t will be at least a year before I-27 construction north of Lubbock is complete, but drivers should begin to realize benefits from the highway within

By next March, traffic, which has been two-way and congested, should be flowing smoothly over two one-way frontage roads to the highway, George C. Wall Jr., Department of Highways and Public Transportation district engineer, Currently the work on phase one of the 7.129 miles of pavement is 92.9 per cent complete Wall said. Of the $11,558,-126 total cost for this phase, $10,741,065 of the work is finished.

When complete, the highway will stretch from North Loop 289 to the Monroe overpass and eventually be a portion of a 125-mile link between Lubbock and I-40 in Amarillo.

That seven miles will also join a 5.5 mile ribbon of interstate which will stretch from South Loop 289 to the

Although work on the road north of the city was some 10 per cent ahead of schedule in April, it is now less than one per cent ahead, Wall said. Wall said two overpasses crossing the interstate are now open — that at Yucca Lane and one lane of the Monroe over-Between now and March workers will be grading and base laying the road, working on approaches to the main lanes, doing bridge work on the south end of the stretch and seeding and fertilizing medians and right-of-way.

The second phase, which will take about a year, will include parking, signing and lighting at a cost of $8.5 million more, Wall said.

Cool schools may prompt discrimination rift here

obody faults parents for wanting the best educational facilities for their children, but some people worry that community spirit in affluent neighborhoods may give the Lubbock school system an appearance of discrimi-

Lubbeck, Texas

Last year, the school board allowed - with rather expensive stipulations — parents in the plush westside Rush Elementary School area to air-condition the Rush building.

That project has just been completed. And now another Parent-Teacher Association, for the southside Parsons Elementary School, is taking on a similar effort.

School board president Charles Waters says both projects are "commendable." They show what enthusiastic, committed parents can do by working together, he said.

Still, Waters admits he is nagged by that "immediate gut response I had to the Rush situation" when it surfaced in 1976: as well-to-do PTAs air-condition their schools, a big disparity will emerge between schools in upper-income areas and facilities in lower-income neighborhoods

"There aren't any public monies involved (in the PTA projects), but the effect would be the same," Waters said. "Rich kids would be going to air-conditioned schools, and poor kids would have to sweat it out."

OF COURSE, THE FULL impact of that dilemma is a long way off, because it is uncertain how many more PTAs may air-condition their schools - and whether parents in low-income areas will be among those able to swing such a

And, Waters said, the problem may be avoided if the school district "somewhere down the road" decides to air-condition all of the schools at public expense, through a fu-

"Eventually, years and years from now, I think all the schools will have to be air-conditioned. Public feeling eventually will rise to the point where people will be willing to pay for it" through a tax-supported capital improvements

Already, many parents consider schools not air-conditioned a "foreign environment" for their children, Waters said. "Every year, I get a lot of letters on the subject."

The projects by the Rush and Parsons PTAs illustrate how strongly some parents feel about the problem of hot schools, he added.

All things considered, Waters said he supports such PTA endeavours. In no way does he want to discourage parents from getting involved in their schools and contributing to the improvement of facilities. Also, Waters said, by air-conditioning some schools with private funds, PTAs will help relieve the financial burden on the school system if a bond issue eventually is proposed e city's p At the same time, however, Waters is worried that as PTAs in affluent neighborhoods air-condition their schools, there will be an appearance of discrimination against schools in poor neighborhoods. The resulting disparity between schools in upper-and lower-income areas "remains a concern of mine," he said.

SOME COMMUNITY GROUPS share that concern, even to the point of suggesting that limits be placed on PTA contributions.

In fighting recently for improvements of Thompson Jun-ior High School, the Overton South Neighborhood Associa-tion asked the school district to "stop the policy of allowing PTAs or other private entities to upgrade any one school in such areas as landscaping, expensive outdoor learning cen-ters, air conditioning, etc., if all schools are not to be similarly upgraded."

The association said such PTA projects tend to widen the gap between Thompson, with a very small, predomi-nantly low-income student body, and other junior highs.

Tom Burtis of the local chapter of the National Associa-tion for the Advancement of Colored People feels the same. "I don't think we ought to allow some schools to put on frills while other schools go without," he said.

"If air conditioning is something we need, then the school system should use public monies and air-condition all the schools," Burtis said.

He also noted that an air-conditioning system donated by a school's PTA is "not really free" to the district because taxpayers must assume higher utility bills for that school.

On the other hand, most school officials and parents argue that PTAs should have a free rein in improving their youngsters' schools. After all, they say, that's what PTAs are for — involvement in their children's education.

Only schools built in recent years in Lubbock are at conditioned. Of the 37 elementary schools, just two - Mahon on the city's north side and Williams in the southwest - have cooling systems. Air conditioning is planned for the new schools proposed to be built outside Loop 289, if those schools are allowed by U.S. District Court.

Last year, the Rush PTA asked the school board for permission to install window air-conditioning units, costing a total $10,000, in Rush classrooms.

After much discussion, the board set a policy stating:

If an organization wants to donate window units to a school, the group must agree to assume responsibility for all costs, including higher utility bills incurred by the school as a result of the donated units.

However, if a PTA buys and installs a central air-conditioning system for a school, there will be no such continuing commitment on the group for electricity.

The Rush PTA then decided to go the central air-conditioning route. Principal James Pipkin said the system, installed during the summer, cost about $35,000.

THE PTA PAID CASH for much of the project and made arrangements for a loan on the remainder, Pipkin

"Air conditioning has made a tremendous difference in our school, especially in the attitude of the children and teachers," he said. Instead of fighting the heat during the opening weeks of the school year, students and faculty were able to get right down to work, in comfortable sur-rs would rather have this (a than any type of instructional equipment" that the PTA might otherwise donate, Pipkin said.

The PTA at Parsons, 2811 58th St., also has decided to donate a central air-conditioning system to its school. PTA president Duane McQueen said the cost will run about $50,-

The Parsons PTA has $11,000 on hand and hopes to raise the rest through contributions (parents have been asked to donate $40 per child), T-shirt sales, a rummage sale and other fund-raisers, McQueen said.

an absentee property owner.

