Most feel Carter not tough enough on Russia

NEW YORK (AP) - Americans say President Carter isn't tough enough in dealings with Russia, and they believe that the Soviet Union has surpassed the United States in military power, an Associated Press-NBC News poll shows

HOME EDITION

These opinions are a major factor in a decline in the public's rating of Carter's performance, the telephone survey of 1,600 persons showed.

With a new round of arms talks scheduled this month in Geneva, Switzerland, sentiment in this country for a new nuclear arms pact with the U.S.S.R. is still overwhelming. The public backs such a pact by a

But Americans are divided over whether it would strengthen their national security.

Forty-five percent of those questioned on June 27 and June 28 said Carter has not been tough enough in dealings with the Soviet Union, while 5 percent said he has been too tough. Thirty-five percent said he has set the right tone in the negotiations. Fifteen percent were not sure.

This public perception comes despite periodic Carter efforts in recent weeks to take a harder line toward the Soviet Union.

"We're not going to let the Soviet Union push us around," Carter said in a speech in Fort Worth, Texas, on Carter's handling of U.S.-U.S.S.R. relations is a major factor in the public's low estimate of his work on foreign policy in general.

Those who think that Carter has "set the right tone" with the Russians give him a 36-60 negative job rating on foreign policy. But those who think he has "not been tough enough" give his foreign policy work an overwhelming 14-81 negative rating.

As with any sample survey, the results of the AP-NBC News polls could differ from the results of interviews with all Americans with telephones because of chance variations

For polls with 1,600 interviews, the results should vary no more than three percentage points either way solely because of sample errors. That is, there is only one chance out of 20 that the results of interviews with all American adults would vary from these results by more than three percentage points.

Of course, the results could vary from other polls because of differences in the wording of questions, timing of interviews or the method of

The Phalangist radio station, the Voice of Lebanon, said Syrian rockets caused considerable damage to three hospitals, forcing the staffs to evacuate patients to basement shelters. It said Hotel Dieu, the French hospital, was hit by 120 Syrian rockets and artillery shells.

Syrian hilltop positions poured heavy rockets into the Ashrafiyeh, Ein Rummaneh and Furn el Shubbak quarters, setting many buildings on fire, the broadcast said.

It said the regulations violated the Constitution's guarantee of equal treatment for all citizens and a portion of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 banning racial discrimination by institutions receiving federal funds.

The full circuit court voted 4-3 to uphold that ruling. Last week, the Supreme Court in-

Time, a precious but fleeting gift of life

When you're young, you wish time would fly into those tomorrows of grand expectations.

And when the time does come, it quickly flees to another moment and another until you, realizing that time changeth not, begin to ponder on the meanings of all those fleeting moments in your life. Just how grand were those expectations? And when they came to pass, were they, after all, the essence of life as you once had

This precious quality called time is life. And how it is best used is up to each man to determine. Time has as many measurements as the world has people with aspirations. The scales are many, and they are trans-formed into accomplishment, materi-al gain, knowledge and wisdom, spiritual growth, pleasures both sensual and platonic, toil and labor, pain and suffering and hope for better nature. Emerson did. So did Thoreau, who pondered not just at Walden Pond but in jail.

Life is not just time, though in this life time is all consuming. Emerson, the transcendentalist, in examining life, found value in it. "Nothing is at last sacred but the integrity of your own mind," he wrote in the essay "Self-Reliance." Man may earn dignity.

And, like Thoreau, he had respect for those who would, as the ultimate search, be just themselves: the nonconformists. Thoreau expressed it in this often consoling thought: "If a man does not keep pace with his companions, perhaps it is because he hears a different drummer." To listen best, man first must drink freely of the knowledge and wisdom of those thinkers throughout history. And from those ideas, from the spiritual and secular world, man develops thought and becomes a creator of

Back to earth and reality: Whenever a jogger is desperately trying to set a pace and to keep stride, he overcomes the strong temptation to stop. He wants to develop a compul-sion to jog, which may or may not mean running.

But when you're moving right along the loop and a voice suddenly startles you: "Hey, young man!," it yells. "Would you mind stopping jogging for awhile?

Frankly, yes. But you stop, as you wonder what is the importance of this strange request.
You're inclined to run in place, just to keep your jogging honest, but, instead, you stop and mosey over to the source of the feminine voice.

Teen-age shooting spree kills one, injures two

OWATONNA, Minn. (AP) — Two teen-agers holed up in one of their omes with an arsenal of 50 guns that apparently came from the collection of one of the youth's fathers shot and killed a man and injured two other persons, police said. The teen-agers, aged 16 and 18, were expected to be charged today in connection with the Sunday morning shooting spree, authorities said. They were being held on an open charge at the Steele County Jail.

Police would not reveal Sunday night what provoked the shootings. They said the youths, whose names would not be released until charges were filed, were clone in the house in this town of about 15,500, 70 miles south of Minneapolis.

The youths surrendered about an hour after the first shot rang out as police surrounded the house.

Five state patrol units, three sher-iff's deputies, Police Chief Ken Nissen and other policemen converged on the street. The car of Steele County Sheriff Bernard Coufal was struck by more than 50 bullets, police said, while two other patrol cars and three nearby homes also were hit.

Nixon out of self-imposed exile and appears poised for new role

HYDEN, Ky. (AP) - Richard M. Nixon has made his first public speech since his resignation and it may be the start of a new career as an elder statesman and adviser.

The former president intends to break out of his self-imposed exile in San Clemente.

"To the extent any people in politics, be they Republicans or Democrats, follow my views and get advice in areas I may be competent in, I'll provide it," he told reporters.

And although he ruled out "politics in the traditional sense," Nixon appears poised to become a critic of the Carter administration — at least in the area of foreign policy. That was the case Sunday in his first public speech since he resigned the presidency on Aug. 9, 1974, and its success with the citizenry of Leslie County could only be encouragement for Nixon.

For his start, he could not have picked a better place than Hyden in the mountains of eastern Kentucky to deliver his message that only a strong America can keep the peace, that "tough talk, when not backed up by strong action, is just like an empty ca..non.'

The town of 500 has voted Democratic only once in its 100 years and its acclaim for the former president appeared to be almost total. As one resident put it, "Nixon picked the garden spot in the world to come

The town invited Nixon to dedicate a $2.2 million recreational complex that was named for him, and thousands of visitors jammed the one street to help celebrate his arrival and the county's centennial.

The 4,000 who were squeezed into the hot, stuffy gymnasium in the recreation center applauded Nixon for three minutes when he began and another three when he finished. Even the former president seemed surprised at the enthusiastic reception and he stayed for a half hour after the speech to sign autographs and to walk down the aisle shaking hands. Many of those in the audience carried copies of his memoirs, which are on sale in Hyden only at the list price of $20.

The 41-minute speech — delivered as Nixon perspired profusely because fans were turned off during the talk was vintage Nixon, focusing on foreign policy and stressing national loyalty and the need for world peace through a strong United States.

Nixon made a strong appeal for patriotism.

Some leaders, he said, have given up on the United States and have suffered "some weakening of will." Several times, Nixon said he wanted to leave a message for the young people, and at the conclusion he

Following the reception, Nixon boarded a non-stop commercial flight back to California.

Bakke, who is white, admitted into the school.

The high court, however, ruled that schools may take race into account in making admissions decisions - so long as they stayed away from fixed racial quotas or rigid racial goals. In appealing the University of North Carolina decision to the Supreme Court, state Attorney General Rufus Edmisten, representing university president William C. Friday, contended that the appeals court should not have voided the regulations without giving the school a chance to defend them and show why they are necessary. Edmisten argued that the regulations "have not harmed or deprived" white students. In the Bakke case, the Supreme Court ruled that Bakke had suffered illegal racial discrimination because of the special admissions program for minorities.

'The challenged racial formulations were not used to exclude any race, but were used rather to assure that no race was excluded," Edmisten said. "Not every remedial use of race is forbidden," he said.

Hot and fair for July 4th

Today's partly cloudy skies and forecast for a slight chance of thunderstorms this evening are not expected to remain for the Fourth. Instead, the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport precicts fair weather with hot afternoons in the upper 90's.

The overnight low should be near 70, said the weatherman, with south to southeasterly winds decreasing to 5 to 10 mph The weather service said the probability of rain was 20 percent tonight. Area towns were reporting hot and clear weather early today.

