Lubbock is quieter than usual; Crime activities kept minimal

A damper on criminal activities in the city, Lubbock was a quieterthan-usual place to live, with violence being kept to a minimum the past seven

Since Wednesday, only one Lubbock-ite has fallen victim to murderers, and the city's week passed without another tragic traffic fatality like the one that earlier this month left five small children

The city's latest homicide victim, 22year-old Steven Lee Cook of Rt. 7, was pronounced dead about 3 a.m. Sunday on arrival at Methodist Hospital by Justice of the Peace Wayne LeCroy.

Police, who were still investigating the incident early this week, said Cook was slain and another Lubbock youth was injured during a fight that ensued following the two men's attempts to halt several Mexican-American men from continuing to create a disturbance in the area of the 3900-block of 20th Street about 2 a.m.

bing there found 19-year-old Mike C. Cumrnings of 2207 7th St. No. 108 lying in the roadway being assisted by bystanders with several small, minor stab wounds.

But, those bystanders told police, another man was lying near the intersection of 20th Street and Miami Avenue, and he, they said, had already died.

Officers found Cook lying dead at that es reportedly told officers Cook and Cummings were stabbed by 'four or five" Mexican-American men after the two tried to halt the gang from creating a disturbance in the area. Cook nd Cummings were traveling together.

When they tried to halt the group's activities, a fight broke out, and both men were stabbed, police said. The men were last seen reportedly driving a brown 1977 Chevrolet Monte Carlo.

Officers a short time later arrested five Mexican-American men at the intersection of 34th Street and Memphis Avenue in connection with Cook's slayLubbock police Sunday also arrested one man they claim was involved with the $3,200 robbery of the Lubbock Inn early Saturday.

Two ski-masked bandits made their way into the motel at 3901 19th St. about 4 a.m. Saturday through a rear entrance.

After sneaking up behind the motel-a attendants, the men ordered the employees to lie on the floor behind the desk and then tied both with electrical tape.

One of the masked robbers reportedly held a shotgun on the motel employees while the other sacked $2,315 in cash and $932 in traveler's checks in a newspaper carrier's bag.

The suspects, in their late teens, flee through the same rear entrance on foot, but may have used a four-door green vehicle as their getaway car.

Lubbock didn't record a traffic fatality for the first time in several weeks, bu one mishap less than a half-mile east of the city left two persons dead.

The victims were identified as James Allen Jr., 34, of Lubbock and Harold J. Ausbie, 42, of Paris.

Desegregation versions vary in hot debate

aking history is perhaps easier than writing it. Or so it seems with the growth of the Lubbock Independent School District, the topic of debate in U.S. Dist. Judge Halbert O. Woodward's courtroom.

Records, never quite complete, of how and why schools were located and stu-dents assigned decades ago have long since yellowed; accounts by decision-makers of a bygone era are in large part guesses.

Piecing together that information, school officials and the U.S. Justice Department each have assembled opposed versions of the district's history.

The department says the school system's development has been one calculated move after another to segregate children of different races. Some of the moves worked, some didn't, government lawyers contend, but the net result has been a school district so fraught with discrimination that radical changes are needed.

school district so fraught with discrimination that radical changes are needed.

School officials retort there has been no such segregation conspiracy. They say the school system's history represents a long effort to place schools near students' homes, minimize the number of traffic hazards for young pedestrians and — where circumstances permit — promote interesting. ances permit - promote integration.

IF WOODWARD SIDES with school officials, he probably will allow the district to continue in its "neighborhood-school" traditions by building facilities in growing residential areas south of Loop 289.

But if he believes the Justice Department, Woodward is likely to not only block the new schools but also order the district adopt a desegregation plan much more comprehensive than the seven-year-old effort affecting only eastside secondary

The Justice Department's expert witness, William Lamson, says that beginning in the early part of this century, the district in concert with city planners formulated a strategy for containing Mexican-Americans on Lubbock's north side and blacks in the city's southeast.

Lamson said the traditional "racial line of demarcation" here was the Santa Fe Railroad tracks. Schools to the all-white southwest were built well and orderly; facilities on the other side of the tracks were haphazard and substandard, he said.

THE EXCEPTION TO this pattern was the city's upper northeast side, which Lamson says the school district tried to establish as a "white haven." In the 1960s and 1960s, he said, several attempts were made to create a predominantly white community around East Fourth Street.

