TALS president quit work to promote it

After 27 years of toiling in the work she likes best, Elinor Stoffer quit it to promote it. She just stopped "practicing" legatese for pay and, in a sense, started preaching it "I always say," said the 5-foot-8 ex-legal secretary, "that it's not a profession. It's an incurable (condition) because it's such an interesting profession. It's hard to leave." But she did. For more than half her life, this 47 year old professional had been a legal secretary. And for more than 20 of those years, she deciphered law's jargon, made it palatable and in other ways served, aided and worked for the same lawyer - James Fuller - of Port Arthur. Last year, she just quit, retired, from her workaday routine to promote the 1,700-member Texas Association of Legal Secretaries (TALS). She is president, but not for much longer, of that 50-chapter band. "It was just too much working for a sole practitioner (Fuller) and being president of the Texas Association of Legal Secretaries." she said in explaining her leaving the Fuller suite

Unemployment rate drops to 6 percent

ployment rate dropped to 6 percent for the first time in 312 years last month as more Americans were able to find work, the government said today

The proportion of the working age population holding jobs rose to 58.4 percent, the highest in history, the Labor Department said

In an encouraging jobs report, the department said total employment rose by 535,000 in April to 93.8 million About one quarter of this increase, however, reflected the return of strik ing coal miners to work

The 6 percent unemployment rate was the lowest since a 5.9 percent rate in October 1974. Since then, unem ployment jumped to 9.1 percent in May 1975 before gradually descend ing to 7.1 percent last April and 6.1 percent in February of this year. The jobless rate was 6.2 percent in March The Labor Department also report

The unemployment rate for adult men dropped from 4.5 to 4.2 percent, while it remained the same for adult women at 5.8 percent.

Black unemployment dropped om 12.4 percent to 11.8 percent, the same rate as in February

Unemployment among black teen agers, a big concern of the Carter administration, improved substantially, falling from 39 to 35 3 per

The average length of unemploy ment declined from 6.2 to 5.8 weeks in

The labor force, which is the total number of persons with jobs and look ing for them, rose by 370,000 to 99 8 million, as more adult women sought employment The average work week rose from 36.1 to 36.2 hours.

The improvement in the jobs pic ture came as the economy recovered from the effects of a severe winter and the coal strike Industries increased their output, retail stores were selling more, indicating that more jobs were becoming available The percentage of adults holding jobs has continued to climb as women and teen agers have gone into the job market. The proportion of these people holding jobs was 58.2 percent in March before rising to 58.4 percent last month Following are the unemployment rates made available by the Labor Department for a select group of states Like the national unemployment figures, they are adjusted to take into account seasonal fluctua-

California had a 7.3 percent rate in April, down from 7.8 percent in

- Illinois, 5.9 percent, down from 6.3 percent in March. New Jersey, 7.4 percent, up from 6.3 percent in March, and the same as February's 7.4 percent level. New York, 7.7 percent in April, the same as the 7.7 percent rate in Ohio, 5.7 percent, up from 5.2 percent in March.

Pennsylvania, 7.3 percent, up from 7 percent in March. Texas, 4.4 percent, down from 4.8

While the administration is still worried about unemployment, especially among blacks, it is shifting its attention to inflation, which has shown signs of worsening

After rising 6.8 percent last year, consumer prices have been going up at an annual rate of more than 9 per cent this year. Most of the increases have come in food prices, which government economists predict will slacken later in the year

Horse racing among issues to be decided

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN - Differences of opinion, it has been said, are what make for a

In Texas, there are lots of differences of opinion — including those on the question of horse racing, and some of the activities associated with it, particularly betting.

When voters go to the polls Satur day, they'll have the chance - in both the Democratic and Republican primaries - to express themselves on the question of local-option parimutuel betting on horse racing, along with several other issues

Horse racing is the issue which has attracted the most attention, both for and against it and has Lhad the greatest amount of organized support and

The issue is hardly a new one, having seen attempts at three other times during this decade to win approval, and it has been the subject of interim committee studies, legislative hearings, and not a few sermons

Whatever voters decide wont't be binding on lawmakers, and even if the proposition carries, it will be up to the Legislature to decide whether or not to pass a bill setting up parimutuel

Texas had such a system (which provides for division of the wagers among the winners on a proportional basis after overhead is taken out) back in the 1933-37 period.

Gov. James Allred of Wichita Falls led the fight to abolish parimutuels, mission - which at the time was headed by Dolph Briscoe Sr.

Dolph Briscoe Jr. hasn't indicated any great support for the idea and Attorney General John Hill hasn't expressed a great desire for it either. Former Gov. Preston Smith, however, has come over to the side of the Texas Horseracing Association, saying he thinks the proposal is all right on a local option basis.

Several church spokesmen and some law enforcement officials have indicated concern over the proposal. principally from fears betting would divert economic resources and result in the involvement of organized

TRA has attempted to counter those fears, saying the state would be involved in policing the track operations, which would be paid for from the tracks' earnings, and that parimutuel betting would encourage development of the horse indus they can engage in legalized betting.

Besides, they contend, there's plenty of betting on races now in Texas despite the fact that it's illegal.

Those arguments obviously haven't convinced critics of the proposal, but TRA hopes a substantial vote in favor of the referendum will convince lawmakers to consider legislation in 1979. The other item which has attracted major attention is on the Democratic ballot, but not the GOP's. State Democratic Executive Committee member Carrin Patman, wife of Sen. Bill Patman of Ganado, won approval of a referendum regarding whether the 1979 Legislature should increase interest rates on loans of under $5,000. Sen. Patman, a longtime opponent of interest rate increases (as was his father, the late U.S. Rep. Wright Patman of Texarkana), has been the main obstacle in the past two sessions to attempts by small loan companies to increase the rates they may charge.

The lenders contend they need an increase to meet costs which have escalated since 1963, when the rates were set, and say they are being driven out of business because of the Legislature's failure to grant them increases.

The result, they say, will be that Texas companies will be taken over by national chains, which are able to continue operating, thanks to profits obtained in other states.

Eventually, claim the lenders, borrowers with limited incomes or poor credit ratings will have nowhere to turn - except to loan sharks.

The lenders contend that no one is likely to vote for the idea of increasing interest rates and they went to court, unsuccessfully, to force the removal of the referendum. Patman has labeled the loan companies themselves as "loan sharks" and has held press conferences to urge voters to say "no" to the propos-

Clements criticizes opponents

Republican gubernatorial candi date Bill Clements, who in a press conference this morning said, "We have not talked about our opponents. went on to say that Democratic primary contender John Hill had a problem with "running off at the mouth," and that his opponent Ray Hutchison didn't know "a damn thing about the energy crisis.

Clements' comment about Hill concerned Hill's reported announcement Thursday that, in the race for governor, he could get 70 percent of the vote over a Republican candidate.

Clements was in Midland today for some last-minute campaigning. He left for El Paso immediately after the 20-minute conference. Clements said the size of the turnout Saturday would make no difference to his campaign

"Our telephone bank has identified our voters. The smaller the turnout, the more important our telephone bank becomes because we know where our voters are. The finer it's drawn, the higher our percentage will be when we win. The bigger the vote just means we have attracted more Independents and conservative Democrats. The bigger the better," he

He also answered charges that he had tried to buy the election by spending tremendous amounts during his campaign.

"I, as a Texan, am offended by that. I don't know of any Texans who have their vote for sale," Clements said.

"I am going to predict we will win by 60-40, but that does not mean we'll do that if no one goes to the polls. All of this hard work that we have done is really just the preliminaries. The main bout comes Saturday," he said.

Carter claims firm stance on jet sales

The Washington Post

PORTLAND, Ore. - President Carter said Thursday night he sees "no reason to change" his administration's proposals to sell jets to three Mideast countries, now being considered by Congress.

In a regional press conference concluding the second day of a Western political trip, Carter predicted, "We will win this fight" despite the opposition expressed by the Israeli government and many of its congressional supporters to the sale of advanced

F-15 jets to Saudi Arabia. The $4.8 billion proposal also calls for sales of F-15 and F-16 jets to Israel and of F-5E jets to Egypt.

Carter also ruled out any possibility of an American military intervention in Angola and said no firm agreement has been reached with the Soviet Union on the numbers of nuclear missiles each country would be allowed in a new strategic arms limitation talks treaty (SALT).

Carter told reporters he was not dismayed by recent polls showing a sharp drop in his public support and discounted reports that Democrats running for re-election this year were: fearful of associating themselves with

In rejecting congressional proposals that he change the number of jets slated for Egypt, Israel and Saudi Arabia, Carter said he sees no reason to modify his proposal. "I hope and expect it will be approved as submitted," he said.

Fire Department officials are investigating the possibility of arson in connection with a house fire today. The house and its contents were completely destroyed.

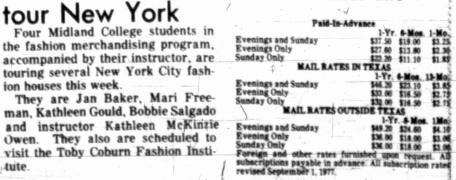

The house, occupied by Darlene Hall, in the 500 block of South Stonewall Street was empty at the time the fire started early this morning. Firemen fought the blaze for a little more than three hours before controlling the fire, they said. Fire Marshal Herb Bloomer said

River user tax passes Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) - A $2.5-billion rivers and harbors bill calling for a tax on inland waterway users and for a study of a sea-level canal in Panama or Central America won Senate approval Thursday.

The House has approved a smaller tax and has rejected a canal study. A House-Senate conference committee is expected to settle the differences. After that the bill faces the possibility of a presidential veto. Administration officials say President Carter insists on charging barge companies a fee in addition to the tax. The Senate vote was 80-13.

Before that, the Senate reversed a vote it had taken the previous day and approved by 63-29 an $8-million, three-year study of a sea-level canal in Panama or Central America.

A commission with three members from the United States and three from Panama would make the study. The U.S. members would take a year of the time to consider a potential canal route outside

Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, proposed the study. He said the canal is needed for large tankers that could carry Alaska oil to the Gulf Coast and East

Sen. Mike Domenici, R-N.M., who supported the administration's demand that barge owners be charged for part of the cost of building federal navigation locks, said he will ask President Carter

The rivers and harbors authorization bill called for about $1.2 billion worth of projects when the Senate began work on it Monday. By the time of the final vote, some 60 floor amendments had swelled this to an estimated $2.5 billion.

Domenici called this "excessive spending" and said it was an additional reason for Carter to veto the

The bill also calls for a new lock on the Mississippi River at Alton, Ill., replacing one which the barge industry says is a bottleneck because of its deteriorating condition.

Howdy, TALS visitors

The Tall City of Midland is honored this weekend to be host to the annual convention of the Texas Association of Legal Secretaries (TALS), with headquarters in the Midland Hilton.

Approximately 250 legal secretaries from across the length and breadth of the Lone Star State are on hand for the conference, which opened Thursday and will continue through Sunday. Elinor Stoffer of Groves is the state association president.

Midland is the home of scores of legal secretaries, we don't know exactly how many, but it is fitting that the 1978 convention of the state organization should be held here. Members of the Midland Legal Secretaries Association have worked diligently in arranging and staging the convention, which, hopefully, will be one of the best and most enjoyable ever.

It is interesting to note that the theme of the conference is "West Texas and the Oil Patch.

In keeping with the theme, a "Wildcat Well" reception was open the meeting. The "Discovery Well' reception is scheduled tonight. A "Negotiating the Lease" (President's) Reception will begin at 6:30 p.m. Saturday. followed by the "Lease" (banquet) and the presentation of awards. The "Work-over Well" (farewell) breakfast will bring the gala "Exploration to Discovery to Pipeline" West Texas oil patch process to a gala conclusion.

Interspersed with the oil patch activities will be a number of business sessions, workshops, discussion periods, guided tours, and what-have-you. The delegates will be busy while in this Oil, Livestock and Financial Center of the vast Permian Basin Empire of West Texas and Southeast New Meanwhile, all Midlanders join in extending a great big, friendly, typically West Texas WELCOME to the convention visitors. It is hoped that they will have a most worthwhile and thoroughly enjoyable time while here and that they again will come our way at the very first opportunity.

The third annual Senior Services Showcase, scheduled Saturday in the Dellwood Plaza Mall, is among the special events highlighting the observance of Senior Citizens Month here.

The Show Case ia sponsored by the Senior Services Office of the First Christian Church. The allday occasion is planned to offer interested Midlanders a "birdseye view" of what is happening in the rapidly expanding field of activities and services for the elderly in Midland and vicinity. More than 15 groups are presenting exhibits and displays.

