmasters Club 990 of TRW where I was employed — and still am. Three years later I was elected president of the club!

The first six times I stood before an audience (of only 20), I shook like a leaf. Today, I am calm and enjoy it!

Toastmasters is a club where we learn how to listen, think and speak better. There is a Toastmasters Club in nearly every city. Tell SICK WITH FRIGHT to look in the yellow pages of her phone book, or call the Chamber of Commerce. I know she can overcome her fright. If I did it, she can.

EVY IN HAWTHORNE, CALIF.

Dear Evy: I know you're right. Some of the best speakers I've ever heard were once "sick with fright" but overcame it — thanks to Toastmasters.

DEAR ABBY: Last summer I read a very moving article in your column about a 17-year-old boy who had been killed in a car accident due to his own reckless driving. It made a deep impression on me. Little did I know that we would lose our own 18-year-old son in a car accident soon after. If this letter saves one life it will be worth writing.

Our son wasn't driving Mother's or

Father's car, he was walking home from a party with a friend. A car stopped and the driver, a 19-year-old boy, offered the boys a ride home. They happily accepted. The driver started to speed and the police took out after him. He refused to stop. Finally he struck a tree and his car was severed in half!

Our son was killed instantly and his friend died three days later without regaining consciousness. The driver survived with minor injuries. This happened only half a mile from our home.

We later learned that the driver of the car was on probation and the car was stolen, so he was afraid to stop. No alcohol was involved. And yes, Abby, he was our only son.

LONELY IN JOLIET, ILL.

Dear Lonely: There is a valuable lesson to be learned here. Never accept a ride just because it's offered.

Are your problems too heavy to handle alone? Let Abby help you. For a personal, unpublished reply, write: Abby: Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Business & Industrial Review

A GIFTING KIND OF STORE—Mrs. Mary Alderson of Meinecke Bros. at 1633 Broadway, calls attention to a host of new arrivals, with the cookware, glassware and so much more that is really ideal for Mother's Day and Graduation preferences.

Meinecke Bros. Deemed Single-Stop Shopping Bonanza For Special Gifts

Down every aisle, delightful discoveries of new items "so right" for Mother's Day remembrance beckon at Meinecke Bros., 1633 Broadway.

Appropriate gift items for mother, for the graduate and for other special situations are in abundance.

Even with all that is so pretty there, in every season, some new arrivals could be singled out for great Mother's Day gifts:

See the new satin glass creations including decorative ware from Fenton and the antique blue line in Westmoreland.

There are gorgeous new pieces in Fenton crystal, too, with many new patterns and colors.

Or the handcrafted stoneware sets from Chatham Pottery, including the Anthony and Mimosa as two strikingly beautiful patterns. (This is dishwasher, oven, freezer and microwave oven safe.)

This stoneware is handcrafted in a small American pottery by American craftsmen, and is the only freehand stoneware. The Early American techniques have been combined by the potters with the best of contemporary technology to give this quality lead-free stoneware.

Be sure and see the beautiful Poppy-trail dinnerware, too, that is also safe in freezer, oven and dishwasher.

Cake Domes
Early American goblets reproduced from original antiques is stocked, together with the new pink carnival glass by Imperial, and gorgeous glass cake domes.

And the unique "stick figure" sculptures fashioned from molten Plexiglass, made in western Colorado.

There are beautiful candles and candle rings, new place mats, napkins and breadbaskets, table cloths, small kitchen appliances, microwave cookware, cutlery and so very much more... all suitable as a gift "sure to be wanted and appreciated."

For Outdoors
It also is noted that "outdoor time" has arrived, and Meinecke has needs including Sunbeam and Jacobsen mowers, the new Flymo cushionaire, edgers, smokers and grills for outdoor cooking, 3-speed Essick evaporative air conditioners, and air conditioner pads.

"For complete satisfaction, who could go wrong in selecting at this time-honored store with its many departments including housewares, hardware, small electric appliances and hundreds of general items?"

"May we assist you in your Mother's Day and Graduation shopping this year at Meinecke Bros., in the same Lubbock location, 1633 Broadway, since 1938, a store dating its founding back to 54 years ago? We would deem it a pleasure to assist you.

"Remember, to list the many quality items would be impossible, but we hope this report has hinted of the bonanza in gift items stocked by Meinecke where the rule is 'name line' merchandise, prices that are right, and where service and appreciation are clearly visible."

Chic, New-Season Fashions Dominating At Charlene's

So much could and should be said for Charlene's, fashion mecca in Town South and in Monterey Center, but concisely, the word today is that exciting fashions for Mother's Day, graduation, summer travel and related events have arrived!

The feminine look was never more evident than in the discriminating selection of dresses (long and short alike) made available by Charlene... and in all the pretty summer hues.

And there are satin jogging shorts. Plus accessories for every ensemble.

Some possibly might not realize the accessory selection at Charlene's making for ease in gifting, whether for mother, sister, friend, or in many instances for the man in one's life. There are convenient bags for so many uses and occasions.

Select from tote bags, cases and more, each designed attractively for essentials, dainties, etc.

The costume jewelry choices were never more tastefully selected, even at Charlene's, and these, too, would make great gifts.

Preference conceivably could be the 14 kt and 12 kt gold chains and bracelets, and the sterling silver chains.

What better showroom for summer could there be than Charlene's of Town South, really a beautiful store regardless of the exquisite merchandise.

Yes, Charlene's is the veritable epitome of the "summer look" with the wardrobe there reflecting what is right and desired for the season.

Grand opening of the Town South

Charlene's was held in August of last year, and the response to this special type of store has been most, most gratifying.

A most pleasing decor, together with carefully planned merchandise display and other customer conveniences enhance the image of the new Charlene's as a business completely designed with customer consideration foremost.

It would correctly seem that Charlene, serving for more than a decade on the Lubbock fashion scene, has exerted every effort to show appreciation of her excellent patronage, at the same time staying foremost in modern innovations, trends, and fashion.

"So... isn't a pre Mother's Day, Graduation and travel trip to Charlene's in order? We think so."

ART GALORE—Melba Mabry (pictured) joins with another artist, Shirley Graham, and with the Bowman management and staff in inviting inspection of the large art display there, together with special events and savings in the Bowman 89th Anniversary Sale.

Art Showing, 89th Anniversary Sale Merit Visit To Bowman's

A lot of significant situations presently mean exceptional service and lowest prices at Bowman, 8301 S. University Ave. in Lubbock.

(1) It is the 89th Anniversary Sale underway, continuing until May 25. That's right, Bowman has been in Lubbock for 89 years and is holding a very special sale to celebrate.

(2) Special art showings at Bowman's make news this month, too.

Meet The Artists
 Come in and see the selection of framed and unframed oils by well known area artists Melba Mabry and Shirley Graham.

And come on each Saturday this month to meet the artists in person.

Displayed are landscapes, seascapes, still life, Indian scenes, barns/windmills and character studies. Also inquire about the classes conducted at Bowman's by Melba Mabry.

Savings Cited
 The Anniversary Event means that there are extra savings throughout the big Bowman center.

For Landscape Needs
 In the Garden Department, all trees, shrubs, roses, ground cover, fruit trees and ornamentals are marked at a giant 20 per cent off as "our birthday gift to you." Select from red oaks, mulberry trees, golden locust, crepe myrtle, Arizona cypress, roses, holly and grapes.

Springtime savings on beautiful tropicals and house plants involve a 10 per cent saving.

And who doesn't appreciate a lawn mower value here at beginning of the season! Bowman has marked its Lawn Boy mowers down (while they last) with actually many to choose from, including the 21-in. deluxe with catcher, regular $209.95, now at $188.46.

(The Garden Shop is open from 1 p.m. until 5 p.m. Sundays for customer convenience.

Another key value is the Needle Weeder at $44.88, with super savings similarly arranged on other models.

Check throughout Bowman's for the 89th Anniversary Sale savings, whether the need is bath accessories, building materials, carpet, doors, electrical supplies; Gifts, hand tools, insulation, kitchens, lawn and garden needs; Lumber, paint, paneling, roofing, shelves, shutters, tile, windows, etc.

Many, many items are on sale, with others at regular low prices, all subject to stock on hand. Delivery service is available.

"So hurry, come on out to 8301 S. University and likely be amazed at the selection and prices offered by Bowman; it will be a tremendous eye-opener if you have failed in the past to come to Bowman who makes it possible to fix your home the way you want it!"

Gray's Boys & Girls Fashions Tells New Summer Items, Special Prices

"For infants through students size 20, Gray's Boys & Girls Fashions meets every spring and summer apparel desire!" Truly, selection has never been better at Gray's, 50th Street at Salem Avenue (in Sunshine Square); and summer with its outdoor activities is very much in evidence...in the newness and fashion of merchandise, in the decorations and everything within the beautiful store.

It is fun to shop at Gray's Boys & Girls Fashions (where a great pre-teen selection is noted.)

Whether the need is for the really dressy apparel or for casual numbers, Gray's has it all, sensibly priced.

Special On Jeans
 At this time there is a tremendous special price on all denim jeans, including those for girls, at 30 percent off! Select from boys and student sizes and in girls, 4 to junior 11.

And all men's jeans (waist 32-38) are marked at 30 percent off at a close-out price.

Swim Wear
 So much is new for the outdoor season at Gray's...such as the cute shorts and swim suits for the little tots, girls and boys.

And sun dresses that are the prettiest and most desirable ever.

Plus short sleeve tee shirts for boys. And more.

(Owners of the store have just returned from market and have bought extensively and selectively for fall, too, it can be reported.)

Gray's stocks just about everything in apparel for the age range it serves, with exception of shoes.

Pretty prom and banquet dresses are stocked, of course, with a gorgeous selection evident.

Sleepwear is available, with this assortment probably the most beautiful yet presented by this store noted for its beauty in every item.

Owners and founders Tom and Kay Gray want to express their appreciation for the reception and trade accorded them, making possible this extensive stock provided.

For those who conceivably may not yet have become acquainted with the distinctive store, the summer season affords a banner opportunity. Come in, browse, note the pleasing decor and convenient stock arrangement, and the quality of merchandise.

Both Tom and Kay are on hand personally to assure fullest in customer service.

DENIM SPECIAL—Kay Gray (right) and Frances Smith call attention to denim values that join with scads of new summer arrivals to make a visit to Gray's Boys & Girls Wear most advisable.

Business & Industrial Review

GRAPHIC PROOF—Jim Worley of Gnu Tubs Southwest demonstrates what Gnu can do, witness the 1926, the 1922, the 1928 bathtubs and a typical home bath (at foreground) but with Gnu refinishing.

Gnu Bathtub Refinishing Said Revolutionary In Looks, Ease

"Imagine . . . bathtub refinishing in your home, without removal!" This is made possible in the area by Gnu Tubs Southwest, located at the corner of Broadway and Avenue Q in Lubbock, phone 765-8017. Gnu Tub bathtub refinishing is a revolutionary process that completely replaces a deteriorated surface with a new, shiny one that is easy-to-clean. (An estimated one-half of America's bathtubs have lost some or all of their glossy, bright, attractive finish through age, damage or staining. Once this surface is gone, tub scrubbers spend hours scouring or scraping. With each session, more gloss is lost and the deterioration process is accelerated.) "Until now the only alternative has been for the tub owner to remove the fixture and replace it, a costly process." Gnu Tub has changed all that with the development of an exclusive process of completely refinishing the old bathtub surface, replacing the surface with a durable, shiny one. And the tub is not removed! "No longer need your tub be an object of shame . . . something to hide with a shower curtain!" The complete Gnu Tub process begins with preparing the bathtub to receive the Gnu coat, insuring a proper bond to the old tub surface. This is done by etching or roughening with a special compound. The etching process will not harm pipes, fittings or the rest of the bathroom. After the etching is properly completed, a newly developed industrial urethane coating is bonded to the old tub surface.

