Paper Links Hughes With Drug Report

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The death of millionaire industrialist Howard Hughes may have been caused by an overdose of codeine, according to a copyrighted story in the Philadelphia Inquirer's Sunday editions.

Officially, the death of the recluse Hughes aboard a plane en route from Mexico to Houston has been listed as chronic renal failure, the failure of the kidneys.

But The Inquirer said its examination of what it described as a long-suppressed toxicological report revealed that Hughes' body contained a potentially lethal amount of the painkiller codeine at the time of death. The report had been kept secret, the paper said.

Lapsed Into Coma

Hughes died April 5, 1976, at age 70, about 18 hours after lapsing into a coma in a state of dehydration and emaciation. He weighed only 94 pounds.

The autopsy was performed privately by Dr. Jack Titus, chief of the pathology service at Methodist Hospital in Houston, at the request of Hughes' relatives in the city. Dr. Joseph A. Jachimczyk, Harris County, Texas, medical examiner, was invited by Titus to participate as an observer.

Neither Titus nor Jachimczyk would discuss the Inquirer's report on codeine. Portions of their autopsy report, filed with Harris County Probate Judge Pat Gregory, which have been made public do not mention a codeine level as high as that reported by the Inquirer.

Both men said they knew of no other autopsy report. Titus agreed that another physician present at the autopsy may have made such a report, but said "I would have no idea who that would be."

Health Problems Listed

Titus said after performing the autopsy that Hughes weighted only 90 to 95 pounds and had cancer, a peptic ulcer, kidney disease and severely decayed teeth.

The newspaper said the toxicological report placed the codeine level in Hughes' blood at 1.96 micrograms per milliliter of blood.

Citing current medical literature, the Inquirer said that level was about 20 times higher than would have been produced by a therapeutic dose of the drug.

Furthermore, the Inquirer said, the level of codeine in the blood of persons whose deaths were attributed to codeine poisoning has been as low as only 1.4 micrograms per milliliter.

Tolerance Buildup Possible

Hughes theoretically could have built up a considerable tolerance to codeine, permitting him to survive doses which would kill an average person, according to several pharmacologists and pathologists interviewed by the Inquirer.

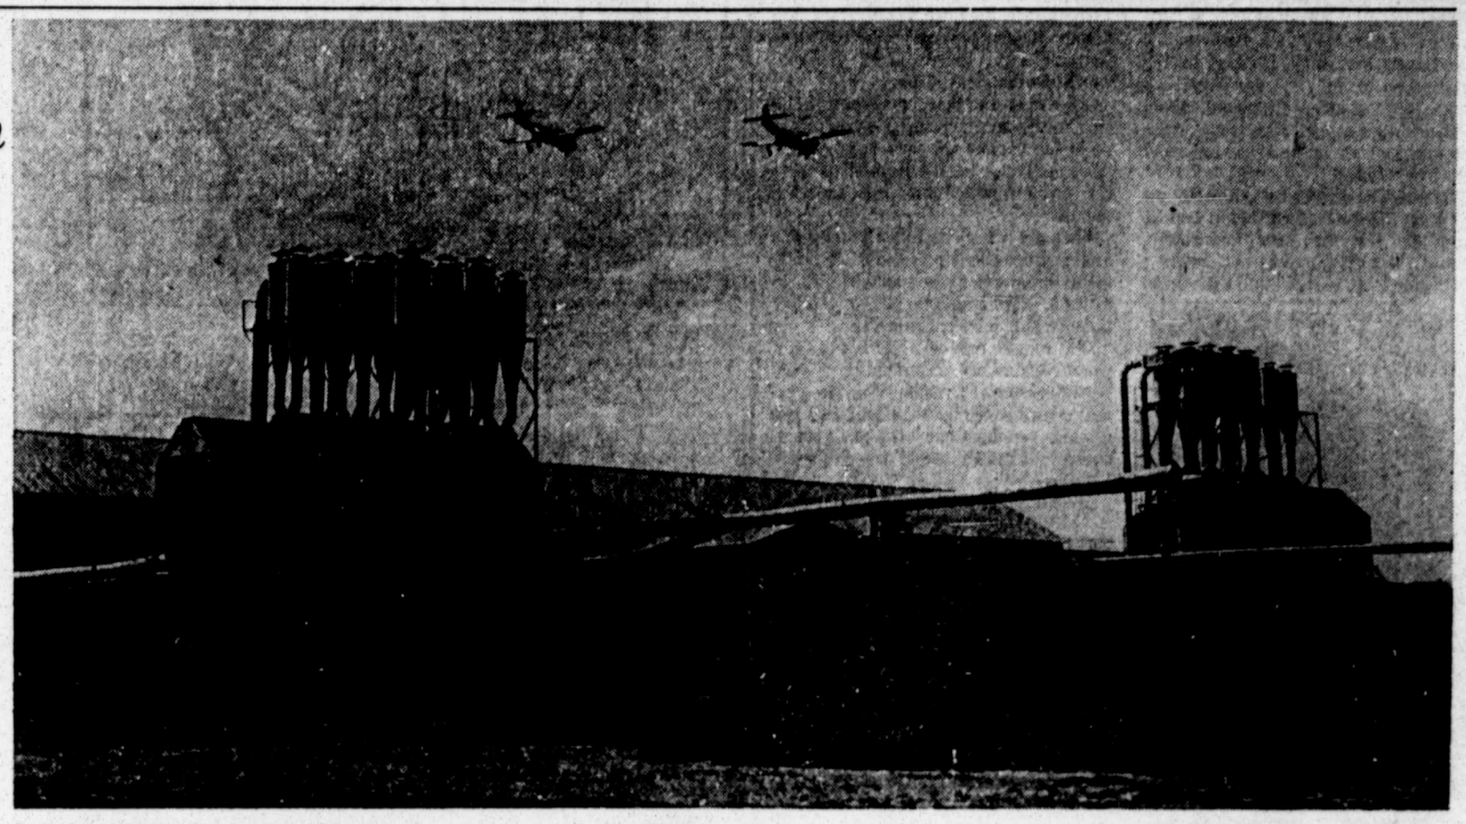
Hughes may have been addicted to the drug for several years, having begun using the painkiller after a plane crash in the 1940s, according to several reports and court testimony.

Indictments have been returned in Las Vegas, Nev., and Ogden, Utah, concerning allegations that Hughes had been illegally supplied with narcotics and tranquilizers for some time before his death.

Two of Hughes' personal physicians, Dr. Norman F. Crane of Los Angeles and Dr. Wilbur S. Thain of Logan, Utah, along with John M. Holmes, a Hughes aide, have been charged with drug-law violations.

KENNEDY URGES PROBE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., urged on Sunday the creation of an independent special prosecutor to investigate "serious charges of police brutality" in northern Ireland. Kennedy said he is deeply concerned about allegations of police brutality in the recent report of Amnesty International, which investigated a section of the Royal Ulster Constabulary in Northern Ireland.



DAILY ROUTINE—The buzzing of T-37 Tweets is a regular sound above the Hurlwood gin which, like many other Hurlwood structures will be acquired and removed to provide a clear zone for Reese Air Force Base. House Sets Sights On Abortion Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House prepared to focus this week on the divisive question of government payments for abortions and decide on new spending targets for six executive departments.

Meanwhile, the Senate remained tied up in a filibuster over legislation to revise labor laws and make it easier for unions to organize.

The issue of abortion payments through the Medicaid program was the last major one remaining to be considered as a part of the appropriations bill for the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare. Debate on the issue has been set for Tuesday.

Members have agreed on a procedure which will limit to three the options available for approval. It also is expected to save time in this election year. It precludes the kind of free-for-all debate where any set of conditions and any number of amendments could be proposed.

The House and Senate argued over this issue for nearly six months last year before reaching an agreement and congressional leaders hope to avoid a repeat performance.

The House members will have the choice of approving a restrictive set of conditions which the Senate opposed last year, extending the agreement reached with the Senate last year, or removing all references to abortion from the bill.

Three Conditions Proposed

The restrictive proposal said abortions should be paid for only when a woman's life is in danger. The agreement reached last year adds two other conditions: when a woman is a victim of rape or incest which has been reported or when two physicians say she would suffer severe and long-lasting physical health damage.

The House was also scheduled to adopt budget levels for the departments of State and Justice today and Housing and Urban Development on Wednesday. All budget proposals approved by the House must be seconded by the Senate, which is writing its own spending goals.

Meanwhile, the Senate's attention was still on the labor law filibuster.

Votes on shutting off the debate were scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday. Supporters of the legislation hoped to

VOTERS 'OVERREACTED'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The head of America's biggest public employee union said Sunday California voters overreacted to irresponsible political behavior when they voted to slash property taxes. "The whole thing is a disaster," Jerry Wurf, president of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees Union, said in an interview on CBS' "Face the Nation" program.

Land Acquisition For Reese Clear Zone Opens Today

By GERRY BURTON
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Two years of wondering, fear, anger and resignation voiced by Hurlwood residents culminate today when negotiations open for the purchase of a clear zone for Reese Air Force Base.

Bob Seaman, negotiator for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, is scheduled to be in Hurlwood to put a "fair market value" price tag on 258 acres of land to the north and south of Reese.

On-Spot Sales

According to a spokesman for the Corps' Fort Worth division, Seaman will be empowered to close sales on the spot and explain all details of the transaction, including assistance available to displaced persons.

Avenues open to those dissatisfied with the price also will be detailed by Seaman who is working with an amount in the neighborhood of $2 million.

No takeover date for the clear zone has been set.

Intended acquisition of land within 3,000 feet of the end of Reese runways was announced at Reese on June 22, 1976, in accordance with the air base needs outlined in the Air Force's Air Installation Compatible Use Zone (AICUZ).

Reasons Listed

High hazard potential and urban encroachment were listed as reasons by Brig. Gen. Edward Mendel, then commander of the 64th Flying Training Wing at Reese.

The clear zone is necessary, he emphasized, to assure the presence of Reese on the South Plains. Other bases shut in by the encroaching civilian community had been closed or missions changed.

Reese, with the single mission of training pilots for the Air Force, can not change its mission.

The AICUZ concept was instituted throughout the Air Force to protect air bases vital to the nation's defense.

In the clear zone, where accident potential is highest according to an Air Force-wide survey, the only activity allowed will be farming.

ALI TO VISIT RUSSIA

NEW YORK (AP) — Former heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali left the United States on Sunday for a 12-day goodwill tour of the Soviet Union, and said he expects no problem being recognized. When asked whether he planned to tell the people of the USSR that he's the greatest, Ali said, "I don't think that I'll have to."

Lubbock Man's Plea Fails To Halt Gunman

Lubbock police said Kenneth Camel of 1921 Baylor St. died about 4:05 a.m. Sunday in West Texas Hospital of a single gunshot wound to the back of the head.

Justice of the Peace Charles E. Smith ruled his death homicide, the 19th this year and the city's 16th murder for 1978.

Officers responding to a call for help from residents of the Colonial Apartments at 416 Idalou Road about 3 a.m. found Camel, alive but unresponsive, lying on the ground outside the apartment complex just south of the northern wing of residence

Emergency Medical Service technicians and doctors at the hospital labored for more than an hour to revive the man without success.

"No, please, no," one witness said she heard a man's voice outside her apartment plead just before she also heard three gunshots. She saw no one except Camel outside the complex, however, she told police.

Officers were still seeking suspects in the case late Sunday.

Funeral arrangements for the man are pending with Jamison and Son Funeral Home.

Cuban Says He Opposed Zaire Raid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cuban leader Fidel Castro informed the United States four days after Katangan rebels invaded Zaire that he had prior knowledge of the attack and tried to head it off, Senate sources said Saturday night.

Castro's statement appears to support President Carter's claim that Cuba was aware of the invasion plans but casts doubt on his assertion that the Cubans "obviously did nothing" to prevent the bloody attack on Shaba Province.

Sources, who asked not to be named, said Castro made his comments on May 17 to Lyle F. Lane, the top U.S. diplomat in Havana, and that the contents of his remarks were relayed to the State Department by Lane in a secret cable.

Read To Senators

Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., read a copy of the cable to a closed meeting of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on Friday as CIA director Stansfield Turner was briefing the panel on evidence to support Carter's claim of Cuban involvement, the sources said.

After McGovern read the cable, Turner confirmed its contents and said it had not been disclosed previously because Carter administration officials did not believe Castro was telling the truth, the sources added.

Sen. Dick Clark, D-Iowa, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on Africa, referred to the cable in a telephone interview Saturday night.

Secrecy Criticized

"The thing that I find disturbing is that the president didn't bring it (the cable) out and let the Congress and public decide (on Castro's truthfulness)," he said.

The sources said Castro told Lane that he learned early in April of the impending invasion by Angola-based Katangan rebels into their former homeland, now known as Shaba Province.

Castro claimed he immediately approached Angolan leader Agostino Neto in an effort to prevent the invasion, but failed to block the attack partly because Neto was ill and staying in the Soviet Union, the sources said.

Mining City Captured

The Katangans invaded Shaba Province on May 13, capturing the copper-mining city of Kolwezi and killing hundreds of black and white civilians.

The rebels were eventually dislodged from Kolwezi and driven back into Angola by a combined force of French,

Trailer Park Hit By Blaze

By IRA PERRY
Avalanche-Journal Staff

FLAMES VISIBLE from almost a mile away Sunday gutted a trailer home just east of the city as firemen, without the aid of fire hydrants, fought to keep the blaze from spreading.

The 3 p.m. fire directly caused no injuries. But an hour after the flames were doused, an Idalou fireman revived an 8-year-old girl whose heart and breathing reportedly had stopped when she came in contact with a live electrical wire dislodged from its insulation by the flames.

Girls Condition Satisfactory

Firemen from the Idalou and Roosevelt Fire Departments battled the blaze at the Lionel Surrette home in Carriage Mobile Estates at 5501 Acuff Road for more than an hour before extinguishing the flames.

Late Sunday, firemen said an exact cause of the blaze remained unknown but an investigation determined the fire apparently began in the Surrette's kitchen.

Sheriff's deputies said the family had left their home only minutes before the blaze broke out.

Nearby Trailers Threatened

"There was smoke just rolling out the windows all around the place," said Larry Bolt, who lives next to the Surrette home at 225 Kimberly Drive. "The fire was already so hot you couldn't even touch the trailers around it when we saw the thing."

Flames eventually spread from the $8,000 home to storage sheds on three other lots near the Surrette trailer, but firemen contained the flames before other homes suffered more than smoke and water damage. Residents estimated damage to the entire complex at about $15,000.

"If we'd had just a little more wind, about like yesterday, we would have never stopped it," one firemen said. "The trailers back there wouldn't have stood a chance without fire hydrants out here. We'd just have had to ferry water back and forth, and it's a long way to Idalou."

Residents said there were no fire hydrants within two miles of the Lubbock County trailer park, even though they said they have requested hydrants several times without success.

"The city (Lubbock) won't come out here even though we're only two miles from the Loop, and nobody else will run out here and get here in less than 15 minutes either." 52-year-old H.R. Townsend, a park resident, complained. "I've been

Legislators Prepare Vote On Hospital Cost Curbs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Commerce Committee votes this week on a major administration program that would force hospitals to cut their spiraling costs.

The committee, headed by Rep. Harley Staggers, D-W.Va., last week beat down an effort to return the bill to subcommittee amd delay the administration program for another year.

Strongly opposed by the American Medical Association and hospital groups, the bill demands that hospitals cut their inflation rate by 2 percent in 1978 and the same amount in 1979 or face mandatory federal controls over bookkeeping and other procedures to hold down their costs.

The bill would exempt small rural hospitals that have less thun 4,000 annual admissions and are located at least 10 miles from each other.

"Powerful special interests will oppose any bill to fight inflation," President Carter warned last week in urging support for the bill.

He called the hospital cost bill the committee's "most important anti-inflation decision of this congressional session."

The bill was authored by Reps. Paul Rogers, D-Fla., and Tim Lee Carter, R-Ky., who pointed to administration charges that hospital costs rose an average of 17 percent a year between 1975 and 1977.

But Rep. Jim Santini, D-Nev., like a number of other congressmen, feels federal cost controls on hopsitals also might cut into the quality of health care. He has prepured an amendment that would gut the program by removing the threat of federal cost controls. The Santini amendment also proposes an 11-member Na-

Roller Coaster Connoisseur Gets Ride Of Life

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — Paul Greenwald became a roller coaster freak at age 12, when he rode the Crystal Beach Comet on the Ontario side of Lake Erie. "I hated it so much I loved it," he recalls. "I rode it a dozen times the first night."

Now 33, Greenwald has ridden about 50 roller coasters, most of them east of the Mississippi, from the ricky-tick rumble of wooden rides to the smooth, rocket-like whoosh of steel coasters.

Each had its charms, but none could compare to the old wooden Comet with its horrendous drop — until Greenwald found the roller coaster of his dreams here this week.

Towering over a ravine in the woods of The Old Country Busch Gardens is the newly built, $5 million Loch Ness Monster, billed as the tallest, fastest coaster anywhere. It has the longest (114.2 feet) and steepest (55 degrees) drop in the world.

It has attracted the first national convention of roller coaster hobbyists here this weekend. It's a select crowd, fewer than 200.

"I'm a connoisseur of the steep drop...the long drop.. .the parabolic drop," Greenwald said as he and his partner, Roy Brashears, eased into their padded seats and lowered the safety bar.

"It's like when you hit bottom, that's when your stomach gets up to your hairline," he said, strapping on a crash helmet to keep the wind out of his ears. "It's like..."

And away they went, clanking up the long incline to the very top. Then, suddenly, they exploded downward, plummeting toward a small lake, their cheeks flattening as they hit nearly 70 miles per hour in less than three seconds.

Whomp! The coaster bottomed out just feet from the water, then shot 91 feet toward the sky on sheer momentum, banked sharply, roared in and out of a 360-degree loop, plunged into a darkened tunnel, whipped through three downward spirals, blasted back out into the sunshine and through a second tight loop-de-loop, then braked gently to a halt. Elapsed time: 2 minutes, 10 seconds.

"A dynamite ride!" shouted the grinning Greenwald as he clambered out. "This is the best steel coaster I've ever ridden," better even than his previous favorite, the Mind Bender at Six Flags Over Georgia, outside Atlanta.

On balance, the Loch Ness outranks the Comet, though purists are reluctant to compare steel and wooden coasters, which give distinctly different rides.

Greenwald says that for the best heart-stopping, stomach-churning coaster ride, sit in the back of the very last car. For "visual effect," try the front of the first car. If you want a "tame" ride, sit in the middle.

When not riding coasters, Greenwald is a ski instructor in winter and a tour guide in the summer in his hometown of Niagara Falls, N.Y. Brashears, 22, of Marlow Heights, Md., is a Pentagon clerk.

Next month, they will attempt to set a world's endurance record on the Circus World coaster at Orlando, Fla. The current record is 103 hours, established last summer on the Coney Island Cyclone. Greenwald and Brashears are aiming for 125 hours.

Greenwald estimates that among the growing number of coaster enthusiasts around the country, there are only a couple dozen hard-core addicts like himself.

The symptoms?

"When you're driving down the highway, and you see the top of a roller coaster above the trees, and the adrenaline starts rising in your blood, then you know you're hard-core."

DISCO CHAMP — Bruce Rackler, national disco dance champion, sets the pace for students he teaches at a YMCA in the Dallas suburb of Duncanville every Saturday afternoon. Rackler, 19, won the national title at the championship held in Indianapolis. (AP Laserphoto)

Top Dancer Finds Disco Movie 'Trashy'

Rackler, 19, winner recently of the national disco dance championship held in Indianapolis, Ind., is not exactly the Tony Manero character portrayed by actor John Travolta in the disco movie "Saturday night Fever."

"I always thought I'd be a banker," he shrugged. "Apparently not."

The gangling young man conducts YMCA classes Saturday afternoon in this Dallas suburb where eager and enterprising young disco denizens attempt to copy Rackler's twirls and spins and skulking, cat-like movements across the polished floor.

Dressed in red and gold satin, Rackler ends a complex series of precision steps then — somewhat unexpectedly — launches an attack on the movie which has helped make Travolta-style dancing a national craze.

The film, he said, was "trashy." Although he has seen it seven times, Rackler said he "really didn't care for the part about the disco because I thought they made the disco look real trashy .... when something so classy as an Oscar touched down on the movie I think just the nomination helped disco more than anything — that and the BeeGees and John Travolta."

Rackler began dancing as a small child. "My father thought it was sort of a sissy thing." But as time went on his style and technique took on a distinctive form. "Most of my dances I just picked up off the dance floor."

Being the nation's number one disco dancer has decided advantages, said Rackler.

"There's all kinds of chances in Hollywood and everything. A title like this could mean a lot to a person. It's really kind of fun living in a small town having a title like this. They really treat you like you're extra special," he said.

He plans a series of tours this summer with an eye toward one day owning his own disco club.

But, like "Saturday Night Fever's" Manero character, Rackler is a realist. "A dancer's career is so limited. I know Fred Astaire still dances and all ... but that's why I'd like to own a disco. You'd always have something to fall back on."

At present, Rackler is staying alive operating a bank computer at night, and dancing the days away.

More Sunshine In Store

Sunbathers will get another generous dose of the rays today, as clear skies and summerlike weather are forecast for the South Plains.

Although the high today is forecast to fall short of Sunday's scorching 100, the weather will be a pool-side pleasant upper 80s. Winds will be easterly 10 to 15 mph with a low tonight near 60. No chance of precipitation is forecast through Tuesday.

A ridge of high pressure over the five south central states will continue to bring fair skies to the region. Temperatures, however, will drop back to near seasonal normals today as a result of a low pressure trough from eastern Kansas to the South Plains.

Relative humidity should be near 65 percent at daybreak today, decreasing to about 30 percent this afternoon. The South Plains should see 14 hours of sunshine both today and tomorrow with evaporation losses of around .35 inch predicted.

Weekend weather across the state was perfect for boating and picnicking as the mercury soared to the upper 90s. Abilene and Wink both saw readings of 100, and the low for the state was a warm 83 degrees in Dalhart.

The sunny trend prevailed in most parts of the nation during the weekend. Thundershowers, however, drenched the upper Midwest and Southeast. Temperatures ranged from 47 degrees at Jackson, Wyo., and Lewiston, Mont., to 108 degrees at Carlsbad, N.M. and Imperial, Calif.

The extended forecast for Lubbock and the South Plains calls for a chance of thunderstorms Wednesday through Friday. Otherwise, the days should be fair and warm and the nights relatively cool.

Highs should be in the 90s except in the lower elevations of the Big Bend where they will reach 105. Lows will be in the 60s. Winds should continue to be light and variable.

If you don't vent a clothes dryer to the house, the moisture that emerges from it while clothes are being dried will fill the house with warm, humid air.

Vietnamese Building Up Armed Border Strength

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — Vietnam has moved new divisions of crack troops up to its Cambodian frontier, diplomatic sources said Sunday.

The sources said nine of the best infantry divisions in the Vietnamese Army now man the border between the two Communist enemies.

Most of the Vietnamese troops are believed to be soldiers and units of the former North Vietnamese army, replacing so-called "draftee divisions" that have fared poorly in fighting with the Khmer Rouge, they said.

Included in the new border lineup by the Vietnamese is the "Gold Star" 2nd infantry division, which formerly manned central coastal provinces of Vietnam for the Communist side.

Other units moved south from northern Vietnam to Cambodia through Laos, marking the first known use of the Ho Chi Minh trail network since at least 1974, one source said.

He said intelligence officers believed the Vietnamese were trying to keep troop movements secret, particularly from their own population, and so reactivated the jungle highway network throughout eastern Laos.

The new buildup by the Vietnamese puts some of Hanoi's best troops and commanders on the Cambodian frontier.

Although there now are two fewer infantry divisions on the border than last February, "The Vietnamese now seem to be interested in quality rather than quantity," a source said.

Many Vietnamese troops were mauled by Cambodian units last December and January during the largest of Vietnam's punitive expeditions into Cambodia.

Old Rivals Renew Fighting

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Kurdish insurgents whose independence struggle was beaten down by Iraq four years ago say they have renewed the fight and are killing Iraqi soldiers.

"Savage battles are being fought in the rugged mountains of northern Iraq," said a statement issued here last week by a group calling itself the Patriotic Union of Kurdistan. "More than 500 Iraqi soldiers were killed" the previous week, it said. The battle reports could not be independently confirmed.

After the 1974 insurrection, Iraq granted partial autonomy to the Kurds.

Current Political Criticisms Not New

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The complaints and promises had a familiar ring — the "evil" of a mushrooming national debt, "mad ... visionary schemes" boosting federal spending, a pledge to curb the "utterly wild and extravagant" costs of government.

One member of Congress decried the high cost of pensions. Another lashed out at poor postal service.

