Carter Wins First Battle On Jet Sale

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate Foreign Relations Committee today refused to block President Carter's pro-posed sale of warplanes to three Middle East nations.

The committee voted 8-8 on a resolution disapproving the sale, although the issue is scheduled to be brought to the Senate floor next week. A tie committee vote means a defeat for the disapproval resolution to block the sale of jets worth $4.8 billion to Israel, Egypt and Saudi

The vote was a victory for President Carter, who had changed the sales plan to increase the number of F-15 jets to be sold to Israel in an attempt to win congressional support for the sale.

Congress can block the sale if both the House and Senate pass resolutions of disapproval. The sales go through unless Congress rejects them.

After the committee vote, a White House aide, who asked not to be identified, said: "The point is this committee did not vote out a resolution of disapproval. That's the key thing.

He predicted that the full Senate will support the sale by a margin of 12 to 15 votes. The Carter aide also said the administration believes it will prevail in the House International Relations Committee by a two-vote majority.

Despite the committee vote, senators said the issue still will be raised on the floor, probably on Monday. The House International Relations Committee is scheduled to vote Tuesday on the resolution of disapproval. The Senate panel split 8-8 after President Carter gave assurances he would offer an additional 20 F-15s to Israel for delivery in 1983-1984.

In a letter to Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., chairman of the committee, the president also said, "We will give sympathetic consideration to the request from Israel for additional combat aircraft" for delivery in subsequent years.

Supporting the sale were Sparkman; George McGovern, D-S.D.; John Glenn, D-Ohio; Muriel Humphrey, D-Minn.; James Pearson, R-Kan.; Charles Percy, R-III.; Robert Griffin, R-Mich., and Howard Baker, R-Tenn. Opposing the sale were Sens. Frank Church, D-Idaho; Claiborne Pell, D-R.I.; Dick Clark, D-Iowa; Joseph Biden, D-Del.; Paul Sarbanes, D-Md.; Clifford Jacob Javits, R-N.Y.

The original Carter proposal called for selling 15 F-15s and 75 F-16s to Israel, 60 F-15s to Saudi Arabia and 50 less advanced F-5Es to Egypt. Selling Israel the 20 extra F-15s will bring the Israeli and Saudi Arabian F-15 fleets to 60 each.

Before the vote, Church called on the committee to disapprove the sale to avoid disrupting "fragile" chances for peace in the Mideast.

Church said that while the administra-tion had made "a bona fide effort" at See PLANE SALE Page 14

Ignorance of the law and the question of responsibility for enforcement are the main elements of what some lawmen say is a "buck-passing" dilemma here re-

In recent months, law enforcement agencies have levelled criticism at the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission for possible laxity in enforcing state stat-utes. Tom Wilson, ABC district supervisor, replies that it is other agencies who are being remiss in their duty to also do ing about suspected violations of garding state liquor laws.

Although an unusually high number of actions recently have been taken against area clubs, Wilson spurned the question of a "crackdown," and instead said the suspensions and fines should be taken as proof the agency is doing its routine job

"We're well aware the other agencies have other laws besides liquor laws to enforce," explained Wilson, "but they're still charged with the responsibility of enforcing these laws."

The State of Texas provides: "All peace officers in the state including those of cities, counties and state shall enforce the provisions of this code and cooperate with and assist the commission in detecting violations and apprehending offenders.

Easier said than done is a common attitude within other agencies.

The Lubbock Police Department seldom makes such arrests because, as its officers freely admit, they are illequipped to keep up with the laws concerning liquor violations.

It's no secret that few persons other than ABC inspectors have been well-versed in the provisions, and this, according to Wilson, is the source of whatever problem exists.

"We've volunteered our services whenever a group (of lawmen) gets together," he explained. "We are doing everything we can to familiarize other agencies with the law, but they have to come to us and request it."

But are other agencies interested in enforcing these particular laws, or is the effort even worth their time?

Police say it is difficult to get such cases prosecuted, even when infrequent arrests are made. Most reportedly pass word of the suspected violations to the state agency, not to circumvent an investigation, but rather to put the matter in the most capable hands. "As a rule, we try to stay out on the street, and don't go into clubs, unless there's a fight or something similar," said Maj. C.G. Bartley, head of LPD's

Murder Cases Costly In Upset, Tax Money

Avalanche-Journal Staff

Murder costs not only the victim and defendant and their families and friends, it costs also in social upset and great amounts of tax money for jailing the defendant and trying

For trying two out-of-county capital murder cases this year, Lubbock County has paid out more than $57,000 and probably will pay $15,000 to $20,000 more.

Figures compiled by the county auditor show $36,082 for attorney and physician fees and $21,075 for other expenses in trying Philip Carey Brasfield March 7 through March 17 in Wichita Falls and Clarence Allen Lackey Jan. 30 through Feb. 20 in San Angelo.

Complete case transcripts for use in the automatic appeals are expected to cost $15,000 to $20,000.

The costs include lodging and food for jurors, attorneys, judges, court reporters, pathologists, psychiatrists and other witnesses, fees of the doctors and lawyers and payments to jurors and bailiffs.

The court reporters now must dictate the trial part of the transcripts, which also include a record of arrest, arraignment, pre-trial motions and other facts of the cases.

Typists then put them on paper at $1.50 a page, and the transcripts of both cases are expected to run something around 10,000 pages.

Appeals were automatic in both cases after Brasfield and Lackey were found guilty and sentenced to death.

The cases were moved from Lubbock on changes of venue. Brasfield, 28, was convicted of kidnaping and killing a 6-year-old Lubbock boy, Johnny Turner Jr.

Lackey, 23, was convicted of killing a 23-year-old Texas Tech medical school secretary, Toni Dianne Kumpf.

A Blood Red Brigade...

Tire Kickers

IT IS UNLIKELY that the outpouring of indignant world opinion will have any impact on the murderers of former Italian Premier Aldo Moro.

Their sub-human attitude toward life and the resolution of life's problems contains no element of dignified reason or emotion.

There is reason for hope on two counts, though, that Moro's death after 55 days of terrorist captivity will serve a useful pur-

First and foremost, the worldwide revulsion over Moro's death should take away from terrorists everywhere the degree of public support that is necessary for them to remain in hiding indefinitely to pursue their murderous goals.

Secondly, in Italy itself, the Red Brigade's actions should help halt the country's slide toward Communism.

MORO, WHO HAD been considered a leading candidate for the presidency in December, was kidnapped by the urban guerrillas on March 16.

They demanded the release of imprisoned comrades in return for Moro's freedom but the 61-year-old victim's party, the Christian blackmail threats despite appeals from Moro's family.

Although this appeared to some to be a heartless disregard for Moro's safety, it was a necessary stand if there is to be any hope for an end to the kidnappings and terrorism that have been going on around the globe since the late 1960s.

Political activists, unable to win any other way, resorted to the terrorist tactic because it worked. Each time they were successful in having their demands met only encouraged new acts of violence.

THE RED BRIGADE labeled Moro a "symbol" of what it called imperialistic oppression of the working class. The murderers went through the mockery of finding Moro "guilty" and, ultimately, of carrying out the death "sentence" against him.

They must have been frustrated, though, by the fact that the "imperialists" would not meet their demands. Even they must have gotten the message by now that future kidnappings and murders may satisfy their thirst for blood but it won't do their cause or their jailed comrades any good.

If that message sinks in and sticks, Aldo Democrats, refused to knuckle under to the Moro will not have been martyred in vain.

Rome's Red Brigade urban guerrillas murdered former Premier Aldo Moro after cruelly playing. with his life for several weeks.

The cowardly act not only should unite Italians against the Communist conspiracy; the government's refusal to give in to the blackmail, even though it meant Moro's life, should convince the murderous band that kidnapings no longer are a successful means to an end.

If all of this year's campaign speeches were laid end to end, they still wouldn't get to the point.

Former Texas Tech Regent Manuel DeBusk lost his attempt to win back the Dallas County Democratic chairmanship, two to one.

His trouncing at the hands of Kent Hance for the Democratic nomination to Congress, however, does not detract from the fact that a man of his stature was willing to "get involved" in the political process.

Griffin's main problem, as one observer said, was that he flunked the Dale Carnegie test. That, along with concern over a rising crime rate, convinced voters it was time for a change.

There were numerous other candidates of honor and integrity on both the Democratic and Republican tickets whose campaigns, although unsuccessful, helped to bring light to critical public

Gibbon Blossoms In Springtime

Edward Gibbon saw Rome for the first time, and turned away from all other subjects in his mind and notes to write his immortal "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire," in its seven volumes (1776-1787).

The empire had long ago fallen, and Gibbon's great work, of course, had nothing to do with that. But he tells in his autobiography of the awe he felt as the tragedy and grandeur of the great lost civilization were brought back to him through his senses.

"I can neither forget nor express the deep emotions which agitated my mind as first approached and entered the eternal city...and several days of intoxication were lost or enjoyed before I could descend to a cool and minute investigation."

IN WASHINGTON, the modern planners and architects have done much to smudge its beauty with ugly buildings and absurd statues, but the tender charm is still there and so are the memo-

Gibbon goes on to tell how "I trod, with lofty step, the ruins of the Forum, each memorable spot where Romulus stood, or Tully spoke, or We can match all that in Washington for we

Gibbon tells of the dissatisfaction which rode him with the sharp spurs of the perfectionist. It the American republic is destined to decline and fall, may the God we worship send us this sort of painstaking draftsman

He became a member of Parliament "at the beginning of the memorable contest between Great Britain and America." but the most he did was vote with Lord North and the Tory party, listening with admiration to what Burke and Fox said in opposition.

Gibbon would not speak in public. "Timidity was fortified by pride," he explained. He would not risk his literary reputation on his feet.

There are scholars. I'm sure, who feel that all the misadventures of the Roman downfall were fully rewarded by Gibbon's history which is sure to last as long as the English language. No American is likely to think his own country's demise is worth even that price.

Think You Auto Stop Buying...And Lease?

WITH AUTO OWNERSHIP and operating expenses a stunning 50 per cent above the levels at nationwide average of $560 and garaging might the time of the Arab oil embargo, you must be scrambling to cut your car costs as the rest of us are-buying smaller, lighter models, keeping your car longer, driving less.

But have you considered giving up car ownership entirely and renting your wheels instead?

If you live in a city, drive a typical intermediate make the national 10,000-mile-per-year norm, keep your car the usual three to four years and don't commute in it, you might save close to $350 a year by selling your car and renting a substitute for your vacations, weekend trips, occasional weekday visits.

And the lower your annual mileage, the more money you may be able to save by renting.

EVEN IF YOU DRIVE a five-year-old car, renting could be less expensive if your annual mileage is under 7,500. And for anyone garaging and insuring a 10-year-old auto in a big city, you can rent a brand-new model and drive it 5,000 miles a year at your current ownership costs.

Also, if you're a city resident and trade in your car every year, you could drive a rented one as many as 14,000 miles annually and be ahead of the money game.

Or if you drive the more typical 10,000 miles each year, you could save $700 every 12 months by renting instead of trading in annually.

Below are rental vs. ownership figures, calculated for me by the Hertz Corp., the car and truck lease-rental firm. (You might save more by renting from a smaller, out-of-the-way company, but Hertz is the leader in the field-and thus, these totals are guidelines.)

(I) FOR YOUR VACATION, rent a four-door (Fairmont) station wagon for a two-week, 1,400mile jaunt. Cost: $338, at a flat rate of $169 a week for a maximum of 700 free miles each

This does not include gas, of course. It's computed at the so-called "dry" rates which the bigger firms are emphasizing. But you would be buying gas for your own car, as well, so fuel is not a factor in your calculations on renting vs.

(2) For the other 50 weekends of the year, you could rent a subcompact and drive it 175 miles each time for about $67 per trip. That's figured at $19.95 a day and 19 cents a mile, less 5 per cent discount plus 8 per cent taxes. The total: $3,680 for 10,150 miles of vacation and weekend travel.

How does this compare with big-city owner-(3) A TYPICAL $5,200 mid-size 1977 model costs $3,950 a year to own and operate in a major urban area, Hertz calculates, assuming 10,150 miles annually for three-year ownership. The breakdown: depreciation $1,328; interest on the car loan $308; licenses and fees $48; maintenance, service, tires, parts and repairs $215, figured at the national average.

But insurance is placed at $700 rather than the be about $1,350. (4) This means the rented wheels-new each year-are $269 cheaper than those you own. And you've sold your three-year-old car for about $1,-225, which in a savings bank would return roughly $75 in interest. Thus, your real yearly savings

(5) With a five-year-old car, your yearly depreciation is less, though your upkeep is slightly higher, lowering your overall ownership expenses. Thus, your break-even mileage is reduced. But you still could take the 1,400-mile vacation and have the 44 weekends of 175-mile trips in a new car for the same total as your five-year-old.

(6) If your weekend trips are just 125 miles, you can take the vacation and rent the car all 50 weekends for $75 to $100 less than ownership of the five-year-old driven a similar 7,650 miles a

CHECK YOUR ACTUAL driving distances and use patterns and your actual auto expenditures against the rates charged by the leading firms, such as Hertz, which normally rent current model cars from convenient downtown locations.

It is unlikely for instance, that a city dweller will use the car every single weekend of the year. Or you may prefer fewer but longer holidayweekend trips.

Make your calculations with care. And if they show that you can achieve significant rental savings, consider (perhaps for the first time) actually selling not trading your car.

Perhaps Kemp should be viewed now in the same light, as merely a possibility for 1980, but look at the form chart. He will be 45 in the summer of 1980, and will have served ten years in the House. Those are good numbers.

He has a lovely wife and four attractive children; a family man. He is identified with business: He formerly was attached to the Marine Midland

He is also identified with labor: He was a cofounder and president of the American Football League Players Association, and as a former TVradio commentator, he still lists his membership in the National Association of Broadcasters, Engineers and Technicians (AFL-CIO).

Education Leader Says Schools Need To Change

make good schools," says Ernest Boyer, United States Commissioner of Educa-

But the schools aren't what they used to be. Or what the critics of education expect them to be. And neither is the home. Boyer thinks schools should catch up with what's been going on outside acade mia. And he has some hunches about ways contemporary families can help.

He talked about such things at the annual Education Writers Association seminar in Washington recently. He also dis-cussed his blueprint for new kinds of public schools - a plan first presented at a national education conference sponsored by the American Jewish Committee in New York.

Dramatic changes in the last 20 years pressured both public education and the family. Boyer cited some, saying: "We've become more mobile and less

"Paperbacks, magazines, television and travel now compete on equal footing with the classroom and the book.

"Archie Bunker is better known than Silas Marner, Fellini is more influential than Faulkner, and the six o'clock news is more compelling than the history text. "Students are more restless and less respectful of the school.

"And the old elementary, junior high and high school structure —with the 6-2-4 lockstep - has largely lost its meaning. In place of the old three, Boyer proposes this new three school system:

1. The Basic School. Here, children would learn to read and write effectively by grade four. Parents would help.

'Children will not become good readers if no one reads at home, if the bookshelves are filled only with knick knacks and plastic flowers, and if television

Boyer said boys and girls in the new basic school would learn to cope in this age of "the flash and the zap, the hourlong epic, the 30-minute encyclopedia, the 5-minute explanation, the 1-minute sell and the 2-second fix."

"Every student," he said, "must be taught not only how to receive messages, but how to send them, too.
"Each child should understand that we communicate - not just with words but with the visual arts, mathematics, music, computers and dance as well."

2. The Middle School. Here, students would 'be introduced to what Boyer called a "common core of study."

"There are both fields of knowledge and key social issues to which all students should be introduced if they are to be truly educated and well equipped to live effectively.

In the middle school focus also would be on studies of "the future."

There is no sharp distinction between the future, past and present and educators, all too often, have failed to grasp this essential fact."

Students in the middle school would "confront the interdependence of all life and look at the relationships among science, technology and the quality of life."

At the end of the middle school years students should be able to discuss and form intelligent views on world food supplies and distribution of same; energy supplies and the equitable sharing of phere; how the human race can learn the live together with civility, in a climate constraint."

3. The Transitional School. This would be schools within schools and probably

"Rigid academic patterns must be broken down," Boyer said. "Students should begin to flex their muscles, to test their talents, and move into the learning places which can be found beyond the academic

Male Dominance Disappearing

ATLANTA (UPI) - Male dominance is rapidly becoming a thing of the past, according to a report to the American Pyschiatric Association by two researchers.

There are still a lot of "knuckle bars" in the South where males regularly stage fights to determine the pecking order within the bars, they said. "However, this behavior is now proscribed and may lead to criminal penalties," the researchers said.

The two researchers, Dr. Jacqueline Bowls of Georgia State University and Charlotte Tatro of Florida International University, said men have significantly fewer arenas in which to display dominance and power.

They said "current male fascination with power, both physical and political, may be attributed to their concern with that dimension of their traditional role."

The two made their report to the 131st Conventiom of the American Psychiatric

The reseachers said male activity in the field of the erotic also is curtailed; men are less frequently the pursuers and more often the pursued.

They said because of new contraceptive methods, men have lost control of conception. "Men, especially middle class ones, are now apt to question their heterosexual activities; this doubt may be responsible for some of the increase in male sexual dysfunction."

They said men also are limited in the amount and quality of the sheer physical activity they can engage in. The male body has been replaced by the machine and the majority of American men per-

The researchers said some psychiatrists see androgyny — the integration of mas-culine and feminine sentiments, behaviors and temperaments in one individual - increasing as women are employed outside the home and demand equal employment opportunities.

But they said studies indicate the blurring of sexual roles may be more apparent than real and that distinct differences still remain between male and female. They predicted men will resist androgyny more than women.

Statistics Reveal Oddities

By JOHN CUNNIFF NEW YORK (AP) — In the statistical entrails of the economic numbers exam-ined each month by the federal government are some revealing oddities, per-

So, some say, was the latest Producer Index for Finished Goods, which rose a 1.3 percent in April, a sharp worsening over prices reported for March. Or if not the index, then the popular interpretation of it.

The popular use of the index, as a quick fix on retail prices to come, admittedly is a source of frustration to the professionals, who are much more cautious in their usage. But it does happen.

Consumers, for example, concentrated on the sharp rise in the price of foods at the finished stage of processing. But proessionals put just as much emphasis on Jewelry prices? Yes. They soared. They alone accounted for about 30 percent of the increase in the Finished Goods Price Index, Robert Stein of the Bureau of Labor Statistics told Congress.

Adams Adds New Route To Amtrak

WASHINGTON (UPI) - It was a bad Monday when the Transportation De-partment recommended dropping many partment recommended dropping many Amtrak routes, but the passenger train system is getting a few bits and pieces of good news as the week wears on.

Two trains that had been included in the Monday list of those to be dropped were removed from the list Tuesday—the Adirondak from New York to Montreal and the Niagara Rainbow from Detroit to Buffalo and New York.

A Transportation Department spokesman said those two trains are partially state supported, and will continue to run. They inadvertently were left off maps ac-companying the Monday report, he said.

In a later unrelated development, Transportation Secretary Brock Adams removed the Boston-Chicago Lake Shore Limited from its "experimental" status and made it a part of the basic Amtrak system. The Adams decision assures it will continue running past Nov. 1 when its experimental status would have ex-

Considine, 55, proposed spreading knowledge of CPR even before he suffered his heart attack. It was a mild one, and when he returned to work, he quickly resumed work on his proposal. The American Heart Assocciation says it is vital to maintain breathing and circulation in a person whose heart has stopped. Resuscitation in the first four to six minutes can both prevent serious brain damage and actually make the difference between life and death.

"The Congress deals harshly with American citizens living overseas," said Sundberg, formerly of Tyngsboro, Mass., who married a French woman and has

"Some people in the United States have the attitude that Americans living abroad should be punished for failing to live in the United States and made to pay for their audacity.

"We are sending Valentines to President Carter because it's a violation of human rights to strip U. S. citizens of citizenship just because they are overseas. No other country does that. No other country taxes its overseas citizens as does the United States, either."

Delegates from various countries told of family problems caused by the U.S. citizenship laws. Kathleen de Carbuccia, an American from Cooperstown, N. Y. married to a Frenchman, explained that under present U.S. laws a child born of an American citizen living abroad with a foreign spouse must live two consecutive years in the United States between the ages of 14 and 28. Otherwise he or she loses U.S. nationality.

"That's relatively easy for people who can afford it but the tuition of a U.S. university for out-of-state residences is about what some Frenchmen earn a year," she said. "Then there are such problems as flunking out, or illness. Foreign students can get scholarships, but not our children.

"Then children born of two U.S. citizens living abroad can jeopardize their American nationality by even applying for an identity card in that country. Some 20-25 U.S. citizens a year lose their na-

Tension Affects Health

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D. DEAR DR. LAMB - I need your help and advice. Can a woman's health be affected by suppressing her sexual feelings and emotional desires? Because that is just what I have been doing and I am broken out all over my face, scalp and other areas. I also feel so nervous and depressed that I cry over the least little

My husband and I have been married for four years. This is the second marriage for each of us. I am 39 and he is 43. He says he loves me, but sex is nothing. He said he's getting too old for sex. Yet, he told me about all his sexual conquests before he married his ex-wife and all about his sexual relations with her.

When we do have sex it is just a two-minute bout and not a love affair which makes me feel like I've been left cold and stranded. I approach him 75 percent of the time or nothing would take place even the once or twice a week that we do have sex. Even then when I do approach him he'll say he has a headache or a backache or something, like he's too

I saw a doctor six months ago. He said I was normal. His advice was to get a lover, take care of it myself or get a divorce. I don't like any of those solutions. What is your opinion.

DEAR READER - If the story is as you have represented it your hus-band has not seriously considered your needs. It is necessary in any deep lasting relationship between two people that each consider the other person's needs as well as his or her own needs.

It is not normal for a 43-year-old healthy male to have no interest or very little interest in sex. The level of desire and frequency may vary greatly, but the feeling is there. Your husband's lack of interest may be caused by a fear of impotence which is a symptom in itself. I am sending you The Health Letter number 3-12, Impotence, to give you more informa-tion on this. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y., 10019.

None of the solutions you mentioned will solve his basic problem either. If you really love him you would want him to resolve whatever the difficulty is and enjoy a full normal life too. To do that he will need some professional guidance. He could be depressed. Depressions often ap-pear as a loss of interest in sex. He could have a medical problem or he may have some psychological diffi-culties. Then the basic relationship between the two of you may not be good in other areas.

How do your find out what causes such a problem and how do you resolve it? I think both of you could profit from seeing a marriage counselor. If the situation is as you represent it, he might need to see a psychiatrist and obtain both a good medical evaluation and a review of problem areas in his emotional life that might be the underlying cause. Such a move could save your marriage and have a chance of providing some happiness for you both.

Yes, emotional tension of any kind can affect a person's health and even cause the skin to break out. Certainly unresolved sexual conflict is a potent source of emotional tension.

Simple physical relief won't solve the emotional strain either. Sex in such a situation is simply part of the whole emotional picture. Your strong desire for it is probably increased because it becomes a symbol of the love you want and need. This is often more important than the physical act

New Mexico Attorney General Toney Anaya cited the two cases this week in telling a Senate subcommittee about the federal confusion he said has hampered his state's efforts to curb drug smuggling.

"It sounds a little bit like the Keystone Cops, but the result could be tragic," Anaya said.

"The real problem is that this parallel but uncoordinated enforcement saps our very scarce resources from within," he said. He added that the situation is getting better, however.

Anaya was one of seven witnesses ap-pearing before the Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on international operations to discuss federal efforts to curb drug smuggling.

All agreed the federal effort has been less than a stunning success.

G.R. Dickerson, deputy commissioner of customs, said more than $924 million in illegal drugs - including 1.6 million pounds of marijuana - were seized by federal officials last year.

But he added that "we believe that we have merely scratched the surface of drug smuggling."

William J. Anderson, a deputy director of the General Accounting Office, estimated that federal seizures in fiscal 1976 of illegal drugs coming from Mexico accounted for only about 6 percent of the heroin, 3 percent of the cocaine and 13 percent of the marijuana believed to have crossed the border.

And he said the overwhelming majority of people apprehended crossing the border with illegal drugs are "users, smalltime operators, couriers or low-level members of drug trafficking organiza-

Anaya said smugglers make such high profits on their sales that they can afford far better equipment than the federal and state law enforcement agencies trying to stop them.