The problem is a "leaveout"—an unpaved stretch of road that juts into an otherwise hardtopped street. One of the last left in Lubbock abruptly cuts into the northbound traffic lane of Indiana Avenue north of 66th Street.

Although the city says no accidents have occurred because of the approximately 300 feet of gravel and chugholes that force the three northbound lanes to sharply merge to two, officials concede the strip is dangerous.

"It is confusing, especially at night time." admitted Bill McDaniel, traffic engineering director. "It should be six lanes. The cars have to shift over. It's Construction on the first phase of Lubbock's inaugural section of Interstate highway is now 92.9 per cent complete. However, District Engineer George C. Wall Jr. said traffic should begin flowing more smoothly in March when traffic along the seven miles is routed along the two frontage roads to the highway.

The leaveout has existed for several years and probably will remain for several more. City officials say they cannot pave it until the owner, A.S. Cavett of San Antonio, plats the property.

And he has indicated no interest in doing that, City Atty. Fred Senter said. Although acknowledging the strip is dangerous, Senter said, "The city policy, ever since I've been here, is to wait until it's platted. The planning and zoning department then can require the necessary land for the street to be dedicated at no cost to the taxpayers."

The city could seize the land through condemnation, Senter said, but probably won't because it would be contrary to

"It's a philosophy, you might say, that paving and widening the street enhances the property value," Senter explained. "People should be charged with paving it."

The city has "tried for years" to persuade Cavett to dedicate the strip, he said, even suggesting that paving cost payments be deferred until the land is Cavett, who could not be reached for comment, always refused, Senter said. We just have to wait until it's platted," he added

Based on current bid prices, it probably would cost about $6,000 to pave the leaveout, said Willie Watson of the public works department.

But paving is not the "big cost," McDaniel said. "It's not having the right of way" that will be expensive, he explained. And if the city buys the right of way, he added, "it sets a precedent for buying. It's not fair to everyone else who dedicates property."

Until the problem is resolved, northbound traffic will continue to be merged into two lanes, he said.

Crime in Lubbock: Police stumped over abandoned car

et blood splattered across an abandoned car in an Avenue E dirt lot early Monday had police stumped early this week over what the vehicle was doing there and why wet blood, a pistol and an ax were found

Police investigators called to the 500 Ave. E lot about 10 a.m. Monday by a city worker cutting grass found a black-overvinyl green 1969 Ford LTD parked inches from a dumpster on the dirt pathway running through the lot. Investigators said blood was visible on the car's back bumper, under the gas tank, on the doors and on the front and back seats.

Inside, police found a .22-caliber pistol, an ax and a .22-caliber shell. Police theorized the car had recently been driven through a pasture because of dandelions which remained entangled on They also indicated that if a body were involved, it possibly was dragged from the car, accounting for the blood smears on the side, and backed over, because of the blood on the underside of the vehicle. Indications were that the vehicle probably was left at the site early Monday. No immediate connections to Lubbockites were established. Other than that grisly find, lawmen spent most of the past week investigating robberies and rapes. In the latest, an 18-year-old Lubbock man told police he was robbed at gunpoint Saturday night in the 2400 block of Broadway while walking through a park-

John Mauldin told police a man appro-ched him and asked to borrow a dollar bill, but when Mauldin told him he was broke, the man grabbed him by the wrist, pointed a small gun at him and ordered him to lie on his stomach. The bandit took Mauldin's wallet containing $3 and several credit cards.

Just a few hours earlier, a 71-year-old Lubbockite told police he was robbed by a woman who bit his hand before fleeing with $80 and his wallet.

The man told police his maid indicated he might be able to get a missing shotgun back for a price. He and the woman drove to an East Lubbock location where they met another woman who advised the man it would cost $15 to locate the an grabbed his hand, bit it, grabbed the money and fled.

About midnight Friday, a Texas Tech University student from El Paso told police he was driving home from Lockney when he found both lanes of Parkway Drive in East Lubbock blocked by a group of people.

He stopped his truck, to avoid a collision, but the group climbed in the back, he told police. After the man drove the gang to another location, all but one of his passengers disembarked. The remaining passenger told the man he wouldn't leave until he got the driver's wallet. After the man pulled a knife the youth gave him his wallet containing $10. A 17year-old Lubbock youth was arrested in connection with the incident a few hours

In one of three rapes reported to Lubbock police during the weekend, a 21year-old Lubbock secretary told officers she awoke at her home when a man grabbed her and tried to choke her. She said the black man, about 18-25 years old, ordered her back onto her bed after she tried to flee and then raped her before fleeing nude from the apartment.

An hour before that 3:30 a.m. Saturday struggle, a man approached two Lubbock women outside an East Lubbock nightspot and asked to get inside their car. Once inside, the man reportedly told the women to drive to another location or they would be killed.

After arriving at an East Lubbock spot, the man raped both women and took one woman's purse containing $15.

Bulldozing won't clear the way

EAST AND northwest Lubbock neighborhood residents are destroying their own case for a share of federal Community Development funds by heaping a hostile attitude atop unreasonable demands.

Berating city councilmen for a so-called lack of responsiveness in certain areas and selecting a CD input session to espouse socialistic political philosophy certainly is getting off to a slow start and slackening the pace from thereon.

When push becomes shove, physically or verbally, seldom if ever is anything worthwhile accomplished. Positive attitudes become neutralized, neutral attitudes become negative and negative ones fall off the deep end into absurdity.

THE MILITANT mouths of a few discontented easily could destroy decades worth of good relations between all communities built up in a spirit of understanding and cooperation, not in a no-man's land of emotionalistic hostility.

Bidal Aguero, spokesman for the Arnett-Benson Neighborhood Association, says, credibly, that housing rehabilitation "is the number one and our only priority." Well, he's half right, anyway. It is his association's only priority.

The city has been responsive to needs of the overall public good in the past. And one could logically assume that same policy and practice will prevail now and in future CD fund disbursements.

A resident acknowledged that of the $16 million in CD funds spent so far, about $6.7 million has been spent in the east and southeast Lubbock area. By our arithmetic, anyway, that's close to half of all the money available for the entire city. Financial discrimination? Hardly.

