Fireman's School Has 14 Enrolled

Fourteen members of the volunteer fire department reported for the fireman's school being conducted every Wednesday night by Bob Dodson, of Texas A. & M. College. This is a service of the Texas Fireman's Association, and is of great value, especially to the smaller departments. The school will be held each Wednesday night for five weeks, and the department should be greatly improved at the end of this schooling.

Caps have been ordered for members of the Department, and should be here in a few days. These caps were paid for through contributions by local merchants and citizens, and the boys wish to express their appreciation and gratitude for this generous contribution.

Leedy-McDaniel Wedding In Kansas

At an impressive ceremony held at 3:00 o'clock Sunday afternoon, August 22, at the First Methodist Church in Junction City, Kansas, Miss Marylou Nell Leedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Myron Leedy, became the bride of Fred Richard McDaniel, son of Mrs. Claude McDaniel of Kerrick. Rev. Harry R. Weed and Rev. John W. Campbell of Topeka, Kansas, performed the double ring service before an altar banked with Woodwardia ferns and baskets of white gladioli and lighted by tapers in tall candelabra.

Mrs. Ray McDaniel, aunt of both the bride and groom, sang "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life" and "Because" preceding the ceremony. Mrs. Frank Trebilcock, organist, played "I Love You Truly" throughout the service. Mrs. McDaniel also sang "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt before the altar.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose as her wedding costume a gown of Goddess lace fashioned with sweetheart neckline, close fitting bodice, sleeves tapering to a point over the hand and an aisle wide train. She carried a small white Bible decorated with a single white orchid and cascades of Stephanotis. Her earrings of opal surrounded by rhinestones were a gift of the groom.

Miss Thelma McDaniel, sister of the groom, was maid of honor. She wore a gown of pink organza over taffeta and carried a cascade bouquet of blue delphinium and pink carnations tied with pink satin ribbon.

The bridesmaids were Miss Patricia Zumbunn and Mrs. Stanley Swanson, of Axtell, Kansas. Miss Zumbunn wore a gown of aqua organza over aqua taffeta. She carried bronze mums tied with bronze taffeta ribbon. Mrs. Stanley's gown was of yellow organza over yellow taffeta and her bouquet was of orchid mums tied with orchid taffeta ribbon. The maid of honor and the bridesmaids wore tiaras matching their bouquets.

The candles were lighted by Miss Rosemarie Alexa and Miss Norena Altweg, who wore blue sheer and pink sheer gowns, respectively, and corsages of white camellia. Their tapers were decorated with clusters of pink roses, white daisies and blue corn flowers and were tied with bows of pink and blue satin.

The groom chose Louis James of Kerrick, Texas to attend him as best man. The ushers were Dean McDaniel of Sacramento, California, Jimmie Hunt, Dan Zumbunn, and William Lichtenhan.

The bride's mother chose a dress of black and pink lace with pink accessories and a pink carnation corsage. The groom's mother was attended in a skipper blue crepe with white accessories and a white carnation corsage.

A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride. Refreshments were served in the candlelight dining room decorated with garden flowers and pink roses. The bride's table was centered with a four tier wedding cake decorated with Stephanotis and pink roses and flanked on either side with tall lighted tapers. Mrs. Earl Gillespie and Miss Ada Margaret Olsion presided at the punch bowls. Mrs. Ray McDaniel and Mrs. William Gfeller assisted with the serving.

The couple left on a wedding trip to Colorado Springs, and Manitou, Colorado, following the reception. For traveling, the bride chose a gull grey two piece faille dress with gold accessories and a talisman rose corsage. They are at home at Kerrick.

Mrs. McDaniel is a graduate of Junction City High School with the class of 1944. Since that time she has been associated with her father in business in the Leedy Drug Store.

Mr. McDaniel attended school in Kerrick, Stratford and Stephenville, Texas, Tarleton A. and M., and De Rider, Louisiana. He is a wheat farmer and rancher at Kerrick.

Mrs. Claude McDaniel and Thelma, and Louis James of Kerrick, attended the wedding.

Funeral services were conducted in Lone Wolf, Oklahoma Monday.

Members of the Chisum family attended the funeral.

Small Fire Extinguished Wednesday

A small fire at the Handy Drive-In Cafe at 2:15 A. M. Wednesday was extinguished by the Stratford Volunteer Fire Department. Light damage was caused by the fire which originated from the faulty wiring of a Neon sign.

The blaze burned for a short time in the front wall near the roof of the frame building.

A PLEASANT MEMORY

Our years of business experience in Stratford has been a pleasant memory.

We are leaving Stratford for a while and will be at home to friends at 1204 Florida Street, Amarillo, Texas, and will enjoy a visit from you when you happen by this way. We may be reached by mail through P. O. Box 3573.

Again, we wish to thank the people of Stratford and the surrounding territory for the many favors shown us during our 17 years of business life in this section.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Cowdrey

It's only good, common sense to take time out to keep equipment in the best of shape. The time spent repairing and replacing parts is only a small part of the cost of careless handling, and the dangers of such equipment are even more.

