

Nuclear protesters claim small victory

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Anti-nuclear weapon demonstrators who scaled the fence at the Trident submarine base at Bangor for two straight days are claiming a small victory — a clogged court system.

The coalition of groups participating in the demonstrations Monday and Tuesday wants to draw attention to its opposition to nuclear weapons and to a U.N. special session this week on disarmament.

A lawyer for the protesters, Kirk Jones of Seattle, said 108 of the people arrested Tuesday went before U.S. Magistrate Robert Cooper in Tacoma and 157 went before U.S. Magistrate John L. Weinberg in Seattle.

However, a lack of secretarial staff in Tacoma prevented that group from being arraigned, Jones said. They will have to appear for arraignment Thursday before a Seattle magistrate.

All those arrested Tuesday were released on personal recognizance. Jones said the charges involved either simple trespass or re-entry, for those who were issued letters barring them from the base after their arrests Monday.

U.S. marshals said 292 people were arrested at the base Monday. All but five were freed without being charged, although they were given letters barring them from the Navy base.

The demonstrators used ladders and pieces of carpet to climb over a 6-foot barbed wire fence at the 7,200-acre base, which is being built on the Kitsap Peninsula at a cost of $640 million. Construction began in 1974 and the first of the new generation missile-firing Tridents is expected in the spring of 1981.

The 500-foot-long Tridents, which are being built in Connecticut, are the biggest submarines in the world. Each will be armed initially with 24 missiles with a range of 4,000 miles. The range will later be increased to 6,000 miles.

Peruvian workers urged to return to their jobs

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Labor unions urged workers back to their jobs today after a 48-hour general strike that shut down Peru's largest cities and left eight persons dead.

Scores more were wounded by gunfire, flying glass, rocks and tear gas and hundreds of others were arrested in disorders that erupted in 28 cities.

Some observers feared the protests against government-decreed price hikes might be sparked again in the near future, but most Peruvians appeared ready to restore calm.

On Tuesday, rock-throwing and highway-blocking incidents erupted in industrial and slum zones in Lima. Authorities also said power lines in the northern cities of Chiclayo and Chiclayo were sabotaged.

Hundreds of protesters were routed by police teargas when they tried to march from the big Lima slum of Villa el Salvador to neighboring areas.

The military government of Gen. Francisco Morales Bermudez clamped curfews on Lima and Huancavelica, 125 miles to the east, and warned violators would be shot. Convoys of armored personnel carriers rumbled through Lima's streets with machine guns mounted for action. Others circled Lima's slums and industrial areas.

Arequipa, 450 miles to the south, was paralyzed for the eighth straight day by an "indefinite"

Motorcycle accident kills youth

ODESSA — An 18-year-old Odessa man died Tuesday night from injuries received in a motorcycle accident, according to the Department of Public Safety.

Darrell Lee King was riding his motorcycle about 5:35 p.m. Tuesday in a caliche pit on West 20th Street when the vehicle slipped and fell back on to King, according to Trooper Gary Adams of Odessa who investigated the accident.

He died at 7:20 p.m. Tuesday in Medical Center Hospital, according to the DPS.

Texas geologist top gold bidder

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Except for some jewelry and a tooth filling or two, Morris Cannan has never owned any gold. But when he decided to buy some, he didn't fool around.

He has apparently bought 50 pounds for $145,800.

Cannan, a San Antonio geologist who usually confines his prospecting to oil and natural gas, was the high bidder Tuesday in the first government gold sale in three years. He was surprised and not especially overjoyed at the news.

"I hate to hear it," Cannan said at his office here. "I didn't know enough about it I guess, because the West Germans and the Swiss bid lower than I did. It looks like my evaluation was poor." "I never had owned any gold before," said Cannan. "I didn't know that individuals could bid in this sale. I had been curious and inquired around."

He bid $182.35 per ounce for 800 ounces and was the high bidder in the Washington auction. He was the lone individual to submit a bid, with the remainder of the 300,000 ounces auctioned Tuesday apparently going to various West German and Swiss banks for more than $180 per ounce.

The awards will not be officially announced until Thursday. What will Cannan do with two 25-pound bars of gold? "I guess I'll put it in a bank box or something. I don't really know," said

Cannan, who first learned about his apparent purchase from reporters. "I'll use it as an investment. I'll probably dream up something."

The geologist said experts had told him the gold was more pure than most available to buyers. Cannan said he hoped that would justify the higher price.

Only 59 bidders applied to buy the gold in Tuesday's auction, compared to 700 at the last auction.

The minimum bid was for 400 ounces.

Government officials said the gold will be transferred from a Treasury vault to any location the buyer pleases. After the last auction, one buyer carried a gold bar with him in his briefcase, government officials said.

The highest commercial bid was by a Swiss bank, which bid $181.26 per ounce for 800 ounces.

Gunbattle stops daring schoolbus hijacking

MUNICH, West Germany (AP) — Czechoslovak border guards shot three gunmen who hijacked a school bus carrying 45 children and attempted to force it across the border into West Germany, officials said today.

Guards surrounded the bus and an armored car blocked its path, the spokesman said. A first ultimatum expired without either side taking action.

Zaire refugees face returning hardships of starvation, epidemics

KINSHASA, Zaire (AP) — Refugees returning to Kolwezi face starvation and epidemics, the commander of French forces in Shaba Province says, while rebels were reported retreating through Zambia carrying off "many European hostages" and loot.

that the Belgian paratroopers, who also jumped into Kolwezi to aid in the evacuation of an estimated 2,500 foreigners, pulled out before all of the bodies had been buried.

Pallotine Fathers hike donations sent abroad

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Pallotine Fathers have steadily increased the amount of donations sent to overseas missions since an audit revealed only a small percentage of the funds ever reached needy persons.

When police arrived outside the office, a block from the Kremlin, the gunman fired several rounds from his double-barreled shotgun through a plate-glass window. Police said nobody was hurt.

His wife is an English teacher at San Jacinto Junior High School. The Bells wound up with two children, Nicarrh "Nic" Bell, a draftsman in Midland, and Ida McCoy, a schoolteacher in Odessa, and are grandparents three times over.