CRITICS' ARGUMENTS that the city tears down houses and doesn't necessarily rebuild them in the same area and criticism of a $3,100 expenditure for Bicentennial Trail signs and historic markers exhibits an almost complete lack of understanding of the function of CD rehabilitation.

Complaints that certain areas are "becoming a bunch of vacant lots" hardly shows evidence that the city is disinterested. In fact, it signifies just the opposite.

Northwest area residents concede that more than $4 million in CD funds already has been expended in their neighborhood.

What these folks don't know or won't admit they know is that by law redevelopment is accomplished one step, that is one block, at a time.

Notwithstanding the fact he took the blame, it's hardly CD coordinator David Kitten's fault that the folks in the neighborhood "couldn't tell it."

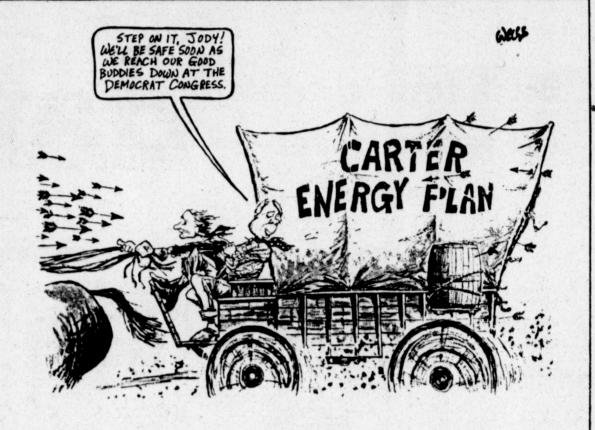

CITY COUNCIL members have attempted throughout the government giveaway program's existence to stretch the taxpayers' dollars as far as possible.

Just because the city council didn't satisfy every neighborhood's every request every year is no indication they don't care.

It is an indication they aren't miracle workers. The fact that some don't understand this is unfortunate. The fact that some would stoop to intimidation tactics is unconscionable.

Browbeating, or the spectre of it, has always impeded more progress than it could ever energize.

Jaycettes sponsoring art sale

The works of local artists, as well as artists from throughout Texas and Oklahoma, will be featured at a starving artists sale Nov. 12-13.

Sponsored by the Lubbock Jaycettes, the exposition will be held in the Memorial Civic Center.

Mrs. June Weathersby, publicity chair-man for the sale, said, "Many kinds of art, such as jewelry, oil paintings, macrame, ceramics and wire sculpture, will be featured. Most items will run from $10 to $100.

The sale starts Nov. 12 from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. It will continue Nov. 13 from noon until 6 p.m.

Proceeds from the sale will go to a Jaycette charity. Last year, proceeds from the artists sale bought equipment for the Texas Tech University Speech and Hearing clinic, a tape recorder for the Rape Crisis Center and $1,000 each donated to Texas Tech Program for Older Texans. This will be the sixth annual sale the Jaycettes have sponsored.

Bank forecast calls for record deposits at close of year

By Mona Harvey

Bank deposits at the end of this year are likely to top the Dec. 31, 1976, $1 billion landmark, say city bankers.

Figures compiled at the end of the fiscal third quarter revealed $990,026,207 on deposit at the close of business Sept. 30 as compared to last September's deposits,

The gain was 13 per cent over last year's. Deposits increased $121 million from September, 1976, to September, 1977, half again as much as the $83 million increase in the comparable period a year earlier.

Lubbock's growth rate, unemployment figures and projections for a good cotton-crop contribute to the economic strength reflected in the increasing deposits, Texas Commerce Bank president Tommie Stevens said this year's harvest is expected to yield over 2.5 million bales of cotton as compared to last year's 2 million total. W.R. Collier. American State Bank president, noted the falling unemployment rate here as an important factor. The rate has dropped from 3.6 per cent last August to 3 per cent this August Coffee Conner, executive vice president of Lubbock National Bank, attributes the strong economy to "the growth of the city, from new industry like Texas Instruments, the opening of the (Texas Tech University) medical school and the construction activity in general.

by Bob Theves

At Texas Bank, where $5.3 million in deposits showed a 15 per cent increase this quarter and a 59 per cent increase in a year, president John Grist credited the leap to Tech' reopening. Due to the bank's location, the student's accounts 'are a major boost in the arm for us," he said.

Some funds will be drawn from the banks by farmers whose crops are being harvested but Howard Yandell, First National Bank president, expects the cash influx to begin as much as 60 days earlier this year from the cotton crop due to excellent weather this season.

Bankers are awaiting a decision on applications submitted for three proposed state banks and a national bank here.

Sister Frances Meyer, coordinator of Religious Education in St. Joseph's Parish of Lubbock, is celebrating a "golden jubilee" (50 years) in the congrega Our Lady of Victory Missionary Sisters.

She entered the order from her home in Ohio in 1927 and has been involved in teaching and coordinating religious edu-cation program in several cities including Salt Lake City, Utah, San Antonio,

Sister Meyer said: "I thank God daily for the gift of a religious vocation. From the mountains of New Mexico, the shores of California, the canyons of Utah, to the plains of Texas, Our Lord Rev. Scott said with present facilities and the new program, the church can easily care for 700 to 800 persons in Sun-day School. has allowed me to bring his 'Good News' to the poor and to children."

Church tries new program

Bacon Heights Baptist Church of Lubbock has initiated an innovative program to utilize existing facilities and at the same time ease crowded conditions.

A dual Sunday School program has been started. One Sunday School session is at 8:30 a.m. and another at 9:45 a.m. Two worship services have also begun one at 9:45 and the the other at 11 a.m.

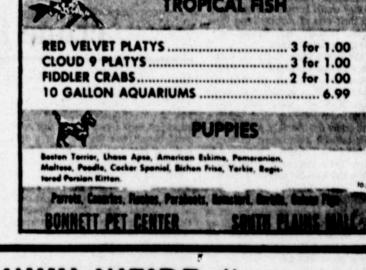

Rev. H.F. "Hank" Scott, pastor, said: This will give people a choice as to the time they attend Sunday School and church. We were completely out of space and this enables us to keep reaching people and teaching people, and

SINGER'S STORE

At a point about five miles northwest of the present city of Lubbock there is a stone marker commemorating a famous pioneer settlement that came to be known as Singer's Store. The store was built about 1882, first for buffalo hunters and later for the cowboys of this region. Singer's Store was the first business establishment to be located within the present limits of Lubbock County, and for several years it was the only store and post office on the South Plains.

