

Extension Approved For ERA

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee today approved giving states another seven years in which to decide whether to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment.

The House civil and constitutional rights subcommittee approved the measure 4 to 3.

Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., subcommittee chairman, said the full Judiciary Committee, of which the subcommittee is part, would take up the extension within a few weeks.

Edwards said supporters of the proposal have 17 votes on the 34-member committee. This is one short of the required majority, but he added, "I think we'll do it, all right."

Full committee approval would send the proposed seven-year extension to the House floor. An extension proposal also has been introduced in the Senate, but no action has been taken there.

Thirty-five states have ratified the ERA, which would prohibit discrimination on the basis of sex. Three of these states — Tennessee, Idaho and Nebraska — have completed action to rescind their approval.

The Justice Department says there is a legal precedent for doing this, but that the question must ultimately be resolved by Congress.

Approval by three-fourths of the states, or 38 of them, is required for the amendment to become part of the Constitution. The original seven-year time limit expires next March 22.

The six members who attended today's subcommittee meeting split evenly on the extension. The tie was broken by a proxy vote in favor of the extension cast by Rep. Anthony C. Beilenson, D-Calif., Edwards said. Beilenson was absent because of Tuesday's California primary election.

Those present and voting for the extension were Edwards and Reps. John Sieberling, D-Ohio, and Robert F. Drinan, D-Mass. Voting against it were Reps. Harold L. Volkmer, D-Mo., M. Caldwell Butler, R-Va., and Robert McClory, R-Ill.

Volkmer, who had not announced his decision before the vote, said he might have favored a shorter extension but thought seven years was too long.

Drinan, on the other hand, argued that "The American people have a right to think about this for as long as it takes."

McClory, who opposed the extension although he has been a supporter of the ERA, said all but two of the 15 states which have not yet acted have regular legislative sessions scheduled before the deadline. He said a vote in the Illinois General Assembly, expected soon, would be crucial.

Edwards, however, said, "Regardless of the number of state legislatures that might be meeting in the next few months, all studies indicate that extension is the only route that can result in the Equal Rights Amendment becoming part of the Constitution." He predicted the ERA amendment would not win approval in Illinois.

Phyllis Schlafly, a leader of ERA opponents, said in a telephone interview from Alton, Ill., that the extension "is playing politics with the Constitution, it's changing the rules that everybody has been operating under for the last seven years and it is previously unfair."

The tentative schedule calls for consideration by the full House of Representatives before the August recess.

American Cargo Jet Arrives At Kinshasa

PARIS (AP) — The United States and four European allies opened talks today on how to bring stability and security to Zaire and other pro-Western African nations. American transport planes landed in Zaire, meanwhile, ferrying Moroccan troops to Shaba Province to replace French troops there.

France called the Paris meeting in the wake of the recent Shaba invasion by exiled Lunda tribesmen opposed to President Mobutu Sese Seko. Also attending are Britain, Belgium and West Germany, which like France built up huge African colonial empires in the 19th century and still have extensive economic, cultural and political links with their former colonies.

France sent 600 Foreign Legion paratroopers to Shaba last month to help drive out the Lunda rebels. Belgium also dropped paratroopers to help defend its former colony.

A U.S. Air Force Starlifter cargo jet carrying about 70 Moroccan soldiers stopped for fuel early today at Kinshasa, the Zairian capital. The 3,600-mile flight from Agadir, Morocco, on Africa's north-west Atlantic coast, to Shaba in south-central Africa began Sunday.

American military sources, who asked not to be identified, said they believed other flights — carrying 1,500 Moroccans in all — may be bypassing the capital and flying directly to a Zairian air force base at Kamina, 150 miles north of the Kolwezi mining center, the target of the rebel invasion.

The Moroccans are the nucleus of a pan-African peace force France is sponsoring as the West's answer to Soviet-backed Cuban troops in Africa. France expects the force also to include contingents from Senegal, the Ivory Coast, Togo, Gabon and the Central African Empire, all former French colonies.

In Brussels, meanwhile, a rebel spokesman denied a weekend claim by the Zaire government that its troops recaptured the rebel-held town of Mutshatsha, a key rail junction in Shaba province.

A rebel communique said the Zairian battalion was destroyed by the rebels in a skirmish that lasted only a few minutes. "That is why Moroccan reinforcements are being urgently moved to Shaba, as support for the almost non-existent Mobutu troops," it added.

AZAP, the Zaire government's news agency, said a force of about 350 Zairian troops recaptured Mutshatsha after "severe" fighting Saturday in which one soldier was killed and three were wounded. The report said the rebels fled toward the Zambian border, but it made no mention of their casualties.

Mutshatsha is about 80 miles west of Kolwezi, the copper-mining center the invaders occupied for a week in mid-May until the French drove them out. AZAP said Mobutu delayed attacking it because the rebels were reported holding about 60 European hostages. He ordered the attack when intercepted radio messages about a week ago indicated hostages were being killed because their captors were running short of food, the agency said.

The French government, which is committed to giving military aid to more than a dozen African countries, would like the other Western powers to endorse the idea of the pan-African force and to promise their material help for any future operations by such a force.

JOSEPH MONTOYA
Former NM Senator Dies

Joseph Montoya Dies At Age 62

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Sen. Joseph Manuel Montoya, a Democrat who worked his way through the political ranks in New Mexico and came to national attention as a member of the Senate Watergate Committee, died today. He was 62.

Montoya had been hospitalized at Georgetown University hospital since early May for treatment of gastro-intestinal bleeding. Two operations failed to reverse the condition. He suffered kidney failure June 3.

Montoya died at 8 a.m., CDT, his son, Joseph Jr., said. Funeral arrangements were incomplete, but plans were being made to fly Montoya's body to New Mexico later today.

Montoya launched a four-decade political career in the Great Depression, winning election to the New Mexico House in 1936 while enrolled in law school at Georgetown University in Washington.

He served two terms in the New Mexico House, three terms in the state senate and four terms as lieutenant governor before winning election to Congress in 1957 at the age of 41.

Montoya won election to the Senate in 1964, defeating four-time New Mexico Gov. Edwin L. Mechem, the man appointed to fill a vacancy created by the death in 1962 of Sen. Dennis Chavez.

Montoya won re-election in 1970, defeating conservative Republican Anderson Carter who enjoyed last-minute campaign help from President Nixon.

Can Anybody Up There Read?

SEATTLE (AP) — Mrs. D took Jimmy Carter at his word when the president said he wanted his White House to be "in close touch" with citizens. But the Seattle woman now isn't sure anyone at the White House can read.

Mrs. D, who said she did not want her full name used, turned over to The Seattle Times copies of letters that illustrate her experience.

Oct. 15, 1977 — Mrs. D wrote to the White House, saying she and many of her friends were opposed to Jack Tanner being named a federal judge. She asked Carter not to nominate the Tacoma, Wash., attorney.

Oct. 28, 1977 — A White House letter, signed by James F. Gammill Jr., director of the presidential personnel office, was sent to Mrs. D. It thanked her for her recommendation of "Warren D. Riebe for a position in this administration."

Nov. 17, 1977 — Mrs. D wrote to the White House again, repeating that she opposed Tanner's nomination and that she could not understand the White House letter. "Your letter," she wrote, "states that you received my letter in which I recommend Warren D. Riebe for a position in this administration. Who is Warren D. Riebe?"

Nov. 24, 1977 — Mrs. D received another letter from Gammill. "In response to your letter of November 17, 1977, please excuse the mixup that occurred in responding to your earlier correspondence," it said. "We appreciate your recommendation of Jack Tanner ..."

Dec. 12, 1977 — This time Mrs. D wrote directly to the president. "Since October 15, 1977, I have been trying to get someone in your office to understand that a number of friends and I are disenchanted with the selection of Jack Tanner ..."

"For some reason my letters are not comprehended ... Is it too much to expect someone in your office to really read the letters?"

"I have tried to make excuses for this inability to read. Perhaps your employees have all had speed-reading courses. Perhaps they are all drunk. Perhaps they just read what they want to read."

Mrs. D sent no more letters, but the non-communication over Tanner continued.

Last Jan. 19, the White House sent Tanner's name to the Senate for confirmation. But on May 4, Carter, while in Portland, Ore., said the Tanner recommendation had not reached him yet.

The next day, the president's press secretary acknowledged Carter did not know about Tanner's nomination going through the White House earlier.

But a vexing question still remains for Mrs. D: Who is Warren D. Riebe?

City Records Heavy Rain During Night

By BOB CAMPBELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Monsoon season in West Texas, when tornadoes dip and dive like strafing jets and rain is often mixed with battering hail, gave Lubbock almost an inch of rain Sunday night and early today as Lubbock County and most of the South Plains waited out a tornado watch.

The "tornado watch, however, expired without incident and most of the area received significant amounts of rainfall. There is an 80 percent chance of more rain today and tonight and a 30 percent chance for Tuesday, weathermen said.

The National Weather Service recorded .35 inch of rain at Lubbock International Airport, but almost an inch was reported in parts of the city from the slow shower which began about 11 p.m. Sunday, however.

Reports over the city varied from .25 in the 2400-block of 3rd Street to .81 at 3300 35th St. and .96 at 4800 50th St.

Area rainfall included .91 at Abernathy, .56 at Brownfield, .85 at Crosbyton, .92 at Hereford, .65 at Levelland, .83 at Olton, .60 at Plainview, .06 at Post, .40 at Tahoka and .82 at Tulia.

The forecast calls for showers, a few very heavy, and thunderstorms, a few possibly severe, today and tonight and clearing from the west on Tuesday.

Temperatures are predicted to be in the mid-70s today, in the upper 50s tonight and near 80 Tuesday as the clouds break up.

Southeasterly winds of 10 to 15 mph have been forecast.

A flash flood watch was in effect Sunday night and this morning for Hale, Floyd, Motley and Cottle counties. Highway patrolmen reported minor flooding of highways in Bailey, Lamb and Hockley counties during the night.

Severe thunderstorm warnings were posted for most Panhandle and South Plains counties Sunday night after heavy clouds built up near the Texas-New Mexico line and began moving eastward.

Earlier, a nightmarish hail storm piled up hail 12 inches deep at Boise City, Okla. Hail also blasted Pueblo, Colo., Sunday and stacked up to five inches deep.

Amarillo had 1.50 inches of rain and Childress 1.62.

Lubbock's official total brought the city to an inch of rain already this month in weather service records and to 6.62 so far this year.

The total at this time last year was 6.79.

This morning, showers and thunderstorms extended from the Carolinas into Florida and along the Gulf Coast into Texas. Similar activity extended across Oklahoma, northern Arkansas and, in the Northeast, from western Pennsylvania to northern New York.

The thunderstorms left much of the nation under a pattern of high-level cloudiness. Early-morning fog covered much of the Pacific Coast.

Today's forecast called for showers and thunderstorms from eastern Colorado across the southern Plains and scattered rainfall along the Gulf Coast and over Florida, with similar activity from the upper Ohio Valley through the northern Atlantic states. Sunshine was expected to be the rule in most other parts of the nation.

Labor Bill Supported By Carter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter today reaffirmed his administration's commitment to legislation to make it easier for labor unions to organize workers.

Carter spoke at a White House meeting just two days before Senate leaders will try to break a filibuster against the measure to revamp federal labor law.

The president, in an early morning meeting with a bipartisan group of senators, predicted a "tough battle" to win Senate passage of the measure.

But Sen. Harrison Williams, D-N.J., forecast it would pass "strongly" after the filibuster is broken "by the end of next week."

"Eighty percent of our members are, solidly with the National Labor Relations Board law. What we need to do is to make it more effective," said Williams, a Democrat who represents heavily unionized New Jersey.

Williams said he "never felt any doubt at all that the president is committed in depth to the bill."

The labor law measure — the first wholesale revision in federal labor law since the 1930s — is "both needed and moderate and I believe constructive for employees and employers," Carter said in opening remarks at the meeting in the Cabinet room at the White House.

The legislation eases procedures for unions to organize companies and revamps the National Labor Relations Board to enable it to respond quickly to complaints that companies tried to thwart union organizers.

The measure enjoys support from organized labor, but has drawn determined opposition from the business community.

Delegation From Texas Loses Clout In House

By The Associated Press
Almost one-third of the seats in the Texas Congressional delegation will be filled by newcomers when the election smoke finally clears.

Two incumbents have been defeated, one in the Democratic primary and another in Saturday's runoff election, and five others have retired.

John Young Saturday became the second member of the 24-member delegation to go under. The 62-year-old Corpus Christi Democrat lost his bid to keep the 14th District seat he held for 22 years.

Young, still recovering from a 2-year-old Washington sex scandal, was stung by Bloomington bachelor and State Rep. Joe Wyatt in the weekend runoff that featured five other Democratic races and one Republican battle.

Young said Sunday, "I think that's one thing (the sex scandal) you could speculate on, but I'm not going to...I never tried to second-guess the voters for the 22 years they voted for me. I'm not going to now."

The Justice Department cleared Young of any improprieties, and Young has steadfastly denied the allegations.

Final, unofficial returns for all 11 counties furnished by the Texas Election Bureau in Dallas showed Wyatt with 36,379 votes, 56.44 percent, to Young's 28,072, 43.56 percent.

Wyatt will face Republican Joy Yates of Corpus Christi in November.

Young joined Dale Milford, 24th District, in the ranks of congressional losers so far this year. Milford was beaten in the May 6 Democratic primary.

Wyatt, who seemed overwhelmed by the totals from Wharton County where he received 85 percent of the vote, appeared to let down emotionally when Young called and conceded. The incumbent pledged his support for the general election in November.

Two other races where incumbents had stepped aside attracted considerable attention, although the predicted 800,000 voters appeared to fall about 100,000 short.

State Rep. Mickey Leland won the Democratic nomination over Anthony Hall for Barbara Jordan's vacant 18th District seat. Miss Jordan shocked Houston-area supporters by declining not to run.

Free Med Clinic Closes Doors

AURORA, Ill. (UPI) — Dr. Eugene Balthazar's free medical clinic — funded out of his own pocket because it made him feel good — has come to an end.
"Aurora has been very good to me and my family," the gray-haired Balthazar said as he prepared to close his storefront clinic for the last time Thursday. "Wonderful friends, neighbors and acquaintances always held us in respect and treated us well."
"I felt the underprivileged were having a difficult time getting the medical attention they needed because they couldn't pay for it. I wanted them to have a place to go. But I'm afraid that after five years of having the clinic, I've done all I possibly can to thank the community and help these people."

It's not that "Doctor Bal," 76, who has practiced medicine since 1927, is tired.
On March 3, 1973, during a celebration of the clinic's first six months of operation, Balthazar told a civic group: "I want to do this for several more years unless I run out of breath. If that happens, it will be a different story."

It turned out to be a different story. He didn't run out of breath. He ran out of money.
Since the spry general practitioner opened his clinic in an old furniture showroom in downtown Aurora Sept. 3, 1972, thousands of patients — an average of 100 daily — passed through his three modest examining rooms and were aided by Balthazar and his small volunteer staff.

More than 70 percent were Latinos; the rest lower-class whites and blacks unable to afford the soaring costs of medical treatment.

For that treatment and prescription medicine, they paid nothing.
Balthazar paid for it initially from his own pocket — $1,000 per month for several years. Later, he turned to private contributions when his own funds began to run out. Just recently, the private contributions, many of them drummed up by sympathizers throughout the nation, also ran dry. Balthazar said he barely was able to make the clinic's last payment.

During the clinic's first few years, Balthazar refused to accept any money for the dispensary — even Medicare. His original ban on acceptance of money was a hard rule.
"That way, I was the boss," Balthazar said. "Then, I didn't want any interference from a donor."

Only once, he said, did he get interference from a patient, a woman who charged he disfigured her face during treatment and sued Balthazar for $100,000. The widely publicized case spurred several state lawmakers to push for legislation to exempt physicians doing totally charitable work from exposure to civil damages.
Shortly before the measure was signed into law, Balthazar won the suit. But the doctor said he still thinks the incident has driven away many doctors who might have replaced him.

"Most doctors wouldn't touch this kind of operation with their lives because they still fear malpractice suits," Balthazar said. "It's sad, but I have to be honest. It accomplishes nothing to lump all doctors into a hostile mold," he said.

"There's a human side to medicine and if we forget it, we're all in trouble."

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

It Was Only Money...

THE POTENTIAL for fraud in publicly financed Presidential campaigns is laid bare by the foot-dragging the Federal Election Commission has done on auditing the 1976 expenses of Gerald Ford and Jimmy Carter. There has been nothing to suggest wrongdoing by either camp but there's always been a question as to whether the FEC could be depended on in every instance to do anything that might embarrass the winner in a Presidential contest. Carter spent $21.8 million of the taxpayers' money, for example, in his general election campaign against Mr. Ford, who spent a similar amount. These public funds, which added to an unconscionable federal deficit, were in addition to treasury outlays the two spent in winning their respective parties' nominations.

has noted, although FEC regulations purport to require that the "particulars" be spelled out for all expenditures exceeding $100. There also is a $279,000 line for "miscellaneous office expenses" and a lump sum of $603,000 which isn't described in any way on grounds it was all spent in sums of less than $100. In New York, a spokesman for a public relations firm said it had billed the Carter campaign $703.54 for designing some brochures but had "absolutely no record of billing or receiving" the rest of a $10,703.54 payment listed with the FEC by the Carter camp.

IT IS POSSIBLE that these and other questions have clear answers, but the Federal Elections Commission hasn't shown any great hurry to find out about them.

The situation serves to underscore the false premise under which public financing of Presidential campaigns has been "justified." Letting Presidential hopefuls further their personal ambitions by dipping into public funds is an open invitation to abuse. A person who wants to be President ought to have to raise funds on which to run.

NEARLY TWO YEARS have gone by and the FEC still hasn't issued an audit, as required by law, of how the President spent his $21.8 million. An audit, presumably, might seek to uncover what happened to $10,000 which the Carter expense report showed was paid to a campaign worker in New Jersey. There is no accounting of what the worker did with the money, the Wall Street Journal

'I Thought They Were Supposed To Be Vegetarians'

James J. Kilpatrick:

If They Say 'Yes,' Look Out!