Report meetings slated this month

Three extensive reports concluding the Upper Colorado River Study Area's water quality management plan are being dispatched to officials in some 30 counties in this region.

A series of meetings of the Planning and Advisory Committee has been scheduled to discuss the reports. The first will be at 9: 30 a.m. July 18 at the Colorado River Municipal Water District headquarters in Big Spring; the second at 2 p.m. that same day at the city council chambers in Odessa; and the final one at the First National Community room in Ballinger at 10 a.m. July 19.

Registration for the parade will begin at 9 a.m. Tuesday at the corner of Harvard Avenue and North A Street.

Isn't this the great American game? A sport with a real payoff? Isn't the market the medium for investing in America? The vehicle of financial democracy? The hope of millions? The route to independence?

Why, then, have you never succeeded at stocks? Why must you listen to the success stories of others?

John Wright once asked himself these questions, and then he became a professional portfolio manager, handling hundreds of millions of dollars for clients. He learned to act on the facts and not on ad-

Odd, then, isn't it, that we should seek Wright's advice? Not really. His advice is to get the facts and then to use your head - your own head, and not somebody else's.

"Only a handful of Wall Street pundits and market letter writers show an acceptable amount of common sense," the Bridgeport, Conn. financial philosopher says. "As a group they are wrong most of the time. When they are right, it is usually for the wrong reasons."

Letter writers, says Wright, should be read "for amusement, not for profit." "Do not look for facts or intelligent comparisons which are logical and sensible. They will seldom be present.'

But by following sound methods, says Wright, the competent investor can expect an average total return — dividends and capital appreciation — of at least 8 percent to 10 percent a year, and perhaps as much as 15.

While these returns might seem rather small to the individual who envisons himself climbing a mountain of gold, it shouldn't be forgotten that 15 percent, compounded, doubles your money in just five

The Texas Education Agency, it is noted, is unhappy about the federal government's decision to withhold federal money from 50 Texas school districts, including Midland and Lamesa, for "noncompliance" with regulations on bilingual education, desegregation and hiring prac-

The agency should be unhappy enough to raise cain about it sufficiently loud to be heard all the way to Washington.

And the school boards of Midland, Lamesa and the other districts involved have every right to be even more unhappy at the Civil Rights Division of the Department .of Health, Education amd Welfare.

It's the same old story and the same old threat—"play the game our way, all-the-way, or we will cut off the promised funding." funding.

It sounds mighty inviting when federal funds are dangled before school boards, city councils and county commissioners courts, and it most often winds up with the pledge, "no strings attached."

But's that's not exactly the way it works, as many boards and councils and courts on the receiving end of federal grants most often have discovered-too

We have preached for years that there is no such thing as a free lunch, which yet holds today. Of course, strings are attached to every dollar which sifts down from Washington, even if they are our tax dollars.

program under way, but no, it failed to meet the revised standards set by HEW. The same situation most likely existed in the Lamesa schools.

But HEW says the program is not adequate, so Midland school board members, at their meeting last Wednesday, decided to submit plans to the federal agency to bring the district's bilingual educational program in line with HEW's revised standards. Those federal dollars still are mighty tempting.

In addition to Midland and Lamesa, thirty-five other school districts over the state were "cut off" for non-compliance in bilingual programs. It would be interesting to see if any of the districts tell HEW to keep its funds and that they are going to run their business as they see fit. in the best interests of their respective districts.

The legal counsel for the Texas Education Agency, in commenting on the federal government's withholding decision, said, "They have continually delayed or not gotten back to us on our proposals. Now they turn around and say we are not in compliance.

Real disgusting and frustrating. isn't it? Yet that's the way it is in dealing with the federal bureaucratic agencies.

The Midland Independent School District has been forced to spend a large amount of money and a tremendous amount of time in the last several years in attempting to meet edicts handed down by bureaucratic agencies. And worst of all, there seemingly

By WILLIAM GIANDONI Copley News Service Dominican President Joaquin Balaguer may be fighting the toughest battle in his lengthy political career, trying to convince his followers that he lost the recent election.

The diminutive Dominican in tellectual conceded the win to his principal rival, Antonio Guzman, candidate of the Dominican Revolutionary Party (PRD), weeks

Still, prominent members of Balaguer's own Reformist Party (PR) have challenged the election on the grounds that so many voters failed to go to the polls May 16 that 'complimentary elections' should be held to give those who did not vote a chance to do so.

Actually, around 73 percent of the electorate cast ballots last month. There was no untoward violence. No serious charges of vote fraud. According to Manuel Joaquin Castillo, chairman of the Central Electoral Junta, the vote-counting agency, the election was "completely normal." In fact, it was the greatest turnout in the Caribbean island republic's relatively-short history as a democratic nation Why, then, all the fuss?

Particularly after President Balaguer himself had publicly acknowledged his defeat at the polls and congratulated his opponent.

WATCH ON WASTE: The casino in the bucks on the Atlantic City boardwalk this summer. Alan Ackerman, the university-educated, 27-year-old son of a well-to-do doctor, has managed to hit a $25,000 jackpot provided by the taxpayers.

The money was awarded to him under a program designed to provide jobs for the "unemployed, underemployed and economically disadvantaged." If Ackerman is not disadvantaged, he managed to qualify for the grant because he had been unemployed for 15 weeks.

The Labor Department bestowed the $25,000 upon him to lay a "braille trail" for the blind along the teeming boardwalk. This consists of magnetized metal washers nailed along the boardwalk's six-mile length. It ostensibly will enable the sightless to promenade the boardwalk confidently, with the use of special sensitized canes. Braille street signs and numbers are also being erected.

But according to Cecil Leon, who works with the blind at a local Lions Club Center, the Ackerman project is a boondoggle. Leon said the Lions Club initially backed the project, but withdrew its support, because surveys showed the blind rarely used the boardwalk. When they did, they preferred to have an escort.

Footnote: Ackerman did not pocket all the taxpayers' money. He hired a 'visually handicapped" white woman to serve as a "blind instructor and laborer" and two blacks to help lay the "braille trail."

WASHINGTON - We recently suggested that President Carter had neglected the veterans who served in Vietnam, the war America would like to forget. Many can't find jobs; others are languishing in drug rehabilitation centers and prison cells. Carter's veterans programs, we reported.

Taking exception, Labor Secretary Ray Marshall dropped by our offices afterward to dispute our findings Before we wrote the column, we had invited the Labor Department to comment; we are now happy to carry Marshall's belated response.

He claimed the unemployment rate for Vietnam veterans had declined by 47 percent during the past year. He also promised that the drive to find jobs for 40,000 disabled vets would succeed. As evidence, he offered a smorgasbord of statistics. We are not wholly convinced. We had reported that Roland Mora, the assistant secretary in charge of veterans employment, had run up a more impressive travel bill than hiring record. He has now been eased out of his job because of a lackluster performance. We have also obtained a con-fidential draft of a General Accounting Office study of the Labor Department's programs. The report confirms our earlier charges.

"Although many veterans benefited" from the job programs, the report declares, "much more could be done in those programs to find jobs and training opportunities for the veterans." Federal regulations require that certain veterans, including the disabled, should receive preferential treatment in federal job placement. But the government examiners discovered that "special consideration was generally not given to priority veterans.

Veterans getting short changed

The report also claims that some of the impressive statistics, which Marshall laid before us, are inflated. In the case of certain employment training programs, states the study: "Data Labor provides to the Congress and the public on number of persons served by the program are inflated because (participants) are counted as new enrollments more than once, and priority veterans are counted in as many priority categories as are ap-

The auditors found "various degrees of double counting, with overstatements ranging from six to 74 percent ... Some participants were counted as new enrollments as many as three times.' When we confronted Marshall with the GAO's findings, he told us the GAO, in his opinion, "could be unreliable."

BOTTOMS UP: Social drinkers across America tipped their glasses last week to a new report, which claims a little imbibing won't harm the health of most people. But there's a slight catch; we've discovered the report was financed by the U.S. Brewers Association.

Carter fails to mend long-neglected Texas fences

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

HOUSTON — President Carter did not really mend long-neglected Texas fences, thanks to shortcomings in both-style and substance when he addressed some 1,200 black-tie $500-a-plate diners in the grand ballroom of the Hyatt Regency Hotel.

