Prices up 0.9 percent; worker loses ground

By MICHAEL DOAN

WASHINGTON (AP) - Consumer prices rose 0.9 percent for the third month in a row in June, as the average worker continued to lose ground to inflation, the Labor Department said today.

The cost of food, housing and auto-mobiles led the big increases in prices, which have continued steadily since the start of the year.

Consumer prices would rise 11.4 percent if the trend of the past three months continued for a full year, the department said. The Carter administration predicts price increases will not be as large in the next six months and is banking on a downturn in food costs. The department said the average worker's purchasing power declined 0.4 percent in June, the second drop in a row. The worker made 0.5 percent more in hourly wages, just over half the increase in prices.

The prices consumers pay for food jumped sharply by 1.3 percent last month, and beef prices continued to spiral by 5.6 percent.

Beef prices this June were 30.7 percent higher than in October 1977, when the current uptrend began," the

The cost of poultry, dairy products, cereal, bread, oils and sugar increased in June, but prices of vegetables, pork, eggs and coffee declined

Home-ownership costs rose 1.2 per-cent in June, as housing prices and mortgage interest rates continued to Electricity costs, which have risen rapidly since January, climbed a sub-stantial 2.6 percent in June, the department said. A mail rate increase pushed postal costs up 14 percent, the first big increase since early 1976. Natural gas and fuel oil prices rose moderately, while telephone charges were unchanged, as they have been most of the year. New-car prices went up 0.9 percent after rising 1.2 percent in May, reflecting higher price tags for imported autos and recent increases by U.S. automakers.

However, airline, taxicab and longdistance bus rates declined in June, and gasoline prices dropped slightly. Despite the generally bleak report, the department said the cost of entertainment declined in June by 0.2 percent because of lower prices for sporting goods, toys, hobbies and music equipment. Consumer prices last month were

7.4 percent higher than in June 1977. The department said the Consumer Price Index stood at 195.3, meaning that prices were 95.3 percent higher than in the base period of 1967. In advance of today's report, top presidential trade and inflation aide Robert S. Strauss said, "June is going to be another bad month.

In presenting his 1979 budget in January, President Carter predicted prices would rise 6.1 percent this year, less than the 6.8 percent price climb of 1977.

But food and housing prices shot up rapidly in the first five months of the year, and administration officials slowly raised their targets.

On July 6, government economists increased their inflation prediction to 7.2 percent. And on Wednesday, Strauss said inflation could "very easily" climb above 7.2 percent.

In the first five months of the year, consumer prices were rising at an annual rate of almost 10 percent. That means every product costing $100 on Jan. 1 would cost $110 by year's end if the trend continued.

Even though Strauss says the 10 percent rate shouldn't continue because of predicted food price declines,

Cathy Murphy's happy day now mystery; police dragnet futile

ODESSA - Last Saturday was to be a happy occasion for 19-year-old Catherine Ann "Fifi" Murphy. She was to be in Houston for her stepsister's wedding.

But the wedding had to be postponed indefinitely after it was learned that the petite 5 foot 2, hazel-eyed, dark blonde-haired Odessa woman had disappeared under ominous cir-

Today, one week after Miss Murphy's car was found in a Safeway Parking lot, Odessa police still are engaged in an intensive effort to turn up some clues to her whereabouts.

Her boyfriend, whose name police are withholding, and her car seem to be the dual focal points of the investigation at this point. Miss Murphy has been missing since early July 19, when her boss, Charles Poer of H.B. Zachry in Odessa, telephoned her aunt to tell her that she had not shown up for work.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Murphy Jr. of Odessa. Murphy is co-founder of Murphy and Rochester Real Estate and Insurance

But her not showing up for work worried Miss Murphy's aunt, who decided to call her parents in Houston, where they were making plans for the stepsister's wedding. The Murphy's immediately returned to Odessa and have been near the telephone ever since, waiting apprehensively to receive information about their daugh-

The missing woman had a reservation at Midland Regional Air Terminal for a plane ticket to Houston. She was supposed to confirm the reservation last Friday, but she never did.

Miss Murphy last was seen leaving The Place, an Odessa disco, about 11:30 p.m. on July 19, according to police reports. Her boyfriend reportedly told police she dropped him off at his home around midnight.

The only tangible evidence in the case is her car, which was found about 4:30 p.m. last Friday in a parking lot at 27th and Grandview. The 1975 Oldsmobile Cutless Supreme was found in "immaculate condition," according to her mother. She said the front seat had been adjusted as far back as it would go. Her daughter is not that tidy, commented her mother. And the seat should have been pushed forward as far as it could go since

"my daughter is very short." "We're really interested in if anyone might have seen somebody get out of that car. That would be a big

The car was found locked and without its keys in the door or the igni-

... yet wages rising above last year levels

dent Carter's anti-inflation campaign has yet to take hold as far as major union contracts are concerned, according to government statistics covering the first half of the year.

The figures, released Thursday, showed that average wage increases in major labor contract settlements during the first six months of 1978 topped raises won in 1977.

Carter in his anti-inflation campaign announced last April said he would like to see a decline in the size of wage hikes.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics announced Thursday reflect contracts that involved 1,000 or more employees and together cover about 1.1 million workers, mining and transportation equipment industries.

The figures showed wage increases during the first six months as averaging 8 percent over the first year and 6.6 per-cent over thehlife of the contract. By contrast, contracts negotiated during 1977 had wage hikes averaging 7.8 percent in the first year and 5.8 percent over the life of the pacts.

None of the figures include cost-of-living increases.

Meanwhile, the government announced that worker productivity during the second quarter of 1978 edged up at an annual rate of 0.1 percent after a decline in the previous quarter.

House debate turns to marathon

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - House debate over a constitutional amendment on property tax relief has turned into one of those marathons that sometimes afflwhether to compel future legislatures to reimburse school districts for revenue lost to tax relief.

Senators, meanwhile, whipped out their version of the property tax relief package Thursday in about two hours, quickly agreeing 29-0 on a "compromise" produced by Lt. Gov.

The Senate then adjourned for the weekend.

For the voters to get a final say on the property tax relief question at the Nov. 7 election, both houses must agree on the same proposal and approve it by a two-thirds vote in each

The House calendar for today also included Orange Rep. Wayne Peveto's massive bill to create uniformity in appraisal of property for taxation. Peveto, however, indicated he was having second thoughts about pushing for the bill, which is acquiring serious

"I'm just so disgusted by the whole thing," Peveto said as the House quit Thursday after two days of debating and bickering.

Senators voted, 16-10, for a resolution adjourning the special session at p.m. Tuesday and sent it to the House. Hobby said he and House Speaker Bill Clayton had agreed to try to end the session a week before its Aug. 8 adjournment deadline.

The Senate's version of the constitutional amendment to ease property taxes would:

- Tax all agricultural land according to the income it could produce, not its value on the real estate market. Only farmers and ranchers earning 51 percent of their income from the land now qualify for such a tax break.

