Vance Mideast trip still on despite Sadat's remarks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance still plans a weekend trip to the Mideast despite strong U.S. displeasure with Anwar Sadat's new demand that Israel — as the price for resuming stalled peace talks — return all captured Arab lands.

One official, speaking privately, said consideration was given to canceling the visit because of Sadat's statement.

Vance decided to go, another official said, because of the realization that the visit might be the only way to get the two sides talking again and to salvage the glimmering hopes for a peaceful settlement.

The State Department announced on Monday that the Vance trip to Jerusalem and Cairo would go ahead as planned. What Vance will say to Egyptian President Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin has not been decided.

But Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan said, "We expect that the United States will tell Sadat he has to sit with us for talks under the chairmanship of the secretary of state."

"It is the policy of the United States to have the parties meet, and I do not believe the United States will neglect its effort."

In Tel Aviv, an Israeli government spokesman said that Begin expressed "satisfaction" with U.S. criticism of Sadat's demand and said that Sadat's recent move "proves that the obstacle to peace is the unreasonable extremism reigning in Egypt."

Sadat, meanwhile, has called for a broader American role in the peace process, hinting that it is time for the United States to put forward a comprehensive peace proposal as a basis for renewed negotiations.

But the Carter administration has shied away from pressure to suggest a Mideast blueprint, and administration officials, speaking privately, said they did not think that reluctance was likely to change.

"This problem can't be solved unless the parties (Egypt and Israel) solve it," said one official, indicating that the American role would likely continue to be limited to offering suggestions for compromises on specific problems that arise in negotiations.

But there may not be negotiations, however, Sadat said Sunday that he will not talk to Israel any more unless Israel first agrees to give up all of the territory captured from the Arabs in 1967.

The administration responded with its sharpest criticism of Sadat since his trip to Jerusalem last November, calling his demand "very disappointing."

Meanwhile, Saudi Arabia's Crown Prince Fahd has embarked on a tour of Arab capitals, apparently seeking to arrange an Arab summit that would produce a new, unified Arab line on the question of Israel.

Fahd saw Sadat on Monday in Cairo, then went to Damascus for talks with Syrian leaders. Sadat, after seeing Fahd, told reporters that they were free to speculate about the possibility of an Arab summit.

The Arab world has been sharply divided over Sadat's initiative. A few nations openly supported it. Some, like the Saudis, took neutral views and allowed Sadat to take his shot at attaining a settlement. Others, like the Syrians, bitterly broke with Sadat.

The Saudi effort to arrange a summit is apparently a signal that the Saudis, whose money bankrolls both Egypt and Syria, feel that the Sadat initiative has failed and a new approach is called for.

Justice Department's Civiletti discusses Larry Lozano probe

By MARK VOGLER

Larry Ortega Lozano never saw an attorney during 12 days of confinement in the Ector County Jail before meeting death just outside his cell on Jan. 22.

But the Lozano case has since become the subject of an intense review by top legal experts in the U.S. Justice Department, who ultimately will decide whether evidence thus far submitted to a federal grand jury warrants prosecution for possible violation of the man's civil rights.

A Justice Department spokesman told The Reporter-Telegram Monday that high level department officials in Washington, D.C., perhaps Attorney General Griffin Bell and his chief assistants, will be involved in the final decision, which may be either to absolve the Ector County Sheriff's Department of wrongdoing or to seek federal indictments against county officials.

John Russell, an assistant director of public information, Monday said he believes that two of Bell's top assistants, Deputy Assistant Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti and Drew Days of the Justice Department's Civil Rights Division, already have begun looking into the case.

Civiletti, Bell's chief assistant, said later Monday by telephone that Days is the man in charge at this point.

Civiletti denied reports that the Justice Department is under "political pressure" from the White House to return indictments in the Lozano case in order to make amends with Mexican American activists for a recent decision not to pursue prosecution in the case of Santos Rodriguez.

President Carter reportedly apologized to Mexican American activist leaders in Texas after Justice Department officials decided not to file civil rights charges against Dallas Policeman Darrell Cain.

The officer was assessed a five-year prison sentence by a state court after being convicted of shooting Rodriguez to death in July of 1973 while the 12-year-old sat handcuffed in the rear seat of a squad car.

"We have never received political pressure of any kind. The president in all of his public statements has made it clear that human rights violations are a matter of federal interest and something that ought to be vigorously pursued," Civiletti said.

"Mr. Carter has stated that civil rights violations ought not be shunted aside. That's a policy matter which he has been very firm on. He leaves the decision to the law and the Justice Department."

Civiletti said he has not made any personal concessions to Mexican Americans, other than to criticize what he considers to be a "slow system of justice" as concerns investigations of civil rights cases.

"Our view is that we are very concerned about Mexican American rights and possible deprivation of those rights. But I do think that we take too much time on most of the cases. We ought to expedite justice. These long delays compound the hurt that the communities are feeling."

Three fight shifting sand, rising water during 18-hour ordeal

By KEN HERMAN

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — For the three Wagners it was 18 dark hours of fighting shifting sands and rising water.

For the trio from the Fincher family, including a paraplegic, it was simply a matter of hanging on for life.

"One big wave came along and turned us over," said Roy Wagner, captain of the "Lori Ann."

"It was a double hit," said John Fincher, captain of the "Frankie E."

Both boats went under Sunday as Tropical Storm Amelia churned up gulf waters. Both crews were found Monday — one after a long search and another by chance.

Roy Wagner, his brother Johnny and nephew John set out in search of red snapper Friday. The 36-foot boat was reported missing Sunday Monday morning, as Coast Guard officials were sorting out the assorted wreckage in the gulf, the overturned hull of the "Lori Ann" was spotted in the surf off South Padre Island.

Friends and relatives gathered at the beach and stared blankly at the hull — wondering about the whereabouts of the Wagners.

Less than 30 feet away the three men were staging a determined fight for life and screaming for help — beneath the upset hull.

"We were knocking and hollering every five minutes," Roy Wagner said in a hospital emergency room here. "I never did give up. I couldn't tell there were people out there. We just tried to stay alive as long as we could."

The boat's captain said he had to keep watch over his brother, 43, and nephew, 18.

"I sure did have a rough time out there with them. They passed out a couple of times and I had to get them up for air," he recalled.

"Another five minutes and we'd have drowned," said Roy's brother. "It was like quicksand and it was sucking us in."

Shortly before noon a bystander heard sounds from under the hull.

"We were hollering real loud," Roy Wagner said, "and I heard someone answer. I told them we were alive."

The bystanders smashed a hole in the hull and the three weary men crawled out to safety.

The Port Isabel fishermen had survived by grabbing gasps of air in small pockets under the hull. Johnny Wagner used his pocket knife to cut a

Polio outbreak strikes Dutch fundamentalist sects

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (AP) — Nearly 100 persons, most of them children, have been stricken in a polio epidemic this summer among members of Dutch sects rigidly opposed to vaccination.

"God must decide who is struck down by sickness, not the doctors," said the father of one ailing child in a television interview. "You will never understand unless you read the Bible."

"You can't tamper with God's will," said a teen-age girl in a wheelchair. "He wanted me to get polio. If it hadn't been this, it would have been something else."

The Health Ministry has tried with out success to get a vaccination program under way in the Bible Belt in the central part of the country, where the preacher's word is law.

Most Dutch parents have their children vaccinated against polio as a matter of course. But vaccination is rejected by about 300,000 followers of the Dutch Reformed Churches and other splinter groups of the Dutch Reformed Church who regard disease as a manifestation of divine wrath.

The polio has not spread to people outside the sects, a Health Ministry spokesman said.

Officials say the virus is comparatively mild and not a killer. Almost half the victims have been discharged from hospitals and are on their way to recovery. Only four of the 95 victims reported are expected to be seriously handicapped.

It was a different story in 1971, in the Bible Belt village of Staphorst, when polio killed five children and crippled a dozen others for life. The current epidemic also has hit Staphorst, but the villagers won't talk about it.

"Go away," one housewife told a reporter on the telephone. "We won't talk because you don't understand."

Elders of the sects are also reluctant to talk. One told a reporter to refer to the New Testament, Luke 5, which says "those who are well need no physician."

Strict adherents of the sects ban television from their homes, forbid sports on the Sabbath and insist on short haircuts for their sons and skirts for their daughters.

Some refuse to collect the state old age pension, now $630 a month for a married couple, and reject any form of private health insurance. However, all victims of the current epidemic received medical treatment after being stricken.

Some earlier polio victims regret their parents' strict adherence to the teaching of the sects.

"I wish parents would give more thought to what can happen if they don't have their children vaccinated," said Marianne de Wit, 22, who had the disease 15 years ago. "If parents realized what you have to go through with polio, perhaps they would think differently."

Miss de Wit will walk with a pronounced limp for the rest of her life and needs special leather supports for her weakened back and stomach muscles.

However, hers is a minority view. The sects continue to disregard every government attempt to promote vaccination including a direct appeal by a top official in an open letter published by nearly all newspapers and broadcast widely by radio and television.

"The government can say what it likes, but they won't change our minds, not in a thousand years," said Staphorst villager J. M. van Zoen.

Feds, state, Indians at stalemate over Maine land claims

AUGUSTA, Maine (AP) — The federal government and Maine officials have reached an impasse in trying to settle Indian claims to half the state's land, and the Justice Department says it will resume its suit against the state.

The decision was announced Monday by Deputy U.S. Attorney General James Moorman after a fruitless attempt to involve the state in additional negotiations on Indians' claims to 12 million acres.

"It looks to me like we have no choice but to go on with the litigation in court against the state only," Moorman said after a two-hour meeting with Maine Attorney General Joseph Brennan. "I want to make it very clear that the federal government has no present intention of suing any land owners."

"Fine. Very good," commented Thomas Tureen, lawyer for the Passamaquoddy and Penobscot tribes, when told of the decision.

The Justice Department is acting as a trustee for the Passamaquoddy and Penobscot tribes, which claim the land was taken from them in violation of a 1790 federal law requiring congressional approval of all land deals with Indian tribes.

The suit against the state seeks the return of 350,000 publicly owned acres and $300 million in damages.

The state has rejected two settlement proposals. The first, which also was rejected by the Indians, called for the federal government to pay the Indians $25 million and the state to give up 100,000 acres. The second would have the federal and state governments each pay $25 million and the state's biggest landowners sell the Indians 300,000 acres of woodland at $5 an acre.

Brennan maintained that any settlement should be a total federal responsibility, while Moorman contended the state should bear part of the burden.

Gov. James Longley, who has advocated a court test for months, said he was unhappy with the Justice Department's latest move.

"I will only say that it is a sad, sad commentary to see the U.S. Justice Department representing one Maine citizen against another innocent citizen," he said.

The two tribes are trying to reach a settlement with the state's 14 larger landowners, and the Carter administration is proposing legislation to extinguish claims to the 9 million acres in the hands of smaller landowners.

Under that plan, the Indians would get $25 million in return for ending claims against the small landowners.

There has been some concern that it will be difficult to win congressional approval of any such partial solution.

MIAMI (AP) — A Cuban handyman pulled from the sea near the Florida Keys says he used ping pong paddles as oars and fought off sharks and dodged Cuban navy patrols during a harrowing seven-day journey to freedom floating on two inner tubes.

Then he wept when he saw an American flag.

The ordeal of 27-year-old Ramon Estevez Cordova ended when he was rescued Sunday by the crew of a pleasure boat about five miles off the coast of Key Largo.

Cordova was surprised Monday when he was reunited with his foster sister, Sonia Batista, in Miami.

"I thought she lived in New York, so that is where I was trying to float to," he explained. Cordova's first words to his rescuers were, in Spanish, "Is this New York?"

Cordova said had planned his flight for a year, wanting to escape the Cuban political system. He said he left his home in Habana del Este, a Havana suburb, on July 23 after waiting nine days for calm seas. At the coast he posed as a fisherman to avoid suspicion, then launched his makeshift craft — two inner tubes he had scavenged from a car and a truck then bound with twine and covered with burlap.

Cordova said Cuban navy boats and helicopters searched for him the first day but could not see him because of high waves. However, he said, sharks and hunger were his worst fears during the trip.

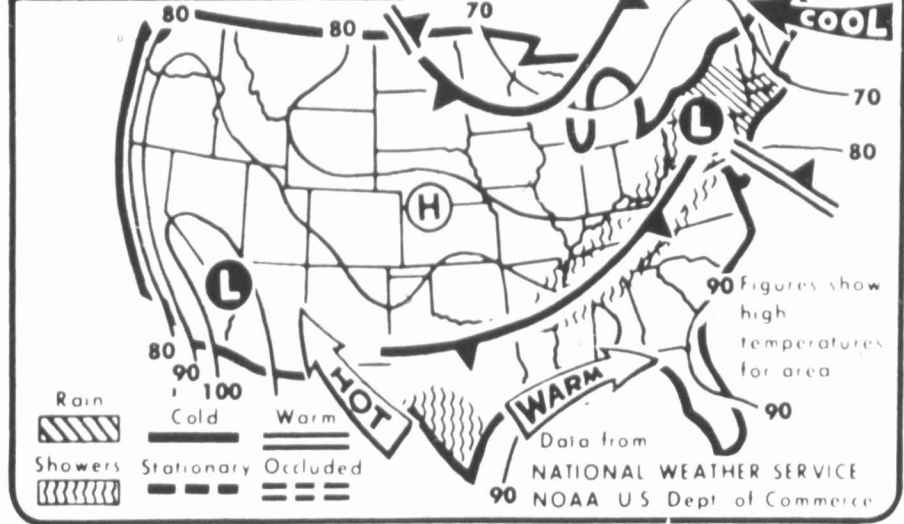

The sharks came every day about noon and tried to attack me. They tried to tip the raft over. I was surprised at their strength. Once I had my leg in

Lee High School band honored by association

SAN ANTONIO — Midland's Lee High School band was selected Sunday by the Texas Band Directors Association as the honor band in the state among Class 4A schools. The selection was made during the association's annual convention here. Competition among 4A schools is held once every two years, according to Van Ragsdale, director of the Lee High band. There are 20 regions in Texas for this competition and each school must submit a tape made during a performance, said Ragsdale. Lee High won the regional competition, and the band's tape was submitted to a panel of five judges to be reviewed along with winning tapes from the remaining 19 regions. As a result of the honor, the Lee band will perform in February at the state Texas Music Educators Association in Fort Worth. The band di-

Appraisal measure tabled by House

By LEE JONES

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas House members today laid to rest a controversial measure calling for uniform tax appraisals in every Texas county.