"I can't believe it," wailed a Southwestern politician-businessman who had spent $5,000 in after-tax dollars for a whole table. His disbelief: in the absence of a head table, the president was nowhere to be seen and was actually back in his hotel suite eating a solitary dinner. "Don't worry," a Washington-based lobbyist replied. "He'll be walking through shaking hands while we eat."

The lobbyist was wrong. While Texas arrangers of the dinner requested a walk-through, the White House vetoed it. Nor did the president show up at the mass cocktail party in show up at the mass cocktail party in the hotel lobby preceding dinner.

Most diners saw him only when he marched to the microphone bathed in a spotlight, delivered his speech and marched out again.

Having passed up chances to mend those fences through increased personal contact, the president had to rely on one of his shortest suits: oratory. His style was snappier than usual and suitably conservative for this audience, but unfortunately built to an anticlimar on energy. While the audience, but unfortunately built to an anti-climax on energy. While the audience was led to believe he would give them something new, Mr. Carter ended with an exhortation for his old energy program (opposed by most of his listeners). Some liked the patriot-ic appeal, but others shrugged their shoulders at a thrice-told tale. The fund-raising dinner typified the president's two-day swing through Texas: he did fairly well but not well enough. "I think he made a dent in his problem," one Democratic insider told us, "but man, he's got a long way to go." The consensus remains that Mr. Carter would not carry this vital state today against Gerald Ford or

Ronald Reagan.

The problem is not personal animosity but conflict on such key issues as oil and beef, aggravated by 1½ years of neglected politics. The turnout for the Houston fund-raiser, grossing over $600,000 for the Demo-cratic National Committee, resulted not only from appeals by two popular Texans — national chairman John White and Ambassador Robert S. Strauss — but also respect for the Democratic president.

Moreover, Texas Democrats are anxious for Mr. Carter to succeed so he will be less of a drag on this year's state ticket. One $500 diner made a bad news-good news formulation:

"The bad news is that Carter came at all; the good news is that he came in June instead of September." Fear of the Carter drag was expressed by the absence of Rep. Robert Krueger (candidate for the U.S. Senate) and Atty. Gen. John Hill (candidate for governor) at the president's Fort Worth and Houston airport arrivals. Krueger, making a strong race against three-term Republican Sen. John Tower, campaigns as an "indendent Democrat" to stress his un-Carterite posture. As the president arrived in Texas, Krueger attacked the Carter energy policy before an elite Houston businessmen's group. Nevertheless, Krueger that night was struck by the magnetism of the presidency itself and was having second thoughts about campaign appearances with Mr. Carter.

But when Krueger went to Austin the next morning to address the Inde-pendent Cattlemen's Assn., he closely followed Tower's attack on Mr. Carter's boost in beef imports. "For God's sake, Bob," a friendly cattle-man advised him, "don't get yourself tied up with Carter." Heeding that advice Krueger uttered not one en-couraging word about his president during a well-received assault on imported beef.

It is too late for Mr. Carter to reverse himself on beef or energy. But his tone in Texas was markedly

But his tone in Texas was markedly conservative — praising free enterprise, excoriating inflation, travelling the hard road against Moscow.

How much this rhetoric helps is debatable. Although the president's cry that "we are not going to let the Soviet Union push us around" drew cheers from a Fort Worth luncheon, Democratic politicians doubt it narrows the Carter confidence gap in Texas. While conservatives were not convinced, liberals sat on their hands at obvious applause points. The problem is deeper than issues or ideology, as one prominent, plain-talking liberal (a $5,000 table buyer at Houston) told us after the speech: "Jimmy Carter has lied to everybody in Texas from the blacks and the Mexicans to the oil boys. He has to start over from scratch.

His trip was a modest start, say most Democratic politicians. But he failed to make the most of it; his limp performance in Houston was followed by a widely publicized Army firepower demonstration at Fort Hood costing some $2 million. When the White House permitted the president's anti-inflation theme to be blunted by an Army public relations spectacle, Texas' confidence in the competence of the president and his men was not

SEATTLE (AP) - The world of science fiction is moving into a new dimension - corporate planning.

As many as two dozen science fiction writers have been hired as consultants by companies that want to tap their futuristic insights and ways of thinking. The authors' duties are twofold - envisioning future markets and making executives more imaginative.

So far, the only results any company can cite are mental, though many products now in use first were ideas in a sci-fi writer's mind. But firms are paying a good price - as much as $2,500 an appearance - to be stimulated by men whose work world might not exist for centuries.

"The interesting thing is that corporations have recognized the need for aggressive speculation on future trends and technology," says David Hartwell, science fiction editor for Berkley Publishing Corp. in New York City. "It's mind-expanding and worthwhile," says R.L. Jamison, director of energy management for Weyerhaeuser Co., the nation's largest forestproducts firm, based in Federal Way, Wash.

ing with science fiction writers is the exercise in applying speculation about the future to see where it leads you. It's the process that has value, not the conclusion. The roster of writerconsultants includes:

-Issac Asimov, prolific in both fiction and fact, who doesn't consider himself a consultant. But he's a frequent speaker to corporate groups, and he writes articles for companies such as American Airlines, IBM and U.S. Steel.

-Jerry Pournelle, an active fiction writer who operates a consulting service sideline in Los Angeles.

Pournelle says his work has helped one firm think of a new product "that everyone will want to have, that will seem obvious." He also says he helped one computer speciality firm discover new applications for its equipment. He won't identify either firm.

market loses

NEW YORK (AP) - Stock prices declined moderately today in the slowest trading of the year.

The noon Dow Jones average industrials was off 4.24 at 814.71. Losers outnumbered gainers by about a 4-3 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. Analysts noted that it was difficult to read much significance into the market's fluctuations given the absence of many traders.

The markets will be closed Tuesday for Independence Day. Today was officially a normal business day, but it was evident that many market participants had taken it as part of an extended weekend.

Negative influences lingering in the news background included rising interest rates and inflation worries.

The bank prime lending rate climbed from 8% to 9 percent last Friday, and the government issued figures showing that consumer prices in May rose at a two-digit rate for the second consecutive month.

Pepsico was the early volume leader among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues, off % at 29%. None of the other stocks on the active list showed more than fractional changes.

The NYSE's composite index dropped .18 to 53.48. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index eased .01 to 145.54.

Volume on the Big Board totaled only 5.30 million shares as of noontime, down from 6.83 million at the same point Friday.

About 21,000 customers were affected by the outage in San Francisco, which began at 12:05 a.m. PDT. All power was restored by 1:46 a.m., according to Pacific Gas & Electric Co. spokesman Harry Arnott.

W.R. Bosshart, chief of systems operations for the Bonneville Power Administration, a federal agency in Portland, Ore., that oversees distribution of hydroelectric power, said today that the outages in Montana, Wyoming, Idaho and South Dakota were triggered when lightning struck a 500,000-volt transmission line connecting four Snake River dams with the BPA substation at the John Day Dam in Oregon.

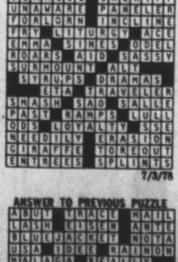

Bossart said a safety mechanism designed to prevent such a power disruption failed to work Sunday

"There should not have been the outages," Bossart said. "We thought we were protected against them. The system didn't work. I'm not sure

He said the lightning strike occurred somewhere along the 130-mile line between Lower Monumental Dam on the Snake River and John Day Dam on the Columbia.

It is one of two 500,000-volt lines that connects the BPA's operations in Oregon and Washington with power systems in Montana, Idaho, Wyoming, Colorado and Arizona. The other line was knocked out of commission Saturday night when a flash flood in central Washington washed out seven transmission towers.

He said lights probably flickered in eastern Washington, Idaho, Wyoming and possibly Colorado and Arizona as the voltage level surged throughout the interconnected power system, but he said the real impact was in Mon-

An 800-pound steer owned by James Bullard was found mutilated in the northwest part of the county Friday afternoon. The animal's lips, tongue and rectum had been removed, and someone apparently had cut the steer from the corner of its mouth to the

Bullard said there was no blood on the ground near the animal, which indicates the animal's blood may have been pumped.

GARDEN CITY - A teen-aged female was killed and 12 persons were injured in a one-vehicle accident about 7 a.m. today southwest ofNhere, near the intersection of Midland, Reagan and Glasscock county lines.