SAN DIEGO—Almost every motorist who ever has been stuck in freeway traffic on a sweltering summer day knows the urge that overwhelms him when he turns off and sees a mile of gloriously empty highway ahead. It is the old urge to let 'er rip, despite the possible consequences. Californians this week are feeling the old urge. They have an opportunity to vote Tuesday for Proposition 13, the Jarvis-Gann amendment to the state constitution. After metaphorical hours of being trapped in high taxes, extravagant government, and a blood-sucking bureaucracy, they see the glory road. Their pent-up resentments and frustrations are ready to burst. Call them irresponsible, which is what Gov. Jerry Brown calls the proposition, but don't discount human nature. The taxpayers are yearning to toss sobriety to the winds and take a chance on the cops.

THE PENDING amendment is primarily the brainchild of Howard Jarvis, a crusty old character in California politics, but it bears close relationship to other tax limitation proposals that are spreading throughout the nation. The proposals vary in approach and terminology, but they share this common conviction: The only way to restrain big-spending governments is to deny them the money to spend. Yes, that is simplistic, and "simplistic" is among the softer adjectives that opponents have applied to Proposition 13. The amendment would have the effect of compelling a reduction of almost two-thirds in property taxes. This would be accomplished by limiting such taxes, which now average 2.8 percent of fair market value, to not more than 1 percent of "full cash value." The hypothetical family with a $100,000 home (and you would be astounded at the number of $100,000 homes in today's real estate market) is now paying $2,800. After Jarvis, the family would pay $1,000 only, and the assessed valuation, prior to sale, could not be increased by more than 2 percent per year.

DEPENDING ON whose estimates you believe, local property owners would save $5 billion to $7 billion a year. Another way of putting that is to say that local governments would lose $5 billion to $7 billion a year. Neither statement is precisely accurate. Those on the payroll of county and city governments, especially the teachers, have fallen into employes and other opponents. If their campaign induces a return to the old subservience among taxpayers now eager to revolt, Jarvis could expire like a muscle spasm. Let me venture only two predictions: If Jarvis passes, the good effects will outnumber the bad. If Jarvis fails, in one form or another Jarvis will return.

THE FIRST COP who comes barreling into my office a half-hour before deadline and starts rummaging through my desk had better be blamed well be prepared to suffer the consequences. Last week, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that police can conduct such searches just about any time they want to. "The critical element in a reasonable search is not that the owner of the property is suspected of a crime," Justice Byron R. White wrote for the 5-3 majority.

Instead, he wrote, the test is whether "there is reasonable cause to believe that the specific things to be searched for and seized are located on the property to which entry is sought."

Hitler's SS troops never had it any better. We don't have any law enforcement officers in these parts who would snoop to harass, of course, but the Feds might send some in sometime from Up North, Back East, Out West or even Down South.

IN THIS COUNTRY, heretofore, if the police thought the newspaper might have pictures or information they wanted, they could subpoena the material.

This would give the newspaper's lawyers a chance to resist the order in court and, failing there, to produce the subpoenaed documents in orderly fashion.

Under the new ruling, the police can get a warrant without telling anybody except the magistrate and drop in unannounced.

Near as I can tell, there is nothing in the opinion that would keep them from emptying the contents of my desk if they thought pictures one of our photographers had taken might be stashed there.

There are things in my desk that I consider personal and any who gets into it without my permission, warrant or no, will be risking an invasion of privacy suit.

Maybe we'll see just how far the Supreme Court meant to go in the police state tactics.

THE CASE ON WHICH the Court ruled arose in California, where a student newspaper had taken pictures of a demonstration. The police wanted the pictures to help them identify the participants.

Ho, ho, ho, you say, good for the police; the newspaper should have turned the pictures over to them.

I won't argue with you on that, but let's put the shoe on the other foot. Suppose you took a vacation to the beach and shot a lot of pictures while there, with crowds of people in the background.

A couple of weeks later, in the wee hours of the night, there's a knock on your door. When you open it, the cops rush in and start looking high and low for the pictures you took.

MAYBE THERE was a bigtime pickpocket in the crowd that day and they thought your pictures might prove a case against him. Maybe you'd have turned over the pictures if they'd asked, which is what they ought to do. No matter.

The point is that if the police can barrel into a newspaper office without asking, they can barrel into your home in the same fashion even if you are not suspected of having committed a crime.

In fact, the Supreme Court went out of its way to say that a newspaper office has no more protection from such searches than does anybody else.

Knock, knock. Who's there?

Candy Sagon tells about the cartoon on the wall of a personnel manager, showing an executive telling an employee: "Your pay raise will become effective when you do."

LATE LAST MONTH, a man was killed in the Panhandle while rushing to the storm cellar after hearing a tornado warning. His family, still in the house, was unhurt.

It happens all the time. People caught out in the open are killed or injured. Those who stay inside survive.

It seems to me that the safety experts might want to give new advice when tornado warnings are issued: Stay inside and have a plan such as huddling against an inside wall with a mattress over you for protection if a tornado approaches.

Having toured many neighborhoods in my time after they were hit by tornadoes, I've been impressed by how often an inside wall, such as that of a hallway or bathroom, is left standing in an otherwise demolished home.

Holmes Alexander:

The Answers, Mr. President...

WASHINGTON—To every modern President of the United States, there comes his time of testing by the Communist Revolution. Now President Jimmy Carter's test is coming up.

We remember with pride, at least I do, that Gerald Ford did not wait for the spirit of the country to move him against the hijacking of the Mayaguez by the upstart Cambodians. Ford acted with the patriotic indignation that we have a right to expect in an American President.

It doesn't matter a bit that he lost more lives than he saved, because what he really saved in recovering the ship was American dignity which was then at its nadir.

Richard Nixon didn't earn many plaudits in his troubled and unfinished term of office, but I hope he will always remember with pride that he mined Hanoi harbor against the Russian sealift of weapons by the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong.

NIXON DID NOT ask Congress for permission, he did not hold a plebesite, since there wasn't a chance of getting a go-ahead signal from either.

The plans for the blockage had been around the White House and Pentagon for years, during most of Lyndon Johnson's term, but fear of Russian reaction and World War II prevented action.

Nixon took the action, and later he "carpet-bombed" Hanoi amid lamentations, not from Moscow or Peking, but from American people and officials.

It turned out that Nixon did the right thing, brought the ill-fated Vietnam War to its close and recovered most of the American POWs.

We forget that poor old LBJ sent the U.S. Marines into the Dominican Republic to force an election to go the way we Americans wanted it. Otherwise, we'd had another Red satellite in the Western Hemisphere at the same time we were disastrously engaged in Asia.

EISENHOWER USED the Seventh Fleet to save Quemoi and Matsui for Nationalist China, and he used the Sixth Fleet to calm the storm that now has broken out in Lebanon.

The only recent President who disappointed us was John Kennedy, but our hearts still swell with pride at the derring-do of Harry Truman in Korea and Berlin.

I lately interviewed a man of knowledge who said that Soviet agents were coming in like summer flies, even housemaids and truck drivers and messenger boys have a mission in the massive plot to destroy America.

I do not hesitate to write with alarmism because it has become impossible to exaggerate the nation's peril.

That is Carter's first challenge, the unseen one, and the second is like unto it: the hordes of illegal aliens, mostly loyal to this country which represents a livelihood and spiritual freedom to them, but many—far too many—who have their hands out for the Judas money.

The President can't do much about this silent invasion, for with all the jokes about his "human rights" pose, we Americans are not going to shoot or hang peasants escaping from starvation in El Salvador, Mexico, and worse places than these.

But what the President can—he must—do is take sudden, unannounced, violent and lethal action against the overt threats. He's got to behave in mid-Africa the way Truman behaved.

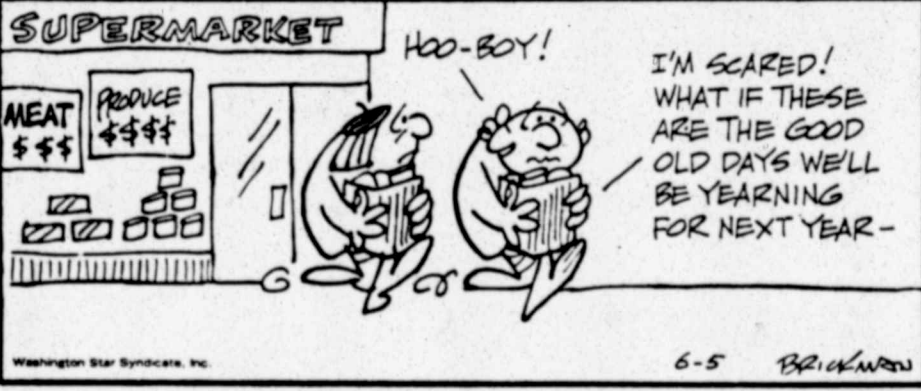

We now possess tactical nuclear weapons which will blow Russians, Cubans and recalcitrant Africans skyhigh without inflicting massive deaths that we did in Japan. President Carter's got to do in Russia and Cuba and East Europe what Nixon did in Hanoi.

He may have to occupy parts of Cuba and the Dominican Republic, not far the sentimental reason of establishing "democracy," but to see that America has the sort of neighbors it's safe to live with.

It will be said that I am writing hyperbole and hysteria, but unless President Carter lives up to the best traditions of his office, even the wildest warnings will come too late.

Sylvia Porter: When You Go, Take Something With You

DESPITE THE upsurge in prices of all foreign goods and services resulting from the dwindling buying power of the dollar, millions of you still are intent on traveling overseas this summer.

You are applying for your passports or having them renewed, replenishing your wardrobes, checking on your suitcases, and so on.

But despite all your advance planning, few of you are even thinking about what medical records you'll need when you go abroad. While you'll consider precautionary insurance of every kind—accident, death, theft—you'll not include a "how to survive" policy, namely your personal medical checklist.

About 10,000 Americans die abroad each year. Many might have been saved if the local attending physician had had more complete records on the patient.

WHAT HAPPENS if you're in Singapore, lose the only pair of eyeglasses you have with you? At best, a waste of your precious holiday time while a local physician tests your eyes and prescribes a new pair.

Suppose yours is an unusual type of blood and you get involved in an accident with a taxi during a visit to Corfu. Have you considered what an improper blood transfusion might mean?

In both these simple cases, having your medical records with you could save you not only time but even your life!

Of course, good modern medical services are now available in most areas of the world, but why compel a local physician to "guess" what's right for you? Why not be prepared for all contingencies?

CAUTIOUS TRAVELERS, especially those with special medical problems, always carry fairly detailed medical records wherever they go.

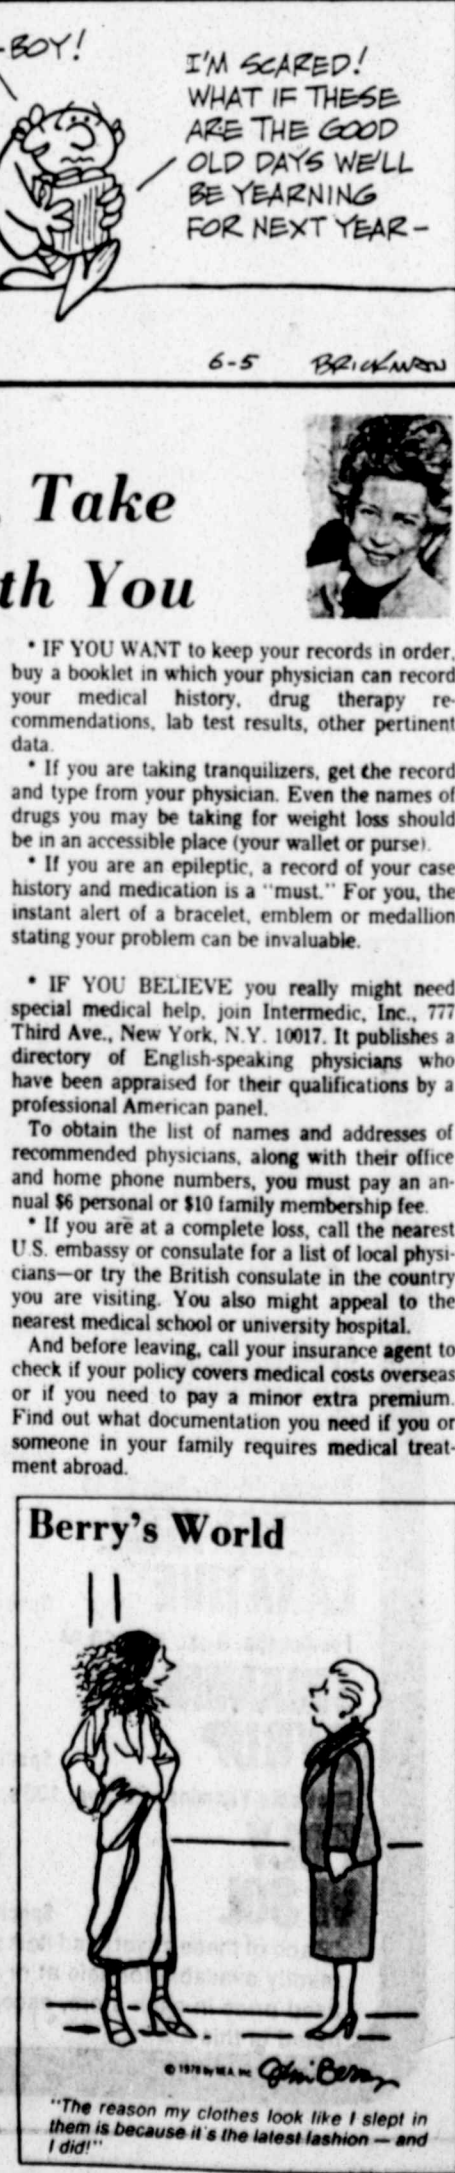

If you are pregnant, take along a letter from your gynecologist giving the date the baby is due as well as any other particulars that might be helpful to a strange physician in an emergency.

If you suffer from a chronic condition, such as diabetes or coronary heart disease, have an explanatory letter from your physician in your purse or wallet for the possible use of a doctor overseas who might have to take care of you.

If you are allergic to any special drugs or foods or vaccines, wear a medical information bracelet, warning others of your allergy so that there'll be no risk you'll receive inappropriate or incomplete medical treatment that might actually kill you.

The "Medic Alert" emblem, worn on the wrist or around the neck is recognized internationally as a safeguard of life. (The emblem costs $10, is made of stainless steel, and may be obtained by sending the $10 lifetime membership fee to Medic Alert Foundation, Box SP, Turlock, Calif. 95380.)

'Airtrain' Concept Fails To Gain Needed Funds

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI) — Elvest Lehl is having trouble convincing anyone to share his dream — a rail-guided aircraft that could ferry passengers between cities at speeds near 300 miles per hour only 35 feet above the ground.

"Oh, everyone who sees it thinks it's great and wishes me luck," said Lehl, a retired aircraft draftsman who has nurtured the idea of the "airtrain" since 1964.

But nobody is willing to put any money into it.

Lehl said he and Wichita State University aeronautical engineering professor Gln Zumwalt have asked for study funds from the Department of Transportation and been rejected, not because the idea is bad, but because the DOT is "not funding high-speed ground transportation."

Zumwalt said the DOT is too concerned with rapid urban transit to commit money to future transportation needs.

"I really think we're kind of stymied until there's a change in policy at the highest level," Zumwalt said. "We've been two years with no progress."

Zumwalt said he was reluctant to "hit the media again and discuss something that essentially hasn't moved forward at all."

The airtrain is "an aircraft flying at near-ground level and guided by a double-rail overhead beam. At low speeds the rail provides support by means of a set of electrically powered wheels which are moved into position against the beam. Electric power is supplied from wayside stations to a conductor on the rail beam.

"At speeds above about 80 mph, the aerodynamic surfaces generate sufficient lift to make the craft airborne, turbofan (jet) engines provide propulsion, and the rail serves as a guide."

A myriad of technicalities have been explored by Lehl and Zumwalt, but neither can base his hopes — or sell the idea — on any solid test evidence about the 80-foot crafts Lehl envisions as able to carry 80 people and light freight.

Another drawback is the estimated high cost of about $2 million per mile, but Lehl shrugs the money off saying, "We spend that much on freeways."

Lehl has not lost his fervor despite the "Catch-22" situation of not being able to get DOT money without "conclusive economic arguments" that they hope the studies themselves will provide.

"I don't get down in the dumps too far," Lehl said. "I know how long it takes to develop this type of thing. I'll be very fortunate if I see one of these flying in my lifetime."

Currently the "airtrain" exists only on paper and in a small plastic model Lehl made. He and Zumwalt presented a paper on the airtrain to the International Conference on High-Speed Ground Transportation at Arizona State University in 1975, but not one penny has been spent yet to develop it.

Lehl said the city of Wichita approved use by WSU last year of $15,000 for more study, but he called the money "a fraction of what we need." Zumwalt said it is useless without DOT money to pay for a 5-foot model that could be put through wind tunnel tests.

Specifically needed is preliminary testing of Lehl's "airbearings," devices he designed to "generate centering forces by means of air flowing radially inward toward the rail." Without the "airbearings," Lehl warns, the airtrain could not move faster than 100 mph without causing friction that would distort the rails.

The lack of test results on any of Lehl's designs has not dimmed his boundless enthusiasm about the airtrain, which he claims would be "faster, safer and cheaper" than automobiles or airplanes in intercity distances under 500 miles. He said short airplane trips were not economical because an airplane's potential high speeds were wasted by time spent getting to and from airports.

"The airtrain could go from downtown terminal to downtown terminal," Lehl said. "It could provide half the speed of planes but wouldn't waste the time and energy at each end. We could overfly railroads. We could overspan a lot of interstate highways, along the medians. The bottom of each craft would be 35 to 40 feet from the ground."