- Exempt $5,000 of a home's value from school taxes, with an additional $10,000 exemption for those over 65. Property taxes paid by the elderly would be frozen at their present

- Require notice and public hearings before local property taxes can be increased.

Hobby estimated that the Senate package, together with pending bills repealing the state sales tax on utilities and increasing inheritance tax exemptions, would save taxpayers $1 billion over the next three fiscal Senators added to the proposed tax saving by voting to exempt two cars per family from property taxation.

Both the House and the Senate turned down attempts to exclude corporations from savings resulting from taxation of rural land according to its productive capacity.

Rep. John Bryant, D-Dallas, failed 94-49 to cut corporations out of the proposal. He said big timber and paper companies with vast tree farms were "trying to piggyback" on some-thing designed to help families stay on the farm.

The Senate vote was 15-14 against excluding corporations.

Challenge possible in Lamesa JP suspension By GUY SULLIVAN

LAMESA - Richard Don Nelson, the ousted Dawson County peace justice, could contest his suspension from office by exercising "his right to due process in a court of law," an official of the State Attorney General's office said Thursday. Nelson, 33, was suspended without pay last Friday by the state Commission on Judicial Conduct. He was indicted two weeks ago by a county grand jury for burglary and misap-plication of county funds. Nelson was notified of his suspension by mail Monday. Since that time, Willis Gresham, an attorney with the Lamesa law firm representing Nelson, has said he objects to his client being suspended by the state Commission on Judicial Conduct "by trial

However, Nelson has the "opportunity to respond when and if his case goes to trial in district court," according to Max Flusche, assistant state attorney general.

Nelsonhas been replaced temporarily by Mrs. David Harris, 37, a former secretary in his office. She was sworn into office Tuesday by County Judge Leslie Pratt.

Gresham, employed by the Lamesa law firm of Cayton, Gresham and Fullbright, which is representing Nelson, said his client was not notified in advance of the charges heard by the commission nor given the opportunity to respond.

However, Flusche said an indicted jutice does have an opportunity to "have a trial before a district court. There he will be shown all rights of due process. His opportunity to re-spond to an action by the commission will come in the criminal trial."

Still, Gresham said, "Each citizen has the fundamental right to expect that the government cannot take action against them without notifying them ahead of time. I think there is a very good likelihood that this procedure, which does not provide for the riight of a hearing, may be chal

However, Gresham declined to say exactly how he may challenge the procedure. He insisted that the lack of prior notice in time for Nelson to respond to charges weighed by the commission amounted to "a substantial deprivation of his job and liber-

Gresham said he has not made a decision yet as to how to defend

"We are now considering our options," he said. Nelson's suspension, which he cannot appeal by law, will last until the four indictments against him have been cleared up, according to officials familiar with the case.

Nelson, a Lamesa native, was indicted by a Dawson County grand jury July 13 on four charges, includ-ing one count of official misconduct and three counts of burglary.

The decision to suspend him is the first test of a change in the state constitution made Nov. 8, 1977. This change granted the commission the authority to "suspend with or without pay any state judge indicted in state or federal court pending the outcome of those indictments."

Nelson has been indicted on one count of official misconduct in connection with an incident on March 16, when, according to the indictment, he "did intentionally and knowingly mis-apply a thing of value belonging to the government...public funds, to wit, U.S. currency that had come into his possession by virtue of his office."

Following his arrest on June 28, Nelson was arraigned before County Judge Pratt. He is now free on bonds totaling $8,000. Until the decision was made by commissioners, Nelson con-the high court's help. Aimed at keeping Farber out of jail while he appeals the contempt citation, the emergency request was expected to argue that the reporter should not be required to reveal confidential files.

The request, once received by the court clerk, will be submitted to one justice for considera-

Bergen County, N.J., Judge William Arnold ordered Farber and The Times to hand over all files in the celebrated "Dr. X" case. Farber's information was gathered while he prepared stories about a series of mysterious patient deaths at Riverdale Hospital in Oradell, N.J., in 1965 and 1966.

Farber's articles led authorities to renew their investigation of the deaths and eventually to charge Dr. Mario Jascalevich, identified only as "Dr. X" in Farber's initial articles, with the murder of five patients.

Jascalevich is standing trial on charges that he killed the patients with curare, a powerful muscle relaxant.

Arnold ordered the newspaper and Farber to surrender all materials in the case, saying he would review the information confidentially and then decide whether to give it to Jascalevich's lawyer for trial use.

States sue EPA to protect industry

BOSTON (AP) — State environmental officials are going to court to prove that Massachusetts industry s not to blame for all the smog that hangs over Bay State territory.

Massachusetts joined New Jersey in a lawsuit to block a federal smog control plan which would force Northeastern states into stringent cleanup measures against ozone air pollution.

The suit against the federal Environmental Protection Agency argues that much of the region's ozone pollution comes from other states and claims that no single state can control airborne ozone. Under the EPA plan, so-called "clean" areas in the South and Midwest would be free of the strict pollution clean-up requirements applied to industry n the Northeast. "We hope to pursue a result that won't disadvan-tage a state or industry because it happens to be at the wrong end of a prevailing wind," said Charles Corkin, chief of the state Attorney General's environmental protection division. Smog — mostly composed of ozone gas — routinely clouds summer skies in the Northeast, as it did in Massachusetts last weekend, prompting health officials to warn against the possible dangers of exertion

Ozone is formed when auto and factory emissions react with sunlight.

State officials in the Northeast contend that the EPA-designated "clean" regions generate considerable amounts of pollution which is carried to the Northeast by prevailing summer winds.

"We are trying to help New England and the eastern United States solve a serious health problem, while at the same time not place the region at an economic disadvantage," said Dr. Anthony Cortese, director of the state Division of Air and Hazard-

"Only a national strategy can result in attainment of the standards," Cortese said. "We cannot solve the ozone problem by controls in Massachusetts - or the Northeast - alone.

New Jersey officials claim some air already vio-lates federal pollution standards when it reaches their state.

Missouri, New Mexico and Arkansas also have intervened in the case, but are supporting the EPA plan. Most areas in those(states would be free from stringent anti-pollution measures under the federal

Cuba lashes Peking, Washington at Belgrade

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) -Cuba, lashing out at Washington and Peking, urged non-aligned nations today to turn toward socialist allies and reject the capitalist West.

"We are not trying to equate social-ism and capitalism," Cuban Foreign Minister Isidoro Malmierca said in a warmly applauded speech at a meeting of more than 80 countries.

"It would mean equating those who attacked Cuba, maintaining economic blockade for 17 years, who occupied Guantanamo, with those who have been at the side of our people on every occasion, when we had to face outside aggression." Malmierca's speech, Cuba's first public comment at the Belgrade meeting, came after two days of speeches in which Havana had been both praised and condemned for its military activities in Africa and for allegedly trying to come up with a pro-Soviet definition of non-align

U.S. posted Japanese miss out on yen boom

By WILLIAM GLASGALL

NEW YORK (AP) — The estimated 80,000 Japanese businessmen and diplomats stationed in the United States say they aren't reaping the same bonanza that Japanese tourists are finding as they spend their increasingly valuable yen here.