A spokesman with the Department of Public Safety said 21 persons from Big Lake were riding in a pickup north on FM 1357 on their way to some cottonfields, when the left rear tire of the vehicle blew. The driver apparently lost control of the vehicle, and it left the road, traveled 200 feet and rolled one-and-a-half times before landing on its left side, the spokesman said.

Identification of the dead girl is not known, according to the spokesman. Four of the 12 injured were treated at Midland Memorial Hospital and released, according to a spokesman for WASHINGTON (AP) - Veterans Administrator Max Cleland announced today a reduction in insurance premiums for 2.1 million active duty servicemen and women and 818,-000 ready reservists effective July 1.

The Servicemen's Group Insurance premiums will reduced from $3.40 to $3 a month on the standard $20,000

A lone picket for the striking firemen took up station at the entrance of South Sanitation Yard. He was joined by seven other strikers, and the sanitation workers decided to honor their picket line and refused to drive city trucks from the yard.

Clinton Burrows, a union spokesman, said workers at the other two sanitation yards followed suit.

"They are not crossing the picket lines," said Janet Graves, a City Hall employee who said she was speaking for the city. "We do not know if they will pick up later."

Dining alone can be fun

By ELAINE SMYTH

Copley News Service
For many people living alone either by choice or circumstances the dinner hour can be the loneliest and most frustrating hour of the day. It doesn't matter how excellent the cook or how much he or she enjoys fine food. Cooking for one is, generally, a bore.

You can go the TV dinner route, but there's always that leftover aluminum tray that brings guilt pangs since you once said you'd never resort to them.

Or you can cook up a storm and end up with ennui from too many days of rack of lamb or meat loaf, and feeding the remains to the disposal.

There's another choice, said Edward Robert Brooks of Chicago, known through his radio and TV shows as "The Gourmet on the Go." Browse through the frozen foods

Brooks said many frozen food products come in portions "just about right for two persons.' You can go one better at the frozen

Together, single and two-person households now make up more than 50 per cent of all households in the United States. The age span is from the young singles to senior citizens.

Brooks is among those statistics. Although recently remarried, for several years he lived alone in a 100year-old house he bought two years ago on Chicago's Near North Side.

'The first thing I remodeled was the kitchen," he said. "And it took seven months of work. I use that as a test kitchen and to develop recipes and I also use the kitchen for entertaining."

He said one of the best investments any cook can make is a good freezer thermometer. "Hang it on a shelf overnight and in the morning check it. "It should register zero degrees. If not, adjust the freezer."

Look for this sign. It can help you save on energy costs in a big way.

Whether you're going to buy a new home or build one, you should know about E-OK. It means that the home has been thoroughly checked and certified as energy efficient by Texas Electric.

An E-OK home has more insulation, sealed windows, weatherstripped doors, and more efficient heating and cooling equipment. Living in an E-OK home means lower energy bills year round. And with the extra insulation, it's quieter, too.

Should you later decide to move, the lower energy bills from an E-OK home could help sell the home faster. Potential home buyers are increasingly concerned about what your bills have been.

Ask your builder about the added features of an E-OK home, or get your free E-OK booklet from Texas Electric. Just call us, or ask for the book on the Electri comment section of your electric bill.

Learn to act on facts, not advice for success

NEW YORK (AP) - While you lie in the hammock this Independence Day, or watch the parade or try to break a hundred with the sticks, you might assuage your guilt by plotting your future stock market success.

Isn't this the great American game? A sport with a real payoff? Isn't the market the medium for investing in America? The vehicle of financial democracy? The hope of millions? The route to independence? Why, then, have you never succeeded at stocks? Why must you listen to the success stories of others? John Wright once asked himself these questions, and then he became a professional portfolio manager, han-dling hundreds of millions of dollars for clients. He learned to act on the facts and not on advice.

Odd, then, isn't it, that we should seek Wright's advice? Not really. His advice is to get the facts and then to use your head - your own head, and not somebody else's.

"Only a handful of Wall Street pundits and market letter writers show an acceptable amount of common sense," the Bridgeport, Conn. financial philosopher says. "As a group they are wrong most of the time. When they are right, it is usually for the wrong reasons.

Letter writers, says Wright, should be read "for amusement, not for profit." "Do not look for facts or intelligent comparisons which are logical and sensible. They will seldom be

But by following sound methods, says Wright, the competent investor can expect an average total return dividends and capital appreciation of at least 8 percent to 10 percent a year, and perhaps as much as 15.

While these returns might seem rather small to the individual who envisons himself climbing a mountain of gold, it shouldn't be forgotten that

1. MAINTAIN A CASH RESERVE whenever stock prices rise above what you consider a reasonable level. Then you will have funds to pick up bargains when the inevitable corrections in market prices occur.

2. DIVERSIFY WISELY BUT NOT WIDELY Do not invest more than one-fifth of total funds in any one industry or any one stock. 3. INVEST ONLY IN HEALTHY

FACTS. Never act on tips, rumors, recommendations or advice unless they are fully supported by written, dependable, factual information. If a stock is selling at 10 times its current earnings and has traditionally sold at 15 times, it is probably worth checking further, especially corporate profits are rising. 6. BUY A STOCK ONLY WHEN YOU CAN ANTICIPATE A JUSTIFI-

GEORGETOWN, Ind. (AP) - For three weeks each year, thousands flock to Gary Loftus' farm in search of the perishable red delicacies that make a summer's worth of desserts and a winter's worth of canning strawberries.

Across 26 acres, hidden under dense greenery as far as the eye can't see are seven different varieties of strawberries, distinguishable by their sweetness, firmness and growing sea-

The strawberry patches make up just over a tenth of Loftus' total acreage, "but we put more time and effort and money and everything into the strawberries," he said.

Raising strawberries in this south-eastern Indiana community has been a family business for two genera-

"My dad started in when he was 18 and was in it for 32 years," said the 26-year-old Loftus as he inspected his crop. "I grew into it. Ever since I can remember, we've raised strawberries."

The harvest usually begins with the warmer weather in mid-May and lasts until the first week of June. This year, cooler spring temperatures de-layed the picking well into the end of May and for the first time in his memory, there were fresh strawberries in the Loftus home through late

About half the strawberry acreage is picked by hired hands — local schoolchildren and housewives, mostly — who are paid 50 cents a gallon. Then the heavier are either said at lon. Then the berries are either sold at a stand near Interstate 64 or to wholesale produce merchants. The remainder is picked by customers who pay $2 a gallon to crawl around in the patches in search of their own ber-

"We usually start around 6: 30 in the morning and go until 1 or 2 in the afternoon," he said. "That's as long as anybody can last. It's hard work. You've got to stoop over a lot."

On a warm, sunny day, the crowds descend on his farm as though treasure were buried there.

"At peak times, we have about 200 people picking our berries and generally about 400-500 a day to pick their own. We've been letting people pick for themselves for 22 years," he said. "Most of the same people keep coming back. They bring their friends."

Loftus uses a combination of crop rotation and hand hoeing to control weeds among the strawberries. He prefers not to use herbicides.

"You can't use anything harsh. Strawberries are awful tender. We try to use the least spray as possible, he said.

Although it's essentially a Republican propos-al, a lot of Democrats have swung in behind it, accepting the argument that it will help to stimu-late much needed investment in the nation's economy.

However, in their apparent eagerness to enact it, the lawmakers are ignoring or discounting a lot of unanswered or only partially answered questions, such as who benefits, whether it's the best way to stimulate investment, and its impact on the already budget deficit.

large budget deficit.
The Carter administration contends the cut in capital gains will cost the Treasury $2.4 billion and that 80 percent of the benefits would go to persons with incomes exceeding $100,000.

The proposal would cut the current tax rate on capital gains in half, to 25 percent in the case of the current maximum tax of 50 percent, although the average tax for most persons with capital gains is much less than the maximum.

A capital gain is the profit on the sale of capital property, such as real estate, a business or corporatation stock, and it has always been taxed less than normal income.

But the plan so far is steam-rolling right over White House opposition. The congressman who first proposed it, Rep. William Steiger, R-Wis., confidently predicts it will clear the House Ways and Means Committee by mid-July.