Mothers To Be Feted Tuesday At Mickie's Beauty Academy

Two announcements from Mickie's Beauty Academy should be of special interest at this time: Mothers of all ages are being honored by Mickie and staff in conjunction with the impending Mother's Day observance. On this Tuesday, mothers, with a special invitation extended those of senior citizen status, are invited to come to the Academy in Monterey Center, for cake and coffee in their honor. Hours will be 9:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. "We will look forward to seeing you Tuesday!" (Business as usual will be conducted Tuesday. Some may remember that every Tuesday is Senior Citizens Day at the school, with discount prices even lower than regular school prices) effective on haircuts, shampoo and sets for senior citizens. Of course, other customers are welcomed on the same day, but at regular low prices. Patrons are welcomed Tuesdays through Saturdays, and one is advised to call for appointment.

Note To Seniors The other item of special interest at this time is reminder that graduating seniors might well consider training at Mickie's Beauty Academy for a rewarding career that likely can begin "sooner than you think." Interested vocational students are invited to check with Mickie's, too. "If you welcome the opportunity for an interesting, financially rewarding career, Mickie's Beauty Academy would like to talk to you. Outstanding in every phase of its operation, it has several benefits that should be considered. (1) Its enrollment has steadily climbed, and there must be a reason! (2) Mickie's Beauty Academy graduates are reported most successful in their achievements after graduation. Grants Available (3) Assistance grants, including BEOG, VA, etc., are available to help in the schooling costs. (4) Full-time schooling is available, of course, with part-time schedules aranged for those wishing to work elsewhere some hours of the day. (5) Enrollment is enabled any day the school is open. (6) The academy is nationally accredited. Its certificate of accreditation points out how after examination of its educational practices and achievements by the Cosmetology Accrediting Commission (national) the school has been awarded its certificate. High professional standards also are noted. (7) Several vocational students are among those at the Academy, with area school vocational contracts honored. (8) A waiting list is reported for the graduates of the Academy. The school's curriculum is most comprehensive, even including the skin care program with latest machines, men's hair styling, and sculptured nails, as well as use of the new facial machines for the skin care program, with treatment of hands and feet as well as face. Customers and students alike profit from this modern program. Students at Mickie's are encouraged to reach greatest proficiency and are recognized accordingly, with plaques and other honors.

New, Beautiful The result is a Gnu Tub surface which is warranted the same as a new bathtub. A shiny, lustrous and durable surface remains easy to clean, and it is long-wearing. It is a surface similar to that now being used on some new factory produced bathtubs and showers. Since every bathroom remodeling project begins with the bathtub, your remodeling plans need to include the Gnu Tub process. A bathtub can be refinished usually in one day, right where it sits, and without tearing up your home. Other porcelain or fiberglass fixtures, including the toilet and lavatory, also can be renewed. Decorator Colors, Too If you desire a change of colors to harmonize with wallpaper or carpeting, a crisp white or one of many decorator colors can be applied. Remember, the local dealer for Lubbock and the South Plains area is Gnu Tubs Southwest, at Broadway and Q. Manager Jim Worley will be happy to further explain the process. Call 765-8017 for a free, no-obligation estimate. Gnu Tubs can put an end to the scouring and scrubbing of that old surface which may still look unattractive even after hours of your work. "For sure, the glossy, sanitary Gnu Tub surface will brighten up any bathroom!"

Hair Jammer, In Southwest Lubbock, Relates Special, Multiple Benefits

Some people may not have realized the expert unisex hair cutting in which the Hair Jammer specializes. Others may not have realized that they are served at the Hair Jammer by a highly trained staff under direction of Roger Thompson, long appreciated on the Lubbock beauty and hairstyling scene. And some may have recognized all this but just couldn't find the Hair Jammer! The Hair Jammer, offering complete beauty service, is located at 5601 Aberdeen, phone 793-3134. This location means that the Hair Jammer is just north of South Plains Mall, one block west of Slide Road. It is really easy to find and easy to reach, once one realizes that it fronts Aberdeen, and where Aberdeen is located! There is lots of off-street parking, and everything is arranged for the customer's convenience. The Hair Jammer opened late last year under co-ownership and management of Roger Thompson. Roger is known by many through his former ownership of the Mademoiselle Hair Fashions in Briercroft Center, his former staff capacity with Jessie Lee's, and through his present service on the state board for the Texas Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association. He emphasizes that a hand-picked staff is on duty at the Hair Jammer, with all trained extensively in Dallas by the Hair Jammer organization specialists before assuming their duties. Also Hair Jammer authorities periodically visit the Lubbock facility to bring the staff up to date on newest trends, etc. Mothers, dads, brothers, sisters, kids and all are invited to the Hair Jammer where finest haircutting and all beauty services are available. Discount Offer In fact, upon mention of this story, a 20 per cent discount will be given for a limited time! What a way to get acquainted!

Thompson points out the precision cutting and really economical prices as two of the key advantages one can expect at the Hair Jammer, where no appointment is necessary. Long Hours Hours are from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m., Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, with longer 9 to 9 hours on Tuesday and Thursday, and Saturday hours of 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Visa and Master Charge are honored. For coloring, perms, styling—and all that goes with complete beauty service, Hair Jammer is said by many to be well ahead of the field. Won't you come in and find out for yourself? Roger Thompson and staff would consider it an honor.

Comfort, Style, Selection Foremost At Holt's Shoes

Happy feet for all the activities ahead! This is made possible at Holt's Shoes, 4519 50th St., in Sunshine Square, most folks likely recognize. And with the prestigious lines (Scholls and more), and the greatly expanded stock of women's fashion shoes, it would seem most appropriate to bring mother in for selection before Mother's Day! Wouldn't this be thoughtful? New Fashion Lines Among the new fashion lines drawing acclaim at Holt's Shoes are Garotini, Jack Rogers, Cherokee and Carressa, as example. They are gorgeous, with many just received; and what a wide selection! Then there are shoes by Miss America Footworks, Bass, Socialite and Cobbies by Red Cross, and others. And the standbys such as Revelation Exclusive, "the most comfortable shoe in the world," the famous Schol lines, and more, with casual wear fully stocked just as is the fashion wear. Scholl Values Scholl Sandalettes are featured. Scholl believes that to make the best, one must start with the best... and this Scholl does. Scholl Sandalettes are crafted of the finest full-grain leathers on lasts that are calibrated to fit the arch, the single most important factor to any good-fitting shoe. For comfort and style, come to Holt's and try a pair of Scholl Sandalettes. Beautiful Bags As further welcome to Mother's Day and to summer, Holt's has received an expanded stock of beautiful bags to accent any costume. See the Miss Erica, Carnivale, Carpet Bags and other lines sure to appeal. Not only is the shoe presentation the most complete in Holt's history, but experienced shoe fitters round out the picture of service, a tradition at the firm; owners-operators Mr. and Mrs. Joe Haire would have it no other way. Expert fitting is assured, and this can be extremely important for the demands of the season's activities. Both Visa and Master Charge transactions are welcomed. "Won't you pay us a visit... soon... and share in our pride of the type establishment afforded, including the expanded fashion stock and the modern facilities at 4519 50th St.? We think you'll like what you find... a Holt's with the same friendliness and consideration but with even greater capacity for service."

Steve's Flowers Excels. Select just now for Mother's Day...beautiful roses and bouquets, lots of tropicals, mixed pots and other blooming plants, for example. Steve's Flowers is new...it is different...it is pretty...and the service and stock prove the customer is appreciated! The firm has been opened only since Jan. 1, but the owners and founders are veterans in the field. "Meet Mr. and Mrs. Steve Dearth (Steve and Tommie) who are your kind of folks." Tommie Dearth is a Lubbock native and is a 1952 graduate of Lubbock High School and a '56 graduate of Texas Tech. She is the former Tommie Wynn. Steve is a 24-year Texas resident and has been in the floral business "most of his life". The couple owned a retail florist business in Amarillo some seven years before coming to Lubbock 10 years ago, with Steve associated with another Lubbock florist firm during this period. The Dearth's have two daughters: Becca, a junior at Coronado High School; and Melissa, in the 4th grade at Hardwick. Steve's Flowers is a member of Teleflorist and the American Floral Service as a customer consideration. Both Steve and Tommie are on the job to lend their expertise and to personally assure the service that one can appreciate; the friendly and informal atmosphere is most evident, yet professionalism is equally noted. Prompt delivery is another "plus" for the firm. Everything is new, and Steve personally did all the decorations that have drawn acclaim from early customers. "Won't you too, come in and let's get acquainted? We are open from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m., Mondays through Fridays, and until 12 noon on Saturdays."

WHERE ELSE BUT WONG'S?—Niki Wong calls attention to a display of open stock porcelain that is among the truly beautiful and quality gift selections for Mother's Day or other impending occasions. The invite is to check Wong's, in South Plains Mall, for the unique and different, from the four corners of the globe.

Wong's, In South Plains Mall Lauded For Uniqueness, Value

"Surely you must know that so-appropriate Mother's Day gifts are stocked by the hundreds at the same fantastic store that brings you gourmet and Oriental groceries in a convenient South Plains Mall location!"

Yes, Wong's Imports is a one-stop solution for gifting and for selecting for one's own desires. Jewelry, decor pieces and unique gift choices from throughout the world are brought right here to the Lubbock store.

Among the gift suggestions at Wong's are:

Beautiful music boxes, with Swiss movements and many hand-carved, from Taiwan.

And really beautiful and functional furniture pieces such as elaborately la-quered chests from the Orient. Some are antique, and all are interesting and beautiful.

Silk Jackets
 See the new silk and brocade jackets for both men and women, suitable for day and evening wear alike, new in Lubbock from Hong Kong.

Of course there are woks and Oriental cooking utensils and groceries.

Sculptured candles that are the prettiest yet.

Plus plaques, vases, ginger jars; Metal sculpture by area artists, too.

Thimble Collection
 And thimbles from all over the world... really a "find" for the collector.

Some are of leather, others are petit point, pewter, etc.

Probably nothing in the entire store, however, is prettier or more desired than the gorgeous Oriental Cloisonne in the cases near the front of the attractive store.

The entire staff is knowledgeable regarding the hundreds of items, some merchandise with most unique history; and the owners and staff welcome the opportunity of assisting in selection of quality gifts that are unique and different, always in good taste.

"Doesn't mother deserve and want a gift from Wong's Imports? We think so!"
 Wong's is open from 10 a.m. until 9 p.m., every weekday, and Visa, Master Charge and layaway purchases are welcomed.

Linda G's, In Sunshine Square, Seen Superior In New-Season Fashion Wear

Linda G's is ready for Mother's Day and for all the events of summer in a most delightful and considerate manner...with the store "in great shape" in every department...with so much that is new and wanted!

