Forecasters say more rain for flood region

By GREG THOMPSON
Associated Press Writer

Weather forecasters predicted still more rain for Central Texas today, where at least 21 have died in flooding that followed weeks of harsh drought.

The National Weather Service said conditions were favorable for rain to continue drenching flood-ravaged areas for another "three to four days."

Waterways already swollen by the rains threatened areas downstream of the three-county section where least 15 persons died Tuesday and Wednesday.

Six more were reported dead 200 miles to the north in the small farming community of Albany Thursday night, a Department of Public Safety spokesman said.

The storms spawned by the dregs of tropical storm Amelia set out on a new northeasterly path.

Weary rescue workers resumed their muddy search at daybreak in the Hill Country. Volunteers and law enforcement officers, on horseback and on foot, began combing the newly accessible banks of the Medina River at daybreak.

"We're pretty sure we'll find some more (victims)," said Bandera police deputy Jackie Doyle. "We wish we weren't so sure."

Hundreds have been left homeless in the Hill Country, and while official damage estimates may be weeks away, the figure is expected to run easily into the tens of millions of dollars.

Authorities struggled to restore communication and transportation links to Albany, where the National Guard attempted to pluck some residents from their rooftop outposts.

President Carter declared Texas a major disaster area Thursday, freeing federal recovery funds for the three hardest-hit counties in the central hill country—Kerr, Bandera and Kendall. Ironically, the three counties had already been named drought disaster areas.

"This area has gone from a drought disaster area to a flood disaster area in a matter of two days," said Rep. Bob Krueger, D-Texas, who drove through Bandera County with Gov. Dolph Briscoe Thursday. "What we've gotten in the area is a year's worth of rain in only 48 hours. It's astonishing to see the devastating force of the water."

Briscoe, who requested Carter's help, said, "This has to be one of the worst floods in the state's history. The devastation is unbelievable."

Army helicopters from Fort Sam Houston in San Antonio were called to the central Texas flood area again Thursday to rescue 10 people stranded by high waters.

Bandera County sheriff's dispatcher Jackie Doyle said more than 100 persons on ranches and in rural homes around the north and west prongs of the Medina River were cut off.

"Lots of people live up there and are stranded with no water, no phones, no electricity and no food in some cases," she said. "There'll probably be some lives lost there of people we don't even know are missing yet."

Downstream from the area hardest hit by Wednesday's and Thursday's floods, riverfront residents braced for cresting rivers and streams. The Army Corps of Engineers hoped two dammed lakes could contain the flow.

The Pedernales River was expected to flood its banks around Stonewall, Texas, and the LBJ Ranch was in its path. Late Thursday, a witness who flew over the ranch said water covered more than half of the family

Government predicts rising beef prices (+32 percent) have peaked

WASHINGTON (AP) — The rapid climb in retail beef prices — up 32 percent from last fall — has peaked, the Agriculture Department is predicting.

And in what could be even better news for inflation-battered consumers, a department report indicated on Thursday that beef prices could fall slightly in coming months.

The department was able to make those predictions at the same time it was saying retailers finally have begun passing on to consumers the full impact of soaring beef prices at the slaughterhouse.

That traditional pass-through normally takes only a few weeks but had been lagging in the current spiral. When beef retailers began to show a more normal pattern in June, slaughter cattle prices — which had risen by more than 40 percent since last fall — slipped slightly, softening the blow.

At that point the increase in retail prices was lagging behind by 8 percentage points.

What department forecasters said they do not yet know is when cattle raisers are going to start rebuilding herds so that prices can come down substantially. The current forecast calls for continued high prices through 1980 or 1981.

Various department surveys have found retail beef prices sliding a little in recent weeks, largely because of supermarket price-cutting.

Area weather may bring to mind autumn for some

Today began for at least one Midlander as "the kind of day that makes you wonder what you did with your summer wages."

It was cool and misty — like autumn in other climes.

While chances for more rain in Midland have increased and rainfall is commonplace throughout the surrounding area, however, the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport today reported only a trace of precipitation fell overnight.

The weatherman said the station had received just a trace in the past 24 hours, while towns in the area received varying amounts — ranging from .05 inch in Lamesa to .43 in Big Lake and .75 in Big Spring.

Drizzle greeted most Midlanders

Family followed him even unto death

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Seven children who plunged 11 stories from a hotel balcony had lived in $90-a-day luxury with a father who thought he was God. The children never went to school and rarely spoke to strangers, eating meals in their suite and shunning the hotel pool.

The father, Immanuel David, 39, had committed suicide two days before his wife shoved their children or urged them to leap off the balcony with her Thursday in a bizarre murder-suicide that left only one child alive.

Thirteen-year-old Elizabeth David was in critical but stabilizing condition early today.

Despite pleas from horrified people who watched from the sidewalk Thursday morning, Rachel David helped or pushed her children, ranging in age from 5 to 14, from the balcony. Police said at least three jumped willingly, but witnesses said the younger ones struggled and tried to grab the railing.

After all the children had fallen, officers said some of the onlookers yelled for Mrs. David to jump. She did.

Dead were Mrs. David, 38; Rebyca, 5; David, 6; Joseph, 8; Debbra, 9; Joshaha, 10; and Rachel, 14.

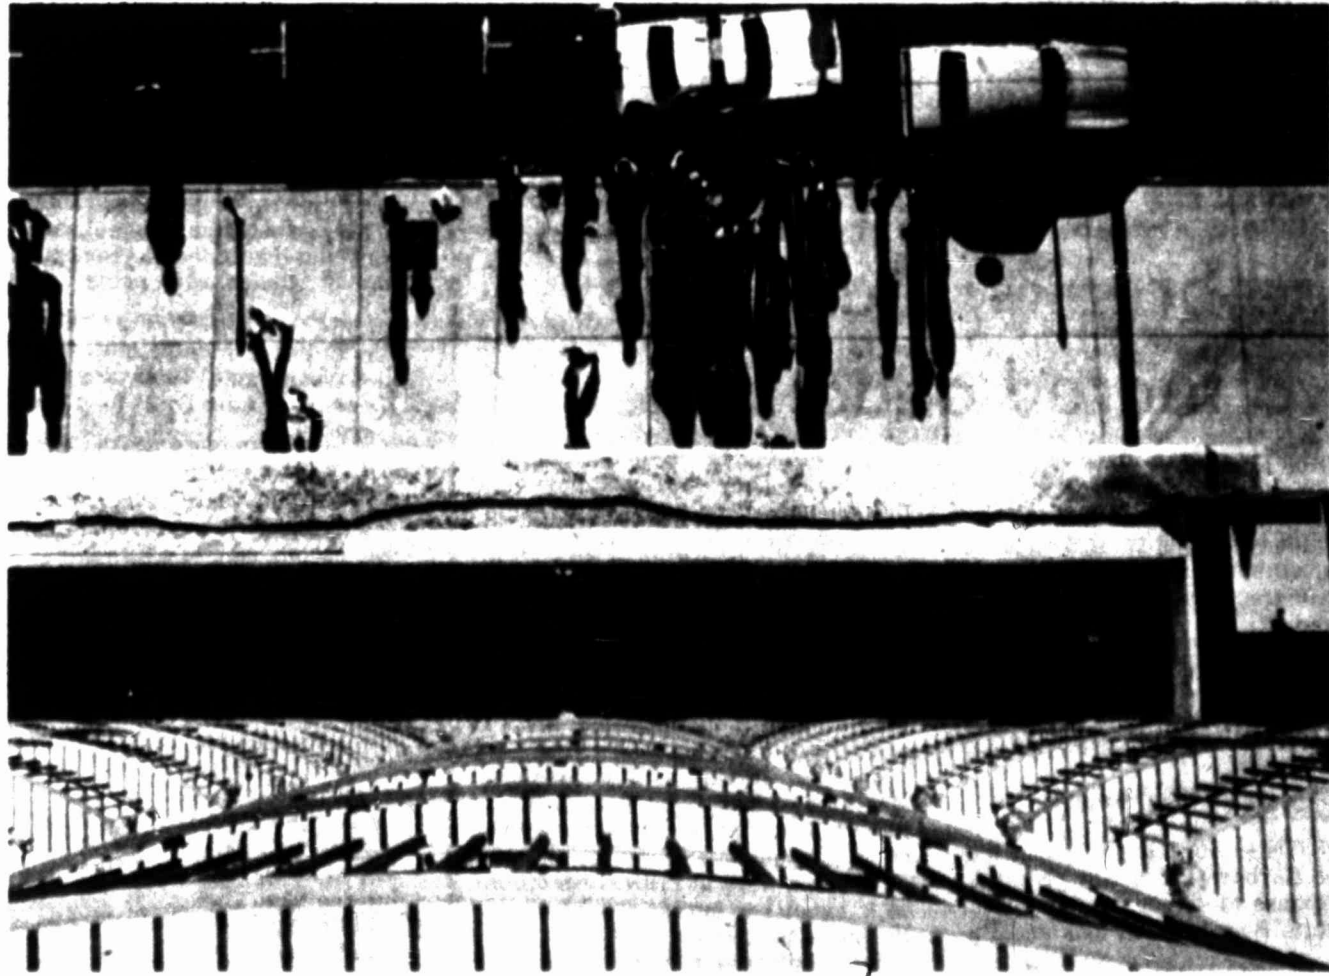

Elizabeth was in surgery 10 hours Thursday with a team of 15 doctors. Spokeswoman Karyn Haeckel at LDS Hospital said the girl had multiple compound fractures and abdominal injuries.

The family had secluded itself in the suite for 14 months. Hotel employees said the children spoke to strangers only with their parents' permission. They said the children stayed in the suite most of the time, never used the hotel pool and never went to school. They were taught by their parents.

Hotel staff apparently didn't question the arrangement because David had told them he had teaching credentials, said hotel manager James Bradley.

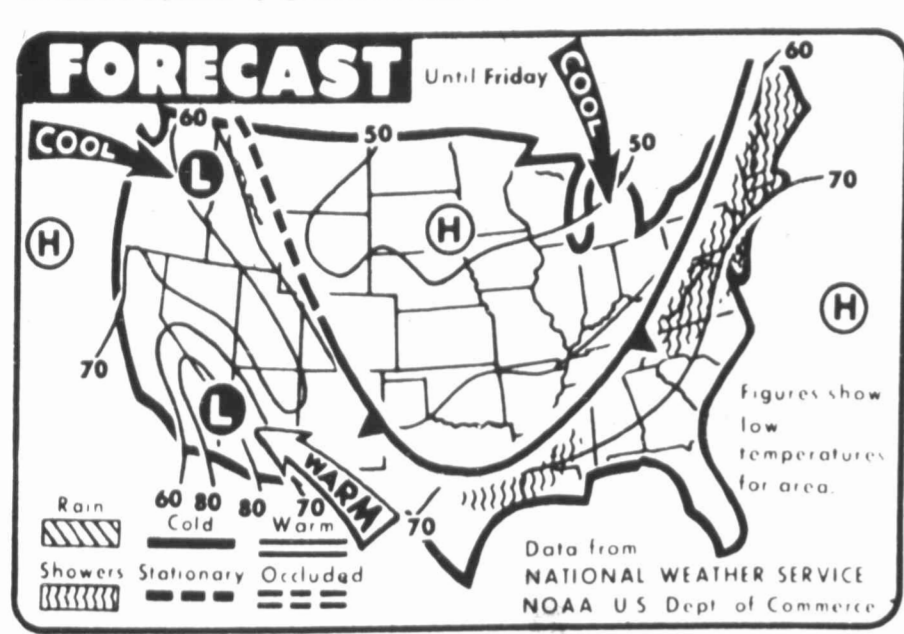

David grew up as Bruce Longo

Jobless rate turns upward

By R. GREGORY NOKES

WASHINGTON (AP) - Unemployment rose sharply in July, climbing to 6.2 percent of the labor force, with teen-agers and women bearing the brunt of the increased joblessness, the government reported today.

The nation's jobless rate was 5.7 percent in June, the lowest in more than three years. The July rate of 6.2 percent was the highest since March, when it also was 6.2 percent.

Some increase in unemployment was considered likely because of government moves to slow the economy to help restrain inflation, but the July increase was surprisingly large and was spread throughout most employment categories.

The Labor Department gave the following breakdown in July joblessness compared with the previous month:

- Adult men, 4.1 percent, up from 3.9 percent in June.
- Adult women, 6.5 percent, up from 6.1.
- Teen-agers, 16.3 percent, up from 14.2.

The July increase more than reversed all of the employment gains in June, when unemployment had dropped to 5.7 percent from 6.1 percent in May.

A Labor Department analyst said the July increase in joblessness was "as hard to understand" as the steep June decline, and he said statistical problems could have accounted for much of the change.

"When something goes up so sharply and then falls back in the next month, there is a tendency to think the former figure was aberrant," he said.

The analyst also noted that a separate jobs measurement in July showed that non-farm employment had actually increased, rising by 265,000 jobs, a further indication of statistical problems.

The difference between the two measurements, one taken in a household survey and the other provided by employers, is "not technically explainable... there is something unreliable about one of them," said the analyst, who declined use of his name.

However, he said the 6.2 percent unemployment rate in July was a good indication of overall joblessness in the economy.

Carter administration economists said the 5.7 percent June jobless rate could turn out to be the best for the year, in view of the moves underway to slow the growth of the economy to combat inflation.

They said they hoped the public would give it credit for doing better than expected in reducing unemployment.

In January, when unemployment was 6.3 percent, the administration was forecasting a decline to only 6.2 percent by the final quarter of this year. After unemployment dropped to 6.1 percent in May, the forecast was revised to 5.9 percent.

But even that forecast appeared too pessimistic when unemployment declined to 5.7 percent in June, a three-year low. The government said 700,000 jobs were created during the month and that the proportion of the nation's working-age population with jobs rose to a record 58.9 percent.

However, with other indicators showing that the economy is growing at a slower pace than before, both government and private economists think it likely unemployment will rise slightly before heading downward again by the end of the year.

The administration is not yet willing to say that the jobless rate will drop below 5.7 percent by December.

Emergency crews rush victims of a multiple murder-suicide to hospitals Thursday, after seven members of a close-knit, religious family fell to their deaths from an 11th story hotel window in downtown Salt Lake City.

Disaster assistance centers being set up to aid stricken victims

WASHINGTON (AP) - State and federal officials are arranging to establish disaster assistance centers in the Central Texas Hill Country where devastating floods have killed at least 15, left hundreds homeless and caused tens of millions of dollars in damage.

President Carter Thursday declared the state a major disaster area, freeing federal agencies to lend assistance to the stricken area and releasing recovery funds for emergency relief.

Following the presidential order, William M. Wilcox, administrator of the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration, designated the counties of Kerr, Bandera and Kendall eligible for assistance.

Ironically, prior to the flooding the counties had been designated disaster areas by the Agriculture Department due to severe drought conditions.

Announcements of the location of the flood relief centers are expected within a few days. The centers will be staffed by representatives of federal, state and volunteer agencies which will provide individuals with the opportunity to apply the following assistance and information.

Homeowners and businessmen who suffered property damage may be eligible for Small Business Administration loans. Interest rates range from 1 percent to 6 percent, depending upon the amount of the loan.

Those out of work because of the disaster also may apply for special unemployment compensation program available through the U.S. Department of Labor as administered by the State of Texas.

The Internal Revenue Service will advise disaster-affected citizens on special tax provisions that may provide quick tax refunds.

Personal needs of individuals (assistance) can be obtained from the state and volunteer agencies represented at the disaster assistance center.

Individuals or families with disaster-caused serious needs for necessary expenses not covered by other programs may apply for a financial grant from the state of Texas.

Joe D. Winkle of Dallas has been named federal coordinating officer as part of the disaster declaration.

Winkle said residents of the flood-ravaged area can determine their eligibility for one or more forms of advice or assistance by visiting the disaster assistance centers.

He said the FDAA will conduct briefings for local governments wishing to apply for federal financial assistance for the repair or replacement of damaged public facilities. In the meantime, Winkle urged local officials to maintain careful records of expenditures that may be eligible for federal reimbursement.

The FDAA said this was the 28th presidentially declared major disaster for Texas in the last 25 years, during which time over $85 million has been expended or obligated from the president's disaster relief fund in the state.

plot where the late President Lyndon Johnson is buried.

In Bandera, where receding waters left a covering of foul-smelling black mud on streets and yards, auto dealer Clint Dowell said he lost 120 cars to the flood.

"They're all ruined," Dowell said. "I don't think we'll be able to salvage any of the cars. We only got one wrecker out. All of the parts, the records, the tickets, the receipts were all washed away."

The Guadalupe, normally a pleasant, winding river whose adjacent acreage lures retirees to the Hill Country, turned into a monster.

Near Texas Highway 16, the river swelled by 10 feet. At the Texas 281 bridge 40 miles north of San Antonio, the Guadalupe lapped over the top of the 58-foot-high bridge's roadway.

Authorities warned persons in the paths of the Pedernales and the Guadalupe to be prepared to move to high ground and to remove livestock from the flood plain.

As waters receded, health precautions were urged by state officials.

The Texas Health Department warned those in the flooded area to boil drinking water if contamination was suspected.

They said community and private water supplies which lost pressure may have been contaminated by floodwaters and that such water should be boiled five minutes before it was drunk. They said contaminated water would look murky.

early today as they walked to their cars to drive to work.

As a result of that drizzle, Texas Electric Service Co. reported unofficial and small amounts of moisture at Basin stations. The amounts included .03 inch at the Midland East station, .03 inch at Odessa, .01 at the Permian Basin station near Monahans and .05 at the Sprayberry station south of Midland.

The weatherman said there should be a 50 percent chance for rain tonight and Saturday with considerable cloudiness continuing.

High Saturday should be in the low 80s while the low tonight should be in the mid-60s.

Record high for Thursday is 106 degrees set in 1953. Thursday's high was much lower than the record with a mild 85 degrees recorded, according to the weatherman. Low today was 64 degrees, close to the record 61 degrees set in 1973.

Winds should be northeasterly 10 to 20 mph tonight, the weatherman said.

and joined the Mormon church after an Army hitch, according to his brother, Dean Longo, who was interviewed by telephone at his Vero Beach, Fla., home.

Longo said he hadn't seen David since their father died nine years ago. Their mother lives in Vero Beach with Longo.

He said he got sporadic phone calls over the years "which may have been his way of retaining some semblance of a family relationship." He said he knew only the two eldest children.

Penny McDonald, a desk clerk at the hotel, said meals were either sent up from the hotel coffee shop, or David would bring food home. She said he paid the $90 rent every day with a $100 bill.

FBI spokesman Bob Davenport said David paid for about $30,000 in food and lodging at the International Dunes.

Police Sgt. Brent Davis, who said he knew David personally, said he never knew the 6-foot-4, 300-pound man to have a job. He said David believed he was God.

An excommunicated member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon), he had formed his own religious cult, consisting mostly of his immediate family members and a few friends, Davis said.

Church officials would not comment on the excommunication report.

Police Lt. Roger Kinnersley said Mormon officials had complained that David frequently asked to see church authorities to proclaim upcoming calamities or demand a share of church revenues.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Steve Snarr said he believed the cult leader may have lived from money given him by his followers. One follower, Matthias David, was sentenced to five years in federal prison in May for wire fraud, said Snarr. He said the man was convicted of raising about $8,000 in four months by wiring friends and relatives he needed money for his stepdaughter's medical expenses.

Snarr said Immanuel David was under investigation for wire fraud, as were some of his followers.

Longo said David attended

Brigham Young University and served as a Mormon missionary in South America. He met his wife, a native of Sweden, at the university.

Cheryl Williams, the clerk of Salt Lake's Ramada Inn, said while the family lived there, she would have occasional discussions with David about religion.

She said he claimed to have silver mines in Sweden, and would make long distance phone calls there. She said whenever he needed money, he would telephone to Sweden and get the money.

She said he talked about buying limousines and building a mansion in Arizona.

Miss Williams said David often spoke of his ability to concentrate and "destroy the world." She said some of the girls who worked in the restaurant at the hotel were afraid of him.

David's body was found in a borrowed van Tuesday. Police said he died of carbon monoxide poisoning. When informed of her husband's death Wednesday, Mrs. David said she couldn't afford to pay for his funeral, police said.

Carter 'perceived as failing,' say party officials

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG

WASHINGTON (AP) — "I don't think up to now, Carter has measured up to the expectations of the American public."

"Basically, people are disappointed."

"He's perceived as failing."

In this time of political troubles for Jimmy Carter, those comments are not from his Republican opponents. Neither are they from a sampling of voters who may or may not have supported him in 1976.

They are the comments of Democratic Party officials across the nation, the people who devote their lives to electing Democrats to offices from the presidency to county commissioner.

And they are worried about the political standing of the Democrat who swept out of relative obscurity in 1976 to return the White House to Democratic control after eight years of Republican rule.

There are the public opinion polls, those nagging expressions of discontent. There are the stalemates in Congress on energy and taxes. And the angry outbursts from Ted Kennedy and Thomas "Tip" O'Neill.

A week ago, Kennedy, the Massachusetts senator who has made such a point of demonstrating loyalty to Carter, broke with the president on national health insurance. Kennedy wants the administration to push for congressional action. Carter insists on a slower approach.

House Speaker O'Neill also has played the role of Carter loyalist and played it well. But O'Neill is an old-time Boston politician, with the allegiances that implies, and he publicly complained that he was "deeply hurt" when the White House fired a long-time friend from a top job in the General Services Administration.

Democratic Party officials around the country are reluctant to criticize their president. "I don't like as a party chairman and as an individual to add to the symphony of criticism when he's down in the polls," said Bert Coffey, California Democratic Party chairman.

"This president has tried," he added. "I think he's a very hard-working guy ... But he's perceived as failing."

Part of the problem, as Coffey sees it, was that in his campaign, Carter raised expectations in voters that haven't been fulfilled.

"They began to be turned off by the escapades of some of his appointees," said Coffey. "I think he's been let down by some of his friends."

Richard J. Coffey, New Jersey party chairman and an early Carter supporter, said that though he thought Carter was "a man of tremendous ability," he too saw him as falling below expectations.

"It goes without saying that Carter's prestige is lower than we would like it," he said. "There's a general feeling people close to him have let him down."

Not all the comments were pessimistic. Neale Chaney, Washington state chairman, said that "the price of wheat is up so the farmers aren't angry anymore." He noted that 65,000 people turned out when Carter was in Spokane, a huge crowd for that area.

"I haven't seen any Republican that people are enthusiastic about," he added.

In Louisiana, Jesse Bankston said the Georgia native in the White House still commands the loyalty of the South. "I don't see any great deal of erosion," he said, adding that part of Carter's problem was a media bias against southerners.

"He's a southerner and he's going to get a lot more criticism than if he were a Bostonian," he said. "I think he's suffering under the heavy hand of the press."

Claire Rumpel, a leader in Minnesota's Democratic Farm Labor Party, said that when she calls rural areas to assess voter sentiment, she often is told, "Everybody is mad at Carter out here."