The bill's widespread appeal apparently reflects the eagerness of lawmakers to show they have caught the spirit of the so-called nationwide taxpayers revolt. Steiger submitted his plan only in May, so it is receiving priority treatment.
It's all reminiscent of other recent bandwagon bills that Congress has enacted, or almost enacted, and which it has later come to regret. One glaring example is the huge increase in Social Security taxes, where Congress went be-yond the administration's recommendation, and about which it has now had second thoughts.

Congress usually is at its worst when it rushes legislation through without careful consideration, and the administration has appealed to the lawmakers to postpone action until after a comprehensive Treasury Department study of investment taxes is completed later this year.

"Tinkering with bits and pieces of this struc-ture of capital income taxation as the bills before you do will get us nowhere," Blumenthal told the

U.S. oil industry cautious with loans

TULSA-The U.S. oil industry is getting inreasingly cautious about borrowing funds to finance its energy development efforts.

According to the Oil & Gas Journal, debt loads of major oil companies the past several years have inreased as investments outstripped internally generated funds.

Some companies say they're reluctant to go deeper into debt in an investment climate laced with uncertainty, the Journal reports in its July

There are many examples of that uncertainty. The biggest isCthe industry's largest project to date: the $7.7 -billion Alaskan crude oil pipeline. Owners of the pipeline still don't know what rates of return they'll be allowed by the U.S. government

And oil and gas producers don't know whether they'll be allowed freemarket prices any time soon.

A cutback in borrowing—unless in-comes increase significantly—would slow investments, which have been soaring as th petrolum industry races to inrease U.S. reserves of oil and "I don't think anybody in industry thinks we can go any deeper in debt, relative to equity," one oil executive told the Journal.

The current industry emphasis on exploration makes companies even more wary about debt financing. Exploratory drilling is generally too risky to finance with borrowed

To show the trend, the Journal traces two important financial rela-tionships for 15 of the biggest U.S. oil firms during 1970-77. The relationships are cash-flow compared with investment and long-term debt compared with equity.

Cash flow is a measure of internally generated funds. The Journal subtracted dividends to determine how much cash flow each company had available for investment, then compared that figure with total capital and exploration expenditures each

The shortfall between cash flow and investments represents how much the companies had to rely on external financing sources. For the 15 firms, cash flow as a percentage of expendi tures decreased to 74.7 percent in 1977 from 87.6 percent in 1970.

The cash-flow shortfall was smallest in 1973, when profits from rapidly climbing crude prices brought cash flow to 92.7 percent of capital and exploration outlays

Cash flow accounted for 90.1 percent of expenditures in 1974. Then the figure dropped 55.5 percent in 1975 as companies inested heavily in the Alaskan crude line and exploration and producion in the North Sea and the United States.

Cash flow was 69 percen of expendi-

The long-term debt-equity ratio in-dicates how much companies owe to long-term lenders companies owe to long-term lenders compared with how much the firms are worth. The ratio is a general indication of debt load.

For the 15 Journal companies, the ratio was 32.4 percent in 1977, compared with 25.7 research to 1977.

pared with 25.7 percent in 1970. It was highest in 1976 at 33.3 percent.

Chinese halt aid toVietnam

By PHIL BROWN AP Writer

TOKYO (AP) — China announced today it has halted all aid to Vietnam and recalled Chinese technicians working there because Hanoi has "stepped up its anti-China activities and ostracism of Chinese residents in Vietnam."

It was reported from Vietnam, meanwhile, that 250,000 Chinese in Ho Chi Minh City — the former Saigon - have applied to board Chinese ships standing by to re-patriate them to their ancestral homeland. But the Japanese report quoted Vietnamese officials as saying many have decided to withdraw their applications.

The Chinese announcement, made in an official Hsinhua news agency dispatch received here, was the latest move in an increasingly heated political conflict between the two Communist neighbors.

They are at odds over alleged mistreatment of Vietnam's Chinese minority, Chinese support for Cambodia in that country's border war with Vietnam, and Soviet influence in Viet-

The Soviet Communist Party newspaper Pravda reported today that President Leonid I. Brezhnev had sent a telegram to the Vietnamese leadership assuring it of "resolute support" from Moscow against "attacks and blackmail," an apparent ref-erence to the border war and Chinese pressure.

A radio broadcast today of the Cambodian Communist government claimed that Vietnamese forces in the border war are hampered by a sup-ply shortage and morale problems, and that Vietnamese were fleeing the country to avoid the military draft for the Cambodian front.

The Cambodians also repeated claims that they have killed or wounded several tens of thousands of Vietnamese troops in the fighting.

The official Chinese news agency said Peking sent the Hanoi govern-ment a note saying Vietnam's actions had "created a foul atmosphere of vilifying and inciting antagonism against China and destroyed the minimum conditions required for the continued stay of Chinese experts in Vietnam to carry on the aid projects."

China previously had suspended part of its aid to Vietnam. Chinese Deputy Premier Teng Hsiao-ping has said Pek-ing poured $14 billion in economic aid into Vietnam over the past 20 years. China last month also ordered Vietnam to close its consulates in three southern Chinese cities. Japanese reports said the consulates began shutting down over the weekend and staff members were heading

Peking says more than 130,000 "persecuted" Chinese have fled Viet-nam for China in recent months. China has sent two ships to pick up more but says Vietnam has set "unjustifiable" conditions for their repatria-tion and has "colluded" with the anti-Communist Nationalist Chinese government on Taiwan by sending some Chinese

American strength shows

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) -The strength and depth of American male tennis players has once again been illustrated at Wimbledon. For the second straight year,

Americans make up exactly half the players who have qualified for the last 16 in men's singles. Australia, the next best represented country in the last 16, has only three. Britain had none at all. The successful eight - plus the fact that two Americans in the world's top 10, Eddie Dibbs and Harold Solomon, elected not to play here on grass prove that no country can currently match the United States in depth of men's tennis.

Five of the American qualifiers must be rated a real chance of reach-

Second seed Jimmy Connors beat

8-6, 8-9, 6-3 Saturday in a thriller that lasted nearly three hours to confirm his status as the player most likely to meet defending champion Bjorn Borg of Sweden in the final.

But Vitas Gerulaitis, Roscoe Tanner, Brian Gottfried and Sandy Mayer must also rate their chances. The remaining trio, Tom Leonard

- who almost didn't come over because he felt his chances of doing well were limited - and youngsters Tim Gullikson and Hank Pfister, have done well in reaching the fourth

Gullikson defeated another young American, Billy Martin, 6-3, 9-7, 7-5, while Pfister also defeated an American, Nick Saviano, 9-7, 8-9, 6-2, 6-2.

Mayer, Gottfried and Tanner had Leonard and Gerulaitis - who had another American, Tom Gorman, 6-4, already qualified — in the last 16.

Mayer beat fellow American Marty Riessen 8-6, 7-5, 6-3 while Tanner downed yet another American, Fred McNair, 6-4, 6-2, 6-2. Gottfried beat an Australian Allan Stone 6-8, 9-7, 6-2,

In Monday's fourth-round matches, Borg plays Geoff Masters of Australia, and Raul Ramirez meets John Newcombe of Australia. Connors plays John Alexander of Australia, Gerulaitis plays Pfister, Gottfried meets Gullikson, Tanner plays Romanian Ilie Nastase, Leonard clashes with Tom Okker of the Netherlands and Mayer meets Wojtek Fibak of

In the women's singles the American representation is less impress-

Only four American women — Chris Evert, Billie Jean King, Ruta Gerulaitis and Tracy Austin - plus Dallas-based Czech exile Martina Navratilova, have reached the last 16.

Gatlin's hit sinks Diablos

BY TED BATTLES

Tom Butler got his first route-going victory as a starter since last October when the Midland Cubs erupted for a couple of seventh-inning runs and a 6-5 win over El Paso's Diablos, a game in which the lead bounced back and fourth so many times that it might have been more suitable for center court at Wimbledon than Cubs

Mike Gatlin delivered the coup de grace in the seventh, a deftly punched single through the right side to bring in Joe Hernandez with the winning run against El Paso starter Chuck

It was an historic moment for the Cubs. Not only was it the first loss after five wins this year for the righthander from Clemson University, but marked the first time Midland had ever beaten Porter, who owned one decision this year and three last season over the Cubs.