Sure recognition of fashion rightness for the new season is reflected in the fantastic stock at Linda G's, the 4515 50th Street store where a galaxy of pretty, practical and so-fashionable apparel is the rule.

What a selection of both long and short dresses!

Feminine Look Dominates

"Truly, a woman can feel like a woman

again, with the wardrobe selection including dresses in the modish feminine look with founces, ruffles, laces, etc.

It is at Linda G's, remember, in Sunshine Square!

Coordinates To Enjoy
 See the coordinates, the soft and lovely materials, patterns and colors. Plus lingerie and so many accessories.

Personalized Bags
 Of special note are the personalized bags, really a work of art, for mom and the graduate.

Select at Linda G's from today's materials, including polyester, poly/cotton, prints, soft quina and all.

Not only is the summer selection much in evidence, but there is a nice selection of year-around wear (such as ultra suedes).

The owners and every staffmember are understandably enthusiastic about the Mother's Day, graduation and new-season presentations.

"You, too, will thrill at the selection upon a visit here."

"Shopping at one's leisure in the relaxed atmosphere of this beautiful and elegant shop is an experience to be enjoyed for a certainty; discover for yourself how Linda G's is extraordinary!"

EKUDE FASHION RIGHTNESS—Everything says "greetings to summer" at Linda G's in Sunshine Square. Pictured at center is owner Modean Clayton, with staffmembers Ruth Ann Crumpton and Mae Touchstone. Absent when the picture was made was Laura Fennel, another on the highly qualified staff.

READY FOR SEASON—Tuck's Fruit, at 4210 Ave. A, comes through with the desired garden and flower plants, together with fruits and vegetables, with Mr. and Mrs. Audie Tucker shown here with a new shipment marked by quality and selection.

Fresh Stock At Tuck's Fruit Proves Benefit To Budget, Menu

Quality tomato and pepper plants, flowers, hanging baskets and more, these are examples of the wide selections made available — now when most needed — by Tuck's Fruit Stand, 4210 Ave. A, long a dependable source.

"As good as you can buy" and at prices one can live with, this is Tuck's.

There are lots of garden seeds stocked, too, from Northrup-King and Keystone.

Fresh vegetables from the valley will be arriving in the very near future.

At Tuck's, stock is kept current as the products become available in every season, such as seed potatoes, onion plants, succulents and flowers, etc.

Tuck's, in business for well over a decade in Lubbock, is open six days a week, 9 a.m. until 7 p.m. every weekday, closed on Sundays.

Owner Audie Tucker personally makes buying trips to the Texas valley and other production areas to select the fresh merchandise that is the assurance at Tuck's.

This personal interest, selection and integrity has made the Tuck's Fruit really outstanding.

For the goodness of fresh fruits and vegetables, for the convenience of healthy vegetable plants provided at the right planting season, for the certainty that there is a fruit and vegetable market maintaining a complete stock and treating folks right, a good firm to know and patronize is Tuck's Fruit, 4210 Ave. A in Lubbock.

Added Diet Center Opens In South Lubbock, Other Announcements Made

Exciting news is being made at the Diet Center, 4902 34th St. (Terrace Center) in Lubbock!

In fact, so much that is new that one should pay special attention to the following items, each and all:

Added Facility

(1) A new Diet Center is now open...in south Lubbock at 3417 73rd St. (Summit Place), just south of Loop 289 and one block west of Indiana Avenue. This Diet Center is part of the same family operation owning and operating the Terrace Diet Center.

body works; how foods affect one; why we are overweight; and the importance of physical activity.

In the meantime, find out for yourself how Rita Pence and Debra Ridpath at the Diet Centers can help you, too, to win at the losing game! Multiple-length programs are available, and there is no obligation to full inquiry. It could open a whole new world for you as it has for others.

"If you recognize that happiness is feeling good while dieting, then by all means make the initial step now of getting full details from your Diet Center...from counselors who really care."

New With Firm

(2) Debra (Mrs. Tim) Ridpath has joined this family operation of Rita Ridpath Pence and Jack Ridpath who is a longtime Lubbock businessman. Debra, with an associate degree in elementary education from South Plains College in Levelland, with a minor in health sciences including nutrition, brings exceptional qualifications to her new position as counselor.

"Rita got me interested in this business...and I love it," is the word from Debra. "I see how the Diet Center program makes others so happy, helping them regain self confidence and also become prettier!"

Panel Says U.S. Army Lacking

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Armed Services Committee says the all-volunteer force is a peacetime concept that is not providing enough reserves now and would be hard pressed in a national emergency.

In a report by its manpower and personnel subcommittee, the committee told the Pentagon to begin studying alternatives to the current system, Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., said Sunday.

Nunn, chairman of the subcommittee, said even an immediate resumption of the mothballed draft system would take months to build up troop strength.

"Given the strain necessary to attract the current numbers of recruits and the larger incremental costs of increasing force levels," the report said, "it should be clear that the all-volunteer force is a peacetime concept that is not now providing sufficient numbers of reserve personnel and would be hard pressed to provide additional numbers of active recruits should the national security require an expansion of current active force levels."

Nunn said 40 percent of the enlisted personnel — 240,000 in fiscal 1977 — were unable to complete their first term of military service.

"For our reserves, the all-volunteer force is a dismal failure," Nunn said in a speech prepared for the Georgia National Guard Association on Jekyll Island, Ga.

Nunn released part of the committee's report in Washington.

"The committee continues to be concerned over the ability of the active military to attract sufficient numbers of high-quality recruits. ... The reserve forces are encountering even greater problems. ... there are critical shortages of doctors and other skilled personnel in both active and reserve components," the committee said.

It said the Pentagon should study alternatives including:

— Improvements in "both the effectiveness and fairness" of the draft.

— A new standby draft that would include mandatory registration, physical and mental tests of eligible youths before enlistment and a standby classification system.

— Ways to improve recruiting, including permitting direct approaches to high schools and changes in the present quota system.

Search Launched For Missing Men

CRAIG, Alaska (AP) — Alaska State Troopers searched the rugged coastline of Prince of Wales Island today for five men missing on a boating trip. Their 16-foot skiff was found under six feet of water.

Troopers said the men were traveling from Craig to Hyaburg, a 30-mile trip and were last seen at 11:30 Saturday night. Hyaburg is about 50 miles southwest of Ketchikan.

Troopers said gas tanks and one life jacket were found in the boat, but there was no trace of the men.

The missing men, all believed residents of Craig, were identified as Jay Burgess, Glenn Cook, Delbert Kelly, Bill Hamilton and Vern Edenshaw Jr.

Rodrigo Carazo Takes Reins In Costa Rica

By TOM FENTON
SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) — Rodrigo Carazo, who has promised to kick fugitive American financier Robert Vesco out of Costa Rica, became this Central American nation's 36th president today with Rosalynn Carter heading the U.S. delegation at the inauguration.

Outgoing President Daniel Oduber surrendered the red, white and blue silk presidential sash at noon in the national soccer stadium, officially signaling the transfer of power.

Fireworks lit up the skies over San Jose Sunday night, and the city was decorated with Costa Rican flags and portraits of the new president. A whirl of inaugural parties got under way, to continue into Tuesday, and horn-honking caravans of cars toured the city.

Mrs. Carter, who arrived Sunday afternoon, attended a reception at the residence of U.S. Ambassador Marvin Weissman, where she is staying, and another at the Foreign Ministry.

The U.S. first lady greeted the guests at the ambassador's home in Spanish and in a brief impromptu speech told them, "I like the way you respect human rights here, and I like your democracy. I feel very happy to be here."

Mrs. Carter also spoke Spanish at the airport when she arrived and said her visit "demonstrates U.S. backing of the democracy that exists here."

Costa Rica has a 79-year-old tradition of democracy, no army, and is one of the few countries in the hemisphere in which the literacy rate exceeds 90 percent.

Mrs. Carter's official schedule ends

Tuesday after a breakfast with Carazo and members of his cabinet. Mary Hoyt, her news secretary, said she would go then to a private club in Alajuela, about 15 miles north of San Jose, and would relax there until Friday, when she will fly home by commercial airliner.

Carazo, the 51-year-old candidate of the National Unity Party, won a four-year term in an upset victory Feb. 5 over Alberto Monge of the National Liberation Party, which elected the last two presidents. Vesco's close association with ex-President Jose Figueres, the founder of the PLN, was an issue in the campaign, and Carazo said he would expel the financier if he didn't leave voluntarily by the time he took office.

Vesco, 43, is charged in the United States with embezzling $224 million from Investors Overseas Services, a bankrupt international mutual fund, and with illegally contributing $200,000 to President Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign.

The two previous Costa Rican governments rejected U.S. bids to extradite the fugitive, who has extensive holdings here and has applied for Costa Rican citizenship.

Last month, a San Jose court dismissed a suit by a Costa Rican citizen who charged Vesco swindled him out of

RAVENOUS FISH

Pikes, the most ravenous of fresh-water fishes, mostly depend on small fish, insects and aquatic invertebrates for their meals. Larger members of this family have been known to prey upon muskrat and waterfowl.

Machinists Ratify Labor Contract

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Machinists at McDonnell-Douglas Corp., Missouri's largest private employer, ratified a new three-year contract Sunday.

The contract was approved by 5,298 members of Machinists District 837, while 1,451 voted against it, said Cassell Williams, union president. The union has about 12,000 members at McDonnell-Douglas.

"We received a 38-cent-an-hour across-the-board pay hike for the first year, and a 3 percent raise for each of the next two years, and we maintained our cost of living as it is now, with an increase due in August," Williams said.

BATON ROUGE

It is believed that Baton Rouge, La., was so named by the French for a red cypress tree which was a boundary mark between Indian tribes.

Super Sonics Pull Even Against Denver

dating center, Marvin Webster, then blocked Denver shots on two successive trips down the floor, and Seattle countered with baskets to open up a 108-100 lead. Dennis Johnson got the first one on a fast-break pass from Brown, and Webster added another.

Later, two more Brown baskets and Webster's hook put the Sonics ahead 116-109, and Paul Silas' tip-in with 1:02 on the clock sent the Denver fans heading for the exits.

Seattle coach Lenny Wilkens said Brown was given the go-ahead to assume command of the offense "because he had a feel for the game and we knew he had the hot hand."

"I knew what I had to do," Brown said. "I wanted to run the ballclub today. I saw some things that were happening in the game Friday night and I told Lenny and Marvin I wanted to take over."

The man Brown replaced in the lineup, Gus Williams, had scored 13 points in the third quarter to keep the game close. Williams and the other starting guard, Johnson, scored 21 and 22 points, respectively, as Seattle got a dazzling 69 points from its backcourt.

Johnson, who suffered a dislocated finger on his shooting hand and scored only 8 points in the series opener Friday night, seemed improved Sunday. Not only did his shooting touch return, but he also turned in a creditable job in defending Denver's David Thompson.

Wilkens said Webster took over the defensive end in the fourth quarter. "He was marvelous. That kind of defensive work is like 100 points."

Okker, Fibak Take WCT

Doubles Crown

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Stan Smith and Bob Lutz worked their strategy to perfection, but Tom Okker refused to cooperate.

And it was Okker and his partner, Wojtek Fibak who whipped Smith-Lutz, 6-7, 6-4, 6-0, 6-3, to win the WCT World Doubles championship and its $8,000 first prize Sunday afternoon.

