Ector County grand jury examines evidence, returns no indictments

By ED TODD R-T Staff Writer

ODESSA - An Ector County grand jury Monday heard testimo ing to the Ector County Jail death of Larry Lozano Jan. 22, but returned no indictments. The grand jury interviewed witnesses and deliberated for about 81/2 hours before returning no-bills. 'We're through with the Lozano case," District Attorney John Green said of his office's probe of the matter about 15 minutes after the 12 grand jurors reported their findings to 70th District Court Judge C.V. Milburn. "The people are getting tired of hearing about it," he said. The case, which has been investiated by avariety o past six months, began when, on Jan. 22, Larry Ortega Lozano, a 27-yearold former Pecos man who had been arrested 12 days earlier and jailed on traffic-violation and resisting-arrest charges, died in jail. He was a hotelsupply salesman who recently had moved to Odessa.

The governor cannot veto a proposed constitutional amendment but Briscoe could call another special legislative session if he does not believe lawmakers have gone far enough in providing the property tax relief he has requested.

The House Constitutional Amendments Committee approved the measure, 8-0, shortly before 10 p.m. Monday, but only after making a drastic change

Key features of the proposal in-much the state should pay school districts as reimbursement for taxes lost due to the homestead exemption.

Von Dohlen warned that "biennially we will be faced with demands to change the law." He said this would divert the Legislature from other issues on 'diluted' tax plan

He later indicated an attempt would be made on the floor to put a dollar amount for the homestead exemption in the Constitution

Rep. John Bryant, D-Dallas, failed, 6-2, to eliminate the majority-of-the-Legislature requirement for tax bills, saying there was no need for it. He noted that Texas ranks 46th in state and local taxes as a percentage of personal income.

'What sends a shiver down my back is we could have an income tax with 51 votes (a majority of the House quorum of 100 members)," said Rep. Bob Close, R-Perryton.

"I consider it a tip of the hat to what I believe is the biggest problem of any governmental body, and that is demagoguery," Bryant said of the majority requirement.

'The Senate's not going to pass it anyway," Hendricks said.

"I don't think we ought to pay tribute to the politician who got beat running for governor or the politician who is in the speaker's office (Speaker Bill Clayton)," Bryant said.

The committee also rejected, 6-3, a proposal by Rep. Luther Jones, D-El Paso, to condition the constitutional amendment on enactment - including Briscoe's signature - of the Peveto Bill.

Rep. Wayne Peveto, D-Orange, is working for legislation consolidating property tax appraisals in one office per county, with the state setting appraisal standards.

Jones said he doubted Briscoe would sign the bill unless it were tied to the constitutional amendment on property tax relief.

Federal tax effort still fighting snag

WASHINGTON (AP) - House tax writers, watching time run out on their efforts to cut $15 billion from federal taxes, face a continuing snag over capital gains and other propos-

Ousted peace justice's lawyer voices objection

By GUY SULLIVAN

LAMESA - An attorney representing ousted Dawson County Justice of the Peace Richard Don Nelson said today he objects to his client being suspended from the state Commission on Judical Conduct "by trial in absentia.

Willis Gresham of the firm of Cayton Gresham and Fullbright said today that the 33-year old Nelson was never notified in advance of the charges heard by the 11-member commission or given an opportunity to respond to those charges.

He said the letter notifying Nelson of his immediate suspension without pay arrived in the Monday morning mail in Lamesa, although word of the action came through news media accounts one day earlier.

Nelson's suspension without pay will last until the four indictments against him have been cleared up, said Darrell B. Hester of Harlingen, chairman of the commission.

Gresham said he needs some time to decide what to do in behalf of Nelson. However, he did make clear that he intends to fight the suspension

Nelson was indicted by a Dawson County grand jury July 13 on four charges, including one count of misapplication of public funds and three counts of burglary.

Lozano, who reportedly had gone leged the deputies kicked and beat the man to death.

Green asked the Ector County grand jury to look into the case after a federal grand jury in Midland spent last week interviewing more than 60 witnesses to determine if Lozano's civil rights had been denied him. The federal jury has recessed indefinite-

"We're trying to end this thing once and for all," said Green, who has accused the press, Attorney General John Hill, the U.S. Justice Department and elements of the Mexican-American community such as the activist Brown Beret, with prolonging the investigation.

The county grand jury Monday in effect absolved Sheriff Elton Faught, his deputies and other lawmen of guilt in Lozano's death.

C.L. "Chuck" Selinger, an Odessa building contractor who was foreman of the grand jury, issued a "no comment" remark to reporters in the district attorney's office only minutes after the jury returned its finding at 5:30 p.m.

"That (the 'no comment') is what the grand jury asked me to say,' Selinger said. Included on the 11-man, one-woman jury, which was impaneled last March, were two men having Hispanic surnames.

Selinger said "no indictments (were) handed down . . . in that (Lozano) case."

"As far as the grand jury was concerned, this case was no different than any other" as far as making or not making indictments and then commenting on them, Selinger said.

The principal witness in Monday's session was 25-year-old jailer Gabriel Perez, who resigned the post he has held 14 months about a hour after he had testified before the jury. The jurors met behind closed doors in a room adjoining the district attorney's office on the third floor of the courthouse.

It was Perez who, sometime before the April inquest, gave to the State Attorney General's office statements which reportedly conflicted with other deputies' accounts of Lozano's treatment in the jail. Perez' statements reportedly alleged that Lozano had been abused while in jail. Other deputies testifed that Lozano was not mistreated.

Thirty-four witnesses, including deputies, pathologists and former fellow county jail inmates of Lozano, testified in the April inquest. The sheriff, however, did not.

Perez, who at 5-foot-6 is of slight build, lingered in a hallway about 21/2 hours before he was summoned before the grand jury on Monday.

He declined to say much more than that his fellow deputies have been giv-ing him "the cold shoulder." He was dressed in a tan western-style suit. His tie-tack was a miniature set of handcuffs.

A week ago, he /was summoned before the federal grand jurors in Midland. He said they questioned him for about an hour.

'Man," Perez said while he was awaiting for the county grand jury to

- Taxation of agricultural land according to its productive capacity rather than its value on the real estate market, a step recommended by Briscoe. - Elimination of an old and unused provision that subjects intangibles, such as bank accounts, stocks and bonds, to property taxation.

- A requirement that a majority of the Legislature - not just those present and voting - approve any bill adding new taxes. Briscoe wanted an almost impossible two-thirds majority.

 A "truth in taxation" provision. Local taxes could not be increased without notice and public hearings. Voters could repeal a tax increase by referendum.

Disregarded was Briscoe's request for California-style initiative and referendum on taxes.

Committee members voted 7-2 for the Legislature to set by law -- rather than lock into the Constitution - the amount of homestead exemption from school taxes that Texans would receive.

Briscoe had proposed exempting $10,000 of the assessed valuation of homes from taxes, with persons 65 and older getting $20,000. Committee chairman Tim Von Dohlen, D-Goliad, had changed that to $10,000 of market value - not assessed valuation because Briscoe's method would erode school district tax bases too much.

Rep. Bob Hendricks, D-McKinney, persuaded the committee that the Legislature should have the flexibility to change the exemption to keep up with inflation.

Legislators also would decide how als which — if adopted — could send the tax cut figure skyrocketing.

One of the measures before the Ways and Means Committee deals with capital gains in a way that President Carter has said he could not approve. Nevertheless, a majority of the tax-writing committee apparently is prepared to vote for it. But House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., said Monday that, in any case, he is sure the House will be given a chance to vote on a version more to Carter's - and his own liking.

But the committee also must deal with a variety of amendments that could destroy the near-consensus on the $5 billion tax cut and perhaps even sink the whole measure.

For example, educational and charitable institutions are pressing hard for the new tax bill to allow deductions for contributions to those groups, even by taxpayers who otherwise use tht standard deduction.

