Schools get cleaned up with aid of new contest

ester Elementary School children are painting landscapes on their building's window panes, to give classrooms a special view.

Lubbock High students have set aside a homeroom period for picking up litter and pulling weeds on and around

And at Alderson Junior High, ecology-minded youngsters are recycling the aluminum cans they retrieve from schoolgrounds.

Those are some of the things local public schools are doing to compete for a beautification award sponsored by the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce.

'This is the sort of contest that will have a lot of advantages for the schools, the students and the community, said Terry Stark, who helped organize the project for the

'We see it as a way to promote school pride in students, and instill a little competition among schools in seeing who can do the most to keep their school clean and attractive,"

"And when students make that extra effort to keep litter off the schoolgrounds and surrounding property, the whole neighborhood benefits. It's a tremendous help in improving relations between a school and the people who live around it." Stark said.

BEAUTIFUL PUBLIC SCHOOL campuses are also good promotion for Lubbock, he added.

"When people visit the city, one of the first things they want to see are the schools. If we can keep shrubs maintained, parking lots neat and litter off the schoolgrounds, visitors will get a good impression of Lubbock," Stark said. Under the rules of the contest being conducted by the chamber's beautification committee, each participating school has organized a clean-up effort, usually through the student council

The students, working with Parent-Teacher Associations and other organizations, have devised plans for controlling litter - a particular nuisance to surrounding property owners - and enhancing landscape and other school features.

The schools were judged this week, and a spring compe-tition is slated in March. Winners of the first round will be announced in about two weeks and receive a beautification flag which may be flown at the school.

SCHOOLS HAVE BEEN DIVIDED into various districts and categories for the competition. The flags will serve as traveling trophies among the schools in each group.

Elementary schools have been grouped into four competition districts: Wheelock, Maedgen, Stubbs, Stewart, Wester, Williams, Murfee, Haynes and Parsons are in District 1. Southeast, Harwell, Hodges, Bayless, Brown, Bean, Iles, Wheatley and Martin are in District 2. Bowie, Hardwick. Rush, Overton. Wilson, McWhorter, Tubbs, Wolffarth and Dupre and in District 3. And Bozeman, Posey, Parkway, Jackson, Mahon, Wright, Sanders, Guadalupe, Arnett and Hunt are in Dis-

The junior high schools have been divided into two districts. Atkins, Evans, Hutchinson, Wilson and MacKenzie are in one district, and Matthews, Slaton, Thompson, Alderson and Struggs are in the other. All five high schools - Monterey, Lubbock, Coronado, Estacado and Dunbar - are in the same grouping.

STUDENTS AT MANY SCHOOLS are taking the compe tition seriously, and they've come up with several creative ways to beautify their schools

At Wester Elementary, explained fifth-grade teacher and student council sponsor Bonnie Gober, each grade has been assigned a week to keep the schoolgrounds tidy.

And young artists at Wester have been decorating school windows with landscapes, giving students looking out and visitors looking in - colorful scenes, Mrs. Gober said.

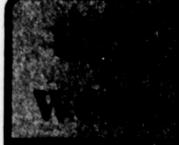

At Lubbock High School, student activities director Ri-chard Umstot said, "The main effort has been an all-school clean-up day." During their homeroom period one morn-ing, each homeroom was assinged a section of the campus - including parking lots, alleys and neighboring properties to pick up, he said.
 The student council also has discussed the possibility of increasing the number of litter cans on campus, conducting routine inspections of the schoolgrounds and improving school flowerbeds and landscape this spring.

At Alderson Junior High School, assistant principal Raymond Peppers says not only are homerooms keeping the campus picked up, but the school's Junior Historian chap-ter is selling the littered aluminum cans to a recycling cen-

'Jaws' help motorists get out of tight bind

By Pat Teague Update Staff Writer

he Lubbock Fire Department has spent nearly $5,000 to get you out of a bind - literally. As of Oct. 25 the department acquired a hydraulic car-opener. That's not canopener, it's car-opener and the device had a $4,925 price tag dangling from it, Chief Tom Foster said. But through budgetary cuts and other frugality, Foster said the new Hurst "jaws of life" was purchased without any additional outlay; and he predicts the device will yield substantial returns in the future.

Capable of being operated by a single firefighter, the device has "tremendous torque," Foster said. It also includes a pair of giant scissors.

The device is a part of the fire department's salvage wagon, a mobile unit that includes cutting torches, saws and other extricating equipment.

The "jaws" made its debut Oct. 28. when a young woman was pinned inside her vehicle at a crash near 4th Street and Boston Avenue The woman, who suffered only minor injuries in the mishap, was delivered from the vehicle with the help of the new device. Foster said ambulance attendants and police were skeptical of the "jaws" but appeared impressed with the device following its initial performance. The chief said several policemen and some emergency medical technicians showed up for a Saturday "jaws" seminar the day after the wreck at 4th Street and Boston Avenue.

Ironically, the owner of the car involved in the early-morning mishap Oct. 28 gave his permission for firemen to demonstrate the device using his vehiside," Foster said Since the new device is hydraulic, Foster said, there is no threat of sparks igniting spilled fuel. Foster said there is a remote possibility of fire, however, since the device is powered by a gasoline engine. But he added that potential for fire is less than it would be under conditions in which a saw is used to free trapped victims.

"The main problem right now is that we only have one for the entire city," Foster said. "As we develop expertise with the tool, we can already see the need for another one in the future.

Foster said the department hopes to have a "jaws" in West Lubbock in the future to cope with traffic accidents far removed from the Central Station at

The "jaws" now operable at the fire station is not the first in the area or even the county, Foster says.

An older model "jaws" has been in use at Reese Air Force Base for some time, he said, but the device at Reese reportedly is not equipped with shears. "With the shears (the device) is a much more usable piece of equipment,"

The fire department assumed the responsibility for buying the "jaws," Foster said, since firemen are charged under an emergency plan with rescue work. Though police also are included in the emergency plan, their primary tasks at an emergency are normal poice functions like crowd control and traffic coordination, Foster said.