Tomorrow's Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Not only will tomorrow be one of your better problem-solving days, but you'll also be able to follow through on remedies that will occur to you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Something of value you've earned and are entitled to but has been frustratingly delayed should be in your hands tomorrow.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Tomorrow will be a good time to appraise that new project you've been thinking of undertaking. You'll reflect upon it in a sober and practical manner.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) In a competitive situation where you're seeking an advantage, play your ace-in-the-hole tomorrow. No one will trump it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Tomorrow you'll be able to easily solve problems that others will find insurmountable. Speak up if you find yourself confronted by a confused individual.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) With the assistance of another, you can achieve an ambitious objective tomorrow. He or she will possess that necessary know-how you've long sought.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll do well tomorrow if you base decisions on the most practical aspects of the issue and not those which are only hopes or desires.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You'll be up to meeting and overcoming difficult challenges tomorrow, especially where your work or career is concerned. Persistence will be your watchword.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Something of consequence can come from a social encounter you'll experience tomorrow. Be extra-attentive if one who is older is involved.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) The most important matters on your agenda tomorrow will be domestic ones. Any issues that affect the family should be given top priority.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A friend you'll be associating with will need some sincere solutions to her present dilemma. You can best help by leveling with her.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Profit from your past experiences if you find yourself in a familiar situation tomorrow. What worked previously will do just as well then.

Communist Members Top 70 Million

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — According to Richard Staar, associate director of the Hoover Institution at Stanford University, an estimated or claimed membership in Communist countries around the world topped 70 million last year, an increase of 5.5 million over 1976. The American Communist Party claims 18,000 members, an increase of 3,000 "but this figure is probably inflated," said Staar in the introduction of the 1978

Jog Or Run? Talk Test Tells

America is on the run. Thousands of people have turned to jogging as an alternative to traditional exercise programs and the number of runners is still growing.

In 1974, the National Jogging Association had 3,500 members; last year, it had 10,000 members. Today, says Bernard L. Gladieux Jr., editor of the group's newsletter, "We've got 25,000 and we're going strong."

Jogging is an aerobic exercise. It requires the use of a lot of oxygen over a relatively long period of time. That helps put the circulatory system in shape. It is sometimes hard to tell where jogging ends and running begins. Most experts, however, agree that the main difference is speed. If you are going a mile in seven minutes or less, you're running. If it takes you more than seven minutes, you're jogging.

Jogging is not for everyone. People with big bones, for example, rarely seem to enjoy jogging because of the extra weight they carry around, Gladieux said. If you are over 30, you should check with your doctor before you begin any exercise program. If you're over 40, take a treadmill test to make sure you're in shape.

Joggers can face several physical problems including pulled muscles, nerve irritation and shin splint, a tearing or stretching of the tendons which produces pain in the lower leg.

You can lessen your chance of trouble by doing a series of long, slow stretches before and after you jog. "Not bending and touching your toes five times," said Gladieux. That type of rapid exercise can cause muscles to bunch up.

"The most insidious problem of all," said Gladieux, "is the overuse syndrome." It strikes people who run too long, too fast and too often and occurs because the body tissues do not get enough rest. If you start suffering, consider changing your schedule. "Someone who runs seven miles every day might be better off running 15 miles every other day," Gladieux said.

The only equipment you need for jogging is a pair of shoes, although many people buy special clothing as well. You don't necessarily have to spend a lot of money; the jogging association recommends a shoe that sells for just under $20.

The main thing to remember, Gladieux said, is to get a shoe that has plenty of cushioning in the heel. The cushioning should be soft and resilient.

Look for shoes with soles of a tough outer layer of rubber and a softer midsole that runs the full length of the shoe. The soles should be flexible, but the section under the arch should provide firm support. The sole should be about half an inch thick and both the arch supports and the uppers should be smooth, soft and non-irritating.

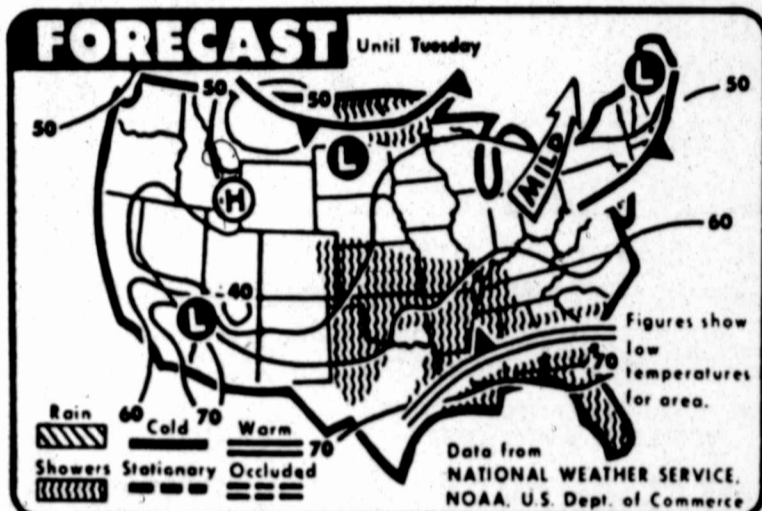

Make sure the heel is wide and stable and provides a slight lift — about half an inch — similar to the lift given by heels in street shoes. What is known as the toe box — the space for the toes — should be rounded and about one inch deep. There should be a thumb's width between your toes and the end of the shoes.

Try on the shoes at the end of the day since feet tend to swell after a long run. Try them over the heavy socks you will wear while running. Have them fitted while standing and try walking and, if possible, jogging a few steps in them.

Start slowly if you are a beginning jogger. The jogging association and the President's Council on Physical Fitness recommend building up to a full schedule over a 12-week period. Leave time for 5 or 10 minutes of walking to relax you after your jog.

Remember: The pace at which you jog should not leave you gasping for breath. One of the best ways to tell if you are overdoing it is to take the talk test. If you cannot carry on a conversation while jogging, you are working too hard.

Further information on jogging is available from the National Jogging Association, 919 18th St. N.W., Washington, D.C., 20006.

Publishers Question Ban On 'Junk Calls'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Would banning all unsolicited — or "junk" — phone calls restrict the gathering of news by reporters?

That question by the American Newspaper Publishers Association is one of many raised in comments filed with the Federal Communications Commission, which is considering such a ban.

The commission has received a cross fire of comments ranging from outright support to firm opposition, with others endorsing a ban on recorded calls but not person-to-person calls. Some object to their calls being classified as "junk."

Others said they are providing a service.

Both AT&T and the Independent Telephone Association opposed proposals to require an asterisk by names in the directory of people who don't want "junk" phone calls. They called it burdensome, too costly and impractical.

Walter S. Baer of California, who along with the Citizens Communications Center prompted the FCC inquiry, suggested as alternative that phone companies keep a list of those who don't want "junk" calls.

Olan Mills Inc., which uses the phone entirely to sell its picture taking services, said a ban would threaten its existence and "if the plug is pulled on unsolicited calls, the ring of the telephone will be replaced by the ring of the doorbell."

Novice Sailors Start Voyage

BOSTON (AP) — A management consultant and a former computer executive, who have no ocean sailing experience, have set out for Gibraltar in a 22-foot sailboat.

Consultant Thomas Harris, 30, of Waretown, N.Y., and his partner Timothy Ditzler, 31, of New York City left Boston harbor Sunday on the Esprit Libre and sailed due east toward the Azores Islands.

Their only long-distance sailing experience is a cruise from New York City to Maine, Harris said.

"I don't know what the reason (for the trip) is," said Harris. "We're just doing it."

Harris said the two of them have strengthened their 10-year-old Fiberglas boat to stand up to the ocean trip and have equipped it with survival equipment and an emergency locator beacon. They plan to navigate by the stars.

Harris was a management consultant for the New York firm of Brakely, John Price Jones, Inc. until March and Ditzler a vice president of Printronix Corp. of America, of New York until May.

The boat is provisioned for two months, but Harris said they expect the trip to take only 22 days.

They plan to follow the Gulf Stream and make their first landing in Marbella, Spain, some 3,000 miles from Boston.

From there they plan to cruise the Mediterranean, Harris said.

DR. LAMB

Too Much Caffeine

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.
 DEAR DR. LAMB — I have a niece who is in a mental hospital and she comes home for five-day visits twice a month. While she is home she drinks tea and coffee several times an hour using a heaping teaspoon of instant coffee and a heaping teaspoon of sugar with about one half cup of tap water and the balance milk or half and half. At home she uses three-fourths of a 10-ounce bottle of instant coffee and smokes about a package of cigarettes a day. She also takes tranquilizers in the hospital.

Is it harmful to consume so much coffee with her medication? What effect can it have? She is very nervous. She also drinks coffee all day in the hospital, buys the coffee herself and drinks it with tap water without milk or sugar.

DEAR READER — I never cease to be amazed at how many people have living habits that are so detrimental to their health. Coffee and tea both contain caffeine. Caffeine is a stimulant to the central nervous system. A person who drinks as much coffee as you describe in this case could very well be extremely nervous on the basis of an excess consumption of caffeine alone. In fact, to put it bluntly, I think most of the country would be a lot more tranquil if they would slow down on the amount of coffee they drink each day.

The caffeine in the coffee and tea has exactly the opposite effect of the tranquilizers your niece is taking to calm her nerves. She might not need so much medicine if she would eliminate coffee and tea entirely. Cigarettes are such a well-known health hazard that I don't think I need to mention those again this time.

To give you a better idea of what coffee, tea, colas and such drinks that contain caffeine do to a person I'm sending you The Health Letter number 1-1. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y., 10019.

If your niece just needs something to drink she might try water, but if she just craves the taste of coffee there is no reason she couldn't use decaffeinated coffee.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have two little grandsons age 5 and 3 and their daddies love to tickle them to the point they can hardly stand it. They hold them down and won't let them get away. The other night the 5-year-old wet his pants. I have told them not to do it but they just laugh at me. I have heard it can cause them to stutter but they just say it is an old wives tale. Is it harmful to do this or am I being an overly sensitive grandma? I'd appreciate your comment on this.

DEARF READER — I think you're just a normal grandmother concerned. However, rest easy. There isn't any evidence that tickling the children, even if it gets them very excited, has any bad effects at all. Just be thankful that the daddies love your grandchildren enough to play with them and give them a reasonable amount of their time.

It sounds to me like they're developing a good relationship with their fathers which will help them in their total mental health as the years go on. The situation you described to me then is really good, not bad, and you should count your blessings.

LAFF - A - DAY

"Questions, questions... don't you know anything at all about this case, young man?"

'Animal Bird' Fan Stymies Librarian

SYLVANIA, Ohio (AP) — A child approached Jim Marshall at the public library here and requested a book on "animal birds."

Perplexed, the librarian asked if he wanted a book about birds and animals. The answer was no.

Did he want a book about animals? He did not.

Well, was this book about some special kind of bird? No, the youngster said impatiently, it was a book about Animal Bird, the man who went to the North Pole.

Marshall found him a biography of Admiral Byrd.

DUTCH BIKERS

A study released in Amsterdam shows there were 9.5 million bicycles in use among the 13.9 million population in the Netherlands. It also showed that 42 percent of Dutch people between 15 and 74 ride a bike almost daily.

 Madame Chiang Kai-shek, wife of the late leader of Nationalist China, was born June 5, 1897.

On this day in history:

In 1917, more than 9.5 million Americans between the ages of 21 and 31 registered for the World War I draft.

In 1933, President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed a bill abolishing the gold standard.

In 1966, American astronaut Gene Cernan left Gemini 9 for a two-hour and 10-minute "spacewalk."

In 1968, Sen. Robert Kennedy was fatally shot in Los Angeles by a 24-year-old Arab national later identified as Sirhan Sirhan. The assassin was sentenced to life imprisonment.

A thought for the day: President Franklin D. Roosevelt said, "There is no indispensable man."

Reinforced Plastics Due In Vehicles

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — More than half a billion pounds of fiber glass-reinforced plastics (FRP) will be used in American-made vehicles this year.

Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp., a producer of fiber glass reinforcements for plastics, estimates that 541 million pounds of FRP will go into U.S. vehicles in 1978, a gain of 10.5 percent over the expected total for this year and 29.5 percent over the total used in 1976.

Arts Festival Features New Tennessee Williams Play

By WILLIAM GLOVER
 CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — Tennessee Williams finds a happier-than-usual ending for one of his familiar, fragile heroines in "Creve Coeur," at the Spoleto USA arts festival.

The slight but steadily engaging play which premiered last week is animated with comic — even vaudevillian — touches rare in his work, and shows some return to the emotional power unfortunately lacking in his recent stage efforts.

This is the story of Dorothea, a school marm Blanche DuBois, whose one-sided romance with a caddish headmaster leaves her bowed but unbeaten.

Williams intended the piece originally to be just one act long, but was persuaded to stretch it to a full evening. The padding which he has invented offers little in dramatic movement, a fault fairly overcome by fine acting.

Shirley Knight, the luckless dreamer, fleshes out her lines with a subtly inventive range of spinster neurotics, and right alongside her in artistry is Jan Miner as the blunt, shrewd companion intent on shielding her — needlessly as it turns out — from the slings and arrows of despair.

Miss Knight is required to go through an abrupt transition of personality as the author brings his parable to a quick conclusion, and it is to her credit that she makes it almost believable as she declares: "We must go on. Just go on. That's all life seems to offer and demand."

The other two roles in this oral distaff play are well performed by Charlotte Moore, a very prim teacher, and Barbara Tarbuck, a neighbor given to bursts of dependency that Williams shapes into humorous relief.

The damsel quartet has been directed by Keith Hack with felicity. The cluttered 1935 backstreet St. Louis tenement where everything happens was designed by Steve Rubin.

The title has a double meaning. Creve Coeur is the name of a very real amusement park, but also means in French "punctured heart."

After performances here, producer Craig Anderson, who runs the Hudson Guild Theater in New York, plans to take the production at least to Philadelphia and Boston.

The play is the single drama event on the Spoleto schedule but emotional theatricality for audiences abounds in the four highly assorted opera productions that are founder Gian Carlo Menotti's main interest.

To the stunning "Vanessa" and so-so "La Traviata" which started the grand music parade now have been added two more modestly scaled events, Donizetti's 18th century "Il Furioso" and a twin-bill of Menotti's "The Egg" and "Martin's Lie."

Both get slightly campy treatments by their respective directors, Richard Pearlman and Menotti, easily justified by their slight substance.

"Il Furioso" tells of a man driven bonkers for a while by his wife's infidelity, roles splendidly sung by Charles Long and Gloria Capone. Medieval morality themes are examined by Menotti with minor music and small sense.

"Losing Hair? Try This At No Risk"

HOUSTON, Texas—If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss...and grow more hair.

For years "they said it couldn't be done". But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment for both men and women, that is not only stopping hair loss...but is really growing hair! They don't even ask you to take their word for it. They invite you to try the treatment for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself! Naturally, they would not offer this opportunity unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in the family," it is certainly not proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Hair loss caused by sebum can also run in your family, and many other conditions can cause hair loss. If you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. So, if you still have any hair on top of your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair...now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

Japanese Critic Lauds Conductor, Orchestra

By JOHN RODERICK
TOKYO (AP) — A Japanese critic says America is considered the land of mass production but that Eugene Ormandy and the Philadelphia Orchestra produce a "painstakingly created handmade article reflecting the mastery of the maker."

"Its refined beauty and high technical skill give us a simple beauty which is an expression of the inner voice of man," wrote Tadao Koishi in the Mainichi Shimbun.

"At 78, Mr. Ormandy brings to us total maturity combined with an objectivity which yields quiet music with an inexpressible warmth combined with a clear, densely concentrated line," he added.

The Yomiuri critic, Edmund C. Wilkes, commenting on the orchestra's third visit to Japan, called Ormandy a great conductor and said the orchestra's sound "is of course the product of superb musicians playing on superb instruments, and its richness, its clarity and balance are only some of the elements which make for astonishment and delight."

Appearing at the Foreign Correspondent's Club of Japan today two days before the end of the orchestra's 14-concert tour of Japan and South Korea Ormandy said, "It's been a wonderful tour, with really wonderful responses from the audiences."

He added it may not be generally known that Japan — and Seoul — have some of the greatest concert halls in the world. He knows, he said, because his associate conductor, William Smith, checks them out in the first five minutes of a performance.

"We loved it, and the hall was great," he said of the orchestra's first visit to South Korea May 27-28.

Returning from Seoul, there were appearances in Osaka and Mito and Yokohama before the final concerts of the tour. On Sunday the orchestra returned to Philadelphia by chartered plane, leaving from Tokyo's new international airport at Narita.

Answering questions, Ormandy told reporters in a serious vein that the future of orchestras, ballet, opera and other big cultural ensembles is bleak unless support comes from the public, or possibly big foundations.

Costs are soaring, both for the orchestras and the public, he said. Top ticket prices on the Japan visit were 12,000 yen, or about $55. Even with those prices, he said, the orchestra couldn't have made the trip if it hadn't had the financial backing of Smithkline, Inc., a Philadelphia-based pharmaceutical company.

Ormandy said his favorite composers are Beethoven, Bach, and Mozart and that for most of their works he has memorized the scores.

"But contemporary works are terribly difficult," he said, "and I always use the score."

He said there was a good deal of controversy over new compositions that "by tomorrow may have been more or less forgotten." He questioned the wisdom of writing works that depend on pyrotechnics and take months to learn.

"But we have to have it," he added, noting that the repertoire of the modern orchestra is a full one.

Ormandy had full praise for Japan's Seiji Ozawa, conductor of the Boston Symphony, whom he described as "one of the world's great conductors." Born in Manchuria, Ozawa will go to Peking June 11 for an eight-day visit during which he will conduct the Peking Central Philharmonic.

Recalling the Philadelphia's Orchestra's 1973 visit to China, Ormandy said the Chinese are "very musical, very musical. They can play anything."

In an earlier interview he said, however, that the Chinese campaign that developed afterward against Beethoven and other composers was "very foolish." Beethoven, he said, "was a revolutionary himself."

Friends who have visited China recently, he said, told him they were astonished at the change and how much better

Chinese music was than five years ago.

Since the suppression of the Communist Party's radicals, accused of having stifled the arts and culture, China has reopened its doors to foreign orchestras and music.

Nutrition Discussed At Meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — A few generations ago grocery shoppers could squeeze the loaf of bread to see if it was fresh.

But nowadays it's possible a squeeze wouldn't mean a thing. With technology, mono and diglycerides can be added to the loaf to maintain the texture and appearance of freshly baked bread.

It's an example of the increasingly complex technology of food which has burgeoned in the last half century, says Tracy Westen, deputy director of the bureau of consumer protection at the Federal Trade Commission.