"The key to the match was Okker," said Lutz, who had difficulty all day with the Dutchman's cross-country returns. "We knew Fibak would always be tough, but thought if we could get them down we would have a chance. Tommy's a good frontrunner and we thought if we got on top early Wojtek might have a little trouble keeping him up."

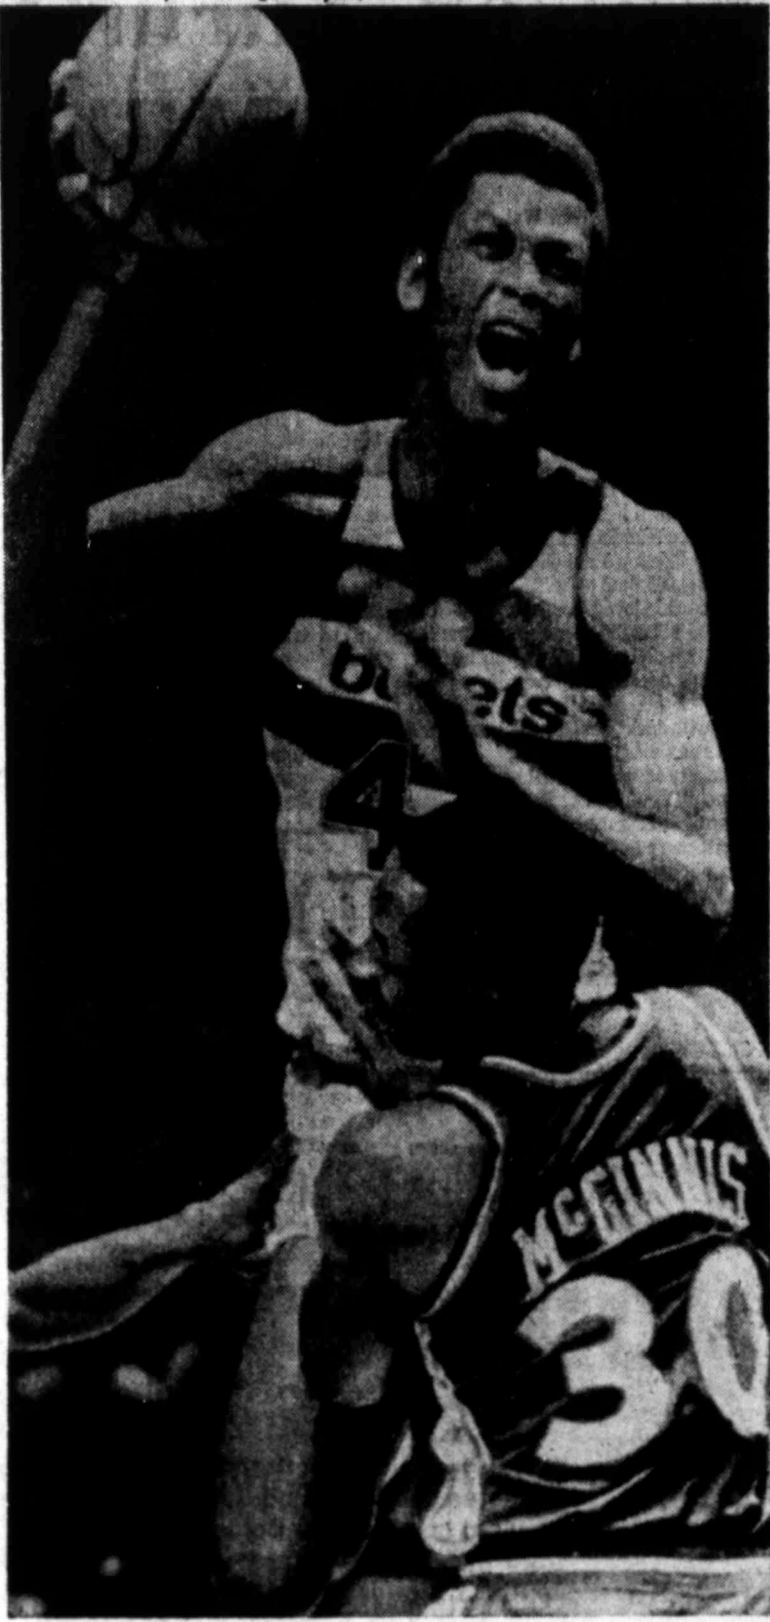

Smith and Lutz did break on top early. And Okker misfired on two easy volleys during Fibak's service.

But then he began playing more surely, driving service return after service return back at Smith and Lutz.

"When we lost (the first set) we just sat down and were talking about it," said Lutz, and we were to keep playing every point and should not get upset," said Fibak. "We were a little uncomfortable losing the first match."

But that was all they lost. Breaking Lutz in the third and seventh games to win the second set, they won the third set at love and broke Smith twice in the fourth set for victory.

"We thought we had a good chance to win it after the first two games of the second set," said Smith. "We weren't able to sustain our momentum."

Depailler Outlasts Lauda In Grand Prix

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (AP) — Before the Monaco Grand Prix, team owner Ken Tyrrell said he'd bet on Austrian Niki Lauda to win, "but I'd put the same amount on my man, Patrick Depailler."

Depailler won the race Sunday and Lauda made a fantastic recovery from a pit stop to place second in a race that went down in the books as one of the classics.

At 33, and after a string of second places in 68 championship races, the Frenchman scored his first victory and took the lead in the 1978 world championship title race.

Tyrrell's pre-race instructions had been: "Don't worry about Carlos Reutemann at the start; he'll make a mistake. Don't push the Brabhams; they'll have trouble. Keep cool."

Reutemann, the Argentine pole-sitter in his Ferrari, started badly and got bumped by Lauda's Brabham in the scramble into the first turn, puncturing a tire and going out of contention. He drove his own mighty race from 18th to eighth place, but it was little consolation.

Briton John Watson, in the second Brabham, and Depailler made cannonball starts and Watson led the first half of the race while Depailler played his waiting game and Lauda ran third.

Depailler stayed cool until halfway through the 75 laps around the streets of Monte Carlo. Watson's brakes faded as he slowed for the harbor-side chicane and he spun into the escape road, letting Depailler through and ending a tight three-car chase.

Behind them, Mario Andretti of Nazareth, Pa., was leading an even more dramatic five-car pack in his Lotus. Twice he "shut the door" on South African Jody Scheckter in the Wolf as he tried to slip past on the pit straight. Then Andretti was forced to stop when fuel leaked into his cockpit. He pitted again with a fuel supply problem and ultimately finished 11th, six laps down.

Lauda had lost second place with a puncture. He restarted sixth and fought back in one of the great drives of his career. He made up two seconds a lap on Canadian Gilles Villeneuve in the second Ferrari, passing him just before Villeneuve crashed after a blowout.

Lauda went on to catch Scheckter, who had gearbox troubles, passing him just three laps from the end to take second.

Depailler now has 23 title points, leading Reutemann and Andretti, tied at 18, and Lauda, who has 16.

The next race is May 21 at Zolder, Belgium.

Hayes Predicts Wins As Philadelphia Falls

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — Elvin Hayes, sometimes playing like a man possessed, predicts the underdog Washington Bullets will finish off the Philadelphia 76ers on Wednesday night.

"I know we're going to win the next game," Hayes said after his 35 points and 19 rebounds paced a 121-105 victory Sunday and gave the Bullets a 3-1 lead in the National Basketball Association's best-of-seven Eastern Conference finals.

"When we won up there, I knew we had 'em," Hayes said of Washington's victory in the series opener at Philadelphia, while reminding a clutch of reporters that he also had predicted the last two victories after for Washington.

"I thought we had control of the series after the first game," said Washington coach Dick Motta. "We play better together than they do."

The 76ers, who won the Eastern Division title handily and then demolished the New York Knicks 4-0 in the semifinals, insisted they weren't finished.

"We are not planning any vacation," said coach Billy Cunningham, sounding the keynote. "We are not going to fold up."

But an observation by Philadelphia's George McGinnis sounded a bit ominous for the 76ers and was about as logical as the team's play to date.

"It all boils down to a 2-out-of-3 series, and they've got to beat us one more game," he said, forgetting that the only thing the 76ers will derive from just two more victories will be the early vacation Cunningham wants to avoid.

McGinnis scored 13 points in the first quarter, but played only 17 minutes the rest of the way and finished with 22.

Julius Erving, held to 12 points in the third game, led the 76ers with 24 points. He poured in 10 at the start of a 16-6 streak, giving Philadelphia a 48-37 lead with 4:24 left in the half.

But the Bullets ran off an incredible 17-point string, 11 by Hayes, and went to the locker room with a 54-48 lead they never relinquished.

Hayes, averaging 26 points and 16 rebounds in the series, said he took it on himself to provide leadership after watching for a brief period on the bench.

"That 17-point streak broke their backs," he said, "and they couldn't get it together again."

The noise from 19,035 fans grew steadily into a deafening roar as the Bullets surged.

"The crowd got the adrenalin going, and Elvin picked it up," said Cunningham, perhaps not even aware that the Bullets have a 19-0 record at home this season before crowd in excess of 12,000.

Bob Dandridge, who had 30 points while outscoring Erving last Wednesday, topped Dr. J again with a 27-point effort. Mitch Kupchak scored 19 while playing in place of Washington's injured center, Wes Unseld, and Kevin Grevey had 18.

"Our players are more relaxed," Dandridge said. "We don't have to live up to any reputations."

Chaparrals Face Midwestern In Tourney Opener

By WALT McALEXANDER
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

ARLINGTON — There's always the urge to finesse, especially in this type of tournament.

But Larry Hays was adamant Sunday when discussing his starting pitcher today. "Good Night, No!" exclaimed the Lubbock Christian College mentor when that subject (finesing) was brought up.

"We'll throw (freshman Oscar) Acosta in the first game," Hays said after watching Midwestern eliminate the University of Dallas 2-1 Sunday.

The Chaps will make their first tournament appearance at 3:30 p.m. today, after Texas Wesleyan (48-22-2) takes on Dallas Baptist (26-29), a 4-1 victor over Jarvis Christian Sunday.

When asked to explain his reasoning, Hays responded, "We going to throw our best pitcher at the time. I've seen Midwestern play—they've beaten us three times—so I know what they can do and I saw UD play two outstanding games against Pan American last Sunday, and they scare me to death."

"I've seen a lot of teams try to finesse in this situation, and they pitcher they've been saving 'for tomorrow' never gets to throw."

"You've got to win that first one. It's extremely hard to come back through the loser's bracket, and we want to avoid that at all costs."

LCC brings a five-game losing streak into the meet, having lost a pair of warm-up doubleheaders against SWC champion Texas A&M. Twice before this year LCC dropped four straight outings and Hays hopes it doesn't hit five.

The reason? For one thing, no team has ever lost a game and won this tournament, as three times LCC and once TWC has gone through undefeated.

John Ross will be the choice, should Hays decide not to use Acosta, or Ross could go in the second game of the tournament which will continue through Wednesday at Arlington Stadium, home park of the Texas Rangers.

Whorton Wins Three Races At Speed Bowl

Whorton, his sights set on a modified stock car season championship, won his heat, the semi and the main event, outrunning Jimmy Bilbrey, still experiencing handling problems, and Larry Johnson, plagued by an ill-running engine.