He noted one case in which smugglers gave up without a battle when a National Guard helicopter landed at their landing strip - even though "their landing strip was guarded by two M-60 machine gun emplacements, giving them more than enough firepower to have knocked the chopper and its passengers out of the air

TIRING TASK - The crew of this cumbersome craft faced a big problem in the annual spring boat race on the Contoocook River near Henniker, N.H., recently - getting to the starting line. British Post Office To Sponsor Driver In Can-Am Auto Races "We all need to combat the trials and

NEW YORK (AP) - Britain's Post Office, which makes money on its own turf, is counting on one of the world's fastest stamp collectors to expand its profits in the United States.

The U.S. Postal Service makes a profit on its sales of stamps to collectors and the British want a bigger slice of the American market.

The British will sponsor race driver Alain de Cadenet in the 10-event, 1978 Can-Am challenge series of 200-mile races, Brian Sproat, head of the British stamp marketing division, said here this

"This costs a great deal less than any ther form of nationwide publicity," proat told a news conference.

Some $250,000 will be spent in the United States and Canada to promote stamps, and most of the money is being invested in de Cadenet and his Lola endurance

Britain's mail service made $60.3 milcluding $18 million on sales to hobbyists. Sproat said. In the United States, an estimated 22 million collectors spent about $1.3 billion in 1976.

De Cadenet is an authority on stamps from the reign of George V. Only the Royal collection from that era is larger than the one owned by de Cadenet, Sproat said.

The British Post Office's venture in racing is in the same spirit as the U.S. Postal Service's magazine and television advertisements in which New York Knicks coach Willis Reed, Oakland Raid-

Federal Judge Says Searches Must Stop

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) - A federal judge has ordered a halt to mass searches for drugs and alcohol prior to concerts at the city-owned Civic Center.

U.S. District Judge Frank Johnson Jr. ruled this week that Montgomery police violated the constitutional rights of concertgoers by conducting such searches in December.

He enjoined police from conducting similar "wholesale, warrantless searches" at future public events held in the city - unless there is "probable cause" the law is being violated.

He also ordered police to purge from their records the names of any persons who were searched at the event but not charged with an offense

A contingent of 49 police officers searched about 60 percent of the 4,500 persons who entered the Civic Center on the night of Dec. 29 to attend a Charlie Daniels' Band concert.

Mayor Emory Folmar said the searches, which were conducted without warrants, were made to combat the use of drugs and alcoholic beverages at the year-old facility.

The mass search led to the arrest of 22 adults on drug-related charges and 20 juveniles for possession of marijuana and alcoholic beverages. None of the three plaintiffs in the federal court suit was ar-

Although banning mass searches, Johnson said police still may arrest those violating the law at the civic center and conduct selective searches, as long as they are based on probable cause.

He acknowledged the difficulty of policing events like rock concerts, but said, "If an event cannot be policed in a manner that comports with the Constitution it should not be sponsored by the City of

Many Americans Use Diamonds As Inflation Hedge

By ROZ LISTON
NEW YORK (UPI) — Diamond fever has spread to the United States, but American investors have limited access to reasonably priced diamonds and even less of a chance to sell them at a profit.

Until last year, the majority of Americans - the world's biggest buyers of diamond jewelry - were content to wear their stones for sentiment and show.

Although diamonds appreciated at an average annual rate of 8 percent between 1946 and 1976, outperforming the U.S. stock market and gold, few U.S. citizens thought of the stone as an investment ve-

But in late 1977 the diamond market exploded, and Americans took their first serious look at diamonds as protection against the weakening U.S. dollar.

Retail diamond prices have soared 50 percent in the United States since last November, and industry observers pre-dict the finer grades could climb an additional 60 percent in the next two years before leveling off.

Diamond experts blame the meteoric rise on speculators in the world's diamond-cutting centers who are storing the stones to command higher prices in the face of heated demand. Hoarding has been particularly severe in Israel, they say, where diamond cutters are worried about the Israeli economy and the deter-ioriation in Arab-Israeli relations.

Europeans and Far Easterners began buying polished diamonds on a large scale last year as a hedge against possible currency devaluations. The French and Italians, fearful over growing Communist power, sought refuge in the highly porta-ble gems. And Americans finally succumbed to the diamond bug at year end.

But most U.S. latecomers to the diamond investment game have found themselves out in the cold - at least for the time being.

Europeans have bought and sold dia-monds through established dealers for more than a century, and many European banks now invest in diamonds for their customers. Some Continental banks even accept diamond deposits.

Since the United States does not have a comparable marketplace for the public to trade diamonds, most Americans swept up in the diamond rush are buying stones from jewelers at retail prices.

ed States last year. Large jewelers usually guarantee a trade-in on diamonds at the purchase price. Kay Corp., the nation's No. 3 jeweler based in Alexandria, Va., is offering customers 10 percent over the original price to compensate for the run-up in dia-

Five selected diamonds at Sotheby Parke Bernet, the world's largest auction house, increased 29 percent above their pre-sale estimates at a New York sale April 12. The wholesale market value of the four rings and a lavaliere had been es-timated at between $2,100 and $13,000 a carat prior to the bidding.

But many U.S. diamond cutters and retailers don't believe Americans should buy diamond jdwelry for investment unless they plan to wear it for 20 years.

"An American can buy a diamond, but it's difficult to find a seller's market," says one New York cutter. "Retailers or dealers want a pound of flesh and will buy diamonds from individuals only at the current wholesale price or less."

In short, there are few outlets where the U.S. public can expect a return on diamond investments that reflects the true market price.

The investment value of unset polished diamonds is established at the world's 14 diamond exchanges, but transactions are conducted in secret and prices never published. Only Americans represented by the few legitimate diamond investors in the United States have second-hand access to these exchanges.

More than 200 diamond investment firms have surfaced to cash in on U.S. demand. But most advertise high-grade diamonds at wholesale prices and then sell poor quality stones at retail prices or above. The Securities and Exchange Commission is scrutinizing the diamond investment industry amid a flood of con-

The U.S. pursuit of diamonds continues to escalate, however.

Tiffany & Co., the establishment jewel-, and De Beers Consolidated Mines Ltd., the diamond cartel which sets prices for 85 percent of the world's rough diamonds, have warned consumers that the gems are overpriced because of specTiffany's typical one-carat diamond now sells for $6,400, up 48 percent from the $4,300 price tag it carried a year ago.

Speculators are paying 40 percent premium or more on rough diamonds bought by De Beer's 210 regular custom-ers at the cartel's "sightings," or sales. Since at least half of the stone is lost in the cutting process, the polished dia-mond's retail price after labor costs and markup is about 300 percent higher.

investment-quality, less than 2 percent of

Prices of two and three carat investment-quality diamonds rose between 40 percent and 60 percent last year, according to Bentley's Diamond Trust, an off-shore fund offering non-U.S. citizens shares in its diamond portfolio that can be redeemed in cash or stones at the prevailing market price.

...there are few outlets where the U.S. public can expect a return on diamond investments that reflects the De Beers imposed a 40 percent sur-charge on rough diamonds at its March sale and reduced the quanity by 10 per-cent to deter speculation. But the sur-charge could make retail diamonds even more expensive, and some dealers fear the cartel may not have the clout to prevent an eventual price collapse.

Only 25 percent of diamonds are ge quality, and experts estimate that all known sources of the stone will be depleted within 30 to 40 years unless new deposits are found.

Bernhard Dohrmann, president of International Diamond Corp., San Rafael, Calif., the oldest U.S. diamond investment firm, thinks industrial diamonds may have the biggest potential.

"President Carter froze U.S. stockpiles last year because the world would not be able to meet the demand for industrial diamonds by the year 2,000," Dohrmann said. "Sophisticated investors are buying industrial grade diamonds, whose value is based on the ability to cut concrete."

The Bermuda-based trust predicts prices of investment-grade diamonds ranging in size from half a carat to five carats will appreciate by 30 to 60 percent

"We didn't go after the U.S. market because there wasn't the awareness of diamonds in America that exists now," explains Harry W. Fields, trust manager of Bentley's.

The intense U.S. interest in diamonds could pay off eventually, however, in the creation of a regulated diamond invest-

The GIA grading of polished diamonds has become the global diamond language in measuring carat, color, clarity and cut. The finest diamonds are at least half a carat, coloriess, flawless under a high-powered lens, and round in cut.

Cutters, dealers and brokers trading on the world's 14 diamond exchanges now carry their own "master stones" to evaluate diamonds against the GIA scale. Anyone buying a diamond for investment should ask for a GIA certificate.

The "Gemprint," a fingerprinting system for diamonds, guards against mistaken identity or switching of GIA certificates.

Polygon plans to open a market-making operation in diamonds for the commodity brokerage industry late this year.

Only graded diamonds will be accepted for trading. A computer will measure the permutations of each stone in carat, color, clarity and cut against Polygon's standard diamond unit.

"We will be providing a liquid market."

"We will be providing a liquid mar-ket," explains Jacques Voorhees, presi-dent of Polygon. "It will allow people to be fairly certain 'bid' prices are very close to 'ask' prices because we will expose ourselves to arbitrage by announcing prices publicly."

mericans Creating Boom In Egyptian Tourism

CAIRO (UPI) - Egypt is in the throes of a tourist boom unparalleled in its long history and it has been caught virtually unprepared, especially in regard to hotel

With tourist revenue heading for the $1 billion mark next year (it was $640 million in 1977, less than $500 million in 1975), there is hardly time for tourist industry officials to analyze reasons for the rush to major sightseeing attractions in Cairo, Luxor and Uswan. But a combination of factors is involved

President Anwar Sadat has tried - apparently successfully — to undo the damage the late Gamel Abdel Nasser did with his anti-Western policies that kept tourists away. Sadat is seeking European, American and even Japunese business involvement in Egypt's economy and businessmen are flocking here.

They fill many of the city's 1,600 Western-standard hotel rooms, which were more than adequate only four years ago, leaving few rooms for tourists who are sometimes forced to stay in Alexandria 148 miles north or in pool cabanas and hotel offices. Then why do tourists still come in increasing numbers?

Usually because they are the well-traveled variety who already have mined the attractions of Europe, the Caribbean and Mexico. Egypt is a different and more exotic experience. And it is now quicker to get to as jets become more powerful. Also, hotels, food, taxis and other amenities are cheaper than in most other countries.

Publicity surrounding the Tutankha-United States museums has fired a new interest in Egypt's pharaonic culture, its cent of the downtown hotel rooms. By striking art — particularly sculpture — opening to the West, Egypt has touched and its tombs and temples. Archaeology off the first mass tourism from America. is still rampant in Egypt, even at such well-explored sites as the pyramids, Karnak and the Valley of the Kings, and this is an added attraction for the visiter.

The first American charter flights for group tours, arranged by Gilbert Zalman of Great Destinations Inc. and Arthur Frommer Inc., both of New York, are just beginning to reach Cairo. Land arrangements for the Zalman-Frommer tours are handled by Moussa Ibrahim of Perfect Tours, one of Egypt's most experienced tour operators.

To circumvent the hotel room shortage, which is compounded by habitual overbooking, Zalman and Frommer have contracted for 128 rooms on a year-round basis at the luxury 430-room Mena House Oberoi hotel at Giza, in the shadow of the pyramid of Cheops. This is just enough to accommodate each tour group that has been flying into Egypt weekly on chart-ered DC-8s since March 22. Two-week tours will begin in June. 'Americans like Mena House Oberoi because it is outside Cairo and has beautiful grounds, pool, tennis courts and golf course," said Zalman, an engineer who got into the charter tour business by arranging ski tours for friends some 20 years ago. "We're going from DC-8s to DC-10s that will carry 376 passengers in September, which means we will block off more rooms for our clients.

Seven new hotels are under construction or in the planning stage, according to Minister of Tourism Moheb Stino. Hilton is building a second hotel with 900 rooms in downtown Cairo, and Sheraton is adding a 370-room tower and building a new facility at Cairo airport, where Air France is building another Meridien ho-

Holiday Inn, Interncontinental, Hyatt, and Marriott also are building in Cairo. Marriott's hostelry, boasting decor by New York designer Mary McFadden, will wrap around the landmark Omar Khayyam Palace, constructed for the Suez Canal inauguration visit of Empress Eugenie of France in 1869.

However, the hotel squeeze will not begin to be alleviated for two years when some of the new hotels reach completion.

"There will be a shortage for at least five years," predicted Homi J. Wadia, general manager of Mena House, one of the India-based Oberoi chain hotels. "Emen loan exhibition currently touring gypt's new economic policy brings in a lot of businessmen and they fill 50 peropening to the West, Egypt has touched can for the past two years and now it is going to be 70 percent.

Tourists do well to arrange for tours before visiting Egypt or as soon as they reach Cairo. Traveling independently can be difficult if not impossible due to shor-tages of all types of facilities, such as Nile boat staterooms, tourist buses, domestic plane seats and rental cars.

Tours also provide guides educated in Egyptian history and archaeology and licensed by the government, an expensive necessity if you are traveling on your own. Guides can arrange for closed tombs to be opened, explain the virtually label-less Egyptian Museum collection, and deal with Egyptians, whose English is often rudimentary, in their own

Great Destinations does not force tours on its clients, allowing them to choose from a varied list. Tour fees are modest and are extra to the basic charter planehotel fee (eight days, seven nights) of less than $650. Traveling with two of the most popular Egyptian tour booking agencies Swans and Lindblad — is considerably more expensive but also more leisurely, running 13 to 16 days.

$1 Million Suit Filed By Victim's Family

By IRA PERRY Avalanche-Journal Staff

The family of a 33-year-old Lubbockite killed in a two-car collision earlier this year today filed suit against the 16-yearold driver of one car and its owner, seeking $1,323,669 in damages

The suit, filed in 237th District Court, alleges 16-year-old Cayle Mark Womack of 4312 56th St. "negligently and carelessly" struck the automobile driven by James Robert Thorson, a Texas Instruments employee who died at the scene of the mishap March 6.

Thorson was pronounced dead about 5:50 p.m. at the scene of the collision near the intersection of 63rd Street and Toledo Avenue by Justice of the Peace Wayne LeCroy Thorson and his 10-year-old son Bruce

Three of the children were injured in the collision, according to the suit.

The driver of the second vehicle was uninjured even though the Womack car spun about 20 feet into the front yard of a corner residence, plowing up a portion of the lawn.

The suit names Womack and the owner of the car, Bill M. Womack, as defendants. The owner, the suit alleges, entrusted his car to "a reckless, unsafe driver and unfit to be trusted with the custody of an automobile. The driver, according to the petition, was negligent in failing to keep a proper lookout, in using greater speed than necessary, in failing to apply his brakes to avoid the collision and in generally failing to avoid the mishap. Of the $1 million-plus damages sought, $800,000 is for the care and support of the children and the loss of Thorson, $500,000 is for injuries Bruce Keener reportedly suffered, $20,000 for his medical expenses past and future, and $200 each for medical expenses of Jeanna Keener and Bryan Thorson.

Police said the Thorson vehicle was southbound on Toledo Avenue, while the Womack automobile was eastbound in the 4700-block of 63rd Street when the areas affected by last winter's 110-day coal strike may have been overcharged $100 million for emergency electricity purchases by utilities, a federal energy official said today.

William V. Lindsay, director of electric power regulation for the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, said this is the approximate costs of surcharges that were stacked, one on top of the other, as electricity was moved from system to

Lindsay said the charges bore little relation to the actual costs of moving the

Every time power was moved from one system to another, approximately another 10 percent was added to the price, with the charges eventually ending up in "fuel adjustment charges" on consumers' electric bills, Lindsay told the Senate Energy subcommittee on conservation and regulation.

The commission on Wednesday ordered a full-scale audit of the power companies involved in the wholesale transfers of power during the strike, claiming it had determined "that some utilities may have collected revenues in excess of a just and reasonable rate for the involved transactions."

Lindsay said the commission may order refunds to electric power consumers as a result of the study

He said that utilities spent some $450 million to $500 million to purchase emergency power during the strike. Of this amount, about $100 million was in "add on" charges, he said.

These charges may have been in violation of federal regulations involving fuel adjustment clauses, which generally hold that "in an emergency situation like this, rates should approximate costs," Lindsay said.

Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, who chaired the hearing, said, "in the process of meeting the emergency needs, an unprecedented amount of power was bought and sold by the utilities, and on each sale the utility added an extra charge running from 10 percent to 43 per-

Big Bend Keeps Ageless Beauty

A-J Travel Editor The Big Bend area of Texas is vast. Bordered on one side by the Rio Grande, the area's geography isn't as easily defined to the northeast or north or northwest as it is where the grand river makes a 90 degree turn.

Big Bend National Park itself contains 1,100 square miles (room enough for Rhode Island and several foreign countries) and that is only a portion of the land that can be considered as part of the Big Bend country.

There are canyons, mountains, desert, forests, animals, towns and legends to match the area's size. What ever the exact geographical boundaries might be, Southwest Texas is the most interesting part of the state for many persons. For this writer, the magic of Big Bend begins at the Pecos River when traveling from Lubbock. From that point on the scenery with its flora and fauna can change ever so slowly or quickly and dramatically with every passing mile. The Delaware, Apache and Davis Mountains marching across the horizon reminds a traveler of the adventure and hardships that faced the pioneers. In the passing years, some things have changed and some things have remained. Gone are the buffalo that presented easy targets and sport for the white man; gone are the vast stretches of grasslands that were overgrazed by domestic cattle. But, miraculously, the beauty of the country has remained. Some areas have mesquite and cactus covered draws and mesas; some areas have tall pine trees and huge cottonwood trees to emphasize the jagged mountains; black volcanic rocks accent the red of the madrone (naked Indian) tree. Over head turkey vultures, helping to keep the land clean, soar in search of carrion, and javelina scurry along trails made by pronghorn antelope. Crumbling adobe walls and weathered windmills attest to man's determination to wrest a living from the country. This land has attracted Indians, Spanish conquistadors and padres, ranchers and farmers. The country has known hostile raiders and soldiers. The town of Fort Davis was once a military fort in those days when you went into the Big Bend at your own risk. Administered by the National Park Service, the site of the outpost is considered to be the finest example of a Southwestern fort. Some of the ruins have been left as they slowly became after the 1850's, while some of the structures have been restored to their original condition. In one of the rebuilt "barracks" is an interesting museum and visitor center. Walking across the parade ground, visitors are often surprised to hear a recreation of an actual cavalry and infantry parade. Sounds of horses' hooves, rolling wagon wheels, a lively band and officers' commands echo again against the high cliffs behind the fort.

Hikers will appreciate a trail that leads from the old fort site to Davis Mountains

Organization Offers Two Expeditions

For those individuals searching for a way to know the Big Bend country as a personal experience with nature, Desert Dance offers 14-and 28-day expeditions.

Desert Dance, Inc., is in its 4th year of nurturing the free spirit in wilderness visitors. A non-profit corporation, the school of expeditionary ventures explores the potential in body, mind and spirit while rapeling, caving, river rafting and

Each expedition is limited to ten persons. The minimum age is 22, with past expeditions' participants being an average age of 30. All equipment and a bal-anced selection of natural foods is provided. Costs are $460 and $720 per person.

The next 28-day expedition begins June 10, and a 14-day venture departs September 10. For more information write to Desert Dance, Box 77, Terlingua, Texas State Park. The park features a wildlife land there, and some small industries feeding station, camping and trailer sites, plus accommodations inside the Indian Lodge. The area was carefully selected by the University of Texas for its astronomy studies because of a high ratio of cloudless nights and the clear air. Twin domes house huge telescopes more than 1,500 feet above the mile high valley floor of Mount Locke. Regular tours of the observatory are scheduled daily. In the town of Fort Davis travelers will appreciate Sutler's Boarding House Restaurant. Built in the style of a frontier fort store that provided extra provisions for military personnel, the store features souvenirs, a solarium and "down-home country coooking" at a reasonable price. In the evenings, two young women entertain dinner guests by singing Irish folk

Close to Terlingua is the village of Lajintas, also a jumping off place for raft trips down the Rio Grande. It's a major cross road for burro pack trains carrying candelilla wax, a major entrprise for people along the river.

Enterprise seems to be everywhere in this part of the world that appears at first to offer no way of making a living. The Lajitas Trading Post enjoys a thriving business by selling and shipping desert plants to the four corners of the world.

Accommodations in and around Big Bend are few and far between, but the accommodations are some of the most interesting to be found anywhere. In the heart of Big Bend National Park, in the shangri-la of the Chisos Basin, are accommodations for the primitive and the pam-

PUZZLING PLATES - New York City collection agencies are mapping a drive against parking ticket scofflaws in New England, but confusing license plate setups in the states may slow the campaign. New Hampshire, for example, uses the same numbers on nine types of vehicle plates. (AP Laserphoto)

License Plates Aid Scofflaws

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) - Agents from seven New York City collection firms are poised to invade northern New England to track down what the city calls 'the most arrogant parking ticket scofflaws in the nation.'

But New England authorities are warning the city to tread carefully.

A check of the alleged top violators in Massachusetts, Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire indicates that while some scofflaws are out-of-staters who tear up their tickets, as many as 70 percent may be New Yorkers with bogus Yankee

Others on the list may be undercover police, holders of counterfeit plates or victims of computer errors.

Harry Voccola, the Jirector of the New York's Parking Violations Bureau, defends the city's new aggressiveness. "Motorists from New England must learn that they can't ignore New York City's laws and scoot back to their little towns with full immunity," Voccola says.

Maine Secretary of State Mark Gartley counters: "I sympathize with New York officials, but they'd better get their facts straight before they start dunning inneent Maine citizens.

In the last four years in New York, more than 618,000 unpaid parking tickets, totaling $27.7 million in fines, have been placed on the windshields of vehicles registered in northern New England. The Associated Press took the most-wanted list and ran the tag numbers through state motor vehicle department computers to obtain names and ad-Interviews with town clerks, tax collectors, police and postal officials indicated that more than half the "violators" apparently have registered their cars in towns where they do not live. A man being hunted for $6,000 in tickets registered his car at an address in Hampton, N.H. But a police officer said, "The only thing at that street number in Westminster, Mass.; and a boat ramp in Sebago, Maine.

Some addresses led to people who live in New York and registered their cars elsewhere. One New Yorker agreed to talk on the condition his name not be used: "They obviously save me money on parking tickets and it's chic to have New England tags in the city."

New England officials, however, are concerned for the drivers who actually live in the New England towns where their cars are registered and claim they have never driven in New York City.

An 86-year-old farmer from northern Maine says he sent a photo of his "old wreck" when New York officials didn't believe his claim the car wouldn't make it as far as the city "They sent me another bill saying I owed them about $10,000 now," he says.

"I just can't figure out why they'd think anyone from Maine would want to go to New York in the first place." New England officials say past attempts by the city to collect overdue fines have been stymied by incomplete registration information on the parking tick-"In our state there can be seven different types of plates with the same numbers," says Tom Power, New Hampshire's Motor Vehicle Commissioner. "Our standard plates say 'Live Free or Die,' but others carry farm, commercial, dealer, antique, veteran or tractor designation. "Without this information it's impossible to tell which of the vehicles the tickets should be charged to.'

Many people being dunned by the city say they've received threatening letters from lawyers and dozens of telephone calls from collection agents, often late at night, on holidays and at places of employment.

Several people say their pleas of innocence have gone unheeded

The district hopes to get three new elementary schools south of Loop 289 open by the start of the 1979-80 school year, and the proposed southside junior high school open by the 1980-81 school year. To meet that schedule, school officials say work on the facilities must begin in

By a 3-1 margin on Feb. 22, 1977, the city's voters approved an $11.9 million capital improvements program. The school board has divided the program into two phases - the first involving $6 million worth of projects.

When the district applied to Woodward for his permission on the initial phase, as required by Lubbock's 1970 school desegregation order, the Justice Department intervened. The resulting court fight was what produced the district's new integra-

The school board already has appointed architects for the immediate projects. The projects include not only new schools but also additions and improvements to existing facilities throughout Lubbock

Monte Hasie, board vice president, said that although the building program still will be done in two phases, some of the projects may be changed. For example he noted, the original program called for an electronics laboratory to be built at Monterey High, but that facility is being relocated at the Dunbar Magnet Com-

Another integration-related change involves moving the site of the new junior high school from Farrar Estates to 80th Street and Avenue N.

School trustees and administrators briefly discussed the integration-construction plan after an executive session on the naming of new basketball coaches.

Hasie said the cost of projects in the building program no doubt has been affected by inflation. He also said interest rates on the school bonds probably will be higher than they would have been last

But people usually come in contact with the disease through dogs. "There are probably 150,000 dogs in Alaska, and only about 25 percent of them are vaccinated," Middaugh said.