And although the committee has already considered ways to ease the next year's increase in Social Security payroll taxes and has found itself unable to agree, the issue is certain to be brought up again. There is talk of a special income tax cut to offset part of the Social Security increase.

Another possible tax topic which could further slow the going is a plan for adjusting income tax brackets to offset the effect of inflation while adding special provisions for small businesses.

Time is beginning to press as the tax bill must navigate the House, a Senate Committee, the Senate itself and a House-Senate conference after the committee does its work. Conning to talk of the possibility that no agreement can be reached this year. Taxation of long-term capital gains the profit on sale of stock, real estate or other assets held at least a year - continues to be the most troublesome sticking point.

The theoretical maximum tax on such gains now is 49.1 percent, although the treasury says no one has paid at such a rate during the last year and few paid more than 40 percent. The high rate is brought about by a combination of the capital gains tax itself and the minimum tax - 15 percent on otherwise sheltered income.

Basically, a taxpayer is allowed to report only half of his capital gains as taxable income. But the other half, to the extent it exceeds $10,000, is subject to the minimum tax.

Two pending proposals would exclude capital gains from the minimum tax, moves Carter strongly opposes.

The version apparently favored by the committee, backed by its chairman, Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., and Rep. James R. Jones, D-Okla., would exempt capital gains from the minimum tax and establish a maximum tax of 35 percent.

This version was devised after strong support built up for a more drastic version - no minimum tax and 25 percent maximum -- offered by Rep. William A. Stelger, R-Wis.

The administration, while sticking to its original proposals for a package of tax cuts and revisions, most of them long since shelved by the committee, has indicated a willingness to go along for the present with another proposal introduced by Rep. Joseph L. Fisher, D-Va.

Postal unions to vote on strike

By The Associated Press

A militant New York postal worker union local that led a week-long nationwide mail strike in 1970 has authorized its members to take a strike vote following the firing of 122 picketing postal workers at two bulk mail centers.

Meanwhile, the wildcat strikes at the bulk mail centers in Jersey City, N.J., and Richmond, Calif, that have been sparked by unhappiness over the proposed new postal contract, today entered their fourth day despite warnings from Postmaster General William R. Bolger of possible further firings and legal action against the strikers.

The executive board of the New York Metro Area Postal union, the local of the American Postal Workers Union, agreed unanimously Monday night to have its 26,000 metropolitan area members vote on a strike at various locations over the next several days And the executive board of the 8,000-member Branch 36 National Association of Letter Carriers voted unanimously to support the Metro mem-bers if they decide to strike. The actions came following the U.S. Postal Service's dismissal of 80 wildcat strikers at the New York Bulk and Foreign Mail Center in nearby Jersey City on Sunday and Monday, and 42 workers on Monday at the West Coast facility in Richmond,?outside San Francisco.

The National Post Office Mail Handlers, Watchmen, Messengers and Group Leaders Amalgamated Local 300, AFL-CIO, the third major postal union in the New York area, has not publicly announced its stand on a strike.

Leaders of the West Coast workers urged them to return to work because the strike is unsanctioned.

San Francisco federal Judge Stanley Weigel directed 10 union stewards to show cause today why they "shouldn't be punished for contempt of court for violating and disobeying' his order enjoining the walkout through Aug. 3

Bolger said Monday that he would fire any other postal workers who walked off the job and warned strikers could be subject to felony actions because federal law prohibits strikes by postal workers and other U.S. government employees.

An estimated 60 percent of the postal employees scheduled to work at the New York bulk center were on the job for the evening shift Monday, a Postal Service spokesman said. About 50 percent showed up for work on earlier shifts, officials said.

"There was no picketing and we don't expect any trouble," said service spokesman Robert Martell, who reported 747 of 1,241 scheduled workers showed up. San Francisco postal authorities said that of the 140 workers scheduled to work Monday about 105 reported.

"We're 48 hours behind in our processing,": Martell said, but he stressed mail was moving. The West Coast postal officials said they were about 14 hours behind in deliveries.

DALLAS (AP) — The federal edy cdy cdy cdy cdy M ute of limitations expired at 12:01 a.m. today on the Santos Rodriguez murder case, which frees former Dallas policeman Darrell Cain of any 10 rm clr cdy 21 cdy worries he might have had about federal civil rights prosecution. "Everyone should be reasonably satisfied with the outcome, because it was looked into fairly. It was reviewed more than any other case. Whether you like the outcome or not, it has been fairly reviewed," said Phil Burleson of Dallas, one of Cain's attorneys.

Mexican-American leaders failed in their bid late last week to persuade Justice Department officials to file federal civil rights charges against Cain, who shot a 12-year-old boy to death in July, 1973, as the youth sat handcuffed in the rear seat of a squad car.

They had protested his five-year prison sentence by a state court jury as too light.

Burleson said he has not talked recently with Cain, who works in the diagnostic unit of the state prison, but "I am reasonably sure he's relieved not to face prosecution. In my correspondences with him, it was a matter of concern. I'm sure he's greatly relieved."

He was called into he grand jury room not long before noon and emerged about 30 minutes later.

About all Perez would say was that the jurors' questions were "simple and short" and that his answers were "simple and short." Perez said he had resigned his position in the sheriff's department because the other deputies were giving him "the cold shoulder. Later that afternoon, Sheriff Elton Faught, who had been in and out of Green's office, confirmed that Perez, at 1:20 p.m., had handed him his letter of resignation.

"I did not ask for his resignation," said Faught, who also said he did not ask Perez why he was resigning.

Jerry Lopez, an Odessa attorney representing Perez, said Perez told him he quit because, "The other deputies were giving him the 'cold shoulder.' They wouldn't speak to him.

Not long after Perez had testified and the grand jury had left/for lunch, Green said he no longer needed to subpoena Texas Attorney General

John Hill. Earlier, Green had indicated he might bring Hill into the proceedings. He had claimed Hill had interfered in Ector County's pursuit of justice in the Lozano matter. And Green said he had wanted a copy of the statement Perez allegedly made to Hill's office to get that (Perez') statement to us." Green late last week subpoenaed Perez' affidavit although that material apparently had already been turned over to the federal grand jury meeting in Midland.

Green said Hill obtained the statement when Perez and Adam Rodriquez, a spokesman for the Mexican-American community in Odessa, flew to Austin, where they reportedly met with Ruben Sandoval, the Lozano family attorney. At that time, purportedly in February, Perez gave his statement to Dan Maeso, then an assistant to Hill, Green said. Maeso since has joined the U.S. Attorney's staff. "It (Perez' statement) might be as insignificant as I think," Green said. Perez' testimony, the Ector County prosecutor said, "added nothing significant to our investigation." Perez, who said he was in Lubbock "on business" the day Lozano died, was not called to testify during the DEKALB, Ill. (AP) - To Betty Gatliff, reconstructing faces from pieces of bone is like a putting together a puzzle - satisfaction comes from identifying the picture.

Miss Gatliff, a medical illustrationist for the Federal Aviation Administration in Oklahoma City, to see if reconstructing the face would help identify the woman and, possibly, her slayer. Miss Gatliff, 47, has rebuilt 30 faces from bones in the last 12 years, and 23 of them have been identified after pictures were displayed on police bulletin boards or in newspapers. DeKalb's "Jane Doe" was the first Illinois case she had worked on.

"Somebody should have recognized her before now," said Miss Gatliff, a 20-year FAA veteran. "All the ones that have been identified looked quite like the people. You wonder when a person isn't identified if there's an error somewhere.

Sullivan said forensic pathologists who examined the skeleton determined the victim was Caucasian, about 19 years old, 5-foot to 5-foot-2, between 100 and 110 pounds, and probably smoked heavily. She also had a slight overbite and extensive dental work

Miss Gatliff reconstructed her face by measuring facial bones to determine the width and aperture of the mouth, eyes, ears and nose. She contoured the face with a "map" of a human face showing normal skin thicknesses at various points.