KANSAS CITY, 1921 — (Soundphoto) — When General John J. Pershing died at Walter Reed Hospital, in Washington, it closed a chapter in military history and wrote "The End" to the careers of five great military leaders who were on hand for the first American Legion convention to be held in the United States. Shown left to right are: Generals Jacques, of Belgium; Diaz, of Italy; Foch, of France; Pershing, then Commander in Chief of the Allied Forces; and Admiral Beatty of Great Britain.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Helwick, Glendale, California, were returning home in their new car they secured while visiting in Kansas. They escaped without injury.

Foster said he fell asleep momentarily and whipped the truck to the right when he awoke to prevent a head-on collision. The rear end of the truck swung out to side swipe the car.

Refueling of B-29's In Flight Is Only Matter of Minutes

WASHINGTON. — Using a new high-speed method developed by the air force, B-29's on their way to long distance targets now can refuel in the air in a few minutes.

This range-stretching technique for the big war planes was hinted at by Air Secretary W. Stuart Symington before the senate armed services committee. He said B-29's utilizing the "most modern development" of the old airborne refueling system could, for example, bomb any part of Russia from bases in Alaska or Labrador. He made no further explanation, but said bombing units of the air force would have the new equipment by the first of next year.

Other authorities indicated that tests already have been made with completely satisfactory results.

While declining to disclose the exact speed with which transfer of gasoline from a tanker plane to a bomber is made under the USAF method, one expert said: "British fliers have developed a method of pumping gasoline from one plane to another at a rate of about 100 gallons a minute. USAF technique and equipment is designed to accomplish several times such speed."

This indicated that a B-29 could take on virtually a full load of gasoline in perhaps 15 minutes.

Speed is of paramount importance under wartime conditions. During fuel transfer, a bomber would be highly vulnerable to attack by enemy fighter planes. The faster the fuel is loaded, the less the time of danger.

With a five-ton bomb load and using only the normal built-in tanks a B-29 fuels with about 5,500 gallons for an ordinary 12 hours of flying to a target, dropping bombs and reaching a friendly base. With extra tanks mounted in an unused bomb-bay, the fuel load can be increased to about 8,700 gallons.

Railroad Stops Passenger Service for One Woman

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—No longer will the New York Central railroad maintain its Adams Basin station for the benefit of a Rochester stenographer.

Trainmaster Frank Stafford said he received a public service commission order approving discontinuance of the station.

Stafford testified at a hearing that one train stopped each morning to take Miss Lois Elmes to her work in Rochester and another train stopped nightly to drop her at her home.

He said Miss Elmes was the only passenger riding between the two communities.

Doctor Reports New Drug Which Arrests Leukemia

BOSTON.—Development of a new drug credited with arresting acute leukemia in children was reported by Dr. Sidney Farber, pathologist-in-chief of the Boston children's hospital.

Dr. Farber said the drug, aminopterin, had been tested at the hospital for several months. In that time it had caused "repeated remissions" of the white blood count in 11 children stricken with leukemia, he said.

He warned against "false hope," asserting further study and research was required.

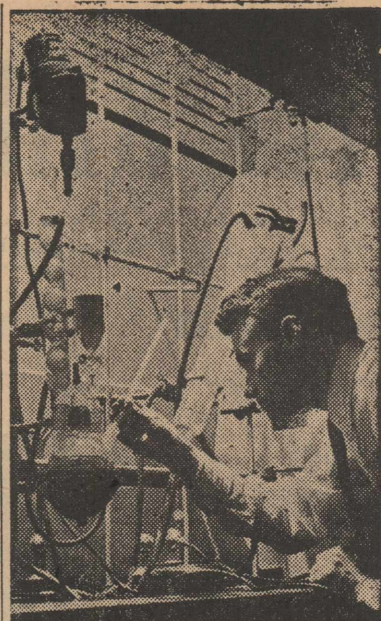

The tests, however, marked the first time doctors had been able to reduce the white blood count more than once, Dr. Farber declared.

Fifteen young leukemia victims were subjected to the tests. Eight of them showed great improvement and three some improvement. Three of the remaining four died. The fourth showed no improvement. Dr. Farber said, however, that these four were too seriously ill to be treated fully.

He said present results represented a definite "step in the right direction." The disease is usually fatal.

Juan T. Trippe, President of Pan American World Airways, announced that the new Clipper America is now flying. The $1,500,000 Clipper, the first of a fleet of 20 Boeing Stratocruiser-type Clippers, will be delivered to Pan American in November. It carries 75 passengers and is the only airliner with a double deck, having a spacious lounge and bar on the lower deck. The largest, fastest commercial landplane, the Clipper America will be used in service between San Francisco and Honolulu, cutting present flight time from 12 hours to 8 1/2. It will also be used in the New York-London service where it will cut flight time from 14 1/2 to 12 hours. Later the new-type Clippers will be used extensively in the company's proposed system of domestic routes and also elsewhere on PAA's worldwide service.

Birth of Quintuplets in U. S. Is Possible Statistics Show

NEW YORK. — Despite the odds, some American mother most any day may have quintuplets who survive and grow.

By amazing coincidence, there have been at least three cases of quintuplets in the United States in the last 12 years. Two occurred only 20 months apart.

In each case, the quints were born prematurely and none lived more than half an hour. The chance that all five will survive is extremely thin.

What makes the births such a remarkable coincidence is that, by the rule that seems to apply to plural births, quintuplets would be expected once in about 80 million births! With the United States' birth rate around three and one-half million annually, quints would be expected mathematically only once in 18 years or so.