Even the political techniques were the same with members of Congress campaigning against the federal government they were elected to lead.

The comments sounded current, but they dated from the first 40 years of American government, 1789-1829. The criticisms were included in circular letters sent by 120 congressmen to constituents in the first 20 sessions of Congress.

Copies of the three volume work edited by Professor Noble E. Cunningham Jr. of the University of Missouri were given congressional leaders last week.

The national debt was a favorite topic.

"A national debt is a national evil," one congressman wrote constituents in 1808. "Every addition will augment that evil."

Another warned the national debt would continue to climb because of "many mad projects and visionary schemes" that were being proposed daily. Still another promised to oppose "utterly wild and extravagant" spending plans.

The debt according to one congressman was a way for "capitalists" to collect interest on their money at the expense of "the toil and sweat" of the workers.

Government "mismanagement" during the War of 1812 against Great Britain ballooned the public debt from $45 million to more than $120 million, Rep. Samuel Dickens of North Carolina said. He urged Americans in 1817 to make "suitable exertions, in periods of peace, to pay it off and release ourselves and our posterity from so heavy an incumbrance."

Congressmen of the period could hardly have guessed that 160 years later the national dabt would exceed $742 billion — with the interest alone costing more than $55 billion a year.

Rep. Robert Goodloe Harper, a South Carolina Federalist, may have been among the first to warn of runaway cost overruns when he wrote constituents on March 9, 1796.

Six frigates ordered by Congress would "in size, excellence of materials, and excellence of workmanship, far surpass any of the kind heretofore built in any country," he told the people back home.

But, unfortunately, Harper said the cost "greatly exceeds" the original estimate of $688,888. The new cost estimate was $1,142,160.

Other spending sparked congressional ire.

On February 12, 1819, Rep. Jesse Slocumb wrote North Carolina constituents to complain that a pension bill passed the previous year for veterans of the Revolutionary War already had cost $2,715,929.85. And even worse, he said, it was "still increasing with a rapidity and to an amount, certainly not foreseen by its advocates."

Rep. Mathew Lyon of Kentucky, who served in the House from 1797 to 1801, advised colleagues how to deal with constituents who had not been put on the mailing list.

"I manage it this way," Lyon said. "When I am canvassing my district, and I come across a man who looks distantly and coldly at me, I go up cordially to him and say, 'My dear friend, you got my printed letter last session, of course?' 'No, sir,' replies the man with offended dignity, 'I got no such thing.' 'No!' I cry out in a passion. 'No!! Damn that Post Office!'"

Rep. Jordan Doubts Chances Of ERA

NEW YORK (AP) — Rep. Barbara Jordan said Sunday the women's movement is "stalled right now" and that she doubts the Equal Rights Amendment will be ratified by next March, when it expires.

The Texas Democrat, one of three black women in the U.S. House of Representatives, received the Utility Club's "Woman of the Year" award Sunday at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in Manhattan.

The Utility Club is a women's charity organization formed in 1917 to help provide clothing for the doughboys of World War I.

Also honored at the luncheon was the Hon. Earl S. Lucas, mayor of Mound Bayou, Miss.

Jordan attributed the current impasse in the women's movement to disagreement among various women's organizations over the proposed extension of the Equal Rights Amendment.

A bill to extend the deadline for ratification of the ERA will soon be up for approval before the full House Judiciary Committee, of which Jordan is a member. The Texas representative is not standing for reelection in the fall.

"As you know, the defeat of the Equal Rights Amendment in Illinois came as a surprise to some," she said. "A new effort will be made in the Illinois legislature to get it approved."

At last year's National Women's Conference in Houston, she said, "the main thrust of the women's organizations was to work for the passage of the Equal Rights Amendment by the requisite number of states. I personally think it is very unlikely to be passed by March of 1979.

"Some women have been working for the extension, but a lot of women who support ERA are against the extension, which is splitting the women's movement."

The ERA has been approved by 35 states and must be ratified by three more by March 22, 1979, to become part of the Constitution. Four of the 35 states which have ratified the measure have since rescinded approval, but the legality of that move still is in question and the Justice Department has said it is up to Congress to decide. The states which have rescinded approval are Kentucky, Tennessee, Idaho and Nebraska. Kentucky's action was vetoed by the governor, however.

Pet Shop Thieves Nab Hungry Snake

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — The burglars had a taste for the exotic, but they better hope the exotic doesn't have a taste for them, says the owner of R C. Pet Shop.

Police said burglars broke into the shop sometime Saturday morning and made off with $5,600 from a safe. The thieves also took three dogs: a red Chow with blue eyes valued at $325, a black Belgian Tervuren valued at $400 and a cocker spaniel valued at $200.

Rose Cruz, owner of the shop, said she's not worried about the dogs starving. The thieves stole two 50-pound bags of dog food.

Mrs. Cruz is worried, however, about the 5-foot boa constrictor the thieves took.

"She hasn't eaten in a week," Mrs. Cruz said. "I hope it gets them (the thieves) before the police do."

Police said they have made no arrests yet in the case.

Sculptor Creating Art As Well As Home

By RUTHANNE BROCKWAY
Avalanche-Journal Staff

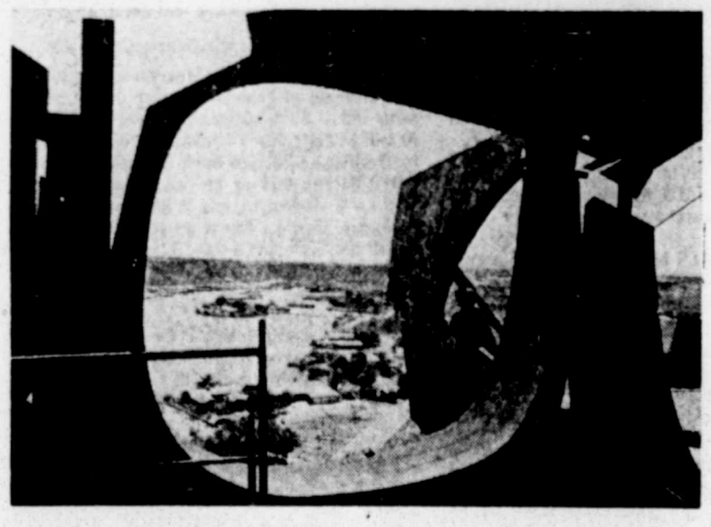
His backyard is the sky. His living room view is like being suspended in a helicopter above the canyon.

A Texas Tech architecture professor and sculptor, Bruno, 33, said he had been creating larger and larger sculptures until he finally decided to build one large enough to live in.

"The overhang is quite sensational because you don't see the lot itself," he said.

"When you step out, you're just in the air. It gives you an added sense of height you wouldn't get if you were just standing on the lot itself."



ART TO LIVE IN — Sculptor Robert Bruno, a Texas Tech architecture professor, wanted a sculpture he could live in, and for the past three years he has been building it at Lake Ransom Canyon. The two-bedroom sculpture dominates the hillside of this secluded village just outside of Lubbock. (Staff Photos by Gary Davis)

When completed, the open frame will enclose two bedrooms, a kitchen and bath, a storage area and a living room with a glass wall connecting it to a terrace overlooking the lake.

An elevator will transport Bruno and his wife Pat from the carport underneath the belly of the four-legged house to the hallway inside.

Although he had a basic idea of the layout of the 1,600 square foot structure before he began building it three years ago, Bruno said one of the challenging things is that he modifies the structure as he constructs it.

"Someone asked me why I don't lose my interest," Bruno said.

"I think probably the single most important aspect of this project — even compared to other large scale sculptures — is that the invention, the designing of it, the creative process as far as inventing new shapes and shape relationships is occurring at full scale," he said. "It isn't something determined in a model and then made 100 times larger."

Of course he had to submit general specifications on the house before he began, but he noted, "There's a great deal to invent as you go along. These are aesthetic things rather than utilitarian things."

A billboard near the entrance of the privately patrolled neighborhood proclaims, "Straight ahead to where the environment spoils people."

He found it at 85 Canyon View Road.

"I had the idea first and then I started looking for a site..." he said. "When I found the site, I corrected the idea to it. So (the house) was completely designed for the area it's on."

From a round-cornered rectangular window in a sitting area of one bedroom one can watch rainbow-striped sailboats floating by on the lake 150 feet below.

"By working out here I've learned the views and all the moods," he said. He's also discovered that if the wind is blowing 20 mph in Lubbock, its velocity may be double that at his lofty perch above the canyon.

Because weather is an important element in construction, Bruno doesn't make any predictions on when the structure will be completed.

Making tools also has slowed his work.

"The only really immodest tool I have is this hydraulic boom up on top which I built recently," he said as he demonstrated its ability to move metal sheets vertically and horizontally.

"It gobbles up time — I have three months of work in that," he said, pointing to the crane. "Outside of basic welding equipment (and the crane), all the tools that I use are quite small and they're all homemade."

"It's amazing if you are patient, you can outsmart the stuft and do incredible things with rather modest tools."

Word of mouth already has brought publicity to the project. Last week a Boston arts magazine writer interviewed Bruno and three weeks ago Mexico's largest newspaper published a three-page story and color photographs.

Bruno will attend an international architecture congress in Mexico City this fall. An exhibit of his home will be shown in the Palace of Fine Arts before an estimated 17,000 architects from around the world.

Curious tourists driving in the area on weekends also have stopped at the house to interview Bruno.

"I usually don't mind although there have been times when I'll be hanging by my fingernails or a piece will be slipping and somebody will roll down the window of their air-conditioned car and say something I can't hear," he said.

On weekdays people working in the area sometimes stop to look at the project.

"A fellow from a glass company said something like 'Boy would I like to put windows in this!' — because this isn't just another job," he related.

Bruno sees the structure not only as an owner and builder, but as an artist.

"One thing I like very much about this house (is that it) answers to some basic human levels. It has to communicate and I like that. Some art can be an isolated thing between the artist and the art. He can stuff it in his closet if he wants to and it doesn't have to answer to anyone.

"But this...people, no matter how little exposure they've had to art, can evaluate their reaction to it and say, 'This would be a fun place to live.'"

He said some people would say the house is not functional. "But if this is a nice place to live and it's in pleasant surroundings...then it's doing it very well."

For Bruno, not only will it be a fun place with a panoramic view of the environment, it also will be aesthetic art he can live in.

"Every inch will have my fingerprints."

Determined Learner Ends Degree Quest

HAYWARD, Calif. (AP) — Florence Hansen got her bachelor's degree this weekend at California State University, ending a college career that began 58 years ago.

"I always went to school in bits and pieces," the 76-year-old Fremont teacher explained Saturday at her commencement. "We moved around a lot. I really think I'm the world's slowest learner, but I'm determined."

Meat Eaters Take A Beefing

AS HAS BEEN the case in far too many of his decisions, President Carter's plan to permit more foreign beef into the U.S. to combat rising meat costs is more cosmetic than real in attacking the problem.

The President has announced that he will allow enough imports into the nation to lower prices by five cents a pound, at a saving to consumers of $500 million this year.

The move, he claims, will not hurt American cattlemen, who see it in a different light. The consumer, unfortunately, is caught in the middle and probably may not realize the savings promised, or won't recognize it if it materializes.

THERE IS NO question but that millions feel that the cost of beef has gone out of sight. Yet, most are still buying, although more discriminately.

However, by the same token, the cost of a lot of other goods and services also has gone out of sight. And the President has not moved to do anything, and at this point shouldn't.

In the wake of Mr. Carter's beef import announcement, a spokesman for the National Cattlemen's Association, called the action a "cruel hoax which will hurt rather than help consumers of beef...

"The administration is trying to create the impression that it is helping consumers at a time when beef prices have been rising," said Richard A. McDougal, NCA president. "However, this action is just another cosmetic approach to the problem of inflation —which is largely government caused."

IT IS ON the latter point with which we agree, a point which should be hammered home to everyone.

While the cost of everything is up, and still rising, the cause is not just the basic cost of the product itself. Continually soaring wages, including those to truckers and processors in the case of beef, contribute materially to the final retail price tag.

On top of that, unbridled government spending which creates an artificial money supply and demand, contributes directly to the continuing wage-price spiral.

IF MR. CARTER really were sincere in doing something about inflation, he would be seriously attempting to cut back on those projects funded by federal—meaning the taxpayers'—funds.

At the same time, the beef industry, as well as the farming profession in general, also needs to work out some sort of program whereby production and prices can be held at more steady levels, rather than becoming embroiled in the "famine or feast" cycles.

Of course, government actions and spending, have more to do with those cycles in the final analysis than do the producers. In the meantime, in the latest maneuver, the consumer probably will not notice too much difference. Over the long haul, it will be the consumer, the cattleman and the farmer who must bear the brunt of the inflationary beating.

JAY HARRIS:

The Tech Issue...

FOR MONTHS NOW, it has been no secret that many of Texas Tech's longtime supporters are unhappy with several things concerning the University.

And, although most of the unrest has centered around how certain aspects of the athletic situation has been handled, the overall controversy has spilled into other areas, including the Texas Tech Ex-Students Association.

Many of Tech's friends say they feel they are being "frozen out" of any input into decisions vitally affecting the instituion, its athletic program, those hired in various capacities, how funds are handled. The resentment is deepest as it relates to the athletic picture, and the Ex-Students Assn., an organization Dr. Mackey views in a different light from that of some of its more influential members.

TO BE FAIR about it, the feeling is not unanimous.

Even the Board of Regents appears to be split over whether Dr. Mackey is making friends and influencing people for Tech, or antagonizing a good segment of those the school needs most.

When Dr. Mackey came to Tech some 20 months ago from the University of South Florida at Tampa, there were those who took one look and said: "They will eat him alive." Well, you don't eat tigers alive. And beneath what some thought was a Milquetoast demeanor was a tiger.

Dr. Mackey sees his role as one of "running the University...under guidelines and policies as set forth by the Board of Regents..." He doesn't add the phrase, but there is no question but he also means "lock, stock and barrel."

AND IT IS in that area that the controversy has erupted.

As a result, at least one major Tech benefactor reportedly shifted a large gift intended for Tech to another Texas school. Others have said they wanted to "know what the score is" before further committing themselves.

First, the Board of Regents, seeking a man to closely run the store, told Dr. Mackey they wanted him to take charge and come to them only when necessary. He took them at their word, somewhat to the chagrin of some regents.

Secondly, in applying this policy, Dr. Mackey is accused of using his administrative influence to name Coach Rex Dockrey to succeed the departing Steve Sloan, irritating a number of persons backing former Tech star Tom Wilson of Texas A&M. Although totally unfair to Dockrey, it was a burr under the saddle for many.

BEFORE THIS, Dr. Mackey reportedly had been pressuring the Ex-Students Assn. to make some changes, to more closely allign its program to the administration's wishes and to campus needs.

In fairness, some changes were long overdue and they were under consideration before Dr. Mackey arrived on the scene.

However, after Ex-Students executive director Wayne James, who had held the job 20 years, resigned, The A-J learned of a "confidential" report, known as the McManis report, which the Ex-Students Board reportedly had authorized. Parts of it, relating to administrative control of Ex-Students' affairs and funds riled some former Exes no end.

Dr. Mackey would not discuss the report specifically, but did say:

"My feeling about Ex-Students associations is that any organization operating under the auspices and name of Texas Tech, or any University, should work most closely with the Administration. We would prefer that any funds raised in this manner be turned over to some foundation or fund, to be disbursed by the administration and the Regents in cooperation with the Ex-Students' Board..."

AS AN ACADEMIC question, we asked Dr. Mackey what his feelings would be if the Ex-Students were to become involved in a situation similar to the Tech name change controversy.

"I would suggest they not do so as an official organization," he answered. "If individual exes wished to do so, that's fine, but not as an organization..."

Later, Wick Alexander, new president of the Exes, told us that the Ex-Students had formulated a new set of guidelines, which do not necessarily follow those of the report, and that the Exes will retain control of monies they raise, "giving Tech an audit" how funds are being handled.

Dr. Mackey told us he "could live with this plan for a year or so, and if there are no major problems, then see where we go..." It should be noted that Tech pays a substantial sum to the Ex-Students for various record keeping services and other functions.

BUT IF A confrontation at the Ex-Students level has been averted for the moment, the feelings over the athletic setup persist.

In naming Dick Tamburo of Illinois to succeed longtime AD J. T. King, Tech has been accused of bypassing not only at least one man on the campus with strong local and area support, but three in the Southwest and an applicant from Alabama.

Dr. Mackey defends the selection by saying "the Tech Athletic Council screened and interviewed the applicants. They made their assessment available to me and the Regents. I had never met the man selected until his name was brought into the picture. It was a decision based on what the Council, myself and the Regents felt best for Tech."

And there things stand. What the future holds remains to be seen. Unless the Board of Regents has a change of heart, the controversy is likely to continue into next Fall's football season. That, unfortunately, is not the place to decide matters affecting an institution whose role has been and should continue to be centered on things more important than what Saturday's score may be. We will have more on this later.

AN EDITORIAL:

Exception In Tyranny's Case?

WHILE THE export of jet fighters to the Middle East remains a topic of considerable public debate, too little attention has been focused on this country's sale of less sophisticated but highly lethal equipment to many of the world's most undemocratic governments.

The list of weaponry provided to national police departments, elite palace guard units and secret intelligence organizations in totalitarian countries can only be classified as a catalog of death, torture and repression.

AUTHOR MICHAEL T. Klare, affiliated with the Institute for Policy Studies, in a just published report discloses that between 1973-76 America's contribution to world peace included these exports:

Almost 50,000 revolvers and handguns; more than 9,000 9-mm submachine guns, M-16 rifles and similar weapons; almost 7.6 million rounds of ammunition; and more than 160,000 Mace cannisters, tear gas grenades and other chemical agents.

There's more: Riot grenades, stun guns, shock batons, fragmentation grenades, mortar shells and cluster bombs; patrol boats and counter-insurgency aircraft.

What? No medieval leg irons, shackles and thumbscrews?

KLARE SAYS customers for such equipment include many of the world's most notorious secret police organizations—such as Chile's DINA and Iran's SAVAK—known from their incarceration of civilian dissidents and suppression of popular uprisings.

Under provisions of a 1976 federal law, all exports of military equipment must be licensed by the State Department. But police supplies are handled in routine fashion by the Commerce Department, which does little more than count and classify what's shipped abroad.

EFFORTS NOW are underway on Capitol Hill to close that loophole.

But President Carter opposes the legislation. He says his administration needs "flexibility" to make exceptions even for tyrannical governments ostensibly important to our national security.

Mr. Carter's righteous indignation about political injustice certainly loses its moral force when he insists upon unwarranted compromises based soley on political exigencies.

ROWLAND EVANS & ROBERT NOVAK:

Zbig Wins Big One

NOVAK

WASHINGTON—The speed with which President Carter accepted French President Valery Giscard D'Estaing's sensible proposal for an all-African peacekeeping force to safeguard Zaire underscores this fact of life in Washington: national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski has emerged the clear winner in his foreign policy struggle with the State Department.

Giscard's proposal, along with a request for U.S. logistical help to get troops and supplies on the scene, was made at a working dinner in the White House May 26.

Carter accepted it immediately, without reservations. That abruptly ended 16 months of State Department policy putting Africa off-limits to the slightest suggestion of U.S. military involvement.

Simultaneously, the administration ended its headlong rush to a new strategic arms limitation treaty (SALT).

Apart from the President's rhetoric appeasing the arms control lobby, SALT seems destined for a deep freeze until the November election.

IN SHORT, Brzezinski at least for now has convinced the President that the nature of U.S.-Soviet relations must be changed to challenge Moscow's boldly expansionist mood.

To losing officials at the State Department, this dooms what they have fought for and nudges Sec. of State Cyrus Vance into a secondary role.

Given Jimmy Carter's famed ambiguity, Brzezinski's triumph may be temporary. One middle-level State Department official unhappy with the new course told us: "The President wants to be the tough guy and at the same time he wants to be the apostle of peace and arms control. Where does he end up?"

Having asked the question, such officials have pressed a media counterattack against the new policy. Interviewed in U.S. News and World Report this week, United Nations Ambassador Andrew Young, when asked about the President's "concern" over the Soviet-Cuban offensive, sniped at Brzezinski.

"When concern is translated into panic by others," Young said, "I don't think it serves the U.S. interest."

THE PRINCIPAL source of the counterattack against Brzezinski is the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency (ACDA), headed by Paul Warnke. ACDA has been the source of widely scattered reports complaining at the new U.S. coolness in SALT negotiations.

The President's handling of the counterattack shows his ambivalence. He was displeased with Andy Young's interview. But a few days earlier, he was stung by a June 2 Washington Post headline accusing him of "imposing a freeze" on SALT talks.

Telephoning press secretary Jody Powell at 7 a.m. clearly upset and angry, the President ordered Powell to produce the White House press corps that morning for a personal denial.

Instead of accepting the truth of the Post's June 2 headline, he took it as a personal insult and claimed that SALT was still enshrined as an immediate administration goal.

SOME OFFICIALS previously favoring a conciliatory policy toward the Kremlin and a hands-off policy in Africa are not counterattacking but accomodating.

Critical colleagues refer to State Department policy-planning chief Tony Lake and other important officials as "born-again hawks" who want no more publicity linking them with "softness" in foreign policy.

Between them and the counterattackers stands Cyrus Vance. When Brzezinski returned from his Soviet-baiting trip to China, Vance aides say, he "humiliated" the secretary of state by immediately appearing on "Meet the Press" before even discussing his trip with Vance.

However, if Vance felt humiliated, the record fails to disclose it—possibly because Vance is no theoretician or ideologue but a tightly disciplined lawyer who sees his role as problem-solver under Carter's direct supervision.

IF THE PRESIDENT wants to put SALT in mothballs and wants an activist anti-Soviet policy in Africa, Vance will go along.

According to White House aides, he is now more involved in quieting the rebellion against Brzezinski than in pushing views of his own.

That may accout for Brzezinski's policy takeover. He had been silent for months, despite growing alarm at the administration's lack of response to Soviet audacity.

Intimates say he hoped that Vance or Defense Secretary Harold Brown would change the policy.

Now that he has made his move, motivated by philosophical convictions about the Soviet threat, Brzezinski intends to keep up the pressure.

This contrast with the non-ideological Vance and the silent Brown helps explain why and how the professor from Columbia is today responsible for setting the nation's foreign policy.

ANDREW TULLY:

Shane On Them All

WASHINGTON—Members of Congress who find it politically profitable to be publicly concerned only about the problems of the poor student seeking a college education should be forced to copy 100 times a letter to the Washington Post.

So doing, they would discover there is another substantial voting bloc in this country—the middle-income folks—and that it is capable of articulating its plight.

The subject is the controversy over granting tuition tax credits to parents of children in private lower schools and colleges. Signed Rex A. Shane of Carlisle, Pa., the letter lays it on the line.

"I AM, I SUPPOSE, in the 'middle income' bracket," writes Shane. "I earn $26,000 gross per year. Yet the faceless folks at the College Scholarship Service (CSS) say I earn too much for my son to qualify for any—repeat any—assistance. And the way the system is organized, the university won't provide any assistance unless the need is certified by CSS.

"Of course, I can handle the problem in any number of ways: Put my wife to work, take a second mortgage on the house, or something else. But the bitter irony is that I could perhaps solve the problem most easily by disowning my son; that is, putting him out of the house on his own.

"Were I to do this, he would automatically become eligible for all sorts of aid: grants, loans, food stamps, the whole works. I can't bring myself to do that, even though the system seems to encourage it—and many people do."

SHANE'S LETTER IS not a whining one; it simply lays out the facts of life faced by middle-income parents. By next fall, it will cost more than $3,000 to support a residential student at a public four-year college.

The cost will be more than $5,000 at the average private college, and will soar as high as $8,000 at some of the so-called "prestige" universities.

Well, that's inflation for you, I can hear the selective do-gooders say comfortably. It is indeed. But most parents have saved for years to give their children a college education, and inflation has seriously reduced the value of savings. A dollar saved 10 years ago is worth about 50 cents today.

There are, of course, public colleges for the children of the welfare poor as well as those of poor working parents. But in fact many students from poor families get public funds to attend the most expensive private colleges that many middle-income parents can't afford. This, we are told by the social mechanics of government, is the price we pay to "desegregate" those great private institutions.

"AS YOU WOULD expect, we middle-incomers will find some way to get our kids through college," writes Rex A. Shane.

"And we'll continue to pay our taxes so that the government (so nobly assisted by the education lobbies) can educate other people's kids at our expense..."

But Shane wonders why "molders of public opinion and our elected representatives have failed to perceive that the 'doers' of this country should ever get tired of carrying the load. What happens when that middle income 'wealth' is no longer available for redistribution?"