The farmers in her state are angry, but she finds no comparable discontent in urban areas.

In Nevada, Didl Carson said Carter's popularity is down because he advocates a halt in nuclear testing, a move she estimates would cost 5,000 jobs in the state. But the Nevada chairman said Carter isn't perceived as failing to live up to campaign promises.

"I honestly think the president is making an effort to do what he said he would do," she said.

But a lot of issues — inflation, energy, health insurance, foremost among them — are mentioned in talks with party officials.

"I would say to the president, I want a health insurance bill," said Bert Coffey.

"His biggest problem is that damned inflation," said Chaney.

Without fail, John White, the Texas who recently became Democratic national chairman, drew praise from party officials as a man who has improved communications between Washington and the states.

"We had reason to complain for quite a while," said Chaney. "Appointments were being made and we were reading about them in the newspaper ... There's been a turnaround due to John White."

There are two more years until the 1980 campaign, but politicians can't resist guessing how candidates might match up.

Could Carter beat Ronald Reagan in Louisiana? Bankston said he would but added, "I don't think Carter could beat Kennedy in Louisiana."

In Minnesota, California, Washington and New Jersey, Kennedy also was cited. But the senator insists he won't be a candidate in 1980.

If party officials have their way, Kennedy will be campaigning in their states this year. They want Carter — even presidents down in the polls draw crowds — but they want Kennedy too.

Meany urges more time for ERA

By W. DALE NELSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany is urging Congress to give backers of the Equal Rights Amendment more time to combat "a vicious campaign against it by right-wing groups."

In remarks prepared for delivery today to a Senate subcommittee on the Constitution, Meany singled out the Stop ERA movement headed by Phyllis Schlafly, the John Birch Society and the Conservative Caucus as the groups he had in mind.

The labor organization said Meany's statement would be presented for him by Andrew J. Biemiller, director of the AFL-CIO legislative department.

The subcommittee is winding up three days of hearings on a proposal to extend the present seven-year ratification period, which expires next March 22.

A similar extension proposal cleared a significant hurdle on Thursday when the House Rules Committee approved it for consideration by the full House, probably within the next two weeks.

The members defeated by an 8-8 vote an attempt by Rep. Trent Lott, R-Miss., to allow the full House to decide whether the resolution authorizing the extension of time would require a simple majority or a two-thirds vote.

Opponents of the extension have contended that a two-thirds vote would be required, but Reps. Don Edwards, D-Calif., and Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y., cited the opinion of constitutional experts who say only a simple majority vote is needed.

Other constitutional scholars, including former Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., who testified before the Senate subcommittee on Thursday, say mittee to block the proposal.

The proposal being considered in the House would move the deadline to June 30, 1982.

'Shoot-em-up' atmosphere in Houston police 'must go'

HOUSTON (AP) — The "cowboy shoot-em-up" atmosphere in the Houston Police Department has got to go, says Police Chief Harry Caldwell.

Caldwell testified Thursday at a Civil Service Commission hearing for a police officer fired for joining a police chase of a car and ordering his partner to shoot out the car's tires.

Clifton Carl Nelius, 27, was fired in July. He was also accused of working more hours on an off-duty security job than authorized and leaving his position at a police substation before he was officially off duty, Caldwell said.

Nelius testified he joined three other police cars chasing the car without being dispatched because his car radio was not working properly.

He said he continued to chase the car after one of the police cars crashed into a guard rail and the other two stopped to assist. When it appeared he was not going to catch the car, he said he ordered his partner to shoot out the car's tires.

The woman driving the car was charged with evading a police officer and reckless conduct, both misdemeanors, Caldwell said.

"We'd rather lose a speeder than have a car pile up like that," he said. He said only two police cars at a time are supposed to be involved in a chase.

Nelius' excuse of radio problems was no reason for him to get in the chase without being dispatched, Caldwell said.

"A police car with radio problems belongs in the radio shop," he said. "It certainly doesn't belong in the street."

Caldwell also said no police officer is allowed to shoot out the tires of a moving vehicle, but is allowed to shoot at the driver if the officer's life is in danger or the driver has the potential of endangering other people's lives.

Nelius is also accused of working more than the 32 hours a week he was authorized for off-duty employment, Caldwell said.

Jaworski ends probe

Special counsel Leon Jaworski of Houston has completed his investigation of alleged South Korean influence-buying in Congress and is withdrawing from the assignment.

He expressed the opinion in his report to Congress that everything that could be done was done, but that the investigation, "although now incomplete, has succeeded far beyond the expectations of most observers."

The prominent Texas attorney noted in his summary that the investigation is incomplete because he was unable to obtain the testimony of former South Korean Kim Dong Jo on allegations that he tried to give congressmen envelopes stuffed with $100 bills.

Although Jaworski, in his report, assumed full responsibility for the investigation's deficiency, he later told two Associated Press reporters that he believes the State Department gave "considerable heart" to South Koreans who resisted his investigation.

And the investigation remains less complete than was the case with Watergate since American legal and judicial processes could not reach overseas to compel major South Korean figures to provide needed information, the special investigator explained.

He was kind enough to say in the exclusive interview with the AP reporters that Congress "did about everything they could have done." He was critical, however, of some congressmen and he did not know whether the White House helped as much as it could.

But taking everything into account, Mr. Jaworski perhaps was as right as could be in stating that the investigation succeeded far beyond the expectations of most observers.

The investigation, incidentally, to date has led to the conviction of one former congressman, indictment of another, conviction of a Korea-born businessman and consideration of House disciplinary action against four present congressmen.

Although withdrawing from the probe, Jaworski made it clear that he is not resigning as special counsel to the House Ethics Committee.

It is noted that Rep. John J. Flynt, D-Ga., chairman of the Ethics Committee, accepted Jaworski's notification that his investigation is finished, and thanked him for his work, for which Jaworski received no pay.

Expressing thanks appears to be the very least the chairman could do for a man of Mr. Jaworski's caliber for tackling such a tough assignment — without pay.

Mr. Jaworski merits a vote of thanks from all Americans for his efforts in this regard.

Texas' 'Honor Band'

Congratulations certainly are in order for Midland's Robert E. Lee High School Band, which has been selected by the Texas Band Directors Association as the Honor Band of Texas among Class 4-A schools.

This is a tremendous honor, and a community-wide salute is addressed to the band and its capable director, Van Ragsdale and his assistant Bruce Collins.

This particular competition among 4-A schools is held once every two years. The Lee High Band this year won regional competition and the tape of its performance was submitted to a panel of five judges to be reviewed along with winning tapes from the state's other 19 regions. And Lee was judged the best.

This marks only the second time a school in this region has annexed the state award, Permian High of Odessa having won regional and state honors in previous competition.

Having the state's No. 1 Honor Band brings additional fame and recognition to the Tall City.

The Lee Rebel Band has other outstanding awards to its credit, but this one is of particular significance.

The band, as a result of its most recent honor, will perform in February at the statewide meeting of the Texas Music Educators Association at Fort Worth. The band directors group is an affiliate of the Music Educators Association.

Fumes from Georgia fuel deal

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The fumes of a Georgia fuel scandal have wafted from Billy Carter's gas station in Plains to the doorstep of Jimmy Carter's White House. The odor simply won't go away. Now it threatens to sully a fellow Georgian whom Carter picked to be the Energy Department's assistant secretary in charge of conservation and solar energy.

The first caught scent of the situation and aired it on Sept. 23, 1976, even before President Carter was elected. It wasn't until earlier this year that the Justice and Energy Departments reopened an investigation at the federal level.

We had disclosed that the regional energy director in Atlanta, Kenneth Dupuy, had been accused of entertaining girl friends in a love nest maintained by a fuel distributor. The benefiting firm had little trouble obtaining emergency fuel allocations from Dupuy's office during the Arab oil embargo.

We had found that on the state level Lewis Sprull, the Georgia energy chief, was implicated. He served under Carter who was then governor of Georgia. We reported that Sprull allegedly laddled out fuel allocations without justification to almost any favorite who asked for more supplies. Among them was Billy Carter who got emergency fuel for his Plains filling station even though he had no apparent emergency.

But it's Omi Walden, an attractive former member of Carter's statehouse entourage, who is now in trouble. She has been nominated to the Energy Department post by Carter. We have discovered evidence, meanwhile, that contradicts her sworn Senate testimony.

Under questioning from the Senate Energy Committee's staff director, Greenville Garside, Walden swore that Billy Carter had received only one allocation of emergency fuel during her tenure in the Georgia energy office. That was granted, she said, in December of 1976.

Yet Billy himself has stated that he received allocations all the way into the summer months of 1977. We traced two of these later allocations; he received emergency fuel in February and again in March of 1977.

Thus Walden was either forgetful or she deliberately misinformed the Senate. She did not return our calls, so we don't have her explanation.

Walden also claimed that the federal government's definitions were unclear and, therefore, that she did not understand the regulations restricting the distribution of fuel set aside for the state. Yet a 1975 memo obtained directly from her own files, written by a federal official, clearly states:

"Some states improperly distribute state set-aside volumes; i.e. making all assignments in the last few days of the month, or making assignments to brokers and others in instances not necessarily related to hardship cases or emergency requirements."

The White House, citing an FBI investigation, of Walden, maintains she has been cleared of any involvement in the fuel scandal and, therefore, is acceptable as an energy official. Garside told our associate Marc Smolonsky that he didn't consider the discrepancies in Walden's testimony to be significant.

CHARLEY REESE

Falling dollar 'hits' servicemen overseas

By CHARLEY REESE
Sun Belt Syndicate

ORLANDO, Fla. — There have been a number of stories about the dollar going down against the yen and the other world currencies, but they have mostly concentrated on how tough it makes it for the American tourist overseas.

Well, the people who are really getting hurt badly and who have been suffering from this for a long time are the families of American servicemen in Europe and Japan. In Europe especially, where the base facilities are inadequate and they have to live off the German economy, these dependents are suffering extreme hardships.

Inside the U.S., the people hardest hit by the falling dollar will be businessmen like Toyota dealers who have invested in businesses devoted entirely to selling imports. As the dollar dips in value, the price of their imports goes up. Japanese cars have been quite popular, but they could become uncompetitive if the price goes too high.

In fact, the prices we pay for all imports will go up as foreign manufacturers demand extra dollars to make up for the decline in value of the U.S. currency. This will mean people will buy more American products and so it will have a positive effect on the trade deficit.

This decline in value represents the collective judgments of money people around the world that the U.S. government doesn't have the guts to put its fiscal house in order and they are right.

That is because by and large we have elected people with no character. The word of most politicians in Washington is less valuable than the dollar; a number of them are thieves and petty grafters; many are simply unintelligent; and most have the courage of a rat.

They have spent us to the edge of bankruptcy and made wrong decisions on such important matters as taxation, energy, the environment, national defense and internal security.

We have confiscatory taxes, no energy policy worthy of the name, outrageously impractical environmental laws which are threatening to make jobs extinct, a second rate defense posture, and no internal security.

Except for a minority in the House and the Senate, most of the Congressmen in Washington would sell their mothers to an Arab slave dealer for a few votes.

Example: majorities in both houses just voted to provide another $1.65 billion bailout of New York City, the world's most corrupt and misgoverned political entity.

The conservative minorities which fight such nonsense as this are generally disliked by my more famous colleagues in the news business, but I have had enough of the kind of politicians most of my famous colleagues in this business like.

Too often, whether the press likes a politician or not depends entirely on how skillful he is at stroking the press' ego or how well he agrees with our opinions or how financially powerful he is.

Personally, I would love to see the Congress full of eccentrics, hard-heads, and others who are generally undiplomatic and system-buckers. It's the system that's darn near destroyed us.

By system I mean the practice of going along to get along, not making waves, not challenging the establishment and putting courtesy and social relationships ahead of principles and integrity.

Our ship of state is sinking so fast it's going to take a radical change of leadership to keep it afloat, assuming there is still enough time which is not at all a safe assumption.

More of the same of what we've had will be like blowing holes in the hull and setting fire to the lifeboats. I suspect that's just what we'll do, however.

The irrigating thing about a democracy is that the politicians generally reflect the values of the constituency. We do get the government we deserve; it's just that we can't stand much more of what we deserve.

Mark Russell

says

Scandal rocked the teetotaling Rutherford B. Hayes Administration when the head of the Council on the Abuse of Demon Rum wrote a prescription for a gin and tonic.

It didn't help when he claimed that members of the White House staff were not only into creme de menthe frappes, but some had been sniffing rum cake.

President Hayes then fired off a memo saying, "You will either abstain from beer and pretzels or seek employment elsewhere."

The staff soon learned that the White House was a fishbowl, and they had to make do with cocaine, which was legal at that time.

Years later they would write books about their time in the White House with titles like, "The Fishbowl Can Be a Very Dry Place."

INSIDE REPORT:

Carter's media wizard fizzles on 'first time out'

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — President Carter's melancholy performance during his prime-time press conference July 20 helps explain why Gerald Rafshoon, his senior image builder of six weeks standing, is called "the p.r. Potemkin" within the White House.

That evening's follies were all under Rafshoon's stage management: the first prime-time news conference by his president; the ban against an opening statement praising the Bonn economic summit; the decision to refuse questioning on the Peter Bourne affair. Since joining the White House staff fulltime, Carter adviser Rafshoon has failed to slow the president's long decline.

Probably nobody could. What brings grumbles in the White House — no longer feud-free — is that Atlanta advertising man Rafshoon has not used his personal influence to guide the president into a more orderly course. Colleagues complain that Rafshoon's greatest accomplishment so far has been his own aggrandizement as "the curly-haired media whiz."

His first initiative upon entering the White House chilled expectations that a sophisticated public relations operator had come aboard. He proposed a Fourth of July nationally televised speech by Mr. Carter based on a patriotic theme, actually to be delivered on June 29 before the president started his vacation.

Cautious suggestions that this would not help the president much did not move Rafshoon. Nor did he approve a draft speech prepared by a staffer. Nothing would do but that the speech must be written by the eminent liberal historian, 75-year-old Henry Steele Commager. Reached in Denmark, Prof. Commager set to work quickly on a long speech. It was soon pouring into the White House, take by take, on the diplomatic cable from the Copenhagen embassy.

Commager now assumes the idea was discarded. In fact, the networks said no to free television time. From that moment, suspicion was planted at the White House that Rafshoon more closely resembled the naive inexperience of the past 18 months than its antidote.

While planning the aborted Fourth of July operation, Rafshoon was in charge of a major political speech by the president to be given in Houston on June 23. Although Rafshoon promised a "thematic" approach in future Carter speeches, the energy theme originally proposed for Houston was lost in a typically Carterite ramble. Whether Rafshoon really tried or not, his impact was imperceptible.

But Rafshoon clearly views the speech-writing operation as the core of his new job. He has tangled with senior political aid Anne Wexler, who has strong views about political input, over speech-writing responsibility. "I think we have some very talented speechwriters who need some direction," Rafshoon told us. Whether those speechwriters need that help, Rafshoon's influence as an insider is essential for the president actually to read what is written for him.

Thus, the rambling Houston speech doused early hopes. Rafshoon seems less interested in the words and substance that make up speeches than in image-making. Short of getting the president to go through speech drafts prepared for him, Rafshoon himself is not keen about wading through printed words.

It is particularly galling for some Carter aides that while doing little to rehabilitate the president, Rafshoon has become a darling of the media. "Sightseeing to the drumbeat of image-builder Gerald Rafshoon," began the New York Daily News in explaining the president's July 6 tours of Civil War battlefields. "Carter's media wizard" was reported as telling the president, "in effect, to go out and meet people."

Rafshoon is probably more victim than perpetrator of such publicity. Particularly anxious of late to halt the Rafshoon media blitz, he rejected a recent bid from ABC's "Issues and Answers" and vetoed a proposed article on him for People magazine. "Jerry has turned down about three-fourths of the media requests," reports a sympathetic colleague, "but he probably should have turned down the other fourth, too."

Rafshoon complains that every public movement by the president is unfairly attributed to his advice. He denies parentage of either the Civil War battlefield tour or the president's much publicized warning of dismissal for illegal drug users on the White House staff. Nevertheless, staffers profess to see Rafshoon's imprint on the president's anti-drug memorandum (considering the vigor with which Rafshoon personally threatened his own subordinates if they smoke marijuana).

Whether Rafshoon is personally responsible, the release to the press of Mr. Carter's "confidential" memorandum against staff drug usage is all too reminiscent of the fumbling amateurism that has plagued the White House. His failure thus far to introduce professionalism — while being so lavishly publicized as Jimmy Carter's savior — explains why uncharitable colleagues compare him with Prince Potemkin.

World Vision mercy mission is barely tolerated

By PETER ARNETT
Associated Press Writer

Somewhere in the South China Sea, a converted Navy landing ship waits to do the job no government wants.

A fishing boat arrives crowded with Vietnamese fleeing their homeland. Now the crew aboard the old Navy vessel goes to work. A sick child is treated. Food is given.

The tiny fishing boat then sails on, becoming just a speck on the western horizon bound for any place that will let its passengers land. And on the mercy ship they debate whether the little craft and its human cargo will make it.

"Officially, we couldn't tell them what direction to take, or even point them the right way," explains W. Stanley Mooneyham, president of World Vision International, the humanitarian organization that chartered the landing ship to use as a floating aid center for Vietnamese boat people fleeing across the South China Sea.

"The neighboring countries barely tolerate our activities because they are unhappy about accepting the refugees. There seems to be a conspiracy against the boat people. It is ludicrous that human life is held so cheaply," Mooneyham said in an interview after returning from Southeast Asia.

Since the World Vision ship began its $50,000-a-month mercy mission in early July, President Carter has ordered American flag carriers to pick up Vietnamese refugees found in distress at sea. Ship owners are being assured that the United States will take the responsibility for their resettlement. No refugees are known to have been picked up yet.

Mooneyham said this was one step toward "changing the inhumanity that since 1975 has encouraged international shipping to pass by Vietnamese refugees without helping them, actions unique in the history of Western civilization."

Much more is needed, he asserted, "because we know large numbers of refugees are drowning at sea." Accurate figures on human losses are not available because the boat people set out in secrecy.

But eyewitness reports from surviving boat people suggest that up to 50 percent drown. Some of the 1,800 refugees who arrived in Malaysia one recent week reported that 200 of their number drowned en route.

Since the end of the Vietnam War in 1975 a total of 40,000 boat refugees have landed in Thailand, Malaysia, the Philippines, Indonesia and Australia, most of them in the past 12 months. There are 21,000 waiting in camps for resettlement, and the flow continues unabated.

Mooneyham said that when he broached his idea for a mercy ship in January and February "all five governments in the area, the United States and the United Nations officially discouraged me. One official said, 'God, don't give them enough gas to get to Australia.'"

Mooneyham said, "I got the feeling that the more we saved, the bigger the problem for the world. But I knew the boat people were not vicious people. They just wanted to live in freedom."

World Vision, a Christian charity that gets its money from donations, located an old World War II Navy landing ship that had been used to haul supplies between Singapore, Saigon and Hong Kong.

The organization leased it and added portable living units to provide a first-aid clinic and living quarters for two Chinese nurses, an Indian doctor, an American captain — Burt Singleton, from Palos Verdes, Calif. — and a crew of nine.

A mechanic and an interpreter rounded out the ship's complement, and it has begun roaming the South China Sea about 100 miles off Vietnam, traveling a course known to be favored by the boat people.

"We have family food packs aboard with 10 days supply, charcoal braziers, and gasoline," Mooneyham said. "When the boats leave Vietnam they are as lightly supplied as possible because of the risk of detection."

"We give the sick first aid, and we provide a compass for ships that need it."

Officials were concerned about the mercy mission because most Asian points barred vessels arriving with Vietnamese refugees. "We will pick up people if we have to," said Mooneyham, but so far they have gotten by with aid and assistance to the boats they encountered at sea.

Mooneyham said, "What we need to do is internationalize this problem. I believe America has a unique and specific responsibility to these debris of the war, but so does mankind. To abandon these boat people now is an unconscionable act."

Former Midlanders caught by flood

KERRVILLE — Former Midlanders Mr. and Mrs. L.L. Williams spent 5½ hours tangled in barbed wire in a tree Wednesday morning, but ultimately they were rescued by helicopter from the flood below.

Mr. Williams' mother, Claudia Livingston, however, lost her footing as the family scrambled to escape the rising water from the Guadalupe River. She was swept away from the Williams and drowned.

Mrs. Williams was school nurse who worked 20 years at Midland and Lee high schools. Mr. Williams had retired from Mobil Oil Co. in 1977. The couple moved to Center Point in June.

Mrs. C.L. Marler of Odessa, an in-law of the Williams, said in Kerrville today the Williams and Mrs. Livingston received a warning call from a neighbor about 3:30 a.m. Wednesday. When they looked out the window, they discovered the water from the river beside their home had risen into the yard.

After a few moments of attempting to put valuables out of the water's reach, the family decided it was time to evacuate, Mrs. Marler said. The three got into a car, which stalled just outside the gates to the house. They then attempted to move to higher ground.

Mrs. Marler said it was then that Mrs. Livingston lost her footing and was swept away by swiftly flowing water. But Mr. and Mrs. Williams managed to grab hold of a tree branch, and held on to it and each other until rescued about 10:30 a.m.

As they held on, they watched their belongings float past.

"They lost everything out of their house," Mrs. Marler said.

Today, Williams and his son were at the ravished house guarding it against looting.

Friends of the Williams have set up the Beverly and Lee Williams Fund at Commercial Bank and Trust in Midland in an attempt to help the family repair the house and replace belongings. The couple had no flood insurance.

Marshall says no; newsman to jail

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall today refused to extend an order barring the jailing of New York Times reporter Myron A. Farber.

Farber, who has refused to turn over his notes in the murder trial of a New Jersey doctor, and a Times attorney headed for the Bergen County Jail in Hackensack, N.J. The attorney said, "We will be out there as soon as traffic permits."

A.M. Rosenthal, executive editor of the Times, said in a statement after Marshall's decision: "The fact that an American reporter is going to jail simply because he did his job well says more than any statement we can make. We will continue to fight through the courts. Meanwhile, Mr. Farber remains in jail and the First Amendment in jeopardy."

Attorneys for Farber and the Times — both convicted of contempt — won a two-day delay of the sentence Wednesday from Marshall.

Marshall's stay of the sentencing was to expire at noon if he took no further action or unless he granted a permanent stay in the so-called Dr. X trial.

Marshall said he personally felt the case should be reviewed by the high court, but did not feel that the required minimum of four justices would vote to accept the case.

In a seven-page order, Marshall held out little hope for Farber should he appeal to another justice for a stay.

He said that Farber and the newspaper "bear an especially heavy burden, for a single justice will seldom grant an order that has been denied by another justice."

Allergists have advice for those who suffer the stings and bites of wasps, other winged creatures

By B.D. COLEN
The Washington Post

Mow your lawn, you enrage the yellow jackets. Weed your garden, you annoy the honey bees. Clean your attic, you upset the wasps.