Lamson's account goes something like this:

As minorities filtered into a previously white area — say, Posey Elementary — school officials went farther northeast to open a new school, such as Bozeman Elementary, as an "escape hatch" for whites living in the Posey zone.

When Bozeman started going minority, the new Hunt and Parkway elementary schools were built, still to the north, indicating to whites that "if they choose to flee, school will be provided for them.

At the same time, Lamson said, the district was trying to hold minorities in place by building schools, such as Martin Elementary, on their side of the race line, too. In only one instance, Wright Elementary on the north side, did the district locate a

Other alleged tools of segregation, he said, were optional attendance zones, used in areas into which minorities were moving. For example, Lamson said, as blacks moved westward from the all-black lies-Wheatley-Dunbar area into previously white Dupre and Thompson attendance zones, these blacks were given the option and encouragement to return to their old schools.

School officials dismiss Lamson's contentions as mere theory, noting that many variables — such as terrain, safety hazards, the early purchase of school sites and other forces - have been overlooked.

Their argument is that schools have been placed for the convenience of students, whatever their race, in pursuit of a neighborhood-school concept.

Also, school officials say they had no way of knowing how a certain attendance zone — such as Bozeman, Hunt or Parkway — would develop. For all they knew, placing schools in those areas would help attract a mixture of both white-and minority families, thus promoting — not thwarting — integration.

Panel launches plan to renovate housing ollowing a nationwide trend to-ward self-help home improve-ment, the Lubbock Board of Realtors is launching a program here designed to organize homeowners to fight the creeping housing deterioration that threatens their neighborhoods socially and economically.

Within a month, the board plans to have selected a target area, organized the residents and begun renovation of a "guinea pig" house. The board last week suggested that the program be started in a 15-to 20-block area in Central Lubbock, a neighborhood designated by the city planning department as one having mi-

Although it probably will follow the ard's recommendation, the Realtors Neighborhood Revitalization Committee, a board subgroup, will make the fi-nal decision on an area. The area being considered needs relatively minor renovation, including such items as outdoor painting and window screen repairs, the city says.

Earlier this month, the Realtors endorsed the self-help program, which is being implemented nationwide by Realtor groups. The program is designed to restore and preserve the city's housing stock through private funds and citizen

The board reportedly will buy proper-ty in the neighborhood, restore and sell it at no profit. The private sector's action would serve as an incentive to nearby homeowners to renovate their own property, the board says.

Homeowners also will be encouraged to voluntarily join a neighborhood or-ganization to further promote housing rehabilitation. The Realtors board will coordinate the efforts initially.

Communicating with each property owner in the target area must be a vital first step if the program is to succeed, board member Buddy Barron said.

"Just buying the property won't be as important as the rest we can do" such as counseling residents on financing and renovation techniques, he explained City officials and the Urban Renewal Agency also have endorsed the self-help program as one way to stabilize neighborhoods, eliminate creeping deterioration and stretch public funds committed to housing rehabilitation further.

Mayor Roy Bass told the board that he already is working actively to support the program. He explained that he has bought a house in one possible target area and plans to renovate it before sell-

Saying that he believes private funds match public money in doing an effec-tive job at reversing housing deterioration, Bass also encouraged board members to follow his lead.

The local Realtors are following program outlined by the National Association of Realtors, which has pioneered the work elsewhere. Objectives set forth in the program are to:

· Revitalize and preserve the existing housing stock by encouraging homeowners to pool their efforts and by restoring abandoned and boarded houses so that the property can contribute to the economic welfare of the entire community.

• Support local neighborhood organizations and to work with local financial institutions to encourage their active participation in making mortgage and home improvement loans available.

· Involve the city government.

The observation is prompted by plans for an all-out safety blitz during the holidays and perhaps later in an effort to stall what has been the worst year in history for traffic deaths in Lubbock.

AS THIS WAS being written, the count had already surpassed the 40 mark and was climbing. City officials, from the mayor to the Police Department, frankly express not only alarm but a degree of puzzlement over the sharp increase in auto and other vehicle mishaps in the city this year.

While far above last year's extremely low total of 11, the 42 counted as of the past weekend was still far above the average in the 20s.

A STUDY OF the factors involving the rash of mishaps shows that all ages, all hours, and all sorts of circumstances are involved.

Police Chief J. T. Alley told a meeting of City Officials and the media the past weekend that investigation also shows that in at least half of the fatal accidents, the use of alcohol may have played a role.