ROME (AP) - Terrorists wounded the Italian manager of an American bank today and political allies of the ruling Christian Democratic Party demanded police reforms because of the government's failure to prevent Aldo Moro's murder by the Red Brigades.

Police in Milan said a man and a woman shot Marzio Astarita, branch manager for the Chemical Bank of New York and director of its Italian operations, as he left home for his office. Three bullets hit his legs, but one shot hit him in the groin, and his condition was believed serious. In Turin, police reported the discovery of a Red Brigades terrorist hideout which they said was the base for the April killing of Lorenzo Cutugno, one of the prison guards of 15 Brigades leaders standing trial on sedition charges. It was not immediately known how the hideout was located or what was found there

Moro's family buried him at private village rites Wednesday, one day after the bullet-riddled body of the former Italian premier was found in a car in downtown Rome. But the government planned a state funeral without a body Saturday in defiance of the family's demand that there be no official rites. The family is Christian Democrats to negotiate with Moro's Red Brigades kidnappers for his

Milan police said Astarita's wife saw the attack from their apartment window. In an anonymous telephone call to the Milan office of the Italian news agency ANSA, a man claimed two splinter leftist groups were responsible for the shooting of the 37-year-old bank executive.

It was the sixth such attack in six days. Police said the terrorists escaped in a waiting car driven by an accomplice.

Interior Minister Francesco Cossiga, whose ministry controls the police, resigned Wednesday because of the government's failure to save the former premier. Legislators from several political parties said Justice Minister Paolo Bonifacio should also quit.

The Republicans and the Democratic Socialists, two of the five parties supporting the Christian Democratic government in Parliament, demanded that Premier Giulio Andreotti call a meeting of the five parties' leaders to discuss Cossiga's resignation and to plan more effective measures against terrorism.

The Democratic Socialists denounced the "serious deficiencies of the security services" in the Moro investigation. The small but influential Republican Party called for "necessary and severe measures to fight terrorism. Parliament resumed discussion today of an anti-terrorist law put into effect by government decree after Moro's kidnap-

The decree included mandatory life prison sentences for kidnappers who kill their hostages, wider use of telephone taps and permission for police to question suspects without a lawyer present. The measures must receive parliamentary approval by May 20 to remain in force.

McGovern also argued that rejection of the sales will send the Saudis to France to purchase Mirage jet fighters under terms that pose no restrictions on where the planes are based or whether they can be transferred to other nations.

Despite the discovery of the Turin hideout, there was no indication of a break in the Moro investigation.

Some 50,000 police were mobilized for the hunt for Moro and his kidnappers after he was seized and his five police bodyguards were killed March 16 on a Rome street. But the efforts were futile. Twenty-four of 26 suspects arrested early this week were released for lack of evidence. The Communists, Italy's second largest party, hoped the emergency would give them a stronger voice in the alliance.

Uniformed Services Division. "If we're called, at our prerogative, we can go in, but normally we don't."

According to Bartley, members of rookie classes are instructed for about three or four hours in liquor law regulations, so, as a result, "as a practical matter, we don't do much.

ABC inspectors say they object to an attitude of some persons that their agency is more administrative, than enforcement, oriented. A high school newspaper, for example, earlier this year lashed out at ABC, especially in the area regarding sale of alcohol to minors.

'Until laws become more strictly enforced, they might as well be nonexistent, because it would appear that few people pay attention to them today," the article concluded.

'We are doing something," Wilson maintained, pointing to numerous cases filed by the Lubbock office during the past month. The overwhelming hangup on the particular issue of sales to minors, he says, is the issue of "knowingly" violating the law, and there is no way around that provision for his agency.

Possibly there can be no resolution to the problem of liquor laws enforcement in Lubbock. ABC has a record of strenuous attention to suspected violators, including numerous clubs as well as individuals. And, at the same time, as one police detective admits: "We don't know that much about it. It has to do with knowing what to do. We don't go out and probe suspected violations, but we don't turn our heads, but a lot of times we just don't understand the Barry rebuilt the Cortina engine, using a lot of sweat. Then he followed the same modus operandi to make the car beautiful inside and out.

He did all this on his own, just by following a book he borrowed from his town's book place, the Plainedge Li-

His father, Joseph Eisner, was a little proud, too, when he talked about Barry in an interview the other day. Joseph Eisner is the chief at Plainedge Library.

The interview was part of a United Press International look at the nation's ,500 public libraries.

The survey shows a lot of things people borrow at libraries these days won't fit on bookshelves. And a lot of things going on at the library would surprise oldtime librarians - concerts, classes in everything from bellydancing to yoga.

Some libraries let kids borrow toys. Lots of libraries both show movies and stock movies and records people can take out for home use.

The non-book items, the happenings and such are stocked and scheduled in response to needs of townspeople. What libraries stock and schedule, in fact, shapes up as an unusual barometer of tastes, problems and needs of Americans.

Right now, at Plainedge, for example, there's a waiting list for the library's roto-tiller, one of many gardening and yard tools that may be taken out. The tiller, allowed out for three hours at a time, turns over soil in the family garden.

The Plainedge library also stocks bow saws, hedge clippers, post hole diggers, bowsaws, hedge clippers, tree trimmers, and, for the home, sewing machines, floor polishers, ladders.

A trend to do-it-yourself auto repairs is the reason the libary's inventory includes a creeper (the low flat platform on wheels that a mechanic lies on when he wants to work under the car). Another hot item is a tach and dwell meter and strobe light used to time an auto engine tuned on the home turf. Some things taken from libraries require-TLC -tender loving care. That's the case with the gerbils, complete with cage and care instructions, available "to go" at the Johnson City, Tenn., library. Plant swapping is a favorite pastime at the Yellow Springs, Ohio, library. The American Library Association, in a report on the new and unusual at the nation's libraries, said Yellow Springs' patrons are encouraged to bring in plants they are tired of or that have multiplied. They trade for new ones.

Robert Wedgeworth, Executive Director of the American Library Association, says even though the libraries are doing all these unusual things, happy fiscal times still are beyond the reach of many.

Tight money a while back meant the libraries didn't have enough to pay for all the acquisitions they wanted. Wedgeworth said the juggling continues two ways these days. The dollars that are available must be spent for books and periodicals with inflated prices.

Wedgeworth said the average price of books has nearly doubled in the last decade. Book costs in the first six months of 1977 went up 7 percent and by year's end was nearing double-digit inflation.

This year so far periodical prices are 9 percent ahead of last year.

What it means, "Wedgeworth said, is that the libraries must spend far more to acquire far less as time goes on." A report from the Book Industry Study Group shows this to be true. From 1972 until 1976 the libraries public and school and university ones spent 17 percent more for 16 percent fewer books. The "group" predicted that this pattern will hold for at least five years.

As the money times grow bad for libraries, however, there's good news. Wedgeworth said a trend is to growth in Friends of the Library groups - cosponsored in many places by the Literacy Vol-

U.S. Coast Guard Considers Ways To Contain Runaway Icebergs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government the end of the glacier start to break off," scientists say thousands of icebergs may fall off an Alaskan glacier this summer, could produce a cubic mile of ice a year if creating a floating minefield for 200,000ton oil supertankers.

And if something isn't done to contain the ice, the alternative might be to close the sea route to oil-laden tankers leaving the Valdez terminal in Alaska for the West Coast.

One proposed solution would use nylon ropes 10-inches in diameter and 21/2 miles long to hold the icebergs back from shipping lanes until the ice melted, according to a Coast Guard study. Or, it said, the icebergs could be roped and towed away by fleets of tugs.

The potential problem is the Columbia glacier, which lies north of the Valdez

The U.S. Geological Survey studied the glacier and found "it is not in a very healthy position," said Capt. Ronald Kollmeyer, chief of the Ocean Science Section at the U.S. Coast Guard Academy.

"What they expect to have happen is it does come apart."

The icebergs are formed when large chunks of ice fall from the 100-foot-high face of the Columbia glacier. "The Geological Survey has been studying this glacier with intensity for the last wo years," Kollmeyer said. He said there were indications that movement of ice into the sea last year "was a little heavier than before." Kollmeyer headed a team charged with finding a solution to the iceberg problem if it occurs. "We concluded that it was technically feasible," to hold them off with a big rope, Kollmeyer said. He said it would cost $30 to $35 million to construct the barrier, but pointed out that $12 million in oil can move through the shipping lane each day in just one tanker.

If built, the 13-rope barrier would stretch — just below the surface — from the mainland to an island 21/2 miles away, snaring the icehergs as they drifted south toward the shipping route. The ice chunks would be held out of the channel while melting.

"Icebergs deteriorate quite rapidly there - in about five days in summer and 10 days in winter," Kollmeyer said. The idea of towing icebergs away from shipping lanes isn't new, and "the only study one might want is whether you can produce enough tow vessels," Kollmeyer said. "But the idea of a barrier was ... new and novel enough to investigate.' The Coast Guard study is currently cir-

Employee's Children Praise New Hospital

Avalanche-Journal Staff The "pashans" at the Health Sciences Center Hospital can be assured they are getting the best of care. That word comes from the kids whose parents work at the big new "hosspitle

'My mom works hard and well. I can tell because when she comes home she is all tired out. Sometimes I have to help her make up her bed cause she has to make up all the children's beds," said 8year-old Chama Lynn, daughter of Ruth Ann Lynn, head nurse for pe-

"And you should see all the shots my mom has to give to the children. There are alot of them.

Chama made those remarks in an essay written for a contest commemorating National Hospital Week. The contest was sponsored by the Health Sciences Center Hospital, and children of several hospi-

Evan said of his mother: "She works for the big boss, at the hosspitle. She ansers telafones and tieps letters. She opens letters. Some times I veset her ofes. I like the gifet shop.

Evan attached to his essay a drawing of the huge Lubbock County teaching hospital. His entry tied for second in the contest.

Becky Duncan, 11, said her mom also is a secretary - to associate director George McGowan.

"She types 75 words a minute. I thought a hospital was just for nurses and doctors. But it's not. They have secrataries, too," Becky

"They even have a gift shop. I've

Mayor Of Houston Vows Tough Stand

HOUSTON (AP) — Mayor Jim McConn, granted broad emergency cur-few powers from the city council, has vowed to get tough with demonstrators who cause disturbances. McConn also said Wednesday he is planning widespread improvements for a northside Mexican-American community which was the site of disturbances earlier this week.

The mayor made the announcement after councilmen endorsed an ordinance insuring his authority to order streets and parks cleared for prevention of further

The sale of weapons or alcoholic beverages also could be forbidden under the ordinance.

The action followed pleas from residents of the area for protection and services, and their condemnation of alleged organizers of the disruptions.

The mayor called the ordinance a safegurd and said it would be used only if authorities had reliable information that violence was planned or if future disturbances erunted.

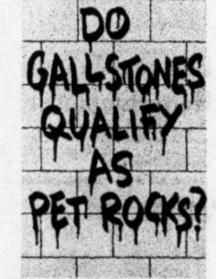

He said his comments about lifting restraints on police officers did not mean they would become "uncontrolled" but would move in swiftly to prevent looting or vandalism which occurred Sunday and Monday nights.

Councilmen approved the ordinance after hearing from nine speakers who condemned "agitators" and called for improved security in Moody Park.

McConn said area of concern was the park, the site of violence Sunday night which resulted in several persons being injured and cars and buildings damaged. Police officials said they have finished filing charges against persons arrested in connection with the incidents. Of the 53 persons arrested during the violence Sunday, Monday and early Tuesday, 34 adults were charged with varying offenses, nine adults were released with

City's Traffic Toll

ferred to juvenile courts on charges rang-ing from disorderly conduct to arson. Charges against adults included aggravated assault on a police officer, starting a riot, arson and disorderly conduct. Several residents said the blame for the trouble should be placed on Travis Morales and his group called "People United to Fight Police Brutality.

Morales said he was not responsibile for the violence and filed a million-dollar lawsuit Wednesday against State Rep. Ben Reyes, D-Houston, who was quoted as saying Morales was responsible for rampage that followed the outbreak of a fight in the park Sunday.

The $1,050,000 suit alleges Reyes made slanderous and deflamatory remarks about Morales, including statements to the news media, saying Morales had been in the neighborhood all day and used a public address system to urge members of the community to engage in unlawful The suit asks for actual damages of $350,000 and punitive damages of $700,-

Reyes said he was not concerned with the suit, but added he had rather not comment until he had seen it.

At City Hall, Morales repeated his com-ments that police injured in the fracas re-ceived "what they deserved" but he ref-used to answer Councilman Jim Westmo-reland's question about what role, if any, he played in the disturbance.

Morales called for the dismissal of all charges against anyone arrested in the disturbances and said police should stay out of the troubled area.

McConn said he and his staff are working to make the park safer with lighting and increased patrols. Also planned are renovations like ballfield improvements and drinking fountains.

About $70,000 may be available for security lighting in the Irvington Village housing project near the park

Briscoe To Back Hill In Campaign

CATARINA (AP) - Texas Gov. Dolph Briscoe says he will support Attorney General John Hill in the November general election against Republican Bill Clements of Dallas, The Dallas Times Herald reported today.

In a copyright story, Briscoe told the newspaper in an interview at his South Texas ranch here that he will support Hill because "I was born a Democrat and I'll die a Democrat.'

Briscoe, who lost the Democratic Party's gubernatorial nomination in last Saturday's primary election to Hill, also said he will remain active in politics and may again run for governor someday. There have been reports indicating that Clements wants to meet with Briscoe reportedly to seek Briscoe's support against Hill.

Of his future plans concerning politics and another possible attempt to return to the governor's mansion, Briscoe said "I don't have any plans but I certainly don't want to close the door (on politics). I'm not going to foreclose on anything Briscoe declined in the interview to discuss at length the election or to speculate on what caused his defeat. "I'm not going into a post mortem right now. What has happened, has happened. People have spoken and I'm going to look to the future." Briscoe said.

Janey Briscoe, the governor's wife, had more to say about the election than her husband. She said her husband was the target of a "mean campaign."
"How would you feel if your husband was called incompetent and inept? It was a mean campaign. He hasn't been incompetent and he hasn't been inept, Mrs. Briscoe said. Of the outcome, Mrs. Briscoe said "I never was so surprised in my life. I know that he (the governor) was. "We're too big to cry and it hurts too bad to laugh," Mrs. Briscoe said.

Demos To Get Support

AUSTIN (AP) - The Texas Democratic Party will give "full support" to all party nominees in the general election. promised State Democratic Chairman Calvin Guest, Bryan.

Guest, a close friend and former campaign aide to Gov. Dolph Briscoe, said Wednesday that next Tuesday's meeting of the State Democratic Executive committee to canvass the May 6 returns will also be a pep rally for statewide candidates with Republican opposition.

Guest said that Bob Krueger, the Democratic nominee for U.S. Senate; Attorney General John Hill, the party candidate for governor; Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, general, have been invited to speak to the state committee.

Guest said that the party plans a series of programs and projects this summer to build support for the nominees, including a party voter registration drive, a state wide campaign training conference in mid-July, and a number of Democratic fund raising events similar to those held in Dallas and Harris counties last sum-

Guest added that he personally would be traveling the state this summer building party unity.

Declarer seldom has to plan a hand in the dark. Usually, there are inferences that can be drawn from the bidding or the play to the first few tricks that can guide him.

North-South conducted a reasonably logical auction to get to six diamonds. When South discovered that two kings were missing, he decided that the suit contract might be somewhat safer than no trump. West chose to lead the unbid suit (South's spade bid was control-showing, not natural), and that immediately removed one of declarer's options-he could no longer plan to establish the club suit. Therefore, declarer had to bring in four heart tricks if he wanted to make his contract, for he needed to discard one black card from his hand. The trouble was that he had a two-way finesse in heartshe could play either defender for the queen.

Since there was no point in holding up, declarer won the ace of spades and led a trump to the ace. Declarer had no clue about the location of the heart queen, but when East showed out on the first round of trumps, the position had clarified somewhat.

Now that West was marked with length in diamonds, East rated to be longer in bearts. If East indeed had more hearts than West, then the chances of his holding the queen of hearts were proportionally greater.

The rest of the hand was simple. At trick three, declarer finessed the ten of hearts. When that held, he crossed back to dummy with the ten of trumps to finesse the jack of hearts. Declarer drew three more rounds of trumps to exhaust West's holding, then unblocked the ace of hearts.

The ace of clubs was still in dummy as an entry. Declarer crossed to it, discarded a loser on the king of hearts and cheerfully conceded a trick to the defenders at the end.

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: It all started eight months ago when Ron and I started running around with Lynn and Dave. Dave and I would sit in the front and Lynn and Ron would sit in the back. It was all in fun. We'd hold hands and hug and kiss once in a while. I sort of liked it at first. then I noticed Ron was overdoing it with

I said I thought the whole idea was silly and suggested we get back with our own mates, but Ron and Lynn didn't want to quit. What do I do now? I am sure Lynn and Ron haven't gone any further than hugging and kissing, but I'm worried about where it might lead. I love my husband and I know he loves me. There are 5 preschool children between the two families. What should I do?

RON'S WIFE

Dear Wife: I don't have to tell you how foolish you were to have started this dangerous game - now the fat is in the fire. Tell Ron that if you are going to continue this friendship with Dave and Lynn, there will be no more switches. Then gradually see less and less of them, and more of other couples who are content to stick with the mates they married.

DEAR ABBY: Golf is a great sport, but why do so many people who play the game cheat?

I have had the same sad experience with both men and women. They lie through their teeth about their scores. HONEST GOLFER

Dear Honest: People lie about their golf scores for the same reason they lie about anything else. They lack the selfconfidence and security to tell the truth. And since golf is a game involving an exclusive and confidential relationship between the player and the ball, the cheating player can usually get away with it.

DEAR ABBY: Please answer this soon as Mom and Dad are planning a trip and we kids will be alone.

We are both young adults. My parents have asked our married brother to "look in on us" while they're out of town. Does that give my brother the right to barge in whenever he feels like it without giving us any warning? Do you think he should have a key to our house just like he did when he lived here? Doesn't the fact that he is now married with a house of his own make him somewhat of an outsider

This is causing a terrible fight. We would like your opinion. We are two

NEW YORK (UPI) - When Lord Patrick Lichfield posed the entire royal family in the white drawing room at Windsor Castle in 1971 to take their photograph, he didn't tell them to "keep mer Countess Lichfield, is now married your eye on the birdie." He asked them to watch the Marx brothers.

In order to keep their attention towards me, I put the television set underneath the camera," the fifth earl of Lichfield explained, and went on to say that an old Marx brothers film was on the

The 38-year-old earl, a second cousin of queen Elizabeth II discussed the only picture ever taken of the royal family all together at an exhibition of his work titled "A Privileged View" at the New York Public Library at Lincoln Center

Is the queen a Marx brothers fan *1 don't know that particularly, but I knewthat the hildren would probably react better if they had to keep sitting there for a long time." he said. And, indeed, if one examines the portrait closely, the royal youngsters, seated in the foreground, doseem to be enjoying the show on the small screen. Even Prince Charles and the Queen Mother appear to be watching the lamous comedy team.

Lord Lichfield explained that the royal family only gets together on one day of the year. Christmas Day, and that is when the photograph was made - just after lunch, he said.

In the limited space of the drawing room, the earl could only get back so far from his subject, which consisted of 21 persons, so he took three pictures and joined them up, he said. He refrained from using a wideangle lens because of the distortion factor.

The exhibition, which consisted of 250 photographs, was basically in two halves over the years for various magazines and the other an "exercise that was set for me" by State Express of London, who sponsors of the show. That "exercise" was to do a series of "portraits" of English cities and the countryside one or two other English cities, and I did that in a very short time last summer." Lord Lichfield said. "So half the exhibition was done in 10 days and the other half was done in 10 years.'

Lord Lichfield, whose mother, the forto a prince of Denmark, began taking photographs at the age of 6. He has earned a worldwide reputation for his work in Vogue. Harper's Bazaar and Playboy, among other publications.

He chose as the subject of an early portrait study a young woman who later became his wife. Eight years after he photographed Lady Leonora Grosvenor for Vogue, they were married.

Leonora, Countess of Lichfield, is the eldest daughter of the Duke and Duchess of Westminster. Her early years were spent in a remote part of western Ireland. Like her husband, she is interested in creative work and has trained for a career in fine and decorative arts.

The couple have a daughter, Lady Rose, born in 1976 and are expecting a second child later this year. Among the other pictures on display was one of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, "one of my first jobs for Vogue," at their country house near Paris: Capt. Mark Phillips and Princess Anne, photographed for a stamp to commemorate their wedding; and actress Diana Rigg, playing three parts in one series: the aging scarlet lady, the nun and the Agony Column correspondent. A young tourist lost in London in the pouring rain is a wonderful shot, a bit of trick photography. A slow shutter speed blurred the crowds rushing by the tourist who was standing still, earnestly studying his tour guide.

There were countless shots of fashion models and show business personalities. & Lord Lichfield, who said he uses "masses of kinds" of cameras, prefars a 35mm Olympus for much of his work. He does all his own darkroom work, he said.

His favorite subjects? Children and horses. "I have a thing about horses," he said, and though he owns some, he does not race them. "My family have lost too much money at racing.

As for children: "They don't put on faces for you. I like photographing them naturally, not particularly posed. I like photographing unpretentious people, and they're not very pretentious."

New York was the last of four U.S. cities showing the exhibit. To commemorate the tour. State Express of London is making available a limited edition of the earl's photographs in a leather-bound volume, each volume personally signed by Lord Lichfield.

Exercise Class Aids Children

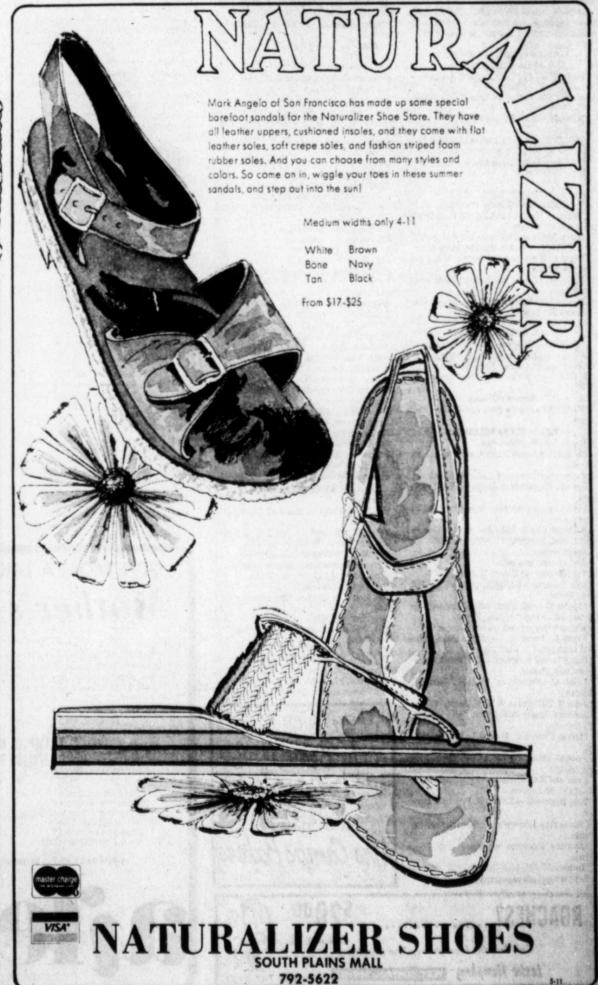

NEW YORK (AP) - Children who are overly cautious or totally fearless of heights could have a learning-disability, according to the chief therapist of a national center specializing in the diagnosis and treatment of hyperactive and underachieving youngsters.

The child who must hold onto a handrail or who walks down the stairs backwards or one step at a time may do so because he doesn't know where the steps begin and end, or he cannot judge the distance between them, says Darral C. Chapman of the New York Institute for Child Development.

A child with such problems will also bump into walls, knock things over and have trouble with small ball sports like baseball, tennis and handball. These disorders may also cause the child to have problems in school in such subjects as spelling and math. For example, he may reverse letters in words or be unable to line up columns of numbers, Chapman points out.

Sensorimotor exercise therapy has been designed to help children with these problems. Chapman says, and the NYICD has developed a checklist giving over 100 warning signals of learning disability which parents can look for.

U.S. To Accept More Refugees

HONOLULU (UPI) - Vice President indeed the world, which cries out for Walter Mondale capped a 12-day, five-na-tion Asian and Pacific tour by announcing the United States will accept an additional 25,000 Indochinese refugees annually and will continue to focus world attention on human rights violations in Cambodia.