Steve Macko singled to left to open the eighth and raced home with the run that made it 5-5 on Hernandez' triple into the right field corner. Gatlin then went with an outside pitch and punched it into right to plate Hernandez and send Porter to an unaccustomed early shower.

"It was a good pitch," Gatlin de-scribed, "And I didn't look good swinging, but I was just trying to go that way (to right) with an outside pitch. I got good wood on it and the infield was pulled in."

THE WIN squared the series at 1-1 going into tonight's 6:30 p.m. game, which will be followed by musical entertainment and a fireworks display at dark.

David Overstreet, 1-0 and normally a reliefer like Butler, will go for the Cubs. "He's the only one I have left," says Midland Manager Jim Saul, who is operating with a short staff. Dave Steck, 5-5 and 1-1 against Midland this year, will be Manager Moose Stubing's choice for El Paso.

When Porter walked Kurt Seibert to open the game, it was the fourth time in the last five at bats that he had walked his former roommate at Clemson. Kurt promptly stole second and scored on a couple of errors.

El Paso used an error, a single by Don Lyons, a walk and Orlando Ramirez' two-run single to left to take a 2-1 lead in the third. Midland reclaimed the lead in the same inning when Javier Fierro beat out an infield hit, Macko and Hernandez singled for one run and Eric Grandy's sacrifice fly made it 3-2.

El Paso scored once each in the fourth and fifth. Bill Ewing hit his 15th homer in the fourth and a two-out walk to Steve Whitehead and singles by Ramirez and Bob Clark made it 4-3

MIDLAND TIED it at 4 in the sixth when Brian Rosinski singled and took second on an error by Clark in center and scored on Aaron Randall's bouncer through the right side. El Paso went right back in front in the seventh when Terry Stupy reached first on third baseman Javier Fierro's throwing error and then, after two were out, scored on successive hits by Clark and Danny Goodwin.

However, the game's real drama was saved for the ninth inning when Butler, who appeared to be showing signs of tiring in the eighth, had to face Ramirez, Clark (17 homers) and Goodwin (19 homers) in the ninth. The trio had five of the eight hits surrendered by Butler between them.

"I was just trying to throw strikes in the ninth," Butler, now 3-7 said, "I didn't care if they hit it. I just didn't want to walk any of them."

Butler admitted the one he was most worried about was Ramirez. "I wasn't worried about Clark or Goodwin, although they are good hitters and can take you out of the yard. I just wanted to keep Ramirez off base. He had bothered me earlier in the game (2 hits and 2 rbi) and he has been trouble for me all year."

Butler got Ramirez on a pop up and then came Clark and Goodwin, the guys the fans in the stands were most worried about. After throwing three balls inside, "I got a fastball and curve by him inside for strikes and then got Clark to hit an outside pitch" for a fly out to center. "Against Goodwin I threw away from him for two strikes and came inside and I guess I caught him by surprise, because he just looked at it for the third strike."

BRUIN BREWIN'S—James Michael Martin, a 6-2 193-pound left-handed relief pitcher who was with San Antonio the first half of the sea-son, has been added to the Midland roster. Martin was 2-2 with the Dodgers with a 3.56 ERA and one save in four games...Although Cubs fans are accustomed to seeing Butler in relief roles, the southpaw from Tulsa, Okla., was never anything but a starter before coming to Midland. "No, I wasn't tired," he said. "In fact, in the ninth, I felt I was throwing as well as I had in the middle innings."..."Butler had good off speed pitches tonight," Manager Saul said. "No, I had no intention of relieving him in the eighth. The trouble he was in wasn't his own making and he had pitched a good game. And I figured if they were going to beat him, they'd have to beat

Andretti wins Grand Prix

El Paso Porter L 5-1 Clear Midland Butler W 3-7 T-2:25. Att

LE CASTELLET, France (AP) -With the little problem of the controversial Brabham car out of the way, Mario Andretti and Ronnie Peterson resumed their 1-2 habit at the French Grand Prix.

As they had in Belgium and Spain, the JPS-Lotus 79 "ground effect" cars of Andretti and Peterson effortlessly dominated the rest of the world championship field. The result put Andretti, of Nazarth,

Pa., even more firmly in the lead for the 1978 driving title with 45 points in nine races — and seven more to come. Peterson is second with 36 and reigning champion Niki Lauda of Austria third with 25. Andretti averaged 118.24 mph, finishing the race in 1 hour, 38 minutes, 51.92 seconds to Peterson's

Lauda's Brabham used a large rear fan to give the same ground-suction effect Lotus boss Colin Chapman goby airflow. But after Lauda won the last race in Sweden, the so-called "sucker" car, whose engine-cooling fan was 12 times the size needed to so the job, was banned for safety reasons. It tended to throw pebbles and any other small debris into the en-gines and windshields of cars behind it. In the French race, Lauda was forced to retire because of a blown engine after just 10 laps.

The current Lotus is the third car

the team has built this year in developing the design, and it seems unlikely the other teams can catch up, although Wolf is reportedly developing such a car.

Still, Lotus' 1-2 finish was not as easy as it seemed. Andretti said he was far from feeling in control of the race as he had been in his earlier triumphs. And he said his margin over third-place James Hunt of Britain was never comfortable.

The powerful Abilene team pounded out a 10-6 victory Sunday afternoon over the Goodrich Service Center of Midland to win the 10th annual July 4th Slow Pitch Softball Tournament at Hogan Park. Led by Donnie Wood, the Most Valuable Player in the gigantic three-day meet, the Key City entry went undefeated in six games in the field of 42 teams during the double elimination meet, but still had to beat Goodrich twice to take home the big six-foot first place trophy.

Wood, who went 20 for 24 at the plate for an amazing .833 average, had lots of help from his teammates in pounding the ball hard during the tourney. Joining Wood on the all-tourney team were Mike Brown, Randy Barnett, Gary Washington and Hugh Goodrich placed four players — Mark Thomas, Gary Wright, Greg Frazier and Don Schroeder on the coveted team. Frazier, a former standout athlete at Iowa Park and Texas Tech, slammed nine homers in the tournament, the same as San-difer. In fact, both players had seven homers going into the final contest and both hit a pair in the deciding game to wind up with nine each.

OTHER PLAYERS named to the all-tourney team included Dennis Long and Henry Peacock of Abilene Barretts along with Mike Sawyer of San Angelo Spectrum with Midland Softball Association President Bob Garrett and Tournament Director John Redfern III, handing out the trophies at the conclusion of the 82-game tourney. Trophies were also given indivually to the members of the winning and runnerup teams. Wood received a beautiful plaque for being named MVP while Chromalloy took home the giant first place trophy. Goodrich received the second place trophy with Barrett finishing

Goodrich lost to Chromalloy, 15-12 in the game of the final two unbeatem teams and then reliebed of P teams and then polished off Barretts, 13-11, to get another shot at Chromalloy in the title game.

The Tiremen rapped out 19 hits in eliminating Barretts, but it wasn't easy by any means as the Abilene team scored seven runs in the sixth inning to pull to within two runs. A two-run homer by Long along with doubles by Paul Cotten and Jerry n, almost pulled out a vic-

In the championship game, Chromalloy jumped off to a 3-0 lead in the first inning and never trailed the rest of the way, thanks to a leadoff homer by Wood along with doubles by Dudley Coapland and Sandifer. It looked like Goodrich might make its move in the fourth when it scored tworuns, but left two runners on base in cutting the lead to 7-3. Frazier homered and Thomas singled. He scored following base hits by Tom Bunch and Ed Connally.

Chromalloy increased its lead to 9-3 in the fifth on a two-run homer off the bat of Sandifer with the ball sailing over a blue van in right field. SCHROEDER'S SOLO homer in the fifth made it 9-4, but once again, the Abilene team scored again on another homer by Sandifer for a 10-4 advantage. Not to be outdone, Goodrich gave it one last shot in the bottom of the seventh inning. Mark Withrow singled sharply into left, but then Al Wootan lined out to right-center. Schroeder unloaded his two-run homer, but Wright grounded out to the mound and after Don McClung was safe on an error by the third baseman, Frazier skied out to center

Reds finally down surging Dodgers

By The Associated Press

The Cincinnati Reds finally won a game, by George.