M. STANTON EVANS:

Tax-Ceiling Foes Vow Never To Lose Again

CHICAGO—A constitutional lid on taxes as a percent of personal income is an idea whose time is coming, if in fact it's not already here.

This was the conclusion emerging from a weekend meeting on tax limitation co-sponsored here by the National Tax Limitation Committee (NTLC), which promotes the concept on a nationwide basis, and the American Legislative Exchange Council (ALEC), whose members have been actively supporting it in state assemblies.

More than 150 conferees from 38 states took part in intense discussion of the limitation idea, heard an address from Nobel laureate Milton Friedman and got an update on the rapid progress that is being made toward putting an effective lid on taxes.

"AT THE MOMENT," said NTLC President Lewis Uhler, "tax limitation efforts are going forward in more than half the states. We are tremendously encouraged by the recent victory in Tennessee, where the tax-and-spending limitation concept was voted into the state constitution by a two-to-one margin.

That success has given further impetus to renewed efforts in Michigan, Massachusetts, Colorado and other states where the amendment is making rapid progress."

Like so much else in American politics, tax limitation had its genesis in California—even before the Jarvis-Gann initiative to limit property taxes.

IN 1973 THEN-Gov. Ronald Reagan introduced the notion as "Proposition 1" on the referendum ballot.

The basic idea was to insure that total state and local spending could not exceed a certain percentage of the income of California citizens.

Thanks to a last-minute blitz by the state spending lobbies, the proposal went down to narrow defeat—but the idea lived on.

Uhler headed the Reagan task force that devised the California amendment, and the experience convinced him the idea was not only economically sound but politically salable.

Building on the lessons of California, he and NTLC Chairman William F. Rickenbacker have devoted a substantial part of their time and personal resources to promoting tax limitation on a national basis.

THE TENNESSEE WIN was the first such victory for the concept, but arguably won't be the last.

The Tennessee amendment, which ties the rate of increase in state spending to the rate of growth in the state economy, carried 95 out of 99 counties, including the seat of government in Nashville.

NTLC Chairman Rickenbacker observes that "in Boston one of the founders of the Citizens for Limited Taxation in Massachusetts was the Democratic president of the city council.

"We have a bipartisan campaign and we are very happy with it."

LEADERS OF THE NTLC and ALEC anticipate the next big challenge will be in Michigan. The proposal was voted down there two years ago in a hard-fought contest which, like the California battle, was determined by a last-minute onslaught from the spending forces.

Tax limit proponents say they outspent and were outcampaigned and vow that they won't let it happen again.

Leaders of the effort in Michigan express their confidence of obtaining sufficient signatures to put the proposal on the November ballot, and thereafter conducting an education campaign that will duplicate the win in Tennessee.

And should a Northern industrial state like Michigan opt for tax limitation, it seems safe to predict that numerous others will follow suit.

Missile Targets Abundant In Texas

By The Associated Press

Texas has nuclear measles.

A civil defense map of the Lone Star State shows red blotches — where enemy nuclear missiles would in war be most likely to fall — all the way from Texarkana to Brownsville, from Port Arthur to El Paso.

Most of the targets appear for obvious reasons. A 1975 study by the Defense Civil Preparedness Agency shows a broad area from Galveston to Port Arthur, north to beyond Houston and back to the Gulf of Mexico a prime target for direct missile hits, and radioactive fallout. The area includes Texas' vast petrochemical complex at Texas City, Baytown, Pasadena, Beaumont, Port Arthur and Orange in addition to the strategic Houston Ship Channel, the Intracoastal Canal, and ports at Galveston, Houston and the Beaumont-Port Arthur-Orange area.

Other potential target areas, according to the DCPA map, are for the most part cities in which are located military airfields, or Army posts such as Fort Hood at Killeen, and Fort Bliss at El Paso, or large population centers such as San Antonio, Houston and the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

Somewhat harder to explain, however, is why the Tyler area, and Bryan (where Texas A&M is located) are part of the war map.

Informed that the Bryan-College Station area is one big red blotch on the map of potential enemy targets, Bryan Mayor Richard Smith paused, then quipped: "What is this, an Aggie joke?"

Assured that it wasn't, he continued: "Maybe we're a priority because of all the Aggies. That must be it. Actually, I'm sorry we're on the list. I was in some priority areas during World War II and I always thought that was something I wouldn't have to worry about here. Since worldwide agriculture and research have come to be so important, we might be a target area because of the Texas A&M Agriculture Extension Service and the agriculture experiment station. Also, A&M has the only college of veterinary medicine in the state. A&M also is a military school, basically. In World War II A&M produced more officers than any other school, and we still have a big cadet corps."

As for the pastoral Tyler area, surrounded by deep pine forests and oil wells, Mayor Robert M. Nall could offer no explanation.

"I'm unable to assess it," he said. "I don't think we should make a big deal of it. I don't believe we are much different from any other Sunbelt industrial progressive growing city of 70,000 people. I don't think we have anything very well organized in terms of civil defense. It doesn't scare me. I don't like to be named as a target because they might make us one."

Bill Campbell, state civil defense program analyst based at Denton, said, however, Tyler and Bryan are "Category 3" targets based solely on their population density.

One can imagine what a score of well-placed missiles in the Houston-Texas City-Beaumont area would do. With all of the refineries and chemical plants that season this broad area, that pocket of the Texas Gulf Coast would quickly become a conflagration of fire, explosions, radiation, and population panic.

Those who managed to survive the holocaust would find themselves trying to creep along clogged freeways and highways leading north away from the coast.

From Bland McReynolds, head of Houston's Civil Defense department:

"By national policy, the United States has made a decision to not make any attempt to defend the U.S. but to beef up overseas bases. Thus, Civil Defense has been downgraded throughout the nation. What we have now is a situation where there are no adequate procedures to do anything in case of a missile attack. There is nothing that can be done.

"We cannot evacuate the city," he said. "The federal government is doing something now about how to evacuate major metro areas but in Houston it is impracticable. Understand — this is a national policy, not a Houston policy. We don't have the money to set up protective shelters for our citizens and it would take millions and millions of dollars to do that. The thinking in this nation now is that the Russians would not dare attack us, because we could destroy them. I don't think the military people of this nation are taking the Russian civil defense efforts seriously."

Jefferson County (Beaumont) Civil Defense Director L.D. Farrow said, "I think we are as prepared as anybody but nobody's prepared. If we had a surprise attack in this area all we could do would be to seek shelter and I don't think there is enough shelter to protect the population from a nuclear attack. Our crisis relocation plan is based on the fact the government thinks it will know two to three weeks prior to an attack. They figure there would be a crisis and they'd argue about it for a while and we'd have time to get everybody out."

Farrow said an evacuation plan is prepared and would be printed in area newspapers assigning citizens to certain relocation areas. "You'd have to have 72 hours to put it into effect," he said.

Farrow said providing shelter in the lowland areas of Beaumont is a special problem for the area. "Our buildings are built on top of the ground. We don't have any basements like they do in the East."

Beaumont Mayor Maurice Meyers said, "My reaction is not one of surprise. I would expect that with Gulf, Texaco and Mobil all having big refineries here that we would be a target area because of our heavy concentration of oil. It's not a comfortable feeling. I guess looking at the bright side, we can hope they miss."

Campbell explained there is virtually no way to protect the masses from direct missile hits. The only thing that can be done is to provide the public with fallout shelters. These would be havens where survivors could go to escape deadly radiation and in that regard, Campbell said, Texas is ahead of all other states.

"There is an underground, blast-protected shelter in Austin," he said, "designed to protect top-level, key state government people."

The rest of us peons will have to settle for whatever fallout shelter local government has provided, or take part in a relocation plan provided there is sufficient warning a nuclear attack is likely.

Wherever one goes, however, Campbell said shelters no longer store non-perishable foodstuffs as they did throughout the 1960s and early '70s.

Nowadays, he agreed, those who survive a nuclear attack will have to pack their own sack lunch.

Neutron Stockpile Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter should stockpile components for neutron warheads in the United States for quick shipment to Western Europe, the Senate Armed Services Committee said Sunday.

Otherwise, the committee said in a new report, it would take years to put the warheads in place if a decision is made to install them as a deterrent to an attack on Western Europe by Warsaw Pact nations.

Last April 7, Carter announced he is deferring any decision on deploying the controversial weapons, citing hopes the Soviet Union will show signs of limiting its tank forces in Eastern Europe and deployment of new intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Neutron warheads installed in artillery shells and short-range missiles would rely more on radiation than blast and heat as an effective deterrent against a potential attack by Warsaw Pact nations against West Germany.

Critics have said that if deployed in Europe, neutron warheads would make it easier to set off nuclear war among the superpowers.

There has been a series of unsuccessful attempts to kill production of neutron warheads in both the House and Senate.

In its report, the Armed Services Committee disagreed with the critics. Members of the panel said that instead of making it easier to trigger a nuclear war, neutron warheads probably would encourage Warsaw Pact countries and the Soviet Union to reduce their own deployment of standard nuclear weapons in Europe.

As a result, the report said, "the introduction of enhanced nuclear weapons would tend to reduce the risk of nuclear war by making conventional defense (by the Communist bloc nations) more possible," the committee said.

The report, which accompanies a Department of Energy authorization bill, recommended that the Defense Department obtain all the component parts for installing neutron warheads in the eight-inch artillery shell and the Army's Lance missile.

In a separate statement, two committee members, Democratic Sens. Sam Nunn of Georgia and Henry Jackson of Washington, criticized Carter's "continued hesitancy and indecision" on the neutron warhead issue.

The senators said the Soviet Union has shown no sign of restraint in deployment of its intercontinental missiles or tank forces in Eastern Europe.

The committee report requires Carter to report back in detail on any decision on deployment or continued deferral of the nuclear warheads, including any sign that the Russians have reduced their military threat to Western Europe.

Grenade Explosion Kills 7 Civilians

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — A hand grenade exploded in a crowd near an army command post in the southern Philippines, killing seven civilians and wounding two others, a Manila newspaper reported Sunday.

The Times Journal, quoting a military report, said the attack Saturday at the village of Bunago in Lanao Province, on Mindanao Island 500 miles southeast of Manila, was carried out by "terrorists," a term military officials in the south use to refer to Moslem rebels.

The government recently claimed that the Moro National Liberation Front movement in Lanao Province had broken up with the surrender of more than 1,000 The paper quoted a report from Brig. Gen. Delfin Castro, chief of the central Mindanao military command, as saying the blast was only a few yards from an army battalion's command post. The report did not say whether any of the attackers had been captured.

Remember when little treats had little prices?

The 10¢ cup of coffee?
You might still find this in remote villages in South America, but even there the price is often hard to swallow.

The nickel root beer?
Once found foaming all over America, this is as hard to find now as the buffalo head nickel that once paid for it.

The 15¢ shoe shine?

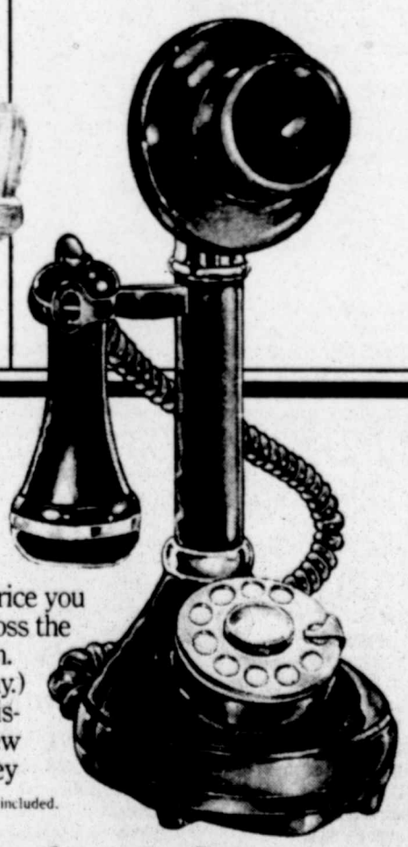
The Long Distance telephone call?



Today, one still does.

For example, 84¢* today will buy you a 3-minute call clear across the country, when you dial One-Plus from 5 p.m. to 11 p.m. Sunday through Friday.

Or for about the same price you can make a 5-minute call across the country on weekends. (11 p.m. Friday through 5 p.m. Sunday.)

Two Citizens Battle Police Over Ticket

What began as a simple case of two policemen issuing a routine traffic citation early Sunday ended up in a small brawl between the officers and two unruly citizens disgruntled about the procedure used to issue the ticket.

Police reports indicate the two officers watched as a 1975 Buick turned south onto Quirt Avenue from Parkway Drive about 3:10 a.m. without signaling in advance of the turn.

Officers discovered the driver of the vehicle apparently was not carrying a driver's license when the automobile was stopped in the 400-block of Quirt Avenue, according to reports.

A passenger, though, produced his identification for the officers but became disgruntled when the policeman took the license back to his patrol car to check for any pending arrest warrants for the man.

Reports indicate the passenger's language became foul, and the officer ask the man to turn around and allow himself to be searched since he was being arrested for using profane language.

Officers said the man struck the policeman involved, and a short struggle ensued that required a second policeman to help halt.

Police arrested the 19-year-old man for aggravated assault on a police officer, using loud and profane language and resisting arrest. Officers also arrested the 19-year-old driver of the vehicle for interferring with an arrest, driving without a license and for the traffic violation.

Lubbock police also were investigating a 24-year-old man' complaint that his father had become intoxicated and beaten him after an argument.

The man, found lying beside the road in the 1600-block of Zenith Avenue, told police he crawled away from his attacker and hid beside the road in the dark to escape further abuse. He was treated for minor injuries at St. Mary's Hospital and later released.

In a similar incident, Manuel Cantu Trevino of 304 39th St. told police he was at a residence in the 300-block of 39th Street about 11 p.m. Saturday when a relative became angry about a game of dominoes and began kicking him with steel-toed boots. He was treated at Methodist Hospital and released.

Responding to a report of gunshots in the area of 3200 1st Street about 2 a.m. Sunday, officers arrested a 17-year-old man for class B possession of marijuana, but lost another man they sought when he scampered over a fence.

Police stopped a car near the 3200 1st St. address, but the driver fled before they could get out of their own police vehicle. Reports indicate the second man, though, was just leaving the automobile when officers arrived.

Police reportedly found a plastic bag of a substance believed to be marijuana on the seat where the man was sitting and another bag of a similar substance on the auto's floorboard.

While that incident was occurring, a burglar apparently made his way into the Radio Shack at 1918 34th St. and removed $321 turntable and receiver, Byron Buckalew told police.

Burglars entering the Tom Lara residence at 5020 48th. St. removed stereo speakers between 11 p.m. Saturday and 12:20 a.m. Sunday, while intruders at Mary Cobb's 1910 33rd St. home got only $25 for their efforts at cracking a wall safe and ransacking the house.

Saad Ali Rebian of Hobbs, N.M., told police someone removed a citizens-band radio and a cassette tape player from his car parked outside a 2400 Colgate St. club about 11 p.m. Saturday.

Construction manager Jim Turner told police someone took a $125 wooden door off its hinges and removed 30 yards already installed carpet from a home under construction at 491 79th St. between 6:30 p.m. Friday and 3 p.m. Saturday.

David Hamby of Crosbyton reported the theft of a tailgate from his pickup truck while it was parked outside a business in the 4800-block of Avenue H about midnight Saturday.

Open Heart Club Sets Garage Sale

The Open Heart Club of the Southwest set dates for their garage sale and elected officers at their regularly scheduled meeting Sunday.

The garage sale, scheduled for August 25 through 27, will be in the old J.C. Penney building downtown.

Funds from the sale will be used to purchase equipment for treatment and surgery of heart patients. Last year's sale netted more than $7,000.

Frank Row was re-elected president. Other officers are Elric Bordelon and J.B. Marshall, vice presidents; Ruth Huffaker, secretary; and Samuel E. Kindrick, treasurer.

Lubbock cardiovascular surgeon Martin L. Dalton Jr., M.D., reviewed for the club the histroy, progress and prospects of open heart surgery. He said the first by-pass surgery was performed in May 1953 at Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia.

Open heart surgery has been performed on more than 2,100 patients in Lubbock hospitals.

Everett R. Holles, Newsman, Succumbs

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP) — Veteran newsman and radio commentator Everett R. Holles, who in 1952 accompanied Dwight Eisenhower, then-president elect, to Korea as representative of the combined U.S. television and radio networks, is dead at 74.

Teamsters, Protesters Trouble Atomic Plant

SEABROOK, N.H. (UPI) — Thousands of nuclea power foes who would like to halt construction at the Seabrook atomic plant are due in town June 24 for a reprise of the site occupation which led to 1,414 arrests last year.

They could find the Teamsters union has beaten them to the punch.

The Public Service Co. of New Hampshir says a strike by 68 Teamsters caued contractors to lay off 600 of the 1,500 site employees by Friday, and more layffs could be coming Monday if a settlement isn't reached.

The PSC owns 50 percent of the New England power consortium building, the $2 billion, 2,300 megawatt plant, whose cst six years ago was estimated at $850 rillion. Spokesman Norman Cullerot sid there would be no work for anyone hose job was involved with a vehicle in ay way.

No progress was reported in negotiaions, although Gov. Meldrim Thomson, n outspoken nuclear power booster, inervened personally Friday in talks beween contractors, teamsters and a federal mediator.

The big question is how many demonstrators will show up. Last year's contingent largely refused to post bail when arrested on criminal trespass charges. They jammed five National Guard armories up to 12 days before agreeing to accept guilty pleas at the local District Court level, and appeal them to the Superior Court.

The Clamshell Alliance is recruiting demonstrators on college campuses across the country, training them in nonviolence and how to behave when picked up and moved out by a policeman. Spokesmen have talked of 5,000 to 20,000 demonstrators.

Attorney General Thomas Rath, a bouncy, young man who combines a friendly disposition with a refusal to be pushed around, will be in charge of law enforcement at Seabrook. He expects between 2,500 and 5,000 demonstrators, and doesn't know how long they'll be willing to stay.

The Clamshell talked of a permanent presence at Seabrook, and refused an offer from Rath and the PSC to camp for a few days on company land away from the main gate.

Last year many members finally bailed out of the armories to get back to college for final exams. This year the demonstration was postponed until school is out, a move which Rath said he thinks "cuts both ways. It may cut down recruiting."

Thomson will try to persuade fellow New England governors Monday, during an annual meeting with eastern Canadian premiers, to provide state troopers to help control whatever happens at Seabrook. Last year only Massachusetts declined to send help under a regional compact. This year Rhode Island and Vermont have shown reluctance about sending police in at their own expense.

The Clamshell Alliance is a loose-knit organization of members from 30 or so anti-nuclear groups. They decided two years ago they would never succeed fighting Seabrook before federal regulatory agencies, and would take direct action instead.

Some 179 persons marched onto the site via a railroad right-of-way in August, 1976 and were arrested. The PSC allowed demonstrators onto the property for one day April 30, 1977. But 1,414 persons were arrested for criminal trespass the second day, Sunday, when they refused police orders to move out.

Police and the PSC said they were afraid of a physical clash Monday morning if demonstrators ware in the way of construction workers returning to their jobs. Many construction workers view the Clamshell as trying to take bread out of their mouths by halting the project, now 10 percent complete.

Clamshell members fear nuclear fuels will endanger the health of this and future generations, and endanger marine life by using ocean waters to cool the reactor, and returning those waters to the ocean at hotter temperatures.

Israeli Statements Hit

CAIRO (AP) — President Anwar Sadat accused Israel Sunday of spreading "psychological propaganda" in saying he is reviving war threats. The Egyptian leader said he is still optimistic a peace settlement can be reached.

An Israeli spokesman said last week Sadat created an "obstacle to peace" when he told soldiers at the Suez Canal they might have to resume the "battle of liberation" if peace efforts fail.

In a speech Sunday to pilots and paratroopers at an airbase in Bilbeis, about 50 miles northeast of Cairo, Sadat said, "I am for peace based on justice and Egypt is open-hearted and open-minded to receive any new proposals from Israel."

He reiterated Egypt will not surrender any Arab land occupied by Israel in the 1967 Mideast war.

"If they (the Israelis) consider this blowing the trumpet of war they are free in their interpretation," Sadat said.

The peace initiative launched by Sadat's historic journey to Jerusalem last November ground to a halt in January when Israel rejected his demands for total withdrawal and creation of a Palestinian state in the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip.

Sadat said the peace process "needs some time so that Israel can absorb its dimension and ... respond correctly."

The semi-official Cairo newspaper Al Ahram reported from Washington Sunday that U.S. sources say American mediation efforts will resume in a few days after Israel responds to a series of American questions on its plans for the West Bank.

NEWLY ORDAINED BLACK MORMON — Joseph Freeman Jr. poses with his wife Toe shortly after the 26-year-old telephone repairman was ordained into the priesthood of the Mormon Church Sunday in Salt Lake City. Mormons Ordain Black Man

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — A man Sunday became the first black priest to be ordained by the Mormon Church in more than a century.

Joseph Freeman Jr., who has been a member for five years, said his new status affirms his faith in God and the church.

Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints President Spencer W. Kimball announced Friday he had received a revelation from the Lord that "all worthy members of the church may be ordained to the priesthood without regard for race or color."

Kimball's statement elevated black men to equal status with other church members. Since shortly after the church was founded in 1830, blacks were denied membership in the priesthood which was open to all other males over 12.

Freeman said it had not been difficult to be a faithful church member even through blacks were refused the right to participate in the most sacred Mormon rites, such as marriage "for time and all eternity" in a Mormon temple.

"This is the thing I know, Jesus gives salvation to all of us and God is God over all the earth," Freeman said. "He has blessed us all and when I looked at this church I looked at it as God's church."

Irish Guerrillas Ambush British Patrol

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Irish Republican Army guerrillas detonated a bomb by remote control as a mobile British army patrol passed over a country bridge Sunday, and one British soldier was badly wounded in the blast, military headquarters reported.

The bomb ambush in County Fermanagh was the second this weekend against military patrols on the sensitive border between this British province and the Irish Republic.

Two paratroopers were wounded Saturday in the village of Crossmaglen, a notorious trouble spot in Northern Ireland's sectarian feuding and IRA insurrection that began nearly nine years ago.

A military spokesman said the mainly Roman Catholic guerrillas, who are fighting to end British rule and Protestant domination of Northern Ireland, detonated a bomb in a hijacked car in the village square as a foot patrol passed it.

The IRA's Provisional wing claimed responsibility for the Saturday attack. The army said the bomb contained homemade napalm similar to that used in last February's IRA bombing of a Belfast restaurant in which 12 persons were killed.

GRADUATION SHOOTING — Classmates show shock and disblief as a school nurse calls for aid for Karim Thompson after he shot himself during gradution exercises Saturday at Weymouth South High School in Weymouth, Mass., before some 3,500 witnesses. (AP Laserphoto)

Graduate Shoots Self At Ceremony

WEYMOUTH, Mass. (AP) — Karim Thompson stepped to the microphone at his high school graduation, said "This is the American way," and shot himself.

The shooting occurred Saturday just after Thompson and other members of a Weymouth South High School school choral group had finished leading the graduates in singing "Teach Your Children."

The youth stepped to the microphone, drew a pistol from under his graduation gown and shot himself.

Weymouth police investigator Francis Flaherty, who saw the shooting on the school's athletic field, said that as Thompson lay on the ground, clutching a .22-caliber revolver, he said, "There are too many issues in America today."

Police and school officials said they knew of no reason for the shooting.

"He's a happy-go-lucky kid," said Weymouth South principal Wilbur F. Stanton. "He was a good student and very popular. He's the last person I would expect to do something like this. I just can't figure it out."

Many of the 2,000 spectators and 500 graduates who heard the shot and saw Thompson fall to the grass said they thought he had received a shock from nearby amplifiers for the electric guitars which accompanied the song.

Thompson, whose brother is a Weymouth policeman, was planning to attend Emerson College in Boston next fall to study television technology, friends said.

Police said he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Thompson of Weymouth.

Eels, according to National Geographic, were a prized delicacy on Roman tables. Pliny recorded that at one banquet a wealthy Roman named Hirius served 6,000 eels to his guests.

Berkowitz Letters Reveal Complex Personality

"A destructive monster."

"A modern-day Judas."

"A child of Satan."

"A Christian."

In eight letters written over the past six months, the admitted killer sometimes sees himself as a born-again Christian comforted by the Bible. But the letters, often ungrammatical, show that he lapses into depression and irrationality and threatens suicide.

"I am really a destructive monster who is unfit to live on this planet and breath Gods air. I don't intend to stay much longer," Berkowitz wrote a week before trying to jump from a courthouse window.

The letters were obtained by The Associated Press from Dee Channel, a West Coast woman who calls herself "a Christian counselor specializing in demonology" with agreement not to reveal her whereabouts. "The real sickos are still out of prison," she said.