Other factors involved a high incidence of failure to yield right of way and the running of red lights and/or stop signs. Another crucial factor of course

One of the key items stressed at the meeting was the use of "defensive driving" tactics. There are even such courses, given by the City and the Department of Public Safety in this area—the teaching of how to drive in such as away as not only to "look out for one's own driving habits, but those of the other driver as well.

That, in the final analysis, is what defensive driving is all about.

ONE OF THE big problems here seems to be that far too many Lubbock motorists do not realize the extent to which the city has grown and the corresponding increase in the number of atuos on the city's streets and nearby highways.

Dweedle Dum and Dee of prohibition

This writer recently ran across a dusty little book entitled, "Prohibition Agent No. 1," by Izzy Einstein. Although it sold no more than 575 copies when new at the end of the Jazz Age, this gem details the experiences of Einstein and his partner. Moe Smith, during their battles ainst illegal booze.

In the 1920s, no other pair created such fear in the marrow of bootleggers and speakeasy owners as did Izzy and Moe. Each man tipped the scales at more than 240 pounds, yet after being hired to enforce the Prohibition laws of New York City, they became the greatest bloodhounds the government let loose to sniff out breweries and stills.

Izzy and Moe were more than detectives. They were natural comics possessing acting abilities that trapped their gullible bootlegging prey and caught the fancy of the public through a bemused Einstein thought the direct approach was most effective. On his first assignment, the agent waddled up to a speakeasy door and told the man peering from inside, "I'm Izzy Einstein. I want a

"That's a hot one, fella," the bouncer laughed while throwing open the door. "So you're a prohibition agent, huh? Where's your badge?" he asked. Izzy bounded inside.

Einstein brought out his badge and placed in on the bar. He then motioned the bartender over.

"That's the best one I've seen yet," howled the bartender. "Looks like the real thing. Here, have one on me."

The roly-poly agent belted down the drink, but the joke went sour when he lunged for the bottle. The bartender got there first and broke it. Einstein went to court without the evidence and the arrest was thrown out.

BECAUSE OF THAT experience, Izzy and Moe devised "evidence collectors which consisted of a small funnel nestled in a vest pocket. The funnel was connected to a tube which ran to a flat flask in the back pocket. The agents simply poured their drinks into this contraption and collected enough evidence to make any arrest stick To get into speakeasies, the portly men took to wearing disguise. They pretended to be college students, rabbis, fishermen - even bootleggers. Once, they wore long black coats and carried violin cases to enter a speakeasy that catered strictly to musicians

As the Jazz Age wore on, Izzy and Moe became more elaborate with speakeasy owners. During a raid in the Bronx one evening, they appeared before a speak-easy door dressed as football players. "We won the game!" they shouted.

"Let us in! We want to celebrate with a

They were ushered inside by a congratulating speakeasy owner, whose smile turned to a frown when Izzy and Moe handed him a summons.

The pair's exploits became so well publicized that the "Dweedle Dum and Dweedle Dee of Booze," as they were dubbed, became celebrities. Fame brought Izzy an introduction to Professor Albert Einstein

The Etruscans

QUESTION: Who were the Etruscans?

ANSWER: Before Roman times, the Etruscan people settled the Tuscan region of Italy From their eastern homeland, they brought an advanced civilization. From the Arno River on the north to the Tiber on the south and from the Apennine Mountains to the Tyrrhenian Sea on the west, the Etruscans built Religious temples, tombs, metal work, pottery, painting, sculpture, drainage and irrigation systems, extensive trade with Aegean cultures, and an alphabet were among the achievement of the Etruscans.

The Etruscans came to settle in Italy after the Trojan War, about 1100 or 1000 B.C. Their civilization centered in the Po River valley, near present-day Bologna. About 800 B.C., the Etruscans, with their powerful army, extended their influence to Rome and then further south. After reaching the height of their power in the 400's B.C., the Etruscans suffered a series of defeats. Pressure from the Gauls, Greeks and Romans finally caused the collapse of their culture about

If you have been saving for a down payment on your dream home, the federal government has passed legislation to help you make your dream become a real-

Higher loan-to-value ratio limits have been established by the Housing and Community Development Act of 1977. What that means to the homebuyer is a lower down payment structure.

Effective Nov. 2, 1977, the ceiling on 95 percent loans was increased from $42,000 to $60,000 on conventional loans. Before that date only 90 percent loans were available for single family housing in that price range.