Prior to his flight home to Washington, Mondale said Wednesday in a 40-minute address at the East-West center that the United States "must take the lead in developing a broader international effort to handle the refugee problem. Suffering from a sore throat and appearing weary, he said he had informed Southeast Asian leaders the United States will accept 25,000 additional Indochinese refugees a year, and will help officials in Thailand process them by stationing additional U.S. immigration personnel

In addition, Mondale said Thai authorities have been offered up to $2 million to support development of longer term plans for handling the refugees.

"We will be prepared to offer more substantial assistance, in concert with others, to finance the permanent settlement of refugees in Thailand and elsewhere," he said.

Speaking of reported atrocities in communist Cambodia, Mondale said, "There is no human rights situation in Asia, or more attention than the tragedy still continuing in Cambodia.

"We have little leverage with which to affect the harsh, brutal, repressive nature of the regime in Cambodia, but we will continue to try to focus the world's attention on the horror of what is happening

He said balancing the preservation of security with the promotion of human rights "poses for us a diplomatic challenge of extraordinary delicacy."

The vice president also outlined six areas which he said deserve priority attention. they are:

- Continued expansion of U.S. trade with Pacific nations through multilateral trade agreements.

Skyscraper Hotels Irritate Mulligan

ATLANTA (AP) — As anyone who has suffered vermouth vertigo in a rotating rooftop hotel bar can attest, the high-rise hotel is on an architect's abomination no more inhabitable than the tower block housing project or the high-rise con-

MPOO

It's high time the urban planners and hotel associations Mulipone banned these vertical assaults on a traveler's patience and sanity.

The guest spends half his stay in monastic communion with the elevator shaft. Room service breafasts are invariably cold no matter what portable chuck wagons the caterers employ to warm their ascent into the troposphere. When the waiter at last reaches the 34th floor, he ususally has forgotten the salt or the newspaper or brought you a mushroom omlette instead of raspberry yogurt. And don't expect a smile as he heads back down to first base

The higher the architectural pile, the more things can go wrong. Last week a power failure in an Atlanta hotel during the big annual publishers convention left most of the leading lights in American journalism in the dark. AP's Keith Fuller, Punch Sulzberger of the New York Times, Otis Chandler of the Los Angeles Times and similar luminaries could be seen prowling the corridors with candles held aloft, like Diogenes in search of truth, although in truth they would have settled for the men's room.

It's a rule of the road these days that the more gadgets in a hotel room, the more fiendish ways the decorator will have found of hiding the bathroom light switch, the more complex will be the shower appliance (some already require a second engineer's steam ticket), and the more unattainable such everyday necessities as a shoe shine or a beer opener or a pack of cigarettes.

A shoeshine cloth hanging in the bathroom (graciously imprinted "Compli ments of L'Hotel Grottie" or whatever) means if you leave your shoes outside the door at night, the best you can hope for is that they won't be stolen.

An in-room coffee maker, also marked complimentary, means no cringing minion will appear at dawn with a life-saving pot of coffee. Gadgetry and fussy frivolous frills, like a chocolate mint on the pillow at night, have taken the place of genuine service in most luxury hotels, especially these high-rise horror hous-

Torture machines clunk out ice cubes all night long, mingling their cement mixer growl with the whirr of the air conditioning plant on the ledge beneath your window, the rumblings in the elevator shaft beyond your wall and, by day, the infernal sounds of taped music in the corridors, in the coffee shop, in the

The electronic bar is always out of bourbon but chock full of peanuts. The ice cube tray, if the room has a refrigerator, is frozen faster than the Ross Shelf. Closed circuit color TV movies usually come in eight wavy shades of orange. There's a red blinker light on the telephone to inform you of a message but no message is ever allowed to pass the switchboard, except those misdirected to another room - sometimes yours at 3 a.m. when the red light suddenly glows in the dark like a surfacing crocodile.

The hotel supply trade is geared to the whole paraphernalia of pretense and humbug: shower caps, soap in little velvet sacks, sewing kits for buttons mangled in the laundry, ballpoint pens that never write but come emblazoned with the name of the house or the chain, waterbeds and mattresses motorized for a massage, all signifiying nothing as you wait another half hour for the hamburger that is sure to be cold or the beer that is sure to be warm, or the suitcases that the captain was going to send right up. Notice how all the staff have titles in this

Worst of all, searchlights beamed on the beastly building to proclaim the architect's vulgarity for 30 miles around light your room like a stake out scene in a James Cagney movie. Try to get them turned off with the wild explanation that you actually booked the room to get a night's sleep and you'll be treated like the cantankerous idiot who complained because his room was directly beneath the megaton speakers in the discotheque. Meanwhile the bedside reading lamp has a 40-watt bulb to conserve energy.

It's my considered opinion, after two decades of to-ing and fro-ing on this globe and watching lots of old movies, that the innkeeping profession reached its acme in the Edwardian elegance of the old veranda-style hotel, with slow turning overhead fans, barefoot roomboys padding about in white mess jackets and Sidney Greenstreet enthroned menacingly in a peacock wicker chair.

The decline set in when hotleirs began drawing sanitary paper equators across the toilet bowl and started training waiters to pull back knives and forks and place settings instead of filling up the glasses with ice water and emptying out

Once they begin removing the pickle fork and substituting a fish knife, you can bet your bottom credit card it's going to take 20 minutes to get that first dry martini and it will be drowned in vermouth.

Hotel managers whine that they just can't get the help these days to maintain old world standards of service. Some thought then must be given to marshalling the armies of the knight who stuff the little aluminum pots with jam, fold the napkins up like butterflies and sailboats, cut the butter into little curliques, put the drinking glasses into those ridiculous paper sacks and perform all the other exasperating frivolities that pass for service these days and appear on the bill as a 15 per cent non service charge.

Bring me another rum cola, will you, old fellow, and tell that pukka-walla stir up a bit more breeze.

PIONEER VENUS MISSION - This artist's concept shows the Pioneer Venus Orbiter and Multiprobe that will carry out a detailed investigation of Venus in late 1978. The Orbiter spacecraft, right, is scheduled to be

NEW YORK (UPI) - Masters of arnis, an ancient Filipino martial art in which bamboo sticks are used, believe they can teach American policemen how to better use the sticks they are now handling.

"Give me 100 men and I will train them to stop 1,000 men rioting with the use of the stick," says Leo T. Gaje, 39, a Filipino who is a master and teacher of Arnis. Gaje and his American colleague Greg Alland, 32, have trained police from New Jersey, Chicago and Anchorage, Alaska, in arnis. They say policemen in other cities have studied it on their own.

Both men say arnis works well for a cop. "It gives him training in the thing he is already carrying and that's a stick," Al-

While training in arnis, a person uses a stick 28 inches long and ¾ inch in diameter. He learns to strike and thrust at various parts of the body and to block, parry and counter his opponent's strikes.

With such training, Alland says, "you double your senses, you double your reflexes." He says that police receive minimal martial arts training while in police academy and thereafter train with guns, which do nothing to develop reflexes.

He contends that sometimes the reason policemen are shot or stabbed is because they have "the wrong type of training."

'We don't necessarily need more police, we need police that are better trained to do what they are supposed to

New York City's auxiliary police are volunteers who assist regular police by walking beats in places such as shopping areas, senior citizens' meeting areas and schools but who do not carry guns.

After one of their members was killed in a street fight in 1975, some of them decided they needed extra training beyond the three-week police academy self-defense course they take when becoming

The regular police department offered twice-yearly nightstick training for the AP's, which was later trimmed to a onceyearly four-hour session. But the AP's were dissatisfied with it. Some of them sought Gaje to teach them arnis.

Recently, 12 AP's took eight three-hour weekly training sessions in arnis after which they received certificates from Gaje. They learned to use a stick to handle assailants who wield knives, or sticks, or who use their fists and to render such attackers helpless while causing them minimal physical damage. They also learned arnis hand-to-hand techniques in case they lose their stick while fighting.

The Almanac TODAY IN HISTORY

By United Press International Today is Thursday, May 11, the 131st day of 1978 with 234 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning star is Mercury.

The evening stars are Mars, Venus, Jupiter and Saturn. Those born on this date are under the sign of Taurus. American song writer Irving Berlin was born May 11, 1888. This is comic-actor Phil Silvers' 66th birthday. On this day in history: In 1858, Minnesota entered the Union as the 32nd state.

In 1910. Glacier National Park in Montana was created by an Act of Congress. In 1928, the first regularly scheduled television programs were begun by station WGY in Schenectady, N.Y. In 1977, A federal judge ruled that a ban on Concorde supersonic jet flights into New York's Kennedy International Airport was illegal.

A thought for the day: American statesman Benjamin Franklin said, "Experience is a dear school, but fools will learn in no other way."

FONDA CAST

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) - Henry Fonda is the first major star cast for "Roots: The Next Generations," Davil L. Wolper's 12-hour continuation of Alex Haley's saga. Fonda will be seen in the first three episodes playing a powerful political and cultural leader in a small Tennessee town late in the 1800s.

The 30-year-old Texan has won a reprieve from his scheduled date with death Monday, but he said in a copyright story in Thursday editions of the Dallas Morning News that he won't fight an execution order if the state eventually decides he should die for his crime.

'I'll let the state decide what they want to do with my life." he said, claiming politicians and judges are using his life like a pawn on a chess board.

The clean-shaven, brown-haired convict said he's died in a few of his dreams and he's not afraid of death.

"A man has a right to die," he said. "I don't want anyone living my life. If they execute me it's all right; if not, it's all

"I could fight this thing another 10 years," Hovila said. 'The death penalty is outrageous. They should kill a man in the county he's tried in, not behind closed walls. How're you going to use it as a deterrent if nobody sees the man die."

College Board Predicts Tightened Job Market

AUSTIN (AP) - The state college co-court reporting, aviation technology, secordinating board says graduates in many fields can expect a tight job market between now and 1983.

The board predicted 39,740 new bachelor's degree holders will be competing for between 35,090 and 38,460 jobs during the next five years.

Employment opportunities in Texas for new master's and doctor's degree holders will be in balance with the number of jobseekers, the board said.

Its report said there will be plenty of openings for newly turned out doctors, dentists, optometrists and veterinarians but the supply of law graduates will exceed the available jobs.

The board said that in many fields, the number of graduates would exceed the demand by more than 10 percent. "Opportunities will be greatest for individuals willing to relocate or to consider employment in positions which may not be directly related to their fields of studthe board said.

It predicted a crowded market for reporters, lawyers, architects, commercial artists, counselors, psychologists, photographers, musicians, public administrators, foresters, social workers, broadcasters, public relations persons and elementary school teachers.

High demand was forecast for computer scientists, engineers, accountants, medical technology, health care administrators and nurses.

Auto mechanics, welding, electronics, retarial work and construction should present good opportunities for employment of persons without degrees.

Other activities include the distribution of bumper stickers with the slogan, "The Health Sciences Center Hospital Wishes You Well." The hospital also has erected a sign with the same slogan, signed by its staff and patients.

The people who make Snowy-America's first nonchlorine bleach—have some rather interesting information for those people who now use Clorox 2.

> Snowy costs less to use per wash, and still cleans just as effectively.

Amazingly enough, it actually takes over 87 ounces of Clorox 2 to bleach as many washes as effectively as one 40 ounce box of Snowy.

Which means you save about 30% each time you use Snowy bleach in your wash.

Oilmen Defend Diversification

NEW YORK (AP) - The nation's giant their supplies of oil and gas, are diversifying into everything from electric typewriters to life insurance.

And the oil firms also are represented heavily in other energy fields: They now own about 25 percent of the count coal reserves, and 20 of the almost 100 firms involved in the mining or exploration of uranium - used as fuel for nucle-

This concerted effort to acquire huge ngs in energy-related fields and ne non-energy companies is called ntal diversification, and it is being tched by Congress and by federal regu-tory agencies. But, thanks in part to an aggressive bbying campaign, no action appears iminent to prevent oil firms from acring more subsidiaries or force them cut loose the ones they now own.

The reason oil firms such as Exxon, Pexaco, Continental, Gulf and others are uying coal and-or uranium reserves is ar: Government officials appear demined to discourage oil and gas usage n coming years and to encourage the use coal and nuclear power. While analysts agree on how long reserves of oil and will last, there is no disagreement at sooner or later they will be depleted.

When you look ahead to the eventual eletion of domestic oil and gas reves, you realize how important diverification is to an oil company," said one il-company source.
In addition, many oil firms are looking yond energy-related industries for inment purposes because most analysts re predicting a reduction in the rate of ergy growth during the next 10 to 15

So, if an oil company wants to keep growing — and it is a basic tenet of capitalism that a healthy company must grow it needs to diversify into other fields. There has been an accelerating trend reently in which oil companies are looking oward stable consumer-oriented industries and retailing firms as acquisition

In recent years:

Exxon, the world's largest oil firm, as acquired 8.4 billion tons of coal and oldings of uranium and copper. It tinge holdings of uranium and copper. It also is developing new battery systems and solar-energy devices.

But, in addition, new subsidiaries are oducing electric typewriters, golf clubs and other consumer products.

-Mobil bought Montgomery Ward & pose of coal and uranium interests they now own within three years.

me time that too large a percentage of Mobil's earnings came from overseas and this was a way to get more earnings out of the U.S.," said Ken Peterson, a Mobil

-Sun Oil acquired the Stop-N-Go gro-cery chain, two industrial distributors, a trucking firm, a computer firm, a tape cassette manufacturer and an equipment

-Texaco began mining for coal and uranium, and bought a chemical compa-

-Atlantic Richfield paid $700 million for the giant Anaconda copper firm. It also has bought a British newspaper, a plastics and dyes firm and a solar-energy

-Tenneco acquired several automotive firms, Philadelphia Life Insurance Co. and some almond orchards.

-Ashland purchased several construction firms, chemical companies, mining firms and a shipbuilding concern. —Gulf has moved heavily into uranium mining and coal production.

-Continental, which bought the nation's largest coal firm - Consolidation Coal - in 1966, has begun producing uranium as well.

Several years ago, there were numer-ous legislative and regulatory threats to force oil firms to stop diversifing and to force divestiture of subsidiaries they already owned.

But the oil firms fought back with newspaper and felevision advertisements, press releases, speeches by top executives and heavy lobbying in Wash-

Industry critics say the oil companies are so cash-rich they could buy almost any firm they desired. But industry officials say they need the additional income from subsidiaries to support the increas-ingly expensive world-wide search for oil.

And the industry's defenders also say that, with the oil firms' technological resources, they are the logical entities to develop alternate energy sources such as coal, nuclear and solar power.

"It's clear that the horizontal issue is terribly complex," said Hank Banta, assistant counsel for the Senate anti-trust

The panel has been considering since last July a bill filed by subcommittee chairman Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., that would prevent major oil and gas companies from acquiring any more coal or uranium properties. In addition, the bill would require those firms to dis-

Property Taxes Upset Docile Dairyman

ENON, Ohio (AP) - Dairyman Earl E. Chapman says if the government is going to tax property to pay for schools, it ought to tax the knowledge a person gets by going to school.

'I'm a docile dairyman until I get to talking about taxes," said Chapman, 54. 'Then I get my dander up."

He bought his farm in 1965 for $45,000 after more than 10 years of running restaurants in nearby Springfield.

"But they say the farm is worth $125,-000 now for tax purposes," he said. "That's $85,000 that I have to pay taxes on that I don't have a penny of because it is unearned increment on the land."

Much of what he pays in property tax goes to the local school system. "I'm being educated to poverty," he said, adding that he's thinking about selling his 100-acre farm and 40 head of milk

He said his 1965 property tax bill was $440, but that by the time a new school tax was approved in 1970, his taxes had gone up to $1,120. "I only made $4,400 that year before taxes," he said. That rankled him enough to organize a petition drive repealing the school tax. But his tax bill has gotten worse instead of better. His farm was reappraised, as required by law, and he said his taxes are now $1,450 a year.

Chapman, who grew up five miles from where he now lives, walked among his Holsteins as he outlined the reasons he considers property taxes for education

"They are continuing taxes and if we vote them down they go back on the ballot until they pass," he said. When the school boards tell teachers and janitors they'll get a raise if the tax passes, how do you think they will vote? When the teachers tell students the schools will close if their parents don't vote for the tax, how do you think the parents will vote?"

Chapman said educated people should be taxed on knowledge they use to earn a living, just as his farm is taxed.

"They bought their education just like I buy my land and I pay taxes on the land, but they don't have to pay taxes on their knowledge and that irks me," he said. "I use the land to earn my living and they use their knowledge to earn theirs. If the government can tax my investment, then it should tax their knowledge."

Chapman didn't say how this might be

Both his son and daughter have some advanced education.

"But my daughter doesn't have to pay tax on the knowledge she learned to be nurse," Chapman said. "If the government is going to tax my investment in this farm, then it should tax her knowl-

Chapman said the income tax is the on? ly fair tax he can think of.

"A good tax should be a compe contribution of your wealth to help the governing body," he said. "If I make money farming, I'm willing to give it in taxes. But I don't want to be taxed on my

NEW YORK (UPI) — The dollar's decline and other malfunctions in the fater-national monetary system have had a paralyzing effect on efforts to pull the industrialized world out of economic crisis, says Prime Minister Leo Tindemans of

Selgium. n In New York to address forums on the necessity of cooperation between the United States and the European Economic Community in energy and monetary problems, Tindemans said the ing decline in value of the dollar has "a disturbing effect on world trade, distorts prices and creates abnormal con-

He told UPI in an interview lack of confidence in the dollar "greatly hinders the economic shot-in-the-arm which Europe so badly needs."

But a greater danger, Tindemans said, is that the general insecurity created by this lack of confidence has "strengthened protectionist tendencies all over the usered."

Tindemans acknowledged that industrialized nations, including the United States, must protect themselves and their industries from "a flood of imports from developing countries that could hurt or destroy domestic economies."

"We face the same problems in Belgium, where our coal, steel and textile industries have been badly hurt by imports," he said.

He warned, however, "We must avoid at all costs protectionist tendencies that are arising." It is imperative that the United States and the EEC nations "engage in a global effort to lower tariff barriers through multilateral trade negotia-

"The world has changed," he said. "It will never be the same. We cannot, for whatever motive, be it idealistic, realistic or cynical, help a developing country to be productive then tell that country it cannot export its goods. That would be nothing less than a sin."

The distinguished-looking, articulate Belvian, an economist and professor of political science before he became prime minister in 1974, said the monetary unrest also has had a disastrous effect on

"No one wants to make longterm investments in export-oriented economies when market conditions are liable to change abruptly owing to monetary variations." He said this lack of confidence in business "just when we need it most to further economic growth and reduce unemployment," explains why monetary matters have become such a central preoccupation.

Although Tindemans acknowledges that the U.S. trade deficit has been a major reason for the dollar's decline, excess liquidity also is a worrisome factor. There are 500 or 600 billion Eurodollars hanging like a cloud over the world, underlining the structural weakness of the major world currency.

The present international system of "managed float," which never worked well, is now working very badly, Tindemans said.

In addition to problems created by the weakness of the dollar, he said, "The relative value of European currencies vis-avis each other has a disturbing effect in a closely knit economy like the Common Market.

Tindemans said heads of EEC countries have considered "greater solidarity between European currencies. Creation of an arrangement similar to the Interna-tional Monetary Fund is one of the things that has been discussed and publicized." But he stressed "American participa-tion in the collective efforts to bring more order into the international more-tary system is quite obviously essential to

"We must restore confidence, and no one of us can do it alone. With the world sconomically interdependent we must work together."

CB Convac

By INK DIPPER

There can no longer be any doubt in any CBer's mind — the Federal Communications Commission has acted like a blind dog in a meathouse. Unfortunately, the FCC regulates so many different areas of the communications field that its actions have a profound effect on everyone

It didn't take a genius to figure out that television interference was a serious problem. But CB units were not required to protect against the transmission of purious signals until September, 1976. And at this writing television set manufacturers are not required to engineer the receivers the public is buying to safeguard against reception of these spurious signals.

Additionally, there was a great hue and cry for additional channels to help ease the pressure on the 23-channel units that CBers were allotted. The hullabaloo had been going on for several years. It must be assumed that a brilliant young lawyer came into an FCC conference room, bright-eyed and bushy-tailed, to present his plan for the complete solution to both problems. Let's say this

In late 1976, mind you, when this grand solution became a matter of regula-tion, everyone was in a turmoil. The FCC ordered all manufacturers of CB units to submit their schematic diagrams and photographs of their transceivers for FCC approval. They also have to be type-tested. This decree had nothing to do with whether the sets were 23 channels or 40. The advance in the approved number of channels from 23 to 40 was almost incidental, it would appear now, but it would solve the congestion problem, too. Great?

Well, look at what happened. The market place was in a state of confusion.

Forty-channel sets, news reports said, would be standard equipment. The FCC then said all 23-channel sets had to be sold by January 1, 1978. The retailers and distributors panicked. Prices began to go crazy. Manufacturers' distribution systems got completely messed up with sets coming into the marketing stream and being returned because they were 23-channels. Meantime, the importers loaded the shelves with 23-channel units at low, low prices to get the benefit of

The consequence? Millions of CB units - the same as those which had caused the interference problem in the first place - were dumped on the scene. Three very large and good manufacturers went broke as a result of the created debacle. Everything went into a tailspin. The end result is that the industry is probably three years away from reasonably good health.

It means that many technological advances will be delayed and personal radio will not grow, as it might have, in a steady and logical progression of developments. The TVI will get worse. The increased number of channels available to CBers, though a good thing, was not necessarily of prime importance until more consideration had been given to moving all personal radio to another frequency range, to FM, or to 100 channels, etc.

Broadcasters, operators of commercial radio and television stations, have experienced this ineptness. It retarded the growth of UHF television for many years. Cable television operators have been fighting to make progress for 20 years and regularly confront obstacle after obstacle, winning a little bit at a

CB is a victim of a regulatory agency's determination to take a bite of this, a nibble at that, with no willingness to gnaw through until the bone has been cleaned. In answer to the many letters of complaint about TVI, this is it.

Ag Department Sees Rise In World Grain Reserve

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a highly ten-tative look at global crop prospects in the coming year, the Agriculture Depart-ment says that world grain reserves a year from now could be the largest ever or more than 20 percent below their present levels.

It depends on the weather, the department's Foreign Agriculture Service said Wednesday in its first projection of 1978-79 world grain production and use. For the first time, the agency used a two weather-based alternatives in its figures.

For example, with good weather the

For example, with good weather the Soviet Union's 1978 total grain harvest could set a record of 229 million mi tons, compared with 195.5 million last year and the old record of 223.8 million tons in 1976, the report indicated.

Even with poor weather, the Soviet grain harvest this year could be around 191 million tons, the fifth largest in Russian history. Moscow's goal is 220 million tons of grain this year.

The projected Soviet grain figures included 217 million tons of wheat and coarse grains such as corn and barley un-der the good-weather alternative and 183 million tons with poor weather, the report said.

Not included in the report were miscellaneous grains such as rice, beans and peas which Moscow counts in its over-all grain production statistics. A USDA official said that those could total 12 million tons with good weather and eight million tons with poor weather.

Looking at total world grain possibilities, the report said that production in 1978-1979 could be 1.168 billion tons with good weather and 1.033 billion with poor weather, compared with slightly less than $.072 billion tons in 1977-1978.

Allowing for variables in consumption, world grain stocks left over in mid-1979 could range from a low of 135.1 million tons to a record of 22.7 million tons, the

Many Cattle Deaths Caused By Drought

MAZATLAN, Mexico (UPI) - More than 60,000 cattle have died because of the drought in northern Mexico and another 45,000 will have to be shipped to the United States for slaughter unless it rains soon, a cattlemen's spokesman said

Jaime de la Garza, president of the National Cattle Union of Nuevo Leon, said that besides cattle dying from hunger and thirst, others are being killed by ticks that have multiplied since the drought started a year ago.

De la Garza placed the placed the cattle losses to date at over $10 million. Representatives of Mexico's cattle as-down slightly from 176 million last year.

World grain stocks were a record of 197.1 million tons in 1969 before skidding because of poor harvests in many regions.
By mid-1976 global stocks of wheat and coarse grains were down to 114.9 million tons but have jumped sharply since then because of recent good crops.

"A candid assessment of the 1978-1979 global supply-demand outlook for grains must reflect the fact that worldwide crop conditions continue to be highly variable, and any projections made this early for the 1978-1979 global crop season are particularly tenuous," the report said.