In fact, it doesn't matter what you do in the summer, sooner or later you're going to become the enemy of a stinging or biting insect.

While there is nothing funny about being stung by a winged creature — it is not for nothing that certain unpleasant persons are referred to as wasps — the reality of a sting does not warrant the fear many of us harbor from our childhoods.

For about 99.2 percent of us, a sting brings nothing more than temporary pain, redness and swelling.

According to Dr. Lawrence M. Lichtenstein, a professor of medicine at Baltimore's Johns Hopkins University Medical School, of all the flying insects, wasps are gifted with the most painful sting. Next on the unpleasantness scale comes honey bees, followed by yellow jackets, he says. When stung by a honey bee, the first thing you have to worry about is removing the stinger, which the bee rudely leaves behind when he stings.

Dr. Martin Valentine, a colleague of Lichtenstein's at Johns Hopkins, says many of the old home remedies are effective in removing the stinger and helping to soothe the sting.

Household ammonia, baking soda or anything slightly alkaline is "slightly helpful," says Valentine. "What you're left with is trying to reduce a local reaction. Try putting ice on it," he recommends.

Also helpful in dealing with the pain and swelling are aspirin and aspirin products, according to Valentine, who, like Lichtenstein, is an allergist.

Another thing that is said to help counteract the effects of a sting is an antihistamine. Valentine recommends chlortrimeton, which he and many physicians claim is the best of the over-the-counter antihistamines.

Those other airborne plagues of summer, the mosquitoes, gnats, black flies and deer flies, want to eat you rather than sting you. They bite in order to suck blood, which does not make an encounter with them any more pleasurable than with a stinging insect.

According to Valentine, there are very, very few of us who have serious allergies involving the biting insects.

Some people experience a good deal of swelling and tenderness around the area of a bite, and occasionally a physician may need to use a derivative of cortisone, a hormone, for a few days to control the reaction, warns Valentine.

That is a far cry, though, from what the remaining 0.8 percent, or about 1.7 million, experience when stung by a bee, wasp, hornet or yellow jacket.

For that small percentage of the population, such a sting is life threatening. About 50 deaths a year are attributed to such stings, a figure Valentine says is an understatement. Additional sting deaths, he says, are probably wrongly attributed to heart attacks.

If you have ever been stung by one of the fearsome four and need to ask if you are one of the unlucky allergic persons among us, you are not.

Those suffering from any of these potentially fatal allergies experience such symptoms following a sting as having their tongues and throats swell or their breathing made difficult or impossible. Sometimes they go into convulsions. They may become comatose. It is not something one forgets.

One precaution such persons can take is that of carrying a prepackaged kit usually containing a dose of Adrenalin, an antihistamine and other items to combat the sting.

There is also good news from Drs. Lichtenstein and Valentine, who recently published findings of a seven-year study indicating that those who are allergic to stings can be almost completely protected from them with a series of injections containing the venom of the insect, or insects, to which they are allergic.

Lichtenstein says he expects the new treatment to be widely available by next summer. It is not cheap (a patient will probably pay $150 to $200 for a year's shots) and not a one-time thing (one will have to have the shots on a monthly basis for an indefinite number of years). But the shots will give a sufferer the peace of mind to roam the golf course or garden without constantly worrying about the proximity of a single honey bee.

For the past 50 years persons suffering from hypersensitivity to insect stings have been taking shots of something known as whole-body extract, a preparation of ground-up insect. Lichtenstein and his fellow researchers found, in clinical trials, that the whole-body extract provided no more protection against stings than totally useless placebos.

Copter crash kills two hurts three

TWENTYNINE PALMS, Calif. (AP) — Three Marines reservists injured in a helicopter crash were reported recovering in good condition while officials continued to probe what caused the incident that killed two other Marines.

The crash Wednesday at the desert military base about 40 miles north-east of Palm Springs killed Sgt. Joe Rubarts of Dallas. Injured were Capt. John Ludwig, Capt. Timothy Heffernan and Lance Cpl. Billy Bennett.

The name of the second Marine killed has been withheld pending notification of his relatives.

Weed bed 'innocent'

DENVER (AP) — A Denver police sergeant says he is taking a bad razzing after the suspected marijuana patch he ordered destroyed apparently turned out to be a rag weed patch.

The patrolman who was sent to pick the weed wasn't too happy either. He ended up going to the hospital with a severe allergic reaction.

Wheat not best choice in flour

DEAR DR. SOLOMON: My daughter is on a big bread-baking binge. And I thought I would just ask you what kind of flour might be the most nourishing. I like to see her get good nourishment in any way she can—Patricia D.

DEAR PATRICIA: Wheat is certainly one good source of protein—but there is a problem. It is short of lysine, an essential amino acid without which protein cannot be considered complete.

It is important to have a balance of these essential amino acids in at least some of the protein you get in your diet. So the thing to do is add something to the wheat flour to make it complete dietary protein. One excellent way is to combine soy flour with wheat flour. However, soy flour does have a distinctive taste, which some people don't care for in their bread.

Another method is pea flour. You may have a bit of trouble finding it at the moment, but researchers at the U.S. Department of Agriculture say they expect it to become much more widely available before long. They have found that, by substituting pea flour for 15 percent of the wheat flour in a loaf of bread, the protein value of the loaf rises 15 percent. And pea flour doesn't affect the taste, the cost or the baking quality. In case the idea of eating green bread is too much—even for your young vegetarian daughter—assure her that the color gets bleached out in the oven.

Another thing I'm sure your daughter and her vegetarian friends will probably be happy about: The USDA says that using pea flour in bread will benefit not only consumers but wheat farmers in the Pacific Northwest, where 90 percent of all peas are produced in this country. Here's why. There are severe erosion problems in the wheat fields of the Northwest. And rotating crops and growing wheat on pea stubble turns out to be a fine way to control erosion.

DEAR DR. SOLOMON: How do you feel about fruit juices you buy in nursing bottles, ready to use? Are they okay?—Franny.

DEAR FRANNY: They do save trouble, but they may also spell trouble. The American Academy of Pediatrics (AAP) says that juice in ready-to-use bottles can lead to a severe form of dental decay called "nursing bottle caries." The same goes for using bottles of milk as pacifiers—especially at nap or bedtime.

The AAP is all for teaching infants to drink from a cup as they near their first birthday. This is especially important if they are given juice, as the natural sweetness makes it a favorite beverage.

(If you have a medical problem, see your doctor. If you have a medical question, write to Neil Solomon, M.D., 1726 Reisterstown Road, Baltimore, Md. 21208. Dr. Solomon cannot give personal replies but will answer as many questions as possible in his column.)

Many parents also victims of beatings

By JANE SEE WHITE

NEW YORK (AP)—One morning, a Pennsylvania woman who divorced her husband because he beat her weekly was punched in the mouth by their 17-year-old son. "Aren't you happy now?" he asked. "You've still got me to hit you."

An 81-year-old Chicago man was chained to a radiator by his 19-year-old daughter. She stole $2,300 from him before she set him free seven days later. He told police from his hospital bed that he would not press charges.

In New York, a 19-year-old youth was arrested for thrashing his mother and stealing her money—repeatedly. He tossed off a final plea as police led him away. "Aw, come on Ma. I only hit you a couple of times."

The social workers and scholars who move about the veiled corridors of family strife say no one is sure how many parents are battered by their offspring. But they say that this most private of miseries—the son who slugs his mother, the daughter who shoves her down the stairs—is more common than most would suspect.

Through the burgeoning number of shelters for battered women, bits of information have surfaced about offspring injuring their mothers. Next to nothing, however, is known about those who attack their fathers.

"It's the last family problem to be explored," said Richard Gelles, a University of Rhode Island sociologist.

"It is a hidden problem, but it's something all of us found as we started to share information," said Sue Bienemann, director of a new coalition of 18 Pennsylvania projects for battered wives.

"It's a strange thing, because oftentimes the mothers are reluctant to disclose that their children beat them. They want to protect them. They don't want to get them into trouble," she added.

After interviewing more than 2,100 families, Gelles and Murray Strauss, a University of New Hampshire sociologist, concluded that as many as one in 10 parents—both men and women—have been kicked, slugged, punched and otherwise battered by their offspring.

"The number may be higher, because not every one will talk about it," Strauss said.

The researchers believe one in five parents may have suffered lesser abuse at the hands of their children, an expression, perhaps, of the adolescent turmoil that can bubble over: objects lobbed at their heads, shoving, pushing, furious verbal abuse.

But at its most explosive, Gelles says, there is "stark evidence" that such physical abuse is learned at the knee of an assaultive parent.

"Of the 5 or 6 million kids who assault their parents, most are probably kids who've been assaulted by their parents," he said.

Gelles and Strauss think the violence goes beyond self-defense or revenge. To strike out—to win by decking a parent—is the way these young people learned to handle family disagreements.

SIU pounding out reputation as world blacksmithing center

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP)—Sparks fly in showers, heat rolls up in merciless waves and the ringing of metal on metal assails the ears. But Dennis Proksa doesn't care, because blacksmithing is his life.

"I like the noise," he insists, "the ring of the anvil. I don't notice the heat."

Proksa, 29, of Pocatello, Idaho, is among 18 blacksmiths attending a 10-day workshop at Southern Illinois University.

The university School of Art is sponsoring the workshop, which ends today, under a $12,700 grant from the National Endowment for the Arts and matching money from the university.

"We are trying to establish Southern Illinois University as one of the blacksmith centers of the United States," explains Brent Kingston, a master blacksmith and professor at the School of Art.

SIU, where philosophers devour the ideas of Plato and Kant, scientists probe the atom and space and athletes compete for Missouri Valley Conference honors, also offers bachelor's and master's degrees in blacksmithing.

Master blacksmith Francis Whitaker, 71, of Aspen, Colo., says he is impressed with the school's curriculum. But he adds that the art can be taught best through practice.

"I started blacksmithing when I was 16," he recalls.

"My father knew that I should work with my hands, so he started me with a fine blacksmith in Philadelphia."

It was off to Germany a year later for three years as an apprentice. "Those three years gave me a good background that has lasted me the rest of my life."

Whitaker believes demonstration is a good teacher, and the university is a winner because of that.

He demonstrates the problems encountered from the design stage of a blacksmithing project to completion by hammering out a 9-foot-wide gate and ralling that will be installed at North Fanner Hall.

It is possible today to be a blacksmith and never touch a horseshoe, workshop participants say.

Another workshop member, Frank Turley of Sante Fe, N.M., says he started as a farrier and still shoes about one day a week.

Rep. Craddick expresses disappointment in bill

AUSTIN—State Rep. Tom Craddick of Midland said Thursday he is disappointed the Texas House removed several provisions from a proposed constitutional amendment on tax reform.

Craddick told The Reporter-Telegram today he voted for the amendment. But, he said he voted against substituting the version ultimately passed Wednesday for an earlier one which contained provisions placing stiff requirements on passing future income tax bills. Craddick also said he favored provisions, included in the earlier version but not in the final one, which would have established initiative and referendum procedures.

The Midland legislator said he is opposed to a provision in the version that passed which would establish a single property valuation agency in each county, with assessments to be based on state standards.

Craddick predicted the Senate will not concur with the House version, and the amendment will be sent to a conference committee.

Wolfcamp oil opener reports potential test

Cities Service Oil Co. No. 1-CY State Communitized has been completed as Wolfcamp discovery in the Winster, North (Morrow) area of Eddy County, N. M. Operator reported a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 2,299 million cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 9,133 to 167 feet. During four-point tests, the strike produced 89 barrels of 60-gravity distillate and three barrels of water. Total depth is 11,375 feet in the Morrow. Plugged back depth is 9,235 feet. Five and one-half-inch casing is set to total depth. The discovery is 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 29-19s-28e and 15 miles northwest of Carlsbad. It is 1/2 mile west of Morrow production.

FLOWING WELL
Sundance Oil Co. of Denver, Colo., No. 1-B Oakson-Federal has been completed as a flowing well in the Tom Tom—(San Andres) area of Chaves County, N. M. Operator reported a daily potential of 205 barrels of oil and two barrels of water through a 24/64-inch choke and perforations from 3,831 to 5,899 feet. Gravity was not reported, and the gas-oil ratio is 440-1. The pay was treated with 6,500 gallons. Total depth is 3,993 feet and 4.5-inch pipe is set on bottom. Hole is plugged back to 3,990 feet. Location is 1,980 feet from north and west lines of section 33-7s-31e and 13 miles southwest of Kenna.

CHISUM AREA
Fred Pool Jr. No. 1-L Sunshine is a new oiler in the Chisum, East (San Andres) area of Chaves County. The well, 1/2 mile northwest of the p8ool discovery, is 2,310 feet from south and 330 feet from west lines of section 10-11s-28e and 22 miles southwest of Caprock. It completed for a daily pumping potential of 28 barrels of 24-gravity oil, with gas-oil ratio too small to measure, through perforations from 2,230 to 2,272 feet after 3,500 gallons of acid.

Discoveries complete in Dawson, Crockett

Discoveries have been completed in Dawson and Crockett counties. Mitchell Energy Corp. of Houston No. 1-6 Waldrop was potentialized as a Spraberry oil discovery in Dawson County, 1500 feet north of the depleted Key, North (Spraberry) field. Operator reported a 24-hour pumping potential of 37 barrels of 38-gravity oil and 100 barrels of water, through perforations from 7,288 to 7,292 feet after 250 gallons of acid and 14,000 gallons of fracture solution. Total depth is 7,595 feet and 5.5-inch casing is cemented at 7,594 feet. Location is 990 feet from south and 467 feet from east lines of section 6, block 34, T-5-N, T&P survey and 5.5 miles northeast of Lamesa.

CROCKETT STRIKES
A pair of discoveries have been completed in Crockett County by Methane Gas Co. of Dallas. The operator finished No. 1 E. G. Baggett estate as a Clear Fork "B" strike 13 miles south of Ozona and one mile southwest of the lone producer in the Baggett (Clear Fork) pool. On 24-hour potential test it pumped 19 barrels of oil and no water, through perforations from 2,565 to 2,825 feet, natural. Gas-oil ratio is 53-1. Total depth is 2,978 feet and 4.5-inch pipe is set on bottom. The Clear For-

Field wells complete in West Texas sectors

AMOCO PRODUCTION CO. NO. 3 E. L. TURNBOW is a new pumper in the Breedlove Devonian pool of Martin County, 15 miles southwest of Lamesa. Operator reported a daily potential of 135 barrels of oil and 202 barrels of water, through perforations from 11,976 to 11,990 feet after 2,000 gallons of acid. Gravity of the oil is 41.3 degrees and gas-oil ratio is 104-1. Total depth is 12,250 feet and 5.5-inch casing is set at 12,223 feet. The plugged back depth is 12,220 feet. Location is 15 miles southwest of Lamesa and 550 feet from north and 1,350 feet from east lines of labor 10, league 259, Borden County School Land survey.

CRANE OILER
Atlantic Richfield Co. No. 7-L-K Block 31 Unit has been completed in the Block 31 (Devonian) pool of Crane County, six miles northwest of Crane. It finished for a daily flow of 216 barrels of 46-gravity oil and 24 barrels of water, through a 1/2-inch choke and perforations from 8,107 to 8,931 feet. The pay was acidized with 6,500 gallons and fractured with 14,000 gallons. Total depth is 9,000 feet and 5.5-inch pipe was landed on bottom. The plugged back depth is 8,945 feet. Well site is 1,320 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 34, block 31, University Lands survey.

MCKEE WELL
Gulf Oil Corp. No. 779-1 W. MN. Waddell and others has been completed as the fourth well in the McKee (Wolfcamp) pool of Crane County, 18

Total depth is 2,279 feet and 5.5-inch casing was set on bottom.

MORROW GASSER
Yates Petroleum Co. of Artesia, N. M., No. 1 Kennedy Communitized, has been completed as a new well in the Kennedy Farms (Morrow gas) pool of Eddy County, three miles south of Artesia. It finished for a daily flow of 2,300,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through a 1/2-inch choke, with 380-pound tubing pressure. The pay, behind perforations from 8,600 to 7,618 feet, was acidized with 3,000 gallons. Location is 2,510 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 33-17s-26e. Hole is bottomed at 8,732 feet and plugged back to 8,666 feet. Operator set 4.5-inch casing at 8,728 feet.

CORBIN OILER
Harvey E. Yates of Midland No. 1-35 Corbin-State is a new well in the Corbin (Queen field of Lea County, N. M. The well finished on the pump for 42 barrels of oil and 47 barrels of water per day. The gas-oil ratio is too small to measure. Completion was through perforations from 3,856 to 3,877 feet after 4,500 gallons of acid. Well site is 2,310 feet from north and 330 feet from west lines of section 35-17s-33e and 10 miles southeast of Maljamar. Total total depth is 9,000 feet in the Abo and plugged back depth is 4,100 feet.

CHAVEROO POOL
El Ran, Inc., of Lubbock reported potential test for its No. 2 Byron in the Chaveroo (San Andres) field of Roosevelt County, 15 miles west of Milensand. On 24-hour potential it pumped 45 barrels of oil and 85 barrels of water, through perforations from 4,160 to 4,253 feet. The gravity is 24 and the gas-oil ratio is 24-1. Total depth is 4,312 feet and 4.5-inch pipe is set on bottom. Plugged back depth is 4,306 f335. Well site is 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 34-7s-32e.

HOWARD EXPLORER
Sayers Operating Co. of Midland No. 1 W. C. Winters has been staked a 7,600-foot wildcat in Howard County, 1/2 mile east of Vincent. Location is 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 6, block 25, H&TC survey. The site is 1.5 miles northwest of the Vincent (lower Clear Fork) pool and 7/8 mile east of the Sara Mag (Canyon) field.

KING WILDCAT
Bass Enterprises Production Co. No. 2 Coodwin will be drilled as a 6,300-foot wildcat in extreme North King County along the King-Cottle County line. It is 13 miles southeast of Paduech and 467 feet from south and east lines of section 200, I&GN survey and 1.5 miles northwest of the Providence (Atoka) field. PECOS TEST
Ladd Petroleum Corp. of Denver, Colo. No. 1-A Gomez South Unit will be drilled in the Gomez (Ellenburger) area of Pecos County, eight miles northwest of Fort Stockton. Contract depth is 22,000 feet. The drillsite was staked to replace No. 1 Gomez South Unit which is 450 feet to the south. The No. 1, a producer in the Ellenburger, has collapsed casing in the hole. As soon as No. 1-A production is established plans are to plug back and test No. 1 in an upper zone. The location for No. 1-A is 2,630 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 255, SA&MG survey.

WARD OFFSET
Burrell & Ice of Monahans No. 1-A J. O. Briticson is a re-entry project in Ward County, one location northwest of the only well in the Payton (Mississippian) pool. Originally completed in the Devonian, it is 10,120 feet from north and 300 feet from east lines of section 6, block 32, H&TC survey and two miles south of Grandfalls. It will be tested above 6,886 feet. Gunn Oil Co. of Wichita Falls spotted a 6,500-foot wildcat in Motley County, five miles southeast of Roaring Springs. Scheduled as No. 1 A. Payne, it is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 12, block 04, WTRR survey, abstract 1485. The location is 1.5 miles southwest of the Roaring Springs (Permo-Pennsylvanian) field and 5/8 mile southwest of a 4,442-foot dry hole.

HOCKLEY OFFSET
Amoco Production Co. No. 52-G Slaughter is a new test 1/4 mile west of the discovery well and lone producer in the Sundown (Cisco) field of Hockley County, six miles southeast of Sundown. The project, scheduled for a 10,200-foot bottom, is 3,000feet from south and 6,200 feet from west lines of section 37, Zavalla County School Land survey.

SAMEDAN TEST
Samedan Oil Corp. of Midland No. 1 Collier is a new test 1/4 mile north of the discovery well and lone producer in the Hickville (Strawn) field of Lubbock County, six miles north of Idalou. Scheduled for a 9,500-foot bottom, it is 1,200 feet from south and 467 feet from east lines of labor 18, league 32, Brown County School Land survey.

Reagan gains tests

Three new projects have been scheduled in field areas of Reagan County.

Brotherton Production Co. of Midland No. 4-17 University will be drilled 1/2 mile northeast of production in the Amigo pool, nine miles southeast of Big Lake. The 2,650-foot test is 2,310 feet from south and 330 feet from east lines of section 12, block 49, University Lands survey. V-BAR AREA
Petroleum Exploration & Development Co. of Midland No. 1-13 University is 1/2 mile southeast of a north extension area to the five-well V-Bar (San Andres) field nine miles southeast of Big Lake. Drillsite for the 2,700-foot test is 467 feet from south and west lines of section 13, block 48, University Lands survey. Wilson Drilling Co. of Midland has the contract. SPRABERRY TEST
The Hanley Co. of Midland announced location for a 7,700-foot project in the Spraberry Trend Area of Reagan County, seven miles northwest of Big Lake. The location is 1,320feet from south and 1,200 feet from west lines of section 10, block 10, University Lands survey. The contractor is FWA Drilling, Inc., of Midland.

WILDCAT TESTS SLATED IN WEST TEXAS SECTORS
Wildcat operations have been scheduled in Andrews, Howard and King counties. Bobby Bonner of Midland No. 1-30 Fasken will be drilled in Andrews County, 13 miles southeast of Andrews. The project, scheduled for a 5,500-foot bottom, is one mile southeast of the Lowe, West (Strawn) field and 1,980 feet from north and west lines of section 30, block 40, T-2-N, T&P survey. The well, No. 1 Herd and others, for the second well in the field, finished for a daily flowing potential of 133 barrels of 41-gravity oil, through a 14/64-inch choke. Tubing pressure was 190 pounds. Gas-oil ratio was not reported. Completion was through perforations at 8,207 feet. Total depth is 8,723 feet and seven-inch casing is set at 8,719 feet. Well site is 2,310 feet from south and 467 feet from west lines of section 15, block 2, T&NO survey. The field was opened by Traverse No. 1-34 J. F. Lott and others. Travers will drill No. 2-15 J. H. Herd and others to 8,750 feet. It is 1,974 feet from north and 467 feet from west lines of section 15, block 2, T&NO survey, abstract 247. FIELD EXTENDER
The Methane Gas Co. of Dallas No. 2-K Seahorn-Fee has been completed one and one-quarter miles northeast of production in the Adams Baggett Ranch (Canyon sand gas) field of Crockett. Completed from the Cany sand, it rated a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 660,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 5,104 to 5,276 feet after 5,000 gallons of acid and 24,200 gallons of fracture solution. Location is 467 feet from south and east lines of section 12.5, block G, GC&SF survey. The well is 30 miles south of Ozona. UPTON TESTS
John L. Cox of Midland spotted two new tests in the Spraberry Trend Area pool of Upton County, 15 miles northeast of Rankin. Each of the tests will be drill to 8,700 feet. No. 1-B McDaniel is one and one-quarter miles south of production and 1,320 feet from south and 990 feet from west lines of section 8, block 2.5, GC&SF survey. No. 1 Mary Wahlenmaier is one and one-quarter miles southeast of production and 1,320 feet from south and west lines of section 9, block 2.5, GC&SF survey. DAWSON OILER
Texaco Inc. No. 1-A Koehler is a new oiler in the Tex-Hamon (Canyon) field of Dawson County, 13 miles south of Lamesa. On 24-hour potential test it pumped 52 barrels of oil and 244 barrels of water, through Canyon perforations from 10,110 to 10,129 feet after 500 gallons of acid. Gravity of the oil is 38 degrees and the gas-oil ratio is 1,590-1. Total depth is 11,604 feet and seven-inch casing is set at 11,593 feet. The plugged back depth is 10,380 feet. The well is a former Fusselman producer. Location is 560 feet from east and 360 feet from north lines of section 27, block 36, T-4-N, T&P survey. CROCKETT RE-ENTRY
R. G. McDaniel of Midland will re-enter and test at 2,135 feet the former H. L. Brown Jr. No. 1-11 University in Crockett County, 24 miles northwest of Ozona. It will be operated as No. 1 Brown-State. Site is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 11, block 44, University Lands survey and one mile east of the Block 47 (shallow) field. It was drilled as a wildcat to 9,335 feet and abandoned in May 1975.