In addition, a number of Midland senior citizens and Senior Center members from McCamey, Rankin and Andrews will be on hand with craft items for show and sale. The Midland Altrusa Club will handle cashier service for the handcraft sale, on a volunteer basis.

ART BUCHWALD

David Eisenhower could have the logical reason

WASHINGTON - If you never really liked Richard Nixon but never understood why, perhaps his son-inlaw David Eisenhower has come up with the only logical reason, In an interview in Your Place magazine, David theorizes that the reason most people showed antipathy toward the former President is that he happened to be a native of California, which is "an untempered state by Eastern standards." Mr. Eisenhower was quoted as saying that Mr. Nixon seemed to be "an American political figure uniquely capable of inspiring personal hostility because, throughout his political career, he represented California in all its meanings in American politics.'

I buy the theory. In all my years in Washingon I have never seen a state maligned as much as California. Everyone in the 49 other states holds some grudge against it. Some people are just mad at it becuse it's there.

But others have more rational reasons for their hostility. It isn't surprising to go to a party back East and hear someone say, "Do you know what I paid for a head of California lettuce today?" And the other person will reply, "Probably as much as what I paid to see 'Star Wars,' which was made in Hollywood." Or, "This California white wine tastes like it was pressed by Sen. Hayakawa."

The image of California has been distorted by the gossip columnists.

Art Buchwald

Most people think all its women look like Farrah Fawcett and its men drive Rolls-Royces and wear Gucci shoes when playing tennis on their private courts.

The enmity toward California can be translated to one word: jealousy. In the old days Americans couldn't take it out on Charlton Heston, so they had no choice but to kick Richard Nixon around.

I've talked to many people in the East about their hostility toward Nixon and it's amazing how irrational their responses were. One person said, "He turned San Clemente into a

A professor from an Ivy League school said, "When he was Vice President, I heard his cocker spaniel used to do do-do on the bushes in the Rose Garden.'

A secretary in New York City admitted she was turned off by Nixon as a politician because every time he took a walk on the beach near San Clemente, he wore a shirt and tie and a pin-stripe suit with the pants rolled up. "When you see a guy walking in surf like that on television you have to figure he's doing something to screw up the country.

It isn't just the East but also the Midwest that harbors a paranoia for California. A friend from the Midwest said he hated the state because "Every time it rains in San Francisco we get snow in Chicago.'

Although I was born in New York, I went to the University of Southern California, and I've never shared the enmity toward Nixon felt by so many people in the rest of the country.

I never mistrusted Richard Nixon because he came from California

A President should not be judged by where he came from. The sole criterion should be his record in office. If he was a good leader and chose an honest staff, and was never involved in the obtruction of justice or coverups, and never resorted to dirty tricks, and always paid his taxes and told the truth and never violated the law, then book he's an okay guy.

The best way for people to get over their prejudice against California politicians is to search their souls for 18 1-2 minutes, and then ask, "Was David Eisenhower talking about

Passman and Hays spotlighted

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - Those who distribute U.S. aid around the world sometimes put political expendiency ahead of human needs. They keep one eye over their shoulder on the power barons of Congress.

A fed-up foreign aid official, Arturo Constantino, has blown the whistle on the squandering of tax money on projects favored by congressmen but opposed by the auditors. We have identified the worst offenders on Capitol Hill as ex-Reps. Otto Passman, D.-La., and Wa.vne Hays, D.-Ohio, who badgered the foreign aid agency into funding unwarranted projects.

On the scale of values upon which statements are usually judged. Passman and Hays might not appear to have deserved the agency's favored treatment. But with the power that Congress invests in its chairmen, they were able to lop off foreign aid funds that presidents believed necessary to alleviate world

The agency tried to keep them happy, therefore, by approving their pet projects. This outraged the conscientious Constantino who was in charge of constructing schools and hospitals abroad. He recently directed a scathing memo to his superiors.

We questioned other officials. who confirmed his charges. They named Passman and Hays, who used to crack the whip to send U.S. dollars overseas to build questionable schools and hospitals.

In the House, Passman had the last word on foreign aid spending until his defeat in the last election. He had a passion for miserliness and a desire to see the world. In the cause of saving the taxpayers' money, he spent a lavish amount of it on round-the-world travel. Now the Justice Department has alleged that Korean payoff man Tongsun Park also provided him with $190,000 in pocket money.

Because of Passman's purse-string power, the foreign aid agency approved funds for the Cheng Hsin Rehabilitation Center in Taiwan, despite an internal audit claiming it "does not meet the requirements for grants." Sources said the project was okayed solely because of Passman's insistence.

The audit also disclosed that the grateful center paid Passman's expenses for a red-carpet visit to the facility "in apparent violation of the grant agreement which specifically used for clearly identifiable American-sponsored schools. This was not the case in the funding of the Confronted with this legal obstacle. Passman relented at first. But an internal memo relates that "his friend, Clifford Strauss, has prevailed upon Mr. Passman to change his mind." Indeed, the memo reports that Passman demanded "a letter by this evening indicating the agency is authorizing $250,000 developments since the $250,000 was bestowed upon the school: (1) Passman has taken to a sickbed to avoid answering Koreagate charges. (2) The orphanage in France has been named "The Clifford Strauss School." (3) Another AID audit has held that officials should not have approved the grant because of its shady legal Wayne Hays was even more ornery and powerful than Passman until he departed Congress in 1976 on the heels of a sex scandal. He had a personal interest in the Beth Bluma Vocational School near Tel Aviv, Israel. Foreign aid officials opposed spending the taxpayers' money on the school because it failed to meet legal and other qualifying criteria. But under pressure from Hays, they reversed themselves and awarded $1 million for the school. An internal agency audit, mean-

Try this for size, Speaker

WASHINGTON (AP) House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill has switched from a medium-size automobile to a Lincoln Continental as his official car because he wanted a vehicle that gave him enough room to wear his hat.

The 6-foot-3-inch speaker of the House said the smaller car he switched to last year 'was too low. It didn't leave room for you to wear a hat. I'm a great hat man."

Moreover, said the Massachusetts Democrat, with an assist from an fide, the Lincoln Continental costs $550 a year less to lease and has gas mileage of only one mile to the gallon less than the smaller car - 15 versus

The explanation came at a news conference where a reporter brought up the recent appearance of Lincolns in the parking spaces reserved for congressional leaders' official vehicles.

House Minority Leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona also has changed from a medium-size car to a Lincoln Continental. Rhodes' office said the leasing of cars for House leaders is a package deal arranged by the office of

Both parties preparing now for Panama Day One

By LEONARD GREEN The Los Angeles Times

PANAMA CITY, Panama — With the bitter political war of ratification behind them, the Americans and Panamadirection. nians who must make the transfer of the Panama Canal a reality are girding quietly for their own

Down here they call it Day One - Oct. 1, 1979. or sooner if the U.S. Congress enacts implementng legislation before next March 31, the day the joint Panama Canal Commission comes into

Both sides already have begun the essential transfer of information and know-how in a friendly, cooperative manner, but both acknowledge there will be stormy days ahead and that some remaining opponents to the final turnover of the canal to Panama in the year 2000 may lose their jobs here - by choice or otherwise.

None recognizes this better than U.S. Army Maj. Gen. Harold R. Parfitt, who also is governor of the Canal Zone and president of the U.S. government-owned Panama Canal Co. that operates the waterway between the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans. In a post-ratification interview, he said:

"Human relations being what they are, it is inevitable that there will be certain elements that will be a disruptive influence. We must accept

"If it becomes clear that an individual is determined to be a spoiling influence, that person will have to go. But I feel that anyone so determinedly against the change probably will go of (his) own accord.

'Among those who stay, even those who are against (the transfer) will continue their work; they have a lifetime of pride in the waterway."

In any case, the Panama Canal Co. and the Canal Zone government are due to go out of exisnine-member Panama Canal Commission five Americans and four Panamanians - to manage, operate and maintain the canal until the end of the 1999 under U.S.

By Day One, the present canal operating force of approximately 14,000 — only 27 percent of whom are U.S. citizens — is to be cut to 8,850 under the new operating structure. As one diplomatic source said, however, "it's not beginning from scratch" because many Panamanians have demonstratable managerial capacity.

And Day One also marks the beginning of a 30-month transition period in which many of the Canal Zone's day-to-day living functions will be transferred.

One diplomatic source, assessing the obstacles between now and Day One, said:

"One of the problems is that there are a number of people at the top level of the Panama Canal operation who are profoundly conditioned by the past, the old rules the game, and who harbor a deep suspicion of the Panamanians and their abilities

"It will be healthy for some of these people, as well as the success of the operation, if they would look elsewhere for jobs. They have ... many op-portunities to drag their heels if they choose to do

Hugh A. Norris, newly appointed chairman of the canal company's Treaty Implementation Planning Committee, expressed similar thoughts. Speaking of the transfer of the 10-milewide, 50-mile-long Canal Zone from U.S. to Panamanian control and operation - an aspect of the treaties that many Americans working and living here dread -Norris said:

"Of course, we will meet some resistance; we have our rednecks But I feel the number of people who will create that kind of incident will be very small. When this tence on Day One. They is over, we will look back will be replaced by the on this difficult period

Nixon received sundry gifts as president

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL

WASHINGTON (AP) - Imagine Richard Nixon's heartbreak when he departed the White House and had to leave behind his portrait done in chips of banana tree bark.

And that stone carved figure of an Eskimo with bow and spear — the bow broken in two places.

And the medallion of George Washington that you can peek through and see an honest-to-goodness lock of hair from the head of the actual father of our

These items all have two things in common: they were foreign gifts to the president of the United States and he didn't get to keep them, even had he

The recipient of these gifts was Richard Nixon, but he is singled out only because the General Services Administration recently went to a lot of trouble cataloging the foreign gifts he received as president. Such gifts flow to all presidents from fellow heads of state and vice versa

By law, the president can't keep any gift worth more than $50. So the presents are packed away in crates awaiting the day when a library is built to commemorate the president or a museum puts them

(As an aside, it must be said that the inventory of gifts to Nixon was ordered to see if he or his family made off with any goodies. The official answer, it

That listing, however, was illuminating in a number of ways: the kinds of presents the president gets, how many of them and from whom

One thing is certain: many of the gifts truly are fit for a king. And many truly are fit for a king with terrible taste.

In his 514 years in the White House, Nixon and his family received 969 foreign official gifts valued at more than $50. They are stored in government warehouses in the Washington area and in Laguna

The donors range from Sultan Ibn Abdal-Aziz of Saudi Arabia - who presented Nixon with two automatic rifles, one trimmed in silver, the other in gold — to Senor Alcade Miguel Suarez Zegarra of Peru, whose gift was a gold medal and certificate of

The most loot comes, strangely enough, from the Soviet Union and the Peoples Republic of China.

The Soviets are big on giving things to drink out of; for instance, a blue, white and gold enamel tea service for 12; a wine service set of parcel gilt vermeil with 12 short stemmed wine goblets; a 48-piece tea service; a 33-piece demitasse service companion.

The gifts are worth an estimated $2 million, and include a life pass to Mrs. Nixon on Egyptian railways, stamps, jewelry for the Nixon women, art objects, pamphlets, miniature elephants.

And there is also, for Nixon, a box of "President of Burma" cigars. Included is a White House Gift Unit notation: "Destroyed."

Norris and his binational implementation committee began meeting two months ago, not to make decisions but to exchange information, and it has been "going very well."

Despite all his denials, John Hill knows his spending promises would put Texas in the red.

And could cost $920 per household in new taxes.

And he should be embarrassed. Because he can deny it all he wants, but facts are facts. And his promises would result in a $3.9 billion deficit during the next biennium. That's a $920 tax bill for each of the 4,238,000 households in Texas.

The facts are these:

1. Our State Constitution prohibits deficit financing. Any expenditure must be covered by anticipated revenues asprojected by our State Comptroller.

State Comptroller Bob Bullock estimates that the following revenues will be available for expenditure in the next biennium and that the following level of spending will be required during that period, just to maintain our current level of state services.

$19,500,000,000

3. Thus, according to the State Comptroller, only $500 million will be available - without new taxes - for new state programs when the 66th Legislature convenes in January.

4. The State Comptroller estimates that to keep John Hill's promises would cost:

• For teacher pay raises (beyond the 61/2% per year provided for in the comptroller's estimates) an additional.