Another factor in the outlook is the U.S. crop situation and the acreage cut-backs by the Carter administration for 1978 wheat and feed grains in order for farmers to qualify for federal price sup-port becality.

port benefits.

With poor weather, U.S. grain output would decline sharply while other countries collectively would produce about the same as last year, the report said. Even with good weather, U.S. grain production might increase only 2 percent to 3 percent this year while production in other countries would go up around 18 percent.

Need For Advice Cited For Nation's Farmers

producers in the world, but they need to become more consumer-oriented in order to develop new markets and create realistic, steady prices, says Dr. L. Louise Luchsinger, marketing instructor at Tex-as Tech.

"Farming is a business and, therefore, farmers need and should use advice that is available to any type of growing business concern," Dr. Luchsinger said.
"Farmers do not need government subsidies so much as they ned to find other solutions to their problems and seek new markets for their products."

Working with Don and Robin Anderson of Agricultural Investment Consultants, Inc. in Lubbock, Dr. Luchsinger decided that identity-preservation marketing was necessary to successfully market West Texas agricultural produce. This approach would differentiate the product in the mind of the consumer. the mind of the consumer.

She chose soybeans as the test product and suggested sealing them in a plastic container within a container for shipping. This would maintain the quality of the product for the consumer, with the end result being that the product can be recipiled. ognized by the consumer as one of special quality and from a certain region. Dr. Luchsinger stressed that the most important point in achieving identity preservation is maintenance of the product's quality and identity. These techniques have application for other commodities, with corn being the most likely West Texas candidate for the near future.

Book Helps President With Solons

By FRANK CORMIER
WASHINGTON (AP) — In his dealings with Congress, President Carter sometimes finds himself in the position of a baseball fan who can't tell the players without a program.

It's doubtful any president ever recognizes every congressman by name. And the problem presumably is worse for Carter who came to town 16 months ago as a relative stranger.

For Carter, salvation is found in a slender volume he keeps in the Oval Office sometimes placed atop the Bible on his desk. It's called the "Congressional Pictorial Directory.

The book contains mug shots of every Senate and House member, so Carter can thumb through it and learn to recognize by name those invited to White House

This is just one further bit of evidence that the president this year is paying in-creased attention to dealings with the sometimes recalcitrant Congre

Perhaps a better measure of this effort has been provided, in response to a reporter's request, by the "diarist" who keeps a daily minute-by-minute log of Carter's activities.

During a 12-week period this year, for example, the president held more than twice as many meetings with one or two period in 1977.

The number of such sessions between Jan. 23 and April 16, 1978, was 96 - up from 45 a year earlier.

There has been no increase, however, in the number of traditional breakfast conferences with Democratic congressional leaders. There were half a dozen of those in both years.

There was a slight increase in other contacts with legislators: 31 in 12 weeks this year compared with 27 in 1977. The "other" category included social events, briefings for congressional committees and hill straight operations to which San and bill-signing ceremonies to which Sen-ate and House members were invited.

Powell Plans Changes

Press secretary Jody Powell says he may do some reorganizing of his staff to better serve Carter and the public.

Sometimes the publicity mill operated by Powell does indeed move at a leisure-ly pace. This week, for example, it rned out an announcement of names of the U.S. delegation to the 31st World Health Assembly in Geneva. Unfortunately, the ac

Drivers Take Naps During Long Wait

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) - Traffic backs up for almost a mile every day on the only downtown Mississippi River bridge and drivers occupy the time by reading newspapers, writing letters, doing needlework or sleeping.

Three drivers fell asleep while waiting for their lanes to move Tuesday morning, aggravating the city's worst bottleneck,

"One of them, I had to shake him for about 30 seconds to wake him up," said Alan Sparkman, head of the bridge police. "We've had two (fall asleep) once before, but this was the first time we ever had a three-bagger.
"They tell us all sorts of different things, like they were out late last night. Of course, one of the fellows we woke this morning, we're sending him out to take a little test (for driving while intoxicated)," Sparkman said.

Executive's Pay Stirs Comment

By PHILIP GREER And MYRON KANDEL

It must be nice to be Michel Bergerac. The world must look like a big money tree, always ripe for plucking.

Bergerac is chairman and chief executive officer of Revlon, Inc., the country's second largest cosmetics company (after Avon Products). It also makes and sells health care products. He has been with Revlon since July, 1974, when founder Charles Revson gave him a $1.5 million bonus just for signing on the dotted line - and virtually guaranteed he would be running the company within two years.

The bonus caused a great deal of talk in executive circles, although many people tended to write it off as another gambit by the tough but free-spending Revson. It made even more of a stir when Bergerac conceded that he didn't know anything about the cosmetics business, although for him that was nothing new. In 1966, when International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. sent him to Europe as a group manager for industrial products, he said he didn't know what those products were. In a few years, he was president of ITT Europe, Inc., the post he gave up to join Revion.

Since arriving at Relvon, Bergerac has done very nicely for himself, and, considering the state of the stock market since then, fairly well for the company's stockholders. His original salary as president and chief operating officer was $325,000 a year (he also received options to buy Revlon stock at a price well below that of any other company officer). He was elected chief executive officer in May, 1975 (fulfilling Revson's guarantee) and his salary went up to $350,000. In 1976, his first full year at the top, he just about doubled his paychecks, to $697,000 a year. Last year, he moved up again, to $794,-000, which puts him among the half-doz-en-or-so highest-paid corporate executives in the country, although the compa ny he heads has a relatively modest $1.1 billion in sales. (David Mitchell, chairman of Avon Products, gets about $430,-000. Revson himself, in his best year, got $380,000 in salary.)

Over the same period of time, 1975 to 1977, Revion's gross sales have climbed from $753 million to $1.1 billion. Its profits were $62.6 million in 1975, or $4.35 per common share. In 1977, they were $97.8 million, or $3.20 a share (there was a twofor-one stock split in the meantime). Probably most important to stock-holders, the price of Revion's shares (adjusted for that split) climbed from an average of $32 in 1975 to around $47 now. That's gain of 47 percent — not bad at all. But Bergerac's salary has climbed 127 percent in the same time.

Salaries of corporate executive often get to look like telephone numbers without causing much of a stir, but Bergerac's case is different. No less promin name than Morgan Stanley & Co., Inc., one of the country's most prestigious (and, in its comments on corporate activities, more conservative) investment banking firms, has put down on paper some interesting thoughts on Bergerac's paycheck history.

The comments, part of a research package, report the thoughts of Beverly C. Lannquist, the Morgan analyst who fol-lows Revion. Ms. Lannquist notes that Bergerac's compensation is higher "by a good margin" than that of the heads of much bigger companies - including IBM, General Electric and all the big oil companies - each of which does many times the business Revlon does.

Conceding that executive salaries don't have to be tied to sales or any other standard, Ms. Lannquist nevertheless makes some interesting points. For one thing, she says, Revlon was a fast-growing company in a good industry even before Bergerac arrived. He has done a "commendable" job of maintaining the momentum, tightening controls and making some small acquisitions (his specialty is said to be motivation), she says, but notes that Avon's Mitchell did at least as well at little more than half the

"Is Mr. Bergerac interested in establishing records, as with the $1.5 million pre-employment package he received?" she asks, "or in thumbing his nose at ITT for not asking him back last year to succeed Harold Geneen?" (Geneen retired as chairman of ITT at the end of 1977.)

"In any event," Ms. Lannquist says, "It is difficult to see the rationale for such a compensation package."

You don't usually hear things like that from Morgan, Stanley, at least not right out there in public. When we asked, the firm refused to give us a copy of the comments — we got it elsewhere — and would not allow Ms. Lannquist to talk to us, even for some background.

In 1975, when a Revion shareholder asked Bergerac why he got the bonus, he said, "you're asking the wrong guy."

The right guy, Revson, died in 1975, so we called Revion, told them about the report and asked if Bergerac wanted to say anything now. The an nivorous mammals, resembling weasels, ac does not discuss his salary for publica-

Ford Denies Auto Firm Paid Bribe

DETROIT (AP) - Henry Ford II today denied that Ford Motor Co. paid a bribe to obtain a $30 million contract with an agency of the Indonesian government in

Ford stopped short, however, of denying reports that Ford Motor Co. had admitted to the U.S. Justice Department it had backdated documents in an effort to cover up what federal investigators believe may have been an improper payment to Indonesian officials.

At the automaker's annual shareholders' meeting. New York attorney Roy Cohn asked Ford repeatedly whether he could answer the question about backdating documents.

"I can, but I'm not going to because I don't know the legal implications," Ford

Cohn is the lawyer who filed a suit on behalf of shareholders accusing the auto company and its chairman of misusing company money for personal luxuries. Cohn said today he was representing the proxy votes of those shareholders at the annual meeting. In raising the Indonesian issue, Cohn was referring to what the New York Times says is a federal grand jury investigation into whether Ford Motor Co. paid a bribe to win a contract to build a satellite communications system to link Indonesia's 3,200-mile chain of islands. Ford's Philco Overseas Services subsidiary signed the contract in February 1975. Shareholders tried to shout down Cohn, but the attorney asked whether any payment was made by or on behalf of Ford Motor Co. to an official of the Indonesian government.

'No," Ford replied. Asked by Cohn whether he was saying that there was no payment improper or otherwise, Ford said, "I am." Cohn also questioned the company's chairman about charges in the shareholders' suit and Ford, chairing the meeting, let him pursue the questions despite protests from the crowd of more than 1,400. "Mr. Cohn is asking some questions that in my opinion should be answered," Ford said. He cut off Cohn's questions after about 20 minutes, saying "I don't propose to try the lawsuit at the shareholders' meeting." He said Cohn could speak after the airplane industry's future is looking extremely bright, just a few short years after hitting a low.

"The industry is just on the verge of going through a situation similar to that which occurred in the last decade," when airlines bought aircraft in large numbers, said John Simon, an analyst at Crowell. Weedon & Co. in Los Angeles. "We're looking at a market over the next 10 years which could exceed $70 billion - not including inflation." Aircraft sales last year -Don't argue about religion, politics, were about $3 billion. ideologies or ways of life. Avoid criticiz-

Airplane manufacturers have made three huge deals in little over a month for close to $2.3 billion of equipment, including a $900 million arrangement by Singapore International Airlines to buy 19 aircraft from Boeing Co. The sale is the largest in aviation history

And Boeing is expected to gain even further sales late next month, when the Seattle-based firm introduces its 200-passenger, wide-bodied 767 and 777 models. The SIA-Boeing sale follows closely two deals announced in April, which represented the first large-scale purchases since the mid-1960s, when airlines began assembling fleets of jumbo jets.

Pan American World Airways gave

NEW YORK (AP) - The passenger Lockheed Aircraft Corp. a much-needed stimulus April 4, when it decided to buy 12 Lockheed L-1011 jumbo jets for $505 million. A few days later, Eastern Air Lines said it would spend $780 million to lease or purchase 23 A300 Airbuses from Airbus Industrie, a West German-French consortium, with an option to buy 34 more of the aircraft eventually.

One factor in the boom being enjoyed by the aircraft manufacturers is the desire by the airlines to update their fleets from the 707s, DC-8s and early jumbo jets bought during the last boom. "There are so many airplanes to replace that the numbers are staggering," says Simon.

For Boeing, the recipient of the latest order, it was the latest step in an already very successful aircraft program. While others in the industry came close to financial disaster earlier in the decade, Boeing, riding the crest of popularity of the 747, remained stable. The 747, introduced in 1970, has achieved an impressive record of safety and is the most widely used plane on international

Although some insiders suggest that Singapore International, a small but fastgrowing airline, might have trouble paying for the huge order, others point out that the line is government-owned and could also receive help from the U.S. Export-Import Bank.

SIA also will make some money by selling its existing fleet of 747s, which the new aircraft will replace.

Some observers also question Eastern's ability to pay for its Airbus purchase, but the airline hopes that the money the new jets save over the older, less-efficient models they replace will reduce in the nearly $1 billion debt the airline already is carrying.

The purchase gave Airbus Industrie some credibility in the industry by serving as a tacit endorsement of the European manufacturer's program. The company had been having a great deal of trou-ble selling the A300, and Eastern's order - the first by a major American airline from an overseas manufacturer - represents a third of the Airbuses sold.

by Whipple and Borth Rate Boost Displeases President

Reserve Board's recent moves to increase interest rates have displease the Carter administration, President Carter's top domestic adviser has indicated.

'We haven't asked him to do it and we haven't cheered him on." said Carter aide Stuart Eizenstat this week about efforts by Chairman G. William Miller to boost interest rates to help control infla-

The board acted twice in late April to push up short-term interest rates, boosting the so-called federal funds rate from 6¾ percent to 7¼ percent.

That is a relatively high level for the federal funds rate and it has put upward pressure on interest rates generally throughout the economy, including interest on home mortgages.

Administration economists fear the increase in home mortgage costs will discourage homebuilding and hurt the overall economy

Although Eizenstat did not say specifically that the new interest rates were too high, his statements were the strongest indication of unhappiness yet from the administration.

"I share your concern that continued rises in the interest rates threaten the recovery," he told a questioner at a meeting of the finance council of the Democratic National Committee.

Miller was named by Carter as chairman of the Federal Reserve Board earlier this year. It is an independent position, however, and Miller is not a member of the administration.

Eizenstat acknowledged Miller's right to take actions independently of the administration, adding, "I'm not entering into any public battle with Miller or the

Meanwhile, a member of the Federal Reserve Board, Henry C. Wallich, said in a speech in Switzerland on Monday the nation may be near its full employment level with the 6 percent unemployment rate in April.

"Although it is too early to be sure, the latest data suggest that we are approaching the full employment zone, which I would place in the 5 to 6 percent unemployment rate," said Wallich, who was appointed to the reserve board by former President Richard M. Nixon.

Margaret Plans To Stay Single

LONDON (AP) - Princess Margaret doesn't plan to marry Roddy Llewellyn or anyone else after her divorce from the Earl of Snowdon, a spokesman says, and her estranged husband has appealed to the British public to take a sympathetic view of her marital troubles.

Buckingham Palace said Wednesday, after the announcement that Margaret was divorcing the photographer she married 18 years ago, that they "naturally will continue to see each other on the same friendly basis as they have maintained with each other over the past two years" during which they have been legally separated.

Margaret, 47, is in a London hospital recuperating from suspected gastroenteritis, an ailment of the digestive tract. Her close association with brewery heir Llewellyn, 17 years her junior, has caused much adverse public comment. But a spokesman for the princess, who is sixth in line for the British throne, said: "Princess Margaret has no plans for re-mar-

Gossip columnist Nigel Dempster wrote in the Daily Mail that the princess agreed to the divorce because her 48year-old husband wants to marry Lucy Lindsay-Hogg, the 33-year-old ex-wife of film and television producer Michael Lindsay-Hogg. But a royal spokesman said the two-year separation would be the grounds for the divorce.

He said the fact that Margaret was suing Snowdon for divorce "is a technicality; one party has to start the proceedings." Legal separation for two years is grounds for divorce in Britain, and a statement from Margaret's household said: "Formal legal proceedings will begin within days.

Snowdon refused to discuss his plans with reporters but said the divorce was mutually agreed on, and "I hope you will give support and encouragement to Princess Margaret when she comes out of hospital and goes about her duties

The children of Margaret and Snowdon - David Viscount Linley, 16, and Lady Sarah Armstrong-Jones, 14 - will remain in their mother's custody and their marry divorced persons while the other father will be able to see them, the royal

State Official Pleads Innocent To Charges.

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) - State Attorney General Frank Mendicino has pleaded innocent to grand jury charges of malfeasance in office.

The grand jury returned three indictments on Wednesday charging Mendicino with five counts of "unlawfully, willfully and corruptly" neglecting to perform his public duties.

Mendicino is accused of failing to prosecute state officials suspected of embezzlement, obstructing an investigation into his brother's alleged drug trafficking and using state money for his personal use.

Laramie County Judge Joseph F. Maier set bond at $5,000 and said the trial would be set "at the earliest possible time" before another judge.

City's Firemen Released From Illinois Jail NORMAL, III. (AP) — The 42-day jail term of Normal's striking firemen ended early today when all 22 were released, but little progress was reported toward settlement of their dispute.

The men were let out of the McLean County Jail shortly after midnight following a two-hour meeting between firemen and city councilmen. Negotiators for both sides were excluded from the meet-

Union attorney Dale Berry said after the meeting that he was told little progress had been made toward settlement of the strike that began March 21.

The firemen were sentenced to jail last month by a Circuit Court judge when they were found in contempt for refusing to return to work.

During the jail term, half the firemen were jailed each day and half were working at the fire station. They switched pos-

The main issue in the dispute is a contract clause regarding status of Fire Department captains as union members. The captains have maintained they have a right to be union members, while the city is opposed.

City officials earlier this week gave firemen until next Monday to return to work

Mendicino's attorney, who appeared in court with him, asked the judge for an additional 20 days to file motions contesting the validity of the indictments. Maier granted the extension.

Mendicino said he had not decided whether to resign.

In all indictments, Mendicino is accused of misconduct in office under a rarely used common law provision of Wyoming law. No Wyoming statutes specifically deal with malfeasance in office.

Mendicino is charged with failing to prosecute Lloyd Hovee, secretary to the Board of Charities and Reform, and Kenneth R. Brighton, superintendent of the Wyoming Pioneer Home, on charges of embezzlement and criminal conspiracy to embezzle public funds.

Hovee was convicted April 28 of embezzling state money. Brighton died last year before coming to trial on the embezzlement and federal drug charges.

The indictment also charges Mendicino failed to investigate thoroughly crimes allegedly committed by Robert Johnstone, superintendent of the Hot Springs State Park at Thermopolis. Johnstone faces trial Tuesday on a number of charges, including aiding Hovee, handed down in three grand jury indictments.

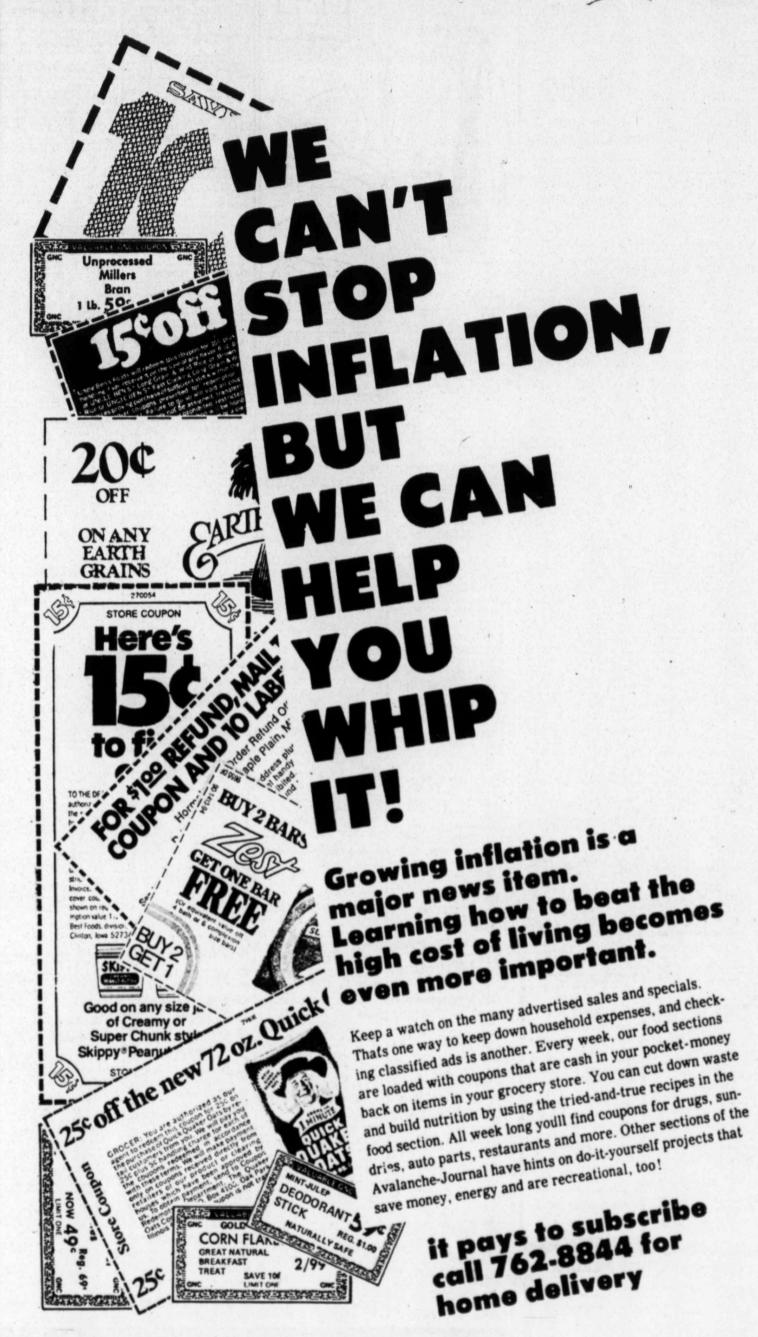

The grand jury also charges that Mendicino knew, or should have known, of criminal misconduct of the administration of the State Sanitarium at Basin, the Soldiers and Sailors Home at Buffalo and the state Law Enforcement Acadamy at

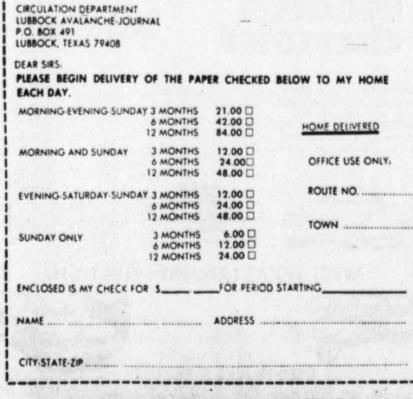

In addition, Mendicino is charged with interfering with a criminal drug investigation involving his brother, Michael.

The grand jury said Mendicino was told that Nebraska, federal and Wyoming officials were investigating alleged marijuana smuggling by his brother. Several days later, the indictment alleges, Mendicino told his brother of the investigation.

The final charge involves the alleged use of a state credit card to charge $573.05 worth of fuel and servicing for a privately owned car.

When Hall first considered purchasing Lemontree, then called Knob-on-the Lake, bankruptcy seemed imminent, but Hall determined that the construction was superior and its features promotable.

He didn't just acquire and hope. As always, he went into the deal after developing a MAP, or management action plan. He had determined in advance just what Appreciative tenants agreed to higher rents in exchange for superior service, a tenant characteristic Hall believes is almost universal. In 17 months occupancy rose to 97 percent from 58 percent.

Scaffold Memo Claimed Lost In OSHA Red Tape

ty engineer warned 14 months ago that disastrous consequences" could result from questionable repairs to a West Virginia scaffold that collapsed April 27. plunging 51 men to their deaths.

But the warning apparently was lost in the bureaucracy of the Occupational Safety and Health Administration until only recently

Frank Greer, an aide to OSHA adminis trator Eulah Bingham, said a memo warning of possible disaster at the Willow Island, W.Va., site came to the attention of OSHA officials in Washington only this week.

Some people here are madder than hell," Greer said

The memo was written by Walter Wilson, an OSHA safety engineer who conducted what superiors described as a 'detailed inspection" of the ill-fated scaffolding at Willow Island in March 1977.

Wilson's memo was made public Wednesday by Health Research Group, a Ralph Nader-affiliated organization which obtained it under the Freedom of Information Act

In it, Wilson wrote that the scaffolding was badly in need of repairs when first hipped to the Monongahela Power Co.'s Pleasants Power Station site at Willow Island two years earlier

Since then he added repairs were made by field mechanics without the knowledge of qualified engineers

Billy Graham Holds Service In Federal Prison

Billy Graham, accompanied by convicted Watergate conspirator Charles Colson and Gov. Ray Blanton, held a brief service Wednesday behind the walls of a federal prison.

"I want you to know that God loves you. And I want you to know that I love you, too," Graham told some 900 county. state and federal prisoners who gathered at the Federal Correctional Institution to hear him speak.

Scaffold Memo Claimed Lost In OSHA Red Tape

ty engineer warned 14 months ago that 'disastrous consequences" could result from questionable repairs to a West Virginia scaffold that collapsed April 27, plunging 51 men to their deaths

But the warning apparently was lost in the bureaucracy of the Occupational Safety and Health Administration until only recently

Frank Greer, an aide to OSHA administrator Eulah Bingham, said a memo warning of possible disaster at the Willow Island, W.Va., site came to the attention of OSHA officials in Washington only this week.