Foster said the device, purchased from a Houston firm, also is being used by authorities in Amarillo, Muleshoe and Canvon. For the eventual victim caught in a tight squeeze," Foster says, the $5,000 outlay for the "jaws" may seem a pitt-

the boy to lie down

As the youth stretched out on the floor, the man went through each room of the home. A $750 camera and a citizens band radio were set aside, apparently to be taken with the burglar when he left. But those items were left at the scene.

Officers were also kept busy investigating an unusually large number of traffic mishaps, three of which claimed the lives of Lubbock residents.

In the city's 38th traffic fatality of the year, rain-slickened streets were blamed for the 4 p.m. accident Monday that killed Orville Glen Monzingo, 55, of 7502 Ave. H No. 99. Police said Monzingo's pickup was headed east on Spur 327 about one-half mile west of Frankford

Just hours before that mishap, Lubbock recorded its 37th fatality of the year when Joe Genaro Mendosa, 57, of 903 E. Rice St. was killed when the pickup in which he was riding struck a parked truck in the 1100-block of East Rice Street about 12:20 a.m. Monday.

A 38-year-old Lubbock contractor, Stanley J. Reed of 5224 17th St., died earlier in the week when his 1976 auto left the outside lane of Loop 289, skidded through a median and shot down a steep concrete embankment to Spur 327.

Only 90 minutes before that, a 22-yearold Texas Tech University student was critically injured in an accident in the 2100-block of the Amarillo Highway.

Police said Robert Graves Lee of Wichita Falls was injured when his car apparently swerved to avoid hitting a car Avenue when he apparently lost control parked at a yield sign there and then slid

editorial

A 'collar' for the master

BURYING THE hatchet won't accomplish anything unless the Humane Society and City Hall decide to do more about Lubbock's unhealthy stray-animal problem than alternately criticize and compliment each other.

Talk is cheap. And no where is hand wringing of less value than on the subject of malnourished, dirty, filthy abandoned "pets."

It's commendable that the Humane Society and Animal Shelter spokesmen have reached a temporary truce. But while the rhetoric has subsided, the mongrel population hasn't.

One supposes nobody has bothered to explain to the 15,000-20,000 animals loose on the streets that they should either go home, if they have one, or turn themselves in, if they don't.

POURING MORE money into additional facilities and personnel for the city animal control department neither solves the problem nor in the least way cur-

To do so makes about as much sense as enlarging the pantry because all the available rats can't crowd in for a piece of the action at the same time.

Animal Shelter director Jim Robison estimates that at least one-third of all loose animals are unowned. In classic understatement he once said: "It takes only a few loose to keep churning" the situation of overpopulation.

In the first three months of this year in Texas, there were 40 confirmed cases of rabies in domestic pets and another 82 cases among wildlife.

Considering Lubbock's location near the Caprock where wildlife flourishes, it's phenomenal there hasn't been a recent confirmed rabies case here.

Dangers posed by pet overpopulation also range from hookworms and other diseases spread by animal waste to sanitation problems caused by dogs turning over garbage cans.

With only 600 to 800 animals being destroyed each month, it doesn't take a mathematics major to figure out that the strays are keeping ahead of the game.

People who do not give dogcatchers a fair shake, tagging them as animal haters, not only are doing the officers a disservice but avoiding the issue altogether. Animals aren't the root of the stray overpopulation problem, people are.

IF THE NUMBER of citations issued for leash law violations suddenly were to rise sharply enough to convince irresponsible pet owners that Robison and his crew mean business, you can bet your last can of flea powder this needless nuisance and health hazard would begin to abate.

The citations, which either must be paid or contested within 10 days, average the owner about $25, but can go as high as $200.

If the number of $200 pinches began to overshadow the number of $25 slap-on-the-wrist inconveniences, we would be a long way down the road toward a more manageable situation.

ROBISON AND his staff never will win any popularity contests for making thoughtless people obey the law. But, so what? Being popular probably wasn't one of the primary inducements of the job of dogcatcher, anyway.

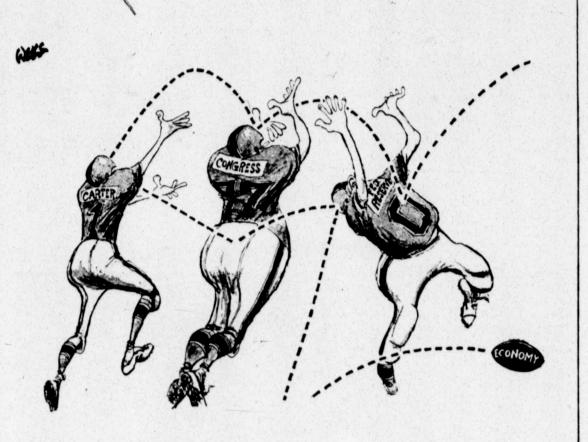

"Most persons just laugh at the warnings," Robison once said. "The best way to get something done is to make people mad.

If he's right, and if the city administration will stand behind him, it's time for Mr. Robison to start setting his enforcement bootheel down hard on a few

Those who yelp the loudest are going to be the primary contributors to the problem. They do not have our sympathy for the simple reason they don't de-

Hundreds of unleashed pets, whose owners obviously don't really care what happens to them, are roaming the streets now with thousands more abandoned, orphaned, starving and diseased animals in pitiful testimony to the fact that the collar sometimes needs to be on the human end of the leash.

We're supposed to be the smart ones, right?

citizen comment

Where do we go from here?

(Editor's Note: Today, Update starts a new feature in which Lubbock citizens are invited to express their opinions and comments on subjects of concern and importance to the entire community. Letters and comments should not exceed 250 words, normally, but in unusual cases exceptions will be made.)

"Child Missing - No Leads In Disappearance." Do headlines like this push a panic button somewhere inside you? If you are a parent, they do.