Food technology also has brought more items from which to choose. In 1928 the number of items offered in the typical supermarket was 900, Westen said. He said that number now exceeds 12,000 and many of the new items are highly processed foods.

Helping the grocery shopper decide how to choose nutritious foods from the rows upon rows of shelves was the topic of a conference on nutrition and the American food system held recently in Washington.

Carol Tucker Foreman assistant secretary of agriculture for food and consumer services, said new foods must be allowed on the market as long as they are safe, meet some basic level of quality and are accurately and completely labeled.

"Let products such as this take their place, and their chances, in the marketplace," she said.

However, she added that "substitute" foods do not have an inherent right to take on the name of the traditional food they mimic.

"If you can make a steak in a laboratory that has the nutritional value of a steak from a steer and looks and tastes like a steak from a steer, then probably you should be allowed access to the marketplace," she said. "But where is it written that you should call your product a steak?"

Mrs. Foreman said substitute titles were appropriate for substitute products. As an example in name differentiation she gave butter and margarine.

Earlier, Donald Kennedy, commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration, said the message was coming loud and clear from consumers that when a product is imitation, they want it labeled imitation.

The conference was sponsored by the Community Nutrition Institute, the Food Marketing Institute and Family Circle magazine.

Executive Urges Arms Cutback

By PHILIP GREER
And MYRON KANDEL

For a man with two businesses to run, Howard Willens spends a lot of time away from the office. Most of it is taken up traveling around the country, trying to explain why the world's great powers should stop building bigger weapons and, instead, should cut back on armaments and spend the money in more productive ways. His main target is the steady stockpiling of nuclear bombs.

"It's a simple thing," Willens says. "We and the Russians have been in an arms race since the end of World War II — we lead and the Russians follow — and we're less secure now than we were 30 years ago. I think there are two ways you can go — more arms or less. We've tried one way and it hasn't worked. Why not try the other?"

Willens is a Californian who owns a textile machinery business and also builds and owns shopping centers. For the last 18 years, though, he's been more often identified with movements such as Business Executives Against the Vietnam War, which he founded, and Eugene McCarthy's campaign for President in 1968. He is now a board member of the Washington-based Center for Defense Information, which monitors military spending, and he is a member of the U.S. delegation to the current special United Nations session on disarmament.

Willens says he is not a "peacenik," simply opposed to all wars. "In World War II, I enlisted in the Marine Corps, although I didn't have to, and I became an officer," he says. "That was because I felt it was a war that had to be fought."

"Now, though, I think we're headed for a lot of trouble. There are six or seven countries in the world that have nuclear bombs. We're not sure about Israel. What will happen when terrorists get them? And they will. It's a terrible thing to contemplate."

Willens has been trying — with little success, he concedes — to convince businessmen that military spending is just a bad investment. "When you build bombs, you don't create other jobs or expand economic activity," he says. "If you use the money, say, for transportation systems, then you're encouraging other business, and those jobs lead to more jobs. I realize there's a battle between ideologies, but the battle should be economic and political, not military."

A strong supporter of President Carter in 1976, Willens says he is convinced the president is trying hard to cut down the arms race, but that he's up against very powerful opposition.

"What we need is a domestic Marshall Plan," he says, referring to American aid that rebuilt European economies after World War II. "What's stopping it is the constituency for military spending. Eisenhower warned of the military-industrial-labor complex. Unions are just as hot for military spending because all they think about is the jobs."

Willens argues that a continued military build-up doesn't make sense any more.

"The United States has 9,000 hydrogen bombs stockpiled; the Russians have 4,500," he says. "That's enough to wipe out every city in the world seven times. But we're still building two hydrogen bombs a day and the Russians are producing one a day. The world is spending a billion dollars a day on armaments. What's the bottom line? It hasn't done either side any good. I say why not try the other way?"

The Center For Defense Information was founded to monitor defense spending, armament sales and other aspects of U.S. defense policies. Its director is a retired Navy rear admiral, Gene R. Lalocque, and the deputy director is a retired Army brigadier general, B.K. Gorwitz. Its board members include actor Paul Newman; General Motors heir Stewart Mott; Benjamin Cohen, who was an advisor to President Franklin D. Roosevelt, and former Federal Reserve Board chairman Marriner S. Eccles.

"In 1966, Eccles and I met with businessmen all over the country and told them the Vietnam war was causing an inflation that would damage the economy," Willens says. "They didn't think that was important, but now they know better. Today, 75 percent of enlightened businessmen — those at the top of the corporate structure — tell you they no longer believe that inflation is good for business."

"We've been spending on weapons for 30 years and it hasn't worked," Willens says. "At least Ford was smart enough to drop the Edsel. Why don't we do the same thing?"

"The trouble is," he adds, "there are no experts in arms control because we've never had any. The only expert on arms control is Jimmy the Greek (the Las Vegas oddsmaker). I'm going to ask him some day what odds he's give me on disarmament. I bet they'd be pretty high."

JAPANESE EXPLORER
WASHINGTON (AP) — An official with the Smithsonian Institution says Japanese explorer Naomichi Uemura probably is involved in one of the toughest expeditions ever. Dr. Lee Houchins, a Smithsonian project officer, said "in many ways this trip is more dangerous than the North Pole crossing." The Smithsonian is backing the expedition which has already seen Uemura become the first person to reach the North Pole alone by dog sled. Houchins says Uemura now is reaching the midway point of his next goal: a solo, north-south overland crossing of Greenland.

Diversification Program Still In Sun Oil Company's Plans

KING OF PRUSSIA, Pa. (AP) — Sun Co., whose latest major attempt at diversification has resulted in numerous court suits and a complaint by the Securities and Exchange Commission, will continue seeking ways to offset risks of the oil business, company officials say.

"Our fingers are not burned," Sun Chairman H. Robert Sharbaugh insisted after last week's annual meeting. "This situation does not work against it (the diversification program) in any way whatsoever."

Sun, like most other oil companies, has been vigorously seeking to expand its business beyond the production and sale of oil and gas products. Growth in the use of those fuels has been diminishing, and the companies believe future increases in profits must come in large part from elsewhere.

Sun, the nation's 11th-largest oil firm with earnings of $362 million last year on sales of $6.4 billion, recently has bought a convenience-food chain, a trucking company and several distributors of industrial products.

But its latest move — the $293 million purchase last January of 34 percent of the Becton, Dickinson Co. hospital supply firm — has encountered considerable opposition.

The Rutherford, N.J.-based supply company filed suit, charging that Sun's quiet purchase of the stock from institutional holders constituted an illegal takeover attempt. The suit, and about six others filed by individual stockholders, claimed that all shareholders should have been given an opportunity to sell their stock at what was a considerable profit.

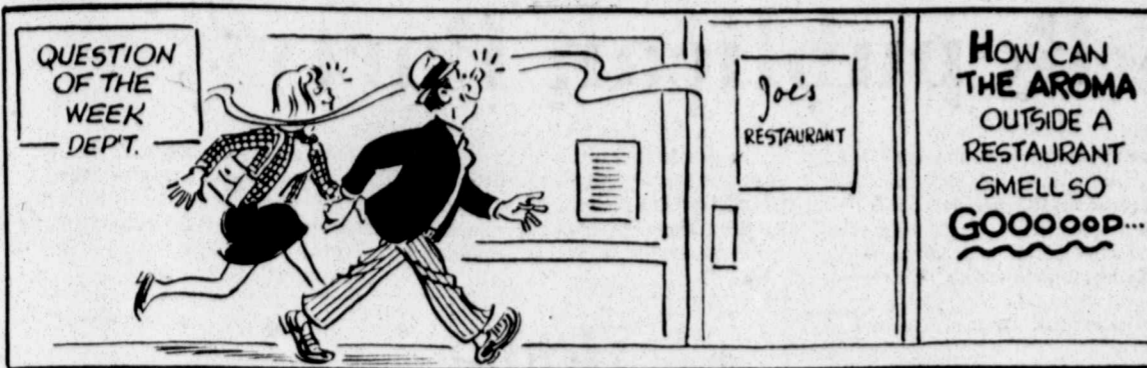

The SEC, an agency no company enjoys fighting, filed a complaint on issues similar to those raised in the suits. All of the cases have been combined and will be tried in New York next fall.

During an informal press conference conducted after Sun's annual meeting, Sharbaugh said he believed his company had conducted itself honorably and would win the case.

"We're continuing to examine other acquisition possibilities," he said, refusing to specify which firms he was examining.

Woman Swims With Hungry Sharks

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Clarice Prange, 27, swims among 10 hungry sharks in the Steinhurt Aquarium at feeding time.

In a wet suit she trains a high-speed underwater camera on the sharks' jaws as they attack the fresh frozen bonito which is the main course of their three-times-a-week dinner.

Miss Prange, a doctoral candidate in zoology at the University of Illinois, came to Steinhurt because of its tank water clarity and unique collection of blacktip sharks from the South Pacific.

The object is to find out how the sharks' jaws work when they eat. Because sharks are cartilaginous, their body mechanics could offer clues to a human disease, arthritis.

Miss Prange is filling in some of the blanks in knowledge of how the sharks' body components function together. She has found that the sharks' loose teeth fold back into the mouth when food enters and anchor themselves in prey to prevent escape.

The blacktips are young, measuring only 2 feet of their eventual 5-foot length, but their teeth can be just as ruinous to humans as other sharks.

Quoting unnamed sources, the newspaper said Friday that the unidentified brother in April placed Delila Maschino on a plane chartered at a cost of $100,000. The newspaper said the woman incurred the wrath of her Moslem family by wedding an Algerian Christian instead of the older man.

Miss Prange says the sharks seem to be spooked by the camera at less than 18 inches distance, and she seeks to get as close to their mouths as possible.

"I act afraid, but really there's nothing to be afraid of," she says. "They're beautiful, graceful animals. It's an indescribable experience, being in the water with them."

Wrong Marriage Leads To Woman's Kidnapping

MONTREAL (AP) — An Algerian millionaire drugged his 26-year-old sister and flew her from Canada back to Algeria because she married a young man after being promised at birth to a man who is now 60, the Montreal Gazette reported.

Quoting unnamed sources, the newspaper said Friday that the unidentified brother in April placed Delila Maschino on a plane chartered at a cost of $100,000. The newspaper said the woman incurred the wrath of her Moslem family by wedding an Algerian Christian instead of the older man.

Women — mostly living alone — head 45 percent of American households 65 and over. Married couples account for another 45 percent. Unattached men head only 10 percent of these older families.

Brock Brings Changes To Republican Party

By WALTER R. MEARS
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Somehow, Bill Brock didn't seem like the guy to shake up the Republican establishment. After all, he was part of it — solid, predictable, moderately conservative.

Just the type to run the Republican National Committee between presidential elections, while he looked for an opening to resume a political career stalled by Senate defeat.

So much for type casting. Brock is trying to change the style and the face of the party he leads. He's out talking, and listening, to people who haven't had much more than passing glances from the GOP in years.

He's been to the NAACP, to union meetings, he's had black activist Jesse Jackson address the national committee.

Air Mail Observes 60th Anniversary

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 60th anniversary of U.S. airmail was observed recently.

Gabriel Phillips of the Air Transport Association said that "what started as an abortive attempt to fly a few sacks of mail from Washington to New York has developed into the world's largest mail airlift, in which the nation's airlines now carry nine out of 10 intercity first class letters."

In May, 1918 the Post Office Department started transporting mail by air.

He's invested $750,000 in recruitment and campaign assistance for black GOP candidates. There will be more than 100 of them on state legislative ballots this year.

"Everybody talks about the black program," Brock said. "But we've got 20 women running for the legislature in Ohio alone."

He has been to organized labor with a simple message: the party is so small and so thin that nobody will have to wait in line to have an impact on its policies and candidates.

The national committee has bought commercials to sponsor a black public affairs program broadcast in 24 cities. It took advertisements in 23 Jewish newspapers to commemorate the 30th anniversary of Israel.

And while chairman Brock insists he hasn't changed his views much since he was Sen. Brock of Tennessee, his programs at party headquarters are evidence of a lesson learned the hard way.

After 14 years in Congress, six in the Senate, Brock looked like a safe bet for re-election in 1976. His name was starting to turn up in the future book on Republican presidential prospects.

That was before Democrat James R. Sasser upset him in Tennessee, gaining 93 percent of the black vote.

"We are here and we are serious," Brock told the NAACP 18 months later, saying that he hopes no party will ever again take black voters for granted, or write them off to the opposition.

Brock says that his programs don't represent an effort to change Republican philosophy, but rather, to use it effectively so as to create jobs and ease taxes with measures designed to encourage private enterprise and development.

So he urges a 33 percent tax cut over a three-year period, noting that there was a day when Republicans would have insisted on balancing the budget first, cutting taxes later. He boasts of Republican proposals for special tax incentives to create jobs; of rewards for employers who set up shop in the cities, where people are out of work.

But on those and other Republican offerings, there is one small problem: the GOP doesn't have a prayer of passing them. With one-third of the seats in the House and Senate, all they can do is make proposals and speeches.

Which leads Brock to an observation that comes close to political heresy. No politician is going to say that his party is better off without the White House.

But Brock does say that it doesn't do the Republican Party much good in the long run to elect a president every few terms and have him take the heat for things that go wrong when, in fact, he can't get much of anything through heavily Democratic congresses.

Brock claims progress for his effort to build the party from the bottom. The test will come in November, but he is not forecasting a dramatic resurgence of the crippled party. He looks for gains of perhaps 15 seats in the House, for an increased share of GOP seats in state legislatures, and for five or six governors.

He says the process of rebuilding will take time, probably a long time. But Brock seems to have that.

Not that he's forgotten the lure of elective politics. But there aren't any openings now. There will be, in elections for the Senate and for governor of Tennessee in 1982.

Either could be a comeback route. And if Brock regained elective office after laboring to rebuild the GOP, his detoured career would be back on track — in plenty of time for 1984 Republican presidential competition.

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: Have the clothes designers gone mad or am I crazy? When my husband looked at a recent fashion magazine, he burst out laughing and said if I ever dressed in the absurd fashions of today, he would send me to a shrink.

We would appreciate your personal opinion on the latest fashions.

CONNIE AND JOHNNY

Dear C. and J.: I agree with you! It's my view that the new clothes are designed for women with no breasts and no hips, who stand 6 feet tall and weight 105 pounds.

Furthermore, this year's styles are intentionally kooky in order to make milady's last year's clothes look completely outdated.

Me? I'm wearing what I think looks good on me — regardless of how old it is. And if I need something new, I'll have it made!

DEAR ABBY: As the mother of two small children, I cannot understand how anyone could leave their children for three days without leaving a number where they can be reached. Yet I know they do.

Abby, please inform your readers that whenever parents leave their children in the care of another, a signed document should also be left, which should read as follows:

To Whom It May Concern:

This authorizes _____ (baby-sitter) to give permission to any doctor, nurse or hospital to provide normal or emergency medical care as they deem necessary in the best interest of my child(ren) _____ (names and ages).

Sincerely,

Parent(s) and/or Legal Guardian(s)

Without such a document, many doctors, nurses and hospitals cannot provide medical care for these children.

Please publish this in your column; you may help to save some young lives!

MRS. C., HOT SPRINGS, ARK.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who is always looking for dirt in somebody else's house. The minute she walks in, she looks in the corners for a speck of dust that might have been overlooked. I have even seen her open closets, cupboards and drawers.

It's a habit. She looks behind the davenport, under rugs, and once I saw her look behind somebody's washing machine.

The minute she leaves, she says, "My, she's a terrible housekeeper." Or, "Not a trace of dirt — she must have just cleaned."

What is the matter with a person like that?

CURIOUS IN LINCOLN PARK

Dear Curious: People who are constantly searching for flaws, imperfections and signs of "dirt" around others, do so in order to avoid seeing their own. Pray for them.

Do you wish you had more friends? For the secret of popularity, get Abby's new booklet: "How To Be Popular: You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (30 cents) envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

YOGURT OKRA

1/2 pint plain yogurt
1/4 tsp. ground ginger
1/2 tsp. ground coriander
1/4-1/2 tsp. cayenne pepper
1-pound can cut okra, well-drained
1/2 cup minced sweet onion
1/2 cup loosely packed shredded canned coconut.

Stir together the yogurt, ginger, coriander and cayenne. Add the okra, onion and coconut; mix well. May be served at once or chilled. If, after refrigerator storage, a little liquid comes to the top, stir before serving. This is a spicy relish. Makes 2 1/3 cups.

Consumers Seeking More Information

DALLAS (UPI) — Consumers participating in a family food study put eating well for less money at the top of a list of 10 main subjects on which they wanted more information.

The vote was 51 percent among the 1,188 persons questioned for a major magazine's survey by Yankelovich, Skelly and White, Inc. of New York City.

Details were released at the 41st annual convention of the Food Marketing Institute. FMI membership includes retailers, wholesalers, manufacturers and related businesses in North America and abroad.

The other nine were, in order: Avoiding foods with harmful ingredients; planning balanced meals; more information on additives and preservatives; ideas for healthful snacks; recipes for healthful desserts; weight control; product safety; energy-saving tips for cooking and cleaning up; special diets for health problems; recipes showing nutrient content; and vitamins.

Plant Outlook 'Colorful'

MILWAUKEE (AP) — At a plant which manufactures buried cable closures for the telecommunications and power industries, the outlook is bright.

What may sound like a financial forecast actually is a description of the interior of the plant here. Gone is the institutional gray of heavy presses. In its place are "gogo gold" and "honey yellow." A hydraulic press is amber here and beige there. Heavy shears range from royal blue to scarlet.

A new employee is permitted to select his or her favorite hue and the machinery is repainted.

"Don't forget, our workers spend most of their waking lives in this plant," said Kenneth Huff, company president. "We try to stress the fact they are not computerized clock numbers to us."

The 30-year-old company employs about 300 workers here.

FOR FINE REEL MOWERS, AND MORE — Sid Chance, right, and Denzil Flood at Chance's Lawn & Leisure display and services make Chance's especially appreciated during the summer season.

Chance's Scores With Newest Sale, Lease Items, Services

Lawn and garden demands, now and for weeks ahead, call for added attention...and work Right? The right tools and equipment can make a big difference in enjoyment of the situation.