David Goins was the other winner in the modifieds, taking the first heat and then turning the car over to Bobby Nail, who picked up one of the trophies handed out by Holly Walker.

In street stocks, Stepp and Jerry Winton shared the heat race wins, and Stepp went on to take the trophy dash, semi and main before a good crowd.

Frances Bilbrey won both the Volkswagen heat and the bug division of the powderpuff derby, with Don Spears copping the VW main. Lottie Winton took the modified division of the powderpuff and Donna Lewis was winner in the street stock division.

Montreal Wins Third Contest

TORONTO (AP) — The Montreal Canadiens finally played up to their potential and the surprising result was a commanding 3-0 lead in their National Hockey League playoff series with the Toronto Maple Leafs.

The Canadiens, buzzing Toronto goaltender Mike Palmateer from the opening faceoff, scored three first-period goals and coasted to a 6-1 victory Saturday night. Montreal can close out the Stanley Cup semifinal series when it resumes here Tuesday night.

Tech followers, among others, will attest to Blackwell's ability. "Quickness is his greatest asset," Landry declares. "That's the main reason we took him. He's not a real burner, but he has good acceleration and shows some elusiveness."

On the negative side, his size (5-11, 190) is marginal for an NFL running back, and no one knows whether he can block. Mystery also shrouds his talent as a pass receiver, since he snagged only seven tosses last season.

Like the three draftees taken ahead of him, Blackwell is not moving into an underpopulated area of the Cowboy roster. Alois is ticketed as a halfback, which puts him behind folks named Tony Dorsett, Preston Pearson and Doug Dennison.

It won't be easy.

THE COWBOYS FREQUENTLY come up with a sleeper or two on the draft list or from the flock of free agents they sign every year, and it could happen again. Perhaps linebacker Harold Randolph of East Carolina will find a place, despite his scrawny 6-1, 195-pound frame. Don't bet on it.

Wide receiver Homer Butler of UCLA, Dallas' No. 8 pick, might surprise. It would be rather amazing, in fact, if he was able to beat out Drew Pearson, Golden Richards, Butch Johnson and Tony Hill.

Then there's the Cowboys' 12th and final draft choice, offensive lineman Lee Washburn of Montana State. "A big ol' rawboned farm kid from Montana," says superscout Red Hickey. Those big ol' farm kids usually last about a week at summer training camp.

For a real longshot, consider a free agent named Dave Kraayeveld from tiny Milton College in Wisconsin. Milton is so far back in the bushes that even Cowboy scouts rarely find the place. Its football team ranks somewhere between O.L. Slaton Junior High and the Lubbock Westerners.

But a part-time scout for the Cowboys, (name withheld locally), likes Kraayeveld's size, speed and intelligence and recommended him to the 'Pokes. With a handicap like that, he'll probably get his ticket home even before the big ol' Montana farm lad.

Reggie's Tip Helps Yanks Nip Rangers

By The Associated Press
Even when Reggie Jackson isn't hitting game-winning home runs, he has a hand in them.

The New York slugger, who has a dramatic flair for breaking open games with the long ball, struck out Sunday, but that didn't stop him from helping the Yankees win a game.

On his way back to the dugout, he gave some crucial advice about Texas reliever Len Barker to the next batter, Chris Chambliss. What did he say?

"He said Barker wasn't throwing very hard and his ball was straight," Chambliss later reported.

Given that substantial piece of information, Chambliss straightened Barker's fastball out even more—all the way out to the bleacher wall in right-center field—and the result was a 3-2, 12-inning victory for the Yankees over the Rangers.

"I put it right up there in his wheelhouse," Barker said after giving up Chambliss' first home run of the year. "It was a good pitch to hit out of any ballpark. If I gave Chambliss the pitch Jackson struck out on, I don't believe he could have handled it."

While Barker was throwing just straight balls, New York reliever Rich Gossage had the Rangers wound around his sharp-breaking pitches. He hurled four innings of hitless relief, but still wasn't completely satisfied with himself.

"My ball was moving good and I'm very happy with the way I threw today," he said, "but I'm not at my peak yet. It's a matter of getting a good rhythm. I just haven't thrown enough yet. I haven't even used my slider. I don't lose velocity as the season goes along, but the slider makes my fastball look that much better."

Chambliss hit his game-winning homer after 11 New York batters in a row had been retired by Dock Ellis and Barker. Ellis breezed through the first four New York batters but second baseman Bump Wills booted Chambliss' easy grounder and Graig Nettles followed with his third homer of the season for a 2-0 Yankee lead.

After being held to a pair of singles by rookie Jim Beattie over the first five innings, the Rangers chased him in the sixth with a game-tying, two-run rally capped by Richie Zisk's RBI single.

Royals 8, Brewers 6

Fred Patek lashed three hits, scored twice and doubled in the go-ahead run in Kansas City's three-run sixth inning, rallying the Royals over Milwaukee. Joe Zeb, Al Cowens and Frank White knocked in two runs apiece for the Royals, who snapped a five-game losing streak.

Patek attributed his key double in the sixth to "sheer luck." The line drive struck the right-field wall less than a foot inside the pole.

"If the wall were 320 feet instead of 315, it would be a foul ball," he said. "But we sure were due for some luck. When you've been playing bad like we were, the roof seems to fall in every time."

Red Sox 5, White Sox 0

Mike Torrez fashioned his first complete-game victory with Boston and Jim Rice and Carl Yastrzemski belted two-run homers, leading the Red Sox over Chicago. Torrez, who signed for $2.5 million as a free agent after pitching the Yankees to the World Series title last fall, allowed six hits and struck out four without issuing a walk. He boosted his record to 4-1.

Rice gave Torrez all the cushion he needed with his ninth homer in the first inning. Rice singled in the third and scored after Yastrzemski hit his first homer of the season and No. 367 of his career.

Twins 15, Orioles 9
Mike Cabbage, Rod Carew and Butch Wynegar knocked in 10 runs among them as Minnesota cracked 18 hits to defeat Baltimore.

Cabbage collected two singles, a double and triple and knocked in four runs, while Carew had two singles and a sacrifice fly for three RBI and Wynegar socked four singles and a sacrifice fly to drive in three runs.

Tigers 4, A's 0

Milt Wilcox pitched a five-hitter and Jason Thompson and Alan Trammell blasted home runs to lead Detroit over Oakland.

"I wanted to show the manager I was not just a five-or-six-inning pitcher," said the 28-year-old Wilcox, who has had a checkered, eight-year career in the majors. "I couldn't spend my whole career as a long relief man."

Wilcox was in complete command of all his pitches, as Detroit manager Ralph Houk saw it.

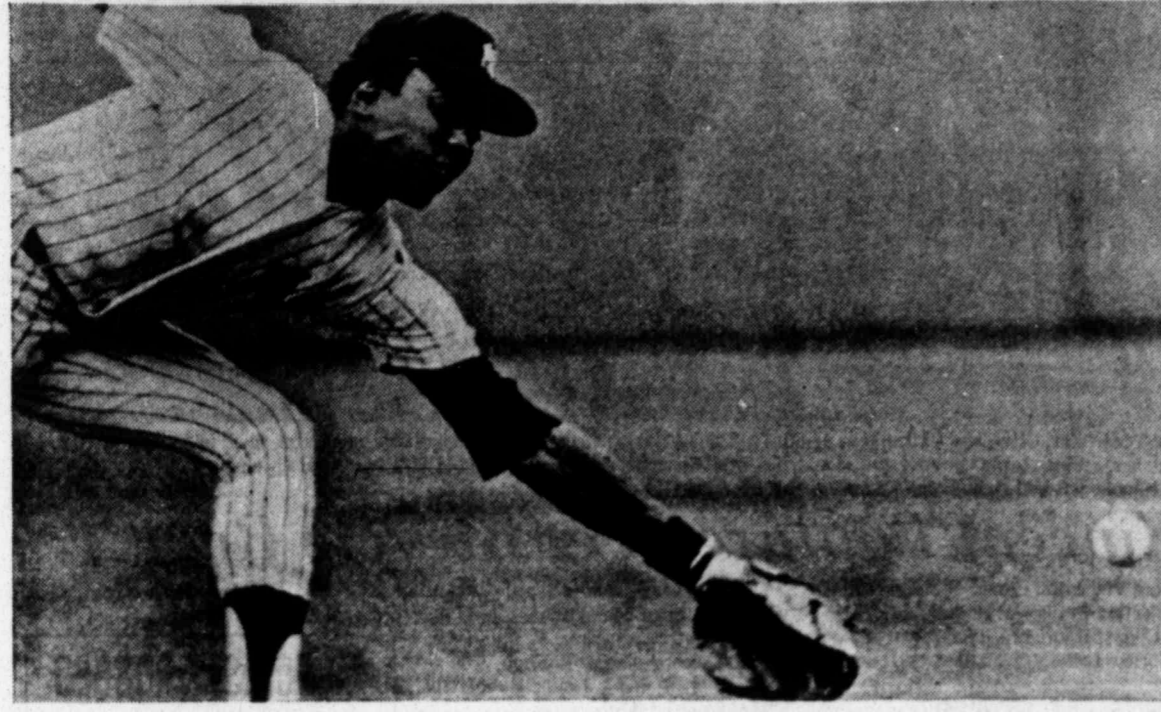

"He had good stuff and got stronger as the game went on," Houk pointed out.

Angels 16, Indians 3

Ron Jackson smashed four singles and drove in four runs and Don Baylor knocked in three with his eighth home run and added three singles to pace a 21-hit attack as California buried Cleveland. California's biggest hit total of the season also included three hits by Bobby Grich and two hits each by four other batters.

Mariners 9, Blue Jays 7

Bruce Bochte's two-out, two-run triple broke a 5-5 tie in the eighth inning and Leon Roberts followed with a two-run homer that gave him a club-record six RBI as Seattle downed Toronto. Rick Bosetti's grand-slam homer for Toronto with two out in the eighth had tied the game at 5-5.

STRETCH—Willie Randolph of the New York Yankees tries in vain for a ball hit by Bobby Thompson of the Texas Rangers during the second inning of Sunday's game at Yankee Stadium. Thompson got a single on the play, but the Yanks won 3-2. (AP Laserphoto)

Olson Smashes State Mark

AUSTIN (AP) — Dana Olson had just hurled a new girls state discus record of 151-0 Friday when she learned her 104-fer earlier in the week was due to mononucleosis.

"I was hoping for 160 and I'm disappointed I didn't get it," she said after the diagnosis. "I threw 152-7 last week at a qualifiers meet and I want to do better every time I throw."

Miss Olson's state record was one of only two new state marks and a national record set in the two-day state girls track meet Friday and Saturday.

Fort Worth Trimble Tech took the Class AAAA title for the second year in a row and Canyon captured its third straight AAA championship. Rising Star won Class B honors. Bovina took the Class A championship and Belville won in AA.

Miss Olson didn't learn the results of a positive blood test until after she wiped out the state best of 150-10 set two hours earlier by Vickilee Cobern of Class B.

Lori Scott of Amarillo Palo Duro sped to a 5:05.2 finish in the AAAA mile, smashing the old state record of 5:09.

Easter Gabriel of Houston Sterling jumped 40 1/2 in the AAAA triple jump for a new national record, shattering the old mark of 39-11 1/2 set last year by Jackie Mays of Stamford.