170-page gas price bill may again be in trouble

By RICHARD L. LYONS and HELEN DEWAR The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The natural gas pricing bill which seemed close to final congressional approval after several near brushes with death appears to be in big trouble again.

The fragile agreement worked out by a closely divided House-Senate energy conference to remove federal price controls from newly discovered gas by 1985 threatens to come unstuck because the agreement in principle appears different to some members now that it has been reduced to 170 pages of specific legislative language.

The Senate has been forced to delay consideration of the conference agreement until next week at least because the necessary majority of House and Senate conferees have so far refused to sign it.

Sen. James McClure, R-Ida., thinks it wouldn't raise prices fast enough during the next 7 years. Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., fears it would give producers more than he intended. Members from producing states contend it would discriminate against intrastate gas. They also fear that a recent Supreme Court decision may dry up the intrastate market and should be overturned by adding language to the gas bill.

The issue of price controls versus deregulation involves billions of dollars and has eluded congressional solution for 24 years. But Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., who has led the year-long effort to find agreement, insists the issue can be resolved this year.

ENERGY OIL & GAS

It is a major part of President Carter's energy bill, though he requested continued regulation at higher levels. To the extent that higher prices produce more gas it would reduce reliance on foreign oil, which is the main purpose of Carter's stalled energy package.

One of McClure's major objections to the finished version of the bill is that it appears the annual price increases permitted to 1985 would fail to raise prices to a free market level at the moment of deregulation. He had insisted on this.

Members from Louisiana and other producing states are concerned about a Supreme Court decision of two months ago which some construe as perhaps drying up the supply of gas for consumption within the state where produced. The court ruled that once gas from a tract is dedicated to the interstate market, gas from that land can never be sold for intrastate consumption. A staff member said Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., wants congress to override this decision in the gas bill. But that would mean reopening the bill, and no hearings have been held to form a basis for action.

An attempt by Jackson to meet with Senate conferees Thursday to try to get their signatures on the agreement was postponed until next week because several conferees were out of town.

Meanwhile, a coalition of labor and citizen action groups that claims to represent about 20 million people announced what it called an "all-out" lobbying effort to scuttle the natural gas measure.

International Association of Machinists President William W. Wimpfinger, chairman of a recently organized Citizen-Labor Energy Coalition, called pricing compromise an "insidious private tax that takes money from the pockets of the people and puts it into the over-bulging coffers of the oil and gas industry." It is, he said, "the worst scandal in the American energy scene since the Teapot Dome scandal of the 1920s."

Re-entry scheduled

Estoril Producing Corp. of Midland No. 1-B Medlin is a re-entry project in the three-well V&S (San Andres) pool of Gaines County, 20 miles east of Seminole. The project, originally drilled to 5,050 feet by Youngblood & Youngblood, is 1,980 feet from north and west lines of section 44, block H, D&W survey. It was plugged in 1957. Location is 1/2 mile northwest of production. The field was opened by Estoril No. 1 Medlin in April when it was completed for a 24-hour pumping potential of 15 barrels of 36-gravity oil and 15 barrels of water. Completion was through perforations from 4,932 to 4,967 feet. The gas-oil ratio was too small to measure. The strike originally was drilled by Zapata Petroleum Corp. and plugged and abandoned in 1959 at a total depth of 10,600 feet.

Californians curiously apathetic about the 'big one'

EDITOR'S NOTE: Beneath California, the 600-mile long San Andreas fault lies poised to deliver a minute or so of catastrophic shaking. But most Californians don't think about that, including AP reporter Bill Gardner, who here offers some thoughts on the curious apathy of those who live atop sleeping giant.

By BILL GARDNER

LOS ANGELES (AP) — I sometimes wonder if maybe these scientists warning of the "Big Quake" aren't in cahoots with my mom.

She's always telling me I ought to come home and get the heck out of California before it's too late. It's only a matter of time, she says, before an earthquake knocks my house off its hillside perch.

Now comes this news story: "Scientists at the Goddard Space Flight Center in Greenbelt, Md., say new calculations suggest that the next major earthquake on the San Andreas fault may be larger and might occur sooner than expected."

It's true, of course, that there aren't many earthquakes or hillside perches where I grew up in central Illinois. It might be nice and safe to go back, but I'm going to stay right here and take my chances with the big one.

I've hardly seen a bolt of lightning in the six years I've been here. No tornadoes, no snow, no icy roads, not many muggy days. And if I have to risk an earthquake for all this, well, nothing's free.

Mrs. Robley Evans, who came here with her husband from Wisconsin in 1959, feels the same way. They lived in the San Fernando Valley when the San Fernando quake struck in February 1971 and killed 58 people.

It was scary but they never thought of moving away. "We're settled and that's the way it is," Mrs. Evans said. "In the Midwest there's tornadoes and blizzards and wherever you are there's something."

Thomas Nemes, a woman's clothing manufacturer, also lived in the San Fernando Valley in 1971. A few days after the quake, Nemes said he was "definitely considering leaving Los Angeles."

Seven years later, Nemes is still here. "I like it here. I really do," he says now. "I think I'll stay put. Before moving here, I lived in New York for five years and couldn't stand it."

One measure of the concern people here have about earthquakes is that less than 5 percent of the homeowners had earthquake insurance at the time of the 1971 quake. It's about the same today.

The San Fernando quake was a big quake but not the Big Quake. It measured 6.6 on the Richter Scale, but scientists say a quake of more than 8.0 is due in Southern California.

They figure an 8.0 quake — which scientists consider a "great" quake — should occur on each segment of the San Andreas Fault every 100 years. Northern California last had a big quake in 1906, so one isn't due there yet. But Southern California last had one in 1857.

Earthquakes don't necessarily kill people directly. All but nine of the 58 victims of the San Fernando quake died in the collapse of one hospital. Three others died in the collapse of another hospital.

And there are plenty of old buildings around that were put up before modern construction codes required extra strengthening for earthquake protection. The City of Los Angeles is taking an inventory of those buildings. It's found 5,800 so far and expects to find 3,000 more.

A great many of these buildings are residential hotels and apartment buildings. Mostly old people live there. If anybody should be worried about earthquakes, they should.

Jim Davis lives in one of those old buildings. It's a four-story job, made of red brick and by the front door is a barely readable iron sign that says "Blasdel Arms."

But it's not the Blasdel Arms and hasn't been for some time. Painted on the building's side is another sign. Much of the paint has chipped off, but the words "Bel-Rio Hotel Apartments" can be made out.

Davis lives on the second floor. His door is open and he sits — no shirt! — by himself on his old couch, sipping something. He's 46 and says he came here 15 years ago from Oklahoma for a piece of California prosperity. He's quick to say he has a job, in the back shop at a drycleaner. Pays $105 rent.

Earthquakes don't worry him. "If it's going to happen, it's going to happen. If the quake is strong enough, it can knock down any building."

Geoffrey Goddard's wife died of cancer seven years ago and he lives by himself in a fifth-floor apartment of another old building. After years of "termite work," he's retired at 62 but looks older.

There have been several fires in his building but he feels safe. "I'm right next to the fire escape," he says. "I can get out of here in nothing flat."

Earthquakes? "I don't know what's to worry about," he says. "It might happen 16 seconds from now or 16 years. You aren't going to do anything about it anyway."

Goddard is from New York and would like to return east for a visit.

Bush says he may run regardless

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Former CIA Director George Bush said Thursday he is inclined toward a 1980 Republican presidential bid whether former President Gerald Ford or Ronald Reagan are candidates or not.

"I'm inclining that way...and I think I'm doing the things I should be doing in order to become a candidate," he told a Lincoln news conference. "I'm giving it consideration every waking moment."

Bush, who appeared at a $100 a ticket fundraiser for GOP gubernatorial candidate Charles Thone, said he expects to enter the presidential field early next year.

"If I had a car, I'd take a trip back to New York. But I know it's just like I left it, same old 8 million people."

Over at the Bel-Rio, Davis, too, thinks about his old home sometimes. "If I died, I'd rather be in Oklahoma. I ain't put down no roots here even though I been out here 15 years."

The community of Palmdale, population 12,600, sits atop a desert plateau about 60 miles north of Los Angeles. It also sits atop the San Andreas fault — right on top of it. But like their neighbors down in the city, Palmdale people aren't much worried.

"I don't think anyone really worries about it," said Patricia Hunt, a city hall secretary. "Everytime there's a new prediction in the paper, you think about it for a while and just forget about it."

Minor quakes shock Mt. Shasta area

MENLO PARK, Calif. (AP) — Seismologists said they were not sure if a rash of minor earthquakes centered near Mount Shasta signaled a potential volcanic eruption, but they continued studying while aftershocks from the quakes continued into their second day.

Although Mount Shasta has not erupted for 200 years, it is still classified as an active volcano by the International Volcanological Association.

Scientists at the U.S. Geological Survey said the first quake hit shortly after 2 a.m. Tuesday and measured 4.2 on the Richter Scale. Seven additional shocks, ranging in magnitude from 3 to 4.2, were recorded in the following hour.

Shocks continued through Tuesday and were still being recorded Wednesday morning, the Survey reported.

Survey scientists said they would cooperate with seismologists from the California Division of Mines and Geology in studying the significance of the rash of quakes.

The Richter scale is a measure of ground motion as recorded on seismographs. Every increase of one number means a tenfold increase in magnitude. Thus a reading of 7.5 reflects an earthquake 10 times stronger than one of 6.5.

An earthquake of 3.5 on the Richter scale can cause slight damage in the local area, 4 moderate damage, 5 considerable damage, 6 severe damage. A 7 reading is a "major" earthquake, capable of widespread heavy damage; 8 is a "great" quake, capable of tremendous damage. The San Francisco earthquake of 1906, which occurred before the Richter scale was devised, has been estimated at 8.3 on the Richter scale.

Strong quake hits Chile

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — A strong earthquake shook northern Chile Thursday, causing considerable damage in the city of Copiapo, the University of Chile's Seismology Institute said.

Amateur radio operators who contacted Copiapo said no deaths or injuries had yet been reported. The radio reports said electricity and normal communications channels were cut by the quake, which toppled walls in the city, a mining center 400 miles north of here of about 16,000 inhabitants.

The seismology center said the tremor struck Thursday afternoon and was felt in a large part of the nation. A spokesman said the quake was centered in the Pacific Ocean on a westerly line from Copiapo, which is about 30 miles inland from the coast.

The U.S. Geological Survey in Washington said the quake was measured at a magnitude of 6.7 on the Richter scale and occurred at 2:11 p.m. EDT.

A quake of magnitude of 6 can cause severe damage and a 7 is considered a major quake. By comparison the San Francisco quake of 1906 has been estimated at 8.3.

The Richter scale is a gauge of the energy released by an earthquake, as measured by the ground motion recorded on a seismograph.

Every increase of one number, say from magnitude 5.5 to magnitude 6.5, means that the ground motion is 10 times greater.

No expense spared in evacuation of families

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — State officials vow to spare no expense to evacuate families from their chemically poisoned homes, but hundreds of frightened residents of the tidy Love Canal district say the rescue is too little, too late.

Gov. Hugh Carey has asked President Carter to declare the neighborhood of small white clapboard houses a federal disaster area. Carey said toxic chemicals dumped there 30 years ago had created a "crisis of horrendous proportions."

Carey's appeal came following a state Health Department report noting a high incidence of miscarriages and birth defects in the area abutting a filled canal once used as a dump for chemical wastes. The state stopped short of ordering an evacuation, but warned pregnant women and families with infants under age 2 to move out.

Carey told President Carter that as many as 500 homes may be imperiled by the chemicals that ooze up from the old canal.

State Director of Operations

Thomas Frey promised more than 600 irate Love Canal homeowners Thursday that the 35 families with pregnant women or infants would be moved into alternative housing "as soon as physically possible."

Frey said that shelter under consideration included subsidized public housing and houses on the private market, either for sale or for rent. He did not elaborate.

Frey said New York officials would meet at the White House next Wednesday to plot strategy with federal disaster, housing and environmental officials.

But the tormented residents of Love Canal were not pacified.

"I don't care how they do it. I want out," said Bonnie Snyder. "My 3-year-old adopted daughter is healthy, thank God, but I want her out of here. I will never feel safe here again."

Permian Basin health hearings slated

Residents of the 17-county Permian Basin region will have an opportunity to speak out on health problems in their communities when the Permian Basin Health Systems Agency sponsors three hearings in the Permian Basin.

Midland residents can voice their opinions starting at 10 a.m. Monday in the Midland County Courthouse Commissioners Courtroom on the second floor. Odessa residents will have their chance at 2 p.m. Monday in the Ector County Courthouse, County Courtroom 214. Big Spring and area residents will have a hearing at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the Howard County Courthouse, County Courtroom on the second floor.

The agency is holding the hearings in an effort to identify health problems that need special emphasis and need to be incorporated into the five-year Health Systems Plan.

The plan development process is an on-going function of the PBHSA but is more apparent from August through October when the 10 Planning Task Forces meet to evaluate and revise the existing Health Systems Plan.

Areas of health concern which already are included in the Health Systems Plan are maternal, perinatal, child and adolescent, emergency medical services, heart, cancer, communicable disease, drug abuse, mental health, alcoholism, mental retardation, end-stage renal disease, dental health, rehabilitation, and environment.

Copies of the current Health Systems Plan are available in the Midland County Library and the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission for reference.

The public is invited to attend and participate. Further information can be obtained by telephoning the Health Systems Agency, 915-563-1061, or writing to Box 6391, Midland, 79701.

Continental Airlines begins Midland Airport service

Continental Airlines will begin service Oct. 1 on its newly-awarded Phoenix/Las Vegas route, with one-plane service from Midland Regional Airport to Las Vegas, C.R. Logue, the airlines' regional director, announced today.

The new route award will enable Continental to provide vastly improved service between these cities, Logue said, since it "fits in perfectly with our existing patterns of service."

Passengers also will have the option of Continental's several discounted fare packages, which represent from 30 percent to 50 percent discounts from the regular coach fare, Logue said.

Continental will use Boeing 727 3-engine aircraft with the wide-bodied interior look over the new route.

Logue said the combined efforts of city officials, chambers of commerce and interested residents of Midland and Odessa helped substantiate the need for improved service from West Texas. He said Continental is pleased to have been selected by the Civil Aeronautics Board to provide this particular service.

China now encouraging private TV ownership

By JAY MATHEWS
The Washington Post

POSHAN, China — Pien Hsi-fang at first glance seems an unlikely object of envy in her small pottery factory. She is 40, has four children, a monthly wage of $31 and a monotonous job filling clay molds.

Unlike more than 99 percent of the Chinese population, however, she also has a television set.

In a nation where 900 million people have no more sets than the 1 million or so in the Washington metropolitan area, private ownership of a television has become a sign of prestige for a worker like Pien. Now, in what appears to be a consumer revolution in China, people here are beginning to pursue such status symbols with almost capitalist fervor.

China's official news agency revealed this week that sales of all consumer goods are up 11 percent in the first five months of this year. Through June, sales of television sets doubled.

The administration of Communist Party Chairman Hua Kuo-feng has apparently decided that providing more of the nation's most sought-after luxury item can both win popular goodwill and provide an enormously powerful medium for official propaganda. So, the government has just contracted with two Japanese firms to buy a $150 million factory capable of producing a million television sets a year.

A medium-sized black-and-white set (there may be only 10,000 color sets so far in the whole country) can cost from $200 to $500, at least a year's wages for many workers. A young Chinese official was skeptical when he heard Pien mention her set. His own parents were still waiting for the prices to go down. A co-worker assured him, with a touch of awe in her voice, "Oh, no, she really does have a set."

In this luxury-starved nation, a worker like Pien, with a working hus-

"After a decade in which the private purchase of expensive goods like televisions was often officially criticized, the new post-Mao government is going to great lengths to assure Chinese that now they may buy more and will have more to buy."

band and practically no rent to pay on her factory quarters, can save a great deal of money simply because there is little to spend it on. Cars, refrigerators, stoves and countless other modern devices Americans depend on are simply not for sale to individuals here.

After many factory workers received raises of about 10 percent, personal savings in urban areas like this one, 12 miles southwest of Canton, jumped 20 percent in the first half of this year, according to official Chinese figures. There was little else to do with the money but deposit it, since "even if you had money in China, there's been almost nothing to buy," said Grace Yuan, a Boston-area resident who recently visited relatives in China.

After a decade in which the private purchase of expensive consumer goods like televisions was often officially criticized, the new post-Mao government is going to great lengths to assure Chinese that now they may buy more and will have more to buy. Hua summed it up at a recent Peking conference: "Our fundamental purpose in developing our socialist economy and expanding production is to provide for the step-by-step improvement of the people's material well-being."

Workers like to cite this and other signs of the government's new sensitivity to the needs of the individual home and pocketbook.

"Under Chairman Hua," said Shun Yin-chiang, the production director of Pien's pottery factory, "the rent on each worker's apartment here has been cut from $2 to $1 a month."

Such well-publicized efforts on the part of the government could create a crisis of rising expectations. Hua has also called for the construction of 10 more oilfields the size of the massive northeast complex at Taching and for a nearly threefold increase in Chinese steel production by 1985.

The push for heavy industry is certain to make the production of light industrial consumer goods more difficult. Peking leaders appear to be trying to restrict consumer appetites to the few items that are already on every family's shopping list — wristwatches, radios, electric fans, bicycles, television sets and sewing machines — and forego any effort to stimulate Chinese tastes for the more exotic varieties of Western consumption, like blenders.

Most Chinese will quickly tell visitors what they have their eyes on at the local department store.

"I know just the transistor radio I want," said tourist guide Hsiao Wei-kuo. "It's $60 at the store, so I have to keep saving. I don't know where my money goes. My mother keeps asking me if I have a girlfriend."

The Chinese leadership has tried to ease the life of its population in small ways, through measures such as large purchases of Philippine sugar, to increase the production of candy and other treats. As one official Chinese news item bragged early in July: "China's largest city, Shanghai, is providing 25 percent more popsicles and ice cream, 11 percent more carbonated drinks and 35 percent more beer this summer than in 1977." More toys also produce more cheap thrills.

Tomato hornworm can wreak havoc

By TOM STEVENSON
The Washington Post

Q: A big, green worm is feeding on the leaves of my tomato plant. What should I use to spray to get rid of it?

A: The tomato hornworm, a green worm 4 inches long with a horn on its rear end, can strip many of the leaves off a tomato plant in a short time. It also feeds on the foliage of tobacco, eggplant, pepper, potato and several kinds of weeds.

The best control is to pick it off by hand. It cannot sting or bite, the only damage is to the plant, which loses foliage that produces food by the process of photosynthesis. If picking it off by hand is too big a job, spraying with Sevin is usually effective. Directions on the label should be followed closely.

Q: My neighbor picks his tomatoes when they turn pink and takes them indoors to ripen. He says he gets better results that way. Do you recommend it?

A: To get the best flavor and color, tomatoes should be harvested after they are fully vine-ripened. That is one of the main reasons for growing them, to get that special flavor that you cannot find in those sold in most markets.

Of course, if there is a risk that someone may appropriate them in the dark of the night, that is a different matter.

Q: My compost pile smells awful. Is there anything I can do to stop it?

A: Usually it is due to too much moisture and poor drainage, which causes the pile to stay soggy.

When drainage is slow, decay slows down and offensive odors occur. With good aeration, the disagreeable smell will soon be gone. Turning the pile with a pitchfork also will help by improving aeration.

Q: I've had Oriental poppies for seven years, and the clumps are getting right large. Should they be divided?

A: Clumps of Oriental poppies that have gotten too large can be dug, divided and replanted. The best time to do it is after the foliage dies down in mid-to-late August, when the plants go dormant for a month or so. Growth starts up again in the fall. It is best to replant them in a new location where the soil is fairly good.

Book child raised without sex

By DAVID BEHRENS
Newsday

It knew, of course. It couldn't help knowing. Its parents also knew and so did a few scientists. But nobody else was allowed to find out what gender it was — not even its grandmothers or grandfathers or uncles or aunts or the neighbors next door.

Its name was Baby X, the brain-child of Lois Gould, who is also the mother of two real-life teenagers and the author of four novels for adults.

Baby X, Gould's first heroine, will make its literary debut today in a book called "X: a fabulous child's story." (Daughters Publishing Co., $7.50). It's a simple fable about a young couple named Jones and their decision to raise their first child as an X instead of a son or daughter. It's about ordinary folks and how exercised they get when they're confronted with this little X.

The story of Baby X, illustrated by Jacqueline Chwast, is based on a shorter version which appeared in Ms. Magazine in 1972. Now in hard cover, it has already won advance praise from readers such as child psychologist Lee Salk, who has appreciatively observed: "Lois Gould shows us . . . how extensively our responses to children are determined by their gender."

For Baby X, there were problems right from the start. When it was brought home from the hospital, everyone's first question was: What kind of a baby is it? "When the Joneses smiled and said, 'It's an X,' nobody knew what to say." Nobody knew whether to praise the "cute little dimples" or compliment "the husky little biceps." No one knew whether to give it a tiny football helmet or a pink-flowered romper suit. No one was sure if Baby X should be cuddled and kissed or bounced high in the air. And everyone was very embarrassed.

In fact, most of the adult characters remain embarrassed until the very end when the upbringing of Baby X appears to be a success.

But the story of X is not a how-to book. "It would be very cruel to try to raise a child this way in the world live in. You can't bring up a child in a vacuum. Any child would be hurt if you really tried it," Gould conceded. The story of Baby X is a fable, after all, and a bit of wishful thinking, she said.

There is, she also concedes, "a core of resistance about the question of gender identity." Many people, Gould said, are uncomfortable about the idea of questioning the traditional way of thrusting gender identity on the consciousness of children.