The basic salary of most Japanese working for private companies in the United States is based in U.S. dollars," said Makoto Hara, chief economist of the Bank of Tokyo Trust Co. in New York. "The appreciation of the yen has no effect on their lifestyle," he said, because they are receiving fixed dollar salaries and are paying for food, rent and other expenses in dollars, not in Japanese currency.

Japanese government officials stationed here are paid in yen — but their salaries are revised annually to cancel the effect of changing exchange rates. The dollars they get in exchange for their yen paychecks haven't increased with the devaluation of the dollar.

The situation of the Japanese diplomats is similar to that of many American businessmen in Japan, whose salaries are paid largely in dollars and who receive increases to compensate for the U.S. currency's declining buying power. But many other Americans stationed in Japan don't enjoy that protection and are struggling as their dollars shrink.

At Japan's United Nations mission, Yasushi Akashi, minister for budgetary, financial and organizational affairs, said he and his colleagues "have not felt more affluent than before, and our wives say this too."

The yen has appreciated by more than 30 percent against the dollar in the past year, in part because of worries over inflation in the United States - which cuts the dollar's buying power - and also because of persistent American trade deficits.

Because of the appreciation, American visitors in Japan often are finding themselves hard-pressed to make ends meet. At the same time, a Japanese tourist here is finding a bus ride or a steak dinner is 30 percent cheaper, even though the price in dollars hasn't changed.

According to the Japanese consulate here, there are about 133,000 Japanese citizens living in the United States, including the 88,000 executives and government officials, their wives and children, and students.

New York bureau chief Hiroshi Fujita of Japan's Kyodo news agency said that only seven or eight years ago, Japanese workers here "used to receive much less than their American equivalents." Hara added: "The Japanese couldn't afford to buy many things here because the standard of living was much higher."

Today, "Japanese employees abroad are paid about the same as their American counterparts," Fujita said, adding that even so, "we're not rich enough to go to fur stores or jewelry stores every day."

For example, Akashi, whose rank is one step below the ambassadorial level, is paid the equivalent of around $54,000 a year, while junior diplomats receive about $32,000. He receives his pay in three parts: a base salary, denominated in yen and related to rank and senioty; an overseas allowance also liked to the yen and based on local ling costs and other factors; and a using allowance, paid in dollars.

Alleged German terrorist indicted on fake passport

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP) - A federal grand jury has handed up a seven-count indictment accusing an alleged West German terrorist of entering the United States with a forged passport under an assumed name, a U.S. District Court official says.

Kristina Berster, 27, is to be arraigned on the charges here next Tuesday, Carol Parot, a deputy court clerk, said Thursday.

Miss Berster's American lawyer, Nicholas Altomerianos of New York City, has denied that she is or has ever been a member of the terrorist Assistant U.S. Attorney Jerome O'Neill said the indictment, handed up Thursday, charges Miss Berster with use of a forged and altered passport and attempting to evade U.S. immigration laws by using an assumed name.

Items stolen

An estimated $633 worth of items ranging from a CB radio to a color television set were reported stolen from the home of James Voss in the 2400 block of Whitmire Boulevard early Thursday night, according to Midland police. Authorities said there was no sign ofxforced entry. Voss said the items were discoverd missing when he returned home from work, according to

He said each of the two charges carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $2,000 fine.

Three of the counts charge Miss

Berster with making false statements to immigration officers to conceal her true identity, O'Neill said. He said those charges carry maximum penalties of five years.

Weather fair through Saturday

Weather in the Permian Basin has become so uneventful the weatherman, perhaps in response, has shortened his forecast to three words - fair through Saturday.

No rain is in the forecast, according to the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport.

High Saturday should be in the middle 90s, about the same as Thursday's high of 95. Record high for July 27 is 106 degrees set in 1954. The mercury should drop to the upper 60s tonight. Low today was 67 degrees, compared to the record low of 61 degrees set in Winds should be variable and from the south and southeast at 5 to 15 mph tonight, the weatherman said.

Clear skies and warm temperatures were reported today throughout

By LANA CUNNINGHAM Looking for something unusual to decorate the yard? For starters, how about trying an old fire engine, completely intact? Or how about a tire measuring about four feet tall and about two feet wide?

For those residents who are trying to cut corners with their budget, they can eliminate the city fee for picking up trash by purchasing their own used trash compactor.

These are just a few of the 70odd items that will be up for auction by the city at 10 a.m. Saturday in the city's municipal garage located at South Street and Carver Street.

The city collects the items throughout the year, and each summer a public auction is held, according to Riley Brooks, who heads the city's purchasing office. It gets the items off the city's hands, and adds a little more to the city's coffers. But, it also gives Midlanders a chance to pick up some unusual items at a reasonable Conducting the auction this year will be Rene Bates, a municipal auctioneer from McKinney. "He lets you bid as much as you want to," Brooks said with a laugh. Bates has been conducting the Midland auctions for about 10 years.

About 75 items, including several vehicles, will be up for auction. The Police Department will be contributing about 22 bicycles and a few tires. The bikes range in size from 12 inch to 26 inch. Brand names include Schwinn, Sears, Pennys, Wards, Murray, Huffy, White and Vista.

Run-of-the-office items include adding machines and typewriters.

Vehicles for sale have at least 70,000 miles on them, Brooks said. The city is not selling the vehicles because they won't run, because they do. It is just the city's policy to replace a vehicle after 70,000 miles or five years. Police cars have a tendency to pile up the miles faster than other city-owned vehicles and this accounts for a couple of 1977 police cars included in the group for sale. The most unusual item is a fire truck engine, which is described as being about 10 years old - too old to replace parts in it. Brooks said the huge tire came off a truck used at the city landfill. The tire is still good, he added.

Or if none of those items is not what a purchaser has in mind, the city also has about 300 old Cub Stadium blue and green metal chairs. While the chairs may not look like they will hold a large person or last too much longer, it is the sentimental value there, Brooks said. These chairs came out of the Chicago Cubs Stadium in Chicago...about 30 years

"It's all good merchandise," Brooks said.

Midland infant listed as serious

A 10-month-old Midland girl, Laura Williams, was listed in serious condition today in Midland Memorial Hospital, admitted with a head injury received in a traffic accident just west of the city on U.S. Highway 80 late Wednesday night.

State tax relief hopes are slim, Craddick says

AUSTIN - Chances of getting 100 Texas House members to vote for a constitutional amendment to giving property owners tax relief are 'slim," Rep. Tom Craddick of Midland said today. The Senate Thursday approved 29-0 a similar amendment and then told the House it wants to adjourn Tues-

Craddick, who is supporting the amendment, said opposition to the tax relief package centers on legislators who "don't want to see a tax cut until the next (regular) session of the Legislature" when they will have a better idea what expenditures will be

In addition, all books and records from Nelson's office were confiscated following his arrest. The Lamesa accounting firm of Matthews and Matthews plus county auditor Donald H. Stephens have been conducting a ticket-by-ticket audit of the books with the results expected to be finalized "in a few days," according to Stephens. Although he declined to discuss the audit, Stephens did say they were looking for "irregularities."