As he has done so often in the past,
George Foster hit one into the seats at Riverfront Stadium to win a home game for Cincinnati. This time the home run was a three-run shot off Charlie Hough's knuckleball in the seventh inning Sunday, and the result was a 7-6 victory that stopped a six-game losing streak for the Reds.

"His knuckler didn't drop as much as Hough wanted it to," said Foster, "but it dropped enough for me. I was waiting for the knuckler — I knew I'd get it sooner or later." Rick Auerbach, a former Dodger, also had a home run to wake up the sleeping Reds.

"This is what we needed," said
Foster. "It all boils down to having faith in the team and in yourself. This game is like a shot in the arm for

While stopping a Cincinnati losing streak, the decision conversely ended six-game winning streak for the Dodgers.

"What we needed was someone to come off the bench and get us started—like Auerbach," noted Foster, "We haven't been playing aggressively. After he hit the homer, things started changing for us. We are too good of a ballclub to fall behind."

The New York-Pittsburgh game was postponed by rain. Braves 9, Giants 7

Dale Murphy drove in six runs with a grand slam homer and a two-run single to power Atlanta over San Francisco. The Braves, trailing 7-5 in the seventh, got a run-scoring double from Bob Horner before Murphy lashed his two-run single past third help from Tug McGraw.

Cardenal homer came in the third off loser Ken Holtzman, 0-3, after Bud Harrelson had walked. Jerry Martin tripled to open the Philadelphia fourth and Bob Boone greeted reliev-er Lynn McGlothen with a run-scor-ing single. Ted Sizemore also singled before Ruthven tripled in two runs.

Throughout his career as a New York Yankee, Mickey Rivers has been followed by controversy. He has had run-ins with Manager Billy Martin, teammates and the front office.

New York was trailing Detroit 2-0 in the first game of a double-header the Yankees would wind up sweeping 3-2 and 5-3, with unbeaten Ron Guidry winning his 13th straight game, a team record. Rivers pinch-hit for Fred Stanley with Gary Thomasson on first base and two outs in the Rivers lined a ball to deep right field and the fun began.

Chris Chambliss' sacrifice fly in the eighth scored the winning run and Guidry broke the team mark for most wins by a pitcher without a loss. The record of 12 was set by Tom Zachary in 1929 and equalled by Atley Donald, the scout who signed Guidry for the Yankees, in 1939.

On the team pitching record, Guidry, a slight left-hander with an exploding fastball, said, "It's a big privilege, when you look back and see all the great Yankee pitchers, just to have my name said with theirs. It's White Sox 8-5, Twins 5-9 Larry Doby won his first game as White Sox manager thanks to Bill Nahorodny's homer and two RBI and the clutch pitching of reliever Jim Willoughby.

After the Twins had rallied within 8-5 off Wilbur Wood in the eighth, Willoughby came on to get Rod Carew to hit into a line-drive double play. It was the 10th save of the year for Willoughby.

Friday's second round, another 50 minutes Saturday and then forced Jack Tuthill, the tournament director of the Professional Golf Association tour, to scrap plans to complete the $225,000 event Sunday.

After the rain that lasted all night and into the daylight hours, Tuthill postponed the final round until today when the outlook was considerably brighter and the forecast called for mostly sunny skies and lower humidity.

"I hope we can run almost as fast on race day," Yarborough said, "but I'm real pleased we got a good start. The closer to the front you are, the better off you are, on the first few laps especially.

Benny Parsons claimed the other front row starting spot in the 20th annual Firecracker with a speed of 186.131 mph in another Oldsmobile and predicted a 12-car race. "There'll be about 12 guys capable of winning," Parsons said. "Our car's kind of shaky, but we'll work on the handling and have it ready."

David Pearson grabbed the third starting spot with a Mercury at 185,277 mph and echoed a series of complaints that General Motors cars have the advantage.

"I'm runnning fast enough to hang onto the GM cars, I reckon," said Pearson, known as the "Silver Fox" for his canny driving as well as his graving hair.

Richard Petty, defending champion in this midsummer feature, could qualify no better than seventh fastest at 183.820 in his Dodge.

"My big problem is the GM cars, but we hope to run a little faster,' said Petty.

Floridians started cheesecake yellers

By DAN SEWELL

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) - When television cameras concentrated more on Dallas Cowgirl cheesecake than Dallas Cowboy blitzes during last year's Super Bowl, Ken Small felt a little like Dr. Frankenstein watching his creation run amok

"I really thought it was nauseating. They kept training the cameras on the Cowgirls, and the Denver Pony Express, who would immediately go into a phoney routine. One of the low points in Super Bowl history," Small

Some people might say that Small, now marketing director for the Fort Lauderdale Strikers soccer club, is in no position to complain. In 1970, as publicist for the late, unlamented Miami Floridians American Basketball Association franchise, Small hired bikini-clad Miami ball girls. Pro sports haven't been the same since.

THE PHENOMENAL success of the Cowgirls, who are featured in a best-selling poster, has nearly every pro franchise rushing to dress up their sidelines with shapely cheer-leaders, including one of the latest additions to the-flesh parade: the Los Angeles Rams' "Embraceable

Small explained he was first to put bikinis on the field but he was inspired by the Baltimore Orioles baseball team's use of "bat girls" dressed in team jerseys and shorts, and decided to add to the Orioles' idea by sub-tracting the amount of clothes worn.

The Floridian Ball Girls wore bikinis "that must have covered at least five or six square inches," he said.

"I thought, instead of having a little 12-year-old boy with a basketball under his arm standing at the end of the court, why not have a 19-year-old, 36-24-36 thing standing there. In basketball you have to have somebody carry statistics sheets around, so I figured you might as well have somebody do it ... effectively."

The four teen-aged girls were immediate hits, and won the Floridians an invitation to play in New York's Madison Square Garden — provided they bring the ball girls.

SMALL PROUDLY brandished bannered New York newspaper clippings, such as "Ball Girls Invade Garden." The girls later returned to New York to appear on "I've Got a While the girls didn't help attendance enough to save the Miami franchise, they did improve interest in the team.

"The feminist movement really hadn't taken off yet then, so about the only complaints we got were from mothers who wrote that they didn't want their sons exposed to this flesh,"

Small said. "Actually, though, the most complaints we ever got was after a Halloween night game. We dressed the girls in black body stockings and witches' hats, and we got hundreds of complaints from people who said they came to see the girls in their bikinis, not some body stockings." The star attractions were North Miami Beach twins Cindy and Sandy Acker, who parlayed their publicity into professional modeling and singing careers. They're now pursuing acting careers in Los Angeles, made a Doublemint Gum commercial and had a screen test for a "Charlie's Angels"-inspired television series about twins, one a detective and the other a lawyer.

"IF IT wasn't for the Floridians, this would have never happened, Cindy said in a telephone interview. 'We were in Sports Illustrated, a national AP story ... we got letters from Vietnam. The publicity was just

"When we went to New York, seeing these tanned, bikini-clad blondes just caused so much excitement." The careers of Cindy and Sandy, now 24, got a boost when Dick Shack, Anita Bryant's agent, saw a photo of them escorting a newly acquired Floridian player, Ira Harge. Soon they had so many bookings they quit as

As forerunners of the sexy cheer-leader craze, Cindy said she and her twin approve of the flesh profusion. "It's part of the entertainment. It's like in advertising, where you want attractive people to sell a product. It's okay as long as it doesn't become more important than the game," she

She added that the girls "never got bugged by the crowds" and noted that she didn't feel they were used as sex objects.

"We were 16 at the time, and how much of a sex object can you be at 16? They didn't pick figures to stop the clock. We were All-American-looking," Cindy said.

SMALL, MEANWHILE, is looking ahead. He convinced the Miami Dol phins to replace the prepubescent "Dolphin Dolls" with cheerleaders currently being chosen by June Taylor, choreographer of the Jackie Gleason television series. And, of course, the Strikers have their own cheerleaders - "the Striker Psychers.

Dead penguin ominous harbinger?

By SHIRLEY CHRISTIAN

ALGARROBO, Chile (AP) - A dead penguin washed onto the beach recently, and one resident suggested it may have set out to protest man's intrusion on the nearby Island of the Penguins.

An autopsy was inconclusive, and ecologists are convinced that unexplained penguin deaths will become common in this resort community now that a yacht harbor is being built to connect the mainland with the island 500 feet offshore.