"Questioning the rightness of it makes some people feel anxious," was written by a group of Official Scientists who oversee the Baby X project and are determined to provide a most ecumenical childhood for their subject.

They advised, for example, that Baby X be bounced and cuddled. They suggested that Baby X play with both "Boys' Fire Engines" and "Girls' Housekeeping Sets" and brother-and-sister dolls you couldn't tell apart. They urged that Baby X never be told that "nice little Xes don't get dirty climbing rocks," or that "brave little Xes don't cry" when they hurt them-relay race, being adept at being a quarterback as well as a cake-baker. And almost everyone agreed that "by the time it matters which sex X is, it won't be a secret anymore."

Last week, while vacationing in the Hamptons on Long Island with her children and her husband, Bob Gould, a psychiatrist, Lois Gould recalled that her fable was drafted six years ago. At the time, Carole Hart, a friend of Gould, was producing "Free To Be . . . You and Me," Mario Thomas' prize-winning album about nonsexist education for children, later adapted as a TV special. Gould was asked to contribute to the album.

"I kicked the idea around for a day and a half," she recalled. "What would happen if . . ." And the fable of Baby X was born. Hart loved the idea, but the Baby X segment was too long for the album. Instead, Ms. Magazine, which had participated in the production of the album, published a short version of the tale as one of its "Stories for Free Children."

Since then, Gould said, Baby X has lived an underground life. Using the Ms. Magazine version, a number of elementary and junior high school students have adapted Baby X for school plays. One new mother wrote Ms. Gould that she had used "X" as a middle name for her child. Church groups and colleges have used Baby X in teacher training programs. Children have written Gould to find out "what Baby X really is." Others wrote to tell the author that they really knew. And one little boy felt comfortable enough to write: "I wonder what it would be like to wear flowered underwear."

Its letters such as that one that probably make TV censors nervous. At one point, Gould recounted, Baby X was developed as a TV special, but the project was shelved when ABC censors turned it down. The gender identity question was too touchy for them, Gould says. In fact, even Mario Thomas, an outspoken feminist, was anxious about the Baby X concept on television, she said.

Now, Gould thinks that the idea of a TV special may be resurrected, but Baby X may have to unravel another riddle if the project is adapted as a live drama. Somebody's going to have to decide: Who plays Baby X — boy or girl?

"It would be very cruel to try to raise a child this way in the world we live in. You can't bring up a child in a vacuum. Any child would be hurt if you really tried it."

Lois Gould
Author

even in fable form, Gould speculated. But she is quick to point out that her Baby X does not deny its own sexuality. "It knows." The mystery of Baby X provides Gould with a way of exploring the distinctions that surround gender identity that she feels are artificial.

Some people do worry that de-emphasizing gender identity will "encourage" bisexuality or homosexuality. Ms. Gould does not think so.

"That's the root fear, the specter of rampant homosexuality," she said. But Gould does not believe that the growth of natural sexual drives is connected with the emphasis on gender roles. "There is a lot of fear and hostility in a lot of homosexual behavior. If we develop healthy sexuality, I don't think we're going to have more homosexuality, just more friendship."

Right now, she added, "we program boys and girls to be strangers. Then later we tell them they ought to be attracted to each other because of bosoms or biceps, the external differences, not because of feelings of closeness or caring."

Baby X is raised to believe in good feelings and itself, thanks to the Official Baby X Instruction Manual. The guidebook, used by Baby X's parents, even in fable form, Gould speculated.

Of course, people did get tired of Baby X saying innocuous things like, "I'm a little X." One irate parent suggested that "little brat" was a more apt description. But the real test came when X reached school age. School, the Joneses discovered, was a land of gender apartheid.

Boys lined up with boys; girls lined up with girls.

Boys went to the boys' room; girls went to their room.

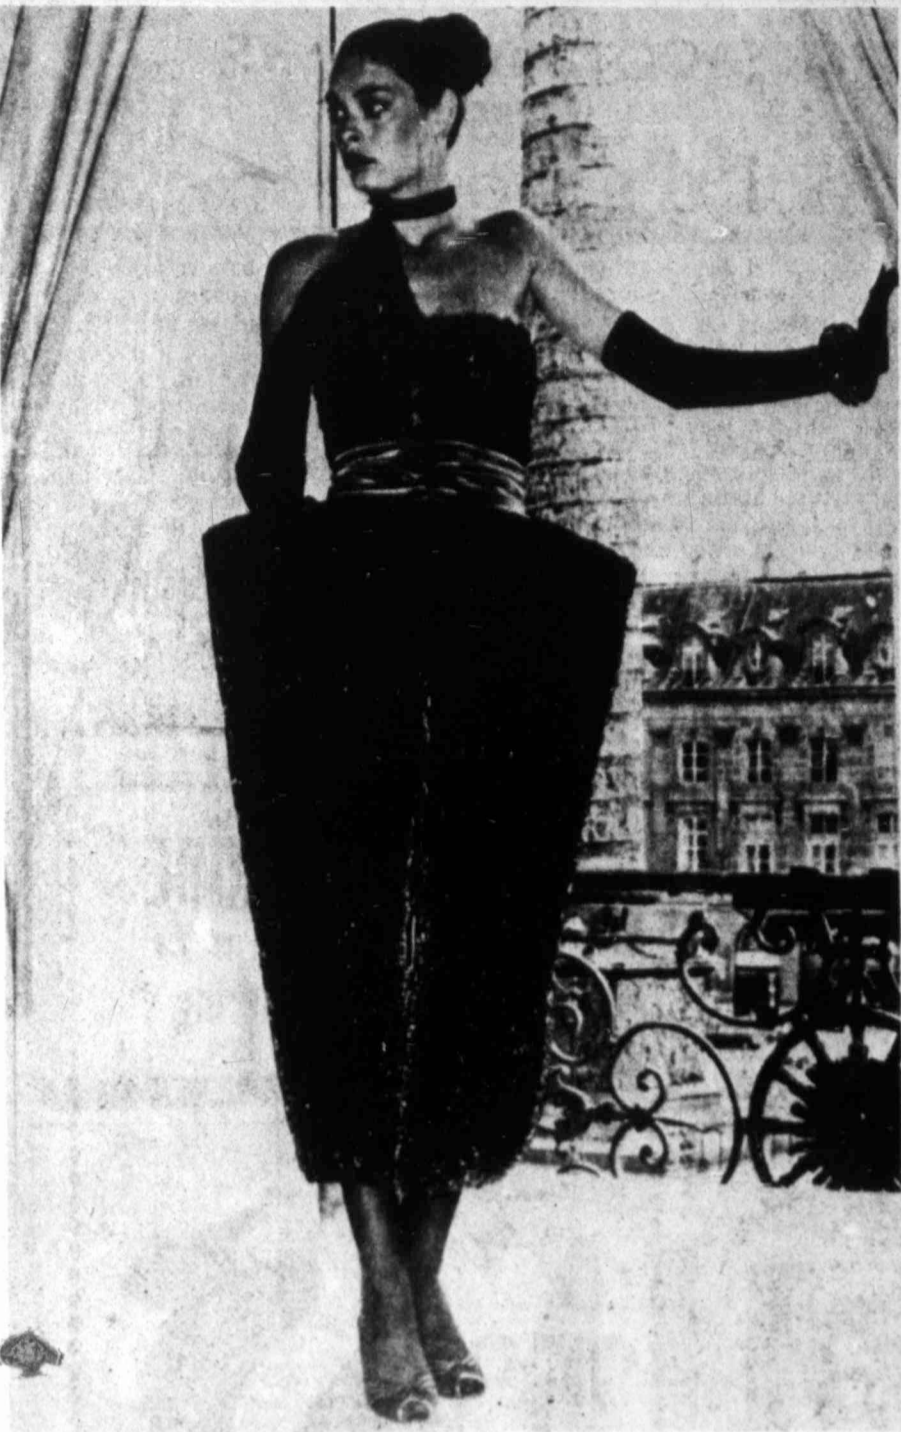

Boys had boy secrets; girls had girl secrets.

Boys had their games and books; girls had theirs.

And even though X wore nonsexist clothes, like overalls, and had a nonsexist haircut (was it a girl's short haircut or a boy's long haircut?), it was a trying time.

Gould, of course, was on hand with some sneaky solutions: a teacher who let boys and girls line up alphabetically rather than in separate lines and a principal who let Child X use the bathroom that was simply marked Bathroom.

But X had to face several crises with other children and with their parents as well. Happily, in the end, almost everyone agrees that an X really had an advantage, being able to win both the spelling bee and the Study indicates Americans prefer marriage over being single

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 600 Americans stay married rather than get divorced.

According to the American Council of Life Insurance, 62 couples out of each 100 marriages remain together. It says a government study of women who marry for the first time "shows that for every 100 who marry, 38 will get a divorce but 29 of the divorced women will remarry and 13 of these marriages will again end in divorce.

"Because of the remarriages and second divorces, the original group of 100 will experience 129 marriages and 51 divorces. However, in 62 of the 100 couples the partners will not change."

Who would buy a $2,120 tie?

By MICHAEL GRANT
Copley News Service

I had always believed that the number of stripes on the lining of a necktie was an indicator of the tie's quality: One stripe being the bottom of the line, five stripes the top.

I knew something was wrong with that system when I checked Countess Mara's regal-red velvet tie on display at a store over the weekend. The tie costs $2,120 (tax included), and it was a two-striper.

"I don't know how that old story got started," smiled Leonard Porter of Countess Mara, who presided over the display.

"Actually, the stripes indicate the weight of the lining: If the fabric of the tie is light, then to give it body, they will need a heavier lining, a four or five-striper.

"It has nothing to do with the quality of the tie."

The two stripes of the regal-red tie, then, indicated that the lining was medium light, and so the material medium heavy. It looked heavier than that. Lush.

"It's cut velvet," Porter said, "made and woven in France."

The weavers had created random flower images ("stylized roses," offered Porter) by "reversing" the face of the material, so the roses, slightly rougher in texture (like a fragile suede), stood apart from the tie's lustrous body.

"A three-dimensional effect," Porter said.

The tie also was studded with two pieces of 22-carat gold jewelry, one featuring seven diamonds, the other four.

Down near the point, in heavy burgundy thread, a nine-point coronet was embroidered into the tie, just over the initials, "C.M." This is the firm's trademark, and the initials of its founder, an Italian countess who died three years ago.

"She was the first ever to put the label on the exterior of the apparel," Porter said. Even before Oleg Cassini? "All those other people followed her," he said.

A third of the way along the tie's length, the velvet gave way to black silklike material — moire or "water-silk" — so that the moire would loop around the neck and form the knot.

This was to keep the delicate velvet out of the fingers doing the knotting and also to keep it away from the "abrasive whiskers beneath the wearer's chin.

The firm has 27 of these ties available for sale now, in six colors. Each comes in a lined leather box. The company, Porter said, does not keep a record of their purchasers' names.

The tie's principal purpose is to draw attention to the firm's extensive inventory of "regular" ties, ranging in price from $13 to $35.

The $2,000 models are made, an accompanying card announces, for "The One Man in a Million."

It would take such a man to wear such a tie to, say, an Italian restaurant.

Porter smiles, nudging the tie with a curled forefinger. "They really love spaghetti sauce," he said.

I shuddered, on cue, at this. Where would one wear a $2,000 tie?

It was still rolling around my mind when I went to bed. And so I dreamed:

I had bought the tie and, of course, a new outfit to go with it. I was motoring homeward, eager to show my wife, when I saw an accident ahead on the freeway. I stopped and, buttoning my coat, left the car.

There was a single victim, sitting on the pavement. He had a gushing cut on his lower leg. He needed a tourniquet.

There was nothing readily usable as a tourniquet. I had no belt (one does not wear loops with a $2,000 tie), and he was wearing tennis clothes — Oleg Cassini, I saw by his sleeve.

Decor score: Whimsical touches can enliven your child's bedroom

By BARBARA HARTUNG
Copley News Service

Q. Our child's room is very dull looking and I'd like to give it some personality.

I have a small budget but do have some time to do some sewing and painting projects.

However, I don't have much confidence in my artistic ability.

Could you suggest some ideas for where to start?

—E.P.

A. Color and imagination are what seem to set exciting children's rooms apart from dull ones.

First, pick a theme. If your child likes sailing or Pooh Bear or Raggedy Ann and Andy, this can give you a color scheme as well.

For example, you could paint Raggedy Ann and Andy figures on the wall or you could buy some plaques that are done professionally (like the ones by Syroco) and use them for wall decoration, augmenting them as Patricia Gaylor did with a trompe l'oeil hillside painted on a bedroom wall. Painting a tree or a hill isn't that difficult. Chances are that your child won't be critical if your tree is out of perspective or has a scraggly branch. Just say you are doing a primitive.

You might buy some unpainted chests and lacquer them bright blue and red or whatever colors your Raggedy Ann and Andy are decorated in.

Repeat the color scheme in simple curtains and a quilt for the child's bed.

For freshening up a dull floor, choose peel-and-stick vinyl squares in whatever your color scheme may be. Or if you want carpeting, try peel-and-stick carpeting squares with several colors for a gay look.

Q. I have a troublesome print carpeting in the bedroom. Please help. The background is just a little off-white with moss green, royal blue, aqua, another medium blue and a tiny speck of orchid. The walls are the same shade of the aqua.

I need help on the sheers, drapes and bedspread. I could change the walls if necessary.

The furniture is modern but not ultra-modern.

A. I believe off-white sheers, draperies and bedspread would be my choice.

If the room is quite dark or cool you might consider changing the aqua walls to off-white. However, if you like the aqua leave it.

If you did the walls in white, you might prefer off-white draperies and sheers and an off-white and aqua bedspread.

Prepare summertime favorites with vegetables, cheese sauce

COLLEGE STATION — With children home for the summer, teach them to make summertime favorites with chopped vegetables and cheese sauce.

Built, they need to learn to chop vegetables without chopping fingers at the same time, says Frances Reasonover, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

To do this, use a chopping board and sharp knife with the vegetables to be chopped—such as zucchini squash.

Hold the vegetable tightly against the board and hold well below the area to be chopped, the specialist advises.

Other dippers for children to prepare are carrot and celery sticks, tomato wedges and pepper strips.

Try these vegetables with this tomato-cheese sauce:

TOMATO-CHEESE SAUCE
2 tablespoons margarine or butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup canned or cooked tomatoes, mashed
1 tablespoon grated onion
1 tablespoon finely chopped celery
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon paprika, if desired
1 to 3 cups grated cheese

Melt margarine or butter, add flour and mix well. Add tomatoes, onion, celery and seasonings.

Cook slowly stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Remove from heat and add grated cheese.

Stir until cheese is melted and the dip is ready to serve with some favorite vegetables.

Try the tomato-cheese sauce with vegetable dippers for a mid-morning or afternoon snack, or use the sauce in a sandwich for lunch with the vegetables as a relish and peanut butter cookies for dessert. Miss Reasonover suggests.

Nutritionally, the vegetables will furnish vitamin A needed for growth and to see in the dark. It is also needed by children to help protect them from infections by keeping the linings of the mouth and digestive system in good condition.

The vegetables also furnish vitamin C that helps hold body cells together and keeps walls of blood vessels strong.

It's also needed to heal wounds and prevent gums from bleeding, she explains.

Cheese in the sauce furnishes calcium needed to help build bones and teeth. Calcium helps muscles work and nerves carry messages. In addition, it helps blood clot and keeps the heart beating.

Cheese and peanut butter also furnish protein needed for building and repairing body tissue. Muscles are built from protein.

Plus, the cheese sauce and peanut butter cookies contain carbohydrates and fats needed for energy for an active summer, the specialist says.

DEAR ABBY

Love's enemy is boredom

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: DESPERATE IN DENVER complained because her relatively young husband had lost all interest in sex. You replied, "Your husband needs to see a physician. If it's not physical, it's mental, and there are cures for both."

Sorry, but it won't help. The problem described by this unfulfilled 40-year-old housewife probably goes back to the time when the institution of marriage began.

Even though I am a heart surgeon, I have known countless male patients (and friends) who strike out at home, but score like crazy at the office. This particular paradox is probably an allergic reaction to the marriage certificate—regardless of whether it's printed on rice paper, papyrus, tapestry or whatever.

If that poor love-starved woman in Denver would dissolve her marriage, take up belly dancing, and then live in sin with the same guy she divorced, it would probably solve her problem.—NEW YORK SURGEON

DEAR SURGEON: You maintain that marriage destroys romance simply because it's legal. Nonsense! Romance's mortal enemy is the rigor mortis that sets in when a relationship becomes boring, monotonous and stale.

Nurturing romance is a 50-50 proposition, or a joint effort.

DEAR ABBY: We are adopting a baby and plan to bring it home from the hospital when it is two days old.

Although the baby will not be ours legally for six months, we would like to let friends know that we have the baby.

Is it proper to send out announcements as soon as we get the baby home, or must we wait until the adoption is legal?—R. R.

DEAR R.: The consensus of those who have adopted babies is that it's proper to make the announcement as soon as the new arrival is in your home.

DEAR ABBY: My life was utterly meaningless until I read your column today and learned that the official date for donning my white shoes is MEMORIAL DAY—and not one day before!

Thanks to you, Dear Abby, my life has taken on real meaning. White shoes are what life is all about. But for how long? I must know the exact cutoff date! And please tell me, what do I do with my feet and my life until that magic moment when I can wear my beloved white shoes again?

In the meantime, you'd better notify Pat Boone. I don't think he knows about this yet.

Sign me, "Standing Pat in my new white shoes." PAT (MY REAL NAME) CONFIDENTIAL TO E. A. P.: Don't bluff. The most refreshing and underused phrase in the English language is: "I don't know."

2 cups cut-up cooked lean meat (trim off all fat)
One-half cup chopped onion
1 tsp. salt
One-fourth tsp. pepper
1 tbsp. Worcestershire sauce
One-fourth cup polyunsaturated oil
Chili sauce

Finely chop potatoes, beef and onion together. In large bowl, mix beef mixture with salt, pepper and Worcestershire.

Slowly heat oil in large skillet. Turn hash mixture into skillet, patting down firmly with spatula.

Cook hash uncovered over medium heat about 15 minutes or until a brown crust forms on bottom. Loosen edges; fold in half. Turn out on platter. Serve with chili sauce. Makes four to five servings.

Aluminum foil funnel can be formed to suit job

By AL CARRELL
Aluminum foil is considered to be a kitchen product. Right? Well, a lot of home handypersons use more of the stuff in the workshop and garage than in the house. Almost every week, I get a hint from someone on how to use foil. Some are new, and others I've used for years. One of the first times I ever used this versatile material was when I couldn't find a funnel. It's easy to fashion one from foil. I start by wrapping the shiny stuff around a finger. Then I form the wide funnel mouth to suit the job. With my finger out, this funnel will fit into a bottle, or any small opening. Maybe you have some other clever tricks. If so, send them along, and we'll pass them on to the world.

have to have a drop of paint on it if you'll just line it with aluminum foil fectly clean tray without any messy clean-up. — W.S.

Dear Al:
Any time you have to stop during a paint job, rather than clean your brushes and roller, you can wrap them in foil, and they will still be soft and without hardened paint when you come back. In fact, if you'll make sure it's a tight fit around the handles, you can do this overnight and still have brushes and rollers that are ready to go the next morning. — P.D.

stuff out. I've made cooking utensils from foil wrapped around a coat hanger wire frame. (Careful poking with the fork though.) If you're lucky enough to catch fish, foil can help control the fish odor on the trip home. Wrapping the back of the camp lantern will reflect much more light. For a back packer who doesn't want to carry a bulky box of foil, just rip off enough from the roll, fold it flat, and it's no bother.

Dear Al:
We learned the hard way that hiding our front door key above the ledge was a mistake. That's probably the second place a burglar looks. We still need to have a key outside because with three scatterbrains in the family, somebody is bound to goof from time to time. We solved the problem by wrapping the spare key in aluminum foil and burying it. The key is protected, and a burglar wouldn't want to dig up the entire yard just in case there was a key underground. — B.H.

foil can result in a trail of dirt and grime, so why not keep a roll of the heavy duty type foil in the workshop? And since you'll use it in odd shapes, it's better and handier to take the roll from the box and mount it from a dispenser on the wall. There's not a dispenser for wider rolls, so rig one from a piece of old broom handle suspended under a cabinet. Rig it on a wire so the handle can rotate, and so it's easily removed for replacement. Ard maybe soon some of your problems will be solved by your saying "foiled again."

Dear Al:
The paint roller tray doesn't ever

New Jersey wineries have European roots

By CAROLE FELDMAN
Associated Press Writer

EGG HARBOR TOWNSHIP, N.J. (AP) — On the sandy soil at the shore and in the industrial north, 11 "little old winemakers" call New Jersey home, making the Garden State the nation's fourth largest wine producer.

The winemakers are mostly automated private concerns, annually producing 4.5 million gallons in 60 varieties, or 1 percent of the nation's total wine output.

California leads the nation in wine output, producing 366 million gallons annually. New York is second with 30 million gallons and Illinois third with 8.5 million gallons, according to figures from the state Department of Labor and Industry.

"People have to be educated to New Jersey wines," said Barbara Muller, hospitality manager for the Renault Winery here. "Americans were brought up thinking you can't make good wine in America."

France, in 1864 and established what is now the state's largest winery.

Frank Tomasello, who learned winemaking in Italy, founded Tomasello's winery in 1933. Krumm Winery in Linwood and Gross Highland Winery in Absecon Highlands were founded by German-instructed winemakers.

New Jersey wines are produced predominantly from New Jersey grapes and are sold primarily in New Jersey.

in the Garden State, said Scott McGlasson, spokesman for the state Department of Labor and Industry.

Costs also include a $3,000 fee for the license required by the state Division of Alcoholic Beverage Control.

New Jersey farmers last year grew 1,100 tons of grapes on 352 acres. All but 200 tons of the grapes were sold for processing, state agriculture officials said.

It takes about five years for a vine to produce good wine-grapes. The pressing and fermentation process takes about eight weeks and then Renault ages its wines for four years in oak casks 80 to 120 years old, Mrs. Muller said.

Several vintners conduct taste tours, giving prospective customers a glance at the winemaking operations and a sip of the product.

Fruit mousse pie makes light dessert

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. — Hearty summer barbecues call for light desserts. What could be more perfect than a fresh fruit mousse pie, sweet and delicate with a refreshing touch of summer?

Today's fruit mousse pie is light and cool to perfection, but it's extra special for other reasons, too. For one thing, it has not one, but two wonderful California summer fruits in the smooth-textured filling. Fresh California peaches team up with rosy nectarines in the first version; the alternative mixes tart 'n tangy plums with mellow Bartlett pears, both are guaranteed to be delicious and easy to prepare—no cooking required. And both have that wonderful fresh fruit flavor no other pie can match.

Elegant mousse pie also gives you a choice of three intriguing pie shells: a walnut, chocolate or sugar cookie crust. All three are sinfully delicious, easy to make and attractive to serve. Fruit Mousse Pie is really a pleasure to prepare, and it's versatility allows you to create a unique pie sensation everytime.