In mid-January, he said he had "tearfully repented of my deeds and I've been living gloriously for the Lord Jesus. In fact I've been doing so good that I've been singing and dancing in my cell. Jesus and I are back together again and its been so so good."

Two months later, however, he wrote: "I don't see how I could ever be forgiven by Christ and I don't know what I would say to him when I see Him. I have shut myself off from God and cast six souls into hell and destroyed the lives of others — no — I'm no child of God. Rather I am a child of Satan ... I'm not Christian at all. I am a cursed person beyond hope."

Autograph expert Charles Hamilton, who has previously sold some Berkowitz letters, said he had no doubt the material is genuine.

Berkowitz is to appear for sentencing Monday on charges he shot to death six young persons and injured seven others in three New York City boroughs over a year. The former postal clerk, who says demons commanded him, faces up to 200 years in prison but will be eligible for parole after 30 years.

Two weeks ago, Berkowitz forced postponement of his sentencing by two violent outbursts, including the suicide try.

Berkowitz had pleaded guilty on May 8, a week before his last letter to Mrs. Channel. He had written her on Jan. 16. "God has put it in my heart to plead guilty so don't be surprised when you read about it in the papers. Don't worry — it's all on the name of Jesus."

Berkowitz, who was raised as a Jew, became a Baptist while in the Army but fell away from that faith. Mrs. Channel claims he can only be "saved" by "a Christian psychiatrist," saying those who previously examined him were not Christians and therefore refused to recognize his demonic possession as the cause of the killings.

In his May 15 letter, Berkowitz wrote: "I cannot believe that the papers said I had no remorse. Why I was almost in tears. Thats one of the reasons I pleaded guilty in the first place. So I could tell the world that I was sorry and admit that I did wrong. Don't always believe what the papers say.

"Furthermore, all the questions that were put to me and all the answers (my answers) were rehearsed in advance. This was all pre-plan by the judges, lawyers, prosecutor and myself. I had to plead guilty and yes I physced myself out for all of it."

Mrs. Channel said that letter ended suddenly, unsigned. "perhaps as possession began again." She said she began writing to Berkowitz after he told a judge last November that he considered himself "an animal" who is "less than a human."

A few days later, Berkowitz replied: "Please don't come to see me or send me any of your literature. There is no such thing as demon possession. It is, as far as I'm concerned — all nonsense. Take your nonsense and leave us alone."

However, he later wrote Mrs. Channel asking: "Please pray for me. Pray to Jesus that I get well ... I would like to go to a mental hospital where they can perhaps treat me more humanly than a prison. I know that I am no cold blooded killer and I don't hate girls."

In another note in the same envelope, Berkowitz said, "I'm a Christian now you know. About three weeks ago I gave my life to Jesus and I promise to serve him. This, however, does not mean that I'm free of the demons because I can still feel their presence often."

Mrs. Channel promised him not to show his letters to anyone without his permission but said she broke the pact "to save his life."

She sent him some demonology books but he did not get them because, as he wrote, "Shrink's orders. No books about demons."

In a letter March 29, Berkowitz asked for a book "written by a young girl who is crippled for life," apparently intending to send it to one of his victims, Joanne Lomino. He wrote:

"I want to give it to a cripple girl I know ... If there is one thing I would like, it is for this girl to go to heaven. Her name is Joanne and she too is a cripple girl, destined to spend the rest of her life in a wheel chair. I will do anything to get this girl saved even if it means going to hell myself which I deserve without mercy."

He said he hopes to write a book, profits from which — by a recently enacted state law — would go to his victims. "But I do not believe it will make them happy," he wrote. "Only Christ can and I plan to witness to the victims via the mails and by ordering religious newsletters for them. I pray for all of them daily."

Soviet Human Rights Monitors Jailed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Russia has jailed 20 of its 58 citizens trying to monitor Soviet compliance with the human rights provisions of the Helsinki aggeement, a congressional agency said.

The Commission on Security and Cooperation in Europe, the Congressional watchdog on the Helsinki accords, said documents it has received indicate the 20 Soviet citizens were imprisoned in five different Soviet republics between Feb. 3, 1977 and June 1, 1978.

Two others traveling abroad on Soviet passports — Maj. Gen. Pyotr Grigorenko and Tomas Venclova — lost their citizenship and were denied the right to return home.

Although accused of crimes ranging from treason to malicious hooliganism, those jailed were in trouble mainly for forming Helsinki Watch Groups to inform Kremlin authorities of apparent Soviet violations of the pact, a recent commission staff report said.

Their "crime" is identical political dissent, expressed in the non-violent, open effort to spur Soviet authorities to implement the human rights and humanitarian undertakings of the August 1975 Helsinki accords," the report said.

According to the more than 300 documents received by the commission, the critics frequently have been placed in solitary confinement; their relatives harassed and their witnessess intimidated by officials, the congressional agency said.

Most the defendants are not well known to foreigners.

Some who are include author Aleksandr Ginzburg, awaiting trial on possible charges of anti-Soviet agitation and propaganda; physicist Yuri Orlov, convicted May 18, 1978 of anti-Soviet agitation and propaganda; and mathematician and computer scientist Anatoly Shcharansky, awaiting trial on a possible charge of treason.

The commission also said the jailings violate Russia's own constitution which states "persecution for criticism is prohibited," and assures Soviets the right to criticize state agencies, plus "freedom of speech."

On May 12, 1976, a group of Soviet citizens in Moscow established a private watch on their government's human rights violations. Four other groups followed in the Ukraine, Lithuania, Georgia and Armenia.

In all, 58 Soviet citizens have enlisted as members of the groups or of their subsidiaries or affiliates, according to the commission.

The Kremlin acted after the Moscow group listed the names and telephone numbers of would-be emigrants whose telephones had been disconnected after they had applied to rejoin family members abroad, the report said.

Christian, PLO Duels Break Calm

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Heavy artillery and mortar fire between Christian and Palestinian positions in south Lebanon Sunday marred a general calm in the border region preceding Israel's troop withdrawal Tuesday.

In Beirut, United Nations officials confirmed Sunday that two U.N. observers had entered the strategic Palestinian-controlled Beaufort Castle on Saturday and that the blue U.N. flag was fluttering over the 12th-century Crusader fortress in south Lebanon.

Lebanese leftist sources said the artillery duels were between the Christian rightist enclave of Marjayoun and Beaufort. Israel radio reported four shells hit the camp of Norwegian troops, part of the U.N. peace-keeping force in Lebanon, near the town of Marjayoun.

The leftists claimed that guerrilas in Beaufort did not return the rightist fire and that Israeli gunners shelled Palestinian positions north of U.N. lines along the Hasbani River valley. Independent confirmation of alleged Israeli involvement was not immediately available, however.

"Our men in Beaufort have orders not to return fire," said an official at WAFA, the Palestine Liberation Organization news agency.

No accurate casualty reports were available, but the leftist sources said at least five people were wounded in the Hasbani River area.

PLO chief Yasser Arafat agreed to station U.N. observers at Beaufort Castle in a meeting nine days ago with Maj. Gen. Emmanuel Erskine, commander of the nearly 6,000 man U.N. force in Lebanon.

Installation of the two U.N. officers was hailed by U.N. officials, who hoped that their presence would help to put an end to the sporadic artillery duels between Marjayoun and Beaufort.

Israeli forces were still scheduled to withdraw from the roughly six-mile-deep "security belt" they control inside south Lebanon by Tuesday. Christian militias in the area, which have been supported by Israel for two years, reportedly have asked the Israelis to stay on, but authorities in the Jewish state have said they will proceed with the pullout as scheduled.

Police Chief Has Eventful First Year

HOUSTON (AP) — During his first year as chief of the Houston police, Harry Caldwell has had more than one occasion to mull over a line made famous by Gilbert and Sullivan — a policeman's lot is not a happy one.

Since former mayor Fred Hofheinz named him chief last June 11, Caldwell has had to guide the beleaguered department through a series of crises and scandals which originated before he came on board.

He has had to fire the man to whom he once reported — the man Hofheinz chose over him in 1974 to replace veteran Herman Short, whose hardline attitude characterized the force for many years.

But if Caldwell has not realized the hope he expressed when first taking over — "to get off the front pages and onto the front streets" — he thinks the bulk of the "housekeeping" he said was necessary to revitalize the department has been done.

"I think we've dealt with the problems that I inherited," he said recently. "I'll be looking forward to dealing with problems that occur in my administration because I will feel that I can deal with those based on my own policies and procedures."

Caldwell readily admits he always wanted to be chief of police. And he said one of the reasons was to be able to leave the department "better than I found it."

After Hofheinz appointed Carrol M. Lynn chief, passing over Caldwell, Lynn subsequently banished the then-inspector to an unattractive night shift command job.

Lynn resigned amid some controversy in 1975 and took a subordinate position on the force. He was replaced by B.G. "Pappy" Bond.

In April, Caldwell gave Lynn a chance to resign from the department. Lynn refused and was fired because of a federal extortion charge against him.

Caldwell created a stir when he told Houston police to take off their cowboy boots because they didn't look professional. The doctoral candidate in criminology has even had to contend with fleas on the police firing range. But Harry Caldwell's real albatross has been the legacy of alleged police brutality that has given the department a national black eye.

Joe Campos Torres, a Mexican-American laborer arrested during a bar brawl, had been found dead in a downtown bayou before Caldwell became chief. But subsequent state and federal trials of officers involved in the incident kept the department in the public eye. Three former officers were convicted of violating Torres' civil rights and sentenced to one year in prison.

Soon afterwards, information began to emerge about two separate incidents involving high speed chases and the deaths of fleeing teenagers at the hands of police. Federal indictments have been returned in one case and Caldwell has fired nine officers connected with both.

Ironically, it was an incident in a Mexican-American barrio one year after Torres' death that Caldwell feels turned the department around.

"I submit to you that beginning with the Moody Park incident that we have begun to build our national image, that no police agency in the United States could have handled that incident with better discipline, better accountability or with better results," he said.

A fight during a fiesta in the park May 7 turned into a rampage resulting in burning and looting of several shops in the area and attacks on police and two television cameramen.

Mexican-Americans, generally agreed that the police acted with great restraint.

Caldwell has changed the way in which captured weapons are disposed of to make sure they are actually destroyed. He requires officers to register their weapons with supervisors and prohibits the use of high-powered rifles.

He has updated a policy that prohibits shooting at suspects in fleeing vehicles unless the life of an officer or another person is in danger. Policemen can no longer fire warning shots nor enter buildings alone in pursuit of suspects without supervision.

Although Caldwell says he believes public support of the police "has never been greater than it is now," he is still disturbed about minority recruiting. He said the 2,911-member department is "nowhere near" reflecting the 40 percent minority population of the nation's fifth largest city.

A new police academy is scheduled for completion next year. Caldwell hopes to have a well-trained force of 5,000 in the next six years that would banish forever the observation by former mayor Oscar Holcombe that the Houston police department was "worse than a South American army."

There are probably some pitfalls still around, Caldwell says, but he wants to move ahead, out of the "backwaters and swamps.

"I love the job. I love every day of it. I wouldn't be anywhere else. I wouldn't trade jobs with anybody in town."

Carte Blanche For Airwaves Proposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Communications subcommittee is proposing to end nearly all federal regulation of television and radio, with programming free to reflect what sells and what doesn't.

A more revolutionary revision could hardly be imagined for an opinion-molding industry that reaches into nearly every home in America and affects billions of dollars in commerce.

Gone, for example, would be the federally imposed fairness in broadcasting doctrines, the equal time political issue rules, the "family hour" taboos.

The drastic deregulation proposals are contained in a total rewrite of the 1934 Communications Act, by which the government controls use of the airwaves.

The legislation was introduced last week by communications subcommittee Chairman Lionel Van Deerlin, D-Calif., and ranking Republican Louis Frey of Florida.

It faces a long, slow, controversial pull through the congressional committee system. No House vote is expected before the end of 1979, no Senate vote before 1980. Stiff opposition is guaranteed.

For the first time, under this bill, radio and television would be treated differently — with radio freed totally of government regulation from the outset.

That approach reflects the fact there are about 9,000 radio outlets to provide diverse programming, but only 1,000 TV stations using fewer available channels.

"They've been asking for deregulation and they've got it."

What radio deregulation means, in effect, is that stations will not have to present news or public affairs, although they are free to present nothing but news if they want.

Or they could, as panel spokesman John McLaren says, "have straight Ku Klux Klan programming."

"If a station was blatantly offensive to a substantial number of people," McLaren adds, "marketplace forces would take care of it."

As for television content — subject of heated public debate for 30 years — it would be regulated only in that it must continue some public affairs programming until new technology brings cable, satellite and video disc alternatives.

In addition, the bill would give broadcasters permanent licenses — ending the regulatory leverage, inconsequential as it has baen, that goes with ruling on license renewals every three years.

Hart Trial Hearings To Continue

PRYOR, Okla. (AP) — Nearly a year after three young Girl Scouts were bludgeoned to death in their camp tent, prosecutors return to court Monday to try to prove Gene Leroy Hart should face trial for the murders.

Hart, 34, is charged with three counts of first-degree murder in the killings of the three Tulsa-area girls, Lori Lee Farmer, 8, Michelle Guse, 9, and Doris Denise Milener, 10. The girls were beaten to death and sexually molested while on a two-week encampment June 13, 1977, a year ago Tuesday.

During the first three days of Hart's preliminary hearing last week, dozens of witnesses were heard. But throughout the often repetitious testimony, Hart's name was seldom mentioned, and there was no evidence presented linking him directly to the slayings.

Investigators found tattered wedding photographs near the Girl Scout camp, and a retired clerk at Granite State Reformatory did testify that Hart had helped develop and print them at the facility in 1969. But District Attorney Sid Wise made no immediate effort to link the photographs with the slayings.

"We have seen nothing that links this evidence to anyone," said one of the victims' mother, Mrs. Richard Farmer, who attended the hearings with her husband. "We would be the last persons to want someone who wasn't guilty convicted. That would mean the person who did it is still out there somewhere."

The Farmers and the parents of the Milner girl have filed lawsuits totaling $3 million against the Magic Empire Council of the Girl Scouts of America.

It was not until April 6 that Hart was arrested, at a cabin 50 miles from Camp Scott near Locust Grove, where the murders occurred. For months, authorities had been searching for him in the rugged foothills of eastern Oklahoma. Hart had been an escapee since 1973 from the Mays County Jail, where he had been serving terms for kidnapping, rape and burglary.

So far, testimony has focused on what occurred — rather than who was responsible — the morning of the killings.

The prosecution has established that someone crept into Tent No. 7 and bludgeoned the three girls, then dragged them in their sleeping bags several yards from the bloody tent and molested them sexually.

Knotted cords were found around the necks of two of the girls, one of whom died by strangulation. Two girls had their hands bound behind their backs, one with cord and the other with tape. One of the victims had a ready-made gag tied around her head.

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

(Today's column is a portion of the commencement address deliverd by Erma Bombeck at Bowling Green State University, Bowling Green, Ohio.)

I have no way of knowing how many of you will "climb every mountain, forge every stream", or who will "walk through a storm and hold your head up high and not be afraid of the dark," or who will even "march into hell with a heavenly song."

For some of you, it may be a toughie finding your car after the ceremony.

But whatever it was that brought you to this stage today...hang onto it. Maybe it was ambition. Maybe it was something you had to prove to yourself. Maybe it was peer pressure. Or maybe it was someplace to go while everyone else was working all day long. Whatever it was, it got you involved. It got all you Sagittarians off your cusp and moving. It kept you alert and vital for four years.

The saddest story I know was a woman...a very close friend of mine...who died three years ago of terminal apathy.

I cannot begin to tell you what the heartbreak of apathy is like. First, we noticed the physical paralysis...how she never ran for a bus, a parade, or a white sale. Slowly, insidiously, the disease began to spread to the rest of her body. She'd watch reruns of Gilligan's Island because it was to much trouble to turn the dial. She once listened to Debby Boone sing "You Light Up My Life" for three solid months and didn't even flinch.

Nothing excited her. She never complained about income tax, computers, commercials, or one-way streets. She didn't care about the Panama Canal, research rats who lit up, or whether her checkbook balanced. When someone mentioned President Carter's energy bill she shrugged and said, "He'll probably pay it like the rest of us."

She never volunteered, never got involved in health drives, and once when she was approached by the women's movement to contribute to her sex she said, "Honey, my husband gave at the office."

All of you out there today have a winning streak going for you. Whatever you do. BE! Raise your voice. Protest. Get angry. Enter a Pillsbury Bake-off...a Reader's Digest Sweepstakes...ban pay restrooms at the airport. March to put dogs in Pampers. Picket motherhood. Stamp out "Have a good day." Spread rumors that ironed sheets are a health hazard or discover a cure for bibliographies. But BE!

Whatever you're going to do with all your God-given talents — and you all have them — I would feel like this entire ceremony was a waste of time if any of you came and went through life on this earth...and no one noticed.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

BY

DR. GEORGE C. THOSTESON

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I never miss reading your column because your advice is so helpful. Now I need your help.

Several months ago I had sharp pains in my lower back. My doctor took X-rays and could find nothing wrong. He gave me some pills. The pain went down into the back part of my upper leg. It felt like muscle pain. My doctor sent me to an orthopedic doctor who did nothing. He told me to go to bed for two weeks. He suggested I could go to the hospital to be put in traction, and if this didn't help maybe an operation could be done on the back. He said it might be the sciatic nerve.

I am 62 and weight 125 pounds. What is your suggestion as to what I should do? I have taken muscle pills and pain pills. Would manipulation help? –Mrs. C.T.

You've had several months of medical attention. Isn't it time to start taking some of the advice you are paying for?

Low back pain is not uncommon at your age. Half of all folks over 60 will experience some of it, usually caused by a degeneration of the spine vertebrae. These tend to thin with age, particularly those in the lower spine. Sciatica, which is irritation of the sciatic nerve, is often a part of lower back pain because the same nerve roots serve both areas (lower back and legs).

Take the orthopedic doctor's advice and get the two weeks of bedrest. That may not seem the most scientific answer to a medical problem, but with most patients with low back pain it is all that's needed. At least it should be tried for starters. The two weeks' inconvenience is usually rewarding. If it doesn't help, traction might. Surgery is usually not required unless there is a gross disturbance of the spinal column, which would have been detected on your X-rays.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A while back I had a sudden paralysis of my right arm, a numbness that went away a few days afterward. When I went in to see my doctor recently I mentioned it to him, and he seemed very concerned and said it sounded as though I had had an occlusion. What does that mean? I am going in for a thorough physical exam next week. I don't like to ask questions of him, but I'd like to know what that meant. Doesn't it mean a stoppage of blood circulation to the arm? –H.L.

You may have had a transient ischemic attack, the potential stroke victim's "best friend." In such an event the word occlusion would mean a stoppage or interruption of blood supply, not to the limb, but to the portion of the brain that controls sensation (nerve supply) in the arm.

There are ways to tell the location and extent of the occlusion so that appropriate steps can be taken to forestall future TIA's. You are fortunate. Attacks that linger any length of time (as days) rarely subside. Be sure you show up for the all-important examination. As I said, a TIA can be a man's best friend –if recognized for what it is.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been told that my two-year-old daughter has a condition known as "carotenemia." I've been told that it is a dry-skin condition and that medication is available but should be avoided until she is older. What do you suggest? Are there any creams or soaps that will help? Will this condition persist throughout life? –W.A.

I suggest you determine the source of this tot's excess vitamin A. Has she been taking large doses of A for some reason? Another source might be too many yellow and green vegetables, a chief source of carotene.

Removing the sources of the excess vitamin A usually ends the symptoms (yellow skin color, itching, etc.) within a month. Usually, no treatment is required. Vitamin A is one of the so-called "fat soluble" vitamins and such side effects are good reason not to ever overdo them.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Readers: Recently I printed a letter from a widow (married 28 years) who wrote, "We had a fine marriage, no money problems, four healthy children and a good sex life, but I'm glad he's dead. Widowhood is great. I'm enjoying the freedom and having a wonderful time." I knew that letter would create a dynamite response from bereaved widows, but I certainly didn't anticipate an unprecedented avalanche of outrage from the four corners of the earth.

Dear Ann Landers: So "widowhood is great." Tell me about it. My husband and I were married ten years. I took care of him for nearly a year, while he wasted away. I sat by his bed and held his hand when he took his last breath. I buried him and then went about the task of trying to pick up the pieces and make a life without him.

I don't look upon widowhood as "freedom." I was always free. I didn't feel shackled by marriage. I had devotion and adoration and beautiful companionship.

I don't recall seeing the word "love" in that widow's letter. Maybe she can replace 28 years of no money problems, four healthy children and a good sex life with civic, church and club work. Well, I can't.

Social, civic and church activities could never fill the void left by my husband's death. After three years of widowhood, including one year in therapy, I still miss him terribly.

But I'm carrying on. Trying. My life is busy. I am "free." But I'd gladly trade all my committee meetings, art classes, parties, club activities and golf lessons for one more night with him. — Alone

Dear Ann Landers: Doesn't the groom or his parents have anything to say about who is to be invited to a wedding reception? I have gone along with the strictly adult reception (18 and over) although my son has four teenage cousins he would really like to have attend. I do resent the fact, however, that the bride's mother is also telling me I cannot invite the boyfriends of my two daughters. As long as I stay within the limit of the number of guests allotted, does she have the right to make further restrictions?

P.S. My son is no help. He is afraid to stand up to a woman who shows all the signs of being a formidable mother-in-law. Thank you. — Groom's Mother

Dear Mother: Actually, it's up to the groom to battle this through with the help of his bride. If he's too timid to speak out in behalf of his teenage cousins and his sisters' boyfriends, I don't see why you should get involved in a knock-down drag-out fight with your future daughter-in-law's family.

• • •

Dear Ann: My boyfriend moved 2,000 miles away. He didn't write like he promised so I called him long distance. He answered the phone and when I said, "This is Eloise," he tried to disguise his voice. What should I do? Don't say forget him because I can't. I'm — In Love

Dear In: O.K. Don't forget him. Remember him. But forget his phone number. It's too expensive.

• • •

Parents, what should you do if your teenager is having sexual relations? Ann Landers' new booklet, "High School Sex and How to Deal With It — A Guide for Teens and Their Parents," gives no-nonsense advice on how to handle this delicate situation. Symphony Representatives Attend Conference

Over 1200 managers, conductors, musicians, presidents and board members, womens' guilds, publicity directors, development directors, publishers, artist managers and composers representing over 420 orchestras in the United States and Canada attended the American Symphony Orchestra League's (ASOL) 33rd national conference in Chicago.

Representatives from the Lubbock Symphony Orchestra and symphony board were Mrs. Virginia Wheat, symphony manager; Mrs. Jack Wirtz, publicity director and Mrs. Floyd Greer. Representing the Lubbock Symphony Guild was Mrs. Carl Cannon, vice president of the guild..

The Lubbock Symphony Guild's Living Appointment Book was selected by the National League for excellence as a fund raising project. The Lubbock guild was one of six selected from across the nation to make a presentation to the delegation. Mrs. Wirtz, the originator of the Living Appointment Book in Lubbock, made the presentation.

Livingston L. Biddle Jr., chairman of the National Endowment of the Arts spoke on the endowment and how it affects symphony orchestras. David Rockefeller Jr., chairman of the Arts, Education and Americans Panel presented a study on the manner in which symphony orchestras can help foster education in the arts for American children. Bill Veeck, of the Chicago White Sox, who brought midgets and fireworks to major league baseball related how he promotes success and packs stadiums.

Harry Belafonte was the speaker and special entertainment for the awards luncheon. At that luncheon, the League's 1978 "Gold Baton" award was presented to Aaron Copeland and the Exxon Corporation.

The award is the League's highest honor for distinguished service to music and arts. Past winners include Avery Fisher and the Alcoa Foundation, Arthur Fiedler, Nancy Hanks, Leonard Bernstein, Danny Kaye and Martha Baird Rockefeller.

On Tuesday evening the Chicago Symphony was host for the annual "Tune-up Party." Wednesday evening conference delegates heard Mahler's Symphony No. 2. "Resurrection" performed in Orchestra Hall by the Milwaukee Symphony and the Wisconsin Conservatory Symphony Chorus with Kenneth Schermerhorn conducting. Following the concert, Columbia Artists was host at a reception at the Chicago Art Institute. Thursday evening the entire delegation dined at the Field Museum.

Climaxing the five-day event, conference delegates had a choice of attending the hit Broadway musical "Chorus Line" or the second annual International Ballet Festival featuring Natalia Makarona, Michail Baryshnikov and stars from 12 countries.

Mrs. Wheat, symphony manager, indicated the Lubbock Symphony will benefit greatly from the knowledge gained by the representatives at the conference.

Woman Recalls Memory of Elvis Presley

By BRIAN VINE
Copyright, 1978, Women's News Service

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (WNS) — The king is dead, but for his queen the memory lingers on.