Where do we go from here - what can we do? We can do plenty if we do it in a determined, combined effort. We owe it to our children.

We try to provide safety and security, love, discipline and guidance from the moment a child is conceived. We try to instill in our child human virtues like love, trust, respect for other people, property and self. Then we send them to school where very little, if any, dress codes are enforced - either by teachers or students. Our children are being graduated from the best schools and universities without basic skills and knowledge to fill out an employment application or pass a simple spelling and arithmetic

What does this have to do with crime? Ask yourself this: Where does your child spend the most impressionable years of his life other than with you? This is not to say criminals are created in school, but with stronger rules and regulations in school, there would be a lot less delinquency in today's young people.

We are responsible for the welfare and safety of our child. Yet when he is molested by a member of the "Gay Liberation Movement," does society concern itself with the devastating effect on the child? - No! There are no riots and protest marches on behalf of that child the marches are on behalf of the "discriminated-against" gay people.

If it is not a "gay" molestor, but just a criminal with a sadistic streak, what happens? "Insanity" is pleaded - off he is whisked to a rehabilitation institution until competent to stand trial for charges. A conviction, probation, then back on the street again to repeat that sadistic streak on another innocent, unsuspecting child.

What can we do as parents? In this 20th-century "permissive" society where loose morals, questionable education and lack of proper supervision abound,

I firmly belive that if we, as concerned parents, band together in a determined effort on behalf of our children, we would get results and see a definite change in our young people.

Demand a say in what your children study in school - work for reinstigation of dress codes for both students and teachers - work for a law that would keep child molestors off the street and away from our children permanently in the form of mandatory death or life imprisonment (for first offense); it is the only way to insure that there will not be a second offense.

Our children have "civil rights," too just like the rest of us. They have the right to play outside in the sunshine in their own yard, they have the right to walk to their school two blocks away without being hassled by men and women shouting obsenities or exposing them-

We pay taxes - ever increasing - and we should have a voice - a very prominent voice - in matters that affect our children. Without our children, what do we have? - they are our tomorrow. We owe them, and without them - where do we go from here? Without the action of determined effort from us, your child or my child could be the "Child Missing" in the next headline

Keep the thermostat set at a constant temperature. Raising and lowering the temperature in a room is wasteful of heat and also makes for periods of discomfort - the room will be too hot or too cold. Some economy, and also health improvement, may be realized by lowering the thermostat temperature five to 10 degrees during sleeping hours Some rooms is a home or building can be closed off when they are not being used. These include utility rooms, store rooms and unoccupied family rooms or sleeping rooms. Garages and basement doors should be closed to prevent cold drafts and the escape of heat to these parts of buildings.

If a firnace has filters, remove and clean or replace them regularly, so the heating system can operate at its highest efficiency.

Remove covers from radiators and place furniture so that heat can circulate through convectors and ducts and around the room, thus eliminating cold drafts or hot spots in areas.

EARLIER THIS YEAR Texas joined 21 other states which have repealed or weakened motorcycle safety helmet laws. Despite the fact the protective headgear is still required on base, Air Force safety officials are concerned.

Department of Transportation figures show that eyelists who do not wear safety helmets are nearly three times as likely to suffer serious or fatal head injuries in a crash as are those wearing helmets.

During the first long weekend following repeal here in Texas, seven motorcyclists died in crashes - four of them weren't wearing any protective head-

The Air Force views protective helmets as a must for the safe cyclist. When buying a helmet, make sure it meets Department of Transportation and state standards, fits snugly all the way around, has a strong strap with two rings to fasten it, is a bright color, has reflective materials on it and is free of defects such as cracks or loose padding

12 million words on a murder

It was 51 years ago this fall that one of America's most sensational murdet trials, the Hall-Mills fiasco of 1926, created an insatiable national appetite for news of the killing of lovers.

The impassioned ones lacked the svelte images of Valentino and Garbo, but by the time the scandal-hugging press of the day finished with the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and his lead choir singer, Eleanor Mills, these two very dead sweethearts had become the Romeo and Juliet of America murder.

It was, at best, a dowdy affair from the start. Rev. Hall, 41, bald and beefy, was the popular pastor of St. John the Evangelist Protestant Episcopal church in New Brunswick, N.J.

Not for a moment did any of his parishioners suspect that he had for several years, been carrying on with Eleanor Mills, 34, a plain woman, but the sweetest singer in church choir.

Also unsuspecting, it seemed, were Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, the pastor's homely, dumpy wife, seven years his senior, and Eleanor's husband, James Mills, the $35-a-week sexton at St.

THE EVENTS ON THE night of September 16, 1922, however, certainly proved that someone was angriv aware of the trysting lovebirds. Their bodies were found stretched beneath a crabapple tree on De Russey's Lane outside of New Brunswick by a young couple.

Rev. Hall was clad in a neat, dark suit with a clerical collar, his face covered with an expensive Panama hat. There was a single .32 caliber bullet in his

Nestled in the crook of the pastor's arm was choir singer Eleanor Mills, adorned in a blue dress with red polka dots. A scarf covered her face. She had been shot three times in the forehead and her throat was slashed so deeply that the head was nearly decapitated. In a last grisly act, the killer, as if in contempt of her one great talent of singing, had removed Eleanor's voice box, tongue, larynx and upper windpipe. Love letters the victims had sent to each other were ripped and scattered about their bodies. Almost as an impish final gesture, the murderer had propped Rev. Hall's calling card at his feet

THE MURDERS WENT unsolved and the case faded only to burst wide open again at midnight on July 17, 1926, when squads of police suddenly surrounded the home of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and dragged the 52-year-old widow out of bed, charging her with the murder of her husband.

Also indicted for murder were Mrs. Hall's two brothers, Henry Stevens, a retiring stockbroker, and Willie Stevens, who was thought to be a half-wit.