Dawson County District Attorney Joe Smith said Thursday,"At this point it would be premature for me to say anything about the audit." However, Smith did say that he expects the case to come to trial. But he did not say when.

Judge George Hansard of the 106th District Court is expected to hear the case, according to authorities.

bernatorial candidate John Hill's supporters are opposing the amendment because they don't want to act on tax relief until after the election.

And, "a lot of people just don't like some of the provisions," Craddick

The House bill calls for a somewhat different form of tax relief than the Senate bill. When debate began today, the version under consderation would allow the Legislature to give a $10,000 exemption to all property owners, Craddick said, but he said the House might well amend its version in debate today.

One of the major differences between the two versions as of early would require future Legislatures to reimburse local school districts for any lost revenue from tax relief they are required to give.

Craddick said he does not think whether that provision is left in will affect the likelihood of its passing.

The Midland legislator predicted the amendment's fate would be determined in the House today. Should the bill get a majority vote short of the two-thirds margin required to put a constitional amendment on the ballot, he said, efforts would be made to increase the number of votes on second and third reading.

If the amendment is passed in the same form by both houses of the Legislature, it will go on the November general election ballot for approval or rejection by Texas voters.

You can identify both of them with such "radical" movements as the Audubon Society, the Sierra Club, the Defenders of Wildlife and other crusading groups interested in preserving more than just a semblance of wilderness.

Right now, Mrs. Erskine in particular is bent on spreading this word to would-be and present bird-keepers:

Don't try to make a "pet" out of just any bird of the wild. Chances are, it will be illegal and unkind. By law, only three species of wild birds may be enslaved as pets: the English sparrow, the common pigeon and the starling. The traditional parakeet is not considered a wild bird, according to Mrs.

Some people, such as youngsters of good intent, want to cage and otherwise keep the more exotic birds of the And many seek advice from Mrs. Erskine on what to feed illegally kept birds such as hawks, owls, mockingbird, ravens and so on. "I'm getting so many people calling me, asking (me) what to feed them,"

Mrs. Erskine said, "and I tell them it's illegal to have them. She's understanding, but she does get a bit ruffled and peeved over it. "I get real frustrated, because a lot of people know it's illegal." But the real tragedy comes when the human bird-keepers become bored with their winged "pets."

"Then they throw them out because they don't care, and they (the birds) don't know how to take care of themselves." And without that survival instinct, that know-how to live, the birds are without freedom. They die. Now, what are the "pet" virtues of these three birds: the starling, the sparrow and the pigeon?

"Oh, they all have their great virtues," Mrs. Erskine said. -The starling: "That's a magnificent bird to have for a pet. They can learn to talk. They're better than a paraket." -The sparrow: "They catch cicadas" and other insects in their flight through the air. -The pigeon: "What can you say about the pigeon?" she asks. And Mrs. Erskine replies: "They're beautiful to watch flying." In flight, the pigeon is like the sparrow hawk, which, like all birds of flight, has he concedes that the inflation of the first half of 1978 will make it hard to slow inflation sufficiently in the second half to hold the line at a 7.2 percent yearly increase, he said.

The administration has also had to raise its estimate of food prices. The Agriculture Department started the year predicting a 4 percent to 6 percent increase for the year, then raised the estimate gradually to 8 percent to 10 percent last month. Other officials say that 10 percent is a more accurate prediction because of bad growing conditions last winter and dwindling cattle herds.

On a brighter note for the administration, the unemployment rate has dropped much more rapidly than ex-

In January, the administration said unemployment would be 6.3 percent by the end of the year. Only halfway through the year it is already down to 5.7 percent. On Thursday, Treasury Undersecretary Anthony Solomon had more predictions for a better economic picture when he said U.S. oil imports will entinue to decline this year.

Solomon said the decline will lead to a stronger position for the dollar on foreign currency markets, a continuing worry for economists and American consumers of imported goods. Likewise, he said, the U.S. trade deficit should also decline.

The Treasury official said the drop in oil imports should total one million barrels a day by year's end. For the first half of 1978, the decline totaled 200 million barrels.

Good money after bad

When Jimmy Carter was last 10 years. Whether they can campaigning in 1976 against wasteful federal spending, he gave a prime example.

The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, which has eaten up $6 billion in federal funds since 1968, has made "almost no contribution to reducing crime," said candidate Carter.

This undoubtedly led many persons to think that as President. Mr. Carter promptly would call for the dismantling of LEAA. Not at all. In fact he now is asking Congress to keep it going, which is one surprise, and to increase its funding, which is another.

Mr. Carter and Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell have convinced themselves that by changing the agency's name and laying down new rules for dispensing its grants to the states and cities it can accomplish in the future what it has failed to accomplish for the convince Congress is another matter.

Congress has dismantled most of the Great Society programs of the Lyndon Johnson era, not from hard-heartedness but because experience showed that waging "war" from Washington on poverty and other social problems in the cities wasn't working.

The crime statistics indicate that the LEAA is one of those weapons in the Johnsonian arsenal that never found its target.

The nation's crime rate has increased by 40 percent in the 10 years since LEAA began waging its war on crime. Yet the administration now wants to put $800 million a year into federal anticrime programs instead of the present $641 million.

This sounds like throwing good money after bad - as a certain candidate for president might have put it two years ago.

Holding the line

The Midland County Commissioners Court, long known for holding a tight rein on taxes, has managed to do it again - thank goodness.

Yes sir, both the county tax rate and valuations will remain the same for next year, according to the county budget, which has been filed in the county clerk's office for public scrutiny.

This, of course, is good news to all county taxpayers. But this is nothing new for county com missioners, who have held the line on taxes for a number of years with property assessed at 32 percent of market value. The rate is the same as for 1978, and there

The new budget, it is reported, is based on a tax rate of 95 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

Overall, Midland city and county taxpayers enjoy a tax situation far more favorable than most communities across the land, and they are grateful for

WATCH ON WASTE: There's no need to join the Navy to see the world. Even such an unlikely government agency as the Food and Drug Administration can offer a lot of free sightseeing.

Witness the jauntings, for example, of J. Richard Crout, a top agency official. In a recent 18-month period, he used official travel vouchers to make three trips to Geneva, one to Sweden and another to London. His assistant, Jerome Halperin, meanwhile visited Japan twice in three years. "I don't like to travel a lot," was Crout's surprising comment. He explained that he specializes in working with the World Health Forum and Swedish officials. "We see each other in different forums." He stoutly insisted the taxpayers are getting their money's worth from his overseas voyaging. He has also passed up junkets abroad, he said, that "sound like fun."

Crout said his assistant, Halperin, "is sort of our Japan guy" and is taking language lessons in Japanese. "It's a hard language to learn," we were informed.