The pendant is a handful of diamonds, almost the size and pattern of stepping stones, set across a lightning flash in gold.

The last time she saw him he was sprawled dead, his face buried in a bathroom carpet at his Memphis mansion, 235 days ago.

Ginger discovered the body only yards from where he had romantically sunk to his knees to ask her to marry him seven months earlier.

Next door to what she calls "Elvis's Den" in her own suburban home, the 11.5 carat diamond engagement ring he had made for her lies in a bedroom drawer.

"I don't usually keep it in the house," purrs Ginger in petal-soft Southern tones. "But I like to look at it and wear it when I'm alone and get thoughtful about what might have been."

Ginger goes out to caress him and pensively dips her toe in the aquamarine water of the swimming pool that Elvis instructed his father, Vernon, to order for the Alden family homestead.

At the side of the house sit three cars: a white Lincoln Continental, a custom-built maroon Cadillac and a TR 6 sports car, all gifts from Elvis to Ginger.

He handed over cars as other swains present flowers.

"I once told him that I didn't like diamonds and I'd just as soon have a dozen roses from him as any jewels," recalled Ginger, flashing a searchlight of Elvis-bought diamond rings on three of her fingers.

"But he admonished me with: 'Well, you'll just have to get used to them, my little chicken neck.' He always called me that."

She is not maudlin about the man whose bride she was to have been last Christmas Day.

The presents, the photos, the paintings and cars are kept and cared for in tribute to her lost love, as only a widow might.

"The only thing I've done is given the Lincoln car to my parents. Elvis loved them too," she says.

His death left her heartbroken, bewildered, bemused, tearful, numb and lost, she says.

She still refuses to go back to Graceland, the white-columned Presley mansion, where she had begun work on a new decor of turquoise and white.

She recalls the moment of discovering his death with horror. She and the insomniac Elvis had played racquet ball in his private court until 4 a.m., but she woke from a doze to find Elvis could not sleep.

He went instead into the bathroom to read.

That afternoon she finally woke, found Elvis's reading light still on, and entered the bathroom.

She found him dead on the floor.

"I tried to beat on it, too. I was praying silently to myself 'Please God don't let him die.'"

The death, the funeral, and the resulting emptiness gives 21-year-old Ginger the maturity of a woman of 40.

She has been coaxed out of mourning by a film-maker who wants to put her face on the cinema screens.

The title of the film: "Living Legend." The story: the life-style and pressures in the life of a star of country-and-western singing.

Ginger's part: the star's girl friend.

Singer Roy Orbison will dub the voice of the star, to be played by Earl Owensby who is financing the $5 million dollar movie which goes on location next month.

Her breathtaking looks were the attraction for Elvis in the first place, because he had asked her sister, Terry, now 23, up to his mansion for a party in mid-1976.

"In a way Terry has a better figure and musical talent than Ginger," says Mrs. Alden, who cossets her daughters — including the eldest, Rosemarie, 28 — with the protectiveness of a ewe with her lambs.

"But Elvis told me that he never took his eyes off Ginger from the moment she came into the mansion as a chaperone for her sister."

Two months after they met, Elvis rang Memphis jeweler Lowell Hays and said: "I want something special and I want it tonight." It was 1 a.m.

He offered the jeweler his huge jet plane to fly anywhere that gem merchants might sell him a diamond supreme.

Hays got a stone valued at approximately $40,000 out of his vaults, set it and delivered it to the Presley mansion by 8 a.m.

Her allegiance to him was sworn in love...and tears.

COUNTRY SMILE — There has never been more to choose from and the range of mixtures is practically mistake-proof. Hints from Heloise

DEAR FOLKS:

When planting small tomato plants from your greenhouse in your garden, if you put a large plastic sandwich bag over the plant and leave it there for a few days until it becomes acclimated to the outdoors it will act as a beautiful hot house.

Overnight the bag catches the dew inside and this keeps the little plant warm and moist. They catch on beautifully.

I usually put a tiny stick beside the plant to hold the bag directly off the tiny plant.

When the first tiny batch of tomatoes form on one stem if you take another one of those plastic bags and cover the little tomatoes, this will keep the bugs off them.

I staple mine around the cluster but tape could be used. When they get large enough either remove the bag or put a larger one on. I have had oodles of luck by using this method.

Each morning I find dew inside my bagged tomatoes that are beginning to ripen but I never remove this. Seems to give the tom-toms the exact amount of moisture they need.

And did you know that tomato plants could be grown on a patio in big pots? My neighbor does this. Believe it. I've got a neighbor that outdoes me on this and it makes me envious.

For shame...--Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Here is a tip for backyard swimming pools. Covers are so expensive and yet almost a must. So make your own cover.

Buy nylon net by the yard. Cut the net into lengths to completely fit over the pool and sew the strips together.

To hold in place for an in-ground pool, fill gallon plastic jugs with water or sand and place on the edges of the pool.

If it is an above-ground pool, clothespins would work. Just clip the nylon net on the edges of the pool with the clothespins.

The cover is so lightweight one person can handle it and leaves and bugs are kept out of the pool. --Mrs. Violent Johnson

DEAR HELOISE:

When I travel by commercial transportation I prefer two smallish suitcases to one large one because they are easier to handle.

Of course, there's more chance that one of them can be lost, but also that one of them will not be lost.

I pack each one with a pair of shoes and the garments that can be worn together so that I can live with the one suitcase in case the other is lost.

I can stow my two smallish bags without help on the baggage racks whereas I could not lift a large fully packed bag so high.

When necessary I can carry both small ones by myself. --Virginia Burton

DEAR HELOISE:

For fishing trips, I save the foam trays that fruits, lettuce, and meats are packed on.

I place my catch on a tray and wrap with plastic wrap.

Avoids the slipping and sliding --makes a neat stackable package for the freezer. --Mrs. Paul K. Schulte

• • •

DEAR HELOISE:

I am allergic to tape so when I have a sore finger or sore thumb I put ointment and gauze on the sore. Then I cut off a finger from an old pair of rubber gloves, leaving it long enough so it will stay on, and slip it on over the gauze.

The gauze stays dry and in place without any tape.

I have found this very helpful and I can easily slip another rubber glove on over the sore finger when I do dishes or scrub floors, etc. --Mrs. G. L.

Even without your problems, this is a very good idea. You sure put your brain to work. --Heloise

♠Q105 ♡QJ7 ◇AK87 ♣KJ6
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 NT	Pass	4 NT	Pass

What action do you take?

A.—Pass. Partner's bid of four no trump is not Blackwood. It is a quantitive raise, asking you to bid a slam if you are at the top of your range. You have a dead minimum—16 points and an absolutely flat hand—so you cannot take any action.

Q.2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠QJ83 ♡954 ◇82 ♣KJ72
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four spades. Partner has made a game try, and in support of spades you are near the top of your range. In addition, your excellent support for partner's trial suit further enhances the value of your hand.

Q.3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠8 ♡Q1073 ◇AQ1082 ♣973
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South
1 ♠	2 ♡	?

What action do you take?

A.—Double. You can reasonably expect to take four tricks on defense, and perhaps more if partner has the right hand. In addition, your double will alert partner to your spade shortness, which should deter him from rebidding his suit and placing your side in jeopardy.

Q.4—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠954 ♡AQ1072 ◇862 ♣74
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South
1 ♠	2 ♠	?

What action do you take?

A.—Pass. You simply do not have the strength to respond two hearts, and with only three low spades, you are too weak to raise partner's suit. Perhaps partner has the values to reopen the bidding.

Q.5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠J982 ♡6 ◇Q752 ♣J653
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three spades. Despite the fit for partner's second suit and your singleton, you don't have enough to go to game. Partner would be entitled to expect more than a queen and two jacks for a jump to four spades.

Q.6—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠3 ♡A1087 ◇Q752 ♣KJ93
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 ♠	Dble.	2 ♠	?

What action do you take?

A.—Cue-bid three spades. Opposite a vulnerable takeout double you have a very fine hand, and not even a jump to four hearts will do it full justice. A cue-bid is a much better description of its values. If partner simply bids four hearts, you can now pass, secure in the knowledge that you have shown your strength.

Q.7—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A92 ♡10874 ◇852 ♣AK6
Partner opens the bidding with one heart. What do you respond?

A.—Your hand falls in the in-between range—not quite strong enough for a jump raise, yet too strong for a single raise. Therefore, you have to employ a temporizing maneuver. Our suggestion is that you respond two clubs and then support hearts at your next turn. Don't worry about having to bid a three-card suit. You can always return to hearts if partner supports clubs.

Q.8—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠AQ82 ♡AKQ7 ◇85 ♣AK10
What is your opening bid?

A.—Both your major suits are biddable, so the normal action would be to open one spade. However, we do not recommend that action—your hand is too strong. We suggest you open one club to allow partner the maximum opportunity to find a response.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Oswald: "One of the most interesting bridge plays is the so-called crocodile coup in which you must open your jaws to pick up partner's queen. The coup is seldom necessary since an alert partner should get rid of the queen early."

Alan: "South's five-no-trump call was made to tell North that their side held all the aces. South was not going to seven on his own hook."

Oswald: "South won the diamond lead in dummy, cashed the ace and jack of spades and led a club to dummy's ace."

Alan: "Right here is where an alert East would have chucked his queen of clubs to guard against the possibility that West held king-ten-small, or what he actually held. That queen wasn't worth anything."

Oswald: "In any event, East kept a tight hold on that queen. Now South cashed all three hearts and the ace of diamonds before leading a club from his hand. Should West rise with the king? Yes. Would West rise with the king? Maybe."

Alan: "If he did rise he would cash his jack. If he didn't East would have to give a ruff and discard and the slam would make."

Unique Plane To Snoop On Mars Studied

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Space agency engineers are thinking about building an unmanned airplane to snoop around the planet Mars.

The propeller-driven drone, carried to the red planet by spaceship, would have an engine the size of a lawnmower motor, a wingspan of something like 65 feet and might be able to fly hundreds or even thousands of miles across the Martian surface.

Television Camera Included

It would carry a television camera able to spot objects as small as a beachball on the planet's surface from an altitude of a few thousand feet.

It would also carry atmospheric sniffing instruments and, possibly, a water-searching electromagnetic sounding device.

The Mars plane is still in the idea stage, but similar drones have been built and engineers are confident the concept would work on Mars.

The question is not so much whether it could be done, but whether it will fit into the overall plan space agency officials are developing for Mars exploration in the 1980s.

Considered As Option

"It is actively being studied as one option of things we might do on Mars," said Daniel Herman, manager of advanced planetary programs for the space agency.

"I'm fully convinced that it is within the current state of technology. The whole problem is how much weight it can carry and what it can do."

According to Louis Friedman, Mars program leader at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena, Calif., the idea surfaced about a year and a half ago — after Viking robot spacecraft had landed on the red planet.

The Viking found that the atmospheric pressure on the surface of Mars is about the same as that found 100,000 feet above Earth.

Engineers already were developing a remotely powered airplane to fly as high as 100,000 feet over Earth to study the ozone in the atmosphere.

Rocket Propellant Used

Friedman said in a telephone interview that the reciprocating engine that would be used for a Mars plane would be fueled by hydrazine, a rocket propellant. He said the engine need only develop about 15 horsepower.

The plane would be folded and carried to Mars on a spacecraft designed to go into orbit around the planet and relay communications between the plane and Earth control. The plane itself would be enclosed in a clam-like protective shell that would drop toward Mars and slow with a parachute.

The plane would separate as it neared the surface, the engine would start automatically and the aircraft, using a preprogrammed guidance system, would pull out of its dive and begin horizontal flight.

Friedman said studies indicate one spacecraft could carry three to five planes.

After they completed their reconnaissance missions, the planes would crash on Mars — although Friedman said they might be designed to make vertical, helicopter-type pandings and takeoffs, possibly to pick up soil samples for delivery to the spaceship.

New York Financial Proposals To Come Before Senate Group

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two very different proposals for federal aid to keep New York City from bankruptcy compete for congressional approval when Senate Banking Committee hearings resume today.

Under one plan approved by the House 247-155 Thursday, the federal government would guarantee, for as long as 15 years, up to $2 billion at a time in New York City bonds. Washington would put up no cash unless there was a default.

The second proposal is to extend temporarily the year-at-a-time "seasonal" federal loans that Congress enacted for New York City in 1975 and which expire at the end of the month.

The House rejected the short-term loan approach by an overwhelming 291-109.

But Senate Baning Committee Chairman William Proxmire, D-Wcs., opposes any continued aid to the city, arguing New York state, private banks and the city can do more on their own to solve the problem.

If there is to be more federal aid, Proxmire prefers short-term seasonal loans to longterm guarantees.

New York's Mayor Edward Koch, New York Gov. Hugh Carey, and Treasury Secretary Michael Blumethal all favor the long-term guarantee approach, arguing New York has made progress toward financial solvency but still is unable to borrow in private markets because of lack of confidence among investors.

Further seasonal loans, they say, would not solve this fundamental problem and would require the city to return to Washington every few years for more loans.

The federal government now guarantees some $300 billion in private loans for everything from fishing boats to satellites iBut never before has it guaranteed the credit of a municipality.

For this reason, some legislators say the guurantee proposal sets too big a precedent, altering the basic relationship between federal and local government.

New York's two senators, Republican Jacob Javits and Democrat Daniel Moynihan, are pushing for refolution of the issue before the existing loans expire June 30. But that deadline is to some extent psychological.

New York officials say the city will have money to carry it well into July.

But they say New York's financial ability after June 30 will depend heavily on enactment — or the clear pcobabiliby of impending enactment — of a loan guurantee bill.

Reese Starts Clear Zone Acquisition

tivation, but that to the south, across SH 16, takes in much of the residential and business segment of Hurlwood.

Cotton Gin Included

Largest facilities in the area are a cotton gin and a fertilizer plant. The gin was about the only structure in the area when an Army flying school, destined to become Lubbock Army Air Field and then Reese AFB, was constructed on open pasture land in 1940.

The clear zone, where 62 per cent of all aircraft accidents occurs, is the only purchase planned, but the AICUZ report outlines two other zones of civilian—base compatible use involving control of residential buildup and recommending types of structures with specific insulation against noise pollution.

At a July, 1976, meeting with landowners, Michael Cottrell, chief of real estate for the Corps' district, announced that 125 acres north and 72 acres south of Reese were in the clear zone.

At that time, he noted that the proposed purchase would not leave a landowner with "an economically unfeasible" strip of land. The 258 figure is the adjusted acreage.

Cottrell also noted at the time that the $2.244 million estimate for the purchase was misleading, that it included all costs of acquiring the land and improvements.

If negotiations fail within a reasonable length of time, Cottrell added, a notice of termination of negotiations for purchase will be sent as the first step in "right of eminent domain" proceedings.

Land To Be Leased

After all structures have been removed from the clear zone, land will be leased for farming on a bid basis, Cottrell said.

Clear zone purchase proceedings were shelved soon after the meeting in 1976 with funds available but lacking the authorization for use.

Seaman will be contacting landowners in person and by mail beginning Monday.

here seven years, and we've had a lot of fires out here, and we've still got no protection."

Idalou and Roosevelt firemen kept the blaze from spreading, but the Surrette home was already gutted by the time they arrived.

"I went back in the bedroom to get my son as soon as I smelled the smoke," Lee Alvarado said. "I thought it was our place, but about the time we got out of the bedroom back there, you should have heard the bullets ripping through."

She said weapons apparently were stored in the burning home, and the heat set off the cartridges.

It was incorrectly reported in Sunday's Avalanche-Journal that the weekly photo winners chosen by the A-J judges in the Kodak International Newspaper Snapshot Contest would each receive $50.

Instead, each of the weekly winners will receive parchment certificates and be eligible to compete to be the top eight local winners. The $50 prize money will be awarded to the local winners.

Adair Fighting Well Fire In Indonesia

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Famed American flame-eater Paul "Red" Adair and his team Sunday pressed their five-day effort to douse a natural gas well burning out of control in northern Sumatra, an oil company source said.

The Mobil Oil Corp. source said the Adair crew was flown in Wednesday from Houston, Texas, to extinguish the fire. It started last Sunday in the Khok Sukon gas field.

The team was drilling another well nearby to find the source of the fire and cap it, the source said.

"There have been no casualties. The fire is still out of control, but it has not deteriorated either," said the source, who declined to be identified.

The well was being drilled by Paker Drilling Co. for Mobil Oil Indonesia, a subsidiary of the American oil company, and Pertamina, Indonesia's state-owned oil corporation.

"Drilling ran into difficulty at a depth of 11,098 feet and escaping gas violently forced the rig's 'travelling block' into the metal drilling rig, causing a spark and igniting the gas," a spokesman for Pertamina said.

The Mobil Oil source said the company did not expect the fire to affect plans to start shipping liquefied natural gas from the field, 900 miles northwest of Jakarta, to Japan in August.

Moves Against Hospital Cost Spirals Loom

tional Commission on Hospital Costs to be appointed by the president.

The American Hospital Association says it already has begun cktting costs and does not need federal controls.

"In 1977, we operated at a 15.6 percent increase in expenditures ovar 1976," said AHA spokesman Walt McHugh. "We set a goal for this year to reduce that by 2 percentage points. It has been in effect since mid-December and in January the rate went down to 13.5, in February to 13.1 and in March to 12.4."

At best, administration and medical officials agree the cost control program will not cut hospital costs but simply will bring them closer to the annual inflation rate.

Carter's program originally called for an immediate cooling in the hospital inflation rate to 9 percent a year. But when it became obvious that such a bill could not pass, Rogers tossed in his substitute that would trigger about a 12 percent annual rate if hospitals fail to contain their costs voluntarily.

The committee is expected to hold several meetings this week and battle over a number of amendments on the important issue.

Bishops Oppose Catholic Detentions

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Two Roman Catholic archbishops said they had "clear and sharp differences" with Justice Minister James T. Kruger over the recent detentions of seven Catholic youth workers.

Cardinal Owen McCann, archbishop of Cape Town, and Archbishop Joseph Fitzgerald, president of the Southern Africa Catholic Bishops Conference, issued the statement Saturday after meeting with Kruger and the national police commissioner the previous day.

The seven detainees either were arrested without charge under South Africa's broad security laws or were restricted to their homes.

Soccer Outdraws Italian Referendum

ROME (AP) — Italians appeared more interested in soccer Sunday than in a referendum to decide whether to retain laws giving police broad powers to fight terrorism and providing state subsidies for political parties.

Voter turnout on the first of two days of balloting was light. By 5 p.m., the average around the country was only 31.4 percent. Polls reopen Monday and close at 2 p.m., with first results expected several hours later.

The referendum competed for front-page space in Sunday's newspapers with Italy's victory over Argentina in the World Cup soccer championship in Buenos Aires, a game watched by millions of Italians on television until past 2 a.m.

The small Radical Party, with only four members in the 950-seat parliament, collected the required half-million signatures to force the referendum.

Italy's two major parties, the ruling Christian Democrats and the Communists, have urged voters to support both laws, and observers believe the repeal effort will be defeated.

House Action On Abortions Tops Agenda

muster the 60 votes needed by Wednesday to bring the filibuster to an end.

Also on the congressional agenda was a meeting today of the energy conferees. They were expected to take formal action approving a natural gas compromise. They agreed tentatively on the compromise two weeks ago, breaking a six-month deadlock.

Their proposal would lift controls on natural gas prices in 1985. The Senate, which is supposed to vote on the compromise before the House does, is likely to take it up some time in July after the labor law filibuster has ended.

The conferees' vote will mean that four of the five parts of the Carter energy package have been completed. The fifth, on taxation, is being studied by a separate group of conferees.

In other action, Democrats on the House Ways and Means Committee expected to resume this week efforts to agree on a compromise tax bill.

Castro Claims Opposition To Zaire Attack

Belgian and Zairian troops who received U.S. logistical support.

On May 25 — one week after Castro met with Lane — Carter denounced Cuban involvement with the attack.

"We believe that Cuba had known of the Katangan plan to invade and obviously did nothing to restrain them from crossing the border," the president said.

The sources said the Carter administration offered other evidence to support its claim that the Cubans were involved although none was described as conclusive.

"If I had to bet my life, I'd probably say the Cubans were involved, but if I had to prove it in court, I'd be hard pressed," said Clark, in a comment typical of the committee's reaction.

On Friday, McGovern said Turner had produced circumstantial evidence based on "doubtful" sources.

Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., chairman of the committee, said "the weight of (the evidence) is substantial but by no means conclusive."

India Holds Firm Against Arms Pact

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Prime Minister Morarji Desai reiterated Sunday that India has no intention of building nuclear weapons in the future — "even if the whole world makes them."

But he also said India will not sign a non-proliferation treaty providing for inspections of nuclear facilities until other nations "fall in line."

He said he would have a "dialogue" with President Carter during his visit this week on the sensitive issue, and hoped it would be "solved satisfactory."

"I personally do not think it is necessary at all to have explosions for peaceful purposes," he said in an interview on NBC's "Meet the Press" program. "We have therefore said that we do not make any atomic weapons in the future even if the whole world makes them."

He added: "... I am trying to prevail upon the skperpowers to declare that theynwon't have any explosions for either weaponry or for peaceful purposes. Once they do it, I qill sign (the non-proliferation treaty) immediately."

Desai also said he does not think India's people will be "misled again" and return Indira Gandhinto power.

FESTIVAL SHUNS POLITICS

VENICE, Italy (AP) — The Venice Biennale art festival, which featured works by Soviet-bloc dissidents last year and works on Franco-era Spain in 1976, has chosen a non-political theme this time. "From the Nature of Art to the Art of Nature" will be the theme of the festival scheduled to open July 2 with 118 artists represented from various countries, organizers said.

Whites Remain Fearful Of Local Shaba Blacks

LUBUMBASHI, Zaire (AP) — Perhaps one-fifth of its 4,000 to 5,000 white residents have fled this pocket of European influence in central Africa, and their reasons go beyond and their reasons go beyond the fear that rebel tribesmen will repeat last month's bloody invasion from Angola.

They also fear the local people — the blacks who have been their servants and taxi drivers or who, unemployed, have watched with pent-up anger and envy as the whites enjoyed lives of privilege and relative luxury.

"I work with the Africans every day, but when the working day is over, they go to the 'Cite' (the African quarter) and you don't know what they are really thinking," said one white resident of Kipushi, near this Shaba Province Some of the departing Europeans estimate that as many as 1,000 of the resident whites in Lubumbashi and surrounding communities in rebel-threatened Shaba have left for Europe since May 13-20.

That was the week Katangan rebels seized the province's mining center of Kolwezi, 150 miles northwest of here, and massacred more than 100 whites. An estimated 600 blacks — rebels, Zairian government troops and civilians — also were slain in the fighting and during the one-week rebel occupation.

French and Belgian paratroopers were airlifted in to retake Kolwezi, and the 2,500 white survivors were evacuated to Europe.

Lubumbashi, a city of 300,000 near the Zambian border, was untouched. But whites are fearful nonetheless.

The black people of Lubumbashi, where native unemployment is massive, are members of the Lunda tribe, as are the people of Kolwezi and the exiled Katangans who have staged successive revolts against the national government since Zaire gained independence from Belgium in the 1960s. Shaba was called Katanga then.

"These people are angry and hungry," said one diplomat here who requested anonymity. "The whites and rich Zairians are all lumped together as collaborators with a government the people don't like.

"The people eat once a day. They get protein three times a week.... (Violence) could explode at any time. It only needs a spark to ignite it. The whites know that and they are sending their families away, at least temporarily."

The Kipushi resident, who requested anonymity, was planning to take his family on a summer holiday in Europe for the first time in four years.

"I think the situation will be clearer in a few months and then we will decide whether to come back," he said.

Many of the 100 or so whites jamming the Air Zaire check-in counter at Lubumbashi air terminal Friday for flights to the national capital of Kinshasa also were women and children leaving for European holidays while their men remained behind.

One Belgian who asked that he be identified only as George was sending his wife, Denise, and their three youngest children to southern Belgium.

"Frankly, we fear the local people and the army more than we do the rebels," said George, who has lived in Zaire for 20 years.

"We are anxious," he said. "I have to stay. I have only three more years until my pension, but I want my wife and children safe."

Some whites in outlying areas of Shaba have complained of harassment and looting by Zairian government troops during the chaos ensuing after the May invasion.

For some Europeans, the departure may be permanent.

Informed sources say about 200 employees of Gecamines, the state-controlled mining company and the province's largest employer, have resigned. Gecamines officials would not confirm this.

"When the French and Belgian paratroopers leave, we leave," said Shirley, an 18-year-old British expatriate. "My fiance and I were going to settle down here, but we just wouldn't feel safe here without them (the troops) in this situation."