So...turn to Chance's Lawn & Leisure, 3604 50th St., a firm that stocks just as the name implies, affording sale and lease merchandise for outdoor activities.

The current stock there is especially complete, with quality merchandise at economical prices.

A very good selection of new lawn mowers is on the showroom floor.

Trimmer mowers ("which we consider the very finest reel mower") are stocked in both homeowner and commercial sizes, equipped with either Briggs & Stratton or Honda motors.

Rear-bagger Snapper mowers, push, self propelled and some with electric starters are stocked.

Also Toro, in side or rear bag; the Lawn Boy rear or side bag; and Jacobsen riding mowers, too.

Also there are the Yazoo heavy duty commercial mowers.

John Deere comes out with a new rear-bag, self propelled model that will be available soon; and other John Deere models are in stock now.

Then there is the "best homeowner or commercial gasoline edger", the Power Trim models, stocked at Chance's.

A full line of the gas and electric Weed eaters is stocked at special low prices. Toro and Spin Trim nylon weed cutters are also stocked and recommended.

Sprinkler Needs

Select, also from Nipak or Ferti Lome fertilizers, replacement parts for mowers, garden hose, even sprinklers. Chance's stocks the Rain Bird do-it-yourself sprinkler equipment for underground installation, even making available a rental ditcher.

A full line of Suhl, John Deere and Homelite chain saws is stocked, with the firm offering service as well as sales.

Chain saw sharpening is expertly done. Limited supply of John Deere bicycles presently is on hand, and one should select early.

Good, used, reconditioned equipment is available at economy prices, including mowers, edgers, and some tillers formerly used as rental units.

In the rental segment of the firm, one can secure just about anything, it seems.

There are auto repair tools, small hand and electric tools for the handyman and builder, floor care equipment, cement working equipment, lawn and garden tools, plumbing and even woodworking equipment.

Dollies and other moving accessories; Camping Needs

And now a new line of camping equipment for rent, including stoves, lanterns, sleeping bags, tents, catalytic heaters and more. What a benefit for the camper.

Chance's Lawn & Leisure maintains a large repair department, and early attention to mower and other needs is advised as there no doubt will be a big rush as the season progresses.

Hair Jammer, In Southwest Lubbock, Arranges 20 Per Cent Saving Offer

For a limited time, one can bring in the Hair Jammer ad on these pages to the popular Hair Jammer, 5601 Aberdeen, and receive 20 per cent discount on any service there!

(This includes any permanent, for boys and girls, men and women, too.)

Some people may not have realized the expert unisex hair cutting in which the Hair Jammer specializes.

Others may not have realized that they are served at the Hair Jammer by a highly trained staff under direction of Roger Thompson, long appreciated on the Lubbock beauty and hairstyling scene.

And some may have recognized all this but just couldn't find the Hair Jammer!

The Hair Jammer, offering complete beauty service, is located at 5601 Aberdeen, phone 793-3134. This location means that the Hair Jammer is just north of South Plains Mall, one block west of Slide Road. It is really easy to find and easy to reach, once one realizes that it fronts Aberdeen, and where Aberdeen is located! There is lots of off-street parking, and everything is arranged for the customer's convenience.

The Hair Jammer opened late last year under co-ownership and management of Roger Thompson.

Roger is known by many through his former ownership of the Mademoiselle Hair Fashions in Briercroft Center, his former staff capacity with Jessie Lee's, and through his present service on the state board for the Texas Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association.

He emphasizes that a hand-picked staff is on duty at the Hair Jammer, with all trained extensively in Dallas by the Hair Jammer organization specialists before assuming their duties. Also Hair Jammer authorities periodically visit the Lubbock facility to bring the staff up to date on newest trends, etc.

Mothers, dads, brothers, sisters, kids and all are invited to the Hair Jammer where finest haircutting and all beauty services are available.

Thompson points out the precision cutting and really economical prices as two of the key advantages one can expect at the Hair Jammer, where no appointment is necessary.

Long Hours

Hours are from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m., Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, with longer 9 to 9 hours on Tuesday and Thursday, and Saturday hours of 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Visa and Master Charge are honored.

For coloring, perms, styling and all that goes with complete beauty service, Hair Jammer is said by many to be well ahead of the field. Won't you come in and find out for yourself? Roger Thompson and staff would consider it an honor.

House Of Shades & Lamp Repair Aids New Look For Any Room, Any Season

New lamps and/or shades can do a lot for brightening the home for spring and summer, so why delay?

A visit to the House of Shades and Lamp Repair, 2710 50th St., can be the convenient solution.

Even for those familiar with the House of Shades and Lamp Repair, a visit there at this time will reveal added services, newest shades and a full staff to afford every customer consideration.

Unique lamps of distinction, quality lamp shades, replacement lamp parts and glass, expert lamp repair, custom building, re-wiring, re-design and re-finish (to make your lamp a shade better) in essence comprise the business scope of this better lamp house.

Some months ago the House of Shades and Lamp Repair made giant strides, doubling its floor space, as example, to better serve. Consequently, more merchandise was stocked and more convenient display was enabled.

From an outsider's viewpoint, it is noted that actually the expansion in physical facilities was simply another step in many progressive moves at this popular Lubbock firm.

"Come on out and let us personally thank you for your trade and confidence that has made our steady growth possible."

Even at its beginning, this Lubbock firm recognized the needs in its field, and stocked and served accordingly. Since that date, even more has been learned of customer preferences, and consequent growth and expansion has followed. Yes, the House of Shades and Lamp Repair is here to stay!

Owners Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Houchin report that continually they are able to get more and better stock.

The House of Shades has complete facilities for lamp wiring, repair and re-building. One's favorite antique, bottle or vase can be professionally converted to a lamp to specifications. "We'll make a lamp out of any old thing!"

Mr. and Mrs. Houchin point out: Shades, though a most important part of any decor, do get soiled and worn. A new shade or repairs on present ones present the solution.

"Now, when we say 'lamp shades', we are not talking about only the conventional hardback or stretched shade as many people might think. There are glass shades in many sizes and colors, ball shades, small shades for chandeliers, wooden, silk, metal shades, etc. We have them all."

Special pride is taken in custom shades and in custom lamp building.

"Simply bring us your idea and we will do the rest."

SKIL POWER TOOLS GREAT FOR DAD — Benito Romo of Maxey Home Improvement Center is shown with a special SKIL Father's Day.

'Affordable And Right' Father's Day Gift Items Pinpointed At Maxey Firm

For Father's Day gift selection, the smart thing to do is buy at the source that dad depends upon...at Maxey Home Improvement Center, 120 N. University Ave., phone 765-7736.

Selection there comes especially advantageous now, with a special sale underway on Skil power tools...always a great gift.

Skil Sale Prices

There are circular saws (7 1/4-in.) at $49.85; variable-speed 3/8 in. drills at just $19.99; orbital sanders at $16.99; and jig saws at $16.99...all by Skil and all a definite value.

Or maybe a beautiful, functional storm door would be the "different" gift father would enjoy.

Or a gift certificate.

Or the safety and convenience of a Genie automatic garage door opener.

Genie Features Pinpointed

In selection of Genie, by Alliance, one can be assured of such features as latest in residential design, popular price and incorporation of many features of more expensive units.

With Genie, you just touch the button on your portable transmitter, and Genie opens the door, turns on the light and lets you drive right in. An exclusive new light option switch allows you to choose whether the light stays on for two minutes 16 seconds and then automatically turns off after the door is opened or closed, or remains on as long as the door is open.

The AT 55 transmitter has a personal code card inside to lock in the secret signal.

For any building and hardware need, chances are that one-stop shopping at Maxey Home Improvement Center and the Maxey Lumber firm on the 100-block N. University Ave. will meet the need... in selection, quality, service and economy.

Maxey makes special effort to stock the "hard to find" but needed items, with full attention of particular needs of the season.

"Are you having trouble with CB units or other signals operating your garage door?"

"If so, a wise suggestion is to contact Maxey Home Improvement Center, 120 N. University Ave., phone 765-7736, and find out how conversion can be made at a nominal fee... ending this irksome problem. It is just that simple."

Many other items and services from this Lubbock firm can be of equal benefit.

Skylights

"Did you realize that skylights are stocked, in both single and double dome, in white or bronze, for residential or commercial use?"

"Maxey Home Improvement Center, 120 N. University Ave., wants you to have the very best at a price you can afford!"

Hence, the firm not only "holds the line" on prices throughout its stock, but it arranges specials whenever possible, such as those now in effect to greatly aid in most every home improvement endeavor.

Look at some of the items that likely are coming in on a special consideration at this time:

Check the large selection of Amerock cabinet hardware.

And Skil and Black & Decker power tools.

Plus, a tremendous selection of lighting fixtures, plumbing and electric supplies, and just about anything in the building line.

Maxey Home Improvement Center is glad to help one locate the hard-to-find items, getting them or telling where they may be found.

The center is open every week day, from 8 a.m. until 5:30 p.m., Mondays through Fridays, and until 5 p.m. Saturdays.

Beautiful Facility, Handpicked Staff Excelling At Elisabeth's

Elisabeth's Swedish Hair Design is outstanding!

Even upon first visit and first impression there, the message comes through that here is a salon that is "different."

Located at 4630 50th St., Suite 106, phone 792-4688, Elisabeth's actually is one of the prettier salons one will see.

Add to this the expertise of the experienced staff, and the modern beauty services offered, and one readily sees why patronizing this southwest Lubbock salon can become an anticipated habit.

Opened two years ago by Elisabeth Pyron, a Jessie Lee graduate who later served as stylist at the Jessie Lee Salon, the shop has met with remarkable acceptance.

Seven operators comprise the staff, and all have attended Jessie Lee's, with six graduating there, and the other graduating in Germany.

Staff To Appreciate

Meet this handpicked group:

There is Pat Durham who is exceptionally good at manicures and the new Superior nail extension — the new method and with no damage to the nails;

Angel Smallwood is from Germany, and worked there for seven years before her tenure here;

And Anita Shearer, Tina Ramirez, Gay Sperry, Theresa Cox and owner Elisabeth Pyron.

Light and airy, many customers term Elisabeth's "the most beautiful shop in town."

Elisabeth's is open Monday through Saturday.

Facials

Complete facials are a specialty of Angel Smallwood who draws upon her European training to render a really superior service. A quiet, relaxing separate room is provided for the facials.

A complete line of make-up is stocked for retail sale, with the same line utilized in the salon's services.

Many of the staff are exceptionally good with fine hair.

Both men and women are welcomed.

"For a really exhilarating experience, for modern hair care by skilled, proven staffmembers, for all the best in beauty services, make acquaintance of Elisabeth's Swedish Hair Design at earliest convenience. You'll be glad you did."

Gemini Carpets Utilizes Huge Multi-Store Buying Advantage

"Gemini Carpets proves that it wants and deserves your business and confidence!"

Opened early this year at 2541 34th St., Gemini Carpets is West Texas owned and is managed by Travis Castleberry, long on the Lubbock carpet scene.

As one of the eight Gemini stores in West Texas, a tremendous buying power is thus afforded, and these savings consequently are passed on to you, the Gemini customer.

Specials On Drapes, Spreads
Example of some of these savings: Throughout June, as a special way of saying, "We appreciate you," a whopping 20 per cent off is arranged on all custom draperies and bedspreads.

And there are carpet values including a special selection of kitchen prints at only $3.99 per yard (installation not included). Also, Galaxy Sunshowers sculptured shag, in good selection of colors, at $4.99, not installed.

And patio grass at $3.99.

Decorating Service
Gemini offers a complete home decorating service, including carpets, vinyl flooring, formica counter tops, ceramic tile, wall covering, laminated shades and mini-blinds.

Both residential and commercial business is welcomed.

An interior decorator is on the staff and her very qualified services at no cost or obligation, with only charge being for materials and installation.

Estimates are free, of course.

On the staff are Castleberry, his wife, Velton; Harry Dietz, sales, and Darla Loving, decorator; together with installers.

Gemini Carpets, at 2541 34th St., phone 793-5014, is open from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m., Mondays through Saturdays. Visa and Master Charge purchases are welcomed.

Longtime Lubbock residents and with some 15 years carpeting experience, Travis and Velton Castleberry are understandably enthused about the type store and service provided at Gemini. A lot of customers will agree... that this is a carpet store worth special consideration. Value, selection, service and low pricing, with a genuine consideration of the customer, combine to make a really good store.

"May we have the pleasure of your visit and inspection of Gemini Carpets?"

AT GEMINI CARPETS — Velton Castleberry and Darla Loving, the latter specializing in home decorating, are shown with a small segment of the quality carpet selection at the Gemini Carpet firm, 2541 34th St., where Travis Castleberry is managing. Note June specials outlined in the accompanying story.

Newest Units, Pickup Toppers Among Vacation Items From Davis R.V. Firm

"The outdoor season can start right, and continue right, with the very able assistance of Davis R.V. Service Center!"

Together with the several prestigious lines of recreational vehicles already stocked by Davis, announcement now is made that Custom Craft pickup shells, or toppers, are stocked and installed by Davis.

Custom Craft toppers are one-piece molded fiberglass, insulated, with multi-colored interior, with fiberglass encased mounting rails, interior light, double spring-loaded door props, tinted slider safety glass side windows, and locking rear door, available in white and 22 other colors to match one's truck!

"Custom Craft has been America's standard of quality since 1961 and is now stocked at Davis R.V. Service Center, 220 Paris, near downtown Lubbock.

Not only does Davis bring quality lines to Lubbock, but the firm is quite strong on service, and this can be a big assist in preparing one's RV unit for summer vacationing. But don't delay!

To help one get started right, Davis also has a very large accessory stock to make travel more convenient, enjoyable and economical.

Wilderness Units
Be sure and see the Wilderness line, produced by Fleetwood Enterprises, the world's largest manufacturer of recreational vehicles. The emphasis is on continued improvement, with refinements for vacation pleasure including fully-lined wardrobes, fully-finished overhead cabinets, combo 12v/110v light fixtures, privacy curtain, city water fill, etc.

Jamboree
Also everyone here is excited about the 1978 Jamboree mini-home with a floor plan one will "fall in love with", and with built-in quality that is most evident.

"We invite you to compare all the standard features of the '78 Jamboree Rallye."

Prestigious Avion
And look at this: the Avion mini-home, "the shape of things to come!" From its aerodynamic styling, aircraft construction to its extended range cruise system, interior beauty and function, to gorgeous exterior, Avion is in a class by itself.

Davis is Avion travel trailer dealer for 16 area counties and stocks accordingly. For a new experience in travel trailer value and enjoyment, see units from the line at Davis R.V. Service Center now.

Golden Falcon
Or maybe the pursuit of happiness calls for a Golden Falcon travel trailer.

In any event, Davis stocks all these great lines for one's selection and enjoyment for seasons to come.

The Davis firm (located east from Avenue Q and the Clovis-Amarillo "Y") stocks and presents exceptional values in every department.

Service is a big asset there, and now is an ideal time for many to have their recreational vehicle units checked before the rush sure to come within just a few days.

Storage is available, too.

Aside from the R.V. units, Davis stocks the needed accessories that make for vacation and trip comfort and convenience.

"See us for your needs in camper and trailer jacks (hydraulic, tongue, stabilizer and stack types); for air conditioners by Frigiking... and for awnings by A & E Systems."

"From the moment it is installed, an A & E awning becomes a beautiful and functional extension of your R.V., ready to provide shade and shelter wherever you go! Select a size to meet your specific need."

Equalizer hitches are stocked and installed. Installation also is available on air conditioners and awnings.

The Davis firm services any make or brand of recreational vehicle, and it is wisely suggested that the units be kept in top condition for ready use as vacation and trip opportunities avail themselves.

"Come by and learn the absolute truth... that Davis R.V. Service Center has everything for the person who appreciates the out-of-doors... everything for the recreational vehicle owner."

"Meet owners-operators Mr. and Mrs. Boots Davis and Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Davis and profit accordingly. They opened the center back in mid-1973 and have consistently given their personal attention to every sale and service."

This personalized type of service has gained a wide and favorable reputation for the Davis R.V. Service Center.

Woolco Men's Wear Department Spells Out 'Appreciated Gifts'

"We are stocked and ready to serve the needs for dad...for a very special Father's Day...and all at Woolco's special advantageous pricing."
"Woolco always presents the finest quality at low Woolco discount price, but this year for Father's Day, we are featuring many special reductions that are way below discount price!"

Among the features are those dressy items for the businessman dad, such as vested suits, slacks, sport coats, dress shirts, ties, etc.
For the fun-loving casual dad, we at Woolco have those warm-up suits, tank tops, jogging shorts, novelty tee shirts, walk shorts, cut-offs, sport shirts and any other attire required and desired for casual wear.

"Woolco is going to make Father's Day great for dad...and easy on you!"

Diamond Rings, Pen Sets, Choices In Watches Ease Father's Day Selection

Woolco's fine Jewelry Department offers a complete merchandise assortment including gift items ideal for Father's Day.

Diamond Values
"One such suggested item is a diamond ring. Woolco diamond rings are great values because they come directly from the manufacturer to Woolco where a low mark-up policy assures you, our customer, the best possible buy."
A diamond is a gift of love; the quality never diminishes; it is a gift for all time.

Free Engraving
"We also carry a full line of personalized jewelry, and the engraving is free."
Cross pen sets are available in the jewelry area, and these make excellent gifts, especially when personalized.
Popular Watches
The Woolco watch selection not only includes the popular LED and LCD digital watches, but also 17-jewel selections by Waltham and Elgin. (And of course we feature the ever-popular Timex watches.)

Bullets' Forwards Blow Out Seattle

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — To veteran Bobby Dandridge and rookie Greg Ballard, it was just a last-minute offensive change for Washington. To Seattle, it spelled disaster.

E Sports
Lubbock Avalanche-Journal
Monday, June 5, 1978

Using three forwards and at times a four-forward offense, the Bullets blew out the Seattle SuperSonics 117-82 Sunday to tie the National Basketball Association Championship series at three games each.

The final game of the 1977-78 season will be played Wednesday night in the Seattle Coliseum, where the Sonics have won 22 in a row.