The three cases of quints so close together, doesn't mean that this rule is wrong, or that it won't happen again soon. American quints could be born tomorrow, or not for 100 years.

For the coincidence that brought so many quints in so short a time does not mean the rules were out of order. They are not expected to be applied to any one given year or even a few years. But taken over decades they are valid. Then the rates do not seem to vary much.

The State Boys' 4-H Club Livestock Judging Contest was held at Texas A. & M. College on August 16. Twenty-eight teams competed.

As a Texas plainsman, the only value we can see in mountain-climbing is to get a better view of the great plains below.

Russians Fail to Wipe Out U. S.; Women Sue "Prophet"

LOS ANGELES. — Joe Jeffers, founder of the Temple of Yahweh, is accused in a damage suit of telling his flock the Russians would bomb the United States in 1947 and kill everyone but them.

Jeffers' accusers, Mrs. Anna Lee and Mrs. Caroline Brunell of Los Angeles, seek $12,837 damages, saying his story led them to part with valuable property.

They say that Jeffers, now serving time in McNeil Island federal prison for auto theft, represented to his congregation that they would move into the White House and that he would rule the United States as the "King of Kings."

The plaintiffs allege they were told they would be "queens under the new order, wearing diamond-studded crowns."

They also said Jeffers told them the "flying saucers" seen in the sky were weapons manned by Japanese.

An egg beater with eight blades will cost more, but it is a better buy than one with only four blades.

Prospector Who Found Gold Mine Searches For Peace and Quiet

MINNEAPOLIS. — John Laskowsky, 59, a prospector, came here from Arizona to get away from the people who, he said, have driven him mad since he discovered a gold mine that might yield $25,000 per ton of ore.

He flew here with J. J. Bliss, a Minneapolis metal products manufacturer who took pity on Laskowsky after watching a crowd of people hound him about his gold mine.

"The poor guy was swamped by curious people all the time," Bliss said, "so he left the stake guarded by his son and a brother-in-law and came here with me."

Bliss said they were asking geologists from the University of Minnesota and the University of Colorado to go to the mine and examine it.

Laskowsky said he had been panning gold in the Wickenburg, Ariz., area for 15 years before he struck it rich. He had found small deposits often and had supported his family by panning them.

When he finally found the rich lode, Laskowsky said, he packed out $2,500 worth of ore on his back because "if anyone suspected what was going on, I might have got shot."

He showed photostats of the Wickenburg Sun which quoted an ore market owner as saying, "Laskowsky's samples are the richest gold ore I've seen in almost a lifetime in the mining industry." He also had documents headed, "State of Arizona Department of Resources" and "United States Mint, San Francisco," which reported that a 150 pound sampling of ore yielded $1,051.83 in gold.

"Generally people figure that that that pays even $25 a ton is worth mining," he said.

"I'm going back before long, but those people out there have got to let me alone. I just had to get away

Fireman Rush to Extinguish Blaze—In Heating Stove

HARTFORD CITY, IND. — A three-year-old girl here spoiled a hot game of checkers in which Hartford City firemen were participating.

The child tried to call a cleaning company but got the fire station instead. She asked that a driver be sent to her home.

"Do you have a fire?" the fireman asked. "Yes," was the reply. Engines roared, tires screeched and sirens whined as fire trucks drew up to the house. The little girl then explained of course they had a fire—in the heating stove.

Mehner Wins Tri-State Tennis Singles

Lt. Frank Mehner was crowned the new men's singles champion of the Tri-State Tennis Tourney in Amarillo Monday. Mehner won over Brent Smith of Tucson, Arizona in a hard fought four-set final match.

The champion won by scores of 6-2, 2-6, 6-3, 6-1, before several hundred spectators at Memorial Park.

He breezed through the opening set, once leading by 5-1 before he closed it out. Smith made his bid in the second to even it, apparently solving Mehner's puzzling assortment of drives and volleys. But Mehner nabbed the last two sets without much trouble.

It was the second consecutive year that Smith has been the runnerup. M. C. Cooper, the Tulsa Adonis, mastered the robust Arizonan a year ago.

Mehner holds several tennis honors as a representative of the army in matches in various parts of Europe.

Among those attending the tournament were: Conrad Riffe, Mrs. June Mathews, Mr. and Mrs. Art Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ross, Gene and Bill Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Denney, and Mrs. Frank Mehner.

Honeymooning Couple Leaves For Missouri

Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Carter returned from their honeymoon in Colorado Friday night for a short visit with Rev. and Mrs. John Reaves. They left Sunday for Columbus, Missouri where they are enrolled as students in the University of Missouri.

Mr. Carter is completing his Masters degree and Mrs. Carter is in her senior year.

Animal Foundation Blames Enteritis for Slim Hogs

DES MOINES.—Finger of suspicion was pointed at the hog who eats his head off and still fails to put on the profitable pounds.

The American Foundation for Animal Health warned that such boarders not only waste feed, but also may be victims and carriers of one of the dangerous types of swine enteritis.

"Even though they eat heartily, hogs with certain types of enteritis become thinner and thinner. Scouring may be severe. If they recover after several weeks, they suffer considerable loss of weight," the Foundation statement explained.