Of course, the favorite way to savor juicy fresh summer fruits is still as an out-of-hand snack. At room temperature, fresh fruit makes a refreshing and nutritious in-between meal treat. Whether selecting fruit for snacks, pies or preserves, you'll want to choose fruit that is perfectly ripe and unblemished.

The fruits of summer are plentiful now, so stock up and enjoy them every way possible. Peak supply periods also make the fruit economical to can, jam or freeze. But do hurry, luscious fresh peaches, plums and nectarines are only available through September and Bartlett pears through October.

For more exciting ways to use and serve fresh California fruits this summer, write for a free, beautifully illustrated 48-page recipe booklet. Send a stamped, self-addressed business-size envelope to "FRUITS OF SUMMER," P.O. Box 255383, Sacramento California 95825.

TWO-IN-ONE MOUSSE PIE

- ¾ pound fresh California peaches (2 to 3 medium), unpeeled and sliced
- ¾ pound California nectarines (2 to 3 medium), unpeeled and sliced
- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
- ½ cup water
- ¼ cup sugar
- 3 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 cup whipping cream, whipped

1 prepared 9-inch pie shell (recipes follow)

Cinnamon
Puree sliced fruits in blender container. There should be 2½ cups of puree. In small saucepan, soften gelatin in water. Then dissolve over low heat. Add to fruit mixture, along with sugar and lemon juice. Blend again. Pour mixture into bowl; chill until syrupy, stirring occasionally.

Fold into whipped cream. Pour into prepared pie shell. Chill until firm, about 2 hours. Sprinkle with cinnamon, if desired.

Makes 6 to 8 servings.

VARIATION:
Substitute ¾ pound fresh California plums and ¾ pound California Bartlett pears for the peaches and nectarines. Increase sugar to 1 cup, depending on sweetness desired. This is especially good in the chocolate nut shell.

CHOCOLATE NUT SHELL

- 3 squares (1 ounce each) semi-sweet chocolate
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1¼ cups blanched, toasted almonds, finely chopped

Melt chocolate and butter in small saucepan over very low heat. Stir in nuts. Chill to partially harden. Press into well-buttered 9-inch pie plate. Chill.

Makes one 9-inch pie shell.

SUGAR COOKIE SHELL

- ½ roll (18 ounces) refrigerated slice and bake sugar cookies
- Slice half of the roll of cookie dough ¼-inch thick. (Wrap and refrigerate remaining dough for later use.) Arrange slices, ½-inch apart, in lightly greased 9-inch pie plate. Completely cover sides and bottom, letting outside ring of cookies cover rim of pie plate. Bake in 375 degree oven 10 to 12 minutes. Cool before filling.

WALNUT SHELL

- 1¼ cups finely chopped walnuts
 - 3 tablespoons sugar
 - 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, softened
 - ¼ cup flour
- Combine all ingredients in bowl; mix well. Press into buttered 9-inch pie plate. Bake in 400 degree oven 8 to 10 minutes. Cool.

- Beverage

2 tablespoons butter, soft
8 thin slices homemade-style bread
4½-ounce can deviled ham
4 ounces sharp cheddar cheese, coarsely grated
3 large eggs
1 cup milk

Spread 1 tablespoon of the butter over the bottom of an 8 by 8 by 2-inch cake pan. Make 4 sandwiches of the bread, spreading them with the deviled ham and adding a layer of the cheese as the filling. Place the sandwiches in a single layer in the buttered pan. Thoroughly beat the eggs with the milk to blend; pour over the sandwiches. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until the egg mixture is absorbed and the bottom browned—30 to 40 minutes. Spread the top of the sandwiches with the remaining 1 tablespoon butter; broil briefly, close to high heat, until the top is browned. Loosen edges; cut each sandwich in half (for easy removal with a wide spatula) and serve at once. Makes 4 servings.

Book details weird TV shows

By JAY SHARBUTT

LOS ANGELES (AP) — If you want to curl up with a good book on TV's sci-fi, fantasy, horror, surrealistic or flat weird shows, get "Fantastic Television" by Gary Gerani. Then start curling.

His 92-page effort surveys nearly 30 years of abnormal TV, from "The Time Tunnel" to "The Prisoner," from "Night Gallery" to "Kolchak: The Night Stalker," from "Superman" to "Capt. Nice."

Published in soft-cover a year ago, now in its third printing, it covers over 200 shows. Some get but a paragraph, others two and three pages of study. It's quite a scholarly work.

"It was kind of an ordeal," sighed Gerani, 24, who has enjoyed abnormal TV shows — including those older than he — since childhood. His tome took him a year to research and write.

He did it at night, on weekends, and he laughs, "occasionally I'd try to sneak it in at work, but I had to be very careful."

His is not your average work. He says he writes the bubble-gum cards, many based on TV shows or films, for the Topps Chewing Gum Co. in New York, where he lives.

Many epics inspected by his "Fantastic Television," like "Atom Squad" (NBC, 1953), verge on the obscure. And who, except all of us, recalls that "Capt. Z-Ro" aired in 1955?

How did Gerani compile his data on shows major and minor?

"Well, much of it was memory.

stuff I knew as a fan, and I knew others who were into it (unusual TV) from a nostalgia viewpoint," explained the compiler, aided in his task by Paul H. Schulman.

He had a vast collection of pictures and publicity handouts. So did studios and syndicators whose displays of yesteryear still can be sighted on today's TV for the 90th or so time.

Beatle Harrison fathers first son

LONDON (AP) — George Harrison of the Beatles and the Mexican woman he lives with, Olivia Arras, have had a son, friends of the couple reported Wednesday.

They said the 5-pound baby was born Tuesday at a nursing home in Windsor and the parents are calling him Dhani.

Harrison reportedly told friends: "I am on top of the world — utterly thrilled and excited."

Harrison, 35, and Miss Arras, 28, met in Los Angeles when she was employed by his record company as a secretary. They have been together for about four years. He was divorced last year from model Patiti Boyd after 11 years of marriage. They had no children.

Vietnam movie rough, good

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

WHO'LL STOP THE RAIN is an ambitious present-day allegory of how the Vietnam war corrupted individual lives. Michael Moriarty, a Marine turned journalist, decides to turn heroin from Vietnam to the United States, and involves his wife, Tuesday Weld, and a former Marine buddy, Nick Nolte.

They immediately encounter a sadistic gang, who may or not be government agents. Motivations are hazy (Nolte reads Nietzsche), and some sequences fail, such as a meaningless foray into the film world.

But director Karl Reisz keeps the tension mounting from the beginning, and he draws superior performances from the three stars.

Rated R, it contains rough language, torture sequences and demonstrations of drug use.

THE NAZI CONNECTION. By F. W. Winterbotham. Harper & Row. 222 Pages. $8.95. Author F. W. Winterbotham.

botham recently scored a success with his book "The Ultra Secret," which dealt with his experiences with a captured German code machine during World War II.

Prior to his participation in the events related in that book, Capt. Winterbotham's service to MI6, the famous British intelligence unit, was to find out as much as possible about Germany's pre-war plans. To pull it off, the author posed as a British sympathizer to the Nazi cause.

Establishing a contact with a Nazi newspaperman, Winterbotham's adventure in what he calls "a job in a million" is under way.

Incomplete strip may be necessary

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

In most of the end plays discussed this week declarer must draw trumps. If drawing the last trump will destroy the end play, however, declarer must execute an "incomplete strip" by leaving one trump out.

Opening lead — ♠ 8

East takes two high spades and leads a third spade to dummy's king.

Relieved that West didn't ruff, South must still avoid losing two diamonds.

Declarer should lead a diamond to the ace and draw just two rounds of trumps with the queen and jack. He next cashes the high clubs and then leads a diamond for an end play, leaving one trump out.

END PLAY WORKS

South hopes that one of the opponents started with Q-x or D-x of diamonds and only two trumps. If so, he must win the second diamond and return a spade or a club.

This is exactly what happens in our example. East takes the queen of diamonds and must return a black card. South thereupon discards his last diamond while dummy ruffs with the king.

It was for this reason that declarer had to leave a trump out. Dummy had to keep a third trump so as to benefit when East eventually returns a spade or a club.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one club, and the next player passes. You hold: S A Q 9 4; H 8 4; D Q 3; S Q 8 6 5 2. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one spade. Show the major suit first and save the club raise for later.

Judge refuses guilty plea in Chilean bombing case

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge refused Thursday to accept a negotiated guilty plea from Michael V. Townley, a young American who is accused of planting the bomb that killed a former Chilean ambassador to the United States.

Saying he had heard of the plea bargaining arrangement from prosecution and defense lawyers only minutes before the court session, the judge told Townley he would take up the matter in court at some unspecified time in the future.

Townley, 35, had agreed to plead guilty to a single count of conspiracy to murder a foreign official. It was not known what promises the government made in return.

A federal indictment returned Tuesday named Townley as an agent of the Chilean secret police and said he put a bomb in the car of Orlando Letelier, an outspoken critic of the military regime of Augusto Pinochet.

The indictment charges seven other men, including the former head of Chile's defunct secret police, DINA, with plotting and carrying out the murder on Sept. 21, 1976. All seven also are charged in the death of Letelier's secretary, Ronni K. Moffitt. Townley, who was expelled from Chile last April, has cooperated with the prosecution and is expected to be the star government witness in the trials of the others.

The indictment said that Townley, acting on Contreras' orders, built the bomb with the help of five anti-Castro Cubans and put it into Letelier's car. Townley was not in Washington when the bomb exploded, according to the indictment, and the person who actually set it off was not named.

Seven of the men indicted are charged with conspiracy to murder, three counts of murder and one count of using an explosive to murder. An eighth man is charged with lesser crimes.

Santa Fe season is rescheduled

The Santa Fe Opera House today announced that the new season will be delayed for at least two months while the maintenance men continue their present project. This is expected to cause some problems with booking of major attractions.

Board reinstates some fired city workers

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A special review board has reinstated less than half of the more than 170 garbage men, dog catchers and airport maintenance workers fired last month for illegally striking, City Manager Tom Huebner said Thursday.

The board determined that the rehired employees were not active participants in the short-lived strike, but walked off their jobs because of threats.

Fifty-seven of the more than 140 fired garbage men will be rehired, Huebner said. The board had reinstated six former trash collectors last week.

Only three of 21 striking dog catchers will be reinstated, while two of 11 dismissed airport maintenance workers will get their jobs back, he added.

More than half of San Antonio's 313 garbage men walked off their jobs July 22 in a wage dispute.

Within hours, Huebner fired 106 of them. Approximately another 35 were fired for refusing to work July 24 and the other employees were fired for striking the next day.

City officials were able to continue partial garbage collection with the non-striking employees and some 85 replacement workers hired July 24. Meanwhile, leaders of the striking San Antonio Refuse Collectors Association and their supporters rallied Thursday at City Hall to demand reinstatement of all workers.

But no new concessions were made during a stormy city council session that Mayor Lila Cockrell adjourned after about 250 protestors in the audience interrupted her attempts to review the situation.

Huebner is supported by eight of 11 council members, including Mayor Cockrell. Councilmen Rudy Ortiz and Bernardo Euseste have failed in their attempts to have Huebner fired.

Black conductor offers new cue for minorities

By DONALD DIERKS
Copley News Service

A relatively short time ago—say 40 years—women in symphony orchestras were rare enough to cause audiences to take notice. This sexual imbalance favoring men has pretty much changed now all across the country.

The imbalance in today's symphony orchestras is no longer sex, but race. It has been estimated that there are 4,000 professional orchestral musicians in this country whose principal income is earned by performing. Of these, only 38 are black members.

The Los Angeles Philharmonic, for instance, has only two out of more than 100 musicians, which is a little better than the national average of slightly less than 1 percent.

Naturally enough, black leaders are alert to such percentages, and one black leader, the Rev. Leon H. Sullivan, decided not long ago to do something about creating more opportunities for black musicians to make a symphonic music.

Sullivan is the pastor of the Zion Baptist Church in Philadelphia and the founder of the nationwide Opportunities Industrialization Centers and other self-help programs in the black community.

Sullivan's plan to further the cause of black symphony musicians is the formation of a new orchestra, the National Afro-American Philharmonic.

The all-black orchestra of 80 musicians is led by James Frazier Jr., the first black conductor to lead Eugene Ormandy's Philadelphia Orchestra, and the man in charge of the venerable orchestra's children's concerts for the last two summers.

Frazier was discovered by Eugene Ormandy in 1964, when the conductor visited Michigan's Interlochen Music School and Camp where Frazier was a student. Ormandy offered the talented youngster encouragement and helped him secure a guest conducting debut with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

In 1969, after a summer of study at Tanglewood with Erich Leinsdorf, Frazier entered the Guido Cantelli Competition for conductors and became the first American to win the first prize. This led to a debut at Milan's La Scala Opera. Frazier was also invited to Russia to conduct the Leningrad Philharmonic.

Frazier and Sullivan envision that the Afro-American orchestra will provide black musicians with the chance to work. They hope that its quality will be such that it will also encourage predominately white orchestras to offer more opportunities to black musicians.

It is a long way from the recent inaugural concert to a full season, but down the road Frazier sees a concert season and a summer program fashioned after the Tanglewood, the Berkshire Festival in Massachusetts. Also in the future is a tour of principal cities across the country, which Frazier believes will help to "dramatize the position of black musicians."

The new orchestra will be incorporated soon, and it is anticipated that substantial support will eventually come from the National Endowment for the Arts, Washington, D.C.

While the Afro-American Philharmonic is one creative approach to bringing attention to the tiny percentage of black musicians in symphony orchestras, other steps have been taken to enlarge their numbers.

The Los Angeles Philharmonic's Minority Training Program was begun seven years ago as a move to improve the racial mix of professional orchestras for all minorities, not only blacks.

The program was devised to have an effect well beyond Los Angeles County, and, according to Joe K. Westmoreland, the project director, it has.

"One of our students, Rufus Olivier, is now a bassonist with the San Francisco Symphony," Westmoreland said. "Rufus is black, and Oscar Meza, who is Mexican-American, was one of our students who is now a bass player in San Diego."

The Minority Training Program is supported by grants from the National Endowment for the Arts,

Washington, D.C., and the Performing Arts Council of the Los Angeles Music Center. The program pays for most of the lesson fees charged by artist members of the Philharmonic, and at the present about 60 students are involved in the program.

Detective

not needed

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Not only is 75-year-old Katherine H. Ward a sharp-eyed nursery operator, she's becoming a pretty fair amateur detective.

After Mrs. Ward discovered $200 worth of peat moss, baskets and plants missing from her nursery, she tracked a trail of peat moss and leaves for a quarter mile and put police on the trail of four youths.

"I followed the trail to recover some stolen rose bushes.

"When you get mad enough you follow it up some way," she said.

Clerks getting dictionaries

DENVER (AP) — State Department of Revenue clerks are being issued dictionaries of foreign languages and slang expressions after a dirty French word was inadvertently issued as a personalized license plate to a Colorado driver.

The word was MERDE, French for excrement, and the driver was ordered to return his plates, according to Dallas Bash of the Department of Revenue.

"The fellow was very nice," Bash said Wednesday. "He just laughed about it and said, well, he tried."

MERDE slipped through because its meaning was not understood, Bash said.

One of MCA Records' top recording artists, Cal Smith, a native of Gans, Oklahoma, is fast becoming one of the brightest stars in the entertainment galaxy. Attesting to his ability as an artist and performer is the award bestowed by Music City News proclaiming Cal as "The Most Promising Male Vocalist for 1968." Cal has also received "Song of the Year," and "Record of the Year" awards from the Country Music Association and the Academy of Country Music with the song "COUNTRY BUMPKIN." Some of his number one singles on MCA Records are "THE LORD KNOWS I'M DRINKING," "I'VE FOUND SOMEONE OF MY OWN," "ATLANTA, GA.," "DRINKING CHAMPAGNE," "COUNTRY BUMPKIN," "IT'S TIME TO PAY THE FIDDLER," and "SHE TALKED A LOT ABOUT TEXAS."

Margo Smith

Margo Smith burst on the country music scene in the spring of 1975 with her top ten recording of "There I Said It". Prior to that the country farm girl from New Carlisle, Ohio had been writing songs. Two years ago she gave up teaching to devote her full time to music. In the past year Margo has been on stage with some of the best. She has appeared with Charlie Pride, Charlie Rich, Tom T. Hall, Faron Young, Tammy Wynette, Ronnie Milsap, the Statler Brothers and Don Williams... just to name a few. Wherever she goes, she immediately builds a new following. Margo Smith is just a little thing—5 feet, 3 inches—weighing 110 pounds, but get ready for BIGGER things from her!

Jones sisters fight to save their business

SANTEE, Calif. (AP) — The seven Jones sisters, who run the trash hauling firm their dad started on a $3,000 loan 40 years ago, say they're going to fight a San Diego County government plan they feel will put them out of business.

The county is planning to consolidate trash collection by opening the work to bids. It plans to set up trash disposal districts, which would be too big to cover for small firms like Jones Disposal Co.

A hearing to open the bidding, scheduled for this week, was put off until Aug. 22, a county clerk said.

"I've written everyone from President Jimmy Carter on his peanut farm to the county supervisors on down, and not one of them has even bothered to answer," Donna Ruiz, 35, one of the sisters, said Thursday in an interview.

"After all these years, we could be put out of business in one day. The big companies from the cities can underbid us because they've got assets elsewhere they can draw on for their first year of operation. After a year, they can show the county they're operating at a loss and get a rate hike."

Jones Disposal is owned mostly by Pat Jones, 46, one of the seven daughters of Earl Jones, now 68 and retired after building his business in the hills east of San Diego. The company has eight trucks, 11 employees and 3,000 customers.

"My father came out here from Arkansas more than 40 years ago because he couldn't find work," said Mrs. Ruiz. "He went to work for $16 a week slinging trash."

Then Jones took out the $3,000 loan.

"He got himself a truck and I can still remember my mother out there with him picking up trash," Mrs. Ruiz recalled. "I can even remember us kids stamping trash down with our feet in the old open top trucks. That was the only way to pack it."

Pat Jones is the only sister still single because "she's devoted her whole life to picking up trash," said Mrs. Ruiz. "That's all she's ever known."

Husbands of the sisters, who have 21 children in all, have their own jobs but occasionally help out fixing trucks. The men built the firm's new office building.

The sisters, Pam up to business, keep the books, assign the routes and "when someone is sick, we girls drive the trucks."

The other sisters are Frankie Freeman, 43, Pam Eastwood, 37, Terry Harkness, 30, and twins Robin Clark and Tracy Isom, 25.

"We're digging in our heels," Mrs. Ruiz said. "The government wants to take our company but the only way they are going to get it is to impound our trucks ... and throw us all in jail."

NEW YORK (AP) — Al Newman has been named vice president — worldwide advertising, publicity and promotion for the Motion Picture Division of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Newman was formerly director of advertising, publicity and promotion for the company's film and television divisions.

Nicklaus, Mother Nature aid Watson

OAKMONT, Pa. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus and Mother Nature, maybe the two most potent forces in golf, both accommodated Tom Watson as he took the first-round lead in the PGA National Championship.

Nicklaus did his part Monday by hooking his opening tee shot into a ditch and staying in a rut the rest of the day to finish with an 8-over-par 79.

"It was not my day, and this is the kind of golf course where you can shoot a bad round," said the winner of more major tournaments than anybody in the history of golf.

"The course is very difficult, but I think the rain will make it easier this afternoon," added Nicklaus, who was playing No. 16 when thundershowers brought the first of two rain delays.

The water did soften Oakmont Country Club's previously hard, bouncy greens, making them more vulnerable to accurate irons like the ones wielded by Watson.

"Obviously, the rain affected the whole golf course," Watson said after he managed a 4-under-par 67, which put him 12 strokes ahead of Nicklaus and one ahead of runnerup Dave Stockton at 68.

"We could throw the balls right at the greens," added Watson, who also sank birdie putts of 30 and 35 feet.

Yet Nicklaus, who 3-putted a green just after the first rain delay, wasn't giving up.

"They're going to say, 'Nicklaus shot 79 and took himself right out of the tournament,'" he said. "But if I shoot 66 tomorrow, that's 145 (for two rounds) and 145 isn't that bad at Oakmont. Obviously, however, I haven't yet shot the 66."

It was also a woeful day for South African Gary Player, and he began it with four putts on the first green.

"You do that and you get scared. You're afraid you're going to miss from everywhere," admitted Player, who double-bogeyed the third hole and eventually finished with a 76, which tied him with U.S. Open champ Andy North and Ray Floyd.

Tied for third at 69, only 2 shots out, were Lee Trevino, Dave Hill, Ben Crenshaw and Johnny Miller.

Trevino, who played in a threesome with Stockton and Watson, got close with a birdie on the final hole.

"We had a tremendous break with the weather. The rain really helped," said Stockton, the only player all day to escape without a bogey.

"Trevino says that if somebody from our half doesn't win the tournament there's something wrong with us."

Hill, who's made the cut in only two of the 11 tournaments he's entered this year, was erratic as usual off the tee.

"Ray Charles could have hit more fairways," he kidded.

But he 1-putted 11 greens and 2-putted the others, taking only 25 putts for the entire round.

"I haven't played well in two years — and I didn't play well today," said

Hill. "If I'd had my usual 2-putts, I'd have had my usual 77 or 78. I'm just hoping to make the cut."

Crenshaw was 4-under at one time, then he bogeyed two of his last three holes.

"That leaves a bad taste in your mouth," said Crenshaw. "It's a good start, but I 3-putted twice and that's just throwing two shots away."

Miller, mired in a puzzling, two-year slump returned to the scene of his 1973 U.S. Open triumph.

He had a share of the lead at 4-under until he bogeyed the 16th and 18th holes. His 69 was six shots more than the course record 63 he shot here in 1973.

"The way I've been playing, I wasn't thinking 63. I would have been happy with a 73," he said.

