AFL-CIO Blisters Tax Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) - The AFL-CIO asked the Senate today to junk a Housepassed tax bill and approve a simple measure that would focus relief on those earning under $30,000 a year.

Andrew J. Biemiller, legislative director of the labor federation, noted that the bill has been labeled tax relief for middle-income families. In fact, he told the Senate Finance Committee, those with incomes above $50,000 would get benefits averaging $1,400 and those earning under $30,000 would receive an average of less than $100.

'The House bill would obviously flunk the truth-in-labeling law," Biemiller said. As an alternative, the AFL-CIO recommended that the present $35-per-person tax credit be increased to $150 and that taxpayers get an additional credit equal to 5 percent of their Social Security taxes.

The only benefit for business under this proposal would be the same Social Security tax credit as allowed individuals. The bill would cost $21 billion in 1979 compared with the $16.3 billion price tag of the House hill On Monday, representatives of the nation's businesses, usually among the most conservative witnesses to appear before Congress, called for a tax cut nearly twice the size recommended by the Carter administration and the House.

There are two catches, though. The U.S. Chamber of Commerce says corposhare of the $30-billion tax cut it proposes See AFL-CIO Page 14

The United States Senate has approved a 370-mile interstate-type "connector" highway to run from Lubbock to Interstate 10 near Kerrville.

As part of the Senate Highway Bill, it will be considered again by joint conferees of the House and Senate in Septem-

U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas, who proposed the highway bill amendment, said the highway probably would follow U.S. 87 in the demonstration project to connect Interstate 27 in Lubbock with Interstate 10.

Interstate 27 now is under construction between Lubbock and Amarillo.

"I am pleased that the Senate has agreed to my request to include in the highway bill an incentive to build it.

"This is a demonstration project for a new connector primary highway program I have proposed which would allow individual states to use funds for primary highways - at a 90-10 matching ratio (with the federal government paying 90 percent and the state 10) — to build highways connecting with the interstate sys-

"The program will provide an extra incentive to the states to augment their interstate systems.

A second facet of the amendment is a similar highway to lead 485 miles southwest from Amarillo along U.S. 60 and 70 to connect with Interstate 10 at Las Bentsen said no cost estimates are presently available, but that the Lubbock-to-Kerrville road would cost about $440 million if built to current interstate standards.

The proposal originated in the transportation subcommittee Bentsen chairs.

Although it would look like an interstate highway, the four-lane, limited-access road would be part of the primary rather than interstate highway system in Texas.

The outstanding feature of the amendment is that it provides for interstatetype 90-10 funding in centrast to the 70-30 funding provided for state primary roads.

In Austin, Assistant Engineer-Director Mark Goode of the Department of Highways and Public Transportation said when the amendment was reported to the Senate in May that it was impossible to predict when construction could start on the project if it were finally approved.

Interstate 27 between Lubbock and Amarillo is not an issue in the bill because it has already been approved and is under construction.

FORT WORTH (AP) - Part of the cast of the drama which unfolded at Cullen Davis' murder trial last year reassembled today at a bond hearing for the millionaire oilman, now charged with trying to hire a hit man.

It was exactly one year ago today that Davis' murder trial started in Amarillo on charges of killing his stepdaughter at his $6 million mansion. He was tried and acquitted on a charge of capital murder arising out of two killings at his palatial Fort Worth mansion. Somewhat ironically, the lead-off wit-

Davis's crack team of lawyers, the same which defended him in the murder trial, was on hand today. It included Richard "Racehorse" Haynes of Houston; his law partner, Donn Fullenweider; Phil

Burleson and Bill Magnussen of Dallas. Before the hearing, defense and prose-cution lawyers huddled with Judge Authur Tipps, a retired judge from Wichita Falis who is hearing the case.

It was their testimony which gave Dav-is an alibi for the night of the shootings at his mansion two years ago. Mrs. Master testified Davis was in bed with her when the killings took place.

The courtroom where the bond hearing was held is just down the hall from where Davis' first trial was held. It ended in a mistrial and the case was sent to Amaril-

Mathews said in his order today that the July 10 canvass "could be attacked only by an election contest authorized and controlled by the Alcoholic Beverage Code."

He said Lane's order for the second canvass "was a mandamus action and not an election contest and was therefore totally void as a matter of law."

Mrs. Carter Cancels Visit

A Labor Day visit to Lubbock by First Lady Rosalynn Carter apparently has been called off.

The White House announced this morn-ing that Mrs. Carter would be in Lubbock Sept. 4 to campaign for congressional candidate Kent Hance as part of two days of campaign appearances for Texas Democrats over the Labor Day weekend. However, White House spokeswo Faith Collins said at noon today Mrs. Carter's itinerary was being revised and that Lubbock probably would be omitted from the list.

"I was just here in our dairy and then it started raining," said Joe Lasater, 22, a farmhand on his father's dairy farm.

"I turned around and I saw a hay barn ripped right off the ground by this tornado and carried into the air. I just got down onto the ground then." Lasater said the twister hovered above the ground for about 10 seconds and then spun away.

No injuries were reported. Residents of some North Dallas apartments also reported a tornado struck their area about 8 p.m. Monday, ripping away roofs and shingles. The NWS said they were mistaken.

Larry Newman, Ben Abruzzo and Maxie Anderson would never make it, people said. Nobody had ever made it, six people had died and they too would die. And what was the point anyway, the Double Eagle II lofted skyward from Maine and headed down the valley of the Aroostook River toward Europe, 3,200 miles away.

At 8:42 p.m. EDT, just after the sun had dipped below Squapan Mountain, they cast off from a field owned by retired farmer Merle Sprague near Presque Isle. "Oh my God," a spectator gasped as the balloon dipped for an instant. Then it righted and floated east.

The following Thursday at 7:50 p.m. -1:50 p.m. EDT — the three men landed in France. They had made it.

In between, there were times when the three, lacking natural air at 20,000 feet, were afraid to doze off lest their exygen supply falter and they die in their sleep. Storms whipped them and ice crusts pushed them toward the roiling sea like a huge unyielding paw. Winds blew too hard or too soft, equipment inexplicably failed.

The journey over, they sound cool and busi-nesslike. They talk like astronauts describing a lunar journey — in matter-of-fact tones laced with lyrical bursts that unmask their wonder. Anderson, for instance, declares: "You move with the clouds like a particle of air."

NEW YORK (AP) - Robert Kennedy was "speechless" at the prospect of his sister-in-law Jacqueline marrying Greek shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis and asked her to hold up announcing her plans until after the 1968 Democratic convention, the Ladies Home Journal reports.

An excerpt published today from the upcoming book "Jackie Oh!" by Kitty Kelley, a freelance writer, said Jacqueline Kennedy agreed to the request, saying "I know this is what the Ambassador (her father-in-law, Joseph P. Kennedy) would want me to do.'

The article also said that after President Kennedy was assassinated in 1963, his widow became almost totally dependent on Robert Kennedy, who himself was slain in 1968 while campaigning for president.

"If it will take my presence to help win the pennant for the Angels, I'll be at Anaheim Stadium for every game,' said Nixon, who was in owner Gene Autry's box Sunday as California beat the Baltimore Orioles 1-0 in 14 innings

Nixon was given the ball by his aide, Col. Jack Brennan, who caught a foul fly as it headed toward the box.

During the game, Nixon spoke with starting pitcher Nolan Ryan, who had to leave the contest with a rib injury after seven innings, and afterward chatted with Don Baylor, whose double won the game.

Mrs. Stapleton's Story 'Horrible'

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) - Norman Elliott was speaking 18 years ago at a North Carolina retreat for a Christian therapy group when, he recalls, he noticed "a young blonde standing off to the side."

"Her eyes were blazing, she was out of whack with the world, herself and everybody else," said Elliott, a St. Paul psychologist and bookstore owner. "When everybody got through, she came up and said, 'I don't care what everybody else says you are, I don't like you.

Days later, Elliott said, Ruth Carter Stapleton asked him for a private meeting.
"She just unburdened everything and her story was rather horrible," said Elliott, who is sometimes described as the mentor of President Carter's sister, now a well-known evangelist. "She was having trouble with her kids, with her husband. She had been under therapy - psychological and psychiatric - and life just wasn't worth living."

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) - Gov. Meldrim Thomson, who court rulings, is venturing into the world of popular music in his fight for re-election.

Scheduled for release today is "Live Free or Die," a 45rpm single that touts the colonial virtues of New Hamp-

"We are hoping that everyone will be tapping their toes to this song by November," said Peter Thomson, Thom-

"Live Free or Die, don't let the freedom pass you by. Stand up proud and strong and lead this country on," a group sings on side one, which offers the message that the virtues which once made America great now exist almost exclusively in New Hampshire. On the flip side, with the "Live Free or Die" refrain playing in the background, Thomson reminds voters that New hire is the only state without a general sales or income tax, has a triple-A bond rating and has the lowest unemployment rate in the region.

A limited number of students — probably 20 — will be accepted for the special program this fall, he said.

"They will become experts in the solar field." Smith said. "They'll be fully prepared to go into the world of work. And it should be a rather lucrative field."

Smith said students from 20 states already have inquired about the solar technology program. Dr. Harry V. Smith, president of Mis-sissippi County Community College, sur-veyed the site from an open field near the soybean rows.
"A lot of people are kind of amazed

For starters, the proposal to build the nation's first solar-powered campus was unsolicited, so it didn't have formal competition. For enders, the late Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark., a power in Washing-ton for decades, decided Arkansas needed the project and pushed actively for funding.

The government's role, according to Business Week magazine, would be limited to levying the tax on airline customers, then turning over the money to the airlines to finance the replacement of hundreds of aging aircraft with a new fleet of commercial jets.

taxing authority to provide funds earmarked exclusively for one industry's equipment modernization program is authorized in a little-publicized bill now pending in Congress.

The bill, the "Noisy Aircraft Revenue and Credit Act of 1978," justifies the unique taxation scheme on the grounds that the FAA has imposed a 1985 deadline for jet engine noise reduction. THE UNPRECEDENTED use of federal

Proponents argue that since the FAA is requiring quieter aircraft, the government should pay at least part of the bill by establishing a special 2 percent tax on all passenger tickets, then distributing the proceeds to the airlines. (The federal tax now on airline tickets is 8 percent. The bill technically would reduce the rate to 6 percent, then im-mediately add back the new 2 percent levy.) Noise abatement requirements hardly can

THE NATION'S airlines are promoting an be considered a surprise to the airlines, audacious scheme calling for the imposition since the basic legislation was approved by Congress 10 years ago.

> ORIGINALLY, THE airlines told the FAA they could meet the new standards by retrofitting planes with sound-absorbing material at an estimated cost of $950 million. But now they claim that compliance also involves the purchase of new planes, at a cost of $6-$8 billion.

What the industry apparently really wants is federal money to replace the first generation of commercial jets now in service. More than half of that group of 450 DC-8s and 707s in use today will be 18 years old (the age of commercial retirement) by 1985.

Airlines already are the beneficiaries of generous federal tax relief through investment tax credits and accelerated deprecia-tion benefits. And the industry is enjoying a business boom of unprecedented propor-tions. June was the busiest month in the history of commercial aviation; and profits amassed are expected to easily top the $1 billion mark by the end of the year.

Furthermore, three major airlines have placed orders in recent months for almost $3 billion worth of new planes-proof positive that the airlines are quite capable of financing their own aircraft purchases without any additional special federal subsidy.