By unanimous motion, the House laid on the table a bill by Rep. Wayne Peveeto, D-Orange, that has caused much of the controversy in this special session. A similar measure was defeated 18-9 by the Senate Tuesday. Rep. Leroy Weiting, D-Portland, made the motion, saying he was a co-sponsor of the bill, but it would do no good to spend a day or two debating a measure already defeated by the Senate.

"This is the worst bill to come to this House in 25 years," said Rep. Bill Healy, D-Pampa. "I trust you will bury it so dead it will never be resurrected. Let's send it to the state cemetery."

Today's action came after the second defeat Monday night of a House tax relief measure.

Speaker Bill Clayton's forces fell six short of the 100 votes needed to approve a constitutional amendment on property tax relief Monday.

If approved by two-thirds of the House and Senate, such a proposal would be submitted to the voters Nov. 7.

There is a chance Clayton will try again, but he said that would happen only when he is sure there won't be a repeat of Monday's 94-45 debacle.

"It is a guarantee of a 30-day session. We are going to be here till Aug. 8," the session's mandatory adjournment date, said Rep. Tim Von Dohlen, D-Goliad, the floor lieutenant on constitutional amendments.

He said Monday's failure to send the package of constitutional amendments — including a possible homestead exemption from school taxes and evaluation of farm land on productivity — might mean failure of the special session to do something about property taxes.

"It pretty well puts it in jeopardy at this point," he said.

Monday's floor session was an ugly-tempered affair, with Clayton at one point declaring he would strictly enforce the rule against personal attacks against representatives in floor speeches.

Rep. John Bryant, D-Dallas, criticized Clayton for a backroom meeting over the weekend with school administrators, who are upset over a provision allowing local voters to roll back property tax increases.

Bryant offered — and Von Dohlen accepted — an amendment requiring 35 percent of a community's voters to petition for a rollback election.

Clayton, he said, "committed to the school people that he would take out the local referendum or else water it down so much, cripple it so bad, that no citizen could ever use it."

"I think it is a deceitful way to proceed, but it is time to call the bluff of these promise makers back there and see if they'll support the amendment they said they would support," he said.

Von Dohlen said Bryant — a supporter of speaker candidate Buddy Temple, D-Diboll — had behaved "to the disgust of the members" while Clayton had been "fair to all."

While weakening the local referendum position, the House voted 97-42 to add a provision setting up initiative and referendum, which Californians used to cut their taxes through Proposition 13.

Changes were considered slim the provision would pass the special session, however, because a similar proposal failed to gather the necessary majority Monday in the Senate State Affairs Committee.

The proposed constitutional amendment would also require legislators to set up a means for rural land to be taxed on productive capacity, not market value, and to exempt up to $10,000 of the value of Texans' homes from school taxes.

Senators have approved a similar proposal, which awaits House action. In Monday's debate in the Senate over countywide property appraisals, following state-set guidelines, Sen. Walter Mengden, R-Houston, predicted such legislation would raise taxes.

Justice's Civiletti discusses possible Lozano probe direction

Civiletti said.

"In a recent meeting in Washington with Mexican-American groups, I gave all the representatives an assurance that the Justice Department would look at the cases fairly and squarely, and that we ought to speed up the process."

Civiletti said he believes justice has been a slow process in the Lozano case.

A federal grand jury sitting in Midland last month recessed indefinitely with no decision after it heard testimony from 66 witnesses.

It may be days, weeks, months or "whenever," before the federal grand jury makes a decision in the case, according to the official.

"There's no telling how long it may take. You just can't judge these things," Civiletti said.

Several observers close to the investigation predict it might take a month before the grand jury reports back because of the turmoil in Odessa and the possible political repercussions that a quick decision might have.

But the three other Texas cases involving the deaths of Mexican-Americans at the hands of lawmen to be taken before the Civil Rights Division for possible prosecution took at least a year to be resolved. The results of those cases included:

—The sentencing of former Castroville Police Chief Frank Hayes to life imprisonment by a federal judge last year for violating the civil rights of Ricardo Morales, who died while in Hayes' custody in September of 1975.

—The conviction this year of three Houston policemen who were found guilty of violating Joe Campos Torres' civil rights in May 1976. The officers, who supposedly beat Torres, are appealing one-year sentences in connection with the man's drowning death in Buffalo Bayou.

—The refusal of the Justice Department recently to prosecute Cain in connection with the 1973 shooting death of the Rodriguez youth.

In the Lozano case, the Ector County Sheriff's Department initially took the position that Lozano committed suicide by battering his head against the plexi-glass window of his jail cell.

A coroner's inquest in April ruled the death to have been accidental, indicating that Lozano died from injuries he received while lawmen were trying to restrain him.

Ector County District Attorney John Green last week officially closed his investigation of Lozano's death after conducting a one-day grand jury session. Green has predicted that no prosecution will result from the federal grand jury probe.

Lozano, a former Pecos man who had moved to Odessa, was scheduled to meet his court-appointed attorney,

Jim Osborne, a former investigator for Green, on Jan. 23, the date the Ector County Grand Jury was to review charges of assault on a police officer pending against the inmate. But Lozano died the night before.

the water and a shark hit me with his tail and rubbed the skin from my ankle," Cordova said, showing a crusty, deep sore on his leg.

He said he took seven sandwiches with him, but lost the four he had left on the fifth day of his 90-mile trip.

He subsisted on raw fish the remainder of the voyage. "I was hungry and thirsty so I caught seaweed, shook it, and ate the small shrimp, which tasted sweet," he said.

Cordova was reported to be in good condition, despite a slight fever and rope burns where he had tied himself to the raft.

Coast Guard officials at Key West said they received a radio call from a German cargo ship about a man aboard a raft Saturday night, but a four-hour search of the area turned up nothing.

Cordova later told Immigration officials he refused to be picked up by the German ship because he feared it was a Russian vessel.

The 50-foot pleasure boat Xtabay plucked Cordova from the ocean the next day.

Loni Myers, a mate on the boat, said: "When he saw the American flag on the dock at Islamorada, he put his hand over his heart. I almost started crying."

Dixie Burns, also on the Xtabay, said the scene did make her cry.

"We were trying to convince him he was in America, but I didn't have an American flag on me," she said.

"When he saw the flag (at Islamorada), it was a very emotional scene," Ms. Burns said. "We all kind of cried a little. We saw the look in a man's eyes when he first sees freedom."

section of hose to aid in breathing. "It was just rolling and rolling," he said.

"It felt like it was dragging us by 50 miles an hour," Roy Wagner said of the way the hull was shifting along the beach at first. Johnny Wagner, sitting in the hospital, said he could still feel the sand tearing at his bruised legs.

Despite the ordeal, the three men were in satisfactory condition. Only John Wagner was held overnight at the hospital here for observation.

But some of the bystanders who had gazed blankly at the hull were a bit numb.

George Colley, Roy Wagner's nephew, had been there. "That's what makes me feel so tough," he said, watching his uncle in the emergency room.

Dorthea Wagner, Roy's wife, had heard that the hull had been spotted — but she stayed home. "I just didn't want to see it," she said.

"It was a miracle," she added later, smiling at her husband. Some five hours after the Wagners were reunited with their families, the Finchers were plucked from the gulf by a Coast Guard helicopter.

"All hell broke loose," John Fincher said of the Sunday sinking. The 31-year-old former Fort Worth teacher, his brother Paul, 24, and father Clifton, 56, had also set out for red snapper. But the weather kicked up Sunday and John Fincher "decided I'd better try to bring it in."

About 25 miles from shore the "double hit" of choppy waters punched a hole in the "Frankie E." And it began to sink.

It went down slowly at first and two of the men climbed into a life raft while the third stayed on board.

But as the boat continued to sink, it was abandoned. "It hurt me that I couldn't swim," said Paul Fincher, who lost the use of his legs in a motorcycle wreck several years ago. "But it helped in that I didn't have trouble with my legs tending up."

The Finchers said they were confident someone was looking for them. Monday afternoon they heard a Coast Guard helicopter hovering nearby.

"They see the raft and the blanket before they see you," John Fincher said. "But you wave your hands."

He is expected to discuss things to see and do in Israel, as well as general conditions existing there, according to Lion Duke Jimerson, program chairman.

Union president against motion by letter carriers

CHICAGO (AP) — Representatives of the nation's letter carriers have voted to recommend that union members reject a contract offer from the U.S. Postal Service, but the union's president has urged that they accept it.

The action came Monday at the national convention of the National Association of Letter Carriers, where 8,000 representatives in the first major labor reaction to the offer urged its rejection.

The association is one of three unions that reached a tentative settlement on July 21 to avert a nationwide strike.

The voice vote is not binding on the union's members, but a union official said it probably would carry considerable weight among the rank and file, which soon will be receiving ballots.

Afterward, however, association President Joseph Vacca said he "remains committed to ratification" of the contract.

"We have a decent pay package which will provide the great majority of letter carriers with annual salaries in excess of $19,600 (an increase of 19.5 percent) by the end of the contract," he said in a statement issued early today.

The contract also contains historical work rule improvements that will increase the number of present letter carrier routes somewhere between 2,500 and 3,000 additional new routes. I believe this contract to be a good contract and I continue to urge its ratification."

Vacca was greeted with boos and catcalls when he was introduced to the 8,000 state and local leaders. Delegates said the chilly reception reflected the deep division within the 180,000-member union over the contract offer.

The tentative contract was negotiated by a coalition of the letter carrier association, the American Postal Workers Union and the Mail Handlers Division of the Laborers' International

Warmer days to greet August

The final month of summer vacation for students arrived today in Midland with a predicted return to uncomfortably warm temperatures.

The high temperature Wednesday should be in the low 90s, according to the weatherman. Monday had a cooler high than usual for that date with only 87 degrees reported by the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport. Record high for July 31 is 105 degrees set in 1944.

The mercury has been dropping to the high 60s for the overnight low and today was no exception. Low early today was 68 degrees. It should be about the same Wednesday, the weatherman said. Record low for today is 56 degrees set in 1937.

South to southeasterly winds of 15 to 20 mph were expected to decrease tonight to 5 to 10 mph.

Man hospitalized following mishap

STANTON — A truck driver from Tuttle, Okla., was listed in critical condition at Midland Memorial Hospital today following a pedestrian-car accident Monday night in Stanton.

Benny Ray Cunningham, 41, was in the intensive care unit early today, being treated for serious head injuries and a compound fracture of the lower left leg, according to a hospital spokesman.

Stanton police said Cunningham was injured when he attempted to cross Texas 137 after leaving C&C Grocery Store about 9:45 p.m. Monday. His truck was parked on the opposite side of the road, police said.

Listed as the driver of the vehicle involved in the accident was 17-year-old Michael Hannah of Stanton, said police.

Argentine admiral's home hit with bomb

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — A powerful bomb went off in the Argentine navy's second-ranking officer early today and there are almost certainly fatal casualties, police sources said.

The attack on the home of Vice Admiral Armando Lambruschini, chief of the naval general staff, was believed to have been the work of leftist terrorists, the sources said.

Lambruschini had been slated to become commander in chief of the navy next month and a member of the three-man military junta that runs Argentina.

Conditions in Israel to be speaker's topic

Max Galilee from Israel will be the speaker Wednesday noon at the meeting of the Downtown Lions Club in the Midland Hilton.

Hospital gets accreditation

The Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals has granted a full two-year accreditation to Midland Memorial Hospital, according to administrator Wayne E. Ulrich.

The accreditation, resulting from a survey made of the hospital by field representatives in April, indicates that the facility is operating according to standards set by the commission, said Ulrich.

In 1977, Midland Memorial received a one-year accreditation due to a number of deficiencies, primarily in the physical plant, Ulrich recalled. These deficiencies have either been corrected or are included in the current renovation and new construction program which began last December, he said.

Midland Memorial is one of approximately 4,800 general hospitals throughout the country to have been accredited. There are approximately 7,150 hospitals in the U.S.A.

Ulrich said that although it is not legally necessary for a hospital to be accredited, most health care facilities seek that status because it represents a standard of high quality and care for patients.

Midland Memorial has been accredited since 1955.

Undesirable project

Hopefully, the City of Odessa yet will withdraw its announced plan to construct a sewage treatment plant in southwest Midland County.

Residents in the immediate area have expressed their complete dissatisfaction with the proposal in no uncertain terms, as have many other Midland County residents.

Construction of the plant at the proposed site most likely would cause nothing but trouble and increased animosity for all concerned for a long time to come.

City of Odessa voters, of course, could sidetrack the matter for the time being, at least, by rejecting a proposed bond issue to finance the project.

The waste water treatment plant business isn't something new. It has been the subject of a continuing controversy between the City of Odessa and Midland County for some time now, due to the fact that the plan involves sending treated effluent down Monahans Draw in Midland County.

The Texas Quality Water Board, last Aug. 31, approved Odessa's application to use the draw as a means of disposing of the effluent, despite Midland County's voiced opposition.

The permit allows Odessa to discharge an average of 5.22 million gallons a day from the proposed plant. It also permits an increase in discharge from the existing treatment plant from approximately 6 million gallons a day to 9.8 million.

This in itself will be a burden to Midland County landowners, depriving them of the use of portions of their land, in addition to health and sanitation problems involved. Standing, stagnant water and the odor, fly and mosquito possibilities aren't very inviting.

District Judge Barbara Culver, former Midland County judge, has said the project should be watched closely to see that residents who live in the area are compensated justly for any damage that might be done to their land or to the value of their land as a result of the overall proposal. She said also that every precaution should be taken to make sure the insect problem doesn't increase.

The health hazard involved is something in which all Midland residents should be concerned.

Snail darters and other endangered species are protected, even to the point of shutting down tremendous projects of various kinds, but we haven't heard anything about protecting people in situations such as this.

Some residents in the immediate area have said they could use the treated water, preferably free of charge, for irrigation purposes if they could be assured of a "steady, certain" amount. Some of their neighbors have commented that this still wouldn't do away with the odor.

Odessa has a definite problem, certainly, and we sympathize with its residents, but the people residing in southwest Midland County also have a problem in this regard. They may not be able to stop the project as proposed, but they are justified in trying, through all legal means possible.

Skyjack bonus

A pact barring flights to or from countries that give sanctuary to air hijackers was an unscheduled dividend of the economic summit at Bonn.

The seven nations participating in the two-day session form the nucleus for what could be worldwide agreement, although previous attempts to coax unanimity from the United Nations or other world conclaves have failed. A similar proposal before a 60-nation parley at Montreal five years ago was unsuccessful.