The new guidelines permit the purchase of a $60,000 home with only a 5 percent, or $3,000, down payment, plus prepaid items and closing costs. Prepaid Rems include 14 months' insurance and two months' taxes, and closing costs are estimated to be about $1,500.

The act also restructures the loan limits and down payment schedule on FHA insured loans. FHA now can finance single-family dwellings up to $60,000.

Moreover, the down payment on a FHA loan is changed to 3 percent on the first $25,000 of the loan and 5 percent of the amount over $25,000. For example, on a $60,000 single-family dwelling, you pay 3 percent, or $750, for the first $25,-000 of the loan and 5 percent and $1,750 on the remaining $35,000, for a total down payment of $2,500. As on the conventional loan, FHA requires that clos ing costs and prepaid items be added to the down payment.

What this legislation is designed to do is make home ownership possible for the family who can afford the house payment but is not able to save a 10 percent down payment for a home.

The existing financial qualifying criteria for loan applicants remains the same as it has been in the past. That is that your house payment should not exceed 25 percent of your gross monthly income, and your total monthly payments, including house payment, utilities and other obligations, should not exceed 33 percent of your gross monthly income.

So, if you have been waiting to buy a home until you can save a 10 percent down payment, you may not have to wait any longer.

Church finish date set in March, 1978

The new $1.9 million auditorium of Sunset Church of Christ at 3723 34th St. is near completion. Final date for completion set by the elders is March 15, 1978.

The huge fan-shaped structure spans an area of 30,000 square feet. Interior finishes will feature combinations of brick and paneling. Huge laminated beams of exposed, lightly stained wood deck meet in at a point over the rostrum.

Aisle carpets will be of a deep orangered hue.

The present auditorium of the church will be made into a two-story structure for Bible classrooms.

The new auditorium faces south on 35th Street

Sunset Church of Christ also houses the Sunset School of Preaching.

what's cooking?

Update Staff Writer

You don't realize what you have until you don't have it anymore," said Mrs. Susan Pollard, a vivacious, energetic wife, mother, civic volunteer, experienced traveler, - and Update cook of Mrs. Pollard describes herself as a family person "all down the line" and said she appreciates and values every moment she has with her husband, George (owner of Pollard Ford, Inc.) and with her children.

The Pollards oldest son, Jess, is 25years-old and attends Texas Tech University. Robert, their 22-year-old son is a medical student in San Antonio. Their three girls (all in school except for the youngest) are Katherine, 13; Cara, 10; and Christine, 2.

Mrs. Pollard travels frequently with her husband on business trips and has seen much of the world. Favorite places she remembers are Africa, Singapore, Hawaii, the Caribbean - and all points in Texas. When her husband isn't traveling on business, he takes advantage during the appropriate seasons to hunt turkey, pheasant, quail, elk, and duck.

These are the main wild game meats we like to eat." Mrs. Pollard said. Last summer, she recalled, George went to Hereford and returned with 100 pounds of potatoes, six bushels of corn and several baskets of large onions. Preparing the corn to freeze, she said, was the most difficult culinary trick of all. The Pollards favor cream style corn, so for several days Mrs. Pollard was seated at her kitchen table taking the kernels off the cob. Luckily, her husband found an ideal device to simplify the process: a new item on the market which removes the kernels of corn easily. (operating much in the way a cheese grater does); it removes the kernels, and 'milks' the corn.

"We are family oriented," Mrs. Pollard said with a smile as she used the corn cutter. "I am a volunteer in the Junior League, active in the Camp Fire Girls organization, and a member of a sewing group." Time is precious but time used wisely seems to add on to time, she reflected "Breakfast is a rather informal affair, but we all have time for a 'good morning' to each other to start the day off right. George eats all his noon meals at home when he is in town," Mrs. Pollard continued. "Then in the evening, the girls set the table and help me with the final preparation of the meal.

Mrs. Pollard said she believes if there is to be any vitality in cooking, there must be experimentation and the freedom to try new things. "My girls are as much at home in the kitchen as in any other part of the house," she noted. There is one rule, though, they must honor, and keep, and that is to clean up

"I am a weight watcher," Mrs. Pollard said. "Following a strict program of sensible eating has made me more conscious of the nutritional needs of the human body, and so, now, we are all

weight watchers - in the sense that all meals planned are balanced, healthful and moderate.