Philip Payne, managing editor of the reckless tabloid, the New York Mirror, had prompted the arrests and trial after obtaining the calling card left at the feet of the slain Rev. Hall. Payne produced a

Stevens' prints were on the card. Mrs. Hall was equally convincing before the jury. Her tranquil composure under the most ruthless cross-examinatons caused one newsman to dub her

'the iron widow.''
Even James Mills, Eleanor's husband, was pressed into service as a newsman, his flapper daughter typing out his copy. Sixty leased wires in the courtroom basement hummed for 24 days, all funneled through a giant switchboard which had been built for the Dempsey-Tunney championship fight in Philadelphia. Along these wires the frantic scribes filed more than 12 million words on the sordid trial.

The spectacle was complete but the case unsolved. Mrs. Hall and her brothers were acquitted. They promptly sued the Mirror for $3 million, obtaining an out-of-court setlement. "The pig woman" went to her grave four years later, insisting to the last that Mrs. Hall and the Stevens brothers had gotten away with murder

I cook Lebanese food often," Mrs. John Mulford noted as she described the dishes she had prepared as Update cook of the week. "My family loves Lebanese food and on special occasions the family preference is to eat Lebanese food at home and celebrate rather than go out to a restaurant and eat.

Even her German-Irish husband. John, favors his Lebanese wife's cooking in preference to the type of food he was accustomed to eating before marrying.

For anyone interested in pursuing Syrian-Lebanese cooking seriously, Janet highly recommends Helen Corey's "The Art of Syrian Cooking.

There is the rich history that flavors the cooking (dating back to the time of the prophets, patriarchs and apostles in the Biblical world). There is also the medicinal use of certain spices and herbs that is as valuable an addendum as any to today's modern health vol-

112-34 cup rice

112 tsp. salt Pepper to taste

Rinse grape leaves and cut stems off of the leaves. Rinse rice then mix meat, rice, salt and pepper together to form stuffing for grape leaves.

To stuff leaves, take one tablespoon of stuffing per grape leaf and place across each leaf. Fold end of leaf like an envelope and roll away from you, or fold the top of the leaf over the stuffing. Then fold the sides of the leaf toward the center and begin to roll the leaf with the stuffing inside forward, until the stuffing is secure in the leaf. profile

Interest led to career in parks and recreation unit

Update Staff Writer

ohn Alford limped into his office in City Hall and sat down. "I was getting ready to start jogging - my wife even bought me a sweatsuit - when I broke my leg," he said.

The director of the Parks and Recreation Department broke his leg while playing baseball in the early part of the summer, and is just now able to get along without the help of a cane. He's always been interested in outdoor activities, and this interest led him to study Parks Administration at Tech, where he graduated in 1967.

"I had gone to school and changed my major three times," he said, "so finally I took a catalogue and looked at every degree. My hours fit the major closer and if I buckled down I could graduate in a couple of years ... it just looked in-

As director, Alford is responsible for planning, construction and maintenance of the Parks and Recreation programs and facilities - he's in charge of everything.

One of Alford's chief goals is to have a neighborhood park within half a mile of each Lubbockite. The parks are generally about five or ten acres, he said, and provide a little outdoor recreation near the home. These parks are in all but two of the planned areas, he said.

UPDATE

Parks are a result of long range planning. Alford said. The city has developed a master plan for Lubbock, trying to project the growth and recreational needs of the city. These plans include the neighborhood park guidelines, as well as the oft-discussed Linear Park, which is slated to stretch three miles. Alford is also responsible for the upkeep on the parks, though most of the duty falls to Max Robertson, the superintendant of parks. This involves construction by the city forces (the Planning Department handles the contract work) and general

The Canyon Lakes Project was partly under Alford's supervision: he took care of the cleanup and the city forces construction. Now after the opening of the project, the lakes are being shifted to the control of the Parks and Recreation

Alford, generally excited and voluble about his work, lights up even more when talking of the recreation aspect - the role played in Lubbock's

Most of the recreation programs are handled by Dick Walker, the superintendent of recreation, but a few of the programs are Alford's ideas.

"I suggested a few of the music and other cultural programs," he said. "I felt they were need-

Alford is responsible for the Youth Chamber Orchestra as well as other groups such as the Civic Chorale, which play at churches and the Garden and Arts Center. The bookings for all these civic-sponsored groups are handled by the recreation department.

"Lubbock has always been more involved in the arts than the average city, because of the Garden and Arts Center - many other cities rely on privately funded organizations," he said.

Alford, a small, peppery man with spaceman glasses, has been aiming for the director's chair since he started work in the parks department nearly 10 years ago.

"It seems that everytime I was about to go somewhere else my immediate supervisor retired or left." he said, talking about his advancement in the department.

"Being from Lubbock, after I started working for the city I just wanted to be director - I guess that's all I want to do, too.

Alford is married and has four children, and in his off hours he likes to race motorcylces. He's had to slack off quite a bit since he broke his leg. but he's planning to get into Enduro racing, a kind of sports car road rally for motorcycles.

The race is not based on how fast the racer can ride, but on how well he maintains an average speed. He races a 175 Can-Am, and uses an old BMW for a street bike. He even used to tour and race motorcycles

'My wife doesn't know it, but I've been riding again already. You know. I've broken my leg before, when I was riding and now friends of mine see me with this leg and say it's that motorcycle

Doll march

Members of the Camp Fire girls staged a march on South Plains Mall recently — a doll march, that is, that kicked off this year's Toys for Tots campaign. Campe Fire girls and Blue Birds from Wolffarth and Nat Williams Elementary Schools brought dolls to the U.S. Marine Corps Reserve, who is once again sponsoring the drive. Anyone wishing to donate toys are requested to take them to the nearest fire station and deposit them in boxes provided. Those who can't may call 762-7613 and the Marines will pick up toys from homes or businesses.

Traffic Update: Close calls on buses

(Editor's Note: The following article is presented by the Lubbock Citizens Traffic commission in cooperation with Update to help keep local motoritsts better informed on traffic-related matters.)