$ 900,000,000 • For increasing the state's additional Total cost of these four Hill promises. $3,100,000,000

 Duduct amount available from current revenue sources. (500,000,000)

BALANCE TO BE COVERED BY NEW TAXES..... $2,600,000,000

Despite John Hill's denials, his known spending promises alone add up to $3.1 billion - or $2.6 billion more than the state will have to spend without new taxes. But John Hill didn't stop there. He also has promised revenue revisions which - on a net basis - would cost an additional $1.3 billion, thereby bringing the projected deficit - if Hill's promises are kept - to $3.9 billion. If these promises are kept, there will be a State Income Tax imposed on Texans in 1979. At an average cost per household of $920 per biennium or $460 per year.

Now John Hill adds still more to his long list of promises. Now he promises "no new taxes". But when you look at the facts it is clear he will have to break a promise. Either he will cut back on the promises he has made to gain votes. Or he will keep some of his promises and spend more than the state has. And that money will have to come from somewhere.

That money he promises to spend will have to come from

It will come from new taxes - specifically from a State

Income Tax.

Consider, on the other hand, these facts. While Governor Briscoe has been in office, virtually every state service has been improved and opportunity expanded for every Texan. But in an administration of fiscal responsibility, this prosperity has come about within the limits of state income. There have been no new taxes during Dolph Briscoe's administration, and there will be none so long as he is Governor.

We all know that Governor Briscoe has kept his promises. Now ask yourself which one John Hill will break.

To avoid new taxes in 1979, take time tomorrow to vote for Dolph Briscoe.

Russian leader speaks against neutron bomb

BONN, West Germany (AP) — Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev in the first speech of his West German visit has sounded a new call against the U.S. neutron bomb.

"Let us agree to renounce the production and the stationing of new systems of mass destruction weapons," he said at a state dinner Thursday night. "By binding mutual agreements, we exclude (the possibility) that the neutron weapon, which they want to present the peoples of our continent like an ominous Greek gift, will see the light of day.'

Brezhnev and Chancellor Helmut Schmidt resumed their talks on detente and trade today but no statement was issued as they left the government guesthouse for lunch after a 21/2 hour meeting. Brezhnev appeared steady and seemed fitter than he did after arriving on the long flight from

At a photo session Thursday before his first meeting with Schmidt, Brezhnev apeared to lose his balance. He was seated on a couch with Schmidt, Soviet Foreign Ministry Andrei Gromyko and West German Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher. When Brezhnev started to get up, he grabbed Gromyko's arm for support, pulling the Soviet foreign minister back down toward the couch.

Brezhnev, in the speech Thursday night, also urged greater efforts for detente, saying those in the West who oppose better East-West relations "think that fear and ill will against the Soviet Union and other socialist countries should be part of their national policy even at the risk of a new war. Others are mistaken, it seems, in believing the words of those who presuppose ill intentions the Soviet Union does not have.'

HOUSTON (AP) - Growing pressure from parents and state legislatures to do something about children who cannot read is foremost in the minds of teachers, school administrators and educational publishers gathered here this week at the 23rd annual International Reading Association convention. And while many of the 11,000 registered participants agree that increasing numbers of youngsters are leaving school unable to perform minimal skills necessary to survive in the late 20th century, there is less agreement how to stem the tide of functional illiterates.

Suggestions range from offering monetary incentives to teachers who work in schools where reading is a serious problem to using newspapers to teach reading and comprehension skills.

Ruth Ann/Plate, a reading supervisor from Lorain, Ohio, showed how teachers are using the Lorain Journal to teach reading and comprehension skills to students who have reached junior high school without being able to read.

There was great concern that we were testing comprehension skills but doing very little to teach them," said Mrs. Plate, who set up the program after the newspaper agreed to donate 800 copies a week to

Banker suggests buying home now

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - "Sweat equity." That's what one top Texas mortgage banker recommends for people trying to buy their first home in today's housing market.

'Buy a home today. Pay as much down as possible and borrow as much money as you can for as long as you can. Sweat it out for two or three years. Then, your income will increase and it won't be quite as tight," says John C. Weebles.

Still, many people just can't qualify for the big. high-interest rate loans often needed to buy a house today, said Weebles, president of the Texas Mortgage Bankers Association. And, he said in an interview Thursday, the lending industry's toughest task today is finding customers. with the income and assets to qualify for mortgage Weebles, who is presiding over his association's state convention here, said inflation is the root cause of problems facing lenders, and homebuyers. 'The rapid increase in the cost of homes and the rapid increase in the cost of money is leaving fewer and fewer families who can qualify for loans," he "And as long as inflation is with us, the days of lower interest rate loans, those 5 and 6 percent loans of the last generation, are gone," he said On the bright side, Weebles and other experts said they believe there is sufficient money available to meet the demands for loans created by the current housing boom. But the bad news, according to Weebles, is

"We're not proud of the price." For the short term, Weebles said the mortgage lending rate is likely to remain in the 914 percent to 9¾ percent range. "If the lender is looking at double-digit inflation down the road, he's got to do something to cover himself." the San Antonio mortgage banker said in explaining the reason for high rates.

Nevertheless. Weebles believes buying a home is one of the best investments around and that the cost of homes will continue to rise.

Mark J. Riedy of Washington, D.C., and economist who is executive vice president of the Mortgage Bankers Association of America, said interest rates may rise as much as one-half to three-fourths of a percent this year and about half that over the long 'And that's contingent on the rate of inflation being controlled," Riedy added. "Inflation is the real problem. Inflation in home prices and inflation in the

"We're approaching 10 percent loans right now, and if we hit that it could knock the demand right out of the housing boom. The 10 percent figure is a real psychological barrier.

'But what we have today is that anybody who can get a downpayment will buy a home, and he will pay any interest rate to get a home," said Riedy.

To meet the mininimum down payment requirements and the monthly payments, he said more spouses are having to go to work. In some cases, he said, parents are refinancing their homes and helping their children make downpayments.

Area and state voters to choose in Carter administration 2 commissioners quoted material in this story was ex-cerpted from The League of Women Voters of Texas Education Fund Voters Guide.

By MARLEEN RAY

Usually, Texans get a chance to choose only one railroad commissionthen state elections come around This time, they will go to the polls in Saturday's primary elections to determine who will fill two Railroad Commission spots.

In the first race, Mack Wallace, a Democrat from Austin, is seeking re-election to the three-member commission. He is opposed by John Thomas Henderson, also a Democrat from Austin

In the second, five persons are vying in the two primaries for election to a two-year unexpired term. They are James W. Lacy of Midland, a Republican; Jake Johnson, a Round Rock Democrat; Ray Lemmon of Houston, a Democrat; John Poerner, a Democrat from Hondo, who was appointed to this position in January, and Jerry Sadler, a Grapeland Demo-

Railroad commissioners normally serve a six-year term. Their duties include regulation of the natural gas and oil industries, setting allowable production rates of oil and gas, estabishing reclamation requirements for mined lands, regulation of exploration for and production of geothermal energy and overseeing railroad and trucking rates.

Elected chairman of the commission in January 1977, Wallace has said he thinks the best interests of Texans "are and will continue to be served by increased energy production and the rapid development of alternate energy sources." He earlier said it is a constant effort" to see that industries are regulated in the public interest, preventing windfall profits.

Wallace has denied his opponent's charges that he lacks the independence to do the job because he accepts campaign contributions from the industries regulated by the commis-

"The contributors to my campaign are the same as those who contribute for any other major state race. I can't be bought. One of the purposes the legislature had for making a commissioner a six-year term is to take the politics out of the office. And I think the commission bases its policy on what is best for the people," he has been quoted as saying.

A native Texan and a graduate of Baylor University School of Law. Wallace has served as county attorney for Henderson County, as district attorney for the Third Judicial District of Texas, as legal counsel to the governor and as executive director of the state Criminal Justice Council. He has been chairman of the Legal Committee of the Interstate Mining Compact Commission and the Emergency Energy Preparedness Commission of the Texas Energy Advisory Council.

His opponent, Henderson, has called himself the "consumer's advocate" candidate, saying he does not ask for nor does he accept contributions from anyone. "If I win, I won't owe anyone but the citizens of Texas," he has said. He has claimed that, unlike Wallace, he has the independence to do the job.

Henderson often has been questioned whether he has the expertise to carry out the duties of a commissioner. His reply has been, "I don't think someone who is an expert on stripmining necessarily knows anything about carrier rates. Nobody is an expert on all the matters considered by the commission. All I can do is tell you I will get the advice of the best minds of the state before I decide an

A former owner of eight wholesale beauty supply houses in Houston, Henderson now is a manufacturer's sales representative for several companies in Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas and Oklahoma. For the past two years, he has been a volunteer in the Adult Probation Department of Travis County.

In the contest for the unexpired term is Poerner, appointed to the commission when Jim Langdon resigned to enter private law practice. Poerner has pledged to fight any federal gas bill which includes control of intrastate oil and gas and has sup-

"There is ample room in this world for government and private enterprise to come to terms and satisfy both," he has been quoted as saying.

Despite his stand on minimizing government controls over the oil and gas' industries, Poerner earlier sugested that the state reconsider the idea of imposing a tax on its refinery

Elected in 1969 to the first of his three terms in the state House of Representatives, he served on the public education and transportation committees. He considers himself a land surveyor by profession and also has been a businessman, banker and rancher.

Among his opponents is Lemmon, who has contended Poerner "has not and does not legally meet the requirements to be a railroad commissioner." since he has admitted he owns oil, gas and other energy-producing properties and interests. Poerner earlier said he has put these in a blind trust. Lemmon has said the office of commissioner should be without direct or indirect conflict of interest and has stated he has no holdings in the industries regulated by the commission and would not acquire any while in office.

Lemmon has promised that he will see that oil and gas are available at the lowest possible prices, consistent with maximum conservation and production." Four years a state representative, he has said he will work to 'open up the commission" and "cut out the red tape.

Among his qualifications for office, he has headed two legislative committees, dealing with energy, natural resources and transportation. He has been an independent businessman the past 23 years and received a bachelor of science degree from the University of Houston in 1955.

Johnson believes the commissioners should look at the regulation of the oil and gas industry from two perspectives: (1) They must insure that the industry be given a "good incentive" to operate. (2) They must see that the consumer is not subjected to 'artificial pricing.'

Saying it is "tragic" that the public views the commission as "nothing more than the publicity arm of the oil and gas industry," Johnson said, "I do not intend to allow private concerns to dictate public policy - no more sweetheart deals like Lo-Vaca Coastal States - no more billion dollar rip-offs.

A state representative 12 years, he has served on the State Affairs Committee and the Appropriations Com-

Previously a commissioner three years, Sadler again is trying to get elected to this agency. He has worked as an oil field hand and has been a practicing attorney 42 years. He has been a state legislator, land commissioner and advisor to the president on oil and gas matters. Sadler was a member of the Federal Land Study Committee and currently serves on the National Conference of Regulatory Authorities.

As commissioner, he has said he would promote the public interest by working with the federal and state governments and the oil industry to recover energy reserves. He has advocated conservation at all levels. saying the energy crisis is "directly responsible for our inflation and trade

An independent oil operator, Lacy has said he believes "creating an environment which maintains a strong oil and gas industry serves the best interest of each citizen of the state of Texas." He has recommended two main programs to help solve the problems faced by these industries. They are (1) a complete review of all reporting requirements with the idea of reducing, consolidating and perhaps eliminating as many reports as possible, and, (2) developing an atmosphere of helping and encouraging the oil and gas industry within the requirements of the commission and Lacy earned his bachelor of science degree in petroleum engineering at Texas Tech University. He worked for Kewanee Oil 19 years, became executive vice president of Adobe Oil & Gas Corp. and then was president and chief executive officer of Hytech Energy Corp. three years.

With the departure of two of the Carter administration's top Asian-American appointees, Oriental ethnic groups here are looking for somebody to represent their point of view within the upper ranks of the losing popularity

NEW YORK (AP) - Trust me. candidate named Jimmy Carter told the American people in 1976. For months after electing him president, Americans said they did trust the man from Georgia to do what's right.

Now that trust has been eroded, the latest Associated Press-NBC News poll shows.

Along with this weakening of Americans' trust in their president has come a precipitous decline in their view of his performance in the White House. Carter's job rating now stands at the lowest point of his term, at a level passed only by Richard Nixon among recent occupants of the Oval Office.