Two companies of Belgian paratroopers and about 200 French Foreign Legionnaires of the original European force remain in Shaba, but they are to be replaced by an arriving inter-African peacekeeping force consisting of 1,500 Moroccans and another 1,100 troops from Senegal, Gabon, Ivory Coast, Togo, Central African Empire and Egypt.

A 45-man contingent of Gabonese soldiers arrived Sunday aboard an American transport plane to join the peacekeeping force. French military sources said Senegalese and Togolese troops were expected in Shaba soon.

President Mobutu Sese Seko hopes the peacekeepers can inspire enough confidence in the Europeans to stem the exodus, for they are needed to run the copper and cobalt mining industry of Shaba that props up Zaire's shaky economy and helps keep him in power.

The Shaba mines account for most of the foreign exchange garnered by Zaire's mineral exports, which themselves bring in roughly 80 percent of total foreign currency earnings.

Observers say the Lunda people feel the central government in Kinshasa — 900 miles away and run by members of other tribes — is short-changing them in distributing earnings from the mineral wealth under their own soil.

This feeling of alienation brings sympathy for the rebels and resentment both for the government troops, who are said to shake down the local population regularly for money, and for the Europeans, who are seen as allies of Kinshasa.

"The people are hostile to us," a Belgian soldier said. "You can see it in their eyes. They hate us."

"Their expressions are studiedly blank when Europeans or wealthy-looking Zairians pass on their way to or from their own neighborhoods of ranch-style villas, neatly manicured lawns and streets fringed with frangipani blooms and bougainvillea.

Belgian military sources said a joint Belgian-Zairian army patrol in Lubumbashi's African quarter last week uncovered a small cache of arms being smuggled into the city in sacks hidden on a pushcart. The sources said they believe other arms may be smuggled into the city by rebel sympathizers for use in some future uprising.

House Pets Attract Attention At Zoo

BROOKFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The big attractions in zoos in China are things Americans take for granted — like house cats and pigeons, says the director of Brookfield Zoo.

George Rabb, one of 18 American scientists and zoo officials who spent three weeks last month in China, said Chinese keep few pets, and that may explain why kids out for a class trip to the zoo stare at a cat. Rabb said other than that, Chinese zoos are much like American zoos, showing exotic animals in similar settings.

HEARTLINE: I am just going on Social Security and Medicare. Where can I get literature on both programs? — R.Q.

At your Social Security Office. Ask for a booklet titled "Your Medicare Handbook." It's free.

Relating to Social Security information, there are numerous free pamphlets available through any Social Security office. Just give you some examples: "Disability Benefits for Blind People" (SSA 74-10002) describes benefits for blind people, tells who can get disability benefits, the statuary test for blindness, and more. "Estimating Your Social Security Retirement Check" (SSA-10047) is a guide to estimating retirement benefits payable to ages 62 to 65; also explains how to figure benefits for the worker's dependents. "Your Social Security Rights and Responsibilities, Retirement and Survivors Benefits" (SSA-10077) explains what a beneficiary can expect from Social Security and what his or her reporting responsibilities are, and how to report changes that could effect his or her Social Security benefit check. The title of "You Can Work and Still Get Social Security Checks" (SSA 74-10092) is a brief overall explanation of the Social Security program.

HEARTLINE: I am 64 years old and I draw my Social Security benefits. I am also on food stamps. Can you tell me if there will be a change in this program during 1978? — K.F.

There will be a cost-of-living increase in food stamps allocation on July 1. This was recently reported by the Agriculture Department. The increase will average 4.4 percent. Food stamp benefits are based according to sizes of households. A one-person household will get $54 in stamps beginning July 1, an increase of $2.00. The income a person can have and still receive food stamps will be raised. But the amount of income a person pays to receive the stamps will be unchanged.

• • •

HEARTLINE: I will be 65 in August. I will have been on Social Security for three years then. In August I will also be starting on Medicare. I have heard from a friend on Medicare that you must pay for this coverage. I always thought it was free. Can you tell me who is right? — E.H.

There is a charge of $7.70 per month for the Medicare Part "B" (Medicare Insurance premium). Starting with your July benefit check, this will be increased $8.20 per month. There is no charge for Part "A" (Hospital Insurance) under Medicare for those who are fully insured under Social Security.

For all people on Medicare or going on it shortly, Heartline has a very easy-to-understand book covering the whole program. To order, send $1.75 to Heartline's Guide to Medicare, 114 East Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. Please allow six weeks for delivery.

Borg Wins Crown

PARIS (AP) — Sweden's Bjorn Borg, with demoralizing power, precision and speed, whipped defending champion Guillermo Vilas of Argentina 6-1, 6-1, 6-3 Sunday to win his third French Open tennis title.

The cool, 22-year-old Swede added the $48,000 crown to his Italian Open victory of two weeks ago with an awesome display of clay court consistency, breaking Vilas's serve nine times.

"I was a little bit surprised I won that easily, especially the first two sets," Borg said after the 1-hour, 49-minute match. "We had some long games, but I won all the important points. I was never scared, even when he broke my serve in the third set."

Borg did not lose a single set during the 14-day competition at Roland Garros Stadium. In his third set against powerhouse Roscoe Tanner of Lookout Mountain, Tenn., Borg was forced to a 12-point tiebreaker, but won it 7-5 to take the quarter-final contest.

Borg now goes on to Belgrade for a Davis Cup match and then to the grass courts of Wimbledon, which follows the French Open among the four so-called "Grand Slam" tennis tournaments.

In the women's competition, No. 2 seeded Virginia Ruzici of Romania overpowered defending champion Mima Jausovec of Yugoslavia 6-2, 6-2 to take the $24,000 crown.

The tall, swift 22-year-old Ruzici and Jausovec, 21, teamed up to win the women's doubles title 5-7, 6-4, 8-6 Saturday over the veteran Australian team of Lesley Bowrey and Gail Lovera.

Bean Holds Off 'Mex', Captures Memphis Title

MEMPHIS (AP) — Big Andy Bean holed a 35-40 foot birdie putt on the first extra hole to beat Lee Trevino in a sudden death playoff and claim his second consecutive title Sunday, winning the Danny Thomas-Memphis Golf Classic.

Bean, frustrated in pursuit of Trevino most of the hot, sunny day, finally caught Lee with a 6-foot birdie putt on the 72nd hole and set the chase for a $50,000 first prize to extra holes.

They finished regulation play with matching 277 totals, 11 strokes under par on the 7,249 yard Colonial Country Club course. Bean played the last round in 2-under-par 70. Trevino, who had started the last round in a tie for 19th place, shot the best round of the tournament, a 65.

He had to wait about 1 1-2 hours while man after man made a run at him, and watched from a golf cart by the 18th hole when Bean finally caught him.

They went to the 15th hole, a par 3, for the playoff.

The powerful Bean deftly stroked the long putt into the hole, the ball circling the cup once before falling in. Trevino's effort, through the fringe, was well wide and Bean was a winner again.

The $50,000 winner's check along with the $60,000 Bean won last week in the Kemper Open, vaulted him into second place on the season's money-winning list at $187,509.

It also put both Bean and Trevino into the World Series of Golf later this year.

Trevino, who won the Colonial National Invitation in Fort Worth last month, now is a four-time runner-up this season. He picked up $28,500 for second, became the No. 3 money-winner this season and moved past Arnold Palmer into second place on the all-time money-winning list.

Trevino has $1,783,893 for his spectacular career. Palmer, the game's first $1 million winner, now trails both Jack Nicklaus and Trevino with $1,781,759.

Tom Kite had a chance to get in the playoff, but missed a 7-foot eagle putt on the 16th hole. He finished one shot back at 278 after a closing 66.

Tom Purtzer, Gary Koch and New Zealand's John Lister were next at 279. Koch shot a closing 68, Lister 69 and Purtzer 71.

The group at 280 included Barry Jaeckel, Dr. Gil Morgan, J.C. Snead, Bob Gilder and Kermit Zarley. Zarley, Gilder and Morgan all had 71s, Jaeckel 72 and Snead 70.

Rod Curl, who had entered the final round in a tie for the lead with Bean, blew to a 76 and was well back at 283. Defending champion Al Geiberger shot 75-291.

Trevino didn't start to make a move until the back nine.

He was out in 34, 2 under par, "but I was so far back I wasn't very excited about it," he said.

All's Well That Ends Well For Roswell's Nancy Lopez

MASON, Ohio (AP) — Nancy Lopez, the sport's winningest rookie, cruised to a 2-under-par 70 Sunday and won the Ladies Professional Golf Association Championship, tying four records and equaling a fifth.

Her 72-hole total of 275 and her 13-under-par performance established two records for this major championship.

Her 6-shot margin over Amy Alcott brought the 21-year-old phenomenon her first major title, a record-matching fourth straight triumph and her sixth victory this year.

Alcott, the 1975 LPGA Rookie of the Year, closed with a 71 for 281 and picked up a check for $14,650. She used an eagle on the ninth hole and three birdies to finish second.

Judy Rankin matched par of 72 and was alone in third place at 283. JoAnne Carner, last week's winner at Toronto, had 71 for 284 and fourth place.

Jo Ann Washam was fifth with 75—285. With her victory, Lopez —Became the earliest winner of $100,000 in a single season on the LPGA tour. Rankin held the previous record of July 12, set in 1976.

—Tied the consecutive tournament victory records previously shared by Mickey Wright (twice), Kathy Whitworth and Shirley Englehorn.

—Joined Donna Young, Jane Blalock, Carner, Whitworth and Rankin as $100,000 LPGA winners in one year.

—Extended her own record of victories for a first-year player, either man or woman. Bob Murphy and Jerry Pate hold the men's rookie mark. Several women had shared the LPGA record of one rookie victory.

—Moved within range of the rookie money-winning record for professional golf. Pate won more than $153,000 two years ago. She now has $142,000 since joining the LPGA last July. She needs less than $12,000 in the next eight events to break the record.

Shepperson-Long Post Easy Win

By JIM FERGUSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Steve Long and John Shepperson heeded the wise words of some old sage and "took the bull by the horns", so to speak Sunday afternoon.

The duo entered the final round of the Hillcrest Country Club's Swinger partnership golf tournament with a solide—yet still flimsy—three-shot lead.

In golf, that's nothing to relax with.

So, the defending champions, commensed to birdie the first four holes in a row Sunday on their way to a 54-hole total of 192 and the crown in the Championship Flight.

"We just played a total team game," said Long, a native of Melborne, Australia. "We just played super."

Shepperson agreed. "I don't think we could have played any better."

It was Shepperson, who had to sort of take a back seat to Long in the first round when the man from down under fired a 64 to open the event, doing the dirty work Sunday. The blonde-headed golfer birdied the first three holes by himself. Both he and Long picked up birdies on the fourth hole, a par five.

"The putts were really falling for me," said Shepperson. "I guess when everything goes right, that happens."

The score was seven shots better than what the pair turned in last year to win.

While Shepperson and Long were turning the course everyway but lose, a battle was forming for second place in the Championship Flight.

With only one hole remaining, it appeared three teams would end up sharing the second-place honors. However, Randy Waterhouse, perhaps the outstanding individual of the three-day affair, rolled in a 16-foot putt for a birdie on the 18th hole, leaving J.C. and Mark Jarrett and Randy Hines and Bucky Sheffield high and dry.

The key putt sent Waterhouse and teammate Ted Watts to 199, while the Jarretts and Hines-Sheffield remained at 200.

Hines and Sheffield started the final round only three shots back of Shepperson and Long, but a two-under-par 70 on the final 18 holes spelled anything but relief for the two.

"We needed to get off to a good start," Sheffield said, sitting in a cart and watching the final two teams march up the fairway, "but we didn't do it."

Sheffield made no excuses for the teams showing.

"We just didn't play well," he confided.

Sheffield said the way Long, a former teammate of his on the Texas Tech golf team, and Shepperson started it was almost impossible to catch up.

On the front nine, Sheffield and Hines fired a one-over 37. A 33 on the backside helped some.

The team started the day with a 132, five shots off the pace set by Long and Shepperson. During the first two rounds, Waterhouse, a San Angelo native, pulled the load, firing a 68 on Friday and a remarkable 64 during Saturday's round.

Waterhouse, the stero-type of a budding golfer—young, blonde and slender, had to hack it alone the first day when his teammate came down with an inner ear infection. On Saturday, with "my partner's help" Waterhouse "putted like a

Angels Blast Yanks 9-6

By The Associated Press

Brian Downing drove in the go-ahead runs with a single in a four-run fifth inning as the California Angels beat the New York Yankees 9-6 Sunday.

Shortstop Fred Stanley booted a grounder by Joe Rudi to open the Angels' fifth. With one away, Ron Jackson doubled off loser Ken Clay, 1-3.

Tony Solaita drew a walk to fill the bases. Dave Chalk singled to score Rudi and tie the score at 4-4. Downing then followed with a check-swing single through the right side of the infield to score Solaita and Chalk.

CHISOX 2, RANGERS 1

Francisco Barrios and Lerrin LaGrow combined on an eight-hitter and Eric Soderholm had a hand in both Chicago runs to give the White Sox a 2-1 victory over the Texas Rangers.

Barrios, 5-5, needed relief help from LaGrow in the ninth after giving up two singles with none out. The reliever worked out of the jam to record his fifth save.

INDIANS 2, TWINS 1

Ted Cox's 380-foot single over a drawn-in outfield brought home Buddy Bell from third with the winning run as the Cleveland Indians beat the Minnesota Twins 2-1 in 10 innings.

TIGERS 5, ROYALS 2

RED SOX 5, MARINERS 3

Dennis Eckersley ran his winning streak over Seattle to four games with relief help from Bill Campbell and Rick Burleson and Dwight Evans walloped home runs as Boston defeated the Mariners 5-3.

ORIOLES 3, A's 0

Mike Morgan, the Oakland A's 18-year-old instant major leaguer, allowed only two earned runs in a complete-game pitching performance, but Baltimore's Scott McGregor pitched a six-hit shutout and the Orioles posted a victory to run their winning streak to 10 games.

Johnson Turns Corner In Dirt Oval Modifieds

Still another contender for first place in the Lubbock Speed Bowl modified stock car standings put in his bid Saturday night.

Johnson, a longtime luminary in local racing circles, got some help, but it was help he didn't really need.

The current leader, Charley Whorton, driving a backup car while he puts together a new engine, never was really in contention. And recent leader Jimmy Bilbrey, using a spare engine while rebuilding the one he blew a week ago, had the added misfortune of threshing the spare.

Duane "Bubba" DeBusk, piloting the Camaro purchased last week from Roger Davis of Hobbs, may be a threat — when he learns to handle the car's abundant power. He looped it three times and failed to finish a race.

Windy conditions contributed to a hard dry slick track, which in turn may have had something to do with a pair of rollovers, the track's first this season.

Gene Light of Plainview did a triple roll off the third turn banking in the second street stock heat and Junior Black did a single between turns one and two in the street stock semi. Neither car nor driver was injured, and Light returned to compete in the balance of the program.

Other major winners were Ruben Perez, trophy dash, and Bobby "Cherokee" Mears, main event, in the street stock division; and newcomer Bill Rose of Lamesa in the Volkswagen heat and Bilbrey in the VW main.

Hendrick Sparks Cardinals Past Houston 5-3

By The Associated Press

Slump-ridden George Hendrick slammed a three-run double with two out in the seventh inning to spark the St. Louis Cardinals to a triumph over the Houston Astros.

Hendrick's hit, only his sixth in his last 38 times at-bat, climaxed a rally that started with a two-out walk to winning pitcher John Denny, 6-4, off Lou Brock then bounced a hit-and-run single through the hole at second base and Hendrick connected for his three-run blow after reliever Ken Forsch walked Garry Templeton.

Houston's Art Howe and Bob Watson socked solo home runs in the second and fourth innings only to have the Cards tie it on Ken Reitz' single in the second inning and a sacrifice fly by Reitz in the fourth.

Before Andujar lost Denny on five pitches for his only walk, Houston had taken a a 3-2 edge in the sixth on Dennis Walling's leadoff single and Jose Cruz' two-out double.

The triumph was only the ninth for the Cardinals in their last 31 games. The Astros suffered their 13th setback in 19 games.

GIANTS 7, METS 5

Jack Clark drove in three runs, Willie McCovey collected four straight hits and John Montefusco notched his fourth consecutive victory as the San Francisco Giants defeated the New York Mets.

The Giants, leaders in the National League West, also got three hits from Darrell Evans, including his sixth home run of the season, in battering four Mets pitchers for 14 hits.

Willie Montanez' two-run homer in the fourth inning, his ninth of the year and the 1,200th hit of his career, and Lenny Randle's three-run shot in the eighth were the only damaging blows against Montefusco, 5-2. Montefusco yielded six hits in 7 2/3 innings before Gary Lavelle came on to pick up his ninth save.

The Giants wasted little time in attacking loser Nino Espinosa, 5-5. They clipped him for two runs in the first inning on an error, a run-scoring double by Evans and an RBI single by the 40-year-old McCovey.

They added a run in the second on a double by Johnnie LeMaster and a single by Mike Sadek and knocked Espinosa out in the third on Evans' homer and a double by McCovey. Reliever Mike Bruhert was greeted by a run-scoring double by Clark.

A double by McCovey and a single by Clark produced another run in the fifth and the Giants completed their scoring in the seventh on singles by Evans and McCovey and a sacrifice fly by Clark.

Salyer Leads Okies Past Texas Team

SHAWNEE, Okla. (Special)— Behind Tim Salyer's 29 points, the Oklahoma schoolboy all-stars crushed the Texas all-stars 120-102 Saturday night in the second basketball game of this year's series. The Texans won the Friday night game.

Aided by Texas' shooting slump in the first half, the Oklahomans took an 18 point-lead into the locker room at the half.

Salyer was named the most valuable player on the Oklahoma squad while Terry Teagle of Broaddus, Texas' leading scorer with 18 points, garnered MVP honors for the Lone Star team. Teagle is a Baylor signee.

Bill Allen of Highland Park, who is headed for SMU to play for his dad, Sonny, scored 17 points for Texas, and David Little of Abilene, a Texas Tech signee, had 12.

The Braves went to work on Phillies ace Steve Carlton, 6-6, in the third inning when Jerry Royster singled and Barry Bonnell walked. After Jeff Burroughs rapped into a double play, Matthews hit his eighth homer of the season for a 2-0 lead.

The closest the Phillies came to scoring against Niekro, 7-6, was in the seventh when Mike Schmidt singled and Greg Luzinski hit a towering drive to center that turned the cheers of the season's largest major league crowd — a Jacket Day throng of 58,367 — to groans when Bonnell caught up with it on the warning track.

DODGERS 11, EXPOS 4

Charlie Hough pitched 3 2/3 innings of one-hit relief and the Los Angeles Dodgers rocked 10-game winner Ross Grimsley for six runs in 1 1/3 innings en route to a victory over the Montreal Expos.

The Dodgers jumped to a 7-0 lead after three innings in beating Grimsley, 10-3. Hough, 2-1, relieved starter Doug Rau when the Expos struck for four runs in the fourth.

Ron Cey hit a three-run home run for the Dodgers off Dan Schatzeder in the eighth to wrap up the scoring.

Steve Garvey drove in a pair of runs with two singles for the Dodgers and Tony Perez of the Expos singled in the fourth inning against Rau for his 2,000th career hit. He is the 136th major leaguer to reach that plateau.

Davey Lopes scored the first of two Dodger runs in the first inning after singling and stealing second. He scored on a throwing error by first baseman Perez, who was trying to flip to the pitcher covering on an infield single by Bill Russell. Garvey then scored Russell all the way from first on a hit-and-run single.

CUBS 7, PADRES 4

Greg Gross and Larry Biittner drew bases-loaded walks off reliever John D'Aquisto to feature a four-run sixth inning that lifted the Chicago Cubs to a victory over the San Diego Padres and back into first place in the National League East.

Steve Ontiveros and Heity Cruz opened the sixth with successive doubles to tie the game 3-3, Larry Cox beat out a bunt and Ivan DeJesus walked to fill the bases.

D'Aquisto relieved loser Bob Shirley, 3-7, and issued the two walks before Eric Rasmussen yielded a sacrifice fly to Dave Kingman for the final run of the inning and a 6-3 Chicago lead.

Coulters Grab Tennis Crown

Kenneth and Murray Coulter won a grueling match against James and Jay Wesson of Snyder to reach the finals of the Equitable Family Tennis Challenge at the Hillcrest Country Club courts.

The Coulter father-son combination then defeated Cary and Greg Johnson in the finals 6-3, 6-4, after outlasting the Snyder team 6-2, 5-7, 6-4.

In the mother-son division, Eleanor and Phillip Catuogno defeated Kay and Jeoffrey Plumlee of Seagraves 7-5, 6-0 for the championship. Joe and Lisa Garner defeated Clarence and Barbara Baugh 6-3, 6-1, to win in the father-daughter division.

The mother-daughter combination of Jane and Amy Irons crushed Mary Anne and Lisa Teeter 6-0, 6-1, to win their division.

The winners will advance to a sectional tournament in Dallas. From there, the top four finishers go to the national championship, held in conjunction with the U.S. Open in New York City later this summer.

Young Music Prize Competitors Battle Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — They argue with bureaucrats, dislike the food, get lost on the trolleybus and think Moscow's too big. But for most of the 74 Americans here for the Tchaikovsky musical competition, there is a dream of winning instant stardom and international fame.

Strangers in a strange land, the young musicians came from places like Pittsburgh, San Francisco, Richmond, Ky., and the Bronx, N.Y., not knowing what to expect in the Soviet capital. They learned quickly.

"Patience is very important," said William Devan, 28, of Marietta, Ga. "I missed the guided tour of Moscow because of registration and red tape. It took four hours just to let them know I'd arrived and another three to find my room."

Most contestants are staying at Soviet expense in the Rossiya Hotel, a huge glass-and-steel structure that sprawls across three city blocks. They are allowed six rubles — about $8 — for meals each day.

"The food isn't nearly as bad as people said it would be," said David Wehr, 20, of Richmond, Ky. "But everything is so greasy that I'm really worried about getting sick."

Each performer has his or her own story to tell of Soviet bureaucracy — like the 18-year-old who complained to hotel officials that his roommate was a girl. He says they told him he "must be mistaken."

Followers of the contest, held every four years, say that for the first time since Texan Van Cliburn walked off with top honors in 1958, U.S. pianists have a good chance at taking first prize. But most of the 22 American pianists are virtual unknowns competing in their first international contest.

Stiff competition is expected from at least two of the seven Russians entered in this year's piano contest, which has a total of 75 contestants. Both Naum Grubert and Nikolai Demidenko are previous winners of international prizes.

The Tchaikovsky event, named for the 19th-century Russian Romantic composer, consists of competitions for piano, cello, violin and vocal soloists. It has attracted 250 contestants from 37 countries. The Russians enter far fewer contestants than the Americans, since theirs are handpicked performers while any American who meets the basic requirements can compete.

Michael Blum of the Bronx captured first prize in the North American Tchaikovsky competition sponsored by New York University in January. Charles Abramovic of Pittsburgh was second. The North American event is an informal screening, but even the also-rans can go to Moscow. The entrants pay their own air fares or are supported by sponsoring organizations.

Another American contestant, E. Jerome Malry, of San Francisco — a plumber by trade — has attracted considerable attention here. The young black pianist has a reputation as a flawless technician. He plays in the first round Monday.

What will it take to win?

"It's not enough to be good, it's not enough to be excellent. You have to be ..." Wehr halted, groping for the right word to describe what the judges are looking for. "Fantastic," Devan piped in. "You must have something fresh. Some special quality that makes you an artistic personality."

Most Americans refused to comment on whether the judges, mostly from Soviet-bloc countries, could be truly objective in their decisions. But there have been jokes circulating on this touchy subject.

One of these asks why the Russians entered seven Soviet pianists in the contest. The answer? Because there are eight prizes to be awarded and to be fair, one should go to a foreigner.

The U.S. contestants say they have enough on their minds just trying to get from their hotel rooms to the practice halls in the Moscow Conservatory. One sheepishly admitted she got lost for two hours on what should be a 10-minute walk.

The contestants are assigned interpreter-guides to help them find their way. "But I haven't even met mine yet and I've been here five days," said an irate New Yorker who insisted he not be identified.

Foundation Studies Diabetes Treatment

WASHINGTON (AP) — For unknown reasons, the incidence of diabetes is rising about six percent a year in the United States. At this rate, the number of people with the condition will double in 15 years — perhaps to as many as 20 million.

This increase is being accompanied by a renewed national effort to find the causes of diabetes and better treatment for the many side effects associated with the malady.

Experts working with the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation, the national voluntary group concerned with a form of the incurable disease that appears in children, say research has produced promising leads about the possible roles of heredity and viruses.