But the Bonn meeting involved powerful forces. If the United States, Britain, France, Japan, Canada, Italy and West Germany stand fast, their action could have a financial impact on airlines whose governments are reluctant to prosecute hijackers and terrorists.

While the statement approved at Bonn did not name the targets of the boycott, Libya, Algeria, Iraq and South Yemen have refused to cooperate in the past.

Other nations will be asked to endorse the anti-hijacking plan. It is a first step welcome to the air traveler.

'WE'LL STUDY THIS OVER A FEW JOINTS AND A LITTLE COGNAC, SIR'

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Ex-chief wangled more benefits

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The story can now be told how Richard Roudebush, a rotund politico who used to head the Veterans Administration, wangled a $56-a-month increase in his own veteran benefits.

His claim was turned down by four separate review boards. But this didn't deter officials, who owed their jobs to Roudebush. They allowed a private physician to give their former boss a new medical exam. An adverse file in his case also mysteriously disappeared.

But that isn't the worst of it. The cronies Roudebush left behind in the Veterans Administration used job threats and steamroller pressure to reverse the findings of the four boards, insiders allege. One inside official called it "the most blatant example of political pressure I have ever witnessed in the Veterans Administration."

In the end, Roudebush wound up triumphantly with the extra $56 a month. He had been collecting $216 a month from the Veterans Administration for a pair of arthritic knees that he had ingloriously acquired during World War II.

He also had a pain in his back, which he thought was worth more monthly money. But he was repeatedly refused on grounds that medical records showed he had the back condition most of his life and that any worsening of the problem resulted from a small plane crash he survived in 1968.

This lack of sympathy for his backache prevailed, despite distinguished service as Indiana's poppy chairman and Veterans of Foreign Wars commander. In 1971, then-President Richard Nixon brought Roudebush into the Veterans Administration as a consultant. Subsequently, the redoubtable Roudebush was elevated to veterans administrator.

So far as we can learn, he endured his weak knees and back pains in silence until his departure in February 1977. Then the loyal subordinates he had left behind spoke up. Charles Pecharsky, promoted by Roudebush to be national director of compensation and pension service, telephoned Indiana Regional Director James Crowe, demanding the Roudebush claim be reopened.

Crowe admitted that a phone call from a national director was an unusual way for a claim to be handled, telling our reporter Peter Grant, "it doesn't happen every day." Pecharsky said he telephoned merely to give his subordinate "informal advice" on the case at the behest of someone else. He said he couldn't remember who it was but vaguely acknowledged, "it could have been Mr. Roudebush."

Another Roudebush appointee, R. L. Hornbarger, was adjudication officer at the Indianapolis regional headquarters. He summoned the three rating board members and threatened them with dismissal if they failed to approve the Roudebush claim. When the three again refused to accept the backache as a disability, they were told they'd be looking for new jobs the next morning.

The review board was replaced at the end of its six-month tenure, and Hornbarger resumed his pressure tactics on the replacements. Roudebush was allowed to take a new medical examination from a private physician rather than report to a veterans hospital where most veterans go.

HEMISPHERE REPORT: Peru 'demolished' by military dictatorship

By WILLIAM GIANDONI
Copley News Service

William Giandoni

Now that the Peruvian revolution seems to have run its course, what comes next?

The failure of the Peruvian armed forces' 10-year effort to bring about social and economic revolution in Peru is obvious to all.

Hopes were high in democratic leftist circles when Gen. Juan Velasco Alvarado and his fellow officers ousted President Fernando Belaunde Terry, the Texas-schooled architect whose rise to power they had engineered in 1963.

In Peru, it was said, a general of humble beginnings, a son of working-class parents, had wrested power from a member of the oligarchy.

Velasco started out by confiscating the International Petroleum Company, subsidiary of a U.S. firm, and gained some popular backing. But then the military regime we it on to seize many other key firms and imposed a radical agrarian reform program. Peruvian — as well as foreign-owned holdings — were confiscated.

Sugar and cotton producers fell; some mining companies; the fishing industry that had made Peru the world's foremost commercial fishing nation. Even the newspapers, including El Comercio and La Prensa, the two greatest nationally-circulated dailies, were confiscated.

Many Peruvians, and foreigners, too, applauded all that. Some still do.

"It is evident that the 10 years of military government (in Peru) were not in vain," wrote Abraham Lama for the Inter Press Service recently. "The first phase not only demolished the socio-economic structure of an almost-feudal country, but also made respectable such concepts, earlier prohibited, as agrarian reform, socialism, etc., and produced a development of the popular political conscience."

No one questions the accuracy of the Marxist interpretation of events, up to a point. The "structure" of Peru was demolished.

But it seemed everything that the Peruvian military regime touched turned to ashes.

The oil fields on the far side of the Andes turned out to be less rich than had been hoped. Sugar prices declined. Even fishing fell off, when the waters of the Pacific off the Peruvian coast became warmer and the anchoveta on which the industry depended all but disappeared.

Almost three years ago, Aug. 29, 1975, the Peruvian military removed Gen. Velasco from the presidency and installed Gen. Francisco Morales Bermudez, one of the more moderate revolutionaries, in his place.

President Morales was not able to reverse the downward trend, although he did succeed in eliminating some of the corrupt practices and practitioners within the government.

By now, though, what with the excessive spending by the military, including hundreds of millions of dollars on Soviet planes and tanks, Peru is bankrupt. The country owes some $8 billion to foreign bankers, and cannot meet its obligations.

Finance Minister Javier Silva Ruete declared in a report to the Peruvian nation in mid-June that "the economic and financial situation is so bad that the security of our country may be jeopardized."

Silva, a civilian in the predominantly military cabinet, said that he is convinced "that the solution of the country's economic and financial problems is unavoidably linked" with the transfer of political power from the armed forces to civilians. He also said that the armed forces and the police are "irrevocably committed" to that idea, too.

In that connection, Peruvians went to the polls June 18 for the first time in 15 years to vote for delegates to an assembly that will undertake to write a new constitution for Peru. That document, hopefully, will permit the military to effect an honorable withdrawal from government.

Not surprisingly, the No. 1 vote-getter was Victor Raul Haya de la Torre, now 83, and the American Popular Revolutionary Alliance (APRA) that he founded more than half a century ago, in 1924.

APRA, democratic leftist in ideology, won 38 of the 100 seats in the assembly. The rightist Popular Christian Party got 27. Of the six Marxist parties that ran candidates, the Worker Peasant Student and Popular Front (FOCEP), a Maoist group, won the largest representation, with about a dozen. Other Marxist parties managed to elect a total of 21 delegates. Minor parties got the rest.

Already some Latin political observers are predicting that such a mixed bag will find it difficult to reach anything approaching a consensus on Peru's next constitution and that President Morales will find it impossible to get out of office as soon as he would like.

INSIDE REPORT:

GOP National Committee: 'Neither Reagan nor Ford'

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

Evans Novak

DETROIT — The underlying tone of the recent Republican National Committee meeting was set when Bernard Shanley, veteran committeeman from New Jersey, arrived here with a resolution asking both Ronald Reagan and Gerald Ford not to run for president in 1980.

Shanley abandoned the idea, preferring not to inject discord into one of the national committee's most tranquil meetings in memory. But a solid majority of the committee shares Shanley's views. It sees Reagan's last-hurrah try for the presidency as inevitably drawing in Ford to stop him, resurrecting the Ford-vs.-Reagan nightmare of 1976.

If these two old warriors renewed in combat is the worst thing that can happen to the party, the second worst in the opinion of national committee members would be Reagan at age 69 winning it by himself. There is overriding sentiment, shared by many Reaganites, for a new face. Surprisingly, the new face likely to finish first in a secret ballot of the committee is Rep. Jack Kemp of New York, a leader of the national tax revolt as sponsor of the Kemp-Roth tax-reduction bill.

In the age of primaries, what national committee members say and do counts for much less than in bygone days. But abhorrence of a Ford-Reagan clash is pervasive among all Republicans. When national chairman William Brock met with the party's big money men here, their message was unmistakable: we want neither Reagan nor Ford.

This was the discordant note of a gathering free of controversy and approaching euphoria. Committee-man Clarke Reed of Mississippi, usually embroiled in contentious rules disputes, did not even show up for the first day of rules committee meetings. Gov. Robert Ray of Iowa, lost in the labyrinthine Detroit Plaza Hotel, missed the entire executive committee meeting; it adjourned after 20 minutes, discussing whether a mid-January national committee meeting would interfere with winter vacations.

Accompanying the harmony was delight over Jimmy Carter's discomfiture. But when considering which Republicans could beat the president in 1980, the smiles faded.

There is no support for a Ford comeback. Even the former president's ardent supporters flinch at word from his advisers that he will run if necessary to stop Reagan's nomination — perhaps entering presidential primaries. The old pro-Ford majority on the national committee is now mainly anti-Reagan.

A diehard faction of Reaganites remains. Louisiana state chairman John Cade typifies this hard core who have no doubts about Reagan's age or electability.

But there are more doubters among the faithful than the Reagan camp realizes. "I love Ronald Reagan," said Massachusetts chairman Gordon Nelson, a 1976 Reagan backer, "but I ask myself: should a 69-year-old man be running for president?" Nelson wants a younger man: Kemp, 43, or preferably Rep. Philip Crane of Illinois, 47.

What Nelson blasts out on the record, others whisper in private. "I'll back Reagan, of course, if he runs," one Midwestern committee woman told us, "but I wonder what we're telling the young people of the country if all we have is Reagan, Ford and John Connally — three old men." Her choice: Kemp.

Kemp's undercover admirers are not limited to old-time Reaganites. He is admired by liberal leaders of Michigan's Republican party, who pray that favorite son Jerry Ford will not try again. Apart from his primacy in the tax revolt, Kemp transcends ideological splits. With Mississippi's Republican wounds from the brutal Ford-Reagan struggle still not healed, Rep. Thad Cochran has asked only Kemp — not Ford or Reagan — to come there and help out his Senate campaign.

Reagan operatives Lyn Nofziger and Dave Keene were in Detroit last week but maintained a low profile. They feel the problem will solve itself. Kemp has promised not to run against Reagan, and other prospects attract only scattered interest.

Yet the mood here must concern Reagan. Several conservative committee members gathered over drinks one night to confront the age problem frankly. What about Charles de Gaulle? Winston Churchill? Konrad Adenauer? "But none of them had to run for president in America," replied one committeeman counted on by the Reagan camp. That sounded a sobering note for the party's runaway front-runner.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON

Vitamin B-15 compound, not vitamin; may be unsafe

Dear Dr. Solomon: A friend of mine swears that vitamin B-15 is absolutely terrific for your health. Is it a good idea to take it regularly?—Betty

Dear Betty: "Vitamin B-15" (also known as pangamic acid) seems to be quite the rage these days among people looking for the magic nutrient. However, there is no such vitamin. According to The Medical Letter, the substance called "vitamin B-15" is a mixture of sodium (sometimes calcium), gluconate, glycine, and take a deep breath—diisopropylamine dichloro-acetate. There is no good evidence, the Letter adds, that this compound is of any value for preventing or treating any human disorder—or even that it is safe.

Dear Dr. Solomon: Could you clear up a question about the DES drug we've been hearing so much about because of the cancer danger in young women whose mothers were given the drug when they were pregnant. I'm pretty sure I had DES, to prevent a miscarriage—but as the child was a son, not a daughter, I don't have to worry about that. But now I hear that I may have more of a risk of breast cancer. Is this correct?—Betty F.

Dear Betty: There is a preliminary report on a University of Chicago study indicating that DES taken during pregnancy raised the risk of breast cancer, and to a lesser extent of cervical and ovarian cancer. But government and other experts agreed that this first information didn't show a clear cause-and-effect relation.

Further studies are being conducted to see if there is a definite link. Meanwhile, an expert committee has recommended that women who were given DES during pregnancy have their breasts examined.

I should add that the Chicago figures is quite low. This study—and similar ones—shouldn't cause undue alarm, but rather serve as reminders of the importance of regular checks such as breast examination.

Dear Dr. Solomon: My cousin has the sickle-cell trait. Her doctor says she doesn't have to worry—that she isn't going to get sickle cell anemia. But she's wondering if he's saying this just to encourage her. Can't the sickle-cell trait become sickle cell anemia?—F.K.

Dear F.K.: No, that is simply not possible. A person with the trait has only one sickle cell gene, whereas a person with sickle cell anemia has two of these genes. That's the way they were born.

People with the trait may be affected by high altitudes or excessive exercise, but as a rule they can lead perfectly normal lives. So tell your friend that her doctor is giving her the scientific facts.

Americans blow minds, cash on drugs

By ART HARRIS
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Many young Americans live, work or play beneath a mushrooming cloud of marijuana smoke: Almost one out of five Americans say they've tried it; about one out of every 12 regularly smoke it.

The country's taste for other mood-changing drugs is considerable. Millions alter their moods with amphetamines or related stimulants like Benzedrine or "bennies," once widely used as appetite suppressants in weight-control programs. The "street" names spawned by their subculture, evoking images as colorful as their rainbow hues: "copilots,"

"speed," "crank," and the like.

But nicknames don't begin to describe the dangers of use, medical experts warn.

Still, millions choose to ignore the warnings, and relieve their anxieties with minor tranquilizers like Librium and Valium, or sedate their troubles with more powerful sedative: phenobarbital or "purple hearts," Quaaludes or "ludes," and a host of other so-called "downers" with nicknames like "reds," "yellow jackets," "blues" and "rainbows."

Six million regularly slip into a dreamlike state of confusion and disorientation through the deadly PCP or "angel dust," according to government figures.

And a small, growing number of upper-middle-class young professionals often gather at chic parties to "snort" thin lines of white powder up their nostrils: cocaine.

Sociologists, psychologists and other experts say such trends are troublesome and worry about the millions who spend their days flying high. The country's 93 million drinkers and 65 million tobacco smokers are using drugs, too, even though their use is within the law.

To the extent that use of drugs overlaps, authorities aren't sure how many people are involved. What they are certain about, though, is that millions more are taking pills from their medicine cabinet on doctors' orders and gobbling

Trump bid end play can insure contract

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

We continue a week-long discussion of end plays with a trump contract. When you eventually throw an opponent into the lead, he cannot return certain suits for fear of letting dummy ruff while you discard a loser from your own hand.

ago, South is in danger of losing three clubs.

If South begins the clubs from either hand, second hand will play low. This lets fourth hand capture an honor (either South's jack or dummy's queen); and the other defender will later get two more club tricks.