BONN, West Germany (AF) -Young neo-Nazis have become increasingly brazen in the last year while police concentrated on left-wing terrorists. Now authorities are shifting their attention to the right.

Right-wing causes have had virtually no support among the voters in recent West German elections. But a new report from the West German constitutional security agency shows hard-core neo-Nazi gangs tripled their strength to 900 members in 1976-

The ultra-rightists committed 600 criminal acts in 1977, doubling their illegal activities from 1976, according to excerpts of the report published by the Social Democratic Party weekly newspaper Vorwaerts.

Police are particularly alarmed that some gangs are copying tactics of leftist urban guerrillas, stealing weapons and identity papers, robbing banks and setting up hideouts around West Germany, said Heinz Pensky, the Social Democratic security expert in parliament.

Pensky, who leaked part of the report earlier this month, warned of "bloody conflicts" between rightwing and left-wing terrorists.

He said the leftists welcome conflicts with the extreme right because they want to provoke what they think are fascist, police-state tendenciesleftists clashed with 3,500 rightists a: a neo-Nazi rally in Frankfurt. About 1,000 police were called in to restore order in the biggest and most violent clash this year.

Last weekend police broke up an illegal rally of 100 neo-Nazis at a beer hall in northern Germany after authorities had forbidden their pro-Hitler demonstration in Hamburg.

Three policemen and three of the leather-clad demonstrators were hurt in the bottle-throwing melee. Michael Kuehnen, the 23-year-old leader of the group, was charged with illegally displaying Nazi emblems, punishable by up to three years' imprisonment.

Police also have found a link between West German and U.S. neo-Nazis. Hanover police, who formed a special commission earlier this year to investigate neo-Nazi and anti-Jew-ish slogans smeared over the walls of city buildings; said leaflets/and post-ers distributed in the city came from the American Nazi Party of Lincoln, Neb

Extremists of left and right drew less than one percent of the vote in the last nationwide balloting of 1976.

Ford called the legislation "a significant step towards establishing consumer confidence in cellulose insulation products.'

Cellulose insulation, which has been used with increasing frequency because of shortages of other forms of home insulation, is merely ground up paper treated with a substance designed to resist flame and fire.

But several new firms, sensing the growing market for insulation, began rushing cellulose insulation into production without adequate protection against fire, causing the need for mandatory safety standards.

Colorado spraying program nears end

DENVER (AP) - An emergency spraying program against millions of grasshoppers in several eastern Colorado counties should be completed later this week if favorable weather conditions continue, says a spokesman for the Colorado Department of Agriculture.

Ranchers and farmers have signed up about 814,-300 acres of cropland and rangeland for spraying in the $2 million program, spokeswoman Barbara Barrow said Monday.

An estimated 900,000 acres in 19 eastern Colorado counties were reported infested with grasshoppers. The cost of spraying is about 88 cents for rangeland and from $2.50 to $3 for cropland, said Don Svedman, deputy agriculture commissioner.

The costs are being split between the state and the landowner and vary according to spraying conditions and the amount of contiguous land to be sprayed.

Radiation surrounds all of us

By LOUISE COOK

Associated Press Writer

We can't taste or touch it. We often can't see or hear it. Some of it is good for us and some isn't. We live with it, day after day, and we don't really know what it does to us. "It" is radiation.

Radiation from the sun, from X-rays, from microwave ovens, from television sets and even from our bodies.

Radiation found in nature and radiation created by man.

Radiation that cures and radiation that kills.

Most Americans never come in contact with the amount of radiation we associate with mushroomshaped clouds or nuclear reactors. What we face instead is a low level that poses a minor, but continual, risk.

How much radiation is around us? "Short of wearing a radiation badge, there is no way of determining what level ... you've been exposed to," said Allan McGowan of the Scientists Institute for Public Information.

Radiation is defined as energy moving through space as invisible waves. The frequency of the waves determines their effect on man.

"We're always surrounded by radiant energy," said Dr. Solomon Michaelson of the University of Rochester Medical Center. "Heat and light are examples. They can be very beneficial."

What, then, makes some radiation dangerous? The key factor, according to McGowan, is its ability to pentrate the body, to enter "the molecular structure and cause damage."

Radiation from the infrared and ultraviolet rays of the sun can be particularly dangerous because "you're absorbing it in the surface layer of skin," Michaelson said.

There are two types of radiation: ionizing and non-ionizing. Ionizing radiation creates electrically charged ions which can disrupt body processes and cause death. Nuclear weapons produce ionizing radiation; so do X-rays and some television sets.

Non-ionizing radiation — from microwaves, light and sound — does not produce ions. It can, however, disrupt body processes. Too much generally causes sickness, not death, but massive doses can be fatal. How much is too much? "We do not know definitely whether there is an amount of radiation below which injurious effects will not occur," says the Food and Drug Administration.

Winborn Gregory, a health physicist and Michaelson's colleague at the Rochester, N.Y., facility, said that radiation carries a risk "just like walking down the street does," but adds that the risk should not be overstated.

"Any increase in exposure to radiation increases the chance that something will happen," said McGowan. How much exposure to the sun, for example, is absolutely safe? "No exposure," he said

Dr. Sidney Wolfe, head of the Health Research

Group, a public-interest organization associated with Ralph Nader, notes that the "degree to which good research has been done to identify dangers from different types of radiation varies widely."

The FDA's Bureau of Radiological Health is responsible for measuring the biological effects from all types of radiation exposure. It is responsible for enforcing safety standards for products like television sets and microwave ovens.

The bureau says adverse effects from ionizing radiation are directly related to the amount involved. "In the case of non-ionizing radiation, the relationship between amount and effect is not known."

Emissions of ionizing radiation are measured in roentgens. When scientists talk about danger levels, however, they talk about "rems," which measure the amount of radiation energy absorbed per unit of body mass. Federal regulations now set 5 rems per year as the maximum dose for people who work with ionizing radiation. There have been proposals to cut the limit to half a rem a year.

Gregory said the average American gets 100 to 120 millirems a year from natural background radiation. (There are 1,009 millirems in a rem.) This includes radiation from elements in the earth, from outer space and even from substances like potasslum 40 in our bodies. The levels vary with elevation and area.

The dose from nuclear power plants is even lower — three one-thousands of a millirem for the average person, Gregory said.

Medical and dental X-rays account for 80 to 90 percent of the man-made radiation we face. The skin-level dose from a dental X-ray is about 200 millirems, but the amount absorbed by the body is 10 to 20 millirems, Wolfe said. A chest X-ray might result in a body dose of 10 to 30 millirems.

Assuming a 10-millirem level, you would have to have 500 X-rays in a year before you received the bodily dose allowed by the government for people like nuclear power plant workers. You should, however, avoid X-rays you don't need and, said Wolfe, you should ask your doctor or dentist when the machine was last inspected for possible leakage and whether it passed the test.

Radiation emitted by today's television sets is, according to the FDA, "generally at levels too low to present a public health hazard." By law, TV sets may not emit more than half a milliroentgen an hour. (A dental X-ray emits about 200 milliroentgens.)

Non-ionizing radiation is measured in milliwatts per square centimeter, FDA standards set a limit of 5 milliwatts per square centimeter, measured at a distance of two inches, as the amount of radiation allowed to leak from a microwave oven. According to Michaelson, you would have to be exposed to at least 20 times that much, or 100 milliwatts, before you would be in any danger at all.

Vance to head group

WASHINGTON (AP)— Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance will head the U.S. delegation to the second ministerial meeting between the United States and the five-nation Association of South East Asian nations, to be held in Washington, Aug. 2-4.

State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said the association delegation will be led by Philippine Foreign Secretary Carlos P. Romulo. Other member nations of the association are Indonesia, Malaysia, Singapore and Thailand.

Ten foreign, economic and finance ministers from the association nations will be present for the meeting, at which the discussions will center on cooperation in economic development, energy resources and business affairs.

Besides Vance, Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal and Commerce Secretary Juanita Kreps will attend the meeting for the United States.