Mrs. Pollard says she considers her family typical of most American families in dietary habits, but said "We have, on one occasion, eaten frog legs, which might not be on most home menus but there was a special reason for this. George had gone hunting and returned with a hognose snake, which we kept in a restricted part of the back yard. The snake didn't do well, though, so George and the children decided frogs might nourish and satisfy the snake. But the snake died and left us with plenty of frogs' legs.

Sunday is George's day in the kitchen, Mrs. Pollard said, and he cooks a variety of concoctions, ranging from rich, flabarbecue to homemade ice Update thanks Mrs. Pollard for the following recipes.

McDaniel suggests removing 12 "unwarranted" signals from downtown

By Paula Tilker Update Staff Write

lmost everyone who drives in Lubbock seems to have at least one grim A tale to tell or complaint to air about the city's traffic signal system.

Most of the complaints seem to be of two kinds: either lights stay red an unreasonably long time or they turn red at almost each intersection, causing a stop-start driving pattern.

Bill McDaniel, city traffic engineering director, hears the gripes frequently, and says most of them are not valid.

Those who chafe at red lights usually are impatient drivers who have no thought for the "other guy," McDaniel says.

A red light may last only 15 to 30 seconds be explains but to the waiting

A red light may last only 15 to 30 seconds, he explains, but to the waiting driver, the delay seems excessive, "I don't think it's a valid complaint because if it stays too long for one person, it's the same for the others, "McDaniel says. "It balances out.

And, he says, "If I give you five more seconds of green light, someone else is penalized. We try to get a happy medium out there, but you can't please DRIVERS IDLING AT highly-trafficked intersections may think they are waiting too long, McDaniel says, but the opposite may be true when traffic volume is considered.

For example, about 50,000 vehicles a day cross the intersection of 4th Street and Avenue Q. "The wait in that case is not too long considering the number of cars," McDaniel says. Drivers may have to wait only 60 seconds for their turns to cross. "I just don't think people are conscious of the number of cars" at intersections across the city, he says.

As for the complaint that signals along some streets such as Avenue Q are not synchronized to allow non-stop driving. McDaniel says, "Some streets overload at the peak hours. There is more traffic than the street can handle. The result, he acknowledges, may be delays. And it is difficult to time signals on two-way streets. Traffic detectors imbedded in the roads need constant adjustment, too, he says. "The mechanical devices can get off, and we'll have to reset them." Just because he discounts many gripes, however, does not mean that McDaniel is satisfied totally with the current system.

HE HAS A FEW COMPLAINTS of his own, such as: there are too many signals downtown, signal timing at individual intersections is not flexible and many intersections cannot meet increasing volume demands. The traffic engineer outlines his criticisms and proposed improvements in a study he hopes will be confirmed next spring by an outside consultant. In his outline, McDaniel suggests removing 12 "unwarranted" signals in the Central Business District traffic system. The signals only congest traffic, he

He also recommends changing Avenue H and Texas Avenue into one-way pairs, installing detectors on minor streets to better favor the major traffic flow and restructuring several streets. The thoroughfares that need redesigning include 34th Street and Avenue L

34th Street and Slide Road, 50th Street and Indiana Avenue, 50th Street and Quaker Avenue, and 19th Street at Brownfield Road, according to McDaniel. He says he hopes an outside study will confirm his suggestions for upgrading the city's three interconnected signal systems. Those systems contain 136 active signals, and the outside consultant would examine each one. The proposed study, which would begin in early spring, is awaiting highway department approval. But McDaniel says he is confident the $27,000 project will be okayed.

As proposed, the engineer would analyze all aspects of the city's systems, recommending changes in the timings to improve uninterrupted traffic progression on major streets, signal installation or removal, traffic detection devices and signal settings. An intersection capacity study also would be conducted, McDaniel says. The consultant would suggest ways to accommodate increased traffic volumes

Whatever changes the consultant recommends will also be made to improve safety as well as traffic convenience, McDaniel emphasizes. The purpose of signals is to promote traffic safety, he explains. "Convenience enters into the picture after you get safety," something many drivers forget, McDaniel says."Traffic is touchy. Everyone has an opinion on how it should be operated. But someone has to decide how it will be or there will be

Traffic Update: Boston Avenue open

THE NEW SEGMENT of Boston Avenue south of 34th Street is to be reopened to traffic this week following a month of construction.

across the 34th Street intersection, now that the offset has been corrected. CAUTION IS URGED this week as motorists travel 4th Street and Broad-