In the AP-NBC News poll taken Monday and Tuesday, 40 percent of those questioned said Carter could be trusted to do what is right just about all the time or most of the time.

Fifty-six percent said they could trust Carter only some of the time or almost never.

By contrast, in February 1977.

70 percent of those questioned in an NBC News poll said Carter could be trusted at least most of the time. And 25 percent expressed little trust in him.

Carter's job rating has dipped to new lows, at least partially because of the public perception that he has not been able to get much done as president.

Only 29 percent of the 1,600 adults questioned said Carter has done a good or excellent job in office vs. 69 percent who rated his work only fair or poor. Two percent were undecided.

That is down four points since the last AP-NBC News telephone poll in March.

A job performance question similar to the AP-NBC News wording has been asked in recent years by pollster Louis Harris. The current AP-NBC News rating on Carter is lower than the lowest point found by Harris on either Lyndon Johnson or Gerald Ford. Only Nixon's 71-26 negative rating in March 1974 is lower than Carter's current position.

Poll shows Carter Texas delegation bares wealth

$7.200 from the Navy also.

By MILLER BONNER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Joe Namath, Farrah-Fawcett Majors and Texas congressman Jim Collins all have at least one thing in common: Faberge.

The former quarterback, the sex symbol and the Dallas Republican receive part of the annual incomes from the company that sells perfumes, colognes and other toiletries.

In Collins' case, he listed less than $5,000 in Faberge stock among his holdings which, along with 19 other members of the Texas delegation, were made public this week under new House procedures requiring more specific financial disclosure statements from most of the 435 members.

Retiring House members - a classification that includes six Texans - were not required to file financial statements. Two Texans vacating their House seats - Barbara Jordan and Bob Krueger did file the forms, however.

Collins emerged as the most affluent member of the Texas delegation, listing 55 holdings ranging from Faberge and Ideal Toy to Gulf Western and four farms. Congressmen were not required to list the specific value of each holding and most placed their real estate or stocks in one of five categories ranging from "Under $5,000" to "Above $100,000."

Collins' holdings totaled a minimum of $1,723,000. He listed no liabilities.

By comparison, Democrat Jack Brooks of Galveston listed holdings worth a minimum of $1,113,000 and debts totaling at least $366,000.

The outside income of the 18 Texans in the House who will be seeking re-election this year averaged $44,539.17. That's in addition to their $57,500 congressional salaries.

Collins and Brooks were the only two with minimum holdings topping the $1 million mark, although almost all of the Texans listed at least one holding in the category of "Above $100,000"

Real estate holdings plus shares of stock in oil companies and banks were the most common listing. Democrat Jack Hightower of Vernon was the only Texan to list no outside income.

Carter gets new farm bill

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congress is sending President Carter the first major amendments to the massive farm statute he signed seven months ago as a tool to repair the farm economy. In the intervening months, returns to crop farmers have increased 21.6 percent and livestock producers' incomes have climbed 18 percent. Since the 1974 boom year for grain and other crops the prices farmers were paying to live and produce for consumers had risen 23.7 percent while the prices received for crops had fallen 14 percent. Debts had doubled. On Thursday, with a 212-to-182 vote, the House completed congressional action and sent to Carter with tepid support an expansion of his authority over the federally guaranteed rates of return on wheat, the cotton support price.

Carter has said he would use his new authority only to raise by 40 cents the $3-a-bushel target price on 1978 wheat, to compensate growers for extra costs involved in idling cropland at his request as a price-boosting method feedgrains, cotton and rice and a four cent boost in

That could mean $600 million more in income supplements for wheatgrowers this season, without boosting market prices that would be reflected in food prices. The cotton section would increase loans by about $100 million this season, but those would be

Targets are now fixed by law and can be adjusted only once a year on the basis of annual changes in average production costs in the most-efficient regions for a crop. Farmers who cooperate with supply-management programs are paid the difference between the target and a lower post-harvest

Wheat farmers were receiving an average of $2.83 a bushel in April for their 1977 crop. The Agriculture Department estimates it will cost them between $2.97 and $3.87 a bushel to produce a full crop this

The measure forged last week by House-Senate conferees and approved Tuesday without dissent by the Senate would allow Carter to raise targets, without mandatory guidelines, whenever he's asked farmers to idle land — as he has asked wheat, feedgrain and cotton farmers this season.

Cash incentives have already been offered cotton and feedgrain growers so comparable changes in their targets aren't needed, the administration says.

Norwegians doubt American NATO commitment

By DON COOK The Los Angeles Times

OSLO, Norway -When U.S. Defense Secretary Harold Brown visited Norway on his last trip to Europe, the main topic of discussion was not the Norwegian defense effort but what is happening to the U.S.

Despite Brown's private and public assurances to the Norwegians that "We plan a naval force which would be fully sufficient to operate both on the northern flank and southern flank of NATO," doubts and uncertainties persist.

'We are concerned that the United States program in the North Atlantic and the Norwegian Sea is not sufficient." said Gen. Sir Peter Whiteley, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization commander in the north, whose headquarters is in an Oslo suburb.

-COLA

"The naval situation is all right at present, but in 10 or 15 years I would have doubts. The United States is vital to our counter strategy, and the strength of the central front in NATO depends more and more on the flanks. We will face considerable Russian pressure in the north in the future, in the Barents Sea, around the Spitsbergen Islands, and over the whole problem of future use of sea resourcrs. In this situation, the naval position is vital." Although Brown's assurances about American intentions to maintain a forward naval strategy in the Norwegian Sea are accepted by the Norwegians and at NATO headquarters, the doubts remain about the means - the force to do the job.

'We discussed the situation thoroughly and there is no difference of views, but the American decision process is very confusing," said Johan Holst, a Norwegian undersecretary of defense. 'We don't want to get involved in the U.S. debate about Navy problems, types of carriers and all that. It boils downto the fact that the United States has no option except to defend the Norwegian Sea and the northern area.'

The U.S. Navy building program for the next five years, announced shortly before Brown arrived in fleet of about 500 ships to the end of the century. "We have no doubt of the present U.S. naval capability, but if the ficet is not kept up then it will have to establish priorities," Gen. Whitely said. "There is no need for priorities at the moment, because the capacity is there. But there are doubts about the future. If there is insufficient navy to meet a global war situation, then would going all the way out into the North Atlantic and the Norwegian Sea be a

Before you put your 1977 Form 1040 out of your mind, take a moment to be thankful you live in Texas.

"All of the other major industrial states have both a corporate and a personal income tax. Texas has neither. Texas needs neither. And as long as I'm Governor, Texas will have neither."

April 15th could have been a lot worse. Because in every other major industrial state, taxpayers face a second tax form painfully similar to 1040 - a Tax bill for around 5% right off the top of their annual gross income. People living in these states are paying the price of a state government that spends beyond its means, creating budgetary havoc that can only be resolved by placing an added tax burden on every citizen.

Other states - and the Federal government - would do well to follow the example Governor Briscoe has set in Texas. Under his leadership, Texas has had a government of fiscal responsibility. With firmly established policies of restraint in state spending. Coupled with encouraging new industries to move to Texas' outstanding May 6th is a vote for fiscal responsibility, climate for investment. The resulting economic expansion has helped create greater economic prosperity and improved state services - without new taxes. For the last five years, Governor Briscoe has worked hard to restrict governmental spending. And he has kept our budget in the black.

In contrast, his most active opponent in this year's Democratic Primary has said "yes" to the demands of virtually every spending lobby in Texas. And in the process this opponent has made one overriding promise to the people of Texas: If he is elected and his spending promises are kept, there will be new taxes - most likely a state income tax - imposed on Texans in the near future. This would be bad for the state, burdensome to our taxpayers, stifling to our economy and a direct contributor to inflation.

Instead Governor Briscoe wants to give our taxpayers an additional break. He will propose to the next session of the legislature that we use at least half of our current revenue surplus to repeal the State Sales Tax on utility bills and to provide meaningful tax relief for the homeowner and the family farmer.

A vote for Governor Briscoe on economic prosperity and April 15ths without a state income tax.

John Hill charges opponents with raising 'phony' tax issues

Attorney General John Hill in a press conference Thursday accused other gubernatorial candidates, especially Gov. Dolph Briscoe, of obscuring the real issue with the "phony" issue of taxes.

"The issue is not taxes but who will be presiding over the priorities," he

"Gov. (Dolph) Briscoe wants to be governor for 10 years so bad that he has spent over $1.5 million in false advertising misrepresenting my program and my well-known opposition to the state income tax. He took a statement out of the Dallas Times Herald that was incorrectly reported. and he was so desperate because he realized he was losing the race to me that he did not check it. He just took that one inaccuracy and spent $1.5 million to sell it," Hill said. The article incorrectly quoted Hill as saying that the state should increase its support of public education from 60 percent to 85 percent, he Hill said he also agreed with Democratic gubenatorial candidate Preston Smith that Briscoe was spending too much on the campaign. Smith recently criticized both Hill and Briscoe for their campaign expenditures. "My spending has been well within the tradition of Texas politics for a state race on the gubernatorial level. I have spent about $1.3 million, which was contributed by about 7 million people. I have one of the broadest contribution bases of all the candi-

"But I share Preston Smith's feelings about Briscoe's expenditures. He already has reported over $3 miltion and some of his committees have not reported yet," Hill said.

"And about $1.5 million to $2 million of that was spent within the last two weeks on this media blitz of false advertising.'

Hill said a poll now being conducted would show the results of Briscoe's latest advetising campaign. Hill refused to say who was conducting the poll and would say only that the poll was of people who had been polled previously.

"My polls thus far have shown me about 70 percent against either of the Republican candidates and ahead of Briscoe, although I don't have the exact figures for Briscoe. My-polls also have shown that 85 percent of Smith's support has come to me.

"But I will not make the same mistake Briscoe did. I will not take the people for granted," said Hill.

This ranges from cautioning van drivers to be nice to the kids. to publishing a series of "survival" directories to major cities which are given to the parents.

De Wetter said his company took a survey of young people and found the best way to keep them happy is to get them involved in the moving business from the day it starts.

DEAR ABBY Disrespectful widower Chapters needs cooling off time

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: What do you make of a man who buries his wife on a Thursday and asks you for a date for the following Wednesday? I accepted. thinking he needed someone to console him, but I got the surprise of my life. He acted like a sailor on shore leave after six months on a ship.

His wife and I were very good friends and I realize that she had been sick for a year, but I can't see any excuse for the rush this man was in to make up for lost time. When he asked me out for the next night. I told him I didn't think we should be seen in public together because people might talk. So he's been parking himself over here every night telling me how lonesome he is, and how much he needs "female companionship."

Abby. I'm a widow and I am lonesome, too, but I'm not THAT lonesome. How long do you think I should wait before I let him court me? I know lots of women in this town who would be glad to have him .- EUNICE

DEAR EUNICE: The man shows a shocking lack of respect for the memory of his wife. Put him on ice for about a year. He could use some cooling off.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is that I am a very poor hostess-at least I think I am. It's not that I can't relax around people, because when I'm a guest, I'm perfectly relaxed and have a wonderful time. But when guests are in my home, I am nervous and tense and I am just not myself.

The answer is YES. All the chimneys that need cleaning cannot be cleaned in September or October. If you have burned 2 to 3 cords of hard wood or 4 to 5 cords of soft wood in your fireplace and your chimney hasn't been cleaned, you are probably harboring a considerable fire hazard in your home.

That angers me because Krueger is either ignorant of the facts or deliberately trying to deceive us. In either case, it was a totally unwarranted charge.

When Meany last tried to repeal right to work, Senator Tower was one of the key leaders who stood firm in a long filibuster that saved our right to work. If Krueger doesn't recognize that as "leadership," he doesn't understand the meaning of the term.

A clear choice

If you live in Midland, Texas, you are in the oil and gas business. This is true whether you are a housewife, teacher, butcher, baker or candlestick maker.

As a consequence, it is suggested that Midlanders consider the wisdom of voting in the Republican primary this year in a concerted effort to elect George Bush to Congress.

George Bush grew up in Midland and Odessa and is in the oil business, which is your business. Neither of his two Republican opponents have any experience in that industry, and as a matter off fact neither do the two Democrats running, which is absolutely vital to everyone in our city and their families.

Also, because he has continually traveled throughout the district, both as a businessman and a campaigner, Bush will represent all communities in the district, not just his own home

It is, also suggested that voting in the Democrat primary this year will be voting for either tweedle-dum or rial Hospital early this tweedle-dee. There is nothing exciting about it. VICTORIA, Texas (AP) - State health department inspectors are expected at Juan Linn Elementary School here today where nearly 200 students and staff came down with apparent food poisoning Thursday.