"One of the worst dangers is that alling hogs may spread the disease through the herd before they show marked illness. This makes it extremely important that a diagnosis be obtained at the first sign that anything is wrong.

"Sanitation and good management are the best precautions against enteritis losses. Newly-purchased pigs should be segregated until they are proved free of disease. Clean pastures, movable houses and scrubbed concrete floors will reduce the chances of infection."

Veterinarians find that medical treatment for enteritis is more satisfactory when the farmer has practiced preventive sanitation and segregation, the American Foundation said.

Antarctic Whaling Industry Helps Meet World Food Needs

PALO ALTO, CALIF. — The world's Antarctic whaling and whale oil industry is experiencing a healthy postwar revival through increased use of whale oil for human consumption in oleomargarine.

That statement with facts assembled from governments throughout the world, is set forth in a pamphlet by Dr. Karl Brandt, Stanford university professor of agriculture economics.

Brandt wrote that in 1938 the governments of Europe felt tensions of the coming war and began to stockpile whale oil. It became a top priority item of basic war essentials, along with wheat and sugar.

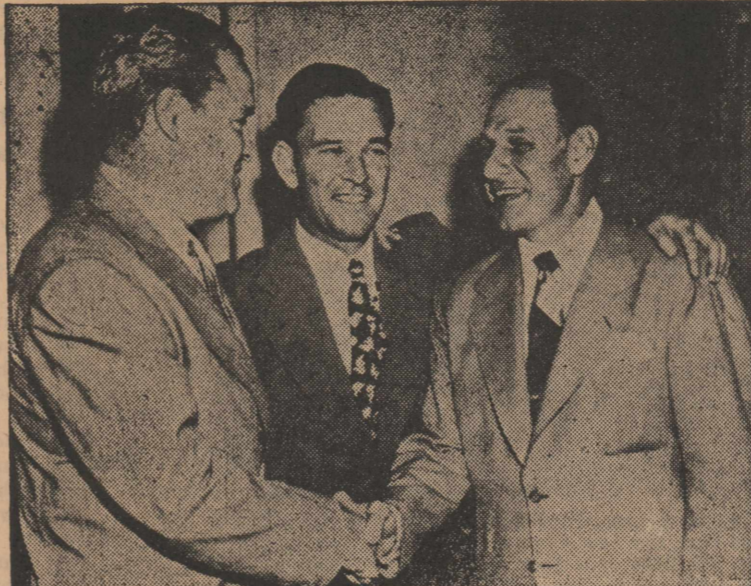

He pointed out that its remarkable adaptability to storage made it even more sought after. One cargo of Antarctic whale oil was stored in the United States in 1941 and used in England in 1947. The oil was enough to supply the British population with their daily margarine ration for five weeks.

In the 1938-39 season the world's fleet of whaling vessels reached its peak in number of vessels and tonnage of oil produced, Brandt wrote. At that time there were 36 factories afloat, 14 land stations in operation and 353 catcher boats being used. They caught 45,679 whales, which were converted into 3,007,409 barrels of oil.

Auto Parkers Deposit Foreign Coins In Meters

COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO.—Coins of many nations reach the desk of City Treasurer A. N. Wyman, though they're of no help in meeting the payroll. Parking meters here have disgorged coins from Canada, Peru, Argentina, Nicaragua, Guatemala, Ecuador, Palestine, Norway, Switzerland, Austria, Germany, China, Japan, the Philippines, Ceylon, Netherlands East Indies and Turkey.

The first grapevines in Europe were planted on the Rhine River by the German King Ludwig in 842 A. D.

NEW YORK — A lightning bolt struck the baseball world with the announcement that Mel Ott had resigned as manager of the New York Giants and that he had been replaced by Leo "The Lip" Durocher, who simultaneously resigned as manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers. By a peculiar coincidence, the Giants and Dodgers are tied for fourth place in the National League pennant race. This photo was made at the official switching of the Giant pilots. Giant president Horace Stoneham, left, is greeting the smiling "Lip", right, while Ott, to show there are no hard feelings embraces both. Burt Shotton, who led the Dodgers to a pennant last year resumes as that team's manager.

Wheat Loans Protect Farm Prices

Price supports under current agricultural laws merely give the farmer a break not a bonus, B. F. Vance, Chairman of the State Production and Marketing Administration Committee, said today.

Pointing out that legislation directs price-support programs at a certain percentage of "parity" is a measure of the relationship between farmers' income and outgo, and rises or falls according to the relative positions of the prices farmers pay out and receive.

Price supports on the 1948 crop of wheat, explained Mr. Vance, are directed to be set at 90 percent of parity, which averages nationally about $2.00 a bushel. In the 10 years since the loan program was started, according to a Department of Agriculture survey, wheat prices have averaged below the loan in 3 years, and then only 3 or 4 cents. In one of these years, 1938-39, the program was new and slow in getting started and only 86 million bushels were pledged for loans. In 1941-42 and 1942-43 prices were depressed as exports were restricted by war and carry-over reached all-time high levels. The largest amount ever put under loans was in 1942-43, when the total reached more than 408 million bushels.

New Type of Wheat Resists Attacks Of Deadly Sawfly

BOULDER, COLO.—After years of research, a new development in wheat farming promises more food for a hungry world.