MCAA allocates $7,250 for relief

About $7,250 of an allotted $8,000 has been spent by the Midland Community Action Agency as relief funds for area families, said MCAA executive director Alexandra Morris on Tuesday.

Through the clouds of gas, a slim, dark-haired man of about 30 emerged with his hands up. Another shot rang out and he slumped forward slightly, but it was not clear whether he had been hit.

Maybe more rain — maybe not

If the weatherman's prediction is correct, Midland could get some more rain tonight. The National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport said there is a chance for thunderstorms tonight, possibly severe.

Carter against tax credits for college tuition

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration insists that Congress will be making a mistake if it moves to provide tax credits for college tuition instead of expanding existing federal scholarship and loan programs.

"Tuition tax credits would be a wholly inappropriate approach to assisting students and families in meeting educational costs," Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal and HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. said Tuesday in a joint letter to all 435 members of the House.

"They would impose an inflationary and uncontrollable drain on the treasury, yet fail to provide real relief to families feeling the strains of rising educational costs," they said.

The House was to begin work today on a tax credit bill, but other business may prompt the lawmakers to postpone action until they return next Wednesday from a long Memorial Day weekend.

The bill approved by the House Ways and Means Committee would allow taxpayers to deduct 25 percent of tuition costs at colleges and post-secondary vocational schools after Aug. 1, but only up to a maximum of $100 per student. The maximum credit would rise to $150 next year and $250 in 1980.

The House Rules Committee previously agreed that only three amendments could be offered on the floor. One would provide elementary and secondary school tuition credits of $50 this year and $100 in the next two years.

A second amendment would raise the credit from 25 percent to 50 percent of tuition, but leave the dollar amounts the same. The third amendment would substitute for the tax credits a plan to defer taxes on the amount paid for college tuition until after a student graduates.

Similar legislation has cleared the Senate Finance Committee, which approved an eventual $500 tuition tax credit, not only for college but for elementary and secondary schools which charge tuition.

Blumenthal and Califano, reiterating the administration's arguments against tax credits in any form, attacked them as "both bad education policy and bad tax policy."

They said as much as 60 percent of the benefits would go to families with incomes of more than $20,000 a year, and 20 percent to 30 percent would go to families making more than $30,000.

Royal divorce shrouds crown in cloudy gloom

LONDON (AP) — Princess Margaret and Lord Snowdon, married in the pomp and circumstance of a Westminster Abbey ceremony 18 years ago, were divorced in cloud and gloom today in a misty courtroom in London's gothic-style Law Courts.

The whole case lasted less than 20 minutes and was only one of a batch of 27, which also included an office cleaner and a former guardsman.

The divorce between the 47-year-old Princess and her photographer husband, the former Antony Armstrong-Jones, 48, was a mere formality and neither was required to appear in court.

Under updated divorce laws brought in seven years ago, divorce is automatic if both parties have been parted for two years and both agree the marriage has "irretrievably broken down."

The divorce did not even require to be rubber-stamped by one of the Queen's top judges.

The decree was granted by Judge John Willis, a circuit judge who normally sits in lower civil courts and who is empowered to act as a divorce judge in non-controversial cases.

Willis, 71, arrived at his court promptly at 10:30 a.m.—and by 10:32 a.m. it was all over and the judge continued with his other routine court business.

Only a handful of spectators, outnumbered by journalists, were in court to hear the decree nisi handed down.

A decree nisi is the first step in Britain's two-tier divorce system. It means the decree is granted—unless something turns up to overturn it. After six weeks the decree is automatically made "absolute" and both partners are then free to re-marry.

The princess announced May 10 that she would divorce Lord Snowdon.

Although brewery heir Roddy Llewellyn, 30, has been Margaret's constant companion since she and Snowdon separated in March 1976, a household spokesman said at the time of the announcement that Margaret does not plan to re-marry.

The royal divorce was listed 20th in the batch of 27 as "H.R.H. (Her Royal Highness) the Princess Margaret Rose, countess of Snowdon v. Armstrong-Jones A.C.R., Earl of Snowdon."

As soon as the judge took his seat on the bench his assistant read out the names on the list.

The judge then said: "Is there any party or any person present to show cause why a decree should not be pronounced?"

There was no reply, and the judge asked whether there was "anybody to say anything on costs."

Again there was no reply, and the judge announced:

"Very well. I pronounce decrees nisi in accordance with the respective registrars' certificates."

There was silence in court and immediately the judge began talking about the next cases in his list. One, in private, related to an agreement about the future of the two royal children.

In divorce cases, no details are ever announced about provisions for any children. In this case, there is little doubt that both the princess and Snowdon have already amicably agreed about financial provisions and access to their two children, Viscount Linley, 16, and Lady Sarah Armstrong-Jones, 14.

Midlander graduates from Duke with honors

DURHAM, N.C. — Jeffrey Alan Kozak, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Kozak of 3205 Apperson Drive in Midland, recently was graduated cum laude with a bachelor of science degree in bio-medical and electrical engineering during Duke University's 126th graduation exercises.

Kozak has been accepted into the Baylor College of Medicine, Texas Medical Center, in Houston and will begin his studies there in June. While at Duke, he has been named to the School of Engineering Dean's List in his freshman and sophomore years and was awarded class honors as a junior and senior. He served as president of the Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity.

Kozak is a 1974 honor graduate of Midland Lee High School and Trinity School of Midland.

Water commission denies request of environmentalists

AUSTIN — The Texas Water Commission Tuesday denied a motion by the Lake Travis Improvement Association seeking to interview a member of the Texas Department of Water Resources staff on his impressions of an environmental report filed in connection with the pending application to construct Stacy Reservoir.

The sponsor of the Stacy project, the Colorado River Municipal Water District, is proposing to build the reservoir on that portion of the Colorado River which passes through Coleman, Runnels and Concho counties.

The Lake Travis group is opposing the project, maintaining its construction would adversely impact on downstream reservoirs such as Lake Travis.