CHARLEY REESE Which are best: elected or appointed officials?

By CHARLEY REESE Sun Belt Syndicate

ORLANDO, Fla. - In Orange County, Fla., a dispute is now raging as to whether an elected school superintendent or an appointed one is preferable. And the question of elected versus appointed officials has been an active one elsewhere in the U.S. as People who advocate an appointed school superintendent are laboring under the delusion that a government entity is analogous to a private corporation. It isn't. Their argument is that a school system has a large budget and a lot of people so one needs a good administrator and the people are not competent to make a selection. That is stupid on its face. If the people are not competent to select someone to administer a county school system, then why are they competent to select a president to administer a national government and make life and death decisions? The answer, of course, is that those who believe the people are incompetent to select a school administrator also believe they are incompetent to select a president, governor, senators and congressmen - only they haven't yet mustered up the guts to say so.

Those of us who believe in freedom and self-government had better purge these elitists every time they show their faces or we'll end up with a nation composed of 85 percent Step-And-Fetch-Its and 15 percent Finger-Snappers

There is no demonstrable evidence that appointed superintendents are superior to elected superintendents. It's unlikely that a school board elected by the voters will be any wiser than the voters who elected them.

Of course, there are those who believe that upon assuming office - any office - one automatically receives a dose of superior wisdom. There is no evidence to support that superstition

But to return to the main argument that a large number of employees and a large budget make government analogous to a private corporation, there are a number of obvious differences that destroy the analogy.

For one thing, a private corporation produces measurable results. One can look at sales, production figures and profits and draw a conclusion about the effectiveness of the chief executive officer. Only with the advent of the functional literacy test has there been any way to measure the product of a school system. But more importantly, government should be concerned with providing a service, not with efficiency. What we want the school system to do is educate children. I, for one, would not grumble about costs if the children were being educated. What irks people is that they are paying a record price for an uneducated child. The advantage of an elected superintendent is that he must listen to classroom teachers, principals, parents and others. He is forced, by the necessity of asking for their votes, to take the Biblical advice to seek many counsels.

An appointed bureaucrat, on the other hand, can ignore the counsel of parents, classroom teachers and principals. So long as he politicks a majority of his board, he can tell the rest of the community to stick it in its

It's been my experience that too often school board members are easily awed by jargon and credentials and therefore end up as rubber stamps. No professional educator worth the salary of a superintendent has failed to master the art of putting down a

The answer to the cry for qualifications is to set minimum qualifications by stature. Having done that, then the people can observe the candidates, question them, and make a decision. Some elected superintendents are bummers, but then so are some appointed superintendents. There is no perfect answer. However, a superintendent must operate in an environment of civil service tenure an4c unions, where persuasion rather than dictation is necessary. An election is certainly a good test of that talent.

President Carter is urged to carry a bigger stick

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON - When Dr. Samuel Huntington of the National Security Council (NSC) staff on the evening of July 10 discussed with Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan how to handle the Russians, it followed a policy debate waged within the national security bureaucracy for six weeks and now threatens to divide the Democratic party.

Moynihan thought Huntington was asking him to publicly urge stopping U.S. technology transfers to the Soviet Union as a protest against the dissident trials; Huntington says he intended no such request. But the two former Harvard professors fully agreed that needed oil drilling bits should not be sent to Russia just when the Kremlin is thumbing its nose at Jimmy Carter's concern for human Huntington, an intimate of NSC director Zbigniew Brzezinski, was not inciting mutiny against President Carter. Rather, he was trying to influence the final outcome of a debate involving much more than drilling

Senior figures in the administration and Congress fear that Mr. Carter is turning Teddy Roosevelt on his head, speaking loudly while carrying the small stick supplied by the State Department. They feel the president must not let the world believe that the Soviet Union can play the barbarian without fear of meaningful reaction

Consequently, Jackson took the Senate floor July 10 to declare: "When the Soviets are doing so much to provoke us...this is the time for us to let the Russians know that we can play the game, too." Without talking to Huntington or anybody else on the NSC staff, Jackson decided to go public on his private technology transfer maneuvers. On July 11, he urged halting the Dresser Industries deal plus a Sperry Univac computer system sale

Scoop Jackson, whose anti-Soviet rhetoric has never matched Jimmy Carter's in shrillness, is pleading with the president to carry a bigger stick. But sources in the bureaucracy report that Vance went to Geneva with important SALT concessions in his brief case. If he actually pulled out the concessions instead of turning off the technology deals, the agitation and concern here this week will be only a pale preview of what's ahead.

Firm takes gamble

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — On what its president calls a gamble, a Phoenix company is going ahead with plans for an oil refin-ery to handle Alaskan crude oil at Mobile, 23 miles southwest of

"We've taken a huge gamble and have banked on the fact that we feel very confident that Sohio (Standard Oil Co. of Ohio) will obtain its permit and we will obtain the permits we need in Maricopa County," said J. Michael Donahoe, president of Provident Holding Co.

Donahoe said the decision to go ahead with the $180 million project was made after Standard Oil Co. of Ohio got federal approval to move crude Alaskan oil in a pipeline that will go from Long Beach, Calif., through Arizona and New Mexico to Texas.

Sohio still must get a permit from the California Air Quality management District Board before it will be allowed to unload Alaskan crude oil at Long

The company will take over an existing natural gas pipeline that is not in use. The pipeline will carry crude oil to refineries at Midland, Texas.

Donahoe said his company has pians for what he called a "state-of-the-art" refinery that will meet air quality standards despite the high sulfur content of Alaskan crude oil.

The refinery will be built on 405 acres and could be in business within 40 months, he said. It would employ 175 persons and would handle 50,000 barrels of oil

Crude imports helping decrease trade deficit By ROBERT A. ROSENBLATT

The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON - The American trade deficit will continue shrinking for the rest of the year, helped by a decline in oil imports, a high Treasury Department official said Thursday. The June trade deficit of $1.6 billion announced Wednesday was a matic reduction" from the $2.2 billion figure in May, said Anthony M. Solomon, undersecretary of the treasury for monetary affairs. He said he couldn't guarantee that such substantial reductions will continue, but, he predicted that the gap between exports and imports will be "trending down" throughout 1978 and into next year. Oil imports, which dropped by nearly 200 million barrels in the first half of the year, should be down by a

Oil imports totaled 1.45 billion barrels in the first half of the year, compared with 1.64 billion barrels a vear earlier.

Discussing international commerce at an earlier breakfast session with a larger group of newsmen, Solomon said leaders of the major industrial powers should have summit meetings

"The guts of domestic partisan politics are now international issues," Solomon said. Debates over growth and unemployment in a single country can have major repercussions across national borders, he said. "Whether the press calls the summit a success or failure, we have no choice but to continue the process" of regular meetings, Solomon said.

At the recent Bonn gathering of seven major industrial powers, West Germany promised to stimulate its economy, Japan pledged a reduction in its huge trade surplus and President Carter said his energy program would cut U.S. oil imports.