LUBBOCK - Services for Mar-garet "Maggie" McCormick, 97, of Lubbock and formerly of Midland will be at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday in Sanders Funeral Home with the Rev. Sam Nader, pastor of First United Methodist Church officiating.

Graveside services will be at 3 p.m. Wednesday in Fairview Cemetery in Midland.

Miss McCormick died Monday at a Lubbock residence after a lengthy illness.

She was born in Cedar Point. She came to Midland from Brown County as a child with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D.C. McCormick, a pioneer ranch family. Her father also was an early-day sheriff of Midland County.

The family home was located where Midland National Bank now stands. Miss McCormick was the eldest of 15 children. At one time she operated a dress and hat shop located in the old Llano Hotel at the corner of Main and Wall streets in Midland. She was active in civic and cultural life in the community.

After leaving Midland, she lived in California a few years before moving to Mineral Wells, where she operated a dress shop in the old Crazy Hotel. She moved in 1949 to Lubbock, where she was a figure consultant for the Stinson Corp. She retired in 1970.

She was a member of the First United Methodist Church, Order of Eastern Star No. 76, Lubbock Garden Club and the Business and Professional Women's Club.

Survivors include three sisters, LoRee Walter, Gladys McCormick and Pearl M. Massie, all of Lubbock.

Variable mortgages may get green light

WASHINGTON (AP) - Federally chartered savings and loan associations may soon grant some mortgages without fixed interest rates, unless the federal agency that regulates the. institutions gets a red light from Congress.

Opposition is expected on Capitol Hill to the variable rate mortgages, which the Federal Home Loan Bank Board said on Monday it wants to allow homeowners as an alternative to conventional mortgages.

The chairman of the House Banking Committee's consumer affairs subcommittee, Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-Ill., says the proposal, which would allow interest rates to fluctuate with market conditions, amounts to "legal loan sharking.

The prospect of ever-higher interest rates, Annunzio says, means consumers could suffer under the plan.

The board, however, says regulations accompanying its proposal would protect consumers.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, sent the agency a letter expressing his "shock" at the propos-

And the National Association of Home Builders said the plan would "add to the already escalating cost of housing, preventing increasing numbers of families from acquiring homes."

The agency withdrew a proposal to allow variable rate mortgages in 1975

when Congress appeared ready to ban ing the option.

Unless Congress disapproves, the board can allow the new financing scheme in 60 days "where needed to preserve competitive balance, meaning that it would initially be felt only in states that allow state-chartered institutions to grant variable rate mortgages.

But agency officials foresee the idea spreading if more state regulating boards approve variable rate mortgages.

The House Banking Committee voted 24-20 last month to allow the alternative mortgages where stateregulated institutions already have permission, but an effort is expected on the House floor to kill that legislation.

The board proposal included several regulations which it said would protect borrowers. The regulations would:

-Allow interest rates to rise no more than one-half of a percentage point a year, with a maximum interest rate over the life of the loan 2.5 percentage points beyond the rate for the very first payment.

-Let a borrower choose a standard, fixed-rate mortgage if he preferred.

-Allow only one change a year in the monthly payment.

-Provide that at least half of an institution's home mortgages be of the conventional type.

The bank board also proposed allowing homeowners to make relatively small mortgage payments in the beginning with compensatingly higher payments later.

The board estimated the graduated payment method, if implemented throughout the country, would allow 2.5 million more families to own their own homes.

But the change, as with the variable

The board's plan would require that homeowners be told the difference they'd pay in interest.

Payments could increase a maximum of 7.5 percent of the first year's interest rate per year for up to five years. Monthly payments for the remainder of the mortgage could not be more those of the fifth year.

Seventeen states now allow savings and loans they charter to offer one or the other of the two financing plans.

Tito asks for unity to protect Africa

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) - President Tito told foreign ministers in his non-aligned movement today they should unite in keeping foreign powers out of Africa.

"Pressures against the unity of the non-aligned movement are now being intensified," he told delegates at the opening of a meeting of more than 80 foreign ministers of non-aligned nations.

"We are witness to attempts to establish in the vitally important regions of the non-aligned world, primarily in Africa, new forms of colonial presence or of bloc dependence, foreign influence and domina-

Tito, 86, used a cane on entering the brightly lit blue and white convention hall and was greeted as "the dean of non-alignment" by Sri Lanka's foreign minister, A.C.S. Hameed.

The non-aligned movement, Tito said, is "directed against power politics, political and economic hege-mony and every kind of external interference and dependence.

"This all makes the non-aligned movement also anti-bloc in its commitment," the Yugoslav president said.

One target of the speech appeared to be Cuban efforts to define non-alignment in pro-Soviet terms.

Martin pulled trigger on career with Yanks

KANSAS CITY (AP) - When he suspended Reggie Jackson last Monday, Billy Martin cocked the gun. When he sharply criticized the outfielder, Martin in fact aimed it right at his own head.

And when he sniped at Yankee owner George Steinbrenner Sunday night, Billy Martin pulled the trigger on his career as manager of the New York Yankees.

"I knew it would be just a matter of time," said Kansas City Royals pitcher Larry Gura, who "escaped" the Yankees in 1976. "You just knew, knowing Billy. He never sticks around one team very long.

There had been one season with Minnesota, three with Detroit, two with Texas, and just nine days less than three years - three tumultuous, tension-wracked years -- with the Yankees before what's left of Billy Martin resigned Monday.

Tearful, trembling, ultimately unable to speak, Martin said he resigned to salvage, as he put it, "my health and mental well-being." He was replaced by former Yankee pitching coach Bob Lemon. Terms of the contract with Lemon have not been decided, Yankee President Al Rosen said.

"It was just a matter of time," said New York first baseman Jim Spencer. "It's baseball, I guess," said Yogi Berra. "It's a complete shock," said Yankee utilityman Paul Blair.

"It's the best thing," said Whitey Herzog, the Royals' manager. "I feel life's too short to put up with all he's been putting up with. I don't think he's been looking too good lately. I noticed when I was with him during the All-Star break and in New York last week."

Rosen called it "health reasons," and Yankee center fielder Mickey Rivers said, "Billy was taking care of all our problems and maybe it just wore him out.'

And that in a nutshell is the

But everyone seemed to know that no other option existed after Martin told two newspapermen traveling with the team that Jackson and Steinbrenner "deserve each other. One's a born liar (Jackson) and one's convicted (Steinbrenner)

Steinbrenner, convicted in 1974 of making an illegal campaign contribution, had countenanced the ongoing turmoil that surrounded Martin's Yankee - including the near-fight in Boston last year between Jackson and his manager.

But he had a clause written into Martin's contract that prohibited public criticism of the owner. When that clause was defied, Martin was finished.

"I couldn't let any employee of the New York Yankees say things like that about the front office," said Rosen, who spoke with Lemon by telephone about 10: 30 p.m. EDT Sunday night after being informed of the comment.

The financial end of Martin's contract will be honored through 1979 -$80,000 this year and $90,000 next while the low-key Lemon holds the reins of the stubborn stallion called the Yankees

"You never really know how hot the kitchen is until you get in it," said Lemon, who is expected to start checking his thermometer tonight.

"I really don't care who the manager is," said left-hander Ron Guidry, who seeks his 15th victory in New York's first game under the Hall of Famer. "I do the job the best I can, no matter who's running the club.

"It was Billy's decision to make, but I guess one of them (Martin or Jackson) was going to have to go somewhere," said Guidry.

'The differences between Reggie, Billy and George probably cost him his job," added outfielder Lou Piniel-

If it did, nobody would say it. Steinbrenner, accepting Martin's apology for the "other guy's convicted" quotation, said, "I am grateful to Billy for his contributions as manager of the Yankees. He brought us a championship. I think Billy knows of our concern for the well-being of his fami-ly and himself. We wish him luck."