ANSWER: They are made from dried cola nuts and soda water. A tropical African tree of the chocolate family produces the cola nut. The tree is now grown in the West Indies, Brazil, India, Ceylon and the Malay Peninsula. The fruit of the cola tree is a pod that contains 6 to 12 white, pink or purplish seeds. These are shaped like horse chestnuts and turn brown when dried. Because they contain small amounts of caffeine, a stimulant, many Africans chew the bitter cola

Many people are successful in buying or selling a home without the services of a Realtor and thus eliminating the commission that would ordinarily be paid. But the fact that the vast majority of home sales in this country are made through real etate firms indicates that Realtors perform a valuable service.

Form the seller's point of view, a Realtor's knowledge of the market and his or her ability to match a prospect's needs to the seller's property is actually what gets buyer and seller together.

A Realtor's marketing experience and knowledge of arranging financing and handling closing transactions relieves the seller of the technical tasks necessary to consummate the sale. Exposure real estate firm has a greater advertising advantage over the individual home

When buying or selling a home through a Realtor it is important to remember that Realtors are independent contractors working under the supervision of a Broker. As an independent contractor, the Realtor does not receive a salary and pays his or her own automobile and client contact expenses. A Realtor's only compensation is the commission received by being the procuring cause of the sale. This commission is split with the Broker in exchanges for office space and support services.

Communication lessons learned by talking a lot, says teacher

If you're a student in Terri Bumpas class, your next assignment might be to call a taxi, give the driver directions to the nearest pizza restaurant, order lunch and then pay money — and compliments - to the waitress.

Mrs. Bumpas, a speech therapist in the Lubbock Independent School Dis-trict, uses lessons like that to make students communicate. The more they are required to talk, she says, the better their speech will be.

So Mrs. Bumpas places her "blocking" students, those who stutter, in situations that necessitate oral communication

They might be assigned to seek advice from a department store clerk, explain to a barber how their hair should be cut. or ask a grocery store stacker where certain foods are shelved.

"These are situations that you and I consider routine, but for the student with a speech problem, they can be difficult," Mrs. Bumpas said.

"It takes time and hard work to overcome a speech problem. One of the best methods, I find, is to frequently put the student in situations where he must communicate.

'The more experience a student has talking to other people, the more at ease he will be. And he will be made to face his speech problem and help correct it,"

Mrs. Bumpas' students practice such things as telephone skills and putting on puppet shows for their schoolmates. In addition, she videotapes her pupils, so students can watch and hear themselves Often, Mrs. Bumpas explained, "blocking" is preceded or accompanied by something else — blinking, for example. The videotape exercise allows youngsters to identify, predict and ultimately correct their speech impediment,

Why hasn't he been thrown out? I mean it get the house lights on." The management finally announced they'd ejected the guy. Cavett said, "Why did it take so long? He was drunk but what's your excuse?" Cavett then told the audience, "This wasn't part of the play. If you like, we will now do the last scene over for

what's cooking?

By Martha Bowder Update Staff Writer

The kitchen is my favorite place to be," said Mickey Owen, the young homemaker interviewed recently as Update cook of the week. As a graduate of Texas Tech University with a major in home economics, Mickey is well-qualified for her role as a homemaker. She cooks, sews, reupholsters furniture and has a "green thumb" for the many plants she grows.

While rinsing the mixer beaters she had just used to make soft margarine. Mickey noted that one of her main satisfactions in homemaking is cooking. You feel like you've really done something when you cook from scratch," she said, and I enjoy cooking very much."

"Cooking should be fun," she said with a smile. "When my husband and I start our family, I want our children to enjoy cooking and be able to help me in the kitchen.

'A kitchen should be homey," she said reflectively. "I always try to have tea made and cookies or fruit out on the counter so when guests come they will feel at home, and welcome."

Mickey offered us some homemade coconut-oatmeal cookies and tea as she dried her hands and suggested we visit in the living room. It is attractively furnished and decorated with the same charm of her kitchen.

As new homeowners, Mickey and Steve, her husband who is a salesman for Acme Brick Company, have kept busy decorating and furnishing their home. Suspended from the ceiling, for example, was the rail of a baby bed. Because it was made of hardrock maple wood, Mickey's mother-in-law, Mrs. Elizabeth Owen, saved it from a discarded baby

"I saw it over at 'Big Red's' one day (Mickey's pet name for her mother-inlaw who is a retired teacher from Christ the King School) and asked if I could have it. Steve and I hung it from the ceiling," she explained,"and use it to hold our hanging plants. Mickey's creativity is evident in her cooking as well as in her decorating. She makes her own soft margarine following one of her Tech professor's advice "not to pay someone to mix in the corn oil to soften margarine." She also uses powdered milk in her cooking since it is more economical, and she is always on the look-out for new ways to utilize leftovers. "One week we had baked chicken for a main meal," she recalled. "From the chicken stock I made chicken

The Tech courses in basic food and nutrition, meal preparation and human nutrition have been valuable, Mickey said, in teaching her how to cook economically and wisely. SOFT MARGARINE 1 lb. margarine, (hard block) 1 cup oil

1/8 cup water

1/8 cup powdered milk Set margarine in large mixer bowl and allow it to come to room temperature. Mix powdered milk and water. Add milk, oil and salt to margarine. Mix with electric mixer until smooth and creamy.

WHITE BREAD

1 cup skim milk 3 tbsp. sugar 21/2 tsp. salt 6 tbsp. margarine

Store in refrigerator.