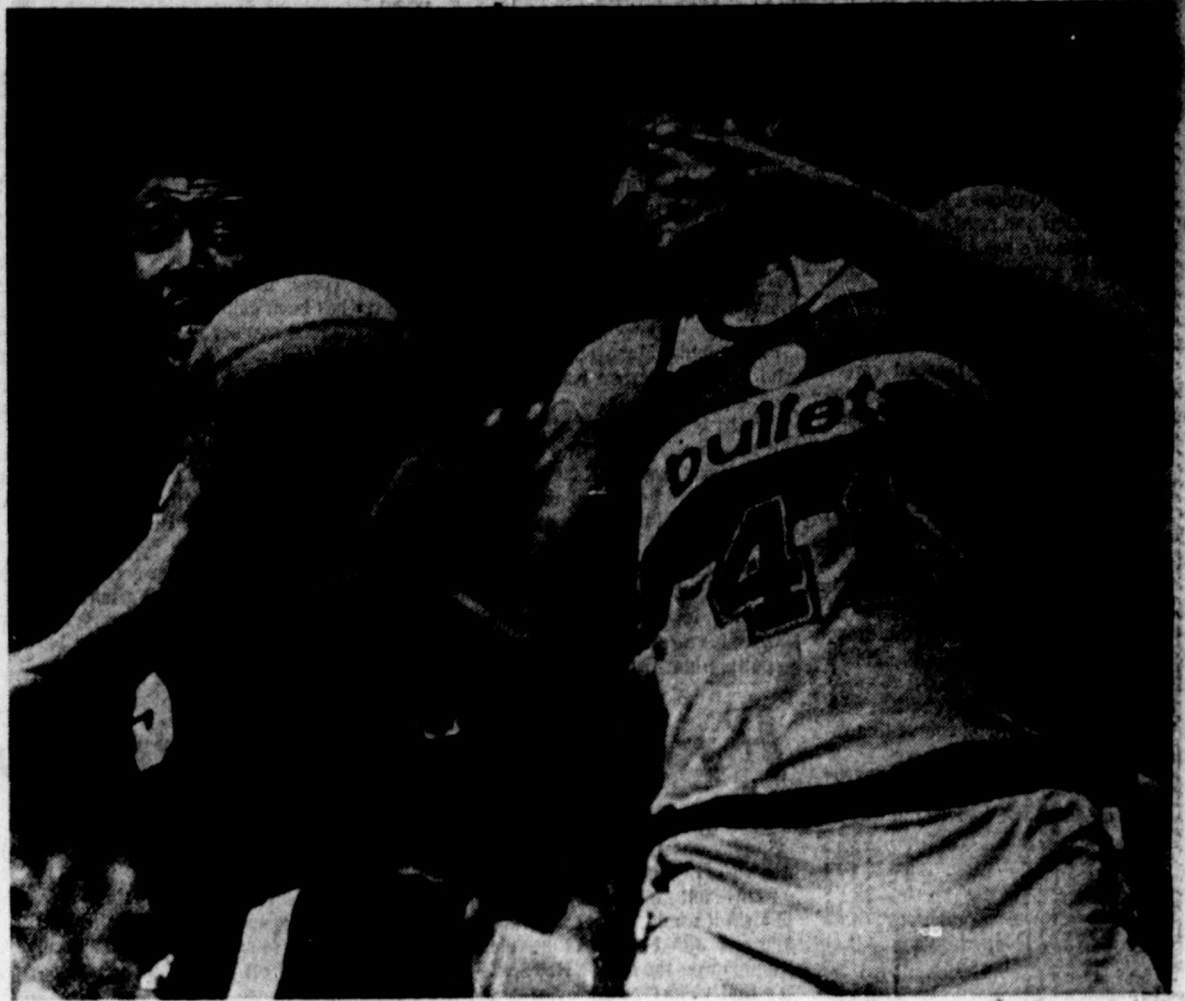

Guard Kevin Grevey unknowingly injured the wrist of his shooting arm in Game 5 Friday and it stiffened on the plane ride home from Seattle. Suffering, he finally went into the hospital late Saturday night, but Coach Dick Motta, who did not fly with his team, didn't learn about the injury until about 9:30 a.m. Sunday.

"It looked like we would have to scratch him (Grevey) because it swelled up and was bothering him," said Motta after the game. "Luckily, I had discussed it with Bobby, the idea of using him at guard previously, because Dennis Johnson (Seattle guard and high-scorer) is so tall."

However, Grevey started and tried to play but was replaced after six minutes by guard Charley Johnson with the Bullets down 11-7. In the second quarter, Motta replaced Johnson with rookie Ballard.

The lineup change put forward Dandridge at the guard slot with Tom Henderson and Ballard along the front line with two veterans, forward Elvin Hayes and center Wes Unseld. In the second half, Mitch Kupchak, normally a forward who sometimes plays at center, replaced

Willie Wilkins, who was injured in a game Sunday in Landover, Md. The Bullets won 117-82 to force

UP FOR GRABS — Washington Bullets Wes Unseld eyes a loose ball along with Seattle SuperSonics Paul Silas during action Sunday in Landover, Md. The Bullets won 117-82 to force a seventh and final game—which will be Wednesday night in Seattle's Coliseum—in the NBA championship series. (AP Laserphoto)

Vacation Time

JUNE IS BUSTIN' OUT all over, like the song says, and Dallas Cowboy coaches, scouts and players have fled to their favorite vacation spots to fortify their bodies and souls for the rugged ordeal ahead. Summer training camp at Thousand Oaks, Calif., is only five weeks away, believe it or not!

Sunday afternoon, Vice President Gil Brandt was the only person around the Cowboys' headquarters on North Central Expressway. And a visitor had to be faster than Wyatt Earp to corner Gil before he escaped to the golf course to practice for his debut in the college coaches' tournament scheduled today in Big D.

"Hey, did you know that I'm going to play in a group with Rex Dockery and Bo Schembechler?" Gil chortled.

"No," I retorted. "But it ain't exactly been a headline story around the nation. Since Rex isn't supposed to play as well as Steve Sloan, and Bo has had a heart attack, I guess you have a chance to steal the show?"

"Naw," Gil replied, indignantly. "These guys are my friends. Besides, you know I don't play often enough to shoot a decent score."

"You and (Coach Tom) Landry still are members at Royal Oaks Country Club, aren't you?" I probed.

"Yeah, but I get to play so seldom that the parking attendant puts my car in the visitors' section."

"What are you shooting these days. And don't try to snow me!"

"Plenty," Gil confessed.

I think he was telling the truth.

MANY OF THE COWBOY players are taking this final opportunity for a vacation before facing the twice-a-day torture at Thousand Oaks. Some are visiting relatives, others are lolling on the beaches and a few are in the mountain country.

Wide receiver Golden Richards and his wife, Barbara, are combining the best of all possible worlds with a trip home to Salt Lake City. Both still have family and friends there, and it is just a short drive to the mountain meadows.

Golden was off in the high country Sunday, trying to catch some rainbow trout, while Barbara was taking it easy with her family and enjoying the change of scenery.

"We only arrived Thursday," she revealed, "and we can only stay a few more days. I wish we could have a longer visit, but Golden doesn't want to miss too much of the off-season conditioning program at Dallas. He's in great shape, although he is about 10 pounds heavier than he was after last season."

"I wish he could stay this size, but all the hard work in camp just melts it off him."

Barbara, who attended the University of Utah while Golden was a football hero at Brigham Young, is a winter sports fan. She loves to ski and — like Golden — hopes to do a lot more of it when his pro grid career is over. The Cowboys frown on their players breaking legs on the ski slopes.

"We both hope to move back to Utah some day," Barbara admitted.

Meanwhile, Golden has to settle for Super Bowl rings and trout fishing in June.

ODDS AND ENDS — Cowboy players hint that Harvey Martin, the All-Pro defensive end, soon will sign a long-term contract with the Pokes. Harvey is back near his normal size again, after dental work required that his jaws be wired together and drastically reduced his food intake.

Jethro Pugh is working out and looking good, so he apparently will try it one more year. That is not good news to his substitutes, Bill Gregory and Larry Cole, who would like more playing time. Ace rookie Larry Bethea fits in there somewhere, too.

Landry, who allegedly injured his back on a ski trip to Colorado right after the last Super Bowl, is heading for the lake country near Austin for a brief holiday. It should be safer than the Rockies, unless he rocks the boat.

Landry insists that the story of his ski disaster is false, however.

"I hurt my back before I left Dallas," Landry declared recently before a skeptical group of newsmen. "But I didn't realize it was hurt until I was skiing. Those stories about me skiing into a tree at Vail are not correct!"

Sure, coach. We believe you.

MHS Draws CC Moody

AUSTIN (Special) — Monterey will continue its quest for a Class AAAA state championship against Corpus Christi Moody in the semifinal round of the state tournament Thursday night at 9 p.m.

The Plainsmen (32-5) and Moody (29-5) will follow the first Class AAAA semifinal between Duncanville (34-4) and Houston Bellaire (36-8) at 7 p.m.

Winners advance to Friday night's 9 p.m. finals.

In Class AAA, Mount Pleasant (24-4) and Brazosport (27-6) begin the tournament at 1 p.m. Thursday. Jasper (29-6) and Burkburnett (20-10) follow at 3 p.m. Winners will play at 7 p.m. Friday for the state title.

All games will be held at Ditch-Falk Field on the UT campus in Austin.

Oldtimers Kaat, Perry Continue To Win

By The Associated Press
Jim Kaat and Gaylord Perry continue to win games left and right.

Two of baseball's most honored senior citizens, both closing in on their 40th birthdays, added luster to their glowing career totals with strong pitching performances Sunday.

The left-handed Kaat reached career victory No. 255, tops in the major leagues for active pitchers, as the Philadelphia Phillies beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 9-4.

Perry, the second-ranking active pitcher, collected victory No. 250 as the San Diego Padres defeated the New York Mets 5-2.

"Lefty Grove was 40 and still winning," said Dodgers Manager Tom Lasorda. "It isn't how old you are. It's how you throw. Kaat pitched a heck of a ballgame. He's a great conditioned pitcher."

Kaat got into his present condition with a winter physical training course that included weight lifting. It put a couple of muscles on his frame and some zip to his pitches.

"I think it has given me added strength," said Kaat. "But you'll have to ask the hitters. I think my fastball is livelier."

Philadelphia Manager Danny Ozark, who wanted to trade Kaat earlier this year, is glad he didn't.

"He has been the most effective so far this season of anybody who ever pitched for me," said Ozark of Kaat who has a 2-0 record in 1978 but could have been 6-0 with any kind of hitting support.

Perry, a slim right-hander who like Kaat has had success in both the American and National leagues, not only hit a milestone level in victories, but also boosted his career strikeout total to 2,897 — putting him within shooting range of the coveted 3,000 level.

"Perry is a great competitor," said New York Manager Joe Torre. "I admire him."

But Torre, like others, believes that Perry has been gaining his success in an underhanded manner — by virtue of the illegal spitball.

"He still throws the spitter," said Torre. "It's been so long now it doesn't mean much. Everyone knows it."

Perry denies the allegation, of course. "I might teach that to another pitcher, so he could use it in a softball game when he retires," Perry said. "But it is illegal, so I wouldn't throw it."

Greg Luzinski drove in two runs in a five-run, second-inning bat-around to ease Kaat's victory. The Dodgers had scored two runs off Kaat in the first before Philadelphia broke the game open by chasing Dodger left-hander Tommy John in the second inning.

Derrel Thomas and Bill Almon drove in two runs apiece to help Perry post his 250th victory. Perry scattered six hits, striking out five and walking two before needing relief help in the eighth from Bob Shirley and Rollie Fingers, who gained his 13th save. The victory improved Perry's record this year to 4-2.

San Diego's rally in the sixth came against Jerry Kosman. Thomas had a two-run single in the rally and Almon's double produced two more runs.

Giants 3, Expos 2
 Vic Harris led off the 10th inning with a home run off reliever Mike Garmon to power San Francisco over Montreal. Randy Moffitt earned his fifth victory in six decisions in relief of San Francisco starter Bob Knepper.

The Giants had taken a 2-0 lead before the Expos tied it with runs in the eighth and ninth.

Pirates 4, Reds 1
 Bert Blyleven combined with Grant Jackson for a four-hitter and John Milner had four singles and two RBIs to lead Pittsburgh past Cincinnati. Blyleven, making his first career start against the Reds, had a perfect game until the sixth and needed relief help from Jackson in the seventh.

The Pirates gave Blyleven a 3-0 lead with two runs in the second and another in the third, chasing Paul Moskau. Milner had an RBI single in each inning.

Cardinals 4, Astros 2
 Rookie Silvio Martinez won his second straight major league game to lead St. Louis over Houston. Martinez, who fashioned a one-hit victory over the New York Mets last week, yielded a run-scoring single to Reggie Baldwin in the second and a sacrifice fly by Enos Cabell in the seventh, when he needed relief help from Buddy Shultz.

Cubs 6, Braves 4
 Heidy Cruz smashed three hits and drove in two runs to lead Chicago over Atlanta. The Cubs took a 3-0 lead in the first on Larry Bittner's sacrifice fly and Cruz's two-run double.

Gary Matthews hit his seventh homer in the Atlanta second, but the Cubs came back in the bottom half of the inning with a run on a walk, a sacrifice and a run-scoring single by Gene Clines.

The Cubs scored their winning runs in the fourth on a walk, a run-scoring double by Larry Cox and an RBI single by Ivan DeJesus.

Fregosi, Stein, Davis Enjoy 'Firsts'

By The Associated Press
 Sunday was a day for sweet firsts in the American League.

"This felt 15 times better than I thought it would," said California Angels manager Jim Fregosi of his club's 4-2 triumph over the Boston Red Sox. Fregosi's first victory at the helm of the Angels.

"I felt great. Today I was challenging hitters, which is good," said Milwaukee's Randy Stein, who got his first major league victory in the Brewers' 12-opening game triumph over Cleveland.

"A home run, period, is a big deal for me because I'm a line drive hitter. But a grand slam ... I was so excited I jumped when I got to first base," noted Dick Davis, whose first major league base-loaded homer was the key hit in Milwaukee's first-game win.

"I hadn't really been doing anything wrong at the plate but I had been pressing," said Lenn Sakata, who got his first hit since April 29 in the Brewers' 9-4 nightcap triumph.

The Angels' victory snapped the team's seven-game losing streak. But the Red Sox managed to snap a jinx of their own, finally scoring off Frank Tanana at Anaheim Stadium.

"I don't know what it is. I can't explain it," said Tanana, 9-2, who surrendered two unearned runs to Boston in the ninth inning before getting last-out relief help from Dave LaRoche. Tanana, the AL's first nine game-winner, is 4-0 at home against the Red Sox and hasn't surrendered an earned run to the slugging Bostonians in 43 innings there. "Maybe it's having good stuff on the day you pitch against them here.

"The secret against the Red Sox is to keep changing speeds. Like most powerful teams, they are fastball hitters."

"I thought I had a laughing going and it didn't turn out to be one," said Fregosi, who saw the Angels move ahead 4-0, largely on the strength of homers by Ron Jackson and Ken Landreaux. "This first one is the toughest and most exciting thing that has ever happened to me."

Brewers 12-9, Indians 4-1
 Stein, Davis and Sakata were an excited bunch of Brewers after contributing mightily to the Milwaukee sweep of the Indians.

"The only problem I've ever had is trying to be too fine," said Stein, who went 4-2-3 in relief for the victory. "I'm better off trying to throw it right down the middle, because my ball moves a lot and is likely to tail off to the corners."

For Davis, the grand slam wasn't his biggest thrill.

"Making the ball club this spring was," he said. "But this is close."

And Sakata, who didn't come close to a hit in 27 straight at-bats, said he was "relieved. But I was surprised George (Barnberger, the Milwaukee manager) started me in the second game."

Other second-game stars for Milwaukee were Sixto Lezcano, with a three-run homer, Paul Molitor with a two-run shot and Sal Bando with a solo job.

A's 6, Yankees 4
 Miguel Dilone's first major league homer and Gary Thomsom's round-tripper helped Oakland hand the defending World Champion Yankees their fifth loss in six games.

Mitchell Page broke a 3-3 tie with a two-run double off New York relief ace Sparky Lyle in the fifth.

Reggie Jackson and Chris Chambliss homered for the Yankees.

"Maybe this will make believers of people," said Page of the first-place A's.

"They're a good club. I know they're better than last year and I know they played better than we this weekend," said Dick Johnson of his former team.

Don Gullett allowed two runs and retired only one batter in his first appearance of the season but said later, "My arm feels great. I was just over-forcing the ball. The physical part is the only good thing about the whole game."

Orioles 4, Mariners 1
 Mike Flanagan's seventh complete game of the season and Ken Singleton's four RBIs, including a two-run homer, lifted the Orioles to their fifth victory in a row.

Bill Plummer homered for Seattle, which lost its seventh consecutive game.

Royals 13, White Sox 2
 Kansas City remained a game behind Oakland in the AL West as Darrell Porter sparked an 18-hit attack with five hits, including a pair of triples and a double.

John Wathan and Al Cowens knocked in three runs each as the White Sox' seven-game victory streak ended.

Rangers 9, Blue Jays 5
 Al Oliver drove in four runs with a single and a double and Texas jumped to a 6-0 lead after two innings in support of Dock Ellis. 4-2.

Rick Bosetti and John Mayberry homered for the Blue Jays, who saw starter Dave Lemaczky drop to 1-9.

Tigers 6, Twins 4
 Steve Kemp's third homer of the season and three unearned runs were enough to vault the Tigers past Minnesota, despite two home runs by Glenn Adams and one by Rod Carew.

Southern Cal Pitchers Primed For ASU Battle

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Top-ranked Southern California, with a well-rested pitching staff, is primed for a showdown in the College World Series against Arizona State, the defending champion that had to battle for its life against upstart Oral Roberts.

The powerful Trojans blasted Miami 9-3 and Michigan 11-3 en route to Tuesday's game against Arizona State, which hammered St. John's 13-2 in its opening game but only trimmed Oral Roberts 7-6 in a slugfest Sunday night. The loser of the Tuesday game drops into the loser's bracket in the double-elimination tourney.