Nearly half the school's 450 students jammed emergency facilities at two hospitals for treatment of various stages of nausea about two hours after they ate a turkey and dressing lunch at the school's cafeteria. Thursday night, 20 remained hospitalized but were reported in stable condition.

Ignacio Diaz, principal of Juan Linn Elementary where the outbreak occurred, said parents had responded with mixed reactions and he said he expected some to keep their children at home today. 'It's to be expected in a situation likke this," he

Dr. Patti Dodson, city health director, arranged for Health Department lab studies to determine the exact cause of the outbreak, but food poisoning was considered the prime suspect. Diaz said any of the food could be considered suspect, because procedures for buying and preparing the food are the same as they've always CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) - Chocolate chip cookies and a new red bike are tragic reminders of a birthday party wiped out by a tornado that leveled an elementary school and killed two kindergarten boys, including one who had just turned 6.

Ninety-four others were rushed to hospitals Thursday after the twister, striking without warning after a morning of thunderstorms, screeched through the 650-pupil High Pont Elementary School, sucking up brick walls and steel girders.

The twister shredded the roof like cardboard. demolished two of eight classrooms and shattered windows. Walls, chairs, tables, metal, trees and even cars in the parking lot swirled through the air. Fourteen pupils, four of them in critical condition, and two teachers remained at five area hospitals today. Many youngsters were treated for cuts and bruises and released

"It was lunch time and a lot of kids were in the cafeteria and that saved a lot of lives," said Pinellas County Sheriff Bill Roberts.

But the storm claimed two young victims: John Timothy Duval Jr. and his classmate, Gary Staly, 5. who were hit in the head by falling debris as their classroom was shattered by the funnel cloud.

Thursday was Timmy's birthday. His mother Susan, 28 and four months pregnant, delivered the cookies to the school two hours before disaster struck. She planned to return later for a classroom The banana-seat bicycle sat in a garage of the Faculty grievances at UTPB reviewed

ODESSA - Grievances filed by unnamed present faculty members and ex-faculty members at The University of Texas of the Permian Basin on allegedly unfair termination of their contracts were to be looked into today and Saturday here by representatives of the American Association of University Professors and the American Association of State Colleges and Universities.

The AAUP was brought into the inquiry to evaluate UTBP's termination policies and due process of those policies.

The AASCU started its investigation at the request of UTPB President V. R. Cardozier.

A spokesman in Washington, D.C., for the AAUP said that "more than one" current and former UTPB faculty members complained to the AAUP that they were unfairly dismissed from their positions and that their contracts were not honored by the universi-

Dr. Cardozier said the university is "willing to cooperate" in the investigations, which, he said, would be undertaken fairly.

Last year, UTPB cut its full-time faculty by 20 due to reductions in state allocations. Cardozier commented that "retrenchment ... due to sharply reduced legislative appropriations were

DEAR DR. SOLOMON: I would very much like to have some hair removed from my face. I have heard that the only way to do this really well is with electrolysis. Is this true? How do I go about finding a good person—one who is safe? Is there such a thing as a certified electrolysis operator? - Jill T.

DEAR JILL: First of all, electrolysis is the only appear the archtypical safe way to get rid of hair permanently. What it does corporate annual meetis destroy the hair root with an electrical current.

This is done by inserting a very fine needle into prepared statement that each single hair follicle and destroying the root at the bottom. It is something that requires a skillful, careful operator, because the needle must go just so far and no farther. It must not penetrate the walls of

Unfortunately many states do not have good standards for the training and the licensing of the people who do this kind of work-they are sometimes called electrologists. And not many doctors do it

On the other hand, a good dermatologist will eitner have a technician who is well-trained or will be able to refer you to a skilled operator. So I would start out with a dermatologist and go on from there.

DEAR DR. SOLOMON: My husband had a small lump on the side of his nose for several months, and it was ages before he got around to having the doctor check it. The doctor said it was malignant, and sent my husband to a dermatologist. It was removed by a freezing technique. I had never heard of this procedure before. Is it as good as regular surgery?--

DEAR VIOLET: The technique of using extreme cold-it is called cryosurgery-to remove skin tumors has been used for many years. But a great many dermatologists found it somewhat complicated and felt that it did not have any real advantages over other methods-such as very delicate surgery combined, very often, with an electric needle, X-ray or the use of chemicals.

There have, however, been some remarkable advances recently in determining just how much freezing is needed at various levels. Some dermatologists now feel that cryosurgery is the most effective and economical way to treat many cases of skin cancer right in their office, and that the cosmetic results are better than with other methods.

The main thing, of course, is to get to a doctor as promptly as possible, if you have any suspicious lump or sore.

Don't place theft blame school

By ROBERT WALLACE, Ed.D. Copley News Service

Dear Doctor: I left my history book in my school locker over the weekend because I didn't need it. When I returned to school the following Monday I discovered someone had stolen it.

I told my teacher about it and she said I had to pay for another book.

My parents and I don't think it's fair because the book was stolen, and out of a school locker at that. I have refused to pay for another book on the grounds that the school gave me a locker and should have provided adequate protection to insure that things won't get ripped off. Don't you agree? - Ripped Off, Spokane, Wash.

Dear Ripped Off: I do not agree with your thinking. The school provided a locker out of courtesy. If you leave articles and books in the locker overnight, that's your business and also your responsibility.

Your father's automobile contains a locked trunk. If something is stolen from the trunk, it is not the responsibility of the manufacturer. The same holds true for your locker.

You are the real loser if you don't have a text for history. Pay for the book, and by chance if it shows up the school will probably refund your money:

Dear Doctor: Three years ago my mother left home and we have never heard from her. Being the oldest child (14 at the time), I became the woman of the house. I cooked, did the washing and cleaning, and looked after my father and my two younger brothers. I didn't mind this responsibility because I loved my family and I wanted it to remain intact. A month ago daddy remarried and my stepmother moved into our home. I thought she was going to assume the responsibility as the woman of the house, but she hasn't. I still do the cooking, washing, cleaning, though my brothers are older, take care of them. I even cook and wash for her.

I'm almost 18, but I think I'll leave the house even though I don't want to. Please tell me what to do. -Old At Seventeen, San Rafael, Calif.

Dear Seventeen: Have a private talk with your dad and express your feelings to him. You still should help, but not carry the entire work load. You've done your share to keep the family

If he loves you, he will obey your wishes. If he wants to date other girls, let him go. It's better you find out now than later

Speaker more than 'pro activist'

By LARRY KRAMER The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - The speaker from the floor at the Mead Corp. annual meeting last week wasn't the usual professional activist. He was a former officer and director of the corporation, and he was angry Arthur Harris had come all the way from Paris to tell the present board of directors what he thought of them. After he did, then they were angry, too.

Doing his best not to ing gadfly, the 67-yearold Harris first read a detailed his dissatisfaction with Mead Corp. performance.

He had done his homework. Reading from a chart showing financial figures of 12 leading paper companies, he methodically showed that Mead was paying out the smallest percentage of earnings to the stockholders (27 percent) of the 12. He also determined that, over the past couple of years, Mead officers and directors had been paid an average of $4.5 million a year in various forms of remuneration, a figure he said was about 21 percent of the amount paid for dividends to all

To make matters worse, stock option plans available to officers in 1978 could increase that percentage to about onefourth of the dividend payout, he said.

Competition need told

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - Railroads must be able to get longer contracts if they're to compete with proposed slurry pipelines for transportation of Western coal, a federal energy official said Thursday.

Interstate Commerce Commission rules now prevent railroads from entering long-term contracts, said Jack Daly, director of program planning and analysis for the U.S. Department of Energy

Daly, who spoke at the Ozarks Regional Commission Coal-Rail Conference, said the ICC limitations would put railroads at a disadvantage if coal slurry pipelines are approved.

The pipelines, he said, would be able to enter long-term contracts for hauling coal slurry - that is, coal that is pulverized, mixed with water and sent through pipelines like oil or gas. Daly noted that many issues remain to be settled before proposed slurry pipelines are built from the western coal fields to Arkansas or Louisiana. Those issues, he said, include guarantees of adequate water supply, physical problems of separating different grades of coal that move through the line, and acquisition of right-of-way.

There has been talk about building a pipeline to transport coal gas from the West to the South, to keep utilities and industries from having to spend billions to replace existing natural gas boilers, but Daly said he didn't know whether that would be feasible.

The Ozarks Regional Commission meeting ends Friday.

John B. Carter Jrl, George H. Jewell and Kenneth R. Joynt, all of Houston. Pogo Producing, originated as an offshore exploration and production company, ha added onshore operations to its exploration program. "We feel it is very unusual for a concern operating from the start as an offshore company to move to onshore exploration" Gibson said. "We have initiated our onshore program with a project in Louisiana. Gibson said that Pogo has been accumulating acreage in the Permian Basin area and plans are to start test to be at a site in New Mexico. 'We have made no definite plans, but Pogo is looking to Midland as the location for a new office," Gibson

Joynt, who is senior vice president for exploration, said we plan, in the future, to take part in the operation of approximately 30 projects in the West Texas-Southeast New Mexico area annually, and our plans are to operate as operator for about four projects a

ATLANTIC City. N.J. (AP) - The exploratory oil drilling operation in the Atlantic Ocean off New Jersey already has found "very promising" rock formations, a drillng expert said

Although Vernon Goodwin, the drilling foreman for Continental Oil Co., stressed that no oil had been found yet, he said the drilling operation has encountered a sandy rock formation that often sits on top of oil reserves.

"It's very promising," Goodwin said. "There's a lot of sand out there and that's a great bucket for holding

Goodwin's statement was the first public assessment of progress in thesearch for oil or gas in the Baltimore

Several oil companies have been drilling for about a month in an area about 60 miles east of Atlantic City.

Experts have estimated that as much as 1.4 billion barrels of oil and 9.4 trillion cubic feet of gas may be located in the Canyon, which begins south of Long Island and extends off New Jersey to Delaware and Maryland. But similar estimates have been made for other off-shore areas where subsequent drilling failed to find significant quantities of fuel.

Goodwin said Continental's well. which is targeted for 12,000 feet, is about one-third complete and should be finished about 42 days from now:

Continental officials estimate that the drilling is costing about $60,000 a day. If the first hole is completely drilled within the scheduled 60 days, the cost will be about $3.6 million.

TULSA, Okla. (AP) - Members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union will seek a double-digit wage increase and try to recapture losses to taxes and increased social security payments in contract talks this month, a labor counselor pre-

Robert R. Reichenbach of New York, vice president of Organization Resources Counselors Inc., told the National Petroleum Refiners Association on Thursday that the health of the national economy and, particularly, the rate of inflation, will be considered in the new contract demands...

The association was holding its annual industrial and labor relations conference. "I'm not going to stick out my neck and say what the double-digit figure will be," Reichenbach said. "But I feel sure it will be a double-digit percentage increase for the first year and probably one just a little less than. double-digit the second year."

NEW YORK (AP) wave of buying in oil stocks provided the impetus for a rally in the stock market today.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 7.88 at 832.29, bouncing back from a 19.92-point drop over the past three sessions. Gainers outpaced losers by a 2-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Many of the big-name oil stocks jumped ahead on heavy volume today after an Associated Press story crossed financial news wires quoting a Continental Oil drilling foreman as saying early exploratory drilling in the Atlantic Ocean off New Jersey had encountered 'very promising" rock formations.

Continental later said the foreman's statements gave a misleading and premature' impression about the prospects of the drilling efforts.

After that, the oil stocks eased back a bit, but the general market remained strong

Analysts noted that investors are watching the search for oil off the New Jersey Coast extremely closely because of the key role oil plays in such economic problems as inflation and the decline of the dollar

Continental 'shares were up % at-281s. Exxon, ahead by as much as 1% at one point, showed a 36 gain at Pan American World Airways, the most activé NYSE issue, climbed 36 to 71's in trading that included a 275,000share block at 63%.

The NYSE's composite index picked up .50 to 54.10. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .76 at 139.55.

Trading was heavy Volumeon the Big Board volume totaled 18.71 million shares by noontime.

Whale almost kills trainer

RANCHO PALOS VERDES, Calif. - A pale and tired Jill Stratton was released Thursday from a hospital in nearby Torrance, still wondering why the 14,000-pound marineland killer whale she had trained for eight months almost drowned her Tues-

Miss Stratton's brush with death Tuesday began when she hopped on Orky's pectoral fin for a training session. It was the first time in "months and months" that anyone has ridden the mammal because of construction work at the Palos Verdes Peninsula facility, she said.