Kathy Bergson of Allie Hastings tied a national 80-yard hurdles record of 10.2 held by four others, including Karen Holmes of Fort Worth.

Trimble Tech trailed Galveston Ball 36-32 going into the 1,600-meter relay, but Francis Punch ran a 56.2 anchor leg to give Tech first place and a team point total of 52.

Merry Johnson accounted for much of Canyon's strength with 27 of her team's 50 points.

Speedy Pirates 'Steal' 6-4 Game From Dodgers

By The Associated Press
They used to be the lumber company, the guys with the booming bats. The Pittsburgh Pirates' idea of offense used to be waiting around for somebody to hit over the wall.

That's changed since Chuck Tanner took over as manager last year. The Pirates stole 260 bases in 1977, 73 more than any other major league team, and shortstop Frank Taveras led the majors with 70.

And they're off and running again this season. They swiped eight bases in eight attempts against Los Angeles Sunday, running left-hander Tommy John ragged and pinning the first loss of the season on the Dodgers' ace, 6-4.

Taveras, Omar Moreno and Bill Robinson stole two bases each and Phil Garner and winning pitcher Jim Rooker added one apiece.

Rooker, who needed relief help from Jim Bibby and Kent Tekulve to raise his record to 2-1, laid the blame for the running spree directly on John.

"I didn't realize he had such a bad move to first base and I took advantage of it," said Rooker. "The catcher (Steve Yeager) didn't have a chance to throw anybody out."

"That's the way the game's supposed to be played," said John of the Pirates' base-stealing antics. Pittsburgh leads the National League with 41 thefts and Moreno leads the league with 14 of them.

John described his move to first as "fair—good enough to get some guys out and tough to hold some. On four of the steals, I just didn't have any idea that they'd be running. I just didn't expect it. The other four (by Moreno and Taveras) were just good stolen bases. I held them as close as I could, but I also had to concentrate on the plate."

Moreno walked in the first inning, stole second and scored on a single by Robinson. In the second inning, Garner doubled home a run, stole third and scored on a single by Rooker, who then stole his first base of the season.

A theft by Robinson set up a third-inning run, and Pittsburgh scored twice more in the sixth on a two-run single by Dave Parker.

Expos 19-2, Reds 5-4
Montreal tied a club record by scoring 19 runs against Cincinnati in the opener, the most runs by any team in any game this season. It was Cincinnati's worst defeat in 10 years.

Montreal pounded four Cincinnati pitchers for 20 hits in the opener, including home runs by Andre Dawson, Ellis Valentine and Tony Perez.

The Expos chased starter Paul Moskau with four runs in the third, scored five times off Dale Murray in the seventh and added five runs off Dave Tomlin in the ninth.

An error by third baseman Larry Parrish on a double steal attempt in the sixth inning gave Cincinnati two runs and dealt Ross Grimsley his first loss after five victories.

With the score tied 2-2 in the sixth, Cincinnati had runners at first and third when Junior Kennedy broke towards second and Dave Concepcion edged off third. Catcher Gary Carter threw to third to try to nail Concepcion, but the ball got by Parrish and went into left field, allowing both runners to score.

Cincinnati's Pete Rose, who reached the 3,000-hit milestone on Friday, sat out the second game because of a stomach disorder, ending a club-record streak of 678 consecutive games, the longest of any active major leaguer.

"It's the worst I've felt in 16 years," said Rose. "I took every pill I could to get better."

Giants 2, Cubs 1
Vida Blue won his fourth game in a row for the Giants after losing his season opener. He pitched no-hit ball for 5 2/3 innings and allowed four hits before being lifted in the ninth as manager Joe Altobelli played left-righty percentages for the final two outs.

Right-hander Randy Moffitt relieved and retired right-handed Dave Kingman for the second out, then Gary Lavelle, a left-hander, came in and got lefty Bobby Murcer to end the game.

"I'm not going to let a guy hit a homer to beat us," reasoned Altobelli, "not with the bullpen we have. All I ask from a starting pitcher is an all-out good effort. First I want to see him win the game. Going nine innings is secondary."

Willie McCovey drove in both Giants runs on an infield out in the third inning and a single in the fifth.

Phillies 8, Mets 5
Greg Luzinski belted two home runs and drove in four runs and Bob Boone and Richie Hebner hit one homer each as the Phillies won their third in a row and ninth in the last 11 starts, surviving a 16-hit New York attack.

Cardinals 8, Padres 4
Garry Templeton's two-run single capped a four-run fifth inning that carried the Cardinals past San Diego as Bob Forsch raised his record to 5-2 by scattering eight hits.

Ken Reitz singled home a run to produce a 3-3 tie in the fifth, then San Diego catcher Rick Sweet dropped the ball at home plate on an attempted force play.

allowing the Cards to score the go-ahead run. Templeton then gave St. Louis a 6-3 lead with his single.

Midland Trips Amarillo in TL

By The Associated Press
El Paso's Jim Dorsey strayed San Antonio hitters as Bill Ewing blasted a three-run homer to lead the Diablos to a 10-5 Texas League baseball victory Sunday.

The game was only one of two Texas League contests in a rain-abbreviated schedule. Midland downed Amarillo 10-4 in the other game. Jackson at Tulsa was rained out.

The Diablos' victory was their second in a row over Western Division leading San Antonio. But San Antonio maintained a six-game lead over both El Paso and Midland.

Dorsey's victory was his third of the year against only one loss. The losing pitcher was Dave Stewart, 3-3.

Midland's Ron Davis picked up his first win of the season as he went the distance. Davis, who has two losses, received offensive help from Tony Pepper's two triples. Greg Wilks, 1-3, absorbed the loss.

Tonight's games finds Shreveport at Arkansas for a doubleheader, Jackson at Tulsa, Midland at Amarillo and San Antonio at El Paso.

Vincent Captures Vet Bicycle Race

Tom Vincent of Clovis, N.M., captured the Veteran's Class at the Lubbock Bicycle Club-sponsored race Sunday at Buffalo Springs Lakes.

Vincent, who had to battle strong winds and tough competition, toured the 26 mile route in one hour, 12 minutes to defeat second-place finisher Renne Wojnick of Midland. Jasper Hubbert of Lubbock placed third.

In the 51-mile Men's Open Division, Bruce Abbey, a rider who traveled all the way from Indiana, triumphed in a time of 2 hours, 18 minutes.

Tracy McConachie, of Illinois, nailed down the Women's Interational Development Class in a time of one hour, 51 minutes.

VETERAN'S CLASS (26 Miles) — 1. Tom Vincent, Clovis, 1:12:0. 2. Renne Wojnick, Midland, no time. 3. Jasper Hubbert, Lubbock, no time.
JUNIOR CLASS (36.8 Miles) — 1. Shawn Miller, Lubbock, 1:52:0. 2. Howard Beck, Lubbock, no time. 3. Jimmy Roberson, Plainview, no time.
SENIOR MEN'S 34 (38 Miles) — 1. Rex White, Alabama, 2:18:0. 2. James Foster, Lubbock, 3. Jeff Spears, Lubbock, no time.
SENIOR MEN'S OPEN (51 Miles) — 1. Bruce Abbey, Indiana, 2:18:0. 2. Jay Bond, Dallas, no time. 3. Jerry Anderson, Dallas, no time.
WOMEN'S DIVISION (37 Miles) — 1. Tracy McConachie, Illinois, 1:51:0. 2. Joyce Gimmel, Midland, no time. 3. Kelly Clark, no time.

She defeated Joyce Gimmel of Midland for the title.

MOTORISTS ROBBED BY GAS THIEF

Motorists are being robbed by a sly thief who steals gas while they drive. The culprit is a dirty carburetor, which wastes precious fuel and causes poor engine performance. Now you can restore efficiency thanks to WYNN'S® Carburetor Cleaner. This special spray formula works without dismantling to instantly remove gum and varnish, curb rough idling and stalling, as it increases mileage. Flyers Break Bruins' String

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Philadelphia Flyers' captain Bobby Clarke shoots off the ice just the way he does on it — straight to the target.

"I think we've turned it around," said Clarke after the Flyers beat the Boston Bruins 3-1 Sunday night to reduce the Bruins' lead in their National Hockey League best-of-seven semifinal series to 2-1.

"Now it's a question of whether we want it enough," Clarke said. "If we do, we can beat them."

Philadelphia got the jump on the Bruins, scoring in the first period on Andre Dupont's blazer from just inside the blue line for a 1-0 lead. Boston tied it three minutes later on Brad Park's power-play goal.

The victory was the first for Philadelphia in seven playoff games with Boston. The Bruins swept four games from the Flyers in last year's semifinals and won the first two last week in Boston.

 10. Don Gregory, Camaro, 46.750

Mentioned Briefly

DALLAS — Tom Watson, twice tied by Lee Trevino, responded to the pressure with magnificent shots down the stretch and scored his third victory of the season in the $200,000 Byron Nelson Golf Classic. The dynamic red-haired Watson finished off the 4-under-par 66 with a fantastic chip shot on the 18th, saving par there and the $40,000 first prize that made him the season's leading money winner and the game's 17th $1 million winner.

Watson acquired his ninth American title—not including his two British Open triumphs—by a single stroke over the rushing Trevino with a 72-hole total of 272, 8 shots under par on the 4,993-yard Preston Trail Golf Club course.

TOKYO — Japanese pro Toru Nakamura broke Graham Marsh's domination of the Wizard Golf Tournament, winning the 54-hole, $111,111 event by 1 stroke with a 2-under-par 214. Nakamura fired a 1-under-par 71 on the final round to finish just ahead of Japanese golfers Toshihiko Yamamoto and Kikuo Arai and win $22,222.

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. — Jan Stephenson, regaining her cool after a temper tantrum in the second round, shot a 3-under-par 69 Sunday in the third round of the International Golf Tournament for a total of 209, 7 under par. Her closest rival, four strokes behind, was amateur Beth Daniel of Charleston, S.C., the U.S. Amateur champion. The nearest pro competitor, a stroke off the pace at 215, were Pam Higgins, Amy Alcott and Penny Putz.

AUTO RACING
MONTE CARLO, Monaco — France's Patrick Depailler, driving a Tyrrell-Ford, won a thrill-packed 36th Monaco Grand Prix Sunday to take the lead in the 1978 world driver championship. Reigning champion Niki Lauda Austria, in a Brabham-Alfa, fought back brilliantly from sixth place after a pit stop. He grabbed second place from South African Jody Scheckter, driving a Wolf, only three laps from the end.

It was Depailler's first Grand Prix victory in 69 championship races, although he has placed second seven times. He averaged 80.299 mph for the 73 laps of the streets of the Riviera resort, being timed at 1 hour, 55 minutes and 14.6 seconds for the 154.35 miles. He finishing 22.45 seconds ahead of Lauda.

TALLADEGA, Ala. — Joe Millikan swung around Donnie Allison coming on to the front straightaway and won a sprint to the finish line by less than a car length to win the Alabama Sportsman 300. Millikan averaged a record 156.281 mph in his Petty-prepared Dodge Charger and led 18 of the 113 circuits around the 2.6-mile Alabama International Motor Speedway tri-oval. Allison had the lead in his Chevrolet when a caution period for a spinout bunched the field for a four-lap dash to the checkered flag.