And a worldwide effort is under way to create a portable artificial pancreas to substitute for the malfunctioning gland that is supposed to release insulin to regulate the body's sugar levels.

"Diabetes is more than one disease. It's at least two, juvenile-onset and adult-onset, and there may be more," said Dr. Daniel Porte, co-director of the diabetes research center at the University of Washington in Seattle.

"But because of the similarities of the diseases, much of the research work can be applied to both," said Porte, here attending a meeting of the foundation board that oversees its research grants.

Whether two diseases or more, diabetes is costly and affects a lot of people. The National Commission on Diabetes, which in 1975 submitted to Congress a long-range plan to combat the disease, said diabetes costs the nation $5.5 billion annually in patient care and lost productivity.

National surveys indicate five million persons know or suspect they have diabetes and experts estimate that another five million are undiagnosed victims. More than 600,000 new cases are diagnosed each year and about 40,000 deaths are attributed directly to diabetes.

About 85 to 90 percent of diabetes is the adult-onset type, which appears gradually and most commonly after age 40. This disease frequently is controlled by dietary therapy alone, but sometimes insulin injections are required.

Juvenile-onset diabetes, which requires lifelong insulin treatments, appears abruptly and primarily strikes those under 17 years old.

Those afflicted with diabetes have shortened life expectancy and increased risk of premature blood vessel disease, heart attack, stroke, blindness, kidney failure, nerve disorders and lower limb amputation.

Dr. Lester Salans, associate director for diabetes at the National Institute of Arthritis, Metabolism and Digestive Diseases, said no one is sure why the incidence of diabetes is rising.

"One guess is that we are much more able to detect the disease now than 10 years ago and, in that sense, part of the increase may not be real," Salans said. "But juvenile diabetes, for instance, is a pretty easily diagnosed disease and we couldn't have missed too much of it.

"Another explanation is that something is happening in the environment and people with a genetic tendency for the disease are more susceptible to it for some reason," he continued.

The increasing weight in every age group of the population could be one reason since obesity is a risk factor for diabetes, Salans said. The American Dietetic Association noted recently that Americans eat 200 more calories per day than a decade ago, enough to increase weight by 20 pounds a year.

Excess weight also can aggravate some of the complications of diabetes, since obesity is known to be a factor in stroke and heart and blood vessel disease.

The National Institutes of Health got $106 million for diabetes research this year, compared to $40 million in 1976. And private research support reached almost $7 million last year.

Much of the renewed research interest focuses on juvenile diabestes and the possible role of of viruses, researchers say. There is indirect evidence that disease may be triggered by yet-unidentified viruses and if this proves true, it raises the possibility of a vaccine against diabetes.

Porte said researchers are looking at two viral theories for which there is some evidence in animal work. One is that an outside virus can infect insulin-producing pancreas cells in people with a hereditary susceptibility. The other is that some people may be carrying a dormant virus in their bodies that is activated by some chemical or condition in the environment.

"There is a lot of interest in these possibilities, but the only thing that is clear now is that we don't know what viruses may be responsible," Porte said.

Another area of great interest is artificial pancreas devices that would free the diabetic of having to take daily insulin shots.

Porte said scientists meeting last December at the National Institutes of Health decided to concentrate on developing an externally worn device. There is a greater prospect for early development of this device than for a miniature one for implanting in the body, he said.

The so-called open-loop system requires implanting tubes in the body, but carrying the working mechanism and insulin reservoir in an external package about the size of two packs of cigarettes.

"It would secrete a steady amount of insulin and the person wearing it could hit a button and administer an extra amount at mealtime, when it is needed," Porte said.

Some scientists still are working on a totally implantable device that would monitor the body's sugar levels and secrete insulin when needed.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By SAM SHULSKY

Q — Over the years I got into the habit of putting some of my salary into the bank vault for emergency use. I've acquired far more cash than I had expected. How do I move this into interest-bearing deposits without creating a problem?

A — Since these dollars came from salary which was taxed at the source, under withholding, I don't see where there is any problem. You earned it; you paid taxes on it. All you accomplished by this puzzling maneuver was to deprive yourself of interest from the money, which could have been in a savings account and still readily available for emergencies.

have to find a reason for such "cut-off-your-nose-to-spite-your-face" maneuvers. And don't tell me you did it to save the taxes on the interest it could have earned — not unless you're in a 150 percent income tax bracket!"

Q — I'm retired with money in certificates of deposit and in utility shares. I now have $10,000 in certificates coming due. How safe would additional utility shares be in contrast to certificates of deposit?

A — You're trying to compare two widely different investments. The certificates represent dollars working at 7 1/2 percent and insured by a government agency. The utility stocks represent shares in a going business which is subject to weather, changing economy in the area served, state regulation, fuel prices, etc. If you are talking of the absolute safety of the $10,000, obviously the insured savings account is "safer."

Q — I'm a 50-year-old widow with a 12-year-old child. I was advised to put $30,000 insurance money into a six-year certificate of deposit at 7 3/4 percent and earmark it for his education. Now I'm worried. Did I do the right thing, considering current economic conditions? Should I take out most of the money and put it into Treasury bills?

A — I don't understand just what is causing this worry. If the savings institution is insured, there should be no worry about the safety of the $30,000 or about the interest it will earn over the next six years.

I'm disregarding your phrase "considering current economic conditions" because I don't know what that means, and also because I don't know of any 100 percent guaranteed course you could have followed.

You could be concerned whether the $30,000 will cover education costs six years from now. It's a cinch it won't cover as much of the cost then as it would today. But I suppose there are always ways to reduce education costs. And, besides, I repeat, there is no positive surefire method you can use to offset rising education costs over the next decade. Treasury bills certainly would provide no more of an answer. So — relax.

• • •

Q — I have $10,000 in E bonds. If I cash in 6 percent a year, how long would the bundle last?

A — Theoretically, forever. The bonds grow at 6 percent a year and you plan to redeem 6 percent at the end of each year.

STRUGGLE TO SAVE ANCIENT ELM — This giant elm, used by generations of tourists as a frame for photographs of the Capitol dome in Washington, is dying and virtually certain to be destroyed. Landmark Capitol Elm Dying

WASHINGTON (AP) — A giant, ancient elm, used by generations of tourists as a frame for photographs of the Capitol dome, is dying and virtually certain to be destroyed.

Measuring more than 17 feet in circumference at the base, the tree is well over a century old and one of the three largest elms on the Capitol grounds.

For a hundred years or more, senators have walked beneath its branches. The late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., often reached over his head and slapped a branch as he walked to and from the Senate floor.

The inaugural parades of dozens of presidents, from Jimmy Carter back as far at least as McKinley, Harrison, Cleveland, Arthur, Garfield and Hayes, have passed by.

Dutch elm disease, which has caused the destruction of millions of elms across the country, has caused what appears to be irreversible damage.

"We spent a lot of time and effort last year trying to save it," said Paul Pincus, the Capitol's landscape architect. "We have had good luck up to about three years ago. Our troubles started when the environmental people clamped down on certain sprays and we weren't able to use DDT any more."

He said the tree was "fed intravenously" last year, and that seemed to help for a while.

But now most of the tree's leaves have withered and turned brown, contrasting sharply with the surrounding greenery.

Pincus said tree experts from the Interior Department who tried to save the tree last year have now taken samples of bark to help in rendering a final verdict.

But Pincus said the important thing is to try and prevent the diseased tree from infecting the more than 100 other elms on the Capitol grounds.

"I'm sure it's going to have to be removed right away," he said.

County School Administration Appropriation Loss Contested

AUSTIN (AP) — County school administrations are widely viewed as the dinosaurs of modern education.

"They're a relic of the past," says a Texas Education Agency staffer who works closely with a 1975 law meant to phase out most of them.

Now, a last-ditch effort to keep the 223 county school superintendents' offices open a little longer at state expense has brought the issue to Attorney General John Hill.

Grayson County Attorney Stephen Davidchik has asked Hill's opinion on an appropriations billrider prohibiting state expenditures for county superintendents' salaries after their terms expire — most of them on Dec. 31, 1978.

Hill previously had spared the 52 common school districts, 34 rural high school districts and 42 independent school districts with less than 150 pupils from forced mergers or changes in their status.

That question arose from the Legislature's decision in 1975 to end state funding of county superintendents' offices, which costs $3.8 million a year.

Lawmakers softened the blow by continuing state support for superintendents' offices in counties with at least one common school district, rural high school district or independent school district with fewer than 150 pupils.

The 1978-79 appropriations bill rider challenged by Davidchik goes a step beyond the 1975 law by cutting off state money for all county school administrations.

Davidchik has issued his own opinion that the rider is unconstitutional. He said it amounts to substantive lawmaking, which can't be done by rider.

He also came up with another, rather novel, criticism of the rider's constitutionality. He said it imposes involuntary servitude — slavery, if you will — on existing superintendents.

Davidchik said all officials must continue performing their duties until their successors have qualified, but in this case there will be no successors because nobody would run for an office without a salary.

Counties, of course, have the option of continuing county superintendents' offices at local expense. The Legislature didn't abolish the office — only cut off state subsidies.

Davidchik argues that the rider would force common districts and rural high school districts to become independent school districts so they could legally perform certain tasks the counties now do for them, such as accounting and budget making.

Jay Brim, Texas Education Agency lawyer, said this is not true because county judges would provide these services for them.

Deputy education commissioner Alton Bowen briefly stirred up some rural people when he interpreted the 1975 law as forcing a change in the status of common school districts.

He informed county superintendents that by Dec. 31, 1978, the common districts had to become independent or consolidate — voluntarily or involuntarily — with independent districts.

The only other option, he said, was for counties to decide to support county school administrations with local taxes.

Common school districts and rural high school districts have no independent administrations to support since counties perform such tasks as bookkeeping and tax collection for them.

Mark 2:8-23, The Living Bible

8 Jesus could read their minds and said to them at once, "Why does this bother you?
9 Is it any harder to forgive his sins than to heal him?
10,11 So, to prove that I, the Man from Heaven, have forgiven his sins,"—turning to the paralyzed man He said, "You are healed. Pick up your stretcher and go home!"
12 The man jumped up, took the stretcher, and pushed his way through the stunned onlookers! Then how they praised God. "We've never seen anything like this before!" they all exclaimed.
13 Then Jesus went out to the seashore again, and preached to the crowds that gathered around Him.
14 As He was walking up the beach He saw Levi, the son of Alphaeus, sitting at his tax collection booth. "Come with Me," Jesus told him. "Come be My disciple." And Levi jumped to his feet and went along.
15 That night Levi invited his fellow tax collectors and many other notorious sinners to be his dinner guests so that they could meet Jesus and His disciples. (There were many men of this type among the crowds that followed Him.)
16 But when some of the Jewish religious leaders saw Him eating with these men of ill repute, they said to His disciples, "How can he stand it, to eat with such scum?"
17 When Jesus heard what they were saying, He told them, "Sick people need the doctor, not healthy ones! I haven't come to tell good people to repent, but the bad ones."
18 John's disciples and the Jewish leaders sometimes fasted, that is, went without food as part of their religion. One day they came to Jesus and asked why His disciples didn't do this too.
20 But some day he will be taken away from them, and then they will mourn.
21 [Besides, going without food is part of the old way of doing things.] It is like patching an old garment with unshrunk cloth! What happens? The patch pulls away and leaves the hole worse than before.
22 You know better than to put new wine into old wineskins. They would burst. The wine would be spilled out and the wineskins ruined. New wine needs fresh wineskins."
23 Another time, on a Sabbath day as Jesus and His disciples were walking through the fields, the disciples were breaking off heads of wheat and eating the grain.

Movie Comedy To Test Comic's Acting Ability

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I have come up through school, studying for 13 to 14 years with some of the best dramatic coaches. It is not new for me to take words and put a performance into those words. I consider myself a fine actor. And I would like to act."

Bill Cosby was making a cool, dispassionate analysis of his acting ambitions and how they have generally been thwarted — until now. He and Richard Pryor are part of the all-star cast of "California Suite." Columbia Pictures' version of the Neil Simon play. The two comics play Chicago surgeons whose vacations with their wives at the Beverly Hills hotel are ruined by warfare over tennis.

At the Burbank Studios, director Herb Ross was rehearsing a scene that would be filmed at Los Angeles Airport that afternoon. Cosby, Pryor and their movie wives, Sheila Frazier and Gloria Gifford, wore bandages, neck braces and casts and limped on crutches and canes.

"It's a funny scene," Cosby said during a rehearsal break. "Imagine me playing Neil Simon! On the stage, these roles were played by white actors. But in the movie you've got these upper-middle-class characters being played by black actors. I think that's good.

"Credit has to go to (producer) Ray Stark, who first suggested Richard Pryor. Then Richard Pryor suggested Bill Cosby, for which I am grateful. People wondered how Richard Pryor would play the role. He has always performed his own works; would he try to ad lib and rewrite Neil Simon? He did not. He played the role as it is written, and so did I.

"This picture is an important advance. When scripts are written in America, they specify blacks because of their blackness. Or Mexicans or orientals or Indians or whatever. If they are identified, it is for a specific reason. We are the minority, and writers write that way about us.

"If no color is added to the character, it is always cast with a tall, handsome, white man. That situation won't change until producers start to say, 'I think James Earl Jones would be great for this part.' Not because he is black but because he is a fine actor."

Cosby said he is playing the Chicago doctor with no ethnic undertones whatsoever. Only once before was he able to do so — in the unsuccessful "Mother, Jugs and Speed."

"When Sidney Poitier and I make films about the lower-or middle-class economic area, naturally we make use of the black idiosyncracies," said Cosby. "That's where the comedy comes from in pictures like 'Uptown Saturday Night' and 'A Piece of the Action.'"

Cosby believes "California Suite" is an important development in his career, and he hopes it will lead to other starring or co-starring roles in films — as an actor, not only as a black actor. He and Pryor are already talking about another mutual project.

Said Cosby: "We agree that whatever we do must have two elements: one, it's got to be funny; two, it must have some sociological meaning."

"I can't get the other $900,000 to make it," he reported. "They tell me it's not funny enough, it has no violence and only one minor sex scene.

"I think it's funny, and it would get funnier in the making. When you're shooting a Neil Simon script, yes, you stick to the words. Otherwise I don't like a tight script. I like to be able to improvise with the comedy on the set. That's the way Sidney (Poitier) and I work together."

Californian Wins In Chess Tourney

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — James Tarjan of Los Angeles defeated Lubonir Kavalek of Reston, Va., in the fifth round of the U.S. Chess championship tournament at Ambassador College.

Saturday's game had been adjourned in an end-game position in which Tarjan had a pawn ahead, with rooks on each side. Kavalek resigned after 62 moves.

After five completed rounds, the leader was Anatoly Lein of University Heights, Ohio, with a score of 3½-1½. He had beaten Tarjan and Tal Denko of New York City and drawn his other three games without a loss.

Kavalek, the previous leader, dropped to a tie for second place with Leonid Shankovich of Long Island City, N.Y., and Norman Weinstein of Cambridge, Mass. All have totals of 3-2.

Likely Voters Give Criteria For Next President

By LOUIS HARRIS

Despite the poor job rating they now give President Carter, a 52-30 percent majority of voters nationwide still prefers that the person elected president in 1980 not be "part of the Washington, D.C. establishment." Jimmy Carter rode a strong wave of anti-Washington sentiment into the White House in 1976.

At the same time, voters would also like their next president to have a range of experience that can only be called "establishment":

--By 74-18 percent, a majority wants a chief executive who is experienced in dealing with Congress, rather than someone "from the outside" who has not had that experience. When asked to rate Mr. Carter's performance to date in "dealing with Congress," the voting public is negative by 63-31 percent.

--By 71-18 percent, a majority also thinks it is important for the next president "to have had a role in past or present U.S. foreign policy," rather than for him to be someone who has "not been part of past U.S. diplomatic efforts." As of the latest survey, Mr. Carter receives a 66-30 percent negative rating on his "handling of foreign policy matters." On his "handling of the sale of military aircraft to Isreal, Egypt and Saudi Arabia," an issue he won in the U.S. Senate, the President still receives a 59-32 percent negative mark.

--By 55-34 percent, voters also prefer that their next president be "someone who has been a competent and experienced government executive," instead of "someone outside of the government bureaucracy." By a substantial 78-14 percent, most people hold the view that in some of the mistakes Mr. Carter has made, "his inexperience is plain to see." It is apparent that the President is getting few credits for his experience as governor of Georgia.

--By 64-27 percent, a majority also prefers that the next president "be an effective politician" rather than someone from "outside the world of politics." This is a very significant finding. The decade of the 1970s has been marked by widespread disenchantment with all parts of the establishment, particularly the political establishment. Yet, after less than two years in office, President Carter seems to have convinced almost two-thirds of the likely 1980 voters that the next occupant of the White House should be "an effective politician." Implicit is the recognition by voters that political ability is an indispensable quality for a president if the essential business of government is to be done.

--Finally, by 62-26 percent, a majority is willing to settle for "someone who sounds like an ordinary citizen," rather than someone who is a "brilliant speaker on television." This must be taken to mean that Mr. Carter's essentially flat style of speaking does not appear to be a critical dimension.

Although most voters still tend to prefer a president who comes from outside the Washington establishment, this is not likely to benefit Mr. Carter as much as it did in 1976. Thus, the key question that is underlined by this latest Harris Survey of a cross section of 1,498 likely voters is to what degree Jimmy Carter can convince them that he is learning to run the federal bureaucracy, direct foreign policy and deal with the Congress. In sum, can President Carter demonstrate that he is becoming an effective politician in Washington.

War Criminal May Be Safe From Deportation

CHICAGO (UPI) — Frank Walus, the alleged Nazi war criminal stripped of his United States citizenship for concealing involvement in Nazi war crimes, may never be deported under existing immigration rules and procedures, federal immigration officials say.

David Vandersall, regional director of the Immigration and Naturalizution Service in Chicago, said he and other INS officials are not even certain if the agency has grounds to deport Walus under present laws.

Vandersall said invovememt in Nazi war crimes is not, in itself, grounds for deportation under the law that affects immigrants who entered the United States after 1952 although concealment of certain crimes may be grounds for deportation.

INS officials also said they may have difficulty deporting Walus because his wife is a citizen and his youngest son was born a citizen. Vandersall said the INS infrequently takes action to split families. In addition, no one has ever been deported from this country on grounds he or she was a Nazi war criminal, he said.

The ruling means senior U.S. District Judge Julius Hoffman's order for Walus, a Polish immigrant, to turn in his naturalization papers to the Justice Department cannot go into effect until July 7. The U.S. attorney's office was ordered to file a response to the appeal by June 20.

Hoffman had ruled May 30 after a 17-day non-jury trial that Walus, 55, is liable for denaturalization because he lied to U.S. immigration officials about his World War II activities.

To block the order, Walus' lawyer, Charles W. Nixon, late Friday filed an appeal of the verdict with the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. He also filed an emergency appeal asking the court to stay Hoffman's order requiring Walus to surrender his citizenship papers.

The motion said that unless the Appellate Court granted the stay, deportation proceedings could be started against Walus, who became a naturalized citizen in 1970.

Threat Of Cold War Seen

MOSCOW (AP) — "Anti-Soviet hysteria" seems to be building in the United States and poses a threat of renewed Cold War and dangerous confrontation, Pravda said Sunday.

"Evidently certain policy planners in Washington still naively believe that the Soviet Union can be intimidated and made to yield to pressure. These are vain hopes," the Communist Party newspaper said in its authoritative international review.

It was Moscow's latest response to President Carter's "confrontation or cooperation" speech of last week, and again the Soviets singled out U.S. National Security Adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski as the author of an anti-communist policy "fraught with danger."

The analysis by Pravda's Vladimir Bolshakov said a "tough line" apparent in the Carter speech is worrying observers in the United States and Western Europe.

The article echoed not-for-attribution remarks by an American official in Washington recently who said anti-communist feelings in the United States are building toward Cold War levels.

"Once you get the anti-Communist monster out of the bag in this country, it's difficult to get it back," the official told The Associated Press.

The Carter administration has criticized Soviet involvement in Africa and the Kremlin's recent toughened rhetoric and hard-line handling of dissidents, as well as slow progress in arms limitation talks.

In his speech last Wednesday, Carter voiced some of this displeasure, saying, "To the Soviet Union, detente seems to mean a continuing aggressive struggle for political advantage and increased influence in a variety of ways."

Pravda on Sunday called the speech an "impermissible outburst" against the Soviet Union and counter-charged that it is the United States that is wrecking detente.

"The Americans and the European public are concerned by the fact that the basically aggressive 'tough line' of Zbigniew Brzezinski, who is widely known for his anti-communism, is getting the upper hand in the White House," Pravda said.

"This policy is not only fraught with the danger of a throwback to the Cold War — which has been actually revived by American propaganda working up anti-Soviet hysteria — but in the final analysis harbors the danger of a confrontation," it said.

In response to Carter's challenge to Moscow to moderate its activities around the world, Pravda said, "It is not the U.S.S.R. or Cuba but the United States and its allies that have launched a full-scale intervention in Zaire."

It compared U.S. involvement there to the early days of the "dirty war" in Vietnam and said it was being covered up by similar "hypocritical propaganda assertions."

Carter says the rebels who invaded Zaire's Shaba Province last month were trained and equipped by Cuban advisers in Angola. The rebels were driven out by a French-Belgian force supported by the United States. Five Western allies have agreed to provide financial and logistical aid to a defensive force from other African nations now being deployed in Shaba.

Wright-Designed Home Hit By Blaze

RIVERSIDE, Ill. (AP) — Fire caused extensive damage Sunday to the Coonley House, one of the best examples of the work of the late architect Frank Lloyd Wright.

The blaze caused the roof of the 72-year-old home to collapse, authorities said. Concerned neighbors crowded the national landmark estate here to watch the fire.

The family of pharmacist Nicholas Sahlas owns the half of the house that was most heavily damaged. Damage was described by fire officials as "heavy" and estimates were expected to exceed $100,000.

Sahlas said he and his family bought half of the two-story wood-and-stucco house recently and spent 18 months restoring it and returning the woodwork to its original state. He said the family would rebuild and restore the house.

A neighbor's screams awakened the family, including three children, during the fire and all five members escaped, he said. The family will live in an undamaged portion of the home until it is repaired, Sahlas said.

James L. Dublinski of Riverside owns the other half of the structure, said Riverside Fire Chief Anthony Bednarz.

● cultivates at speeds up to 10 mph — preemerge to tool bar height.
● mulches tough crusts and aerates the soil — also helps to retain moisture.
● incorporates pre-emerge or post-emerge chemicals — well into the soil.

Free Market Analysis
Three Cheers! We're excited at this new three bedroom, two bath on Geneva Street in Potomac Park, built by Bea Cannady and just on week away from finishing. Value is apparent in this one!
This in not ordinary "Gossip" it's "Choice". We have just found out the Owner is weak and willing on this three bedroom, one bath single garage, "spic and span" inside and out. Drive by 2612 45th and give one of our Agents a chance to "show it off".

Is your foresight as good as your hind-sight? This one is my fa-vorite and it will be yours too. Three bedrooms with the largest one isolated. Beautifully custom draped throughout and this home is only one year old. Located in Farrar and priced to sell!

Call us today about our "Booth Rental" Beauty Shop for sale and it wears a "Budget Price Tag".

Lubbock Travel Revelation In Vacation Values, Convenience

"Your Travel is Our Business" is the realistic motto there, and a highly professional staff headed by Jean Bachman, president, is fully qualified to aid in travel across Texas or around the world!

The entire staff travels at every opportunity to learn first-hand the many situations (cost savings, type of facilities, scenic centers, etc.) that can benefit the customer.

Staffmembers Alma Wallace and Nancy Redmond recently were in Hawaii.

"See what we mean? We try our best to aid you with personal knowledge gained in such research."

Best Buys Outlined

Some very good "buys" in vacation travel are pointed out by the management at the present time. These include Australia, the South Pacific and Canada. (Get full details from Lubbock Travel, Inc., on why and how these savings are effected.)

Africa is another "good vacation buy", and with its vastness one can be assured of a carefree and "different" vacation.

Even Cruises

Cruises are popular and are advocated. Even though most popular cruises are booked for the season, Lubbock Travel often is able to take advantage of cancellations to assist in economical, fun-filled fly-cruise vacations. It is strongly advised to book these now for fall and winter.

And there are some good Disney World and Disneyland trips, together with excursions to Mexico and the Bahamas, with special airline travel advantages out of Dallas.

It adds to this:

Whatever the destination, whatever the mode of travel, a Lubbock Travel staffmember most likely has been to the very spot you wish to visit and can help immeasureably in your planning.

"And there is absolutely no charge to you for this valuable aid!"

Assistance is given with airline reservations and tickets, hotel reservations, rental cars, resort reservations, tours, cruises, charters, passport and visa information, fare quotations and excursion fares.