IMPERFECT though it is, a constitutional amendment shifting the property tax load around a bit is an early heavy favorite to win Texas voters' approval in November. It appeals to the tax relief hopes in all of us: A modest homestead exemption for all homeowners, a larger one for senior and disabled citizens, a purported tax break for farmers and ranchers, the possibility of eliminating the onerous property tax on cars and a jolly old-etc.

Sweetening this heady brew is the fact that the Legislature has promised to siphon $450 million out of the state treasury into local school operations to make up for lost property tax revenue.

This will leave legislators $450 million less to spend on state services during the next biennium. No one wants to look ahead to the day when the state, instead of a surplus, will face a deficit unless it levies new taxes to replace revenues from declining oil and gas production.

The language provides that increased appropriations shall not exceed "the estimated rate of growth of the state's economy"—but the Legislature is to define what that means.

"It can be very meaningful or a license to steal," says Robbins, "depending on how the economy of the state is defined."

"I would imagine, from my experience, it would be very loosely defined," Salinas says.

"WHILE FINAL judgment should be withheld pending complete study, it appears that this prov-ision merely says that the Legislature may appro-priate whatever the Legislature elects to appropriate," the prestigious Texas Research League

The TRL says, too, that more study is needed before a judgment can be made on a provision which would bar statewide property assessments.

Some legislators think it paves the way for needed property tax reforms by erasing fears of a statewide appraisal bureaucracy. Others think it would retard reform efforts. Still others think the language is meaningless.

The section clearly prohibits "statewide appraisal of real property." However, it goes on to say "this shall not preclude formula distribution of tax revenues to political subdivisions of the Recent years have seen such a severe erosion of our military and particularly our naval posture that the U.S. ability to deter and prevail is seriously threatened.

The U.S. has become increasingly dependent on foreign supplies of vital raw materials, such as rubber, cobalt, chrome, manganese and, particularly oil.

Budget Hike Requested By Welfare

AUSTIN (AP) — Human resources commissioner Jerome Chapman says his agency's budget request is "realistic" but concades the $735.2 million increase it contains is "fantastic."

Chapman, commissioner of the Texas Department of Human Resources — for merty the welfare department — presented the $1.68 billion appropriation request Monday to budget examiners for the legislature and the governor.

The increase sought by the department would consume more than a third of the estimated $2 billion in growth revenue that the Legislature will have available for budget increases next year.

Lawmakers will approve a budget for the 1960-81 biennium when they convene next year.

Chapman said over half the proposed increase — $423.2 million — was "dictated by external factors," including inflation, caseland growth in the medicaid program and federal regulations.

Ideas for new "initiatives" came from hearings around the state, Chapman said. He listed as top priority $162.2 million for raising the average monthly Aid to Families. With Dependent Children (AFDC) grant from $32.41 to $41.39 per person in 1980. He acknowledged this probably would increase the AFDC case-load, and said the average grant then would drop to $39.50 in 1981.

Officials Seek Cause Of Man's Death

SEMINOLE (Special) - Sheriff Ed Welch of Seminole said today that Gaines County authorities still are not sure how a 22-year-old Bovina man, found in his charred pickup truck near Higginbotham last Thursday, died or why he was in the area.

Welch said the body of Dannie Lynn McKay was discovered by a farmer abo 6:55 a.m. on a county road about two miles southwest of Higginbotham.

Authorities using vehicle registration information contacted the dead man's father, who confirmed the young man had left Bovina about 6 p.m. on Wednesday bound for Dallas, according to Welch. The man had planned to collect his belongings there before reporting to Portales, N.M., where he expected to enrell in college, Welch said.

McKay's 'tody ultimately was ide fied by dental comparison, Welch said. The burned 1974 Chevrolet, which contained McKay's body, has been impou ed by the Department of Public Safety and taken to Midland where a lab investigation continues, Welch said.

The Texas Rangers also are assisting in the case, according to Welch.

The condition of the body precluded any chance of an autopsy. Welch said, and dustice of the Peace Fronia Cox of Seminole has withheld a ruling.

when the unidentified farmer discovered McKay's truck early Thursday, the tires were still smouldering. Welch said, leading authorities to believe the truck fire had begun about 90 minutes earlier. In the absence of an autopsy, Welch said, it will be nearly impossible for authorities to determine conclusively how McKay died. McKay died.

McKay had lived in Bovina 12 years and was an Eastern New Mexico University student at the time of his death.

An LNG accident in Cleveland in 1944 killed 130 people, Durkin said. Accidents involving carriers of liquified patroleum gas have touched off explosions and fires killing 2 people in Waverly, Tenn., this year and 16 in Eagle Pass in 1975, he said.

Massachusetts Consumer Affairs Secre-tary Christine B. Sullivan noted that nearly one-third of the nation's 104 LNC storage tanks are located in the state.

"I do not want to cry wolf, but if there is going to be an LNG accident, it will probably happen in Massachusetts," she said in a statement. She urged Congress to require strict controls for the location, design, construction and operation of LNG and LPG facilities to limit the danger of accidents that could result from equipment failures, natural disasters or sabotage.

Monte Canfield, director of the Energy and Minerals Division of the federal General Accounting Office, recommended the safety regulations include a requirement that all new LNG and LPG storage their construction standards resemble those used in building nuclear power plants. Trucks and trains also should be barred from carrying liquified energy gases through densely populated areas, Spokesmen for the Boston Gas Co. and Distrigas Corp., which operate LNG fa-cilities in Boston and several suburbs told the committee, however, existing regulations are sufficient.

"The operations of Distrigas' Everett terminal, as well as the other New England LNG facilities, have proven to be safe," Robert Norton, Distrigas vice president for marketing and supply, told the committee.

"A comparison between LNG and other fuels — particularly gasoline — that are transported and stored in the Büston and New England area in far greater volume indicates that the chances of a large accident are much lower with LNG, while the damage is roughly comparable," he added

"The mutual fund industry's historic concentration in equities (stocks) paid off in the form of extraordinary growth in sales and assets during the "50s and '60s, a period when stock prices rose sharply," said Alfred P. Johnson, chief economist of the Investment Company Institute, the industry's trade group.

maket, rising interest rates on alternative investments, inflation and other econorde and financial uncertainties have heightened investors' concern about the riskassociated with equities."

Janson was asked in an interview whither he believed the public image of the common-stock funds was still tainted by the collapse of the accalled go-go funds in the late 1960s.

"I think the real problem isn't the equity finds, it's with people's perception of equities themselves," he said.

"The big challenge facing us is to get yong people aware that stocks at least ought to be considered."

Janson said that in their eagerness to avod "risk," many investors have sought out investments which offer relative safety for their capital, but little promise of appeciation to offset inflation.

"Infortunately," he concluded, "the risk of inflation often aren't perceived as clearly as market risks are."

Ford Touts Fuel Tanks On Autos

By JEFFERY L. SHELER IETROIT (UPI) - Ford Motor Co., in an attempt to bolster sagging sales of its subcompact Pinto, has begun an adver-tising campaign touting the "puncture re-sistance" of fuel tanks on 1977 and 1978

Acompany spokesman Wednesday said new Pinto sales have suffered because of adverse publicity surrounding a number of aery accidents involving older model he said newspaper ads promoting the "relesigned fuet system" in new Pintos are intended to clear up the "widespread coffusion" resulting from criticisms of theolder cars.

'There has never been a safety ques-tios involving 1977 and 1978 models, but a let of people have the misconception that all Pintos are involved," he said. Earlier this year, the National Highway

Triffic Safety Administration declared the fuel tanks on 1971-1976 model Pintos and 1975-1976 model Mercury Bobcats—exauding station wagons—dangerously susceptible to gas leaks and explosions in the state of the s rea-end collisions.

The agency said it found no fuel tank problems in 1977 and 1978 models.
Federal safety officials began investigating when they learned of a number of deals resulting from Pinto fires. At least 59 people have died in such accidents since 1975.

Ford, while insisting the cars were no less safe than any other small cars, agred in June to recall 4.5 million Pintos and lobcats built before 1977 "to eliminate jublic concern."

The impact on sales of new Pintos was almot immediate. Sales tumbled 42 per-cent rom June 1 through July 20, comwhat company officials said was an obvious but "illogical" reaction to the adverse publicity.

Pint sales gained ground in late July and early August but remained 13 percent below year-ago levels.

Some Ford dealers have said they are confroited daily with customers who shy away from the once hot-selling subcompact because of the gas tank problem. "We haven't sold a Pinto since this whole hing started, "said Ken Berkoben, manager of a Ford dealership in Pittsburgh "Pinto has become a bad word.

People have lumped them all together. and they don't want to have a thing to do with tem."

For's newspaper advertisements prompte the Pinto as a value-packed, fuel-eficient and peppy car with "another design feature."

"All 1977 and 1978 Pintos include redesigned (uel system features: a new, longer filler pipe, and a polyethylene shield for inproved puncture resistance," the ad sats.

"Baically, it's been a good car," a Ford marketing spokesman said. "It's outsid every other subcompact in the United States since 1971. As far as I'm concerned, the current Pinto is unblemishet"

However, company officials have made no ecret that Pinto's days are numberd. It will be replaced in 1981 by a new front-wheel-drive subcompact that, insiders say, will not carry the Pinto

Mystery Tests Young Readers

By SHARI LEWIS

This is a mystery you can figure out if you've been reading the Kids-Only Clab column. I make that statement because the solution to this make-believe situation is based on one real fact — and I told you that fact as the answer to a Brain Twister weeks and weeks

The mystery starts in New York City. After washing up, a boy gets into bed and falls asleep. In the morning, he wakes up and goes in-to his bathroom. Everything looks exactly (and I mean exactly) the same. But when he turns on the water to take a bath, he knows that he has been kidnaped. He is definitely not in the same place. In fact, he can see that he has been spirited to a very distant

How does he know? Now, don't read on just yet. Roll the clues around your brain for just a moment before you do!

When the boy turns on the water for his morning bath, he can see the water swirling down the drain COUNTERCLOCKWISE.
North of the equator (and as an ex-New Yorker I can assure you that New York is definitely north of the equator) the water always swirts down the drain clockwise. So when, on this particular morning, the boy notices the counterclockwise motion, that means he has been spirited away to South America or Australia, or some other "down under" place.

The bidding: West North East Pass 2 4 Pass Pass 3 4 Pass Pass Pass Pass Opening lead: Eight of ♡. Dear Charlie:

If you think that Stratford, England, is noted only for its Shakespeare festivals, you have never played in its bridge congress. I played there this year, and had the opportunity to watch in admiration as my partner, Paul Chemla of Paris, made a very fine play.

We reached six spades on the above auction. It was quite a popular contract, but the bad diamond break proved to be too much for many declarers.

They won the opening lead, drew trumps in two rounds, ending in dummy, and then ruffed a heart. After cashing the ace of diamonds, they entered dummy with the king of clubs to take the diamond finesse. When East discarded a heart on this trick, declarer rose with the king and tried the club finesse. East won the queenand exited with a club, and partner still had to lose a diamond trick.

Paul found a sure-trick line for his contract. After drawing trumps and ruffing the second heart, he cashed the ace and king of diamonds. Had both defenders followed, he would have conceded a diamond trick and elaimed the rest to make his slam.

When East discarded a heart, Paul fell back on his alternative plan. He led a club, and no matter what West did, the contract was secure. In the actual play West followed low, and Paul inserted dummy's eight. East won the nine, but he was faced with a choice of losing options. A club would be into dummy's A-K-J, allowing Paul to discard two diamonds

In addition, some 20 states still have eugenics laws on the books, Eugenics, a fad of the early 1900s, is a philosophy of good breeding, of giving society the right to prevent the feeble-minded from reproducing.