Some people here are madder than hell." Greer said.

The memo was written by Walter Wilson, an OSHA safety engineer who conducted what superiors described as a 'detailed inspection" of the ill-fated scaffolding at Willow Island in March 1977.

Wilson's memo was made public Wednesday by Health Research Group, a Ralph Nader-affiliated organization which obtained it under the Freedom of Information Act.

In it, Wilson wrote that the scaffolding was badly in need of repairs when first shipped to the Monongahela Power Co.'s Pleasants Power Station site at Willow Island two years earlier.

Since then, he added, repairs were made by field mechanics without the knowledge of qualified engineers.

"This situation should be promptly rec-tified." Wilson wrote. "... This special scaffolding is engineered to perform a specific function in a given manner utilizing specific parts; unauthorized substitutions could result in disastrous consequ-

Basil Whiting, deputy OSHA administrator, said the agency's investigation so far indicates that the design, condition and maintenance of the scaffolding "had absolutely nothing to do with this disas-

Whiting said that until the investigation is completed, probably in a few weeks. the agency could not discuss what caused the scaffold to fall away from a partially built, 428-foot-high cooling tower, sending the 51 workers to their deaths.

Whiting said OSHA had never conducted a formal safety inspection of the scaffolding. He said Wilson's visit was in response to a request by the contractor. Research-Cottrell, for a variance in OSHA rules governing construction of scaffolding floor boards for containing tools.

Asked why OSHA had never inspected the scaffolding for safety. Whiting said most inspections are in response to complaints from workers, but there were none involving Research-Cottrell.

This company and this site are by no means above average in terms of the hazards or violations associated with this highly hazardous industry," Whiting said. Based on our history with the construction industry, there was nothing outstanding about this site or this company," he said, pausing, and then added, at least until this disaster.'

Greer said Wilson's warning may have gone unnoticed because it was part of a report concerning the floor boards, which OSHA did not consider a matter of unusual concern.

He also speculated that the warning may not have been acted on immediately because work on the scaffolding had been halted because of cold weather, and there was thus no present threat.

The Health Research Group also disclosed a March 3, 1977, memo from OS-HA's safety program chief, John K. Barto, who questioned whether the scaffolding could meet weight support require-

Auto Production Passes 200,000 Standard Again

DETROIT (AP) - U.S. auto production soared past 200,000 this week for the sixth consecutive period, the trade publication Automotive News said today.

Domestic carmakers planned to turnout 215,009 cars by the end of this week, 2.3 percent hike over the 210,104 built last week and a like percentage below the 210,198 built in the comparable week a vear ago.

For the year-to-date, U.S. car production is slated to hit 3,582,338 this weekend, a drop of one-half percent below the 3.601.173 units assembled in the like period a vear ago.

General Motors has four auto plants scheduled for overtime work Saturday to help fill the demand for cars: Lordstown: Ohio; Tarrytown, N.Y.; Van Nuys, Calif and Lansing. Mich.

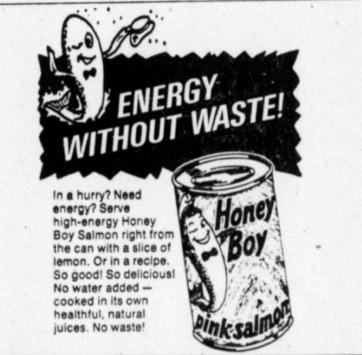

Ford has five plants scheduled for similar premium pay operations, Los Angeles; Lorain, Ohio; Chicago; Louisville Ky.; and Dearborn, Mich.

continuing demand. Domestic output for the week was estimated at 76,733 units, a 14 percent jump over the 67,153 built during the previous week and 5.53 per cent ahead ou the 72,709 output in the comparable week of 1977. For the year-to-date. truck output was estimated at 1.315,320 compared with 1.281.830 at this point a Canadian auto plants turned out an estimated 25,934 cars this week compared with 25,928 last week and 30,846 in the comparable week a year ago. Canadian auto output for the year-to-date was 443,-103 compared with 494,122 in the corresponding week a year ago.

Canadian truck makers scheduled 15,-719 cars this week, compared with 16,989 last week and 13,652 in the corresponding week a year ago. For the year-to-date, the figure was 270,346 as against 233,028 built in the comparable period of 1977.

30 Years Later — Israel Still Seeking Peace

TEL AVIV, Isruel (UPI) - After 30 embattled years, Israel is embarking on its fourth decade still searching for Most of the world says this is Israel's own fault.

Israel's refusal to cede Arab territory conquered in the war of 1967 has earned it the epithets "arrogant" and "intransigent" from the Communist, Arab and Western worlds alike.

Its unwillingness to accept only a piece of paper labelled "Peace Agreement" from the Arabs has cost it friends and provoked anger among its few allies. But Israel today trusts no one and wants ironclad guarantees of peace.

It wasn't always that way

A world horrified by the Nazi extermination of 6 million European Jews before and during World War II gave the survivors the homeland they had been seeking for half a century when the United Nations divided British-mandated Palestine in 1947, giving most of it to the Arabs.

Attacked by Arab armies, the outnumbered Jews fought back with ancient rifles, improvised cannons, homemade mortars and leftover German Messerschmitt 109E warplanes from Czechoslovaki-

Many Jews Unhappy, But Stay

By ALLEN ALTER

JERUSALEM (UPI) - Yael Elan, 30year-old granddaughter of Israel's second president Yitzhak Ben-Zvi is critical of Prime Minister Menachem Begin's policies and has signed a protest letter circulated by the new peace movement. But she says she can't imagine herself living anywhere but in Israel.

Rafi Siton was born 30 years ago on the very day the Jewish state came into existence. He works in his father's garage, is bitter that he and his young family don't have their own apartment, but feels Israel is his only home and the place he wants to rear his children.

Eldad Harat is of Yemenite origin and wears a long drooping moustache. He is the first generation of his family born in Israel and is named for his late uncle, who used the code name Eldad in the prestate underground movement commanded by Begin.

He sees virtually no prospects for a Middle East peace, says Israelis have lost their pioneering spirit but adds he will never leave the country and especially its capital, Jerusalem

For all these young Israelis, their country is a special place, though they agreed that the 30th anniversary of statehood which coincides with their own birthdays was simply another independence day.

"I don't really feel anything special," said Siton, recalling that in previous years he and others born on May 14, 1948. had been invited to a ceremony at the president's house.

"It's just a round number, but the independence day is like the 28th or 29th.' said Harat who works as a draftsman in Jerusalem. He served 142 days in the army reserves durcng and after the 1973 Yom Kippur war on the Sinai front and today is convinced that peace between Israel and its Arab neighbors is practically impossible.

"Even if we return all the territories. I can't see peace because the Arabs simply don't want it " Harat said

He is fervently against returning East Jerusalem to Arab hands. But he is willing to consider giving back the Sinai, Golan Heights and West Bank after proper security arrangements are made for Israel.

Yael and her 30-year-old husband, Yigal, both graduate students at Hebrew University, think that none of the lands occupied by Israel in 1967 should be kept simply because of principle, but only if warranted by security needs.

"I feel that our existence is more important than peace," said Yael, adding she would prefer the Jewish state without any Arabs at all.

Siton simply says that everyone is putting too much pressure on Begin and thinks the prime minister has been doing generally a good job. Harat also gives high marks to Begin, though he says he has erred by allowing Jewish settlements in the occupied territories to go on while peace efforts with Egypt were underway. But, above all, the young Israelis always returned to their feelings for their homeland, which override the political realities of the moment.

The inter-personal relationships that develop between people in Israel is what Yael and Yigal explained is so unique.

"Everyone plans their apartment or house with an extra place for guests and some spare bedding," she said.

Like many others in Israel, the 30-yearolds have much advice and criticism to offer their government and its policy makers. But they come proudly to the defense of the country in times of hardship.

"If I go elsewhere, I'll always be in the opposition, an outsider," said Harat. 'Here I'm in the coalition and it's a good feeling."

Unrest Attributed To Rise In Fares

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) - Leftist students and others have been setting fire to buses and government vehicles, pelting police with rocks and exploding homemade bombs in Bogota and other Colombian cities this week, but police say nobody has been hurt. Officials attribute the unrest to a recent 12 percent increase in bus fares. But political observers say it reflects discontent due to inflation, which last year was 29

On May 14, 1948, this narrow slice of to rid the area of guerrillas. the eastern Mediterranean seaboard became the new state of Israel and what the Jews call their war of independence ended in 1949 with an inconclusive armistice agreement signed on the Greek island of Rhodes. In the meantime thousands of Arabs had fled or been expelled. And so was born the Palestinian problem.

Few noticed.

The Jews were busy building their country. Hundreds of thousands of Jews arrived from the Arab countries, peoples who culturally were more like the Arabs than their European brethren.

Israel called the influx "Operation Magic Carpet" and so planted the seed for two societies — one dark-skinned and poor, the other white and wealthier, the powerless and the powerful.

The world looked on in admiration in those early years as the fledgling state under Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion created gardens from wastelands and fought off Arab guerrilla attacks at the same time. But now those heyday images are gone. Israel today is condemned for cultivating the rocky hills of the West Bank of the Jordan River and trying to make the desert bloom in Sinai. For these areas were captured in 1967 from Jordan and Egypt and the world doesn't see them as lands for Jewish settlement.

Israel embarked on its first adventure in 1956, joining with the British and French to launch an assault against the Egyptians in the Sinai that took Israeli troops all the way to the Suez Canal. The European powers tried to use Israel to ensure control of the canal - which was nationalized by Egypt's Gamal Abdel Nasser — and Israel used the Europeans

The Israelis did the same thing 22 years later in Lebanon, but acting alone against the Palestinians and receiving little acclaim except at home and from their Christian Lebanese allies.

The message from the Americans then as now was the same: Get out.

Little, it seems, has changed Israel, now as in 1956, never has had a viable alternative other than to bow to Washington. Its very economic planning is tied to the extent of American loans and its entire war machine is built on U.S.-supplied weapons.

And most of it is paid for by American Jewry, 5 million people without whom 1srael probably never could have lasted for 30 years. The Israelis know it and are grateful for what is almost a "family rela-

The United States government knows it, too, and with kind words does not want Israel to forget it.

Golda Meir's government. Israel consolidated its hold on the captured territories, building as many settlements as it could to defend frontline positions in the Golan Heights of Syria and along the Jordan Hiver.

The Golan settlements did nothing to prevent the massive Syrian tank assault at the outbreak of the 1973 "October war." launched on the eve of Yom Kippur with such stunning surprise by Egypt and Syria that it forced Israel to re-evaluate its assessment of the Arabs.

Israel eventually won the war on the battlefield, knocking out the Soviet-subplied missile umbrella on both fronts before striking in depth with its superior air force. But more than 2,600 of its men were killed and Israel views the 18-day conflict as a loss because of the Arab political victory that was achieved in part by the oil embargo.

Israeli forces subsequently pulled out of enclaves they captured in Egypt and Syria and in later agreements mediated by then-Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger even gave up more of the Sinai and the Golan than it had seized in the war.

Arabs want from Israel But nearly 5 years after the war Israel almost lost, the Middle East barely is closer to an overall peace agreement despite a change in governments in Israel and the startling visit to Israel in November 1977 by Egyptian President Anwar

The euphoria of Sadat's visit long since has evaporated on both sides of the Suez Canal and the routine backroom diplomacy Sadat wanted so much to avoid is now commonplace. The diplomatic shuttle on the Washington-Cairo-Jerusalem axis is in full swing.

All that has emerged since the heady days of November is a public pledge by Sadat and Begin, reiterated at the Christmas summit in Ismailia: "No more war, no more bloodshed." But it is written nowhere but in newsprint What is holding up an agreement is Israel's fear that its security needs will not be met in a settlement with Sadat, who has expressed a willingness to guarantee whatever the Israelis want in exchange for the occupied territories

The Israelis privately think an agreement with Egypt will last only so long as Sadat remains in power - that what will be acceptable to him will not be good enough for his successor Giving up the West Bank with its 600.

000 Palestinians, for example, means returning to a frontier that will be only 9 miles from the Mediterranean at Israel's wasp waist at coastal Netanya, Unthinkable, say the Israelis, because Israel will run the risk of being cut in two by ground forces in a future war

Three issues stand as hurdles which the Egyptians and Israelis must overcome before there can be progress toward a settlement mediated by the Americans: -The extent of Israeli withdrawal from the occupied territories. Israel says everything is negotiable but is unwilling to budge from the West Bank, where Sadat says he will accept minor modifications

- Israeli settlements in northeastern Sinai and insistence that it retain some air bases in the desert wasteland. Israel has pledged to withdraw from most of Sinai but Egypt wants it all and says there is no need for Israeli positions in the area when there is a peace agreement that in itself is a guarantee of security.

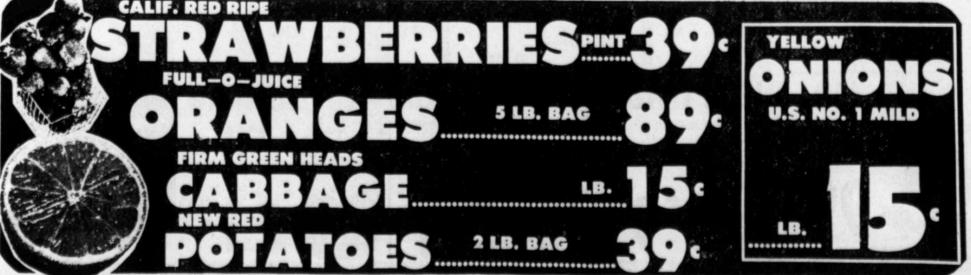

The Palestinian issue. Egypt demands that Israel give the 1.1 million Palestinians in the West Bank and the Gaza strip self-determination, a move Israel views as a step toward a Palestinian state. The Israelis have offered self-rule over a 5-year period instead.

These issues seem to get more complex with every round of shuttle negotiations. Time drags on and world opinion is shifting against the Israelis, dropping to one of its lowest points ever in the United

Not just recognition of its existence as a fact of life, which the Egyptians say was implicit in the conclusion of the 1949 armistice agreement at Rhodes following the first of four Arab-Israeli wars.

And not just acknowledgment of Israel's right to live within ecure and recognized boundaries, which Egypt extended when it accepted U.N. Security Council resolution 242 of Nov. 22, 1967, the peace blueprint which remains the sole basic document serving as terms of reference for a negotiated settlement.

Sadat has gone much further. He has accepted Israel as a neighbor with whom he would have friendly relations - diplomatic, economic, cultural and otherwise - the moment a final settlement is achieved.

His first outspoken acceptance pledge came on a historic occasion - his speech to the Israeli parliament (Knesset), which climaxed his visit to Jerusalem last November to break down what he described as the "formidable psychological barrier" of mistrust and hatred and open the door to direct negotiations.

"You want to live with us in this part of the world," Sadat told the deputies. 'And I tell you in all sincerity that we welcome you in our midst, in safety and security... we used to reject you and we had our own reasons for this... but today I tell you and declare to the whole world that we accept to live with you in permanent and just peace. Sadat initially held out for an immediate peace agreement, with normal relations to be taken up by "future generations." Later he suggested such relations can come five years after an agreement is signed. Now he agrees to have relations simultaneously with the conclusion of a in the full sense of the word, we are ready to do so tomorrow, provided one does not violate the territory or property of one's neighbor," the president told a group of visiting American university professors March 26.

Until Egypt's humiliating defeat at Israel's hands in the six-day war of June 1967, when the late President Gamal Abdel Nasser was in power, the prevalent attitude was that the Jewish state should be destroyed. "Throw Israel into the sea" was a slogan frequently heard on Cairo's Voice of the Arabs radio service.

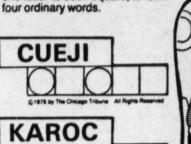

Nasser sobered up after the defeat and accepted resolution 242. A war of attrition across the Suez Canal was waged from late 1968 to the middle of 1970 after initial peace efforts failed. Nasser accepted a ceasefire in July 1970 and Sadat maintained it after he took over in September of that year.

Sadat first offered to sign a peace agreement with Israel in 1971 but the initiative led nowhere and the subsequent state of no-war-no-peace led to his decision to launch the October 1973 war.

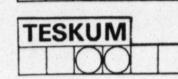

Sadat never made a secret of the fact he went to war in 1973 not to push the Israelis all the way back from his occupied Sinai Peninsula to the original border, which he knew was a tall order. He said he simply wanted to destroy Israel's security concept, regain as much Sinai territory as possible and use this as a lever to get political movement toward a negotiated settlement.

Firm Eyes Continued Growth

NEW YORK (AP) - Gannett Co. will be able to keep step with the future as a result of its proposed acquisition of Combined Communications Corp., a major broadcasting company, executives of the newspaper publishing chain say.

What you are watching is the evolution of a major media company and not the announcement of a merger alone." Paul Miller, chairman of the Rochesterbased newspaper group, told a luncheon meeting of the New York Society of Security Analysts this week.

Miller forecast that Gannett, the nation's largest company in terms of newspapers owned, would grow to 100 from its present 77 newspapers within "the foreseeable future" and enter into other media-related operations as well.

On Monday, Gannett announced an agreement in principle to acquire Combined Communications, one of the 10 largest broadcasting conglomerates in the nation, through an exchange of stock valued at about $370 million.

Gannett, which has acquired 28 newspapers since 1973, had revenues of $558 million and earnings of $69.4 million in

Allen H. Neuharth, Gannett president and chief executive officer, described the proposed merger as "a marriage made in heaven." He told analysts that recent industry surveys indicate that future industry growth will involve small- and medium-size newspapers in suburban and rural areas and that broadcasting operations are likely to capture large shares of advertising dollars in the major metropolitan markets.

Neuharth, at a news conference following the luncheon, said that Gannett has no set growth targets or "magic numbers" that it is aiming for in terms of its immediate growth but that it will continue to expand aggressively in media-related fields.

Neuharth also said he saw no ethical or legal problems with the proposed acquisition because it will involve no overlapping of markets by any of Gannett's newspapers or broadcast facilities.

Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., who has been critical of acquisitions of local news operations by national chains, on Monday compared the merger to "a whale swal-

The Justice Department also announced, as it routinely does in major merger proposals, that it would undertake a preliminary examination of the merger and decide later whether a complete investigation was necessary.

Leader Of Grange Says Americans Returning To Rural Areas

WASHINGTON (UPI) - You may have to leave the interstate to see them. but they're still there in the rural countryside - simple structures, usually two stories, white and clapboard. Often they look like pristine New England churches lacking only a steeple.

They are the meeting halls of the Patrons of Husbandry - the Grange.

It is no longer the force it once was in American agriculture, when the government automatically consulted the Grange before making farm policy.

And, thanks to the interstate system and television, and before them rural electrification and rural free delivery (for which the Grange crusaded), farmers no longer need the Grange to free themselves from the maddening aloneness of

But the Grange survives, very American for all its ritualism based on Greek myths. Masonic rites and English estates. It is old-fashioned and proud of it.

In 5,500 places in 37 states, some 140,-000 times a year, Grange families - the women equal to the men - still gather in those meeting halls for an evening of ritual, lectures and educational programs and discussions of current issues, fellowship and food.

The Grange was founded in 1867 by Oliver Hudson Kelley, a Post Office clerk in Washington who sensed the only type of organization which could overcome the aftertaste of the Civil War and unite farmers was a fraternity.

Kelley and six founders designed levels of achievements like Masonic degrees with ritual stations based on the structure of the baronial English estate (or "grange"). From the start women had a vote, making the Grange the first organization in America to recognize women as equals.

But it was not the ritualism but the Grange's role as a channel of economic protest that brought members by the thousands.

After the panic of 1873, the movement spread like prairie fire as farmers organized to fight for railroad rate regulation and to establish farm stores, elevators

Ethics Panel Allows Credit Contributions

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) - Political contributors can give a donation to candidates and charge it on their bank credit card, the Minnesota Ethical Practices Board has advised. The board issued an opinion to Larry Schwartz, president of National Order Systems, Inc. of New York, a telephone marketing system.

Schwartz had asked whether candidates using radio and television commercials could invite listeners to phone in contributions and charge them to VISA or Master Charge credit cards

Membership hit its peak of a million in 1873. Decline set in with the farm-to-city exodus and it is now down to half of that. Overseeing Grange affairs is John Scott, 60, a retired dairy farmer, who says he senses that the Grange's fortunes have reversed.

Since 1968, Scott has been national master of the Grange, the highest officer. It is a paid, full-time job.

He was re-elected last November in balloting by the state grange masters and their wives in each of the 37 states with enough local chapters to warrant a state

'Nationwide we got our loss (of membership) down to less than 5,000 last year," Scott says, "and I've got good reason to believe that we can turn it around in 1978 and wind up with a net gain."

He says people are becoming joiners again (the rural church where he worships had to conduct two services this Christmas) and are moving back to small towns and farms.

On that, census figures analyzed by the Agriculture Department bear him out they show rural America growing twice as fast as the cities.

Lots of young people got fed up with the everyday rush and push of life and were able to get hold of a few acres of land and have gone back to what we called old-fashioned subsistence farming." Scott says

"In 1973 and '74 when prices were pretty good across the board, a lot of sons who had tried industry came back

ARLINGTON - The sleeping giant awoke Wednesday with such a gusto that many of the 400 Arlington Stadium fans felt that Hurricane Chaparral had descended upon them.

When the fireworks were over, Lubbock Christian College had successfully defended its District 8 NAIA title and advanced to the Area II Tournament, which will be held May 17-19 in Lubbock.

The victory by a rousing 17-4 count was the fifth in nine meetings this year with arch-rival Texas Wesleyan. Ironically, it was a come-from-behind effort, as the Chaps, now 45-22, were down 3-2 entering the bottom of the third inning. "I was happy to see us hit like we're capable of hitting," Chaparral coach Larry Hays said after the game in the jubilant dressing room. "I think we had some pressure on us because we're hosting the Area Tournament, and we wanted to be

"It was tough on Wesleyan to have to play a possible three games in one day, but, with the way our tournament is set up, it's always going to be that way. That's the advantage of playing in the winners' bracket."

Hays also complimented his defense, which turned in its 50th double play of the season. "I thought we played super defense, despite the four errors. When

History thus repeated itself, as the victor emerged undefeated through the tourney. And it was a good thing because rain descended upon the stadium less than five minutes after the final contest was over.

In winning this tournament for the fourth time in five years, LCC banged 19 hits off three Ram hurlers, with Darius Copley, Tommy Inman, Tim Leslie and Bobby Doe each collecting three hits.

Copley ripped his second home run of the meet, and, for the second time in three games, finished with four RBI. Steve Brigante also had a homer, and Inman scored five times to set a school re-

DBC coach Jim Harp violated two tournament rules, suiting up more than 18 players — he had 24 in uniform — and, when Ruben Trejo took the mound against TWC, he was the 19th Indian to appear in a contest, and that resulted in the forfeit.

Hays won the coin toss prior to the game, allowing LCC to serve as the home team for the first time in the meet. Inman led off the first inning with a single and was sacrificed to second base.

Leslie's single scored him, and Mark Lisle followed with a single to score Leslie from second base where he had gone when Inman scored.

TWC went up 3-2 in the third on the second of four singles by Carlos Cuervo, a one-out hit this time, and the combination of Gary Shippy's wind-blown triple and an LCC error.

A pair of walks and singles by Leslie and Lisle accounted for two runs in the third for LCC, but Leslie was thrown out trying to steal, and Lisle was tagged out while trying to score on Richard Bowles'

Benson Finds Recruiting Wild

GAY BENSON, WOMEN'S basketball coach at Texas Tech, has admitted freely and often that her first year at the school has been a large adjustment for her. And, since the season ended, nothing has caused her to alter that assess-

Mrs. Benson came to Tech after 15 years as head coach at Slaton High School, so the environment was clearly different. A second big change was the switch from the six-player game to the five-player one. The latest major hurdle is re-

"Recruiting is wild," she said recently with a shake of her head. "WILD. You never know what those kids are going to do. They'll tell you that they're definitely coming to your school and, the next day, they say they're not sure.' That entirely accurate statement would unquestionably evoke a chuckle or two, perhaps even a full-throated laugh, from a veteran recruiter. Athletic recruiting is one of the biggest guessing and gambling games in existence. Occasionally, when one lands a good player, it is rewarding. More often, it is harrying, frustrating and exhausting.