"Let Lubbock Travel, Inc., phone 792-3237, plan ahead for you."

Smallwood's Tells Special Trade-In Offer, Arrival Of Added Merchandise

Smallwood's, at 3019 34th St., has so very much to offer, and now during the Filter Queen Golden Jubilee Special would be an excellent time to discover what Smallwood's can do for you!

A special trade-in offer on one's old vacuum cleaner is being made at this time on purchase of Filter Queen, the complete home cleaning system featured at Smallwood's. Inquire for details.

The Filter Queen Pow-R-Clean-Up Team is a home cleaning system that eliminates bags and dirty bag messes! The Filter Queen is said to be the only vacuum that does not suffer suction "slow down" as the bag fills. Filter Queen removes 99.5 per cent of the impurities in the air as you vacuum. Furthermore, it is compact, easy to handle, and has a complete set of attachments.

Multiple Lines

Smallwood's also carries a complete line of Eureka, Hoover, Kirby, Rexair, Powr-flite and Sunbeam Vacs, as well as parts and bags for most other brands.

Steam cleaners also are available at a moderate cost.

Special On Recorders

Sanyo video recorders (three left), with two-hour tape, are priced at cost . . . just $775.

New giant-screen Muntz home theater TV units are arriving this month. If you were thrilled with the previous models, then note this: the new ones have a new, larger lens enabling a 60 per cent brighter picture!

And see the Sanyo, Midland and Teknika portable TV sets in both black/white and in color, all at Smallwood's.

Plus the Electrophonic line, and more.

Stereo Repair

Repair on all stereos is a specialty at Smallwood's, with the highly qualified repair staff marking over 50 years combined experience.

With more than a quarter century in Lubbock, Smallwood's has earned quite a following, and its products and service are designed to give lasting satisfaction.

SERVING INSURANCE NEEDS — Harold Harvey, long recognized for his insurance "know how" and desire to serve, is shown at his Briercroft Office Park office with secretary Mitzi Williams, also knowledgeable in the field.

Modern, Knowledgeable Service Sure at Harold Harvey Agency

"Is your insurance program up to date, meeting the needs of today and tomorrow?

"Does your insurance fully serve the purpose of your personal preference?

"Does it need review by a trusted and knowledgeable expert in the field?"

Then, turn to Harold Harvey, whether the need is for complete planning, for review, for mortgage cancellation life insurance or whatnot.

Harvey takes pride in representing companies with good records, and prompt payments can be (and should be) a big factor in choosing one's insurance agent. Harvey prides in promptness.

The Harold Harvey Agency calls to attention some other situations in which they can be of prime benefit:

Harvey points out the value of an "inflation-guard endorsement" that annually increases the insurance coverage of the home. This endorsement can be put on an annual basis on current home-owners' policies at a cost far from prohibitive. It provides a realistic protection of values.

"Specializing in fire and casualty insurance, the Harold Harvey Agency can render services that can be rewarding for every client.

Among the key areas in which Harvey can render a special service is that of home owners mortgage cancellation life insurance, paying off the mortgage in full should the breadwinner die.

The complete homeowners and mortgage cancellation package can be placed through Harvey with one company for maximum convenience and efficiency — the Floyd West Co. organization with which Harvey has had close contact since back in 1959.

Harvey also is a specialist in bonds, whether the need is administrator, guardianship, various types of court bonds, etc.

Whatever the insurance or bond need, Harold Harvey can simplify the problem. It is as elemental and easy as that.

Package Policy

"A package policy" that affords a substantial decrease in premiums in one of the services made available at the Harold Harvey Insurance Agency!

Applicable to commercial interests including hotel-motel and office, institutional, apartment, mercantile, processing and industrial, the Multi-Peril "package plan" is now available in Texas, and Harold Harvey at No. 5 Briercroft Office Park, is eager to assist with this program in improving one's insurance situation.

In the complex world of insurance, it makes good sense to rely on Harold Harvey, a veteran in the field of "modern insurance practices with old-fashioned service."

Harvey is no newcomer to the insurance field or as a trusted friend and capable adviser to Lubbock and area policyholders.

CHECK STORMASTER

"In Lubbock and area, the Stormaster underground shelter protection can be speedily and easily secured by consulting with the Stormaster specialists at 3406 62nd St., phone 792-5977, who season after season have served most admirably, and who have been proven time after time.

No-Roach Seen Effective Against Crawling Insects

"No-Roach means no roaches!"

The manufacturers of Johnston's No-Roach are not bragging or boasting; they are just stating a fact: No-Roach means exactly that . . . no roaches.

This claim is made with knowledge obtained through 20 years sales experience, thousands of laboratory tests, and millions of satisfied customers.

Johnston's No-Roach (comes in a brown amber bottle with brush attached) is different . . . and it's different for many reasons. No-Roach eliminates the need for frequent application of messy, unsafe sprays and powders . . . No-Roach is clean and easy to use and is effective for months.

"When you use Johnston's No-Roach, simply brush this odorless, colorless liquid around baseboards, sinks, tablelegs . . . behind cabinets and appliances . . . on shelves and inside cabinet doors. Use Johnston's No-Roach in bathrooms and anywhere else cockroaches may breed. No-Roach dries fast to form an invisible path of death that kills cockroaches, ants, silverfish, spiders all crawling insects — and best of all it continues to kill effectively for months."

Control Ants

To keep ants out of the house, brush No-Roach across window frames and door sills. Ants will not cross the coating.

No-Roach is available at: Furr's, Safeway, Piggly Wiggly, United, Bylow, Brook's and all grocery stores, distributed by Affiliated and Kimbell.

NEW HOME, NEW LINES, EXPANDED SELECTION REVEALED — Jones Ornamental Decor is now in Indiana Gardens! Drastic price reductions of new merchandise arrivals are included in the introductory Grand Opening specials now posted. The pictured corner correctly hints of the intriguing, one-of-its-kind store said to be finest throughout the Southwest.

Jones Ornamental Decor Holds Grand Opening In New Location

"If you were appreciative of the unique Jones Ornamental Decor store that was established in early 1977 at 1406 Ave. Q, then you will be truly excited about current news from the firm:

(1) Jones Ornamental Decor has a new home. It is now in full operation at 3403 34th St., in the former TG&Y location in Indiana Gardens.

(2) More than 5,000 square feet of showroom space is provided, and the big store is chock full of a tremendous and selective merchandise offering. It now is believed to be the very largest store of its type anywhere in the Southwest.

Specials Posted

(3) And you, the customer, benefits . . . from the expanded stock, the convenient location with off-street parking and easy access, the quality lines presented, and the Grand Opening Specials now arranged.

Yes, specials currently are posted throughout the vast stock, with all outdoor groupings at a full 25 per cent off!

Other specials enable savings of 10 per cent to a whopping 50 per cent!

"It is our way of saying 'thank you' for the wonderful reception that Jones Ornamental Decor has received in Lubbock, the trade and confidence that has made our re-location and growth possible."

This is the sincere word from owners Wilburn Jones and wife, Sonja.

The firm is home-owned and operated, essentially as a family operation. Sonja Jones is active in the management, assisted by children Jana, Mark and Randy, and by James Gailey who formerly was with the Jones-owned Greer Iron Works where Wilburn Jones still is on hand.

Select from such respected lines as O.W. Lee, Woodard, Kessler, Barry Craft, Arlington House and Winston. All are attractively and conveniently displayed for comparison and selection.

And there are Whitehall creations such as vanes, nameplates and more, the prestigious Emig lamps and other decorator items. It is an increased inventory that well can be a revelation for new or old customers alike throughout the South Plains, eastern New Mexico and the Panhandle.

Free delivery is provided within the Lubbock city limits, and delivery can be made anywhere. Shipping services are provided, too.

Jones Ornamental Decor is beautiful . . . in merchandise, in decor and in the friendliness most evident. The invitation is extended to come in now, take advantage of the specials and view this "new" facility where floral arrangements by Baldwin Flowers add to the elegance, where beautiful carpeting contributes further to pleasant shopping, and where the latchstring is out from 9 a.m. until 8 p.m. six days a week during the Grand Opening.

Multiple Services, Products Marking Automotive Electric

For most, it seems that everything demands attention . . . such as lawn and garden equipment repair, readying the family auto for vacation travel, repair to well motors, tractors, even industrial equipment.

If any of these or related situations are familiar in your own situation, then Automotive Electric, Inc., should enter the picture!

Automotive Electric Inc., the long known and respected name that served your father, can work for you, too!

Whether the need is lawn and garden equipment repair or replacement parts or accessories, or if it is an auto tune-up that demands attention, then Automotive Electric, Inc., at 1936 Texas Ave., phone 747-2859, is the ready answer.

Right now, the lawn and garden equipment phase of the business is of prime importance, what with the outdoor season's arrival. Replacement motors are stocked, as are accessory lines, wheels, mower blades, catcher bags and all. Expert repair is assured, and fair dealing is the rule.

Kohler, Clinton, Briggs & Stratton and Tecumseh motors and parts are stocked.

Key Services Listed

The firm is departmentalized in three distinct areas:

(1) The lawn and garden accessory sales and service;

(2) Automotive electrical and tune-up services; and

(3) Magneto service, of special valve to farm and industry, with Fairbanks-Morse, American Bosche, IHC and WICO sales and service, much of this applicable to irrigation well motors and tractors and other farm and industrial equipment.

Long In Lubbock

Automotive Electric Inc. dates from back in 1929 when the firm was established by the father of Jerry Martin, current president. Location at that time was 1414 Broadway, which today is in the heart of downtown Lubbock — the site of the Southwestern Bell Telephone complex.

Move of Automotive Electric to its present 1936 Texas Ave. location was made in mid-1957.

Jerry Martin literally grew up in the business. He is a lifelong Lubbock resident, being absent only for attendance at the University of Texas.

Jerry prides in the type service traditional at the firm, and in the type personnel on the job. Cecil Long, mechanic, has long been known in the field, and Mike Boyter is the capable parts supervisor. Martin is on the job personally, devoting time to every phase of the business.

So . . . whether a city resident in need of mower, roto-tiller or other lawn equipment service, or an area farmer, rancher or industrialist, Automotive Electric Inc., at 1936 Texas Ave. can work for you.

Tuftwick Carpet Conducting Storewide Sale Extravaganza

Sometimes a firm conducts a sale with prices so fantastically low that even those unfamiliar with true value can recognize the exceptional savings.

Such a situation is presented in the current sale at Tuftwick. Store owners report the inventory must be reduced, so everything is placed on sale. There just isn't a better way to move quality merchandise fast than by pricing it at rock bottom!

So ... even with the always-low prices and the sales posted from time to time at Tuftwick Carpet, the current extravaganza is something most, most outstanding.

To further assist one in the sale purchases, remember these facts about Tuftwick Carpet, Inc., at Brownfield Highway and Slide Road in Lubbock, phone 795-5251.

Hours are 8 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Mondays through Fridays, with evenings by appointment. Saturday hours are 9 a.m. until.

Easy terms are available, with no money down and with up to 36 months in which to pay.

"It all is proof that Tuftwick goes all out to pass fantastic buys on to you, our valued customer, making everything as convenient for you as possible. While still emphasizing quality at low, low prices."

A shopping trip to Tuftwick is worth the trip from anywhere in the area, and the current sale makes this double so.

Extraordinary savings, even for Tuftwick, are presently enabled. Don't delay, shop now at Tuftwick Carpet, Inc., at Slide Road and Brownfield Highway to your profit, selection and complete satisfaction.

"If you have not been through the showrooms of the big Tuftwick Carpet, Inc., within the last few weeks, you are in for a real treat at your next visit."

First, there is a thrilling selection of patterns and materials.

Secondly, the prices and values simply cannot be beat.

Third reason for a trip to Tuftwick Carpet at Brownfield Highway and Slide Road could well be the most attractive display yet. Everything in the showroom has been conviently displayed for easy viewing, comparison and selection. It is an attractive, inviting place in which to shop.

The basic reason for shopping Tuftwick has not changed, however, and that is the integrity and experience of a capable staff devoting all efforts to serve the customers carpet needs as only possible with an experienced staff that "knows carpeting" and know how to please in every transaction.

McWhorter's Aids Vacationing Family With Tire Sale, Auto Safety Service

Getting ready for vacation trips need not be difficult . . . especially insofar as preparing the family auto, thanks to the services and products at McWhorter's, 10th Street at Texas Avenue.

"We also have three of the best front-end men in the city (with experience of up to 25 years with us) to aid in front end alignment and related functions."

For safety's sake and in consideration of the family and passengers in vacation jaunts, it makes good sense to have the auto checked, with needed repairs, at McWhorter's, for:

Let the "pros" at McWhorter's take over.

The annual tire saving event is the big economic assist for safer vacations, and it is even more significant with the impressive and meaningful guarantees from McWhorter and Goodyear.

McWhorter's has a complete stock of Goodyear tires, and the right price, to enable one to put a new set on the car, so that valuable hours will not be lost during crowded vacation activities in getting flats fixed or changing tires on the road.

Whatever the tire need, there are old "pros" at McWhorter's representing that firm and the Goodyear line for years and years, and these fellows can be a real aid in assuring the dollar's worth in the right tire for the need at hand.

Long On Experience

McWhorter's is especially proud of its experienced brake and front end men, claimed to be the best in the entire Southwest. (It always is good judgment to get the car checked for brake safety and correct front end alignment before starting the vacation trip; it is a consideration the family deserves and will appreciate.)

Front end alignment is only $12.50 including complete analysis and alignment correction to increase tire mileage, and improve steering safety, with precision equipment used by the experienced mechanics.

And recaps (with all radial passenger caps at just $25.95, and regular treads at even lesser prices as outlined in the McWhorter's ads in the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal.)

There are five ways to buy at McWhorter's, some may not realize, including: cash, Visa, Master Charge, McWhorter's own customer credit plan, and 30, 60, 90, days with no handling charge.

Whatever the tire need or front end and brake service desired, now is the time, and McWhorter's is the place. And save on tires!

Business & Industrial Review

Diet Center In Terrace, One Of Four Lubbock Units, Tells New Opportunity

Since its establishment, exciting growth and service has marked the Diet Center, 4902 34th St. (Terrace Center) in Lubbock.

In keeping with this record of progress and achievement, added announcements are made:

(1) Weight Control through Rational Behaviour Training is now available as part of the program there, with owner Rita Pence announcing cooperation with the Southwest Christian Counseling Center in sponsorship of this program. So many people throughout the area have benefitted from the Diet Center plan, and also from the Rational Behavior Training and Personal Growth programs conducted by the Southwest Christian Counseling Center with Glen Reddell as executive director. Now the two organizations are co-sponsoring the announced Weight Control program beginning July 13.

(2) Another announcement, in keeping with Diet Center growth, is that Deanie Holland has been named as an added counselor at the Terrace Diet Center. Deanie, a native West Texan, is more recently a 10 year Bryan (Tex.) resident where she attended Texas A & M.

"I am thoroughly sold on the Diet Center program, through personal experience," Deanie emphasizes, "and I enjoy working with people and helping them, so it seems only natural that I am now counseling at the Diet Center."

Four Diet Centers

(3) Four Diet Centers now are in Lubbock, with the expansion prompted by the extraordinary reception accorded the program.

So . . . now there's a Diet Center near you, with four locations "to serve you best".

Check with any of these, including the Diet Center in the Terrace where the new Weight Control through Rational Behaviour Training co-sponsorship has been announced, and where Rita Pence is owner, with Deanie Holland counseling; with Debra Ridpath at the added 3417 73rd St. Diet Center also owned by Rita Pence; and with Glenda Bratcher or Marianne Maestas, owners at the Diet Center in Holiday Center, 4708-B 4th St., and the 2321-A 50th St. Diet Center.

"If you recognize that happiness is feeling good while dieting, then by all means make the initial step now of getting full details from your Diet Center . . . from counselors who understand and really care."

The Diet Center program calls for a well-balanced diet, and the clients will not lose the essential fat on the body, but only the extra adipose fat; the dieters will have all the nutrients necessary to maintain good health while losing adipose fat from the body.

At a very, very modest price, one may avail herself or himself of daily counseling during the weight loss period, counseling during stabilization, and further aid during later maintenance for a lifetime of weight control.

With varied programs available, it could be pointed out that possibly the most popular is a 6-week program in which women usually lose from 18 to 30 pounds, with men losing even more.

To simplify explanation, it could be said that the most popular Diet Center program takes from two to six weeks with an expected weight loss of one-half to one pound a day. When the desired weight has been attained, a sustaining program, at no further charge, is set up. Then if the old programs of stuffing away food return as fatty deposits, a refresher weigh-in quickly sets one on the right path.

The Diet Center approach is strictly dietary, involving a series of tasty menus that are inexpensive and easy to prepare. The diets help keep the blood sugar stable, serve as natural diuretics and keep away hunger pangs!

"You'll feel well, and if you persevere, in no time at all you'll begin to look as great as you feel!"

Hearing Aid Gift For Father Possibly Finest Consideration

Sunday is Father's Day.

Will "he" be able to enjoy the day to the fullest by hearing the conversations about him, in conversing with family and friends?

"We at Sonotone-Lubbock are a sentimental lot, and through the years we have enjoyed helping a lot of fathers (and mothers, and others, too) enjoy life more completely through better hearing.

"It has been one of my greatest pleasures since back in 1952," Louise Bills, certified hearing aid audiologist, points out, "to work with family members in consideration of dad, mother and others with hearing impairments."

"In this final pre-Father's Day week, we again remind you that a gift of better hearing for him could be the finest gesture you could make. And we would like to help."

Whether the consideration is a new hearing aid for father, or even a check of a current aid, Sonotone-Lubbock, at 2318 Broadway, phone 762-5469 (an independent dealer) can be of real assistance.

Newest Advantages

Attention is directed to the advantages of the new binaural aids, actually seven times better than the single unit, Louise Bills and staff report.

"The new Starkey CE-3 all-in-the-ear models have been received and could open up a new world for the hard of hearing in your family."

Features include volume control with no on-off switch, as this function is by battery door swing-out for more reliability. The volume control cap has raised ribs for easier user manipulation, too. The swing-out battery door allows the user to remove the battery in two different ways.

And in event of damage, the swing-out door may be easily replaced by the dispenser.

A sub-miniature electret microphone permits construction of smaller aids and also offers greater high-frequency response, and an extended range receiver provides additional high-frequency emphasis.

So . . . in thinking of dad on Father's Day and the gift to please him, now and for days and years to come, consideration of a hearing aid from Sonotone-Lubbock is heartily recommended. Think about it, and do something about it . . . this week!"

Full Staff

If you have not become acquainted with the fine folks at Sonotone-Lubbock, now would be a very good time to do so. Each staff member exemplifies the firm's concept of service in every contact.

Manager Louise Bills, veteran Ralph Huntington, and newest staff member Pat Nixon can be of exceptional service

It is pointed out that Ralph is back on the job fulltime after open heart surgery that slowed him down for a bit. He expresses appreciation for the many gestures of remembrance during and since his hospitalization.

Louise Bills has just returned from a trip to Shreveport, La., where she was joined by her son, two daughters and their families. Four generations were present. Louise reported in this first time in seven years that the family has been together at a single time.

Highlights of the trip, Louise recounts, included seeing her nine-month-old granddaughter for the first time. Also she reports that her daughter-in-law, Mary Lou Boggus who is well known on the South Plains, still is doing gospel concerts, has made several albums and currently is on a trek to Nashville participating in a show there. Mary Lou specializes in religious music and country-western music.

"Professionalism with a human touch" at Sonotone-Lubbock has earned appreciation and acclaim of customers throughout the area; and individual hearing tests at no obligation, personalized fitting, frequent checkups and the interested care of a Sonotone-Lubbock consultant is the service one can expect without exception at this service-oriented Lubbock firm.

"If you have a hearing problem or suspect that you may have one, that visit or call you make to Sonotone-Lubbock, phone 762-5469, may be the most important one you will ever make."

Village Craft Corner Arranges Full Summer Instruction Program By Pros

Proven and popular instructors returning include Danny Gamble, James Ivey Edwards, Jane Hodgkins, Mac Carow, Paul Wylie and Sally Wax, for example!

Full details on all workshops and classes will gladly be furnished at Village Craft Corner, and the following resume correctly hints of the advantages ahead:

Danny Gamble

Danny Gamble will conduct an advanced watercolor workshop from June 26 through June 30, featuring new subjects and techniques. Danny is in great demand for demonstrations and workshops throughout the Southwest. His paintings are found in discriminating galleries and private collections throughout the country.

A native of southwest Oklahoma and graduate of Southwestern State University, Gamble resides in Amarillo, and is said unsurpassed as a chronicler of the stark beauty of a hard land.

James Ivey Edwards

James Ivey Edwards will conduct a number of workshops:

On Saturday, June 17, he will be demonstrating and displaying at Villiage Craft.

On July 10-14 his workshops will involve paint-along acrylics or oil techniques on canvas, elements of landscapes, and a "rose", with two paintings to be completed by participants.

Then on July 17-21 Edwards will conduct paint-along acrylics and watercolor techniques, landscapes with completion of a minimum of two paintings.

Edwards is a noted painter and sculptor whose love of the wild carries him on many sketching trips throughout the desert Southwest, the Plains and the Rockies. The bulk of his work is in acrylic, and he has developed several techniques in that media. He also is accomplished in oil and watercolor techniques.

Jane Hadgkins

Tole Painting workshops by always-popular Jane Hodgkins begin June 22 with the subject "Cornhusker in Barrel", then on July 10 "Tole 'n Gold", a new technique in tole painting with a very delightful effect will be the topic; on July 13 will be "Poppy", on July 14, "Jonquils", on Aug. 24, "Country Scene", and on Aug. 31 it will be pen and ink of a boy with harmonica under a tree.

Mac Carow

Mac Carow, also a highly respected and popular teacher here, will conduct a portrait class (pastels or oils) for five weeks beginning July 26.

Paul Wylie

Paul Wylie, who also hardly needs introduction, continues his classes in landscapes and western art, with instruction in oil, pastels and sculpture.

Sally Wax

What a list; what opportunity; what fun!

Be sure and get full details and register early to avoid omission from the workshop or class of your choice this summer at Villiage Craft Corner, the shop that also stocks scads of craft, art and hobby supplies.

GIFT SELECTION SIMPLIFIED — Brenda Summerford of the Woolco Camera Department calls attention to a stocked Polavision by Polaroid, providing movie viewing within minutes. Other items, for novice or pro, are profusely stocked in the department.

Father's Day Selection Aided With Camera, Accessory Stock

And selection from the vast department is sure to be perfect as a Father's Day gift. Right?

Amateurs Aided

We recently received the latest models by Kodak (including the Kodak Ektras that range in price from $19.97 to $41.97).

Also stocked are the "instant" cameras that can be used by anyone who can push a button! The One-Step by Polaroid and the Kodak Handle, Colorburst 100 and 200 all are stocked.

For Professional Needs

For the more practiced photographer, Woolco carries a wide line of 35 mm cameras and accessories from Yashica, Vivitar, Minolta and Woolco's own brand, Kamero. Stocked are both the rangefinder and single lens reflex cameras and a supply of additional lenses and filters.

New — And Stocked

Newest arrival is the Polavision by Polaroid. This is the newest concept in movie taking and is completely developed in minutes.

You take the movies and insert them into the viewer which develops them and then shows the movie.

Woolco Savings In Impressive Music Shop Proves Customer Consideration

For Father's Day gifting and for enjoyment this summer and for seasons to come, a visit to Woolco's Music Shop is well in order!

'Expected' Items

Our "expected" items range from 45's to albums and 8-tracks, as well as a full line of blank recording tapes.

"The albums and tapes are competitively priced and therefore are available to Woolco customers at a considerable saving. Each album or tape is on a computer ticket that enables us to have the album in stock again in about two or three days! We also maintain a 'Top 20' chart for albums and tapes, with this changed weekly."

The 45 list contains the top 30 pop and top 15 country and western hits. These are ordered each Tuesday and are received the following Thursday.

'Unexpected' Items

The Woolco Music Shop also stocks a line of lights and posters. The lights include blacklites or bulbs, strobelites and many other. All of the lights are a standard size that will fit either the stands we carry or a regular bulb socket in one's home.

Our posters at Woolco come from two companies and are changed out every four to six weeks. These consist of black and white glossy prints, as well as black light posters. Included are many of your favorite pop artists and television stars such as Kiss, John Travolta, Rod Stewart and Cheryl Ladd and Cheryl Tiegs.

These items are only the beginning of the contents in the Woolco Music Shop, so stop by and let us help you with your musical needs . . . because "we want to be your favorite store".

FATHER WOULD LIKE THESE — Mort Salit of Woolco's Men's Wear Department emphasizes that new apparel fashions are stocked and are "right" for Father's Day gifting.