'What do you want me to say? That Billy's a bad man? That I'm 'free at last' like in the slave days? No way,' said Jackson, whose return from suspension Sunday apparently sparked the explosive outburst of temper Martin unleashed in the presence of newsmen at a Chicago airport.

Monday, in his final words to the public, Martin denied the words attributed to him. "I am very sorry there were things written about George Steinbrenner. He did not deserve them, nor did I say them. George and I have had our differences, and in most cases, we have been able to resolve them.'

Crying the tears he couldn't force back, he held his statement in unsteady hands. "I want to thank the Yankee office management, the press, the news media, my coaches and players ...

Martin gained a reputation as a fighter, on the field and off, and lived up to it as often as possible. In his place will be the 57-year-old

Lemon, who managed the Royals for three seasons and the Chicago White Sox last year before being replaced by Larry Doby last month.

Rose matches Holmes' mark with seventh inning single second."

By The Associated Press

The sound seemed to start in left field and began cascading down, row by row, section by section. And before too very long Pete Rose was standing in the middle of one beautiful chant.

Pete. It was the seventh inning at Shea Stadium Monday night and Pete Rose had batted three times without a hit. With a record there for the taking, the fans pleaded for Rose to reach out and take it.

He didn't disappoint them, slugging the first of two hits that enabled him to claim a piece of the modern National League hitting streak of 37 games, set 33 years ago by Tommy Holmes.

But that didn't stop the chant that by now had enveloped the Stadium where only five years ago Pete Rose had to hide from a shower of debris. Cincinnati's square-chinned rock-hard, knock-that-chip-off-my-shoulder competitor was genuinly essence of Pete Rose and why his streak had captured the imagingation of fans all around baseball. He comes to play, all out, every day, no ifs, ands or buts about it. "Let's go Pete, Let's go Tommy Holmes, whose streak Rose has equaled, has noticed that about the Reds pepperpot.

"I'm living every pitch with him," said Holmes, now a front office employee of the New York Mets

"I know exactly what he's going though, the conditions for a streak like this have to be just right. A rainout can cost you a couple of at-bats, or you might have to bunt a couple of times, but I think if he's 0-for-3 and up in a bunting situation, he'll bunt. That's the kind of player he

When he got to the ballpark Monday night, the media crush attracted by the streak was on, but Rose handled it with aplomb

"I wished I could have called time and shaken hands with each of them," said Rose.

But what about 1973 when Rose was involved with fragile Bud Harrelson during a baseline collision in the National League playoffs and the Shea fans responded by throwing everying that wasn't nailed down at him?

"Nah, those weren't the fans who threw the bottles in 1973," deadpanned Rose. "They all retired.'

Charley Hustle, however, hadn't.

Asked his first thought after stroking the streak-tying single, Rose had a typical answer.

"I thought to take a big turn in case of a bad hop. Once I get to first base I'm looking to get to red T-shirt - the one that reminds you that "Hustle made it

So what if the Brooklyn daffiness Happen," he talked of what all days and that haven for the bizarre, baseball is talking about - his Ebbets Field, are gone. Stop mourning. There's still Cubs Stadium. "This is a lot of fun for me,"

Fans have seen it all here, the game called because of grasshoppers, the ump who attacked the player, 33 runners left on base in one game and that lordy awful clubbing of Frank Tanana, the time Midland beat him back in '73, er, ah 1-0 in 10 innings.

And Monday night, it was more of the same. Jeff Albert may have pitched the only technical shutout in Texas League history, surviving a three-run homer in the second inning, to notch a 10-0 win for the Cubs in the series opener against Tulsa.

Did we hear someone in the audience ask, "How's that, again?"

With two-out in the second inning and Joe Stewart, who had beat out an infield hit, on third and Rick Lisi, safe on an error on first, Wayne Wilkerson belted an awesome fly ball over the centerfield fence and a 5-0 lead for Midland suddenly was reduced to 5-3...or was it.

As Terry Pyka stepped to the plate, catcher Greg Keatley signaled for the ball and touched the plate. Umpire Ed Coors gave the out sign and Midland left the field. Stewart, the first runner across, had missed the plate, so Wilkerson had to settle for the longest single ever at Cubs Stadium instead Wilkerson did get credit for a single because he advanced the runner from second to third.

DESPITE THE strange play, Albert, winning his sixth game in 14 decisions, had no apologies to make for his seven-hit shutout, the first of the year by a Cubs pitcher at Cubs Stadium, and the first since Jack Ledbetter and Tom Butler teamed up May 26 for a 5-0 whitewash at Jack-

It was the second straight victory for the Oceanside, N.Y., native who pitched in college for C.W. Post. In his last start, Jeff turned back Shreveport, 4-1, on four hits and seems to have regained the touch that made him a nine-game winner for Midland last year.

The only other serious threat for Tulsa came in the fourth when Stewart singled behind the bag at third and took second when Javier Fierro's desperation throw was wild to first. Rick Lisi walked and Stewart took third on a fly to right. However, a double steal attempt was foiled when second baseman Kurt Seibert cut off the throw and gunned the ball to Keatley for the tag at the plate.

MIDLAND PROVIDED Albert with all the runs he needed in the first, erupting for five tallies against Tulsa starter Mike Griffin, 5-12, with Joe of his third home run of the year. Hernandez' two-run homer, his eighth hits as Midland raked three Tulsa of the season, the big blow. Seibert. opened the game with a walk, stole second and scored on Steve Macko's single to left. Hernandez then powered his homer over the left field fence. Eric Grandy beat out an infield hit behind second and scored on Brian Rosinski's double to the angle in left-

> Fierro's single to center. Midland struck for three more runs, the gift variety, in the third when Hernandez singled and stole second. Rosinski walked and when Jim Tracy grounded to second for what looked like a routine force and possibly double play, the ball wound up beyond the Cubs' bullpen in left. Both runs scored and Tracy wound up on third, scoring on a wild pitch.

center. Rosinski then rode home on Seibert's double in the fourth led to another wild pitch run and in the sixth singles by Mike Gatlin, Macko and Hernandez produced another run.

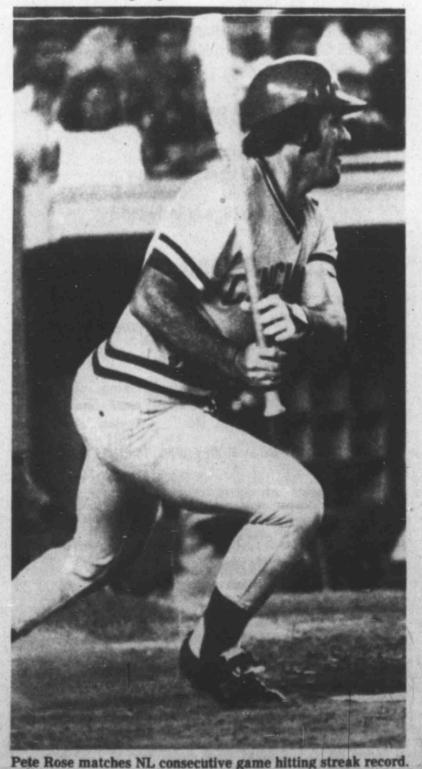

THE WIN kept Midland in first place in the Texas League West Division going into tonight's 7:30 game in which Darrell Turner, 0-2 since returning from Wichita, will go against Tulsa's Brian Allard, 6-4, who beat Turner and Midland, 7-5, at Tulsa. Hernandez, in going 3-for-3, raised his rbi total to 33 for the year, after missing the first two months of the season.

Macko and Rosinski each had two

BRUIN BREWIN'S-It was a rough night all around for Tulsa's Stewart. First baseman Tracy made a fine play on his foul pop down the right field line in the sixth and then Hernandez high-tailed it deep in center to shag his bid for extra bases in the ninth...Allard, who goes tonight for Tulsa, is a second-year pro out of Henry, Ill., who was 8-9 as a rookie for Ashville of the Western Carolina League last year...Albert has won three of his last four and has walked only five in five of his six wins ...