After a normal ride of a few minutes, Orky tumped Miss Stratton into the 23-foot deep seawate training tank and got "rambunctious."

"He dunked me'a couple of times in the water," Miss Stratton said, adding that she was able to grab breaths of air between the dunks. Then, the killer whale nudged her toward the bottom of the bank.

him above me," said Miss Stratton, who has trained animals for the past 11 years - and killer whales for "I was hoping I could hold my breath - but I

"I could feel the bottom below me and I could feel wasn't frightened," she said, noting that Orky was 'very gentle" even when holding her underwater. "I just thought I'd relax and let him do what he

"Five minutes to him is nothing," she said. "He can hold his breath for half an hour.'

When Miss Stratton floated to the top of the tank freed after a coworker jumped on the killer whale's back and distracted him - she was not breathing and her heart had stopped. But three high school students visiting the facility revived her with cardiopulmonary resuscitation, Marineland spokeswoman Madeleine Drake said.

Miss Stratton, who admitted that she and Orky would have to "play it by ear" when she returns to the tank, said she doesn't hold a grudge against the usually-playful killer whale.

"He didn't hurt me," she said. "And it's awfully hard for 14,000 pounds of killer whale to control himself that well." Meanwhile, Orky was reported moping in his tank, apparently awaiting the return of his trainer. "He was probably just as surprised as anyone that I couldn't hold my breath," Miss Stratton said.

Pet owners face dog's life

By RICHARD COHEN The Washington Post

All during the interview, Fang, the doberman pinscher, kept moaning. The dog moaned loudly -'moan, moan" - from over by the picture window where he was curled up on the floor. You would say a couple of words and this moan would come out of him and after a while it became a steady thing, like a weird wind, and you either talked around it or over it but what you did not do, if you were a guest, is walk over to a 10-year-old doberman pinscher named Fang and tell him to knock it off, "Moan,"

"I'll never forget the first time my wife met Fang," said Martin Price, Fang's master. He laughed before telling the story and so did his wife, Kathleen, who was sitting on a couch across the room from him, "She sat in a chair and wouldn't move for two hours. For two hours she sat. I was living at the Fairfax Hotel then. For two hours she didn't move.' He was laughing harder now. Kathleen Price was also laughing harder. Fang opened his mouth.

"Moan, moan," This reporter, as they say in some of the columns, stayed glued to his seat. Fang was the reason for the interview. Fang was the reason the Prices lived at Watergate at Landmark in Alexandria, Va., in the first place. It was one of the few condominiums where dogs were welcome, where there was even a designated area where dogs could be walked. But there are a lot of dogs now and a not so big area and so something called the cove-nant's committee went into a huddle and issued new regulations. The regulations are six pages long, three pages of maps, but what it comes down to is a new area for walking dogs. It is farther away than the old area and up a hill. From the terrace of Price's apartment, the hill does not look like much. There are signs on it saying, "Pet Area" but there was also a white poodle on the hill that could not read the sign and strayed out of the area. The Prices laughed at that. Price is a big man, portly, and in his wife's letter of protest to the covenant committee she describes him as an asthmatic and arthritic. At the very least he is not what you would call good shape and in his condition the hill looks big. Maybe he should get rid of his dog, but he thinks otherwise. He is tired of retreating, of apologizing for having a dog.

"I feel it's an infringement upon my rights already," he said. "I feel put upon. I feel discriminated

I know the feeling - at least I used to know the feeling. Once, years ago, someone visited me and left their dog behind. He stayed something like 10 years and toward the end, when he was an old and weak dog anyway, the pendulum swung on dogs. People stared at me for having a dog and dogs got attacked in newspapers and in the columns and before city councils all over for being dirty and dangerous which was, I admit, true some of the time.

After a while, you got the feeling that having a dog was like having a gun — socially irresponsible. It fouled the environment and it could bite people and it was just dog owners doing their thing and expecting everyone else to suffer. It was wrong to have a dog and there was nothing to say to people who asked how you could have a dog in an apartment and how having a dog was selfish—selfish. Who could argue?

So I went to see the Prices because they had the ultimate dog, the dog for which there is no excuse. Theirs is the notorious killer dog, the dog who pulls guard duty every night in the nation's department stores, who watches your friendly neighborhood liquor store after the lights go out. Smart, lean, fast, mean - enough pressure in those jaws to give you a serious hurt. This is Fang. This is their pet.

"There's a philosophical thing here," says Martin Price. "First it's dogs and then maybe cats and then children and who knows what. Maybe people who wear blue blazers and then people who wear purple blazers and people who go to a certain church or a synagogue . . ." By now I am making a face and he stops. Big leaps are being made here and even Price knows it but there is something to what he says something about how people want their world clean and orderly and without dogs and kids. Those are some people, not all people and not necessarily the same people.

Arafat seeks to halt terror

BEIRUT, Lebanon — A massive campaign aimed at "eliminating" the terrorists responsible for the attacks aginst U.N. peacekeeping forces in Tyre on Tuesday has been launched by Palestinian guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat.

authoritative sources reported Thursday. The organiation that hit the French barracks in Tyre and seriously wounded Col. Jean Salvan has been identified as the previously unheard of Popular Front for the Liberation of the South from Occupation and Fascism - a radical splinter group of Lebanese with no connection to the Palestine Liberation Organization.

The Front is said to number less than 250 Lebanese citizens who had fought with Moslem leftists and Palestinian unit during the Lebanee civil war and formed their own group after the Israeli invasion of southern Lebanon. Sources close to the PLO leadership said the action by the new group so infuriated Arafat, whose own fighters were initially and erroneously blamed for the incident, that he has launched what in effect amounts to a manhunt with the intentions of eliminating the group.

Arafat had earlier pledged to U.N. Secrtary General Kurt Waldheim that Palesinian fighting groups in south Lebanon, which number about 14,-000, would "facilitate" U.N. moves to peacefully supervise the Israeli pullback and pacify areas of southern Lebanon invaded by Israel.

The PLO chief has given orders to all Palestinian and leftist units under what he calls the joint command of guerrilla and Lebanee leftist forces in the south" to avoid provocative incidents with U.N. troops, who now number 3,992 in the newly-pacified south-

Actually the PLO and other Palestinian groups not only were not involved but moved swiftly during the battle and afterwards to calm the crisis and care for the wounded, the Los angeles Times has learned. The story begins with what at first seemed to be a minor incident on Monday when a French unit a few miles south of Tyre killed two armed men in a group of four that they said fired on them. The retaliation came Tuesday evening when a white U.N. vehicle was ambushed and one French soldier seriously injured. About 15 minutes later, as reports of the ambush were coming by radio to the French headquarters, the main headquarters itself came under heavy fire, which the French returned.

Salvan, a veteran of Algeria and Vietnam, was in his headquarters discussing the Monday shooting with the PLO liaison officer, Maj. Mohammed Tamraz.

There have probably been more jokes told about used cars and used-car salesmen than practically any other subject. But when you buy a used car, it's no joke! In fact, it's serious business!

Used cars are a very important part of our business. We maintain an excellent selection of hand-picked used cars. Then we price each one competitively. Finally, our reputation for service comes with every car at no extra cost. Here are some examples:

Smith muffles El Paso attack

EL PASO - Midland's Cubs reeled off their third straight win by beating the El Paso Diablos, 5-1, in the closeout game of the Texas League series here Thursday night before 1,344 Dudley Field fans.

Righthander Lee Smith pitched pitched a three-hitter in coming within one game of his second complete game against the Diablos. Smith evened his record at 2-2 for the sea-

There were two out and two runners on base as a result of walks in the ninth and Smith had just thrown a ball to Steve Whitehead when Manager Jim Saul brought in Tom Butler from

"He had thrown 150 pitchdes and that's too many, really," Saul said: "But he's strong so I left him in that

"EL PASO was starting to get to me and I think Saul did the right thing," Smith agreed. "My change up was working and the defense was playing great, but I was getting awfully

The lone run off Smith in the second was unearned. Scott Moffitt walked to lead off and Jay Peters reached first on first baseman Tony Pepper's error. Terry Stupy and Orlando Ramirez then walked to force in the run.

Midland scored four times in the second. A walk to Aaron Randall and a single by Kevin Drury set up Pepper's two-run double to left-center. Javier Fierro got another run in with an infield ground out and Steve Macko singled home the other run. Midland scored its final run in the fourth when Eric Grandy doubled, Kurt Seibert walked and Jimmy Buckner singled the run in.

Goode's hot bat can't stop Cougs

ABILENE-Abilene Cooper over-came the hot bat of centerfielder Ricky Goode here Thursday afternoon to down the Midland Bulldogs, 8-3, in a District 5-4A makeup baseball game at Rose Park.

The game had been rained out at the Cooper diamond on Tuesday and the grounds were still wet there so the two rivals squared off at

GOODE HAD a perfect day at the plate, going four-for-four including a double, but the Purple Pack fell behind 5-0 in the early going and just couldn't catch upin the late innings. With Goode picking up four base hits, the 210-pound senior improved his league batting average from .342 to .405 with the good display. Cooper took a 4-0 lead off Sam Driskill, who went all the way on the mound for the Pack and Midland never recovered after that.

BOBBY MIZE and Mike Mearse had the big blows during the uprising. Mize knocked in one run and Mearse two with timely base hits.

An error and two walks gave the Cougs another run in the bottom of the second inning before Mida land finally scratched. With one out in the top of the third. Joe Mowles walked and Mead singled. Goodefollowed with a double down the third base line to cut the lead to 5-1.

Cooper came right back with another run for a 6-1 lead in the bottom of the inning, but the Pack scored twice in the fifth to make it 6-3.

along with a balk by pitcher Eddie Jacques highlighted the inning for the Tall City team which is now 11-15 going into it's season finale Saturday against Robert E. Lee at the Memorial Stadium diamond. The Cougs added single runs in the fifth and sixth innings to ice the game and keep their slim hopes alive for at least a tie for the second half title now that they stand 4-2 in loop play. Midland drops to 2-4 with only Saturday's game with the Rebels left before winding up the 1978 cam-

Cooper takes a 12-8 mark into its game with Abilene High Saturday at Rose Park with hopes of both coleader Lee and Big Spring losing.

travels old trail By JOHN NADEL

Jackson

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) - Ron Jackson, who knows all about the path to stardom traveled by Steve Garvey, believes he might be on a similar trail. The hittingpoor California Angels wouldn't mind that a bit.

For the most part, Jackson has played third base since turning professional in 1971. But it appears that, like Garvey, who began with the Los Angeles Dodgers as a third baseman, Jack-son's future is at first

"When I came to spring training. I thought I would probably be a utility man," said Jackson this week. "I though maybe I'd be playing only against left handers. But I got some hits against some lefties got a chance to play against some right handers and did all right

"If I play regularly and stay healthy I'm going to hit," said the stocky Jackson, who leads the Angels in batting with a .316 average. "I think I can hit .290 or 300. I'm not surprised to be hitting over .300 right

The Angels are in des perate need of some punch, as evidenced by their .225 team batting average. Jackson has suffered along with his teammates recently, picking up only one hit in his last 14 at-bats. He has been troubled by what he calls a slightly pulled muscle in his upper

"Ron's done very well for us," said California Manager Dave Garcia. "We'll have to wait and see what happens. He has been given an opportunity to play every day which he really hasn' had before."

"One thing, he won't be able to say he wasn't given a chance," said Garcia. "If he produces, he'll stay in the lineup."

In the past, Jackson has shown some power. Although he hasn't homered in 57 at-bats this season, he says he's not concerned.

"I'm just trying to make contact," said Jackson, who turns 25 next Wednesday. "I want to hit the ball sharply. I know all about Steve Garvey and I started thinking along those

Garvey had his first opportunity with the Dodgers as a free-swinging third baseman. It didn't work out, but Garvey rose to stardom soon after as a line-drive hitting first baseman:

Jackson feels he learned a lot last winter while playing in Santo Domingo under John McNamara, the Angels' third base coach. Among his teammates were veteran Manny Mota, the Dodgers' ageless pinch,

"We talked a lot about hitting," said Jackson.

Why is Dolph Briscoe spending $1 million in a scare campaign to misrepresent John Hill's position on a state income tax?