TENNIS
KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Wojtek Fibak and Tom Okker shrugged off an opening-set loss to Stan Smith and Bob Lutz and went on to win the $200,000 world doubles championship 6-7, 6-4, 6-4. Fibak of Poland and Okker of the Netherlands split $80,000 for their efforts while Americans Smith and Lutz divided $40,000.

BOXING
BELGRADE, Yugoslavia — Teofilo Stevenson of Cuba and Tony Tubbs of the United States won their opening bouts in the heavyweight division of the second World Amateur Boxing Championships Sunday, setting the stage for a second-round confrontation. Stevenson, a two-time Olympic gold medalist, easily beat Ghana's Joseph Mensan when a powerful punch opened a cut over Mensan's eye in the opening seconds of the first round. Mensan grimaced in pain and retreated to his corner, forcing the referee to stop the fight.

Tubbs, 21, of Pasadena, Calif., gave a lackluster performance in outpointing Levst Ivan of Hungary. The championships were slightly marred by police when Libya's four boxers suddenly announced they were pulling out because Israel was represented.

HORSE RACING
LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Affirmed, $5.60, scored a 1 1/2-length victory over Alydar in the 104th running of the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs. Banner, $3.60, romped to an eight-length victory over Juice 'n' the 125,000-will Spinners Purse at Churchill Downs. Nervous John, $4.40, charged to a 3 1/2-length triumph over Popcorn in the $22,950 Debutante Stakes at Churchill Downs.

Fem Trainer Looks To Future Successes

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Ron Cameron may be the first heavyweight fighter to have a woman wringing her hands with concern during ring action and then helping with the water bottle between rounds.

Cameron's ringside trainer is Michalyn Wagner of Grand Island and she'll be in his corner tonight in an all-heavyweight amateur boxing card.

The 6-5, 210-pound fighter and Miss Wagner began their boxing association last October, so she has witnessed only a few of his bouts during an amateur career of about 33 wins and six losses.

She doesn't claim to be a boxing expert, but is positive about one thing. "You're looking at the next world heavyweight champion," she says.

Cameron has been fighting and training mostly in the Philadelphia area. He has sparred against such professionals as Jimmy Young, Duane Bobick and Joe Frazier.

"Yes, qualifying is a big deal," Ongais said, "but if someone qualifies faster than I do, that's just the way it goes. I."

"I've enjoyed every facet of motor sports. Every area offers unique challenges. Every area offers to become involved in Formula 1 if it can be fitted into my schedule."

Sunday's practice was washed out by rain. Twelve drivers—including Ongais—made their initial appearances on the track on Saturday. Johncock, clocked at 187.656 with a new Drake V-8 engine, was the only former Indy driver to practice.

Larry Dickson won a three-way scramble with Larry Rice and Larry Cannon to be first on the track and later turned a lap at 187.891. Rick Mears, another Penske teamster, was timed at 187.417; Salt Walther reached 183.337 and Janet Guthrie hit 181.

OUTSTANDING LIONS

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — Defensive back Cary McCoy and wide receiver Kip Vermiglia were honored as outstanding performers in the 1978 Penn State football spring practice. McCoy, a 5-foot-11, 175-pound sophomore, received the O'Hara Award given annually to the defensive player who demonstrates "exemplary conduct, loyalty, interest, attitude and improvement," during spring drills.

"I'm not afraid of speed—but I respect it. I don't think I'm braver than other drivers. I'm just a normal man."

"I've enjoyed every facet of motor sports. Every area offers unique challenges. Every area offers to become involved in Formula 1 if it can be fitted into my schedule."

Actor's Presence Adds Credibility To Movie

By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Perhaps the most important ingredient in every successful motion picture is the credibility of characters set down in familiar or even extraordinary circumstances.

Whether it's science-fiction, cinema verity, horse opera or historical cavalcade, the audience must believe the principals are real people involved in plausible events.

 Credibility is especially vital in occult movies, a highly suspect genre of the film art in which the audience is asked to accept a story steeped in the tradition of witches, sorcerers, warlocks, devils and horrors beyond the grave.

Some years ago "Rosemary's Baby," in which a beautiful young woman gave birth to the devil, was a rampaging hit. Audiences were swept up in the eerie terror of the occult.

Then "The Exorcist," a blood-curdling story of exorcism in a young girl, was an astonishing hit. The sequel, "Exorcist II," failed for lack of credibility and a great deal of ham acting.

More recently "The Omen," a bloody story of the Antichrist materialized in a child, was a box-office hit with Gregory Peck in the starring role.

"Damien — Omen II" soon will be released, recounting the shuddering developments of the Antichrist as the child becomes a man. This time, in the interest of credibility, the star is William Holden.

Both Peck and Holden have the weight and presence, the down-to-earth mature American male image, to project believability into any characterization in almost any set of circumstances.

Without such performances, audiences are unable to suspend reason and thereby accept the possibility of verisimilitude in the occult. The picture is lost when the individual refuses to allow himself the deliciously prickly sensation of being frightened out of his wits.

Holden, who has never acted in a horror picture before, faced a real challenge in bringing his point-blank realism to the occult story.

"I accepted the picture because the script was subtle enough to convince me of the reality of my role as a corporate president caught up in a series of devastating events," Holden said thoughtfully.

"The man deals with everyday circumstances of life which are illness, catastrophe, losing friends, the tragedies that occur all the time. We read about them in newspapers every day.

"It is possible to describe such things, like war and pestilence, in terms of the forces of evil.

"I'm naive enough to think that I have a feeling for the terror of the unknown. So taking this part was just doing another professional job in a different genre. Certainly, I've never done anything like it before."

Holden, who won the Academy Award for best actor in 1953 for "Stalag 17," agreed that his image both on and off screen as a believable contemporary man does add a much needed anchor of credibility to "Damien — Omen II."

He didn't care for "The Exorcist." He thought it was extreme and was repelled by some of the footage.

"I thought it was over-drawn and over-portrayed," he said. "I enjoyed 'The Omen' because it was a well-drawn film with the right amount of horror for the story it told.

"Greg Peck made the story credible by playing the character as if he believed the events were natural tragedies rather than manifestations of the devil. I'd like to think I have been convincing by doing the same thing.

"If I can't approach every character I play with the attitude of 'There, but for the grace of God, go I,' then I sure can't get anyone else to believe him.

"An actor must make his character believable to the audience, not just to himself. If not, how can he get across the feeling of what he believes? It's a very fragile area to be in.

"You have to create a false innocence in your character. The actor, of course, has read the third act. He knows how the story ends. But the character he plays must never convey for a moment that he knows what is going to happen. The actor has to block it off.

"The audience can relate to a man who doubts and questions the occult. The important thing in this film is that the audience won't doubt because they know things my character does not.

"Actually, new as it was to me, I didn't find the part difficult to play except for crossing the line at that moment when the character must accept the existence of the Antichrist.

"There are several shocking deaths in the picture. I'm not squeamish about that sort of thing, but the audience is in for a real surprise at the end of the movie.

"As for me, I was surprised at how much I enjoyed doing the whole thing."

Jack Albertson Has Hopes Pilot Will Become Regular TV Series

By JAY SHARBUTT
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — With "Chico and the Man" exiting NBC after four seasons, one might think the Man, Jack Albertson, would like to loaf a while, rest on his residuals. Nope.

He says he's ready to do a new series, an hour-long one at that. Whether he will depends partly on how his NBC pilot fares in the ratings when NBC gets around to setting an air date for it.

It's "Grandpa Goes to Washington," Albertson, the crusty old garage owner in "Chico," now plays a crusty old college professor who, forced to retire because of age, becomes a U.S. senator.

"Hate that Grandpa thing, wish it were something else," he groused.

At 67, Albertson is a year older than the character he essays, but four years younger than the real-life citizen it will be likened to — Sen. S.I. Hayakawa, R-Calif., ex-president of San Francisco State.

Jack, Hollywood's distinguished delegate from Malden, Mass., by way of vaudeville, burlesque and theater, was asked why he'd rather face weekly work again than goof off and golf.

"I don't know," he mused. He loves golf, has outstanding invitations to putter about in six tournaments, "and that's fun. But fun is doing something I feel has a reason for being."

The new show, he added, "offers us the opportunity to deal with some subjects dear to the hearts of the American people," such as inflation, aging, energy and unemployment. About his pilot:

The old prof, put on geriatric waivers by his college after passing the mandatory retirement age of 65, is drafted into a winning campaign for the Senate after certain events occur.

Such include the incumbent's withdrawal amid revelations he's loved well but not wisely with a Fannie Foxe-type name of Boom-Boom.

The draft-Grandpa effort comes after the senator's rival, a governor, speaks at Grandpa's college, and the old man off-handedly calls him a crook when asked for a comment by reporters.

"The reporters chase after me and say, 'That's a serious charge,'" Albertson grinned. "And I say, 'Well, he's a serious crook.'"

As fate would have it, the "Grandpa" pilot was directed by actor Richard Crenna, last seen as a conservative Washington columnist in CBS' now-defunct "All's Fair."

Doesn't the failure of that series suggest people don't care for D.C., consider it a hamlet of odd folk and odder statistics?

"With all due respect to Dick, I don't think people identified with him as much as they will with me," he said, meaning a crusading columnist as opposed to an accidental, crusading senator.

Albertson did opine that voters have grown sour about those they elect to run America: "Oh, God, yes, ever since Watergate, the feeling has been that politicians aren't trustworthy."

He doubts that'll change. His theory why: "What with the terrorists, the violence and crime, the indications are that nobody really cares very much about anybody else."

"It's largely due, I'd say, to an expanding population. Because the more people there are, the less intimacy there is."

Vet Claims Birds Often Overweight

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Is your budgie too pudgy?

Veterinarian Theodore Lafeber says too many bird owners let their feathered pets nosh their way into obesity. Not only that, he says many caged birds suffer from malnutrition, loneliness, neuroses and sore feet.

Dr. Lafeber maintains a Chicago-area practice and is author of "Tender Loving Care for Pet Birds." He was in Salt Lake City for an American Animal Hospital Association convention.

Lafeber said there is a boom in pet birds, with some 20 million Americans now sharing their homes with everything from finches to Amazon parrots.

Although birds are highly social creatures that can form strong bonds with humans, Lafeber said many cage dwellers are not happy. He blames much of their misery on poor feeding habits.

Most owners keep the seed dish heavy and let Tweety stuff his craw any time he wants. Not good, says Lafeber. "With them eating only seed, you get a fat bird with malnutrition."

Better to feed the bird twice a day and make the meal a smorgasbord, he said, noting that birds can eat almost anything, be it seed mix, fruit, vegetables, bacon and eggs or rum balls.

"What do you think they used to feed birds 100 years ago when they lived to be 80 years old?" asked Lafeber. "Those pirates were feeding those birds booze and everything else."

Lafeber says his method not only improves nutrition and takes strain off the perch but makes for a friendlier pet.

"When you feed a bird it knows you're a friend," he said. "All of a sudden I've created a bond here that can be created no other way between man and his bird."

That bond is crucial, he says, because life can get lonely staring out through the bars all day.

Bird owners should talk to their pets, provide them toys, and a cage where they have space, but can feel secure.

"The biggest problem of a bird in captivity is fear," Lafeber said. A bird in the wild reacts to danger by fleeing. "When you put him in a cage and he can't fly away, he gets emotional problems."