Attorney for the Lake Travis association, Thomas Goerge, told the commission that during his review of DWR records, he came across a memo which indicates that Dr. Al D'Arezzo of the DWR planning staff had been asked to look over the environmental assessment submitted by the water district's engineers.

That memo, Goerge indicated, asked D'Arezzo to consider the socio-economic impact of the reservoir.

"It is important to the association and the commission to know what the highly-paid experts of the Department of Water Resources have to say about these documents," Goerge argued.

Tim Brown, attorney for the DWR staff, asked the commission to overrule Goerge's motion, saying D'Arezzo has not read nor commented on the Stacy report "in the official scope of his duties."

"I noticed that you qualified that," TWC chairman Joe Carter said.

"The man is a voracious reader," said Brown, adding that what D'Arezzo may have read on his own time is not subject to deposition by the Lake Travis Group.

Carter plans one-day Chicago stopover

CHICAGO (AP) — President Carter will stay overnight Thursday at the white, stucco home of the Rev. James and Mary Wall, where he began his Illinois presidential primary run three years ago.

"We are preparing the house just as we would for any very special house guest. But we don't usually have anyone this special," said Wall, editor of Christian Century magazine and chairman of Carter's primary and general election campaigns in Illinois.

Carter's visit at the two-story, suburban Elmhurst home will be his only private time during a political stopover intended to raise money and soothe the feelings of some Democrats who say he has ignored them.

He is to speak Thursday afternoon at a Chicago reception for Democratic Senate candidate Alex Seith, who is opposing Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., and be the main attraction at a $100-a-plate dinner for some 7,000 Cook County Democrats that evening.

Friday morning, the president will fly to Springfield for a joint session of the Illinois Legislature, followed by a reception for Democratic gubernatorial candidate Michael Bakalis. Bakalis' opponent Gov. James R. Thompson, is to greet Carter at the airport.

Wall, a Methodist minister, said his wife will cook breakfast for the president at their 60-year-old home.

"I think he has to be in Springfield for the state Legislature at 9 a.m.," Wall said. "So I think he'll be up at 6 or 6:15. That's a little earlier than I usually get up, but I'm happy to get up for this."

Mrs. Wall is one of the few Democrats on the DuPage County Board of Commissioners and was a member of the presidential commission that searched for a new FBI director.

"We're pleased that he accepted our invitation to stay with us because he's a friend," he said.

Wall, a Democratic national committeeman, was a delegate to the 1972 Democratic National Convention.

"I met him when he began his primary effort in May of '75. He had a meeting in our home with some of the (DuPage County) Democratic figures when he was investigating running.

"We were pulling together people who had worked in (Sen. George) McGovern's '72 campaign," Wall said. "He came to me and asked me to help. I was really impressed with him."

Wall said one of the couple's three sons, York High School senior Richard, 18, will be home. Another son, a student at Guilford College in Greensboro, N.C., went back to summer classes that began Monday. A third son is a paramedic in Decatur, Ga., and will be working.

Carter lost Illinois in 1976, but won Cook County by 400,000 votes and took Chicago by more than one million votes.