CAN MAKE CONTRACT

South can make the contract by forcing the defenders to begin the clubs.

South wins the first trick, draws one round of trumps with the ace, plays two rounds of spades and then two more rounds of diamonds. Finally, he leads a second trump, allowing an opponent to win.

If a club comes back, declarer has accomplished his object. If a spade or a diamond comes back, dummy ruffs while South discards a club. That is why declarer must strip out spades and diamonds from his own hand and from the dummy before giving up the trump trick.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes. You hold: S 10 9 7 5 3 H K 6 D J 4 3 C A 9 8. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one spade. Your hand is strong enough for a response, but you don't have enough hearts to raise partner's bid suit. Show your own suit, such as it is.

Government corruption, utility fraud, schools, courts lead APME

NEW YORK (AP) — Reports on government corruption, fraud in utility costs and the quality of schools and courts are among the newspaper projects cited today as finalists in the annual public service competition of the Associated Press Managing Editors Association.

Two newspapers will be named winners — one for those with more than 50,000 circulation and one for smaller papers — at the APME convention in Portland, Ore., Sept. 26-29.

The judges reviewed 120 entries. "The dedication of time, talent and money to discovering not only problems in our communities but also to proposing solutions and getting results was apparent in an impressive number of the entries," said John E. Leard, executive editor of the Richmond (Va.) Times-Dispatch and News Leader and chairman of the judging committee.

Other judges, all past presidents of APME, were Don Carter, vice president of Knight-Ridder Newspapers, Miami; Wendell Phillippi, managing editor, Indianapolis News; Larry Jinks, editor, San Jose (Calif.) Mercury and News; and Richard Smyser, editor, Oak Ridge, Tenn., Oak Ridger.

Finalists, listed alphabetically, are:

Over 50,000 circulation: The Birmingham (Ala.) News for discovering unreported loans to the state treasurer, which led to her conviction on conflict-of-interest and ethics charges.

The Camden (N.J.) Courier-Post for examining the courts in 110 communities and evaluating their operations and judges.

The Chicago Sun-Times for its disclosure, through operating a neighborhood tavern, of shakedowns of small businesses.

The Clarion-Ledger, Jackson, Miss., for exposing injustice to the poor, especially blacks, by police and the lower courts in Jackson.

The Los Angeles Times for articles disclosing that doctors were a prime source of drugs for young people in California.

The Miami Herald for a series, "What's wrong in our schools?" examining the system and proposing improvements.

The Orlando (Fla.) Sentinel-Star for its investigation of a land fraud scheme aimed primarily at foreign investors.

The Philadelphia Inquirer for a lengthy investigation of police brutality and illegal questioning of witnesses.

The St. Petersburg (Fla.) Times for disclosing how oil prices to Florida utilities were jacked up during the Arab oil embargo.

The Wichita (Kan.) Eagle and Beacon for investigating a proposal for a coal gasification plant and discovering irregularities in operation of the city's gas utility.

Under 50,000 circulation: The Columbia (Mo.) Daily Tribune for a series on increasing crime in rural areas.

The Duluth (Minn.) Herald and News-Tribune for discovering questionable assessment practices in the city, including some that penalized homeowners.

The Fayetteville (N.C.) Observer for examining patient abuses and inadequate death investigations at a state facility for the mentally retarded.

The Fayetteville (N.C.) Times for reports on the use of drugs by college athletes.

The Huntington (W.Va.) Advertiser for discovering six fake candidates in a primary election.

The Daily Hampshire Gazette, Northampton, Mass., for its examination of the city's school system.

The Pottsville (Pa.) Republican for its investigation of maneuvering connected with former Teamsters Union president Jimmy Hoffa that bankrupted a large coal company and raised the price of anthracite coal.

Odessa couple held for drugs

ODESSA — An Odessa man and his wife were being held in the Ector County Jail on $100,000 bond apiece today after being charged Monday with possession of heroin.

Felix Garcia, 33, and Paula Garcia, 27, were arrested early Monday after police said they found 10 ounces of a substance believed to be heroin.

The street value of the heroin was estimated at $50,000, according to narcotics agents.

The pair was arrested in the 2500 block of West U.S. Highway 80 while driving a 1977 pickup, according to Ector County Sheriff Department officials.

Agents of the Department of Public Safety Narcotics Service, the Ector County Sheriff's Department, Odessa Police Department, Midland Police Department and Midland County Sheriff's Department were involved in the investigation.

Affluent turning 'nomads' from inner-city

By ANN BLACKMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ernest Moore, slightly built and creased with age, fears he might have to join a new army of displaced Americans, "urban nomads," being forced from inner-city homes by affluent people returning from the suburbs.

"I don't know what will happen to us," Moore said.

People like Ernest Moore have been vanishing from the inner city, according to a report Monday by the National Urban Coalition. They are being squeezed out of city space by developers who see a longing among well-to-do suburbanites for the city life they left behind.

"If you are an elderly, poor, working-class renter or homeowner who lives in an area undergoing rehabilitation or in a suddenly fashionable neighborhood, you are a prime candidate for displacement," said M. Carl Holman, president of the coalition.

Based on a two-year study in 65 neighborhoods in 44 cities, the research and educational group, supported by business, civic and civil rights leaders, recommended low-cost housing rehabilitation loans, tax breaks and grants to help families in affected neighborhoods fix up their own homes.

"Neither government nor the private sector is coping promptly and effectively with the needs, the frustration and anger of this group of urban nomads," Holman said.

Patricia Harris, secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, joined Holman at a news conference to announce that her department will give northwest Washington. Lyons had it renovated. Just back from a weekend at the beach, he parked his silver Mercedes Benz in front of Ernest Moore's driveway, near the rusted folding chair where Moore sat on the sidewalk watching carpenters and painters changing the face of his old neighborhood.

The street, said Lyons, was a hangout for drunks and drug pushers when he and his partner bought four rundown rooming houses. The houses, he said, are being renovated for sale as single-family residences and will cost between $250,000 and $300,000 each.

Moore, 72, has $370 a month to live on. Lyons, 35, said the dilemma comes down to this: "You have to deal with one issue — constitutional rights. If I own this building and you rent an apartment, are you there because I let you or because you have

Inflation rate: bug-a-boo to most, but a downright boon for others

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most Americans think they lose from inflation, and most probably do. But there are a lot of people who manage to break even, and others who are outright winners.

Nearly breaking even are the 35 million persons who receive Social Security payments, federal employees and workers whose union-negotiated wage increases keep pace with prices.

Winners include most physicians, corporate executives and workers whose wages and other benefits have exceeded the rise in the cost of living.

Barry Bosworth and the Council on Wage and Price Stability, which he directs, have been outspoken in their criticism of those who are ahead of the inflation game, saying they are gaining at the expense of the rest of the population.

Among labor unions, Bosworth has singled out the 2.2 million member Teamsters, the United Auto Workers and the United Steelworkers as being among those whose gains have put them in a privileged position relative to other workers.

Wage and benefit increases for major unions have been averaging between 9.5 percent and 10 percent a year, Bosworth says, while overall average worker earnings have been rising by about 7 percent, close to the recent rates of inflation.

However, since the 7 percent average includes those whose wages increased by substantially higher figures, it means a lot of workers are receiving much smaller gains.

"These major unions have to be brought back into line with the rest of the economy," says Bosworth. "If these contracts again come in in the range of 30 percent and over (for three years), you might as well forget talking about decelerating inflation at any time in the near future."

Having said that, however, he adds that the average worker has done "terribly."

The government reported last week that workers' real spendable earnings, or earnings discounted for inflation and taxes, declined 0.4 percent in June and were down 2.3 percent from a year earlier.

Corporate profits kept up with inflation last year, rising an average of 11 percent for the biggest 1,200 companies, according to Business Week magazine, compared with an inflation rate for the year of 6.8 percent.

Pay of corporate executives also has tended to far outpace inflation. The magazine reported that during 1976, for example, direct pay of executives — salary plus bonuses — increased 27.2 percent. Corporate profits were up 26 percent that year, but inflation was just 4.8 percent, making it a good year for executives.

"Sometimes they get bonuses even when there has been no increase in profits; I've never understood it," said one administration official, who did not want to be named. He said that while corporate profits and executive salaries have generally been ahead of inflation, dividend payments have not.

Bosworth recently told the House Budget Committee that big business and big unions escape the injurious effects of inflation because of their power in the marketplace.

"It's not hurting them," he said. "If the cost of living goes up, then wages go up. The companies pass it through (into prices) without any particular difficulty."

"The people who suffer from inflation are the minority groups, people in retail trade and people on the fringes (of the economy), they get hurt by unemployment and inflation," he said.

A number of corporate executives confirmed to a reporter in background interviews in 1974, when inflation was 12.2 percent, that it wasn't a serious problem for them because they could pass along their higher costs into prices.

Besides corporations and large labor unions, physicians have been a clear winner over inflation in recent years, the wage and price stability council said in a recent study. It said physicians fees were up 9.3 percent last year and have risen 80 percent faster than other prices in the economy since 1950.

"The median income of self-employed physicians — $63,000 in 1976 — is higher and has risen faster than that of any other major occupational or professional group for which historical income data are available," the study said.

Farmers also have done quite well as a group in the past year, as their income rose 20 percent over the 12 month period ending in June, according to the Agriculture Department. However, farm income is volatile and has fallen sharply in some years.

Finance chairman elected

HOUSTON — E. Michael Lallinger, president of Gibraltar Savings Association, has been elected chairman of the Finance Commission of Texas. He will serve a one-year term, ending June 30, 1979.

The nine-member commission serves in an advisory capacity to three state agencies: Department of Banking, Department of Savings and Loan and the Consumer Credit Commission. It sets policies and approves the budgets of the three agencies.

Members of the Finance Commission are appointed by the governor, with the approval of the Texas Senate, for staggered six-year terms. Lallinger was appointed to the commission in 1977 by Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

Lallinger also is a director of Gibraltar, Imperial Corporation of America (the San Diego-based holding company which owns Gibraltar and other savings and loan institutions in California, Colorado and Kansas).

Peak of hurricane season brings Sun Belt warnings

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID

WASHINGTON (AP) — The peak of the hurricane season is nearing and with it, government experts warn, comes an alarming potential for disaster in the growing Sun Belt areas where many new residents have never seen the devastation of a big blow.

"We are faced with the awesome possibility of making a perfect hurricane forecast, yet experiencing a tragedy exceeding that of the historic Galveston (Texas) hurricane in 1900 when 6,000 people died," warned Dr. Neil Frank, head of the National Hurricane Center.

Although no hurricanes have developed in the Atlantic this year, August, September and October are the peak months for the monster storms.

The first tropical storm of the year, Amelia, blew in Monday from the Gulf of Mexico over sparsely settled south Texas ranchland. Tropical storms become hurricanes once their winds reach 74 miles per hour.

In addition to Amelia, which did not develop hurricane-speed winds, a disturbance is brewing east of the Lesser Antilles. It shows signs of becoming a depression and if it passes from that to a tropical storm, it too will get a name — Bess.

Between 1886 and 1964, the time for which the most complete studies have been done, there were 636 hurricanes in the North Atlantic — including the Caribbean and Gulf of Mexico. Of these, 142 were in August, 216 in September and 146 in October, according to Ed Weigel of the National Weather Service.

And weather service hurricane expert Bob Pifer said of the potential for a hurricane now: "I would look for something in a week or so."

Some Pacific hurricanes developed this year but with little damage, Pifer noted. He said a cool California current helps protect the West Coast from the storms but the warm Gulf Stream does just the opposite for the East.

While noting improvements in the ability to forecast hurricanes, Frank's concern lies with the explosive population growth in threatened areas in Florida and along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts — which attract people with sunshine, surf and sand.

"There are coastal locations where the population concentration is so large, evacuation is impossible on the existing roads with the lead time we can provide with our warnings," Frank said.

He added that about 80 percent of the 37 million residents of the Atlantic and Gulf coasts have never experienced what the weather service classifies as a major hurricane.

"This has led to an 'it can't happen here' attitude which is building into the prelude of a terrible tragedy," Frank said.

He urged local officials to develop hurricane emergency plans, contacting the weather service for help. He also said individuals can help themselves by finding a safe shelter in advance, planning evacuation routes and listening for weather service warnings.

Eloise was the last big hurricane, slamming into the Florida Panhandle in September 1975 with 125 mph winds and leaving 10 dead. But like others hitting Florida in recent years, Eloise was an isolated storm and not one of a series that can wreak devastation.

On the East Coast, Belle struck as a tropical storm in 1976. Before that, the last serious hurricane in the area — by weather service standards for potential disaster — was Donna in 1960, Weigel said.

Hurricanes are rated by a score of one to five according to windspeed, air pressure and storm surge developed. Those rating three or more are considered major.

Storms can bring disaster without being hurricanes. Agnes had been downgraded to a tropical storm in 1972 when it did most of its damage. It left 134 people dead in Florida and along the East Coast.

Hurricanes are not new to America and, in fact, have played a major role in its history.

It was such a storm that brought Alexander Hamilton to the then-colonies, for example. His description of the hurricane in a letter so impressed planters in his native West Indies that they took up a collection to send him to school in the colonies.

Galveston's 1900 blow, which struck in August and was followed by floods, had a precursor in 1837. One witness said the 1837 storm in the then-Republic of Texas swept away "every house, camp, sod house, and inhabited structure ... except the old Mexican customhouse."

But even a hurricane may do some good — one helped keep the United States out of war.

In 1888, U.S. and German naval vessels were about to come to blows over possession of Western Samoa. Instead a savage hurricane swept down and sailors from both navies fought to help one another.

More than 150 people died, but there was no war. Grievances were forgotten in the disaster and the problem was settled by negotiation.

Tropical storm lasts only several hours

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Tropical Storm Amelia, born in turmoil over the Gulf of Mexico Sunday, melted into a peaceful rainstorm scant hours later, leaving behind only a few fallen branches, swollen puddles and the debris from sunken fishing boats.

The storm opened the Atlantic Hurricane season when it evolved from a tropical depression less than 100 miles from the Texas coast, reached tropical storm status several hours later and fizzled out in less than a day in sparse coastal rangeland.

At least five shrimp boats were sunk by the storm's 50-mile-an-hour winds and six persons spent tense hours riding out the storm clutching debris from crippled vessels.

Three men whose fishing boat sank during the storm Sunday were found alive and well Monday afternoon after riding out high winds and heavy squalls on a life raft.