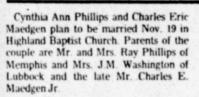

1 pkg. yeast l cup warm water

6 cups sifted flour Melted margarine

Scald milk: stir in sugar, salt and margarine; stir until sugar dissolves; cool to lukewarm and let mixture set 10 minutes. Sprinkle yeast on water; stir until dissolved. Add milk mixture. Stir in 3 cups of the flour; beat until smooth. Stir in the remaining flour. Turn out on a lightly floured board. Knead. Fold dough over toward you. Press down away from you with the heel of your hand. Give dough a quarter turn. Continue until dough is smooth and elastic, and does not stick to the board. Place in a greased bowl; brush top with melted margarine. Cover with a damp cloth; let rise in warm place, 80 to 85 degrees Farenheit until doubled in bulk (about one hour). Punch down; turn out on lightly floured board. Divide dough in half. Shape into two loaves: place in two greased 8x4x3-inch loaf pans. Cover with a damp cloth; let rise in a warm place, 80-85 degrees Farenheit, until center of dough is slightly higher than the edges of the pans (about one hour). Bake in 400 degree Farenheit oven 50 to 60 minutes or until done. Remove from pans immediately and cool on a rack

1 cup cereal, rice, bread crumbs crackers or oatmeal l egg

1 medium onion 3 tbsp. vegetable oil

2 tsp. salt 1 tsp. celery salt 1 tsp. pepper

tsp. marjoram stsp. garlic powder

I can (15 oz.) tomato sauce 1 cup water

2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Saute onion in vegetable oil. Mix meat, egg, cereal, broth and seasonings. Add onion (drained) and mix lightly. Shape mixture into loaf and place in oblong pan (ungreased). Stir together remaining ingredients and pour over meat loaf. Cover with aluminum foil and bake 30 minutes. Uncover and bake 15 minutes or longer until nicely browned.

1 lb. ground beef 4 cups shredded cabbage

1/4 cup water 1 small onion, chopped

1 isp. salt 12 tsp. caraway seed or poppy seed 's tsp. pepper Yeast roll dough

Cook and stir ground beef until light brown: drain. Stir in cabbage, water, onion, salt, seed and pepper. Heat to boiling. Reduce heat. Cover and simmer until cabbage is tender, about 10 minutes. Prepare yeast roll dough (recipe follows). Roll into rectangle, 20x15 inches, about 4-inch thick. Cut into 3-inch circles; spoon beef mixture onto center of each circle. Bring sides to center and pinch dough to seal. Place on greased baking sheet. Let rise in warm place until double, about one hour. Heat oven to 375 degrees. Bake until golden, about 18 min-

YEAST ROLL DOUGH

2 pkg. active dry yeast 3 4 cup warm water 14 cups buttermilk 4 cup shortening

2 tbsp. sugar 2 tsp. baking powder

2 tsp. salt 41/2-5 cups flour

Dissolve yeast in warm water in large mixer bowl. Add buttermilk, shortening, sugar, baking powder, salt and 2½ cups of the flour. Blend on low speed, scraping bowl constantly, for 30 seconds. Beat on medium speed, scraping bowl occasionally, 2 minutes. Stir in enough remaining flour to make dough easy to handle. Turn dough onto well-floured surface. Knead 5

Runzas are great served as party treats or for a family meal. After baked, they can be frozen and reheated later in 350 degree oven for 20 minutes. When reheating, cover with foil to avoid more browning. Runzas are especially good topped James Cochran, a Lubbock resident who has lived in Lubbock for 30 years. After rearing four children of her own and teaching Sunday school for many years, Mrs. Cochran believes children are an enjoyable challenge. "I especially found this true when our son was a high school athlete and our three daughters were teen-agers," she said. "Cooking for them at that time was a real challenge.'

Mrs. Cochran doesn't cook as much now that her children are grown. She and her husband travel a great deal, she said, and watching her diet also limits her cooking. DEAR POLLY - "Throwaways" have many uses and one of them is to save bits of a leftover soap bar to use for picking up small pieces of broken glass. I simply rub a piece of soap over the area covered with such glass and all the pieces are picked up safely and in a jiffy and the soap thrown away. - LINDA.

The guaranteed student loan program, now on the books, is intended to help these middle income families. But it doesn't work very well. Never has.

Few loans are made under its provisions because banks just don't like to loan out money at seven per cent for up to 14 years and be forced to fill out a lot of federal paperwork for the privilege. These is just too much red tape, in other words, for the banks to lend. In two areas of Texas, we are experimenting with a new approach to the ple approach, yet so promising that the rest of the nation may well follow our Last year I persuaded Congress to per-

The South Texas Authority has now sold $20 million worth of bonds and is acting as a secondary market for the insured student loans.

In other words, students from San Antonio to Brownsville can now go to their local banks, obtain laons and the banks can then immedicately sell the loans to the education authority at a small profit and with none of the paperwork or hassle that accompany regular student

A total of 7,200 students are being made eligible for assistance. Those students now have the means to obtain their educations, to learn the skills that will enable them to bootstrap their way up the ladder of success.

And if the demand for these new loans exceeds the 7,200 that is anticipated over the next two years, then the education authority can provide additional opportunity, limited only by the extent to which the private money market is able to absorb its bonds.

Default is not a problem with this type of program. For one thing, these education authorities do not make loans for attendance at proprietary, profit-making institutions where there is the greatest incidence of default.

In addition, Congress has now made it more difficult for students to default on loans and the Office of Education has adopted much stricter collection proce-

Exotic animal sale slated in Lubbock? That's no tall tale

Update Staff Writer

ou've always heard about Texans and their tall tales. First, there was the first annual auction of Santa Gertrudis cattle in a swanky Dallas ho-

Then there was the second annual auction of Santa Gertrudis cattle in a ritzy Houston hotel ballroom.

Now there's the auction of approximately 25 exotic animals from a private zoo in the Lubbock area.

And the animals are, indeed, exotic. When you think of the South Plains area of Texas, you don't imagine Himalayan black bears, Sardinian donkeys, or an African green monkey.

However, this is just a glimpse of the varied 200 animals which will be auctioned off at 1:30 p.m. Sunday at the former Noah's Ark Zoo on the Slaton Highway, U.S. 87 two miles east of the Lubbock city limits.

The zoo animals are part of a trust estate auction which is being held Saturday and Sunday.