The U.S. Supreme Court recently ruled on a case that bore all the earmarks of eugenicism. Seven years ago, a judge approved a mother's request that her "somewhat retarded" 15-year-old daughter be sterilized without ber consent.

The daughter, now 22 and married, wants a family. When she learned she had been sterilized she sued the judge. The Supreme Court, over three sharphy dissenting opinions, ruled the judge was immune despite the "tragic consequences" of his action. However, it did not block the young woman's right to sue her mother and the doctor.

The first eugenic law for compulsory sterilization was passed in 1907 in Indiana. It declared that heredity played an important part in the transmission of criminal inclination, idiocy and imbecility. Other states soon followed so that by the outset of World War II some 30 states had eugenics laws.

In 1909 the state of Washington passed a law to prevent "procreation of leeble-minded, insane, epileptic, habitual criminals, moral degenerates and sexual perverts who may be immates of institutions maintained by the state."

"Eugenics became the fad of the intellectuals and even Margaret Sanger had a brief flirtation with it," says author Chase.

Chase.

By World War II, with the compulsory sterilizations in Nazi Germany, there was a backlash. However, the early 1970s saw efforts in a handful of states, including Illinois, New Hampshire, Oklahoma, Tennessee and Indiana, to pass laws providing incentives for sterilization of welfare recipients. None was adopted.

"This is an area of increasing litigation," says Norm Rosenberg, a lawyer for the American Civil Liberties Union in Washington. "It's impossible to ray how many cases are in the courts, for these are things that generally go unreported."

But there also are those who have carefully made a decision for sterilization and can't find a willing doctor. Mrs. Gonzales says this applies particularly to rural areas.

Public hospitals that deal in obstetrics aren't allowed to refuse to do sterilizations, but private hospitals may. The problem in rural areas, she says, is finding a doctor who will agree to it.

One relatively new way of sterilizing women is the mini-laparotomy, or miniap. It is a form of tubal ligation developed in Thailand that does not require hospitalization. A clinic specializing in mini-taps opened recently in Baltimore. Author Chase abhors the thought of these clinics, labeling them "sterilization boutiques."

Miss Stamm, of the acti-sterilization forces, charges the operation was developed by the Association for Voluntary Sterilization so "it can be done in the huts in the woods."

Merrie Spueth, deputy director of AVS, calls that a distortion. "This is not something you do at a health stand in Central Park."

Park."

The international branch of AVS receives the bulk of the criticism from those who think they are forcing sterilizations. It is 90 percent funded by Aid to International Development at a price tag of $3.6 million.

"I hope everything we are doing is what Congress would want," Miss Spaeth says. "We are not out there sterilizing the hill people of Thailand. We only operate in countries where there are other forms of birth available."

She also regrets that Congress will give money for sterilizations but not for abor-"We are not unattrckable," she says,

"but we are extremely cautious."

Because of the 1976 mass sterilization program in India — where some men had three or four vasectomies because they got a free radio with each — AVS offers no incentives, not even a free meal.

"It sounds silly that we have to consider a meal or even free milk as an incen-der a meal or even free milk as an incentive, but we do," says Miss Spaeth.

The pamphlets that HEW and AVS put out clearly stress that sterilization is an irreversible procedure. The AVS pamphlet advises: "Make your decision only after careful thought. Do you know you NEVER want to get pregnant in the future on matter what?"

Carter begins his week-long Wyoming stay with a helicopter flight Thursday to Jackson Hole. By contrast, Arthur traveled to the Teton-Yellowstone area by train, wagon and horse - 350 miles on horseback, in fact.

Hiram Martin Chittenden's 1895 history, "The Yellowstone Park," says Arthur's journey, which lasted nearly a month, outranked Carter's in both outip and supporting cast.

"The most elaborate expedition that ever passed through this region took place in August 1883," Chittenden says. "It included among its members the President of the United States, the Secretary of War, the Lieutenant General of the Army, a United States Senator, and several other distinguished officers and

"The interesting part of the journey lay between Fort Washakie, Wyo., and the Northern Pacific Railorad at Cinnabar, Mont. The party traveled entirely on horseback, accompanied by one of the most complete pack trains ever organized in this or any other country, and escorted by a full troop of cavalry... The whole distance traveled with 350 miles, through some of the wildest, most rugged and least settled portions of the West. No accident or drawback occured to mar the pleasure of the expedition.

"The great pastime en route was trout fishing..."

The Carter and Arthur trips have much in common. Both focus on the northwestern part of Wyoming. Both are vacations. But there is one difference: Carter won't have the control over information about his trip that Arthur did.

A 1942 article in "Annals of Wyoming" explains why. "No newspaper correspondents accompanied the expedition from Fort Washakie to Cinnabar, Montana Territory; the dispatches were mostly written by Lieut. Col. M.V. Sheridan... and Lieut. Col. James F. Gregory... All dispatches were read to and approved by the president before being sent."

Between Arthur and Carter, Wyoming historian T.A. Larson's said, at least six other sitting presidents came to the state.

Theodore Roosevelt visited Wyoming three times after becoming president He was no stranger to the West, having spent three years as a South Dakota rancher during the 1880s to get away from political and personal tragedy at home in New York. Perhaps his most memorable Wyoming experience was a 56-mile horseback dash from Laramie to Cheyenne in 1903. A companion, the portly Wyoming Sen. Francis E. Warren, chose to dismount at a remount stop. He made the remainder of the trip by carriage,

In 1911, William Howard Taft stopped briefly in Sheridan during a train trip. He asked a delegation of high school girls what a woman's most important right was. The answer: the right to get married. When Woodrow Wilson was stumping the country for his 14-point peace plan and the League of Nations in September 1919, he spoke at Cheyenne's Lincoln Theatre. Later that month he collapsed in his railway car in Pueblo, Colo., and was returned to Washington, where he was crippled by a stroke.

When Calvin Coolidge was president, he visited the Dakota Badlands each summer. While there in 1927, he accepted an invitation carved on a cowhide to visit Cheyenne's Frontier Days (rodeo) celebration. The cowhide is now on display in a Northampton, Mass., museum.

Franklin Roosevelt visited Wyoming in 1936 and 1937 years running. Larson says he and thousands of others gathered to hear FDR make the 1936 campaign address on a platform built on the prairie west of Cheyen

In October 1963, the month before his assassination in Dallas, John F. Kennedy spoke at the University of Wyoming Fieldhouse. He rode to and from the meeting in an open limousine with Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., unexpectedly breaking security precautions at one point to shake hands with well-wishers through a chain-link fence.

Gerald R. Ford also visited Yellowstone National Park to make a speech.

PORNOGRAPHER WANTED — Convicted pornographer Mike Thevis, shown in this copy of an FBI wanted poster, escaped from the county jail in New Albany, Ind., in April of this year. In June, a federal grand jury in Atlanta indicted Thevis, alleging in a 14-count, 29-page document that Thevis attempted to eliminate competition in the pornography business by murder, arson and extortion. Thevis Heads FBI's Most Wanted List

By CHARLES CAMPBELL

ATLANTA (AP) - Michael G. Thevis once called himself "a businessman in an unusual business." The Reader's Digest put it another way, titling him "The Sultan of Smut."

Raised by Greek immigrant grandparents in Raleigh, N.C., Thevis hitchhiked here when he was 17 and two years later opened a bookstore. But his career did not blossom until he realized the public's appetite for sexually explicit literature could be translated into hard cash.

"I sensed that something was happening with reader demands in the early 1960s," he explained in an interview several years ago. "Books that deal with sex don't stay on the shelves very long." Thevis, now 56, became a millionaire with that idea but he also developed troubles. When he ambled out of an unlocked door at an Indiana jail while serving time on obscenity and conspiracy charges, he wound up on the FBI's most wanted list. And it was not just the nature of his product that upset authorities. A racketeering indictment alleges that he founded his pornography empire - and tried to expand it nationwide - by murder and In federal court in Dallas, an attorney for one of his co-defendants described

Thevis as "the most notorious fugitive from federal justice today save only Robert Vesco" - the financier who bilked investors out of millions before fleeing to the Caribbean. While Thevis was building his fortune, he was not unmindful of his reputation. Newspaper reports says he supported

Newspaper reports also said that while in jail Thevis paid guards for favors, and a grand jury report said he was allowed visits from a woman friend. Patricia McLean, for sexual relations. She is scheduled to go on trial Aug. 28 on charges of helping him to escape.

Thevis was serving 81/2 years on convictions for transportation of obscene materials in Atlanta, New Orleans and Jacksonville. Fla., and for conspiracy involving a warehouse fire in Louisville, Ky. If that charge was his only legal problem, he might have been paroled this fall, but on April 28 he slipped out of the New Albany, Ind., jail where he was being held while testifying in a court case. Little more than a month after his escape, a federal grand jury in Atlanta issued a racketeering indictment alleging that Thevis, an associate, two corporations and seven unindicted co-conspirators plotted to gain nationwide control of the pornography business. The charges against Thevis include murder, conspiracy to commit murder, arson, extortion and mail fraud.

The 14-count indictment said he shot to death one business competitor in Atlanta in 1970 and ordered the murder of another. It alleged extortions in Fayetteville, N.C., Nashville, Tenn., New Orleans, Louisville, and Houston, and several attempts to murder a former Thevis aide cooperating with the government.

The government is hoping to cash in on Thevis' assets, including property in Atlanta, 350 acres of undeveloped land adjacent to DisneyWorld in Florida, and a $3 million mansion in Atlanta.

The indictment also lays claim to the proceeds of a contract Thevis signed on April 28, 1978 - the day he escaped selling his adult businesses to a former secretary, Laverne Bowden, for $10.7

The contract provides payment of $12. 000 monthly into a trust fund for Thevis five children and $18,000 monthly into an alimony trust fund. Thevis' divorce from his wife of 27 years became final May 3.

During his years in the pornography business. Thevis maintained he was merely reacting to public taste. "So don't come to me with the business that I created the demand for sex books or sex magazines," he said. "The public, certain portions of it at least, created the demand. I set out to fill a vacuum.

Thevis, along with supporting the Little League and the arts, once offered to donate his opulent home for a school and to underwrite the restoration of an Atlanta

"I would like very much to be well thought of." he said in a 1971 interview. "I am no different in that respect from other men. But unfortunately it hasn't worked out exactly that way and I'm man enough to live with that, too."

The Steel Service Center Institute predicts the nation's metal service centers will market about 10 percent more steel and other metal products in 1978 than in the previous year.

Mahon Endorsement Awarded To Hance

By SYLVIA TEAGUE

Avalanche-Journal Staff U.S. Rep. George Mahon, who pre-viously had said he would not endorse any candidate in the 19th Congressional district race, said Monday he has sent a telegram supporting Kent Hance as his replacement in Congress.

The telegram will be read at a Wolfforth rally tonight honoring state Sen. Hance and his family.

Mahon, a 44-year veteran congress who will retire in January, said he couldn't remember the exact wording of the telegram but said he praised Hance for his "superb" job in the state senate.

"I said he had my full support in his race for Congress." Mahon said.

He said he did not plan to campaign for Hance because "I don't want to dictate who my successor is. I'll leave it up to the people of the district," he said. During the Democratic primary in ident George Meany charged today that citizens are being duped by a "Proposi-tion 13 mentality" into believing they will benefit from tax cut proposals.

The small homeowners will find that it is the corporations and the big land owners who are getting the tax break and that the little guy will, once again, be paying the bills," he said.