North-bound and south-bound traffic on Boston Avenue can flow straight

Contractors are laying the final asphalt surface in the Avenue A widening. and traffic flow will be interrupted periodically while work is underway. Work schedules announced by the highway department were that Broadway traffic on 4th Street through Avenue A would be restricted to one lane in each direction on Tuesday and Friday. RADAR REPORT: The three radar units of the Lubbock Police Depart-would be closed to traffic for two-hour periods Monday and today, and that ment will be on the lookout this week for speeders near 25th Street and Avenue S. 34th Street and Chicago Avenue and other selected locations IN CASE YOU haven't noticed, you can now take Avenue N to get downtown from 19th Street

Avenue N is again a two-way street between 19th Street and 10th Street. Workmen removed the one-way signs, repainted the street and replaced traffic signals with stop signs at 15th and 16th Streets on Saturday.

Since 1969, Avenue N had been a one-way street southbound

DEFENSIVE DRIVING IS largely a matter of attitude - the determination to do everything reasonably possible to avoid being involved in a preventable accident regardless of what the law says ("But I had the right of way"), regardless of what the other driver does ("He stopped right in front of me") or the adverse driving conditions you encounter ("But the streets were icy").

The defensive driver knows the traffic laws and proper procedures, is alert to what's going on around him, "looks ahead" to anticipate what might happen and knows what to do and does it at the right time when reacting to someone else's mistake. A defensive driver has been trained in the skills of handling a motor vehicle.

If you are interested in taking a Defensive Driving Class, call 762-6411, Ext. 498, to learn how to register.

DEATH WATCH: The importance of defensive driving is apparent when you realize the driver making the mistake is not always the one killed or in-

Reports of Lubbock's traffic fatalities this year indicate that 11 victims - a driver and 10 passengers - were in vehicles that were not considered to be at fault in the accidents in which they were involved.

Raiders face grid battle on national television

The conclusion of the regular season for Texas Tech University is only a day away and it's an important battle.

The contest will be against Arkansas on national television Thursday, Thanksgiving Day, and it's important for the Raiders that they finish with a good performance, since the eyes of the nation will be

Of course, Tech still has a date with Florida State in the Tangerine Bowl Dec. 23, but that's a month away. And, after the debacle against Houston last weekned—a 45-7 defeat for Tech—finishing the regular season strongly is impor-

Nothing went right for the Raiders against Houston, as the Cougars administered Tech its worst defeat since Texas dealt the Raiders a 49-7 whipping in 1969. U of H rolled up 485 yards total offense and limited Tech to a paltry 107, while mounting a furious pass rush.

"It was a disaster," head coach Steve Sloan admitted. "I don't know how to explain it, but we've got to put that behind us and look forward."

Thursday's battle against Arkansas will begin at 1:45 p.m. in Jones Stadium. The telecast over the ABC-TV network will begin at 1:30 p.m.

Football still the game, thanks to Monterey unit

Although the 1977-78 basketball season . downed El Paso Coronado 7-3 last year. bounced into high gear last week, football still remains the name of the game in

And you can thank the Monterey Plainsmen's stingy defensive unit, cage

The Plainsmen, who left its otherwise potent offense napping in the dressing room, rode the wide shoulders of its defensive unit to a narrow 7-0 bidistrict win over Tascosa last Friday night in Amaril-

"We're going to have to improve offen-sively. We had too many opportunities that we should have taken advantage of. We should have blown the game wide open early in the first half," said the boss of the Plainsmen, James Odom. And the chances are good that Monterey, now 10-0-1 for the season, will improve a notch or two before traveling to El Paso Thanksgiving Day to meet Ysleta Bel Air in a regional contest at 8:30 p.m. (CDT) in the Sun Bowl.

The regional trip to El Paso will be the second in a row for the Plainsmen, who

To defeat Tascosa, Monterey had to use the strong right arm of quarterback Ron Reeves and the sure hands of end Eric

With 2:19 left in the first half, Reeves. the city's gridder of the year, connected to Voyles from 14 yards out for a touchdown to give the Plainmen a 6-0 lead. Reeves, who had earlier missed a 45-yard field goal attempt, hit the extra point to give Monterey its 7-0 margin.

The lone score turned out to be all the Plainsmen needed.