Earlier in the day three other persons were found inside a beached, overturned pleasure boat five miles from the tip of South Padre Island.

The Coast Guard had proclaimed the occupants of the boat missing when they found the craft. But later when rescuers waded out to the boat they heard the trio's cries for help and hacked the hull open to rescue them.

All six suffered from exposure but were otherwise unhurt.

A total of eight persons had been reported missing. In addition to the six rescued Monday, two men who had been participating in a sailing regatta from Port Mansfield to Port Isabel were unaccounted for since high winds forced participants to abandon the event Sunday. They were located Monday, unhurt and unaware they had been considered missing.

Coast Guard boats and helicopters plucked survivors from three other shrimp boats and pulled 19 persons from an oil drilling rig in the Gulf. All were reported safe.

Amelia's rapid ascent and demise caught many unaware, touching off a controversy about the reliability of weather forecasts.

Small craft and flash flood warnings lingered Monday as the storm dumped occasionally heavy amounts of rain. Gale warnings were hauled down before noon Monday.

Amelia caused no real tragedy, even providing a few light moments.

While the storm lashed the surfline, Coast Guard boats called out for rescue missions had at least one unusual problem in departing their moorings and heading out a channel into the Gulf of Mexico.

"You ain't gonna believe this," said CWO Don Jones of the Coast Guard at South Padre Island. "But them surfers were surfing right down the middle of the channel on 15-to-20-foot rollers (waves). They got in the way."

The cutters' exits were also hampered by Mexican fishing boats. Jones said some of those boats anchored in the channel rather than at mooring spots.

Nearly 1,000 evacuated when gas fumes fill sewers

MILAN, Mich. (AP) — Nearly 1,000 Milan residents were evacuated to a local school or other temporary shelters after being routed from their homes as gasoline fumes filled the city's storm sewer lines.

Police estimated at least 1,000 gallons of potentially explosive gasoline escaped into the city's storm drains Monday when a delivery man accidentally pumped the fuel down the wrong hole.

At least two explosions and fires had been reported by early today as gas fumes seeped up through the storm sewers and into area basements. Two firefighters reportedly suffered minor burns injuring one of the blazes. No other injuries were reported, although some persons in the vicinity of the spill reported headaches from the fumes.

Officials at first hoped the spill would affect only a few hundred of the 4,000 residents of Milan, located about 20 miles south of Ann Arbor in southeastern Michigan.

But by midnight, it was apparent the fuel was spreading, and police expanded their evacuation order to cover the city's entire east side.

Police Chief Warren Hale, who is also the city's Civil Defense coordinator, estimated as many as 1,000 persons were herded from their homes to the Milan Middle School, out of the danger zone.

Hale said he hoped to be able to allow residents to return to their homes this morning, if only to let gas company officials in to check the hoses for fumes.

Hale met after midnight with top officials from state and local police and area fire departments to plot the clean-up strategy for the spill. He emerged from the meeting to say it could be late today before the success of the clean-up effort could be gauged.

Lebanon seeking U.S., U.N. intervention to aid advance

By FAROUK NASSAR

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Lebanon sought U.S. and U.N. intervention today to let regrouped units of the Lebanese army move into southern Lebanese regions bordering Israel, informed sources reported.

France and Norway also were asked to bring pressure on the Jewish state to withhold support of Lebanese Christian militias now blocking the army advance to the south, the sources added.

They said U.S. Ambassador Richard Parker was asked to urgently communicate the request for U.S. intervention on grounds the United States sponsored the U.N. resolution that called for Israel's withdrawal from southern Lebanon and created the U.N. force there.

France and Norway were selected for diplomatic pressure because their forces make up the bulk of the U.N. force, the informants reported.

They said the campaign was mounted by President Elias Sarkis' government soon after Israeli-backed militiamen opened fire on Lebanese regulars to prevent them from reaching their southern destinations Monday.

The army command in Beirut accused Israeli border gunners of also shelling the 650-man contingent.

But the sources said the Christian President and Moslem Premier Salim el Hoss resolved to go ahead with plans to deploy the army in the south despite objections from Israel and local Christians.

A government spokesman also dismissed as "nonsense and ridiculous" claims in Israel that the southbound force was Syrian-influenced or even made up of Syrians in Lebanese army uniforms.

"These are silly claims," the spokesman said. "The newly regrouped forces are totally Lebanese from all religious sects and they are determined to come out from their first real test in the south with flying colors whatever the costs will be."

The force was pinned at the southern village of Kaoukaba, 25 miles from the town of Tibnine that has been chosen as command headquarters for the Lebanese regular troops in the south.

Israel turned over a six-mile deep strip of southern Lebanon along its 59-mile long northern frontier to Christian militias led by renegade Lebanese officers Maj. Saad Haddad and Maj. Sami Chidiac.

Both commanded a long private war against Yasser Arafat's guerrillas before Israel invaded southern Lebanon in March to push guerrillas off its northern flank.

The U.N. Security Council dispatched 5,200 peacekeepers to supervise Israel's withdrawal and help the Sarkis regime re-establish state authority over southern Lebanon.

DEAR ABBY

Widow deemed 'unfit' to stay in senior citizen community home

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Would you believe that a "special committee" of the senior citizen community, where I used to reside happily, decides whether you are fit to live among these beautiful, elite people?

My husband and I were among the fittest UNTIL I became a widow. Although I am still quiet, refined, clean and pay my bills on time, because I am a widow I am considered a threat to the married women who live there.

I am 69, overweight and gray, and I do not flirt now, and never did. But that special committee decided I was no longer fit to live there, and they gave me my walking papers. I have suffered financially and emotionally from this putdown and put out.

Just living is frightening enough, without being old and at the mercy of heartless landlords or committees who can throw you out of your home simply because your husband has died.

As much as I like the security of a fenced-in, well-protected home, I'd never again chance enduring the emotional depression I suffered at the hands of the committee, rejected by my fellow man, and especially women! Sign me... OLD IN OCEANSIDE

DEAR OLD: On the face of it, it appears grossly unfair. However, you should carefully read the agreement you signed when you and your husband became residents of that community. If, it clearly states that couples ONLY may reside there, and should one of you die, the remaining person cannot continue to live there, you have no legal recourse. Otherwise, you would do well to consult a lawyer.

DEAR ABBY: In writing a firm or an agency What should the salutation be? It's no longer safe to use "Dear Sir"

For the boss is likely to be a "her."—LONGFELLOW

DEAR LONGFELLOW: Should the recipient be an Eve or an Adam

You can't go wrong with "Dear Sir or Madame."

DEAR ABBY: Our son is a college senior at the state university. He makes no secret of the fact that he and his girlfriend—(both 21) are shacking up near campus.

We disapprove of this arrangement, and he knows it, but since he is 21, we have nothing to say about his lifestyle. Now for the problem: He asked if he could invite his girl home for a few weeks this summer. We know they sleep together at school; but should we let them sleep together in our home?

My sister says, "Don't be a hypocrite. Even if you put them up in separate bedrooms, you know they'll manage to get together some time during the night anyway."

Maybe she's right, but I still don't feel that we should put them up together like a married couple in our guest room.

What should I do?—OLD-FASHIONED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: In your home, YOU make the rules, so simply tell your son that there will be no shacking up under your roof. And if he doesn't like it, he can either abide by the house rules or stay in a motel.

Miss Robinson also was honored with a miscellaneous shower in the Garden Room of Midland Country

Special guests were the honoree's mother, Mrs. Richard L. Robinson; Mrs. Bob Rogers of Lubbock, mother of the bridegroom-to-be; Mrs. Fred Dulaney, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Reese Munden, the bride-elect's great aunt, both from Carthage.

Miss Robinson and Rogers are to be married Saturday in the sanctuary of the First Baptist Church.

BLUEBERRY CAKE

Cooks tell us they make this annually and so it bears repeating.

- 2 cups all-purpose flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 large egg
- 1/2 cup milk
- 2 cups fresh blueberries

Streusel, see below

Stir together the flour, baking powder and salt. Cream the butter and sugar; beat in the egg. Add the flour mixture and the milk; stir only until the flour mixture is moistened. Fold in the blueberries. Turn into a greased and floured 9-inch springform pan. Sprinkle with the Streusel. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out without any batter clinging to it—45 to 50 minutes. If streusel gets very brown before cake has baked, place a sheet of foil over the top. Cool on a wire rack for about 5 minutes; loosen edges and remove springform band. Serve warm.

Streusel: Stir together 1/2 cup firmly packed light brown sugar, 3 tablespoons flour and 3 teaspoons cinnamon; cut in 3 tablespoons butter until fine; stir in 1/2 cup finely chopped nuts.

Woman pays fee for pet sow

WYOMING, Mich. (AP)—Lynne Ryman paid a $27 boarding fee at a local animal shelter and reclaimed her pet—a 150-pound sow.

The young sow named Abbie had been found rooting around a lot which was about a block from her outdoor pen and taken to the shelter.

Normally it might be difficult to establish ownership of an all-black pig, but Miss Ryman had proof. She brought a certificate that bore the same number as a metal tag clipped to Abbie's ear by an agricultural official who sanctioned her interstate travel after she bought the sow at an Indiana flea market several months ago.

Abbie soon will be moving from Wyoming, which has an ordinance banning livestock in urban areas, to a Byron Township farm where Miss Ryman hopes Abbie will find romance and motherhood.

Keatley's firepower keeps Cubs in first place

BY TED BATTLES

It's a catchall phrase that has been used so often that it's trite and corny, but if you can think of a better word, we'll use it.

Teamwork is the term Manager Jim Saul uses to describe the Midland Cubs' six-game winning streak that has enabled the Bruins to sprint out in front in the Texas League West Division.

Now that the Cubs are rolling, it seems like everybody wants to get into the act. Monday it was catcher Greg Keatley supplying the mule-kick offensive wallop, a bases loaded triple down the right field line in the five-run fourth as Midland made it three straight over Shreveport, 8-4, before 1,130 fans at Cubs Stadium Monday night.

First baseman Jim Tracy also connected for his third homer and Joe Hernandez stretched his consecutive game hitting streak to nine, but after 21 runs-batted-in in eight games, finally went without one.

LEFTHANDER GEORGE Riley, feeding the Captains a steady diet of fastballs and splitter fastballs, went the distance for the first time since 1976 when he had one complete game at Midland and six at Pompano Beach. After it was over, he mopped a brow, "I didn't know these things lasted nine innings."

Greg Keatley...3-run triple

It was Riley's third victory without defeat since reporting from Wichita and his second over the Captains. Although Shreveport got four runs and nine hits, Riley was satisfied with his effort. Through the first six innings he had allowed just four hits and then had to pitch out of a bases loaded jam, partly of his own doing, in the eighth.

"It wasn't so much that I was getting tired in the late innings," the Philadelphian said, "It's just that they were getting used to seeing the splitter and were chopping down on it. They hit what I thought were some pretty good pitches for hits."

Riley said he was especially pleased with his control of the splitter. "I was getting it over for strikes on 3-2 counts and got a couple of strikeouts with it." George had seven whiffs for the night and that walk, the first by a Midland pitcher in 21 innings. "I think it just fooled the umpire. I thought it was a good pitch."

THINGS DIDN'T start out all that rosy for Riley. Ossi Olivares opened the game with a single and a pickoff throw to first later he was on third. "It was just a soft throw just to get the runner back, but it got away," Riley said.

A fly to right by Pete Ithier got the run home.

Midland tied it in the second, helped by a couple of errors that set up Bill Evers' bouncing single over John Dean's head at third to score the run.

The Captains, with ace Rafael Vasquez, now 11-7, going, looked tough with two more runs in the fourth for a 3-1 lead, an infield single by Dick fence as everybody scored. Keatley eventually scored on Kevin Drury's single and Drury came home on singles by Hernandez and Eric Grandy, who made the night's top fielding play earlier.

Tracy's third home run of the season, a powerful poke to left to open the fifth chased Vasquez. Lefty Randy Brandt came in to two-hit Midland the rest of the way and the only run came when Drury singled in the eighth and scored from first as catcher Tony Pena's pickoff throw wound up in right field.

RILEY RAN into trouble in the eighth when Juan Deliza and Pete Ithier singled and Walterhouse beat out a hit when George was slow getting to first on a grounder to Evers, loading the bases with one out. On Walterhouse's hit, Riley explained, "I looked at the man at second and it cost me."

Still, he escaped unscathed, getting Littleton on a force at the plate and Dean on a force grounder to second.

Pena then hit a one out homer in the ninth for the final Shreveport run.

CUB CUBS—Jim Smith, a 19-year-old rookie from Waco, will go for the Captains in tonight's fourth game of the series at 7:30 p.m. against the Cubs' Herman Segelke, 5-5. Grandy made the defensive save of the night in the fourth on Dean's sacrifice fly, retreating to the fence and then stretching his 6-4 frame to the top with a leap to one hand the ball. "I don't think it would have gone over," Eric said, "but it would have hit the top." Marc Rhea, who played in the Texas League for four seasons, joined the Captains Monday after returning from Italy, where he had been playing ball and conducting clinics.

Another day, one more hit by Rose

By The Associated Press

Pete Rose has a chance to break the all-time National League record for consecutive game hitting streaks tonight against what he calls another "freakball pitcher."

The Cincinnati Reds third baseman hit in his 44th consecutive game Monday night, getting a sixth-inning single off Atlanta Braves right-hander Phil Niekro, a knuckleball specialist. That tied him with Wee Willie Keeler, who hit in the first 44 games of the 1897 season with the Baltimore Orioles, then an NL club.

Tonight, the Braves send left-hander Larry McWilliams to the mound, a rookie whose stock in trade is a forkball. "Freakball pitchers have a tendency to get you lunging," Rose said.

McWilliams has been very successful for the Braves lately. He's started three games, winning two by shutout over the New York Mets and getting no decision in the other.

Niekro, 12-11, came as close to ending Rose's hitting streak as any has, holding him to 1-for-4. Niekro walked Rose his first time up and got him to line to shortstop before he pulled a rare Niekro fastball past second baseman Rod Gilbreath in the sixth on a 2-0 count. Rose got up twice more, both times grounding to first.

"I was looking fastball because he had me 2-0 in a 1-1 game and I knew he didn't want to walk me," Rose said. "He has got the best knuckleball in the National League, but he doesn't like to throw fastballs."

Gilbreath made a diving stab at the ball, but it went by him cleanly into right field.

"It was a clean single and I gave it my best shot," said Gilbreath. "If I had caught the ball, I'd have been standing on my head and couldn't have made a throw."