In a speech at the annual convention of the 500,000 member American Federa-tion of Teachers, Meany blamed the gues who try to convince the public that it can get all the government services it wants and needs without paying for them."

The statement came one day after Howard Jarvis, co-author of the California Proposition 13 tax cut amendment, announced in front of the Internal Revenue Service building here that he would begin a national campaign to cut federal spend-ing by $100 million.

California voters overwhelmingly approved Jarvis's state tax cut amendment in June, sending local governments scratching for ways to make up an average decrease of 20 percent in property tax revenue. Similar referendums are being considered in other states.

Meany said that citizen criticism of high and inequitable taxes was warranted and urged tax reform, but not in the form currently under consideration in Con-gress. The House-passed tax cut bill, he said, gives "the wealthy and the corpora-tions every break they wanted, and the make it even worse." The 84-year-old labor chief also took a verbal swing at opponents who effectively killed a labor reform bill with a filibuster from May 16 to June 22.

We had the majority, but we were blocked by a coalition of convenience between corporate America and the extreme right wing," Meany charged.
"They waged a multi-million dollar bampaign - a campaign marked by lies, deceit and scare tactics.

At the opening session of the five-day AFT convention on Monday, delegates were urged to deny the union's endorsement, funds and campaign volunteers to any congressman who voted in favor of tuition tax credits to help pay tuition for private schooling.

Union president Albert Shanker said it was the only way to impress on national legislators that the issue means "life or death" for public schools.

An AFT decision on the issue would be timely because all members of the House and one-third of those in the Senate are up for re-election this fall.

At issue is a bill recently approved 237-158 in the House. It would provide tax breaks of up to $250 for the parents of children in private and parochial elementary and secondary schools and for students in private colleges.

A similar bill, passed 65-27 by the Senate last week, stripped out elementary and secondary school aid, limiting the tax credits to college students and their par-and Premier Pham Van Dong to visit the United States and that Hien indicated he would accept.

The main themes raised by Hien were Hanoi's desire to improve links with the West, to offset domination by bigger powers and to keep out of Chinese-Soviet differences, Montgomery said. Hien repeated Hanoi's claim that Chinese advisers are helping Cambodia in its border

Montgomery said there were rough moments in the talks, but that they were 'easier" than talks in March 1977, when another congressman described the Vietnamese vice foreign minister as "one of the toughest people I have ever met. The lack of a full accounting of Americans missing in action remains a major obstacle to establishing U.S.-Vietnam relations. About 2,500 American servicemen still are unaccounted for from the war years, but all but 355 are listed as dead with their bodies not recovered. Montgomery quoted Hien as saying it would take years for Hanoi's permanent commission on MIAs to finish its work. That assessment was shared by a special U.S. commission that in late 1976 issued a 1,200-page report on the question.

Since the end of 1975, Hanoi has turned over the remains of 38 Americans, not including the 11 promised Monday. The eight-man congressional delega-

Touching on the question of relations between Vietnam and the United States. Montgomery told Hien, "We cannot make policy or negotiate, but we come with open minds and we will take back what we learn to the president, the Congress and the people of the United

"President Carter will be watching our trip with great interest," he continued. Hien said Dong considered the visit "very important" and would meet with the congressmen in Hanoi.

Rep. George E. Danielson, D-Calif., said he hoped the trip would lead to "putting behind us all the obstacles to normalized relations.

Carter is expected to announce soon whether the administration will seek an extension of the trade embargo imposed against Vietnam after Communist forces toppled the U.S.-backed government of

Peoria Couple Gives Up Home, Business For New Lifestyle

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) - Jack Triebel was fed up. He was fed up with all the phone calls and the crushing routine, fed up with watching the rest of the world from behind a desk. In his mind's eye he had seen the dream. Now, 53 and president of the family business, Jack Triebel has decided to

"My friends all think we're crazy," says Triebel. He and his wife, Punky, will leave home forever this month, climb aboard their new 40-foot sailboat and spend the rest of their lives at sea, working at odd jobs in various ports to support themselves.

"I was getting stale after 35 years or so in the business and wanted something different," he says. "You get to the point where you're saturated with the same thing day after day.

Triebel has turned over his financial interests in the clothes cleaning business to his son, Hunter, and his brother, Field. The Triebel's fashionable home is on the market. The furniture has been sold or given to seven children, all grown

"The boat is at Annapolis (Md.)," he says. "It will take a month or so to complete some necessary work and get it fitted out, and then Punky an I expect to sail to the Caribbean

Their savings will be exhausted by the time they reach the islands, he said. To get by, they will work part-time

"We figure we will try to work weekends to make ends meet, and still have four or five days for sailing," Triebel says. "I'm a mechanic, a plumber. I could be a guard, a bartender, wash windows - but I'd just as soon not get into the cleaning and laundry business down there."

Mrs. Triebel says she looks forward to the sea adventure. She admits it will be new for someone whose life has been bounded by security and stability, but says there is something curiously satisfying about making the break.

"I'm going to cook and read until I get tired of doing it, and then I'll try something else," she says.

That might be "working as a teller in a bank, maybe working in a filling station — I never tried that. Or I might be a domestic; it's more fun cleaning someone else's house ...

"When you pick up the newspaper and see people in their 50s dropping dead - well, if we waited until retirement age of 65, or even 62, we probably wouldn't be able to go," she said. "This is something we've dreamed about — something we didn't know we would ever be able to do. This is a dream come true, and I would even like to be buried at sea.'

"The time is ripe for Congress to limit 1979 outlays to $480 billion," which would permit a 7 percent growth in spending and still allow a bigger tax cut son, the chamber's chief economist, told the Committee.

Congress seems likely to limit spending to about $489 billion next year. But the chamber's philosophy on taxes seems to panel is expected to enlarge the Housepassed tax cut of $16.3 billion - though not to the chamber's $30 billion mark and is a good bet to increase the share for business and investors. The Carter administration says it is comfortable with the size of the bill passed by the House, but prefers that a larger share go to lower-and middle-income individuals and that the capital gains relief, aimed at helping investors, be re-The tax on capital gains, which are profits from the sale of stocks, real estate and other assets, was the biggest stumbling block when the bill was in the House. Because the finance committee almost unanimously supports a lower capital gains tax, that issue is not as volatile in the Senate. Carlson, speaking for the chamber, advocated a bigger capital gains reduction than was passed by the House, Roland M. Bixler, representing the National Association of Manufacturers, urged a separate reduction in the corporate capital gains tax.

They contend the tax is so high it stifles investment in business. As a result, they say, the economy and worker productivity lags and inflation worsens.

Current law taxes one-half of individual capital gains at the same rate as a taxpayer's other income. Except for a $10,000 exclusion, the other half is subject only to a minimum tax of 15 percent, meaning capital gains, in theory, can be subject to a maximum tax of up to 49.1 percent. In reality, the average tax is only about 16 percent

The House-passed bill would reduce the maximum tax to about 35 percent and, starting in 1980, exempt from taxation any part of the profit caused by infla tion. In the process the bill would virtually wipe out the minimum tax, which was enacted in 1969 to assure that high-income persons are subject to some tax no matter how large their deductions.

To answer that complaint, the House created a new 10 percent alternative tax

study, showing court-ordered integration in inner city schools has led to widespread "white flight" across the nation, backs up his previous prediction that white school enrollment in Los Angeles will plummet when the district's integration program begins in September.

The Rand study, to be presented Sept. 7 at an American Sociological Association meeting in San Francisco, looked at 54 school districts with enrollments of at least 20,000 students.

The report is written by David Armor, social scientist at the privately run "think tank." Armor also wrote a previous study, commissioned last year by the Board of Education, which forecast the unheaval in Los Angeles school en-

Armor's new study was based on birth rate and white out-migration statistics before and after integration programs were instituted in the 54 districts.

"The strongest effects were found in 19 cities that had over 20 percent minorities and available suburbs," Armor said Monday. The effects of integration were weaker in districts including entire counties, making relocation more difficult, he

For those 19 cities, Armor used demographic statistics to project what white enrollment levels would have been without integration and compared the results with the actual enrollment after integra-

He found that in all of the 19 cities but one — Springfield, Mass. — the actual drop in white enrollment in the first year of integration was at least 21/2 times as great as the projected drop.

But another social scientist cautions that it would be a mistake to generalize the results of the nationwide study to Los Angeles.

Study Group Favors U.S. Aid To Hanoi

Senate mission that recently visited Vietnam urged today that the United States provide massive infusions of food, medical supplies and other aid to the Hanoi government

Indeed, we have arrived at an historic decision point in our foreign policy...where we now have an opportunity to do through peaceful means what we sought to do so long through war: to protect U.S. national interests in Southeast Asia by assuring Vietnam's independence from the domination of any outside power," the group said in its report. Expanding on that view, Dr. Jean May-er, president of Tufts University, said he believed that humanitarian assistance and the normalization of relations with Vietnam would "re-establish our moral authority in Asia" and enable the United States to regain influence in that region.

"You stand on the balcony and watch the world go by below. It's such a magnificent sight that you don't want to sleep, and you have to force yourself," said Anderson.

Then they were over the French town of Le Havre, in Europe. But the ballast was running out. They began to jettison everything not essential — failed equipment, clothing, the hang glider Newman had brought in hopes of coasting to land if all else failed.

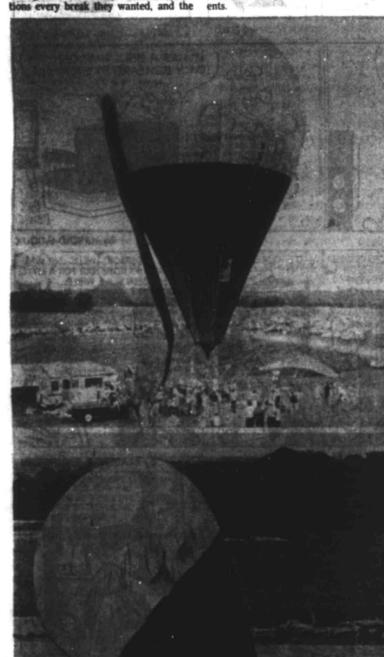

Over the town of Evreux, they knew they could not go on. The last of the ballast was gone. They

Health Center Budget Leaves Tax Rate Una

The Health Sciences Center Hospital is projected to run $5 million in the red next year, but state aid and local taxes should be enough to make up the deficit, according to a budget proposed Mon-day by the Lubbock County Hospital District board of managers.

Unanimously approved by the board, the budget would leave the district's tax rate unchanged at 75 cents per $100 valuation, but would increase hospital rates about five percent.

The budget includes funds for a five to six percent cost-of-living pay raise for district employees, Bill Stinnett, associate director for finances, said.

"Basically we're projecting that the hospital will have $15 million in operating revenues (mostly from patients) and $20 million in operating expenses," Ben Robinson, chairman of the board's finance committee, said.

He added, however, that the document

Approximately $440,000 of the unpaid bills from such "private pay" patients can be attributed to persons who live out-side Lubbock County. The district still hopes to collect much of that amount, but Stinnett admits, "It's possible that a good part of it will be a loss."

Most of the money then is doled out to other funds (debt service, Emergency Medical Service, hospital operations). bese expenses would be offset by 2 million in operating revenues, a $4 ion appropriation from the state (the ord installment of aid from the leg-ture) and $2.9 million from bospital

Much of the 1979 hospital budget depends on how fast the hospital can open its beds. Because of tack of nurses, the hospital now has only about half its 273 beds available for use — a situation that has reduced anticipated revenues.