"It's beautiful having all these pitchers rested for Arizona State," USC Coach Rod Dedeaux said after his team's victory over Michigan Sunday. "It's a good feeling."

The Sun Devils, rated right behind Southern Cal, matched grand slams with Oral Roberts and had to withstand a furious ninth-inning challenge to remain undefeated in the tournament.

"Give all the credit to Mitch Dean," said Bob Horner, a potential No. 1 draft pick who blasted a fourth-inning grand slam that helped bring the Sun Devils back from a 5-0 deficit.

ASU Coach Jim Brock called Dean's first inning "a nightmare."

Dean, 8-3, gave up a three walks, a single and a grand slam, a 400-foot blast by Oral Roberts' Bill Springfield, in the first inning. But he settled down and held the Titans scoreless the next seven innings.

In the top of the ninth, Springfield and Gary D'Onofrio hit back-to-back doubles, cutting USC's lead to 7-6 with no outs.

But reliever Ken Jones ended the rally — and the game — by sending two Titans down on fly balls and striking out Oral Roberts' leading hitter, Buddy Slemmon.

Horner's grand slam was the first of his college career although he is the all-time NCAA home run king.

"When the ball went out of the park, the panic left," Brock said. "It is really an honor to be here," he said. "We will be back."

St. John's, which had upset a strong Temple team to gain a CWS berth, couldn't "put three good weekends together," said Coach Joe Russo. "We're a young ball club, only losing five seniors this year. We hope we can return."

Dedeaux pulled his ace, Rod Boxberger, after the first inning to save him for later in the tournament. Ernie Mauritsen went four innings to pick up his 11th straight victory.

"I've relieved in the second inning before, but never quite in that set of circumstances," said Mauritsen, who saw his first action in more than a month because of a sprained ankle.

In the loser's bracket tonight, Oral Roberts will meet Miami, which lost to USC in the first round but hammered Baylor out of the series Saturday with a 12-1 victory. Michigan will take on North Carolina, an 11-0 first-round loser to Oral Roberts but a 9-5 victor over St. John's in the loser's bracket Sunday.

Oral Roberts' elimination game with Miami tonight will come less than 24 hours after losing the close one to Arizona State, but the prospect doesn't bother Coach Larry Cochell.

Lamabe played with six major league teams, including Pittsburgh, Chicago, New York and St. Louis in the National League and Chicago and Boston in the American League.

He pitched in three World Series games with the Cardinals in 1967.

WCT Founder Admits Tennis Too Unpredictable

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Special Correspondent

DALLAS — There was a time a few short months ago when you couldn't flick on your TV set on a weekend without catching Jimmy Connors two feet off the ground, belting a two-fisted backhand or Bjorn Borg bouncing one of those topspin forehands off his board-tight racket strings.

Turn to Channel 2 and there was Chris Evert, her hair in a ponytail, gliding over a clay court at Sea Pines. Give the dial a flip and there was Chris again looking a bit plumper, her hair neatly coiffed at the shoulders, erasing some rival on a hard court halfway across the country. Tennis was a hot TV commodity — a sport in the midst of a boom. It presented all the necessary ingredients for the sports buff — attractive competitors, fast-paced action, the full court in the eye of the camera.

Then suddenly fizzle, fizzle, pop. The boom was off. The bubble had burst. What happened to all those nice looking people on the tube Saturday and Sunday afternoons? In Dallas over the weekend for the Associated Press Sports Editors convention, we dropped over to Lamar Hunt's swank World Championship of Tennis headquarters in the First National Bank building to try to get some answers.

"There's been a cooling off of tennis by the networks," said the oil millionaire, one of the spearheads of the tennis explosion after the game went open in 1968. "NBC has dropped everything but Wimbledon, CBS will be doing the U.S. Open. Except for the traditional events, the networks have pulled back on live TV coverage. Some are involved in tape shows for delayed showing."

Hunt himself, who once had practically every top player in the country under contract, had taken his WCT tour to an independent producer, Mizlou. It gives his production exposure, but it's not the same as being on the network.

"Tennis has become too unpredictable," Hunt admitted. "It's not like golf. If Jack Nicklaus isn't in the running in a golf tournament, they can still throw a camera his way and show him putting out on the 18th green.

"Even if you have the best tennis players in the field — and that's rare these days — there's no assurance that the big names will wind up in the semifinals or finals. Once eliminated, the tennis player is out.

It takes names to sell. If there's no guarantee of big names, commercial sponsors get very tight with their purse strings. No sport these days is as unpredictable as big time tennis. With no strong governing body, the players are free to do as they please. They usually do.

Earlier this spring, Hunt scheduled one of his $175,000 WCT tournaments in Houston. The three best players in the world — Connors, Borg and Guillermo Vilas — chose that weekend to play a $200,000 exhibition in Tokyo.

Only last month Hunt staged his WCT championship with its $100,000 first prize — in Dallas as usual. This is the big pro showdown. Connors and Vilas skipped it. Borg turned up with an injured thumb midway in the competition and had to default. The title went to Vitas Gerulaitis.

"Sometimes I am amazed at what goes on," Hunt said. "The week of April 24-30, Alan King held his annual tennis tourney at Caesars Palace in Las Vegas. This is a rich, attractive event. Prize money of $250,000.

"Two of the best players, Dick Stockton and Eddie Dibbs, chose to play instead in a $50,000 tournament in Tulsa. Until we and tennis adopt the concept of the pro golf tour, I fear we will continue to suffer from lack of national exposure."

Texas Sports Notes

Texas Am Golf

HOUSTON (AP) — Bob Gibbons of Dallas used steady play and the misfortune of Port Arthur's Jimmy Adams on the final hole Sunday to win the 69th annual Texas Amateur Golf Championship by a three stroke margin.

Gibbons, a graduate student at University of Texas-Dallas, carded a two-over-par 74 for a six-over 72-hole total of 294 while his nearest challengers missed their chances.

Adams, playing in the same foursome with Gibbons, could have tied for the lead with a par on the final hole of the tournament but instead carded a quadruple bogey eight.

Adams then had to face Ray Barr Jr., Brownsville in a sudden death playoff for second place. Adams took second place when Barr bogeyed the first playoff hole.

Adams had a final round 75 and 297 total.

Dale Blackburn, Conroe, placed fourth with a one-under par 71 over the 6,720 yard course at Walden on Lake Conroe. It gave Blackburn a 300 total for the tournament and one of the few sub par rounds.

Stephen Long of Lubbock shot a final round 76 for a 302 total and fifth place. Reagan Brown, Tyler and Dennis Walsh, Groves, tied for sixth at 304; Jimmy Goff of Dallas was eight and 305 and David Ojala of Houston finished ninth at 306.

Four players tied for 10th place to earn automatic exemptions for the 1979 Texas Amateur, to be played at Wichita Falls Country Club.

They are David Scott, Corpus Christi, Robert McKinney, Houston, Jimmy Johnson, Dallas and Steve Johnson, Friendswood. All finished with 308 totals.

Steve Johnson received a two-stroke penalty for practice putting during a round, dropping him from a tie for ninth to the 10th place tie.

Texas League

By The Associated Press

Greg Jimerson set a Texas League record by stealing four bases and the Tulsa Drillers pounded out 17 hits as the Drillers took a 15-7 baseball victory over El Paso Sunday night.

The Drillers stole a total of eight bases in the contest. In addition to his base stealing, Jimerson scored four runs and fellow Driller Dan Duran went three-four and drove in four runs.

In other Texas League action, San Antonio beat Shreveport 8-4. Midland edged Jackson 3-2 and the Arkansas-Amarillo game was postponed because of rain in the Texas Panhandle city.

El Paso outfielder Jay Peters had a home run for El Paso in the Tulsa contest. First baseman Kelly Snider had three hits and scored four runs as San Antonio defeated Shreveport. Juan Deliza, playing for the first time in more than three weeks, slammed a two-run homer for Shreveport.

Gerald Hannah, the second of three San Antonio pitchers, picked up the victory, his first decision of the season. Dave Patterson had his 13th save for San Antonio. Loser Bob Weismiller dropped to 1-3.

Rangers

TORONTO (AP) — Billy Hunter insists that patience is the most important virtue in managing a major league baseball team such as the Texas Rangers.

"Picked by many to be in the thick of the battle for the West Division title in the American League, the Rangers have found themselves struggling to stay above the .500 mark. But the potent Texas offense came to life Sunday as the Rangers beat the Toronto Blue Jays 9-5 to capture the finale of the three-game set — having dropped Friday's opener 3-1 and Saturday's contest 4-3.

"I just keep telling myself that things will turn around eventually," Hunter said after the Rangers took advantage of starter Dave Lemanczyk's wildness to rough him up for six runs in the first two innings, as his record dropped to 1-9.

Al Oliver was the hitting star for the Rangers, driving in four runs with a single and double. Juan Beniquez hit a two-run homer in the seventh, his third of the season, to account for two others.

"I hit a few holes today," said Oliver, who, along with fellow newcomers Bobby Bonds and Richie Zisk, is being counted on to produce much of the club's offense. "I've been hitting the ball hard all year, but often it's been at someone."

After Lemanczyk walked the bases full to open the game, Oliver delivered two runs with a sharp single to right. After a Bonds' sacrifice put runners at second and third, Zisk delivered Bump Wills with a ground out.

Texas added three more in the second on Mike Hargrove's RBI double and Oliver's run-scoring double to left-center.

Hunter juggled his batting order again Sunday, posting the third different lineup card of the series.

"If they were all hitting like they are capable of hitting, I wouldn't have to do it," the Texas skipper said. "I'm just searching for a winning combination."

The Rangers, now one game above 500 at 25-24, finished second in their division last year with a team batting average of .270. That figure currently stands at only .251, yet Texas trails first-place Oakland A's by just 3 1/2 games, second-place Kansas City Royals by 2 1/2 and third-place California Angels by one.

By comparison, the Blue Jays, who with a 19-32 record are 16 games back of first-place Boston Red Sox in the East Division, have a team hitting mark of .253.

"We can thank our pitching staff for the fact we're still in it," Hunter added. However, Texas gave up 12 hits Sunday, with starter Dock Ellis being touched for seven of them and all five Toronto runs over six innings.

Tornado

TULSA (AP) — Billy Caskey's sixth goal of the season stood up as the margin of victory as the Tulsa Roughnecks defeated Dallas 2-0 in North American Soccer League action Sunday.

It was the third straight victory for the Roughnecks and it came before a home crowd of 16,876 — the largest ever to witness a soccer game in Oklahoma.

Tulsa opened the scoring at 37:44 when Caskey scored after an assist from Ninoslav Zec. Tulsa continued to dominate play and at 59:25 Zec put in a pass from newcomer Vukan Terovic.

The win moved the Roughnecks into second place behind the Minnesota Kicks with an 8-6 record. Dallas slipped to 7-7.

The Roughnecks outshot the visitors 19-12 in the game, and Dallas was saved from another goal when goalkeeper Ken Cooper blocked a Jim Redford penalty kick early in the game.

Astros

HOUSTON (AP) — Veteran Houston pitcher J.R. Richard must be asking himself what it takes to win a game and St. Louis rookie pitcher Silvio Martinez apparently has the answer.

Richard, except for a fifth inning lapse, mesmerized Cardinal batters Sunday, yielding five hits and tying a National League record for most strikeouts in a game this season with 13.

All that netted Richard was his sixth loss of the season as the Cardinals won 4-2 behind the pitching of Martinez, who won his second straight game since reporting from the minor leagues last week.

"What can you do? You just have to take it in stride," said Richard, now 4-6. "I made a mental mistake that cost us three runs in the fifth inning when I failed to cover first base on the bunt."

Martinez, obtained in an off-season trade with the Chicago White Sox, has been full of surprises since reporting to the Cards last week, although he pitched a no-hitter in his last start at Springfield, Ill. in the American Association.

"Maybe I'm just thinking about pitching more this year than last," Martinez said. "At Chicago they pitched me in relief and I don't like that. I didn't get too many chances."

HOW SWEET IT IS — JoAnne Carner plants a victory kiss on the Peter Jackson trophy Sunday after winning the Toronto-based LPGA event in classic style with a final round 64. (AP Laserphoto)

Bean Takes Kemper Title

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A week-end ago, Andy Bean passed up the Atlanta Classic golf tournament to go fishing. This past weekend, he was back on the PGA tour — and he landed a big one.

Burning up the front nine, Bean finished with a fourth-round 66 Sunday for a 5-stroke victory in the $300,000 Kemper Open, only his second win in three years on the tour.

"You might say I got off to a fast start," said Bean, whose sizzling final round gave him a 15-under-par 273 for the tournament and, the $60,000 first-place check.

With his muscular 6-foot-4 frame, Bean gets off some of the longest drives of any pro golfer. But he credited his putting — "I think I'm probably one of the better putters on the tour" — for his best birdies on the final 18 holes at Quail Hollow Country Club.

Starting the day with a 9-under-par 207, 1 stroke behind third-round leader Alan Pate, Bean fired birdies on the second, third and fourth holes, then eagled the par-5 fifth hole.

"I think that's the first time I've ever jumped right off the ground," Bean said. From then on, the rest of the field could only look helplessly at the leader boards.

"If someone had put some heat on him, he might have shot 62 or 63," said Andy North, who roomed and played with Bean at the University of Florida and was paired with him Sunday.

"He was going for 60 after about the sixth hole. You know you're in trouble when you're playing with someone who's talking about a 60."

North and Mark Hayes finished in a tie for second at 278, but there was little suspense down the back nine.

"You hate to admit you're playing for second place with seven or eight holes left," said Hayes, "but that's what Andy (North) and I were doing."

Bean said his respite from the tour a week earlier helped him prepare for the Kemper, even though he played little golf during his week off.

"It was the first time I hadn't played hard on a week off, but there comes a time when you have to take a mental break," the 25-year-old Bean said as he sipped a soft drink. "I went fishing, got sunburned, and came into this tournament with a good attitude."

Alan Pate, although losing his third-round lead, finished high enough in the money here to avoid losing his PGA tour card. He tallied a 74 in the final round to finish with an 8-under-par 288.

Carner Turns In 64, Nabs Canadian Title

TORONTO (AP) — JoAnne Carner called her game "unbelievable." Hollis Stacy called hers "outrageous" and Donna Horton White said her final three holes made her "feel ill."

That was the way the final round of a Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament went Sunday at the St. George's Golf and Country Club.

Miss Carner, The 39-year-old veteran from Lake Worth, Fla., shot a course record 64 Sunday to capture her second Canadian tournament by an 8-shot margin over runner-up Miss Stacy.

Sunday's 64 was also her lowest round since she joined the LPGA tour. Miss Stacy shot a 1-under-par 72 to finish at 6-under 286.

Mrs. White and Kathy McMullen tied for third at 287. Mrs. White shot a final round 74 while Miss McMullen fired a 3-under 70.

They were followed by Jo Ann Washam and Donna Caponi Young at 288 and Amy Alcott at 289.

"I think I should take a life membership for this course," said Miss Carner, after accepting the $15,000 check.

The combination of the course and perhaps the absence of Nancy Lopez combined to give Miss Carner her first victory of the 1978 season.

"I can't remember when I had a better day," Miss Carner said. "Everything I did, I did right. Actually I just missed a couple of putts," she said. "It almost scares me to think of what I could have shot today."

Miss Stacy was upset with her game which she termed "outrageous." "This is the type of course that you can't be aggressive with," she said.

"At the end, all it was was a battle for second place," Miss Stacy continued. "If you had told me yesterday that I had to shoot 64 to win today I wouldn't have believed you. JoAnne was just great."

In Miss Carner's last two outings she has finished second, despite holding the lead at the start of the final day. Both times she was beaten by Miss Lopez, one of several top performers who bypassed this stop on the tour.

"I just wish Nancy was here today," Miss Carner said.

PUCKER FOR LEMMON — Actor Walter Matthau, right, planted a pucker on the forehead of Jack Lemmon on stage at the Brooks Atkinson Theater in New York recently following Lemmon's opening night performance in "Tribute." It was Lemmon's first appearance on Broadway in 18 years. (AP Laserphoto)

Lemmon Makes Most Of Role

By MARY CAMPBELL
NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Lemmon seldom makes a wrong move in "Tribute," which opened recently at Broadway's Brooks Atkinson Theater, but playwright Bernard Slade has given him a pretty thankless, cliché-ridden path to walk.

Three years ago Slade's first play, a comedy "Same Time, Next Year," opened on Broadway. It's still running. A viewer suspended disbelief over the situation — that a man and woman met annually for adultery. One accepted the chemistry between them and laughed at their wit.

One can laugh at the one-liners in "Tribute," but you wouldn't call it a comedy. The situation is maudlin and preys itself as cliché. Instead of chemistry the relationships are forced and seem uneasy saving their lives.

Lemmon, on Broadway for the first time since "Face of a Hero" in 1960, plays Scottie Templeton, a 50-year-old clown prince, irresponsible, likable, fun, a writer who joked his way out of jobs.

Robert Picardo plays his son, 20, stuffy, purposed, mixed up, though psychoanalyzed, inordinately bitter that his father divorced his mother.

Scottie finds he has leukemia and sends for his son to spend the summer with him.

His ex-wife, remarried and with two more children, visits. His public relations boss who is also his best friend visits; his doctor makes house calls. They analyze and argue and agonize. The beginning of the second act sounds like a "deep-problem" soap opera turned up loud.

Catherine Hicks, graduate of Cornell University and making her Broadway debut, made the most of the role of a young friend of Scottie's who tries to be a friend to his son.

Slade has written a fine ending. It's a monologue for Lemmon, sentimental but touching.

Mark Hamill Seeking Longevity In Movies

By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Mark Hamill, who literally skyrocketed to stardom as Luke Skywalker in "Star Wars," is determined not to flame out as just another flash-in-the-pan in a record-breaking movie.

The kid has kept a low profile since completing his role in the greatest box-office film of all time — more than $200 million so far and holding.

Hamill has eschewed the fast buck and maxi-exposure offers.

He turned down television almost flat. No game shows, no quiz shows, no clumsy song-and-dance act on variety shows or specials.

Nor did he follow "Star Wars" with a quickie movie to capitalize on his awe-some new fame.

Hamill, a handsome, blond 26-year-old, hangs out at his rented Malibu pad, keeping to his old haunts and old friends.