Gay rights law losses in Eugene

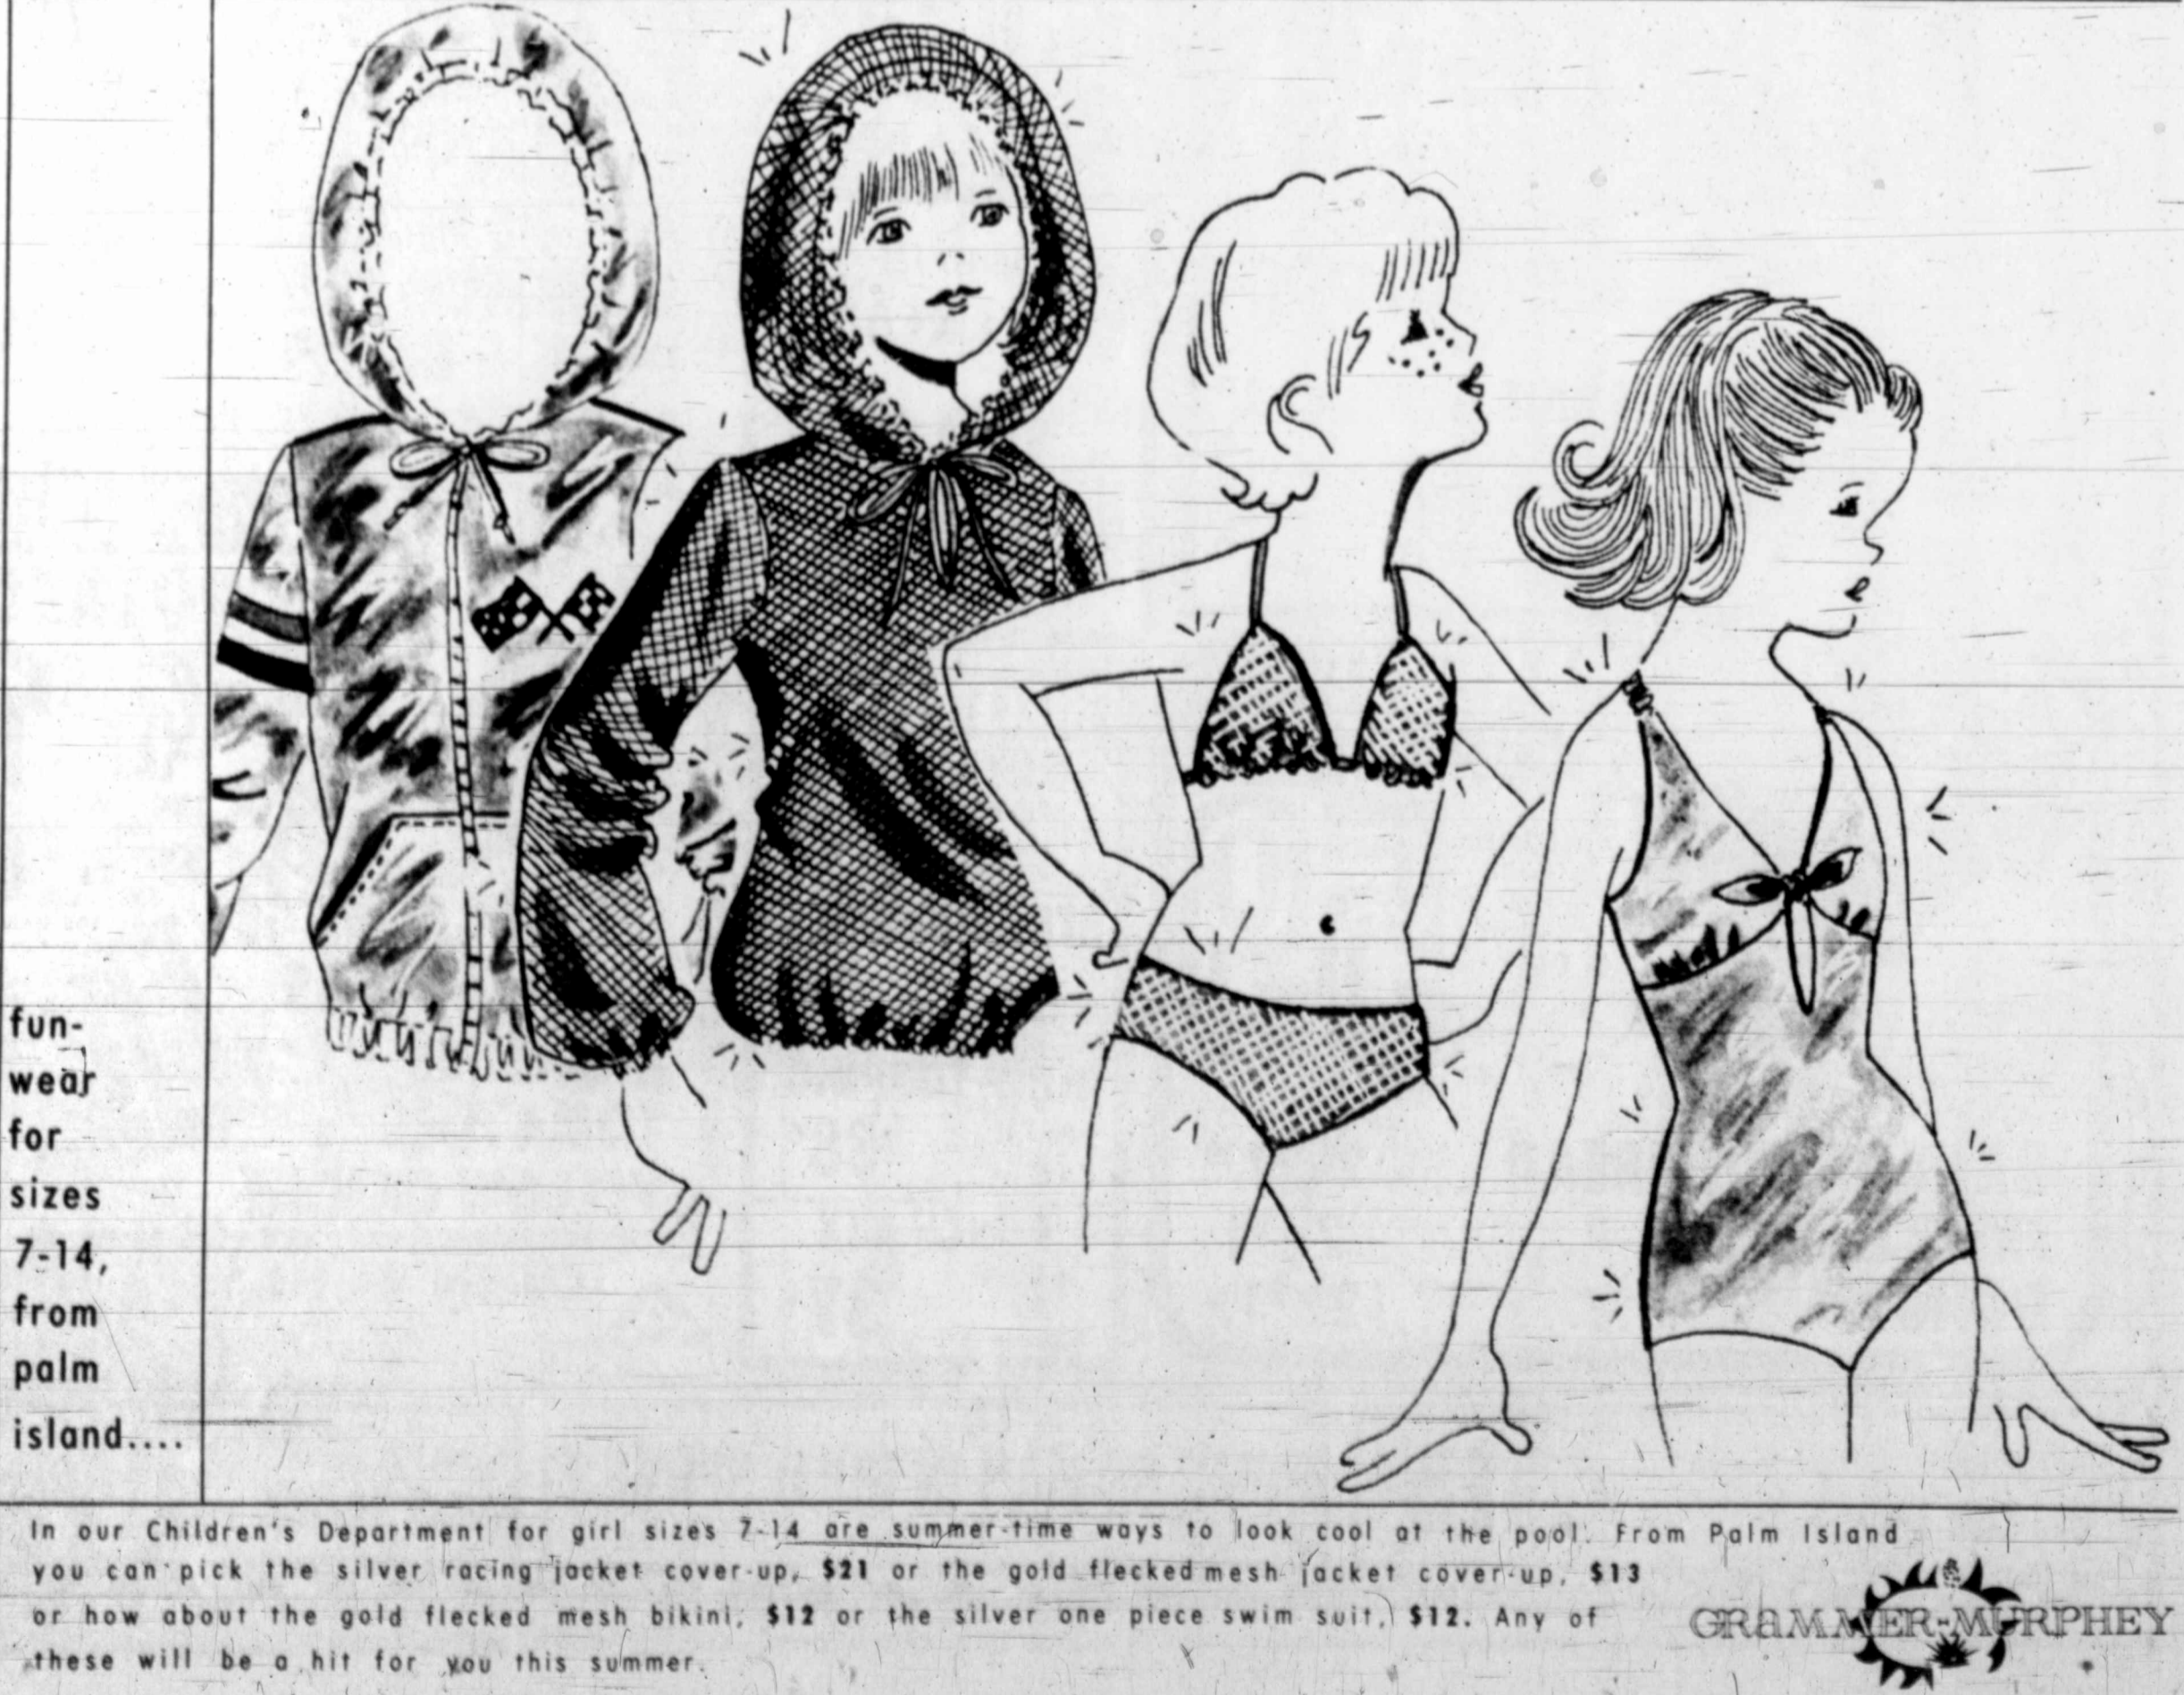

By The Associated Press

Former Oregon Gov. Tom McCall's attempt at a political comeback has been thwarted by state Sen. Victor Atiyeh, a soft-spoken veteran of 19 years in the state Legislature.

"I'm so excited I can hardly stand it," said Atiyeh, who also was the Republican nominee for governor four years ago.

Senior citizens learn English

The cooperative effort of several service agencies has made possible the enrichment of lives in the Tall City.

A group of senior citizens began meeting at Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church in December for a free nutritious lunch provided by a federal nutrition program. Ages of the group range from 51 to 85, with seven persons being in their 80s.

These people, according to Wanda Phillips, Adult Basic Education director at Midland College, expressed a desire to learn English and Spanish as they came from mixed ethnic backgrounds. Most, said Mrs. Phillips, are Spanish speaking people who have very little command of the English language.

The ABE program began providing instruction in April in the areas of basic reading, writing and speaking, both in English and Spanish.

"The desire of many is to be able to learn English, so they can communicate with their grandchildren who are being taught to speak only English," said Mrs. Phillips.

Last week, a cultural exchange took place when Mexican-American women of the program demonstrated the making of flour tortillas for the instructors and those who have never done so.

Transportation has been provided for those who need it by the senior citizen vans owned by Midland College and Casa de Amigos, Inc. Space has been donated by Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church.

Instructors for the ABE courses are Isabel Rey, Cheryl Roper, Isabel Gonzales and Jodie Gressett.