A. (Resentfully) "What's that got to do with me?"

Q. "Mr. Payton, last year you broke O.J. Simpson's single-game rushing "Mr. Payton, last year you broke record in the NFL. You posted the third-highest rushing total in NFL history, 1,852 yards, and you led the NFL in carries, yards and touch-downs. Nobody did things like that, not O.J., Jim Brown, Red Grange, George Gipp or the entire cast of Navy Blue and gold. And now, rookies who have never carried the ball, scored a touchdown or even hit a line in the NFL are going to be making more money than you. You have scored 34 touchdowns in 41 games in three years in this league. And now, you're putting the good of the team above personal financial goals? Your honor, I submit that this is primafacie evidence of un-American activities on the part of the defendant. What we have here is a genuine, 14-karat American dissident. He can tear down our way of life if allowed to run around doing this kind of thing. He's making us look bad abroad, and setting a very bad example to the young. He's scorning our traditional values of get-the-money-and-hang-the-team, or, I-got-mine-too-bad-about-the-team. It's subversive, Your Honor! He's making a laughing stock of our form of government and I want him punished to the full extent of the law. I don't want any soft justice here. This man is dangerous!'

The Court: "What would you have us do? Shark Island?"

Q. "No, your honor, what I propose is far more severe. Let him go on playing for a lousy $4,125 a game. But 15 years from now, I want the voice of America cameras on hand to film it when he comes home to the little woman and says, 'The cotton all died in the north 40. The gas station went in the red again. The bank wants its money. The IRS is on the phone, and I had to sell the car to pay for little Joanie's dental bills.' And his wife will cover her face and moan, and the defendant will say, 'You know, some-times I think I should have taken that $350,000 in 1978,' and the wife will take her hands away from her face and stare at him in horror. 'You should have taken the WHAT? Do you mean to stand there and tell me you turne down $350,000?! For what?' And when he says, 'For $66,000,' I am confident the defendant will get this punish-ment, swift and terrible: justice will be served, and the state rests."

Kansas City won't be outmanaged any more

In the past two American League Championship Series, the New York Yankees defeated the Kansas City Royals in five games and it was generally noted that Yankees Manager Billy Martin outmanaged Kansas City field boss Whitey Herzog.

Despite those playoff losses, the Royals' players stand behind Herzog 100 percent. And now they know Martin won't be outmanaging Herzog in this season's playoffs.

The fiery Martin resigned Monday, several hours before the Royals rallied to beat the Yankees 5-2. Martin's downfall was precipitated in part by his inability to get along with his players, a problem Herzog hasn't encountered.

"Whitey is honest," said pitcher Larry Gura. an ex-Yankee who always was at odds with Martin. "That's the best thing about him. He lets you know where you stand."

the American League West. They've won 10 in a row, including Monday's triumph over New York, their fifth in a row over the defending world champions. They're a happy club.

"We're the definition of a team," said rookie Clint Hurdle. "There are lots of ballclubs, guys playing together part of the time. But we're a team. We play together all the time.

"Whitey instills a lot of confidence in guys and makes them feel valuable. He keeps everybody pulling for everybody else.

"If you can't play for Whitey, you have no business being in the major leagues," added All-Star third baseman George Brett.

Brett was one of the heroes for the Royals, driving in the winning run with a single to left off reliever Sparky Lyle in the seventh inning. Brett's hit followed pinch-hitter Steve Braun's two-out double, which Thurman Munson dropped in right field.

Later in the decisive inning, John Wathan pinch-hit another double and Dennis Leonard, 12-11, breezed to his fifth straight victory.

"Whitey keeps everybody happy," said Wathan. "There are no cliques on this team. Everybody likes everybody and it's because of Whitey."

While the Royals sung out in praise of Herzog, the Yankees had mixed reactions to Martin's departure.

"I'm a little sad that it ended this way," said Munson. "I really don't have a reaction," said Reggie Jackson, the eye of the storm last week when he was suspended for five days by Martin for disregarding the manager's orders. "Except maybe placid, drained."

5-2, Red Sox 4-4 Boston broke a five-game slide with its nightcap victory as Carl Yastrzemski knocked in the 1,500th run of his career with an single in the sixth inning. After a long standing ovation, Carlton Fisk belted Minnesota hurler Geoff Zahn's next pitch for a threerun homer.

"It was nice to get the ovation here because this is where I started my career back with the Minneapolis Millers (in 1960)," said Yastrzemski, a 17-year veteran. "it was nice to get the RBI but it was more pleasing to get a hit because Zahn was pitching a whale of a game against us.

"I didn't want to tip my hat immediately and I think the commotion broke Zahn's concentration. On the next pitch he gave up a homer to Fisk

Mike Torrez was ejected in the first inning of the second game when he argued too vehemently on a balk call that scored the Twins' first run.

Steve Stone four-hit Milwaukee as the White Sox broke a nine-game losing skein Dave Chalk's single scored Don Baylor after Baylor had been hit by a Jim Kern pitch in the 16th inning.

"I told the guys that if he came inside, I was going to have to get hit," said Baylor. "I turned my arm and it hit me right below the elbow. I've been hit there so many times that now it just gets numb for a moment and it doesn't hurt."

Baylor had his 23rd homer earlier in the game.

Mariners 1-7, Blue Jays 0-2 Seattle swept a pair, winning the opener on Rick Honeycutt's three-hitter and the nightcap with Craig Reynolds hitting a pair of doubles and Leon Roberts homering

Orioles 10, Rangers 6 Lee May's two-run single and an RBI hit by Pat Kelly, the 1,000th safety of his career, keyed a five-run ninth inning rally for Baltimore.

Lamesa to meet San Angelo

Lamesa meets San Angelo for the bi-district Little League title Friday at Big Spring, but the Midland Eastern team pushed Lamesa down to the wire in the district tournament at Big Spring last week before losing 9-7 in the finals.

Despite the loss, Albert Reed, Michael Evans and Ricky Jackson struck out eight Lamesa players while Andre Mayfield hit a fourth inning homer while Oscar Ochoa hit a double and single and Manuel Villarreal had two singles for Midland. Eastern reached the finals by defeating Midland Western, 6-5, in a seven inning thriller as Marcos Rodriquez fanned 10 while Dennis Matta doubled, Villarreal and Rodriguez had three singles each and Alton Love two. Eastern beat Big Spring Texas, 15-6, as Ricky Jackson's seven whiff effort was backed by a 15 hit attack, led by Dennis Matta's three-run homer in the second and two runs double in the third, the blows that broke the game open. Mayfield had three singles and Randy Carden two.

Computer problems delay tabulation of NBRSA scores

Howard Dietz has grabbed the early lead in the National Sporter Championships held here, but it took officials a little longer than they expected to figure that out.

A computer system was set up to tabulate scores quickly for the National Benchrest Rifle Shooters Association's five-day championship meet, but Monday the system's printer was on the blink, so scorers had to turn to the old reliable method for adding up the scores - a pad of paper and a number two lead pencil.

But, when all the adding and headscratching were done, Dietz, of New Braunfels, Tex., was in the top spot of the Sporter division. Monday's action consisted of one warm-up and five record rounds at 100 yards. The Sporter Championships will continue today with two rounds at 200 yards. Competitors in the Sporter Championships are limited to guns weighing not more than 10.5 pounds and bullets of not less than .231 in diameter.

Dietz's aggregate score for the 100 yard rounds was .2798. To figure a shooter's score for a round, the distance from center-to-center of the two widest shots on the target is measured and divided by 100 yards to determine the minute of angle. The average minute of angle for the five rounds is the aggregate score.

Wieck had a score of .3092 while Minneman was at .3122.

Jeff Fowler of Concord, Tenn., was seventh with a .3152 and Houston's Gary Vincent eighth with a .3160 aggregate score.

Leon Gass of Odessa was among the leaders after the 100-yard rounds with a score of .3196. Bill Zachary rounded out the top ten at .3212.