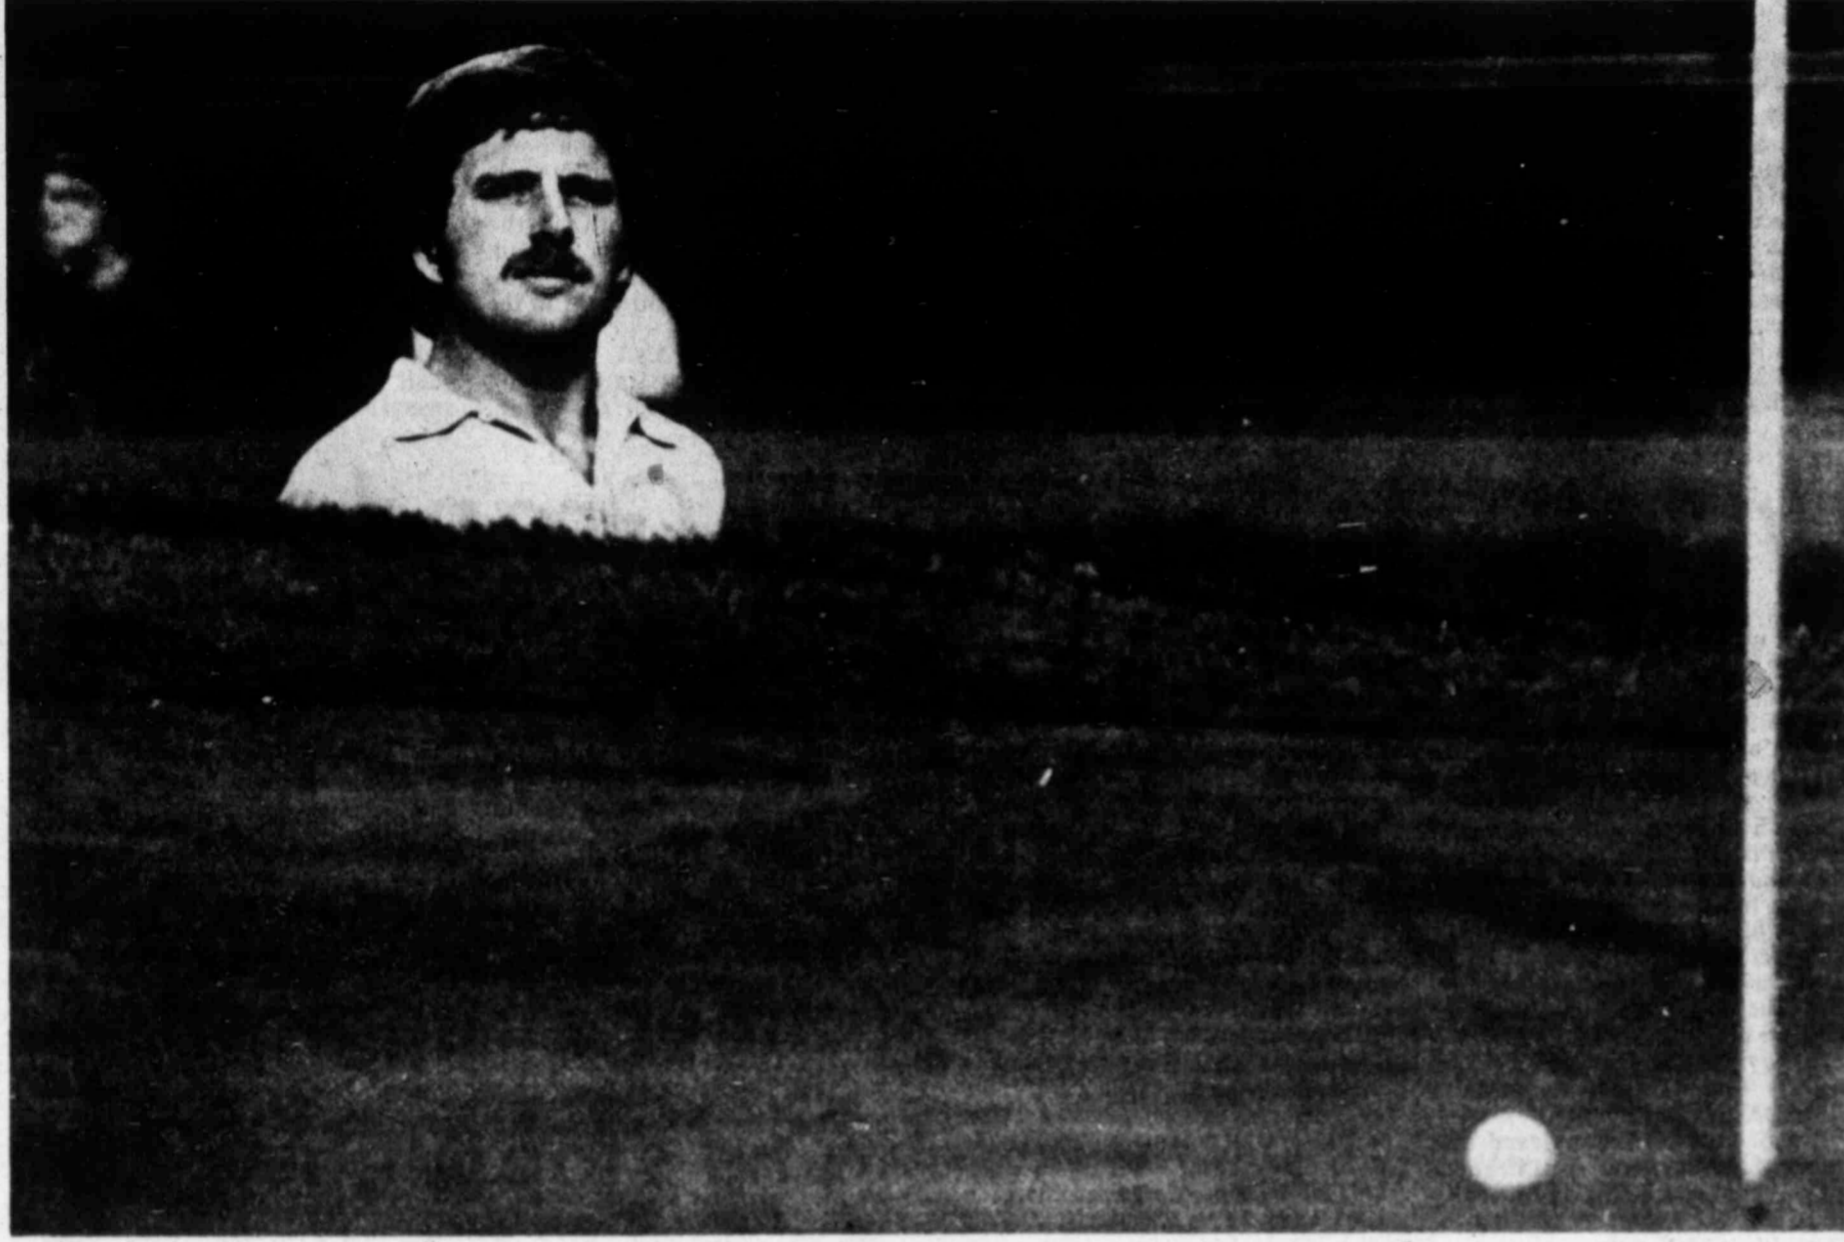

Ten players were clumped at 70, including defending PGA champion Lanny Wadkins, who played in a threesome with Nicklaus.

"Basically, I was pleased with my own game," he said. "Sometimes it's tough to play with Jack because I find myself watching him."

The six players who finished at 71 included Hubert Green and Wally Armstrong, who had a special first-hole problem when his caddie failed to show.

Armstrong had his bag toted for the first hole by the youngster assigned to carry the score sign for the threesome. The regular caddie arrived on the second hole.

"I couldn't fire him," said Armstrong. "He's my brother."

San Francisco shows the bruises but it's the Dodgers on the ropes

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Giants show the bruises, but the Los Angeles Dodgers are on the ropes after a fifth straight loss.

"This is a rough game. We don't wear any pads," said Terry Whitfield, who scored from second base on Darrell Evans' ninth-inning single to give the Giants a 5-4 victory Thursday night.

Whitfield, the team's left fielder, is playing with 20 stitches over an eye from a baserath collision in Houston early this week. Center fielder Larry Herndon and right fielder Jack Clark are nursing injuries suffered in a collision that gave Lee Lacy a controversial inside-the-park home run in the top of the ninth Thursday night.

"We beat the Dodgers twice, once when Larry caught that ball and once on Evans' hit," insisted Clark.

The Giants, leading the National League's Western Division by a game over Cincinnati, would have dropped into second by percentage points had they lost. The third place Dodgers, defending champions, now trail by 3½ and face the Giants' pitching ace, Vida Blue, tonight.

In Thursday's only other National League game, the Chicago Cubs beat the St. Louis Cardinals for the 12th time in 12 tries this season, winning 3-2 on Bill Buckner's tie-breaking single in the seventh. The Cubs, second in the East, moved are now 3½ games behind the idle Philadelphia Phillies.

The Dodgers' Lacy, who lined his freak homer to right-center, said, "I saw them collide and just kept running. I was bearing down all the way."

The hit came off Giants starter Jim Barr with the bases empty and two out. Herndon caught the ball just before running into Clark and it popped out of his glove after he fell to the artificial turf and rolled over.

"I thought I had it long enough," said Herndon, and Manager Joe Altobelli, who felt the same way, got kicked out of the game for arguing the point.

Some fans among the 42,084 at Candlestick Park for the opener of a four-game series displayed their displeasure by throwing beer and other things as Lacy returned to the Dodgers' dugout.

"I'm from this area, Oakland, and I guess I can understand. The San Francisco fans have been waiting a long time for a winner," said Lacy.

Earlier, they had the opportunity to cheer Willie McCovey's 504th career homer, a two-run blast off Don Sutton in the first.

Randy Moffitt, 7-4, relieved Barr and got the final out in the ninth. A leadoff walk to Whitfield led to the downfall of Los Angeles reliever Terry Forster, 3-4, in the bottom of the inning.

Helty Cruz, in the game for Clark, sacrificed Whitfield to second and Mike Ivie was walked to set up Evans, who said, "If I could have written the script, this is how it would have ended."

Cubs 3, Cards 2
Buckner singled home the eventual winning run off St. Louis starter Pete Vuckovich, 8-9, in the seventh inning, giving Chicago its 12th victory without a loss this season over the Cardinals.

Rodney Scott opened the inning with a walk, took second on a passed ball and scored on Buckner's line single. Ken Holtzman started for the Cubs, but was lifted after the fifth inning with muscle spasms in his back, and reliever Donnie Moore, 6-4, got the victory.

Little has one-shot lead in European LPGA

SUNNINGDALE, England (AP) — Sally Little, a 26-year-old South African, moved to a 1-stroke lead in first round play of the European Ladies Professional Golfers Association championship Thursday, with Laura Baugh of the United States in second place.

Little shot a steady 33-33-69 — 5-under-par — in a round of six birdies and not a single bogey until the 17th. But all the day's fireworks came from Baugh, who started off quietly, turned in a par 36 and then cut loose with a stream of five birdies in a row to end up at 70 on the 6,174-yard, par 74 Sunningdale course.

On a day of rain punctuated by occasional shafts of sunshine, the two favorites — Americans Nancy Lopez and Judy Rankin — were overshadowed.

Lopez finished 10th down the list with a 1-over-par 73 while Rankin, the winner here last year by six strokes over Lopez, managed a 74.

Lopez, top money winner on the circuit so far this year, started off well with a first hole birdie and had pars on the next six. Then she fell headlong into disaster on the 165-yard par 3 eighth, where the green is cut into the left hand bank with a steep drop at the back masked by some trees.

There, she landed in a trap with a five iron, thought the sand was soft and found it wasn't as she blasted out too strongly, landed in the trees in an unplayable lie and finally putted for a triple bogey six — the first she has ever made.

"And that," she said wryly, "hurt a lot."

Brown heads large R-T golf field

Defending champion Chris Brown heads a field of 113 golfers who will be vying for the title when the 1978 Reporter-Telegram City Golf Championships get underway Saturday at the Hogan Park golf course.

Hogan Park pro Rex Worrel said the 113 entries make the field for this tournament as large as any other in the history of the R-T tourney, almost doubling the total for last year's event.

The two-day, 36-hole tournament will feature competition in five flights, including a 33-man championship flight.

Worrel described the championship flight as an "excellent field. It's going to be a tough deal to win." Brown, a former Midland Lee and Western Texas College golfer, is the pre-tournament favorite but there's a stable full of golfers good enough to nab the title should he falter.

Brown was a two-year letterman for the Westerners and co-captained the golf squad last spring. He averaged 72.7 strokes per round in his final season at the Snyder school and was named to the All Western conference and All Region IV squads. He finished as the runner-up in the regional tournament and is headed for Texas Tech.

Brown sank a dramatic 10-foot eagle putt on the 17th hole on the tournament's last day a year ago to win the title by a single stroke over then-defending champ Steve White-side. Brown fashioned a 206 for 54 holes in last year's three-day tournament.

Royce Woolard, who has finished in the top three for the past four years, is one of those expected to give Brown a run for the title.

Other title hopefuls include Bert Wimberly, a former Midland College golfer who is headed for New Mexico State University, Kelly Eng and Billy Sitton. Eng is a former Midland High golfer and he now golfs for Midland College. Sitton, a former Lee High star, is doing his playing for Western Texas College.

Larry Snyder and Terry Lester also have their sights set on the title, as does Ranchland Hill club champ Al Boudreaux.

Practice rounds are scheduled for today and a medalist trophy will be given to the player who turns in the lowest scratch score. The results of this round have no bearing on the city championships.

The Rainbow girls of Norman Reed assembly 299 will provide sandwiches and iced tea for golfers on Saturday and Sunday and are also sponsoring a Closest to the Hole competition on number three.

Trophies will be awarded to the winners and runnerups in each of the five flights. Gift certificates will also be awarded to flight winners and consolation bracket winners.

Even after 79, Jack not out of it

OAKMONT, Pa. (AP) — It was a dejected Jack Nicklaus who soberly considered the various misadventures that produced an 8-over-par 79 in the first round of the PGA national championship.

"Today, I was not sure the golf ball was round," said Nicklaus, who was expected to tame the terrors of Oakmont but instead fell victim to the demands of the old course in this, the last of the year's four major tests of golfing greatness.

"It was just one of those days. I guess everybody has them," Nicklaus said. "I felt I was playing reasonably well coming in, but I just couldn't get with it, couldn't get with the program."

But Nicklaus, winner of the British Open and the Philadelphia Classic in his last two starts, declined to count himself out of the event he has won four times.

"They're going to say 'Nicklaus shot 79 and took himself right out of the golf tournament,'" he predicted. "But if I shoot 66, that's 145 (for two rounds) and 145 is not a bad score at Oakmont."

He paused a moment and allowed himself a wry smile.

"Obviously, however, I have yet to shoot the 66."

The 79 was not his high effort in a major tournament. "It's not 80, and I've been in the 80s a couple of times," he said.

But he had to make a good putt on the final hole Thursday to stay in the 70s.

Nicklaus, generally considered the finest player the game has seen, started out by driving into a ditch, making bogey.

He got it into the trees on the second hole and had to take his second swing left-handed under a tree. That only advanced it further in the woods. He eventually reached the green in four and two-putted for a double bogey.

"Right about then I was pretty sure it wasn't going to be my day," he said.

He three-putted twice, once running a 15-foot birdie putt 20 feet beyond the cup.

Twice he got his drives in the fairways with the ball coming to rest in the sand of an old divot.

He came up with a buried lie in a bunker.

On another hole, he had to stand in the bunker with the ball waist-high in the rough and "take a baseball swing."

And his round was interrupted for more than an hour by rain.

"I went to the clubhouse," he said. "That's the only place I wanted to go. I sure didn't want to keep on playing."

In all, he made 7 bogeys, a double bogey and a lone birdie, off a 6-foot putt on ninth hole that put him out in 41.

"I got the ball in some very strange places today," he said.

"But there's no one to blame but me. I put it there."

It was a rough opening day at the PGA for Jack Nicklaus. He shot an eight-over-par 79. (AP Laserphoto)

Red Sox find home run touch

By The Associated Press

The pennant race in the American League East gets serious in the next couple of weeks — with the contenders all facing each other — and Boston Manager Don Zimmer is glad the Red Sox have finally ended their home run drought.

The Red Sox stretched their lead by two games on New York Thursday night, beating the Yankees 7-5 in the completion of a 17-inning game suspended after 14 frames the previous night and clobbering the World Series champions 8-1 in the regularly scheduled game that was held to 6½ innings by rain.

Jim Rice, who had only one home run in his previous 33 games, Fred Lynn and Bob Bailey homered for Boston in the rain-shortened contest.

"They're too good a hitters to think that could have continued," Zimmer said. "The way we've been playing, those were two big wins, because we've been struggling. This would be a hell of a time to put on a little streak because we're all playing each other the next 10-to-15 days."

The Red Sox, who have lost 11 of their past 16 games, now lead New York by 8½ games, Milwaukee by six and Baltimore by eight. Baltimore downed Milwaukee 3-2 in 10 innings Thursday night. In the other A.L.

games, Detroit edged Chicago 5-4 in 10 innings, California clobbered Oakland 8-1 and Seattle shaded Minnesota 6-5.

Boston begins a three-game series tonight in Milwaukee, and, after a three-game set against Cleveland at Fenway Park, the Brewers move in for four games. The Yankees, meanwhile, begin a three-game series at home tonight against the Orioles, then host Milwaukee for three games. New York begins a road trip with a four-game series at Baltimore on Aug. 11.

"The slump has been very tough, very tough," Rice said. "I just probably haven't been watching the ball. It's a stretch everyone goes in, and sooner or later you break out of it. I just went up there swinging the bat and trying to make contact."

Mike Torrez, 13-6, pitched a six-hitter against the Yankees in the regularly scheduled game, and Bob Stanley, 6-1, pitched three perfect innings after the suspended game resumed in the 15th inning to get that win.

The Red Sox won the suspended game in the top of the 17th on RBI singles by Rick Burleson and Rice, who wound up with five RBI in the two-game series.

"I sure hope everyone can break out of the slump at the same time," said Rice, "and a couple of teams will be in real trouble."

Orioles 3, Brewers 2

Eddie Murray smacked his 21st home run of the season, a solo shot with two out in the bottom of the 10th inning, to lift Baltimore past Milwaukee.

Dennis Martinez, 8-8, struck out a career-high 10 batters for the victory, scattering seven hits in a pitching duel with Jerry Augustine, 10-10. Augustine gave up eight hits in the 92-3 innings he pitched.

Ken Singleton also homered for Baltimore, his 14th of the season, and extended his hitting streak to 16 games.

Tigers 5, White Sox 4

Ron LeFlore singled with two out and the bases loaded in the bottom of the 10th inning off Chicago reliever Lerrin LaGrow, 2-4, for the winning run, and Rusty Staub and Milt May homered for the Tigers.

Bob Sykes, 6-5, got the win in relief of Detroit starter Dave Rozema, who yielded Eric Soderholm's 16th home run of the season, a fourth-inning solo shot.

May's homer, his ninth, in the fourth inning gave Detroit a 2-1 lead, and Staub's solo homer, his 17th, boosted the Tigers' lead to 3-1 in the fifth.

Angels 8, A's 1

Right-hander Paul Hartzell, 3-6, tossed a three-hitter for California, striking out two and walking three. Rookie Jim Anderson drove in three runs with a bases-loaded double in the third inning, and Ken Landreaux gave the Angels a 2-0 lead with a first-inning home run, his second of the season.

Oakland starter Steve Renko, 5-6, left in the third inning after Joe Rudi's RBI double. Reliever Mike Norris then walked Tony Solaita, struck out two men, and then yielded Anderson's three-run double.

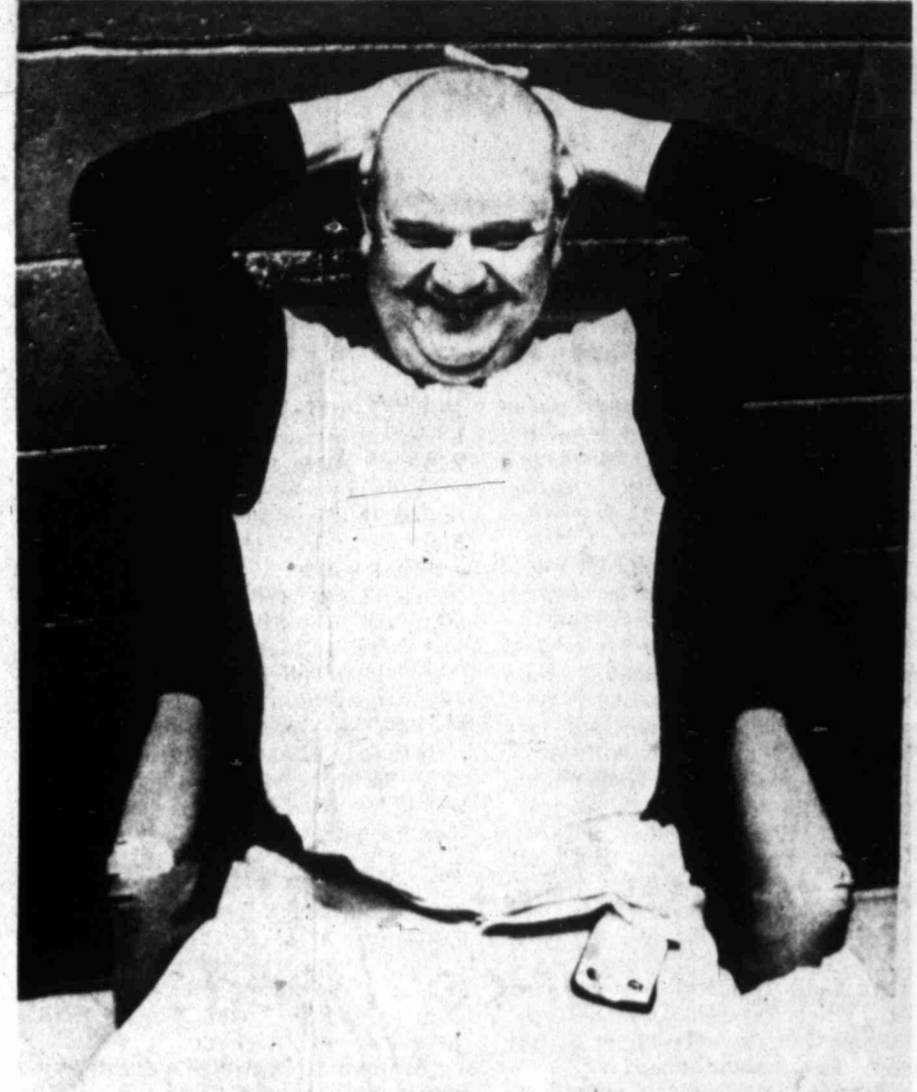

The only run given up by Hartzell came in the fourth, when Mitchell Page tripled and scored on Willie Horton's infield out.

Mariners 6, Twins 5

Larry Milbourne singled in the winning run in the bottom of the ninth, and Seattle relief ace Enrique Romo, 9-3, got the victory, working two innings and giving up Roy Smalley's ninth-inning homer that had tied the game 5-5.

Leon Roberts drove in three runs for Seattle with his 17th home run of the season.

Bruce Bochte led off the Mariners ninth with a walk. Craig Reynolds came in to run and moved to second on Julio Cruz's single. Milbourne then blooped the winning single into left field off Twins reliever Mike Marshall, 5-10. The victory gave Seattle a sweep of the three-game series.

Boston Red Sox manager Don Zimmer sits in the manager's office at Yankee Stadium and smiles after beating the New York Yankees in two crucial games Thursday. Zimmer brought the slumping Sox into the Bronx just holding on to first place in the American League East, but they rallied to stop the hot Yanks, 7-5, 8-1. (AP Laserphoto)

Unser, Hall in Texas Grand Prix

When Al Unser was last at the Texas World Speedway in College Station, lady luck wasn't with him. Since then, things have changed.