The program will continue through the summer months, with the lunch being provided at noon Monday through Friday.

Transportation can be provided by calling Casa de Amigos, 697-9701. Additional information on the ABE classes can be obtained by dialing Mrs. Phillips at Midland College, 684-7851, extension 159.

DEAR ABBY

Superhuman restraint not asked

DEAR ABBY: A few months ago I discovered that my husband of 16 years was having a torrid affair with a young divorced woman in his office. We agreed to make a serious effort to restore our marriage for the sake of our children.

The young woman agreed to quit her job, but so far she is still working for my husband. He isn't even looking for a replacement, and I will not feel secure as long as they are in daily contact. Human nature being what it is, it would be so easy for them to re-establish the old relationship.

What do you think, Abby? I'm trying to be mature and trusting, but I still feel... —THREATENED IN CHICAGO

DEAR THREATENED: No matter how pure your husband's intentions, as long as his current heart-throb remains in his office, the embers are still smoldering.

Tell him that you do not expect superhuman restraint from mere mortals, and if he is sincere in his efforts to restore your marriage, he will send her on her way immediately, with helpful references.

DEAR ABBY: I have been going steady for a year with a girl I'll call "Joan," but there is another girl I like better. I don't want to hurt Joan's feelings, but I would like to drop her so I can openly date this other girl that I'm seeing secretly on the side.

Joan is a very nervous girl, and whenever I've even hinted about cooling our relationship, she gets sick. I would appreciate any help you can give me. I am 23 and Joan is 21. —STUCK IN BEVERLY HILLS

DEAR STUCK: I feel sorry for Joan, but I feel sorrier for you if you continue the relationship only because you lack the courage to cool it.