The Sporter Championships will wind up today and competition will begin in the Light Varmint Championships, which will continue through Wednesday. The final two days of the tournament will be devoted to the Heavy Varmint Championships.

North All-Star football coach Don Beck of Perryton explains to his squad the finer points

"With the restrictions placed on defenses, it'll be high scoring," said Beck. "That will be a problem for us because we normally use a multiple defense (at Perryton) and it's the same for the South."

South Coach Doug Ethridge of Port Neches-Groves must cope with a basic defense plus teach a new offense to his probable starting quarterback, Dickinson's Donnie Little, the state's top schoolboy prospect last season.

All-Star offenses explosive

Little, a master of Dickinson's veer offense last season, is learning the power-I offense but Ethridge figures Little will be ready for the challenge.

"The kid's got a great attitude and attitude is important in a game like this," Ethridge said. "He throws the ball real well too."

Ethridge isn't sure what to expect from his team. "We've got great size in our linemen and quickness in our backs but it's hard to say what kind of game we'll have," Ethridge said. "The only handicap the South will have is me.' Beck's North team will operate a mind like a sponge," Beck said of Wessinger. "He retains everything and that's important in a game like this.

Little rushed 1,613 yards and passed for another 1,581 last year as Dickinson won 13 straight games en route to the Class 3A state championship Wessinger completed 196 passes for 3,342 yards and rushed 1,670 yards during his schoolboy career. The all-star basketball teams also held two workouts Monday at Hofheniz Pavilion, where the North-South game will be played Friday night.

The South team coached by Odessa Permian's Al Oglesby suffered an immediate setback when high scoring Terry Teague of Broaddus received a sprained ankle in the first workout. Oglesby said Teague would be held out of Tuesday's drills.

Registration started today with THSCA officials predicting attendance will top the record of 7,081 set at Dallas last year. The annual coaching school has set attendance records in each of the last 24 years.

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) - Los Angeles Rams owner Carroll Rosenb-loom was expected to formally announce today that his National

Rams Publicity Director Jerry Wilcox issued a brief statement Monday, saying that the move depended upon whether the Anaheim City Council approves the agreement at today's 2 p.m. meeting.

In exchange for the Rams' presence in the Orange County community, 30 miles south of Los Angeles, Anaheim Stadium reportedly will undertake an $80 million to $100 million remodeling project. The stadium, which now seats 44,000, also is the home for the California Angels baseball club. Anaheim officials have said they expect the expansion to boost football seating to about 72,000.

The move would end a stay of 32 years in Los Angeles for the Rams, who moved here from Cleveland in 1946.

Coliseum officials, meanwhile, al-possibly take its cause to court, to challenge the NFL's 75-mile territorial protection rule.

Coliseum Commission President William R. Robertson said Rep. Yvonne Burke, D-Calif., planned to have legislation introduced in Congress to "help us in the event of an antitrust suit" against the NFL.

'We think it is almost obscene that the city of Los Angeles and the County of Los Angeles look like they're going to be without a pro (football) team unless we get into action," Robertson said.

Coliseum Manager Jim Hardy said that in spite of Rosenbloom's complaints about Coliseum facilities, the Rams were treated well at the Los Angeles location.

"His (Rosenbloom's) rent is only $500,000 a year, and he grosses roughly $8 million," said Hardy. "That's like 6.25 percent — the third lowest rent, percentage-wise, in football.

Murdoch's future unclear after stiff NHL suspension

NEW YORK (AP) - Don Murdoch of the New York Rangers, who pleaded guilty on April 24 to possession of cocaine, says his future in the National Hockey League is uncertain after being slapped with one of the stiffest suspensions in league history for cocaine possession.

NHL President John Ziegler announced Monday that the 21-year-old right wing would be suspended for the entire 1978-79 season but that the punishment could be reduced to 40 games upon application by the Rangers and if his conduct is proper during the period on the sidelines.

Murdoch said he will be meeting with his legal and athletic representatives within the week to determine what his future holds. He said, howev-

Except for the lifetime bans placed on Billy Taylor and Lon Gallinger in 1946 for alleged gambling activities, Murdoch's suspension is the longest in NHL history.

"This has sunk in hard and I hope I will be able to handle it," Murdoch said.

"I feel I have been made the fall " added Murdoch, "but Mr. guy. Ziegler had the final decision and this was it."

The suspension of Murdoch, a native of Cranbrook, B.C., was the first handed out by the NHL involving illicit drugs. It came one week after Murdoch appeared before Ziegler at a hearing.

Along with the suspension, Murdoch was fined $500.

It hit hard," Murdoch said. "My family and friends stuck by me all through this. I learned my lesson. I made a mistake. I knew the league would do something, but not this. It's more than I expected.

Murdoch was detained at the Toronto Airport on Aug. 12, 1977 and charged with trafficking cocaine. He faced up to seven years in prison for possessing 4.8 grams of cocaine. But he pleaded guilty to a reduced charged and was fined $400 by a Ontario court.

"Mr. Murdoch has admitted that he had this illegal drug in his possess-ion," Ziegler said. "He has constantly denied that it was for his use and has maintained that it was by accident that he came by same and that it was his intention to throw it away but that he forgot and it got placed in his baggage by the act of another."

President's promise faces new challenge

By TOM RAUM

WASHINGTON (AP) -- President Carter's efforts to meet the energy goals he outlined last week at the Bonn economic summit face a new challenge in the House, where support is growing to prohibit him from imposing oil import fees.

A coalition of House Republicans, oll-state Democrats and East Coast congressmen is forming behind the effort. The import-fee ban has already been approved by the Senate. Congressional aides claim the White House will probably lose the battle, on which a key House floor vote was slated today. Meanwhile, Sen. James Abourezk.,

D-S.D., vowed to continue the parliamentary maneuvering that has slowed Senate action to a crawl. Abourezk began the delaying tactics on Monday to protest the scheduling by Senate leaders of natural gas deregulation legislation for next week - a measure Abourezk has fought heatedly for months.

He accused leaders of deliberately holding up two relatively minor but politically popular parts of Carter's 15-month-old energy plan - dealing with energy conservation and electric rate-setting --- to increase pressure on the Senate to pass the proposed natural gas compromise.

So he decided not to wait until the gas compromise gets to the floor to begin his long-promised filibuster. saying, "I'm told that if you want to stop a building, you start with the foundation."

On the oil import issue, aides to House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill estimated that despite an intensive last-minute lobbying attempt, the White House appears between 30 and 40 votes short of blocking the move by Rep. Clarence Brown, R-Ohio, to ban any import fee.

The administration had threatened an import fee of up to $6 a 42-gallon barrel if Congress were to recess for the year without enacting the president's proposed crude oil tax, which has been pronounced "dead" by a number of key senators.

The Senate last month approved an amendment by Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., to a Treasury Department bill prohibiting Carter from using Treasury funds to impose or enforce an import fee.

This prohibition was not in the House-passed version of the Treasury bill but House-Senate conferees are expected to reconcile the two versions.

Brown has announced he will make a motion today to instruct House conferees to accept the Dole import-fee ban. Although such a motion would not be binding, if adopted it could spell a hard time for any compromise bill that did not include such a ban.

In addition to wide Republican backing, Brown's motion has heavy support from Democratic members from both oil states and from the East Coast, which is heavily dependent on imported heating oil and would be hardest hit by such a fee.

Carter promised U.S. trading partners in Bonn, West Germany, last week that he would try to reduce U.S. oil imports by 2.5 million barrels a year by 1985 - a goal that could be difficult for him to achieve without either the oil tax or the right to impose an import fee.

Abourezk has been delaying everything to come before the Senate by lodging objections to routine issues and demanding formal recorded votes on almost every amendment and motion.

He said it's just a prelude to the real filibuster that will come when the gas-pricing compromise hits the floor next week, a fight expected to be waged by both liberal opponents of deregulation, such as Abourezk, and Republican conservatives who don't think the bill goes far enough.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Energy Committee, told reporters he thinks such a filibuster will backfire, pressuring senators up for re-election to support a motion to halt debate.