Practicing for the Coors 200 last April, Unser hit the wall at more than 200 miles per hour, demolishing the new First National City Travelers Checks Lola prepared by Midland car owner Jim Hall. He missed the race but came back in his very next race to win the Indianapolis 500 for the third time in his career.

The return trip back to Texas World Speedway is for the Texas Grand Prix as Unser, Hall, and the rest of the Midland-based Chaparral-Lola racing team try to make a dent in Tom Sneva's United States Auto Club's Citicorp Cup standings lead.

Practice for the Texas Grand Prix begins Saturday and qualifications for the race will be Sunday morning at 11 a.m. with the race getting the green flag at 3:15 p.m.

The 200-mile race for championship division Indy cars will be broadcast live Sunday by CBS.

The Citicorp Cup is based on a point system with points awarded for order of finish in USAC's national championship series. After 10 races, Sneva and the Norton Spirit Penske-Cosworth team own the lead with 3,068 points. Sneva earned only 75 points in his last outing, a eighth place finish in the 150-mile Gould Twin Dixie in Atlanta.

Unser ran out of fuel in that race, finishing 14th. As a result, he earned only eight points for the finish for a total of 2,436. First place in the Texas Grand Prix will be worth 400 points, so Sneva's lead will be safe.

Willi Dalenbach is a ways back in third place with 2,058 points and Johnny Rutherford's 1,891 points put him in fourth. Others in the top 10 include Gordon Johncock, 1,816; Steve Kirilloff, 1,775; Danny Ongais, 1,668; A.J. Foyt, 1,534; Larry Dickson, 1,121; and Rick Mears, 1,091.

Whatever the final results of the race, it should be a fast one. Re-owned as the fastest track upon which Indy-type cars compete, the Texas World Speedway has a 22-degree corner banking which enabled Mario Andretti to set a world record with a qualifying time of 214.158 m.p.h. in 1973.

Gary Bettenhausen's 181-miles-per-hour average that same year still ranks as the fastest winning average time ever recorded on any speedway in this country.

During qualifications for the Coors 200 on April 15, 1978, the entire starting field of 19 cars had an average speed of 200.029 m.p.h. with Ongais winning the pole position at 211.889 m.p.h.

Prior to the Texas Grand Prix, 19 different drivers have broken the 200 m.p.h. barrier at Texas World Speedway 48 times. Fourteen qualified at over 200 m.p.h. In October 1973 before engine restrictions were enforced, Foyt has broken that barrier six times.

Tanner struggles, rains stop Vilas

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Top-seeded Roscoe Tanner is in the quarterfinals of the $75,000 Grand Prix Tennis Classic here, but it wasn't easy.

The hard-striving Tanner had to struggle to beat John Austin 7-6, 7-6 in a second-round match Thursday night at the Superdome.

Tanner took the tiebreakers 7-5 and 8-6.

In other second-round matches, Terry Rocavert knocked off seventh-seeded Colin Dibley 1-6, 6-3, 7-6 and Bill Scanlon beat eighth-seeded Terry Moor 6-3, 6-3.

Second-seeded Dick Stockton had little trouble with Christophe Freyss 6-0, 6-2 and third-seeded Tom Leonard whipped Jay Royappa 6-0, 6-4.

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (AP) — Guillermo Vilas, the fourth-seeded player in the $75,000 Grand Prix tennis championships, couldn't wait to get off the court with lightning and thunder all around the Orange Lawn Tennis Club.

The Argentine ace, however, was a little unhappy that he couldn't wrap up his second-round match with another victory before a heavy down-pour suspended play late Thursday.

Vilas, the defending champion, was ahead 6-3, 3-1 over Belus Prajoux of Chile when the match was halted. Action was to resume today.

The winner will face eighth-seeded Jeff Borowiak in a Saturday quarter-final. Borowiak made it into the round-of-eight when Paul McNamee of Australia was forced out of the competition with a back injury.

NORTH CONWAY, N.H. (AP) — The quarter-finals of the $175,000 international tennis tournament were scheduled today, with four of the top five seeds advancing.

On Thursday, top-seeded Eddie Dibbs ousted 11th-seeded Jaime Filloil of Chile 6-4, 6-1. Dibbs has not lost a set in the first three rounds of the tournament.

Second-seeded Brian Gottfried was the only seeded player not to advance, falling to defending champion and ninth-seeded John Alexander of Australia 6-2, 3-6, 7-6.

Saul nominates Albert for San Antonio opener

SAN ANTONIO—Midland's Cubs bring a 2 1/2 game lead in the Texas League West Division into the five game series against the second place San Antonio Dodgers here tonight and Manager Jim Saul has nominated right-hander Jeff Albert, 7-8, winner of his last three in a row, all complete games, to pitch for the league leaders.

General Manager Wally Moon said the grounds crew had the field ready for action provided there was no more rain in the area today.

The Cubs are 8-13 against the Los Angeles Dodgers farmhands for the season after losing their first six games of the season to Ducky LeJohn's bunch.

Going into tonight's play, El Paso, the first half West winners, are 5 1/2 games off the pace.

The Cubs concluded a 9-1 homestand Wednesday to open up some daylight between themselves and their pursuers after going into the Cubs Stadium stay tied for first place with El Paso.

Albert has been the hottest pitcher on the Midland staff in winning three of his last four and lowering his earned-run-average from 6.86 to 5.33.

Midland batting averages also perked up during the homestand with outfielder Joe Hernandez and shortstop Steve Macko both soaring over the .300 mark. Hernandez is batting .311 and Macko .310 going into tonight's games.

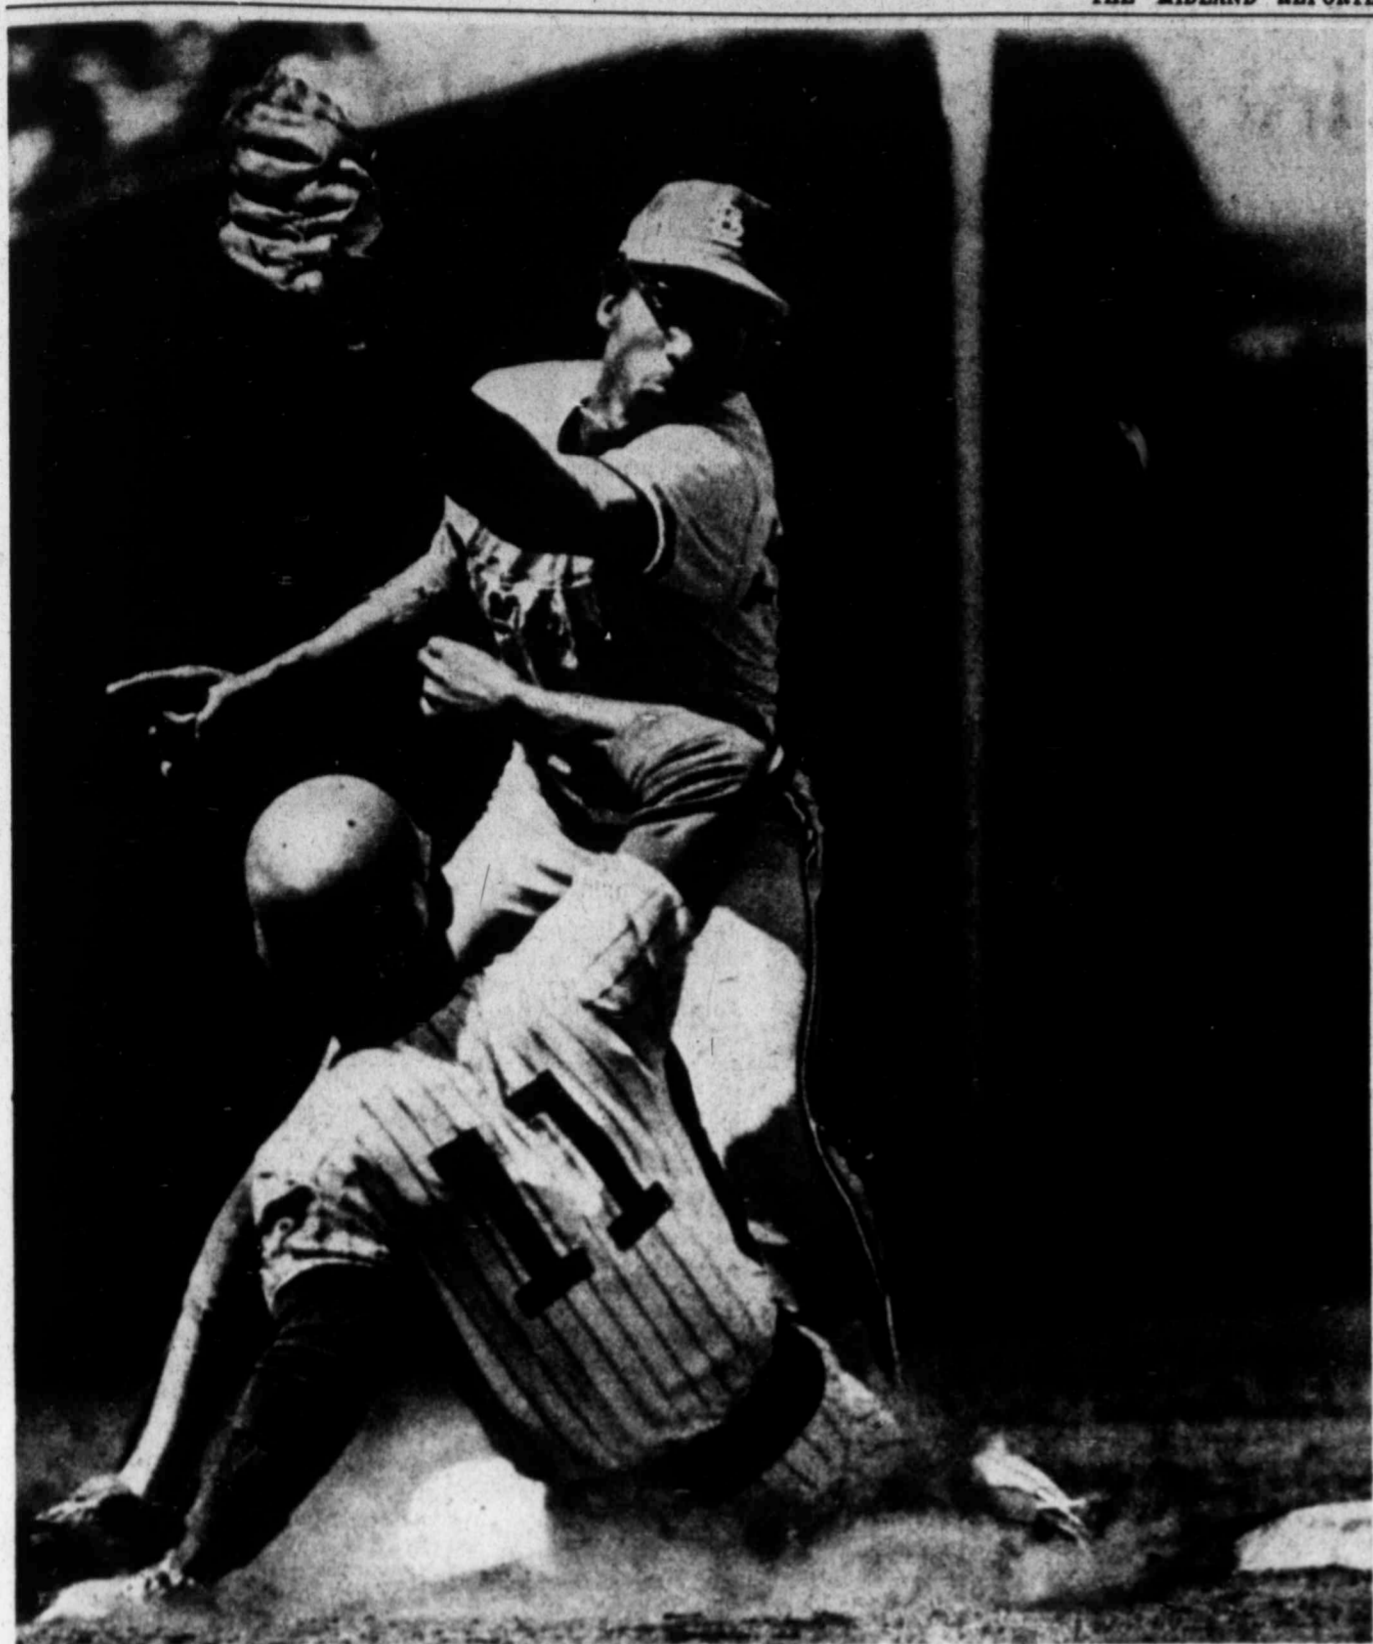

The Cubs are also getting good production from newcomers Jim Tracy, Bill Evers and John Hartin, all of whom joined the team from Pompano Beach in recent weeks.

Tracy, struggling at .156, has hit .288 for his last 52 at bats to raise his average to .238. Evers is hitting .353 and Hartin .316. All three are playing other than their normal positions as a result of injuries to third baseman Javier Fierro, second baseman Kurt Seibert and outfielder Brian Rosinski.

After five games here, the Cubs return home for a 10-game stand against Amarillo and El Paso.

Hogan's lingering shadow hovers over Ben Crenshaw

OAKMONT, Pa. (AP) — The long and lingering shadow of the Hawk continues to hover over the young Texan once ordained as golf's "New Ben Hogan."
"Sure, I feel the pressure — heavy pressure. I suppose it will remain with me until I win a major title," commented Ben Crenshaw after firing a 2-under-par 69 in the rain-interrupted first round of the PGA Championship.
"Maybe I've been pressing too hard."

Crenshaw, still only 26, seems to have fallen victim to the undergraduate jinx that plagued the great Bob Jones in his developing years, which became known as the "Seven Years of Famine."

Young Crenshaw came out of Texas' golfing hotbed to join the pro tour in 1973 and immediately measured up to expectations by winning the San Antonio Open.

His credentials were imposing, three times winner of the national collegiate title (the last one shared with teammate Tom Kite) and hailed as one of the brightest prospects to come along in decades.
It was only natural that comparisons should be made with another Texas home-bred, Hogan, winner of four U.S. Opens, two Masters, two PGAs and the only British Open in which he competed — in 1953 at Carnoustie when he completed the pro "Little Slam."

They had the same first name. There were striking physical similarities, neither awesome in size but Crenshaw slightly bigger at 5-9 and 163 pounds.
"Unfortunately, there were few parallels in our games," Crenshaw admits modestly. This is the truth. Hogan, dubbed the "Wee Ice Man" by adoring Scots, "Blue Blades" and "the Hawk" by compatriots, became a cold, methodical machine once he applied a Vardon Grip to a club shaft. He was a fine striker of the ball, without unusual power, and so disciplined that rivals said he played out of his own divots. He was a mediocre putter, in later years an atrocious putter.

Crenshaw is a personable, pleasant youth who has earned the nickname, "Gentle Ben." A wild jungle explorer off the tee and an inveterate scrambler, he has the sensitive touch of a surgeon on the greens. Many say he is the best putter in golf.
"Golf is two different games," Hogan once grumbled after a bad putting round. "One is played in the air, the other on the ground. If I had my way, all greens would be shaped like a funnel — hit the green and the ball spins around into the hole."

Crenshaw insists that he has not sought to pattern his game after Hogan — or for that matter, any other player — but says he has not lost sight of his state's rich golfing tradition.

"Hogan isn't the only great player to come out of Texas, although I have the greatest respect for him — I hold him in awe," the former University of Texas star said.

"Remember there also have been Byron Nelson, Jimmy Demaret, Lloyd Mangrum, Jack Burke and many others. I just hope I can live up to their standard."

There is no reason to suspect that he won't. In his rookie year, besides winning the San Antonio Open, he finished second in the $500,000 World Open, earned more than $76,000 and compiled a 69.9 stroke average for nine tournaments.

He had a mild slump in 1974 and 1975 while experimenting with his wandering swing but bounced back in 1976 with three tournament victories and second place behind Jack Nicklaus in earnings with $257,750.

He came within an eyelash of winning the U.S. Open in 1975, when a two-iron shot into the drink on the 71st hole left him behind by a stroke. He made strong runs at the Masters in 1976 and the British Open this year.

"Some day, I'll get it (a major)," says Gentle Ben. "and maybe the pressure will be off."

Tracy Caulkins forgiven for her over-confidence

THE WOODLANDS, Texas (AP) — Put Tracy Caulkins in a pool or puddle of water anywhere and she'll likely set a record so the Nashville, Tenn. schoolgirl can be forgiven for getting over-confident at the Amateur Athletic Union Long Course Championships.

But she doesn't forgive herself.
"I've been a little over-confident the last two days," Caulkins said Thursday night after she narrowly got into the finals of the women's 100 meter breaststroke. "I'd been thinking it was going to be easy but when I got into the pool it wasn't."

"I really wasn't mentally prepared this morning (in the preliminaries) so I got off by myself before tonight's race and got mentally prepared to race."

Caulkins got into the championship finals only after a swim-off with Patty Waters, Miami, Fla. when both swimmers tied in qualifying for the final position.

Caulkins, representing the Nashville, Tenn. Aquatics Club, recovered nicely by Thursday night's finals when she set an American record of 1:10.97 in the finals of the 100 breaststroke.

It was one of three American records set in the second day of the AAU meet.

Joan Pennington, one of Caulkins' teammates, set an American record of 1:00.58 in the women's 100 meter butterfly and Cynthia Woodhead of the Riverside, Calif. Swim Club, lowered her own 200 meter freestyle American record to 1:59.49.

"I've been second so many times it's nice to win for a change," said Pennington, who finished second Wednesday night in the 400 meter freestyle. "I felt real strong so I tried to go out hard and have something left at the finish."

Woodhead said a tip from former U.S. Olympian Pokey Robinson helped her.

"She told me to take it out easy in the first 10 meters and get used to the race," Woodhead said. "I did that tonight and it really worked."

Steve Lundquist, Jonesboro, Ga., who set a world record in the preliminaries of the 200 meter individual medley Wednesday, won the 100 meter breaststroke 1:04.44 in a narrow victory over Nick Nevid, Nashville, Tenn., who was second in 1:04.48.

Bill Forrester of the Florida Aquatics Swim Club, won the 200 meter freestyle in 1:51.67, while Bruce Furniss, Long Beach, Calif., the world record holder in the event, was fourth.

Joe Bottom, Los Angeles, Calif., won the 100 meter butterfly in 54.93. Bottom holds the world record of 54.18 in the event.

Friday's programs includes preliminaries and finals in men's and women's 400 individual medley, 100 meter freestyle and 800 meter freestyle relay.

Grid Giants acquire Rosen from Cowboys

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Giants acquired Rich Rosen, a 6-foot-3, 236-pound guard, from the Dallas Cowboys for an undisclosed 1979 draft choice, the National Football League team announced Thursday.

Rosen, a native of Elmwood Park, N.J., was drafted by the Cowboys in the fifth round in 1978. He played college ball at Syracuse.

NFL teams get into action

By The Associated Press

Two improving teams clash tonight while the National Football League's preseason takes on a South of the Border flavor and a Super Bowl I look on Saturday.

All 28 NFL teams swing into action in the next few days, with the San Diego Chargers opening play by taking on the Seahawks at Seattle tonight.

"It should be an interesting game," predicted San Diego Coach Tommy Prothro, "because both teams are improving."

The Chargers posted a 7-7 record last year and Prothro, beginning his fifth season at San Diego, says his team might be ready to challenge Oakland and Denver in the American Conference West.

Seattle, under Coach Jack Patera, won five of its 14 regular-season contests last year, an NFL record for a second-year expansion team.

On Saturday, the Philadelphia Eagles and New Orleans Saints clash in Mexico City, the NFL's first venture into Mexico; Cincinnati is at Tampa Bay, Washington travels to Minnesota, San Francisco is at Dallas, Los Angeles plays host to New England, St. Louis goes to Miami, Pittsburgh is at Baltimore, Denver travels to Houston and Buffalo meets the Detroit Lions in the Silverdome at Pontiac, Mich.

Another Saturday clash has the Kansas City Chiefs traveling to Green Bay to take on the Packers in a rematch of Super Bowl I. The Packers, then under the late Vince Lombardi, won that first title clash. Now, both teams are looking for respectability instead of championships.

Atlanta meets the New York Jets at East Rutherford, N.J., and the New York Giants travel to Cleveland in Monday night games.

With luck, officials say the first American professional football game to be played on Mexican soil will be sold out when the Eagles and Saints clash Saturday. Ticket sales have been brisk and the cheapest tickets, costing about $2, have already been sold out.

The teams will battle in the 40,000-seat Ciudad de Los Deportes.

Philadelphia rookie quarterback Mike Cordova of Stanford, who is part Mexican, is expected to get an opportunity to play before some of his relatives.

Oakland will be without safety George Atkinson when it takes on the Bears. The 31-year-old Atkinson, a 10-year veteran, was placed on regular waivers Thursday.

"The Raiders don't give a damn about me as a human being, just as a football player," said Atkinson, who felt he should have been placed on injured waivers because he reinjured the ring finger on his left hand. "I've played in pain for them for 10 years, gave them all that I had, but I can't go through the pain any more."

Cardinals Coach Bud Wilkinson will be making his pro debut. The former University of Oklahoma mentor said of his entry into the pro ranks: "I think it's going to be a lot of fun."

Cowboys hold light workouts, prepare to return to Dallas

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys staged two light workouts Thursday, then prepared to return to Dallas for their National Football League preseason opener Saturday night against the San Francisco 49ers.

Three Cowboys remained definitely out of the game. Halfback Charles Young has a knee injury, offensive tackle Jim Eidson a neck injury and rookie cornerback Kenny Randle a shoulder injury.

Fullback Larry Brinson, suffering from a groin injury, was listed as questionable for the Saturday game and defensive tackle Dave Stalls remained questionable with a lower back problem.

Wide receiver Golden Richards and linebacker Mike Hegman, who practiced Thursday, are listed as probable for the 49ers game.

The Cowboys announced that fifth-round draft choice Rich Rosen, who had been waived

Monday and then recalled, was traded to the New York Giants for an undisclosed future draft choice.

Football writers elect Luebker

KINGS ISLAND, Ohio (AP) — Earl Luebker, associate editor of The Tacoma News Tribune, has been elected second vice president of the Football Writers Association of America at the group's annual convention.

Edgar Allen of the Nashville Banner was elected president and Joe Doyle of the South Bend, Ind., Tribune first vice president.

In two years, Luebker is expected to become president of the FWWA, the largest sportswriters' group in the United States. He would become the first Northwest sportswriter to hold the post.

Luebker, 54, was named Washington state's top sportswriter in 1974. He joined The News Tribune as a reporter in 1949, was named sports editor in 1964 and associated editor earlier this year.