This is Rescue Wheat. Rescue is the first wheat ever developed to withstand the attack of the destructive wheat stem sawfly which sporadically since 1900 has laid waste to untold millions of acres of precious grain in the Northwest and in Canada.

The success of Rescue may turn out to be a milestone in farming.

Last year it proved its resistance to the sawfly in extensive field trials. This year there will be enough Rescue seed to plant one million acres in Montana and millions more in North Dakota and Canada. This means more bread, sorely needed at a critical time in world affairs.

Research Started
Montana state college entomologists, agronomists and the natural scientists of the United States department of agriculture worked hard on the sawfly problem. When Rescue came along in October, 1944, they dropped everything to concentrate on the new find.

The following May, Montana got back 35 bushels which were planted on 27 acres. The yield in 1945 was 877 bushels. Again Montana shipped Rescue to Arizona—100 bushels this time for further increase. The rest was planted at home. An unseasonable frost and a rail strike delayed Arizona's return shipment of 3,870 bushels until the first of June. It was dry and late but the wheat was sown. Within 24 hours rain fell, the first since the regular seeding time.

Wheat Crops Increase

In 24 months a single bushel on land previously attacked by the sawfly had grown to 60,000 and Montana and North Dakota farmers were offering as high as $25 a bushel for it. Last year Montana planted 78,000 acres in 19 counties, harvested 1,250,000 bushels, and North Dakota is fast developing its own seed sources. Rescue seed still is selling as high as $6.50 per bushel.

The sawfly, given a few more years, might have wiped out huge sections of the nation's breadbasket. It damaged more than one million acres severely last year in Montana, spread over 30 counties. In two counties, practically every field was damaged severely. Forty to 100 per cent of the stems were cut off on essentially all of the acreage of the common breadwheats.

The damage in Rescue fields last year on the other hand, was negligible.

Rescue is living up to its name and saving bread for a hungry world.

Army Will Blast Underground Caverns to Check Strength

WASHINGTON.—The army will undertake a series of tests in underground explosions, to determine the best construction to resist attack by guided missiles and modern heavy bombs, it was announced. The explosions will be set off in four types of soil and four types of rock.

Results are expected to guide army engineers in designing blast-proof command posts and other vital military installations. It is hoped the data obtained will assist industrial engineers in determining the best type of construction for underground factories.

Trials will be conducted at the Dugway proving ground near Salt Lake City; near Castle Dale, Utah, and near Grand Junction, Colo. They will start with explosive charges of 320 pounds of TNT against a small structure. Installations and charges will mount progressively until a final explosion of 320,000 pounds of TNT is set off.

Lieut. Gen. R. A. Wheeler, chief engineer, said, "The tests will provide technical knowledge based on actual experiments of the type of underground facilities to withstand modern bombs and guided missiles."

General Wheeler emphasized that no atomic bombs would be used.

Congressman Submits Bill for Funds to Purify Ocean Water

WASHINGTON.—Scientific research to make fresh water from sea water is proposed by a bill before Congress introduced by Rep. Fletcher (Rep., Calif.) which would place the study in the hands of the navy.

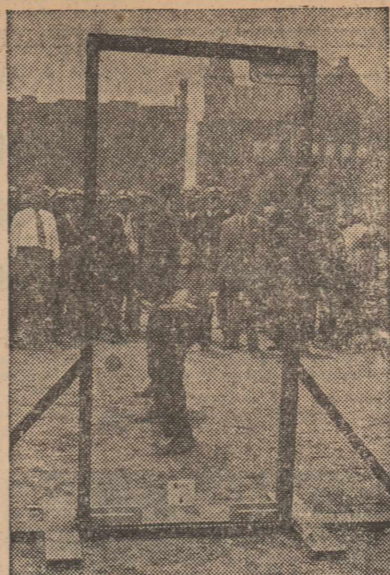

The measure would authorize the navy to operate one or more demonstration plants to produce potable water from sea water.

Desalting sea water has long been carried out by the ordinary distillation process on shipboard and other places. This requires considerable fixed equipment.

In the war several methods were developed for use on lifeboats. These required only such equipment as could be easily stored with other supplies in the boats.

The principle employed in these methods is what is known as ion exchangers. These cause an interchange of ions between the material in solution and the solid introduced. The process is used in water softeners.

CHICAGO—It's a man-bites-dog story when firemen go to school to learn how to break glass but that's what the Chicago fire department is doing in this picture. The glass is Herculite, the super-strong tempered glass used in modern all-glass doors. Two men making a running stab at the panel with a 14-foot pike-pole did not succeed in breaking through, as the arch in the pole clearly shows.

Executive Loses 18 Pounds After Eating Grass for One Month

TAYLOR, TEXAS.—Elmore Torn, executive vice-president of the Texas Chemurgic council, is looking toward a square meal after more than a month on a grass diet.

Torn went on the diet of dehydrated cereal grasses as a means of expressing his individual support of the European aid plan.

He vowed to remain on the diet until the plan became a law. But even though the aid bill has been passed, Torn is still "tapering off" his grass diet.

He says whole milk will be supplemented and lean steaks added gradually until his daily calorie intake is stepped up from about 200 to 1,200.

Torn said his loss of weight during the entire experiment was only about 18 pounds from his original 200.