Because he's losing. He wants to be governor for 10 years so bad he will do anything to win — even try to scare some people into believing John Hill will raise John Hill has been a responsible Attorney General. He will be a responsible Governor.

And he will not resort to a scare campaign to keep himself in office 10 years after he becomes the next governor of Texas.

> "We believe John Hill is of the mold of enlightened "new South" governors who have emerged in other states: fiscally conservative, yet committed to progress and unafraid of change. Under his governorship Texas can continue to prosper. He is no free-spending big-government advocate; nothing in his background suggests that. We have no fear that additional taxes will follow his election."

-Corpus Christi Caller Times

"Texas stands at one of the most critical junctures in its history. Such times demand dynamic leadership from the governor's mansion in Austin. John Hill offers such leadership. As Attorney General, he has shown himself to be energetic, articulate and assertive. As governor, he would be an active, accessible chief executive projecting a strong leadership image." -Fort Worth Star-Telegram

"John Hill wants to be governor, not simply hold the title. He will provide strong leadership in working with the Texas Legislature, in appointing competent people to state boards and commissions, and in insisting on fiscal responsibility."

Affirmed, with Cauthen up, among early favorites

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) - Trainer Laz Barrera describes jockey Steve Cauthen as being almost as old as the Kentucky Derby. That 3-year-old classic turns 104 on Saturday while Cauthen only recently turned 18.

"Cauthen's 100 years old," says Barrera of Cauthen, who does indeed have poise and experience beyond his tender years. Cauthen, who has been riding in New York this week, makes his Derby debut on Affirmed, the 7-5 early second choice for the 11/4-mile event, which has attracted a field of 11 3-year-olds.

Rain has fallen sporadically since Wednesday night with more showers expected today. Clearing is expected by Saturday.

Veitch said an off track wouldn't affect his colt. "I don't think it affects any of the top four," he added. Barrera, who won the Derby with Bold Forbes in 1976, said, "He's going to run. Why should I worry? My job is done.'

Palmer one behind hot-shooting Dent

By DENNE H. FREEMAN

DALLAS (AP) - Jim Dent is tired of driving for show and making no dough And Arnold Palmer, playing perhaps his best golf in over a year, quickly adds an amen.

Dent, a non-winner and one of the longest drivers on the PGA Tour, showed Thursday what can happen when he adds a putting touch to his prodigious 290-vard drives.

He made six birdie putts ranging from 10 to 100 feet and, coupled with a bogey, it gave him a 5-under-par 65 over the 6,993-yard, par-70 Preston Trail Golf Club course to take a oneshot lead in the Byron Nelson Classic.

PALMER, LASHING his irons to the flag all day, was one shot behind with a 66 that he called "about as high as I could shoot ... my best playing round in over a year.

Dent, who lost his exempt playing status and must struggle to qualify each week, said: "I stopped working on my driver and started working on my putting. Do you think Gary Player just made all two-footers in that winning string? No matter how good you play you have to be able to chip and putt.

The 36-year-old Dent, whose best finish this year was a tie for 24th, had to withdraw last week at New Orleans when his mother died. "I felt I would accomplish something just by playing," he said. "It (death in the family) is something we all have to face and something you have to get over just as soon as you DENT BIRDIED four holes in a row for a birdie three on the 393-yard," par-4 No. 12. Dent played his round in the wind and cold of the morning and wore two sweaters and rain pants to keep

"It must not have been too bad or he wouldn't have shot 65," said Palmer, who toured the course under a bright afternoon sun.

Palmer, who hasn't won a tour event since 1973, said, "I'3-putted and missed numerous short putts. I putted well but not good. I played as well as I have in quite sometime.'

Followed by a huge crowd, Palmer saw a share of the lead get away on the final hole when he rimmed a 5-footer.

"I hit all the greens," said Palmer whose longest putt was a 20-footer for a birdie on the 470-yard, par-5 10th.

Tour sophomore Barry Jaeckel, Orville Moody, and Steve Melnyk each shot 3-under-par 67 to stay close. Jaeckel played behind Palmer and spent as much time watching one of golf's legends as he did his own fine "We always had a crowd and he was playing like hell," said Jaeckel. 'It was great to watch and be in the middle of it. PLAYER, WHO won three consecutive tournaments before he tied for, fifth at New Orleans, struggled to a Melnyk, who has been mired in a deep slump, admitted, "I was spending more time on the practice tee than

I was on the putting green. From now on, my priorities will be different." Defending champion Ray Floyd was in a group of six at 68, and Tom Watson headed a group of five at 69.

Asked what improved his putting, Dent said: "Getting out on that putting green and watching those guys making $100,000 and $200,000 a year.' and it all began with a 100-foot snake

The most Dent has ever won was $48,486. He was 64th on the tour last year withM$48,411. First place in this tournament is worth $40,000.

Sonics resume Cinderella story tonight

DENVER (AP) - The Seattle SuperSonics, who started the National Basketball Association season by losing 17 of their first 22 games, meet the Denver Nuggets tonight in the opening game of a best-ofseven series for the Western Conference champion-

The winner of the series will meet the winner of the Washington-Philadelphia series for the NBA championship

FOR TWO of the Sonics, center Marvin Webster and forward Paul Silas, tonight's game will be a homecoming of sorts. Both played for the Nuggets last year before being sent to Seattle in the trade which brought guard Bobby Wilkerson to Denver.

"I didn't really want to go there, because I wanted it to be all over with Denver," said Webster Wednesday night after learning the Nuggets had beaten Milwaukee in the seventh and deciding game of their quarter-final series.

Seattle defeated defending NBA champion Portland to make it into the series.

DON'T LET ORGANIZED CRIME GET A STRANGLEHOLD ON YOU!

The gambling promoters will tell you that state control of horserace gambling will keep out organized crime. Don't you believe it!

Legalized gambling creates a climate to gamble. People who would never have even thought of betting on the horses are suddenly betting on football, basketball or baseball with illegal bookies.

Why? Because the bookies give better odds, they take bets over the phone, they'll take bets on credit and most important of all... the bookies will not report winnings to the IRS.

For every dollar bet legally at the track, three to five dollars is bet illegally with the bookies. And bookies are set-up, financed and controlled by ORGANIZED CRIME!

Injury jinx hits Bullets once again

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) - The injury jinx has struck the Washington Bullets again, jeopardizing their chances against the Philadelphia 76ers in the National Basketball Association playoffs.

Center Wes Unseld and guard Kevin Grevey are considered doubtful performers tonight when the two clubs resume their best-of-seven Eastern Conference championship series at the Capital Centre tied at one INJURIES SLOWED the Bullets throughout the regular season, but they were all apparently healthy at the end of their 4-2 victory over San Antonio in the conference semifinals. Then, they started anew.

Wes Unseld sprained his ankle near the end of regulation time in the first 76ers game - which the Bullets won 122-117 in overtime - and didn't play as Philadelphia won 110-104 Wednesday night. Both were played in Philadelphia.

GREVEY, WHO scored 26 points in the opener, managed only 8 points in game No. 2 while being limited to 18 minutes of action after a neck injury worsened. He felt something pop Tuesday following Larry Wright, Grevey's replacement, scored 22 points Wednesday. But Mitch Kupchak, who's been largely ineffective in post-season play this year, was held to six points while being somewhat manhandled by Philadelphia's Darryl Dawkins.

"He just had a bad game," Washington Coach Dick Motta said of Kupchak. "He can't give us any less, that's for sure. But I think he'll adjust better MOTTA SAID the Bullets needed "more scoring from Mitch to offset what we are missing without Wes." Washington's offense broke down in the second half of Wednesday's game, Motta said, without the picks, screens and passes of Unseld.

What they miss even more is Unseld's muscle and bulk in a series which already has drawn accusations of dirty play from both sides.

"I never complain about physical play," Motta said, "but there were a lot of cheap shots out there. I've never had that happen to my teams before."

Forward Steve Mix of the 76ers countered: "It's been a brutal series. Whoever comes out with less blood on them will win.'

Cheryl Tiegs embarks upon new career

Million dollar model Cheryl Tiegs moved closer to a new career, that of a television journalist, as co-host of a Friday night special on the Kentucky Derby. (AP Laserphoto).

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Cheryl Tiegs at the Kentucky Derby? Not as a celebrity or the Million Dollar Model, but as a network television ournalist?

Why, the cynics might ask.

Why not, Cheryl Tiegs answers. 'ABC certainly has the faith that I will be taken with credibility, and I do have the intelligence to do it, and that's why they hired me," Tiegs said in an interview Wednesday. Cheryl Tiegs is moving on these days, breaking away from a modeling career that made her face perhaps the most recognizable in the world. She recently signed a million dollar contract with ABC-TV to handle a variety of chores, including sports. But she is not, she points out, ABC's answer to Phyllis George of CBS-TV.

"I DO some sports, but I also do a segment on "Good Morning, America" once a week on health, beauty, fitness and fashion. And I will also get into acting, so I'll be getting into a little bit of everything.

Tiegs' major Derby contribution will be as co-host of a Friday night special focusing on Derby Week acti-

"I did a whole section on the fashions of the Derby, from the jockeys to the kids to the VIPs," she said. "I went to Calumet Farm and interviewed (former trainer) Jimmy Jones. It was so beautiful, so peace-

"And then last night I went and had my first mint julep, and they taped that. And I went to see some of the races. There's nothing like actually being there to hear the horses and see Churchill Downs.'

THE KEY to Tiegs' success with network television will depend in large part on her ability to transfer to the screen those qualities that made her a leading model.

"A lot of modeling has to do with your personality," she said. "A lot of girls are beautiful, but they never make it because there's no personality there. In modeling, you project your personality quite a bit. And that's what I'll be doing with ABC, covering something but also projecting my own personality.

"I loved modeling. I did it for a long time, and I did it well. In many ways, I was sorry to leave it but it is time to move on.

Henry White, a standout all-purpose back with the Red Raiders, signed with the Baltimore Colts, who Colgate Coach Fred Dunlap said were particularly interested in White's kick return capabilities. White, from Lincoln, Del., averaged 37.3 yards a return last season with Colgate.

Pat Healy, who holds the Colgate career rushing mark of 2,910 yards, signed with the Green Bay Packers. Healy is a native of Springfield, Mass. Neither running back was picked in the recent NFL draft.

Scattered pins speak for Ray

BY RANDY ISENBERG

L Ray Sutton has been blazing hot on the lanes the last two weeks, averaging over an 18-game stretch a sizzling 225.

Some of his last few series, by the way, rolled in succession include totals of 611, 696, 632, 720, 708, 620 and 665. Going into the current week, his average in the Oil Star League was 189, and in the Petroleum American League 184:

L. Ray's scoring included a 280game and 696 series plus a 299 game.

THE STATISTICS speak for themselves, and this softspoken man from the Sooner state doesn't have to say anything about his bowling. Sutton says that he did not start bowling until he was 30 years old. However, the sport is no stranger to this Atlantic Richfield employee whose whole family bowls. They are bowling instructors and avid followers and participants of the game in Duncan, Okla.

L Ray moved to Hobbs, N.M., in 1959 as assistant manager for an insurance company. In 1963, he joined Atlantic Richfield in Hobbs and started bowling with a group of guys he worked with. The first season he bowled, he averaged 165.

L Ray attributes his current success on the lanes to a change in the way he delivers the ball. "I used to hold my hand under the ball and then turn from underneath. After experimenting, I found that by starting with the thumb in the 11 o'clock position, I could get more roll on the ball and since then it has been working well for

"When I was lifting from underneath, I found myself turning the ball and this affected the accuracy of each delivery. Since changing to the new hand position, it has increased my accuracy and enabled me to get the proper speed, and revolutions on the ball on each delivery."

L RAY also stated that "mentally and physically a person's attitude will have a great effect on how well a person bowls. And I have really felt great in both physical and mental capacities, confident that everytime I roll the ball I will release it properly. This plays a big part of a person's ability to do anything well."

L Ray has had the finest three weeks of bowling that anyone has ever had in Midland. His 299 bowled last Wednesday will probably be the highest game bowled among bowlers in Midland leagues this season during the August to June period.

However, L. Ray feels that he can roll the perfecto. He has come very close the past few weeks, being short one strike each time. The challenge is there, and he is going after it.

MONTREAL (AP) — Bob Gainey did not have one of his better nights for the Montreal Canadiens as they battled the Toronto Maple Leafs in the second game of the National Hockey League best-of-seven semifinal series.