If enough nurses are recruited, the hospital will have 219 beds open by late 1979.

City's Private Hospitals Protest Pay Hikes Awarded To Nurses

The city's private hospitals say they will be forced to increase their salaries — and probably their rates — because of pay raises and new fringe benefits ap-proved Monday for nurses employed by the Lubbock County Hospital District.

Highland Hospital, St. Mary of the Plains Hospital and a private physician protested the immediate five percent pay hike awarded to nurses at the district-run Health Sciences Center Hospital.

The hospital district's board of mana ers voted unanimously to grant the additional nurses' compensation anyway. The board said the higher salaries and extra benefits are needed to attract more nurses to the district's teaching hospital.

Private hospitals contend that, to stay competitive with the Health Sciences Center Hospital, they will be required to match the district's compensation package. That may well mean higher charges for patients at private hospitals, officials

"To hold onto our nurses, we've got to meet the salaries that the hospital district offers. Whatever the district does affects the operations of every hospital in Lub-bock ." Jerry Howard, administrator of Highland, said after the board meeting.

'It's not so much what it's doing to us it's what it's doing to you." Howard said, referring to the general public. 'You're the ones who are going to have to pay for it" when private hospitals raise their rates to offset higher salaries for

Dr. Victor Igal, a local physician and member of the University Hospital staff, called the district's pay raise "really inflationary." He said the pay hike will have "repercussions throughout West Texas" for hospitals and doctors' offices and clinics.

"The doctors in town would have to raise their nurses, too" or else lose them to the Health Sciences Center Hospital, Igal said. Consequently, he predicted, physicians will have to increase their

However, hospital district officials said ve the pay raise and b efits approved for their nurses are out of line. At any rate, they said, the increase in compensation is necessary to recruit more nurses for the Health Sciences Center Hospital. Jack Strong, chairman of the hospital board's administrative committee, which recommended the pay hike, said the teaching hospital's operating costs are "pretty high" - a primary reason for the hospital's big deficit. Strong cited the "critical need for more nurses, to bring the cost-per-bed down." With additional nurses, he noted, the hospital could open more beds - and thus get more patient revenues.

The hospital board voted to raise nurses immediately one pay grade — a salary increase of five percent. Pay for starting nurses at the teaching hospital will in-crease from $936 a month ($11,232 a year), to $982 a month ($11,784 annually).

Salaries for higher positions, such as registered nurse specialists and head nurses, will increase proportionately. At the present level of staffing, the annual increase in payroll will be $87,000.

When the hospital district set its salaries a year ago, "our salaries were competitive with state and area hospitals, said Gerald Bosworth, executive director of the district and its hospital.

But since the teaching hospital opened in February, the district's salaries have fallen behind "significantly," Bosworth hospital in Houston starts its nurses at $1,150 a month. And beginning Sept. 1, nurses employed by the clinics of the Texas Tech University School of Medicine — for which the district's medical facility is the primary teaching hospital — will start at $995 a month.

Starting monthly pay for nurses at Highland and St. Mary's is $936, officials of those hospitals said. West Texas Hospital reportedly pays $945. Methodist Hos-pital has a base of $927 but gives an extra $65 a month for a two-year period as "tui-tion reimbursement" for nurses coming directly out of college — making Methodist's starting pay $992.

klahoma Townspeople Like To Recall Oil Boom

SLICK, Okla. (UPI) - Folks were just starting to move into this east central Oklahoma town when Murtie Martin, her husband and daughter began setting down their roots in the summer of 1921. "Before the wells were dug, we hauled in our water in big wagons and hauled in ice in big blocks," said Murtie, whose last name now is Marsh. Slick went through a boom period after the discovery of oil by Mad Tom Slick. The "King of the Wildcatters" gave the town its name.

"There's nothing here to work at," Mrs. Marsh said. "Most of the men drive to Tulsa. Some drive to Stroud."

Only 176 people live in Slick now. Most of them attend Sunday services at the buff brick First Baptist Church, which once served as a train depot. The D&Z Plentyfood Cafe still stands, but it is closed. The school was closed four years ago. Children now attend classes at Bristow,

10 miles west. Downtown Slick consists of the Post Office, run by Postmaster Edith Hiett, Mrs. Marsh's daughter, and The Country Store and gas station. "It was a big town," she said. "I would Slick has even been listed in the book "Ghost Towns of Oklahoma", which angers Mrs. Marsh.

When I get upset, I let people know

The people of Slick are proud of their heritage and they even have something in common with the town pioneers: they have to haul in their drinking water.

Bacteria found in the foul-tasting water forced the state Health Department to put the town under a boil order. Most people cannot drink the water even then. The Rev. Walter Montgomery, known to the townspeople as "Bub," is an ex-

Donna Montgomery, the minister's wife, serves as town clerk. She remembers when the water went bad.

"I'm required by the state to take water samples," she said. "Once a month I send the samples in. About a year and a half ago they started coming back bad." She said she cannot drink the water and

Mrs. Marsh said she washes her dishes in the bad water, but then rinses them off with water hauled in from a relative's house outside of town or with distilled water she has to purchase.

"It gets expensive," she said. The town's rusty old water tank stands just beyond the pavement on one of the town's two streets. Clumps of rust and mold can be seen floating on top of the water. Occasionally a bird gets into the

But this is all expected to come to an end next year.

The people in Slick are completing the necessary paperwork to get a federal grant from the Department of Housing and Urban Development to buy a new water tank and distribution lines.

They hope to get additional loans and grants from other agencies to run a watermain to the rural Kellyville water system six miles away.

Bob Hudspeth, a Tulsa consultant who has been working with the people of Slick, says he believes residents will have their new water system completed in January or February.

And that will mean the end of water hauling for the people of Slick.

"That'll be a relief not to have to do that anymore," said Barbara Titsworth, town treasurer.

Murtie Marsh says she is anxiously waiting for the daq Slick again will have

HUA AND HOST — Chinese Communist Party chairman Hua Belgrade. During the dinner, Hua made strong statements Kuo-feng, left, and his host, Yugoslavia's President Tito, toast about the Soviet Union and the United States, accusing both of aggression. (AP Laserphoto)

Chinese Party Chief Accuses U.S., Russia Of Aggression

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Chairman Hua Kuo-feng opened his visit to Yugoslavia with a blast at both the Soviet Union and the United States, accusing them of "aggression and expansion in their rivalry to gain mastery of the world"

Speaking at a banquet Monday night after his arrival from Romania for an eight-day visit, the leader of the Chinese Communist Party did not identify either of his targets by name.

Instead he said "imperialistic" forces, meaning the United States, and "hegemonistic forces," meaning the Soviet Union, "are engaged in a furious arms race and preparations for war; everywhere they are engaged in aggression and expansion in their rivalry to gain mastery of the world."

Hua also accused the Soviet Union of trying to undermine the non-aligned movement, and he told the movement's founding patriarch, Yugoslav President Josip Broz Tito:

"We resolutely support the struggle of Yugoslavia to safeguard the unity of the non-aligned movement and to preserve its fundamental orientation."

He said the movement "has become a very important force in the struggle of the peoples of the entire world against imperialism, colonialism and hegemon-

"For this very reason," he continued, "some consider the non-aligned movement a serious obstacle to realization of their aggressive and expansionist policy. They are trying at all costs to disrupt the unity of the non-aligned movement, to divert and subordinate it to their hegemonist objectives."

Hegemony, or dominance, is the term the Chinese use to describe the goal of Soviet policy.

Tito, who broke with Stalin in 1948 and has pursued an independent Communist policy ever since, avoided anti-Soviet statements in his speech. He reaffirmed his policy of independence and non-interference in the internal affairs of other countries, pledged to continue Yugoslavia's role in the non-aligned movement and thanked China for its support.

Hua is making the first visit to Europe by a Chinese Communist Party chairman since Mao Tse-tung went to Moscow in 1957. The Russians have accused him of trying to divide the Soviet Bloc.

Soviets To Assist Drought Victims

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — A Soviet medical team of six doctors and four assistants have arrived in Ethiopia to help the Ethiopian Red Cross aid drought victims in north-central Wallo Province.

Radio Addis Ababa said medical supplies and ambulances for the team were flown to Ethiopia from Moscow last week

Jomo Kenyatta, Kenya's President, Dies In Sleep

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — President Jomo Kenyatta, who 10 years after conviction as a Mau Mau terrorist led Kenya to independence in 1963 and then presided over one of black Africa's most effective and stable governments for 15 years, died peacefully in his sleep early today, the government announced.

Kenyatta was believed to be in his 80s,

Kenyatta was believed to be in his 80s, although he himself said he did not know his age. A government news bulletin said he died at the State House in Mombasa, a coastal resort.

Prior to the announcement, there were no indications that his health was failing. But last week he held a reunion for members of his family, a custom often observed by elderly members of the Kikuyu tribe who fear their lives are nearly over.

He was reported in a genial, happy mood, cracking jokes with photographers who recorded the occasion.

The government called on all Kenyans "to remain calm" and ordered all flags flown at half-staff until further notice.

Kenyatta, the herdboy grandson of a witch doctor, was among the last of a unique generation of African leaders who during the 1960s brought their peoples from colonial status to independence.

He turned out to be as successful a president as he had been a revolutionary, making friends with the British who had detained him for eight years as "a leader to darkness and death" in one of Africa's bloodiest freedom struggles. His middle-of-the road economic and racial policies encouraged prosperity and stability in Kenya.

In later years as he aged, he became increasingly remote, and a personality cult grew up around him. Young politicians became impatient with his gradual approach to the problems of a developing nation. But Kenyatta's shrewd and often ruthless maneuvering undercut any serious dissent.

His earliest days were shrouded. "I do not know when I was born — what day, what month or what year," he said.

Most authorities agree he was born between 1890 and 1895 in Kambu district, heartland of the Kikuyu, Kenya's dominant tribe and Kenyatta's power base for a half-century in politics.

Kamaa wa Ngengi was his name when, in his stepfather's words, he was "a clever boy, playful and ambitious, who was given to running away and spending whole nights in the bush whenever anything upset him."

The youth immersed himself in tribal lore and once announced that a love spell he had tried "proved successful." He also walked six miles daily to a mission school where he helped with the chores after classes.

He was baptized in 1914 with the Christian name of Johnstone Kamau. But frequent wearing of the beaded belts, or kinyata, of the Masai tribe gave him the last name of Kenyata, and he later took the African first name of Jomo, which means burning spear.

burning spear.

By 1922, Kenyatta was bicycling to work as a $35-a-month municipal meter reader in Nairobi. He took the first of his four wives and became active in the Kikuyu Central Association, which was demanding title deeds from the British colonial government to protect tribal lands against white settlers. He went to England in 1931 to present Kikuyu views to a parliamentary land commission and Gid not see Kenya again for 15 years.

Kenyatta roomed with Paul Robeson, the black American singer with pro-Communist views, while a student at the London School of Economics. After a spell as a student in Moscow, he became prominent in the pan-African movement seeking to rally blacks everywhere toward independence for African colonies.

He published "Facing Mount Kenya," a sociological study of the Kikuyu, and spent World War II working on a farm in southern England.

Returning home, Kenyatta found Kenya's best land in the hands of whites. Racial bars restricted blacks to inferior jobs and kept them out of white hotels. En couraged by the British, Asian settler had installed themselves as a commercia

Tensions were sharpening. Kenyatta dominant personality and salty, forcefus speaking style gave Africans the leade they needed for the coming push to free dom. In a year, he became president of group that was forerunner of the Kenya African National Union, today Kenya only collitical party.

only political party.