From then on, the defense, led by 230pound tackle Bo Taylor, took command of the game, forcing five Tascosa fumbles

John Wayne brings back war movies in Sunday television special

Associated Press

LOS ANGELES - Thirty-six years ago. Hollywood packed its duffel bag and went to war World War II was probably the last time the whole nation, or at least the vast majority, ever agreed," said producer Alan Landsburg.

'There was a wonderful kind of naivete about that: 'Let's get together and get this war over with

That remarkable spririt that infused the whole country is captured in "Oscar Presents John Wayne and the War Mov-The two-hour program, which Landsburg produced for the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, will be seen on ABC at 8 p.m. CDT Sunday. Wayne, who fought the battle on land, sea, air and soundstage, and probably embodies that spirit and era better than anyone else, is the principal host. Other hosts are Louise Fletcher, Jeff Bridges and Brenda Vaccaro Landsburg and his researchers waded through 1.700 movies cranked out during War War II, or immediately afterward, to come up with excerpts from 107 We looked for the scenes that showed Americans pulling together and that gave the emotional thrust of the war, Landsburg said. "We snipped out the emotional wallop and central thrust of the pictures. Our job was to organize it so that you got an emotional jolt from each film.

The films do bring an emotional charge to anyone who lived through the war, or even if you've only experienced it through television reruns. Those great faces are there - Clark Gable, John Wayne, Gary Cooper, John Garfield, Errol Flynn, Pat O'Brien, Brian Donleavy, Robert Taylor, James Stewart, Spencer Tracy, Van Johnson, James Whitmore, as well as Bob Hope and Bud Abbott and Lou Costello

Even a rough cut of the program, seen without narration, is like a visit to a time gone by. It was a time when there was no dissent - at least not from the movies, which wholeheartedly backed the war effort with a combination of patriotism, jingoism and innocence

Louise Fletcher tells of the country's need for heroes in the early, dark days of the war. Landsburg said, "We had two special movie heroes. The 12 nurses left behind at Bataan and John Wayne. The nurses appeared in many movies and Wayne was the American hero in half a dozen films.

The home front is explored by Brenda Vaccaro in such movies as "Rationing" with Wallace Beery and a Walt Disney cartoon in which Donald Duck learns the importance of paying his taxes.

"The furlough, that moment when they tried to gobble up life before shipping out to battle, is found in 'Hollywood Canteen, 'The Clock,' 'Anchors Aweigh' and 'As Thousands Cheer." Landsburg said.

In the victory parade segment, it's "take a bow, G.I." This is pointed up by an excerpt from "The Story of G.I. Joe, based on the dispatches of correspondent Ernie Pyle. Burgess Meredith, playing Pyle, says, "Every time I pass those wooden crosses the only thing I can say is, 'Thanks, pal."

Jeff Bridges narrates a section that looks back at the war. Included are films that take a different perspective after the heat of passion has cooled.

Bridges introduces "Home of the Brave," about racial prejudice in the army. Landsburg said, "His father is in it and Jeff wanted to introduce his father. We cut straight from Jeff to Lloyd 'Catch 22" takes an ironic look at the war, "Stalag 17" is ironic and angry, and a comedy sequence comes from "If It's Tuesday, This Must be Belgium." A former soldier touring Europe with his wife shows her the monument to the battle of Bastogne and tells her about his heroism. At the same time, a former German soldier visiting the monument with her wife is telling her the same story.

And, of course, there is the opening scene from "Patton," in which George C. Scott rallies support in front of the huge

"We end up with what I think is the most stirring scene of all," said Landsburg. "If I were asked to pick the quintessential war picture it would be 'Battleground.' It is a movie that says best what the war was about and the way the movies treated the war.

"Its statement at the end is so clear, The company is pulled out of the lines after having done its duty at the Battle of the Bulge. On the way out they pass fresh troops going in: Van Johnson says, 'Hey, Sarge, what ever happened to Jody?

Jody is a marching cadence and the weary soldiers began chanting Jody. Landsburg said, "It builds into a very stirring orchestration of the sound off. It gives me chills every time I see it.

"HE DID NOT CARE whom he killed, as long as he killed someone and got his name in the paper," says Natalya Pusjhkin Scott of her husband in the new Bantam paperback thriller "22 Fires."

Weeks ago this column reported that publication of this Jerome Agel-Eugene Boe novel might cause headlines. Now that I've read it, I know why it should cause them. But given the wariness of people bombarded by conspiracy theories concerning the murder of John F Kennedy, the book may wrongly be termed sensational and exploitive. It isn't.