The Europeans and Japanese are unhappy about the United States trade deficit, which is pouring dollars into the stream of world commerce. They have urged the United States to act more vigorously to curb oil imports and reduce the gap between what Americans buy from abroad and what they sell to other countries. The United States, on the other hand, says it has been financing the world's business recovery. A vigorous American economy has been buying enormous amounts of goods from countries where domestic sales are

During the past 18 months, the United States has pressed West Germany and Japan to stimulate their economies with actions that would increase their imports and ease the pressure on the American dollar. But, for political reasons, the two nations did not take domestic measures to stimulate their growth, Solomon said.

"The fact that they didn't move has made it too hard for us to be out there alone," he added. "One country (the United States) can't be out all alone

Green worried about White House drug users and politics in Larry Lozano case

TARY!

TONIGHT.

ODESSA - Ector County District Attorney John Green said Wednesday that he welcomes President Jimmy Carter's reportedly personal interest in the Larry Lozano case.

At the same time, the Odessa prosecutor said the president should be concerned about cleaning out what Green called "dope users" on the White House staff.

Green also took a jab or two at Texas Attorney General John Hill, who, he said, has brought "politics" into the Lozano case. The pursuit of justice sometimes is hampered by politics, Green said.

"I hope the president is concerned," Green said following published remarks by a Carter aide to the effect that Carter is "very interested" in the case and is "very concerned about...the possibly explosive situation in the Southwest...

"I hope the president will do what is right," Green said.

However, Green said he wished the president would also "take an interest in the people he hires who are

Green countered. "It's frightening." Green said he is concerned about Carter's problems in the nation's cap-

Back on the subject of White House interest in the Lozano case, Green said: "It's kind of like (Ruben) Sandoval," the Lozano family attorney, Green said, to go up to the president and talk to him "all of the time." Carter "listens to the radicals" on civil rights matters, he said. Green, again referring to the Lozano case, said he is concerned about people at all levels making pre-judge-

"There's something in the (U.S.) constitution that says a person is innocent until proven guilty. That may not be the case any more," he said. "That's what's frightening," Green said. "People up there in Washington telling the grand jury what to do.' A federal grand jury in Midland earlier this month spent a week probing into possible violations of Lozano's civil rights when he was being held prisoner for 12 days in January

in the Ector County Jail.

While the federal grand jury, which had interviewed 66 witnesses in a week's time, was recessed, Green last Monday led an Ector County grand jury probe into the death. The jury returned no indictments, and Green then said the Lozano case was closed in Ector County.

But he admitted Wednesday that interest in the case is widespread. "Everybody seems to be concerned about the inquest," he said. "There will be lot of people eating words... A lie is kind of hard to back up some-

Green has said that "nothing" will come out of the federal grand jury's investigation into the Lozano case. The federal grand jury has yet to announce its findings. However,

Green conceded Wednesday that he could be mistaken. "I may not know the truth," said

Green, who said he only knows "what people have been telling me. "If there are violations of that man's (Lozano) civil rights, (let's) go on and try it and go on to something recommended to the U.S. Justice Department that a federal grand jury look into the civil rights aspects of the Lozano case.

"We all want justice," Green said,

His remark may have been aimed at Hill's press conference Wednesday in Rankin. Hill, responding to reporters' queries, addressed the Lozano case to a very limited extent.

"I asked him not to get politics involved in it, and he's doing it," Green said of Hill, the Democratic Party's gubernatorial candidats.

Longtime educator named principal at Midland High Jack G. Stone has been named principal of Midland High School, according to an announcement today by Midland School Superintendent Dr. James Mailey.

Stone, who began his career with the Midland Independent School District in 1959 as a history teacher at San Jacinto Junior High School, has served the last four years as principal of Alamo Junior High School here. During his 19 years with the MISD, he also has served as assistant principal at Lee High School and Austin Junior High School, and was principal at Burnet Elementary School. He holds a B.S. degree from Southwestern University at Georgetown and a master's degree from Southwest Texas State University at San Marcos.

"Stone is a strong administrawr who has proved his abilities in every position he has held with the school system," Dr. Mailey said. "He reorganized the instructional programs at Alamo which strengthened the role of the academic chairmen and upgraded the entire academic curriculum. I expect him to continue his strong leadership role at Midland High with particular attention to the scope and quality of the academic programs

HOUSTON (AP) — The American Civil Liberties Union's Houston chapter is questioning the constitutionality of a Justice Department appeal of a federal judge's refusal to change the probated sentences of three former Houston policemen convicted in the Joe Campos Torres case.

"What we are going to say is that government should not be allowed the right of unlimited appeal," Patrick Wiseman, ACLU board member and former staff attorney said Thursday. The 19-member local board voted at its May meeting to file a friend of the court brief with the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans questioning the constitutionality of an appeal by the local U.S. Attorney's office of Judge Ross N. HOUSTON-Coach Al Oglesby's North All-Stars are primed and ready for the South All-Stars tonight in the Texas Coaches' School game at Hofheinz Pavilion. Tipoff is 7:30 p.m.

The Odessa Permian coach feels his outfit should keep the North in the lead in the overall series in which the Yankees stand 17-16 going into the Abilene's David Little will guide the North. The gifted outside shooter scored more than 835 points last season in leading the Eagles to the Class AAAA semifinals.

If the North has any advantage over the Rebel stars, it's got to be in height, and Olgesby's team also had good quickness, which indicates another high-scoring contest is in the Joining Little in the North lineup will be Billy Allen, Island Park; Russell Braddack, South Lake Carroll, at guards; Anthony Lee, Tyler, and James Griffin, Fort Worth Dunbar, at the post slots, with Dwight Pettigrew of Whitehouse at the other forward slot with Little.

ALLEN AVERAGED 26 points per game for Highland Park while Pettigrew scored at a 30-point clip. Little, 5-4A's leading point-maker, averaged 23 points and is headed for Texas

Lee and Griffin both stand 6-9, and then there's backup post man Eddy Kerr of Lamesa who stands 6-10.

Griffin and Lee both have chosen to play their collegiate basketball outside the Lone Star state with Griffin going to the University of Illinois and Lee to Washington.

The South, coached by Houston Westchester's Bob Latham, will go with the lineup of Bill Bond, San Antonio, Lee; Esker Boykin, Kountz, at guards; while Arthur Gray, Beaumont South Park, and Jerry Davis, West Oso, are at forwards.

Joe Costell of Westchester and Bryan Forney, Pflugerville man the posts. Terry Teagle, Broaduss, who

Hernandez' six RBI leads Cubs to win

BY TED BATTLES

Midland's biggest run-production of the season in a 14-3 lambasting of Tulsa's Drillers, enabled the Cubs to gain ground on the El Paso Diablos, but their West Division Texas League lead remained a tenuous half game as San Antonio won over Arkansas Thursday night.