He did appear on talk shows — Dinah, Johnny, Merv and Mike — and the Bob Hope Christmas special — "an invitation from Bob is like a request from the Pope."

Mark did tour the United States for a month last June and spent October on a world tour promoting "Star Wars," but otherwise he settled for relative isolation.

Not that Hamill is a shrinking violet. On the contrary, he's brash, self-possessed and confident. He has a healthy ego, too.

Above all, Hamill is smart. He knew it would be simple for the public to over-estimate Mark Hamill. It would have been simple to grab the money and run. He's opted for longevity instead.

"I made the decision to save myself so that when people go to see me it'll be refreshing," Mark said.

"I wanted to work during the last year, but most of the offers were drive-in fodder. I like drive-ins, popcorn and making out, but I'd rather see drive-in movies than be in them."

"The kind of movies I want, I have to go after. The people who wanted to hire me without asking me to read for the part made me nervous. They are willing to give me a starring role sight unseen."

"I'm at a slight disadvantage now because 'Star Wars' was so stylized. I'm not being offered Tennessee Williams stuff as a result of playing Luke. But I resent producers offering me a half-million dollars just to use my name."

It's not as if Mark is a lucky young pup who caught the brass ring in his first motion picture. Despite his tender years he has been a professional since his debut in an episode of "The Bill Cosby Show" in 1970.

He has appeared in 140 television shows and a couple of TV movies. He studied Moliere and Shakespeare at Los Angeles City College. He spent nine months in the "General Hospital" soap opera and started in "The Texas Wheelers" series.

"Sometimes I felt guilty in TV, working in things I wouldn't watch in a million years," Mark said, grinning. "Now I have the luxury of holding off."

Mark held off for almost a year before accepting the lead role in "Corvette Summer," a romantic comedy about a high school student, a girl and a car.

His role is in sharp contrast to the simplistic Luke Skywalker. In the new film Mark plays a sensitive, complex youth who becomes involved in a series of dramatic and comedic situations.

There are no breathtaking special effects, much less such hardware as the lovable robots, R2D2 and C3PO, nor such weirdos as Chewbacca and Darth Vader to beef up the action and boxoffice.

"I took the role in 'Corvette Summer' — I hate that title — because the character I play is terrific. It gives me a chance to do some comedy. And the modest budget didn't bother me at all."

"It's a contemporary story about a young man with everyday problems."

American Pianists Place In Festival

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Pianist Abdel-Rahman el Bacha of Lebanon won the 1978 Queen Elisabeth Prize Sunday, and two Americans, Gregory Allen of Chevenne, Wyo., and Alan Weiss of New York City, placed second and fourth.

Bacha won $7,500 and a European concert tour. Allen gets $6,000 and a vermeil medal, while Weiss gets $4,545 and a silver medal.

Brigitte Engerer of France was third, and Douglas Finch of Winnipeg, Manitoba, was fifth.

Eighteen pianists from 14 countries entered the competition, which is Western Europe's most prestigious music contest.

PORTLAND GETS GRANT
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Housing and Urban Development announced Saturday the award of a $600,000 grant to Portland, Ore., to help low- and moderate-income families remain in inner-city neighborhoods being renovated. The money will be used to make it easier for low- and moderate-income families to purchase and maintain homes in areas that are becoming affordable only by middle- and upper-income people.

Critic Takes Tongue-In-Cheek View Of Television Networks

By JAY SHARBUTT
CAMP RERUN, Calif. (AP) — Dear Mom:
How are you? I am fine. Well, we're wrapping up at Camp Rerun, that Low Sierras resort all us TV critics visit each summer for refresher courses in griping.

It has been kind of disappointing this year. Harry Reasoner was supposed to show up yesterday to tell us about life at ABC, but he had to rush off to CBS. Or was it NBC?

And Freddie Silverman, the guy who put on "Love Boat" and all the stuff that makes Dad sleep so well, he was going to lecture us on life at ABC. But he had to rush off to NBC. Or was it CBS?

Bill Moyers also was going to talk about his work at PBS. But he didn't show. Someone said he'd gone to CBS. But an industry observer said Bill is at PBS now. Or was it ABC?

I tell you, it is very confusing trying to keep track of who goes where these days. It didn't help that Farrah Fawcett-Majors failed to appear and show off her new hair-do as scheduled.

Someone said she was busy in "Charlie's Angels" now. Another guy said, no, she's left the show to be a movie star. Another said, no, she's back in it. So a poll of the TV critics was taken.

About 14.5 respondents said she was a movie star now, 20.7 thought she was in "Fantasy Island" and the rest had "no opinion."

After Edwin Newman showed us how to split an infinitive, we had interesting talks about network sports. A CBS man talked about tennis and winner-take-all. An ABC talked about checking boxing records.

The discussion got pretty heated and the CBS guy hit the ABC man with a tennis racket. Then the ABC guy hit CBS with a carton of old boxing records, and statistics flew every which way.

An NBC vice president helped pick up CBS' broken racket and ABC's boxing records afterwards. He sure smiled a lot, Mom.

But he got his when the ABC man said, "Okay, wise guy, let's see your fall schedule for next season."

The NBC guy got all red in the face and fumbled about in his pockets for about 10 minutes. Finally, he said, "I don't have one." All the TV critics laughed, some knowingly.

Last night, ABC and CBS showed us the opening episodes of all their 21 new and returning comedies. Nobody laughed.

Then all three networks showed opening episodes of all new and returning hour-long series, from "W.E.B.," which is about a network, to "The Incredible Hulk," which also is.

Everyone laughed, particularly during the serious scenes. It made the networks so mad they asked all 220 TV critics how many of them actually watch television at all now.

It was weird, Mom, not a hand was raised.

"Okay," a spokesman sneered. "Then how many of you are now spending your nights just ... reading ... books?"

All 220 hands shot up.

Mom, ask Dad, is this a trend or what? He should know.

Doctor Develops X-Ray Procedure

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A new X-ray procedure which gives a sharp, large picture and can reveal tumors smaller than a pinhead should allow doctors to detect very early stages of breast cancer, its developer says.

Dr. Edward A. Sickles of the University of California at San Francisco cautioned that its use as a routine screening device for breast cancer might be limited because it produces twice as much radiation exposure as conventional X-rays.

The key to the new procedure is a device that produces a narrow beam of X-rays, much sharper than the more diffuse beams from standard machines. Such small focal point devices already have been used on other parts of the body, such as bones. But Sickles said the high power previously required made them useless for examining the less-dense tissue of the breast.

He said better films now available allow the narrow-beam X-rays to be used at lower energy levels needed for breast examinations.

"We just applied what had already been developed in what seemed like a logical manner, although no one had done it before," Sickles said.

The result, he said, was a much better diagnostic tool that costs no more than conventional X-ray machines.

"We're seeing things much smaller than you could see with conventional procedures. There have been occasions (during examinations of 459 patients) where we've done conventional X-rays and found nothing. But when we got the extra view, we could see it," Sickles said. "Women whose breast tumors are found when they are extremely small have much improved survival rates."

Sickles said the technique's use as a completely safe screening device for breast cancer "hasn't been tested yet. You would have to balance the number (of unsuspected) cancers you might discover against the increased doses (of radiation).

"But for the applications we've given it — the difficult cases where it's hard to tell ... and where (other factors indicate) there's a high likelihood of cancer — then there's no question that it's well worth the extra exposure."

Study Finds Changes In Attitudes

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — Most Americans today are self-oriented and display little of the social consciousness prevalent among young people in the 1960s, a study on work attitudes shows.

The study, coordinated by University of Michigan psychologist Edward E. Lawler and University of California-Irvine administrator Patricia A. Renwick for Psychology Today magazine, said the main goal of most workers is their own job satisfaction.

The typical American, the study found, no longer is strongly committed to working in a particular organization or occupation and is willing to change jobs if he can better himself.

He has less interest in social reform and is more concerned about decision-making opportunities, interest and challenge in his job, the researchers said.

"This high self-orientation should, in some ways, make management of organizations easier than it was in the rebellious 60s and early 70s," they said.

But while people seem to believe again in the value of hard work and developing themselves at the workplace, the researchers said, "They are not likely to be easy to satisfy or retain as employees."

"We may be in for a period of increasing instability, because of the turnover of those who can find better jobs and the turnover of those who can't. Particularly disturbing is the fact that our data come from a sample that contains mostly professional and managerial employees — who are essential to any large organization and who have traditionally had a low rate of turnover."

More than 23,000 readers responded to the survey. Other findings included:

—Some 43 percent of the respondents felt they had been victims of job discrimination in the past five years, yet 92 percent opposed affirmative action programs.

—Despite the influence of the women's movement, men's careers still come first in two-career families and women still do most of the housework.

—The most popular method cited for relieving tension from the job was not alcohol or drugs, but physical exercise.

Constitution Study Director Named

NORTHAMPTON, Mass. (AP) — Donald Robinson, associate professor of government at Smith College, has been named director of a $1 million, 10-year study of the U.S. Constitution.

He will conduct the study, co-sponsored by the American Historical Association and the American Political Science Association, with initial funding of $240,000 from the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation of New York.

The study will address the question of whether the document is still appropriate for a nation that has changed so rapidly in the past 200 years, Robinson said.

It is expected to culminate in 1988, the bicentennial of the adoption of the Constitution.

TODAY'S STOCK PRICES

Stock Prices Unaffected By Dollar

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices swept upward today, ignoring widespread weakness overseas in the value of the dollar.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial issues was up 7.54 to 855.08 in active trading. More than three times as many issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange rose in price than fell.

Analysts said investors were heartened by a decline last week in the rate of gain of wholesale prices and an unexpected drop in the nation's money supply.

Grumman Corp., the aerospace firm, headed the NYSE's most-active list, rising 1/4 to 194. A block of 219,700 shares of Grumman was sold earlier today at 194.

Eastern Airlines also was heavily traded, rising 1/4 to 11. Today's price increases came on top of last week's stronger market, which saw the Dow rise 6.84 to 847.54 Friday, a gain of 15.85 points for the week.

The NYSE's composite index today gained .36 to 55.39. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up 51 at 146.12.

Volume on the New York Exchange at noon was 15.76 million shares, compared with 13.41 million by noon Friday.

Musical Earns Tony Awards

By WILLIAM GLOVER
NEW YORK (AP) — This year's Tony Award for the best musical of the Broadway season went to "Ain't Misbehavin'," a sassy Harlem jazz revue, while "Da," a gentle Irish memory play, took the best drama prize.
 Besides getting the top silver medals Sunday night, announced at the end of a CBS telecast that — as usual — ran overtime, "Ain't Misbehavin'" got two other awards, for outstanding musical direction by Richard Maltby Jr. and for the featured performance of Nell Carter. "Da," written by Hugh Leonard, also won the drama director award for Melvin Bernhardt in his Broadway debut, the star actor prize for veteran Barnard Hughes, and the featured actor citation for Lester Rawlins.
 Both of the winning shows originated in off-Broadway theaters, and both previously won the annual citations of the New York Drama Critics Circle.
 Ironically, another nominated musical, "On the Twentieth Century," got more Tonys than "Ain't Misbehavin'," scooping five for actor John Cullum, featured actor Kevin Kline, scenic designer Robin Wagner, best score by Cy Coleman with lyrics by Betty Comden and Adolph Green, and best book, also by Comden and Green.
 Under regulations established by the League of New York Theaters and Producers, which administers the awards,

"Ain't Misbehavin'" was not eligible for either score or book nomination because it uses the music of the late Thomas "Fats" Waller and has only a fragmentary story line.
 Liza Minnelli was picked as top musical actress for "The Act." The other individual honors in musical categories went to Bob Fosse as choreographer of "Dancin'" and to Jules Fisher, the same show's lighting designer.
 The top dramatic actress trophy went to Jessica Tandy in "The Gin Game." Picked as the outstanding featured play actress was Ann Wedgeworth in "Chapter Two."

A new competitive classification this year, for an outstanding revival, was won by "Dracula," which got another prize for the costumes by Edward Gorey.
 The third annual special Tony for an outside-of-New York resident performing organization was presented to the Long Wharf Theater of New Haven, Conn.
 The League's Lawrence Langner Award for distinguished lifetime achievement was presented by Bob Hope in absentia to composer Irving Berlin.
 There were no real surprise winners in the competitive categories, which did not prevent most of them from indulging in effusive thank-yous that prompted repeated frantic pleas by producer Alexander H. Cohen, during commercial breaks in the program, for more brevity.
 After the telecast, the black tie and dinner gown audience at the Shubert Theater trekked cross-town for a midnight celebration in the Waldorf-Astoria Grand Ballroom.
 Tonys were first awarded in 1947 in memory of Antoinette Perry, one of the founders of the American Theater Wing, a tax-exempt organization which today promotes theater around the country.
 Sunday's winners were selected by 428 voters, who include the governing boards of four theatrical unions, members of the first and second night press, the board of directors of the Wing and members of the League of New York Theaters and Producers.

Bigfoot Sighting Reported Again

KROTZ SPRINGS, La. (UPI) — For Leonce Boudreaux, apparently seeing "Bigfoot" once was not enough.
 For the second time in less than a year, Boudreaux has told officials he may have seen the hairy, 7-foot tall, ape-like creature.
 Boudreaux told St. Landry Parish sheriff's deputies he and his wife saw a towering figure early Sunday at a fishing camp near their trailer home.
 Boudreaux said he and his wife were returning home about 2:30 a.m. when they heard a strange noise. He said he flashed lights in the direction of the noise and saw the outline of a hairy, red-dish creature.
 Authorities made a plaster mold of a footprint that measures 19 inches long, but said it was too early to tell if an animal actually had made the print in the soft, muddy ground.

 Matt. 28:19-20. Mark 1:1-4

19 Therefore go and make disciples in all the nations, baptizing them into the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit,
 20 And then teach these new disciples to obey all the commands I have given you; and be sure of this—that I am with you always, even to the end of the world."

MARK
CHAPTER 1

1 Here begins the wonderful story of Jesus the Messiah, the Son of God.
 2 In the book written by the prophet Isaiah, God announced that He would send His Son to earth, and that a special messenger would arrive first to prepare the world for His coming.
 3 "This messenger will live out in the barren wilderness," Isaiah said, "and will proclaim that everyone must straighten out his life to be ready for the Lord's arrival."
 4 This messenger was John the Baptist. He lived in the wilderness and taught that all should be baptized as a public announcement of their decision to turn their backs on sin, so that God could forgive them.
 5 People from Jerusalem and from all over Judea traveled out into the Judean wastelands to see and hear

Coast Guard To Enforce Canadian Fishing Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rear Adm. Robert Scarborough of the Coast Guard says he hopes a fishing dispute between the United States and Canada will be resolved "in a few days."
 But until that happens Scarborough, commander of the Ninth District Coast Guard patrolling the Great Lakes, is ready to enforce the law against Canadian fishermen in U.S. territorial waters.
 Speaking in Ashtabula, Ohio on Sunday, Scarborough told Canadian fishermen, "Come and see us ... but don't fish while you're here."
 A 24-hour grace period agreed to by the United States and Canada ended at noon today. While it remained in force, fishermen violating territorial waters were receiving warnings only.
 Starting today, however, Canadian fishermen working in U.S. waters were subject to arrest, said Charles Shapiro, a State Department spokesman.
 Canadian officials said U.S. boatmen in Canadian waters could have their catches impounded and be fined $5,000 to $25,000.
 The current dispute started when Canada announced on Friday it would no longer honor a fishing agreement between the two countries.

 Both nations have been trying to negotiate a long-term agreement and have been operating in each other's waters under a temporary arrangement. Canadian and U.S. fishermen have been catching salmon off the West Coast, redfish off Nova Scotia, and cod, haddock, scallop and pollock off New England.
 A dispute over protecting fish stocks caused the talks to break down. The United States protested that Canada failed to protect salmon that spawn in U.S. streams while Canada said the United States failed to restrict its harvest from the Georges Bank off New England.
REFERENDUM SCHEDULED
GEORGETOWN, Guyana (AP) — Prime Minister Forbes Burnham says a national referendum will be held July 10 on a new method of changing the constitution for this South American nation. Burnham is proposing that parliament be given the power to make constitutional changes without putting them to a popular vote.

Finch Tops Hopefuls In Mississippi Race

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Gov. Cliff Finch leads a field of seven Democrats bent on settling a free-for-all party primary Tuesday, but no sweep is expected in Mississippi's first wide-open U.S. Senate contest in 31 years.
 Although Finch is the acknowledged front runner for the party nomination, observers expect him to meet a member of the closely bunched field in a runoff June 27.
 While Democrats face their first race without an incumbent since Sen. John C. Stennis won in 1947, Republicans have mounted their first major statewide battle, with former party chairman Charles Pickering and three-term Congressman Thad Cochran scuffling for the nomination.

Waller, the state's first governor to involve blacks in politics this century, claims a record of economic development and personal integrity as he seeks to cut into Finch's support.
 Former Lt. Gov. Charlie Sullivan, a silver-haired, cigar-smoking pilot, businessman and lawyer, seeks to portray himself as the only true conservative in the race.
 Robinson, an economist, characterizes his candidacy as business-oriented, criticizing the "political lawyers" he claims wish to join others in Washington.
 Maurice Dantin, a former district attorney who ran third in the 1975 Democratic gubernatorial campaign, has made a point of telling voters he doesn't have all the answers but intends to seek solutions.
 State Rep. R.C. "Sonny" Tedford has driven a tractor throughout the state.

About half the state's registered voters, some 600,000 persons, are expected to vote in the Democratic primary said Secretary of State Heber Linder, who calculates 50,000 ballots will be cast in the Republican primary.
 Sen. James O. Eastland's first opponent, Jackson businessman Bob Robinson, made known his plans early in the year, followed in March by former Gov. Bill Waller. Two days later, amid speculation of a Republican contender, Eastland declined to seek re-election.
 Waller, who became governor with Eastland's backing in 1971, has insisted that Eastland was glad to retire, and his claims have not been contradicted. For his part, Eastland has refused public involvement in the race, disclaiming any favorites.
 Finch is campaigning on a populist theme intended to solidify the coalition of blacks and rural whites which propelled him into the governor's chair in 1975.