At one time, there were approximately 70 exotic animals on the two-acre site. The weekly food bill for the animals was about $600 a week, according to former owners Bob and Dottie Montgomery.

The zoo began with two Himalayan black bears and grew after the addition of two lions. At one time, the zoo also included ostriches, llamas, nine types of baboons, an ape and a deer.

The animals were acquired from different brokers, zoos, importers and exporters with many of them coming from Florida. The 200 opened more than a year ago on Easter Sunday with approximately 1,400 visitors the first day,

Two of the favorites at the zoo were Tammy, a trained female chimp and Clyde, a year-old male camel. Both appeared rather unperturbed by human visitors while the baboons and monkeys seemed to be unnerved by humans. Two local auctioneering firms are handling the zoo animals' sale. According to Jack Faulks, Ken Draper and Rose Hardy, buyers will be screened to make sure they can adequately provide for the exotic animals when they are sold.

The list of animals to be auctioned off include a dromedary camel, guanaco, llama, ostrich, hymadras baboon, African green monkey, stump tail macaque, mandril baboon, olive baboon, silsany ape, papas monkey and trained chimp. Also to be sold are two Sardinian donkeys, two pigmy goats, two Himalayan black bears, pig tail macaques, golden baboons, turkeys, pigeons,

Deaf students 'hear' through efforts of special teachers

Reneau's pantomimed efforts to convey a bill's passage in Congress includes group participation in a majority vote, the President busy signing and vetoing bills and explanation of a press conference.

The hearing-impaired students are hampered in their understanding of current events because they miss out on radio and television broadcasts as well as their peers' discussion of those events.

"These kids don't know who Bert Lance is," Reneau said.
They are, however, pursuing their own interests.

Senior David Solis is enrolled in business law so he can help out in his family's business. Other students enjoy electives in woodworking, art and homemaking. Sophomore Jose Molina is playing football on his class team.

The special students are well-versed on the school song and yells. They plan to present a skit during an upcoming pep rally.

"Pantomime is so much a part of their lives," said Mrs. Barbee.

In the cafeteria, Scott Burley demonstrates to Reneau how the soft drink machine went haywire and is dispensing bottles for a nickel each.

"I tease them," Reneau asides as he signs to Scott, "Maybe the machine just likes deaf students."

Many of the students' parents are not fluent in sign language, so communication with their children is limited. As a result, the students bring a lot of their questions and problems to their teachers.

The senior boys consult Reneau on dating practices and etiquette. In general, they want Reneau to tell them "if they are doing anything to make them

The questions presented to the teachers often are abrupt, even tactless. But the students usually have no other way to get the information they seek so they are apt to make their inquiries pointed.

Body language, an important part of the students' communication system, becomes a hindrance at times to the teachers. Whenever the interpreters are disgruntled, the students want to know "if we're mad at them," Miss Nichols

Communication among the hearing-impaired is delivered in relatively simple terms. "They don't need fancy words to express themselves," Mrs. Barbee

New words introduced in classes are difficult for the hearing-impaired stu-dents to catch. Often these terms have to be simplified by the interpreters for their students to comprehend.

Responsibility for his students apparently extends beyond the classroom for Reneau who has accompanied one to pay a traffic violation, another on his driver's test and others to job interviews.

Reneau, now completing his third year in the LHS deaf education program, hopes one of his seniors will attend a college for the deaf, Gallaudet, in Washington, D.C.

Texas International plans cut-rate fares

Texas International Airlines has joined the trend toward bargain-rate air

Beginning Nov. 13, Lubbock passengers will be able to go to Austin or Hous-ton for $25 and $40 (depending on flight times), saving round-trip Austin travel-ers up to $50 or 50 per cent and saving round-trip Houston fliers up to $74 or 50

Last week, Texas International announced government approval of a TIA plan to cut ticket prices. The airline filed the "peanuts" fares proposal with the Civil Aeronautics Board in Washington, D.C. on Aug. 12.

Other Texas points included in the airlines' plan to receive the cut-rate prices for the first time are Amarillo, Beaumont-Port Arthur and Wichita Falls.

The new low rates match the budget fares first brought to Lubbock by South-

Continental Airlines dropped some rates to match Southwest's on May 20, the first day of the commuter service's flights here.

Sloan says win both good, bad

about 3 p.m. Sunday looking less than bright-eyed. With good reason.

His Texas Tech team had survived a hair-raising contest with Arizona in Tucson the previous night and won 32-26 after holding off a late Wildcat drive in the last minute. Then came the flight back, a loss of two hours because of the difference in time zones, the taping of his television show and then a bit of sleep. Reflecting on the game, Tech's fourth win in five attempts this season, Sloan saw both good and bad. The good was the improvement of young quarterbacks Tres Adami and Mark Johnson. The bad was a pass defense that allowed too many long

"I was pleased with both of our quarterbacks," Sloan said. "They both im-proved, and this is due to the fact that they've been getting more playing time. As they get more experience, they'll do even better. They made some plays against Arizona that they wouldn't have made if they'd had more previous playing

Tech had a problem with getting the ball into the end zone after getting close to the Arizona goal. The Raiders got inside the UA 20 five times—four of those to the 10 or closer-without getting a touchdown. Bill Adams booted four field goals to tie a school single-game record, and Tech came up without any points the other time on a fourth-and-goal try from

"We have to improve our goal-line offense," Sloan said. "But we're young in some spots offensively, and this has something to do with it.

Defensively, the Raiders played well against the run, allowing Arizona just 20 net yards on the ground, but UA completed several long pass plays and accountedthe Wildcats completed just nine of 21

Arizona had pass completions of 71, 60 and 24 yards for touchdowns and had a 65-yarder in its final drive that ended when Tech's Mike Mock intercepted a pass in the end zone with 37 seconds remaining.

"We made some mistakes on pass coverage, but they can be corrected," Sloan said. "I made some coaching mistakes in the game, and this will have to be cor-

Coming and going

It depends on which direction one is going as two backs, in two games, step toward the geals. It all came last week, as two high school games were unreoled on the local scene. Top photo: on Thursday night, at Lowrey Field, Estacade took on San Angele Lake View, and the Matadors' Kenzie Burrell (28 in the dark jersey) tries to evade a Lake View tackler. Lake View wen the District 3-AAA contest 21-0 to remain unbeaten for the year. Below: Amarille Caprock's Bebby Short stops over a teammate and strikes out for the goal, with Lubback tackle Chris Smith in pursuit. The Westerners won the game 23-6 for their first victory of the season.