The win gave the Cubs a 3-1 edge on the Drillers, going into tonight's 7:30 Two-Bit Beer Night game at Cubs Stadium, and another victory would enable Midland to break even with Tulsa on the season's series. Tulsa took a 4-1 lead in games into the current series. Manager Jim Saul will start Lee Smith, 6-8, for his Cubs against Mike Jeff Albert in the series opener Mon-

THE CUBS gained sweet revenge on Dave Crutcher, who only a couple of months ago was pitching for Ari-zona against USC in the NCAA regional baseball playoffs. Crutcher beat Midland in Tulsa, but lasted only two innings Thursday as the Cubs raised havoc with his 0.50 earned-runaverage, pushing over nine runs against the righthander from Sacra-mento, Calif., in his brief and stormy

It was the kind of night when all of the Midland starters had a hit by the third inning and Saul experienced the luxury of letting his pitcher, Herman Segelke, get an appearance at the Segelke, who has been drydocked for more than a month, demonstrated that he is back in form, going eight innings in seven-hit style to level his record at 5-5. David Overstreet came on in the ninth to retire the final three batters in order.

Centerfielder Joe Hernandez led the 18-hit attack on four Tulsa pitchers with three hits, including his ninth homer, for six runs batted in. That gave him 13 rbi for the series and raised his season's total to 41 and upped his batting average to .314.

Kevin Drury and Joe Macko also had three-hit nights while Eric Grandy legged out successive triples and Brian Rosinski socked two doubles good for three rbi.

HERNANDEZ singled home a run in Midland's three-run first and singled home a run in the third before spiking No. 9, a classic drive over the left field fence in the fifth.

Rosinski's three-run double was the big blow in the six-run second, the inning which made what ensued academic. After that it was just a ques-tion of whether Segelke, the righthander from South San Francisco, would get his shutout.

A walk, single and two-run double by Wayne Wilkerson in the eighth, all after two were out, took care of that. throwing error.

Rangers beat Sox to heat up AL East race

By The Associated Press

There's no place like second, as far as the Milwaukee Brewers are concerned. As for Boston ... well, you know what they say about home.

The Red Sox, who owned a 10-game lead in the American League East not too long ago, slink home tonight after a 10-game road trip in which eight losses helped shave their margin over the Milwaukee Brewers to 41/2

While the Red Sox were losing 3-1 to Texas Thursday night, the Brewers were beating California 6-3. Now Boston's got to face Kansas City, which has won 12 of 13 games, including Thursday night's 3-1 triumph over Seattle that widened its AL West lead to four games over the Angels.

IN OTHER AL action, Baltimore beat Detroit 7-3, Minnesota topped Toronto 6-3, Oakland defeated Chicago 7-4 and the New York Yankees split a double-header with Cleveland, winning 11-0 and losing 17-5. In two National League games, San Diego downed Pittsburgh 6-3 and Houston whipped the New York Mets 8-3.

"It's a tough division," Boston Manager Don Zimmer said of the AL East. "I knew it when we were 10 in front. Everybody said the race was over but I knew it wasn't over and my players knew it wasn't over. 'But we're going back to regroup in Fenway Park - and that's a good place to regroup in."

In Texas' Arlington Stadium, Jon Matlack eight-hit the Red Sox. The only hit that hurt him was Sam Bowen's first big-league hit, a homer. The Rangers got fifth-inning homers by Bump Wills and Mike Hargrove off Luis Tiant.

Brewers 6, Angels 3 Milwaukee's Gorman Thomas hit his third homer in two nights, a tworun shot that helped Mike Caldwell chalk up his sixth straight victory. Caldwell survived an 11-hit peppering by the Angels en route to his league-leading 15th complete game. 'There's no reason to get nervous, because we're not in first place with somebody breathing on our necks," Thomas said. "The pressure's on Boston. We've got the momentum, the drive, the potential, the personnel and the experience to win."

And Caldwell added: "We've got eight games coming up with Boston the last two months ... We want to beat Boston. We don't want to back into the pennant. We've already beaten everybody else so there's no reason we can't beat them."

Royals 3, Mariners 1 Kansas City got RBI hits from Steve Braun, Hal McRae and Clint Hurdle and eight-hit pitching from Larry Gura to down Seattle. McRae's hit extended his streak to 15 games.

Now the Royals head for Boston, where they've lost six of seven games this year. "We've got to go in there and tattoo that wall, and I don't know if we've got the ammunition to do it," Kansas City Manager Whitey Herzog said of Fenway's Green Monster. He predicted the Red Sox will be so happy to get home "they may go straight from the airport to the ball-

Summertime Fever rages scarlet, uncontrolled in Fens

BY TED BATTLES

Saturday Night Fever? In New England, it's a summerlong malady and it rages red, rampant and never more contagiously than this season when the breeze off the Cape brings with it not the salt of the sea, but the scent of

You can talk about the spit-and-polish new stadiums, perfectly designed to provide the spectator with the maximum viewing pleasure, unobstructed by girders or posts, the escalators, convenient concessions, quick exits and easy parking.
Fenway Park has none of these creature comforts for the fans, but none can match the creaking old park for baseball atmosphere, electric ten-sion or the fanaticism of Fenway fans, one of the last outposts of baseball tradition.

BASEBALL FEVER runs rampant in Boston any year, but you can imagine what it's like this year with the Sox running away with the Ameri-can League East Division while the Yankees, two-time occupants of the throne, are wracked by internal squabbling, Baltimore blows hot and old and the burgeoning power of the division, Milwaukee, emerges as a final challenger, perhaps the last hope to head off the Sox at the pass.

The Red Sox are everywhere...radio talk shows, TV, and the newspapers, and you can't watch a local TV show or pick up a paper that doesn't find Jim Rice shilling for a local brand hot dog, a Fred Lynn promoting an auto dealer or a Jerry Remy hawking for a rival hot dog.

If behavior in Boston is staid, as they say, fandom in Dallas' Super Bowl year must have been absolutely bored by it all.

IT WASN'T your typical July series at Fenway. We happened to catch the Sox against the Texas Rangers at their worst, the first time they had lost two in a row in the Back Bay orchard all season.

Even this wasn't enough to dampen Sox enthusiasm. Memory of last year's losing streaks when the Sox squandered big leads and eventually the pennant are still strong, but there's a pessimistic kind of optim along with the repeated conviction that "It can't happen again. Not with our improved pitching. Maybe a fourgame losing streak, but there's too much pitching for anything more disasterous." It comes from the players, fans, writers and video commentators and sounds almost as though they are trying to convince themselves. Rivaling the impossibility of a long losing streak as topics during those rain-delayed games is the question of who the Red Sox will play in the American League championship se-

The concensus of players leans toward the Kansas City Royals as the probable choice. As for choice of opponent, if they could pick one, the Red Sox prefer the California Angels. The Sox don't like the idea of playing on Kansas City's artificial turf. The Rangers are regarded with distaste as a possible opponent because of Arlington Stadium. "That park and the way the wind blows in down there isn't our kind of park. Not with our home run hitters.