The British arrested him and convicted him in 1953 of leading the Man Man sehellion in which 13,000 Africans and fewer than 100 whites were slain in a four-year period. Kenyatta denied he was a terrorist, and historians still dispute his role in the rebellion. In 1959, he was moved from jail to house arrest in northern Kenya, and in 1961 he was freed to a drum-thumping, dancing welcome in Nairobi.

Independence came 28 months later, on Dec. 12, 1963.

Vesco Denied Citizenship

SAN JOSE. Costa Rica (AP) — Robert Vesco's last chance to get Costa Rican citizenship so he could not be extradited to face U.S. embezzlement charges has

The three members of Costa Rica's Supreme Tribunal of Elections, the court of final appeal on citizenship matters, voted unanimously Monday to uphold the rejection of Vesco's application by the Civil Registry.

The fugitive financier left Costa Rica May 3 and was last reported in the Baha-

Although he owns a $500,000 estate on the outskirts of San Jose and has invested millions in the country, the Civil Registry recommended July 17 that his application be denied because it said he failed to prove he had sufficient economic re-

President Rodrigo Carazo asked the Election Tribunal last week to reflect the will of the people and "once and for all end Vesco's attempt to win citizenship." Carazo took office May 8 after an election campaign in which he vowed to kick Vesco out.

Vesco is wanted in the United States on charges of embezzling $224 million from the foreign mutual fund he once controlled. Investors Overseas Service, and of illegally contributing $200,000 to President Nixon's re-election campaign.

dent Nixon's re-election campaign.

He came to Costa Rica from the Bahamas in 1972 and became a close friend of then-President Jose Figueres, Costa Rica's leading politician for more than 25 years.

Figueres got a law passed exempting Vesco from extradition after the financier loaned him $2.15 million.

Trade Confuses White

By MICKEY HERSKOWITZ And STEVE PERKINS

Q. I have heard that guard Ed White caused quite a scene in Minnesota when he was told he was traded to the San Diego Chargers. Do you have any particulars on this incident?

-Karen Grayson, Des Moines.

A. There was no temper tantrum or anything like that, but the incident indicated that White was in a state of shock for a while. He went to a clothing store to buy some new slacks for the lighter San Diego climate, picked out two pairs, tried them on and brought them out to the cashier. While standing there, White suddenly realized-perhaps from a breeze around the knees-that he had forgotten to put back on the pants he wore into the store. Giggles accompanied White's hasty retreat to the dressing room.

Q. What is the cause of the supposed discrepancy in Alonzo Stagg's coaching record? Stagg has long been recorded with 314 wins as a head coach at various places. Now it's supposed to be 335. How could 21 wins have been misplaced? -Eric Nordquist, Stephens Pt., Wisconsin.

A. Amos Alonzo Stagg Jr., now 79, wants his father credited with the additional wins, in case Bear Bryant should eventually overtake the lower figure. Bryant needs 41 more wins, going into this season.

Stagg junior says his dad was "co-coach" (though in his 80s) with him at Susquehanna from 1947 through 1952. The NCAA insists that the wins during that period are credited to junior and will remain so. Go, Bear!

Q. There is a trivia prize in my town to name the player "who batted behind the two greatest home run hitters of all time." It will probably be answered before I see your column, but otherwise I might never hear the right name. Is there an answer?

-J.J. Jennings, Boston.

A. We could never have looked this up, but just happened to run across it elsewhere as a trivia bit. Dave Johnson batted behind Hank Aaron with Atlanta and behind Sadaharu Oh in the Japanese league. For awhile there, we thought Lou Gehrig had been reincarnated in Eddie Mathews.

HOT LINE FEEDBACK: (from Wirt Gammon, Sr., Chattanooga, Tenn.) -"Old Mill Cigarettes, which one of your lady readers inquired about, contained a baseball card in each pack. These cards were issued in 1910-12, and I collect them. Here's a question for you. I was sports columnist and editor of the Chattanooga Times from 1932 to 1972. Now my son is a columnist on the same paper. Is this a first?"

Tech Opens Grid Worl

Executive Sports Editor
It was first workout day of the fall, tongues were hanging out, coaches were yelling, sweat was popping out, and Tech lost its first runningback. But, the loss was not from injury, and it resulted in the Raiders gaining a wide re-

of players that sprinted to the practice field Monday morning in anticipation of making the team trudged off that same field three workouts later in the day. The lone casualty was a muscle pull sustained by a walkon. Of the players counted upon - the lettermen and men on the two-and three-deep charts - all were still on hand, although possibly a lew pounds lighter from the heavy work and sweating which went with that work.

The loss of a runningback concerned Tim Orr, the 6-5, 210-pound sophon from Abilene Cooper. Orr had been slot-ted at a runningback spot, possibly the No. 1 man at that position. But Monday, head coach Rex Dockery announced that

Orr was being shifted to wide receiver. "I think it's the best position for him, and after talking to him, I think he thinks it's the best position for him," said Dockery. "We have some good receivers, but we might be losing one. There's Brian

Nelson: His knee (following spring surgery) is coming along fine, but you never know about things like that, and Tim will give us some depth these.

"Tim has that natural weave and body control you need in a wide receiver, and he has good speed. He can catch the football, and with his size, he should be a good wide receiver.

"I don't know what that's going to do to our runningback situation. . Whoever's there.

"We're just trying to get the people to their best position," Dockery explained. "We did move Johnny Johnson (a red-shirt sophomore) to runningback (from quarterback)."

Dockery also said that Jeff McKinney (a sophomore letterman from Bethany, Okla.) had been moved from linebacker to defensive end.

"We're really not calling them defen-sive ends anyway; he's an outside line-backer since we stand them up. So, that's not that much of a change."

What was the big change, from senior letterman through incoming freshman, was from life of a civilian to uniformed

Injuries Plague Matadors In Early Workouts

By BOB BAJACKSON

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
If you look close, Dunbar coach Van Jefferson is supporting just a twitch of a smile these days, while on the south side of Highway 82 Estacado mentor Louis Kelley can only reveal a frown.

Jefferson's happiness stems from the fact that despite losing 22 seniors to graduation, the 48 players who showed up for workouts this season have the potential to get the job done. Also, after the first practice in pads, the Panthers don't have any serious injuries.

On the other hand, Kelley wishes he could emulate Jefferson's claim. But the truth of the matter is, so far, the Matadors are getting crippled before they even get started.

We have more kids injured than ever before at this time," said Kelley. "I don't know the reason for it. It's just one of those unexplainable things."

So far, three Matadors are injured. They are quarterback Mike Chatham (hamstring pull), halfback Willis Flowers (shattered bone in his hand) and guard Steve McGraw (deep bruise on the back

When asking about the Panther injury situation, Jeferson responded by banging his left hand on his desk; Jefferson's desk top is made of Formica.

"I really thought we would be a little fur-ther along at this time than we are," said Kelley. "But with Chatham unable to play, it hurts us both offensively and defensively." Besides handling the signalcalling chores. Chatham lines up as a middle linebacker on defense.

Though injuries have been avoided, everything isn't exactly smeiling like roses on the north side of highway 82. Jefferson worries about depth.

"Right now we only have 48 kids out for football," said Jefferson. "So you can see that we will have to play kids both ways. But you can't cry over it. You have to just make the best with what you

As Jefferson concluded, the phone rang. It was a transportation official seeking information on how many seats will be needed for the Panthers' opening contest against St. Marks in Dallas Sept.

After Jefferson responded, the official sought information on the needed seats for Dunbar's sophomore squad.

We definitely have some weak spots," said Kelley. "But I really feel that we have the kids to fill them. Our biggest problem, however, will be inexperi-ample rather than by talk.

Currently, the rough spots in the Estacado offense is at the tailback position where three players are battling. The competition is between George Irvin, Robert Humphrey and Kevin White. "All three of these kids have breakaway speed," said Kelley. "The only concern is that they don't have the experience right now to find the hole to use that breakaway speed."

The biggest problem Kelley has had to deal with this season is rebuilding the Matadors' defensive line, where only Steve Wright returns.

"We would like to rebuild around two defensive linemen," said Kelley. "And

"We have some kids that saw some spot action last season," said Jefferson.

But again, for the most part our defensive unit will be new blood. The exception is defensive end Geof-

Preseason forecasters pick Estacado to finish second (behind Dumas) in the 1-AAA race. Dunbar has been chosen to finish as one of the the lower teams in the .

"We're not picked too high," said Jefferson. "But predictions don't necessarily have to be correct. We will definitely win some games."

Hale Center Mentor Works On Confidence

You see, those seniors have played under five different coaches in four years. No one is sure why Hale Center has had such coaching turnover the last four years, but as a result the Owl football program has suffered. Last season, Hale Center had a 3-7 overall record and a 2-4 district mark. Needless to say, the rest of District 4-A didn't take the Owls too serious.

What the abundant coaching changes has done is ruin the Owls' confidence. A Irvine realized the Owls had lost faith in themselves the first day he met with

'Heck, every coach preaches pride and confidence," said Irvine. "It's nothing new in the game of football."

So why does Irvine think that Hale Center will become a competitive football team by preaching the same sermon every coach gives a squad?

Because," said Irvine, "our coaching staff preaches it louder than the others. Irvine is confident that his team, "will get after some folks."

Irvine admits the Owls probably don't have the physical talent as some of the other teams in the district.

"But it takes more than just physical talent to win championships. "We're going to be a finesse type of team. Our opponents are going to know they were in a football game when they play us." Irvine likes the position his football team is in prior to the opening kickoff. "It's more fun to win when your not apposed to," said Irvine, Irvine will install three offensive formations. The Owls will run out of the wing, the slot-T and the veer.

"We're not going to be too big," said Irvine. "Also our team will be suffering from inexperience.

What Irvine has liked about the Owls after viewing one week of workouts is player attitude.

"Despite the past, we've had 60 kids come out for football this fall, I think the one thing that impresses me the most is-that these kids are willing to work. When the Owls' offensive line breaks the huddle for there first play from scrimmage this season, they will average between 150-155 pounds. 'No. our line is not going to be big, but we do have a lot of quickness in our back-According to Iryine, the Hale Center defense is not having as many problems as its offensive unit. "I feel pretty secure with our defensive unit. We're going to be a forcing type of defense. We will definitely put some pressure on some folks." If Hale Center doesn't have to worry about injuries, then Irvine believes the Owls, with a little luck, will be a contender for the district title. Irvine kept emphasizing the fact that his players have begun to feel like win-"There's no question we're getting through to these kids," said an excited Irvine as two of his players walked by. "Here, go out there and tell those two that they can't win. I guarantee, you'll have a fight on your hands."

One thing for sure: It's a pretty safe bet that the seniors on the Hale Center football team will have little trouble recalling. the name of the Owl football coach by the time the season is concluded.

CLEVELAND (AP) - Some have called rookie Mark Miller the Cleveland Browns' "quarterback of the future," but the youngster from nearby Bowling Green University may be changing the Miller came off the bench in the second half Monday night to spark the sputtering Browns' offense and guide them to a 14-10 National Football League preseason victory over the Detroit Lions. He completed his first six passes, including a 39-yard sprint-out throw to another rookie, wide receiver Keith Wright, that set up Cleveland's first touchdown. Miller then directed the Browns on a long drive that ended with a rookie mistake — a pass into a crowd at the goal line — that resulted in an interception by Detroit's Bruce Rhodes. The 22-year-old quarterback got a re-prieve moments later, though, when vet-eran running back John Brockington, ac-quired last week in a trade with Kansas

What made the 22-year-old Miller's performance all the more exciting to the slim crowd of 31,345 in cavernous Cleve-land Stadium was the flat showing in the first half by veteran quarterback Brian Sipe and the entire Browns' offense.