"I've been surprised a lot," Mrs. Benson admitted. "We've gotten, or are close on, some players that I didn't think we'd have chances for and vice-versa. "I don't guess recruiting is much different than I had expected, though. People said it would be difficult, and I knew it would be cutthroat.

SHE HAS SIGNED three players thus far-Rose Penkunis of Schertz Clemens, Barbara Bell of Albuquerque and Rhonda Farley of Roswell, N.M. (a basketball-volleyball player)-and expects to sign more. She must, since just four players return from last year's team. The others either completed their eligibility or simply dropped out of the program. She can award eight full scholarships and two partial ones.

She said that many prospects are waiting longer to sign letters-of-intent, in large part because more schools are offering athletic scholarships to women now, so the athletes have more choices. Also, some are running track and have been waiting until after the track season to sign. She hopes to have recruiting completed by June 1. Mrs. Benson hasn't had as good a reception from junior-college players as she would have liked, although she is "still working on two or three." If she doesn't sign some JC products, her team will be quite young next season.

'It may be tough for a while with young kids, but you have to build a solid foundation. We should know for sure where the program is headed in three to five years

She said that it is harder in college than in high school to get a program going "In high school, you know from the time the kids are in junior high school what kind of team you will have when they reach high-school age, unless some move away before then. In college, though, it's not that way.

SHE HAS SPENT the majority of her time recruiting since the season ended and "most of it on the phone." Her team practiced in the evening, so she was unable to observe many high school games.

"The toughest thing is not knowing much about the athletes," she said. "If I didn't see them in Texas high school games, then I haven't seen them.

"We've had a good reception in Texas, but not having contacts in other states makes it tough there. And they don't have much film on athletes in women's She has, however, elicited help from coaches in the men's athletic department. Track coach Corky Oglesby, assistant basketball coach George Davidson and football aide Bob Patterson have helped. Patterson, for example, talked with a prospect who was the sister of two football players he had recruited when he was an assistant at Vanderbilt. Davidson, an Oklahoma native, has supplied information on some players in the Sooner

Tech's good season in 1977-the Raiders were 35-11 and advanced to the regional tournament—is obviously a selling point to prospects, but the program is rapped by some for not possessing top-flight facilities. Benson said the department is attempting to schedule most of next year's games in Lubbock Coliseum, rather than the small women's gym where the team usually played this past

"A lot of prospects and their parents have the wrong idea about Tech, too," Mrs. Benson said. "They don't know what it's like. Once they get on the campus, they like it."

However, getting their names on letters-of-intent is never that easy

That's the Seattle SuperSonics. Latest Rumor: ABC To Drop Monday Baseball

AP TV Sports Writer From the rumor mill comes word that ABC may decide to drop out of baseball come contract renewal time at the end

If so, it would be a blow to baseball which would dearly love to have all three networks on board just like the National Football League.

Baseball has done about as well as ABC expected it to do on Monday nights but it almost always finishes third to entertainment programming on CBS and NBC. And with ABC currently ruling the ratings roost, executives may want to rethink their commitment to baseball.

Adding fuel to the speculation is the fact that Monday night baseball was not on this week and won't be on next week. May is one of television's "sweeps" months, a time when the A.C. Nielsen Co. gets ratings from all the local markets. These ratings determine advertising rates for the local stations and the networks go all out to provide their affiliates with attractive programming.

That's why so many specials and assorted extravaganzas turn up on TV during May. It has been suggested that ABC puposely picked May for the two "byes" in its baseball schedule in recognition of the fact that baseball is not a big draw in prime time.

An ABC spokesman denies it all and points out that ABC's long-time policy on Monday night baseball has been to televise at the start of the season, when everyone presumably is dying to see it, and then pick it up once the division races are somewhat established. May seems like the obvious time to skip a couple of weeks.

Another factor in any decision ABC makes on baseball is that if it drops the Monday night games it also will lose the World Series, playoffs and All-Star Game, all of which are most desirable properties.

Whatever ABC decides to do, it won't affect football. The average Monday night football games pulls about a 36 percent share of the TV audience, which is considered very good. Monday night baseball averages about a 24 share, which is not particularly good.

Should ABC decide to drop Monday night baseball, and the decision won't be made for a while, it is unlikely either NBC or CBS will pick it up. NBC more or less is content with its Saturday afternoon games and CBS apparently is quite interested in a Sunday afternoon package, provided, of course, that it gets a piece of the World Series, playoff and All-Star

CBS's decision to renew its contract with the National Basketball Association came about despite a drop in the ratings this season. Overall, regular season games were down about 5 percent over last season and the playoffs are not doing well. On April 30, for example, a Sunday doubleheader drew a 5.9 rating for the first game and 7.3 for the second one. On the corresponding weekend last season, the numbers were

So why did CBS sign a new four-year deal for $74 million even before the old contract ran out? Because there aren't

The college football bowl games still are a long way off but they are much on the minds of network talent scouts these

NBC recently pirated the Fiesta Bowl away from CBS, so CBS raided the independent Mizlou Network and came away with the Peach Bowl. ABC has held onto the Liberty Bowl but it has been bounced from its usual Monday night slot to Saturday afternoon because the pro football season will be two weeks longer this year and Monday night football will occupy the Liberty Bowl's customary time slot.

"The biggest loss there will be the fireworks," says one network observer. "They don't play well in the daylight."

A. Other than the World Boxing Council, NBC Sports is probably the only entity that "recognizes" Norton as the champ. The Sunday WBC voted Spinks 'out," NBC announcers told their TV audience, "So Ken Norton is the new heavyweight champion." This was possibly because Norton was functioning as a commentator for one of their amateur boxing shows.

However, such people as the World Boxing Association, and the New York and New Jersey boxing commissions, Ring Magazine-and fight fans the world over-acknowledge that Spinks is champion until somebody gets in the ring and takes the title away from him.

Jack Johnson, even when exiled as a fugitive from the U.S., was never stripped of his title. As much as the public disliked him, it still regarded him the Even Joe Frazier was never regarded as heavyweight champ until he had defeated the deposed Ali. As sleazy as the fight game is in other respects, this is its one integrity, so Spinks will remain champ until defeated by someone other than the St. Louis police—Ken Norton and NBC notwithstanding.

Webster, Seattle's 7-foot-1 center and a former Nugget, scored 14 points, hauled down a game-high 16 rebounds and blocked three shots.

'We haven't been able to control the tempo as well as we'd like. We haven't been able to score as easily as we'd like," Thompson said. "But we're not out of it. We're still in it. All we have to do is win one game here. Then the monkey is on Winning his second game in five decisions this year, Blyleven was supported by a 10-hit attack that included four extra-base hits. The right-hander struck out at least one batter in each inning. The Pirates took a 2-0 lead in the second on Garner's run-scoring triple and Duffy Dyer's RBI double. They added three runs in the fifth off San Francisco starter Jim Barr as Willie Stargell highlighted the inning with a two-run double.

The Giants scored their only run in the fourth on singles by Terry Whitfield and Darrell Evans and Willie McCovey's RBI grounder.

Phillies 3, Astros 1 Since being called up from the minor leagues two weeks ago to replace second baseman Ted Sizemore, Philadelphia Phillies' rookie Jim Morrison has been taking tips from veteran Davey Johnson. Johnson has practiced continually with Morrison on his fielding, particularly the pivot on the double play, but Wednesday night Morrison revealed he's also learned about hitting from Johnson, who set a major league record for home runs by a second baseman with 43 at Atlanta in 1973 Morrison, whose first major league home run carried the Phillies to a 3-1 victory over the Houston Astros, said he's been concentrating too hard on the mechanies of hitting Davey said, 'Hit what you see. Relax.

If it's in your zone, hit it. If not, lay off it," said Morrison.

Morrison hit a 1-0 delivery off Houston's Mark Lemongello with Bob Boone on first and two outs to give the Phillies a 2-0 lead.

Cesar Cedeno made it 2-1 with his fifth home run of the year leading off the fourth, but the Phils added a run on a bases-loaded walk in the fifth and Jim Lonborg was in control the rest of the way, allowing only five hits in raising his record to 4-2.

Morrison said he wasn't taking any chances on the ball he hit.

"I just took off and started running." he said. "I was glad, especially when it put us two runs up. You think about hitting home runs, but when you do it, it just goes.

RBIs since replacing Sizemore, who's out about five weeks with a broken left hand. Morrison said he's finding it difficult to relax. On a team that has won two straight division titles and is ahead in the National League East by 112 games, his every move is under scrutiny.

"I always feel I've got so much to prove to show I've got to stay," said Morrison, 25. "I put so much on myself mentally. If I don't stay, at least I know in my own mind I worked hard.

Houston catcher Joe Ferguson said that aside from the home run ball to Morrison. Lemongello didn't pitch that bad-

"They didn't hit him too hard." Ferguson said of Lemongello, 2-4. "The pitch Morrison hit was a slider, up. It wasn't a good pitch. It was probably one of the few mistakes he made all night."

Lemongello allowed six hits in seven innings, striking out three and walking five. Morrison's homer and the fifth inning did him in. Lonborg led off the fifth will a single and, after a single by Larry Bowa and a walk to Greg Luzinski, Lemongello walked Jay Johnstone to force in Lon-

Elliott Maddox drove in three runs with a double and single and John Stearns walloped a home run to lead New York over Montreal. Maddox's RBI single highlighted a two-run first inning and the Mets' outfielder doubled home two more in the fifth to support the six-hit pitching of Nino Espinosa.

George Hendrick hit a homer and Randy Jones hurled a six-hitter to lead-San-Diego over Chicago. Hendrick, who cameinto the game hitting just .192, connected for his third homer of the season off Cubs starter Dennis Lamp with one out in the fourth. The home run ended an 0-for-17slump for Hendrick and provided Jones with the only run he needed.

Jones, the Padres' sinker-ball specialist who won 22 games and the Cy Young Award in 1976, found that old groove from the start, retiring 11 of the first 15 Cubs on grounders. There wasn't a-ball hit out of the infield until Larry Cox flied to center to end the fifth inning Cardinals 6, Dodgers 5 Lou Brock delivered a tie-breaking sacrifice fly in the sixth inning and Mark Liftell hurled six innings of strong relief as St. Louis rallied to beat Los Angeles.

Los Angeles scored four runs in the first inning, but the Cardinals came back to tie, getting even on Jerry Morales' two-run homer in the fifth. In the sixth: Tony Scott and Mike Tyson led off with singles off loser Rick Rhoden and after Littell grounded out, Scott scored on Brock's sacrifice fly to left field.

Miss Bell, 5-9, averaged 14-6 points 10.6 rebounds per game last year as team won the New Mexico state chample onship. In her four seasons, El Dorado was state champion three times and not ner-up once. The club was 95-4 during that period.

As a senior, Miss Bell was first-team state and made the all-tournament team at the state meet.

Baltimore's Eddie Murray says he's a bad "guess" hitter, but it was Boston Manager Don Zimmer who made the bad

"With the wind blowing in from left, I wanted all their switch-hitters to bat right so they couldn't hit the ball out," said Zimmer. "So Murray bats right and hits it over the right field fence.'

Murray's fifth homer of the season, a two-run shot off reliever Tom Burgmeier with one out in the bottom of the ninth inning, gave the Orioles a 3-2 victory over Zimmer's Red Sox Wednesday night and broke Boston's seven-game winning streak

Murray, one of three switch hitters in the first five batters of the Baltimore lineup, had been immersed in a rather eccentric slump. He had two hits in 26 at-in an abrupt about-face, he has eight hits in his last 11 trips.

"I've been taking extra batting practice and trying to relax," said Murray. "When you relax, you don't guess as much, and I'm as bad 'guess' hitter.'

In the other American League baseball games Wednesday night, Toronto trimmed Oakland 3-1, Chicago downed Minnesota 7-2, Texas topped Milwaukee 4-3 and Cleveland drubbed Seattle 6-1.

Ken Singleton's home run had been Baltimore's offense before the ninth. Then pinch-hitter Carlos Lopez led off with a bloop single and took second on a Singleton sacrifice before Murray unload-

MHS Golfer Northcutt In State Field

AUSTIN (Special) - Monterey's Bruce Northcutt, coming on strong in the final weeks of the season, will be tackling an entire field single-handedly this morning in the state Class AAAA golf champion-

Competition will begin today in all five classes of the state golf meet, with the Class AAAA entrants playing at Morris Williams Municipal Golf Course. First competitors will step to the tee at 8 a.m.

While eight teams will be on hand in each class to reach for the state championship, Northcutt will be the only Plainsman on hand and will be bidding for the individual medal. The top two teams as well as the top two individuals-if not on one of the winning teams-qualified for the state meet.

Northcutt overcame an extra-hole playoff to gain a trip to Austin. In the regional meet, he had an opening 72 as MHS grabbed second spot as a team. The second day, the Plainsmen faltered but Northcutt's final 148 was good for a tie for second with Kelly Kitchens of Hereford behind Abilene Cooper's Mike Oren who had a 146.

Northcutt then won the first hole of the playoff for the ticket to Austin.

Northcutt had qualified for the regional meet as MHS finished second in the team race. He was fifth individually in District 4-AAAA competition.

"Alexander gave up three solo homers, but when we had other chances to score he made good pitches and didn't hurt himself," Sorensen, 22, said. "Maybe that's experience."

White Sox 7, Twins 2

Chicago snapped a scoreless streak of its own, collecting three runs in the first after being shut out for 23 straight innings. Lamar Johnson and Bill Nahorodny hit two-run homers as the White Sox overpowered Minnesota.

Chicago also made five double plays in support of rookie Rick Wortham, who worked eight innings and picked up his first victory.

Rod Carew was given a brief rest by Twins Manager Gene Mauch, but was forced into action at first base in the sixth inning when Craig Kusick was ejected for arguing a call.

"I want to play," said Carew before the game. "but if they want me to take a rest, it's up to them.

Montreal 'Serious' As Cup Finals Arrive

Associated Press Sports Writer
Now that they have dispensed with the preliminaries of an 80-game season and so-what early playoff series against Detroit and Toronto, the Montreal Canadiens are ready for the serious stuff-the Stanley Cup finals.

The Canadiens and the Cup are almost mystically linked. At least that's the way Montreal looks at

Analysis

They have won hockey's Holy Grail 19 times and don't bet against No. 20 this spring, regardless of whether Boston or Philadelphia survives the other semifinal series.

The Flyers battle for their hockey lives in Boston Garden tonight where the Bruins, leading their series 3-1, will try to finish Philadelphia off. If Boston succeeds, it may be a pyrrhic victory. Waiting around the corner are the Canadiens, anxious to get started on what they believe to be their mamfest destiny-another sip of champagne from the Stan-

To understand the verve and drive of the Canadiens when it comes to winning the Cup, you must understand Mon-treal's hockey pyche. The Expos can drift through baseball's National League aimlessly from season to season and there are few complaints from the faithful. The Alouettes can win a few or lose a few in the Canadian Football League and the fans accept the results good-naturedly. But the National Hockey League Canadiens are quite another matter. The Canadiens must win, always win, or they face the wrath of the Quebecois, and that can be fearsome.

"The pressure is always there," says Guy Lafleur, the graceful scoring champion who leads this club. "The feeling s we must always win the Cup. When we lose, even one game, we are booed

The Canadiens' solution to this dilemma is to keep on winning. In 1975-76, they won 58 of 80 games during the regular season, losing only 11 times. They dropped one more in the playoffs, somehow losing a semifinal game to the New York

Islanders. For the finals, they swept Philadelphia's defend ing champion Flyers in four straight games. For the season, including the playoffs, the record was 70 wins, 12 losses and 11 ties.

That is tough to beat but Montreal did last year, achieving the finest record in the history of hockey with eight lonesome defeats in the course of the regular season and only two more, both against the Islanders, in the playoffs. Again, the Cup final was a sweep for Montreal, this time over Boston. The season's record read 72-10-12.

For this season, the Canadiens offered their fans the longest undefeated streak in NHL history, a 28-game string that ran from December through February. They were awesome during the streak and only frightening the rest of the time, achieving a 59-10-11 record. Lafleur, of course, won a third straight scoring championship.

It took Montreal five games to defeat Detroit in the Stanlev Cup quarter-finals and four straight to dispense with Toronto in the semis. That means that going into 1978's championship round, the Canadiens have a playoff record of 32-4 over the last three years.

There are hockey people who are deeply distressed by the Montreal dynasty. It is difficult, after all, to face a juggernaut year after frustrating year.

But the NHL should thank its lucky stars for the Canadiens because they are a link with the past, when hockey hadn't gotten around to watering down its product. They are proof positive that this game can be played with style and grace and need not plunge to the depths of Roller Derby on ice which happens all too frequently.

The Canadiens play hockey, not Rollerball. There is no thuggery in their game. Ontario Attorney General Roy McMurtry, who has shuddered more than once at some of the tactics that go on in hockey rinks these days, need not worry about this team. They won all those games and did it with the fewest penalty minutes in the NHL. They are a classic team, a throwback to another age.

Where once there were six hockey teams in one major league there now are 26 teams and two leagues. The Canadiens were the best then and they are the best now.

renshaw Defends Title returned to the scene of his most bizarre conquest today to defend his title in the $200,000 Colonial National Invitation golf

"I really feel pretty good about it," the slender little Texan grinned as he led a field of 102 on the first of a four-day seige across the treacherous Trinity River battleground

'I'm playing much better than a year ago," he laughed, recalling the madcap 1977 adventure in which he scrambled riotously but relentlessly to a winning 8-under-par 72-hole total of 292.

"I was just telling Lee (Trevino) the way I won here last year was by hitting all the fairways and all the greens," Crenshaw deadpanned.

Gentle Ben hit on occasional fairways and even fewer greens en route to the 1977 crown and emerged from the woods to sheepishly announce: "I felt like someone grabbed me by the hand and led me from the wilderness."

Crenshaw, a non-winner this year, ranks 14th among the current money winners with $65,478 and collected much of that as runner-up to Tom Watson in the Crosby.

Watson and Gary Player, both triple winners this year, headline a Colonial field that also includes double winner Hubert Green and the 1976 Colonial kingping, Trevino.

. The Merry Mexican ranks seventh on the money list and twice was runner-up in his last four starts, including a rousing duel last week with Watson in the televised climatic round of the Byron Nelson.

Portions of the third and fourth rounds will be televised this weekend by CBS. Club officials contend the par 70, 7,170-yard Colonial course, called Hogan's Alley in honor of the five-time champ Ben Hogan, could yield a record low score this year.

"The greens are in the best shape ever and the rough is not as high as usual," tournament chairman Bill Spears said. He did not mention the gusty, swirling winds that play havoc with gof's most synchronized swings.

Nicklaus is not here. Green is currently in third place with $142,860 and Player is a chip shot behind with $142,333.

Crenshaw, meanwhile, has been struggling to regain the form that carried him to three tour victories and $257,759 in 1976, second only to Nicklaus.

"I'm really playing pretty well, although the scores are not showing it," he said. "I've been working lot on a few changes, and it's a matter now of going out and trusting what I've done.

'Actually, I've worked on my long down, but I feel like I'm not stroking the ball badly. They'll start dropping." out there and let 'er rip. Most importantly, Ben indicated, he After last year, anything's possible

 ${\bf `Brotherhood'}$ Works For CHS

By TOM HALLIBURTON Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

ing a little. My putting's been up and

At the CHS net program, brotherhood means you try to top what your older brother did a few years back.

And that's what Dale Anderson and Robert Davis will try to do this weekend at the state tennis meet in Austin. In 1974, the CHS doubles team of Art Anderson and Doug Davis reached the state semis. Now the younger brothers would love to venture a step or two beyond that.

Davis and Anderson (the latest pair of them, that is) were formed into a doubles team almost a month ago by CHS tennis coach Jim Carter, who wanted a nice vacation in Austin and realized there was no way to get the vacation if either of the two players continued competing in singles. What Jim Carter has joined together, let no man put asunder. The young teammates say they're improving with each workout.

"I think we've improved a lot as a team just since regionals," said the 6-3 Anderson. "We've had a lot more time to work

The Mutt-and-Jeff twosome bare little resemblance in their games. Davis, a 5-81/2 natural lefthander, plays righthanded and punches patient ground strokes. Meanwhile, the taller Anderson uses his height and reach to his advantage by unleashing a wide-arching serve which bounces with the unusual spin that lefties produce. Evidently, the contrasts in their styles aid in producing a formidable tan-

"It's good to have a righthanded and a lefthanded player on the same team. It helps on service turns and court coverage because it makes you that much stronger on volleys down the middle. It gives you two forehands, which is your strongest shot," Davis said. The shorter member of the duo reached the state doubles with Steve Wyett last year and dropped a three-set quarter-final match but gained experience of playing at state.

"You're real nervous that first morning match for awhile but it shouldn't bother me quite as much as last year," Davis

The Coronado team escaped three match points in the second set and gathered momentum to down Odessa Permian's Mike Madden and Steve Ashley 4-6, 7-6, 6-1 in the regional semifinals. After defeating District 5-AAAA champs on Friday for the trip to state, the CHS team lost to the 5-AAAA runnerup team of Joe Love and Kirk Farquhar (Midland High) 7-6, 2-6, 6-2 in the regional finals. Each of the Coronado players believed he "let down" in Saturday's match.

"I don't know what I'm gonna shoot,"

he sighed. "But what the heck. I'll just go

"We didn't really play that good in the finals. We just didn't win the big points and that's the way it was all day. Maybe we had run out of big points to win the day before." Davis said.

In losing the first set to Permian's team 4-6. Davis double-faulted at deuce with the score tied in games at 3-3. The CHS team subsequently dropped the point, the game and ultimately the set. Then trailing 5-4 in the second set, Davis-Anderson trailed 15-40 and dodged two match points before winning the game and the set.

Davis realizes his serve means very much to his team's success in doubles play where the serve-and-volley tactics predominate. "I think we have good returns and we don't lose very often on Dale's serves, I think I'm finally getting confidence in mine, too. I've been hitting grocery carts full of balls. It's just a matter of getting the motions smoother and getting the toss up right," he said.

Being such a natural lefty, Davis has thought more than once about serving lefthanded and switching hands for the rest of his game. Coach Carter isn't too delighted about that idea, though

"Nobody likes the idea because they've never tried it. I think it might work but he (coach Carter) doesn't like it," Davis said.

Fred Tisdale got Arkansas off to a good start by driving in two runs in the first inning with a single. Rafael Vasquez, now 3-2, took the loss for Shreveport. Bob Bryant's solo home run in the ninth inning touched off a Jackson rally as the Mets went on to score four runs in the top of the ninth to defeat Tulsa. The score was tied in the bottom of the eighth at 3-3 on a two-run homer by Tulsa's Joe Russell. Paco Perez aided Jackson with a two-run homer in the fourth inning. Neil Allen gave up eight hits and struck out 11 Tulsa batters to pick up the victory for lackson.

Shortstop Orlando Ramirez hit for the cycle, contributing five runs, as El Paso clubbed San Antonio. In addition to Ramirez' feat of getting a single, double, triple and home run in one game, Jay Peters added a grand slam homer in El Paso's brilliant offensive show. Rob Millsop, now 2-0, took the victory. Rick Sander dropped to 2-2 with the loss

DALLAS (AP) - Vitas Gerulajtis intends to beat Bjorn Borg if it's the last thing he ever does. And at the rate he's going — eight losses in eight matches — it might be.

If I have to invite him over to my house when I'm 95 and get him out of a wheelchair, I'm going to beat the guy. If someone asks me how long I'm going to play tennis - until I beat Borg." Gerulaitis' hawking play at the net overcame 14 double faults Wednesday

Russ Potts, 39 - hired Wednesday as successor to Dick Davis, who had resigned - is credited with turning Maryland's attendance fortunes around over the past seven years and said he is confident he can do the same at SMU.

Potts, a journalism major at Maryland and sports editor for six years, was hired at Maryland in 1970 as the nation's first sports promotion director on the college level. Athletic director Jim Kehoe elevated him later to assistant athletic director.

Potts-recalls the Terps drew only 12,000 fans to their last football game before he arrived, "and right now Maryland is at the top of attendance leaders in the country." The school averaged 18,200 spectators for football and 6,869 for basketball in 1970; last year's figures were 39,300 and 12.298.

We think his performance at Maryland can be translated to SMU," the school's president, Dr. Jim Zumberge said Wednesday afternoon, after introducing Potts to newsmen at a news con-

SMU's football attendance has been so dismal that school officials moved games away from the Cotton Bowl twice in the past two years. That has to end, Zumberge said.