Carl Reiner discusses new movie

STAR WATCH Associated Press

NEW YORK - Carl Reiner, the interviewer in "The 2,000-Year-Old Man" comedy recordings, was himself being interviewed about his new film, "Oh, God!," and though nursing a bad cold he was eager to latch on to any subject.

"I'll tell you anything you want to know about breast feeding," he said, having just learned his interviewer was an expectant father.

"I used to give lectures, I'm not kidding. They'd ask me to go to ladies clubs, or I used to host things, and I always used to say: 'What do you want? You want to laugh or you want to hear about nursing?'

'My wife used to love to watch the 'Dick Van Dyke Show' when she was nursing our third child," said Reiner, who created the television series based on his experiences as a comedy writer for the "Show of Shows," starring Sid Caesar and Imogene Coca.

In "Oh, God!," which Reiner directed, God - portrayed by George Burns appears as a semor citizen in sneakers and baggy pants to enlist the assistant manager of a California supermarket played by singer John Denver - to be His messenger. The message: God is alive and well.

Reiner declined to say whether he believes in God: "I'll get too many letters, crazy letters ... The movie is my statement on God.

"Don't worry about God and His existence. Live a good life and if there is a God you'll go to heaven.

"Don't pray to God for forgiveness. If you've hurt someone, ask the person you've hurt to forgive you. Apologize to him, not to God.

In the film, God behaves like a vaudeville pro. He drops a multitude of oneliners, such as: "The last miracle I did was the 1969 Mets; before that it was the Red Sea." and reassures the doubting Denver with: "Trust me, like it says on the money

In his first film role, Denver utters such lines as: "Chemicals. Everything has chemicals. We're turning kids into garbage cans," in reference to packaged foods at the breakfast table

Denver, 34, whose recordings sell millions, is "perfect for the part," Reiner said. "He really is like that: concerned with the environment, about the future of the planet and the human race

For Burns, 81, who starred in radio, television and night clubs for 36 years, mostly as a straight man for his wife and partner, Gracie Allen, who died in 1964, this is his 16th film. He won an Academy Award for his most recent role in "The Sunshine Boys.

"Burns went to one of Denver's concerts and he was amazed, so impressed at the way Denver commanded his audience, kept them enthralled," said Re-"Burns said, 'The kid tuned his guitar for two minutes and nobody stirred. I'd have to do a soft shoe and tell a hundred jokes to keep an audience interested, but not John.

Denver's problems in the film are not quite Jobian, but being messenger of God is not exactly on the same level as being delivery boy either: · He is given a multiple choice test in an archaic language by a panel of theologians which includes a money-conscious

· He is considered a kook by his neighbors and his boss threatens to demote him to checkout counter bag boy. · He is sought out by the news media but has trouble convincing a newspaper religion editor that he has seen and talked to God. · He is treated as a religious fanatic by his embarrassed children and his skeptical wife (Teri Garr), who quips: "Even Moses didn't give his last name," when she reads a newspaper article on him.

Top films held for release at Christmas

Update Fine Arts Editor

Movies, the good ones anyway, have been a rarity lately — primarily because the biggies are being held for Thanksgivng and Christmas release.

Films like "Looking For Mister Goodbar" and "Equus" are having their openings in October in New York, but the rest of the country won't see them until it's almost time to slice the turkey.

For those interested in just what films have been booked for the holidays in Lubbock, here's a partial list. Showplace Four was the high bidder for "Semi-Tough," the football comedy starring Burt Reynolds, Jill Clayburgh and Kris Kristofferson. Directed by Michael Ritchie, it is based on the book by Texan Dan Jenkins. It starts Dec. 21.

The South Plains Cinema, which scored the coup of the season when it booked "Star Wars," may have booked the best sci-fi film ever made (according to advance reports) for Christmas. The picture is called "Close Encounters Of The Third Kind." It stars Richard Dreyfuss and Francois Truffaut, and is directed by Steven Spielberg.

'Encounters' is Spielberg's first film since "Jaws."

The South Plains Cinema will also be showing "The Choirboys," based on the Joseph Wambaugh cop novel. Wambaugh is sueing the film company because of changes made in the script, but the cast remains solid enough to inspire interest.

"Close Encounters Of The Third Kind" starts Dec. 20, while "Choirboys" starts Dec. 23. Meanwhile, Showplace Four has also booked "The Goodbye Girl," a Neil Simon picture starring his wife Marsha ("Cinderella Liberty") Mason and Richard Dreyfuss, for a Dec. 23 engagement. Starting the same day at the fourplex is "Piece Of The Action," Bill Cosby and Sidney Poitier's followup to "Uptown Saturday Night" and "Let's Do It

The Winchester's Christmas film will be Gene Wilder's "The World's Greatest Lover." Due to theater rentals in January, it is unlikely the Cinema West will obtain a major holiday release in De-

Still, there are theaters remaining open and Lord knows there are major releases still unbooked in the Hub City. For example, Diane Keaton is said to be sure Academy Award contender for "Looking For Mister Goodbar." "Equus" is a dynamic play. I'm not certain how it will relate on film, but Richard Burton deserves a chance to try to rid himself of the summer's albatross, "Exorcist II, The Heretic."

Many, many more films will see release at that time. Hopefully, Lubbock's slate will improve shortly.

Meanwhile, Lubbock theater managers should concentrate on the current releases which have bypassed the city. A delicate little film called "I Never Promised You A Rose Garden" has yet to play here. Neither has the Python crew's "Jabberwocky" or Robert Wise's 'Audrey Rose" or a film called "You Light Up My Life." The latter has, admittedly, received only lukewarm re-

The South Plains Cinema has booked in a few gems on one week trips of late. things like the "Fantastic Animation Festival" and "Pumping Iron." But more time and space has been granted to "The Lincoln Conspiracy," which began last weekend. The intimate cinema at the Mall also plans to bring back "Fantasia" in November.