Level with her, gently, but honestly. She may get sick, but she'll survive. And don't stall, or you may find yourself permanently stuck with a woman who "gets sick" whenever she doesn't get her own way. (P. S. Joan needs counseling, and I hope she realizes it.)

DEAR ABBY: Isn't it true that if two people dance well together it means they are "in tune" and "meant for each other"?

I heard somewhere that if a boy and girl dance well together, they will probably have other things in common and will most likely have a successful marriage. Please confirm this. —LILA IN GAINESVILLE

DEAR LILA: When two people dance well together, it means only one thing. They dance well together. Believe me, it means nothing else. If you are using dancing as a basis for compatibility in marriage, forget it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO BOBB.: No one said it better than Benjamin Franklin: "If a man empties his purse into his head, no man can take it away from him. An investment in knowledge always pays the best interest." Please, hang in there and get your degree.

Parents using trial-and-error

By DR. WILLARD ABRAHAM
Copley News Service

Q. Isn't there some quick, painless way to become a good parent? Does a person have to learn through either bitter experience or the long books that say they have the answers?

A. We have used a kind of trial-and-error method with our 3-year-old, and he doesn't seem any the worse for it. I'm sure that our new baby will be better off because of all we've learned about feeding, toilet training, discipline and all the rest from our firstborn.

But there ought to be some kind of shortcut. Can you lead us to it?

A. Let's be direct for a moment: there is no fast, easy method toward sound parenthood. Materials of Spock, Gesell, Ginott and many other past and present experts have been used for years, helping parents over rough spots, but it takes work to become a good parent.

Just because we are biologically prepared to have children doesn't mean we're ready emotionally and intellectually.

"Parenthood remains the greatest single preserve of the amateur," wrote Alvin Toffler in his book, "Future Shock."

To help meet the needs of parents of young children (2- to 5-year-olds), I've worked hard for several years to provide "how to" answers that are practical and readable. They are now available on a monthly basis in a publication called "Parent Talk."

Just send a stamped, addressed envelope to me at P.O. Box 572, Scottsdale, Ariz. 85252, and you'll get full information about it.

Q. A famous Houston heart physician said not long ago that all the talk about cholesterol is really overdone.

He said that he eats two eggs for breakfast every morning and plans to continue doing so.

-My wife has been on a cholesterol binge for our entire family for years. Skimmed milk, only occasional meat, and no bacon, eggs or butter — it's been a pretty sparse diet.

Which side are you on?

A. One good question deserves another: what does your own doctor say about the health of your family?

Although many people have been anti-cholesterol for several years, the pendulum does seem to be swinging back at least a little bit.

Every woman can look and feel younger. This Summer. Let Pat Walker help create a new you.

S. Nelson is perhaps one of the more spectacular examples of the stunning results that may be attained through Pat Walker's Figure Perfection Salons International. Read what she has to say about the program that has benefited millions throughout the world over the past 26 years:

"I hated myself fat, and every new year I promised to really get with it and lose; however, it never happened. Finally my doctor advised me, tactfully, to stay out of his office until I decided to lose weight. He just couldn't help me. Out of desperation, not believing, I called for a courtesy treatment at Pat Walker's.

This was the turning point in my life. With a loss of 51 pounds and several inches, I began to enjoy my life with my friends and family, especially my three grandchildren. The Pat Walker program gave me a positive approach to everyday living."

How's your approach to life?

Now the national director for Pat Walker, Ms. Nelson firmly believes the program can upgrade the life outlook of the overweight as surely as it makes them slimmer, trimmer, more confident of their appearance—and themselves.

In the elegant atmosphere of a Pat Walker salon (where there's none of the noise and confusion you may have encountered at gyms and spas), you can reduce IN ABSOLUTE PRIVACY. Moreover, you have assistance from interested professional counselors (who also conduct their counseling, by the way, in complete privacy).

Another difference: SYMMETRICON

Symmetricon is the equipment, exclusive to Pat Walker's, providing passive exercise that gently shapes and firms your figure while it also improves your circulation and helps correct posture. You wear your regular street clothes during treatments. At Pat Walker's you can lose weight (and keep it off) ON YOUR OWN INDIVIDUALIZED PROGRAM—without strenuous physical exercise or stringent diets.

Keep air conditioner coils free, clear

By AL CARRELL

If you have air conditioning, whether it's a central unit or a room unit, the condenser coils must be kept free and clear so air can be circulated across them. Otherwise, you can lose your efficiency and maybe even your compressor. Folks with central units know to keep vines and weeds and grass away from this area. However, there may be another step to take. The coils are covered with fins made of very lightweight material. On a room unit, this will be exposed to the outside at the back. These should be cleaned with a vacuum cleaner so there's no foreign matter in the tiny spaces between these fins.

Then the fins should be examined. They're of such soft metal they can easily be crimped so they restrict air flow. If so, invest in a special inexpensive tool called a fin comb. Get one that will match the proper spacing (teeth per inch), and then gently run it along to reshape the fins. Do it before you get your next electrical bill because it can make a difference.

Dear Al:
I have an old painter's magic formula for reclaiming an old paint brush that wasn't properly cleaned after use. It involves a tablespoon of TSP in a pint of boiling water. Then you just start working the brush against the bottom of the container, and it will release all the old paint. It does require some real work, but beats throwing away an expensive brush. —W.K.

TSP is trisodium phosphate and has been taken off the market in some areas. However, it's available at paint and hardware stores in most areas.

Dear Al:
The insides of the windows in my car developed a sort of film that wouldn't come off. It wasn't bad, but did cut the visibility and did look crummy. A chemist friend told me that sometimes the plasticizers used in some upholstery would cause such a film over a period of time. He began to experiment with solvents and wasn't doing all that much good when my wife tried white vinegar which she uses for lots of cleaning chores. The film is gone. Maybe this "scientific" trick will help others who have such a car problem. —T.G.