Sipe completed seven of 11 passes but wound up on the seat of his pants five times, for a total loss of 38 yards, and the offense wound up with 56 yards against the tough Detroit defense in the first

Cleveland's defense was about as tough, limiting the Lions to a secondquarter score on Greg Landry's 30-yard strike to David Hill.

PROSPECTUS

If, as hinted, Tommy Prothro bows out of coaching after this season, he could do it on high note. Chargers are my pick to be surprise team of AFC because they're been atockpiling brifliant talent for several years. They're young, talented, eager and need only to get feel of winning to make run at Broncs, Raiders.

OFFENSE

Area of most intense concentration in the draft, and they should finally get some productivity out of holdovers like Johnny Rodgers and Joe Washington, super threats to go all the way who we been hobbled by injuries, adjustment to NFL play. Also, Dan Fouts settled contract hassles and will be available from start of season. Top draftee John Jefferson takes pressure off Charlie Joiner as wide receiver. And Rodgers could be brilliant. Raft of good backs is led by Don Woods. Old dependables Russ Washington and Doug Wilkerson lead otherwise young front line. Field goal kicker Rolf Benirschke comes off successful first year. Rating - B

DEFENSE

An improving unit features strong pass rush by the front four that's particularly physical at the tackles, where Louie Kelcher, Gary Johnson are on verge of all-prostatus. Question mark of the defense is middle linebacker. Traded for Jim Laslavic from Detroit. Have Bob Horn, too, Strong at the outside posts with Don Goode, Woodle Lowe. Secondary has a couple of spots up for grabs, but there's good competition for them. Set performers are corner back Mike Williams, safety Mike Fuller. This is one of the younger detensive groups in the league, and very active. Biggest need of the special units is a dependable punter, for distance. Rating — B

PREDICTION

Against the contenders last year, the Chargers showed they're competitive. Any kind of improvement, and a few breaks, would project them as contenders. Pick them second in AFC West.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - The 52 major league umpires, claiming baseball officials have balked at discussing their demands for improved benefits and working conditions, have threatened to strike by the end of the week.

Attorney Richard Phillips, who represents the Major League Umpires Association, said he filed an unfair labor practices suit Monday against the National and American leagues with the National Labor Relations Roard

The feeling on the part of most umpires is that at this point we will engage in a work stoppage in order to force the major leagues to desist from unfair labor practices," said Phillips.

The NLRB will initiate its own investigation, Phillips said.

But the lawyer added. "It will be decided this week (by the umpires) whether to strike before the NLRB makes its decision. I don't think we will sit back and

Oakland Monday,

It was the second time in preseason manuevers that the Rams traded one of their most respected performers, in order to stock the franchise with future National Football League draft choices.

The Rams made a similar trade when they dealt their 1977 pass receiving leader, 11th year pro Harold Jackson, to the New England Patriots last week. Both trades were for undisclosed choices in future NFL drafts of college seniors.

Monte Jackson, 25, walked out of the Rams' training camp for four days last month, shortly after the team's veterans reported. The following week the Rams said they would honor his request and attempt to negotiate a trade for the fourth-year cornerbuck.

means too much to all of us. It was simply spontaneous combustion. Nerves get tender this time of year. The scrap prior to Sunday's game in New York only goes to prove that it can happen in the best of families.

Nobody - not even a team like the Dodgers, held together by Lasorda's benign, paternal leash - is immune to human frailities. A personality clash, fed by envy, apparently triggered the Sutton-Garvey confrontation, which has been seething for months. Only mature understanding by two classy guys can erase the bitterness and restore harmony in the Los Angeles

The situation is not too dissimilar from that which threw the New York Yankees' clubhouse into turmoil — Manager Billy Martin's resentment of high-salaried outfielder Reggie Jackson, catcher Thurman Munson's jealousy of the favored newcomer, plus other minor frictions.

One must scratch the surface of the outwardly happy, dedicated Dodgers to find the source of Sunday's eruption. It could be the Biblical root of all evil -

Sutten and Garvey, insiders say, have had a cool relationship since Sutton was given the team's first long-term (four-year), million-dollar-contract prior to the 1977 season and Garvey came along a few months later to top it with a six-year pact at $333,000 a season.

In addition. Garvey, a pleasant, attractive personality, has projected an All-America image which a small core of his leammates has interpreted as "uppity" and "phony." Some have ostracized him and his pretty wife, Cyndy.
"There's nothing phony about Garvey, "said Dodgers publicist Steve Brener.

"A hell of a guy." said Joe Reichler, an aide to baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn. "He has a star quality yet no bigheadedness. He is much in demand for commercials and endorsements. He is very cooperative."

flappable feathers when he said in an interview that outfielder Reggie Smith was the team's most valuable player but unsung because he lacked Garvey's Madison Avenue image.

Dodgers' manager said, "but exciting. We fell six games back in June, went ahead and then fell back again in early

"I'll never forget that game with the (New York) Mets (June 5). We had an 8-2 lead going into the ninth and lost 9-8. We fall 51/2 games behind the (San Francisco) Giants. I was so discouraged I came back to my office and buried my head in my

TORONTO (AP) - More Canadians would reach the major leagues if baseball scouts simply spent more time there. Texas Rangers pitcher Ferguson Jenkins

Speaking on an open-line radio program Monday, the Chatham, Ontario, native and four-time Canadian athlete of the year said there is a wealth of talent available in Canada.

"If the scouts are doing their job, they should get cracking because I think the talent's here," said Jenkins, who was in Toronto for a two-game series with the Toronto Blue Jays, "If only they would look seriously at the youngsters.

The 34-year-old veteran of 13 major league campaigns acknowledged that most of the Canadians making it to the big leagues are pitchers because "at the lower levels of baseball, the pitcher is usually the top player on a team and he's the one that will generally catch the

Currently, there are five Canadians in the major leagues, three of them pitchers - John Hiller of Toronto with the Detroit Tigers, Jenkins and Reggie Cleveland of Swift Current, Saskatchewan, with the Rangers.

Infielder Dave McKay of Vancouver, with Toronto, and outfielder Terry Puhl of Melville, Saskatchewan, with the Houston Astros, round out the Canadian corps. Bill Atkinson of Chatham, who started the season with the Montreal Expos, has since been optioned to their AAA affiliate at Denver.

Jenkins began his major league career in 1965 with the Philadelphia Phillies and the following year was dealt to the Chicago Cubs, where he enjoyed his greatest success. He was awarded the Cy Young Award as the National League's top pitcher in 1971 and won 20 or more games for six successive seasons with the

"I started thinking about the no-hitter after six innings," said the 26-year-old Flanagan, "There are nine outs to go,' I kept telling myself, but the no-hitter was

Flanagan got the first out in the Oakland seventh, then faced 13-year veteran Rico Carty

"I didn't have the luxury of a big lead, so I couldn't pitch around any of their hitters," said Flanagan.

So he battled Carty and lost. The designated hitter, acquired last Monday from Toronto in the Willie Horton deal, slapped a run-scoring single and Baltimore's 3-0 lead was cut to 3-1. "That makes about 20 no-hitters I've broken up," said the 38-year-old Carty. 'Sometimes pitchers are not that good when they're pitching a no-hitter, but this guy was very good. He's a smart pitcher. I don't care how old he is. He's

He's also 16-11. Flanagan gave up just two more hits - Bruce Robinson's double and Mitchell Page's RBI single in the ninth — while striking out eight and walking three to pace the Orioles' 3-2 victory and hand the A's their ninth loss in

In the other American League games, the Detroit Tigers rocked the Minnesota Twins 9-6 and the Toronto Blue Jays bested the Texas Rangers 8-6. "I'm not surprised Carty got the first hit. He's a great one," said Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver. "I get excited like everyone else when a pitcher has a no-hitter, but only think about the next hitter - I don't look ahead."

He didn't have to, after Carty lumbered from the on-deck circle and shattered another dream.

Eddie Mukray's third-inning single de-livered two unearned Baltimore runs and Kiko Garcia's ninth-inning single scored Terry Crowley with the game-winner.

Tigers 9, Twins 6
Lance Parrish knocked in six runs with the first grand slam of his career and a two-run triple, helping Jack Billingham, 14-5, to his ninth consecutive victory and powering Detroit past Minnesota.

"The first of anything is always a big thrill," said Parrish. "It's the biggest RBI night I've ever had."

Tim Corcoran singled, took second on a sacrifice and took third on Ron LeFlore's single. LeFlore stole second - his 57th theft of the season and 26th consecutive successful attempt - and Rusty Staub walked to set up Parrish's 12th home run of the year. That gave Detroit a 9-2 lead in the seventh.

The steal by LeFlore tied the AL mark for consecutive thefts set last season by Oakland's Mitchell Page and left him 12 short of tying the major league mark set by the Dodgers' Dave Lopes.

The Rangers had built up a 6-2 lead after 44 innings on the four home runs with Horton's blast, his ninth of the season and first since joining the Blue Jays, accounting for Toronto's two runs.

Weather Radio To Benefit Many

WASHINGTON (AP) - A century ago, the infant U.S. Weather Bureau supplied its forecasts to a select list of recipients. Today, millions of Americans have access to the forecast 24 hours a day. And by the end of next year this service may be available to 90 percent of all Americans.

NOAA Weather Radio, as the system is called, is growing by leaps and bounds. Completion of the basic 340-station National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration system is expected next year.

Essentially it is push-button weather, with the 200-plus stations now in service broadcasting continually on three extrahigh FM frequencies.

When the weather is pleasant, forecasters at the local National Weather Service office nearest to each station tape-record the latest observations and forecasts. These three-to five-minute messages are replayed continually over the weather ra-

The forecasts concentrate on weather within about 40 miles of each station, adding road conditions in the winter and with extra touches at some stations, such as Eastern Shore beach weather for the Washington area.

Weather in distant areas is rarely included, but the network of stations covers the main interstate highways and travelers can keep in almost continuous touch with the weather service along those roads.

In contrast to the three forecasts a day of 1878, the radio messages are revised every few hours, more often when need-

DR. LAMB

Bad Shoes Cause Bunions

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB M.D. DEAR DR. LAMB - I am a woman 80 years of age in good health and quite active with plants in the garden and pot plants. I do all my housework, read and listen to music, mostly, classical. I enjoy operas. I live alone but keep busy. I'm concerned because a year ago I began developing bunions. I think bunions look terrible.' Mine are not very big yet and don't hurt. Is there something I can do about bunions?

DEAR READER - Most bunions are associated with bad shoes. The chief offender is the pointed toe, with or without an associated high heel. Anytime the big toe is forced outward the abnormal position causes irritation where the big toe joins the rest of the foot. The irritation and inflammation gradually thickens the tissues in that area and creates the bunion which you're describing. The best thing you can do is change your shoes at once to those with sufficient room that you can move all your toes freely. I would also recommend eliminating high heels in case you happen to be using them. A lowheeled comfortable shoe with plenty of room for your toes will go a long way toward preventing any progression of your bunions.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 11-10, Common Foot Problems: What To Do About Them. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 326, San Antonio, 78292.