After a month of eating very little but dehydrated grass pills, Torn said chlorophyll from now on "will have a prominent place in my ration for cutting away the fat and hardening the muscles."

Eight Acres of Farmland Slip Into Sixty-Foot Hole

GREENSBORO, FLA.—During an inspection of his farm, D. W. Pitts found that eight acres of his land fell into a sixty-foot hole.

Neighbors recalled hearing a loud noise, but because of continuous heavy rains, Pitts didn't investigate.

State Geologist, Robert N. Vernon said the collapse probably resulted from water eating out underlying limestone foundations.

FIRST AID to the AILING HOUSE
by Roger C. Whitman

QUESTION: Several of our chairs have loose legs and rungs. Please advise how to repair.

ANSWER: Take the chairs apart and scrape off all the dried glue from the ends of the rungs and other parts, as well as from the holes into which the rungs fit. For each end of a rung or other loose part, cut a piece of an old "silk" stocking that will go over it and that can be forced into the hole. Use plenty of glue on the ends and drive the parts together tightly. The glue will soak through the "silk," which will form a tight packing. After drying, trim off the edges of the "silk" with a razor blade. In place of the "silk" you may be able to buy thin steel slips intended for tightening a chair.

QUESTION: We have single flooring, of four-inch, soft-wood planks, very badly worn in spots. We intend only to paint the floors. Later, would it be practical to lay plywood and cover that with in-laid linoleum blocks or carpeting? We do not wish a hardwood floor, for the children are so hard on them.

ANSWER: The linoleum laid over plywood should be very satisfactory. If the children are very young, I suggest that you lay a warm rug or carpeting on the floor, which would be warmer for the children to sit on. My own preference would be for a hardwood floor, however, as it will take a great deal of punishment if properly finished.

Value of Vegetable and Fruits
Vegetables and fruits should be included in the daily meals of every family. They are protective foods. By using them we can get many of the necessary minerals and vitamins which help to maintain good health. Actually they are better for one's health and cost less than tonics and cathartics. Since many fruits and vegetables are low in calories, they can be used generously by those who want to keep their weight under control. Vegetables and fruits make good eating. They are versatile, so they can be used in many ways. If they are varied and served properly prepared, the family will never tire of them.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

U. S.-Russia Events Reach Climax; Moscow Parley Continues Uneasily; Soviets Sever Consular Relations

By Bill Schoentgen, WNU Staff Writer

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Discussion

THE AX WAS THERE RUSSIANS: Climactic

Virtually every avenue of public thought in the U. S. was teeming with Russians, shadows of Russians and a few Red convertibles.

There was a feeling, however, that the international commotion had reached its climax and was ready to start subsiding, partly because public interest, flagellated into a state of high excitement, couldn't stand the stress and strain of it all much longer.

Nevertheless, events having to do with Russia remained for the time being, at least, reasonably climactic: The Moscow talks were ready either to pay off or break down; Russia had broken off consular relations with the U. S.; Mrs. Oksana Kasenkina, the widow-jumping Russian schoolteacher, had told the story of how she had been strong-armed.

Moscow

In the Kremlin, where the three western ambassadors were trying to pound out some kind of tentative basis for negotiations with the Soviet Union, the Russians were playing their familiar game of hit-and-run. U. S. Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith, British Representative Frank Roberts and French Ambassador Yves Chataigneau had been drudging through a series of meetings with the implacable V. M. Molotov, Soviet foreign minister. Molotov, as usual, was hard, tough, adamant in his adherence to current Soviet policy on the Berlin and Germany problems. No progress was made; the three western representatives were dispirited, although they kept to their chore. The word was whispered about that this conference might break up in total failure.

Then came a break, or so it appeared. Premier Stalin would meet again with the three envoys. In the ensuing discussions with Stalin hopes again were raised that the western powers might succeed in at least partially lifting the Berlin blockade and perhaps effect an area of agreement that could be used for a subsequent top-level meeting to iron out some of the major East-West differences.

But there were some who still could see the ax on the peace table. Somehow, there was a familiar pattern behind these negotiations that went something like this:

After Molotov had subjected his fellow conferees to hour after hour of his case-hardened refusals to come to terms, attempting by those tactics to wear his diplomatic opponents down, the scene was set for Stalin's return.

Stalin came on with his air of geniality and good will, apparently not only willing but eager to reach common ground. His attitude was so manifestly different from Molotov's that hopes again soared.

There was the danger. Lulled into optimism, the western envoys might be trapped into making concessions that should not be made. This same kind of Molotov-to-Stalin play had worked before.

Hit the Road

Jacob M. Lomakin, Soviet consul general in New York, had conducted himself improperly and discredibly in the affair of the Russian schoolteacher, Mrs. Oksana

Watch That Credit

Prospective home buyers who might plunge beyond their means simply because down payments are lower under the new housing law have been warned by government housing experts to avoid that trap. "Our only worry," one expert said, "is that the lower down payments will encourage people to buy homes they can't afford. When you reduce the down payment, the monthly payments are more."

Kasenkina, the U. S. state department pointed out as it ordered him out of the country.

It was a sensational turn of events. In a note to the Soviet embassy the state department asserted that Lomakin had, in effect, misled his own government with regard to the Kasenkina case so that the protests which the Soviets made to the U. S. were "based on misinformation."