"If we can't ultimately fill our own stadium, we're out of business," Zumberge said. Unlike most college athletic directors,

Potts has never coached. "That's not a disadvantage, considering 95 percent of the athletic departments in the country are in the red," Potts said. His major challenge "is to have SMU compete successfully for the entertainment dollar in the Dallas metropolitan " which he said require different

He will try at SMU some of the same promotional efforts that proved successful at Maryland - including a "corporate partners" program involving industries and businesses in SMU athletics; an active group sales program; an aggressive season ticket campaign; mass media publicity campaigns; and some giveaways.

He was responsible for all advertising sales, all ticket sales and all radio-television negotiations. Maryland had one radio station 1970, but now has a network of 55 stations for both football and baskethall

He will have hiring and firing power over the SMU coaching staff, including football coach Ron Meyer and basketball coach Sonny Allen, he said. But he said he anticipates no changes in the staff.

Sixers Remain

Alive In NBA

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - The Philadelphia 76ers talked about dreams and positive thinking and tempo and crowd encouragement but they are still in the National Basketball Association playoffs today because of an unbending defense. The 76ers, often referred to as the best team money can buy, stuck with their money players Wednesday night and it paid off with a 107-94 victory over the Washington Bullets. Philadelphia got the job done with Julius "Dr. J." Erving, Doug Collins, Caldwell Jones and Henry Bibby not only putting the ball in the hoop, but stripping the Bullets of their high scoring offense. The best-of-seven-game series headed back to Landover, Md., for a sixth game Friday with the Bullets leading 3-2, but the 76ers confidently selling tickets for a seventh game here Sonday.

Washington coach Dick Motta insists there won't be any seventh game, howev-"I still like our odds," said Motta. "I'd hate to be down 3-2 against them and coming up here for the sixth game. They ran us tonight, but I still think we're the better team. Collins and Erving led the 76ers' fast-break offense in staving off elimination from the playoffs. And 7-foot-1 center Caldwell Jones and Erving did the defensive jobs on the Bullets' two big guns, Elvin Hayes and Bob Dandridge.

Collins and Erving each scored 24 points. Jones shut down Hayes, who had averaged 26.3 in the first four games. with just four field goals. Hayes got but 13 shots. And Erving turned on his all his court magic to bottle Dandridge with just 12 points. Dandridge had been averaging 24.3 in the series.

Coach Billy Cunningham of the 76ers said the name of the victory was defense. "We communicated beautifully on defense and that's where it all stems from, Cunningham said. The offense was generated by the defense. And we're going to do the same thing Friday." Bibby handed out 10 assists, scored 10 points, and held Kevin Grevey in check. Grevey woundup with 17, but most of those came in the final period when the game already was out of hand.

Collins revealed the team had undergone a 15 minute lecture Wednesday on the theory of positive thinking. The lecture was delivered by Bill Glass, former end for the National Football League's Cleveland Browns. 'He (Glass) talked to us about . . . picturing ourselves being successful," Col-lins said. "In my case I walked around picturing myself making my shots. The key is to think positive. So, all day I was dreaming, just sat around and dreamed about the ball swishing, and it worked. Everybody sat around and absorbed what he (Glass) was saying."

When his dream turned to reality, Collins collected 10 of 17 from the field, shot a perfect four at the foul line, forced that sagging Washington defense to come out and open the inside for the 76ers' fast-

Jones grabbed 16 rebounds, 13 off the defensive boards to get that break going. After a slow start, Philadelphia moved to an 11-3 lead with 6:11 left in the opening period. They boosted that to 11 at 23-12 after one quarter and led by 17 early in

When the Bullets rallied on a 20-8 spurt to reduce their deficit to five, the Sixers snapped back for a 52-41 halftime lead.

The closest the Bullets got in the second half was 10, three times, the last at 70-60, before the 76ers romped to an 82-62 third quarter lead, and just cakewalked through the final 12 minutes, leading at one point by 24.

Erving denied that there was a bitter rivaly between he and Dandridge.

Erving said they were both doing their jobs, admired each other's talents, never tried to degrade each other as human beings or become enemies.

"Of course," Erving added, "when Friday comes and we go on the court it will be for blood."

Erving shot 11 of 19 from the field, two of five at the foul line, grabbed six rebounds, handed out four assists and made four steals. He played 39 of the 48 minutes. Collins was in there 31 minutes, Bibby 30 and Jones 37.

Large Oil Firms Move Into Other Energy Fields

NEW YORK (AP) - The nation's giant to cut loose the ones they now own. oil companies - whose success always led to depletion of their sources of profit, oil and gas - are increasingly diversifying into everything from electric typewriters to life insurance

And the oil firms are getting into other energy fields, too. They now own about 25 percent of the country's coal reserves, and 20 of the almost 100 firms involved in the mining or exploration of uranium used as fuel for nuclear reactors - are oil companies.

This concerted effort to acquire huge holdings in energy and non-energy fields is called horizontal diversification - as opposed to vertical diversification, related to oil and gas - and it is being watched by Congress and by federal regu-

But, thanks in part to an aggressive lobbying campaign, no action appears imminent to prevent oil firms from acquiring more subsidiaries or force them

The reason oil firms such as Exxon,

Texaco, Continental, Gulf and others are buying coal and-or uranium reserves is clear: Government officials appear determined to discourage oil and gas usage in coming years and to encourage the use of coal and nuclear power. While analysts disagree on how long reserves of oil and gas will last, there is no disagreement that sooner or later they will be depleted.

"When you look ahead to the eventual depletion of domestic oil and gas reserves, you realize how important diversification is to an oil company," said one oil-company source.

In addition, many oil firms are looking beyond energy-related industries for investments because most analysts are predicting a reduction in the rate of energy growth during the next 10-15 years.

So, if an oil company wants to grow and it's a basic tenet of capitalism that a trucking firm, a computer firm, a tape healthy company must do so - it needs ing trend recently in which oil companies look to acquire stable consumer-oriented industries and retail firms.

In recent years: - Exxon, the world's largest oil firm, has acquired 8.4 billion tons of coal and huge holdings of uranium and copper. It is developing new battery systems and solar-energy devices, and its new subsidiaries produce electric typewriters, golf clubs and other consumer products.

- Mobil bought Montgomery Ward Co., a giant retailer, and Container Corp. of America. "The investment community felt for some time that too large a percentage of Mobil's earnings came from overseas and this was a way to get more earnings out of the U.S.," explained Ken Peterson, a Mobil spokesman.

- Sun Oil acquired the Stop-N-Go grocery chain, two industrial distributors, a cassette manufacturer and an equipment

temperatures

- Texaco began mining for coal and uranium, and bought a chemical company. It is spending $500 million a year on petrochemicals.

- Atlantic Richfield paid $700 million for the giant Anaconda copper firm. It also has bought a British newspaper, a plastics and dyes firm and a solar-energy

Tenneco acquired several automotive firms, the Philadelphia Life Insurance Co. and some almond orchards.

- Ashland purchased several construction firms, chemical companies, mining firms and a shipbuilding concern. Gulf has gotten heavily into uranium mining and coal production. - Continental, which in 1966 bought the nation's largest coal firm, Consolidation Coal, has begun producing uranium

Several years ago, there were numerous legislative and regulatory threats to force oil firms to stop diversifing and to force divestiture of their present subsidiaries. But the oil firms fought back with ads, public relations, and heavy lobbying in Washington

Industry critics say the oil companies are so cash-rich they could buy almost any firm. But industry officials say they need the added income from subsidiaries for the ever more expensive search for

And the industry's defenders also say that, with the oil firms' technological resources, they are the logical entities to develop alternate energy sources such as coal, nuclear and solar.

"It's clear that the horizontal issue is terribly complex," said Hank Banta, assistant counsel for the Senate anti-trust subcommittee. The panel has been considering a bill filed by subcommittee chairman Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., that would prevent major oil and gas or uranium properties. In addition, the bill would require those firms to dispose of coal and uranium interests they now owp within three years.

This type of divestiture is supported by people who believe the oil firms will not aggressively produce coal or uranium until they wring every dollar of profit from oil and gas.

But industry defenders say that's not true. "Coal is not supply short; it's demand short," said a spokesman for Continental Oil. "There's excessive capacity in the coal industry."

There also is no shortage of uranium

The Kennedy bill's chances of early passage are considered slim, even by supporters such as Banta, and spokesmen for federal agencies such as the Federal Trade Commission and the Justice Department recently have questioned the

Reception Scheduled For Price

Howard Price, who has served as principal at five Lubbock schools, will be honored Sunday at a retirement reception hosted by the Coronado High School faculty from 24 p.m. in the Coronado High School cafeteria.

Price, who has been director of secondary education of the Lubbock Independent School District since 1970, is completing 41 years as a teacher, coach and administrator. His teaching career includes 33 years in Lubbock and experience in elementary, junior high and senior high school levels.

His first job in education was as an elementary teacher at Post in 1935, where he advanced to high school head coach. He coached a year at Crane before coming to Lubbock in 1943 as assistant coach for Lubbock High School.

He also coached at Hutchinson Junior

He served as the first principal for Wolffarth Elementary, Matthews Junior High, Wilson Junior High and Coronado High School.

He was graduated from Lubbock High School in 1930.

Jim Potts of Plainview told police here that a car burglar got away with a television set and an assortment of 8-track tapes, altogether valued at about $200, from his vehicle parked in the 2000-block of 9th Street recently.

A 40-year-old Tahoka man was jailed Wednesday on suspicion of violating federal firearms laws.

Lubbock Police Department detectives observed the man entering an apartment they had under surveillance, and stopped the suspect's pickup truck at the corner of Erskine Street and North University

When the investigating detective asked the suspect for some identification, the man reached in his pocket and then under the seat. At that point, the detective told the man to get out of the truck and a search of the vehicle revealed an automatic pistol under the seat.

Police reports indicate there were six rounds in the clip of the Italian-made gun, one round in the chamber, and the safety lock was off.

Officers Tuesday afternoon also arrested a 28-year-old Lubbock man on suspicion of compelling prostitution and aggravated promotion of prostitution and a 21-year-old Lubbock woman on suspicion of compelling prostitution in connection with an assault of another Lubbock wom-

A 21-year-old waitress told detectives she had worked for the man about a week, and when she went to a club in the 400 block of E. Amherst Avenue Tuesday afternoon, the man demanded money

When she told him she had no money the man reportedly beat her back and legs with an extension cord, producing brulses. She told police he then hit her over the head with a beer bottle, cutting her scalp. The complainant told police the other woman then held her while the man held a match to the bottom of her left foot. The couple released her after she promised to bring them money Thieves Tuesday night made off with about 1,500 pounds of aluminum beer cans, valued at $225, from the Great Plains Distributors company, according to Lubbock County Sheriff's Department reports.

The missing cans had been loaded on a trailer parked in the company lot. Thieves also hit two cars owned by

Bell Prepares For Busy Day

Southwestern Bell is gearing up to handle a record volume of long distance calls on Mother's Day, the busiest single calling day of the year, say phone company officials here.

'The heaviest calling periods on Mother's Day are between 9 a.m. and 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. and 11 p.m.," said Bob Dunbar, Southwestern Bell division manager for Lubbock.

Because telephone people and equipment are busiest then, some slight delays may result," Dunbar warned. He advised customers to call at off-peak times to make sure calls go through

Dunbar said extra operators will be on duty to handle the expected calling load. But people should remember that customer-dialed calls cost less than operator-assisted calls regardless of the hour.' The division manager said the lowest long distance rates will apply all day Sunday until 5 p.m., when evening rates go into effect.

Last Mother's Day, Lubbock area residents completed 45,000 long distance

"Nearly 1.7 million long distance calls will be placed in Texas this Mother's Day," Dunbar said.

 Razzmatazz - Attends unusual high school class courses; goes backstage at a radio station; takes a photography field trip; learns what it's like to be Elderly Actor Keeps Working

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) - A man tends to take stock when he celebrates his 70th birthday, reviewing his accomplishments, his disappointments and the quality of his life.

Character actor Paul Stewart turned 70 this year. Unlike most men his age, he has not retired. Far from it. Nor has any studio given him a gold watch.

It would never occur to Stewart to think about a pension instead of more work.

Even in this day and age, as it was in medieval times, acting is a vagabond calling. The actor bounces around the country, often around the world, working when and where he can with little thought to security or golden retirement years. That's how it's been with Paul

Stewart and he has no regrets. 7 Stewart's face is familiar to scores of millions of persons. It should be. He has played featured roles in 55 movies.

His real name was Sternberg which he changed when he broke into show business. At that time Josef Von Sternberg was one of the great names in motion pictures.

Stewart is a smallish, slender man with a neatly trimmed mustache, fastidious manners and a benign countenance. His modulated actor's voice can be commanding. He is a distinguished looking man but vaguely foreign in appearance, too, possibly because he has played so many exotic roles. He recently returned from France, having completed a meaty role with Peter Sellers in "The Revenge of The Pink Panther." He will be seen later this month in CBS-TV's three-part miniseries, "The Dain Curse.

fessional actor, Stewart admitted he dreamed of stardom and playing leads when he joined a touring company of "Subway Express," playing a sailor, in

"I was never a leading man, but like every character actor I entertained fantasies of playing leads," Stewart said, lunching on cold salmon and white wine. "We all imagine ourselves becoming stars when we're young.

"I'd worked in plays and virtually hundreds of radio shows before TV came along. But I didn't begin to dream of stardom until my first movie, 'Citizen Kane'

'My second picture was 'Johnny Eager' with Robert Taylor and Lana Turner. I played a villain and that's when I began dreaming of becoming a leading "I thought of Gable, Bogart, Cagney and Robinson. They'd all started out playing heavies and then became stars. I was young, good looking and welltrained. I thought I'd have a chance.

"But I came along on the cusp of that trend. It was going out of fashion and I got stuck as a heavy. I played a whole series of gangsters, mostly European with a

"I played subtle heavies, assistant heavies, cultured, stylish, rich heavies. I was never really a vicious killer but I did play some low-brow villains, too.'

wasn't until 1947 when Stewart played the prize fight manager with Kirk Douglas in "Champion" that he finally shook off his type-cast heavy parts.

He followed his first sympathetic characterization with a part as the flight surgeon in "Twelve O'Clock High," another good guy. But by that time Paul Stewart's dream of stardom as a leading man had long gone aglimmering. Ironically, he returned to playing villains in television while refusing to accept such roles in movies.

The casting directors in TV were men in their 60s," Stewart said ruefully, "and they remembered me as a heavy in movies. So it started all over again.

"But what the hell, as I review my career and my life I haven't anything to complain about. I'm not rich today but I'm comfortable and I've never had to ehange my lifestyle.

"I have a modest but comfortable home. I live well and I've earned a good living while traveling first class to work in Germany, Italy, Austria, Spain, France, Israel and Hong Kong.

"Someone asked me once why I be-came a movie actor and I said, only half kiddingly, that I wanted to travel first class, free.

"I look back and realize I'm lucky to have survived, more so than most guys of my skills. I've seen a lot of them come and go in my time, and don't forget I've directed more than 200 television shows

"So people know my face but not my name. That's not really important to me. I remember what Cary Grant once told me when we worked together in 'Mr. Lucky.' He said it takes 15 years in the movies before the public puts your name and face together, and then you've got to be very lucky.

"Maybe I'm fortunate not to have become a leading man or a star character man. I'm still working as often as I want. A good many of the others have long since been forgotten.

"Yes, I'm grateful I never became a star. I don't worry about a script measuring up or what a partiular part will do to my image, my career or my future. All I have to consider is playing my part well.

Final Chapter Of 'Body Human' Deals With Nervous System By JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (UPI) - "The Body Human" combines the hypochondriac fascination with medicine, the soap opera drama of possible surgical failure and fantastic photography. The result is as if National Geographic took over "Marcus Welby, M.D." The latest chapter in "The Body Human" deals with "The Vital Connection"

- the brain and nervous system - on CBS fonight, 7-8 p.m., Central time. There are three sophisticated case studies, with three brain doctors and three patients," Alfred C. Kelman, the show's producer, explained in an interview. He cited the three: Carol Culver, in her 20s, who as the result of an auto accident has uncontrollable "intentional tremor" in her hand whenever it is her intention to use the hand, the tremor begins and "to unwrap the cellophane wrapper from a cupcake becomes an unobtainable ideal."

Barbralynn Roth, 10, is going blind because of a brain tumor and the surgery uncovers a terrible problem.

Patrick Riggs, who always dreamed of becoming a professional golfer, has epileptic seizures as often as five or six times a day and medication proves little help. Kelman explained that the producers of the program get their case histories by alerting physicians and major medical centers to what they seek in terms both of type of case and of "human empathy and medical challenge and cooperation. He said once the cases are chosen they

TOKYO (AP) - Japan's April certified taled $1.672 billion, up o percent from a year earlier, but down 16.2 from the record $9.159 billion in March, a preliminary report by the Ministry of International Trade and Industry

On a dollar basis, the annual rise in April was the first single-digit increase since February 1976's 8.2 percent rise are followed through, and would be broadcast whether surgery ended in success or failure. But he admitted he expected success

"The probabilities are on our side we are dealing with some of the most sophisticated people in medicine, and our selection criteria improve our chances," he said. Would he carry a case study in which the patient died - a situation which he said so far had not arisen?

"I think we would have to evaluate it in terms of invasion of privacy," he replied. "Certainly there is no reason why it would not be included if it could be handled tastefully. It isn't a creative problem

triumph in a week otherwise dominated by ABC.

ABC claimed 12 of the week's 20 toprated shows, and CBS had the other seven. That situation helped ABC to a rating for the week of 18.4, with CBS second at 17.3 and NBC third at 15.5. The first chapter of "Wheels" Sunday Night was No. 6 for the week ending May 7. NBC won the ratings race two weeks ago with its "Holocaust" miniseries, but 'Wheels" was less controversial and got relatively little advance attention. The week's most-watched show was ABC's "Three's Company," as it had been often during the fall and winter. Two CBS programs, "M-A-S-H" and "One Day at a Time," trailed. "Laverne and Shirley," an ABC program ranked first by Nielsen for the fall-winter season, had the same rating as "One Day at a Time" but got a smaller share of the actual audience.

The rating for "Three's Company" was 28.7. Nielsen says that means of all the homes in the country with TVs, 28.7 percent saw at least part of the program.

The networks say that means in an average prime time minute, 18.4 percent of the homes in the country with television were tuned to ABC.

'Ain't Misbehavin' Warrants Ovations

By WILLIAM GLOVER NEW YORK (AP) - Three wows and a yeah for "Ain't Misbehavin," Broadway's new fun blockbuster.

Jiving, low-down and high-stepping, the musical revue that a couple of months ago won ovations off Broadway moved this week to the Longacre Theater, and the audience almost knocked the roof off with cheers.

The show has been expanded with a lot of slick trimmings and some added material. But the blow-up hasn't damaged at all the irresistible zest of the talented cast or detracted from the tribute to one of swing's early stars, the late Thomas 'Fats" Waller.

Nearly all of the songs were written by Waller, and the rest are ones he made fa-

Veteran Luther Henderson sits in at the keyboard of the old upright that rolls about the stage while five lusty-voiced and dexterous singer-dancers belt, croon and rock the sometimes sentimental, frequently sassy repertoire.

The cast includes Nell Carter, Andre De Shields, Armelia McQueen, Ken Page and Charlaine Woodard. Only Miss Woodard is new to the group that started at the Manhattan Theater Club.

Among the highlights are Miss McQueen's tiny-voiced rendition of 'Squeeze Me," Miss Carter - with a voice that could shatter glass at a hundred paces - doing "Mean to Me," and Page hilariously explaining "Your Feet's Too Big" just after De Shields' brilliant adagio with "The Viper's Drag."

Richard Maltby Jr., who conceived the show with Murray Horwitz, has directed with constant accent on suggestiveness. Artnur Faria's dance arrangements are

Songwriter Celebrates Birthday

NEW YORK (UPI) - There was no business like show business until Irving Berlin made it his business.

Berlin, who is observing his 90th birthday today, will agree it has been a good business.

Since that day seven decades ago when Berlin sat down at a piano and picked out a tune which he called "Marie From Sunny Italy he has written more than 3,000 songs. That output netted him enough millions to make him one of the richest men in America.

Several generations remember Berlin for his songs, from the vanishing veterans of World War I whom he serenaded with "Oh How I Hate to Get Up in the Morning" to the survivors of an even greater war who whistled tunes from "This Is the

In between there were the great Berlin standards which cheered Americans in good times and bad - among them "Always,""Blue Skies," "A Pretty Girl Is Like a Melody" and "Marie."

One of Berlin's greatest songs was originally a flop. He titled it, "Smile and Show Your Dimple." That was the opening line and decades later it was almost forgotten when Berlin, using the same melody; changed the beginning words to: 'In your Easter bonnet," and there was 'Easter Parade."

Eddie Cantor, the beloved singer-comedian who "plugged" many of Berlin's songs, wrote an open letter to "Joe Stalin" during the early days of the postwar cold war in which he extolled the greatness of America. Of Irving Berlin, he noted that here was a Jew who wrote songs about Christmas and Easter.

"White Christmas," popularized by Bing Crosby, became Berlin's most successful single work, selling more than 110 million records, according to industry

Perhaps more than any other composer, Berlin changed the musical scene by planting the seeds of the popular song.

There had been successful songwriters before Berlin - Stephen Foster and Victor Herbert, to mention two. But it was not until Berlin composed "Alexander's Ragtime Band" that songwriting moved into a new sphere.

That was in 1911. "Alexander's Ragtime Band" was not ragtime music but more like a march.

During World War I, Sgt. Irving Berlin wrote and produced an all-soldier show, Yip-Yip-Yaphank," and from this musi cal emerged "Oh How I Hate to Get Up in the Morning." While he was compos-ing "Yaphank," Berlin wrote another song but shelved it for 21 years. In 1938 he released that song as "God Bless America.

Kate Smith, who had been a star in the early days of commercial radio, popularized "God Bless America" in the years just before World War II and the song was so melodic and easy to sing that it became a second national anthem.

Berlin arrived on Broadway in 1931 with "Face the Music" and followed this with "As Thousands Cheer Louisiana Purchase,""Annie Get Your Gun," "Call Me Madam" and Mr. President."

Berlin wrote "Annie Get Your Gun" for Ethel Merman and she found numbers from that musical - "Doin' What Comes Naturally," "They Say That Falling in Love Is Wonderful" and "There is No Buuiness Like Show Business" eminently suited to her style of song belting.

President Truman directed that the Medal of Merit be awarded to Berlin in 1945. Berlin, an admirer of Truman, put an actor impersonating him in the final scene of "Call Me Madam," an Ethel Merman musical based on the partygiving "hostess with the mostest," Perle

Members of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, better known as ASCAP, planned to join Berlin at his New York office and wish him a happy birthday in a simple celebration. Berlin is active and maintains his Manhattan office but does not visit it dai-

As he entered his 91st year on this memorable May 11, messages from wellwishers around the world hailed the occasion. One of them seemed to speak for

"To Irving Berlin "It is a pleasure for me to send my warmest congratulations to you upon the occasion of your 90th birthday. "May the special joy your music has given others for so many years return to you in full measure on this day. God bless

Composer's Works To Be Produced

BERLIN (UPI) - East Germany's state-run record industry this year will produce more than 80 records of the work of the late composer Hanns Eisler.

One novelty is Eisler's "Deutsche Symphony (German Sympmony)," which he wrote in 1938 during his stay in the United States after fleeing Nazi Germany.

Gordon McLendon Still Working On Cl

Gordon McLendon likes "The Company," and, apparently, it likes him.

McLendon, who made most of his money in broadcasting, movie houses and real estate, wants to put together a television series on the Central Intelligence Agency, commonly known as "The Company." He feels he must have the CIA's approval for such a venture, and he said he just might get it.

"We are still working with the CIA on it," McLendon said. "They are trying to determine the lengths to which they can give us cooperation. They are very desirous of doing it. Stansfield Turner has made every effort to open the CIA to the public, as far as it can be done within the bounds of security.

"Obviously, we don't expect them to tell us what kind of international plot was uncovered the previous day. But, funny things happen in the CIA. Human inter-

"I wouldn't be ashamed to be a 'company man' for the CIA, but I think a show obviously heavily laden with propaganda for the agency would be self-defeating in this new era of enlightenment," he said. "My only approach would be to make a series that would be entertaining and of interest to the general public."

A spokesman for the CIA said five other producers have sought permission to do a CIA-backgrounded series, but that they were turned down when it became clear each also sought partial funding.