"I gave the puck to their defenseman (Trevor Johansen) for their first goal and I was in the penalty box for their second goal," Gainey said, describing a rather upsetting night. Happily for him, however, the Canadiens defeated the spunky Leafs 3-2 to take a 2-0 lead in the series.

GUY LAFLEUR had two goals and an assist on Larry Robinson's firstperiod score to lead Montreal to the victory, while Ian Turnbull and Dan Maloney replied for Toronto.

The Leafs made Thursday night's game much closer than the 5-3 loss in the opener Tuesday, and Gainey felt the one-goal margin was indicative of the way the teams battled.

"Tonight they were good enough to come to within one goal of us," he said. "Tonight I thought we played a pretty good game and they were right

THERE WAS little doubt the Leafs played much better and there was a good reason for it.

"We were a little ashamed of the way we played in the opener," said Toronto captain Darryl Sittler. "Our effort in the first game was a very poor effort. I don't know what it was. 'We wanted to come out and redeem ourselves the best we could. We didn't get any breaks. We can beat them going back into our own build-

The Canadiens led 2-0 after the first period as Robinson, who dressed despite a sore shoulder, scored on a power play at 4:01 and Lafleur got his fourth goal of the playoffs a bit more than two minutes later.

But Turnbull cut Montreal's lead to 2-1 at 5:47 of the second after Gainey gave the puck to Johansen at the Montreal blue line and the Toronto defenseman fed Sittler to the right of Dryden. Dryden went down and Sittler slipped the puck to Turnbull, who shoved it in.

GAINEY WAS caught for hooking a minute later by referee Bryan Lewis and while he was off, Maloney backhanded a shot under Dryden's right pad for his first playoff goal as a member of the Maple Leafs.

With 4:32 left in the second, the Leafs' George Ferguson was called for hooking, and while he was off, Lafleur beat goalie Mike Palmateer with a shot from the left wing to complete the night's scoring.

"We've got to keep La.leur off the scoresheet," said Sittler. "But he's hard to stop.'

The feeling in the Leafs room was not one of doom, but optimism. They came back from a 2-0 deficit to defeat New York Islanders in a seven-game quarter-final series and see no reason why they won't be able to do the same against Montreal.

"It seems in the playoffs, it is a homer series," said Turnbull. "If a team can pull out a win in the foreign rink, they have a chance of winning the series

"We almost did that tonight," added Sittler

The series resumes Saturday at Maple Leaf Gardens, with the fourth game set for Toronto next Tuesday.

Steelers take chance on runt

PITTSBURGH (AP) - . Curlyhaired Randy Reutershan looked like the runt of the litter in this year's National Football League Draft, but the Pittsburgh Steelers are big on his spunk and speed. "He's such a great kid," Steeler assistant coach George Perles said of the 5-foot-10, 188-pounder from Pitts-"I saw him in one game last year.

He busted his helmet on a play and he just came off the field laughing."

'To be honest, I'm just a little surprised I went this early. I wasn't paying much attention to the draft because I didn't want to get disappointed.

A part-time starter, Reutershan finished as Pitt's third leading receiver in 1977 with 16 catches for 331 yards and two touchdowns. Hardly the kind of statistics that dazzle pro scouts.

One impressive statistic Reutershan collected a few months ago. however, was a 4.4 time in the 40-yard dash at a Philadelphia Eagles camp. "WHEN I ran a 4.4, then they started opening their eyes and ears," he said. "After that, the word spread

The Steelers said they've had their eye on Reutershan all along, but probably would have asked him to come to training camp as a free agent. That was before the Eagles test.

For three seasons, director of player personnel Dick Haley watched in the press box at Pitt Stadium as Reutershan raced down field with the Panthers special teams, hitting runners with abandon.

"I wondered who that No. 19 was," Haley said. "He was always making the tackles.

When word got out that No. 19 was a speedster, the Steelers decided to draft him.

"In the beginning, the scouts came to look at the other guys, but they got around to me later," said Reuter-shan, who played on Pitt's 1976 national championship team. "It's really helped my confidence to be drafted because you need that going into a pro camp," Reutershan said. "I'd say they're taking a chance, and I'm just glad to be getting a chance."

German resourcefulness emerges in race

In the period between world wars when the rest of the world wisely perceived it would have to look up all the knives, hide the pitchforks, and even count the silverware whenever Germany came around, lest it fly at the world's throat even with homemade weapons — the Germans were forbidden to have an army, navy or air force. Even the horses were counted to make sure they weren't pulling cannon or carrying guys with

The Germans, however, were pretty resourceful under these restrictions. "Baby carriage" factories were turning out 88-mm. baby carriages. "Shovels" had bayonets on them and "canoes" had periscopes.

The air force was even more ingenious. Germany trained thousands of highly-skilled pilots by turning sail-planing into a sport. Forbidden by treaty to have powered aircraft, a whole generation of Red Barons learned to fly the way a condor does, using the power of nature, not petrol. They astounded the world. They flew hundreds of miles using only the oc-casional hot winds that blew up out of the sands of Africa and over the Ba-

THEY SAY an inspector once came around to check the activities. "Oh," he was told, "we are only sportsmen. We are only practicing the arts of distance in altitude soaring." And what did you practice yesterday?" "Yesterday, we practiced takeoffs."
"And what today?" "Today, we practice landings." "And tomorrow?" "Tomorrow? Tomorrow, we practice bombing London." In other words, tomorrow, the world.

The German LUftwaffe was thus born on the wings of silence. But it was soon shrieking loud enough over the capitals of Europe, terrorizing a

By 1944, it had largely fallen silent again. Its power plants were piles of rubble. The allies had swept it out of the air like swatted flies.

But Hitler had done what all the treaties and the diplomats in the disarmament sessions had failed to do. He had bled Germany white, ruined its will and capacity to ever make war.

BUT, IN their extremity, the Nazis had gone back to the drawing boards. They had drafted baby-faced kids, 12 to 14 years old, to go back up in gliders and learn to soar. This time, it was not given the guise of sport. The good ones were expected to graduate into one-mission wooden rocket ships which would get up above the Allied air armadas and smash through them, felling as many bombers as they could. It was like trying to bring down Flying Fortresses with a kite. You had a better chance diving out of a 14th-floor window. The Nazis called their suicide ships, "Hawks," but the flyers had a more cynical title for these aeronautical jokes., They called them "Pigeons."

One of these baby-faced eaglets Hitler plucked from grade school for his paracraft was Rudy Mozer who was, as it happens, an American citizen. Rudy had been born in New York in the Depression (1929) and his father, disillusioned, had moved the family back to Stuttgart. He exchanged breadlines for cannon fod-

Fortunately for Rudolf Mozer, American armor overran the "Alpine Redoubt" before he got to fly his orange crate against the massed firepower of the B-29s.

THE STORY has a happy ending. The 14-year-old flyer survived the war and, shortly after, Rudy moved back to America where he now operates a tool plant near Detroit. Now 48, he is back in his sailplane again, and, this week, will be one of five contestants to take off in the Smirnoff Sailplane Derby, L.A. to Washington, D.C., longest in the world. One of the other contestants will be Rudy's 23year old son, Herb, the U.S. stan dard-class soaring champion and member of the U.S. World Team.

Rudy will really be soaring for sport this time and not for the 8th Air Force. Soaring is an exhilarating science-sport, especially in the West where the thermal currents frequently spiral the fiberglass silver-winged creatures 40,000 feet and higher and where the Sierra Wave can deposit you in Texas. The East is less felicitous as foliage and the chlorophyll process lessen the chances of riding a current of superheated air across two states - although Rudy Mozer once set a record, Adrian, Mich., to Baltimore, in seven hours.

For Rudy this will be better than rehearsing for a cockpit in one of Hitler's hellships or the controls of a cargo glider hauling SS troops across the steppes of Russia. It will also be a welcome change from those soaring sessions at Hornberg in 1944 when mysterious jackbooted, monocled, black-uniformed officers, would sidle up speculatively to the side of these boys in the gliders and inquire_wistfully if there was any way that they could fly to Argentina?

Rod's Trojans may be best yet

By TOM HARRIGAN

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Rod Dedeaux's "hobby" is coaching the ultimate amateur baseball team.

As coach at Southern California since 1942, his teams have accumulated nearly 1,100 victories and 10 national collegiate championships. His players who have become major. league stars include Tom Seaver, Fred Lynn, Dave Kingman and Ron

And the current crop of Trojans may be one of the finest ever. Twothirds of the way through Pacific-8 Conference games with a 10-2 record, the 1978 team has an overall 37-7 record, usually playing the best collegiate opposition available.

It's likely the Trojans will earn a spot in the National Collegiate Athletic Association championships and be the favorites for another title in the College World Series.

"THIS IS the first time in many years we haven't been hurt by the winter major league baseball draft," Dedeaux says.

Dedeaux, 63, is far and away the most successful college baseball coach. He also may be the lowest paid. He won't say what his token salary is but has long joked: "I'm the only person on the staff who can cash his paycheck on a Vermont Avenue

"I have friends whose hobby is racing horses, but I doubt they ever have as much fun as I do," says Dedeaux, also president of a successful trucking firm with nationwide op-

Dedeaux is highly praised by his

"HE IS very strong on fundamentals, plus the fact he has the talent to work with," says Fairly, now with the California Angels in his 21st major league season.

Fairly says USC has a tradition of confidence, with winning teams and national championship teams in many sports, and "Rod is the kind of guy who breeds that attitude."

Dedeaux's influence also spans the Pacific. He originated the annual U.S.-Japan college baseball series, now in its sixth year.

A star of last year's Japanese all stars, pitcher Sugura "Shug" Egawa, rejected a reported 200 million yen ($909,000) offer as Japanese major league's top draft choice to come to the United States. He is training under Dedeaux for seven months this handed junior Brian Hayes, is 8-2 this. year and 21-8 for three seasons. 'Playing here I have the opportunity for a good education," says Hayes, "plus Dedeaux is No.1 and probably always will be.

"We try to take the real slow approach in development of our pitchers," Dedeaux says, "If anything we are over-cautious. Pitchers at this age are injury prone. Their muscles aren't as hardened as they will be."

Dedeaux played for USC himself, during 1933-35, and signed a pro contract offered by the late Casey Stengel, who had a great influence on Dedeaux's coaching methods.

WHILE PLAYING for Dayton of the Mid-Atlantic League, Dedeaux cracked a vertebra while swinging a bat on a cold day in 1936. It ended his playing career.

His association with Stengel had begun earlier, in Los Angeles.

When I played for Hollywood High, Casey used to come to Griffith Park on fall and winter afternoons. I was part of a bunch of young players who would sit around him and listen. It was like students sitting around Aristotle."

After retiring from managing the New York Yankees and Mets, Stengel

IN RECENT years Dedeaux has had a close association with Los Angeles Dodgers Manager Tom Lasor-"We call him the vice president of the Trojans. We talk strategy and techniques. Both of us are interested in getting a high-class type of boy, with ability.

"In college or in pro baseball, a player's school grades are an indication of ability to stick to something," Dedeaux says.

Roy Smalley, shortstop of the Minnesota Twins, says Dedeaux is "absolutely relentless on doing things correctly. When I got into games, big games, there was no pressure because he had kept the pressure on in small games. Smalley said he had learned the fundamentals from his father, a former Chicago Cubs shortstop. "But you aren't going to improve unless someone keeps exerting pressure to improve. That's what Rod does.'

Former players respect Dedeaux's ability to get the best out of them. Virtually all retain close ties with Southern Cal.

"Every year we have an alumni game and every guy shows up," Fairly says. "Arizona State may be the only other school that can field an entire major league team in an alum-

A State Income Tax. A Hangman's Noose For Texas.

If you think taxes are choking you now, consider the possibility of a State income tax. It would be a noose around your neck. Around the neck of every Texan. And around the future of Texas.

A vote for John Hill is a vote for:

· bigger government. · more government spending. · more inflation.

AND FOR A STATE INCOME TAX.

A vote for Dolph Briscoe is a vote for:

fiscal responsibility

less — not more — government.

· We don't need New York-style govern ment in Texas.

· We don't need Washington-style bureaucracy in Texas.

LET'S KEEP DOLPH BRISCOE

· And we don't need a big spending liberal activist as Governor of Texas. AS OUR GOVERNOR.

"We are already footing the bill for run-away government in Washington. As Texans we should not have to foot the bill for run-away government in Austin.

"I don't think Texas should spend itself into a state income tax. That is exactly what will happen if Mr. Hill fulfills only some of his political promises."