In addition, the note charged that the consul general had "hindered the investigation of the competent police officials by refusing to allow them to interview Mrs. Kasenkina" while she was under control of the Soviet consul.

Then, even as Lomakin was packing his bags and preparing to leave the country, Russia countered sharply by formally severing consular relations with the U. S. and repeating its accusations of bad faith.

That seemed to prove that Lomakin's actions in the Kasenkina affair were not so much the expression of his individual initiative as they were a direct reflection of Kremlin policy.

However, no one was worrying too much about the breaking off of consular relations. The move did not mean that diplomatic relations were severed.

Soviet consular activities in the U. S. were limited to arranging for mutual trade and travel between the two nations. Since there is practically no trade or travel exchange taking place, the presence or absence of a consul wouldn't make too much difference.

To Escape

Lying weak and ashen-faced in her hospital bed in New York, Mrs. Oksana Kasenkina finally got around to telling the story of why she leaped from the third-story window of the Soviet consulate.

"I jumped to escape, not to kill myself," she said. She said that her "rescue" from the Tolstoy foundation's Reed farm was not a "rescue but an arrest," engineered by the Russian consul-general.

She did not want to go back to Russia. Although she loves her people, she stated that "I don't agree with the policies of Josef Stalin. I cannot agree with the regime in the Soviet."

VIEWPOINTS: Religious

It couldn't be called schismatic; it was thoroughly democratic.

In such a way delegates to the first assembly of the World Council of Churches might have assessed the first two addresses which officially opened the historic sessions in Amsterdam.

John Foster Dulles, U. S. lay leader in many religious activities and international-minded statesman, and Czechoslovakia's Joseph L. Hromadka of the Evangelical Church of Czech Brethren, speaking in a section discussion on "The Church and International Disorder," between them managed to strip much of the camouflage from the growing philosophical and spiritual rift separating the East and West.

Total result of Dulles' and Hromadka's addresses, taken together, was not to presage a religious split between the two blocs of nations but rather to define the problems at the root of current international disorders for those who are courageous enough to attack them with spiritual weapons instead of guns.

DULLES . . . "Peace can never be stabilized except by institutions that seek to reflect moral law and that respect the dignity of the individual. And the present methods of communism are incompatible with peaceful changes.

"Collective action may at times be required, pursuant to the United Nations charter, to protect member states or individual human beings in their charter rights.

"Those who believe in moral law and human dignity must be concerned to make social institutions reflect those ideals."

HROMADKA . . . The world is seeing "the end of western supremacy within the realm of international order.

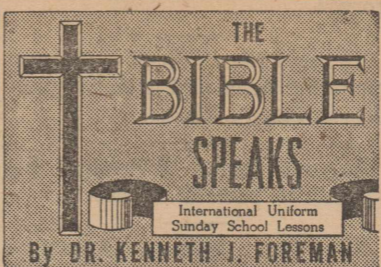

"Now, three years after World War II, the western man hasn't yet recovered and is losing more and more the last remnants of his world leadership."

He "hasn't much to offer along the lines of moral, philosophical or spiritual leadership."

OUTPUT: Upshoot

Total national output of goods and services, stimulated by inflationary forces which have been growing stronger since early summer, hit a record-breaking rate of 248.2 billion dollars in the second quarter of the fiscal year, the commerce department has reported.

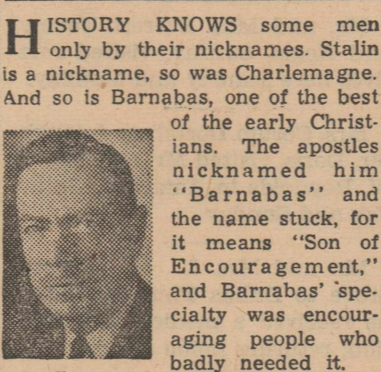

That figure is 4.4 billion dollars above the peak reached in the first three months of this year, according to the department.

The Man for the Job

Lesson for September 12, 1948

HISTORY KNOWS some men only by their nicknames. Stalin is a nickname, so was Charlemagne. And so is Barnabas, one of the best of the early Christians. The apostles nicknamed him "Barnabas" and the name stuck, for it means "Son of Encouragement," and Barnabas' specialty was encouraging people who badly needed it.

When Saul was converted, there was an awkward situation when that young convert went back to Jerusalem. The little society of Christians there knew Saul for a tiger. They had seen their friends dragged off by his henchmen. So when Saul showed up among the very people he had terrified, when he not only showed up but claimed to be one of them, no wonder they were frightened.

All but Barnabas. Somehow or other (shall we say it was God's Spirit in him?) Barnabas was not afraid. He took Saul the Terrible by the hand, he introduced him to the church leaders, he told them his story, he sponsored Saul as we would say.

An Eye for God

AFTER THAT EXPERIENCE with Saul, Barnabas' friends came to think of him as a man who could probably see the good in any man or situation if there was any good to be seen. So when the headquarters church in old Jerusalem heard of a novel sort of church down in Antioch, they sent this "Son of Encouragement" down to see what went on. It was certainly no church on the Jerusalem pattern; was it a good one, or even a genuine church at all? Barnabas would know. And so he did.