The Reds wound up winning 3-2 on ninth-inning RBI singles by Cesar Geronimo and pinch-hitter Joe Morgan, making a winner of Mike LaCoss, 2-1. Johnny Bench homered in the second. Atlanta got its runs in the fifth on Biff Pocoroba's sacrifice fly and in the ninth on Jeff Burroughs' bases-loaded grounder.

The only streak left in Rose's sites — besides the imaginary string of 48 games by Sidney Stonestreet whom Rose fabricated earlier this week — is the major league mark of 56 by Joe DiMaggio in 1941.

"That string is 12 games away and, barring a rainout, could be tied on Aug. 13 in San Diego and broken Aug. 14 in Pittsburgh. Before then, the Reds must finish their three-game set in Atlanta, play three games at home against both San Diego and Atlanta, then open a four-game series in San Diego.

Astros 4, Giants 1

Joe Niekro, 8-8, yielded only singles to Darrell Evans in the fourth and Roger Metzger in the eighth in pitching the Astros to their seventh straight victory and 10th consecutive triumph at home.

"I really had the good knuckleball tonight," Niekro said, "and I was getting ahead of the hitters."

Rookie Dave Bergman drove in two runs with a single in the fifth inning off Giants starter Ed Hallicki, 5-5. Bob Watson and Julio Gonzalez singled, then executed a double steal before Bergman's hit. The Astros added runs in the sixth on a single by Jose Cruz and in the eighth on Gonzalez's RBI single.

Metzger's single led to the Dodgers' only run. He scored on a walk and two fly balls, with Bill Madlock getting the RBI.

Padres 4, Dodgers 3

Eric Rasmussen, 10-7, allowed six hits in 7 2/3 innings for his eighth consecutive victory, and Rollie Fingers picked up his 24th save to give the Padres their seventh straight win, a club record.

Ozzie Smith went 4-for-4 and scored what turned out to be the winning run in the fifth inning after San Diego had erupted for three runs in the fourth off Dodgers right-hander Rick Rhoden, 8-6.

Dave Lopes homered for the Dodgers to lead off the game.

Phils 6, Mets 1

Bob Boone drove in two runs, one with a fifth-inning homer, and Greg Luzinski keyed a four-run outburst in the sixth with a bases-loaded double as Philadelphia snapped a three-game losing streak.

Dick Ruthven, 8-8, made his first start in nine days after he struggled with a sore back and held the Mets to five hits.

After Luzinski's two-run double, Boone singled home a run and Jerry Martin's sacrifice fly brought home the other.

Expos 3, Pirates 2

Montreal rallied for two runs in the bottom of the ninth on RBI hits by Chris Speier and pinch-hitter Ed Herrmann to make a winner of reliever Mike Garman, 2-4.

Larry Parrish and Warren Cromartie led off the ninth with singles off Bert Blyleven, 9-6. The runners advanced on a sacrifice bunt by Gary Carter, and Blyleven then walked Tommy Hutton intentionally to load the bases. Speier's single scored Parrish with the tying run, and Herrmann singled home Cromartie with the winner.

Manny Sanguillen hit a solo homer in Pittsburgh's two-run fourth.

Texas Ranger pitcher Paul Lindblad is not working on a new pitch, he's flipping the bat back to the New York Yankees' Lou Piniella in the eighth inning of Monday's game at Yankee Stadium. Dorsett bruises knee; questionable for 49ers THOUSAND OAKS, California (AP) — Tony Dorsett, the National Football League's Offensive Rookie of the Year last season, has been listed as questionable by the Dallas Cowboy coaching staff for Saturday night's opening exhibition game.

Dorsett suffered a bruised right knee Monday that team officials say may force the former Heisman Trophy winner to sit out the contest against the San Francisco 49ers at Texas Stadium.

In addition to Dorsett's injury, Cowboy officials say second-year fullback Larry Brinson is in a doubtful status for the 49er game because of a deep strain of his groin suffered during a Monday morning practice. Meanwhile, the Cowboys said 10 rookie free agents and one draft choice — No. 5 pick Rich Rosen of Syracuse — were waived. The action reduced the squad to 75 players, including 25 rookies.

Some Cowboy veterans returned to workouts Monday. Billy Joe Dupree, Tom Rafferty and Jim Eidson got back into action.

Dupree, who has a cracked left thumb as well as stitches in his right hand, may play in the 49er game. Rafferty, the starting right guard, and Eidson, an offensive tackle, are expected to be ready for the San Francisco contest.

"Maybe that's what we needed," said Boston's Carlton Fisk, "a little rain."

The Red Sox, suffering from pernicious anemia of the bat, played the Chicago White Sox in sporadic drizzle at Fenway Park Monday night. They had scored just five runs in their last six games, had won just one of their last six and watched as their once-buc American League East lead dwindled.

But as raindrops kept falling on their heads, Jim Rice and George Scott broke out of slumps and Boston bombed the White Sox 9-2.

"We were playing lousy," said Fisk. "Tonight we snapped out of it." Scott had been 0-for-25 and Rice 1-for-21 before they collected two hits each off Chicago pitching.

"We weren't playing good and we knew it," added Jerry Remy. "I'd be lying if I said there was no concern about it."

"I don't care how we win," said shortstop Rick Burleson, "just so we win."

The Baltimore Orioles, though, weren't overly pleased with the way they were tied. The Birds and Milwaukee Brewers had played 8 1/2 innings when rains nearly drowned the 10,514 fans at Memorial Stadium.

The Brewers tied the game 5-5 on Cecil Cooper's single in the top of the ninth. Then came the downpour ... and the wait.

When it rains, it bores. The umpires waited two hours, 20 minutes for the storm to stop. So, 31 minutes on the other side of midnight, play resumed; the Orioles couldn't score, and the game was suspended by local curfew laws.

Had the umpires called the game before the Birds batted, the top of the ninth would have been washed out and the Orioles would have won. Now they must wait until 6:30 p.m. Wednesday to finish the contest before the regularly scheduled game between the teams.

"I feel terrible," said Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver. "I knew what was going to happen."

In other American League games, Toronto trimmed Detroit 8-7 in 14 innings, Cleveland edged Kansas City 4-3, New York topped Texas 6-1 and Oakland blanked California 2-0.

"The game was very important to both teams. I took that into consideration when I was waiting," said Don Denkinger, chief of the umpiring crew, noting both clubs were struggling to cut further into Boston's lead.

"I've seen fields a lot worse than that played on," said Denkinger. But curfew laws wait for no one — and the one in Baltimore prohibits the start of a full inning after 11:59 p.m.

Rain stops Birds, Brewers; not Bosox

The top of the frame ended a few minutes after 10, thus the teams were able to complete the bottom half of the frame.

It didn't matter. The teams still have to wait until Wednesday to see who wins.

Blue Jays 8, Tigers 7

Otto Velez blasted a home run in the 14th inning to power Toronto past Detroit. Rico Carty had cracked a grand slam, the second of his career, and had scored a fifth-inning run to give the Blue Jays a 6-3 lead, but the Tigers scored three times in the ninth to tie it and went ahead 7-6 in the 10th on a homer by Lance Parrish.

Toronto tied it on a sacrifice fly by Alan Ashby to keep the game alive for Velez's heroics.

Indians 4, Royals 3

Jim Norris slapped a two-run single in the bottom of the ninth inning to help Cleveland hand Kansas City only its third loss in the last 17 games.

"When you close your eyes and swing, you get lucky now and then," joked Norris. "It was a 19-hopper."

Kansas City had taken a 3-2 lead in the top of the inning when Pete LaCock cracked a two-run single off Indians reliever Sid Monge.

"It's a good thing there was no rope in the dugout," said Cleveland Manager Jeff Torborg. "I would have stuck it around my neck or one of the guys out there."

Yankees 6, Rangers 1

Ed Figueroa fired a four-hitter for his fourth consecutive victory, Mickey Rivers hit a leadoff home run and Reggie Jackson continued his hot hitting with an RBI double as the Yankees outplayed the Rangers.

Bucky Dent returned to the lineup from the disabled list and chipped in with a sacrifice fly in support of Figueroa, who has permitted just two runs in his last 32 innings.

A's 2, Angels 0

Matt Keough, Dave Heaverlo and Elias Sosa combined to hold California to seven hits and bring Oakland within five games of the West Division leading Royals.

"We're just trying to make believers out of everyone," said Mitchell Page, who singled in the fourth inning for the game's first hit, stole second and third and scored on a throwing error by Angels third baseman Carney Lansford.

"If we can somehow keep our thing going and get in the playoffs, we'd be superstars overnight like the '69 Mets."

The loser was Frank Tanana, 14-6, who had hoped to join New York's Ron Guidry and San Francisco's Vida Blue as the only 15-game winners in the majors this season.

Chris Knapp pitched two shutout innings after Tanana's shoulder stiffened in the seventh to mark his return after a brief retirement.

Only Yankee Clipper now in Rose's path

ATLANTA (AP) — Pete Rose has reached the last hurdle before his final assault on baseball's all-time record for hitting safely in consecutive games.

The 37-year-old Cincinnati Reds' third baseman tied the all-time National League record of 44 set by Willie Keeler in 1897 when he bounced a single to right field in the sixth inning Monday night off Atlanta Braves' knuckleballer Phil Niekro.

"It's a long way from 44 to 56," Rose said.

Keeler is the last man between Rose and the all-time record of 56 straight games set by Joe DiMaggio of the New York Yankees in 1941. He'll be trying to move ahead of Keeler tonight when he faces rookie Larry McWilliams, who features a forkball.

Rose has never seen the young Atlanta hurler, who will be making only his fourth major league start with a 2-0 record.

"I guess I'll just have to get the most out of my first at bat against him," Rose said, just checking out McWilliams. "He's probably heard of me, too."

"I'm not worried right now," McWilliams said after Rose went 1-for-4 against Niekro. "I don't know how I'll feel tomorrow, I'll just have to wait and see. I imagine I'll have mixed emotions."

Rose said his biggest concern facing those like Niekro and McWilliams who throw unusual pitches is that "freak ball pitchers have a tendency to get you lunging. It's the aftermath of facing him (Niekro) that worries me most."

His assault on what many consider one of baseball's most difficult records to break helped lure Atlanta's largest crowd of the season, 45,007, and they roared for the visiting star throughout the night.

After Rose walked on five pitches in the first inning, there were some boos for Niekro, one of the city's most popular athletes. Then Rose lined out to shortstop Jerry Royster in the third.

Then the streak continued when Rose took two balls, got a rare but expected fastball from Niekro and bounced it just out of second baseman Rod Gilbreath's reach.

"It was a clean single," said Gilbreath, who made a diving try for the ball. "If I had caught the ball, I'd have been standing on my head and couldn't have made a throw."

The hit drew a standing ovation that lasted almost two minutes, and an usherette trotted on the field with a bouquet of 44 roses — one for each game in the streak — and presented them to Rose. Fireworks erupted and Niekro bowed his congratulations.

"I'd have liked to go over and shake his hand, but I don't know if that is ethical in baseball," said Niekro, who called the streak "the best thing that's happened (for baseball) since the protective helmet."

Rose said he was anxious to get the hit early because he feared the weather. Atlanta was under a scattered thunderstorm forecast. "I could just see getting a hit and then having it rained out," Rose said.

"That field's as hard as $100 worth of jawbreakers," he said. "Umpire Doug Harvey told me it was a good field to hit on but I told him, 'There ain't no bad hops in line drives.'"

Rose praised the crowd, which cheered him most of the evening, but boomed a couple of times when Rose caught pop-ups for the final out and bounced the ball off the ground toward the mound.

"I don't know why they booed," he said. "I've been spiking it for 16 years. Julius Erving does it."

Rose said he had intended to test Atlanta's rookie third baseman Bob Horner with a bunt.

"I'm still gonna try him out," Rose said. "I hear he has a great arm, but I come from the old school. He'll have to show me."

Before the start of Monday night's game Rose tapped Horner on the shoulder and said, "Keep your eyes open, kid."

"He told me he had the bunt and I told him I'd give him the bunt," Rose added.

The Reds' captain figured he had gleaned a spot in the news alone, saying, "At least we don't have to fight Billy Martin tomorrow. There were no more test tube babies, were there?"

BOWLING BEAT

Poole's 639 leads Midland bowlers for week

BY RANDY ISENBERG

Sonny Poole bowled consistently well in his Tuesday Night Mixed League last week, leaving no open frames. In three games he rolled 202-203-234—639. This was high among the games reported to the Bowling Beat last week.

The month of July marks the completion of two years of reporting bowling to readers of the Reporter-Telegram. Thanks to all the great support from sports editor Ted Battles and his staff and also the continued support of the bowlers and league secretaries who submit weekly scores for publication.

In the past 12 months Midlanders have rolled some outstanding scores led by L Ray Sutton whose torrid spree in March, April and May resulted in three 700 series, and two games in which this stellar performer racked up 11 strikes for games of 290 and 299.

Ray Sutton along with Richard Moore and Bobby Bumpass were the only bowlers to achieve the 700 level this past season in ABC competition in Midland, among those scores turned in for publication.

Another outstanding accomplishment covered by Bowling Beat was Bob Miller's conversion, of the 7-10 split.

Other highlights included excellent scoring weeks by top women bowlers Nancy Martin and Ellie Shelton. Ellie was also recipient of the coveted Bowling Bertha award presented by the WIBC. And who will ever forget Linda O'Donnell's 277 game and Cindy Smith's 279. At least, not those women and their companions bowling with them.

NOT ALL of the achievements occurred on the lanes. The Texas Bowling Association inducted the late Ernie Crites to the Hall of Fame.

There were many other great accomplishments too numerous to recount in detail. It is our sincere goal to report all of the year's bowling events in this weekly column and with your continued support, we will.

FOR YOUR information...The first 300 game to be recognized with an ABC award in the U.S. went to A.C. Jellison of St. Louis, Mo., who rolled his perfect on Dec. 15, 1908. However, earlier that year, April 4, Homer Sanders, also St. Louis, struck 12 consecutive games for a 300. Jellison and Sanders bowled each other in a three-game rolloff to determine which of the men would receive the ABC award, and Sanders lost.

Evlin Mesger holds the records for most 300s in one season (8) and career (26). Mesger holds records for the most 800s in one season (6) and career (21).

300 in open play in 1890 for the first recorded 300 in the U.S.

Bob Phillips, Houston, rolled the first 300 on automatic pinsetting equipment in league play Oct. 22, 1953 in Houston. Gene Butera rolled the first 300 bowling at all synthetic pins in league play Jan. 10, 1964.