The estimated 800 penguins on the island represent one of the many confrontations between civilization and wildlife in Latin America. On the whole, nature is losing - to industrialization, pollution, pesticides, population and economic pressures.

The vicuna, which used to share the high Andes with the Incas, is down to a countable 900 in Bolivia, about 3,000 in Argentina and maybe 2,000 in Chile. The colorful macaw and other parrots are said to be gone from Rio de Janeiro. The orinoco crocodile, part of the lore of Venezuela's tropics, has been hunted mercilessly.

OTHER threatened species in South America include jaguars, some bears and deer, the condor, alligators, leopards and monkeys. Some conservationists also worry about the future of the fur seal along the Pacific Coast of South America because of mass slaughters of the babies for their skins.

There is evidence that the tide is turning, however. Peru rescued its vicuna population from near extinction and now has an estimated 45,000. Concerned Brazilians blocked an attempt to turn a biological reserve in Espirito Santo State into a commercial palm plantation. Brazilians also have proposed giving up bird feathers on carnival costumes.

Ecuador's government has limited visitors to 12,-000 a year on the Galapagos Islands in an effort to preserve flora and fauna. The islands 600 miles off the Pacific Coast have birds that are unique to the archipelago and giant turtles, iguanas and tor-

Most Latin American governments have enacted laws in the past few years to protect wildlife, though many are short on enforcement funds. Many state and private protection agencies also have sprung

Dr. Juan Grau, a physician who is secretary-general of Chile's private institute of ecology and the country's leading conservation crusader, believes penguins arrived on the island off Algarrobo 3,000 years ago. He says two kinds nest in its rocks humbolt penguins from northern climates and magallan penguins from the southern end of the part by a grant provided

IT IS only 25 miles up the coast to the busy port of Valparaiso and about 70 miles inland to Santiago's 4 million people, but until recently the penguins were undisturbed on their one acre island.

A year ago, workmen began filling in the waters between shore and the island, and it became known that a private firm was going to build a year-round harbor for yachts that now have to move out of Algarrobo during the winter.
Grau marshaled the ecology forces, including several university groups, and the penguins became regular headlines in Santiago newspapers.

President Augusto Pinochet ordered a halt to construction pending studies. Two months later, he allowed work to resume after government officials decided the harbor would be economically beneficial. They said the penguins would not be harmed because there would be no public access to the western side where they nest and swim.

The landfill is completed, and it's possible to reach the island on foot. Although police restrict human access, Grau says there is no way to prevent animal from reaching it and preying on the penguins.

The vicuna, smallest member of the camel family, lives at altitudes of 14,000 to 18,000 feet in the Andes plateaus. Before the Spanish conquest, the Incas regularly sheared vicunas - without killing them and used the silky, fawn-colored fleece in the robes of the high born and for religious ceremon-

In Bolivia alone, more than 80,000 vicunas were killed by hunters between 1952 to 1969, according to Gaston Bejarano, chief of Bolivia's national wildlife department. He says the slaughter began when peasants were given guns to protect lands they received under the agrarian reform of the early 1950s. Selling vicuna skins substantially increased their meager farm incomes, Bejarano says.

The vicunas left in Bolivia are now on preserves, as are those in Argentina.

Peru's rescue of its vicuna population is largely the work of Felip Benavides, a wealthy former diplomat who won the J. Paul Getty wildlife conservation award in 1974. In the Pampas Galeras national wildlife preserve that Benavides helped establish 10 years ago, the vicuna population has grown from 600 to 34,000. There are 11,000 elsewhere in Peru.

Now Benavides and his supporters are campaigning to protect an estimated 34,000 fur seals off Peruvian shores and trying to establish wildlife sanctuaries for the spectacled bear, the Andean deer, the condor, the almost extinct white-winged guan bird and a dozen other species.

LAST YEAR the Peruvian government allowed Prince Abdorreza Pahlavi, brother of the Shah of Iran, to come and hunt the rare spectacled bear. Benavides made no secret of his displeasure, declaring at a dinner which both men attended that the prince was "persona non grata" to Peru's chapter of the world wildlife fund.

The prince made his expedition into the mountains, but he returned emptyhanded, saying he hadn't found a suitable bear.

Fur and skin dealers are blamed for killing hundreds of thousands of animals whose skins are turned into coats, shoes and purses. These include alligators, jaguars, crocodiles and leopards in Venezuela, Colombia, Brazil and Argentina. Some the count has just begun.

Nature estimates that 100,000 leopards are killed each year in Brazil despite hunting bans. Contraband gangs on the Peruvian border trade the skins for food, arms, ammunition and motors. The skins are said to make their way to London for process-

One-and-only Satchmo remembered Coffee export price

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN AP Special Correspondent

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - Whenever I'm in the French Quarter anywhere near the Fourth of July and a funeral band struts by, I always think it's a shame Louis Armstrong didn't go out that way.

It would have been the biggest, blarin'est, most soulful funeral in the history of New Orleans.

Louis belonged to the world, but this was his town. Like those other great American testaments, the Declaration of Independence, Stephen Foster and George M. Cohan, he was born on the Fourth of July.

Fifteen years ago, for an AP fea-ture story, I traveled with Louis Arm-strong and his band when they were doing one night stands in the towns along the Ohio River.

In the darkness of the West Virginia night, as the chartered bus caromed over the hills and around the sharp curves, Louis spoke of his beginnings and his end. He was born in the New Orleans red light district, placed in the Negro Waifs Home, and, in his words, "was reared in an ebony world of church people, gamblers, hustlers, cheap pimps, thieves, prostitutes and lots of children."

His earliest memory was of standing in the doorway of Sicilian Henry Matranga's place on Perdido watching the great Joe "King" Oliver "sweet talk his trumpet with one foot on a big brass spitoon and his cheek puffed out with wind and a chaw of tobacco."

His first break in life came at age six when Bunk Johnson contributed a bugle to the orphanage. Louis grew up on that bugle and soon he was sitting next to King Olive in Kid Ory's band. Next thing you know, he was heading up the Mississippi, "into Mister Charlie's country," to far away places, ali the way to St. Louis, which W.C. Handy made famous, and Davenport, where Bix Beiderbecke, a white man, was doing original things with the jazz taught him by passing black

I can see Louis now, closing his eyes to take in a deep draught of remem-brance as the lights of the little moun-tain towns slid by into the night. "Fate Marable had the orchestras on those boats," Louis reminisced. 'There was two of them: the steamer Sydney with a big paddlewheel on the back, and the St. Paul, which had it on the side. They were owned by Capt. Joe Streckfus, a German, from up there in St. Louis. He loved music and he loved us.

Somewhere during the night run out of Huntington, after a "pit stop for some soul food" at an all night barbecue, Louis paid homage to the way the bus driver handled the big coach along those narrow winding climbing roads. I still remember his exact words and how pleased Dick Norton, the bus driver, was when I told him: Some drivers can make the telephone poles bow down to them. It's like blowing a good horn. You do what you're made to do."

Long after the rest of the bad were asleep on those lumpy leather bus seats, Louis let out an audible sigh that was almost in perfect conterpoint to trembonist Big Chief Russell Moore's baritone snoring. He spoke of Papa Celestin's funeral through the French Quarter and, then at age 63 (he was born in 1900), of his own end, which was less than a decade away.

"I know it's corny," he said, "but that's the way I want to go, with a band out to the cemetery and back. I told my wife Lucille to give the boys all the whiskey they want. Let them get good and snookered with Ol' Satch, just so long as they blow me

It didn't work out that way. When Louis died on July 6, 1971 the family decided America's ambassador with jazz portfolio to the world deserved something less parochial, more dignified. There had been some criticism, long ago, when he agreed to

Or it might be still going on. And maybe it is.

As I was thinking these thoughts, the Olympia brass street band strutted by, swaying out a sad, soulful "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot" at the head of a funeral cortege heading down Dauphine Street in the Quarter and out to the Elysian Fields. Where

At the end, Louis would be there to meet them, doing a riff on that power-ful driving golden trumpet in glorious harmony with Gabriel's horn.

I still treasure the album he autographed for me at the end of that 10 day trip up the Ohio. It contains his version of "Swing Low, Sweet Charlot." On the jacket, he wrote: "Was glad you came for the ride." When they come forth to carry me home on that final ride, I hope he's still doing that gig with Gabriel, blowing them