SCHOOL BUS DRIVERS are reporting that many motorists are failing to stop while children are getting on and off the buses in Lubbock. We've had lots of close calls, but luckily no kids have been hit in the five years I've been here," said Robert Miller, director of transportation for Lubbock Public Schools

Although Lubbock is an urban area, there are about 1,200 students who ride the bus to school every day on the system's 28 routes.

Most frequent complaints from bus drivers are coming from two locations where motorists consistantly disobey the law. School bus stops at North University Avenue and Marshall Street and on East 50th Street at Locust are particularly hazardous because cars are not stopping.

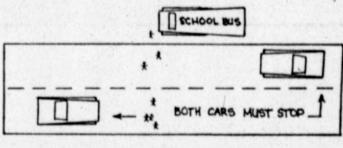

'A little girl was nearly hit on North University two weeks because a car drove right past the stopped school bus." Miller said.

Drivers are required by law to grant the right of way to school buses. Here's what the Texas Drivers Handbook has to say

Drive with care when you near a school bus. If you approach a school bus from either direction and the bus is displaying alternately flashing red lights, you must stop and not pass until (1) the school bus has resumed motion, or (2) the bus dirver signals you to pass, or (3) the red lights are no longer flashing.

You need not stop when meeting or passing a school bus which is on a difterent roadway.

The illustration points out that cars approaching a school bus from front and behind must stop.

Miller expalined that most of Lubbock's buses display amber lights to indicate the bus is coming to a stop. As soon as the bus door is opened the red lights begin to flash and continue flashing until the door is closed.

RADAR REPORT: Police radar units will be on the lookout for speeders this week in the 5400 block of 4th Street, the 4700 block of Indiana Avenue, several school zones and other selected locations.

66TH STREET IS an important collector street that has never been fully developed in Southwest Lubbock. But land on the north side of 66th Street east of Indiana Avenue is now being developed, and right of way is dedicated for street widening. Curb and gutter is now being built along 66th Street between the Municipal Tennis Center at Gary Avenue and Indiana Avenue, and soon 66th Street will be the full 48-foot width in that area.

DEATH WATCH: Everyone knows that young people are the most reckless drivers and that mature drivers are more careful. Right?

Wrong Carelessness knows no age limit Reviewing the 30 fatal traffic accidents in Lubbock so far this year, 11 of the drivers at fault werre under age 25, but 12 of them were over 40.

Starving artists to show works

A rtists from Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma will display their works in the sixth annual Jaycee-Ettes Starving Artist Sale Saturday and Sunday. The sale is slated in the ballroom of the Memorial Civic Center from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and noon to 6 p.m. Sunday. The original works will be priced from $10 to $100, according to Mrs. Brent Armstrong, sale chairman.

Proceeds from the sale will go to charitable organizations. Last year, proceeds were used to buy equipment for the Texas Tech University Speech and Hearing Clinic, a tape recorder for the Rape Crisis Center and also provided $1000 each to the Multiple Sclerosis Society and the Texas Tech Program for

Most teams end season

pdate Sports Staff

Another season of high school football ends this weekend for everybody in Lubbock except the Monterey Plainsmen.

Coach James Odom's troops successfully defended their District 4-AAAA grid playoff rights by clinching the title with a 28-7 win over Lubbock High last Thursday. The Plainsmen, 8-0-1 for the season, entertain Hereford on Thursday at Lowrey Field. The following week opens Monterey's playoff path against Amarillo Tascosa, 9-1. A site and time will be determined for the game later this week.

The only other Lubbock team which still maintains title aspirations is Estacado. Coach Louis Kelley's Matadors stand 5-4 for the year but 4-1 in District 3-AAA wars. Another EHS win Friday at Sweetwater coupled with a Dunbar win at San Angelo Lake View would give the Matadors a co-championship with Lake View. However, Lake View would advance to the playoffs because it downed EHS 21-0 in their meeting this season.

Dunbar's chances for a share of that league honor sank down the drain last Friday at Snyder. The Panthers lost four costly fumbles and fell to the Tigers 16-13 although the Panthers led in total offense 271-147.

Coronado, 4-5-1, finished its campaign with a 21-21 tie against Plainview last week. The Mustangs kept their chances for a title alive until Monterey downed them 40-7 the previous week. And Mon-terey also spelled the end of title hopes for Lubbock High.

Lubbock Christian's Eagles finished their season on a high note with a 16-8 triumph over New Mexico Military Institute at Roswell. Shawn Williams and Pat Randolph scored TDs for LCHS, which finished 3-7 for the year.

Queen's court

Lubbock Christian High School recently selected its Homecoming Queen and court during halftime activities. Elected queen was, center, Lindee Haley, daughter of Sherry Byers of 5428 30th St. and Chuck Haley of Lubbock. Miss Haley is a junior at LCHS and a varsity cheerleader. Her court consists of, left, Lisa Meyers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Royce Meyers of 4201 68th St., a senior and head cheerleader; and Joy Henniger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H.K. Henniger of 5315 29th St., a senior and varsity cheerleader.

Tech to put bowl hopes on line

Still with a bowl invitation a definite ground, the lowest rushing total for an possibility. Texas Tech prepares to face SMU Saturday in Dallas.

The Red Raiders, 6-2 with three games left, must defeat the Mustangs in order to have a chance at a bowl bid, head coach Steve Sloan believes.

"If we can beat SMU, we'll be 7-2 and have a good chance for a bowl," he said. "If we lose, I don't think we'll be considered by anybody. Bowl invitations first can be extended at 6 p.m. Nov. 19. Tech plays Houston that night in its next-to-last game of the season. The Raiders close their regular season against Arkansas in Lubbock Currently, that game is set for Nov. 26, but the possibility exists that it could be moved up two days to Thanksgiving Day. Sloan was pleased, overall, with Tech's 49-17 victory over TCU last Saturday. The defense played well for the most part, although it allowed two touchdown passes. It allowed TCU just 117 yards. The Horned Frogs got just 15 on the fast as a wabbit

SWC team this season.