Reporter Visits RCA Stockholder Meeting

MUSIC MAKING — Singer Mac Davis and disco queen Donna Summer are shown in Los Angeles during taping of NBC's special "You Put Music in My Life," which will be aired Thursday. Also appearing in the special will be the Sunshine Band. (AP Laserphoto)

By JOAN HANAUER
NEW YORK (UPI) — RCA held its annual stockholders meeting this week, in the NBC studio (RCA is the parent company of NBC) usually reserved for "Saturday Night Live". Here are a reporter's notes on the three-hour proceedings:

RCA board chairman Edgar Griffiths presides. A dozen directors sit on dais (two are absent), about 300 stockholders fill the auditorium of studio 8H. Mostly older men and many women. Directors include one black and one woman — neat but not gaudy.

In audience are Lewis Gilbert and Wilma Soss, professional gadflies at annual meetings. Retired man from Brooklyn in green leisure suit has two questions — will there be refreshments; will there be any little gifts as mementos.

"I'd be glad to consider it and discuss it with my colleagues," Griffiths says. Griffiths uses that phrase often when he means no. Very articulate. Would I buy a used car from that man? Probably.

Woman in big hat and beige pants suit says she tried RCA-owned brand of frozen foods on her dog, then on her husband, finally ate some herself. Declares it delicious. She also proposes a slogan for Coronet carpets, owned by RCA: "With Coronet, we've got you covered."

Energy-Efficient Buildings Seen

NEW YORK (AP) — A "new generation" of commercial buildings, incorporating energy-saving designs and features, was predicted at the recent Energy Conservation Awards presentation here.

In a keynote address, Charles E. Peck, a vice president of Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp., said that one event which will help produce this new generation of buildings is: large financial institutions, which provide mortgage money, will begin to insist that the commercial buildings on which they hold mortgages are energy-efficient.

Griffiths tells her she's out of order, but nicely. She says, "I like you, too." Griffiths delivers report to shareholders. Everything swell except NBC and Fred Silverman will boost those low prime time ratings. He advises patience.

Young man with attaché case in front row on aisle is out of order when he tries to complain about NBC coverage of anti-abortion movement during discussion of nomination of directors. He gets chance later to talk. He is assured RCA will consider his objections.

Griffiths says it is "very difficult today to find people to serve on boards." Wilma Soss objects to one board member, who also is head of Atlantic-Richfield. Reasons for objection difficult to understand but not ecological.

Questions about company planes, apartments, and executive perks. Answers: RCA owns three planes, a helicopter and three apartments (in New York, Washington, and Orlando, Fla.) none of which is used for personal shenanigans.

Man from Accuracy in Media, politically conservative network watchdog, chides NBC for what he considers bias. Griffiths disagrees. The company will consider it.

On reelection of board and several motions — company positions upheld and directors re-elected.

Lady stockholder lauds NBC's "Holo-caust" and thinks Nielsen ratings too low — at least compared to the count she took of friends in Palm Beach.

Another lady asks, if Johnny Carson "Tonight" shows with guest hosts attract as many sponsors as when Carson is on, why does NBC need high-priced Johnny?

"We do make a profit on the Johnny Carson show," Griffiths answers.

Other points come up — Griffiths promises that x-rated movies will never be shown on NBC, assures that NBC will never again broadcast 17 minutes of the wrong miniseries episode, as it did with "Loose Change," and promises the network will make money on the 1980 Moscow Olympics.

An angry man, who represents his ailing stockholder-mother, believes the directors remain too aloof from the shareholders. "My mother needs the money," he says. By time meeting breaks up, auditorium is half-empty.

College's Museum Displaying Straw

WASHINGTON (AP) — Beer drinkers of ancient Mesopotamia sipped their beverage through reeds or tubes, reports Philip C. Katz, senior vice president of research services, United States Brewers Association.

One golden straw, belonging to Queen Shubad of Mesopotamia, is now on exhibit at the University of Pennsylvania Museum in Philadelphia.

During her reign, brewing, a highly-respected profession, employed women as master brewers.

Executives Critical Of Government Involvement

By JOHN CUNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — List the various publics — customers, employees, unions, government personnel, and so on — you find most difficult to deal with, a sampling of chief executives was asked by a surveyor.

Fifty-four percent named government personnel, four points more than the percentage listing unions, the traditional adversary of corporate management. Only 8 percent named customers.

The same executives were asked: "What is the single most important problem facing your company right now, today?" The greatest number of respondents, 15 percent, said government regulations.

The responses, several hundred of them from a questionnaire sent to chief executives by John Arnold ExecuTrak Systems, a Waltham, Mass., management consulting concern, show a basic change in the marketplace.

That change: Government involvement.

Comparisons are not available, but it hardly seems likely that a decade ago union personnel would have rated lower than government employees on a scale of how difficult they were to work with.

Or that two decades ago sales would have been judged the single most important problem by only 7.5 percent and profitability by just 6.5 percent, while government regulations registered twice as high.

Government, in short, is pushing many executives up the wall, burying them in action, in testimony, in defending their papers and sometimes, said a chief executive, in "telling us how to run things."

How ironic, exploded this chief, head of a major steel company, that the government, which could not run a house of ill repute at a profit, now tells business how to run its affairs.

Another chief executive, head of an automotive company, related in an interview that he now spends about 20 percent of his working time in dealing with federal government matters alone, often in Washington.

More important perhaps than the degree of government involvement in the marketplace, is whether Americans really want it.

The National Association of Manufacturers, sounding militant again, insists Americans did not ask for big government. It sometimes even suggests the public has been duped and misrepresented.

In the current issue of its monthly journal, "Enterprise," for example, it quotes William Simon, former treasury secretary, as saying the bulk of regulation results from lobbying rather than public demand.

"In sum, the Public Interest movement is a lobby, not for the People, but for expanding police powers of the state over American producers," states Simon, who equates it with dictatorship.

But few people, even those angered by the tangle of wasteful paperwork, foolish limitations on competition, and absurd bureaucratic edicts, are likely to ask for a total cutback in any area.

Most Americans, said Barry Bosworth, are not of a mood to tolerate a totally competitive marketplace, in which jobs and prices would be determined solely by the interaction of supply and demand.

And it takes no survey to determine that most Americans are not likely to ask the federal government to pull out of the health, safety and environmental areas, which account for so much government involvement.

In fact Bosworth, director of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, even suggested further control over the marketplace by indicating the government might subpoena records of unions and corporations.

It might be, as Simon indicates, that government is the cause of many problems. It might be, as Bosworth seems to suggest, that the government might hold the answer to some of our problems.

The considerations may be academic: Since government is into business in a big way, one of the great challenges of modern management may be to work with the bureaucracy, while trying to make a profit as well.

That in fact is the current reality. Ask corporate management, as John Arnold did.

Repeal Of Corporate Income Tax Sought

By LEROY POPE
NEW YORK (UPI) — It is high time for Congress to start doing away with the corporate income tax, says Solon Patterson of Atlanta, chairman of the Financial Analysts Federation.

Even though the corporate tax produces $60 billion a year or 16 percent of the federal government's gross take, it is basically unsound and is the cause of a lot of current economic ills, Patterson told United Press International.

Patterson is far from alone in this opinion. A number of academic economists have advocated a gradual repeal of corporate income tax and Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., has been campaigning for it.

Younger Americans may not recall that from 1913 until the early days of Franklin Roosevelt's New Deal, the corporate income tax was a token affair; originally it was only 1 percent. It now runs from 22 to 48 percent on profits.

The big troubles with the tax are that it inflates the prices of all kinds of goods and services, limits capital formation and makes American goods less competitive in export markets, says Patterson. Proxmire and the academic economists who dislike the tax make the same points.

Patterson said inflation has aggravated the evil impact of the corporate income tax.

"For many years, the rule of thumb was that a healthy corporation had to earn about 12 percent on equity after taxes," Patterson said. He then quoted Warren Buffet's article in Fortune magazine some time ago as saying most companies need a larger return than 12 percent after taxes in the present inflationary climate. Therefore, Patterson said, the tax ought to be repealed.

However, Patterson said, the tax can't be repealed outright. Therefore, like President Carter, he is urging an initial slash of 20 percent this year. But Patterson wants successive cuts in the years ahead until the tax again becomes a token.

Sea Life Returns To Oil Spill Site

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Marine wildlife, victim of an oil tanker explosion in December, 1976, has returned to the ocean bottom in Los Angeles Harbor near the site of the blast that filled the water with oil, a team of divers reported recently.

However, they also reported finding "a lot of oil" in pools as deep as 6 inches. The divers were under the direction of the University of Southern California Institute for Marine and Coastal Studies.

The institute has been monitoring the marine damage ever since the oil tanker Sansinena exploded.

Patterson is in disagreement with Senator Proxmire in one important respect. Patterson and most others who favor repeal of the corporate income tax advocate replacing it at least in part with a value added tax.

This would tax manufacturing and processing operations at each step. It has many advantages. It piles up revenues rapidly, it is collected whether or not the company is profitable and it is easy to rebate on exports.

Moved by labor's opposition to the value added tax as just another sales tax, Proxmire has opposed the VAT vigorously.

Patterson says it is conceivable that ultimate repeal of the corporate income tax might increase capital formation and improve the general position of American business so rapidly that the $60 billion now collected under it might be made up even without the VAT.

Analysis

Patterson is convinced, as are some of President Carter's tax advisers, that a sharp reduction in the corporate income tax not only will increase capital formation, but will spur competition and result in a sharp drop in the general price level.

A DAILY MESSAGE FROM The Newspaper Bible.
Matthew 24: 17-35, The Living Bible

17 Those on their porches must not even go inside to pack before they flee.

18 Those in the fields should not return to their homes for their clothes.

19 And woe to pregnant women and to those with babies in those days.

20 And pray that your flight will not be in winter, or on the Sabbath.

21 For there will be persecution such as the world has never before seen in all its history, and will never see again.

22 In fact, unless those days are shortened, all mankind will perish. But they will be shortened for the sake of God's chosen people.

23 Then if anyone tells you, 'The Messiah has arrived at such and such a place, or has appeared here or there, or in the village yonder,' don't believe it.

24 For false Christs shall arise, and false prophets, and will do wonderful miracles, so that if it were possible, even God's chosen ones would be deceived.

25 See, I have warned you.

26 So if someone tells you the Messiah has returned and is out in the desert, don't bother to go and look. Or, that He is hiding at a certain place, don't believe it!

27 For as the lightning flashes across the sky from east to west, so shall My coming be, when I, the Son of all Mankind, return.

28 And wherever the carcass is, there the vultures will gather.

29 Immediately after the persecution of those days the sun will be darkened, and the moon will turn black, and the stars will seem to fall from the heavens, and the powers overshadowing the earth will be convulsed.

30 And then at last the signal of My coming — will appear in the heavens and there will be deep mourning all around the earth. And the nations of the world will see Me arrive in the clouds of heaven, with power and great glory.

31 And I shall send forth My angels with the sound of a mighty trumpet blast, and they shall gather My chosen ones from the farthest ends of the earth and heaven.

32 Now learn a lesson from the fig tree. When her branch is tender and the leaves begin to sprout, you know that summer is almost here.

33 Just so, when you see all these things beginning to happen, you can know that My return is near, even at the doors.

34 Then at last this age will come to its close.

35 Heaven and earth will disappear, but My words remain forever.