Such a motion requires 60 votes, however, and Jackson acknowleges he doesn't have them yet

Customer determines sale of gas: Wallace

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Customer demand determines how much natural gas is bought - not Railroad Commission rules --- says commission chairman Mack Wallace.

Nevertheless; Wallace acknowledged Monday that Texas has a natural gas surplus, and an advisory committee may be reactivated to see if a Feb. 5 rule has had anything to do with it. The surplus reportedly runs as high as three billion cubic feet a day. "Additional exploration (for gas) may be having an effect," stated Wallace. "We always have supply and demand, and our supply now happens to exceed our demand. But I can't say how long that will last. We could have a real cold winter or the continuation of the heat wave, which would increase the use of air conditioning. The advisory committee proposed the February rule, which was designed to increase the accuracy of matching Texas gas production with market demand.

Explosion kills two

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - A piece of equipment blew apart on an offshore drilling platform in the Gulf, killing two workers, critically injuring another and injuring several others less seriously, federal officials say. Those killed in the accident Monday were identified as Marcus Ray Smith, 50, and Joe Dyess, no age available, both of Oakdale, Miss. They were employees of Pool Co., a drilling contractor.

Dan Bourgeois, assistant field operations supervisor for the U.S. Geological Survey office in New Orleans, said there was no fire and no gas escaped.

"They were going back into the hole with drill pipe when the hydraulic clutch on the draw works (a winch assembly) exploded," said Bourgeois.

"When the draw works gave way, the traveling block fell," he said, adding that those below "probably didn't have time to get out of the way.

Abourezk slows pace on energy bill work

By WARD SINCLAIR The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - It didn't look or sound like a filibuster, but by the time Sen. James Abourezk; D-S.D., had slowed the Senate to a crawl Monday a telltale aroma was there.

As a runner might try a warmup lap before a race; Abourezk ran a few parliamentary windsprints as preude to the fight that appears to be shaping upin the Senate in the next couple of weeks.

Actually, it's a race tht Abourezk already has run once and lost. For two weeks last fall, he and Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, filibustered the Senate version of the deregulation bill but finally were cut

The conference bill is expected to reach the Senate for a final vote in the next 10 days or so. It would remove federal price controls from natural gas by 1985 and is viewed as weaker than last year's Senate version. Abourezk sees the legislation as a gargantuan consumer gouge, as do some of his liberal allies. But some gas-state senators don't think it goes far enough, which Abourezk said may mean that he already has 25 or 30 votes before the debate has begun. He ambled onto the floor Monday and began playing out a game that calls for slowing down other legislation, keeping gas off the floor and putting "consumer pressure" on the leadership. "There's no strategy," the pudgy maverick said. "Just back up legislation, just back things up. The important thing is that consumers have to be alerted that Congress is trying to raise their gas prices — and they'll be Abourezk again was overruled when he turned his question to a parliamentary inquiry. Byrd popped up from his chair and congratulated Sen. Allen on her skill as presiding officer.

"There doesn't seem to be a lot to preside over," she responded.

The Senate then moved on to its scheduled two hours of debate on the Older American's Act, which on the best of days might have been concluded by 3 p.m.

Abourezk made slow down moves when he could. He asked for rollcall votes. He demanded that amendments be read in their entirety. At 6 p.m., the debate droned on, with the possibility of wrapping up a pending military foreign aid bill virtually nil. When Byrd, due to the press of business, asked unanimous consent to convene the Senate at 9:30 a.m. (EDT) Tuesday instead of 10 a.m. Abourezk objected.

GOMEZ PRODUCER

Texaco Inc. No. 2-E Pecos Fee is a new well in the Gomez (Wolfcamp). field of Pecos County, 12 miles northwest of Fort Stockton It finaled for a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 1.68 million cubi c feet of gas per day, with a gas-liq uid ratio of 98,716-1. Gravity of the liquid is 53-1.

Completion was through perforations from 10,756 to 10,767 feet after 200 gallons of acid and 16,300 gallons of fracture solution.

Total depth is11,100 feet and 5.5inch pipe was landed at 11,100 feet. The plugged back depth is 10,876 feet.

The well is 1,320 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 37, block 48, T-9, T&P survey.

STERLING TESTS

HNG Oil Co. of Midland announced locations for a pair of tests in the Credo, East (upper Cisco gas) pool of Sterling County

No. 2-27 McEntire is 3,205 feet. northwest of production and 10 miles northwest of Sterling City

The drillsite is 1,000 feet from south and 1,500 feet from west lines of section 27, block 23, H&TC survey. It is todrill to 8,000 feet.

No. 2-33 McEntire, another 8,000 foot test, is 2,908 feet southwest of production and 1,500 feet from north and 1,300 feet from west lines of section 33, block 23, H&TC survey and 10 miles northwest of Sterling City.

FISHER WILDCAT

Sojourner Drilling Corp. of Abilene No. 1 Leon Goswick is to be drilled as a 4,000-foot wildcat in Fisher County. 5/8 mile southeast of the recent opener of the Flippen field.

The new test is 2,173 feet from south and west lines of section 1, block 21, T&P survey and four miles south of Longworth.

The wildcat is 3/4 mile southeast of the depleted Bonner field.

The Flippen discovery is James P. Dunigan, Inc., No. 1 C. A. Johnson. It completed for a daily pumping potential of 119 barrels of 38-gravity oil, plus four barrels of water, through perforations from 3,572 to 3.573 feet.

UPTON TEST

John L. Cox of Midland No. 1-C Halff Estate has been staked 1/2 mile southeast of production in the Spraberry Trend Area field of Upton County

The 8,700 foot test is 1,320 feet from north and west lines' of section 55, block Y, TCRR survey,

The closest well is Cox No. 1 Halff Estate which was completed as a three and one-quarter mile west extension to the Spraberry Trend Area production

The location of the extender also is 3/8 mile northeast of the Old Upland (Penasylvanian) field.

paying double next year."

'We have more leverage on the bill this year than we had last year, Abourezk said. One thing is the pressure to adjourn by early October. Another is that foes can prolong debate over motions to recomit the bill to conference for reshaping. For all the billions of dollars involved in the long debated gas bill, which President Carter wants as part of his energy package, the opening-round of Abourezk's slowdown was tolerant and collegial. Some senators chuckled and joshed him. Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., the majority leader, cooly chewed on a toothpick. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., the minority leader, burrowed wax from his ear with a little finger and smiled. Abourezk stationed himself at a front row desk at 11:30 a.m. (EDT)

when the session began, and pecked away at Byrd's efforts to handle routine business routinely The delays, caused by Abourezk's objection, went on for more than an hour. Byrd had asked for a quorum call, to gain time. He then moved to suspend the call and Abourezk objected. Byrd laughed. The call continued but by now the clerk was reading the names slowly because it was apparent that at the noon hour Monday. a live quorum would be as elusive as an agreement on natural gas.

'Madam President, it's 12:27," Abourezk said. "What was the last name called?"

completes

Texas Pacific Oil Co., Inc. No. 2 T. D. Young has been completed as the second well in the Estaban, Northwest (Strawn reef) field of Nolan County, five miles southwest of Sweetwater.

Operator reported a 24-hour pumping potential of 42 barrels of 44.2-gravity oil and 70 barrels of water.

Completion was through perforations from 6,330 to 6,352 feet after 1,500 gallons of mud acid.

The lower Strawn reef was topped at 6,308 feet on ground elevation of 2,313 feet.

2,400 feet from west lines of section 55, block 22, T&P survey.

casing is set at 6,488 feet. Texas Pacific discovered the field with its No. 1 J. B. Cooper. It was completed in March for a daily flowing potential of 158 barrels of 40.8gravity oil, plus 110 barrels of water. through a 30/64-inch choke and perforations from 6,274 to 6,344 feet.