"I thought our pass defense was better, overall, than it has been at times this year," Sloan said. "I was more confident in it against TCU." Offensively, the Raiders were spotty, but they had four legitimate touchdown drives. Rodney Allison started at quarterback and gave Tech a lift, although he was at half speed, in Sloan's estimation. "I thought Allison did a good job, considering." Sloan said: "He couldn't run, though, and that took three or four of our best plays away from us."

CHS, LHS GOLF PLAINVIEW (Special) - Todd Williams and Alan Atkins both fired 77s here Saturday to lead Plainview to a high school golf win over Coronado and Lubbock High. Plainview finished the 18-hole event with a 312 team score, while Coronado posted a 321 and Lubbock High a 355.

The Raiders suffered several injuries in the game, and Sloan hoped to get everybody well in time for Saturday's contest against SMU in the Cotton Bowl. SMU is 4-5 for the season and 3-3 in conference play. Tech is 3-2 in league action.

"SMU has a number of big-play people, and they're well coached," Sloan said. "We're going to have to do a lot of work on our pass defense this week

Vannelli concert has high, low points

Update Fine Arts Editor

Perhaps inspired by a dismal turnout of 2500, the Gino Vannelli show Thursday night took its not-so-sweet time getting things running smoothly.

Billed as an 8 p.m. starting time, the show didn't get underway until 8:30 p.m., when a comic named Uncle Dirty proceeded to offend everyone present for a good 20 minutes before being heckled off the stage.

There followed another 30 to 40 minute intermission, despite the fact no time was needed to change sound equipment (since there was no opening band). It was shortly after 9:30 p.m. when Gino hit the stage and his set lasted only about one hour. The two songs during the encore may have stretched it ten minutes further.

Vannelli's highly touted theatrical lighting effects were still stunning in their synchronization, but his antics never managed to get the crowd really involved. After the show, Vannelli stated that the crowd did seem more dead than Vannelli's movements which, once you've seen him perform, seem too staged and lacking in spontanaity, appeared more silly than energetic when conducted on a stage which had all but been swallowed by the hall itself. Relying more and more on his Vegas-style presentation to sell his act, Vannelli and his promoters should give serious consideration to keeping him in the smaller, more intimate halls.

with the Panama Canal treaty.)

When it comes to his band, however, they fit in just fine in any hall you've got. The Coliseum was no exception.

Vannelli uses the unique concept of using only keyboard, synthesizer and percussives. No guitar. No bass. No brass. And it works beautifully. His opening of "Love Of My Life" saw brother Joe Vannelli's synthesizer setting the pace.

With Gino strutting in a pink satin shirt, white pants and knee boots, his band was setting down a clean hard sound which, through its unique concept, managed to please jazz, rock and MOR fans.

This is not to belittle Gino's talent in comparison with his band's, especially since Vannelli writes all of the material himself. But his vocals did not carry the intensity of last year's show, and his use of no-word choruses (yeah, yeah, yeah and whoa, whoa, whoa) was aggravating.

This is not to say there were not high points. Vannelli's "War Suite" was extremely effective. His latest album holds a complete four-part symphony written by Vannelli and, though the absence of the 100-piece Royal Philharmonic Orchestra was of course noticeable, his band's playing of the third rock movement was exciting and stimulating.

Gino closed with "People Gotta Move" which, with "Powerful People," constitutes his only AM airplay. But Vannelli maintains he doesn't care about the AM charts. Perhaps he should take more care in both other bands' success formulas and his own theatrical needs.

Vannelli had the women swarming the stage again Thursday. That was to be expected. And those who had never before seen him perform were most likely impressed by the lights and the unique sound combinations, maintaining they got their money's worth and more. But for the many who have followed Vannel-- or who hoped to see a followup to last year's Auditorium show - Thursday's concert had to be labeled only half-and-half entertainment.

Half of it was the band, whose talent shined through. The other half was the delays, the too-pat stage theatries, the attitude of "if it worked once, it'll work

Still, Thursday's concert was the first leg of a long tour by Vannelli. There remains hope for him to get his act in place and back into dynamite status before too much longer.

ramblin' rhodes

By Don Rhodes

The man who easily is rated among the top five banjo players in the nation said the relationship he has with his instrument is like a marriage.

Sonny Osborne - a bearded, happy man who joins his brother Bobby to comprise the Grand Ole Opry team known as The Osborne Brothers - commented. "In a way, there are times I would like to get away from it. but when I do I still think about it.

In spite of being a perfectionist on his five-string Gibson banjo. Osborne says almost daily practice is still necessary. "If you don't, somebody will pass you. Everything is made of one thing: How bad you want it. No matter what it is in life, you've got to want it bad enough. That's perfection. I learn something new every time I pick my banjo up.

Osborne says he strives more for musical perfection on his records than during stage performances. "On stage, I try not so much for perfection, but for entertainment. If you're human, you're going to hit some bad notes. I'm a firm believer when people hear you on stage, they're really listening to your records in their mind.

Even after more than two decades of recording and performing - including one gig in the White House during Richard Nixon's presidency - Osborne says he still appreciates praise bestowed by fans

"I am tremendously honored when I receive a compliment by a fan. Really, honored is not the right word. There is no word to explain it. Still, it's hard to say without sounding conceited, but I know what I can do with my instrument. I've worked long and hard enough to deserve some kind of recognition, but that sounds like conceit," he said almost apologetically.

Recognition has come to the Osbornes through sales of recording like "Rocky "Ruby (Honey, Are You Mad At Your Man?)," "Midnight Flyer" and through music awards. The Osborne Brothers, who have been members of the Grand Ole Opry for 13 years, have won Music City News' top bluegrass music group award for the past seven years; won many popularity polls conducted by bluegrass music magazines and won the Country Music Association's vocal group of the year award in 1971

Osborne appreciates the honors but adds, "As for awards, Ira Louvin (of the Opry team known as The Louvin Brothers) told me the only thing awards are good for are to break people's hearts." YOUTH CENTER BENEFIT: Roy Clark, banjo player Buck Trent and the singing group, The Oak Ridge Boys, raised $25,000 recently at a benefit show for the continued operation of the Hollenbeck Youth Center in Los Angeles, with the show being sponsored by the Los Angeles Police Department.