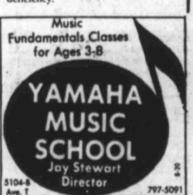

DEAR DR. LAMB .- I am a 23year-old female with heavy coarse hair on my chin. This a hereditary problem for females on my father's side of the family. Enclosed is an ad for a device supposedly used by doc-tor to remove hair. Is it safe for me to buy this instrument to remove

I am a reader of your column and you have helped with many problems. I was especially thankful for your column on ice eating. After reading the article I visited my doctor and was given iron tablets to solve my ice eating problem. It had gotten to the point where I would hunt for ice to eat. Now I do not have that problem.

DEAR READER - Regarding the electrical device to remove hair from the face, I don't recommend this as a do-it-yourself home project. Electrolysis is an effective means of removing hair but for it to be effective, the proper amount of current has to be delivered to the root of the hair (hair follicle). If you deliver too much you can injure the tissue and cause scarring. When electrolysis was first used for this purpose it got a bad name because many of the operators either didn't know how to use the device or the devices weren't adequate to control the electric current delivered to the root of the hair.

I'm glad you got some benefit from the column about ice. For other readers, some people have what we call pica and tend to eat large amounts of substances, sometimes pounds and pounds of ice. Others have been known to eat clay and laundry starch. A common cause of such unusual eating urges is an iron ects of smoking on heart disease.

Going on the assumption that lowered tar and nicotine means less disease danger, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and others have proposed a higher tax on the high-tar and nicotine cigarettes to encourage smokers to switch away from those brands. Huber believes that proposal is "not only premature but it might be more harmful" if their current research shows what is suspected about the dangers of low-tar and nicotine cigareties.

Huber also noted that tar content has been decreasing slowly over the past 25 years while cigarette sales have been increasing at a similar rate, and the incidence of lung cancer has failed to show any decrease in response to lowered tar.

Furthermore, there is not that much solid evidence that tar, the part of cigarette smoke which precipitates into a sticky solid, actually is the cancer-causing component of smoke. Painting tars on the skin of mice, which smoking researchers have done since 1953, has provided the only clear link between tars and cancer.

Grain Futures

CHICAGO (AP) - Wheat futures lost ground, but corn and soybean prices were mostly steady on the Chicago Board of Trade Monday. The losses in wheat were due more to technical factors than any fundamental developments, traders said. Analysts said some of the buying was a continuation of the upswing last week, when the dollar's recovery spurred substantial buying. Traders theorized that foreign buyers would be eager to purchase U.S. grains if the dollar became more expensive.

On the other hand, the continued excellent condition of crops weighed on prices. In addition, farmers sold moderate amounts of grain over the weekend and that business was hedged in the futures market.

Although the spot August soybean contract increased 81/2 cents a bushel, other deliveries were little changed. The strength in the nearest month was due to thin market conditions and a potentially tighter supply situation, traders said.

An industry group said that although more soybeans were crushed into soybean products last month, the amount of soybean oil stocks decreased. Soybean meal stocks, however, were larger than the preceding month.

As a result, soybean oil futures posted good-sized gains, but meal contracts drifted lower.

At the close, soybeans were 81/2 cents higher to 1% cents lower, with August contracts quoted at $6.65% a bushel; wheat was 31/2 to 51/2 cents lower, September $3.24%; corn was % cent higher to 1/2 cent lower, September $2.24 and eats were 14 to 14 cent lower, September

Israeli Agriculture Faces Limitation Of Resources

WASHINGTON (AP) - Agriculture in Israel®a phenomenal success story for that nation's first 30 years, now faces stagnation or even regression, say two U.S. officials stationed in Tel Aviv.

The state that has become Europe's winter garden now "faces a double dilemma in two basic agricultural inputs water and fertile land

"In both cases, the country has either hit the limit of growth or is precariously close to it," Rafael N. Rosenzweig and Roger F. Puterbaugh write in today's edition of the weekly Foreign Agriculture

Puterbaugh is U.S. agricultural attache in Israel and Rosenzweig is an agricultural economist in his office.

With almost all the nation's available water supply already committed, "all projections point to the necessity of diverting agricultural uses towards the needs of industry and the ever-growing demand of households," they said.

Urban expansion along the Mediterranean put several hundred acres of fertile land under asphalt each year, they added, and "the last reserves of fertile land in marginal areas of the south are being uti-

The article notes that more development of semi-arid lands would require the very water that isn't available.

Moreover, the Begin government has been gradually removing water subsidies and other special treatment for agriculture, it said. "Water prices (now) are in-

Research On Nitrite 'Faulty'

By NORMAN D. SANDLER

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) - The recent study that has caused the federal government to consider a ban on the use of sodium nitrite in processed meats was based on faulty research, a meat industry organization says.

The National Live Stock and Meat Board Monday attacked the research that has led the government to seek a cutback and possible ban on nitrites. The Meat Board's directors questioned laboratory techniques that led researchers to conclude nitrites may cause cancer and insisted the use of the additive poses absolutely no hazard to human health. "It is unreasonable and unscientific to conclude from recent research with cancer-susceptibile rats that nitrite, used as an essential ingredient in cured meats. poses a hazard to human health," the Meat Board said in a statement.

Board Chairman J. Merrill Anderson and Treasurer Richard A. Welding told reporters a recent study at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, which gave new impetus to a move within the Agriculture Department and Food and Drug Administration to ban nitrites, had questionable results Welding contended the MIT study, which supported earlier suggestions of a nitrite-cancer link put forth by a USDA study panel, was inconclusive because it subjected rats specially bred to contract cancer to "gargantuan" levels of ni-Anderson said the research showed 12.5 percent of the rats receiving nitrites contracted cancer, as opposed to 7.9 percent of the nitrite-free control rats. We feel there is some question whether you can make a statement like this with a 4-percentage-point deviation," he said.

The board took the position of other industry groups that nitrite is an essential additive, needed to prevent the formation of toxic botulism in cured meats. That proven need for safety, Anderson said, must be balanced against what the Meat Board contends is an unproven The trade-offs are not easy in this situation," Anderson said. "If you forestall an epidemic of cancer, what about the botulism? That organism is deadly." Anderson said there have been no demonstrated alternatives to the use nitrites that can achieve the same color, texture and taste as bacon, hot dogs and other products cured with nitrites.

"That's just as much a part of American life as apple pie," he said.

Six Indicted For Assault

NEW YORK (AP) - Six people, including two juveniles, have been indicted on charges of attacking and seriously injuring six men with baseball bats before robbing them last month in Central Park. The victims included Dick Button, an Olympic skating champion and sports commentator. The indictment accused Kenneth

Straw, 18, Nicholas Perri, 17, David Hyman, 18, and Donald Hotchkiss, 20, all of Manhattan, of going to the park together on July 5 and beating strollers with baseball bats, a chair leg and "other dangerous instruments," according to the Manhattan district attorney. They were arrested July 12. According to the indictment, Straw, Perri, Hyman, and "other co-conspirators" met in an apartment and armed themselves. They then allegedly met Hotchkiss and proceeded to the "Ramble" section of Central Park where the attacks occurred. The four were charged with conspiracy. first-degree robbery, assault and at-tempted assault. The first-degree robbery charge is punishable by up to 25 years in jail.

creasing beyond the ability of most field crops to pay for them," the officials

The challenges to agricultural production follow 10-fold increases in wheat production, seven times as many vegetables a year as in 1948 and comparable advances in poultry, egg and milk pro-

In addition, crops such as cotton, peanuts and avocados - not grown in the area prior to 1948 - have become mainstays of farming in Israel and key export

The article says "the only direction that can be taken" now is greater use of drip irrigation to better ration water and greenhouses for the export crops.

Those solutions beget new problems. Under the best of conditions, for example, growers would have to get $410 a ton for hothouse tomatoes, while it is "an almost impossible goal" just to break even, the officials said.

But they said that Israel still has a competitive advantage in hothouse farming. Exports totaled $560 million in 1977, with Great Britain, West Germany and France the leading buyers and $17.2 million sold to Iran, the only Middle East market open to Israel.

Assuming no major breakthroughs in either field crop yields or reducing the cost of desalinization of water, they concluded that production of low-value field crops like wheat and feedgrains will be reduced in favor of more imports of those grains and soybeans from the United States.

Those commodities topped the list of $300 million in U.S. shipments to Israel

Preparation Of Fields Reduces Wind Harm

Proper field preparation and knowledge of vegetable survival after heavy winds and wind-blown sand can help to save a farmer considerable time and money spent in replanting.

Dr. John D. Downes, professor of horticulture and co-editor of the vegetable research program at Texas Tech University, is studying plant resistance to wind and the effect of wind velocities and du-

A leading question for the farmer, Downes said, is how the plant will respond to the damage should it survive. Knowing which crops can still produce after wind damage can help save a farmer considerable time and expense in replanting.

Downes and his associates have found that, in general, the most susceptible vegetable crops to blowing sand and wind, in order from most to least susceptible, are carrots, peppers, cabbage, cucumbers, onions and cowpeas. Cotton is more resistant than cucumbers, Downes said. In fact, Downes said, research has may actually be stimulated to a degree by wind damage, as a result of increased numbers of flowers per plant, following destruction of the tip of the main stem. "The plant is most susceptible to wind and wind-blown soil injury in its earliest stages of growth," Downes said. "If the shown that cucumber and cowpea yields crop survives the seedling stage, it will generally be better able to withstand sand and wind injury. Downes suggested several ways farmers could help stabilize the soil to prevent it from eroding and damaging newlysprouted plants. One of the best ways to prevent blowing sand, he said, is to plant in heavier soils such as clay loam, on which the bulk of High Plains vegetables are grown. South of Hereford, though, much of the soil is sandy enough to be subject to moderate to severe wind erosion, Downes

Another method leaves as many large clods as possible in the field after plow-large clods can help prevent blowing dust later, though some soil moisture may be lost. Downes said, where the crop and seedling moisture requirements are heaviest. The clods should also be left intact after planting.

Chemical stablizers applied over the seeded rows may substantially reduce soil erosion and blowing soil.

"Unfortunately, however, none of the known chemical compounds endure long enough at economics rates of application to solve the erosion problems," Downes

Mulches, such as gin trash and wheat straw, applied over the newly-planted crops, also help decrease the possibilities of blowing soil. Without solid anchoring in the soil, though, the mulches tend to be blown away in strong winds, or to accumulate drifting soil, creating secondary problems, Downes added. Two disadvantages of mulches are the difficulty in seeding through the anchored covers and in controlling the weeds usually present in mulches. Herbicides can help with the second problem, but may not be strong enough to completely rid the crop of weeds. Planting winter wheat in the fall to provide a strip wind break at planting time when blowing sand is most prevalent is another possible way to reduce erosion. Seeding in shallow turrows rather than on top of the beds and maintaining good soil moisture may help reduce wind erosion and increase seedling survival, Downes said. By planting later than normal, though the yield may be slightly reduced, crops may stand a better chance of missing the worst of the blowing dust. Plant survival depends on wind velocity, duration, amount of blowing sand present, plant age and plant type, he said. None of the methods by themselves can singly prevent wind or blowing dust damage, but in combination they may help a farmer in the High Plains reduce the ne

How to pull the plug on high electric bills.

Getting angry at the electric company about high bills won't help one bit. Because the problem is probably in your own home. If your heating and air-conditioning system is one of the old, low efficiency types, for example, a General Electric Executive high efficiency system is probably just what you've been wishing for. It's the most energy-efficient GE unit available today

Imagine what that can do for your pocketbook!

So, don't get mad at the electric company next time your bill seems too high. Replace your old inefficient unit with a GE Executive high efficiency air conditioner. It has the lowest operating costs in the entire GE line. And, that's a pretty good plug.