A SUPER HINT —

Since you're never supposed to stand on the top step of your step ladder, you might like what one reader did. He didn't sign his name, but sent me a picture of his ladder. He'd attached his metal lunch box to the top. This meant he had a handy tool chest on the ladder. When he needed to move the ladder, the lunch box snapped shut so the tools and parts couldn't fall as he tilted the ladder for toting. (And maybe he carried a thermos of martinis along to help the work go quicker, too.)

ferent fabrics and different colors may require different treatments. — Mrs. H.A.

SHOP TALK — There's a new hammer-in type toggle bolt. This means that instead of having to drill, you can just tap the hanger in place. Once the wallboard is penetrated, the hinged point that pierced the wall swings out to form a "T," and the hook is turned to bring this member tight against the back of the wall. Some of those holes for old-style toggle bolts were so large that when you decided to move the hanger, you had a major patch up job on your hands.

Al Carrell welcomes all fellow Handymen, which he can pass on to readers as space permits. While he cannot answer all individual letters, he will try to nail down your problem in his column whenever possible.

Stitches sometimes conjure up another era

By ERICA WILSON Sometimes stitches can transport us back to another era. A Victorian cabbage rose, a cross-stitch sampler — charming designs with stories behind them. Inspiring all kinds of visions as we think of the people who stitched them. Since needlework itself is often nostalgic, try combining contemporary stitching with designs from other generations — you may have an irresistible combination! You may be familiar with the little Chessie kitten, mascot of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, which I have translated into crewel and needlepoint. When the company adopted the drawing in the '30s, they first published Chessie on a calendar. Everyone wanted to know if it was her paw or her tail coming out from under the sheet. Since so many people had obviously taken Chessie to heart and seemed eager to know everything about her, the following year the company published Chessie and her kittens on their calendar. Well, more letters — where was the father? So the year after, along came Peake (Chesapeake — get it?). Chessie's "old man." He looks marvelous in needlepoint with a textured twill stitch background. When it comes to animals, we're really all tall children, and Peter Rabbit has been a favorite of all ages since he was born 75 years ago. Yes, although he may not look it, he recently celebrated his 75th birthday.

Just like Alice in Wonderland, he was originally thought up for one child, Beatrix Potter, in England, created him in a letter to her nephew. Over the years, he has enchanted millions of children around the world. In fact, the miniature book about this furry rabbit and his friends has been translated into 15 different languages. I've translated the Beatrix Potter crew into just about as many needlework mediums — crewel, needlepoint and cross-stitch were just the beginning. Leafing through the little books, looking at all the characters, offers up a fascinating springboard to inspire you. From Archy and Mehitabel to Winnie the Pooh, there's always some intriguing story behind the design that makes it doubly interesting to stitch. (Erica Wilson shows scores of drawings; you how to create beautiful animals in her new 48-page book, "The Animal Kingdom," with 21 traceable crewel and needlepoint designs, and photos and suggestions. $2.99 to $4.99. c/o this newspaper, P.O. Streaking Twin tame Rangers once more, 5-2

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — The unlikely combination of a rookie pitcher and a reserve catcher added up to another victory for the Minnesota Twins Tuesday night.

Roger Erickson stopped Texas on six hits and Glenn Borgmann drove in two runs with a home run and a single to help Minnesota to a 5-2 triumph over the Rangers, giving the Twins their seventh victory in their past eight games.

"I've been getting a lot of advice from everywhere," said the 21-year old Erickson, who raised his record to 4-3. "But Camilo (Pascual, the Twins pitching coach) told me just to go out there and throw my own game."

"That's what I did."

Solo home runs off Texas starter Jim Umberger (2-3) by Dan Ford, his fifth, and No. 1 by Borgmann staked Erickson to a 2-0 lead.

Texas, which hadn't scored in 15 innings, nicked Erickson for two runs on two-out single by Al Oliver in the seventh to tie the game.

But Minnesota went back ahead in its half of the inning on a run-scoring single by Borgmann.

"That home run was the first hit I've had since April 16," said Borgmann, who gave Butch Wynegar a rest. "I was wondering if I was ever going to get another one."

A pinch-hit triple by Mike Cabbage added Minnesota's final two runs and gave Erickson some breathing room. He set down the Rangers in order in the ninth to earn his first victory before the hometown fans.

"I relaxed a little out there after I got two outs in the seventh," explained Erickson, who spent just one season in minor league ball. "I got lazy for a while, but this was the best my arm has felt all year."

The Rangers, who now stand 19-19, had little to cheer about.

In the first inning they loaded the bases against Erickson but couldn't score.

In the second, Bump Wills singled but was caught leaning and nailed in a rundown. The next batter, Juan Beniquez, walked, but was picked off by Erickson.

"We're not playing up to our potential," said Billy Hunter, the Rangers' skipper. "I keep saying we'll start to hit, but we don't."

One Ranger who didn't was catcher Jim Sundberg, who went hitless in four trips and saw his 22-game hitting streak, the longest in the majors, come to a halt.

"I don't feel like the heat's off because I never really put any pressure on myself to begin with," said Sundberg.

"Actually, the only night I felt any pressure was when I was going for No. 17 to tie the Ranger record. I guess I'll just have to start another one."

Land offered for pin Hall

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The city of Fairlawn and Marathon Oil Co. are offering six acres of park land as a site for the proposed National Bowling Hall of Fame.

The Fairlawn site is the second in the Akron area to be proposed for the hall. A site in the suburb of Cuyahoga Falls was offered earlier. Thirty-one other cities around the country also are bidding for the hall of fame.

The selection committee of the American Amateur Bowling Congress is to announce a site for the hall early next year.

Oakland's Bobby Winkles quits while he's ahead

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

The Oakland A's lost their manager Tuesday night.

Not so unusual. Happens all the time out there in Charlie Finley Land.

What was unusual was that Bobby Winkles left voluntarily — and with the A's in first place, no less.

Winkles, perhaps unwilling to wait for the A's to plummet from first place in the American League West — or unwilling to wait for Finley to hand out yet another sheaf of walking papers, pulled the old "You can't fire me; I quit!" routine.

Last June 10 he replaced Jack

McKeon. And when Winkles bade the A's goodbye a few hours before Tuesday night's game, McKeon, the third base coach, assumed the managerial reins once more.