It was the second year Clark has performed for the coed youth facility.

It cost the American taxpaver about $30 billion a year to operate the Medicare and Medicaid programs.

According to testimony before a Senate committee, as much as $3 billion of that amount may be spent on fraudulent, or at the least, questionable pay-

The problem is wide-ranging, involving everything from payments for services not rendered to double price lists, from kick-backs by laboratories and pharmacies to "Medicaid mills" that treat nonexistent ailments.

Senate investigators, for example, selected 20 bills at random that had been presented to Medicaid for payment by a Chicago medical lab on behalf of a physician in that city. In 12 of the 20 cases the doctor had never seen the patient. Medicaid paid a total of $885 for the 20 bills but the doctor's records show that he had ordered only $119 worth of tests.

In the State of Illinois it costs a medical laboratory about 25 cents to conduct a urinalysis. A private patient is charged $3 for the work, but the government pays $10 for a Medicaid patient.

A Senate committee report concludes that kickbacks are widespread among laboratories which specialize in Medicaid business and the president of the California Pharmaceutical Association testified before Congress that the administrator of one nursing home demanded a 25 per cent rebate as the price of doing

A pharmacy in Michigan, during a 45day period, billed the Medicaid program for 18 prescriptions for one patient. The medicine had never been prescribed by a doctor and was never received by the

One Capitol policeman, who served briefly as an undercover Senate investigator, told of a "medicaid mill" in New York where he was treated for flat fee by the podiatrist and given a prescription for glasses by the optometrist, although his feet are healthy and his vision is 20/20.

A newspaper reporter testified about a doctor in Chicago who specialized in mass tonsillectomies, giving tonsillectomies to every member of a family of five in a single day, and doing it on more than one occasion A doctor in Detroit, according to testimony, had incorporated and established a network of 28 clinics throughout the metropolitan area. Investigators for the State of Michigan visited eight of the clinics in a single afternoon and found no licensed doctors at seven of them. Instead, there were non-doctors, in white smocks, providing drugs, giving injections, diagnosing and treating illnesses.

Congress has taken action this year to clamp down on these and other frauds and abuses that drive up the cost for Medicare and Medicaid without improving the medical services being provided the elderly and the needy.

A bill which I co-sponsored has now been approved by Congress. It increases the penalty for Medicare and Medicaid fraud to a felony, with a maximum sentence of five years in prison and a $25,000

The measure also tightens down on procedures within the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for inspecting institutions that give health care under these programs and for investigating abuses.

Medical institutions, for example, are now required to disclose complete information on ownership and on divisions of payments to ascertain if they are being operated in a fair and businesslike man-

Only a tiny percentage of the doctors, pharmacists and others in the medical profession in this country have been involved in the questionable practices that this new law speaks to. The overwhelming majority in our medical community has, in fact, been appalled by what is happening and has taken the lead in ushing for reform.

By the same token, Medicaid and Medicare have been of great benefit to the elderly and the needy who could not otherwise afford adequate medical care. Without Medicaid, many inner-city hospitals would not by able to operate at

But steps had to be taken to call a halt to the abuses and frauds by putting violators on notice that they are going to be subject to strict accountability under

cb radio

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Thieves appear to be caught in the middle of declining CB prices and rising public awareness of the theft potential of their rigs. The result: fewer stolen radios.

For the second time this year, the FBI has reported the over-all theft rate has declined, this time by nine per cent during the first half of the year compared with the same period of 1976. The FBI reported a five per cent increase in theft last year and a spokesman said that, while FBI statistics did not specify types of theft, indications were that CBs stolen from vehicles made up a substantial portion of that

Since then, the FBI reported the theft rate down 11 per cent during the first three months of the year and some auto insurance representatives said then that they believed a decline in CB thefts had contributed to the drop.

During that period, CB radio prices declined by as much as two-thirds. Some 23-channel sets that sold for $150 two years ago now can be bought for $50.

The Electronic Industries Association, a trade group representing CB manufacturers, agrees that the continuing theft decline is due in large part to the drop in CB prices, according to Mark V. Rosenker, public relations director for its nications division.

"There have been fewer CB thefts because the lower prices provide less incentive," Rosenker said in an interview. But he also said that recent developments permitting disguised antennas and hidden radios often make thefts more difficult.

"We don't know which has contributed most to the drop in thefts, but we think it's because of the lower prices,"

Rosenker said the EIA also attributes the theft decline to the fact that CB owners have become more aware of CB thefts and are taking more precautions

His assessment was echoed by Sgt. Fred Cipriani of the Indianapolis Police Department's public information office.

Cipriani said his department, noting a 193 per cent increase in thefts in 1976 due in part to stolen CBs, instituted a program to make CB owners more aware that their rigs were targets for thieves.

It involved, he said in a telephone interview, television ads and police officers visiting shopping centers where they engraved identification numbers on radios and provided owners with antitheft tips and decals saying their radios had been registered with the police.

"We got a tremendous response from the public," he said. "We're still getting calls from people asking if the program still exists.

It doesn't, he adds, although he says his department will register radios and engrave identification numbers on them if their owners bring them to police sta-

But the program resulted in such a drop in CB thefts that the Indianapolis department no longer records CB thefts separately in its larceny statistics.

City boards, commissions reviewed

By Paula Tilker Update Staff Writer

About 215 Lubbockites pool their time, talents and resources to directly influence city government.

They form the 28 boards and commissions that handle much of the preliminary work on matters confronting the Lubbock City Council.

In fact, council members deem most of the boards and commissions vitally important to municipal government and to Lubbock's citizens.

The groups operate at different levels of efficiency and have varying degrees of impact. Most meet monthly to discuss administrative policies and problems in various city departments such as transit, planning and zoning and the Memorial Civic Center. They recommend action to the city council.