Other men could see the large number of church members in Antioch; others could give you statistics about its rate of growth; others could tell you it was bi-racial, a daring experiment then as now. Some applauded, some raised their eyebrows.

But we read that Barnabas had eyes in his soul as well as in his head. What he saw, as he looked at that stirring new church with its new ways, was "the grace of God." All of us can see things on the surface, we can count noses, we can make reports for the papers. But seeing underneath, seeing the grace of God (or the need of it)—that is not so easy. Wanted for every church: A Barnabas!

Round Peg—Round Hole

WHEN BARNABAS had taken stock at Antioch he knew the place needed a man, and he knew the man for the place. Off he went across the Taurus mountains to Tarsus, where Saul was doing nothing particular, and he brought Saul to Tarsus and set him to work. Saul turned out to be, as Barnabas expected, the round peg for the round hole.

That team was a "natural"—but only Barnabas would have thought of it. Paul fitted in with the church, too. A tireless worker, he was just the man for that vital growing congregation. Getting the right people for the right jobs is still one of the big problems of the Christian church. Many a Sunday School class, for instance, now is withering on the stalk, only because the Sunday school superintendent has never found the right teacher.

The Hands of the Church

THE TIME came when Barnabas and Saul were sent out by that same Antioch church to be the first foreign missionaries ever deliberately sent out by any Christian church. The hands of the church were laid on them before they left.

To this day, when a man is set apart, by ordination, for a particular work in the Christian church, hands are laid upon his head. This is more than an antique ceremony, there is more than magic in it.

The laying on of hands may mean different things to different churches, but this at least it always means: The men so ordained are now the hands of the churches they represent.

Woodpeckers Hit Phone Service

The telephone service in many parts of Britain is being fouled up by a strange creature—the woodpecker. For years the woodpeckers have been attacking telegraph poles and doing them no good.

There's some mystery about the whole affair. Why do woodpeckers go for telegraph poles which are without bark, are harder than dead trees, and are far less likely to harbor insects? The experts have been led to the conclusion that it's the humming.

The only way to discourage the woodpeckers seems to be to silence the humming by insulating the wires for a distance of 10 inches next to the poles.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery. Symptoms may be nagging headache, persistent dizziness, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination. There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Embroidered Pulpit Cloth Is Gift From Swedish King

STOCKHOLM, SWEDEN. — King Gustaf of Sweden has put the finishing touches to an exquisite pulpit cloth that he embroidered and is sending as a gift to the First Evangelical church of Worcester, Mass.

Now that he has had to drop ten on his physician's advice, embroidery is the 89-year-old king's principal hobby.

The ornament for the Worcester church is the seventh he has made. On hand woven emerald venetian silk the monarch has embroidered a cross and rich edge of varying colors.

Silk stockings were first seen in the 16th century but they weren't really observed until the 20th century.

Drug Aids Fight On Tuberculosis

Streptomycin Is Hailed as 'First Real Relief' for Victims of Disease.

PHILADELPHIA. — The wonder drug, streptomycin, has become "the first real relief the medical profession ever has had for the treatment of tuberculosis," but the drug does not cure the disease, Dr. John B. Barnwell of the U. S. Veterans' administration stated before a meeting of specialists.

Dr. Barnwell, head of the tuberculosis branch of the Veterans' administration, said that streptomycin, an antibiotic drug, has greatly benefited the sufferers of tuberculosis in government hospitals, because it arrests annoying symptoms of the disease, and definitely suppresses the tuberculosis germ.

The doctor was one of several hundred specialists attending the meeting of the Eastern Section of American Trudeau society.

Used in 1,750 Cases. He said streptomycin's effectiveness was discovered in the treatment of 1,750 cases of tuberculosis in veterans' hospitals, and that of this highly selected group, 90 percent showed marked improvement through use of the drug.

The improvement in this group was manifested by a lowering of temperature, gain in weight, increased appetite and decreased cough. These gains, however, ceased when the drug was stopped, Dr. Barnwell pointed out.

Dr. Arthur M. Walker, also of Veterans' administration, told the meeting of the year-long intensive study the administration has been making in use of streptomycin in tuberculosis.

Warning Given. Dr. H. C. Hinshaw of the Mayo clinic, Rochester, Minn., warned the doctors against indiscriminate use of streptomycin. He said there was definite evidence that the drug was the best adjunct medicine has against tuberculosis, but that it should be administered only by a specialist in the disease.

"Indiscriminate use of penicillin—another antibiotic agent—has become almost a tradition," Dr. Hinshaw said, "and it has set a bad precedent for streptomycin. Many of us doctors are alarmed at the way some general practitioners are using the drug in treatment of this disease."

"I have heard where patients are being treated in their home for the disease by doctors who are not experienced in tuberculosis. They are doing so under the false premise that streptomycin simplifies treatment of the disease. This is exactly the opposite, as use of the drug complicates treatment, and it is even more important that tuberculosis be treated by a specialist."

Foundation Walls Rise For New School Building

Concrete wall foundations for the new grade school building continue to rise this week as additional workmen find places in Stratford in which to live.

Foundation walls for the auditorium section have been completed. Back-filling is being completed for the floor of the auditorium and cafeteria section. Forms are being built for pouring the concrete foundation for the class room section of the building.