And he came in the way he went out — a loser. The A's literally kicked away their game against Milwaukee, falling 3-2 and slipping within a game of second-place California.

In other AL games, Minnesota trimmed Texas 5-2, New York shelled Cleveland 10-1, Baltimore blanked Detroit 2-0, Toronto beat Boston 2-1 in 12 innings, California shaded Chicago 5-4 and, in a twinbill in Seattle, the Mariners won the opener 4-3 and Kansas City came back to win the nightcap 5-3.

"I'M SORRY to see him go," Finley said of Winkles. "I think he made a mistake. It is obviously something that doesn't meet the eye. It came as a surprise to me."

"My speculation on why he quit is that the team is on top and he wanted to get out while he was looking good," said Finley, who has had 16 managers.

THE A'S drew a typically tiny crowd to Tuesday night's game, 2,534 paying fans. They didn't get their money's worth — unless they came to see the A's give the game away to the Brewers.

In the fifth inning, Matt Keough walked Don Money. Buck Martinez bunted him to second and, with two away, Money raced home when first baseman Dave Revering let Cecil Cooper's grounder bounce past him into right field.

Yankees 10, Indians 1

Ron Guidry's 11-strikeout, five-hit pitching, home runs by Graig Nettles and Chris Chambliss and a seven-run seventh inning carried the Yanks to their 18th victory in the last 24 games. Chambliss singled for two runs and Nettles doubled for two in the seventh.

Orioles 2, Tigers 0

Mike Flanagan pitched a two-hitter and Rick Dempsey broke up a scoreless tie with a fifth-inning home run in the Orioles' victory.

But the big play was center fielder Larry Harlow's leaping catch that robbed John Wockenfuss of a second-inning home run.

"That was one of the best catches I've ever seen," said Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver. "I didn't think he'd come back with an arm."

Blue Jays 2, Red Sox 1

Tim Johnson led off the 12th inning for Toronto with a walk, raced to third on Luis Gomez's double down the right field line and scored on Rick Bosetti's single to left to beat the Red Sox.

Angels 5, White Sox 4

Rick Miller of California doubled with two away in the sixth inning and came home on Ken Landreaux's pinch single to center field with the run that beat the White Sox.

Mariners 4-3, Royals 3-5

Successive run-scoring doubles by Lee Stanton and Ruppert Jones in the sixth inning vaulted Seattle to victory in the opener, but the Royals rebounded in the nightcap on rookie Clint Hurdle's three runs batted in.

Big Sky eyes Reno as member

POCATELLO, Idaho (AP) — Presidents of Big Sky Conference schools have voted to invite the University of Nevada-Reno to join the athletic conference after June 30, 1979.

Richard Bowers, University of Montana president and chairman of the presidents' council, said in a statement following a three-hour closed-door meeting Tuesday that the membership of Nevada-Reno would be "contingent upon their acceptance and their meeting of the conference's rules and regulations" before July 1, 1979.

"We're just tickled to death to receive an invitation," said Tom Reed, assistant athletic director at Nevada-Reno. "I think it's a positive move for the University of Nevada and I think we can contribute to the Big Sky Conference."

Bowers said the council had considered several schools before settling on Nevada-Reno.

Representatives from Nevada-Reno, North Dakota State and the University of North Dakota attended the three-day conference at Idaho State University and made presentations to the presidents' council.

In making the decision on which school to invite, the council considered proximity to other conference schools and similarity in athletic and academic programs, said Steve Belko, conference commissioner.

The decision had to be unanimous to be accepted. "We feel football-wise we have a football-playing conference and Reno has a very good football program and other non-revenue sports. I think the University of Nevada will benefit and so will our conference," Belko said.

Big 8 votes on cage tourney

AFTON, Okla. (AP) — A vote by Big Eight Conference faculty representatives was expected today on a proposal to eliminate the Big Eight Christmas basketball tournament.

Sources said Big Eight athletic directors voted 6-2 Tuesday to recommend elimination of the tournament. The Daily Oklahoman reported in today's editions.

The vote reported by the Oklahoma City newspaper was not publicly announced.

"I can't confirm or deny it," Steve Hatchell, director of the Big Eight service bureau, said of the vote reported by the newspaper.

Conference basketball coaches voted Monday to eliminate the tournament, effective in 1979.

However, the action won't become final unless faculty representatives also approve it in their vote expected today.

Faculty representatives may want to retain the tournament, which has been held every year since 1946, from a financial standpoint. The per team payoff last year was about $28,000.

In other action Tuesday, football coaches approved several recommendations to pass along to athletic directors and faculty representatives for their votes, the Oklahoman reported.

Among the recommendations were those that would raise to 60 the travel squad for non-conference games and renew the conference contract with the Orange Bowl.

Miss. State catches full NCAA wrath

1976-77.

If the council rules against Minnesota the same way it did against Mississippi State, the Gophers would forfeit all 1977-78 basketball games.

With the forfeits, Kentucky, a 14-7 loser to Mississippi State, in 1976, presumably ties Georgia for the 1976 Southeastern Conference championship.

For last season, Rose Bowl champion Washington goes to 9-3 and North Texas State advances to 10-1, since the ruling wipes out their losses to Mississippi State.

In addition, Mississippi State forfeits 1976 victories over North Texas, Louisville, Cal Poly-Pomona, Memphis State, Southern Mississippi, Auburn, LSU and Mississippi.

Mississippi State also forfeits 1977 victories over Kansas State, Auburn and Mississippi.

"We are naturally delighted our case with the NCAA is closed," Mississippi State Coach Bob Tyler, who appeared before the Council in April, said through a spokesman. "I am positive our ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. (AP) — Mario Celotto, a potentially awesome rookie linebacker, says he never doubted his chances to play professional football despite four knee operations during his career at the University of Southern California.

Celotto, the No. 7 draft choice of the Buffalo Bills of the National Football League, has moved into the area armed with a program of stretching and strengthening exercises. He believes these exercises will rebuild the speed and leg power that made him a starter for the powerful Trojans as a freshman.