Evlin Mesger holds the records for most 300s in one season (8) and career

Showing that age has no barrier in bowling, Wing Wong, Schenectady, N.Y.; Henry Kuiper, Three Rivers, Mich., and Mile Brooks, Kansas City, Mo., bowled 300 games at the age of 74.

It's like good old days riding buses in bushes

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — Remember former National League pitcher Larry Jackson?

He's back riding buses around the countryside, just like he did in his minor league days some 25 years ago.

But this time he has a new pitch. He's running for governor of Idaho.

Jackson, now 46 and a Boise insurance executive and state legislator, is one of six candidates seeking the Republican gubernatorial nomination in the Aug. 8 primary. The winner will oppose Gov. John V. Evans in November.

Jackson pitched for 14 years in the major leagues, winning 194 games and losing 183 for the St. Louis Cardinals, Chicago Cubs and Philadelphia Phillies. Although he is one of the few Idahoans ever to play major league baseball, Jackson said he's playing his sports background low key.

"SOME PEOPLE tell me, 'Anybody who pitches in the major leagues for 14 years deserves my vote,'" Jackson said. "But others say, 'Just because you can pitch a baseball is no reason to believe that you can be a good governor.'"

Jackson concedes his athletic background hasn't hurt him in politics.

"Certainly it's given me a certain amount of name recognition — and that's the name of the game in politics," he said.

Amarillo nips

Drillers, 2-1

By The Associated Press

Jim Beswick's run-scoring double proved to be the difference Monday night as the Amarillo Gold Sox took a 2-1 Texas League baseball victory over the Tulsa Drillers.

In other Texas League action, San Antonio handed Jackson a smashing, 9-0, Midland beat Shreveport, 8-4, and Arkansas edged El Paso, 2-1.

Beswick's double drove home Barry Evans, who had singled, John Yandle, now 3-6, was the winning pitcher. Kerry Keenan, now 2-8, was the loser.

Kelly Snider accounted for three of the runs with a single and a double to pace the San Antonio Dodgers to a 9-0 shutout over the Jackson Mets. Rick Sander, now 8-7, held the Mets to only three hits. Larry Prewitt, the losing pitcher, is now 7-4.

John Fulgham struck out 12 El Paso Diablos as he pitched the Arkansas Travelers to a 2-1 victory. Fulgham, who has had 23 strikeouts in his last two outings, moved his season record to 6-7. Frank Hunsaker singled home Leon Durham with the winning Arkansas run in the eighth. Durham reached on a walk, stole second and went to third on a ground out.

gave up only four hits. David Zarate led the Magcobar 10-hit attack with three singles in four trips to the plate.

The Lions were to meet Waco, the District III champion, in a 9 a.m. second round contest today. Waco downed District IV champion Tyler 19-0 in their opening game.

Magcobar won the Midland Junior Baseball Association's Hi-Junior League with an 11-5 season record and then won the right to represent District I at the state tournament by breezing through the district tourney unbeaten last week in Odessa.

Kevin Jackson

Kevin Jackson joins Chaps tennis team

Kevin Jackson, winner of district and regional titles last two years while playing for Andrews High, has signed to play tennis at Midland College this fall.

"We think Kevin is an outstanding prospect. He has good size and has played well against some of the best players in the state," said tennis Coach Brian Gilley. He will be a business major and plans to transfer to Texas Tech after two years.

A four-year letterman, Kevin captained the tennis team his senior year, served as student council representative and vice president of the student council. He also won the district championship for persuasive speaking two years.

The 6-0, 140-pound 18-year-old is the third player signed by MC this year.

Texas' Erxleben may see double duty with NFL club

NEW YORK (AP) — Hanging out the College Football Wash:

Russell Erxleben of the University of Texas is the most productive place-kicker-punter in college football history, a certain first-round choice in next spring's National Football League draft.

But don't be surprised if the Seguin, Texas, product does double duty with some NFL club as a kicker and emergency quarterback.

"They kinda looked at me a little bit as a kicker, but I was recruited as a quarterback," the 6-foot-4, 218-pound Erxleben said Monday at the start of the annual NCAA-ABC college football promotion tour. "I was mainly recruited as a passer because I was too clumsy to run the option. That's why I was surprised when Texas recruited me."

"I suffered a shin injury during my freshman year," he continued. "I didn't want to sit on the bench, so I started working out as a punter and placekicker. The injury eventually went away and I beat out the regular kicker."

But in three seasons, during which he's become the No. 1 kicker in Longhorn history, Erxleben has yet to do anything but boot the ball, although he works out at quarterback in practice.

"I've come real close, though," he said. "Against Oklahoma last year we lost our top two quarterbacks. I would have gone in if we'd needed to throw because our third-stringer, Randy McEachern, was more of a runner."

First Darrell Royal and now Fred Akers have kept Erxleben chained to the bench except for kicking situations, which have produced 10 field goals of more than 50 yards — including a record 67-yarder — and punting averages of 46.6 and 45.9 yards the last two years.

"Coach Royal saw me kick the first couple of days and said, 'This guy'll never play a down at Texas.' I told him, 'I'm not this good; I won't do this tomorrow.' I didn't know I had it in me."

"Sometimes I wish I hadn't been so impressive, but it's too late now. I'd like to be out there playing. I played all through high school and I kinda miss it."

"Coach Akers told me we'd have some fake kick plays where I'd be able to throw the ball, but he's never called one. I think if it comes down to the last game of my career and I haven't done it yet, if we have a big enough lead I'll call it myself."

"Everything is changing very quickly in college football," says Southern Cal Coach John Robinson. "Because you were good a few years ago doesn't mean much now. The 30-scholarship limitation is taking away the ability of certain schools to always dominate others."

"There's nothing to suggest that teams that have been good won't continue to be good, but I think programs will fluctuate more rapidly now. I don't think the good teams will ever be down, but more teams will be coming up."

Laney wins motocross

John Laney of Midland won both motocrosses in the 250cc Expert division to win the overall championship in that class Saturday night at the Westside Optimist Motocross Park.

Laney watched another Midlander, Gary Johnson, spring to an early lead in the first motocross, but used a fast finish to catch him for first place. Johnson again broke to the early lead in the second moto, but Laney repeated the process and once again finished atop the pack.

Midland's Dewayne Bennett won the hotly-contested 100cc class with a first moto victory and a second place showing in the second moto. Bennett recovered from a poor start in the second moto to finish behind another local rider, Steve Howard.

Howard's second moto victory, combined with a fifth place finish in the first event, gave him second place on the 100cc overall list.

Midland riders also swept the mini bike action, with Gene Norris, Jr., and Mark Landry winning the Expert and Junior classes. Mike Smith Midland won the 250cc Junior class with a victory in the first moto and a runner-up finish in the second.

Miller reminisces at Oakmont

OAKMONT, Pa. (AP) — Johnny Miller, who flirted with perfection here five summers ago, fought the hook and slice on his return.

"My tee shots have been killing me all year," golfs former fair-haired boy said Monday after playing tentatively but erratically through a practice round for the PGA Championship that starts Thursday.

His swing wasn't cooperating, but Miller still felt something special as he strolled the Oakmont Country Club course for the first time since he won the 1973 U.S. Open here.

"Yes, you can't help but reminisce a little," said Miller, who earned that victory with a final-round 63 that still is a record for this course and the Open.

"It was a great moment in my golfing life. It was one of the better rounds that's ever been played. Even if it never happens again, at least it happened once."

In 1974, Miller led the PGA with earnings of $353,021. He dropped to $61,025 last year and this year he ranks 99th on the money list with winnings of $16,090. He hasn't won a tournament since 1976.

What went wrong? Was it a mini-bike fall that hurt his wrist and shoulder? Unwanted muscle he developed working on his California ranch? Outside business distractions? Worry over time spent away from his wife and five children? Too much technical analysis that hurt his natural swing?

Miller has discussed all those theories. Whatever the causes, the effects have been obvious. "I'm on a definite golf low spot," he said.

On the 14th hole Monday, Miller hooked his first drive beyond the gallery ropes to the left. He teed up another ball and hit it into a fairway trap on the right.

Without putting on that hole, he hurried to the next hole and hit about a half dozen tee shots. His drives were on target the rest of the round.

"If I can get my tee shots in decent order, I might have a chance," he said. "If I don't, it's El Paso, forget it."

There was one area of consistency for Miller Monday. Everybody was reminding him about his Open triumph here and his record score. "Did you shoot 63 again?" a fellow asked in the clubhouse after his practice round.

"Yes, for 13 holes," Miller responded.

One of his practice partners, Billy Casper, spotted a firetruck as he and Miller walked to a parking lot following their round.

"You shot that 63 here last time. They have this firetruck here in case you do it again," Casper kidded.

The talk in Oakmont in recent months has been that nobody will shoot 63 here again. The greens have been reconditioned, supposedly to play like porcelain. They were mushy and rain-soaked the day Miller dominated the course.

But Miller said Monday that the greens seemed the same to him.

"They aren't any faster than they were the last time," he said. "Maybe they'll get faster. They aren't cut as low as they're going to get them."

Registration opens for tackle football

Registration for 11-man tackle football begins today at the Midland YMCA's. Tackle football is played in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades and teams will be formed according to the Elementary Public School boundary zones in which they live.

Eleven-man football replaces the fourth grade six-man and fifth grade eight-man football of last year. Birth certificates will be required this year and all eligible ball carriers will be weighed before each game. Maximum weights for eligible ball carriers are: sixth grade — 110 pounds; fifth grade — 100 pounds; and fourth grade — 90 pounds.

League standings will be kept on the basis of one point per game for winning the Y-Excellence Award and one point for winning the ball game. The Y-Excellence Award is presented to players, coaches and spectators of each team who exhibit high standards of sportsmanship, as judged by game officials and YMCA staff.

Registration deadline is Sept. 9.

There's also a notion that no greens could have stopped Miller the way he was hitting the ball here on that Sunday in 1973.

As Ray Floyd put it: "The only way to stop a round like that is not to cut a hole in the green."

In the recent U.S. Open in Denver, Miller shot 69-68 in the middle two rounds, the best rounds he's had in two years.

"The next day I pulled out my back and haven't played well since. I'll just be happy to be healthy again," he said.

Before the 1973 Open, Miller bent over to get something out of his suitcase and developed a stiff neck. He reported similar stiffness in the same spot here Monday.

To him, the 1978 PGA is a new, totally different challenge.

"Nothing's the same, not one thing, including my golf swing," he said. "I wish it was."

Bad News Bears win Odessa softball tourney

Karen Sharp whalloped a final inning two-run homer to set the stage for Rosie Wilson's game winning pinch hit RBI as the Bad News Bears downed Chickeree of Odessa 9-8 to complete a hard-earned comeback for the championship of the Odessa City women's softball tournament over the weekend.

It was the third time the two teams had met in the double elimination tournament. Chickeree blanked the Bears, 13-0 Saturday to send the local squad to the consolation bracket. The Bears escaped elimination by downing Midland Drilco in the consolation finals to set up a rematch with Chickeree for the title.

The Bad News Bears dumped the unbeaten Odessa squad, 18-10, to force a showdown second game for the tournament title.

The Bad News Bears followed with a base hit and Wilson's pinch hit double scored McAllister for the winning run.

The Bad News Bears are coached by Cosme Heredia.

Operators seeks new Pecos field designation

Gifford, Mitchell & Wisenbaker and Joseph I. O'Neill Jr. of Midland has requested new field designation for the No. 1 Raymal-Eagle, recently completed Devonian discovery in Pecos County 12 miles north of Fort Stockton.

The operators have suggested new field designation of Gomez, North (Devonian) The strike was completed for a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 15,100,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 18,900 to 19,053 feet.

Total depth is 22,760 feet and 5.5-inch liner is set at 22,678 feet. The plugged back depth is 19,310 feet.

It was reported earlier that the well was completed from the Ellenburger. The closest production of any kind is one mile southeast in the Ellenburger at 22,750 feet in the Gomez pool. The closest comparable production is 3.5 miles north from the 11,000-foot zone in the Pecos field.

Operator has suggested Todlaw (Queen) field. The discovery completed for a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 940,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 1,021 to 1,059 feet after 6,000 gallons of acid.

Blackmarket held down

HOUSTON (AP) — A trade publication reported Monday manufacturers have done a good job in preventing oil and gas drilling rig blackmarketeering from becoming widespread.

Drilling Contractor magazine said the rig blackmarket, however, appears to be real if not widespread.

The publication of the International Association of Drilling Contractors said the situation has presented no major problem to the industry because manufacturers have refused to take part in blackmarketeering schemes.

Calendar day allowable off

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Average calendar day oil production allowable as of Aug. 1 is 3,581,332 barrels, the railroad commission said Monday.

This legal rate of flow from 180,907 wells on allowable schedules compares with 3,597,266 barrels on July 15, when 182,119 wells were listed.

Wyoming well burns

EVANSTON, Wyo. (AP) — Amoco Production Co. officials say they aren't sure whether firefighter Red Adair will be able to make his first attempt today to quell an oil and gas blaze.

Adair, a well-known oil fire specialist, surveyed the fire about 12 miles north of Evanston Monday but was awaiting the arrival of special equipment before attempting to put out the fire, a company spokesman said.

"They're still assessing the situation and determining the best approach," said spokesman Bob Bizal. Bizal said fighting the fire requires special equipment that is being shipped in from Utah, Texas, Oklahoma and other parts of Wyoming.

The fire began some time before dawn Sunday, with flames spouting as high as 50 feet into the air. The fire is in one of 12 wells in the Rickman Creek oil field.

Amoco crews have dug a deep pit around the well to prevent any burning oil from escaping. So far the fire has not caused any injuries or environmental damage, spokesmen said.

GAO charges safety needed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite increasing use of liquefied natural gas as a source of energy, the federal government has done little to offset the potential for catastrophic explosions of the fuel, the General Accounting Office said today.

The risk of explosion of LNG is so great that all future storage tanks should be built in remote areas, the agency said.

In a three-volume report, the congressional investigating agency said railroad cars and trucks that carry LNG or liquid propane gas and the tanks that store them are highly vulnerable to sabotage.

Gas deregulation bill fractures landscape

By PETER BARNES The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — With at least $28.5 billion at stake, the natural gas deregulation bill has fractured the political landscape — pitting big oil companies against smaller ones, farmers against industry, pipeline companies against their customers.