ALTHOUGH BOSTON sweltered in the midst of a heat wave, Texas players taking batting practice longed for "hot" weather, yet hated to leave the Fenway shooting gallery and its friendly Green Monster, that 38-foot wall that stretches from centerfield to the left field foul line and peers menacingly over the ever-concious pitcher's shoulder like an always critical pinochle kibitzer.

"The wall makes this a great place to hit," said Rangers second baseman Bump Wills, who has feared base hits were becoming an endangered species this season. "Not only do you have that wall from center to the line, but that's a big right field. A lot of hits fall in out there, too."

He could have added that the contours of the ball park which bring the stands flush against the foul lines in both right and left increase the batter's percentages for a hit by reducing the danger of a foul pop or fly

It's one reason why baseball is never dull in Fenway, even when a team takes a 12-3 lead into the last of the ninth as the Rangers did that first game.

Carlton Fisk homered, George Scott homered and suddenly there were four runs in and a man on secon with none one out. The Sox faithful were going beserk, they had the Rangers on the ropes, only five runs back in the ninth inning. Fortunately, Steve Comer retired the side before the sky caved in.

The next night, in contrast, was a pitchers battle with Fergy Jenkins, who suffered through the trials and tribulations of a pitcher in Fenway for two years demonstrating that those years weren't wasted. He surrendered three home runs, yet emerged a 4-3 winner simply because he didn't get careless after issuing a walk.

HAPPINESS COMES with summertime fever in Fenway, although there's a disturbing note of unrest here and there, like George (The Boom-uh, Boston accent) Scott, who hasn't been producing often enough in the clutch to suit the more crictical fans. Sometimes the "m-uh" is left off the last syllable.

Although George, despite his trimmed 228 pounds, still looks like he has to have his shoes tied by the batboy, he displays surprising agility at first base, if not the grace of a Steve Garvey or Cecil Cooper. He makes all the plays and is convinced the hits will come. "I've been too good a hitter for too long for them not to

As for the boos, George is in good company. They booed Ted Williams and the last time we were in Fenway several years ago, they booed Yaz, which is like booing Paul Revere for slipping off his horse after that midnight ride.

THE WORST howls of protest are from the vendors, those who sold beer in the stands before rowdylsm forced adoption of new ground rules for beer sales. Now fans must go below the stands, wait in line and can purchase only one at a time. The vendors, forced to turn to hot dogs, peanuts and soft drinks, are howling in protest that their earnings have been cut by two-thirds or more.

The Mrs., who gave Sun City high marks for their concessions during last spring's exhibition season, noted that unlike Arlington Stadium, there is no relish or onions, only mustard, for the hot dogs.

She also gave the Fenway Franks low marks as the soggiest in the majors, but that was her own fault. She spilled the soft drinks in the box in which she was carrying the hot PARKING ALWAYS has been a problem around Fenway, because there simply is none, but it turned out to be a needless worry. Early arriv-als can find parking space on Com-monwealth Avenue after the students go home at night from Boston University, which borders the historic street. Parking meters are open at 6 p.m. so instead of $2 for ball park parking, it costs a nickel for a spot just two blocks from the park and the postgame getaway is a lot faster than those long, slow stadium lines.

Tickets? With a third of the park sold out for the season, all that re-mained when we called three weeks in advance were "obstructed view". We took a chance and fer a seat between third and home, the "obstruction" was a post nine rows to our right that marred the view between the catcher and grandstands.

Gonzales wins in Heavy Varmint

Tom Gonzales of San Antonio won the 100-yard aggregate championship in the first round of action in the Heavy Varmint category of the National Benchrest Rifle Shooters Association national championships here

Thursday.
Gonzales aggregate score for his 100-yard rounds was .2680.

Walt Berger, president of the NBRSA and holder of more world records than any other benchrest shooter, finished behind Gonzales in the matches.

Harold Broughton of Big Spring, who just Wednesday won the Light Varmint National Championship, fin-ished third. Broughton's consistently high finishes make him a candidate to win the three-gun championship for the top combined score in all three classes of competition.

Today is the final day of the tournament with the Heavy Varmint 200yard relays the only action left on the schedule. An awards ceremony will be held at the Midland Shooters Association gun range, southeast of town,

Controversy swirls around THSCA

HOUSTON - Baylor football coach Grant Teaff gets more than a little irriatated over the suggestion that the Southwest Conference would be better off without its private school members.

The usually mild-mannered coach is also "sick and tired" of Arkansas leaving the SWC scene as voiced by Razorbacks' athletic director Frank Broyles.

Add Teaff's comments about the Porkers and the fact that Houston Madison basketball star Greg Kite was a winner Wednesday when U. S. District Court Judge Finis E. Cowan put a dent on the UIL rule--a source of controversy the last few years-by granting Kite the temporary injunction that will allow the 6-foot-11 athlete the opportunity to attend basketball camps in Georgia and California without losing his eligibility his senior year, has given the 50 sports scribes in attendance at the 46th annual Texas High School Coaches Association's Coaching School here a lot to

BAILEY MARSHALL, the UIL director general, conceded his organization must now "re-examine" the rule that was instituted in 1963 after the late Archie Porter took his entire Dallas Jefferson team to a Colorado camp and won the state title the next

"We'll meet with our various committees and try to come up with something we can vote on next spring," Marshall said after consulting with the league's attorneys. "But what happens if the schools don't change the rule? This bothers me."

MEANWHILE, TEAFF was obiviously upset over the attitude of Arkansas and feels like it is hurting the

While the Baylor coach was making his remarks to the sports writers, Arkansas football coach Lou Holtz was addressing the clinic for high school coaches across the street.

'The conference was just fine when the Razorbacks had a 5-5 record in 1976 and just as fine when they were 11-1 in 1977," Teaff said.

COMPLAINTS BY Arkansas have dealt with what the Porkers feel is poor officiating and poor pay days when playing the private schools on the road.

"I'm totally sympathetic with some of their problems, but some of them are not valid-officiating for example," Teaff said. As for finances, Teaff said, "We playing in Waco than they have paid us for playing in Fayetteville."

Texas coach Fred Akers said, "I can't speak for Arkansas. They have to do what they feel is best for them. Geographically, they fit right in with the Big Eight, but philosophically, they are Southwest Conference."

TEAFF CLOSED his comments on the subject by directing his ire at a Dorsett broke around right end during 40-yard line scrim-mage work and scampered into the end zone, as did second-year fullback Larry Brinson.

Hard hitting forced three Cowboy regulars to the bench Thursday. Center John Fitz-gerald, who had an off-season knee injury, turned up with fluid on the knee. Safety Randy Hughes was sidelined with a sore foot and tight end Billy Joe DuPree was benched because of a hand injury.

DuPree split the webbing in his right hand catching a pass Wednesday and required nine stitches. Team doctors say he will miss a couple more days of practice.

Doctors also said guard Tom Rafferty and tackle Jim Bidson will not play in Saturday's annual inter-squad scrimmage.