'22 Fires' is extremely well written. researched and full of shocking details. The book is a fictional synthesis of overlooked and suppressed information from the Warren Commission findings. Thus, '22 Fires" is not just a "roman a clef" cashing in on the death of a president, but a way for Agel and Boe to present their dynamic conclusion

It is a shocker-to wit, that the novel's assassin indeed did intend to kill someone, that he acted alone as a confused psychotic, but that the person he meant to kill was the First Lady, not her husband.

All these facts have been on the record for 14 years, but not many people pay any attention to them. The grass always seems to be greener on the famed Dealey Plaza "grassy knoll" where conspiracy theorists like to gather.

The authors refuse to be quoted because they have to maintain a posture that their book's "president Lancaster," a man murdered in New York rather than in Dallas, is not meant to be JFK However, there is no question that they have simply decided to present the facts as fiction in order to get their point across. There is no way to read "22 Fires" as anything but a real story.

Today's opening quote is something Marina Oswald actually has been saying for 14 years while nobody follows up or pays any attention to her. The title of the book is the expression she used to the Warren Commission, stating the heat of the anger she felt at her husband before the assassination. Some of the documents Agel and Boe quote have never been published, and the book bears out their theory of the killer as a psychotic sniper who hated women and saw his own mother and wife in the cross hairs of his rifle.

The authors point out that all the FBI tests with Oswald's gun failed to achieve any accuracy; the gun always fired high and to the right of the aiming point. (Mrs. Kennedy was on the President's left.)

It takes courage to try to say what really happened in Dallas or mythical New York-conspiracy theories are so popular. But Bobby and Teddy Kennedy believed that their brother was killed by Lee Harvey Oswald. "22 Fires" seems to bear them out.

TAR BITES DOG: Recently, this space commented on Raquel Welch, saying her career needed a good movie. Well, now she has one-"L'Animal," with Jean Paul Belmondo, is a smash in Europe and expected to be a big hit here. Raquel called the other day to report very sweetly that she did not "opt out of" the Roger Moore movie "Athena Crossing" because of a fight over billing. She says she had never agreed to do the movie in the first place and she thinks some naughty person at ICM is, putting undue blame on her, trying to make trouble.

Raquel says she would never argue with her pal Roger Moore over billing and, in fact, billing interests her so little that she recently asked them to reduce her star status on "The Prince and the Pauper" because she only has a cameo role and doesn't feel they should make a big deal out of it. Hmmmm. now let's see, do I know any naughty agents at ICM who would want to make trouble? Can't think of any offhand.

reese report

By SrA Gary Dybvig Reese AFB Information Division

Col. Charles E. Bishop, Wing Commander, recently announced that Reese will host all area retired military and their dependents at a "Reese Information Night," Dec. 6 at the Officers Club. The purpose of the event will be to present items of common interest to retired military by prepared briefings. Some of the topics to be covered are personnel and legal services available at the base, recreation facilities available and matters concerning plans for improvements in the Base Exchange and Commissary. Questions on CHAMPUS (Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services) and hospital services available will also be covered.

The evening begins at 6:30 p.m. with a social hour and a buffet dinner at 7:30 p.m. The program will begin at 8:15 p.m. Reservations must be made by Dec. 1 by calling 885-4511, Ext. 2823 or 2339 between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

This is in conjunction with a new Retiree Activities Program in which the Air Force hopes to help Air Force retirees, their dependents and survivors to become more involved socially and officially with active duty people.

REESE OFFICIALS have announced the winners of the Wing Noncommissioned Officer (NCO) of the Quarter and the Airman of the Month honors for the third quarter and the month of October, respectively.

The NCO of the Quarter honors go to Tech. Sgt. John C. Arthur of the Consolidated Base Personnel Office, On-The-Job Training Unit, 64th Air Base Group. Arthur, who recently transferred to Chanute AFB, Ill., was acknowledged for his pride in serving, professionalism, civic involvement, exemplary military bearing and devotion to his duty.

Airman of the Month honors go to Airman 1st Class Edward Dykshoorn who works in the Sheet Metal Shop of the 64th Civil Engineering Squadron.

IDENTIFICATION has been completed of the last of 22 Americans killed in Southeast Asia whose remains were returned to the U.S. Government in September, according to the Air Force

The remains have been identified as Air Force Capt. Herb Doby of Deming, Identification cans were completed earlier, and their names were announced late in October.