However, the lines are not yet clearly drawn, with many major players still publicly neutral. But after the final draft of the compromise bill is made public this week, probably tomorrow, and as the Senate showdown nears, the lineups will form quickly.

Who favors the bill for phased-out control of natural gas prices? Big oil companies, although their support is low-profiled and far from unanimous.

"We feel this bill at least gives us some certainty, which we don't have now," said Wayne Harmon, director of federal agency relations for Gulf. "We know where we are going. It will at least get a bill on the books and then we can work to improve it."

Gulf is one of the few major oil companies to publicly declare its support. Most others are waiting. "Since we haven't seen the final draft of the legislation, we can only wait and see whether it will be better than no legislation at all," said Tom Denman of Shell. "We have been taking a neutral course — we aren't for it, and we aren't against it."

But Jim Flug of Energy Action, a group lobbying against the bill, said the wait-and-see posture by some majors is just a ploy. "They're afraid to endorse it publicly because they are afraid to queer the deal, but clearly they are working for it."

Major producers would stand to gain handsomely from the compromise bill. Nonetheless, some companies backed their oil industry colleagues and are fighting the bill.

"We opposed it before and we are still opposed to it," said Terry Rice, director of legislative affairs for Conoco. "We think it is a bad bill and we have said so. There are some people here with the guts to speak out on it."

John Swearingin, chairman of the board of Amoco, criticized the bill in similarly harsh language. "If anyone is tempted to assume that the compromise principles will solve the natural gas problem, let me say quickly that he is being deceived," Swearingin told stockholders. He called the measure "a regulatory disaster."

The lineup of who is for the compromise plan and who is against it will be critical in the next few weeks. It is expected that it will be gas dealer bill worked out in may by House-Senate conferees will be brought to the Senate floor within the next week to 10 days. There, pro-consumer liberals led by James Abourezk, D-S.D., possibly joined by some pro-oil conservatives, will filibuster.

Liberal senators attack House-Senate program

By MIKE SHANAHAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Firing the opening salvos in a new congressional fight over the price of natural gas, liberal Senate opponents of deregulation are attacking a House-Senate compromise that forecasts only modest increases for consumers.

Democratic senators James Abourezk of South Dakota and Howard Metzenbaum of Ohio called a news conference today to question a voluminous congressional conference report.

The report, released Monday, said that, by 1985, a natural gas compromise due before the Senate late this week would result in a $13 annual increase in fuel prices for most homeowners.

Abourezk and Metzenbaum led an unsuccessful filibuster against lifting federal price controls a year ago and Abourezk has promised a repeat performance.

The compromise to come before the Senate Thursday or Friday provides for continued controls at higher prices until 1985, when deregulation, long sought by the oil and gas industry, would occur.

In the congressional conference committee report released Monday, House and Senate Energy Committee staff members estimated that, if the compromise were adopted, consumers would pay $4.80 per thousand cubic feet of gas in 1985, compared to current residential prices of about $2.50.

Under the current system of regulation, the conference report estimates, residential prices would go to $4.70 by 1985 for each thousand cubic feet.

The report, based on computer studies, made no estimate of how sharply residential prices would rise once controls are lifted seven years from now.

That would amount to about $13 for the average homeowner annually, compared to the prices that could be expected under continued regulation, the conference report said.

The federal Department of Energy has estimated that the natural gas compromise will add $29 billion to the revenues of oil and gas companies through 1985. The conference report set that figure at $9 billion.

The natural gas bill is a major element of President Carter's energy plan over which Congress has been struggling for more than 15 months.

Senate Majority leader Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., said the newest natural gas debate in the Senate would run four days before an attempt would be made to gather the 60 votes necessary to cut off filibuster.

Should several attempts fail to break a filibuster, the natural gas bill would die for this year, and Carter will have suffered a major political defeat.

Because conference reports cannot be amended but must be approved or disapproved as they are, Abourezk is expected to have more difficulty blocking a final vote than on other pieces of legislation.

He is expected to draw some support from conservative Republicans and oil-state senators who believe deregulation should come sooner than 1985.

Kent sector gains site

A wildcat site has been announced by Marshall R. Young Oil Co. of Fort Worth in Kent County, 17 miles northwest of Clairemont.

Scheduled for an 8,100-foot bottom, it is No. 2-18 Swenson, 760 feet from north and 2,020 feet from west lines of section 18, block 2, H&GN survey. Ground elevation is 2,260 feet.

There is no production in the immediate vicinity of the site, however there are several dry holes in the area.

CROCKETT TEST

Cumming Oil Co. of Oklahoma City No. 3 West is to be drilled 1,320 feet northeast of the only well in the Tom T (Ellenburger) field of Crockett County, 15 miles north of Ozona.

Location for the 8,300-foot test is 467 feet from south and west lines of section 23, block AB, R. Adams survey.

'Hit man' testifies for Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — A man described in a court order as a former hit man with organized-crime ties told a Senate subcommittee today that he and four others murdered a man in south Florida in 1970.

Gary Bowdach said he took the action on his former partner in a loan-shark business because he was afraid the man was talking to law-enforcement officers.

Bowdach said he had previously been informed by his boss in New York City that he would be held accountable for any actions taken by the former partner, Louis Cicchini.

"I felt if I didn't take the appropriate action, instead of Mr. Cicchini being dead I would be dead," Bowdach, a convicted felon, told the Senate permanent subcommittee on investigations.

Bowdach and the others he said were his accomplices never have been charged with the murder. Cicchini's body has not been found.

Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., said Bowdach's decision to cooperate with the inquiry should allow the nation to see "beneath the surface of our society and into its underworld." Nunn, vice chairman of the subcommittee, added that, "What we will hear is not a play, not a TV show nor a movie. It is the way the real criminal world operates."

Bowdach is serving a 15-year sentence for loan-sharking and a concurrent five-year term for possession of firearms by a convicted felon. He was declared a dangerous special offender in 1976 by a federal court in Florida — an action that enabled the court to increase his sentence.

Judge Norman C. Roettger took that action after law enforcement officials raided Bowdach's home and found weapons ranging from a machine gun to a pistol equipped with a silencer.

In his order, Roettger found that "there is little doubt, but in addition to being a shylock, he (Bowdach) was a 'hit man.' Bowdach is well connected in organized crime elements and is an organized crime subject."

Bowdach also is expected to testify in upcoming sessions about arson, narcotics trafficking, contract killings and contraband operations in the Atlanta penitentiary, according to Nunn.

Bowdach also is to testify on criminals' use of the Freedom of Information Act to learn what the federal government knows about their activities and to deduce whether informers are being used. The federal act was designed to open up government records to citizen inquiries.

Two die in embassy gun battle

By PAUL TREUTHARDT

PARIS (AP) — French police held three Iraqi security agents and a badly wounded terrorist today after the terrorist's siege in the Iraqi Embassy ended in a gun battle between embassy guards and the police.

The police said they grabbed the Iraqis after the agents tried to kill the terrorist, reputed to be a member of Yasser Arafat's guerrilla army, as they were taking him away at the end of the 8½-hour siege Monday.

At least 17 shots were fired; one police officer and one Iraqi guard were killed, and two other policemen, an Arab League official and the terrorist were wounded.

The Iraqi ambassador claimed his guards were not responsible for the shooting. He asserted that the bullets "were fired by men who wanted either to come to the aid of the terrorist, or perhaps to eliminate him."

The French Foreign and Interior Ministries declined all comment on the affair. Iraq is one of France's major oil suppliers and a purchaser of Mirage jet fighters and French industrial equipment.

Reliable sources said the terrorist belonged to Al Fatah, Arafat's guerrilla organization which the Iraqi government opposes because it considers Arafat too soft toward Israel.

The terrorist demanded the release of a woman held in London for an abortive assassination attempt on the Iraqi ambassador to Britain on Friday, and a plane to fly her out of the country.

Another gunman accompanied him to the Paris embassy Monday morning but fled moments after the takeover started and has not been found. Both were well dressed and walked casually into the building in the fashionable, tree-lined 16th district shortly after the embassy opened.

Heavy rain was pouring down and a lone policeman posted outside the building because of the London attack was sheltering under the glass awning at the door of the 19th-century town house.

The two men, claiming an appointment, were questioned in the entry hall but not frisked. Suddenly, they whipped out submachine guns and revolvers from under their coats, and one "started firing like a madman," an embassy official said.

An embassy guard tried to wrestle away a revolver and was shot five times. One of the gunmen fled. A policeman chased him, but the gunman guerrilla dropped his submachine gun and a shotgun and escaped.

Inside the four-story embassy, the other terrorist herded nine hostages into one room and fired sub-machine gun bursts at random into the walls and ceiling.

Hundreds of police surrounded the building and a large police communications bus rolled into a street behind.

Iraqi Ambassador Moudhir Tawfik al-Wandawi rushed to the bus from the Elysee Palace, where he had been saying goodbye to President Valery Giscard d'Estaing after three years in Paris. The ambassador and a police officer started telephone negotiations with the terrorist.

After hours of telephone discussion, the gunman asked the ambassador to call in an Arab League official. Shortly afterward, the official went into the embassy, escorted by Police Commissioner Pierre Ottavio and at least six policemen wearing flak jackets.

Apparently convinced he couldn't pull off the operation alone, the terrorist agreed to surrender and handed over his submachine gun and revolver.

The group emerged from the embassy and was getting into Ottavio's white sedan when an embassy security guard opened fire from a range of less than 10 feet.

Three other guards opened up. "It was incomprehensible," said Commissioner Marcel Leclerc, who was waiting on the sidewalk. "Many of us were targets. I found myself on my knees with someone firing at me."

The police hurled themselves behind cars and returned fire. The chief of the anti-terror squad, Commissioner Robert Broussard, pushed one of his men toward safety, then raced around the nearest corner.

It was over in seconds. Police grabbed three of the Iraqi guards, snapped on handcuffs and wrestled them into cars as the terrorist was bundled off in Ottavio's sedan.

9 indicted for child prostitution

By PETER J. BOYER

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Nine men have been indicted for running an international child prostitution ring that allegedly used children as young as 4 on the underground sex market. Authorities claim the children were bought and sold.

One man was arrested for allegedly using his own 7-year-old daughter for immoral purposes. Two of the men mentioned in the grand jury investigation were child counselors.

Five of the men named in the county grand jury indictment were arrested Monday in California, Utah and Indiana. They were jailed pending hearings. The others, including one man in England, were being sought on warrants recommending $300,000 bail each. The defendants were charged with 43 felonies.

District Attorney John Van de Kamp told reporters Monday that seven girls and a boy aged 6 to 12, from the Los Angeles and San Diego areas, were used in the operation. One of the girls was used from the time she was 4, police said.

The children were taken to homes or motels where they viewed movies depicting sexual activities and then themselves were photographed, sometimes as they engaged in sexual acts with other children or adults, Van de Kamp said.

"Some had a whole stable of young children," Van de Kamp said. "Children were actually sold, at prices ranging up to $1,000."

Van de Kamp said one child appeared in a Dutch porn magazine called Lolita, published in Amsterdam and distributed worldwide.

Charles James Hughes was indicted on three counts of selling his daughter for immoral purposes. Hughes, 35, of La Puente, Calif., is also charged with six other felony counts related to the operation. He faces a maximum seven years in prison if convicted, less three years for good behavior, Van de Kamp said.

Lester Henry, 40, a family counselor in Indianapolis who placed disabled children in foster homes, was indicted. John Duncan, 34, who was a children's counselor in Los Angeles before being confined at Patton State Hospital for a previous sex offense, was named as an undicted co-conspirator.

The children, most the products of one-parent homes, were sent with their mothers for counseling to the Department of Public Social Services. Van de Kamp said there was not sufficient evidence to charge any of the mothers with involvement in the ring.

In addition to Hughes and Henry, others indicted were: Robin Garrett, 58, Huntington Beach; Henry Johnson Jr., 50, Sacramento; Thomas Liberto, 34, Downey; Timothy Wilcox, 30, Castro Valley; Joseph Henry, 43, New York; Michael Radulovich, 30, Salt Lake City; and Michael Blount, 40, of Buckinghamshire, Great Britain.

Waterspout hits beach resort, leaves destruction, one death

KILL DEVIL HILLS, N.C. (AP) — A huge waterspout caught this beach resort community by surprise as it turned vicious, crossed onto land and slammed a row of small houses down like children's building blocks.

Harriet Tillet, 75, was killed. The gray twister was several hundred feet high as it slammed ashore, witnesses said. In a matter of seconds, it left a path of destruction about 75 yards wide and 350 yards inland before fading away.

Fire Chief Billy Guard said the victim's body was found in a ditch about 70 feet from her house, which was leveled by the twister.

Town officials kept the area off limits to unauthorized people today, to prevent looting while the cleanup continued.

The cinder block house where Mrs. Tillet lived was smashed against a house next door on stilts. And that house also was leveled, leaving a pile of rubble topped by a mattress, a stray drawer, and here and there a piece of clothing.

Guard said the house on stilts was empty, because a family that had rented it for vacation had left the night before.

"I don't know who they are, but I think they're three of the luckiest people in the world," he said.

To either side of the rubble pile, another tourist cottage was demolished, though not leveled, Guard said.

In one of them, now without its roof, three people suffered minor injuries. In the other, several people survived the storm without injuries, Guard said.

Odessa listed in guarded condition

An Odessa man was listed in guarded condition today in Medical Center Hospital in Odessa and a Midland man was listed in satisfactory condition in Midland Memorial Hospital as a result of two separate one-car accidents.

Robert L. Jones, 20, of the 300 block of S. Benton Street was listed in satisfactory condition today at Midland Memorial Hospital after receiving rib and pelvis fractures in a car he was driving, said a DPS spokesman.

Jones was injured when he and passenger Mildred Jackson, 22, of the 700 block of Tilden Street were thrown from the car at approximately 6:40 p.m., according to the spokesman.

The car left the southbound lane of Texas 349 in Martin County, 17 miles north of Midland, said a DPS spokesman. Officers said the driver apparently lost control. The car then left the road on the left side and rolled over six times, according to DPS reports.

Mrs. Jackson and another passenger, Sterling M. James, 21, of the 1200 block of Cottonwood Avenue, both were treated at Midland Memorial and released, said a spokesman.

Phil Norvell McLemore, 17, of Odessa was listed today in guarded condition with lacerations and possible head injuries received in an accident on U.S. Highway 80 at approximately 2:15 a.m. today, said a DPS spokesman.

The spokesman said McLemore was westbound on U.S. 80 when he either fell asleep or lost control of his car, causing it to leave the road on the south side and roll over two times.