Showplace Four has done well with reissues of "The Deep" and "The Outlaw Josey Wales," the latter barely beating out a Tech booking and an Home Box Office premeire. 'Rocky" has got everyone inspired again at the Village and Arnett-Benson, but by dropping admission prices to a buck, Backstage has managed to keep pace with the same

the dregs of any film series ever made. This week they are due to book "A Star Is Born,,' the film's umpteenth booking in the city but first time on a wide screen. After that, who knows? The same goes for the Lindsey. The Winchester is biding time before the holidays with a reissue and an exploitation film. Starting last weekend was "Stay Hungry," a fine film which marked Sally Field's reemergence as a bona fide actress. No more Gidget. And on Friday, the Winchester will start a quickie called "Starship Invasion," the first of what will no doubt be a long line capitalizing on "Star Wars."

As for the Fox Fourplex, quality is still dominating their booking sheets, despite the X-rated "Cinderella." Starting soon

"Bobby Deerfield." Oct. 21 will see Ken Russell's latest not-so-factual-but-interesting biography, this one called "Valentino" and starring Rudolf Nureyev and Michelle Phillips. Nov. 4 will see the Fox get Henry Winkler's film "Heroes." Christmas will see the Fox playing things like Disney's "Pete's Dragon,"

"Saturday Night Fever" and the new

Clint Eastwood release called "Gaunt-

LOS ANGELES - How do you make a television film in which the central figure is a prostitute?

Carefully, says George Eckstein, who produced the six-hour, three-part "79 Park Avenue" for NBC from the book by Harold Robbins.

"I don't think people expecting a titil-lating story will find it here," says Eckstein. "It's an honest and moving love story, more of a love story than about prostitution. We think we're honest in terms of the sexual side of it, but I think a lot of people who may turn in for the sexual titillation may be pleasantly sur-prised to find themselves becoming emotionally involved."

The miniseries will be seen on NBC for three consecutive nights, beginning at 8 p.m. CDT Sunday.

Lesley Ann Warren stars as the prostitute, Marianne Morgan. Marc Singer plays Ross Savitch, her love interest and later her husband. Michael Constantine is Ben Savitch, the powerful gambling figure and father of Ross.

Eckstein, who said he first saw Miss Warren in "110 in the Shade" in New York, said there was never any question that she wouldn't get the role.

"There's always the feeling that we should get somebody new," he said. "It would be somehow more exploitable. But she had the talent. She had the looks, the figure, the talent, everything we needed.

There was another flap about the casting, however. Eckstein had signed Abe Vigoda for the role of Ben Savitch. But the producers of "Barney Miller" and "Fish" said Vigoda had a conflicting schedule. Vigoda was forced to withdraw, amid threats of boycotting his two series. An amiable settlement was later reached.

Eckstein said the structure of the book was drastically altered in turning it into a miniseries. "The first two hours of the six hours stick relatively close to the book," he said. "But the last four hours take off on their own.

"The girl in the book, to me at least, was not a very sympathetic or interesting character. She sort of reveled in what she did. What we did was have her forced into prostitution. We gave her more vulnerability, more audience sympathy. We also made it into more of a love story.

He said, "Sex is organic to the piece and it would be hard to do a story about prostitution without sex. She herself is active in the story as a prostitute for maybe only one hour of the six. But there's a lot of candor without being exploitive. It's handled well. It is certainly more candid than usual.

"She is a girl who is disadvantaged in the sense of money, but is very beautiful, very sensuous and men keep hitting on her. She gets forced into this life."

Robbins' "79 Park Avenue" covers a 12-year span. "When she is young, she is involved with two fellows who follow her through most of her life," Eckstein said.

"One of them is the son of a mob-connected figure. And when she gets into prostitution, the prostitution is controlled by the mob. And the one fellow becomes a Bugsy Siegel-type operator."

He was asked if he thought television might turn to sex for exploitation now that violence has been virtually driven from the air.

"I suppose there might be a tendency to do that," he replied. "I think there's a danger, looking for a substitute for exploitable subject matter."

He said he thought television usually evaded the issue. "For obvious reasons, it's never been able to be presented with any honesty or explictness. And never will be. But I think there are boundaries

'Open house' slated by media division

The second media "open house" is scheduled Oct. 28 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the media division of Region XVII Education Service Center to allow a oneday public review session of instructional films and media available to area public schools.

Requests to view specific items should be made at least 10 days in advance, according to Gerald Rogers, director of media and technology

Other sessions are planned in 1978 for

Jan. 27 and April 28. Requests may be made by contacting the media division of the Education Service Center, 1218 14th St.

more honesty. I think the miniseries may play a role.

'Certainly with 'Captains and the Kings' there was a lot of sexuality," he said. "But I think because of the flak it produced the pendulum has swung the other way. Comedy certainly seems to have more license than the dramatic Eckstein said he had more trouble with the network over violence than with sex. "We have a rape in the first episode that is very frightening," he said. "And in ing CB radio in some way.

WASHINGTON - Motorists with CB radios are finding more and more Smokies equipped with ears to help in emergencies and provide traffic information. A survey by Inspector Robert E. Ellis, director of the D.C. Metropolitan Police's communications division, found only three state police departments not us-

And he found, "Small towns, counties and large cities alike are interfacing (their police and other public safety communications facilities) with CB radio

In fact, Ellis said, "More and more public safety agencies are making themselves readily accessible to the general public via CB radio."

Six of the 47 states reporting use of CB radio told Ellis they have units in each sippi, Missouri, Ohio, West Virgina and

And five others - Connecticut, Illinois, Minnesota, South Carolina and Vermont - propose to equip all of their cars. Ellis found.

Ellis' own department monitors CB Channel 9, the emergency and motoristaid frequency, 24 hours a day. But he told an interviewer:

"A lot of it (official police use of CB radio) is due to individual officers who pushed people like me into using it." In fact, Ellis' survey shows 18 states where a substantial number of troopers have equipped their police cars with CBs at their own expense. They are: Arizona, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas,

Kentucky, Maryland, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Mexico, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Utah and Vermont. The three state police departments