Others, such as the Human Relations Commission, have the potential for influence but do not pursue it. The HRC repeatedly fails to generate quorums for meetings, with the result that little work is accomplished.

SOME GROUPS address highly specified issues and so meet less regularly. An example is the Water Resources Board (WRB).

Although it has not met in several years, the board still is considered active and ready for service when the need ar-

WRB's purpose is to advise the city council on matters pertaining to enlargement of the city's water supply.

City Public Works Director Sam Wahl said that the group may be re-activated when water feasibility studies of a site near Justiceburg are completed

If the Garza County spot proves feasible, the seven-member board will probably will oversee much of the detail work and report to the council, he said.

The Canadian River Municipal Water Authority Board, to which Lubbock contributes two members, also meets special needs about which few Lubbockites are aware. The Housing Standard Commission, Board of Building Examiners and Appeals and Plumbing Board are other groups that handle specific problems and generate little public awareness.

THE CITY OF Lubbock still retains on its lists some groups that no longer exist. Examples are the City-County Welfare Board and City-County Child Welfare Board, both of which were abolished after the county assumed control of the welfare department.

Board and commission members are volunteers whose activities rate high with council members.

When you think about that many people giving their time free-gratis, it makes available to the government a pool of talent that's a tremendous help," Mayor Roy Bass said.

If we had to pay all those folks at the going rate for what they put in, it would be a tremendous budget item, he explained.

Boards that meet monthly generally demand from two to 15 hours of work a month, an informal survey of board chairmen shows.

The Planning and Zoning Commission probably puts in the most hours, sometimes meeting as much as four times a month.

Betty Anderson Urban Benewal

Betty Anderson. Urban Renewal Board Chairman, said she and her colleagues work on board business about eight to 10 hours a month.

George Thompson, immediate past president of the Housing Authority Board, said his group averages several hours a month, as does the Zoning Board of Adjustment, according to Chairman Lon Miller.

All three said their service has increased their interest in municipal government.

"It gives you chance to get involved," he explained

Mrs. Anderson echoed him. "I think that after you get involved in the process, how it works, the people involved, surely your interest is heightened," she said.

Karen Mast joins advertising firm

Karen Mast of Lubbock has joined Womack, Claypoole, Griffin Advertising, Inc. as production manager for the Lubbock office.

She was previously employed by Industry Showcase. Inc. and has worked as an advertising account executive.

Jerry Griffin, Lubbock office manager, said, "The addition of Karen to our Lubbock staff as production manager expands our ability to efficiently service an increasing amount of business due to our current growth."

Mrs. Mast is a 1972 graduate of Sweetwater High School and attended Texas Tech University from 1972 to 1976 where she majored in telecommunications.

Barnett recipient of scholarship

ABILENE (Special) — John Barnett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Barnett of 5419 27th St., was named an agricultural scholarship recipient at Abilene Christian University.

Barnett, a freshman agricultural major, was awarded the W.S. Taylor Memorial Scholarship. He is a 1977 graduate of Lubbock Christian High School where he participated in football, baseball and track. He was also senior class president.

looking back

Nov. 10, 1957: MASSIVE PLANE SEARCH PUSHED: An airliner vanishes with 44 persons aboard. An air and sea search over 100,000 square miles of the Pacific Ocean continued, looking for a four-engine clipper - "Romance of the Skies" - which was carrying an eightmember crew and 36 passengers. More than 29 planes and 14 vessels were taking part in the search In other news: Homecoming activities were being brought to a close as the week-end's last hours saw exes, grads and students return to the routine of ev-

Nov. 9, 1967: VOTERS FACE DECI-SION: Eighteen Lubbock polls opened to allow an anticipated turnout of more than 12,000 voters to decide upon 11 bond proposals, a city sales tax and urban renewal which would set the pace for Lubbock's future growth.

In other news: Three robbers took $35,-557 from a bank in Byers. Law enforcement officers in Oklahoma and Texas continued to search for the three men.

Nov. 9, 1972: AREA COTTON HAR-VEST GAINING MOMENTUM: Two major cotton buying firms felt the prediction of an 11,000-bale increase in cotton harvest over the previous year was getting closer as harvest rates in the Lubbock area continued to rise.

Classics panel

awards students

Dr. Mary Louise Brewer, right, professor emeritus of English at

Texas Tech University, presents

four scholarship checks to Dr. William Mayer-Oakes, chairman of the archeology department at Tech. Friends of the Classics, Inc., which Dr. Brewer founded, recently selected four high school students for excellence in Latin and the humanities. Scholarship recipients are, from left in background: Oralia Bravo, Monterey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roberto Bravo of 3706 69th Drive; Brenda James, Coronado, daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs.

Richard S. James of 4622 27th St.; DeLane Butler, Coronado, son of Dr. and Mrs. Lester Butler of 4503 53rd St.; and Dorothy Walker, Dunbar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt Walker of 1806 E. 27th St.

In other news: Peaceful student protesters were opposing a decision made by Texas Tech administrators to ban the Carol of Lights, a traditional Christmas display along the Science Quadrangle and Memorial Circle. The students were aiming for a decision reversal.

Churches break ground

A new church structure valued at $200,-000 was dedicated and ground was broken for two other church structures in Lubbock last Sunday

The dedication was at Broadview Baptist Church, located at 1402 N. Frankford

South Plains Church of Christ structure at the intersection of 68th treet and Elkhart Avenue and a new auditorium for St. Luke's United Methodist Church at 3717 44th St.

Baird's bakery honored

Vernon Baird, left, president of Mrs. Baird's Bakeries, Inc., recently presented Milton Conine, general manager of Mrs. Baird's Lubbock bakery, with the Founder's Cup, awarded annually for outstanding bakery performance. The Lubbock plant outscored other plants in Texas in competition of quality, freshness, sales, sanitation and safety. Employees gathered at the Hayloft Dinner Theatre for the presentation, followed by dinner and a play.
